Rusk to Make Proposal

New Berlin Plan Slated

WASHINGTON — The United States protested to West Germany today that news leaks from Bonn were endangering U. S. hopes for negotiations with Russia on a new Western approach to the Berlin crisis.

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

WASHINGTON — Officials said today the United States will offer Russia a new Berlin plan involving increased status for Communist East Germany and a NATO nonaggression pledge in Europe.

The plan also provides for internationalization of Allied access routes to Red-enclosed West Berlin and an exchange of pledges by Russia and the United States not to provide nuclear weapons to other countries.

U. S. officials said the proposals will be laid before Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin by Secretary of State Dean Rusk at a conference scheduled here for Monday afternoon.

Rusk hopes that the Western concessions can be exchanged for an easing of Soviet pressure on Berlin. The Communists are demanding that the Western Allies give up their occupation status in the west sector of the city.

The U. S. plan stops short of granting diplomatic recognition to Communist East Germany, which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has asked. But it would give the Red German regime an increased voice.

Nikita Sets Stage for N-Weapons Race

MOSCOW (AP) — The stage was set today for a nuclear arms race as Premier Khrushchev vowed to match Western nuclear tests blast for blast — underwater, underground, in the atmosphere, even in space.

Khrushchev has rejected a last-chance appeal from President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to accept a controlled end to nuclear testing and head off American tests scheduled for later this month in the Pacific.

Kennedy and Macmillan had asked Khrushchev in a statement earlier this week to reconsider the Soviet refusal to accept any form of international controls within a test-ban treaty.

Khrushchev's answer, in a note distributed by the Soviet news agency Tass, and broadcast by Moscow radio, declared that the Soviet Union could not accept the Western plan because Russia refused to permit "unhindered intelligence" over its territory.

Instead, Khrushchev urged the Western powers to show more trust in the Soviet Union and accept its proposals for an unpoliced test ban treaty. Otherwise, he declared, "the implementation of your declared decision to hold tests compels us to prepare and hold tests of our nuclear weapons."

"And in the future, your holding of nuclear weapons tests underground or in the atmosphere, in space or underwater, will force the Soviet Union to hold tests of its own nuclear weapons so that the defense (of the Soviet bloc) would be at an appropriate level," the statement said.

Khrushchev asserted the Western powers were motivated by a desire to establish military superiority over the Soviet Union.

But to Western leaders, Khrushchev's interpretation of an appropriate level likely means an advantage over the West.

60 Freed Prisoners Met by Thousands of Exiles at Airport

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Sixty Cuban revolutionaries, some hobbling with battle wounds, came home today to their families after languishing a year in Fidel Castro's prisons.

As airliner, bringing them from Havana, landed at 12:08 p. m. before thousands of cheering, weeping Cuban exiles who jammed Miami International Airport in record numbers.

Extra police and an armband-wearing unit of Cuban volunteers struggled to keep order among an estimated 10,000 parents, wives and friends of the prison-jaded fighters captured in the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion of April 17, 1961.

Firms Defeated by Government Three-Day Drive

Triumph Gives JFK New Power to Shape American Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's price-crushing victory over the mighty-steel industry left him clothed today with vast new influence to shape the American economy.

The steel giants bowed one by one yesterday to a massive, three-day government drive forcing them to cancel $6-a-ton price increases announced late Tuesday.

The surrender under furious Kennedy attack was a public spectacle unlikely to be soon forgotten by industry or labor leaders considering a try at breaching the administration's power for wage-price stability.

The President, after denouncing the price boosts touched off by the U. S. Steel Corp., unleashed the full thrust of government regulatory power to force the rollback.

"The people of the United States are most gratified," Kennedy said on learning that major steel producers had reversed their decisions. He was just starting an inspection of Atlantic Fleet maneuvers.

The President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, though also elated at the administration victory, charted full speed ahead on the New York federal grand jury investigation he had ordered into the price increases. He said the price rollback would have any effect on continuing the probe.

"MORE OF STUDY"

Similarly, two congressional committees said they would carry out plans for investigations. Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said however, the House Judiciary Committee would engage in more of a study than an investigation with the purpose of determining whether the antitrust laws need strengthening.

The president shall not be punished," Celler said at Miami Beach, Fla.

A Senate Antitrust subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., also will go ahead. A spokesman said, "We're interested in the monopoly situation of all these price increases one after another. This hasn't changed now that there has been an equally quick reversal."

The surrender parade was signaled by Inland Steel's decision (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

News Analysis

Bethlehem toppled under presidential pressure.

From this successful battle with big business, Kennedy emerged with a newly established reputation as a dragon killer of the school of one of his favorite predecessors, Theodore Roosevelt.

He demonstrated that when a president summons all the means at his command—as Kennedy did in this instance—few can compete.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, acting Senate Democratic leader, said the outcome "underscores that, when the President exerts his leadership and puts the facts before the people, using the prestige of the government of the United States, he is difficult to defeat."

"USED POPULARITY"

"The President used his great personal popularity for a great objective," he said. "Such popularity should always be used for the public good."

This enhanced prestige for Kennedy seemed likely to pay off for Democrats who rallied vigorously to his cause when he denounced the price increase after steel had signed what the President has regarded as a non-strietary wage pact with the United Steelworkers Union.

The Democrats could picture themselves, along with the President, as the champion of the little man who would have been hit in the pocket by price increases in consumer goods linked to a steel cost rise.

There was little doubt that Republicans had been politically embarrassed by the action of steel executives who went along without price increases for two years under former Republican President Dwight D. Eisenhower but cheer in just the power of a Democratic president and loss.

French Cabinet Ministers Resign

De Gaulle Picks Pompidou Chief

Veteran Adviser Given Job of Forming New Government

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle accepted the resignation of Premier Michel Debre and other members of the government today. Later in the day, Georges Pompidou, veteran De Gaulle adviser and director general of the Rothschild Bank in Paris, will be given the mission of forming a new government.

Pompidou already has started consultations with political party leaders to line up his list of ministers.

He is to be received by De Gaulle at noon EST to be appointed formally.

THANKS MINISTERS

Debre leaves the premiership—first in the fifth French Republic—after three years and three months of service.

A communique issued by De Gaulle's office said the president thanked the outgoing ministers for their work and for progress made by the nation.

Pompidou is reported anxious to bring more political figures into the government to replace technicians that Debre had installed as ministers.

Debre has said he wanted to stay awhile because he was tired of the strain of office. There also was a difference of opinion between Debre and De Gaulle on the strategy of calling elections.

Debre was pushing for dissolution of the National Assembly and new elections in May. De Gaulle decided against this.

Snow Blots Out Early Signs of Spring in U.S.

By The Associated Press

Early signs of spring were blotted out by a mantle of new snow over a large section of the country today.

Some was added during the night in the lower Great Lakes region; the upper Ohio Valley, the Appalachians and northern New England. More than three inches fell at Limestone and Carroll, Maine.

MOUNTAINS GET 4 INCHES

Up to 6 inches piled up yesterday in the Catskills and Adirondacks in New York State. Lesser amounts blanketed most of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Rain damped southern New England and most of New York State. Temperatures in the eastern half of the nation—outside the snow belt—ranged from the 30s in the North to the 50s in the extreme South. Some readings in the 60s were reported in Florida.

U.S. to Offer Reds New Berlin Proposal

In control of traffic between the city and West Germany and also set up East-West German committees to regulate trade, cultural and other relations.

The exact role which the East Germans would play in the operation of the supply line under the Western proposal is not clear and reportedly has not been specified.

U. S. informants pointed out that the East Germans already regulate about 95 per cent of the traffic between West Germany and West Berlin and for years East and West Germany have engaged in trade under a series of agreements regulating their economic relations.

SATISFY DEMAND
The nonaggression pledge would stem from an exchange of declarations between the NATO powers and the members of the Communist Warsaw Pact to respect existing borders along the Iron Curtain.

This would satisfy to some extent Russia's demand that German territory which was given to Poland at the end of World War II be formally recognized.

It also would harden the division of Germany, which was regarded as one of Khrushchev's main objectives at the time the Communists erected the wall last August dividing East and West Berlin.

Calls Labor Influence Evil Romney Blasts Michigan Dems

LANSING (AP)—George Romney, who is seeking the Republican nomination for governor, called upon the GOP last night to show up the Democratic party for what he said was the evil influence of labor union control.

Speaking at the annual Republican spring banquet, Romney drew a roar of applause when he declared:

"In my book, the answer to AFL-CIO control of the Democratic party is not to institute that sort of economic control in the Republican party but to establish a clear-cut, unquestioned citizen-control and thus show up the other influence exactly what it is—an evil thing."

Romney's speech was the highlight of the opening session of a two-day meeting of the Republican State Central Committee in Lansing's Civic Center.

STILL UNDER WRAPS
As a delegate to the constitutional convention, Romney told his audience, he is still under wraps as far as the forthcoming political campaign is concerned.

"If I knew I was going to be a political candidate, I would not have been a delegate," he said. "But the last seven months at the convention have been good training for what lies ahead for the next six months."

Romney said he felt it was essential that Michigan create a state administration composed of public officials clearly responsible to the people of the entire state.

Prisoners Courageous During Trial

WASHINGTON (AP)—A story has seeped out of well-guarded Principal Prison in Havana that Cuban prisoners showed great courage and no apparent effects of any brainwashing during their recent trial.

The inside report of the conduct of the prisoners was in a letter from a relative of one of the prisoners in Havana, forwarded here via Miami.

"These things that I am telling you are the exact narrative of someone who is witnessing the trial," the letter said.

Experts here considered the reported conduct of the prisoners remarkable, particularly since the 1,179 men have been in custody for a year, have received personal visits from the persuasive Fidel Castro himself and have been taken on tours of Cuba.

After four days of deliberation, a five-man military tribunal last Saturday convicted all the men of treason and sentenced them to up to 30 years in prison unless a ransom of $52 million is paid.

At one point during the trial, the letter said, the prisoners became so incensed with the kangaroo court procedures they found themselves in a shouting contest with trial officials and guards. An official of the court appealed to Capt. Jose A. Perez San Roman, leader of the invasion force, to quiet the men.

Doubt Arises Over Delivery of Sunday Papers

DETROIT (AP)—The question of whether Detroiters would have a Sunday newspaper was still up in the air today as Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa conferred with Detroit News officials, after breaking off talks with the struck Detroit Free Press.

Hoffa and the News representatives met for more than two hours, then recessed at 1 p. m. until 2:30 p. m., when talks will be resumed.

The two papers hoped to publish a combined Sunday edition. The city has been without its two metropolitan daily newspapers since Wednesday night when the Free Press was struck.

The Detroit News is not struck, but has not published since the Free Press halted.

Hoffa and Free Press officials failed to reach any agreements in an angry 15-minute session this morning. Hoffa then left the negotiations.

He later began separate talks with the News management.

Nixon Criticized by GOP Leader

Chairman Miller Says Ex-VP Rife Horrible Presidential Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican National Chairman William E. Miller says if former Vice President Richard M. Nixon "doesn't wake up and realize he must be human, he'll be an elder statesman at a very early age."

Miller also told the Republican Congressional Women Club Friday that Nixon conducted a "horrible" campaign for the presidency in 1960 and is doing the same thing now in his race for the California Republican gubernatorial nomination.

"No one could get within four miles of Nixon during the campaign," Miller said.

Nixon could not be reached for comment on Miller's statements.

"THEMSELVES TO BLAME"
Miller, a congressman from New York, said in answer to a question from the floor that although "a majority of the press is liberally oriented," Republicans "have only themselves to blame for the bad press we receive. The way Republicans handle the press is atrocious."

Meanwhile in Los Angeles, Nixon says he doesn't care to engage in a television debate with his leading contender for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell of Los Angeles challenged Nixon today to a debate on the last in their primary campaign. Nixon declined, saying, "Our fight, both now and after the primary, is with the present government. It will only add the expense if Republicans spend their time debating with each other."

The Day in Birmingham

Plan 1-Day Trip to Lansing to See Con-Con in Action

BIRMINGHAM — A day-long trip to Lansing to observe the constitutional convention is planned Tuesday for area residents by the Community House and the Oakland Citizens League.

