School Unit Bill Up for Debate

Preliminary Senate debate was to begin today on a revised bill to create an osteopathic college authority for Michigan.

Two State Senate committees — appropriations and corporations — voted yesterday to bring the bill out of committee and report to the floor of the Senate.

'State Must OK New Colleges'

Kelley Ruling Affects Osteopathic School

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley declared the State Board of Education must approve establishment of new colleges or universities and department additions to existing schools.

His statement in a letter to Sen. Edward Robinson, D-Dearborn, made public today, set the stage for a Senate fight today or Thursday on a bill to create a Michigan Osteopathic College Authority.

On a broader basis, it could lead to new disputes in the continuing brushfire between some institutions of higher education and other state authorities.

The osteopathic college bill had been approved Tuesday by the State Appropriations and Corporations committees with an eye toward expediting construction and operation of an osteopathic college proposed for Pontiac.

In his letter to Robinson, Kelley traced much of the debate concerning article 8, section 3, of the Michigan Constitution, which sets forth these duties of the State Board of Education:

"The debates are persuasive that the State Board of Education was empowered not only to determine the location of colleges and universities, but the additions of departments to existing colleges and universities on both the undergraduate and graduate level."

In revising the bill, the committees trimmed provisions which would have required the state to appropriate enough money each year to construct, operate and expand such a college.

The appropriations committee, which killed the bill in the spring session of the legislature, noted that the current measure would carry no financial implications for the state this year.

The original bill had sought state funds to operate and maintain the projected Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine to be located in Pontiac.

PLANNING FUNDS

Dr. B. F. Dickinson, president of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, said that the bill was revived because the osteopaths were included in a capital outlay measure for planning funds.

The osteopathic college is caught in the middle of an internal political battle, according to Dr. Dickinson.

The Pontiac surgeon said today that opposition to the creation of a college authority to govern the projected medical school seems to come at the state level, specifically the newly formed State Board of Education.

He said that the state board apparently feels that any educational program should go through the board. Creation of the osteopathic college authority would automatically bypass the board.

NOT THE AIM

This is not the aim of osteopaths, according to Dr. Dickinson, who said that the profession is only interested in

First-Degree Murder Charged to Suspect

A 38-year-old Avon Township carpenter who told Oakland County sheriff's deputies he was kicked and beaten in a scuffle Monday night, died en route to Pontiac General Hospital last night.

The victim was identified by deputies as John Arnett of 3471 Dunning.

Charged with first-degree murder in Arnett's death is Herbert Harris, 23, of 3044 Eastwood, Avon Township, according to deputies.

Harris demanded examination when brought before Pontiac Township Justice R. Grant Graham early this morning.

He was returned to the Oakland County Jail without bond to await his pretrial examination scheduled by Graham for Oct. 15.

Meanwhile, an autopsy was to be performed on the victim at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today to determine the exact cause of death.

Sheriff's deputies said Arnett called them Monday night and charged Harris with kicking him repeatedly in the chest and stomach.

The beating reportedly took place in front of a house in the 2800 block of Woodelm, in Avon Township, about two miles from Arnett's home.

Arnett, however, refused to sign a complaint.

Last night he began to get sick, according to relatives of the victim.

He was taken to Avon Center Hospital in Avon Township by a brother, Elmer.

Hospital authorities called the sheriff's department and reported that Arnett was in critical condition.

Deputies who assisted in transferring the victim to Pontiac General Hospital said both his eyes were blackened and he was twisting in pain.

Humphrey Is Ready to Take Over

WASHINGTON (AP) — A specific agreement provides that Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will act for President Johnson if need be during the latter's hospitalization for removal of his gall bladder.

This was emphasized yesterday by the President in announcing the forthcoming operation.

However, he said he does not "anticipate the need for presidential decision, or actions, during the short time that I will not be available for the purpose."

Johnson and Humphrey have had an agreement since shortly after their election, providing:

and the latter would serve as acting president, exercising the duties of the office until the inability ended.

• In the event an inability prevented the President from communicating with the vice president, the latter, after such consultation as he deemed appropriate, would decide whether to take over the powers of the office and serve as acting president until the inability ended.

• In either event, the President would decide when the inability had ended and at that time would resume the full exercise of his powers and duties.

Johnson said the agreement with Humphrey is the same as that between former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and between the late President John F. Kennedy and Johnson when he was vice president.

A proposed constitutional amendment covering the subject of presidential inability was passed by Congress in July and is now before the states. Eight of the required 38 state legislatures have ratified it. Michigan acted only yesterday.

Others are Arizona, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Kentucky.

SETS PROCEDURE

The proposed amendment sets out this procedure in case a president becomes incapacitated:

• If a president notifies Congress of his disability, the vice president would take over as acting president. He would serve until the president proclaimed himself able to resume his powers.

• If a president were unable to perform his duties, the vice president would take over as acting president.

Boy Freed From Viselike Trap in Cave

MEDINA, Ohio (AP) — A 15-year-old boy was inches free today from the viselike trap where he was pinned 24 hours in a cave once used to hide fugitive slaves. He was taken from the cave to a hospital.

The 110-pound boy, Morris Baetzold, looked exhausted when he was carried on a stretcher from the cave.

Rescuers, who had struggled through the night to free him, finally managed to get a strap around his slender body and slowly lifted him out of the slanted sandstone passageway where he had been pinned face down.

Morris was taken immediately to a hospital from the cave where he was caught about 11 a.m. yesterday while on an outing with youngsters from the children's home where he lives.

He had not eaten since he was trapped.

LITTLE SLEEP

Neither had he been able to sleep much in the cramped confines of the foot-wide tunnel.

Rescue workers had been with him almost constantly, trying to tug him loose or just cheer him up.

Throughout the ordeal, Morris was reported in good condition and calm.

"He's not saying much except that he wants to get out," reported Curtis Peck of Akron after coming out of the cave, "and you can hardly blame him for that."

Dr. Andrew C. Karson of Medina, who checked the boy pe-

The measure, which had the endorsement of Gov. George Romney, passed the Senate earlier this year.

Three of the opposing votes were cast by Democrats. The other 12 came from Republicans, including Minority leader Rep. Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, said the Republican opposition did not represent a party or caucus position.

GOV OBJECTS

A number of Republican legislators had objected to the measure in an hour of debate Monday night. They complained of vague language and a lack of safeguards against usurpation of presidential powers.

The amendment is designed to install the vice president as acting president if the president is too sick or injured to perform his duties.

Amendment on Disability OK'd by State

LANESING (AP) — Michigan became the eighth state in the union yesterday to approve the Presidential Disability Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The House approved the amendment 41-15.

The amendment must be approved by 25 of the 50 state legislatures within seven years of its passage by Congress. Colorado is the only state to consider the measure so far and not approve it.

Red Chinese Rip U.S.; Air Violation Is Alleged

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China hurled new defiance at the United States today after claiming to have downed one of four U.S. planes it said violated Chinese air space.

There was no comment on the Chinese claim from U.S. officials in Washington or Saigon.

A spokesman for Peking's defense ministry termed the alleged aerial intrusion "a planned and premeditated act, part of the U.S. imperialists' efforts to expand their war aggression in Asia."

"If the U.S. imperialists insist on imposing war upon the Chinese people and engaging in a trial of military strength, we say to them, you are welcome," he continued.

"If you dare to come, we will dare to hit back. We will fight whenever you come, and wherever you appear. We will wipe you out whether you come singly or in pairs."

WORDS SIMILAR

His words were similar to those of Foreign Minister Chen Yi, who last week challenged the United States, Soviet Union, India and Britain to invade China "and be wiped out."

Radio Peking reported that Chinese fliers downed an American fighter yesterday over Kwangsi, a mainland province adjoining Communist North Viet Nam.

The broadcast said the three other American planes "fled in dismay when they found the situation unfavorable."

No further details were given and the fate of the pilot was not disclosed.

Recuperation Slated to Take 10 to 14 Days

Mayo Doctor Says Operation Is Major but Risk 'Very Low'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is facing surgery Friday for removal of his gall bladder, then 10 to 14 days in the hospital and several weeks more on a reduced schedule.

The President, 57, a rather forlorn-looking man seated alone at the huge, octagonal table in the White House Cabinet room, announced the forthcoming operation to newsmen last night at the close of a day of suspense.

The physician who will perform the operation, Dr. George A. Hallock of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., said it will be major surgery but "the risk to a normal person of the President's age is very low indeed."

And the man who handled Johnson's severe heart attack in 1955, Dr. J. Willis Hurst, chairman of the medical department at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., said, "We do not anticipate difficulty. Obviously we intend to be as careful and cautious as possible."

Hurst said Johnson has had no heart difficulty for 10 years and: "I would place him in a group of risks similar to any other patient who has not had a heart attack."

Johnson will check in at the U.S. Naval Hospital in Suburban Bethesda, Md., tomorrow. A Navy commander for a time in World War II, Johnson was taken to this hospital after his heart attack. And he was there for 3½ days last January with a sore throat and heavy cold.

MINIMUM TIME

He reported last night that "the doctors expect there will be minimal time during which I will not be conducting business as usual."

And he sounded assurances that should presidential action or decision be needed and he was unable to provide them, standing arrangements are in effect for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to act in his place.

Johnson met with Humphrey and the Cabinet just before he read his announcement to newsmen. He said he had discussed his case also with congressional leaders and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He had gone through a flurry of appointments, with newsmen and photographers called in to observe part of the process. But the White House press corps had had advance indications of something more momentous — something whose nature was a carefully guarded secret to the last moment.

Morris was stuck head first in a slanting passageway of Wildcat Cave, a small cavern in a park near Hinckley, 12 miles north of here on the outskirts of Cleveland.

A FOOT WIDE
Rescuers could approach him, but could touch only his feet and legs. The area where he was stuck is about a foot wide and 3 1/2 feet high.

Rescuers considered drilling through the top of the cave to open an escape hatch, but there was some question whether the rock formation was stable enough to do this.

Morris, 5 feet 7 inches tall, apparently tried to crawl through the narrow passage thinking it opened into a larger tunnel beyond. But it ends just a few feet from where he got stuck.

This tunnel is about 60 feet inside the cave and the left of the main entry. Had Morris taken another tunnel off to the right, he could have walked out.

ON OUTGO
He and six other youths from the Methodist Children's Home in Berea, near Cleveland, were on an outing with three teachers.

They had planned to go to an historical site near New Philadelphia, but the bus had a flat tire and because of the delay the teachers elected to go instead to the Whippis Lodge Park area.

Johnson to Have Gall Bladder Surgery

statement—rapidly, as if he were anxious to get it over with.

"At the ranch on Sept. 7," he said, "I felt some pains in my stomach which seemed to be the result of something I had eaten."

TEST SERIES
There was a series of these that week, and Johnson said Burkley reported they indicated a poorly functioning gall bladder.

The X-ray films were forwarded to the President's family doctor, former Texas James Cain of the Mayo Clinic staff. Cain and Mayo radiologists confirmed diagnosis of a malfunctioning gall bladder with stones, Johnson said.

"After further consultation," the President said, "the doctors recommended that the gall bladder be removed. I will, therefore, enter Bethesda Naval Hospital tomorrow night for surgery Friday."

"While I do not anticipate the need for presidential decision or actions during the short time that I shall not be available for that purpose, the Cabinet, and particularly the secretary of state and secretary of defense, as well as my White House staff, will always be in contact with the vice president."

POLICY DECISIONS
"These men have been party to and participated thoroughly in all major policy decisions. They are fully and currently informed. The public will of course be kept fully and currently advised of my progress."

Johnson arose from the presidential chair, managed a bit of a smile, and walked rapidly toward the door. He seemed touched by a chorus of "Good luck, Mr. President," from the press corps.

Humphrey told newsmen that Johnson had discussed the situation fully with him and the Cabinet, "and we are clear as to the procedures to be followed during his short absence if necessary arises."

Humphrey added that he would remain in Washington and be available at all times during Johnson's hospitalization.

JOHN'S OPERATION
Not since Eisenhower underwent an ileitis operation in 1956 has a president in office required surgery.

Johnson himself had had a kidney stone removed by surgery back in 1955, before his heart attack. And in 1948 one was eliminated by manipulation.

This was recalled by Dr. Cain after Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, brought in most of the team of doctors handling the Johnson case for a question and answer session.

It includes Hallenbeck, Hurst, Burkley, Cain, and four others. Dr. David Paul Osborne, chief surgeon at the naval hospital, the Anesthesiologist, Dr. Edward P. Didier from Mayo Clinic, Dr. Donald C. McIlrath, head of a Mayo section of surgery and Navy Capt. James Young, who would take office after confirmation by a majority vote of both Senate and House.

It was Hallenbeck who estimated the presidential hospital, would be tossed out, too. He had expected, for example, to attend a Democratic party dinner in Los Angeles Oct. 15 and perhaps fly on from there to Hawaii or Alaska or both.

His daughter, Luci, probably will be in to see him Friday morning. And daughter Lynda, who is attending the University of Texas at Austin, probably will fly to Washington that night.

DEBATE BILL on School Unit
providing more physicians for Michigan residents.

"We have no intention of bypassing the board. In fact, our charter was issued through the board under the old constitution," he explained.

ACCEPT AID
A 10-member osteopathic college authority would be created to supervise the projected MCOM and would be authorized to accept any public or private donations or financial aid.

Sen. Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, prime supporter of the bill, said osteopaths themselves have pledged in the neighborhood of $4 million toward the Pontiac medical school.

Federal aid is also being sought from a $105-million fund set aside to assist hearing aids institutions.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has declared the State Board of Education must approve establishment of new colleges or universities and department additions to existing schools.

Dr. Dickinson said that the osteopaths, when they learned of the attorney general's ruling, sent a letter last April to the state board, asking for an interview to explain the situation.

NO REPLY
Until recently Dr. Dickinson said there had been no reply. However, an interview has been set for Nov. 4 with the state board.

"I think we're caught in the middle of an internal fight," said an osteopathic association president.

N. Viets Down 3 U.S. Planes

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Three U.S. Air Force planes were shot down Wednesday over North Viet Nam and the four men aboard are listed as missing, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

He said the downed planes were an F4C Phantom, with a two-man crew, and two F105 Thunderchiefs. Two parachutes were observed from the Phantom, but a search produced no trace on the airmen, the spokesman said. One parachute was spotted from the Thunderchiefs. The other Thunderchief was lost from sight, he said but did not elaborate. He described the aircraft craft fire as heavy.

The Phantom was lost on a nine-plane strike on the Lang Hep ammunition depot 40 miles northwest of Hanoi, the spokesman said. Ten other Phantoms scheduled for the same target were diverted to fly rescue cover after the plane went down.

The Thunderchiefs were part of a 20-plane raid on Lang Mei bridge 45 miles northeast of Hanoi. Heavy flak was observed over the area, the spokesman said.

HANOI CLAIMS
Radio Hanoi claimed Tuesday the planes had shot down 10 U.S. planes.

Hanoi declared last week that U.S. pilots shot down in North Viet Nam would be treated as war criminals and face trials.

In the ground war, a U.S. military spokesman said the Vietnamese army claimed its forces killed 260 Viet Cong this week in major operations in the central highlands and the Mekong Delta.

The casualty claims were not confirmed by U.S. body counts.

CLAIM 220 KILLED
The Vietnamese claimed 220 guerrillas dead following heavy fighting Monday during a government sweep in the southernmost province of An Kuyen.

They said another 40 Viet Cong were killed and 28 captured in an action in Binh Dinh Province. Light government losses were reported.

The operation in Binh Dinh, 360 miles northeast of Saigon, began in 1942. He termed the rejection an "apparent injustice" and said he has appealed by letter to President Johnson.

Dr. Jerome J. Robb lives at 2575 Hiller, West Bloomfield Township, and practiced in Pontiac since 1942. He termed the rejection an "apparent injustice" and said he has appealed by letter to President Johnson.

"The one — and only — reason for turning me down is that I am an osteopathic doctor, rather than a medical doctor," Robb said.

"The people of Viet Nam are dying in droves for lack of any kind of care, but those of us who want to help them are being rejected simply because we don't have the right degree."

SERVED IN HAITI
Robb, 52, said he served as a volunteer physician for the World Health Organization in Haiti after a hurricane took hundreds of lives there two years ago.

He said he volunteered this summer when Presidential Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers called for physicians to go to Viet Nam for at least two months to care for wounded and ailing civilians.

REJECTED FOR VIET SERVICE
The legislative committee further recommended that Oakland County recognize that remedial legislation is needed, assist in studying this problem in depth and work toward a sound bill for the solution to the problem.

George H. Williams, director of the county's department of social welfare, and his assistant, Douglas Hoard, left for Lansing following the legislative committee meeting this morning to distribute to legislators copies of the county stand on the welfare issue.

Wounded Yanks — Paratroopers of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade's 1st Battalion take their wounded to an evacuation helicopter after a fierce clash yesterday with Viet Cong guerrillas in the thick jungle of South Viet Nam's D Zone, 25 miles northeast of Saigon. The unit suffered many casualties in the engagement.

New Law to Fight 3 Diseases

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today a bill to launch a major attack against heart disease, cancer and stroke — without even mentioning that he faces a gall bladder operation himself Friday.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was there too, and he and Johnson traded warm words, handclaps and smiles. The President gave a friendly pat on the shoulder to the man who will take any needed action if the President himself at any time is unable to do so.

The bill authorizes a three-year, $340 million program to launch a campaign against what the President called three murderous diseases that will claim seven of every 10 Americans who lose their lives this year.

"Now," he said, "these are not dry statistics; these are ready facts whose anguish touches every single family in this land of ours."

The goal of the new law is simple, Johnson said: "To speed the miracles of medical research from the laboratory to the bedside."

REGIONAL GRANTS

The measure provides for grants to establish regional programs among medical schools and clinical research institutes.

There are provisions for improving the training of specialists and obtaining better medical facilities and equipment to help victims of the three great killer diseases.

The way Johnson talked of the bill, without mention of his own scheduled surgery, touched the emotional chords of the members of Congress and distinguished doctors in the group who watched the signing.

Yet the president did show feeling and a tinge of emotion when lauding the work of a commission appointed, under Dr. Michael DeBakey of Houston, Tex., whose recommendations led to the new law.

PRAISES CONGRESS

He was equally expressive in praising what he called the fabulous 80th Congress which he said has demonstrated there is no partisanship in matters of health and education.

He said that it has been written that:

"Men who are occupied in the restoration of health to other men are above all the great of the earth. They even partake of divinity, since to preserve and renew is almost as noble as to create."

Johnson said that is true of great doctors but equally true of citizens who worked for the new law and particularly true of "the fabulous 80th Congress."

"You have given us more than leadership," Johnson said, "You have given our people a gift of hope for long and happy life."

SURPRISE REPORT

Johnson had a bit of a surprise for his audience. He called on Dr. Howard Rusk, director of the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation of the New York University Medical Center, to report on a mission to Viet Nam.

While Johnson got busy with pens for signing the bill, Rusk announced that Johnson is sending a plane to airlift to the United States for treatment and rehabilitation 60 paralyzed Vietnamese servicemen he said were doomed to rot to death otherwise.

Rusk said the paraplegics will be sent back home to help train hundreds of others who have lost the use of their legs through severance of the spinal cord.

Rusk said the most exciting thing about his trip to Viet Nam

'Picked On' Pupil Starts 9th Grade After Suit Filed

DETROIT (AP) — Fifteen-year-old Bruce Andrews will start in the ninth grade today but only after his mother filed suit to get him there.

Mrs. Lucy B. Andrews agreed Tuesday to withdraw her federal court suit after school officials said they would transfer Bruce to grade 9-B in McMichael Junior High School.

Mrs. Andrews asked for an injunction — last month — to force school officials to let Bruce join ninth grade. She said teachers at Bruce's previous school, Hutchins Junior High School, were picking on her son.

Teachers at Hutchins said Bruce had flunked five of his six subjects.

Thirty-five per cent of a large group of American families interviewed reported that they had no savings, investments or reserve funds in the form of bank deposits, bonds or stocks.

'DOWNED YANK PLANE'—This picture, made available by Communist sources and distributed by Eastfoto, is described as the wreckage of the 500th U.S. aircraft shot down by the Reds in Viet Nam. The plane reportedly was shot down Aug. 29 by the Nghe An army in the Thanh Chuong district of North Viet Nam.

Viet War Symbol

Marines Hold School

CAM NE, South Viet Nam (AP) — In the midst of this hamlet sits a run-down, bullet-riddled schoolhouse that has become a symbol in the Vietnamese war.

Sixteen U.S. Marines guard it around the clock. The Viet Cong fire at it by night.

