they appropriated $340,943,822 in state general funds to finance state government activities in the fiscal year starting July 1.

beyond those foreseen by some legislative financial experts.

The new taxes, earmarked for schools, were a four per cent excise levy on whisky, figured to bring in $7,400,000 a year, and a two cents a pack increase in the state cigarette tax.

Link Youth, 13, to Knife Attacks

Boy Who Stabbed Wife of Detroit Doctor Admits Slashing Girl, 17

DETROIT (INS) — A star high school athlete and honor student was to undergo further questioning by Detroit police today after the youth admitted stabbing a doctor's wife and a 17-year-old girl.

Police said they also linked 13-year-old Robert Klucha to knife attacks on three other women.

ADMITTS STABBINGS

According to detectives, young Klucha admitted stabbing Mrs. Bredau, 35, mother of three and wife of Dr. Frank N. Bredau Jr., senior resident surgeon at Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital.

Mrs. Bredau was reported in fair condition in Mt. Carmel Mercy with a knife wound that collapsed her left lung.

Police said Robert stabbed the woman in her bedroom Saturday and was arrested an hour later.

ATTACKS GIRL

The boy, a husky, handsome lad also admitted stabbing Mary Saputo, 17, of Detroit. After this attack on Feb. 2, Robert left the girl helpless and seriously wounded in the street near 5890 Dickerson.

Detective Charles M. Vandenberg of the youth bureau said there was evidence that Robert, a "model" youth, was linked to attacks on three other women. Two of the victims, he said, "tentatively, positively," identified Robert as their assailant.

Vandenberg identified the attack victims as Eva M. Kushner, 25, and Helen Harbart, 21. Police were unable to locate the other victim, 24-year-old Lorraine Molanien.

Gunlock — An Action-Packed Western Novel

Chapter I

I saw Joe Pardee die. It was like . . . But how can I tell what it was like? No man can tell how it would be if a great mountain disappeared within a few seconds, or if the sun that was in the sky one minute was not there the next. Joe had been that kind of man to me as long as I'd known him. I remember that last morning well, even little details that are not important.

When I left the bunkhouse, the sun was just coming up over the Cedar Hills to the east, the sky as blue as I had ever seen it. I washed in the cold water flowing out of the pipe into the horse trough, so cold that, even in early September, it shocked me awake.

I ran a wet hand through my hair, looked at the dark shadows that clung to the Cedar Hills, and then, turning, stared across Easter Valley to the Sangre de Cristo range that pricked the sky with granite peaks.

I was still standing there when Gene Dillingham, Joe's other rider, came out of the bunkhouse. He said, "Dreaming again, Will?"

"Guess so," I said.

He sloshed water on his face, shook his head, and muttered, "Must be Joe in that spring." Then he looked at me. He had been on the Box P longer than I had. He was thirty-five, a big man who could ride anything and who had more cow savvy than anyone else I knew, virtues which were balanced by a sullen disposition and a mulish stubbornness that made him hard to get along with.

He and I both idolized Joe, but that was about all we had in common. He hated Joe's wife, Sarah, and claimed she was a drag on him because she was confined to a wheel chair by a back injury from a riding accident. It was a stupid reason for hating her, because nothing could be a drag on Joe. He did what he had to do regardless of anyone else's opinion or feelings, even his wife's.

Gene stared at me for a long moment, then wiped a sleeve across his face. "Good day for dying," he said, and swung around and strode toward the kitchen.

I followed him, thinking how like him those words were. It pleased him to see men die in front of Joe Pardee's gun. There had been many, right back to the year Joe had built a cabin on the East Fork of Easter Creek and started the Box P.

Today it would be another man, a young fellow named Al Beam. Maybe Beam hoped to cut a new notch on his gun; or maybe he had been hired by that raggle-taggle bunch of farmers camped in the cottonwood grove just above Carlton.

Sarah turned her face away as Joe stooped to kiss her. "You go ahead with this thing you're planning and I'll leave you," she had said.

Joe was already seated at the table when Gene and I pulled back our chairs and sat down. He nodded and we nodded back, and he kept on eating. Maria, the Pardees' Mexican housekeeper, brought the coffeepot and filled our cups, plodded back to the stove, and returned with a platter of bacon and flapjacks.

