Glenn's Orbital Flight Postponed by Weather

Misfired Moon Rocket May Still Get Pictures

GOLDSTONE TRACKING STATION, Calif. (AP) — The camera-carrying Ranger 3 spacecraft, fired toward the moon Friday from Florida, was headed instead for open space today but may still get valuable pictures of the lunar surface.

Scientists at this desert tracking station commanded the spacecraft by radio this morning to increase speed and to adjust its course slightly. It was hoped these adjustments would put the Ranger in position to begin photographing the previously unphotographed left side of the moon late Sunday morning.

The Ranger is expected to miss the moon by about 25,000 miles, but project officials say useful photographs may be obtained at this distance.

Scientists said it would be hours before they would know the effect of their radio commands on the vehicle.

This was the first attempt by the United States to take closeup pictures of the moon and to hit it with a space vehicle. The $200-million Ranger project includes nine space vehicles.

The first, fired last August, was not aimed at the moon and was a partial success but some of the hardware didn't work. The second went into orbit as planned.

The task attempted Friday was so complex that two other identical spacecraft are being prepared for the same mission in hopes one will be successful.

The speed was increased so that the Ranger will cross the moon's orbital path while in Goldstone's line of sight. Goldstone is the only tracking station capable of issuing commands to the wayward spacecraft.

LOSING SPEED

The change of speed and direction was achieved by igniting a small midcourse rocket engine aboard the craft. When the maneuver command was given, Ranger 3 was 100,398 statute miles from earth and its speed 5,418 miles per hour. It had been losing speed gradually because of the earth's gravitational pull.

At the time of the launch, the moon was 236,924 miles from the earth. While there are no official figures, a good estimate of the direct line distance Ranger 3 was intended to fly would be in the neighborhood of 230,200 miles.

It traveled for eight minutes after launch in an orbital path of about 303 miles per minute. It took off into deep space from a 115-mile high orbit.

The Ranger 3 was fired into orbit around the earth Friday from Cape Canaveral. Then rockets were restarted to yank the moonship out of orbit and boost it up to escape velocity, 24,500 miles per hour, heading it toward the moon.

Women Win Ranges as 'Galaxy' Closes

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, Pontiac Press

Two tickets were drawn yesterday, two women became the happy possessors of new ranges, and the third annual Pontiac Press cooking school was over.

Jubilant winners were Mrs. Ruby Cummings of 510 North Saginaw St., and Mrs. Phillip DeConick, 5745 West Maple Road, West Bloomfield Township.

With almost capacity attendance for the four days of "Galaxy of Foods," nearly 3,000 individuals had attended the daily sessions. Most areas in northern Oakland county were represented.

Mrs. Cummings who won the Kelvinator electric range from Federal Department Store was in a daze as she came up to the stage when her name was drawn.

She certainly could use a new range, she said, her old one was too large for the space it occupied and hit the refrigerator.

Mrs. Phillip DeConick was not at Friday's session. Winners did not have to be present. She had attended on Monday, but her baby-sitter's children came down with the measles, and Mrs. DeConick had to stay home the rest of the week.

20 Latin Nations Agree OAS No Place for Cuba

Ministers Get Together on Suspension Move After Rusk Meeting

PUNTA DEL ESTE (UPI) — The foreign ministers of 20 free Western Hemisphere republics agreed today that a Communist state cannot be a member of the Organization of American States (OAS).

The agreement was announced following a meeting of U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and eight other key hemisphere foreign ministers on a draft resolution to suspend Cuba from the inter-American system.

A small work group of foreign ministers attending the inter-American Conference here immediately began drafting a new text of a final resolution to try to carry out the obvious meaning of today's decision—how to oust Fidel Castro's Cuba from the community of American nations.

The nine-nation group that met late this morning represented all points of view except that of Cuba. It reported earlier that it was making progress on a resolution to suspend Cuba.

Rusk said, "The work continues and we are very optimistic."

Brazilian Foreign Minister Santiago Dantas said the foreign ministers from nine key American nations had "made great progress" in a late morning meeting. He predicted a document of major importance would come out of the meeting.

WORKING OUT MOVES

Argentine Foreign Minister Miguel Angel Carcano said there was general aggreement that a Communist state cannot be a member of the inter-American system and "we now are working out how to carry out that decision."

The American delegation to the Organization of American States foreign ministers conference was said to be heartened by strong support given the U.S. position by Uruguayan Foreign Minister Homero Martinez Montero.

Before today's working group session, fears were expressed that the United States might fail in efforts to reach agreement with key Latin American nations on how and when to suspend Fidel Castro's Cuba from the inter-American system.

Romney Hits U.S. School Aid

Says Detroit Citizens' Work Is Proof Federal Help Unnecessary

Detroit solving its own school problems by citizen action is evidence that federal aid to education is not necessary, George W. Romney, constitutional convention delegate from Bloomfield Hills, told a gathering in Birmingham last night.

Romney, one of seven county con-con delegates who spoke at the second public forum held by the Oakland Citizens' League at the Birmingham Community House, insisted on answering a question from a Washington, D.C., reporter on whether he favored federal aid to education as being discussed by the Kennedy administration.

The question was nearly ruled inappropriate to the con-con discussion. But Romney, a talked-about gubernatorial and possible presidential candidate, chose to answer.

Romney told the 175 listeners that he volunteered to head a citizen's advisory council in 1955 to work out the complex problems facing the Detroit school system without having to go to Washington for help.

"This proved that the people in Detroit could raise the funds to meet Detroit's school needs," Romney said.

His reply drew great applause from the predominantly Republican audience.

Echo on Record Runs

Echo watchers attention: Jan. 27, 1962 may well go down in history as the day the big satellite crossed our skies three times in one day. Those of you who were up early this morning may have seen the ball roll along the horizon briefly at 6:04. Tonight you'll be able to get a better view as Echo makes two 1-minute passes at 6:50 south of the city and at 8:26 to the north, 47 to 56 and 75 to 80 degrees above the horizon, respectively. Sunday night it will be back again at 8:08, 86 to 89 degrees over the northern horizon, moving northeast.

'HOW'S THE BOY?' — Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. gets a friendly chuck on the cheek from a technician after the United States' first orbital flight by a man was postponed and the astronaut was taken from his spacecraft at Cape Canaveral, Fla., today. The technician is Gunther Wendt.

. . . but Parents Are Relieved

Astronaut's Wife Let Down

From Our News Wires

Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.'s wife was disappointed but his parents were relieved today when his planned shot was called off because of bad weather.

At Arlington, Va., the youngest Mrs. Glenn was described as "disappointed but looking forward to the next shot."

She and the couple's two teenage children, along with some neighbors and their pastor, remained inside the Glenns' house, a pretty brick rambler on a wooded hillside in Arlington.

In New Concord, Ohio, the older Glenns sent word of their relief through a spokesman after following the long delays on three television sets.

Dr. Glenn McConaghy, acting president of Muskingum College in New Concord, said the couple was "perfectly happy, in perfectly good shape."

"They are glad the space shot was called off because of the bad weather," McConaghy said.

Back in Arlington, Ford Eastman, a representative of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, came outside the house to the front porch, where TV cameras, newsmen and photographers were clustered, as soon as word of the postponement was received.

'NO STATEMENT'

"She doesn't want to make a statement," Eastman said of Mrs. Glenn. He said the children didn't say anything but they were disappointed too.

Asked to describe the feeling inside the house he said that you could see the family was tense and there was some letdown. He said Mrs. Glenn showed disappointment.

Vice President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson called Mrs. Glenn about 9:30 a.m., after the shot was called off, and according to Eastman, "had a very pleasant talk with her." They had also called Friday night. Johnson is chairman of the National Aeronautics and Space Council.

Johnson and his wife talked with Mrs. Glenn today about the children and the disappointment over the cancellation of the space shot.

Eastman said Mrs. Glenn was going to bed and rest. This was just before 10 a.m. and Mrs. Glenn had been up since 5 a.m. She talked about 10 minutes with the Johnsons.

Eastman said that Glenn called his wife — from his space capsule — and talked to her this morning before the launch was postponed.

The decision to postpone the effort to send Glenn on his orbital flight naturally was a disappointment to this southeastern Ohio home town but the general feeling was that getting John Glenn back alive and safe was he most important thing.

Mayor James K. Taylor admitting he had "butterflies in my stomach" during the final minutes of the countdown described it as a "big letdown."

"I really felt sorry for the persons who must go through this thing all over again," he said.

Astronaut Glenn also called his wife Friday night from Cape Canaveral about 11 p.m., a little later than his usual call, and he apologized for being late.

He said he had to pack for a long trip today, a friend of the Glenns reported.

Colder Weather Returns to Area Despite Sunshine

Even though it was sunny most of the day, colder weather crept back into the area.

Tonight is expected to be fair and cold with the mercury measuring a low of 12. The weatherman predicts increasing cloudiness with a high of 26 tomorrow. The outlook for Monday is partly cloudy and a little warmer.

Northwesterly winds 15 to 22 miles per hour blew over Pontiac today. They will diminish to light and variable tonight.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 18 degrees. The thermometer registered 20 at 2 p.m.

Halting of Shot Disappoints JFK

President Given Word of Postponement Before Announcement Made

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy today expressed disappointment at postponement of the nation's first attempt to orbit a man in space.

Kennedy was briefed two minutes before the announcement was made at Cape Canaveral, Fla., that bad weather had forced calling off the attempt to launch astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. for the earth-orbiting flight.

O. R. Lloyd, information officer of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, waiting in Palm Beach, of the postponement.

Salinger immediately called the president, who had been watching preparation for the blastoff on television at his parents' beachfront estate.

EXPRESSED DISAPPOINTMENT

Salinger said Kennedy expressed disappointment.

The telephone line had been kept open by Salinger and Lloyd in order to keep Kennedy up to date on developments at the Cape.

Kennedy had turned on the television set in his second floor bedroom early to watch the scene at Cape Canaveral, where Glenn initially had been scheduled to rocket aloft at 7:30 a.m.

Salinger said he did not know whether the President had stayed continuously by his television set.

He said Kennedy, when advised of the postponement, had asked whether a new date had been set for the launching. At that point Salinger said, no decision had been made.

Record Mile Is Run in New Zealand

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, (AP) — Peter Snell of New Zealand, running effortlessly on a grass track, bettered the world mile record tonight with a clocking of 3 minutes, 54.4 seconds that eclipsed Herb Elliott's mark by a tenth of a second.

Snell, Olympic 800-meter champion, whipped two sub four-minute milers as he came from the rear of the field, took the lead at the three-quarter mark and ripped off a 56-second final lap to beat Elliott's record.

Elliott, Australia's miracle miler, has held the world record since he ran the distance in 3:54.5 at Dublin, Aug. 6, 1958.

Snell, continuing the lowering of the mile record beyond the four-minute barrier first cracked by Roger Bannister of England with a 3:59.4 clocking at Oxford, England, May 6, 1954, finished well ahead of Britain's Bruce Tulloh.

Tulloh, normally a three-miler, was pushed to his first sub four-minute clocking, finishing in 3:56.3. Two previous under four-minute milers — Albert Thomas of Australia and Murray Halberg of New Zealand — were third and fourth, respectively.

Snell began his record-breaking attempt by running last while the pacemaker, half miler Barry Cowsar, was taking the field around the first lap in 60 seconds. Snell moved up in the second lap, following Cowsar to the half-mile in 1:59.

In the third lap, Tulloh moved up strongly, but Snell took over with 660 yards to run and at the three-lap mark was timed in 2:58.

Waterford Supervisor to Change Party Labels

Waterford Township Supervisor Elmer R. Johnson, elected three times as a Democrat, said next year he'll run as a Republican.

"It is my firm conviction that the first obligation of any public official is to be true to his conscience and to serve the best interest of all the people of his community," Johnson said in a brief statement issued to The Pontiac Press.

"I believe that this obligation transcends any other obligation."

"Guided by these convictions, I am convinced that I can best serve the interests of all the people of Waterford Township by joining the ranks of the Republican party and I shall, in the future, run for office on the Republican ticket."

The 58-year-old Johnson, elected last April to his third two-year term, voiced dissatisfaction with decisions by officials based on Democratic political considerations

Spaceman Helped Out of Capsule After 5 Hours, 13 Minutes

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The round-the-world space flight of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. was today rescheduled for next Thursday or Friday at the earliest.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The long-awaited, 'round-the-world space flight of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. was postponed again today — this time because of weather.

The weather outlook for the next two days was reported unfavorable, indicating the flight may be delayed until early next week.

Probably no one was more unhappy than the sturdy, 168-pound Glenn, a Marine lieutenant colonel.

But he flashed a big grin as he was helped out of the capsule at 10:25 a.m., and another when, still in his space suit, he stepped out of the transfer van and walked into his Hangar S. quarters at 10:46 a.m.

"Well, there'll be another day," he told Col. John A. Powers, astronaut's spokesman.

During hours of waiting in the cramped confinement of his space capsule, waiting for the roar of Atlas rocket engines that would hurl him into space, he was reported in good spirits and anxious only to get on with his historic mission.

A heavy cloud cover over the launching area — which would have made it impossible to track the rocket visually in critical early stages of the flight-forced officials to call a postponement at 9:10 a.m. for at least 24 hours.

There was no official word from the NASA on when the flight would be rescheduled.

LAYER OF CLOUDS

A weather advisory at 10 a.m. said:

"Although good weather still prevails in the downrange areas, a layer of clouds 7,000 feet high spread over central Florida during the night and early morning.

"There are some breaks in the clouds but officials felt this is not sufficient for adequate camera coverage of the Mercury Atlas vehicle in flight."

"The weather outlook is unfavorable for at least two more days, primarily because of strong wind and rough seas in the western Atlantic."

Technicians opened the capsule, and Glenn unstrapped, and he finally emerged wearing a broad grin at 10:25 a.m., five hours, 13 minutes after he had entered the craft.

NASA announced a briefing would be held for newsmen at 3

Offers State Aid to Local CD Men

Michigan's acting civil dfense director last night offered local directors state help with a systematic build-up of their efforts.

Robert S. D'Amelio told close to 100 representatives of the Northeastern Oakland County Civil Defense Council that he plans to put Michigan in the forefront of the states in its program of preparedness.

Speaking at a testimonial dinner honoring members of the nine-member municipalities in the council, D'Amelio cited preparedness as "the best deterrent to a potential enemy."

He said that he believed that, because of the scope of the problem, people had charged CD with confusion.

Instead, he countered, not all parts of the CD program are as publicized as fallout shelters.

The state official said that, although fallout shelters still are the key element of civil defense, there are other essentials.

They are: communications, attack warning, continuity of government and radiological defense.

URGES ACTION

What we need is not "Why should we?" but "How should we?" to demonstrate to a potential enemy that this nation can survive, said D'Amelio.

"Do not foredoom our people to extinction by doing nothing."

To preface his remarks D'Amelio expressed his appreciation and that of Governor Swainson of the job done by the people in the council.

Six of the seven local CD director in the council were given certificates at the dinner held at Michigan State University Oakland.

They were: Raymond Genereux of Lake Orion — Orion Township, George J. Moore of Oxford—Oxford Township, Charles Morrell of Avon Township, Dorothy Stackhouse of Oakland Township, Paul A. York of Rochester and Clarence F. Long of Troy. Addision Township director Robert A. McCallum was unable to attend.

The presentations were made by Oakland County Civil Defense Director John A. Madole.

John Kamego of the Bell Telephone Co.'s Pontiac district acted as master of ceremonies.

Radio Message by Secret Army

OAS Cuts Into Algiers Airwaves; Death Toll Near 500 in Violence

From Our News Wires

ALGIERS — The outlawed secret army organization (OAS) cut into the airwaves to make a new antigovernment pirate broadcast today as the new year's death toll from Moslem-European violence in Algeria soared toward the 500 mark.

The pirate transmission by the OAS, rightwing European extremist group dedicated to keeping Algeria French, began shortly after 1 p.m. At first the words were barely audible but a repeat of the message came through loud and clear.

(Under a new French government decree, the contents of OAS statements may not be published.)

Police, meanwhile, staged a wide-scale identity check of Europeans and Moslems in Constantine, similar to one carried out in Algiers Friday, as European shopkeepers threatened new "strikes" to protest downtown police barricades to curtail the daily violence in Algiers.

FEAR TOLL TO RISE

Reports of continuing violence indicated the death toll from terrorist incidents since Jan. 1 in Algeria might reach 500 sometime this weekend.

In Paris, two pylons supporting high-tension electricity lines were dynamited today, causing a brief cut in electric current to many sections of Paris. Police said it was clearly a case of sabotage.

The two pylons are located near the village of Villejust, in the region of Versailles.

Police expressed no theories about the origin of the blasts but in the past, most such dynamitings have been laid to the rightwing secret army.

Molten Steel Kills 17 Workers in Rio

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — A huge crucible at the Volta Redonda steel mill tipped over today and spilled 60 tons of molten steel on 50 workers. Seventeen workers were killed and the other 33 were burned.

Reports from the mill, 80 miles from Rio de Janeiro, said a cable broke, causing the crucible to tip. The mill caught fire but the blaze was extinguished quickly.

Rain, Drizzle Soaking Wide Areas of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain and drizzle continued to soak wide areas of the nation today, turning the winter's snow accumulation to slush and swelling rivers with heavy runoff.

Drenching rains in north-central Indiana swelled streams and sent the Wabash River over its banks in Montezuma. Schools closed in Lebanon when a flash flood threatened 100 homes.

Roads were flooded near Lima, Ohio, soaked by two inches. Heavy runoff on the frozen ground created an ice jam on the Auglaize River. A school in Spencerville was flooded.

About 250 residents of Eastlake and Willoughby Hills, near Cleveland, were routed by the Chagrin River, which was flowing at up to nine feet above normal.

More than 100 barges broke loose from moorings on the Ohio River near Cairo, Ill., as the river rose two feet. They were swept downstream into the ice-choked Mississippi River, which has been closed to traffic by a huge ice jam since Jan. 12.

Gather at Pontiac General for Ceremony

Masons Honor Ailing Attorney

A handful of oldtimers gathered at Pontiac General Hospital Friday to honor a long time friend and fellow Mason.

The rare occasion, usually reserved for the walls of a Masonic lodge, took place quietly, unnoticed in the bustling hospital.

Members of Pontiac Lodge 21, F&AM, presented one of the area's senior residents Ralph T. Keeling, 75, with a pin signifying his 50 years as a Mason.

Keeling has been seriously ill and hospitalized for three weeks. There aren't too many 50-year pins handed out by the Grand Lodge of Michigan, and hospital officials said they couldn't remember any such there.

PRESENTED BY SHERROD

It was presented to Keeling by Lynn Sherrod, of 35 Henderson St., worshipful master of the lodge. Sherrod was the only one present with less than 50 years credit.

Joining him were R. C. Cummings of 205 E. Iroquois Road, William J. Thompson of 663 E. Walton Blvd., and Fred T. Becker of 51 Pinegrove St., all members 50 or more years and past masters.

Becker and Keeling have a personal tie. They were both born Feb. 6, 1886 and became Masons at the same installation.

Keeling came to Pontiac in 1911 where he opened law offices. Now in semiretirement, he is one of the county's veteran attorneys. He lives at 3191 Alco Drive, Waterford Township.

Call Off Glenn Space Ride

p.m. A report could come at that time on when the next firing effort will be made.

Glenn was taken down from the rocket and returned to his special "ready room" quarters in Hangar S about four miles from the launching pad.

He had left Hangar S at 4:46 a.m. after a final physical examination and breakfast. He entered the capsule at 5:12 a.m. for a scheduled 7:30 launching.

2 MINOR PROBLEMS

Two minor problems delayed the launch past the scheduled time and while technicians were correcting one of them the clouds moved over the cape and completely obscured what had been clear skies earlier.

The postponement thwarted for at least a day America's effort to hurl a man into orbit to match the feat accomplished last year by the Russian cosmonauts Gherman Titov and Yuri Gagarin.

Two U.S. astronauts, Alan B. Shepard and Virgil I. Grissom, were rocketed on two 15-minute suborbital flights in 1961. Both these launches also were delayed by weather, each for three days.

Today's postponement was the fifth for Glenn's flight.

Originally scheduled for last Dec. 20, when officials felt there was a chance of achieving manned orbit in 1961, it was put off until Jan. 16, when pressure began mounting on the launch crews.

Then technical problems with the Atlas and capsule caused three subsequent short delays.

The postponement was a bitter disappointment to the hundreds of technicians, engineers and scientists involved in the project.

Also disappointed were more than 600 newsmen here from the United States and 15 foreign nations to cover the historic firing, big crowds of persons who gathered on the beaches near the cape, and perhaps millions more across the nation who were watching on television when the shot was called off.

FLEET STAYS AT POSTS

A recovery fleet of 24 ships and 60 planes strung out across the Atlantic ocean from the cape to the west coast of Africa will remain on station until the launching is tried again.

Minutes after the postponement was announced, technicians began dumping the volatile liquid oxygen from the Atlas' fuel tanks.

Great clouds of steam rose from the base on the rocket as the fuel poured out.

Glenn was reported in good spirits throughout his futile wait. He rested easily and his breathing was normal.

At the time the shot was called off, the count stood at T-minus 20 minutes.

The rugged, 168-pound astronaut was awakened at 2 a.m. He showered, shaved and ate a hearty breakfast of poached eggs, steak, caffein-free coffee, orange juice, toast and jelly.

After donning his silver space suit, he strode out of his quarters, waved cheerily to newsmen outside.

NOT OUTWARDLY NERVOUS

If he was nervous in the face of an historic and dangerous mission, he gave no outward sign of it as he rode in a van to the launch site, went up in an elevator and climbed into the capsule.

Only the weather went wrong.

The Atlas booster, the world-wide tracking network, the recovery forces were all ready for the first American to be committed to orbital flight.

Whenever the shot is tried again, the astronaut will orbit the earth three times if the rocket can be fired by 9:30 a.m. A delay past 11 a.m. would cut his mission to one orbit.

The rate increase will affect all flights from Pontiac Municipal Airport. Short run fares will not change much, said Edwards.

The fare for the Pontiac to Detroit flight, exclusive of 10 per cent federal tax, will go from $5 to $5.15. Fares on flights to Cleveland will go up about 45 cents and up 60 cents to Alpena.

Ted's Restaurant Plans Expansion to Pontiac Mall

Ted's Restaurant, Woodward at Square Lake Road, Bloomfield Hills, is planning an expansion into the new Pontiac Mall Shopping Center, 409 North Telegraph Road, Waterford Township, according to L. M. Little, president of Ted's.

Plans calling for a cafeteria, dining room, and cocktail lounge are contingent upon approval Class 'C' liquor license, he pointed out.

Seating capacity will be approximately 275 people. In addition to the dining area, there will be a new bakery retail shop, but the "quality of the food and moderate prices will remain the same as the Woodward location," Little said.

The new establishment will employ between 35 and 50 people with operating hours from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily, including Sunday.

Work to Start in April

To Ask Bids on 'Y' Job

Construction bids for a long-anticipated YMCA wing and renovation of the present headquarters at 131 Mt. Clemens St. will be called for in March.

Now, within $12,500 of reaching its goal of $650,000 upon receiving General Motors completed payment of its $250,000 gift, total cost of the YMCA's expansion program is expected to be reached by date of groundbreaking ceremonies sometime in April, according to Ted Slosson, general secretary of the 'Y'.

The present structure will undergo a 'modern facelifting' and its facilities updated to fit the new wing. Upon completion, the addition in itself at 120,487 cubic feet, will more than double our present space, he pointed out.

