KEEP ALERT AND LIVE—Having in some manner survived the great November massacre, these two birds are keeping a sharp eye for occupational hazards incident to the Christmas season. If they can get by for another ten days or so they have a good chance of wishing each other a happy New Year and enjoying it for another eleven months, at least.

Mayor, Transit Authority Confer on Subway Strike

NEW YORK (INS)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner called the three members of the New York City Transit Authority into conference today as the four-day subway strike continued with improved service reported.

The three transit officials are Chairman Charles L. Patterson, and his assistants, E. Vincent Curtaigne and Joseph E. O'Grady.

An overnight snowstorm and freeze hampered the efforts of New York's millions to get to their jobs. However, with rising temperatures later, thousands of motorists made their way into choked New York streets, a little slower than usual.

Service on the three city subway systems was described as better than on previous days of the strike by members of the Motormen's Benevolent Association.

Although official figures were not forthcoming, there were reports that some of the strikers were returning to their jobs.

Chairman Patterson said the back-to-work movement by six striking unions, headed by the MBA, was "fairly well indicated." He had predicted last night "a big improvement in service Thursday."

Supreme Court Justice Francis X. Connors was expected to give his decision on MBA Executive Secretary Frank Zelano about noon. Zelano claimed the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination in refusing to answer questions at a hearing yesterday about his part in the walkout.

The TA still held off on its threat to fire 300 striking motormen who had been notified by telegram Tuesday they would be dismissed unless they showed up for afternoon shifts that day.

Nineteen of the strikers heeded the telegrams, and 21 new yard motormen were appointed, freeing experienced engineers to take out passenger runs.

The percentage of trains which ran yesterday was up, but was still far from normal. Commuters jammed into those operating, or turned again to buses, autos or railroads.

Even the bumper-to-bumper traffic congestion—miles long at some key tunnels and bridges Tuesday—eased somewhat. But merchants continued to moan over the plunge in pre-Christmas business with their losses running into the millions of dollars daily.

Ministers Begin Arriving in Paris for NATO Meet

Ike Leaving Tomorrow for 3-Day Conference Starting Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—West European foreign ministers began arriving in Paris today to set the stage for the NATO summit conference next week.

President Eisenhower will fly to Paris tomorrow for the three-day NATO meeting opening Monday.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerly arrived in Paris last night and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles leaves this afternoon.

Meanwhile as a precaution the president's social decks have been cleared for anything the President might want to do.

Tentative preparations have been made for all sorts of dinners and meetings. A dinner of supreme headquarters' officers, originally scheduled Sunday night, has been canceled but Gen. Lauris Norstad could gather senior officers at a quiet dinner at his home if the President desires.

The best-informed guess is that the President wants a quiet weekend.

The curtain raiser on the crowded diplomatic bill is a two-day session of foreign ministers from Council of Europe nations. The council, whose aim is to achieve greater unity of its 15 members, will convene tomorrow.

Overlapping this meeting, the seven ministers whose countries are members of the Western European Union will meet, Saturday and Sunday.

The NATO heads of government meet Monday through Wednesday. On Thursday the six nations of the new European Common Market and Atomic Energy Commission will get together.

One preliminary began yesterday. NATO's top Military Committee opened a two-day secret meeting to discuss supplying U.S. missiles to European allies, some of whom are reluctant to have them.

TO DISCUSS MERGER

Council of Europe members are scheduled to discuss merger with the Organization for European Economic Cooperation recently suggested by an unofficial meeting here of some European leaders.

Membership in the council and OEEC are roughly the same, and they deal with many of the same aspects of European cooperation.

OEEC was set up in 1948 to co-

5 Men Grilled in Grocer Death

Detroit Police Wonder Whether Killing Meant Robbery or Assault

DETROIT (INS)—Police were questioning five men today in the fatal shooting of a 38-year-old Detroit grocer.

Paul Nehra of 1386 E. Jefferson was shot to death last night in his store at 485 John R.

Insp. Edward Reilly said there was no robbery and the motive for the shooting may have been from something other than a holdup attempt.

Police said they were checking a description of the killer given to them by Mrs. Maggie Sharp, 42, who was near the store when a man rushed out and ran into her. Mrs. Sharp said the man fled without saying anything. She went to the store where she saw Nehra standing behind the meat counter, just before he collapsed. She called police.

The store's manager, Leon E. Smith, 41, Detroit, told police he asked the wounded man if it "was a holdup" and Nehra weakly gasped either "no" or "oh."

Nehra passed out shortly thereafter and died on the way to Receiving Hospital.

Reilly said a loaded automatic pistol was found near Nehra who may have reached for the gun and was shot. Reilly stated:

"It may have been a bungled holdup attempt, or it may have been plain assault. We are investigating a report that Nehra had an argument last week with a customer who threatened to 'get him'."

Residents in County Glimpse Red Moon

Several Oakland County residents braved frigid pre-dawn temperatures today to glimpse Russia's Sputnik II as it coursed through the northwest sky.

Many other early-risers may have sighted the satellite and not known what it was.

The persistence of William Duckwitz, 7488 Sweetbriar Rd., Orchard Lake, was rewarded this morning at 5:57 a.m. This was the third morning he had sought the satellite in the skies, but each morning it was too cloudy out when it passed.

BRIGHT AS STAR

Duckwitz reports the man-made moon was about as bright as the brightest star in the handle of the Big Dipper as he watched it during the three or four minutes it was visible.

There wasn't much difference in viewing the Sputnik through the naked eye or the binoculars, according to Duckwitz.

Duckwitz was particularly interested in sighting Russia's second moon since he had located it on his short wave radio set when it was first launched. He also heard Sputnik I and tape-recorded its beep October 7.

DIDN'T BELIEVE

"I didn't believe anything like that anyway, about being able to see such things with the naked eye. If others did, I'd never see it." (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Hotel Blast Kills One; Another Is Missing

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP)—A shattering explosion rocked the three-story Beckham Hotel last night and was followed by raging fire. One body was found in the ruins. One of the 32 registered guests was missing.

The body of Joshua B. Crater of Celeste, Tex., a guest at the hotel, was found in the wreckage on the third floor.

Three persons were hospitalized and others were treated for cuts, bruises and shock. Fifteen elderly men lived at the hotel, which also was popular with traveling men.

The explosion blew out all the windows in the hotel and shattered glass in neighboring buildings.

NEW YORK (INS)—An expert on aging said today that by 1960 there will be enough Americans "45 and over" to elect any presidential candidate who promised to solve all their problems.

Advisers Report to Supervisors' Welfare Committee:

County Mental Aid Legally Limited

Legal complications apparently limit the extent to which the county can provide emergency facilities for the mentally ill.

So the county's legal advisers have said to the Board of Supervisors' Welfare Committee which is preparing to recommend that some sort of temporary housing be found to ease the problem.

The way that legal advisers see the problem, special legislation, such as was passed for Wayne County General Hospital at Elioise, would be needed if the county decided to undertake an ambitious program of treatment.

Under existing laws, the county could do little more than find a more hospital-like place than Oakland County Jail in which to detain dangerously ill persons.

Except in the case of Wayne county, the state has reserved for itself the exclusive right to provide treatment for persons judged insane.

Unless the law is changed, this apparently would throw cold water on proposals that the county provide emergency treatment for patients not yet committed to a state institution, or for those committed but not yet admitted.

Each type of patient offers the county varying problems. A mentally ill person, who has not yet been declared insane in Probate Court, still retains his constitutional rights. Therefore, it is illegal to force treatment on him against his will.

If dangerous, this type of patient can be placed in protective custody for up to 48 hours. But even when taken into custody, he cannot be forced to undergo treatment.

At the end of the 48 hours, the patient must be released.

The law says it is legal to house this type of patient 48 hours at

Union Expelled for Not Heeding Cleanup Order

Laundry Group Faces Same Fate for Failure to Halt Corruption

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (INS)—The AFL-CIO Executive Council today expelled the Bakery Workers Union from the federation because of corruption charges directed at its president, James G. Cross.

Federation President George Meany announced that the council had expelled the 144,000 member union "as of this morning."

He said the council acted under authority granted by the convention Monday when it voted nearly seven to one to expel the bakers on or before March 15 unless Cross showed a willingness to comply with a cleanup order.

Meanwhile, the convention was expected to approve overwhelmingly an appeals committee decision recommending ouster of the 72,000-member Laundry Workers Union for failure to comply with cleanup demands.

On the other hand, AFL-CIO officials said the 25,000-member Distillery Workers Union had agreed to demands for removal of allegedly corrupt leaders and that a move for expulsion would be dropped.

AFL-CIO officials said the Cross-dominated controlling faction had refused to make any concessions and that from their viewpoint ouster seemed inevitable.

As the convention neared its final stages, word was passed around that the leaders of the Distillery Workers who were under fire had agreed to resign, the union would submit to AFL-CIO operation during a cleanup (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Defense Takes Over Today in Hoffa Trial

NEW YORK (AP)—The defense takes over today in the wiretap conspiracy trial of Teamster president-elect James R. Hoffa and two others.

The prosecution rested yesterday in the case against Hoffa; Owen B. Brennan, president of Detroit Teamsters, local 337; and Bernard Spindel, professional wiretapper.

The trio have admitted using listening devices to overhear conversations in 1953 of union agents and employees, but deny they resorted to wiretapping. The government contends they did tap phones illegally to find out what union subordinates were telling Senate racket investigators.

The case is being heard in federal court before a jury and Judge Frederick VanPelt Bryan.

Before resting its case, the government's final witness was Gerhard Behrendt, sales manager of the Sonocraft Corp. here.

Behrendt testified that he sold equipment to Spindel in June, 1953, and shipped it to Hoffa in Detroit "air express," rush.

Behrendt said Spindel told him at the time he "had a big job in Detroit where he had to wire up the building."

Worst in 23 Years

Freeze Bad for Florida

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The worst freeze in 23 years smacked Florida hard today, damaging citrus, vegetables and blighting Yuletide ornamental shrubbery.

Warren Johnson, meteorologist of the federal-state frost warning service at Lakeland, said it was "very disastrous for unprotected truck except vegetables grown on the lower east coast."

Johnson and citrus men say it will be several days before the full damage can be assessed.

The Florida Citrus Commission, a state agency regulating the vast citrus industry, called a special meeting for 10 a.m. Saturday to survey the cold damage.

Lows in the 20s were reported in several areas. The Weather Bureau forecast for tonight was for temperatures of 22 to 25 in the northern interior, and 32 to 36 in the southern interior.

The cold wave was sudden. In Miami the temperature was 65 when the cold wave hit, dropped seven degrees in five minutes and hit a low of 40.

Dems Seek to Link Hoffa, State GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's Democratic State chairman said today his party will use in next year's election campaign what he termed links between Teamsters Boss James R. Hoffa and the Michigan GOP.

Neil Staebler also told a news conference Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) would be defeated for reelection primarily because there is "doubt among the people as to Potter's sincerity."

The Democratic leader contended that connections between Hoffa, president-elect of the scandal-stricken union, and Michigan Republicans "have been very clearly established."

"Hoffa has been repulsed in his attempts to make headway in the Democratic Party," Staebler added. "In the Republican Party, they have welcomed him."

He said the Detroit union leader attempted to take over the state Democratic organization during the 1956 district conventions. Republicans have said that instead Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers assumed control of the party at that time.

The Atomic Energy Commission says that New Mexico has more than 68 per cent of the known uranium reserves in this country.

Saddened Relatives View Crash Victims

BUENOS AIRES (INS)—Sorrowing relatives met a train which brought back to Buenos Aires for identification today the bodies of 61 victims of Sunday's airplane crash.

Among them were the bodies of 13 couples who were flying on a honeymoon trip. Because of the mutated state of the victims, stricken parents and relatives found it impossible in most cases to identify their loved ones at the morgue. Police fingerprint experts and doctors were called to aid in identification.

'Will Solidify Dow's Monopoly'Kefauver Critical on Sale of U. S. Magnesium Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Kefauver of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly Subcommittee yesterday criticized sale of the government-owned magnesium plant at Velasco, Tex., to Dow Chemical Co.

In a letter to the General Service Administration (GSA), which sold the plant to Dow for $20,700,000 last October, Kefauver termed the transaction "extremely unfortunate." He asked for a report as to whether the sale contract assures delivery of a portion of the plant's output to small manufacturing companies which need the metal.

"Obtaining these properties, which represent almost 50 per cent of the presently producing magnesium capacity of this country, will solidify Dow's present monopoly for years to come," said Kefauver, "and will effectively foreclose the possibility of real competition in the foreseeable future."

Dow chemical headquarters at Midland, Mich., had no immediate comment.

Ex-Senator Hits Security PlansCain Declares Group's Proposals Jeopardize Independence of Courts

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Former Sen. Harry P. Cain (R-Wash.) said today "the independence and integrity of our courts will be in jeopardy" if recommendations of the Wright commission on government security become law.

Cain, who was a member of the Subversive Activities Control Board from 1953 to 1956, said the commission headed by Loyd Wright would "run rough shod" over recent Supreme Court decisions which Cain said "speak out in support of the inherent importance of the individual."

In a speech prepared for the Philadelphia chapter of Americans for Democratic Action, Cain said:

Not only does the commission wish (A) to negate the . . . decision which limited the federal employees security program to security-sensitive positions, and (B) to have the Congress invalidate the . . . decision where the Supreme Court held that a defendant is entitled to see the statement given by the witnesses against him, but (C) by implication it raises doubts about the trustworthiness and even the loyalty of the court."

The 12-member Wright commission, set up in 1955, last June recommended, among other things, a sweeping revision of the government's loyalty-security program. Wright, a Los Angeles attorney and former president of the American Bar Assn., was chairman of the bipartisan study group.

Fight on Seaway Tolls Will Decide Its Future

A battle is shaping up in Congress over the proposed transfer of St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp. jurisdiction from the Army Corps of Engineers to the Commerce Department.

Congressmen from the Midwest, including Michigan's Sens. POTTER and McNAMARA, have protested the change on the ground that the Commerce Department is dominated by eastern railroad interests, ancient foes of the Seaway. The Army Engineers always have managed our inland waterways as well as the Panama Canal.

Other strong efforts to scuttle the Seaway took form a few months ago. Two organizations, the National Committee for an Unsubsidized Seaway and the New York-New Jersey Committee for a Self-Supporting Seaway want to fix tolls so high that few exporters or importers could afford to divert shipments from Atlantic Coast ports.

Traditional American policy on inland and coastal waters is for no tolls at all. Easterners put themselves in an untenable position when they argue for unreasonably high fees when the Federal Government has spent in the past and is now spending millions on New York Port improvements.

Tolls for a self-liquidating St. Lawrence project was the argument that got the Seaway Act passed, the first Federal project in our history providing self-liquidation. Canada was ready to go ahead on her own. But high tolls now should not be permitted to ruin the seaway although inflation has increased the original construction costs.

The question of tolls still has to be taken up with Canada, which is inclined to the no toll idea despite the fact that the Seaway cost to that country is double the amount we are investing. If Seaway opposition should win and tolls are set uneconomically high Great Lakes ports would be priced out of foreign markets.

Indiana's Sen. Jenner Won't Ask Re-election

The announcement by Sen. WILLIAM E. JENNER, Indiana Republican, that he would not seek re-election is an indication of just how dead isolationism is in both parties.

The Senator drew national attention and deep anger when he said on the Senate floor in 1950 that General GEORGE C. MARSHALL was "a front man for traitors—a living lie—and either an unsuspecting stooge or an actual conspirator with the most treasonable array of political cutthroats ever turned loose in the Executive Branch of Government." Sen. SALTONSTALL, Massachusetts Republican, replied to this tirade by saying that he couldn't find words strong enough to disassociate himself from JENNER.

First elected in 1946, Sen. JENNER was linked with the McCARTHY group of whom only GEORGE W. MALONE remains in the Senate. The trouble with those Senators was that their avowed hatred of Communism led them to ignore, in the name of patriotism, the essentials of security and freedom.

Fortunately, that hysteria has passed and the mood today is for a new effort to develop bipartisanship in response to new Soviet scientific progress. Sen. JENNER never has been of any help to the Administration.

AIRLINES of eleven different nations have scheduled flights to and from New York. American international air travel has reached a new high. One can well imagine the danger and confusion that would exist without international cooperation to standardize flight operations all over the world. The International Civil Aviation Organization of the United Nations handles this. It establishes safety measures, flying procedures and encourages the use of new methods and equipment.

The Man About Town It's Home Product Holiday Festooning Over Our Streets Grown Here

Father: An individual whose importance (and check book) receives added recognition this time of year.

For the tenth year, the evergreen festooning in the street decoration of Pontiac's downtown section comes from

The House of Evergreens at 444 Marion Street, this being the home of

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph I. Hughes. The total length of the festooning used this year for this purpose is 3,265 feet. And most of it was grown right here in Oakland County, and was put together by special machinery at the Hughes workshop.

Something new in Christmas cards drifts in from Bellamy Smith, former Pontiac resident, now in business at Marquette. It simply says, "Same to you."

Pontiac area residents several years ago, when he was a Methodist minister, Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Wallis of Burlington, will celebrate their golden wedding Sunday.

Photogenic in the extreme, also a competent writer, is Barbara Taylor, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Taylor of Clarkston, whose picture and fac-simile of her Santa Claus letter fill the whole first page of

The Pontiac Warrior, interesting house organ of Pontiac Motor Division, in its Christmas edition. Ask us for a job, Barbara, about 1970.

Recent cold weather has made the ice on the smaller lakes in the Pontiac area quite safe. The larger lakes still are not safe. And always keep away from where any stream enters or leaves a lake.

Congratulations to one of those many youngsters whom I've always highly admired,

Producing a clipping about recent sheep stealing in the Pontiac vicinity, Burchard Silesky of Walled Lake chides me regarding my stories about our progressiveness.

Breaking through the ice on the Clinton River near her home at Rochester, 12-year-old Frances Fordham was saved because her pet dog barked so loud that neighbors were attracted.

"The greatest blunder in the pursuit of happiness," says the Christmas card of that confirmed optimist, Harry Orentt, formerly of Pontiac, now in Detroit, "is not knowing when you have it."

One More Ingredient

Ike's Self-Sacrifice Shows Heroism

WASHINGTON — There is something so immeasurably heroic about President Eisenhower's decision to go to Paris for the NATO meeting that it stands out as an inspiring example of self-sacrifice in marked contrast to the passion of self-interest which dominates the mood of the national capital nowadays.

From the moment it became known that Mr. Eisenhower was sick, there were ill-considered demands for his resignation not only here but abroad. Some critics went so far as to suggest that, even if he recovered, he should retire.

Little thought was given to the picture that could present itself later of a man who, having been given signal honors by his country, suddenly abandoned his office and, after a brief period of rest, emerged as an ex-president in full possession of his faculties but yet as a deserter from his job—and this notwithstanding the fact that he had publicly accepted a four-year contract of service.

Only those who don't know the kind of man Dwight Eisenhower really is could have suggested that he resign merely because he has had three illnesses and might possibly have another. It isn't in Mr. Eisenhower's nature to consider what might happen to him in the future—he is concerned only with the facts of the present.

He gave his word to the American people that, if he really became incapacitated, he would step aside. But by this he envisaged a physical disability of such proportions as to render him actually incapable of performing the duties of his office.

Much of the discussion about the handling of public business at the White House since President Eisenhower suffered a mild ailment last month has been motivated by political factionalism and personal animosities. This, some of those individuals on Capitol Hill who don't like Sherman Adams, chief presidential assistant, haven't hesitated to say so and to demand that the vice president preside at legislative conferences.

There was coincidentally a lot of favorable mention of Vice President Nixon by sources usually unfriendly to him. This, too, was transparent. The partisans know that the President's personality is still a strong asset of the Republican Party and that, once like were to remove himself from the scene, the assault troops in the Democratic Party could launch their publicity barrages against Mr. Nixon.

It isn't love of Mr. Nixon but desire to see the Republican position dismantled which causes much of the nice talk about how desirable it would be to have the vice president step in and take charge. Mr. Nixon is under no illusions and has handled himself well in a delicate situation not of his making.

The theory that there could be a "temporary president" or an "acting president" has been argued, but this cannot be done lawfully except by constitutional amendment.

All the other schemes for delegation of powers to the vice president during an indefinite period of convalescence of the president run up against the danger that they would merely accumulate lawsuits and cast doubt on the legality of many an important action taken.

The Constitution can be amended quickly if there is unanimity of thought on what is proposed. On a question of this kind, if two-thirds of Congress approved the proposal, it would go through the state legislatures within a few months, as has happened before with amendments that had popular support.

Amid these curious conflicts and currents in Washington, there stands the majestic figure of the President. He has struggled for five years now with the problems of state at a time in world history that is nerve-racking and exhausting to leaders everywhere. But he stands patiently and calmly today, with the hopes of the world focussed on him.

Dr. William Brady Says:

What! Take Common Milk to Cure 'Alopecia Areata'?

A question put to a "panel of experts" representing a county medical society:

Q.—What would cause a young woman to develop suddenly a bald spot on the back of her head?

The answer printed in the newspaper:

A.—"This is very likely alopecia areata, a condition in which the hair falls out in localized patches. Sometimes only a single small spot occurs and other times multiple areas involving large portions of the scalp may develop. The cause is unknown."

"One theory is that it is a psychosomatic disorder, but this remains to be proved. It is a relatively common condition. For treatment, the physician usually attempts to stimulate hair growth by various measures, although spontaneous regrowth may occur."

The young woman complained of a bald spot on the back of her head. The medical society's panel did a masterly job of translation and came up with the Latin word for baldness, alopecia, and spots, areata.

That would be worth $10 right off the bat—if the young woman had consulted a trick specialist or a "clinic" racketeer. But that's only the half of it.

The panel revealed that sometimes there's only one spot, sometimes more. Also that it is "relatively" common. How common? Surely not just plain common. Remember, we're experts.

WHAT ABOUT NUTRITION?

Before the physician "attempts" to stimulate hair growth by various measures, he should tell the patient he knows of nothing that will stimulate hair growth, except good nutrition.

Since "the cause is unknown," would it be contrary to ethical principles of the medical society's panel of experts to say that other than improving nutrition, no hair or scalp treatment is worth the young woman's time or money?

Why not drink no less than 4 glasses of milk, skim milk or buttermilk daily—to boost your daily ration of calcium and riboflavin (vitamin B-2 or G)? Milk is the best food source of these essentials of good nutrition and our over-purified nifty panmy American diet is inadequate in both.

In a previous article on Nutrition of Nails, Hair and Skin I suggested other factors that maintain or improve the condition of the nails, hair and skin.

If you have the price, you'll find that charlatans who can grow hair on your bald spot are a dime a dozen. If you happen to be using his treatment or remedy when "spontaneous regrowth" occurs—well, coincidence makes quacks.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 150 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Let God Take Over Night Shift

Pearl is a minister's wife, but she found herself sleepless and tense. So she finally followed the method outlined in this column several months ago and asked God to take over the night shift. Notice what happened! Whether you are Jewish, Catholic or Protestant, you'll find that God will never refuse to team-up with you in that manner.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case W-370: Pearl D., aged 34, is a vivacious wife of a talented young clergyman.

"Dr. Crane, my husband and I have been seeing back and forth for two weeks," she began.

"For we have been offered a splendid new pastorate in another city. But our present congregation has been wonderful to us and will match the other salary, so we don't know what to do."

"At bed time I have been so keyed up that even after I say my prayers, I have been unable to fall asleep."

"Three nights ago I decided to try your suggestion, wherein you recommended that we lift our right hand up in the air and say: 'Father, I am trying to be on your team. But I have a heavy day's work tomorrow and must get up early. Will you please take over the night shift for me, so I can sleep?'"

"Well, Dr. Crane, it works beautifully. After I say that, I let my arm drop languidly upon the bed

Voice of the People

'We Should Have Listened to McCarthy's Statement'

Dec. 10 The Press published a news item, "Senate to Probe Rocket Failure," which read, "Sen. Kuchel (R-Calif.) said today the Administration probably will 'demand that this country forge ahead in the missile field no matter what it may cost.'"

Why didn't the Administration listen to the late Senator Joseph R. McCarthy when he stated in the Congressional Record in April, 1956:

"I suggest that we set up a special joint Congressional Committee, with full subpoena powers, to investigate the guided missile program, and to keep a vigilant eye on its progress. If the committee finds that the program is not on an all-out basis, then it must go into the further question of why it is not on an all-out basis. If we are falling behind the Soviet Union in the development of a weapon that may permit communism to conquer us, then we must find out who is responsible and what has motivated those who are responsible."

Wake up, America, before it is too late. Senator McCarthy was one of our greatest patriots, and you don't know it.

Two Respond to Suggestion

In regard to the constructive suggestion by Mr. Baerwolf that each taxpayer contribute $30.—I was recently a patient at Pontiac General and know how badly the extra space and facilities are needed.

The hospital personnel is doing a marvelous job of making the best of overcrowded conditions. They deserve the support and cooperation of all of us, whether or not we are Pontiac taxpayers.

Our own peace of mind should require us to give them a break.

John Milliken

Waterford

It certainly would be a good idea for all taxpayers to give $30 toward finishing the hospital, and I'm sure most people would be glad to do it if they could afford it.

But many of them may be in the same position my family is. My husband has been out of work many weeks this year, and just ordinary living expenses are a struggle. Thirty dollars doesn't sound like very much, but when it's needed for a winter coat, it's a pretty big item.

We want to help, but we can't do it that way.

Factory Worker's Wife

'Cass City Pageant Worth the Trip'

The beautiful Christmas decorations at Cass City will be ready this week end and the pageant is scheduled for the evenings of Dec. 14 and 15.

These are more than just ornaments or lights. There are scenes of Bethlehem and the manger with life-size figures of the Holy Family and Wise Men, with live sheep and toyland scenes to delight children.

It's well worth a trip as they are the most beautiful decorations I've seen.

J.

'What Are They Going to Gain?'

I can't understand what gets into workers when a strike is called. As I understand it, there is a law in New York which penalizes government employees who leave their jobs during strikes. They won't get pay raises for at least three years and may not even get their jobs back. If that's true, what's the purpose of leaving a job in a strike?

Curious

Parking and Traffic Upset Another

I agree about parking being bad for business.

We went downtown and drove all over town before finding a parking space in a public parking lot. The traffic is also very bad, with right turns allowed from East Huron onto North Saginaw and left turns onto Warren from Saginaw. What a mess some of the corners are.

I put a dime in the Pike street lot meter and it wasn't working. I told a policeman and he said, "How do I know you did?" I've lived here 40 years, and from now on I'm going to shopping centers.

Old Timer

'How About New Secretary of State?'

Secretary of State Dulles has set all kinds of flying records since taking office. Most of us do our work on the ground. It seems hard to believe that Dulles is helping the United States by spending so much of his time in the air. Someone suggested that he was the U.S. answer to Sputnik, and I guess maybe they're right. How about a new secretary, someone like Tom Dewey?

But insomnia never kills anybody! So quit getting unduly disturbed about the fact you can't sleep.

As long as your body lies in the horizontal position, it gets most of the physiological benefits of sleep, even if you lie awake and read an educational book, magazine or the Bible.

So stop fretting about sleeplessness. And if you wish a surefire formula for quick slumber, then team up with God, and repeat the request which Pearl found so helpful.

Peril of Fallout Eyed by AEC

Order Sharply Reduces Permissible Amount of Radiation Exposure

WASHINGTON (INS)—An Atomic Energy Commission order drastically reducing permissible radiation exposure was interpreted today as an official admission that "fallout" danger is greater than previously thought.

The ruling, handed down late yesterday, limits to one-third of the previous maximums the amount of radioactivity to which AEC workers and the general public may be exposed as a result of industrial operations by the commission or by private nuclear power plants.

No mention was made of peacetime atomic tests or wartime radioactivity, but similar considerations would apply to the protection of the public from the creeping effects of wind-borne radiation in an all-out nuclear conflict.

An AEC spokesman said, however, that peacetime weapon testing at the present rate will add only a small percentage to the worldwide radiation total of natural radiation.

The commission's order was the first change since 1948 in the maximum permissible dosage for AEC workers. The level for the public, under a policy adopted in 1954, was reduced to one-tenth of the new maximum for the approximately 100,000 atomic workers.

In addition, the commission imposed special restrictions on certain types of radioactivity which "tend to concentrate near the gonads" or to circulate in the blood stream, because these endanger the hereditary genes.

The effect of the order was to greatly tighten the health and safety standards which must be observed by private atomic power plants, some of which are now under construction.

A spokesman said the commission's own operations will be only slightly affected, because more than 99 per cent of its employees are already receiving less than one-third the present maximum exposure.

In the commission's favor, the ruling contains a clause permitting an employee to be exposed for one year to the present maximum — 15 "roentgens" — providing his average for a period of years is only a third of that amount.

The ruling accepted recommendations of the National Academy of Sciences and the National Committee of Radiation Protection headed by Lauriston Taylor of the Bureau of Standards.

These recommendations are that no person during the first 30 years of his life should be exposed to more than twice the amount of radioactivity he would normally sustain from nature.

Danes Plan Marine Lab

COPENHAGEN — At Elsinore, about 25 miles north of Copenhagen, the University of Copenhagen is establishing a marine biological institute. This will complete a chain of four such laboratories, under the general sponsorship of the four Scandinavian governments, providing for ecological studies of aquatic organisms in almost every type of environment, from fresh water to open ocean.

Free Rides for Calling

DES MOINES, Ia. — Members of the "honorable class" for alcoholics in the Des Moines Municipal Court are going to be available on New Year's Eve to drive home anyone who thinks he's had enough to drink.

2 Million Use Parkway

MIAMI — In its first six months operation Florida's new Sunshine State Parkway was used by more than 2,000,000 cars which traveled more than 100,000,000 vehicle miles, with only two fatal accidents.

One resulted from a blow-out, the other from an improper turn. The parkway bypasses all cities and towns from Fort Pierce to Miami. It is five or six miles west of U.S. 1 and parallels that highway.

Liquor Revenue Up

WASHINGTON — The Federal Government collected $3,085,327,000 from various taxes and duties on alcoholic beverages in 1956, an increase of $32,777,000, or 8.2 per cent, over the 1955 revenue.

Liquor Tax Has Gains

WASHINGTON — Alcoholic beverages produced $920,658,553 in tax and license revenue for the 48 states and the District of Columbia in 1956, a rise of $77,708,948 over the 1955 figure.

Easy to Repair Broken Doll

Parts Are Available,
Can Be Replaced With Little Trouble

You can make it a merry Christmas for a child by simply doing a little work on old dolls.

A local doll hospital or supplier will have anything you need.

Suppose you have a doll that needs a wig... Here's how to put it on.

1. Remove old hair completely.
2. Apply any water-proof cement.
3. Hold doll between yourself and table.

This will leave your arms free to work.

4. Slip the wig on from the back, with the thumbs holding the head steady and the forefingers gently guiding the wig.
5. Bring wig well over the forehead, then move back into desired position.

6. Hold the wig in place with two rubber bands, one across the forehead to the back and the other across the top and under the nose.
7. Let dry for a few hours.

Or take eye-setting. Single eyes must be set by machine, but you can install eyes that come in a unit yourself.

1. Set the eyes in the openings and hold temporarily with a little wax from a candle.
2. Hold them permanently by applying plastic wood or plaster of Paris.

Many dolls have elastic bands which hold the limbs and head in place and allow these parts to move properly, as shown in the illustration at right. There must be the exact amount of tension on the rubber or elastic band.

Sometimes a rubber band needs to be cut and tied shorter to give more tension. If it's an elastic band, get the right tension by cutting and then looping the two ends together with fine wire.

You can give your old doll a beauty treatment cheaply enough.

1. Wash the wig, using lukewarm water with soap suds.
2. Place the wig back on the doll and brush.
3. Sections of the hair may be placed in curlers. Use hair pins, too.

Lips: Use red nail polish. Likewise for fingernails and toenails.

Cheeks: Lipsick rubbed with a cloth to make rouge.

Stuffed animals are not at all difficult to repair:

1. Take seams out by snipping the thread, being careful not to snip the material.

2. When seam is wide enough, stuff cotton or other material inside.

3. Put enough stuffing inside so that there is tension when the seams are brought together.

4. Sew, using a strong needle and double or triple thread—nylon thread is strongest, but others will do.

Men Can Live on Planet Mars

Would Have to Remain in Space Suits at All Times, Scientist Says

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Earth men could live on the planet Mars, but they would need to stay in space suits all the time, says an Air Force scientist.

But other forms of life might exist on Mars and even flourish, says Dr. Herbert Strughold of the Department of Space Medicine at Randolph Air Force Base. Dr. Strughold, a former German aviation medicine specialist, has authored a book on Mars.

CONDUCT RESEARCH
He has conducted research on his favorite planet at the Air Force laboratory here. He says soil samples tested show that certain microscopic organisms can live under conditions like those on Mars.

The atmospheric conditions on Mars are nearer to those on Earth than on any other planet in this universe, but are hardly appropriate for a summer resort.

Night temperatures run 70 degrees below zero or colder, Dr. Strughold says. During the day, certain parts of the planet warm up to about 70 degrees.

STAY ALIVE
Dr. Strughold says man could stay alive on Mars, but he would have to wear a space suit continually because atmospheric pressure would be about like that found at 50,000 feet above the earth's sea level.

Water, Dr. Strughold believes, apparently is scarce on Mars.

In a recent experiment, Dr. Strughold took soil samples from the Painted Desert of Arizona, from the Grand Canyon and from the icy slopes of Mt. McKinley in Alaska. Such soil contains nitrogen loving bacteria, considered most likely to be at home on Mars.

The samples were put in a deep freezer at night and allowed to warm to room temperature during the day.

"After a week or two, certain micro-organisms disappeared completely," Dr. Strughold says. "Others flourished."

The green color on Mars as observed by astronomers may be something other than vegetation as we know it, Dr. Strughold believes.

But he says there is a distinct possibility that some form of life does exist on the planet. "Life has an enormous capacity to adjust," he says.

Science Learns Which Rats Will 'Take to Drink'

LONDON (AP) — Some rats just can't leave booze alone. Other rats won't touch the stuff. These rodent revelations came to light in this week's issue of "Nature," a British magazine. R. J. G. Gillespie and C. C. Lucas of the University of Toronto reported they set up a bar for the exclusive use of 25 rats.

For weeks the rats had a choice of drinking from a special fountain that spouted whiskey, or another that shot off water.

Nine of the rats turned out to be strict teetotalers. Fourteen didn't mind what they drank.

Two stuck to the booze. During the experiment some of the teetotalers began guzzling. Some of the whisky swillers turned to water.

"The mystery was solved," the scientists reported, "when it was noticed that the relative positions of the food dish, water fountain and alcohol fountain controlled, to an astonishing degree, the drinking pattern of some of the rats." In other words, where they drank, rather than what they drank, was the determining factor.

"Two of the rats actually did appear to like alcohol," said the scientists. "They drank moderate amounts of it regardless of the arrangements of the fountains."

Construct Tiny Town in Kindergarten Play
COIMBRA, Portugal — A European version of Tiny Town has been built at a modern kindergarten outside of Coimbra, a celebrated university town in Portugal.

There children up to seven are cared for while their mothers are at work. A lovely garden contains miniature villas, a church, a farm and a lighthouse, all only six to 12 feet high and large enough for children to enter. Villas are built around a square with a fountain.

At the corners are lamps and street names appear in blue on white glazed tiles. The church has a small altar and four tiny pews.

The farm has several animals: a pony whose tail sticks out of the stable door while its head looks out of the window; a sheep, a goat and fowls.

There is a mine there, too, with a small car on wheels at the entrance to a dark tunnel. Of course, there are playgrounds, too.

Friday 13th Leads Into Secrets of Salon

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — Tomorrow is Friday the 13th, which is reminiscent of witches and cats.

At a swanky beauty salon, I've always felt, one can find the greatest collection of these two elements. Witchland and catskill only know what dark brews of gossip and slander are whipped up under those shiny aluminum hair-dryers.

But maybe the hair stylist knows too . . .

WON'T TALK

"Of course I know," whispered Mr. Casper, a swarthy, sleek man who sets some of the most social heads in town, "but who's talking? You want me to lose my head—right after I found a good barber?"

Mr. Casper hears who is divorcing whom, and for what reason (good, bad, or indifference) before the gossip columnist gets wind of it. He also knows what's to be served for dinner at the fanciest Park avenue apartments days before the menu reached the chef's hands, and could predict which prominent guest would become tipsy. If he would.

"Let's talk in generalities," said Mr. Casper. "Women are not really cats at all, you know. They're the flowers of mankind, the wonderful creatures of God . . . they're just crazy, mixed-up, that's all."

In short, when they "babble and chatter" among themselves, or at a beauty operator, they are not being vicious, necessarily. They simply are "letting their hair down, figuratively as well as literally."

STYLE TELLS MOOD
You can almost guess a woman's personal problems by the way she looks in a salon mirror, and by the new shade or style of hairdo she requests.

"They talk to me about their problems, always personal, rarely financial," remarked Mr. Casper, thoughtfully pondering a can of super-lanolated lacquer. "But even before they do, I can tell whether it involves a man they are trying to get, or —" he shook his head — "one they're trying not to lose."

"When they ask to go 'extremely blonde, but not flashy' — a common request — that generally means they are on the make — er, trail — of a man."

"If they say, 'make it red,' that means almost all hope is gone. They have tried blonde. They have lost. This is the last resort to hold the man who's almost got away."

