Magician, Singer Top Fund Show

Vocalist Fred Kendall and magician Miss Paddy Beach will help kick off this year's tenth anniversary Pontiac Area United Fund Drive Monday evening.

The pair will headline the gala kick-off show to be held at Pontiac Central High auditorium.

MISS PADDY BEACH

Kendall is best known to Pontiac area residents for his appearances on the Bud Guest show on WJR.

Miss Beach is billed as the world's greatest female magician and creator of comedy. Her acts of magic reach a high point in comedy when she selects members of the audience as impromptu assistants.

Warney Ruhl's 10-piece orchestra, and his vocalist Patti Brown will accompany the two headliners. Ruhl's orchestra was featured at this year's Michigan State Fair.

The Kick Off Show, sponsored by Community National Bank as a public service, is expected to attract a capacity crowd of close to 1,000 to the high school auditorium. Tickets are limited to volunteer UF campaign workers, and are being distributed at this week's training sessions.

First Commercial Jet Christened by Mamie

From Our Wire Services

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower will christen today the nation's first commercial jet transport, the Pan American World Airways clipper America, in colorful pre-inaugural flight ceremonies at Washington National Airport.

The first lady will smash a bottle of water, collected from the seven seas, across the nose of Pan Am's giant Boeing 707-121 jet shortly after 4 p.m.

Three hours later the America will leave Baltimore's Friendship International Airport for a flight to the Brussels World's Fair that will open the jet age under the American flag. About 50 government officials and press executives will be aboard.

The airline's first commercial jet flight with paying passengers is scheduled for Oct. 26 when daily service between New York, Paris and Rome will be inaugurated.

Jet clippers will start serving London on a daily basis Nov. 16 and jets will be assigned to other PAA routes at later dates.

Juan T. Trippe, president of Pan American since 1927, will preside

It will return to the United States Oct. 19.

The 575-mile-per-hour Boeing 707-121 jets will fly from New York to Paris in seven hours, to Rome in eight hours and 50 minutes, and to London in six and a half hours at no increase in current Pan American fares. They will have two classes, economy and deluxe.

The round trip fares to Paris will be $489.60 and $909, to Rome $591.50 and $1,041.50, and to London $453.60 and $873.

Incomes Soar to Record High in September

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal income climbed to a new record last month. Much of the increase was in the durable goods industries that had been hard hit in the recession.

The Commerce Department reported that the income total in September reached an annual rate of $75½ billion dollars — up 1½ billions from August and up about 11 billions from the recession low last February.

It was the seventh straight month in which personal income had risen and the third straight month in which it set a new mark.

The figures given out by the Commerce Department were adjusted for seasonal factors.

Kierdorf on Trial for Possession of Gun Silencer

Uncle of 'Torch' Victim Will Seek Dismissal From Judge Adams

Herman Kierdorf, ex-aide of Teamster boss James R. Hoffa, today faced trial before Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams on a charge of possessing a pistol silencer. Beginning of the trial was delayed for a while this morning as authorities waited for another hearing to conclude in Judge Adams' courtroom. The Kierdorf case was next.

Herman Kierdorf, 67, is the uncle of Frank Kierdorf, the Flint Teamster business agent whose death this summer resulted in a request for grand jury action in Oakland County.

Both Kierdorfs were unwilling witnesses before the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington. Both had served time in prison after felony convictions.

While the silencer apparently had no connection with Frank, it came to light Aug. 4, the day Frank staggered into St. Joseph Mercy Hospital with burns covering most of his body. He died four days later, and the burns have never been satisfactorily explained.

Authorities say that after Frank's identity became known, Madison Heights Police Chief Robert C. Richardson went to Herman Kierdorf's home. According to Richardson, Herman wasn't home but a neighbor girl, Judy Tyler, 15, was home next door.

He said the girl handed him a briefcase and a paper bag, saying Herman had given them to her "for safekeeping." In the briefcase, Richardson said, were the silencer—described as a homemade affair contrived out of ordinary plumber's pipe—a German pistol which authorities say fits the silencer, and some dynamite caps. In the bag, Richardson said, was a .38 caliber pistol and two telephone receivers.

Judy told Richardson that Herman had brought the bag to her house that morning and the briefcase early in July, just before (Continued on Page 12, Col. 1)

Reserve Board Hikes Margin on Stocks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board acted yesterday to check stock market speculation by raising margins — or minimum down payments — on stocks from 70 to 90 per cent. The hike is effective today.

It was the second time in three months the board had boosted the margin requirements. The New York stock market has hit four record peaks in the past week following a period of general upward movement.

A board member said the action was taken with the intention of preventing future excessive speculation.

Clamps Down on Police Chief

Pontiac Safety Director Orders Straley to Stop Hitting PAS Report

Police Chief Herbert W. Straley was ordered yesterday to refrain from any further attacks on the Public Administration Service report on the police department.

In a memorandum to Straley, Public Safety Director George D. Eastman said:

"Inasmuch as the PAS report by direction of (City Manager) W. K. Willman has been established as a guide for the reorganization and improvement of the police department, it should not be a subject of controversy in or out of the department."

Straley declared that the PAS report unfairly attacked him and the department, in a speech Monday night before the Washington Park Civic Assn.

He called the report the work of a "28-year-old man with four years' experience out west as a patrolman."

Eastman said he issued his order to Straley after reading reports of the chief's talk.

Eastman called Samuel G. Chapman, who prepared the PAS report, an outstanding professional student of police administration. He said that Chapman had been trained in PAS work before coming to Pontiac.

The six-month PAS study recommended a thorough overhaul and reorganization of the department, which it found "characterized by a lack of pride in service, low esprit de corps and little public prestige."

Breezes Will Ease, Along With Mercury

Partly cloudy and turning a little cooler tonight and Friday is the forecast by the weatherman for the Pontiac area. The low tonight will drop to near 57.

Today's southwesterly winds at 18 miles an hour will decrease to night, becoming northwesterly by morning. The high tomorrow will reach around 78.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 58 degrees. The mercury rose to 76 at 1 p.m.

General Motors has disclosed that the entirely new Chevrolet, Cadillac, Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac cars represent an investment of more than 500 million dollars for designing and tooling. The Motorama presentation probably cost several million more.

The show, opening today, will continue for a week as an admission-free spectacle. In many respects this year's Motorama represents the bold approach General Motors' top executives have urged to further stimulate a reviving consumer confidence.

They have said returning confidence assures a substantial increase in car sales in 1959. Most of them agree with other industry forecasters that 5½ million cars will be sold in the U. S. market next year.

If forecasts of GM's division managers are realized, GM will account for more than 55 per cent of that total. The GM total currently is running at about 49 per cent of the industry total.

An invitational preview last night attracted several thousand New York civic, business and society leaders and newsmen from throughout the nation. Packing the main ballroom, they saw huge mechanical "lift" cars from the platform and swing them forward to the front of the stage, where the cars rotate to present a view from all angles.

Another interest-catching feature was a motion picture showing of GM's Firebird II experimental car in action. The car, upon which GM reportedly expended several hundred thousand dollars, incorporates almost fantastic electronic adaptations. It is powered with a gas turbine engine and is controlled by a single four-inch stick. With the stick it is accelerated, steered and stopped.

There are no brake or acceleration pedals, no steering wheel and few of the conventional motoring accessories.

In addition to the individual showings in the main ballrooms, each of the five car divisions had product showings of their own in adjoining rooms.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Weather Bureau's 30-day forecast from now until mid-November calls for warm, dry weather for much of the nation. The forecast follows:

"Temperatures to average above seasonal normals over most of the nation, except for near to below normal east of the Appalachians, along the Gulf Coast, and also in the Pacific Northwest. There are some indications of a sharp break in the prevailing warm regime, perhaps during the first half of November, but it is too early to specify the nature of the new weather pattern."

"Precipitation is predicted to be subnormal over most areas, except for near to above normal in the western quarter of the country and also along the gulf coast."

State WCTU Disagrees

BOYNE CITY (AP)—An Episcopalian report which says moderate social drinking is in full accord with Biblical teaching isn't getting any support from the Michigan Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Mrs. C. W. Van Arsdalen of Hillsdale, vice president of Michigan's WCTU, says "We have no sympathy with moderation—we believe in total abstinence."

The report on drinking was delivered this week at the Episcopalian General Convention in Miami Beach, Fla. It was drawn up by a commission on alcoholism headed by Delaware's Bishop J. Brooke Mosley, of Wilmington.