In addition to the General Motors donation, many of the over 1,800 contributors are accounted for, but some of these are unreported.

Because of the considerable expense involved, "we invite those who've made their pledges to report so the 'Y' can work with it," Slosson urged.

Purchased in 1933, the present building was equipped to serve a membership of 1,033.

No additions have been made since that time although membership has increased four-fold to 4,400 taxing all facilities beyond capacity making the expansion an urgent need.

Swainson Urges Fiscal Reform

Governor Discusses Economy with Labor, Business Leaders

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. Swainson discussed the state's economy with leaders of business, labor and education last night and said the major need in Michigan is for fiscal reform.

The governor spoke in a panel discussion of the economy — the first of four such Swainson plans. Others will be held in Flint, St. Joseph and Marquette.

Michigan needs fiscal reform to replace "the creaky, antiquated system which penalizes new and expanding industries, thus depressing our job creating potential," Swainson said.

"Fiscal reform will not solve all of our economic problems, but without it, we can solve few of them," the governor declared, adding that "It will not, of and by itself, create thousands of new jobs. But, without it, virtually none will be created."

ALSO SPOKE

Other panel members were Ralph T. McElvenny, president of the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., Roblee B. Martin, Dundee Cement Corp. president and chairman of the Michigan Industrial Ambassadors, Leonard Woodcock, United Auto Workers Union vice president, Russell Bright, associate dean of liberal arts at Wayne State University, and Detroit City Councilman Edward Connor.

Only hours before the meeting, Swainson submitted a tax program to the legislature, including a flat rate income tax on personal and corporation income.

McElvenny said the state could no longer depend on the automobile companies as its main economic strength and that the financial problems of Michigan can no longer be met by cutting state spending.

"Some other source of state financing must be provided," he said. "I believe the consensus is that whatever fiscal program we adopt must provide some tax relief for business."

Report West Drafting Berlin Peace Memo

LONDON (UPI) — The Western Big Four powers are drafting a memorandum to present to the Soviets on their latest Berlin peace plans, diplomatic sources said today.

The memorandum will set out the Western position on Berlin and was expected to be handed to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko by U. S. envoy Llewellyn Thompson in the course of his "probe" of Soviet policy intentions.

The Western draft was intended to counter the Soviet memorandum on Russian Berlin peace proposals which Gromyko gave Thompson Jan. 12 at Moscow.

The sources said the Western outline will make no new offer of compromise on the known Allied position, but it may set out the terms in more precise form.

The Day in Birmingham

Adult Classes in Hills to Begin Week of Feb. 5

BIRMINGHAM — Adult evening classes in the Bloomfield Hills School District will begin the week of Feb. 5.

Registrations for the eight-week sessions are being taken at the district's administration office at 4200 Andover Road, near Telegraph and Long Lake roads.

The classes will be held once a week at the high school from 8 to 10 p.m.

Courses to be offered include art, contract bridge, intermediate bridge, dog obedience, conversational and continuing French, and German.

Other classes include jewelry and enameling, knitting, millinery, oil painting, conversational Spanish, slip covers and draperies, beginning square dancing, tailoring, and typing.

If ten or more persons request a course that isn't listed the adult education officials will attempt to make available the class.

A new series of programs designed to introduce youngsters six through nine years of age to an appreciation of nature will begin Feb. 3 at the Cranbrook Institute of Science.

The sessions will amplify the Junior League of Birmingham.

Auditorium programs will be held on four consecutive Saturdays from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

Registration will be limited to 60 youngsters.

The first program will deal with birds, followed by plants, sound and animals.

Color films will open each session.

Birmingham city commissioners have taken steps to legally allow the burning of leaves in trash barrels on the public right-of-way.

The city has condoned the practice in the past as a means of saving the city money but had never amended the ordinance which prohibits the burning of anything in the public right-of-way.

The new provision, however, will only affect the burning of leaves.

Waterford Official to Change Parties

HINTS OTHER SWITCHES

Johnson, of 3320 Seebaldt Road, hinted that there may be other party switches—from Democratic to GOP—among the board of supervisors.

The former tool and die maker and Waterford school board member emphatically denied that he was changing party colors to be on the winning side as Republican election pluralities gain in the township.

Johnson ran for township office in 1957 after serving seven years on the township board of education. He won, and was re-elected in 1959 when the five-member township board was increased to seven.

GOP WON SEATS

In April 1961 Republicans Loren D. Anderson and Byron L. Cole won posts on the boards. Republicans also swept all four constable jobs plus the justice of the peace vacancy created when former Justice Donald E. Adams resigned to become probate judge.

The board, consisting of the township supervisor, clerk, treasurer and four trustees, is now 5-2 in favor of the Democrats.

Republicans carried the township in last September con-con election.

Johnson's move follows by about a year the same party switch of former Democratic, Independence Township Supervisor Duane Hursfall.

Johnson, who receives $11,000 a year, said he has no political ambitions outside the township.

He insisted he desired to work for "what's good for the township and not for the party."

Child Discovered Beside Mother Dead Five Days

DETROIT (UPI) —A 14-month-old child, apparently without food or water since Sunday, was found crying in her home Friday beside the lifeless body of her mother.

The child, Lorraine Ray, was taken to a hospital where doctors said she was suffering from shock and malnutrition. She was expected to live, despite her five-day ordeal.

The girl, dressed in a T-shirt and diaper, was found whimpering near the body of Mrs. Barbara Ray, 18, her mother. Police said Mrs. Ray apparently died of natural causes Monday.

Her body was found lying in the middle of the living room floor of the three-room upper flat.

President Pays Call on the King of Saudi Arabia

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy sipped Arabic coffee and spent 15 minutes today in a ceremonial call on King Saud of Saudi Arabia at the monarch's 18-room, white oceanfront mansion.

The king's 6-year-old daughter, Princess Delal, gave Kennedy a bouquet of pink and white carnations as the two men posed for photographers in a rear porch of the home the king has rented here. Saud is convalescing from an eye operation.

* * *

The President drove from his family's oceanfront home three miles away for the meeting, which might be a preliminary to a Saud visit to Washington later.

River Barges Break Moorings in Illionois

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — Between 150 and 175 massive Mississippi River barges tore loose from their moorings early today and caused an estimated $1 million damage as they crashed along the Cairo riverfront.

Some ten tugs and 20 towboats cast off in the darkness and began to round up the rampaging barges as they were swept through the Ohio and Mississippi River junction into the ice-choked Mississippi.

* * *

By dawn at least two barges were reported sunk, two pursuing towboats were heavily damaged and some of the $100,000 barges were churning past Columbus, Ky., 15 miles south of Cairo.

To Pick Nominee in New Orleans

Says Political Future of Morrison at Stake in Dem Mayor Primary

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The political future of deLesseps S. Morrison—49-year-old onetime boy wonder of Louisiana politics—may be decided today as New Orleans Democrats pick a nominee for mayor.

Morrison resigned last summer after 16 years as mayor to become U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States when voters rebuffed his efforts to change the city charter to permit him to seek another term.

Nine candidates are seeking the Democratic nomination and a host of other offices are also on the ballot. A runoff for mayor seems likely. It would be held March 3. The Democrat will meet E. Ross Buckley, unopposed for the Republican nomination, in the general election April 3.

Morrison is backing state Sen. Adrian Duplantier, 32, for the nomination, but the former mayor's Crescent City Democratic Association is split between Duplantier and two other candidates—including Victor H. Schiro, who is serving as interim mayor.

If Duplantier makes a good showing it could be interpreted as a sign that Morrison will probably make his third effort to capture the Louisiana governorship. Morrison was defeated in 1956 by the late Earl Kemp Long and again in 1960 by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, the balladeer who wrote "You Are My Sunshine."

It Seems to Me . . . .

Russia-China Relationship Gives Free World New Hope

This current Russian situation seems fraught with new hope for the free world.

Something is brewing.

No one knows what.

Russia and China are definitely drifting farther apart. At first, observers were inclined to write it off as another Communist gesture for everything Khrushchev says or does is an object of suspicion. He has established himself as the greatest international liar of all time and all utterances are calculated to create a certain impression on the rest of humanity.

The truth is unimportant.

This Pelping-Tirana union with the Kremlin isn't the solid rock-bound thing of mutual international intrigue that it was at one time. Apparently both sides view each other with distrust and suspicion and you might include a dash of enmity.

No longer do these schemers present a united front and they look down their disjointed noses at each other as well as the rest of us.

For this, the world can cheer.

Russia's attempt to woo a visit from young Bobby Kennedy is highly suggestive. Do the Russians feel their disaffection for Red China—and vice versa—means they must edge a bit closer to us for safety's sake? As long as they had hundreds of millions of Chinese "on their side" they felt smug and superior. If this unholy Chinese horde ever defects to the free world, the Soviets would have to keep their powder a bit drier and toss another heap of rubles into their military appropriations.

Right now, Red China is Communistic but she has moved out from under the Kremlin's thumb.

Apparently, Red China never forgave the heavy-handed Soviets for their aid and comfort to Marshal PENG-TEH-HUAI a couple of years back. And KHRUSHCHEV is miffed at China's sympathy with MOLOTOV, whose influence is still an uncertain entity in all this Asiatic fracas.

American students of world affairs feel that the breach between Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung is now real and not an Oriental subterfuge.

Universal peace would come closer.

This would be wonderful.

In the meantime, young Mr. KENNEDY better keep away from the Kremlin for he might get this Nation's big right arm in a trap. The variables of international politics on that level are beyond his ken and Russia is no place for the young and the uninitiated. He bears the responsibilities of the most powerful Nation in the world by virtue of family connections.

It seems as though our wisest course is to wait and watch with both eyes looking sharply in all directions as the next few acts in this somber drama unfold across the seas. Yugoslavia's Tito never concealed his contempt for Russia and a few days ago an East Berlin official had the temerity to disagree with Khrushchev openly. Poland signed a one year deal with Albania and Albania is a definite entry in Russia's hate book.

The New York World suggests "humpty dumpty has had a great fall."

Could be.

And thanks.

Praises McNamara . . . .

The other day I asked Representative WILLIAM S. BROOMFIELD just what he thought of Secretary of Defense, ROBERT S. MCNAMARA'S work in Washington.

His reply is very interesting and I quote it substantially herewith:

"Robert McNamara is doing an outstanding job in the Pentagon. He's fearless and marches straight ahead, irrespective of obstacles and the personnel in opposition. He's the administration's top personality and the outstanding man. He has conspicuous ability and most of Congress is beginning to accept him on that basis. Those close to the scene have great respect for Secretary McNamara."

This is warm praise, especially when you consider that it doesn't come from a member of the President's Democratic family. And, incidentally, it shows the breadth and capabilities of Representative BROOMFIELD himself, for he stands willing to recognize outstanding ability wherever he finds it.

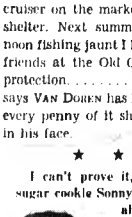

And In Conclusion....

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

JACKIE KENNEDY'S Russian seal and Somali leopard coats have U.S. merchants screaming in concert as JFK preached "buy America" so stoutly and emphatically. . . . . According to the current issue of The Atlantic Monthly, 700 million Chinese are "struggling on the brink of starvation in the most serious famine since the establishment of the Communist regime in 1949." Here is stark tragedy. . . . . There's a cabin cruiser on the market with a fallout shelter. Next summer on an afternoon fishing jaunt I hope my affluent friends at the Old Club provide full protection. . . . . ED SULLIVAN says VAN DOREN has his $129,000, but every penny of it shows in the lines in his face.

I can't prove it, but I'll be a sugar cookie Sonny Liston is just about the prime louse of all time in the heavyweight boxing division . . . . . Purely personal nomination for an especially attractive gal: Annie Glenn, our astronaut's wife . . . . . The TV producer requested his youngest daughter to ask the blessing for the guests. Quoth she: "This food comes to us through the courtesy of Almighty God." . . . . . The Indianapolis Times comes up with this: "1961 must have been a pretty rough year in Washington. Young Bobby Kennedy looks old enough to vote."

Mississippi has voted to extend ten years' tax exemption to new industries locating there. That's our opposition. . . . . Don't — DON'T fool with water and electricity. Don't turn an appliance on or off when you're in the tub or a shower. Two Los Angeles lads were in a tub when a lighted bulb fell in the water. One lived. . . . . They tell me DICK LEBEAU and NIGHT TRAIN LANE are the Lions' best golfers. . . . . The American Bankers' Association says you can pay two and a half times your annual income for a home. . . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's — Pontiac's BILL WILLMAN, the J's — LUCIANO (even in death) for trafficking in human souls through organized international dope peddling.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

Faith guided the family of man along individual paths leading toward love. Here are some sayings that have been recorded:

"The whole world is moving onward. Let us all pray!" American Indian.

"We do not see Him with our eyes, but we know Him in our hearts," Bushman.

"None of you is a believer so long as he spends his night in satisfaction while his neighbor is hungry," Mohammed.

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," Moses.

"Hurt not others with that which pains yourself," Buddha.

"Love the Lord your God with all your heart . . . and with all your strength . . . and your neighbor as yourself . . . love your enemies," Christ.

Days of All Faiths:

Week Set Aside for Young People

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Next week, including next Sunday, is Youth Week in many of America's Protestant churches. Its purpose, as stated by the sponsoring United Christian Youth Movement, is "to give young people an opportunity to declare their common faith, and to express that faith in community planning and action."

During the week, youths of the various denominations get together at meetings and discussion sessions to set before their elders the place of youth in church and community life. The 1962 theme is: "Called to Responsible Action." One hoped-for result is the building of an understanding relationship between youths and adults, on the basis of the youngsters' ability and readiness to accept mature responsibility along with freedom.

The week is climaxed by Ecumenical Youth Sunday on Feb. 4, when the young people of many Protestant churches unite in one worship service.

FEBRUARY

February gets its name from the Latin word "februare," which means "to purify." In ancient Rome, on the 15th day of this month a solemn ceremony was held in which a goat was sacrificed. After this ritual the priest struck the women on the hands with a strip of the goat's skin to purify them, and thus insure fertility and safe childbirth.

How the natural process of childbirth ever got to be associated with impurity is a puzzle, but it has been so in many lands and many religions down to the present day. Christians sometimes get the wrong idea from the Christian doctrine that man is "born in sin." This does not mean there is something sinful about the way he is born. It only means that even newborn he is already equipped with the general human capacity for sin.

The fact that the Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary falls in this month of purifying (Feb. 2) is only coincidence. Her purification after the birth of Jesus is figured from the date of Christmas. Jewish law required this ceremony 40 days after the birth of the first male child.

BLESSING OF ST. BLAISE

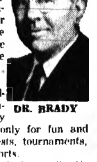

February 3 will be a big day in Germany and France, but here in the United States there will be thousands of Roman Catholics and a few members of other churches who will go to church to receive a special blessing in order to ward off throat troubles. It is called the Blessing of St. Blaise.

As the Latin blessing is given the priest holds two wax candles, crossed in the shape of a St. Andrew's cross (an X) against the throat or over the head of the kneeling applicant.

Coronary Sufferers Should Avoid Contests

DR. BRADY

As a lawn bowler, I am greatly interested in your teachings about heart and artery trouble. Some officers of our club insist a bowler must support the club by playing in tournaments. I gather that you advise bowlers who have coronary trouble to avoid . . . (R. S.)

Ans. — I'd advise men or women with coronary trouble to bowl only for fun and avoid prize contests, tournaments, championship efforts.

Will the use of dry milk for drinking have any ill effect on health? They say you should drink only fresh milk. (Mrs. M.A.P.)

Ans. — No.

We recently moved here. We have been drinking tap water, but we notice neighbors use distilled or bottled water . . . (Mrs. I.R.)

Ans. — The municipal water in your city is preferable to any other, in my judgment.

My husband, an attorney, visited the farmers' market last summer and brought home a bushel of wheat. He washes it with soapy water, rinses with running water, dries it, and carries a pocketful. He chews it in the course of the day, and often uses it in place of lunch . . . (Mrs. R.A.T.)

Ans. — It would be fine for the welfare of the nation if 50 million other men were to follow your husband's example. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for the FREE pamphlet, Wheat to Eat.

Subject to frequent headaches, began using for relief —— (an acetanilide mixture). Now I have to take a whole bottle of it every day . . . (O.E.J.)

Ans. — Many persons become addicted to coal-tar derivatives in such pain killers. They need medical care, in hospital or sanitarium if necessary.

If they drift along without medical care they inevitably suffer physical and-or mental breakdown. I have a pamphlet Why Have Headache?, available FREE if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Please repeat the recipe for drops for running ear. (E.M.)

Ans. — No. Last time I did so, one paper had it:

"Drop in ear each night and morning two or three drops of a solution of two grains in one fluid-ounce," etc. etc. Ten grains of what? So I decided never again. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for instructions for preparing and using drops for running ear.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 300 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not diseases, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Voice of the People:

Writer Recalls Changes Made in Government

To the Editor of The Press:

I start my 86th year so I have seen a lot of changes in government.

I remember when the U.S.A. was honored by all nations, and to get to be a citizen of this wonderful country was a dream. Some people fell to their knees and praised God when they saw the Statue of Liberty. Many are among our best citizens.

But that was when our State Department screened out the bad. Now our wonderful country has become the dumping ground for the scum of other lands.

I remember when Uncle Sam was honored by all nations. But now he is old Uncle Sap, who overtaxes his people to hand out billions to try to buy friends, but who take the money and then laugh at the old sucker. This has been going on for sixteen years.

I well remember we had a President no one in the world laughed at. His name was Roosevelt — Teddy, that is. How we have needed another Teddy Roosevelt.

What do you suppose Teddy would have done when this big-mouth, blustering K of Red Russia warned Eisenhower to keep hands off Cuba, only 90 miles from our shores and 5,000 from Russia's? He would have called his hand and Mr. K would have been silenced.

I also remember President Monroe warned all countries not to get a foothold in the Western Hemisphere. After World War II, they organized the United Nations, which was supposed to do wonders in establishing peace, but it has turned out to be a joke that amounts to nothing. We pay 75 per cent of the cost. There's old Uncle Sap again.

Is it smart business to borrow billions, on which we must pay interest, to hand over to other countries to try to buy friendship? I say it should be stopped.

'Bowler Deserves Better Coverage'

We have a home town boy who made himself the Bowling Sparemaster for four weeks and the paper ran a small article with a "dark, bold heading," and small type.

This shocks me as I have always felt The Pontiac Press was the best newspaper in Michigan. What does a person have to do to receive recognition?

One of Pontiac's most up and coming young citizens has made himself and Pontiac nationally famous and no one has seen fit outside of a few small paragraphs on the sports page, to mention anything at all about this feat. Even Don Carter, the nation's top bowler of 1961 only lasted two weeks. "Mo" will compete again this Saturday on TV's national hookup. Pontiac should be proud to announce a home town boy is nationally famous.

'Where's Area Help on Urban Renewal?'

Federal funds were granted Pontiac's urban renewal project with the hope that local labor would be used to alem the present unemployment crisis.

At last Tuesday's city commission meeting, George Mullner, president of Laborers Local 1076 (AFL-CIO) charged that local labor is not working on the project. One of the terms of the contract with the Dore Wrecking Company of Kawkawlin stipulated that area workers would be used.

GOP Counting on Romney to Run

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

News Analysis

The story around Lansing now is what would happen if George W. Romney doesn't run for governor.

Romney, however, will say yes.

The busy auto executive and constitutional convention vice president has for weeks acted like a seasoned campaigner which he isn't. Every utterance is weighed with an eye toward Nov. 6 — and perhaps two years hence when an even more important election rolls around.

TRUMBULL

Romney can't say no. His blossoming troops of followers would be dealt a low blow. As one young senator put it standing in the Senate chambers: "If he ducks, there's a window over there that you'll see quite a few senators plunge out of."

Michigan Republicans want and need Romney. Some insist still on playing the old political game of liberal vs. conservative and won't publicly wave the banner for Romney, but privately there lurks a conviction that the dapper American Motors president has cultured the right-est image for the party in some time.

"If Romney can't win the state back for us nobody can," they exclaim unequivocally.

When the 54-year-old Bloomfield Hills resident isn't absorbed in convention business he's huddled with those of his adopted party evaluating party philosophy and hearing welcomed promises of support. Yesterday the four Oakland County GOP state representatives were hosts at a breakfast at the Lansing YWCA where Romney was sized up by GOP House members.

On Monday night he'll break bread with the right moderate GOP senators, including his staunch advocate, Sen. Farrell E. Roberts of Oakland County.

"Is this like a man who'll say no?" his backers exclaim.

The 99-member Republican majority at the convention is trying hard, and with some success, to shape the states fourth constitution to Romney's liking. The onetime lobbyist for an aluminum company wants desperately to build a good document which guarantees a free society of active participation by all without having to cry for help to Washington.

Romney is so busy with convention and auto business that he hasn't had a day for soul searching. He recently asked his big booster Arthur G. Elliott Jr., a delegate who doubles as an appointment secretary for Romney, to keep today free so he can decide for himself. He's said he would announce on or before Feb. 10.

The national news media press corps follows Romney around Constitution Hall and the Jack Tar Hotel as though he were the Pied Piper of Politics. He is. You have to wait in line for a rare chance to pitch a ride in Romney's Rambler to digest some of his philosophy.

The nation will look in on Romney when he's questioned on the Feb. 4 "Meet the Press" television program.

Should he defeat Swainson, and later stabilize the state's economy with some magic and at the same time pull it out of the financial hole, Romney would establish himself as a No. 1 contender to President Kennedy's White House chair in 1964.

Some dreaming Republicans are today looking that far. Democrats urge caution. "Remember Wendell Wilkie," one Detroit Democrat said.

First things first, however. Romney vs. Swainson, then . . . .

Move Wouldn't Ban Graduated State Tax

Propose Ban on Graduated State Tax

LANSING (AP) — A graduated state income tax would be banned under a proposal adopted Friday by the constitutional convention's committee on finance and taxation.

The provision was approved on a straight party line vote, 12-4, with Democrats casting the negative votes.

Adoption of the proposal came within a few hours after Gov. Swainson recommended to the legislature that it adopt a flat rate income tax of 3½ per cent.

The constitutional provision, if accepted by the full convention, would not bar such a tax.

The finance and taxation committee, by its action, adopted part of a proposal sponsored by Richard Van Dusen, R-Bingham Farms. It stated:

"No income tax graduated as to rate or base shall be imposed by the state or any of its subdivisions."

BLOCK TO PIGGYBACK

Committee members said the proposal would prevent the adoption of any income tax placed as a piggyback atop the U.S. income tax, since the federal levy is on a graduated scale.

The committee also adopted, on an 11-3 vote, a provision that would allow only property owners to vote on ballot proposals increasing millage for capital outlay projects. The present constitution imposes a 15-mill limitation.

In the legislative organization committee, salaries for lawmakers were discussed — but no action was taken.

One delegate proposed that salaries be pegged at $7,500 a year, plus an expense allowance. After one year, the legislature would be allowed to adjust salaries further. Current pay for lawmakers is $5,000 a year, plus $1,200 for expenses.

Other delegates argued that the matter was up to the legislature and the constitution should not mention salaries.

At a news conference, Democratic leaders announced that they would be submitting a legislative reapportionment plan in the form of a minority report.

ZONE PLAN

Melvin Nord, D-Detroit, said the proposal would be based in part on a plan submitted earlier by Michigan State University President John A. Hannah, chairman of the legislative organization committee.

The plan for the Senate, he said, would divide the state into four approximately equal zones geographically, with two senators to be allotted to each zone. The remainder of the seats would be allocated on a population basis with each lawmaker allowed a weighted vote proxy.