Bus seats are still available for the trip and can be obtained by contacting the Community House, 380 S. Bates St.

Cost for the round trip is $2.75 a person. Refreshments will be served aboard the bus.

The bus is scheduled to leave the Community House at 7:30 a. m. and return there about 5 p. m.

The group will be joined by Oak and County's seven-concun delegates at a "ditch treat" luncheon while in Lansing.

Six candidates have been nominated for the three expiring terms.

They will replace Martin Frank, Harold Kalbfleisch and Harvey Kress whose terms expire at the end of the month.

The Chamber of Commerce also has announced that it will move its offices into larger quarters at 55 W. Maple Road, above Latta Jewelers, the first week in May.

The chamber presently has its offices at 124 S. Woodward.

The final session meeting of the Ruth Shain Clinic in International Affairs will be held 10 a. m. Tuesday at the Community House.

The program, open to the public, will have a panel discussion on "The Future of the U. S. in the U. N."

Member panelists are Mrs. G. Knight Houghton, Mrs. Joseph Shain, Charles Rymes and Mrs. Robert Eddy.

John W. Johnston, Service for John W. Johnston, 66, of 313 N. Cranbrook Cross Road, Bloomfield Township, was presented to the City Commission here.

The millage hike can be adopted by the council without a vote of the people.

Included in the budget proposal are funds to purchase from 50 to 80 acres of land for a new civic center, pay raises for city employees, and speeded-up road paving program.

Approximately $100,000 higher than the current budget, the new budget would set the city tax rate at seven mills, compared to the present 6.5 mills.

A public hearing on the budget will be held at the city hall, May 14, together with the regular meeting of the city commission. A final budget will be adopted that night.

The proposed budget was presented yesterday by City Manager David Firestone.

It includes a $65,000 fund for garbage and rubbish collection, which does not exist in this year's budget. The revenues in this new program are expected to balance expenses.

The 4-mill increase would make a two-mill total for capital improvements levy. This includes payments on the Evergreen and 125-000 bond issue, as well as some $48,000 to purchase land for the civic center.

Poet Finally Makes Bardot's Bedroom

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—Domenico Buono, a persistent poet seeking first-hand inspiration from Brigitte Bardot, finally made it into her chamber. Also, he spent the night in jail.

The 35-year-old Italian, twice thwarted in efforts to reach the French actress, pussy-footed into the sex kitten's bedroom last night to get, he said, inspiration for his ode "The Beautiful Dreamer Asleep in the Woods."

Bardot awoke in her bed. Instead of waiting for a reading, she sat up in her nightgown and screamed.

From adjoining bedrooms rushed her former husband, Roger Vadim, directing her in a movie being filmed at the hotel, and her costar, Sammy Frey. They held Buono until police led him away to a Florence prison on Mrs. Bardot's complaint of unlawful entry.

RENTED ROOM

Last week, he managed to rent a room next to BB's even though the movie company had taken over most of the hotel. Early Sunday morning, he dashed out of her room and complained to a hotel porter that someone next door was keeping her awake.

The hotel management knocked police said, and out walked Buono reeling: "You are my self-my pearl-I love you, Brigitte — Brigitte."

Police then told Buono to leave town. He did, but he returned Wednesday and tried unsuccessfully to enter Miss Bardot's hotel suite.

Last night, police said, Buono scaled a garden wall around the hillside hotel, entered the building through a service entrance and went to her second-floor suite.

Entry was easy, police said, since BB has a habit of never locking her door.

switched its position — I'm proud of them."

"They finally saw the light and I'm glad," Brickner said. "After that price rise I was disappointed in the company. But now with their change of heart, it wipes away that disappointment."

Fred Williams, a crane man at Jones and Laughlin's Pittsburgh works for 14 years, registered indignation.

"Of course they pulled back the price increase," he said. "It was the only solution for the companies — they couldn't get away with it."

Steelworkers Proud, Indignant

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Rank-and-file steelworker reaction to big steel's surrender of a price increase ranged today from pride to indignation.

Joseph (Chippie) Tomaskovich, employed for 25 years as a crane operator at the Johnstown plant of Bethlehem Steel Co., said he was "proud that my company was the first to forego the $8-a-ton increase."

"It was wonderful news," said Tomaskovich. "I think the move of Bethlehem is great — they're going along with what the President and people wanted."

"When the price increase was announced the other day, most of us at work were sorta hurt, especially after we sacrificed a wage increase in the new contract to keep prices down," he said. "But I'm glad the company

Produce Cancer With Cold Virus

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Production of cancer in laboratory animals with a virus that commonly causes a severe type of respiratory cold in humans was reported today.

The achievement was announced by a group of Texas researchers who said tumors were produced in hamsters with one type of adenovirus, a microbe first isolated from diseased human adenoids nine years ago and now known to have various strains. Effective vaccines against some strains have been developed.

And the American Cancer Society, which helped support the Texas research, said the work provides a new stimulus to the theory that some human cancers could be caused by viruses—and thus are possibly open to treatment or prevention by vaccines.

But the ACS, in a report released simultaneously with the formal announcement by the Texas group, stressed that production of the hamster cancers with a virus responsible for another type of human ailment by no means constitutes proof that human cancers are virus-caused.

Dr. John J. Trentin of Baylor University College of Medicine told about the hamster tumor research in a report prepared for the annual meeting of the American Association for Cancer Research, one of the world's leading organizations of cancer investigators.

Co-authors of the report were Dr. Yoshiro Yabe, also of Baylor, and Dr. Grant Taylor of the M.D. Anderson Hospital, University of Texas.

Trentin said cancers were produced in the hamsters by injecting viruses known as type-12 adenoviruses.

That's one of a number of the various types of adenovirus that constitute a common source of respiratory infection among both children and adults.

The type of respiratory ailment caused by the adenoviruses differs from the garden-variety of common cold in several respects:

1. The onset is usually more gradual.

2. The symptoms—including fever, chills, runny nose, watering eyes, sore throat, hoarseness, wheezing, cough and a general down-in-the-dumps feeling—are more severe.

3. The malady, disabling but seldom going on to further complications, lasts longer than an ordinary cold.

Trentin said that in a separate study it was found that more than 25 per cent of patients treated for a variety of diseases at one hospital had been exposed and were immune to the same kind of virus used in the hamster studies.

"It is not yet known," said the American Cancer Society's report, "how many healthy people have the virus, which can lie dormant for many years following infection in childhood, to break loose again and again later in life."

The ACS report said scientists would next try to determine whether adenoviruses could cause cancer in newborn monkeys or other primates—the better to appraise whether the Texas work could have any possible significance as regards human cancer.

$1,219,344 Budget Passed for Special Education

The Oakland County Board of Education has approved a $1,219,344 budget for 1962-63 to cover countywide special education.

This compares with current expenditure estimates of $1,715,014.28.

The approved budget notes a decrease of $496,670 for new building and equipment additions to local districts.

A major expenditure is for a $140,000 closed-circuit television in the county board offices. The television is to be used in addition to an existing one-way mirror room in training acoustically handicapped children.

The budget breakdown is as follows: vocational rehabilitation, $17,525; physically handicapped program, $54,875; diagnostic services, $30,175; mentally handicapped, $30,495; subsidized services (in local school districts), $323,000; new buildings and equipment (for local school districts), $266,000; administration, $104,935 (of this, $36,000 in salaries); library, $22,825; visiting teacher (one), $9,795; homebound teaching program (seven employees), $67,450; speech correction, $91,725 (including $40,000 for television).

The county board also approved a low bid by Eames and Brown, Inc., of Pontiac, to install $8,570 in air conditioning equipment for the board offices' data processing room. The equipment is to be installed this spring.

Heat given off by the data machines, said Supt. William J. Emerson, reduces efficiency of machines and men.

Judge Draws Line at Cleaving in Court

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—A Cornish rooster's life was spared, the chopping block and meat cleaver went unbloodied, and a Chinese restaurant owner, Chu Key Soon, told his story in the Court of Common Pleas — but not under oath.

"I've always been told things happen in Charleston that never happen anywhere else in the world," observed Judge Julius B. Ness.

Lawyers for Soon, who had been involved in an automobile accident, explained to the judge Thursday that the rooster Soon brought to court was vital to his oath to tell the truth. Swearing on the Bible was not binding on a Confucian, the explained.

"His religion requires that he say a prayer to Confucius and chop the rooster's head off in the courtroom," one lawyer said.

The alternative oath-taking method — burning incense to a statue of Buddha — was out of the question. Soon's statue had broken and the lawyers said there was none to be found in the city.

EXHIBITION OUT

Judge Ness told a crowded courtroom, "I am not going to have an exhibition. This doesn't appeal to me a bit."

"I've sent down to the local library and am informed that a Chinese may be sworn by breaking a china saucer — would that do it?" he asked.

"That's only in North China," replied the diminutive Soon.

"I was afraid of that," said the judge.

"Wouldn't it be sufficient," the judge asked, "to let you cut this chicken's head off somewhere else?"

"I must cut it off in front of the judge," replied the determined Chinese.

Judge Ness then turned to the defendant's lawyers "Would you agree," he asked, "to let Mr. Soon take the stand if he promises to tell the truth, without being under oath?"

They agreed. Soon agreed to tell the truth and both sides agreed not to contest the case later on the absence of the oath.

FLOYD MILES

IS THAT MAN FOR DISTRICT 4

His Record PROVES It

District No. 4 Voters: Past performance is your best proof of the ability of the man to do any job. Consider the qualifications and the past deeds of Floyd Miles and we are sure you will select this successful business man, with 6 years' city government experience, to represent you at City Hall.

FACTS and ISSUES

MILES feels that personal service and attention to the problems of the residents of District 4 should receive first priority.

MILES continues the policy for the City of Pontiac on a "Pay As You Go" program. Any major increase in taxes should be a vote of the people.

MILES as Commissioner from District No. 4 instigated the program for a fire station in the Baldwin-Walton area. In 1956 the Weaver-Owen-Hawthorne-Alcott Community Club petitioned the City Commission for a station. Again in 1958 the matter was brought before the Commission. In 1960 the Commission agreed informally that after a new station was built downtown the next consideration would be given to our District 4.

MILES supports the Urban Renewal Program for the City, but feels one project should be developed at a time so that our City does not become a ghost town without evident signs of progress. Further, those displaced should be adequately compensated for their property.

MILES has been a board member and officer of the Weaver-Owen-Hawthorne-Alcott Community Club. This group has been the driving force behind the acquisition of the land and the establishing of a permanent Boys Club in District 4. A member of the Board was instrumental in securing the land in District 4 purchased for the Club. The Community Club paid for the grading of the play ground area.

MILES opposes assessments to property owners for sewer and water on side lot lines for which the owners get no benefit.

MILES will continue to represent Pontiac on a high moral plane and will fight to keep the "Skid Row" liquor licenses from downtown Pontiac transferring to our District No. 4.

MILES supports the viewpoint that government economy must start at a local level. That this can be accomplished with economy and efficiency rather than increased taxes. In the years Miles served on the City Commission taxes were never raised, in fact the rate was reduced. Now, in 1961 the Commissioner voted for an increase and in this year he voted against it. There is no excuse for an inconsistent stand on taxes.

To Clarify Comparison of Improvements Statement:

The incumbent stated in his Primary Election literature, page 2, item 3 and again on the radio on April 1 that, quote, "More money has been spent on all District 4 improvements in the last 2 years than in all the previous 6 years. Negroes Balk at Romney Pitch

LANSING (UPI) — George Romney has made it clear that he will go all out for the Negro vote in his drive to unseat Democratic Gov. John B. Swainson this fall.

This weekend Romney embarked on a series of appearances before Negro groups. During the past week he hosted a mixed group in a visit to the constitutional convention where he is serving as a vice president.

An emphasis on Negro women in a group of Oakland County Republicans was obvious in the visit.

The strong pitch at the estimated 350,000 Negroes who voted in the 1960 elections in Michigan may have a reverse effect, according to Negro constitutional convention delegates.

"With all his money for press release he isn't going to fool anyone," said Raymond M. Murphy, D-Detroit, a congressional district leader.

