

BACK WITH FATHER—After a night alone in a dense forest near Vanderbilt, 5-year-old Kai Benjamin is safe in the arms of her father, Royce Benjamin of 3623 Darcy, Bloomfield Township.

Kai, who wandered away from her brothers and sisters while on a hike Monday, was found 25 hours later by Ray Loshaw, a local hunter, and his dog Rusty.

Airport Plans Jet Runway

Construction to Begin When Funds Raised

Plans to construct a $5-million north-south runway suitable for intermediate-sized jet planes were revealed yesterday by Pontiac Municipal Airport Manager Homer Hoskins.

He told the county's Airport Zoning Board that construction would proceed just as soon as funds become available.

The Pontiac City Commission has yet to give the plan final approval.

Cost of the project would be shared by federal, state and local governments, he said.

Hoskins reiterated the Pontiac City Commission's request that the county assist the city in raising the necessary local share of the costs.

Zoning Board Chairman Duane Hurst said he would have to find out if his board could make any recommendation to the County Board of Supervisors.

5,000 FEET
The proposed north-south runway would extend from the west end of the existing east-west runway 5,000 feet north. An additional 2,500 feet would have to be kept clear at either end of the new runway, he added.

This means the present airport would be extended along the west side of Williams Lake to a point half-way up the side of the lake. It would require clearing several homes and a school near Williams Lake, said Hoskins. He didn't yet know how many homes would be affected, he said.

Tot Weathers Woods With Little Difficulty

Five-year-old Kathleen "Kai" Benjamin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Benjamin of 3623 Darcy, Bloomfield Township, is apparently none the worse for her night in the woods of northern Michigan.

Kai was found by a hunting dog yesterday afternoon after a 25-hour search which began shortly after she wandered away to chase a grasshopper.

"How would you like to see your mother," the dog's owner, Ray Loshaw, 32, of nearby Vanderbilt, asked the girl. Kai smiled and Loshaw took her back to her grandparents' cottage near Vanderbilt.

Kai spent a night in 36-degree temperatures clad only in a T-shirt, slacks and one tennis shoe. But, she told Loshaw she wasn't cold.

Loshaw's 8-year-old Irish setter, Rusty, helped him find the girl in an area already searched by some 150 National Guardsmen and volunteers. Loshaw said the area was very heavily wooded.

"I asked her if she heard anyone looking for her and she told me she was afraid of those things up above," Loshaw said. Army National Guard and state police helicopters had joined the search.

At the girl's grandparents' cottage, about a mile away, Mrs. Ann Benjamin, 29, was waiting with her other four children.

The girl's father, a Ford Motor Co. financial analyst, was in a state police car when he heard a radio broadcast that his daughter was found.

"I was crying too hard when I saw her to do anything but hold her in my arms," Benjamin said.

Dr. Louis Hayes of Gaylord, who stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin throughout the search, said Kai appeared to be unharmed except for some thorn scratches on her legs.

The search began Monday when two of Kai's brothers, Michael, 8, and Jeff, 9, returned to the cottage without Kai. The boys said they thought she had left them to return to the cottage.

Loshaw said the little blonde girl was lying on her back watching the sky when he found her. She was shaking but quietly he said.

Rusty is a well-known dog in Vanderbilt, a town of 500.

The dog often hunts in the fields by himself, residents said, and then goes to a nearby tavern to beg a ride back to Loshaw's gas station.

Unions Reject Proposal

JFK Deciding Rail Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP)—A union turn-down today scuttled President Kennedy's proposal to head off a crippling midnight railroad strike through arbitration by Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg. Kennedy promptly called in his legislative leaders. There was no word from the White House immediately on what was under discussion with the top Democrats from the Capitol—not even official disclosure that they were on hand.

But speculation quickly centered on the possibility that the administration was near the point of giving up on efforts to get agreement among the parties and was turning to Congress for emergency legislation. That might take the form of a law for compulsory arbitration or seizure of the rail carriers, or both.

House Speaker John W. Mc-

Cormack of Massachusetts, Democratic House Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma and Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N. Y., chairman of the House Labor Committee, were among those summoned.

There was no disposition to hope, however, that congressional action could come in time for the deadline at midnight Wednesday local time.

STANDBY BASIS

Still on the record officially, however, was an indication from Kennedy that he might have something else coming up. He kept the negotiators on standby basis for further conferences.

The President had indicated he would give the disputants word at noon on whether he wanted to talk to them again.

But that time passed with no word.

The White House said at that hour that the President had been constantly in session on the rail crisis with various persons in the government.

Presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger would not identify any of the persons involved, but he did not deny that congressional leaders were among them.

Asked whether the White House was asking radio and television networks for time for a presidential broadcast, Salinger said, "We have not had any discussion with any networks about time. I have no information that we would make such a request."

Salinger declined to say whether Kennedy planned to ask the railroads to put off enforcement

Strike of Trains Would Cripple Auto Industry

GM Spokesman Says Pontiac Would Feel Serious, Quick Effect

A nationwide rail strike could have a hard, immediate effect in the Pontiac area.

A General Motors Corp. spokesman said today that a strike would "affect us very seriously and very quickly."

The transportation of parts is the key.

The GM spokesman explained: "Railroad cars are warehouses and they are in constant motion. Most of the parts used in the auto industry are so large you can't stockpile them."

"You might have 90 per cent of the parts you need and then be shut down because of the other 10 per cent."

STRIKE EFFECT

A survey among auto makers by United Press International revealed a nationwide rail strike would affect hundreds of thousands of auto workers across the country.

A Chrysler Corp. spokesman said production at its plants around the country would grind to a halt "within a few days" if key parts no longer could be shipped to assembly plants via rails.

Similar sentiments were voiced by Ford Motor Co. spokesmen and American Motors Corp. executives. Ford said all the facts were not immediately available "but it does have serious implications."

An AMC spokesman said, "We're in the same boat as everybody else. We made all the preparations we think we could have but a strike would shut us down, too."

"A rail strike is always the most serious kind of strike in the auto business," the GM spokesman said. "We can't estimate the time or hours before we would stop production but it could be serious."

Chrysler said new car shipments might be slowed by a rail strike but alternate methods of shipping could be implemented. "We could even have the dealers come in and drive the cars to the customers, if necessary," he said.

Highway Progresses Through Dust, Heat

Dust in the eyes, dust in the house, dust all over the car! Nothing but dust!

That's what summer means right now to a number of communities southwest of Pontiac as road construction crews are busy tearing up Orchard Lake Road and Pontiac Trail from Sylvan Lake to Wixom. They're making way for a new and wider roadway.

"The big complaint," says James Boyd, district manager for the State Highway Department, "is dust."

"We're trying to get the contractors to keep the road watered down," Boyd said. "But the hot weather we've been having, with no rain, makes it hard."

Pontiac Trail's old pavement has disappeared both east and west of Walled Lake, as far as Haggerty Road on the east and all the way into Wixom on the west.

The last pieces of old pavement in Sylvan Lake were expected to be handed off today. The road in Keego Harbor and in Orchard Lake as far as Commerce Road is already a four-lane span of dirt and dust.

Relief is in sight, however. Paving is expected to start soon, which will end the dust plague and permit some sections to be opened for one-lane traffic as paving is done one lane at a time.

Boyd says the same weather that's aggravated the dust problem has permitted construction to progress a little ahead of schedule.

Even so, the disruption will last the summer. Completion date for the Sylvan Lake-Keego Harbor stretch is Oct. 31.

Road officials also hope to complete the rest of it by October. The Walled Lake area work is expected to be ended by September.

K, Hungarian Meet on Unity

New Peking Attack Continues Red Riff

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev met amid smiles with Hungarian Communist boss Janos Kadar in a Kremlin unity session today, while Chinese and Soviet negotiators ground through another day of grim discussions aimed at finding some solution to their ideological split.

The talks with the Chinese ended at twilight with no indication whether they would resume tomorrow or whether delegates would take another consultation recess.

A new attack on the Soviet party from Peking bolstered reports that the Soviet and Chinese negotiators were making little or no progress toward any significant improvement in relations between the two Communist giants.

Khrushchev returned from Kiev to greet the Hungarian premier and party leader and a large group of Hungarian party and government officials. But Kadar in reply pointed out the Soviet and Hungarian Communist parties "are guided by similar principles concerning the construction of socialism, concerning all issues and questions of world workers' movements and of foreign policy."

In contrast to the low-key reception for the Chinese negotiators last week, the Hungarians got the full treatment—Khrushchev's presence, a big crowd in front of the station, a live telecast of the arrival, a troop review and playing of the national anthems.

The Soviet premier in his brief welcoming statement made no reference to the Chinese-Soviet negotiations. But Kadar in reply pointed out the Soviet and Hungarian Communist parties "are guided by similar principles concerning the construction of socialism, concerning all issues and questions of world workers' movements and of foreign policy."

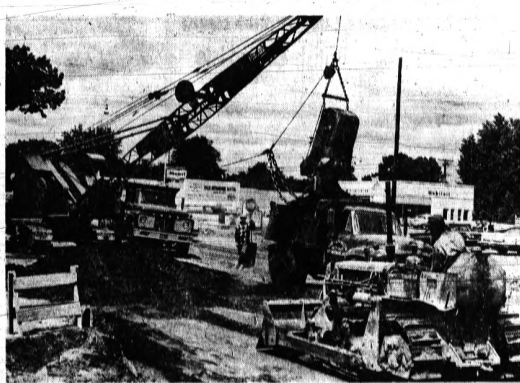

Referring to the Soviet Union and Hungary, it said: "Our Marxist-Leninist parties, our fraternal peoples, regard the struggle for peace and peaceful coexistence, for universal disarmament, for the exclusion of war from the life of society as the general line of their foreign policy."

Pontiac Area to Get Warmer With No Rain

A slight but gradual warming trend is forecast for the Pontiac area for the next few days. The weatherman said temperatures will average a little below the normal high of 84 and normal low of 64 for the period.

Tonight's low will dip to 55. The high is expected to reach 80 tomorrow.

Little or no rain is predicted. Morning northerly winds at 2 miles per hour will become light and variable at 5 to 12 m.p.h. tonight and tomorrow. The low reading prior to 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 54. The mercury had climbed to 74 at 2 p.m.

'Barter for Ban, Nothing Else'

JFK Gives N-Envoy Rules for Russ Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has given W. Averell Harriman authority to negotiate with the Soviets on a nuclear test ban but only to listen and discuss other issues such as a European nonaggression pact.

The report was by administration sources as Harriman, undersecretary of state, prepared to leave for Moscow for talks beginning July 15. He will confer in London with British officials representing the third power at the Moscow meeting.

The Moscow session was originally stated to deal with a nuclear test ban. But Premier Khrushchev has vastly broadened the potential scope by proposing that a partial atomic test ban treaty be coupled with a nonaggression pact between the North Atlantic and Warsaw military alliances.

Administration sources were cautious about any prospect that the forthcoming high level talks in Moscow would lead to an East-West summit meeting.

Harriman is expected to stay in Moscow only a couple of weeks or less, not long enough to thresh out a major cold war dispute in detail.

It was understood that Harriman also may discuss the question of Laos if the opportunity arises.

President Kennedy convened a National Security Council session late Tuesday for a final rundown on Harriman's assignment to the Moscow talks, starting next Monday.

The top strategy group, expanded to include senior advisers on disarmament matters, met at the White House for less than an hour.

NO REPORT

It was understood that no detailed report had been received in Washington yet on Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak's meeting with Khrushchev in Kiev last Monday.

Washington strategists look to Spaak's account for some clues on what Khrushchev had in mind in advancing his vaguely worded late Tuesday for a final rundown on Harriman's assignment to the Moscow talks, starting next Monday.

Spaak, a former secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization who has favored a nonaggression pact between the NATO and Warsaw military alliances, told newsmen after seeing Khrushchev that he was confident East-West relations will improve.

Board Meets on Statements

Might Expel Negro Meredith

From Our News Wires

OXFORD, Miss.—A four man committee of the Mississippi State College board meets today to discuss whether to ask federal court permission to expel Negro James H. Meredith from the University of Mississippi because of his public statements.

The committee planned a closed session on the matter. There was little likelihood members would discuss the situation following their meeting on the Ole Miss campus.

There has been repeated rumors the board was under heavy pressure from segregationists and some Ole Miss alumni to try to prevent Meredith from becoming a graduate of the 114-year-old institution in August.

Gov. Ross Barnett, a graduate of the Ole Miss Law School who accuses civil rights protesters of being in the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans for his efforts to block Meredith's enrollment, said board members would determine if Meredith's recent statements concerning the murder of NAACP leader Medgar Evers violated a university directive against inflammatory remarks.

In other racial news: In New York, demonstrators staged sit-ins today at the offices of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Mayor Robert F. Wagner, demanding more jobs in construction trades for Negroes and Puerto Ricans and police arrested three Negroes during disorders involving civil rights picketing at a hospital construction site in Brooklyn.

In Mobile, Ala., the Mobile city-county school board meets today to plan its next move following an order by a federal appeals court to start school desegregation in September.

Alabama is one of three states — South Carolina and Mississippi are the others — which have no school integration below the college level.

Units of the University of Alabama were desegregated months ago with the aid of federal troops.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk told Congress today "the present racial crisis divides and weakens, and challenges, the nation both at home and in the world struggle in which we are engaged."

"I deeply hope that the issues involved can be approached on the basis of genuine bipartisanship, just as the bipartisan policy of this country's foreign policy," he told the Senate Commerce Committee.

Rusk testified in support of a bill to ban racial discrimination by stores, hotels, restaurants, and other private establishments serving the public. It is a key part of the administration's civil rights program.

In Cambridge, Md., another mass march on the courthouse was promised by integrationists for tonight despite prospects of federal mediation and an attack on a demonstrator Tuesday night.

In Atlanta, Ga., Ku Klux Klan leaders are mapping a campaign of white resistance to desegregation that includes many of the methods used by Negroes seeking equal rights in the racial struggle.

Georgia's grand dragon, Calvin F. Craig of Atlanta, said Tuesday he would not encourage violence.

"But I'm going to encourage 'self-protection,'" he said. "The white people have been trampled on—a man can't even operate his own business in an orderly manner."

In Fayetteville, N.C., twelve Negroes were arrested while seeking service at two eating places.

In Baltimore, Md., integration leaders postponed a march on an amusement park, where 30 jobs in freight and yard service, and trim off about 25,000 workers the railroads contended they no longer need.

The carriers agreed to the Kennedy proposal. Their statement said: "We accept."

Kennedy advised representatives of the two sides that he would notify them by noon if there will be another conference.

Kennedy immediately went into a huddle with Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, Undersecretary James Reynolds and White House Counsel Theodore Sorensen.

J. E. Wolfe, chief negotiator for the carriers, promised cooperation of the railroads in any action by the President. He said it is the patriotic duty of the railroads and everyone concerned to do everything possible to support the President in his efforts.

Wolfe said, the "unity of the railroads will not be broken."

He said a strike would be "so serious, and so devastating in its effects that it seems to be almost unthinkable."

"The President has said a strike would be intolerable," Wolfe said. "I agree with him."

Ray E. Davidson, grand engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, told newsmen the unions had given serious consideration to the President's proposal just as they had promised. He accused the railroads of failing to produce any cooperation.

"Therefore, we are meeting with the President this afternoon," Davidson said. "The next move is up to the President."

Asked whether the strike will come off, Davidson said, "I don't know until I talk to the President."

Advices from Indonesia say D. N. Aidit, head of the two-million member Indonesian Communist party, plans a journey to Peking and Moscow, possibly to propagandize for a world meeting. The trip seems to have the enthusiastic approval of Peking, which probably means Moscow will view it with caution.

Recent statements by Indonesian Communist leaders appear to place them firmly on the side of the Chinese. They approve the notion that what Communists call "just wars" should be welcomed as instruments for spreading communism throughout the world.

The Chinese picture Khrushchev and his followers as cowards who fear that so-called "liberation wars" would set off a nuclear war.

This argument has lined up most of the Asian Communists, and any Albania in Europe—on the side of Red China. Allied with Peking are the Indonesian Communists, the North Vietnamese, the North Koreans. Remaining with Moscow is the majority of India's party, largely because of Red China's threats to Indian borders.

The Russians are finding it necessary to drag their satellite leaders into public displays of solidarity with the Kremlin, as they did with the satellite meeting in East Berlin recently, and with the visit of Hungarian Communist chief János Kádár, at this particular moment, to Moscow.

Township Board Eyes Greenbelt Question

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP

What constitutes a proper greenbelt and who should make the decision are questions now being discussed by residents of Bloomfield Township.

They have come to an agreement with Irwin Chinn, owner of the Bloomfield Plaza shopping center, but they haven't convinced the Township Board.

The board is having its stand on a Circuit Court decree of a year ago which defined the greenbelt between the shopping center and subdivision.

The 80-foot greenbelt, according to the decree, would include a 30-foot drive and a 5-foot cyclone fence with a 9-foot shrub.

Then Chinn decided to double the length of the shopping center to 1,000 feet. An additional four stores are to be opened this month in the unit on the south side of the shopping center.

Now members of the Birmingham Township Board are asking for new restrictions.

AGREES TO BUILD FENCE

Cohn has agreed to build an 8 to 10-foot stockade fence on the two sides of the property facing the subdivision. He would also sell 20-year deeds for two strips of property to adjacent landowners at a cost of $1.

