Mansfield: Russia Favoring Viet Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said today there is an inkling of hope that Soviet leaders may be moving slowly toward supporting negotiations to end the Viet Nam war.

Mansfield praised efforts of British Prime Minister Harold Wilson recently to explain the American position on Viet Nam to interest the Russians in using their influence to try to get Hanoi to the negotiating table.

The Montana senator, a White House luncheon guest during Wilson's visit to Washington last Friday, said in an interview:

"The results of Mr. Wilson's visit to Moscow were not as gloomy as they have been depicted. He did a good job for us there on Viet Nam."

Mansfield did not elaborate.

Wilson indicated he found few hopeful signs of progress toward settlement of the war.

NO ESCALATION

But he said at a news conference that neither the United States nor the Soviet Union wants the war escalated.

Mansfield was joined by Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., a veteran member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in rejecting the idea that American bombing of the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam involves any change in U.S. policy or any significant expansion of the war.

Both senators have opposed further widening of the conflict.

Aiken noted the military explanation that B52 strikes were directed at ammunition dumps, weapons storage areas, gun positions and extensive fortifications.

"This seems to indicate that the other fellow had violated this territory first," Aiken said. "A demilitarized agreement doesn't have any validity if the other side breaks it. I wouldn't think this action could be described as escalation."

In Saigon, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky again expressed a longing to return full-time to his job as South Viet Nam's air force chief, declaring he would not run for president in national elections next year.

Associates said Ky prefers Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, the chief of state, for the presidency.

C. of C. Fete Is Wednesday

An estimated 300 to 400 persons are expected to attend the 30th annual summer meeting of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce Wednesday.

The annual meeting — an all-day event — is scheduled for Morey's Golf and Country Club, 2280 Union Lake, Commerce Township.

The meeting will feature prize raffles, golfing and entertainment featuring the four-piece orchestra of Herb Ross; Rietta Raye, vocalist and accordionist; and comedian Frankie Rapp.

Rapp is appearing at the Killarney Supper Club in Windsor.

where these posters are located. Political posters also are banned on state right-of-way, and violators are subject to a fine. Rather than start a court action, the signs are usually just torn down by the state workers.

Cavanagh Complaint Dismissed

Campaign Leaflets Not Barred

DETROIT (AP) — A Circuit Court judge decided today that he had no jurisdiction to enjoin distribution of a campaign leaflet implying that Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh is supporting alleged anti-Negro candidates in tomorrow's primary election.

Judge Joseph Moynihan Jr., who had issued a temporary restraining order yesterday banning distribution, granted a motion to dismiss the complaint filed by Cavanagh's campaign manager, Robert Toohy.

"It is my feeling that this court is correct in judging the leaflet as an out-and-out appeal to racism," Moynihan said.

The judge said however, he had decided the court did not have jurisdiction to hold a hearing concerning the campaign leaflet.

The decision came after an attorney defending the United

Rain Unlikely to Cut Turnout

A record turnout at the polls is still expected in tomorrow's primary election despite the possibility of some rain.

Unless the forecasted showers turn into a steady downpour, County Clerk John D. Murphy said his estimate of 150,000-175,000 voters would remain the same.

The all-time high in a county primary was established in 1964 when 100,163 voters cast ballots.

The then county clerk, David R. Calhoun, had predicted 100,000.

In addition to narrowing down the large field of candidates for the Nov. 8 general election, voters tomorrow will elect — not just nominate — delegates from each of the county's 385 precincts.

The precinct delegates later this month will name the delegates to their party's state convention.

The delegates at the state convention nominate the candidates for all state elective offices with the exception of governor.

Ranoffs are being held tomorrow in nine of the 10 state house districts in the county, the four state senate districts and the two congressional districts.

Six candidates will also be named for election to three positions on the Circuit Court bench, and two for one new Probate Court post.

Voters in the City of Orchard Lake Village and the townships of Brandon and Groveland will use paper ballots. Voting machines will be used throughout the rest of the county.

Humidity Rising; Showers Are Likely

After a warm, pleasant weekend the humidity is beginning to rise.

Today will be partly cloudy, warm, and humid with highs in the low 80s. Afternoon and evening showers and thunderstorms are likely.

Tonight's lows will be 68 to 74 with considerable cloudiness.

Southeasterly winds will be from 10 to 18 miles per hour and higher during showers.

Tuesday will be a little cooler with possible thunderstorms and highs of 76 to 84.

SUNNY, MILD

Wednesday's outlook is for sunny, mild weather.

The low temperature before 8 a.m. today was 65. By 2 p.m. the mercury registered 81.

Chicago Protest Is Marred by Violence

By the Associated Press
Thousands of whites resorted to violence yesterday in a Chicago neighborhood where an aide to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. led a second march to protest alleged housing discrimination.

The white crowd, which police said was at least 3,000 strong, hurled bottles, rocks and firecrackers at 350 civil rights demonstrators, then set fire to about 30 cars belonging to some of the marchers.

There also were outbreaks of violence during the week-end and early today in Omaha, Neb., and Los Angeles.

