Hospital Needs Remodeling Job

Trustees Ask Clarity on Bond Issue Status From Commission

Pontiac General Hospital's Board of Trustees Thursday night agreed to ask the City Commission whether a second attempt to obtain a bond issue for hospital expansion will be made in the near future.

In a letter addressed to Mayor William W. Donaldson the trustees point out that if no hospital bond issue is forthcoming money must be spent to bring the old section of the hospital up to standards set by the State Fire Marshal.

If the $4,000,000 bond issue turned down by voters April 5 had carried, the hospital's old section containing 20 beds would have been torn down and rebuilt as part of a new wing.

Hospital Board Chairman William F. Maybury said the fire marshal had held off ordering changes in the old section pending the outcome of the bond issue proposal. A sprinkler system, fire wall and other construction are needed to bring the section up to standards, he explained.

The hospital would lose 20 beds while the work is in progress "and we would still have an old building when we got through," Maybury added.

The letter to Donaldson mentions a plan previously worked out by the trustees to include remodeling the hospital's old section and adding 28 beds at an estimated cost of $140,000.

Trustee Harold S. Goldberg pointed out that if the old section is not brought to standard and is closed about $182,000 in revenue will be lost each month in addition to cutting 20 beds from the total number.

The trustees also discussed the present practice of putting beds in the hospital halls to handle the overflow of patients.

Dr. N. F. Gehringer, chief of the hospital medical staff, said beds in the halls "do not make for good patient care." Such patients can not be given the same service as those in rooms and wards, Gehringer said.

Hospital Director Lauretta Paul said the halls are used primarily to house emergency cases. Maybury pointed out that it often is difficult to distinguish between emergency and urgent cases.

Gehringer said if beds were removed from the halls about 10 per cent of the remaining beds would have to be kept solely for emergency use and some beds would be left empty at times. He said 30 to 35 ward and room beds might have to be reserved for emergency use.

Goldberg said such a course would cause a large loss of revenue and be "financially an impossibility."

Board of Education to Ask June Voters for Tax Raise

Two Pontiac Board of Education members said Thursday that the board will ask voters in June to pass a tax increase for new school buildings and operating costs.

They said unless the tax hike passes, the school system will have to put grade-school children on half-day sessions starting in 1955.

Louis H. Schimmel and Monroe M. Osmun, speaking at Wisner PTA's "Fathers' Night," said the board hasn't decided yet how much to ask voters to raise the tax rate or for how many years. That will be settled in a week or two.

Schimmel did estimate, however, it would take a little over four mills a year ($4 on each $1,000 worth of property) to balance the operating budget. The building tax, enough to raise about $7,000,000 for 125 new classrooms and 10 multi-purpose rooms, would be added to that, he said.

Schimmel said that the board hasn't decided whether to spread the $7,000,000 building levy over five years or extend it for more years at a lower tax rate. Wisner PTA members said they would rather have the longer, lower tax.

The speakers said that for the first time since the depression, the Pontiac School District has its back to the wall on day-to-day operating costs.

The schools used to get enough money from state sales tax returns to pay two-thirds of these

M'Carthy Hearing Trails Kefauver in TV Interest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

From city after city, where daily routines were stalled by the crime hearings, came reports that business was normal during the Washington hearings yesterday.

Most reports agreed with one from Providence, R. I., saying yesterday's hearings had nowhere near the popular appeal of the Kefauver sessions.

In Detroit a department store had a set turned to the hearings but a spot check showed only 14 persons were watching, compared to 100 persons who gathered for a recently televised baseball game.

Patrons in one Reno, Nev., horse parlor asked the owner to turn off the hearings. The noise, they said, interfered with concentration on form sheets.

Nixon Believes Commies Afraid

Says Chance of More Aggression Reduced Due to U. S. Strength

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said last night "the chance for another aggressive action like the war in Korea has been reduced virtually to a minimum because of the fear of retaliation which the men in the Kremlin and Peiping have."

The vice president was applauded at another point as he told approximately 4,000 persons attending a $100-a-plate Republican dinner:

"The major aim of this administration's foreign policy is to keep from sending American boys, if we can, to fight in Indochina or any place else in the world."

He said the "long-range answer to defeating communism without war" is "the mounting of a great ideological offensive which makes it clear to the world that the United States is military strong—not because we want war but because, where Communists are concerned, a policy of strength is the only one which will lead to peace. . . ."

Nixon said of "some rather sensational hearings that are going on in Washington today"—the Army-McCarthy inquiry:

"Don't let the charges and countercharges that will be flung back and forth during the next few days over the TV and radio obscure the fact . . . that this administration has done and is doing a devastatingly effective job of destroying Communist conspiracy in the United States.

"This administration has cooperated 100 per cent with J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI. I can say tonight from knowledge of the facts that if the previous administration had done that, that we might have destroyed the Communist rings before they got started.

Betty Hutton, Husband Separate in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Singer-dancer Betty Hutton has separated from her husband, Charles O'Curran, a spokesman for the Capitol Theater said last night.

The official, at whose theater Miss Hutton has been performing the past week, said the separation was due to "career trouble." He said the star was "in a highly emotional state."

Seek to Outlaw Reds

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars said today its 10,000 posts throughout the country are circulating petitions demanding that Congress make membership in the Communist party a criminal offense.

Russia Demands That Allies Recognize Red China as Equal at Geneva Parley

PARIS (AP)—Russia demanded anew today that the Geneva conference be expanded into a "Big Five" meeting, giving Communist China equal status with the United States, Britain, France and the Soviets.

The Soviet demand, made before and emphatically rejected by the Western Big Three, came again in notes delivered in Washington, London and Paris.

French Foreign Office sources immediately indicated they felt the new Russian note would not postpone the opening of the Geneva talks, now scheduled for Monday. The French said the Russians communications does not necessarily require an answer since it merely restates a previous Soviet position.

The Western Powers contend that Russian Foreign Minister Molotov agreed at Berlin that Communist China was only "invited" to the Geneva meeting, and was not one of the major convening powers. The communique issued at the end of the Berlin meeting specified that Red China's attendance at Geneva would not constitute diplomatic recognition of Peiping.

The latest Russian move became known as the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Alliance met in Paris for a confidential preview of the Western Big Three's strategy plans for Geneva.

After brief warning remarks from Lord Ismay, their British secretary general, the 14-nation NATO Council of Ministers closed their doors on outsiders to hear from U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Eden and France's Foreign Minister Georges Bidault.

With military plans for the year decided last December, the NATO foreign ministers' attention focused today entirely on world political problems — particularly the Korea and Indochina questions to be discussed with Russia and Communist China at the Geneva meeting beginning Monday.

Before they went into secret session, the ministers were welcomed by Bidault and heard from Lord Ismay that Western Europe still faces a military threat and the "Soviets will continue to do their utmost to divide us."

The rest of today's session was set aside for a statement by each Foreign minister of his views on the pressing problems facing the alliance.

The trio — Dulles, Eden and Bidault—scheduled another meeting Saturday afternoon before leaving for the Swiss city.

DETROIT (AP) — Two Ford Motor Co. ore carriers will leave the Rouge plant docks Saturday on their first trip of this year.

Ford Motor said that the Henry Ford II and the William Clay Ford will pick up ore at Escanaba and Duluth. Their departure will put the three ship Ford fleet into complete service. President Asks Crusade Against Russian Lying

Tell 2,000 Publishers, Advertising Men Need Is to Promote Unity

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower took off at 9 a. m. today for a three-stop tour of Kentucky.

The President, in gray coat and hat, hardly stopped for photographs as he went up the ramp to his plane.

His first stop was at Ft. Knox for a military review. He then planned to speak at Hodgenville, birthplace of Abraham Lincoln, and at Transylvania College in Lexington.

He returned to Washington by plane late last night from New York, where he called on the nation's newspaper and other news media to join in a crusade against "the poisonous propaganda of the Soviets."

In a speech at a dinner meeting of the Advertising Bureau of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn., the President expressed confidence such a crusade would help win world peace and avert "an age of atomic hysteria and horror."

One thousand policemen lined the President's route between La Guardia Airport and the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, where he spoke.

The President disavowed any intention of telling the publishers "how to run your business" but suggested the press could do more to promote domestic unity and international understanding.

More than 2,000 publishers, advertising men and guests applauded when he said, "The press should give emphasis to the things that unite the American people equal to that it gives to the things that divide them."

Without referring to current hearings on the dispute between Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) and the Army, Eisenhower said:

"If the day comes when personal conflicts are more significant than honest debate on great policy, then the flame of freedom will flicker indeed."

The President said there were many misconceptions, fanned by Communist propaganda, between American and citizens of other countries.

But he declared:

"We know that we seek only peace, by cooperation among equals. Success in this great purpose requires that others likewise know this."

Eisenhower said a survey showed that the average daily

Charles Taft Urges Lower Tariff Policy

NEW YORK (INS)—Charles P. Taft, brother of the late Senator Robert A. Taft, declared last night that the Republican Party should follow the tradition of "liberal Republicanism" and support a reduced tariff policy.

Taft spoke before a New York city rally of the newly-formed Committee on Foreign Trade Education, Inc.

The 1952 GOP candidate for Governor of Ohio declared that championship of a lower tariff is "the only way" the Republican Party "can win elections."

He declared that recent public opinion polls indicated a majority of both Republicans and Democrats favored liberalization of the nation's trade policy.

200,000 Michigan Anglers Ready for Trout Season

By JACK PATTERSON

Tomorrow is the last Saturday in April, a Dionysian milepost that most people can regard with equanimity. But for some 200,000 Michigan trout fishermen tomorrow is like Christmas, New Year's and the Fourth of July rolled up in one.

For by law and long tradition, April's last Saturday marks the opening of the state's trout season.

The gentlemen of the preoccupied manner and vacant stare will hie off like a horde of locusts to lose themselves in the blissful business of fishing somewhere along Michigan's thousands of miles of trout streams.

Strange and lovely names will be bandied among them, like passwords at a lodge meeting — the Ontonagon, the Pine, Pere Marquette and Manistee, the Black, the Maple, the Pigeon, the Sturgeon and the Manistique, and of course, America's most famous trout waters, the three great streams of the Au Sable system.

Oddly enough, in a state known throughout the world for its trout fishing, no fisherman in the lower peninsular will catch a native trout.

The three species that live in Michigan, the Brook, Rainbow and Brown, are introduced fish in the lower Peninsula.

Brooks are native to the Upper Peninsula and some authorities believe that they may have been native to a few of lower Michigan's most northerly streams. But by and large the Brook Trout in its wide range through the state is an exotic species.

The Rainbow, of course, is a creature of the Pacific coast, but it has become so well adapted to life in Michigan that for many fisherman it's the state's top fish, and Michigan Rainbows have been

U. S. Planes Fly French to War

Chutists, Set for Action, Airlifted From Europe to Indochina

Completing a massive airlift halfway around the world, the Globemaster landed at the Vietnamese capital as defenders of Dien Bien Phu fought a violent battle in the center of the fortress' main airstrip.

Double crews flew the Globemaster on the longest airlift in military history. One shift slept while the other piloted.

The French High Command warned that Communist pressure on an isolated outpost northwest of the Dien Bien Phu defenses was "increasing hourly."

In violent hand-to-hand combat Thursday night, Communist Gen. Vonguyen Giap's forces again isolated a French strongpoint in the northwest corner of the Dien Bien Phu airfield and Red "mole men" moved trenches and burrows almost half way down the strip.

The red-bereted French commandoes, flown to Indochina in answer to Supreme Commander Gen. Henri Navarre's urgent plea for more fighting men, now will be transferred to French piloted planes before being flown into combat.

Reports from Dien Bien Phu said the Communist Indochinese rebels had sent assault spearheads to a distance less than 2,000 feet from the heart of the bastion.

The double-decked, bus-like Globemasters made a 3,000-mile run around India after Prime Minister Jawaharal Nehru had refused

Stevens Tells of Monitored Telephone Call

Discussion on Schine Overheard by Assistant, Senator Protests

WASHINGTON (INS) — Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens testified today that Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy told him in a monitored phone call that he had trouble with Roy M. Cohn over G. David Schine and McCarthy said the recording of the talk was "indecent, dishonest . . . improper and illegal."

Stevens told the Senate inquiry into his dispute with McCarthy that in the phone call McCarthy quoted Cohn, his chief counsel, as saying that Schine "ought to be a general and operate from a penthouse in the Waldorf-Astoria."

The morning session of the McCarthy-Army hearings was recessed at 12:24 p. m. until 2:30 p. m., halting a vigorous exchange over the issue of placing the record of the monitored telephone conversation in evidence.

Earlier, Stevens told of efforts by both McCarthy and Schine himself to persuade him to name Schine, then about to be drafted, as a special assistant to the secretary of the Army assigned to hunt Communists.

On both counts, Stevens declared, his answer was that because the 26-year-old Schine was of draft age, the request could not be granted.

McCarthy, his demeanor serious, waited for an opportunity to cross-examine Stevens, who yesterday swore that the senator and his legal counsel, Roy M. Cohn, "perverted" their power in attempts to obtain an Army commission for the now-drafted Schine.

As was the case at the opening day of the "who lied?" hearings, the Senate caucus room was packed to capacity and cameras carried the proceedings to the nation.

Under Jenkins' questioning, Stevens said his first contact with McCarthy's committee was last September, after he had read a newspaper account — while vacationing in Montana— of an investigation by the senator into the activities of three Army employes in New York.

Stevens said he promptly telegraphed McCarthy that he wanted

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — School needs for the rapidly developing area bounded by Maple, Lahser, Cranbrook and 14-Mile roads were discussed by planning board officials from Birmingham, Bloomfield Township and Bloomfield Village, and Norman Wolfe, assistant superintendent of Birmingham schools, last night.

Also present at the meeting called by David Anderson, Bloomfield Township supervisor, were officials of the Garling Construction Co.

The firm has drawn up plans to develop the 323-acre Mercer farm property within the Bloomfield Township site and will construct 565 homes there over a six-year period. The area is in the Birmingham School District.

Informal discussions have determined the need for an elementary school centrally located within that area, Wolfe said. He was told that the company will be willing to negotiate when the Board of Education determines the proper location.

At a meeting following the joint session, the Bloomfield Township Board gave tentative approval to a plat submitted by the construction firm for development of 54 acres on Lahser, north of Lincoln.

Anderson said final approval is subject to discussion with the State Health Dept., Water Resources Board and the Oakland County Road Commission.

used to stock lakes and streams throughout the world.

The Brown Trout, or German Brown, or Loch Levan, or whatever you want to call it, is a combination of many strains and subspecies of the common European Trout. Smart, tricky and hard fighting, the Brown Trout is the dry fly fisherman's dream fish.

Three quarters of a century ago, before these foreigners who provide our fishing today were anything to conjure with, the main stream of the Au Sable was known throughout the civilized world as a Grayling Stream.

But the loggers came and the waters warmed and the Michigan Grayling, unique species found nowhere else in the world, followed the Heath Hen and Passenger Pigeon down the road to extinction, mute witness to the price of man's progress.

The trees have grown up, and the waters have cooled, but the Au Sable knows this great game fish no more.

But these are philosophical considerations that won't bother our fisherman tomorrow. He'll be too busy fishing. He'll probably be cold. He'll almost certainly get wet before he's through, and his winter-softened muscles will be giving him old Billy all day. But you can bet your last buck he'll really be living on the last Saturday in April.

Health, Welfare Workers Meet

Fund Re-elects Monroe Man to Presidency at East Lansing

Michigan United Health and Welfare Fund re-elected W. D. McIntyre of Monroe as president at its annual meeting Thursday in East Lansing.

Five Pontiac persons were among the 200 members attending the annual session. Present from Pontiac were Fred V. Haggard and Arthur Heaton, Pontiac-Oakland County Industrial Union Council, CIO; Dwight S. Adams and Mrs. Lucille Dennison, Pontiac Area United Fund, and Roscoe Scott, Family Service of Oakland County.

Speakers Thursday were Robert Dechert, Philadelphia attorney, who discussed the need for USO and Dr. Warren B. Cooksey, chairman of the State United Fund Board, who spoke on medical research.

Dechert, former chairman of the national United Services Organization executive committee, said there's a growing feeling that USOs are not as important in big cities, like Detroit, as in small towns and remote outposts where there's little for servicemen to do unless the USO steps in.

Dr. Cooksey said he hopes the United Fund will start giving money to people working on their own on medical research projects, rather than limiting funds to big research centers.

Part of the money raised in each Pontiac Area United Fund campaign is turned over to the State United Fund for 29 state and national service agencies.

School Board Seeks Increase in Taxes

costs, leaving about a third to be picked up by local taxes.

This year the state paid about half. Next year it will pay even less, they said. Local taxes are the only way to make up the difference.

Schimmel explained that state sales tax returns and the amount of taxable property here haven't gone up as fast as operating costs, including teachers' salaries, and the number of children in schools. "So we get less from the state for each child," he said.

"We've held out longer than any other city school system our size in Michigan against asking for extra taxes for operating costs," but we'll run up a $685,000 deficit by July 1, 1955 — and the following year looks worse."

Osmun, answering a question from a PTA member, said if the tax hike doesn't pass it will mean a sharp cut in school services. "We'd at least have to double up classes and run 40 to 60 kids in each room, or go on half-day sessions," he said.

As for the need for more buildings, Osmun said the school system now is using every available nook and cranny as a classroom. "We've put 15 rooms in basements, eight others in libraries and such, and about 34 in temporary buildings," he said. He added that business and industry pay about 60 per cent of the taxes in the school district, leaving home owners to pay only about 40 per cent.

Schimmel said that the school system, if it keeps up its present standards, would run in the red every year starting in 1955 unless a tax increase goes through. "And we can't go on piling up deficits," he said. "We'd have to balance the budget — and that means half-day sessions for sure."

Home Decor Shown at Building Exhibit

leaves the forest until it ends up as highly polished paneling for the home.

For the man or woman who likes to do his own painting, dozens of new products are being shown, along with application techniques.

Booths have been dedicated for the explanation of different types of insurance and home loans, with local banks and lending agencies on hand to detail their business methods.

Every type of home heating plant is displayed in operation and built-in appliances for the kitchen have been erected to show how they look when installed in the home.

The gardener, too, has not been overlooked in the show. Seeds, plants, shrubbery and a multitude of insecticides and fertilizers are on view.

McCarthy Admits Trouble With Cohn

to help in the probe. He read from a copy of the wire, which said; "You may be sure that I will oppose Communist infiltration into the Army to the limit of my ability."

The secretary said he returned to Washington the following day, conferred with McCarthy, discussed the cases, promised cooperation, and was invited to attend an executive session.

Stevens described details of the Oct. 20 trip he took to Ft. Monmouth with McCarthy and Cohn.

He said that McCarthy appeared to be approaching the point where he would turn the prosecution of any security risks at the radar installation over to the Army.

It was on this inspection trip that Stevens refused to permit Cohn to enter a highly secret laboratory. Stevens said that when he emerged from the laboratory he was quickly aware Cohn was exceedingly angry because he had not been permitted to enter the lab.

Stevens testified he was told that Cohn had declared that "this means war."

Stevens said that after he was told Cohn said this, "I took it upon myself to try to calm him down somewhat."

The witness continued: "I said it is too bad that there was not time available at the door of the laboratory to make all necessary inquiries as to who was cleared for what so that I had to make an on-the-spot decision."

Jenkins asked if that "was in the nature of an apology?"

Stevens: "I would say it was. I knew I hadn't done anything wrong. I tried to protect the interests of the United States."

Jenkins asked: "Was the statement designed to prevent a declaration of war?"

Stevens: "No it certainly was not. When there is a declaration of war I am the secretary of the Army and there was a declaration of war—for the purpose of this hearing."

Explaining why he gave Shine two weeks initial duty in New York after his induction so he could complete work for the McCarthy committee, Stevens said:

"I did not want the U. S. Army to be in a position in any conceivable way of obstructing the work of the committee which was then engaged in investigating the work of the Army.

In discussing a Nov. 6 meeting with McCarthy at the Pentagon, Stevens explained that he arranged the luncheon session for two purposes to discuss the Ft. Monmouth inquiry but also to introduce McCarthy to Gen. Matthew Ridgway, new Army chief of staff, and two other newly-appointed military chiefs.

He said he wanted McCarthy and his associates to meet the three generals "so they would know what type of leadership we had in the Army" and so they could witness his instructions to the generals that they cooperate fully with the senator.

Stevens said that during this meeting, McCarthy stressed considerably the necessity that Schine be made available for committee work.

He said that McCarthy stated that there were many incomplete reports his committee needed and that if Schine went into the Army it would make it difficult to obtain needed information from him. Schine already had been inducted by then.

Stevens said that he did not recollect that Carr took any part in the conversation about Schine but that Cohn did.

McCarthy clashed with Jenkins when the senator demanded that "the record be made clear" after Stevens testified that McCarthy, in a monitored Nov. 7 telephone conversation, "said he did not want David Schine assigned back to his committee."

Stevens said an aide of his, Jack Lucas, was on the line when McCarthy telephoned the secretary's office a day after the Nov. 6 meeting.

Stevens' disclosure that his Nov. 7 telephone talk with McCarthy was monitored by a shorthand expert, Jack Lucas, brought a stinging interruption from the Wisconsin senator, who said:

"That is one of the most indecent, improper, and illegal things I ever heard of."

When the morning session closed, Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), ranking minority member of the hearing group, said he did not believe there was anything "illegal" about monitoring the Stevens-McCarthy phone call and making a record of it.

But McCarthy told reporters that whether the transcript was legal or not, he wanted it in evidence. The committee is expected to rule on the point this afternoon.

Army special counsel Joseph Welch told the senators that because of Federal Communications Commission rules applying to monitored phone calls, the transcript should be delivered only under subpoena.

After the hearing, Mundt was asked whether the same subpoena procedure would be followed in the case of every monitored telephone conversation referred to, if others come up.

He told newsmen: "I would assume so. It seems logical, common sense that before you can admit something in evidence you have to show that it exists."

Holdup Suspect to Be Arraigned

Returned From Detroit in Connection With '54 Fox-Hounds Robbery

Charles Clark, 31, of 665 Hague St., will be returned to Oakland County Jail today for arraignment in connection with the $6,200 Fox and Hound Inn robbery last November.

Clark, who has been in Detroit in connection with a murder charge there, is being returned at the request of Frederick C. Ziem.

He is scheduled to be arraigned today before Bloomfield Justice Alva J. Richardson. If bound over to circuit court Clark will stand trial with John W. Graham, 37, of 4738 23rd St., Detroit, May 7, also accused of the stickup.

James Sullivan, 30, of 1685 Kendall, was sentenced three weks ago to five to 20 years in Jackson Prison for the same holdup.

A fourth man believed involved in the armed robbery is still at large.

Clark will be returned to Detroit to face prosecution for the shooting of Jack Gamble there last January Ziem said today. Clark claims the shooting was accidental, but he is charged with first degree murder.

newspaper in the United States prints about four columns a day of news stories from abroad.

He told the publishers that "in this amount of daily space it is hard to inform the American people about relevant happenings in all other countries."

In like manner, he said, Americans living abroad undoubtedly have been amazed at "misleading and distorted opinions of our individual and national life" expressed by citizens of other countries.

Emphasizing the United States position, he said:

"We covet no nation's possessions. We seek only the friendship of others."

Departing from his text, he said "we are blessed" that this effort was being led by John Foster Dulles, secretary of state. He said all Americans owed "a great debt of gratitude" to Dulles.

U. S. Planes Flying French to Indochina to permit them to fly over the subcontinent.

Plane No. 1 landed at Hanoi as reports in Colombo, Ceylon, said the airlift of 800 men which started from Paris' Orly Airport Monday now was passing through the Royal Air Force station at Katunayake.

Reports at Colombo said Burma also had refused landing rights to the American planes.

Two Globemasters took off from Colombo at the same time that three others loaded with reinforcements arrived in the British commonwealth.

The planes were believed to have flown from France by way of Dharan in Saudi Arabi, Karachi in Pakistan, Colombo and Thailand, although the route was not announced officially.

The unprecedented airlift was undertaken in a race against time to save the beleaguered fortress in northwest VietNam which has been under rebel assault for 42 days.

Goodyear Holds Grand Opening

The Goodyear Service Store at 30 S. Cass Ave. is holding a grand opening through Saturday after completing a $78,000 remodeling project, according to Jim Lomax, store manager.

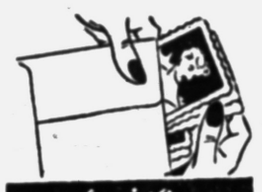

The larger and modernized store now contains twice its original car-service space and two-thirds more salesroom area, Lomax explained.

"We've installed a new tire recapping plant and are now able to handle more complete lines of merchandise," the manager added.

The store front has been done over in white porcelain topped by a 16-foot electric sign. New display tables and other fixtures have been installed throughout the salesrooms.

In business here over 25 years, the Goodyear firm sells and recaps tires, plus servicing cars. It also carries a line of merchandise including home appliances, garden and lawn tools and outboard motors.

Million-Heir Faces Weapons Charge

CHICAGO (AP)—Charles Lynch, 17, who is an heir to his father's million-dollar estate, was summoned into court today on charges of malicious mischief, carrying a concealed weapon and larceny of a shotgun.

Lynch and two other youths were seized yesterday by police who said they admitted breaking 29 windows in 11 South Side buildings Wednesday night. Police said the youths said they drove around hurling rocks at windows "for a thrill." A year ago, police said, Lynch was placed on five years' probation for auto theft.

Lynch on his 21st birthday will come into a one-third share of a $1,249,402 estate left by his father, John L. Sr., a real estate operator, who died two years ago. Two other sons, both older, also share in the estate.

About 14 per cent of the aluminum consumed in the U. S. is used in the manufacture of airplanes, trucks, boats, and other forms of transport.

Former Royal Family 'Broke'

Egypt's 'New Poor' Get Only Small Sum Since Naguib Coup

CAIRO (INS) — Egypt's "new poor" sip Turkish coffee on the Gezira Sporting Club veranda and gaze gloomily across the trim lawns to the crowded race-course.

They are used to betting in hundreds of dollars. But now the only thing any of them could put on a horse would be—literally — his shirt.

They are some of the approximately 400 members of Egypt's former royal family—descendants of the tough Albanian adventurer Mohamed Ali, founder of the dynasty which crumbled with Farouk —whose lands and wealth were seized by the Naguib Government early in November.

As a concession, each of the former princes and princesses was then allowed to draw $560 from the bank—not a penny more. And many of them were living at the $85,000-a-year level.

Pensions have been promised them by the government, but details have not yet been announced and no cash is forthcoming.

So members of "the family" are living on credit or borrowing money from friends to pay the household bills. Some are tramping Cairo's pavements in search of jobs, only to find that few employers will take them on until their status is defined. An ex-princess is starting work as a saleswoman in an Alexandria drug store.

Farouk's four pretty young sisters are penniless—in Egypt at least—like the rest. So are the former Queens, Narriman, and Farida, though they and other relatives by marriage will be given back whatever part of their property they can prove belonged to them before they were married.

On estates and model farms covering more than 200,00 acres, in almost 300 palaces and luxurious town mansions, officials are busy totting up an inventory. Estimates put the value of the property at $140,000,000 including $20,000,000 in hard cash.

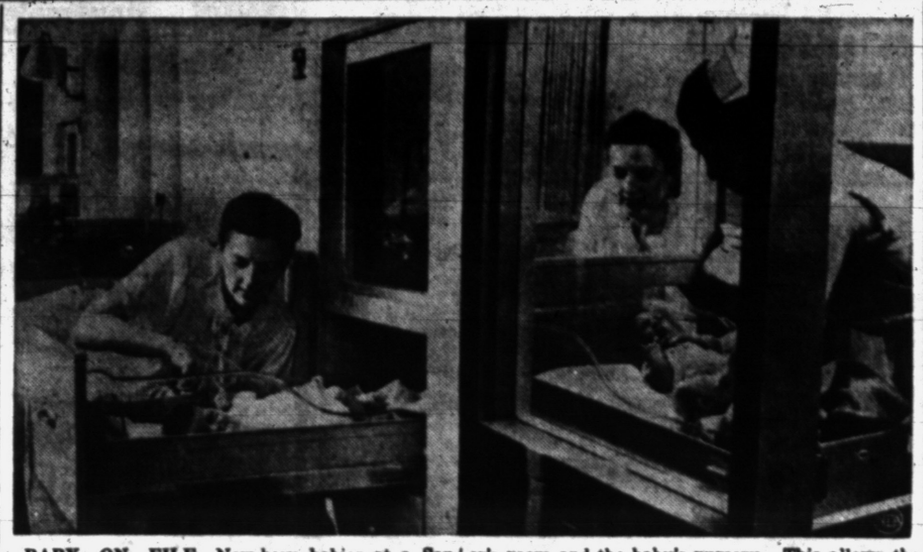

The stately homes are being stripped of an astonishing conglomeration of jewels, paintings, carpets, and sundry objets d'art accumulated over 150 years.

A gold-plated bed with diamond-encrusted headboard, in which King Fouad and his first wife, Princess Chevakier, spent their wedding night, has been found in the palace of the Princess's son.

At a family tomb in Alexandria, officials have taken over silver chandeliers and censers worth $42,900. The collection of precious stones in the Toussoun Palace was valued at $4,200,000. And in the harbor a fleet of 43 trim cruising yachts and launches now belongs to the state.

Jewelry and valuables seized in Alexandria have been brought to Cairo in a heavily-guarded train to join other family heirlooms stacked in the vaults of the National Bank of Egypt. The whole lot may be sold by auction in February and March, together with Farouk's own collections.

No one knows who made the famous statue of Venus de Milo, or when. It probably was made during the first or second century, B. C.

Hindus Killed at Festival Enjoy Immediate Nirvana

WASHINGTON — Rising in the Himalayan snowfields, the sacred Ganges River courses 1,500 miles across India to pour its waters into the Eastern Bay of Bengal.

En route it enriches fields of wheat and rice. But for India's 300 million Hindus it provides vital service. To faithful Hindus, the Ganges flows from heaven and nourishes the human spirit.

"As long as the bones of a man touch Ganga water, so long is that man magnified in heaven. No place of pilgrimage is better than Ganga."

According to the Hindu creed, pilgrims cleanse their souls of sin when they bathe and drink in the Ganges.

To its shores flock Hindus of all stations — rajahs and princes, warriors, merchants, farmers, and laborers. Water dipped from the Ganges is carried to all India, to be sprinkled upon the new born, the married, and the dying.

Whenever possible, the dead are cremated on the river banks, or their ashes are gathered and sent to one of the sacred cities along the shore to be cast upon the water.

Thousands of pilgrims annually make the long journey high in the Himalayas near the origin of the Ganges. They must walk north along the left bank and return by the right bank.

Many perish from disease or starvation en route. Those who reach their goal sprinkle themselves with a jar of sacred water taken by a Brahman priest from the Ganges' source.

At Allahabad the Ganges joins another sacred river, the Jumna. Hindus consider this point the holiest place on earth. There Brahma, the Hindu creator, prepared himself for the task of constructing the universe. Vishnu, the preserver, and Shiva the destroyer—the other members of the Hindu trinity-are also believed to have gained their powers by penance at the river junction.

Some 5,000,000 Hindus are now gathered at Allahabad for a current festival, which Hindu astrologers have proclaimed the most auspicious in more than 100 years. The thousands reported killed and injured there in the recent crush of bathers are not considered by the Hindus to be victims of unalloyed tragedy. Death during the Kumbh Mela is thought to be a direct passage to heaven.

As Mecca is the holiest of holy cities to the Moslem, so is Banaras to the Hindu. It is a place of more than 1,500 jumbled, gold-roofed temples. Daily at dawn, most of the city's 400,000 residents and thousands of visitors walk to the ghats, a two-mile-long series of steps and platforms descending from the bluff on which the city is built to the river's edge.

Australia Home to Giant Worm

Crawlers Measure Up to 11 Feet Long, Furnish Food for Platypus

WASHINGTON — In Australia, where odd beasts are the rule rather than the exception, even the lowly earthworm is unique.

Of the worl's 1,800 species of worms, the Australian Megascolides holds clear title as the world's largest.

The giant crawlers average 4 to 6 feet long and occasionally span 11 feet. Some are an inch thick and weigh a pound or more.

Originally believed to exist only in Victoria's fertile Bass Valley, the creatures have also been uncovered recently in several sections of Queensland. Naturalists excavated them from tunnels large enough to house snakes and lizards.

Loud gurgles and weird bubbling sounds beneath the ground first attracted the scientists. The groans are caused, they later discovered, by contractions of the worm's body as it burrows into the soil.

Pulled from its hold, the crawler is apt to break into numerous segments. But once unraveled to full length above ground, its tough, elastic skin is difficult to cut with a knife. A muscular, bulbous head used in locomotion and digging is slightly fuller than the rest of the body.

When captured, the giant worm sprays jets of fluid like a leaky hose. Secreted from dorsal pores, the coelomic liquid is normally used to lubricate the burrows for easier passage. It also serves as a defense against soil bacteria and parasites.

Its cocoon or egg capsule, measuring up to an inch and a half in length, is glossy, sausage-shaped, and olive brown in color. Newly hatched worms are a mere 6 inches long.

The giant worms are a favorite food of the duck-billed platypus, another member of Australia's crossword puzzle menagerie. The platypus gulps down a half-dozen Megascolides at a sitting.

To make life at New York's Bronx Zoo worthwhile for three platypuses brought from Australia in 1947, the zoo staff developed the world's biggest earthworm-breeding farm in the cellar of the lion house.

Proposals to import the Australian earthworm to America to help fertilize farmlands have been vetoed by United States authorities.

Trade and Convertibility

News from Washington indicates some encouraging progress toward greater convertibility of foreign currencies.

Since the war other Nations have had to maintain strict currency controls to insure that their short supplies of dollars and gold would be used for essential purchases.

As economic records long have shown, these controls have been barriers to trade with dollar countries. Prospective buyers might have plenty of money to spend in their own countries, but their lack of dollars has barred their buying from us.

The trade stifling effect of inconvertibility has been especially severe in the case of the pound sterling which still is used by 14 Nations in 40 per cent of all world trade. If the pound should become freely exchangeable again, economists say a great liberation of trade would result.

In its majority report the Randall Commission recommended "gradual but positive programs toward convertibility." President EISENHOWER's foreign trade message emphasized his approval and cited steps already taken.

In our view the attitude of the Randall Commission, the Joint Committee and President Eisenhower is economic common sense. Except for peace, there isn't anything the world needs more than a freer flow of international trade.

Thomas Repudiated 7 to 1

J. PARNELL THOMAS has learned the hard way that Republicans of the seventh New Jersey district wanted no part of his political comeback.

The former chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee had hoped to win back the seat he lost when convicted in 1949 of padding his office payrolls. The first step in that comeback attempt was his try at wresting the nomination from the incumbent GOP Rep. WILLIAM N. WIDNALL.

THOMAS, who was pardoned by President TRUMAN after serving nine months in a Federal prison, campaigned on a platform of "1,000 per cent" support of Sen. MCCARTHY, his objectives and methods.

Rep. WIDNALL, on the other hand, sought renomination as a whole-hearted backer of the EISENHOWER program. In his campaign he had the support of local and State Republican organizations.

When the counting was completed it showed the New Jersey Republicans had rejected Thomas' comeback attempt by the crushing margin of more than seven to one.

That is just the verdict called for by the record.

Russia's Slave Camps

From several Spaniards recently released from Russia's slave labor camps, the free world has received some significant information about the extent of this iniquituous system.

As recorded by the New York Times, the Spaniards learned during their servitude that slave camps lie in all directions from Moscow. They range from the Leningrad area in the west to Magadan in the east and from Norilsk in the north to Karaganda in central Asia.

The returnees' descriptions of their experiences show to what length this form of human exploitation has been pushed. Before they were hired out on collective farms, they were exhibited in slave markets. This was to give the collective farm manager a chance to get the strongest workers and the most value for the slave rental he had to pay.

Another fact more significant than we may realize is the Russians' effort to make slave labor more productive. As incentives the prisoners now receive small amounts in wages and are shown propaganda films.

But it's a safe bet that nobody imprisoned in one of these camps ever would call the USSR a "worker's paradise." It is just as safe a conclusion that no country that maintains these barbaric institutions can claim to be civilized.

"No MAN can be well-dressed who doesn't own 14 suits," says a haberdasher. On this basis, there are some men who are only slightly more than seven per cent well dressed.

Lincoln Junior High School is celebrating its 25th birthday this year. The event will be celebrated with a birthday party to be held Saturday evening, May 15, at the school and it will begin at 7 p.m.

Since it would be humanly impossible to contact all former students of the school we are mailing letters to labor unions, service clubs, PTA groups, etc. In this way we hope to reach many of our alumni so that they may be present to celebrate this milestone with us.

A pageant, "Through the Years" will be presented, followed by a reception complete with refreshments.

World's Friendliness Overwhelms a Family

It is very gratifying to know that so many people in this busy and seemingly selfish world would take time out to offer consolation to a small boy. A cocker spaniel, Sandy, which was the pet of our son Douglas was killed recently.

We were simply overwhelmed and our hearts greatly warmed by the responses that came to us by telephone from far distant states as well as our own city. People sent air-mail letters and visited our home in person, offering to replace the pet.

Although Sandy's tragic death was untimely and unnecessary, it has been a wonderful experience for all three of us. What sweeter, dearer gift could come at Easter time than the knowledge that people really notice and care when tragedy comes to an impetuous small boy and his dog.

This happening was really very unimportant in a world full of so many big things. Isn't that one of the reasons why America is such a great country?

The little dog called "Cinder" which was given to us by Mr. Oliver Hessam already has a firm place in our hearts.

Competition

An acrobatic team, two men and a girl, were explaining their act to a booking agent. The girl said, "And once during every performance, they throw me into the audience."

"Why do they do that?" asked the agent.

"Well," was the reply, "you know we have to compete with three-dimensional movies now."

Reds Harp on 'Due Process of Law' in Fighting Investigations by Congress

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — A study of the tactics of Communist agents — of whom, according to official information, there are at least 25,000 in the United States today — reveals many phases of their activity that are by no means understood by the American people.

Millions of Americans, including some officials not too familiar with Communist tactics, have been accepting the illusion that the whole job can be safely left to the FBI or to the Department of Justice. It is surprising how many persons do not know that the Communist agents are careful to avoid violating any laws. They make use of public instrumentalities to influence governmental action just like any other pressure group, but they conceal their sponsorship of such acts.

They cannot be arrested for writing letters to newspapers and giving fictitious names or phony addresses. Nor can they be put in jail for getting well-meaning citizens to sign petitions on stationery of organizations with respectable-sounding names.

Anyone who knows how few of the rank-and-file members attend labor-union meetings at night can testify that a small group can put across the passage of a resolution while the actual majority never comes to the union hall to vote.

There is only one effective way to combat the Communist conspiracy, and that is by exposure. There is only one instrument by which that can be done without encountering technical barriers—the congressional investigating committee.

Had the statements of Whittaker Chambers, an ex-Communist, accusing Alger Hiss, been made outside a committee hearing, no newspaper or periodical could have printed the testimony without subjecting itself to a costly libel suit. There is no immunity for the press from libel for printing the facts about individuals, even though proof of those facts is available. It can mean costly litigation to prove the truth of the alleged libel.

But anything which a congressional committee reveals in its hearings can be printed and is immune from libel. This testimony is called privileged. If the investigative and publicity power of congressional committees were abolished or weakened, corruption could thrive and many government scandals could never be uncovered.

It was the persistent questioning by the House Committee on Un-American Activities which exposed Alger Hiss and subjected him to a perjury charge, on which he was later put in jail.

The Department of Justice couldn't prosecute him on any other charge because the limitation period had already passed within which a case in prosecution could be brought under any laws he may have violated.

Legal technicalities also applied in the Harry Dexter White case. He couldn't be indicted by a grand jury because much of the evidence gathered by the FBI against him, such as wire-tap material, was not technically admissible. Thus, those who have talked about how White was never convicted in a court forget that the executive branch of the government doesn't have to hold a court trial to fire anyone it considers a loyalty or security risk.

Lately the Communists have given momentum to a new phrase. It has been taken up by respectable and non-Communist personalities. It bobs up in the news with remarkable frequency.

The phrase is "due process of law." It's a phrase that's in the Constitution, of course, and refers to the fact that no man's life, liberty or property can be taken from him without "due process of law." That means a court trial.

Yet most of the witnesses called before a congressional committee couldn't be exposed or subjected to a court trial because the time limit of applicability of the law has passed or because the activity in question was not in itself unlawful.

If the congressional committee powers are restricted, however, or made to conform to the so-called "due process of law" procedures used in courts — a plan to which former President Truman regrettably has just lent his influence in public speeches — then a repetition of the frustrating tactics of the courtroom such as occurred in the lengthy trial of the eleven Communists in New York will prevent the complete exposure of the tactics of the Communist agents in America.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Plump, Unromantic Wife Threatens Wedded Bliss

Kenneth says he'd like more "butterflies" in his stomach even if it means less apple pies. For his attractive wife is too matronly and unromantic.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case K-383: Dr. Kenneth, aged 43, is a dentist whom I know quite well.

"My wife comes under the category of a plump, matronly soul," he confessed, unhappily.

"She is really a very attractive woman and has retained much of her youthful beauty.

"But she seems to think we should be contented grandparents with no youthful, romantic ardor.

"At least, whenever I try to suggest that we are still young enough to be gay and kittenish, she says 'Kenneth, act your age!'

"You are right, Dr. Crane in saying these middle-aged wives can put delicious apple pies in their husband's tummy, but I still want some of those 'butterflies' that I enjoyed during courtship and early marriage.

"Does my wife need hormones? How can I perk her up to the fact that a sexless, platonic marriage is not in keeping with our youthful age of 43?"

Women were created primarily to be maternal creatures. That's why they are relatively frigid as measured by the average male's standard.

God Almighty apparently wanted one of the two adult parents of a baby to be more concerned with the baby's rearing than with romancing with the other adult parent.

So, from time immemorial, women have been noted for their wonderful roles as mothers, cooks and tutors of children in morality, music and idealism.

But in those earlier periods of human history, the situation was not intolerable to the male, for he could have several wives. Thus, patriarchal Jacob had four mates. If one was too prosaic and maternal, he could grow kittenish about another one.

In those days husbands had "affairs" but the affairs were simply with one or another of their many wives.

Nowadays we have monogamy, which is far superior to polygamy if the lone wife of a modern husband will just realize that he is polygamous by nature and that it requires a little psychology to keep him happy.

Successful wives have learned this vital lesson subconsciously.

Husbands are much like horses, so use horse sense on them. If you feed a horse adequately in his own pasture or stall, he will not endanger himself trying to break into a distant pasture field.

But horses get tired of the same food, so it is well to give them some variety. The same holds true of husbands.

You wives can vary your coquetry somewhat and thus meet their need for novelty, without having to share them with outside paramours.

If you don't know how, then send for the bulletin "How to Prevent Impotence in Men," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus a dime.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
International News Service

The whole town's talking about The Jones Boy. Except in Maine where The Jones Boy is talking about Smith.

Register this stack of moodalations as a squawk against the manner in which Jonesy is campaigning against Smitty.

In the books Jones would be defeated by a mark. In the telephone books he would be whipped two pages to one.

But up there among the summer boarders and the landlocked salmon Jones is still at the bat. The Maine primaries start June 21 and Jonesy is saying some pretty nasty things about Smitty.

It may be political but it is not parliamentary. It may be campaignly but it is not gentlemanly. He has even said Smitty is in poor health and may not last out the century.

A gentleman knows you permit a lady to talk about her own health. And she will.

But Jones also says this pretty person is inadequate, fumbling, indecisive, superfluous and a security risk. That she burns incense to the josses of alien credos. Is chivalry deader than hog on the hook? In politics does the gentleman continue to walk on the gutter side?

We trust the Maine voters will turn out on June 21 and give Maggie her seat back.

It was my suggestion that we are impartial about the Maine primaries. Stand Jonesy and Smitty in back of a lighted screen and vote for the best silhouette. And so goes Vermont.

Jones should not be saying Smith is a fascinating scoundrel or a beautiful liability. Instead he should be asking Maggie for the next dance.

Whether Jones wins or loses we will go on record on a definite prediction. Jones is not the shape of the future.

Unbroken Skin Can't Absorb Anything, Says Dr. Brady, Talking of Boric Acid

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Four cases of poisoning of young infants by boric acid are reported by Drs. Goldbloom in the December, '53, Jour. of Pediatrics.

One of the babies was poisoned by a borated talcum powder applied to soothe irritation of the skin of the buttocks, the others by other boric acid preparations applied to the irritated buttocks.

The Drs. Goldbloom stated that the over-all death rate in 105 cases of boric acid poisoning reported by other physicians in a period of many years and their four cases was 55 per cent and for infants less than a year old it was 70 per cent.

The usual symptoms of boric acid poisoning are angry red skin eruptions, followed by dry peeling of the skin, diarrhea, vomiting and evidence of meningeal irritation.

They say the presence of boric acid in the urine is readily confirmed by the tumeric paper test. They recommended that the use of boric acid medically, particularly for babies, should be discontinued because it is potentially dangerous.

The Drs. Goldspoon emphasize the high degree of absorption of boric acid through broken skin surfaces and mucous membranes, but they say absorption of boric acid through intact adult skin could not be demonstrated, confirming the findings o. Pfeiffer and his associates.

