10-Year Tests Show No Harm From Fluorides

Bartlett, Tex. Survey Results Are Reported by Team of Scientists

CHICAGO — Further evidence of the safety of fluorides in a water supply was reported today by the American Dental Association.

Public health scientists reported on a recently completed ten-year study at Bartlett, Tex., where the water supply contains eight times as much fluoride as are recommended for fluoridation. The investigators reported they selected Bartlett because it has one of the highest fluoride levels in the nation.

They reported that no adverse effects of any kind were found upon internal organs or bone structure from prolonged use of excessive fluorides.

Included in the investigation were 237 persons of all ages. Of the total, 116 were selected at random in Bartlett and 121 in Cameron, Tex., 25 miles away where the water is low in fluoride.

All had lived in their respective communities at least 15 years before the study was begun. Their ages ranged from 15 to 68 at the outset of the program.

In the study, residents of both towns were given thorough examinations, including physical and dental examinations, X-rays and blood and urine tests in 1945 and again in 1953.

At the end of the ten-year study, a comparison of the physical findings of residents in the two communities showed no significant differences in blood pressure, arthritis conditions, bones and bone fractures, tumors, cysts, thyroid or kidney disorders, or hearing.

The investigators also reported there were no significant differences in age-adjusted death rates in the two communities.

The incidence of diseases of the heart and blood vessels actually was higher in the fluoride-deficient town of Cameron, the investigators reported.

As was anticipated, mottled teeth were evident in Bartlett among individuals born and raised in the area of unusually high fluoride concentration.

This condition, known as dental fluorosis, is not apparent in communities with the desirable concentration of one part fluoride per million parts of water.

Fluoride Ballot Gets City OK

Pontiac residents next month will vote either "for" or "against" a proposed ordinance banning fluoridation of city water.

The City Commission last night approved the form of the ballot on which the proposal will be presented to voters April 4.

Last night's action followed certification of the minimum number signatures on petitions calling for a vote on the proposed measure.

Old Tomcat Just a Baby at Heart

RELAXING AT DAY'S END—Looking at him now you wouldn't think that Sneezy is the meanest, roughest, fightin' old tomcat on Annapolis Avenue in Dayton. But he is! However, after a tough day of backyard brawling Sneezy likes to relax in the arms of his mistress, eight-year-old Geri Jean O'Dell, and guzzle his milk from a doll-baby bottle... with nipple. In fact, he won't drink it any other way. Sneezy actually is old enough (five years) to stop this sort of thing, but Geri Jean thinks he's earned a little spoiling.

School Finance Plan Approved for April Vote

Proposal for Building Aid Goes on Ballot After Senate Okay

LANSING — Michigan residents will vote April 4 on a proposed constitutional amendment to permit borrowing for new school construction up to $100 million.

A measure to place the proposal on the spring ballot, previously approved by the House, went back to the Senate last night with minor changes and was quickly okayed.

The measure, introduced by Sen. William R. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak), is a constitutional amendment requiring approval of the voters. It would allow the state to issue 100 million dollars in bonds, the money to be loaned to needy school districts for school construction.

Under the plan, only those districts already levying at least 15 mills for debt service would be eligible for the loans. They would have to maintain the 15-mill levy until the state's loan was repaid.

The measure was pushed through the House Monday night by a 92-7 vote.

Several lawmakers argued the plan was unnecessary because of a recent decision of the State Supreme Court, which held that state equalized property valuations should be the basis for taxes instead of the lower county valuations.

The Senate last night also approved a resolution for another constitutional amendment, calling for a bipartisan board of canvassers. The House returned the measure with minor changes after passage Monday night.

Dr. Clair L. Taylor, state superintendent of public instruction, said he will conduct a campaign to sell the school financing plan to the voters before the spring election.

Pravda, Izvestia Delivery Halted by Postal Dept.

WASHINGTON (U.S. — The Post Office Department has stopped delivery of the Soviet publications Pravda and Izvestia to most U.S. subscribers.

Acting under a legal opinion from the Justice Department, postal officials have been confiscating and destroying copies of the two Soviet publications as part of a program aimed at choking off the flow of Communist propaganda into the United States.