"We will point out to our people that when the question of a civil rights commission was before the constitutional convention, Mr. Romney didn't speak out."

"He hasn't shown any leadership that I can detect in the area of civil rights," Murphy said.

VOTED FOR COMMISSION

Romney voted for the civil rights commission but was not a major speaker on the matter. In other convention action he has occasionally voted in a manner which displeased Negro delegates.

"Where was his voice of leadership when rule nine was being discussed?" Murphy said.

Delegates turned down a proposal which would have written into the constitution a modified form of permissive discrimination in real estate. The issue was closely tied to rule nine of the corporation and securities commission which forbids discrimination by real estate agents, a matter still in the courts.

Murphy said that he felt "very definitely" that Romney's religion would be against him in Negro areas.

This was emphasized by a recent incident in a Negro Baptist church in Detroit where literature was handed out ripping the stand of the Mormon Church on refusing admission of Negroes as full members.

Romney, the equivalent of a bishop in the Church of the Latter Day Saints, has spoken out on his personal sense of fair play and equality but apparently has not answered to the satisfaction of Negroes his acceptance or rejection of Mormon doctrine regarding them.

"American Motors Corp. had a very good record when Romney was president as far as equal treatment goes," said Lillian Hatcher, D-Detroit, another Negro leader of the convention.

LIKELY ISSUE

"Still, I feel that his attitude on civil rights will likely be an issue in the campaign," she added.

Richard H. Austin, acknowledged Negro leader in the convention, commented on Romney's convention visitors by suggesting that "Perhaps I should invite some white people up here."

Romney's appointment of Albert B. Chesnut Sr., a Negro builder in Wayne County, as campaign manager also drew some criticism.

"Our people will resent this open attempt to buy votes," said Murphy.

"Romney was reported a leader in the battle to set up a strong civil rights commission in the new constitution. Some of my friends were as close to the front on this as anyone and we don't remember any leadership on his part," he added.

Among state statutes in the United States, 28 different divorce grounds are recognized.

Things are being said by my opposition in Monday's election which for the life-of-me I cannot understand. During my terms of service on the City Commission I have honestly, faithfully, and conscientiously favored those things I felt the City could afford that would better serve the most people.

Yet I have never forgot that my District needed and still needs many improvements, services and considerations. A Commissioner must weigh every problem in the light of his District and the City at large. This is how I felt you wanted me to represent you. This is how I tried to conduct myself and my thinking on your behalf.

I hope you will examine them carefully. Any question that may arise regarding them, please call me to get an explanation!

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

THE EASTER STORY—III

"By now it was about midday and there came a darkness over the whole land, which lasted until three in the afternoon . . . And the curtain of the temple was torn in two. Then Jesus gave a loud cry and said, 'Father, into thy hands I commit my spirit'; and with these words he died."

Days of All Faiths:

Passover Is a Meal and Ceremony

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

If you should ask any Christian what he was doing at the Last Supper, his first reaction probably would be that your question bordered on the sacrilegious. In any case, you could be fairly sure that the matter had never crossed his mind before. Christians are so accustomed to thinking of the Last Supper as a church service that they have forgotten it began as a real supper.

It was the traditional Passover meal, eaten by the Jews every year on the 15th of their month of Nisan. When Jesus and his apostles gathered in Jerusalem to "eat the Passover," Judaism had been celebrating this festival for nearly 1300 straight years. It was an ancient, annual observance, and it had its own traditional culinary menu.

Before listing what was on the table, let's look at what the occasion was all about. They were commemorating the time, almost 1300 years before, when their ancestors had been miraculously released from slavery in Egypt. Passover was—and still is—the Jewish festival of freedom.

The way God had set them free from the Egyptian bondage is recorded in Exodus, chapter 12. He ordered each family to kill a lamb and to use some of its blood to mark the family door. Then, in the night, God's angel entered every Egyptian home and killed the first-born son there. The angel "passed over" the homes whose doors were marked with lamb's blood.

In the resulting confusion, the Jews made their escape. That is what Jesus and the apostles and all other Jews were celebrating in Jerusalem that night. And everything they ate had some reference to the event they commemorated.

Here is what was set before them—

Watercress (or perhaps parsley), a symbol of spring, for Passover is the spring festival.

Eggs, a symbol of life. Bitter herbs, symbols of the bitterness of the years of slavery in Egypt.

Salt water, the tears that were shed in Egypt.

Charoses, a ground-up mixture of apples, nuts, cinnamon and wine, symbol of the mortar used by the Jewish slaves in making bricks.

A roasted lamb-shank, to remind them of the lambs whose blood had guided the angel away from Jewish homes.

Maine: the unleavened bread carried by the Jews on their flight because there had been no time to wait for risen dough.

And, of course, wine.

At every table where this meal is eaten, the head of the household takes the lead in the ceremony. One explains in 1882, E. E. Schattschneider, "Formerly quite was included in that mysterious group of drugs known as alternatives which were used in all sorts of chronic diseases for which there was no satisfactory treatment."

And that is exactly what Jesus was doing as He took the matz and said it was His body and called the wine His blood. He was following a ritual that was ancient even then, but He was putting something new into it, something that would bring all men out of the slavery of sin.

He was saying that He was to be the sacrificial lamb whose blood would bring all men out of the slavery of sin.

Christians now celebrate this event on the Thursday before Easter; Jews still do so on their 15th of Nisan. The two always

Be Ready to Ask Help, Then Go to AA Meeting

Thank you for your kind references to Alcoholics Anonymous. I have been a member for two years now and it has proved a wonderful program for me. I drank for 20 years, until AA took over my life. My wife, children and I are extremely happy since I got sober and sane . . . (L. M.).

Ans. — Finest thing that can happen to anyone with a drinking problem is to attend, of his or her own volition and anonymously, a meeting of an Alcoholics Anonymous group and see what it is all about. Look up Alcoholics Anonymous in the telephone book. Ask where and when the group meets. Then attend or not as you please.

Isn't milkweed liable to blind one? I had a wart on my eyelid that disappeared after I had applied castor oil daily for about 10 days. I wouldn't recommend milk weed on that one. (S. E.).

Ans. — I don't suggest milkweed — a reader reported that milkweed juice applied daily removes warts. I recommend castor oil — and I don't know whether it cures warts or not. Warts come and go without rhyme or reason.

My friend's father had a severe case of arthritis, for which many doctors could do nothing. An elderly gentleman (this begins to get interesting) quiet, pleasant, so we can all hear gave him some gum quinine in whiskey. The cure was complete. But we cannot find out how much quinine and how much whiskey to use or how often it should be taken. (Mrs. W. D. R.).

Ans. — Old medical tomes mention quinine as an alternative. One published in 1882, E. E. Schattschneider, "Formerly quite was included in that mysterious group of drugs known as alternatives which were used in all sorts of chronic diseases for which there was no satisfactory treatment."

April 19, in many Christian churches, devout congregations will gather for what will be approximately the 1500th anniversary of their Holy Communion. (This is assuming that Jesus must have been about 30 when He died.)

And Thursday in many Jewish homes, devout families will gather for the 3212th anniversary of their God-given freedom. (Copyright, 1962)

Washington Notebook:

Space World Beckons Small Fry

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Vice President Lyndon Johnson reported to a group of scientific and technical men here that he is now convinced we're in a space age.

He learned it from talking with the 6-year-old son of a friend of his.

The boy told the vice president "I like school fine, but I'm going to quit in a couple of years. I'm just going," he said, "until I learn how to man a space ship."

Friends of Adm. Arleigh Burke have been saying that since the admiral's retirement he's complaining he has "honeydew" trouble.

One curious observer went to the admiral and asked if he was now in the business of raising honeydew melons.

The admiral quipped back, "No, it's my wife. All she keeps saying to me is, 'Honey do this' and 'Honey do that.'"

W. Averell Harriman, assistant secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, tells this story of a visit he had with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Harman conjectured that Khrushchev's successor would probably be Khrushchev, one of the pre-eminent despots.

"No," said Khrushchev, "it will be Kozlov here" (Frol Kozlov, now deputy premier).

Khrushchev asked, "What made you think it would be Khrushchev?"

Kozlov won't be as bad, as Khrushchev would be, you know.

"That's where I agree with Mikoyan (Anastas Mikoyan, now first deputy premier), 'Quitting school, I won't live forever.'"

Walter Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, boasts he has one of the smallest organizations in government, although the importance of its title has been enlarged by President Kennedy.

"Our appropriation of $844,000," says Dr. Heller, "is only about one-millionth of the gross national product. Though this amount is 68 per cent greater than it was in 1960, GSA still ranks right behind the American Battle Monuments Commission and the Indian Claims Commission."

Washington lobbyist James Flinn has devised what he calls a chemical test to tell whether a politician is left-wing or right-wing.

If the candidate is afraid of strontium 90—and would therefore like to ban atomic bomb testing and the bomb itself—then he is a left-winger.

If the candidate is afraid of fluorine—and belongs to one of the many societies which oppose fluoridation of drinking water—he's an old-fashioned conservative and a right-winger.

Voice of the People:

'Couldn't State at Least Try to Reduce Expenditures'

There has been so much confusion about a tax program in Michigan that only a courageous few dare mention that there might be room for economy.

Our own state Senator Lynn O. Edwards offered a 16-page study of the budget where he thought money could be saved without impacting services.

It may be that tax revision is needed, and that economy is not the wish of most people. But I am upset when Senator Roberts of your district wants to put an income tax on the people without a real try to reduce the costs.

Are't the people in your district upset?

Has Much to Say About Politicians

Politicians are mainly a conglomeration of crafty, jobless attorneys who hitch themselves to the public pork barrel. They pass laws which dip deeper into the taxpayers' pockets and pass legislation to double and treble their salaries and expense accounts. They hire their mothers, brothers, children and close relatives at excellent and exorbitant salaries, with a continual invention of unnecessary jobs for their small time vote jockeys.

All public monies should be put on the ballot once per year. Let the people decide what should be done with their hard earned tax dollars. Taxes are like a freight train and the politicians keep adding car after car. Eventually the train can pull no more.

I've been thinking of moving to a warmer climate. After reading about some police officer who accidentally shot his gun I realize things are too hot. I have to drive through Waterford Township to visit friends and relatives so I'll soon be moving west.

'Divorced Women Often Greedy'

Let's do something about greedy women who renege on their word and their husbands live off another man. I haven't received support from my former husband for two years, yet the Friend-of-the-Court is after my present husband constantly. My husband has to pay full support while our children go without enough food, milk and clothes. While my husband sat in jail, I had to go on welfare. Let's have a Friend-of-the-Court for men, too.

It Seems to Me . . .

Scientist Says No Need to Fear Fallout From Nuclear Bombs

In all the serious discussions about nuclear fallout, there's special interest and significance in the new book by Dr. EDWARD TELLER: "The Legacy of Hiroshima." This top-hole scientist says you don't have to fear it and that it's no more dangerous than the luminous face on your bedroom clock or a wrist watch.

The good doctor should know. He's the papa of the hydrogen bomb.

Dr. TELLER was born in Hungary and secured the bulk of his formal education in Europe. In 1914 he became a U.S. citizen and has devoted an especially fruitful and productive life to studying physics and allied things. He was one of the founders of the great laboratory at Livermore, Calif., and he served as the director for two or three years.

When the United States suspended open-air tests by virtue of a "gentleman's agreement" with Russia's crooked Khrushchev, Dr. Teller protested that we were sacrificing something that would do no damage—and that we didn't have to grow concerned or anxious over nuclear bombs.

His advice is simple. Forget them.

He recognizes that one of the 23 Japanese fishermen died after invading an area that they had plainly been told to avoid, but he insists that even this death was probably due to other causes. He concedes that if the whole world engaged in an all-out nuclear war with gigantic bombs booming steadily all over the globe, the fallout would be dangerous. But nothing like that has ever taken place nor is it a probability.

This comforting advice comes from as high an authority as you can quote or find. We may need shelters to protect us from bombs, but we aren't going to cash in our collective checks because of any fallout that mankind is likely to face.

Opinions on this subject vary widely, but here's a super expert.