Under the proxy system, a senator would be allowed to cast the number of votes he received in the election.

Charged With Owning a Sawed-Off Shotgun

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — John A. Curtis, 41, of Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent when arraigned in U.S. District Court here Friday on a charge of possessing an unregistered sawed-off shotgun. He was remanded to jail to await trial.

Curtis was arrested in Benton Township of Berrien County and specifically is charged with violating the Federal Firearms Act.

Bye-Bye Lake Beebe
$150 Wager in the Bag

CLARE (AP) — Tony Wedel was set today to collect $150 from his wife, Sandra, and 14 friends who bet he couldn't make it alone in the woods eight days and nights. The eight days end at 1 p. m.

The 33-year-old, 195-pound Wedal went into the woods a week ago Friday at 1 p. m. and set up a campsite on Lake Beebe, 10 miles northeast of here in a wilderness area. His only supplies were what he could carry on his back three-quarters of a mile from the nearest road.

Wedel's tent was isolated Friday by a freezing rain and fog that made roads too slippery for anybody to reach him, and grounded the plane of a friend who has been making daily checks on him.

But everybody in this central Michigan community of 2,500 figured that if Wedal could survive the near-zero weather and snowstorms earlier this week he undoubtedly survived the sleet and thaw.

Woman Ruled Innocent in Slaying of Children

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A judge has ruled that Mrs. Victoria Walker, 30, was innocent by reason of insanity in the fatal shooting of her children, Patricia, 3, and Robert, 2, in 1946.

Circuit Judge James R. Breakey Jr. made the ruling Friday after a brief trial. Mrs. Walker was released earlier this week from Ionia State Hospital, where she was committed 16 years ago.

Reflections

WINTER

J. L. VOORHEES

M. E. SIPLE

Winter is the circus of seasons; wind roars like a lion, clouds perform like high trapeze performers, spectacular colors at sunrise and sunset, a calliope of sounds from the staccato smash of rain against windows, thin notes of the flute, whine of trapeze dance on vibrating telephone wires, splintering crash of a tree in the finale climax.

Inconvertible forces meet head-on; we call it a weather front; cold Arctic air pushes warm air higher and higher, it condenses and we have an exhibit of beauty unequaled in any living human being—a snow flake. Hunt for comparable beauty in the greatest museums on earth and you'll be disappointed, these tiny crystals are so exquisite and gasp in awe. This Arctic air, cold as it is, creating suffering also creates hilarious shouts of wild joy for winter sports fans; children with sleds on a snow-covered hillside, skaters moving with grace on lakes and streams, men and women on skis literally dive down snow-covered slopes.

The aroma of fruit cake, apples in storage, fragrance of hay in a barn, lively laughter of guests, music of an opera, crackling fire, a book and victorious experiences of the author are all part of Winter.

Teen-Agers: Watch Snacks

Dance to Take Off Poundage

(Editor's Note — Following is the fourth in a series of six articles on specific weight and diet problems of young Americans by Gaynor Maddox, author of "The Safe and Sure Way to Reduce.")

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Food and Markets Editor

The twist may be a blessing in contorted disguise for the teen-ager with a weight problem.

For dancing is exercise and exercise is a key element in cutting excess poundage off and keeping it off. And many young people don't get enough of it.

Dr. Henrietta Fleck, chairman of the Home Economics Department at New York University, said in an interview:

"We find that lack of physical activity is increasingly a factor in teen-age overweight."

Dr Fleck and Dr Elizabeth Munves, curriculum director of nutrition at the university, explained how they handle the problem. Each incoming freshman's health report is screened carefully.

If the student is overweight, he or she is encouraged to follow an eating and activity program that fits the individual situation.

START EXERCISE

The two doctors urge all overweight high school or college students — and young working people, too — to join local Ys or similar organizations which will permit swimming once or twice a week. Hiking clubs provide opportunity for physical activity, too.

"Dancing, also, is a pleasant exercise you should indulge in more regularly," Dr. Fleck advises young people. "Any activity which uses your muscles is important in your effort to lose excess weight."

She stresses that physical activity not only burns up calories, but helps maintain emotional balance, without which a weight control program is rarely successful. Dr. Fleck asks:

ARE YOU STABLE?

"Have you developed the ability to meet the normal problems of your life with a degree of stability?

"If you are unstable, unable to force yourself to attempt, at least, to solve some of your problems, you probably will usually sit down and start eating candy or some calorie-rich food in an effort to forget your troubles. The result — more unwanted flesh on your body and just as many unsolved problems."

One factor in your overweight may be your family eating pattern. Dr. Munves explained:

"In many families, the father's idea of being a good provider is to have huge quantities of food on the dinner table and to urge his children to eat it all. Many of our students are surprisingly ignorant of basic food values. Unfortunately their mothers and fathers are frequently just as uninformed."

If this is your problem, Dr Munves' advice is to learn the nutritional values of food yourself (your school or your doctor should be able to help here).

CHANGE HABITS

If you find your family meals are overladen with carbohydrates and sweets, encourage your family to alter them. If that doesn't work, eat selectively of what is placed before you.

"In the course of that self-education," Dr. Munves added, "you may be surprised to learn — as most of our students are — that catsup, mayonnaise, sweet pickles and peanuts, all favorite snack foods, are high calorie foods."

Dr. Munves has had lots of experience with the unpleasingly plump coed who believes if she goes on a crash diet a few days before the prom, she'll wind up with a figure like Elizabeth Taylor's. She commented:

"You girls should realize that a loss of weight will not change your inherited body build. If you are stocky, large-boned, a little heavy in legs or thighs, no diet will change your basic bone and muscle structure. Of course, a sound reducing program will improve your health, looks and spirits, but it will not redesign you structurally."

But boys have some equally foolish ideas. Dr. Munves told of one college senior who objected to efforts to get him to reduce because "I work at night in a bar and have to be 'strong' in case I have to bounce someone."

(NEXT: Dangers of the extreme diets.)

Emotional problems sometimes drive teen-agers to overindulge in calorie-rich foods. Lack of physical activity also has been found to be a factor in adolescent overweight.

Abby Says: Courtesy Is Wonderful

More Important to Be Kind Than It Is to Be Too Honest

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Every time we are in a crowd and someone tells a joke, my husband says "I've heard that one before." Or else, when they finish, he'll say, "Here's the way I heard it" and he'll tell it over, only a little different.

I was taught that it is bad manners to do that and whether you've heard a joke or not you should pretend you haven't and laugh for courtesy's sake. My husband says that is being phony, and he would rather be honest. Who is right?

ABBY

PHONY BUT NICE

DEAR PHONY: I vote with you. It's more important to be kind than frank.

DEAR ABBY: The man I married has always detested eye make-up of any kind. I went to a make-up consultant and she told me to fill in the blank spaces in my eyebrows with a little eyebrow pencil.

I used the pencil for a month and my husband didn't even notice it. I thought it made me look a lot nicer. It wasn't painted looking, Abby. It was neat and hardly noticeable.

One morning my husband saw me using the pencil and he started to rave about how cheap eye make-up was. I told him I'd been using it for a month and he called me "deceitful" and cursed me as though I had taken a giant step toward degradation.

The next time I went to use my eyebrow pencil, it was missing. I later found it broken to pieces in the waste basket. I am very angry. What would you do in my place?

SHAGGY BROWS

DEAR SHAGGY: Obviously it wasn't the "work" of the pencil — it was the principle of it that irritated your husband — but he certainly behaved in a childish manner. You knew he "detested" eye make-up when you married him. Write off the pencil entirely.

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a man who can be the sweetest person on earth at times, but there are other times when he is so mean and ugly it is frightening. I have cried my eyes out over him. He gets on the subject of my cheating on him, and he won't give up.

He spends hours trying to make me confess that I have been a sweetheart to his brother. Once he accused me of something terrible with an old man who has a room with us. He even accused me of awful things with my own brother.

All his accusations are false. After he torments me, he laughs and says he was only kidding. Should I marry a man like this?

TORMENTED

DEAR TORMENTED: Not unless you want to be tormented this way all your life. The man sounds sick.

Say Simply: We Have Separated

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: Will you please help me with a problem that I don't quite know how to handle? After 15 years of marriage, my husband and I have decided to separate. This will come as a shock to our friends and acquaintances as my husband and I have both tried to conceal our estrangement from them.

Our close friends will know almost immediately but I do not quite know how to let more casual friends know. For instance, when I happen to meet them and in parting they ask to be remembered to John, what should I say?

A: The more quickly you establish the truth of your separation, the simpler it will be to meet it. When friends ask to be remembered to John say, "I'm sorry to have to tell you that John and I have separated."

Q: My husband and I are giving a large cocktail party shortly for friends and acquaintances. Many of the guests will be strangers to each other and it will be impossible to introduce everyone to everyone else.

Would it be permissible to get some name tags reading "My name is . . . . . ," and give them out to the guests as they arrive and ask them to please write names on them and wear them?

A: Asking guests to wear identifying name tags would be correct at a large convention but would be in very bad taste at your cocktail party no matter how large it is to be.

Presbyterians Observe Week

Young People Assist Barnett Shepherd With Worship Services

National Youth Week will be observed in First Presbyterian Church beginning tomorrow with services devoted to the role of youth to the church, and responsibility of the church and community to youth.

Barnett Shepherd, student assistant in Christian education, will speak on "Adventure or Security" at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. worship hours. Young people assisting will be Thomas Short, Robert Bryce, Christine Bos and Janice Abel. The Youth Choir will sing.

Dorothy Dawson will present "O Lord, Most Holy" by Franck as an offertory solo.

Following the second service Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lazelle and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Shelton will serve as hosts and greeters during a fellowship hour.

At the membership instruction class for adults and senior high young people at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Rev. Galen E. Hershey will discuss "Religion in the Family" along with other subjects.

At the Couples Club dinner meeting Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Larry McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Carlson and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sartell will be hosts.

A representative of Michigan Bell Telephone Co. will show the film, "Seconds to Survival," following dinner.

Missionary to Brazil at Calvary Baptist

Because a Brazilian woman was so eager to hear about Christ that she made two different 10-mile trips on foot, Rev. John Stucky was able to begin missionary work in a new Brazilian community.

Rev. Mr. Stucky will speak at Sunday School and morning worship tomorrow at Calvary Baptist Church, 3750 Pontiac Lake Road.

Unable to find where the mission worship services were held, Dona Ignace trudged back home. When Pastor Stucky heard of her efforts, he visited her home with a Christian guide. There he found the whole family anxious to learn about Christianity.

The family helped him establish a Christian group in the area.

Members of Calvary Baptist Church are sponsoring a series of 12 films entitled "Life of Christ." Pictures in color portraying the complete life of Christ will begin on Feb. 4. The first film will be "Holy Night."

College Student From Venezuela Speaks at Covert

Ed Curta, a Venezuelan student who has attended Flint Community Junior College for two years, will address the School of Missions at 7 p.m. Sunday in Covert Methodist Church.

His topic will be "The Political and Social Problems Facing Venezuela."

The school of missions which began Sunday will continue each Sunday evening through Feb. 11 with the study theme, "This Is Latin America."

Mrs. Mary Wittbrodt, a former resident and teacher in Argentina and now the wife of Rev. Donald Wittbrodt, associate pastor of First Methodist Church, will speak on Feb. 4.

Fremont Alden teaches the adult group; Mrs. Audrey Hoke, senior high young people; and junior high youth leaders are Mr. and Mrs. Gard Thomas. Mrs. Eloise Watts is chairman of the mission program. Pastor is Rev. Wilbur E. Courter.

New Hope Members Observe Guest Day

"First Things First" will be the theme of Dr. Thomas Holt's sermon at the 11 a.m. guest day service Sunday in New Hope Baptist Church.

* * *

Annual Dedication Day also will be observed with members reconsecrating their lives to God and the work of the church.

Percy Walley Ordained; Dr. Kontz Is Preacher

Percy Walley, former minister of Christian Education at Bethany Baptist Church, was ordained to the ministry last week at the First Baptist Church in Plainsfield, Iowa.

Dr. Emil Kontz, pastor of Bethany Church, preached the ordination sermon.

JUDGE GIVES AWARD — Lynn Higger of 671 Northfield Road was presented the Ellen Lois Award by Probate Judge Donald E. Adams at First Free Methodist Church Sunday evening. The award is the highest Christian Youth Crusader award that can be earned by girls in the 12 to 14 age group. The award is the culmination of three years' effort in which Lynn completed three ranks and earned 12 achievements in each. Pastor Lyal H. Howison (center) looks on.

Youth Pray, Sing, Speak

Preachers, teachers and people of church congregations, gladly give assistance to young people's programs both in and out of the church.

They believe in interesting boys and girls in Sunday School, sports, children's and young people's choirs and as they become older in assisting the pastor in reading Scripture from the Bible, leading responsive readings, generally in the Psalms, speaking, and in offering prayer.

Sunday and all next week services, banquets and other programs will be offered youth in Pontiac area churches.

BALDWIN EVANGELICAL

Patricia Horner is chairman of the youth program Sunday evening at Bladwin Evangelical United Brethren Church. Robert Everett will lead the singing and Jack Avery will read Scripture. Lois Johnson and Susan Killen will pray.

Carolyn Gaddes will be in charge of the offering, and Ermadine Cornett will make the dedication of self denial gifts.

The Girls' Chorus from the North East Community Church will sing; Phyllis Hardy will play a flute solo and Danny Lovse will be organist.

David Kirby, Bruce Robertson and Ronald Walker, three young men of the church who are preparing for the ministry, will speak on "When I Consider" with sub themes "God And His Works," "The Church And Man's Responsibility" and "My Life and What I Should Be."

Ronald Walker will pronounce the benediction.

Young people also will assist in the Sunday morning service, and prayer service at 7 p.m. Wednesday. They will sponsor a chili supper Saturday evening.

ORCHARD LAKE COMMUNITY

Presenting the sermon theme "Called to Responsible Freedom," at Orchard Lake Community Church, Presbyterian at 9 and 11 a.m. Sunday are Linda Newport, Nancy Clark, Mary Fran Sarto and Marion Smith.

Leading services will be Johnna McDonald, Marjorie Ashby, Nancy Hough and Chris Hill. Ushers include John Lundquist, Bob Thornton, Marilyn Paholak, Bette Fuller, Jan Appel and Sandy Brown, Mary Reeves, Yasuko Yamamoto, Joanne Auchard and Joanne Schamlzreid will be greeters.

J. A. Van Coevering and Carroll Appell will assist Pastor Edward D. Auchard in teaching the class on "Introduction to Theology," at 6 p.m. tomorrow. Sunday's topic will be "Who Is Jesus Christ?"

Albert Riddering, supervisor of the Turner Hodge School in Merica, Yucatan, Mex. will speak to the Junior High Fellowship at 5 p.m. Thursday. Prior to his present assignment, Mr. Riddering taught in the Holly and Brighton schools. He serves under the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Van Coevering will show pictures of a hunting trip in the jungles of Columbia at 7:30 Friday evening. Refreshments will be served.

BETHANY BAPTIST

Martha Foren will be among the senior high young people taking part in the annual youth observance at Bethany Baptist Church tomorrow.

In both the 8:40 and 11 a.m. services she will speak on "The Freedom of Youth." Joel Snyder will be heard on "The Responsibility of Youth in the Church" and Ellen Cornell will address herself to "The Responsibility of Youth in the Community."

A quartet of girls composed of Heidi Bergemann, Diana Irish, Karen Shirley and Sherry Zanoth will sing in both services. Giving the call to worship will be David Smith; Jeff Bergeron will offer morning prayer and Roger Ferguson, responsive reading.

Sally Hamilton, Betty Douglas and Michael Rooney also will participate during the worship.

Esther Maddlewood, director of Mental Health Education of Michigan, will be guest speaker at the annual youth banquet at 6:00 tonight. Bud Osler will be toastmaster at the banquet, the opening event of Youth Week at Bethany.

FIRST METHODIST

First Methodist young people will lead the worship service at 8:30 Sunday morning with Thomas Hubbell singing "Great Is Thy Faithfulness." The Chapel Choir will sing responses and Joyce Livingstons will be organist.

The Cherub, Caroler and Songster Choirs will appear in a special number at the second service. Marlene Beal will be soloist when the Sanctuary Choir sings 'Lovely Appear."

Howard Shelly of "Michigan Outdoors' programs, will present travel pictures in color at the Father and Son Banquet scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Friday. Arthur Mansfield is chairman of the affair.

JOSLYN AVENUE U. P.

Young people of Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church will have complete charge of the 10:45 service tomorrow with Mary De Clute giving the call to worship and opening prayer.

Gordon Oda will make announcements and conduct registrations. Leading Gospel Reading will be Imogene Baker and giving the pastoral prayer will be Karen Classon. Chuck Hartsell will offer the tithes and offering prayer.

"What Is Youth Week?" will be the theme of a talk by Judy Dunham. Mary Jane Hoisington and Chuck Hartsell will present the sermon entitled "Called to Responsible Freedom."

John Watkins, John Dunham, Jay Bailey and Rick Johnson will sing as a quartet, and Judy Loughced, Jan Starky and Miss Hoisington will present a trio number.

Ushers for the day will include Dennis Farnsworth, Bob Baker, George Miller and Rick Stewart.

At the old fashioned singspiration at 7 p.m. Charles Stevens will read the Scripture and Mr. Hartsell will lead the singing.

TRINITY METHODIST

Trinity Methodist Church, Waterford Township will observe Youth Sunday with James Wohlgahagen, one of the young people, giving the pastoral prayer at the 10:30 morning service. The congregation is currently worshiping in the Schoolcraft School on Maceday Drive.

Dawn Mercer will preside at the Youth Fellowship meeting at 6 p.m. in the parsonage. Others taking part in the program include Sally Drinkert, Stuart Timmerman, Bill McMillin, Cynthia Graves and Susan David.

Rev. Ovid Stein, missionary from Rhodesia, will speak at the family night dinner Feb. 4 at the Community Activities Building, Waterford Township. He also will show pictures of his work.

AUBURN HEIGHTS U.P.

The morning worship service of the United Presbyterian Church at Auburn Heights will be turned over to young people of the church in the observance of Youth Sunday. Tim Hoban will give the call to worship.

Patty Hamilton will lead responsive reading; and Bob Lowery will read Scripture lesson. Morning prayer will be offered by Joyce Swartz and closing prayer by Mike Davis. Bringing the children's sermon will be Sharon Shaw and Reyes Coronado will preside at the offering.

The message concerning "Faith in Our Church" will be presented by Reva Walden, Diane Reddaway, Larry Evon, Ronald Thomas and Sheila Conner. Serving as ushers will be Dale Alstat, Ken Hebel, Harol Smith and Jerry Willhite.

Bringing music will be a special Youth Choir under the direction of Mrs. Bill Vanell.

Both the Post Hi and Youth Fellowship groups will meet at 6:30 Sunday evening.

"Devotional Life on the Mission Field" will be the theme of Rev. Harry Peters' sermon at 7:30 tomorrow night. Rev. Mr. Peters and his family have just returned from mission work among Spanish speaking people in Guatemala, Chile and Venezuela.

Hospital Head Speaking at Lakeland U. P. Church

Dr. Howard F. Moffett of Korea, superintendent of the 150-bed Presbyterian Hospital in Taegu, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Lakeland United Presbyterian Church, 7825 Maceday Lake Road, Waterford Township.

Dr. Moffett also serves at the Leprosy Hospital, Children's Hospital, out patient clinics and two clinics in other towns.

Born in Korea of missionary parents, he was graduated from Wheaton College and Northwestern University Medical School, and interned at Charity Hospital in New Orleans.

The guest speaker served at the Naval Hospital in New Orleans, and Naval Air Technical He was appointed to the Presbyterian Church in Korea in 1947 but was temporarily stationed for two years in Nanking, China.

When the Korean war broke out Dr. Moffett undertook service in Korea for the U.S. Air Force. He returned to his work under the commission of the church in 1956.

Another service of interest will be Sunday morning when Youth Fellowship, and Junior and Senior Choirs present a special program celebrating the beginning of National Youth Week.

Judge Moore at Breakfast

Ministers Hold Session at Clark's Restaurant Thursday Morning

Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore will speak to ministers of the Greater Pontiac Evangelical Minister's Fellowship at Clark's Restaurant, Montcalm and Baldwin Avenue Thursday morning.

The business session will begin at 8 p. m. with breakfast following at 8:30. Judge Moore will speak at 9 a. m. on "Youth Protection Service and How You Can Help."

Youth Protection Service of Oakland County is a plan to get young people interested in the church before they become delinquent.

Judge Moore said his plan has had good acceptance in the county.

Hal Newhouser of baseball fame also will be present to give his religious assistance to the program.

Rev. Theodore R. Allebach, president of the group, said all ministers are welcome.

Bell Chorale Presents Concert at Trinity

The Couples Club of Trinity Baptist Church will present the Bell Chorale in concert at 7 p.m. Sunday. This is one of the finer singing groups in the area, said Dr. Joseph W. Moore, pastor.

Directing the group will be Frederick Bellinger. Accompanist is Gilbert Jackson.

Rev. Roy Cummings, pastor of Messiah Baptist Church, will speak on behalf of the Building Fund Team No. 4 at 3:30 p.m. Sunday. The choir and congregation of his church also will be present. The public is invited, the pastor said.

5 Men Elected as Vestrymen at St. Mary's

William Wilmot, Halsey Davidson, Al Martin, Gus Kostoulos and George Bailey were elected to the vestry of St. Mary's-in-the-Hills Episcopal Church at the annual meeting this week.

Daniel S. McGeen was chosen senior warden and Clayton Leach was named junior warden. The treasurer and secretary remain the same, G. Dean Spitler and Donald Shultz.

The church started in its present location as a mission of All Saints Episcopal Church, Pontiac in 1953. Rev. Wilbur R. Schultze is rector.

200 Evacuated From Laos City

U.S.-Piloted Aircraft Carrying People From Town Under Red Seige

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — American-piloted transport planes rushed to Nam Tha today to evacuate civilians from that northwestern Laos provincial capital being attacked by pro-Communis rebels.

More than 200 civilians already were flown out by "air American" C46 transports today to the royal capital of Luang Prabang, 100 miles southeast of Nam Tha.

With six battalions of rebel troops reportedly pressing on Nam Tha, the situation grew rapidly worse for the royal government defenders.

The royal government said today that neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma is due in Luang Prabang Feb. 2 to continue talks on forming a coalition government. There was no word on whether pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong would also attend.

Luang Prabang, 150 miles north of Vientiane, is virtually surrounded by pro-Communist rebels and has to be supplied by airlift.

Pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces reportedly reached Nam Tha's main line of defense, a high ridge only six miles from the town.

They were also bringing mortar fire onto another ridge northeast of the Nam Tha Valley, American military advisers with the royal army reported.

REFLECTED WRECK—A pool of spilled oil reflects the jumbled wreckage of a Frisco Railroad train which derailed at Beggs, Okla., about 30 miles south of Tulsa., Friday, blocking the railroad's main line. The 104-car freight was bound for Dallas. Forty-nine cars left the tracks. Forty-seven of them were loaded tank cars. There was no fire and no one was injured.

Shirley Booth Scores Again

Hazel Muscles In on Television

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD—One of the big hits of the 1961-62 television season is "Hazel." The big hit of Hazel is Shirley Booth.

* * *

It should have come as no surprise to students of the stage and cinema that Miss Booth was able to bring Ted Key's wise-cracking cartoon maid to warm, humorous life. Her past portrayals have won her whatever stage prizes are available — plus an Academy Award for "Come Back, Little Sheba."