A moment later Dogbone, the Ute kid who did the chores, slipped in and sat down and began to eat. He was eighteen, squat, heavy-featured and greasy-faced. He'd worked here since he was fourteen, and he had developed the same blind devotion to Sarah that Dillingham had for Joe.

Sarah did not come to the table for breakfast. She seldom did, although she had made a habit of eating supper with us. I thought she would be here this morning because she knew about Al Beam.

When we were done, Joe rose and wiped the back of a hand across his mouth.

"Saddle up for me, Dogbone," he said. "Wait a minute, Will."

The boy went out with Willingham. I waited, looking at Joe. He was forty-one last birthday, taller even than Gene Dillingham, but not as heavy. With his long bones, long muscles, and thin, dark face, Joe Pardee had been born with a perpetual-motion motor inside that kept driving him from sunup to sundown. It was his gun that had kept Easter Valley open range for the dozen ranches that were here. He never asked for advice; he never listened if anyone offered it.

I think it was this hard, one-direction drive more than anything else that had widened the gap between him and Sarah until the fire of their marriage had sputtered out so that now not even a spark of love remained.

I stood there, waiting for Joe to speak.

Finally he asked, "What have you heard about this fellow Beam?"

"Nothing," I said. "He's just a drifter, I guess."

City Teamster Probe Still On

14 Members Claim to Senate Investigators Union Dues Mishandled

The controversial affairs of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614 are still "under consideration" by the Senate committee investigating irregularities in the labor-management field, it was learned today.

In March, a Detroit attorney, Louis W. Snyder, representing a 14-member group of local Teamsters, asked that a probe be made here.

The members sought an investigation into more than one million dollars in union dues they said were misused under the trusteeship reign of James E. Hoffa.

Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel for the Senate committee, has confirmed that "the matter is under consideration by the committee."

With the Washington spotlight likely to turn to Pontiac, 614 "acting president" Leann Harrelson has insisted that his local "is the cleanest run local in the state." He said he would welcome an investigation.

Williams in Washington

WASHINGTON (INS) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams arrived in Washington today reportedly to urge Army Secretary Wilber Brucker to award the contract to build M48 tanks to the Chrysler Tank Arsenal in Detroit.

One report said the tanks may be built in Delaware. The governor said he could see politics behind this move. Williams said the contract would mean jobs for the next two years for about 1,200 or 1,500 Detroiters.

21 Others Die Over Weekend Across State

2 Rochester Children Killed in Collision in Georgia

Six Oakland County residents, including a 25-month-old boy in Pontiac, were killed in weekend traffic accidents.

Michigan recorded 16 other traffic fatalities, and five persons drowned, as winter-weary residents turned to the highways and parks in large numbers.

Dead are:

Albert Byron Bigelow Sr., 48, of 558 Oakland Ave.
Bennie Thomas Powell Jr., 25 months, 74 Close St.
Robert D. Meyer, 23, of 2800 Pine Lake Rd., Orchard Lake.
George Harold Feldmann, 23, of 2555 Arlis St., Walled Lake.
Kay Judith Van Saw, of 4970 Winkler Mill Rd., Rochester.
Gary Thomas Van Saw, 15, same address.

Bigelow was killed when his car collided head-on with a wrecker on M-59 about 100 feet east of Woodstock avenue, Waterford Township, at about 5:40 p.m. Saturday.

Anthony Grassi, 39, of 27 Edna St., the driver of the wrecker, said the front wheel brakes locked causing the truck to pull out over the center line.

Also injured in Bigelow's car were: Rose Marie Bigelow, 23; Margaret Bigelow, 1½; and Rose Marie Bigelow, 2½; all of Grand Rapids. They are at Pontiac General Hospital in satisfactory condition.

Bigelow was dead on arrival at the hospital.

Bennie Powell, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie E. Powell, died early this morning at Pontiac General Hospital, twelve hours after he was struck by an auto in front of his home.

Driver Richard L. Beamer, 23, of 68 Florence St., told police he saw the child standing on the curb. The boy ran across the street and into his auto, he said.