"It is a symbol of American help (to the South Vietnamese People)," says Lt. Col. Robert Tunnell, Fallbrook, Calif.

He commanded the 3rd Battalion of the 9th Marine Regiment until Friday, when he lost his right leg. He stepped on a pound block of dynamite planted by the Viet Cong and set off by a homemade pressure fuse. While helping to evacuate him, Sgt. Adolf Hartschlag, Vista, Calif., stepped on a similar mine and lost his left leg.

2 NEWSMEN

A few days before, Tunnell had taken two newsmen to the schoolhouse. His battalion only recently had moved into the Hoa-Thai village complex just south of Da Nang.

Speaking proudly of the Marines' determination to hold the battered schoolhouse, Tunnell said:

"It is a thorn in the side of the Viet Cong. I think they want to capture it rather than destroy it so they can say, 'We kicked the Marines out.'"

Tunnell said that a year ago Cam Ne was "a pure Communist town."

Today, according to Nguyen Luong, 51, the village chief, there are 600 families in the Hoa-Thai village complex, which includes the hamlet of Cam Ne. Of these 600, he says, 106 are Viet Cong sympathizers.

MARINE GUARD

Luong is under constant marine guard while he is in the village area because he is on the Viet Cong's list for assassination.

The schoolhouse is about 75 feet long and has five small rooms. The Marines have established defensive positions inside; sandbags have been placed in some of the doorways and open windows.

During the day, the schoolhouse serves as a medical aid station for villagers, treated by a Navy medic, Dennis Neu, 20, Santa Cruz, Calif.

The villagers and Marines plan to rebuild the schoolhouse and start classes again.

HUTS BURNED

It was at Cam Ne that the Marines burned several huts last August after being fired at by the Viet Cong concealed inside the huts.

Luong said he thinks his people understand: "It is war and the Marines try to kill the Viet Cong and they don't like to burn houses."

Russia Hikes Latin Training in Moscow

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — Russia is stepping up the training in Moscow of Latin Americans, including instructions in guerrilla tactics.

This year's student body at Lumbumbia University in Moscow includes a large proportion of students from Latin America.

The rest come from Africa, Southeast Asia and the Middle East. But the Latin American contingent is the largest.

The massive intake of Latin Americans is motivated by the "new dawn" of the liberation campaign throughout the continent.

Their training includes instruction in stirring and leading revolutions against existing regimes through propaganda, subversion and reportedly also through the use of force.

WIDER EFFORTS

The move coincides with wider efforts now under way for Communist incursions into Latin America which, after Africa, is considered also by Peking most ripe for sweeping revolution.

Behind the stepped-up effort emerges the mounting rivalry between Russia and Red China for leadership of the unaligned countries, with Moscow showing signs of growing restiveness over Peking's spreading influence.

The desire to move into Latin America more forcefully than hitherto and on a more organized basis has prompted the Afro-Asia Peoples' Solidarity Organization to arrange an Afro-Asian-Latin American conference in Havana early in the new year.

A preliminary meeting took place in Cairo last month to begin planning for the projected Havana conference next January.

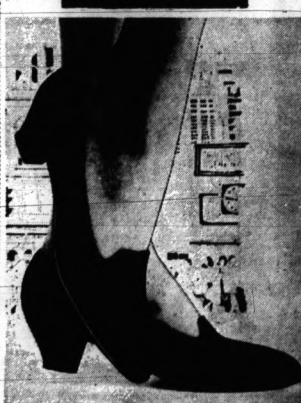

PREPARATORY COMMITTEE

A preparatory committee was set up which includes representatives from Cuba and from left wing or Communist groupings in Chile, Guatemala, Mexico, Uruguay and Venezuela.

The keynote is on "national liberation" and "anti-imperialism," with Red China claiming the lead because of her uncompromising policy of anti-Americanism and of "revolutionary liberation."

The Chinese are believed to be hopeful that the extension of the Afro-Asian Peoples' Solidarity Organization would give them a much coveted channel into Latin America where their influence has so far been comparatively small.

Russia, worried about the unrelenting Communist Chinese push into the unaligned world, is taking precautions to block Peking's advance or at least to slow it down and keep it within narrow limits.

Inaugural Award to Scientist

By Science Service

NEW YORK — Science's newest award, carrying a cash prize of $25,000, will be presented to Dr. Warren Weaver on Oct. 25 in Seattle.

The Arches of Science Award was created to honor an outstanding contributor to the public understanding of science in this country.

Dr. Weaver, the first award winner, and a versatile combination of mathematician and communicator, has distinguished himself in many fields, especially in the theory of probability and statistics.

One of his most popular publications is "Lady Luck — The Theory of Probability."

Since the 1920's, Dr. Weaver has worked to increase science understanding through radio and television, as an author, editor and administrator.

HANDLED GRANTS

During 28 years with the Rockefeller Foundation, Dr. Weaver has distributed $50 million in research grants, much of it going to scientists who later received the Nobel Prize.

One of his more important activities has been to promote the application of mathematics, physics and chemistry to biology.

In 1955, Dr. Weaver headed a committee appointed by the National Academy of Sciences to study the problem of radiation and inform the public on its dangers.

WAS TEACHER

The 71-year-old scientist was born in Wisconsin and educated there before he went to California to teach at Throop College, now the California Institute of Technology.

Dr. Weaver's activities led to the creation of the public understanding of science program of the National Science Foundation, of which he was the group's first chairman.

He was instrumental in the development of the unique Columbia University advanced science writing program, and his leadership in helping to found the National Association of Science Writers was recognized when his association made Dr. Weaver an honorary membership.

He also played a key role in the formation of the Council for Advancement of Science Writing.

They Know More Than Employers Suspect

Queen Bee Secretaries Keep Office Zoo Buzzin'

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The queen bees of the business world are in office secretaries. While there may be a few drones hidden among them, it is the secretarial group that keeps the hive really buzzing. They know where all the skeletons are buried, too. The board of directors of any organization could improve the firm if they just had at hand the information readily dispensed after the first round of daisies, is, by the office secretaries at their chatty weekly Friday luncheons.

BOYLE

Secretaries come in all shapes and sizes, all ranges between homeliness and beauty, and all degrees of real ability. But they all have one thing in common—they all know more than their employers suspect.

SECRETARIAL TYPES

If you look around your own office, you'll probably find some of the following secretarial types familiar:

"The huntress" — Working isn't for her. She is looking for a man to earn her a living. After crying her wiles on everybody in the board chairman, to the head office boy, she announces, "This place is full of drapes. Then she quits and moves on to another office where she hopes for better luck."

"The keeper of the gate" — Any salesman who wants to get in to see the boss learns early that he'd better bribe this greedy little lass. If he doesn't bring her flowers, take her to dinner, and send her half a dozen pairs of stockings on her birthday, he'll spend endless hours cooling his heels waiting for a chance to get through the magic door and deliver his sales message to the right ears.

"Goldilocks" — It is her first job since leaving secretarial school, and she thinks every executive in the office wants to make love to her. Whenever she is asked to stay an hour late, she phones her mother and big brother and asks them to come and wait for her in the reception room.

LOOKS EFFICIENT

"The actress" — Nobody looks more efficient than she, but every other secretary hates her because they have to do her work. She puts a one-page letter in her typewriter in the morning, and at quitting time appears to be still busily pounding away at it. But she has her boss man to earn her a living. After crying her wiles on everybody in the board chairman, to the

"The plotter" — In her imagination she is a real power behind the throne. She spends most of her days conspiring to win promotion for some slavish junior executive who has sought her favor, or conspiring to punish someone for a fancied insult.

"The isolator" — No matter which executive she is assigned to, she immediately loses her heart to him. He becomes her office god, she quotes his every word, thinks his wife misunderstands him, and makes herself a general bore to all the other secretaries. It does no good for them to tell her that most executives have heads that match their feet of clay. She has to love her boss or life loses all meaning.

"Old faithful" — She knows everything, can do anything. She has so much seniority that the other girls stand aside for her when she enters the washroom. In a tight spot the boss relies more on her judgment than he does that of the senior vice president. The firm could not run without her.

"The helpless neophyte" — She can't take dictation or even get a message over the phone right. She spells out applies "sauer appetit." But what executive in his right mind is going to fire a girl who has the best looking legs in the office?

Yanks Helping Latin Nations Set Up Bureau of Standards

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — The United States has completed the first step toward helping Latin American countries set up national standards for weights and measures.

At a new center in Colombia, built by the U.S. at the National University in Bogota, officials of at least three countries, Colombia, Ecuador, and Venezuela, will be trained in standardized weights and measures, provided by the U.S. Bureau of Standards.

A two-man team from the bureau has recently returned from Colombia where they set up the initial training program.

The Bogota center is only a modest beginning toward standards in Colombia and neighboring countries, said H. F. Wollin, one of the team members.

Ecuador has almost nothing with which to set absolute measurements. Panama has nothing. Venezuela, however, is working on an institution that "could be classified as a national bureau of standards," Wollin said.

Latin American countries not only use two systems, metric and English, as does the United States, but they have a plethora of local scales derived from ancient Indian weight and measures. Wollin expects that the entire continent will eventually adopt the metric system used in most parts of the world.

There is much talk here that the United States should give up its cumbersome English system, feet, inches, pounds, gallons, etc., in favor of the simple metric scale of grams, meters, and liters.

Both systems will be taught at the Bogota center. However, metric scales form the basic standard, explained Wollin. Pounds and gallons have been included because they are used in day-to-day commercial exchange.

The same situation is true in this country. Congress adopted the metric scale at the turn of the century. National custom holds to the English system.

Circuit Court Hears Lake Rehabilitation Controversy Today

WOLVERINE LAKE — The controversy surrounding the proposed rehabilitation of Wolverine Lake was to be taken to Oakland County Circuit Court today.

A hearing on recent proceedings of a board of determination appointed by County Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry was scheduled for 9 a.m. before Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore.

The lawsuit against Oakland County, Barry and the three members of the board of determination was filed yesterday by Pontiac attorney Paul G. Valentino, representing the Wolverine Lake Rehabilitation Association, Inc.

The legal action was prompted by Valentino a week ago at the second session held by the board of determination.

Members of the panel are chairman Bruce M. Amet, Pontiac businessman and president of the Pontiac Board of Education; and Lawrence H. Pale, civil engineer with Pale, Hirn and Borne of Detroit.

ATTORNEY OBJECTS
Valentino has objected to the board's conducting a hearing before a special assessment district has been established to

For Most State Crops

Recent Frost Ended Growing Season

LANSING (AP) — Recent frost brought an end to the growing season for most crops, reports the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

Frosts stopped the growth and speeding ripening of corn and beans. Some farmers reported serious damage to tender, immature crops that hadn't reached the harvest stage.

Extent of the frost damage cannot as yet be accurately measured, the service said.

Among the corn areas seriously hit was the Thumb area of Lower Michigan. Frost grain corn that is not mature here can be diverted to silage, since this is a dairy as well as a cash crop area.

SOME CORN SAFE
About two-thirds of the corn were reported safe from frost at the end of the week. Although this was slightly ahead of a year ago, the first general killing frost was about a week earlier this year.

Silo-filling increased after the frost but some fields were too wet for machines. Soil moisture was mostly surplus and heavy fall field harvests were slowed.

High moisture beans were being pulled combined and delivered to elevators for drying.

About one-third of the beans was harvested at the end of the week.

Late beans in the central and Thumb areas of Lower Michigan were hard hit by frost with some acreage lost.

FALL PLANTING
Fall planting continued to be active where farmers would get into fields. More than half of the winter wheat for 1966 had been planted.

NEW EDUCATIONAL PHILOSOPHY — Mrs. Isabelle P. Buckley shows her new book, "College Begins at Two," to Kingsbury School headmaster Bruce N. Coulter. The book describes her philosophy that a child can start his education at an early age. Mrs. Buckley is in Oxford this week to visit Kingsbury, a school which she helped found and which follows her educational policies.

In Latest Book

Says College Begins at Age 2

By JANICE KLOUSER

Is your 2-year-old ready to start his academic career? He is, according to Mrs. Isabelle Buckley, who last month published her latest book, "College Begins at Two."

A former Detroit, Mrs. Buckley is head of the Buckley Schools of California and is a founder of the Kingsbury School, an independent day school for kindergarten through eighth grade, located north of Oxford.

Kingsbury was founded in 1963 by the late Carlton M. Higbie and Mrs. Higbie, now Mrs. West of Lake Angeles. They started the school with Mrs. Buckley's help and based it on educational policies and goals in practice at the California Buckley schools.

THEORY FOUND

In town to visit the Kingsbury School Monday, Mrs. Buckley explained that her theory that a child is academically, as well as socially, ready to learn at an early age came about quite by accident.

After living in France where her children attended a small country school, she returned to California in 1933. Disappointed in the educational system, she decided to start a school of her own.

For economic reasons she combined the school, which had five paying pupils, with her shake hands with the headmaster, which gave her two youngest children a chance to sit in on class sessions.

"Through them I saw the value of an early education," she said, "so I decided to start a nursery school."

NOT ORDINARY

The Buckley nursery school is not of the ordinary variety.

At the tender age of 2, a Buckley pupil is exposed to French, art, music and dancing. As he matures to 3½, he "graduates" to kindergarten where his curriculum is expanded to include recognition of letters and numbers and an introduction to phonics through rhymes.

At 4½ he moves into a reading readiness group which prepares him for first grade through phonics, vocabulary, reading from preprimers, manuscript writing, numerals to 10, simple addition and subtraction, French, art, dancing, music, physical exercises and games.

Demonstrating that education beginning at an early age is beneficial. The fact that this year's entire Buckley High School graduating class of 34 went on to college.

SEE POTENTIAL

"This isn't because we stress college courses," she said, "but because we believe in the potential of the child."

"We believe in the no-nonsense approach to education," said Mrs. Buckley. "We have gone back to the fundamentals — principles that require discipline."

Her system is based on self-expression through self-discipline. One of her precepts is that "only by acquiring a sense of order and responsibility from the very beginning can a child fully realize his capacity for learning."

NEED SHOWING

In her book she states that children want to be shown, want to be given a clear understanding of what is right and what is wrong, what is good and what is bad.

"As Ralph Waldo Emerson put it, 'Our chief want in life is somebody who shall make us do what we can.'"

In connection with this theory, she plans to write a book on teaching ethics in the schools.

"I believe it is a lack of ethics which is contributing to our juvenile delinquency problem," she said.

CHALLENGE NEEDED

She believes that the child today is highly creative and if this creativity is not challenged, the child becomes destructive.

Too much living in a world of unreality is not good for a child, she says.

At Kingsbury as at Buckley, a great deal of emphasis is placed on courtesy. Each morning the children greet their teachers with a handshake and a "good morning." As they leave each night they must Land Is Bought by Shelby Twp.

37 Acres to Be Used for Offices in Future

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — The Township Board last night purchased 37 acres of land at a cost of $67,425 for future township offices.

The land is located at 24 Mile and Van Dyke, about a mile from the present facilities.

Supervisor Levin E. Evans explained that the site was purchased because the land is getting scarce, particularly in large parcels, and because prices are rising.

"We got a pretty good price on the land," he said. "We need the space because we're very crowded here right now."

Evans said administrative offices and a library will probably be the first facilities built on the site. He said the present building will probably be expanded for the fire department.

FALL ELECTION

A special election will be held in November seeking approval of ½ mill for 10 years for construction of a new township hall. Officials will also ask approval of ½ mill for 10 years for building and equipping a fire station.

The township owns a fire station site in the northwest portion at 25 Mile and Shelby Road, but has been unable to build a station because of lack of funds.

Elementary School

Ground-Breaking Due

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Ground-breaking ceremony for the new $600,000 Maple Road Elementary School will be held at 5:30 p.m. today.

Construction will start immediately after the ceremony on the site, on the south side of Maple between Orchard Lake and Middle Belt.

New 4-H Agent in County Post

One of two vacant 4-H agent posts in the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service office was filled this week by Emil Fimbinger, 41.

Fimbinger came here from the Marquette District Extension office, where for six years he coordinated 4-H activities in 16 counties.

Previous to his Marquette assignment, Fimbinger spent two years as Washnaw County 4-H agent and six years in a similar post in Wayne County.

A native of Dearborn, he is a 1949 graduate of Michigan State University and has completed all but one term of his work toward a master's degree.

He spent three years in the Army, serving with a combat signal unit in Europe during World War II.

LIVES IN WATERFORD

Fimbinger and his wife, Peggy, live at 2623 Hathorn, Waterford Township. They have two sons, aged 10 and 13.

Fimbinger replaces John (Jack) Worthington who was transferred to Cass County Sept. 1 during a statewide shake-up of extension service personnel.

Oakland County's second 4-H agent, Mrs. Don Montney, resigned about the same time to teach school in Clarkston.

A second agent is expected to join Fimbinger on the Oakland County staff in the near future, according to Lyle B. Abel, director.

TO BE OUTLINED

Fimbinger said his duties have not been clearly outlined as yet, but indications are he will work with Macomb and Wayne county 4-H agents as part of a metropolitan district staff.

Oakland County lost its agricultural agent, Jay Poffenberger, when the position was terminated during the field staff reorganization.

One of the county's two home economics agent posts was also terminated, resulting in the transfer of Mary Hardy to Macomb County.

Poffenberger has been offered a position in Presque Isle County but has not yet reached a decision on whether he will accept it.

Symphony Presents Familiar Numbers

By JOHN TOSLEY

Guest artists, Laboshutz and Nemceff, duo-pianists, were the featured artists as the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra began its 12th season last night.

The orchestra, under the skillful baton of Felix Resnick, performed before a large audience in the Northern High School auditorium. The concert opened with the much-loved Overture to Wagner's only comic opera, "Die Meistersinger."

The orchestra, enhanced by a most capable brass section, moved resolutely through the sequence of varied themes, culminating in a stirring climax.

CONTRAST

Ravel's "Pavane Pour Une Infante Defunte" provided genuine contrast at the next number on the program. After a hesitant start the orchestra eventually relaxed with the flow of sad, almost ethereal, melody so typical of Ravel.

The last selection before intermission was Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," a concert favorite, in the form of a gay and lilting serenade.

While portions of the number were beautifully done, many sections caused considerable difficulty. Written only for strings, the composition demanded a precision that would be difficult to achieve so early in the season.

During intermission concertgoers were treated to a fine art exhibition by the Pontiac Society of Artists.

Featured soloists, Laboshutz and Nemceff, performed Martin's Concerto for Two Pianos and Orchestra, which was written in 1901 and dedicated to this husband-wife team.

This contemporary composition proved to be difficult, unusual, and somewhat less than thrilling. The selection seemed almost void of recognizable melody, but provided a real test of the technical ability of the artists.

The concert was concluded with the familiar "Moldau" from the Cycle "My Fatherland," by Smetana.

This joyous tone poem follows Smetana's beloved river from its source deep in the Bohemian wood to Prague itself, capturing a taste of the life and the moods of the country and its people, and provided a fitting climax to the concert.

Suggest Doctor to Husband

Needs Professional Help

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I ran into the husband of a woman who teaches school where my husband teaches. He asked me why I wasn't friendly with his wife any more, and told me how hurt and upset she was because I had been avoiding her. I made up some excuse, said I was rushing to an appointment, and ran.

Do I dare tell this man that his wife started coming to our home, uninvited, telling my husband and me how "starved" she was for affection and a taste of normal home life? That her husband was cruel, cold and jealous? She told us intimate tales of her marital life that we neither believed nor cared to hear. It got so bad we finally asked her not to come over any more.

Then she started calling us on the phone until we had to have our number changed.

The last straw came when she asked my husband to drive her home from a school meeting one evening, and she tried to seduce him. (She wrote this in a letter to me, apologizing for her "inexcusable behavior," but wanting me to know what a marvelous husband I had because he had turned her down. Imagine!)

Can I tell her husband all this, Abby? I don't think I could or should. But if he corners me again, what then?

ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: YOU corner HIM, and tell him you've been avoiding his wife because in your opinion she needs psychiatric treatment and you didn't know how to cope with her.

To sweep the entire mess under the carpet may delay the treatment this poor woman so desperately needs. As a teacher she influences the lives of young people, so I urge you to act at once.

UF Volunteers Get Encouraging Words

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Between 400 and 500 women came to the Elks Temple Tuesday afternoon for their United Campaign Rally. It was a final meeting of volunteer workers before the fund drive opens Oct. 14.

Mrs. LaVon Ryden set the theme of the meeting with her spirited singing of "Hello Dolly" using words appropriate to the occasion.

Calvin J. Werner, 1965 United Fund chairman, reminded the group that "each gift works many wonders."