There is also a feeling among women in the throes of woes to let their hair grow long. "because

Asks Grad Admission From South Pole

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A radio-telephone hookup has enabled a Norwegian working in the Antarctic to apply for admission to the University of Wisconsin Graduate School.

Because the next mail boat doesn't leave his outpost until next February, Claw Loken, about 26, decided to call Prof. Kirk Stone of the Wisconsin geography department.

Loken got in touch with a ham radio operator in Wayzata, Minn. The Minnesota man put Prof.

Japanese Scouts Building Memorial

TOKYO (INS) — Fifty thousand Japanese Boy Scouts have launched a nationwide fund drive to build a memorial honoring an unknown Japanese soldier who saved a wounded American on Wake Island during World War II.

During the battle for Wake, the Japanese soldier stumbled across a wounded American. The GI touched three fingers to his forehead in the traditional scout salute, and the Japanese soldier immediately gave him first aid.

The Japan Boy Scouts headquarters in Tokyo said almost $500 of the needed $1,950 has been raised. The statue, showing the American and Japanese soldiers, will be unveiled next year in Tokyo's Boy Scout Hall.

Castor oil is sometimes used to lubricate airplane engines at high altitudes.

Miriani to Jump Gun on Formal Inauguration

DETROIT (INS) — Mayor Louis C. Miriani says he plans to be sworn into his new office before the formal inauguration date of Jan. 7.

Miriani said he was going to be sworn in early to protect the validity of the city bonds he has signed and to insure the legality of his succession to office in case he is sick or can't otherwise attend the formal inauguration. He has set no date yet for the early swearing in.

Hits Boy, Gives Chase

DENVER (INS) — A Denver motorist ran into a small boy with his automobile, then had to chase him three blocks on foot so he could take the youngster to a hospital. The boy, 8-year-old, was found to have some bruised ribs. The hospital sent him home with the man who ran into him.

His In-Law Kicks Bullfighter Out

LONDON — The English matador, 29-year-old Vincent Hitchcock, who was a sensation a few years ago when he killed 150 bulls in Spain, now is having mother-in-law trouble, London reports. Now a vacuum cleaner salesman, Hitchcock recently was fined for "insulting behavior" outside the parental home.

He shouted at the house something about "human scum," police said. His version was that his wife's parents interfered when he called to see his little daughter. Mrs. Berthe Makepeace, the mother-in-law, 69, said: "Hitchcock a brave bullfighter? I won't comment. I kicked him out three weeks ago. His wife, my daughter, still lives with us. He had a good home here but he didn't appreciate it. He got on my nerves making toast at odd times and things like that."

Farmers Argue Hypnotizing Pigs

PRETORIA — Hypnotism of pigs to keep them fit and happy is urged in a booklet now being distributed to South Africa farmers by the Department of Agriculture in Pretoria. Farmers agree that pigs are among the most neurotic creatures. To bring home the bacon it is essential to keep them peaceful and undisturbed. They are not so sure, however, that pigs will stand still for hypnotizing. "Who would have time for it?" asks T. Koenig, who has been breeding pigs for 30 years. E. F. Milnes, a hypnotist, says he has hypnotized rabbits, fowls and a lion. "The rabbits and fowls were easy, but I had to practice for a long time on the lion," he said.

Toys '57 Style Are Creative

Whatever the interests Santa Has a Kit to Give Practical Training

Toyland, 1957 style, is geared to discover and develop the aptitudes of young Americans. Actually in the creative play activities they'll have a "life in these United States" spread on the toy room floor.

Just name the career or hobby you choose for junior and his sister, or mention a few, and Santa is sure to have a kit ready to provide practical training. Melvin Freud, president of Toy Guidance Council, assures parents Radar, atomic energy and jet-propulsion principles have inspired a record variety of new toys. The latest equipment for home maintenance, cooking, sewing, arts and handicrafts, too, have practical play counterparts.

The boy whose father is a power tool fan can imitate Dad safely with his own power drill, a battery-powered device which drives screws and bolts only through a steel work bench that comes with the kit. The play drill also buffs and polishes.

The sports car influence is in evidence in wheel toys of all types. A realistic instrument panel of a sports car with wheel and gear shift attached is ready to keep young motorists occupied.

City planning will have top fascination for the young architect this Christmas.

The latest speed method of skyscraper construction utilizing girders and panels has a toyland version. Suburban developments, too, will sprout realistically on the playroom floor. Prefabricated techniques will aid junior builders achieve workmanlike effects.

Defense preparations against atomic attack also have inspired more play miniatures of military equipment than toyland has seen in a decade. The guided missile program particularly intrigues the playroom crowd.

Homemaking enlists the carpet sweeper as the latest labor-saving device to have a streamlined toy version.

When Buying for Kids, Remember Their Ages

Buying a useful Christmas toy for a young child is not as easy as it looks.

Children have capabilities dependent to a large extent upon their age. Unless you give some thought to your gift, and choose one which requires no more of the child than the child can give, it can easily become a complete waste of time and money.

SELECT TOYS

Six-year-old Susie will hardly give her fluffy dog a second look, and 2-year-old Peter will smash his complicated wind-up clown during the first five minutes.

"It's vitally important both from a safety and educational standpoint to select toys that are suitable for each child's use at the time he receives them," according to Dr. Emma Sheehy, professor of Child Development at Columbia Teachers College and chairman of the Toy Guidance Council advisory committee.

To help those without small children to observe all during the year, here are some of the basic play favorites, classified according to age appeal:

INFANCY

Soft dolls and animals, exercisers for crib and carriage, rattles, bath-tub toys, music boxes and phonographs.

1 TO 2 YEARS

Soft animals and dolls, blocks for piling and nesting, picture books, doll carts, wheelbarrows, simple take apart toys, musical toys, balls, push and pull toys.

2 TO 4 YEARS

Realistic dolls and accessories, blackboard, crayons, beads to string, elementary construction toys, pounding toys, wheel toys.

Useful, Lovely Dining Gift, Easy to Make

A plaid gingham luncheon set is a lovely and useful Christmas gift, yet easy to make.

Cut the table cloth and napkins the size desired, then run a row of stitching with your sewing machine an inch and a half from all edges of the cloth and a half inch from napkin edges.

Put threads as far back as the row of stitching on each piece, in order to form the fringe. The stitching will keep the thread from pulling further.

Press the set and it is ready for gift wrapping.

rocking horse, simple musical instruments, simple storybooks, stuffed animals.

4 TO 6 YEARS

Simple crafts, simple games for group play, manipulative preschool toys, sidewalk bike, wagon, scooter, action pull toys, costumes, gun and holster sets, storybooks, dolls with washable hair, doll furniture, sports equipment.

6 TO 8 YEARS

Cash registers, banks, intermediate construction sets, intermediate crafts, action and board games, science toys, wheel toys, animal and doll collections, sewing, jewelry making equipment, (boys) electric trains, gym equipment, scale model vehicles.

8 TO 10 YEARS

Advanced construction sets, all the instruments in the band, science toys, typewriters, wheel toys, games of skill.

Hilltop Beauty Spot Draws Thousands

TACOMA, Wash. — A Washington apple grower, Herman Ohme, walking on a hill high above the Wenatchee Valley more than 25 years ago, came upon a most inspiring view of the confluence of the Wenatchee and Columbia rivers.

He began working with the bare rock atop the hill, bringing in topsoil, planting evergreens, and laying out lawns. He pumped up water, laid flagstones, planted flowers.

Gradually the fame of the beauty spot grew and the Ohmes were induced to open their "bit of heaven," as it is known, to the public.

In the past few years a quarter of a million visitors have admired the place, with its magnificent views, pools, trees, shrubs, and flowers.

Replace Chairman of Armistice Group

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The controversial chairman of the Israeli-Syrian Mixed Armistice Commission is being replaced but the U.N. indicated last night a Syrian complaint is not responsible.

The U.N. announced Lt. Col. J. G. Bertrand of Canada will succeed Lt. Col. Christian Moe of Norway Dec. 15 as the commission chairman.

Syria announced Monday it would no longer cooperate with Moe, charging him with "pro-Israeli leniency."

The U.N. said both Syria and Israel were consulted nearly two weeks before the complaint about the replacement of Moe by Bertrand and both agreed.

Traffic Safety Conference Recommends:

Seek Tougher Driver's License Laws

WASHINGTON (INS)—Tougher and more uniform requirements in licensing drivers received top priority yesterday as the quickest way to reduce the staggering toll of 40,000 traffic deaths a year.

The proposal called for all drivers under 18 years of age to complete an approved high school training course and for similar programs to be made available for adults at night and on the week ends.

The recommendation was adopted at the closing session of a two-day public officials' traffic safety conference sponsored by the President's Committee for Highway Safety.

Some 400 delegates from the 48 states drafted an emergency 10-point traffic safety program which will be presented for public support in four regional meetings next spring.

Other priority recommendations included:

Expanded research into causes of accidents and congestion.

Stepped up improvement of highways, utilizing modern design standards such as control of access.

SCHEDULE MEETING

The conferences to build up public support for the emergency safety program are scheduled at Atlantic City, March 11-12; Chicago, April 1-2; San Francisco, April 8-9; and Miami Beach, May 29-30.

Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, chairman of the conference, advised the delegates to adapt the program for their own state needs and to present it forcefully to their governors for action.

He said: "There is only one man in each state who can give this program the push it must have—and that is the chief executive."

Ribicoff, nationally recognized for his own action to enforce better safety on the highways, said the 40,000 annual death toll can be cut in half if state and local governments do their jobs.

Workshop groups of the state and local officials explored enforcement, education, motor vehicle administration, laws, engineering, research, accident reports, coordination and public information.

Of the eight workshops, three called for tougher driving licensing requirements as the best way to improve traffic safety.

Palanca Claims Photographer Was Aggressor

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Jack Palanca, sued for $15,116 battery damages by a newspaper photographer, has filed an answer charging that the cameraman was the aggressor.

George T. O'Day, 45, of the evening Herald-Express, claimed the actor struck him when O'Day tried to photograph Palanca last Sept. 6 at a separate maintenance suit filed by Mrs. Virginia Baker Palanca.

But the 31-year-old actor said in his answer that O'Day threatened him, put him in fear of bodily injury and caused him instinctively to ward off possible blows. Palanca also contended that O'Day thrust a camera into his face and a flash bulb exploded near his eyes.

Resourceful New Yorkers Keep Going Despite Subway Strike Inconveniences

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York subway system is something like the network of arteries and veins in the human body. Block any part of the system, and there's no telling what trouble may ensue.

This week's subway strike has had some strange repercussions.

For example, airplanes have taken off late for distant points. Why? Well, the subway strike forced commuters to use their cars to get to work. This congested Long Island parkways. Airlines buses from Manhattan to the airports got caught in traffic jams and passengers arrived late. So the planes had to wait for them.

Staten Island ferries carried 10,000 more passengers a day for Brooklyn. That's right, Brooklyn. Ingenious residents of that borough who couldn't get into Manhattan by subway worked out an alternate plan. They took a ferry from Brooklyn to Staten Island and then from Staten Island to Manhattan. One such voyage Louis Weinstein, 42, traveled two hours to get to a destination formerly 35 minutes away. But he said:

"I've never had a better time traveling to work and back home than I've had since the strike began. I spend four hours a day traveling, but I feel more relaxed. I get more fresh air, have plenty of time to read the newspapers."

To get downtown, some enterprising travelers took the Hudson train with a tube. Neither made it.

A Times Square subway guard, noting a sorely beset woman at the door of a train, yelled in compassion: "Let that woman off, let her off!"

Shouted the woman: "Who wants off, I just got on."

On a subway in Queens, a thin voice cried wearily from somewhere in the massed, immovable human throng: "Ladies and gentlemen, I hate to bother you but I'm not standing in my shoes. Could you please look around if they are near you?"

But the woman was swept off at the next station and no one knows whether she ever recovered her shoes.

Business generally took a licking as a result of the strike. Not, however, gin mills near Penn Station and Grand Central, where tens of thousands converged daily seeking alternate transportation.

Chortled one innkeeper: "Last night they were six deep at the bar. It looked like New Year's Eve."

To Bury Alden Banker

ELK RAPIDS (AP)—Funeral service will be held today for Fred Aemisegger, 66, owner and president of Alden State Bank, who died Monday at his home at Torch Lake. Aemisegger was a past president of the Michigan Bankers Assn. Group No. 2.

Moss Dislikes Accounting Ban

Congressman Asserts U.S. Auditors Also Hit Limits on Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Moss (D-Calif.) took issue with the Pentagon today over restrictions on the authority of federal accounting officials to examine classified information.

Moss, chairman of the House Government Information subcommittee, said the General Accounting Office had objected to the limitations. The congressman has been a frequent critic of government secrecy.

"Unless properly cleared GAO officials have free access to classified defense data, the General Accounting Office cannot fulfill its statutory responsibility for keeping Congress informed on the efficiency and economy with which executive agencies are being operated," Moss said in a statement. He made public an exchange of letters with Comptroller General Joseph Campbell, and a letter Moss wrote Secretary of Defense McElroy Dec. 9.

Moss said the present controversy started with a "sleeper section" in a Defense Department directive issued last July 3, saying GAO personnel "ordinarily will not have need for access to classified defense information." The subcommittee chairman said the directive added that no GAO auditor would be granted access to classified defense data until his "need to know" had been established. It also said the comptroller general had agreed to the procedures, Moss said.

Moss wrote Campbell asking what effect such regulations were having on GAO's efforts.

Campbell replied Nov. 20 that the GAO now requires access to classified information in 80 per cent of its Defense Department investigations. Campbell added that the directive is "incompatible with our increased audit efforts."

He said the "need to know" requirements result in "inordinate delays without providing additional safeguards."

Oil Average 8.8 Quarts

FORT WORTH (AP)—The average American family of four uses 3,212 gallons of petroleum a year, at the rate of 8.8 quarts per person per day.

Night baseball, so-called, is often played in sunlight in Fairbanks, Alaska.

Horror Film Back by Teens' Demand

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The horror film is back in a big way, and a psychiatrist says the reason is that adults are curling up with a book or watching television while teenagers dictate the movie fare.

Dr. Martin Grotjahn of the University of Southern California calls the horror film a form of "self-administered psychiatric therapy for America's adolescents."

Certain childhood anxieties never die, he said. Fear of ghosts, witches, the dark, the sinister and the mysteriously terrible, stay with the adolescent.

The horror film, he says, is a form of nightmare, "and in it old childhood anxieties are activated, given life and a form of objective reality on the screen, and then dispelled."

As Part of NATO Defenses

2 Nations Accept Missiles

PARIS (INS)—Turkey and Belgium announced acceptance this week of American guided missiles as part of their defenses within the NATO Alliance.

Turkey disclosed that U. S. "Nike" and "Honest John" guided missiles will be sent to her from the United States, and Turkish officers will go to the United States to learn how to use the weapons.

Belgium announced acceptance of the Nike, the first guided missile to enter service in that country, Brussels said a number of Belgian air force men and technicians already are undergoing special training in the United States.

In Paris French informants said that the United States offered all NATO governments Nikes and Honest Johns. Agence France Presse quoted authoritative informants as saying that France has not yet decided on a reply to the American offer.

The missiles concerned are non-atomic tactical ones of short range.

not to be confused with intermediate range ballistic missiles which the United States has developed and for which it would like to establish bases in Europe among NATO members.

Size of Christmas Tree Should Fix Bulb Number

A few suggestions on how to achieve effective Christmas tree lighting this year have been made by Detroit Edison home service adviser, Jean Hardy.

Whether families prefer to light their trees with a single color or with a variety, it is suggested that they gauge the number of light bulbs by the size of the tree.

A recommended guide is 35 lights for a four foot tree, 56 for a tree of five feet and 77 lights for a giant six foot tree.

"Those trees having a variety of colored lights can be made even more spectacular by using twice as many blue and green light bulbs as other colors," according to Miss Hardy.

In planning your Christmas tree an early check of bulbs, strings and extension cords is suggested.

Strings and extension cords should be examined for good condition with no breaks, frays or cracked sockets.

For outdoor lighting of trees and other decorations, only cords and bulbs of a special waterproof type, connected to waterproof outlets, are recommended.

Mitchell Okays News of Failure

Public Knowledge Is More Important Than Technical Achievement

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Labor Mitchell, describing a free press as basic to democracy, today defended public disclosure of the failure of the Vanguard satellite test.

"There is no question at all that open disclosure is necessary and desirable in any country in which the people govern themselves," Mitchell said in a speech prepared for the Life Insurance Assn. of America.

"The fact of public knowledge is far more important to the strength of democracy than any technical achievement could ever be."

The Navy's project Vanguard last Friday made the first U. S. effort to launch a small test satellite. The Vanguard rocket exploded on the ground at Cape Canaveral, Fla. Vanguard spokesmen blamed a mechanical failure.

Mitchell said experimental failure is inevitable in any scientific undertaking.

"Some persons insist on hearing about it, and then act as though they wish they had not. I can only call such attitudes childish and illogical," he said.

"Most illogical of all is the reasoning behind the remark, which I heard several times, that we should do what the Russians have done and publicize only the good news, cloaking the bad in secrecy."

"I tell you there is far more to fear from concealment than there is from technical failure, as far as our moral strength as a nation goes."

Mitchell said no one should minimize the effect the Russian satellites have had in promoting Soviet prestige throughout the world. But, he added, there is no justification for the gloomy conclusions which some have drawn from Vanguard's failure.

He described the Vanguard rocket as a purely scientific instrument and not a military weapon.

'I Might Marry Again,' Says Ingrid Bergman

MILAN, Italy (AP)—The Italian weekly "Gente" quoted Ingrid Bergman today as saying it is possible that she may marry again.

The magazine printed an interview it said its correspondent obtained in London from the Swedish actress who recently separated legally from her husband, Italian film director Roberto Rossellini. "If he were to enter this room this moment, I would put my arm around his neck, but my future would not mean that I love him. I respect him because he is a fine man."

Gente also quoted Miss Bergman as saying her relation with Swedish theater impresario Lars Schmidt is just a form of friendship and not a prelude to a new marriage.

Gente said she made it clear her remark about possible remarriage did not necessarily mean that Schmidt was the man.

High Winds, Seas Hit New York-Bound Ship

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (INS)

The 1900-ton Libertian-flag banana ship Arctic Reeler was at anchor off the Honduran port of La Ceiba yesterday, buffeted about by high winds and choppy seas.

The ship is carrying 25,000 bunches of bananas to New York. Meanwhile workers of the Standard Fruit Company, an American-owned concern, threatened a strike at the banana plantations because of alleged mass firings by the company.

Will Raise Minimum Marrying Age to 15 for Women

Mississippi Doooms Child Bride Era

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The era of the child bride will end in Mississippi next July 1.

For decades, the nation has been shocked by the marriages in Mississippi of girls as young as 10 or 11, often to men old enough to be their grandfathers.

Like others escaping the strict law of states as far away as Illinois or New York, they were married in the neon-lit "marriage mills" just inside the Mississippi state line.

The Legislature yesterday replaced Mississippi's lax marriage law with one about as strict as any. It requires a blood test to prove the couple does not have syphilis, a three-day waiting period, and sets minimum ages of 15 for women and 17 for men.

Publicity about child brides this year probably helped pass the bill. Present laws set no minimum age for marrying.

Mary Lou Lawson, 14-year-old Zeima, Mo., schoolgirl, was married at Hernando last Oct. 3 to a 76-year-old great-grandfather, John G. Tatro of Sturdivant, Mo. "I'd rather be an old man's darling than a young man's slave," said Mary Lou.

The "marrying business" is a big thing in border counties, especially those on federal highways.

Last year, Mississippi's 66,223 marriage licenses were topped only by Nevada. Of those 66,223, more than 64 per cent went to out-of-state residents and 46 per cent went to teen-agers.

Almost every important state organization, from the PTA, Farm Bureau and medical association to the League of Women Voters, supported the bill.

Bossie Doing Efficient Job

Milk Production Rises Despite Drop in Number of Nation's Cows

WASHINGTON (INS) — Bossie is doing a lot to bail dairy farmers out of the cost-price squeeze, but the Agriculture Department thinks she can do a good deal more.

The average American dairy cow has steadily increased her efficiency ever since the department started keeping accurate records in 1934. Average output has climbed in that time from 4,000 pounds annually to 6,150 pounds this year.

Bossie's efficiency as a milk machine has meant that the actual number of cows in the nation's barns and pastures has been gradually dropping while milk production sets new records each month.

With plenty of good quality feed available at bargain rates, the department's "dairy situation" reports that milk output will likely continue at record levels through 1958.

A pound of milk will buy one and six-tenths pounds of feed this fall, the report says. That is the best ratio since 1910.

Cheap feed may temporarily ease the drive toward better cows, but Agriculture Department dairy expert J. Frank Kendrick believes that within another 20 years Bossie will have to produce another 2,000 pounds a year to keep up with the population — provided the size of dairy herds doesn't take a sudden spurt upward.

He states that each additional thousand pounds of output per cow will be difficult to add, but points to the success of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association as evidence that it can be done.

He notes that the 1,500,000 dairy cows in association herds each produce almost 10,000 pounds a year — more than half again as much as the national average.

Kendrick states that there may be a limit to the efficiency of cows — well below the 30,000 pounds that pampered Holsteins have produced in a year — but says that the limit is far from being reached.

Woman Customer Slugged in Robbery

Two gunmen slugged a woman customer and robbed the Club 88, 88 Bagley St., of an undetermined amount of cash yesterday.

According to Pontiac Detectives Thomas C. Mitchell and Robert M. Wachal, the gunmen were drinking at the bar until closing time.

Then, one of them drew a revolver and herded the bartender, Johnnie L. Cox, and three customers into a dressing room at the rear.

One of the customers, a woman, was slugged by a bandit.

The pair broke into an inner office and manacled it, but found no money. They failed to break the door to the liquor storage room and left with the cash that was in the register.

Nikita's Photo Fails to Halt UAW Trial

DETROIT (AP) — A motion by the United Auto Workers Union to have a malicious prosecution suit declared a mistrial because a picture of Nikita Khrushchev appeared on the same page as a newspaper story about the UAW was turned down in Circuit Court yesterday.

Attorney Walter M. Nelson sought the ruling in a trial arising from a $450,000 suit brought against the union and others by Carl Renda who contends he was falsely accused in the 1948 shooting of UAW President Walter P. Reuther.

The request was refused by Judge Edward T. Kane of Port Huron after examining the page in question.

The story in question appeared in the Detroit Times-News Dec. 10 and concerned Senate Rackets Investigating Committee plans to look into UAW affairs. Nelson contended that the Russian leader's likeness was put near the story to prejudice the jury against the union.

Pontiac to Raze Police Garage, Build Parking Lot

The old police garage on Mill street will be razed in the spring to make way for a 50-stall municipal parking lot, it was revealed yesterday by City Manager Walter K. Willman.

The old brick structure will be used in the meantime for vehicle storage and some city equipment maintenance work.

The police and other emergency vehicles are moved up Pike street to the new Public Safety Building.

Willman said the new spaces will add approximately $6,000 annually to the city treasury. It will bring the city's total off-street parking spaces to 1,000.

The new lot will be bounded by Pike street, the Clinton River, the northern boundary of the Army and Mill street.

Refugee Baby Born on Flight to U.S.

NEW YORK (U.S.)—Seventy-five Hungarian refugees took off Tuesday by plane from Belgrade, Yugoslavia, but they numbered 76 when they arrived here yesterday.

The increase was due to the birth of a seven-pound baby boy, born during a two-hour stopover at Shannon Airport, Ireland.

The infant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lajos Raics. Mother and son were taken from Idlewild Airport to a Brooklyn hospital, where both were reported doing well.

The mother, Erzebet (Elizabeth) 22, said that after the birth at Shannon she insisted on continuing the flight, saying: "We've been waiting 12 months for permission to go to America, and nothing is going to stop us now."

Propose Limit on Veteran Tax

Homestead Exemption Varies Widely; Suggest Ceiling of $30 for State

LANSING (U.S.)—A ceiling on state payments under the veterans homestead tax exemption law will be proposed to the 1958 Legislature.

A joint committee of the House and Senate agreed yesterday on a plan to limit the amount the state can pay on an individual tax bill to $30. Currently, there is no ceiling.

In communities controlled by the 15-mill constitutional limit on taxation, the ceiling now stands at $30, said Sen. John B. Swainson (D-Detroit), a committee member. But in high tax areas like Detroit, he said, the state may pay out more than $100.

Swainson estimated the proposed ceiling would save the state at least $2,100,000 of its annual six million dollar tax exemption bill.

The law is aimed at relieving tax burdens on property owned by war veterans. On property with an assessed valuation of less than $7,500, the state pays a share of the tax bill to the local taxing unit.

The committee also proposed to limit the exemption to veterans who had lived in Michigan for at least six months before entering the service.

It also advocated removal of the tax exemption ceiling for disabled veterans.

The committee was told that 130,000 war veterans and widows qualify for exemptions in some degree, but that only 80,000 get the allowance.

Michigan Improves Traffic Record

WASHINGTON (U.S.)—Michigan can take credit for nearly 25 per cent of the cutback in the nation's traffic fatalities in the first 10 months of the year, Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams states.

Williams quoted National Safety Council figures showing that traffic accidents across the country claimed 817 fewer lives from January through October than in the same period of 1956.

Michigan, he said, cut its fatality toll in the same 10 months by 199. The key to the state's successful campaign against traffic deaths, he said, "is a coordinated program led by the state's top officials."

involving all appropriate public agencies and enlisting the cooperation of the whole people."

Williams outlined the Michigan traffic safety program before a National Traffic Safety conference.

He told the group that the 1957 death toll in Michigan was running 10 per cent below last year and the 1956 count fell 13 per cent below fatalities in 1955.

"In terms of lives actually saved, this means more than 750 per cent are alive today who would have died in traffic accidents if we had permitted the death rate to continue at the level of 1955."

Holiday Containers Can Be Reused

Cartons, boxes and bags that turn into toys, storage cases or even Christmas tree ornaments, are gift bonuses this year.

Shoe boxes become playtime fire stations; cake boxes are spice cabinets; boxes for pots and pans convert into a toy town complete with church and steeple, school and store, according to designers.

New gloves are tucked in their own polyethylene bags for dust-proof storage. A colorful gift box for blankets also serves as a summer storage unit.

A box for telephones as gifts can be reused as a carrying and storage case for small toys, doll clothes or hand tools, and a bubble gum manufacturer puts his product into cartons that convert into attractive Christmas tree ornaments.

Soviet Scientific Data Available, Ignored

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Russian scientific organizations have been doing their level best to keep U. S. scientists abreast of Soviet progress but we haven't been tuned in.

Today an average of 500 scientific monographs and 400 scientific periodicals are received by the Library of Congress from Russia. The library sends out a monthly list of what it receives to universities and private firms, but mostly these publications gather dust.

If the U. S. scientific community had not ignored this vast amount of information on Russian developments America would not be so embarrassingly behind in such fields as space flight and rocketry, it is claimed.

It is estimated there are about 6,000 separate sources of Russian scientific literature available to U. S. scientists. And it is claimed that the U. S. should be translating currently being translated, a survey shows.

Ralph E. Odette, head of the Russian translation program for the NSF, claims that the prime benefit of this Russian information is the savings of duplicate research which it permits. Untold thousands of U. S. researchers are now doing work which has already been completed by Red scientists.

O'dette cites the case of a Russian paper entitled, "The application of Boolean matrix algebra to the analysis and synthesis of relay contact networks."

"Tardy discovery of this one important paper caused $250,000 to be wasted in duplicating the work that it covered," he reveals.

"Reading their literature is a cheap way of keeping up with Russian science and the key to getting ahead of their work," he insists.

He says the total volume of Russian material available covers just about all of the sciences and appears to be equally good in all fields from medicine to physics. "It's hard to find an area where Russian science is weak," he says.

REDS NOT SO LAX

Unfortunately for the relative status of American science, the Russians have not made the mistake of ignoring U. S. scientific literature. O'dette says the Russians do a tremendous amount of translating and publishing of American scientific papers and periodicals.

In some cases the copies of translations of U. S. scientific periodicals are distributed in Russia two months after original publication.

It is believed likely that the Russian satellite advances will result in greatly speeded-up translation programs in the U. S. by the government and private organizations.

Sweden Plans Wide TV Coverage by '62

STOCKHOLM — By 1962, the Swedish program for expansion of television visualizes 14 transmitters in operation, broadcasting programs to areas containing two-thirds of the Swedish population. It is forecast that within five years the number of TV receiving sets in operation may approach the 500,000 mark, permitting one-fifth of the people to view television programs at home. At present there are only a station in Stockholm and a provisional transmitter in Goeborg.

Malmö and Norrköping are expected to get stations in 1958;

Skövde, Nassjö, Gävle, Hörby and Halmstad in 1959; Hålsjö in 1960; Örebro and Västerås in 1961, and Sundsvall and Boden in 1962. At the end of 1956, Sweden had 2,535,000 radio sets licensed.

COMMERCE, Tex. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. James West have started a scrapbook of newspaper clippings.

They believe that when their baby son, Mike, grows up he'll enjoy reading about what happened since he was born.

The clippings are birth announcements, news of world events, business conditions and baseball scores. "We've even clipped some of the comic strips," Mrs. West said.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Safety first didn't pay for Rudy Vrba of St. Clairsville. Vrba extended his arm to signal a left turn while driving along Ohio 1-4 and had four fingers broken by a bat wielding youngster who leaned out of an auto traveling in the opposite direction.

WHITE SANDS PROVING
GROUND, N.M. — Some educators might take kindly to a grade school where guided missiles—not spitballs, but the real thing—flash past classroom windows.

John Hoover, principal of a school where such goings-on are practically a part of the curriculum, thinks he's living an educator's dream. The modern, expensive building of the eight-grade White Sands elementary school is set in the middle of the nation's most important rocket and missile base.

RACE TO WINDOWS

Its windows look out over the prime firing area of the 40-by-100-mile rocket range—and the 430 pupils race for the windows every time a rocket is fired.

Because of their surroundings, Hoover's young charges are real help to science. And this is occasionally baffling to the 41-year-old principal.

"Sometimes they talk in a language I find hard to understand," he admits. "I'm not the greatest expert in the world on rocket fuels, thrust, power problems and thermal currents."

AMONG LUCKY

Despite the occasional language difficulty, the native of Batesburg, S.C., is confident he is among the lucky ones in teaching circles.

For instance:

"We have no poverty problems among our 430 students. And we have no wealth problems. All are children of government workers who are assigned right here in White Sands. Government workers are neither rich nor poor."

"We have no integration problems. Right here we have Negro Spanish-American, Japanese, Hawaiian, Guatemalan, German, French, American and Filipino students—and several mixtures. The children don't know and don't care to know any difference between them."

"We have children who are widely traveled. Some have been around the world several times and speak several languages. Their parents are military people, you know."

IQ HIGH

"We have, for a public school, an unusually high IQ. Our problem mostly is what to do with the brighter exceptional students—not to worry with the dullards and the laggards."

There's no such thing as a dull moment around the school.

These scientific-minded young-coming up with something new. If it isn't rocket or airplane stuff, Hoover says, "are always models, it's a new propulsion system or something else."

ICE BUCKET — This gift for parties doubles as pretzel or candy holder or sewing box.

White Sands is a part of the system of the nearby Las Cruces, N.M., municipal schools.

Most of the children in classes here are not the brainy offspring of high-trained scientists. Most are the children of laboratory and other civilian workers on the rocket base—ranging from the janitor in a Navy dormitory up to a laboratory chief. But their entire environment affects their behavior and thinking.

The school library is jammed with scientific books. One—called "All About Rockets and Missiles"—has been out of circulation solidly for at least a year and there is a long waiting list.

But aren't there any problems?

Well, not very long ago a group of boys devised their own new rocket system and were using raw gasoline as the fueling agent. The base fire department put an end to the experiments—quickly and firmly.

BIG TROPHY — Might hunter can walk on lifelike tiger rug or use it to decorate wall of den or bedroom.

The classes are full of boys designing space ships and flying saucers and girls who want to be the first space pilot. There are second graders who read at the ninth grade level. There are youngsters who have devised entirely new and different code systems. There's a run for the windows when one of the rockets is fired.

"We have to run, most of the time, to keep up," the principal says.

"But I wouldn't trade jobs with any other school official I know."

Prayer Rug for Tot?

Small fry buried under toys and Christmas sweets still find room for another gift. A washable rug of amusing design offers novelty with a purpose for children. Some feature favorite animals. Some, like friendship or prayer rugs, are thought-provoking.

Santa and the STRONG BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Richard tries to capture the king. Instead he drops him down the steps and after that pulls a chandelier down on Ignatz and his men.

Chapter Eight THE OLD WOMAN

When the chandelier fell there was terrible confusion in the palace. A dozen fires were started, and when they were put out there was nothing but darkness. The king and his guards lay about groaning and nursing their burns and bruises.

No one noticed that Richard had slipped out of the hall.

The prince ran to the great wall and the gate barred with iron. He reached out and, with one easy pull, bent the bars and squeezed through the gate. Now he stood by the drawbridge which was raised above the deep moat surrounding the palace.

"I'll never cross that!" moaned Richard.

He kicked unhappily at the heavy chain that held the drawbridge. Instantly the chain snapped in two and the bridge came screeching down.

Richard ran across. He ran on and on. He was too afraid of what lay behind him to be afraid of the dark unknown ahead.

He ran through fields and woods. He ran all through the night. When it was morning he slumped down on a log in a forest. He put his head down on his knees. He thought he might as well stay there and die because he'd been a failure all his life and he would never get to Santa Claus for help.

Suddenly he felt a hand on his shoulder. He threw up his arms in terror. But it was only an old woman who stood beside him. She was holding an axe.

"Come, lad," she said. "Let me help you."

"Oh," blurted Richard, "if only you could! I must get to Santa Claus. Can you show me the way?"

"Santa Claus!" cried the old woman. "Why, children don't go to Santa Claus, son. He comes to you. By and by it will be Christmas and if you've been a good boy Santa will bring you all you ask for. You must be patient and in the kingdom who doesn't do his wait."

He ran through the woods the entire night.

"I can't wait!" protested Richard.

"I must see him now!"

"What is it you want so badly?"

asked the old woman.

"Wisdom and courage," whispered Richard.

The old woman stared unbelievably at him.

"You see," explained Richard,

"I am a prince but I am not a proper prince for I am always afraid and I am stupid. King Ignatz plans to conquer my father's kingdom and I don't know how to save it." He swallowed hard and finished in a small voice. "They say Santa Claus can do anything so I thought perhaps he could help me."

The old woman thought awhile.

Then she said, "Over in the next forest there is someone who talks to witches and goblins. Perhaps she could tell you how to get to Santa Claus."

"Oh, take me to her," begged Richard.

"Alas, I can't. I must chop kindling wood. It is my job and King Ignatz says he will hang anyone

"How much wood must you chop?" asked Richard.

"Every day I must fill three bushel baskets. It is very hard for one like me and takes me from dawn to dark."

"I'll do it!" cried Richard.

He snatched the axe from the old woman's hands and swung at the nearest tree. In one stroke it was down and in a few more strokes it was chopped to kindling wood.

Richard ran to another tree. In a few minutes he had felled a dozen trees and split them into little pieces.

The amazed old woman clasped Richard's arm. "That's enough for 200 baskets. I'll not have to work again for months. Come now and I will take you to the one who talks to witches."

Richard threw down the axe and followed the old woman through the forest.

Replace Red, Green
on Decorations

CHICAGO (INS) — If you plan to deck the halls with holly for Christmas, spray the decorations white, gold or silver.

Red and green may be traditionally merry but these other hues are more stylish, judging from 1957 Yuletide decorations introduced in Chicago.

In fact, red and green seldom were teamed together on wall and door arrangements designed for the holiday season. On gilt wreaths and sprays, designers scattered red and white ornaments. On silver or white models, designers chose red and gold or silver and blue combinations for ornaments.

In table trees, most style leaders kept a white background although a few pale aqua and pink trees peeped out amid white "forests." Instead of using glittering ball ornaments, designers scattered red, pink and pale green paper butterflies or birds on trees.

The most formal Yuletide tree was five feet, five inches high with a gilded base; candelabra trimmed with hanging crystal pendants and white-sprayed holly glittering with glitter and would like vine leaves.

Ornaments this year are prettier than ever, but some will be a disappointment to the small fry set. Some new ornaments are made of soap — shaped like French poodles, clowns, fish and kittens.

Workers Selling Firm Bonus Shares

LONDON — Efforts of Imperial Chemical Industries — a leading British firm—to give its workers a feeling of ownership in the business has been "a big failure," London reports.

The company gave its 140,000 workers 1,157,522 bonus shares worth $2.80 each. But half of them or more prefer to own TV sets and luxury goods. They have sold their holdings—20 and 40 shares—to stockbrokers and gone on a spending spree.

They by-passed the firm's savings bank where facilities were offered for looking after the shares. So big was the rush that one broker put up a notice: "I.C.I. shares cannot be cashed until further notice because the staff has to catch up with their work."

The broker said: "I think more than half the I.C.I. workmen must have cashed their shares. The men just don't understand their value."

South Carolina Police Studying Psychology

CHICAGO—According to the International City Managers' Association, police in Aiken, S. C. are learning psychology to help them understand motives and work on crime prevention as well as law enforcement.

One aim of the course being taught by the department's consulting psychologist is to promote a better understanding of psychotics, psychoneurotics, dope addicts, alcoholics, sex offenders, and the mentally retarded.

