150 Top Officials at CD Meeting Plan Evacuation

Conference in Detroit Mapping Three-County Action for Use in Raid

DETROIT (AP) — More than 150 officials from Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties yesterday mapped preliminary plans for a mass evacuation of Detroit in the event of an enemy air attack.

Officials at the emergency welfare service conference heard traffic and welfare experts outline how they would evacuate residents beyond a 35-mile radius of the city.

Cornelius F. VanBlankensteyn, deputy director of the Michigan Office of Civil Defense, said the purpose of the meeting was to "complete pre-attack' arrangements that could be put to work immediately."

"When we learn of the disaster or of bombers nearing Detroit we must be able to react instinctively to well-planned action," he said.

Sgt. Donald Oates of the Michigan State Police showed how the system of evacuation and assistance from communities outside a 35-mile radius of Detroit. He said 400,000 persons could be evacuated beyond the 35-mile limit by turning all main thoroughfares in the city into one-way streets.

Two plans have been set up, he said, one dealing with evacuation before a bombing and the other afterward.

Others said the evacuees would be taken to designated areas where the emergency welfare service section of the OCD would take over and care for them with the help of local residents.

These areas have not been designated, Oates said, but plans have been made to feed, clothe and otherwise care for vacuees.

Ralph Garrett, welfare co-ordinator for the Federal Civil Defense agency, said it was important to settle the evacuees as soon as possible.

"If they are not settled before the bomb is dropped," he said, "then the sight and noise of the explosion is liable to throw them into a panic."

Woman Bags Doe With 8-Point Rack

THIS IS LEGAL—Mrs. Ann Berg of Grand Haven stands beside an antlered doe which she shot legally yesterday behind the barn at her farm home while hunting. The doe has an eight-point rack and weighs 125 pounds. This is unusual for a female deer.

State Fatalities From Gunfire Mount to Four

Authorities Probe Two Cases, Charge Youth With Murder

From Our Wire Services

A 15-year-old Cadillac youth has been charged with murder in the fatal shooting of a 68-year-old deer hunter—one of four to die by gunfire since the Michigan big game season opened Monday.

The warrant was asked by Wexford County Prosecutor William R. Peterson against Mike Stevens. Peterson said the boy had admitted shooting Hugo Flake, retired Carsonville farmer.

Stevens says, however, it was an accident and happened while he was hunting squirrels Tuesday. Flake was shot three times in the back of the head and neck.

Peterson said the shooting "certainly has the appearance of not being a hunting accident."

Stevens was held at the Wexford County Jail in Cadillac.

Peterson planned to petition Probate Court for a waiver of jurisdiction over the youth so he could be tried as an adult.

Stevens will be taken to Kalkaska for arraignment before Probate Judge Elmer Sherwood. The Wexford County probate judge, Allison Webb, is on a hunting trip in the Upper Peninsula.

Meanwhile authorities disclosed today that an Upper Peninsula woman, whose body was found Tuesday under mysterious circumstances, may have been choked before she was shot in the head.

An autopsy report showed that 38-year-old Mrs. Betty Wettberg, of Ironwood had three distinct marks of violence on the left side of her neck and a deep circular gash beneath her right eye.

Prosecutor Theodore Albert said he definitely had ruled out an accident and the physical position of the body, wedged between two logs and covered with strips of bark, made suicide unlikely.

Albert declared: "Everything indicates this woman was not despondent, was not worrying about anything, and in fact had done many things before her death that a person planning on suicide would not do."

Albert said he was trying to get a better description of a

Coroner Admits Checking Story

But Denies Saying That Pregnancy Was Cause of Marilyn's Murder

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coroner Samuel R. Gerber denied today that he ever said Marilyn Sheppard was beaten to death because she was pregnant, but he admitted checking into a rumor that her husband, charged with the killing, was sterile.

"Did you ever assert that the murder was the result of the pregnancy of Marilyn Sheppard?" asked William J. Corrigan, chief defense counsel for the slain woman's husband, Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, 30-year-old osteopath.

"I never did," replied Gerber.

Corrigan then demanded whether Gerber had not intimated the brutal bedroom bludgeoning of July 4 was the result of the victim's four-month pregnancy with her second child.

"I never heard of it," the coroner answered.

The possibility of the defendant's being sterile was touched upon at the murder inquest last summer, but no evidence has been introduced to support or refute the widespread rumor.

Earlier, the coroner, on the stand for the third straight day in the nearly five-week-old trial, brought into court a number of articles removed from Sheppard's home. They included a shotgun which Gerber said was taken from the house by Dr. Richard Sheppard, Sam's brother, and later turned over to authorities.

Other items in Gerber's collection were a piece of iron pipe the tion were a piece of iron pipe the coroner said was from the defendant's sports car, a Jaguar; a riding crop, and a tire tool.

There also were two towels Ger-

At Spring Election

Retirement Trustees Seek New Vote on City Pensions

Pontiac's Retirement Board of Trustees today said it will ask the City Commission at a future date to resubmit the charter amendment on a recent pension plan to voters in the next spring election.

Oscar Eckman, executive secretary of the board and city finance director, said the trustees decided to resubmit the issue for balloting after a meeting yesterday.

Eckman added that the board also may request the Commission to approve the resolution making it retroactive to meet the requirements of the charter amendment passed in the recent election. He said the trustees may re-draft the resolution at their next board meeting.

The charter amendment approved in the last election was found to be in error after Police Capt. Edward H. Shigley withdrew his resignation when he discovered he wouldn't be eligible for retirement until he was 65, despite his 28 years on the force.

The new amendment was to make city employes eligible for retirement pensions after 25 years of service. However, wording left out of the final draft made Shigley, who is 52, and all other city employes, ineligible for retirement pension until the age of 65.

From all indications and according to city officials, the original draft contained the correct version. But when the final draft was

Turnpike Route Survey in Area

Location of Toll Road Being Mapped to East of Pontiac City Limits

Surveyors employed by the Michigan Turnpike Authority are working in the area east of Pontiac making studies needed to determine the route of the planned 115-mile Rockwood-Saginaw toll road, Turnpike Chairman William E Slaughter Jr. said today.

Both aerial and ground surveys are being made by engineers of the J. E. Greiner Co., Baltimore, hired to do the job for $160,000.

They are scheduled to come up with an exact route for the road in a March 1, 1955 report, Slaughter said.

In general, the $154,000,000 road will extend north from Rockwood, passing west of Wyandotte parallel to Telegraph road in Oakland County, crossing Woodward avenue somewhere between Birmingham and Pontiac to continue east of Pontiac and Flint terminating southeast of Saginaw.

The Authority plans to start construction by next April 1 if possible, Slaughter added.

Rain Over Miami Wins Wager for Weatherman

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UP) — Mayor Harold Shapiro served breakfast in bed today to the president of the American Meteorological Society.

Shapiro bet Arthur E. Merewether of New York it would not rain during the society's convention here. It began to rain shortly after the sessions began.

Williams Gets Huge Majority

Official Canvass Gives Democratic Governor 68 Per Cent in Wayne

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams received 68 per cent of the Wayne County vote in his successful bid for election to an unprecedented fourth term in the Nov. 2 election.

This was disclosed today by the official canvass of the Wayne vote, which showed Democrat Williams received 569,298, compared with 266,284 for his Republican opponent, Donald S. Leonard.

The lop-sided Wayne vote for Democrats gave Patrick V. McNamara, the Democratic nominee, victory over Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) and swept in Williams' full state slate. Ferguson and other Republicans led outstate.

Three candidates of minority parties — Prohibitionists, Socialists and Socialist Worker—polled a total of 2,777 votes in the governor's race.

The board of canvassers reported that it found "substantial errors," although none affected the outcome of any race, in canvassing the returns.

Just No End to What Texas Women Can Do

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP) — Texas Attorney General John Ben Shepperd had flu this week and couldn't take his 12-year-old son Johnny hunting on the first day of the season.

Mrs. Shepperd filled in for Johnny's ailing father. Johnny came back with two wild turkey gobblers and a four-point buck.

Revamped A-Peace Draft Offered for Russian Okay

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States and its six atomic partners sought Soviet approval today for a revamped proposal designed to get President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace program rolling.

The seven sponsoring powers planned to present their revised resolution to the U. N. Assembly's main Political Committee today.

U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. described the new draft as a "solid resolution" taking into account changes suggested by Russia, India and other nations.

After a 90-minute huddle with his six cosponsors last night, Lodge predicted the new resolution to set up an international atomic agency would win unanimous support of the 60 U. N. members, including Russia.

The Western resolution was revised after three days of closed-door talks between Lodge and Russia's Andrei Vishinsky.

A U. S. source said Vishinsky was informed last night of the changes made in the resolution and was given the chance to suggest any further alterations.

Informed sources said the seven Western Powers were determined to push ahead with the resolution with or without Russian agreement.

The general feeling was that, despite their apparent inflexibility on certain points, the Russians

Father of Kyes Dies in Florida

Was Lifelong Resident of Ohio, Active in GOP Political Circles

WINTERHAVEN, Fla. (AP) — L. M. Kyes, 77, father of Roger M. Kyes, former assistant secretary of defense, died at his winter home here yesterday.

A lifelong Ohio resident, the elder Kyes was a lawyer and had been active in politics. He had served as Columbiana County GOP chairman but never held public office.

Besides his son Roger, who left his Washington post and returned to his job as a General Motors Corp. executive about a year ago, the elder Kyes is survived by his widow, Myra.

Saved Dimes for Four Years, Buys New Car

EAST PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Four years ago, Louis S. Farias, his wife and their four children began dropping dimes into a box. Some nickels and dollar bills were also added.

Yesterday the hoard had reached $1,403.20. They took it to an automobile dealer and ordered a new car.

With the old family car, it was enough for a 1955 model. The old car, by the way, was purchased the same way.

Long, Feminine Arm

MIAMI BEACH (UP) — City officials figured a way to take some of the sting out of traffic tickets. Six women parking-meter checkers went on duty here for the first time today.

Adlai's Son in Army

CHICAGO (AP)—Borden Stevenson, 22, son of Adlai Stevenson, 1952 presidential nominee, left yesterday for Camp Chaffee, Ark., after his induction into the Army.

Taxpayer Needs $20 Million Job to Clear 'Debt'

WASHINGTON (INS) — John Trimble, a Washington radio announcer, discovered today he needs a 20-million-dollar-a-year job or else there's been an awful mistake.

Trimble, a resident of suburban Chevy Chase, Md., opened a letter from the Maryland State Tax Division, anticipating he was entitled to a rebate of $85.

Instead, he discovered he was being dunned for a payment of $99,997.81.

According to Trimble's computations, he would have to be in the 20-million-buck-a-year bracket to pay that kind of state tax—and he isn't.

He hopes, and the Maryland tax collectors concede, there was probably a mechanical foul-up on their billing machine.

Yanks, Orioles Confirm Trade

New York Team Sends 9 to Baltimore for Two Pitchers and Shortstop

BALTIMORE (AP)— The Baltimore Orioles today announced they have traded pitchers Bob Turley and Don Larsen plus shortstop Billy Hunter for nine New York Yankee players, including veteran outfielder Gene Woodling.

In the deal announced at an 11 a.m. press conference by Orioles Manager Paul Richards, the Baltimore team gets in addition to Woodling utility infielder Willie Miranda, pitchers Jim McDonald and Harry Byrd, Gus Triandos, catcher-first baseman from Kansas City, and catcher Hal Smith of Columbus, Ohio.

New York will complete its end of the deal with three more players whose names will be announced "in the future."

Turkey Decides to Stay Healthy Past Nov. 25th

PASO ROBLES, Calif. (AP) — A white hen turkey that believes in celebrating Thanksgiving alive has eluded a small army of searchers, including the dogcatcher, for the last four days.

The 10-pound turkey escaped from Mrs. Ola Cunningham and took to the hills.

It's been seen frequently, turkey-trotting across the hills. But never when a hunter approaches. Both Mrs. Cunningham, footsore from searching, and baffled dogcatcher Burt Casteel testify to this. But no sooner have the hunters given up than the turkey is reported seen again.

Puerto Rico Welcomes Rep. Bentley

Others in photo are unidentified. Bentley, critically wounded in a shooting in the House of Representatives last March by Puerto Rican Nationalists, now is fully recovered. He is returning a visit made to his hospital bedside by Puerto Rican Governor Luis Munoz Marin.

Senators May Cast Preliminary Ballot Friday on McCarthy Censure Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders pointed the Senate today toward a possible preliminary vote tomorrow on the question of censuring Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Also in the works was a McCarthy camp move, expected either tomorrow or Saturday, to quash the censure charges. This move, subject to an immediate vote, was expected to fail.

The timing and the nature of the issue on the first test appeared to depend largely on McCarthy's release from Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital and how Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) seeks to modify the censure resolution.

The Center said today an X-ray shows no fracture of Sen. McCarthy's elbow, but it still is painful and swollen.

The hospital's officer of the day said that "as far as we know at the moment" McCarthy will remain at the hospital for at least "a few more days."

He said treatment for the elbow includes soaking and subjecting it to heat.

There is a localized infection but it is "getting better" and the senator had a "comfortable night."

A six-man committee headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) has recommended that McCarthy be rebuked on grounds that he (A) treated contemptuously a Senate elections subcommittee which investigated his finances in 1951-52 and (B) repeatedly abused Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, a witness before him.

Dirksen reserved time in today's debate to explain changes he said he will propose in the special committee's resolution. Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) said any compromise "inevitably" would call for the sort of public apology that McCarthy thus far has refused to make.

Sen. Welker (R-Idaho), who held the Senate floor all day yesterday in McCarthy's defense, said it was "absurd" to censure

Temperature Soars Near Record Here

Despite predictions to the contrary, today looks like another warm and partly sunny day after temperatures yesterday came within three degrees of the all-time high for that date.

Shortly after 2 p.m. Wednesday the mercury hit 67 degrees, the low for the day being 42. The expected rain failed to materialize.

Tomorrow's forecast for the Pontiac area, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau, is partly cloudy and cooler tonight, with a low of 44-48. It will also be partly cloudy Friday with a high of 54-58.

At 8 o'clock this morning the mercury stood at 52, rising to 68 by 2 p.m.

Birmingham's UF Drive Tops All Other Suburbs

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — Exceeding the quota by a greater margin than any other suburb, Birmingham area residents and businessmen contributed $1.10 for every dollar they were asked for in the United Foundation Torch Drive, it was announced today by John K. Stevenson, general chairman.

A last-minute surge in donations last week sent the $186,328 drive over the top by more than $18,000, a higher percentage than any of the other seven areas in the suburban unit of the campaign.

The local drive covered the Birmingham - Bloomfield Franklin vicinity.

Expressing his thanks to the volunteers, Stevenson said: "The quota involved the biggest amount ever sought here during a single drive, and the result is a dual tribute to the high public spirit of our communities and to the unselfish efforts of the more than 1,200 volunteers who worked in the campaign.

"Schools were wonderful," he continued. "Clubs and civic organizations cooperated to the fullest extent. The business phase of the campaign under business chairman C. B. Harman was the best we have had."

John P. St. Clair, general Chairman of the UF suburban unit, said of Stevenson and Mrs. Lenore Quinn, campaign director:

"Stevenson did an inspiring job of putting together and guiding the largest team effort ever seen in the area, and Mrs. Quinn's drive, organizing ability and knowledge of the community combined to make the 1954 campaign a real milestone in public service."

Because of interest shown by the people in the community following an article in a recent magazine on "They Spotlight Hidden Talent," Supt. of Schools Dwight B. Ireland has announced that the Iowa Tests of Educational Development referred to in the magazine story, are used in Birmingham High School.

Ireland said the article pointed out that these tests measure overall knowledge and the ability to use that knowledge, and identify specially gifted youngsters.

"Another valuable benefit from the Iowa tests is that "They are used to gear teaching efforts more closely to the needs and abilities of the pupils, to measure the scholastic growth of students, and to furnish an objective basis for determining any need for curriculum changes," said Ireland.

Parents wishing to draw on the current "Book Week" display at the Baldwin Public Library for Christmas suggestions for their youngsters, will have to contend with the younger set first, according to Jeanne Lloyd, librarian. Almost 30 elementary school classes will have visited the display by the end of the week, she said.

The younger set is also viewing the display in smaller groups, she said, leafing through books covering all fields, both fictional or otherwise.

"You Ain't Seen Nothing Yet" is the title Franklin Rising has chosen for the talk he will give at a meeting of the Men's Club of Kirk in the Hills Church tonight.

The program will follow a 6:45 dinner in the social hall, and is open to men of the community. Rising is general manager of Automotive Parts Manufacturing Assn.

Three University of Michigan students from this area are among those appearing in the school's Gilbert and Sullivan Society performance of "Pirates of Penzance," this week at the Lydia Mendelssohn Theater there.

In the all-student show are Dick Booth, of 1740 Penistone; David Morgan, 787 Vinewood; and Katy Micou, Lone Pine road, Bloomfield Hills. The musical also will be presented in Detroit's Rackham Auditorium on Nov. 27.

DRIVE-IN FEATURES—The new branch of the Birmingham National Bank on Woodward Avenue near 14-Mile road, will open this Monday, Herbert H. Gardner, bank president, announced today. Five drive-in banking windows, three of them to be put in operation Monday, are an added feature of the office. In addition, the branch will provide parking, safety deposit box facilities and all other banking services. Customers may use either the main or the new office. The usual 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. banking hours have been established, but the bank will be open for public inspection until 9 p. m. on Monday.

Rev. Peter Van Lierop Tells Presbyterians of Refugees' Needs

There are over 9,000,000 refugees in South Korea, according to the Rev. Peter Van Lierop who last night told of his experiences as a missionary there for the past four years.

The Rev. Mr. Van Lierop who was ordained in Pontiac in 1949, spoke before nearly 300 persons attending the family potluck dinner at the First Presbyterian Church here.

The missionary, wearing a native Korean costume, described the hunger and want of the refugees in South Korea.

Andong, where he and his family were stationed, is 90 per cent destroyed. People are often found in lumber yards slicing bark from the wood and crushing it to make flour, he said.

The Rev. Mr. Van Lierop told how he went to the market place to tell the people of God. The natives were eager to learn and sometimes would stay all day to listen, he said.

Dr. William H. Marbach introduced the speaker as one of 1,000 missionaries supported by the Presbyterian Church of the United States.

The Rev. Peter Van Lierop has founded five orphanages, directs 80 Christian Day Schools, 25 Middle Schools and two High Schools. He has helped to found a clinic and secure an X-ray, the only one in an area of 2,000,000 people.

Birmingham Justice Levies Fines, Costs

BIRMINGHAM—Pleading guilty to two counts when he appeared yesterday before Justice John J. Gafill, Theodore Luderowski, 43, of Academy Row, Bloomfield Hills, paid fines and costs totaling $53. He was charged with speeding and improper passing.

Randolf Harding, 36, of Detroit, paid a $75 fine after pleading guilty to a charge of driving under the influence of liquor.

Overcoats Are Stolen From 2 Parked Cars

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Two luncheon guests at the Kingsley Inn yesterday returned to their cars, left in an adjacent parking lot, only to find their topcoats gone, police reported today.

A vent window had been broken in the car of B. E. French of Royal Oak. Henry J. Gilmartin of Dearborn discovered both his coat and hat were gone.

Postmaster Reese Confirmation Seen

BIRMINGHAM — U. S. Senate confirmation is expected shortly on Congressman George A. Dondero's recommendation that acting postmaster Roland W. Reese be named permanent postmaster here, it was revealed today.

Dondero's office said the congressman had been asked for a recommendation by the U. S. Post Office Department and he selected Reese who stood at the head of the list of those applications taking civil service examination for the job.

Reese replaced Bernard E. Fowler last May when Fowler was released from the postmaster position for "irregularities."

Fined for Policy Slips

Matthew A. Hill, 52, of 121 W. South Blvd., paid a $100 fine yesterday when he pleaded guilty to illegal possession of policy slips before Pontiac Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

Hill was arrested by Detective Herbert C. Cooley, of the Pontiac Police vice squad, on a traffic violation at Bagley and Diston streets Tuesday. Cooley arrested Hill on the later charge when he noticed the slips.

Reports Theft of $88

BIRMINGHAM—Harris Machus, owner of Machus Bakery, 160 W. Maple, reported to police the theft of $88 from the store's cash register. Machus told police he had locked the door last night but it was found open this morning.

would finally agree to the resolution and might even consent to join the United States, Britain, France, Canada, Australia, Belgium, and South Africa in sponsoring it.

The main snag has been Russia's demand that the proposed agency be placed under the control of the Security Council, in which the Soviets wield veto power.

The United States wants it to be a specialized agency with its own constitution, unhampered by the veto.

Western delegates were heartened also by Russia's acceptance of a place on the advisory committee to arrange an international scientific conference on the peaceful use of atomic energy.

Three-Month-Old Baby Suffocates in Crib

Marcia J. Reid, 3 months old, of 21437 Westview, Oakdale Gardens, smothered to death under heavy bed clothing in her crib last night.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Reid.

The baby was discovered by her mother, Annie, this morning. Dr. William W. Weisberg, deputy Oakland County coroner, said the baby died from suffocation. The body was taken to the Thomas Hall Funeral Home.

Elephants Go Strolling

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP) — Three unaccompanied elephants ambled along a downtown Houston street for two blocks yesterday. The elephants escaped while being loaded aboard a circus train. They finally turned around and returned peacefully to captivity.

The Arctic Ocean has ice islands, but no icebergs.

Doctors Report on Cobalt Tests

3 UM Surgeons Tell of Arterial Studies Using Radioactive Element

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Three University of Michigan surgeons told the American College of Surgeons Tuesday of extensive experiments with radioactive Cobalt 60 to sterilize hard arteries.

Drs. Jack A. MaCris Herbert Sloan and John E. Orebaugh said the radioactive element has a "bactericidal effect." They said that in experiments at the Michigan Medical Center the Radiation has proved effective against disease-producing yeasts and smaller viruses.

In addition, they said, the radiation does not change the structure of the arterial grafts.

The report said:

"It was felt that no adverse changes in the aortic segments can be attributed to gamma radiation."

They said the current metthod has been restricted to experiments on dogs. They added there is some reason to believe that higher doses of irradiation must be used to defeat some viruses before the technique can be applied to humans.

New Staining Technic Used for Nerve Study

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — A new laboratory technic for staining human nerve cells for microscopic study has been developed by a woman medical technologist at Philadelphia General Hospital.

The technic developed by Mrs. Edna Byer Grimbring is reported to solve the problem of mixing a powder into a dye for staining the nerve cell specimens.

Dr. J. H. Clark, chief of laboratories at the hospital, said the staining colors the nerve black or dark blue so it stands out under the microscipe. He added that the past difficulty had been that in mixing the powder into a dye the liquid tended to become murky, clouding specimens.

Bakery Sending Cake to Infant Namesake

OMAHA (INS)—The Omar Bakery has shipped a specially-decorated birthday cake by air mail express to its "namesake" in Gainesville, Fla. — Omar Bakri Hijab.

Little Omar Bakri was the only boy among the quadruplets born last year to Mr. and Mrs. Wasfi Hijab, Moslem students from Jordan enrolled at the University of Florida. He and his sisters will celebrate their first birthday tomorrow.

By coincidence, today is also the birthday of the baking firm, which was incorporated on Nov. 18, 1925.

Turkey Invades Markets With Prices Under 1953

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Thanksgiving turkey takes over in the nation's food stores this weekend, along with all the things that go with it.

And that turkey will cost you less than last year's did. The consensus of food store men is that prices will be from eight to 10 cents a pound below year-ago levels.

You'll find ample supplies of the birds in any weight you desire. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates this year's crop of turkeys at 61 million, a good gain over 1953.

The department has worked through the list of items that go with the holiday bird. Here are their findings:

Radishes are plentiful, green onions are in moderate supply and a good buy, topped carrots are fairly priced, pascal celery is in good supply but there's not too much of the golden heart type around.

Beets are a good buy, cabbage and cucumbers are low-priced, tomatoes and avocadoes are reasonable.

There's a light supply of pumpkins, but other types of winter squash are plentiful. Turnips and rutabagas are inexpensive. Round white potatoes are reasonable, with baking potatoes running higher than the round whites.

There are moderate price tags on sweet potatoes, cauliflower and onions. Mushrooms are fairly plentiful. Cranberries are selling at about the same price as a year ago. Chestnuts from Italy are rather low in price. Parsley is reasonable but peas are high.

All types of apples—for baking, cooking or just plain eating—are available. Florida oranges and grapefruit are good buys. Red Emperors are the best purchase in grapes. Pears are moderately priced, and most of them are from the Pacific northwest.

Sprays that might speed the ripening of apples are being tested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Modern Salesmen Are Well-Rounded

CHICAGO (UP) — The modern manufacturer's salesman is likely to be a far cry from the "drummer" of fiction, a sales organization here reports.

A sales group (Moses Brothers) serving as midwest representatives for eight housewares manufacturers said a composite picture of the modern salesman would show he is:

1. Possessor of at least a year of college, perhaps the holder of a degree in some field well removed from direct connection with the product he sells.

2. Experienced in other jobs than his own, perhaps having held three or four others.

3. Middle-aged, or at least not young. It takes time, the sales group explained, for a man to get enough experience to come up to proper standards of performance in the sales field.

4. A family man with children, perhaps grandchildren.

5. Capable of making a public appearance before sales groups as a speaker.

House Brings Two Bits

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (UP)—Elmer Smith bought a house for 25 cents at an auction here. The house was on a lot bought for $2,200 by another man who plans to build a house on it. A condition of the sale to Smith was that he tear down the house for salvage lumber within seven days.

$10,240 Dream Shattered

Because most of us can ill afford to lose even $10, Postmaster General Summerfield deserves credit for blocking the latest chain letter racket.

There isn't anything particularly new in the scheme. Somehow the victim is persuaded to pay $5 for a list of 11 names. In the presence of the "seller" he then mails another $5 to the top name on the list. The bait in the deal is that $10,240 is supposed to come to the buyer provided no one breaks the chain.

The fact that the money is sent by mail has enabled Postmaster General Summerfield to declare this chain letter scheme a violation of the postal laws.

Don't fall for it!

Our 50,000 New Citizens

It was both fitting and inspiring that the Nation's first Veterans Day was the occasion for our first mass naturalization ceremonies.

In major cities across the country, in Honolulu and on Guam, more than 50,000 persons, many of them refugees, proudly took the Oath of Allegiance to their adopted country.

Michigan's more than 1,800 candidates were sworn in by Federal Judge Picard in Detroit's Masonic Temple. In recognition of the happy nature of the occasion the Judge relaxed the rule against demonstrations and the new citizens cheered and waved their small American Flags. Later they participated in Detroit's Veterans Day parade.

The new citizens ranged in age from four to 90. Among them was a Russian seized by the Nazis and thrown into a concentration camp in Poland. There also were a Catholic priest who escaped execution by the Nazis and a Rabbi who had to flee before advancing Russian and German armies.

These ceremonies were inspiring because they were in such complete harmony with the ideals for which our veterans have fought. They were moving, too, because they exemplify the spirit which makes America welcome the oppressed from every land.

Oakland's Record Growth

Detroit Metropolitan Planning Commission has confirmed what most people in this area long have suspected — that Pontiac and Oakland County still are growing.

In fact, the commission says that since the decennial census of April, 1950, Pontiac's population has climbed from 73,681 to 77,800, a gain of 5.7 per cent. In the same period the county's population has jumped from 396,000 to an estimated 506,000. This is a gain of 27.8 per cent.

As the visual evidence suggests, the bulk, or 67.5 per cent, of the county's gain took place in the three southeastern townships of Southfield, Royal Oak and Troy. Waterford Township's 51 month gain is estimated at 6,725 persons.

Fastest growing community in the county is Oak Park. The population there has increased from 5,267 to 21,700, a record breaking gain of 312 per cent.

Though this rapid growth has brought many problems, it actually is good news for every Oakland County resident. It means there will be a greater than ever demand for shelter, clothing, food and services of all kinds.

All this creates more jobs for our workers and more profitable business opportunities for employers. It foreshadows a greater demand for trucks, passenger cars and automotive parts made here.

In truth, it means more prosperity for many more people and that is just about the best news this highly industrialized area could hear.

Dems Reconsider on Taxes

Post election events have a way of showing how overenthusiastic campaign promises often fade out in the cold light of the morning after.

More tax relief was a popular subject for many a Democratic stump speaker. Opposition orators neglected no opportunity to criticize Administration tax policy. They promised, if given the chance, they would see that the lower income groups would get more tax relief.

Now comes the fadeout of these campaign promises. According to word from Washington a poll has been taken of the nine holdover Democratic members of the tax writing House Ways and Means Committee. All but one is quoted as saying that the chances of further tax relief aren't bright.

That happens to be just what responsible Republicans were saying throughout the campaign. They added the important proviso that any new tax cut would have to await further operating economies and until the Federal budget is nearer balance.

In other words, campaign promises aren't always what they seem.

We were in our teens before we learned that a certain sacred song was, "Work, for the Night Is Coming," instead of, "Work, Father — Night Is Coming."

Jesse Young Believes the Mail Carriers Deserve a Substantial Wage Increase

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

A very interesting article appeared in the Pontiac Press, Nov. 4, on our Post Office and the handling of mail.

Is Leslie H. Dean encouraging this flood of third class mail in our Post Office? I am sure that the employes of the Post Office could tell a different story if they would. All Mr. Dean has to do is pile this junk, as the postal clerks call it, on the carriers for a small hourly rate of $1.62½ per hour and his problem is solved.

Instead of all this praise for Mr. Dean's 224 employes, there should be something done to put this praise in the form of meat and potatoes. Christmas is just around the corner. This third class junk which does not pay its way plus the Christmas mail will make our carriers buckle at the knees.

Mr. Dean, instead of all this praise, help to give your employes something to live on and maybe there won't be such a turnover in labor in the Pontiac Post Office.

Another Lonely Widow Backs Idea of a Club

I have been reading in your column the letters from lonely widows and being one myself, am interested in seeing a good "Get Together" club organized which would meet at night, so that employed men and women who are lonely could attend.

I think there is a great need for such a club in Pontiac. In Detroit they are well attended and I for one would be glad to cooperate, operate.

It seems that the CIO took over the Democrat Party in the recent election.

When any single group dominates a party or the country, the government no longer represents the will of the people.

If the people get tired of that domination they will vote them out eventually like they did with Truman in 1952.

High School Students Who Go Steady Lack Yardstick for Measuring Traits

Girls, don't think a man is a good marriage prospect just because you get butterflies in your stomach when he kisses you. Janice says Hank used to give her such butterflies, but now she is beginning to wonder if he could ever bring home the butter and bacon as a reliable wage-earning husband.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case M-370: Hank P., aged 19, has been the steady boy friend of Janice, a high school senior.

"Dr. Crane, Hank has been very good to me," Janice confessed, "but I feel frustrated. He is so jealous, he will not let me attend any school affair with another boy.

"Hank and I have been going steady for two years. And it was very nice at first, for then he was in high school, too.

"But now that he is out of school, I'd like to date some of the boys in our senior class.

"Hank will not hear to it, though, and raises a row. Last week one of the other boys took me to the radio station where several of us seniors were to appear in a panel discussion.

"And Hank stormed and raged and then got drunk. He says if I don't stick to him, he will become a drunkard all his life."

What do you high school girls think of Hank? And do you agree that it would increase Janice's chances of later happy marriage if she played the field?

Now I don't want you to think that every teenage couple that goes steady during high school, will turn out unhappily in later marriage.

There are many examples where happy marriage has resulted from such unions.

But the batting averages show us that it is better to play the field and gain valuable understanding of the opposite sex by having dates with many different young people.

When you date one person steadily, you become semi-hypnotized by that individual's personality and can't view him clearly.

You gloss over his faults or refuse to face them consciously. Oh, subconsciously you have noted them, but you don't let them come into the main focus of your attention.

Besides, if you haven't dated other members of the opposite sex, you lack a social yardstick for measuring his traits.

It requires wider experience with people to give you the perspective necessary to evaluate a sweetheart properly.

In order to analyze one boy adequately, you need dates with half a dozen or even a dozen others to use for comparison.

All we mean by experience in any line, is the fact the experienced person has a bigger yardstick of specific personality or business items against which to measure any new item.

Applied to human personality, you should have a better social yardstick if you date 10 men than if you date only one man.

And never permit a boy or girl to browbeat you into a rash romance by threats of becoming a drunkard or a suicide if you don't stick to them exclusively.

Such threats indicate a juvenile type of personality and a very limited social outlook, so the very threats themselves tag their proponents as poor marriage risks.

A boy who can't face competition without hiding behind a whisky bottle, certainly is a bad prospect for marriage and fatherhood.

So pick wisely before you marry and you'll avoid divorce later. Just because his kisses give you butterflies in your stomach, is no positive assurance he will make a good husband and father.

Send for my "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus a dime.

James Marlow Says:

Hiss Leaves Jail Nov. 27, May Face New Quizzing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Alger Hiss, the ex-diplomat whose name has been used as a synonym for treason, must have thought many times as the years slid past his prison cell:

"What's in store for me? Will I be questioned again? Will I be in the headlines again? And perhaps, for something else I say or deny, will I wind up in jail again?"