He was the first Pontiac traffic fatality in seven months.

Meyer was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital after his car struck a tree on W. Long Lake Road near Shallowbrook road, in Bloomfield Township, shortly before 9 p.m. Saturday.

Witness said he attempted to pass a car, then lost control of his car, hitting the tree.

Feldmann was killed when his car skidded and hit another head-on on Union Lake road at (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Building Code May Be Altered

Waterford Board to Eye Change When Members Meet Tonight

When the Waterford Township Board meets at 7:30 tonight, they will discuss a change in the building code ordinance regarding footings, foundations and rat walls for garages.

At 9 p.m., engineers and lawyers will meet with the board and discuss the transfer of Joe Mancinelli's contract with the township to the S. Weissman Excavating Co., of Detroit.

Mancinelli is unable to complete the contract with Waterford Township to construct a sewer in Sylvan Shores subdivision, near Voorheis road.

He started construction last fall and the township board gave him an extension in January to continue until May 31 due to adverse weather conditions.

The board also will discuss the possibility of constructing a building to house all township-owned cemetery equipment. It would be located in Crescent Hills Cemetery, on Hatchery road.

The equipment is now stored in various places all through the township, according to James Seeterlin, clerk.

Pontiac Woman Suffers Possible Neck Fracture

Mary Campbell, 38, of 334 S. Blvd., received a possible neck fracture Saturday night while she was riding in an auto involved in an accident at Rockwell street near Bagley street.

The woman was a passenger in an auto driven by John Abraham Jr., 33, of 22 Deland Ct., according to Pontiac police.

She was in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital today.

Police report Abraham, who was arrested for drunk and disorderly conduct, was driving west on Rockwell street when his auto first struck a parked car on the north side and then another on the south side of the street.

U.N. Scolds Russians

By E. H. SIMS

Is it true that hailstones sometimes get as big as oranges? What makes big hailstones and why do they fall during a thunderstorm? The answer to the first question is that hail does sometimes get as large as an orange, or larger. Many of the so-called tall tales one hears about big hailstones are probably closer to the truth than the listener realizes.

Hail is usually formed in thunderheads because these storm clouds contain very strong up-drafts and down-drafts. Rain droplets begin to fall, are caught by an up-draft and suddenly carried to an altitude where the temperature is below freezing. The rain droplets freeze into hail.

They fall again, picking up moisture as they reenter the rain area, but are sent aloft by another up-draft, where the moisture added since the first freeze is frozen to the center core. The process of fall and ascent is sometimes carried on several times, the hailstones growing larger with each trip upward.

The stronger the up-drafts in the thunderhead, the larger hail is likely to be, since strong winds are required to lift or cut "layers" of ice from core to outer shell.

Sergeant Regrets Setting Off Riots by Taipei Crowds

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Robert Reynolds, the Army master sergeant whose shooting of a Formosan "peeping tom" started a train of events that wrecked the U.S. Embassy in Taipei, was back in America today, enjoying the obscurity of a tourist.

Reynolds, 42, arrived yesterday with his wife, Clara, 37, and his 7-year-old daughter, Shirley.

"I'm sorry for what happened," he said in a terse prepared statement. "I was only doing what any man would do to protect his home and family."

Reynolds shot and killed a Chinese he caught watching his wife take a shower. The sergeant from Colorado, Md., was court-martialed and acquitted of manslaughter. Formosan crowds demonstrating before the U. S. Embassy in protest got out of control and wrecked both it and the U. S. Information Service building in Taipei.

Reynolds said on arriving here on a military air transport plane that he was beginning 30 days leave before reporting for duty at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Also dead from miscellaneous weekend accidents were: Sharon Kozart, 12, of Hamtramck, who died Saturday of burns suffered Friday night when her dress caught on fire; and Mrs. Juliet Belander, 56, of Grosse Pointe, who died of injuries suffered Sunday when she tripped over toys in her living room and struck her head.

Stassen Unveils Arms Cut Plan

Outlines U.S. Proposal to Western Delegates in London

LONDON (INS)—Harold Stassen outlined the new U.S. proposal for limited disarmament today in a 75-minute meeting with British, French and Canadian delegates.