This transaction would include a 20-foot strip on the south side and 4-foot strip on the west.

The Township Board, however, has noted the limitations imposed by the Circuit Court decree.

Members have agreed to make a decision on the matter at their next meeting July 29.

The State Municipal Finance Commission yesterday approved the issuance of $1.5 million in tax anticipation notes by the Birmingham School District.

An exhibition of the work of 12 contemporary Japanese painters and printmakers will be displayed Sunday through Aug. 18 at the Little Gallery, 915 E. Maple, Birmingham.

The painting, original wood-blocks and woodblock prints of Chaiold Nimsamer, leading young artist and teacher at Silpakorn University in Bangkok, Thailand, will also be shown.

Mrs. Henry L. Anderson

Service for Mrs. Henry L. (Katherine) Anderson, 61, of 787 Purdy, Birmingham, will be 2 p.m. Friday at Manley Bailey Funeral Home, where her body will be after 2 p.m. tomorrow.

Burial will be at White Chapel Memorial Cemetery, Troy.

Mrs. Anderson died yesterday after a short illness. She was a member of First Methodist Church, Birmingham.

Survivors are her husband; a daughter, Mrs. John Roper, of Upland, Calif.; five sisters; two brothers; and two grandchildren.

Mrs. Elmer G. Veltz

Service for Mrs. Elmer G. (Helen L.) Veltz, 58, of 2497 Windemere, Birmingham, will be 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Bell Co. of the William R. Hamilton Co. Burial will be in Chicago Saturday.

Mrs. Veltz died today after a lengthy illness.

She was a member of the Detroit Women's City Club.

Surviving besides her husband are two sisters and a brother.

Mrs. Clair Young

Service for former Birmingham resident Mrs. Clair (Georgia) Young, of Florissant, Mo., 38, was held Monday in Osceola with burial there.

Mrs. Young died Friday after an 11-month illness. She had been a member of the Pierce School PTA and was a girl scout troop leader in Birmingham.

Surviving besides her husband are two daughters, Susan and Sheila, and two sons, Roger and James, all at home; her mother, Mrs. Grace McCuskey of Osceola; a sister and two brothers.

Commie War Grows

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent

Whatever the announced outcome of the Soviet-Chinese Communist talks in Moscow, the more intense than ever, and the battle is spreading alarm throughout the world Communist movement.

Communists face the prospect of other fraternal divisions having little to do directly with the Moscow-Peking split but resulting from its example.

Red China's negotiating team in Moscow is pressing hard for a meeting of Communist leaders from the nearly 90 parties around the world. This would provide a platform for airing Chinese grievances against the Russians.

The Chinese demand for such a meeting on Peking's own harsh terms seems more like psychological warfare against Premier Khrushchev than it does a proposal seriously aimed at settling differences.

Khrushchev undoubtedly takes a dim view of Peking's reported suggestion that voting in a world Communist meeting be based on population. China, backed by big parties from the populous Asian nations, would sound Khrushchev's supporters.

Acceptance of that Chinese proposal would be a sign that Khrushchev had suffered a setback serious enough to imperil his leadership.

Third Typhoon in Eight Months Menaces Guam

GUAM (AP)—The third typhoon in eight months moved toward Guam Tuesday night with winds of 120 knots at the center.

The Guam governor's office said Typhoon Wendy was expected to pass just north of the island.

Asst. Gov. Ed Engledow said, "If the typhoon passes off to the north we will get winds of only 70 to 80 knots. But if it veers south, we will get the full blast of 120 knots."

Shelters were opened around the 32-mile-long island and many of the 67,000 residents moved in. Many seeking shelter have been living in temporary housing since these homes were destroyed by Typhoon Karen in November and Typhoon Olive in April.

Lake Orion Group Advises Cityhood

LAKE ORION — The awaited report of a citizen's advisory commission, made public today, urges the village's immediate changeover into a home-rule city.

The other concerns greater financial power that would come from Lake Orion's change to a city. This power would allow more latitude in initiating needed projects and allocating tax monies.

The report indicates the government changeover might be done at little cost and could effect savings in some areas.

Urging immediate action, a joint committee statement declared, "Advantages to be gained by efficiency, service, and future the committee but later resigned.

To Hurt State if Rails Strike

Plants Would Close, Auto Spokesman Say

By The Associated Press

Plants in cities throughout Michigan would shut down in a matter of days after a railroad strike was called.

A General Motors spokesman in Detroit said GM plants would close at varying times if a strike were called, but noted "we can't operate long without railroads." Supplies would be a critical factor in the closings, he said.

A Ford Motor Co. spokesman said a rail strike would have a "sizeable effect" on Ford, adding that Ford was studying the situation. Here again, supplies would be a critical factor.

According to a New York Central spokesman, that railroad hasn't even considered the possibility of a strike. He pointed out, however, that NYC would lose money in event of a strike by not being able to handle the summer passenger business. NYC handles no commuters.

A C&O Railroad Operating Department official said a strike wouldn't effect the company's passenger service, but freight service would be greatly effected.

A Buick spokesman in Flint said his company's plant there would shut down in a matter of days after the start of a rail strike. He said the other auto manufacturers there are facing the same situation.

Flint is the site of a Chevrolet assembly plant and warehouse, a Turnstead plant and a Fisher Body plant.

The spokesman said all the plants rely on railroads to bring raw materials and parts, and to carry out their finished products.

NEWS OF THE AREA

Troy Building Authority 'Subterfuge,' Says Mayor

TROY — Setting up a five-man building authority to begin the city's civic center has been termed a "subterfuge" by Mayor Robert Huber.

Mayor Huber branded the City Manager David Firestone's plan adopting articles of incorporation for the new agency an "easy way out" of going directly to the voters.

He was joined by Commissioner Clifford Sturmerster Jr. in voting against the measure.

City Manager David Firestone said the City Commission's next step will be to appoint authority members. The building authority will then study construction and financing methods for eventual commission approval.

To Arroign 2 in $21,400 Robbery

FLINT — Two Flint men faced arraignment today in federal court at Bay City for the $21,400 holdup of a bank in Otisville, near Flint. They were captured within hours of the robbery yesterday.

Police said a tip from the wife of Donald L. Uptegraff, 23, led to bank robbery charges against him and Robert Warner, 20.

Uptegraff's wife, Marjorie Carolyn, 18, walked into the Genesee County sheriff's office and told authorities her husband and Warner had been acting suspiciously, an FBI agent said.

Mrs. Uptegraff was held as a material witness. She denied any part in the robbery of the branch of the Citizens Commercial and Savings Bank of Flint, police said.

Huber stated he has no objection to the civic center and agrees new city offices are a must.

But, he said, he is sharply critical of a long-term bond issue, with heavy interest costs, when the city is not now using its full taxing power.

Huber said the city charter allows up to an additional three mills for capital improvements. According to him, this extra millage, plus $134,000 now budgeted, would pay for the building. Or, he suggests, a general obligation bond issue could be presented to the voters.

The authority way of financing has been recommended by two outside committees which studied various plans for months, Firestone said.

Fire Fighter on Full-Time Work Basis

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Gene Miller, 3228 Sandison, has been appointed the first full-time fireman in the 125-year history of White Lake Township.

The township fire department, which now has four trucks and 28 firemen, has always operated on a volunteer basis.

Miller, 27, has been a volunteer fireman for two years. He will drive a truck to fires, thus saving valuable time by meeting other members of the department there, according to Supervisor Edward Chey.

Miller will be working five 9-hour days a week. He was formerly employed at Franklin Products in Orchard Lake.

State Road System Gets Federal Aid

WASHINGTON — Michigan's interstate highway has been allocated $104,385,732 in federal aid as part of the expanded national highway program in the 1965 fiscal year starting July 1.

The state's primary, secondary and urban highway system has been apportioned $22,888,228 of the total federal aid to the states.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said the total apportionment of federal aid for the expanded highway program is $1.6 billion, including $2.7 billion for the interstate system and $975 million for the primary, secondary and urban systems.

TROY — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Green, 1850 Boulton, announce the marriage of their daughter Janet Elsie to Ralph Eugene Adams.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Adams, 6190 Flagstaff, Union Lake.

Vivian Butler of Troy was maid of honor at the recent wedding and William Brenneke of Union Lake was best man. Other attendants were Virginia Williams, Guy George Hornby is slated to talk tomorrow on "Polly, My Michigan." Mrs. Polly Johnson and Jack Munroe.

On America

4-H Gets Red View

EAST LANSING (UPI) — More than 1,200 state 4-H Club members were presented with a Communist's View of America yesterday.

The outlook was provided by Charles Vetter, a U.S. Information Agency lecturer, who portrayed a Communist in his visit to the Michigan State University campus.

Vetter discussed the Communist movement before enthusiastic 4-H boys and girls at the 48th Annual Club Week program which will last through Friday.

Vetter parried the questions of the 4-H members with his interpretation of typical Red evasiveness and convinced students a Communist diplomat is a highly trained and skilled propagandist.

The club week delegates have divided into 20 country groups and are spending much time learning about other nations' institutions and customs.

Other major themes include career opportunities and social adjustment of teenagers.

Gov. George Romney is slated to talk tomorrow on "Polly, My Michigan." Mrs. Polly Johnson and Jack Munroe.

Army Pleased With Election in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Powerful military leaders appeared pleased today with the results of Sunday's national elections which dealt a setback to followers of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron.

Gen. Juan Carlos Onganía, army commander-in-chief, sent a message to all army units yesterday saying "the Argentine people have shown they are prepared to responsibly exercise their civic rights."

The message was taken as an indication the armed forces were ready to let civilians resume full control of the government. Argentina currently has a provisional government installed by the military.

The pro-Peronist National Popular Front withdrew from the election last week and urged all its followers to cast blank ballots. The blank-ballot total was only about 16 per cent of the vote and failed to discredit the elections.

Since 1945 an estimated 450 nuclear tests have been conducted throughout the world.

March on Washington Will Be Grave Error

This newspaper has consistently stood staunchly by all reasonable steps highlighting integration. But we believe the proposed march on Washington, D.C. is a tactical and strategic error.

There is too great a chance for the extremists and the agitators to take over willy nilly and cancel most of the hard won gains to date. Any time an "army" of 100,000 people marches on the Capitol of the United States it is bound to accumulate a small percentage of irresponsible trouble makers. These individuals never represent the best interests of anyone. They seek thrills. They want excitement. Law, order and decency aren't their main objectives and too many times a tiny percentage brings a bad name and a bad ending to laudable concepts.

We believe that the Negro leaders in this movement have every intention of preserving law and order in a dignified march. But when you round up a mass formation of this size, a small percentage of malcontents seizes the opportunity to promote themselves.

Further, when a mass descends upon Congress in these proportions it takes on the elements of ruling by might instead of right. The whole purpose behind the Negro demonstration is to insist that RIGHT shall prevail and not MIGHT. If the NAACP ever descends to the level of allowing might to take precedent over right, it will injure its own cause immeasurably in the eyes of that great, vast, unnamed majority whose support it needs desperately. The NAACP will have no chance at all if it tries to substitute power for reason as the whole Negro population of the United States represents less than one-tenth of the Nation. This is a pretty tiny segment of the whole.

Further, no body of men or women—and that includes Congress—has any desire to be "pushed around." It's just human nature to resist automatically and when unfair tactics are thrust in needlessly, the resistance doubles. Congress will never be won through massive threats of "do this or else . . ." There's nothing illegal in a march on Congress. But there's nothing very shrewd in the movement either. Primarily, it shows no regard for the intent or dignity of Congress and intimidation will never win the House and the Senate.

The Press is convinced the leaders of this proposed mass march of 100,000 people are honorable and are motivated by Christian intentions; but the Press also believes that these same leaders will never control the emotional, excitable fringe agitators who will capitalize on this opportunity for self-aggrandizement. Had mistakes here can cancel much of the gains that NAACP has made.

Pan American Makes Another Big Advance

Beginning within a year, Pan American Airways proposes to institute a new class of travel to Europe.

Thrill class reduces the economy prices by nearly 40% and places a one-way ticket to London at $160. Similar reductions become effective in Hawaii in the fall. Really, the new cost is incredibly low. Increased passenger capacity and the elimination of meals, champagne and frills make this economically possible.

First class and economy flights will still be available but passengers who want to cross the Atlantic with no extras at all to save the maximum of money will be accommodated. Pan Am has pioneered many of the aviation's biggest advances and betterments and the current innovation will be watched with interest by the airlines and by the passengers themselves. It brings trans-oceanic flights well within the financial reach of many who have always thought of this as a luxury or a very specialized deal.

Our Dictator Pals Bring Bad Luck

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — The United States has had tough luck with some of its dictator friends. There's President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Vietnam. When the French gave up fighting the Communists in 1954, the United States, which had been helping the French, then started helping Diem. It's been helping him ever since. It's poured more than $2 billion into Vietnam.

It has also sent in 12,000 military men as advisers in his war against the Communist guerrillas. A number of these American servicemen have been killed. The cost of this military aid is running around $500 million a year. Diem still hasn't rallied the Vietnamese people to his support in any wholehearted way. One way to do it would be to let reforms that would give the people more reason to want him than the Communists. He's done very little of it.

Now the Buddhists, making up 80 percent of the population, have rioted, charging oppression by Diem's Catholic government. There's no peace in sight. And defeat of the Communists doesn't look any closer than it did nine years ago after the French quit.

Ngo Dinh Nhu, brother and political adviser of the president, recently blamed repeated frictions and misunderstandings with the United States on what he calls "widespread misinformation" about Viet Nam in this country. Nevertheless, over the weekend four American newsmen complained they were roughed up by Diem's plainclothesmen.

ANOTHER DICTATOR

Then there was Fulgencio Batista.

He was the Cuban dictator from 1932 until Jan. 1, 1959, when Fidel Castro drove him out and set up a brand new dictatorship. The American-Batista relationship had been profitable from a money standpoint.

During his regime, trade between Cuba and the United States ran more than $400 million a year.

Castro had begun the war on Batista in 1956. From then until a few months before Batista fled, the United States shipped him arms. When Castro later complained about the State Department had an explanation.

The arms were meant for hemisphere defense, but Batista misused them.

HAITIAN BOSS

Then there is Dr. Francois Duvalier of Haiti, the 54-year-old doctor and expert on voodooism.

He got himself elected for a six-year term in 1957 and at once became a dictator with an army of 5,000 men. He distrusted the army so much he set up his own secret army, or secret police, numbering 10,000.

Haiti's 4 million people live in a land of brutal poverty. They have the hemisphere's lowest per capita income, about $65 a year.

Between the end of World War II and the time Duvalier set up shop, this country put $25 million into Haiti. From Duvalier's ascendancy until last year, this country pumped in another $60 million in aid. Poverty remained appalling.

Then Duvalier arranged to succeed himself for another six years, starting May 15. This caused so much commotion it looked for a while as if his enemies might throw him out. Relations between the two countries grew miserable.

Duvalier stayed. And when his personal physician, Dr. Jacques Fourcand, in a public speech denounced the United States as a "democracy of slugs," Duvalier pumped his hand to congratulate him.

But the United States resumed diplomatic relations which had been cut off.

'Could Be We Tip The Thing The Wrong Way'

David Lawrence Says:

Rail Rift Hits Innocent Bystander

WASHINGTON — The nation this week was given a painful example of what could happen to innocent bystanders. Even the mere threat of a countrywide railroad strike caused many a business to begin expensive preparations to enable commerce to flow.

Five labor unions, each rationally organized, may today use their monopoly power over a whole industry to shut off rail traffic and thereby demoralize passenger and freight service from coast to coast.

The railroad companies themselves, however, cannot function as a private monopoly. Two companies are not allowed to merge, even when one is on the verge of bankruptcy, unless permission is granted by a Federal government agency. LAWRENCE

Yet one railroad union doesn't require the slightest authority from the government to close down the industry and impair the investments of millions of individuals or institutional stockholders. Property thus can be destroyed at will by a private monopoly of union members.

The issues in the current controversy between the railroad unions and the companies have been thoroughly debated and have been argued in collective bargaining conferences for four years.

In fact, President Eisenhower appointed a commission which reported to President Kennedy on Feb. 28, 1962, after an exhaustive review of so-called "leatherbinding"—an insistence on being paid for work not done.

The commission declared in its recommendations that the railroads could make sweeping changes in the work rules and in the number of workers employed.

It proposed, at the same time, some curbs on railroad action, including certain things the companies would have to do in the way of benefits for workers who were fired—such as severance pay.

The report fell on deaf ears at a negotiating union on the Chicago & North Western Railroad went out on a strike that lasted from Aug. 30 to Sept. 13, 1962. It received financial help from outside unions which, in no sure, refused to cross picket lines.

Finally, the striking union and the company responded to an appeal from the President and agreed to arbitration.

RIGHT TO LEGISLATE

There is no question about the right of Congress to legislate under the clause which gives it authority "to regulate interstate commerce."

There have been times during war periods for instance when Congress has enacted legislation not only to control strikes but also to fix wages and prices. But no such law exists today.

The labor unions, of course, operate under broad grants of authority to organize for collective bargaining. The Taft-Hartley Act covers all unions except those of the transportation industries, whose labor relations are specifically regulated by the Railway Labor Act—a statute which antedates the Taft-Hartley Law by many years.