THOMAS

Now she has helped push "Hazel" into impressive ratings, and the stage and screen may have to wait a long time for her services again.

ANALYZES SHOW

Miss Booth talks well about "Hazel" and other matters.

"I always thought if I ever did anything in television it would be a quiet, warm kind of a show like 'Father Knows Best.' When I found out they were going to get the same writers to do 'Hazel' that was all I needed to know," she said.

"The important thing was to establish a friendly relationship between the characters on the show. They may bicker with each other but you know that they essentially like each other. That's needed. You can't get attached to a show if you think maybe the people aren't friendly.

"'I Love Lucy' had that special quality. No matter how much Lucy and Ricky fought and argued, you knew they really loved each other.

"As Ted Key himself pointed out, 'Hazel' wasn't an easy subject to adapt to TV. It wasn't even a comic strip; it was a panel cartoon with one-line gags all delivered by Hazel.

"There was a danger of making it a gag show, with laughs coming every few seconds. You can do that in TV and on the stage. The audience laughs, but afterward they say, 'what was it all about?'. . . .

THEATER TOUGH

"Why did I leave Broadway? The theater is a pretty tough row to hoe these days. I was in one show, 'Loss of Roses,' which I left in Washington, and another, 'Juno,' which closed in two weeks on Broadway. I've had two others that didn't even get into rehearsals because of lack of backing. I can't wait around.

* * *

"What did the Oscar do for me? Nothing. I suppose for some actors it adds a certain distinction—makes them seem more important. But that never appealed to me."

Seven People Killed by Former Teacher

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The principal, his wife and five faculty members of a school in suburban Taipei were shot to death today by a man police identified as the disgruntled former head of the physical education department at the school.

A man identified as Tsui Yung, 41, was taken into custody later and police said he confessed the killings. He said he had been fired more than a year ago by the principal, Han Ke Ching.

Four persons were injured in the wild shooting affray, which terrorized more than 2,000 students of the school.

Board Chairman Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Edgar Alan Newberry, 75, board chairman of the J. J. Newberry Co., died Thursday of a heart attack. Newberry joined the nationwide chain of variety-department stores in 1919 as a stock boy, became board chairman 35 years later.

Nikita Is the Hero of New Red Novel

MOSCOW (AP) — A new novel is destined to become a best seller in the Soviet Union. Its hero: Nikita Khrushchev.

Novelist Ivan Shukhov has painted the premier in flattering tones in a novel about Siberian farm problems.

Although Shukhov's prose is not particularly brilliant the novel is getting a big build-up and being serialized in one newspaper, the Kazakhstan Pravda.

CALL ON KHRUSHCHEV

One chapter deals with five Siberian farmers who are disappointed that the land in their virgin territory is not being run well, and they call on Khrushchev.

* * *

The premier's office is described as "clean, neat, cozy—as if not an office." There is a long green-covered table about which many foreign diplomats have sat in recent years without finding it altogether too cozy.

LISTENS TO FARMERS

Khrushchev listens to the farmers' complaint that "there is much land but nobody takes good care of it."

"Wrinkles showed up on his high forehead," the story goes.

"You are not the only ones at a loss," he tells the peasants. "A lot of people in high places also are at a loss, including leaders from the virgin lands."

It is believed to be the first novel ever published portraying Khrushchev—a critic of the personality cult—as a historical figure.

Consumers Reports Record 1961 Sales

JACKSON (UPI) — Consumers Power Co. Friday reported record 1961 sales of electricity and natural gas.

Board Chairman A. H. Aymond Jr. said sales of electricity totaled more than 9.8 billion kilowatt-hours, 3 per cent above 1960.

Natural gas sales came to nearly 131 billion cubic feet, 11 per cent above 1960.

Gross operating revenue was $303,524,000, an increase of 8 per cent over 1960, with electric operating revenue up 4 per cent to $186,399,000 and gas up 15 per cent to $116,123,000.

Earnings available to common stock were $35,654,000, equal to $3.68 per share outstanding.

Yenik Murder Trial Will Resume Monday

NEWBERRY (AP) — The trial of James Yenik on a first-degree murder charge will resume before a jury in Luce County Circuit Court Monday.

The 38-year-old Flint auto worker is accused of slaying Michael Richmond, 14, of Newberry at a woods road intersection 14 miles east of here last July 28.

Before the trial was recessed Friday for the weekend, the prosecution put Dr. Edgar W. Kivela, assistant director of the State Crime Detection Laboratory, on the stand to explain 27 slides offered as exhibits. He will return to the stand Monday.

MESC Cases Higher Than '60; Cost in Millions

DETROIT (UPI) — The Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) said today it processed over 8.3-million unemployment compensation claims last year which cost the state nearly $214 million.

The MESC said the case load, while higher than 1960 or 1959, was well below the 12.4 million claims processed in recession 1958 when the state spent over $26 million.

In a year-end review, the MESC said the northeast Detroit office had the largest claim load in the state—532,000 — with Flint second at 467,000 claims.

The MESC said branch offices around the state "did much better than in the preceding recession" in finding new jobs for the unemployed.

Legislator Hits Absenteeism of Michigan Solons

LANSING (AP) — Rep. Roger B. Townsend, D-Flint, thinks too many lawmakers skip too many sessions of the legislature for no good reason.

He proposed Friday to dock the pay of house members if they miss more than 30 per cent of the formal sessions in any month without a specific leave of absence.

They would be fined a day's salary and a portion of their $1,250 yearly expense account for every day missed. Fines would be turned over to the legislative retirement fund.

"I know of one fellow here who has only attended one session this year, and he has no good reason for being absent," said Townsend, whose own attendance record is high.

Saginaw Man, 28, Dies When Struck by Car

SAGINAW (AP) — Karl F. Meyerholt, 28, of Saginaw, was injured fatally today when he was thrown from a car and struck by a second vehicle on I-75 near the Cass River Bridge.

Police said Meyerholt apparently lost control of his car and skidded into a bridge abutment. He was thrown out of the car and struck by a second car driven by James T. Blair, 36, of Flint.

Blair was not held.

Russia's Stand Dooms N-Test Ban Talk Future

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain are expected to tell Russia in blunt terms Monday that further separate negotiations on a nuclear test-ban treaty are useless because of the Soviet attitude on the critical inspection issue.

State Department officials said the record of Soviet maneuvers in recent weeks has made it plain that Moscow is opposed to a ban on nuclear weapons testing under controls. Russia is only interested now, they said, in trying to put the blame for the failure of the long negotiations on the United States and Britain.

Broad-scale negotiations on disarmament are scheduled to open at Geneva March 14 under U.N. auspices. The conference will be made up of 18 nations.

In Washington's view the prospects for any real progress toward ending the nuclear arms race are extremely dim. But the Western powers intend to put fresh emphasis on the need for a nuclear test ban as a starting point.

Russia rejected Friday a U.S.-British offer made earlier this month to merge the test-ban talks with the forthcoming disarmament negotiations. This was a sharp turnabout in the Soviet position. For months Kremlin leaders, including Premier Khrushchev, had declared that they should be merged.

The next nuclear test meeting at Geneva is scheduled for Monday and officials said that presumably that would be the last session of the series, which began more than three years ago. They said the United States and Britain would formally state their position at that time.

The Soviet maneuver followed one of Nov. 28 when the Russian delegation made new proposals to the Western powers on a test-ban treaty. In effect, these proposals call for a declaration that there would be no more nuclear weapons test explosions. The key provision was that each country would police its own pledge.

The Western powers promptly rejected this, saying it was a variety of "self-inspection" that would give no assurance at all that the Soviet Union would live up to its commitment.

State Department officials declared that the Western powers would never agree to major disarmament steps, beginning with a ban on testing, which were not safeguarded by an international inspection system.

One objective of the Russian maneuver in trying to keep the Geneva talks going may be to bring pressures on the United States to prevent President Kennedy from deciding to go ahead with atmospheric tests.

Denies Switch by Rockefellers

Spokesman Says Pair Have Made No Change in Divorce Plans

NEW YORK (UPI) — A family spokesman has denied that the wife of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has changed their mutually agreeable plans for a divorce after 31 years of marriage.

The spokesman, who indicated he represented Mrs. Rockefeller as well as the Republican governor, issued a statement following a copyright story in Newsday, a suburban daily published in Garden City, saying that Mrs. Rockefeller wanted a reconciliation.

The newspaper said that Rockefeller would have to initiate the divorce action in another state, thereby forfeiting the governorship because of residency requirements, if he wanted an immediate divorce.

The Rockefeller family spokesman said "it has been ascertained that there has been no change whatsoever in the original plans and intentions of Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller as they were made known on Nov. 17, 1961."

The Nov. 17 announcement revealed that the governor and his wife, the former Mary Todhunter Clark of Philadelphia, had separated, adding "it is anticipated that the terms of the (property) settlement will be incorporated into a subsequent decree of divorce."

A spokesman made it clear at the time that Mrs. Rockefeller would seek the divorce outside New York State where adultery is the only accepted grounds for divorce.

It quoted American news reports from Cape Canaveral and made no comment on the attempt.

Dem Given Edge in Congressional Race in Texas

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—Texas' 13th District will elect a congressman today to succeed Frank Ikard, a Democrat who resigned.

The election is a runoff between Democrat Graham Purcell Jr., 42, and Republican Joe Meissner, who were the high men in a five-way race Dec. 16.

Purcell is favored on the basis of his showing in the earlier election and the fact that the district is predominantly Democratic.

Purcell led Meissner 8,960 to 6,740 in the first balloting, while three other Democrats totaled 10,939 votes.

Portugal and India Talk Over Swap

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal has tentatively agreed to release 12,000 Indian citizens she interned last month after India invaded Goa.

The Indian nationals must leave a government communique said Friday night.

In return, it was reported, Portugal is negotiating for the repatriation of 3,500 soldiers and civilians interned by India when India seized the enclaves of Goa, Damao and Diu.

Court Upholds Ruling Kohler Guilty in Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Court of Appeals upheld a ruling that the Kohler Co. of Kohler, Wis. was guilty of unfair labor practices in connection with a long United Auto Workers Union strike that began in 1954.

The strike was marked by violence and vandalism.

Official Claims Italy Was Ready to Arrest Lucky

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A U.S. narcotics official said Friday night that American and Italian agents were ready to arrest Charles (Lucky) Luciano when he died of a heart attack.

Deputy Commissioner Henry Giordano of the Narcotics Bureau said "we were ready to move against him with the Italian authorities."

He said the decision to arrest Luciano was connected with the arrest of three fugitives in Spain earlier this week.

Two of them had jumped bail in New York, where they were under a narcotics indictment. The men, Frank Caruso and Vincent Mauro, were arrested in Barcelona Tuesday.

The other man, a Spanish national named Salvatore Maneri, was arrested in Majorca.

Flint Druggist Robbed of $5,659 by Gunman

FLINT (UPI)—A gunman held up Nick Poulos, owner of a Flint drug store, Friday and fled from the store with $5,659 in cash.

Poulos said the bandit pointed a pistol at him and demanded the cash box, then locked Poulos and an employe in the basement and fled.

Your Neighbor's House

2 Wings Enclose Patio at James Church Home in Romeo

Pontiac Press Home Editor

Everyone tells us about interesting houses—thank goodness. Our colleague, Lee Winborn, who's County Editor, talked about the James Church home in Romeo before it was even finished. Then for one reason and another, getting together with Mrs. Church delayed the pictures and story. But we made it, about 10 days before Christmas.

When the Churches moved into their new home, it meant merely moving next door. Their new lot is about 350 feet wide and nearly 350 feet deep.

Glen Paulson, of Birmingham designed the house. It was built by Blumerich & Bock of Utica.

It's a modern home with a flat roof and enclosed patio between two wings of the house. The exterior is brick in beige, gold and pink. The roof is made of marble chips set in tar over insulation and 4-inch pine boards which form the interior ceilings.

There are three children in the family. Fourteen-year-old Stephen is a boarding student at Cranbrook; Jay who's 11 goes to school in Romeo. Mary Beth isn't ready for school yet—she's only four.

The extra wide front door opens into a wide light hallway. The rear wall is all glass and looks out on the enclosed patio. Here, the floor is charcoal slate. There are translucent pebble glass windows on each side of the front door.

At the left is a large coat closet. The ceiling is slatted. A long walnut bench is placed next to the window wall. The contemporary rug combines high and low texturing in blues, black and white.

At the left, as you enter, is the bedroom wing. All the bedrooms are on the road side of the house. At the front is the master bedroom. Walls except for the one behind the beds are paneled in walnut. The fourth one is white brick. Carpeting is a creamy tufted kind. Draperies which have a print that looks Hawaiian are brown and cream.

Furniture is walnut. Bedspreads are pale gold. At the foot of each bed there is a blue flowered down puff. The wall opposite the beds has louvered closet storage.

Between this room and Mary Beth's room is a blue and white bathroom.

Mary Beth has blue and cream carpeting and cream walls. The little girl made it plain that she has a NEW bed to replace her baby crib. This new bed has a blue and white rosebud spread on it.

There is a second bath in this wing, one you can enter from the hall. Natural linen draperies hang on the corridor window wall. In the bedroom walls storage is built that is accessible from the hallway.

The two boys share a long room that has a folding door in the center. Each boy has the same furniture and if he desires, he can close the door to make his room private.

Walls are paneled. The curtains have a red and blue old-time fireman design on beige. Furniture is Danish modern birch. In the headboards of the beds there are metal "dowels." Spreads are coral corduroy.

WALL TREATMENT

Back across the wide hallway and we're in the living area of the house. At one side of the corridor that runs to the kitchen on one end and the living room on the other the wall is partially opened. Two by twos are mounted at one side of the stairs with three-foot panels between them. It is open above and below these panels.

Just inside the garage door is a small lavatory. This is convenient to the kitchen as well.

An entire wall of windows on the southern side makes the kitchen extremely bright. Aqua linen curtains cut the sun's glare. Mrs. Church tells how she hurried to get curtains up at these windows after just one session of working there.

The kitchen is a long room with a peninsula sink in the middle, facing the windows. Between this sink and the outside wall is a sort of corridor.

Floors are white with a black thread-like design in the tile. Counter tops and walls are white. The tongue and groove wood ceiling has white beams. Birch cabinets have a fruitwood finish. Appliances are stainless steel.

At the end where there is a breakfast set the wall is papered in an aqua, gold and white herb paper. The round table is aqua. Chairs are black with tweed-like plastic seats and backs. A shelf on the far wall holds the telephone.

ENORMOUS ROOM

Living room and dining room are one long room with windows on two sides. Except for the end wall which is paneled, the walls are white. The ceiling is beamed. Draperies are semi-sheer beige with a woven checked design.

Instead of stopping at the edge of the fireplace, the black hearth slate extends the width of the room. There is a white panel above the fireplace.

A picture which looks from a distance like an abstract turns out to be a painting of birds. Done in blues and blacks, it complements the room perfectly.

Twin sofas upholstered in two tone beige linen are set at right angles to the fireplace. Between them is a beaten brass tray on legs. This measures about 3x4 feet. Mary Beth's little black rocker has its own place in this room.

Another conversational grouping consists of two walnut chairs upholstered in a muted aqua, olive and lavender stripe. Backs and seats are button tufted. The low walnut chest between these chairs looks Jacobean.

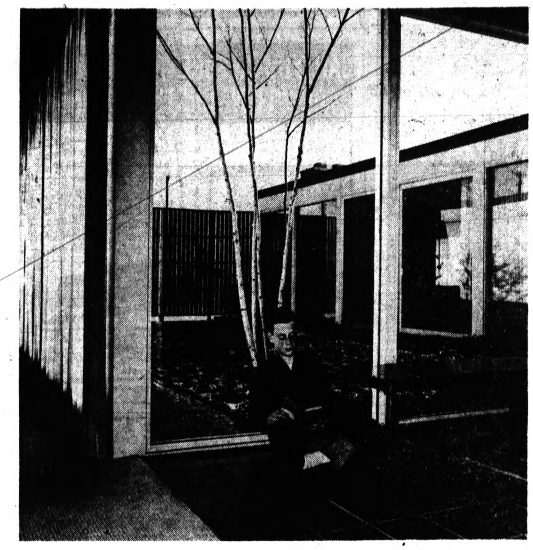

A long beige sofa makes a visual separation for the dining room. Behind it is a very narrow table that can be either a library table or a buffet. In front of the sofa is a blue rug woven in the contemporary manner.

On the outside wall is a low black chest with sliding doors. These are painted in gold, black and misty rose in an Oriental design.

In the midst of this contemporary furniture the antique dining room table is perfectly at home. The newest trend in decorating is to mix periods without a qualm about whether each piece "goes with" something else. Good design knows no rigid period.

Chairs around the table are black metal with open weave backs. They are upholstered in black leather. A pair of low cupboards with sliding doors is used as a buffet. Over the table is a three-drop light fixture.

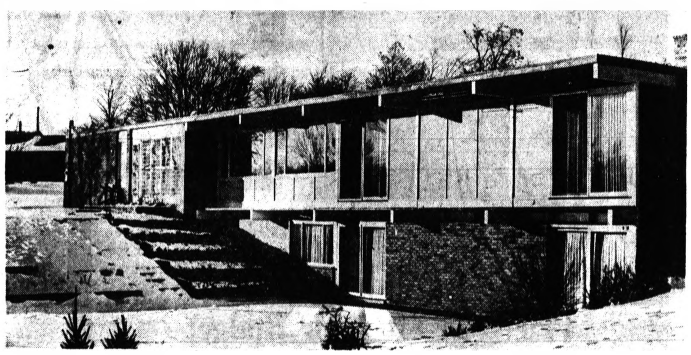

Down on the lower level is a recreation room. Gay curtains have coin dots of aqua, green and gold. The end wall with the fireplace is bricked. The fireplace itself is framed in rough timber. This room opens out on the large back yard patio.

A LOVELY SPOT — Jay gets plenty of light for his reading when he sits on the floor in the hallway. Behind him you see the little enclosed patio. There are pebble paths, a clump of white birch trees and other growing things. The two main wings of the house shelter this area and make it usable for many months of the year. The windows across the way are in the living room.

Pontiac Press Photos by Ed Noble

EXCAVATED PATIO — The rear patio of the James Church home in Romeo has been excavated to permit bigger windows in the ground floor rooms. Railroad ties make steps and planting spots up the sides. The house is brick with paneled trim and wide overhangs. Glen Paulsen of Birmingham designed the Church house. Blumerick and Bock of Utica built it.

DOUBLE ROOM — Jay and Stephen share a long room that can be split in half with folding doors. There is beige carpeting on the floor. Walls are paneled. The boys have Danish modern birch furniture. Bedspreads are a bright coral. The curtains have a red and blue print of old-time firemen on a beige background.

QUIET CHARM — There is color and texture and unexpected design in this dining room-living room. Modern metal chairs with black leather upholstery are placed around an antique walnut table. On the far paneled wall is a modern painting that sets the tone of the whole room. Notice the star light fixture at the right. Those chairs under it are striped in aqua, olive and lavender. Walls are white. Draperies are beige.

Be Wise in Cost Cutting When New House Is Built

With a little foresight and lots of common sense, it's easy to put some "elastic" into a tight building budget.

Improved and simplified methods of construction can be a big help in this direction.

Here are some suggestions from the Southern Pine Association on how to build better for less, and get more house for your money.

1. It will be a great help to your architect or builder if you agree to a simple, straight forward blueprint. Irregular lines and features are seldom attractive; often expensive.

2. If your lot is small, it may be thrifty to depart from conventional notions as to position and orientation of the house. When the building is stationed at the center of the lot, you have four separate yard areas, none of which may be sufficiently large for comfortable outdoor living. The solution is to spot the house so that the yard area is concentrated.

The building might be situated as close to the front of the lot as the law allows with the main living areas oriented to the rear. With this arrangement, the yard is larger than would otherwise be possible, and you can enjoy it in comparative privacy.

3. Insist on good quality materials—particularly for the all-important structural parts. At first glance, this may seem inconsistent with a cost-cutting theme. However, you cannot hope to achieve any significant reductions in the truly big areas of cost unless the construction crews are equipped with quality materials to begin with.

For the sake of security, comfort and minimum maintenance, the structural framework of the house should be built with good quality lumber, "pre-shrunk" by proper seasoning. The greater speed and efficiency its use allows, makes the house less expensive to build.

4. More money can be saved and extra space generated if the house is equipped with a self-sufficient roof structure. Wood rafters afford an ideal medium, and here again, quality is the key to economy. These engineered devices utilize the structural properties of Southern Pine—strongest of the building woods—in an arrangement that simplifies and streamlines the entire house. Trussed rafters clear span the width of the house and require vertical support only at the outer walls. This relieves the room partitions of roof supporting chores.

Some partitions can be eliminated to make larger rooms, while others can be installed as space conserving storage type dividers. It's also true that when trussed rafters are used, the house comes under roof early in construction to minimize delays from bad weather. To operate efficiently, trussed rafters require pre-shrunk lumber, and there's no better example of how good quality leads to lower costs.

Sliding Board Fun for Tots

An indoor sliding board for tots will help them keep busy when the weather is bad. The board should be about 18" wide and 5' long. Attach 1x2-inch perimeter framing around the bottom edge with one longitudinal piece down the center for additional backing strength.

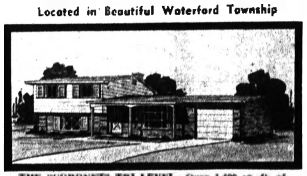

Cover the board with a piece of plastic-surfaced Marlite paneling. Fasten the top with contact cement. If necessary, wax the top for the needed slickness. Prop the sliding board on a footstool when the tots want to play.

UNCLUTTERED ELEGANCE — This handsome ranch has an expansion feature which adds, piecemeal if desired, the garage and its connecting service area. The basic house is 1,343 square feet. A sunken rear patio opens the basement to additional living area.

first floor plan scale: 1/8" = 1'-0"

FLOOR PLANS — The expansion feature of this house would add up to 785 square feet (or 540 square feet, with one-car garage) to its basic 1,343 square feet of ground cover. Note how basement becomes airy and livable through sunken rear patio.

Inexpensive Sunken Patio Improves Basement

By JULES LOH

A novel innovation in traditional one-story design gives this elegant little ranch the same popular characteristic as the new bi-level design — more living area at little extra cost.

Simply by excavating outside the rear foundation wall, architect Samuel Paul has opened a 32-foot long basement recreation room plus a private study to an airy and attractive outdoor sunken patio. The result is a comfortable and livable expanse of what ordinarily would be gloomy basement space.

This house, design J-4 in the House of the Week series, also has an expansion plan which can be done piecemeal, enlarging it from a basic 1,343 square foot home to almost half again its size.

The basic house, however, contains as many features as most families require — four bedrooms, 1½ baths, a 12' by 19' living room and a slightly larger combination kitchen-dining-family room. Packaging all this in 1,343 square feet, plus the full basement, is a remarkable achievement in itself. Its modest dimensions are 45'8" by 39'6".

Architect Paul's expansion plan would add a one or two-car garage, a workroom for maid's room), a second full bath and a laundry. The original laundry space in the basement would then become additional storage area.

The entire expansion doesn't have to be done at one time. The garage could be built first, for example, with the connecting service area no more than a breezeway.

When the expansion is completed, a trellis can be built over the dining terrace and the terrace itself later expanded into a large rear patio including a swimming pool. A front patio could be added at this time also, producing an abundance of outdoor facilities at ground level, not to mention the sunken patio.

The completed expansion would increase the width of the house by either 29'4" with a one-car garage or 39'4" with a two-car garage.