Ex-Master Believes Youth Too Ambitious

JOHANNESBURG — Young people are too ambitious these days, in the opinion of Dr. J. H. Symonds, a former Australian schoolmaster now living in Johannesburg, South Africa.

"They must think they will stay young forever, the way they spend all their time working," he says. "Some young fellows I know allow themselves only one night a week off from their studies. One is young for maybe only 4,000 days. Why waste them? Where are the fresh-faced plump girls one used to see everywhere? Women nowadays have a lean, hard look, because they are determined to outshine their menfolk.

"Boys used to be broad and masterful. Now all one sees are stringy youngsters who may be brilliant but never look quite adult."

Rome Police Plunge on Low Necklines

ROME—Tourists who wore too little during a heatwave in Rome were officially warned by Italian police that they were "dressed most improperly." The police announced that all immodestly dressed tourists would be requested to return to their hotels and don more modest attire, or be prosecuted.

Frequent complaints by Romans have been received "about the increasing immodesty of some tourists' clothing," the authorities said. This has given rise to discussion as to how tourists should be treated in the future—in view of their value to the Italian economy. It is being pointed out in some quarters that dress censorship of any kind is rare nowadays in most countries.

Offer University Work Near Home

Junior Colleges Sprouting All Over U.S.

CALIFORNIA'S NEWEST — The administration building makes a modern background for these students at Cerritos Junior College, still building on a 95-acre campus. Its president holds the "willingness of high school graduates to attend a junior college is greatly improved when it has its own campus, facilities and faculty."

By HERMAN R. ALLEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — "How immense the gain if a youth could remain at the high school, residing in his home until a point near the end of the university sophomore year, to go over all the studies a boy ought to study. Then let the boy, grown to be a man, emigrate to the university..."

President William Watts Folwell of the University of Minnesota said that in 1869.

So the "modern" idea of the junior college isn't so new as you might think.

Even before Folwell spoke, in fact — in 1852 — Lasell Junior College at Auburndale, Mass., was offering two years of standard college work.

In 1900 there were eight junior colleges in the United States. By 1930 there were 200, 10 years later nearly 500. Today the number approaches 650. Three out of five are public institutions, charging modest — if any — tuition fees.

With no end in sight to the horde of youth clamoring at the gates of America's higher education plant, the junior college seems to many educators to be the way out.

"A life preserver for higher education," says G. Robert Koopman, Michigan's associate state superintendent of education.

Boistering Koopman's view is the surging enrollment of the junior colleges, far more spectacular than their growth in numbers.

Since half of all those who start college work never get beyond the sophomore year, the weed-out service performed for the four-year institutions by the home-town junior college is obvious. The saving to the upper division schools in terms of dormitories is tremendous.

Junior colleges are quick to deny, however, that their main function is to relieve pressure on the four-year schools.

Surveys in New York state and Florida indicate that 60 per cent or more of high school seniors who had not planned to go to college (finances were the biggest single reason) would change their plans if a junior college were located within commuting distance.

Basically, junior colleges see themselves as performing four jobs:

1. To provide the first two years of college work for students who will later transfer to a four-year college or university.

2. To provide two-year "terminal" courses — often technical in nature — for students who plan to go no farther.

3. To help working people "upgrade" themselves to better jobs by study in technical fields.

4. To reopen the fountain of knowledge to adults whose education was cut short and who now want to study literature, French, philosophy to satisfy intellectual hungers.

It is the adult education function of the two-year school that is beginning to make the term "community college" — or just plain "college" — more popular than "junior college."

Sixteen states now have full or part-time directors of junior college education. The U. S. Office of Education has had a specialist in the field since 1948 and Sen. Chase (R-NJ) has introduced a bill providing 250 million dollars in federal money over five years, to be matched by the states, for junior college construction.

Junior college needs and possibilities are being surveyed in many states. A preliminary report in Michigan, which now has 14 public and two private junior colleges, proposes that 23 more be built.

Pinhole Faucet Leak Costs $24.14 Yearly

CHICAGO — According to the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau, a pinhole leak in a faucet can waste about 95,000 gallons of water in a year.

At a representative rate charge of $1.90 per 1,000 cubic feet, this means a $24.14 loss to the property owner.

In New York City alone, the bureau found, some 200,000,000 gallons of water a day are wasted by leaking faucets and valves.

Mynah birds, which come from Thailand, can talk and whistle and live to be 30 years old.

Tanks Lack Insulation

MILTON, Pa. — High-pressure tank cars are being built for the first time without a thick blanket of insulation. The cars, produced in Milton, were approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission after tests showed insulation was no longer necessary. The result is lighter, shorter cars with greater load capacity for size of trucks.

Men Shoppers Wait Till Last

Choose Gifts Quickly, Pick Personal Things: Need Hint From Wife!

NEW YORK (NEA)—There are two types of male Christmas shoppers. Those who haven't the vaguest idea what they want to buy. And those who know exactly what they want.

And neither rain, nor sleet, nor snow will keep them from doing their Christmas shopping on Christmas Eve.

"It breaks my heart to see men shopping a day or two before Christmas," sniffs a personal shopper for a large department store.

"But one consolation," she adds having composed herself. "They generally make up their minds quickly. A man will stride into a store decked in Yuletide glitter and often buy the first thing he sees."

"They see something and say, 'Yes, that's it.'"

"But women will see something they like . . . and then want to see 10 other items to make sure they are getting what they really want."

What does the average man buy as a Christmas gift? Generally something personal. They buy handbags and especially enjoy giving lovely housecoats and negligees.

With a wife yearning for a sniff of the latest Paris perfume, her husband usually doesn't take the hint. They seem to feel it is an ordinary gift to give.

"A pair of expensive gloves also makes an ideal gift, but few men think to purchase them," Santa's little helper continues.

And, men, don't forget the housewares and home furnishings departments in that spirit to beat Santa down the chimney. Many housewives would appreciate a nice gift for the home.

With this advice our shopper burst into a pious carol: "And so, with a flick of the billfold male shoppers are off and away, to come back as surely another day . . . before Christmas."

Give Living Fir Plenty of Water

If you get a living Christmas tree this year, do remember that like any house plant it requires plenty of water. Otherwise you might as well, or better, have a cut tree.

A secret of making a living tree worthwhile is to plant it as soon after Christmas as possible. Common among the living trees are Norway spruce, Scotch pine and balsam firs. They grow large and should not be used as foundation plantings.

In setting them out, select a well drained site, dig a pit considerably larger than the earth ball, and tamp in plenty of good top soil mixed with peat moss or compost.

Police Trace Light Bill From Crime to Burglar

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — Sheriff Ford Vance said officers investigating a burglary found on the floor the electric light bill of

Matthew Magee, 42, of 614 South 6th St.

They went to that address and arrested Magee who admitted the burglary but couldn't explain how he happened to leave his light bill on the scene.

ADA, Okla. — When officers went to the home of Smithy Lewis to arrest him for failing to provide

Order Enlistees to Shine Soles? 'NO!' Says Army

FT. DIX, N.J. (AP)—The Army is investigating reports that some spit 'n' polish enlistees are going so far as to shine the bottoms of their shoes.

A statement issued here emphasized that this was not Army policy. The situation stems from a letter published in the New York Daily News and signed "Mad Mom." The letter writer said her son had been ordered to shine the soles of his shoes at this Army post.

Col. Albert Gange, Ft. Dix public information officer, said the Army had noted the letter and was trying to get to the bottom of the matter.

Originality Pays Off for Stranded Student

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Goldberg, 21, senior at City College of New York, now maintains that unconventional originality does pay off.

Goldberg, who resides in Brooklyn, has been having his troubles getting to classes because of the subway strike.

On Tuesday, he and a chum set out for Manhattan in an outboard motor boat. Cruising around part of Coney Island, they proceeded up New York Bay to the Hudson River and docked at 125th Street. Goldberg was early for an 8 a. m. class.

Yesterday the student tried getting here by Staten Island ferry and bus. He was 15 minutes late for his 8 o'clock class.

Hollywood Casualness Extends to Broadway

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Hollywood's passion for casual clothes is extending to Broadway, evidently... I was backstage the other night when a guy came in wearing a pulled-down brown cap which was conspicuously unchic.

"Hi," he said, and I said "Hi" back. I figured he was the delivery boy from the nearby lunch counter.

He started hanging around Rosemary Clooney—with his cap off—and I realized it was her husband, Jose Ferrer, in from California and just looking outdoorsy.

Rosemary asked Steve Allen what to get Joe for Christmas.

"What do you buy for a genius?" she pleaded.

"I saw your husband—and I would buy him a haircut," Steve answered. "But," Mrs. Ferrer replied, "I can't buy him the same thing every year!"

Jill Corey, the Hit Parader, is around with Bob Evans, the teatime-movie actor, but she says: "I haven't gone steady since I was 14."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

I love Dody Goodman, but her odd-ball addictions have hurt her with their letters to columnists smearing Jack Parr... Diana Dors is selling her London properties, plans to live here... Tony Perkins is dating a Brooklyn high school beauty.

Zsa Zsa Gabor can't break old habits—she's dating ex-husband George Sanders... George Burns is doing an album tagged "Songs I Like to Hear Me Sing."

EARL'S PEARLS: Big people discuss ideals; average people discuss things; small people discuss other people.—Hannover (Kans.) News. That's earl, brother. (Copyright 1957)

Scrubbed for Naught, Young Columnist Writes

YORK, Pa. (AP) — Max V. Pickel Jr., a fifth grader, contributed this news story to a column for school children in the York Dispatch.

After relating that he and his father spent the day flying model airplanes, Max reported:

"When we came home it was time to go to evening church. My mother made me take a bath. But when I was done, it was too late to go to church. So I had taken a bath for nothing."

FORT THOMAS, Ky. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy who lost his right eye after an accident feels he is really lucky.

But the lad is glad it wasn't his good one. The eye removed has been sightless since birth.

Children Enjoy Trimming Tree

The Decoration May Be Crooked, but Their Joy Is Most Important

DALLAS, Tex. (INS) — Don't push the little children aside in the rush of Christmas decorating and baking.

Even if the tinsel isn't straight on the tree, the bows on the packages perfect or the cookies cut in true shapes, you'll find a lot of extra Christmas joy in the imperfections.

The time you spend helping the youngsters bring Christmas spirit into the house will slow down your preparations, sure, but won't you need slowing down?

All children like to make Christmas cookies, and they proudly point out to grandparents and guests which ones they decorated.

Let them help with the cutting—most are pretty adept using presses or the simple little forms to cut the rolled dough — and little fingers can sometimes lift the cut cookies into a baking sheet more successfully than adult ones.

Decorating is most important, and simple, too, if you use the shaker-type colored sugars, nonpareils and chocolate chips available in most grocery stores. These are usually put on before the cookies are baked.

Easy-to-handle icings will also keep little hands busy, and the addition of nut meats or a cherry to the top of a cookie is a special joy to a child.

When it comes to decorating the tree, put the lights on yourself because they can be dangerous in the hands of the inexperienced. The children can sit back and guide you, telling you where to place this green light and that red one.

Then give them the ornaments, and finally the tinsel and let their consciences be their guides — if the tree is too lopsided you can switch things around after they are in bed.

But be careful not to do too much changing because they will be sure to notice a certain pretty ornament is not where they put it.

Wall decorations, tree cutouts and Christmas cards can be easily duplicated by children if you make the original of a simple pattern. Use colored paper or let them color it with finger or poster paints.

Glitter, applied with a special glue, and snow in an aerosol can, are easily handled and make the eyes, as well as the decorations, take on added sparkle.

Old People Doomed in Refugee Camps

CALCUTTA — So severe have conditions become among displaced persons in some of India's refugee camps that Red Cross workers have adopted a new policy — "just to keep them alive."

At Sealdah, near Calcutta, where there are over 4,500 people, doctors say that continued undernourishment has made many refugees unresponsive to medical treatment. Deaths are reported to be about 12 a day — half of them children.

Distress is so acute and the desire to survive so keen that able-bodied members of refugee families have abandoned their relatives observers say.

There have been cases when food distributed to old ailing persons has been snatched from them, with the explanation that there was no use wasting food, so scarce, on old people.

Conductor on Tracks Caused Quite a Stir

COLUMBUS, Neb. (AP) — When operating manager Howard Erickson of the Nebraska Public Power System learned that a piece of electric transmission line was lying across a railroad track he promptly reported to the railroad in correct power terminology:

"There's a conductor lying across your tracks."

The railroad people, who have a different meaning for the term conductor, were considerably more concerned about the report.

Natural Explanations for Star Magi Followed

In the mysteries of the heavens lie three possible explanations from modern astronomers for the dazzling Star of Bethlehem. The Bible says the Star appeared suddenly and led the Magi to the manger in Bethlehem.

If the Star was not supernatural, it might be explained by any one of three natural stellar events. The three are all possible explanations produced in years of study by astronomers considering the Christmas story.

One, it might have been a supernova. Suddenly a faint or even invisible star explodes in force equal to billions of atom bombs. The exploding star glows brilliantly for a time, then slowly dies down to its former insignificance or less.

Two, it might have been a comet, a speeding visitor from outer space.

Three, it could have been an unusual conjunction or apparent nearness of two or even three planets, which shone brilliantly for a time, and which seemingly moved across the skies.

PLENTY DEBATE
Historically, astronomers have produced arguments for and against each of these possibilities.

New-born stars and supernovae are not uncommon among the billions upon billions of stars in the universe.

They appear suddenly to our vision, when the light from the cosmic explosion reaches earth, and could be interpreted as a new and entirely strange and meaningful star. But a supernova would be relatively fixed in the background of stars, not move as readily or rapidly as the Star of Bethlehem moved.

A new and brilliant comet, brighter than the Arend-Roland comet of last spring, could have been the Bethlehem Star.

But such comets are generally seen widely over the world, not merely in one quarter or area.

The arrival of a new comet probably would have been recorded by astronomers of the day somewhere in the world. Too, comets generally are popularly thought to be omens of disaster rather than of joyous events.

TRIPLE DISPLAY?
Perhaps, say the astronomers, the Star could have been a conjunction of the planets Jupiter and Saturn as they passed one another in our skies.

Even Mars, the red planet, could have joined them at the time of the birth of Christ in a close configuration for a brief time triple display and seemingly new phenomenon.

Knowledge and concepts of astronomy in times long past, and some beliefs then in astrology, all complicate efforts fully to explain the Star of Bethlehem as a natural or supernatural.

COOKING habits will perk up. Hostess has electric fry pan and 10-cup coffeemaker in kitchen.

30 Million Homes to Show Outdoor Lights This Yule

CHICAGO (INS) — This Christmas is bound to be bright — outdoors as well as indoors.

According to Albert V. Sadacca, an outdoor lighting expert, more than 30 million American homes will be lighted with outdoor electric displays for the Yuletide season.

Sadacca, head of a firm manufacturing decorative lighting equipment in Chicago, says outdoor living during balmy weather is responsible for his prediction of brightly lighted Christmas decorations this year. He said:

"More homes than ever before are equipped with outdoor electrical outlets, thanks to the trend for barbecues and patio parties."

Besides doorway trimmings, Sadacca recommends a new hospitality idea for the Yuletide season: illuminating exterior stair-pavements.

Seen as Weapons Against Fire

Missiles Have Forest Uses

By JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Plans are taking shape to use missiles to battle forest fires.

Forestry Service officials believe the development of an unmanned aerial weapon which could be loaded with special fire extinguishing chemicals would provide a powerful defense against the annual costly timber glazes.

Already meetings have been held between the Forestry Service and missile manufacturers concerning the project. And Merle S. Lowden, director of Forestry's division of fire control, declares, "I think the idea has definite possibilities."

Lowden says the Forestry Service's use of the air weapon hinges on the development of an economically practical, short range missile and the right kind of chemical with which to arm it. It will be up to further research to determine whether the weapon will be a guided or unguided ballistic-type missile.

The fire control official believes it could best be used to help knock out small fires in remote areas before they expand into raging infernos.

The problem of stopping fires from spreading in distant mountainous regions is one of the main reasons for the growing emphasis being placed on airpower by DFC officials.

Plans for the anti-blaze missile are only one example of their constant efforts to find new ways to fight fire from the sky.

The most dramatic new tactic used by the Forestry Service's rapidly growing air arm is a low level liquid bombing technique. Planes loaded with a special chemical mixture swoop down to between 50 and 150 feet above a forest fire. Then they open their bomb bay doors and drench the burning area with the flame smothering liquid.

Although this does not guarantee that the fire is out for good, it's a big help in delaying the onslaught of flames until ground crews arrive to finish the job.

These operations require the highest degree of flying skill and split second timing. Sometimes bombing attacks must be made inside a canyon. Minor miscalculations of speed and distance could cause the pilots to crash into the rocky canyon walls. Tall timber surrounding the fire area is also a serious menace.

Another job for aircraft is to help prevent lightning fires. Extensive work has been done recently on spotting and tracking storm clouds by radar. When these clouds are detected, a plane is dispatched to seed them with another special chemical solution. Under proper conditions this will cause the clouds to break up, thereby hindering the occurrence of lightning.

Helicopters have proved to be an invaluable aid to the fire fighters. They are used to lay hundreds of feet of fire hose across rough terrain and to deliver workers to the scene of a blaze.

Plans are in the mill to perfect a precision liquid bombing technique for the whirlybirds.

When thick clusters of trees prevent helicopters from landing firemen, a call may be sent out for smoke jumpers. Throughout the years these highly trained, specially equipped parachute teams have played an extremely important and hazardous part in combating forest fires.

Planes also are used to patrol forests in order to spot fires as soon as they break out. And last year a million and a half tons of fire equipment and more than 15,000 workers were airlifted in timber saving operations.

Right now the Forestry Service owns about 30 planes and one helicopter. Many additional aircraft are obtained from commercial agencies which have contracts with the government.

Although the Forestry Service has used planes to some extent for about 40 years, recent events in the nation's forests have sparked the increased use of air power.

Record timber production and the mushrooming tourist business have skyrocketed the chances of fires breaking out. The speed and maneuverability of airplanes make them ideal weapons with which to meet these problems.

Texas has a gross area of 365,896 square miles.

7,500 Compete for College Scholarships

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Merit Scholarship Corp. has announced names of 7,500 semifinalists in the third annual competition of high school seniors for scholarships worth a total of four million dollars.

The list includes 320 students in Michigan.

The semifinalists outscored some 300,000 classmates in a college board examination and will compete at testing centers throughout the country on Jan. 11. At least 7,000 of the semifinalists are expected to survive the second hurdle and make a bid for the 800 merit scholarships.

The last phase of the competition is an evaluation of the pupils' high school grades, extra-curricular attainments and their leadership and character. Those who do not win scholarships will receive certificates of merit. Scholarship selections will be made around May 1.

Merit scholars choose their own college and course of study. The value of each of the four-year scholarships varies with the financial need of the individual.

Air Force Atlas Gets Tryout; Firing Hinted

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The engine of the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile was given a tryout yesterday—a possible indication the mighty rocket will be fired from here soon.

The Air Force said in Washington the engine was put through a static test. It was tied down and run at high thrust to test its performance. Such tests usually precede the actual firing of a missile.

Billows of white smoke were seen by watchers on the beach. It was the second such spectacle in two days. Tuesday's smoke display also may have been caused by an Atlas static firing.

Two unsuccessful efforts have been made to send the Atlas over the 5,000-mile course it is designed to cover. On each occasion, the missile faltered and was destroyed in flight soon after being launched.

Blind Youngsters Feted

winner, ranging from $100 a year, averaging $2,000 per scholar to help defray the actual costs of educating the students.

The program was established in 1955 through grants of 20% million dollars from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corp. of New York. More than 60 business and industrial firms as well as professional societies, foundations and individuals sponsor the scholarships.

NATO in Dilemma Since Its Creation as Nature of War Continues to Change

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—NATO has been in a dilemma almost since it was born. It was created to meet one kind of war. But the nature of the war changed and kept changing.

President Eisenhower isn't expected to solve the dilemma when he goes into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's meeting next Monday in Paris.

NATO was created in April 1949 as a loose collection of Western nations, including this country, which promised to help each other if Russia attacked. At that time Russia had no atomic bomb or nuclear weapons.

The West had the advantage. The United States had the bomb. The Europeans could hold back a Russian attack until American bombers went to work. That was the original idea.

Within a few months, NATO faced a new problem: On Sept. 23, 1949, Russia had developed the atomic bomb. Within another four years it had the hydrogen bomb. The original conception of war in Europe—if it came—was gone.

Western Europe now faced possible annihilation from Russia if war started. It was frightening. But Russia drove the loose-knit NATO partners into a full military alliance by letting the Korean War start in 1950.

Blocked in Western Europe—at least temporarily—Russia began political and economic penetration of Asia and the Middle East while talking peace.

The NATO dilemma began in earnest: How could it counter Russian progress in other areas, particularly the Middle East which is Europe's oil source? NATO hasn't found an answer to that yet. It's still struggling to find one.

NATO is run by the foreign ministers of its 15 member nations. They meet once or twice a year. They've had 21 meetings so far.

The day-by-day chores of NATO are handled by their representatives who have the title of ambassador.

The problems facing some of those meetings show some of the dilemma.

Until 1955 Secretary of State Dulles had been warning the main danger from Russia was military. In that year he began to shift his thinking. At the December 1955 meeting he said the main threat was political and economic.

But that meeting produced no solution. By the time of the next get-together in May 1956—there was a developing feeling in the West that NATO was outdated and should find a new role. There was even fear NATO might collapse.

Dulles at that meeting last year said it was time to "advance NATO" in the direction of planning and supporting "more economic development throughout the world." He called for a new program to meet the Communist challenge on the political and economic planes, as well as the military.

That program hasn't emerged yet.

Next week at Paris Eisenhower and Dulles are expected to dwell more on the military problems than on the economic.

By the time of the NATO meeting in December 1956, more changes had occurred: Britain and France shocked their NATO partners by attacking Egypt without consulting them. It raised a ghost which bothered them and still bothers them.

Perhaps someday one of the NATO members would get into a shooting war which might be outside of Europe but nevertheless would quickly develop into war in Europe through Soviet retaliation.

And Russia shocked Western Europe too in 1956: by warning Britain it could be pulverized by Soviet missiles—clear warning to all Europe that Russia had or soon would have weapons that could span the Continent swiftly.

And the nature of the future war was changing: NATO began thinking less in terms of a lot of men in uniform and more in terms of nuclear weapons. Western Europe, by this very idea, had something else to think of.

With the exception of Britain, which had developed its own bomb, Western Europe was lying between two nuclear giants: Russia and the United States. It was being, it might be, goodby Europe.

If the allies let America use their territory for missile bases, and war started, Russia would hit Western Europe fast. Russia left no doubt of it: It warned it would "liquidate" countries which became American missile platforms.

Now comes Monday's meeting. NATO hasn't worked out yet a program to meet the Russian political and economic challenge elsewhere. And some of the NATO partners are having military misgivings: they don't want American missile bases inside their borders. This meeting may end like many before it: with big problems unanswered.

Man Painting Home Even After Midnight

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Tom Maxwell has yielded to the entreaties of his wife and children and is painting the house, even though he has to do it after midnight. "My wife Marie said she wouldn't do any decorating for Christmas until I painted the house," Maxwell explained to a reporter who found him painting at 4 a.m. "I work as a market manager until midnight, but I've simply got to finish this job, what with my wife and four kids after me."

"How long has your wife been after you to paint the place?" asked the reporter. "About a year and a half."

French Kill 78 Rebels

ALGIERS (AP)—French authorities today reported 78 Algerian rebels were killed in a battle with French army forces near the town of Boknia, in eastern Algeria. Prisoners and a large store of rebel ammunition were captured in the battle. Army officials said 25 the battle.

Building Costs Up, but Volume Static

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation spent $4,114,000,000 for new construction last month, a new record for November and 4 per cent higher than the same month of last year.

A joint report by the Labor and Commerce Departments said preliminary estimates show that on a seasonally adjusted basis, last month's outlays for new construction were at an annual rate of 48½ billion dollars.

A Commerce Department official noted, however, that this year's increase over 1956 is all or practically all due to rising prices and not to actual volume of work put in place.

While the money spent is up about 2 per cent over last year, the cost index is up about 3 per cent. Thus, he said, actual work done would be about the same or more likely—down a bit from 1956.

Private construction spending dropped 4 per cent from October to November and public spending was down by 17 per cent. Despite these decreases, normal at this time of the year, the totals for both private and public construction were at new November highs.

MOVED, SECONDED, PASSED — Young guests at the annual Christmas party in the chambers of the Colorado House of Representatives waste no time getting to the main item on the agenda: Christmas presents.

Colorado Statehouse Clerk Throws Big Yule Parties

DENVER (AP) — You think you have a tough job with your Christmas list? Then consider the case of tall, dark-haired Lee Matties who makes a year-around career of meeting Christmas list problems, and others, for more than 300 orphans, underprivileged and handicapped children.

She is chief clerk of the Colorado House of Representatives. The 300 youngsters are only a portion of those she would like to invite to her annual Christmas party held each year in the House chamber.

Selection of the guests for the annual Christmas party is a major problem for the sprightly Miss Matties, who has been helping unfortunate youngsters — in season and out — for 17 years.

"I hate the thought that everybody who yearns to attend can't—but we do what we're able."

The party has been growing spectacularly since 1952. That was the year the Colorado lawmakers first took an interest in Miss Matties' "kids" after hearing her rave about them for years. Now, their contributions get just a little larger each year. Lobbyists contribute to the party and gift fund. Other statehouse employees add their bit.

How does she know what each of her "kids" want? "I know every one of them," is her answer. "Why, I take 100 children from the state home to church every Sunday, for one thing."

The Colorado governor has been a regular attendant at the gay festivities and picks a child for a personal gift.

But the greatest gifts of all have been permanent homes with real parents for some of Miss Matties' kids. Several members of the legislature and others who have seen the festivities on TV have adopted some of the party guests.

Claims Michigan Overtaxes Firms

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Sen. Geerlings (R-Holland) told a Grand Rapids audience Tuesday preliminary tax studies in Michigan indicate that business taxes are almost double what they are in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois.

He criticized Gov. Williams' taxation of business, saying the program was carried to a point where industry is looking to other states for expansion. Geerlings heads the Michigan tax study committee.

"This policy of Williams' could lead only to economic ruin and loss of job opportunities," Geerlings told members of Michigan for Americans.

"Taxing business out of proportion for state expenditures gives citizens the false impression that they are receiving state expenditures at no cost to themselves. In reality, every time the Legislature passed a new business tax the cost of living in Michigan went up another notch."

Sand Lake Man Dies

SAND LAKE (AP) — Funeral service will be held today for Frank J. Otterbacher, retired Sand Lake postmaster and auto dealer who died Monday at St. Mary's Hospital in Grand Rapids. Otterbacher, 74, was Sand Lake village assessor at the time of his death.

Think of Present's Usefulness

Pick Your Yule Gifts to Fit the Receiver

Wish your newsboy, maid, elevator operator, the milkman, breadman or service station attendant a merry Christmas, with a gaily wrapped and ribboned present.

JUST LIKE DAD'S — Button-down collar adds style note to lad's sleep togs. Bold stripes set off washable flannel.

A newsboy saves wear and tear on his pockets with a new change purse for his collections. Or he would be proud to show friends a new bicycle accessory.

If the office boy is a record collector, hi-fi discs of his favorite artists are in line. Or an inexpensive record rack in brass-plate, turquoise, pink or wrought iron black fits his hobby. The racks hold 55 records of all sizes.

LIKES TO ENTERTAIN

So the milkman is studying acting. It's possible! Or he just likes to entertain family and friends with his tape recorder. Include a pre-recorded tape with the morning milk bottle note.

Flatter hard-bitters on the golf course with balls designed to take punishment, such as Colt's new "Gold" golf balls. Spalding has a useful gift box of golf balls. On top is a reproduction of the 10th hole of the Augusta National, painting by Erwin Barrie.

Fish haven't a chance next season. Watch fish tales grow with each catch a fisherman makes with a fish-finder thermometer. The temperature of the water determines the depth at which fish most often will be found. Reading the thermometer, an angler knows whether to fish shallow, medium or deep.

Shopping for the boss takes many office skull sessions. An African oak cigar humidor or black and brass horse pen-and-holder set will add touches of useful elegance to his desk.

CARRYALL — To slip into Christmas stocking is this hooded bag. For items a woman likes to have along.

Son's lawn-cutting chores pay off during the holiday season. A new five-transistor, cordless radio by Philco will keep him posted on game scores or new records. To solve his curiosity, it is run by four mercury cells, the type used in small hearing aids.

Femininity and fragrance go together. Scented sachets, bath oils or soaps shouldn't be overlooked. From Spain, for example, there is Maja soap that blends rose, jasmine and orange blossom fragrances. It comes in intriguing black wrappings with a dancing senorita motif.

Hot Item, Cold Excuse

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Police arrested a man here on charges of possessing stolen property. The man contended he bought the property, an electric refrigerator. Police testified his house wasn't wired for electricity.

2,816 Gone Geese!

ALLEGAN (AP) — Conservation records showed that goose hunters in the Swan Creek and Fennville areas took a total of 2,816 birds, mostly Canada geese, in the season which ended last Monday.

The $2.01-a dollar of which was contributed by Joe—was the agency's first private gift.

Teacher Reinstated After Wielding Broom

DETROIT — A substitute Detroit school teacher who admitted using a broom handle to discipline students has been reinstated by School Supt. Samuel M. Brownell. The teacher is Gene Kucharski, 25, who was suspended after parents of disciplined youths complained. Brownell said the reinstatement was made after the prosecutor's office refused to issue a warrant against Kucharski and after a thorough review of his record as a substitute teacher at 16 schools.

Cockroach Powder 'Flour' Fatal to Two

CHICAGO — Two young sisters were reported in critical condition today, authorities said, poisoned by cockroach powder that also caused the death of a 2-year-old brother and a 54-year-old baby sister.

Police said the cockroach powder was mistakenly used for flour in preparing a chicken dinner last night.

The baby sister, Finis Kittinger, and the boy, Roger Van Horne, both died four hours after eating.

Van Horne's two sisters, Deborah, 3 and Susan, 1, were taken to a hospital.

A hospital official said the children had only slim chances of pulling through.

Kittinger was taking care of the children while their mother Darlene, 24, was at work. Police said the father, Duane, 28, does not live with the family.

Mrs. Van Horne said she arrived home just as Kittinger was serving the meal. Shortly thereafter, the mother took a small bite of the chicken and complained about the taste.

She was not affected by the meal.

5 Burn to Death in Kentucky Fire

Firemen Fighting Blaze in Infirmary Hindered by Extreme Cold

BARDSTOWN, Ky. — Five persons burned to death today when a fire destroyed the Nelson County Infirmary five miles outside this whisky distilling center.

Three other occupants of the building were carried to safety by the superintendent, Parkland Hibbs.

Firemen, fighting the blaze in 10-degree temperature, were hindered by lack of water and by hoses stiffened by the cold.

The superintendent's wife explained the fire apparently started from a defective furnace. Workmen had been called out twice this week to repair it.

The blaze also destroyed a meat house and a wash house adjoining the main two-story building where the patients lived. The eight were the only occupants of the infirmary, used mainly to house elderly people.

The dead were identified as Mary Ellen Ethridge, 82; Alice Weaver, about 65; Mary Ellen Waters, 32, and her mother Ella Waters, about 55; and Thomas Bray, about 65.

Rescued were George Fields, Sam Nevitt, and Marion Smith, all three elderly men.

The Hibbs live just across a driveway from the main building. Hibbs saw the flames shooting from the main building. He called firemen then brought out three patients before the flames cut off all exits.

DETROIT — Louis Arnold, 65, of Detroit, was killed and a woman pedestrian injured yesterday when a passenger train struck a stalled automobile at a Grand Trunk Railroad crossing in suburban Hamtramck.

Mrs. Rose Kowalski, 31, suffered a fractured leg when the car was hurled against her by the impact.

A passenger in Arnold's car, Annie B. Henderson, 27, managed to leap to safety seconds before the vehicle was struck.

DETROIT — A substitute Detroit school teacher who admitted using a broom handle to discipline students has been reinstated by School Supt. Samuel M. Brownell. The teacher is Gene Kucharski, 25, who was suspended after parents of disciplined youths complained. Brownell said the reinstatement was made after the prosecutor's office refused to issue a warrant against Kucharski and after a thorough review of his record as a substitute teacher at 16 schools.

Hal Boyle Says:

Bahamas Ideal Locale to Build Small Empire

IN THE BAHAMAS — Did you ever yearn to carve out a new empire of your own? Or, at least to build a new town from scratch, designed as a perfect community to live in?

Most of us have these dreams at some time in our life—and usually we are lucky to wind up with a bungalow on a 50-foot lot, complete with 20-year mortgage. Here in the Bahamas, however, it is still fairly easy to build small empires or ideal communities fashioned after your heart's desire, and a number of people are doing it.

The requirement is simple. All you need is money—preferably several million dollars—and time.

As a multimillionaire gets older in most civilized countries, such as England and the United States, the problem of what to do with his money becomes more and more vexing. He can't take it with him. And, because of high inheritance taxes, he can't leave it to his family.

But there are no death taxes on real estate in the Bahamas. A multimillionaire can come here, have the fun of building a lush resort development, and know his investment will pass intact to his heirs.

This fact has led to the creation of half a dozen opulent tourist and residential oases in recent years. It also accounts for the tripling of Bahamian real estate values. Islands that could be bought for a song 30 years ago now can be had only for a big fat bundle of cash.

In 1951 Dr. Axel Wenner-Gren, the Swedish financier, took over 100,000 acres of land on Andros, largest island in the Bahamas. Since then he has poured an estimated six or seven million dollars into developing them.

He has built homes, a school, an airport, laid out farms, imported cattle, dredged a yacht harbor.

He has erected the luxurious club which attracts as guests such notable as Lord Beaverbrook, Defense Secretary Neil McElroy, Eleanor Holm, Faye Emerson, and baseball star Ted Williams.

Eventually, as transportation speeds up and population increases, the far-seeing financier foresees Andros as a community of thousands of expensive homes, a refuge for the retired wealthy who want to get away from it all. Since he has no children, the tax advantages mean less to Dr. Wenner-Gren himself.

Coral Harbour, a 3,000-acre development on New Providence Island, 12 miles from Nassau, is equally plush. It is owned by Mrs. Lindsey Hopkins Sr., Atlanta soft drink heiress. She has poured 2½ million dollars into it. About 1,000 homesites are available for prices ranging from $8,000 to $30,000—not including the house.

"We're going to go slow and take our time," said her son, Lindsey Hopkins Jr. "We want to make a real community and get the best people in the world here in the best place in the world."

"Florida has had it. The Bahamas are just coming into their own."

Like most of the multimillionaire operators here, the Hopkins family is unworried that they are pouring in money—and getting none out, as yet.

A resident here remarked: "The tax angle—the fact no death tax has to be paid on the value of these properties—assures them a saving on their investment in the long run. How can they lose?"

Salvaged Money Saves U.S. Millions Annually

WASHINGTON — In salvaging mutilated and charred currency, the Government's money handlers use tweezers, needles, blades, and magnifying glasses to reconstruct millions of dollars' worth of bills each year from bits and lumps of paper most people would think were junk.

In the Treasury's salvage system, two fifths of an original bill is worthless, between two fifths and three fifths brings half the face value, and three fifths and more full value.

'Try Not to Get Nipped'

Warns Against Frost Bite

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—The best relief for frostbite is not to get nipped in the first place, says the Minnesota Medical Assn.

An association prepared list of things to do during cold weather was greeted today by a sub-zero wave in Minnesota.

The physicians advised residents to dress in conformity, both with the slumping mercury and anticipated activities.

In short, people need less clothing in proportion to the outdoor exercise they plan.

If cheeks, ears, noses, fingers or toes are frostbitten, victims should be placed in a warm area and the affected part covered with a blanket or scarf.

The damaged areas may be bathed in lukewarm water, not hot. They should not be exposed to extreme heat, hot water bottles, radiators or heat lamps.

The group also warned against the once-accepted practice of seeking to restore the frostbitten spots by rubbing snow on them. Such treatment, it was explained may add to the damage of the freezing.

Plastic Cups Are Cheap

CHICAGO — A Chicago concern reports that it has developed a plastic cup priced to compete with paper cups in an attempt to widen the market for plastic products. The cup, made of a special heat-resistant plastic, holds 7 ounces and has a folding handle that locks in slip-proof grooves.

The Arab population of the world is now estimated at about 50 million.

TREE TWISTS — Now you can make little Christmas trees with cookie dough without going to the bother of rolling and cutting them. Ropes of a nutty oatmeal dough are twisted back and forth to make the trees. Each is sprinkled with colored sugar.

Twist Dough Into Tiny Trees

The holiday season induces everyone to turn toward the kitchen and try her hand at baking Christmas goodies. Here is a recipe that's sure to tempt every cook—novice or expert.

Tree Twists are dainty little cookies with rolled oats added to give them an extra nut-rich flavor. The shape of the cookies is especially unique! It's such fun to twist the rope of dough into the form of a tiny Christmas tree cookie. Just before popping the sheet of cookies into the oven, sprinkle colored sugar atop each one.

Have these little Tree Twists on hand to serve at your first holiday impromptu confab. They fairly glisten a friendly season's greeting!