He may not have to wait long for the answer. Yesterday two congressional groups—the House Un-American Activities Committee and the Senate Internal Security subcommittee—said they're thinking of calling him after he gets out of jail Nov. 27.

Hiss' career crashed to a halt when Whittaker Chambers, confessed onetime courier for a Soviet spy ring, told of secret papers he said Hiss gave him.

For denying Chambers' charges, Hiss was convicted of perjury in 1950 and started serving his five-year sentence March 22, 1951. The verdict in effect branded him a liar and traitor. He is getting out after serving 3½ years. The law provides time off for good behavior.

Hiss, a lawyer, will probably never be permitted to practice again. He's been disbarred in New York and before the Supreme Court. He has lost his citizenship rights. He can't get a passport to leave the country.

His lawyer, Chester Lane, of New York, says Hiss will try to vindicate himself.

The most Hiss could have hoped for was that he might not again have to face congressional committees or federal grand juries unless he could vindicate himself convincingly.

But there has been a fundamental change in the law—which the government may now want to use for further investigation of Hiss—since he went to jail. This year Congress passed the immunity law as a weapon against subversion.

It lets the government—Congress and federal and grand juries—grant immunity to a witness to force testimony against others.

At the time Hiss was jailed juries or committees investigating spying before, during or after the war could be blocked right and left by witnesses who refused to testify and escaped punishment by saying:

"I refuse to testify under the Fifth Amendment, which says a man can't be compelled to give testimony which might incriminate him."

Now if committees, or grand juries working with the Justice Department, want to investigate spying, they can single out one individual, perhaps a minor suspect in a spy ring, and tell him:

"We want you to tell us about this spy ring. We'll grant you immunity to punishment for anything you did. We want to use your testimony against the big shots."

A witness who refused to talk after being offered immunity could be cited for contempt and, if convicted, jailed. Before the immunity law, if he refused to answer questions under the Fifth Amendment, he couldn't be jailed for contempt.

Hiss neither refused to answer questions nor pleaded the Fifth Amendment. He denied he gave secret papers to Chambers and was convicted of lying. But the government was never able to prosecute him for spying.

Chambers said Hiss gave him the papers before the war, which was peacetime. Unless a man is tried for peacetime spying within a limited time after the offense, he can't be tried for it at all. Hiss wasn't brought to trial until five years after the war. The charge was perjury, not spying.

But there is no time limit on when a man can be tried for espionage committed in wartime. Chambers' part in the spy ring ended before the war. Hiss continued in the State Department through the war. He did not leave until 1947.

With the help of the new immunity law Congress or grand juries could reopen investigations of peacetime and wartime spying. If they do, they may want to question Hiss or grant immunity to others to learn more about him. The penalty for wartime spying is death.

If through the immunity law the government got evidence which Hiss denied under oath, although wartime spying was not involved, he might find himself confronted with a brand new perjury charge.

What makes with the Roosevelts this election? Franklin lost in New York while Jimmie copped the nod in California. And Franklin had the advantage of the Gulf Stream.

Both lads are good politicians. Maybe Franklin didn't follow campaign precedent close enough. We know he shook hands with the voters and gave loose with the cigars. Maybe he kissed the wrong babies.

Might be a good idea if Franklin looked over Jimmie's hurricane list.

Our ears were all aglow on election night when the results were being impounded by the losers. The only time the figures had a flat look was when the experts didn't get a chance to pad 'em.

Don't imagine that Franklin is out of politics. He didn't lose the low license plate on his car.

That's the real test in New York. If you can bust into the low thirties you're set. We once had BB-11 but they took it away and painted it on a fireplug.

Now that Averell Harriman clicked like bridgework in the old folks home we are asking for it back. We have seen Jim Farley in a blizzard waiting for a taxicab with a low number.

We took a couple of pokes at Harriman during the campaign but he shook it off. Just got a telegram from Averell that reads, "Bugs, nothing is too good for you." And nothing is what I'll get.

The feminine or hooligan vote for Jimmie Roosevelt was terrific. And the girls were not boisterous. Possible that they were trying to make Jimmie's all-American.

Dr. Brady Has Yet to Find Evidence That Calcium Intake Causes Deposits

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

I do not know, and I have yet to find any scientific evidence to show, whether an intake of large medicinal doses or an excessive quantity of calcium, with or without vitamin D, daily over a period of weeks or months, may cause "deposits" of calcium in any part of the body.

But that is a matter for the physician to decide — the physician who prescribes large doses of calcium.

Certainly no one has shown that the quantity of calcium, phosphorus, and vitamin D I recommend for daily consumption exceeds what nutrition authorities generally estimate as desirable to maintain optimal nutrition.

Massachusetts reader writes that for two years her husband has been supplementing his diet with the daily intake of calcium, phosphorus, and D I suggest in the pamphlet "Calcium and Rheumatiz" (for which send stamped, self-addressed envelope), and this has helped him more than anything . . . but a doctor saw the calcicaps one day and told her husband to throw them away unless he wanted to get arthritis. The doctor said that anyway calcium is needed only by pregnant women . . .

It is true that pregnant women generally need a daily ration of calcium and vitamin D to supplement their diet. Nursing mothers need it just as much. Growing children too.

It is well to remember that vitamin D is an aid to, if not essential for, the normal utilization of calcium in the body.

Many readers seem to think they are following my advice if they take calcium tablets, pills, etc., for a while.

Although many report benefits from this — understandable if you know the functions of calcium in physiology —, I regret that these half-informed people learn that calcium is good medicine for certain common complaints yet fail to learn that calcium is good food to prevent such complaints.

I do not advise people to take calcium tablets, pills, or other medicinal preparations of calcium. This is for the attending physician's judgment.

I advise only that people should eat their daily ration of calcium of course along with sufficient sunshine vitamin D to insure normal assimilation and utilization of the calcium. Ideally everyone should get his or her daily ration of calcium (which nutrition authorities estimate to be from 15 to 20 grains) from milk and other dairy products, peas, beans, greens, peanuts, and nuts; and his or her vitamin D from exposure of skin to sunshine or skyshine (daylight in the shade).

This presupposes that every child or adult consumes at least 1½ pints (three large glasses) of milk or the equivalent in such products as cheese, buttermilk, skim milk or separator milk or "fatless" milk (to you, Ninnyhammer), fancy sour milk (such as Acidophilus, Bulgarian fermented skimmed milk, Yoghurt, etc.).

No, I shall not even mention here any of the common complaints attributable to calcium deficiency. But I'll tell you what I'm going to do — I'll do almost anything for two bits, you know. Slip me 25 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope, and I'll send you Little Lesson No. 26, "The Calcium Shortage." This booklet describes the physiological functions of calcium, explains how an adequate daily ration of calcium and D keeps you supple.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Wildlife Federation Praises Congress

WASHINGTON (UP) — The National Wildlife Federation commended the 83rd Congress for its legislation on soil conservation and watershed management.

Charles H. Callison, the federation's director, praised the following congressional acts:

(1) Appropriations for a "pilot plant" program to demonstrate with small watersheds throughout the country the effectiveness of good land management and upstream water control.

(2) The Hope-Aiken Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act, which provides federal money and technical assistance to states and local agencies in small watershed management programs.

(3) Amendment of a 1937 law authorizing federal loans to farmers for soil and water conservation facilities.

(4) An income tax change permitting farmers to deduct the cost of terraces, contour farming, ponds and other conservation improvements, up to 25 per cent of their gross income.

Suggest House Fly on Postage Stamps

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—A request to picture the common house fly on postage stamps has been made to the federal government, according to Dr. Roscoe Hill.

Hill, chairman of the entomology department at the University of Nebraska, said such a stamp was proposed last November and the petition was renewed in February. The stamp was requested by the centennial commemoration committee of the profession of entomology.

Purpose of the stamp, Hill said, is to dramatize the national campaign against insect pests—not to honor the fly.

A precedent for such an issue was cited in the 1939 mosquito postal tax stamp of Mexico.

Town Residents All Due to Move Into New Place

POLLOCK, S. D. (UP) — The whole population of this town of 200 will move next summer into a new town.

The new town will be about a mile south of the present one and will be a big improvement over the present town.

The present townsite will be flooded by the waters of the Missouri River when the world's largest earth-rolled dam near Pierre, S. D., is completed.

The new town will be on the water's edge—one of only a couple of towns along a 200-mile stretch of the river that will front on the water.

It will have a water and sewer system — something the present town doesn't have.

Six Chalk Up 456 Years

HOLLAND, Mich. (UP) — Five of the 11 children born to Mr. and Mrs. Ryer De Weerd many years ago died at birth or lived only a few years. Nursing School Slams Report

Raps Mental Hospital for Blaming Slaying on Student Immaturity

GRAND RAPIDS (UP)—Mercy Central School of Nursing today sharply criticized a report issued by the Kalamazoo State Hospital on its investigation of the murder of a young student nurse Nov. 5.

The report, released at a meeting of the Michigan Commission on Metal Health last Sunday, said "immature judgment" on the part of 20-year-old Marilyn Kraai and other student nurses was a "prime factor" that caused her tragic death.

Louis Maurice Smith, 18, committed to the mental hospital as a sex deviate, confessed he trangled the yosung Holland girl and criminally assaulted her twice.

Sister Mary Xavier, director of Mercy Central School of Nursing where Miss Kraai was a student, said the report of the girl's death "left a lot of questions unanswered" and asked the mental health commission to make a complete investigation.

"After making our own investigation of the incident, we have come to the conclusion that Marilyn Kraai was not to blame for her death," Sister Xavier said.

"We feel the hospital was completely at foult for not providing adequate supervision for student nurses."

In a telegram to members of the commission, Sister Xavier said:

"The faculty and students of Mercy Central School of Nursing resent the statements in the report issued by the Kalamazoo State Hospital that 'the immaturity of the sttudent' is the main reason for the tragic death of Marilyn Kraai.

"Due to the public opinion expressed by parents, alumnae and citizens of Grand Rapids and Holland we had no recourse but to defend Mercy Central as well as nursing in general.

"We hope the Commission on Mentral Health will investigate the supervision provided for students of psychiatric affiliation and take necessary steps to improve the programs in psychiatric nursing."

Two California Cities Fete Scandinavians

LOS ANGELES (INS) — Los Angeles and Hollywood joined forces today to provide royal entertainment for visiting royalty — Prince Axel of Denmark.

The tall, gray-haired prince and the prime ministers of Denmark, Norway and Sweden embarked on three days of entertainment that will include dinner parties, visits to a Hollywood film studio and a tour of an aircraft plant.

The nobleman, prime ministers Hans Hedtoft of Denmark, Tage Erlander of Sweden, Oscar Torp of Norway and several other Scandinavians arrived in Los Angeles yesterday aboard Scandinavian Airlines' inaugural flight here from Copenhagen over the North Pole.

Tomorrow the visitors will go to Universal-International film studios for lunch, and Friday they will tour the Douglas aircraft plant, where the DC6B planes used by the Scandinavian airline are built.

1812 Model Steamboat Now Being Restored

PORT KENT, N. Y. (UP) — America's second steamboat — an old troopship from the War of 1812 —is coming back to life.

The Lake Champlain Associates are restoring the Vermont, which plied Lake Champlain two years before "Fulton's Folly" paddled up the Hudson.

The Vermont was a troop transport and supply boat during the War of 1812, and it carried British prisoners after the battle of Plattsburg. It was sunk in 1915.

Death Report Only Half True, Says Tortured Belgian Missionary

By FRED HAMPSON

HONG KONG (AP)—The Rev. Albert Sohier, Belgian Roman Catholic missionary who emerged from Red China this week, said today that the report of his death published by a church society in Belgium two years ago was only half true. He was only half dead.

Father Sohier, 39, who spent 3 years and 4 months in a Communist jail in Peiping, was released early this month and arrived here by ship. He said from a hospital bed today he did not know why the Communists arrested him nor why they released him.

He is still weak from his treatment in jail. He has a hump in his back from a dislocated vertebra which was not attended to. He has chain scars on his wrists and ankles, and slash scars on his hips and back.

He said he was tortured mostly by his Chinese cellmates, who were egged on by Communist guards. He wore ankle chains so long his legs are still partially paralyzed, but he is recovering slowly. The back injury may never be entirely corrected; doctors say it went unattended too long.

Born in the Belgian Congo, Sohier went to China more than 10 years ago. He was arrested in one of the first roundups of priests.

He was reported dead in 1952 and a pamphlet on his career and death was published in Belgium at the time. He said he was half dead at the time—from chains, beating, back injuries, endless questioning and sleeplessness.

When the Reds told him he was being released and deported, they instructed him to "tell the world that we have stopped physical torture in jails."

The Communists charged the priest with a string of offenses, from spying to sabotage, but Sohier thinks the roundup was to eliminate resistance to Peiping's reform church.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — A National Netherlands Rheumatism Fund, supported by the government and industry, has been created for use in preventing and treating rheumatism. One out of five Dutchmen in this country of canals and sea arms suffers from some form of the disease.

Ex-GM Official Dies After Long Illness

KINGSTON, N.Y. (AP) — Lester A. Tocks, 51, formerly associated with General Motors Corp. and its Buick Division at Flint, died here yesterday. He had been ill several months.

Tocks had been with General Motors since his graduation from the University of Illinois in 1929 except for 52 months he spent in the Air Force during and after World War II. He held the rank of colonel.

He came to Kingston in 1952 to take over Ulster County distributorship of Cadillac and Oldsmobile automobiles.

Lists Low Bids on Road Work

State Names Firms to Direct Four Projects in Upper Peninsula

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department has determined low bidders on four state trunkline construction projects totaling $2,240,116 in the Upper Peninsula.

The projects:

6.17 miles of grading and drainage for a dual roadway on the relocation of U.S. 41 and M 28 from Negaunee northeasterly to Marquette, A. Lindberg and Sons, Ishpeming, $1,060,138.

5.845 miles of grading, drainage and aggregate surfacing on M 26 from Rockland junction northeasterly to Greenland junction in Ontonagon County, Proksch Construction Co., Iron River, $429,727.

5.4 miles of grading, drainage and aggregate surfacing on M 35 from U.S. 41 at Baraga westerly in Baraga County, I. L. Whitehead, Sault Ste. Marie, $530,663.

3.7 miles of grading, drainage and aggregate surfacing on M 26 from Lake Roland southwesterly to 1,400 feet east of the Houghton-Ontonagon line in Houghton County, Thornton Construction Co., Hancock, $219,587.

Human feet have about 3,000 sweat pores to the square inch, especially in the area of the soles.

'WOODEN' TALK — Gretchen, life-size talking doll from the Black Forest of Germany, refused to comment on her trip as she arrived in San Francisco, Calif., escorted by Lloyd M. Coffee-Tilling Guatemala Complains of High Prices

By LAURA Z. HOBSON

ANTIGUA, Guatemala (INS) — One sure way not to make friends and influence a soul in this coffee-growing part of the world is to ask innocently, "and what makes coffee cost so much up home?"

It won't exactly make enemies, either. It'll just get you that special half-bored, half-hopeless look that says, "Please, senora, do we have to go into all that again?"

With which you'll get at least a demitasse full of the same fragrant brew of sweet talk you've been getting during any discussion—or official investigation—of the price of that wonderful stuff we Americans perk, drip, boil or filter to the tune of about two billion cups a year.

"Why, dear senora," I was told by a coffee expert here, "Our Guatemalan coffee is so pure, it's used only for blending, never alone. And it has nothing to do with setting the prices you American ladies pay. Our total annual export is only a hundred million pounds or so, about $65,000,000 worth a year. Too little to influence the market price far too little."

I knew Guatemala's supply was indeed a drop in the bucket compared to Brazil's output and the rest of Latin America's, but I was eager to hear anything new I could pick up right on coffee's stamping grounds.

As I asked further questions, I nonchalantly reached up and plucked some coffee right out of the air, right off the branch of a coffee bush rather. For this piping hot little conversation was taking place at a lush-looking "finca retana," or coffee plantation, a beautiful sight.

Coffee bushes must grow in the shade, so great trees tower above the glossy leaved bushes, which bear unripe green beans and ripe red beans at one and the same time.

Imagine an elongated deep red cranberry—that's the bean at the high moment of maturity, and a darn pretty sight for coffee fiends like me. Absent-mindedly rolling several of these beauties around in my palm, I realized that my special authority wasn't able to cook up any explanations that hadn't been on the front burner all along.

The good old "July frosts in Brazil" came into recipe again, "the middle man," and even dat ole debbil "stock manipulations." Not one of which do I know about authoritatively enough to doubt.

Except that I just mulishly do keep thinking somebody ought to put in some eggshells or something to make the mess less muddy and unclear. Anyway, when he finished I told him I'd been pricing Guatemalan coffee in the local stores in Guatemala City.

"The best," I said, "at 70 cents! Imagine."

"Not our best, senora," he said instantly. "Never at 70. For the best, we pay 90, sometimes $1 a pound ourselves. It's terrible, the high prices!"

That, senoras, is what the man said, and he sounded just about as annoyed when he said it as you and I do. Maybe he's cutting down on the amount his family drinks too!

Don't think I'm picking on him, please, nor on the 30,000 coffee growers of Guatemala nor on the hundreds in Brazil and all Latin America.

But he did leave me, I admit, with a bitter taste in my mouth to try to distill some new understanding from an on-the-spot discussion—and end up with the same old dregs of bewilderment we women have been swallowing for over a year. Sweetened by a tiny little price decrease recently, but still the same dregs at bottom.

Oh well, let's have a coffee break senoras—we'll all feel better!

Do-It-Yourself Craze Blamed for Accidents

CINCINNATI (INS) — A Labor Department official believes that the doubling of the nation's in-the-home accident rate can be blamed on the "do-it-yourself" craze.

William F. Patterson, director of the department's Bureau of Apprenticeship, told a convention of AFL carpenters recently they must convince householders it takes a professional to do the right kind of job. He blamed the bumper crop of accidents on the "tinkering" of amateurs.

More tornadoes are recorded in Kansas than in any other state.

Officer Defends Actions in Court

Was Readying Unit for War, Lieutenant Claims at Maltreatment Trial

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP)—A 24-year-old Korean War veteran, charged with maltreating and humiliating the men of his first command as an officer, says he was only concerned with having them ready for combat.

The veteran, 2nd Lt. Charles C. Anderson, denied the charges leveled at him at the 10-officer court-martial. And a prosecution witness, Pvt. Moses Walker, testified yesterday that he resented Anderson's actions but "I consider him a good officer."

Walker, third witness to appear, said with the appearance of Anderson "the company shaped up . . and became more orderly."

Anderson, a member of the 275th Wolfhound Regiment of the 25th Infantry Division in Korea, won a commission at Ft. Benning and was assigned to Camp Gordon, where he was placed in command of Co. A, 1st Infantry Training Regiment.

Trainees bringing charges against Anderson were: Pvt. Alvin A. Gates, 18, Cana, Va.; Pvt. Rodney R. Steele, 24, Montgomery, Ala.; Pvt. Paul T. Ferguson, 17, Coatesville, Pa.; and Pvt. Jesse A. Wyatt, 18, Bessemer, Ala.

The charges stated that Anderson forced two trainees to climb a tree and shout "I am a ---- bird," and that he ordered a wooden cross placed in the mouth of a trainee who fell prostrate after doing "excessive" physical exercises.

Walker testified he was ordered by the lieutenant to "string up" Wyatt by the ankles from a tree after Wyatt had struggled with a sergeant.

Earlier, Gates had accused Anderson of forcing him to do about 140 pushups because "I said I liked the Army."

Anderson said he "was trying to shape up the men . . . within the short time allotted. I had less than two weeks to do it after I was selected for this assignment.

"When the company completed basic training it was an honor company."

Michigan Restaurants Serve Butter, Not Oleo

LANSING (UP)—Very few Michigan restaurants are taking advantage of a state law which allows them to serve oleomargerine instead of butter, an Agriculture Department survey indicates.

The department made a spot check of 146 eating places in Wayne County and found that only three served oleo. In 36 of the restaurants, oleo was used in the preparation of food, but was not served to patrons.

Under state law, restaurants may substitute oleo for butter if they post signs to that effect, mention it in the menu, and cut the oleo in triangular patties.

Tale's End Is Happy One for Queen of Cow Show

TORONTO (UP)—Beulah, an aging blueblood, was selected as a beauty queen Tuesday despite the fact she lost her wig before the judges.

Beulah was lined up with other Holstein contestants when a judge gave her tail a friendly pull and the end came off.

The other judges decided the false switch her owner had added only enhanced her natural charm and she was voted one of the three best aged and uddered cows in the lineup.

Canvassers to Declare Winners of Election

LANSING (AP) — The State Board of Canvassers will meet Monday morning to officially declare the winners of the Nov. 2 general election.

Robert M. Montgomery, state elections director, said plans to canvass returns from the 83 counties on Thursday had been delayed by a holdup of the Wayne County returns but that they were expected in time to complete the process Monday.

Set 11th Conference

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The eleventh Ann Arbor Conference will be held at the University of Michigan Dec. 9-10 to discuss "The American Consumer" and his influence and reaction toward the design of mass produced goods. The event is jointly sponsored by the university's College of Architecture and Design and Boston's Institute of Contemporary Art. Both institutions are working on the importance of market research in design.

Wildlife Federation Sets International Meeting

WASHINGTON (UP) — International aspects of wildlife management in North America will be stressed at the next annual convention of the National Wildlife Federation to be held in Montreal, Quebec, March 11-13, 1955.

The National Wildlife Federation is an organization of state conservation federations and sportsmen's leagues with affiliates in 47 states.

British Diplomat Sent to Woo Tito

Sir Frank Roberts Gets Yugoslavia Assignment to Keep Russia Away

LONDON (UP)—Sir Frank Roberts long Foreign Office authority on Soviet policy, is on his way to take up his new job as British ambassador to Yugoslavia.

Observers say his mission is to do all he can to keep President Marshal Tito's Red government independent of the Soviet bloc, from which it broke away in 1948.

Roberts is a 47-year-old career diplomat regarded as one of the brightest stars in the British foreign service.

Since 1951, he had been deputy undersecretary in the Foreign Office. He served as minister in Moscow from 1945 to 1947.

He is known as the man who probably did most of the actual drafting of the agreements reached at the nine-nation conference on Western defense here in September. Through quiet persuasion, he contributed much toward eliminating snags.

Friends say he is going to Yugoslavia convinced that Moscow's five years of reviling Tito as a British-American henchman, plus the Kremlin's economic blockade of Yugoslavia, will make the marshal think twice before softening to Russia's current efforts to woo him back.

Last Indian Fighter Dies in Detroit on Tuesday

DETROIT (UP) — George A. Lewis, 96, Indian fighter and Michigan's oldest Spanish-American War veteran, died here Tuesday.

Lewis was born in Cleveland and enlisted in the Army in 1883. He retired in 1904 with the rank of sergeant-major.

8-Year-Old Pays Mom's Parking Ducat on the Sly

AUBURN, N. Y. (UP) — Mom didn't know it, but an eight-year-old boy paid a parking ticket here.

The boy came running down the street as a policeman put a 50-cent parking ticket on his mother's car.

"I was supposed to watch the meter while she went shopping," he said. "I'll get the devil if she finds out."

The boy offered to pay the ticket himself—10 cents down, 40 cents on the installment plan. Police agreed. They even promised to withhold his name, so his mother wouldn't find out.

Saturday Service Set for State Official

DETROIT (UP) — Services will be held here Saturday for Charles M. A. Martin, 52, Attorney General Frank Millard's assistant who collapsed and died as he was about to enter his Detroit office yesterday.

Martin, who was pronounced dead after firemen's attempts to revive him failed, had been under a doctor's care for a heart ailment.

He was a native of Bay City and joined the attorney general's staff in 1943. He served as counsel for the Department of Revenue, the Liquor Commission and the Public Service Commission.

A veteran of 15 years in state service, Martin began his public service in 1939 with the auto title division of the secretary of state's office. He is survived by his wife, Mary Louise, and four daughters.

Japan Making War Swords as Art Objects

TOKYO (UP)—They are making the Samurai sword in Japan again. But now it is an "object of art," not a weapon of war. Occupation authorities banned the manufacture of the deadly two-handed sword, which dates back to Medieval times.

A thousand sword makers turned to the manufacture of farm implements, and other goods. Now Juko Miyaguchi, 57, and his son, swordsmiths, have finished the first Samurai sword made since the war.

It was ordered by the Education Ministry as a move to preserve the art of sword making as a cultural heritage.

New Drug Acts on 'Worst Pain'

Stilbamidine Relieves Suffering From Facial Nerve Ailment

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The "worst pain in the world" is being stopped by curious new drug described today to the American College of Surgeons.

The pain comes from a nerve ailment in the face—tic douloureux—fairly common after 40. Attacks can least steadily for two to three weeks. Victims can't eat, or even shave. Some commit suicide from the agony. Many doctors agree with victims that it's the worst pain in the world.

Surgery cutting the face nerve has been the best remedy. But that causes loss of all sensation in one side of the face, sometimes leads to eye complications and loss of an eye.

A fairly new drug, stilbamidine, seems to paralyze or somehow strike at the face nerve causing all the pain. And it apparently acts only on that nerve.

The clue that stilbamidine might be good came after it had been given to people suffering from internal fungus diseases. These patients after a time said their cheeks felt numb.

That gave Dr. George W. Smith, neurosurgeon of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, and Dr. Joseph M. Miller, Veterans Administration Hospital, Fort Howard, Md., the idea of trying it against tic douloureux.

The drug has completely banished pain in 15 of the first 16 patients treated, Smith said. The first patient so far has been free of pain for 25 months. One of the 16 has had 80 per cent relief of pain, but he may have some other condition besides the nerve trouble.

How permanent the pain-killing is remains to be seen. The attacks usually come every five or six months at least. Other medical treatments haven't extended that freedom period much more than six months.

Stilbamidine works in a curious way. Daily doses are given only for the first 14 days. After a week, the pain starts to go away, but it comes back after about two weeks. Then — with no more drug given —the pain disappears one to four months after treatment had started.

Why the drug behaves this way is not clear, Smith said.

Deputy Sheriff Halts Mickey Mouse's Trip

WAYNE (UP)— Wayne County sheriff's deputy halted an excursion to Detroit by "Mickey Mouse" yesterday.

The deputy, Robert Fleming, saw a tyke hitchhiking along the Willow Run expressway near Detroit-Wayne Major Airport. He stopped and picked him up.

"My name's Mickey Mouse," the hitchhiker said. "I'm five years old and I'm going to Detroit to see my mamma. Keep driving, I'll tell you where to stop."

Fleming knew where to stop—at the road patrol headquarters.

After "Mickey" displayed the appetite of an elephant by gulping down five candy bars, three hot dogs and two bottles of milk, his mother called.

3-Year-Old Loses Arm After Accident on Farm

BAD AXE (UP)—A three-year-old boy lost his left arm as the result of a farm accident near here Tuesday.

Jerry Hiller, son of Clayton Hiller, had his left arm amputated at the elbow at Hubbard Memorial Hospital after it was mangled in a corn elevator.

Jerry's father, who was operating the elevator, said he did not know how the accident happened.

Stickup Man Escapes, Tacks Foil Pursuers

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — A scar-faced hoodlum armed with an automatic pistol and a pocketful of tacks, held up the Household Finance Co. office here yesterday and escaped with $577.

After taking the money from cash drawers, the bandit ordered office manager J. J. Boreski and three women to take off their shoes. He piled the shoes in a hallway and threw the tacks on the floor to discourage pursuit.

Hatcher Approves Navy Debating Ban

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. Harlan H. Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan, said yesterday he "tended to favor" a Defense Department order forbidding cadets and midshipmen from taking part in inter-collegiate debates on U. S. recognition of Red China.

Dr. Hatcher said:

"The midshipmen are under strict military discipline and in a service which is traditionally policy-enforcing, not policy-making."

"Such an order would be incredible if applied to other schools," Dr. Hatcher said, "but in regard to the academy you must consider that the subject is extremely sensitive and the students involved are military personnel."

Dr. Hatcher's statement came in reply to a request from the Evening Sun of Baltimore asking for comment on the order from members of the Naval Academy Board of Visitors, a group of 15 educators, congressmen, senators and businessmen which serves the academy in an advisory capacity.

America's Classic Murder Trials

Lawyer Darrow Created Sensation in Saving Thrill-Killers Loeb, Leopold

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
INS Staff Writer

The Loeb-Leopold case, which broke in Chicago in 1924 and added luster to the famous name of the great criminal lawyer Clarence Darrow, was a nationwide sensation.

It started out to be a "perfect crime" by two thrill-seeking college graduates, Richard Loeb, 18, and Nathan Leopold, 19.

They committed the premeditated "murder for a thrill" of 14-year-old Bobby Franks, whom they picked at random from a schoolyard. They bludgeoned the boy to death, stuffed his naked body in a culvert and sent a $10,000 note to his wealthy father.

But "murder will out." They were caught.

The so-called "perfect crime" wound up in courtroom proceedings at which the eloquent Darrow, the foremost labor and criminal lawyer of his day and a lifelong foe of capital punishment, saved Loeb and Leopold from the hangman's noose.

Darrow's defense of what many people called "the indefensible" was the climactic legal feat of his remarkable career. Instead of dying on the gallows, Loeb and Leopold were sentenced to life imprisonment for murder and 99 years for kidnaping.

. . Loeb is dead, having been stabbed to death in prison by another inmate in 1936. Leopold, now 49 years old, is still doing time as convict 9306-D in the Stateville Penitentiary in Illinois.

The dramatic trial, and particularly Darrow's defense, was followed closely by the American reading public. During the course of the proceedings, such words as "schizophrenic" and "split personality," as applied to Loeb and Leopold, became household words.

Of all the murders in Chicago's history, the slaying of the Franks boy was easily the favorite study of crime anthologists.

Both Loeb and Leopold were brilliant youths with high IQ's. Leopold had been graduated from the University of Chicago at 18, Loeb from the University of Michigan at 17. Each was the youngest and cleverest student in his class.

Their families were wealthy. "Dickie" Loeb's father was a millionaire Sears Roebuck vice president. As a child, Loeb had a passion for deceit. He lied and cheated and stole for the fun of getting away with it. Leopold was a perverted type with delusions of grandeur.

Leopold regarded Loeb as his "king" and himself as Loeb's "superslave." When Loeb, bored with committing small crimes, decided to perpetrate a more interesting crime — murder — Leopold readily agreed to help.

For several months they plotted what they thought would be "the perfect crime."

On the afternoon of May 21, 1924, at about 5 o'clock, little Bobby Franks set out for home from the exclusive Harvard School for Boys on Chicago's South Side. He lived only four blocks away. He never reached home.

That night, while the boy's father, Jacob Franks, was at police headquarters reporting the disappearance of his son, a telephone call came to Mrs. Franks at her home. The male voice said to her:

"Your boy has been kidnaped. But he's safe. Don't tell police. Instructions will follow."

Next day the boy's father received a typewritten letter assuring him the boy was safe and that no harm would befall the child if instructions were followed.

The letter demanded $10,000 in $20 and $50 bills and directed Franks to have the money ready in a cigar box by 1 p.m. when he would receive further instructions.

Franks withdrew $10,000 from the bank. He was at home waiting for further word from the kidnapers when his brother-in-law, Edwin Greshman, telephoned to tell him he was on his way to the morgue to view the body of a boy whose description closely tallied with that of Bobby.

The body was subsequently identified as that of Bobby Franks.

For turning up clues that led to the solution of the case, two young Chicago newspaper reporters won the Pulitzer Prize. They were Alvin H. Goldstein, now stationed in New York as staff correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and the late James Mulroy, who was then on the Chicago Daily News.

Seven days after Bobby had vanished "Babe" Leopold and "Dickie" Loeb were arrested. They tried to outsmart the police at first but finally confessed.

The two briliant youths, spoiled darlings of rich parents, admitted that this was a crime for crime's sake—a crime for "a thrill."

"We had read about the thrill of murder, the greatest thrill in the world, and we wanted to know what it was like," they said.

Loeb and Leopold had induced little Bobby to get into a hired car. As it raced through Chicago's streets, Leob hit their captive over the head three times with a carpenter's chisel.

He then forced a cloth into Bobby's mouth. They had not intended to kill him until they reached the railroad yards, where they planned to strangle him with a rope. But Bobby was dead when they arrived there.

So they sprayed hydrochloric acid on his face with the idea of destroying his features to delay identification of the body, which they tossed into a culvert.

The trial of the pair for the kidnap-murder aroused great public interest. Into the picture as defense counsel for Loeb and Leopold came Darrow, then 67.

Darrow took the case not for money but because of his natural inclination to help the weak, the underdog. He was subjected to bitter criticism but did not seem to mind.

Wise old Darrow played possum in allowing State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, an able prosecutor, to prepare his case. It admittedly was a strong one, for Crowe had the youths' confessions in his pocket and had lined up alienists who would testify that Loeb and Leopold were legally sane.

Crowe anticipated that Darrow would plead his clients "not guilty by reason of insanity," and lay his plea before a jury.