The Justice Department advised the Post Office that in general it has the right to refuse to deliver publications that contain unauthorized foreign political propaganda.

Postal officials also said they are empowered by certain regulations to inspect all foreign mail other than first class. Most of the screening is being done at the ports of New York, New Orleans, San Francisco and Seattle.

More Snow Dumped on West Floods Strike in Midwest

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES
Melting snows and pounding rains combined today to send flood waters spilling over parts of Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia.

In the West, meanwhile, a new storm dumped 7 inches of snow on Helena, Mont., in six hours and forest rangers feared three Utah mountain lodges where 200 skiers have been snowbound since Friday.

The Eastern floods followed days of steady rains and unseasonably mild temperatures.

They hit hardest at West Virginia, where flood waters were receding after driving 200 persons from their homes and temporarily isolating the town of Logan.

There was a little cooling off from the eastern Great Lakes region southward across the Ohio Valley into northern parts of the Gulf states.

The biggest temperature drops were in the Ohio Valley, with readings early today in the 30s as compared to in the low 60s yesterday morning.

Rivers were still rising in Ohio and Pennsylvania, although serious damages was not expected.

The Ohio River was expected to reach a flood stage of 52 feet at Cincinnati, Ohio, and keep on rising. Meanwhile the river spilled into lowlands around Marietta, flooding a church basement and collapsing the foundations of a home.

At Pittsburgh, the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers were expected to crest at 23 feet and parking wharves were closed along the Monongahela.

Consumers Power Strike Ends in First 24 Hours

All Consumers Power Co. employees were reported back on the job in the utility's southeastern division today as Consumers workers all over the state returned to their stations after a 24-hour strike.

"Everything is completely normal," said E. L. Karkau, assistant division manager, interviewed here today.

Consumers employees were ordered by union leaders to report on their regular shifts under a truce pending a final settlement of their contract dispute.

The back-to-work order went out late last night and midnight crews reported on schedule.

No interruptions in the flow of gas or electricity to the approximately 2,200,000 Consumers Power customers in 64 lower Michigan counties were reported during the brief strike.

The CIO Utility Workers of America called the walkout at midnight Monday, ignoring state law calling for a 30-day waiting period while a fact-finding panel studies the dispute and makes recommendations.

The company-union contract expired Monday midnight. The union demanded a 15-cent an hour wage boost and other benefits. The company offered a 7-cent raise and said union demands would cost an additional 55 cents an hour to meet.

A company spokesman said hourly pay ranges from $1.70 to $2.50.

The strike was called off after a series of telephone calls (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Cloudy and Colder Is Weather Outlook

Partly cloudy and colder with a few snow flurries tonight and tomorrow is the weather outlook for Pontiac and vicinity.

The U.S. Weather Bureau says the mercury will drop to near 25 tonight and rise to a high of 30 to 34 degrees tomorrow. Tomorrow night will bring a low of 32, with continued cold with occasional light snow Friday.

In downtown Pontiac yesterday, temperatures changed very little throughout the day, ranging from 33 to 37. Sun broke through the clouds in the afternoon, following misty weather in the early morning.

Today at 8 a.m. the thermometer reading was 35 degrees, rising to 39 by 1 p.m.

Churchill Sees Power Balance With Reds by '59

Russians May Develop Diplomacy Based Upon Bomb Threats

WASHINGTON (U.S. — The United States has only about three to four years left to carry on the cold war with Russia from a position of overwhelming military might.

After 1959, the power relationship will become more nearly balanced. That will mean international political advantage for Russia.

Somewhere about that time, unless there have been profound changes in the Soviet state and its leadership, the Russians may develop a technique of diplomacy by ultimatum. They may attempt to take over border states merely by threatening hydrogen bomb destruction.

These points, particularly as to timing, stand out directly or by implication in British Prime Minister Churchill's statement to the House of Commons yesterday.

Churchill noted the boast last month by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov that Russia may have hydrogen bomb superiority over the United States. Actually, Churchill said, the United States is the only country now able to deliver an H-bomb attack "on a few hours notice." He added, however, that Russia in three or four years will have H-bomb power to cripple the West.

Churchill's comments about power relationships are borne out by the best information available here in official quarters.