The Rev. James Bevel, who led the march into the all-white section of Chicago's Southwest Side, quickly provoked the marchers from the area while enlarged police forces attempted to hold back the whites.

Scores of young whites were arrested and at least 60 persons were treated for cuts and bruises.

ROAM AREA

White youths continued to roam the area after the demonstrators left.

One of those injured was Albert C. Raby, convener of the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations, a federation of civil rights groups.

Hit four times with bricks while whites yelled, "Get Raby!" he was not seriously hurt.

The marchers tentatively planned to return tonight but delayed a definite decision.

King, who has made Chicago a target in civil rights work, called for an all-night vigil at a real estate firm in the neighborhood last Friday.

Speck Says 'Innocent' in 8 Deaths

CHICAGO (AP) — Richard Speck stood with his head down and his features blank today while his counsel entered pleas of innocent to charges of murdering eight student nurses.

His case was assigned to Judge Herbert C. Paschen. The judge set Aug. 18 for a hearing at which a trial date will be determined.

Speck, wearing a white shirt open at the neck, and dark trousers, was led into the Criminal Branch of the Circuit Court by two deputy sheriffs. He took a position before the bench in front of a solid line of husky deputies.

Speck glanced around, slack-jawed, while the clerk announced, "Richard Franklin Speck." Speck stood with his hands in his pockets. The brief proceedings began.

Judge Alexander J. Napoli, a gray-haired veteran of the courts and chief judge of the Criminal Division, quickly ran through the preliminaries.

ENTERS PLEA

Then, Gerald W. Getty, chief public defender for Cook County, who is serving as Speck's counsel, entered pleas of not guilty to all eight indictments.

The low-ceilinged, marble-walled chamber was under heavy guard of 14 uniformed deputy sheriffs and 10 bailiffs in plain clothes.

Pontiac Man Killed by Train

A 45-year-old Pontiac man was struck by a diesel engine and carried some 75 feet.

Alexander Hammond of 514 Whitfield, died in the accident Saturday night.

Pontiac police said Hammond and a companion were sitting on the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks at the Wessan Street overpass when the train approached about 9 p.m.

Annette Hardouf, 49, of 118 W. Lawrence told police he attempted to drag Hammond away from the tracks, but that the victim resisted.

Hammond was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital following the accident, with death attributed to multiple head injuries.

The train's engineer, Cecil Smith, 62, of Durand, was not cited by police.

North Central Airlines Service Comes to End

Commercial passenger airline service from Pontiac Municipal Airport ended yesterday 5 1/2 years after it started.

With authorization from the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB), North Central Airlines (NCA) terminated its airline service here.

Termination of the service also ends a lengthy legal battle by the city and the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce to retain NCA service at the local airport.

A petition by the city is still on file with the federal board for nonstop air service to Chicago and Cleveland.

Meantime, a three-man committee made up of Acting Airport Manager J. David Vanderveen, Deputy City Attorney

Sherwin M. Birnkrant and a Chamber Manager Max Adams is negotiating to provide new air service.

NEGOTIATIONS UNDER WAY
Vanderveen said negotiations for short-flight service are under way with four other airlines. He said two types of service are needed: commuter-type for Chicago and Cleveland, and a feeder service to airports around the state with major airlines.

The acting manager said he hoped to have new service within 60 days.

North Central provided two flights daily, mostly to cities in northern Michigan.

CAB authorized the pullout because of the small amount of patronage on the NCA flights, which averaged less than one per day.

BEGAN IN 1960

NCA service at the airport began in December 1960.

LAST FLIGHT—This scene, the takeoff of a North Central Airlines (NCA) plane at Pontiac Municipal Airport, became a thing of the past yesterday when NCA terminated its commercial passenger service here.

Churchman Opposes Dirksen Prayer Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen's proposal to amend the constitution to permit "voluntary" prayer in public schools was strongly opposed today by a spokesman for the National Council of Churches.

The Rev. Dr. David R. Hunter, the council's deputy general secretary, said the constitution's 1st Amendment provides excellent protection for American religious liberties as it now stands, and it would be a mistake to tamper with it.

He made the statement in testimony prepared for the Senate constitutional amendments subcommittee, which opened eight days of hearings on the Illinois Republican's proposed amendment.

Dirksen feels an amendment is necessary to "clarify" Supreme Court rulings on religious exercises in public schools. Under his proposal these words would be added to the constitution:

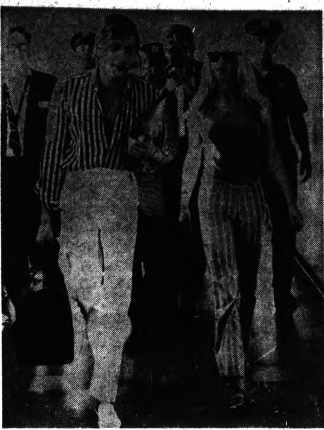

"Nothing contained in this constitution shall prohibit the authority administering any school, school system, educational institution or other public building supported in whole or in part through the expenditure of public funds from providing for or permitting the voluntary participation by students or others in prayer. Nothing contained in this article shall authorize any such authority to provide or prescribe the content of the prayer."