INEXPENSIVE

The sunken flagstone patio at the rear of this house, which makes the basement area delightfully usable, is done at hardly any extra cost. The architect merely replaced the foundation wall with a frame wall, abundant in floor to ceiling windows.

The change in level between the sunken patio and normal grade can be turned to additional advantage with an attractive rock garden and a gentle run of stone steps from one level to the other.

The portion beneath the expansion section is unexcavated, of course. But the basement of the basic house is fully developed with three large rooms in addition to the recreation room, laundry, full bath, heater and storage room.

A space-saving double-run stair, convenient to both the kitchen and living room, connects the basement with the first floor.

The first floor contains a neat optional feature in that the front bedroom, located next to the foyer, could easily serve as a den or library. If this is done, architect Paul suggests a door adjacent to the entry.

An eye-catcher in the living room is the handsome brick fireplace, the back side of which forms one wall of the sheltered front entry. Sliding doors separate the living room from the multi-purpose family kitchen, and glass doors lead from the kitchen to the dining terrace.

The uncluttered exterior of this house is of horizontal wood siding accented with brick veneer and the striking brick chimney.

Smaller Homes Planned in 60's

Plans to build an increased number of smaller homes in 1962 and the mid 1960s are being made by builders throughout the country, according to the Home Manufacturers Association.

This does not mean home buyers will have difficulty finding top quality houses in middle and upper price brackets. These also will be built in abundance. It merely means that persons with smaller families and lower incomes will have a wider selection.

The move is caused, to a large extent, by the increased number of households headed by older and younger men without children. BUSINESS WEEK Managing Editor Kenneth Kinmer described the trend recently when he spoke at the Home Manufacturers Association's 18th Annual Convention.

"The number of households headed by men in their late teens and early 20s will increase by more than half a million in the next five years. Households headed by people of 55 and older will increase by nearly two million in the same time. This probably means a shift toward smaller and lower cost housing units that will appeal to the very young and the old."

Owners Aren't Rich

More than 75 per cent of all new houses sold since 1953 were bought by those in the $7,000 and under income bracket, and the majority also fell in the 40 or younger age group, according to building authorities at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division. Most of the houses featured interior gypsum wallboard construction and are roofed with asphalt shingles.

Saginaw Routs Chiefs, 70-48

Second Half Proves Fatal in Big Game

Thompson Is Key Player in Saginaw's 7th Win Without Defeat

By DON VOGEL

SAGINAW — Saginaw's high flying Trojans left little doubt as to which team was the best here Friday night by crushing Pontiac Central, 70-48.

The win over the No. 1 rated Chiefs was the seventh for unbeaten Saginaw.

Paced by big Ernie Thompson, Brian Best and Lovell Humes, Saginaw took command midway in the first quarter and was never headed. The Trojans blew the contest wide open in the third quarter by holding PCH without a field goal for the first six minutes and gaining a 23-point lead.

The 6-3 Thompson trailed Best and Humes in the scoring column, but he made the difference. The senior center blocked 11 Pontiac Central tries for the basket in addition to picking off 12 rebounds and scoring 17 points.

Humes paced all scorers with 20 markers. Best hit 19.

Clarence Douglas topped the Chiefs, who dropped their first game in nine starts and lost the Saginaw Valley lead to the Trojans, with 16 points, 13 in the first half. Rudy Ransom popped in 13.

Thompson showed his all around shooting ability early in the second quarter by hitting a short hook, a jumper from the free throw line and a 35-foot one hander to push the Trojans to a 20-13 margin.

After Saginaw had moved to 50-27 lead in the third period, the Chiefs came to life and poured in 10 straight points. But the Trojans rallied from their brief slump and really pulled away in the last quarter.

"They (Saginaw) certainly had the better team," said PCH mentor Art Van Ryzin after the game. "But I feel we didn't play as well as we are capable of playing.

"This isn't taking anything away from Saginaw. They are a fine team. I feel we would make a good showing against them on a neutral floor."

There will be no rematch — unless in the state tournament.

The schedule calls for only one meeting between the schools.

Part of the Chiefs' downfall can be attributed to a surprisingly good Saginaw defense and faulty shooting. The Chiefs lost control of the backboards to Best and Thompson in the second half. This meant one shot each time down the floor.

PCH players hit on 16 of 52 tries from the floor. This is well below their average in previous contests. Meanwhile, the red hot Trojans were ripping the cords on 26 of 51 tries, better than 50 per cent.

Saginaw players scored several easy layups in a 14-25 second half spree. Many came on fast breaks.

Otto Kennedy sat out the entire fourth period after picking up four fouls and his absence helped Saginaw under the boards. The 6-6 Kennedy grabbed nine stray shots.

The Central junior varsity handed the Saginaw reserves their first setback, 52-51.

Northern Triumphs

By BILL CORNWELL

Pontiac Northern's sagging basketball fortunes were revived by lowly Walled Lake Friday evening.

The Huskies shed a five-game losing streak at winless Walled Lake's expense before a sparse gathering in the PNH gym, some of whom were tuned to the Pontiac Central-Saginaw game on transistor radios.

With forward Gary Hayward and guard Rick Risher setting the pace, Northern handed the Vikings their 11th straight defeat, 52-46.

Hayward rifled 20 points and speared 16 rebounds and Fisher added a dozen points to highlight Northern's 3rd win against six setbacks.

The two quintets were fighting to escape the Inter-Lakes basement and to Walled Lake goes the dubious distinction of staying there. Such is the low estate of the league's two defending champions.

Northern now stands 1-4 in the I-L while the Vikings are 0-5.

The Huskies, who almost insist on blowing leads, let a nine-point cushion get away from them last night before dominating the 4th quarter to gain the decision.

Dick Hall's forces enjoyed a 13-4 bulge midway through the 1st period and entered the 2nd stanza with a 16-9 advantage. Then they slipped into their slipshod ways and Walled Lake earned a 25-25 deadlock at halftime.

The two teams stayed neck-and-neck through the 3rd session and went into the 4th period all even at 40-40. It was all PNH after that, although never in a comfortable manner.

The Vikings, sorely in need of more height, held the lead four times during the 2nd and 3rd periods, once by four points. The score was tied on seven occasions during the same stretch. They were always behind in the final stanza.

Good marksmanship by Bob Tuck and Norm Mosely kept Walled Lake in contention through the game's middle portions.

Walled Lake's cause was badly damaged in the 4th period when both Mosely and Gary Alderson fouled out. Alderson departed with 11 points and five rebounds. Tuck collected 13 points and seven rebounds.

Hayward's 20-point effort included six field goals and eight of 15 at the foul stripe. Dave Shields gave Hayward some adequate support on the backboards with six rebounds.

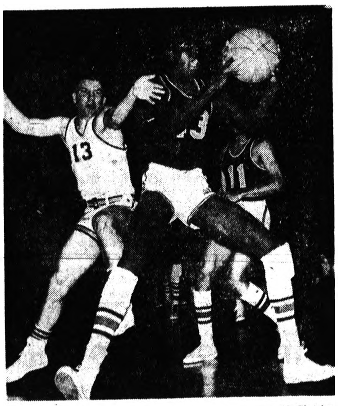

Neither squad aimed well from the floor. The Huskies had a slight edge, sinking 20 of 61 shots for a 32.7 percentage. Walled Lake shot 31.5 per cent on 18 of 57 attempts.

Hayward saved some of his finest work for the 4th quarter when he tallied eight of Northern's 12 markers to clinch the verdict. Tuck made eight of his 13-point total in Walled Lake's prosperous 2nd period.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State Department officials made it clear yesterday that a communist East German hockey team will not be allowed into the United States to participate in the world championships at Colorado Springs, Colo., March 8.

Maples Bow at Kimball; Dales Triumph

East Detroit went up and Birmingham Seaholm went down Friday night in the Eastern Michigan League basketball standings.

Coach Lew Parry's Maples plunged into a three-way tie for last place by dropping a 58-46 decision to Kimball at Royal Oak.

East Detroit took sole possession of first place with a thrill-packed 75-74 triumph over Port Huron in their showdown battle on the East Detroit floor.

Defending champion Ferndale scored a sluggish 48-32 victory over Mt. Clemens in yesterday's other conference game. Hazel Park was idle.

A 2nd-quarter collapse spelled doom for Seaholm. The Maples held a 12-10 first-period edge, but Kimball went on a 21-5 surge in the 2nd stanza for a 31-17 halftime bulge and stayed in full charge thereafter.

The Maples now share the loop basement with Mt. Clemens and Hazel Park on a 1-5 record. Bill Chilton, Kimball's sharpshooting guard, took scoring honors with 16 points. Seaholm's Grant Conley made 16.

Both East Detroit and Port Huron put on great rallies, but the Big Reds just fell short. Port Huron led at halftime, 42-35, but East Detroit was in front after three periods, 62-52.

Tall Lou Perry's foul shot in the final 25 seconds gave East Detroit a 75-72 edge and preserved the victory as the Reds bagged a field goal with 18 seconds to go.

By staving off Port Huron's furious rally, the Shamrocks moved to the top of the EML heap with a 6-0 record. Port Huron now stands 5-1.

Perry, 6-foot-7 center, captured scoring honors with a 33-point performance. Tom Frasier netted 29 for Port Huron.

The Ferndale-Mt. Clemens contest was the dullest affair of the evening.

Ferndale piled up a 19-9 halftime margin and coasted to victory. Dave Neilson paced the winner's attack with 15 points.

The Dales are 4th in the EML race with a 3-3 record. Kimball is 3rd at 4-2.

CLOSE QUARTERS — Waterford had trouble maneuvering on offense in its 52-32 home loss to Farmington last night as this 1st period photo by Press photographer Ed Noble indicates. Paul Moran (12) of the Skippers holds the ball away from reaching Dick Fusco while Clark Lemaux (30) and Bob Readler are closely guarded and unable to help. No. 25 is Falcon Tom Thomas.

Shipman Leads Attack Against L'Anse Creuse With 23 Points

Waterford Kettering may be the newest school in the area, but its first varsity season in basketball won't be a complete failure.

The Captains, under former Pontiac Northern assistant Joe Duvy, evened their Tri-County League record to 2-2 last night by whipping L'Anse Creuse 62-44. It also gives Kettering a 4-4 mark for the season.

Kettering led at halftime 29-23 and the closest margin L'Anse was able to muster was 8 points.

Dick Shipman captained the winners with 23 points and he got double scoring help from Bob Bogert and Earl Hock. Bogert got 12 and Hook 11

Bruce Sigman and Ed Stivers each collected 15 for the cellar-dwelling L'Anse quintet.

Central Swimmers Post First Victory

Pontiac Central smashed out of its swimming slump last night by whipping Saginaw 58-47 in the PCH pool.

Bob Lorenze paced the Chief's first victory with first place finished in the 100-yard freestyle (55.4) and 200-yard freestyle (2:04).

Other winners for Central were Paul Phillips, 50-yard freestyle (20.6, Phil Cashin, backstroke (1:03.7) and Bob Bryce, diving (118.9 points).

PCH's two relay teams also triumphed. The freestylers — Mike Jenkins, Gary Blaylock, Skip Mellen and Barry Coram — were clocked in 1:32.5.

The speed relay quartet of Allan Bondurant, John Rothe, Jim Howard and Gordon Kaufman won in 1:22.4.

Rochester Falls, 54-42 as Lapeer Nips Romeo

Rochester may be happy that Roseville is no longer a member of the Tri-County League. The Falcons, boasting a 4-0 mark in the league, were beaten 54-42 at Roseville for their second setback in seven games this season.

Lapeer, meanwhile, took stronger hold of second place by edging Romeo 60-58 on a late field goal by Tom Connor.

Playing without Ed Fliss for the first period, Rochester fell behind 20-3 after one quarter and then came back to trail by only five points, 24-19, at halftime.

Roseville's Dick Board was the first-quarter phenomenon. He hit on six of eight shots for 12 points and then didn't get a point the rest of the way, having fouled out early in the second half.

In the third quarter, Rochester got within two, 33-31, but Roseville then pushed ahead 37-32 and never faltered after that.

Jerry Olsen, who had 43 points for Rochester last week, was double-teamed and held to only nine.

Lapeer led 29-19 over Romeo at halftime and stayed ahead until 33 seconds to play when Romeo tied it. Connor then hit his game-winning field goal and before Romeo got another crack at the bucket, Lapeer stole the ball and ran out the clock.

Along with Board's 12, Don Glad hill had 13 and Dick Knox 12 for Roseville. Fliss' 12 was the best for Rochester.

Bob Duckwell and Connor paced the Lapeer attack with 20 and 18 points, respectively, while Romeo had John Hanley with 12 and Mark Johnson and Jim Compton each with 10.

Skippers 52-32 Rout Victims of Farmington

Drop to Third Place in I-L as Berkley Takes Southfield

By CHUCK ABAIR

An impressive Farmington performance and some of Waterford's worst shooting of the season spoiled the mid-season showdown of the Inter-Lakes League last night.

The Falcons had little trouble retaining sole possession of 1st place by romping 52-32 at the Skipper court.

Berkley took over 2nd place by downing Southfield 61-57, to drop Waterford to No. 3.

It may turn out to be a very damaging loss for the Skippers since four of their five remaining loop outings are away from home.

There was never much doubt about the outcome at Waterford. Shooting exceptionally well at times, dominating the rebounds and working a tight man-to-man defense successfully, the Falcons were in complete charge following the opening minutes.

The home team made the 1st two points but stayed close for only about 2½ minutes. Farmington went on a nine point spree to go from 6-5 to 15-5 and it was never any closer than nine thereafter.

Farmington held a 22-9 1st quarter advantage and the scoreboard read 32-19 at the half. It was up to 45-24 at the end of three periods.

Waterford had its only chance to make a game of it in the 2nd period when the Falcons got ragged and kept losing possession. But the Skippers were not up to making any hay. They cut the deficit to nine twice. Farmington went on a 12-point splurge after the 2nd occasion to pull far in front.

The Skippers, who got few 2nd shots against the big FHS boys, hit only 4 for 14 in blowing their big opportunity but got even worse at 2 for-14 in the 3rd period, including misses on the 1st eight tries. The team percentage was 25.5 after being around 40 during a five game win streak.

Main reason for the downfall was the ineffectiveness of the usually reliable Moran brothers. Entering the contest with combined average of 27 a game, they could total only 7. They made only three of 21 field goal attempts with Paul hitting two of his last three to windup 2-for-14. Bob Readler topped the scoring with 12.

Charles Gadde swished 15 and 6-5 Walt Grimala 14 to spark the visitors. The big duo made 14 of the team's 20 baskets, several on easy follow ups of missed shots which the small Skippers could not reach. Farmington shot 34.5 per cent but was close to the 50 mark for the 1st and 3rd sessions.

Winning coach Dave Parks, who had predicted "a tight one," called the showing "one of our better games." He was pleased with the way his boys moved the ball and harried the Skipper shooters.

In the losing dressing room, Gus Eichhorn moaned the lack of shooting and rebounding and defensive mistakes. "We had a lot of good shots," he said. He called Paul Moran's dismal night a big reason for the rout.

Tied 31-31 at half time, Berkley went ahead by eight at the 3rd quarter and held on for its 4th success in five loop tries. Southfield had led by two at the opening period.

Paul Wirebaugh of the Bears was high man for the game with 22 points. Mike Fournier rung up 18, and Ted Mallon 12 for the Jays.

Farmington is now 5-0 in the I-L and 9-2 over all. Waterford is 3-2 and 6-3, Berkley 4-1 and 5-5, and Southfield 2-3 and 5-6.

Rams Start Too Late; Final Shot Defeats Shamrocks

St. Frederick and St. Michael joined the many area teams having rough evenings last night.

The Rams, unimpressive defending champions, bowed at St. Benedict 40-31 while the Shamrocks were losing in the closing seconds at St. Rita, 43-41.

St. Fred finished strong with a 17-point 4th quarter but it was too late. Coach Gene Wright's charges totaled only 14 in the 1st three periods, including 2 in the 3rd session.

St. Ben, moving into a tie with the locals for 5th place in the Suburban Catholic League, was in front 12-5 and then 16-12 after the opening two quarters. The difference was up to 14 before the Rams came to life.

But Strango scored 19 to pace the Ravens. Pete Vasquez hit 14 and Jim Schachern added 9 and turned in his best showing this season for the losers.

Bob Latra was the St. Rita hero. He tied the score with 30 seconds to play and then won the game with a desperation heave from mid-court at the final buzzer.

LED AT HALF

St. Mike had a 20-16 halftime advantage and got ahead by as much as 12 once following the intermission before faltering. The Shamrocks took a 33-25 lead in the final period before the home club came on with a 19-point spree.

Alger Butavicus sparked the winners with 12. Ed Sloan followed with 10. Larry Sonnenberg tallied 14 and Charlie Daul 10 for Mikes, who made four more field goals than their conquerors.

St. Fred is now 4-4, St. Ben 3-3, St. Rita 3-4 and St. Mike 1-6 in loop play.

Royal Oak St. Mary will try to protect its 1st place standing tonight in a big battle against 3rd place St. Clement. Orchard Lake St. Mary, idle until Feb. 6, would gain a share of the top slot should Royal Oak bow.

St. Benedict will host another Pontiac area SCL foe Sunday night. Winless Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes will visit the Ravens for a makeup contest.

High-Scoring Lions Lose Sixth Straight

South Lyon scored a lot of points again yesterday but kept on losing.

Monroe Catholic Central whipped the Lions 68-56 outscoring them 24-10 in the 2nd period after trailing by three.

The South Lyon scored well but had little help. Jim Sprinkles totaled 20, Steve Showerman 15 and Lowell Burgess 10 in the team's 6th straight loss and 9th of the season.

Tourney Selection Push Is Under Way

By The Associated Press

College basketball begins to pick up momentum again tonight following the mid-season slowdown for exams. Now the conference title contenders and the aspiring independent powers start the big push toward the big goals — 37 berths in two major post-season tournaments, the NCAA and the National Invitation.

Ohio State is almost a sure-shot bet to repeat as Big Ten champion, and that league's entry in the NCAA. But otherwise, conference races are pretty much muddled and the battle for independent honors is a scramble as the season heads into the final six weeks.

Tonight's schedule is relatively light for a Saturday, but there still are several games involving conference contenders and leading independents.

Kansas State's Wildcats 13-2 and ranked fourth nationally, could take over as Big Eight leader — with an assist from Oklahoma State's Aggies. K-State is at Iowa State and the Aggies play at Colorado, upset winner over Kansas State earlier this month and current Big Eight pacesetter at 3-0. The Wildcats are 3-1.

Ninth-ranked Bradley, tops in the Missouri Valley but closely pressed by Cincinnati and Wichita, will try to win tonight with All-America Chet Walker out of action temporarily with a kidney disorder. The Braves, 4-1 in the conference and 11-3 over-all, have a home game against North Texas.

Cincinnati (14-2 and 4-2) is idle tonight while Wichita (14-4 and 5-2) has an out-of-conference game at Louisville.

The Ohio Valley race could tighten up, with chief rivals Western Kentucky and Morehead in action. Western Kentucky, 4-0 in the conference, is at Eastern Kentucky and Morehead, 4-1, is at Murray.

Temple (10-3) and St. Joseph's (Pa.) (8-5), both 3-0 in the Mid-Atlantic Conference, square off in an attractive doubleheader at the Philadelphia Palestra. The other game is an intersectional pairing of two successful independents, Villanova (14-2) and Memphis State (11-4).

West Virginia, 13-3 and all alone at the top of the Southern Conference standings with a glistening 9-0 mark, is favored to make it 10-0 against William and Mary at Norfolk, Va.

In the only Big Five game tonight, Stanford seeks revenge against Washington. Washington, 8-7 overall and 2-4 in the league, upset the Indians (9-3 and 2-1) 73-61 last night in the first of two straight meetings.

Among the independents—sixth-ranked Duquesne (13-2) is at home to an intra-state rival, LaSalle (8-1). Oregon State (13-1) seeks after its 13th straight victory, tangling with Seattle (10-5) on the State court. St John's (N.Y.) (11-3) meets Loyola of Chicago (11-2) at Chicago Stadium. And Dayton (11-4) is at DePaul (8-5.)

Utah State raced to an easy 88-69 conquest of Brigham Young and Colorado State Univ. Took Wyoming 56-50 in a pair of Skyline Conference games last night. UCLA beat Texas Tech 89-60 and (Calif.) 72-71.

The Michigan Interscholastic Track Coaches Association holds its winter meeting in Flint today. Speakers include Frank McBride of the Wayne State athletic staff.

Dreary Season Continues for Almont and Dryden

Basketball continued to be an ordeal for Dryden and Almont and a thing of beauty for mighty Capac last night in the Southern Thumb League race.

Dryden was massacred by Armada, 75-39, for its 11th loss without a victory. Almont's record was adjusted to a 2-9 figure after the Raiders took an 85-27 drubbing from rangy Memphis.

Meanwhile, unbeaten Capac was rolling merrily along by thrashing New Haven, 68-34. It was the 11th straight win for Capac, Michigan's 3rd-ranked Class C quintet.

Runnerup Brown City fell two games off the pace at Anchor Bay where the Bays scored a 48-42 upset victory in Friday's other circuit contest.

Marv Thompson scored 15 points and Jim Porte 14 to pace Armada's rout of Dryden. The loser's Paul Grondin tallied 16. Dryden trailed at halftime, 42-19.

Fred Wahls and Gary Lynch rifled 18 and 17, respectively, for Memphis, which boasted a 39-10 cushion at intermission. Bill Harris bagged a dozen for Almont.

Capac, winner of the annual loop tourney last weekend, put four players in double figures with 16 points by Dan Petz setting the pace. Capac led at halftime, 33-20, and enjoyed a 25-8 third-quarter spree.

Anchor Bay overcame a 28-25 halftime deficit to surprise Brown City. Anchor Bay's Doug Fisher and Al Martus of Brown City had 16 points apiece.

Shrine and Sorrows Lose Catholic Games

Royal Oak Shrine and Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows suffered defeats in separate Catholic League divisions Friday night.

Benedictine belted Shrine 69-37 after breezing to a 42-20 half-time lead. Ed Sudor hit 27 for the victors and Mike Randall 15 for Shrine which is now 2-5.

Rick Barth scored 19 but OLS bowed to St. Leo, 49-44, to make its record 3-5.

Barons Trim Holly, 62-51; Northville Still Unbeaten

Lakers Edge Milford; Clarkston Rolls

Since undefeated Northville apparently has the Wayne-Oakland League basketball championship in the bag, a scorching battle for runnerup honors is now the center of attention.

The bitter dogfight raged again Friday night with the three top contenders for 2nd place—Bloomfield Hills, West Bloomfield and Clarkston — all coming through with victories.

Bloomfield Hills, currently occupying the runnerup spot, held its ground last night by trimming Holly, 62-51.

West Bloomfield and Clarkston, presently tied for 3rd position, stayed on the Barons' heels as the Wolves scored an impressive 74-32 rout of Clarenceville and the Lakers edged Milford, 50-48.

Highly-ranked Northville sang the same old tune as the Mustangs walloped Brighton, 64-47, for their 9th consecutive triumph.

Clarkston turned in its finest performance of the season against the visiting Trojans. The Wolves outscored Clarenceville by an 18-6 margin in the 2nd period for a 32-17 halftime lead and coasted to their 6th win in nine starts.

Four Clarkston players hit double figures, spearheaded by Chuck Funk who rifled 22 points. Jerry Powell tallied 15, Mike Applegate 10, and Dan Craven, playing his first varsity contest, had 14. Bob Reed was tops for the losers with 11.