The special disarmament adviser who returned to London from Washington conferred with his western allies before the mid-afternoon session with the Soviet Union in the U.N. disarmament subcommittee.

The separate talks were at the British foreign office.

He said further consultations with the western members of the subcommittee would be necessary before presenting the American proposals in the resumed U.N. meeting, where he was scheduled to make a short general statement on America's current appraisal of the disarmament situation.

One newspaper reported a new Russian move that might torpedo the new disarmament plan, but the official opinion expressed publicly on both sides was cautiously optimistic.

India Ponders Rossellini Visa Extension

NEW DELHI (AP)—A spokesman for India's Home Ministry said today the government is deliberating whether to extend the expired visa of Roberto Rossellini in view of reports linking the Italian movie producer romantically with a pretty Bengali script-writer.

She is married and the mother of two children. Her husband is said to have complained that Rossellini's presence in India is threatening to break up the marriage.

The spokesman said the ministry is conferring with Bombay officials because the scriptwriter, Mrs. Sonali Das Gupta, lives in the city of Bombay. She occupies a room in the Taj Mahal Hotel near the one occupied by Rossellini.

Ministry officials were checking also with West Bengal officials because Hari Das Gupta, husband of the Indian woman, is working in Calcutta.

Rossellini has been making documentary films in India since his arrival last December. He is under contract with the government to produce them. Semiofficial sources in Bombay said the government had ordered a temporary suspension of work on the films. The word in New Delhi was that Home Ministry officials were taking up the subject with the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, under which Rossellini has been working.

Beck Decides He Won't Run

Announcement Hailed as Victory for Cleanup Forces in Teamsters

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cleanup forces within the giant Teamsters Union have won a victory with Dave Beck's announcement he will not run for another term as its president.

Beck gave out word of his decision late Saturday, even as his opponents in the union leadership were setting in motion a drive aimed at forcing his ouster.

WIFE'S HEALTH
However, Beck, who has been charged by Senate rackets investigators with misusing more than $320,000 in Teamster funds, attributed his decision largely to his wife's health.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Rackets Committee hailed Beck's move as a "very progressive step toward the cleanup of conditions in the Teamsters Union." But he said Beck should have quit outright.

Teamsters Vice President James R. Hoffa was viewed today as probable king or kingmaker in the union if he escapes a bribery indictment unscathed.

HOLDS ALLEGIANCE
The aggressive leader of the Teamsters Midwest Conference was reliably reported to hold the allegiance of a substantial majority of the likely delegates to the union's convention in Miami next September.

The Eisenhower administration broadened its proposals for protection of labor welfare-pension funds today to cover all funds and to provide criminal penalties for stealing from them.

The broad new bill was presented to a Senate Labor subcommittee by Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

World Disarmament Main Topic

Adenauer, Dulles Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany begins formal talks with Secretary of State Dulles today to follow up his man-to-man conference yesterday with President Eisenhower.

World disarmament will probably figure as the main topic during his three-day stay.

Eisenhower and Dulles want to assure Adenauer that his government's views will be fully taken into account in any East-West disarmament plan.

Eisenhower, dressed in sports clothes, and Adenauer, in a conservative black suit, reviewed East-West problems informally at the President's Gettysburg farm yesterday.

Despite official secrecy, it was reported the Eisenhower-Adenauer talks would cover a seven-point agenda which includes: disarmament, German reunification, an assessment of Soviet policy, the pace of German rearmament, moves toward European political and economic unity, the Middle East, and Western European trade with Red China.

Nearly a dozen top German foreign policy experts led by Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano joined Adenauer in Washington yesterday.

Partly because of the approaching German elections, American officials from Eisenhower down were eager to demonstrate the confidence and trust they place in the 51-year-old German leader.

A ringing American reaffirmation of the policy of seeking German unity can be expected in the final communiqué summing up the talks.

In Wake of Riots by Chinese
TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Uneasiness persisted in Taipei's American colony today despite outward appearance of calm.

Normal life was shattered in the wake of Friday's anti-American riots. Many persons feared that only the continued presence of Nationalist troops prevented a fresh outbreak.