Dr. Hunter said he did not pretend to speak for all of the 30 million Americans who are members of the 30 major Protestant and Orthodox denominations affiliated with the national council.

But he said that resolutions enacted during the past year or two by national assemblies of Episcopalians, Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Lutherans and other Protestant groups show that they have accepted the Supreme Court's ruling on prayer-in-schools and are "strongly resistant to proposals to revise the guarantees already covered by the 1st Amendment."

Warren Report on JFK 'Satisfies' Sen. T. Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says that although he has not read the Warren Commission report — "and I do not intend to" — he is convinced Lee Harvey Oswald alone killed his brother, President John F. Kennedy.

The 34-year-old Massachusetts senator reacted with pain when asked, in an interview with United Press International made public yesterday, about recent books questioning the validity of the Warren Commission's findings.

He winced and covered his face with one hand. After a moment of silence, he lowered his hand and replied firmly:

"I never read the Warren Commission report. However, I am satisfied that it represents at least conclusively the results which I believe are accurate. I have not read it. And I do not intend to do so."

The tone of Kennedy's voice made clear that was all to be said on the subject.

Renewed controversy about the assassination was aroused chiefly by the recent publication of a book by Edward Jay Epstein, a Harvard graduate student, who said the Warren report was hastily prepared, inaccurate and incomplete.

Reviewing available evidence, Epstein concluded the commission, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, did not prove its principal finding that Oswald acted alone.

This in turn led to suggestions Oswald might have had an accomplice or have acted as part of a conspiracy.

Epstein's book prompted Richard N. Goodwin, a former speech writer and troubleshooter for the late President, to suggest last week that an independent panel look into the charges and, if necessary, that congress establish a new board to seek new evidence.

Goodwin said the book "not only raises questions but demands explorations and answers."

Member Lists

Stolen From DuBois Club HQ

CHICAGO (UPI) — The national headquarters of the W. E. B. DuBois clubs, a left-wing organization, has been looted of membership lists, confidential files and a cashbox containing $5.

"All mailing lists, federal tax records, letters and other documents containing names and addresses were stolen," Kathryn Bernick, the group's office manager said.

"Because our valuable equipment was not taken, it is clear that the robbery was staged in order to seize our names and addresses for future harassment."

Police said the theft apparently occurred late last Thursday night or Friday morning. It was not discovered until the weekend.

Crash Near Flat Rock Kills 5

Weekend Road Toll Is 21

Reward Set for Cycling Pet-Killer
NOVI — A $200 reward is offered to anyone with information leading to the capture of a young motorcyclist who, witnesses say, deliberately struck and killed a Novi family pet Thursday.

Charles Stewart of 42484 13 Mile, who is offering the money, said several neighbors witnessed the act.

They said the cyclist rode by the Stewart family home about 8 p.m. and noticed the dog, a toy poodle, standing in the driveway near the street.

He returned, swerved into the driveway and struck the dog, knocking it out into the street.

As the animal lay there, the rider returned again and ran over it, Stewart said.

HIS DESCRIPTION
The youth was described as white and in his late teens. He had black hair and was wearing a black shirt, open down the front, with a white tee-shirt.

He was riding an apparently new black and silver Japanese motorcycle, according to Stewart.

Anyone with information is asked to contact the Novi police department.

Solution May Be Nearing for White Lake Water Level

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — A possible solution appears near at hand for the problem of White Lake's shrinking water level.

At a meeting of the White Lake Citizens League Friday, league president Arieigh Hess reported that exploratory drilling has been started for the replenishment of the lake level.

Two borings are being made, he said, in an area near Duck Lake Road on the northwest side of the lake.

The first well has reached a depth of about 160 feet. Drilling crews are preparing to install pumps in the second well, sunk below 170 feet, to obtain an exploratory yield.

Hess noted that the wells have been dropped through nearly 70 feet of clay, indicating that pumping of water below that layer will have no effect on private wells in the area.

For West Bloomfield

Community Growth Plan Unveiled

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A primarily residential community served by well-located schools and shopping areas is the main concept behind the master plan recently released by the township planning board.

The studies and publication of the plan were financed in part with a federal grant under the Urban Planning Assistance Program.

Emphasis in the study has been placed upon changes in population growth, social attitudes, economic values and educational opportunities.

The plan is based on a capacity population of 105,000 persons when the township's 19,900 acres are fully developed.

No estimate is made as to when this capacity might be reached but the population is projected to 30,000 by 1970 and approximately 42,000 by 1980. The present population figure is 20,000.

NEIGHBORHOOD CONCEPT
The population will live in areas developed according to the neighborhood unit concept. Each neighborhood will be served by an elementary school and streets designed to limit traffic.

Minimum lot sizes of the recently adopted zoning ordinance will control the density of population. Open space will be encouraged with a projected need for 1,050 acres of school and park land to serve the capacity population.

A community center for civic and governmental activities is recommended so that local governmental activities can be consolidated at one site.