Jesse Rogers was an outstanding defensive performer for Clarkston. Rogers was given the task of guarding Phil Wheeler, Clarenceville's No. 1 scorer with a 15-point average, and he more than met the challenge as Wheeler made only a single point.

West Bloomfield enjoyed a 45-35 bulge with 4:31 left in the game, but Milford narrowed the margin by sinking free tosses.

The Redskins cut the deficit to 49-46 with 13 seconds remaining. The Lakers' Dave Helmreich sank a foul shot for the 50th marker before Milford's Tom Sheffler connected just prior to the final buzzer.

Dan Greig fired 17 points to lead the Lakers, who were ahead all the way. It was their 6th win in 10 tries. Gary Painter and Tim Barnes netted 15 and 13, respectively, for Milford.

A healthy 2nd quarter gave the Hills the necessary impetus to conquer Holly. The Barons piled up a 20-11 cushion in the 2nd stanza for a 31-26 halftime edge and they led the rest of the route.

Holly came close on numerous occasions in the 2nd half, but hopes for victory dimmed early in the 4th quarter when star rebounder Doug Williams fouled out.

Art Tregenza's trusty left arm produced 24 points for the Barons, who hiked their record to 7-2. Jim Ray paced Holly with 17.

Dan Brown collected 21 points to feature Northville's conquest of Brighton. Randy Marx scored a dozen in a losing cause. Brighton stayed in contention until midway through the 4th period, although the Mustangs were always ahead by at least eight points.

Troy Back in Oakland A Race as Fitzgerald Falls

Orion Conquers Avon

Now Avondale is just as downtrodden as Lake Orion.

Orion, which hadn't won a basketball game until Friday night, picked on stumbling Avon for its first victim of the season and today the two teams are deadlocked for the cellar in the Oakland A race.

After eight straight losses, the Dragons made perseverance pay off as they took charge of the situation right from the start and defeated Avon, 49-41.

Other results last night threw the Oakland A race into a spicy muddle.

Underdog Oak Park rose up and smacked down previously unbeaten Fitzgerald, 61-52, forcing the Spartans to share first place with Troy's rampaging Colts.

Troy gained its share of the league lead in impressive fashion by stampeding Clawson into the dust, 66-38.

Fitzgerald and Troy now stand 6-1, which sets the stage for their title showdown next Friday at Fitzgerald.

The happiest guy in Lake Orion last night was George Elias, the Dragons' new head coach.

"It sure feels good to win and victory was certainly a long time coming," said Elias, whose Dragons overcame a multitude of errors to post their initial success.

Despite some 30 floor violations—bobbles, wild passes, etc.—the Dragons gave their best showing of the campaign. They lead all the way, but were never far enough ahead for comfort.

Jon Cucksey and Doug Bisballe powered Orion's attack. Cucksey tallied 18 points and Bisballe followed closely with 17. Dale Yarger and Roger Van Conant each bagged 10 for the Yellow Jackets.

Orion and the Jackets now own 1-6 conference records.

Tom Kelly collected 24 points inside of three quarters and Hank Akin added 16 to spearhead Troy's rout of Clawson. Ray Hayes tallied 16 for the outclassed Trojan.

An injury to Roger Qualman tarnished Troy's sparkling victory. Qualmann sprained his ankle at the start of the 2nd period.

The stunned Fitzgerald quintet trailed Oak Park from start to finish. The Parkers enjoyed a 33-24 halftime bulge and never slowed down. Robbie Goldenberg netted 20 points and Dennis Pink 13 to pace the upset win. Fred Huchel made 20 for Fitzgerald.

Oxford Drubbed by Imlay, 76-43

Powerful Imlay City, virtually a cinch to win another South Central basketball crown in the league's final year of existence, blasted lowly Oxford last night, 76-43, on the Imlay court.

The outmanned Wildcats simply could not contain Imlay's blazing offense as the Spartans, Michigan's 2nd-ranked Class C team, raced to their 3rd conference win and 11th altogether against no defeats.

It was another long, sad evening for Oxford, which suffered its 6th setback in seven starts. The Wildcats stayed close during the 1st quarter, then Imlay ran wild in the 2nd stanza to boost a 9-7 margin to 31-19 at half-time and breezed home.

Doug Perkins fired 23 points and Gene Thompson added 19 for the winners. Bill Hulse meshed 10 for Oxford.

One for N. Farmington

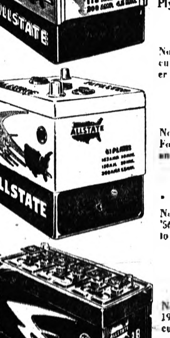

After five league tries, North Farmington finally scored a Tri-River conference win by defeating Cherry Hill 51-48. With Joe O'Donnell and Mike Flemming each getting 15 and Lynn Letcher hitting for 10, North Farmington pulled away with a 21-point third quarter after leading 20-19 at halftime. Flemming hit 10 of his points in the third period. Bob Knapp has 18 for the losers.

Gene Littler Continues on Golfing Warpath

Army May Suffer

U. S. Senator From LSU Has Dietzel in Mind

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — West Point may yet pay a heavy athletic price for luring football Coach Paul Dietzel away from Louisiana State University.

A prominent LSU alumnus by the name of Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., still smarting under the loss, is lurking in legislative ambush and may shoot down a bill which he says would help Army rake in a batch of football material each year.

This bill, passed by the House last year, is pending in the Senate and Long is assembling all sorts of information about it.

It is, he said Friday, "The West Point—football—team bill" and, "Maybe we ought to shelve it."

Long hasn't yet said positively he is going to oppose the bill actively but one congressman who knows the situation well said:

"If he gets up on the Senate floor and yells 'football' he'll probably kill that bill."

The bill would permit the U.S. Military Academy to estimate the vacancies it will have in the cadet ranks each year and proceed to bill them from qualified candidates.

Long said in an interview he figures this would give West Point about 55 "floating scholarships" each year.

"In my opinion this bill for these extra 55 men is something the Army is hoping to get to give Paul Dietzel recruiting power to go out all over America and recruit the biggest and strongest, finest boys he can find and make them a football team," Long said.

Louisiana, he said, has enough trouble losing its Catholic boys to Notre Dame without having this added threat to its university's football potential.

And, he said, if Army gets these 55 extra players "you ought to give Air Force Academy and Navy 55 too, so all will be on an equal basis."

Dietzel, he said, will be tough at West Point and will be trying to beat Navy the next few years but "I think he ought to have to do it without having any advantage over Navy."

Longs roots go deep at LSU. His father, the late Huey P. Long, is credited with starting LSU on the big-time football path. In fact, Huey used to lead the LSU band.

Open Champion Has Big Lead in Tournament

Ahead by Five Strokes in Lucky International at San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Gentleman Gene Littler, the man who specializes in runaway finishes, is on the golfing warpath again.

The National Open champion from San Diego, Calif., went into the third round of the $50,000 Lucky International golf tournament today holding a five-stroke lead over the star-packed field.

He finished the half-way mark of 36 holes with a 133 total—nine strokes under par.

"And I'll bet you," said Dow Finsterwald, who is seven shots back with a 140, "that he'll still be in front at the finish. When Gene gets a streak like this going he never looks back."

The records bear out Finsterwald's contention. Gene got it going in the 1955 Tournament of Champions and ran away from one of the greatest of all fields to win by 13 strokes.

CAN'T LOOK BACK

But the blond bomber feels far from safe right now.

"There are a bunch of vultures behind me," said the 31-year-old shotmaker. "You let up the least little bit and one of those guys throws a 62 or 63 at you. I've got to push ahead. As a matter of fact, I'd like to play the next two rounds alone. Cut off all the rest. That's the only sure way I'd win."

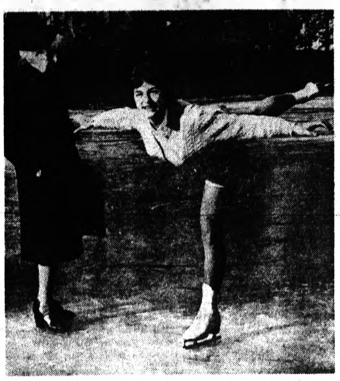

There is a three-way tie at second place featuring seasoned Billy Maxwell, Las Vegas, Nev.; youthful Tommy Jacobs, Bermuda Dunes, Calif., and young Tony Lema, San Leadro, Calif. Each has a 138 total.

Littler added a 68 to his opening 65 for his 133. His only bogey in two rounds of play came on the 18th hole yesterday before a record Friday crowd of 10,000.

On this one his approach was on the green, but 40 feet from the pin. He went boldly for the cup, sailed nine feet past—and missed the come back putt.

"Every green putted differently," he said in explaining the three-putt performance. "I was just trying to get it up close."

Ex-Tiger Steve O'Neil Dead

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steve O'Neill, 69, who spent 31 years in professional baseball as a catcher and manager for four different teams, died Friday. He had suffered a heart attack Sunday.

O'Neill managed the Cleveland Indians, the Detroit Tigers, the Boston Red Sox and the Philadelphia Phils. His major league playing career spanned 17 years, starting in 1911 with the Cleveland Naps. The sturdy Irishman also caught for the Red Sox, the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Browns, ending his playing days with the Browns in 1928.

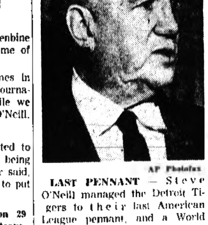

O'Neill was rated one of the best handlers of pitchers and had a strong and accurate throwing arm. He was a solid hitter and batted over .300 for three straight seasons, compiling a lifetime mark of .263 for his 17 years in the majors.

STRONG ARM

O'Neill was rated one of the best handlers of pitchers and had a strong and accurate throwing arm. He was a solid hitter and batted over .300 for three straight seasons, compiling a lifetime mark of .263 for his 17 years in the majors.

In later years when he added weight to his stocky frame, O'Neill was tagged with the nickname "Stout Steve."

O'Neill was born in the anthracite coal mining town of Minooka, Pa., on July 6, 1892. He quit school in the fifth grade and joined his father in the mines. He originally wanted to be a boxer, but was persuaded by his father to quit the ring.

LAST PENNANT — Steve O'Neill managed the Detroit Tigers to their last American League pennant, and a World Series win, in 1945. He died Friday at the age of 69.

He got into professional baseball by accident. He had been working in the mines and catching for an amateur team in Minooka when he got an invitation to visit his brother, Mike, who then was managing the Elmira team in the New York State League in 1910.

When Steve arrived he found Elmira's two catchers had been injured and the club couldn't afford to get another backstop.

"It looks like it's up to you," Mike told Steve. "Get in there and catch."

FARMED BY MACK

At the end of that season, O'Neill was drafted by the Philadelphia Athletics, whose manager, Connie Mack, farmed the 18-year-old O'Neill to Worcester, Mass., for more seasoning. In the fall of 1911 the youngster was purchased by Cleveland and stayed with the Tribe through 1923.

In 1915, O'Neill became Cleveland's regular catcher and quickly gained a reputation as one of the best in the American League. He was distinguished for three things:

(1) His knack of blocking off runners at the plate; (2) his strong bat; and (3) his slowness of foot. If he could have run as well as he hit, he might have been a top contender for the league's batting title.

Still, he was the American League's top hitting catcher for several seasons, posting batting marks of .321 in 1920, .322 in 1921 and .311 in 1922.

It was the Cleveland's championship season of 1920 that he earned the reputation as an iron man. He caught all but five games that season and all seven of the World Series games against Brooklyn. O'Neill's batting mark for that Series was .333.

In 1924, O'Neill was traded to the Boston Red Sox after catching at least 100 games for Cleveland for 10 straight seasons. He stayed with Boston for only one year before going to the Yankees.

After several years as a minor league manager, O'Neill was given his shot as a major league pilot in August 1935, named to succeed Walter Johnson at Cleveland. He was supplanted as Tribe manager in 1937 by Oscar Vitt.

O'Neill turned up next as manager at Detroit in 1943 and led the Tigers for six years. Detroit won the world's championship in 1945, but he was released after the Tigers finished fifth in 1948. O'Neill was raking leaves in the back yard of his suburban home here when a reporter gave him the bad news.

O'Neill piloted the Red Sox from June 1950 through the 1951 season. Then he made his only appearance as a National Leaguer, managing the Phils for 2½ seasons. That reign ended on July 15, 1954.

In recent years, O'Neill had served as a scout for the Indians. He was employed by the City Recreation Department when he was stricken at his Cleveland Heights home Sunday. He died in Huron Road Hospital.

Newhouser Credits O'Neill With 'Saving My Career'

United Press International

Hal Newhouser, former Detroit Tiger southpaw star now living in Franklin, last night called Steve O'Neill, "One of the truly fine men I have met in baseball" and credited his ex-manager for "saving my career."

Newhouser, an executive with the Cleveland Indians, said O'Neill was "the greatest manager I ever played for. He was unsurpassed in his ability to handle young players."

He said after the 1943 season, in which he slumped to an 2-17 record, "I was unhappy and wanted to be traded. I felt I wasn't being rotated properly. I wanted to pitch every fourth day.

"We had a bowling team in the fall of '43," Newhouser recalled. "Steve Gromek, Roy Cullenbine and Cass Michaels were some of the members on it.

"After bowling some games in Michigan we entered a tournament in Cleveland and while we were there, I went to see O'Neill.

SET ROTATION

"When I told him I wanted to be traded because I wasn't being pitched in turn," Newhouser said, "he told me he was willing to put me on every fourth day.

"The next season I won 29 games and lost only nine, teaming with Dizzy Trout who won 20. I've always felt that if it hadn't been for Steve I would have been just an average pitcher or perhaps even triple-A level."

Newhouser went on from there to chalk up seasons of 29, 20 and 25 victories before hanging up his spikes.

Newhouser recalled that O'Neill was the only manager who ever fined him. "It cost me $200 back in the '45 season," he said.

"The legend is that I refused to hand Steve the ball when he wanted to take me off the mound. Actually, I never had the ball. Bob Swift, our catcher, had it.

"I was pitching against the Red Sox that day and hadn't given up any hits for about five innings. Then it rained and my arm wasn't the same after the hour delay.

"They were pounding me pretty badly when Steve motioned me off the mound. Everyone thought I refused to go but I was just waiting for a relief pitcher to come in," he said.

"When Steve told me later that the incident was costing me $200 I didn't argue with him. I told him he was a true gentleman, and if that's the way he saw it, I'd go along."

"We always got along fine," Newhouser added. "He was a great handler of personnel."

Too Much Balance for Utica to Stop

Good scoring balance by quarters and by scorers gave Lake Shore a 64-44 victory over Utica in a Bi-County League game last night.

The winners were consistent. They scored 16 points in each quarter and led 32-30 at halftime. It was close until the final moments of the third quarter when Wayman Swint got red hot. He got 10 of his 24 points in the period and continued with 8 more in the final quarter.

Utica managed only one field goal and a free throw in the 4th period. Also in double figures for Lake Shore was Dan Goreau with 11, Bob Vercruysse with 10 and Walt O'Neil with 10. Jim Moshenko and Tony Palazolla each had 13 for Utica.

Madison Edges Cranes, 42-41 in Late Rally

Cranbrook led for 34 minutes of play, but a couple quick buckets in the final two minutes was all Madison needed to beat the Cranes, 42-41.

John Chiarotte hit the tying bucket with two minutes left to make it 37-37. After three free throws, he hit again to make it 42-37 and Cranbrook didn't have enough time to regain the lead again

Mike Dibble had 12 to lead Cranbrook while Don Carlson got 13 to pace Madison. Chiarotte finished with 9 points.

Skowron Signs Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Skowron, regular New York Yankee first baseman since 1954, became the ninth member of the world champions Saturday to sign his contract.

Although no salary was announced, General Manager Roy Hamey indicated the Moose received a modest increase. Estimates put his salary at the $35,000 level.

Skowron, 31, batted .267 last season, hit 28 homers and drove in 89 runs. He batted .353 in the World Series with Cincinnati.

Baylor Sparks Lakers to Win Over Cincinnati

By The Associated Press

The best thing that could have happened to the Los Angeles Lakers was getting permission for Elgin Baylor to play whenever he could get leave from army duty in Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Owner Bob Short and coach Fred Schaus pressed the National Basketball Association's board of governors to pass such a rule for all teams, and it was done finally at the league's meeting this month.

So did a crowd of 12,962 Los Angeles fans last night as Baylor scored 38 points in a 116-112 victory over the Cincinnati Royals as the Lakers assumed a commanding 8½ game edge in the Western Division.

Boston felt the loss of big Bill Russell, out with an injured foot, as the Celtics became the New York Knickerbockers' second straight victim, 129-121 at New York's Madison Square Garden. Paul Arizin and Wilt Chamberlain turned in heavy second half scoring to lead Philadelphia to a 136-110 victory over St. Louis.

Pitcher Says Giant Manager Panicked

'Sad' Sam Expects Break With Tigers

MONOGAH, W. Va. (UPI)—Sad Sam Jones said today he expects to get a better break with the Detroit Tigers this season than he did last year with the San Francisco Giants — who he said may have lost the pennant because manager Alvin Dark "panicked."

"Dark is a good manager but he panics too quickly," Jones said at his home here. "I think if he would have kept a level head the Giants would have won the pennant last year."

Jones cited himself as a case in point and charged that Dark may have mishandled several of the Giants' players.

"I finished the season with an 8-and-8 record," Jones said. "But I won all eight games in about the first month and a half."

"Dark started using me in relief and usually after the game was already lost," Jones contended. "Dark panicked in trying to win the pennant in his first year as manager."

Jones was put in the player draft for the two new National League clubs, the Houston Colts and the New York Mets. He was picked up by the Colts and traded to Detroit for pitchers Bob Bruce and Mauel Montejo.

Jones said it wasn't any surprise to him that his name was put in the player pool.

"I halfway expected to be leaving," he said. "They didn't give me any opportunity to pitch last year and you can't prove yourself by sitting on the bench.

"I am always happy to leave a club that won't give me an opportunity to work and I can't work sitting on the bench," Jones said. "I just like a lot of work."

Jones feels he will get the work under Detroit manager Bob Scheffing, but said he doesn't know whether he will be used as a front line pitcher or in relief.

"I want to help the club in one way or the other but I prefer starting," Jones said.

Frank Lary, 23-9, Jim Bunning, 17-11 and Paul Foytack 11-10, are the top three of the Detroit mound staff.

Last season with the Giants, Jones, while compiling the 8-8 record, had an earned run average of 4.50 and recorded 105 strikeouts.

Jones said he would report to Tigers' spring training camp at Lakeland, Fla., Feb. 15 and said he's ready to go right now.

The big righthander said he hadn't worked this winter but that he was in good shape.

When asked whether he felt he would improve the Tigers' pennant chances this season, Jones said "What do you think?"

"I think you should."

"Well, use that then," he said.

Moore Still in Running

ALBANY, N. Y. — Monroe Moore of Pontiac was tied for 16th place after Friday's two blocks in the Empire Open bowling tournament. Moore fired games of 208, 194, 213, 187, 192, 234, 234 and 206 to qualify for the semifinals.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Harry Smith of St. Louis rolled a four-game total of 917 last night to take over the lead in the fifth annual $25,000 empire open bowling championship.

Smith, the 1960 National All-Star champion, racked up games of 263, 225, 214 and 215 to wrest the lead from Buzz Fazio after 16 games in the three-day tournament.

He has a total of 3490, 16 pins ahead of Fazio, who posted a 3474 mark.

The field of 196 was narrowed to 32 tonight, will be trimmed further to 16 after a final, four-game set tomorrow morning. The 16 finalists will go into match play to be televised nationally Saturday afternoon.

Others in the top 10 include Vic Iwlew, Taylor, Mich., ninth, 3321.

Three Pontiac keglers — Monroe Moore, Joe Bonfiglio and Mike Samardzija — also are in the tournament.

Final Rites for Young

LANSING (AP) — Friends from the world of sports and politics paid final tribute here yesterday to Rep. Ralph H. Young, legislator and long-time athletic director at Michigan State University.

Young died Tuesday morning at the age of 72, victim of a heart attack.

Floral tributes were sent by every Big Ten school and many others. Donations also were received for the Young scholarship fund, to help promising athletes.

Lancer Quintet in 59-44 Romp for 2nd Success

Emmanuel Christian posted its 2nd triumph in seven starts last night with a 59-44 romp at Whitmore Lake.

The Lancers trailed by one at the opening quarter but went ahead 27-23 at the half. A 23-5 3rd quarter difference made it easy.

Kerry Rogers swished the nets for 23 points. Ron Jackson contributed 16 and Ralph Wingate 12 to the victory cause.

Ski Lift Inspection Bill Introduced in Legislature

LANSING (UPI)—Ski lifts would be brought under the Labor Department's inspection division to avoid a recurrence of a New Year's weekend fatal accident if nine state senators gain support from their colleagues in the legislature.

Sen. Raymond D. Dzendzel, D-Detroit, was joined by eight others in introduction of a bill yesterday to require inspections of "any device designed and operated for the conveyance of persons which aids in promoting entertainment, pleasure, play, relaxation or instruction . . . such as ski lifts and ski chairs."

Plans for the devices would have to be approved by the department prior to construction or installation. Periodic inspections to assure continued safety would also be required. Dzendzel proposed the operators of the devices pay for the inspections.

Operators of winter resorts in the state called for inclusion of ski lifts under the Labor Department inspection law after a Grand Rapids school teacher was killed.

The fatal accident at Nub's Nob near Petoskey occurred during the New Year's weekend when a gear on a chair lift broke and sent the lift downhill.

A similar bill introduced in the last three sessions did not attract enough attention to gain passage.

Wings Lose Glover for About 5 Weeks

DETROIT (AP) — Howie Glover will be operated on here Monday and will be out of the Detroit Red Wing lineup for about five weeks.

Glover, a right winger, has torn cartilages in his knee. He was hurt in a collision with Maple Leaf defenseman Allan Stanley at Toronto two weeks ago.

Glover has scored seven goals and assisted on eight this season.

The Wings also will lack Leo Labine when they play the Maple Leafs in Toronto tonight. Labine has a sprained ankle. He hoped to be able to play here tomorrow night against Toronto.

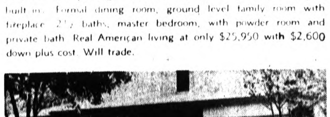

SARNIA, Ont. — Jackie Richards, 144, Livonia, Mich., outpointed Carl Beaver, 160, Toledo, Ohio, 8.

GOP Replies on State Income Tax

LANSING (AP) — Republican legislators were ready for Gov. Swainson's income tax plan and wasted no time poking holes in it.

GOP reaction to the Democratic governor's proposed 3% per cent flat rate tax on personal and corporate income ranged from "basically not bad" to "utterly amoral."

Even Rep. Rollo G. Conlin, R-Tipton, House Taxation Committee chairman and long-time champion of a state income tax, found serious fault with the governor's proposals.

Conlin is the chief architect of a flat rate income tax plan turned down by the 1959 "cash crisis" legislature. He led a tiny GOP contingent that joined Democrats to push it through the House before it met its doom in the Senate.

Swainson's tax blueprint, including a one half per cent income tax for local schools and governments, would yield about $355 million a year.

The net gain for the state would be $71 million after deductions for abolition of the business activities tax, exemption of food and drugs from sales and use taxes and reimbursement to local units for revenue lost through proposed exemption of manufacturing machinery and equipment from local personal property taxes.

Cities would get more than $50 million from their share of an income tax.

LIST OF OBJECTIONS

"First of all, the governor makes no recommendation for doing away with or reducing the intangibles tax, which is really an income tax," Conlin said. "This, I think, is a necessary part of any equitable income tax reform.