Arthur Brooks, well-known lecturer, was the featured speaker. He spoke rapidly and was in almost constant motion as he teased, flattered, gently criticized and encouraged his feminine audience.

"Women are like money; you have to keep them busy or they lose interest." "Beauty knows no age. You have only yourself to thank if you are beautiful at 60."

"Hello, Dolly," with words used to fit the local scene was sung by Mrs. LaVon Ryden, Pioneer Street. Her song touched off a fast-paced program.

Mrs. Donald Bellehumer, Rohr Road, and Mrs. George Lombard, Baldwin Road, both of Orion Township, had coffee together before the meeting began.

Molds Can Fade
Keep that empty copper-tone (anodized aluminum mold out of direct sunlight or its color may fade. And never put such a mold in a dishwasher.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

Your little ones will soon be asking you to make them Hal-loween costumes. You often resent the time spent on a garment that will be worn only a few minutes.

Try making a pair of pajamas that could double as a costume. There are many suggestions, such as a bunny, devil, bandit, tiger, lion or penguin. They are usually made out of flannel, with or without feet. There also is a new pattern available which is designed like a space suit. This could double as a snowsuit if you desire, instead of P.J.'s. Use a water repellent tarpoon cloth.

With I had thought of this years ago. It might be easier to get your little ones to go to bed at night if they can play a game of pretending.

Dear Eunice:
I have a white winter coat that I would like to change from a double-breasted style to a single-breasted style. I would like to be able to wear it open or buttoned. How would I proceed to change it, or is this too difficult to do?

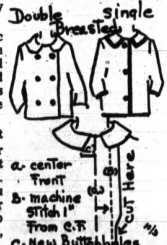

Dear Mrs. S. L.:
The easiest way to change your coat would be to bind the outer edges.

Find and mark the exact center front line, this is where your new buttonholes will begin. If you are making bound buttonholes, they should be done after you have tipped the outer edge. Machine buttonholes may be made later.

Machine stitch the fabric and the facing together 1 inch from the center front. This will keep the front edge firm and prevent stretching. Cut excess fabric just outside of machine stitching.

Bind the unfinished front edges with a wool braid or make your own by binding out of a matching satin or jersey. If you are using a fabric, you may use the same fabric for your buttons. You might also use the binding around pockets, or the edge of the collar, cuffs, etc., in order to tie the garment together in a more professional manner.

If you want to make perfect bound buttonholes every time, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for my free leaflet "Bound Buttonholes." Send your request to Eunice Farmer, in care of this newspaper.

WOOL PRESSES NAPPED FABRICS

In pressing heavy, napped fabrics, I found that if I used a piece of white light-weight wool and sewed it to a piece of unbleached muslin, I had a terrific pressing cloth. I press with the wool side down and dampen the muslin with a sponge. It produces fine edges with no shine. (This idea will also work with a chemically treated press cloth instead of the muslin. Don't get the press cloth too wet. Immediately after pressing, use the clapper part of your Tailor. Trix pressing board and pound sharply. This will force out the steam and your pressed edges will remain nice and flat.)

Sybil Blood, Watertown, Conn., wins this week's Tailor or Trix pressing board for this suggestion.

are Mrs. Ron Baldwin and Mrs. Eldon Gardner.

The council fire is the beginning activity of the year for the Pontiac Area Council, a member agency of the Pontiac Area United Fund, serving girls 7-18 in the area.

Mosaic Tile Makes Wall
Masterpiece

There's no need to run into a blank wall when you have a blank wall to decorate. Those large windowless areas, so common to recreation and family rooms, provide endless possibilities. They can be paneled with wood, draped with curtains, painted, wallpapered or enhanced in many ways.

MURALS
But if you want to turn a wall into a real masterpiece, you might consider the art of mosaic pictures. Once considered institutional, murals of ceramic mosaic tile are becoming increasingly popular for home use.

There are no holds barred on colors, design or theme, and you can be your own artist. Besides adding distinguishing "something different," the mural of ceramic mosaic tile puts the mix on maintenance.

An occasional wiping with a damp cloth is all that is necessary. The colors won't fade and thus never require painting.

PERMANENT
And a mural is one picture that will never need framing or straightening.

Domestic ceramic tile manufacturers saw the possibilities of murals and have added several stock designs to their inventories of the more conventional wall and floor tile. Tile showrooms, display the designs and color themes available. Tile contractors also can tell you how you can become your own mural designer.

Nowadays art goes practically everywhere and the same applies to murals. They are showing up in kitchens, most commonly as backsplashes, and in bedrooms, bedrooms, entryways, dining and living rooms.

PATIOS, TOO
And because ceramic tile is frostproof, they are being used in outdoor patios.

Bottle Cap Has a Key

At least some of Mother's worries will be eased if the newest safety bottle cap is adopted by drug manufacturers. The tamperproof cap will lessen the danger of children opening containers of aspirin, sleeping pills, poisons and other potentially dangerous products.

The closure device, Modern Packaging explains consists of an inner cap and a free-turning outer cap with a "key" that must be used to open the bottle. To open, you twist the outer cap until slots in the two caps are aligned. Then you press the key into the slots, which allows you to unscrew the cap. Sounds rather complicated, doesn't it? It should certainly keep the children out of danger. Let's hope you can remember how it works when you go to get an aspirin for your headache.

Shades of 1930s
Reminiscent of the 1930s—the revival of marabou. Jacques Heim of Paris used it in pale blue tones to form a tuxedo-type border on a long evening coat, worn over pale blue crepe dress.

Don't Suds Skillet
Don't use detergent in that iron skillet because the detergent tends to remove the film of fat that helps to keep the pan from rusting.

Fresher Stain Easier Cleaned

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fresher the perspiration stain on clothing, the better the chances of removing it from washable cottons, the Cleanliness Bureau reports.

Wash the stained area in warm soap or detergent suds as soon as possible. If the fabric has become discolored, try sponging it with a little vinegar and water solution which may help restore the original color. Rinse thoroughly. Then launder the entire garment in clean suds, rinse it well and let it dry.

World News Roundup

'China Likes Asia Riff'

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia. — Nam war. The farmers want to cultivate the land.

(AP) — Pakistan's break in diplomatic relations with Malaysia "will have the thorough approval of (Communist) China," Malaysian Prime Minister Tun Abdul Rahman told a news conference today.

Pakistan severed relations Tuesday on the ground that Malaysia had not backed Pakistan in its dispute with India. All three countries are members of the British Commonwealth, but Pakistan has not broken relations with India despite their recent undeclared war.

Rahman asserted that his government had always been neutral in the India-Pakistan dispute. He countercharged that Pakistan "has been taking sides with Indonesia" against Malaysia.

Ching Pakistani Foreign Minister, L. A. Bhutto's "frequent visits to Jakarta," he said, "we have also some evidence he was in conspiracy with (Indonesian foreign minister) Subandrio to try and keep us out of the Afro-Asian conferences."

TOKYO (AP) — Some 200 farmers with 30 bulldozers began moving into the slopes of Mt. Fuji today in an attempt to block the U.S. Army's next practice firing of Little John rockets Thursday and Friday.

Police warned the farmers, who were incited by left-wing politicians, to move out of the danger zone immediately. But the farmers started tilling the target area.

Minor clashes were reported. The farmers reportedly also plan to move about 2,000 demonstrators into the target area. The police said they would mobilize 1,000 policemen to remove the demonstrators.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Twenty-month-old David Hillman fell two floors onto a flat-

Doctors at a hospital said they couldn't find a thing wrong with him.

Talks in Steel Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal and state mediators met again Thursday with representatives of Calumet and Hecla and United Steelworkers Union Local 4312 in hopes of ending the union's six-week strike against the Michigan firm.

Some 1,200 workers walked off their jobs at the Calumet plant on Aug. 23. The strike also has idled workers at the Quincy Mining Co. in Hancock, Mich.

PANAMA (AP) — The government bloc in the National Assembly reversed itself Tuesday night and voted to let Panama Canal treaty negotiators face questions today from opposition deputies.

The about-face came after the entire opposition wing walked out amid applause from the galleries. The deputies were protesting the government bloc's refusal to let outside political leaders of the opposition onto the floor of the assembly to debate the treaty negotiations.

The two negotiators, Diogenes Delarosa and Roberto Aleman, were scheduled to give their report this afternoon.

Yank Paratroopers Find Cong-Infested D Zone a Nightmare

By PETER ARNETT

D ZONE, Viet Nam (AP) — With his chin pressed deep into the mud of the jungle floor, Army Capt. Walter Daniel watched a grotesque performance 20 feet away as bullets whined and danced about him. A hidden Viet Cong gunman was rolling the body of a dead U.S. paratrooper over and over across a small clearing with bursts of machine gun fire.

The dead man was from the company Daniel commanded.

Three others had been killed minutes earlier in this clearing this afternoon by this same machine gun, and two others like it, hidden in a hillside.

Their bodies were out there, too. Daniel, from Manassas, Va., gritted his teeth. He had little choice at this point but to accept the Viet Cong gunner's gruesome game.

PINNED DOWN

His company, Alpha, from the 1st Battalion, 172nd Airborne Brigade, had been pinned down for hours by withering machine gun fire from heavily dug Viet Cong positions.

Two of Daniel's platoons had taken moderate to heavy casualties.

Daniel crawled back down the jungle hillside, waded a stream and reached his radio.

"We've taken every other hill we came up against in Viet Nam, my company has," Daniel said. "But I don't think we can take this one."

CALL FOR HELP

"We'll have to bring the rest of the battalion in."

As he called for reinforcements, three medics worked over a wounded paratrooper. "Keep pounding his heart, keep it beating," one medic called as another applied mouth to mouth resuscitation. They kept breathing into his mouth and hammering his chest for an hour. But he died.

This was the second wounded man the medics had lost by early afternoon. But it was no fault of theirs.

STRANDED

"We need helicopters to get these people out. Can't we get helicopters?" one medic asked.

The answer was obvious.

Alpha Company was pinned down in virgin jungle, towering 200 feet into the air. Since midday, paratroopers had been trying to clear an opening for the rescue helicopters to land.

The going was lethargically slow.

HIS BIRTHDAY

Nearby, Sgt. Gerald F. Mahoney, from New York, mused: "I'll be 18 years old on Oct. 17 and I'll have my birthday in a hospital. I don't like that."

Mahoney had been hit in the knee and the thumb, but he could hobble along.

Mahoney is young, but he is experienced as far as D Zone is concerned. He had been there many times before. As he was tracking a sniper through the tangled jungle where visibility at best was only 15 feet, he was complaining to his buddies about the quality of the "new recruits" that had arrived just a few days earlier.

"We're oldtimers around here," Mahoney said later after his platoon had been lured into a Viet Cong trap set on the hillside and had suffered fairly heavy casualties. Some of the new recruits were hit also.

RECALLS ACTION

Spec. 4 Charles M. Murphy, from Milton, Mass., recalled the action this way:

"We got hit and then cut off but no one back there in the company would believe we were cut off and pinned down."

"They kept saying, 'You're the 2nd Platoon and you're never pinned down.'"

"But we were," Murphy said. Lt. Lorenzo E. Fessler of Farrell, Pa. was the only officer hit. Initially, he was jubilant about the bullet that had creased his skull.

OFFICERS POOL

"I won the officers pool for the first purple heart," he yelled as they carried him back to the Richmond, Va., was with them aid post. "I just won me 40 bucks."

But Fessler, the 2nd Platoon commander, soon quieted down as his wound began to throb.

"Our lieutenant just kept going when he was hit. He just kept going," one of his wounded men said proudly.

With the 3rd Platoon cut up, Capt. Daniel moved in the 2nd.

Pvt. Samuel Tolliver, from the Richmond, Va., was with them when they moved through the streams of heavy fire up the side of the hill, past deeply bunkered houses and over the crest.

"I could see the Viet Cong trying to grab our wounded up the hill. I shot one of the Viet Cong."

Tolliver was put out of action when a grenade hit his leg. It did not explode but it gave him a painful ankle injury.

Chaplain Frank O. Vavrin, a Lutheran from Racine, Wis., was there with the troops as they died, got wounded and talked.

"They are terribly brave boys. I'm glad I'm here today," Vavrin said.

FIRST DESCENT

By late afternoon, U.S. Air Force rescue helicopters began making their first perilous descents into the man-made jungle clearing. The rotors spun only feet from the towering trees.

The battalion commander, Lt. Col. John Tyler, brought two companies on a forced march behind the Viet Cong positions. The Viet Cong, estimated to be a company, already had slipped into tunnels and trenches.

But Tyler's men had found 11 Viet Cong bodies on their way through.

"This is how it has to be in D Zone," Tyler said. "There is no other way to rout them out."

"We have been here before, and we'll be back again. If they want to fight us like this, then we'll fight."

Falters on Road to Altar

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Joseph McCorkle has found that the road to romance can be rocky.

McCorkle, 37, and his fiancée were driving yesterday to the courthouse to apply for their wedding license.

Stopped for a traffic light, McCorkle inadvertently shifted the car into reverse. Things began to happen.

The car lurched back, nearly hitting a policeman and a woman pedestrian. Then it went forward, knocking down another policeman.

The second officer, Fred Slaney, fired at the fleeing car. The vehicle went out of control, striking two parked cars.

FIVE CHARGES

McCorkle was charged with driving without an operator's license, not having a registration card, leaving the scene of an accident, failure to stop on command of an officer, and assault and battery with a car.

He didn't get his marriage license either.

Junior Editors Quiz on ASPHALT

QUESTION: Can you tell me something about hard asphalt?

ANSWER: We think of asphalt as a thick, black sticky substance put on roofs and roads (see main picture) which later hardens. Crushed rock is added to help make it even harder.

Asphalt comes largely from petroleum, that amazingly useful liquid found in deposits underground, from which we also get gasoline, fuel oil, and kerosene.

Besides being extracted from petroleum, asphalt also occurs in natural lakes, as in upper left, where a man has walked out on the crust forming over it.

Besides this liquid asphalt, forces underground have also produced seams of solid asphalt, called gilsonite or uinitite. When it is mined, coke and gasoline can be extracted from it, and it can be used for covering purposes and for paints. The pieces break apart with an inward curve, called a conchoidal fracture.

The name gilsonite came from one of the material's discoverers, S. H. Gilson.

Uinitite comes from the name of the area where this substance is found: the Uinta Basin, near the border of Colorado and Utah. Gilsonite occurs in seams which may be quite narrow but are often thousands of feet deep.

Head Surgeon Is Mayo Expert

'Highly Qualified' for President's Illness

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — The practice of medicine is a family affair for Dr. George A. Hallenbeck, the surgeon who will head the team that operates Friday on President Johnson.

The Mayo Clinic doctor is the son of a surgeon and the father of a medical student.

"He is a highly qualified man in his field," said Dr. Emerson Ward, chairman of the Mayo Board of Governors. "We are pleased that he represents the clinic in this particular situation."

Dr. Hallenbeck, 50, grew up in Rochester, where his father also was a member of the Mayo Clinic staff.

MEDICAL SCHOOLS

He got his medical degree from Northwestern University in 1939, interned at Virginia Mason Hospital in Seattle, Wash., and became a Mayo Graduate School fellow in 1940.

Three years later, Dr. Hallenbeck entered the Army Medical Corps. He was discharged in 1946 with the rank of major.

At the Mayo Clinic, he heads sections on general surgery and surgical research, and is a professor in the graduate school, branches of the University of Minnesota. He also is a member of the editorial board of the journal of surgical research.

At Northwestern, Dr. Hallenbeck was a member of the varsity swimming team, and he has remained a sportsman.

SKI ENTHUSIAST

"We like to ski," said Mrs. Hallenbeck, the former Marian Mansfield of Evanston, Ill.

Dr. and Mrs. Hallenbeck like to vacation at Colorado ski resorts, or at one near a cabin they own at Hayward, Wis. The doctor, says Mrs. Hallenbeck, also is never loath to challenge a golf course.

The couple's eldest son, John, 25, is a senior in the medical school at the University of Pennsylvania. Son George Jr., 22, has chosen business for a career. He is studying business administration at the University of Colorado.

Christopher, 17, is a high school senior. Linda, 13, is in the eighth grade.

With two children still at home, Mrs. Hallenbeck devotes most of her time to the duties of housewife and mother. But she finds time for volunteer work with the Methodist Hospital Women's Auxiliary.

Americans spent a record $18.3 billion to buy new cars in 1963.

LBJ Ailment Not Serious Form

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON — President Johnson apparently is suffering from the less serious of two forms of an ailment that plagues thousands of his fellow Americans — a poorly functioning gall bladder with the formation of stones.

This was indicated both by the wording of his announcement Tuesday that he will undergo surgery Friday, and by the fact that a month has passed since Johnson suffered his first reported attack on Sept. 7.

All information released thus far from the White House indicates that the gallstones are limited to the gall bladder itself or to a small pipeline leading out of it — and that none has plugged a more vital channel lower down in the body.

When the stones go farther, more extensive surgery is required, and usually it is performed on an urgent basis soon after the ailment is diagnosed.

NOT UNCOMMON

Gallstones are not uncommon. They cause trouble for about 25 per cent of all women and 10 per cent of men before age 60. They vary in size, and some times remain in the gall bladder for a long time without causing serious symptoms.

The gall bladder is a pear-shaped organ that lies near and partially attached to, the liver, in the upper right section of the abdomen.

Its function is to receive, concentrate and store a fluid called bile which is manufactured in the liver.

STORED BILE

Some unconcentrated bile flows direct from the liver to the intestine all the time. More of it flows to the gall bladder, to be stored temporarily in the gall bladder until it's needed at mealtime, particularly a meal with a high content of fatty foods.

The pipeline for bile released from the gall bladder is a small tube, called the cystic duct. This pipeline, and another one from the liver, form the top part of the letter "Y" — and together they converge to form a main channel leading to the intestine. The latter is called the "common bile duct."

If a gallstone wanders from the gall bladder and gets stuck in the cystic duct, severe knife-like pain can result, sometimes along with nausea, vomiting and a slight fever. Sometimes, such a stone will fall back into the gall bladder, whereupon the attack passes. The stone can even remain in this small duct without demanding urgent surgery, but surgery may be indicated later — as seemingly happened in Johnson's case.

Doctors sometimes recommend surgery even when the stones are confined inside the gall bladder — for fear one of them might wander out and form a plug.

LIMITED SURGERY

However, in such cases, the surgery is limited to removal of the gall bladder itself and the plugged duct — to prevent potentially harmful infection and eliminate any infection present.

But if a gallstone gets down into the common bile duct, and remains plugged there, a more serious situation can develop — usually demanding urgent surgery.

This is so because such a plug shuts off the entire flow of bile from both the gall bladder and the liver — and the patient develops jaundice.

That was one of the situations that bedeviled the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the series of ailments leading to his death in April 1964.

BODY ADJUSTS

In such a situation, not only must the gall bladder and cystic duct be removed, but the common bile duct must be opened surgically, and the offending stone or stones plucked out.

How can a person still function when his gall bladder is removed?

The bile pathway direct from the liver takes over the whole job, and while it takes a while for the body to adjust to the new system, things can work out fine.

Luxury Homes to Dot Jackie's Homestead

WASHINGTON — Luxury houses, instead of high-rise apartments, are now planned at Merrywood, childhood home of Mrs. John F. Kennedy, on Virginia's Potomac River palisades overlooking Washington.

The owners of the 47-acre tract announced yesterday plans calling for 44 houses designed to sell for $125,000 each, and up.

The over-all plan would preserve nearly 90 per cent of the trees and much of the wilderness character of the area.

Union Agent Indicted

DETROIT (AP) — Eddie Reynolds, business agent of Local 334 of the International Hod Carriers and Common Laborers Union, was indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of embezzling $1,175 in union funds.

Magazine Editor Dies

DANVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Miss Mary Eugenia Owen, 69, editor of the "Instructor," a magazine for educators, died Tuesday after a lengthy illness.

Humphrey Well-Prepared to Substitute for Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is leaving in what he regards as the tried and trusted hands of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey any emergency decisions that might arise during and just after his gall-bladder operation Friday.

Few Americans, including the present President, are able to envision any critical action that might have to be taken while Johnson is under anesthesia of otherwise incapacitated by the projected operation.

Johnson himself said: "The doctors expect there will be minimal time during which I will not be conducting business as usual."

But there is always the nuclear weapon to be considered. However remote the possibility of its use, no chief executive can disregard the mandate that presidential action is necessary to flick its firing mechanism.

15 MINUTES

A 15-minute warning would be the maximum if an enemy set off his missiles at the United States, and Johnson is likely to be under sedation much longer than that.

It was for this reason, if for no other, that the President said that although he did not anticipate the need for any instant presidential decision or action, he had instructed the Cabinet and the White House staff to keep in constant contact with Humphrey.