The planning board has recommended either an extension of the present town hall site or the location of a new site.

SERVICE AREAS
Service areas for fire stations are based on travel time for fire equipment over existing roads. The radius in residential areas is 2-3 miles.

UNHAMPERED ACCESS
The plan recommends that the stations should have unhampered access to two-way thoroughfares and be centrally located.

As the main township library and the Westacres Branch continue to expand, the plan sees a projected need for the equivalent of three libraries, located in widely separated areas.

SCHOOL SITES
School sites are proposed along with suggested changes in school district boundaries which would result in more logical travel distances to and from school. The township is served by seven separate school districts.

LOCATION AND AMOUNT
The location and amount of commercial land needed in the future was estimated through the use of a market analysis. By 1980, an estimated total demand of 65 acres of commercial land, including convenience and comparison shopping centers, parking and landscaped areas, will be needed.

ADDITIONAL 40 ACRES
An additional 40 acres is projected for commercial offices, recreation and motels.

INDUSTRIAL SITE
For the first time the township has considered industrial location as part of its overall development. The possibility of a freeway in the vicinity of Haggerty and the eventual extension of Northwestern Highway beyond Haggerty make this an ideal starting point for suggesting industrial locations, according to the planning board.

for the past three years but mining may resume soon if the township board votes to grant a permit for it.

The group of officials, headed by township supervisor Edward Chey, asked the league to hold off on any action against the pit operators until the board receives the results of a study now being made by the engineering firm of Johnson and Anderson.

BORINGS MADE
Borings are being made in the area between the pit and the lake to find out whether renewed mining operations in the pit would affect the lake level.

THE PIT AND THE LAKE
The pit and the lake are approximately 1,000 feet apart.

A public hearing will be held Aug. 16 at the township board's regular meeting, at which time results of the study should be available and the permit request will be reviewed.

A show of hands by the estimated 100 people at the Friday meeting indicated that resident opposition to the mining remains strong.

DISCUSSION CONTINUED
The league previously has threatened the pit operators with legal action if they attempt to start mining activity in the pit.

Charles Stewart of 42484 13 Mile, who is offering the money, said several neighbors witnessed the act.

They said the cyclist rode by the Stewart family home about 8 p.m. and noticed the dog, a toy poodle, standing in the driveway near the street.

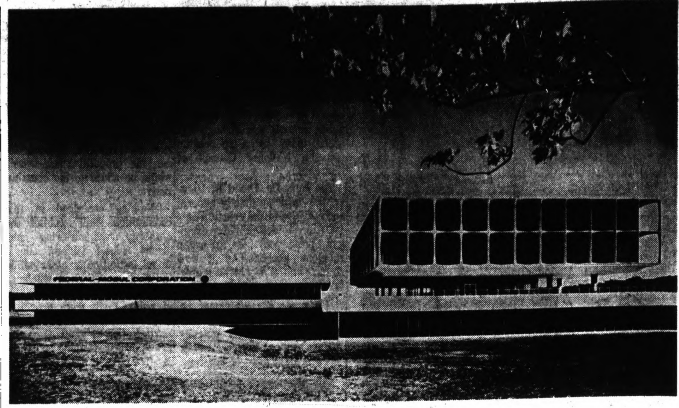

He returned, swerved into the driveway and struck the dog, knocking it out into the street.

As the animal lay there, the rider returned again and ran over it, Stewart said.

HIS DESCRIPTION
The youth was described as white and in his late teens. He had black hair and was wearing a black shirt, open down the front, with a white tee-shirt.

He was riding an apparently new black and silver Japanese motorcycle, according to Stewart.

Anyone with information is asked to contact the Novi police department.

NEW HEADQUARTERS—Federal-Mogul Corp.'s new $5-million office complex in Southfield was dedicated and formally opened Saturday. The 140,000-square-foot multi-level structure will house 500 employees and a million-dollar computer system. Gov. Romney was the principal speaker for the dedication of the unusual structure, which was designed by Giffels and Rossetti, Inc., of Detroit.

Milford Scene of a Stabbing

MILFORD—A Redford Township youth is listed in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital following a stabbing here last night.

Milford police said Charles Tassinare, 18, was stabbed two or three times during a fight near the Huron River at 8 p.m.

Police are holding Gaynell Haynes, 27, of Plymouth in the Oakland County jail in connection with the assault.

They are continuing to search for an unknown witness who gave a description of the suspect's vehicle and license number.

Admits Sending Advisers to N. Viet Nam

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union for the first time has admitted sending military advisers to help communist North Viet Nam's war effort.

The Kremlin also claimed yesterday that U.S. bombing of oil depots near Hanoi and Haiphong had made the situation in Viet Nam "still more serious."

Western authorities had long assumed Soviet advisers were helping train North Vietnamese — particularly in the operation of surface-to-air (SAM) missiles.

But a report in the newspaper Moscow Young Communist (Moskovsky Komsomolski) that two veteran Soviet border guards were dispatched to help the Hanoi regime was the first official admission military personnel were sent to North Viet Nam.