In addition to Taipei, four other Formosan cities where Americans live have now been put under martial law. They are Taichung, Tainan, Chiayi and the port city of Keelung.

The English-language China News condemned the riots as uncivilized and disgraceful to the House GOP Members Plan Last-Ditch Fight Against Fund Slash

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican leaders mapped a last-minute campaign today to restore a portion of the 2½ billion dollars the House Appropriations Committee cut from next year's defense funds.

Rep. Martin (Mass.), the GOP leader, summoned members of his party's Policy Committee to determine how much of the money they would fight to restore.

The House today tackled details of the $3,541,225,000 measure — $2,586,775,000 less than President Eisenhower had asked.

Sentiment expressed during the first day of debate Friday had indicated the House would make few, if any, changes in the allotments recommended by its Appropriations Committee.

But Martin said he wanted the Policy Committee to know "the full extent of the damage" he said would be done by what he called "shocking" cuts in the budget figures.

State OKs Taxes on Tobacco, Alcohol affirmative accomplishments stood out as important.

With Republican domination of both branches up against Democratic executive control, there was more killing of bills—mostly in the quiet of committee rooms—than there was passing of them.

GOT NOWHERE
Most of Gov. Williams' proposals got nowhere, including a corporation profits tax and a recommended 411 million dollar spending program.

The lawmakers voted themselves pensions, jumped hunting and fishing license fees two and one half million dollars and voted a $2 annual admission fee for state parks that Gov. Williams was expected to veto.

On the other hand, proposals were killed for a rise in the state sales tax, a corporation profits tax, minimum salaries for teachers, a $1.25 minimum wage law, county sale of automobile license plates and compulsory safety inspection of motor vehicles.

In the late session, some House members had time on their hands and nowhere to go.

Bored and tired they turned to other pursuits.

Some read, some slept with their heads on their desks and some played cards in adjoining committee rooms.

Rep. Homer Arnett, freshman Republican from Kalamazoo, led his wife, a former music teacher, to the piano at the front of the chamber.

LAWMAKERS SING
While she played, lawmakers joined in singing old standbys like "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

Rep. Walter Nakula (R-Gladwin), a former professional entertainer, lent his hearty baritone to the singing, then sat down to play honky-tonk duets with Mrs. Arnett. Visitors in the gallery applauded.

At 7 p.m., big boxes of hamburgers were brought in. They disappeared in a flash.

It was nearly three hours later when Van Peursem called the House to order.

VOTE IN TAX
To the relief of the Republican leadership, all but Reps. George W. Sallade of Ann Arbor and Wilard I. Bowerman of Lansing of the GOP insurgents went along with the majority and voted in the liquor and cigarette tax.

The action broke the logjam and the House moved on to a speedy adjournment. A happy cheer went up, and a firecracker or two popped in the capitol rotunda when Van Peursem slammed down his gavel at 11:30 p.m. to signal adjournment.

Members shook hands, wished each other well and headed for their cars in the capitol parking lot.

It had been a long day.

The Day in Birmingham

Commissioners Expect Another Short Meeting

BIRMINGHAM—From all appearances another short meeting, the third in a row, may be in store for commissioners tonight. Leading item on the agenda is the approval of the special assessment district for the East Maple paving and a continuation of the hearing on vacating a section of Buckingham between the railroad tracks and Eton road.

Several communications and requests will include the Theodore H. Guething request replacement of a section of sewer and the John Chiera Co. regarding replating of a part of the Indian Village subdivision.

Members of Birmingham Hi-12 Club will leave the Community House by bus at 6:30 p.m. tonight to hold its regular meeting at Camp Oakland.

The 14th annual convention of the National MOMS of America held at Cleveland last week saw a number of Oakland County residence elected to office. Headed by President Alta Scantland of Auburn Heights, the list also includes Mrs. Marjorie Estes of Birmingham, third vice-president and Mrs. Gertrude Cunningham, Birmingham, chaplain.

The group went on record as favoring the military budget as it stands with no cutback. Telegrams were sent voicing their desire to continue a full defense program "in order that we as a nation may remain strong and thus help deter threats of future wars."