Some forty years ago Louis Kahlenberg, a chemist with a biography as long as your arm in Who's Who, proved that the intact skin absorbs boric acid. He demonstrated boric acid in the urine after the subject had soaked his feet in boric acid solution.

Ho, hum! Perhaps it will astonish some chemists when I say that boric acid is volatile, and therefor Prof. Kahlenberg's "proof of absorption through the unbroken skin is invalid, for there was no control against inhalation of volatized boric acid while the subject was in the bath.

So I must say any recognized group of physicians and-or chemists may apply any substance they choose to my skin — provided it does not blister or destroy the skin — and if they can recover a significant quantity of the substance from my blood or urine afterward I'll tell the world I was wrong.

Of course I must have absolute control of ventilation during the test.

Anyway I still say the unbroken skin does not absorb anything and all laboratory or other experiments purporting to prove that this or that is absorbed through the skin are p-h-o-n-y.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Use Airplane to Find Uranium

Prospectors Fly Over Mountains With Gear Sensitive to Particles

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Uranium prospectors have taken to the air to search for the radio-active lodes in Oklahoma's mountains.

Geologists armed with a super-sensitive instrument that detects even minute uranium particles fly over the Arbuckle and Wichita Mountains for Kerr-McGee Oil Industries, Inc., hunting for deposits.

The geologists use an instrument called a "scintillometer."

"It will pick out a piece of uranium as small as your hat from the air," said Buffalo Kennedy, head of Kerr-McGee's uranium exploration department.

The firm uses a light plane manned only by the pilot and a geologist. The plane sweeps the mountains at an altitude of only 50 feet. To avoid tricky air currents the plane flies only very early in the morning and late in the afternoon.

If the instrument tells the geologist he is flying over radioactive material, he drops a flour sack on the spot and another geologist goes in on foot to check the find.

"We've had some samples brought in from the Wichita Mountains," Kennedy said, "but we've never found enough to say it was commercial."

Kennedy said the firm has one plane operating out of Ardmore, Okla., and another in the western part of the country. He said the planes have flown thousands of hours of searches without accident.

"We hire pilots who are also mechanics," Kennedy said, "so the pilot is flying a plane he's worked on. It keeps them careful."

He said the scintillometer may also prove valuable in finding oil deposits as well as uranium, because of a theory that some radioactive material is found around oil.

"We're experimenting with it for finding oil now," Kennedy said. "We're investigating the possibilities and making some tests, but it's too early to tell how it works out."

Texans' Taste Alien

DALLAS, Tex. (INS) — Although some 6,000 species of wild plants are native to Texas, most homes in the Lone Star state are surrounded by foreign plants. Dr. John J. Sperry, professor of botany at Texas A & M College, told a Dallas garden club recently that most Texans seem to prefer grass from Bermuda, palms from the Orient and flowering plants from Mexico, South America and other parts of the world.

LEAVES HOSPITAL—Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee in 1952, bids farewell to nurse Eleanor Hatcher as he leaves Passavant Hospiatl in Chicago. Stevenson had an operation a week ago.

Father Still Doubts That Children Died

FAYETTEVILLE, W. Va. (UP)—George Sodder refuses to believe that five of his nine children died in a fire that destroyed the family's home on Christmas Eve, 1945.

Over the fire site, he has erected a billboard promising a $5,000 reward for information leading to the discovery of his lost children, who would now range in age from 13 to 22.

Sodder's faith, which goes against the conclustions of authorities, is founded on the fact that the children's remains were not found in the fire and that several persons have sworn that they were seen in Florida after the fire.

Air Force Will Build 15,000 Foot Jet Runway

MUROC LAKE, Calif. (UP)—A runway 15,000 feet long—almost three miles—and 300 feet wide is being constructed at Edwards Air Force Base here for the planes that are steadily pushing back the frontiers of flight.

The slab of concrete is 19 inches thick and is flanked by earth shoulders 300 feet wide. Pouring of concrete, with two giant paving machines in operation, is well under way. Completion is scheduled for November, 1954.

The runway is a major phase of the expansion program that is transforming Edwards Field into a permanent flight test center.

Holstein Does the Work of Five Average Cows

DURHAM, N. H. (UP)—Everlasting Isadora, a registered Holstein owned by the University of New Hampshire, has produced approximately five times the lifetime amount of milk of the average cow.

Official test records of the Holstein - Friesian Association of America show that Isadora produced more than 100,000 pounds of milk, her lifetime production record. She was credited with 112,149 pounds of milk and 4,210 pounds of butterfat in eight lactations on two milkings daily.

No 'count Dog Has Greatness in Crisis

GREENVILLE, Miss. (UP) — Tom Mullen lost his prized pointer, Lady, on a hunting trip recently and decided she had been led astray by her "no 'count" son, Jeff.

Mullen and his companion, Ramsey Russell, searched two days but couldn't find either Lady or Jeff. Finally, he placed an advertisement in the paper.

A reply came from Eudora, Ark., near the place where they had been hunting.

Lady had been caught in a rusty old trap, and had lain there for three weeks before a farmer had found her.

As for "no 'count" Jeff, he had stayed by her side — catching birds and chickens to feed her. Bones and feathers were scattered all around the trap.

"No one expected much of Jeff, but then you never can tell about dogs," Mullen conceded. "And he is Lady's pup."

There is no statute authorizing the office of Senate chaplain, but it is a deeply rooted custom.

Porter Gives Answer to Great Shell Mystery

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP — Workmen excavating a site for a new building here thought they had uncovered the scene of a terrific battle when their shovels brought up odd-shaped ammunition and artillery shells.

Isaac Carnes, a bank porter, solved the mystery. Carnes said he had been hired as a boy to bury the ammunition in the cellar of a home which had stood on the site. It was a private collection of shells from the Civil War and the Spanish-American War.

Atomic Defense Games Started

2 Airmen Die as C119 Explodes in Mid-air at Joint Maneuvers

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP)—An "aggressor" force, 10,000 strong, advanced on this Army base at sunrise today. It was the opening ground move in Exercise Flash Burn, this country's first major atomic defense war game.

Spread through the piney woods of the sprawling reservation were about 5,000 U. S. forces primed to resist the attack. The exercise eventually will have nearly 100,000 troops and airmen engaged in tests of atomic weapons and changing military strategy.

The Air Force's Tactical Air Command is holding a big training exercise, Operation Tacair 54-7, in conjunction with Flash Burn. This will let the Army call for immediate Air Force support.

The first phase of Tacair 54-7 was marred yesterday when a C119 Flying Boxcar blew up and crashed south of Goldsboro, N. C. Two crew members were killed and two others parachuted, escaping with minor injuries.

U. S. forces in Flash Burn planned to fall back slowly before the "aggressor" soldiers through the weekend. Next Monday the buildup phase starts. The 82nd Airborne Division from Ft. Bragg will be dropped on the battleground to establish an airhead. This will be used to land two regimental combat teams from the 37th Infantry Division at Camp Polk, La.

Simulated atomic explosions will be set off throughout the exercise.

The U. S. forces bearing the brunt of the first assault are principally the 145th Regimental Combat Team (RCT) of the 37th Division.

Evidence Class Given Police

Pontiac Officers Take Course in Assembling Courtroom Data

Oakland County Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor today presented the second in a series of three classes on gathering evidence to 18 Pontiac policemen.

The 13 rookies and five first-year men will meet again Monday in the Metropolitan Clubrooms on Perry street from 1 to 4 p. m.

Included in the class are talks on what evidence is needed for successful prosecution in a court trial, type of evidence needed from time of arrest to appearance in court and what items may be considered evidence.

Taylor was recommended for the class by Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem after Capt. Edward H. Shigley of the police department decided to add the course to the training of policemen.

A mock court has been set up in the clubrooms and all officers taking the course are put on the stand where they undergo direct and cross examination.

"In this way they get a better idea of what to expect when they actually appear in court to present evidence or testimony," Taylor declared.

Methodists Support Negro Colleges

DETROIT (AP)— The Board of Education of the Methodist Church wound up in its annual meeting last night with the adoption of a resolution reaffirming support of Negro Methodist colleges.

The resolution pledged board members to "reaffirm their support of Negro Methodist colleges which are engaged in the highly important work of Christian education and are helping produce a trained Christian leadership."

The educators said the church will need its 11 Negro colleges regardless of a forthcoming decision by the U.S. Supreme Court on race segregation in schools.

"This is not a matter of perpetuating segregation but simply a recognition that America will still need every good college it has if segregation is totally outlawed," the Rev. Dr. James L. Thomas, Nashville, Tenn., Negro member of the board, told the delegates.

Week's News Highlights Swing Between Good, Bad

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The week's balance sheet between the good and bad news in the hot and cold wars:

THE GOOD

1. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles left for the Geneva Conference assured of bi-partisan support in Congress for a firm stand against further Communist aggression in Southeast Asia and against any attempts by the Communists to force recognition of Red China as the price of peace. Hope of the Allied nations for any agreement with the Reds was not high. But at least the chips will be down.

2. Australian Police rescued Mrs. Evokyia Petrov, cipher expert in the Soviet embassy in Canberra, from secret police agents who were flying her to Moscow. Her husband Vladimir Petrov, chief Soviet spy agent in Australia, had asked for asylum previously. In desperate fear of disclosures he might make, the Russians denounced Petrov as a thief and forger. They had said at first he was kidnaped. On Thursday, it was disclosed in Bonn that Nikolai E. Khoklov, secret police agent sent to Germany to murder an anti-Communist, also had asked asylum.

3. The French garrison at Dien Bien Phu held fast against the Indochinese Red rebels, and the United States started air lifting French troops to Indochina. The Reds had set themselves to take the fortress before the Geneva Conference starts Monday. Every day Dien Bien Phu holds out, is a defeat for the Reds.

THE BAD

1. Soviet Russia hinted it might boycott the United Nations Disarmament Conference because Red China, India and Czechoslovakia were not permitted to take part in preliminary negotiations on A-bomb and H-bomb control. United States Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., called the stand of Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky "a thinly veiled threat to torpedo the peace."

2. India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru announced he would not permit American Air Force planes air lifting French troops to Indochina to fly over India. His attitude will force the planes to make wide, dangerous detours. It was the latest move in Nehru's "neutralist" policy which the West feels aids the Communists.

3. British left wing labor leader Aneurin Bevan started getting strong support from labor unions against the rearming of Germany. In a new development of his position to British cooperation with the United States, Bevan charged that this country wants the Geneva Conference to be a "carefully arranged failure." He said also that the United States wants war because its "military striking power is in excess of its diplomatic influence."

Water requires more heat to warm it and more cold to cool it than any other common substance.

Bob Considine Says:

America Discovers Spain: Close Friendship Looms

WASHINGTON (INS) — The flag of Franco flew over Blair House the other day, emblematic of the new, close relationship growing out of the Pentagon's historic discovery of Spain a year or so ago.

Manuel Arburua, Spanish minister of commerce, was in residence at the V I P mansion across the street from the White House. Harold Stassen, who urged the well-groomed, young banker to make the trip, assured him he was the first Spanish cabinet officer ever to visit the U. S.

When Arburua was only a bit younger, such a trip would have been out of the question. The showing of the Spanish flag over an official place in Washington would have been an international incident.

That was during the post-war period when we joined with others in U. N. in an attempt to freeze Franco out of office by the sheer force of stripping Madrid of striped pants.

In effect, we were declaring it was true — as parroted in U. N. by Communist Poland — that Franco had offered haven to certian Nazi physiciasts in the brewing of a new Fascist plot to rule the world. If asked now, the State Department would say that Franco's foremost concern at that time was how to get together food enough for the bellies of his people. It still is.

The diplomatic freeze on France began to melt during the Berlin airlift and was completely defrosted with the outbreak of the Korean War and the Homeric work of rearming Europe and perhaps even uniting it in a common front against the Communist military menace.

Now the U. S. is building four great air bases in Spain, and naval bases will be added. We are so eager not to offend Spain or upset its still struggling economy that we are taking extreme precautions.

For example, most of the actual work on the bases will be done by Spanish labor, and we seek ways and means of sending as few Americans as possible there to man the bases when they are completed. This is a guard against inflation and reports that Spain has been "sold."

I met Arburua in New York recently through Luis Bolin, who has done so much to enable the people of both countries to understand each other. I asked the minister if Spain was as fretful over relation from Russia as England (where other U. S. bases are located) appears to be.

No, the Sinclair Weeks of Spain replied. Spain has been through so much in recent years that it has become inured to threats of physical violence.

Besides, he went on, Spain is an active and dedicated anti-Communist country and he believes it always will be. Its people were fighting communism as long as 18 years ago, he said, and they don't plan to stop now. The Spanish troops who fought in Hitler's forces on the Eastern front were not fighting for Nazism, he said. They were fighting against communism.

He has a story about the Blue Division that fought against the Russians. When Gen. Mark Clark met Lt. Col. (now general) Zanon of the Blue Division at El Zaio in North Africa during World War II he asked the Spanish officer, "What, in your opinion, is the Red Army's objective in its drive from the East? Berlin?"

"New York," said Zanon. Then he apologized. "I'm sorry," he said. "I meant San Francisco."

We've given anti-Communist Spain much less than we've given Tito and, of course, France. It would like more equipment for its Army and Air Force, which is just now getting jets. "We work hard," Arburua said with an expressive shrug, as if to say, "you get more for your dollar in Spain."

The Air Force feels that Spanish 'dromes are needed because North African bases are unsure. The Army has figures to prove that the well-trained Acdres of the Spanish Army could expand to a good striking force of 2,000,000 men. The Navy points to the map, and wonders whether the British Isles could exist as a staging base in an atomic war.

The persecution of Spain by the West seems to be ended. The ability of the country to survive great hardship has been proved. The flag of the country, as we were saying at the start, snapped briskly over Blair House the other day, pleasing many," including Mrs. Frank Hoffman of Bluefield, W. Va., sister of Minister Arburua.

3 Michigan Beauties Travel to Capital

LANSING (AP)—Three Michigan beauty queens will make appearances in Washington and New York during Michigan Week May 2-8, Jay D. Runkle, general chairman of the week, announced today.

Virginia Hamilton, 18, of Capac, the state dairy queen; Mercelline Bender, 21, of Saginaw, the bean queen, and Everil Meloche, 19, of Suttons Bay, the cherry queen, will make the trip.

The queens will leave for Washington April 30. After a brief stay there, they will go to New York where a program of radio and television appearances and a press party is being arranged.

Most active U. S. centers for lightning are Vicksburg, Mississippi; Tampa, Florida, and Santa Fe, New Mexico, which average from 60 to 90 thunderstorm days per year.

Pastor Promotes 'Faith on Wheels'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Rev. Arthur F. Koons, who is experimenting with a "faith on wheels" program at his roller rink in nearby Westerville, says he gets more queries on spiritual matters there than he ever did "at my churches."

The Rev. Mr. Koons thinks the reason is "people are afraid to approach a minister at church or at home, fearful that they may be broadcasting the fact they have troubles and need advice."

The minister offers a prayer each evening in connection with a Flag ceremony. He calls the rink run by himself and his wife an "experiment in the field of juvenile delinquency."

Cadillac

Starting the Day with an Hour's Rest!

It's about an hour from his home to his office—but he doesn't think of it as a drive at all.

He just settles back in the deep, comfortable seat—rests his hand on the inviting wheel—looks out over the hood in the general direction of the office—and starts to relax.

Comes first, the ten-mile stretch in the open country.

If the car were standing still, it could not be smoother or softer or quieter—as it loafs over the broad, winding highway. There's only the faint sound of the wind, plus the receding trees and posts and buildings, to give him a sense of movement.

Almost before it begins, it seems, the ten-mile stretch is over—and a sign announces the city's limits. The soft pressure of his foot shifts from accelerator to brake—and the big car settles down easily and quickly to the prescribed speed.

And then begins the real wizardry of Cadillac performance. Stop and go—in and out—roll and creep . . . all with the slightest touch of toe and hand. Insofar as the driver is concerned, it's just as easy as the open road—and just as calm and relaxing.

And maybe a little bit nicer, in one notable respect—for now there are drivers all about him—stealing glances at his beautiful car, and wondering who's the fortunate person whose name is on the title!

What a car—for highway or street! Owners everywhere say the hours behind its wheel are among the finest hours of the day—restful, relaxing and inspiring.

If you haven't as yet driven a 1954 Cadillac—you've been missing something wonderful! Better come in soon—for the most revealing hour you ever spent behind the wheel of a motor car.

Carney Favors Red Revolution

Admiral Suggests Push to Bring About Revolt by Oppressed People

CHICAGO (AP)—Adm. Robert B. Carney today suggested it might be good cold war strategy to encourage oppressed people to revolt.

The U. S. chief of naval operations, in a talk about strategy before the Executives Club, said:

"When people suffer from oppression and privation and finally reach a point of desperation in their need for improving their circumstances, they inevitably come to one conclusion: revolution."

Then the admiral said:

"Can you imagine, for instance the strategic implications if one day Red China's Mao Tse-tung should disassociate himself from the Kremlin? A clean break between Peiping and Moscow obviously would have profound impact on the grand strategy not only of the United States and her allies but on the strategy of the Soviet Union.

"We should never be beguiled into wishful thinking, but it is pleasant to contemplate that dictators are suspicious critters subject to hates, passions, and prejudices, and not without personal ambitions.

"One day this might bring satellite leaders to conclude that a part of Russian strategy is to trade unlimited advice and limited armaments for a war by proxy. Not bad trading, one would say, for the Soviet Union.

"Today there are literally hundreds of millions of people whose plight is desperate, who desperately need and seek betterment of their conditions; they are listening attentively to the offers being made to them for all sides . . . We are offering them the beauties of freedom and democracy; communism is offering them stark, unvarnished, and understandable revolution.

"And yet, why should we permit the Communists to be the exclusive salesmen of this age old remedy for oppression? . . . Why can't we be the salesmen of human revolt which demonstratively has produced freedom for the individual man and has brought about standards of life heretofore unknown in this world?"

Auto Insurance Company Soon to Get Buffalo Bill

LAWTON, Okla. (AP)—E. C. Williams, Lawton banker and retired Army colonel, was driving through the Woldlife Refuge near here, when a frisky yearling buffalo became angry at the car and made a dash for it. The hood and grille were smashed.

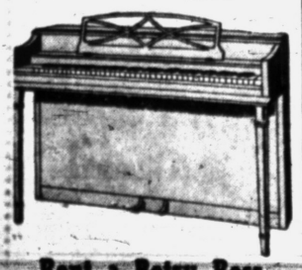

Williams quipped:

"In the Philippines, I once had to stop the car to let a crocodile cross, but I'm probably the only man in the nation who is going to collect car insurance after being hit by a buffalo."

Cameras Record Drama of Hearing in Row Between McCarthy and Army Brass

LISTENER—Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis) juts out his jaw as he listens to testimony by Maj. Gen. Miles Reber yesterday. Reber told the Senate investigation subcommittee investigating the case that McCarthy and his aide Roy Cohn had pressed for a commission for G. David Schine who was eventually drafted as a private.

AP Wirephoto

PRIVATE TALK—Sen. McCarthy holds both hands over microphones as he has a private word with Roy Cohn during Reber's testimony as leadoff witness in the McCarthy-Army dispute before a Senate subcommittee.

Stevens Calls McCarthy Charges False at Hearings

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charges by Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens that Senator Joseph McCarthy and Roy M. Cohn made "a persistent effort" to get special treatment for Pvt. C. David Schine, and charges of "completely false" hurled by both sides against opposition statements highlighted the opening sessions of the McCarthy-Army hearing yesterday.

Stevens was called back to the witness chair before the Senate investigations subcommittee to confront cross-examination on the statement in which he repeated yesterday the charges which touched off the expanding controversy with McCarthy.

There was no noticeable backing down at yesterday's opening, in a jampacked Senate caucus room and with millions looking on by television, of the long-heralded investigation.

"Absolutely false," Stevens said of McCarthy's contention that the secretary had sought to divert to the other armed services a hunt for Communists.

McCarthy has termed "completely false" Army charges that he and his aides sought by "improper means" to win favors for Pvt. G. David Schine. The senator indicated yesterday he still holds this position.

"The Schine case," Stevens testified under oath, "is only an example of the wrongful seeking of privilege, of the perversion of power."

"The fireworks are still to come," Sen. Dworshak (R-Idaho) said in an interview. He replaced McCarthy as a subcommittee member for this inquiry.

Word from the Wisconsin senator's camp was that he had laid out battle plans he hopes will bring back before the television cameras and into black headlines his charge that the Army has "coddled" some Communists.

Says Army Doesn't Coddle Commies

On that point, Stevens declared yesterday:

"I want to make it clear that the United States Army does not coddle Communists. This committee knows that. The American people know that."

Specifically, McCarthy was said to be whetting his inquiries for a review of the promotion and honorable discharge of Maj. Irving Peress, Army dentist charged by McCarthy of having had Communist ties.

Peress himself said in New York Wednesday night that "no one was more surprised than I" by the senator's accusations.

All McCarthy would say in advance of today's session was that:

"Sooner or later the American people will begin wondering why we are spending so much time on the case of a private who is still a private, instead of investigating communism."

The private McCarthy meant is Schine, unpaid subcommittee consultant before he was drafted last November.

Stevens told the inquiry group yesterday that McCarthy and his staff chief, Roy M. Cohn, had made "a persistent, tireless effort" to get special Army treatment for Schine.

McCarthy is chairman of the subcommittee, but he has stepped aside for this investigation, while retaining the right — also granted to Army representatives — to question all witnesses.

No Record Matches Persistent Effort

Stevens, wearing a gray suit, told the senators solemnly:

"I may say that during my tenure as secretary of the Army, there is no record that matches this persistent, tireless effort to obtain special consideration and privileges for this man."

He said there were 65 telephone calls from McCarthy and members of his staff to the Department of the Army about Schine. He said there were 19 personal meetings at which the topic came up.

Stevens said requests in Schine's behalf "ranged from several for a direct officer's commission before he was inducted into the Army to many for special assignments, relief from routine duties such as KP, extra time off and special visitor privileges."

And he said Schine got five times as many passes as the average draftee at Ft. Dix, N. J., where he took basic training.

Although Chairman Mundt (R-SD) said the subcommittee made "remarkably fine progress" in its first day, some puzzlement was voiced privately among members about the attitude of Counsel Jenkins.

Jenkins, a Knoxville, Tenn., lawyer, caught some members by surprise when he said in questioning Maj. Gen. Miles Reber that "at least 33 civilian employes at Ft. Monmouth (N. J.) were either fired or suspended because of their Communist leanings or background" as a result of McCarthy's investigations there.

Stevens contended in his statement that McCarthy had given the impression "that there was much current espionage at Ft. Monmouth, when such is not the case." Many of those suspended have been re-employed.

On the other hand, Jenkins several times sought to shut off a series of questions by McCarthy, on the grounds that they were not relevant or that the senator was making statements rather than putting questions.

Promises Further Monmouth Data

Jenkins himself, asked by reporters whether he had not "stated conclusions that are very much in doubt," replied he thinks his questions "speak for themselves." He said he did not agree that he had praised McCarthy's Ft. Monmouth investigation.

"Before the hearings are concluded the facts on the Ft. Monmouth hearings will be developed," he said.

Jenkins said he does not plan to call Sam Reber, who once served as acting high commissioner to Germany, for attempts to rebut an implication by McCarthy.

He is a brother of Gen. Reber, who was the Army's top liaison man with Congress until last fall. Gen. Reber had testified that he sure by McCarthy and Cohn to had been subjected to unusual presget an Army commission for Schine.

But at another stage in his testimony, Gen. Reber said of McCarthy: "I cannot say that I felt that he was high-pressuring me to a great extent. I was sure that he wanted a favorable answer. I could tell that . . ."

"I do not know and have never heard that my brother retired as a result of any action of this committee." Gen Reber replied. "The answer is positively no to that question . . . I know nothing about any security case involving him."

In New York, Sam Reber commented:

"When I reached the statutory retirement age, I asked for retirement and permission was granted.

"I think this is an issue between the Army and McCarthy and therefore I have very little to say on the subject. I don't want to inject myself into it."

McCarthy said he was attempting to show by his questions that Gen. Reber was biased because of the "unpleasant experience" McCarthy said Cohn and Schine had with Sam Reber when they were in Europe last year on an investigating trip. Gen. Reber said he had no bias.

Charges Attacks on Cohn, Schine

McCarthy said Sam Reber "repeatedly made attacks" on Cohn and Schine. Sam Reber said that question was "completely extraneous to this issue," and he added: "Cohn and Schine attacked one of my men and naturally I defended him."

In his testimony, Stevens labeled "absolutely false" McCarthy's original charge—not repeated in the same words by the Wisconsin senator in his formal complaint to the committee—that Stevens and his aides tried to "blackmail" the investigating group into dropping its Army inquiry.

McCarthy interrupted to say he had never charged effective blackmail. "There was an attempt," he said, "a very unsuccessful attempt, at blackmail."

The Army secretary said a McCarthy committee memorandum dated last Dec. 9 had mentioned this charge but added that it was "kept secret" from the committee and the public until March 12.

"The fact remains that this most serious charge is still on the record," Stevens said. "I therefore state that it is absolutely false."

The Army secretary also said that at no time did he urge McCarthy and his aides to "go after" the Navy of Air Force in Communist investigations, as the Wisconsin senator has charged.

"The senator said that the Army would furnish information about other services," Stevens testified. "I never made any such statement. I never supplied any such information. I never had any such information."

Stevens Asserts Cohn Made Threats

Stevens turned up with a new incident he said involved Cohn.

The secretary said he visited Ft. Monmouth with McCarthy, Cohn, Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) and Rep. James C. Auchincloss (R-NJ) and invited only the members of Congress to join him in inspection of a laboratory engaged in secret work there.

"Upon leaving the laboratory, I could see that Cohn was extremely angry at not having been allowed to enter," Stevens said. "Col. Kenneth E. BeLieu, (his executive officer) informed me that Cohn, upon being denied entrance, had in substance said:

" 'This means war . . . Don't they think I am cleared for classified information? I have access to FBI files when I want them . . . They did this on purpose just to embarrass me. We will really investigate the Army now.' "

Cohn has denied publicly that the subcommittee and its staff have had access to FBI files. And Atty. Gen. Brownell said recently that the FBI has "permitted no such thing."

McCarthy Objects to Stevens' Role

When he said it was his "responsibility to speak for the Army," McCarthy raised an objection that Stevens wasn't speaking for the Army but only for himself. Adams and H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defense whom the senator has accused of trying to head off an investigation of himself.

Jenkins said, however, that nothing Stevens had said indicated the Army was a party to the dispute.

Stevens stepped down long enough for retired Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, under secretary of state, to testify that Cohn twice had talked to him to say that "the Army had not been cooperative" in his request for a commission for Schine.

Smith said his suggestion that Schine might apply to the Central Intelligence Agency brought the reply from Cohn that the CIA was "too juicy a subject" for future investigations and Schine ought to stay out of it. This line was not pursued.

* * *

In response to a question by Jenkins, Smith said he didn't think Cohn was "too persistent or trying to high pressure" him. And he replied "I do not" when asked if he regarded Cohn's request as improper.

Runaway Motor Bike Hurls Boy Through Door

BERKLEY — A 13-year-old boy, learning how to operate a motor bike, lost control yesterday and rode it through an aluminum door at Leone's Market, 3015 12-Mile Rd.

Marth Dennis, 13, of 4097 Robina landed among boxes of pop bottles in the store and suffered a compound fracture of his right arm and multiple bruises.

He was reported in good condition this morning at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

Marth said he had borrowed the motor bike from a neighbor, William Mooney, 15, of 3669 Robina, and was thinking of buying it.

Riding down Robina, he failed to make the stop at 12-Mile and the bike took him through the aluminum door and 17 feet into the store.

Owner of the store, Anthony Leone, said 25 bottles of pop were broken as well as the door, newly installed.

There were no customers in the store at the time.

Directors OK Auto Merger

American Motors Aims at Increased Market for Products

DETROIT (AP)—American Motors Corp., founded by merger of Nash-Kelvinator Corp. and Hudson Motor Car Co., will be ready for business May 1.

Directors of the two companies gave formal approval to consolidation Thursday in a bid to gain a larger share of the automobile market. They set May 1 for joining of the two.

The merger will make the new company the fourth largest in the auto industry. Only General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—the big three—will top it.

Both Hudson and N-K stockholders previously approved joining forces under terms that will give Hudson stockholders two shares in the new company for each three they now hold. N-K stockholders will get American Motors stock on a share-for-share basis.

Instead of swapping stock, owners of 140,000 Hudson shares asked cash for them. This was permissible under merger terms. They represent seven per cent of Hudson's stock.

George W. Mason, Nash-Kelvinator president and board chairman, will take over the same offices in the new company.

There will be three separate divisions of American Motors. They will be Nash, with headquarters at Kenosha, Wis., and Hudson and Kelvinator at Detroit.

The Nash-Kelvinator and Hudson merger is the second consolidation in the auto industry in little more than a year. Kaiser-Frazer and Willys formed a combination in March, 1953.

A. E. Barit, Hudson president, will be a director of American Motors.

Other directors of the new company will be George Granger Brown, dean of the University of Michigan college of engineering; Roy D. Chapin Jr., son of one of Hudson's founders and a company director; Percy J. Ebbott, president of New York's Chase National Bank; H. G. Perkins, Nash-Kelvinator vice president; Harlan T. Pierpont, Worcester, Mass., Mechanic Savings Bank vice president; George Rumney, Nash-Kelvinator executive vice president; Eustace Seligman, New York attorney and James T. Wilson, board chairman of the First National Bank, Kenosha, Wis.

A 16-year-old Waterford Township boy who fell from his brother's moving auto about a block from their home yesterday was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for multiple bruises and a fractured collar bone.

Richard Cummings of 1100 Otter, the injured youth, was riding with his brother, Robert, when the car door came open and Richard fell to the ground, they told Waterford Township Police. The youths said the door must not have been shut securely.

Newspaper Official Seeks Aid to Free Newsmen

NEW YORK (INS)—Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, announced last night that he will go to Washington soon to confer with state department officials about two American correspondents seized by the Chinese Reds.

Williams said he plans to ask Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for information about Don Dixon of International News Service and Richard Applegate of the National Broadcasting Company.

The two newsmen and Merchant Marine Captain Ben Krasner were captured by a Communist gunboat in 1953 while on a pleasure cruise in international waters off Hong Kong.

Cranston said he wants to talk to the proper Washington officials with a view to bringing about the release of the correspondents.

Primitives Live on Pacific Isles

Kukukukus' Culture Lags Behind That of Neolithic Stone Age Men

WASHINGTON — To Americans the word Kukukuku may have a slightly comic ring, but to many of the far-away natives of North-East New Guinea and Papua, Kukukuku sounds out the ominous name of a simple but savage society.

The Kukukukus—"mountain people"—are primitive, so much so they knew no metal until it was brought in from the outside world.

Although similar in habits to Europe's Neolithic Stone Age men, today's Kukukukus lag even behind those early people in cultural development. The arts of pottery and basket making, handed down over many thousands of years, never reached the Kukukukus, says the National Geographic Society.

The isolation of these natives of the Trust Territory of New Guinea is emphasized by the fact of contemporary geography: The inhabitants of the New Guinea Wahgi River area only 200 miles to the northwest make use of decorative arts—but not the Kukukukus.

Only in recent years when gold miners, naturalists and armed officers of the Australian Government penetrated the mountain jungle did the Kukukukus obtain steel blades to replace their stone axes.

Even now they cling mostly to their stone implements, sometimes wielding them to hack the forest for a place to raise sweet potatoes, sometimes to club their enemies.

The Kukukukus are dark skinned and of short stature. Few are more than five feet tall. In addition to primitive farming, they feed themselves by trapping small game in pits, shooting fish with wild sugar cane arrows, or simply raiding a neighboring village.

Warfare, is frequent among the three divisions of these people—the Manki, the Nauti and the Ekuti—though relations have improved to the point where wives are sometimes intersold.

Bamboo stalks provide the Kukukukus with bowstrings, pipes, water containers, knives, torches and framework for their grass houses. Splitreed or grass aprons, fore and aft, clothe men and women alike. Women sometimes wear an apron strung from the neck.

To ward off sun and rain, both sexes wear cloaks of pounded bark cloth. These are suspended from the head on a long tuft of hair.

The wealth of the women is indicated by their shell necklaces, strings of teeth or bird bones. Men wear ropes of such ornaments over a shoulder and beneath the opposite arm.

Bleached bones — sometimes those of vanquished enemies — are carried at the waist. Noses pierced with sticks or bones offer proof of the wearers initiation into manhood.

Gorgeously plumed birds-of-paradise live in the same country as the Kukukukus. Currently, the National Geographic Society has an expedition on the island of New Guinea to study and photograph the rarer birds-of-paradise. It is led by E. Thomas Gilliard of the American Museum of Natural History.

It is estimated that corn plants diffuse two and one-half tons of water into the air while they are producing one bushel of corn.

City to Begin Work on New Parking Lot

Grading and graveling work probably will begin next week on Pontiac's first municipal parking lot on the northwest corner of E. Pike and Parke Sts., according to City Manager Walter K. Willman.

A deed for about two acres of the site first must be secured from the Jack Habel Chevrolet Co. The City Commission agreed Tueday night to purchase the land for $78,000 and built a 240car, metered parking lot.

Habel has been removing equipment which he had stored on the land, City Engineer Lewis M. Wrenn said.

First federal tax on gasoline was imposed in 1932.

Man Wins Acquittal by Inability to Run

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — A Superior Court jury acquitted Charles Starr, 32, of a burglary charge yesterday because he couldn't run.

Starr was accused of breaking into a diner here last Dec. 21 after the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chappell, identified him as the man they saw in their place. They said, however, they couldn't catch him because he ran so fast.

But Starr displayed an ailing knee which he said had been ailing him long before the burglary.

To prove the point, he got up and shuffled around the courtroom, going no faster than a hurried walk.

ENTER FLYING CONTEST — Marie Van Deusen, local Civil Air Patrol cadet adjutant, enrolls two other CAP members as contestants in the Pontiac area elimination contest for the 1954 Michigan amateur flying championship. They are Joseph Taylor (left) and Lt. Sydney Rachwal. Any private pilot not flying for hire or as an instructor is eligible. The contest will be held Sunday beginning at 10 a.m. at Allen's Airport on Giddings road.

Elimination Flying Event Will Be Staged on Sunday

The local elimination in the 1954 Michigan amateur flying championship will be Sunday at Allen's Airport on Giddings road beginning at 10 a. m.

Maj. Thomas Toma, commander of Pontiac CAP Group 6318, said unregistered pilots can enter the contest until starting time Sunday.

"Any state citizen holding a private pilot's certificate or better, and not presently flying for hire or as a flight instructor, is eligible," Toma explained.

Events will include free glide spot landings, controlled approach spot landings, cross-wind take-offs and landings, plus dummy bomb dropping.

Contestants will fly solo, Toma stated, except in the target dropping event when one bombardier may be carried. Dummy bombs will be furnished by the local group, he added.

Assisting Toma in preparing the program are Capt. Donald Wyckman, Capt. Henry Baynes and Lt. Wilton Terry, all of the local CAP group.

Three professional fliers will serve as judges, said Toma. Winners will be eligible to compete in the state championship finals May 2 at the Owosso Municipal Airport.

There is no charge to view the contest. The airport is reached by taking Perry street north to Silver Bell road, then west to Giddings road.

Jaywalker Gets Fill of Internal Security

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Jaywalking put Mrs. Amy Tilley in jail, and a stomach pump put her name on the police blotter.

Patrolman Charles W. Keeley said he saw the woman trying to jaywalk at a downtown intersection and arrested her. He said when she refused to give her name and "got noisy," he took her to the station and charged her with resisting arrest, being disorderly and jaywalking. But he still didn't have her name.

Then she took something from her purse and swallowed it. Police, afraid of poison, called the stomach pump.

The "pellet" turned out to be her social security card.

Industry Shift Places Oakland in Favored Position

Population May Almost Double

Acreage for Expansion, Parking, Housing Seen Luring More Firms

(Editor's Note—Industrial expansion is bringing huge increases in population to Oakland and adjoining counties. This is the first in a series of articles dealing with the great changes which are taking place.)

Michigan is the leading industrial state of the nation. And Oakland County and surrounding communities may someday become the heart of Michigan's industrial area.

This possibility was indicated recently by an official of the Detroit Edison Co. in an address before the Lions Club in Pontiac.

George Matthews, director of personnel and training for the Edison company, stated that industry now located in Detroit is looking toward the more spacious areas to the north to provide acreage for future expansion, parking and housing developments.

"There is a concerted movement of industry to areas outside of Detroit," said Matthews. "Large acreage purchases have followed the railroads which fan out from the metropolitan area."

Along with the industrial shift, Matthews forecast huge increases in population, for as the plants move out, the workers follow them.

Oakland's population, he predicted, will zoom from 396,000, recorded in the 1950 census, to 780,000 by 1970. At the same time Macomb County's population will jump from 185,000 in 1950 to 400,000 by 1970.

The forecasts were based on predictions made by Detroit Edison's load forecasting committee to determine future electric power needs in the 7,600 square-mile area which the company serves. Edison must anticipate power needs at least five years in advance in order to make necessary physical plant expansion.

Population growth is nothing new for Oakland County. Between 1940 and 1950 the county's population grew from 234,000 to 396,000, an increase of 56 per cent.

Latest estimates of the county's population, prepared by the research staff of the Detroit Regional Planning Commission, indicated a population of 474,700 as of July of last year. The Oakland County Health Department has estimated the county's population as of December, 1953 at 490,094.

"Heavy industrial plants are already springing up in our service area," said Matthews.

Among those he cited were a Chrysler plant for guided missiles in Sterling Township, Macomb County; two General Motors plants at Pontiac for guns and amphibious cargo carriers; and the new $500,000 Hutchinson Trailer Co. plant at Drayton Plains.

The Edison company also sees, in the not too distant future, 15 or 16 new industrial centers springing up on the outer fringe of the present Detroit metropolitan area.

These may be located at such spots as South Lyon, Milford, Holly, Clarkston, Rochester, Utica, Romeo, Richmond, Mt. Clemens Rockwood, Belleville, Wayne and Ypsilanti.

Along with pronounced industrial growth in these spots, Edison officials believe, will come great increases in residential population for Royal Oak, Southfield and Troy Townships.

Along with industrial growth, new housing developments, zoning laws and additional police and fire protection will 'ave to be created to handle the ever-increasing numbers of families.

In later articles the Press will describe the evidences of this growth in various communities. Many of the articles will be illustrated by pictures, showing visual evidence of the tremendous changes which are taking place.

Executive Lauds Intra-Plant TV

Top Brass Needs Aid in Presenting Views to Workers

CHICAGO (INS) — Intra-plant television may never make glamour boys out of business leaders but it could go a long way toward solving management's employe relations problem.

That's the opinion of Seymour Mintz, vice president-advertising of Admiral Corporation.

Better relations between bosses and workers could be established by programming over a plant-wide television system such events as management-employee committee meetings, award presentations to employes, and talks on company problems by the top brass, he declared.

"One of industry's biggest problems is that top management is not in close touch with production workers," the Admiral executive said. "Regular television talks by company leaders would help familiarize workers with their company and thus establish a feeling of friendliness."

Further, Mintz says the day may come when plants will have a two-way TV system, so that management and workers can exchange ideas freely.

"First, though," he adds, "we'll have to find some way to keep everybody else from talking back at once before the boss finishes."

Rural Dreams Can Come True

By ANNE HEYWOOD

One of the great American dreams, judging by my mail, is the dream of a little place in the country, where a husband and wife can make their living from the land.

Yet, week after week, I hear tragic stories of people who have sunk their lifetime savings in a small chicken farm, for example, or a vegetable farm, and lost everything.

How can you avoid this?

Well, there's an excellent book called "How to Make a Living in the Country." Unlike most books in this field, it is not full of dreamy little anecdotes in which two dollars and a half are run up to several million dollars.

It is down-to-earth and sensible, and yet it does show that, provided you take thought, you might be able to make your living in the country.

In the first place, farming is not the only way. There are many small businesses that can be run profitably in the country, and which do not involve farming at all.

The first section of the book is devoted to them. It's called "Earning a Good Income in the Country Without Farming."

There's one chapter called "A Proven Plan for Earning $3,000 a Year in the Country Without Farming."

In addition, this practical book has a whole section on proven ways by which women can earn a living in the country.

Section two goes into "The Coming Boom in One-Man Farming," and gives the real do's and don'ts which, if followed carefully, should be able to prevent many a tragedy.

If you, or any of your friends, are thinking of moving to the country to make your living, do take a look at this book. It covers the ground thoroughly, and may prevent a broken heart and an empty bank account.

It may also show you that, far from dropping your present business and becoming a farmer — it may be very possible for you to translate your present business into its country equivalent, and make a success in the field you know best but in the peace and serenity of the country.

Don't Neglect Regular Care for Clear Skin

When a girl gets home late from a party she's usually tempted to crawl into bed without bothering to wash her face — "just this once."

Common sense tells us it's not wise to take such chances. Leaving make-up on overnight will clog the pores and will coarsen and dry the skin. Furthermore, it will stain the bedclothes.

Instead of neglecting your beauty routine entirely, why not compromise? When you are just too exhausted to delay getting into bed for even a minute, do this:

Get right into bed and quickly cover your face with cleasing cream.

Then wipe it off, and your make-up along with it, with facial tissues. It takes less than a minute to safeguard your complexion in this way.

One cosmetic house claims that its special cleanser is particularly good for such short-cut routines.

It bases its contention on the fact that the cleanser contains a special ingredient that's said to throw off impurities most efficiently.

Though recommended for emergency use by all women, the manufacturer says the preparation was developed especially for regular use by the woman whose delicate, fine-textured skin is inclined to flakiness, fine lines and wrinkles.

Men Love to Dig Into This Meal

Mrs. Lee Masters Suggests Scalloped Corn and Ham

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

"This is one of those wonderful one-dish meals that men love to dish out—and dig into!" That is the description Mrs. Lee T. Masters of Holly wrote about her recipe for scalloped corn and ham.

So if any of that Easter ham is still in the refrigerator, you might use it for this recipe.

We don't know Mrs. Masters personally, but from hearsay we do know she is a good cook. Her husband, who brought us the recipe, says she raises flowers, plants and children, all efficiently. Another of Mrs. Masters' hobbies is sewing.

SCALLOPED CORN AND HAM
By Mrs. Lee T. Masters

1 can (1½ cups) whole kernel corn
3 cups chopped cooked ham
2 tablespoons minced green pepper (optional)
2 tablespoons finely minced onion
1½ cups soft bread crumbs, firmly packed
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter

Combine corn, ham, green pepper, onion and 1 cup of the bread crumbs, the eggs and milk in 1½ quart casserole. Top with remaining one-half cup of bread crumbs and dot with butter or margarine.

Bake in a 375-degree oven about 45 minutes. Makes six servings.

Silverware Shows Condition of Home

One authority points out that the condition of restaurant silverware is a good yardstick of the establishment's kitchen cleanliness.

Why not think over how you would rate if guests applied this same yardstick to your home? It's no trouble to maintain your table silver at a high standard because regular sudsing makes special polishing necessary only occasionally.

They Are Often Victims of Curiosity

Don't Quiz Childless Folks

"Somewhere along the line," says the author of a current magazine article, "people have gotten the idea that childless couples must be curiosities without a private life of their own."

Queries like "Why not?" or "How Come?" or "What have you been doing?" reflect this foolish attitude, as well as the poor taste of the questioner.

All those households that have been blessed by the patter of little feet seem to place the "blame" on one member of a childless couple or the other, and then in an embarrassed attempt to cover their "pity," they compound the felony by launching into long tales of their own offspring.

Actually, there are three classes of people who will continue to live their lives without children of their own: Those who do not have competent medical advice available to them, those who are biologically unable to have children, and those who, for reasons of their own, do not want them.

While it's true that most childless couples fall into the first two categories, says the article, there are many ways for childless couples to adjust constructively to the situation.

If there are no children to tie them down, a couple can travel or engage in more community work. And most important, they can fulfill themselves as human beings by "spreading out" the love and affection they would have concentrated on their own child to their friends and neighbors.

Instead of useless grieving, childless couples should make every attempt to find happiness and satisfaction in each other.

"If they do this," the article counsels, "they will discover that life can be a constant adventure . . . together."

Light Colors Mark Summer Fashions

Fashion's newest trend for summer calls for a more feminine more meticulous look of perfection than ever before, from the new pointed slipper tips to the top of smooth little-hatted heads.

The theme, destined to become one of the most popular in years, combines lighter, brighter light-reflecting fabric colors with lighter, brighter make-up that also reflects light.

Don't Dance Unless Beau Approves

Girl Should Refuse Bid if Date Shows Displeasure

By EMILY POST

A young reader asks: "If a girl goes to a public dance with a particular beau, what should she do when another man she knows comes up to her table and asks her to dance?"

Answer: The man should not ask her to dance unless he is also a friend of the man she is with, and in this case he should say to the girl, "May I have a little of this dance?" and then turning to her host, say, "You don't mind, do you?"

If the man she is with shows displeasure in any way, she should refuse to dance.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have adopted a baby — at least we are in the process of adopting one. It will take six months before the baby is legally ours, although the child is living at home with us now.

We would like to send out announcements but don't know whether to send them now or wait until the baby is really ours.