The newspaper said the guards were Col. Vladimir Naumov, a border guard well known as a police dog trainer, and Col. Nikita Karatzaev. They ran a school for North Vietnamese border guards near one of the nation's frontiers, the report said.

Currently about 100,000 prisoners handle the 25,000 computers in use in this country. Nearly 25,000 more are needed to efficiently handle the load, computer companies say.

It Seems to Me...

'Jerry' Much More Qualified Than 'Soapy' for U.S. Senate

In tomorrow's primary, one titanic struggle surmounts the rest. CAVANAGH and WILLIAMS claim top attention. Personally, I'm wholeheartedly behind JEROME CAVANAGH as he would be infinitely more effective in Washington.

Mayor Cavanagh has been a forceful and capable administrator in Detroit while "Soapy" Williams wallowed around ineffectively in Africa where he was neither friends nor favor with the natives or the U. S. administration. How could a man with this "background" ever command as much respect and attention in the United States Senate as the capable and popular "Jerry" Cavanagh?

WILLIAMS enters the lists with the bulk of the old-time, professional politicians in his corner. He associated with them during his futile reign as Governor of Michigan. Certainly he is a friendly individual, but happily, JEROME CAVANAGH possesses that same characteristic plus much greater sheer ability. When he ran for Mayor of Detroit, he was given scant chance by his opponent, but the boys and girls weren't fooled by the suave complacency and self-assurance of his opponent.

He won hands down.

During WILLIAMS' years as Governor, he left the State in a financial mess and an unfortunate name nationally. It remained for George ROMNEY to restore order and swing a deficit into a surplus.

WILLIAMS believes he has labor in his hip pocket and this may be true in the case of the leaders. But when the citizens step into those voting booths, their own conscience takes command.

They're not "under orders." This is still America.

Cavanagh has challenged Williams to public debates repeatedly, but Williams steadfastly ducked.

Republican leaders have decreed one phase of the balloting. A popular wave has swept the State suggesting GOP voters take a Democratic ballot in the primary and vote for Cavanagh to guarantee Michigan a capable and powerful figure in the Senate if the Democrats win in November. On a close vote this primary switch could be decisive.

I favor Cavanagh.
He's a much stronger individual.

Wilson Faces Problem

Great Britain is pulling her belt appreciably tighter and looking the financial facts squarely in the face. Sharp measures are a necessity. Her pound is trembling.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson has issued the most direct and unmistakable pronouncement of his term in office. The British are up against it and he faces it squarely.

Many consumer goods should have a new ten per cent tax. Corporations are ordered to hold down all dividends. You have to make a 40% down payment on a car instead of the previous 25%. Travelers can only leave Britain with $140 in cash. This precludes extensive travel. Further, Wilson has lopped $100 million off government spending.

Can there be a lesson here for us? Our financial experts better put their collective heads together and go into executive session for a more thorough examination of our own economy than they have to date.

'Elite Presidents' Club'

A few years ago, membership in the late JOHN F. KENNEDY's "President's Club" was $1,000. That was the initiation fee. But times change.

Now we have the "Elite President's Club" and LBJ kicked the entrance fee up to $10,000. That's the cost today, pals. And bargain days don't exist.

For more than a century, the Democrat party was the home of the "little guy"—the boy without much money or income. Today it's the haven of the financial giants, beginning with the several hundred million dollar KENNEDYS and trailing all the way down to the $12 or $15 million dollar JOHNSONS.

That's where the heavy sugar is today.

And in Conclusion

Jotting from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

HOWARD HUGHES, mystery man, had an ear operation in Boston and took over most of one hospital floor and the floor of a hotel. He traveled east in two private cars. One of the conspicuous facts in J. EDGAR HOOVER's current crime report lies in the percentage of crimes by "repeaters." This is a challenge to our judges and our whole judicial and prison procedure. What's the answer? TEDDY KENNEDY still urges the UN to admit Red China, saying they should be "represented." Would he give burglars and murderers "representation" in U.S. government?

The bottom exhibit of political doggers in the mail consists of Lincoln Welfon's card addressed to: Harold and Liz Fitzgerald with a wrong house number. The remarks of that Air Force general will bear repeating: "I'd rather face the Chinese now than I would ten or even five years later." One of the giggles of a hot summer lies in the August magazine article that said Mia Farrow and Mike Nichols have mama's blessing "for their wedding." Over 300 teachers in Watts indicate they won't return.

Four of us had three small sugar containers at lunch. One said: "one level teaspoon." It was the only one of the three that didn't have a teaspoon full. It was signed "International Automated Machines, Inc., Ann Arbor, Mich." Last Thanksgiving our own ARTHUR SANFORD predicted the coldest day of the entire winter and he hit it within 24 hours. Six months ago he said the hottest day of summer would be Wednesday. Dept. of

Capitol Letter:

Here's Sidelight to Job Equality

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — President Johnson has displayed commendable zeal in pressuring the business community to hire Negroes, and has appointed one of them to high ranking positions than any of his predecessors.

Paradoxical — Montgomery is unable to retain the services of Negro secretaries at the White House.