Johnson said that the men around him, including the vice president, have been "party to and have participated in all major political decisions. They are fully and currently informed."

On his part, Humphrey said the President had discussed the situation fully with him and he and the Cabinet "are clear as to the procedures to be followed during his short absence if the necessity arises."

FORMER AGREEMENT

Humphrey's role already had been set out in an agreement which covered any lasting disability of the President. It was similar in its terms to agreements reached between former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. The same phraseology had been agreed to verbally by the late President John F. Kennedy and Johnson. It was renewed between Johnson and Humphrey.

What stands out in the relationship of Johnson and Humphrey, however, is the kind of confidence the head man has in his stand-in. This was less discernible in Eisenhower's relationship with Nixon. And it was absent in Franklin D. Roosevelt's consideration of Harry S. Truman.

Truman knew literally nothing about what was going on in the White House when Roosevelt died. Gen. George C. Marshall had to fill him in on the fact that a test prototype of the atomic bomb had been fired successfully.

In contrast, Humphrey has sat in on all of the major decisions of the Johnson administration. He knows what the score is and is prepared to act if necessary.

LIBERAL FACTION

All this has been accomplished partly because Johnson wished in 1964 to placate the Democratic party liberals' almost inaudible dissent to his own nomination and to the President's scarcely concealed admiration for Humphrey as the kind of "cas-do" man he himself had been in the Senate.

Out of this has grown a cordial relationship. The effectiveness of Humphrey, who as a senator had opinions on almost every subject, now has only the Johnson grandeur to relate. If any statement of his differs from that of the President, it is strictly an accident.

Johnson likes this kind of loyalty, and he has grown to trust "Old Hubert," as he often calls him, as a dedicated soldier.

This makes it incumbent on "Old Hubert" to hew to the Johnson line. He must make himself inconspicuous in this time of potential crisis in order to win a "well done" from his chief when it is over and then hope for an endorsement of his presidential ambitions for 1972.

State to Weigh Action on Amish

LANSING (AP) — The State Board of Education was to decide today what action to take following refusal by the Amish community near Camden to allow a state-certified teacher to teach in its schools.

The state's proposal was offered last month to the religious sect, which does not believe in formal education beyond the eighth grade.

The plan would have made school part of the Camden-Frontier school district and provided a certified teacher free of charge for several hours of teaching each day in the one-room Amish schoolhouse.

After consulting with their leaders and bishops, parents of the school's 23 children rejected the program. They said they objected to making their school, in effect, a public school.

MUST DECIDE

The board now must decide whether it will offer another proposal or issue an order to close the school.

The rejected proposal would have allowed the school's present teacher, Ruth Graber, 29, who does not have a state certificate, to remain in the school all day.

After the certified teacher had left, Miss Graber would have been permitted to teach religion and other Amish interest subjects.

Home Blast, Blaze Kills Family of 4

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — A family of four were killed late Tuesday night when an explosion shattered their home and a resulting fire destroyed it.

All four victims were burned beyond recognition, police said. The parents were found downstairs in what apparently was the living room and the children were in an upstairs bedroom.

Police tentatively identified the victims as Daniel Biddulph and his wife Ellen, both in their late 20s. The children were Heidi, who celebrated her 7th birthday Tuesday, and Daniel, about 4, who was enrolled in a nursery school Tuesday.

One wall of the house, located in this residential community 13 miles west of New York City, was blown out. The interior of the house was a total loss and only a shell remained, police said Tuesday.

Neighbors said they heard the explosion shortly before midnight, and minutes later the house was engulfed in flames.

Dirksen Calls Rights Plan Astounding

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal that Congress take away the authority of state courts to try criminal cases involving civil rights was labeled as "astounding" today by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, made it clear he would fight a legislative measure of this nature. It was suggested by Joseph L. Rauh, counsel for the National Leadership Council on Civil Rights.

Rauh said civil rights leaders are considering a request to Congress next year for enactment of what he called "personal security" legislation to cap the 1964 Public Accommodations Act and the 1965 voting rights bill.

Rauh said that the recent ac-

Dope Charge for Daughter of U-M Prof

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A University of Michigan professor's daughter and a second student were brought to court Tuesday on narcotics charges.

The two were among five young people arrested within 24 hours in an investigation of alleged marijuana distribution and possession in the campus vicinity. The other three are non-students.

State and federal authorities along with city police had conducted raids on apartments. Prosecutor William F. Delkey of Washtenaw County said the source of the marijuana was being sought.

HEARING SET
Susan J. Briggs, 18, daughter of geology Prof. Louis Briggs, was released in $1,000 bond and a hearing set for Oct. 14 at her arraignment in Municipal Court. Miss Briggs is a sophomore in the U-M literary college.

Michael M. McClatchey, 18, of Ann Arbor, also a literary college sophomore, was held in lieu of $1,000 bond. His hearing was set for Oct. 11.

Also held in lieu of $1,000 bond were Earl M. Pole, 18; Peter M. Boyd, 21, and William R. Armour, 23, all of Ann Arbor. Pole's hearing was set for Oct. 14, and that of the other two for Oct. 11.

tion of a Hayneville, Ala., jury in acquitting Thomas L. Coleman of manslaughter in the slaying of Jonathan M. Daniels, 27, a civil rights worker, sparked demands for making any assault for racial purposes a federal crime.

TRADITIONAL JURISDICTION
Dirksen, who helped whip both previous civil rights acts into shape and helped provide the votes for their passage, said Rauh's proposal not only would nullify states' rights but would wipe out their traditional jurisdiction in criminal cases.

"It is an astounding proposal," he said. "It would create an amazing state of affairs by further eroding the rights of the states. If this erosion continues, soon there will be no state governments left."

Asked about the proposal in a separate interview, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana threw up his arms and exclaimed: "I've got my hands full as it is. I can only take on one thing at a time."

Mansfield, busy trying to wind up this year's session, said he couldn't guess whether the White House would get behind any such proposal.

The general feeling in Congress has been that sufficient civil rights legislation already is on the books and that it needs to be tried out before additional measures are passed.

It seems likely, however, that the Rauh proposal will get an airing at a White House conference on Negro rights here Nov. 17-18. President Johnson said that a larger conference will be called next spring to consider recommendations that may come out of next month's meeting.

Johnson announced Tuesday the appointment of Philadelphia attorney William T. Coleman Jr., a Negro, and Morris B. Abram, New York lawyer and first general counsel of the Peace Corps, as vice chairmen of the November conference. He previously had designated A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, as chairman.

Johnson said in a statement that the issue of Negro rights is "the nation's most difficult domestic problem." He said the country is entering a difficult phase in efforts to bring Negroes into full participation of national benefits and responsibilities.

Asks Investigation of Weapon Permits

LANSING (AP) — Sen. Terry Troutt, D-Romulus, Tuesday introduced a resolution to establish a special committee to investigate the approval of permits to carry concealed weapons.

Troutt said he was introducing the proposal for a committee of probers as a direct result of the killing last Saturday of Dr. Wayne Glas, director of surgery at Wayne County General Hospital.

Glas was shot and killed by a man who had a permit to carry a concealed weapon. Troutt said. The man said he was trying to make a citizen's arrest.

Restless Execs Boost Job Firm

NEW YORK (NEA) — Their employers don't know it, but there are a lot of rising young executives in this country most in responsible, well-paying positions — who are secretly hunting for new jobs. William F. Breitmayer knows of at least 12,000 of them, all in the five-figure-plus salary bracket, who, at the drop of a "you're hired," will happily clean out their desks and move along.

Breitmayer runs a confidential clearing house for foot-loose executives called Executive Register. For $75 and a copy of his resume, the itchy exec gets lists of job specifications from about a half dozen of the 600 firms registered with Breitmayer's outfit.

If the executive is interested in any of them, he bites and the old firm has one less salary to pay.

PAINLESS OPERATION
It's a painless operation and a growing business.

Breitmayer says Executive Register has been so successful (the company is about a year old) that the competition is getting keener.

There are at least six other firms which are offering roughly the same service as Executive Register.

Breitmayer, a Yale man who spent 10 years in the Central Intelligence Agency ("I used to say the 'Foreign Service'") before starting his clearing house, says that middle and top management are "very restless" groups whose restlessness has been increasing since World War II.

$ PER CENT
"We figure that there's an executive labor pool of something like two million people and at least 8 per cent of them move from one job to another every year."

This, Breitmayer points out, is a relatively new thing because for years tradition, a need for constant security and intense loyalty kept executives strapped to the same company for 30 or more years. "Loyalty still means a lot," Breitmayer says, "but there is a growing feeling that a man's career is his own and that it is the most important thing in his life, next to his family. And relatively few people are concerned with security these days."

The reporter wanted to know if an executive who plays musical chairs with companies — like five jobs in as many years — can be assured of a reasonably successful career.

LAC KOF MATURITY
"Now a certain amount of skipping around in a man's earlier years — before he's 30 — isn't eyebrow-raising," Breitmayer says, "but if he's still footloose in his 30s, it sometimes indicates a lack of maturity and direction."

"On the other hand I'm very leery of men who, right after college, jump into big company and stay with it for 20 years. They may be stagnating."

Speaking of college, is it necessary for a rising young executive to have a degree?

"Absolutely," Breitmayer says. "Of course, the Ivy League, old-school tie syndrome is a thing of the past. It makes relatively little difference where you go to school."

ROUGH RTIME
"In fact, an Ivy League graduate may have rougher going, especially if the company president comes from a midwestern university."

Through case studies, Executive Register has found that the young man who gets ahead fastest is, first of all, a college graduate who knows a foreign language and has an advanced degree.

"A successful executive is one who can and will take responsibility. Companies don't want the organization man who can merely perform and not make waves," Breitmayer says.

"And a man with executive potential is capable of doing the job himself if he has to — but he should be a good manager, too. Of course, leadership and stimulation of a group of people are also important."

ENGINEERING
If an ambitious young man really wants to get to the top of the heap rapidly, in what field should he concentrate?

Breitmayer's answer: "Based on the flux of the current labor pool, the profession which best equips a man for top management is engineering coupled with a good background in finance. Such a man would be ready for almost anything."

There are a lot of English majors who are going to be unhappy about that.

House Group to Hear Home-Building Facts

LANSING (AP) — A House subcommittee investigating sales and construction practices of home-builders will hold a public hearing Oct. 11 in Detroit. Rep. James Karoub, D-Highland Park, chairman of the subcommittee, said the hearing will consider both consumer protection and the rights of builders. Karoub said it now appears home-buyers are not sufficiently protected.

Supersonic airliners of the future will fly coast to coast across the Atlantic in about two hours, using jet engines three times as powerful as those on today's commercial airliners.

People in the News

By The Associated Press
Comic star Art Carney is in a New York hospital after suddenly withdrawing from a Broadway hit.

His manager, William McCaffrey, said yesterday the 47-year-old entertainer is suffering from nervousness and depression for "a lot of reasons I won't go into."

Carney has been in "The Odd Couple" since March 10, costarring with Walter Matthau. He last appeared Saturday night and has been replaced by his standby, Paul Dooley.

"Carney is an introvert, and introverts sometimes get themselves all worked up," said McCaffrey. He said that the play's management had agreed to release Carney from his contract.

Producer Objects to Film Cuts for TV

Movie producer Otto Preminger says the artistic integrity of his film "Anatomy of a Murder" would be destroyed if its television showing was interrupted by commercials.

Preminger appeared yesterday in New York State Supreme Court, contending he had the sole right to edit the picture for television showing.

Justice Joseph Brust temporarily restrained Columbia Pictures Corp. and Screen Gems, Inc., from distributing the film to some 100 television stations for showing Oct. 14 and afterwards.

Preminger objected to agreements under which Columbia gave stations the right to cut the film to make room for commercials.

Alan Ladd's Daughter Plans to Wed

Alana Ladd, daughter of the late Actor Alan Ladd, and television commentator Michael Jackson have taken out a marriage license in Los Angeles.

Miss Ladd, 22, said she will wed Jackson, 31, Oct. 16 at her mother's home in Beverly Hills, Calif.

This Pooch Is Real Ham

DETROIT (AP) — A delicatessen was victimized by a bandit with long ears and sad eyes.

Clerk Sally Castranova said the intruder leaped onto a table and started chewing up a five-pound piece of ham yesterday. When she tried to grab it, he growled, and she fled into a walk-in cooler.

The intruder, a basenji bound, was captured and turned over to police by a couple of youths.

"He's not causing us any trouble, he just lies there burling," reported Detective Lt. William Stearns.

The dog's owner has agreed to pay the $4.50 delicatessen's bill.

Visit to Poland Next for Pope?

Talk With Gromyko
Adds to Speculation

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The impact of Pope Paul's visit to the United Nations strengthened a growing impression here today that his next foreign trip will take him into the Communist world.

The handshake and animated conversation the pontiff had with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at the United Nations has added to this impression.

Poland appeared the Red country most likely to receive the Pope.

When he returned from New York Tuesday, the Pope vowed he would "continue to work as much as possible for world peace."

MORE TRAVELING
Observers took this to mean that he would also continue to travel, personally carrying the gospel of peace wherever he felt it would serve mankind.

Many Vatican circles are convinced that Pope Paul's three flights outside Italy have smoothed the way for a personal peace pilgrimage into a Communist land whose political ideology includes atheism.

The thinking goes like this: Pope Paul broke the most difficult ground of all in January, 1964 by going to the Holy Land. The trip was fraught with potential danger. He visited Arab Jordan and Jewish Israel in an area tense with animosities and hatreds. He came and went in peace, and it was a triumph for him as a messenger of peace.

NON-CHRISTIANS
Next came India in December 1964. Despite many fears that harm would come to the Pope in that seeming land of non-Christians, that, too, was a triumph.

With his first trip to the New World behind him, where is the Pope to turn in his personal peace program? He has been to the Middle East, to Asia and to the Western Hemisphere.

He could go to Latin America to show his respect for its largely Roman Catholic population or to Africa as a sign of esteem for the emerging nations.

But the Pope has made it unmistakably clear, time and again, that he is profoundly preoccupied by the chasm between communism and Christianity.

TWO APPROACHES
Until now he has been approaching the problem in two ways — denouncing repressive methods in Communist lands, and working through quiet diplomacy to improve conditions for Catholics living under communism. A third approach could be a personal trip.

Poland appears the most logical choice for a papal visit because that Catholic country will celebrate next year the 1,000th anniversary of its conversion to Christianity. There are reports the Communist government in Warsaw would like the Pope to come.

The Pope's encounter with Gromyko at the U.N. impressed many here who observed it on television. The meeting seemed remarkably cordial.

The Pope's speech at the U.N. received cautious praise. Czechoslovakia and sharp criticism in Hungary as hardly suitable for the solving of world problems.

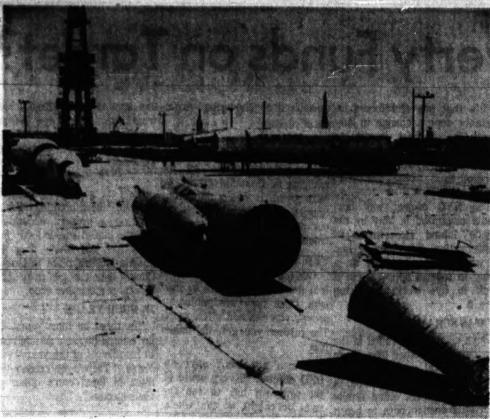

POSITIVE CONTRIBUTION
The official Soviet news agency Tass came out with high praise and said the speech will "definitely make a positive contribution to strengthening world peace."

Tass said the pontiff's words were "received as a solemn pledge to use the moral weight of the church in those countries where it wields great influence to achieve the aim of peace."

One Communist country, Albania, boycotted the Pope's U.N. visit and had no representative in the General Assembly for his speech or at a later reception. The general feeling at the U.N. was that Albania, which sides with Red China against the Soviet Union, was following Peking's line that Catholicism is one of the most conservative forces in the world and an irreconcilable foe of communism.

Consumers Optimistic Despite Viet Nam War

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Despite the Viet Nam war, the average American consumer's current mood is described as confident and optimistic in a survey on consumer attitudes made public yesterday.

The quarterly report, compiled by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan's Institute of Social Research, said "confidence and optimism continue to prevail among American consumers."

There are no indications of doubt or uncertainty about the continuation of general prosperity, the report found. There is less expectation of a recession than at any other time during the last 15 years, and many persons expect further income increases, researchers found.

While there is widespread concern about the war in Viet Nam, the war itself has apparently contributed to the belief that at home things would remain good and would even improve.

"A not insignificant minority goes so far as to recall full employment during World War II, while many more speak of large military expenditures which cannot fail to stimulate business and employment," the report said.

PAST CRISES
During various past Cold War crises, consumers generally expected a downswing in the economy and put off some expenditures, the report added.

"These expectations are much less frequent today, although the international situation causes more concern than at any time since the early stages of the Korean War," the report went on.

Most of the persons questioned thought a recession would not happen again, and inflation was not considered a serious threat although most interviewees expected price increases, the report added.

Totem carving by the Tlingit Indians of Alaska had virtually died out when a U. S. Forest Service project revived the art in the 1930s. Blind students are being taught computer programming. They seem to do exceptionally well and this may open new career opportunities for them.

The Giant-Killer Rides Again!

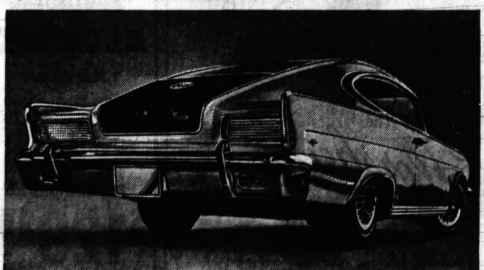

1966: new razzle-dazzle Rambler (yes, Rambler!). Outperforms every other car in its class (with standard engine). "Do Rogues really come with rally stripes?" "No, but with the big new engine they drive that way." See the '66 Rambler American Rogue at your friendly Giant-Killer's on October 7th.

1966: new roomy, roomy Rambler. Doesn't cramp your style, or your legs, or your family, or your pocketbook. Think you know a Rambler when you see one? Think again, look again. See the '66 Rambler Classic Rebel at your friendly Giant-Killer's on October 7th.

1966: new by American Motors. Now you can have your first luxury car while you're still young enough to enjoy it. Collapsible seats like Cadillac. Double-Safety brakes like Cadillac. Price? Like Impala, Fury, Galaxie. Be sure to see it at your friendly Giant-Killer's on October 7th.

1966: new by American Motors. Full-size, family-size sports fastback seats 6—in comfort. (Even with bucket seats.) Flip down the front and rear armrests and turn your Marlin into a 2+2. See October 7th.

American Motors Challenges the "Big 3" of Detroit—With 4 New Lines of '66 Cars That Give the Public What it Wants.

Last time it was size. This time? A new concept of quality: Quality that's built in—not added on. The American Motors promise: more built-in quality features—for extra comfort, safety, performance, and economy—at no extra price.

Remember when American Motors came out with the trim little Rambler and knocked the Detroit "Giants" on their collective ear? Overnight, big fins and fat land yachts went out of style. American Motors came along with the right cars at the right time and caught the competition napping. This year, almost half the automobiles sold are Rambler-size cars.

Round one to the "Giant-Killer." What next? For '66, what has American Motors got up its sleeve? New trend? . . . Yes. For '66, American Motors again gets the jump on the big boys, again anticipates the public trend in taste with a new rallying cry: Quality! Not shoddy quality that is tacked on and costs extra. A new kind of quiet quality that is built in as standard equipment on every car in the line.

1966: new roomy, roomy Rambler. Doesn't cramp your style, or your legs, or your family, or your pocketbook. Think you know a Rambler when you see one? Think again, look again. See the '66 Rambler Classic Rebel at your friendly Giant-Killer's on October 7th.

you horse and go to the friendly authorized Giant-Killer in your town, your American Motors/Rambler Dealer. He will take you on a friendly tour of his showroom. He will give you friendly arguments and quote you friendly prices that you will find very difficult to resist. If you're thinking about a new car, he'll give you a heck of a lot to think about.