The group pointed out that past history has proved the anger of military and defense cutbacks. They said the cost of lives and money in the past should be proof enough that cutbacks are undesirable and dangerous.

Birmingham police are investigating the breaking and entering at the home of the Rev. Harry O.

Martin D. D. on Pleasant street over the weekend. The Martin family is on vacation.

Det. Lt. Merlin Holmquist said the method is similar to an entry into the Methodist Church sometime ago in that candles were used to light the way around the building. He added that two other homes and the Presbyterian Church had been entered recently, and expressed the belief that it is the work of juveniles.

OSCAR FERRINE NOE
A Detroit, Oscar Ferrine Noe, 62, died Saturday in Ontario.

He was a member of the Methodist Church of Detroit. He is survived by his wife Anna, two daughters Mrs. Doris Gonzales of Mexico City, Mrs. Beverly Noe of Japan and a son of Pontiac. Services will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow from the Manley Bailey Funeral Home with burial in White Chapel Cemetery.

ROBERT D. MEYER
Services will be tomorrow at 1 p.m. from Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. for Robert D. Meyer, 23, killed Saturday in an automobile accident on W. Long Lake road.

He was employed at the main office of the Community National Bank of Pontiac.

He was a member of the Episcopal Church of the Advent at Pine Lake. He is survived by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Russell H. Meyer of 2600 Pine Lake Rd. and one brother William. The family requests donations to the Pine Lake Church Building Fund. Interment will be in Evergreen Cemetery, Detroit.

The commission has appointed a special election committee, consisting of citizens from various sections of the area, to be in charge of the registration and to act as an election board.

Committee members are Mrs. Lillian Coe, Delbert Geyer, Mrs. Barbara Stadnik, Mrs. Jane Wahamaki, Avis Hopkins, Mrs. Shirley Tuck, Allyn Campion, Mrs. Lillian Byrd, and Mrs. Gertrude Enders.

Wixom voters will also elect a village president and a six-man village commission on the July 15 ballot. The president and commission will govern the village if the charter is approved.

Any Wixom citizen wishing to be a candidate for any elected position should obtain petition

By LOUELLA G. PARSONS
HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Doris Day has been offered the role of Gertrude Lawrence in "Gertrude Lawrence as Mrs. A," the Richard Aldrich biography of our beloved Gertrude.

When I visited the set of "Teacher's Pet" I asked Doris if she'll accept it. She said, "I don't know. Gertrude Lawrence was an English woman and I am so very American, but I haven't turned it down and we are discussing it."

Doris is such a good actress she could play it and, moreover, she can sing and she could certainly put over Gertrude's well-remembered songs.

Mel Shavelson and Jack Rose, who are producing "Mrs. A," said that Bob Hope in "Beau James" was considered off-beat casting and they hope to get Doris.

The first spectacular to be made by Harry Ackerman's new company, Ticonderoga Productions, is a musical biography based on the life and songs of Jimmy McHugh.

Harry, who was formerly vice president of CBS, and his associate producer, Ed Conne, have been meeting every day with composer McHugh and the contracts are drawn up and ready for signing.

Harry says he plans to bring the spectacular to the screen in the fall. He'll use all big name singers, both men and women, to sing the tunes. Incidentally, he has just been elected president of the TV Academy of Arts and Sciences.

FTC Hits Snag
in Stamp Case

Silent on Its Complaints Against Trading Outfits for Illegal Practices
WASHINGTON (U)—It appeared today that the Federal Trade Commission has run into snags in developing a case against major trading stamp companies on grounds of illegal business practices.

The commission won't say yes or no. But almost two months have passed since officials reported that tentative complaints had been drafted and laid before the commission for an expected prompt decision. Since then, there's been only silence.

Questioned whether the case has bogged down, Joseph E. Sheehy, director of the FTC Bureau of Litigation, said emphatically: "I have absolutely no comment at all."

An FTC information officer added this much: "All I can tell you is that the case is still at the staff level." Though contrary to the earlier word from FTC informants, this indicated the matter has not been shelved.

But it meant that the case has not cleared even the second of the three preliminary stages of a typical FTC action.

