CORKER RESIGNS

John Corker, Director of the Oakland Center and Student Residences, resigned this week. Mr. Corker's resignation will become effective June 15th. When asked about his resignation, Mr. Corker made these comments,—"I leave Oakland with regrets. I have enjoyed working with the students and staff here."

Mr. Corker said that his position, with the coming of the new deans, is being decreased prestige. He could have stayed on but he feels that there is no future for him at Oakland. As of July 1st, Mr. Corker will accept the position of Assistant Union Director of Illini Student Union at the University of Illinois.

We of Fitz Bitz would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Corker for the tremendous job he has done not only as the Director of Oakland Center, but of the Dorms too.

Thanks and Good Luck John!

DORM COUNCIL NEWS*

The Dorm Council is moving at a fast and steady pace. The Council is working on many projects and has set up many committees. Tom Tobias has been made the Head of the Food Service Committee and is looking into ways of improving the service. Have any complaints or suggestions?— See Tom. (Room 119 Fitz.)

The Council is also planning on attending a dormitory conference (Macurk Conference) in Manhattan, Kansas-August 29th through September 1st.

A SECULAR EDITORIAL

This article just wishes to express the unbounded ethereal, ecstatic, emotional pleasures that the students at Oakland receive from the periodical visits of that quaint little group known as high school pupils. The administration has absolutely no idea how much we Bastillians appreciate giving up our regular mess hall, our pastoral isolation, our meaningless privacy, and our clothing apathy to these dear little bourgeois suburbanites. Why, just every time we see this cloud of madras-English Leather-whitel levis-cranberry-culottes-parkas-college sweatshirts-fuel injected beings descend upon us we go wild with anticipation and psychotic anxiety. People of Oakland, arise, and show the adminies. (short for administration) just how much we appreciate these cheerful visits of our social siblings.

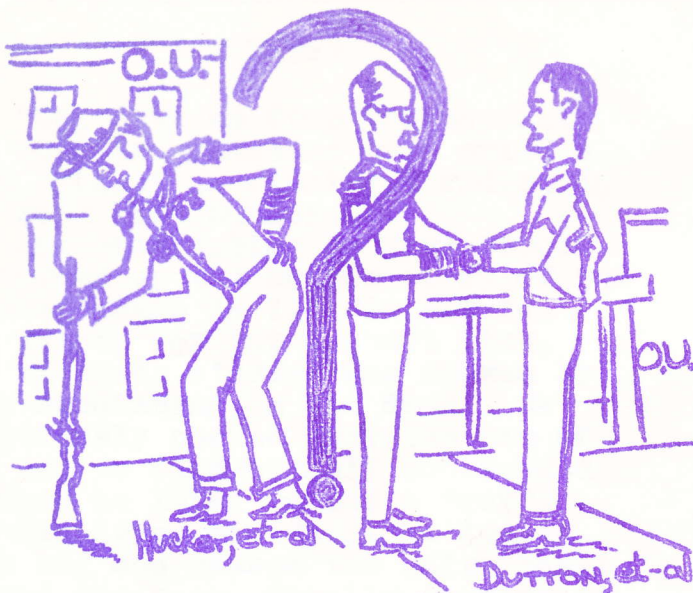

The inquiring reader may wonder why we at Oakland adore these visits so much. Well, lovely reader, it is because the parents of these high schoolers are our idols. We want to become like them in every way from the top of their neat, trimmed heads down to their smart-looking Corfam shoes. And to go along with our hi-level houses, our fiber-glass cabin cruisers, and our new Pontiacs we can have kids just like the ones who come on their campus now.

Signed,

J.W.H.

THE CHANGING OF THE GUARD

Inquiring Reporter

This past week your Inquiring Reporter conducted the poll to end all polls. A sampling of 16 Fitzgerald Residents was made (except that the number of people asked is too small to have much significance.) Two questions were asked, both of which were abiguous and prove nothing. The results, however, take up space and are as follows.

Question 1.) "Was Oakland your first choice of schools?"

Results: Yes-8, No-7, uncertain-1.

Question 2.) --asked only if the reply to one was negative: "Where you rejected by another school before deciding to come here?"

Results: Yes-2, No-5.

The only meaningful conclusion is that the Admission Office's propaganda job is working decently.

DID YOU KNOW that at least 18 million persons in the United States have quit smoking cigarettes.

N DINKLEBERRY T ADVICE

Dear Nita,

I have been going steady with this boy for four months. He is nice but always talks about other girls, and how he used to like them or how he might like them. I try to be understanding, but suddenly I find myself losing interest in him.

Do you have any good way I can shake this boy slowly? Nita, please tell me what to do.

Inbetween

Dear Immy,

Shaking a steady slowly isn't honest. It is like dangling food just out of your dog's reach and then finally tossing it to another dog.

Tell this boy you are going to give one of those other lucky girls a break, for a change--because you need one!

FACES BRACES

Dear Nita,

I'm 20 and must get braces. I wish it had been done long ago, but that's like wishing tooth paste back in the tube.

Anyway, I am worried that if I get braces they will effect my dating. I'm not going with anyone special now, but will anyone special want to go with me when I get my metal-mouth?

All mouth

Dear Mouthy:

Hony you are absolutly misguided. Contrary to the opinion of a lot of girl boys don't base datability entirely on appearance performance has a lot to do with it also. So don't be self-conscious and keep cool.

RATS?

"Oh, save me from the horrible rat that is attacking me!" cried a dorm student on finding a rodent in his room last Sunday.

Further probing by your reporter turned up the entire story of the monster scare in 118 Fitzgerald.

Asleep for but a short time, one fearless student was awoken by some scratching on his desk. He dauntlessly peered over the top of his bed to find himself confronted by what he later termed a "rat".

Realizing his duty, he leaped from bed and chased the hairy beast around the room, finally chasing it out the door.

"Bravery such as this", I thought, "deserves a column in the newspaper." I followed his conversation closely.

"How big was he?" someone asked our friend.

"Er . . . He was brown." came the reply.

Needless to say, it seems that the "rat" was a very small mouse who was slightly more scared of the "hairy beast" chasing him.

IDOL WORSHIP

by Nezzie Kicapoux

Oh wonderful Goddess
With beauty sublime
The Venus de Milo
Of our own time,

Your gaze so piercing
You seem to strive
To make us think
You're really alive.

You always smile,
Almost never frown,
You lift our spirits
When our hearts are down.

You know our wants
And driving needs,
You give us inspiration
To do good deeds.

You're like a conscience,
But a Mother? Never!
Like a girl friend?
But "Nay", still better.

When late we come in
You're never mad.
You never spank us
When we've been bad.

You're like the Star
From way Above
That guides our lives
to Christ and Love.

I pray to God
And Hugh Hefner too,
That next month's Playmate
Will be like you.