The day for pleading came. Chief Justice John R. Caverly took his place on the bench. Darrow, a commanding figure in baggy, unpressed clothing, rose and stood before the court. In the hushed courtroom he said in his resonant voice:

"If your honor please, we plead guilty. We merely desire to offer evidence of degree of responsibility. Having done this, we will throw ourselves upon the mercy of the court. The defense fully realizes the defendants should be permanently isolated from society."

The clever Darrow by this plea had sidestepped the need for a jury. He had won the first round. Crowe felt he had been tricked and thwarted.

The state called 33 witnesses. Darrow countered with witnesses of his own, including mental experts who portrayed the defendants as nasty specimens—Leopold who lusted to play "slave" to a handsome, homosexual "king," Loeb.

Judge Caverly took two weeks to arrive at his decision: That Loeb and Leopold be imprisoned for life for murder and 99 years for kidnaping.

Darrow had won. Leob and Leopold were not to be hanged.

Loeb, as stated previously, was later knifed to death in prison by a fellow inmate.

Leopold still is incarcerated at Stateville Prison, Joliet, Ill., where he works as an X-ray technician in the prison hospital. An atheist when he entered prison, Leopold now professes a deep religious faith. In jail he has gained a reading knowledge of 18 languages, including Sanskrit, Oscan and Umbain.

Leopold asked for a parole in April 1949 on the ground he was no longer a "wild, irresponsible kid," and that he had "changed completely." His application, however, was denied by the Illinois Parole Board. Leopold was again denied parole in May 1953.

Darrow and Judge Caverly are dead. Only Leopold survives of the major figures in the Leob-Leopold case.

Drug Official Tells Civitans Salk Tests Will Be Success

DR. HARVEY M. MERKER

By JOSEPH K. SFAIR

The Salk polio vaccine test will show "satisfactory results" when the final reports are made, Dr. Harvey M. Merker, director of scientific relations for Parke, Davis Co., confided yesterday at the weekly meeting of the Pontiac Civitan Club.

Also speaking before other physicians at the meeting held in the Hotel Pontiac, Dr. Merker also revealed that the vaccine will be produced in larger quantities after next spring, enough for an additional 18 million persons.

Dr. Merker, outlining the "fantastic progress of medicine from the time of the ancients," told the group that scientists recently learned that by utilizing kidneys of monkeys with 72 different items yielded the discovery of the polio vaccine after many trials and errors.

Trustee and past president of the Detroit Institute of Cancer Research, Dr. Merker, holding before the group a small bottle with a brown liquid fluid containing 35 million dead polio viruses, said,

"We have had to go into the monkey business—medicine is that way. We have even changed our farm in Rochester to a monkey farm in order to learn more about the disease." He said next year's supply of the vaccine will be 60 tons.

He noted that from preliminary reports about the vaccine, "We're on the right track. But will have to wait for the final reports from the University of Michigan on the present test.

Dr. Merker, also governor of the Rackham Research Foundation at Michigan State College, said that science also is finding good results with the recently discovered "Cobalt 60" in some cancer treatment. He said the cobalt charge penetrates the body six inches whereas before other methods were less effective.

About recent cigarette - cancer controversy, Dr. Merker explained: "Smoking is only one of the contributory causes of cancer. Other causes he said are foul air and exhaust fumes. No proof that smoking is the only and main cause has been furnished yet."

Within the next two months, he added, conclusive data will be furnished on the subject by the American Cancer Society which, presently is involved in research on the matter.

Dr. Merker deplored the health conditions in Asian countries, saying, "Only $9 million is given to the UN World Health Organization for the ill in these deprived countries, whereas $300 million finances one of our battle ships.

"We wouldn't have to worry about such things as Communism if the people of those countries were given the help and means to live in better conditions. In their present state, they will accept anything."

The doctor, who also has six honorary doctor's degrees, concluded, "Although we have made outstanding progress in medicine, we still don't know anything about the common cold."

2 Mystery Deaths Mar State Hunting

hunter seen in the marsh area where Mrs. Wettberg's body was found. She had gone hunting alone, leaving a dinner cooking at her nearby home.

Other gunfire victims of the four-day-old deer season were Richard D. Sexton, 17, of Negaunee and Arny (Sparky) Hale of Flint. Rudolf Franson, 47, of Ishpeming was killed in a pre-season mishap when a pistol accidentally discharged at a Marquette County hunting camp.

Five other hunters have died of heart attacks. The latest reported death was that of Marion E. Payne, 65, of Royal Oak.

Payne was stricken Tuesday afternoon after bagging a deer in Wexford County. He died Wednesday in Mercy Hospital, Cadillac.

Another late fatality was Walter Fraser, 47, Utica. He was stricken by a heart attack while hunting in Luce County in the Upper Peninsula.

More names to be added to the wounded-injured list were those of Robert Losie, 32, Port Huron; Charles Buckner, 23, Battle Creek; George Urban, 30, Detroit, and James L. Ward, 28, Belleville.

Conservation officers predicted this year's death and injury toll would run "about average" to that of last year. During the 1953 season, there was one death for every 26,000 hunters and one wounding for every 7,700 hunters.

To Ask New Vote on City Pensions

returned to the city by A. G. Gabriel, a Detroit tax expert, the important clause was lacking.

City Attorney William A. Ewart said he attached the final draft to the resolution, asking the Commission to place it before the voters.

Ewart said he "wouldn't even as much as copy it for fear of making an error in the draft." The drafting of the amendment requires highly technical knowledge by an actuary who is usually employed by several cities at one time.

Meanwhile, Shigley, whose last week's resignation will become effective Dec. 31, is still awaiting reinstatement to the force.

Neither Police Chief Herbert W. Straley nor City Manager Walter K. Willman would comment on Shigley's reinstatement.

ber said showed "no blood", and a rust-stained dirty T-shirt found near the Sheppard home and likewise having no blood spots. The T-shirt was picked up the day of the murder in a search by police for Sheppard's missing T-shirt witnesses said Sheppard wore on the night of the killing.

Corrigan blasted Gerber for failing to test carpeting in the Sheppard house for blood stains on the day of the slaying, and Gerber responded:

"I didn't see anything I thought was blood, but I didn't get on my hands and knees to go over the carpeting completely."

The defense counsel then asked if it wasn't a comparatively simple matter to expose stains in the dark by using a "luminal" spray.

The coroner said it was considerably more complicated than Corrigan made out, and in the interchange asserted:

"You're 100 per cent wrong... Luminal must be used with absolute care."

Senate May Ballot Friday on Censure

McCarthy for his treatment of the elections subcommittee.

McCarthy went unannounced to the hospital yesterday for treatment of his right elbow. Aides said it was painfully bruised when banged against a glass table top last Saturday when he was shaking hands at a testimonial dinner in Milwaukee.

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP leader, said he expects to learn later in the day whether McCarthy plans a formal speech before any vote is taken and when he can return to the Senate sessions.

By letter, telegram and postcard, many senators are being advised how to vote on the bitterly contested issue.

Auto Official Predicts 5,500,000 Cars in 1955

WASHINGTON (AP) — An official of the Ford Motor Co. predicted yesterday that the automobile industry will make five and a half million passenger cars next year, making 1955 the third best year in the industry's history.

L. W. Smead, general sales manager of the company's Ford Division, told a news conference that 1955 production will be topped only by 1950 and 1953. About six million cars were made in 1950—the industry's best year.

Claims Accused Lieutenant Was Outstanding Officer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP)—A young Army lieutenant on military trial for maltreatment of enlisted men has been described by two senior officers at Camp Gordon as an outstanding officer who "shaped up" a previously shoddy company of trainees.

Their testimony came yesterday after three privates took the stand to tell of incidents that occurred when 2nd Lt. Charles G. Anderson was assigned to Company A following his graduation from officer candidate school at Ft. Benning.

Pvt. James M. Blount, New York City, told the court-martial that Anderson ordered him to shovel dirt on Pvt. Rodney R. Steele, 24, Montgomery, Ala., while the company was on bivouac. Blount said he covered Steele with dirt but that the lieutenant, noting Steele's face uncovered except for pineneedles, ordered that dirt be thrown over his face.

Anderson also has been accused of having one trainee strung up by his ankles, of having another scrubbed with sand in a wet rag, and of having two others climb a tree and shout an obscene and self-abusive phrase.

Lt. Col. Morris B. Montgomery testified that Anderson and Lt. Robert Penland of the same company were "the two most outstanding officers I had in my command" who were not already company commanders.

Future of Saar Is Tops on List

French Premier Hopes for Answers to Twenty World Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Visiting French Premier Mendes-France takes a world-girdling list of 20 problems—and his reputation as a shrewd bargainer—to his opening discussions with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles today.

When he flew into Washington last night, the stocky, energetic French leader said he came "in a spirit of optimism." He said he was confident that "France, in concert with your great country and the other allies, can assure the safety and development of our common civilization."

The future of the Saar, rich industrial borderland between France and Germany, may put Mendes-Frances' diplomatic powers to the stiffest test of all the 20 questions he plans to discuss here.

He reportedly wants the United States to support at any future German peace conference the compromise arrangements made in Paris last month. Under these the Saar would be "Europeanized" but still tied economically to France. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is having trouble getting his countrymen to accept the arrangement.

Although U.S. officials are uncommitted on some of Mendes-France's long-range policies, he was greeted warmly yesterday by Vice President Nixon and Dulles.

Topics proposed for top-level discussion, besides the Saar, include U.S. plans for helping finance the French expeditionary force in non-Communist Indochina and for continuing purchases of military equipment in France for the foreign aid program.

They also cover virtually the whole field of current diplomacy, including relations with the Soviet bloc, the French Premier's plan for an arms pool among the countries in the proposed Western European Austrian peace treaty, the outlook in North Africa, where nationalists are restive under French rule, and long-range plans for economic betterment of Southeast Asia.

These will be the main topic at discussions beginning today between the French premier—who also holds the portfolio of foreign minister—the president and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

The whirlwind two-day discussions will get under way at a noon meeting with Mr. Eisenhower at the White House. Afterward, the trio will have lunch with other top U.S. officials and Congressional leaders.

In mid-afternoon Mendes-France will begin formal discussions on specific problems with Dulles and his advisors.

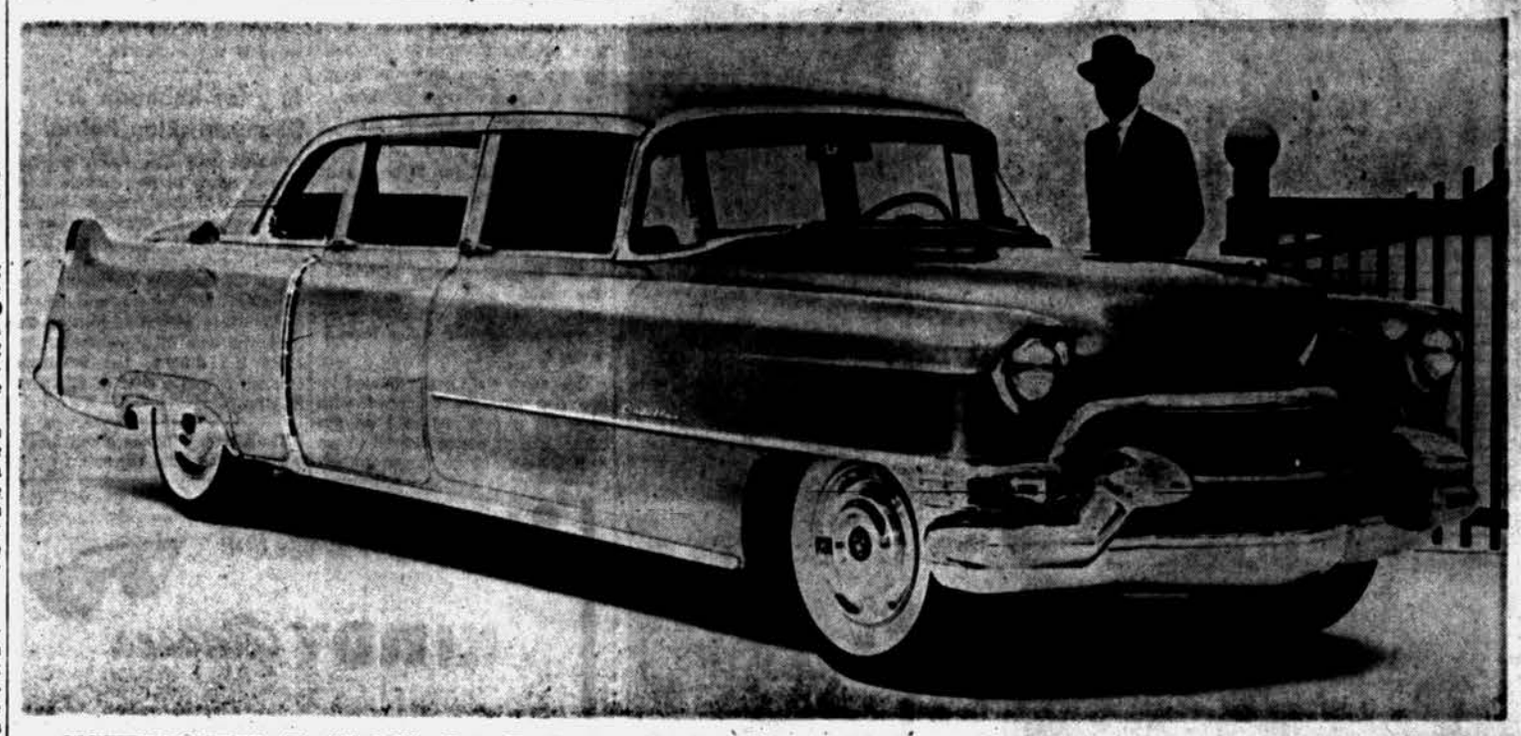

Institutions Buying More State Food

LANSING (AP) — State Controller John W. Lederle said today the state's effort to use more Michigan farm products in state institutions is getting results.

He said more than $100,000 worth of home-grown products have been purchased so far and more purchases are in the offing.

Lederle reported that in the past the state has been limited to buying small amounts of canned goods from jobbers because it lacked storage space. Improved storage facilities now make it possible to buy in larger quantities from canners.

He said the State Department of Administration has worked with the Michigan Canners and Freezers Association to interest Michigan canners in bidding on the state's needs and has persuaded a number of canners to use institution-sized cans to make their product available for state bids.

OK Seen for Reserve-Draft Plan

WASHINGTON (INS) — The National Security Council is expected to approve next week a Pentagon plan for a reserve-draft as a substitute for the controversial Universal Military Training program.

The council, the nation's top policy-making body, is scheduled to put its okay on the program at its meeting next Monday or Tuesday.

Under the proposal, some 50,000 to 100,000 draftees would receive six months' basic training and then would be required to serve in reserve units for perhaps 10 years.

The reserve obligation for those who serve two years on active duty is expected to remain at six years, but to be made compulsory.

Informants said the proposed reserve-draft is in line with the Pentagon's search for ways to create "equity" in selective service.

They said the defense department will also recommend an extension of selective service—which ends, under present law, next June 30—but no time limit has been set.

Some officials believe Congress will agree on either a 2 or 4-year continuance after next year's expiration date to avoid election-year repercussions.

In some quarters the new reserve-draft was viewed as universal military training under another name. UMT generally has been regarded as "political dynamite" on Capitol Hill.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson reportedly has approved the proposed plan after first dissenting on grounds that the Armed Forces needs reservists with more than six months training.

Wilson indicated that some last-minute changes may be made. It is possible that the new draftees may be taken from a younger age group.

Federal law sets the present limit at 18½ years, but most states have been able to fill their quotas with 20-year-olds and above.

The proposal, in general, is designed to make certain that ex-servicemen in the future actually go into reserve components.

Although present regulations require reserve duty, this provision has been more honored in the breach than the observance.

To put teeth into the rule, the proposal would maintain the current 8-year limit for active-reserve work, but would permit the Pentagon to recall to active service those who do not enter reserves.

The Reserve Officers Assn long has contended that the Defense Department has this authority.

One reason for the laxity in the enforcement of reserve duty is that veterans' organizations feel that men who have been in combat should not be compelled to serve in the components.

Pentagon officials said, however, that the proposal is expected to meet these objections.

House Committee May Call Alger Hiss for Testimony

WASHINGTON (INS) — The House Un-American Activities Committee faces a showdown today whether Alger Hiss will be recalled to testify following his release from prison Nov. 27.

Chairman Harold Velde (R-Ill) told newsmen he is "inclined to have an investigator check first with Hiss to find out if he has anything to say."

Velde said: "If there is a possibility of getting any information from him, then I would be glad to have him appear before the committee."

There was a posisbility, however, that the Justice Department might ask all congressional committees to refrain from calling Hiss as a witness at the present time.

One source pointed out that any testimony from the former high State Department official might injure chances for a possible second case against him or could otherwise interfere with government plans in the internal security field.

Another official pointed out that an appearance by the still-controversial Hiss would give him an unexcelled platform for once again protesting his innocence before the world. The famous prisoner has repeatedly maintained that he was the victim of a "frame-up."

Hiss was convicted in 1950 and sentenced to five years imprisonment on a charge of perjury following two trials and months of testimony before the House committee. He is to be released after only three years because of good behavior.

The move to recall Hiss before the committee was instigated by Rep. Kit Clardy (R-Mich), who said he wants to learn how much influence Hiss had on the Yalta talks between the late President Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill, and the late Soviett Premier Josef Stalin.

Clardy said he also believes the committee should determine the extent of Hiss' influence at the United Nations charter conference in San Francisco and within the State Department as a whole. The Michigan congressman, who was defeated in this month's election, said Hiss also should "tell how he got Communists into the U.N."

Berle Rests Up After Collapse in Restaurant

NEW YOR K(INS) — Television comedian Milton Berle was resting comfortably at his New York home today from the effects of an early morning collapse brought on by fatigue and indigestion.

Irving Gray, Berle's manager, said the comedian is "completely exhausted and has been ordered to bed by his doctor."

He added that the physician said Berle was suffering from a "combination of fatigue, the usual tensions of a very tough day of rehearsals and performance, and indigestion."

Berle collapsed in Linday's Restaurant on Broadway while seated with his wife, Ruth, producer-writer Norman Krasna and Mrs. Krasna, TV writer Larry Gelbart and singer Pat Marshall.

He turned "almost white" and had to be assisted to a rest room, where a physician examined him.

Berle will spend the next few days at home.

Question Mother, 17, on Beating of Infant

MOUNT CLEMENS (UP) — A three-month-old Centerline boy lay in critical condition at Detroit Children's Hospital today while authorities here questioned his 17-year-old mother about how he suffered the injuries.

Doctors said the boy, George Sharpe, had a "50-50 chance" to recover from a blood clot on the brain. Centerline police filed a petition in probate court asking that the boy be removed from the custody of his young mother, Mrs. Virginia Sharpe.

Judge Joseph V. Trombly set Dec. 3 as a hearing date on the petition.

Doctors said George had suffered head injuries "as a result of beating." A roomer in the Sharpe home told police Mrs. Sharpe beat the boy because he cried.

Cadillac Plans for Better Year

Introduces New Models After Record Output of 123,000 in '54

Major engineering refinements, coupled with new styling, feature the 1955 Cadillac models, announced today by Don E. Ahrens, general manager of Cadillac and a GM vice president.

Cadillac anticipates an additional sales gain in the coming year after an all-time record production of 123,000 units for the division in the 1954 calendar year.

Engineering features include the development of a new 250 horsepower overhead valve V-8 engine with a compression ratio of 9 to 1.

Tubeless tires are standard equipment on all models.

Standard equipment on the 1955 Cadillac also includes power steering, dual range Hydra-Matic Transmission, wheel discs, and automatic windshield washer and coordinator.

The new cars will be offered in the 62 Series, the Fleetwood 60 Series, and in the Eldorado, a special production car powered by a 270 horsepower engine.

All new in design, the Eldorado with its saber spoked wheels is finished in one of four special colors—Alpine White, Silver, Bahama Blue or Copper. This model may also be obtained in any of the 1955 standard production colors.

Center door pillars on the Fleetwood Series 60 Special Sedan have been made much narrower than normally used on sedan models. The over-all width of the center pillar including door frames is 2⅝ inches compared with 5¼ inches last year.

Optional equipment includes redesigned power brakes, air conditioning, signal seeking pre-selector radio, heater and defroster, E-Z Eye glass, Autronic Eye, white sidewall tires, power window lifts and horizontal power seat adjustment, vertical front seat adjuster, fog lamps, saber spoke wheels, and specially styled license plate frames.

Chinese Reds Raid Nationalist Island

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Communist bombers reopened the vest pocket war today with a raid on Pei Yu Island north of the Tachen group, the Nationalist Defense Ministry announced.

The ministry said four bombers, escored by six fighter planes, dropped more than 20 bombs on the Nationalist outpost, inflicting several casualties.

The communique said Nationalist antiaircraft batteries drove off the Reds with intense fire. It quoted an eyewitness as saying one of the attacking planes was probably hit.

Pei Yu is 35 miles north of the Tachens and 170 miles south of Shanghai. The Tachens are some 200 miles north of Formosa.

Detroit Trucker Found Dead on Indiana Road

MARION, Ind. (AP)—The body of a 28-year-old Detroit man was found yesterday in the cab of a truck parked about nine miles south of here.

Police identified the body as that of Jack E. Ham of 1217 Cherrylawn.

Coroner Henry Alderfer said death apparently was caused by carbon monoxide poisoning but an autopsy would be performed.

House Un-American Committee Plans Test of New Immunity Law

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House un-American Activities Committee today planned to test the newly-passed immunity law to obtain answers from a Flint man about possible Communist affiliations.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) proposed that the committee attempt to use the new law to obtain information from James E. Coleman after Coleman had refused to testify before the committee yesterday by invoking the Fifth Amendment.

Rep. Kit Clardy (R-Mich.), who was presiding, directed the committee staff to obtain immunity for Coleman if he would agree to answer questions.

It appeared unlikely, however, that Coleman would agree.

The immunity law approved by Congress at the last session permits congressional committees to obtain, through the attorney general, court orders granting immunity where witnesses testify freely.

The committee then ordered Coleman to return for more questioning later and called other witnesses.

Earlier in the session Robert A. Carter, regional director of the CIO United Auto Workers at Flint, said his union could not expel Communists although it could keep them from holding office.

Carter said the Taft-Hartley Law prohibits the union from refusing membership cards to persons on grounds that they are Communists.

Committee members made it clear they were not suggesting that Carter was engaged in Communist activities. He was questioned primarily about a speech before the Lions Club in Flint in which he said that the committee, at its hearings in Michigan last May, did not expose any Communists not already known to union officials.

The present hearings are a continuation of the Michigan hearings.

Carter said the union was aware that 27 alleged Communists had been planted in various auto industry firms in a program of "colonization." But he said he has no legal evidence to prove that the 27 actually are Communists.

Later, the committee called Mollie Baumkel, Flint, who said she works for the AC Spark Plug division of General Motors.

Mrs. Baumkel, who said she is the mother of three small children, refused to answer questions about alleged Communist party affiliations.

She said she was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1929 but declined to answer questions about when and where she was married on the grounds that they were not pertinent.

Clardy told her he felt she was in contempt of Congress for refusing to answer the questions on those grounds. She invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about Communist affiliations, if any.

OLYMPIC PARADE UNIFORMS — Models John Condon and Mimi York pose in parade uniform styles slated for wearing by the U. S. Olympic team at Pan-American games in Mexico City, March, 1955. S. team will be outfitted at no cost to the Olympic Committee.

Police Seize 4 in Gaming Raid

Notorious Underworld Figures Among Those Nabbed in Detroit

DETROIT (UP)—Detroit Police were holding four persons, including two notorious underworld figures, today on charges of violation of the state's gambling laws.

Police arrested hoodlum Louis Jacobs, 40, William Fisher, alias Miller, 60, Mrs. Rae Fisher, 46, and Alton Davis, 36, in a raid on Mrs. Fisher's home yesterday.

Lt. Eugene Gelbig, who led the raid, said it had been planned for last night but was moved up because police feared a leak.

The police were accompanied by two dog catchers equipped with nets. On a previous raid on the house, which police described as a handbook, Mrs. Fisher turned a German shepherd dog loose on them and thwarted the raid.

Officers confiscated $1,600 in cash, Jacobs' car and gambling paraphernalia, according to Inspector Clayton Nowlin.

Jacobs has been arrested more than 30 times in the last 23 years but has been convicted only three times. Fisher has been arrested for investigation of crimes ranging from murder to disturbing the peace.

Mrs. Jacobs and Davis have no previous police records.

Jury for Robinson Jr. Dismissed; Plan Retrial

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UP)—Unable to agree in the robbery trial of Edward G. Robinson Jr., a jury has been discharged. The son of the movie actor will appear Feb. 14 for retrial.

The 21-year-old defendant was accused of robbing two taxi drivers of $38. They identified him as the man who took their money in separate holdups, but Robinson claimed it was a case of mistaken identity.

The planet Pluto is about 3,666,000,000 miles from the sun.

Noel Field, Just Freed by Communists, Has History of International Intrigue

By International News Service

The case of former U. S. State Department employe Noel Field, who with his wife, Herta, was freed this week from a Hungarian Communist prison, is as mysterious as the man himself.

The 50-year-old Noel vanished in May, 1949, and his brother Hermann, 44-year-old Cleveland architect and Noel's wife Herta disappeared behind the Iron Curtain the next August.

Three weeks ago, Hermann was released by Red Poland and charges of espionage against him quashed. In the release of Noel and Herta it was said the Soviet Satellite government was not able to "justify the charges made in the past against the couple."

Noel Hayland Field, a member of a New York Quaker family, was born in London, brought up in Switzerland, and went to Washington in September 1936.

A one-time friend of convicted perjurer Alger Hiss, Noel was educated at Harvard and married his childhood Zurich sweetheart, Herta Vieser.

Eager for a diplomatic career, he was assigned by the State Department to the Division of Western European Affairs. Within the State Department his reputation for integrity was excellent — but there was another school of thought on Field.

Whittaker Chambers, the former Soviet spy courier, in testimony before the House UnAmerican Activities Committee, swore he and Hiss once discussed prospective candidates for a Communist cell and Hiss suggested Field as "the most likely man." Chambers said Hiss believed that "Field was already strongly pro-Communist."

In 1942, with Europe at war, Field took a job with the Unitarian Service Committee, handling the organization's medical relief program in southern France, and later in Geneva.

Before the war's end, Noel approached Allen W. Dulles, then holding an OSS post in Switzerland, and wanted the OSS to finance a group of "anti-fascist" underground leaders who would follow the Allies into conquered Germany.

Dulles sent him to Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., then with OSS, and Schlesinger said he thought Noel "sounded" like a Communist agent trying to promote a thinly disgused scheme to seize control of postwar Germany. He caused inquiries to be made and as a result the unitarians discharged Field. Noel was said to have handled several OSS missions although he was not on the payroll.

In May 1949, Field, then 46, left Switzerland for Prague, Czechoslovakia. His wife was to join him later. He registered at a hotel and arranged a meeting with a friend who was to introduce him to a prospective employer.

When the friend called he was told Field had walked out without leaving a message. His clothes hung in the hotel room, indicating he intended to return.

Herta, still in Switzerland, waited for nearly three months for word from Nole. At the end of July, she told Hermann Field about her husband's disappearance.

Hermann and Herta went to Prague together. Then he continued to Poland alone and arranged to meet Herta again in Prague within a short time.

On Aug. 22, 1949, Hermann went to the Warsaw airport to take a plane to Prague. A passenger list for the flight listed him, but he never arrived at Prague, the hostess saying he had not made the flight.

Herta vanished after leaving her hotel for the airport in a taxi.

Noel Field's adopted daughter, Erika Glaser Wallach, started an independent search and was last seen in September in East Berlin.

With the release of Hermann and dismissal of espionage charges against him, and today's freeing of Noel and Herta, only Erika still is unaccounted for.

West Germans Plan 1st Nuclear Reactor

LONDON (AP)—Although barred under the Paris accords from making atomic weapons, West Germany plans to build its first nuclear reactor within the next two years.

The Bonn government's schedule for an atomic energy program devoted to civilian purposes was outlined by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in a recent letter to the Allied Powers. Details were reported to the House of Commons yesterday by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Adenauer promised that West Germany's annual production and import of nuclear fuels will be held down to 3,500 grams (about 7¾ pounds). Bonn regards this amount as necessary for an adequote civilian program.

Losses of about $25 million a year are incurred because of the death or injury of livestock being shipped from farms to meat packing centers.

Devices Speed News Printing

AP Managing Editors Hear of Steps Toward Improving Papers

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The nation's newspaper editors heard today that major strides were made during the past year in developing new devices to help newspapers get out faster with a better product.

Some of the major technological improvements were reviewed at a meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn.

A report by the APME Technical Progress Committee said they will give readers a brighter, more readable product with illustrations in color, and provide newspaper advertisers a more attractive showcase.

A report presented by Ted Durein, managing editor of the Monterey Peninsula Herald, listed:

A new chemical etching process which reduces the time for producing metal engravings by 75 per cent or from 20 to 25 minutes.

Putting into service of a vastly improved machine for the facsimile reception of wirephoto picture copy. Biggest advantage for smaller newspapers and TV stations is that facsimile reception requires no attendant or darkroom facilities.

A 600-word-an-hour teletype circuit employing special electronic devices which can transmit in one hour text copy which normally requires about 12 hours by normal teletype transmission.

A 70mm sequence camera, known as the Hulcher Sequence, which can be used with interchangeable lens. It is the first sequence camera developed for specific requirements of newspapers and magazines.

Japs to Man Radar

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese air force troops are being trained for the first time to man the radar net that guards the shores of their homeland. A spokesman for the Far East Command confirmed that instruction was being given throughout Japan under supervision of the U. S. Air Force.

Sex Slayer of Nurse Scheduled for Trial

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Committed sex deviate Louis Maurice Smith, 18, was bound over to circuit court yesterday on a first degree murder charge in the rape-slaying of Marilyn Kraai, 20, a student nurse at Kalamazoo State Hospital.

Miss Kraai was attacked and strangled to death in the basement of the hospital Nov. 5 where police said she was lured by Smith on a ruse.

Police said Smith, a mental patient in the hospital, admitted the slaying. He had been committed to the hospital for a morals offense.

Bob Considine Says:

Marilyn Sheppard's Linen Doesn't Phase Dr. Sam

CLEVELAND (INS)—Never get murdered.

If you've got to go, go discreetly. Just stop breathing, but without the coaxing of mayhem. Your relatives and a small handful of friends will be saddened for a time—a somewhat embarrasingly brief time, you'll note from on high. But at least you'll have the consolation of knowing that utter strangers are not rummaging through your bed clothes months later in full view of a note-taking press and radio corps.

With one or maybe two exceptions I've never ached more for a departed soul than I ached the other day for a lady I never met, a lady named Marilyn Sheppard. That was the day a coroner named Gerber took the stand and brought with him all the bloody props that go with an investigation of massive and monstrous violence.

It was sheets and pillow-cases day in Judge Blythin's hothouse. The glum little room smelled like a wing of the morgue. After a time the exhibit table in front of the judge's perch resembled nothing as much as it suggested a basement bargain counter caught up unluckily in time and space with the St. Valentine's Day slaughter.

Marilyn Sheppard had left her tragic mark on her laundry. It was unfurled in court like the bloody battle flags of a forgotten war. From all accounts she was most certainly a lady who would not even want her spotlessly laundered bed things to be fingered in public by persons she never saw before. But what colossal indency had we here? I'll tell you.

We had seven strong men and six stout ladies of the jury (counting the ruggedly beautiful sweater-girl alternate) passing Marilyn Sheppard's horridly stained pillow from hand to hand, turning it this way and that, four and one half months after she had laid her head upon it for the last time.

We had the suspected murderer, Dr. Sam, rolling it for a good five minutes, his thoughts, if any, masked behind the surface of his wholly impassive face. A man on the radio later said that Sam bit his lip as he picked up the pillow to examine it. He did no such thing. He just looked at the pollow, whose once-bright red stains have turned, like the leaves, to a listless brown. Sam might have been looking at a suburbia time table.

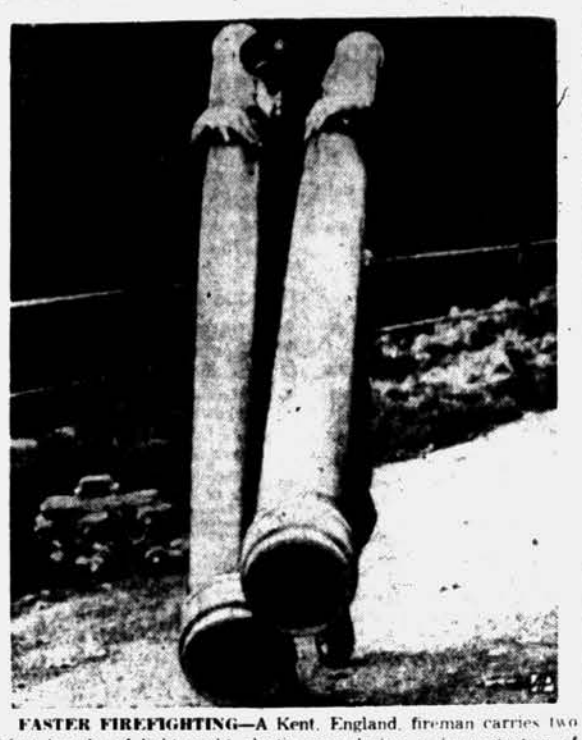

The doctor appeared to make no effort to look for the imprint of a surgical weapon which the prosecution says Dr. Gerber discovered, etched vaguely against one of the volleyball sized blood stains.