It said in part that "there is no scriptural command requiring total abstinence for the God-fearing man" and cited scriptural references from Genesis to St. Paul's epistles to back up its stand.

"I can assure you," Mrs. Van Arsdalen said, "that the WCTU very definitely disagrees with its conclusions."

The WCTU opened its 84th annual convention here yesterday.

The Episcopal report urged that moderation be observed in drinking, noting that "a Christian who drinks moderately with due regard for the feelings and needs of his brothers and with a conscientious care for the claims of God can drink with thanksgiving to Him for these blessings."

But, it added, that if drinking becomes the primary motive of any occasion, rather than a secondary asset to sociability, then what is good has been prevented.

Mrs. Van Arsdalen said "there are 612 references in the Bible warning of the dangers of alcoholic beverages. Alcohol may properly be used outside the body, as an antiseptic, but inside the body it impairs judgment and self control. One out of nine who take their first drink become alcoholics."

Decision Due, Lawyers Waive Oral Arguments

League Contends Funds for Disputed Building Collected Illegally

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

LANSING — The fate of the disputed Oakland County courthouse was laid in the hands of the Michigan Supreme Court today.

Oral arguments on the appeal of the circuit court decision on the courthouse lawsuit were waived this morning by Charles A. Davis, assistant County corporation counsel, and Glenn C. Gillespie for the Oakland County Taxpayers' League.

The eight jurists of the court accepted the case on the briefs filed by both sides.

Davis and Gillespie agreed just prior to opening the arguments that there were no new points not included in the briefs, and that the oral arguments would waste the court's time.

The case is before the high court on the county's appeal of a decision of visiting Harrisville Circuit Judge Herman C. Dehnke.

Judge Dehnke ruled a year ago that the county had created a $1,392,427 building fund for the courthouse by padding annual budgets and transferring the surpluses so as to accrue this sum.

This, the judge said, was illegal, especially since the county acted after taxpayers twice in 1954 voted against increased taxes to pay off a $4,500,000 courthouse bond issue which voters approved that year.

It was the League's contention, and the judge agreed, that the county was bound to a constitutional limit of raising yearly not more than .1 mill on money borrowed or taxed for building purposes.

The League, an independent group formed expressly to fight the county's building plans, said the county had violated this law. The county has said that the law does not limit the amount that can be raised for building purposes, if the money is derived from sources other than general property taxes or borrowing.

Woman Killed in Pontiac Crash

Missouri Resident Dies as 4 Vehicles Collide at Cass-Oakland Corner

A University City, Mo., woman was killed yesterday afternoon in a four-vehicle collision at the intersection of Cass and Oakland avenues.

Miss Ethel Lois Funk, 67, died of shock and head injuries at 3:45 p.m. at Pontiac General Hospital.

Injured was Gertrude Shryock, 76, of St. Louis, Mo. She was reported in fair condition this morning at Pontiac General. She suffered multiple lacerations and a fractured leg.

She was a passenger in Miss Funk's car.

Witnesses told police that the car the two women rode in ran a red light going south on Oakland and hit one driven by Sharon Lea Dean, 19, of 446 Lowell St., which was moving east on Cass.

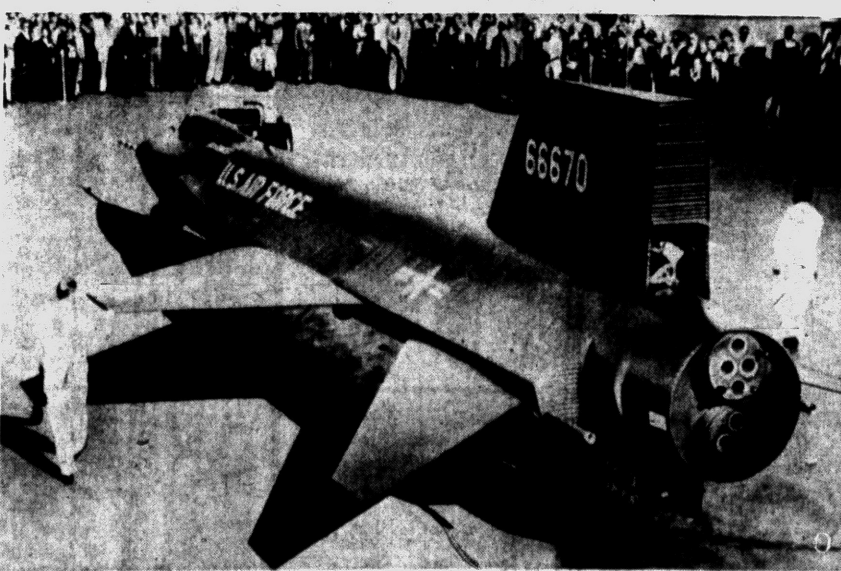

It then crossed the center line and ran into a city garbage truck driven by Claude David Seay, 36, of 28 Crawford St. The truck was traveling north on Oakland.

The car driven by Sharon Lea Dean struck broadside an auto driven by James A. Rousseau, 31, of 447 E. Tennyson Ave. He was moving east on Cass.

Williams Roasts GOP, Bagwell Gains Confidence

PORT HURON — Confidence swelled today in the camp of Republican Paul D. Bagwell.

The GOP gubernatorial candidate jumped his fast-moving campaign into west Michigan for a day after telling newsmen he felt Gov. Williams was "concerned."

"Personally, I believe he's running scared."

A few hours before some 1,400 to 1,500 persons were fed last night at a Bagwell barbecue on the farm of State Rep. Raymond C. Wurtzel (R-Port Huron) and 500 more were turned away.

Two years ago, a Wurtzel barbecue for the late Mayor Albert E. Cobo, then GOP governor nominee, attracted less than 600 at a dollar a throw. Three weeks of hard promotion preceded the Cobo affair.

Bagwell voiced his rising optimism after a reporter noted reports Williams was campaigning 16 to 18 hours a day.

"When he's going around like a whirling dervish, distributing an enormous amount of literature and taken—as I understand—500 billboards, I don't believe he's trying to pile up a margin. I think he's concerned about winning."

More than 100 members of six service clubs who attended a joint luncheon organized by the Lions Club yesterday heard Bagwell liken himself to a doctor diagnosing Michigan government ills.

In reply to criticisms from the Williams camp, he said:

"To be accused of running down Michigan because we Republicans draw attention to one of its critical problems is comparable to blaming a doctor for cancer because he diagnoses the disease."

He said the Williams administration sat idle while factory jobs failed to keep pace with a Michigan population spurt of 1,541,000 between 1949 and 1957.

To maintain the 1949 proportion of factory jobs to population, 240,000 would have to have been added. Only 76,000 actually were, he said.

100-Plus Reading Forecast Again for Los Angeles

By United Press International Heat! One hundred and one degrees of the stuff yesterday in downtown Los Angeles and 100-plus temperatures predicted for today.

Yesterday's record high came on top of a heat wave which hit Southern California Monday and has been increasing its grip daily. No letup was in sight before the weekend, the U. S. Weather Bureau said.

Fair, summery weather prolonged its stay across most of the nation Thursday with the only major rain area occurring in flood-stricken Texas.

Thousands of persons have been forced to flee their homes on the Texas and Mexican sides of the lower Rio Grande Valley as the rain-swollen river surged above flood stage.

Unseasonably mild overnight readings were reported throughout the Midwest. At midnight, La Crosse, Wis., recorded a balmy 73 degrees while Traverse City and Alpena, Mich., each had 65-degree temperatures.

A cool air invasion in the Northern Plains dropped temperatures to near 40 in Northern Montana.

Forecasters said the cooling trend will extend across the Northern Plains today and into most of the Upper Mississippi Valley.

KALAMAZOO — A delighted Gov. Williams looked out last night over the biggest Democratic audience he'd ever seen in this part of the state and declared:

"We are serving notice that southwest Michigan is no longer going to be a Republican reserve." Roused by more than 650 hand-clapping Democrats from 11 counties, Williams roared Republicans with one of the more furious talks of the campaign.

He told his audience this may be the year to oust some of "the persnickity, picky-faced" Republicans who control every office in 66 of Michigan's 83 county courthouses.

"We Democrats have to build our future on the grass roots," he said, "and we can make a great sweep in this area."