Answer: Although it is possible to send out announcements of your prospective adoption, it is best to wait until the baby is legally yours and then send out the following form:

Mrs. and Mrs. John Jones have the happiness to announce the adoption of Betty Anne aged six months

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know if the gathering after a morning wedding is always called breakfast even though refreshments include no more than champagne, wedding cake and a few party sandwiches.

I think that if we say breakfast, guests will come expecting substantial food, but I have been told that this is the only proper word for use for a morning reception. Will you please advise me?

Answer: You have been advised correctly. Food served before noon is a breakfast no matter what it consists of.

Guard Furs Against Heat, Moths, Friction

NEW YORK (INS)—Any woman who owns a fur coat wants to keep it in the very best shape. That means she'll have to guard the fur against heat, sun, moths and friction—the four main enemies of every fur from mink to rabbit.

Heat dries the natural oils in the leather beneath the fur, and strong and continuous light may fade even the best of furs. Dirt and dust are another menace to furs as they invite moths.

Friction, the number one culprit, comes in various hidden forms which can be avoided. Heavy jewelry on the wrists, carrying bulky packages under the arm and continuous sitting on the furs will wear them out prematurely.

Linings, too, will wear out quickly if exposed to constant friction.

To prevent undue tearing and ripping, loosen your coat about the body and shoulders when sitting or stooping, lift it away from the seat when driving and have rips and tears repaired quickly to avoid further strain on seams and the fur itself.

Coats should be hung on wide-end fur hangers so that the hanger ends cannot pierce the skin by the sheer weight of the coat itself. Wet furs should be combed carefully and brushed in the same direction as the "flow" of the fur. Then allow the fur to dry thoroughly in a place where cool air circulates, after which it should be shaken and beaten lightly.

Production Line for Ironing Job

Some women using ironers find that accumulating shirts through the week and then "doing" them all at once some morning saves considerable time and results in shirts ironed even better than when done piecemeal.

Added deftness comes as shirts are ironed one after another. The ideal arrangement is to have a dryer, too, so that anything, shirts included, can be washed whenever one pleases, regardless of weather.

Thus the week's shirts for the males of the family can be polished off in a couple of hours, washing, drying and ironing, as easily Tuesday morning as Friday afternoon, even in a session or two after dinner if need be.

Symphony Orchestra Features Father and Son Team

Vandersalls Are Unique Combination

Last Concert of the Season Scheduled for May 4

Highlighting the different age levels in the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra and the valuable experience gained by young students playing with more seasoned artists is a father-and-son combination, James Vandersall and son, Stanley, of Drayton Plains.

Stanley is 14 years of age, in the ninth grade at Waterford High School, and has studied violin for three years, entirely with his father.

At the American Conservatory in Chicago he studied with Herbert Butler and later with Albert Meiff. He studied with Alexander Hillsberg at the Curtis Institute at Philadelphia.

Mrs. Vandersall was concert-master of the Sioux City Symphony under Leo Kucinski and has played under the baton of the eminent conductors Leopold Auer and Artur Rodzinski.

Mr. Vandersall and his son are both busy rehearsing with the Pontiac Symphony on Tuesday evenings under the direction of Francesco Di Blasi in preparation for the final concert of the season to be presented at Lincoln Junior High School on May 4.

At a recent board meeting, Robert Peterson and George Eckroth of Pontiac, Mr. Vandersall and Lillian Cassie of Detroit were chosen to form the audition committee.

Anyone interested in joining the orchestra may call Mr. Peterson.

Fire Truck of '17 Vintage on Campus

MSC Spartan Staff Uses Old Vehicle to Promote Sales

By ELVIRA BISOGNI

EAST LANSING — An antique fire truck, a 1917 White, arrived on campus this week to promote the sales of the April Spartan magazine which went on sale Tuesday.

ROTC cadets had practice parades this week, despite the fact the weather was bad and the ground muddy.

Six ROTC units will be excused from next week's parades because of their excellent performance, which was termed "impressive" by military officials.

Cadet Col. Dean Stoppel said, "Despite muddy grounds for formation and the usual 'bugs' encountered when 3,000 cadets form for their first parade, cadre officers were impressed by the performance and authorized excuses to one company in every battalion."

AFROTC cadets will join Army units for the first combined parade next Tuesday.

Last-minute plans are being carried out for the "Your Final Fling," the senior dance of the year. The dance will take place April 30 in the auditorium. Vaughn Monroe will be the special guest.

Kellogg Center's 193 rooms are sold out, so parents of MSC students who are planning on attending Parents' Day activities will have to find off-campus lodging.

Nancy Roach of Walled Lake, pledge of Sigma Kappa, has been elected chairman of the pledges for a fund-raising work day project which will take place this Saturday.

The sorority actives and pledges plan to wash windows, rake lawns and do other odd jobs in the Lansing and East Lansing area. Proceeds will be used to send a girl to Girl Scout camp this summer.

Miss Roach will be formally initiated into Sigma Kappa sorority this Sunday.

Verne Hampton of Cherokee road, Arvin Kallen of Birmingham and David Beatty of Birmingham, members of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, attended an exchange dessert Wednesday at the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority house.

Sue Halstead, Mary Anne Chenault and Mary Kneale of Birmingham, members of the Kappa Kappa Gamma, were also present at the exchange dessert.

Girl Should Confide Problem to Folks

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'm a junior in high school and my boy friend is in the Army. We've been in love for over a year, have been going together for over two years and we don't want to have to wait another year before we can get married.

"He plans on getting another leave later this spring and he wants to get married then if I can still finish high school next year. I do want to graduate and I'm afraid if we get married I might not be able to finish.

"I haven't mentioned it to my folks yet, because I wanted to be sure I wanted to get married, and I wanted to get your advice. What do you think I should do?"

I think you should dump all your mixed up doubts and fears right into the laps of the people who know you best — your folks. Talk over your budding plans with them.

They'll be sympathetic and understanding, I'm sure. They'll present the practical, reasonable side of the problem to help you make up your mind.

Actually, there's not much point in going to them with your mind already made up. You need their approval, permission and cooperation every step of the way. Your marriage is very much their business.

So my advice is to call a conference quickly. Listen to their point of view, absorb some of their caution, weigh their reactions and suggestions — and take your time making up your mind.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I broke up with Ted last week — and now I realize how much I like him. I explained that I still liked him but just didn't want to go steady.

"He liked me at the time, but now that he knows how I feel I haven't seen him and he hasn't called. I guess he's mad at me, but isn't there some way we could get back together?"

In just one week you've discovered that you like the idea of going with Ted better than the idea of being free to go out with other boys?

You apparently thought breaking up with him wasn't going to make any real difference in your dating life. Your assurance that you still liked him was going to be enough to keep him coming around.

But it went deeper than that with Ted. Destroying the idea that you went together exclusively ended everything for him. He took it to mean that you just didn't care enough. Your relationship just didn't matter enough. That hurts, of course.

And before you do any calling up to ask his forgiveness and tell him you've changed your mind, you'd better make up said mind.

Are you just lonely this week? No other boys to go with immediately? Your interest in other boys just passing fancies? Would going with other boys lead straight into going steady with one of them?

Or is Ted a perfect darling! If he is, then call him fast and tell him you couldn't be sorrier.

Shorter Skirts Show Stockings

Shorter skirts with higher hemlines put stocking interest at an all time high. When full, petticoated skirts bell out away from your pin-ups, people can't help but notice a crooked seam, an arrant runner — or, much better, some eye-appealing decorative hosiery.

Cuing in with the trend are pastel hose and even animated flower appliques on the welt or top of each stocking.

Take care of these fashion pretties as you would other fine hosiery. To avoid snags, shake them clean in a jar of soapsuds, rinse them in the jar with clean water, and arrange them over a towel to dry.

To remove mildew from woodwork, wipe the surface with a cloth dipped in water to which a little kerosene has been added.

Manners

MAKE FRIENDS

It's no fun to have lunch downtown with Sally. No matter what she orders she always finds fault with something. The soup isn't hot enough, or the potatoes are tasteless, or the broccoli has been overcooked.

Sally could take a tip from the three-year-old who recently squelched a playmate who wanted the piece of cake with the most frosting:

"Take what you get — and be happy."

Avoid Floor Dust

Before sweeping, dusty floors should be watered down with a water pistol or other fine-spraying instrument. This will keep the dust from rising into the air.

Round Play Pen Latest for Tots

The newest enclosure for baby is round—a circle play pen which the manufacturer claims is just about as safe as can be made.

The pen is made of two circular hoops of aluminum tubing, collapsibly joined together by six aluminum uprights and by white nylon cord zig-zag lacing. This construction, it's claimed, eliminates corners the baby can bump onto, and wooden bars between which he might catch his neck.

The pad of the pen, the tubing and the cord are all washable. The whole thing weighs seven pounds.

They call it "take home" pay because that's about the only place it will take you.

Extra Filler Will Permit Shrinkage

Let Plastic Wood Come Trifle Above the Surface

When you fill a hole in wood with plastic wood, let it come up just a little above the surrounding surface to take care of the slight shrinkage that occurs when the plastic dries out. When it's dry, sand the excess off.

Porch columns (often hollow) are less apt to rot at the base if holes are drilled at the bottom to allow for drainage and for ventilation.

After the holes have been drilled, coat the inside with paint to prevent the raw wood absorbing moisture.

In applying varnish, brush first with the grain of the wood, then across the grain, and then again with the grain.

If you don't have a suitably safe place to hang a handsaw, protect the teeth from being dulled through contact with other metal tools by taking a length of rubber hose, splitting it and slipping it over the teeth when the saw is put away.

When installing insulating board, don't butt the sheets too tightly together, for should they expand slightly when the weather is damp they will have a tendency to buckle out.

When fitting linoleum or tile around complicated molding, it's often easier to saw off enough of the molding so that the linoleum can be slipped under it than to try and cut the lineoleum out to fit the complicated design.

Paint on Linoleum

Fine steel wool will remove dried paint from linoleum. But be careful not to scratch the linoleum, and wax and polish when the task is completed.

Chairs Boast Good Looks With No Loss of Comfort

By ELIZABETH FILLYER

To choose an interesting chair, look for one that is styled for extra comfort as well as good looks. comfort for looks, and top de-

The best design never sacrifices signers' special ideas for comfort today are often the basis for interesting new shapes and proportions that make chairs stand out in style.

For example, the three new chairs sketched, all by design trend-makers. At top, Paul McCobb's graceful armchair has an extra tall back, a point in comfort that was almost forgotten during years of lowback chairs.

The height adds dignity and good looks, but the chair is kept light and airy with a slender wood frame.

Carlo de Carli slants the arms of the chair at center to a relaxing angle, and comes up with an unusual shape for an upholstered chair of its size. The chair is mounted on brass legs.

Bring Outdoors Inside With New Carpets

NEW YORK (UP) — The outdoors has come indoors in new floor coverings.

Manufacturers of carpets are featuring the colors you see in nature, with the beiges, grays and greens leading the field.

The range of the three shades is broader than ever before. Beige, for instance, ranges from the palest ivory to the deepest of tans. The beige and brown tones carry such names as honey beige, a golden shade; Viking beige, a pale tan; April oak, a blonde tone; and sandalwood, a medium brown.

Most of the grays have a blue or purple cast to give a warm hue. The grays range from charcoal to the palest pastel.

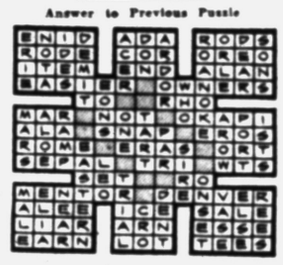

Most greens are lighter, and many have a yellow cast. One green, called winter green, is almost a chartreuse. Another, north sea green, is a blue-green shade. Dane blue is what one manufacturer calls a carpet the color of the sky on a summer day.

The Carpet Institute, representing the industry, says that turquoise, pinks ranging from pale to old rose, and the gold tones also are increasing in popularity.

Harassed Adults Act Same Way

Lad's Complaining May Be Reflection of Mom's Attitude

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Carl, says his mother, is a whiner. In school he does not apply himself to his fifth grade work as he could. If lessons or chores require any sustained effort from him, he becomes impatient and begins to complain.

"I don't understand him," writes his mother. "What's the matter with the child?"

What's the matter with Carl's mother? Why is she complaining to me? Why does he make her impatient? Isn't it because Carl makes her feel helpless and overpowered?

Carl may be whiny and impatient for the same reason. He, too, may feel helpless and overpowered.

Human beings often react with such feelings when they are overburdened with too much pressure.

Suppose my morning mail brings me a bill I thought I had paid. Then, as I'm making Carl's bed, I find that his mended top sheet is ripped again. As I tear it into dustcloths, I recall that two of my teeth need dental attention. Now I must plan for new sheets.

I remember how badly the kitchen linoleum needs replacement, how I shall have to wait for a spring hat, how my husband refuses to increase my budget . . .

If I am not an alert person, I may begin to whine to myself or anyone who will listen. I may become so impatient with the sustained effort of preparing supper that I serve a careless and ill-cooked meal.

What's happened is that submission to too many pressures has scattered my strength and disordered my thinking. This submission makes it impossible for me to focus on my present job or to bring order to future ones.

Children are not different from us. Accumulated pressures can make them feel helpless and overpowered, too.

If their resulting whining and impatience irritates us, it may be because we don't recognize in their behavior our own symptoms of pressure-resentment. And indeed be quite unaware of how often it manipulates us.

So I wonder if Carl's mother is herself harassed by many disorderly demands on her. If she has learned how to regulate them, her impatience with them might easily drive her to make too much such demands on Carl.

Nearly always we treat others the way we treat ourselves. And if we have not discovered how to protect our productivity by putting first things first, we would, of course, not understand Carl's need to discover the same thing.

Garden Club Promotes City Beauty

Wednesday Parties Will Benefit Crab Apple Project

Various members of the Pontiac Branch of Women's National Farm and Garden Association will open their homes for dessert bridge Wednesday.

Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald, chairman of ways and means, and Mrs. John W. Fitzgerald, party project chairman, are in charge of the affair.

Proceeds from the party are to be used to help beautify the city by purchasing six different varieties of crab apple trees, shading from white to deep red.

Mrs. Walter K. Willman, chairman of civic improvement; Mrs. Standish Sibley, Mary Heitsch, Mrs. Arthur Selden and Mrs. Albert Kimball took a short tour of the city with Ray Keller of the City Parks and Recreation Department to select spots for planting the trees.

Boulevards, triangles, school grounds and the lawns of some of the city buildings were the areas chosen. There will also be a planting at the Child Guidance Center.

The city has agreed to plant and care for the trees where they have been located on city property.

The project of planting these trees was initiated by the Women's National Farm and Garden Association, and the Better Home and Garden Club will work in conjunction with the association.

The Better Home and Garden Club has chosen the boulevard island on Woodward avenue as its special project to beautify.

Panel Talk Highlights Wisner Meeting

"Let Our Children Speak," a panel composed of sixth grade students and parents, highlighted the Thursday meeting of Wisner School PTA.

Moderating the panel was Claude Cook and participants were Mrs. Paul Webster, Charles Johnson and students Nancy Cunningham and John Cummins.

Main topics emphasized were: Should children have an allowance? If so, how much? Should rewards, such as money, be paid for better marks on report cards? Also pros and cons were presented on comic books.

Mrs. George Cox, Wisner School principal, pointed out that good reading habits start before school age when parents read to children, not necessarily after they start to school.

Guest speakers for the evening were Louis H. Schimmel, director of Municipal Advisory Council of Michigan and Monroe Osmun, member of the Pontiac Board of Education. Taxes and school problems were discussed by Mr. Schimmel.

Time Is Necessary to Save Indochina From Communism Without New Korea

(Editor's Note—In four previous articles this week William L. Ryan has reported his findings on Indochina. Today's article, the last in his uncensored series, sums up the outlook on the eve of the Geneva conference.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

SINGAPORE (AP)—Indochina can be saved from communism but to do so decisively short of creating a new Korea situation will take time.

If time runs out, if the war is lost on the military, political and psychological fronts, the line of defense for the free world against communism may fall back to the Philippines, Formosa and Japan. The loss could mean all but the end of Western influence on most of the Asian mainland, a great upsurge of Communist economic and political power.

The Geneva conference opens Monday. Men of experience believe that at Geneva the free world, with firmness and determination not to throw in the sponge for a deceptive peace which might eventually spell the doom of Indochina, can gain the extension of time needed to turn back Red expansion in the East.

What is the free world up against? What must it do? I asked these questions of many people in Indochina. Here are some of the answers I got:

Political and psychological — Most heavily stressed was the need to provide a bandwagon for the apathetic, indifferent people of Viet Nam, give them an ideal and give them a leader to rally around. No matter what is said about Ho Chi Minh, the French and Vietnamese cannot dodge the fact he is looked upon by a large section of the masses as the country's savior, a man who will drive out the foreigner, a man who stands for Vietnamese nationalism. And this is the constant theme of the propaganda poured into Viet Nam by Communist media.

The people have been cruelly buffeted about for 12 years, since the Japanese invaded in 1942. Now many want most of all just to be left alone.

There is a deep antipathy for the Chinese, who dominated the country for a thousand years, who enraged the population during the occupation after the Japanese fall at the end of World War II. Yet not enough has been done to tell the Vietnamese masses that victory for Ho also will mean victory for the Red Chinese.

One American suggested the French still could mold Bao Dai into a leader, possibly by putting a helmet on him, giving him a command post, dramatizing him as a hero. Bao Dai lacks much as a leader, but he is intelligent, and if he had been given a proper chance years ago under the French to be anything but a puppet he might have become the true leader of his country. As it is now Bao Dai himself apparently is unsure what would happen to him if he bowed to demands for election of a constituent assembly. He has never opposed it outright but consistently parried it by such means as insisting the time was not ripe. One of Bao Dai's great troubles is that the masses in the rice fields don't know him or anything about him, despite the legend extant among many foreigners that he is a revered leader because of his royal line.

Bao Dai is not the only one unsure about an election. Many persons are quite certain if the election were ordered the Communists immediately would step up their infiltration campaign of confusion, sabotage and terror.

Some starts have been made on the propaganda front. The United States is trying to help and has doubled the staff of the U. S. Information Agency in the past three months. Its budget will reach $750,000 in fiscal 1955.

The U. S. experts help the French and Vietnamese in preparing leaflets, give advice on how to sell the Vietnamese on their own defense. This is difficult since so large a section of the population is illiterate. Much use is made of pictures and words are kept to the simplest. There have been some encouraging returns. Leaflets bearing safe passage coupons, dropped on a Vietminh area, recently brought 600 defectors across, including some Vietminh draftees, but this was well above the average result.

The French, too, have made a start in psychological war. An example is the "Atlante" operation on the southeast coastal area where the Vietminh has been in control since 1945. Early this year, the French made a landing in force there. They were not out for annihilation of the enemy but sought to clear him out. Then the plan was set up—control under native provincial leaders. People who had been under Vietminh control began drifting back. Some spoke of their disillusionment with treatment under the Communists. But I asked a high French officer if there had been any real widespread and violent feeling against the Vietminh. He shrugged and said:

"Cleared areas show mostly that the man who is stronger wins out—that's about all."

Atlante has been advertised as a sort of test operation to show whether in conditions of military stalemate the war can be won on political grounds. Some French think it might be won that way, given enough time. Yet there have been questions about its timing. Some of Commander in Chief Henri Navarre's critics say he chose a bad time to use up several mobile groups desperately needed in the north. But Atlante is generally looked upon as a good and probably, in the long run, a valuable operation.

Military—It was repeated again and again that the crying need is for Vietnamese officers above company and battalion grade — that is, field grade officers who can relieve the French and take over command of the Vietnamese troops. Schools are turning out noncoms and lower grade officers fast but not fast enough, not able enough.

Americans, whose government is pouring a billion dollars annually into the French budget to support the Indochinese war, say they think they can train officers and infantry more quickly than the French. Apparently, American help in this respect would be welcomed by some high-ranking Vietnamese, including Gov. Nguyen Huu Tri of North Viet Nam. He told me it would be valuable to have Americans train Vietnamese. I remarked that this seemed at variance with Gen. Navarre's views.

"No comment," retorted the governor.

But Indochina is Navarre's war. This has meant up to now he would not tolerate American training of Vietnamese. Partly, it seems a matter of French face and prestige, partly it seems a throwback to French reluctance to see an independently operating Viet Nam army.

The French apparently are happy enough, however, to be trained in the use and maintenance of equipment. Practically all the airplanes in Indochina are U.S. craft, also landing ships, vehicles, other equipment and supplies. But as for advice on fighting the war, they seem to say they'll fight it their way. They insist Indochina is no Korea and are right in many ways, but the Americans also learned much about mobile warfare, jungle warfare in World War II and in Korea, much about Chinese ways of waging war.

There are grueling tasks ahead for the French and the Vietnamese if they are to win out. Militarily, the French must devise ways to keep cleared the areas they hold, to prevent constant infiltration. But at the same time, they must go over to the offensive. Both jobs at once are difficult with the forces available.

As the Viet Nam army grows in size and capability, the offensive actions can be increased, but even then it probably will be three or four years before the Vietminh could be squeezed sufficiently for men and territory to permit the French and Vietnamese to claim victory.

With time a big factor, many in Indochina listen anxiously for indications of the political atmosphere in Paris or Geneva.

But the Winners Had More Players

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Defeated 7-3 by the Republicans in a practice game last night, the Democrats' congressional baseball team had these encouraging words from Manager Syd Herlong (Fla) today: "We'll win the big one."

He said, "Remember the Yankees lost in spring exhibitions too."

The teams, undergoing spring "training" here during the Easter recess of the House, play their annual game for charity in Washington June 15.

Last night, the Republicans wasted no time going to work on Rep. W. M. (Fireball) Wheeler of Georgia. Wheeler loaded the bases on walks and Rep. Sam Coon (Ore) singled in two runs. Rep. Glenn Davis (Wis), the winning pitcher, got another first-inning run on an error.

The Democrats got two runs in the second on Wheeler's grounder and an error but the Republicans went ahead to stay with four runs in the third. Wheeler gave up five hits and Davis, four.

Pair Acquitted of Murder Charge in Man's Death

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—A Criminal Court jury needed only 55 minutes yesterday to acquit Dr. Francis Fielding-Reid and his wife of second degree murder charges in the death of George L. Crim, West Palm Beach hairdresser.

Crim's widow, Leah, filed a $350,000 damage suit in Circuit Court two hours after the verdict was read, charging the Fielding-Reids caused her husband's death last Christmas morning as the climax to a drinking party aboard the Fielding-Reid yacht.

The state charged Fielding-Reid, 62-year-old retired Baltimore physician, and his wife, Frances, 45, were responsible for the 27-year-old Crim's fatal plunge from the yacht.

Bottle Starts Stampede

SEOUL (AP)—A bottle of chemicals exploded yesterday on a train near Taejon and started a stampede which killed two and injured 80 passengers, 27 seriously.

The hours of labor needed to plant, cultivate, and harvest an acre of corn in the United States declined by about 59 per cent in the 30 to 40 years that followed 1914.

Farm Income Dropped 7 Pct.

Figures for 1953 Show Land Values Declined During Period

Although net farm incomes for 1953 declined seven per cent from the previous year, farmers still realized a net income of $12,500,000,000, according to an agricultural summary prepared for a 1954 yearbook.

At the same time the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced that farmland values in the country declined six per cent between November, 1952, and November, 1953.

Purchase of farm operating items such as seed, feed and fertilizer continued at a normal rate during 1953, the article states. Less labor was hired, farm construction declined, and purchases of farm machinery and equipment were reduced.

The major effect of lower incomes was in reduced capital expenditures.

New stockpiles of agricultural products were concentrated largely in wheat, corn and dairy produce, but in a larger list, including the heat and poultry groups of commodities, no accumulation took place.

Overplanting Common Error

Landscape With Family Use of Back Yard in Mind

Before the last war the purpose of landscape planting in small home grounds was considered to be the creation of a picturesque garden, formal or informal according to taste.

Today, emphasis is upon family use of the outdoor area of the home.

The "outdoor living room" which was a secondary feature of prewar gardens has been expanded to take over the whole area in the rear of small modern homes. Emphasis is placed upon its use for rest, play or the practice of a hobby.

Instead of priority being given to developing the garden picture, the backyard is now laid out for use by parents and children, and garden planting then arranged to decorate the grounds without interfering with that use.

There are three features which are popular:

A terrace or patio for outdoor dining, or other social activities;

A play area, usually a lawn, which may be surrounded by a flower border.

In such a layout on the average lot there is not room for many trees, shrubbery borders or hedges.

If the use of the outdoor home is to be successful, shade must be avoided, except on the terrace or patio, which are intended for rest.

Overplanting of small home grounds with trees and shrubs is the most serious error that can be made.

In a few years these plants may interfere not only with the recreational use of the grounds, but by competition for light and root area, they may destroy flower and vegetable gardens and eventually destroy themselves.

Garden Hints Helpful During Next 2 Weeks

Clean up outside window boxes and replace tired evergreen boughs with early blooming annuals—pansies, forget-me-nots and English daises. And replace these a bit later with the annuals for summer bloom or the non-hardy foliage plants.

Don't rush the season with any of the plants whose seed is killed by cold weather. But as soon as the soil is warm, set seeds into the ground where they are to bloom.

Seeds started indoors can be hardened off in cold frames, but watch for cold spells and batten down the hatches.

Crocuses, scilla and snowdrops look cute springing up here and there in the lawn—but don't mow off their foliage as grasscutting time arrives. There won't be blooms next year. Best to mow around them, and follow up with a clipping treatment of those areas by hand. This is a nuisance, however, and one reason to keep everything but grass in garden beds.

Repotting time for those houseplants which need it. Add a little bone meal to the potting mixture. Cut back weak plants severely to give them a chance to develop strong shoots during the good weather.

Morning glories, moon-vine, four-o'clocks can be started indoorsf or early bloom. Notch the hard seed-covering lightly or soak them overnight for speedier germination.

Carrots Rated High in Vitamins

Sowing Radishes Too Helps Distinguish Row for Gardener

If home garden crops were to be rated according to the quantity of vitamins they contribute to the family diet all season long, the carrot would probably be rated next to the tomato.

If your family belongs to the anti-carrot faction, and you are planning your first vegetable garden, do not omit carrots from the schedule just because of family prejudice.

If you have never eaten carrots fresh from your own garden, then you have no idea how delicious they can be.

Sow a row, with the very first crops you start in the garden. First, mix the carrot seed with a pinch or two of early radishes, because carrots germinate slowly, and the radishes will come up right away and mark the row so you may avoid disturbing it in cultivation.

In a shallow drill, sow the seeds thinly (thirty to the foot).

When the radishes appear and mature, pull up and eat them promptly, so they will not crowd the carrots which succeed them.

Let the carrots grow without thinning until some are as thick as lead pencils, then begin to thin out and cook the excess roots.

Grass Farming Not Suggested

MSC Scientists Claim Legume Crops More Profitable in Michigan

"Grassland farming" may confuse Michigan farmers striving for lower feed costs with forage crops for pasture, hay and silage because in Michigan the stress is not grass, but on legumes.

The idea is to get the most return for money, two Michigan State College specialists, point out, and legumes have more protein. News stories of grassland practices in other states do not necessarily apply to Michigan.

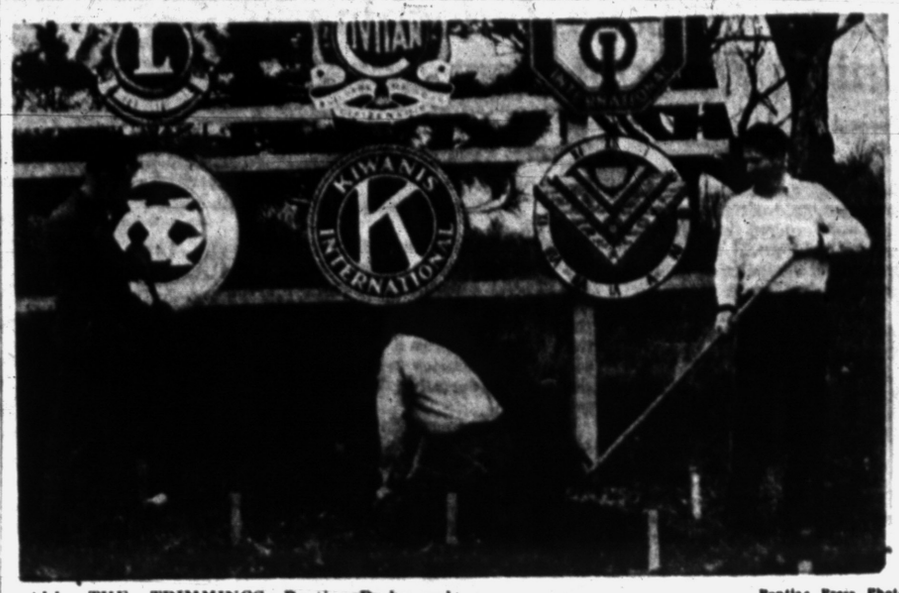

There are better places to put manure than on pastures, agree Milton Erdmann, farm cropsman, and Paul J. Rood, soil scientist. The return would be better from using manure on cash crops.

"A rundown pasture, or one near the end of its production, can be torn up and—in a new seedbed—reseeded with legumes to advantage," suggests Erdmann.

"If you need the pasture this spring, 40 pounds of commercial nitrogen per acre will give the grass a one-time boost before it is plowed down. Nitrogen in manure encourages the grasses in a pasture to run legumes out faster," he reminds.

"It will give your pasture in May and June—when you'd probably have enough—instead of later when you need it."

"If you want to boost your worn-out grass, commercial nitrogen is better than manure—it's more palatable in the pasture," adds Rood. "For a legume pasture, you don't need nitrogen; the legumes make their own. Legumes need potash and, even more so usually, phosphorus."

ALL THE TRIMMINGS—Pontiac Parks and Recreation Dept. workers above plant shrubs and other greenery around the sign welcoming travelers on South Woodward to Pontiac. While the city is not charged with maintaining the big sign, (the Chamber of Commerce does that) it does make sure the trimming around the display is kept attractive. Shown above are Lyle LaVaye, of 3751 Maiden St., Clarkston; Harry George, of 291 E. Princeton, and Robert Weatherbee, of 497 N. Johnson.

Home Gardeners Have Easy Assignment Compared to Pontiac Parks Department

By WILMA GREENWAY

So you've sniffed the spring air, inspected your garden tools, surveyed the back yard plot and started flexing your muscles for the task ahead. Bare spots to be seeded. Flowers to plant. Shrubbery to trim.

Big job, you think?

Well, if you think you're in for a rough time, consider the case of Raymond C. Keller, parks supervisor for the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department.

He has his finger in just about everything that grows on city property, and right now he's up to his elbows in work.

He has to care for four major city parks, a golf course, four boulevard areas and nearly a score of triangles. In his spare moments he works on landscape plans for two additional city park areas now in the planning stage.

Ten men are busy in Pontiac garden spots, raking, cleaning, seeding and planting. Their work consists mainly of maintenance—a lack of funds curtails improvements and extensive new plantings, Keller says.

One area that is due to become a real beauty spot is the center strip on South Woodward boulevard, from South boulevard to Square Lake road. Two local garden clubs—the Better Homes and Garden Club and the National Farm and Garden Club—have allocated $350 to purchase evergreens and flowering trees to dress up the greenway.

Crabapple, mock orange, hawthorn trees, forsythia and evergreens, due for immediate planting, will transform the boulevard into a beautiful picture when the blossoms arrive.

To protect the new shrubbery, the city has put in posts, 1½ feet high, along the cutoffs, providing a decorative and effective barrier against damage by cars.

South boulevard, Park Place boulevard and Glenwood boulevard also are being spruced up by city maintenance men.

Of the more than 15 triangles—garden spots at street intersections—some are planted with grass and shrubs, others with flowers.

One new park which the department is planning will be at the Malkin School. Another will be at the Hawthorne School.

In addition to beautifying Pontiac parks, the parks department often assists other city organizations with landscape garden plans. Such a plan was arranged for the city library on Williams street, and for the Pontiac General Hospital.

And for residents more interested in a feast for the stomach than a feast for the eyes, the city even will oblige that way, too.

The Parks Division will give a permit, free, for the use of any available city land as a garden plot.

If there's a city-owned lot near you, and you have a yen to do some spare-time farming, just inquire. Unless it's earmarked for some specific use, it's yours for the asking.

WOODWARD BEAUTY TREATMENT—A plan to make Pontiac famous for its flowering crabapple trees gained momentum Thursday with the planting of 100 trees in the center greenway on Woodward between South boulevard and Square Lake road. Above, Lyle LaVaye, Pontiac Parks and Recreation Dept. worker, unloads the young trees from a city truck. The Better Homes and Garden Club and the Pontiac branch of the National Farm and Garden Club donated $350 to purchase the trees. Some are expected to bloom this year.

Steel or Treated Posts Help

Fence Easily Constructed to Last Farm's Lifetime

When you build fences, how long do you expect them to last? Five or 10 years?

To really fence for the future, use steel or pressure-treated wood posts. Some farmers say they aren't satisfied unless a post gives them 30 years service.

But good posts are just one step toward lifetime fences.

You've heard it said, "A fence is no better than its corners or end-post bracing." Double-span, horizontal bracing is the design recommended today by leading agricultural colleges as giving the best and longest service.

One farmer adapted double-span, horizontal bracing for straight and contour fencing. He says it is far superior to diagonal bracing.

For a straight fence, you can save time and do an accurate job by stretching a barbed wire along the ground between end or corner posts as a guide.

This wire later can be used as the bottom strand below a woven-wire fence. It will permit you to attach the woven wire higher on the posts and reduce rust from ground contact. It's cheaper to replace the single barbed strand than a woven section.

For post setting, power driving cut labor costs at the University of Minnesota. In tests there, a man with hand tools set four posts an hour, compared to 15 posts a man hour with a power driver, and six with a power post hole digger and hand tamping.

You can buy pressure-treated posts already for driving or you can point them yourself prior to home treating with pentachlorophenol or creosote.

Wire is seldom damaged by hand stretching, but watch out with the tractor. Take care not to stretch woven wire to the point of pulling out the tension curves.

Use the same double-span, horizontal bracing for contour fencing as you would in straight field lines, but vary the distance between posts, suggests the farm magazine. Set posts 12 feet apart on gentle curves, 10 feet on moderate ones and 8 feet where they are sharp.

It's a good practice to lean the top of posts out about 2 inches, against the pull of the fence, when setting or driving posts on the contour. Stretch wire at 10-rod intervals on sharp curves — 20 rods elsewhere. And be sure to stretch wires only half to two-thirds as tightly as in straight fencing.

Plant Garden Immediately, County Ag Agent Suggests

Even though there still may be some cold nights, now is the time to start actual garden planting, says Edmond W. Alchin, Oakland County agricultural agent.

Alchin says spading or plowing the plot is the first step.

"Many folks seem to think that they have to do a lot of extra working of the soil to get good garden crops," Alchin says. "This is not true.

"Spading or plowing and leveling with a rake or tractor tool is all that is necessary," he says.

"Do not work or pack the garden any more than you have to, since this may break down soil structure and cause poor water penetration and aeration."

"For light, sandy soils, an application of 15 to 20 pounds of 10-10-10 or 12-12-12 analysis will do the best job for most garden crops.

"On loamy clay soils, 5-10-5 or 6-24-12 at the same rate will give good results. Apply the fertilizer and work into the soil after it is spaded and plowed," he says.

Variety-wise, Alchin comments that although some gardeners already have their peas planted, soil temperature has not been too favorable for germination. However, he says:

Alchin has issued a warning to treat those seeds subject to diseases before planting.

"Semesan, Arasan and Spergon are excellent seed treaters to preeases normally found in the gar vent damping off and other diseases normally found in the garden."

"For cabbage and cauliflower, bran and arsenate of lead mixed as a bait will take care of cut worms. Use tarpaper discs around cabbage and cauliflower to prevent cabbage maggot later on," he suggests.

Detroit and Buffalo markets are encouraging the production of malting barley in Michigan. The Montcalm and Kindred varieties of barley are adapted to the Wolverine State.

Shrubs Benefit Landscape Plan

Help Harmonize Lines of High Trees and Low Growing Plants

By WILLIAM AHO
Parks and Recreation Dept.

Shrubs are necessary in a good landscape plan because they serve as an intermediate group of plants which tie in trees to low growing plants and lawns.

Shrubs are becoming more popular each year because of the varied amount of uses they serve.

Soil requirements for shrubs vary, but generally speaking they prefer a sandy loam soil. The first step before planting is the preparation of the shrub bed.

Spade the soil to a depth of approximately 12 inches and, if possible, apply liberal quantities of manure to the shrub bed. This will make the soil more porous for root penetration and will give immediate and healthy growth.

Shrubs may be planted anytime during the dormant period and are usually planted with bare roots. When the shrub bed has been prepared mark planting locations and dig the holes.

Dig the hole large enough so that the roots are not crowded. Set the shrub in the hole slightly lower than when it was growing in the nursery. Pack the soil firmly around the roots and water thoroughly.

Take care to leave a concave surface of soil at the base of the shrub to catch the essential water.

To compensate for root loss in transplanting, remove approximately ½ of the canes in large shrubs. Small shrubs require very little pruning while transpanting.

In pruning shrubs there are several points to remember. If a four-foot shrub is desired then keep it at that height with proper pruning.

Always remember to keep the natural shape of the shrub. Some shrubs, such as the lilac, may be pruned tree-like, leaving only one stem.

In pruning remove the intersecting branches plus the dead, diseased and over-mature canes.

If a shrub has not been pruned for years and is too large, cut it down to within three to five inches of the ground. This method will usually produce a new, vigorous shrub.

Flowering shrubs should be pruned after flowering. Most of the shrubs produce flowers on the previous year's growth. Pruning before flowering means eliminating all or most of the blooms.

Cultivation of the soil to loosen it and allow good aeration will pay dividends.

One application of fertilizer in normal amounts during the second year's growth will suffice unless the soil is very deficient in plant nutrients.

In this price-cost squeeze, don't slip on the little things—they may be costly. Be sure to inoculate legume seed, treat small grains for rust and smut.

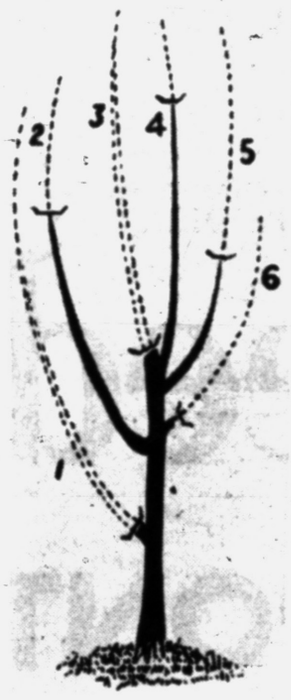

YEAR-ROUND BEAUTY—A well-planned area of evergreens and shrubs—large or small—adds beauty to any home, winter or summer. But, be careful. Don't overplant. Allow for the growth of the shrubs. Don't plant them too thickly unless you wish immediate effect and intend to thin them out in a few years. A simple plan laid out before purchasing the plants is the wisest move. Know what you want and where you want to plant.

Ag Agent Offers Advice on Pruning Apple Trees

Many residents have been phoning the local agriculture office inquiring about pruning young apple trees, reports Hans H. Haugard, assistant Oakland County agricultural agent.

In order to answer the inquiries graphically, Haugard prepared the following sketch and information for the Pontiac Press:

The yearling tree at planting time is a straight whip and requires no pruning unless it is too tall. It then should be cut back to about 4 or 4½ feet so that strong branches will develop at the proper height to start the head.

Pruning the 2-year-old tree is a five-step job and is illustrated in the sketch.

The height of the head has been established at about 3 feet by cutting off limb No. 1 below this point and leaving limb No. 2 as the first main scaffold branch.

An equally balanced crotch, (weak and easily split), is formed by limbs No. 3 and No. 4 and is corrected by taking out limb No. 3 leaving limb No. 4 as the central leader, from which other scaffold limbs will be developed.

Limb No. 5 makes a narrower and weaker angle with the trunk than is desirable. It should therefore either be cut out or suppressed by severe pruning as shown, so that it will never become a main limb.

Limb No. 6 is practically opposite No. 2 and is less desirable than limb No. 5 and has therefore been cut out.

In pruning young trees, remember to:

1. Establish the height of the head. Trees headed too low increase trouble of picking, spraying, etc. Trees headed too high increase pruning, picking and spraying costs and delay bearing.

2. Prevent equally-balanced crotches. Weak crotches invite splitting and injury.

4. Prevent more than one permanent limb from arising at any one level on the trunk.

5. Keep the uppermost branch, or leader, in the lead.

Big Wheat Harvests Raise Yield Average

Wheat production set a new state record with 44,692,000 bushels and was valued at $82,680,000.

Corn production of 80,262,000 bushels carried a dollar value of $116,380,000.

Dairymen Seek More Buyers to Cut Surplus

The nub of the dairy problem centers about the hearch for some way to increase consumption enough to use up the surplus at a price satisfactory to dairymen.

Most dairy experts don't think the price support cut will be enough to move all the butter output into consumption.

Last year, 25 per cent of the butter, 30 per cent of American cheeese and 50 per cent of non-fat milk solids went to the government.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture expects milk output this year to smash all records. Farmers had three per cent more dairy cows on hand Jan. 1. Acreages diverted into grass are likely to wind up in dairy production.

1954 Hens More Prolific Than 1930-Model Layers

Modern hens are laying an egg practically every other day compared to 1930-model layers which produced an egg every three days. Eggs are plentiful in the markets at reasonable prices that will help keep the food budget in line.

It's possible to save up to $5 per acre in tillage cost by using once-over cultivation without reducing yields on spring planted crops, say M.S.C. crops specialists.

Farming in Oakland County Adjusting Itself to Industry

By JOE HAAS

Agriculture in recent years has undergone a marked change in this area. Some farm crops which formerly were grown here in large quantities no longer are produced.

When sugar beets first started as a competitor with the cane production of the south, great quantities of them were grown in Oakland County. One of Michigan's largest factories for processing sugar beets was built at Rochester.

Similar factories at St. Clair, Owosso and other points also contracted for acreage in this county. Beets became one of the leading farm commodities hauled by the railroads.

But with the coming of the automobile and allied industries, the labor problem on growing beets became a serious one. They are primarily a labor crop, requiring much cultivation, and the pulling and topping is a big job. The farmers could not compete with factory wages. The crop also made heavy drains on the fertility of the soil, so beets passed out.

Not many years ago Oakland County was one of the largest bean producing areas in the nation. It did much to wrest the top state honors for growing this crop from New York State and bring it to Michigan.

But, like beets, beans also are a labor crop and pull heavily on the soil, so now only a few fields of beans are grown in the entire county, these being in the north tier of townships.

In earlier years hops were grown here on a more extensive scale than in most other Michigan areas. They were shipped to breweries in Detroit and Milwaukee. Other methods of making beer reduced the hop demand, and they also passed out as a local production.

Hemp and flax also were grown here several years ago in considerable quanities. But they likewise gave way to other farm products when it became possible to grow them to better advantage in other areas.

In recent years this has brought about a concentration on the growing of corn, wheat, potatoes, oats, buckwheat, barley, rye and the many forage and feeding crops.

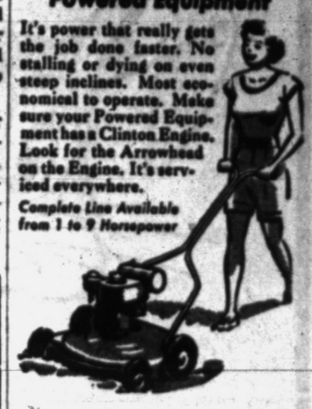

Among these, the biggest labor crop is potatoes and right now their local production is suffering from a declined acreage, in spite of the many innovations in planting, cultivating and digging.

To combat the labor shortage many of the farmers have switched over to dairying; others to raise beef cattle, sheep and hogs; many have extended their poultry production, and some small farms have been converted into large gardens.

Encroached upon by an ever growing industrialization and consequent need for more housing, Oakland County farmers are making the changes necessary to maintain it as one of Michigan's leading agricultural counties.

Farmers Facing Decision on Resealing 1953 Wheat

EAST LANSING—Should I reseal my 1953 wheat crop and take the 15 cents a bushel the government offers as an inducement?

That's a question many Michigan farmers are asking since the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced a plan to encourage the continued storing of the 1953 grain. The deadline to apply for resealing is May 1.

The ASC has pointed out that they will not be able to accept delivery before the 1954 harvest on perhaps as much as 5,000,000 bushels of last year's wheat stored on Michigan farms. That's the reason for encouraging the resealing of grain.