Running on His Name . . .

Young EDWARD M. KENNEDY is seriously in the Massachusetts race for U. S. Senator and the mild storm of criticism is increasing.

The lad just celebrated his 30th birthday, and therefore, is barely eligible. The United States Senate is not composed of self-starting youngsters with a modicum of business experience—or none at all, it's made up of middle-aged businessmen with years of practical training and knowledge from a wide variety of occupations and callings.

Youth has its place. But it isn't in the U.S. Senate.

The boy bears the unmistakable tag of "I'm running on my Family's Reputation." There's no other recommendation in sight. Had Nixon been elected, this striping would never have had the audacity to take this step. What business experience or knowledge can he bring to the deliberations of the most distinguished law-making body in the world?

Echo answers: "None." And it's a hollow echo.

The boy's understanding is best summed up by the cartoon quoted in these columns before. He's talking to his brother across the President's desk in the White House and Teddy is saying: "But, Jack, I am starting at the bottom."

I'm beginning clear down in the Senate."

Slow Your Pace . . .

ROGER FRERER, Publisher of The Cincinnati Enquirer handed me this prayer on a specially printed Bible folder which he is distributing to friends:

"Slow me down, Lord! Ease the pounding of my heart. Quiet my mind. Steady my hurried pace with a vision of the eternal reach of time. Give me the calmness of the everlasting hills. Break the tensions of my nerves and muscles with the soothing music of singing streams that live in memory. Help me to know the magical, restoring power of sleep. Teach me the art of taking minute vacations . . . of slowing down to look at a flower, chat with a friend, pat a dog or read a few lines from a good book."

"Remind me each day of the fable of the hare and the tortoise: that there is more to life than speed. Let me look into the branches of the towering oak and know that it grew great and strong because it grew slowly and well. Slow me down, Lord, and inspire me to send my roots deep into the soil of life's enduring values that I may grow toward the stars of my greater destiny!"

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

An economic professor predicts the U.S. will "go broke" November 18, 1972, at 10:30 A.M. The Washington News asks the professor to be more specific. "Does he mean E.S.T. or daylight savings?" "They" say you shouldn't fool with the innards of a TV set for several hours after it has been turned off as it retains dangerous electrical charges for hours. Call an expert.

Industry Says: Equalize It

Tariff Hurts Sales of U.S. Cars

By BEN FLEIGAR
AP Automotive Writer
DETROIT — A Frenchman considering the purchase of a typical standard-sized American car is faced with a price tag of at least $8,500.

If he takes the plunge it would cost him $50 a year for a license plus a special ownership tax of $243.

And he probably would find the car unwieldy on the winding, high-crowned, narrow roads which still predominate in much of France.

So Frenchmen don't buy many American cars.

The United States auto manufacturers maintain high tariffs and discriminatory internal taxes such as these are no long justified. In a recent, searching look at the world vehicle market, the Americans concluded the European auto industry is extremely healthy.

AMA SAYS:
In a presentation to the Ways and Means committee of the House of Representatives, the Automobile Manufacturers Association, the trade group which represents all domestic auto and truck builders, declared:

"Even by U.S. standards with respect to production methods, machinery, equipment and sales and service facilities, there can be no room left to defend a tariff structure higher than that applied by the United States against imported automotive products."

The immediate AMA desire is for equalization of tariffs to be followed by complete worldwide elimination of duties on motor vehicles and parts.

Tariffs as they stand now are anything but equal. The United States charges 8.5 per cent on the wholesale price. This will be cut to 7.5 per cent on July 1 this year and to 6.5 per cent on July 1 next year.

France charges 28 per cent on the cost, including freight, of American imports. The freight alone runs upwards of $300 for a fully assembled car. The French rate, along with others recently negotiated, will drop to 11 per cent within four to eight years.

These tariff cuts were widely hailed when they were announced earlier this year. But on reflection the AMA says things aren't as good as they might seem because they fail to take into account the pattern of United States exports to Europe.

Specifically, the trade association noted in its congressional presentation, the rate is going up by 40 per cent on cars exported to the Benelux countries in knocked-down form—which look like huge do-it-yourself kits.

Some 75 per cent of all U. S. exports to European Common Market countries are sold in this Belgium-Netherlands-Luxembourg area and the majority is in knocked-down form.

General Motors, Chrysler, Ford and most recently American Motors have assembly plants in these countries which put together the American cars.

The tariff on such units has been 10.4 per cent, in contrast to 24 per cent for fully assembled cars. It will go up to 14 per cent throughout the Common Market area, although the knocked-down shipments so far have been limited to the Benelux countries.

Find Out, Warns Abby

Don't Be Afraid to Inquire Because His Past Important

By ABIGAIL VAN DUREN

DEAR ABBY: I met a very nice-looking young man while waiting for a bus. It wasn't like he picked me up or anything because we had seen each other waiting for the same bus for several months. We started talking and got acquainted.

He says he doesn't have any friends or family and would rather not talk about his past.

I am 22 and have been working since I was 15. I went out with him a few times, but haven't had him pick me up at home because if my mother asked where I met him I couldn't tell her the truth.

I like this man but I can't find out much about him. How important is a man's past?

PAT: DEAR PAT: A man's past is VERY important. Especially if he "would rather not talk about it." Find out where he has been all your life or steer clear of him.

DEAR ABBY: How can my boy friend will be going to school the rest of his life. We planned to be married when he graduated from college. Well, he graduated. Then he postponed the marriage to get his Master's degree.

When he got that, he put it again saying he wanted a Ph.D. I have been patiently waiting all this time. Many of our friends have managed to get married and go to school at the same time, but my boy friend is against this idea. Do you think he is purposely trying to get rid of me?

PAT: DEAR PAT: You are losing your boy friend by "de-grees." If you suspect he is not eager to marry you, you are probably right.

DEAR ABBY: How can a couple get married without having the whole town know it? You see, Abby, we put off getting married because my husband was still married to somebody else. We had two children in the meantime. Now we are on the spot. Our son will need his birth certificate soon as he is going into the service, and the names and dates on his birth certificate don't add up.

I am not even sure whether my husband's divorce ever came through. I would have straightened this out before, but was afraid it would get in the newspapers.

We are very well known here and can't afford a scandal. If you help me! I have money, if that's what it takes.

NEEDS HELP: DEAR NEEDS: You need a lawyer, lady. Tell him your story and let him untangle the legal tape. Under the circumstances, in the State of California (and several other states) a clergyman can perform a marriage ceremony quietly, without publicity, if you are free to marry.

terrible journey and reached the summit of the little hill where He was to offer His life for the salvation of mankind. A pillar at the door of the Coptic Church marks this station. The location is about half way up Calvary or Golgotha.

Ancient Rites to Be Observed

"No Greater Love," Hosanna to God," "The Palms" and many other cantatas and anthems will ring out from choir lofts tomorrow as Christians throughout the land mark the triumphant entry of Christ into Jerusalem more than 1800 years ago.

The day known as Palm Sunday will begin the most solemn week of the liturgical year. It is the first day of Holy Week.

Palm Sunday with its blessing and distribution of palms and traditional processions will usher in Holy Week for many Protestant churches and in all Roman Catholic churches of the area.

The march of choirs and clergy carrying the palm leaf is still carried out in many churches. Some make crosses from the palm fronds and distribute them to the congregation.

New members will be received in some congregations and confirmations and baptisms will be features of many Palm Sunday observances. Some groups will dedicate new additions while others hold services for the first time in a new church.

One of the best known passages in the Bible is the account of Jesus riding into Jerusalem on a donkey on the Sunday preceding His crucifixion.

It is written that He rode into the city as the multitude spread garments and palm branches before Him. And the people cried "Hosanna to the Son of David. Blessed is He who cometh in the name of the Lord. Hosanna in the highest."

The Bible also tells that the enthusiasm of the people soon cooled and just five days after Palm Sunday Jesus died on the Cross. Crowds which had hailed Him as He entered the city mocked Him on the way to Calvary.

Many sermons tomorrow will deal with the fickleness of man—how a man may be popular today but thrown out tomorrow.

Traditions centering around Palm Sunday have come down through the centuries. From the branches strewn in the path of Jesus have come the distribution of palm leaves to those attending church the Sunday before Easter.

Leaves or fronds not used on Palm Sunday in all Roman Catholic churches and some Episcopal Rev. Amos G. Johnson is pastor.

Men Hear About Missions at Dinners

A new technique for reaching a great segment of the Methodist Church—men—will be information and inspiration about the missionary program has been developed by the Methodist Board of Missions.

Auburn Heights Choirs Singing

'No Greater Love' to Be Presented Palm Sunday by Youth, Adults

A group of new members will be welcomed into the United Presbyterian Church of Auburn Heights at the 11:15 a.m. worship service Sunday.

Rev. F. William Palmer's sermon will be entitled "Believe." The Chancel Choir will sing "Hosanna" and the Carol and Crusade Choirs will join to present "Sing Hosanna."

The Post Hi Youth will meet at 6:15 and the Youth Fellowship at 6:30 P.M.

The Easter cantata, "No Greater Love," will be presented by the Chancel Choir at 7:30 p.m.

This cantata, by John W. Peterson, profoundly and eloquently expresses the fact that love is the greatest and most indispensable ingredient in all the world.

"The choir presents this with the hope and prayer that all who hear it will be filled with new gratitude to God for Calvary," the pastor said. Narration is done by Earl Wilson with special numbers by Shelby Lockamy, Vickie Williams, Ida Norris, Ronald Salow, Richard Fitzgerald, Mrs. Norman Winters and Mrs. Bill Vancil.

Accompanists are Shelby Lockamy and Mary Hamilton.

The technique is called "Men for Missions" dinners. In the 12 months since the dinners were started, more than 5,000 men have heard about missions at 50 dinners. Were it not for the dinners, many of the men might never have been exposed in any other way to the missionary message.

A "Men for Missions" dinner involves a special dinner with a missionary program following. The dinners were developed by the Joint Section of Education and Cultivation, the Board of Missions' promotional arm, to help fill what is considered the average Methodist man's lack of knowledge and understanding about missions.

For many years, Methodist women have had a strong missionary education program, which has resulted in the women's interest, concern and generous financial support for missions.

Occupied with other phases of the Methodist Church's program, men have not had the same opportunities for study and thus have not developed the missionary interest that women have. To help stimulate the interest and concern of men, the Joint Section originated the "Men for Missions" dinners early in 1961.

Through a district superintendent, a district missionary secretary, a district lay leader or some other responsible person in a district or city, arrangements are made for a dinner to be attended by at least 100 men. The Joint Section assigns a qualified speaker on overseas missions and one on home missions. After the addresses, the men have opportunity to ask questions of both speakers.

He will explain the meaning of the symbols of the bread and the wine that Jesus passed to His Apostles and explain who is eligible to partake.

After the passing of the symbols the service will close with song and prayer.

Mr. Wallace said "the time each year is determined by the rule for the passover time that God gave to Moses. It was the 14th day of the Jewish month Nisan, which month begins with the new moon nearest the Spring equinox. This year that day falls on Tuesday at 6 p.m."

Jehovah's Witnesses in 187 lands world-wide will all observe the "Lord's Evening Meal" at this time. It is the one celebration each year they recognize as authorized by Scripture.

The service is open to the public.

Groups Mark Death of Christ

Presiding Bishop of 19 Congregations to Speak at Jehovah's Witnesses

Jehovah's Witnesses will celebrate the memorial of Christ's death, after 6 p.m. Tuesday, said Samuel Wallace, presiding minister of the East Unit of Jehovah's Witnesses. All four congregations in the city hold like celebrations at each Kingdom Hall.

"This is exactly the same day of the year that Christ gave the unleavened bread and the wine to His Apostles at their last supper together 1929 years ago, after they had eaten the yearly passover feast," explained Mr. Wallace.

"Jesus then instituted the yearly memorial of his death, as a ransom-sacrifice."

The observance will begin with a discourse by the presiding minister of 19 eastern Michigan congregations, Frank J. Piel, guest speaker for the North Central Congregation on West Wall Boulevard.

He will explain the meaning of the symbols of the bread and the wine that Jesus passed to His Apostles and explain who is eligible to partake.