President Kennedy's latest proposal to both sides to let Justice Arthur Goldberg of the Supreme Court act as an arbitrator in the current dispute, while the unions and companies go on operating, is in principle at variance with the unions' previous position against compulsory arbitration.

They have felt all along that arbitration by government might not be fair to them. But the administration reasoned that they could hardly say this about Mr. Goldberg, who was formerly special counsel for the AFL-CIO, as well as counsel for the Steelworkers' Union, and until recently secretary of labor in Mr. Kennedy's cabinet.

Bob Considine Says:

Column-Readers Write—and Sometimes Wrong

NEW YORK — The people write—and wrong.

"You being a Negro lover there is three questions that I would especially like for you to answer," begins V. C. Lowery of New York City.

"1.—White people was in the stone age one time and if Negro's are equal CONSIDINE to whites just why have they not achieved what white people have since that time as each started off in the same situation?"

"2.—Just why has there never been a genius sprung up among them?"

"3.—Just why has not some educated Negro in this country sent back to Africa to do something for his own race, it has been done by white people?"

"Negro's just like the Lord made them and only the Lord can change them."

"Why do people in the military continue to complain about what they don't have?" asks Mrs. Lauren Newland of Alhambra, Calif. "Military medical care on any base is excellent, as is base housing, gasoline, PX merchandise and commissary savings. Yes, I am in favor of a pay raise, but I try not to complain about my husband's salary, his retirement benefits, his part-time college training, overseas transportation and being able to travel and see the world at minimum cost."

"Schools for our children on any military base are outstanding, free legal advice is available at any time. These items would probably cost an extra $200 a month in civilian life."

Mrs. Newland, whose husband is an Air Force technical sergeant, adds:

"I am proud of my husband's uniform and the ribbon he wears. He is defending his country against the horrible regime of communism, under which we would all be living in poverty. Why can't we count our blessings and be thankful for our freedom?"

"Dear Mr. Considine," writes someone in the White House who has an undecipherable handwriting.

"My thanks for the thoughtful message you sent following my June 11 address to the Nation on civil rights. It was especially kind of you to express your approval. With every good wish, sincerely,

Tax Reform

The Atlantic Monthly

In the economic field the President has prodded Congress for new instruments with which to improve the nation's economy and to lower its far too high rate of unemployment. But he has often first sounded the high note, only to retreat later and compromise, before his own allies in Congress have had a chance to do battle for his cause. Tax reform, he knows, is long overdue.

Foreign Trade

The Japan Times Weekly

The keynote of Japan's foreign trade, both export and import, continued to be with the United States.

While we appreciate to the fullest extent the value to Japan of this trade, and look to its extension in the future, we feel we must add a word of caution. We do not believe it will be for the good of the latter's trade if too much tied up in one channel. We do not say that there is positive danger of this but it is something to be guarded against. Japan needs to expand her trade with other Western countries as well as with the nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Important Struggle

The London Daily Telegraph

The struggle between the Soviet Union and China may be among the most momentous of our times. The Chinese want Russia to disavow her exclusive leadership of the Communist world and transfer it to some permanent organization in which China would have a say.

The world conference of Communist parties on which the Chinese are so keen is designed as a first step to that end. This is precisely why Russia is not keen on such a conference, for he is determined, above all, to keep absolute control of her own destinies and those of her satellites. The Sino-Russian rift is probably not between those who want war and those who do not; it is rather about the extent to which the West can be provoked and humiliated without real danger of war.

If Mr. Khrushchev thinks the danger real and is correspondingly cautious in his dealings with the West, that is because the West—particularly about Cuba—has been firm with him. Had we been feeble, there would have been no rift; Mr. Khrushchev and Since Gov. Romney took over, various government agencies are reluctant to cooperate.

With Gov. Romney in a position to do some snooping, I guess Walter figures it best to do business in complete secrecy until they buy back the statehouse.

Praises Scout Unit for Handicapped

Your article on mentally handicapped children becoming Boy Scouts evoked much thought on my part. The biggest needs for these children are: (1) public understanding and acceptance; (2) special services to meet their needs; and (3) research to discover the causes and point the way to control and prevention.

The inspired people who have organized this Boy Scout unit deserve much public acclaim. They have seen the need for: individual fulfillment, preservation of personal dignity, and provisions for happiness as the inherent rights of the retarded child.

The community role is of major importance in helping ALL children.

U. S. Releases Information on Cuba Economy Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

SQUEEZE ON CASTRO: The United States has released data to support its claim that mounting moves to isolate Cuba have resulted in a steady deterioration of the Cuban economy.

Among the figures released Tuesday: Western shipping to Cuba has been reduced from 128 arrivals at Cuban ports in January 1962 to only 12 last January; Cuba's gross national product was down 25 per cent in 1962 from the 1958 level of $2.5 billion.

Except for some foods, medicines and medical supplies, normal U.S. commercial trade with the Communist country was placed under embargo by the United States on Oct. 19, 1960. The latest sanction against Cuba was taken Monday—a ban on virtually all remaining U.S. financial transactions with Cuba and a freeze on Cuban assets in the United States.

SMOKING: George V. Allen, president of the Tobacco Institute, suggests that cigarette advertising should not be designed to appeal to young people.

And, Allen said in a statement Tuesday, radio and television programs directed primarily to youngsters should not be sponsored by cigarette manufacturers.

"In keeping with the position of the industry that smoking is a custom for adults, cigarette advertisements should not give a contrary impression," he said. "Persons featured in advertising should be... and should appear to be, adults."

PRESS TREATMENT: Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana has charged South Viet Nam with "a continuing effort to humiliate and to discredit American press representatives and to discourage them in the honest performance of their responsibilities to the people of the United States."

And, Mansfield said Tuesday on the Senate floor, "The support of our newsmen by our own officials on the spot leaves much to be desired."

The Democratic leader spoke after U.S. Ambassador Frederick E. Nolting Jr. appeared at a closed briefing of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and told newsmen that the United States has "made representations" to South Viet Nam against the manhandling of U.S. newsmen by Vietnamese secret police.

Refunds Set for Gas Users in Michigan

LANSING (AP) — Michigan Consolidated Gas Company customers will receive a refund of some $6.6 million — about a 5 per cent deduction on their bills for a period of six months.

The refund was announced yesterday by the State Public Service Commission. It comes as a result of rebates to the company from pipeline suppliers.

The commission has approved a plan under which the company's gas heating customers will receive the refunds starting about Oct. 1 and continuing through March 1964.

Under this plan, a heating bill of $20 a month would be reduced by $1 during the winter heating season.

The refund results from a ruling by the Federal Power Commission that Michigan Consolidated Gas's main supplier, Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co., collected excessive rates from Feb. 20, 1962, through Aug. 31, 1968. Panhandle was ordered to refund $7.8 million to the Michigan utility.

This Spin Trick Reveals if Egg Cooked or Raw

An easy way to determine whether an egg is hard-boiled or raw is to spin it on a tabletop or other level surface.

The hard-boiled egg, with the yolk set firmly in the center, will spin rapidly. The raw egg, with shifting fluid inside, will spin sluggishly.

Chinese PR Agency Supplied U. S. News

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today released testimony that a public relations firm representing Nationalist China had provided news stories, film and photographs to various U. S. news media.

In some cases, according to the testimony, the articles were published without indication that the authors were highly paid employees of the public relations firm, the Hamilton Wright Organization of New York.

The committee issued a 148-page transcript of the hitherto secret testimony as it called two top Wright officials for public questioning.

TWO WITNESSES

The witnesses were Hamilton Wright Sr., president, and his son, Hamilton Jr., executive vice president. Their previous testimony was taken behind closed doors March 26. It was released today as part of the committee's investigation of lobbying activities by Americans for foreign interests.

In their March testimony, the Wrights said they had regularly furnished photographs, newsreel films and news stories about several countries to news media and that much of the material was used without being identified as having come from an agent of foreign governments.

News organizations which the Wrights said had used their pictures, films or stories included Central Press, the North American Newspaper Alliance, Newspaper Enterprise Association, the New York Herald Tribune News Service, United Press International, Associated Press, the New York Times, Columbia Broadcasting System, National Geographic Magazine, King Features Syndicate, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount, Universal and 20th Century Fox.

The Wrights also testified that they once paid the magazine "New Leader" $3,000 to help it finance publication of a favorable article about Nationalist China.

They said five media had accepted and released stories written by two writers who worked for their public relations organization.

Eye GOP Fund to Retire JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican National Committee hopes to raise more than a million dollars this year in $10 contributions toward a "Kennedy retirement fund."

That is, a fund to retire the Kennedy from office. One of the circulars it is sending throughout the country shows three rocking chairs, labeled "His," "Bobby's" and "Teddy's."

The accompanying text, asking contributions, says: "A rocker gives a fellow the illusion of going someplace, when he's really sitting still. (If you rock hard enough, it'll back up on you.)"

"That's the way it is with the country today. We may be moving back and forth, sideways, up and down) but it doesn't exactly appear to be forward."

Bids to Be Considered on State Highway Work

LANSING (U)—Bids on 32 highway construction projects totaling $7.9 million will be opened at Lansing July 17 by the State Highway Department.

Major projects include more than half a mile of paving on the Walter Chrysler Expressway in downtown Detroit, three miles of modernization of Telegraph Road in Wayne County, a weigh station near New Buffalo, in Berrien County, a half mile of improvement on I-94 in Port Huron and seven overpasses on the U.S. 27 freeway in Clare and Isabella counties.

Professor Studies Red Strength

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst Prof. Choh-Ming Li, chairman of the center for Chinese studies at the University of California, has drawn up a balance sheet of Red Chinese achievements and concludes that "China has attained for the first time in modern history the status of a world power."

"It has," he notes in the current issue of Challenge magazine, "extended its political and economic influence to as far away as Cuba in the western hemisphere, Albania in Eastern Europe, Guinea and Ghana in Africa, not to mention the Chinese military adventures in the far East and south-east Asia."

Li's study is primarily economic.

He notes that Red China reached its present status both with the help of its military pact with the Soviet Union and through effective political control of the people.

But the chief contributing factor, he believes, was Red China's industrialization which enabled her to more than quadruple productive capacity in the years from 1954 through 1959, enhancing her military might.

This was the "great leap forward" which in 1958 merged with the rural communes. The communes were to do for agriculture what already was being done industrially.

GREAT FALL. But mismanagement, three years of drought and a miscalculation of the effects of human nature reversed the great leap forward which then became the "great fall backward."

China was forced to enter the Concert Manager Dies

NEW YORK (U)—Andre Merens, 58, international concert manager, died Tuesday in Baden near Zurich, Switzerland, it was announced by Columbia Artists Management. world market in buy grains, raw materials and permit a limited amount of capitalism.

This year, with the help of the private plots, grain production is reported back to the 1958 level.

Industrially, other reports say the Chinese still are having trouble.

Steel production last year may have been about half of the peak of 18 million tons reported in 1960.

A shortage of coal is said to have reduced all heavy industry to about 60 per cent of capacity.

NOT EASING UP

But with all her difficulties, Red China has neither eased up on her dispute with the Soviet Union nor slowed her economic offensive abroad.

Professor Li points out that since 1954, Red China has established trade relations with more than 80 countries outside the Communist bloc.

She has, moreover, extended economic grants, technical assistance and low-interest, long-term loans to such countries as Albania, Cuba, Hungary, Mongolia, North Korea and North Viet Nam in the Communist bloc, plus Algeria, Burma, Ghana and a half dozen others on the outside. Furthermore, these commitments have increased steadily.

"In fact," Professor Li concludes, "internal stress and difficulties may impel Communist China to become bolder and more aggressive in its external relations."

Brochure Sent to Area Organizations

List UF Programs Available to Groups

Someone has to address, stuff and mail envelopes. Mrs. Robert C. Irwin, West Iroquois Road (left) and Vera Mae Adams, Middle Belt Road, gave their time for this task. The envelopes contain announcements of the programs available from the Pontiac Area United Fund Speakers Bureau.

Program chairmen of area organizations will be able to select from over 100 programs available through the Pontiac Area United Fund Speakers' Bureau.

A brochure listing will reach 300 church, club, PTA and other organizations this week, according to Mrs. Robert C. Anderson, Speaker's Bureau Chairman.

The "Speaker's Bureau" offers a wide range of interesting topics, capable speakers and films related to United Fund services," said Mrs. Anderson. "In addition, agency tours will be arranged for interested groups."

FREE OF CHARGE
All programs are available free of charge.

"A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Clinic," "How to Fight and Stay Married," "Arthritis Quackery," "Teen-Age Marriage," and the "Unfinished Business of Growing Up" are speech titles selected by several of the 30 United Fund agencies participating in the bureau.

Thirty-eight films complete the listing. Included is the story of a multiple sclerosis child in a normal neighborhood environment entitled "The Almost Bicycle." "The Town and the Story," which covers a newsmen's visit to Pontiac United Fund agencies.

"The Glass Wall" produced for the Michigan Association for Better Hearing and "Deadline—53 Minutes" a United Cerebral Palsy film are also included in the Speaker's Bureau brochure. The average program is 30-45 minutes.

Copies of the new brochure may be obtained by contacting the Pontiac Area United Fund.

Spouses Should Be Invited, Too

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: I was married a little over a month ago and at that time received a very handsome wedding present from my fellow employees. The wedding was a small one and I could not invite any of them to it.

Now that I am settled in my apartment I would like to invite the office group to a party some evening in reciprocation for their present. Some of them are married and I would like to know if it is necessary to include their wives (or husbands). We have a small apartment and will just about be able to manage the office group with out any "extras."

A: I'm sorry, but to an evening party, you really should invite their wives (or husbands). If necessary, you might give two parties, inviting one half of the office staff at one time and the other half at another time.

Q: If it is incorrect to write a return address on the envelope of a wedding invitation, as you say it is, unless there is doubt about the correct address, how do guests invited to the reception who are friends or relatives of the bridegroom but strangers to the bride, know where to send their replies, or wedding presents, if no address is given?

A: If the bride's address is unknown to many of the wedding guests, it is put under the R.s.v.p. on the reception invitations, as follows:

Reader Tells All:

Governor Was a Hogg

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: It's true the late Governor Hogg of Texas had a daughter named IMA HOGG, but there never was a sister named URA. She was dreamed up by someone who thought it would make a good story. However, IMA did have a brother named WILL B. A. HOGG. I knew him years ago.

ABBY

FROM HOUSTON
DEAR ABBY: Thanks for setting the record straight. And at the risk of healing the poor Hogg to death, a reader from Wheeling wrote to say that the University of West Virginia's Number One Alumna for seventy-five years was the beloved, late GORY HOGG. He lived to be 90. (A long time to be Gory.)

DEAR ABBY: I once knew a man in Macon, Georgia, who was known only as "L. D." No wonder. His Southern belle Mamma had had him christened "LOVEY DOVEY." By the time "LOVEY DOVEY" reached his full growth, he was a portly 200 pounds, plus.

KATHLEEN
DEAR ABBY: I am to be married soon and my plans are slowly shaping up. A couple of months ago, my mother-in-law-to-be asked to see the pattern and material I had selected for my wedding dress. (I am making it myself.)

Lectureship Is Received

Dr. Givens L. Thornton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thad Thornton of Winthrop Road, has been named to receive a Fulbright lectureship.

An associate professor and chairman of the department of psychology at Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa, he will spend the year at the Central Institute of Education, New Delhi, India.

Wedding Vows Spoken in California Ceremony

For her recent marriage to Charles Gordon Bassett in Monterey, Calif., Ida Louise Williamson borrowed for her veil a circlet of orange blossoms which had been worn by her mother on her wedding day.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Raymond E. S. Williamson, Pebble Beach, Calif., and the late Brig. Gen. Williamson, chose a chapel gown of white silk organza. White shatterself, I showed her and she seemed delighted.

Last evening I was shocked beyond words when she showed me HER dress. It was an exact duplicate of mine — only in blue. She had it made. Abby, I am a large girl and there aren't too many patterns that are slenderizing for me. That was the reason I chose that pattern. Should I go ahead and wear mine, ask her not to wear hers, or what?

HURT
DEAR HURT: Ask her please to wear something else for your wedding. If she doesn't quickly agree to it, YOU find another pattern for yourself. Don't let a "me too" mother-in-law spoil your wedding day.

carnations and Stephanotis formed her bouquet.

Mrs. Louis X. Cleary, also of Pebble Beach, served her sister as honor matron, while Mrs. Robert L. Sweeney, Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., and Mrs. Max J. Hancock were bridesmaids.

Anne B. and Marie Louise Cleary were junior bridesmaids for their aunt. Attendees wore matching ballerina-length dresses of yellow chiffon and carried bouquets of daisies.

Serving the bridegroom, son of Mrs. James C. Bassett, David Kay Street, and the late Mr. Bassett, was best man Lt. John A. Holt III, Ft. Smith, Ark.

Ushers were Lt. Norman M. Smith, Boston, Mass.; Lt. John H. MacLaren, Honolulu, Hawaii; Lt. Neil F. Groepeler, Reading, Pa.; and Lt. Hugh L. Parks III, Jonesboro, Ark.

Following a reception at the Presidio of Monterey Officers' Club, the couple left for a honeymoon at Carmel-by-the-Sea and San Diego, Calif. They will reside in Pacific Grove, Calif.