The crowd which filled the big ballroom at Western Michigan University's Student Union took heart but wondered, Democrats haven't elected a Kalamazoo county official in two decades, they haven't controlled county government for many years more. Most other southwestern counties show similar records.

Speaking without notes, Williams said, "There is no reason we can't elect a U. S. senator this fall, and there is no reason we can't add seven or a dozen representatives to give us control of the House."

"Oh, what a happy day," he exclaimed. "Then Democrats would have an opportunity to do the things they want to do."

Williams lit into Paul D. Bagwell, his Republican rival, with a will. Bagwell's attempt to show the Democratic governor's policies are driving business out of the state are "an outrage," he said.

Sports Cars Hold Gymkhana on Sunday

The newly registered Pontiac Sports Car Club will conduct its first fall gymkhana, Sunday, at the Miracle Mile parking lot, and all sports car drivers of the area are invited to take part. An entry fee of $2 per driver is required for this event that emphasizes safety, precision driving and tests of skill.

Trophies will be awarded in all classes. Event starts at 10 a.m. Cars should have a navigator, or co-pilot in addition to driver, as some of the tests require use of both.

Club, which numbers 25 members, seeks to interest other sports car drivers of the community. Its officers are: President, Richard Johnson; secretary - treasurer, Juanita Brooks and the following directors: Richard Bell, Carl Bronkowski, Norm Heinbecker.

'Galoshes Gang' Alumni and Pal Held by Police

BIG RAPIDS (UPI)—Two former members of the notorious "Galoshes Gang" and a younger companion were held under high bonds today of charges of carrying concealed weapons.

The three men, all from Grand Rapids, were arrested by State Police yesterday headed north. Rapids yesterday headed north.

Troopers Edward Seath and Fred Wadell of the Reed City post said they stopped their car because its license plate was unlighted.

Checking over the car, the officers found a bag containing burglary tools under the hood between the grill and radiator and a loaded 9 millimeter automatic pistol.

Jackets found in the car had rubber gloves, black navy stocking caps and handkerchiefs sewed into the left sleeves.

Arrested were Alexander Gerald Gernis, 44, former leader of the "Galoshes Gang;" Carl E. Herrmann, 32, also a former member of the gang and now a Grand Rapids used car dealer and Donald A. LaLonde, 22.

The "Galoshes Gang" committed more than 200 burglaries and safe-crackings in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio before its members were sent to prison in 1947.

Most of their burglaries were committed in northern Michigan. They got the name "Galoshes Gang" because they wore galoshes to muffle their footsteps.

Gernis and Herrmann were held under $10,000 bond while LaLonde was held under $5,000 bond. Gernis demanded preliminary examination when he appeared before Justice Marvin A. West and date for his examination was set for Nov. 12. Herrmann stood mute and West ordered him held for preliminary examination. LaLonde waived examination and was bound over to the December term of circuit court.

Only Outlet Is on Gulf of Red Sea Landlocked Jordan Seeks to Improve Port of Aqaba

WASHINGTON — Like the one-eyed giant Cyclops, the Kingdom of Jordan has but one outlook on the sea—the port of Aqaba at the head of a gulf of the Red Sea.

Jordan's port has been exceptionally busy lately as the debarkation point for British troops and supplies, ranging from armor, trucks, and barbed wire to food and technical equipment.

Its harbor has recently been improved, and a construction program is under way to provide extensive handling and storage facilities. The work, however, is expected to take another year. Meantime, United States experts are reported to be aiding the hard-pressed Arab nation with problems of unloading and transporting oil and other imports.

HOLDS STRATEGIC SPOT Jordan occupies a strategic spot in the northwest corner of the vast desert wastes of the Arabian Peninsula, says the National Geographic Society. About the size of Indiana, it has landlocked frontiers 1,000 miles long, compared with its 5-mile window on the blue waters of the Gulf of Aqaba.

To the south, east and north, Jordan's rocky and arid expanses merge with those of Saudi Arabia, Iraq and Syria—Egypt's partner in the young and dynamic United Arab Republic.

In the settled west, Jordan faces Israel across a bulging 350-mile front, the longest shared by Israel with any Arab state. Though fighting incidents have erupted along this border in recent years, it is there that prospects for economic development are brightest.

The promise of the Jordan-Israel borderland lies in two geographic features—the steep-walled Jordan River Valley and the Dead Sea, the world's deepest inland depression.

Surveying engineers have long pointed out that the river would be developed for irrigation and power, if the neighboring countries could agree to cooperate.

CHEMICAL TREASURE The Dead Sea holds a chemical treasure in potash and phosphates that already supply growing industries on both sides. Jordan's chief export is now high-grade phosphate fertilizer, shipped through Aqaba.

Not long ago, most of Jordan's exports and imports traveled to and from the Mediterranean by overland routes across Syria and Lebanon.

Today, the main traffic lanes are focused on Aqaba, with the hope that it may eventually become an important distribution point for Near East trade. Modern highways are planned to replace the winding desert trails and rails that link the port with Dead Sea industry, and with Jordan's capital, Amman, to the north.

Training for Missile Age

Army Stresses Self-Sufficiency

(This is the second of two dispatches reporting on what training is like for youngsters in our peacetime Army, by a UPI correspondent who accompanied Fifth Army Commander Lt. Gen. William H. (Hap) Arnold on a tour of one of America's largest training centers.)

By IRA LURVEY
FT. LEONARD WOOD, Mo. — (UPI) — He was a colonel and a chaplain and he was temporarily preoccupied with a black poodle he promised a captain he'd take care of for the afternoon. "We get about eight weeks in which to reverse a man's life," he said. "They come to us after 18, 19, 20 years of teaching that in America the group exists mainly to serve the individual. Then we have to tell them that in an Army an individual must work primarily for the group."

He said this was a problem unique to a democracy. "We never fully change them," he said. "It's probably just as well. But I do like to feel we return them better citizens, with more tolerance and understanding of one another."

The infantry colonel — the one with the combat badge of merit — said the same thing, only differently.

"We don't train them to die for their country," he said. "We try to teach them how to live — and we want them to think. They may be stuck off someplace by themselves. They've got to be able to decide on their own what to do."

This is the missile-age Army. The one that's supposed to fight the war no one wants or can describe.

Gone is the old "KD" (known distance) range, where one learned to shoot by popping bullseyes from 200, 300 and 500 yards out. They call it "Trainfire" now and the recruit learns by walking through a woods, firing at man-shaped targets which suddenly pop up before him. He doesn't even use a sling.

"In combat, how many men took time to get into their slings when the enemy was running down on them?" a captain asked.

The difference, though, is deeper than rifery.

"The soldier no longer is a cog, something to move along in trenches," said Lt. Gen. William H. (Hap) Arnold, Fifth Army commander. "He must learn to be self-sufficient, to think and take care of himself. Why, he may be commanded by no more than a set of earphones in his helmet."

What's it like, this peacetime Army, where a recruit's chief worry is whether he'll get stuck with weekend K.P.?

"It's a milk Army, that's what it is," a captain said. "It used to be a coffee Army. Now we have to put milk dispensing machines outside the barracks."

"Did you ever hear of calling time out in a war because it was raining too hard?" a captain asked. "That's what we do here. Can't let the boys get their feet wet, you know."

Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Lane, Leonard Wood post commander, said these were nothing more than cases of men letting off personal steam.

"We can be proud of our youths," Lane said. "They're an inspiration to watch. All they need is a challenge."

The key to a well-trained Army, it is emphasized at Ft. Leonard Wood, is military discipline.

"No army in the history of man ever was worth a hang if it wasn't good on the drill field," Col. Franklin R. Sibert said. "We're teaching a man a sense of duty, honor and a love of country. That's going to make him a good citizen, too."

Hal Cooper Writes for Hal Boyle:

Frank's No Politician, He's a Rich Bookie

LONDON (AP) — The strange case of the man who is not running for Parliament has been solved at last. It is now known that he will cease shaking hands around the end of November.

This man, who for our purposes may be called Frank Baker, is always standing around street corners shaking hands with various residents of the suburb. He works hard at it, and the conclusion was reached that he must be seeking to win friends for political ends. Sears the janitor was asked to confirm this.

"Hah!" snorted Sears. "The only thing he's running for is to be the richest man in Hampstead, law."

That's the local street bookmaker."