Tree Twists
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon almond flavoring
1 cup sifted enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup ground unbleached almonds
1/2 cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
Decorations
Egg white, slightly beaten
Green and red colored sugar
Beat butter and almond flavoring until creamy. Sift together flour, salt and sugar. Add flour mixture, egg and ground almonds to butter; beat until thoroughly blended. Stir in rolled oats.
Turn dough out on a lightly floured board or canvas. Shape a tablespoon of dough at a time to form a 5-inch rope. On a greased cookie sheet, weave this rope back and forth to make a Christmas tree. Brush with egg white and sprinkle with red or green colored sugar. Bake in preheated oven (350 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes.

Eggnog Pudding Goes With Fruitcake

As a festive way to end holiday dinner, try Eggnog Pudding and old English style fruit cake from your grocer's ready-to-eat cake department. Slice fruit cake and serve with generous servings of Pudding. Here is the recipe for Eggnog Pudding:

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour
Dash of salt
2 tablespoons butter, melted
2 cups milk
2 beaten egg yolks
2 stiffly beaten egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup sifted almonds
Combine sugar, flour, salt, butter and milk, and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Gradually add mixture to egg yolks, stirring well, and cook 1 minute longer. Add vanilla and nutmeg; cool. Blend in beaten egg whites and almonds.

Why Not Duckling for Holiday Dinner?

Festive occasions call for special fare for guests or family. If you're looking for something different to fill the main spot on your holiday menu, why not serve roast duck? Golden brown duckling, plump with stuffing, garnished with orange slices—here's a platter that's really elegant.

Long Island Ducklings range in weight from 3 to 6 pounds. They are tender, high quality birds, quick frozen and table dressed for your convenience. To defrost a

Bacon Circles Sweetbreads

Often on leisurely weekends, a late morning brunch is the first meal of the day. For a heartier main course than that prepared for breakfast, serve sweetbreads baked in a bacon wrap.

In this recipe, the crisp, tangy flavored bacon is a pleasing contrast to the mild and delicate sweetbreads. Serve the meat rolls with tartar sauce.

Sweetbreads with Bacon
1 pound sweetbreads
Water
1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg slightly beaten
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
4 to 6 slices bacon
As soon as the sweetbreads come from the market, drop into boiling water to cover, add lemon juice and salt and simmer 20 to 30 minutes. Drain, chill in cold water and slip off membranes; cut out dark veins and thick connective tissues. Use at once or cover and refrigerate and use within 24 hours.

Cut sweetbreads into 4 to 6 serving-size pieces and dip into egg, then crumbs. Wrap each with a piece of bacon and fasten with a cocktail pick. Bake in a 425 degree oven 20 minutes to brown bacon. 4 servings.

Colorful Christmas Loaf Made With Pound Cake

To rival the first snowfall of the season, this Christmas cake is drizzled over with whipped cream and decorated with a green maraschino cherry Christmas tree. It is easily made from a loaf of bakers' pound cake.

Slice the cake horizontally into three equal-sized layers. Spread two layers with a filling of raspberry jam flavored with brandy and grated lemon rind. The whipped cream frosting is sweetened and flavored with brandy, too.

duckling, keep it in the refrigerator overnight, or place it under cool running water for about an hour. Once defrosted, it should be stuffed and roasted right away.

It's best to give the bird about 20 minutes to stand out of the oven before serving. The meat "sets" and carving is easier. Poultry shears are an added help to carving duckling.

With the legs pointing toward the carver, split the duckling in half lengthwise through the breast, and along the backbone, then divide crosswise just under the ribs. Or, if you use a steak knife and fork, remove the leg and thigh from each side of the duckling. Then cut the breast meat along the keel bone and lift the full half of breast from the bone.

A roast duckling will serve four people and is all dark meat. Any leftover meat may be used in the same ways as other poultry—in croquettes and soups.

DUCKLING WITH ORANGE-NUT STUFFING

Roast duckling according to directions on package.
Orange-Nut Stuffing:
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
3 cups dry bread crumbs, toasted
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 cups chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped pecans
Grated rind and juice of 1 orange
Pour melted butter or margarine over toasted bread crumbs. Add seasonings, celery, nuts, orange rind and juice. Toss lightly. Fill body cavity of duckling, being careful not to pack stuffing too tightly.

Note: Serve duckling with a garnish of orange slices topped with currant jelly.

'Spring' Chicken Can Be Served All Year

The day of "spring" chicken is past. Today, you can have spring chicken any time, says the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

Thanks to poultrymen who have bred a meatier, more tender bird that can be marketed earlier. Through research, growers now produce a fryer with less feed in less time. This is one reason why fryers will be offered at very reasonable prices during December. Another reason is that there are about 10 per cent more fryers than last December.

If you are interested in food costs, keep a sharp lookout on weekly fryer prices. You can serve "spring" chicken all through December.

Blushing Bartlett Pears

Peel, halve and core 6 fresh Bartlett pears. Stick 4 whole cloves in each half. Combine 1/2 cup sugar with 1/4 cup currant jelly, 1 cup water, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice. Bring to boiling point, add pear halves, cover and cook slowly until pears are tender. Serve with the turkey or as dessert with some of the syrup poured over each serving.

Fruit-Brittle Mix Is Tops

Always a part of the Christmas scene—peanut brittle and oranges. For holiday dessert toppings: Fold 1/4 cup crushed peanut brittle and 1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind into 1 cup whipped cream. Chill at least one hour before using. Serve over pumpkin, apple or mince pie. Top slices of fruit cake with the "whip," too.

Different! Cut apple rings about

June Bride Makes Yule Cookies

THE FIRST YEAR—Mrs. Glyn R. Stone of Lake Oakland, a June bride, is enjoying Christmas baking. Although she learned to cook at home, this is her first experience in her own home. She is making a number of Christmas cookies this year, trying things out, as it were.

Ask Peter Rabbit to Try These Buns

Current Puffs are quick to make, but they have all the flavor one looks for in a yeast bread. Serve 'em warm for Christmas brunch.

Soften 1 package yeast, compressed or dry, in $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry). Scald 1 cup milk. Add $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup shortening and 1 teaspoon salt. Cool to lukewarm.

Add 1 cup sifted enriched flour and beat well. Add softened yeast and 2 beaten eggs. Beat well. Add 1 cup currants and $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon vanilla extract. Mix. Add $2\frac{1}{4}$ cups sifted enriched flour to make a stiff batter. Beat thoroughly until light (about $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours).

Stir down and drop by spoonfuls into greased 2-inch muffin pans. Sprinkle with $\frac{1}{4}$ cup cinnamon sugar and $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped nuts, if desired. Let rise until light (about 20 minutes). Bake in moderate oven 375 degrees F. 20 to 25 minutes. Makes about 24 dozen 2-inch puffs.

Vary Fruit Layers in Salad

Try a lemon-flavored gelatin salad in layers for festive buffets: crushed pineapple in one part, diced cucumber in another, and cream cheese in the third; chill each layer before adding another. Or use chopped watercress and grapefruit sections to make a delicious aspic.

Canned Beefaroni Used in Meat Loaf

The loaf takes many forms in cooking lore. The meat loaf, bread loaf, fish loaf are all familiar sights. But here we have still another variation, one that is something new and thoroughly delicious: A beefaroni loaf. Beefaroni has been gaining great popularity as a thrifty fix-it-quick dish. Home makers find this flavorful canned combination of ground beef, macaroni and Italian sauce an extremely versatile dish that can be served in a variety of interesting ways.

For family meals it can be heated and served "as is" or it can be spooned into scooped out tomatoes or halves of green peppers. For a neighbors' get-together or a similar small buffet style party, serve it loaf style. It is so easy to fix.

Just stir three eggs into one cup of milk and add to the beefaroni, making sure to mix all together thoroughly. Next pour into a buttered loaf pan and dot with bits of butter. Bake the loaf in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about forty minutes or so. Turn the loaf out on a hot platter and garnish. Serve with green peas and hot dinner rolls. For dessert, angel food cake with a strawberry frosting accompanied by piping hot coffee.

Have you tried caraway seed in creamed onions, or crushed dill seed in cheese dishes?

Strong Coffee Used as Liquid in Bread

A tempting offering to holiday guests is thinly sliced Coffee Spice Loaf Bread. If desired, sprinkle the top of the loaf with sifted confectioners' sugar when cool.

Sift together 2 cup sifted enriched flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon ground cloves and $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon allspice. Cream together $\frac{1}{4}$ cup shortening and $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar until light and fluffy. Add 2 beaten eggs, beating well.

Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with $\frac{1}{4}$ cup strong coffee beverage. Bake in greased loaf pan $5\frac{1}{2} \times 9\frac{1}{2}$ inches in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Makes 1 loaf.

Broiled Fresh Grapefruit

Cut grapefruit in half, remove seeds and section. Sprinkle with light brown sugar, dot with butter or margarine and then drizzle a little almond extract over each half. Place under broiler until lightly browned, hot and sizzly.

Short Supply, Plus Cold Reflected in Higher Prices

'Tis the season to be jolly, and no doubt Christmas curds, gift shopping and Christmas cooking add to the season's festivity. Save time and stay jolly by making a market list and tentatively planning the family meals for the next week suggests the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawler.

THE MARKET SITUATION

Most retailers report that meat prices are generally higher than last week. Cold weather in southern states supplying many fresh winter vegetables has damaged some of these; has delayed others. Citrus supplies are large, and excellent supplies of bananas for the next four weeks make these fruits thrifty choices.

Large supplies of western apples, added to Michigan varieties keep them at an appealing price. More eggs are coming to market and generally, prices of large sizes are as much as three or four cents less per dozen.

PROTEIN FOODS—There are smaller supplies of beef and pork than during December of 1956. This explains why prices are higher than a year ago. Some retailers report that the number of cattle coming into market has been smaller than expected, yet supplies are ample to meet consumer demands.

If you are looking for beef cuts to stretch your meat dollars, look for ground beef, liver and blade chuck. Some stores have beef sales which you may wish to check.

Boston butt, rib-end loin roast, picnics, spareribs, bacon and sausage are pork items receiving most emphasis this week. When comparing price per serving, remember that Boston butt will serve 3 per pound, rib-end loin $2\frac{1}{2}$, picnics 2, spareribs 2, bacon 8, and sausage 4.

Hams are higher than last

A bride of last June—she was Jane Millard—Mrs. Stone is having lots of fun experimenting with various cookie recipes she got from her mother. She learned to cook before she was married.

Just about three weeks ago the Stones moved from an apartment in town to their own little home. It is like a doll house, with everything in order and everything new. There's a parakeet who's learning to talk, and next spring the nursery will have an occupant.

One of the cookie recipes Jane Stone is using this Christmas is one that contains cream cheese. You might try it too.

CREAM CHEESE COOKIES

By Mrs. Glyn R. Stone

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup shortening
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
1 egg, well beaten
2 cups sifted flour
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream shortening and cream cheese together; add sugar and cream well. Add rest of ingredients.

Drop by spoonfuls on ungreased cookie sheet. Press down with a fork. Sprinkle tops with colored sugar. Bake about 10 minutes at 350 degrees.

Keep eggs on your list of protein foods. Two large size eggs will alternate for a serving of meat. Eggs at breakfast give extra energy for the morning and early afternoon.

PRODUCE OFFERINGS—Golden citrus brightens the fruit counters. Juice oranges are in heavy supply; quality is excellent. Navel oranges are in lighter supply this year. Most Navel oranges are of medium size and prices are expected to be higher in January.

A large supply of bananas is arriving from Ecuador and prices are lower.

Northern Spy apples have a mellow, finer flavor now that some are coming out of storage. You will find Michigan Delicious apples about five cents less per pound than those being shipped in.

In the fresh vegetable department, you will find very ample supplies of lettuce and tomatoes. The supply of sweet corn for winter use is about 40 per cent larger than last year. This explains why prices are so reasonable at this season.

Green beans, summer squash and peppers are fresh vegetables most likely to be affected by the cold weather in the south. Slightly higher retail prices may show up within a week.

Canned Peaches a Boon to Weight Watchers

Canned cling peaches from California are abundant and economical now. Even weight-watchers can enjoy them. Ann Williams-Heller, nutritionist and expert on healthful reducing, reports that two large peach halves with one tablespoon of their rich juice contain less than 100 calories.

She suggests these two recipes for the man or woman on a weight reduction diet:

Quick 'n' Easy Broiled Dinner

Using 1½ pounds lean ground beef, form 6 patties, about 2 inches in diameter, ½-inch thick; broil to desired degree of doneness; season to taste with salt and pepper.

Drain 12 canned cling peach halves; place, cut side up, on broiler rack; fill each peach half with ½ tablespoon tomato catsup; sprinkle with paprika and broil for about 5 minutes or until slightly browned.

Divide 1 large bunch crisp watercress on 6 serving plates; place 1 hamburger and 2 broiled peach baskets on bed of greens; serve at once. One serving—about 200 calories.

Buttermilk Peach Sherbet

Drain 6 medium canned cling peach halves; mash with fork or in electric blender; blend with 1½ cups buttermilk, the grated rind of 1 lemon, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and a pinch of salt.

Put mixture in refrigerator ice cube tray; freeze until almost solid. Whip with rotary beater until light; put back in ice cube tray, and freeze until set. To serve, unmold and dust with cinnamon to taste. One serving—about 75 calories. Recipe makes 6 servings.

Follow Rules for Good Beef

Standing rib roast of beef oven-cooked until richly browned on the outside, pink and juicy within is a meat that makes an occasion of any meal at which it is served. To cook standing rib roast of beef follow these directions:

1. Order enough meat to allow 1-3 to ½ pound per serving. Make sure however that you order a roast of at least four pounds in weight or a piece two ribs thick. A smaller piece is better when broiled.

2. For a more attractive roast have short ribs removed for use in a later meal. For easier carving have the backbone loosened from the ribs. After cooking the backbone may be removed before carving.

3. Wipe meat with a damp cloth and season with salt and pepper. Insert meat thermometer through fat into the center of the lean.

4. Place roast fat side up in a shallow open roasting pan. A pan with low sides allows the roast to cook more evenly than a deep roaster. No rack is required as the bones will hold the roast up out of the drippings. Basting during cooking is not necessary as the fat melts during cooking and drips down over the lean meat keeping it moist.

5. Roast at a constant temperature of 325 degrees according to this schedule:

Roast	Internal Temperature	Minutes Per Pound
Rare	140°F.	22-26
Medium	160°F.	28-32
Well-done	170°F.	33-38

When the meat has cooked to the preferred degree of doneness remove it from the oven and allow it to stand in a warm place 15 to 20 minutes for easier carving.

BEEF RIB ROAST — Standing rib roast of beef, oven cooked until richly browned on the outside, pink and juicy within, is a meat cut that makes an occasion of any meal at which it is served. To achieve the same results, roast the meat at a temperature of 325 degrees F. to an internal temperature of 160 degrees F.

CHRISTMAS PEAR DESSERT — For a simple dessert after some of the rich holiday food serve these Christmas Pear Trees. Fresh pears are frosted with cream cheese, then decorated to look like miniature Yule trees. Listen to your guests oh and ah.

Serve a Yule Dessert With Pear Appeal

When holiday foods begin to taste uniformly rich, and appetites are lagging behind at every serving, it's time to introduce a delightful new tree to your Christmas table... a tree beautiful in holiday trim, yet kind to even a calorie-conscious menu. A delicate tint of green, a subtle dash of mint, and under it all the juicy perfection of a ripe fresh pear.

Three varieties of fresh pears are found in ample supply during the holiday season, and your choice may be any one of the three... graceful, tapering Bosc, particularly suitable for this dessert because of the shape; the fine-grained Anjou, or the plump, juicy Comice.

To ripen the pears to eating perfection, leave at room temperature until the fruit yields to a gentle pressure, then refrigerate.

Juicy, tender, and cold, each forkful will revive and refresh... a complement to any festive meal, a compliment to your thoughtfulness.

Although the recipe calls for

Rich Cream Soup Made With Powder

Christmas time — a clear winter's night — the voices of carolers in the air — and what better to greet the carolers at the end of the evening than a tureen of steaming soup.

Here is a "party-soup" that is perfect for such occasions. It's a hearty combination that will really stick to the ribs, a flavorful blending of frozen oyster stew and frozen cream of shrimp soup. What gives the soup a special richness is a gourmet touch and it's so simple to use.

Just add instant powdered cream to point up the full, rich flavor of the shrimp and oyster combination and you'll provide an ideal finish to a festive evening. This simple combination is as follows:

Instant Cream Party Soup

Combine one 10-ounce can frozen oyster stew with one 10-ounce can frozen cream of shrimp soup with two cans water. Add 4 tablespoons instant powdered cream. Heat until soup is melted, then bring to a boil. Makes 5 cups.

Chocolate Milk Sparks Eggnog

Traditional Yule Drink Provides New, Exciting Flavor Treat

Since eggnog is the traditional drink during the Christmas holidays, eggnog has and will be on a good many holiday buffet tables.

This year, however, spark this traditional beverage with a new exciting flavor. Make it a chocolate milk eggnog with bottles or cartons of chocolate milk.

The chocolate milk story doesn't end there. Milk has a flair and a flavor for fashion. Joseph Love has blended chocolate milk, the color, into a good many dresses and has come up with a holiday collection of chocolate-milk brown dresses for little girls.

CHOCOLATE MILK EGGNOG

(Makes about 7 cups)

3 eggs, separated
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 quart bottled or carton chocolate milk
1 teaspoon rum extract or vanilla
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Nutmeg

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Add sugar and blend. Add chocolate milk and rum extract or vanilla and mix well. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold egg whites and cream into chocolate milk mixture. Serve topped with nutmeg.

Broil Cinnamon Toast for Kaffee Klatsch

Invite the neighbors in for impromptu mid-morning coffee and quickly put a pan of broiled cinnamon toast in the oven for a surprise. Cut slices of enriched bread into 1-inch strips. Brush with melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle with cinnamon-sugar mixture — ¼ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Place on baking sheet and broil until browned on top, about 2 minutes. Turn and brown on other side.

LUSSEKAKE — There's Lucia's beautiful crown and there's her tray — ready and waiting for her to start the Christmas season with coffee-fee-in-bed for all the family. This traditional Swedish custom takes place yearly on St. Lucia's Day, December 13.

Bake Fresh Lussecake for St. Lucia's Day

The time is early in the morning of St. Lucia's Day—December 13th. The place is Sweden, or for that matter, wherever there are Swedish people. And Lucia? She's the lovely maiden who, even today, wears a flowing white gown and a crown of candles and greens. It's her duty to wake her family early on St. Lucia Day and, happily, serve steaming coffee and fresh buns called Lussecake. It's all part of a colorful, age-old custom that officially begins the Christmas season in Sweden.

Of course, Lussecake is just as traditional as the holiday itself—right down to the precious saffron and the wonderful double S-shape. Here's the perfect complement for early-morning coffee — not too sweet, not too heavy, and flavorful enough to wake you up for seconds. The Swedish people also believe that the coffee on this morning must be the very best of the whole year—fragrant, full-bodied and steaming hot.

Meanwhile put butter, sugar and salt in large bowl, add scalded milk and stir until butter melts. Let stand until lukewarm and then blend in one cup of the flour. Beat smooth. Add yeast and mix well. Add about half the remaining flour and beat smooth. Beat in saffron-water mixture and egg. Add enough remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on floured board. Let rest 5 to 10 minutes. Knead until smooth and elastic.

Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise in warm place until doubled. Punch down. Make each bun with 2 strips of dough, 4 inches long and ¼ inch in diameter. Form each strip into an S, coiling the ends snail fashion. Place one diagonally across the other, pressing together in center. Place a raisin in center of each coil. Cover and let rise until doubled. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes.

Entertaining at Christmastime has a flexibility uncommon at any other time of year . . . and one may find oneself hostess at anything from a midnight supper to a daybreak New Year's breakfast. Between these extremes, brunches find favor.

Bake Italian Christmas Bread, culinary star of the event, a day ahead. If desired, shortly before serving slice the bread and wrap in aluminum foil. Heat in a slow oven.

Italian Christmas Bread
 2 packages yeast, compressed or dry
 ¼ cup water, lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry
 1 cup milk
 2-3 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon salt
 ¼ cup soft butter or margarine
 7 cups sifted enriched flour (about)
 1 egg
 1 egg, separated
 1½ teaspoons vanilla extract
 ¼ cup golden seedless raisins

1-3 cup finely chopped blanched almonds
 1-3 cup chopped candied citron
 1-3 cup finely chopped candied lemon peel
 1 tablespoon water

Soften yeast in ¼ cup water. Scald milk. Add sugar, salt and butter or margarine. Cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour and beat well. Add softened yeast and mix well. Cover and let rise in warm place until mixture is bubbly (about 1 hour). Stir down.

Beat 4 eggs and 1 egg yolk, reserving 1 egg white for glaze. Add eggs and vanilla extract to flour mixture. Beat well. Add enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Gradually knead in raisins, almonds and candied fruits. Continue kneading until smooth and satiny.

Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until doubled (about 1½ hours). When light, punch down. Divide dough into 2 equal portions and let rest 10 minutes. Shape each portion into round loaf and place in well-greased 8-inch round pan. Combine egg white and water. Brush tops of loaves generously with egg white mixture. Let rise until doubled (about 1 hour). Brush with egg white mixture again and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 35 to 40 minutes. Makes two 8-inch round loaves.

Because of the volume of this dough, preparation will be easier if you beat in the flour with an electric mixer at low speed. Use it again for the second addition of flour as long as possible. As the dough becomes stiffer, the last 1½ to 2 cups of flour must be mixed in with a wooden spoon.

Glass Presses Cookies

Instead of rolling cookies, try dropping the dough from a spoon on to a cookie sheet. Then stamp each one with a damp cloth stretched tightly over the flat bottom of a cup or glass. This trick will save you time and trouble.

JOLLY SNOWMEN — These jolly little snowmen are made with stacks of vanilla wafers and whipped cream. Marshmallows make the heads and hats. Cloves pick out faces. A strip of candied orange rind is the scarf. Let the children make these indoor snowmen.

Simple Recipes Presented for Children to Follow

Pontiac Press Home Editor

This is our annual plea to let your children share in the holiday cooking. We think that both boys and girls enjoy it and benefit from it. We are not minimizing the upheaval it may cause in your kitchen. We have first-hand experience with the Nine-Year-Old.

There are several excellent children's cookbooks available. Any one of them gives full, simple-to-follow directions for a variety of foods. But it is the goodies we are concerned with today.

How about snowmen for a holiday dessert. Your little miss will love spreading vanilla wafers with whipped cream, then piling them into snowman shape. Show her the picture to copy.

Jolly Snowmen

24 vanilla wafers
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
4 marshmallows
24 whole cloves
4 thin strips (about 8 inches long) candied orange rind

Spread 20 of the vanilla wafers with whipped cream. Stack 5 of these on top of each other. Repeat, making a total of 4 cream-filled stacks. Spread outer surfaces of stacks with whipped cream, shaping to rounded snowball forms. Now, stick 3 cloves into each of 4 marshmallows, forming 4 heads with eyes and mouths.

Set one head in place on top of each stack. Put 3 cloves down each front for buttons. For hat brims, place one of the remaining 4 unspread cookies on top of each marshmallow head. Cut the remaining marshmallows in half horizontally and place a half on each unspread cookie, to make top of hat. Twist a rind strip around each neck for a muffler. Makes 4 "snowmen."

Lemon flavored candies rolled in nuts can easily be made by the youngsters. The only cooking involved is melting the butter. You can supervise that part for safety's sake.

Lemon Nut Balls

1/2 cup instant dry milk
2 cups sifted, powdered sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup finely cut nuts

Mix instant milk and sugar. Melt butter in a 2-quart saucepan over low heat. Take from heat and stir in lemon juice. Add sugar mixture, about 1/2 cup at a time, mixing until smooth each time. Shape into 1-in. balls.

If too soft for shaping, chill until easily handled. Roll balls in nuts. Chill until firm. Makes about 2 1/2 dozen.

With this cookie recipe you may have to lend a hand during the rolling. Try putting confectioners' sugar on your board or pastry cloth. It will not make the cookies tough the way extra flour will.

Scotch Shortbread

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup confectioners' sugar
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Cream butter or margarine. Add sugar and mix well. Sift together flour and nutmeg. Add to first mixture and stir well. Stir in lemon juice. Roll the dough to a thickness of 1-3". Cut into stars or other fancy shape. Bake on ungreased sheet in moderate oven (350 degrees) 20-25 minutes.

Note: The tops may be brushed with a mixture of 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and 2 tablespoons sugar before baking. Yield: 18-20 2" cookies.

Pea Soup Basis of Ham Sauce

Ham Sauce with Spaghetti is one main dish that answers the need for a quick-fix meal. Keep it in mind, too, for using up ham left from one of those holiday feasts.

Ham Sauce with Spaghetti

1/2 cup butter or margarine
2-3 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup finely chopped parsley
1 1/2 cups beef bouillon
1 1/2 cups condensed green pea soup (10 1/2-ounce can)
1/2 teaspoon crumbled tarragon leaves
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 cups sliced cooked ham
8 ounces long spaghetti

Melt butter or margarine in large heavy saucepan. Add onion and parsley and cook slowly about 3 minutes. Stir in bouillon and then soup. Add tarragon, pepper, and lemon juice. Cook about 10 minutes over low heat, stirring frequently. Add ham and continue cooking 20 minutes longer, stirring occasionally.

Meanwhile, cook spaghetti. Add 1 tablespoon salt and spaghetti to 4 1/2 cups boiling water. Boil rapidly, stirring constantly, for 2 minutes, cover, remove from heat and let stand 10 minutes. Rinse with hot water and drain well. Arrange on heated serving platter and top with ham sauce. Makes 4 servings. Two beef bouillon cubes dissolved in 1 1/2 cups boiling water.

Lace Ribbons of Dough Over Mincemeat

Mincemeat is a flavorful filling for easier-than-it-looks Scone Braid—a tasteful accompaniment to orange juice, a French omelet and coffee or milk:

Scone Braid

2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup butter
1/2 cup shortening
1 egg
1/2 to 2-3 cup milk
1 1/2 cups mincemeat

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut or rub in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Beat egg and add milk. Add to flour mixture, mixing only enough to moisten flour. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead gently 30 seconds.

Roll out to rectangle 8 x 10 inches. Spread mincemeat on center third of dough, making a strip across the width of the rectangle. Slash the dough at both sides of filling with scissors, cutting from outer edge in toward the filling and forming ribbons 1 inch wide.

Lace these ribbons, alternating sides, across the filling. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in hot oven (425 degrees) about 20 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

Freeze Soup in Ice Tray

Homemade soup freezes beautifully. To save space, freeze in concentrated form, adding liquid after soup is defrosted. Home economists suggest this convenient tip: Freeze soup in quick-release ice cube trays, store soup cubes in plastic freezer bag. Defrost in saucepan over direct, low heat.

Toothpicks Guide Knife

Little Jack Horner "eating his Christmas pie" will have the same size piece as his brother if the pie is cut with the aid of toothpick guideposts. Place one post in the center. For odd numbers of servings, mark off even-sized wedges, by placing toothpicks under the rim of the pie. Cut from center "post" outward to each toothpick.

A quick toast shell for creamed vegetables or meats is fashioned with thin sliced bread: Remove crusts, brush with butter or margarine, press into 3-inch muffin cups and bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven for about 12 minutes.

Add Sherry to Dressing

Simple stewed fruits and plain cakes served with sliced fruits are especially good, when their flavors are blended with a simple sherried sauce, which is made by heating two egg yolks with a large pinch of salt, gradually adding three-quarters of a cup of powdered sugar, and beating until thick. Add a third of a cup of nutty amontillado, or sweet oloroso type sherry, fold in one pint of cream, well-whipped, and top with grated nutmeg.

A pretty and tasty trick with cauliflower: Spike the cooked head with almonds, top with cheese sauce and arrange on serving dish with green peas or beans.

Texas Grapefruit Comes in Quantities

'Tis the season to be jolly. 'Tis the season when more citrus fruits come to market. There are more grapefruit this season reports the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. The biggest reason for this is that the Texas crop is the largest it has been since 1951.

Texas ships large quantities of pink grapefruit. About 60 per cent of Florida grapefruit are of the seedless Marsh, Pink or Ruby Red varieties.

There is plenty of grapefruit to serve as halves, plain or chilled, topped with cranberry sauce or broiled with brown sugar, maple syrup or honey.

'Tis the season to be jolly. 'Tis the season to use fresh grapefruit.

Big Nut Crop Fails to Change Prices

A big bowl of nuts is in keeping with the season. Nuts are practically the same prices as last year, relates the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. Most nuts in the shell range from 49 to 69 cents a pound, with most at about 59 cents.

Size of the yearly crop does not affect price as much as you might think, for nuts are marketed through a strong marketing organization and prices show little fluctuation from year to year.

There are a few more walnuts and almonds than grown last year. The filbert crop in Oregon and Washington is nearly four times the size of the 1956 crop. The 1957 pecan crop is 12 per cent smaller than usual.

Do's and don'ts of egg buying: Don't pay extra for the color of an egg shell; do pay for freshness, which means buying those eggs displayed in refrigerated cases.

Dear Abby—

Shove Him Out of the Nest—He'll Fly!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our son is 27 years old. He was always such a good-looking child, people would stop on the street and stare. He took dramatic lessons and I suppose you would say he went "Hollywood."

He has been trying to make the grade in pictures for nine years. We have been supporting him because we can't see him go hungry and ill-clad when we can afford to feed and clothe him.

We are not rich, but we are comfortable. How can we convince him that he has no future in pictures without crushing his spirit?

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If he isn't convinced after nine years of

"Don't call us... we'll call you," better give up. Quit feeding and clothing him. Shove him out of the nest, Mainma. He won't break his neck—he'll fly!

DEAR ABBY: I am about to go out of my mind. I have been married eight years and have eight wonderful children. Our church does not believe in birth control and neither do I, but I have a neighbor who won't lay off me.

She is always over here preaching planned parenthood to me and has even had the nerve to send literature to my house trying to change my mind. My husband told her off once, but she still keeps on. How can we let her know we are perfectly content to fill our home with as many children as the good Lord sends us?

FOR LARGE FAMILIES

DEAR FOR: It is not the intention of the Planned Parenthood people to force their information on those who do not want it. Your neighbor is off-base. Tell her to stay off that subject or stay away from your door.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that my husband was married before and has two children who live with his first wife. We have two of our own and are very happy. Our kids are 9 and 7 and we have never told them their Daddy was married before.

My mother-in-law made a slip of her tongue and said something in front of our kids, about his first wife, then somebody kicked her foot and she shut up. My 9-year-old is not dumb. Should we tell our kids the truth and if so when?

SECOND WIFE

DEAR SECOND: Tell your children the truth immediately... before somebody else does.

DEAR ABBY: Am I old-fashioned or behind the times? I received an invitation to a GREENBACK shower. Do you mean to tell me that people actually bring money to a shower for a bride?

I always enjoyed seeing the pretty ribbons and tissues at bridal showers, but this seems so commercial. I don't even know how much money I should bring. Is this being done in proper circles and is it something new? Please advise me.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I have heard of it—but I agree with you. It is so very commercial I don't see how it could be much fun.

CONFIDENTIAL TO COOKIE: The Marine has landed you and the situation is entirely out of hand. Semper infidels!

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Music Fills Listeners With Yuletide Joy

By CHRISTINE GAENSBAUER

Snowy skies, icy streets and an unscheduled 45-minute intermission failed to dampen the spirits of Tuesday Musicales members and guests Tuesday.

They met in Fellowship Hall of Grace Lutheran Church to hear a Christmas program, traditionally presented by the Tuesday Musicales Chorus. They went away filled with the joy of Christmas.

AUDIENCE INSPIRED

Music is the most expressive means of portraying the joy, the reverence and exaltation of the Nativity story, and the fine program presented inspired the audience with the full meaning of this most sacred holiday.

After a greeting from the president, Mrs. Gordon Woolcock, and an introduction by the program chairman, Mrs. Dora Dawson, the chorus opened with a group of six carols under the expert direction of Mrs. George Putnam. Two lively English carols, "The Holly and the Ivy" and "The Wassail Song," were followed by "Touro-Louro-Louro" and "Lullaby of the Christ Child," a nice contrast to the rather robust English carols.

An Appalachian carol, "I Wash My Face in a Golden Vase," offered a simple, childlike sentiment in a charming musical setting. For a more serious but exultant ending to this first group, the chorus sang "A Babe Is Born," composed by Lee Pattison.

DESERVES PRAISE

Mrs. Putnam deserves much praise for her direction of the chorus. The members sang with great assurance and a fine tone quality beautifully balanced and blended. Lovely soft passage and brilliant full-voiced ones were done with equal skill and control.

The audience enjoyed the solo parts sung by chorus members Glenna Cox, Alice Helvey, Yvonne Smith, Annabelle Marshbanks and Rose Jorgenson. They were also appreciative of the skillful and sympathetic accompaniments provided by Margaret Oakley.

Guest soloist was Donald Nelson of the University of Michigan School of Music. Mr. Nelson has been heard in this area at Kirk of the Hills and All Saints Episcopal Church but this was his first concert appearance here.

He combines a fine tenor voice and technical skill with a sensitive feeling for the dramatic implications of the music he performs. His pleasing lyric quality and flexibility were apparent in the much loved opening to the Messiah, "Comfort Ye," and "Every Valley."

He sang two Christmas songs, "The Shepherd" and "The Kings," which used familiar stories in effective modern musical settings by Peter Cornelius. He departed from the Christmas theme for three beautiful love songs by Richard Strauss and three familiar Shakespearean texts, "Come Away Death," "Oh, Mistress Mine" and "Blow, Blow Thou Winter Wind," set to music by the modern English composer Roger Quilter, but still retaining the old English flavor.

Mr. Nelson's voice seems at its best in the quiet lyric passages but his performance of the Strauss "Devotion" was outstanding.

GAY EXPLANATIONS

Mr. Nelson added to the pleasure of his listeners by his rather light-hearted explanations of each composition. To complete the program, the chorus joined him to sing the plaintive Appalachian carol, "I Wonder as I Wander," and "Paris Angelus" by Cesar Franck, which was most inspiring.

The unscheduled intermission was occasioned by a delay in the arrival of Mr. Nelson's accompanist, Frank Murch, who was the victim of a traffic mishap en route from Detroit. However, he redeemed himself once he arrived by playing with ease and unerring musical taste.

As guests and members arrived they were greeted by hostesses Mrs. M. A. Calbi and Mrs. W. O. Kline. The tea tables were done by Mrs. Harcourt Patterson and Mrs. Bruce Annett.

Presiding at the table were Mrs. Roy Corwin and Mrs. C. M. Novess. Serving on the social committee were Mrs. F. M. Hathaway, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Irving Gillies, cochairman; Mrs. N. E. Durocher, Mrs. C. W. Dahlgren, Mrs. F. E. Bonner, Mrs. J. L. Bennett, Mrs. F. W. Rietzke, and Mrs. J. F. Blamy Jr.

Young Turkish Wife in Washington Illustrates New World for Women

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Her great-grandmother, whose century-old wedding dress she modeled never had met nor seen her husband until her marriage day. Her mother, wed at 15, and her father were strangers until their nuptials.

"This was the custom in our country," Mrs. Altamur Kilic, pretty young wife of the Turkish press attaché told me, "women never went out alone, nor appeared in public except veiled to the eyes. All marriages were prearranged, sometimes from the couple's babyhood."

NEW FREEDOM

All this was changed and women gained a new freedom some 35 years ago under progressive President Ataturk.

With the discarding of the pece, or veil, and the granting of political and social equality, increasing numbers of women are assuming positions of importance in government, civic and professional fields.

Mrs. Kilic, herself a former art teacher in Turkey's school of ballet and teacher of Turkish in a French school, says the percentage of her country's women lawyers, judges and doctors exceeds that of any other country, including the United States.

Mrs. Kilic's own marriage in 1949 is indicative of the independence of the younger generation from the ancient customs which bound even their own parents.

EXHIBITING ART

The former Asuman Yavuzer, daughter of a Turkish army colonel, was holding an exhibit of her painting at the French Consulate in Istanbul.

Young Kilic, a newspaperman, dropped in to take some pictures for his paper. He returned the second day and proposed marriage. Twenty days later they announced their engagement.

They sailed the day after their marriage for New York, where he took a job with the press section of the United Nations. Their daughter, Aysegul, 7, was born in New York.

The couple came to Washington in 1955 after returning from a four-year sojourn in their country, where Kilic published a magazine and wrote a political column.

MEANS 'HEAVEN'

Slender, dark-eyed Asuman, whose name means "Heaven," has shown paintings in several art exhibitions here and has been active in the capital's intellectual, social and diplomatic life.

She has worn her great-grandmother's elaborate gold-embroidered, purple velvet wedding gown in several international fashion shows for charity.

"It's not for the emancipated young women of today," she says, "it weighs 25 pounds and is about as binding as were the customs surrounding its use."

Ceremonial Slated by White Shrine

Mrs. Wayne Scott announced a Christmas ceremonial to be held Dec. 18 for members of Pontiac White Shrine. The announcement was made when that group met Wednesday evening in Roosevelt Temple.

A Christmas party followed the meeting, with Mrs. John Bach directing a Christmas carol sing. Members brought gifts for Oakland County Children's Home, and gifts also will be given to Shrine shut-ins.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated in Christmas motif, with Mrs. William Babcock as chairman of the committee.

Women's Section

Peggy Knodel (left) and Donna Tigelaar give Carol Caddell some hints on what to wear for Phi Mu sorority's pledge formal which was held last weekend at the University of Michigan.

Carol's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Caddell of Lathrup Village. Donna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tigelaar of Birmingham.