The bride attended Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, N.Y.; Columbia University and the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London. Her husband attended the University of Oklahoma and is presently a student at the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey.

City Wedding Gets Blessing From Pope

Reception in the Italian-American club followed Saturday vows of Margaret Alice Hoffman and Stephen John Sheeran. Fr. Charles Oshing performed the ceremony in St. Michael's Church, where the couple received the papal blessing.

The bride, daughter of the Gilbert J. Hoffmans, Edison Street, wore a sheath of silk organza and Chantilly lace. A chapel train flared from the hips.

Her bouffant veil of silk illusion fell from a flowered cap. Amazon lilies, Stephanotis and variegated ivy formed the bridal cascade.

SISTER IS FLOWER GIRL

Honor maid Cathleen Donley, and bridesmaids Barbara McInnis and Cathy Hoffman appeared in peach nylon chiffon over taffeta. Julie Hoffman was her sister's flower girl.

The bridegroom, son of the Edward L. Sheerans, Royal Oak, chose Michael Keefe as his best man, Robert Frick, Henry Grix, James Stankevich and Gilbert Hoffman Jr.

Don't Save Old Drugs

CHICAGO (UPI) — When the illness is over, there is only one safe place for those leftover prescription drugs — down the drain!

A warning issued by the American Medical Association explains why. Three cases of poisoning have been reported from the use of "degraded" antibiotics in the home. Age and improper storage conditions in medicine chests and refrigerators cause a chemical breakdown which converts lifesaving compounds into toxic chemicals.

Boy's Meanness a Sign of Insecurity

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Dear Mrs. Lawrence: "Spill" is the only word to describe the way our son, 16, treats his younger sister. She is 13, shy and not so pretty as our youngest girl, who is her brother's favorite. He calls her "Jumbo" before his friends, and as she is very sensitive about her plumpness, she won't leave her room when he has visitors. Do you know of any way we can get him to treat her as affectionately as he does his baby sister?

ANSWER: You are repelled by his vindictive treatment of his younger sister, aren't you?

This feeling of revulsion from the jealous child's behavior is what makes it so hard for us to help him. It offends us so that we can't see that it springs from his self-contempt — a doubt of his own value so pressing that he must make his sister appear equally worthless in the eyes of as many people as possible. We are so revolted by the jealous child's meanness that we just want it stopped. And we feel irritated by the suggestion that he, more often than his victim, is the child who needs our attention and sympathetic encouragement. As a result of this impatience in us, his self-doubt increases, driving him to increase his belittling treatment.

So, though you may not like it, any change you want in your son has to first take place in you.

I don't know how I can make him seem sympathetic to you.

But I can assure you that at his age we are beset by all kinds of subsurface anxieties about our sexual attractiveness, our friends' opinions of us, how we can justify our parents' expectations of us, and our future places in the world. We may use any of a younger child to express them.

Does this boy of yours have any clear plans for his life? Has he chosen the work he wants to do? Is he worried about college admission? Have you or his father ever discussed any of these subjects with him?

During World War II there was a German word one heard a lot about — "Ebenraum" — room for life. Room for his worried life is an acute need of the adolescent child. If we don't make space for his anxieties by using his complaints and criticisms to persuade him to talk to us about them, they may express themselves in vindictive treatment of a younger child who seems spared the older child's bigger challenges.

Perhaps your boy is envious, not of his sister, but of his parents' sympathetic awareness of her.

World's Fair Develops in Changed New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A quarter century after tearing down the Trylon and Perisphere, New York is building another world's fair, bigger, better and aimed at pulling even more visitors into the metropolis.

Some 25 million persons showed up for the first year of the 1939 fair. This time fair builders hope for 40 million the first year, 1964. Those returning for the first time since the Aquadome closed will find little old New York changed. There will be nostalgia for some. But there will be fascination for all, especially youngsters who never before have seen the stone and brick canyons of New York.

Travelers arriving by air for the 1939 fair landed at Newark Airport in New Jersey. Now LaGuardia and Idlewild airports in New York City handle more than 13 million passengers a year.

From the air, visitors will see Manhattan as a velvet cloth studded with gems of skyscraper construction, divided by its streets into tiny rectangles of mass and color.

Some old landmarks have changed. The Aquarium that used to be on the tip of Manhattan has been moved to Coney Island. The George Washington Bridge has a new lower deck.

The Empire State Building still rises majestically 102 stories above Fifth Avenue. But a 222-foot television tower has been erected atop it. Among outstanding new skyscrapers is the Pan Am Building, towering 59 stories, over Grand Central Terminal.

POPULATION SAME

The city's population hasn't changed much—it was 7½ million in 1939 and it's about 8 million now. But the area around the fair site in Queens has been built up beyond imagination in the past 25 years. The new fair is in Flushing Meadows, as was the old one, but all the buildings save one will be new.

Across the street from the fair, in the old World's Fair parking lot, a municipal sports stadium is being built. Ebbets Field in Brooklyn is gone, and the Polo Grounds in Manhattan soon will be abandoned. The Giants and Dodgers have moved west, and the imposing Yankees share baseball interest here with the improbable Mets.

The elevated on Third and 25th avenues have been removed. New construction has erased the avenues' drabness and turned them into imposing thoroughfares. Park Avenue, once a sedate citadel of high rent apartments, now is mainly an avenue of hotels and bright new business structures.

The subway fare was five cents in 1939. Now it's 15 cents and only tokens fit the turnstiles. Trolleys have vanished. But the Staten Island ferry still is free, a side note, unfolding in its wake the spectacular lower New York skyline. The Statue of Liberty still dominates the harbor, and Gen. Ulysses S. Grant still sleeps in his tomb above Riverside Drive.

The Bronx Zoo is delighting a new generation of youngsters, and Central Park still draws young lovers to its secluded benches and shady paths—although not after dark.

LARGEST BUS STOP

The world's largest bus terminal is at Eighth Avenue and 41st Street, while across town the United Nations headquarters dominates the area at 42nd Street and the East River.

The Plaza Hotel still is the venerable dowager of Fifth Avenue, and the Waldorf-Astoria yet graces Park Avenue as a symbol of luxury. But there are new rivals—the Americana and the New York Hilton on the West Side, the Summit and the Regency on the East Side.

There hasn't been a new theater built in Manhattan in 25 years, and some old ones are gone. But seven nights a week and on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons Broadway stages come alive with make-believe magic.

Times Square still blazes each dusk into curvilinear glory. Fifty-second Street, though, the swinging street Manhattan ever knew, is the site of business houses or restaurants. The garish, girly clubs are gone.

Great ocean liners still stand out to sea from Hudson River piers, and on a misty night their throaty whistles sound a seductive invitation to high adventure. Greenwich Village is not what it was in 1939—many of its authentic characters have moved east to cheaper quarters, routed by new apartment buildings. But on a quiet Sunday, Washington drunken forgetfulness in Bowery doorways.

There aren't many big night clubs left in New York. But there are hotel supper clubs that boast the finest in entertainment, plus hundreds of restaurants where food is prepared after the fashion of many lands and most races.

When the sun goes down, skyscraper lights come on, neon bloom and midtown Manhattan becomes a ball of flame and movement, sight and sound.

Toward dawn, the noises of the city echo, then die, and silence at last dominates the night. As the sun's first shafts brighten the sky, the utter hush is shattered by a crescendo of sound as Manhattan's millions begin a new day.

In many ways, then, New York is a different town than it was in 1939. But in many ways also, New York remains mad, magnificent and magical.

Cucumbers Are Delicious When They're Cooked

Cucumbers can be cooked, too, for a flavorful vegetable. The Dutch do it this way.

Cook 3-inch strips of cucumber in salted water until tender, about 10 minutes. They should not be mushy.

Melt 3 tablespoons butter in 2 tablespoons flour. Cook over medium heat 2 to 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in 1 cup chicken bouillon, season with salt and pepper. Cook about 5 minutes until smooth and thick, stirring constantly.

Add 1 tablespoon chopped parsley and 1 tablespoon capers; mix in the cucumbers and heat.

New Pineapple Dessert Dish

A refreshing dessert, a light repast, a special treat is "Sunny Pineapple Aloha." This new and different recipe for fresh pineapple features a sticky dressing of honey-flavored graham crackers, sugar, nutmeg, butter, and lemon juice. It's so easy to make a day ahead of time or right at the last minute. Serve warm or at room temperature.

"Sunny Pineapple Aloha"
2 1/2 cup fine graham cracker crumbs (10 double)
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 medium-size fresh pineapple

Crush crackers with rolling pin into very fine crumbs. Mix with sugar, nutmeg, melted butter and lemon juice. Cut pineapple lengthwise into 6 segments, leaving part of top on each and trimming to about 3 inches.

With sharp knife remove core from pineapple pieces. Run knife between pineapple and shell. Cut across and lengthwise into bite-sized pieces and leave on shell.

Divide crumb mixture into six portions and spread over tops of prepared fruit. Wrap leaves lightly in foil to prevent drying out. Bake on cookie sheet in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, until hot and crusty, about 30 minutes. Remove foil.

PINEAPPLE ALOHA — Quarter a pineapple, top it with a crunchy mixture and bake it for a while. You'll have a dessert that is really different.

Lobster-Scallops

Cocktail Duet Is Good

As a preview to the forthcoming meal, appetizers should be given special attention. Since (they are designed to pique the appetite, be sure they are arranged attractively, properly garnished and served either well chilled or piping hot, as the case may be. The peppy flavor and intriguing texture of seafoods makes them especially popular for appetizers.

A shellfish duet — such as the rock lobster-scallop combination suggested here — is a favorite first-course feature in fashionable restaurants. For an added professional touch, the National Fisheries Institute recommends serving the cocktail in lettuce cups on beds of crushed ice.

Seafood Duet Cocktail
Select small rock lobster tails (about 4 ounces each), boil them according to package directions, cut in bite-size pieces and chill. Boil scallops in salted water (1 cup water for every cup of scallops) 8 to 10 minutes; then drain and chill. When ready to serve, arrange shellfish on lettuce or other greens in cocktail glasses, and serve with this tangy seafood dressing.

Green Goddess Dressing
1 clove garlic
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons anchovy paste
1/2 cup commercial sour cream
1 1/2 cups mayonnaise
1/4 cup larragon wine vinegar
1/4 cup scallions or chives, finely cut up
1/4 cup finely cut up parsley
Crush garlic clove with salt. Combine with anchovy paste, sour cream, mayonnaise and vinegar; stir in scallions and parsley. Makes 2 1/4 cups.

Chicken Salad Has New Taste With Figs

An exotic blend of ingredients that makes a luncheon salad destined to become a "conversation" dish.

4 cups cooked chicken, cut in large chunks
1 cup celery, cut in diagonal slices
1 cup chopped dried figs
1/2 cup chopped cashew nuts
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
1 tablespoon vinegar
1/4 cup evaporated milk
Combine chicken with celery, figs and cashew nuts in mixing bowl. In small bowl, blend milk with mayonnaise, salt, pepper, curry and vinegar — add to chicken and toss lightly. Serve on greens. Makes 4 to 8 servings.

Discard saucepans that are warped; they need to have flat bottoms to give the best performance on a range.

Hot Dogs Please Everyone in Summer

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

July is hot dog month. We can't remember how many millions of hot dogs are consumed every year, but it's a staggering number.

Every year new ways of serving hot dogs or frankfurters come to our desk and we pass them out to you.

Don't be perturbed if your children prefer hot dogs to the more expensive meats. Franks are high in meat-portion. Only you will tire of them — not the kids.

Maybe you can get them interested in a new sandwich made with franks, cheese and bean with bacon soup.

Frank and Beans Long Boys

1 package (10 ounces) brown and serve French rolls
1 can (1 1/4 ounces) condensed bean with bacon soup
1/4 cup ketchup
1/4 cup water
2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
6 frankfurters, split lengthwise and cut in half
2 slices sharp cheese cut into 1/2-inch strips (about 2 ounces)

1/4 cup French fried onions

Stuffed olives
Prepare rolls as directed on package; split and toast. Combine soup, ketchup, water, and pickle relish. Spread mixture evenly over bread surfaces; cover edges completely. Top with frankfurters, placing a slice of cheese in each.

Broil 4 inches from heat for 8 minutes or until hot. Top with onion for last few minutes. Garnish with olive. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Franks go Hawaiian when stuffed with pineapple spears and topped with shredded cheddar cheese. These sandwiches, a little more sophisticated, should appeal to adults.

Hawaiian Frank Roll

1 pound franks
10 frank buns
1/2 cup butter, softened (1 1/2 sticks)
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
10 pineapple spears
1/4 cup shredded cheddar cheese
Split franks and buns lengthwise. Combine softened butter and prepared mustard. Spread butter mixture on cut surfaces of buns. Place buns, cut side up on a baking sheet.

Stuff each frank with a pineapple spear. Place on buns and sprinkle each sandwich generously with cheddar cheese.

Broil until cheese melts and sandwich is heated through, about 5 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 10 sandwiches.

Frankfurters in a main picnic dish make interesting eating. You can take a casserole to the picnic site wrapped in several layers of newspaper. The dish will be almost as hot as when you took it out of the oven.

Frankfurter Macaroni Casserole

1 tablespoon salt
2 cups boiling water
2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
6 frankfurters
2 cups grated process American cheese (about 1 1/2 pounds)
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1 1/2 cups milk
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon caraway seed
Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Split frankfurters lengthwise without cutting all the way through. Stuff with 1/2 cup cheese. Combine remaining ingredients with macaroni; mix lightly but thoroughly. Turn into greased 1 1/2 quart baking dish and arrange stuffed frankfurters on top.

Cover with foil; bake in 350 degree (moderate) oven 30 minutes. Uncover and continue baking 10 minutes, or until top is slightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

Bargaining Talk Meeting Topic

LANSING (AP) — The question of whether collective bargaining agreements will be allowed in state employment will be discussed by the State Civil Service Commission at its July 11 meeting in Traverse City.

State Personnel Director Franklin Dewald said the Michigan State Employees Union, which has sought approval of formal collective bargaining agreements for several years, has pointed to President Kennedy's executive order permitting such agreements in the federal government.

by the commission are formal bargaining agreements and exclusive representation.

"These are things the union is seeking, and these are the questions which the commission can be expected to consider," Dewald said.

This year the federal government will appropriate more than $6.9 million-dollars to states for public school vocational education.

'U.S. Russ Plan Should Be Broader'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has suggested the United States and the Soviet Union enter into a broader exchange agreement than that now in operation.

The present agreement calls for short exchange of visits of teams in scientific, technical, educational, cultural and other fields.

In the few years these exchanges have been made, the visits have lasted about 30 days.

Freeman, who will take off Saturday for an 18-day visit to Russia, said he believed there should be exchanges of research teams on visits up to six months or longer.

Junior Editors Quiz on HORSEPOWER

QUESTION: How can a car have "horsepower?"

ANSWER: Not, certainly, in the ludicrous way our artist has suggested in his first drawing; this is not to be taken seriously. Horsepower measures how much power the engine of a car may have. It is figured on a standard worked out in the 1700's by James Watt, inventor of the modern steam engine.

Watt wanted some way of measuring how much work an engine or animal could do. He experimented with strong dray horses. If one pound of weight could be raised one foot in one minute, this was to be called one foot-pound.

A powerful horse, Watt found, could lift 33,000 foot-pounds, in one minute. Watt called the force exerted by the horse to do this one horsepower.

A stronger force, such as an engine, can have two or five or more units of horsepower. Such horsepower ratings are still used for engines today.

One way to figure them is to multiply pressure on the piston, by area of piston, the length of strokes in feet and the number of strokes per minute. This will give number of foot-pounds per minute. Dividing this by 33,000 gives the engine's horsepower.

FOR YOU TO DO: Watt did not actually invent the steam engine; he took crude steam pumps devised by Savery and Newcomen and from these worked out the principles of the modern steam engine. Read his fascinating story.

Hailstorm Damages Buildings, Crops

DILLON, Mont. (AP)—A five-minute hailstorm struck the northwest side of Dillon Tuesday, causing several thousand dollars damage.

Hailstones as large as baseballs were driven through windows by winds gusting up to 65 miles per hour.

Trees were uprooted and wheat and hay crops, termed potentially the best in Beaverhead County's history, were wiped out.

Haystack Salad

Shred lettuce into a bed of green goodness. Heap on a haystack of thin strips of cheese, ham, carrots, and green pepper. Add a dab of mayonnaise.

Quick Chicken Salad

Keep this recipe for chicken salad handy... It doubles as a sandwich filling. Mix contents of a 5-ounce can boned chicken with 2 hard-cooked eggs (chopped), ¼ cup chopped celery, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, and 2 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives. Season to taste. Chill; serve on crisp greens to 4.

Bake a big ham loaf and save half of it to serve cold.

Spaghetti Sauce

Give spaghetti a summer twist. In saucepan, brown 1 small onion (sliced) and ¼ cup chopped green pepper in 2 tablespoons butter. Add an 11-ounce can spaghetti sauce with meat. Heat.

Serve over cooked spaghetti. Makes about 1½ cups sauce.

When you are pan-frying food coated with seasoned flour or egg and crumbs, use about ¼ cup of fat for a 10-inch skillet.