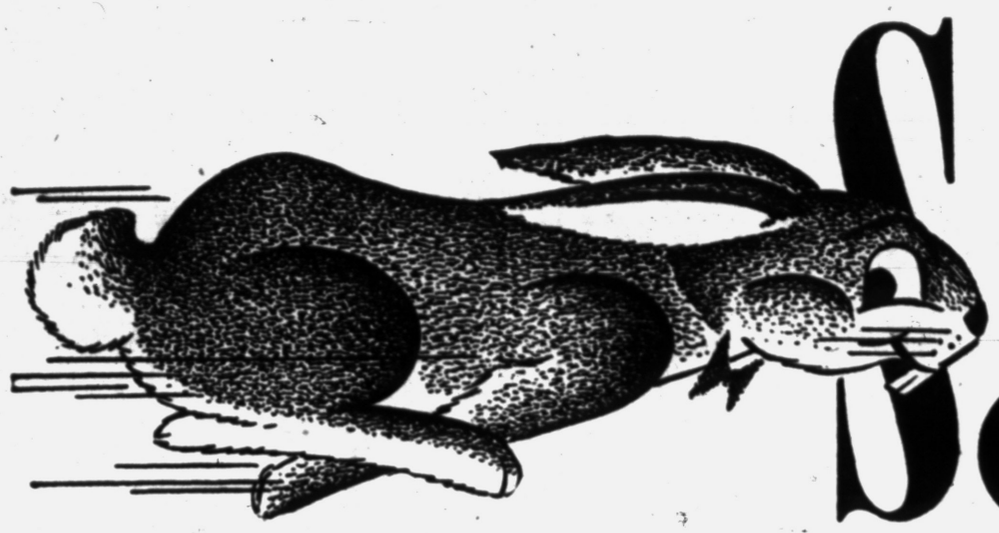

But Michigan State College specialists and the ASC have suggested that farmers consider these things before making up their minds about resealing:

Farmers who reseal are responsible for maintaining the quality and quantity of wheat they are storing. The climate in Michigan is not adapted to preserving grain as well as weather further west. And Michigan's soft wheat deteriorates faster than hard wheat.

Embezzler Chats Freely at Auction of Belongings

CLIO, Ala. (AP) — With an embezzlement charge hanging over his head and his home being sold from under him, easy-going Royall Reynolds mingled nonchalantly with the throng yesterday as his personal property was auctioned off to help pay depositors in his merchants exchange.

About 1,500 bargain hunters and souvenir seekers laid out $35,021 for the ex-banker's new brick home, 50 building lots, two automobiles and other items.

Bidding started at $20,000 on the spacious home and within two minutes it had been sold for $26,500 to Mrs. G. C. Reynolds, the aunt by marriage whose court order tied up records of the little unchartered bank and led to discovery of a $75,000 shortage.

Reynolds chatted throughout the three-hour sale with friends in the crowd and often commented on the original price of an item brought up for auction.

Mayor Dan Easterling said the sale brought in between $8,000 and $12,000 more than was expected, and an auction official said he would not have believed used furniture would bring that kind of price "if I hand't seen it for myself."

The plight of this little southeast Alabama community was widely publicized last month when Reynolds' 12-day disappearance brought fear of financial ruin to the town. But Reynolds came back home, and has promised to pay back about 85 cents on the dollar by selling his personal holdings and with help from relatives.

Two embezzlement charges filed by depositors soon after he left town have been dropped, but REynolds was indicted under a general state statute and is scheduled for trial this summer.

Bandit's Wife Faces Hearing in Holdup

Mrs. Lula Sullivan, 28, of Detroit, demanded examination yesterday when she was arraigned on an armed robbery charge in connection with the holdup of the Fox and Hounds Inn in Bloomfield Hills last November.

She faces examination within 10 days.

Mrs. Sullivan's husband, James, 30, was sentenced three weeks ago to from 5 to 20 years for the $6,200 daylight holdup.

Two other men, Johnny W. Graham, 37, of Detroit, and Charles E. Clark of Gary, Ind., also are accused of taking part in the armed robbery. Graham is awaiting arraignment in Oakland County Circuit Court and Clark is being tried in Detroit on a murder charge. A fifth suspect is sought.

MVD Captain Tells West of Soviet Terror Network

BONN, Germany (AP)—The latest-revealed Communist convert to the West—Russian Secret Police CApt. Nikolai Khokhlov—has reported details of a global Soviet network dedicated to "sabotage, assassination, kidnaping and other violent clandestine activities."

Vouching for his story, the U. S. Army unveiled Khokhlov at a news conference yesterday and said he gave himself up last February. He and two East Germans—also in American protective custody—told U. S. intelligence officers they had been ordered to kill a key Russian member of an anti-Soviet organization in Frankfurt.

Khokhlov said he came over to the West after his "wonderful wife" appealed to him not to carry out the murder plot. He told correspondents that if his story was publicized, "the Soviet government hesaid was still in Moscow with will not dare to kill my wife," who year-old sister.

their 21-month-old son and her 14-

This was an American summary of Khokhlov's disclosures:

The murder-sabotage outfit to which he belonged is known as the "Ninth Section (of the MVD secret police) for Terror and Diversion"—"Devyaty Odtel po Terroru I Diversii" in Russian. Its headquarters are in Moscow's notorious Lubianka prison and Col. L. A. Studnikov commands it.

Training is carried out at a base on the corner of Metrostroyevskaya Ul. And Turnaninski Pereulok, in Moscow, under Col. Arkady Fotoyev and staff of experts in small arms, judo, code radio, driving, shadowing of victims and photography.

The advanced operational bases of the group are in the former St. Antonius Hospital inside the Soviet compound at Karlshorst, East Berlin, and in Baden, near Vienna.

Originally called Bureau No. 1, the section was first formed during World War II to send agents to help and lead anti-Nazi partisan groups in Western Europe.

Then, Khokhlov's account continued, the mission changed. Orders were given in 1951 to set up a network of agents all over West Germany. East Geramsn were recruited to work in the West under direction of Soviet officers in East Berlin.

In the summer of 1952, Khokhlov said, there was another change. Long-term planning was abandoned and Moscow urged that all available agents should be used for activities.

He said that an agent was sent to Denmark to convince Danish Communists that the time had come for action against the imminent conversion of Denmark into an Anglo-American base. A special Danish section was attached to Karlshorst.

After Stalin's death, there was a lull in activities. Confusion, purges and arrests followed the fall of MVD chief Lavrenty P. Beria.

Then Bureau No. 1 emerged with the new name of Ninth Section and was given the mission of carrying out "special action tasks."

American agents said the weapons turned over to them by the Soviet captain looked like innocent trinkets. Actually they would be deadly efficient tools for an assassin.

Two leather-type cigarette cases anide poison. Thumb pressure fired pellets loaded with potassium cythe weapons. They could kill instantly.

Two miniature pistols were fired louder than a snap of the fingers. The bullets would shatter on impact, spreading deadly poison thrqugh the wound.

A short time later firemen were fighting a blaze that destroyed a third of the half-block-wide store.

Gambler Uses Gypsy to Turn a Neat Trick

By BILLY ROSE

Back in 1923, I was involved in a job of outright thievery. My attorneys assure me, however, that, thanks to a lovely legalism known as the Statute of Limitations, I can now print the sordid details without fear of prosecution.

BILLY ROSE

It happened like this . . . .

When I first hit Broadway, with big dreams in my head and small change in my pocket, I took up residence in a theatrical rooming house on West 47th street which was overrun by actors, grifters, and other scurrying forms of animal life.

The lowest form of animal life on the premises, though, was our landlady, a carpet-slippered slob named Mrs. Peavey who delighted in badgering her defenseless tenants.

About the only time Mrs. Peavey wasn't badgering us was when she went to consult one of the gypsy palmists on Eighth avenue, which was almost every afternoon.

One day, I remember, a dice hustler named Gus Barinsky, who lived on the third floor, gave a gypsy a dollar to tell our landlady that if she ventured above street level the next two days, she'd fall and break a leg. Our rooms didn't get cleaned for 48 hours, but the peace and quiet were wonderful.

Mrs. Peavey's pet target was a smallish Sicilian named Jimmy Rocco who had the room next to mine. Jimmy, to hear him tell it, had been quite a juggler in his native Palermo, and had come to New York to get a vaudeville job.

Unfortunately, on the boat he had taken a tumble during a storm and fractured an elbow.

No longer able to juggle, Rocco was now working as a dishwasher and, by making one meal do for three, he was quarter by quarter getting together the passage money to bring his wife and four children over.

The Sicilian was a proud little galoot, and on one occasion when we passed the hat around to build up his fund, he turned us down with much bristling of dignity and mustache. "I come to America for work, not charity," he said.

Late one night, as I was climbing up to my room, I heard Rocco singing through the transom. I walked in on him and asked what he was so happy about. He lifted his pillow and showed me a folded-up handkerchief.

"In here is all I save — two hundred dollars," he said. "When I wake up tomorrow it is four hundred dollars, and I can buy boat tickets for family. A gypsy on Eighth avenue fix it up."

Well, even as a young man, I knew my friend was up against the "handkerchief switch" — an old swindle wherein the victim turns over his money to a "gypsy" who folds it in a handkerchief, mumbles some jaberwocky over it, and tells him to put it under his pillow where it will double overnight. The gypsy, of course, switches handkerchiefs, and is somewhere west of Passaic when the victim looks in the morning and finds nothing but old newspaper.

"Who introduced you to the gypsy?" I asked Jimmy. "Mrs. Peavey?"

"Her I no trust," said Rocco. "I meet the gypsy through a good friend — Gus Barinsky on third floor."

This distressed me plenty. True, Gus was a dice hustler, but as far as I knew he never cheated his friends.

I liked little Rocco so I went over to the 47th street precinct and dug up Steve Lonergin, the neighborhood cop. Together, we went back to the boarding house and confronted Barinsky.

"I ought to bust your head," said Steve. "Give the little guy back his money or I'll pull ya in."

"Before you accuse me," said the outraged Barinsky, "let's go down and see what's in Jimmy's handkerchief. Only, as a favor, let me do the talking."

He led the way to Rocco's room. "I was just over to the gypsy," he told Jimmy. "She says you don't have to wait 'til tomorrow to open the handkerchief."

The ex-juggler reached under the pillow for the handkerchief and unfolded it. It contained 20 twenty-dollar bills . . . .

Outside, the bewildered Lonergin said. "This is one swindle I want explained."

"It's simple," said Barinsky. "Last night I met up with some nice people from Milwaukee and we played a little dice. I won eleven hundred, and felt like giving Rocco's family a break. I know he don't take charity, so I set up this deal with a gypsy of my acquaintance."

"Sorry I suspected you," I said.

"To be strictly honest about it," said the dice hustler, "I was expecting to get my two hundred back. I made Rocco promise he wouldn't tell nobody the name of this gypsy — nobody, that is, except Mrs. Peavey."

"I ain't heard what you said," said Lonergan, "and I don't want to hear any more . . . ."

A couple of mornings later, the screams out of Mrs. Peavey's room were a beautiful thing to hear.

There was nothing our landlady could do about it, however. At Barinsky's urging, Rocco had departed from the premises, and the hustler and his gypsy acquaintance had lit out for somewhere west of Passaic.

Me? I told Mrs. Peavey nothing which, I guess, made me an accomplice to a $200 swindle — before, during and after the fact. But, as I said at the beginning, my lawyer contends that, what with my tender years and the Statute of Limitations . . . .

Trip to California for Purse Thief Delayed Awhile

CHICAGO (AP)—A young husband told police yesterday that as part of his wife's plan to move to California he took her advice and snatched a purse.

They both landed in jail. The trip to California appeared delayed indefinitely.

Detective Thomas O'Boyle said Vaughn Wedlake, 23, told him his wife Ruth, 20, planned to use the stolen identification in the purse to get a $500 signature loan.

Wedlake told O'Boyle he was not too fond of the idea but added, "I never argued with my wife." So, he said, he left his North Side home and snatched the purse of the first woman who passed.

The victim, Mrs. Gertrude Nelson, 43, followed Wedlake to his home and began screaming for help. Neighbors called police. Wedlake fled but police seized his wife. They said she had Mrs. Nelson's purse. They caught Wedlake two blocks from his home.

Both were in jail without charge. Wedlake, a factory assembler, told police: "I don't guess we'll be going to California for a while."

Cpl. Dickenson Rumor Victim, Defense Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Army major defending Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson against court-martial charges said today he is convinced the GI was a victim of "latrine rumors" at a Communist prisoner of war camp in Korea.

Maj. Earl V. Brown gave this opinion in an interview as the military trial moved into its fifth day.

The 23-year-old Dickenson, from Cracker's Neck, Va., is accused of collaborating with his captors and informing on his buddies while a POW. He was one of 23 POWs who at first refused repatriation. Later he and one other returned to U. S. control.

Brown, who was legal adviser to the Americans at the Freedom Village repatriation center in Korea last year, said he had heard hundreds of GIs talk about a widespread "atmosphere of rumor" at the Red prison camps.

Dickenson's defense began hammering away at this point yesterday when a series of witnesses hostile to Dickenson took the witness chair.

Delegates Plan A-Weapon Talks at United Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS)—The Western Big Three and Canadian delegates meet at the U.N. today to organize secret "down-to-earth" talks with Russia on nuclear weapons.

Scheduled to confer were Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., British Delegate Sir Pierson Dixon, French Ambassador Henri Hopponet and Canadian Delegate D. M. Johnson, presiding.

The question is whether Soviet Delegate Andrei Vishinsky will show up, send his substitute Semen K. Tsarapkin or send a letter requesting postponement due to "lack of instructions from Moscow."

President Eisenhower's proposal for creating an atomic pool of nuclear materials to be used for peaceful purposes still is under discussion on high diplomatic levels and will be taken up by the subcommittee at a later date.

Vishinsky served notice in meetings of the Disarmament Commission last week that Russia will never agree to a pact on superweapons based on the vetoless Baruch plan for control and inspection.

PHS Musicians to Play in State Music Festival

The Pontiac High School band, under the direction of Dale C. Harris, will join 73 other junior and senior high school bands and orchestras Saturday at the annual State Band and Orchestra Festival. The event will take place at Michigan State College.

More than 4,000 young musicians will be judged in four sessions running simultaneously during the day.

Participating groups have received first division rating in earlier district festivals and will be vying for state honors.

Detroit Council Weighs Fate of Historic Church

DETROIT (INS)—Common Council today will decide the fate of Detroit's historic Mariners Church.

There are two alternatives—refurbish the structure and leave it at its present site in the midst of the Civic Center, or pay $250,000 to move it 800 feet, away from the modern buildings.

Some councilmen feel that the simple, 18th century Gothic architecture of the church provides just the human touch needed to put warmth in the waterfront development.

33 Peruvians Killed

LIMA, Peru (INS)—Thirty-three farm hands were killed and eight injured Thursday when a truck in which they were riding overturned on a mountain highway 250 miles north of Lima.

Prison to Fatten Convict Then: Bread and Water

CANON CITY, Colo. (AP) — State prison officials have to fatten up Ferman Espinosa, 33, before he can be put on a bread-and-water diet as punishment for escaping.

Espinosa, serving a life term for the Denver murder of his common law wife, climbed over a fence last Friday and eluded guards for five days—days in which he didn't have anything to eat.

Espinosa has been placed on a soft food diet in solitary. Guards said they'll give him solid foods before he has to go on the bread-and-water diet.

Magazine Drive at PHS Ends Post Vacation Lull

With both parochial schools still enjoying Easter vacation and dutiful Pontiac High teenagers just returned to the "scholastic grind," things at the old brick teepee are very slow this week.

Reporter Vicky Micu writes that Wednesday found long lines of high schoolers returning to classes.

VICKY

Among the acts presented by the teachers were a hillbilly trio, women's gymnastic stunts, faculty "crooners", tap dancing and band (consisting of pots and pans) selections.

With the added spur of stiff competition, Pontiac Hidh is out to beat the DeLaSalle, Minn., High School which broke the national selling record formerly held by PHS.

Budding reporters, harried editors, and Robert Beacchamp took time off Thursday from their "Tomahawk" duties to enjoy a bowling party. Although scores were low, spirits were high with the junior journalists.

An Easter afterthought was the announcement that the holiday edition of the Latin paper "Epistolae Scholae" netted $146. The money will be contributed to various worthy charities.

Ex-Pontiac Student Wins Top Honors

Robert Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Thompson of Vanderbilt, formerly of Pontiac, was named salutatorian of the 1954 graduating class of the Vanderbilt Agricultural High School.

Thompson, who was active in various organizations, was particularly outstanding in sports. He plans on being an electrician after graduation.

Youth Gets 1 to 7 Years for Slaying of Teacher

ALEDO, Ill. (AP)—An 18-year-old high school youth, convicted of manslaughter in the knife slaying of a teacher-athletic coach, was sentenced to one to seven years in the state penitentiary yesterday.

A circuit court jury which convicted James Gipson a month ago recommended the sentence which was imposed on the youth by Judge Leonard E. Telleen.

George Marich, 26, was fatally stabbed last Dec. 8 during an argument in a school hallway with Gipson and two other students. Assault charges against the other youths were dropped by the state after Gipson's conviction.

Wood Memorial Could Be Derby Preview

NEW YORK (AP)—A race to determine the probable Kentucky Derby post-time favorite is on tap tomorrow at Jamaica with Correlation and Fisherman tangling in the mile and one-eighth of the $100,000 added Wood Memorial.

Perhaps as many as 10 other three-year olds will accept the issue but its still a two-horse race. A victory for any other than R. S. Lytle's California-owned Correlation or C. V. Whitney's Fisherman would be the turf upset of the year.

Correlation, a lanky animal affectionately known by his handlers as "Bones", is the current 2 to 1 Derby favorite. Fisherman, a mite of a horse at 900 pounds, is the co-second choice at 5 to 2 with Determine, already on the grounds at Churchill Downs.

Both are ready for the Wood and their reservations have been made for Derbytown. Fisherman, who seems to thrive on racing despite his size, won the Gotham in last Saturday's slop by four lengths and came back Wednesday to work seven furlongs in 1:28 3-5 at Belmont Park.

Correlation was scratched from the Gotham but worked a mile and an eighth in 1:54 and then yesterday reeled off six furlongs over the Jamaica oval in 1:13 3-5. A number of experts rated his sprint workout better than his route test.

Neither will lack for proper guidance around the egg-shaped track. Willie Shoemaker, America's No. 1 winning jockey last year, will be astride Correlation. Hedley Woodhouse again will pilot Fisherman.

The winner of the Wood has long been rated one of the top horses in the Derby but actually no victor in the Jamaica stake has gone on to triumph at Churchill Downs since Assault in 1946. Native Dancer won the Wood last year but suffered the lone defeat of his career in the Derby, bowing to Dark Star.

In addition to Assault five other Wood winners have been crowned at the Downs. They are Hoop Jr., 1945; Count Fleet, 1943; Johnstown, 1939; Twenty Grand, 1931 and Gallant Fox, 1930.

The race, scheduled to get underway shortly after 4 p.m. EST, will be telecast (CBS) and broadcast (ABC).

HAPPY ROOKIES—First baseman Bob Skinner wipes off the brow of George O'Donnell in the Pittsburgh clubhouse Thursday after the 23-year-old rookie righthander whipped the New York Giants, 7-4, in his first major league start, scattering eight hits. Skinner, also a rookie, collected four straight hits, including two singles, a double and a triple.

Falcon, Holly Prep Nines Are Victors Thursday

By JACK SAYLOR

Bad weather again forced postponment of most of the Oakland County area prep spring sport schedule Thursday.

However, one track meet and three baseball games were completed.

Hazel Park's rejuvenated track forces defeated Southfield, 62-47, with Jack Brown in the starring role. He won both dashes and also took the broad jump.

In baseball, Holly handed Clarkston its 3rd straight setback, 8-5. Al Warman struck out 11 and had 3 hits himself in Clarkston's losing cause. Bill Dunstan, also of Clarkston, hit a pair of triples.

Earl Garner had a triple and scored three runs for Holly. Roseville thumped Troy, 10-1, in the 1st Oakland-B League game of the season.

Wildcats scored in the 1st inning, but Rochester tied the count in the 2nd on a walk to Earl Kitchen, a single by George Kleino and Russ Jones' double.

In the 6th, Kitchen and Buzz DeBaene reached base on a succession of errors, with Kitchen scoring. DeBaene then rode home on Kleino's single.

Trabert, Seixas Open National Round-Robin

Summer-Long Tennis Tournament Starts in New York Monday

NEW YORK, April 23 (AP)—A new wrinkle in tennis, a National Round Robin championship involving 10 of the country's top players, will begin next Monday night at the Town Tennis club, and you couldn't ask for a swankier start.

The first match of the summer-long series pits America's two best amateurs—U. S. champion Tony Trabert and Wimbledon champion Vic Seixas, ranked No. 1 and No. 2, respectively.

The tournament calls for one match to be played each Monday evening, with the 10 competitors meeting each of the other nine before the closing date Aug. 30.

Finals Slated Saturday for Kite Tourney

Survivors From Eight Preliminary Rounds to Compete at Lincoln

Survivors of preliminary competition at eight city elementary schools will meet at the Lincoln Junior High athletic field Saturday afternoon for the finals of the annual City Kite tournament.

Finals, which will include competition in four events—release and fly, 100 yards; release, fly and rewind, 100 yards; hand winding for time; and strongest pulling kite—will get under way at 1 p.m.

Leonard T. Buzz, city recreation supervisor, will be in charge of the finals. Assisting him will be instructors from the eight elementary schools. Russell Themm, of the Northside Community Club, will present awards.

Tournament, now in its 7th year, is sponsored by the Pontiac Department of Parks & Recreation in co-operation with the Northside Community Club.

Young Selected for Olympic Committee

EAST LANSING (UP)—Ralph H. Young, retiring Michigan State Athletic Director, has been appointed to the U. S. Olympic track and field committee for the 1956 games. Young, who will be replaced by former MSC football coach Clarence (Biggie) Munn, served as treasurer for the U. S. team in 1948.

10 Marks in Peril

Drake Relays Ready for Record-Breaking

DES MOINES, Iowa, (AP) — A Drake relays field carrying enormous record breaking potential opened a two-day stand today with hopes high on reaching peak performances.

Scattered through the entry list were athletes who, individually or colectively, could boast of marks better than the existing records in 10 events.

Evenly split between the relays division and the individual competition, the events were the university 440, 880 and four mile relays, the sprint and distance medleys, the 100-yard dash, the mile run, the two mile run, the high jump and the shot put.

Texas' crack quartet, Dean Smith, Jerry Prewit, Alvin Frieden, and Charles Thomas, has done :40.3 in the 440 and 1:24.8 in the 880. The Longhorns were down for action in the preliminaries of those events today. Houston University, in chasing Texas this spring, has a :40.7 sprint in the 440.

Wes Santee, best of the country's milers, and his Kansas mates talk about a 3:30.2 ramble in the sprint medley, a 9:51.4 mark in the distance medley and a 17:15.6 race in the four-mile.

Rich Ferguson of Iowa, Gene Matthews of Purdue and Dennis Meyer of the University of Washington all have been under the 9:10 mark in the two mile, another Friday final.

Willie Williams, the Big Ten sprint champion from Illinois, and Texas' Smith each has burned through the 100-yard dash in :09.4 and Ferguson, Russ Bonham of Whittier (Calif) College and Bob Coldren of Ohio State have bettered the 4:14.5 record in the mile run.

Dodgers Test 'Who Kids' on Pirates' Club

Brooklyn Has Feasted on Pittsburgh in Past Two Seasons

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pittsburgh's "Who Kids" tangle with the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight, hoping they can carry over at least some of the luck they had against the New York Giants.

The four game Brooklyn series is an important one, not only to the two clubs, but to the rest of the league as well. It has been the Dodgers' almost unfailing ability to make the Pirates play dead the past two seasons that has eased the Brooklyn pennant path.

In 1952 the Dodgers beat the Pirates 19 times. Last year they beat them 20 times. The other clubs' chances of catching Brooklyn while the Dodgers had such hospitable "cousins" were just about impossible.

This is the first full scale series between Brooklyn and the "Who Kids," so called because who ever heard of them. More than half of the Pittsburgh starting lineup never had played in a major league park until two weeks ago.

Centerfielder Frank Thomas is the only member of the lineup that beat the Giants 7-4 yesterday who has played as many as 100 major league games in a season. And he's in his second year in the big time.

Despite their limited experience the young Pirates already have diagnosed the Giants to perfection. They've met four times. Pittsburgh has won three and put up a stiff battle in the other contest.

The Pirates and Dodgers have played once this season, in Ebbets Field last week where the Dodgers won 7-4. An even split in the forthcoming series would give Pittsburgh its best home record against Brooklyn in three seasons.

Williams Takes 45-Minute Hit Drill Thursday

Ted Will Rest Until Saturday to Avoid Hand Blisters

BOSTON, April 23 (AP)—Red Sox slugger Ted Williams took a 45-minute hitting drill—longest since he suffered a fractured collarbone in spring training March 1.

He worked a total of 90-minutes at Fenway Park Thursday.

Williams duplicated his effort of Tuesday by socking two balls over the fence. One landed in the bullpen in right field and the other sailed down the right field foul line into the stands.

Pillette Stops Tribe for 2nd Straight Win

Oriole Hurler Gives Only 5 Hits; Houtteman Shines in Relief

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP) — Duane Pillette, lanky righthander, settled down after the first inning and gave the Cleveland Indians only 5 hits today for his second straight Baltimore Oriole victory by a 4-1 score.

Between the first, when he forced in the only Indian run with a walk, and the ninth inning, Pillette's pitches had the Indians stopped.

From the third through the seventh inning he faced only the minimum of 15 batters. No Indian got past first base from the third through the eighth.

The Orioles gave him a three-run cushion in the first inning when the first four batters shelled Mike Garcia from the mound with consecutive singles good for three runs.

Art Houteman turned in a good relief job by holding the Orioles to four hits and an eighth inning run. His mates could do nothing with Pillette, who has given only 11 hits and three runs in his first two starts of 1954.

Times Are Changing

Wells and Farley Could Help Press Get Publicity Information on AAU Track

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — The Amateur Athletic Union, which is the governing body of amateur sports in the nation, has long had the reputation of being a very stuffy organization, and it has been a label not entirely undeserved.

The head men of the AAU have with rare exceptions, seemed to live forever. Unlike old soldiers, they haven't even faded away.

Almost everyone concedes that they all have been fine and dedicated men for many, many years, and that they have been determined to keep amateur athletics on the high moral level that they were, say, 50 years ago. They have labored without pay, being men of independent means. They have, in fact, done everything they could have done for amateur athletics except recognize the need of publicity.

There they have steadfastly balked. They have fought shy of the press. Those whose duty—and wish — it has been to whoop up reading matter about track and field events, in particular, have had hard going. It might only be a coincidence, but the crowds have fallen off steadily at such events in this country while they were zooming in other parts of the world.

That is, as we say, the way things have been. But now the AAU, or at least its branch store known as the Metropolitan Assn., is changing all of a sudden in a manner to turn your hair.

As a starter, and a good one, the local body has taken on the renowned Col. Walter (Cappy) Wells, who knows almost everybody in the country, to edit its monthly magazine, The Met, and to speak pleasantly at all times to seekers after information.

Throwing himself into the great humanizing project is Jim Farley, the former postmaster general, who knows almost everybody in the world, and who sincerely feels that the AAU and the press should become acquainted for the benefit of the youth of the land.

NBA Heads Act to Speed Game

Take Steps to Curtail Delays Brought On by Disputes With Refs

NEW YORK, (AP)—The National Basketball Assn.'s directors took steps today to curtail delay in games brought on by disputes with the officials.

The directors passed a rule forbidding other than the captains and coaches to talk with the referee and then only during a time out called by a captain or coach.

The first violation of the rule will call for a technical foul. The second will cost the offender a technical foul, a $25 fine and expulsion from the game.

President Maurice Podoloff was given power to select the league's officiating staff and name a supervisor of officials if he so desires.

The directors meet again today and tomorrow with the drafting of college players the final item on the agenda. The name of Bevo Francis, high scoring Rio Grande College star, will not be on the draft list.

The league directors voted yesterday to abide by a league rule which says a player is not eligible for the draft and may not be signed until the class with which he originally entered college has been graduated.

Republicans Beat Dems in Practice Baseball Game

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., April 23 (AP)—The Republicans caught up with Rep. W. M. (Fireball) Wheeler (Ga Thursday and on five hits, numerous walks and four errors defeated the Democrats 7-3 in a practice congressional baseball game.

* * *

Rep. Syd Herlong (Fla), manager of the Democrats, was quick to comment however: "Remember the Yankees lost in spring exhibitions too. We'll win the big one."

The game was a warmup for the annual congressional game for charity in Washington June 15.

Rep. Sam Coon (Ore) started the GOPs toward a three-run first inning by singling in two runs after Wheeler had loaded the bases on walks. Rep. Glenn Davis (Wis), the winning pitcher, got the other score on an error.

The Democrats came back with two runs in the second on Wheeler's grounder and an error but the Republicans went ahead to stay with a four-run third inning.

Black Makes New York Debut

Michigan State Grad Faces Klein Tonight in St. Nick Ring

By JACK HAND

The 10-round match will start at 10 p.m. (EST) with two judges and a referee scoring on a round basis and a supplementary point system.

Black's 27-1-1 record is almost as promising as Davey's was before he ran into Kid Gavilan. The only defeat suffered by the Michigan State grad was in a four-rounder, Oct. 1, 1952 to Herbie Schoen. Two months later he knocked out Schoen.

The first time Black hit the big leagues was in his 10-round draw with Chico Vejar at Chicago Stadium, Feb. 10. He floored the soldier boy for nine in the seventh round of a battle that had fans yelling for a rematch. He has an unbeaten streak of 26 fights.

Finsterwald Winner of Carolinas Open

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A young Air Force officer held the Carolinas open golf tournament championship today.

Dow Finsterwald, 24, of Athens, Ohio, stationed at Pope Air Force Base, birdied the 16th and 17th holes yesterday and won the tournament by one stroke over Julius Boros of Southern Pines. His 274 total, 10 under par, was good for $325.

With 275, Boros was five strokes ahead of Mike Souchak of Durham.

Aga Khan's Horse Is Winner in Epsom Race

EPSOM, England, April 23 (AP)—The Aga Khan's filly Bara Bibi beat Queen Elizabeth's Angel Bright in the 17th running of the Princess Elizabeth Stakes at the Epsom track Thursday.

The three-year-old Bara Bibi, a nominee for the 1,000 Guineas, raced the mile and 110 yards in 1.45.4 to land first prize of 4,021 pounds ($11,258). She was second favorite at 9-4 in a field of five.

Veterans Pace Test

By BOB MYERS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Lloyd Mangrum and Ted Kroll, a pair of decorated veterans of war and golf, led the way into the second round of the $35,000 Tournament of Champions today and the erstwhile favorite, Sam Snead, sought to stage a comeback.

The highly regarded Mangrum and the somewhat surprising Kroll clipped four strokes off par for 68s to lead their 17 rivals through the first round of play at the Desert Inn country club yesterday.

Today they held a one-stroke lead over a trio of challengers—ex-amateur champion Gene Littler, Art Wall Jr. and Chandler Harper.

Down toward the bottom of the standings was Snead, nestling with five other pros in the slightly embarrassing 73 bracket.

Only one contestant, Earl Stewart Jr. of Dallas, who oddly enough was a leader at this stage a year ago, rested lower—at 74.

Mangrum and Kroll carded five birdies and one bogey apiece. Mangrum played evenly in one of his best rounds. His longest putt demand was a 12-footer on the par-4 17th green. He got the birdie three.

Kroll banged 'em in from as far out as 18 feet for birdies.

Sandwiched in between the co-leaders and the far-behinds were such players as Al Besselink, the champions' winner last year; Doug Ford, Dutch Harrison and Cary Middlecoff, all grouped at 70 to round out the select nine who bettered par 36-36—72.

The even par bracket listed Fred Wampler, PGA champion Walter Burkemo and Shelley Mayfield.

This was the field of 19—each an eligible to compete for the $10,000 first prize as the result of winning a major open tournament in the preceding 12 months.

Snead, who sold for $20,000 in the non-lottery auction in this gambling-conscious came loose on the back nine after shooting a two under par 34 going out.

His irons produced the agony. The back side performance produced two birdies and five bogeys. He three-putted the 16th and 17th, overshot the 18th and chipped 10 feet past the pin trying to recover from the predicament. He missed the putt back and took his second straight five for the hole.

Fisherman, Determine, Correlation Are Rated Top Favorites for Forthcoming Kentucky Derby Classic

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK—When the typewriter or the pen starts a story on the Kenucky Derby, there is always a spasm or two that comes sneaking in.

You mention a leading contender and at once begin to wonder whether he will have the pip or cholera. You mention another and wonder whether he is coming down the next day with a cracked epiglottis. So many of these very beautiful animals are alarmingly weak in certain spots, especially the feet or ankles.

It is largely the matter of 1,100 pounds coming down with a sharp shock on pipe stems. In spite of the loss of two very fine runners such a Tura-To and Porterhouse, there is every promise that the big scrap at Churchill Downs next week will be one of the best.

* * *

Uncle Will Corum, in looking over his list of entries, finds C. V. Whitney's Fisherman, California's Determine and Correlation, plus survivors from yesterday's Blue Grass Stakes and from the Wood Memorial tomorrow.

Just at present, Fisherman, Determine and Correlation are favored over the others by most of the horsemen we have talked with.

There is one odd angle to this coming Derby. As a rule, a big horse is liked, but two of the favorites here are below normal in this respect. Both Fisherman and Determine are quite small. Smaller than you usually find leaving a Derby post.

Fisherman and Andy Crevolin's horse, Determine, are about as courageous as you will find. I have seen both run and win many races. They may be little but their hearts are big and their legs and feet are fast.

Fisherman doesn't care for the Belmont Chute, but there will be no Triple Crown tests run down this stretch. With his light weight and his general ability, he can handle a turn better than most. Both he and Determine are horses who will run themselves all out to win. More will be known about Correlation after the Wood.

Tribe Tests Tiger Hurlers

Oft-Injured Bush-Leaguer Hopes No. 13 Will Help

ALBUQUERQUE, (AP) — Herb Simpson, who fractured precedent, his skul and his ankle in recent West Texas-New Mexico baseball league seasons, tempts fate this year with a big number 13 on his uniform.

He hopes thereby to play a complete season and win a chance to move up the baseball ladder.

The first Negro player ever to win a regular berth in the Class C league, Simpson holds down first base for the Albuquerque Dukes when he's not nursing injuries.

Simpson joined the Dukes in June, 1952, from Spokane, Wash., of the Western International League. Several Negroes had been given tryouts with other WTNM clubs, but none had stuck.

"I didn't know I was to be the first one," Simpson said. "It certainly was the greatest thrill I ever had."

He said it was a "little rough" in 1952, especially in Texas. But his ability and personality quickly won him popularity with his teammates and the fans.

"I hit a homer in Lubbock one night and after that I didn't have any trouble," he said.

His performance in the league opened the door for other Negroes and more than 20 are expected to see action in regular assignments this year.

Hoosier Wins YMCA Event

Thomas Takes 1,500 Meter Test in National Tourney at Yale

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 22 (AP)—Jay Thomas, Richmond, Ind., YMCA, tonight won the 1,500-meter swimming event which opened the 27th national YMCA swimming and diving championships in the Yale University practice pool.

Thomas, swimming in the final heat, was clocked at 21:12.2. He was tailed closely by George Holtrey of the Huntington, Ind., YMCA who finished in 21:24.8.

Jerry Holtrey placed fifth to give the Huntington team seven points and a tie for first place with Richmond.

Mike Wold of Flushing, N.Y., came in third, Jack Shassere of St.Louis, Mo., was fifth and Joseph Houston of Washington, D.C., was sixth.

My Greatest Shot

Ed. note: This is another in a series of unusually interesting stories about great shots by the nation's outstanding golfers.

By WALLY BURKEMO

Usually, when you talk about greatest shots, you wind up hearing about highly-publicized miracle licks

Mine came in the PGA Championship at Birmingham, Mich., last year and, because of circumstances it got nothing more than normal newspaper space. But, as far as I'm concerned, it was my shot of shots.

It came on the last hole of my quarter-final match with Dave Douglas. I was having a barrelful of trouble with Dave and as we walked out to start the 18th, we were all square.

The 18th is a par 5 of about 515 yards. The hole turns into a downhill affair once you make your drive. At the bottom of the hill, a brook protects the green. The brook is about 20 yards from the green and usually develops into a trrrific temptation for a take-a-chance swinger. It can be carried on the second shot, but more often than not your ball winds up in the brook and you're out of luck.

I drove well and when I got set for my second shot I looked at the brook, thought it over, figured I was likely to be battling Douglas all night if I didn't do something.

I took a 4 wood and hit the ball well. The instant I hit the ball I knew it was going to carry the brook.

But I didn't think it was a shot which would wind up a short foot away from the hole. It did, and I came away with a birdie 3 and a victory, which helped me win the championship.

THURSDAY'S STARS

PITCHING, Luane Pillette, Orioles—turned in a five-hitter to beat Cleveland 4-1.

BATTING, Bob Skinner, Pirates—whacked four straight hits, a double, a triple and two singles, as Pirates beat Giants 7-4.

3-Game Series Should Provide Line on Staff

Garver Named Starter for Today's Contest in Briggs Stadium

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP) — Fred Hutchinson, manager of the Detroit Tigers, should get a pretty good line on his pitching staff — supposedly the club's big weakness — in a three-game series with the Cleveland Indians starting today in Briggs stadium.

Hutchinson's 11-man staff has looked both brilliant and inept in the 1st seven games of the season, four of which were won by the Tigers.

Ned Garver, with a shutout victory to his credit, was scheduled to open the series for the Tigers, to be followed by Steve Gromek Saturday and Billy Hoeft Sunday. Gromek won his 1st two starts with route-going performances while Hoeft lasted only five innings in his lone appearance against the Chicago White Sox.

It must be pointed out that the three victories turned in by Gromek and Garver were against the Baltimore Orioles. Whether they'll continue to sparkle against the Indians, toughest team in the league for the Tigers, remains to be seen.

At any rate, Tigers are in much better shape than at this time a year ago, when they fell into last place with a 1-6 record.

The picture wasn't at all bright then. The fans were booing Art Houtteman, Garver was identified with a trick knee, Gromek was still working for the Indians and Hal Newhouser wasn't sure when he'd be able to pitch.

But that was last year. Houtteman was traded to Cleveland, who gave up Gromek, Garver's knee seems to have healed. And Newhouser is attempting a comeback with the Indians.

It's possible that Prince Hal, who scored 200 victories in 15 seasons with the Tigers will pitch against his old mates in one of the games.

City Archers Hosts to State Bow Test

Pontiac Archery Club will be host to one of the 1st state regional bow meets of the year Sunday at the Pontiac Lake Range. Registration is set for 8 a. m., with shooting getting under way at 10 o'clock.

A new "hunter's round" will be shot Sunday, using black targets with white spots. Carl Palmatier, of Kalamazoo, secretary of the Michigan Archers Association, expected more than 200 bowmen to compete in the event.

60th Annual Penn Relay Carnival Opens

Baltimore Pitching Surprising

BALTIMORE (AP)—The way the Baltimore Oriole pitchers have started out, all the experts were wrong.

Appraisal after appraisal was that if one department was the worst it would be the hurling. It has been the opposite in the first seven games.

The Orioles have been scored on only 18 times, and eight of the runs came in one game. The other six have been pitchers' battles with scores of 0-3, 3-2, 3-1, 0-1, 1-2 and 4-1.

Two of Manager Jimmy Dykes' four starters, Bob Turley and Duane Pillette have gone all the way twice. Joe Coleman went eight and was lifted for a pinch-hitter in his only start and he tries again this afternoon at Chicago.

Pillette has won both times, giving up a total of only 11 hits and three runs. Turley and Coleman lost heartbreakers, the former in a 2-1 game in which he gave up only two hits in the ninth inning and Coleman another 1-0 in which he allowed only three. Turley won his first game, 3-1.

In all, Oriole pitchers have been hit only 47 times. Don Larsen, the other member of Manager Dykes' "big four," has been the victim of 16 and twice a loser although he and Turley were labeled by the experts as the two most likely to shine.

By comparison, the pitching staff of the Cleveland Indians, which drew pre-season raves, has given up eight more runs and six more hits than the Orioles. Yesterday, Mike Garcia and reliefer Art Houtteman couldn't stop them. Virgil Trucks, the White Sox ace, also went down before them.

While the good pitching still left them down among the league trailers with a 3-4 record, encouraging attendance still wasn't good enough to keep pace with the target of last year's Milwaukee record 1,826,397.

The Orioles drew a healthy 130,508 during the five games of their first home stand which ended yesterday. But Milwaukee had 133,771 for the same number at the start of last season.

Michigan Seeks to Defend Two Titles in Meet

'M' Medley Quartet, Nilsson Are Favored in Specialties

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA, (AP)—Michigan of the Big Ten sought to repeat for the third straight year in two championship events today as the 60th annual Penn Relay Carnival opened on Franklin Field.

The Wolverines counted on their crack distance medley relay quartet to outlast a classy field in that test of stamina and speed, and looked for Capt. Roland Nilsson to hurl the discus further than any other competitor for the third consecutive year.

A record breaking 511 colleges, high schools, junior high schools and elementary and parochial schools entered the two day track and field bingo. The Benjamin Franklin Mile Saturday, featuring Murray Halberg of New Zealand and such outstanding American runners as Mal Whitfield, Horace Ashenfelter and Fred Wilt, is the headline event.

In addition to the distance medley and the discus, three other college championships will be settled Friday—the two mile run, 400 meter hurdles and the pentagonal mile. All other major finals will be contested on Saturday and will be televised nationally over the Dumont network.

Josh Culbreath, Morgan State sprint ace, will be the first of a host of defending champions to meet a 1954 challenge. Culbreath and four other fleet hurdlers compete in the program's first event, the 400 meter hurdles. Cornell's Andy Dadagian, runnerup last year; Don Shupe of Syracuse; Lou Jones of Manhattan, and Pitt's Arnold Sowell will answer the gun against Culbreath.

Along with Culbreath and Nilsson, defending speciality champion include LaSalle College's Al Cantello in the javelin; Notre Dame's Jim Harrington, pole vault and Wallace Monahan of Pitt in the 120-yard high hurdles.

NCAA Discusses TV Grid Plans

NEW YORK, April 23 (AP)—The NCAA television committee continued to hear and deliberate on proposals for the 1954 college football television program Thursday without giving any indication as to when a decision would be reached.

The only word from the closed meeting room was that no news release could be expected today. The meeting began Wednesday morning, a day later than originally scheduled, and was to have ended yesterday.

An informed source indicated that at least three major television networks were bidding for the exclusive right to telecast college football on 13 Saturday afternoons next fall and that the financial inducements offered ran even higher than a year ago.

Red Wings and Canadiens Dominate All-NHL Sextet

MONTREAL (AP)—The champion Detroit Red Wings and the Montreal Canadiens, runner-up in the Stanley Cup competition, dominate the National Hockey League's all-star team announced today.

Lumley and Mosdell are newcomers. But for Lindsay it is his fifth straight year as the left winger and the fourth straight for Kelly and Howe. Harvey has made the first team the last three years.

Each member of the first team received $1,000 from the league and those on the second team $500 apiece. The second team is composed of Terry Sawchuk, Detroit, goal; Bill Gadsby, Chicago, defense; Tim Horton, Toronto, defense; Ted Kennedy, Toronto, center; Maurice Richard, Montreal, right wing and Ed Sandford, Boston, left wing.

By BILL MARTIN

Three Pontiac High School spring sports teams are in action on home grounds today.

Chief golfers take on Waterford at the Municipal Course at 3 p.m., track team entertains Royal Oak at Wisner Field at 4 p.m. and the baseball squad plays host to Flint Northern, also at Wisner, at 4:30 p.m. Latter contest was postponed because of rain yesterday.

Track Coach Wally Schlaerke will have the services of sprinter Johnny Williams for the 1st time this spring today. Williams has been sidelined for the past few weeks because of a pulled leg muscle and a burn resulting from accidental contact with a heat lamp.

Williams, regarded as Pontiac's No. 1 dashman, will run the 100 and, if he goes well, the half-mile relay.

This afternoon's test will provide the Chief thinclads with their final dual tuneup before the Central Michigan Relays at Mt. Pleasant on May 1.

Baseball mentor Ed Heikkinen will start Marv Caswell on the mound again today against the defending Saginaw Valley Conference champion Northern nine. Caswell, a right-handed senior, pitched a 2-hitter as Pontiac dumped Cranbrook 8-1 in its opening game last week.

John Maturo's golfers will be seeking their 2nd straight victory of the season against Waterford. Chief Swingers edged Arthur Hill's 1953 Valley champs 8-7 in their opener on Tuesday.

PHS tennis team's match with Cranbrook was rained out yesterday and has been rescheduled for next Thursday.

Washington Students Take 'Booster' Lead

SEATTLE (AP)—The booster division of the 51st annual American Bowling Congress had a new leader today in the open team standings, a 10th place change.

Five University of Washington students, bowling as the Washington Boat Center team, ran up the fifth highest booster total in the history of the ABC as they knocked over 2847 pins yesterday. This gave them a 30-point bulge on the runner-up five and a good chance of keeping title to the throne room for the rest of the tournament.

Boston Club Pads Fences With Rubber

BOSTON, April 22 (AP)—To protect charging outfielders, particularly Jim Piersall, the Boston Red Sox have cushioned their fences and right field bullpen with expensive foam rubber padding. The idea is to prevent injuries.

"I never saw a ball payer who disregarded fences the way Piersall does," said Manager Lou Boudreau. "Why, he looks as though he doesn't know they are there.

The foam rubber is costly but Hedley Osmond, ball park superintendent, said, "Cost means nothing when it comes to the safety of the players."

Last season Tommy Umphlett, now in Washington, crashed into the fence trying to snare a high drive. He suffered a severe scalp laceration.