This bespeaks a problem that should command the attention of civil rights leaders who argue that the principal goal of militant Negroes is equal job opportunity.

The White House has hired a number of Negro secretaries during the past few years, but none of them has stayed.

A personnel officer explains that as soon as the glamour of the job wears off, the young women either quit, or request transfer back to the agency from which they were borrowed.

"They simply refuse to work the long hours that the white secretaries are putting in," an unimpeachable source reports.

NOT UNIQUE
This problem is not unique to the White House. Thanks to an awakened American conscience as well as to governmental pressure, nearly every business, industrial plant and newspaper has been eager to hire Negroes for higher echelon jobs.

Numerous firms nowadays are employing Negro executives who are less qualified than their white counterparts, in order to avoid trouble with civil rights groups, or to get government contracts.

In a way this is simply justice, because Negroes for such a long time were denied an opportunity for equal education and training.

Now that the breakthrough has occurred, however, it is surely up to civil rights leaders to stress the importance of giving equal performance for equal pay.

AS CAPABLE
Instead of menacing, rabble-raising chants for "black power," enlightened leaders should be encouraging Negroes to prove by their job performance that they are every bit as capable as whites to hold positions of "power."

Our society has become too complex to countenance drudges, regardless of the color of their skin; yet Negroes nowadays are getting away with job lapses for which white people would be discharged.

This is neither equal rights nor equal opportunity.

Today's Negro has a shining opportunity to be a trailblazer for all future generations of his race.

Perhaps he can best accomplish this by demonstrating that a man's race has nothing to do with his aptitude and devotion to duty.

Bob Considine Says:

Skeptics Plague Mao on His Swimming Feat

NEW YORK — Swimming officials of the Olympic Committee and the AAU expressed doubt here today that 72-year-old Mao Tse-tung, Communist dictator of China, really swam nine miles in the Yangtze in 65 minutes.

That's the trouble with the world. Nobody believes anything anymore. Mao swims the Yangtze at nearly nine miles an hour, which is a lot faster than your 425-horsepower Belvedere can do in Sunday traffic, and the stuffed shirts of the Olympic Committee and the AAU make snide remarks.

If Mao can swim nine miles in 65 minutes (and the official Chinese News Agency noted that there was a 20-mile-an-hour wind and the Yangtze was wave-bumpy) there is no telling how that boy will develop when the time he is 74.

According to word from Peking, he literally climbed through his record achievement in the Yangtze.

"Chairman Mao at times swam sidestroke, advancing as he cleaved through the waves, and at other times he floated and had a view of the azure sky above," the great news agency of the People's Paradise cried. He stopped at one point, "when he discovered that a girl swimmer nearby knew only one swimming stroke, so he taught her the backstroke."

Good for Mao. He can't be all bad.

NO WONDER
No wonder, as the Chinese News Agency swore with a straight face, "crowds along the banks of the Yangtze shouted 'Long live Chairman Mao!' for four solid hours after he had dried off and gone home for a bowl of moo goo yai pan, breakfast of champions.

It's possible, of course, that they were shouting something else.

There, we've been snide again. Sorry. Long live Chairman Mao, the greatest swimmer since the porpoise!

I hope he won't retire now. He could easily crack Lord Byron's record for the Hellespont, or be the first man to swim the English Channel — lengthwise.

Electoral System

The New York Post

The way in which America elects its President has been challenged in the courts by Delaware. The plaintiffs claim that the present method discriminates against small states, like Delaware, in favor of big states, like New York. They want to invalidate the right of any state to have Presidential electors vote as a bloc when a candidate gets a plurality of a statewide vote. The complaint is not based on fact. Both the small and Southern states, where there is low voting participation, have an edge under our present system. In Delaware, for instance, it takes only 148,000 residents to get one vote in the Electoral College; in New York, it takes more than twice as many (390,000) to get the same one electoral vote for its Congressmen and an additional two votes for Senator.

In states where voter turnout is low, the situation is even worse. Alaska gets one electoral vote for every 22,000 cast in a year like 1964; Illinois gets the same one electoral vote for 136,000 votes cast. One vote in Alaska is worth eight votes in Illinois.

'Boys Sent to Die Yet Not Allowed to Vote'

We are sending our boys to Viet Nam every day. They are sent over there to die, yet they don't have the right to vote for the President of the country they are dying for.

A lot of people are in favor of the war, but do they have a brother, husband or father in Viet Nam, or at the draft age?

Every day older people are cutting down the teenagers. Have they forgotten that if it were not for these kids, they might have to fight and might even be dead. We should be ashamed of letting children fight for America. They haven't lived long enough to see what they are fighting for.

'Lawyers' Poll Is Unfair to the Candidates'

Too much importance is being given the lawyers' poll in regard to candidates for Circuit Judge. About 350 responses were received from approximately 2,000 attorneys, a little over 17 per cent, and these, naturally, voted for the candidates known to them.