(Actually, the discovery of the imprint was made some days after the murder. It was noted first by a crime lab expert on the staff of the Cleveland police chief. The expert is a bug on the "blot test" used by certain psychiatrists. You know how that goes. A blob of ink is dropped on a sheet of paper, the paper is folded over the wet ink and then unfolded, revealing an irregular ink pattern which the patient is asked to describe as best he can. Conceivably, if the crime lab expert had not had such a hobby the prosecution today would not be able to hint broadly that the foul deed was committed by someone who had access to a heavy pliers-like device used by doctors to break the casts that encircle the healing bones of their patients.)

The pillow was followed to the exhibit table by Marilyn's terribly marked sheets, a crosspatch bedspread, the pad which absorbed the blood that literally must have cascaded through the bottom sheet, and by the oddly pathetic soiled white moccasins which the pretty small-town clubwoman and housewife wore the evening before she was batted into eternity.

There was an effort to introduce her pajamas, too, but the defense kept these off the table by objecting that it was not Gerber but an assistant who removed them from the body at the morgue. At least Marilyn's shade was spared that particular indignity.

The bed clothing and other accouterments of the savage scene were brought into court in great brown bags, not unlike those used for excessive purchases at a supermarket. There was a feeling of obscenity about the entire performance. One felt honestly sorry that there was no power great enough in court to order an end to this unseemly display of Marilyn Sheppard's soiled linen.

FASTER FIREFIGHTING—A Kent, England, fireman carries two 16-foot lengths of lightweight plastic pipe during a demonstration of high speed firefighting.

Plays No Favorites

COLUMBUS, Ind. (UP)—The police department's electric speed timer spares no one. The street commissioner and the assistant fire chief were charged with speeding and ordered to appear in city traffic court.

Developers Set Meeting Jan. 6

Industrial Possibilities of Seaway and Toll Roads Will Be Studied

SOUTH BEND (AP) — Industrial leaders from Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Illinois and Wisconsin have been invited to attend a meeting of the Great Lakes States Industrial Development Council Jan. 6 and 7 in South Bend to study industrial possibilities stemming from the St. Lawrence Seaway and east-west toll roads.

F. R. Henrekin, executive director of the committee of 100 of South Bend and Mishawaka, and dean James E. McCarthy of the University of Notre Dame College of Commerce, head the sponsoring committee for the conference.

C. Dwight Wood of Tawas City, chairman of the council, said railroad, utility and chamber of commerce industrial specialists, realtors and factory location experts and city and state officials comprise the council, which has been working for five years on the area's problems.

Other officers include Don C. Weeks, Lansing, director of the Michigan Department for Economic Development, secretary.

The officers say they feel both the St. Lawrence Seaway and the toll roads development should contribute heavily to increase industrial activity in the Middle West in the next decade.

Future Doubtful Despite Planning Started by FOA

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Foreign Operations Administration may—or may not—go out of business by next June 30 as Congress has ruled it should.

Officials of the foreign aid agency, headed by Harold E. Stassen, disclosed last night they are working on budget plans for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Such advance programming is required by law, they said, and besides the new 84th Congress could repeal the 83rd Congress' rare (for Washington) death verdict on a federal agency. It will be up to President Eisenhower to decide whether to ask for an FOA life extension.

In any event, the foreign aid pipeline is not expected to be snapped shut. Programs would be split up among other agencies if FOA is disbanded.

Moonshine Nips Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese moonshiners have taken a big bite out of Japan's tax revenues—about $5,400,000 worth the government complained today. It said 67½ million gallons of illegal liquor of all kinds had been ginned this year.

Army Nurse Helps Suffering Koreans

TAEGU, Korea (AP)—The compassion of an American nurse has brought 1,500 pounds of warm clothing to the orphans and widows of war-torn Korea.

Capt. Anna M. Swope of the Korea Civil Assistance Command, touched deeply by the bitter poverty she found here, told of the nation's plight in a letter to her home in Fredericksburg, Pa.

The tiny community of 800 gathered bundles of clothing.

Actor John Agar Gets $200 Fine for Driving Plea

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor John Agar was fined $200 yesterday on a charge of intoxication and driving a car without a license in his possession.

The 31-year-old former husband of actress Shirley Temple was arrested last January. He pleaded guilty to the intoxication charge but denied drunk driving and driving while his license was suspended. The case was continued periodically until yesterday, when he pleaded guilty to driving while he did not have a license in his possession. He was granted two years' probation.

The charges of drunk driving and driving while his license was suspended were dismissed.

Walls on 22 Floors Axed in Hotel Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—Firemen had to chop through walls on all 22 floors of the Biltmore Hotel yesterday to make sure an incinerator flue fire was out.

A fire official said intense heat in the flue, which extends the height of the building, had started the cork insulation smoldering. The only way to make certain no fire lingered was to strip off all the insulation.

It was not determined what made the intense heat in the incinerator flue.

Queen Mother Sails for Home After 22 Days

NEW YORK (AP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth of England sails today for home after a 22-day visit to the United States and Canada.

She came to New York by plane from Ottawa yesterday and went immediately to the liner Queen Mary.

The Queen Mother, who spent five days touring Canada, was greeted by a throng of admirers both at La Guardia Field and at the ship's pier.

To one and all she smiled graciously, waved and called "goodby."

More Probation Officers Asked

Shortage Said Serious Here; Oakland County Needs More Than One

LANSING (AP)—The State Legislature will be asked to authorize hiring of 25 additional probation officers during its next session, Fred C. Bates, state probation director, said yesterday.

Oakland is among the 22 counties asking for additional men.

If the request is granted, the number of probation officers would be more than doubled, Bates said. There are presently 23 probation officers in the state.

The probation director said men are being sent to prison who could be given probation if there were enough officers to handle their cases.

The request for additional officers, he said, is aimed at eliminating this situation and bringing the state up to national standards for a probation system.

The shortage of probation help is especially serious in Washtenaw and Oakland counties, Bates said, where more than one additional officer is needed.

Naguib Position Won't Be Filled

Figurehead Presidency Will Be Left Vacant by Egypt's Rulers

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egypt is going to get along without a president, the figurehead post from which Maj. Gen. Mohamed Naguib was ousted last Sunday.

The Revolution Council, the country's ruling military junta, announced last night that the presidency established June 18, 1953, would not be filled and that the Cabinet would take over the functions of the office.

Informed sources predicted that the Cabinet, which is named and controlled by the Revolution Council, would in turn delegate Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser to act as chief of state on official occasions.

The President's duties had been largely ceremonial since Nasser bested Naguib in a struggle for top position last spring. Nasser became Egypt's undisputed boss, supplanting Naguib as chairman of the Revolution Council and military governor of Egypt as well as premier.

Naguib's eclipse was completed Sunday, when the council put him under house arrest and charged he cooperated with Communists and the Moslem Brotherhood in a plot to overthrow the junta.

Informed sources believed the council had not named Nasser president also to keep down speculation that Naguib's removal resulted from a personal struggle for the office.

Lone Man Seeks Ally at PTA Convention

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — "Male, unattached chairman of a PTA unit seeks companionship," the announcement read to the State Parent - Teacher Congress last night said.

But he wasn't looking for a girl friend. The man, chairman of a PTA unit in San Antonio, was seeking another man, any man also a local chairman. Lost in a feminine world among the convention's 2,000 delegates, he wanted masculine company for lunch today, at his own expense.

At last report he had found no takers.

Korea Reopens Ballet

SEOUL (AP)—Koreans turned out last night for this capital city's first large-scale ballet since the start of the Korean War.

FIRED BY DULLES — Career diplomat John Paton Davis Jr., has been fired by Secretary of State Dulles for "lack of judgment, discretion and reliability," according to a State Department spokesman. Davis, often under fire from Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, had been cleared by eight previous security inquiries before undergoing investigation by the Eisenhower administration for some 17 months. Dulles emphasized that the five-man board which recommended the dismissal did not find Davies "disloyal."

Film Actress to Wed

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Marilyn Maxwell and movie writer Jerry Davis will be married next Sunday in the Community Church, New York City, her press agent said yesterday.

Council Widens Alleys to Fit Garbage Truck

WEST POINT, Va. (UP)—The city council ordered a modern $7,000 garbage truck, then discovered it was too big for the alleys of this 250-year-old town.

Undaunted, the council ordered (1) the telephone company to move 41 utility poles; (2) the power company to move 39 poles; (3) owners of 125 pieces of property to remove or relocate fences, garages, side porches and woodsheds; (4) owners of three two-story frame houses to move their houses.

Now It's Male Models

Homemade Wardrobe Cuts Costs

Fits Better, Too, for Garments Cut to Own Body Line

In addition to cutting her wardrobe costs in half, the teenager who sews and makes her own clothes finds they fit her better, too, since they're cut to fit her measurements.

Your own high school may offer a sewing course, so why not take advantage of it? Sewing isn't difficult to learn and once you've mastered it you'll enjoy whipping up your own skirts, blouses and dresses, to say nothing of the smart accessories you can make yourself to add a dramatic touch to your wardrobe.

First, start with very simple wardrobe items that are fun to make. Use felt as your "beginner" fabric. Besides being a high fashion fabric, felt needs no hemming.

To set off your shirtwaist blouse and sweater collection, try making a "suspender and buckle" circle skirt. Using a basic skirt pattern, you'll find it'll take you about an hour to cut your circle skirt (felt needs no hemming remember?). Then add a wide waistband and zipper.

The suspenders can be cut in a matter of minutes. But it's the individual touches you'll add after cutting the suspenders that will make your skirt a conversation piece.

Black braid sewn along the edge of the suspenders will set off any color (blue, cocoa, gray, red) nicely.

Next, dot the suspenders with large and small sparkling jet buttons. Add four jet buckles and your new school wardrobe pet is complete.

Remove the suspenders, add another petticoat, and you've a new, graceful party skirt for your dressy velveteen blouse.

Another simple sewing task is that of making a weskit. In just 45 minutes you can have a different-looking weskit to complement your matador pants or bermuda shorts.

Use a basic bolero pattern to cut your weskit and add three shiny jet black buckles. Then, if you wish, you can add a pocket sporting a fourth jet buckle.

If you're grown tired thinking of ideas to "dress up" your somber-looking black turtle-neck wool dress, how about adding a gay collar for a new look? You can cut your collar in no time at all. Then, add black braid and square jet buttons. Sew felt ties to the front of the collar.

RUTH NEILSON

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Krumenacker of Lilly, Pa., announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Neilson, to John R. Ross of Rochester, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ross of Johnstown, Pa. The prospective bridegroom is a member of the Pontiac Press editorial staff.

Bride-Elect Is Honored

Ardis Conley was honored at a bridal shower Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Marvin McVicar of Raeburn street. Co-hostess was Mrs. Kenneth Bredow.

A cluster of wedding bells hung over the refreshment table that was centered with a bride which was surrounded by chrysanthemums and flanked with white tapers.

Shirley Avadenka Is Wed to Jerome Irwin Weiss

Honeymooning in Chicago are Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Irwin Weiss. The bride is the former Shirley Avadenka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Avadenka of Chippewa road. He is the son of Louis Weiss of Brooklyn, N. Y. and the late Mrs. Weiss.

The 8:30 ceremony was performed Saturday evening at Congregation B'Nai Israel by Rabbi Henry Hoschander, before 325 guests. The altar was decorated with palm trees and pink and white carnations for the candlelight ceremony.

The bride wore a strapless gown of white nylon tulle over satin. The gown was topped with a lace redingote fashioned with a Queen Anne collar. She carried a white Bible with roses and streamers.

Mrs. Burton Ross attended the bride as matron of honor wearing a "V" necked gown of blue velvet fashioned with three quarter length sleeves. Garnet roses on a blue velvet ribbon formed her necklace and she carried a matching bouquet of roses.

Frances Avadenka attended her sister as maid of honor wearing a gown designed like the matron of honor's in coral velvet. She also wore a necklace of garnet roses on a velvet ribbon and carried a matching bouquet.

The bridegroom was given in marriage by his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Max Weiss of Wantagh, N. Y. and Edward Avadenka, brother of the bride, served as his best man. Seating the guests were Mike Letman of Detroit, Frank Bommarito of Lake Orion and Charles Zamek.

Mrs. Avadenka greeted her guests at a reception held following the ceremony wearing a pure silk gown of burnt orange, trimmed with velvet.

A wedding supper was held preceding the ceremony for guests at the home of the bride's parents and a wedding brunch and open house was held all day Sunday.

The new Mrs. Weiss changed to a gray and pink suit with black accessories and a corsage of white roses for the wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside at Lotus Lake, Drayton Plains.

Mrs. Sidney Siegel gave the opening prayer at the recent meeting of the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Jacob. It was announced that the first Oneg Shebat will be held Saturday in the James K. Boulevard home of Mrs. Hubert Curson.

Chairmen of various committees presented a skit at the meeting. Mrs. Siegel was the author of the play entitled "Chairmen on Parade." Mrs. George Wyman was announcer, Mrs. Sanford Saperstein was director and Mrs. James Rosenthal, accompanist.

The play described the functions of the committees. Taking part were Mrs. Herman Dickstein, Mrs. Harold Chapman, Mrs. Abe Cohen, Mrs. Eugene Ketchel, Mrs. Reuben Berzon, Mrs. Rudy LoPatin, Mrs. Isadore Goode and Mrs. Melvin Eller.

Others were Mrs. Sam Stolorow, Mrs. Malcolm Kahn, Mrs. Sanford Saperstein, Mrs. Curson, Mrs. Irving Gordon, Mrs. Joseph Nosanchuck and Mrs. Charles Gerston. Mrs. David Utley read the closing prayer.

Group Hears Talk on British Isles

Mrs. Paul Saltzman spoke on her trip to the British Isles, Tuesday evening when 20 members and 5 guests of Guild 10, All Saints Episcopal Church met in Stevens Hall.

Foreign Teachers Observe Democracy in City School

Foreign educators studying at Wayne University paid a visit to Central School Tuesday. These educators came with a check list of points to observe during their tour.

They wanted to find out ways in which youngsters in schools located in an industrial area learn values of a democracy. They were interested in methods of teaching citizenship and they wanted to know how children learn democracy from the very beginning of their school years.

Included in the visiting group were Mrs. Ursula Beltram of Cuba, Teshini Endo of Japan, Ralia Sarco from Brazil, Jagdish Ichhpanani from India, Armas Jaaskelainen of Finland, Konstantine Kolovos of Greece, Michaela Lackner of Germany and Akira Manite of Japan.

Others were Theodoros Photinotoules of Greece, Robert Poschl from Austria, Mrs. Ruth Robes from Cuba, Mrs. Takako Sakurai from Japan, Masao Shimado from Japan, Herbert Sadtman from Germany, Francesco Zacca from Italy, Reinier Van-DenBerg from The Netherlands and Joachin Wedell from Germany.

After touring the rooms, the visiting educators joined members of the school PTA and teachers at a social hour. Teachers took their guests on a tour of Pontiac and Mrs. Stuart Galbraith was hostess in her West Iroquois road home for a dinner.

Folk dances and songs of the various countries were taught and demonstrated by the representatives. Mr. Van-DenBerg was spokesman for the group and thanked Central School staff for its hospitality. Gerald White elementary supervisor for Pontiac School was a guest for the day's activities.

Couple Wed in Home Rites Saturday

Barbara Lee Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Thompson of South Shirley street, became the bride of Dennis Brando Saturday afternoon in her home. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Brando of East Princeton street.

The Rev. Paul Havens performed the three o'clock ceremony before 50 guests.

The bride wore an ice blue gown of net and lace and her headpiece held a fingertip length veil. Her jewelry consisted of pearl earrings and bracelet, a gift of her sister, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white and pink rosebuds.

Donna Krielack was the bride's only attendant wearing a gown of pink nylon net and lace. She wore a corsage of yellow roses. Don Starr served as best man.

Penny Supper Held by Women of Moose

Families of Women of the Moose attended a penny supper Monday evening preceding the meeting at Moose Temple. Mrs. Randall Brown was in charge of the supper.

Committee reports were given by Mrs. Clifford Lynch, Mrs. Robert Singleton, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Elsie Carter and Mrs. Norman Carrie. Mrs. Ferman Huston was in charge of the meeting.

It was announced that a special meeting scheduled for today would be held on Nov. 23. The library chairman and her committee are sponsoring a money making project on Nov. 20 at Moose Temple.

A card party will be held Nov. 22 in the Third street home of Mrs. John Baxter. A meeting will be held on Nov. 28 in Dearborn. It was announced that those wishing transportation may contact Mrs. Ferman Huston.

Auxiliary Lists 3 New Members

The Wright-Fournier Amvet Auxiliary Post 161 met Sunday at Moose Hall on Mt. Clemens street. Mrs. Gerald Donaldson, Mrs. Jack McVey and Mrs. Edward Good were welcomed as new members.

A report was presented on work done by the child welfare committee by the chairman, Mrs. Victor McNair. Ways to aid retarded children were discussed and it was agreed to send a "Blind Kit" to a child in Korea.

A report was given by Mrs. Keith Rosewall on the success of the show held recently by the auxiliary and movies of the show were shown by Carl Bartlett.

Belt Proves Handy

If you're the fortunate one with an outdoor clothes line, try this trick: pinch the clothespins in your belt. When you get the sheet in conjunction with the line, you needn't stoop to the ground to get another pin.

McBride Airs Complaints and Aversions on Words and Expressions

By Mary Margaret McBride

American Vocabulary Hit

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

One subject men and women can certainly get savage about is words they detest. Maybe I should have expected it since I myself feel rather grim about some of the expressions I want to see eliminated from our language. But my reactions are mild compared to those of many readers.

"I hate, I despise that word," they delcare again and again.

"A phrase that drives me crazy," writes one who doesn't want to be named, "is 'goodbye now.' Why the 'now?' I cringe every time I hear it!"

Says Jeanette Beindt of Vanderbilt, Mich.: "My pet peeve is hearing men and boys called 'guys' all the time. I recently asked a grandmother about her new grandson, and she said, 'He is a sweet little guy.' The word always reminds me of a gangster story."

Lillian Gold, also of Michigan, shudders at "guy," too, and feels acute nausea about "kid" and "kiddie."

Mrs. Edward A. Bryant of Yonkers, N. Y., strongly deplores "turn of the century," "wolfed down," "you see," and "finally" when you mean "eventually."

"My really terrific peeve," contributes Irene McFarland, "is okay and its variations, especially 'okay then,' meaning good-by and 'okay' with a rising inflection meaning 'do you agree?'"

Then Irene adds, as do so many, "I'm GLAD to get this off my chest!" Mildred Wright made up a little rhyme to express her puzzlement about one bit of bad usage:

"When we are mad, we never say that we are feeling madly and when we're glad we do not say that we are feeling gladly. Then why, when we're not feeling well, do we say we're feeling badly?"

And why, she adds, do we say presently for at present (He is presently in conference); majority for most (the majority of the food was eaten)?

Behind the fence which Mrs. John J. Dynes of Orange, Calif., keeps around overworked and unpleasant words are, she says: Got, job, contact, cute, babe, Dr. Kinsey's name for everything, sensational and lurid, and the lump use of the word psychology in referring to quackery and mental tricks.

"There ought to be a law against sickening baby talk by proud parents in adult conversation ('putty-cat', and one woman I know since the birth of a baby has taken to calling her husband 'Da-da')" complains Kate Finucane of St. Louis, Mo. "But chiefly, I hope you will enlarge your group to take care of another ear-sore: the pompous mention of husband or wife.

I object to this most from politicians, particularly the boys who at campaign time insist on a first-name, buddy-buddy approach, yet who always speak of their wives very formally, as: 'Mrs. Jones and I are overwhelmed at . . .' I always think 'What's he trying to prove? That his wife's above the people?'

"I've noticed in business a sort of caste-system. If an executive is speaking of his wife to those he considers equals or better, he calls her by her first name. If the person addressed is slightly below the salt, the wife comes off the tongue as 'Mrs. Jones.' It's loathsome."

Judging by the way the mail is coming in on word aversions, there will be more of this anon.

Money Is No Measure of Your True Happiness

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"My husband is a failure," a woman told me quite bluntly the other day. "A real failure, and I don't know what to do about it. I thought maybe you might help me figure out how to push him ahead, so he'll make money and be successful like my sister's husband is."

The odd part of this was that she wasn't a mean, nasty woman. She seemed quite gentle and pleasant, but very much concerned about her husband's future, and her own.

As her story came out, I began to understand the mistake she was making.

Her husband was a "sweet, sensitive, good-hearted guy," — her words—and that's why she married him. He was fun to talk to; not an agressive, high-handed type like some of her beaux, who bored her to death.

Before they married, he had a job as service man in an equipment company. He was always quite mechanical, and he loved fixing up broken equipment. Little by little, he got small raises, but never a big promotion, never a supervisor's post.

"We have two teenagers now," she told me, "and we have just enough to make ends meet. My sister's children go to private schools, and they have two cars. We just have one old jalopy, which Dick loves to keep in shape.

"Dick's job is secure, all right but he'll never push ahead into the big money. My children will never have the things which their cousins have. I want to know what to do about it."

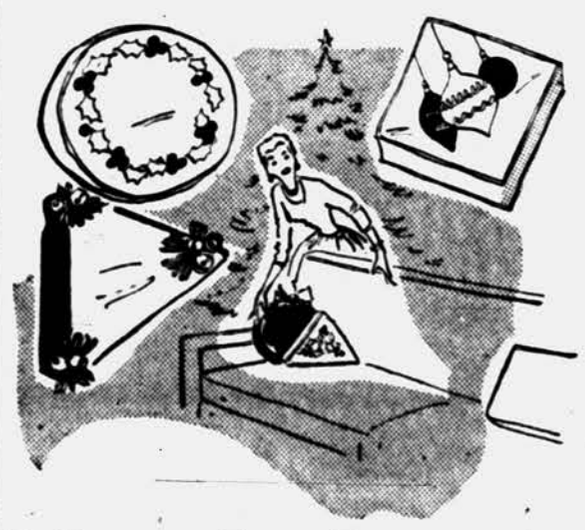

Further discussion brought out the fact that the home life of this family was delightful. The youngsters adored their father and his home workshop was a center of aetivity for all the kids in the neighborhood.

Both of the young people had after-school jobs, which they seemed to enjoy. The woman herself had to admit that her husband was a dream—fun to be with, good-tempered, loving — "but no commercial drive!" Moreover, her sister wasn't, for all the money, too happy.

Her husband was away a lot, working overtime, never seeing the children. The sister drank a little too much—and so forth, and so on.

By the time we finished our talk, I think I convinced this woman she should leave well enough alone. She had a good and happy life, and no real poverty.

If she did succeed in changing her husband into a commercially aggressive type—probably an impossibility—she would have a very unhappy husband, miserable children, and a wretched life.

Pillows Are Decoration for Christmas Season

By ELIZABETH HILYER

Little colorful pillows are so decorative, why can't they be Christmas decoration, too? Make them for gifts, or to roll up the total at the Christmas bazaar—just as whimsy of the season, or to be used more permanently. The Yule decorations on them might be stitched on to stay, and the pillows put away after the holidays for the next year. Or the trimming might be made easy to remove so the pillow nestles on the sofa full time.

The pillows sketched are made of felt. The little holly berry and leaf shapes are easily cut from felt and need no finishings, or the berries might be red beads or spangles. The tree ornaments of felt might be trimmed with gold cord. If they are lightly tacked to the pillow by hand, these decorations can come off without leaving a mark. The tacking can be done on the underside of the felt trims, so it doesn't show. Clusters of bells and ribbon loops are even more readily removable.

Visit Fine if Mother Invites Her

Fiance Can Call on Future Relative if Asked to Do So

By EMILY POST

The following letter is from a young woman who tells me: "My boy friend is now serving in the armed forces overseas. I knew this boy seven months before he entered the service. We are very fond of each other and probably will become engaged when he returns.

"I never met his parents as they live in another part of the state. Very shortly I will be going to a wedding a short distance from this young man's home. I would like to know if it would be proper to call on his mother while I am there?"

Not unless you receive an invitation from her to lunch or dine; or at least to go to see her on a specific day and hour. If he has asked you to go to see them, it would be proper for you to call on them.

Dear Mrs. Post: When one is traveling in a foreign country and wishes to take pictures of people occupied at various activities common in their way of life, is it proper to ask their permission before taking the picture? It seems to me very rude to photograph people at close range without first asking their permission. What is your opinion?

When taking a close-up of any one, you would have to ask, "May I take your picture?"

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm going to let my niece have a dozen of her young friends to a dinner at my house on her twelfth birthday. Which one of us should send the invitations, and is it necessary that I sit at table with them?

If you are giving the dinner for your niece, the invitations should be sent in your name. If, however, you are handing over your house to her to give a party, then she sends her own invitations. In neither case is it necessary that you sit at table. You should at least be present.

If she sends the invitations, she receives them at the door and you greet them elsewhere in the room after they have shaken hands with her. If you send the invitations, you receive, standing next to the door and she next to you.

Quiet House Needn't Be Expensive

By HUBBARD COBB

For every person who is looking for a million dollars, there are probably a million who are more than willing to settle for just a little peace and quiet.

Now one way to get a little peace and quiet in your home is to absorb noises before they can reach your ears. There are many ways this can be done but right now we are mainly interested in those which you yourself can do.

Some materials absorb sound waves better than others. For example, ordinary window glass isn't a very good sound absorber and so if you face a picture window and yell at the top of your voice for someone to turn down the TV set, your voice will echo throughout the house.

If you hang a heavy drapery over the window, your voice won't carry near so far. If you hang curtains or drapes over a plaster wall, sound in that area will be reduced considerably.

If you use overstuffed furniture in a room there will be less noise than if you use wood or iron furniture. If you put a rug or carpet on the floor, it too will absorb sound waves and make for quiet. If you put an underpad under the rug, you will reduce the noise output even more.

Of course, when attacking the problem of noise in the home, it's important to realize that it's a lot easier to absorb the noise in the room where it originates than to try to prevent it passing from one room to another. For this reason, the most important rooms to tackle are the living room or family room.

Keeping up with the Joneses isn't nearly as dangerous as trying to pass them on a hill.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

The day of a party you realize that you have neglected to answer the invitation that came to you through the mail. The only thing to do is to telephone your hostess immediately. Tell her how sorry you are for being so forgetful.

Then make it a rule that after this you will answer invitations as soon as you receive them.

Boy Shouldn't Jump to Conclusions

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: We think a great deal of each other after going together for three months. Last Saturday night he told me he'd see me at 3 o'clock the next day, but didn't tell me where. I didn't see him around any place, so I got two of his friends to take me where he was.

When we found him he was in a car with two of his boy friends. And when he saw me in the car with two of his other friends, he froze and wouldn't even talk to me. So the boys took me home.

One of my girl friends phoned him and asked if he was mad and he said "yes" but wouldn't say why. His friends say he still has my pictures in his wallet. How can I get him back again? I still have somethings of his—what shall I do or say when he comes for them?"

Aren't you assuming that his mad is permanent? Nothing has been done, apparently, to clear up this misunderstanding—so there is hope that it's purely temporary.

You could call him and tell him you're sorry he's cross, and it must be over something you've done. You suggest he thought the worst when he saw you in his friend's car. Then you can explain how that happened. Suggest that he ask them if they weren't just helping you to find him.

Admit quietly that you were so eager to see him that you couldn't wait at home for him but had to go looking for him. Promise you won't do that again. If your loyalty never has been questioned before, perhaps it will only take one such call from you to re-establish things as they were. And you won't have to worry about returning his belongings.

If he's mad for keeps, though, and comes asking for his stuff, give it back with a smile and a cheerful "thank you for letting me have it for a while." Let him keep your pictures to remind him that he shouldn't jump at hasty conclusions.

"Dear Miss Woodward: He isn't very cute and my friends all think it's funny that I like him. We went to a party last week and they all kept teasing me about him and asking him to dance with me.

So I said real loud that I'd refuse if he asked me. Now he won't talk to me. I know I was wrong, but it was the only way I could think of getting back at him. How can I undo the damage?"

Your remark was really aimed at your teasing friends, wasn't it? You wanted them to stop. You didn't want this boy to stop paying attentiton to you. Your crack ricocheted. Only thing to do now is show him your bark is louder than your bite. By your friendliness convince him you didn't mean a word of it. Perhaps it will melt him.

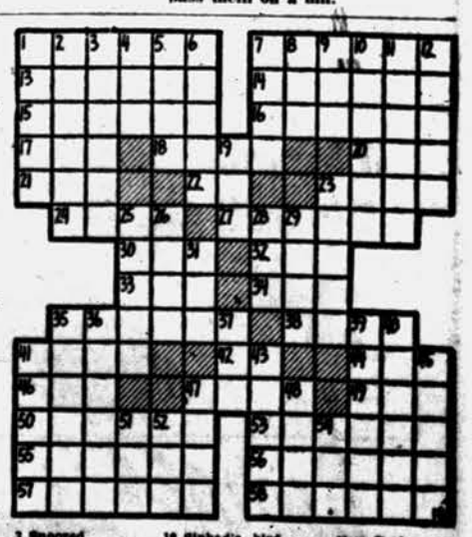

It's like father, like son, like mother, like daughter for this family group fashion. The stripe and gold shirts are fashioned of cool looking madiras linen in matched colors of shrimp, pink, green or violetta. Feature a horizontal closure, the shirt is designed to be worn belted outside walking shorts or tucked in with slacks or shorts.

To Resume Search for 2 Lost Children

BECKLEY, W.Va. (AP)—Raleigh County Sheriff John C. Ward called for volunteers today to resume a search for Irene Agee, 8, and her sister Mary, 6, who have been missing since shortly after school Nov. 1.

Since that time the section around the mountain community of Egeria has been searched almost daily.

Ward said he and state police officers would lead any volunteers from Twin Bridges, six miles away, toward Egeria in the remote hope that the girls may have strayed even beyond the territory already examined.

Pinball Craze in Japan Facing Police Cleanup

TOKYO (AP)—This city moved today to restore skill to Pachinko, the national pinball craze. It banned "machine-gun" types that fire four or five balls at once in favor of the old "single shot" style.

Police say there is one machine for every 40 inhabitants. Winners get merchandise prizes which can be sold.

Says Ethel Barrymore Will Not Be at Funeral

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ethel Barrymore's studio says she is under a doctor's care and won't be able to attend the funeral today of her brother Lionel.

'Plane Parker' Hit by Propeller Blade

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—An "airplane parker" at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base here was clipped on the chin by a propeller last night—and she lived to tell about it.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fennell, however, won't be talking about her escape for a few days. Base officials said it was a miracle she lived.

The 29-year-old flight line employe lost a tooth and had 13 stitches taken in the lower part of her face. She was treated at the base hospital and sent home.

She had guided a twin-engine C45 into parking position and was placing blocks in front of the plane's wheels when the propeller hit her.

GI Pay Boost Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation to boost the pay of all members of the armed forces was listed today by Rep. Vinson (D-Ga) as the No. 1 business for the House Armed Services Committee in 1955. Vinson will head the committee in the new Congress.

Oldest lighthouse in the United States it at Sandy Hook, erected in 1763.

You can rule this blue jean world much easier with an automatic washer and all!

No other soap or detergent can possibly match the washing job that all's "controlled suds" will do for you. That's why makers of automatic washers not only approve but actually prescribe all.

WHEN WASHER MAKERS prescribe all, it's because they know what's best for your washer and best for your clothes.

They know that you can't get the best out of your washer when it's smothered in a blanket of thick, heavy suds—the kind you get with old-fashioned sudsing detergents.

That's why today you will find a box of all inside most automatic washers sold in these United States.

So doesn't it make sense to get rid of thick, sticky suds forever and start washing with all as millions and millions of women are doing?

What's so wrong about thick suds?

You paid good money for that washer of yours and you want it to work at its best. So always remember—while thick suds may be pretty to look at, that doesn't get the work done. Here, in a nutshell, is what is wrong with them:

1. Thick, heavy suds foam 'way up at the top of your wash water—not down in the water where the clothes are.
2. Thick, heavy suds can impede the action of your washer—may even clog it. Most service calls made today can be blamed on suds.
3. Thick, heavy suds just won't disappear during the rinse cycle. Instead, they hang around to dull and "gum up" your wash.

What's so right about all?

With all, the drawbacks of thick, heavy suds are completely done away with. all's "controlled suds" don't boil 'way up on top of the wash water like old-fashioned detergent suds. Instead, they force their way down where the wash is, start working the dirt out from the clothes and into the water where it can be rinsed away.

all's "controlled suds" simply can't interfere with the action of your washer. Your clothes slosh around, free and easy-like, just the way the maker of your washer intended them to.