Woodvale Farm Hopes to Snap 'Jinx' in Derby

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Woodvale Farm looked to Goyamo today to break a Kentucky Derby jinx that goes back to 1941.

Goyamo, with master Eddie Arcaro in the saddle, captured the $38,600 Blue Grass stakes yesterday as Keeneland closed its 11-day meeting. It was the third time the Toledo, Ohio, racing establishment had won the Blue Grass—but the last two winners of Keeneland's top spring racing prize couldn't grab the big derby trophy later at Churchill Downs.

Woodvale, owned by Royce G. Martin, sent out Our Boots to win the 1941 Blue Grass, as the famous Whirlaway from Calumet Farm finished second. Then in the Derby, Whirly won and Our Boots ran eighth. In 1949, Halt won the Blue Grass but Ponder, another Calumeteer, won the Louisville classic.

Arcaro, who has won five derbies — more than any other jockey — brought Goyamo from 12th place to contention in the stretch yesterday, tolling down the middle of the track. Goyamo took the lead about 20 yards from the end of the mile and one eighth event, and pulled away to a length victory.

The Walmac Farm's Hasseyampa was second by a nose, and the Maine Chance Farm's Black Metal finished third by another nose over Sunny Blue Farm's Admiral Porter. The stewards, however, disqualified Black Metal for interference, and placed him fourth, giving third money to Admiral Porter.

Goyamo paid his supporters $5.40, $3.80 and $3.40. He was timed in 1:50 3-5 on a fast track. Woodvale picked up a purse of $24,290.

Actor Sinatra Says He's Not Done Crooning

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Sinatra, the Oscar winner, is playing his most dramatic role to date, but but he says he won't give up crooning.

The wartime flutterer of teen-age hearts is portraying a would-be presidential assassin in a thriller called "Suddenly." He plays a war hero who has learned to kill by wiping out 27 Germans in battle. He is hired by unknown parties to kill an unidentified United States president for the sum of a half-million dollars.

That sounds like a heavy hunk of acting for a guy who used to sit on a bandstand all night. But Sinatra is approaching it with the same confidence that netted him an Academy Award for his Maggio in "From Here to Eternity."

"I don't aim to give u singing," he said. " 'From Here to Eternity' was the greatest thing in the world for me because it opened up a whole new field. I never would would have been offered this role if it hand't been for 'Eternity.' And I never would have been considered for 'Not as a Stranger,' which I will do in the fall.

"But before that, I hope to do a musical with Gene Kelly. I'd love to work with that man again; he's such a great talent. They're sending me a script this week, and I hope we can do it. Comden and Green did the story, which concerns two wartime pals who meet 10 years later and find they have nothing in common.

"The main thing is to have a change of pace. Afellow I admire greatly is Alec Guinness. This man can do anything. I've never met him, but I think he must have a great zest for his work. The reason must be because he does somethin different every time.

"I feel that is the way to make a career last for 20 years or more. At least that's the way I'm happiest."

Eleven and 12 were once written oneteen and twoteen.

Donors Still Sought for Bloodmobile Visit

Some 200 men and women still are needed to give blood when the American Red Cross Bloodmobile visits the First Presbyterian Church Tuesday from 9 a. m. until 3 p. m.

"This is an open, community bank," Mrs. N. E. Durocher, blood recruitment chairman for Pontiac said today. "We're locating it at Wayne and West Huron streets for the convenience of the downtown area."

Mrs. Durocher said donors just aren't calling in for the bank "and it has us worried." Anyone who can give blood Monday is asked to call Mrs. Durocher at FE 5-4244, this weekend or the Oakland County Red Cross offices at FE 4-3575 on Monday.

Use Pre-Stressed Concrete in Edifice

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Engineers are squeezing a four-story, million dollar building to give it greater strength and load-carrying qualities. Scheduled for completion by December, 1954, it is said by the architect-engineers to be the first multi-storied structure in the nation employing pres-tressed concrete.

The big squeeze is done by running quarter-inch steel wires across the width of the beams and along the length of the floor slabs. As the concrete sets these wires are tightened by special jacks, thus squeezing or shrinking the ing or shrinking the concrete and concrete and getting rid of the pull-apart tendency in advance.

The structure, 46 feet wide, the shrinkage will be about one-eigth of an inch.

No One Attends Meeting, but Then, Who Cares?

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP) — The State Fair Board was supposed to meet to open bids on a new coliseum.

None of the board members showed up. Neither did the State Fair manager. No bids were received. And even if there had been bids, board members have said they aren't inclined to build the coliseum at this time.

Scotland Yard Policemen Seldom Carry Firearms

WASHINGTON — It is a firm belief at Scotland Yard, London's police headquarters, that a policeman should not carry a gun.

Neither uniformed police constables nor inspectors of the Yard's Criminal Investigation Department —normally are armed with more than short truncheons. Guns, they feel, would only provoke criminals into carrying them too.

For 125 years Scotland Yard men have just walked in and captured the crooks.

Their law enforcement record probably has made the Yard the world's most famous police station.

Scotland Yard's force was created under Sir Robert Peel in 1829. This year marks the Yard's 125th anniversary.

Peel's men were first dubed "Peelers," and then more familiarly, "Bobbies." The nickname "copper" or "cop" is said to derive from copper buttons worn by Peel's force. Today a "copper's nark" in England means a stool pigeon, or police informer.

Scotland Yard is nothing more or less than the headquarters of the Metropolitan Police of London. Technically its jurisdiction covers only the 734 square miles of greater London, minus one square mile in the middle protected by the City of London Police, the Lord Mayor's men.

If serious crime occurs elsewhere in England, however, the local constable can call for help from Scotland Yard. A "Flying Squad" is always available by simply dialing 999.

A map room keeps track not only of the location of every police car, some disguised as delivery trucks, taxis, or private cars, but also where all major crimes took place over the preceding six months.

Scotland Yard's total force of approximately 16,000 men, including about 1,400 detectives, closely matches the New York Police Department. Its backbone is the dignified, courteous bobby.

His uniform remains much the same as it was in Sir Robert Peel's time. The main change is his distinctive rounded helmet. It took the place of an earlier and even taller beaver tophat.

Scotland Yard's cable address is simply "Handcuffs, London." But like guns, handcuffs are seldom carried by the men from the Yard.

Official Endorsement Means Nothing to 9Bs

DES MOINES (AP) —Toni Tollefson introduced the 9Bs at Callanan Junior High School to a new kind of political campaigning but it didn't pay off.

Toni, daughter of the dean of the Drake University law school, got letters from the county attorney, the police chief, a popular police patrolman and a bank auditor. She used them in her campaign for nomination as student council treasurer.

The gist of the letters was that she had no criminal record and must therefore be a person who could be trusted with council funds. But Toni was unsuccessful in a field of eight candidates.

Living Costs Down for Second Month

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported Thursday that lower food and clothing prices brought the nation's living costs down in March for a second straight month, to the lowest point since last July.

The March decline as shown by the Bureau of Labor Statistics index was two-tenths of 1 per cent. The index sagged to 114.8 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

Between January and March, food and clothing prices averaged four-tenths of 1 per cent lower, with transportation costs declining three-tenths of 1 per cent.

There were slight advances in the cost of rents and such services as medical care, personal care, and reading and recreation.

Active Aircrafts Lead Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The aircrafts were strong and active today in a slightly higher Stock Market.

The feature was Douglas Aircraft, the big performer of previous markets this week. It started on a block of 1,200 shares up 2½ at 124¼ and quickly extended its gain to 3 points. Yesterday the stock was up 5 points and the day before 4¾.

High earnings and increased dividend payments provided the backbone of buying for Douglas.

Other aircrafts jumped ahead as well, including Boeing, United Aircraft and Republic Aviation.

A rush of trading at the start carried prices up major fractions at the best outside of the aircraft division. There were only a few minor losses.

Higher stocks included U. S. Steel, General Motors, American Telephone, International Nickel, Du Pont, American Can, Southern Pacific, Sinclair Oil and International Telephone.

NOTICE OF SALE

SCHOOL DISTRICT BONDS

Sealed bids for the purchase of School District Bonds to be issued by the School District of the City of Pontiac, Oakland County, Michigan, of the par value of $320,000 will be received by the undersigned at the Board of Education offices, No. 40 Patterson Street, in the City of Pontiac, Michigan, until 8:00 o'clock p.m., Eastern Standard Time, on Wednesday, the 5th day of May, 1954, at which time and place said bids will be publicly opened and read.

Said bonds will be dated May 1, 1954, will be coupon bonds each in the denomination of $1,000 or a multiple thereof not exceeding $80,000 at the election of the purchaser, will be numbered consecutively in the direct order of their maturities from 1 upwards and will bear interest from their date at a rate or rates not exceeding 2½% per annum, payable on November 1, 1954 and thereafter semi-annually on May 1 and November 1. Each bid shall state the annual interest rate or rates upon which it is submitted, expressed in multiples of ¼ of 1%. The interest rate for each coupon period on any one bond shall be at one rate only. Accrued interest to date of delivery of such bonds must be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

Said bonds will mature serially $80,000 without option of prior payment, on the first day of November in each of the years, 1954, 1955, 1956 and 1957.

The bonds are to be issued for the purpose of defraying the cost of erecting and equipping 10 additional class rooms to existing school buildings in said school district, and will be the general obligations of the school district which is authorized and required by law to levy upon all the taxable property therein such ad valorem taxes as may be necessary to pay said bonds and the interest thereon, subject to such limitations upon the said taxing power as may result from the provisions of Section 21 of Article X of the Michigan Constitution and the Michigan Property Tax Limitation Act.

For the purpose of awarding the bonds, the interest cost of each bid will be computed by determining, at the rate or rates specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on the bonds from June 1, 1954 to their respective maturities and deducting therefrom any premium. The bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest interest cost to the school district. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the bonds or at a price less than their par value, will be considered.

A certified or cashier's check in the amount of $6,400 drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer of the school district must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder, to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail.

Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of Berry, Stevens & Moorman, attorneys, Detroit, Michigan, approving the legality of the bonds. The cost of said legal opinion and of the printing of the bonds will be paid by the school district. Bonds will be delivered at Detroit, Michigan.

Envelopes containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Bonds."

LOLA B. KING,
Secretary of the Board of Education.
Dated: April 21, 1954.

Car Output to Hit Six-Month High

DETROIT (AP) — Car production this week will hit its highest level since last August, Automotive News reported today.

The trade paper said Chevrolet will turn out 34,300 autos — its most since last June.

Chevrolet's surge will help boost the nation's total to 124,540 units, the paper said. This compares with 118,485 last week.

Chevrolet reportedly will climb to within 1,000 cars — less than two hours' work — behind Ford by the weekend. Thus, Automotive News said, Chevrolet should become the 1954 leader next Monday.

The big three — General Motors, Ford and Chrysler — will account for 96 per cent of the car total this week, the paper said. This compares with 95.8 per cent last week and 87.8 per cent in the like 1953 week.

Great Lakes Steel Tells of New Price Reductions

DETROIT (INS)—Great Lakes Steel, Detroit subsidiary of National Steel Corp., today announced price reductions of five cents per 100 pounds.

The price cut, effective today, was attributed to a competitive situation resulting from the recent reduction of freight rates applying in the areas served by Great Lakes.

KIND OF "CUE"—Hurriedly lacing her dancing shoes while heeding the impatient call of "on stage" is shapely Pauline Goddard. The pert, young miss is a member of TV's "Show of Shows" dance troupe and is frequently featured in solo spots. Pauline has been with the comedy-music-variety show for four years and is considered a valuable asset for obvious reasons.

Alternate Dates to Star Others

Caesar, Coca Planning Individual TV Hours for Next Season

NEW YORK — Comedian Steve Allen has been signed to star in 15 programs next season on TV's Your Show of Shows.

Allen will appear on the 90-minute series approximately every other week, presiding over a comedy-and-music revue, according to plans announced by producer-director Max Liebman.

Your Show of Shows will present 30 programs next season over TV in the same time period it has always had.

On the weeks that Allen is not on the series, Liebman plans to offer independent productions starring name performers. The nature and details of these programs will be announced later.

As the headliner of a revue program, Allen will be presented in a more formal atmosphere than prevailed on his TV programs of the past. The 33-year-old funster has specialized in relaxed, spontaneous types of shows relying on his quick, clever wit to carry the proceedings.

On Your Show of Shows, Liebman plans to exploit other facets of the young comedian's talents, in addition to his already recognized abilities. Allen will perform in comedy sketches, and appear as a singer and dancer in production numbers.

For the finale of each revue, Liebman will employ Allen's talent for repartee by presenting an "Afterpiece" of about 15-minutes duration, in which the comedian and his guest stars will gather for an impromptu gabfest of fun.

The current stars of Your Show of Shows, Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca, are expected to return to TV next season in dindividual shows of their own.

When the present series completes its season on June 5, Caesar and Coca willhveeompletcdet sar and Coca will have completed five years as the reigning stars of one of television's pace-setting programs.

Hal Boyle Says:

117,263 Whales Are Saved by Elimination of Corsets

Ladies will always have problems, but one problem the 20th century took from them was the task of lacing up the old-fashioned corset.

Robert E. Heyn, a brassiere manufacturer, who has been doing some research on this topic, estimates that since the two-way stretch undergarment replaced the corset some 117,263 whales have been spared. He also figures enough structural steel has been salvaged to erect another Empire State Building and provide every 8-year-old child in America with a roller skate.

The brassiere, incidentally, preceded the corset. It was developed by the ladies of Crete and Minoa about 5,000 B. C. . . . As if Marilyn Monroe cared! . . .

The country store really has grown up in America. A wife now can get in an airplane and fly to the scene of her marketing. The cross-county shopping center, a 30-million-dollar development by Sol G. Atlas in Yonkers, has landing facilities for customers who wish to come by helicopter . . . "Junior, fly down to the supermarket and get mother a loaf of bread." . . .

Almanac Science Department: Visitors to the Egyptian pyramids often wonder how these enormous stone blocks could be put into place without the use of modern engineering equipment. Scientists now believe the stones were hauled on rollers up huge ramps of sun-dried brick by swarms of slaves. No one knows the toll in lives it took to build these tombs for pharoahs. . . .

Sophisticated people don't always have sophisticated palates . . . The Ritz Restaurant, now in the Carlton House, has been a rendezvous point for gourmets for decades . . . But Charles Silvani, the maitre de hotel, says that of its hundreds of menu items these are the most popular . . . roast beef, boiled beef, corn beef hash, chicken hash, apple pie and vanilla ice cream . . . They also were the most popular back before the first world war. . . .

Do you let a minor handicap get you down? Then think of Ludwig van Beethoven and quit feeling sorry for yourself. Most people know that Beethoven composed much of his immortal music after he was deaf, but do you know how he did it? He held a wooden stick in his teeth and pressed it against the keyboard of his piano. The sound vibrations carried through his teeth to the bones of his skull and thence to his inner ear. . . .

Almanac long-range weather-forecast: A hot air wave, centering in Washington, will extend over the rest of the country for the next few months, abating with the adjournment of Congress.

Mining Could Boost Korean Economics

SEOUL (AP) — Mining is the major answer to Korea's economic problems, according to a veteran American mining authority, Frank A. Crampton, a technical adviser, estimates in tungsten alone South Korea has a potential production of 100 to 200 million dollars a year.

He says "the surface has been barely scratched" in developing other mineral resources in South Korea. There are large deposits of tin, discovered last May, as well as sizable deposits of graphite, manganese, gold and other minerals, he said.

He cites the production of the San Dong mine, called the largest producer of tungsten in the world. "By the end of this year it can be producing at the rate of 40 million dollars worth of tungsten concentrates annually," Crampton says. "By next year it could be worth 50 to 60 million dollars—and it is only one of South Korea's 40 tungsten mines."

British Textile Firms Form New Association

LONDON (INS) — Leading British textile firms, most of them with brands that are household names, have formed a new association — "The Branded Textiles Group" — to protect their products and the consumer.

The 30 firms involved are those who believe in the value of brand names which implies an obligation on the manufacturer to accept full responsibility for the quality of his products, and protects the consumer from shoddy goods.

The new association is not a trade group. Member firms will remain in competition with each other and there will be no price-fixing. The group will meet to exchange information, particularly on export experiences.

The firms in the association maintain quality controls with tests and inspection, mark their products with laundering instructions, indicate degrees of fastness-to-light and shrink resistance, mark sizes clearly and guarantee performance. The group's products cover the whole range of consumer textiles and clothing, piece goods, underwear, heavier clothing, women's clothes and household textiles.

Yugoslav Priest Finally Outwits Aged Passport

HONG KONG (AP)—When 73-year-old Yugoslav priest, Francis Alexis Benigar, was expelled from China recently he presented a problem to American priest, Paul J. Buchesne, who met him at the Hong Kong border.

There was a bit of difficulty about Father Benigar's ancient passport He went into China 30 years ago and has been there ever since. His Yugoslav passport, issued by King Alexander 1 (1921-34), was so out-of-date and battered the customs guards were suspicious. Suspicion was allayed after lingual detours.

Father Benigar speaks seven languages — Yugoslav, Polish, Russian, German, Chinese Mandarin, Italian and Latin. Father Duchesne speaks four, English, French, Chinese Cantonese (which has no similarity to Chinese Mandarin) and Latin.

The old passport was explained in the language of the Caesars to Duchesne and in English to the border guards.

Sunday School Sermon Fails to Reach Organist

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Donald West, a theological student, told a Sunday School class that their greater happiness was to be found in the simple things of life rather than in the dramatic adventures they saw portrayed on the TV screens.

He cited westerns and detective stories as an example.

As the children filed out of the room the organist began playing. The selection was the theme song from "Dragnet."

Stove Oil Serves as Engine Fuel for Hot Rodders

PORTLAND (AP)—The mystery of the missing stove oil in a Portland residential neighborhood has been solved.

His son, who is a hot rod enthusiast, along with half a dozen others in the neighborhood, complained that his car needed a push to get it started. The engine was sluggish. Soon the parent noticed other jalopies were having similar troubles. He asked the owners if the engine trouble could have any connection with the frequent loss of stove oil from the family tank. It had.

Tanks in the cars hold oil and gasoline. Valves permit them to start with the gasoline. Then when the manifold is hot, they switch to stove oil. And the cars function satisfactorily. Except that ultimately the engines gum up.

McCarran Act in Court Test

U. S., Communist Party Lawyers to Debate Law Before Appeals Bench

WASHINGTON (AP)—The controversial McCarran Internal Security Act, aimed at the Communist party and its fronts within the United States, comes up for court debate today over whether it conflicts with the supreme law of the land.

The U. S. Court of Appeals set aside four hours—almost a full court day—for the clashing arguments of Communist party and government lawyers on the constitutionality of the law.

While the appeals court will have the first say on the issues raised by the party's attorneys, final word will come from the Supreme Court. Both sides have said that if they lose in the lower court the case will be carried to the nation's highest court.

Thus it may be well over four years between passage of the act and the final court ruling. Congress passed the law in late 1950 over former President Truman's veto. Its leading sponsor was Sen. McCarran (D-Nev).

Attorneys for the Communist party, headed by former Rep. Vito Marcantonio (ALP-NY), have asked the Court of Appeals to set aside an order by the Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB) directing the party to register with the Justice Department, list its officers and members and give a financial accounting.

"What repairman?" he shouted and dashed out — too late to retrieve the machine or $55 inside.

Pontiac School Heads to Meet

Day-Long Conference Monday Will Take Up Problems, Plans

Principals of Pontiac Public Schools will meet at Haven Hill lodge near Highland Monday to pick up "loose ends" in school affairs.

Theodore E. Wiersema, Crofoot principal and president of Pontiac Principals' Club, will be chairman for the all-day conference on school plans and problems.

Mapping schedules for starting school next September is the first topic on the day's program. Mrs. Beryl Sherman, LeBaron principal, and Norman Kuijala, principal of Washington Junior High School, will lead discussion starting at 10:15 a.m.

After lunch, principals will sum up the morning's work, discuss the recent all-school conference on ways to help children learn to read better, and plan next fall's "Pre-School Conference."

The September conference helps new teachers get acquainted with the school system and brings returning teachers up-to-date on teaching methods and school affairs.

Dinner and an evening of general talk will close the annual conference.

Program for the Haven Hill meeting was planned by Gerald White, the school system's elementary coordinator; Mrs. Maude Kempf, Willis principal; Mrs. Ruth Wait, Emerson principal; and Francis Staley, principal of Eastern Junior High School.

Planning the "fun" side of Monday's meeting are Mrs. Ann Galbraith, Central School principal; Miss Marietta Spring, McCarroll principal; Miss Adeline Hook, Longfellow principal; Warren Abbott, assistant principal at Washington, and E. C. Russell, the school system's vocational education director.

Three Men Die Instantly in Crash Near Oxford

Probers to Subpoena Data

But Agreement Needs Revision, Mundt Claims

Hearings on McCarthy, Army Resume Monday After 2-Day Recess

WASHINGTON (INS) — Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) said today an agreement to subpoena all documents and monitored telephone calls in the McCarthy-Army dispute is fuzzy and must be redrafted.

Mundt is acting chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee and gavel-pounding arbiter of the dramatic hearings which millions of Americans have watched on television since the inquiry began last Thursday.

He said the motion adopted yesterday — shortly before the investigation recessed for the weekend — could run afoul of the law barring public disclosure of monitored calls without the consent of the parties involved.

Another important development was the decision won by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) to have the Army present some 50 to 100 intercepted talks in chronological order. This was authorized by the resolution offered by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark).

McCarthy objected that the Army's effort to introduce a monitored call between the senator and Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens on Nov. 7 was improper and should be related to other conversations.

The subcommittee then ordered that the calls must be presented in chronological order — a development that could upset the present timetable of the inquiry.

Mundt's announcement added another chapter in the interminable —and times confused — argument yesterday over the admissibility of the McCarthy-Stevens conversation.

The point hinges on an Army charge that McCarthy, as subcommittee chairman, and his aides brought pressure to obtain special favors for Pvt. G. David Schine, their ex-chief consultant who was drafted last November.

McCarthy, his counsel, Roy M. Cohn, and staff director Francis P. Carr, contended that the Army attempted to blackmail them into halting their investigation of communism in the Army. The subcommittee will decide who is lying.

After the smoke cleared, McClellan offered the motion which, Mundt says, must be revised.

It provides that the subcommittee may subpoena "all memoranda, all documents, all notes of moni-

Industrial Pace Gives Business New Optimism

First Quarter Earning Gains Shown by Some Major Corporations

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—Production rates moved higher in several key lines this week. Some industries showed the stimulating effects of reductions made at the beginning of the year in excess profits taxes.

Stockholders found cause for joy in first-quarter earnings reports of several major corporations.

Some examples:

Despite a 37 million-dollar dip in sales, net income of E. I DuPont de Nemours & Co. rose to $1.56 a share from $1.19 a share in the first three months of 1953.

General Electric Co., whose sales also declined, reported the biggest first-quarter earnings in its history —up 42 per cent from a year ago.

These and other fat earnings statements tended to dispel much of the disappointment resulting from less favorable quarterly reports from steel and textile producers.

Corporate expansion plans also contributed to business optimism.

General Electric, said President Ralph Cordiner, will spend a record 175 million dollars this year on new plant and equipment.

In Washington the Commerce Department said cash outlays on plant expansion and modernization this year will be only four per cent under the 1953 record of 24 billion dollars, despite "unprecedented" expenditures the past eight years.

Final reports came in during the week on the 1954 Easter shopping season.

Dun & Bradstreet said most merchants reported Easter business "generally equal" to last year, with customers responding to "aggressive promotion of medium-priced goods."

Automobile production climbed to its highest level in 34 weeks with an estimated output of more than 146,000 cars and trucks. A big factor was the increased tempo of the Chevrolet-Ford production race. Chevvy turned out more than 34,300 cars during the week against Ford's 30,000 and was expected to

All Pronounced Dead at Scene After Collision

Witnesses Say Driver Tried to Pass Truck, Hit Oncoming Car

The dead are Charles Hubble, 38, of 204 Rock Valley Rd., Metamora; Samuel Carmicheal, 31, of 16266 Worden Rd., Holly, and John F. Earl, 42, of 9114 Dixie Hwy., Clarkston, a passenger in Carmicheal's car.

Hubble, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies, was en route to Oxford to pick up his three children from a high school party.

Witnesses told Deputies William Smith and Stephen Hubbell that Carmicheal, a machinist for the Wolverine Tool Co., Holly, attempted to pass a truck on the two-lane highway and rammed head-on into Hubble's car.

Hubble was a farmer and Earl owned his own small refrigerator repair business in Clarkston.

All three were pronounced dead at the scene by Oakland County Deputy Coroner Isaac Prevette. All were killed instantly.

The men were taken to the Mabley Chapel, in Oxford, where funeral arrangements are pending.

Besides his widow, Wilma, Hubble is survived by two daughters, Denise and Mary Kay, and a son, William, all at home. Also surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hubble, of Thomas, a brother and three sisters.

Hollyday Balks at U. S. Charges

Ousted FHA Leader Denies Agency Failed to Protect Owners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Guy T. O. Hollyday, recently ousted as federal housing commissioner, has taken issue with a top Justice Department official's charge that FHA felt no responsibility for protecting home owners from preying repair salesmen.

Hollyday told the Senate Banking Committee yesterday that FHA was "greatly concerned" over the welfare of home owners who use government-insured loans to refurbish their houses.

Warren Olney III, an assistant attorney general in charge of criminal prosecutions, had testified earlier in the day that FHA did not regard itself as a public service agency and that its officials "frequently described themselves as being in partnership with lenders and promoters."

Furthermore, said Olney, "they think they have no responsibility for victims of these swindles . . . that they can wash their hands of all the responsibilities as long as the government's financial liability is protected."

Hollyday's White House-requested resignation nearly two weeks ago was accompanied by allegations of widespread irregularities in the FHA's program of insuring loans for home repair and charges that some apartment house builders pocketed many millions of dollars by obtaining government-guaranteed loans bigger than their construction costs. Hollyday himself was not accused of wrong doing, but rather of failing to act vigorously enough against the reported abuses.

Polio Tests Start Monday

Lack of Volunteers to Cut Vaccine Program in Half

Public health officers prepared today to launch Oakland County's Salk polio vaccination program, reduced an estimated 50 per cent by the wrangle over the vaccine's safeness.

The tests are scheduled to start in the county Monday and in Pontiac Tuesday if the vaccine wins final approval of a committee of research scientists.

Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner, said he will release the vaccine to Oakland and 10 other counties when the green light is flashed from Washington, D. C.

The committee is expected to rule on it today or Sunday.

The health commissioner said the program would get off to a slow start, with only 1,300 inoculations scheduled Monday. About 425 would be in Oakland County.

He said the state already has enough vaccine on hand to inoculate 17,000 children, and an even bigger batch is expected to arrive Sunday.

Dr. Heustis said he didn't know how much the entire program has been reduced by the vaccine dispute, but Oakland County health authorities said the program here probably has been cut in half.

They said their earlier estimate of 30,000 inoculations now has been reduced to about 15,000.

The shots will be given to first, second and third grade students only upon consent of their parents.

Authorities said many parents are reluctant to agree to the tests due to the vaccine dispute. But more approvals are expected if the vaccine is okayed by the national committee.

Locally, the program has the approval of the Oakland County Medical Society and the County Health Department.

Oakland County's program is scheduled to start Monday at Clarkston Village School, Bertha Baker School in the Huron Valley District, and Novi, Novi Stone and Chapman Schools.

Tuesday the tests will move to Pontiac.

General Fishing Season Is Off to Slow Start

The 1954 general fishing season got off to a slow start today, due to near-freezing temperatures early this morning.

Temperature stood at 37 degrees at sunup today, holding the usually large number of pre-dawn dawn outings to a minimum. Thermometer climbed to the 50's by 9 a.m., however, and the lakes began to be dotted with eager anglers.

Seasons opened today for all species of trout, pike, muskellunge, white bass and panfish. Fishermen seeking black bass will have to wait until June 19, when that species becomes legal.

Damp Weekend Is Forecast Here

A damp weekend is forecast for the Pontiac area, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau, with mostly cloudy skies and scattered showers tonight and Sunday.

A low of 50 to 54 degrees tonight is expected to rise tomorrow to a high of from 56 to 60.

Yesterday's fair but cool weather sent the temperature from a low of 35 to a high of 54 degrees in the Pontiac area.

The reading at 8 a.m. today was 44, but by 2 p. m. in downtown Pontiac the mercury registered 65 degrees.

Soviet Vacating Australian Post

Russia Ends Diplomatic Relations Over Petrov Asylum Case

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Members of the Soviet Embassy staff were busy heaping documents on a huge bonfire today as they packed to leave the country.

They were being recalled with their chief, Ambassador Nikolai E. Generalov, as the Soviet Union broke off diplomatic relations with Australia over the case of Vladimir Petrov.

Petrov and his wife were in hiding under careful Australian guard as political refugees. The fugitive third secretary of the embassy who turned over masses of documents purporting to lead to a big Soviet spy ring in Australia had been granted political asylum. His wife, rescued from armed Soviet agents trying to take her back to Moscow after Petrov's defection, also had been granted asylum.

In a note handed yesterday to Australian Charge d'Affaires Brian Hill in Moscow, the Russians accused Australia's government of a "large-scale campaign

Dog Kills Deer in Berry Patch Saving Mistress

ALPENA, Mich., (AP) — Ripping fangs won a battle to the death over slashing hooves and horns—and likely saved Mrs. Julius Kozdron serious injury or her life.

Brownie, the woman's 60-pound Collie dog, fought it out yesterday with an enraged 85-pound buck deer that charged Mrs. Kozdron in her strawberry patch at nearby Spratt.

The commotion attracted neighbors who arrived in time to see Brownie finally leap to the buck's throat and snap his powerful jaws shut. The deer slowly toppled and died.

Government Agents 'Tail' Oppenheimers Constantly

By JACK LOTTO

TRENTON, N. J. (INS)—I found and dined and chatted with Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer for three and a half hours Friday night under the watchful eyes of two mystery men who followed his every move.

The whereabouts of the world-famous scientist who built the first atomic bomb had been cloaked in mystery since the Atomic Energy Commission announced his suspension April 12 on charges of being a security risk.

Oppenheimer, 50, and his wife, Kitty, invited me into their private compartment aboard a speeding train from Washington when they discovered my presence.

Flanking the door to the compartment the two "tails" sat. They gave me the once-over as I went inside the room. When we went to the dining car for dinner one of the two husky men followed and took the seat directly in back of mine.

As we returned to the parlor car, we found the other "shadow" waiting at the end of the train section. He preceded us to the Oppenheimer room and continued on to his seat, swiveling it around to watch us.

The two individuals made no attempt to hide the fact they had the Oppenheimers under surveillance but the scientist and his wife indicated they did not know them.

The "shadows" dogged the footsteps of the couple even when they went to the rest room or into the club car to order a drink.

The youthful-looking nuclear physicist was friendly, in good spirits and talkative on a wide variety of subjects — except his case.

French Recover Part of Airstrip

Counterattack Manages to Gain Elbow Room for New Defense Line

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — The French hurled powerful counterattacks today at the Communist-led Vietminh in the vital northwest corner outpost the rebels had newly captured in their drive to the heart of Dien Bien Phu.

A French Army spokesman said the defenders of the fortress had not succeeded in dislodging the deeply entrenched rebels from their grip on the whole northern half of the fortress' main airstrip.

But he said the counterattack had given the French some added breathing space in which to establish a new defense line of trenches and fortifications.

Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries, heroic commander of the bitterly contested fortress, launched his counterassaults in an effort to snatch back the outpost captured yesterday by the Vietminh in a day of furious hand-to-hand fighting.

But the Vietminh threw in overwhelming numbers of troops and De Castries was forced to call back the main body of his forces to the heart of the fortress.

New Jobless Claims Drop 65,100 in Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department says initial claims for unemployment insurance dropped by 65,100 during the week ended April 17. The total for the week stood at 322,800.

The Department's Bureau of Employment Security yesterday attributed the drop in part to a seasonal increase in jobs and partly to the fact that many workers acquired new benefit rights earlier in the month and filed their claims at that time.

The department said unemployment among insured workers totaled 2,150,500 for the week ended April 10. This compared with 2,147,200 in the week previous.

Nab 3 Women During Breakin

Youths' Tip Leads Police to Trio in South Side Restaurant

Three young women were nabbed last night in the act of burglarizing a S. Sanford street restaurant, according to Pontiac Police.

The trio, Charlotte May Guinther, 27, of 77 Douglas St., Martha Holsworth, 21, and Claudine Carter, 18, both of 605½ S. Paddock St., are being held pending issuance of a warrant charging breaking and entering in the nighttime.

Acting on a tip from three neighborhood youths living nearby, police discovered the trio about midnight in the act of burglarizing Cosy's Grill at 490 S. Sanford. They broke in through a rear door, police charge.

Miss Holsworth told police that they planned the breakin for thrills. But Lt. Walter C. Krause said he plans to question the women in connection with 100 breakins here during the past two months.

Courts, Police Promise Jail for Speeding Hot-Rodders

By ARNOLD S. HIRSCH & WILLIAM H. THOMAS

Hot-rodders who race two abreast on Northwestern highway at speeds up to 100 miles an hour are the target of a new crackdown by State Police and Farmington Justice Allen C. Ingle.

Eighteen already have been arrested and 11 were sentenced to Oakland County Jail to terms ranging from 9 to 30 days.

"Last year we used heavy fines, but it didn't work," Ingle said. "We are going to keep jailing them . . . and I expect it to stop within a few weeks."

Sgt. Henry Kozowicz, of the Redford State Police Post, said the hot-rodders use Northwestern —"between 8 and 10-Mile roads, but mostly between 9 and 10-Mile—" as a "drag strip," or raceway.

"They have friends with stop watches every quarter mile to time the cars," he said.

"We're doing our best to discourage it," he said. "I'm afraid somebody is going to be killed."

Justice Ingle said the cars race down the road "two at a time, taking up the whole highway." He described the cars as "going 90 and 100 m.p.h. and cutting in and out of traffic."

Officials said the cars belong to some 400 members of Detroit and Wayne County hot-rod clubs.

They said the youths—mostly between 17 and 21 years old — congregate at a drive-in restaurant at Northwestern and 9-Mile after club meetings and use the divided highway as a racetrack for hours.

State Police have two and three cars patrolling on club nights. The hot-rodders seem most active on Tuesday nights, officials said.

In order to nab the speeding racers, Sgt. Kozowicz said, one police car often is forced to radio ahead to another to stop the speeders.

Explaining the new policy more fully, Ingle said:

"Last year we tried using heavy fines, but it didn't do too much good . . . It was nothing for violators to pull $50 and $100 bills from their pockets. Money doesn't seem to mean much to them.

"From now on, anyone caught reckless driving is going to get 30 days whether it is a first offense or a fourth."

He said 18 of the hot-rodders have been arrested since April 1.

Some of the 11 jailed were also fined up to $35. Several have appealed their convictions.

Meanwhile, the Oakland County

City Puts 'Residents-Only' Tag on Springdale Park to Ease Golfing Congestion

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — Membership cards have been added to the card cases of 225 local residents so far for use of Springdale Park's golfing facilities, Supt. Robert Fauteck said yesterday.

The "for-residents-only" tag was placed on the city-owned park this year to relieve overcrowded conditions.

League play on the nine-hole golf course will start May 11, Fauteck said, "We're interested in getting as many people as possible" on the two-man teams, Fauteck added. "The leagues last year were very successful."

Women's teams play at 9 a.m. with the men teeing off at 5 p.m. Fauteck said anyone interested should contact him or any of the attendants at the park.

Springdale also boasts a tennis court and picnic area.

Local Planning Board officials meeting this week with Bloomfield Township and Village planners and the Township Board, spoke out against the extension of West Lincoln avenue for use as a through street.

Representatives of the Garling Construction Co., which plans a 565-home development of the Mercier farm property bounded by Maple, Lahser, Cranbrook and 14 Mile roads, said the Oakland County Road Commission favors the move.

James Spencer, chairman of the local board, told the group the Planning Board will send the road commission its reasons against the desirability.

City Planning Director Robert Boatman listed as a few of the objections: an increase of the existing traffic overload on Lincoln; opening another long "half-mile" arterial street (Lincoln is half-way between 14 and 15 Mile roads) in an area already settled; and subjecting Birmingham High School to additional through traffic.

The board favors opening 14 Mile road, which would adequately serve the area, Boatman said.

A refresher course and training for new volunteers will be held all next week for the Junior League-sponsored vision screening program May 3 and 4 at the Community House.

Working in cooperation with the National Society for Prevention of Blindness and the vision section of the State Health Department, the league will test at no charge, all local children from 3 through 5 years of age from 9:30 a. m.—4:30 p. m. No appointment is necessary.

The sponsors are especially anxious to test 4-year-olds, so that any defect can be corrected before school is started. Some 1,400 youngsters have been screened since the first tests in 1952, with the result that about 10 per cent failed the test. Most of them have since received treatment.

Two Agents Shadow Oppenheimer, Wife

He asked many questions about the hearings, explaining:

"I didn't have the time to follow it too much because I didn't have the time to devote to it."

The scientist apparently was returning to his Princeton, N. J., home after testifying at the secret inquiry into his case being conducted by a special security panel.

When Oppenheimer's suspension was disclosed, McCarthy declared that the action was "long overdue and should have been taken years ago." The Wisconsin Republican claimed he had affidavits showing that Oppenheimer had been a Communist Party member.

I asked him if he thought McCarthy was in any way related to the charges against him being heard by the three-man panel.

A smile broke over his face. Puffing reflectively on his pipe, Oppenheimer replied:

"I wish I could talk. I can't discuss any aspect of my proceeding. I agreed not to do so until the conclusion of the case."

"How long do you think it (the Army-McCarthy hearings) will last?" he inquired when he learned I was covering them.

After dinner, the lean scientist quipped "You saw what my wife ate . . . that's not classified. We can talk about that."

Looking over the menu he had expressed the opinion he would "like to have a salisbury steak."

"Robert, that's too expensive." It cost $2.25.

He settled on a Welsh rabbit dinner, and in placing the order told the waiter: "You won't have much luck catching one in this rainy weather."

He saved a dime on his second choice.

He repeatedly apologized that he could not talk about the case while it was pending and even extended it to include the reaction of people who wrote to him about his suspension on President Eisenhower's order.

Oppenheimer and his wife said they were anxious to get home to see their two young children, Katherine and Peter, because they have been away "for some time."

The scientist did disclose one "secret."

He laughingly "confessed" he was often mistaken for and received letters addressed to mystery writer E. Phillips Oppenheim.

Probers to Redraft Subpoena Motion

tored conversations" that are relevant to the inquiry.

McCarthy promptly hailed the resolution as an excellent development but he insisted that the group should get all records in the case since his own investigation got underway.

He said "everything we have, we have made available" and added that the unit is competent to judge the relevance of all material.

McCarthy, meanwhile, went to Milwaukee, Wis. today to deliver two speeches. He plans to return to Washington Sunday and prepare for the hearing at 10:30 a.m. EDT Monday.

The Army's counsel, Joseph N. Welch, agreed yesterday that monitored calls can be offered as evidence, if the subcommittee orders it.

But Mundt and the group's special counsel, Ray H. Jenkins, questioned whether such a course can be followed without the consent of both parties.

Welch said the Army would turn over all of its records to the subcommittee. McCarthy, however, demanded that the data date back to the inception of his own inquiry.

This colloquy led to McClellan's motion and Mundt's later qualification. Mundt said he doesn't expect the issue will delay the hearings and indicated the problem is one of clarification. He added:

"We will have to read the motion very carefully in executive session. Everyone wants the information in. We have to see that it is legal so that if it goes to the courts it will not be invalidated."

The session yesterday was highlighted by the testimony of John J. Lucas Jr., Stevens' appointment clerk, who admitted he "left out a few words," but not by intention or order, when he typed up the Stevens-McCarthy call which he had monitored.

Stevens testified earlier that McCarthy call which he had monitored.

Stevens testified earlier that McCarthy had complained in the talk that Cohn "thinks Dave (Schine) ought to be a general and operate from the penthouse in the Waldorf-Astoria" hotel in New York."

Stevens said the transcription would show that McCarthy also asked him to arrange several weekend passes for Schine" . . : perhaps for the purpose of taking care of Dave's girl friends."

Both Lucas and Welch maintained that the notes substantially reproduced the conversation, but Jenkins and McCarthy claimed the account should be discredited as evidence.

After further wrangling, the subcommittee asked McCarthy if he would consent to have the document read into the record.

McCarthy flatly refused and said he would not agree unless "all of the calls" transcribed by the Army during his investigation were accepted. Welch, however, said he was willing to submit all Army records.

overtake Ford's 1954 lead by May 1. Buick and Oldsmobile also shifted into high gear, each turning out more than 10,000 units.

The steel industry, Iron Age declared however, "still lacks the zip needed to start a significant upward movement."

With the mills operating at 68 per cent of capacity, scheduled steel production was up 12,000 tons from the previous week's output of 1,622,000.

Electric power output in the week ended April 17 (8,345,000,000 kilowatt hours) showed the smallest year-to-year increase of any week this year.

A slight but significant improvement in the job situation was reported in several key industrial sectors.

And there was good news about jobs for the 1954 crop of college graduates.

The Family Economics Bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. said early spring employment demand for June grads is "fully as heavy" as last year, and starting salaries are higher, ranging up to $400 a month for fledgling engineers.

Graham Pushes London Crusade

Evangelist's Voice Still Strong After 8 Weeks of Speaking

LONDON (UP)—illy Graham, the American evangelist, ended the eighth week of his London crusade tonight with his voice still strong after speaking at more than 70 revival meetings.

Graham has four more weeks to go at Harringay Arena before winding up his religious crusade in England with a rally at Wembly Olympic Stadium May 22. Some 100,000 are expected.

After two days rest, Graham will move across the channel to France and a rally May 25 at Paris Chaillot Palace. From then until June 16 he will tour U. S. military bases in France and Germany.

He will then tour Scandinavia, with rallies in Helsinki's Olympic Stadium June 16-17, in Stockholm's Sports Stadium June 19-20, and in Copenhagen June 21.

He will speak in Berlin's Olympic Stadium June 27.

Graham's European tour will end July 1.

Graham's series of evangelical rallies—sometimes three or four a day—are made possible for him physically because he uses a pencil-type microphone on his tie. The engineer handles the volume and Graham speaks in a modulated tone.

Graham spoke today between the halves at a football game at Chelsea attended by about 50,000. He also had two rallies at Harringway, attended by a total of about 25,000.

Graham speaks extemporaneously from a brief outline he prepares. He has a different sermon for every rally.

Retired Tool Maker Dies

Rita, Governess Deny Neglect

Answer Charge That Actress' 2 Youngsters Were Mistreated

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UP) — Attorneys for Rita Hayworth and her secretary-governess, Mrs. Dorothy Chambers, vigorously deny charges the actress' two children were neglected and mistreated.

The Westchester County Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children yesterday charged in Children's Court that Miss Hayworth's two little girls—Rebecca Welles, 8, and Yasmin Khan, 4 years old—were being neglected.

The proceedings in Children's Court, with Judge Gordon W. Smyth presiding, were behind closed doors, as is customary in such cases. Specific details of the accusations were not disclosed, but it was understood that the complaint originated with a neighbor.

The youngsters first were placed under protective court custody but later left in Mrs. Chambers' care pending a hearing next Tuesday. It was not known whether the hearing would require the presence of the children.

In New York Bartley Crum, Miss Hayworth's lawyer, termed the neglect complaint "not only ridiculous but cruel."

A Children's Society spokesmen refused to identify the complainant or give details.

Miss Hayworth and Haymes were married last Sept. 24 at Las Vegas, Nev.

The federal government has ordered Haymes deported to his native Argentina. Authorities say Haymes reentered this country illegally after a visit to Hawaii to see Miss Hayworth. They further contend that the singer's rights to U.S. citizenship were forfeited during World War II when he obtained draft exemption as a neutral alien.

Road Commission is planning to sink posts around the drive-in restaurant "so the cars can't pull out six and eight at a time."

"I plan to submit a sketch to the Commission Monday," said Robert Osgood, road commission engineer.

"The idea is to prevent a whole group taking off at once. The posts will make a definite entrance and exit," he said.

The owners of the restaurant are in agreement with the plan, he said. The posts will be on county property.

Ingle said complaints from residents along the stretch of highway in Southfield Township have poured into his office and into the State Police Post.

"The people are very angry about the hot rodders," Ingle said. "I've had complaints and the people in that area tell their complaints to police officers whenever they have a chance."

"We're going to do all we can to break this up," he declared. "We'll have our men posted down there next Tuesday from 6 o'clock on!"

Justice Ingle said he has handled the legal side of the crackdown as Farmington is near Southfield Township and maintains a full-time court.

He said the cars involved range from 1939s to new models.

Most of the youths come from the Mackenzie High School area of Detroit, he added.

Suggests Resin as Cause of Windshield Pits

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UP)—Maybe resin in the air is causing the windshield blight, a researcher said today.

Ernest E. Johnson, general manager of an engineering laboratory at the General Electric plant here, said experiments had shown that a drop of resin allowed to stand on windshield glass overnight at room temperature could cause a pit in the glass.

Resin particles are sometimes found in the atmosphere, particularly in industrial areas, and may condense and fall earthward as droplets, Johnson said.

Resin is used chiefly in the manufacture of varnishes, glue, soap and medicines.