The Oakland County Bar Association should eliminate this method and adopt a fairer system of rating candidates. LET'S BE FAIR

Fifteen-Year-Old's Motor Bike Impounded

I want to praise the brave officer who gave my fifteen-year-old brother a ticket for not having a motor bike license and impounded his bike. He can't catch the party who stole my father's license plates, the hoodlums who rob people, or those going 60 to 70 miles per hour in a 25 mile-per-hour zone. It's more dangerous to face hoodlums with a gun than a little fifteen-year-old with a bike. All my friends and neighbors think it's a pretty bad deal.

Is it unlawful for a private citizen to have tickets printed and raffle a car or other personal goods instead of selling it?

REPLY

Assuming your plan would be to sell the tickets, it would be illegal, according to Mr. Kaichen of the Prosecutor's office. It is a lottery to sell tickets for a prize with the winner selected by mere chance, and lotteries are outlawed in Michigan.

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese businessmen fear that their government's ban on a Chinese Communist official may threaten their $500 million a year trade with Red China. Peking in April 1958 halted all trade with Japan for three years after a Chinese Communist flag was torn down at a department store exhibition in Nagasaki. The Red regime recently has become increasingly critical of the Japanese government because of the war in Vietnam, and businessmen interested in the China trade fear that Peking may use the ban against another curtailment of trade. Liu, president of the All-China Federation of Trade Unions, was scheduled to head a 16-member delegation to the 12th World Conference Against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs in Hiroshima Aug. 5, in barring him from the country, the Japanese government charged he had criticized it at the 1965 conference. The Chinese Communist delegation returned from Hong Kong to Peking although Japanese said it would admit the other 15 members. The official Peking People's Daily said Sunday: "The incident was another mean action to disrupt the friendly relations between the Chinese and Japanese people." Torn between constant domestic pressure to expand ties with Communist China and its desire to keep good relations with Nationalist China and the United States, the Japanese government has tried to foster trade with Red China but no diplomatic recognition. Last year the Tokyo-Peking trade totaled $400 million, edged out the Soviet Union as Japan's No. 1 Communist trade partner. Everything is done on a private civilian basis but with tacit government approval and backing. Under such private agreements, a Chinese Communist trade mission was opened in Tokyo last year and resident newsmen were exchanged. The government attached the condition that the Peking trade mission refrain from any political activity. When Liu's visa rejection was announced, Song Ping-hua, the chief Chinese Communist trade officer in Tokyo, disavowed this condition and issued a protest. The Foreign Ministry warned that if the Chinese trade mission repeated such political action, steps against it would be considered.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Coast Guard has officially ended its search for Army Brig. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, a respected combat officer who disappeared with two other men nine days ago on a flight from here to Honolulu. The search, which at one time covered 120,000 miles, was suspended at dusk Saturday. However, the Coast Guard asked that ships and planes traveling in the area 600 miles southwest of here keep a lookout for traces of the missing DC3 plane.

Viet Hero Thanks People for Prayers

BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP) — "Lies who had lost a relative are grateful for the honors today," Col. Hal G. Moore Jr. told the hundreds gathered to honor him and other Viet Nam veterans, "but I am more grateful for the prayers you gave my men and me while we were in Viet Nam."

"Please keep praying for the ones who still are there and the ones who have fallen. God bless them all."

Moore then asked the 650 persons at the civic reception Sunday for a minute of silent prayer.

The silence was in contrast to the parade and other celebrations the citizens of Bardstown had planned to honor Moore, winner of the Distinguished Service Cross for valor in Viet Nam.

The festivities were planned when Moore, a Bardstown native, brought his wife and five children home to visit his widowed mother. Included in the plans was a "Hal Moore Night" at a local theatrical pageant, the Stephen Foster story, which honors another son of Bardstown.

REFUSES PERSONAL HONOR
The colonel said no. But he told officials he approved of a reception in honor of all area veterans of Viet Nam and fami-

Army Spec. 4 Michael Davenport of Greensburg, Ky., was one of those honored. He was Moore's driver and radio man for nine months in Viet Nam, Davenport said the revised program was typical of Col. Moore.

"He never wanted anything his men couldn't have, too," Davenport said. "He's just the greatest I've ever served under."

Davenport drove 100 miles to attend the reception. "I would have traveled a lot further to honor this man. He took risks he didn't have to to inspire the men. And he did, too."

Davenport returned four days after Moore in November.

Another Bardstown veteran who served under Moore, Spec. 4 Raymond Ford, died in action in February. At the reception Moore took his mother, Bertha Ford aside and told her he is proud of her son.

"It was his duty and he wanted to serve," the mother said.