Plan Your Dining Area With Care

Let Use of Room Be Major Guide to What Is Bought

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

When you plan a dining area, take into account how you'll use it. Let that be a guide to what you buy.

Of course any dining area must be convenient to the kitchen.

Storage pieces should provide for the storing of table linens, flatware and some serving pieces and china. Modern, moderately priced dining-room furniture gives us a good selection of versatile pieces. Young homemakers can start with a buffet, then add a hutch top later for more storage space.

What kind of a table should you pick? Clues to your answer may be found in these factors: how many will regularly be dining at it, how often you entertain, and how you would like to use it between meals.

If yours is a family of five or six, for example, you'd probably favor a table that can be set to accommodate them without adding extra leaves. If you entertain often, you should consider extension tables that can open up to seat eight or 10.

Some families regularly eat in a kitchen dining area. For them, provisions for more formal dining are needed only occasionally.

If space is a problem, narrow drop-leaf tables may offer a better solution than a stationary large one.

Round dining tables have mushroomed in many furniture collections. With a diameter of about 40 inches, a round table can seat four comfortably to dine. More can gather around it for games. Most of those I've seen extend to seat quite a few on occasion.

Square extension tables also double as game tables. If you don't have an extra desk or if the one you have is overcrowded, the dining table is a time-honored substitute.

Giving new fashion to this use are beautiful portable leather "desks" which are equipped with blotter and compartments for stationery or letters. These, in a lovely range of colors, can be stored in full view with their contents well concealed.

Although matching chairs are usually chosen to team up with the dining table, this is not an inflexible rule. This is especially true with tables that follow the soft, simple lines of contemporary design and are finished in the warm, natural wood tones. One decorator tells me that he often likes to use black lacquered chairs as a contrast to lighter woods.

Missile Battalion. Here he presents Irving Steinman, president of the USO, with a certificate of appreciation for USO services.

Cleanse Towels Without Washer

Do you have supersize Turkish towels or bath sheets to wash and no washing machine. One practical apartment dweller just folds the large bath sheets back and forth several folds, and lets the sheets soak for a couple of hours.

Then she squeezes the lather through them, rinses, and hangs the towels to dry. They come out clean, and stuff up nicely with a brisk shaking.

Advice to Hostess

If guests seem happy doing what they are doing, a good hostess lets them alone. For instance, she doesn't break up a lively discussion to suggest bridge, or insist on persons who are comfortably relaxed going out to look at her garden.

Prompt Washing Removes Stains

To remove perspiration stains from washable cottons, wash the stained area as soon as possible in warm soap or detergent suds.

If the fabric has become discolored, try sponging it with a little vinegar and water solution which may help to restore the original color.

Rinse thoroughly. Then launder the entire garment in clean suds, rinse, and hang to dry.

Ankle-High Boots Stylish, Practical

Ankle-high chukka boots are fashionable as well as a practical sportswear accessory, reports the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

Made in both smooth leathers and in rugged suedes, these boots come in two and three-eyelet styles and others fasten with straps. The most popular models carry either a plain toe or a moccasin-type front.

Masculine Reader Insists That Women Are Strange

He's Puzzled by Devious Workings of the Feminine Mind

By RUTH MILLETT

"Women are strange creatures," writes a man who reads this column.

"How can they so quickly become attached to anything new that they immediately discard the old, reliable, steadfast article the new item replaces?"

"Why do they pride themselves on being able to understand a man and see through another woman?"

"Isn't it strange the way a group of tired housewives is suddenly rejuvenated when mention is made of Marilyn Monroe, and how each and every one of them gets a ready-to-flight gleam in her eyes?"

"How can a woman who can't remember that her husband likes his bacon well done make him feel like such a chump if he forgets her birthday or their wedding anniversary?"

"How does a woman have the nerve to come home so dead tired from a day of shopping or bridge playing that she simply has to be taken out to dinner? She just isn't up to cooking a meal for her husband who has spent the day earning a living for the family."

"Why does a middle-aged housewife look with such a suspicious eye on the young thing with a naturally shapely figure, when the wife is spending her husband's hard-earned money in reducing salons, trying her best to get back her own youthful figure?"

"How can a wife talk for an hour to any woman who calls her on the telephone, and then find so little to say when her husband is on the other end of the line?"

"Why does a woman spend the days of courtship telling a man he is right about everything and all of the years of their married life trying to prove he's wrong?"

Blender Built to Clean Itself

Did you know that your electric blender is practically self-cleaning?

Simply fill the container half way with hot soap or detergent suds and let it whirl briefly to loosen clinging food.

Then merely rinse and dry. Wipe the base with a sudsy cloth, followed by a dry cloth.

Among the guests were Mrs. Ovid Redman, Mrs. Glenn Ward, Marylou Hoban, Suzanne Redman, Mrs. Don Hirsch, Mrs. J. A. Braddock, Mrs. Keith Bearden, Mrs. Bruce Reh, Sue Barks, Jani Robertson, Mrs. E. C. Richards, Mrs. Paul Ardene and Mrs. Pete Lewis.

Miss Redman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ovid Redman of Putnam avenue, and her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Chamberlain of East Ypsilanti avenue.

Don't Neglect Stained Linen

You can't let stains set in tablecloth and napkins, and expect them to wash out easily next time you need the linens. Keep that in mind after your holiday dinner this year.

Most food stains will come out easily, provided you tackle them immediately after the meal. Consult your stain removal chart, give individual stains the treatment recommended, and then wash the linens in hot soap or detergent suds.

This sort of care will keep them looking lovely for years to come.

Suede Processed for Easy Cleaning

Suede, once one of the most perishable of leathers, is now treated so that it can be easily dry-cleaned — even washed. The American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear advises. The new processes in finishing sueded shoes, make them water resistant and help them to shed dust and dirt.

Behind-Scenes Work Popularizes Fashions

LEONARD JOSEPH

WILLIAM MAXFIELD

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE
Women's Editor, Pontiac Press

Ever wonder who's behind the scenes of California's wonderful fashion industry? Or who coordinates a program of fashion showings for the nation's press?

It takes people well versed in fashion and business. William Maxfield is executive director of the California Fashion Creators, an organization serving more than 375 apparel manufacturers of women, men and children's clothing.

Marjorie Carne is fashion coordinator of this organization, the second largest fashion industry in the country doing business upwards of 500 million dollars each year.

ENVIALE POSITION

Miss Carne has probably one of the most enviable positions open to fashion-minded women today. But it takes much more than interest to handle a job such as this. Knowing fashion and styling are just part of the requirements.

Miss Carne must keep abreast of fashion trends and be able to write snappy, interesting trend stories. She visits each designer and manufacturer of California apparel, writes about their collections and arranges for photographs of the clothing.

Each year Miss Carne stages the annual Cherry Blossom Fashion show in the nation's capital, and last year she traveled to Europe to give a fashion showing on the French Riviera.

When the fashion press arrives in Los Angeles, they are guided by Miss Carne and Magdalene Maskel who arranges newsworthy and syndicate coverage of California fashions. And along with Boss Maxfield, they plan wonderful dinner parties, television shows and trips to movie stars' homes for the working press.

EVEN THE WEATHER

San Francisco Fashion Creators, also members of this unique organization, can boast of their executive director, Leonard Joseph.

Manufacturers and designers say he even controls the weather in San Francisco — and not even a Texan can boast more than Joseph when it comes to talking about the city with the Golden Gate Bridge.

These people are proud of their city, their state and most of all, their fashions. And they want to tell the world about them.

Widow Can Get Higher Interest

By BEULAH STOWE

Mrs. C. T. is a widow 66 years old. She receives a monthly social security payment of $42 and she has a savings account at the bank.

Rough Wood Favorite of Decorators

DALLAS, Tex. (INS) — Unfinished wood and earthy-toned yarns sparked with gold and silver are the favorite materials of southwest craftsmen for window blinds, room dividers and screens.

As exhibited at a craft show held in conjunction with the recent American Institute of Decorators convention in Dallas, the wood varied in size from matchstick width to split bamboo and rough-hewn one-and-one-quarter-inch planks.

These were laced together, some horizontally and others vertically, with wool, chenille, jute and viscose yarns in browns and naturals and in many patterns. Sometimes a gem blue or terra cotta red was used.

One interesting room divider was made of rough linen threads hand woven in a diamond pattern of ecru and brown. Strings of brown coco beads and natural straw were combined for a room divider hung from the ceiling or an extension bar.

Draw drapes for a 20-foot window wall were cream-colored matchstick straw woven with black. A bamboo screen, with the reeds placed horizontally, was made in 12 folds for complete privacy and flexibility.

Dirt Resisted by Fiberglass

Fiberglass curtains are probably the simplest type to keep spotless, because they're dirt-resistant to begin with.

With frequent sudsing in lukewarm soap or detergent suds to remove whatever dust does accumulate, they'll retain their just bought looks almost forever.

When washing by hand, never wring or twist fiberglass. In a machine, use short cycles (no spin-drying) and a very light load. These precautions will prevent wrinkles.

Then, let such curtains drip-dry; they'll be straight and ready to hang when dry.

of $20,000, which pays her 3 per cent interest. (Or $50 a month.)

Could she do better with her money, Mrs. T. asks? She lives alone in an apartment and rent takes a big piece of her monthly income.

Mrs. T. might consider these alternatives:

1. Invest $18,000 in a conservative stock which pays 5 per cent interest. This will leave her $2,000 in the bank for emergencies. She will earn $900 a year (or $75 a month) interest on the $18,000 investment—$25 a month more than she is now receiving on the entire $20,000.

2. Or she might buy a $10,000 house in a suburb or in a small town, and rent it until such time as she might want to live in it herself. If she rented the house for $65 a month—a low price in most communities—the $10,000 invested in the house would bring her an annual income of $780.

She would receive $25 a month interest on the $10,000 still in the bank, to give her a monthly income of $90, instead of the $50 she now receives with the savings account as her sole investment.

NORMAL REPAIRS

The house could be rented with the provision that the tenant make all the normal repairs necessary to maintain the property. Taxes would reduce Mrs. T.'s profit somewhat. But she would gain two advantages: a higher return on her money while the house is rented, and a home for herself in the future.

3. There's a third choice. It's uncomfortable, but not necessarily impractical. This is for Mrs. T. to leave her money in the savings account, and withdraw up to $500 a year to ease the squeeze on expenses.

It would take her 40 years to expend the $20,000. (Meanwhile, interest on the account would diminish proportionately.)

This would work, but most women would not enjoy living this way. They would prefer to use their capital to make more money, than to eat away at the capital in a calculated risk.

Q—"Where can my wife and I live on $200 a month?"—R.B.P.

A—Almost anywhere, but quietly. Avoid the big cities. Live in a trailer in St. Petersburg, in a small house in the Rio Grande Valley in Texas, in a pre-fab on the hills of California, or in a cottage in South Dakota.

Plan to hold housing costs under $50 and keep the remaining $150 for food, clothing, medical bills and recreation. It isn't easy, but many retired people are doing it every day and it doesn't show.

All Figures Need Support

Girdles Insure Chic

Mention new fashions or new trends in cosmetics, and the proverbial needle in the haystack will be easier to find than a disinterested teenager.

This is all to the good, for it's a wise girl who wants to be chic and well-groomed.

The important thing to remember is that one can't be chic unless one is well-groomed. The same attention must be given to the accessories that can't be seen as is devoted to the dress, shoes, bag and gloves.

If you've admired a famous starlet or model, you've been aware that a good deal of her glamor comes from the way she is dressed.

Has it occurred to you that the overall effect depends a good deal on the foundation garment that's worn underneath?

WORN BY MODELS

Many teeners feel that girdles of any type are for older women only. Yet no matter how willow-slim she is, no model will show clothes without wearing a foundation of some kind.

If these girls, with their exquisite figures, feel that a girdle is necessary, how can any girl argue fashion-wise against one?

A good starting point in fashion is the right wardrobe of foundations. One tired garter belt won't do.

The kind of basic foundation you choose depends, of course, on your figure. If you have a tendency to bulge a bit in front and back and like to wear jeans or slacks, something all elastic, without garter attachments, is a good ideal.

You may dislike the feeling of constriction at first. But one glance in the mirror will assure you that you look a lot less like an Easter egg, and you'll quickly find the slight confinement comfortable.

ALL-AROUND SUPPORT

Silks for classes are ever popular. If you like slim skirts, you'll need a girdle that will give front and back support. It's not necessary to wear a garment with boning—firming satin elastic will, in most cases, be sufficient.

You should have at least four girdles or pantie girdles if you want to keep fresh looking. They should be washed after each wearing. And contrary to general belief, they last longer if they are frequently laundered.

If you are a sweater devotee, a bra that rounds but does not accentuate the bust is advisable. A bra that greatly accentuates is never worn by a truly smart girl.

A strapless bra, of course, is necessary for a strapless gown. If your party dress has a coverup front, but a low back, an uplift that hooks around the waist and presents a bare back is needed. And if you're an off-the-shoulder party dress, a bra or basque with straps that are adjustable in several positions is an advantage.

How to Pick Lifetime Tableware

DALLAS, Tex. (INS) — When you are buying fine tableware, choose something you can live with for the rest of your life.

This is expert advice from a tableware expert, Hensleigh Wedgwood, who was recently in Texas to introduce a new color in his famed line.

Severe contours and colors might be more fashionable at the moment," the affable Englishman pointed out, "but it is easy to tire of such in a few years."

"The softer, more time-honored designs are a wiser choice because most people buy only one set of good china—and that usually when they are just married and really don't have any opinion about tableware."

There are two principle types of tableware, he explained, which every purchaser should be able to distinguish at a glance.

Bone china, so called because it is actually made of bone ash—is translucent and rings with a clear tone when struck on the rim. It is much harder to break or chip than pottery and about three times as expensive, depending upon the design.

Glazed pottery is thicker, porous and easily chipped, but popular because of its nominal cost.

Gold trim is probably the most popular present-day trend, he said, but not as heavily done as half a century ago, and the "swing in all tableware is definitely to the her second Academy Award for "Anastasia."

BACK IN HEADLINES

Later in the year, she was in the headlines again as her husband was reported wooing an Indian girl. Miss Bergman finally separated from the volatile Italian director and went to make a movie in England.

Here are other women who attracted attention in the movie world:

2. MARIE McDONALD. She disappeared for a day amid cries of "kidnapping!" She hadn't proved she was kidnapped and the police haven't proved she wasn't. Marie basked happily in the spotlight again and her career was suddenly reactivated.

3. ANNA KASHFI. She made news by marrying Hollywood's most eligible bachelor, Marlon Brando.

If that weren't enough, the headlines continued when her parents in Wales reported she hadn't a drop of Indian blood, despite her story of being born in Calcutta of Indian parentage.

STATESMAN DUNNE

4. IRENE DUNNE. She added statesmanship to her long and distinguished career, serving as an alternate representative to the United Nations General Assembly.

5. SOPHIA LOREN. Queen of Italian films, the buxom actress created a stir by coming to Hollywood for two big-budget films. Her marriage to producer Carlo Ponti was followed by censure from Italian church sources.

6. JAYNE MANSFIELD. She was in there pitching all year in her attempt to inherit the sex-pot crown from Marilyn Monroe. Her campaign was aided by a tour of Europe, which created various sensations.

7. KIM NOVAK. The shapely blonde emerged as the hottest female draw at the box office, climaxing a concerted buildup by her studio.

NEW MRS. CROSBY

8. KATHY GRANT. A beautiful and bright graduate of the University of Texas, she made the headlines by eloping with Bing Crosby. The marriage was a real surprise, since Hollywood thought their romance was long dead.

9. MIKO TAKA. A travel agency attendant a year ago, she was spotted by a talent scout at a Nisei festival and signed to play opposite Marlon Brando in one of the year's biggest pictures, "Sayonara."

10. NATALIE WOOD. She emerged as the symbol of American teenagers and her romance with Robert Wagner kept the gossips busy.

A former child actress, she proved she was also an accomplished performer by winning the prize role of "Marjorie Morningstar."

Contour Sheets Can Save Time

Research shows that bed-making can go up to three times faster with contour sheets than with flat sheets.

Another advantage is that you can wash more contour sheets in a single machine load since they are lighter. Bottom contour sheets don't need ironing because creases disappear when stretched over the mattress.

Only the upper third of the top sheet—the part that folds over the blankets—need ironing to give your beds a crisp fresh look.

Soft Shoes Let Toddler Walk With Freedom

CHICAGO (INS)—If you want to do a favor for baby, buy him soft shoes which give him "bare-foot freedom" while learning to walk.

According to the American Medical Association, if the baby wears shoes which permit his feet to develop naturally, he probably will have comfortable feet when he grows up.

The AMA warned that if even the heel portion of the baby's shoe is confining, the foot may become weak and stiff.

AMA recommendations for baby's shoes were:

—They should be copied after the baby's foot rather than a tiny model of an adult shoe.

—They should be wide across the toes to permit their spreading and flexing as the child walks.

—They should be made of leather which "breathes through its open pores."

Saris Become Chic Chemises

Many clever home sewers are fashioning colorful Indian saris into stylish chemises. The rich, heavy silk of a sari is easily molded, and it can be laundered as easily as a handkerchief, despite its luxury look.

Saris are generally colorfast, but some excess dye may bleed in the first washing. The trick is to wash it through a series of lukewarm suds, followed by repeated rinsings until the final rinse water is clear.

When the color has been "established" in this way, it will not bleed again. Fortunately, the loss of excess dye will not noticeably dim the brilliance of the sari colors.

German Invention

Patent leather was developed by the Germans who used it extensively for military caps. Although still most popular in black and gunmetal, patent is now made in many colors, pastels as well as darks.

Sweaters Now Boast High Styling

NEW YORK (NEA) — Sweaters form the backbone of any college girl's wardrobe and they're almost as important to the girl with a job.

This is particularly true this year, when sweaters are taking on a very different appearance. Whether it's pullover or cardigan, the sweater has greater individuality and more high fashion. It can be worn as an overblouse. It can create a costume look. It glows in color, the lovely jewel tones that are also seen in dresses and suits.

We show here two sweaters that fill the fashion bill in every respect. In addition, they won't fuzz, will wash and dry quickly, need no blocking, hold their shape.

Blouson cardigan by Fairfield (left) is in a lovely amethyst color, has bow-tied waist, shows the Chanel influence in its soft lines.

Pullover with yoke neckline and roll collar (right) is by Peter Freund. It's worn as an over-blouse. The color is cognac.

Avoid Idle Talking

If, as a committee chairman, you are called on to make a report and you have none to make, say so and sit down. Don't give in to the temptation to talk just to be talking. Too many club members do that very thing.

Queen's Influence

Queen Elizabeth's visit has left its effects on fashion. One of the prettiest accessories with a royal air is the eight-button white kid glove with top edge beaded in fake pearls and glittering crystals.

Screens Fix Fireplaces in New Style

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — How about dressing up the fireplace before it's time to fill the woodbox again?

Full frame screens that practically snap into place are the latest in hearth accessories. Seen at San Francisco's Western Merchandise Mart, the new screens fit flush against the opening with no more than a one-fourth inch overlap.

Vertical pressure bars, out of sight, hold the screen in place with the twist of a bolt. Each screen is a special order but the dealer needs only the width and height of the opening to make one.

The frame and mesh are available in matching or contrasting metal finishes to blend with the room's decor. The mesh slides to one side for easy firemaking.

If you don't have a Boy Scout in the family, the next best thing is a new tool, which can pick up a 20-pound log or a toothpick, and is long enough for fuel feeding without scorching your hand.

A gentle nudge is enough to poke a draft or roll a log. Floor sets include a sturdy stand, shovel and brush. There's also a wall set with a bracket for hanging the shovel, brush and long-like new tool. Finishes are brass and black wrought iron.

Versatile Tanners

Early tanners not only processed leather but made it into clothing, shoes, water, wine and milk containers. Every ship of new settlers to America made certain that a

This print dress is aimed to go through the winter season. It is a rose-printed dress of silk broadcloth in taffy beige, brown and orange shadings splashed with white. The creation by Gracette features three-quarter-length sleeves, crescent-shaped neckline and hourglass-shaped skirt.

Vaudeville dates its popularity from the time of the French revolution.

Put Youngster to Work Early

Put him to work! That's what the child development experts advise. Even if he's only 2 years old, your child can do a few simple jobs around the house.

Some specific chores suggested for youngsters from 2 to 6 years old are: Washing toys, wiping pans and silverware, mopping the porch, emptying wastebaskets, putting soiled clothes in hamper or laundry basket, putting clean laundry away.

Helping with the housework develops pride in the home, good cleanliness habits, and self-confidence in the child. So start him early, mother!

Bald-Headed Women Abound but 'Rugs' Mask Bare Facts

SANTA MONICA, CALIF. (U)—This may come as quite a surprise to men, but there are as many bald-headed women as men.

Authority for that random statistic is 43-year-old Mrs. Ruth Mary Donnelly, a wig-maker known professionally as M. Ruth.

MOSTLY UNDER 30

As far as her trade is concerned, she has three women clients to every man, and the men who come to her establishment to have a "rug" made are, for the most part, under 30 years of age. At that age men are quite sensitive about the loss of hair.

Women always are, which explains why nobody sees a bald-headed woman. They do something about it, and quick.

Mrs. Donnelly says she really enjoys her rather unusual occupation.

"Bald heads used to make me nervous," she explains, "but today they present an artistic challenge. Much as an artist gazing at an unpainted canvas, you see the heads as forms on which to create attractive hair lines."

VERY REWARDING

"It is very rewarding to see your creation restore the confidence of men and women who have lost their hair. It is a rewarding profession, too, financially."

M. Ruth charges from $200 up for a woman's wig, whereas the price for a man's sky-piece ranges upward from $250, mainly because there is more detail work.

Many women wear partial wigs, known as crown falls, to cover thinning hair at the top of their heads, and there are many young women whose hair thins out, due perhaps to some deficiency during pregnancy.

Disease, worry and hereditary factors contribute to baldness, wigmaker Ruth says.

THEY SAY 'YES'

"Young men who replace the receding hairline with a wig find that girls at dances start saying 'yes' for a change," she laughs.

"I like my work. I enjoy making people feel their REAL age instead of their apparent age."

"I became interested in this field when I met an elderly French wigmaker. I studied and practiced with him for some time before I went out on my own. It's hard and exacting work. There's only one way to learn it and that is to study on the job with a proficient wigmaker.

"There are no schools here that teach it. By comparison, Germany's schools have three-year courses."

"We use human hair in the wigs, most of it from Europe, because it is longer. Chinese and Indian hair is less satisfactory than European and American."

Mrs. Donnelly is married to a utility company executive.

The U.S. produces more machines of various kinds than all the rest of the world.

Shetland Sweaters Star on Campuses

Seen more often than textbooks on college campuses, reports the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, are the extremely popular shetland sweaters made with crew necks. They are in medium to dark shades. Bright red bulky knits and ski types are other undergrad favorites.

Unless Bent Before Electrolysis

Treated Hair Cannot Grow Back

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

This is the last of a series of articles I have published this week about superfluous hair. There are so many conflicting statements concerning it that I felt it would be helpful to offer authoritative information. With this in mind, I had a long talk with Garo Artinian, director of the Kree Institute in New York.

I receive a great many letters from women saying that they had electrolysis treatments but the hair grew back again, others want to know if this can happen. I took this question to Mr. Artinian who is not only an expert in his field but an extremely ethical one.

"In ordinary circumstances the hair cannot grow back because the papilla which nourished it is destroyed. However, women must understand that if the hair has been tampered with, as in tweezing, it may be distorted beneath the skin surface. In such instances 5 to 15 hairs out of 100 may return."

A hair is usually straight from its tip to its root, where it reaches the papilla. Sometimes tweezing causes the hair to curve under the skin as it approaches the papilla.

Fortunately the first electrolysis treatment tends to straighten this so that the operator can reach the papilla on the second attempt. Anyway, the percentage of hair which will grow out again is extremely small.

ENTIRELY NEW HAIRS

Many times women sincerely believe that the hair which was removed by electrolysis has grown back because entirely new hairs sprout or because in tweezing them before the treatment they had broken the hair off at the surface of the skin. This often happens.

Superfluous hair is due to heredity and to the endocrine glands. The glandular setup changes at middle life and new hair patterns may appear.

Tweezers and cosmetic wax are essentially the same because they remove the whole hair, the tweezers one at a time and the wax en masse.

Shaving and depilatories are similar because they remove only that part of the hair above the surface of the skin. Naturally when hair is removed by shaving or a depilatory the process must be repeated more frequently.

I asked Mr. Artinian if creams of any sort can stimulate the growth of hair. He replied, "Creams can never increase the production of hair because hair gets its nourishment from the bloodstream only."

Short Nighties Fine for Patient

A wonderful way to perk up the morale of a woman hospital patient is to give her a supply of shortie nighties to replace the traditional tie-in-back bed gowns made of coarse cotton.

Long-sleeved, high-necked models with dainty embroidery and lace trim can be found in a variety of wash-wear blends.

They are appropriate for the prep-up stage of bed living, and can be easily swished through warm soap or detergent suds after each wearing.

"It is possible that the massage which goes along with the cream may have some influence. Any form of outside stimulation may have this effect if the woman has a tendency in this direction."

He then gave me one example of this. A woman he knew had taken a long motorcycle trip and had acquired a whole crop of new, superfluous hair because of the stimulation of the wind on the hair.

Tomorrow: "Situation and Parents' Opinion Rule 'Baby-sitting Clothes'."

A pearl bib is about all a girl needs to turn a plain black wool sheath into a raging fashion success.

Use Plastic Brush With Dishwasher

To help your automatic dishwasher perform efficiently, "sweep" loose food particles from dishes and tableware — especially forks — with a well-lathered plastic dishwasher brush.

Keep the brush hygienically clean by washing it immediately in hot soap or detergent suds; rinse under hot running water, and hang to dry.

Girl Pays for Tickets, Nothing Else

Her Invited Escort Should Take Care of Other Expenses

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Several of my friends have been arguing about the following matter and we would like you to settle it for us. When a girl invites a boy to go to a dance with her, in addition to paying for the tickets, is she expected to pay all the expenses of the evening, such as transportation, refreshments, etc.?"

"Some of the girls feel that since she is the hostess and her guest, she is responsible for the entire evening. I think she pays for the tickets and he assumes any other expenses. Will you please give us your opinion?"

Answer: Paying for the tickets is all that is expected of a girl. But just in case the boy she has invited does not understand this and has not brought enough to pay for the extras, it will be wise if she brings enough to pay for them herself.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please advise me on the proper procedure for my forthcoming marriage? I am a widow with two children. My fiancé has never been married before and has a great many friends he would like to invite to a wedding reception (approximately 175 guests)."

"Would a reception of this size be in good taste for a second marriage? I would like to comply with his wish, but don't want to do anything that could be criticized."

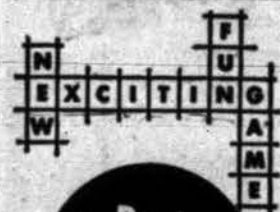

Answer: Since it is his first marriage, I think including all his friends would be entirely proper and not subject to criticism.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When using the typewriter to write a friend, may the signature also be typed, or must one sign the letter by hand?"

Answer: Always sign letters by hand. A typed signature is very rude. The only occasion when it is permissible is when it is printed below a hard-to-read signature, for information.

Many Cap Fabrics

Caps for sportswear can now be bought in wool, cotton, corduroy, smooth leather, suede, oiled fabrics like those used in slickers, and a host of synthetic fibers, reports the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. Trust Russia? Not America's Teenagers!

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of the Gilbert
Youth Research Co.

The most important international relationship in the world today is the sometimes hot, sometimes cold diplomatic struggle between the United States and Russia.

Perhaps the generation with the most at stake in the ups and downs of American-Russian relations are the teenagers of today—the soldiers and soldiers' wives of the future—who have spent their entire lives in the shadow of war.

What do they think of U.S.-Soviet relations? Of the possibility of war? Of nuclear weapons?

Our polltakers questioned a segment of American teenagers—the Russian youngsters weren't available to us—on those very matters. They told us:

The United States just cannot trust Russia.

A third world war is not inevitable.

But, if it comes, it will be nuclear.

RAMPANT DISTRAUST
Distrust of Russia is rampant among American young people. Nearly 9 out of 10 told us they feel the Soviets can't be trusted.

"Russia wants to rule the whole world," said a 16-year-old girl.

The Questions Asked
Can we trust Russia?
Should we keep trying to negotiate a disarmament program with Russia? Do you see any hope for eventual disarmament?

Do you think a third world war is inevitable? If yes, what are your reasons for thinking so?

Do you think Russia is stronger or weaker than the United States? Do you think Russia is stronger or weaker since the death of Stalin?

If there is another world war, do you think the hydrogen bomb will be used?

Do you think anybody influences your opinions?

"They're too sneaky," in the opinion of Roger Smith, 17, of Bloomfield, N. J.

Jimmy Smith of Sioux Falls, S. D., summed up his distrust in one word:

"Greediness."

The girls are a little less suspicious than the boys of the Soviets. Nearly 8 per cent of those in our poll expressed some degree of trust.

On the other hand, less than 5 per cent of the boys said we can trust Russia at all.

DIFFERENT OPINION

Teenaged thoughts on the possibility of a third world war showed a vastly different opinion.

More than half (55 per cent) said they do not think another general war is inevitable while only one in three expressed the feeling that worldwide hostilities are bound to come.

We queried the minority quite closely on this.

Why is World War III inevitable?

"Russia will only be stopped by a defeat in an out-and-out war," answered an 18-year-old.

"The prophecies of the Bible point toward two great wars," said Francis McLue, a New Jersey teenager who apparently doesn't count World War I as a great war.

TOO BULL-HEADED
"Russia is too bull-headed to think of anything but war," said 16-year-old Judy Wilkens.

"The poor people under Communist rule are going to rebel and we will help them," said another 16-year-old girl.

Strangely, the girls—who are more trusting of Russia—have a more fatalistic attitude toward a third world war than do the boys.

About three out of eight girls said they think a general war inevitable while only two out of eight among the boys feel the same way.

Roughly, three out of four teenagers feel that, should another war come, it will be an all-out affair with the hydrogen bomb used by both sides.

Only 17 per cent of the boys said they think the H-bomb will not be used, but 23 per cent of the girls predicted that the dread hydrogen device would remain in the stockpile.

On the question of disarmament,

American teenagers hold inconsistent attitudes.

Three out of four feel that the United States should keep trying to negotiate a disarmament program with Russia—but only half think there is any hope of success.

Perhaps this stems from the fact that the young people, distrustful of Russia in the first place, feel that we are still stronger than the Soviets.

Only 17 per cent of those polled said Russia's military strength is greater than that of the United States and half of them feel Russian power has gone downhill since the death of the old dictator, Josef Stalin.

EASILY INFLUENCED

Our survey on the thoughts of teenagers about U.S.-Soviet relations also bore out a point which we have noticed many times during our polls: Opinions of young people are very easily influenced.

Two out of three of the youngsters queried said they felt they were reflecting another person's influence in their answers.

Usually it was parents (26.7 per cent), friends (21.4 per cent), or teachers (17.4 per cent).

One out of five weren't sure who helped them reach their conclusions.

Texas Woman Scientist Aids Marine Laboratory

ROCKPORT, Tex. (INS)—Down on the Gulf Coast of Texas is a 28-year-old lass who is literally a "house mother" to hundreds of sea horses and other marine specimens.

She is Miss Patricia Pew, the only woman marine biologist in Texas and one of about 15 in the United States.

Though she has been in the biologist business for only about five years, she can hold her own with the salt-seasoned old hands. A tall, trim girl, and a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., she has developed the westerner's desire for elbow room and declares, "I'll never go back to the cities to work."

Her fellow workers at the marine laboratory operated on the Gulf Coast by the Texas Game & Fish Commission hope she doesn't change her mind. She displays a zest for work that is considered to be in a man's domain and is accepted as "one of the gang."

Miss Pew landed in her unusual profession more by accident than design. She relates she had a boy friend in her early college days — "he's no longer in the picture" — who was a medical student and aroused her curiosity in the study of biology.

After being graduated from the Pennsylvania College for Women, she came to Houston to land a master's degree in science, specializing in biology. Then she tackled the game and fish commission for a job and landed it.

Her superiors soon spotted her aptitude for art and she was given the job of illustrator for marine biology studies and commission publications.

As she gained experience she won her position as a full-fledged biologist at the laboratory that is visited by thousands of school children annually, along with countless tourists.

The laboratory maintains live exhibits of marine life, and Miss Pew always finds time away from duties to explain their habits to inquisitive school children.

And, during her "spare time," she is the house mother to the briny specimens that give her the "fish eye" from the inside of glass aquariums.

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

We could hardly imagine, just from his own attitude, that Fritz Crisler, University of Michigan athletic director would accept the job as commissioner of the Pacific Coast Conference.

It was Crisler himself who just recently told writers that the coast league appears beyond the salvage point.

He felt that the damages could not be repaired in the conference and the battle line of dissension between the northern schools of the PCC and the southern schools, those in California, was more fiery than ever.

Crisler has been athletic director at Ann Arbor for 17 years and is one of the most powerful men in the Big Ten and in inter-collegiate athletics.

He said he is "willing to listen" to the PCC offer, and it could happen, but we hardly think Crisler would jump into the coast kettle. He would have to be convinced he could re-mold harmony on the coast.

ANDERSON SUPPORTS STATE BASKETBALL

Michigan State basketball coach Fordy Anderson does not agree that basketball in the state of Michigan is of very poor caliber in comparison with the rest of the country.

"As far as talent goes, there are more basketball players in Indiana but not the best," said Anderson, "and as far as spectator interest, Michigan high school crowds were among the top ten in the country, and Michigan State was third nationally in total college attendance with 216,000 spectators, home and away."

"Only North Carolina and Kansas played before more people than Michigan State and we know that other states are realizing that good basketball is played in our state," he added.

DITTO FROM THE PRESS BOX

Four football players who were listed on the Press All-County teams the past two years will get the thrill of playing in a bowl game New Year's Day. The quartet, all from Royal Oak, are center Bill Owen and tackle Larry Cadwell, sophomores, and guard Don Rossell and back Duke Sekeres both freshmen at Louisville which will meet Drake in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Texas.

On Wins by Flam and Seixas

U.S. Leads Interzone Finals

BRISBANE (U.S.)—A fighting comeback victory by Herbie Flam, the nervous, sleepless recluse who almost didn't make it, and a grim workmanlike straight set sweep by veteran Vic Seixas, sent the United States into a 2-0 lead over Belgium today in the interzone Davis Cup finals.

Thus the bitter match, which threatened to shut America out of the challenge round for the first time in 21 years, turned into a Yankee rout with the United States expected to clinch the tie in tomorrow's doubles.

First, Flam, whose appearance on the court was uncertain until the very final moments, won a weird pulsating marathon from Belgium's Jackie Brichant 6-3, 4-6, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3. Then Seixas, playing the 55th Davis Cup match of his career, smashed the classy Philippe Washer into quick submission, 6-0, 6-3, 6-4.

America sends Seixas and 44-year-old Gardner Mulloy of Miami against the seasoned team of Washer and Brichant tomorrow in the doubles with the United States heavily favored to win and make the final singles mere formalities.

Aggie Star Sees 1st Pro Game

Crow Given Heisman Cup

NEW YORK (U.S.)—John Crow, Texas A&M's All America half-back was told last night "to do a job better than you have to" and this bit of advice coincided perfectly with his pro football plans. Crow received the Heisman Trophy, emblematic of the country's top college football player, from George I. Hall, president of the Downtown Athletic Club at its annual affair, and it was he who tendered the advice.

But last Sunday Crow, No. 1 draft choice of the Chicago Cardinals in the National Football League, stopped in the Windy City enroute to New York to watch the Cards play the Chicago Bears. This was the first pro football game he had ever seen.

prized at the spirit and drive the pros showed, and feels confident that he can make the grade in the big league.

Crow says he really isn't interested in where he plays for the Cards, just as long as he plays regularly. His preference, though, does go to the offensive platoon. As the blond, crew-cut 21-year-old native of Spring Hill, Ala., who is a business major at Texas A&M, puts it: "If you have a good year then you make more salary."

Even with the dollar and cents interest he wasn't overlooking the defensive platoon. He noted the size of the pro football players and how it offsets a lack of speed in many cases.

LEAVES HOSPITAL—Paul Waner, member of baseball's Hall of Fame, leaves the hospital in Tampa, Fla., where he received treatment and recovered from tuberculosis. He gives a memento to nurse's aide Mary Bratcher.

MAKES DECISION—Michigan State head football coach Duffy Daugherty made his decision to turn down the Texas A&M coaching job and to stay at East Lansing. He is slated to appear tonight at a banquet of the MSU club of Oakland County at Devon Gables.

Carter Still in Lead of Keg Match Tourney

CHICAGO (U.S.)—"Shovel-style" day lead during the first two matches by scant margins of one and 29 pins over Mrs. Ladewig. Phyllis lost to Mrs. Ladewig in the first match, and then beat Mrs. Olga Gloor of Chicago. Miss Notaro divided her last two matches and Mrs. Ladewig won two of her other three matches.

Carter, who won three of his four matches, two of them by close margins, totaled 158.22 Petersen points, 2.39 points ahead of Hennessey, whom he routed in the first match of the program. Hennessey had 158.33 points, while Lubanski had 155.27.

Pacing the women's division by a scant 27 pins was Dolores Wroblewski, 30-year-old bowling teacher from Detroit. She won four matches in scoring from ninth to first, scoring 400 or more pins in each match. The Detroiters had 76.40 points.