Frank, a tall, red-faced fellow in his 50s, is a genial sort, but it was suggested that this hardly explained his compulsion to shake hands. It was noted that he had even been seen shaking hands with some people twice within an hour so.

"You are a green one, aincha?" said Sears. "Whenever Frank shakes hands he puts his hand back into his pocket with a piece of paper and some money in it. The paper has the name of a horse written on it. The money is a bet on the horse."

The American observer remarked in shocked tones that such cash betting is against the law.

"It may be illegal, but it ain't immoral," snapped Sears. "Have a flutter on a horse now and then yourself, don't you?"

The reply was made that any such bets are telephoned to a bookmaker on a credit basis. Settlements—usually in favor of the bookie—are made weekly by check through the mails. This is 100 per cent legal under British statutes.

"Certainly," said Sears. "But to open a credit account you have to give a banking reference. A working type like me can't give a banking reference because he hasn't never had nothing in the bank. But illegal or not, I got just as much right to bet the horses as you have. That's where Frank comes in."

It was recalled that Frank usually shakes hands like mad on the day of a big race, such as the Epsom Derby. But on the following morning he seems to shake hardly any hands at all.

"On the day of the race," Sears explained patiently, "He is taking bets. On the following morning he is paying off the winners."

It was remarked that Frank never shakes hands during the winter months.

"He stops taking bets when the flat racing season ends in November," said Sears. "Says too many favorites win over the jumps during the winter. So during the winter months you never see Frank shaking hands."

"In fact," said Sears, "you seldom see Frank at all because," Sears concluded, "it takes him most of the winter months to count up the money he wins from horse players like me during the summer months."

Torch Drive Wins in Dispute Over Ring

DETROIT (UPI) — The Torch Drive will be the only real winner in the case of the $1,100 engagement ring.

A Common Pleas Court jury of four women and two men ruled that Seymour Hanneel's fiancée, Loretta Schneider, 22, could keep the engagement ring he gave her last February.

Handelman had gone to court to get the ring back.

But Miss Schneider isn't going to keep the ring, even though the court jury ruled it is hers.

She said she will sell it and donate the proceeds to the Torch Drive.

Member at 88 Helps Start Fourth Church

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Spry 88-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth Vinz, a member of the State Park Baptist Church for 75 years, has outlived three church buildings and helped break ground for the fourth.

Mrs. Vinz went to Sunday school at the original church site, a little wooden building.

Night Patrol in Painting

STUTTGART, Germany — The first "police dog" celebrated as such in art was a schnauzer portrayed with a night patrolman in a picture painted in 1620 in Stuttgart.

Cuban Industry Uses Sugar Cane to Make Paper

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — The making of paper out of bagasse, sugar cane waste, is developing into big business in Cuba.

Cristobal Diaz, president of Tecnica Cubana, predicts production will hit two million tons annually.

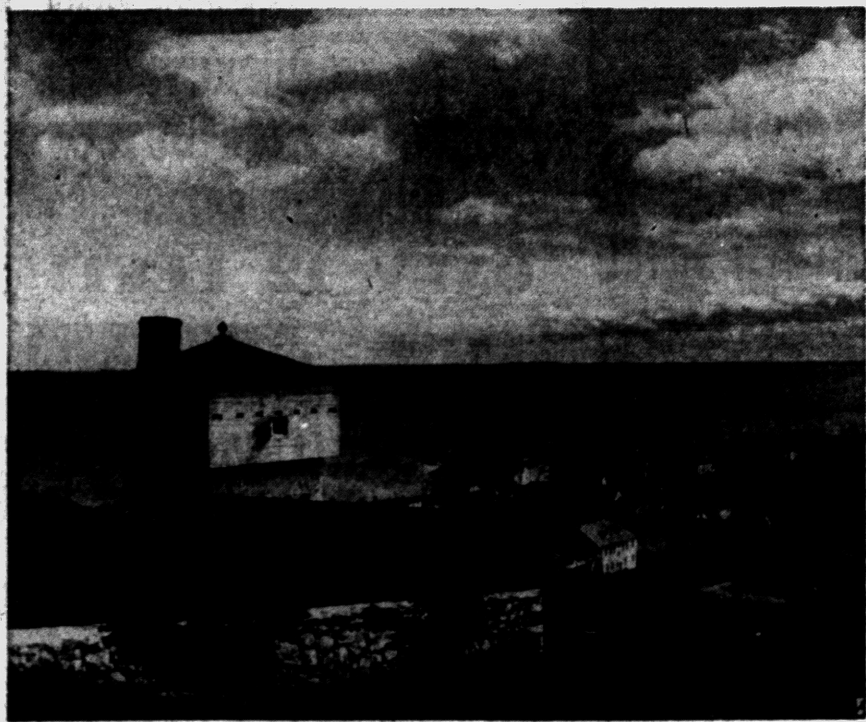

The paper mill of Tecnica Cubana near Cardenas in Matanzas Province is the first devoted exclusively to making newsprint and other paper from 100 per cent sugar cane bagasse.

Some of Havana's newspapers already are being printed on bagasse paper. Diaz is vice president of the company publishing the newspaper El Pais.

"By the first of December we expect to be in a position to serve all newspaper publishing firms in the country with a permanent stock of 3,000 tons in our Havana warehouse," Diaz said.

Cuban newspaper for all the island's papers would save the country about six million dollars a year in foreign exchanges.

Joaquin de la Roza, a Cuban-American engineer, developed the current process of converting bagasse into newsprint. He noted that the price of newsprint produced from wood pulp jumped from $136 per ton in Havana in 1936 to the current figure of $158 per ton. Bagasse paper is much cheaper.

HISTORIC SPOT — The turnstiles at historic old Fort Mackinac on Mackinac Island have been spinning this season with tourists flocked to the Straits of Mackinac. W. Stuart Woodfill, chairman of the Mackinac Park Commission, reported 118,246 visitors — about five times the normal number — viewed the fort from June 15 to Sept. 30.

Potatoes Are Good Standby

Leave it to the Irish to wrap up their ideas in a neat package of words: "Be eating one potato, be peeling a second, have a third in your fist and your eye on a fourth."

That gives you a good idea of how important potatoes were to the people of Ireland a century or so ago. In fact, it's well recorded that so many of us in the United States can claim Irish ancestry because of a series of potato famines, which literally starved people into leaving the Old Sod.

Even though we Americans don't eat as many potatoes as the Irish of a century ago, and only about half as many as our own grand-parents, still we eat more potatoes than any other vegetables, about a hundred pounds a year for each of us.

Home economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture suggest that next time you have some leftover roast beef, use it to make:

Beef and Potato Puff

3 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons fat
3 cups ground cooked beef
3 cups mashed potatoes
1 cup gravy or milk
Salt and pepper

Cook the onion and parsley for a few minutes in the fat; then mix thoroughly with the meat, potatoes and gravy or milk. Season to taste. Beat egg yolks and whites separately, add yolks first and then the whites. Put into a greased baking dish and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, or until lightly browned.

Serve Canned Chili on Brown French Fries

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chili and French fries combine for a hearty, easy-to-fix supper entree for the football season.

Brown 1 (1-pound) package frozen French fries in 2 or 3 tablespoons hot fat or oil over moderate heat, turning potatoes as necessary to brown evenly. Drain, salt to taste and serve with 2 (No. 303) cans chili con carne, either as side dish or with chili poured over potatoes. Serves 4.

Time to Make, Serve Doughnuts

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Who put the hole in the doughnut? Legend has it that a sea captain who was very fond of doughnuts, even though they gave him indigestion, made the first doughnut shaped as we know it. The hole in the dough made it possible for the hot fat to reach and cook the entire doughnut.

This time of the year is one for doughnuts more than any other time. It might be because of their association with apple cider. Maybe it's in connection with Halloween.

There are just a few simple rules to follow, no matter what recipe you use to make doughnuts:

1. Use as little flour as possible in rolling out the dough.
2. Roll and cut only a few doughnuts at a time. Excessive handling toughens them.
3. Keep the fat at 365-370 degrees.
4. Fry only a few doughnuts at a time, turning them frequently after they rise to the surface.
5. Remove doughnuts as soon as they are brown and drain on soft crumpled paper.

Mrs. Gerald Shafer, who lives on Rattalee Lake road, cooperated with us in the picture we're using today. Some time ago we got a recipe from her for "Dough-Nos," a doughnut made with mashed potatoes.