After the passing of the symbols the service will close with song and prayer.

Ministers Must File for Earnings Credit

Ministers who wish Social Security credit for their earnings must file a form to that effect and send it to the nearest Internal Revenue Office on or before Monday. A new leaflet, "Dear Mr. Clergyman," issued by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, explains the details. In this department is the Social Security Administration, Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance.

"If you have not previously filed a waiver to obtain Social Security credit and would like to do so now," says the leaflet, get in touch with your local internal revenue office." It points out that district Social Security offices are standing by with information about old-age, survivors and disability insurance "which may be helpful in deciding whether you want to participate in the program."

"But don't forget!" says the leaflet. "April 16 is the last day you can act."

Gov. Swainson Takes Tax Plan to People

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. George W. Swainson took his income tax plan to the people last night and urged them to join him in demanding sweeping fiscal reform.

Swainson, in an address broadcast over several television stations, asserted that his tax blueprint is fair to all and will meet the growing needs of Michigan. It also will stimulate the economy, he said.

Those who support his recommendations, he said, should "let your senators and representatives know about it as soon as you can."

The Democratic governor, citing demands for expanded state services from a fast-growing population, said that state government "has economized to the bone."

"We must meet our responsibilities to our youngsters, to our ill, to our retarded children, to our underpaid and overworked teachers," he said. "Perhaps most of all, we must unlease in greater measure our tremendous economic potential from the restraints of an obsolete and antiquated tax structure."

Swainson, making the same pitch as he did to the Republican-controlled legislature, contended that Michigan can solve its worsening money troubles only through wholesale revision of its tax structure.

The Swainson plan would be built around a 3½ per cent tax on personal and corporate income, with half of one per cent going to local governments. Banks and other institutions would be taxed at a rate of five per cent.

It would repeal the business and professions tax, the four per cent sales tax on food and prescription drugs and personal property taxes on manufacturing machinery and equipment. These, he said, would provide badly needed help for busness and industry and low income earners.

"I propose these taxes because they are the fairest taxes devised, and they are the most flexible," he said. "Revenues grow as the state grows, as more people move in, as more new businesses start up, as our standard of living increases."

The net gain for the state would be about $71 million a year. Swainson said families earning $2,000 a year or less would pay an average 21 per cent of their income in state and local taxes under his plan, a four per cent drop.

Families earning $7,000 to $10,000 would pay out a little less than 8½ per cent of their income to state and local units, an increase of about one per cent.

The governor said he was "putting my political future on the line" by supporting an income tax. "But you elected me your governor," he said, "and I know you expect me to tell you the truth and to take whatever action is best for all of us."

2 Noted Painters Critics at Bloomfield Assn. Show

Two prominent Michigan painters commented on paintings brought to a "Critique Night" sponsored by the Bloomfield Art Association Friday evening at the Birmingham Arts Center on South Cantrick Road.

Cyril Miles and Jack Madison were the critics at the session for which the BAA invited artists to bring one work. As an informal Jury, the two painters reviewed paintings by categories.

Mrs. C. A. Hall, of the BAA program committee, said that "even people who are not painters can learn a great deal at these sessions on how to look at paintings."

Mrs. Miles instructs classes for the Detroit Institute of Arts. She also exhibits in major Michigan shows, including the Michigan Artists' Show at the Detroit Museum.

Mr. Madison, another contributor to the state's major art shows, is an instructor of painting at Cranbrook Academy of Art.

Artist Clifford West of Bloomfield Hills, originally scheduled for the Critic Night, was unable to return from a trip in time for the session.

This Critic Night is a repeat of a similar evening of critical comment two years ago.

.... The present Fire and Police Pension Plan is inadequate and does not provide survivor benefits?

THE DEATH OF A FIRE FIGHTER OR POLICE OFFICER LEAVES HIS WIFE AND CHILDREN WITHOUT PROTECTION. THE PROPOSED CHARTER AMENDMENT WOULD PROVIDE ADEQUATE COVERAGE.

... The Cost of the Proposed Plan?

The improvements would cost approximately an additional 35¢ per thousand of assessed valuation, about $1.40 per year to the average home owner.*

The Fire Fighters' and Police Officers' individual contributions to this plan would be increased from 5% to 8% of earnings, to about $450 per year, 60% more than the present rate.

Air Conditioning Has Bonus Effects

Add cash savings to comfort and more than keep them pleasantly cool in summer. Air conditioning actually cuts living expenses by reducing the cost of electricity and the cost of the air. Bills for air conditioning are far less than for heating and laundrying clothes.

Blankets and bedspreads, draperies, slipcovers, and rugs are lower when windows can be kept closed and air is filtered as it circulates through a room.

Families find that entertainment costs go down, too, once room air conditioners are installed in living, family, and play rooms. When it's comfortable at home, they spend less on restaurants and theaters seeking relief from the heat. Many even prefer to vacation at home when air conditioning makes it possible to escape the heat without the trouble and expense of traveling.

Medical expenses often are lower, too, when rooms are air conditioned. All that is filtered and dehumidified by a room air conditioner carries fewer irritants. People with allergies are especially benefited. Better appetites and better sleep also help cut medical bills.

Complete mineral wool insulation in an air-conditioned house leads directly to further savings, since smaller cooling units will do the job efficiently. The result is savings on both purchase price of the room air conditioners and operating costs of the units.

Venting a Clothes Dryer Puts Moisture Outside

Venting a clothes dryer is a very important part of its installation. Lack of venting will cause heat and moisture to be discharged into the air.

The amount of moisture might be enough to cause paint to peel, to cause wallpaper to become loose and to create mildew and rust.

Not venting is like tossing a bucket of water on the floor every time you use the dryer.

Venting must be done to the outside. And it must be done by the shortest possible route with the least number of turns.

The job is done with either rigid or flexible ducts. You can use three or four-inch smoke pipe or flexible ducting made especially for the purpose.

Installation has been made simple by the marketing of special kits that contain all the necessary pipe, hood and other parts.

The duct is installed right on the back of the dryer. Its opening is there with a ridge around it over which the duct fits.

The vent hood is for the other end, outside the house. The hood contains an automatic damper — a swinging metal plate — that opens when the dryer is in use, but remains closed the rest of the time keeping out cold air and insects.

If you go through the wall, measure the opening you are to make carefully. Drill a hole and use this as a starting point for a keyhole saw. After the vent hood is inserted from outside, caulk around it.

If you go through a foundation wall — as you would in the basement — use a masonry bit or a hammer and star drill. Use a cold chisel and hammer to clear away the concrete. Fill in around the duct with concrete.

THROUGH WINDOW
But the simplest installation of all is through a basement window. Simply remove one pane of glass completely and replace with a special aluminum insert that is available for this purpose.

The metal plate comes with a hole cut in the center to take the duct and hood.

Fasten the metal plate with glazier's points and putty, the same as the original glass was installed.

Lacking the metal plate, use a sheet of 1/4-in. exterior grade plywood. Measure to size and cut to fit. Cut a hole in the middle the size of the duct you are using.

Secure this to the window frame with quarter round molding. Wrap insulation around the duct where it passes through the plywood.

In the case of window installations, secure the window so that it does not fall down or is opened by anyone accidentally.

Protect Kitchen Wall

Hang a large aluminum-covered subsoil pad against the wall adjacent to your stove. It will be easier to wash grease splatters from this removable pad than from the wall itself. To keep it sanitary and odor-free, wipe it daily with a sudsy sponge.

Tots' Projects Remain Intact

Children dislike having their "play castles" made of blocks and other materials disturbed after they have spent an hour or more perfecting them. They'd like to have Daddy see their creations when he gets home.

Too often, these play construction projects are built in inconvenient places, as in a doorway, the kitchen or in front of a window. Therefore, they sometimes have to be dismantled before Dad gets a look.

PLATFORM
An easy and effective way to solve this problem is to give the children movable platforms on which to build. No matter where the construction takes place, these can be slid into a corner and enjoyed for not only a few hours but for several days.

A convenient size for these platforms is two feet square, though in some cases a three-foot square might be useful. Ask your lumber dealer to cut you the number you want from a panel of Masonite 1/2" Tempered Freewood, the non-splintering hardwood which will take all the knocks the kiddies can give it.

Ask Dad to attach a perimeter framework of one-inch lumber on the screen side of each, applying countersunk screws from the smooth side through pre-drilled holes. The smooth side will be the top. Edges of the framing should be sanded smooth so they'll serve as glides. Corners of the Freewood should be rounded with a file or sandblock.

By gently pushing the platform with its "castle" or play garage or mansion, the youngster or his mother can move it aside for later completion. Dad's inspection or future play.

Each platform should be colorfully painted. Get factory-primed "Masonite" or give it an undercoat at home. Then add two coats of top color.

Louvers Are Modern Solution to Problems

Many a decorating problem can be solved with louvers. Stock louver doors and shutters of ponderosa pine are versatile, blending attractively with any style of decor.

They can be used as room dividers, door, or shutters in any room of the house to provide air circulation plus privacy, adding the warmth of wood wherever they're used.

Add Shelter to Garden for Retreat

A garden shelter adds beauty and greater utility to most gardens. Landscape architects point out:

... trees, taken on charm and interest if it is topped with a simply-designed sloping roof. The roof defines the lounging area, even if a wood deck forms the floor.

What most people fail to realize, one landscape expert points out, is that garden structures must be planned so that they are complete elements within a yard.

Sometimes, when you are walking in your garden, one expert said, try and visualize what buildings you would like which would add to your enjoyment. You will find that in most cases a simple shelter, or a roof or pergola will provide a sunshade in summer and some shelter in case of rain.

These wood structures, whether pergolas, simple roof shelters with no side walls other than supporting posts, or wood decks with roof will add depth and character to your garden.

FOR EVERYONE—An old fashioned glider swing is something every member of the family will enjoy. The one pictured here seats four adults or a half dozen kids. It has a gentle relaxing to-and-fro motion that mildly stimulates the muscles as well as good conversation. Any amateur can undertake this project with success when he uses the easy-to-follow pattern. There's no trick to building it. The parts may be cut out indoors and taken outside for quick and easy assembly. The pattern lists the needed materials and gives easy to understand directions and illustrations. To obtain the easy-to-follow glider swing pattern number 278, send $1.00 by currency, check or money order to Steve Ellington, Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., P. O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

"Sawtimber" is a term for trees of sufficient size and maturity or lumber manufacture. The growth of Southern Pine in this category so dominates the national picture that it exceeds the growth of all other softwood species combined.

Washing Windows Is an Inside Job

You no longer have to be a combination daredevil and drudge to wash windows. Many modern wood windows can be washed completely from the inside of the house.

Some windows of ponderosa pine lift right out of their frames and can be carried to the kitchen for washing. Others swing out, in or around so the outside can be washed from indoors.

Even the many-paned wood windows that look so attractive with Colonial architecture are easy to wash today. Rectangular or diamond patterned grilles snap out for window washing, eliminating the tedious job of washing and polishing the corners of many tiny panes.

No matter what style of easy-to-wash windows of ponderosa pine you choose — casement, sliding, awning, or double-hung — you can find them at your local building material dealer's sturdy built, treated to withstand weather, and ready to install.

Put Hose-Spray in Laundry Too

Every modern housewife strives for convenience in her daily living — new, better and easier ways to accomplish her tasks of cleaning, washing, gardening, etc.

One such means is the automatically retracting hose-spray that comes as part of nearly every quality kitchen sink nowadays. It's unbeatable for rinsing dishes, washing fresh vegetables, and for helping wash the sink itself.

Often overlooked, though, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, is the convenience of having a hose-spray elsewhere in the house.

The laundry room, for instance, is a prime location for a hose-spray, as an integral part of the laundry tray. It will prove very handy for spot-scrubbing of badly soiled clothes before they go into the automatic washer.

For numerous small cleaning jobs, too, that you wouldn't want to do at the kitchen sink, the spray-equipped laundry tray is indispensable.

The mud room is another good spot for a hose-spray, connected to the laundry or sink, whichever you have. The soiled home gardener and hobbyist will find it useful for cleaning tools and for cleaning oil and dirt from under finger-nails.