When rinsing starts, all's "controlled suds" go right down the drain with the wash water. They don't loaf around in your washer, dulling and sticking to your clothes the way thick suds do.

Positive, unqualified guarantee on all

Pick up a package of all—EXTRA FLUFFY or CONDENSED—next time you shop. Then—give it a tryout in your next load of wash.

If it isn't absolutely the best washing detergent you've ever had in your machine—if it doesn't do a spectacular job on everything . . . on hubby's T-shirts . . . on daughter's party clothes . . . on your own delicate lingerie . . . on the miracle fabrics Acrilan, Orlon, Dynel and nylon . . . return it. Your dealer has been instructed to refund your money.

Puddings Possess a Holiday Air

Cream mixed with warm honey is very good on waffles and griddle cakes. Be sure that the honey is warmed by placing container in hot water.

When a recipe calls for a medium cream sauce, remember that the proportions to be used are two tablespoons each of butter and flour to a cup of milk.

Planning to serve sandwiches at a fall tea? Try this Canadian filling for some of them: Soft cheddar cheese mixed with canned pimiento, walnuts and mayonnaise.

STEAMED DATE PUDDING—Good the day you make it, good for weeks afterwards if you wrap it well. With the holidays approaching, this type of dessert is an excellent choice. The sauce to accompany it may be used for any steamed pudding.

Sauce Covers Steamed Treat

Festive, Rich Dessert Is Crammed With Nuts and Dates

Steamed puddings, especially those made with fruit and nuts, are appropriate to serve at this time of the year, and they are easy to serve too, because they are usually made ahead of time and need only be kept warm or heated up at serving time.

Try this date pudding soon. It is a light tasty combination of fruit and nuts with a batter that is flavored with brown sugar. Steam it in a plain or fancy mold, according to your mood, and serve it with the delicious pudding sauce suggested here. All will agree that it is the best sauce they ever tasted.

The sauce is made from a prize recipe for an all-around delicious pudding topping. It can be used with other steamed puddings also, and after you have tasted it for the first time you will want to serve it often.

Butter, of course, is the answer to the delightful flavor of the sauce. Butter has a way of lending its special flavor to other foods in a most gratifying way.

Steamed Date Pudding

1 cup boiling water
1 cup cut-up dates
2 tablespoons butter
1 egg
1 cup brown sugar
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup cut-up nuts

Pour boiling water over dates and add butter. Beat egg and stir in brown sugar then add date mixture. Sift dry ingredients together and stir into date mixture. Add nuts.

Pour into a well-buttered 1-quart mold. Steam for two hours. Serve piping hot with pudding sauce. Serves eight.

Pudding Sauce

½ cup butter
½ cup cream
1 cup sugar
Vanilla or any desired flavoring

Blend ingredients except flavoring in top of double boiler. Cook over hot water until smooth and thickened. Add vanilla. Serve hot over steamed pudding.

For Hurry-Up Supper

A hurry-up supper for a cold night can be made out of pantry materials. A can of vegetable soup and tomato soup is heated with a box of frozen peas or beans in it. Add a can of little sausages, wieners or some cooked hamburger, if you have it. A meal-in-one soup.

Simple Cooking Is the Key to Flavorful Game Meals

Game has a supreme natural flavor. According to a current sports magazine the secret of cooking game well is to cook it simply. Here are several recipes you might enjoy trying—should you ever get a piece of venison or a duck.

Venison Pot Roast

Prepare as for a beef pot roast. If you like an herb, place a bay leaf on the meat while it's cooking, but remove before you make the gravy. Venison gravy is delicious, so roast the meat covered.

Serve with cranberry sauce, baked potatoes, and green beans that have been cooked in a casserole with 1-cup of creamed mushroom soup and a delicate sprinkling of nutmeg.

A good dessert with venison is angel food cake with a topping of raspberry ice cream.

Wild Goose

Clean the goose thoroughly. Be careful to remove all the buckshot. (Nothing can ruin a meal more completely than to have a guest lose a filling on a chunk of shot!) Don't soak in vinegar, not even for an hour.

Make a cooked cornmeal-mush dressing and stuff loosely. Place one whole medium-sized onion in the neck cavity. Bacon or fresh fat-back can be placed across the breast, but this is optional.

Cover with aluminum foil and roast slowly (325). Brown the last 15 minutes, but be careful not to dry out the meat.

Wild goose and wild duck are excellent served with a tart apple-and-celery salad, cinnamon-flavored baked apples, or orange cups filled with cranberry sauce.

Potatoes are unnecessary when you have the cornmeal mush dressing. Hot pickled beets, buttered broccoli and a light pineapple or lime sherbet concludes this meal that gourmets will rave about.

Touch of the Orient Makes Curried Shrimp Unusual

On these cold days, no doubt your thoughts turn to something really substantial to serve your family . . . also you like to give them extra special treats. Here is a recipe that meets both these requirements.

It is really quite exotic and so easy . . . the canned broiled mushrooms, shredded coconut and other ingredients are usually on the pantry shelf, or no further away than the market where you buy the shrimp.

Curried Shrimp and Mushrooms
1 pound small shrimp
½ cup water
3 tablespoons butter
1 small clove garlic, minced
¼ cup minced onion
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon curry powder
3-ounce can broiled mushrooms
⅓ cup heavy cream
¼ cup shredded coconut

Remove shells from shrimp. Place shrimp in saucepan with one-half cup water. Cover and bring to boil. Let simmer five minutes. Drain, reserving liquid.

Meanwhile melt butter in saucepan. Add garlic and onion and cook over moderate heat for five minutes, stirring frequently. Add flour and curry powder and mix in well.

Add one-half cup of the water in which shrimp were cooked and the contents of can of mushrooms. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and boils.

Gradually add and stir in the cream. Add coconut and the cooked shrimp. Heat thoroughly but do not boil. Serve with quick browned rice. Yield: Four servings.

Quick Browned Rice
1½ cups boiling water
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet
8-ounce package pre-cooked rice

Combine boiling water, bouillon cube and kitchen bouquet. Stir until cube dissolves. Add rice and bring to boil. Cover tightly and let stand 10 minutes in warm place.

When ready to serve, remove cover for a few minutes to allow rice to dry off well.

Glamorize Asparagus

Canned green asparagus tastes especially good if, after it is heated and drained, it is sprinkled with buttered crumbs. When you are mixing the melted butter and crumbs together for the topping, add a dash of paprika for color.

Spread layers of chocolate cookies with sweetened and flavored whipped cream. Top with crushed pineapple and maraschino cherries, cut into petals.

Various Savory Stuffings Suitable for Holiday Bird

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Stuffing for poultry is so much a matter of personal preference that it ill behooves us to tell you how to stuff the Thanksgiving bird. All we are going to do is offer a few new stuffing recipes, from which you may pick your favorite.

This first recipe is for the small family. Broiling chickens are used; with the dressing before roasting each one is halved and stuffed so that no carving need be done at the table.

Crispy Cranberry Dressing

3 cups crispy cracker crumbs
1 medium onion, grated or minced finely
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
2-3 cup cranberry sauce
Two 2¼ to 2½ pound boiling chickens halved
Giblets, cooked and chopped
¼ cup broth from giblets

Crush crackers coarsely in the palms of the hands. Saute onion in butter two to three minutes, or until tender-crisp. Add to cracker crumbs in bowl. Add nutmeg, salt, pepper, cranberry sauce, chopped giblets and broth. Toss to blend well.

Place two of the broiler halves in shallow roasting pan. Top each with half of dressing. Top each mound of dressing with other half of broiler.

Skewer two halves of broilers together and pour one-half cup water around them in pan. Bake at 325 degrees for one hour, or until broilers are tender and lightly browned. Makes four "no-carve" portions.

Sage as a stuffing flavorer is traditional. A gourmet stuffing for turkey is this one borrowed from the Italian, which makes interesting use of diced ham and stuffed olives.

Italian Ham and Olive Stuffing

2 cups bread cubes
2 cups cooked rice
2 eggs
½ cup diced ham or luncheon meat
1-3 cup finely chopped stuffed olives
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground sage leaves
½ teaspoon ground marjoram leaves
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
½ teaspoon garlic powder
2 tablespoons parsley flakes
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery

Toast bread cubes in a moderate oven (350) and combine with remaining ingredients. Stuff the body cavity and crop of a 5 to 6-pound chicken, duck or turkey.

If you wish to stuff a goose or a 12 to 15-pound turkey, double the ingredients. Yield: About 6 cups.

This third recipe for stuffing contains ham also, but in the form of deviled ham. It also calls for chopped walnut meats, celery and apples.

Deviled Ham Turkey Dressing

3 cups dry bread crumbs
1 cup chopped walnut meats
3 eggs
½ cup diced celery
1 cup diced apple
Teaspoon of thyme or sage
1 family-size (4½ ounce or 2 small 2¼ ounce) cans deviled ham

Mix coarse dry crumbs with chopped nuts. Stir in eggs, celery and apples. Add seasoning. Additional seasoning may be added if desired. Blend in deviled ham. Makes enough stuffing for one small turkey.

We know may of you use the ready-prepared stuffing. Should you care to dress it up a bit, try this recipe that adds celery and whole kernel corn as the surprise ingredient.

Dutch Corn Stuffing

2 bags stuffing mix
1 cup butter or margarine
2 cups water
1 cup diced celery
1 small onion, minced
1 can kernel corn, drained

Turn stuffing into large bowl. Combine water, celery and onion and bring to a boil. Stir in butter or margarine until melted. Add to stuffing and mix well. Mix in corn.

One last stuffing recipe for you to consider is cornbread stuffing. Cornbread was an early American accompaniment for all meat, which makes this stuffing right traditionally.

Corn Bread Stuffing

1 cup chopped onion
2 cups bacon fat or margarine
4½ quarts broken cornbread
4 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons poultry seasoning
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 eggs, well beaten

Cook onion in half of the bacon fat or margarine until soft, but not browned. Melt remaining fat and add with onion to cornbread. Mix well. Add seasoning and egg and stuff into turkey.

Combine Corn, Onion

Keep a can of whole kernel corn on your pantry shelf for an emergency vegetable. Heat with thin onions rings, then drain and serve sprinkled with minced parsley.

Don't forget that chopped parsley or pimiento added to the melted butter is wonderful for broiled fish fillets.

Never throw away celery tops! They give wonderful flavor to roast meat or poultry, stews and stuffings.

Friskies Dog Food Guards Against

HIDDEN HUNGER*

*Caused by a lack of certain food elements essential to normal growth and health.

YOUR DOG looks healthy, yet unknown to you he may be suffering from "Hidden Hunger." He can't tell you that the food you are feeding him lacks essential food elements he needs.

WHY TAKE CHANCES with cut-rate brands of dog food, when you can be sure of Friskies. Friskies Meal gives your dog every known food element he needs . . . without exception. Pound for pound it provides up to three times more honest food value than is contained in any canned dog food. Up to three times more protein! Three times more fat! Three times more carbohydrates! Yet, costs less than half as much to feed!

PROFESSIONAL kennelmen recognize the remarkable nourishment provided by Friskies Meal. It is a dry-type food, the type fed by 9 out of 10 of these dog experts. Certainly your dog deserves the best. Protect him against "Hidden Hunger" with Friskies, the scientifically balanced diet resulting from over 50 years' experience in animal nutrition.

Union Member (Buyer) Union Member (Buyer) Charles Giglio (prop.)

For the third consecutive year the Baldwin Rubber Local No. 125 U.R.C.L.P.W. has purchased 500 turkeys and 300 hams. To all Union Members we guarantee top quality merchandise in our turkeys and hams.

We wish to thank the Baldwin Rubber Union for their Order — 3 Sister's Market.

The entire two flocks of turkeys are owned by the 3 Sister's Market—over 2,800 white and 1,500 bronze turkeys. From now until Christmas these turkeys will be killed and brought to our market as they are needed. Over 4,000 turkeys have been sold from our market in the past few months and the 3 Sister's have been receiving hundreds of compliments on these top quality turkeys.

Thrifty Sweets Feature Cereal and Candy Bars

New ideas in cooking are difficult to come by. Modern recipes need be so many things.

First, they must be quick. No one has time for long hours in the kitchen. Second, they must provide remarkable flavor. Americans have been so spoiled with the great abundance of food, they have become real gourmets.

And third, the recipe must be inexpensive. This is particularly true when preparing "frill" foods—the foods that dress up a dinner or are served as refreshments.

Today we have a recipe, Cereal Candy Crisps, that qualifies. It's a clever use of two popular American foods . . . a crisp cereal and candy bars. It's quick to do . . . has excellent flavor . . . and is inexpensive.

Two five-cent chocolate malted milk candy bars, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine and 2 cups oven-popped rice cereal are all the ingredients required. The result: a delicious summer delicacy.

Cereal Candy Crisps

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 chocolate malted milk candy bars
2 cups oven-popped rice cereal

Melt butter in medium sized saucepan. Add candy bars cut in pieces and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until candy bars are melted and mixture is smooth. Remove from heat.

Press lightly into buttered 8x8-inch pan; cut into squares. Let stand until hardened. Yields 16 2-inch squares.

Limit Amount of Batter for Rounded Cupcakes

Putting too much batter in cupcake tins will cause cakes to spill over the sides when baked, rather than form smoothly rounded tops. Never fill cups more than two-thirds full and only one-half full if you are using a batter mixed by the quick method.

Properly mixed batter should form a cupcake with a slightly rounded top rather than a peak. A peak indicates over-mixing.

Hot Dessert in Jiffy

This quickie hot dessert can be done while you're clearing the table. Put a drained canned pineapple slice on bakery shortcakes, and slip them in the broiler until the pineapple is lightly browned. Pour hot caramel sauce over each serving, and garnish with a puff of whipped cream.

GOT AN AUTOMATIC WASHER?

Here's something NEW and BLUE made especially for YOU

OF ALL LOW-SUDS PRODUCTS MADE FOR AUTOMATIC WASHERS...

VIM HAS THE LOWEST SUDS

WHICH GUARANTEES YOU CLEANEST CLOTHES!

ONLY VIM IS BLUE

AND IT ACTUALLY BLUES CLOTHES WHITE!

By now you've surely heard that in automatic washers heavy suds clog the works, keep your wash from rinsing clean. That's why the folks who make automatic washers say, "The lower the suds the cleaner your wash."

And it's just common sense that if low suds are good, lowest suds are best. That's why we worked years to discover Blue VIM with the lowest suds of any washday product—and the greatest cleaning power possible. VIM's low, low suds get out all the dirt—and then rinse away completely. No stale, grey suds left behind to dull your wash. Everything comes out fluffy, soft and so clean-smelling.

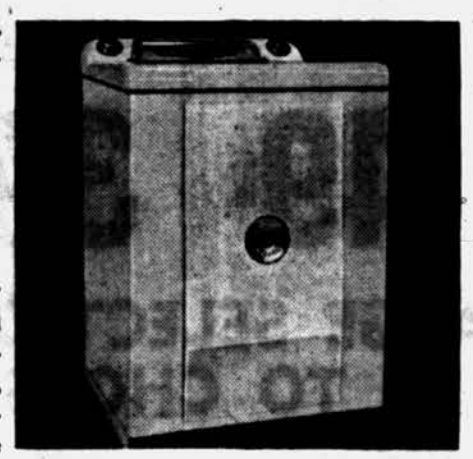

In fact—if you're using anything that makes more suds than VIM, your washer can't be doing its best job!

Cleaner clothes, yes . . . and whiter clothes, too. A difference in whiteness you'll quickly see with your own eyes. That's because VIM actually blues clothes white—dazzling, sparkling, brilliantly white. You'll see the whitest sheets you've ever taken off your clothesline—the fluffiest, snowiest towels that ever graced your towel rack.

Yes, of all the new, low-suds products made for automatic washers, VIM alone is blue and VIM blues clothes white!

But just don't take our word for it . . . see for yourself. Use Blue VIM for everything you put in your automatic washer—grimy workclothes, new miracle fabrics and, especially, baby clothes where thorough cleaning, thorough rinsing is so important. Just follow the simple directions on the package. Don't keep adding Blue VIM to get a lot of suds, because you'll never see them. But you will see the cleanest, whitest clothes you've ever washed.

The very next time you run through a wash—put Blue VIM in your automatic washer. You'll take out whiter clothes! Lever Brothers unconditionally guarantees that Blue VIM will make your washer wash its whitest, or your money refunded.

Why Speed Queen, best-selling automatic washer, recommends VIM!

The makers of Speed Queen—the only automatic washer that gives you breath-taking beauty of design, cleanest washability, and freedom from repair worries—wholeheartedly recommend new VIM. Like other leading washer manufacturers, they know that VIM's lowest suds do the best job in their machine!

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE—Good eating for both young and old, pineapple upside-down cake is now better, thanks to a new nonfat dry milk recipe. Using the dry milk allows you to put pineapple juice in the cake instead of milk.

Cake Features Extra Pineapple

Now there's rich pineapple flavor in every bite of your pineapple upside-down cake, thanks to a brand-new nonfat dry milk recipe! It's the same creamy-yellow cake, of course, topped with golden circles of pineapple baked to melting sweetness—but with a wonderful difference in flavor. It's also moister and more tender.

The secret is that nonfat dry milk, used as an ingredient, allows you to use pineapple juice as liquid. And, along with making a cake with pineapple flavor all through, instead of just in the topping, the pineapple juice makes a cake that's unusually tender and moist.

Make your next pineapple upside-down cake this new nonfat dry milk way, and it's a sure thing your family will say it's the best they've ever tasted!

And be sure to keep a jar of nonfat dry milk handy on your shelf for making other good things, too. If your recipe calls for milk, just use 3 tablespoons of nonfat dry milk and a cup of water for each cup of milk needed—sift or mix nonfat dry milk with the other dry ingredients, then follow the recipe using water instead of milk.

It's an easy way to cut your milk bills, because a handy 4-quart size jar of nonfat dry milk actually costs you only about 9 cents a quart!

Pineapple Upside Down Cake

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar
8 slices canned pineapple, well drained
1½ cups sifted, all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup nonfat dry milk
½ cup soft shortening
⅔ cup juice off pineapple
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 unbeaten eggs

Melt butter over low heat in a 10-inch skillet or a 9-inch square pan. Remove from heat and sprinkle sugar over melted butter. Arrange pineapple on sugar. Let stand while mixing batter.

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and nonfat dry milk into a 2-quart bowl. Add shortening. Stir in half of mixture of juice and vanilla.

Beat hard two minutes with spoon or with electric beater at medium speed. Add rest of liquid and the eggs. Beat hard two minutes longer. Pour batter over pineapple slices in skillet.

Bake on rack slightly below center in 350 oven (moderate) until cake pulls from sides of skillet, or from 45 to 55 minutes. Remove from oven.

To Shell Nuts Easily

Here's a tip for shelling nuts for holiday puddings and goodies: Soak the whole nuts overnight in salt water. The next morning the shells will crack easily and the kernels come out whole instead of in broken pieces. In addition, the nut flavor will be accented by the salt.

Blend Spread of Tuna, Apples

Whether mother blows the whistle for the sand-lot crowd of the noon dismissal bell releases them from school, youngsters arrive at the luncheon table starved.

Their healthy appetities make it easy for mother to get a generous one-third to one-half of the day's needed food requirements into this meal.

Here is a pattern menu that earns high marks nutritionally—a hearty soup, flavor-filled sandwiches in quantity to fit appetites, fresh vegetable sticks, milk, and a cake dessert.

This tuna-apple sandwich, made with enriched bread, has a filling of chopped, unpeeled apples, blended with lemon juice and mayonnaise to which tuna is added.

Should mother need to be away from home at noon, freshly made sandwiches could be wrapped in moisture-proof, vapor-proof paper and stored in the refrigerator.

The soup could be heated by an older child or poured from a vacuum bottle. Animal croutons, cut from bread and toasted, are mother's surprise.

Tuna-Apple Sandwich

½ cup tuna, flaked
1 cup finely chopped unpeeled apples
½ tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
8 slices enriched bread
¼ cup butter or margarine

Combine flaked tuna, apples, lemon juice and mayonnaise or salad dressing. Butter bread. Make 4 sandwiches, using one-fourth cup filling for each sandwich.

Yield: One cup or filling for four sandwiches.

Store Tea Correctly

If you want your tea to taste really good, store it in an airtight container. One company, realizing the importance of protecting tea flavor, is now wrapping its tea in seal-tight aluminum foil before packaging. If properly stored at home, after this tea is taken out of its package, it will yield a fine brew.

Bake Tuna-Filled Buns

Tuna buns are made like this: Mix together one-fourth cup of chopped pickles, three diced hard-cooked eggs, one can of your favorite tuna, one tablespoon chopped onions, one-fourth cup grated cheese and mix in mayonnaise to make the combination moist and easy to spread. Use hamburger buns, buttered, cut in halves. Spread with tuna mixture. Bake in the oven at 350 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes.

QUICK 'N' EASY

RICELAND RICE

COOKS FLUFFY IN A FEW MINUTES!

Quick 'n' easy to cook . . . white, tender, fluffy rice . . . in just a few minutes! Beautiful, tempting, delicious!

OVEN-FRIED TURKEY—It's new! Oven-frying is suggested by home economists as a new time-saving method of preparing small turkeys (the 4 to 6-pound fryer-roasters). This succulent oven-fried turkey is done to a turn in little more than an hour.

Silverware Is Versatile

Your sterling silver hollowware can do double duty. A pretty silver pitcher can be used for flowers; cold meats look attractive on a silver sandwich tray; a silver sauce boat may be filled with tid-bits served with a first-course beverage on days when sauce is not on the menu.

'Fried' Turkey Will Save Time

Who ever heard of preparing golden-crisp, succulent turkey in just a little over an hour?

This modern method, suggested by home economists, was especially developed for homemakers appreciating the delicate flavor of popular fryer-roasters small turkeys weighing 4-6 pounds).

In oven-frying this way, the shortening seals in delicious flavor and protects the turkey from cooking dry. Here's all you do:

Oven-Fried Turkey

Wash and dry thoroughly a small turkey (4-6 pounds fryer-roaster) and cut into serving pieces. Combine in a bowl 1 cup shortening, melted, 4 teaspoons salt and one-half teaspoon pepper.

Put one piece of turkey at a time in shortening and rub well into each piece. Arrange pieces of turkey in two oblong baking dishes about 8x12x2 or in one large shallow roasting pan.

Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees) about 1¼ hours, or until tender and brown, turning once. Make gravy with the drippings.

Potluck Casserole Will Win Friends

No doubt there's a potluck supper on your social schedule in the near future. Here's a tasty potluck casserole which always is a conversation piece.

Potluck Casserole

1 pound ground beef
1½ cups uncooked elbow macaroni
3 medium onions
2 8-ounce cans tomato sauce
1 No. 303 can kidney beans (1⅝ cups undrained)
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon chili powder
1 cup grated cheese

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water; drain and rinse. Brown ground beef and chopped onion in a little hot fat.

Add tomato sauce and cook gently for 15 minutes. Add rest of ingredients.

Pour into a greased 2-quart casserole and sprinkle the cheese on top. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes. Six servings.

Try Pancake Topping

If you are interested in waffles or pancakes, here's a topping that will be a change and new taste sensation. Mix equal parts of apricot jam and honey. Season lightly with cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg. If it's pancakes, serve them hot right from the griddle. Delicious!

Utilize Pastry Scraps

Use those scraps of leftover pastry this way. Roll out thin and cut into fancy shapes; sprinkle with grated cheddar cheese and paprika and bake. Delicious with soups or salads!

Pear Dessert Best Served Piping Hot

Pear Crisp

¾ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup brown sugar (firmly packed)
⅓ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped walnuts
5 large firm pears (about 2 pounds)
½ teaspoon ginger
1 tablespoons grated orange rind
2 tablespoons orange juice

Mix flour, salt and sugar; cut in butter thoroughly with pastry blender; mix in walnuts.

Peel, quarter and core pears; slice into buttered baking dish, about 6 by 10 by 1¼ inches. Sprinkle pears with ginger, orange rind and orange juice. Cover with flour mixture.

Bake in hot (400 degrees) oven until pears are tender and top is lightly browned, about 45 minutes. Serve hot with pan juice.

As a Rule, Don't Fry or Broil Round Steak

The question often is asked, "Can round steak be fried or broiled?" As a general rule, the answer is "No." The reason for this is that round steak is one of the less tender steaks.

Often round steak is cut into two parts called top round and bottom round. The top round is the more tender portion sometimes high quality top round may be panbroiled. (Better grades have a good layer of fat around the edge and streaks of fat throughout the lean.)

WHEAT LUNCHEON OMELET—This fluffy omelet, flavor-rich with crumbled bacon and cheese sauce, makes a tempting hot lunch for the school crowd. It uses wheat germ, too, for an extra measure of good nutrition and good eating. Serve with hot muffins.

Cheese Omelet Extra Enriched

Nutrition authorities tell us that lunch should provide a third of the day's food needs. It is a stop in the midst of the most active hours of the day when children are burning up energy which must be created by the foods they eat.

Simple but tempting dishes, with a special thought to good nutrition, are well worth the extra 10 or 15 minutes it takes to prepare them.

They make lunch a more inviting meal, and they are a step toward health and the energy and happy dispositions that go with it.

Lunch is one of the best places to use wheat germ, the flavorful, nutritious heart of wheat. This versatile food gives excellent amounts of B-vitamins, protein and iron to every dish in which it is used.

Here is a perfect hot luncheon dish, easy to make.

Wheat Luncheon Omelet

4 eggs, separated
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
¼ cup milk
½ cup wheat germ
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
4 slices cooked crisp bacon, crumbled

Make cheese sauce and keep ready. In a bowl, beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored; add seasonings, milk and wheat germ. In another bowl, beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Fold egg yolk mixture into stiffly beaten egg whites.

In a 9-inch skillet, melt butter or margarine over medium heat; reduce heat to low. Turn omelet mixture into skillet and cook three to five minutes, or until omelet puffs up and is browned on bottom. Test by raising edge of omelet with spatula.

Sprinkle crumbled bacon over top of omelet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 5-10 minutes, or until top springs back when pressed with finger.

Cut in about 1 inch at opposite sides of omelet with a sharp knife. Crease down through center in line with cuts. Pour cheese sauce on half of omelet; then fold carefully on crease by slipping spatula under half of omelet to fold over.

Slip onto hot platter and serve immediately. Serves four-six.

Cheese Sauce

4 tablespoons butter, melted
¼ cup flour
2 cups milk
½ pound sharp American cheese, shredded
½ teaspoon salt

Melt butter in top of double boiler over direct heat. Blend in flour, add milk gradually and cook over boiling water until thick, stirring constantly to keep smooth.

Add cheese and salt to taste, cover and continue to cook over hot water until cheese is melted. Stir occasionally. Yield: Two cups.

Team Sage, Onions

Sage and onions are a happy combination. Next time you're making stuffed onions, be sure to include some sage in among the bread crumbs. The two flavors seem to point up each other and make a truly delicious vegetable main dish.

Bran-Flavored Biscuit Dough Blankets Franks

There probably have been more jokes written about the new bride's biscuits than any other food. And while this popular quick bread has become more notable than necessary, still a light, fluffy biscuit is a delight!

Biscuits have found their way into every meal of the day. There's nothing more luxurious than serving biscuits, hot from the oven, at breakfast.

Then, they add a touch of true elegance to recipes such as Frankfurter Biscuits.

The extra measure of flavor in these recipes is contributed by ready-to-eat bran cereal.

Frankfurter Biscuits

½ cup ready-to-eat bran
½ cup milk
1½ cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ cup shortening
12 frankfurters

Combine bran and milk; let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and mustard. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse cornmeal. Add bran mixture; stir until combined.

Turn dough out on floured board; knead gently a few times. Roll out in rectangle to one-fourth-inch thickness; cut into 12 strips.

Wrap strip spiral-wise around each frankfurter, leaving ends open. Seal edges of dough. Bake on greased baking sheet in a very hot 450-degree oven about 15 minutes.

Serve at once with well-seasoned tomato sauce. Yield: Six servings, two frankfurters each.

Family Will Applaud Honey-Orange Carrots

Your family will love carrots if you prepare them this way. Slice about six good sized carrots and cook them in a small amount of boiling water just until they are tender-crisp; drain off any small amount of water remaining in the pan.

Now heat a couple of tablespoons each of honey and butter or margarine along with a teaspoon of grated orange rind; add the drained sliced cooked carrots and simmer until piping hot. Add salt to taste and serve at once.

Plenty of Pigs Going to Market

More little pigs are coming to market! According to local consumer information agents, the amount of pork in the retail markets is much larger this fall than in 1953, and the prices are lower. There are "tons of pork" — in many cuts!

Prices on pork loins will vary according to the cut — the seven-rib loin is the popular choice cut, usually averaging 30 cents less per pound than the choice center cut and 10 cents less than the end loins. In order to tie in an old-fashioned favorite, fresh sauerkraut is being featured in many stores.

Boston butts provide the most lean meat for the money in shopping, today, and spareribs are selling at an unusually low price. Bacon has hit the lowest cost level of a couple of years, for top-grade cured bacon of various well-known brands is plentiful at 10 to 20 cents less than the average.

One well-known brand of whole canned ham, ranging in size from 7 to 10 pounds, can be found at the lowest price available since World War II.

Chicken is still an economical buy. Chicken and noodles, or chicken and biscuits, is a taste-tempter at this time of the year—so stewers are a particularly good value. Price-wise consumers should take this opportunity to get an extra supply for the freezer. As the holidays approach, the prices of turkeys remain fairly constant.

It takes relatively small change to put a favorite fish variety on the table. However, when the cold weather brings ice and storms to our lake waters, the supply of fresh fish will decrease and it will be completely replaced by frozen fish. Now is the time to be market-wise and include fresh fish on the shopping list.

Rutabagas, turnips and parsnips — the often forgotten vegetables — are plentiful and at a reasonable price. For real cost saving, Michigan potatoes, onions and cabbage are still excellent choices. "Turkey days" suggest the more frequent use of sweet potatoes, which are available at low cost.

There are plenty of fall apple varieties for the teacher or for the saucepan. Jonathan, McIntosh and Snow apples are excellent for all purposes. Varieties of the Delicious eating apple are also popular.

Although the price of bananas remains quite steady all year, the cool dip in the temperature will mean an increase in their use. They are one of our "traveled" or shipped-in fruits.

Beef Liver Offers Low-Cost Nutrition

Now's the time to include beef liver often on your weekly shopping list. With beef production reaching an all-time high, liver is an economical buy these days.

Liver, so important nutritionally, is a good family main dish any day of the week. Properly prepared, this variety meat provides good eating in addition to good nutrition.

Young, tender beef liver may be pan-fried. It browns more easily if coated with flour before frying. Brown it in a little hot fat, season and cook slowly over low heat about 10 minutes, turning occasionally.

Beef liver also may be broiled. Brush one-half-inch thick slices with melted butter or margarine. Place on the broiler rack 3 inches from the heat source and broil five to six minutes or until well browned. Turn, using tongs, and brown the other side.

Persistent Bird Insists on Nest in Tail of Plane

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP) — A small bird with a flair for persistence and punctuality went about nest-building the hard way at Louisville's Standiford Air Field.

The bird, a sparrow or linnet, chose to build in the tail of a huge airliner which arrived at the field at 1:30 p.m. each day.

As soon as the plane taxied to a stop, the bird began carrying bits of straw and other materials into the tail section. It worked busily for three hours, until the plane took off at 4:30. It went back to work when the 1:30 plane returned next day.

The airline does not assign the same plane to the afternoon flight each day, but the bird always waited for the 1:30 flight.

Noted Author Says Films, TV Limit Writing Ability

ANN ARBOR (UP) — Elmer Rice, Pulitzer Prize winning playwright, thinks that it is difficult for current American writers to rise above the movies, radio and television.

Rice, who was on the University of Michigan campus to direct his play, "Dream Girl," with university talent, says:

"The trouble with a writer who is hired to write, say for the movies, is that he has to write to fit the medium, usually to fit the character of some chosen star.

"It would hardly be an exaggeration to say that no first class writing has come from the radio, television or movie fields. Probably because the writer has to cut the cloth to fit the pattern." But Rice adds, "There's nothing wrong with writing for those fields, if that's what the writer wants to do."

Rice, himself, studied law and passed the bar—but turned away from the legal world to write. His first play, he says it was the first he ever wrote, was a success on Broadway.

In 1929 his "Street Scene" won him the Pulitzer Prize. But unfortunately, he says, few young writers are that lucky.

"The young writers are much like the stagestruck kids who have one desire, to act. But nine-tenths of them don't have the talent," Rice adds.

"Yet," he says, "The opportunity for good writers still exists, but it offers no guarantee of a livelihood."

Now, the 62-year-old Rice says, there is too much industrilization of young writers. He adds:

"It robs them of their spontainety and freedom which are prerequisites for creativeness. I don't see why a person with a compulsion to write can't hold down another job too."