The steps are (1) a probe by the Investigation Bureau, (2) the drafting of a presumably court-tight complaint by Sheehy's bureau, specifying the charges, and (3) a decision by the five-member commission to issue the complaint. Thereafter come hearings, the trial examiner's findings, a commission ruling, and possibly a review or appeal.

Usually when a hitch develops, it means that Sheehy's bureau has detected weaknesses in the case and has asked the Bureau of Investigation to gather more material. This quite often happens.

But the delay has given the 600-million-dollar-a-year stamp industry reason to hope that its claims are holding up—that FTC cannot find anything illegal, improper or deceptive about the national pastime of saving stamps and cashing them in for premium merchandise.

Japan derives 60 per cent of its power for industry from coal and about 28 per cent from water power. The remainder is generated from natural gas and other petroleum products.

Attempt to Save
Ocean in Raft
Ends in Failure

SANTIAGO, Chile (U)—The attempt of five men to sail by raft from Tahiti to Chile has ended in the sinking of their craft, the Tahiti-Nui.

The Chilean navy frigate Baquedano, which was towing the raft, picked up French explorer Eric de Bisschop and his crew of four and most of their equipment. The 14x40-foot bamboo raft went down yesterday near the Juan Fernandez Islands, 400 miles from the Chilean coast, after a stormy sea broke the tow cable.

De Bisschop and his crew sailed last Nov. 6 from Tahiti, hoping to prove that Polynesians could have to duplicate in reverse the voyage of Thor Heyerdahl's Kon-Tiki from Peru to Tahiti in 1947.

A bad storm last week carried away the Tahiti-Nui's mast and several of her bamboo logs. Her radio appeal for help brought the frigate out to tow her.

Inaugurate Picnic Season Now

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Home Editor

We are apt to ignore the calendar which says that summer starts on June 21. In Michigan, we think the beginning of summer is on Decoration Day, the day we have our first official picnic of the year. Of course, we cross our fingers and hope it won't rain.

With Decoration Day coming on Thursday this year and many people having the entire weekend free, there should be lots of picnics. It is a good time to christen the new charcoal burner the family gave one another last Christmas. Remember to look for some of those new packages of charcoal briquets that make fire-building a cinch.

If you're looking for something new to barbecue, why not try leg of lamb. The only special equipment you'll need is a hinged toaster, a large one. You've used them in the smaller sizes for hamburgers or for toast.

Barbecue-Broiled Leg of Lamb Order a day or two ahead. Ask your meat dealer to bone a leg of lamb, cutting it so that the meat will lie fairly flat. You may like to have the lower part or shank end cut into cubes for Skewered Lamb or for a stew.

A day or two before: Place lamb in a shallow pan or baking dish, flattening it out as best you can. Pour over it this savory mixture and allow to stand overnight or even for 2 days under refrigeration.

Lamb Marinade
1/2 cup olive or salad oil
1 cup dry red wine OR
1/2 cup lemon juice and 1/2 cup pineapple juice
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup vinegar
2 or 3 sprigs of rosemary
2 or 3 sprigs of thyme
2 or 3 sprigs of marjoram, savory or oregano OR
1/2 teaspoon of powdered herbs
3 tablespoons each snipped parsley and chives
1/2 teaspoon coarse-ground black pepper
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cloves garlic, mashed with 1 teaspoon salt

Note: Turn the lamb occasionally or let the marinade run to one end of the dish and spoon it over the lamb.

When ready to cook, lift lamb from marinade and place on the broiler. Flatten and shape, then lock the racks firmly in place.

Place over glowing coals and cook 45 minutes to one hour, depending upon the degree of heat. Turn frequently, basting from time to time with the marinade you have saved. A neat trick of showmanship (adds flavor too!) is to brush the lamb with a long stalk of celery, using the leaves as a swab, or with sprigs of fresh herbs such as rosemary.

The barbecue broiled lamb should have a rich browned crust on the outside with the meat slightly pink and very juicy within. Warning—don't cook to the well-done stage.

SLICE LIKE STEAK
While sizzling hot, place on a roomy carving board, sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Top it with a dollop of softened butter, and slice down through as you would a thick steak.