Runnerup was all-star champion Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., with 75.12.

Carter suffered his only loss to Dick Hoover, two-time ABC Master's champion for Akron, Ohio, in the third match, 833-807.

In earlier matches, Carter beat Hennessey, 815-864, and Steve Nitty of St. Louis, 836-830.

In the fourth and final match of the day, Carter actually helped Hennessey to move past Lubanski by beating the Detroiters, 857-843.

With 32 games yet to bowl, Carter has won 21 and lost 11 while bowling over 6,872 pins for an average of almost 215.

In climbing into first place Miss Wroblewski averaged better than 217 for the 16 games. She beat Chiyoko Tashima, Los Angeles, 403-333; Doris Knechtges, Detroit, 462 (high for day) to 380; Pat Dryer, Indianapolis, 416-332 and Phyllis Notaro, of Brandt, N. Y., the first day leader, 456-399. Miss Notaro was on the seventh round, or third match of the day.

Miss Notaro was tied with 72.33 points. She clung to her first

Reinstatement of Dickens Expected

Action on Indiana at Big 10 Confab

CHICAGO (U.S.)—Action on the reinstatement of Indiana's head football coach, Phil Dickens, after a suspension for recruiting violations is expected to be taken today at the big ten's winter meeting.

Football schedules for the 1961 and 1962 seasons also may be completed. Coaches and athletic directors worked on them yesterday without reaching full agreement, but commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson said "a good deal of progress was made."

Dickens was suspended by the conference for one year last July 23 for violating the new financial aid rule requiring all assistance be based upon need of the student. Actually, the suspension was imposed by Indiana University itself as a condition for retaining a member of good standing in the Big Ten. Indiana, however, was given permission to petition for Dickens' reinstatement at the winter meetings.

The petition will be heard by the conference policy-making body, the faculty representatives. If Dickens gets their blessing, he would be eligible to conduct spring football drills and also contact prospective athletes who are mid-year February high school graduates. The usual haggling over football schedules took up most of the time in yesterday's opening session.

"One difficulty is the effort of schools to hold out their first two dates for non-conference school is allowed one commitment, and all have them. These, of course, block out dates. There also are the usual home-and-home difficulties."

"Three or four schools will have seven conference games and the others six. None will have eight. (Minnesota had an unprecedented eight-game conference schedule this fall.)"

After Duffy Says 'No' Texas A&M Resumes Search for Grid Coach

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (U.S.)—Texas A&M resumed its search for a new football coach today after Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State passed it up.

There were indications that Henry "Red" Sanders of UCLA had moved into the No. 1 position among the prospects for the job vacated by Paul Bryant, who resigned to go to Alabama.

Daugherty announced at Chicago yesterday that he wouldn't take it because "my roots are too deep at Michigan State."

Reportedly he had been offered more than twice as much money to come to Texas A&M but Jack Finney of Greenville, chairman of the selection committee of the Texas A&M board of directors, tempered this with the statement: "If it's going to pay that much I'd like to have the job myself."

Daugherty is making about $25,000 a year at Michigan State. College officials would not reveal who was being sought for the job but Finney declared there were four or five under consideration. And he dodged a direct answer on whether Sanders was the No. 1 prospect with: "We're not working that way. But everyone knows there are five or six top men in football. We're going after one of them."

Sanders previously revealed that he had been contacted by Finney. Others who are believed to be under strong consideration are Wade Walker of Mississippi State and Jim Tatum of North Carolina.

SOMETHING TO "CROW"—John Crow, star halfback of Texas A&M has something to "crow" about as he proudly displays the Heisman Trophy which he was awarded as the outstanding college player of the year in college ranks.

Spartan Coach Declines Offer of Texas A&M

Munn Is Pleased With Daugherty's Decision to Stay

EAST LANSING (U.S.)—Duffy Daugherty has decided that his "roots are too deep at Michigan State" to leave it for a reported $50,000 a year offer to become head coach and athletic director at Texas A&M.

The Spartan mentor said, in Chicago, he turned down the bid by long-distance telephone yesterday. Afterwards, he told news-men:

"I didn't feel I could go down there with half of me staying here. My heart would still be at Michigan State."

Daugherty, who took over as head coach at MSU in 1954, reportedly deliberated on the offer since Monday noon when he conferred with Texas A&M officials about the position vacated when Bear Bryant quit to become head coach at Alabama.

The 42-year-old Daugherty, whose Spartans had an 8-1 record in 1957 while finishing third in the AP poll, said he did not use the Texas offer to bargain for a bigger salary at MSU.

"As far as I know, my salary is the same," said Daugherty who receives an estimated salary of between $23,000 and $25,000 a year at MSU where he is a full professor.

He did not disclose the terms of the Texas A&M offer and chuckled "that's a lot of money" when the $50,000 figure was mentioned.

Daugherty said he phoned his decision to Jack Finney, a member of the Texas A&M governing board. He described the offer as a "wonderful proposition."

MSU athletic director Biggie Munn, whom Daugherty succeeded as head coach, said he was "very pleased" with his coach's decision. "He has done a fine job," said Munn, "and I hope he will be with us for years to come."

Spieser Camp Accuses IBC of Causing Money Trouble

DETROIT (U.S.)—Financial trouble today threatened the Archie Moore-Chuck Spieser light heavyweight title fight and the challenger's manager says the International Boxing Club is at the bottom of all the difficulty.

The IBC has contracts with the companies which sponsor telecasts of the Wednesday and Friday night fights. Because of these pacts, Joe Spieser, who also is the Detroit fighter's brother, said the IBC was able to bring pressure against these firms when they expressed a desire to televise the Moore-Spieser battle.

"When they found out these companies were willing to deal with our independent promotion," said Spieser, "the IBC stepped in and put on the squeeze. Then all of a sudden these companies became very disinterested."

The promoters probably would realize between $50,000 and $75,000 for the TV rights.

Spieser said Gov. G. Mennen Williams is trying to get his family's firm (The Mennen Co.) which helps sponsor the Wednesday night fights, to televise the bout from Detroit.

He said the governor, who has been in New York, has written to the company and planned to see officials of the firm on his trip East.

Williams could not be reached for comment.

The 15-round title defense, which originally was scheduled for late January at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum, may be set back a month because of the money troubles.

Moore was guaranteed $100,000 to defend his title against Spieser who suffered a third-round knockout at the hands of Tony Anthony in his last fight in spring. Anthony

Something Must Give in SVC Play

Avon Visits Clawson, Troy Host to Orion

Full Oakland B Slate

The curtain goes up on the Oakland B League basketball race Friday night and the opening game should furnish a clue as to where the power lies.

A full schedule of three contests is in the offing — Avondale at Clawson, Lake Orion at Troy and Madison at Fitzgerald.

Avon's 1st league encounter is a rugged test. The Jackets, co-champs with Troy last season, will have their hands full against a Clawson team which looks vastly improved.

The Trojans, paced by 6-foot-1 George Ahmashy, are always rough at home. Avon breezed past Oxford Tuesday evening in its 11th lifter, but the Jackets won't find Clawson such a willing victim.

The Orion-Troy battle looms as the top game on the menu.

Orion has been blessed — or cursed — with the "team to beat" label before a single basket has been made in league competition. The Dragons crushed Oxford in their non-league opener to give impetus to their support.

But Hal Carlin's offensive-minded quintet, sparked by high-scoring Jim Drake and Nick Niera, took advantage of an Oxford squad which is still "wet behind the ears." The Colts will be horses of another color.

Whether or not Troy has another championship club remains to be seen. Coach Peyton Goodwin lost some stellar performers via graduation, including sparkplug Sim Acton, but he has the nucleus for another winning team.

Veteran Wayne Figley, 5-11 forward, heads the list of returning players. Supporting the sharp-shooting Figley are lanky Dick Booth, 6-3 center, and forward Don Harned. These three cagers form the corps of Troy's title hopes.

Fitzgerald, with veterans Bob Kline, Bob Bush, John Bolognino and Frank Birdwell back in harness, is currently rated as Orion's top contender.

Spartans' meeting with Madison will mark the Oakland B debut of new head coach Dick Snyder, who seized the reins at Fitzgerald when Tom Raesside decided to take the assistant principal's job at Clawson.

Jerry Hill, 6-foot-3 center who netted 23 points against Oxford, and guard Mike Walker were the brightest lights in Avon's opening win.

Campanella Best Fielder Among Catchers in NL

NEW YORK (INS) — Roy Campanella, nearing the end of a brilliant career, was still enough of a catcher in 1957 to lead all the National League receivers in fielding.

Campanella was one of three Dodgers to make the league's all-star defensive team, as determined by the official league statistics.

St. Louis and Cincinnati placed two players each on the team while the world champion Milwaukee Braves and the Giants had one each.

Cincinnati won a close race for team fielding honors. The Reds had a .982 mark to edge out the Braves (.981) and the Dodgers (.979).

Campanella's title was the fourth in the 36-year-old receiver's career. He compiled a .993 mark in exactly 100 games. It was the ninth year in a row that Campy caught 100 or more games and established a new national league record.

Two of the most remarkable accomplishments by the fielding leaders were made by Frank Torre of Milwaukee and Ken Boyer of the Cardinals.

Toore, only a part-time player until Joe Adcock broke a leg, led the first basemen in fielding with a .996 average. Adcock won the honor in 1956.

Boyer was a third baseman until shifted to the outfield last spring. He committed only one error in 278 chances.

The all-star fielding team looks like this:

Saginaw Valley Teams Unbeaten in Cage Action

Full League Schedule Features PHS - Hillite Battle Here

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press
They've said it many times, that the Saginaw Valley Conference is annually the strongest high school athletic league in Michigan.

Basketball teams from four different conferences plus a couple of independents have engaged SVC teams thus far in the young season, but as yet all six of the Valley schools are still unbeaten.

Something will have to give Friday night, however, as SVC teams engage in a full slate of league games.

Pontiac, defending champion of the league, will make its home debut against Saginaw Arthur Hill, winner in two games over Ann Arbor and Bay City Handy of the 6-A and Arrowhead Conferences, respectively.

The Chiefs hold a lone win over Detroit Catholic Central, one of the stronger independents in the area every year.

Flint Central is showing strength with three straight victories including romps over Bay City Handy, Lansing Eastern and Lansing Sexton.

Flint Northern scored easy wins over Port Huron of the EML and Grand Rapids CC, and Bay City and Saginaw are each victorious in one game.

Arthur Hill handled Bay City Handy 47-42 Tuesday night with veteran guard Jim Rae taking scoring honors. He and forward Art Street have been the leading pointmakers for the Hillites in two games.

Coach Chuck Fowler will round out his starting team with guard Herb Hinds, forward Bill Brussow and center Paul Doersom.

The Chiefs will go with the same lineup which started against Catholic Central except that John Bundy may replace Jerry Williams at guard. Williams was ill this week after an attack of food poisoning.

Charley Barge will be at the other guard spot and Dick Whitmer and Jim Skinner at the forwards with Hudson Ray at center.

I-L Cage Action Begins Friday

W-O Leaders Favored

By CHUCK ABRAH

The second round of the Wayne-Oakland basketball race is on tap tonight with all of last week's opening game winners expected to turn in repeat performances.

However, there could be some surprises since each of the favorites will be playing away from home which makes them prone for an upset.

Probably the best game of the night will match Wayne County rivals Northville, defending champion, and Brighton at Brighton. Clarkson, the other co-champ, plays at Bloomfield Hills.

Rounding out the loop slate, will be Holly at Milford and Clarenceville at West Bloomfield.

Northville, Clarkson and Holly are rated the chief contenders for title honors with Northville given the edge on its greater size and experience.

The Mustangs walloped West Bloomfield a week ago and then took a beating themselves from Class A Plymouth. "Cap" Peppers has paced the attack with 31 points. Brighton showed good scoring punch in bowing to Clarkson.

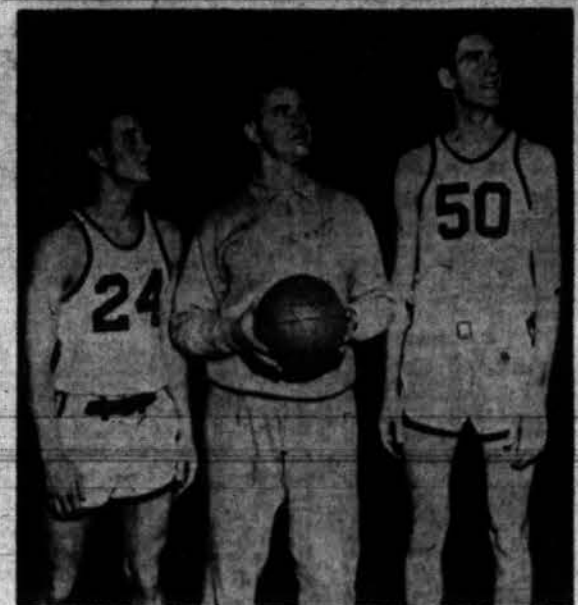

Clarkson whipped Ortonville before taking Brighton and has averaged better than 60 points per game led by LeRoy Parks and big Bill Niles. Bloomfield Hills, rated the W-O darkhorse, was no match for Holly in its 1st try at league play.

The big Holly quintet figures to keep right on rolling past Milford unless Pat Kelley and his mates really get clicking. The Redskins have scored only 64 points in two starts to Holly's 139. George McDaniel (6-6) has led the balanced Bronco attack with 31.

West Bloomfield might break into the victory column for the 1st time if coach Art Faddy can come up with some scoring help for John Lucadani. The versatile junior tallied 30 points in setbacks to Clarkson and Northville.

but only Jim Hollister totaled over 18.

Clarenceville was not rated very highly in pre-season forecasts but the Trojans had enough to nip Milford last Friday.

Gets Red Sox Bonus

Cager Signs Baseball Pact

NORMAN, Okla. — Don Schwall, University of Oklahoma basketball player, said today he had signed a baseball contract with the Boston Red Sox for a bonus. The bonus was reported in excess of $50,000.

Schwall quit the Sooner cage squad Monday and said he was considering the offers of five Major League baseball clubs.

Schwall, from Ypsilanti, Mich., has been attracting attention with his baseball feats since high school. Last summer he pitched for Mitchell, S. D., in the state league, compiling an 8-3 record and hurling a no-hitter.

For Oklahoma he pitched only nine innings, losing one game, striking out 10 and walking nine.

Schwall will report to the Minneapolis club of the American Assn. next spring.

Loop Card Has Skippers Away, Viking 5 Home

Heavy Schedules Also Set in South Central and Southern Thumb

By BILL CORNWELL

The Inter-Lakes Conference swings into its first season of Class A basketball Friday night with a full three-game schedule on tap.

Waterford takes to the road against Farmington, Walled Lake entertains Van Dyke and Berkley is at Southfield in the opening league program of the 1957-58 campaign.

The six-team loop became Michigan's 8th all-A circuit at the start of the current school year and make a successful football debut as one of the "big boys." Now it's time for initiation on the hardwoods.

Walled Lake and Berkley are defending co-champions, but Berkley stands a better chance of repeating than the Vikings, who won 15 of 16 games last season and advanced to the semifinals of the state "B" tournament.

The picture at Walled Lake has changed considerably. The Vikings have moved into Class A. John Shadford has taken over the head coaching duties and stars like Larry Hughes and John Walker are missing through graduation.

Shadford saw his cagers win their first two outings, a romp over off-beaten Cranbrook and a much closer decision from Wayne. They'll be favored to defeat Van Dyke, but the going looks a lot tougher after the holidays.

Waterford walloped Cranbrook Tuesday in its curtain-raiser and at this early date the Skippers get the nod over Farmington, which also suffered heavy graduation losses. It will be the Inter-Lakes debut for Skipper coach Gerry Wallace.

The Berkley-Southfield clash could provide a preview of the eventual loop champion. Coach Bob Watts' rangy Jays and Berkley were pre-season choices to fight for the I-L crown and the fates of scheduling have thrown them together on opening night.

Each team has the personnel to be a strong contender. The Bears are blessed with both height and balance while Southfield also boasts rebounding strength and a sharp-shooting forward named Bob Shull.

Almost invades Dryden, Brown City goes to New Haven and Memphis visits Armada in Southern Thumb activity. South Central games are Oxford at Orionville and Millington at Inlay City.

St. Frederick plays host to Center Line St. Clement, St. James of Ferndale is at Orchard Lake St. Mary and Royal Oak St. Mary welcomes St. Rita of Detroit in the Suburban Catholic League.

OSU Back Among Top Grid Sophs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sophomores accounted for two of the four outstanding individual feats of the 1957 college football season and Ohio State's Bob White did the greatest job.

That was the consensus of the sports writers and editors casting votes in the annual Associated Press post-season poll.

White, carrying the offensive load usually handled by the injured Don Clark, almost single-handedly led Ohio State's Buckeyes into the Rose Bowl with a tremendous one-game performance against Iowa.

Dick Christy, North Carolina

State's All-America back, came in second to White in the balloting among 65 writers participating in the poll while sophomore Bob Anderson of Army tied with Heisman Trophy winner John Crow of Texas A&M for third place.

The balloting on this question in the AP questionnaire was scattered as the experts in various sections were impressed by the feats they saw themselves. But White's one-game performance drew nine votes, Christy six and Crow and Anderson four each.

White, a bench warmer most of the season, outgained the entire Iowa team when he was called upon in a clutch. He ran for 157 yards on 23 carries and when the Buckeyes started their final drive for a touchdown that produced a 17-13 victory, White gained all but three of the 65 yards and made the winning touchdown.

Christy's big day came against South Carolina, when he scored every point and wound up by kicking the winning field goal after time had expired. It happened when South Carolina incurred a penalty on the last play as time ran out. Since a game can't end on a penalty, N. C. State was given one more play and Christy, who never had made a field goal before, booted one 35 yards between the uprights to win the game, 29-26.

Crow's biggest day, among a series of big ones, came against Southern Methodist. The oddity was that he impressed the observers more by his defensive feats although he was regarded as about the best offensive player in the southwest conference. On that afternoon, Crow was virtually the whole A&M offense, but virtually every comment was that he was greater on defense.

Anderson, who eclipsed Glenn Davis' ground-gaining record for Army, was at his brightest against Utah in a wild-scoring game. The sophomore halfback ran for three of Army's five touchdowns, passed for one and set up every score in a 39-33 victory.

Other one-game performances which particularly impressed the experts were the line play of Kentucky's Lou Michaels in the upset of Tennessee; Duke's Wray Carlton scoring 26 points against Virginia and Jim Gibbons' nine pass receptions for Iowa against Minnesota.

Pontiac Hosts Fitzgerald

Anxious to get on the winning side of the ledger after a close opening loss to Cranbrook, Pontiac's wrestlers take on Van Dyke Fitzgerald in a 4 p.m. match at the Chiefs' gym tomorrow.

Pontiac dropped a 30-22 decision a week ago despite impressive pins scored by little guys Jack Keller and Bill Stephens and rugged 133-pounder Mel Nosenchuk and a decision by Duke Relyea.

All will be gunning for a repeat of victories scored last winter over Fitzgerald in Pontiac's first year of wrestling, along with such other pacemakers as Dave Payne, John Herron and Willie Duncan.

Cranbrook also returns to action running into strong Ann Arbor at Ann Arbor tomorrow in a big test for the Cranes.

Alabama Aide Shows Interest in Missouri Job

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. — Jerry Clairborne, newly named assistant to Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant at Alabama, said he is interested in the head coaching job at Missouri, but he denied applying for the job.

Clairborne was questioned last night about published reports that he personally has applied for the head coaching job vacated when Frank Broyles left Missouri to become head coach at Arkansas. Clairborne was asked to comment on a report first published by the Kansas City Star that he had reapplied for the Missouri head coaching assignment.

Clairborne said: "I am happy that Missouri may be considering me for the head coaching job there, but right now I'm hard at work recruiting and doing other work with the University of Alabama."

Bowlerama Attracts All County Bowlers

31 Keg Places Handle Blanks for Tournament

Ladies' Qualifying Site Changed to Motor Inn Instead of Howes

Communities all over Oakland County will be well represented in the 2nd annual Pontiac Press Bowlerama which gets underway the weekend of February 8-9. Last year entries came into the tournament from 16 different county communities including the woman's champion from Drayton Plains.

This year because of the co-operation of 31 bowling establishments in Oakland County entries are certain to surpass the 500 total of last year with representatives from every community.

Although the deadline date for men entries is midnight February 2nd and the women February 10th, all bowlers are urged to submit their entry blanks early.

The qualifying rounds for the men will take place Feb. 8-9 at Montcalm Center and at Howes Lanes. Previously it was announced that Howes would be a qualifying site for only the women.

This has been revised and Motor Inn will be the women's qualifying site Feb. 10th due to a conflict in the previous week with another tournament.

All finalists, constituting 10 per cent and all ties, will then go after the championship February 22nd at the Huron Bowl.

According to tournament rules bowlers must present their highest average for 1957 as of November 1st. There has been a question raised on this ruling.

As it reads it is interpreted to mean that the bowler's highest average commencing November 1, 1957 and the last day of 1957 will be the average which will be considered.

Since averages are registered with the ABC for December 31st, the highest average between November 1 and this date will be checked with the Detroit ABC office.

Based on 500 men entries and 250 women, at least 75 to 100 bowlers will share in the prize list.

For the top three men and women the prizes are guaranteed. The men's champion will get $450 plus percentage of entries and the woman $250 plus percentage.

The Press will also present handsome trophy awards to champions and runners-up, and the qualifying sites will present awards to the top qualifiers in their respective establishments.

Numerous gift awards will also be made to various bowlers, including such items as bowling balls, shoes, bags, etc.

The printed blank in the Press can be used to submit entries. They may be mailed to the Press with enclosed entry fee or left at any local alley.

White Sox Sign Dropo's Brother for Farm Team

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox today signed two young infielders, including the brother of Sox first sacker Walt Dropo, for their Colorado Springs club in the Class A Western League.

George Dropo, 23, joins the Sox organization after two years of Navy baseball and an all-around athletic career at the University of Connecticut.

Also signed was Mike Lucas, 21, a first baseman, from Denver, Colo., who was in the New York Yankee chain briefly, but quit in a contract dispute while with Peoria of the Three I league last spring. He batted .243 for Roswell, N.M., in 1956.

'Hurry-Up' Tactics Take Back Seat

Zone Defense, Foul Shots Pay Off

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Zone defense and free throws, a pair of weak sisters in this hurry-up-and-shoot era of college basketball, got the job done more often than not last night with Mississippi State blending the combination to stay unbeaten.

The Maroons (4-0) kept Memphis State's hot-shots outside and bagged 22 of 28 attempts from the foul line for a 56-54 victory.

It was the lowest total for Memphis State in 90 games.

Wake Forest's zone caused all sorts of trouble for Texas A&M and the Deacon's belted the Frogs 68-46 for another impressive inter-sectional victory by an Atlantic Coast Conference team. In conference play, North Carolina State bounced back from Tuesday's upset by Clemson for an 86-73 decision over South Carolina.

West Virginia, making one-sided contests a habit, rapped Penn State 84-50; St. Francis (Pa.) making the most of 57 free throw chances, defeated St. Joseph's (Pa.) 91-86; Syracuse got past Columbia, 55-50; Illinois made it 1-0 with a 91-75 job on Butler; and Michigan breezed past South Dakota State, 95-55.

Bailey Howell, Mississippi State's 67 man, knifed through Memphis State defenses designed to halt his layups for 26 points. But it was at the foul line that Mississippi State bagged it. Memphis State had a 21-17 edge from the field, but they took 61 shots, most of them over the zone, to the Maroons' 37. The losers hit only 12 of 22 free throws.

Wake Forest, hitting 54 per cent from the field, had it easy against the Aggies, who went 10 minutes in the second half before getting a basket after trailing 34-28 at the half. By the time A&M got moving in the second half, Wake Forest had made it 44-29.

Rebounding and good shooting did it for NC State against the taller, but inexperienced Gamecocks. Whitey Bell scored 22 and Lou Pucillo 20 for the Wolfpack. State had a 14-8 edge after 5 minutes.

West Virginia, topping 100 points in its first two games, had a bit of trouble against Penn State's ball control, but then sent in a pair of stubby sparkplugs, 5-7 Ron Retton and 5-9 Bucky Bolyard, who went to work on a press. In the 4 minutes the little guys were in, the Mountaineers pushed from a 19-18 edge to a 34-24 bulge.

St. Francis, which upset Duquesne Monday, was out-

Ban on Negro Star Unlikely

GREELEY, Colo. (AP)—Dr. Arthur F. Reynolds, chairman of Colorado State's athletic board of control, said today it is unlikely any change will be made in the Louisiana road trip.

The basketball team departs Saturday, Oliver Bell, the Bears' senior Negro forward, will be left behind because of Louisiana segregation laws, Coach John Bunn said.

Games are scheduled with Tulane Dec. 16, McNeese Dec. 17 at Lake Charles, La., and Centenary Dec. 18 at Shreveport.

A resolution approved by the athletic board Tuesday forbids Colorado State from scheduling any future games with schools which practice racial segregation. The board has eight faculty members and four students.

Loyal Duffy Guest Speaker

Spartan Grid Bust Tonight

A football honor banquet is at their coaches are the guests of honor.

But tonight's Michigan State grid bust at Devon Gables, sponsored by the MSU Alumni Club of Oakland County, will be more happy than usual in the eyes of Spartan followers.

Genial Hugh (Duffy) Daugherty, MSU's head football coach for the past four years, will be the guest speaker at tonight's annual affair and his presence comes on the heels of a shaky week on the Spartan campus.

Duffy had been conferring with Texas A & M officials relative to the head grid position in Aggie land, which was left vacant by the recent resignation of Paul (Bear) Bryant.

With the remark "money isn't everything," Duffy announced that he had turned down the Aggie offer in a hastily-called press conference yesterday at Chicago.

So loyal Duffy and the members of his coaching staff will be on hand this evening when Oakland County high school gridders and Lou Pavloff, Hazel Park tackle who was named the county's "most valuable player" by The Pontiac Press, will receive his award—a bronze football shoe from the Thom McAn Shoe Company of New York.

The award entitles Pavloff to a bid for a $1,000 college scholarship.

Monte Charles of Southfield, voted Oakland's "coach-of-the-year," will also be honored, along with members of The Press All County honor squad.

STRIKES AND SPARES

By Joe Wilman

Have you ever had a bowling ball fit too well? Sounds silly to most bowlers, I know, but a ball can fit a bowler too well. It generally happens only to husky bowlers.

The ball fits the bowler's hand so perfectly and it comes off his fingers in the delivery so easily, that he gets extra speed. This extra speed causes his ball to skid too much before it starts rolling and generating pin action.

In many cases, the bowler doesn't even know what's causing this extra speed. Because the fit of his ball and his timing are so perfect, he isn't aware of anything wrong there.

When this problem faces you, loosen up the thumb and finger holes a bit. This will make you grip the ball a bit more consciously and apply more finger lift to the ball as you release it. It will also cut down on your speed and the skidding action of the ball.

This fault generally occurs only to big men and to good bowlers. But split trouble happens to everyone.

Wolverines Easily Win Over South Dakota for Second Victory

ANN ARBOR (U) — Michigan toyed with dead-tired South Dakota State last night and easily raced to its second basketball victory of the season, 95-55.

But coach Bill Perigo wasn't overly pleased with his Wolverines despite the rout.

"I was sorry it wasn't a tougher game," Perigo said.

"In spurts we were pretty good, but there wasn't any pressure.

"We took 102 shots, a lot more than we should have. We averaged about 81 or 82 last year. We're not yet in good condition. But I'm beginning to get my guys lined out for the Big Ten season. I feel I have eight boys who can go in and play pretty well."

Depth had been one of Perigo's prime concerns before the season began. Now after two straight victories over South Dakota State and Nebraska on the heels of a defeat by Pittsburgh, Perigo believes he has a fairly strong bench.

Ex-Tennis Ace Is Dead at 67

HERMOSA BEACH, Calif. (U) — Maurice McLoughlin, whose explosive service and slashing net game revolutionized tennis almost a half century ago, is dead of a heart attack at 67.

In the 1913 Davis Cup finals against Great Britain, McLoughlin won the decisive fourth match and brought the trophy home after a nine-year absence. He was included in the American rankings in 1909 and did not drop out until 1916.

Freezing Start for Golf Meet

SANFORD, Fla. (U) — The third annual $15,000 Sanford Open Golf Tournament claimed two records before a ball had been hit in today's competition.

1. The starters' list showed 150 names, most yet for this event.

2. This will be the coldest Sanford open so far—and the people in this central Florida town hope that record will never so much as be approached again.

The predicted low this morning was in the mid-20's, mighty chilly in these normally mild parts. The shivery temperatures—a high of 43 was forecast—and stiff biting winds were expected to linger several days.

Cold weather and icy morning rain shortened the practice rounds and forced postponement of the usual PGA golf clinic exhibition yesterday.

OAKLAND B PLANS — Lake Orion is called the team to beat this season in the race for Oakland B League basketball honors and the Dragon cagers shown here are two of the reasons. Veterans Nick Niera (center) and Jim Drake (right) will over strategy with Orion coach Hal Carlin. Drake and Niera were the top scorers for the Dragons last season and are the chief causes of present Orion optimism.

Tigers' System Has 19 'Stars'

Minor Leaguers Picked for Recognition From Detroit Farms

DETROIT (U) — A total of 19 minor league baseball players from the Detroit Tiger system received all-star recognition.

Six of the eight Tiger farm teams finished in the first division and two managers, Bill Adair of Augusta and Bobby Mavis of Durham, were selected to manager-of-the-year posts in the Sally and Carolina Leagues.

Four members of Adair's championship club were named to the South Atlantic (Sally) League all-star team. The group consists of outfielder Ben Mateosky of Centerline, pitcher Ron Rozman of Detroit, first baseman Kent Hadley and outfielder George Alask.

Jack Feller, a catcher from Onsted, Mich., was selected as the all-star backstop on the Carolina League team. Right-handed pitcher Dave Reed of Battle Creek was one of the pitchers on the Carolina squad.

ON WAIVERS — Boston Red Sox have placed infielder Gene Mauch on waivers for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release so that he can manage Minneapolis in the American Association.

New Piston Cager Joins Team Today

PHILADELPHIA (INS) — Tom Marshall, purchased from the Cincinnati Royals, will join the Detroit Pistons tonight when they play the Philadelphia Warriors at Philadelphia.

The Warriors edged the Pistons, 100 to 97, in Detroit Tuesday night.

Detroit has placed guard Dick Atha and center Bob Houbregs on the injured list for five days.

Phil Jordan, a 6'10" center Detroit purchased from the New York Knickerbockers, scored five points in Tuesday night's game.

"I thought the kid gave a good account of himself," said Pistons coach Charley Eckman. "At least, I think he's worth looking at for a few more games."

Switched to End by 49ers

McElhenny Likes Job

SAN FRANCISCO (U) — Hugh McElhenny admits he'd prefer the backfield, but the San Francisco 49ers star says if he can be more help to the team at end, that's where he'll play.

Big Mac, long considered one of the National Football League's best running backs, was switched to end three weeks ago when injuries depleted the terminal corps. It came as a surprise to fans, but the planners in the 49ers had figured on the move in case of emergency. The emergency came when Clyde Conner was injured against Detroit.

McElhenny said playing end wasn't too strange; he was used as flanker in previous seasons.

"It wasn't just a spurt of the moment thing," declared assistant coach Red Hickey. "Mac had the speed we needed. And take a look at the backfield leaders this season. They're the power boys. So we could put Mac at end and use two fullbacks. A real fine athlete can change positions fast and Mac did."

"Throwing a pass is just another way of breaking a runner into the clear. Figure it this way. Instead of a guard blocking to give running room, a pass does the job."

"We need two fast men to get up the field. We had them with Conner and R. C. Owens. Now we have them with McElhenny and Owens."

McElhenny received the winning touchdown pass Sunday against Baltimore. That threw the 49ers into a three-way tie with the Colts and Detroit in the National Football League's Western Conference.

Just before that he had caught a pass for a gain of 43 yards that put San Francisco into scoring position. He gained 165 yards on eight catches during the day.

Coach Frank Albert says McElhenny will remain at end for Sunday's important battle with the Green Bay Packers. In the backfield will be veteran Joe Perry and either Gene Babb or Larry Barnes, Owens goes at the flanker and probably the gimpy legged Y. A. Tittle at quarter.

Babb, a rookie from Austin College in Texas, suffered a sprained knee against the Colts but is expected to be ready for action.

Tittle worked out yesterday and said he felt much better than on Tuesday. He suffered a muscle pull in his right leg two weeks ago against the New York Giants and a similar injury in his left leg against Baltimore.

Skinner Pleased With Defense

Red Wing Boss Now Hoping for Scoring Improvement

DETROIT (U) — Coach Jimmy Skinner of the Detroit Red Wings says he is pleased with improvement in his team's defensive work but added "now we need to get going on goal-scoring."

"Some of our boys are letting us down in the scoring department," said Skinner. "Alex Delvecchio looked good against Montreal last Sunday night and maybe he's starting to roll. Dutch Reibel hasn't started yet and Johnny Wilson is having all kinds of trouble getting his first goal of the season."

Delvecchio has scored only 5 goals and made 13 assists in the first 21 games. Reibel has only 4 goals and 4 assists while Wilson, with 10 assists, has yet to score a goal.

"We think these boys will get going," Skinner told the weekly meeting of the Detroit sports broadcasters. "But if we're going to make a run for it we'll have to get some scoring from the 'little fellows'—guys like Metro Prystai, Lorne Ferguson, Forbes Kennedy, Bill Dineen and Billy Dea."

Senate Probers Now in Detroit

if New 'Irregularities'
Are Found in UAW

DETROIT (INS) — Investigators for the Senate Labor-Management Relations Committee said they were in Detroit yesterday to probe the United Auto Workers but declined to disclose if they uncovered any new "irregularities."

John J. McGovern, a counsel for the committee, said a three-man team was assigned to continue the investigation which was started at Kohler, Wis., where the UAW has been striking against the Kohler Co., since April, 1954.

McGovern said the committee was "astounded by what we found in Kohler—everything from simple assault to dynamiting."

He stated records of the UAW's report on the Kohler strike have been subpoenaed and the inquiry would be extended to cover the scope of a boycott on Kohler products, which was stimulated by the UAW-CIO.

McGovern said the team was "too busy at this time" to continue listening to testimony in the $4,500,000 damage suit filed by junk-dealer Carl Renda against the UAW, five of its officials, and five police officers.

Renda brought the suit for malicious prosecution after charges against him were dropped in the 1948 shotgun shooting of UAW chief Walter P. Reuther.

McGovern declared the financial structure of the UAW, including its expenditures for "educational" activity in connection with political campaigning will also be studied.

He added studies to determine the effects of the boycott program against Kohler products will be made in six or seven areas.

Snowfall Forces Travelers to Seek Lodging in Jail

IRONWOOD (U) — Weary travelers slept in the city jail, fire station, fire chief's home and lobbies of hotels and motels Tuesday night as a wind-driven snow storm buffeted the city.

Sixteen inches of snow were on the ground when the latest storm dumped four more inches, whipped into drifts by 20-mile winds.

By early evening all hotel and motel accommodations in the Ironwood area were sold out. Police Chief John L. Sullivan volunteered to handle some of the overflow in the city jail and he had a few takers.

The State Conservation Department reported 18 inches of snow on the ground in nearby Wakefield in Gogebic County Wednesday, making it the deepest snow-on-ground reading in the state.

Ironwood's snow depth varied considerably because drifts.

In Scientific Engineering Asks High School Hike

DENVER (U) — Colorado's Board of Education has called for a step up in scientific engineering in high schools in a statement which the chairman said was inspired by Russia's technological advances.

"The fact they are charging ahead justifies urgency in meeting their challenge," said Mrs. Anna C. Pettes, the chairman.

14 Die in Mexico City as Result of Cold Wave

MEXICO CITY (INS) — Police reported that four persons were dead as a result of a new cold wave that has struck Mexico City with 14 degree temperatures.

Private and public charitable institutions as well as social workers are aiding the residents of the area to prevent a rise in the toll.

MATCHING SEAT COVERS — Having a little trouble with their can-can slips, Jennifer and Antoinette Penzabene of Albany, N. Y., have passersby seeing spots before their eyes. A playful

Wood Unparalleled for Fragrant Fuel

Gnarled Pinon Known for Delicious Nuts

SANTA FE, New Mexico — The state tree of New Mexico — the humble gnarled pinon — comes into its own during the winter season in the Land of Enchantment, when the fragrance of thousands of wood fires lies over New Mexico's towns and cities.

The pinon (Peen-yone) has played an important part in the history of the area since the first Indians migrated to New Mexico thousands of years ago.

Charred wood from the pinon has been found by archaeologists examining buried campfires that burned centuries before the first Spanish conquerors claimed New Mexico in the 16th Century. Logs from the hardy pinon have been discovered still supporting roofs built by prehistoric pit-house dwellers.

The pinon (Pinus Edulis) is an unlovely tree, a twisted, stunted species of pine that grows abundantly in the middle altitudes of New Mexico, from 5,000 to 8,000 feet.

Its wood is considered too coarse and brittle for building purposes, but the delicately flavored nut it produces is a gourmet's delight, and as a fragrant fuel its wood is unparalleled.

The pinon was chosen as the official state tree of New Mexico in 1949, after a series of contests. The quaking aspen — a more beautiful but less useful tree — was runner-up, but the pinon was chosen because of its long history as fuel and food producer.