Wilted Lettuce

Melt 2 tablespoons drippings in a heavy pan. Add a little chopped onion, and cook until soft and yellow. Stir in ¼ cup vinegar, then add 1 quart leaf lettuce, washed and cut. Cover and heat a few minutes until lettuce is wilted. Season with salt and pepper. Serve hot. 4 servings.

Ever add a little grated onion to macaroni and cheese?

Bacon-Olive Rolls

Before-dinner party appetizer: slices of bacon wrapped around large stuffed olives and broiled. Keep the bacon in place during the broiling with toothpicks.

Add a Bit of Sugar

If you like sweet baking powder biscuits, add a couple of tablespoons of sugar to a two-cup flour recipe. The sugar may be sifted along with the flour, baking powder and salt. The French usually serve sweetened biscuits and sometimes enrich their dough with an egg.

Rule for deep fat frying: use enough fat to immerse the food.

Yummy Pie Topping

Party desserts can be prepared in minutes when the freezer yields frozen individual apple or peach pies. Just bake as directed and sprinkle the tops of 2 or 3 baked pies with a combination of 1½ tablespoons melted butter, ¼ cup brown sugar and 2 tablespoons chopped black walnuts.

You can use your pastry blender to chop eggs!

Protein Snack

Old-fashioned eggnog still makes a fine mid-morning snack for youngsters. Use a well-beaten egg and a couple of tablespoons of sugar to a cup of milk and add a little vanilla. A little freshly grated nutmeg over the top adds delightful aroma and flavor.

Sleep tea for about five minutes; it becomes bitter if it is steeped any great length of time.

How Much Jelly?

Baking old-fashioned jelly? Count on using one cup of tart red jelly as filling for a jelly-roll sponge cake baked in the stand- and jelly-roll pan.

Carrots 'n' Cheese

Want to vary the way you serve carrots? Add cooked sliced carrots to a creamy cheese sauce and garnish with minced parsley. A surprisingly good combination!

Bachelor Says He Won't Wed Actress

Comedian's Got Own Brand of Hilarity

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Aside from a funny hat or baggy pants, the most traditional prop of a comedian has been his wife.
Marriage enables him to stand up in public and deliver such deathless lines as:
"My wife is so crazy about me she'll put a bomb in my refrigerator before I can get a drink."
"My wife is so dumb that when she was cleaning the house last week it took her three days to throw away a boomerang."
Milt Kamen is an unusual comedian. He is a bachelor. This cuts him out of telling wife jokes, mother-in-law jokes, and father-in-law jokes—half the repertoire of many a standard comic.
But despite this handicap, Kamen, by developing his own brand of hilarity, has become a top night club comedian, straight actor, and a rising young television comedian.
Why doesn't he marry?
"I'm emotionally ready for marriage," Milt admitted. "What bothers me is—I'm not emotionally ready for divorce. Sometimes I feel bad because I realize I am denying some nice girl alimony."
NOT AN ACTRESS
But he's reasonably sure he'll never wed an actress.
"Before you can finish telling an actress why you love her, her mind begins to wander," he remarked. "She starts thinking about her own career problems. My weakness is actresses, not actresses. Anybody who serves me food I automatically put down as a nice person."
Kamen, reared in the tough Brownsville section of Brooklyn, came up the long, hard, tough, lonesome way.

"I had to fight every day when I was five years old," he recalled, "and by the time I was seven I was puny."
"I stole as a kid. I think anyone who hasn't ever starved has missed something important in life."
ALWAYS GOT CAUGHT
"But as a kid thief I was a rotten failure. I got caught every time."
"I was brought up in an orphan asylum. I have no complaints about that. I was well-treated. But I feel lucky because I escaped a feeble institutional mentality. A lot of kids don't."
The turning point for Milt came in high school when he picked up a French horn, and a teacher encouraged him to learn to play it. He escaped into the world of music.
"I lost myself out of the mud with that French horn," he said. "I used it as a crowbar to lift

Hotel Owner

Gobel: Millionaire of Comics

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Members of Lakeside Golf Club who gather at the Men's Grill and Happy Time Bar ask blunt questions.
Comedian Gobel came after a long night club tour. He was telling of some of the places he played.
A member interrupted:
"George, how come you say you're doing so good when you play Florida in the summer?"
Gobel paused—only he can pause—then replied:
"I have other income."
It was a classic understatement. Gobel is a millionaire, the Conrad Hilton of the comics. And he's made most of the money since leaving weekly television.

Lonesome George is one of the biggest owners of Ramada Inn, Inc., which operates 48 hotels in 20 states and Canada and is building 43 more.
Gobel's unusual night club tours which take him into Miami in the summer usually are tied in with his hotel side-line.
"Hollywood's a funny place," mused Gobel. "If you're not working steady on TV or in the movies, people start feeling sorry for you."
"Even when I was on Broadway in 'Let It Ride,' it was considered unemployment by some people out here."
George's hotel venture was "not the dumbest thing I ever did."
"Back in the days when I was hot in TV and the movies, I was offered $10,000 to make a personal appearance at the opening of the Sahara in Phoenix. That was the granddaddy of the Ramada chain."
"Instead of the money, I took a point in the company. As more hotels were built, I invested more money.

"Now, I could retire tomorrow from show business, but what would my agent do? And besides, I enjoy traveling around visiting the hotels. I always inspect the ice making machines."
"I once got caught in El Paso with no ice. It's a tragedy that I don't wish on anyone."

Russ Charge West Backs Plot in Iraq

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union claims that representatives of the Western-sponsored Central Treaty Organization are plotting a campaign to help Iraq wipe out rebellious Kurds.
This involves establishment of foreign strongholds near the Soviet border and therefore threatens Soviet security, Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko charged Tuesday in statements handed to the ambassadors of Iraq, Iran, Turkey and Syria.
Iraq's revolutionary anti-Communist government is waging a hard campaign against Kurdish rebels in northern Iraq. The Soviet Union has espoused the cause of the rebels.

Reminders From Adults

Teach Teens Good Habits During Summer

By JESSE J. NASON, ED. D.
"Is it too much to ask?" Inquires the owner of an auto parts warehouse, "that young people be trained to keep their minds on their work long enough to complete a simple task such as filling an order?"

By removing carefully selected items from the shelves?

The warehouse owner thinks that schools are to blame for poorly trained youngsters. But that's only partly true. The habit of paying attention to the task one is performing should be established at home.

The best time for this is summer. That's because the formation of any habit calls not only for determination on the part of the child but for frequent, individual reminders from an adult. And summer is the only extended period during the year when parents have considerable control over their children all day long.

HABITS PAY OFF
Establishment of the habit of giving full attention to what one is doing is worth all the effort it may take.

Students who have acquired this habit make higher scores in reading comprehension, make better grades in school, pay attention to meeting the requirements for college and post-high school training, and succeed better in everything they attempt. They stay in school longer.

Those who drop out of school often do so because they don't pay attention to what they are doing.

I have a strong feeling that failure to pay attention to the task at hand makes people accident prone.

HABIT FORMERS
Here are some suggestions to help parents with the endeavor: Habits are formed faster when the individual wants to act in the desired fashion. Work together with your child. Make it a family project.

Help your child renew his determination to control his attention. He must keep his new resolution in mind or the old pattern automatically will take over.

In the early stages watch as he performs a task. "Pay attention to what you are doing!" is a sharp reminder children should be given whenever it is needed. Praise him when he succeeds.

Choose special tasks for concentrated training. If Susie is setting the table for dinner, insist that she keep her mind on what she is doing and set the table correctly.

If Joe is washing the car, insist that he take responsibility for every detail—windows must be closed before water is applied, the interior must be brushed out, soap or other cleaning agents must be rinsed off, water must not be sprayed on other cars or passing pedestrians through careless-ness. He will form the habit of keeping his mind on his work. (You can write Dr. Nason in care of The Pontiac Press.)

Humorist Dies at 80

MENA, Ark. (AP)—James Richard (Dick) Huddleston, 80, whose country store in Pine Ridge, Ark., became famous in the 1930s and 1940s because of its association with the "Lum and Abner" radio programs, died Tuesday. Huddleston later joined the humorists, Chester Lauck (Lum) and Morris Goff (Abner), in a stage show that traveled throughout the country from 1935 to 1942.

That key word, "Arch," where "A" stands for "Analyze the lead," "R" stands for "Review the bidding," "C" stands for "Count your own cards and losers," and "H" for the all-important "How can I make or beat this hand?" should be part of every bridge player's bible.

East started proceedings by taking two heart tricks. He was also sure of making a trick with the ace of spades and his problem was to find one more trick to set the contract.

Obviously it wasn't coming in either minor suit or in hearts so he had to get it in trumps. This did not look promising either until East noted that if he led a third heart he would be giving declarer a ruff and discard. While the discard would not do declarer any good, the ruff might turn out to be most embarrassing.

East led a third heart. South ruffed in dummy and led a trump, which East ducked. East also ducked a second trump lead and South had no way to stop East from making two trump tricks. If he led a third trump East would simply play north heart and force out South's last trump and set South two tricks.

Because it is better to go down one than two, South merely led out clubs and diamonds until East ruffed in.

Pontiac City Affairs

OK Airport Restaurant Tenants

New tenants were approved last night by the City Commission for the city's much-troubled restaurant at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

The commission agreed to transfer the lease on the terminal restaurant from Mr. and Mrs. William Stern, owners of The Donut Center at Saginaw and West Lawrence, to Mrs. Rose Kent of Union Lake.

According to City Manager Robert A. Stierer, the Sterns asked for the transfer of the lease because of other business commitments that required a great deal of their time.

Sterns said the recent loss of a cook and manager at the airport restaurant made it necessary for the Sterns to devote considerable time to it, leaving three other restaurants unattended. Mrs. Kent and her husband, John, have operated a restaurant in the village of Union Lake for several years, Stierer said, and plan to sell that business in order to devote full time to the airport facility.

The city-owned restaurant was opened June 1 after being vacant since February. The city leased it to the Sterns with a brief rent-free period to allow them to install equipment and establish themselves.

The rental agreement, which was to start July 1, was set at $50 a month until gross monthly sales reached $8,000 per month. From then on, the rent was to be figured on a percentage of gross sales. Stierer said the same lease would be in effect with the Kents as was with the Sterns.

HANGAR ADDITION
Action on a proposed addition to hangar No. 3 at the Pontiac Municipal Airport was deferred indefinitely. Cost estimates are still being calculated on the project, according to City Manager Stierer.

Costs of the addition, which would be used to house city equipment, will be split between city, state and federal governments.

In other business, the City Commission okayed a report from the planning commission that the alley on the north side of Huron between Lincoln and Thorpe not be vacated.

The alley had been subject of a controversy between residents of the area and doctors building a clinic there.

Commissioner William M. Taylor Jr. asked for asphalt paving with curb and gutter for the alley as a public necessity.

He estimated the total cost for the paving work at $4,841.

The Planning Commission had reported that residents of the area were concerned about the assessments to improve the alley.

Other action saw the City Commission establish a Civic Center District in the area of the city hall.

The commission returned from residential and commercial areas bounded by Water, Mill, Pike, Hill, Auburn and Parke streets, plus the sites of the main fire station and Central School.

Mayor Robert A. Landry explained that the new Civic Center District was required under urban renewal regulations.

Bids on curb, gutter and related work in the R-20 urban renewal area, Division 3 Project, will be received July 29 at 2 p.m., according to commission action last night.

The commission authorized advertising for bids on the work, which is set for an area bounded by Auburn, Padlock, Osmon and Parke streets.

State to Widen I-96 Freeway

Detroit-Brighton Link to Cost $5.3 Million

Some 23 miles of the I-96 freeway from the northeast edge of Detroit to Brighton will be expanded from four lanes to six at a cost of $5.3 million in 1966, the State Highway Department announced today.

The freeway stretch originally was built with only four lanes because not enough funds were available for six, according to Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie.

It was built in 1955, a year before Congress upheld the federal government's share of interstate freeway financing from 60 to 90 per cent, Mackie said.

Other freeway sections to be expanded from four to six lanes, according to the announcement, are 15.3 miles of I-94 from Telegraph Road to Wierd Road near Willow Run Airport; 5.4 miles of I-94 between Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti; and 33.3 miles of I-94 from Benton Harbor to New Buffalo.

Fine for Stray Dog Is Increased to $10

A $10 fine will be levied against Pontiac residents who allow their dogs to run loose.

The City Commission approved last night an amendment to the dog ordinance, hiking the fine from $2 to $10.

Proposed last week by Commissioner Loy L. Ledford, the amendment was prompted by increasing reports of dogs running loose in the city.

Ledford also urged stepped up enforcement of the ordinance. It became effective in 10 days. The new $10 fine is in addition to impounding and boarding fees already in effect.

WEEKEND DUTY
Several residents asked the City Commission if the city's two dog wardens would be available on weekends when many stray dogs appear.

City Manager Robert A. Stierer said a second dog warden had been added last fall and a system of hours had been worked out to provide service during the peak periods for loose dogs.

Vice Trial Starts July 22

LONDON (AP)—The Old Bailey Criminal Court refused today to postpone Dr. Stephen Ward's trial on vice charges until September and fixed July 22 as the opening date. Ward was granted continuation of his bail of 3,000 pounds ($8,400).

City Approves 2 Amendments

First Steps to Extend Dancing; Liquor Laws

The Pontiac City Commission took the first step last night to allow dancing in local taverns and bars with Class C liquor licenses.

The first reading of a proposed amendment to allow dancing passed 4-2. Commissioners William H. Taylor, Jr., and Charles H. Harmon voted against it.

The amendment was placed on the agenda for second reading and action next week.

A second ordinance amendment changing the hours for the sale of beer and wine by the glass on Sundays also passed by an identical 4-2 vote.

Taylor and Harmon again voted against the ordinance change.

The proposed amendment, which comes up for final action next week, would set the beginning of Sunday sales at noon instead of 2 p.m.

State Tax Commission Considers School Appeal

Is the Oakland County Intermediate School District entitled to all the benefits, including financial, of any other school district under Michigan school statutes?

This was the question yesterday in a hearing before the State Tax Commission in Pontiac.

The hearing, conducted in the old County Building by R. Gerald Barr of the tax commission, was on the county school board's appeal of its final tax allocation.

After listening to arguments by the county schools and the county, Barr took the appeal under advisement. He hinted that a legal determination of the school code might be necessary.

The county schools, recently named Oakland Schools, appealed the .10 mill tax rate set by the County Tax Allocation Board.

County School Supt. William J. Emerson maintained his contention that the county schools could not meet bills next year on the final rate set by the allocation board.

Emerson, who previously had predicted a shortage of $36,000 by fall of 1964, said the intermediate school district was a school district in every sense of the word and would be placed in "financial jeopardy" on the .10 mill tax rate.

He said the change in fiscal years, continuing contracts of employees and a set salary schedule of two years standing made it necessary to appeal.

Emerson said the county school board's appeal had no bearing on the budgets of other units of government.

Peter Mann, attorney for Oakland Schools, said that the position of the county school board was that it was a school district in every sense of the word and should be treated like any other.

He said the school code did not make a discrimination between intermediate school districts and any other school district.

William H. Taylor Jr., chairman of the County Tax Allocation Board, said the board had attempted to divide the 15 mills as fairly as possible. Robert E. Lilly, secretary of the Board of Auditors, explained the county's position in a lengthy legal opinion. He said an intermediate school district is not to be allowed a minimum of 4 mills.

Lilly maintained the transfer of functions, which now has the county school program operating separate from the regular county government, was considered.

"There have been no errors of law or fact upon which to base an appeal," Lilly concluded, "and the appeal should be dismissed."

Barr indicated the State Tax Commission would consider the appeal some time this week. The commission is required by state law to make a decision within 15 days of the hearing.

Weeds Plus Motors Equal Shoreline Mess

Combine the recent hot weather with the multitude of powerboats using Oakland County lakes and a problem for shoreline property owners is the result.

In fact, the problem has grown so great this summer that a first-rate help industry could be started in the area.

Shorelines in shallow lakes particularly are literally being buried in weeds. Because the prevailing winds have been out of the southwest until this week, the north shores have been piling high with growth from the lake bottom.

Pontiac Lake is a prime example.

It is shallow, with plenty of thick weed beds. The growth reaches the top and is easily cut by propellers on the many powerboats using the lake.

The weeds float on the surface and are pushed toward shore by the wind.

During the Fourth of July weekend, state park workers at Pontiac Lake hauled an average of two stake truckloads away from the beach each morning.

The weeds drifted into the swimming area during the day, bothering swimmers and causing a problem along the sandy beach.

Although the concentration of floating weeds isn't as great, the deep lakes also have plenty reaching shore.

Why the heavy growth in recent years?

The theory most frequently expounded is that increased home construction around lakes has caused an increase of highly-fertile material being filtered from septic tanks into the water.

While this filtered material is not harmful to humans, it has the same effect as spreading fertilizer on a lawn.

If no boats used the lakes, the weeds would be there, but few would ever reach shore.

But there are boats; with more appearing each year. And the high horsepower motors slice through weeds with ease.

This means weeds on the surface floating toward shore and creating a messy problem.

No rats were lured into the traps, but Bernz did make a rare catch.

Tuesday morning he discovered an albino ground squirrel (chipmunk or gopher) had been killed by the steel bar.

"We have a lot of striped chipmunks running around here," said Mrs. Bernz, "but we've never seen the white one before."