Rice says that Charles Lamb was in the government service, T. S. Eliot worked in a bank and Nathaniel Hawthorne had a consular position. Anyone who holds down a 40-hour-a-week job should be able to write on the side, he says.

"Anyone who wants to write, will write all night if he has to," Rice adds.

He says that one young playwright he knows has a good deal of promise, and yet works as a steward on a trans-oceanic airline, "writing on weekends off in Paris, London and New York."

Rice adds that some writers strike a popular chord with a particular piece that sells very well, among young writers that they will. "It continually raises the hopes strike it rich too," he adds.

But actually, he says, writing is judged in the end of its survival value—if it continues to communicate the writer's ideas to generation after generation.

However, Rice points out, "critics worry more about such things than creators."

Bright Farm Year Forecast

Benson Says Outlook for '55 Is 'Very Good,' Sees Stable Prices

CHICAGO (AP)—Prospects of farmers in 1955, says Secretary of Agriculture Benson, are "very good" and he expects prices to remain stable at about present levels.

He also predicted last night "an expanding and prosperous agricultural economy" will accompany the growth of the nation's population in the future.

He said by 1970 the population will have increased to 200 million and this means "we will have to increase our total agricultural production by about one-fourth."

That means, he said, "We must obtain this expanded production from roughly the same acreage in cultivation now. Some economists say the average farmer can increase his net income by 25 per cent. Some say 50 per cent. Some say more.

"But there's an if—if he uses all the new tools and techniques, the better breeds, better seeds, better feeds and better cultural practices now available."

Benson spoke at the Illinois Agricultural Assn. convention and at a news conference. He said he expects no changes in the "basic, fundamental" parts of the new agricultural act. However, he added, he figures there will be a "need for some refinements and modifications."

He said dairy prices will increase if the sales promotion program goes well, adding that progress is being made in reducing the oversupply of dairy products.

Police to Investigate Saddened Girls Death

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—An investigation has begun to determine the exact cause of the death yesterday of Joan C. Miller, 11. Donald Miller, the girl's father, said she had been suffering from shock and hysteria since learning of her grandfather's death.

Joan's grandfather Barney A. Miller, 60, of Jessup, Md., was killed last Monday by a tractor-trailer. The girl was extremely devoted to him, her parents said.

Ancient Medical Art in Use by Red China

TOKYO (AP)—Red China may be curing everything from cancer to athlete's foot with its ancient art of "acupuncture," Radio Peiping indicated today.

The practice involves puncturing the skin in various spots with gold and silver needles.

A broadcast heard here reported it had been found effective according to the Ministry of Health, in treating some 200 diseases, "bringing total or marked relief to 90 per cent."

Navy Secretary Heads Home From Inspection

In a month-long tour he visited most countries in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and watched maneuvers of the U. S. Mediterranean Fleet.

Two Presidents of the United States received the Nobel Peace Prize — Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

INDIAN LORE—The Teepee

This week Junior Editors will study Indian lore, and learn of many interesting things in the lives of American Indians. You'll also learn to make some Indian toys, starting with the teepee.

1. Today's drawing shows the pattern for making two small teepees, similar to those used by the Blackfeet tribe. Decorate the designs in bright colors, then color the rest of the teepees tan.

2. With white library paste, mount the whole square on stiff paper. When dry, cut out the two teepees carefully following heavy lines.

3. To make Chief Bison's teepee, bring edge BBB around and paste firmly to flap AAA. On Chief Eagle's teepee, bring edge GGG over to line FFF and paste firmly to flap. Then cut lines C and H on each teepee, and fold openings back on dotted lines D—E and J—K.

4. To make a complete Indian village in miniature, trace several copies of these on other paper.

Takes Workers on Miami Jaunt

99 Employes Go With Virginia Drug Maker for 4-Day Holiday

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A Richmond pharmaceutical manufacturer closed down his plant at 5 p.m. yesterday. Four hours later he boarded a train headed for Miami, Fla.

But E. Claiborne Robins wasn't alone. Exactly 99 of his employes thought the trip was a good idea and took the train with the boss for a four-day vacation in Miami Beach. Robins will foot the bills.

"Everybody ought to take time off and have a little fun now and then," he explained.

Three special coaches were chartered to take the party South. The group will stay at two swanky hotels at Robins' expense. The boss gave each employe $100 for spending money.

The vacation schedule includes a cruise on Biscayne Bay, a cocktail party, sightseeing and a night club tour. Some employes also have arranged to see Friday night's Alabama-Miami football game.

This is Robins' third all-expense-paid vacation for his employes. He took them to New York City in 1949 and 1951.

The boss says he got the idea for the first trip when an office worker told him she never had been to New York City. He asked other employes and found "some never had been out of Virginia.

Sharp Earthquake Felt in Southern California

THE 1955 BUICK

New thriller in Style-Power-Performance

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

A BRIGHT NEW FRESHNESS greets your eyes and tells you: Buick's done it again.

You see it in the bold distinction of that gleaming Wide-Screen Grille. You see it in the rakish sweep of the rear-end contours. You see it in the whole fore-and-aft newness of fleet-lined grace that marks Buick the beauty thrill of 1955.

New horsepower—up to 236

You learn more when you get the power story. Up to new peaks go the horsepowers of every Buick V8 engine—a walloping 188 hp in the low-price SPECIAL—a mighty 236 hp in the CENTURY, SUPER and ROADMASTER.

And it's new, more responsive, far abler power you can literally feel as you go.

But even bigger Buick news for 1955 is something more than style and power. *It's what the "variable pitch propeller" now has done for Dynaflow Drive.

Up goes performance—and gas mileage too

When you find it necessary to push the pedal to the floor board, you do more than call on the greatest high-compression V8 power in Buick history.

You do what a pilot does when he heads his plane down a runway.

You do in oil what he does in air—you cut down take-off time by using "variable pitch propellers."

In this case, the propeller blades are inside the Dynaflow unit. But they're engineered to swivel or change their "pitch" just like plane propellers—and with the same result: one pitch for getaway, another pitch for gas-saving fuel efficiency.

And what you get in the way of instantaneous safety-surge with absolute smoothness, you can only believe when you feel it.

This you have to try

Of course, we want you to come and see the trend-setting new Buicks—look into the betterments in gasoline mileage that add new thrift to these spectacular cars.

But this year, "seeing" is only the beginning. So—while you join the crowds viewing the new Buicks this week end, make a date to get behind the wheel as soon as you possibly can. We promise you the thrill of the year.

*Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Persistent Bird Insists on Nest in Tail of Plane

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP) — A small bird with a flair for persistence and punctuality went about nest-building the hard way at Louisville's Standiford Air Field.

The bird, a sparrow or linnet, chose to build in the tail of a huge airliner which arrived at the field at 1:30 p.m. each day.

As soon as the plane taxied to a stop, the bird began carrying bits of straw and other materials into the tail section. It worked busily for three hours, until the plane took off at 4:30. It went back to work when the 1:30 plane returned next day.

The airline does not assign the same plane to the afternoon flight each day, but the bird always waited for the 1:30 flight.

Noted Author Says Films, TV Limit Writing Ability

ANN ARBOR (UP) — Elmer Rice, Pulitzer Prize winning playwright, thinks that it is difficult for current American writers to rise above the movies, radio and television.

Rice, who was on the University of Michigan campus to direct his play, "Dream Girl," with university talent, says:

"The trouble with a writer who is hired to write, say for the movies, is that he has to write to fit the medium, usually to fit the character of some chosen star.

"It would hardly be an exaggeration to say that no first class writing has come from the radio, television or movie fields. Probably because the writer has to cut the cloth to fit the pattern." But Rice adds, "There's nothing wrong with writing for those fields, if that's what the writer wants to do."

Rice, himself, studied law and passed the bar—but turned away from the legal world to write. His first play, he says it was the first he ever wrote, was a success on Broadway.

In 1929 his "Street Scene" won him the Pulitzer Prize. But unfortunately, he says, few young writers are that lucky.

"The young writers are much like the stagestruck kids who have one desire, to act. But nine-tenths of them don't have the talent," Rice adds.

"Yet," he says, "The opportunity for good writers still exists, but it offers no guarantee of a livelihood."

Now, the 62-year-old Rice says, there is too much industrilization of young writers. He adds:

"It robs them of their spontainety and freedom which are prerequisites for creativeness. I don't see why a person with a compulsion to write can't hold down another job too."

Rice says that Charles Lamb was in the government service, T. S. Eliot worked in a bank and Nathaniel Hawthorne had a consular position. Anyone who holds down a 40-hour-a-week job should be able to write on the side, he says.

"Anyone who wants to write, will write all night if he has to," Rice adds.

He says that one young playwright he knows has a good deal of promise, and yet works as a steward on a trans-oceanic airline, "writing on weekends off in Paris, London and New York."

Rice adds that some writers strike a popular chord with a particular piece that sells very well, among young writers that they will, "It continually raises the hopes strike it rich too," he adds.

But actually, he says, writing is judged in the end of its survival value—if it continues to communicate the writer's ideas to generation after generation.

However, Rice points out, "critics worry more about such things than creators."

Bright Farm Year Forecast

Benson Says Outlook for '55 Is 'Very Good,' Sees Stable Prices

CHICAGO (AP)—Prospects of farmers in 1955, says Secretary of Agriculture Benson, are "very good" and he expects prices to remain stable at about present levels.

He also predicted last night "an expanding and prosperous agricultural economy" will accompany the growth of the nation's population in the future.

He said by 1970 the population will have increased to 200 million and this means "we will have to increase our total agricultural production by about one-fourth."

That means, he said, "We must obtain this expanded production from roughly the same acreage in cultivation now. Some economists say the average farmer can increase his net income by 25 per cent. Some say 50 per cent. Some say more.

"But there's an if—if he uses all the new tools and techniques, the better breeds, better seeds, better feeds and better cultural practices now available."

Benson spoke at the Illinois Agricultural Assn. convention and at a news conference. He said he expects no changes in the "basic, fundamental" parts of the new agricultural act. However, he added, he figures there will be a "need for some refinements and modifications."

He said dairy prices will increase if the sales promotion program goes well, adding that progress is being made in reducing the oversupply of dairy products.

Police to Investigate Saddened Girls Death

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—An investigation has begun to determine the exact cause of the death yesterday of Joan C. Miller, 11. Donald Miller, the girl's father, said she had been suffering from shock and hysteria since learning of her grandfather's death.

Joan's grandfather Barney A. Miller, 60, of Jessup, Md., was killed last Monday by a tractor-trailer. The girl was extremely devoted to him, her parents said.

Ancient Medical Art in Use by Red China

TOKYO (AP)—Red China may be curing everything from cancer to athlete's foot with its ancient art of "acupuncture," Radio Peiping indicated today.

The practice involves puncturing the skin in various spots with gold and silver needles.

A broadcast heard here reported it had been found effective according to the Ministry of Health, in treating some 200 diseases, "bringing total or marked relief to 90 per cent."

Navy Secretary Heads Home From Inspection

In a month-long tour he visited most countries in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and watched maneuvers of the U. S. Mediterranean Fleet.

Two Presidents of the United States received the Nobel Peace Prize — Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

INDIAN LORE—The Teepee

This week Junior Editors will study Indian lore, and learn of many interesting things in the lives of American Indians. You'll also learn to make some Indian toys, starting with the teepee.

1. Today's drawing shows the pattern for making two small teepees, similar to those used by the Blackfeet tribe. Decorate the designs in bright colors, then color the rest of the teepees tan.

2. With white library paste, mount the whole square on stiff paper. When dry, cut out the two teepees carefully following heavy lines.

3. To make Chief Bison's teepee, bring edge BBB around and paste firmly to flap AAA. On Chief Eagle's teepee, bring edge GGG over to line FFF and paste firmly to flap. Then cut lines C and H on each teepee, and fold openings back on dotted lines D—E and J—K.

4. To make a complete Indian village in miniature, trace several copies of these on other paper.

Indians Getting More Top Jobs

New Delhi Government Says Many Natives in Higher-Paid Positions

NEW DELHI (UP) — The progress of Indianization in foreign-controlled firms in India has progressed favorably, according to the latest official figures. The only exceptions are plantation estates and jute companies.

An analysis of the latest returns shows that in the lowest salary group — $62 to $100 per month — virtually the entire personnel is Indian. The salary group from $100 to $200 per month also is now overwhelmingly Indian, the actual percentage having risen from 56.5 in 1947 to 93.3 in 1954.

These two categories no longer worry the government. It now attaches importance to the salary group of $200 and above. In this case, the percentage in respect of technical and non-technical posts has risen from seven per cent in 1947 to 32 per cent in 1954.

India, unlike other countries, has depended upon persuasion in getting foreign-controlled companies to hire Indians in the higher paying jobs. Every foreign-controlled firm has to submit an annual report on the number of foreigners and number of Indians it hires. This return has proved a corrective in most cases for any foreign firm that refused to hire Indians.

It is interesting to note that although the number of Indians employed has increased, the number of foreigners has stayed about the same. In 1947, there were 6,162 Indians and 7,623 foreigners in executive positions. In 1954, the number of Indians had risen to 18,642 while the number of foreigners rose only to 7,750.

Of the 7,750 foreigners employed in firms in India, 6,747 are British nationals. Americans number 230, Swiss 147, Germans 86, Danes 73, Dutch 67, Swedes 55, Pakistani 45, Chinese 40.

Only 3 per cent of the nation's salt is consumed as food.

Show Business

Ethel Merman and Fanny Brice Calmest Performers Opening Night

By EDDIE CANTOR

What makes opening night in the theater different from the others? An actor who is cool as an ice cube, otherwise, becomes panicky to the point of being ill. Not so much the out-of-town openings. It's that New York Broadway crowd that frightens them.

My nomination for the calmest opening night performer is tied between the late Fanny Brice and Ethel Merman. Ethel has never worried about the audience. "They paid to see this show. Let them be nervous," she has said.

One time the great singing start Nora Bayes, watching her cast pacing nervously backstage before the opening night curtain, soothed them with this: "Is there any sane reason why God shouldn't love you on Monday night in New York after He permitted you to be a riot on Saturday night in Boston?"

Bernard Sobel, Ziegfeld's great press agent, recalls Ed Wynn's agonies the day "Simple Simon" was to open. He suddenly remembered Ed hadn't had a bite of food all day and suggested he eat some dinner. But Ed was too nervous to swallow a thing.

Finally, at Sobel's insistence, he gave in. "All right, just bring me something light." He actually devoured a plate of frankfurters, baked beans and four dill pickles, then went on and "killed" the first-nighters.

Jolson always complained of a sore throat before an opening performance and insisted he couldn't go on, but he never missed an opening and never was anything less than a smash hit. Psychosomatic I guess we'd call it today.

My old friend, W. C. Fields, never gave the wise Broadway audience a thought. The night he opened in Earl Carroll's "Vanities" Fields walked out of a prop building. He evidently kicked the door a little too hard and the building, made of canvas and light boards, fell down. In that typical Fieldian voice, he merely said, "They don't build 'em like they used to any more."

Real Friends Stay Around When Good Fortune Hits

By MARGARET LATROBE

Now and then some elderly celebrity, commenting on his own life, will say—"But I can count my real friends on one hand."

Similar statements are heard frequently enough to make one wonder—only those few? After a lifetime of meeting people, no more than five?

A young couple, recent Irish Sweepstakes winners, learned there are few fair weather friends. After a few delirious weeks of paying off the mortgage, buying a big new convertible, putting some money in the bank and giving most to Uncle Sam, they suddenly realized their phone hadn't rung in weeks.

No friend stopped in with congratulations. Even their families dropped them cold. Time hung heavy. They weren't accustomed to loafing. Or having enough dough. Theirs was a bitter triumph, an empty victory over previous hardships.

Where was their handful of faithful friends? What made friends disappear, sulking over good fortune's smile for others than themselves?

I've thought many times that the old chestnut about "fair weather friends" was stated backward.

While it is true that there are always freeloaders who are with you when it's easy, and absent when it's tough, it seems to me that generally it works the other way.

Human nature can be pretty inhuman sometimes. It will respond warmly and spontaneously to misfortune. But just let somebody get a windfall and it's a different story.

Win an icebox or a mink coat on a quiz show, get a big promotion at the office, inherit a buck from Aunt Lou—and see how delighted your friends are! They would prefer to feel sorry for you if your luck turned sour.

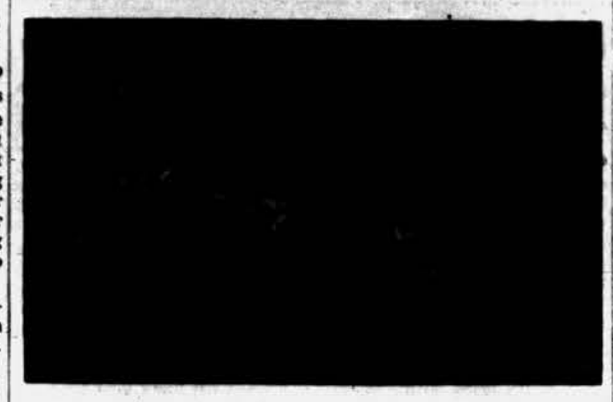

Lose your job, be stricken with illness and tragedy, with the house burning to the ground—and what happens? Your friends will spring up everywhere. They will feed, clothe you, build a new home, give you work. Doctors will preform that life saving operation. All for free.

I guess it isn't so difficult to understand, really. Human beings need to give. They need to be needed, sometimes to the point where it makes them downright selfish and envious. By winning the sweepstakes you remove their means of giving. You block their channels for doing good, being helpful. They are your friends no longer.

There is yet that blessed handful. Those who wish you well, even in good fortune. Cherish them. They are your true friends.

SUPER SABRE GROUNDED—The Air Force has grounded all F-100 Super Sabres as a result of three crashes since Oct. 12. Grounding of jet fighter, holder of the world's top speed record of 755.1 mph, was a precautionary measure pending a thorough probe of the causes of the crashes.

Mechanical Chairman Governs Time on Stand

WASHINGTON (UP) — Science has come up with a new gimmick to insure everyone equal time at congressional hearings.

The automatic computer was inspired by Sen. Karl Mundt's (R-SD) troubles in alotting time to witnesses at the Army-McCarthy hearings. The machine, operated by the committee chairman, tells witnesses when to start and stop their testifying and subtracts time consumed by interruptions of their testimony.

Banks along the Suez canal are chiefly of sand and gravel. In some places, however, concrete has been used to check erosion and slide damage.

Hal Boyle Says:

Not-Very-Wild Boars Run Gantlet of Belgian Hunters

ST. HUBERT, Belgium (AP)—Well, if you are one of the people to whom I promised to bring back a wild boar's ear as a souvenir of Belgium, you might as well forget it.

I can't deliver. I'm coming home without the bacon.

It was a desperate idea anyway. It came to me only after a friend said pityingly:

"Every writer I know worth his salt is on safari in Africa, bagging his rhino, buffalo and elephant—to prove his manhood. What are you proving by going to Belgium?"

"I'm after wild boar, that is an even more important test of manhood," I replied, on the spur of the moment.

"Are they dangerous?" he inquired, doubtfully.

"Why, it's the oldest and most dangerous game in the world," I told him. "Don't you know that eight—or was it nine—of King Arthur's Knights of the Round Table were tusked to death by maddened wild boars? No sissy stuff—like using guns. You spear 'em from horseback."

He didn't believe me until I assured him wild boars' ears were great trophies in Europe, and were used as bookmarks, or, when dried and cured, as poker chips. Soon I had promised to bring back more than 90 wild boar ears.

"well, Rover, you've really lied your way into trouble this time," my wife told me as I left. "Unless you find a dead pig in the woods with as many ears as a centipede has legs, I can't see how you can get out of this one."

I felt my honor was at stake. I looked up a wild boar expert here and asked if he would take me on a hunt. He agreed. So I tied my passport around my body — for identification in case of accident—and wrote out a one paragraph will leaving all my debts to my wife.

"Now where do I borrow a spear and a horse?" I asked, recalling that the last time I had been on a horse was in 1936.

"Oh, that style of hunting went out long ago," my host, who has bagged nearly 100 wild boars, explained. "We use rifles now."

Then he described how it is done. It is all rather hereditary. You either have to inherit the land or have considerable money.

The wild boars are naturally hereditary. So are the dogs and the beaters who rout them out of the deep forest recesses. So are many of the hunters who take up fixed positions and wait for the hereitary dogs and hereditary beaters to chase the hereditary wild boars past them.

The direction you fire is also hereditary. You must shoot only down certain fixed lines, lines fixed perhaps by a great grandfather of a present hunter to insure safety.

"In a single season we may take as many as 400 boars," my host said, "but I can't even recall the last time a hunter was accidentaly killed. A few years ago, it is true, one beater was slightly wounded. As he was being carried by on a litter one of our guest hunters, a visiting prince from the Middle East, asked 'Are we permtited to shoot the beaters, too?"

"But aren't wild boars terribly dangerous?" I asked.

"Quite rarely," he assured me. "They always run from a man except when wounded, and even then seldom attack a hunter. We go to some expense to keep them cheerful. If it is a bad winter, we spread acorns and potatoes in the forest so they will not suffer for lack of food."

Well, that drained away my remaining hunting lust. I could see now how it all works. At the start of each hunting season an old grandpa boar calls his family together and says, "The proprietors of the forest have been very kind to us this year. It is a matter of family honor that we show our gratitude. We must let the hunters have their sport. As I am old and bored with being wild anyway, I will volunteer torun by the firing lanes today. Remember, noblesse oblige!"

The family shakes hooves farewell. Old grandpa lurches rheumatically upright, and rolling his eyes and snorting as loud as he can leaps up before the dogs and beaters. The hunt is on!

Well, call me a sissy, but I just couldn't go through with it. It would be like trying to blast open a hairy piggy bank with a shotgun.

So I'm coming home without my wild boar's ears. Anybody like a nice lace handkerchief from Bruges?

New Cavern in Iowa to Be Opened Soon

BEULAH FALLS, Ia. (UP) — Iowa's answer to the Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico, Spook Cave, is being prepared for public inspection.

A new cave was discovered near this picnic spot in October, 1953, by Gerald Mielke, 37, a Monona, Ia., farmer and M. James Hohman, 45, former McGregor, Ia., resident.

The two men investigated a hole in the bluffs on the Mississippi River near here which natives had called "spooky" because of the sounds coming from it.

Mielke and Hohman dynamited a hole into the bluff and discovered a mile-long underground river with one subterranean room 100 feet long and 45 feet across. They also found two underground waterfalls and six other rooms through which the river flows.

"There are thousands of caves in Iowa but this will be the only one you can get into with a boat," Mielke said. The men plan to open the cave next spring and charge admission.

Nevada has more than 400 acres per inhabitant.

Wife Is Quizzed on Hubby's Job in Firm's Contest

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (UP) — A large manufacturing company has introduced a really "different" telephone quiz in which the winners are those wives who know how their husbands are doing in their jobs.

Calls are made weekly to two wives of sales personnel after their names have been drawn from a hopper. A top executive asks the wives questions about their husbands' sales in the current month.

Winners in the "San Gabriel Calling" contest receive household appliances. They may be wives of personnel in any of the company's 34 branches in the United States. The company says the program has produced "excellent morale results."

Seaway Project to End Search for Treasure

OGDENSBURG, N. Y. (UP) — Development of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project will put an end to a 200-year-old search for buried treasure on Treasure Island.

The island, located below Ogdensburg in the St. Lawrence River, is supposed to have had a chest of gold buried somewhere on it by Lord Amherst's army in 1760.

Treasure Island will be flooded over when the big seaway and power dams are built.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headaches, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today

Dog's Life Good in U.S., Wartime Pet Discovers

BALLSTON SPA, N. Y. (UP)—Ten years ago Katie was a tiny German toy terrier riding out World War II in a U. S. Army tank.

Today, she's 14 years old but still the best exchange Edward T. Chamberlain ever made for a pack of cigarettes.

Chamberlain was a tank gunner when he traded the cigarettes for the five-pound dog. She soon became battalion mascot, shared GI rations and traveled in a musette bag in Chamberlain's tank.

When the war ended, Chamberlain slipped Katie aboard ship and brought her home. They're still together. Instead of K-rations — Katie now gets ice cream cones for a treat.

TANDEM 'COPTER IN MAIDEN FLIGHT—The world's largest tandem helicopter, the Air Force's YH-16 transporter, is shown as it was flown for the first time above Philadelphia, Pa. It flew at speed in excess of 130 mph and at altitudes between 3,000 and 4,000 feet. The Army plans to use the 'copter for cargo and troop transport.

Brunch Will Be Served at Naval Chow Halls

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (INS)—Officers at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station have weakened in their battle with sleepy bluejackets.

The officers, irked with having nearly empty chow halls on Sundays and holidays, are going to experiment with serving brunch, the leisurely combination of breakfast and lunch.

On Sundays and holidays brunch will be available from 9 a.m. to noon.

Makes Strong Protest

MARYSVILLE, Calif. (UP) — Frank Van Riper, an employe of the Sandwich Inn, which holds the contract for meals at city jail here, was sitting on a local park when an unidentified man walked up and said, "So you're the guy who's been feeding us at the jail!" Then he punched Van Riper on the nose.

Turley, Others Go to Yanks in Big Player Deal

By ED WILKS

NEW YORK (AP)—In a move to revamp their pitching staff in one sweeping deal, the New York Yankees picked up Bullet Bob Turley and Don Larsen, a pair of young righthanders, from the Baltimore Orioles in a trade that may involve as many as 12 players, The Associated Press learned from an authoritative source.

In addition to Turley and Larsen, perhaps the most promising of the young pitchers sprinkled among the also-ran teams of the American League, the Yanks also reportedly received shortstop Billy Hunter.

In return, the Yankees, who had made repeated inquiries about all three Orioles in the past, gave up veteran outfielder Gene Woodling and a disappointing righthanded pitcher in Harry Byrd as well as first baseman Eddie Robinson, utility infielder Willie Miranda and Jim McDonald, a 4-1 righthander. Several minor league players also are said to be involved.

The deal—one of baseball's biggest in recent years—is expected to be confirmed Thursday in two separate press conferences called by the Yankees and Orioles.

Two of the minor-league players are believed to be catchers—Gus Triandos, who played at Kansas City last season, and Hal Smith of Columbus (Ohio).

Neither Turley nor Larsen had impressive won-lost records with the seventh-place Orioles. But Turley, 24, powered his fire ball for a league-leading strikeout total of 184 and had an earned-run average of 3.46 while winning 14 and losing 15.

Larsen, 26, had a miserable record, winning only three of 24 decisions, but still was held in high regard by the league. One of his victories was a shutout against the second-place Yanks, who lost out in the pennant race for the first time since 1949. In between, the Bronx Bombers won an unprecedented five straight world championships.

The Yanks lost little in giving up Byrd, who finished with a so-so 9-7 record that fell far below the Yanks' expectations when they picked up the 30-year-old hurler along with Robinson in an 11-player deal with the Philadelphia Athletics last winter.

Woodling, a Yankee for the past six years, was hobbled by injuries last season and batted only .250—his lowest mark in nine major league seasons.

Hunter, at 26, has two major league seasons behind him, with the St. Louis Browns and the Orioles, as "a new Marty Marion". Not a hitter, he batted .244 last season, Hunter has proved promising in the field and could be the Yanks' replacement for veteran Phil Rizzuto.

ALL-AMERICA PROSPECT — Key-player Guy Sparrow, University of Detroit Titans' top scorer, is a definite All-America cage prospect this winter. That's what his backers in this area believe. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sparrow, Pontiac, Guy is a former PHS sports star. The action shot above shows the 6-foot 5-inch forward taking a pass preparatory to a shot at the hoops.

Detroit to Represent U.S. in Bid for 1960 Olympics

DETROIT (AP) — Fred Matthaei, a man who has spent 18 years and an estimated $200,000 of his own money to bring the Olympics to Detroit, says he thinks Rome will 1960 despite Detroit's nomination get the game site in 1960 despite Detroit's nomination to represent the United States in a world bid.

A U. S. Olympic screening committee endorsed Detroit yesterday at a Chicago meeting where bids from four other cities also were received.

Also represented were Los Angeles, Minneapolis, Philadelphia and Chicago.

The selection committee's nomination now must be approved in a mail vote from the entire U. S. Olympic committee which numbers 75 members.

"It would be extremely unusual for the membership to reject its recommendation," said Matthaei who has fought so long for Detroit that eagerness would be out of character.

However, Matthaei thinks, as do other close observers, that Detroit could easily get the nod in 1964. "The general concensus is that Detroit will be a holdover until the United States is picked to hold the Olympiad," said Matthaei, "and I believe that even though by that time the selection committee will be a totally different personnel they won't disregard this year's selection.

"I've heard rumors that the European Olympic committees are ready to vote for Rome as the 1960 site," siad the wealthy Detroit steel corporation president, "and if that's the case this side of the hemisphere will be out of the question.

"Usually the international Olympic committee aims at a certain area rather than a specific spot and the site that area is in gets the games."

Matthaei, who will be one of the Detroit representatives in Paris June 14-17 if Detroit's nomination is ratified, said about 1 cities around the world will be considered there. Chief contenders besides Detroit are Rome, Mexico City, Buenos Aires and Tokyo, he said.

State Distributes 1955 Fish Licenses

LANSING (AP)—The Conservation Department has started distributing 1¼ million 1955 fishing licenses to 4,000 dealers through the state for sale beginning Dec. 1.

Licenses will cost residents $1.50, the same as last year. The department said wives will again be permitted to fish on their husband's license. Children under 17 will also be permitted to fish without licenses.

Price of annual non-resident licenses will be increased from $3 to $4, the department said, and the cost of 15-day permits will be boosted from $2 to $3. Price of the trout stamp will remain $1.

Two Prominent Sports Figures Attack NCAA

Krause, Allen Score Policies, Urge Press to Be 'Watchdog'

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Two prominent sports figures attacked policies of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. Wednesday at The Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. meeting.

Ed (Moose) Krause, Notre Dame athletic director, renewed his criticism of the NCAA's television program and called for a complete revision. Dr Forrest C. (Phog) Allen, Kansas basketball coach, said an "enforcer" was needed for the rules governing subsidization and proselyting and urged the press to take an active role as a watchdog on NCAA rules.

Krause and Allen appeared with Al Lopez, manager of the Cleveland Indians, on a panel and told the newsmen how they would edit sports pages.

Krause said professional football attendance was up because of widespread television but he made it clear Notre Dame did not intend to pull out of the NCAA over the matter of television restrictions.

Allen said "folding money over or under the table is the worst evil in college" and that "the cause of the lack of enforcement is college presidents. They do not want to surrender power."

Lopez said he would like to see the sports pages "bring out the inside information of sports, the finer points" and that if he were writing the news he would boost the good plays "instead of knocking the fellow who makes a mistake."

Montreal Wins Big-4 Opener

HAMILTON (AP)—If the Big Four football final between the Hamilton Tiger-Cats and the Montreal Alouettes ends up in a tie Saturday at Montreal, it could go on and on and on.

Montreal defeated Hamilton 14-9 Wednesday in a close battle opening the two-game total-point series at Hamilton.

"The referee can order the teams to play 10 overtime minutes each way—that is, a 20-minute period with an end-change halfway through," said Big Four Secretary Wes Brown.

Ed Furgol Scores Ace at 125 Yards Yesterday

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ed Furgol, National Open Golf Champion who injured his one good arm recently, dropped his tee shot for an ace Wednesday on a 125-yard hole.

Brilliant Guy Sparrow Expected to Set Pace for UD in Tough MVC Campaign

Pontiac may have its first All-America basketball player for the forthcoming season. The player nominated by a national basketball magazine is senior forward Guy Sparrow, ex-Pontiac High School star who now owns all scoring and rebounding records at the University of Detroit.

The Titans, with every member of the squad returning, are looking forward to their best cage season since 1949-50 when coach Bob Calihan saw his team win 20 of 26 games, and high scoring Sparrow will again pace the U. of D. attack.

For two straight years, Guy was named to the all-Missouri Valley Conference team, and with the Titans his scoring has reached 1,008 points. The only record not yet in his possession is the career total of 1,494 points and he will probably annex that this year.

This year's basketball race in the Missouri Valley conference looms as one of the toughest in the country. Wichita and St. Louis are rated the top contenders with Detroit, Tulsa, Oklahoma A & M and Houston all boasting improved ball clubs.

The Titans open the season Dec. 1 against a Detroit-stocked Assumption College team which has every man back from the squad which won 17 and lost five last year. U. of D. follows with Michigan State at East Lansing Dec. 4 and then a home game with always powerful Bowling Green, Dec. 6.

Expected Heavy Deer Kill Has Failed to Materialize

By JACK PATTERSON

CURRAN—Deer hunters in this area got just about perfect cooperation from the weatherman for Monday's opening. An absence of snow served, perhaps, to mar classical tradition but at daybreak it was cold enough for even the mossiest-backed diehards.

With the large number of deer known to be in this area heavy kill seemed likely. Oddly enough it didn't materialize.

The rather messy job of dressing out a buck at our camp first was done by Hugh Grove, who tumbled a nice 4-pointer about an hour after the season began.