When we decided to do a whole story on doughnuts, we asked her and her daughters to pose for a picture. Our photographer sampled the doughnuts and gave them his seal of approval.

Mrs. Shafer is active in Girl Scout work, in church work and in county Extension work. She is secretary of the Home Demonstration Council.

DOUGH-NOS

By Mrs. Gerald Shafer

3 cups sugar
2 cups mashed potatoes
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs, beaten lightly
1/2 cup melted shortening
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup salt
5 cups sifted flour
Mix all ingredients together. If necessary to make a dough that is

MOTHER'S HELPERS—The best way to find out if the doughnuts are good is to try them. Anyone knows that. Mrs. Gerald Shafer says that the Dough-Nos she makes have a habit of disappearing pretty fast. Could her three daughters, Faye, aged 12 soft but easy to handle, add more flour. Roll out a few at a time, in large mixing bowl. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in yeast and cracker crumbs. Sift flour, sugar and spices.

A different recipe for doughnuts uses whole wheat flour and buttermilk or sour milk. This dough is spiced.

Whole Wheat Doughnuts

2 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
1/2 cup warm water
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup melted shortening
2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, nutmeg and cinnamon. Add whole wheat flour. Beat eggs. Add sugars and beat until light. Add shortening, lemon rind and vanilla extract. Mix well. Add flour mixture to egg mixture alternately with buttermilk or sour milk. Mix lightly to make a soft dough.

Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Roll about 1/4 inch thick. Cut with lightly floured doughnut cutter. Fry in deep hot fat (365 degrees) turning frequently until browned. Drain thoroughly on absorbent paper. Dust with cinnamon sugar, if desired. Makes 2 dozen 2 1/2-inch doughnuts.

If you want doughnuts in a hurry, here's a quickie idea. Buy a carton of refrigerator biscuits. Cut a whole in the center of each and fry like doughnuts. Fry the holes, too. This is a good idea for the person who wants only a few doughnuts.

RAISED DOUGHNUTS

This last recipe is for raised doughnuts. They are unusual in that graham cracker crumbs are called for as an ingredient.

Special Doughnuts

1 package active dry yeast
1/4 cup warm water
1 cup milk, scalded
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
20 graham crackers, roller fine OR 1 1/2 cups crumbs
1/2 cup sifted flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon mace
2 eggs
Additional flour as necessary
Dissolve yeast in water. Combine ture, if necessary, add more flour to make dough easy to handle. Knead until smooth.

Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise in warm place until double in bulk. Turn out on lightly floured board; cover and let stand 10 minutes.

Roll 1/2 inch thick; cut with doughnut cutter. Let rise until double in bulk. Fry in deep fat 360-370 degrees until lightly brown on each side. Drain on absorbent paper. Dust with powdered sugar. Makes about 2 1/2 dozen large doughnuts.

1 1/2 cups bottled grape juice (about)
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 cup salt
1 8-inch baked pie shell
1 cup whipping cream, whipped (optional)

Drain pineapple well and pour juice into measuring cup. Measure and add grape juice as needed to pineapple syrup to make 3 cups liquid. Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in 2-quart saucepan. Stir in liquids gradually. Cook, stirring over moderate heat until mixture is thick, smooth and clear. Cool; fold in pineapple and pour into baked shell. Cool until "set."

Serve plain or top with whipped cream and garnish with pineapple tidbits. Yield, 6 generous servings.

A cup of unsifted cake flour often measures 1 1/2 cups after sifting.

Girl's Reputation Is Made by People

RUTH MILLETT

"My mother is always worrying about what people might think," writes a teenager.

"Sometimes she can't give me any good reason for not letting me do something. She just says, 'It doesn't look right,' or 'It just isn't done.'"

"So long as I know I'm not doing anything wrong or anything to be ashamed of, what does it matter what other people think?"

It matters a great deal what other people think and say about a girl.

A girl's reputation is a very precious thing. Your mother knows that. That is why she is concerned about not only what you do but about what others might think of your actions.

She doesn't want anyone getting the wrong ideas about you or having grounds for gossip. And probably, also, she is concerned over your getting into situations that you might not be able to handle.

So don't mark your mother down as an old fogey or as a person who cares too much about what other people think.

Any mother of a daughter has to care what people think, and she has to help her daughter avoid getting into situations where people who don't know her well could raise their eyebrows.

YOU WILL SEE

You probably won't completely understand your mother's concern for your reputation until you have a daughter of your own. But it isn't really necessary that you understand if you will just trust your mother's judgment. She has lived long enough to know that a girl or woman can't afford to leave herself open to criticism, but must always consider what other people might say.

For after all, what is a girl's reputation, but what other people think and say about her? And how do outsiders judge, except by appearances?

Check Child's Vision Often

Mothers should be alert to signs of eye trouble in children. The danger signals may be excessive blinking, frowning, or rubbing the eyes as if to brush away blur.

Or the youngster may cover one eye, tilt or thrust his head forward when he looks at either far-away or near-by objects. A small child may refrain from games that need distance vision, or he may stumble over obstacles in his path.

Swollen, red-rimmed, encrusted eyelids, recurrence of styes, watering and squinting, are all hints that a youngster needs a professional eye examination.

What Young People Think

Teeners Distrust Russia but Look for Peace

By EUGENE GILBERT
Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Most American teenagers distrust Russia, but do not think there will be another world war.

"Not in our time, please God," said 16-year-old Daria Krevitz of Brooklyn, N.Y. "We humans want to continue to exist."

Two-thirds of the teeners questioned — in a survey taken just before Red Chinese guns began pounding Quemoy — agreed with Daria.

Most of them pinned their hopes on the United Nations and the desire of people in other nations for peace.

The war-born teeners appear to have a deeper horror of war than their parents who lived through one.

Descriptions of a world desolated by new atomic weapons have made a deep impression on young minds.

"War means a world in which no one will remain living," said 16-year-old Mary Brooke of New York City. Teeners across the country echoed her.

FEAR RUSSIA

The three out of every ten teeners who do believe war is coming are nearly unanimous in believing the battle will be with Russia.

Even youngsters who don't think a third world war is in prospect indicated a deep distrust of Russia and her satellites. Three-fourths put the gigantic Soviet Union right at the top of the least trustworthy nations in the world.

Twelve per cent of the teeners found Egypt the least trustworthy nation.

"Remember Suez when you think of dirty deals," commented Sally Benson of Newton, Mass.

Teenagers can't remember World War II — but plenty of them still don't trust Germany. Eight per cent were sure that even if Russia doesn't jump us, the Germans will.

TRUST JAPAN

This distrust of Germany contrasted surprisingly with the willingness teeners showed to trust Japan. In fact, three per cent rated Japan as the most trustworthy nation in the world.

"With their experiences of U.S. strength, I'd trust them before any other nation," said Mildred Trio of St. Louis. "Japan has learned its lesson."

The teeners were not so well agreed on who to trust as they were on who should not be trusted. The biggest vote — 51 per cent — went to Great Britain and her dominions.

Pro-British teeners felt a common background and common language made a real bond with the United States.

The second most popular nation is France. The opinion of 14 per cent of interviewed teeners appeared to be that France is a little odd, but okay.

ITALY THIRD

Italy ranked third on the teeners' "trust list." Ten per cent of the teeners ranked Italy as the most trustworthy nation. Replies indicated that teeners view Italy as a sunny-tempered, easy-going, freedom-loving land which learned to hate dictators under Mussolini.

Switzerland and Scandinavian cent of the "most trustworthy votes."

But however the teeners split on other questions, nearly all of them are agreed that Russia's word isn't worth a plugged nickel.

The Russians have been stuffed full of propaganda that they

Debbie's Appeal Is Being Herself

(This is the third and final dispatch on how the Liz Taylor-Eddie Fisher-Debbie Reynolds triangle is affecting the careers and personal lives of the trio involved.)

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD — Barely two weeks after Eddie Fisher told Debbie Reynolds their marriage was finished, the actress met Maurice Chevalier on the set of an MGM movie.

"I'm a great fan of yours," she told the French entertainer. "So is my husband."

Suddenly realizing she had mentioned the unmentionable, she blushed. An embarrassed silence fell over the few people within hearing distance. Chevalier tactfully switched to another subject.

To friends of the petite little actress, her reference to "my husband" was a strategic mistake—but a natural one.

She still thinks of herself as "Mrs. Fisher." She is still stunned by Eddie's dating of Liz Taylor and the sudden breakup of her three-year marriage.