Should chicken be your choice to barbecue, be sure to serve it with a chef's salad. In that way you will get all the fresh vegetables you need. For a new treat in the drink line try serving cola drinks with whole cinnamon stick muddlers. Good and spicy.

Kabobs are easy to fix and to eat out of doors. If you use canned foods for the makings, the job of preparation is light. Canned frankfurters, spiced onions and dill pickle make a good combination. Another threesome is cubes of canned chopped ham loaf, little canned potatoes and canned pineapple chunks. Brush with butter and broil over the grill.

KEEP FOODS SAFE
Before we go on with any more recipes let's review our annual warning about the proper storing of picnic foods. Any egg and milk mixture can be dangerous if it is left at a lukewarm temperature.

Knowing that, you won't take custard filled cakes or eclairs on a picnic. You won't mix your chicken salad or your ham salad sandwich filling at home. You'll take the fixin's and combine them at the last minute. BEWARE AND TAKE CARE.

For those who think all picnics should have sandwiches here is a tasty filling of ham and cheese. Serve on buttered frankfurter buns. You can heat the sandwiches briefly at the picnic site until the cheese melts.

Cheese and Ham Spread
1 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese
1/2 cup finely chopped ham
1/2 cup melted butter
1/2 cup cream

Mix ingredients in order given. To grind the ham and cheese in a food chopper use a medium blade. Delicious cold as a sandwich spread or spread on bread and broiled until cheese melts.

Of course you want dessert on a picnic. What could be better than a marble cake. Although the recipe suggests baking this cake in an angel food pan, there's no reason why you can't use a 9x13 pan and frost the cake right in the pan.

Cinnamon Marble Cake
1 package white cake mix
1 package yellow cake mix
1 tablespoon mild light molasses
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
Zippy Mocha Frosting
Chopped nuts

Grease well and line the bottom of a 10 x 4-inch tube cake pan (angel food cake pan). Preheat oven to moderate (350 degrees).

Make up a package of white cake mix according to the directions on the package and set aside. Make up a package of yellow cake mix in a separate bowl. Mix according to directions on the package, adding molasses and cinnamon at the same time liquid and eggs are added.

Place alternate heaping tablespoons of dark and light batters in the greased and paper-lined cake pan. Bake one hour or until done. Cool in the pan 10 minutes. Invert on a wire cooling rack until almost cold. Remove from pan. Finish cooling. Frost top and sides with zippy mocha frosting. Sprinkle chopped nuts over the top. Yield: One 10-inch tube cake.

Zippy Mocha Frosting
3/4-4 cups (1 lb. pkg.) sifted confectioners' sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
3 tablespoons cocoa
2 teaspoons instant coffee
1/2 cup butter
4 to 5 tablespoons liquid nondairy milk

Sift together confectioners' sugar, cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg, cocoa and instant coffee. Cream butter until light and fluffy. Gradually beat in half of the sugar-spice mixture; blend well. Gradually stir in liquefied nondairy milk; mix until smooth and well blended. Add remaining sugar-spice mixture. Beat until fluffy.

Junior Editors Quiz on BUSY BEAVERS

QUESTION: Is the beaver really busy?

ANSWER: The beaver, a busy animal indeed, likes the comforts of home and is willing to work for them. With earth and sticks he dams a stream to provide his own private lake, and uses his sharp teeth to cut down trees as thick as 18 inches to provide material for his home and his meals.

When not busy at his amazing engineering projects, he likes to swim and dive. He can stay underwater for as long as two minutes. The beaver eats the bark of willow, poplar and birch trees, along with buds, berries and leaves. He lays in a store of them underwater for use during the winter.

He is the largest American rodent, often measuring two feet from head to tail and weighing up to 35 pounds.

FOR YOU TO DO: Benny the Busy Beaver is hard at work building his private lake before the winter freeze sets in. Color his pelt a glossy brown and use your green and blue crayons for the woods and sky background.

(This idea won $10 for Gerald Theriault, York, Me. Send in yours. Tomorrow: Who were the mound builders? Violet Moore Higgins, AP Newsfeatures.)