15 Friendly Ways Giant-Killer Builds Quality In!

1. Double-Safety brake system. All American Motors cars offer you two hydraulic systems instead of one as standard equipment. Only one "Big 3" car does that: Cadillac.
2. Coil-innerspring seats front and back. You find them in fine furniture, Cadillac, and American Motors cars.
3. Deep-Dip rustproofing. We don't just spray it on. We dunk the cars in it—clean up to the roof.
4. Three 6's... three V-8's: 190 to 327 cu. in. Power. Lots of it. Economy? Who else but Rambler American wins best mileage in the Mobil Economy Run year after year?
5. Advanced Unit Construction. We weld our bodies and frames into one squeak-proof, rattle-proof unit. Quiet. Strong. Safe.
6. Acoustical ceilings. Molded fiber glass seals out the sound of traffic. Hushes road noise up to 30%. You enjoy the luxury of a silent ride. Built in on Ambassador, Marlin, and Rambler Classic.
7. Extruded-aluminum grilles. Squeeze the grille of most any car. It bends. All our grilles are extruded aluminum. Unsqueezeable!
8. Ceramic-Armored exhaust system. Same principle space rockets use to resist intense heat. We put it in all our cars. Why doesn't everybody?

IN HANDCUFFS — Country and Western star Johnny Cash (center) is flanked by a bondsman and U.S. marshal as he was transferred from El Paso County Jail to the federal courthouse yesterday. Cash was arrested at International Airport Monday and was charged with importing and concealing over 1,000 pep pills and tranquilizers. Bond was $1,500.

Chicago Rights Unit Eying Fund Restoration Accord

CHICAGO (UPI) — Leaders of Chicago's largest civil rights group today reviewed terms of an agreement in which the federal government reversed its controversial withholding of $30 million to the public school system.

The federal funds were ordered withheld last week because of "probable noncompliance" with the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

2 Aquanauts in 300-Foot Record Dive

LA JOLIA, Calif. (AP) — Two swimmers in the Navy's Sealab 2 project dove to a depth of 300 feet in an offshore canyon, setting a new depth record for the aquanauts.

Aquanauts Robert Sheets and Bill Bunton made the authorized descent into Scripps Canyon Tuesday, spending seven minutes descending, five minutes at the 300-foot depth and seven minutes coming back up to the Sealab.

Sealab divers had gone to a depth of 270 feet before. The Sealab capsule rests at a depth of 205 feet.

In another experiment Tuesday, the aquanauts dined for the first time on plankton — tiny sea creatures and plants. They said the plankton has a sweet, nutty flavor.

FURTHER WORK

They planned further experiments with plankton, and most of the aquanauts said they'd like to try it cooked.

"It's better than starving to death," said Bunton.

Cold Keeps Grip on Northeast

By the Associated Press

Cold weather maintained its grip on the Northeast today and the frigid air set records in several states.

The mercury dropped to the Tuesday night in Virginia after readings in the low 30s Monday night broke state records.

Frost may have damaged the cranberry bogs of Massachusetts. Temperatures fell as low as 15 degrees in some areas.

Central Maryland received its first frost of the season.

A 37-degree reading in Atlantic City, N.J., Tuesday broke a record for Oct. 5 that was set in 1883. Northern Maine had snow flurries.

Across the nation, southerly gales whipped the upper Pacific Coast. Windswept rain extended inland to the northern Rockies.

A disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico spread rain over coastal areas. Miami, Fla., received more than one inch of rain in a six-hour span.

The temperature scale Tuesday ranged from 16 at Pellston, Mich., to 104 at Palm Springs, Calif.

Western Washington State was buffeted by winds and showers in the first strong storm of autumn.

A prolonged rainy spell has caused Gov. Warren Knowles of Wisconsin to inspect crop losses in the central Wisconsin vegetable fields. Crop experts estimate wet fields will prevent more than 18,000 acres of sweet corn from being harvested.

Congressional Conferees Agree on 4-Year Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate and House negotiators have reached agreement on a four-year farm bill which will cost an estimated $4 billion the first year.

The conferees from the two houses were expected to meet again today to give formal approval to the compromise measure.

The farm bill provides new four-year programs for cotton, wheat, feed grains, wool, rice and other commodities.

Administration experts estimate that the bill will cost $4 billion in the 1966 crop year, or about $100 million less than the Wheat — A voluntary acreage-control program with total supports for wheat used for feed in the United States raised from $2 per bushel to the full "fair earning power" parity price in 1966. The parity price, which fluctuates, is now $2.56 a bushel.

The increase to farmers would come in Treasury payments, so wheat costs to processors would still be based on the $2 figure.

Feed grains — Extension of the current program through 1969, which growers get price support through direct payments, loans, direct supplemental price support payments, and acreage diversion payments. But the administration would be empowered to reduce the support prices while increasing direct support payments.

Total prices, including both loans and payments, would remain between 85 and 90 percent of parity.

Dairy products — A trial for a new pricing system for optional use in any of the 75 milksheds regulated by federal milk marketing orders. If adopted, by two-thirds vote in a milkshed, the plan would give producers high prices for their individual quota shares of the bottled milk market, and lower prices for surplus milk.

Deviled Ham Waffles Make a Supper Dish

Here's easy fare with a new twist. Deviled ham waffles topped with cheese and egg sauce will certainly hit the spot. Easy and quick to prepare, too, for they're made with modern convenience foods.

Deviled ham waffles, tried once, will become a family favorite whether topped with cheese and egg sauce or the more traditional maple sirup. They're made by adding zippy canned deviled ham to a pancake and waffle mix.

The deviled ham gives the waffle a pleasant crispness and a truly distinctive flavor. And for extra taste appeal, the piping hot waffle may be spread with additional deviled ham before topping it with the rich cheese and egg sauce.

The cheese and egg sauce is easy-made, too. Chopped hard-cooked egg, green beans and a bit of onion are added to canned Cheddar cheese soup before heating.

DEVILED HAM WAFFLES
1 cup milk
2 eggs

2 tablespoons shortening, melted and cooled
2 (2½-3¼) cans deviled ham
1½ cups pancake mix

Sauce
1 package (9 ounce) frozen cut green beans
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup water
1 can (11 ounce) Cheddar cheese soup
2 hard-cooked eggs, coarsely chopped

Prepare sauce, by combining beans, onions, butter or margarine and water in saucepan. Over and cook slowly until beans are tender, about 15 minutes. Stir in cheese soup. Add hard-cooked eggs; mix and heat.

Prepare waffles by combining milk, eggs, shortening and deviled ham; mix. Add to pancake mix and stir until fairly smooth. Bake on a 3-inch square waffle iron until lightly browned.

For each serving, spoon sauce atop two waffle sections.

If You Can Say It—Fine

Next time you go to the supermarket, ask the clerk for some hippoglossus hippoglossus. No doubt you'll have him stumped! This double tongue-twister is the scientific, biological name for the huge white-meated halibut, which swim in our northern waters. Now halibut comes in convenient, sink form, frozen and packaged, and is available in most frozen food departments.

Tuna sandwich for lunch? Give it new interest by garnishing it with paper-thin red onion rings.

Broil Rolls Filled With Egg Mix

Toasted Egg Rolls!
What a delight... and they're easy to prepare, delicious and just the thing for light luncheons, party snacks, or for serving on other occasions when appetites will need only mild appetizing or tempting.

Make enough of them, however. They're delicious, and you'll find your family or guests forgetting they weren't very hungry, or overlooking the fact that there are other items on the table!

Toasted Egg Rolls
10 slices sandwich bread

4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped very fine
2 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon egg seasoning blend
1/2 cup finely chopped fresh spinach or water cress
2 tablespoons melted margarine or butter

Trim crusts from bread slices, roll to 1/4-inch thickness with rolling pin. Combine next 6 ingredients. Mix well. Allow 1 1/2 to 2 tablespoons egg mixture per sandwich, spread over entire surface of the bread slices. Roll each bread slice as for a jelly roll, and place each one seam side down on rack of broiler pan. Brush each roll with melted margarine or butter. Broil 5 inches from the heat for 3 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 10 sandwiches.

Poached Pears

Poached fresh pears are delightful served with fresh raspberries. If you have vanilla bean on hand, add a piece of it to the sugar syrup in which the pears are poached.

Zesty Tasting Dip Has Sharp Appeal

Well named, indeed, is Deviled Onion Chip Dip, and not because of the deviled ham it includes. Rather, it's well-named because of its devilish appeal. So, go ahead. Serve this zesty dip next time you really want to delight your guests.

Deviled Onion Chip Dip
1 1/2 tablespoons minced onion
1 1/2 tablespoons milk
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 can (2 1/2 oz.) deviled ham
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish

1 teaspoon dijon-style mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
Add onion to milk and let stand for a few minutes. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Refrigerate until one-half hour before serving time. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

Fish in Foil

Sprinkle fish steaks with salt and pepper and dot with butter; place a bay leaf on each steak. Wrap the steaks individually in foil and bake in a hot oven. Make a criss-cross (with a kitchen scissors) in the top of each foil package and serve "as is."

LAMB STEW — Lamb neck slices are one of the best cuts for a hearty fall or winter stew. Make this tender Autumn Harvest lamb a partner to a variety of colorful vegetables in a bubbling kettle on the range.

Economical Lamb Neck Just the Meat for Stew

A hearty stew is always a welcome sight at the dinner table. Served in one of today's well designed, colorful Dutch ovens or other cooking utensils, stew gladdens the heart of the man who is elected to serve it in addition to all of those partaking of it.

Gather together the vegetables . . . mushrooms, onions, zucchini and garlic. Open a can of juicy red tomatoes and surround yourself with seasonings. Then focus your attention on the meat . . . in this case lamb neck slices . . . the ingredient that gives most of the basic flavor to the stew.

There are several cuts of Autumn Harvest lamb which are fine for stews and casseroles. Of these, you will

Wine Recipes Collected From Grape Growers

If you want to know the best way to cook with wine, ask the man who makes the wine.

That's exactly what the Wine Advisory Board has done for its new cook book, "Adventures in Wine Cookery." Recipes were collected from California wine-makers and their families, verified by home economists, then published in this 128-page book.

In addition to more than 500 recipes, tips on wine buying, storing and serving are given. The new cook book is a companion volume to "Favorite Recipes of California Winemakers," published two years ago, but has completely new recipes and wine information. This earlier book has proven extremely popular, selling over 150,000 copies.

"Adventures in Wine Cookery" has a spiral binding and a hard cover. It will be available soon in bookstores and at some retail stores where wine is sold. Or write to Cook Book, Box 88, San Francisco, California, 94101. The price is $2.00.

Let Them Soak

To clean greasy or sooty range burner parts, soak them overnight in a galvanized steel pail filled with a solution of one cup of ammonia, two tablespoons of detergent and two gallons of water. In the morning, wipe the range parts with steel wool to brighten them.

The U.S. government doesn't spend all its time collecting taxes or sending people complicated forms to fill out. Some agencies, like the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, are interested in our daily meals.

Commercial fishing is our nation's oldest industry. The month of October when seafood and fish are particularly abundant is designated as "Fish and Seafood Month."

Years ago when we had three college girls as boarders we used to serve fish as an economy meal. Our younger readers may find this hard to believe, but we could get enough fish to feed five people for 25 cents. However, we don't wish those depression days back again.

Fish is still a good buy. Much of it is economical. And all of it offers a good source of protein and an interesting variation in the family diet.

For fillets that come to the table with a golden brown sauce broiled on, try this recipe. Garnish with lemon.

Golden Puff Flounder
2 pounds flounder fillets or other fish fillets, fresh or frozen
1/2 cup melted fat or oil
1 teaspoon salt
Dash white pepper
1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
2 egg yolks, beaten
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chopped pimento
1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Thaw frozen fillets. Skin fillets and cut into serving-size portions. Combine fat, salt, and pepper.

Combine remaining ingredients except egg white; mix

Serving Wine Has Many Traditions

After you become somewhat experienced with serving wine, you might want to try a few of the old ceremonies just for fun. For instance, one tradition allows the host to taste first, to assure that the wine is sound. It also gives him, not his guests, any cork bits in the bottle.

Another custom is inspecting the cork. If the wine has been properly stored on its side, the cork will be moist. If a cork dries out and shrinks, air gets in to spoil the wine.

Screw caps for wine bottles—a relatively new development used by many wineries in this country—turn some of these traditions into anachronisms. For instance, screw-capped bottles can be stored upright on the shelf without endangering the wine.

FOR WINE — Janet Odell (left) of The Pontiac Press and Polly Paffias of the Akron (Ohio) Beacon Journal observe the California wines in an easy-to-make wine "cellar." The display was a center of interest at the "Road To Your Health" reception hosted by the Wine Growers of California at the recent Newspaper Food Editors Conference in Chicago. The wine "cellar" is quickly assembled by stacking any number of empty 46-ounce juice cans in a pyramid shape. For support, place a brick or cement block at either end. Paint the cans with bright colors, if you wish.

can prepare this interesting dish in the broiler just as well.

Halibut is especially good for grilling because it is a firm fish that does not break apart easily.

Barbecued Halibut Steaks
Plan on half a halibut steak for each serving. (Remember some people like two servings.) If halibut is frozen, let stand at room temperature for at least 30 minutes.

When halibut is placed on the grill, over glowing coals, brush well with seasoned butter, or margarine. You might also like to rub a cut clove of garlic over the fish. Broil 5 to 7 minutes. Turn carefully. Brush well with butter, and rub with garlic, if desired.

Since halibut is a lean fish, you might have to baste the fish with melted butter during the broiling. Serve with the following barbecue sauce.

Zesty Barbecue Sauce
Chop finely 1 medium onion saute in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine until the onion is tender. Add 1 cup catsup, 1/2 cup water, the juice of 2 lemons, 2 tablespoons sherry, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard and 1 tablespoon Worcestershire. Cover. Cook over low heat 15 minutes. Makes about two cups.

Next time chicken is on the menu, serve pretty pink rice as a change of taste. Just substitute bottled Cranberry Juice Cocktail for half the water used in preparing the rice, and it will have a lovely color and a tantalizing, unusual flavor.

14B Test Vote Set for Friday

Nondebatable Motion to Table Bill Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — A vote Friday will test senatorial views on the right of states to ban the union shop, but few senators expect it to settle anything.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, talking to newsmen today, agreed that one or more additional tests undoubtedly will be needed before any final disposition is made of the issue for this session.

The pending bill, tied up in a Senate filibuster, would repeal Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley law which permits states to forbid labor contracts that require union membership. Nineteen states now have such laws.

Mansfield announced Tuesday he would move Friday to table and thus kill the legislation, then vote against his own motion.

NOT DEBATABLE

A tabling motion is not debatable. The Democratic leader said he was under no illusions this would bring any quick resolution of the controversy over the bill.

But, he said, it should bring "an honest expression of the attitudes of members" on the dispute "and, hence, provide some measure of guidance" on the course desired by the majority.

Leaders on both sides of the issue said they expect the tabling motion to lose by about the same margin — 10 votes — that sponsors of the bill claim for it on a final passage roll call.

Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, leading the fight against the measure, said he would be delighted to vote for Mansfield's motion but did not expect it to carry.

READY TO FILIBUSTER

Republican senators, including Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, were ready to continue the filibuster against the bill today.

Southern Democrats did the talking Tuesday after Dirksen started the filibuster with a lengthy effort Monday.

Mansfield told the Senate there were no "procedural tricks" or short cuts that could be used to bring a quick disposition of the question.

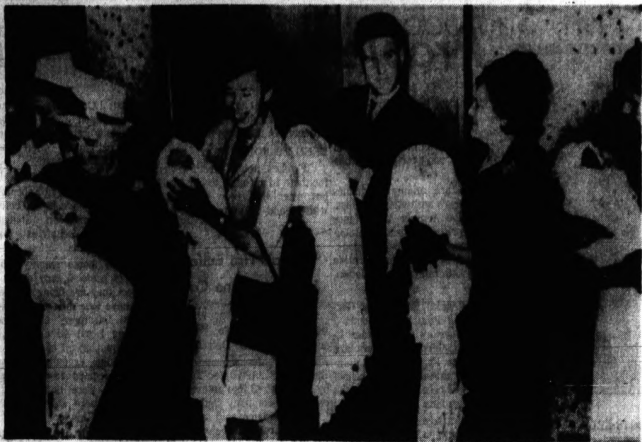

Opponents of the bill are well-organized and a final disposition of the bill "can be delayed for weeks or months," he declared.

The bill's sponsors concede they do not have the two-thirds majority required to invoke cloture and shut off debate.

Here's Advice on Selecting Perfect Wife

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Advice to young salesmen on how to pick a wife from Vincent F. Sullivan, author of "How to Sell Your Way Into the Big Money."

"How interested in your business life is she? Does she listen and communicate intelligently when you talk about the office? Does she ever offer suggestions that are helpful to you? Does she become unreasonable when you have to work late, perhaps breaking a date? If she quibbles about money, drop her fast. The young lady under inspection must have a pleasant and varied voice. If she is the winning type or is in any way homesick, check her off the list immediately."

Soviets Urge Other Communists to Help

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union pledged today to "continue to render North Viet Nam any assistance it needs to repel American aggression."

Pravda, the newspaper of the Soviet Communist party, also repeated the call to all other Communist countries to join the Soviet Union in providing aid to North Viet Nam.

"In the face of new aggressive action of imperialism the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries are giving special attention to questions of military cooperation and taking steps to strengthen their defenses."

In a full-page pronouncement on Soviet foreign policy, the newspaper said there has been a considerable complication of Soviet-American relations because of Viet Nam.

Pravda said "it would be useless and dangerous to the cause of world peace to expect the Soviet Union to watch calmly the aggression of American imperialism against a fraternal Socialist nation or to expect the Soviet government to put up with the efforts of reactionary American circles to act in the role of a world gendarme."

But the Communist newspaper said that the Soviet Union continues to want to improve relations with Western countries.

"Our country," it said, "wants to maintain and develop normal diplomatic relations with capitalist countries and is seeking ways of settling international issues on a realistic basis with due regard for mutual interests."

It singled out France as an example promising success in this endeavor.

"The Soviet Union," Pravda declared, "has taken important steps to develop favorable relations with France and the prospects of Soviet-French relations are not bad now."

Recommend 71 Lot Walks in Waterford Subdivision

The Waterford Township Planning Commission last night recommended that sidewalks be included on 71 lots in Maceady Woods Subdivision No. 2.

The action followed a request by Donald White, developer of the proposed project.

However, curbs and gutters will not be built in the subdivision.

It was emphasized, however, that the remainder of development in the subdivision will contain sidewalks, curbs and gutters.

In other business, the commission recommended final plat approval for Hutton Shores Subdivision No. 2, which encompasses 24 lots.

The recommendation, however, hinges on completion of certain stipulations by the developers, according to the commission.

Final action on last night's recommendations will be taken by the township board.

Next Tuesday night, a special meeting will be held by the commission to select a consultant for the "B" Planning Project which is financed through federal funds.

Waterford School Board Transportation Report Due

The Waterford Township Board of Education will submit a progress report tomorrow night dealing with transportation problems concerning school children in the district.

The study stemmed from a board meeting Sept. 23 when parents from two neighborhoods on Hatchery and Cass-Elizabeth voiced concern over what they termed hazardous walking conditions.

Among suggestions mailed over by parents and board members at the meeting were:

- Additional trips for buses.
- Construction of gravel walkways or sidewalks.
- Temporary bus service until walkways are provided.

- An attempt to amend the state law which reimburses school districts for only those students living at least 1 1/2 miles from school.

Monday night, the parents took their problem to the Township Board which promised to send a letter to the board of education, strongly recommending additional bus service for these pupils.

UNFEASIBLE PLAN

Township Board members concurred that construction of sidewalks or gravel walkways would be unfeasible in the two areas and that additional bus service would be less expensive and safer.

In other business, the board of education will reconsider what course to take in regard to the recreation department and community school program.

Both are equally financed by the Township Board and board of education presently, but change has been called for by the Michigan Public School Employees' Retirement Board and Social Security Contribution Fund.

The board of education previously recommended that the recreation department be placed under township authority and that the community school program be placed under its authority.

However, the Township Board urged that all employees of the two bodies be placed on the board of education payroll and be made responsible to the school district.

Urge Students to Join March

Seek to Underscore Georgia Rights Drive

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Civil rights leaders began today a drive for wholesale withdrawal of Negro children from schools in seven counties to provide recruits for a 100-mile march to Georgia's capital.

"We are going to march to Atlanta to get what we want," shouted Rev. Charles Brown of Americus, Ga., during a courthouse rally Tuesday night.

The Crawfordville-Atlanta march is being planned to climax efforts here to bring about school integration in Taliaferro County.

In Americus Tuesday, police arrested 53 demonstrators, most of them juveniles, who attempted to coax Negro pupils from a high school. Demonstrators urged the students to leave and take part in the march.

EAST OF ATLANTA

Americus is in southwest Georgia and Crawfordville is about 190 miles east of Atlanta. Negroes scheduled a sit-in at their segregated school in Crawfordville after Negro pupils had carried books to the vacated white school Tuesday for what was labeled a teach-in.