And it is this ability to be stunned, this quality of unsophisticated naturalness, which has enabled her to emerge from the distasteful triangle purer than the driven snow.

Why was there so much immediate reaction against Eddie when he left Debbie and started dating Liz?

Said Huntz Hall, former movie Dead End Kid who is friendly with the Fishers: "Part of it, of course, was because everybody thought he and Liz' husband, Mike Todd, were such good friends when Mike was alive."

"But the main reason, in my opinion, is they thought Eddie was walking out on the American dream girl—the girl next door."

Born in El Paso, Tex., 26 years ago, Debbie moved to Burbank, Calif., at the age of eight when her father, a carpenter for the Southern Pacific Railroad, was transferred.

A LEADER

In high school, she was a leader in Girl Scout activities and twirled a baton. She was tops at sports and gave the neighborhood boys a run for their money as a baseball player.

She showed great musical promise—and wound up playing an instrument that no future glamor girl would be caught dead with—a French horn.

She was voted "Miss Burbank of 1948," was seen by a talent scout and soon signed a movie contract. Highly talented as a singer, dancer, actress and comedienne, she fast became one of Hollywood's top stars.

The voluptuous Liz, on the other hand, was brought up among the royalty of England and Hollywood and is a sex symbol throughout the world.

In the Eddie-Liz affair, Debbie has never stopped defending her husband. "Eddie is a great guy," she says. "Don't blame him for what has happened."

Under extreme marital fire, she hurled no accusations. "In fact," she said, "I've tried to telephone Liz to talk over the whole situation. But I've been unable to reach her."

When Liz told a columnist that Eddie was not in love with Debbie "and never has been," Debbie retorted: "We were never happier than we have been in the past year."

A homebody who loves to cook and sew, she said she was even considering giving up her brilliant career to devote herself entirely to Eddie and their two children.

When Eddie issued a statement calling off America's "ideal" marriage, he said: "Debbie, especially, has done everything possible to make our marriage succeed."

There are many people here who feel it still can—if Eddie wants it to.

Allergenic Tendencies Inherited

There is much talk these days about the relation of nerves and emotions to allergies. Doubtless there is a connection.

However, you have to start with a person who has an allergic constitution.

No matter how upset some people become they never have allergies. But if a person — child or adult — has inherited the type of body tissue that reacts to allergens there is no doubt that an emotional upset can reduce his resistance to the point where he shows symptoms.

This is as true of babies as of older people. Babies with allergies — eczema or colic — always seem to get worse if they cry a lot.

Pontiac Artists Hear Talk on Advertising

Nicolo Gagne, a commercial artist from Midland, was guest speaker at the first of a series of educational meetings of the Pontiac Artists' society held Friday evening at Adah Shelly Branch Library.

His topic was "The Development of an Advertisement." He illustrated his talk by showing the different stages in creating an ad from initial layout to the finished form.

Nine new members were welcomed into the society.

Former Cranbrook Gridder Pride of West Point

Dawkins Changes Army Life—and Football

WEST POINT, N.Y. (NEA) — gain that got Army out of a hole and sealed Notre Dame's fate. He scored Army's second touchdown two or three plays later on West Point's sweep to the weak side.

Later, he told Blaik, "We would have caught Williams had he intercepted the pass."

Dawkins said it flatly. He is not any doubt in his voice. He is that kind of a kid.

When you tell the story of the remarkable rejuvenation of Army football this autumn, with its lone-some end, its halfbacks throwing and its lively imagination, you have to start with Dawkins and his inseparable running mate, Bob Anderson.

Dawkins is left-handed in everything but thinking. He keeps or pitches on option plays while running to his left. Anderson, a right-hander, does the same thing the other way.

They are exceptionally fast for big men, the most formidable one-two punch in the college game. They hit for short-gainers, too, and don't get hurt, and this is something hard to believe.

Except when he's blocking for Bob Anderson, who wasn't supposed to be much either.

"Dawkins was timid," Blaik recalls, "when he came to West Point. It was against his nature to block and tackle. We had him on the scrubs running opponents' plays against the varsity. Frankly, we put him there to toughen him up."

This year, Red Blaik broke out a new offense. And now Army is at the top and First Captain of Cadets Pete Dawkins, the timid kid who was too young, runs the show.

In his plebe year, Blaik and his staff found out that Dawkins was the kind of a kid you can't classify and now, with the most fabulous record ever compiled by a cadet, he stands out, along with the quick and imaginative varsity he captains, as the college football story of the year.

In addition to giving the football team a peerless leader, Dawkins is the first captain of cadets, class president and a star student. Not in the 136-year history of the Academy, has a cadet held all four distinctions.

"I have seen cadets for many years," Blaik tells you, "but never a natural leader among them like Dawkins. He has changed the entire life of the Academy... and its football, too."

You can see that in any number of Army football maneuvers this fall, but the best illustration came late in the final period of the smashing victory over Notre Dame. A play before, Joe Caldwell had tossed a flat pass meant for Dawkins and Bob Williams of the Irish barely missed intercepting with a clear field in front of him.

On the bench, Blaik and his aides winced as they saw the play. When you are ahead late in a tough game you don't take chances.

But the thinking in the huddle was different, and Captain Dawkins was in command.

"Throw it again, Joe," Dawkins ordered. "Williams will float out with me too far to the right. I'll cut back and across and lose him."

Blaik clutched his face as Caldwell dropped back to pass again, but Dawkins cut into the clear and took the pass easily for a 23-yard

QUADRUPLE THREAT — There have been many triple threats in college football but Pete Dawkins of Royal Oak is Army's "quadruple" threat. He's strong down the middle, fast around end, a good passer and a fine pass receiver. He's captain and honor student at West Point.

Stiffest Stock Market Restraint in 12 Years

Margin Payments Go Higher -- Up to 90 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board today put into effect the stiffest stock market credit restraints in nearly 12 years. The board's purpose: to discourage speculation with borrowed money.

The board announced plans Wednesday to increase to 90 per cent the margin, or minimum down payment, required on purchases of stocks. The minimum margin had been 70 per cent since Aug. 5, when it was raised from 50 per cent.

The latest action means investors henceforth must put up at least $90 in cash for every $100 of stock they buy. It does not have any retroactive effect on stocks bought when margins were lower.

Only once before have margins been this high—when they were 100 per cent in the first year after World War II.

Wall Street had been expecting an increase and some stock analysts said they believed the action had been discounted in advance. The market reached an all-time high Monday but prices fell in heavy trading Tuesday and Wednesday.

When the reserve board raises margins, the aim is to prevent excessive use of credit in the stock market. If too much borrowed money moves into the market, less is available for use by borrowers in other sectors of the economy.

G. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said credit on that exchange totals $3,100,000,000. He said this is only 1.3 per cent of the total market value of the stocks.

Funston said stock market credit has not kept pace with increases in stock prices or with non-government credit in the rest of the economy.

A reserve board spokesman said loans by brokers and banks for purchasing stocks totaled $4,300,000,000 at the end of September. He said this was the largest amount since this type of statistic was first collected during the 1930s.

Brokers' loans had increased 20 per cent this year and bank loans for stock purchases are up 8 per cent, he said.

Union Favored in Construction

Industry Wants Only Organized Workers in Spite of Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP)—The construction industry is facing a major problem. It wants to continue hiring only union members despite a federal law which says that is illegal.

The ban against the closed shop in union contracts has been in effect for more than a decade but the industry hasn't been too disturbed about it until last year. Then the National Labor Relations Board announced a tough new policy of money penalties against employers and unions violating the ban. Several times postponed, it is now to become effective Nov. 1.

Some of the vast industry's major employers and unions feel they have a solution that will pass legal muster, yet continue their practice of keeping only union members, or substantially so, on the payroll.

Their solution: Junk the traditional but illegal closed shop and substitute a sort of combined hiring hall-union shop arrangement such as has been in effect in the maritime industry and in some of the nation's factories.

The end result would be that the work force remains union. Under the closed shop only union men can be hired. Under the union shop anyone can be hired but he must then join the union. Under the hiring hall only the qualified man can be hired and the qualifications usually fit the union man.

Construction industry hiring policy is important because it affects over three million workmen as well as the labor supply arrangements for thousands of contractors, big and little.