Johnson said he had no idea why there would be such widespread pock-marking of windshields by resin at this particular time, unless perhaps someone had sprayed resin into the air. He said he had hit upon resin as a possibility because he recalled that glue had been used to make frosted glass. The glue pulls out particles of glass and produces the frosted effect.

24 Governors Urged to Back Safety Drive

WASHINGTON (INS)—Governors from 24 states will be urged Wednesday to sign a declaration in support of the "slow down and live" program to be conducted in their states from Memorial Day to Labor Day.

The program has been described as "the greatest single concentration on a specific traffic safety theme in the history of the highway safety movement."

Governors attending the Washington breakfast meeting sponsored by the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission are from 11 northeastern and 13 southern states.

They will be in Washington with governors from other states and territories for the second governors' conference held in the capital since President Eisenhower took office. The conference opens with a White House dinner Monday night and concludes Wednesday afternoon.

It demanded that Hill, top-ranking Australian envoy to the Kremlin, leave with the five-member embassy staff immediately. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told Hill the Russians wanted the staff moved out in two or three days.

At the same time the Russians recalled Ambassador Nikolai E. Generalov from Australia and announced the embassy there would be closed.

Moscow Radio's announcement of the note was the first the Soviet public had been told of the Petrov case.

It came just before the opening Monday of the Geneva Conference on the Far East, at which Russia and Australia will be represented.

Gromyko had read the contents of the note to Hill in Russian and then they were translated. After Hill's call to the Soviet foreign office, he said: "It is not easy to vacate an embassy at such short notice. It is going to be very difficult for me."

The Australian diplomat immediately informed British Ambassador Sir William Hayter, who is expected to take over responsibility for Australian affairs in the Soviet Union.

Phone Booth to Be Used as Music Room

LONDON (INS) — A 60-year-old London janitor and music lover is buying a telephone booth so he can learn to play the accordion without shattering anyone's nerves.

Explaining that a janitor with a taste for music has to be careful, Harry Mills said that once he gets his booth "I shall be able to play to my heart's content and I shan't bother anybody."

Mills said he had written to the post office, which runs Britain's telephone system, asking about the possibilities of purchasing a used soundproofed 'phone booth.' He was told he could have one for $28.

He plans to insfall it in a spare bedroom of his basement apartment.

"I've got a lot of scaling to do," he said. "Nobody likes to listen to scales."

Especially Mrs. Mills. She is an accomplished pianist and has encouraged her husband. Not to learn the accordion. To buy the 'phone booth.'

Once he gets his new "music room" set up, Mills will have only one remaining problem. He won't be able to play anything requiring a full stretch.

Lucrative to Custer Park

PIERRE, S. D. (UP) — Buffalo and elk are proving more lucrative to South Dakota's Custer State Park than tourists.

The park slaughters surplus buffalo and elk and sells the meat at a cut-rate price of about 40 cents a pound.

Man Arraigned in Auto Finance Ring Inquiry

DETROIT (UP) — Eugene Ayotte, 30, pleaded innocent yesterday to charges of conspiracy to defraud. He was the fifth man arraigned on a warrant in an investigation of an interstate auto finance ring.

Returned from Los Angeles, Ayotte was released by Recorder's Judge Joseph A. Gillis on $1,000 bond to await examination next Tuesday.

Ralph E. Garber, chief assistant prosecutor, said that Ayotte told him in a formal statement that Connecticut dealers paid him $100 to $150 apiece for 61 vehicles he delivered to them.

2 Fined for Gambling

Henry Schultz of 623 W. Forest St., Detroit, and Steve Kostakos of 683 E. Ferris St., Highland Park, were each assessed $250 costs today for violation of gambling laws by Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty. The pair pleaded guilty April 12 and has been free on $1,000 bond.

It's easy to see why Mrs. George Greenlee is busy. She's a Sunday School teacher, a treasurer of a hospital auxiliary, a member of a mother's club, and an active farm bureau worker. It all comes under the heading of fun for her, as does cooking with her electric range. You eat awfully well . . . work less . . . when you cook electrically.

When it comes to cooking, your best friend is a modern electric range. It's especially handy when you have other things to do . . . the oven goes on and off automatically . . . you simply snap a switch for the exact heat needed. Why wait? Change to carefree electric cooking now.

Remember the Big Issue

During all this hubbub about McCarthy it is well to remember that the big issue is not McCarthy. It is exposing Communists and Communist sympathizers in our Government and driving them out of the Government.

If those who criticize McCarthy will work half as hard to keep the real goal in front of their hearers, all will be well. Unfortunately, many who fight McCarthy seem to take little interest in aiding in the fight against Communists in this country.

Some fuzzy thinkers go even further. There is a well organized effort to make unpopular any effort to expose Communists here. To do this the aim is to make McCarthy and his methods the issue.

Let's keep our minds clear and our eyes on the main issue.

Comics and Delinquency

What relationship exists between so called comic books and juvenile delinquency?

That is what Sen. Hendrickson's subcommittee wants to find out in its New York City hearings. The inquiry is the direct result of growing public concern over the effect on juvenile behavior of lurid crime comics. This concern isn't new. It manifested itself as early as 15 years ago.

Sen. Hendrickson said the subcommittee is not the least bit interested in the Donald Duck type of comic book. Its target is the "so called horror and crime variety which has disturbed literally millions of parents throughout the Nation."

Continuing, the Senator pointed out that between 70 and 100,000,000 comic books are sold monthly and that New York is the heart of the industry. In 1952 the Gathings Committee found an "incredible volume" of filthy literature on sale, including the flagrantly misnamed comics.

There is some doubt among experts on delinquency about the relationship between comics and youthful crime. But censorship isn't the answer. That publicity may be is indicated by the success of a campaign conducted by the Hartford, Connecticut, Courant.

Aroused by the murder of an 11-year old girl, the Courant investigated neighborhood juveniles' reading matter and the findings shocked parents into action. Public meetings were held, committees formed and druggists and newsstand operators sent offending material back to the distributors.

No Recognition for China

Anyone fearing that U. S. objections to U. N. membership for Red China might weaken, can find strong reassurance in an address by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Speaking at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press, our chief delegate to U. N. made it abundantly clear that no such change of policy is contemplated. Instead, he again indicated Mao Tse-tung's government as an aggressor in Korea and Indochina and branded it unfit for membership in the world's peace body.

Mr. Lodge made his reassurance doubly reassuring by saying that the United States would resist any maneuver by Peiping "or its advocates" to win such membership by bribery.

Much of the significance of his address results from its timing. Inasmuch as he spoke only a few days before the opening of the Geneva conference, it is reasonable to assume that his remarks reflect Administration policy.

It should be noted, too, that his indictment not only covered aggressions in Indochina and Korea, but actions in Tibet, Malaya and elsewhere in Southeastern Asia. He also listed Red China's mistreatment of American prisoners of war and of their own captive subjects.

All this should end fear on this side of the Iron Curtain and hope on the other that the U. S. can be induced at Geneva to recognize Red China and help get it into U. N.

Tribute to Ike

Roger Kyes used a homely illustration recently in paying a tribute to the leadership of President Eisenhower. He was addressing a meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

He made the point that the President is not a politician, but that he is an idealist who is exerting all his energy to do what he believes is best for the country. Kyes urged support of the President on that ground.

"Remember the hay wagon out on the farm," he said. "It is inevitable that a few wisps of hay will fall off onto the ground. Some people today are inclined to just go round kicking up these wisps that are dropped. The big thing to remember is the big load that is going into the barn."

Politicos See Leonard and Cleary Running Ahead

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING (AP)—As they come under the wire, it is Leonard and Cleary neck and neck, Brake well up, Keyes back and Higgins trailing.

That is the way political fans in stands regard the race for the Republican nomination for governor at this early stage.

These estimates are based on the five candidates' initial positions as the campaign starts and their early organizational efforts.

The professional politicians around the Capitol reportedly discounted Donald S. Leonard, Detroit police commissioner, before he entered the race, despite the strong second place showing he made two years ago in the same race and despite his sensational last quarter drive then.

But in recent days, there have been indications and hints that Leonard is coming down the front stretch with considerable strength. Possibly it is just a holdover from 1952, but it appears to be there, just the same.

This estimate seems to be based not so much on organizational strength at this stage, but upon Leonard's basic appeal as a young, good-looking, aggressive campaigner with more than the usal gift of gab.

Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary's front-running position is credited to his control of the important Department of State political machine, his widespread acquaintance throughout the party resulting from his former chairmanship of the party and his initial strong organizational moves.

Cleary reportedly is not making the mistake of his predecessor, Fred M. Alger Jr., who failed to make use of the far-flung branch and fee office of the Department of State. This has always been a powerful lever in any campaign and all indications are that Cleary intends to use it to the utmost.

The case of State Treasurer D. Hale Brake is the anomoly of the current day politics. He was first at the wire by many weeks, he has been campaigning vigorously and he has a solid bloc of county and township officials at his back.

Brake's problem, it appears, is the same as that of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft in 1952.

Brake resembles Taft in local stature and ability so much that he has become "Mr. Republican" to Michigan as Taft was to the nation. But Taft was shelved by some of his strongest admirers because they feared he couldn't win.

Brake is having to combat that same fear. Many local Republican leaders who would like Brake for governor reportedly hesitate to back him because they fear he cannot beat Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

They want a "glamour boy," they say, to match Williams and they turn their face sadly away from Brake. His only hope, it appears, is to convince them that he can be a successful "contrast candidate"—the experienced, able, older head who can talk sensibly to the voters.

Former Lt. Gov. Eugene C. Keyes of Dearborn the peripatetic little doctor, lawyer and dentist, is counting on the fact that he always has been good for about 100,000 votes in any election. He thinks that in a crowded field, with a possibly light primary vote, he might slip through to victory.

To date, however, he has not shown the strength to come down the final stretch in front.

Politicians are mindful that primaries in other states have been light and think a similar Michigan vote might favor Brake, especially.

State Sen. George N. Higgins of Ferndale, right now, is not counted among the leaders and most observers think he cannot crowd his way up there in this field.

There is a strong belief that Higgins himself will come to the same conclusion before spring ends and drop out in favor of some one else, probably Cleary. Higgins, it is said, is not willing to waste the money of his backers on a lost cause.

Applaud City Commission for Removing Last Barrier to Short-Termed Parking

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

The city fathers are to be commended for their action which finally secures much needed short-term parking facilities for Pontiac.

The people of Pontiac and surrounding communities have long been forced to pay the full price for all-day parking, although they may have had only one or two purchases to make.

Pontiac is the last major city in Michigan to give its citizens the parking facilities they deserve and have a right to demand.

Now that a beginning has been made, it is to be hoped that other, strategically located short-term parking lots will be established in the near future.

Grateful Shopper

At long last, Pontiac is about to realize what heretofore has been just a dream — short-term parking! I believe that every member of our community has been outraged when he has been forced to pay for a full day's parking, even though he might need to park for only a few minutes.

The City Commission should be applauded for its action in removing the last barrier to short-term parking. Very shortly we shall be able to park conveniently on a hard surfaced lot — at only five cents an hour.

Let the critics, if there be any, contemplate the cost to our citizens who, by the hundreds every day, are paying the price for all-day parking, although their stay is for but a brief period.

Reader Says Again Nero Fiddles as Rome Burns

When placed over against the horrible background of our days, this McCarthy-Army show now appearing on television is a disgrace to America. A fleet of American planes is carrying French troops to Indochina.

India has forbidden their crossing that land, a prohibition well within her rights. We would not allow Russian planes to carry Viet troops across our country. What is Russia going to do about it? Who knows?

Our leaders are saying that, in case of a bomb attack upon one of our big cities, we could figure on a million dead for every bomb. Our only hope would be quick evacuation of the city—an impossible feat.

Magazine articles tell us that we can easily make cobalt bombs by putting a sheath of cobalt around a hydrogen bomb and that a big cobolt bomb exploded a thousand miles out in the Pacific could destroy all life in the United States within five days.

Jewish People to Offer Memorial Prayers on Yizkor, Last Day of Passover Season

By REV. HOWARD V. HARPER

April 25, the eighth day of the festive Passover season, is the day of Yizkor, that is, memorials for the dead, which are said at the morning synagogue services.

Jews who are unable to attend services tomorrow are permitted to recite the memorial prayers at home.

An interesting feature of Passover is that it is kept, by decree of the rabbis, seven days in Israel and eight days in all other lands. With this eighth day the Passover comes to an end everywhere.

The last restriction on the eating of unleavened bread ends when the stars appear Sunday evening, and the joyous "feast of freedom," commemorating the Jews' deliverance from slavery in ancient Egypt, is officially concluded.

The Sunday after Easter, called Low Sunday because of its contrast with the great high feast of a week ago, was once known as White Sunday, which was exactly the wrong name for it. All the new Christians who had spent the Lenten season preparing for baptism at Easter had been wearing white robes.

They were baptized in these robes and continued to wear them until the Sunday after Easter. It would have been accurate to call this day un-white Sunday.

There are many legends about St. Mark, the youngster who was a devoted followed of St. Peter and who is credited with having written the Gospel that bears his name. Some say that St. Peter really wrote this New Testament book, and that all Mark did was to take it down as Peter dictated it.

In the North of England they used to believe that if you sat on the steps of any St. Mark's Church between the hours of 11 and 1 on St. Mark's Eve you would see passing before you the ghosts of all who were destined to die during the next twelve months.

In Portugal they consider that St. Mark's Day is the first day of spring and they call St. Mark the patron of that happy season.

The greatest of all St. Mark's churches is the famous cathedral in Venice, where the bones of the saint are entombed. Local legend says that long before the city existed the young saint, on an errand for his friend St. Peter, came to the future site and was captivated by its beauty. On the occasion a Voice spoke to him, saying "Here shall thy body rest."

It was many years before the prophecy came true. Mark became Bishop of Alexandria, in Egypt, and because of his power to perform miracles, was accused of sorcery and dragged through the streets to his death, on April 25 in the year of 68.

Centuries later, the people of Venice, who were by this time rich and powerful, persuaded the Christians of Alexandria to allow the saint's remains to be moved. They built the great Cathedral to house the precious relics.

Cheerful, Smiling Pastor Valuable Religious Asset

This Episcopalian Rector in our neighborhood is much like St. Paul. Both are eminent for their stellar salesmanship of religion. A man who can build up a Sunday night Youth Group to 45 in less than 10 months, deserves a salute from all of us parents.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case K-384: The Rev. H. Wm. Barks Jr., aged 33, is the new Rector of a little Episcopalian church in our neighborhood.

"The kids at South Shore High School certainly like him," our son David told me.

"For he goes to all of our games. Why, when we had a football game with Battle Creek, Mich. last fall, he filled his car with kids and drove them up there.

"And he is always on hand at our Hi-Y softball games. He speaks to everybody and smiles.

"But he never tries to coax anybody into going to church. Most of my pals, though, are beginning to go over there.

"I think maybe I'll try next Sunday, too. Dad, I'll bet he has more young people than any other church in our part of Chicago."

So I checked into the situation, for a man like Rev. Barks is a great asset to religion. I had seen him at several games which I had attended, but had never met him personally.

And here are the facts. His predecessor had closed out the Young People's Sunday night meeting two years earlier.

Rev. Barks has been on the job only 10 months, but he has revitalized this church.

The Youth Group now numbers 45. And the attendance of teen-agers at Sunday, as well as morning church service, has zoomed even more.

Jesus was a smiling clergyman or he never would have attracted children. They flocked around Christ, who took them up in his arms.

So Rev. Barks is certainly emulating Jesus, and when parsons do that, they find that they attract crowds, as Jesus always did.

"Next Sunday night," Rev. Barks told me over the telephone, "We are having a TV party in the Rectory, with cokes and popcorn.

"Our Sunday night meetings are discussion affairs on current moral or social problems of youth. They aren't strictly church programs.

"And as for my going to athletic games, I enjoy them. Moreover, I find I can't do much pastoral calling at the homes after 4 p.m., anyway, for the housewives are then getting dinner under way.

"Besides, I clean up my office work from 9 to 12 in the mornings. So I figure it is a good investment of my time to attend all the high school events.

"I like it and I have the time to do so. Maybe after I get married I may not have so much free time, but it has been a great boon to the attendance of teen-agers at our Sunday services."

Preaching, as well as school teaching, is really salesmanship of ideas, instead of tangible merchandise.

And the first law in salesmanship is to win friends, for you can't sell solid 24-carat gold bricks to enemies, even at bargain prices!

Foreign missionaries have long realised that you must fraternize with the religious prospects and win their personal friendship, before they will become interested in your brand of religion.

Rev. Barks proves the value of a friendly, positive example. He is dressed in his black clerical garb, but he doesn't try to proselyte or harangue.

He just smiles and shows up at school games. So the kids respond by going to his church.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Looks like old Harry Truman was Jack-on-the-spot when he topped the mushroomed fission posse on the big bowser in 1950.

The commission wanted to pigeon-house the H-blister even though it was not adapted to one-car bungalows.

Harry scruffed the commish by the nape and ordered all buttons pressed on the H-boppister.

The custodians of that group are all responsible citizens who were a bit slow on the up-take. Harry over-ruled them like a carpenter measuring a knothole with a yardstick.

At this remote reviewing it is as easy to criticize them as it is to spill paint.

Anyway, Harry had the first refusal on the deciding nod and voted for thermocuclear hydrogen in the big expensive package.

While claiming America is not a whim-ocracy we go boots, saddle and tantivy for Harry's snap judgment.

Harry probably wanted to see how an island looked in the air. The biggest object I ever saw flying was the night Tony Galento landed that left hook on Joe Louis' chinstrap.

Senator McCarthy made the serious guess that the commission was slightly nefarious in its negative response to portable holocausts. On the other mitt Rep. Cole said President Truman booted an opportunity of braking the mad derby of modern science toward the inevitability of pro rata chaos.

Naturally, the commish would defend its action like a spider that webbed a hornet.

We'll dobb in our two cents before taxes. It's a good thing for the future that we have four years of alphabetical percussion exercises under our national belt.

We hope that Senator McCarthy's glum prediction of disaster is not predicated on certainty. We've had four years of hydrogenity and have made more progress than a hawk getting chased by its own egg.

Buying Wheat

Please tell me where to buy plain wheat? (Mrs. C. R. L.)

Answer— Farmer or feedstore. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Wheat to Eat, which tells why plain wheat should be used in place of some of the cheat-food in the everyday diet, and gives recipes for various appetizing ways to use it. Wheat, not refined white flour, is the richest food source of vitamin B, in which the diet of most American children and adults is deficient.

Answer — A good many adults in their thirties or forties develop that tendency and in many cases Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet The Iodin Ration. I do not regard a clipping as a request.

Pretty Desperate

I'd like to have your pamphlet on allergy. I'm willing to try anything once . . . (Mrs. C. McH.)

Answer — Try this: Send me a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask in writing for the pamphlet Relief for Allergy.

Dope Habit

I drink one bottle of (a disguised acetanilid compound) a day — have done so for nine years. How can I get rid of the habit? (F. D. C.)

Answer — You should place yourself under medical care before it is too late. The dope destroys red blood corpuscles and weakens the heart. Chapter on the habit in booklet CVD about heart troubles. For the booklet send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

How Dumb!

How can you advise every man, woman and child to take Iodin Ration? I am pregnant and my doctor says iodine is too hard on the baby's thyroid . . . (Mrs. T. H. B.)

Answer — Evidently your doctor doesn't know what iodin ration means. It is not medicinal iodine and I still say every man, woman, or child should get his or her daily iodin ration, from food, drinking water, table salt or food supplement. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask in writing for pamphlet The Iodin Ration.

'Day Dress' May Be Put on Invitation

Bride-to-Be Wants Evening Wedding Kept Informal

By EMILY POST

The following letter is from a bride-to-be: "My fiance and I are going to be married at an evening wedding. I know that normally an evening wedding calls for evening clothes, but our wedding is going to be rather simple and I would prefer that the guests did not dress formally.

"Could such a notation be properly added to the invitation and, if so, what should the wording be?"

Answer: It would be perfectly proper to write "Day Dress" at the bottom of the invitations.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have not lived in this country very long and just recently noticed that on the occasion of a bereavement, several of the notes of condolence were written on black-bordered note paper.

Where I come from, such paper is used only by the bereaved family for acknowledgements. Will you please set me straight on this as I want to be sure to conform to customs here.

Answer: I have never heard of black-bordered paper being used except by those personally bereaved. Letters of condolence may be written on any kind of paper. It seems to me that the notes you refer to must have been written by people who are themselves in mourning.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to give my fiancee an engagement ring soon and would like to know if I should ask her to go with me to pick it out, or do I pick it out myself and present it to her? Before buying the ring, should I ask her parents for their consent to become engaged to their daughter?

Answer: (1) You should go to the jewelers ahead of time and have a number of rings set aside for you within the price that you can afford and then ask her to go with you and choose one of them.

(2) Very definitely you should go to her parents and tell them of your intentions and say that you hope for their approval. without it, a ring would be incorrect.

Mild Soapsuds Keep Leather Gloves Soft

The secret of keeping your leather gloves soft, pliable and fresh looking after washing is to wash them in lukewarm water and mild soapsuds.

Leave a little of the suds in the damp gloves while drying. The soap residue will supply the oil lubricant needed to keep them from stiffening when thoroughly dried.

A trio proves better than a duet in a new color shampoo which contains three bottles instead of two. The color shampoo, eliminating the possibility of evaporation and deterioration. The shampoo blends color into the hair and covers gray strands completely.

Spring Coiffure, Chapeau Point Up Petal-Soft Skin

A soft, lustrous skin is high on almost every woman's wishing list. But this season fashion itself is adding an exclamation mark to proper face care.

Along with his tulip look, Dior again shows the short, brushed-up hair-do, and with it has introduced the widow's peak hat. Coiffure and chapeau make a striking frame for the face, but they also call special attention to the texture of your skin.

Although wishing may make some things come true, a petal soft skin unfortunately does not come under that heading. A combination of sun, wind and years, as well as soap and water all act to dry up the source of natural oil which keeps a baby's skin such an object of admiration.

Thanks to science, it is possible to regain the supple looking texture of an infant's skin. One of the best ways to start is to choose a really good facial liquid, preferably with a lanolin base that will penetrate and replenish the springs of beauty that lie beneath the surface.

Lanolin is the scientist's first choice because its vital elements are closest to nature's own underskin lubricant. A light film of lanolin lotion spread over the face and massaged gently will leave in its wake a softer skin.

A lanolin lotion can take the place of three separate cosmetics. As a night cream, it rewards by helping to smooth traces of wrinkles and crows-feet which have formed because of dryness.

Before applying makeup, the slightest film helps keep the face supple all day. Finally, it makes a wonderful cleanser. Only a few drops are needed to remove stale makeup leaving the skin smoother than before.

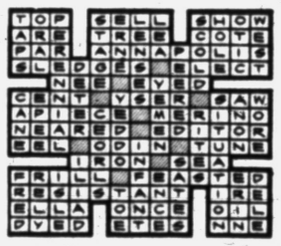

Your skin will respond to the soothing, beneficial effect and conscientious care will help produce skin that looks and feels as soft as a baby's. With the help of this natural beauty aid, you will wear the Dior peaked hat with an air of real beauty and a new feeling of assurance.

Use Perfume Spray for Handkerchief

It is best to spray perfume on a handkerchief rather than daub it on, since this covers a greater area and does not concentrate the scent on one spot.

Never fear that perfume will damage the sheer fabric of your handkerchief. An ordinary sudsing will wash it out, ready to be scented anew.

Works Right in Own Neighborhood

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"I don't understand why so many women have trouble getting part-time jobs," a young matron told me the other day.

"Maybe it's because they're too choosy—want to set the world on fire, or make a mint of money. But I'm not particular, so I've had a fine time."

She was a sensible, nice-looking girl, without any particular business skills. "But, since the day we were married, I've always managed to find a part-time job when I wanted one," she told me.

"I always look right in my own neighborhood, and I never get too fussy.

"My husband's firm moves us every couple of years, and yet, no matter what town we land in, there's always a part-time job available if you look for it.

"Right now, for example, I work from 1 to 5 every afternoon in a dry-cleaning shop. It's a one-man shop, and when I'm there, I run it.

"I meet lots of interesting neighbors, and besides the small, but steady salary, I get a commission on all storage, moth-proofing, dyeing and extra services I sell.

"Before that, in our last town, I worked in a bakery shop, afternoons. The customers were interesting, and I had a fine time.

"It's just like chatting with your neighbors, but you get paid for it and get a chance to get away from your own four walls.

"In fact," she concluded, "I have no use for the women who complain about how hard it is to find part-time jobs. If you will look under your nose and approach the neighborhood shops, particularly the small ones, you can find a man who needs a few hours' relief per day and is willing to pay for it.

"In addition to the cleaning and baking shops, I've worked in a beauty shop, a florist shop, a home decorations shop, and a dress shop.

"And I have no particular qualifications, except a love of people, an ability to work hard, and persistence in looking for what I want!"

Spray Your Rugs Well on Both Sides

Spray wool rugs and carpets on both sides, if possible, to be most certain that moths will not invade them. Remember that moths, contrary to wide belief, are as busy in spring and summer as they are in autumn and winter.

First remove spots with a good, well-recommended cleanser. Next use the vacuum cleaner thoroughly on both sides, and on the carpet pad, too, if you have one. Finally apply the anti-moth preparation. For this the vacuum cleaner sprayer or blower is ideal.

Innocent Little Girl Look Dominates New Fashions

The look of the season is the look of the well-brought-up little girl—a demeanor that will not end with spring but will carry through with force to the fall collections.

Vera Maxwell, who designed today's model of sweet simplicity, has had a penchant for this neat, scrubbed appearance right along, tailoring all her designs with a strictness that belies their casual attitudes.

For this dress, Mrs. Maxwell used a fabric with a face of innocence—a blue or rose and white striped shirting. The combination of the stripes and effective waistline darts makes for an extremely pretty bodice.

The skirt is closely and finely gathered at the belt to spring out into a bouncy, primly starched fullness.

If you choose the short-sleeve version you will be one more giant step ahead in this new and provocative "baby dress" movement, for the little puffed sleeve is a very important facet of it all.

Mrs. Maxwell recommends charming cotton print or, if you want it for parties, one of the lightweight silks with a certain amount of stiffness. She also recommends that whatever the fabric selection, you back it up with plenty of petticoats.

This pattern is cut in designer sizes:

Bust	Waist	Hips	Size
34	24	35 inches	10
35	25	36 inches	12
36½	26½	37½ inches	14
38	28	39 inches	16
40	30	41 inches	18

Size 12 requires 5¾ yards of 39-inch material for dress (short sleeves) and ⅝ yard of 39-inch material for interfacing.

90 Dogs Make Music Lesson Fun for Children

VICTORIA, B. C. (AP)— Dogs — lots of them — are a great help in teaching music to children, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Mellish have discovered.

The Mellishes have 90 dogs ranging from 180-pound English Mastiffs to Scottish and West Highland terriers. Mrs. Mellish teaches singing, piano, accordion, guitar, mandolin and violin to 20 children.

"Everyone, especially housewives, should have a hobby," she said. "Our hobbies certainly fill in our spare moments, and we're definitely not bored with life. Children love dogs. Dogs love children."

So the Mellishes breed dogs and the children make the Mellish home their headquarters.

It gets a bit confusing when a few violins, a piano and an accordion get going at the same time on different tunes, but everyone around the place loves it.

Mrs. Mellish used to give concerts and at one time had her own orchestra of 14 string instruments. Her husband plays the violin and piano, and is also fond of children, singing and animals.

Cover Hassock With Old Shag

If you have a shabby hassock, try covering it with a cotton shag rug. It can be done in half an hour or so by using a small round rug to fit the top, and wrapping a straight strip around the base. The seams need sturdy thread, but the sewing needn't be fancy since the pile will hide the stitches.

The result makes an excellent television seat, or touch of luxury in the bedroom or bathroom.

Waxing Protects Leather Luggage

The leather luggage you take on your trip should look its very best.

The easiest way to keep the new look of suitcases, handbags, golf bags and other leather goods is with wax. A gentle rubdown with paste wax keeps them from drying out and becoming soiled and worn.

Enthusiasm Is Wonderful, but Tone It Down a Little

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

Spring has busted out all over. Life and vitality all around. Leaves popping on the trees. Flowers bursting. Frogs down in the pond lifting their voices on high. Everything and everybody is enthusiastic!

And enthusiasm about things serious or nonsensical is what makes the difference between a girl who's a livewire and one who's a dud. A gal who's alive and on her toes has the old steam up all the time.

The still-water-running-deep type is scared to let her enthusiasms show. The ball of fire has a hilarious time. The lackluster gal sometimes wonders why she was born.

It's enthusiasm that makes the difference. It's the willingness to find things amusing—and laugh out loud. It's the vitality that makes reactions quick. It's the eagerness to like everything and everybody. It's the dynamic quality that attracts people like a magnet.

It's steam all right. And like spring, it can bust all over—unless it's controlled. Lots of enthusiasm—plus control — is too much to ask? Not when the thing can so easily get out of hand.

What made Bill knock over the table, lamp, ashtrays, picture frame and all, the other night? Enthusiasm. He couldn't get out of the chair next to that table fast enough.

He practically bounced out, hoisting the edge of the table along with his bulk. Bill took no time to assemble his feet and elbows before heaving the rest of him. Impulse got the better of caution—result, catastrophe.

It was the same sort of enthusiasm that ruined Sally's new dress. The music was just right, Tod was in the groove, everybody had stopped to watch them trip it light and fancy.

Sally suddenly and violently raised her arms on high to lighten the fandango—and pop went the whole side of her dress. Right there in front of everybody. Lots of pep—but no control in a dress too tight at the waist and too raglan for fandangos.

Physical bounce isn't the only kind of eager-beaver enthusiasms that ruins the works. There's whipping up too much steam over the wrong things.

Many a girl's pet enthusiasm is her own sweet self. She's completely wrapped up in herself—with a blind and wholehearted devotion. She's amazed at how wonderful she is.

She's so fascinated by her pet subject that she's all you ever hear about when she's around. And she never hears anything anyone else says. It couldn't possibly interest her.

Jack's pet enthusiasm, on the other hand, is making a hermit out of himself. His darkroom is the love of his life. And he doesn't need any help down there, thank you.

You can't share a parade with Jack—he's too busy taking pictures of it to see it. You can't get anywhere on a ride with him—he has you stopping to take snaps of stuff.

He's only partly with you—the rest of him is straining to get back in the dark alone. Like a mole, his big steam is driving him underground—out of the reach of other interests. He is carrying his hobby too far.

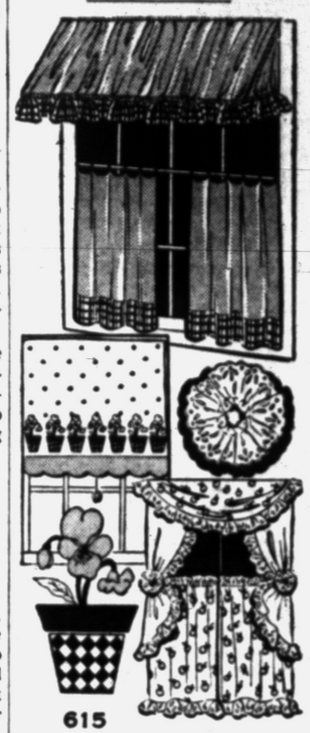

Jill, on the contrary, puts a lot of steam into a lot of interests. Yet she's developing a blind eye, too. She's too eager over things that don't count.

She's all wrapped up in certain comic strips, can't live without certain radio programs, feeds on murders and high adventure, gets all her information in abbreviated form. She's plenty glib on lots of subjects, but she dies deaths when forced to read a weighty classic.

She frets with impatience when the music goes serious. She really can't tell whether a movie is good or so-so. She's lost all the ability to discriminate. She's feeding herself on stuff that's too easy to chew.

These are all enthusiasms out of control. Steam that's running wild. Energy that is undirected, undisciplined. That, like the weeds in the garden, threatens to take over.

It's all part of being young, you say. Balance will come with maturity. But I always thought you started growing up as soon as you were born!

Preparation Stressed

Club Discusses Old Age

Mrs. Francis Robinson led the topic "Preparing For Old Age and Retirement" at the Thursday meeting of the Child Study Club. Mrs. Raymond Jacobson was hostess in her Drayton Plains home.

The roll call question for the evening was "What are your plans for the rocking chair?"

In discussing the topic, Mrs. Robinson pointed out that each person must make her own way by facing the problems ahead and by making an effort to Match her own likes and dislikes with worthwhile activity.

She must have an absorbing hobby that is compatible with her physical capacity and a positive attitude toward herself and others, said Mrs. Robinson.

A person caught in retirement without adequate preparation may find herself traveling a rough road unless she grips the wheel firmly and follows the signs marked "participation, fellowship, creativeness and service," concluded the speaker.

A former club member, Mrs. Arthur Bostrom of La Jolla, Calif., gave a talk on her impressions of life in the West.

Mrs. Floyd Crump will be hostess in her Auburn Heights home for the next meeting.

Mrs. Alfred Harding of Scott Lake road will conduct the agricultural workshop in the Girl Scout Activities Room of the scout office Saturday from 1 to 3 p.m.

Instruction will be given on planting bulbs and rooting cuttings. Any scout or leader who would like to make a terrarium should bring a wide-mouthed bottle or jar. A fish bowl would also be suitable.

Grasses, moss, driftwood and wild plants will be used to make the terrariums, and hints on how to make gardens and how to earn a gardening badge will also be given.

Gala Michigras Carnival Staged by U of M Students

Pontiac, Birmingham Collegians Join In to Make Weekend Festivities Successful

By JUNE GRANSTROM

ANN ARBOR—"Come to the Michigras" has been the refrain heard on the University of Michigan campus this week as each fraternity, sorority and residence hall prepared booths and floats for the bi-annual carnival, a tradition since 1936.

The carnival atmosphere which descended upon the campus yesterday afternoon with a colorful lead-off parade, televised over WPAG-TV, will last far into tonight.

Forty different booths, offering all the side-shows, refreshments, and games of skill that appear when a carnival comes to town, were set up by students in Yost Field House. Stands were open last night from 7 o'clock until 1 a.m., and will follow the same hours tonight.

A "Hawaiian Terrace" offers hula dances and ukelele solos for patrons of the Alpha Gamma Delta—Sigma Nu concession. Charles Davies and Leonard Miller, both Sigma Nu fraternity members from Birmingham, helped prepare the booth.

A chorus line dazzles customers who seek entertainment in the "Showboat" of Helen Newberry residence hall and South Quadrangle's Gomberg house.

Gomberg residents from Birmingham helping stage the production were Kirk Lewis, who did double duty for Michigras by selling ads for the carnival's 32-page program, were Grover Farnsworth, Neil Ege, and Ralph Watts.

Anyone with a frustrated desire to throw gooey pies at people has a chance now at the Alpha Chi Omega—Sigma Phi Epsilon stand, "Simple Simon Michi-Pie-Man." Alpha Chi Omega member Marcia Boothe, of Birmingham, has worked with her sorority sisters in preparing the concession.

Both entertainment and refreshments are offered at the "K-Xi-Kafe," operated by Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and Theta Xi fraternity members. Velma Harris, Karen Oldberg, Robin Renfrew, Carolyn Snyder, Barbara Stauffer and Dudley Chapman, all of Birmingham, are among the operators.

Play-goers are remembered with the Pi Beta Phi—Phi Delta Theta presentation of "Gone With the (South) Wind." Pontiac area students working with the show are Beverly Warwick of Island Court, Sylvan Lake, and Howard Rogers of Pine Lake Road. Birmingham helpers are Susan Roach, Lynne Davison, George Clarke, and Russell Swaney.

Skillful students have a chance to make a profit at the game booths. Each winning contestant at a game of skill is awarded a "Michibuck," which may be exchanged for prizes ranging from pennants to stuffed animals, books, and records.

The person winning the greatest number of "Michibucks" will be awarded a free ticket to the Inter - Fraternity Council Ball, complete with cab service and dinner for two. In addition, the prize includes the 100 - foot "Michiworm" flying above the booths at Yost Field House.

First and second-place trophies will be warded to booths and floats judged tops in the competition. Michigras is financed by the Men's Michigan Union and the Women's Athletic Association, each of which receives half the profits to donate to a charity of their choice.

This year, the union's half will go to the University Fresh Air Camp, and the WAA's half of the project fund for the recently constructed women's swimming pool.

Zonta Club Hears About Camp Work

James Van Leuven, Oakland County juvenile officer, outlined the work of Camp Oakland near Oxford for Zonta Club members at the Thursday luncheon held in Hotel Waldron.

Mr. Van Leuven explained that the camp grew from a temporary camping program for boys and girls under jurisdiction of the Juvenile Court to a permanent camp site.

He said that plans are under way for a summer camp accommodating 200 children for two-week periods. Motion pictures of camp life, as well as of the year-around boys' ranch home, were shown by W. O. Moulton, director of the Oakland County Children's Home.

It was explained that the camp is staffed by volunteer workers and the help of service clubs and individuals makes it possible to carry on the program.

Zonta Club voted funds to send a girl to the camp for a two-week outing this summer.

An invitation was received from the Flint Zonta Club to attend the sixth anniversary dinner to be held May 4 in the Flint Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Charles Cook Hostess to Board

Mrs. Charles Cook of Oneida road was hostess when the executive board of Tipacon Chapter of the American Business Women's Association met Wednesday evening.

Committee chairman also attended the meeting and plans were made for the May money-making project.

Romantic News Bursts Forth With the Springtime

Royal Oak Musicale Aids Flint

Local Artists Join in Event Last Night to Benefit School

By DONNA ANDERSON

Once again music has proven its power and its utility in man's endeavors.

On the upward road of progress one has to pause occasionally for rehabilitation. That is why the Michigan Education Association, Region Seven, planned Friday evening's concert in Royal Oak High School.

Beecher School in Flint must be replaced. Young voices of that school were stilled in the Spring of 1953 by the unforgettable tornado.

Oakland County teachers will help replace the school's library with the proceeds fom the concert.

Lending their talents to the project were Pontiac area artists, Mary Louise and Victor Lindquist, Dorothy and John Phelps and nine year old Harry Klein of Royal Oak, who presented a program of delightful contrast and variety.

The charming love songs from light operas, "Make Believe", "Lover Come Back to Me" and "Will You Remember" sung by the Lindquists were heard before the unique organ and piano combinations by Mr. and Mrs. Phelps.

They played "Thais" by Massenet, "Players" by Granados, Debussy's "Clair de Lune" and "Prelude in G. Minor" by Rachmaninoff.

All of the compositions lent themselves well to the medium of expression, but "Clair de Lune" triumphed over all by reason of its very nature — and because of its most expressive arrangement.

While piano will always interpret the immortality of the famous composition, you might like to visualize the bright clarity of the moon — then add to the picture the depth and vastness of night in all its mystery. That is what the organ added to the presentation.

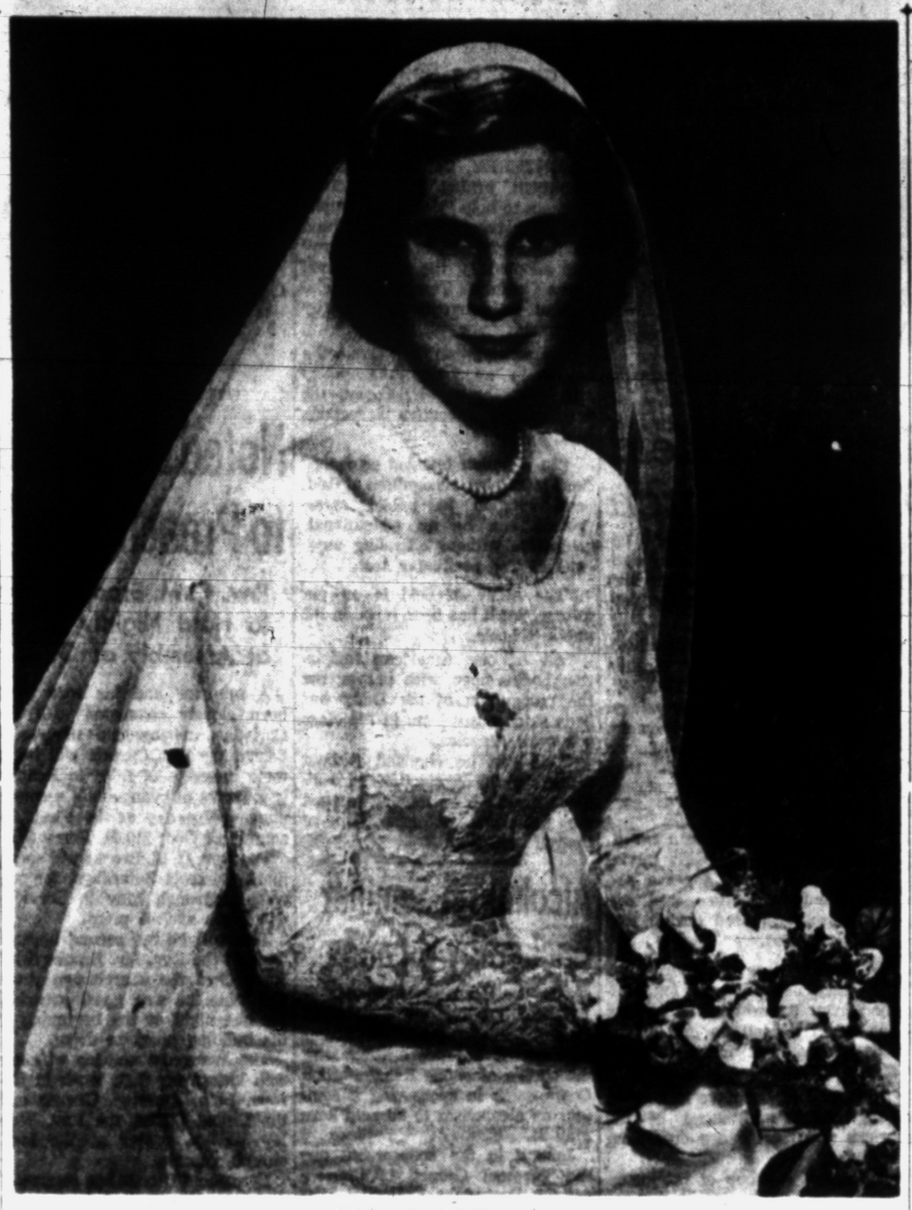

There was a little boy on stage Friday evening too.

He was only nine years old and he played a violin. The serious Harry Klein showed much promise in his offerings, first movement of "Concerto in D Minor" by Seitz, "To A Wild Rose" by Mac Dowell and "Adoration" by Browsky.

Pontiac's well known singing couple, the Lindquists, continued with "Bess You is My Woman" "I'll See You Again" and "If I Loved You."

Selections by the spirited Royal Oak High School Pep Band under the direction of Henry Garen opened the program. Mr. Phelps was accompanist for the Lindquists and Mrs. Kenneth Mitchell accompanied Harry Klein.

MRS. ROGER KIRK

Betty Yaw Gowned in Wedding Dress Worn by Her Maternal Grandmother

Betty Yaw wore the wedding dress of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. James Couzens, today when she spoke her vows with Lt. Roger Kirk in a 12 o'clock Mass at St. Hugo of the Hills Church.

The gown of fine deep ivory, hand-run Alencon lace in princess lines fell over the original underdress of heavy satin edged with lace and faced with net ruffles.

Long fitted sleeves ended at points over the wrists and the off-shoulder neckline was heart-shaped.

A deep ivory cathedral-length train of double illusion extended from the underskirt, supplementing the long veil of illusion which was scattered with orange blossoms. A small cap of lace held the veil, and she carried a spray bouquet of small white Phalaenopsis orchids.

Betty's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William R. Yaw of West Long Lake road and Roger is the son of Adm. Alan G. Kirk, former ambassador to Belgium and the Soviet Union, and Mrs. Kirk of Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Nathaniel T. R. Burgwyn, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids included Margo Chewning of Alexandria, Va., a cousin of the bride; Suzanne Walsh of San Francisco and Mrs. Horace C. Ford of Grosse Pointe.

The waltz-length gowns of the bridal attendants were a Balenciaga design featuring short sleeves and sweetheart necklines. Fine accordion-pleated white French organdy fell in three tiers over shell pink polished cotton. Unpleated bands between the tiers were embroidered in apple blossoms with green foliage.

Flat green leaves with a single rose formed headbands for the attendents and their flowers were spray bouquets of pale pink azaleas and ivy.

Her headband was a wreath of green foliage combined with tiny pink apple blossoms and she carried a miniature bouquet like those of the bridesmaids.

Paul M. Bator of New York City, Robert O. Blake of Washington, D. C., William R. Yaw Jr. and James Yaw, brothers of the bride, also served as ushers.

Betty attended Fox Hollow at Lenox, Mass., and was graduated from Mills College. She made her debut in 1948.

Lt. Kirk was graduated from Groton School and from Princeton University in 1952.

May Day to Be Pray Day This Year in Pontiac Area

May Day will be Pray Day in Pontiac.

Cooperating with the Junior Chamber of Commerce here, Pontiac Mayor William Donaldson this week proclaimed May 1 as a "Day of Prayer for Peace."

On that Saturday every Pontiac area resident is urged to send up a silent petition to God, asking that leaders of Communist and Allied nations may reach a basis of understanding that will lead to lasting peace.

A resolution evidencing the desire for lasting peace, adopted by the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce along with other Jaycee chapters, will be delivered to the Communist Presidium at the Kremlin.