The daily attempt to ride buses carrying Taliaferro white children to schools in other counties reportedly would be different today. But Negro leaders gave no details of their plans.

All the white pupils transferred from their school here before the fall term began and the school did not open. It now is locked and deserted. About 70 Negroes had applied for a transfer to the school.

AIMED AT PUPILS

The sit-in at Murden High, the Negro school, was aimed at drawing the remaining pupils from their classes, said J. T. Johnson of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which is directing the drive.

Only about 112 of the more than 500 Negro pupils are in school. A few of the Negroes are attending what is called a "Freedom School," a ramshackle log building about 10 miles

New Fighting Hits Central Java in Indonesian Revolt

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Radio Jakarta reported new fighting in central Java today and said the city of Jogjakarta, former capital of the Indonesian Republic, had changed hands three times.

One broadcast said there was no information on who now controlled Jogjakarta, 250 miles southeast of Jakarta, but added that fighting was still going on in the area.

All-India Radio in New Delhi reported that Jogjakarta was in rebel hands again but gave no source for its information.

In earlier broadcasts Jakarta Radio said sporadic fighting was going on in other parts of central Java, where rebel units of the Diponegoro division are holding out, and in the outskirts of Jakarta. One broadcast said army units loyal to President Sukarno had set up a new command to direct the fight against the rebels who, with Communist backing, tried to seize power last week.

RADIO APPEALS

The Indonesian radio repeatedly broadcast appeals to troops in central Java to remain loyal to Sukarno's government.

Another Jakarta broadcast reported that pro-Sukarno members of the Diponegoro division were being brutally slain by the rebels. It said one regimental commander was killed in front of his family, then his wife and children were hacked to pieces.

CABINET MEETS

President Sukarno met with his cabinet at his palace in Bogor, 40 miles south of Jakarta, to discuss the crisis. Radio Malaysia, without giving the source of its report, said Sukarno emerged from the meeting "looking quite well."

The Malaysian Radio broadcast unconfirmed reports that two leading Communist party members of the cabinet, Mohammed Lukman and Noto, attended the meeting. But there was no mention of Communist party chief D. N. Aidit, who is believed to have gone underground since the attempted coup.

Diplomatic observers in Jakarta said Sukarno must settle two important issues to avoid an explosion: His relationship with the army, and the status of the Indonesian Communist party.

The president met almost continuously with leaders in Bogor Monday and Tuesday, trying to reestablish his authority and stave off civil war.

LEADER CHARGED

Among those at one meeting Tuesday was Air Force Chief Omar Dhani, a Communist sympathizer who is believed to have supported the abortive coup. Army leaders accused Dhani in front of Sukarno of arming the rebels and they demanded his dismissal, reports said.

Anti-Communist feeling was reported high in Jakarta. A major campaign to break the back Leading officials said the apparently at the helm. But if dead, but the myth must be president, 64, may emerge still will be a case of "the god is preserved," one official said.

Eight newspapers were permitted to resume publication, a Jakarta broadcast said. All were non-Communist.

The PKI's chief organs, Hari-an Rakjat (People's Daily) and Warta Bhakti, continued under suspension. So was the official news agency Antara, which was Communist-infiltrated.

NO PREDICTION

Malaysian officials would not predict how the crisis would affect Indonesia's campaign to crush British-backed Malaysia. But there was a general feeling that Sukarno's virtual one-man rule of Indonesia was over after 20 years.

But Aim Could Succeed Red Coup May Have Been Premature

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

What happened in Indonesia had the look of a premature Communist coup. The attempt to take over the sprawling, populous nation may have been triggered too soon, but the Communists may yet be able to do the job.

At best, Indonesia faces a period of wild confusion. At worst, one of several things could happen. A Communist take-over, a civil war or even dismemberment of the potentially rich nation of 3,000 islands.

The Communists had seemed confident at one time of taking over by peaceful means if they could get by one big obstacle: the resistance of some army officers. To some observers it had seemed not a question of whether the Communists would take over, but when.

President Sukarno's increasingly close alliance with the Red Chinese may have been perilously close to a point of no return. High Red Chinese officials seemed to be interfering openly in Indonesia's internal affairs, even proposing that Sukarno arm the peasants as "volunteers to crush Malaysia."

LEADER'S HEALTH

Perhaps rumors about Sukarno's health triggered an attempted Red coup. The Communists might have expected army resistance to their aspirations if the aging, ailing Sukarno passed suddenly from the picture.

There is no constitutional provision for a successor. Sukarno made himself leader and president for life. His deputy, Subandrio, probably would be acceptable to the Communists as an interim chief of government, but there is no assurance Subandrio could take over.

Sukarno allowed the Indonesian Communist party — the PKI — to become enormously powerful, the only organized, disciplined party permitted to Lukman, also is a power in the cabinet. The three are the brains of the PKI politburo.

GAVE SUPPORT

Sukarno contributed to Communist power by espousing a concept called Nasakom, meaning a government made up of one-third nationalists, one-third religious representatives (the country is mostly Moslem) and a third Communist.

The Communists began demanding that Nasakom be extended to the army command. They openly ordered infiltration of lower ranks and began luring some officers.

The coup failed. How Communist it was is a matter of conjecture. Lt. Gen. Achmad Yani, the chief of staff who once before had the army on alert against a possible coup, was killed. Aidit, the Red chief, is reported in Jogjakarta, which he has labeled "the base of our revolution."

The Communists were relatively open about their program. The Red newspaper Hari-an Rakjat (People's Daily) told the party this spring that in Indonesia "the revolutionary situation is ripening." It laid down the line of attack for Communists — through the peasants and seizing government posts.

ASKED FOR ARMS

Communist chieftains badgered Sukarno and the army chief, Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, for weapons for the peasants. Sukarno may have got jittery then. Certainly, high army officers seemed so. Evidently awake to the possibilities, they resisted proposals to arm peasants and "nasakomize" the army. The army press became increasingly critical of Sukarno by implication for contributing to Red power. It exerted strong pressure on him to decrease the number of Communists in powerful positions.

It is possible that, for the army, Sukarno already has gone too far.

News Analysis

operate legally. It has four members in Sukarno's cabinet and one in his inner cabinet, the real power.

Sukarno's favors to the PKI alarmed the army. Communist Chief D. N. Aidit, 43, seemed almost the head of a shadow government. His second in command, Noto, a power in the labor unions, is an inner cabinet member. His theoretician and chief strategist, Mohammed

Sand Menace May Create Ghost Town

THOUSAND PALMS, Calif. (AP)—A sea of wind-whipped sand is engulfing this desert community of 500 homes 20 miles east of Palm Springs.

Some of its about 2,000 residents say the town has more "for sale" signs than any other in the state. Scores are moving away, after a heroic battle. One predicts Thousand Palms will become a ghost town.

"We eat sand, drink sand, breathe sand," says Leo Miller, chief of the Volunteer Fire Department. "We sleep in sand, cough and sneeze it."

Miller told newsmen that keeping his home from being inundated has cost him $1,000 yearly. He just spent $300 to have truckloads of sand removed from his yard.

END OF LINE

"I've come to the end of the line," said Miller. "My wife, four children and I have had it. We can't stand living in this filth any longer."

The town lies at the wrong end of a natural wind tunnel that begins at San Geronimo Pass.

Founded in the 1920s and once called a paradise, Thousand Palms has been suffering from the sandy blizzards since 1961.

No one seems to know exactly what started the phenomenon, but several have theories.

Sand has drifted 15 feet high over Miller's back fence. Sand is up to the roof of the house next door.

NO LETUP

"Sometimes it blows sand a solid week without letting up," said another resident, Charles Pierce. He says a day's blow dumps two feet of sand in his yard despite a 5-foot retaining wall, and it takes him three hours to shovel a path for his car.

The town's streets resemble those of a midwinter scene, but the glittering surface is sand, not snow. And it doesn't melt.

"Every home in our town has been damaged in one way or another by sand," says Dorothy Johnson, president of the Blow-sand Committee, formed a month ago to seek federal aid.

"It's fast becoming a ghost town."

The Riverside County Board of Supervisors has appealed to federal legislators to seek a control program. The board's resolution conceded that "this natural condition is beyond the powers of the state and local governments."

WINDBREAKS

Mrs. Johnson and Miller believe only windbreaks of tall trees will save the community.

One resident favors a 30-foot high wall extending a mile or more across the western end of town. Palm trees don't impede sand.

Eleanor Lennie, postmaster said, "When the railroad builds mounds of sand to prevent drifts across the tracks, the sand mounds are torn apart by the wind and lifted into our streets."

CADILLAC (AP)—Charles Anderson, district forest ranger at Manistiquie, has been named director of the Job Corps Center at Hoxey, near here. He succeeds Thaddeus Taylor, transferred to the Custer Job Corps Center at Battle Creek.

LOSING BATTLE—Sand is strangling Thousand Palms, Calif., a desert town of 500 homes, 20 miles east of Palm Springs. Scores of families are moving out as their homes are engulfed by sand. Charles Pierce, shoveling sand from his driveway, says a day's blow dumps two feet of sand in his yard despite a five-foot retaining wall.

Aga Khan Half-Brother Killed in Auto Crash

SION, Switzerland (AP)—Patrick Guinness, 34, British banker and a half brother of Aga Khan IV, was killed Tuesday when his sports car left the road and crashed into a tree. He was born in London and his mother later became the first wife of Prince Aga Khan, son of the late Aga Khan III, spiritual ruler of some 20 million Ismaili Moslems.

Aden Oilworkers Strike to Protest Exec's Arrest

ADEN (AP)—Oil workers went on strike today to protest the arrest of a union executive suspected of being a terrorist leader. But the British colony's port continued to operate, and no violence was reported.

British schools were closed, and servicemen's families were warned to stay off the streets. The British government suspended the constitution 11 days ago as part of a campaign against terrorism.

South Viet's Daring Young Man Doing Well

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
SAIGON, South Viet. Nam (AP) — South Viet Nam's daring young man on the flying trapeze is doing better than many thought he would as premier and successor to a half-dozen military rulers since Ngo Dinh Diem's fall two years ago.

The military government he heads is only a little more than amounts to any more than that. Maybe it's too soon to tell, yet.

STILL FLYING

Ky, an air force general who turned 35 Sept. 9, still does some flying despite the demands of his duties as chief of government. He retained his post as air force commander after taking over as premier June 19.

He was catapulted to power by young generals who set up what is called officially a government directory. Americans feared there would quickly be more struggles for power and upheavals.

But while there have been rumblings of dissatisfaction — normal for Saigon — the directory has shown at least surface smoothness in its functioning. Its military members hold regular meetings in the mountain resort city of Dalat and there was an armed forces congress recently in Saigon without any startling developments or signs that the directory was falling apart.

Several weeks ago, some relatively minor student demonstrations broke out, centering in the old city of Hue, 350 miles north of Saigon. The students assailed the directory and Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, whose job roughly corresponds to chief of state, but did not assault Ky.

DENOUNCED MOVE

Ky joined Thieu and other military men in denouncing the student protests, but the demonstrations ended without getting far off the ground. Up to now, there have been no crowds taking to the street in the manner which, in recent years, contributed to the downfall of other regimes.

Ky, whose five feet, five inches make him seem tiny among towering Americans, is a Buddhist and native of Hanoi, capital of the Communist regime he now fights. He became a refugee from the North after the Communists took over in 1954. The father of five children by his first wife, whom he divorced, and another by his second, he says he does not mind that he is sometimes referred to as a playboy and a dandy.

How is the Saigon government doing and what are its prospects? Much probably depends upon Ky's own personality and outlook.

Paul Dean, correspondent of the Arizona Republic and the Indianapolis Star, quotes one American colonel in charge of counterinsurgency activities in Saigon as saying:

"Since Ky has been in power, I've lost my personal dread of military coups and sleep better at night."

OPINIONS DIVIDED

Opinions remain divided, however. Some think Ky's government has not had time to get moving; others say there has been much talk but little action; yet others hold the massive U.S. military buildup in recent months has simply overshadowed all other developments.

Ky himself is pictured by his friends as anxious to get to the people, to win their trust.

"My people need a true revolution against social injustice with basic things for all," he has said. "I must give them something so they can touch and feel and smell it."

Ky concedes he is not fully equipped for the job of prime minister.

HAVE TO LEARN

"But by this," he says, "I mean I have to learn, as we all do all the time, to watch people, and when you see something wrong, you must be honest with yourself and try to correct it."

"I am honest. They (the former leaders) were not. I love my country, they didn't. I firmly believe that we will arrive at a final victory, maybe five, maybe 10 years, I don't know when. But it is a long time."

Experienced politician or not, Ky has been extremely active since he took over. He has made a trip to Nationalist China and Thailand to drum up anti-Communist support in Southeast Asia. He has traveled extensively inside the country, meeting with officials on problems ranging from those of refugees to the political motivation of restlessness among the mountain people.

Ky is a dashing figure in his black flying suit and lavender neckerchief, or in the expensive, hand-tailored suits he affects at social gatherings. But he also can appear tough. He warns of harsh measures against profiteers, speculators and hoarders. He contends that drastic meaures are needed to attack the corruption which long has plagued the nation.

No one overlooks the complexity of his problems. Years of war, political upheavals and constant exposure to crises have left the people often apathetic and disinclined to enthusiasm for any government. Economic problems multiply with rapidly rising prices, displacement of large numbers of people and the appearance of tens of thousands of foreign troops in a country dominated for centuries from the outside.

three months old, but that is good — for South Viet Nam. Its life already is longer than some predicted when youthful, dashing and often bold Nguyen Cao Ky took over.

He is calling for sacrifices to support the war against the Communist Viet Cong. He is preaching a formula of getting close to the people, trying to get them to trust a Saigon government, winning them by deeds rather than lectures on ideology.

"He talks real well," said one American who has spent years watching the volatile Saigon scene. "We'll see whether it

Dodgers' Official Stirs Twins With Observations

Buzzie Bavasi Hints of Sweep by Los Angeles

Minnesota's Sam Mele Aroused; LA's Alston Unhappy but Calm

JIM GRANT

DON DRYSDALE

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) The makings of a mild rhabarb seemed to be fomenting today as right-handers Jim (Mudcat) Grant of the Minnesota Twins and Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers clashed in the opening game of the 1965 World Series.

The weather prediction was for mild, cool temperature but the air in the vicinity of the batting cages during the Twins workout Tuesday was a little warm, especially around manager Sam Mele.

Usually a mild-mannered gent, Mele took off on the Dodgers because of a prediction by Los Angeles General Manager Buzzie Bavasi that his team would sweep the Twins in four straight.

TWINS DISTURBED

"The Dodgers are in for a surprise," Sam retorted hotly. "They've got my guys a little disturbed by their comments. And I don't mind saying I'm not happy about what they said, either."

"Cracks like that have a habit of coming back to haunt a guy. I think all they did was fire up the guys a little more."

Bavasi had been quoted as saying:

"I think three or four clubs in our league would have won the pennant over there. I don't think the competition from the Twins will be any tougher than the Yankees when we beat them four straight in 1963."

Easy going Al Alston was not very happy over Bavasi's remarks, either. The diplomatic manager of the Dodgers attempted to ease the situation. "Don't pay any attention to what Bavasi says," Alston soothed. "Our guys know it won't be easy."

ANY NUMBER "I hope we can win it — whether it's four or seven. I'll be happy to take it in any number of games."

Both Drysdale and Grant declared themselves fit and ready. Don went into the game with a six-day rest, the longest he's had all year. Mudcat, a Floridian who got his nickname because he was mistaken for a Mississippi, hurled two tune-up innings last Saturday.

Neither Drysdale nor Grant have pitched against the other club although the Dodgers' 6-foot-6 Drysdale said he faced a number of Twins in all-star competition.

"The only Dodgers I have ever pitched against," said Grant, "are Lou Johnson, when he was with the Cubs, and Maury Wills, in the minors. But the Wills of then was not the Wills of today."

The odds-makers have made the Dodgers an 11-10 favorite in the opener and a 7-5 favorite to capture the Series.

Both managers plan to use only three starters, no matter how long the Series lasts. The second game on Thursday will be a southpaw duel between the Dodgers' Sandy Koufax and the Twins' Jim Kaat. Both threw lightly in the bullpen Tuesday.

"No, I have no bad effects after pitching last Saturday with two days' rest," said Koufax, who is troubled by an arthritic condition in the elbow of his pitching arm. "There's no (Continued on Page E-3, Col. 4)

Offense Lags but Lions Own Best Defense

Defenders Sparkle as Detroiters Boost Record to 3-0

NEW YORK (U) — Detroit and defense again are synonymous. And the playoff has been three straight victories for the unbeaten Lions, despite an offense that ranks lowest in the National Football League.

NFL statistics released today show the Lions first in team defense, allowing 401 yards in their three games — 299 rushing and 302 passing. Detroit has gained only 65 more yards than it has allowed, however — 666, for 14th and last place.

The Lions are 12th in both rushing, 277 yards, and passing, 389 yards, and tied for eighth in scoring with 65 points.

San Francisco is the leading offensive club in total yards, 1,238, passing yards, 811, and scoring, 193 points. Cleveland, powered by Jim Brown, is the top rushing team with 541 yards.

Oddly enough, Washington's figures resemble Detroit's — the Redskins are second to the Lions in defense and next-to-last in offense. But Washington has been outscored 58-24 and is 6-3.

Wolverines Close Doors at Practice

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Michigan's Wolverines worked out behind locked gates Tuesday preparing for their Saturday game with arch-rival Michigan State.

Coach Bump Elliott said he was moving Clayton Whittle from defensive end to offensive end, with Roger Rosema replacing Whittle at the defensive end.

Meanwhile, the team physician said halfback Jim Detweiler, who injured his knee in the victory over North Carolina two weeks ago, would probably remain on the bench all week and not play against the Spartans.

"I think it is important for a young squad such as ours to get off to a good start, and we prepare for nonconference opponents just like they were Big Ten. This may not be the case for some other conference clubs."

"But you don't realize the intensity of a game until two Big Ten teams meet. Like Illinois and Michigan State last week. It will be the same this week."

Co-captain Don Japings, who directs the defense, linebacker Charlie Thornhill and rover back George Webster also was bothered by a hurt knee.

The three are important cogs in the Spartan defense and would be missed if they couldn't work against Michigan, the opponent at Ann Arbor Saturday.

Defensive back Jerry Jones received a deep finger cut in Tuesday's workout and was sent to the hospital for stitches. He is expected to be able to play. Jimmy Summers, a sophomore, was put in his position.

MSU Plans TV of Game

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University said Tuesday it will televise the Michigan-Michigan State football game at Ann Arbor Saturday.

Admission will be $2 a person for the telecast beginning at 1:15 p.m.

Pressure Still Felt by Pontiac Central 11

The pressure never eases in the Saginaw Valley Conference. Pontiac Central's Chiefs, fresh from a convincing 21-0 victory over Flint Northern on the opponents' field, has a Saturday night engagement coming up against a surprising Bay City Handys.

And after Handy came Flint Southwestern at home, Flint Central on the road, and then the big one, Bay City Central at home.

PCH, ranked third in the state Class A prep poll, is looking for its first SVC title since 1943.

There are a lot of 'ifs' in the Chiefs' drive for the championship, but if they squeeze past their next three opponents, it could set the stage for a title showdown with BC Central, the state's No. 1 ranked team.

Two shutouts For PCH, it's been a combination of offense and defense. In three games, the Chiefs have given up only seven points and collected two shutouts. Midland was the other shutout victim, 19-0.

Like the Chiefs of other years, Handy is normally a pushover in the SVC. But again like the Chiefs, not this year.

Handy is unbeaten in two league starts, gaining a 6-4 tie with Flint Northern and downing Saginaw, 7-0. Also in the record is an 18-4 decision over non-conference foe, Saginaw McArthur.

The Handy-Chiefs tilt will get under way at 8 p.m. at Wisner Stadium.

And while the Chiefs are winning easily, Pontiac Northern is winless in three starts and the Huskies are favored to lose their fourth Friday night when they play host to Farmington.

A SURPRISE The surprise of the Tri-County, L'Anse Creuse, is leading the pack with a 1-0 mark after edging Lapeer, 14-13 last Friday.

This Friday, L'Anse travels to Romeo (2-0-1) while Oxford (6-3) opens the league campaign by entertaining Lapeer (1-2).

GARNER GRID AWARDS — Tackle George Patton (left) of University of Georgia and quarterback Allen McCane of West Virginia turned in sharp performances last Saturday and wound up with the weekly Associated Press football awards. Patton, a 210-pounder, was named line man of the week as he led the Bulldogs to a 15-7 upset over Michigan, while McCane gained back of the Week honors after passing for five touchdowns as the Mountaineers downed Pitt, 63-48.