Within the last 60 days two American eels have been taken from Great Lakes waters, but fish experts of the Conservation Department are not fearing a "biological explosion" of this seaway traveler from the Atlantic.

The first of the two was taken from Green Bay two months ago, and the second, a five-pounder, was landed in Grand Traverse last June 29 by 16-year-old Don Lowery of Bowers Harbor.

The American eel is a highly regarded food fish among Europeans, but one that propagates only in the Sargasso Sea of the sub-tropical Atlantic Ocean.

NEW LEADER—Gordon Bailey, 5132 Frankville, Clarkson, holds the 5-pound 12-ounce largemouth black bass he caught last Friday on Deer Lake. The fish is the new leader of The Pontiac Press Big Fish Derby's bass division. Bailey hooked the fish on a surface plug at 5 p.m., 10 minutes later had it in the boat. He was fishing with spinning equipment and a 12-pound test line.

On River All Day

No Time for Fishing

GRAYLING — There's at least one good thing about being an Au Sable River trout guide, says Bernie Fowler. "I want to go out on a day and go fishing, it's real easy to do."

However, the 37-year-old Fowler says he has to keep pretty busy making a living. "Guiding alone won't do it," he says.

Besides running a small resort on the river, he is a member of the local township board of supervisors, runs a snowplow route in the winter and guides hunters in the fall.

Bernie is a husky, crew-cut father of three. He doesn't race any more, but at one time he was a top-notch canoe racer, winning the Au Sable marathon race in 1953, 1954 and 1955 when it was a straight-through, 240-mile race from Grayling to Oscoda. Bernie won a few other races and the main room of his combination home and lodge is loaded with trophies.

Water Tour Via Highway

Trip Along Coastline of Great Lakes

LANSING — If a vacationer wants to see lots of water in this water wonderland of Michigan, all he has to do is stick to the state's highways.

An increasingly popular tour is along the Great Lakes shoreline roads rimming both peninsulas.

You have to start just above Toledo to drive the comparatively short stretch along Lake Erie. Then there is the grand water tour up the eastern shore of the state, nearly always in sight of Lake Huron, and down the western shore of the Lower Peninsula to explore one full side of Lake Michigan.

Those with the time and hankering for still more water can cross the Straits bridge into the Upper Peninsula for adventuring along the southern shore of Lake Superior and additional sections of both Lakes Huron and Michigan.

There probably isn't a Michigan motorist who hasn't stopped at one of the many highway department roadside parks, free way rest areas or picnic tables. There are now 104 roadside parks and 27 freeway rest areas with eight more of the latter under construction—these in addition to the handy roadside picnic tables.

FIRST IN NATION

Michigan boasts that its highway department built the nation's first fully-equipped roadside park in 1935.

It is on U.S. 16, four miles west of Williamston, Ingham County. It is located on the Red Cedar River, which also flows through the Michigan State University campus.

This is still a popular stop-off spot and fishermen often try their luck in the river.

This first park started the tradition of locating the parks on water whenever possible.

Of the more than 100 roadside parks, 25 are located on lake or stream frontage where boating, swimming and fishing are often available.

"About all you can do with them is fish slowly and help them out as much as you can. Generally, they won't catch too much."

"But I had one fellow catch a 16-inch trout and his limit the first day of fishing he ever did. He was just driving through Grayling and decided to go on a trip down the river," Fowler says.

Guiding has its hazards, such as getting popped by wind-blown or carelessly cast flies. But so does being a customer.

"I've had them fall out of the boat," Bernie says. "Sometimes they stand up and the anchor happens to catch or something and they walk right out into the river."

"I've always warned them about standing up," Bernie started filling in as a guide during busy weekends, helped along by his brother-in-law, an established guide when Bernie started.

He's caught some big trout, his largest going 28 inches long. The longest a customer ever caught, Bernie says, was 19½ inches.

'63 Hunting Seasons Before Commission

Small game hunting and trapping regulations for 1964 will be considered by the Conservation Commission at its meeting Thursday and Friday in Houghton and Hancock.

Also scheduled for consideration will be proposals for the session of the legislature, trawling regulations on northern Lake Michigan, a field trial area in Grand Traverse County, and several land matters involving acquisitions, exchanges and leases.

The first day's meeting, an informal session at which no official action is taken, will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Michigan Tech Memorial Union Building in Houghton. The formal meeting will be held in Hancock in the Superior National Bank Building, at 9 a.m.

The meeting marks the first for newly-appointed Commissioner Leland W. Hooker of Houghton, who was named by Governor Romney June 27 to succeed Kenneth S. Lowe, Marquette, whose term expired in April.

Pheasant Crop Should Be Better in '63

Hunters this fall should find Michigan's pheasant crop generally improved over 1962 if the birds' nesting success holds up with normal years.

That's the early picture formed by the Conservation Department's annual ringneck survey, which points to an overall 10 percent increase in this spring's pheasant breeding population.

Counts of crowing male birds indicate that gains are highest in the Thumb area and Southeastern Michigan. In the southwestern part of the state, ringneck numbers appear to be up slightly from a year ago.

Declines were reported elsewhere in the state's pheasant range, including the northern fringe counties of Gladwin, Mecosta, Muskegon, and Newaygo counties.

Rural mail carriers will again conduct surveys in late July and early August to measure pheasant production.

Woman Into Space

Herrie Cobb Strikes Out as Softball Player

By JERRIE COBB
with Jane Kleber
Installation III

In the late Forties and Fifties, before our country was a jungle of television antennas, women's softball was a top-drawer spectator sport.

When I told my father that junk was nothing but "history," he said, "I don't have to add that the only one at which I was reasonably proficient was the last."

Then, just before my graduation from Classen high school, I dropped the bomb.

"No college," I said. "Look, you all know that I want to get my commercial pilot's license. And that takes a lot of money. Now, it just happens that I've been offered a job that pays very well... with a girl's softball team, the Sooner Queens."

"Unthinkable!" my mother exploded. "Now I've heard every thing. First horses, then airplanes, now baseball!"

In the end we compromised. I was to have my chance, even if it meant playing with the Sooner Queens. I would promise to give college a try the following fall.

As softball players we were nastily garbed in satin skirts and blouses. It was a bar-a-storming swelter — a game a little, then piling into our two stadium wagons for the drive to the next town.

But first baseman Cobb achieved first purpose. Even after the fines for missed signals and similar slips were deducted, my salary and bonuses amounted to just about the sum needed to log enough additional hours of training for my commercial pilot's license.

And on my 18th birthday I received it.

I found for sale in Denver a war surplus Fairchild PT-23, I looked and lost my heart. Friskily decked out in maroon and yellow, this low-winged ship had a radial engine sprouting around its nose, giving it a spunky, let's-getting air.

Suppose you could buy the Hope Diamond for $500 but had only $11 in your purse. That's the situation I faced. To remedy it, I put myself to work for the Sooner Queens for the sum needed to buy the PT-23.

The deal proved better for me than for the softball team. Facing the Phoenix A-Queens in the last inning of the last game of the season, I was the last player at bat. If I singled or better we'd win and have a crack at the championship. I struck out. My family no longer had to worry about my ball playing. I gave it up because I had let down my team.

I became a pilot for an oil company, patrolling pipelines in Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri.

In my PT-23 I would lumber low along the line, sniffing for engines and peering down for other signs of seepage.

My PT-23 was the only one of its kind in the world. The pay was scarcely enough to keep my thirty plane in fuel, but it was the first time I'd been paid a regular salary for flying, and the hours were adding up nicely in my log.

Also, in fair weather and foul, I made a 150-mph round trip flight three nights a week to Wichita to attend ground school.

HIGHER AIM

My aim was not just to be a flight instructor, teaching beginners, but to be a licensed ground school instructor — a rating that calls for a larger body of aeronautical and navigational know-how.

One good friend was Charley Love who, like many Oklahomans, was part Indian. Sometimes he would let me fly his swivel line radio-equipped Cessna 140. That proved a bigger favor than he knew.

You can't have a career in the air unless you can use the radio communications system. Simple enough for most people. Press a button and speak. I would press the button and freeze. Not just Mike might but practically total paralysis.

On a Sunday morning, approached Tulsa, I watched clouds stream down to a white-shingled church. If I'm flying on Sunday I hold my own silent church service in the sky. I began to pray. And not until I suddenly heard a flat, matter-of-factly Oklahoma twang speaking back to me did I realize I had unknowingly picked up the mike and called "Tulsa radio."

"How do you read me?"

"Tulsa reads you loud and clear."

Well, how about that! I completed the contact with the conventional phrase. Then, silently, "Thank you, dear God."

I finally passed all my written examinations and became a certified ground school instructor in each subject I had studied. The flight test took about three hours — and it was tough! I finally let the instructor smile broadly and said "You did very well, Passed."

Two weeks after starting work at Duncan, Okla., as ground school instructor, I knew the other side of the coin — the instructor's.

No matter how apt and courageous, student pilots rarely believe they're ready to go solo. They await their teacher's calm assurance that they are competent — yet when the word comes they're always startled.

My first student blinked when I gestured airily toward the plane and said airily, "She's all yours." If only he'd known how I'd searched my mind!

While my student cried, I watched helplessly, biting my lip. Had I turned him loose too soon? When he barked, "He'll be fine," I found myself stifling my left leg.

"Galt it!" I told myself. "He's doing fine."

My pay was a straight $2 an hour, for flight time only. I worked seven days and five or six nights a week, and scarcely broke even. For three years I had been paying to learn to be a pilot. Now I was getting paid for spending all day flying, and for talking aviation all evening.

I had no complaint.

Dog Medical Plan Goes Into Effect in Britain

LONDON (AP)—A medical insurance plan for dogs began operating in Britain today.

The Canine Insurance Association will pay veterinary fees up to $70 in case of sickness or accident. The cost is 6 cents a week.

Prisoners to Be Freed

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—President Menem Maria Guido says he is ordering the release of an unspecified number of political prisoners because tension has relaxed since the presidential election Sunday.

Order American Writer to Pay Movie Producer

ROME (UPI)—A Civil Court ordered American writer Frederic Wakeman yesterday pay Italian movie producer Alfredo Bini $5,300 damages in a dispute over a film.

Bini charged that Wakeman had agreed to do a film with him based on a book by Wakeman, but later broke the agreement and made the movie with another company.

Police Chief to Quit After July 4 Beating

BRIDGMAN —The beating he received from a mob of unruly, drinking teenagers apparently was the last straw for Ned Knuth, at 23 the youngest police chief in Michigan.

"I'm fed up with the whole mess," said Knuth who has been on sick leave since the July Fourth holiday beating he suffered when he went to the aid of a Welo Beach park policeman who was having trouble with "four or five thousand drinking teenagers."

Knuth said he and the policeman, Ron Weaver, were knocked to the ground, kicked and spat upon when they tried to arrest one of the youths.

Knuth suffered cracked ribs in the beating and he said his shirt and trousers were ripped as he tried to take the youth into his patrol car.

Two police officers can't control a beach filled with four or five thousand drinking teenagers," Knuth said.

Knuth has been the only police officer in this southwestern Berrien County community for 14 months. He said his resignation is the climax of what he termed "a long standing battle" with the City Commission.

His resignation has not been accepted by the commission. But he said, "My decision is final. The 18th of July is my last day."

What's First? Driver Safety or the Trees?

LANSING (AP)—The safety of the motorist comes first, despite oft-repeated pleas to "spare that tree," contends Highway Commissioner John Mackie.

The highway department reports that public opinion about trees next to highways is about evenly split between requests for removal of trees which have been hit by one or more vehicles and complaints from area residents about such removals.

Mackie says "generally, the highway department removes all trees within 25 feet of the edge of the highway."

"When an older highway is modernized, each tree in the right-of-way is studied to determine whether or not it is a traffic hazard."

"We don't like to remove trees—especially those with special beauty or local significance—but the safety of the motorist must come first," Mackie said.

Lawyer Claims NAACP Pickets Will Be Legal

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit corporation counsel Robert Reese said yesterday that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People can legally picket 25 apartment houses in the city as planned.

Reese noted that his decision was informal, until assistants finished searches of law and ordinances on the subject. The Boy-Scout Act in a bid to picketing of private residences in late labor disputes, he said.

The Detroit chapter of the NAACP will send pickets to the 25 apartments Saturday to protest alleged housing discrimination.

The housing director for the NAACP chapter here expressed enthusiasm at Reese's report, which said that he had always considered apartments as businesses.

For the last three Saturdays the NAACP has staged marches in Detroit and its suburbs to protest alleged housing discrimination.

Catholic Bishop Won't Fire Divorcee

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP)—Refusing to act against his conscience, the Roman Catholic bishop of Aberdeen says he is defying a Vatican order to dismiss the divorced Presbyterian woman who is his housekeeper.

The Rt. Rev. Francis Walsh, 62, says he considered the Vatican order to fire Mrs. Ruby Mackenzie, 45, cruel and unjust. She is divorced from a Church of Scotland (Presbyterian) minister.

Bishop Walsh said he appealed to Rome against the order but got no answer. The bishop said he reached his decision after three months of prayer and deliberation.

The Vatican normally does not comment on such matters, considering them strictly private within the church. The bishop did not say which Vatican department issued the dismissal order.

Guitar-Song Duo Splits as Wife Alleges Cruelty

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Singer Mary Ford sued guitar-plicking Les Paul for separate maintenance Tuesday, alleging cruelty.

She asked for reasonable support and custody of their son, Robert, 3.

Miss Ford said her husband is out of the state and has the child with him. She stated in her complaint that their community property consists of interests in recording companies and in real property here, in Chicago, and in Mahwah, N.J., where the couple has a home. She asked that the court appoint a receiver to preserve Paul from concealing assets.

The couple was married in Milwaukee in 1949 and separated last June 19, the complaint stated.

U.N. Will Probe Poison Gas Use Charged U.A.R.

GENEVA (AP)—U.N. observers will investigate whether bombs dropped by Egyptian planes on the Syrian town of Hama, which contained poison gas, a weapon outlawed since World War I by international convention.

The United States and Britain are conducting independent inquiries.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant Tuesday ordered Swedish Gen. Carl von Horn, head of the U.N. mission in Yemen, to check allegations that he had been involved in Yemen's civil war.

Officials in the United Arab Republic denied the accusations. The U.A.R. is supporting Yemeni republicans who overthrew the royalist regime last September.

Saudi Arabia, which the royalists, has accused the U.A.R. of poison gas warfare.

Goldberg as Arbitrator a Ruse, Says Hoffa

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Teamsters President James R. Hoffa says President Kennedy's proposal that Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg arbitrate the railroad work dispute is a ruse.

"He (Kennedy) knows that Goldberg cannot act as an arbitrator because he is on the Supreme Court bench," Hoffa told newsmen yesterday. "I scoffed with my lawyers this morning. In any event, I certainly would not want Goldberg to arbitrate for me."

Hoffa added that the Teamsters would support the five operating rail unions in a strike.

Hoffa is scheduled to testify today at the trial of Nate Stein, a one-time Beverly Hills publicist, accused of inducing a witness to testify falsely before the Senate Rackets Committee.

Mayor Wagner Rushes to Side of Sick Son

PARIS (UPI)—New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner arrived here today on an emergency visit to his hospitalized son, leaving behind a sit-in demonstration on his official doorstep.

Wagner flew here after receiving word that his 18-year-old son, Robert Jr., had undergone surgery for a ruptured appendix Monday night and was suffering from a mild case of peritonitis.

A hospital spokesman said this morning his condition was satisfactory.

The Story of Paul Lynde—Butcher Boy to Big Star

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Out in Ohio, in this weather, a fellow gets out of his car and says, "My tires are as hot as fire."

Paul Lynde used to hear the Buckeyes twang-sing their Middlewesternness in his dad's butcher shop in Mount Vernon, Ohio. He's the latest of 100 Ohioans to become a Hollywood TV and movie star—helping to put Texas, Illinois and even New York to shame in the celebrity race. Paul figures that his Ohio (beautiful as it is to Ohioans) was just irritating enough to Easterners to give him a distinctive sound.

"I had sponsor trouble because I couldn't say 'fountain pen,'" Paul told me. "I kept saying 'fountain pen.' I have to try to say 'fountain pen,' to get it to come out right."

And Paul still says "warsh" for wash, and "semmidge" for sandwich, and "wotter" for water.

But he's on his best enunciation. Mount Vernon's giving him a Paul Lynde Day July 10—most appropriate, for Screen Gems just set him for a Paul Lynde TV series. He'll have Lucille Ball's writers.

Paul's nervous about going back, because Mount Vernon was never too crazy about his talent—not even his mother, who's dead now.

"After a high school shop, Mother used to say to me, 'I like that pretty girl next to you.' I'd say, 'What about me?' 'She'd wave me aside, saying, 'Oh, you're so silly! She thought shop business was something I'd get over when I got good sense.'"

After Northwestern, "Bye Bye Birdie," dozens of TV shows, and six movies, 37-year-old Paul's giving up a beloved Manhattan penthouse and building a Hollywood home.

I hate to leave New York but you need a helicopter to go cross-country. Some day every car in New York will stop, everybody will get out and walk away from his car, and they'll cement us over."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "There are many roads to hate, but envy is one of the shortest."—Griff.

Comic Bernie Allen tells maestro Mike Dorso: "You'd better laugh at my jokes—after all, I laugh at your music." That's early, brother.