Of our neighbors next door at Camp 24, only Glenn Griffin managed to hoist a buck on the rack at the end of the 1st day. All the boys there reported seeing very few deer although they were in evidence everywhere a few days ago.

Up at the Ten-Buck Club, things were even worse with Bill Bundy the only member reporting so much as a near-miss. Picture was pretty much the same everywhere in the area with most hunters wondering where the deer had suddenly disappeared to. Actually dry weather conditions probably has as much as anything to do with it. As Floyd Blakeslee put it, conditions under foot gave the still hunter the impression that he's walking on corn flakes.

The patient hunter who can sit in one spot by hours has the edge. But this can be a vexing proposition if nothing much happens by.

Tuesday was much more like mid-summer than November and while it wasn't what is generally considered prime deer hunting weather it was useful for other purposes—napping under a tree being one of them—and generally pleasant to be up and about in.

It was a day full of near misses, but there is always tomorrow and this column has repeatedly pointed out there is a great deal more to hunting than merely reducing some wild creature to a mass of more or less edible meat.

Cincinnati Will Open Baseball Season April 11

CINCINNATI, (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs, a second-division club for a decade, will open their 1955 baseball campaign against the Chicago Cubs April 11.

The Reds, as the first professional baseball team, traditionally start the season at home.

The 1955 home schedule, released Wednesday, shows 36 night games at Crosley Field, four more than last season.

Only eight midweek day games are slated, one on Monday, the opening day, one on Friday, two on Wednesday, four on Thursday and none on Tuesday.

Title Bout Set

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Henry (Pappy) Gault of Spartanburg, S. C. and Johnny O'Brien of Boston will fight here Dec. 2 for the U. S. bantamweight championship.

Matchmaker Gabe Menendez said Wednesday the title fight will not be broadcast or televised.

You Be the Quarterback

By Warren Geer
Head Football Coach
Drake University

San Jose State's passing attack has been great all season. A giant end leads the nation in receptions. But the Spartan's running game has been very ordinary.

Fresno State has done a fine defensive job against San Jose's passing, in spite of the fact that both touchdowns in the 14-14 games have come by the air. Early in the 4th quarter, San Jose has the ball on Fresno State's 21-yard line, 3rd down and two.

A San Jose guard jumps offside, and you, the Fresno State quarterback and captain, are asked whether you'll take the penalty. Rates these choices 1, 2 for this spot:

Take the penalty, making it 3rd down and seven on your 26

Refuse the penalty, making it 4th and two on your 21

Last Public Appearance?

Note of Sadness Marks Party for Connie Mack

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The tall, thin-man — no longer spry and erect—entered the hotel ballroom haltingly with the help of a cane and his omnipresent chauffeur.

Someone started singing "happy birthday" and everyone joined in the slightly off key male chorus that grew in volume and dissonance.

For many of those present it was a throat-filling moment as the old man with the matching white eyebrows and hair was guided across the ballroom floor to a six-tiered cake.

There were indications that Connie Mack was making one of his final public appearances.

It was probably one of the noisiest and saddest birthday parties on record. The illustrious guest of honor stayed only 15 minutes and that brief period was one of flashbulb popping, singing, cheering and pushing activity—the kind he would have enjoyed more a few years ago.

It wasn't really Connie's birthday. He won't be 92 until Dec. 23—two days before Christmas, but the members of the Reciprocity Club, a Philadelphia fraternal organization, wanted to honor the "grand old man of baseball" and his longtime friend, Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators.

The invited a number of local sports figures like Howard Ehmke, who once pitched for Connie Mack in the heyday of the Athletics. And there was Bing Miller, another "big name" in Athletics history.

Clark Griffith couldn't make the trip to Philadelphia to help celebrate his old friend's birthday—and his own 87th—a little early.

Suddenly it was all over. Mack's son, Earle, helped him to his feet. A hush fell over the crowd as Connie moved windingly among the tables toward the door. In a moment he had gone and there didn't seem to be nearly as much gayety in the room as there had been earlier.

OSU's Offense Matched With Defense of UM

Kramer's Fine Kicking Average Could Be Big Factor in Game

By JOHN BARBOUR

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The Big Ten's top football offense is a 13-point favorite to beat the Big Ten's best defense Saturday, but the late Fielding Yost would have taken the bet.

Ohio State, the offensive leader, and Michigan, the defensive leader, face each other in the windup of the Big Ten season before the nation's television cameras in Columbus, Ohio.

For the 12th time in 15 years the battle will decide the Big Ten title.

The situation seems "made" for Yost, who died in 1946 but left his stamp on Michigan football after 44 years as coach and athletic director.

The Yost doctrine was based on a sound defense. Michican coach Bennie Oosterbaan says, "defense is important, but so is your offensive strength."

The Big Ten statistics, released today, gave both Michigan and Ohio State the leadership of the defensive and offensive rankings. But one team, Northwestern's Wildcats, still without a conference victory, are the ball club which has domainted the control of the ball the most this season. Northwestern has an average of almost 73 plays a game while limiting opponents to about 59. The main weakness of the Wildcats has been in the fumbling department, where they average four a game.

One thing is obvious. Northwestern was not beaten badly by either Ohio State or Michigan. Both teams defeated Northwestern by a one-touchdown margin.

Presence on the Michigan side of lineman of the week Ron Kramer may help the Michigan cause extensively. Kramer is the Big Ten master of the punt with a 41.2 yard average. The punt is an essential weapon in controlling the ball and in field position.

In 1950, on a field covered with snow, Michigan beat Ohio State on the punting prowess of halfback Chuck Ortmann. It could happen again.

Amateur Golf King Palmer Becomes Pro

CHICAGO (AP)—The 1954 U. S. amateur golf champion, Arnold Palmer, has turned pro.

He learned his golf from his father, current golf professional at Latrobe, Pa., Golf Club, and hit his peak this year.

In addition to the 1954 amateur crown, Palmer won the All-American amateur title at Tam O'Shanter, the Atlantic Coast Conference championship and the Ohio State amateur.

NEW YORK (AP) — Lulu Perez, Brooklyn lightweight, and Joey Lopes of Sacramento, Calif., have been signed for a 10-round fight at St. Nicks Arena Nov. 29. The fight will be televised to some parts of the country by DuMont.

Ameche Closes Great Badger Grid Career

'Strongest Runner in Football' Has Gained 3,319 Yards

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The big guy who carried Wisconsin's football fortunes on his swaying shoulders for four years winds up his college career Saturday.

"The strongest runner in football history not excepting Bronko Nagurski," was the tag hung on Alan (The Horse) Ameche by coach Red Sanders of UCLA a year ago, and the figures back up Sanders' statement.

The 212-pound battering ram, who'll wear Wisconsin's cardinal for the last time at Camp Randall stadium Saturday against Minnesota, has carried the ball more times and gained more yardage than any other fullback in college football annals.

Ameche's yardage, including the Rose Bowl game of 1953, totals up to 3,319 in 688 attempts. He broke the old NCAA ground gaining record of 3,166 yards set by Ollie Matson of San Francisco three years ago against Purdue two weeks back and already held the mark for number of tries.

Midget Cage Play to Start

First Session Slated for Saturday Morning at PHS Gym

Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's annual midget basketball program will get under way at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Pontiac High School gymnasium.

Program is open for 5th and 6th grade boys who will not have reached their 13th birthday by May 1, 1955. Saturday's session will be the 1st of 14 weekly meetings.

Fundamentals will be stressed at the 1st six sessions. After the Christmas holidays, teams will be divided and classified as to ability and past experience and placed in competition with teams of equal ability.

Instructors will be Dean Wilson, Robert "Des" Boyce and Ed Heikkinen, of the Pontiac High athletic staff.

Trojans Stress Defensive Work for UCLA Tilt

Coach Jess Hill Hopes to Stop Bruins' First Charge

By JACK STEVENSON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Word has come from the secret practice field that the University of Southern California Trojans are stressing defense as they prepare to meet UCLA Saturday.

It's no surprise since the high-scoring Bruins, undefeated and untied in eight games, have scored the first time they controlled the ball against all opponents except Maryland.

Coach Jess Hill undoubtedly believes if he can stop the first Bruin charge the chances of the underdog Trojans go up.

With the conference title at stake, the Bruins striving to regain their No. 1 spot nationally, and the Trojans seeking a clear title to the Rose Bowl, a capacity crowd of 102,000 will see the game.

Southern California already is the PCC choice for the Rose Bowl since UCLA can't repeat against the Big Ten champion because of a provision in the pact between the two conferences. But the Trojans don't want to be the first second-place PCC team to appear at Pasadena.

A quarter century ago the rivalry between the two schools started with the powerful Trojans manhandling the baby Bruins 76-0 and they still lead the series with 14 victories, 5 defeats and 4 ties. But times have changed. The Bruins are favored this week and they've won three of the last five meetings.

Red Wings Clown, Still Beat Spartans

EAST LANSING (AP)—Detroit Red Wings, enjoying a rest from league hockey, clowned through an exhibition game with Michigan State at East Lansing last night.

Red Wings put in 13 goals to 3 for the Spartans, five of them against Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuck who donned a green shirt to serve as the MSC net minder for the 3rd period.

Alex DelVecchio got Detroit off to a fast start by scoring unassisted nine seconds after the start of play.

RO, Oxford, Wolves Post Best Prep Marks

By JACK SAYLOR

With the exception of one game, the 1954 prep football season is history and Royal Oak, Oxford and Clarkston have posted the best records of Oakland County schools in Class A, B and C, respectively.

Even should Royal Oak drop its Thanksgiving Day tussle with Birmingham, the Acorns still would have a 7-2 mark to 6-2-1 for Hazel Park and 6-2 for Southfield. The Oaks' 8-1 mark was the county's best in Class A last year, too.

Oxford's Wildcats are the county's only undefeated, untied team. Avondale also was unbeaten, but played 3 ties. In the area, North Branch and Dryden had perfect seasons.

For North Branch it was the 3rd striaght undefeated season. The Broncs have not lost in 24 games. They were tied once each in 1952 and 1953. Their 9 wins in the longest all-victory streak. Avondale has played 13 games without a loss.

At the other end of the line are Pontiac St. Frederick's and Farmington. St. Fred's has gone 16 games without a victory (1 tie) and Framington has lost 15 straight games. Troy has a string of 9 defeats and little Bloomfield Hills has vainly sought a victory for 13 games.

St. James and South Lyon also went without wins this season as did area teams Mayville and Brown City.

Most improved teams of the year were Oxford, which went from 3-4-1 to 8-0; Dryden, which jumped from 3-5 to 7-0; and Clarkston, which had 1-6-1 a year ago, and this fall won 5 out of 8 and the Wayne-Oakland championship.

Champions of other leagues include Berkley in the Inter-Lakes, Avondale and Roseville in the Oakland-B, Hazel Park in the Eastern Michigan, North Branch in the South Central, Center Line in the Bi-County, and Dryden in the Southern Thumb.

North Branch's title was its 3rd straight, while Avondale gained a co-championship for the 2nd straight time. All other defending winners were dethroned.

Top offensive teams were Center Line (226 points), North Branch (203) and Oxford (193). Avondale's powerful defense limited foes to 26 points in 9 games, while Dryden yielded only 25 in 7 for the best defensive showings.

Royal Oak, Hazel Park, Center Line, Utica, North Branch and Imlay City also turned in very fine records, defensively. Avondale and Hazel Park scored 5 shutouts, while Rochester, Lapeer and East Detroit had 4 apiece.

Berkley and Northville managed winning records, though outscored. Berkley tallied only 107 points, while giving up 115, yet won 6 out of 9. Conversely, St. Michael's outscored their opposition 150-87, yet had a 4-5 record. For the 3rd straight year, Waterford scored more points than its foes, but finished under .500.

Farmington generously gave up 218 points, while scoring only 43. Brown City tallied 13 points to 205, but Mayville had the poorest mark. After 6 straight shutouts, the South Central Conference team scored 2 touchdowns in the final game. Their total yield was 281 points in 7 defeats. Mercifully one other game was canceled because of heavy rain.

Complete final figures are elsewhere on this page.

Carter Batters DeMarco to Regain Title

By BOB MYERS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The world lightweight boxing championship was back in familiar surroundings today—in the possession of Jimmy Carter of New York.

The 30-year-old kingpin from Harlem regained the title last night when he battered Paddy DeMarco of Brooklyn into a mess and submission in the 15th and final round of a bruising, savagely fought battle in the vast Cow Palace.

Referee Ray Flores halted the massacre.

Paddy, 26, making the first defense of the championship he captured from Jimmy in New York last March 5, was out on his feet, his left eye swollen and all but shut and his cheek rapidly assuming a deep blue shade.

Carter now stands as the only lightweight king to win the crown three times. He won it originally from Ike Williams in 1951, lost it to Lauro Salas in 1952, regained it six months later and then surrendered the honor to his rival from Brooklyn.

Twice Carter had his man on the deck—from a whistling left hook to the chin in the ninth for a four-count, and with a barrage of punches just as the bell ended the 14th.

The knockdown in the ninth, the second in Paddy's career of some 83 fights, signaled the outcome. The battering in the 14th spelled out the finish and actually the technical knockout in the 15th was anticlimactic.

Carter called his victory the biggest thrill since he started boxing in 1946.

His manager Willie Ketchum said he has no immediate plans for Jimmy but he is definitely interested in a title match with one of the nation's newest television attractions, California's Cisco Andrade.

Bitter criticism of Referee Ray Flores came from the DeMarco camp. Paddy accused Flores of "pushing" him. "He had me off balance all night," Paddy charged, referring to Flores' efforts to separate the men in the clinching.

"The referee wouldn't let me fight inside," Paddy said. "I'll fight Carter any time. In three weeks, if he wants to, I know I can beat him any time."

The fight was televised nationally and a ttracted an estimated 11,000 in person spectators and gate receipts of $48,676.

This was Paddy's first fight since beating Carter and he said the layoff hurt him. He also said he favored his left elbow. It was this elbow quirk which led Paddy to postpone the original date last June for the rematch.

Carter simply had too many weapons for DeMarco. He started out a little slow and Paddy forged into an early lead.

Then Jimmy began moving in. He kept an excellent left hand working to the head, and his right had stern authority.

Paddy absorbed an awful beating in the 14th. He sopped up more blows as the 15th opened. He was in miserable shape, unable to continue his game performance, when the match was stopped.

REGAINS CROWN—Referee Ray Flores restrains Jimmy Carter after 14 seconds of the 15th round in last night's lightweight title bout with Paddy DeMarco. DeMarco was against the ropes at the time, his arms hanging helpless at his sides. Carter won the title in San Francisco for the 3rd time, setting a new record. It was DeMarco's 1st fight since winning the title from Carter last March.

Deer Kill Is About Normal

Hunters Report Unusual Success in Portions of Upper Peninsula

LANSING (AP) — Michigan deer hunters out during the first four days of the season are having about the same success as last year, the conservation department said today.

Early reports reaching conservation department headquarters put the deer kill at about normal for the upper peninsula and from light to normal in the northern part of the lower peninsula.

Hunters reported unusual success in scattered parts of the upper peninsula. The legal kill in the western part of the peninsula was less than last year, about the same in the central part of the peninsula, and normal to light in the eastern end.

In the northern part of the lower peninsula, the number of hunters was down from 10 to 25 per cent, the department said, although hunting pressure in the Upper Peninsula was almost equal to last year's.

State Revenue From Racing at New High

NEW YORK (AP) — Wagering at thoroughbred race tracks in the U. S. dropped 2.1 per cent from last year but the states' revenue soared to a new high as the pari-mutuel betting exceeded two billion dollars for the 2nd time in history.

Figures are not yet complete, since the horses are still running in four states, but a survey by the Associated Press showed the treasuries of 24 states received $140,146,751 from the $2,024,539,986 wagered.

Figures were estimated on Maryland, California, Rhode Island and West Virginia, which have not finished their 1954 seasons. They do not include those from harness racing tracks.

Premature A-A Team Lists Two Big 10 Players

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—A Collier's magazine naming the publication's 65th All-Star football team arrived here this week, for some mysterious reason.

A mail subscriber received the Dec. 10 issue of Collier's at Memorial Hospital here Monday. It's the only one in town.

There was no immediate comment from Collier publishers in New York.

Ends — Max Boydston, Oklahoma; Don Holleder, Army.

Tackles — Jack Ellena, UCLA; Sid Fournet, LSU.

Center—Kurt Burris, Oklahoma.

Quarterback — Ralph Guglielmi, Notre Dame.

Halfbacks—Dick Moegle, Rice; Howard Cassady, Ohio State.

Fullback — Alan Ameche, Wisconsin.

Deer Derby's First Weight Entry Replaced Same Day

First entry in the weight division of the Pontiac Press' 3-way deer contest yesterday was replaced by a larger buck within two hours.

A 173-pounder was entered shortly after noon Wednesday by Robert Prince of 2161 Walnut Rd., Birmingham. Prince had bagged the 8-pointer opening day near Hillman. His father, Enno Prince, shot a 4-pointer the same day.

A new leader, weighing 175 pounds, was entered a short while later by G. G. Howard of 9625 Highland Rd., Pontiac. Howard got his deer, a big 10-pointer, near Pontiac Lake with a 12-gauge shotgun.

Other area hunters reporting kills included:

Jerry Riddle, 155 Albertson, Rochester—spike horn at Pickford.
Paul Fournier, 106 Waterly, Pontiac—7-pointer at Indian River.
John Ziehl, Churchill road, Pontiac—6-pointer at Indian River.
Leon R. Rose Sr., 710 N. Cass Lake Rd., Pontiac—8-pointer near Harrison.
Leon J. Rose Jr., 1447 Chapin, Birmingham—7-pointer near Harrison.
Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Guess, Keego Harbor—7-pointer and 8-pointer near Rose City.

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY

CASE—Five-Step Footwork.

Because it lends itself readily to coordination of swing and footwork—timing—five-step footwork is getting increasingly popular. What it actually amounts to, with most stars using it, is merely extending the left foot at the start, as sketch shows.

It isn't really a five-step procedure at all. With those who make an extra step, the first one is merely a sort of shuffle, very short.

About five-stepping: The stance is erect, upright. The first motion is a slight upward lift of the ball, with or without the shuffle step. With the second step, as in four-step footwork, the push-away of the ball applies. It is pushed forward, into swing; and arms, legs, and body fall into the unhurried cadence for the next two steps and the finishing slide. Use the full 16 feet of approach.

Bowl Bid Is Accepted

PRINCESS ANNE, Md. (AP) — Maryland State College which has lost only 4 of 66 games the past 6 years, has accepted an invitation to play Florida A&M in the Orange Blossom classic at Miami, Dec. 4.

Excitement Grips Mexico for P-A Race

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Tense excitement gripped the over-crowded little jungle town of Tuxtla Gutierrez as the world's top automobile drivers made final preparations for Friday's Pan American road race.

An estimated 140 cars will roar across the starting line at dawn to start the 1,908-mile, five-day contest which will pay winners $117,200 in prizes.

They come from Europe, South America, Central and North America to participate in the longest and most dangerous automobile race in the world.

Tuxtla Gutierrez, in tropical Tehuantepec peninsula not far from the Guatemala border, was a scene of confusion Wednesday. In addition to the drivers and their many mechanics, reporters, race and government officials poured into the overcrowded village.

Hotels were jammed. Accommodations of all types were overtaxed. Communications were highly inadequate.

Drivers and their mechanics sweated over last-minute adjustments of their cars.

There was one bright prospect. The Weather bureau said the weather would be good for Friday's first leg, a 329.3 mile dash from Tuxtla Gutierrez to Oaxaca. Hot, humid, but clear.

There are five categories entered in the race which ends Nov. 23 at Ciudad Juarez on the Texas border: Big sports cars (about 17), small sports car (9), large standard makes (25), small standards (70), and European standards (19).

They range from the expensive powerful and specially-built Ferrari, Jaguar, Austin Healey and Pegaso to the tiny Porsche, Osca and Borgward.

Should PHS Quit Valley?

Lack of Available Nearby 'A' Opponents One Reason for Chiefs Staying in SVC

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of three articles dealing with Pontiac High's athletic past, present and future in the Saginaw Valley Conference.)

By BILL MARTIN

Many fans, uncomfortably watching Pontiac High athletic teams finish with mediocre records year after year, declare long and loud that the Chiefs should get out of the rugged Saginaw Valley Conference.

And those perennially-frustrated fans, with a little research, can come up with some very sound arguments for their case. But would Pontiac's withdrawal from the SVC prove the complete answer to its lack of championship teams?

Here are both sides of the issue:

Best argument, of course, for those who feel that the time has come to seek greener pastures is provided by the Chiefs' 22-year record against Valley competition.

In the two major sports—football and basketball—Pontiac has seldom been a threat to the Saginaw and Flint squads. Chiefs have a football record of 38 victories, 80 losses and six ties. They fared better in basketball, winning 111 of 246 games, but have yet to win their 1st cage title. PHS' sole gridiron championship came in 1943, when the Chiefs finished with a 6-2 season's mark.

Pontiac has always been a strong contender in baseball, golf and cross country, an occasional power in swimming and an also-ran in track and tennis.

Another factor is the growing Class A opponents in Oakland County. Three schools—Birmingham, Berkley and Southfield—have attained 'A' status within the last two years to join Pontiac, Ferndale, Hazel Park, Royal Oak and Waterford in the county.

However, the proposed switch would involve more complications than might appear on the surface. No league now operating nearby is expected to welcome with open arms a school with Pontiac's enrollment (2,337 this semester). By the same token, it would be virtually impossible to draw up a well-rounded schedule year after year as an independent.

It is no secret that few of Oakland County's older Class A schools want to compete with the Chiefs on a long-term basis.

Pontiac High's athletic officials also feel that there is some prestige to be gained from membership in the Valley, a league that consistently offers the highest caliber of competition in the state.

It is, perhaps, unfortunate that the sports in which Pontiac teams have enjoyed their greatest degree of success are those least-popular with spectators. It is doubtful that more than a handful of fans turned out over the past six seasons in which PHS cross country teams have piled up 32 consecutive dual-meet victories.

All-America Prestige Seen at Stake in 'M'-OSU Tilt

CHICAGO (AP)—All-America prestige will be at stake in the crucial Big 10 football finale between unbeaten Ohio State and obstreperous Michigan at Columbus Saturday.

Immediate business on hand in the Buckeye arena will be an attempt by Ohio State to close with a 9th straight victory and crush a Michigan stab for a title tie and a rival chance for a Rose Bowl bid.

But the midwest's All-America nominating board will fix close attention on this nationally-televised game to finally weigh the All-America merits of at least three powerful candidates for the Associated Press honor team.

Halfback Howie (Hopalong) Cassady and end Dean Dugger of Ohio State, and sophomore end Ron Kramer of Michigan are foremost Midwest nominees for All-America distinction.

But Buckeye halfback Bobby Watkins and fullback Hubie Bobo and Michigan's play-busting tackle Art Walker also have had strong support for All-America consideration.

Saturday's final round of Big 10 games also will find Wisconsin's crashing fullback Alan (the Horse) Ameche and Minnesota's versatile Bob McNamara bumping heads at Madison, Wis., in a farewell effort for national acclaim.

Another prime All-America candidate, quarterback Ralph Guglielmi, has a big opportunity to enhance his rating in the Notre Dame invasion of Iowa City to face the Hawkeyes.

It's Time Out!

"Great favorite of the kids that center of ours . . . always helping them to sneak into the games free!"

Fifteen Seniors Finish at MSC

Bolden, Duckett End 4th Season of Stardom Saturday

EAST LANSING (AP) — Fifteen seniors, all of whom have known better days, close out their college football careers when Michigan State ends its football season against Marquette Saturday.

Most of the group enjoyed the height of football glory when they made the Rose Bowl trip to Pasadena last season.

Co-captain LeRoy Bolden and end Ellis Duckett, who started starring as freshmen, both contributed to the undefeated seasons of 1951 and 1952.

Seniors saw MSC slip this year from the top to the bottom level of the Big Ten standings.

The Marquette game will decide whether Michigan State has a 6-3 or 7-2 lost and won record. Regardless of the outcome, the season will be the poorest since the Spartans lost all nine games in 1917.

It's figured that the state of squad morale will have a lot to do with the score Saturday.

Londes, Glaser at Odds on Sugar's Comeback

DETROIT (AP) — It still isn't definite today that Sugar Ray Robinson will make his first comeback appearance in Detroit Dec. 8.

In New York, one of Robinson's handlers, Joe Glaser, says no. But in Detroit, fight promoter Nick Londes says, yes.

Glaser said yesterday that "we have received propositions from various promoters for Robinson's 1st comeback fight." "But," he added, "we have not accepted any of them as yet."

That isn't what Londes is saying. Londes says he has telegrams agreeing to the deal—a bout with Joe Rindone of Boston.

Bennie Says Bates to Miss OSU Contest

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Jim Bates, Michigan's 1st string center-line backer, will be out of the lineup when the Wolverines meet Ohio State Saturday.

Bates is suffering from glandular fever.

Michigan coach Bennie Oosterbaan said "it's a shame that we had to lose Bates. He's a real competitor. He wanted to play very badly. But the doctors said no."

Loss of Bates is a serious blow to Michigan. A victory over the Buckeyes would give the Wolverines a share of the Big Ten title and rate them as contenders for the Rose Bowl game.

Oosterbaan said he will use sophomore Gene Snider and Jerry Goebel in place of Bates.

Navy Coach Denies He'll Move to Pitt

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Eddie Erdelatz said Wednesday he is "happy right where he is" as football coach of Navy and doesn't "anticipate any change to anywhere."

"I haven't talked to anybody about leaving Navy," he said, "and besides at this time I'm too interested in the immediate job of beating Army on Nov. 27."

"Who wouldn't be happy with a team like this?"

The big, smiling coach of Navy has been busy denying reports of changing jobs since a New York newspaper Tuesday printed a report he was going to Pittsburgh.

Japanese Star Picked to Pace NCAA Harriers

EAST LANSING (UP)—A Japanese runner coached by Gil Dodds, famed flying parson, was favored today to win the NCAA cross country meet over Michigan State's 4-mile course Monday.

Kikuo (Cookie) Moriya, 29, former student at Nippon University, Tokyo, and now a senior at Wheaton College of Illinois, was given the edge on the basis of his five straight victories in individual meets this year.

Boudreau Hopes KC Fans Will Affect Players

Lou Signs Two-Year Contract to Manage Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lou Boudreau, the new manager of the Kansas City Athletics, sees a big rebuilding job ahead but he's hopeful the change of scenery will stimulate the club.

Boudreau who signed a two-year contract Wednesday, said he believes the Athletics will do much better here than in Philadelphia where they wound up in the American League cellar last season.

"I think the enthusiasm of the Kansas City fans will bring a change in the club's attitude," Boudreau said. "I believe there will be more effort put out and that the club will show general improvement. I'm not comparing this situation with Milwaukee, though. You have to remember that they had a sound ball club when the move was made from Boston."

The Milwaukee Braves climbed from seventh place in the National League to second in their first season at Milwaukee.

Boudreau, who formerly managed the Boston Red Sox and the Cleveland Indians, had this to say about the players inherited from Philadelphia:

"I feel that some of the players are capable of doing better than they did last season. I'm leaving that up to the players. They'll have to show me they want to stay with the club."

Injuries were costly to Philadelphia last season. Pitcher Bobby Shantz, a 24-game winner in 1952, had an ailing shoulder. Pitcher Alex Kellner, a 20-game winner in 1949, developed a sore arm. Gus Zernial, the A's slugging outfielder, broke his collar bone. Catcher Billy Shantz, Bobby's younger brother, suffered a fractured finger.

Since Boudreau managed the Red Sox and faced the A's in American League games last season, he has some knowledge of their personnel.

Joost Wishes Lou Luck, Says He'll Neet It

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Eddie Joost, out as manager of the Athletics, wishes his successor, Lou Boudreau, "Good luck" at Kansas City.

Joost managed the Athletics to last place at Philadelphia this year.

Asked what he plans, Joost said: "Of course I hope to go back to the big leagues, but I certainly would be very happy to work out here if something comes up."

Pitt-Penn State Tilt Looms as Hot Game

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tom Hamilton, Pitt's interim football coach, said Thursday the Pitt-Penn State clash here Saturday "shapes up to one helluva game."

"They (Penn State) have got plenty, but we're coming along and our seniors are going to go all out for this one against an old rival.

"We don't plan to use the two-team system against Penn State like we did with Nebraska. It's going to be the whole group for this one.

Hayes Counting on Ground Game Against UM

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — The brisk precision of Ohio State's ground attack will be the key to Buckeye success Saturday against Michigan.

So says Coach Woody Hayes. "If we can get consistent yardage on the ground Saturday against Michigan we'll be okay," he told newsmen.

To that important end Hayes has put his charges through hard drills this week, sharpening their smooth interworking operation.

Unbeaten, untied Ohio State is wary of this final game. Three times in the past Michigan has pinned the only defeat of the season on otherwise triumphant Buckeyes, in 1926, 1932 and 1933. Will it happen again?

The game's importance will bring it under the minute scrutiny of squads of sportswriters, plus attention of a nationwide ABC television audience and about 82,000 fans in the big Buckeye horseshoe stadium.

The Buckeyes are rated No. 1 in the nation this week; Michigan's Wolverines are rated No. 12.

The Wolverines, however, have a tradition of working best against Ohio State. Many times they've knocked the Bucks out of the conference title.

Both teams will field some of the ablest men to grace their rosters.

Ohio State has Howard (Hopalong) Cassady and Hubie Bobo in its backfield, both men of enormous talent.

The line boasts end Dean Dugger and guard Jim Parker.

The Wolverines will offer tackle Art Walker and end Ron Kramer in the line, coupled with some tricky backfield men. Kramer is the Associated Press lineman of the week.

Both teams have been plagued in some positions by injuries this year, but each has managed to plug the gaps successfully.

There will be more reporters jammed into the press box at the game than any other in Ohio Stadium's history, forcing OSU officials to reduce seats in the press box from 36 to 24 inches.

The game was a sellout early in the season and some 82,000 people will squeeze into a stadium officially rated at 78,677.

Over the years since the series started—1897—the game has been traditionally a tossup, but Michigan has come out on the long end of the results. The Bucks have won over Michigan only twice in the last 11 years.

Service Tilt Pits Attack, Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — Not that it needs it, but the Army-Navy football classic at Philadelphia Nov. 27 got yet another boost as a gate attraction Thursday as the Midshipmen returned to the top of the list of the nation's leading defensive units among major colleges.

That information, supplied by NCAA statisticians, sets up the Philadelphia struggle as a test of the leading offensive and defensive elevens.

Navy took over the No. 1 spot in total defense by holding Columbia to 143 yards last weekend. That reduced the Middies' allowance average to 168.9 yards a game. Army is entrenched as the leading total offense club, 459.4 yards a game, and also as the top rushing team 329.1 yards a game.

The versatile Midshipmen, meanwhile, are No. 2 in total offense (401.3) and third in rushing defense, allowing 82.3 yards a contest.

Illinois Dog Will Seek 3rd Retriever Crown

WELDON SPRING, Mo. (AP)—The National Retriever championships open today with King Buck, a black Labrador owned by Nilo Kennels of Brighton, Ill., seeking an unprecedented third consecutive title.

Thirty-three dogs will compete in the four-day event at the Busch Memorial wildlife area. The dogs qualified through a series of trials throughout the country.

Title for Britons

ADRIAN (AP) — Albion College scored a low of 29 yesterday to win the MIAA cross country championship.

Albion's Jim Chapman took individual honors running the 4-mile course in 21:54. Albion was unbeaten in the past season.

Hope 127, Hillsdale 133, Alma 169, Adrian 173 and Olivet 178.

Washington, Orioles Agree to Protective Video Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calvin Griffith said Thursday the Washington Senators have worked out with the Baltimore Orioles a program designed to protect both clubs from ruinous television competition.

Thus another piece was fitted into the jigsaw problem set up by the transfer of the Philadelphia Athletics' franchise to Kansas City. Griffith, executive vice president of the Senators, opposed the shift on grounds it posed a financial threat to both Washington and Baltimore.

Under the new American League alignment, Baltimore joins Washington, a mere 38 miles away, in the Eastern Division. This means the teams will play competing home games nearly half the time during the 1955 season. Last year Baltimore, transplanted from St. Louis, was designated a Western Club for scheduling purposes.

Griffith took the occasion to scoff at published reports that with millionaire owners in Baltimore and Kansas City, the Senators have now the weakest franchise in the major leagues. "It's one of the best," Griffith said. "We're not afraid of competition."

Detroiter Ward Gets Dec. 1 Cleveland Bout

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP) — Matchmaker Larry Atkins yesterday announced the signing of Detroit's Moses Ward and Cleveland's Rock Castellani to meet in a 10-round bout to share top billing for a Dec. 1 Christmas fund card at Cleveland Arena.

The other 10-round main event will be a heavyweight bout between Roland LaStarza and Charley Norkus.

(Answer)

2. Take penalty. No! San Jose's passing is feared. Give them two chances and they should complete one for seven yards.

1. Refuse penalty. Best call. With 4th down and two, San Jose may run. Their running game has not been strong. If they go to the air, you have to stop only one pass.