Rookie With Twins Amazed at Fortunes

MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL (UPI)—There's one member of the Minnesota Twins who is surprised he's in the World Series. Matter of fact, he is surprised to be in the major leagues.

His name is Frank Quilici (pronounced Quill-uh-see), a 26-year-old former Chicago school teacher and a graduate of Western Michigan University.

A second basemen in the lower minor leagues for four years, Quilici finally reached the Twins top farm team, Denver in the Pacific Coast League, this season.

"My fielding was fine, as usual," explained Quilici, "but my hitting was terrible, around .300, and my manager told me I'd never reach the big leagues unless my hitting improved."

"I had some help and I concentrated on hitting and I finally got up around .270 midway in the season," Frank said.

"Then the manager called me in his office one day and told me the Twins were calling me up."

Local Audubon Club Sets Erie Marsh Trip

The Pontiac Audubon Club has scheduled a field trip for this Saturday to the Erie Marsh state game area to see migratory shorebirds and waterfowl.

The club's next meeting will be Oct. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in All Saints Episcopal Church.

"I was surprised. I was bewildered. I couldn't figure out how they needed me. I wasn't scared about going, but it was like a dream. Not only was I being called to the majors, I was coming up with a first place team," Quilici continued.

"If you come up and get a hit with a last place team, they put it in the box score and forget about it. If you get a hit with a first place club you could become a national hero."

Billy Herman Cites Deal's Good Points

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP)—Boston Red Sox Manager Billy Herman says the trade of veteran pitcher Bill Monbouquette to the Detroit Tigers was necessary to improve the Sox defense.

"This trade will be criticized by a lot of people," Herman said Tuesday after Boston acquired outfielder George Thomas and infielder George Smith. "But we have to help our defense. We have a lot more notches to move up in the standings than we have to go down."

Monbouquette, often a victim of poor defense, finished the season with a 10-18 record. Thomas hit .213 for the Tigers, while Smith, a minor league journeyman, reportedly is so weak at the plate one Detroit writer remarked: "Even the pitchers will play in on Smith."

Chiefs Play Handy Friday

Port Huron Northern Is Kettering Foe

The Harons entertain Brighton (4-3) this Friday and then they will face a stronger test the following week at Northville (2-1).

Other games on the W-O schedule Friday will find Clarkston at West Bloomfield, Milford at Clarkston and Northville at Holly.

In the Oakland A., Madison entertains Avondale, Rochester visits Clawson, Lake Orion travels to Warren Cousino and Troy plays host to Fitzgerald.

Ten College Games Surpass 50,000 Each

NEW YORK (UPI)—For the first time in nearly two years, the 10 best-attended college football games drew more than 50,000 fans each, the NCAA service Bureau reported Tuesday.

The Michigan State - Illinois game at East Lansing, Mich., proved the best draw with 70,234, while 68,554 fans turned out in Birmingham to witness the Alabama - Mississippi contest.

Seek Dismissal of Suit

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee County asked the Federal Circuit court an action by the Milwaukee Braves' plea for an order to prevent the Braves from moving to Atlanta in 1966. The Braves had petitioned to remove the action to Federal Court.

The County's motion argued that the Federal Court had no jurisdiction over the suit for declaratory judgment because there was no diversity of citizenship between the parties. The Braves' principal place of business is in Wisconsin, the same state in which the County is a citizen, the motion said.

The County said U.S. District Judge Robert E. Tobin had so ruled in November, 1964, when he remanded back to a state court.

Wants Parents Part of Head Start Plan

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP) — Low-income parents should be come a part of the Head Start program in eastern Kentucky, says the federal regional director for the program.

Roland Lafayette told 41 eastern Kentucky project leaders they should hire poor parents as teachers' aides if they have children participating in the program. "If the mother is in the same classroom receiving the same lessons as her child, then the chances of the child retaining this training increase immensely," he said.

Knees 'Out' in Dakar City

DAKAR, Senegal (AP) — Proper fashion is made in Dakar, not Paris, the Senegalese have decreed. Senegalese women were told to disregard the above the knee trend.

A communiqué from the Senegalese police headquarters said that starting Oct. 11 "police and gendarme services will arrest and turn over to the courts for indecent exposure any women or girls who, on public streets or in a public place, wear any garments that do not cover the knees. "This measure is not applicable on the beaches."

Gemini Fuel Cells May Provide Travel Power, Heat Homes in Future

NEW YORK (AP) — The Gemini spacecraft darted across the summer night like a small excited star—with a hot, 125-year-old idea in its tail.

Probably within the coming decade, that idea will be providing power for more and more of traveling America.

The Gemini 5 power came from fuel cells — flameless, smokeless, noiseless fuel cells.

They produce electricity, with hardly a moving part.

It is a neat, simple and beautiful idea. But it will be some time—ever before fuel cells produce the power for your home. Still it's nice to think about.

COMPACT PACKAGE

The compact package in the basement or the hall closet—not so much as a whisper loud, fueled by gas tanks delivered each month, unaffected by storms or winds.

The fuel cells that powered Gemini 5 weighed less than an astronaut. Yet they did the job of a ton of storage batteries.

The beauty of it is that it uses natural and highly efficient phenomenon: the oxidation of an element—actually the quiet burning of hydrogen gas. It borrows the electrons travel temporarily in this chemical reaction—uses them as electricity—and returns them to complete the reaction.

The silence, portability, smokelessness and smoglessness of the fuel cells makes them ideal for some uses — as low weight power for battlefield radar, for trucks that operate on electricity indoors; for isolated, unmanned stations like beacons or buoys.

New Process Purifies Water

Thin Membrane Key to 'Reverse Osmosis'

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — The astronaut winging through space, the soldier slouching through brackish water in Viet Nam, the shipwrecked survivor on the lonely ocean — all these men could easily pump a canteen of fresh drinking water from impure water in half an hour by hand.

This would be accomplished by using a newly developed process for reclaiming waste, ocean or brackish water by means of a simple chemical membrane and a pump, explained Glen Newby, manager of the "reverse osmosis" section of the General Dynamics, San Diego, Calif.

A portable desalting unit producing 1,400 gallons of fresh water a day with this simple "reverse-osmosis" process is on exhibition as part of the first international symposium on water desalination currently in session.

Scientists, engineers and delegates from 63 nations will be discussing methods of releasing water at the symposium sponsored by the Department of the Interior in cooperation with the Department of State.

Key to the new "reverse-osmosis" process is a semipermeable membrane, only five-thousandths of an inch thick, made of cellulose acetate. This membrane, resembling the plastic materials housewives use for wrapping food, filters out salts and other dissolved solids.

Several hundred square feet of the membrane can be rolled up in one cubic foot of a pressure tube, said Newby. From 3,000 to 4,000 gallons of fresh water a day can be produced for every cubic foot of membrane.

The process involves reversing a basic mechanism of nature called osmosis, whereby water flows from a less concentrated solution through a semipermeable membrane into a more concentrated solution.

This process is constantly taking place in cells of all forms of life, in plants, animals and human beings.

By applying pressure on one side of the membrane, scientists can reverse this flow, hence the name, reverse osmosis. Salts and other chemicals and waste materials are stopped by the membrane barrier while the pure water passes through to the other side.

SYNTHETIC MEMBRANES

Scientists have created various synthetic membranes in the laboratories, but only recently have they been able to develop material and equipment to make this "reverse-osmosis" process practical on a large scale.

General Dynamics engineers estimate that a plant could be built to produce nearly 6,000 gallons of fresh water per day from each cubic foot of membrane at a cost of 25 to 30 cents per thousand gallons.

One experimental plant operated by General Dynamics and the Los Angeles County Sanitation Districts engineers has been producing fresh water for more than 2,500 hours in Pomona, Calif. Another experimental unit is being operated at the Point Loma disposal facility near San Diego.

Work is also being carried on at General Dynamics' laboratories under contract with the Office of Saline Water of the U. S. Department of the Interior.

atoms are borrowed and put to work, traveling through a wire as electricity. The denuded hydrogen atom or ion, heads for the landing station where oxygen has been introduced. Hydrogen and oxygen combine readily.

At the landing station, electrons that have already done their electrical work for man are fed back in to complete the chemical reaction — the joining of hydrogen and oxygen to produce water.

LATER FLIGHTS

In later Gemini flights, the water produced by the fuel cells will be filtered for drinking purposes.

But fuel cell makers hope to use other, richer fuels in future packages. They would like to reap electrons from electron-rich hydrocarbons like propane and methane. At the same time they would use air as the source of oxygen.

The problem is holding down the temperatures of the reaction

N. Y. Pumps More Oil

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State wells pumped 5,120 barrels of crude oil a day during 1964, the Independent Petroleum Association of America says. This compares with 4,800 barrels a day during the previous year.

ACTRESS INTERVIEWED—Photographers circle screen star Natalie Wood as she is interviewed in Burbank, Calif., on her adventures as a girl reporter in "The Great Race." Photographers, seeking to avoid routine shots, try close-up pictures and attempt to capture an animated expression or gesture.

Camera Angles

Photographers on Job

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsclutter

Press photography is a mirror of our times, a picture report of events and people who make news.

The events may be earth-shaking or merely of local concern; the people may be kings, presidents or the village marble champion.

But if there's a picture to be made for others to see, you can be sure there will be a press photographer around to shoot it.

The subject of press photographers was rehearsed recently when I visited my son, Don, in California. After graduating from U.S.C. with a journalism degree, his first job was with a local newspaper as a photographer - reporter.

Less than a year later he was offered the opportunity to teach photo-journalism at a junior college, and he made the switch.

PHOTO-JOURNALISM

For many years he taught special photo-journalism workshop sessions for high school editors at U.S.C. Though now chairman of the Fine Arts division in Cerritos College, Norwalk, Calif., he has never lost his enthusiasm or desire to practice press photography.

An opportunity came when we were able to attend a Hollywood press interview of stars Jack Lemmon, Tony Curtis and Natalie Wood after a preview of their fun film, "The Great Race."

Don's Leica camera blended perfectly with the other 35mm cameras and the Rolles and Hasselblads which today are the tools of the press photographers.

Surprisingly, there was one lone 435 press camera on the Warner lot that afternoon, quite a change from the days when Speed Graphics were the only cameras used by newspaper photographers.

ONE ELEMENT

The camera, however, is only one element of many in the press picture. Any camera may be used actually, provided the photographer has mastered it so thoroughly that it can be handled automatically with speed and confidence to produce the pictures required.

All attention must be concentrated on other elements which determine whether the result will be superior or run-of-the-mill.

One factor which distinguishes better press pictures is visual impact, the power to arrest a spectator's eye and get his full attention. Some events which are photographed have built-in visual impact because of their very nature - all-powerful, tragic, beautiful or dramatic.

Recent battle action photos from Viet Nam, the "space walk" pictures of Col. Edward White during the Gemini orbital mission, a ship rescue at sea are examples of powerful events which can't help but make eye-stopping pictures.

SUBJECT MATTER

However, when subject matter is less graphic, the photographer must go to greater efforts to introduce visual impact.

He can vary his camera angle by getting up higher, down lower or off to one side to avoid a routine result.

He can use dramatic illumination through side- or back-lighting to add power and depth to picture.

He can capture the peak of expression or action by anticipating climactic highpoints. He can come close enough to eliminate distracting factors of a scene leaving only the story-telling elements; or if physically unable to do so, can crop out the unessentials in making a print.

OFTEN FIRST

Amateur photographers are often first on the scene of news-making events. Remember, if it should be you, that a news picture is a perishable commodity and speed is essential in getting it to the nearest newspaper or wire service office.

If important enough, call the editor for arrangements to deliver the unprocessed film personally or by courier. But no picture is usable without full information and accurate identification - get the facts down in writing while you are on the scene.

It was appropriate to rehearse thoughts at "The Great Race."

We recalled the time when Don happened to be nearby when a thief dashed out of a supermarket, stopped a passing woman motorist, ejected her from the car and sped away, unaware that a 5-year-old girl was sleeping on the back seat.

RAN TO CAR

Don ran to his car and gave chase but lost the trail. Then a police radio car passed him with the distraught woman in it and the great race was on again for Don. He followed.

With siren screaming, the police auto led the way to the woman's car which had slammed into a tree. The thief had disappeared but the youngster in the back seat was unhurt. Don arrived with his camera preset and ready and captured the moment of reunion between woman and child.

It was on the front page of the Long Beach Independent the next morning and then sent nationwide by Associated Press wirephoto.

I was a proud father that day when the wirephoto was put on my desk in the New York office of AP with the story of how my son had met the test of press photography successfully.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Ill-Health, Rifts Trigger Most Suicides

(This is the first in a two-part series on suicide.)

"To be or not to be" is a question that plagues most of us at one time or another.

It is estimated that, in the United States and Canada combined, about 55 persons commit suicide every day.

The number who threaten suicide, or make unsuccessful attempts, is much higher.

Because of legal penalties and the stigma attached to suicide, many cases are not reported or are reported as due to other causes.

One of the first suicides in recorded history was that of Sargon, who took several prominent citizens with him.

ATTITUDES VARY

Attitudes toward suicide vary from acceptance as appropriate behavior in Japan to viewing it as a sin against the Creator in predominantly Catholic countries.

Suicides occur among rich and poor, young and old and men and women but chiefly in persons who, for one reason or another, feel isolated from society.

Most frequently the suicide is a man who is past 40, unmarried, widowed or divorced and has no strong ties to his family, community or church.

The decision to end it all is triggered by ill health, real or imaginary, in about 50 per cent of the cases.

ALSO FREQUENT

Almost as frequent a cause is a quarrel with a relative, lover or close friend.

Other causes of depression leading to suicide include financial reverses, school failure, illegitimate pregnancy, difficulty with the law, alcoholism, drug addiction or the death of a loved one.

Since these factors are fairly common and do not cause suicide in everyone to whom they apply, medical authorities believe that suicide is the result of a deep-seated personality derangement and not an uncomplicated reaction to the triggering factor.

Law in Soo Prohibits Sale, Sniffing of Glue

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—An ordinance prohibiting the sale of certain types of glue to minors and making sniffing the substance a misdemeanor has gone into effect here, City Attorney John Larock said the ordinance, passed by City Council, came as a result of weekend glue sniffing parties among teen-agers.

Grand Tour of U.S.
Set for Royal Couple

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Charming Sharmou Douglas, the attractive socialite daughter of former Ambassador Lewis T. Douglas, is guiding Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon, planning their American tour starting Nov. 4. And what a responsibility with everybody wanting to entertain them! They'll visit LBJ's ranch, the Douglas' ranch in Arizona, the White House, Beverly Hills for a round of parties including one Jane Russell's giving for WAIF, and N.Y. to see the U.N. theaters, cafes and 5th Ave., which we claim is the most beautiful street in the world.

Princess Margaret and Sharmou Douglas have been close friends for a dozen years, back to the mid-50s when Lewis Douglas was Ambassador to Great Britain and Sharmou lived in London.

Jackie Kannon told the Rai Pink room: "If Frank Sinatra doesn't marry Mia Farrow pretty soon, she'll be too old for him." ... Henry Youngman claims Johnny Keane was heard moaning: "NOW they're going to pray in Yankee Stadium!"

Mrs. Zachary Scott informed Earl Blackwell by phone from Austin, "At least, I was to keep it from Zach. ... She learned the truth about his alibi in April." ... Sybil Burton Christopher now asks friends, in the nicest possible way, to introduce her as Sybil Christopher.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Happy 7th birthday to Groucho Marx ... The George DeWitts are expecting ... Bing Crosby and Kathy, who were at the Colony, are in town to be with Bing's seriously ill brother Everett ... Fran Warren subbed for laryngitic Teresa Brewer at the Latin ... Gary Heaton rode one of the Claremont Riding Academy's horses around C Park before flying to LA to do another Deana Martin show.

Leslie O'Brien's racing Bill Ormond, a 25-year-old actor, in Europe, and Warren Beauty's on the way back to London to reclaim her ... Gary Crosby's agreement with his estranged wife Barbara says he can come home once a week to take his piano lesson ... Political Flair: Beldandine Moreau at the Roundtable now wears a Lindsay button in her navel.

TODAY'S BEST LADIES: Bob O'Brien bought a bargain color TV set for $99. ... And now we watch that comic, Green Skelton! (The Hall Syndicate, Inc.)

LBJ to Have Gall Bladder Surgery

Avon Man Dies After Beating

A 38-year-old Avon Township carpenter who told Oakland County sheriff's deputies he was kicked and beaten in a scuffle Monday night, died en route to Pontiac General Hospital last night.

LBJ to Rome, Pope to U.S.?

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — President Johnson plans to visit the Vatican in the not-too-distant future and Pope Paul VI intends to follow up his transatlantic pilgrimage to New York with another trip to the United States, a high Vatican source said today.

However, no date was given either for the next papal visit or a trip to the Vatican by Johnson, who will undergo surgery for the removal of his gall bladder on Friday.

The source said the 68-year-old pontiff discussed the possibility of a visit by Johnson to the Vatican during his meeting in New York on Monday and the U.S. leader said he would come here soon.

Pope Paul's next visit will be mainly to honor American Catholics for their devotion and their dedication to the church, the source added.

Revised Bill for Osteopath School on Floor

State Senate Starts Talk on Authority for College in Pontiac

Preliminary Senate debate was to begin today on a revised bill to create an osteopathic college authority for Michigan.

Two State Senate committees — appropriations and corporations — voted yesterday to bring the bill out of committee and report to the floor of the Senate.

In revising the bill, the committees trimmed provisions which would have required the state to appropriate enough money each year to construct, operate and expand such a college.

State Okays Amendment on Disability

LANSING (AP) — Michigan became the eighth state in the union yesterday to approve the Presidential Disability Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The House approved the amendment 81-15.

The amendment must be approved by 28 of the 50 state legislatures within seven years of its passage by Congress, Colorado is the only state to consider the measure so far and not approve it.

The measure, which had the endorsement of Gov. George Romney, passed the Senate earlier this year.

Three of the opposing votes were cast by Democrats.

The other 12 came from Republicans, although Minority leader Rep. Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, said the Republican opposition did not represent a GOP OBJECTS

A number of Republican legislators had objected to the measure in an hour of debate Monday night. They complained of vague language and a lack of safeguards against usurpation of presidential powers.

The amendment is designed to install the vice president as acting president if the president is too sick or injured to perform his duties.

That's the Hard Way

LOUISVILLE (AP) — An auto seen frequently in the downtown section carries this notice on the rear end: "I'm Fighting Poverty. I Work."

Agreement Made Humphrey Set to Fill In

WASHINGTON (AP) — A specific agreement provides that Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will act for President Johnson if need be during the latter's hospitalization for removal of his gall bladder.

This was emphasized yesterday by the President in announcing the forthcoming operation.

However, he said he does not anticipate the need for presidential decision, or actions, during the short time that I will not be available for the purpose.

Johnson and Humphrey have had an agreement since shortly after their election, providing:

and the latter would serve as acting president, exercising the duties of the office until the inability ended.

• In the event an inability prevented the President from communicating with the vice president, the latter, after such consultation as he deemed appropriate, would decide whether to take over the powers of the office and serve as acting president until the inability ended.

• In either event, the President would decide when the inability had ended and the full exercise of his powers and duties.

Johnson said the agreement with Humphrey is the same as that between former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and between the late President John (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

To Recuperate for 10-14 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is facing surgery Friday for removal of his gall bladder, then 10 to 14 days in the hospital and several weeks more on a reduced schedule.

The President, 57, a rather forlorn-looking man seated all alone at the huge, octagonal table in the White House Cabinet room, announced the forthcoming operation to newsmen last night at the close of a day of suspense.

The physician who will perform the operation, Dr. George A. Hallenbeck of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., said it will be major surgery but "the risk to a normal person of the President's age is very low indeed."

And the man who handled Johnson's severe heart attack in 1955, Dr. J. Willis Hurst, chairman of the medical department at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., said, "We do not anticipate difficulty. Obviously we intend to be as careful and cautious as possible."

Hurst said Johnson has no heart difficulty for 10 years and: "I would place him in a group of risks similar to any other patient who has not had a heart attack."

Johnson will check in at the U.S. Naval Hospital in Suburban Bethesda, Md., tomorrow. A Navy commander for a time in World War II, Johnson was taken to this hospital after his heart attack. And he was there for 3½ days last January with a sore throat and heavy cold.

MINIMUM TIME He reported last night that "the doctors expect there will be minimal time during which I will not be conducting business as usual."

And he sounded assurances that should presidential action or decision be needed and he was unable to provide them, standing arrangements are in effect for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to act in his place.