Hepatitis High in Walled Lake

A serious outbreak of infectious or viral hepatitis has been reported in the Walled Lake area, according to the Oakland County Department of Health.

The health agency said 15 per cent of the reported cases of infectious hepatitis, a liver-damaging disease, have come from Walled Lake, while this area contains less than one per cent of the population.

Fifteen cases, including 13 children 8-12 years of age, have been reported from Walled Lake. All of the children attended Walled Lake Elementary School.

Health officials classified the hepatitis outbreak as "serious, but not an epidemic."

COUNTY BEHIND

The county as a whole is running behind last year's total of 251 cases.

As of last Friday, 98 cases had been reported to the county. Six of these came from Pontiac, while seven were reported from Waterford Township.

The health department tested water samples from the Walled Lake victim's homes and from the school. The water was found safe.

Infectious or viral hepatitis, while seldom fatal, is a costly disease because the recuperative period runs 4-8 weeks, especially for adults.

This disease is an inflammation of the liver caused by a virus. It may be contracted through drinking water, food, or contaminated swimming water.

Dr. Bernard D. Berman, deputy director of the health department, stressed that protective measures were extremely important in the prevention of hepatitis.

"These can be accomplished," he said, "by a high standard of personal cleanliness and community sanitation."

WASH THOROUGHLY

Hands should be thoroughly washed after toilet use, before eating or preparing food, and dried on your own personal towel.

Dr. Berman said, "safe sewage disposal is essential, preerably by means of a public sewer or a septic tank in good operating condition."

Symptoms of infectious hepatitis include loss of appetite, nausea or vomiting, fever, muscle pains, abdominal distress, and sometimes jaundice.

Dr. Berman urged that the family physician be notified if the punishment was ordered by the Justice of the Peace Francis A. Castellucci when Winiarski ap-

Navy: 'No Hope for Sno' Boy or 40 Passengers'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A week-long search for the fishing vessel 'Sno' Boy and its 40 Jamaican passengers was abandoned Tuesday night. The Navy said there was no hope for survivors in the shark-infested waters.

The 'Sno' Boy, a 63-foot converted rescue ship skippered by Capt. Lawrie Tole, left Kingston, Jamaica, July 1, bound for the Pedro banks, about 80 miles to the south-west.

A few days later a wooden plank identified as the dining room table of the 'Sno' Boy was found floating in waters near the intended fishing site. A body was sighted Saturday but was not recovered because of sharks.

PASADENA, Texas. (UPI) — George Conway, 81, of Baytown, honeymooned today with his wife, a long-time grandmother who an electronic computer decided was meant for him.

Conway, a retired Methodist minister, met Mrs. Gladys Coover last spring through a computing machine operated by a Houston marriage broker.

After dating awhile, the couple decided the machine was right.

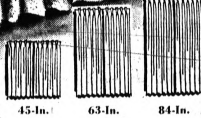

"We're both so happy," Conway said after the ceremony in Coover's Kiddie College, Mrs. Conway's nursery school.

Conway, a white-haired father of five, grandfather of 11; and great-grandfather of two, retired from an Indiana pulpit 20 years ago and moved to Texas.

They will spend a three-month honeymoon in Europe.

Nikita Meets Hungarian Mid Unity Talks

Another Attack From Peking Bolsters the Word of No Progress

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev met amid smiles with Hungarian Communist boss Janos Kadar in a Kremlin unity session today, while Chinese and Soviet negotiators ground through another day of grim discussions aimed at finding some solution to their ideological split.

The talks with the Chinese ended at twilight with no indication whether they would resume tomorrow or whether delegates would take another consultation recess.

A new attack on the Soviet party from Peking bolstered reports that the Soviet and Chinese negotiators were making little or no progress toward any significant improvement in relations between the two Communist giants.

Khrushchev returned from Kiev to greet the Hungarian premier and party leader and a large group of Hungarian party and government officials at the Kievsky railroad station. In contrast to the low-key reception for the Chinese negotiators last week, the Hungarians got the full treatment. Khrushchev's presence, a big crowd in front of the station, a live telecast of the arrival, a troop review and playing of the national anthems.

BACK WITH FATHER—After a night alone in a dense forest near Vanderbilt, 5-year-old Kai Benjamin is safe in the arms of his father, Royce Benjamin of 3623 Darcy, Bloomfield Township.

Kai, who wandered away from her brothers and sisters while on a hike Monday, was found 25 hours later by Ray Loshaw, a local hunter, and his dog Rusty.

Airport Plans Jet Runway

Construction to Begin When Funds Raised

Plans to construct a $5-million north-south runway suitable for intermediate-sized jet planes were revealed yesterday by Pontiac Municipal Airport Manager Homer Hoskins.

He told the county's Airport Zoning Board that construction would proceed just as soon as funds become available.

The Pontiac City Commission has yet to give the plan final approval.

Cost of the project would be shared by federal, state and local governments, he said.

Hoskins reiterated the Pontiac City Commission's request that the county assist the city in raising the necessary local share of the costs.

5,000 FEET
The proposed north-south runway would extend from the west end of Williams Lake to a point 5,000 feet north. An additional 2,500 feet would have to be kept clear at either end of the new runway, he added.

This means the present airport would be extended along the west side of Williams Lake to a point half-way up the side of the lake.

It would require clearing several homes and a school near Williams Lake, said Hoskins. He didn't yet know how many homes would be affected, he said.

The plans have been approved by the Federal Aviation Agency, according to Hoskins, and should be presented in final form to the City Commission within the next two or three weeks.

He said it would be known at that time how many homes would be affected.

ZONING CHANGES

Yesterday's meeting was called to keep the zoning board abreast of plans so that zoning changes can be made accordingly in Waterford Township.

Tot Weathers Woods With Little Difficulty

Five-year-old Kathleen "Kai" Benjamin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Benjamin of 3623 Darcy, Bloomfield Township, is apparently none the worse for her night in the woods of northern Michigan.

Kai was found by a hunting dog yesterday afternoon after a 25-hour search which began shortly after she wandered away to chase a grasshopper.

"How would you like to see your mother," the dog's owner, Ray Loshaw, 52, of nearby Van derbilt, asked the girl. Kai smiled and Loshaw took her back to her grandparents' cottage near Vanderbilt.

Kai spent a night in 36-degree temperatures clad only in a T-shirt, slacks and one tennis shoe. But, she told Loshaw she wasn't cold.

Loshaw's 8-year-old Irish setter, Rusty, helped him find the girl in an area already searched by some 150 National Guardsmen and volunteers. Loshaw said the area was very heavily wooded.

"I asked her if she heard anyone looking for her and she told me she was afraid of those things up above," Loshaw said. Army National Guard and state police helicopters had joined the search.

At the girl's grandparents' cottage, about a mile away, Mrs. Ann Benjamin, 29, was waiting with her other four children.

The girl's father, a Ford Motor Co. financial analyst, was in a state police car when he heard a radio broadcast that his daughter was found.

"I was crying too hard when I saw her to do anything but hold her in my arms," Benjamin said.

Dr. Louis Hayes of Gaylord, who stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin throughout the search, said Kai appeared to be unharmed except for some thorn scratches on her legs.

The search began Monday when two of Kai's brothers, Michael, 8, and Jeff, 9, returned to the cottage without Kai. The boys said they thought she had left them to return to the cottage.

Loshaw said the little blonde girl was lying on her back watching the sky when he found her. She was shaking but quiet, he said.

Busty is a well-known dog in Vanderbilt, a town of 500. The dog often bays in the fields by himself, residents said, and then goes to a nearby tavern to beg a ride back to Loshaw's gas station.

Highway Project Causes Dust

By JIM DYGERT

Dust in the eyes, dust in the nose, dust all over the car! Nothing but dust!

That's what summer means right now to a number of commuters southwest of Pontiac as road construction crews are busy tearing up Orchard Lake Road and Pontiac Trail from Sylvan Lake to Wixom. They're making way for a new and wider roadway.

James Boyd, district manager for the State Highway Department, "is dust."

"We're trying to get the contractors to keep the road watered down," Boyd said. "But the weather we've been having, with no rain, makes it hard."

Pontiac Trail's old pavement has disappeared both east and west of Walled Lake, as far as Haggerty Road on the east and all the way into Wixom on the west.

The last pieces of old pavement in Sylvan Lake were expected to be hauled off today. The road in Keego Harbor and in Orchard Lake as far as Commerce Road is already a four-lane span of dirt and dust.

"Relief is in sight, however."

Paving is expected to start soon, which will end the dust plague and permit some sections to be opened for one-lane traffic as paving is done one lane at a time.

Boyd says the same weather that's aggravated the dust problem has permitted construction to progress a little ahead of schedule.

Even so, the disruption will last the summer.

Completion date for the Sylvan Lake-Keego Harbor stretch is Oct. 31.

Road officials also hope to complete the rest of it by October.

The Walled Lake area work is expected to be ended by September.

When completed, the new roadway will stretch from Saginaw Street in Pontiac to the I-96 freeway in Wixom.

Work on the Pontiac portion will come later.

Also when completed, the state will discontinue its M216 designation and turn the road over to the county.

Total cost is more than $11 million.

MAIN ATTITUDE

The main attitude, despite problems, is that "people are glad to see the new road," community officials state.

Traffic is slowed to a crawl through Sylvan Lake and Keego Harbor. There's none at all on Pontiac Trail near Walled Lake and in Wixom.

HOW HIGH THE ROAD — Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams (second from right) yesterday visited Union Lake to view the difference in level between old Union Lake Road and the new roadway under construction, the issue in a court dispute between local businessmen and the County Road Commission. Measuring is road commission engineer Davir Burns, while Nerec Alix (right), engineer for the businessmen, looks on. Businessmen claim the planned new level of two feet lower will be unsafe for the public and harmful to it. Judge Adams set 9 a.m. tomorrow for a hearing on continuing an injunction that has halted construction.

Woman Tries to Intercept Greeks

British Police Halt Demonstrator

LONDON (AP) — The British Communist made a second attempt to intercept King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece today but police carried her off struggling violently.

Mrs. Betty Ambatielos, 45, who grabbed at the queen during her April visit to London, left a nearby coffee shop and ran into the road as the royal car approached Westminster Pier, across the street from the House of Parliament.

Police grabbed the woman immediately and hustled her through crowds of bystanders gathered behind police lines. She was released later.

The king and queen boarded a boat for a trip down the Thames to a luncheon given for them at the Guildhall by Lord Mayor Sir Ralph Perring.

Mrs. Ambatielos is demanding the release of her husband. Police kept her from approaching the royal procession Tuesday as the Greek visitors drove with Queen Elizabeth II from Victoria Railway Station to Buckingham Palace.

Mrs. Ambatielos apparently was alone and there were no other incidents among the hundreds of people who assembled to see the royal visitors.

Some 5,000 British police were back at battle stations today to protect the Greek royal couple after a night of bloody fighting between police and demonstrators in which 91 persons were arrested.

The main risk of further clashes was expected tonight, when the visitors were to attend a performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Aldwych Theater.

Police predicted it would be tough to keep demonstrators away from the theater, at a busy West End intersection, despite the tightest security ever imposed here in peacetime.

Police faced a fanatical hardcore of Communists, joined by anarchists, pacifists and nuclear disarmers—all determined to disrupt the Greek royal couple's four-day state visit.

The demonstrators are demanding the release of nearly 1,000 prisoners held since the postwar Communist uprising in Greece. The Greek government says they were convicted of such crimes as murder and treason and are not political prisoners as the demonstrators contend.

Bell and Union Okay Contract

Expect Improvements to Affect 750,000

DETROIT (AP) — Agreement on major contract improvements expected to affect 750,000 communications workers in the United States and Canada was reached yesterday between Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and the Communications Workers of America (CWA-CIO).

The 38-month contract provides wage, health, retirement and vacation improvements valued at 29 cents an hour for the average Michigan Bell worker and leaves the door open for further wage negotiations in 1964 and 1965.

Joseph A. Beirne, CWA president described the contract as "without precedent in collective bargaining in the communications industry," and said it is expected to set a pattern for negotiations with other Bell Telephone systems across the nation.

The cost of the agreement, which applies to 15,000 Michigan Bell employees, was estimated by the union at $21 million. If applied nationwide it would cost more than an estimated $411 million.

HAIR RESULTS

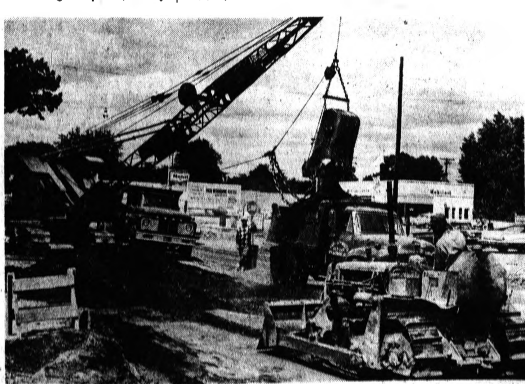

Beirne, who joined the union negotiating team over the weekend, described the results as "collective bargaining at its best."

David K. Eastlick, vice president in charge of personnel for Michigan Bell, declined to comment on the cost to the firm but said Michigan Bell regards the agreement as "an equitable contract for all parties concerned."

"It places us in a competitive position with other industries," Eastlick said. "We had a good fringe package before and we have a better one now."

Beirne described the contract as a pattern to be followed in the whole industry and added that he saw no reason why immediate settlement should not be reached in negotiations going on in 14 other cities between communications labor and management.

The CWA president said he felt that the fact that the contract affects 750,000 workers directly and some 2 million indirectly was precedent-setting in itself.

Orchard Lake Road Gets Face Lifting In Sylvan Lake

Wolfe said, the "unity of the railroads will not be broken."

He said a strike would be "so serious, and so devastating in its effects that it seems to be almost unthinkable."

"The President has said a strike would be intolerable," Wolfe said. "I agree with him."

ACCUSED RAILROADS

Roy E. Davidson, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, told news men the unions had given serious thought to the proposal. He accused the railroads of failing to produce any cooperation.

"Therefore, we are meeting with the President this afternoon," Davidson said. "The next move is up to the President."

Asked whether the strike will come off, Davidson said: "I don't know until I talk to the President."

The five operating unions based their rejection of the presidential plan on their traditional stand against arbitration of such disputes. They called it a matter of "deepest principle."

While the operating unions rejected the proposal, they told Kennedy they "most seriously join you in seeking some alternative method of settlement that will preserve the principles of free collective bargaining."

A management spokesman said it was reasonable to expect there would be a suggestion which might head off a strike.

Wolfe, told reporters that Kennedy "expects to contact us later today."

It was he who said it was reasonable to believe some further step was in contemplation which might avoid the scheduled walk-out.

Fair Weather Prevails Over Most of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Generally fair weather prevailed in the major part of the nation today but it was cool again in most areas from the Midwest into the Northeast.

Some of the cool air dipped southward, speeding through Tennessee into Arkansas. Temperatures were in the 50s and 60s, averaging 10 to 15 degrees lower than Tuesday morning.

Readings in the 50s were reported from the Great Lakes region eastward into the North Atlantic states and also along the Pacific Coast. Low marks included 43 in Peleton, Mich., and Bradford, Pa.

Hot spots were from the southern Plains westward through the far Southwest, with temperatures in the 80s and 90s. The 70s predominated in most other sections of the country. Highest reading at midnight was 96 in Blythe, Calif.

Board Meets on Statements

From Our News Wires

OXFORD, Miss. — A four-man committee of the Mississippi State College Board meets today to discuss whether to ask federal court permission to expel Negro James H. Meredith from the University of Mississippi because of his public statements.

The committee planned a closed session on the matter. There was little likelihood members would discuss the situation following their meeting on the Ole Miss campus.

There has been repeated rumors the board was under heavy pressure from segregationists and some Ole Miss alumni to try to prevent Meredith from becoming a graduate of the 114-year-old institution in August.

Gov. Ross Barnett, a graduate of the Ole Miss Law School who faces criminal contempt proceedings in the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans for his efforts to block Meredith's enrollment, said board members would determine if Meredith's recent statements concerning the murder of NAACP leader Medgar Evers violated a university directive against inflammatory remarks.

In other racial news: In Mobile, Ala., the Mobile city-county school board meets today to discuss Meredith's recent statements concerning the murder of NAACP leader Medgar Evers violated a university directive against inflammatory remarks.

Alabama is one of three states — South Carolina and Mississippi are the others — which have no school integration below college level.

Units of the University of Alabama were desegregated 14 months ago with the aid of federal troops.

In New York, white hecklers clashed with pickets from the Congress of Racial Equality last night near a Bronx drive, scene of racial disorders for four straight nights.

About 20 policemen, swinging nightsticks, broke up the scuffle.

Two white men, an electrician, 26, and a truck driver, 25, were arrested on assault charges. The truck driver was treated at a hospital for a cut on the forehead.

In Cambridge, Md., another mass march on the courthouse was promised by integrationists for tonight despite prospects of federal mediation and an attack on a demonstrator Tuesday night.

In Washington, President Kennedy yesterday continued his series of White House meetings with individuals in an attempt to speed voluntary desegregation.

He talked with a group of 300 women, urging them to work with black communities to end discriminatory practices.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, admittedly concerned that racial discrimination in America "does us deep injury abroad," is scheduled to go before senators today to press for enactment of a law of Peking's reported

President Kennedy's civil rights program.