The Spanish general Coronado, who explored New Mexico in 1540-42, told of the "pine nuts" stored by the Indians for the winter. The early colonists burned pinon logs in their fireplaces, as many New Mexicans do today, and felt that no wood compared with it in terms of heat and fragrance.

Navajo Indians harvest tons of pinon nuts every autumn, and the roasted nuts are sold not only in New Mexico, but in all major American cities, where they are considered great delicacies. Wild deer that have fed on pinon nuts are considered by New Mexico's son than deer that browse on other plants.

A hardy tree, the pinon grows in abundance in most parts of the sportsmen to produce better venstate. Visitors to the Land of Enchantment have brought word of the pinon back to their homes, and in recent years increasing quantities of pinon wood have been shipped to other parts of the country. In addition to the wood, pinon incense is sold in many New Mexico trading posts, making it possible for people everywhere to have the fragrant touch of a New Mexico winter in their homes.

Subway Strike Keeps Santa From Manhattan

By OLGA CURTIS
NEW YORK (INS) — The New York subway strike is keeping even Santa Claus from "coming to town."

Santa's doing his biggest business in the suburbs, instead.

DENTS SALES
The transportation tie-up has dented Christmas shopping sales in New York's big downtown stores by an estimated 15 to 25 per cent.

There's space in the aisles, which is unique during the Christmas season, no reports of lost children, and a drop in shoplifting.

"It's drastic," said Vice President William Tobey of Abraham & Straus. "Our employees are showing up but customer traffic is off by 25 per cent."

He reported that business in the three suburban A & S stores is "very good" by contrast, but said: "It's not enough to make up the difference in sales at the main store. If the strike continues, it might mean as much as a 20 per cent drop in Christmas volume, and Christmas is the peak season in all stores."

REPORT SIMILAR
A similar report came from Arthur L. Manchec, vice president at Macy's. Business in New York's biggest store, Manchec said, is "off normal."

"Three of our seven Santas are just sitting in back rooms smoking," he lamented. "No kids."

Manchec said Macy's four suburban stores are doing "much better" business than expected because the strike is keeping women in the suburbs. But that "doesn't offset the downtown store drop," he added.

In the specialty store of Saks Fifth Avenue, which has no Santa or toy department, the employment picture was rosier, if not the business.

"Only about a hundred of our 3,400 salespeople are missing," said Vice President F. Raymond Johnson. "But our customer traffic is off—people seem to be scared of even trying to get to town. The two suburban stores are doing very well, however, and our phone sales are increasing."

Johnson said Saks Fifth is worrying more about the end of the strike than about the strike.

"There'll be an avalanche of customers when the strike is over," he predicted. "They'll hit the store like a tornado."

Meanwhile, women who made it to their favorite store by trolley, bus or cab, found the strike-bound shopping situation "heavenly."

"You can get salespeople all to yourself," reported one happy

Underwater Exploration Keeps Coopers Together

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (U) — Looking for something the whole family can do together? Then try underwater exploration.

The Gary Cooper family does it, and they have the time of their lives.

This I learned from Cooper himself, a man not noted for loquacity. But he talked at great length about his family's submarine adventures. It seems they took it up at Antibes last summer on a European vacation. Now they're exploring the Southern California coast, Cooper, his wife Rocky and their beautiful daughter Maria.

You'll find them on weekends off the coast of Palos Verdes or Catalina Island. And in water that is a chilling 60 degrees on the surface and as low as 45 degrees below!

"But you don't notice the cold," he explained. "You wear rubber suits that cover you up completely and keep the cold out."

Cooper, who was dressed inconspicuously in a tuxedo for "10 North Frederick," explained that his family got their training for diving at the bottom of a swimming pool.

"There are several steps you must learn," he said, "how to empty your mask of water when you are beneath the surface. How to take off the mask underwater and put it back on again. How to remove the breathing gear in case of emergency. How to tell when your air supply is giving out."

"The graduation comes when you get a bunch of people to sit in a circle at the bottom of the swimming pool. Each one takes off his breathing gear and hands it to the next person, who puts it on himself."

Having graduated, the Coopers are now playing the Pacific waters. Just two weeks ago, they came across the remains of a wreck off the Palos Verdes cliffs.

"It was scattered all over the ocean bottom," he related. "I brought up a long nail from it, and the thing was square shaped, indicating it had been made before nails were manufactured round.

"No, I don't think it was a Spanish ship. More likely one of the boats that brought the Forty-Niners up from the Isthmus to San Francisco."

Shipping Season Ending in North

SAULT STE. MARIE (U) — A crust of ice on the shipping channels of the lower St. Marys River yesterday heralded the end of the Upper Lakes shipping season. With the temperatures well below zero, the U. S. Coast Guard said ice was forming across Lake Munuscong in the lower river.

The port here was closed for the season yesterday when the freighter C. S. McFarlane left with a cargo of pig iron for Saginaw.

Only one American lock is still open. The Canadian canal is to close at midnight tomorrow. Canal engineers on the American side say their lock will remain open for all vessels leaving the lakehead by midnight Dec. 14 and for westbound freighters reaching the mouth of the St. Marys River by midnight Dec. 15.

There still are 26 freighters in Lake Superior planning to head south.

Bolivian Government Meets Rebel Violence

LA PAZ, Bolivia (INS) — The Bolivian cabinet met Wednesday with the national committee of the National Revolutionary (government) Party to consider a fresh outbreak of violence in the Santa Cruz region.

Members of the rebellious "Santa Cruz Committee" attacked the party's local leader, Luis Sandoval Moron, who fled to the mountains after a pitched battle last Friday

Venezuelans Urged to Vote for Jimenez

CARACAS, Venezuela (U) — The board that runs Venezuela's elections has in effect told the public that a vote next Sunday against President Marcos Perez Jimenez is a vote for poverty.

Perez Jimenez, seeking another five-year term, and 130 government-nominated congressional aspirants are the only candidates. The ballot provides only for a yes-no vote on those candidates.

The Electoral Council published an advertisement saying: "Venezuelans: It is necessary to choose between progress and backsliding, order and disorder, prosperity and misery. Vote!"

Prosperity based on oil and lavish public works seems to favor the government. No serious opposition has shown itself and the country has been quiet.

Pillows Seem to Talk as Inmates Sleep

VISALIA, Calif. (AP)—When some of the prisoners at Tulare County's road camp go to bed at night their pillows seem to talk to them.

"You will have faith in yourself, faith in others and faith in the essential decency of mankind. You will know your faults and you shall overcome them. You can and will solve life's problems. You are filled with love and compassion for all. You do this with the help of God. I am filled with love and compassion for all, so help me God."

It goes on for 10 minutes.

"I believe what we are doing is unique in the annals of penology," says John Locke, Tulare County public defender.

A tape recording does the talking, through an earphone next to a prisoner's pillow. Locke and Edgar D. Price, his assistant, suggested it. They wrote the script, along with the Rev. Glen Peters.

pastor of Ivanhoe Presbyterian church, and Robert C. Lally, former recreational therapist at Porterville State Hospital.

Listening is voluntary.

The idea, Locke explains, is to help a man to the threshold of sleep and unite the subconscious with the conscious to implant moral principles necessary for living successfully in society. It seeks to substitute love for hate.

"In this way," Locke says, "the inmates will—it is hoped—no longer commit partial suicide in a life of crime and punishment or in a resort to alcoholism."

The recording runs twice as the listener starts to sleep. After an hour's intermission it continues through the night at a volume barely audible. Half the time the voice speaks to the inmate. The other half it is as if he is speaking to himself.

Locke plans to interview the participating men after 30 to 60 days to see if it has changed their outlook on life. He hopes a university research group will make a long-range study, determine if the men have better records than other prisoners after they get out.

The Visalia Kiwanis Club and the Tulare Peace Officers Assn., are underwriting the project. It has been in use for several days and the county supervisors voted yesterday to continue the experiment.

Dulles Would Meet Soviet Strides NATO Needs New Life

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles says there is need to breathe more life into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to meet Soviet military and political strides.

Some people will think that this is a minor revolution, a change in the character of NATO. But there is nothing new in the idea that NATO should be more than a defensive military alliance.

The idea that it should be a wide "Atlantic Community" of free nations grouped roughly around the North Atlantic Ocean has been there since its inception.

Primarily, NATO was a defensive alliance when it was created. Primarily, it still is, because of the new emphasis on the military caused by the Soviet development of an intercontinental missile revealed in the launching of the Sputniks.

In 1949, four years after World War II ended, the Soviet Union had extended the area of its control in eastern Europe far beyond its own borders. The need for a defensive alliance was considered desperate. In 1948 Czechoslovakia was the scene of a new Communist coup, adding to the list of Soviet penetrations. And the Russians had tried by a blockade to force the allies out of Berlin. The western air lift prevented that.

Communist forces conquered China and in 1950 came the shock of the Red attempt to take all of Korea. The latter development sped the NATO grouping and also the decisions to bring Western Germany firmly into the western defensive fold.

The Soviet Union, called by western observers the last big imperialist power left in the world and the nation that did not disarm after the war, was pushing its way westward—"probing" was the phrase of Lenin, the father of the Bolshevik revolution.

In the West the European democracies after the war were divided, disarmed and almost defenseless—depending on Marshall Aid funds to restore their economies and depending on American possession of the atomic bomb to defend them.

But since the days of NATO's creation, the Soviet war against the so-called "capitalist world," or areas not subscribing to Communist principles, has expanded from purely military phases to a wide offensive that includes economic, political and propaganda warfare. This is all done within a framework of what Moscow calls "peaceful coexistence."

The Soviets have penetrated the Middle East. They have been first in the race to develop an intercontinental missile. Without an improved NATO—in the political and economic fields as well as the military—the Soviet offensive will be rated as highly dangerous. It is an offensive that could be the sapping of the West in preparation for military assault.

'Fix-It Santa' Helps Needy Kids

EAST ORANGE, N. J. (U. P.) — In some parts of the world they call him Kris Kringle or St. Nicholas, but to children here he's "Santa Claus Joe."

And it's Joe Raymond's little fix-it shop where all the toys come from — not the North Pole.

For two months out of the year, Raymond hunts up old toys and repairs them for underprivileged youngsters. Then at the holiday season he gives them out at two Christmas parties he holds, and also delivers them from his sack as he goes from house to house.

At 72, Raymond looks the part. So much so, in fact, that a television station has offered him a lucrative fee to play Santa on the air. The assignment would bring him more money than he is making now from his shop and his Navy pension.

"But who needs the money?" says Raymond. "I have enough to buy my food and pay the rent. What else does a man need? Besides, I just couldn't leave my young friends."

GOT IDEA

Many years ago, when Raymond was 5, his father took him to see a grocer friend who was playing Santa Claus.

"He was having such a good time I decided I would like to do the same thing some day," says Raymond. Finally, after a 25-year hitch in the Navy, Raymond made his wish come true.

Many children have grown up since they last heard "Santa Claus Joe" chuckle as he handed them a new toy but he'd still seem familiar.

Except for one thing. "Santa Claus Joe" now delivers toys from a truck instead of his old horse-drawn sleigh.

Air Force Has Office for Warfare in Space

WASHINGTON (U) — The Air Force has created a special office to look into the futuristic problems of warfare waged in the empty regions of space.

It had in operation today the beginning of a small "Directorate of Astronautics," with officers drawn from the USAF's research and development branch. The new office is assigned the specific job of managing development programs which do not relate to ordinary aircraft operations and missile programs.

A directive signed by Lt. Gen. Donald L. Fitt, chief of research and development, said, "The function of this new directorate will be to plan, organize and manage the Air Force programs in astronautics."

It was reported, meanwhile, that President Eisenhower may be urged soon to speed up work in another area of research—that dealing with development of weather control as a defense measure.

He added: "For purposes of continuing reconnaissance over the entire surface of the globe, the ever-seeing eye in outer space is unexcelled."

In a speech prepared for the National Security Industrial Assn. Barclay added that "the airplane, as a weapons system, will give way to the guided missile in the not too distant future."

The spokesman for the Weather Control Advisory Committee indicated they thought the group's report to Eisenhower probably would be devoted mainly to evaluating experiments in controlling weather for peacetime purposes.

Long Range Prediction Errs Chilly Gazers Wait Vainly as Sputnik Came Earlier

ANN ARBOR (U) — There were some chilly star gazers in Michigan this week who may have thought the experts didn't know Sputnik II from the man in the moon.

A report from the University of Michigan predicted the Russian satellite would be visible first Tuesday morning at 7:04 a.m. It wasn't and a lot of cold folks were quick to sound off about it.

But the University was not to blame. Neither, for that matter, was the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Washington which put out the calculations on which the Michigan Sputnik-sighting prediction was based.

Monday's original Smithsonian predictions, as reported by Prof. Liller, also said the satellite would be visible in the early-morning sky throughout this week six minutes later each day and increasingly lower in the sky.

That, too, was revised, Liller said.

The new schedule calls for it to be seen about 15 minutes earlier each day. It should be visible in the sky, almost overhead and moving from north to south.

Michigan residents, assuming favorable cloud conditions, could have seen it today at 5:57 a.m. Tomorrow the schedule calls for it to be visible about 15 minutes earlier, 5:42 a.m. or thereabouts.

The time estimate is for the Ann Arbor area, Liller said, but it won't vary much more than a minute either way for the state in general.

Liller said Sputnik II should be visible over Michigan through Saturday and perhaps Sunday morning as well.

At its height of about 600 miles above Michigan, it appears as a bright star which takes four or five minutes to cross the heavens.

But, they added, the report might include this statement made by Dr. Henry Houghton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology: "I shudder to think of the consequences of a prior Russian discovery of a feasible method of weather control. . . . An unfavorable modification of our climate in guise of a peaceful effort to improve Russia's climate could seriously weaken our economy and our ability to resist."

Rep. Ford (R-Mich) said in a statement that the nation would have had a workable ICBM four years ago if former President Truman had not issued an economy order.

Staff representatives of the Advisory Committee on Weather Control said the committee may make such a recommendation in its final report to the President at the end of this month.

The order setting up the new Air Force directorate listed a half dozen projects which are being transferred to that office initially.

The list indicated the programs to be transferred included projects such as the proposed "Big Brother" satellite or space platform which would scan the earth from an orbit high up transmitting data on what was happening around the world.

One project listed was the "ballistic missile defense"—apparently referring to the USAF's anti-missile project called "Wizard." This is an attempt to devise a system utilizing ultra long range radar and ballistic missiles to intercept and destroy enemy intercontinental ballistic missiles. It is similar to the "Zeus" project of the Army.

Heading the new directorate is Brig. Gen. Homer Boushey, a native of San Francisco.

An Army missile expert—Brig. Gen. J. A. Barclay, deputy commander of the Redstone Arsenal in Alabama—said in a Washington speech that larger satellites have "tremendous military significance."

Pontiac Sites Eyed by Army

Expect Decision Soon; Altered Building Plans Increase Allocation

The Army is still eyeing five sites in Pontiac on which to build a new reserve training center, it was revealed yesterday by Brig. Gen. L. S. Bork, chief of the Michigan Military District in Detroit.

Plagued in the past by many delays in securing a suitable site, the Army official said a Department of Army engineer team should know by "Christmas time" which of the five sites is best.

Gen. Bork said Secretary of the Army Wilbur Brucker promised Pontiac "first priority as far as funds are concerned."

A change in reserve training programs has altered plans for the building, the general said. "Plans are now for a $75,000 three-unit building for 600 men," he said. Original allocations were for $320,000.

The locations of the five sites were not revealed. Four are city-owned property while the fifth is privately owned, the official said.

City Manager Walter K. Willman said he was anxious for the new building so that the present reserve headquarters at 37 W. Lawrence St. could be removed. Then the municipal parking lot next to it may be completed.

Seeks to Impound Uninsured Autos

LANSING (U) — Rep. Willard L. Bowerman Jr. (R-Lansing) said today that he again plans to introduce a bill in the 1958 legislature calling for the impoundment of uninsured automobiles involved in accidents.

Bowerman said a similar bill was defeated by the insurance industry in 1955 but that he understood they might look more favorably on the bill at the present time.

Such an impoundment law, Bowerman said, would not in any way affect an insured motorist involved in an accident.

"Besides increasing the per cent of persons insured," Bowerman said, "impoundment will also make it easier for the injured party to collect his damages."

Bowerman said provisions will be made in the bill for release of the car to the owner if the damages caused by the accident are settled.

Police Dog Does Job; It May Mean His Life

LOS ANGELES (U) — Baron, a 3-year-old German shepherd, had a job to do and he did it. It may cost him his life.

The big black dog lies paralyzed today, felled in the line of duty by a robber's bullet.

For the last three months Baron has "worked" in a liquor store operated in nearby La Mirada by Raymond Baker. His assignment was to attack at a command from Baker or his manager Robert Nelson.

Baker bought well-trained Baron from a kennel three months ago after being held up in his store. Baron and Nelson were behind the counter Tuesday night when the robbery took place.

"Baron leaped through the air and the man shot him. I grabbed my pistol beneath the counter and fired. I missed the man's head as he ran out the door. I fired again because I didn't want to hit Baron."

The gunman's bullet lodged near Baron's spine and he was unable to move. Nelson rushed him to a veterinary hospital.

Baron took his guard dog seriously, Nelson said.

"He wouldn't have anything to do with anyone except Baker and me," Nelson said. "He wouldn't let the customers pet him. He just stayed on the floor behind the counter, waiting. But he had fun running and playing when we took him out to the vacant lot next door."

The veterinarians are going to wait a couple of days to see if the paralysis goes away. If not, they will operate.

Kalamazoo Students to Study in Europe

KALAMAZOO (U) — Future freshman students at Kalamazoo College will be able to spend a summer of study in Europe under a plan outlined yesterday by President Weimer K. Hicks.

He said top students would be given $300 to cover half of their estimated costs abroad, including tuition at universities in France, Germany and Spain. Dr. Hicks said students would be expected to supply the remainder, helped, when necessary, by loans and outside grants.

The program will be financed by the S. Rudolph Light Trust of $300,000. The fund was established in 1932 by Dr. S. R. Light, a former vice president of the Upjohn Co. and a one-time Kalamazoo mayor, for educational and charitable purposes.

The first group will consist of 25 students, possibly including some upperclassmen. Dr. Hicks said they will go to Europe next summer, but from then on trips will be limited to freshmen at the completion of their first year.

Tries to Conduct Own Defense, Tears Up Case

CHICAGO (U) — William Allen, 25, in Criminal Court on a charge of robbery, objected to a court-appointed lawyer's efforts in his behalf. The judge agreed to let him conduct his own defense.

As his first move, Allen rushed over to the defense lawyer's table and began tearing up all the papers concerning his case. Bailiffs took him to the court bullpen to cool off. There he knocked out a window, cutting his hands and arms.

After first aid, Allen was returned to the court. He grabbed a state exhibit, a revolver allegedly used in the robbery, and began brandishing it.

An officer stepped in, disarmed Allen and returned him to jail to await another hearing.

Panhandler Appreciates 'Red Carpet' Treatment

DETROIT (U) — Willie Houston, 47, pleaded guilty in Recorder's Court to a panhandling charge. Before Judge Paul E. Krause handed out a 30-day jail term, Houston said: "Your honor, I want you to know I appreciate that officer taking me through the front door after he arrested me. Every other time I've been picked up I was always hauled in by the side door or basement."

U.S. Officials Tour Area Missile Plant

DETROIT (U) — Several top U.S. defense officials, including Army Secretary Brucker and Air Force Secretary Douglas, returned to Washington yesterday after touring the Chrysler Corp.'s missile plant in suburban Sterling Township.

The two cabinet members described themselves as "impressed" by the plant, which was among two visited by the group in an inspection trip of the nation's missile production facilities. They toured the Redstone missile arsenal at Huntsville, Ala., Tuesday.

Brucker and Douglas said the main purpose of the inspection trip is to determine how various U. S. missile facilities will be used in producing the Jupiter.

Others in the party included William M. Holaday, the Defense Department special assistant for missiles; Lt. Gen. C. S. Irvine, Air Force deputy chief of staff; and Lt. Gen. E. L. Cummings, Army chief of ordnance.

Javits Favors National Debt Limit Raise

Present Strictures Felt Inadequate for Secure Defense Program

NEW YORK (INS) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) indicated that he is in favor of raising the national debt limit.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Society of the Plastic Industry, Inc., dinner in New York, Javits noted that "the possibility of increased defense expenditures focuses our attention on the need for a governmental structure which will allow us to make them . . ."

The New York Republican pointed out that the treasury shows the government is within a few hundred million dollars of the 275 billion dollar debt limit. He added: "This situation provides very little margin for unexpected contingencies, including a rapid increase in expenditures for defense."

"We cannot allow ourselves in a time of such emergency to be thus circumscribed."

Javits said "we must at least be prepared to spend more money on national security to catch up with and pull ahead of the Russians in the present situation."

He said American business must "re-evaluate its posture in the defense of our country and the values for which it has struggled so long, now mortally challenged by the war weapons potential of the Soviet Union."

Javits asserted that the reality of Soviet intercontinental ballistic missile capability in the immediate future is "jarring us out of the complacency that has caused business generally to favor budget and tax cutting priority over foreign military and economic assistance needs. U.S. Information activities and defense . . ."

In order to muster our country's full effort in the cold war struggle, he said, we must materially expand our efforts in the following fields:

- Overseas private investment.
- Technical assistance from business.
- Information and education from business sources.
- Trained personnel for work overseas.
- Higher education facilities for engineers and scientists.
- Tourism.

Refugees in Eire Refuse to Budge

DUBLIN — Eire still is having trouble satisfying the 341 Hungarian refugees who remain in that country, Dublin reports.

A plan to move them to McCann Barracks, Templemore, from present quarters at Knockalishen camp, recently met with opposition. After a four hour conference the visitors from Hungary announced that they were not prepared to accept the offer. Instead they proposed that the $28,000 the Government was to spend on re-conversion of Templemore Barracks should be spent on the present camp kitchen and living quarters.

One refugee asked: "Why does the Irish Government wish to spend money when all we want is to leave? The poor people of Ireland do not want us."

'Million Dollar Tree' Decorated in Texas

DALLAS (AP)—For the 32nd year the famed "Million-Dollar Tree" in nearby Highland Park will be illuminated with 1,800 Christmas lights. The 65-foot pecan tree was planted just after the Civil War.

Best reason anyone can give for its name is that "A million dollars couldn't replace it."

Junior Editors Quiz on MIRAGES

QUESTION: What causes a mirage?

ANSWER: Sometimes when you're riding in a car in summer on a concrete road, you see what looks like a distant pool of water on the highway. On the desert, men often think they see a cool lake only to discover wastes of sand when they reach the spot. Sailors at sea sometimes see what appears to be a ship floating upside down in the sky.

These are mirages caused by reflections from a layer of hot air near the surface of the earth. When you are on a highway or the desert, for example, you see part of the sky reflected on the road or on the distant sand.

At sea, dense layers of hot air next to the surface of the water often focus light rays from a ship beyond the horizon into an image in the sky. Sometimes the image is upside down. Sailors call these mirages ghost ships.

FOR YOU TO DO: Next time you are out riding watch for what seems to be a pool on the distant pavement. Such a mirage may even be apparent on a sunny day in winter.

(Clarence Pingel of Ashland, Wis., wins $10 for submitting this question. Send yours on a postcard to Violet Moore Higgins, AP Newsfeatures, in care of The Pontiac Press. Tomorrow: Why do birds sing?)

Plane's Baggage Looted by Islanders

DAECA, E. Pakistan—Reports are current in Daeca, East Pakistan, that after the crash of a Dakota passenger plane on Char Lakshmi Isle, several months ago, inhabitants of the island looted the baggage and other cargo.

All occupants of the plane were killed in the crash, but officials have questioned the peasant Mohammed of Azimullah who brought news of the tragedy to Nonkhall two days after the crash.

Knowing that Char Lakshmi is the operating center of a notorious gang of river gangsters, the police made a search. They are reported to have found possessions of passengers hidden, especially clothing of Mrs. A. Salim, killed with her husband and baby.

Camera Tracks U. S. Missiles

Early Flight of Rocket Moving Into Space Is Recorded by Telescope

NORWALK, Conn. (AP)—A Norwalk-manufactured camera designed to track and time missiles in the early stages of their flight has been installed at Melbourne Beach, Fla., about 15 miles south of the U. S. Air Force's Cape Canaveral missile launching site.

Called a Mark II Recording Optical Tracking Instrument, it enables the Air Force to record the track of a missile moving into space and time it with greater accuracy than has heretofore been possible.

Manufactured by the Perkin-Elmer Corp. of Norwalk, ROTI consists of a 25-inch aperture primary objective telescope, sighting telescopes, camera controls and assorted equipment. Mounted on a Navy 4-inch gun mount especially adapted for the purpose, the whole assembly weighs more than eight tons. The largest, most complex system of its type ever built, ROTI can photograph details of missiles several hundred miles away.

The Melbourne ROTI is one of four being built by Perkin-Elmer for the Air Force Missile Test Center. A second data-collection station is nearing completion at Vero Beach, Fla.

ROTI, says Dr. Roderic M. Scott, vice president of Perkin-Elmer, provides tracking information unobtainable from other sources. The ROTI system provides actual photographs of missiles in flight.

Tower Erected in Japan Honors 2 Dead AF Pilots

TOKYO (INS)—Grateful Japanese farmers in Saitama Prefecture have erected a memorial tower to a pair of American officers who died when they crash-landed their jet bomber in a river bed to avoid nearby farms.

The officers—Lt. Harry Elliott of Lakeland, Fla., and Lt. John Friel of Grand Junction, Ia.—were flying a B47 from Johnson Air Force Base, outside Tokyo, when they crashed two months ago.

They guided the plane away from fields where Japanese farmers were sowing barley seeds. The plane exploded in the dry bed of the Iruma River.

The farmers said the men could have escaped death had they brought their craft down on the farms.

Renew Old Friendships by Friendly Holiday Notes

There is no nicer time of the year to renew old friendships and strengthen new ones than at Christmas. If these friends are in a distant city, a letter is a happy way of doing it.

Never write a Christmas letter in a hurry. Such a letter should be chatty, full of news of interest to the recipient and characterized by a warmly personal feeling.

Before starting assemble the necessary supplies. As for a pen, make sure that the point is suited to your style of handwriting.

If you write a large, heavy hand, you probably should have a broad point, while a light handwriting usually requires a fine or medium point.

If you use a ballpoint pen you will be wise to equip yourself with one of the new ones with a sterling silver point. The sterling silver eliminates corrosion and makes it possible to use all the ink in the pen.

For Christmas letters use one of the special Christmas papers. For those friends with whom you keep in closer touch, Christmas notes would be nice and there are many pretty designs in holiday note papers.

All gifts should be acknowledged by an informal note or letter except those from close friends whom you may see on Christmas Day. These letters need not be long and you may use note or letter paper and be perfectly correct.

When acknowledging gifts after the holidays any type of note or letter paper would be correct. If you write immediately after the holidays, it would be an attractive thought to use a "Happy New Year" note paper.

There are always many invitations to parties and various festivities during the holidays. An engraved invitation should be acknowledged formally in the same phraseology in which it is written. Although you might reply to an informally written invitation by telephone, it is in better taste to acknowledge it with a note of thanks, either accepting or declining.

'South Pole Calling' Not Merely Bum Joke

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Mrs. Rose Hutchings thought it was just a bum joke when she answered her telephone at 1:30 a.m. and a voice said: "South Pole calling."

Then she heard the voice of her son-in-law Gerald Dubois, who is serving with a naval unit in the South Pole area.

A ham operator in St. Clair Shores had contacted Dubois' group by radio and then put through a telephone call to bring Mrs. Hutchings into the hookup.

Restrictions Predicted on Japanese Goods

TOKYO (INS)—An influential Japanese economic journal warned that U. S. restrictions on Japanese imports will be tightened between now and next June.

The journal blamed a deflationary trend in the U. S. for the restrictions, explaining that small businesses whose goods compete with Japanese products are hardest hit.

Meanwhile, the Japan Committee of the International Chamber of Commerce urged the group's American committees yesterday to help eliminate discriminatory practices by the U. S. against Japanese goods.

Utah Couple Observe 79th Year of Marriage

FAIRVIEW, Utah, (AP)—Peter and Celestia Peterson, childhood sweethearts, observed their 79th wedding anniversary in this central Utah town where both were born.

Peterson, 97, credits love for the enduring marriage. Seven of their 10 children still survive.

Do-It-Yourself Project Sets Colorful Stage for Christmas Trim

A handy man with a saw can turn out a novel Christmas door wreath, with a colorful stage for a Christmas setting.

This is possible because of an attached shelf on which to display Nativity figures or Santa Claus and his reindeer.

A frame for the wreath can be made from one board, 11½ inches wide and 4 feet long. Ten-cent-store figures, glued to the shelf, make a center display.

Attach holly, laurel or other Christmas greens, pine cones and decorative ribbons by winding, tacking or stapling.

For the frame, draw two semi-circles, each 23 inches in diameter, on the board. When the curved rims are cut out with a coping saw, one of the resulting semi-circular pieces in the shelf. On half of the other is the shelf bracket. Saw ½ inch from each of the straight sides of the brace, reducing the radius of the curve to approximately 8 inches.

Join the two curved rims with dovetail joints and glue. Attach the brace to the shelf with 8-penny finishing nails and glue. Flatten the lower end of the brace by planing so that it fits evenly on the lower rim. Also flatten the rear corners of the shelf so they will fit evenly within the rim.

Fasten the shelf in place with recessed strap braces. Drill a hole 2 inches deep into the lower rim and secure the bottom of the brace with a finishing nail, using a nail set.

Hang the wreath with strong ribbon or fasten with screws in place of a door knocker.

Tree Sandwiches in Tune With Yuletide

These tree-sandwiches could have arrived from the snowy Northland. To make the "trees," cut each slice of bread in half, diagonally. Place halves together and trim crusts so that sides are even length. Cut in half to form two small, even triangles, cutting from the right angle corner.

To form base of tree, cut two scallops along the widest side. Spread with a filling of cream cheese blended with crushed pineapple and chopped maraschino cherries.

To Ask $300 Million School Aid in Science

WASHINGTON (INS) — The administration is planning to ask Congress next month for a 300 million dollar aid to education program emphasizing the fields of science and engineering.

The program would provide federal funds for science and mathematics scholarships, higher teacher pay, laboratory equipment and construction of higher education classrooms.

Federal grants would have to be matched by contributions from states or communities.

The program, now in the final blueprint stage at the Health, Education and Welfare Department calls for spending nearly 300 million dollars annually for four or five years. It was worked out with professional educators and the Republican policy committee.

It would be based on the traditional federal grants-in-aid programs and leave control of public education in the states and communities.

The administration, it was learned, will vigorously oppose any move in Congress to set up any type of federal control over the nation's schools.

NO CRASH PROGRAM

Welfare Secretary Marion E. Folsom believes strongly that there should be no crash program for stepping up teaching of scientists only.

A spokesman for the department said that the secretary firmly holds to the viewpoint that the traditional system of American education should prevail, but with the addition of incentives to bring more students into the vital fields of science and engineering.

Folsom has repeatedly declared that control of public education must remain in the states and communities and that the great bulk of funds for schools and colleges must come from state, local and private sources.

However, on the basis of the national interest in education, Folsom is understood to be urging that the administration include a five-point program in the budget for the next fiscal year.

THIS WOULD INCLUDE:

— A system of scholarships providing 20 million dollars to encourage states to uncover high school students with special talents in science and mathematics. The plan is designed to provide some 20,000 scholarships a year for promising high school students with the federal government furnishing 10 per cent of the funds.

— A total of 150 million dollars to help states increase salaries of elementary and secondary school teachers. It still has not been determined whether this grant should be restricted to science and mathematics instruction.

education construction and laboratory equipment for science.

— Five million dollars as a starter to encourage states and school districts, to train teachers in foreign languages and provide language fellowships.

— An expansion of university graduate study in scientific fields, with the government providing 12 million dollars.

Music Presents Wide in Range

World of Melody Offers Many Unusual Gadgets
at Every Price

A wide variety of unusual gifts in a wide range of prices is the dream of every Christmas shopper. The world of music offers this idea.

For the piano student, or the family with a new piano, the choices range from a metronome to sheet music. For a family gift, have gay sheet music covers framed in the decor of the music room.

Inexpensive gifts may be fleece lined bag for the Boy Scout, rain covers for instrument cases, leatherette portfolios for sheet music, mouthpiece cases for the clarinet player and neck-piece, along saxophone cords for the embryonic "rock and roll" musician or mutes or music-holder and derby stands for brass players.

The accordion enthusiast will be thrilled with chromium initials for the instrument or an electric "mike" to achieve organ effects. The amateur guitarist will feel like a "pro" with a portable amplifier.

For music lovers consider a book of opera librettos or, more expensive, fine miniature scores of operas; musical dictionaries, lives of composers or histories of jazz greats.

An instrument itself is a top gift. The very young enjoy rhythm band instruments, the teenager the ukulele or guitar, the adult the simple recorder or a gift certificate for group lessons in any instrument.

Swede Builds Hospital

STOCKHOLM — A Swedish contractor has signed an agreement with the Venezuelan Government to build a 500-bed hospital, with clinics and a college for nurses' training, at Barcelona in eastern Venezuela.

Lensmen Love East Corinth, Vt.

EAST CORINTH, Vt. — Take a contents no town in the United States is more popular with photographers. The great majority of the camera-carrying visitors are professionals.

The reason is East Corinth's picturesque church, homes and forested hills. Ask a photographer to get you a picture of the "typical New England village" and he probably will head for East Corinth.

An unknown photographer catapulted East Corinth to fame some 30 years ago. Editor Hard says state historians have never been able to find out who he was. The photographer took a shot of the village from the hills nearby late in the 1920s and sold it to A. De Vany, New York photographic agency.

Photographers started coming in droves after the first picture began circulating.

The town doesn't have much tourist trade. It is possible to rent a room, but East Corinth doesn't have any hotels or inns.

Many villagers are Congregationalists, and East Corinthians call their white church the "Congo church." It was built in 1840, for $1,800, according to village lore, and once was called the Union Meeting House.

Although New Englanders are not renowned for hearty guttural pictures of their tidy village in advertisements have furnished villagers more than one chuckle.

The New York Central Railroad once published a view of a passenger car loaded with homebound Christmas travelers. The train window revealed a view of East Corinth — which actually is 200 miles from the nearest New York Central tracks.

The "typical New England village" also is popular with liquor advertisers, despite the fact that Corinth has voted dry at every election in town history.

With the increased interest in budgeting, Christmas has become one of the most important seasons for appliance buying. As a vital part of the annual pattern of purchasing, it is then that the family gets together and decides to buy a present for "all of us."

With appliances leading in this category of buying, home renovations such as added rooms or refurbishing follow closely.

Manufacturers of appliances, both large and small, are aware of this trend. Never do the latest models look as glamorous or is there a wider selection to choose from.

In many cases, yearly changes are made so that the latest merchandise reaches the market just before Christmas.

This concentration of interest in appliances and other large purchases makes the Christmas season a good time to buy. Customers are assured that they will see the very latest developments in the science of homemaking. The supplies are fresh.

Appliance stores, hardware emporiums and the department stores are exciting centers for family shoppers in the Christmas season.

Santa to Crash Through Sound Barrier

Christmas Songs Have Hi-Fi Ring

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Feature Writer

If the sound of sleigh bells echoes clearer and louder over the snow-thatched rooftops this Christmas Eve, it's due no doubt to the fact that Santa and his reindeer will come crashing through the sound barrier via the medium of high fidelity recordings.

Ever since Gene Autry deserted his faithful horse "Champion" and took a lucrative ride on "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," record companies have come to realize that Christmas songs, stories, carols and gift albums are a multi-million dollar business.

RING UP SALES

This year the industry expects to ring up 150 million dollars in Christmas sales of records alone, and an even larger volume in the sales of hi-fi rigs, components and factory-made, medium-fi sets. Christmas is to the record industry what Easter is to the clothing field, a time for introducing the latest styles and models in their fanciest trimmings.

In the best tradition of Christmas giving, there's something in

Children, of course, come high on the list. Eugene Ormandy, the Philadelphia Orchestra and narrator Cyril Ritchard give an enchanting performance of Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf" (Columbia). Antal Dorati and the Minneapolis Orchestra joyously romp through Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker Ballet" on a Mercury label and Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra do likewise in an RCA Victor album.

Both are musically superb and technically exciting. To who children drawn away from television toward the hi-fi set in easy doses, Decca offers "The Music from Disneyland" and Columbia recommends Rosemary Clooney singing favorite children's songs in an album called "Clooney Tunes." Conductor Leopold Stokowski gives a musical dissertation on how a symphony orchestra works (Capitol).

The Christmas carolers this year include such veteran knights of the turntable as Big Crosby, Perry Como, Mario Lanza, Fred man Luboff and Robert Wagner Chorus, Father Sydney MacEwan, counter-tenor Alfred Deller and various church and boys choirs from many lands.

Even the marching bands, always a hi-fi favorite, have caught the Christmas tempo, as evidenced by the Westminster album of the Deutsche Meister band playing carols.

No Christmas would be complete without a trip to New York's Radio City Music Hall. Roulette Records provides the means with an album of Raymond Paige and the Radio City Symphony orchestra performing the music for a complete stage show.