Johnson met with Humphrey and the Cabinet just before he read his announcement to newsmen. He said he had discussed his case also with congressional leaders and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He had gone through a flurry of appointments, with newsmen and photographers called in to observe part of the process. But the White House press corps had had advance indications of something more momentous — something whose nature was as carefully guarded secret to the last moment.

MOMENT CAME The moment came after the Cabinet had left.

U.S. Blasted by Red China

Claim Air Violation Premeditated Action

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China hurled new defiance at the United States today after claiming to have downed one of four U.S. planes it said violated Chinese air space.

There was no comment on the Chinese claim from U.S. officials in Washington or Saigon.

A spokesman for Peking's defense ministry termed the alleged aerial intrusion "a planned and premeditated action, part of the U.S. imperialists' efforts to expand their war aggression in Asia."

"If the U.S. imperialists insist on imposing war upon the Chinese people and engaging in a trial of military strength, we say to them, you are welcome," he continued.

"If you dare to come, we will dare to hit back. We will fight whenever you come, and whenever you appear. We will wipe you out whether you come singly or in pairs."

WORDS SIMILAR

His words were similar to those of Foreign Minister Chen Yi, who last week challenged the United States, Soviet Union, India and Britain to invade China — and be wiped out."

Radio Peking reported that Chinese fliers downed an American fighter yesterday over Kwangsi, a mainland province adjoining Communist North Viet Nam.

The broadcast said the three other American planes "fled in dismay when they found the situation unfavorable."

No further details were given and the fate of the pilot was not disclosed.

Dodgers vs. Twins

Series Opener Is Today

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL, (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, coming off a hot streak, and the Minnesota Twins, who coasted to the American League pennant, meet in the World Series opener today with their ace right-handers on the pitching mound.

For the Dodgers, who won 15 of their last 16 games to beat out the San Francisco Giants for the National League pennant, it will be big Don Drysdale, a side-wheeling specialist who never has lost a Series game.

For the Twins, it will be Jim (Mudcat) Grant, with a season record of 21 victories against 7 defeats. He never has pitched in a Series game.

With the forecast calling for sunny weather and the temperatures in the 60s, the Dodgers were 11-10 favorites to win the first game and 7 to 5 choices to take the series.

Both managers, Walter Alton of the Dodgers and Sam Mele of the Twins, admitted they had problems, although both were confident.

"It's natural," Alton explained, "to have a letdown after the way we had to win from behind to take the pennant. I just hope we can keep up our momentum, and I think we will."

Mele's problem was just the opposite — to get his team back up. Although the Twins won four of the six games they played after clinching the pennant, the players naturally relaxed and took it easy.

18 From County on Metro Unit

Eighteen Oakland County governmental leaders were named today to the Committee of One Hundred which was formed last week to work toward solutions of common metropolitan area problems.

Committee appointments were made by Metropolitan Fund (MF) in cooperation with the Supervisors Inter-County Committee and other governmental and civic leaders.

Committee members were drawn from six counties of southeastern Michigan. These to keep his spirits up," she said.

She tried to slip a rope and automobile seat belt around the boy in an effort to pull him out, but failed.

The boy is caught in a narrow tunnel of a small cavern, known as Wildcat Cave, near Hinkley about 12 miles north of the northeastern Ohio.

He had crawled around tunnels leading off the main cave, went around a big slide of rock, then slipped into a V-shaped crevice where he is held fast.

He has not had food since he was trapped before noon yesterday while on an outing with other youngsters from the Methodist children's home in Berea, near Cleveland, where he is 12.

Food can't be gotten to him. His head is away from the area which rescuers can reach.

Also entering the cave today were seven members of a rescue squad from the National Speleological Society of Washington who flew in from Washington.

SCOUT HELPING

An 11-year-old boy scout, Gerald John Ulrich of North Royal, Ohio, who is familiar with the cave, was helping in the rescue efforts, too.

Rescuers could reach and touch the boy but were unable to move him more than a few inches.

He is tilted downward at a 45-degree angle in a crevice only 10 inches wide and three feet high.

The weather outside the cave was far freezing but rescuers said inside it was warmer. Portable heaters were brought near the boy to help keep him warm.

He was wearing a nylon jacket and jeans.

include Oakland, Wayne, Macomb, Washtenaw, Monroe and St. Clair.

Last week when formation of the committee was announced, 12 men from the six-county area were named as a coordinating group for the entire committee which is divided into four subcommittees.

Among the dozen key leaders were L. Curtis Potter, mayor of Royal Oak, and Delis Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

NAMED CHAIRMAN

Potter has been named chairman of the finance subcommittee of the Committee of One Hundred and Hamlin vice chairman of the functions and organization subcommittee.

Oakland County leaders named today to Potter's subcommittee were Curtis H. Hall, Farmington Township supervisor; Gerald V. Harrison, superintendent of Farmington Public Schools; David Levinson, chairman of the County Ways and Means Committee; and John J. Lowes, Rochester village president.

Serving with Hamlin are R. J. Alexander, director of the Department of Public Works; Norman Barnard, Probate Court judge; James E. Seetler, Warfington Township supervisor; Herbert P. Sullivan, a member of the Oak Park School Board; and William H. Smith, mayor of Westland.

Named to the legislation subcommittee were Hugh G. Alletier Jr., vice chairman of the County Board of Supervisors; and Edward Cheyz, White Lake Township supervisor.

ALSO SERVING

Also serving on this committee are S. James Clarkson, mayor of Southfield; State Senator M. Levin; and William L. Mainland, Milford Township supervisor.

Appointed to the representation subcommittee were Homer C. Case, Bloomfield Township supervisor; and William Emerson, superintendent of Oakland County Schools.

Also named to this committee were Birmingham Mayor Robert W. Jones and Pontiac Mayor William H. Taylor Jr.

Besides Potter, the subcommittee chairmen are Jerome P. Cavanagh, mayor of Detroit, functions and organization; Edward J. Boner, chairman of the Macomb County Board of Supervisors, representation; and Curt H. Will, chairman of the Washtenaw County Board of Supervisors' ways and means committee, legislation.

cameramen and newsmen started piling into the Cabinet room. He began reading his statement—rapidly, as if he were anxious to get it over with.

"At the ranch on Sept. 7," he said, "I felt some pains in my stomach which seemed to be the result of something I had eaten."

The White House physician, Vice Adm. George G. Burkley, said, examined him, suspected gall bladder trouble, and suggested that X rays be taken after his return to Washington.

TEST RESULTS

There was a series of these that week, and Johnson said, "Burling reported they indicated a poorly functioning gall bladder."

The X-ray films were forwarded to the President's family doctor, former Texas James Cain of the Mayo Clinic staff. Cain and Mayo radiologists confirmed diagnosis of a malfunctioning gall bladder with stones, Johnson said.

"After further consultation," the President said, "the doctors recommended that the gall bladder be removed. I will, therefore, enter Bethesda Naval Hospital tomorrow night for surgery Friday."

"While I do not anticipate the need for presidential decision or action during the short time that I shall not be available for that purpose, the Cabinet, and particularly the secretary of state and secretary of defense, as well as my White House staff, will always be in contact with the vice president."

POLICY DECISIONS

"These men have been a party to and participated thoroughly in all major policy decisions. They are fully and currently informed. The public will of course be kept fully and currently advised of my progress."

Johnson arose from the presidential chair, managed a bit of a smile again, and walked rapidly toward the door. He seemed touched by a chorus of "Good luck, Mr. President," from the press corps.

Humphrey told newsmen that Johnson had discussed the situation fully with him and the Cabinet, "and we are clear as to the procedures to be followed during his short absence if necessity arises."

Humphrey added that he would remain in Washington and be available at all times during Johnson's hospitalization.

JOHN'S OPERATION

Not since Eisenhower underwent an ileitis operation in 1956 has a president in office required surgery.

Johnson himself had had a kidney stone removed by surgery back in 1955, before his heart attack. And in 1948 one was eliminated by manipulation.

This was recalled by Dr. Cain after Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, brought in most of the team of doctors handling the Johnson case for a question and answer session.

"It includes Hallenbeck, Hurst, Burkley, Cain, and four others," Dr. David Paul Osborne, chief surgeon at the naval hospital, the Anesthesiologist, Dr. Edward P. Didier from Mayo Clinic, Dr. Donald C. McIlraith, head of a Mayo section of surgery, and Navy Capt. James Young, the assistant White House doctor.

18-14 DAYS

It was Hallenbeck who estimated the presidential hospital stay at 10 to 14 days and the ensuing period of reduced activity—something this President will find difficult to accept—at a few weeks. Hallenbeck said Johnson may find himself tiring during this period and thus there may have to be some restrictions.

As to how removal of the gall bladder will affect the President, Hallenbeck said its function "seems to be something one can do without completely."

He said ordinarily it takes one to two hours for the operation, made through an incision in the upper abdomen on the right side. While he is at it, he said, there will be the customary examination of other organs in that area.

Moyers said there are no plans at this point for the period after the President leaves the hospital—no decisions on whether Johnson might go to Los Angeles Oct. 15 and perhaps fly on from there to Hawaii or Alaska or both.

His daughter, Luci, probably will be in to see him Friday morning. And daughter Lynda, who is attending the University of Texas at Austin, probably will fly to Washington that night.

Beating Fatal to Avon Man

Hospital authorities called the sheriff's department and reported that Arnett was in critical condition.

Deputies who assisted in transferring the victim to Pontiac General Hospital said both his eyes were blackened and he was twisting in pain.

A Pontiac General Hospital spokesman said Arnett was dead on arrival at the hospital.

Another brother, Paul C. Arnett of 3471 Dunning, Avon Township, said the victim had been "dating" his mother, Mrs. Henrietta McDougall.

Others are Arizona, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Kentucky.

SETS PROCEDURE

The proposed amendment sets out this procedure in case a president becomes incapacitated.

"If a president notifies Congress of his disability, the president would take over as acting president. He would serve until the president proclaimed himself able to resume his powers."

"If a president were unable to act or unwilling to declare his disability, the vice president would become acting president if he and a majority of the Cabinet—or a majority of such other body as Congress may provide in the future—sent a declaration to Congress that the president was unable to discharge his duties."

"A president could regain his powers by advising Congress that his inability no longer existed, unless this is challenged within four days by the vice president and a majority of the Cabinet, or such other body as Congress provides in the future."

"Any dispute over the inability of the president to resume his powers would be settled by Congress, which would be required to convene within 48 hours after such a dispute arose, if not already in session."

"If within 21 days Congress determined by two-thirds majority vote in both chambers that the president was unable to discharge his duties, the vice president would continue as acting president. Otherwise the president would resume his powers and duties."

Under the proposed amendment, if the vice presidency became vacant, the president would nominate a successor who would take office after confirmation by a majority vote of both Senate and House.

OFFICE CENTER

For the time being, the hospital will be the White House. Moyers will set up the press office there, and all official announcements, will be channeled through it.

The President will occupy a third floor suite, 14 flights below the quarters in the hospital tower he used last January.

Mrs. Johnson plans to go to the hospital tonight and remain near her husband through and after the operation. Beforehand, she will have to do the honors at a White House dinner tomorrow honoring senators, representatives and their wives. The President had not planned a speech for the occasion.

CLAIM 229 KILLED

The Vietnamese claimed 229 guerrillas dead following heavy fighting Monday during a government sweep in the southernmost province of An Xuyen.

They said another 40 Viet Cong were killed and 28 captured in an action in Binh Dinh Province. Light government losses were reported.

The operation in Binh Dinh, 305 miles northeast of Saigon, reopened a portion of strategic Highway No. 1 which the Communists had cut, the spokesman said.

U.S. authorities said 1,067 Viet Cong, 229 government troops and 17 Americans were killed in action last week. Air strikes accounted for most of the Viet Cong losses. Vietnamese officials Tuesday put the Viet Cong dead for the week at 1,787. But this included an estimate of 700 enemy dead in heavy fighting near the Phu Cu Pass, in Binh Dinh Province.

In the air war, U.S. B-52 bombers attacked the Viet Cong's "C" zone in their 29th strike of the war. The eighteen jets bombed an area about 75 miles northeast of Saigon where a Viet Cong training camp was believed to be. It was the fifth B-52 attack on "C" zone in 10 days.

Other U.S. and Vietnamese pilots pounded Viet Cong targets in South Viet Nam in more than 200 sorties.

N. Viets Down 3 U.S. Planes

4 in Jets Are Missing; 2 Parachutes Sighted

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Three U.S. Air Force planes were shot down Wednesday over North Viet Nam and the four men aboard are listed as missing, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

He said the downed planes were an F4C Phantom, with a two-man crew, and two F-105 Thunderchiefs. Two parachutes were observed from the Phantom, but a search produced no trace on the airmen, the spokesman said. One parachute was spotted from the Thunderchief. The other Thunderchief was lost from sight, he said but did not elaborate. He described the anti-aircraft fire as heavy.

The Phantom was lost on a nine-plane strike on the Lang Hiep ammunition depot 40 miles northeast of Hanoi, the spokesman said. Two other Phantoms scheduled for the same target were diverted to fly rescue cover after the plane went down.

The Thunderchiefs were part of a 20-plane raid on Lang Mel Hiep, 45 miles northeast of Hanoi. Heavy flak was observed over the area, the spokesman said.

HA NOI CLAIMS

Radio Hanoi claimed Tuesday its gunners had shot down 10 U.S. planes.

Hanoi declared last week that U.S. pilots shot down in North Viet Nam would be treated as war criminals and face trials.

In the ground war, a U.S. military spokesman said the Vietnamese army claimed its forces killed 260 Viet Cong this week in major operations in the central highlands and the Mekong Delta.

The casualty claims were not confirmed by U.S. body counts.

Commission Will Meef on Crime, Liquor

Two meetings — one on liquor and the other on crime — are coming up for the seven-member City Commission.

Commissioners are slated to meet at 3 p.m. next Wednesday with members of the Bagley-Wessen Block Club.

Scheduled for discussion is a general cleanup of the area, including stepped-up law enforcement.

The second meeting, to be scheduled within the next two weeks, is with members of the mayor's special committee on tavern license upgrading.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said last night that he had talked with Philip Sauer, downtown restaurant owner, who is chairman of the five-man committee.

TO SET MEETING
A meeting is to be set up at which all members of the committee can be present, said Taylor.

Previously the committee had submitted a series of recommendations for upgrading tavern licenses.

The commission, however, rejected the study at an informal meeting.

Camp Fire Girls Hold Annual Council Fire

Mid-November vows are planned by Julia Norene Giglio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Giglio of Lincoln Avenue and Trevor Weston Reyher, son of the Robert Reyher of Lake, Mich. He is a graduate of Northwood Institute.

Here From West

Mrs. Robert J. Cooper, former Pontiac resident now living in Tucson, Ariz., is in town for a 10-day visit. She is dividing her time between the homes of Dr. and Mrs. Peter Hoogerhyde, Chippewa Road, and the Aaron Rikers of Orchard Lake.

The Pontiac Area Council of Camp Fire Girls will hold its annual council fire Friday at 7:30 p.m. in Kennedy Junior High School.

The council fire will honor girls who have attained various ranks and skills in the program. Fourth grade Blue Birds will fly-up to the Camp Fire program. First year girls will receive their Trail Seeker ranks.

Second year girls will receive Woodgatherer's rank and third year girls their Fire Maker certificates. The junior high girls will be awarded group and individual Torch Bearer awards.

PRESENTING

Presenting the awards will be Mrs. Bernard Stickney, Mrs. Leslie Seay, Edward Sharpe, Lynne Hoe, Dorothy Hollister, Mrs. David Warfield and H. H. Smith.

Molds Can Fade

Keep that empty copper-tone (anodized aluminum) mold out of direct sunlight or its color may fade. And never put such a mold in a dishwasher.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

Your little ones will soon be asking you to make them Halloween costumes. You often resent the time spent on a garment that will be worn only a few minutes.

Try making a pair of pajamas that could double as a costume. There are many suggestions, such as a bunny, devil, bandit, tiger, lion or penguin. They are usually made out of flannel, with or without feet. There also is a new pattern available which is designed like a space suit. This could double as a snowsuit if you desire, instead of P.J.'s. Use a water repellent taffeta cloth.

Wish I had thought of this years ago. It might be easier to get your little ones to go to bed at night if they can play a game of pretending.

Dear Eunice:
I have a white winter coat that I would like to change from a double-breasted style to a single-breasted style. I would like to be able to wear it open or buttoned. How would I proceed to change it, or is this too difficult to do?
Mrs. S. L.

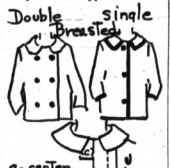

Dear Mrs. S. L.:
The easiest way to change your coat would be to bind the outer edges.

Find and mark the exact center front line, this is where your new buttonholes will begin. If you are making bound buttonholes, they should be done after you have ripped the outer edge. Machine buttonholes may be made later.

Machine stitch the fabric and the facing together 1 inch from the center front. This will keep the front edge firm and prevent stretching. Cut excess fabric just outside of machine stitching.

Bind the unfinished front edges with a wool braid or make your own bias binding out of a matching satin or jersey. If you are using a fabric, you may use the same fabric for your buttons. You might also use the binding around pockets, or the edge of the collar, cuffs, etc., in order to tie the garment together in a more professional manner.

If you want to make perfect bound buttonholes every time, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for my free leaflet, "Bound Buttonholes." Send your request to Eunice Farmer, in care of this newspaper.

WOOL PRESSES NAPPED FABRICS

In pressing heavy, napped fabrics, I found that if I used a piece of white light-weight wool and sewed it to a piece of unlagged muslin, I had a terrific pressing cloth. I press with the wool side down and dampen the muslin with a sponge. It produces fine edges with no shine. (This idea will also work with a chemically treated press cloth instead of the muslin. Don't get the press cloth too wet. Immediately after pressing, use the clapper part of your Tailor Tris pressing board and pound sharply. This will force out the steam and your pressed edges will remain nice and flat.)

Sybil Blood, Watertown, Conn., wins this week's Tailor Tris pressing board for this suggestion.

The council fire is the beginning activity of the year for the Pontiac Area Council, a member agency of the Pontiac Area United Fund, serving girls 7-18 in the area.

Mosaic Tile Makes Wall Masterpiece

There's no need to run into a blank wall when you have a blank wall to decorate.

Those large windowless areas, so common to recreation and family rooms, provide endless possibilities. They can be paneled with wood, draped with curtains, painted, wallpapered or enhanced in many ways.

MURALS

But if you want to turn a wall into a real masterpiece, you might consider the art of mosaic pictures. Once considered institutional, murals of ceramic mosaic tile are becoming increasingly popular for home use.

There are no holds barred on colors, design or theme, and you can be your own artist. Besides adding that distinguishing "something different," the mural of ceramic mosaic tile puts the nix on maintenance.

An occasional wiping with a damp cloth is all that is necessary. The colors won't fade and thus never require painting.

PERMANENT

And a mural is one picture that will never need framing or straightening.

Domestic ceramic tile manufacturers saw the possibilities of murals and have added several stock designs to their inventories of the more conventional wall and floor tile. Tile showrooms, display the designs and color themes available. Tile contractors also can tell you how you can become your own mural designer.

Nowadays art goes practically everywhere and the same applies to murals. They are showing up in kitchens, most commonly as backsplashes, and in bathrooms, bedrooms, entryways, dining and living rooms.

PATIO, TOO

And because ceramic tile is frostproof, they are being used in outdoor patios.

NATURAL BEAUTIES

Bottle Cap Has a Key

At least some of Mother's worries will be eased if the newest safety bottle cap is adopted by drug manufacturers. The tamperproof cap will lessen the danger of children opening containers of aspirin, sleeping pills, poisons and other potentially dangerous products.

The closure device, Modern Packaging explains consists of an inner cap and a free-turning outer cap with a "key" that must be used to open the bottle. To open, you twist the outer cap until slots in the two caps are aligned. Then you press the key into the slots, which allows you to unscrew the cap. Sounds rather complicated, doesn't it? It should certainly keep the children out of danger. Let's hope you can remember how it works when you go to get an aspirin for your headache.

Don't Suds Skillet

Don't use detergent in that iron skillet because the detergent tends to remove the film of fat that helps to keep the pan from rusting.

Fresher Stain Easier Cleaned

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fresher the perspiration stain on clothing, the better the chances of removing it from washable cottons, the Cleanliness Bureau reports. Wash the stained area in warm soap or detergent suds as soon as possible. If the fabric has become discolored, try sponging it with a little vinegar and water solution which may help restore the original color. Rinse thoroughly. Then launder the entire garment in clean suds, rinse it well and let it dry.
