Summer registration begins March 17

Take advantage of Oakland University's new summer semester to get ahead in your studies. Students can register for summer classes beginning March 17.

Oakland's newly merged spring and summer semesters offer greater flexibility in scheduling and increased opportunities to complete required courses. Students can use the summer semester to take the popular core courses that fill up quickly during the fall semester.

Registration is by class standing and begins Monday, March 17. Graduate students can begin registering for summer classes on Monday, March 17; seniors and second degree students can also begin registering on March 17; juniors on Tuesday, March 18; sophomores on Wednesday, March 19; freshmen on Thursday, March 20; and special graduate, non-matriculated, post-bachelor and guest students can register on Friday, March 21. Registration is open until the day prior to the start of classes.

Summer classes begin Monday, May 5 at 7:30 a.m. While most courses fall into the two seven-week sessions previously offered during the spring and summer terms, a limited number of two-, four-, 10- and 14-week sessions will also be available. Check out the summer 2008 important dates for a complete calendar of summer classes.

Students register online using the SAIL system by going to the OU home page and clicking on SAIL.

Students who wish to register on site also may do so at 100 O'Dowd Hall during office hours, which are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Many students who enroll in summer classes are home for the summer from other universities. These students may be able to transfer credits they earn at OU back to their own institutions. To view classes available for the summer session visit the Schedule of Classes.

For more information, visit the Registrar's Office Web site or contact the office at (248) 370-3450 or registra@oakland.edu.