Hot, cold or tempered water from the spray is easily adjusted by the faucets.

Northern hardwood flooring does not vary in hardness at different temperatures. It can be exposed to sun without deterioration.

Separate Baking Area Has Its Own Oven

A separate electric wall oven installed in a special baking center apart from the general cooking area is a kitchen remodeling idea that is gaining favor.

The homemaker saves steps and avoids confusion by keeping all her baking supplies in a separate section of the kitchen.

A Square?

"Squares" aren't necessarily those who can't do the twist. To a roofer a "square" is a unit of measurement, report specialists for Allied Chemical's Barrett Division. An area 10 by 10 feet (100 square feet) is the yardstick used to determine the amount of materials needed to cover a roof.

To determine the number of 6-inch length of the ceiling by its beboard ceiling tiles needed to finish. For example, a ceiling measuring 15 by 15 feet will require 225 tiles (since they are 6 inches square).

Yankees Now Convinced Taters' a Real Tiger

Lary Gains 28th Win of Career Over Yanks

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

DETROIT — The New York Yankees should be convinced that this guy called "Taters" is a real live Tiger.

The little Detroit pitcher, Frank "Taters" Lary, proved again yesterday despite various handicaps, that the great Yankees are his meat. Taters wasn't concerned that it was Friday the 13th, or that it was a bitterly cold 36 degrees, or that he was supposed to have a sore shoulder, or that the Yankees had him 3-0 down. When the frost-bitten opening day contest was over, Lary was a 5-3 winner.

It was his 28th lifetime victory against the Yankees and it was he who delivered the big hit, a triple in the 7th inning to help his own cause. Lary did fall victim to injury, however, in rounding first on his triple, he pulled a muscle in his right thigh.

He had a limp when he got to third and it took quite a bit of persuasion to convince him to leave the game in favor of pinch runner Reno Bertoia.

"What a competitor," said Bob Scheffing, the Yankees' manager, "he's a real live Tiger. He really wanted to pitch today. Even when the game was delayed an hour he kept insisting he wanted to get going," said Scheffing.

For awhile it looked like the Yankees were going to knock the eyes out of Taters, but it seemed that as it got colder, Lary got tougher.

TRICKY FLIES. Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra hit consecutive singles in the second inning. Elston Howard followed with a double and with a 1-0 lead the Yankees had second and third occupied and no one out.

Moose Skowron hit a short fly to center but, Bill Bruton drove for it the last minute as the strong winds nearly pulled it out of reach. Cletus Boyer walked and Lary was in trouble.

Pitcher Bill Stafford then died high to Bruton. The Tiger center-fielder, anxious to try for the runner, Berra, who was waiting to tag up, dropped the ball. Berra scored and Bruton fired to third to force Howard.

In the 4th inning Howard drove the ball against the strong wind and parked it in the lower left field seats.

Stafford tamed 9 straight Tigers the first three innings before Rocky Colavito, batting pop up and Norm Cash to strike out in the 4th inning with two runners on base to keep things in his hands.

In the 6th, however, Jake Wood got his second single with one out. Bruton sent him to third on a single, Al Kaline walked and then Boyer muffed Colavito's grounder. Bruton made it 3-0 on Cash's long fly.

Less than half of the 29,411 fans were in the stands when the Tigers made their first home game of the season. The Tigers made their first home game of the season.

It was a good afternoon for a bit show anyway, so Arroyo left the mound and Jim Coates came in. Colavito popped to short but Coates walked Cash to force in another run.

"I had no intention of putting in a better for Lary in the 7th," said manager Scheffing. "He hits against his club as good as he pitches."

"I doubt if Lary will be able to pitch his next game, but he's pretty bad pulled muscle," Scheffing added.

The Tiger manager was especially happy that it was Arroyo whom the Tigers had beaten. "We got more runs off him (2) in this game than we did all last season, except for that final series in New York when we got a couple."

It was only the third home opening day victory in 12 years for the Tigers. The others were in 1954 over Baltimore 3-0 and 1960 over the White Sox, 6-5.

Score Five-Inning 5-2 Triumph Over Indians; Chisox Rout A's

By The Associated Press
Washington, which hasn't lost yet, gained the top spot in the American League with a brief, five-inning 5-2 victory over the Indians at Cleveland yesterday.

Chicago's White Sox bombed the A's 12-5 in a night game at Kansas City. Baltimore's home opener against Boston was rained out and a blanket of snow forced Minnesota's Twins to put off their home opener against Los Angeles.

At Cleveland a cold rain, mixed with snow, forced adjournment after five innings.

Washington jammed in two runs on three first inning hits against the Indians' Barry Lantieri and took it from there. Gene Woodling had a two-run homer for the Senators in the fifth.

Rookie Mike Herschberger stroked four singles and a double, drove in four runs and scored another in the White Sox' rout of Kansas City. The Sox were trailing 3-1 when Don Zanni took over the Chicago pitching duties and retired the next 12 A's in order.

Late April started the offensive fireworks for Chicago with a solo homer in the fifth.

Pitcher Bill Stafford then died high to Bruton. The Tiger center-fielder, anxious to try for the runner, Berra, who was waiting to tag up, dropped the ball. Berra scored and Bruton fired to third to force Howard.

ALMOST NEEDED THEM — Tiger manager Bob Scheffing was presented with a pair of snowshoes by Herb Levine of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., before yesterday's opening game in Tiger Stadium. Snow, mixed with rain, held the game up for an hour at the start. As the contest progressed, more snow flurries developed. The Tigers didn't need the snowshoes to beat the Yankees, 5-3.

Flint Northern's third-place finish in the right-field stands at Tiger Stadium. A pop bottle thrown at him caused Maris to retreat to the Yankee dugout. Manager Ralph Houk and the umpires finally got him back to his position, amid more booing.

DETROIT (AP) — Rightfielder Roger Maris of the New York Yankees tossed a piece of debris away during booing by Detroit fans yesterday in Tiger Stadium. "I didn't do that," Maris said afterwards.

But several of the Detroit players said they saw Maris gesture toward the stands.

Mickey Mantle's center field area also was a target for the Tiger bleachers who often have pelleted Jim Piersall with items such as hairbrushes, nails, hammers and golf balls.

"They threw a golf ball on the field," Mantle said. "It landed out there, but I don't think they were throwing it at me."

This was Maris' second brush with the fans in the right field sector of Tiger Stadium in the past three seasons.

In 1960, a seat plate was flung toward him during a doubleheader. That time he also left the field and later returned.

Same Score, Weather on Opening Day in 1936

DETROIT — Opening day baseball games in Detroit have been played in all kind of weather, but it was 26 years ago against the White Sox in 1936 that the season opener was as cold as it was yesterday. It was 36 and the Tigers lost, 5-3.

The temperature on the field yesterday was also 36 degrees but the Tigers won, 5-3. Under the cold metal roof and in the open press box it was 32. It snowed and rained and the winds were bitter.

Outfielders kept their hands under their arms. Some of the batters wore golf gloves. There were a dozen or more fires in the stands, and even though 40,000 tickets were sold in advance there were 29,411 in the stands at game time.

The one hour delay caused several thousand to leave, and by the 11th inning only with blankets. Those too numb to move or those in high spirits were around to cheer the Tigers to victory.

WELL SPIRITED — At least one fan felt no pain of the cold. He was internally well heated as his friends tried to manage him out of the stadium in the stretch half of the 7th inning.

All of the Tigers were thermal underclothing and were huddled on the bench under blankets. "It wasn't too bad in the dugout," explained manager Bob Scheffing, "our bench was heated."

"How about the Yankee bench?" asked one of the New York writers. "I've heard!" Scheffing quickly got on another subject but when the question was repeated he commented, "Well, I guess they have their, uh, that is, it must have been pretty cold in their dugout."

STRAIGHT OPENERS — Scheffing recalled some wintry days during his playing years with the Cubs. "That was one of the coldest openers I've seen."

The cold however didn't stop J. G. Simmons' 86 year old baseball fan from Armada, from attending his 35th consecutive Tiger opener. He saw his first opener in 1927 and hasn't missed one since. He sat in Box 47, Tier 2 yesterday.

Lead Zone Semis — MANILA (AP)—The Philippines took a 2-1 lead over Japan in their Eastern Zone Davis Cup semifinal by winning the doubles today.

Suspected Bandit Injured in Battle

A 40-year-old parolee is in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today with injuries suffered in a fight with an employee of a grocery store he is accused of holding up last night.

Hospitalized in satisfactory condition with a fractured skull is Thomas Weston, 208 Reardon St., identified as the bandit who took $35 in a robbery about 8:40 at Chubb's Market, 77 S. Marshall St.

Shortly after the holdup, a store employee, Albert E. Hardebeck, 44, 77 S. Marshall St., caught Weston at Adams and South Zeeb streets.

Hardebeck said he struck Weston over the head with a 2-by-4-inch board after the alleged hold-up man cut him with a knife. Hardebeck, who was not seriously injured, and three other men held Weston until police arrived.

About five minutes after the grocery store holdup, a cab driver, John Harmon, 47, 1013 Argyle St., was beaten and robbed of $27 by four youths at Baxter and E. Burn streets. Harmon was treated and released at Pontiac General Hospital. His assailants escaped.

Number of Eligible Voters Is Up for Pontiac Election

While the outcome of Monday's city election won't be official until all votes are counted, one statistic is a sure thing right now.

More Pontiac residents will be eligible to vote than were for the last City Commission general election.

There are 422 more registered voters in Pontiac now than there were in March 1960, according to City Clerk Olga Barkeley.

Final tabulation shows 36,634 registered voters now as against 36,012 two years ago.

However, the current total has dropped some 929 in the last 12 months. There were 37,563 registered voters in the city last spring.

Compared to the last general election in 1960, the biggest increase in registered voters is in District 5, where 1,102 more are eligible to vote this year. The next highest increase is 548 more registered voters in District 4.

These five voting districts are the major expansion areas of Pontiac, where there is considerable undeveloped land and growing subdivisions, accounting for much of the rise.

The only other increase is in District 2 with 371 more voters. The other four districts show declines. District 1 leading the way with 451 fewer voters.

District 3 has 281 fewer, District 7 has 265 fewer, and the District 6 total has dropped 202. The total number of registered

Bill Allowing Counties to Run Colleges Revived

A bill allowing county boards of education to operate community colleges and trade schools in Oakland, Macomb and Wayne counties was revived yesterday in the State Senate — and appeared to face rough going.

The Oakland County Board of Education and Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Oakland, had backed a similar bill to operate the county-wide community college system now under study by a county citizens' group.

Yesterday's move drew immediate fire from Sen. Lynn O. Francis, R-Midland, whose education committee had killed the original bill in February.

Francis said it would create an entirely new concept of community college and would give too much power to the county superintendent of schools.

The proposal yesterday was tacked on to another bill, requiring the colleges to file annual audits, in an amendment proposed by Sen. George C. Steth, D-Macomb, a sponsor of the original bill.

Further consideration of the bill was postponed until Monday.

300 MEA Secretaries Expected at Meeting

More than 300 educational secretaries in the state are expected to attend the annual conference of the Michigan Association of Educational Secretaries, an MEA department, in Lansing, April 27-29.

Pontiac Public Schools vocational education department secretary Anna Marie Predmore is a member of the board of directors.

Area Man Hospitalized

A 29-year-old Pontiac Township man is in satisfactory condition today at Pontiac General Hospital after he was struck by a car on Marvin street near Chandler avenue yesterday afternoon.

Walter P. Koncar, 622 Ashburnham St., suffered a fractured leg when hit by a car driven by Anthony George, 61, Detroit home for Easter vacation.

Deny Rents Going Up at Merchandise Mart

CHICAGO (AP)—Officials of the Merchandise Mart, a huge office building owned by President Kennedy's father, have denied a report that rents charged its hundreds of tenants are being raised across the board.

Wallace O. Gilman, general manager, said in a brief statement Friday that the Mart has not instituted an over-all increase in its rental rate structure.

Rusk to Make Proposal

New Berlin Plan Slated

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

WASHINGTON — Officials said today the United States will offer Russia a new Berlin plan involving increased status for Communist East Germany and a NATO nonaggression pledge in Europe.