Russia is still behind in the race. It is not enough to her to explode a thermonuclear bomb. To use it with military effectiveness, she must be able to deliver it under rigid conditions on a target. Officials say she is not now able to do that, and will not be able to for perhaps three or four years.

The conviction is that meanwhile the United States has the military power, including atomic weapons, to meet with reasonable confidence any Red challenge anywhere.

In general, this appraisal gives a faint significance to the last two years of the present Eisenhower (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Cambodian King Quits as Ruler

Steps Down in Favor of Father; No Reason Given for Move

PARIS (U.S. — The French News Agency reported today that King Norodom Sihanouk of the Indochinese state of Cambodia has abdicated.

The agency said the 33-year-old monarch stepped down from the throne of the 70,000-square-mile country in favor of his father, Prince Suramarit. The report did not give the reason.

The French Foreign Ministry said it had no information beyond the French News Agency account.

The report took Paris by surprise. Only a month ago the King had won an overwhelming vote of confidence in a plebiscite he called to reassert his national popularity.

He had ordered the vote to still an underground campaign claiming Cambodia's independence from France had been obtained not by Sihanouk but by Sen Ngouk, premier during the Japanese occupation and the leader of the chief opposition to the King.

Only last Monday U.S. Secretary of State Dulles called on Sihanouk in Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, during his tour of Southeast Asian capitals after the Bangkok SEATO conference.

Dulles' aides said later that he reported to the King on the SEATO talks and the monarch expressed satisfaction that his Buddhist country of 4½ million people would get immediate military and economic support from SEATO members if Communist aggressors attacked it.

Dulles himself described the King as a vigorous, outspoken young man in close touch with his people.

Organization Formed to Fight State Toll Roads

A group of about 100 persons met last night at Devon Gables to form the Citizens Protective Association of Michigan to "oppose construction of toll roads anywhere they may crop up in the state."

The assembly was made up mostly of Bloomfield Township and Franklin Village residents, but others came from as far as Flint.

Chairman Robert VanderKloof, of Bloomfield Township, said a small group began meeting about two months ago to oppose construction of the turnpike as proposed through residential areas and communities between Detroit and Pontiac.

The original aim was to prevent lowering of property values, he stated.

"But after study we concluded that toll roads will not do the job that roads are designed to do in Michigan. We're already moving people from one point to another in this area, we need to widen and improve existing routes."

Most traffic tie-ups occur at intersections, he asserted, and suggested that construction of grade separations would go far toward relieving present congestion.

"The need is not to move traffic in already populous areas, but to provide highways to areas which will be built up in the future."

A toll road, he stated, must be built through residential and city regions in order to get enough traffic to pay for itself. More freedom is possible in planning a freeway route, he added.

Robin Morton, of Bloomfield Township, treasurer of the group, said $1,200 has already been pledged by improvement associations and individuals to pay legal expenses and other group costs.

The association has hired attorneys to fight the toll roads anywhere in the state with injunctions and other legal means, said Morton.

Publicity director for the association, Raymond Darling, of Bloomfield Township, asked the group to write letters to state legislators backing a bill to repeal the toll road law introduced by state Sen. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak).

The bill is now being studied by the Senate Highway Committee, said Darling.

"Public sentiment will be one of the major factors in liking the toll road program," he declared. Speakers from the audience repeatedly criticized the Turnpike Authority's plan to issue $100,000,000 in revenue bonds to finance the 117-mile north-south route between Rockwood and Saginaw.

It would have to be discounted 3 to 5 per cent, said Darling, "which would cost the state $5 to $6 million dollars alone."

The group generally favored an increase in gas and weight taxes to finance a pay-as-you-go program of freeway construction.

Interest was shown by Bloomfield Township residents in the chances of incorporating their area. Incorporated areas with backing from their city or village council could prevent a toll road from coming through to intercept their streets, said VanderKloof.

How to Play Bonanzagram

You can solve the Bonanzagram by filling in all the missing letters, as indicated by the underscores, in the message below. Insert only one letter above each underscore. Many clues to the missing letters are hidden in the story, or anecdote accompanying the message.

Clues also may be found in the message itself, and, in some cases, your general knowledge may provide the correct letter. You will notice that the message is unpunctuated. Proper punctuation is one of the important keys to a correct solution.