"Secondly, I don't think he can exempt food and drugs from the sales tax without a constitutional amendment. He proposes to do with legislation.

"Proposed exemption of machinery and equipment from the property tax sets up some terrific problems, partly of definition as to what specifically is to be exempted.

"The proposed state tax for local schools and governments would immediately pose the very difficult problem of determining what part of a multiplant corporation's income is earned in each locality."

"These are some of the weaknesses I see in the plan at first glance."

Rep. Allison Green, R-Kingston, House Republican floor leader, was among a number of GOP legislators who thought the new taxes would fall too heavily on the individual taxpayer.

"The net increase to individuals would be about $200 million," he said. "That's too much."

"It is utterly amoral for the administrative arm of the government to continue to rely on the principle of tax and tax and spend and spend," fumed Rep. Wilfred Bassett, R-Jackson, House speaker pro tem.

He predicted the rate would double in four years if the income tax goes through.

House Speaker Don R. Pears, R-Buchanan, repeated his prediction that "an income tax hasn't a chance in the world of passing the legislature this year."

The legislature adjourned until Monday at 8 p.m.

MSUO Names Divisions for Placing Graduates

Next year, the first crop of 150 to 200 students will graduate from Michigan State University Oakland. About half of these will enter the job market.

Today the university announced which will be the departments to contact for placement of students in each of the four general areas of study, teacher education, engineering-science, business administration and liberal arts.

Business administration and engineering - science graduates will be the responsibility of a placement office operated under the MSUO Division of Continuing Education, according to the division's director, Dr. Lowell Eklund.

The division also will be responsible for any other graduates entering business, industrial or government employ.

Students graduating out of the teacher education program will be placed through their own department, headed by Dr. Laszlo Hetenyi.

Students desiring to go into graduate work will be guided by the administration of their own academic field and by the dean of students' office.

Considers New Suit Against Chrysler

DETROIT (UPI) — Attorney Sol A. Dann said today he probably will file another suit against Chrysler to try and force postponement of this year's stockholder's meeting set for April 17.

Dann, who has waged a long legal fight against the corporation management, tried unsuccessfully to delay the 1961 Chrysler meeting. In fact, that suit is still on file, even though the meeting was held as scheduled.

Now, the dissident stockholder said he's ready to file another suit because the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) refused to put one of his resolutions on the Chrysler proxy statement.

Dann said the resolution would require Chrysler to "fully inform stockholders of their right to appoint a person to go to the annual meeting and vote for them."

Goldwater Sees Romney Running for President

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., believes that if George Romney runs for governor of Michigan and is elected "he will be a strong contender" for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.

Goldwater's comment came Friday in response to a newsman who reminded the senator that last March he said he thought the next GOP candidate might be someone who had not been heard from yet.

Goldwater replied that the person may now have been heard from, then added his remark about Romney, who is president of American Motors.

The conservative senator, at a news conference, also said he felt he himself had not been represented fairly in the American press.

Goldwater put the blame on reporters who, he said, are more Democratic and liberal than he is Republican and conservative.

NOTICE OF HEARING ON ESTABLISHING normal height and level of waters in Dark Lake, Highland Township, Oakland County, Michigan.

To whom it may concern, particularly: Norman Rice and Mabel E. Rice, his wife, and all owners of property fronting on, abutting or having access by rights to Dark Lake, or who are interested in establishing and maintaining the normal height and level of said lake pursuant to the provisions of Act 146, Public Acts of 1961, as the lake is located in Sections 12 and 14 of Highland Township, Oakland County, Michigan:

You are hereby notified that the Oakland County Board of Supervisors has caused to be filed in this Court a petition praying for the establishment by this Court of the normal height and level of Dark Lake, said lake being [illegible] in Section 12, 32 and 14 of Highland Township, Oakland County, Michigan.

You are further notified that a hearing on the petition will be held in the Circuit Court for the County of Oakland on Tuesday, the fifth day of February, 1962 at the opening of Court on that day at 9 a.m., or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard.

You are further notified that on said date the petitioner desires this Court to establish the normal height and level of said lake at 1016.5 feet above sea level and if you desire to oppose the establishment of the level at 1016.5 feet above sea level you should then and there appear and show cause, if any you have, why:

(A) The normal height and level of said lake should not be established.

(B) Why 1016.5 feet above sea level should not be the level fixed as the normal height and level of said lake.

(C) Why such other and further relief as to the Court seems fitting and proper should not be granted to petitioners.

Birchists Denounced by State GOP Unit

LANSING (AP) — A resolution denouncing and condemning the ultra-conservative John Birch Society and other extremist organizations was backed firmly today by Michigan's Republican high command.

By a 9 to 3 vote, the resolutions committee of the GOP State Central Committee adopted a statement of condemnation of extremist groups both on the far left and far right.

It also called upon the Democratic party to "repudiate immediately and fully the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) and other organizations of the extreme left."

The action was taken during a stormy meeting of the committee during which a Midland woman identified herself as a member of the John Birch Society and asked—and was given—permission to speak.

The woman, who gave her name as Mrs. Mina Locke, drew moans of protest when she said the Birchists had proof that backed up the charges made by their national leader Robert Welch, a retired candy manufacturer, that former President Eisenhower was a Communist.

WARNS COMMITTEE

Mrs. Locke warned the committee that they would alienate 10 million voters by adopting the condemnation resolution. She claimed that membership in the Birch Society "and interlocking groups" totaled that number.

GOP National Committeeman John Martin of Grand Rapids said he and other Republican leaders backed the resolution. Among these, he said, were State Chairman George Van Peursem and Norman Stockmeyer, Wayne County chairman.

"If we failed to follow our leadership, where will that leave us in the eyes of the public and those who work for and respect our leaders?" he asked, adding:

"They will say 'What's wrong with our state chairman . . . and the consequences would be terrific."

The resolution was sponsored by the 15th Congressional District organization. District Chairman Irwin H. Burdick urged its adoption after taking a swipe at Democratic State Chairman John J. (Joe) Collins.

Burdick said Collins had attempted to assassinate the character of American Motors President George Romney, potential Republican candidate for governor.

He was referring to a statement by Collins that Romney had "broken bread with an avowed John Bircher."

Tells Newsmen About Kennedy

White House Reporter Addresses Michigan Press Association

EAST LANSING (AP) — President Kennedy — as a statesman, politician, and sportsman — was described to the Michigan press Friday night by one of their own colleagues — Merriman Smith, chief White House correspondent for United Press International.

Smith acted as a mirror in introducing the President verbally to the more than 500 newspaper editors, publishers and reporters and their wives at the 94th annual Michigan Press Assocaition convention at Michigan State University.

Smith told his newspaper colleagues, who each day describe in some way the President's action on Capitol Hill in their 54 Michigan dailies, that Kennedy may be faced with a difficult period of protraction over the present Berlin crisis.

Along with the delay, he said, both Russia and the United States will have to give ground before coming to some kind of settlement. He said:

"The President is trying to warn and prepare the people that the Berlin situation might not offer any clear-cut answers."

FACED MANY PROBLEMS'

He told the group that since Kennedy started his one-year apprenticeship as President, the Chief Executive has been faced with innumerable problems ranging from gravity to harassment.

Smith associated Nelson Rockefeller and Barry Goldwater, the Republican party's potential presidential candidates for president in 1964, as being wealthy.

"Then there's George Romney. He's not exactly in the class but he doesn't qualify for relief checks either," he declared.

Romney is President of American Motors Corporation and is being mentioned as both a potential Republican candidate for governor and presidential candidate.

Plan to Release Most Men Held Over by Army

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Francis Case, R-S.D., said Friday that Army leaders expect to release by July 1 most of the Regular Army personnel whose terms were extended by Congress last September.

Case and Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee said Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr. told of this policy at a closed session.

They said this policy does not apply to some 120,000 reservists and National Guardsmen called up last fall.

The law permitted an involuntary extension for up to one year of the terms of military personnel then on duty.

Norway to Buy Bonds on U.N.s Congo Deficit

OSLO, Norway (AP) — The government newspaper Arbeider-Bladet said today the government has decided to inform U.N. Acting Secretary General U Thant Norway is willing to buy U. N. bonds in the amount of about 13 million kroner ($1.8 million).

The paper said the government intends to propse this to parliament provided other Nordic countries and others are taking similar steps to back the bonds, which are intended to meet the U.N. deficit on the Congo operation.

Avon Twp. Man Injured in Mishap on Icy Road

A 24-year-old Avon Township man was injured early today when his car skidded on an icy road and crashed into a tree a short distance from his home.

James L. Dies, 3391 Longview St., was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital following the accident at 2:30 a.m. He suffered a broken leg.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said Dies' car went out of control on an icy spot on Longview Street near Milton Street in Avon Township.

a. GOWN #NS-304 $2.00
b. COLLAR-TRAIN #NS-305 $1.00
c. FOUNDATION #NS-306 $1.00
d. COMBINED OFFER a-b-c $3.00

Michael Paul, an American-born designer whose fashionable salon is located in Florence, rises nobly to the challenge of creating a bridal outfit which has the simplicity and beauty of the age-old marriage ceremony itself.

A master at the art of subtle detail, here his only concession to adornment is a delicate shadow border of doubled fabric inserted between all seamed outer edges of the collared train.

The original full length gown was made in fine organdy. In the shorter version with the train converted to a floating panel, it is equally charming for the bride's attendants or for the bride herself if she plans an informal wedding. A separate foundation supports the skirt's beautifully belled silhouette.

From these corresponding body measurements, select the size best for you. Our sizing is comparable to that used for better ready-to-wear, and even the most petite figure can benefit from this wide size range.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips	*Length
6	32	22	33	16"
8	33	23	34	16¼"
10	34	24	35	16½"
12	35	25	36	16¾"
14	36½	26½	37½	17"
16	38	28	39	17¼"
18	40	30	41	17½"

*From nape of neck to waist.

Size 12 requires 5⅝ yards of 42-inch fabric for the full length gown (No. NS-304); 4⅝ yards of 42-inch for the collared train (No. NS-305; 4½ yards of 35-inch non-woven interfacing for the skirt foundation (No. NS-306). Patterns can be purchased separately —No. NS-304 for $2.00, No. NS-305 for $1.00, No. NS-306 for $1.00—or as a unit in the special combination offer for all three patterns for $3.00. State size for each pattern ordered. Add 25 cents for first class postage and special handling. SPADEA PATTERNS are the ONLY patterns using Ready-to-Wear Sizing. Address SPADEA, Box 535, G.P.O. Dept. P-6, New York 1, N.Y.

Card of Thanks 1

THE FAMILY OF MR. PAVLO Stezenko, wish to thank friends, relatives and neighbors for floral offerings, money and food. Also the National Food Store of Sylvan Lake, the police for their kindness; Rev. Mrs. Pavlo Stezenko and family.

In Memoriam 2

IN BELOVED MEMORY OF MY Father, Alexander G. V. Antona who died Jan. 27, 1931. —Janice.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY husband and father, Raymond E. Stratton, who died January 28th, 1961.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
His death has left us loneliness,
The world can never fill.
—Sadly missed by wife Rose, daughter Linda Ann.

THINK OF ALL THE FUN YOU'LL DERIVE OUT OF BEING ALIVE in beautiful Angelus Meadows. It's one of our more quiet, refined sections. Built to rigid specifications, having the outward appearance of a ranch and the inner space of a tri-level. Nothing has been scimped on and only the very finest of materials and workmanship employed. In all probability the family will spend most of the leisure hour in the 25' recreation room, which features a brick wall centered by a log burning fireplace and one widow wall leading out to a shaded back yard. A dream of a kitchen, big enough to live in and with loads of formica cupboards and gleaming yellow built-ins. It is truly a luxury home at a price of $24,-900 which includes wall-to-wall carpeting and draperies. One of our sales personnel will be pleased to show it to you.

PRIME CLOSE-IN WEST SUBURBAN. Original owner is offering his brick home, less than 8 years old, to some lucky man who wants new condition in a home but who doesn't want the expense of building a garage, landscaping, installation of carpeting and hanging of draperies. He won't have to tile his basement, or convert to gas heat; it is all done for him. City sewer, water and blacktop streets. Meets all comparison and under $17,000 with 10 per cent down. HURRY!

WEBSTER SCHOOL—Rarely are we able to offer eight big square rooms (4 huge bedrooms) a bath and a half, full basement and a screened rear patio at $13,-000. Completely decorated from stem to stern, floors like new. Choose yur own TERMS, FHA, GI, or Conventional. We have the key.

OWNERS' ILLNESS COMPELS move North. A total outlay of $850 should see you nicely settled in this spotless, Sylvan Village home. Nice, tiled basement, gas heat, year 'round lake privileges, sewer, water, improved streets. May be seen anytime.

G.I.'s No Money Down

OWNER WILL PAY YOUR CLOSING COSTS for you and your tenant should make your ½ payments on this dandy 2-family. Good location near the Boys Club. One heat, garage, separate utilities and entrance. Bring your discharge with you.

Ex-Crime Chief Dies in Italy

Heart Attack Claims Lucky Luciano, Last of Big-Time Racketeers

NEW YORK (AP)—They don't seem to make them any more like Lucky Luciano, who dropped dead Friday in exile in Italy—and it's just as well they don't. He may well have been the last of the really big-time racketeers.

There's still Frank Costello, the aging onetime prime minister of the underworld. Like Luciano, he emerged from prohibition as a man for the law to reckon with. But Uncle Frank never wielded the naked power of Luciano, who long held title in the underworld as "The Boss" — and in capital letters.

DIDN'T LOOK PART

Luciano would never have been cast by Hollywood as a gang leader. He was a bushy-browed man with gray hair. His cheeks were rather paunchy, his nose wide. He dressed well, favoring silk underwear and shirts. He came out of prison once with manicured nails and sporting an expensive jeweled wrist watch and ring.

Francis W. H. Adams, former New York police commissioner who represented Luciano on appeal from his vice sentence, said: "He was a person of very great reserve, a very quiet man. He had a soft voice. He was a fastidious man. But you might call him nondescript otherwise. If you saw him on the street and didn't know him, he wouldn't attract your attention one way or the other."

He was born Salvatore Lucania in Sicily 64 years ago. He came to the United States at the age of nine, went through the fifth grade in public school and was in trouble on a narcotics charge when he was 18. He gained a reputation for coolness in a tight spot, and the nickname "Lucky" when he came back alive from a gangland ride in 1929.

He was an associate during prohibition of such racketeers as Al Capone, Frankie Vale, Arnold Rothstein and Legs Diamond — and outlived them all.

After Stardom, What . . . ? Asks Dolores Hart

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Now I don't think a thing'll come of it, but Dolores Hart, the movie star, said to me a few nights ago, "Just to be a movie star—what good is that?"

Miss Hart then added, "You know, I can do a lots of things just as rewarding as being a movie star."

"What, for example?" I asked her.

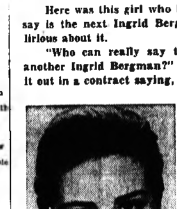

WILSON

"Cartooning!" she said instantly — and proceeded to cartoon some things in my notebook.

"I used to do some work for a greeting card company." She went on sketching herself and her dog. (It didn't look like her or her dog to me but what do I know about art?)

Here was this girl who lots of experts say is the next Ingrid Bergman claiming she wasn't delirious about it.

"Who can really say that five years from now I'm another Ingrid Bergman?" she said. "God hasn't written it out in a contract saying, 'Miss Hart, honey . . . '"

DOLORES

"The worst thing is, you start thinking, 'I'm pretty hot stuff.' You let that take root, and what happens when the day comes when nobody wants to interview you or take your picture? What can you do then to make your life bearable? Are you supposed to spend the rest of your life reading yellowed newspaper clippings — or slash your wrists—or become a drunk —or take narcotics?"

Miss Hart wasn't talking like one who's being built up here because of two new pictures, "Sail a Crooked Ship," and "The Inspector." She was talking more like that little girl from Chicago who was in a convent school in California when she got discovered as an actress.

Miss Hart is looking for a new Hollywood apartment. She wants one without a swimming pool.

"They're hard to find in Hollywood," she said. "The noisiest loudest, most ridiculous conversations go on around swimming pools — and besides, I don't look good with a tan!"

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Seaman Jacobs reports he fired his Japanese gardener, who, to save face, committed hara-kiri by pruning himself to death.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Description of an elderly playboy: "He's reached the age where he chases girls only if it's downhill."

EARL'S PEARLS: Too many people mistake looking for seeing, listening for hearing, and opinion for thinking.

"My wife," said a local fellow, "always feels sorry about the guy she could have married. I feel sorry about the guy she did." . . . That's earl, brother.

Fire Rips Apartment of Family in Oxford

An Oxford mother stood with her two small children in freezing temperatures this morning and watched fire destroy their apartment in a duplex frame home at 39 Pearl St.

Mrs. Don Morrison and the tots fled the home at 1 a.m. after fire and smoke apparently from an overheated forced-air register burst from the basement, said Village Fire Chief Ellsworth Sage. Loss was estimated at $6,000

The northside of the duplex home, listed as the residence of the Rev. Loy L. Barger, suffered mostly smoke damage, Sage said. Two pumper trucks and one tanker from the village fire department fought the blaze for two-and-a-half hours.

Thwart Russia on Congo Move

U.N. Security Council Members Block Try to Quickly Reopen Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —Russia's attempt to force quick reopening of the Security Council debate on the Congo was thwarted today by other members of the council.

Soviet Ambassador Valerian A. Zorin had demanded a meeting of the 11-nation group today to discuss the failure of U.N. forces to throw all foreign "mercenaries" out of secessionist Katanga Province.

He charged that there was "obvious agreement by the colonial powers" to save Katanga leader Moise Tshombe and safeguard "foreign monopolies" in the province.

There was reason to believe the deposing of Antoine Gizenga, left-leaning leader of Orientale Province, was the real motive for Russia's eagerness to reopen the Congo debate. The official Soviet newspaper Izvestia charged that there was a "colonialist plot" to murder Gizenga, now held by Congo government troops.

The United States and Britain were reported to have said flatly that they did not want a council meeting on the Congo now. Most of the other members of the council—which includes Chile, China, France, Ghana, Ireland, Romania, the United Arab Republic and Venezuela—pleaded for time to consult their governments.

Trolley Cars to Run No More in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—A century of streetcar service ends in Washington today, and nostalgia lies thick along the Potomac.

Trolley fans have chartered cars or special runs over the soon to be abandoned tracks. Washingtonians who haven't ridden streetcars in the 100 years they've been running and suburban children who haven't even seen one are planning to join them.

Shortly after midnight, when the last car clatters into the barn down by the Navy Yard, there will be only about 10 cities in the United States where streetcars still run.

Abraham Lincoln was in the White House when the first tracks were laid on Pennsylvania Avenue in 1862 and horse-drawn cars introduced. Theodore Roosevelt often rode out to the end of the line for a jaunt along the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.

Clifford Bell Retires From GM Post Soon

Clifford Bell, assistant general supervisor of the drafting department in General Motors Engineering Staff's Power Development Group, will retire at the end of January. His associates honored him at a recent dinner.

BELL

Bell, who resides at 8150 Flagstaff St., Union Lake, joined GM Engineering Staff in 1945. He formerly was employed by Reo Motor Car Company, Packard Motor Car Co. and GM Detroit Diesel Engine Division. Since 1952 he has been assistant general supervisor of the Power Development Drafting Department at GM Technical Center.

Christ Lutheran Young People Lead Services

Christ Lutheran Church, Waterford Township will join with thousands of other congregations in observing Youth Sunday tomorrow. Young people of the church will be in charge for the day.

At morning worship Jerry Johns, Gary Achenbach and Leonard Myberg will preach the sermon entitled "Christ and the Tempest." Other young people will participate as ushers, speaking and singing in a Youth Choir.

The Luther League will present a fellowship service at 6:30 p.m. with the theme "Keep the Bells Ringing."

Main speaking parts will be taken by Gerry Sunninghum, Terry Salisbury, Mark Byington, Rusty Wigg, Julie Cobb, Merrily Weber, Sue Rose and Tom Sprague. The group is under the direction of Milton Valdivia, chairman of the day.

Refreshments will be served after each service by the young people. The public is invited.

Workers Walk Off Job at Cadillac in Protest

DETROIT (AP) — Assembly line workers walked off their jobs at the Cadillac Motor Car Division plant in Detroit Friday night to protest the firing of a union committeeman.

The company then sent 3,000 employes home with instructions to report back for work Monday. All are members of the United Auto Workers Local 22.

School Officials in Pain Over Broken Panes

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — The loss of 1,000 window panes has given city school officials a $10,000 pain.

School Supt. Bennie Carmichael said vandals knocked out the panes in vacant school buildings during summer vacation.

Carmichael noted that the more than $10,000 it will cost to replace the windows and repair other damage is enough to build a new classroom.

Glenn's Orbital Flight Postponed by Weather

Misfired Moon Rocket May Still Get Pictures

GOLDSTONE TRACKING STATION, Calif. (AP) — The camera-carrying Ranger 3 spacecraft, fired toward the moon Friday from Florida, was headed instead for open space today but may still get valuable pictures of the lunar surface.

Scientists at this desert tracking station commanded the spacecraft by radio this morning to increase speed and to adjust its course slightly. It was hoped these adjustments would put the Ranger in position to begin photographing the previously unphotographed left side of the moon late Sunday morning.

The Ranger is expected to miss the moon by about 25,000 miles, but project officials say useful photographs may be obtained at this distance.

Scientists said it would be hours before they would know the effect of their radio commands on the vehicle.

The speed was increased so that the Ranger will cross the moon's orbital path while in Goldstone's line of sight. Goldstone is the only tracking station capable of issuing commands to the wayward spacecraft.

LOSING SPEED

The change of speed and direction was achieved by igniting a small midcourse rocket engine aboard the craft. When the maneuver command was given, Ranger 3 was 100,338 statute miles from earth and its speed 5,48 miles per hour. It had been losing speed gradually because of the earth's gravitational pull.

At the time of the launch, the moon was 236,924 miles from the earth. While there are no official figures, a good estimate of the direct line distance Ranger 3 was intended to fly would be in the neighborhood of 239,200 miles.

It traveled for eight minutes after launch in an orbital path of about 300 miles per minute. It took off into deep space from a 115-mile high orbit.

The Ranger 3 was fired into orbit around the earth Friday from Cape Canaveral. Then rockets were restarted to yank the moonship out of orbit and boost it up to escape velocity, 24,500 miles per hour, heading it toward the moon.

The rocket engines gave the moon ship too great a shove, which meant it would reach its intended rendezvous point with the moon 11 to 16 hours before the moon got there.

The moon ship would go hurtling onward into space and into orbit around the sun.

The craft carried panels of solar cells, extended like wings, to capture the sun's light and convert it into electric power. In its nose it carried a moonquake recorder. Scientists would have liked to land this on the moon for 30 days of reports on meteorite impacts and possible tremors in the moon's mass. This is out now.

Cooks With Prizes

TURN THIS KNOB — Mrs. Ruby Cummings, 510 N. Saginaw St., won the Kelvinator Electric Range from Federal Department Store Friday at the Pontiac Press cooking school. John Sweeney, Manager of the Drayton Plains store, was on hand to congratulate the winner.

Women Win Ranges as 'Galaxy' Closes

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, Pontiac Press

Two tickets were drawn yesterday, two women became the happy possessors of new ranges, and the third annual Pontiac Press cooking school was over.