Deny Employing Outside Help

Pontiac Manufacturers Unit Says Industry Hires Local People First

The Pontiac Manufacturers Assn. today denied that its members were "importing" employes into the city to meet increased production needs, as charged by the Oakland County CIO Council.

"As far as I know, there has been no recruiting for outside help," said James F. Spence, secretary-manager of the association.

"Local employers would certainly tend to bring back their own people," Spence said. "It's just good business to do it," he added:

"It's the policy of the association to hire people from this area as long as they are available."

In a resolution sent to the Pontiac City Commission, the CIO Council declared in part:

"Employers in and around Pontiac are hiring new employes to meet their production demands and some of these employes are being imported into the city from outstate.

"Consideration is not given to people who live in or around the City of Pontiac to fill these vacancies."

The manufacturers association includes in its membership the three local General Motors divisions and most of the city's major industrial firms.

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP—In a Tuesday evening candlelight court of awards, the entire Dublin School PTA Girl Scout Troop received second class rank badges.

Three girls, Sandra Greniewicki, Susan Bishop and Margaret Galbreath received proficiency badges and current activities of the troop were demonstrated.

An adult membership drive was announced, and invitations extended to all adults interested in Scout work to attend a leader group meeting at the school at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 7.

Refreshments were served by the fathers of eighth and ninth grade scouts. Rev. Thomas Edison of St. Patrick Catholic Church spoke the invocation.

Exposition Lists Oakland Entries

Area Breeders to Try for International Honors at Chicago Show

Several entries from Oakland County have been received for the 55th annual International Livestock Exposition Nov. 26 through Dec. 4 in the newly enlarged International Amphithreater at the Chicago Stockyards.

Great Oaks Stock Farms of Rochester and Knobby Hills Farm of Clyde have listed entries in the classes of the Aberdeen-Angus cattle breed.

Animals entered in the Angus and Hereford classes will be judged on Nov. 29-30, according to the show management.

Other highlights in conjunction with the Exposition will be the 32nd international grain and hay show, the international wool show, the international sheep shearing contests, and four judging contests that will attract both 4-H and college teams from a majority of the states.

Donelson PTA Group to Have Film Panel

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—The Donelson School PTA meeting at 8 tonight will feature the movie "Skippy and the Three R's."

There will also be a panel discussion on "Reading in Public Schools." Mrs. Dorothy Selle, Elementary coordinator, will act as moderator of the four member panel.

Field, Wife Fail to Contact U.S.

American Legation in Hungary Offers Aid to Freed Couple

VIENNA (INS)—The American Legation in Budapest was still without word today from Noel and Herta Field, the American citizens whose release from prison was announced by the Hungarian Communists last Tuesday.

U. S. Minister Christian Ravndahl said last night that he had sent word to the released couple, offering them American aid.

He told International News Service by telephone from the Hungarian capital that he advised the former State Department aide and his wife "to contact us if they need anything, such as magazines, newspapers, cigarettes or any other help from our legation."

The Fields disappeared in 1949 from Prague and in the same year Noel's brother Hermann vanished in Communist Poland. Hermann was released just three weeks ago. He has made no attempt to seek refuge in the U. S. Embassy in Warsaw but is resting in a Polish Sanatorium.

The actions of the Fields in not seeking U. S. aid added to the mystery surrounding the case.

Both Noel and Hermann have been accused of being Communist sympathizers, and Noel has been named as a party agent. Yet, Noel at the same time has been accused by the Communists of being an American spy and "Titoist" plotter.

The Noel Fields were reported staying in an apartment in Budapest, but no member of the American Legation has made personal contact with the couple.

Four Are Held on Breakin Charge

The four were arrested by Lincoln Park police last night after a hitchhiker, whom the quartet picked up near Pontiac, told police of the breakin at the home of Joseph Fritz of 541 Cameron St.

Police identified the four as Phillip R. Stenberg, 18, of 1270 Riley Thompson Rd., Roland Eugene Wynne, 21, of 517 Follor, Dorothy Louise Wiseman, 18, of 369 N. Mill Iron St., and Shirley Joyce LaPorte, 19, of 360 N. Mill Iron St.

Pontiac Detectives James Bale and William Hanger, who returned the suspects here, quoted the tipster, Anthony Zimmerman, of 2225 Cass Ave., Detroit as saying he overheard the two men and women "boasting about the breakin." Zimmerman telephoned police in Lincoln Park when the auto was taken to a filling station for repairs.

Police said thieves stole $15, liquor, and shotgun shells from the Fritz home where entry was gained by forcing open the front door.

Bulletin Urges Voters to OK Walled Lake School Fund

WALLED LAKE—A bulletin explaining the growth in student population and the necessity of the forthcoming bond issue was mailed out to residents yesterday by the Walled Lake Board of Education, urging approval of the plan.

Voters will ballot Nov. 29 on an $825,000 bond issue, which would increase the tax rate $3 per $1,000 of equalized valuation, for 15 years. The net tax increase would be only three mills because the levy for present debt will be reduced by three mills, although the bond issue calls for a six-mill levy.

According to the bulletin, the estimates of the population growth of the district, future pupil population, and future building needs, were arrived at through a survey made by Dr. Fred Frostic in 1953. His report projects the school population through the school year 1958-59.

The board feels the junior and senior high school buildings are adequate to house their students through 1955-56 and 1956-57 school years, providing all of the 470 elementary students now housed in these buildings are placed in elementary schools.

Listed as the number one problem until at least September 1958 is the housing of elementary school children.

If approved, the bond issue will finance 26 new elementary classrooms during the next two years. These will be in additions to the Glengary, Commerce and Walled Lake Elementary in 1955, plus either a new 13-room elementary unit or 13 classroom additions in 1956.

In addition, the board has proposed constructing a high school gym, a multi-purpose room at Twin Beach Elementary, a heating plant at the junior high, now being installed, an office unit at the high school, and stage facilities for Wixom elementary, if funds are approved in this vote.

Britain Recalls 1952 Tragedy as Fog Moves In LONDON (AP)—A heavy fog blanketed the southern half of the British Isles today. Authorities said the vapor has not yet reached the lethal mixture of the 1952 smogs, which doctors claimed contributed to the deaths of tens of thousands of persons.

The fog belt extended roughly south and east of a line running from the Yorkshire resort of Scarborough to Swansea in Wales. Road and rail traffic was slowed. Airplane flights in and out of the capital were cut completely.

The heavy blanket raised fears that the country might be in for another seige of deadly smogs. To be lethal, however, the fog must persist for several days, becoming mixed with smoke and industrial fumes.

Clarkston PTA Sets Carnival Saturday

CLARKSTON — The Clarkston Elementary School Carnival will be held from 5 to 8:30 p.m. at the school Saturday.

The PTA is sponsoring the affair.

Featured in the evening of frivolity will be the crowning of a king and queen at 8 p.m.

Other attractions are a country store, a white elephant booth, fish pond, cotton candy, bake sale, fortune telling, a hay ride, apron sale, and pony rides.

Farmer Keeping Watch for Mammoth Hen Fruit

Friday one of his White Rock hens laid a 9-ounce egg. Three days later Reddicks found a 10-ounce egg.

Report Thefts of 800 Checks

Area Merchants Told to Use Care in Cashing Payroll Drafts

Merchants in the Pontiac and Oakland County area were warned today to be cautious in cashing checks made out to two companies which were stolen last night.

Thieves broke into the Suburban Steel Co. at 2800 Alliance, Waterford Township and took 522 checks and a check protector, along with a typewriter and a cash box with $20, according to Detective Charles Leaf of the Michigan State Police.

One set of buff-colored, payroll checks, numbered from 321 through 599 and made out to the S. S. & W. Fabricators, were taken, Leaf said, and commercial, green-tinted checks, numbered from 357 through 599 and made out to the Suburban Steel Co., also were missing.

John, Hirlinger, assistant manager of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce, warned businessmen today that whoever took the checks would probably try to start cashing them immediately. The checks are drawn on the Pontiac State Bank.

Burglars entered the building by unlatching a side window, sometime last night or this morning.

12 Outfits a Day Worn on Tour by Debra Paget

By BOB THOMAS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—How does a glamor girl go out on a personal appearance tour?

With six furs, 20 pairs of shoes and limitless garb, if she's Debra Paget. These were some of the statistics I gleaned from the doll as I observed first-hand what it's like for Hollywoodians to meet the public.

Debra, Sheree North, Jeffrey Hunter, Rita Moreno and Tommy Noonan made up the filmland contingent to the world premiere of Marlon Brando's "Desiree," which was sponsored here by the San Francisco - Oakland Newspaper Guild. Debra and her mother walked off the plane loaded down with furs and garment bags. I wondered at the equipment a girl must take along when she exposes herself to the public glare.

She was only to be gone a few days here and in Chicago. But she confessed to taking along a full-length mink coat, a pink fox stole, a blue fox stole, a white fox stole, a brown mink stole and a white mink stole.

She and her family bought them all, she explained, her folks having saved $5 bills until they had enough to buy the mink coat.

She said she took along four bags, which included among other things three formal gowns, 12 street and cocktail dresses and 20 pairs of shoes. She's nuts about shoes, has 200 pairs at home.

"I need all these clothes when I go on tour," she argued. "I usually wear 12 different outfits in one day. I need a new dress for every interview."

Interviews go on all day while she's out touring to help plug her studio's pictures. She's up at 6 a.m. in order to be alert for her first broadcast. That's usually at 8. She'll do an average of eight radio interviews, the same number of TV, plus two or three for newspapers.

Seeks to Block Elections

SEOUL (AP) — Prime Minister Pyun Yung Tai left today for New York to try to block any compromise move in the United Nations for all-Korean elections.

Lionel Loved Pan Notice

Early Critic's Review of Bit Part Repeated Often by Barrymore

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — One of Lionel Barrymore's theater notices that he cherished with glee during his colorful life read:

"One performance actually stands out more hideously than the rest. A deplorable young actor appeared only once in a figment of a role but enacted it so balefully the audience was terrified lest he come back on the stage."

Barrymore was fond of repeating this review because, despite his success as one of the greatest names in show business, he never wanted to be an actor.

He made his living on the stage and in films for 50 years only because he failed at painting. His illustrious theatrical parents and grandparents dragged him onto the stage although, he recently said, "The theater was not in my blood and I never considered myself cut out for it."

"My grand mother handed me my fate as a matter of course, like juice before breakfast," he often lamented. "I would become an actor. I was in the position of the son of a great athlete who is naturally expected to be an athlete, too."

For his first important stage role, at 18, in "The Rivals" with his grandmother, Mrs. John Drew, "I crept on the stage in an apathy of embarrassment and muttered my words like an automaton that needed the oil can."

His grandmother politely fired him by elininating his scene from the play. Since then, the scene has usually been eliminated from "The Rivals."

Lionel reluctantly became resigned to the family profession but at first he was far from successful. He always claimed it was Ethel, by then a famous actress, who wangled him Broadway roles by demanding of producers, "What are you going to do about Lionel?" It appeared as if he not only failed at his first love—painting — but that "I couldn't even make my way in the family trade, which I didn't even want."

His first wife, Doris Rankin, urged him to try painting again in Paris. The young couple took off on borrowed money from Ethel.

"I rejoiced because I had broken loose from the stage at long last," he recently recalled. "I knew I had acted for the last time."

But Barrymore gave up art in despair after five years. In 1909 he sought out the late movie director, D. W. Griffith, and said he was hungry and needed a job.

But despite his acclaim he mused recently in his autobiography:

"I am hopeful that somehow I may find my correct metier. I have not succeeded or achieved in any of the three branches (music, art, acting) into which I thrust myself. Persons with one talent are perhaps luckier than some of us who are dealt three-of-a-kind but can't make up our minds whether to stand pat or draw for a fullhouse.

"Mostly, I have bluffed."

TV Postpones Wedding for Marilyn Maxwell

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Marilyn Maxwell faced a very simple question . . . which would she rather do the weekend of Nov. 20 and 21 . . . get married or be on a television show?

"I know you were planning to get married the 21st," her agent said, "but . . . "

MISS MAXWELL

★ ★ ★ ★

"I said 'No!' right off," she tells me. "Then I told Jerry about it."

"Listen, Egghead," he said—or it may have been "Poodle Nose" or "Looney Ears," for Screen Writer Jerry Davis, her fiance, has several such love names for her—"why don't you do it?

"Then we can get married in New York, and your brother, and my mother and my brother, can be there."

Of course, phoning those 400 thirsty people and telling them NOT to drop in for a wedding was rather a bother, but now they've been told.

"They're shipping my wedding dress here . . . I don't even know what it looks like," Marilyn said. During this busy week of rehearsing she and Jerry will try to make plans for a small wedding "a day or so after" the TV show.

So we may as well face it: TV's getting king-sized when it can do that to Hollywood marriage plans. The next thing we know, somebody'll want to be elected President because if he makes it he can be a mystery guest on "What's My Line"?

It happens, though, that this does come at an important time in Marilyn's career. She's just done a good acting job in the movie, "New York Confidential."

Miss Maxwell—born Margo Maxwell in Iowa, and reared in Nebraska, Florida and Indiana—met her husband-to-be "on the first blind date I ever had." He has just finished writing "The Girl Rush," a story of Las Vegas produced by Rosalind Russell and her husband, Fred Brisson.

MARIE MARTELL

"It was a 'blind date' in a couple of ways," Marilyn said. "I'm so near-sighted, I can only see about two feet."

Marilyn wore her glasses throughout the evening I spent with her and her fiance.

★ ★ ★ ★

"I finally decided to heck with cheating and faking about how good my sight is . . . I'm going to SEE something," she said. "Besides," she added, "I'm about to be married!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Sid Caesar's hoping Mae West will make her TV debut on his show . . . Herb Shriner'll market a harmonica. (He used to be known as "Harmonica Herb" in Fort Wayne, Ind.)

Johnnie Ray'll be raised to 100 G's for his next 20th Century-Fox movie . . . Duo: Hope Hampton and boxing great Tommy Loughran at Leslie house . . . Marie Martell will adorn the annual Society of Illustrators show.

★ ★ ★ ★

Columbia Pictures turned down a $75,000 offer from Warner Bros. to move "On the Waterfront" from the Astor so "Star Is Born" could move in.

Robert Taylor and wife Ursula Theiss agreed they won't co-star in a movie . . . A Texas theater man says, "The Broadway theater must get bluer—'cause blue material is the only thing you can't see on TV."

Shep "Abdullah" King and textile heiress Bonnie Ehrenberg are talking wedding dates . . . Singer Sarah Vaughan's investing dough in a wrestling syndicate.

Eral's Pearls . . .

"If it wern't for the typogrphical erors some pepie would never read their ohmetown papers."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: It's Jimmy Komack's definition of a playboy: "A man who proposes on bended elbow."

When a gal gains too much weight, says Mel Allen, it's a crime. So she buys a girdle to make the punishment fit the crime . . . That's earl, brother.

Group Discusses Plans for New Year's Dance

Those present were John A. Benson, Howard O. Powers, Leonard Buzz, Ted Slosson, and Tom North, representing businessmen.

Students present were Mona Dumbrigue, Paul Kampner, Walt Poe, Roy Webb, and Jim Cartier. The next meeting will be held Tuesday evening, Nov. 23.

Detroit Taxi Owner on Bond in Accident

HAVERHILL, Mass. (UP) — Ralph J. Mills, operator of a Detroit taxicab fleet, was held on $1,000 bond today in connection with a traffic accident which injured two highway workers critically.

Mills, 43, pleaded innocent when arraigned in district court yesterday on dangerous driving charges. He said he was blinded by the sun when his car crashed into an asphalt spreader late Tuesday, injuring Sidney T. Collis of Newburyport and Charles Drummer of Boston.

Mills said the accident occurred while he was returning with a companion from a vacation in Maine.

Counsel for the injured men won a court continuance to Dec. 1 so he could press "more serious" charges against Mills if either man died. A hospital report said both victims were improving.

Postal Trucks Finally Get Right-Hand Drive

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (INS)—The Albuquerque, N. M., postoffice is going to change some of its operations.

Postmaster Hugh P. Cooper said today 16 of 31 new postal trucks on order have right-hand drive so mailmen can lean out the window to deposit mail in roadside boxes.

Too many postal employes were getting traffic tickets from Albuquerque Police who disliked seeing mail trucks pull over to the left side of the road to service boxes.

Methodist Church Leaders Convening

CHICAGO (AP)—More than 600 leaders of the Methodist Church were in Chicago for meetings opening today and continuing for six days.

Fifty bishops and 570 district superintendents from all parts of the country were to take part in the sessions. Editors of the Methodist press and secretaries of various national boards also will attend.

The Council of Bishops opens a three-day meeting today. Bishop Charles Wesley Brashares of Chicago, council president, will preside at the three-day meeting and will open the district superintendents' three-day meeting on Monday. The sessions will review the last two years and prepare for the next meeting of the General Conference of the church in Minneapolis in 1956.

Foe of Commies to Head Chile's Interior Ministry

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—President Carlos Ibanez has named Arturo Olavarria, a staunch foe of Communists, as interior minister to head a new Chilean Cabinet. He replaces Gen. Abdon Parra.

The shakeup last night resolved a government crisis that developed when Justice Minister Osvaldo Koch resigned, charging that the Congress was withholding legal powers needed to curb Communist disturbances. The other ministers also quit, as is customary in Chile.

Ibanez rejected Koch's resignation and renamed all the ministers except two. Federico Saeltzer replaced Dr. Eugenio Suarez as agriculture minister.

Opposition parties, which hold a majority in both houses of Congress, oppose the 6-month state of siege that the President proclaimed over most of the country in September to check a crippling wave of Red-supported strikes.

The Communist party is outlawed in Chile.

Michigan Will Enforce Christmas Tree Laws

LANSING (UP) — Michigan's $5,000,000 Christmas tree and evergreen business was warned today it must comply with state plant industry laws.

Michigan Agriculture Department officials said they will establish road blocks on highways in the state to assure the law is followed when the Christmas season gets underway.

Persons buying trees are required to obtain a bill of sale, state officials said.

Sending Families Overseas With GIs Boosts Morale, Keeps Men in Service

Editor's Note: Dependents by the thousands are with American servicemen overseas. More are going. This is one of the new and important post-war developments in the U.S. military.

How much is it costing American taxpayers to send the wives and children of GIs overseas? What is behind the program? Is the taxpayer getting his money's worth?

WASHINGTON (UP) — Wives and kiddies, for the first time on such a scale, now are living with American servicemen all over the world.

At latest count—only now freed of its secrecy label—305,100 dependents of Army, Navy and Air Force men were abroad with their GI breadwinners.

They are scattered from Kwajalein to French Morocco. With at least a sprinkling at most points in between. The biggest communities naturally are in Europe and Japan. Korea, still on a near-war basis, is the only major area where dependents still are barred.

Some critics have said the dependents should be sent home; that the program is costly and hazardous. They question whether the families could be evacuated if the shooting war started.

The military scoffs at these complaints. And it is not about to bring home the dependents. In fact, Assistant Defense Secretary Fred A. Seaton said the aim now is to speed up the shipment overseas of servicemen's families.

Many men entitled to take their families overseas don't actually get to take them now. Or they may have to wait a year or more for their turn to come. Seaton said the hope is to ship eligible families either along with the men or at about the same time.

Why do we do this? To keep the men happy and, more important, to keep them in uniform.

"It is no secret that all the services are up against a tough problem getting men to re-enlist," Seaton said. "At the same time it is costing more and more to train the kind of men we must have. It is wasteful to spend two years training a man and then have him leave the service. If dependents were to be brought home it would do violence to morale and to re-enlistments."

Sending dependents around the world, with Uncle Sam picking up the check for transportation, special schools, and other things, costs plenty of money, Seaton conceded.

But the outlay is less than the cost of lowered morale and sagging re-enlistments that are the alternates, he said.

As for the danger, certainly it exists to some extent, he said. But he said the military has workable plans—they are secret—for getting out the dependents if necessary.

Tomorrow: What the program costs.

$35,000 in Furs Stolen From Annis Salesman

BLOOMINGTON, Ill (UP) — The theft of fur garments valued at $35,000 was reported to police here last night by Jack Norgard, salesman for the Annis Fur Co., Detroit.

Norgard said thieves took 105 capes, coats and jackets and 33 scarves from his car when he parked it a block from the downtown business area. He said he left the car for about an hour.

Norgard brought the furs here for a special showing.

Named to Caro Post

ROCKFORD (UP) — Wilbur Kellogg, veteran officer in charge of the U. S. Soil Conservation Office in Kent County, said Tuesday he has been ordered to a new post at Caro.

Kellogg said he will be in charge of assisting the soil conservation districts in Tuscola County. He takes up his new duties next Monday and will be succeeded at Rockford by Richard Drullinger of Pontiac.

Bill Curbing Liquor Gifts Planned by State Senator

LANSING (UP)—A member of an interim legislature study committee has stated he planned an attack in the 1955 Legislature against widespread distribution of free samples by liquor salesmen.

The member, Sen. Robert E. Faulkner (R-Coloma), said he would file a bill to limit liquor salesmen to distribution of one case per month of half-pint bottles and to require them to pay the state's 46 per cent markup on liquor.

Aud. Gen. John B. Martin recently disclosed a survey showing 36,000 bottles of free liquor were given away by salesmen last year. He charged the state lost $42,000 by the state's failure to charge the markup. The State Liquor Control Commission now permits fifths and pints to be given away free.

Faulkner made his statement as the study committee considered subjects for review and possible recommendations to the next Legislature.

Sen. Don Vander Werp (R-Fremont), who became chairman upon the death of the late Sen. Frank Heath of Bay City, said the committee would study the problem of 8-month resort liquor licenses. He said resort operators complained the licenses did not cover the growing winter sports season.

Faulkner also asked consideration for new bowling alleys, which he said were unable to obtain beer licenses in many places because local license quotas were exhausted.

Vander Werp said the committee will consider forbidding package beer and wine (SDM) places to sell intoxicants after 6 p.m. as a method of stopping liquor purchases by minors.

Plan Store Closing

BATTLE CREEK (UP) — Montgomery Ward and Co. has announced it will close its Battle Creek store Christmas Eve for an indefinite period. Carl C. Wise, store manager, said the company plans to open a catalog office in Battle Creek at a later date.

Soy Boosted by Oil Futures

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (AP)—Soybeans ran up a couple of cents at one time on the Board of Trade today in response to a sharp gain in soybean oil futures and continued light receipts of cash soybeans at terminals.

Corn moved higher with soybeans early but was not able to hold its gain. Oats were steady. Wheat suffered from a little profit taking and rye declined again on a renewal of liquidation. Dealings were fairly active.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ¼ to ⅝ lower, December $2.28⅝; corn unchanged to ⅛ lower, December $1.55⅝; oats unchanged to ⅛ higher, December 85; rye ½ to 1½ lower, December $1.25½; soybeans unchanged to 2 cents higher, November $2.83¾; and lard unchanged to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower, November $14.50.

TAX REVENUES—Taxes on sales and gasoline were the greatest single sources of revenue in nearly three fourths of the states during fiscal 1954, as map above shows. In 22 states, sales and use taxes accounted for most of the tax money collected while 13 others depended most heavily on gasoline taxes. "Severance" taxes, peculiar to Texas and Louisiana, are charged against products taken (or "severed") from the earth—usually oil, but in the case of Louisiana, also sulphur.

Stocks Lower in Early Deals

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market turned lower in early dealings today after a fast and higher opening.

The lower trend came right after a big burst of trading swamped the tape briefly. It was as much as three minutes late for a brief time in reporting actual floor transactions.

At the start and during the period of congestion, prices were firm. Soon thereafter, however, the trend bent down.

Motors and steels were the most active of major groups with losses running to between 1 and 2 points. Elsewhere in the list gains and losses spread over a range of between 1 and 2 points.

Railroads, big leader in yesterday's rally, were mixed today. Most other divisions also were mixed.

Among significant early blocks were American Telephone 1,500 shares up ⅛ at 173½, Underwood 2,100 up ⅞ at 35⅞, U. S. Steel 1,500 off ⅛ at 67⅜, Chrysler 3,500 off ⅛ at 62½, International Telephone 2,700 up ¼ at 24⅜, Mission Development 5,000 unchanged at 21⅞, and General Electric 3,000 off ⅛ at 45½.

Clarkston Youth Held for Simple Larceny

Charles Simpson, 19, of 6873 Saline Dr., Clarkston, was arrested last night by Michigan State Police of the Pontiac Post on a charge of simple larceny.

The youth is accused of attempting to take gasoline from a car owned by Jack Cooper of 6908 Rainbow Ct., Clarkston.

Troopers said they found Simpson hiding behind a tree near the Cooper home, after they were called by Cooper. Simpson, they said, admitted attempting to take the gas, as well as a similar larceny from Cooper two weeks ago.

Three Persons Hurt in 3-Car Crash

Three persons were injured yesterday when one auto failed to stop in time and pushed a second car into a third on Stevenson Highway at Fourteen Mile road.

Treated for minor leg and arm injuries at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital were: Mrs. Freda Hardesty, 32, of 4431 Chene, Detroit, and a passenger, Mrs. Florence Dopke, 28, of 2330 Poland, Hamtramck.

They were injured when a car driven by Mrs. Genevieve Thomas, 37, of 2673 Spencer, Birmingham, rammed them from behind as they waited for a traffic light, according to Troy Township Patrolman Kenneth Hirt. The Hardesty car was pushed into an auto driven by Harold Clark, 41, of 477 Fairfax, Birmingham. He was not injured.

Mrs. Thomas was admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital with head injuries. Her condition is listed as good today.

Olds Increases Prices Up to $27 on 1955 Cars

LANSING (AP) — Price increases up to $27 were announced today by Oldsmobile for its 1955 line of cars.

The factory list prices, which do not include optional equipment, federal or local taxes or dealer handling charges, range from $2,090.62 for a two-door sedan in the "88" series, to $2,989.84 for the Starfire convertible in the "98" series. Held for Trial in Store Holdup

Albert Dye Is Accused in Robbery of Market in Hazel Park

Albert H. Dye, 33, of 2510 N. Main, Royal Oak, was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday after his examination on an armed robbery charge, by Hazel Park Judge Robert C. Baldwin.

Dye is accused of the Halloween-mask robbery of Otto's Market on John R near Eight Mile road in Hazel Park, in which $130 was taken, according to Lt. Harold Hill, Hazel Park Police.

Unable to furnish $2,000 bond, Dye is being held in Oakland County Jail until his arraignment Nov. 22 in circuit court.

Lt. Hill and Det. Robert Law said today that Dye was traced through a minor accident which occurred four hours before the robbery.

LaRosa Raises Toast's Rating

Bing to Appear Free on Murrow's Show; TV Gets Stewart

NEW YORK (INS) — Martin Block refused to play Rosemary Clooney's new record, "Italiano Mambo," on his Make Believe Ballroom. Block pronounced it "offensive," and said "Italian-Americans complained it is highly insulting. Therefore I will not play it." . . . Jimmy Stewart discovered $15,000 could smother all pervious protests about TV film acting and signed with General Electric Theater for a pioneer-type western.

Julius La Rosa won a 48.8 Trendex for Toast of the Town and gave the competing Comedy Hour (a good one, too) a dose of humility and a 10.7 rating . . . Leo McCarey (Going My Way, etc.) is being wooed for big money to write-produce-direct Greatest Story Ever Told for TV . . . Bishop Sheen will be seen in Canadian TV; no commercials.

I Love Lucy probably will be shown on Sunday afternoon the second time around. Cost: $37,500, more than most brand new TV shows. . . Edward R. Murrow gets for free what CBS hasn't been able to do with gobs of cash: Bing Crosby on Person-to-Person.

Peter Lorre gets the same role in TV's Arsenic and Old Lace he originated in films. Jan. 5 in TV's Best of Broadway.

Perry Como's Christmas song, "Home for the Holidays," has its world premiere tomorrow night on Mr. Nice Guy's teleshow. . . .

Walt Disney shows his fine old film on TV and now will reverse the process: three Davey Crockett films made just for his TV series will be packaged into one theatrical film and shown outside the U. S. where Walt's wares are even more popular than here. . .

Idle to Be Paid Weekly in State

Fewer Unemployment Claims Allow More Frequent Allotments

DETROIT (AP) —The Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) said yesterday it will pay unempoyment benefits each week beginning Dec. 1.

For the past 14 months the MESC has been paying claims bi-weekly.

"Reduction in our claims load by almost 100,000 weekly claims in the past eight weeks has reduced our work to the point where claimants will not be required to wait two weeks for a check," Max M. Horton, MESC director said.

Horton said Michigan claims reached a peak of 200,907 during the week of Sept. 23 and dropped to 107,282 for the week ending Nov. 11.

Detroit claims dropped 56,981 from a peak of 127,225 in the same period.

Horton also said unofficial state unemployment figures show a drop of 102,000 from 287,000 listed as unemployed Sept. 15.

Detroit unemployment, on the basis of unofficial figures, dropped 117,000 from the 195,00 jobless in mid-September.

Dearborn Observes First Quarter-Century

DETROIT (UP)—Old and new Ford and DeSoto automobiles, both produced in Dearborn, occupied prominent places in a torchlight parade last night as the Detroit suburb celebrated the 25th anniversary of its consolidation.

Reigning with Mayor Orville Hubbard over the festivities was Mrs. Janet Sabo, 25-year-old mother of a young daughter. She was named "Mrs. Dearborn" for the celebration because her birth date coincides with the consolidation of the former cities of Dearborn and Fordson a quarter-century ago.

The late Henry Ford, founder of Ford Motor Co., was one of the original supporters of the consolidation move. The giant auto firm still run by his family now employs about 35 per cent of Dearborn's labor force.

Burglars Garner Haul of Unmatched Footgear

DENVER (INS)—Shoe salesman B. F. Hilligoss reported to police that burglars made off with a haul including:

POSTER GIRL—Mary Kosloski, 5, of Collierville, Tenn., is the 1955 March of Dimes Poster Girl. Her picture will be displayed on the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis official poster, throughout the U. S., to spark the annual drive for funds, Jan. 3-31. Mary offers a friend a bit of lunch in New York City's Central Park. She was stricken with polio at the age of five months. It was thought that she'd never walk, but excellent medical care and home treatment changed this. Mary can now walk well with the aid of a corset with steel staves, leg braces and crutches, provided by the March of Dimes.

Taking the Hard Way

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UP)—Police found that a door smashed by hard-working theieves had been unlocked all the time.

Youth, 17, Injures Head in Two-Car Collision

Donald R. Marceau, 17, of 740 Trennaway, Birmingham, was admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for head injuries suffered in a two-car collision in the parking lot of the Troy Township High School, 3179 Livernois Rd., last night.

According to Troy Township Patrolman Kehneth Hirt, Marceau backed his car into another driven by Carl Bzornberg, 49, of 600 Hendrickson, Clawson. Marceau's condition today is reported as good. Bzornberg was not injured.

American Federation of Labor was established in 1881.

Radio Stations Test 'Conelrad'

Join Military and CD Authorities in Tryout of Emergency Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of commercial radio stations yesterday joined military and civil defense authorities in testing a plan to inform the public during an enemy attack without aiding hostile bombers.

Results of the nationwide test may not be known for a month or more — until scores of reports are received and evaluated.

Communications officials estimated in advance that 1,300 of the nation's 2,000 radio stations would take part in the fourth annual test of the "Conelrad" system, from 1:30 to 4:30 a.m., local time.

Many stations remained on the air longer than usual to participate in the "pool" broadcasts, designed to keep the public informed in an air attack without permitting enemy bombers to ride a radio beam to a particular station.

Air Force planes ranged across the country and off the coasts during the drill, checking whether the broadcasts could be used as a navigational aid.

All stations in an area used the same wavelength and the same program, with each transmitting the program on a rotation plan designed to keep no single station on the air for more than 10 to 30 seconds at a time. None of the stations identified themselves.

Thirteen Pontiac Play Centers Listed

Play programs are in full swing at 13 community centers around Pontiac, Leonard T. Buzz, recreation supervisor for the Parks and Recreation Dept., announced yesterday.

The centers, located in 12 schools and the Lakeside Homes community building, offer sports and games for youngsters in the afternoon and evening and gym programs for adults at night, Buzz said.

Jefferson Junior High, Baldwin, Central, Bagley, Washington Junior High, Crofoot, Pontiac High, Wever, McConnell, Owen, Wilson and LeBaron.

Complete data may be obtained from the department, FE 3-3171.

Institutions Executive Fired by Wayne County

DETROIT (AP) — The Board of County Institutions fired its executive secretary, Albert Hargreaves, Tuesday and abolish his $9,299-a-year job.

Hargreaves, a long-time power at Wayne County General Hospital and Infirmary (Eloise), first threatened legal action and then sought demotion to a new post of administrative assistant at $8,500 a year.

The board voted to seek advice from the county Civil Service Commission and the prosecutor's office.

Named in Midland

MIDLAND (AP) — Dr. G. Frederick Moench has succeeded Dr. Emily R. Hautau as Midland County health officer. Dr. Moench is a former Hillsdale County health director.