The plan also provides for internationalization of Allied access routes to Red-enclosed West Berlin and an exchange of pledges by Russia and the United States not to provide nuclear weapons to other countries.

U.S. officials said the proposals will be laid before Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin by Secretary of State Dean Rusk at a conference scheduled here for Monday afternoon.

Rusk hopes that the Western concessions can be exchanged for an easing of Soviet pressure on Berlin. The Communists are demanding that the Western Allies give up their occupation status in the west sector of the city.

The U.S. plan stops short of granting diplomatic recognition to Communist East Germany, which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has asked. But it would give the Red German regime an increased voice in control of traffic between the city and Western Germany and also set up East-West German committees to regulate trade, cultural and other relations.

Destroy Giant Liquor Still

County Sheriff Frank Irons and Genesee County Sheriff Thomas Bell. The still, among the largest ever discovered in Oakland County, apparently had been abandoned several months ago, police said.

Nikita Sets Stage for N-Weapons Race

MOSCOW (AP) — The stage was set today for a nuclear arms race as Premier Khrushchev vowed to match Western nuclear tests blast — underwater, underground, in the atmosphere, even in space.

Khrushchev has rejected a last-chance appeal from President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to accept a controlled end to nuclear testing and head off American tests scheduled for later this month in the Pacific.

Urged to Give Secrets?

PARIS (AP) — Robert Kleiman, chief correspondent for the Columbia Broadcasting System in France, said today that President Kennedy has been urged by his chief military adviser to give France atomic secrets.

Kennedy and Macmillan had asked Khrushchev in a statement earlier this week to reconsider the Soviet refusal to accept any form of international controls within a test-ban treaty.

Khrushchev's answer, in a note distributed by the Soviet news agency Tass, and broadcast by Moscow radio, declared that the Soviet Union could not accept the Western plan because Russia refused to permit "unhindered intelligence" over its territory.

Instead, Khrushchev urged the Western powers to show more trust in the Soviet Union and accept its proposals for an unpolished test ban treaty. Otherwise, he declared, "the implementation of your declared decision to hold tests compels us to prepare and hold tests of our nuclear weapons."

"And in the future, your holding of nuclear weapons tests underground or in the atmosphere, in space or underwater, will force the Soviet Union to hold tests of its own nuclear weapons so that the defense of the Soviet bloc... would be at an appropriate level," the statement said.

Khrushchev asserted the Western powers were motivated by a desire to establish military superiority over the Soviet Union. But to Western leaders, Khrushchev's interpretation of an appropriate level likely means an advantage over the West.

Pontiac to Vote on Commission, Two Proposals

6 of 7 Districts Feature Races; Polls to Open at 7 A.M. Monday

Pontiac voters will elect seven city commissioners and decide the fate of two ballot proposals in Pontiac's general election Monday.

Polling places will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. All persons in line to vote at 8 p.m. will be allowed to vote.

There will be races for commission seats in all but one incumbent, Robert Landry, is unopposed in his bid for a third term.

Candidates in District 1 are incumbent Commissioner Milton R. Henry, 42, of 122 Bassett St., a local election bidding for his third term, and Robert Bowers Jr., 39, of 216 Harrison St., a Pontiac Motor Division employee and local barber.

The District 2 race is between Curtis E. Patton, 50, of 314 S. Tilden St., a Pontiac insurance agent, and Charles H. Harmon, 61, of 336 W. Ingham St., a local tax consultant and municipal advisor.

OPPOSED BY WOMAN

In District 3, incumbent Commissioner William H. Taylor Jr., 46, of 247 Ottawa Drive, assistant advertising manager at Pontiac Motor is being opposed by a 35-year-old housewife Mrs. Jean M. Milton, of 111 Oneida Road.

Candidates in District 4 are incumbent Commissioner Winford Bolton, 56, of 174 Euclid Ave., secretary-treasurer of Thomas Die & Stamping Co. in Pontiac, and Floyd P. Miles, 51, of 109 W. Columbus Ave., who operates a local religious book store.

Bidding for his fifth term will be District 5 incumbent John A. Dugan, 55, of 383 Nelson St., a Pontiac Motor employee. He will be opposed by Loy L. Ledford, 39, of 662 Linda Vista Drive, general manager of McCandless Carpets in Pontiac.

The remaining contest will be between incumbent Wesley J. Wood, 55, bidding for his third term, and Dick M. Kirby, 41, of 91 N. Edith St. Wood, of 157 Michigan Ave., is a General Motors Truck & Coach employee while Kirby is business agent for the Wayne-Oakland-Macomb Counties Building and Construction Trades Council (AFL-CIO).

PENSION PLAN

One of the proposals to be decided is a charter amendment. If passed by voters, it would set up a pension plan for city employees.

Condemned to death as a leader of the terrorist fight against Algerian independence, Jouhaud faces the guillotine unless De Gaulle steps in.

Defense attorney Yves Ferrussel said Jouhaud had informed his lawyers he did not wish to seek clemency from De Gaulle. But Ferrussel said he and his colleagues felt an effort should be made on the Algerian leader's behalf.

A general strike paralyzed Algiers today as Europeans answered a call of the terrorist Secret Army Organization OAS for a shutdown to protest the death sentence imposed on ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud, former secret army chief in western Algeria.

PASSED BY PHONE

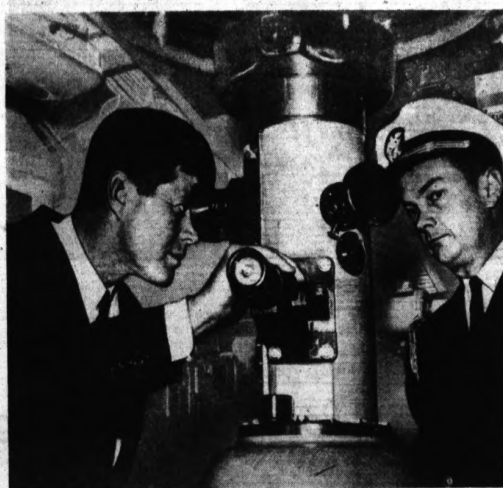

The general strike order was passed on by telephone and word of mouth after announcement that a special military tribunal in Paris ruled Friday night that Jouhaud must die.

By midday, all stores, restaurants and bars in downtown Algiers had closed. Steel shutters placed over shop windows gave the fashionable downtown area a desolate appearance. The municipal transport services stopped gradually, as drivers returned to their depots at the end of their routes.

Officials said the business strike was observed 100 per cent in the city and 85 per cent in the outlying districts.

Electric power and telephone communications were not affected.

60 Invasion Prisoners Are Slated to Land in Miami Before Noon

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Carloads of Cuban refugees started arriving at Miami International Airport early today to greet 60 war-torn prisoners, due in from Cuba at 11:45 a.m. aboard a Pan American World Airways flight.

The prisoners are part of 1,179 captives taken during last year's abortive Bay of Pigs invasion. Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime sentenced them last Saturday to 30 years in prison unless a ransom of $62 million is paid.

A Cuban Families Committee negotiating team from Miami bargained the freedom of today's arrivals after meetings twice this week with Castro.

EXPERT NEGOTIATORS
The four refugee negotiators, Virginia Belmont, Enrique Linares, Ernesto Freyre and Alvaro Sanchez Jr., were expected aboard today's flight.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has increased his personal prestige and put Republicans on the political defensive with a smashing breakthrough against Big Steel's price increases.

The action yesterday by the two biggest companies, U.S. Steel and Bethlehem, in rescinding a $6-a-ton price rise obviously was forced by a White House power play that combined the elements of public opinion and threats of retaliation.

Like a row of dominoes, other major companies fell in line after the price rise.

Pleasant weather looks promising for Palm Sunday. Mostly fair skies and warmer temperatures are expected. Tomorrow's predicted high is 52.

Tonight will be mostly fair and cold. A low of 32 is expected. Increasing cloudiness and slightly higher temperatures is Monday's outlook.

Winds today were northwesterly at 10 to 20 miles per hour. Thirty was the lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. Forty-seven was the thermometer reading at 1 p.m.

He demonstrated that when a president summons all the means at his command — as Kennedy did in this instance — few can compete.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, acting Senate-Democratic leader, said the outcome "underscores that, when the President exerts his leadership and puts the facts before the people, using the prestige of the government of the United States, he is difficult to defeat."

'USED POPULARITY'
"The President used his great personal popularity for a great objective," he said. "Such popularity should always be used for the public good."

This enhanced prestige for Kennedy seemed likely to pay off for Democrats who rallied vigorously to his cause when he denounced the price increases.

The Democrats could picture themselves, along with the President, as the champion of the little man who would have been hit in the pocket by price increases in consumer goods linked to a steel cost rise.

There was little doubt that Republicans had been politically embarrassed by the action of steel executives who went along without price increases for two years under former Republican President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He chose to test the power of a Democratic president and lost.

Firms Defeated by Government Three-Day Drive

Triumph Gives JFK New Power to Shape American Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's price-crushing victory over the mighty steel industry left him clothed today with vast new influence to shape the American economy.

The steel giants bowed one by one yesterday to a massive, three-day government drive forcing them to cancel $6-a-ton price increases announced late Tuesday.

The surrender under furious Kennedy attack was a public spectacle unlikely to be soon forgotten by industry or labor leaders considering a day at breaching the administration rules for wage-price stability.

The President, after denouncing the price boosts touched off by U.S. Steel Corp., unleashed the full brunt of government regulatory power to force the rollback.

"The people of the United States are most grateful," Kennedy said on learning that major steel producers had reversed their decisions. He was just starting an inspection of Atlantic Fleet maneuvers.

The President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, though also elated at the administration victory, charted full speed ahead on the New York federal grand jury investigation he had ordered into the price increases. He said the price rollback would have no effect on continuing the probe.

'MORE OF STUDY'
Similarly, two congressional committees said they would carry out plans for investigations. Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said however, the House Judiciary Committee would engage in more of a study in an investigation, with the purpose of determining whether theitrust laws need strengthening.

The pentitent shall not be punished," Celler said at Miami Beach 14.

A Senate Antitrust subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., also will go ahead. A spokesman said, "We're interested in the monopoly situation of all those price increases one after another. This hasn't changed now that there has been an equally quick reversal."

The surrender parade was signalled by Inland Steel's decision (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

French Cabinet Ministers Resign

De Gaulle Picks Pompidou Chief

Veteran Adviser Given Job of Forming New Government

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle accepted the resignation of Premier Michel Debre and other members of the government today. Later in the day, Georges Pompidou, veteran De Gaulle adviser and director general of the Rothschild Bank in Paris, will be given the mission of forming a new government.

Pompidou already has started consultations with political party leaders to line up his list of ministers.

He is to be received by De Gaulle at noon EST to be appointed formally.

THANKS MINISTERS

Debre leaves the premiership—first in the fifth French Republic—after three years and three months of service.

A communique issued by the president's office said the president thanked the outgoing ministers for their work and for progress made by the nation.

Pompidou is reported anxious to bring more political figures into the government to replace technicians that Debre had installed as ministers.

Debre has said he wanted to step aside because he was tired by the strain of office. There also was a difference of opinion between Debre and De Gaulle on the strategy of calling elections.

Debre was pushing for dissolution of the National Assembly and new elections in May. De Gaulle decided against this.

Snow Blots Out Early Signs of Spring in U.S.

By The Associated Press

Early signs of spring were blotted out by a mantle of new snow over a large section of the country today.

Some snow was added during the night in the lower Great Lakes region, the upper Ohio Valley, the Appalachians and northern New England. More than three inches fell at Limestone and Caribou, Maine.

Up to 6 inches piled up yesterday in the Catskills and Adirondacks in New York State. Lesser amounts blanketed most of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Rain dampened southern New England and most of New York State. Temperatures in the eastern half of the nation—outside the snow belt—ranged from the 30s in the North to the 50s in the extreme South. Some readings in the 60s were reported in Florida.

U.S. to Offer Reds New Berlin Proposal

The exact role which the East Germans would play in the operation of the supply line under the Western proposal is not clear and reportedly has not been spelled out.