Jubilant winners were Mrs. Ruby Cummings of 510 North Saginaw St., and Mrs. Phillip DeConick, 5745 West Maple Rd., West Bloomfield Township.

With almost capacity attendance for the four days of "Galaxy of Foods," nearly 3,000 individuals had attended the daily sessions. Most areas in northern Oakland county were represented.

Mrs. Cummings who won the Kelvinator electric range from Federal Department Store was in a daze as she came up to the stage when her name was drawn.

She certainly could use a new range, she said, her old one was too large for the space it occupied and hit the refrigerator.

Mrs. Phillip DeConick was not at Friday's session. Winners did not have to be present. She had attended on Monday, but her baby-sitter's children came down with the measles and Mrs. DeConick had to stay home the rest of the week.

Initial Efforts in Ousting Cuba From OAS Fail

Rusk Meets With Nine Ministers Today in Bid for More Support

PUNTA DEL ESTE (UPI) — The United States appeared today to have failed in efforts to reach agreement with key Latin American nations on how and when to suspend Fidel Castro's Cuba from the Inter-American system.

Conference sources said Brazilian insistence on a new hemisphere conference to "legalize" Cuba's ouster was the principal stumbling block in the way of quick action to ostracize the Castro regime.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk meets representatives of nine Latin nations today to resume negotiations which ended in deadlock Friday night.

There was no certainty of quick agreement. Colombian Foreign Minister Jose J. Caicedo Castilla hinted Friday night that the lack of agreement may make it necessary to extend the new world foreign ministers' conference beyond the Monday deadline originally set for adjournment.

A U.S. delegate said the talks might continue until Wednesday.

Rusk was pressing for immediate suspension of Cuba by the conferees here.

Brazil, supported by Mexico, insisted that a special conference must be held to amend the charter of the Organization of American States before the Castro regime could be suspended.

A "middle of the road" group whose makeup had not fully crystalized argued that the OAS council in Washington could suspend Castro after certain "administrative procedures" had been carried out.

"Quite has been trying for six days to consolidate these viewpoints and we will continue trying," Chilean Foreign Minister Carlos Martinez Sotomayor said Friday night.

"The door is half-closed, but we will try again tomorrow."

The extent of Friday night's disagreement was indicated by the fact that representatives of the 20 nations discussed only the first two points of a draft resolution prepared Friday, without reaching agreement on either point.

Romney Hits U.S. School Aid

Says Detroit Citizens' Work Is Proof Federal Help Unnecessary

Detroit solving its own school problems by citizen action is proof that federal aid to education is not necessary, George W. Romney, constitutional convention delegate from Bloomfield Hills, told a gathering in Birmingham last night.

Romney, one of seven county con-con delegates who spoke at the second public forum held by the Oakland Citizen's League at the Birmingham Community House, insisted on answering a question from a Washington, D.C. reporter on whether he favored federal aid to education as being discussed by the Kennedy administration.

The question was nearly ruled inappropriate to the con-con discussion. But Romney, a talked-about gubernatorial and possible presidential candidate, chose to answer.

Romney told the 175 listeners that he volunteered to head a citizens advisory council in 1955 to work out the complex problems facing the Detroit school system without having to go to Washington for help.

"This proved that the people in Detroit could raise the funds to meet Detroit's school needs," Romney said.

His reply drew great applause from the predominantly Republican audience.

Echo on Record Runs

Echo watchers attention: Jan. 27, 1962 may well go down in history as the day the big satellite crossed our skies three times in one day. Those of you who were up early this morning may have seen the ball roll along the horizon briefly at 4:04. Tonight you'll be able to get a better view as Echo makes two 1-minute passes at 6:50 south of the city and at 8:26 to the north, 47 to 56 and 75 to 80 degrees above the horizon, respectively. Sunday night it will be back again at 8:08, 86 to 89 degrees over the northern horizon, moving northeast.

Record Mile Is Run in New Zealand

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — Peter Snell of New Zealand running effortlessly on a grass track, bettered the world mile record tonight with a clocking of 3 minutes, 54.4 seconds that eclipsed Herb Elliott's mark by a tenth of a second.

Snell, Olympic 800-meter champion, whipped two sub four-minute milers as he came from the rear of the field, took the lead at the three-quarter mark and ripped off a 56-second final lap to beat Elliott's record.

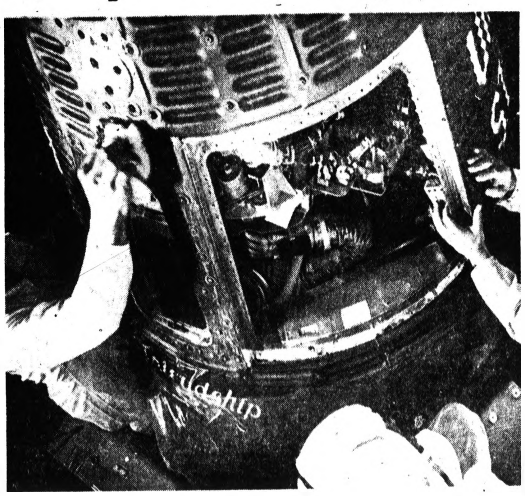

Elliott, Australia's miracle miler, has held the world record since he ran the distance in 3:54.5 at Dublin, Aug. 6, 1958.

Snell, continuing the lowering of the mile record beyond they four minute barrier first cracked by Roger Bannister of England with a 3:59.4 clocking at Oxford, Eng. land, May 6, 1954, finished well ahead of Britain's Bruce Tulloh.

Tulloh, normally a three-miler, was pushed to his first sub four-minute clocking, finishing in 3:59.3. Two previous under four minute milers — Albert Thomas of Australia and Murray Halberg of New Zealand — were third and fourth, respectively.

Snell began his record-breaking attempt by running last while the pacemaker, half-miler Barry Cox of Australia, took the field around the first lap in 60 seconds. Snell moved up in the second lap, following Cossar to the half-mile in 1:58.

In the third lap, Tulloh moved up strongly, but Snell took over with 660 yards to run and at the three-lap mark was timed in 2:58.

Offers State Aid to Local CD Men

Michigan's acting civil dfense director last night offered local directors state help with a systematic build-up of their efforts.

Robert S. D'Amelio told close to 100 representatives of the Northeastern Oakland County Civil Defense Council that he plans to put Michigan in the forefront of the states in its program of preparedness.

Speaking at a testimonial dinner honoring members of the nine-member municipalities in the council, D'Amelio cited preparedness as "the best deterrent to a potential enemy."

He said that he believed that, because of the scope of the problem, people had charged CD with confusion.

Instead, he countered, not all parts of the CD program are as publicized as fallout shelters.

The state official said that, although fallout shelters still are the key element of civil defense, there are other essentials.

They are: communications, attack warning, continuity of government and radiological defense.

URGES ACTION

What we need is not "Why should we?" but "How should we?" to demonstrate to a potential enemy that this nation can survive, said D'Amelio.

"Do not foredoom our people to extinction by doing nothing."

To preface his remarks D'Amelio expressed his appreciation and that of Governor Swainson of the job done by the people in the council.

Six of the seven local CD director in the council were given certificates at the dinner held at Michigan State University Oakland.

They were: Raymond Genereux of Lake Orion — Orion Township, George J. Moore of Oxford—Oxford Township, Charles Morrell of Avon Township, Dorothy Stackhouse of Oakland Township, Paul A. York of Rochester and Clagence F. Long of Troy. Addison Township director Robert A. McCullum was unable to attend.

The presentations were made by Oakland County Civil Defense Director John A. Madole.

John Kamego of the Bell Telephone Co.'s Pontiac district acted as master of ceremonies.

Algiers Firms Threaten Strike

European Shopkeepers Protesting Barricades Set Up by Police

ALGIERS (UPI) — European shopkeepers threatened new "strikes" today to protest downtown police barricades set up to curtail the daily violence in Algiers.

New terrorist attacks today accounted for 10 dead and wounded in the wake of Friday's outbreak of terror bombings, shootings and lynchings that took 18 lives and injured 25 others. The new incidents raised the unofficial casualty toll since Jan. 1 to 486 killed and 906 wounded.

One of today's victims was Mayor Emile Contant, 72, of the village of Almo. Reports said he was shot and killed by Europeans.

So far this year the number of persons killed every day averages to slightly more than 18.

SEARCHING PEOPLE

Police reacted to the mounting toll by throwing up a network of roadblocks in downtown Algiers and searching 1,000 persons an hour for plastic explosives and weapons.

Both Moslems and Europeans were forced to submit to quick but efficient friskings.

The emergency security measures cut into business. A delegation of businessmen visited city authorities to complain, and Europeans shut down shops, cafes and movie houses in protest.

The businesses closed, opened, closed again and re-opened to back up the delegation. Troops continued to patrol the uneasy area into the night.

Authorities have imposed a 9 p.m. curfew here and in Bone. In Oran, Algeria's second largest city, a 7 p.m. curfew was ordered and armored cars, half-tracks and jeeps mounted with machine guns rolled through the streets.

Molten Steel Kills 17 Workers in Rio

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — A huge crucible at the Volta Redonda steel mill tipped over today and spilled 60 tons of molten steel on 50 workers. Seventeen workers were killed and the other 33 were burned.

Reports from the mill, 80 miles from Rio de Janeiro, said a cable broke, causing the crucible to tip. The mill caught fire but the blaze was extinguished quickly.

Rain, Drizzle Soaking Wide Areas of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

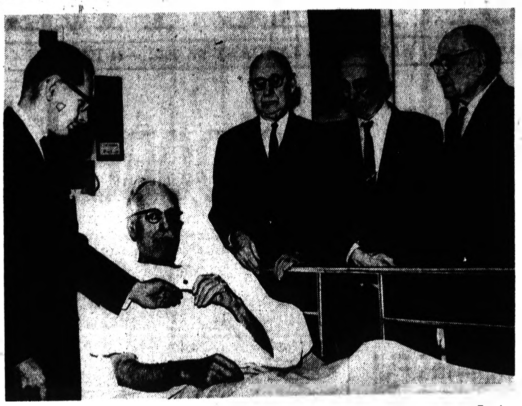

Rain and drizzle continued to soak wide areas of the nation today, turning the winter's snow accumulation to slush and swelling rivers with heavy runoff.

Drenching rains in north-central Indiana swelled streams and sent the Wabash River over its banks in Montezuma. Schools closed in Lebanon when a flash flood threatened 100 homes.

Roads were flooded near Lima, Ohio, soaked by two inches. Heavy runoff on the frozen ground created an ice jam on the Auglaize River. A school in Spencerville was flooded.

About 250 residents of Eastlake and Willoughby Hills, near Cleveland, were routed by the Chagrin River, which was flowing at up to nine feet above normal.

More than 100 barges broke loose from moorings on the Ohio River near Cairo, Ill., as the river rose two feet. They were swept downstream into the ice-choked Mississippi River, which has been closed to traffic by a huge ice jam since Jan. 12.

RARE HONOR — Ralph T. Keeling, veteran Pontiac attorney, was visited by some old friends and fellow Masons yesterday. Members of Pontiac Lodge 21, F&AM, they came to present their hospitalized buddy with a coveted 50-year pin signifying his half century as a Mason. Shown in the presentation at Pontiac General Hospital are (from left) Lynn Sherrow, Keeling, R. C. Cummings, William J. Thompson and Fred T. Becker. Keeling is a past master of the lodge and past high priest of the Royal Arch Masons.

Gather at Pontiac General for Ceremony

Masons Honor Ailing Attorney

A handful of oldtimers gathered at Pontiac General Hospital Friday to honor a long time friend and fellow Mason.

The rare occasion, usually reserved for the walls of a Masonic lodge, took place quietly, unnoticed in the bustling hospital.

Members of Pontiac Lodge 21, F&AM, presented on of the area's senior residents Ralph T. Keeling, 75, with a pin signifying his 50 years as a Mason.

Keeling has been seriously ill and hospitalized for three weeks. There aren't too many 50-year pins handed out by the Grand Lodge of Michigan, and hospital officials said they couldn't remember any such there.

PRESENTED BY SHERROD

It was presented to Keeling by Lynn Sherrod, of 35 Henderson St., worshipful master of the lodge. Sherrod was the only one present with less than 50 years credit.

Joining him were R. C. Cummings of 205 E. Iroquois Road, William J. Thompson of 663 E. Walton Blvd., and Fred T. Becker of 51 Pinegrove St., all members 50 or more years and past masters.

Becker and Keeling have a personal tie. They were both born Feb. 6, 1886 and became Masons at the same installation.

Keeling came to Pontiac in 1911 where he opened law offices. Now in semiretirement, he is one of the county's veteran attorneys. He lives at 3191 Alco Drive, Waterford Township.

The fare for the Pontiac to Detroit flight, exclusive of 10 per cent federal tax, will go from $5 to $5.15. Fares on flights to Cleveland will go up about 45 cents and up 60 cents to Alpena.

Call Off Glenn Space Ride

p.m. A report could come at that time on when the next firing effort will be made.

Glenn was taken down from the rocket and returned to his special "ready room" quarters in Hangar S about four miles from the launching pad.

He had left Hangar S at 4:46 a.m. after a final physical examination and breakfast. He entered the capsule at 5:12 a.m. for a scheduled 7:30 launching.

2 MINOR PROBLEMS

Two minor problems delayed the launch past the scheduled time and while technicians were correcting one of them the clouds moved over the cape and completely obscured what had been clear skies earlier.

The postponement thwarted for at least a day America's effort to hurl a man into orbit to match the feat accomplished last year by the Russian cosmonauts Gherman Titov and Yuri Gagarin.

Two U.S. astronauts, Alan B. Shepard and Virgil I. Grissom, were rocketed on two 15-minute suborbital flights in 1961. Both these launches also were delayed by weather, each for three days.

Today's postponement was the fifth for Glenn's flight.

Originally scheduled for last Dec. 20, when officials felt there was a chance of achieving manned orbit in 1961, it was put off until Jan. 16, when pressure began mounting on the launch crews.

Then technical problems with the Atlas and capsule caused three subsequent short delays.

The postponement was a bitter disappointment to the hundreds of technicians, engineers and scientists involved in the project.

Also disappointed were more than 600 newsmen here from the United States and 15 foreign nations to cover the historic firing, big crowds of persons who gathered on the beaches near the cape, and perhaps millions more across the nation who were watching on television when the shot was called off.

FLEET STAYS AT POSTS

A recovery fleet of 24 ships and 60 planes, strung out across the Atlantic ocean from the cape to the west coast of Africa will remain on station until the launching is tried again.

Minutes after the postponement was announced, technicians began dumping the volatile liquid oxygen from the Atlas' fuel tanks.

Great clouds of steam rose from the base on the rocket as the fuel poured out.

Glenn was reported in good spirits throughout his futil wait. He rested easily and his breathing was normal.

At the time the shot was called off, the count stood at T-minus 20 minutes.

The rugged, 168-pound astronaut was awakened at 2 a.m. He showered, shaved and ate a hearty breakfast of poached eggs, steak, caffein-free coffee, orange juice, toast and jelly.

After donning his silver space suit, he strode out of his quarters, waved cheerily to newsmen outside.

NOT OUTWARDLY NERVOUS

If he was nervous in the face of an historic and dangerous mission, he gave no outward sign of it as he rode in a van to the launch site, went up in an elevator and climbed into the capsule.

Only the weather went wrong.

The Atlas booster, the worldwide tracking network, the recovery forces were all ready for the first American to be committed to orbital flight.

Whenever the shot is tried again, the astronaut will orbit the earth three times if the rocket can be fired by 9:30 a.m. A delay past 11 a.m. would cut his mission to one orbit.

Ted's Restaurant Plans Expansion to Pontiac Mall

Ted's Restaurant, Woodward at Square Lake Road, Bloomfield Hills, is planning an expansion into the new 'Pontiac Mall Shopping Center, 409 North Telegraph Road, Waterford Township, according to L. M. Little, president of Ted's.

Plans calling for a cafeteria, dining room, and cocktail lounge are contingent upon approval Class 'C' liquor license, he pointed out.

Seating capacity will be approximately 275 people. In addition to the dining area, there will be a new bakery retail shop, but the "quality of the food and moderate prices will remain the same as the Woodward location," Little said.

* * * *

The new establishment will employ between 35 and 50 people with operating hours from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily, including Sunday.

Work to Start in April

To Ask Bids on 'Y' Job

Construction bids for a long-anticipated YMCA wing and renovation of the present headquarters at 131 Mt. Clemens St. will be called for in March.

Now, within $12,500 of reaching its goal of $650,000 upon receiving General Motors completed payment of its $250,000 gift, total cost of the YMCA's expansion program is expected to be reached by date of groundbreaking ceremonies sometime in April, according to Ted Slosson, general secretary of the 'Y'.

The present structure will undergo a 'modern facelifting' and its facilities updated to fit the new wing. Upon completion, the addition in itself at 120,487 cubic feet, will more than double our present space, he pointed out.

In addition to the General Motors donation, many of the over 1,800 contributors are accounted for, but, some of these are unreported.

Because of the considerable expense involved, "we invite those who've made their pledges to report so the 'Y' can work with it," Slosson urged.

Purchased in 1938, the present building was equipped to serve a membership of 1,033.

No additions have been made since that time although membership has increased four-fold to 4,400 taxing all facilities beyond capacity making the expansion an urgent need.

Swainson Urges Fiscal Reform

Governor Discusses Economy with Labor, Business Leaders

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. Swainson discussed the state's economy with leaders of business, labor and education last night and said the major need in Michigan is for fiscal reform.

The governor spoke in a panel discussion of the economy — the first of four such Swainson plans. Others will be held in Flint, St. Joseph and Marquette.

Michigan needs fiscal reform to replace "the creaky, antiquated system which penalizes new and expanding industries, thus depressing our job creating potential," Swainson said.

"Fiscal reform will not solve all of our economic problems, but without it, we can solve few of them," the governor declared, adding that "It will not, of and by itself, create thousands of new jobs. But, without it, virtually none will be created."

ALSO SPOKE

Other panel members were Ralph T. McElvenny, president of the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., Roblee B. Martin, Dundee Cement Corp. president and chairman of the Michigan Industrial Ambassadors, Leonard Woodcock, United Auto Workers Union vice president, Russell Bright, associate dean of liberal arts at Wayne State University, and Detroit City Councilman Edward Connor.

Only hours before the meeting, Swainson submitted a tax program to the legislature, including a flat rate income tax on personal and corporation income.

McElvenny said the state could no longer depend on the automobile companies as its main economic strength and that the financial problems of Michigan can no longer be met by cutting state spending.

* * *

"Some other source of state financing must be provided,' he said. "I believe the consensus is that whatever fiscal program we adopt must provide some tax relief for business."

Report West Drafting Berlin Peace Memo

LONDON (UPI) — The Western Big Four powers are drafting a memorandum to present to the Soviets on their latest Berlin peace plans, diplomatic sources said today.

The memorandum will set out the Western position on Berlin and was expected to be handed to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko by U. S. envoy Llewellyn Thompson in the course of his "probe" of Soviet policy intentions.

The Western draft was intended to counter the Soviet memorandum on Russian Berlin peace proposals which Gromyko gave Thompson Jan. 12 at Moscow.

The sources said the Western outline will make no new offer of compromise on the known Allied position, but it may set out the terms in more precise form.

The Day in Birmingham

Adult Classes in Hills to Begin Week of Feb. 5

BIRMINGHAM — Adult evening classes in the Bloomfield Hills School District will begin the week of Feb. 5.

Registrations for the eight-week sessions are being taken at the district's administration office at 4200 Andover Road, near Telegraph and Long Lake roads.

The classes will be held once a week at the high school from 8 to 10 p.m.

Courses to be offered include art, contract bridge, intermediate bridge, dog obedience, conversational and continuing French, and German.

Other classes include jewelry and enameling, knitting, millinery, oil painting, conversational Spanish, slip covers and draperies, beginning square dancing, tailoring, and typing.

If ten or more persons request a course that isn't listed the adult education officials will attempt to make available the class.

A new series of programs designed to introduce youngsters six through nine years of age to an appreciation of nature will begin Feb. 3 at the Cranbrook Institute of Science.

The sessions will amplify the junior League of Birmingham.

Auditorium programs will be held on four consecutive Saturdays from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

Registration will be limited to 60 youngsters.

The first program will deal with birds, followed by plants, sound and animals.

Color films will open each session.

Birmingham city commissioners have taken steps to legally allow the burning of leaves in trash barrels on the public right-of-way.

The city has condoned the practice in the past as a means of saving the city money but had never amended the ordinance which prohibits the burning of anything in the public right-of-way.

The new provision, however, will only affect the burning of leaves.

Waterford Official to Change Parties

in the township. He preferred not to be specific.

HINTS OTHER SWITCHES

Johnson, of 3320 Seebaldt Road, hinted that there may be other party switches—from Democratic to GOP—among the board of supervisors.

The former tool and die maker and Waterford school board member emphatically denied that he was changing party colors to be on the winning side as Republican election pluralities gain in the township.

Johnson ran for township office in 1957 after serving seven years on the township board of education. He won, and was re-elected in 1959 when the five-member township board was increased to seven.

GOP WON SEATS

In April 1961 Republicans Loren D. Anderson and Byron L. Cole won posts on the boards. Republicans also swept all four constable jobs plus the justice of the peace vacancy created when former Justice Donald E. Adams resigned to become probate judge.

The board, consisting of the township supervisor, clerk, treasurer and four trustees, is now 5-2 in favor of the Democrats.

Republicans carried the township in last September con-con election.

Johnson's move follows by about a year the same party switch of former Democratic Independence Township Supervisor Duane Hursfall.

Johnson, who receives $11,000 a year, said he has no political ambitions outside the township.

He insisted he desired to work for "what's good for the township and not for the party."

Child Discovered Beside Mother Dead Five Days

The girl, dressed in a T-shirt and diaper, was found whimpering near the body of Mrs. Barbara Ray, 18, her mother. Police said Mrs. Ray apparently died of natural causes Monday.

Her body was found lying in the middle of the living room floor of the three-room upper flat.

Pontiac Local 784 of the American Federation of Musicians will hold its annual meeting and dinner party Sunday afternoon and evening at the Airway Lounge in Waterford Township.

Officers and executive board members will be elected at the 2 p.m. business meeting. Dinner will be at 5:30 in the lounge's banquet hall, followed by dancing from 7:30-11.

In the 12th Century the Crusaders made Byblos one of their chief strongholds. The warriors erected a huge, gloomy citadel that is still remarkably preserved. Byblos was the last castle town in Lebanon to be abandoned by the Crusaders.

To Pick Nominee in New Orleans

Says Political Future of Morrison at Stake in Dem Mayor Primary

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The political future of deLesseps S. Morrison—49-year-old onetime boy wonder of Louisiana politics—may be decided today as New Orleans Democrats pick a nominee for mayor.

Morrison resigned last summer after 16 years as mayor to become U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States when voters rebuffed his efforts to change the city charter to permit him to seek another term.

Nine candidates are seeking the Democratic nomination and a host of other offices are also on the ballot. A runoff for mayor seems likely. It would be held March 3. The Democrat will meet T. Ross Buckley, unopposed for the Republican nomination, in the general election April 3.

Morrison is backing State Sen. Adrian Duplantier, 33, for the nomination, but the former mayor's Crescent City Democratic Association is split between Duplantier and two other candidates—including Victor H. Schiro, who is serving as interim mayor.

If Duplantier makes a good showing, it could be interpreted as a sign that Morrison will probably make his third effort to capture the Louisiana governorship. Morrison was defeated in 1956 by the late Earl Kemp Long and again in 1960 by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, the balladeer who wrote "You Are My Sunshine."