CLASSICS AVAILABLE

In the field of serious Christmas music, Leonard Bernstein, the New York Philharmonic and the Westminster Choir are heard in a new and excellent recording of Handel's "Messiah" (Columbia). Angel offers Sir Malcolm Sargent conducting "Messiah Highlights" and the Berlin Philharmonic and St. Hedwig's Cathedral Choir in an album of Mozart sacred music. Epic devotes a full album and an accompanying illustrated book to "The Christmas Story."

And two companies have taken their recording equipment behind monastery walls for haunting Gregorian masterpieces sung by the monks of the Abbey of St. Pierre de Solesmes in France (London) and the Trappist monks of Gethsemani, Ky. (Columbia).

This year, happily, the trend is away from gimmicks and odd-ball instruments in Christmas recordings and back to first class musicians playing and singing first class music.

Talking Turkey Now
Cinch for Americans

ANKARA — Since the Turkish people use the Latin alphabet and it is spelled phonetically, talking Turkish is a pushover for Americans.

Ordering a drink, for example, is a cinch. "Kokteyl" on the wine list is, of course, a cocktail. Listed underneath are all the various concoctions, such as "Saydakar, Vuayt Leydi, Skrudrayver . . ."

They are none other than Sidecar, White Lady, and Screwdriver.

The skin of the huge blue whale is the color and thickness of carbon paper. Plenty of blubber underneath.

Lost Time Decreases

LONDON—Work stoppages arising from industrial disputes resulted in the loss of about 2,063,000 man-days in Britain in 1956 compared with 3,781,000 the year before. Some 507,000 workers, almost half of them in the coal-mining industry, were involved in the disputes.

Cancer Researchers Await Salk Report for Potentially Valuable Aid

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
INS Medical Science Editor

NEW YORK (INS)—Medical researchers developing ways of building immunity to cancer look for potentially valuable help from Dr. Jonas E. Salk, but they warn against expecting any cancer cure when he reveals details of his new studies.

While a pill or medicine that could cure cancer is sorely needed, men of science remind that Dr. Salk's forte is preventive medicine. This is a specialty that deals, among other things, with vaccines—tools that help healthy people build defenses against mysterious killers and cripples.

As International News Service reported exclusively this week, Dr. Salk, discoverer of the polio vaccine, will tell of his new finds relating to cancer in a medical magazine within several weeks.

It is likely that the report will deal with advances in complex basic research that may lead to an artificial way of helping healthy people build a defense against cancer.

Some in the research field speculate that Dr. Salk may have forged a key, in the complex world of test tubes, that could unlock the door to cancer prevention.

NOT ALONE IN QUEST

He isn't the only scientist pounding on that door. Recently, he made the trip from Pittsburgh to New York to confer with Dr. Alice E. Moore at Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research.

Dr. Moore and other cancer sleuths at Sloan-Kettering have been delving into the question of building immunity to cancer, too.

Already the Sloan-Kettering team has come up with highly significant information on the defense mechanisms of the normal human body to implanted cancers.

Implants of human cancer were made in three groups of healthy inmates at Ohio State Penitentiary. The same implants were made in a group of patient-volunteers with far advanced cancer at Memorial Center, the Sloan-Kettering hospital.

In 13 out of 15 cancer patients, the implants grew until removed six weeks later.

In the first group of healthy volunteers, there was a vigorous local reaction to the cancer implants—something like a king-size reaction to vaccination for small-pox.

By the end of two weeks, the implanted cancer cells were destroyed by this natural reaction.

The second part of the study at the Ohio State Penitentiary involved reimplantation of the first group of normal volunteers. This time, it was found that the cancer cells were destroyed more rapidly than they were the first time.

In the third part of the study, inmate volunteers who already had been implanted with one type of cancer cell received implants of cancer cells of a different type.

As if by magic, something in the body started to work and even these different cancer cells were destroyed.

IMPORTANT POINT

This proved an important point: That cancer patients lack something that healthy human beings have. Scientists call it a defense mechanism.

In polio vaccination, the defense is induced by the vaccine—which helps the body muster a power-packed army of antibodies in the blood.

These chemical soldiers lead an all-out attack on polio viruses which come along after vaccination—thus, prevent crippling or killing.

The viruses don't get to first base once the defense mechanism has been triggered by the vaccine.

In the cancer research, blood studies were made to find out just how the reaction came about when the cancers were implanted.

Properly, a natural body-defense chemical occurring in the blood, was the only factor associated with immunity in which cancer patients were found deficient—when compared with the healthy people in the experiment.

The Sloan-Kettering scientists observed that the search is on for blood serum antibodies — which may have been called to duty to fight the cancer implants the moment they were made in the healthy people.

The Sloan-Kettering group has found antibodies associated with two types of virus-induced cancer in mice.

LIGHT ON VIRUS THEORY

Intensive work at Sloan-Kettering has thrown new light on the virus theory of cancer. This is a theory that holds that some human cancers may be caused by a virus.

If the theory can be proved, the next step would be to produce a vaccine—like the polio vaccine—which would help make people immune to cancer viruses.

The Sloan-Kettering people have found a vaccine which works in mice. It protects the mice against a virus-induced mouse leukemia—blood cancer.

Commenting on Dr. Salk's contribution to the cancer field, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said:

"The paper deals with techniques now being used in Dr. Salk's laboratory which may conceivably contribute to future work in cancer."

"There is no question that his virus laboratory is uniquely equipped to perform the type of research in which it is now engaged."

The Foundation reminded, however, that in no sense does Dr. Salk's present work represent a new program for the National Foundation—even if the work concerns cancer.

The Foundation statement noted: "This demonstrates once more the unity of science and the already proven thesis that investigations in one area cannot but contribute knowledge useful to those operating in others."

"The National Foundation has no plans to enter the field of cancer research, as such."

For some years the National Foundation has made no secret about the fact that some of the research projects it supports may add to knowledge of the disease process known as cancer.

Proposes Scientists Be Loaned to U.S.

MORRISTOWN, N. J. (INS) — Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen Jr. (R-NJ) called today for a program under which industry would "release" scientists to the government on an hourly, weekly or monthly basis.

The House Labor and Education Committee member said in a speech prepared for delivery at the Morristown Rotary Club that his proposal would help make "badly needed scientific talent" available to the government for "critical national defense problems."

Frelinghuysen said that the nation's scientific pool is "strictly limited." For this reason, he said, "we must organize promptly so as to use these resources fully."

The New Jersey Republican laid down these steps for implementing his proposal:

—Government-industry meetings to reach general agreement for loan of privately employed scientists to the government.

—A "broad" program to be set up through joint talks to make scientists and certain facilities available for part-time government use.

—Agreement between the federal government, individual companies and scientists to cover the amount of time each scientist would work.

PIPE-SMOKER — He likes to surround himself with items tied to his smoking. Accessory pipe racks, wrap-around pouches, reamers, leather pouches, lighters and humidors solve many gift-to-men problems.

Earlier Maturity of Youth Studied

LONDON — Boys and girls are maturing more quickly than their parents or grandparents did, medical experts in Britain believe.

To prove the theory 20,000 London school children will take part in a survey. Physicians believe the evidence will constitute a need for drastic changes in some laws. At present, no person under 16 may marry.

Under 17, they must be charged by the juvenile court for any offense committed. There are also laws limiting hours of work for those under 18. British physicians say surveys made in the United States and Sweden already have shown that children now are attaining maturity 18 to 24 months earlier than a generation or two ago.

A report by Dr. J. A. Scott in 1954 showed that most London schoolgirls reach womanhood at 12 years 11 months, and boys attain puberty at 14½.

Union Leader's Power Challenged by Rival Group

NEW YORK (INS) — A quiet chess-playing motorman who shuns the spotlight is challenging a powerful, blustery national labor boss seldom out of the spotlight. For this reason, New York is tied into transportation knots today.

The motorman, Theodore Loos, 47, unpaid president of the small but vital striking Motorman's Benevolent Association, twice in less than a year has crippled the city in a show of strength to win union recognition.

The walkouts by Loos' union, which claims 2,600 of the city's 3,100 subway motormen, were in marked contrast to nearly half a hundred strike threats — which never materialized — by tough-talking Mike Quill, 54.

Quill, international president of the Transportation Workers Union (AFL-CIO), has used his "war of nerves" strategy through the years to solidify his union's position in the biggest subway system in the world.

QUILL AHEAD

Last week, the chunky Irish immigrant won his long-sought goal which precipitated the MBA strike. A fact-finding board recommended a single union election to represent all 32,000 workers in the Transit Authority system. This almost automatically gives Quill sole recognition and authority to bargain for all TA employees since he now claims 23,000 members.

Both Loos and Quill worked for the subway system before the Communists in 1955 first visualized a transportation union as a means of paralyzing a city and organized the TWU.

Quill, in the old days, was known as "Red Mike" for his lusty backing of Communist causes until he broke with Communists in 1948 and ousted them from control of the union.

START ON RAILROAD

Loos, a hulking man of 200 pounds, who likes to take on over a dozen chess opponents simultaneously by mail, started in 1934 as a motorman after working as a conductor for the Long Island Railroad.

The motorman, a six footer who breeds Dalmatian puppies as a hobby, quit the TWU in 1954 when the union approved what he and other motormen considered an unacceptable subway working conditions report.

Other motormen liked the way he voiced his opinions and asked him in April 1955, to serve as president of the newly-formed MBA.

Loos stopped the subways last June — on the hottest day of the year — for nine hours. As a result he lost his job but was recently reinstated under a court injunction not to pull another strike again or face jail.

When the members voted to walk out at 5 a.m. Monday, and Loos refused to halt the strike, he was sentenced to ten days in prison for contempt of the original no-strike order.

"We are honest men and looking only for what we believe are our rights," he says from his jail cell. "We don't want too much, just recognition and the right to bargain for ourselves, not as part of the TWU."

Quill, whose trademarks are fiery invective and thick Irish brogue, owl-eyed horn-rimmed glasses and thick blackthorn walking stick, started as a ticket agent at 33 cents an hour. Today he is the unchallenged 14,520-a-year boss of some 130,000 union members who run the nation's major airlines and railroads, intra-city bus and trolley systems as widespread as San Francisco and Puerto Rico.

Industry Builds New Floor Space

Michigan Reports 523 Plant Expansions in '57; 13 Firms Leave State

LANSING (AP)—Michigan industry added more than seven million square feet of manufacturing floor space during the first 10 months of 1957, the state Economic Development Commission was told.

Construction included 523 plant expansions totaling 7,273,000 square feet, the commission's economic advisory committee reported.

Lester J. Steele, committee chairman and vice president of Silloway & Co., Detroit, said the figures were supplied by the F. W. Dodge Corp., national construction reporting service. He called them "encouraging in view of the 'soft' market that has prevailed throughout the country during the past year."

On the reverse side, the commission said 13 plants have announced plans to move out of the state and several others have said they may follow.

Among announced projects are a 35-million-dollar expansion program planned by McLouth Steel Corp., Trenton, and a multi-million Dow Chemical Co. expansion at Bay City.

Through the first 11 months of the year, Steele said, 35 out-of-state industries announced plans to set up manufacturing operations in Michigan. Two others, he said, have indicated they will announce similar plans next year.

Among them are plans for construction of a 10-million-dollar plant at Dundee by the St. Lawrence Cement Co. and an announcement by Massey-Harris-Ferguson Inc., farm machinery manufacturers, that it will transfer its Wisconsin operations to its plant in Detroit, entailing considerable expansion.

Antidote Said to Bar Barbiturate Deaths

MELBOURNE — Researchers at the University of Melbourne have developed a new formula that is said to make death from an overdose of barbiturates impossible.

The Australians say their product combines any barbiturate drug with the antidote drug bemegride and that effects of a normal dose of barbiturate is not nullified by the small amount of the antidote used in each tablet.

CLEVELAND, Ohio — Police raided an all-lady poker game and took in for questioning 10 women they found gathered around a table in a smoke-filled basement room. Police chief Edward Gaffney said the raid followed an anonymous telephone call, possibly from a husband whose wife insisted on filling an inside straight.

Hoosier Firm Makes Light 'Sky Duster'

INDIANAPOLIS — An Indianapolis concern is producing what it calls a "sky duster," a tool developed specifically for the vacuum cleaning of high ceilings. The duster, which can be extended from five to 100 feet in length, is said to be light enough to operate with one hand. It is made of a series of light poles.

Stir Up Africa Against Whites

Both Soviets, Egyptians
Trying to Force West
Out of Area

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

A combination of violent Soviet and Egyptian propaganda is crying for the blood of the white man in Africa.

The campaign is keyed to a Cairo conference of Asian and African nations scheduled Dec. 26. The aim, both in Moscow and Cairo, appears to be to generate severe pressure which eventually could drive the West completely out of central Africa, leaving that strategic area clear for Moscow's world political drive.

This campaign promises eventually to strike at the white man all the way across black Africa from Portuguese Angola to British East Africa.

Eventually it could root the West from their guardian positions astride seaports which assure the continued flow of raw materials.

The drive ties in with Moscow's efforts to use aroused Arab nationalist passions to oust Britain from Aden and eliminate her watchful guard over the routes from the Suez Canal and Persian Gulf to India and Southeast Asia.

Egypt's regime celebrated an Asian-African solidarity week in connection with the conference. The celebration was marked by broadcasts in Swahili and other African languages, beamed to the area by President Nasser's persuasive and violent propaganda outlet, the "Voice of Arabs."

An underground "Voice of Free Africa," has been trying to arouse the area to violence.

"We are human beings who are daily being persecuted by those white pigs who are sucking our blood," it said.

The same station urged violence in Tanganyika and Kenya against "the European dogs." Cairo propaganda directed violent advice to the French camerons against "the oppressive French rulers."

Moscow leaped into the campaign with broadcasts in Arabic and other Eastern languages, announcing it will participate in the Asian-African conference because the U.S.S.R. is an Asian as well as an African nation.

No Evidence of 'Space Attack' Lightning Appears Cause of Alabama Farm Holes

RED BAY, Ala. (U) — Strange holes which an Alabama farmer found on his land after hearing a "roaring racket" apparently were caused by lightning, Army experts has concluded.

"There is absolutely no evidence that anything dropped from either outer or inner space," the experts reported by telephone to 3rd Army headquarters in Atlanta.

Discovery of a long irregular hole and several smaller ones on the farm about 12 miles from here aroused all kinds of speculation. Some thought fragments of a Russian Sputnik or its propulsion rocket may have fallen.

The 3rd Army yesterday dispatched two explosive demolition experts and a member of the Counter Intelligence Corps.

The latter, a spokesman explained, went along just in case any international elements might be involved.

The experts could find nothing. They noted that the crater—some 38 feet in length—started at the base of a large tree and that there were strands of fence at the site.

Hence, they concluded, lightning could have had both an effective point of contact and good conductors to play quite a lot of havoc.

The two-strand wire fence was broken in several places and fused as if by heat. This, the investigators commented, strengthened their lightning theory.

The farmer, William Blackburn, found the holes the day after hearing an explosion and what he termed a "loud, roaring racket." Blackburn said he first thought lightning was the cause. But last Monday when the explosion was heard, was a clear day.

Candles for Yule Irish Tradition

DUBLIN — One of the most distinctive of all Irish traditions—one that seems to be of Irish origin and confined to Ireland—is the Christmas candle.

On Christmas Eve the head of the Irish household shortly after sunset sets a large candle in the principal window.

These candles weigh half a pound to a pound, run up to 2 feet tall, and may be of many colors.

They are fixed traditionally on scones made of scraped-out turnips and are usually lit by the youngest child in the house.

The candles are left lit all night. Their glimmering illumination throughout the Irish countryside is considered one of the most charming sights of the Irish Christmas.

Experts Oppose Atomic Facility

Site in Sandusky, Ohio, Reported Too Close to Densely Populated Area

WASHINGTON (U) — Scientists' advisers to the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) have recommended that the government drop its plans to build a huge atomic facility near Sandusky, Ohio.

The group—called the Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards—said in a report made public yesterday the site is too "close to a densely populated area."

The report did not say that the plant would be dangerous. But by implication it warned against the possibility of radiation hazards.

The committee said the plant under construction should be built in a more remote area.

The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA) planned to build a $10,735,000 nuclear reactor to test fuel and parts for atomic aircraft three miles south of Sandusky.

The site was chosen because it is fairly close to the NACA Lewis Flight Propulsion Center near Cleveland. NACA is a government agency.

Public Apathy Stalls Revision of Calendar

JANUARY	FEBRUARY	MARCH
APRIL	MAY	JUNE
JULY	AUGUST	SEPTEMBER
OCTOBER	NOVEMBER	DECEMBER

WORLD CALENDAR — Makes all years alike. "W" at right is Worldday and follows Dec. 31 each year and June 30 every four years. All quarters match, too.

CLEVELAND (NEA)—The traditional Dec. 31 blank day may soon become official. But this blank is calculated to eliminate headaches for millions of people, not cause them.

If the World Calendar Association has its way, Dec. 31 would be no more. It would be replaced by a day simply marked "W" for Worldday. Celebration of New Year's Eve would still be in order and world-wide bubbly-boasting would have the added impetus of a day set apart for nations, races and people to "come together in peace, harmony and cooperation."

The major difficulty, boosters have found, is public apathy.

The World Calendar has an unvarying year of 12 months divided into equal quarters. Each quarter has exactly 91 days, 13 weeks or three months.

Each month has 26 weekdays plus Sundays. Every year, half-year and quarter-year begins with a Sunday and ends with a Saturday. Day-dates would be unvarying from year to year.

Added to this year of 364 days is Worldday (corresponding to Dec. 31) and Leapyear Day (also marked "W" on the World Calendar) which would be inserted between the end of June and the beginning of July every fourth year. This, too, would be a world-wide holiday.

Elizabeth Achelis founded the W. C. A. plan, which appears to be the simplest and most practical answer to present calendar hash of 14 different kinds of Februarys and seven different kinds of the other months. There are plenty of influential backers and groups trying to get international approval in the United Nations.

They want the calendar adopted and put into use on Jan. 1, 1961—the next year which begins on a Sunday.

Dr. J. J. Nassau, director of the Case Institute Observatory and a World Calendar drummer, can see no disadvantage other than the usual confusion present when any

Automation Can Mean New Jobs in Modern Office

NEW YORK (INS)—Automation in the office, a comparatively new concept, is making new jobs instead of reducing them.

That is the opinion of Herbert Weston, president of Visteon Inc., the largest and oldest producer of visible vertical filing systems.

Automation—use of ultra-modern electronics equipment—is not such a new story in factories and plants, said Weston. Without this equipment, the plants couldn't meet their schedules.

And as in the factory, use of these machines in the front office doesn't eliminate jobs, according to Weston, it merely allows a firm to do more work with less effort and in less time.

"Someone has to feed the machines the punched tapes or cards to activate them," he declared. "What the new machines do is make skilled personnel out of beginners in the shortest possible time."

He added: "We have to get a lot more done in our 40-hour weeks than our grandfathers did in their 36-hour stints. And innovation and advanced office equipment is the only way this can be accomplished."

As far as employment is concerned Weston said, there is a serious shortage of skilled office personnel today and this shortage will continue for the foreseeable future.

For NATO Summit Meeting Diplomat Readies Plans

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

A career diplomat whose job is "doing whatever the secretary of state tells him" will see his latest assignment come to a conclusion this week in Paris at the NATO "Summit" meeting.

State Department Counselor G. Frederick Reinhardt has spent many evenings in his department office during the past weeks working up U. S. proposals and principles for the allied heads of government conclave.

The work was obviously within his range. His past accomplishments include:

Honors from Cornell University in 1935, diplomatic posts in Austria, Estonia, Latvia and Russia before the war, the difficult assignment of being General Eisenhower's political adviser during the North African and Italian campaigns, service in Moscow after the war and the ambassadorship to Vietnam.

During this period, the 46-year-old career diplomat took on an assignment that stung him in good stead for the planning sessions he is now completing.

In October, 1951, Reinhardt went to Paris to become a deputy for civil affairs at the NATO Defense College. A year later he moved up to become special assistant for international affairs to the supreme Allied commander for Europe, then Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and later Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther. He held this job until he was appointed ambassador to Vietnam early in 1955.

Aides of the California-born Reinhardt say his job as counselor to the secretary of state is one of the few government spots adequately described by its title. His job, they said, is to "give counsel and advice to the secretary on foreign policy."

From day to day, however, they added, the job amounts to "doing whatever the secretary tells you to do."

Reinhardt, a devoted hunter and skier, proved his prowess with a rifle during his assignment in Vietnam, where he bagged a tiger during one of his hunts. He was too depressed at the fact that his wife Lillian also added a tiger to the family game bag.

the tall, husky diplomat is very "likeable" and bears up well at jokes about his thinning hair and his growing family — which now numbers four youngsters.

Cattle Drover Kills 182 Lions on Desert

LOBATSE — A great lion hunter — with 182 to his credit — is Christian Lewis (pronounced Le-vees), a cattle drover on the Kalahari Desert of South Africa.

Recently he was with a party of eight hunting lions from a jeep when two of the party were injured by a lioness that leaped at the vehicle. One of the seven shots that killed her came from his gun.

On the long trail from Ghanzi across the Kalahari to Lobatse, lions invariably menace the cattle herds. All the drovers have shot lions but Lewis' bag of 182 tops the list.

He will walk up to a few yards from a lion before firing.

Female immigrants outnumbered males three to one in 1946 in the United States, reflecting the number of war brides brought home by servicemen.

McElroy Known for Incredible Memory, Direct Attack

Terse, Rapid Decisions a Surprise

(One of the most interesting personalities on the Washington scene today is the man who from Cincinnati, Neil H. McElroy. Only two months in office as Secretary of Defense, he has already reversed department decisions, put new "thrust" into dormant programs. NEA staff correspondent, Douglas Larsen has gone to sources who know McElroy best for this illuminating profile of a man in movement.)

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Even before the tall, boyish new Secretary of Defense, Neil McElroy, moved into his plush Pentagon suite with its fine view of Washington, he found himself in a conflict.

He discovered that he shared the nickname "Mac" with the veteran assistant defense secretary, Wilfred J. McNeill. The two "Macs" were confused during McElroy's preliminary briefing sessions. So one of his first acts after taking his oath was to inform his new staff.

"Look, McNeill was here first so he keeps the name 'Mac'. As the newcomer let's just make me 'Neil'."

McElroy's memory became a Pentagon legend during an early briefing legend during an early briefing in which the thrust figures of certain rocket engines were being explained.

"Correct me if I'm wrong, Colonel," McElroy interrupted, "but why was I told at Redstone Arsenal that that same engine has 10,000 pounds more thrust than you indicate here?"

The startled Colonel excused himself, made a phone call and reported back that the engine he was talking about was an earlier version of the one mentioned at Redstone.

Needless to say, word is out to all briefers to double-check all figures quoted to the new boss.

His first week in office McElroy startled the secretaries of Navy, Air Force and Army even more than the Colonel by summoning them to his office early one morning with the brief explanation: "I think we ought to make a decision on something."

At this impromptu meeting Mc-

Elroy said he wanted brief opinions on possibly revoking a Wilson order which had cut about $170 million out of basic military research. Each secretary spoke his piece. McElroy dismissed them with a brief "thank you gentlemen," and promptly dictated a memo ordering the research money restored.

VITAL DECISIONS MADE

In much the same manner, after quickly called terse, face-to-face conferences with all officials concerned, the new defense head has made the following additional vital decisions on American defenses:

He told the Army it could try to launch a satellite with its Jupiter C missile.

He requested from the White House — and got — permission to ease the rigid $38 billion ceiling on defense spending which had been imposed.

He speeded up the previously cumbersome process of issuing general Pentagon policy regulations.

He ordered the Army and Air Force to rush feasibility studies on the anti-missile missile.

And he made a dozen other less vital decisions on such things as information policy, administration changes and budget preparation methods.

Not bad going for a former PFC in a National Guard horse unit.

SELF-MADE CAREER

Close friends, trace this to his life in Cincinnati and to his self-made career with Proctor & Gamble soap company.

After graduation from Harvard — financed mostly by scholarships — he started with P & G as a mail clerk and ended up making it financially one of the most secure industries in the U.S.

Keeping it that way was requiring less and less effort for McElroy. He may have become slightly bored with soap.

In Cincinnati he had the reputation as a genial host and as a man who would tackle any worthwhile community project and get it done. His specialty was working with local and national education groups, which led to his being appointed chairman of the big White House Conference on Education.

President Eisenhower liked what he did with this group and filed his name away for a possible important Administration job.

Asia Flu Death Toll in Tokyo Rises to 171

TOKYO (INS) — Tokyo's Asian flu death toll rose to 171 yesterday with the reporting of 17 new deaths.

The nation's welfare minister, Kenzo Horiki, fearing that the disease might affect cabinet ministers, "ordered" them to gargle regularly to ward off any possible attack.

Horiki distributed a bottle of gargle to each minister and instructed them not to overtire themselves, lest the flu strike them.

DEFENSE SECRETARY NEIL H. McELROY — The big question in Washington is "what makes him move so fast?"

Civilian Employment Drops in November

WASHINGTON (INS) — Civilian employment dropped by more than a million during November and the number of unemployed rose by 680,000, the government reported today.

Factory layoffs of nearly a quarter of a million workers, plus exceptionally bad weather which cut into outdoor work, were blamed.

The Commerce and Labor departments, in a joint release, said civilian employment fell by 1,322,000 between October and November to 64,873,000, the lowest since April of last year.

The report said that although sizable job reductions are normal in November, the changes were greater than usual this year.

The number of unemployed rose to 3,188,000, the highest November total since 1949. As a result, the seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment reached 5.1 per cent, compared with 4.6 per cent a month earlier. That is the highest rate since February 1953.

The Orange (length 750 miles) is the longest river in South Africa.

SPORTY CHOICE — Home sport may greet guests with or without tie in tailored sport shirt with red and black stripings.

Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where the 500-mile race is held on Memorial Day is a two-and-one-half mile paved oval. It also contains a golf course.

Mormon Leaders Guide Tourists

MORMON GUIDE—Le Grand Backman, an attorney, tells tourists Michael Hansen of Paramount, Calif., and James Jacobson of Ogden, Utah, how his grandparents came across the plains in a handcart like the one on this monument at Salt Lake City.

SALT LAKE CITY (NEA)—It is now 130 years since Joseph Smith received the golden plates of the Book of Mormon and battled persecution to found the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints. And from the looks of Temple Square today, crowded with visitors taking the tour, there is more than tourist curiosity here. One traveler from the East admitted having stayed on for most of his vacation. He has taken the guided tour 18 times.

While there are many things to see here, the personality of the guides far outshines history. These are 145 business executives, lawyers, doctors, dentists, insurance men, salesmen and public officials who drop their work one to four times a week to show visitors through the 10-acre Temple Square.

It was the grandfathers and great-grandfathers of these guides who crossed the country in oxcart or pulled hand carts through the wilderness to find an asylum.

Dean of the guides is silver-haired, ruddy attorney Gaylen S. Young, one of the 309 grandchildren of Brigham Young who led the Mormons out of persecution.

A FRILL for friend or family—Graceful wall clock. Comes in brass pedal design, fits nearly every room.

There are also the personal effects and utensils of the pioneers; murals; relics of fighting courage and desperate trial; and the 200-foot-high Temple. Each stop has its own story—in part the story of the guide himself. And while the tour lasts an hour, visitors often keep guides answering questions for another hour.

No visitors are allowed inside the Temple. These buildings—as distinguished from the chapels—are reserved for the sacred ordinances of the Church.

While Salt Lake City is known as "The Mormon City," there are 10 other Temples in California, Arizona, Idaho, Canada, Hawaii and Switzerland. Others are under construction in England and New Zealand.

PRESENT PAGEANT
For the past 20 years, a Mormon pageant, "America's Witness for Christ," has been presented at Hill Cumorah near Palmyra, N. Y. Free, the pageant is based on the Book of Mormon and the way Joseph Smith found his truth revealed by the Angel Moroni.

This year, with new music by prominent young American composer Dr. Crawford Gates and the script by Dr. Harold L. Hansen of Brigham Young University, the pageant broke last year's attendance record of 70,000. Every state and every country in the world was represented.

Along with its guided tours, missionaries and pageant, the LDS Church reaches millions with weekly broadcasts of its choir and spoken word from Salt Lake City.

Fiji Females Gain Faster Than Males

In 1946, the Church counted almost six thousand converts. Last year there were more than 25,000. Today, the LDS Church numbers 15,000,000 members around the globe.

Females are increasing more rapidly than males in the Fiji Islands, the latest census figures released in Suva show.

However, women in Fiji have been told not to worry yet. It will be a few years before the leeway is made up.

The census showed that between 1946 and 1936 the male population increased by 30.5 per cent, while the female increase was 36.1 per cent.

The present disproportion stems from the manner in which the Colony's population has developed in the last century (by migrants, largely Indians, from overseas). There were always more males than females among the immigrants. By the end of World War I the males held a commanding lead.

Male seals have as many as a hundred "wives."

Fruits, Vegetables Known to Ancients

NEW YORK—Most of the more than 100 kinds of fruits and vegetables we know and use in this country today appeared on the tables of the ancients, centuries before the beginning of the Christian era. Many of them are among the oldest food plants cultivated by man.

During the 20 years it took to build the Great Pyramid at Gizeh, Egypt, in the Fifth Century B.C. the workers ate about $2,000,000 worth of onions, garlic, and radishes. In the Bible we find the exiled Israelites complaining to Moses that they sorely missed the melons, leeks, cucumbers, onions, and garlic that were part of their diet in Egypt.

American men die sooner than American women, as an average, resulting in more aged women in the United States than there are aged men.

Eastern Visitors Find Forgotten Landmark

DENVER (AP)—Riley Cass, Denver engineer, and his wife drove to New England for their vacation. They especially wanted to see the Old North Church in Boston.

But no one they asked seemed to know exactly where it was, including several policemen standing outside a district station. So the Casses drove on—and passed Old North Church a block from the police station.

Parents Let Whimsies Run Rampant

Do's and Don'ts on Kids' Toys

Doting parents and relatives sometimes let their whimsies run rampant in a toy store. Then they wonder why the ungrateful youngster ignores an intriguing gadget.

THINK OF CHILD

To save money, time and disappointment, the Toy Guidance Council says to think of the child and:

Don't trust to the mental picture you have of junior and his sister.

Do check on the current age and interests of each child. Youngsters develop rapidly and their play needs change from month to month.

Don't, with a mistaken sense of economy, try to give the children toys to grow up to.

Do pick playthings that fit their stage of development now. The toy that's too old will be frustrating this year and will be forgotten by the time it's suitable for profitable use.

Do ask about the size of wheel toys suitable for different ages, the age span interest of games and construction toys.

GIVE DATA

Box tops and labels give much essential information. Toy Guidance Council and others have informative leaflets on children's play interests at different age levels. Sales persons in good toy department stores can help check gift ideas for age suitability.

Don't load up gift lists with

Do resist the impulse to buy children toys you really want.

Do give careful attention to the safety requirements of toys for young children. They must be safe for sucking, lightweight, free from sharp edges or small parts which might be swallowed.

Do remember children need a balanced variety of playthings just as much as they need a balanced variety of foods for healthy growth.

Mirror Lends Drama to Scene

Enhance Holiday Setting by Gleaming Reflection of Christmas Color

Gleaming surfaces of polished plate glass which lend distinction to your rooms throughout the year can be drafted at Christmas to create their own special brand of enchantment.

Mirrors can be used to dramatize an arrangement of Christmas greens or flowers or can themselves be used for Christmas scenes.

June Cabot, a home arts consultant suggests a housewife take an informal census of the mirrors and study ways of using them to advantage. Decide on which ones to "build" Christmas scenes with and which ones you will use to reflect and enhance a decorative arrangement of greens.

There are many ways to create a holiday scene on a mirror. For instance, you might use small Christmas angels which are usually available in the stationery stores for package decorations in groups as a heavenly choir. A glass fiber material, which is safe to handle and cuts easily, may be used for clouds to create a realistic scene.

BRING SANTA IN

Small fry in the home will be intrigued by a scene of Santa Claus with his eight reindeer and a sled piled high with toys. You can probably find the Santa and reindeer in paper cut-outs. For the toys, watch the magazines for colored advertisements before the holidays; cut them out and paste them on the sled.

For more artistic arrangements you might create a woodland scene with bits of spruce and evergreens for trees attached to the mirror with florists' clay and sprayed with liquid "snow."

There is no prettier decoration for a buffet table or one in the foyer than an arrangement of bright-checked fruit and Christmas greens sprayed with gold when reflected in the gleaming surface of a polished plate glass mirror.

Small artificial fruit can be combined with greenery for a garland around an unframed mirror.

Shares Holiday Decorations With Kids

Woman's Sugar Plums Are for Real

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (NEA)—Visions of sugar plums poetically may have danced through the heads of children of past decades at Christmas time. For the children of today to whom nothing is impossible and who look forward to those "sugar plums" in reality Mrs. Robert G. Strong has the answer.

Sharing her crystallized sugar holiday decorations with children is one of the holiday joys of this mother of three who starts planning this gift as soon as Easter is a memory.

FASHIONS BELLS

She fashions Christmas bells, Christmas trees, angels and Santas of crystallized sugar and gives them away. This year she plans to make at least 2000 to 2500 to send to organizations for children's welfare and to hospitals.

Between 75 and 100 pounds of granulated sugar and about four dozen eggs will be used in making the Christmas remembrances which she began fashioning and storing early in the summer. Then in addition confectioners' sugar and butter is used for the decorations.

The Christmas gifts will be sent this year to the Save the Children Federation, American Friends Service, Foster Parents Plan, all with headquarters in New York; the Lakeside Center for Infant Welfare and many other local organizations in Chicago, Dodge City, Kan. and Terre Haute.

When she wrote early in the summer to the Save the Children Federation to see if they could accept her colorful sugar models and asking how many they could use.

SHARES JOY — Mrs. Robert Strong checks her sugar plums. She starts planning this gift as soon as Easter is a memory.

The answer was 11000. At the rate of 100 a day which she even exceeds at the peak of the holiday preparation it would take 110 days to make that many. She will have 500 to 1000 for this one organization to send to children overseas. Not are her own children so gloried. They range in age from a three-year-old girl to a boy in junior high school and a son studying for the ministry. This year she is making them a complete nativity scene to be used as a focal point in their home Christmas decorations.

Others will be sent to children of friends and to unfortunate children and older persons about whom she reads in the newspapers.

Mrs. Strong began her hobby about four years ago when she gave a shower for a friend's daughter who was being married. Her wedding-bell nutcrackers were so successful that she tried a basinet soon afterwards for a baby shower. Then she began trying various items for holidays as they come up during the year.

As soon as Christmas is over, Mrs. Strong starts looking forward to Valentine's Day and particularly to Easter.

For the latter she makes hand-decorated eggs to send to similar organizations remembered at Christmas. The eggs are in pastel colors and are panorama eggs having inside them villages, trees, birds in nests and characters of nursery rhymes, all fashioned from sugar. A hole is cut in the end of the egg for the recipients to peer into and view the make-believe world.

Mrs. Strong seems a living example of "it takes a busy person to get something done. She found time early this fall to devote three weeks to planning and staging a style show to benefit a young woman who is paralyzed from the chest down as the result of an automobile accident. The proceeds were part of a fund raised to send the girl to the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation in New York.

GIFT FOR ANGELS — Some musicians will have no trouble playing like angels. Golden harp is new for Santa's pack.

Her Call for Needy Child Leads to Yule Adoptions

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — On a December afternoon in 1947 a woman called at the office of County Probation Officer Chas. O. Moore to inquire if he could find her a needy child to care for over Christmas.

Moore's job was dealing with adult probationers, but a newspaper reporter overheard the conversation, and wrote a story about it.

Reaction to the story came quickly. That Christmas, Moore put 53 underprivileged children in foster homes to enjoy true holiday happiness.

RECEPITIVE CHORD

From that spontaneous experiment, the Child Christmas Placement Program has grown steadily. In 10 years, 1,000 children have been placed for Yuletide "adoption." Last year 194 from 4 to 12 years of age went to 137 homes.

In the program, Moore gets assistance from schools and teachers, from churches, clubs and news media. "We could not possibly have accomplished all we have without the help of many people," he says.

Now the city's acting postmaster, one of Moore's biggest rewards, is the sheet of letters he gets after each Christmas. Some are from couples with as many as four or five children. They write that having a needy child in their homes for the holidays has helped teach their own children to be unselfish and to share good fortune.

As one letter put it: "Our children learned a very real Christmas lesson which might be paraphrased by 'Do unto others . . .'"

Some of the placements produce heart-tugging stories.

Deaf mute parents wrote Moore asking that their normal 5-year-old girl be placed in a temporary home for the holidays.

"We'd like Mary to be able to hear people laughing and singing this Christmas," their letter read. Later they reported the holiday was the most exciting of their daughter's life.

One woman, grateful for an enjoyable Christmas, provided her 9-year-old son while she recuperated from a serious illness, asked two children into her home the next year.

"My son received so much happiness last year," she wrote Moore, "that I now want him to experience the joy of bringing happiness to others."

Some of the "foster" parents have come to refer to their holiday visitors as "our kids" and a few have confided to Moore they will "see them through" high school or college.

Moore circulates questionnaires in the city's schools—one for the needy family and another for those wanting the guests. Moore requires the requesting family to submit three letters of recommendation, which are carefully checked. The needy child's parents, of course, must also consent.

Why does Moore, who has no children, take on this work?

"It's very simple," he smiles. "I enjoy seeing the children, and the people who take them, so happy. I get a big kick knowing the youngsters will have a Christmas to remember—and for some it will be the first time they ever received a gift."