U.S. informants pointed out that the East Germans already regulate about 90 per cent of the traffic between West Germany and West Berlin and for years East and West Germany have engaged in trade under a series of agreements governing their economic relations.

SATISFY DEMAND

The nonaggression pledge would stem from an exchange of declarations between the NATO powers and the members of the Communist Warsaw Pact to respect existing borders along the Iron Curtain, sources said.

This would satisfy to some extent Russia's demand that German territory which was given to Poland at the end of World War II be formally recognized.

It also would harden the division of Germany, which was regarded as one of Khrushchev's main objectives at the time the Communists erected the wall last August dividing East and West Berlin.

Building Bought by Club

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Press Club, founded in 1958, has announced the purchase of a building in downtown Detroit as a new home for the 85-member club. The building formerly housed the Knute and Fork Club, a restaurant which went out of business in January.

Calls Labor Influence Evil

Romney Blasts Michigan Dems

LANSING (AP)—George Romney, who is seeking the Republican nomination for governor, called upon the GOP last night to show up the Democratic party for what he said was the evil influence of labor union control.

Speaking at the annual Republican spring banquet, Romney drew a roar of applause when he declared:

"In my book, the answer to AFL-CIO control of the Democratic party is not to institute that sort of economic control in the Republican party but to establish a clear-cut, unquestioned citizen-control and show up the other influence exactly what it is—an evil thing."

Romney's speech was the high light of the opening session of a two-day meeting of the Republican State Central Committee in Lansing's Civic Center.

STILL UNDER WRAPS

As a delegate to the constitutional convention, Romney told his audience, he is still under wraps as far as the forthcoming political campaign is concerned.

"I knew I was going to be a political candidate. I would not have been a delegate," he said.

"But the last seven months (at the convention) have been good training for what lies ahead for the next six months."

Romney said he felt it was essential that Michigan create a state administration composed of public officials clearly responsive to the people of the entire state.

Plan to Bridge White Lake Hits Rough Waters

Mrs. Willard D. Dawson faces rough waters if she intends to press for permission to construct a causeway across White Lake to Brown Island where she plans to construct a $1.8-million luxury apartment development.

Permission would have to come from the State Legislature, says Nicholas V. Olds, head of the conservation division of the state at Lansing general's office.

Olds told the State Conservation Commission at its meeting here yesterday that neither it nor the State Conservation Department had the authority to permit the 1,000-foot causeway.

The department has halted construction with an injunction issued April 6 by Ingham County Circuit Court. It decided at the meeting yesterday to continue the injunction while a suit, it has instituted, is pending.

Representatives of property owners on the lake and of Mrs. Dawson met with the commission yesterday.

Experts here considered the reported conduct of the prisoners remarkable, particularly since the 1,179 men have been in custody for a year, have received personal visits from the persuasive Fidel Castro himself and have been taken on tours of Cuba.

ALL CONVICTED

After four days of deliberation, a five-man military tribunal last Saturday convicted all the men of treason and sentenced them to up to 30 years in prison unless a ransom of $62 million is paid.

At one point during the trial, the letter said, the prisoners became so incensed with the kangaroo court procedures they found themselves in a shouting contest with trial officials and guards. An official of the court appealed to Capt. Jose A. Perez San Roman, leader of the invasion forces, to quiet the men.

Nixon Criticized by GOP Leader

Chairman Miller Says Ex-VP Ran Horrible Presidential Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican National Chairman William F. Miller says if former Vice President Richard M. Nixon "doesn't wake up and realize he must be human, he'll be an elder statesman at a very early age."

Miller also told the Republican Congressional Women Club Friday that Nixon conducted a "horrible" campaign for the presidency in 1960 and is doing the same thing now in his race for the California Republican gubernatorial nomination.

"No one could get within four miles of Nixon during the campaign," Miller said.

Nixon could not be reached for comment on Miller's statements.

THEMSELVES TO BLAME

Miller, a congressman from New York, said in answer to a question from the floor that although "a majority of the press is liberally oriented," Republicans "have only themselves to blame for the bad press we receive. The way Republicans handle the press is atrocious."

Meanwhile in Los Angeles, Nixon says he doesn't care to engage in a television debate with his leading opponent, the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell of Los Angeles challenged Nixon yesterday to a debate on the issues in their primary campaign. Nixon declined, saying, "Our fight, both now and after the primary, is with the present governor. He will only add the opposition if Republicans spend their time debating with each other."

Poet Finally Makes Bardot's Bedroom

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—Domènico Buono, a persistent poet seeking first-hand inspiration from Brigitte Bardot, finally made it into her chamber. Alas, he spent the night in jail.

The 23-year-old Italian, twice thwarted in efforts to reach the French actress, pussy-footed into the sex kitten's bedroom last night to get, he said, inspiration for his ode "The Beautiful Dreamer Asleep in the Woods."

Bardot awoke in her bed. Instead of waiting for a reading, she sat up in her nightgown and screamed.

From adjoining bedrooms rushed her former husband, Roger Vadim, directing her in a movie being filmed at the hotel, and her confidant, Sammy Frey. They held Buono until police led him away to a Florence prison on Miss Bardot's complaint of unlawful entry.

RENTED ROOM

Last week, he managed to rent a room next to BB's even though the movie company had taken over most of the hotel. Early Sunday morning, she dashed out of her room and complained to a hotel porter that someone next door was keeping her awake.

The hotel management knocked police said, and out walked Buono reciting: "You are my self—my pearl—I love you, Brigitte—Brigitte."

Police then told Buono to leave town. He did, but he returned Wednesday and tried unsuccessfully to enter Miss Bardot's hotel suite.

Last night, police said, Buono scaled a garden wall around the hillside hotel, entered the building through a service entrance and went to her second-floor suite.

Entry was easy, police said, since BB has a habit of never locking her door.

The other proposal is an amendment to the city's dog ordinance. It passed, it would require dog owners to get their dogs rabies vaccinations before they could buy their annual dog licenses.

not to raise prices. Then Bethlehem Steel, No. 2 in the industry and heavily involved in government ship-building, canceled its order to raise prices.

From then on it was a rout, with U.S. Steel tossing in the towel. Big Steel said it couldn't stand alone and wanted to be part of a serious attempt to proper relations between government and business." Only 24 hours before, U.S. Steel Board Chairman Roger M. Blough said at a televised news conference in New York that his firm would stick to its higher prices.

Budget Requires Hike in Millage

Troy City Chiefs Get $1.8-Million Proposal for Coming Year

TROY—A total 1962-63 budget of $11.8 million, calling for a 4 mill tax increase, has been presented to the City Commission here.

The millage hike can be adopted by the council without a vote of the people.

Included in the budget proposal are funds to purchase from 50 to 80 acres of land for a new city center, pay raises for city employees, and speed-up road paving program.

Approximately $10,000 more than the current budget, the new budget would set the city tax rate at seven mills, compared to the present 6.5 mill rate.

A public hearing on the budget will be held at the city hall, May 14, together with the regular meeting of the city commission. A final budget will be adopted that night.

The proposed budget was presented yesterday by City Manager David Davidson.

It includes a $65,000 plan for garbage and rubbish collection, which does not exist in this city's budget. The revenues in this new program are expected to balance expenses.

The 4-mill increase would make a two-mill total for capital improvements levy. This includes payments on the Evergreen and 127-acre sewer project as well as some $46,000 to purchase land for the city center.

Current capital improvement millage is 1.8 — all for the Evergreen sewer. The five-mill levy for operating funds is a charter limitation.

Steelworkers Proud, Indignant

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Bank-and-file steelworkers reaction to big steel's surrender of a price increase ranged today from pride to indignation.

Joseph (Chopper) Tomashovich, employed 28 years as a crane operator at the Johnstown plant of Bethlehem Steel Co., said he was "proud that my company" was the first to forego the $6-a-ton increase.

"It was wonderful news," said Tomashovich. "I think the move of Bethlehem is great—they're going along with what the President and people wanted."

"When the price increase was announced the other day, most of us at work were sorta hurt, especially after we sacrificed a wage increase in the new contract to keep prices down," he said.

"But I'm glad the company switched its position—I'm proud of them."

Gus Brickner, a 13-year veteran of U.S. Steel's American Steel & Wire Works in Charleston, Pa., said the short-fused melted worker disappointment at his firm.

"They finally saw the light and I'm glad," Brickner said. "After that price rise I was disappointed in the company. But now with their change of heart, it wipes away that disappointment."

Brickner has been averaging only a few days work a week for the last several years.

Fred Williams, a craneman at Jones & Laughlin's Pittsburgh plant for 14 years, registered indignation.

"Of course they pulled back the price increase," he said. "It was the only solution for the companies—they couldn't get away with it."</

Add Shelter to Garden for Retreat

A garden shelter adds beauty and greater utility to most gardens, landscape architects point out.

A retreat, hidden away in the trees, takes on charm and interest if it is topped with a simply-designed sloping roof. The roof defines the lounging area, even if a wood deck forms the floor.

Some time, when you are walking in your garden, one expert said, try and visualize what buildings you would like which would add to your enjoyment. You will find that in most cases a simple shelter, or a roof or pergola will provide a sunshade in summer and some shelter in case of rain.

These wood structures, whether pergolas, simple roof shelters with no side walls other than support posts, or wood decks with roof will add depth and character to your garden.

FOR EVERYONE—An old fashioned glider swing is something every member of the family will enjoy. The one pictured here seats four adults or a half dozen kids. "Sawtimber" is a term for trees of sufficient size and maturity of lumber manufacture. The growth of Southern Pine in this category so dominates the national picture that it exceeds the growth of all other softwood species combined.

Washing Windows Is an Inside Job

You no longer have to be a combination daredevil and drudge to wash windows. Many modern wood windows can be washed completely from the inside of the house.

Some windows of ponderosa pine lie right out of their frames and can be carried to the kitchen for washing. Others swing out, in or around so the outside can be washed from indoors.

Even the many-paned wood windows that look so attractive with Colonial architecture are easy to wash today. Rectangular or diamond patterned grilles snap out for window washing, eliminating the tedious job of washing and polishing the corners of many tiny panes.

No matter what style of easy-to-wash windows of ponderosa pine you choose — casement, sliding, awning, or double-hung — you can find them at your local building material dealer's sturdy built, treated to withstand weather, and ready to install.

Put Hose-Spray in Laundry Too

Every modern housewife strives for convenience in her daily living — new, better and easier ways to accomplish her tasks of cleaning, washing, gardening, etc.

One such means is the automatically retracting hose-spray that comes as part of nearly every quality Kitchen sink nowadays. It's unbeatable for rinsing dishes, washing fresh vegetables, and for helping wash the sink itself.

Often overlooked, though, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, is the convenience of having a hose-spray elsewhere in the house.

The laundry room, for instance, is a prime location for a hose-spray, as an integral part of the laundry tray. It will prove very handy for spot-cleaning of badly soiled clothes before they go into the automatic washer.

For numerous small cleaning jobs, too, that you wouldn't want to do at the kitchen sink, the spray-equipped laundry tray is indispensable.

The mud room is another good spot for a hose-spray, connected to the laundry or sink, whichever you have. The soiled home gardener and hobbyist will find it useful for cleaning tools, and for cleaning oil and dirt from under fingernails.

Hot, cold or tempered water from the spray is easily adjusted by the faucets.

Northern hardwood flooring does not vary in hardness at different temperatures. It can be exposed to sun without deterioration.

Separate Baking Area Has Its Own Oven

A separate electric wall oven installed in a special baking center apart from the general cooking area is a kitchen remodeling idea that is gaining favor.

The homemaker saves steps and avoids confusion by keeping all her baking supplies in a separate section of the kitchen.

A Square?

"Squares" aren't necessarily those who can't do the twist. To a roofer a "square" is a unit of measurement, report specialists for Allied Chemical's Barrett Division. An area 10 by 10 feet (100 square feet) is the yardstick used to determine the amount of materials needed to cover a roof.

To determine the number of squares the length of the ceiling by its width. For example, a ceiling measuring 15 by 15 feet will require 225 tiles (since they are each a foot square).