● In Atlanta, Ga., Ku Klux Klan leaders are mapping a campaign of white resistance to the desegregation that includes many of the methods used by Negroes seeking equal rights in the racial struggle.

Georgia's grand dragon, Calvin Craig of Atlanta, said Tuesday he would not encourage violence.

"But I'm going to encourage self-protection," he said. "The white people have been trampled on — a man can't even operate his own business in an orderly manner."

● In Baltimore, Md., integration leaders postponed a march on an amusement park, where 300 have been arrested, following offers of mediation.

President Kennedy convened a National Security Council session Tuesday for a final review of the Harbinger's assignment to the Moscow talks, starting next Monday.

The top strategy group, expanded to include senior advisers on disarmament matters, met at the White House for less than an hour.

NO REPORT

It was understood that no detailed report would be received in Washington yet on Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak's meeting with Khrushchev in Kiev last Monday.

Washington strategists look to Spaak's account for some clues on what Khrushchev has in mind in advancing his vaguely worded twin proposal in a July 3 East Berlin speech.

Spaak, a former secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization who has favored a nonaggression pact between the NATO and Warsaw military alliances, told newsmen after seeing Khrushchev that he was confident East-West relations will improve.

U.S. authorities were split between hope and pessimism for the outcome of the Harbinger mission.

HOPE FOR DEAL

Hope stemmed from assessments that Khrushchev now wants to make a deal with the West because of his row with Red China and other difficulties.

Pessimists figure that the Khrushchev offer is a propaganda gambit in his latest "peaceful coexistence" offensive which will turn out to be as unacceptable to the West as past Soviet proposals.

In either case, Harbinger's visit is regarded as an important test of Kremlin intentions at a time of potential change in East-West relations. The possible scope of the Moscow meeting, originally scheduled to deal with a nuclear test ban, has been greatly broadened by Khrushchev's latest idea in the nonaggression pact.

Some believe this meeting could lead to a series of East-West pacts.

The Russians are finding it necessary to drag on their satellite leaders and public displays of solidarity with the Kremlin, as they did with the satellite meeting in East Berlin recently, and with the visit of Hungarian Communist chief Janos Kadar, at this particular moment, to Moscow.

White Lake Township supervisor, expressed concern over a possible noise problem created by jet planes.

Hoskins pointed out that several small, privately owned jets already use the field. He said the intermediate-sized jet planes a considerable noise problem likely emanating from several major airports where the huge four-engine jets fly.

He said commercial jet flights from here could take passengers to Cleveland and Chicago aboard two-engine jets of the Cessna or Boeing 727 class.

He said a study of passenger service from here, conducted at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, shows Oakland County residents are flying mostly south and west.

At present, North Central Airlines flies passengers from Pontiac Municipal only north and to Detroit Metro in the evening.

The latter flight is practically useless for airline service, and an average of only one passenger a day is headed north, said Hoskins.

He said this means that North

Central will be quitting operations here in the near future for lack of business.

Seater said Waterford Township was hiring planning consultants to rezone land use around the airport.

Both he and Chays said they would seek a noise pattern study, similar to one completed at Detroit Metro in Romulus Township, to determine the effect on surrounding property.

Hoskins also told the board of more immediate plans to speed the existing east-west runway 800 feet within present airport property and to install an instrument landing system (ILS) here.

The system will require the placing of landing lights on adjacent property across Airport and Williams Lake roads, he said.

This will mean acquiring several homes on the Airport Road side, he added. Again, he didn't know at this time how many homes would be affected.

The Williams Lake Road side would extend into open State Conservation Department land.

An ILS system here will improve instrument flying in case of bad weather. According to Hoskins, pilots presently are served by the Detroit Air Traffic Center for instrument flying here.

With ILS system at the airport, limitations would be reduced to 200-foot ceilings and a half-mile visibility.

Both ILS and a major north-south runway are needed for corporate flights by industry, said Hoskins. He said General Motors is considering leasing several of its planes here if the improvements are made.

NO REPORT

It was understood that no detailed report would be received in Washington yet on Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak's meeting with Khrushchev in Kiev last Monday.

Washington strategists look to Spaak's account for some clues on what Khrushchev has in mind in advancing his vaguely worded twin proposal in a July 3 East Berlin speech.

Spaak, a former secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization who has favored a nonaggression pact between the NATO and Warsaw military alliances, told newsmen after seeing Khrushchev that he was confident East-West relations will improve.

U.S. authorities were split between hope and pessimism for the outcome of the Harbinger mission.

HOPE FOR DEAL

Hope stemmed from assessments that Khrushchev now wants to make a deal with the West because of his row with Red China and other difficulties.

Pessimists figure that the Khrushchev offer is a propaganda gambit in his latest "peaceful coexistence" offensive which will turn out to be as unacceptable to the West as past Soviet proposals.

In either case, Harbinger's visit is regarded as an important test of Kremlin intentions at a time of potential change in East-West relations. The possible scope of the Moscow meeting, originally scheduled to deal with a nuclear test ban, has been greatly broadened by Khrushchev's latest idea in the nonaggression pact.

Some believe this meeting could lead to a series of East-West pacts.

The Russians are finding it necessary to drag on their satellite leaders and public displays of solidarity with the Kremlin, as they did with the satellite meeting in East Berlin recently, and with the visit of Hungarian Communist chief Janos Kadar, at this particular moment, to Moscow.

White Lake Township supervisor, expressed concern over a possible noise problem created by jet planes.

Hoskins pointed out that several small, privately owned jets already use the field. He said the intermediate-sized jet planes a considerable noise problem likely emanating from several major airports where the huge four-engine jets fly.

He said commercial jet flights from here could take passengers to Cleveland and Chicago aboard

two-engine jets of the Cessna or Boeing 727 class.

He said a study of passenger service from here, conducted at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, shows Oakland County residents are flying mostly south and west.

At present, North Central Airlines flies passengers from Pontiac Municipal only north and to Detroit Metro in the evening.

The latter flight is practically useless for airline service, and an average of only one passenger a day is headed north, said Hoskins.

He said this means that North

Central will be quitting operations here in the near future for lack of business.

Seater said Waterford Township was hiring planning consultants to rezone land use around the airport.

Both he and Chays said they would seek a noise pattern study, similar to one completed at Detroit Metro in Romulus Township, to determine the effect on surrounding property.

Hoskins also told the board of more immediate plans to speed the existing east-west runway 800 feet within present airport property and to install an instrument landing system (ILS) here.

The system will require the placing of landing lights on adjacent property across Airport and Williams Lake roads, he said.

This will mean acquiring several homes on the Airport Road side, he added. Again, he didn't know at this time how many homes would be affected.

The Williams Lake Road side would extend into open State Conservation Department land.

An ILS system here will improve instrument flying in case of bad weather. According to Hoskins, pilots presently are served by the Detroit Air Traffic Center for instrument flying here.

They are limited to flying when the ceiling is no lower than 500 feet and with a minimum visibility of one mile.

With ILS system at the airport, limitations would be reduced to 200-foot ceilings and a half-mile visibility.

Both ILS and a major north-south runway are needed for corporate flights by industry, said Hoskins. He said General Motors is considering leasing several of its planes here if the improvements are made.

Form Holds True at Waterloo

Form held true generally at the four-day horse show last weekend on the Waterloo Hunting Grounds near Jackson.

Many familiar names cropped up with the blue ribbons and various championships.

Heading the Oakland County contingent was a fine showing by Robert M. Lambert Jr., of Bloomfield Hills. Abroad Negnet, he took first places in the ASPCA Horsemanship Class, the Green Jumper Stakes and the Michigan Hunts Perpetual Challenge Trophy class.

The Bloomfield Open Hunt duo came in second behind another Hill rider, Chris Jones, in the Equitation Over Fences for 14-18 year olds.

Alison Cram of Birmingham, another standout rider, could only manage a first on Sonno in the Equitation Not to Jump event for 14-17 year olds.

Diminutive Molly Mason of Ann Arbor was the Equitation champion.

The Laughlin Place Farms and the Max Robson Stables of Battle Creek were the big winners in most classes at Jackson.

Other area winners were Betty Queen of Metamora aboard Here's Why in the Handy Working Hunter Class, and Larry Marientette of Grosse Pointe won the Equitation Not to Jump event for 15-year-olds and under.

Championships were picked off by Chongson St. Jayne's Desert Fox in the Open Jumper event and Commander in the Green Jumper classes.

National working hunter champion Navy Commander of Laughlin Place Farms of Niles repeated in his class. Cincinnati's Lin Yeiser rode Say When to the Conformation Hunter championship.

Weeds Plus Motors Equal Shoreline Mess

Combine the recent hot weather with the multitude of powerboats using Oakland County lakes and a problem for shoreline property owners is the result.

In fact, the problem has grown so great this summer that a first-rate kelp industry could be started in the area.

Shorelines in shallow lakes particularly, are literally being buried in weeds. Because the prevailing winds have been out of the southwest until this week, the north shores have been piling high with growth from the lake bottom.

Pontiac Lake is a prime example.

It is shallow, with plenty of thick weed beds. The growth reaches the top and is easily cut by propellers on the many powerboats using the lake.

The weeds float on the surface and are pushed toward shore by the wind.

During the Fourth of July weekend, state park workers at Pontiac Lake hauled an average of two stake truckloads away from the beach each morning.

The weeds drifted into the swimming area during the day, bothering swimmers and causing a problem along the sandy beach.

Although the concentration of floating weeds isn't as great, the deep lakes also have plenty reaching shore.

Why the heavy growth in recent years?

The theory most frequently expounded is that increased home construction around lakes has caused an increase of highly fertile material being filtered from septic tanks into the water.

While this filtered material is not harmful to humans, it has the same effect as spreading fertilizer on a lawn.

If no boats used the lakes, the weeds would be there, but few would ever reach shore.

But there are boats; with more appearing each year. And the high horsepower motors slice through weeds with ease.

This means weeds on the surface floating toward shore and creating a messy problem.

'63 Hunting Seasons Before Commission

Small game hunting and trapping regulations for 1964 will be considered by the Conservation Commission at its meeting Thursday and Friday in Houghton and Hancock.

Also scheduled for consideration will be proposals for the next session of the legislature, trawling regulations on northern Lake Michigan, a field trial area in Grand Traverse County, and several land matters involving acquisitions, exchanges and leases.

The first day's meeting, an informal session at which no official action is taken, will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Michigan Youth Memorial Union Building in Houghton. The formal meeting will be held in Hancock in the Superior National Park Building, at 9 a.m.

The meeting marks the first for newly appointed Commissioner Leonard W. Hooker of Houghton, who was named by Governor Romney June 27 to succeed Kenneth S. Lowe, Marquette, whose term expired in April.

Declines were reported elsewhere in the state's pheasant range, including the northern fringe counties of Gladwin, Mecosta, Muskegon, and Newaygo.

Rural mail carriers will again conduct surveys in late July and early August to measure pheasant production.

NEW LEADER—Gordon Bailey, 5132 Frankville, Clarkston, holds the 5-pound 12-ounce largemouth black bass he caught last Friday on Deer Lake. The fish is the new leader of The Pontiac Press Big Fish Derby's bass division. Bailey hooked the fish on a surface plug at 9 p.m. and 10 minutes later had it in the boat. He was fishing with spinning equipment and a 12-pound test line.

On River All Day

No Time for Fishing

GRAYLING — There's at least one good thing about being an Au Sable River trout guide, says Bernie Fowler. "If I want to take a day off and go fishing, it's real easy to do."

However, the 37-year-old Fowler says he has to keep pretty busy making a living. "Guiding alone won't do it," he says. "I have the same small resort on the river, he's a member of the local township board of supervisors, runs a snowplow route in the winter and guides hunters in the fall."

Begins is a husky, crew-cut father of three. He doesn't care any more, but at one time he was a top-notch canoe racer, winning the Au Sable marathon race in 1953, 1954 and 1955 when it was a straight-through, 240-mile race from Grayling to Oscoda. Bernie was a few other races and the main room of his combination home and lodge is loaded with trophies.

Bernie charges $18 for a six-takes them down the river in a longboat. In addition, the customer pays for picking up the boat and returning it to the starting point, a figure that varies with the length of the trip.

Fowler says he normally guides about 100 days out of a 120 day trout season, and that means eight or nine hours a day of guiding alone.

"By September you're awful glad to see that the season is over," Fowler said.

CATCH FISH

Generally, Bernie says, a fish-

Pheasant Crop Should Be Better in '63

Hunters this fall should find Michigan's pheasant crop generally improved over 1962 if the birds' nesting success holds up with normal years.

That's the early picture formed by the Conservation Department's annual ringneck crowing survey which points to an overall 10 percent increase in this spring's pheasant breeding population.

Water Tour Via Highway

Trip Along Coastline of Great Lakes

LANSING — If a vacationer wants to see lots of water in this water wonderland of Michigan, all he has to do is stick to the state's highways.

An increasingly popular tour is along the Great Lakes shoreline roads rimming both peninsulas. You have to start just above Toledo to drive the comparatively short stretch along Lake Erie. Then there is the grand water tour up the eastern shore of the state, nearly always in sight of Lake Huron, and down the western shore of the Lower Peninsula to explore one full side of Lake Michigan.

Those with the time and hankering for still more water can cross the Straits bridge into the Upper Peninsula for adventures along the southern shore of Lake Superior and additional sections of both Lakes Huron and Michigan.

There probably isn't a Michigan motorist who hasn't stopped at one of the many highway department roadside parks, freeway rest areas or picnic tables. There are now 104 roadside parks and 27 freeway rest areas—with eight more of the latter under construction—these in addition to the handy roadside picnic tables.

FIRST IN NATION

Michigan boasts that its highway department built the nation's first fully-equipped roadside park in 1933.

It is on U.S.16, four miles west of Williamston, Ingham County. It is located on the Red Cedar River, which also flows through the Michigan State University campus.

This is still a popular stop-off spot and fishermen often try their luck in the river.

This first park started the tradition of locating the parks on water whenever possible.

Of the more than 100 roadside parks, 25 are located on lake or stream frontage where boating, swimming and fishing are often available.

"About all you can do with them is fish slowly and help them out as much as you can. Generally, they won't catch too much."

"But I had one fellow catch a 16-inch trout and his limit the first day of fishing he ever did. He was just driving through Grayling and decided to go on a trip down the river," Fowler says.

Guiding has its hazards, such as getting popped by wind-blown or carelessly cast flies. But so does being a customer.

"I've had them fall out of the boat," Bernie says. "Sometimes they stand up and the anchor happens to catch or something and they walk right out into the river."

"I've always warned them about standing up."

Bernie started filling in as a guide during busy weekends, helped along by his brother-in-law, an established guide when Bernie started.

Dealer to Exhibit Experimental Vehicle

Nine Pontiac area automobile dealers are taking part in a three-day sports car show starting tomorrow at the Miracle Mile Shopping Center.

Some 48 cars are expected to be displayed, including the XP-700 Corvette, one of Chevrolet's latest experimental vehicles.

A contribution of Matthews-Hargreaves, Inc., 631 Oakland, the XP-700 was developed by the company to test design and safety ideas.

Included among the innovations are a transparent bubble top and a periscope-type rear vision mirror which provides an unobstructed view of the road behind.

Other local dealers displaying cars at the show are Lloyd Motors, Inc., 222 S. Saginaw; Deane Motor Sales Co., 290 S. Saginaw; John McCallister Ford, Inc., 630 Oakland; Oliver Motor Sales, Inc., 210 Orchard Lake; R & R Motors, Inc., 724 Oakland; Pontiac Retail Store, 65 M. Clemens; Spartan Dodge, Inc., 211 S. Saginaw; and Superior Ramblers, 550 Oakland.

Cosponsored by Miracle Mile and the Pontiac Automobile Dealers Association, the show is open from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. tomorrow, Friday and Saturday hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Grains Unsettled by Rail Strike Threat

CHICAGO (AP)—The threat of a rail strike unsettled the grain futures market somewhat in early dealings today on the board of trade.

After a steady to firm start, prices became narrowly mixed with transactions slow. Speculators seemed uncertain about the risk a shutdown might affect the market. There was some short covering, though, as a precautionary move and some liquidation of the same reason.

Analysts said large and late shipments probably would handle bookings already made for outward movement but that arrivals could be sharply curtailed. There was also a difference of trade opinion on the duration of a strike if it materializes. Some even doubted there would be one.

Business Notes

William J. Wottowa, of 6403 Alden, West Bloomfield Township, have seen to it that the short-term market is kept fairly tight. The New York Federal Reserve Bank notes that "the money market remained generally firm in June, continuing the firmer tone that developed in the latter half of May" and that "the trend of the money market became quite firm early in July."

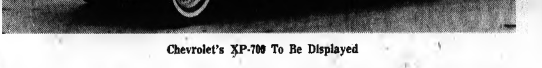

The stage is set, whether the discount rate is raised soon as expected or other methods of protecting the dollar are tried.

Finance Men May Tighten Nation's Credit

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK—Tightening credit in the midst of an abundance of money is the next trick that the nation's top money managers would like to try.

The idea would be to give those who have funds to lend for a few weeks or months a higher return than at present, but at the same time make it more expensive for you to buy on time or to finance a new home or for businessmen and local governments to handle their long-term borrowing needs.