Letters were mailed this week to churches and religious groups in the city urging that their congregations join in this drive to seek the "intervention of God" for an end to war.

Ministers, priests and rabbis were asked to follow up the private prayers on Saturday with public prayer at Sunday worship services, May 2.

Written endorsements from local pastors also will be sent to U. S. Jaycee headquarters for delivery to the Kremlin, as evidence of Americans' sincere desire for peace.

"Man alone doesn't seem to be doing so well — so let's unite to ask God's aid," was the thought expressed by Pontiac Jaycee members.

Robert E. Rrickson, Pontiac chairman for the Pray Day program, also urges all schools, clubs, civic organizations and veterans groups to pile up prayers for peace.

"Particularly, it is hoped that parents will gather their children around them on May 1 to ask God's intervention," Erickson said.

"There is a power in prayer greater than the power of the H-bomb. Let's use it!"

Religious Groups Back May 1 Child Health Day

By Religious News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish leaders issued statements here in support of President Eisenhower's proclamation of May 1 as National Child Health Day.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is distributing the statements prepared by Dr. Roy G. Ross, general secretary of the National council of Churches; Msgr. John J. McClafferty, dean of the National Catholic School of Social Service, Catholic University of America, and Dr. Moses Jung, chairman of the Columbia University seminar on inter-religious relations.

Commenting on the theme of the observance, "May Day is Family Play Day," Dr. Ross said family play was "much more than a device to while away hours."

"Play is re-creative," he said. "It cements the bonds which binds persons to one another in the family circle."

OLDEST CHURCH—Nation's oldest church still holding services is located near Smithfield, Va.

Services Still Being Held in Nation's Oldest Church

SMITHFIELD, Va. (NEA)—The nation's oldest church near this historic village, St. Luke Church, has often been called "the cradle of Christianity" in this country.

Its picturesque belfry and its buttressed walls with their traceried windows, a rare example of Gothic architecture, still stand very much as they stood when built more than three centuries ago across the river from Jamestown.

Although the church went undamaged through Bacon's Rebellion of 1676, some changes took place during the years of the Revolution.

In 1777 the vestry was dissolved, and after the Church of Virginia was disestablished in 1785, St. Luke was used for only occasional services during the next 40 years.

From 1821 until 1836 the church was used regularly, but then abandoned after another church was built nearby.

In 1887 a summer storm caved in the roof, but the Rev. Davis Barr raised money for the repairs and the edifice was reroofed and repaired during the years 1889-1894.

Since that time the church has been used intermittently for summer services, and once again time has taken its toll on one of the oldest structures in the United States.

One wall of the nave is bulging dangerously, and some of the bricks and mortar are crumbling badly.

Recently, a group of prominent Americans took action to prevent St. Luke from falling into inevitable ruin. They launched a nationwide campaign to raise funds to restore this unique building and preserve it as a national shrine.

Plan Organ Concert at Marimont Baptist

Another guest organist will present organ selections in conjunction with a service of music and message at the Marimont Baptist Church, Walton and Hollywood, Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Shirley Strong Riddle will present a half-hour organ concert. Mrs. Riddle served as organist for the city-wide "Dr. Boyd Campaign" and is on the faculty of the Detroit Bible Institute.

The message of the evening will be presented by youth evangelist Lloyd Riddle.

The music and mesage will climax an April evening service emphasis. Each evening service in the month of April has presented a varied program.

"Baby Sunday" will be observed in the Marimont Baptist Sunday School at the ten o'clock session.

This Sunday will mark the closing Sunday of a 12-week Seven-Church Sunday school contest. Other Schools entered are: Stone Baptist, Silvercrest; First Baptist, Drayton Plains; Halsey Baptist, Clawson; Calvary Baptist, Roseville; and Livernois Baptist, Detroit.

9 Represent Pontiac at Detroit Convention

Pontiac was represented by a delegation of nine when the United Church Women of Michigan celebrated its 25th anniversary this week at a two-day annual meeting in Detroit.

A campaign which the group has sponsored to send milk to distress areas of Korea went over the top. As donations were totaled, the goal of $1,000 was quickly passed; and when the final figures were in, $5,531 was recorded. This amount is sufficient to send 14 to 15 carloads of dried milk to Korea through the U. S. CROP distribution service.

The new state president, Mrs. B. R. Donaldson of Dearborn, was installed along with other officers.

Highlighting the program was an account by Mrs. Rosa Page Welch of her goodwill tour of the world. Mrs. Welch, a Chicago concert singer, was sent by the United Church Women's group as its ambassador. Of particular interest was her report of Russia, where she said, the general feeling toward her was one of suspicion and scepticism.

Teachers Urge God in Schools

California Educators Hit 'Taboo' on Religion for Public Students

By Religious News Service

MONTEREY, Calif. — A policy statement urging public school teachers to help "develop in pupils a greater recognition of God and religion as factors in our culture" was adopted by the state council of the California Teachers Association at its convention in nearby Asilomar.

Commenting on the council's action in approving the policy statement, Arthur F. Corey, the association's executive secretary, said:

"In a nation founded on religious principles, recognition of God and religion in public class rooms can be an educational objective without offending anyone of any particular sect.

"The name of God is on our money, yet it has been taboo in the public schools.

"All of our American legislative bodies open with prayer but the recognition of the Deity has been shied away from in the class rooms of America.

"This can be changed without removing the protection of religious liberties, or moving against the principles of separation of Church and State.

INDIANAPOLIS — The national emblem sales department of the American Legion has placed a third order for 50,000 "grace-before meals" cards for distribution throughout the country.

Legion posts are placing the card in hotels, restaurants, hospitals, Pullman diners and other places. The cards contain Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish prayers.

Greek Orthodox Church Starts Easter Rites Tonight

Easter services at St. George Greek Orthodox Church will begin at 10 o'clock tonight with matins of the Resurrection of Christ.

At midnight the church will be plunged in darkness, and the priest with lighted candle will signal the beginning of the Holy Resurrection Mass.

The light, symbol of the Christ's life-giving light over the darkness of evil and death, is then passed to the congregation until the church glows in the light of hundreds of candles.

The ritual of the finding of the empty tomb and the news of Christ's resurrection is followed by triumphant hymns.

At the conclusion of the solemn High Mass, the red Easter eggs are blessed and distributed. The red eggs symbolize the resurrection of Christ. The red color stands for joy, and the oval shape symbolizes eternity.

Significant in the midnight Mass will be the use for the first time of a Holy Communion set, procured from a monastery on Mt. Athos in Greece by the youth clubs of the church.

The set includes a sacred gold chalice with eight ceramic icons, and will be used only at special services. A new wooden sepulchre also will be used at this Mass; it is a gift of Nickolas Papatheodore who built it with his own hands.

On Sunday the Easter Feast of Love service will be held at 3:30 p.m. At this service, the story of the appearance of the Risen Lord is read in many different languages, indicating the preaching of the Gospel to different nations and peoples.

Monday will mark the celebration for the church's patron, St. George, and the 25th anniversary of the church. The day will begin with Divine Liturgy at 10 a.m.

Ten priests from all over Michigan are expected to attend the special evening vespers at 7:30. The Rev. Nickolas Harabatis of St. Nicholas Church, Detroit, will be guest speaker. His topic will be "St. George and You."

Following the vesper service, a gala Greek Night celebration in Hellenic Hall will include traditional Greek dances, songs and festivities.

The celebration of the 25th anniversary will continue through this summer and fall. It will be climaxed with a solemn High Mass on Nov. 21, at which the archbishop of North and South America will be the celebrant. The archbishop also will bless the ground for the new church at Woodward and Winthrop, Bloomfield Hills, on that date.

Eastern Bishop Establishes 21st Parish at Bolton

BOLTON, Mass. — The famous "Lord's Acre" church of this rural Massachusetts farm community was raised from mission to parochial status by Bishop John J. Wright of Worcester.

Situated in the heart of the state's rich corn belt, the church was built in 1953 through funds derived from growing corn with donated seed and labor. Each year an extra acre of land is set aside for this purpose.

Six years ago Roman Catholics of the town held their first corn festival, the proceeds going to the church building fund. The festival became such a success that people from all parts of Massachusetts and nearby states were attracted to it.

The building fund also continued to grow and in 1952 plans were announced for the construction of a church named by Bolton Catholics themselves — St. Francis Xavier Mission Chapel.

Bishop Wright dedicated the chapel in May 1953, and it was made a mission of the Immaculate Conception parish, Lancaster.

Modeled on the lines of a New England corn crib, the church is a landmark on route 117. It is built with California red wood.

Youth Band to Play Here

Chicagoland Christian Group to Play at Baptist Church on Telegraph

One of the country's outstanding teenage musical organizations, the Chicagoland Youth for Christ Band—will present a one-hour program at Emmanuel Baptist Church, Telegraph Rd. at Orchard Lake Ave., this Sunday night beginning at 7:30.

This talented group of 35 instrumentalists form the traveling unit of the CYFC Band, which is heard every Saturday night, when at home, as a regular feature of the CYFC Rally. The players come from 15 different church denominations and represent 18 high schools.

The program will feature stirring old hymns and gospel songs, both old and new. Soloist of the evening will be the band's 17-year-old soprano, Nancy Johnson, from Chicago.

Director of the band is William H. Fasig Jr., who is also the musical director of Chicagoland Youth for Christ. For three years previous to his coming to Chicago, Fasig was pianist and arranger-producer of the "Word of Life Hour" in New York City—a popular Saturday night teenage broadcast. In addition to directing the band, Fasig will present his own fantasies of well-loved hymns on the piano.

Unusual and dramatic lighting effects will add color to this concert, and help make it an evening to be remembered. The public is invited.

Bible Words to Live by

I Corinthians 9:10—"He that ploweth should plow in hope."

Twenty-five years ago, in my first church, in my first sermon, these were the words of the text: "He that ploweth should plow in hope." How, except in hope, dare any man begin a new labor?

The tragedy is that, for too many people, hope is a quality only of youthful living, and as the years pass, they possess it less and less; until they expect little, then nothing, from the future.

Is this, perhaps, because, for them, hope is rooted only in physical vigor, and thus diminishes with the failing of their energies? But the hope which is rooted in God and in His will is not dependent upon the exuberance of our health; it is a spiritual conviction about what life means.

And to have that conviction is to confront life, day after day, knowing that, because God is in us, the work which we do will yield some worthwhile accomplishment in His kingdom of brotherhood and love.

Confident Living

Think It Out; Let It Jell; Solution Certain to Come

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Some successful thinkers have an interesting method for getting answers to problems. They allow their problems to "incubate" in the deep, unconscious mind, in that "kingdom of God" that is within them and all of us.

When the answer comes, it is clear-cut and distinct. The deep inner power of their personalities has been at work on the problem and delivers correct answers.

DR. PEALE

Robert Louis Stevenson once explained that he would "drop the germ of an idea into his unconscious." Then, his "brownies" went to work on it. After they had finished, the completed thought would emerge into his conscious mind in orderly fashion, and all he had to do was write it down. In that way he worked out many of his fascinating stories.

In an article published recently Albert Einstein tells how he gets his answers. When he has a problem to solve, he applies himself to it most earnestly. Then he forgets it with his conscious mind, but lets it insubate in his subconscious mind.

Later, he may be taking a walk or doing something else quite unrelated to the matter when suddenly, like toast popping up from a toaster, the solution comes to the surface from deep in his unconscious.

The noted French mathematician, Jules Henri Poincare, follows the same method. He considers his problem by thinking about it as hard as he can, and then leaves it to his deep unconscious. "One day," he said, discussing an idea, "just as I was putting my foot on the step of a bus, there, all of a sudden, was the solution ready for me."

All of these people have sufficient respect for themselves and for the enormous power God has placed in the human mind to trust the creative mental process within themselves. This power within yourself may be developed by the practice of prayer, which stimulates deep, unconscious insight. But such prayer must not be hectic; it should be calm and confident.

Pray about every problem, and as you pray, work on the problem. Apply all the power of your thinking to the question, but do not act depressed or panicky.

Think it out; do the best you can and then leave it quietly to God. I know from experience that this will work.

Once I had an important decision to make. Off and on for days I thought about it. In fact, it harassed me, for I could not work it out. It seemed to be surrounded by all sorts of vague factors and loose-end ideas.

So finally I sat down with a big sheet of paper and wrote everything to do with the problem. Seeing it in black and white on paper clarified it by bringing all the component parts of the matter in orderly fashion.

I really did some constructive and definite thinking. I gave it all I had mentally. But still answer eluded me.

Then a most fortunate incident occurred which demonstrated the value of committing a problem to the subconscious mind. It also showed how a quiet and relaxed attitude helps the mind to produce.

I went to a Quaker meeting where the group sat in complete silence and meditation for forty-five minutes. Everyone was consciously conditioning his mind to a quiet and spiritual attitude.

During this meeting suddenly the answer to my problem formed clear and distinct in my thoughts. At that moment I knew for a certainty that it was the right answer. Subsequent events verified its validity.

There is in you now the right answer to every problem you face or that you will ever have. Learn to depend more confidently on the ability of your inner self to find the answers to Life's perplexing questions.

So to get an answer to any problem, think about the problem as efficiently as you can, then leave it quietly with God. Your answer may not come immediately, but keep believing, waiting and listening. Eventually the solution of your problem will come.

French Abbe, 91, Earns Coveted Cyclists' Medal

By Religious News Service

PARIS—Abbe Remy, 91-year-old pastor of Clery-le-Grand in the Meuse, has been awarded the coveted Franch Medal of Merit for Cyclists.

There are only 493 members of this order, which honors public officials, clergymen and famous racing cyclists who have helped develop the sport of cycling.

The abbe started to ride a bicycle in 1880 and has covered from 10 to 13 miles every day since then in pursuit of his duties as parish priest.

In the early days, parishioners objected to Abbe Remy's cycling on the ground that it was unseemly for a priest to ride one of those "machines." Fearing that his bishop also would object, the abbe ambushed the prelate outside his house and give him a demonstration to prove that a bicycle not only was useful for a busy priest, but could be ridden with dignity.

The bishop was so impressed that he urged the rest of his clergy to follow the abbe's example.

In spite of his age, Abbe Remy continues to cycle in all kinds of weather. He smiles when he sees priests, and even nuns, flashing by on motorized scooters, remembering the "scandal" caused when he first appeared on wheels.

English Catholic Ads Claim Drive Nets 1,000

By Religious News Service

LONDON — Sponsods of advertisements in English newspapers explaining the Roman Catholic faith announced that more than 1,000 non-Catholics are now under instruction after six weeks of the campaign.

The Catholic Missionary Society said that when the campaign was launched at the beginning of March a goal of 1,000 under instruction by Easter was set. This target has been exceeded, the society said.

The Catholic ads offer a mail course of 20 leaflets explaining the faith. Names and addresses of local pastors are sent to those who wish direct personal instruction.

Cost of the ads is being met by voluntary contributions from Catholic parishes throughout the country. The project is approved by the English Catholic hierarchy.

Fire Causes Change in Church Services

Fire which broke out at First Church of the Brethren Thursday night has caused the pastor to schedule services at Eastern Junior High School this Sunday instead of in the church sanctuary.

Regular Sunday school will be held at 10 a.m., followed by a worship service at 11 a.m. in the high school. The usual Sunday evening service has been canceled.

The fire broke out in the unoccupied church at 11:15 p.m. Thursday. The basement was "practically destroyed" by the blaze, the pastor, Rev. LeRoy Shafer, said, and the sanctuary suffered extension smoke damage.

U.S. Funds Aid British to Restore Famous Abbey

Sturdy old Westminster Abbey—which symbolizes Britain to the world as no other church structure—is going to be repaired and strengthened, thanks in part to funds raised in the United States.

Weakened and defaced here and there by the ravages of time—with several assists by bombs falling in the vicinity during World War II—the abbey, whose history goes back a thousand years, is now sure to be preserved for centuries to come. Face-lifting work already is well along.

The U.S. quota of the fund needed to do the job is 10 per cent of the $2,800,000 goal. The remaining 90 per cent is being raised in Britain and the British Commonwealths and colonies.

Scientist Sees Robots Bringing New Revolution

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (UP) — America is on the threshold of another revolution—but don't reach for your rifle.

The main forces in this revolution will be robots, according to K. R. Geiser, a researcher at the General Electric Co. laboratory.

Geiser said robot devices are already able to carry out functions of seeing, hearing, smelling, touching and tasting, even though they do not resemble any mechanical man. "Muscle" and "brains," he said, are furnished by motors and computers.

"We are able to achieve the automatic factory with a tremendous boost in productive efficiency by using these robot devices," he said.

But workers need not worry about losing their jobs.

"With the population increasing beyond most expectations," he said, "America is going to need ment the labor force if the needs and demands of all the people are to be satisfied in the future."

Sugar Coating Serves Double Purpose on Pills

BUFFALO, N. Y. (INS) — In the old days, pills were sugar-coated to make them taste better.

Today, they're treated sweetly for another reason, according to researchers of a pharmaceutical manufacturer.

Sugar coating helps preserve the medicine and protect it from moisture, light, heat, cold and other elements. It is also used for delayed action, as in the enteric coated tablet.

3D Continues to Flourish Despite Critics

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — No matter how hard they try, they can't seem to kill off 3D.

The "depthies" caused Hollywood's first big splurge on new dimensions for the screen. But then the studios concentrated more on screen size, rather than the third dimension. Movie goers complained that the glasses were bothersome, and it looked as though 3D was going out the window.

But it is still in business. Having had good luck with "Hondo," Warners put out the current "Phantom of the Rue Morgue" in 3D. It will do the same with the big-budget Alfred Hithcock thriller, "Dial M for Murder". And Leonard Goldstein's Panoramic Co., will issue "Gorilla at Large" in the stereo version.

"You can't count out 3D," says Goldstein. "It may do poorly in one town, but sensationally in another. Exhibitors who don't want to bother with the glasses can just run the picture in 2D."

Goldstein runs today's liveliest independent film company. Having turned out a dozen films for 20th Century-Fox release, he now is dickering with a number of major distributors for future films. He is in a good position, since the theater men are howling about the film shortage.

He is also doing something about the talent shortage. "Somebody had better start building some new stars soon," he warns, "or these present ones will be too old." He has four promising newcomers in his stable: Cleo Moore, Lee Marvin, Jeffery Stone and Lisa Daniels. . . .

Return of Nickel Cigar?

NEW YORK (INS)—If what this country needs is a "good five-cent cigar," there's a cigar company trying to produce one. The General Cigar Co. announced a new "homogenized" tobacco method that forms the filler into an endless band. This new process of treating tobacco is supposed to cut costs, making the nickel smoke a distinct possibility.

'Fair' Roosevelt Offer Would Be Considered

LOS ANGELES (INS) — An attorney for the estranged wife of James Roosevelt offered today to consider a "fair and reasonable" proposal to settle the couple's bitter marital dispute peacefully.

Attorney Arthur Schifferman, referring to Roosevelt's recent offer to give his wife, Romelle, half of his assets and half his future earnings if she would get a peaceful divorce, said:

"Consideration will be given at any time to a peaceful settlement of the controversey, but any proposal from Roosevelt must be what we consider fair and reasonable."

Akron College Has Class for Older Women

AKRON, O. (UP)—Akron University believes you never are too old to learn.

The university explains that if mom or grandma was going to school when she married, she probably had to drop out because she didn't have time to study. Now, because she is married, she is going back to school to fill up some of the vacant time.

It has set up a series of courses for older women. Dr. E. D. Duryea, head of the adult education department, says the courses will be open to all, with no educational prerequisites. Courses will include politics, world history, the arts and a special course on group participation and leadership.

"Women now have more leisure time than their husbands, and their influence can broaden the background for the men as well as themselves," Duryea told a prospective class.

Courses are held in the afternoon. This schedule will give the women a chance to attend while the youngsters are in school and papa is at work. They still will have time enough to get home and take care of chores before the rest of the family arrives.

Strike Underground River in Idaho

TWIN FALLS, Ida. (UP)—Officials here say they have tapped what seems to be an underground river that may provide ample water for hundreds of acres of new land being brought under cultivation in the eastern corner of Twin Falls County.

The well, on the new land owned by Ted Sturgill of Kimberly, was drilled to a depth of only 180 feet. From the pumping level of 125 feet, the well is producing a flow of 362 inches of water.

Most other wells in the area produce only about 20 or 60 inches of water.

Sturgill said tests of the new well have been made by constant pumping for several hours, and the water level remains constant.

Drillers said they had expected to work several weeks longer until the drill hit a crevice that carried the stream of water. They described it as almost like an oil gusher.

A six-foot wide ditch was dug to carry off the test water.

Announce New Method to Get Titanium Alloys

CHICAGO (UP)—The Armour Research Foundation of the Illinois Institute of Technology has announced development of an improved method of producing important titanium alloys.

The foundation said ingots weighing up to 100 pounds can be produced by a double melting process worked out at the institute. It said the process can be applied easily to commercial-scale production.

Such alloys are gaining rapidly in importance, the foundation said, because their light weight and high strength make them valuable in jet aircraft construction.

Man Goes Nowhere Without His Owl

BOSTON (UP)—Gilbert Merrill attracts a lot of pop-eyed glances when he drives his car through the streets of Boston. For, walking back and forth across the top of the front seat, invariably, is a horned owl.

Merrill is assistant director of education at the Boston Museum of Science. And the owl is his constant traveling companion.

Found in Milton woods nearly three years ago, when it was only a few days old, the owl was brought to the museum and promptly adopted. It was named Spooky.

Spooky has made various television appearances and has figured in lectures delivered by Merrill. It is estimated that the owl has made 150 personal appearances in New England and has traveled more than 7,000 miles.

Conditions Good as Angling Army Opens Season

By JAMES A. O. CROWE
Associated Press Outdoor Writer

GRAYLING (AP) — Michigan's world-famed trout waters were besieged by close to 200,000 anglers today.

And several thousand other fishermen headed for lakes to open the bluegill and sunfish season at the same time.

With the opening of the trout and general fishing season, all species of fish in the state except black bass became legal game.

The opening day fishermen were hopeful of better than average success as lakes and streams were in good condition. Air temperatures ranged up to the 60's, and predictions of showers totaling between half an inch and an inch were not expected to dampen the fishermen's ardor or chances for success.

Sunday's weather prediction called for cooler temperatures but no rain.

Trout streams, which have been closed except in special cases since last September, were lower and warmer than they were for last year's good opening.

Several fly hatches which attracted rising trout were reported during the last week on streams in this area.

Stream temperatures generally were in the high 40's and some were as warm as 50 degrees. Trout rarely hit artificial dry flies at water temperatures under 55, so most opening week-end trout fishing will be done under the surface.

Live bait, plugs and spoons, streamers and bucktails and nymphs in about that order will be the preferred baits.

Most northern towns were alive with fishermen in the off-fishing hours, and Kalkaska was especially jumping.

The board of commerce there was staging the annual National Trout Festival. Contests, a dance, a banquet, queen and king crownings and a parade attracted thousands to the town.

Great emphasis was on the trout opening in the north, but many fishermen headed for stocked trout ponds and lakes in the southern third of the state.

Lake fishermen for bluegills and the species on which there was no closed season were about evenly distributed throughout the state.

The conservation department continued its warnings about the danger of forest fires, despite the predictions of rain.

Particularly in the north, danger of fire starting in the dry debris of last year will continue high despite the expected minor showers. The danger will continue until a soaking rain or until the fire-resistant green vegetation appears.

All fishermen and any others planning to be in the open this weekend were urged to use every possible precaution with fire.

Hal Faces Old Mates in Comeback Effort

By LLOYD NORTHARD

DETROIT (UP)—Southpaw Hal Newhouser watched Ned Garver shackle his Cleveland teammates with six hits Friday and said "I hope I do as well."

Garver kept the Detroit Tigers in 1st place with his 2nd straight pitching masterpiece, a 6-1 victory over the Indians.

Newhouser, discarded by the Tigers as washed up last season, starts his comeback today with the Indians.

"I just hope the fans don't boo me," said Newhouser.

He will be opposed by Steve Gromek.

Garver, who blanked the Baltimore Orioles 1-0 in his 1st outing, tamed the Indians with ease. He scattered six singles and walked only three batters.

Start of the game was delayed an hour while Cleveland waited for its equipment to arrive. Uniforms, bats and gloves, were sent to Pittsburgh by mistake.

Tigers stalked the baby-faced right-hander to a 5-run lead in the 1st inning as they sent Early Wynn to the showers.

Frank Bolling greeted Wynn with a single and promptly scored on Jim Delsing's double. Ray Boone chased Delsing home with a single and the bases were loaded on Walt Dropo's single and an error which allowed Al Kaline to reach 1st when Bill Tuttle singled Boone home.

Frank House rapped reliefer Dave Hoskins with a two-run double before the Indians could halt the rally.

Hoskins was charged with the final Detroit run, in the 4th inning on a triple by Tuttle and House's long fly to right.

Garver saw his shutout bid vanish in the 5th. Leadoff man Dave Pope walked, advanced to 2nd on an infield out and scored on Jim Hegan's sharp single to center.

Wall Surprise Leader in Big Las Vegas Test

Pennsylvania Pro Holds 2-Stroke Advantage in Champs' Tourney

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Golfers in the $35,000 Tournament of Champions faced another windy day and the task of overhauling the surprise leader, Art Wall Jr., today as play swung into the third round.

Wall, 30-year-old pro from Pocono Manor, Pa., and a comparative stranger to headlines, held a two-stroke lead over his nearest challenger in the quest for the $10,000 first prize when the 72-hole affair ends Sunday.

Wall took command late yesterday with a six under par 66. The performance broke the competitive record for the Desert Inn country club course and shattered the back nine holes of the par 36-36—72, 7,102-yard layout.

All Wall did was barg out four birdies and an eagle on the trip home for a round that read 36-30—66. His two day total was 69-66—135.

Mangrum fired a 71 for 139.

And while only six strokes separated the leaders from the tailender on the first round, the spread today was greater. The last in the field of 19 was Dick Mayer, at 152.

Ted Kroll, who shared the lead in the initial round at 68, dropped back with a 73 for 141. He was tied with Al Besselink, winner of this event a year ago, and Cary Middlecoff, both of whom had 71s.

Sam Snead, the betting favorite, failed to gain much ground. Snead, his irons again acting up, played even par but at 145 was 10 strokes off the pace.

Chandler Harper, runnerup last year and a man with a 69 the first day fell back with a 74 for 143, where he was tied with veteran E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, who shot a 73.

Earl Stewart Jr., who was last with a 74, shot a 70 and pulled up to 144.

Knee Okeh Now

Garver Is Ready to Be Tigers' Top Pitcher

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—Ned Garver, born on Christmas day in 1925, may be a summertime Santa Claus for the Detroit Tigers in 1954.

No longer bothered by a trick knee, the curve-balling righthander has given strong indications he's ready to become Detroit's No. 1 pitcher this season. The Tigers couldn't ask for a finer present.

Trainer Jack Homel doesn't have to rush onto the field and pop Garver's knee back into place like he did last season. The ailment apparently is cured, and the only popping out being done is by enemy batters.

With two straight complete-game victories, the 28-year-old Garver seems to have regained his mound magic of three seasons ago, when he won 20 games for the last place St. Louis Browns.

Garver has permitted only one run and 12 hits in 20 innings this season. He blanked Baltimore 1-0 and yesterday stopped Cleveland 6-1. He also pitched two scoreless innings in relief against Baltimore.

"The knee doesn't bother me a bit," Garver said. "I don't even think about how it used to pop out on me. I feel like a guy who has all his debts wiped off the books."

At least 20 times last year Garver was sent sprawling—often in full view of the crowd—when a loose cartilege in his left knee slipped out of place.

When the season ended, Garver underwent an operation. He's positive the knee will never bother him again.

County's Anglers Out Early Today

Practically every Oakland County lake with a public access fishing site today had its quota of hopeful anglers as the 1954 season got under way.

Boat liveries reported a brisk business starting early in the morning. But there were few reports of unusual success among the pike, bluegill and trout addicts at an early hour. Many Oakland county trout fishermen planned to work the half dozen streams and several trout ponds in the area, which have been stocked this spring.

Indicative of the day's activities was a spot check on boats at Square Lake. An observer counted 24. He noted one lone, hardy fisherman wading the margin of the lake.

Pontiac Press "Big Fish Derby" was under way today, also. Entries will be taken for pike and bluegill, only, with black bass coming on later. Entries close at noon Saturdays and noon are taken Sundays. Weekday entry hours at this office are between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Romeo 9 Seeks Games

Fisherman Favored Over Correlation in Wood Run

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The $100,000 added Wood Memorial is down for decision at Jamaica today with Fisherman seeking to prove that a good little horse can clip a good big horse and head for Louisville as the favorite to win the May 1 running of the Kentucky Derby.

Fisherman, who carried C. V. Whitney's light blue silks to an easy victory in the sloppy Gotham stakes last Saturday, is the 7 to 5 choice to measure R. S. Lytle's lanky, long striding Correlation over the mile and an eighth route of the Wood.

The California-owned Correlation, future book favorite for the Derby in which the Whitney Colt is the co-second choice with Determine at 5 to 2, is held at 2 to 1 for today's rich final eastern preview of Churchill Downs' three-year-old turf classic.

Six other three-year old colts, all except one eligible for the Derby, also have been named for the Wood but if any reach the finish line first it'll be the turf upset of the year.

Weather permitting Jamaica officials expect some 50,000 to sit in on the proceedings with thousands of others watching the race via television (CBS) or hearing it on radio (ABC). Post time is shortly after 4 p.m. EST.

Busy Day for Preps

Radatz Hurls No-Hitter, Vikings Blank Skippers, Singleton Stars in Invitational

By JACK SAYLOR

Another no-hitter and near no-hitter highlighted Friday's Oakland County prep action as a busy day was recorded in both baseball and track.

Rangy Dick Radatz of Berkley fired the prep season's 2nd no-hitter as he shackled Farmington, 9-0. The 6-5 right hander made it nearly a one-man show by belting out three hits himself, including a home run.

Curiously, Radatz was the losing pitcher in the year's other no-hitter just last Wednesday. Cranbrook's Steve Hayes did the whitewashing. A base on balls in the 4th inning ruined Radatz' perfect game.

A fine one-hit chore by Waterford's Barry Fell ended in defeat as Walled Lake took a 2-0 decision behind Gil Wilkinson. A hit batsman, an error and a sacrifice fly gave the Vikings one run in the 1st and Don Williams homered in the 5th, the lone safety off Fell.

Fell fanned 7 and walked two, while Wilkinson struck out 9 and also walked two en route to a 4-hit victory.

In another Inter-Lakes game, Southfield opened its title defense by beating Van Dyke, 4-2, on a 4-hitter by southpaw Tom McCormick, who whiffed 12 and walked four. Jim Gudenburr tripled in two runs in the 3rd and Augie Ricca singled in the winning runs in the 5th.

Elsewhere, Clarenceville downed Keego Harbor, 6-1, as Keego's Bucky O'Shaughnessy ruined a no-hitter for the Clarenceville pitcher with one out in the 7th. Brighton trimmed Northville, 4-2, in another Wayne-Oakland game on Max Southwell's 5-hitter.

Tom Raines tossed 5-hit, ball as Clawson tripped Avondale, 4-1, in the Oakland-B. Rochester edged Lake Orion, 6-5, with sophomore Billy Henderson pitching. Steve Parnicky's air-tight relief hurling gave Imlay City a 6-2 win over Ortonville. He came on in the 1st, fanned 12 and pitched shutout ball.

In track, Keego Harbor finished behind Howell and Fenton in the Howell Invitational meet, but Dennis Singleton of the Presidents walked off with individual honors. He won both dashes, broad jump and anchored Keego's victorious half-mile relay team.

Waterford nipped Cranbrook, 56½ to 53½ as Kerry Keating, Lyn Salathiel, Laine Hetherington and Ray Campbell raced home 1st in the final event, the 880-yard relay.

Milford edged Clarkston 55½ to 53½, by piling up seconds and thirds. Clarkston's Don Turek won the dashes, broad jump and anchored the winning speed relay. Dick Jackman ran a 4:58 mile for Milford and Don Colegrove hurled the shot 41 feet, 1¾ inches. Gordon Cascaddan turned in a 2:09.6 half-mile for Clarkston.

Orioles May Have Found Bargain in Athletics' Castoff, Joe Coleman, as He Out-Duels Pierce

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The new Baltimore Orioles, criticized in some quarters for picking up too many Athletics and not enough athletes, are rapidly nearing the point where they can have the last laugh.

One of the biggest reasons is Joe Coleman, a sore-armed right-hander resurrected by Philadelphia last season from Savannah of the Sally League where he had lost 12 of 13.

It had been five seasons since Coleman had shown real promise in the majors and his 3-4 record in 1953 with only two complete games didn't indicate Baltimore was getting any prize when the Orioles traded Bob Cain to get him and wildman Frank Fanovich.

Cain went to the minors without pitching an inning. So did Fanovich. But Coleman really has blossomed.

He made his second start yesterday, pitched his second complete game and won for the first time beating the Chicago White Sox 3-1, in 10 innings. His other time out he lost a three-hit heartbreaker to Ned Garver and Detroit 1-0. In 19 innings he has given up only nine hits.

Coleman needed all of his skill because the Orioles weren't getting anywhere against Billy Pierce until Vern Stephens homered in the eighth. Then in the 10th they picked up two on Billy Hunter's single, Ray Murray's double and a single by Coleman, himself.

Brooklyn and Pittsburgh used 4 hours 13 minutes before the Dodgers won 6-5 in 13 innings. Milwaukee and St. Louis played 4 hours and 2 minutes with the Braves winning 7-5 in 14 innings. They were the longest games of the season, both in time and in innings.

* * *

Wildness by Bill Henry and Bill Werle set up Washington's winning rally in the seventh against Boston. The Senators used three walks, three singles and an error to score four runs to beat Boston, 7-5.

BURMEISTER'S LUMBER

TO MY CUSTOMERS:

—and, Customers to Be, I would like to point out a few things that have made the Northern Lumber Co. grow from the smallest Lumber yard to the largest in the Lake Area in four short years. In order for this to happen we have offered the people Value! And when you offer Value it is no good unless you can put Quality with it. We have done just that. We have kept our lumber yard open from 8:00 a. m. 'til 8:00 p. m. daily for those who work late to be of service to you without extra cost. We have been open Sundays to be of service to the man who only has Sunday off. We offer you one of the widest delivery radius! We have purchased Trucks with Van bodies so we can deliver your material in rain or snow without the chance of getting damp or wet. Also when we advertise a special item at a low price we don't cut the quality to do so. Instead we cut our profit. I do not claim to have 40 or 50 years in the lumber business. I only have 10 years. I am a young fellow. I am willing to learn but I believe the 10 years experience I have along with all my employees experience, can total together over 80 years of building knowledge so what one of us doesn't know the other should.

Hoping you will drop in our office and give us a chance to serve you or give us a chance to show you our quality low prices some time soon I remain

Sincerly Yours,

Moths Love Woolens From Second Meal On

Entomologists say that the material of which moth eggs are made serves as the first meal of larvae after they are hatched.

From that time on, however, the insects have a passion for overcoats, suits and furs.

Price is no object. They are attracted to the finest garments as well as those from the bargain basement. An effective way to frustrate the destructive insects is to store your woolens in a cedar closet, where the aromatic fumes will kill the larvae.

CONTEMPORARY TEAM—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Duenas, young designing team, discuss the marketing of their new wrought iron and reed furniture. Manufactured at the Pontiac Industrial Plating Co., 27 Jacokes St., Pontiac. Ficks Reed of Cincinnati is showing the latest in Duenas designs.

ARTIST AT WORK—Peter Duenas, who has run the gamut in the artistic fields, is now designing furniture and accessories. Named Young Designer of the Year in 1953, Duenas now lives in Pontiac and manufactures his own designs. Formerly he designed the Pontiac car interiors and has worked in oils, pastels, in sketching and once in the field of architecture.

Talented Artist Fashions Interiors for Northwood

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

Although it was only last year that the "Man in the Moon" put Peter J. Duenas, of Pontiac, in the manufacturing business, the world had been noting for several years this young man's meteoric rise in the many different fields of art.

They were the skeptical critics who shook their heads; the more generous suggested patient waiting—he would soon stub his toe!

But in an unobtrusive manner this New York born son of artistic people from Bogota, Colombia, continued to do sculpturing, produce outstanding oils in portraits and landscapes, delicate pastels and startling impressionistic sketches. The door to architecture beckoned and he found himself helping to plan structures.

Today Peter Duenas, just recently passed his 30 year milestone, is still reticent to talk about the evolution of this artistic talent which during World War II found him more than 12 hours a day behind a drafting board in Washington preparing military maps. He was connected with the Army Map Service, Corps of Engineers.

Part of his work, too, was to develop technical illustrations for the Army Air Corps to facilitate the dismanteling and rapid reassembly of the highly mechanized weapons of war.

"I only was doing what I was supposed to. Every man and every woman is given a talent of some type and mine happened to be in the artistic field. I would feel that I had wasted an opportunity to serve society if I did not do the many things I feel inside me have to be done," says this serious-faced young man who has a quick sense of humor when he remembers some of his pitfalls.

For instance, he knows stage scenery design is not for him—especially when he had to design it, construct it and then hold it up while the performance went on.

Duenas credits the fine teachers he had the opportunity to study under with his success.

"When you can learn from such people as Dr. Edwin Muller whom I studied with at the School of Fine Industrial Arts in New York and then with Alexander Kostellow of Pratt Institute, you are bound to see the challenge art offers," Duenas said.

From the former school he holds the Saint-Caudens medal for excellence in draftsmanship.

Following the war, Duenas' interest and abilities swung to furniture design. He worked with Edmond Spence, an internationally known furniture designer. A disciple of contemporary line in furniture, his designs became conversation pieces for the furniture industry.

The automobile, succeeding this interval, drew his interest and he became associated with General Motors doing the Pontiac car interiors. Going to the top in this department, he turned out the interiors for custom-built cars for such celebrities as Bing Crosby.

For some time he was associated with Swanson Associates in Bloomfield Hills working with Pipsan Saarinen Swanson in interior furnishing designing.

The "Man in the Moon" developed one day when a Detroit orthodontist requested that Duenas do a children's waiting room interior for him.

"He lamented the fact that they simply never hung up their coats or hats. Hence the "Man in the Moon."

This is a round-faced slightly curved piece of wood with friendly eyes of wrought iron and the other facial lines also of iron. Painted red and yellow knobs on the iron hold the caps and coats and this congenial face invites youthful cooperation.

Today two-thirds of the country has heard of the "Man in the Moon," and from coast to coast Duenas is known for his prize-winning candelabra and centerpiece designs. His combination coffee table and magazine rack also are widely recognized.

He was selected as Young Designer of 1953; his wall sconce design took the American Institute of Decorator's award in 1952. Several other exhibits in the nation have awarded him recognition for his designs.

His furniture and accessories are being manufactured at the Pontiac Industrial Plating Co., 27 Jacokes Street, Pontiac.

Hundreds of sketches go into the wastepaper basket before Duenas develops the perfect idea, he says. Then, he likes to make with his own hands what he has on the onion skin paper.

His furniture now is being shown by the Ficks Reed Co., of Cincinnati, manufacturers and designers of contemporary furnishings. Wrought iron framed pieces, some with woven imported cane seats and backs; others with cushions upholstered in rubber and covered with Duenas' patterned fabrics are being built daily.

One of the most important events in Peter Duenas' life took place when a year or more ago he married an attractive young woman who understood what he had to do in the field of art.

"Some people simply never understand an artist. But my wife, Pat, knows that my concentration is no preoccupation," he says.

She helps run the business by looking after the staff. Keeping books and appointments also is part of her job.

Duenas recently has developed all of the interior designs for the Northwood Building Co., new home exhibits at the corner of Middlebelt and Orchard Lake Rds.

"I have only begun in the furnishings field, but with the trend today toward simplicity in living, I'm sure contemporary is here to stay," he says.

How to Stretch Screening Wire Tight on Frame

It's time to hang screens and shift storm windows to storage for the summer.

Some screens may need repairs, some may even need new screen wire. To stretch screen wire really tight on the frame, here's a good method that meets with success.

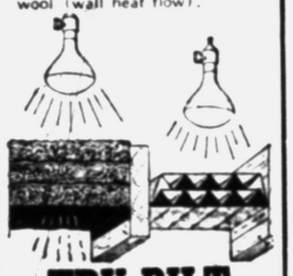

Lay a couple of 2x4's parallel across a pair of saw horses or boxes and lay two more 2x4's at right angles across the first pair. Then place the screen frame on top.

Tack the screen wire to the top member of the screen frame. Clip C-clamps over the side rails of the frame and the bottom 2x4's and tighten them until the rails are slightly bowed downward.

You can then tack the wire to the bottom member of the frame. Release the clamps and finish tacking the now-taught screen wire to the two side rails.

To Clean Starch Off Iron

Here's how to clean starch from a hot iron without waiting for it to cool. Rub a damp cloth with soap, place this over several layers of paper, and run the iron back and forth over it.

If this doesn't remove the coating of starch immediately, repeat with a fresh section of the cloth, newly soaped. Then press over a clean, damp cloth.

Table Changed by Accessories

Match Dinner Mood by Dressing the Setting Up or Down

NEW YORK — The fashion field has long been aware of the possibilities in "dressing down" or "dressing up" by means of accessory changes. Now the housewife is finding that her table can likewise be formal or informal—depending on the accessories used.

A table merchandise editor asserts that the change of silver, crystal, linen and other table articles can do as much for the home as changing of blouses, hats, gloves and handbags can do for the basic suit.

A second set of china; a new pattern of crystal stemware; candlesticks or candelabra in silver or in brass, copper or wrought iron — provided that these will go well with what you already have — individual or open salts and peppers; or a new tablecloth, she points out, can all be utilized to create such changes of mood.

One of the basic needs for today's table settings is a silver pattern that reflects the gracious welcome of the hostess to her guests, no matter what the occasion.

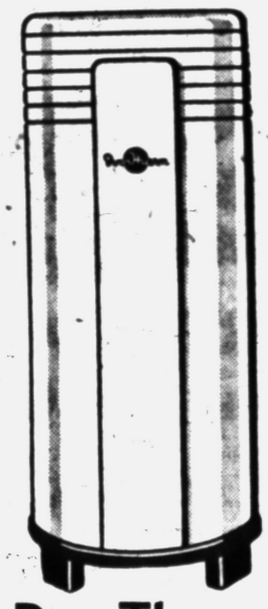

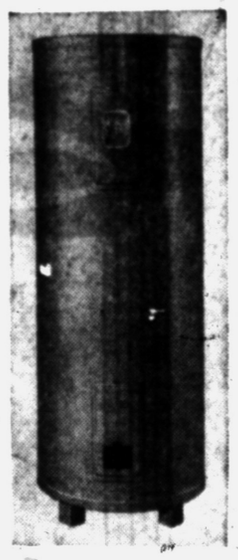

Simple patterns in flatware, report homemakers surveyed here, answer the needs—formal or informal—often required for today's dining.

BUILDERS SHOW— A capacity crowd turned out Friday to attend the Greater Pontiac Builders Show being held through today, tonight and tomorrow from noon until 6 p.m. Sponsored by the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce, everything in the latest building materials is on display. Local merchants have erected 34 exhibits for the public to view. Being held in the Pontiac Armory at 27 Water Street, Pontiac, the show has been presented for four days and will be an annual affair.

Planning Lot as Important as Architecture of House

Planning a lot can be just as important as planning a house.

Placing a home on the lot will determine what use can be made of outdoor space. To avoid a cut-up lot that will be of little real use, start planning the use of outdoor areas before building, not afterward.

Determine how the lot will be used — for family relaxation, for gardening, for the children's play area, for at-home picnics — and let its plan evolve from those considerations. Here are some planning suggestions:

1. Today's accent on outdoor living makes a terrace essential.

2. Circulation — how people will get from one area to another — should be studied carefully. Where will deliveries be made? How will the terrace be reached? Will fences or hedges restrict circulation?

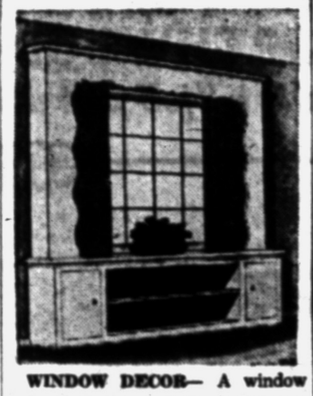

3. Every outdoor living area needs privacy. Perhaps a fence will be needed to give it, or low bushes or shrubs that do not require a good deal of care.

4. Shade is an essential, for any outdoor area can become uncomfortably hot in summer. If there are existing trees on the lot, try to save and utilize them. Otherwise some sort of trellis will provide shade.

5. A play area for the children will keep them out of the street. Swings and a seesaw will provide many hours of fun. Younger children need a sandbox. A storage space for toys used outdoors is a great help.

6. If possible, the house should be so oriented on the lot that the homemaker can keep one eye on the outdoor play area.

7. Gardening tools should be stored near the garden, or in space nearby. If they will be kept in the garage, make definite allocation for them.

WINDOW DECOR— A window valance to house indirect lighting as well as curtain fixtures and to provide book shelves and storage cabinets below is an easy and gratifying project for the home craftsman.