When properly filled in, the Bonanzagram will spell out a clear message that will concern in every way with the clues.

In many cases it will seem that more than one word would be the correct one. That's part of the fun! You should weigh the clues and select the best possible word in each case.

Below is the sample, on which you can sharpen your wits for the first of the real puzzles to appear Monday, and each week thereafter.

THE STORY

The prison was well guarded and every means of exit was thought to be proof against even the cleverest plan of escape. But one warm evening the sirens began to blow. A prisoner had gotten clean away. The authorities found in his cell a crumpled sheet of paper from a diary. They deciphered the convict's scribbles and learned his plan too late. Can you decipher them too and discover his plans?

Answer to this sample Bonanzagram will appear tomorrow. Rules for entering the contest for the weekly cash award up to $150 will be published with the Bonanzagram Monday.

State May Keep Corporation Tax

House Republicans Eye Inclusion of Measure in New Program

LANSING (U)—Elements of Gov. Williams' corporation profits tax may be included in a new tax program now being drawn up in the House, Republicans said today.

Speaker Wade Van Valkenburg (R-Kalamazoo) announced following a Republican caucus yesterday that the business receipts tax, already approved in the Senate, would "definitely be extended" beyond its March 15 expiration date. "It seems to be the general feeling that we had better face the issue and set up a sound basis for state finances," Van Valkenburg said.

Republicans in the House have agreed an extension of the 20-million-dollar a year business receipts tax is necessary, he said, but have not decided how long it should be extended.

As passed by the Senate, the tax would run indefinitely. Van Valkenburg said House Republicans want to extend it as a stop-gap measure until a new "combination tax" can be developed. This new tax, he said, would include "certain elements" of the business receipts tax, the corporation profits tax and the corporations franchise tax. Van Valkenburg would not elaborate on what features of the corporation profits tax would be accepted by Republicans. "Those details will have to be worked out by the taxation committee," he said. Although no cut-off date for the business receipts tax has yet been agreed upon in the House, Van Valkenburg said the date most favored is Dec. 31, 1955.

Style Show
Gives Hint
of SpringBusiness Women
Sponsor Affair at High School

By JUDITH L. CLEMENTE

Fashions taken from the show-rooms of Arthur's Store for the style show sponsored Tuesday evening reflect the emphasis of the season—the rounded, higher bosom, and the lower hipline which is achieved through a long torso and a slim waist.

Tipac Chapter of the American Business Women's Assn. sponsored the showing held in Pontiac High School Auditorium.

The show began with fashions featured from the newly redecorated young folks' shop. Proving that children are never too young to be in fashion, styles shown reflected the good taste of the elder generation.

Little girls sported dresses and coats with back interest, with a modified longer torso, and they wore many petticoats.

Junior came out in a combination of pink and charcoal, just like he'll find dad doing this year.

Coats shown by Arthur's prove that the box coat is still the favorite. In the fitted coat there is a general slimming down, and fabrics still rate notice. Beautiful, washable colors were favorites with the audience as were the mixtures of silk and wool, and silk and worsted.

The costume dress has really come into its own. Whether the coats are in full length, three-quarter length or with short or belted jackets, they draw applause from women.

The fabric story cannot be overlooked when checking into this spring's dresses. There is a choice of pure silks, shantung, tie-silks, silk surah, and blends of rayon and acetate—and the ever popular cottons which have the look of silk.

The long torso is important with its new hipline interest. Skirts are slim, flared, gored or shirred. The newness of the necklines is appealing with its away from the throat effects.

Navy is still the important color in both coats and dresses, but there are touches of white, white pique and white lace in many of the costumes.

Suits in this collection have narrower shoulders with a lowered and eased waistline. Skirts are slim and straight.

Many imported fabrics were used including ruff and tweedy fabrics.

To complete the picture Arthur's showed hats designed to flatter the face. Full brimmed hats, pill boxes and off-the-face hats in beautiful colors and fabrics will do much to complement suits and dresses this spring.

Shoes, handbags and gloves in matching and contrasting colors proved that the "complete" look is the important look for spring.

Mrs. Dorothy Brooks, president of the group, introduced James Rosenthal who spoke briefly. Betty Roberts was commentator.