The bulk of the contractors on large-scale projects — such as roads, bridges, office buildings and industrial plants — seem to prefer to deal with unions because they want an assured labor supply. There are major exceptions, mainly in Southern states. And home-building is only part unionized.

Change in Grain Prices Is Slight

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain futures moved within a very narrow trading range in light transactions on the Board of Trade today. Prices generally held around previous closes.

There was a little demand for wheat at the opening, with commission houses the best buyers. There was no indication of any new export business overnight and the early demand was believed to have come from flour mills.

Most buying of corn futures was on resting orders. Commission houses were on both sides of the market. Demand for soybeans also was thin with local traders the best purchasers.

Near the end of the first hour, wheat was $\frac{1}{4}$ higher to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower, Dec. \$1.95; corn $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower, old style Dec. \$1.11; oats $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower, Dec. \$1.28; and soybeans $\frac{1}{4}$ higher to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower, Nov. \$2.14.

Stocks Advance in Heavy Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels and copper rose yesterday and the stock market was higher early today. Trading was heavy.

The ticker tape ran late for eight minutes.

Key stocks rose fractions to a point. Losers went to about the same range.

The market appeared to be steadying after two days of heavy selling. The opening was mixed. A string of big blocks was traded and prices rose gradually.

The improvement came despite a boost in margin requirements to 90 per cent from 70 per cent, effective today. This restrictive measure of a type feared by Wall Street for some time came after yesterday's market close.

Anaconda rose about a point and other stocks in this group showed gains. Higher prices for copper and reports of a good sales volume at the new prices backgrounded the rise.

Magma Copper added more than a point and Phelps Dodge a sizable fraction.

Bethlehem rose fractionally as steels were traded actively. U.S. Steel, Jones & Laughlin and Youngstown Sheet were firm.

Boeing, Raytheon, General Electric, American Can and New York Central advanced moderately.

Pfizer and Union Carbide were down about a point each. Other losers included International Nickel, General Motors, Ford, Air Reduction and Texas Co.

Peter Reigned Longer Than any Other Pope

ROME—When in Rome, live as the librarians do . . . Peter, who led off, reigned over the church the longest of any pope—from the year 33 AD to 67 AD. It took eighteen centuries to produce the next longest-lived Pontiff.

He was Pius IX, who endured from 1846 to 1878. Leo XIII, one of the great ones, was in office 24 years, six months and 14 days. The fourth most durable pontiff was Adrian I, who sat on the throne of Peter from 772 to 795.

But then there was Stefano II. He ruled for exactly three days

In March of 742, Marcello II lasted 13 days in April of 1555, just as did Urbano VIII in September of 1590.

Teodoro II had a reign of 20 days in 897 and Leo XI spent just short of the month of April, 1605, in the post.

CHOSEN IN 20 HOURS

CHOSIN was chosen Pope in 20 hours in 1939. That was four hours quicker than the coholders of the runner-up title—Benedict XI in 1303 and Boniface VIII in 1294.

The conclave of the sacred college of cardinals which chose Celestine V, on the other hands, debated for two years and three months in the closing years of the 13th century.

But the all-time record in papal deliberation concerns Gregory X whose elevation was achieved at a conclave in Viterbo, ancient papal residence 50 miles north of Rome, after two years, nine months and two days of voting—ending Sept. 1, 1271.

This decision was brought to an abrupt head when the people of Viterbo, plainly an impulsive group, cut off food supplies to the cloistered cardinals until such time as they made up their collective mind. P.S.—They did.

If you hire an Italian maid in Italy and fire her at the end of a year, for some incomprehensible charge such as utter incompetency, the law requires that you pay her a month's salary.

Custom also requires that you give her a bonus or present called a "buon uscita"—a good exit, so to speak.

A buon uscita must range from 5,000 to 60,000 lira, which is anywhere from eight bucks to $96. There is always a chance, of course, that she is not fired; that she is a perfect helpmeet.

In that case it is unlawful if the employer fails to give her one day off per week plus a total of 18 holidays and holidays.

RENTING AN ADVENTURE

Renting an apartment in Rome can be an adventure. More often than not the refuge finds himself confronted for extended periods by the owner's lawyer.

Every Roman family seems to have a lawyer, usually fierce. Most of them are prepared to sue on sight.

The lease, once signed, is registered at the city hall, making it more or less a federal case. If the roof falls in on you during your first night of occupancy you can be held for the remainder of the year's rent unless you have been cad enough to have demanded a legal out, pertaining to this, before signing.

Handcuffs—Minus Keys—No Joke to Secretary

HAZARD, Ky. (AP)—As a joke, a fellow employee put a pair of handcuffs on Miss Janet Stout, a secretary at the Hazard Credit Bureau.

Then it was discovered that the handcuffs were with the office manager in another county.

Hazard police tried to unlock the cuffs—no luck. The State Police were called. They couldn't free Miss Stout's hands.

Then Detective Orister Mahoney took a file to keys of his own handcuffs. Within minutes, Miss Stout was free.

Vermont Maples Lead

MONTPELIER, Vt.—More than a third of the 5,734,000 trees tested in the United States in 1957 by maple-sugar farmers were in Vermont, which dominates the market for fancy and grade-A syrup. Canadians tapped at least 10,000,000 trees and produced nearly twice as much maple syrup and sugar as Americans, but their product was mostly of lower-grade types for use in blending syrup and maple flavoring.

Scientist Asks

Must Have Curiosity, Energy, the Will to Do Hard Work in Study

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)—Scientists are made of curiosity, energy, and education, according to Dr. F. A. Gilliland, dean of science at Oregon State College.

Dr. Gilliland said young people have the makings of scientists if they have interest, the curiosity that wants to know the "how" and "why" of things and the willingness to prepare themselves through study and hard work. He advised:

"The best way for a young person to find out whether or not he has the makings of a scientist is to enroll in science classes early in junior and senior high school studies and learn about this vast world of science and its wonderful opportunities."

Dr. Gilliland insists that the overwhelming majority of students should be able to pass and enjoy science studies. Fear of science on the part of American students is a pet peeve with him and he declares that unreasonable fear that science is hard is keeping vast numbers of able American youths out of science classes and careers.

To become a scientist, a person should know "something about everything and everything about something," he said, declaring: "The scientist has to be both a specialist and a broadly educated man—a man sharpened to a point."

For high school students preparing for college, he recommended: biology, physics and chemistry; four years of mathematics; four years of English and, if possible, a foreign language, preferably German or Latin or both.

Dr. Gilliland says parents can help arouse an interest in science within their children in these ways:

—By taking time to "really answer" some of the questions children ask. "Stimulate, don't kill curiosity," he says. "Help young kids look below the surface of things."

—By reading and talking to children about science and providing reading material in the home that is "food for thought" on the child's level.

—By encouraging them with "experiments" and projects.

Death Probe Stories Conflict

Hospital Employees Say Patient 'Tossed Around'

LANSING (AP)—Conflicting medical evidence has been presented on the probable cause of death of a patient at the Coldwater State Home and Training School.

A legislative committee investigating the death of Joseph L. Kibloski, 45, of Bronson, presented the surprise evidence at a hearing here yesterday.

Rep. Harry J. Phillips (R-Port Huron), chairman of the committee investigating Michigan's mental hospital system, contended injuries received by the patient through mistreatment by hospital employees might have contributed to the death.

An autopsy report by Dr. A. A. Humphrey of Battle Creek said the death was caused by a long-standing kidney ailment and added of the injuries:

"None of them could be accused of contributing to his death."

Phillips produced testimony from hospital employees that Kibloski was "tossed like a sack of potatoes" into a station wagon when being transported from one section of the institution to another.

"In my opinion the record stinks," Phillips said angrily, after a four-hour long questioning of Dr. E. J. Rennell, medical superintendent of the institution, and other witnesses.

He criticized Rennell for going on a hunting trip while the patient was ill.

Phillips and other committee members questioned Rennell exhaustively on why the patient, who had difficulty in walking, was assigned to a unit where he had to go up and down stairs.

He also quizzed Rennell on the scope of his own investigation into the death and on how carefully he checked the patient's condition before his death.

It was established that Kibloski had three broken ribs and numerous contusions and abrasions. "It seemed reasonable that he had fallen a number of times," Rennell said.

Rennell said he examined the patient before he left on his hunting trip vacation and did not think his condition was serious at the time.