The design shown here can be adapted to almost any window width and height. Standard 1x10 lumber is used for valance, stile boards, sides and back, and 1x12 for the counter board over the lower shelves

This design was worked out by the Homograf Co., 11711 E. 8-Mile Rd., East Detroit.

Keep Sprinkled Clothes 'on Ice'

You'll find it worthwhile to juggle the food in your refrigerator to make room for freshly sprinkled clean clothes. In hot weather, there's always the chance they'll mildew unless you're able to do the ironing theironing promptly.

When that's not convenient, you can dampen the laundry and put it into a plastic bag — or wrap it in a plastic sheet — and then store it in the refrigerator till you're ready to iron. The heat of the iron striking the chilled fabric creates a light steam which smoothes wrinkles quickly and easily.

Although it has few natural harbors, Argentina has a coastline along the Atlantic of 1,610 miles.

Prepare House Before Painting

Don't Grab Brush Until Loose Paint and Dirt Have Been Removed

When people get the urge to paint a house they usually run out, buy a few buckets of paint and some brushes and start slapping the stuff on just as fast as they can.

This method speeds up the job considerably but the chances are you'll end up with a paint job that isn't going to last for very long. There is a good deal of work connected with painting a house and a lot of it doesn't involve either paint or a brush — it involves getting the surfaces ready for the paint.

One of the first jobs in preparing a house for paint is to remove the loose and blistered paint.

For this you use a stiff wire brush or a scraper. Along with the loose paint you'll also remove a good deal of the dirt that gets caught in little cracks and crevices. You'll probably find that the paint over knots in the wood does not hold very well and the treatment here is to remove the paint, sand the knot smooth and then coat with shellac.

When the shellac is dry, touch it up with paint before repainting the entire surface. Cracks in the wood siding and open joints should be cleaned out and then filled before painting. White lead and putty are fine for small cracks and caliking compound is good for open joints.

Nail heads which are flush with the wood siding should be punched below it and the resulting hole filled with wood putty. This, of course, applies to nails made of corrosive metals. Loose nails should be removed and replaced. Loose siding and shingles should be renailed and badly damaged sections of siding should be replaced.

Windows should be checked over and reputtied if necessary. All outside metal should be cleaned and then given a prime coat unless the metal is non-corrosive such as copper.

With copper, clean it and then coat with spar varnish. As you go over the outside of your house you'll find hundreds of little items to be attended to. Chances are that by the time you have it ready for paint you'll be ready to call someone else in to do the job for you. That's okay, too. By preparing the house for paint yourself you've saved a big pile of dough.

Keep Ironer Spic and Span With Each Use

Freshly laundered clothes may pick up stains as they're fed through your ironer unless it is kept scrupulously clean.

Starch, scorch, and dye spots, left on the metal shoe and roll-cover from previous ironings, are likely to rub off on damp laundry. To end this nuisance, wipe the metal shoe with a sudsy cloth after each use, as soon as it's cool enough. Next wipe with a clean damp cloth, then polish with a dry one.

Better still, keep spare covers on tap so you'll always have a fresh supply to draw from when you sit down to iron.

Paint Spots on Brick Not Easy to Remove

A scraper, sand-blaster, or a commercial paint remover will take paint spots off brick, depending on how long the paint has set.

If the paint spots have been on the bricks a long time, a paint remover is not very effective. About the only thing to do is scrape off the encrusted spots with a scraper, then rub with a wire brush and steel wool.

If this doesn't work and the stains remain, sand-blasting is the only answer. It will do a thorough job, but it's more expensive.

CAPRI OPENS TODAY—The living room of the new Capri, presented this weekend at 6024 Orchard Lake Rd. and 2258 Middlebelt Rd. features an island fireplace. Another wall is paneled and still another wall has full-windows. The model, which will be open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. today and Sunday, was constructed by the Modern Home Corp. of Dearborn. This house is an example of the strides made in building technology in pre-cut houses cutting costs by about 20% because they can be factory assembled and hauled to the home site.

Homes Designed for Area of Widely-Varying Climate

A versatile, contemporary home design, created to meet the needs of families living in the belt from Maine to Montana is being marketed by Modern Homes Corporation, 14507 W. Warren Ave., Dearborn.

A pre-cut and prefabricated house which offers practical and adequate family comfort in a climate belt where the temperature ranges from sub-zero to 100 degrees within a six-month period, the Capri is fully insulated with glass areas double glazed.

The design has front and rear elevations which are equally attractive making its orientation to different sized lots possible.

Floor plan includes three bedrooms and a room-size studio wall of textured Wedgewood for the living room. It has storage wall units which can be moved to change shape or size of rooms and a modern, low-pitched roof with deep canopy for shelter and shade.

Unique feature of this design is the master bedroom which has a built-in, alcove vanity with inset lavatory.

Measuring 58 by 26, the house offers a kitchen in modified U-shape with a full complement of cabinets, cupboards and working areas. All floors are asphalt tile with kitchen and bathroom walls finished in plastic tile.

Lumpy Bedding Hinders Sleep

Electroencephalography—or the science of amplifying and recording the electrical activity given off by the brain—has shed new light on sleeping patterns.

Findings indicate that a normal adult doesn't plunge into sleep as one might imagine. Rather, he passes into and out of a drowsy state like a wave rolling on the ocean. He dips into sleep, awakens, dips again, and finally passes fairly rapidly through very light sleep, light sleep, and moderately deep sleep into deep sleep—the entire journey often requiring from one half to one hour.

Relaxation, the experts say, is the key to setting the sleep sequence in motion and carrying it through to a successful end. Many an insomniac could eliminate his sleeping blues simply by discarding uncomfortable, lumpy or sagging bedding in favor of a new level, resilient foundation.

By using comfortable bedding that supports all of his tired muscles, one not only finds it easier to relax and thereby drift into the sleep cycle more easily, but also receives more beneficial rest from the hours he spends in slumber. He awakens refreshed and prepared to meet his daily problems more cheerfully and more efficiently.

Tired insomniacs will have a particularly good opportunity to consider the merits of new mattresses, bedsprings, and pillows by visiting their local dealers during better bedding time, the month of May.

New Wood Veneer Extremely Flexible

There is a thin, flexible type of veneer that can be bent around a curve for some modern woodworking.

Lumber dealers can order it. It is composed of an extremely thin wood on a cloth backing. The veneer can be bent around a pencil and is available in most types of wood.

Aromatic Cedar Closets Keep Clothes Mothproof

If you've just found your best suit ruined by moths, you may wonder why nature provided for such destructive creatures.

Entomologists say they served a useful purpose at one time by acting as a check on excessive vegetation. Nowadays, moth damage to clothing can be prevented by storing garments in closets lined with aromatic red cedar.

Washing Dishes No Tough Chore

Home Economist Does Job in Only 17 Minutes Without Dishwasher

Stacks of pots, pans and china are not a glamorous prospect at any time. They are repetitious, unrewarding — and inevitable. So why not review your dishwashing habits and compare them with those of a home economist whose method is guaranteed to cut minutes off the sink routine daily? She did dinner dishes, pots, cutlery and glassware in 17 minutes, without a mechanical dishwasher.

1. Have a cart on wheels and spin it to the dinner table. Stack all soiled dishes and remainder foods on it, and wheel it directly to the sinkside.

2. Scrape, stack and rinse dishes and arange in order of washing: glasses, silver, plates, then pots and pans which had been set to rinse as soon as cooking was finished.

3. Wash and rinse. Place freshly washed items onto drainboard, so that hot rinse water may be poured directly over them.

4. Dry glasses and silver, but allow plates, etc., to air-dry.

The whole procedure for a full-course meal's dishes required only 17 minutes: three for stacking on cart, four for scraping, rinsing and stacking, five for washing and rinsing, and five for drying glassware and silver.

The expert recommended several little helps that sped dishwashing at all times, such as swinging faucets and faucet-attached potwashers, a rubber-tipped dish scraper, detergents which leave no soap film, and a supply of dishwashing aids stored on shelves inside the swinging door in the storage space below the sink.

Screen Frames Should Match Window Trim

The frames of screens should be painted so that they match the color of their companion window and door frames. This may mean, of course, that the inside colors differ from the outer ones.

The screen wire should also be painted—on both sides—and before the frame is coated. Steel or galvanized screens need the protective coating to prevent their rusting.

While copper and bronze wire screens do not rust, they also should have a protective coating because a corrosive wash develops that strains and disfigures any light-colored areas below them.

Spar varnish or special screen paint should be used. Both types of coating can be applied with a spray gun, brush, short-napped roller or an inexpensive screen-painting tool, made from a block of wood and covered with carpet on one side. While the paint or varnish film is still wet, it's wise to jar the screen sufficiently to keep the openings in the mesh from becoming clogged.

Water Vapor Cause of Paint Peeling, Rot

The existence of a silent enemy that works constantly to destroy that can cause such expensive damis not always recognized by home owners. The trouble-maker is water vapor.

In addition to rotting and weakening the timbers of a house, it is the direct cause of at least 80 per cent of the causes of exterior paint peeling. Actually the peeling paint is rendering the home owner a service for it reveals the presence of the destructive enemy that can caus such expensive damage.

PATTERN 319

The dowel-pins used as joinings add a decorative note to this magazine stand. The rubbed edges and oil finish supply the charm that belongs to fine hand-craft furniture. Note the handle for carrying to where it is most needed. The top shelf gives the added usefulness of a small table. The pattern provides for tracing the curves of the end members, and the scalloped front directly onto the wood. If you do not have a power saw for cutting these curves, better trace them onto your material and have this done for you. The cost of the pattern is 25c. Include $1 additional and receive the Useful Tables and Stands Packet containing over twenty-two hundred square inches of tracing drawings and directions.

Time-Saving Hints Offered

Minutes Can Be Saved in Household Routine by Observing Tips

The homemaker's greatest luxury is time. But how often she wastes it!

Are you guilty of little practices which literally add hours to your domestic work week? Here are some suggestions that can pare many a minute off a typical household schedule, and leave you leisure for yourself:

1. Save steps, motions and time by using a laundry cart. Pile everything into it and push it around where you need it.

2. Have a work surface on wheel or casters and covered with stainproof clay tile, that you can move around the kitchen to every activity.

3. Put silver in tarnishproof bags or chests after it has been washed and thoroughly dried. Polishing is one of the most time-taking activities.

4. Do a quick floor-cleaning job with an upright mop. This is especially practical on simple-to-wipe floors like clay tile in the bathroom and kitchen.

5. Cothes won't have to be dampened before ironing if you use a steam iron.

6. Dishes will not require wiping if you use a detergent to wash them, rinse them, and set them in a dish drainer to dry. Be sure the drainboard or counter is of heat and water-resistant material like clay tile so that you can pour on plenty of sterilizing hot water.

7. Develop good storage habits. Put foods and utensils, for example, where they'll be used, not somewhere across the room.

8. On dusting and cleaning day, place all products and equipment into a basket or cart and take it from job to job, room to room.

9. Plan menus by the week and shop once a week.

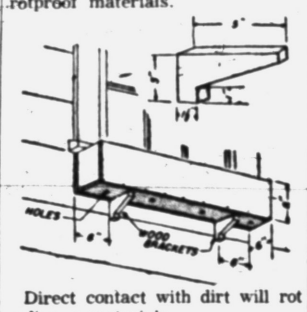

10. Adjust your budget so that you can purchase, from time to time, some of the new appliances which literally work for you.

Window Boxes Brighten Home, Easy to Build

They are easy to build, too, in the home workshop.

Make the box six inches wide, eight inches high and long enough to span the window. Line it with rotproof materials.

Direct contact with dirt will rot ordinary materials.

For supports, make wood brackets as shown upper right. In addition, drive three eight-penny nails through the back side of the box into the wall. Use three brackets to support wide boxes. . .

Gutters and downspouts can be constant sources of moisture-penetration trouble. Whether they are constructed of wood or metal, they should be frequently checked, kept clean and well painted to avoid expensive damage.

Partitions of Patterned Glass Create 'Open Feeling', Brighten Drab Rooms

How to cheer up the drab halls, dark rooms, nooks and cranies of an older home is one problem many home handymen have solved by "discovering" patterned glass.

Borrowing ideas from new home builders using patterned glass as partitions, room dividers, shelves and cabinet doors to achieve a feeling of "open living" while maintaining privacy between rooms, do-it-yourself decorators are finding that modernizing with patterned glass is easy, economical and attractive.

"Patterned glass," says H. Creston Doner, design consultant for Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company, "is a distinctive decorating material with the unique quality of obscuring vision while transmitting light.

"There is a wide variety of patterns—lineal, checkered and muraled—to complement any design theme from old American to modern."

An interesting example cited by Doner, in which patterned glass was used to help bring "open living" into an old home, was the installation of a checkered-patterned glass room divider to replace the wall which divided the dining room and kitchen.

Both the dining room and the kitchen in this home were hopelessly small and drab. There was so little daylight the electric lights had to be used almost constantly.

The man of the house, no experienced carpenter, decided to build a patterned glass room divider to "join" the two rooms.

He removed the lath, plaster and framework which formed the wall. The kitchen had been recently decorated with knotty pine cabinets and he wanted to extend this "rustic" look into the dining room.

On the kitchen side of the wall there was a waist-high counter. Panels of knotty pine were used to close off the bottom half of the wall on the dining room side to the same height as the kitchen counter.

A "panel window" type framework of two-by-fours glazed with patterned glass was used to fill the opening from the top of the counter to the ceiling.

The horizontal members of this translucent wall are now used as shelves for figurines and china plates.

The once-confining wall is now a jewel-like partition of nine patterned glass panes which brighten both the kitchen and the dining room and add an air of festivity to every meal.

Other uses which Doner suggested include back walls for bookshelves, bathroom partitions and shower doors, skylights for studio-attics, and sliding doors.

"Patterned glass offers homeowners a chance to use their own creative minds and, aside from its purely decorative qualities, it is very practical.

"It never needs repainting or refinishing. It is easy to install, and easily cleaned and maintained."

Optical authorities estimate that there are 11,132,544 lens combinations possible for eyeglasses.

Let Fan Help Dry Clothes on Rainy Day

For a woman who doesn't own a clothes dryer, there are few things more downright irritating than a sudden storm on washday. Trying to dry the laundry means a tangle of lines in the basement, and prayers for a clear tomorrow.

One way to speed the process is to use an electric fan. Just place the fan two or three feet from the clothes and direct the air stream between the lines of wash. The results will be well worth the trouble.

If you don't have a fan, but you do own a hair dryer, by all means use the dryer. It won't dry the heavier stuff, but at least it will handle the lighter things.

Test Various Wood Stains Before Use

Stains suitable for use on furniture come in mahogany, walnut, pine, maple and several other wood colors.

To make sure you have the color you want, try samples on scrap lumber of similar type or experiment on a hidden section of the piece you are finishing—the underside of a table or the bottom of a chest.

Remember that new wood absorbs stain more readily than old. It's wise to put stain on cautiously. You can always apply more. It's often advisable to apply the stain with a cloth so you have the best control of it.

Northwood Builders Show Four Bedroom Homes

Homes in the "Northwood 42" project, which will be open to the public for the first time this weekend, are featuring four bedrooms and two bathrooms.

The project is located at the intersection of Middlebelt and Orchard Lake Rds., and model home is at 2328 Middlebelt Rd.

Designed and built by the Northwood Building Co., the new development will eventually contain 400 modern homes. They offer the ultimate in custom features and planning at economy prices.

David Lukacher, president of the company, has planned the merchandising of the homes so that they sell themselves.

"We will have sales people on hand. But there will be no sales talks," he says "In fact, we don't need them, for the houses do their own selling."

Besides four spacious bedrooms (one can be used as a den), there is a large, L-shaped living room with dining area.

The two bathrooms, placed back-to-back to minimize plumbing installation costs, feature one completely finished in ceramic tile and the other partially tiled.

The long kitchen has custom-built, knotty-pine cupboards with a double compartment sink and a section of overhead cupboards to allow for appliance placement.

Throughout the entire house, colorful asphalt tile floors have walk-in closets are features of practically every room with each bedroom having its own storage facility. They have sliding doors.

A separate laundry and utility room has modern, fiberglass, laundry tubs and the entire house is heated by an automatic system.

The heating system, offered as part of the "package deal" carries a written guarantee to insure performance.

Interior colors blend from room to room giving an illusion of spaciousness.

Strictly contemporary in design, these homes have exteriors of brick and cedar shakes combined or can be had in all brick. A car port is built onto each house with a paved driveway leading to it and a ledgerock planter placed adjacent to the entranceway for a decorative note.

The homes measure 48 by 36 feet and are all on one floor. An attractive gable overhang controls the sunlight entrance.

For the model home showing, which will be open all day Sunday and each day of the coming week, Peter Duenas, a well-known furniture designer for Ficks Reed, of Cincinnati, has furnished the house. Many of his contemporary designs will be shown for the first time at this opening.

Don't Overload Wash Machines

Too Big Load Prevents Water From Circulating Freely

Also, there's a risk of damaging the motor.

Putting the right load in a washer is important whether the machine is automatic or not. To determine a full load, it is advisable to check the instruction book for the capacity of the machine.

Capacity is the number of pounds that can be washed at one time. If a scale is not handy estimate the pounds by learning the weight of some common garments and household items.

For instance, a sheet weighs about a pound, while a double sheet weighs from 1¾ to 2 pounds. Three pillowcases or bath towels weigh about a pound, as do four hand towels or eight wash cloths. Four T-shirts or eight undershirts weigh about ½ pound, a pair of overalls weighs from 2½ to 3 pounds.

When loading a machine, alternate large items with smaller items, putting no more than two large ones (such as sheets or tablecloths) into the washer at one time.

A typical 8-pound load might include two double sheets, two pillow cases, four bath towels, four wash cloths, four T-shirts and two men's shirts.

Of course, colors also influence the combination that can put in at one time. Materials that fade must be laundered separately. Dark cottons and linens should be washed by themselves in order to be free of lint.

Hot Water Data Covers Quantity Needed in Home

Data to help the homeowner determine the amount of hot water he should have to adequately meet the needs of his family follows:

The figures are based initially on the fact generally accepted by the industry that no heater of less than 30 gallon storage capacity supplies enough hot water to meet normal average domestic requirements.

Automatic laundry machines require from 20 to 30 gallons of hot water in a period ranging from 30 minutes to one hour.

Many automatic dishwashers require hot water at the rate of 1½ to 2 gallons per minute, or 10 gallons per load.

A tub bath requires about 15 gallons of water at a temperature of around 140 degrees while about three gallons of hot water per minute are needed for a shower bath.

Thus the importance of hot water service justifies a size of water heater that will permit simultaneous use of the majority of hot water fixtures installed in a house.

Buy Porch Furniture With Winter in Mind

When buying new furniture for your porch or terrace this year, you will probably have the opportunity to purchase tables and chairs that can also be used indoors during winter months.

Keep this factor in mind in selecting your colors. You'll find wrought iron pieces which combine such hues as black and white, pink and lime.

There are new finishes on rattan furniture, too — finished that are deeper brown and smoky in tone. Even some of the reddwood furniture designed for the outdoors has a new look — a "blond" look that is light copper in colir.

Fiberglass Filaments Are Very, Very Fine

The glass filaments drawn to make fiberglass are so fine that 97 miles of filament are drawn from a single glass sphere the size of a marble.

28,618 Given Chest X-Rays

Nursing Director Says Twice as Many Take Checks as in 1952

Two X-ray "trucks" have taken free chest X-rays of 28,618 Oakland County people since March 2 in the drive to find hidden cases of tuberculosis.

Miss Evelyn Kidneigh, nursing director for the county health department, said twice as many people are taking advantage of the free X-rays this time as in 1952.

"We hope it keeps up," she said. "It only takes a minute for one of these X-rays—and that minute may save your life."

The two X-ray vans will stop in Royal Oak, Farmington, Clarenceville, Clawson, Troy Township and Auburn Heights during the next two weeks, the health department said.

One unit will spend next week, April 26-30, at Royal Oak's Lincoln School, Eleven Mile and Campbell roads. Hours are noon until 8 p. m. Monday through Thursday and 10 a. m. until 6 p. m. Friday. The same unit will stop at Royal Oak's Fire Hall Three, Rochester and Thirteen Mile roads, May 3-7.

A second unit will finish up a four-day stop at Farmington Township Hall, 23715 Farmington Road, Monday hours are noon until 8 p. m.

The X-ray crew will move to Clarenceville Fire Hall, Grand River and Middlebelt, to take chest photos from noon until 8 p. m. Tuesday and Wednesday. The next two days will find it at Clawson City Hall, Fourteen Mile road and Main streets, from noon until 8 p. m. Thursday and 10 a. m. until 6 p. m. Friday.

The unit will move to Troy Township Hall, 60 W. Wattles Rd., Monday, May 3 for a two-day stay. Hours are noon until 8 p. m. The X-ray van will spend Wednesday through Friday, May 5-7, in the center of Auburn Heights.

The X-ray will tour the county until early July. Visits are sponsored by Oakland County Medical Society, Tuberculosis Association, Health Department and Birmingham, Pontiac, Ferndale-Pleasant Ridge and Michigan State health departments.

Yoshida Wins Political Crisis

Vote of No-Confidence Against Pro-Americans Defeated

By JIM BECKER

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese House of Representatives late today defeated a no-confidence vote against the pro-American administration of Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida in a stormy debate climaxing the nation's greatest post-war political crisis.

The victory came when the House defeated by a228-208 vote a no-confidence motion based mainly on domestic issues.

The virtually unprecedented victory marked the first time in the 75-year modern political history of Japan that a prime minister had fought and won against violent opposition, scandal and the almost-solid opposition of the press.

* * *

The decision came after more than a score of Progressives—japan's second Conservative party—walked out of the House to give Yoshida's Liberal (conservative) party a majority.

The action followed a night and a day of feverish behind-the-scenes negotiations by the wily old premier.

Shipping scandals touched off the government crisis last January when disclosures linked Liberal party, and some Progressive, leaders to wealthy shipbuilders who were getting subsidies to restore Japan's war-battered merchant marine.

There have been more than 100 arrests, confessions and indictments in the case so far, with most of the evidence pointing to large scale kickbacks to party leaders.

Local governments in Louisiana may levy taxes on fractions of property values, ranging anywhere from 25 per cent to the full 100 per cent.

Resentful Witness Reveals He's 'Out to Get' Turncoat

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army's case against Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson appeared today to be hanging on the ability of the prosecution to prove direct links between Dickenson and men he is accused of having informed against while a prisoner of war in Korea.

The court is on record as saying it will throw out all testimony which can not be tied in directly with Dickenson.

The fifth day of Dickenson's court-martial recessed late yesterday. Dickenson, 23, of Cracker's Neck, Va., is accused of squealing on his pals and collaborating with the Communists while a POW in Korea.

A principal prosecution witness, Edward M. Gaither of Philadelphia, took the stand yesterday for more than an hour. The witness, who glowered fiercely at Dickenson, said he was "out to get" the defendant.

One of the specific counts against Dickenson charges that stool pigeon activities on his part led to prolonged beatings of Gaither by the Reds.

Gaither, a short, wiry fellow with tousled hair, told the eight-member court-martial he was beaten and put before a mock firing squad several days after he had told Dickenson of his escape plans.

Dickenson's lawyer moved to strike all of Gaither's testimony as having no direct connection with this case. The court said it would make no decision on the motion for the time being since the prosecution had not yet completed its case. The prosecution indicated it would finish Monday.

Dickenson is one of two American POWs who first elected to stay with the Communists, then had a change of mind and returned to U.S. control. The other is Cpl. Claude Batchelor of Kermit, Tex., who now faces a possible military trial on charges of "giving aid and comfort to the enemy.".

Officer Speaks on Communism

State Police Sergeant Traces History of Party Activity

LAPEER—At one time during the depression there were as many Communists in the United States as there were in Russia, Sgt. Don Barry of the Michigan State Police told members of the Lapeer County Federation of Women's Clubs here Thursday.

Barry, who has been investigating Communism since 1941, said there are only about 500 actual members of the party in Michigan today, however.

"As fast as leaders are sent to prison, new leaders take their places because the long legal delays given opportunity for the training of new leaders," he said.

Sgt. Barry was featured speaker at the morning session of the annual meeting of the Lapeer County Federation. He outlined the development of communism from the theories of Marx to the present day actuality. He explained how organizations with names of good purpose are used for obtaining money to fight legal battles for the Communists.

"Communists attempt to confuse the people," said Barry, "and it is necessary to be on guard when approached by an organization with an apparently high purpose to be sure that it is not merely a front for Communist activity."

Harold Hansen of the psychiatric division of Pontiac State Hospital spoke at the afternoon session of the eeting. President of the federation is Mrs. Harry Whittaker. There are 14 clubs in the group.

Big 3 Concludes Strategy Talks

Ministers See Many Bars to Basic Purpose of Geneva Parley

By MAX HARRELSON

PARIS (AP)—The Big Three foreign ministers wound up four days of private strategy talks today convinced many obstacles will have to be hurled before the Geneva Conference gets down to its primary business of trying to bring peace to Korea and Indochina.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault arranged a final get-together this afternoon to iron out their strategy for the Geneva meeting which opens Monday.

Following this meeting, Dulles and Bidault plan to leave for Geneva today. Eden was scheduled to fly there tomorrow.

* * *

Bidault had demanded that the Cabinet let him go to the Asian parley with no strings attached.

y giving him a carte blanche on handling negotiations on Indo china and Korea, the Cabinet headed off what might have resulted in a collapse of Premier Joseph Laniel's government.

Intense diplomatic activity over all manner of world problems has been in progress here since Dulles arrived from Washington last Wednesday.

Each foreign minister was in almost continuous conference—with his own advisers, with the other two Big Three ministers and with the foreign ministers of the 14-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The Western Powers are generally agreed on the major parts of the strategy they will employ against the Communist bloc at Geneva. But they still are searching for the answers to some questions.

One of these is how the portion of the conference taking up Korea is to choose a chairman from the 19 nations attending. The West is agreed they must find a plan that would bar Red China from serving in the chair.

Shut-ins' Pal Joins Group

Man Who Writes to 300 Persons Must Relax Temporarily

WICHITA, Kan. (UP) — Arthur S. McNay, who has one of the most soul-satisfying hobbies of all, was warned by his doctor that he might be overdoing it.

McNay, the friend of the shut-in, temporarily is a shut-in himself.

At 77, it was proving too much for him to work all day and keep up correspondence with more than 300 shut-ins at night. But McNay thinks that after a good rest he will be able to handle his full schedule

For about a dozen years McNay, a widower, made a hobby of writing to shut-ins of all ages in an effort to make life more cheerful for them. Nearly every day he spent two or three hours at a portable typewriter.

Many on his current letter list live in Wichita, but he writes to persons in Oklahoma, California, Canada and England.

McNay early found he needed an index to help him keep track of them. This grew into a big cardboard file. Now he has a steel filing cabinet.

His filing system includes an elaborate stack of records, such as clippings of news and feature stories, pictures, letters, cards and the like.

McNay has been writing to each on his birthday and also sends a card. And he makes sure each is on his Christmas card list. This is in addition to his regular correspondence with them.

It's a poor day when McNay, who is employed in the Kansas grain inspection department, fails to receive at least three letters from shut-in friends. Often he gets seven or eight. Many of them are from children.

"I am never amazed at the courage and cheerfulness of the children," he said. "Some of their letters make the tears come."

Hal Boyle Says:

Disease, Wheeze, Sneeze: It's Still a Common Cold

NEW YORK (AP)—Heard any good sneezes lately?

If we labeled our years as the Chinese do, this one should go down as the "year of the big kerchoo!"

I can't remember a spring, offhand, in which more people complained of having colds, laryngitis, grippe, flu, strep throat, bronchitis, snuffles, sniffles, and the more popular virus infections.

Every year the common cold seems to get more uncommon and fewer people will admit that is what they have. We have become a nation of medical social climbers and if we can't be stricken with a malady that carries with it a sense of mystery and has a fascinating name we would almost as soon stay well.

The man who used to grumble at the first sneeze, "must've gotta bug somewhere," now has a son who announces with doleful bravery, "guess I picked up a virus."

Whenever I hear a man use that phrase, I get a vivid mental image of a man sleepwalking. Suddenly he comes to a virus on the floor (it's rather like an octopus except it's a green color). The man bends down, picks up the virus in one hand, cradles it in his arm like a puppy, and walks on into the night, still sound asleep and with one arm held straight out in front to keep from bumping into anything.

Whatever people pick up—a bug or a virus—they end up with one of the 57 varieties of the common cold. Perhaps, if you work in an office or factory, you have run into one of the following general types of runny-nosed heroes:

The tragedian—Camille, racking her life out from her lungs, was a gay, soubrette compared to this ham actor. His sepulchral cough booms through the office every hour on the hour until the boss says, "Joe, you better take that cough home and put it to bed." Joe looks up gratefully through glazed eyes, plods home, spends a month in bed rewriting his will, and comes back to work 20 pounds heavier.

The chin-up minimizer—"You can't led a liddle thig like a virus ged you down," he says through thickened tongue. He refuses to do a thing about it, sneezes all over the place for four days and is well. But by then 12 other people who work near his desk are sneezing.

The cautious, cover-all-bases artist—after a single day in bed, his cold is so improved he feels able to return to work but is afraid to do so for fear his co-workers will think he merely stayed out because of a hangover. So he stays out three days more, and when he comes into the office the first remark he overhears is, "Jim had better watch his step. This time he was out on a four-day bender."

The try-everything hypochondriac—This boy enjoys colds so much he starts sneezing Oct. 1 and keeps it up, as a matter of principle, until the 4th of July. His desk is a small drug store stocked with lozenges, pills, bromides, and nose sprays. Whenever there's any work to be done, he's out in the men's room gargling.

The alarmist—"You know what I think is causing this epidemic of colds?" he asks every victim. "It's dust from the hydrogen bombs. Don't you feel more radioactive than you used to? Why don't we all chip in and buy a Geiger counter?" When you tell him you remember having a cold back in 1938 before there were any hydrogen bombs, he says, "all right, wise guy, but remember—they laughed at Thomas A. Edison, too."

The king-size cold—This is the best cold of all, if you can afford it. It is the cold the boss himself gets. None of the ordinary remedies touch it. The only way he shakes it is to smuggle it down to Florida and take it around a golf course every day for three weeks until it finally wears out.

Device Records Chews for Denture Fitting

CHICAGO (AP) — A new dental device is described in the Science Digest by Dr. Harry Kazis of Boston. It is called a pantographic mandibular recorder and makes a measurement of a patient's chewing motions during his visit to the dentist for a denture fitting.

Precise fitting adjustments are made after the patient leaves.

Highest U. S. Production in 34 Weeks Expected by Ward's

DETROIT (AP)—The nation's auto plants will build 146,177 vehicles this week, the highest volume in 34 weeks, Ward's Automotive Reports said today

The agency counted 123,594 cars and 22,583 trucks in this week's total. Last week 118,486 cars and 21,138 trucks were produced. In the comparable 1953 week 151,394 cars and 31,496 trucks were built.

Ward's puts Canadian output this week at 8,580 cars and 2,083 trucks. Last week Dominion plants built 7,139 cars and 1,776 trucks. In comparable 1953 week they produced 8,818 cars and 3,196 trucks.

The agency said this week's upturn results from increased scheduling at General Motors and Ford. It noted new output records by Buick with 10,319 car assemblies and Oldsmobile with 10,700 this week.

Chevrolet, the reporting service said, will count 34,300 car assemblies this week, its highest in 43 weeks. Ford's assemblies this week will come to 30,100, it added.

President Sets Campaign Trend

But Visit to Kentucky Produces Competition in Form of Barkley

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower may have set a pattern in Kentucky for whatever away - from - Washington campaigning he does this election year to maintain Republican control of Congress.

But it's quite likely he hopes that in other areas he won't have to buck the kind of Democratic counter-attraction the Bluegrass State offered yesterday in former Vice President Alben W. Barkley.

Eisenhower has said more than once he is not going to wage any out-and-out campaign for individual Republican candidates—that he is not going to mix in district, state and local contests.

But on his behalf the White House has annoupced a blanket Eisenhower endorsement of GOP nominees for seats in Congress and for other public offices. The President did qualify that later by reserving the right to withdraw endorsement in the case of anyone whose background did not measure up.

Eisenhower flew from Washington to Kentucky yesterday with Republican Sen. John Sherman Cooper of that state. Cooper's opponent in a tough fight for re-election is Barkley, who is seeking to return to the Senate after four years as the popular "veep" in the Truman administration.

Eisenhower's plans to visit Kentucky were announced before Barkley disclosed his plans to try for Cooper's seat. So far as is known, Cooper planned all along to accompany the President.

Eisenhower kept Cooper close by his side at Ft. Knox where the President reviewed a tank honor guard. At Abraham Lincoln's birthplace shrine at Hodgenville, Cooper introduced Eisenhower, who made a non-political talk extolling the virtues of the Civil War President to an audience of about 3,000 persons.

Ike Diminishes Threat of War, Nixon Claims

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The Eisenhower administration's "midle of the road" program has diminished the threat of World War III and averted national bankruptcy at home, contends Vice President Nixon.

But he declared in a speech last night the Republican policy must be reaffirmed by the voters or there will be a swing far to the left.

Nixon, speaking to a Young Republican conference attended by delegates from 11 Western states, said the Democratic party now is controlled by its left wing faction. That group, he asserted, has a strong socialistic tendency.

Covering a wide variety of subjects, Nixon insisted that the stakes of the fighting in Indochina are "as high as they have been in any battle or war in the history of mankind." It could decide whether the communists will start a third world war, he aded.

Walking Proposed in A-Bomb Attack

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The administrator of the nation's defense transportation administration proposes: If there's an atomic attack, walk five miles an hour out of the main danger area.

James K. Knudson, who is also a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, told a civic organization yesterday:

"Able bodied men, women and children can, if necessary, walk about five miles an hour. Assuming a two-hour warning, this would get most people out of the center of large cities and into environs.

"Here, if evacuation were carried out in military precision and with available transportation systems being used, large numbers could be taken to safety limits."

Pud Flanagan, Even at 9, Very Seasoned TV Star

NEW YORK—Nine-year-old Pud Flanagan is one of the most versatile and easily one of the most seasoned veterans of te evision today.

During the two years since his dramatic debut, Pud has appeared in featured roles in more than 40 television productions, including such top shows as Studio One, Suspense, Medallion Theater, Man Behind the Badge, You Are There, Toast of the Town and many others.

A native New Yorker, Pud is described by directors as a "natural" actor. He has had very little formal theatrical training other than his appearance in two successful Broadway shows, Three Wishes for Jamie and The Seven Year Itch.

Brian is his real given name; he took his professional name from the character which he played in Three Wishes for Jamie. His two older sisters, Celine, 15, and Karin, 10, both preceded Pud into theatrical work but at the moment, he is the star performer of the family with the possible exception of his baby sister, Kristine, 1½, who dominates the spotlight at home.

Until this year, Pud attended public school near his home in Jamaica, L. I., but since he became so active in television, he has been enrolled in the Willard Mace Professional School, where he is now doing fifth grade work. Pud's ambition, even superseding his career before the television camras, is to become a member of his nighborhood "Junior League" baseball team this spring.

Predict Passage of Ike's Tax Bill

Senate GOP Leaders See Revisions Ready for Debate May 15

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Millikin (R-Colo) predicts his Senate Finance Committee will beat back a Democratic drive to boost individual income tax exemptions and to short-circuit proposed tax benefits for stockholders and businesses.

And Senate Republican leaders indicate confidence that a giant $1,400,000,000 tax revision bill will be passed by the Senate in just about the form the Eisenhower administration wants.

The House already has okayed the bill, which would furnish tax relief for individuals and businesses through easing various sections of the tax law. It does not provide for adjustment of major tax rates.

The Finance Committee yesterday completed three weeks of public hearings on this first attempt in more than 70 years to overhaul the nation's tax structure.

During that time, it heard from more than 125 witnesses, in general, business spokesmen strongly supported the measure as is, while labor union representatives urged income tax cuts to block recession.

However, many witnesses criticized specific provisions which they contended were unfair to them or to their companies.

Staff experts start digesting this testimony next week and the committee goes behind closed doors May 3 to start section-by-section consideration of bill. Millikin said the measure may be ready for full Senate debate about May 15.

Jimmy Claims Infidelities Letter Filed Out of Spite

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — James Roosevelt says his estranged wife included the "infidelities letter" with her separate maintenance suit out of spite.

The late President's eldest son, a congressional candidate, filed a memorandum in court yesterday that said "inclusion of the letter can only be construed as a deliberate act designed to cause great notoriety and publicity . . . without regard to the harmful effects . . . on the children and others."

The memorandum refers to Mrs. Romelle Roosevelt's answer to her husbands motion to strike the letter from the suit. The motion will be argued next Friday in Superior Court.

The letter concerned was signed by Roosevelt and dated Feb. 27, 1945. It lists infidelities with nine women, with names, places and approximate times. Roosevelt, denying misconduct, has said he signed the letter to avert a divorce suit.

Mrs. Roosevelt's answer to the motion to strike said her husband, if concerned with the welfare of complaint was filed it would be their three children, could have had the file sealed.

Roosevelt replied that this could not have been done until "after nationwide publicity had been given the letter." The memorandum says "attorneys for Mrs. Roosevelt knew beyond doubt that when the complaint was filed it would be available to the general public and the newspapers . . .

"It is an outstanding example of a premeditated act."

Mrs. Roosevelt, in her separate maintenance suit, accused her husband of adultery with three other women not named in the 1945 letter.

Peter Lawford Will Be Married Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Peter Lawford, a British nobleman's son who worked his way up from movie usher to star, and Patricia Kennedy, member of a noted American family, will be wed today in a ceremony attended only by relatives and friends.

The private rites will be in marked contrast to the socially brilliant weddings of the bride's brother and sister the past year.

Nevertheless, it will be star-studded event.

Giving away the bride will be her father, Joseph P. Kennedy, banker, industrialist, philanthropist and former United States ambassador to Britain.

Geneva Citizens Viewing Preparations for Parley With Disdain and Confusion

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA (AP)—The citizens of ancient Geneva reacted with everything from disdain to confusion today as scores of persons from all over the world poured into town for the Geneva conference on Asian problems.

Disdain came from the stiff-necked old residents of a place that's been watching foreigners come and go since the times of the early Romans. They look as if they couldn't care less.

Confusion reigned in some hotels and restaurants trying to cope with a rush of strange orders in strange tongues.

The Swiss showed mild curiosity at the various villas and hotels where the principals of the conference are to stay, but everything was orderly.

Here's a quick rundown on the villas:

The Russian villa, to be used by Foreign Minister V.M. Molotov, is a two-story building with a nice view, located on high ground overlooking Lake Geneva. It is known as the Villa Les Chatillons.

A solitary gendarme stood before it.

"Yes," he said, "there are four plainclothes Soviet policemen inside. I know they are policemen because I know the type."

* * *

There is no gate to the villa. The barbed wire that was strung up at the first of the week has been removed at the request of the Soviets, but a squad of uniformed Swiss soldiers is dispersed in the quiet woods about the place.

On this mild spring morning, a postman delivered a handful of newspapers and a truck brought in several bottles of—not vodka, but milk.

The Chinese villa is much more pretentious than the Russian. The place where Premier Minister Chou En-lai will stay is the Villa Montfleury, half surrounded by barbed wire and guarded by about 20 Swiss soldiers with automatic rifles and steel helmets.

Chou's villa has 20 rooms with five baths and has 25 acres around it. It sports brilliant orange awnings.

When the Soviets asked to have their barbed wire removed yesterday, the Chinese followed suit, but they did agree to the Swiss security suggestion of allowing huge hoops of barbed wire to remain up around two sides of the place.

The Swiss are taking no chances. They change the guard of dragoons every two hours day and night, and army telephones camouflaged in soap boxes are strung up all around the villa's acreage.

A closed, spiked steel gate bars the entrance.

"Go on in and have a look," he said.

Milk was being delivered there, too.

Bidault has 14 rooms and four baths.

* * *

The North Korean villa is within shouting distance of the French and several miles from the Chinese and the Russians. It is called Villa les Cedres. Nine automobiles stood before a closed iron gate.

On the gate there were two signs; "Beware of Dogs" and "No Begging or Hawking Allowed."

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had a villa offered him, but British sources say he has elected to stay at the Hotel Beau Rigave, which has the atmosphere of hotels at Brighton and Blackpool, England.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles has also spurned a villa. He will live at Geneva's modern, glass, stone and steel Hotel du Rhone.

At the Palace of Nations—where the conference will be held—there is ordered activity where workmen are finishing their arrangements.

Incidentally, this may not be a Big Five meeting—as Western spokesmen have repeatedly pointed out—but the painting on the ceiling above the conference table shows five gloomy figures, touching hands in a sort of melancholy unity. They represent the five continents and the solidarity of nations.

Briton Can't Shed Title He Doesn't Want to Keep

LONDON (INS)—Philip A. Waterlow does not want to be called "Sir," but he can't avoid it.

Waterlow, a 56-year-old head of a big British printing firm, succeeded to a baronetcy on the death of his father, Sir Edgar Waterlow, but immediately announced that he would not use the title.

Cyril F. J. Hankinson, editor of "Debrett's Peerage," which lists Britain's titled ranks, said:

"Whether he likes it or not Waterlow is 'Sir Philip Waterlow'; an heir to a title cannot resign or renounce it."

Waterlow joins a select group of about four or five men out of 1,200 baronets who prefer to be called "Mr."

Vienna Faces Dance Problem

Ball Season Sees Hot Debate Over Influence of Jitterbugging

VIENNA (INS) — Waltzing Vienna's traditional ball season—the Fasching—opened amidst a heated controversy over 'jitterbug" dancing.

"To jitterbug or not to jitterbug" is the question, and no answer to it is yet in sight.

The debate was started by a prominent Vienna dancing instructor, Herr Will Ellmayer, who predicted that jitterbug would be the "fashion change" this Fasching.

In view of the fact that Vienna is the birthplace of the waltz and that many Viennese still consider the waltz the only "fashion dance" for any Fasching season, it was a daring thing for Ellmayer to make his prediction.

He was hotly contradicted by many of his own colleagues as well as a large part of the Vienna public who still consider it a "dance for savages."

Some of the sponsors of balls even went so far as to announce that there won't be any "night of rubber legs"—meaning jitterbugging—at their balls.

Some observers say that the wrath of the Vienna public was also caused by the fact that they were caught, a few days before the start of the ball season, virtually "flat-footed."

However, several local newspapers hastened to assure the Viennese that it won't be necessary for them to know how to dance jitterbug in order to be "up to date" at the balls.

The journal 'Neue Wiener Tageszeitung" emphasized that "one will not have to learn new steps this season to be a favorite among the ladies."

The paper said: "Rhumba with fast rhythms will be among the leading dances and also the Charleston is expected to make a come-back."

The paper also forecasts that there will be a lot of waltzing—"however, waltzes will be shorter than those dance by our grandparents, at the time of Johann Strauss."

Apparently, the present generation is much more short-winded.

At this time, it cannot be said what role jitterbug will actually play during the 1954 Fasching season which will run til mid-March.

One prediction stands undisputed, though: The Viennese will have a good time during the 1954 Fasching.

Conservative estimates say that more than half a million Viennese will have danced at around 3,000 balls when this year's Fasching closes.

Apples May Soon Weigh Upwards of Two Pounds

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Ever seen an apple weighing two pounds? In a few years it may be a familiar sight in the Swedish fruitmarkets. After 17 years of experimenting, Swedish Scientists Emil Johansson has succeeded in doubling the chromosomes of diploid apples and produced a tetraploid one—a giant, high quality apple weighing nearly two pounds.

He has been able for some time to grow big apples, but the quality was poor. Now he has solved the problem of combining size and quality.

Good Deeds Pay Off for Blind Preacher

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — "The Lord has rewarded me for some of the turns I did for people," says the Rev. Harold D. Haynes.

The blind minister's home was selected yesterday for renovation by volunteers to start Battle Creek "Clean-up Week."

"Before I lost my sight in 1947," the minister said, "I used to help people out. In the 1930s I hung wallpaper and did some painting and carpentering for folks who couldn't afford it."

Reflections

A FORTUNE TO MAKE

by J. Lee Voorhees

J. L. VOORHEES

There is no straight line to fortune, neither can one dream up an idea, turn a switch and there it is like light in a room. All fortunes began with an idea but working it out to fortune-status is drama.

The seamstress, sitting in a damp, dreary, dimly illuminated basement room, at her machine from early morning until late at night, listening to gripes of customers, with barely enough to eat for herself and children dreamed as she stitched, cut and fit.

M. E. SIPLE

A young mother opened her door, came in, asked to be shown a pattern that would hide her coming baby. As this lady talked of style and comfort, she dreamed. That dress was the beginning of Maternity Dresses Company; it didn't blossom like a ball of cascading stars at a 4th of July celebration. It was nursed, fed, lead to fortune-status with all the heartaches of dramatic fiction.

Friend-fortunes are as hard to acquire as golden ones; value them highly and guard them well.

STEP NO. 3— Say "Yes, I'd be glad to have you send a salesman out." (At this point, you should wonder why a salesman is necessary if they are giving this item to you.

STEP NO. 4— After the Salesman gives you a fast talk on "referred leads," sign the purchase contract.

STEP NO. 5— Wake up the next morning to realize that you are just another "sucker" . . . that you are paying up to twice as much for this item as you would pay to a local, well-established firm . . . that you are committed to pay off a contract from which you will not be released.