"You've proven you know very little about the practice of medicine and very little about administration," Phillips said tartly at the conclusion of the hearing.

Rennell tried to reply but Phillips shut him off, declaring: "I'm tired of your excuses." Rennell said if allowed to get on the record he would have explained that he was not a practicing psychiatrist, not a medical doctor, that he had been an administrator for 14 years and a state employee for 26 years.

Lake Victoria Lies on Equator

It Provides East Africa Power, Irrigation, Trade—and Crocodiles

WASHINGTON—A century ago no European had ever set eyes on Lake Victoria, the world's most expansive body of fresh water after Superior and the major source of the White Nile.

Now the huge deep-blue lake is the heart of British East Africa. Planes from London land on its shores. Steamers carry passengers and cargo between its ports. A massive hydroelectric dam provides power for Uganda and forms an enlarged reservoir for Egyptian irrigation.

But Victoria, despite its present renown and regal name, remains stubbornly African. It abounds with crocodiles and is haunted by the deadly tsetse fly. Hippo graze on a lakeside golf course at Jinja, Uganda. Players may lift a ball from a hippo footprint without penalty.

July 30, 1958, marks the 100th anniversary of Victoria's discovery, the National Geographic Society recalls. Though Arab slavers doubtless had seen the lake, it remained for British explorer John Speke to confirm, with considerable frustration, its existence.

Explorer Henry M. Stanley first circumnavigated the 27,000-square-mile lake in 1874, proving its entity. It was a remarkable feat, for Stanley's steamer had to be borne in pieces from the coast. The voyage took 57 days.

PORTS OF CALL

Today steamers regularly circuit the lake in about a week. Places of call include Port Bell in Uganda; Kisumu in Kenya; Mwanza, which serves Tanganyika gold-mining areas; Mwanza and Bukoba, a coffee port. Coming back into Uganda territory, ships stop at Bukakata and Uganda's capital, Entebbe, an Elysian town set in green gardens above the lake. The trip involves two crossings of the Equator in the lake's north sector.

Executive Looks 20 Years Ahead

Atomic Industry Will Change World

BAY CITY (AP)—Man's use of atomic energy will bring about within 20 years a world system of "interlocking industrial economies" regardless of political differences, a California executive said today.

The prediction, based on what he called a forthcoming worldwide industrial revolution of "incredible magnitude," was made by B. F. Coggan, vice president and San Diego manager of Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp.

He said all nations will be involved and there will be a universal demand for a living standard the equal of America's.

Coggan, in a speech titled "Moon, Mars and Michigan" prepared for a meeting of the East Michigan Tourist Assn., said this new industrial economy for the world will follow the atom's expanding use in the creation of power.

"All nations, whether democracies or dictatorships, economic goal—the completely industrialized society."

"In about 20 years all men and nations, regardless of political differences, will be driven into interlocking industrial economies demanding living standards equivalent to those we now enjoy in America."

Coggan also touched on possible interplanetary travel in the future.

He spoke of future space colonization in which the "early colonists" would be adventurous, scientific men "seeking answers to physical laws of the universe."

"Never in the history of the world has man been getting ready for a mass colonization so far in advance," he said.

Coggan predicted untold advantages for mankind from knowledge to be gained from space travel, particularly with respect to the causes of temperature changes on the earth's surface.

"Maybe some day, as we get out into space and look back on this earth of ours, we will be able better to understand this great thermodynamic machine," he said. He added there may be "great blessings" as a result.

Coggan said man discovered use of the atom for nuclear power "just in time to keep our world from running out of basic power."

Hudson Drivers Vote to Join Teamsters

DETROIT (AP)—J. L. Hudson Co. truck drivers yesterday voted to join Teamsters Local 299 in a National Labor Relations Board bargaining election.

The Teamster victory climaxed four years of efforts to organize the department store's 321 drivers. Drivers voted 184 to 110 for local 299.

The drivers are the first union members among Hudson's estimated 15,000 employees.

Thomas Roumell, regional NLRB director, said that barring a protest, Local 299 will be certified as bargaining agent within five days.

Local 299 is headed by Teamsters President James R. Hoffa. Hudson drivers struck for three days earlier this month but returned to work when the store petitioned the NLRB for an election.

S-P Stockholders Get Bid to Recoup

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—Stockholders of the Studebaker-Packard Corp. were expected to approve today a comprehensive refinancing plan on the strength of management's belief the plan is the way for shareholders to salvage their investment.

A meeting was scheduled for this afternoon at the corporation's general offices.

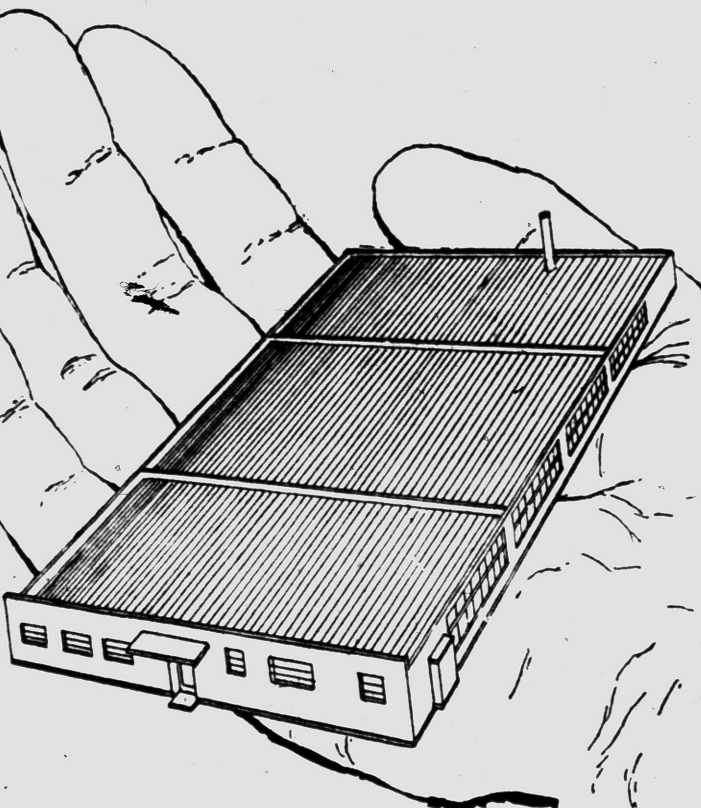

Approval of the proposal was expected on the basis of the fact that management has controlled a majority of the stockholders when issues have been voted on previously.

In addition to refinancing, the stockholders also will be asked to endorse a diversification program by which Studebaker-Packard hopes to merge some profitable industries into its corporate structure.

A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush!

An understatement if you've ever heard one! Comparing the industry which is located in your town with industry located somewhere else which your town might like to get, the bird in hand is worth a hundred in the bush, and more.

It's a hundred to one that the best opportunity your town has for more industrial payroll lies in expansion of its present industry.

The industrial payroll of your town is a priceless possession. Protect it. Other towns would like to get it and some may even now be trying. Don't take the industry in your town for granted. Show your pride in it. Help it expand.

There's no better payroll than the homegrown variety and it is, by all odds, the easiest to grow.

Argentine Cries Rim Fertile Pampas Lands

BUENOS AIRES — The heart of Argentina is the pampas, which occupies one fourth of the country's area. Its rich, fertile earth has made it one of the world's greatest granaries. About two thirds of Argentina's population is concentrated in the large cities on the rim of the pampas: Buenos Aires, Santa Fe, Rosario, La Plata, Bahia Blanca, Cordoba, and Mendoza.

40 Billion Cans Used

NEW YORK — The amount of steel used in a single year in making America's metal cans — about 4,500,000 tons in 1937 — would be enough to build 70 Empire State Buildings. American makers turned out more than 40 billion cans last year — about 900 for each United States family. Whenever a state officially is admitted to the Union, a new star is added to the flag on the following Fourth of July.

Man Blames Bruises on Four Thirsty Thugs

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — Antonio Elwell of Albuquerque told police he received his many cuts and bruises when four men pulled him out of a local bar and: Dragged him to the rear of the establishment, beat him up, threw him into a car, roared down a street and threw him out while the car was in motion. The reason? Elwell said he refused to buy the four a drink.

WOOD RIVER, Ill. — Santa Claus mail is arriving early, but the kids will have to wait it out, says Postmaster E. V. Giehl.

The letters, a pair of them, are the earliest "Santa mail" ever received at the post office.