College Sought for Interlochen

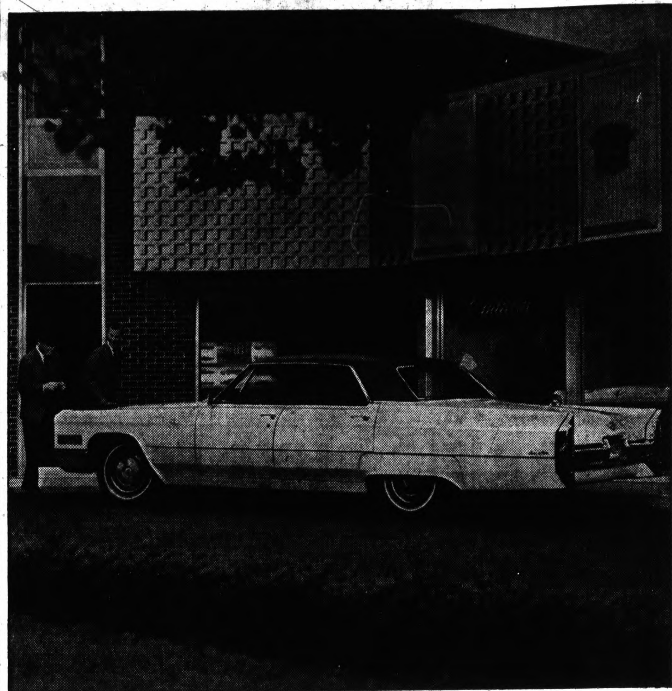

INTERLOCHEN (UPI) — Trustees of the Interlochen Arts Academy have proposed a two-year College of Creative Arts which would be an extension of the academic and fine arts program of the arts academy.

The late Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, founder of the world-renowned arts academy near Traverse City, first proposed the college as one of the aims of the Interlochen program Maddy died last April.

Dr. Roscoe O. Bonisteel of Ann Arbor, chairman of the executive committee of Interlochen's trustees, announced plans for the college after a concert Saturday night by American pianist Van Cliburn. The college will have to be approved by the State Board of Education.

Michigan Holds Spotlight

4 Other States' Primaries This Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the Michigan battle between Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh and ex-Gov. G. Mennen Williams holds the national spotlight, other primaries Tuesday will be held in Idaho, Kansas and Missouri. The fifth primary of the week is in Tennessee Thursday.

Taal Volcano Threatening; Move 13,000

MANILA (UPI) — About 13,000 persons living near turbulent Taal volcano were being evacuated today after scientists warned of a possible massive earthquake striking as far as the Manila area 40 miles away.

A total of 2,156 families was being moved into evacuation centers from homes in lakeshore towns opposite the volcano island, according to a government evacuation committee.

The Manila Weather Bureau warned yesterday that Taal appeared to be building up to a devastating explosion which could unleash strong earthquakes affecting a 50- to 75-mile radius.

Flash floods today were reported sweeping most sections of the volcano island. The island is deserted except for a volcanology team which visits it daily.

A geophysicist, Aurelio Ocampo Jr., said although the Manila area would be affected by any earthquake triggered by a big blast from Taal, the danger is not as grave as in areas to the volcano.

FEARS BLAST

Ocampo said the feared big blast from Taal might rival — or even surpass — the 1911 explosion which rained volcanic ash and sent shock waves as far as Manila.

An estimated 1,500 persons were killed during that explosion. Its last major eruption was on Sept. 28, 1965, when about 200 persons were killed.

Idaho Gov. Robert E. Smylie, the nation's senior governor in terms of service, is seeking re-nomination to an unprecedented fourth four-year term. Smylie faces Don Samuelson, a young state legislator, in the Republican primary. The outcome may be affected by a 3 per cent state primary opposition in the Kansas gubernatorial primary.

In Missouri, the GOP primary opponent of a gubernatorial candidate is seeking the Democratic nomination. They are Republican Durwood G. Hall, and Democrat Richard Ichord and Paul C. Jones.

Idaho has a three-way race for the Democratic nomination for governor involving Cecil Andrus, William J. Dee and Charles Herndon. Both the Senate and the state's two House seats are up for election, but none of the candidates are opposed in the primary.

In Kansas, Sen. James B. Pearson faces Rep. Robert L. Ellsworth in the Republican primary. Two other candidates trying to unseat Pearson are former Wichita Mayor William D. Tarrant and Ava A. Anderson, wife of a Concordia dentist.

Candidates for the Democratic Senate nomination are former Rep. F. Floyd Breeding, State Sen. Harold S. Herd, insurance executive J. Leigh Warner and K.L. Smith, the Democratic nominee in 1962 against Republican Sen. Frank Carlson.

Both Republican Gov. William H. Avery and Democrat Robert D. Docking, son of former Gov. George Docking, have nominal primary opposition in the Kansas gubernatorial primary. Missouri does not elect a senator or a governor this year, but three of its 10 House members and John J. Hooker Jr. are qualified too late to be listed as challengers in Tuesday's seeking the Democratic nomination.

Some see the race as a clash between the Johnson and Kennedy factions of the party. Ellington resigned as President Johnson's director of the Office of Emergency Planning to seek the gubernatorial post. Hooker, a Nashville lawyer, is a personal friend of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

Charles Moffett, a former director of the University of Tennessee Evening School, will be on the ballot as an independent candidate for governor. He and John J. Hooker Jr. are qualified too late to be listed as the only Republican candidate.

'Not Enough Time for Changes'

Ford Engineers Fear Safety Timetable

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. engineers say the impending auto safety legislation won't give automobile manufacturers enough time to comply with new regulations.

In interviews in Detroit, the engineers said the timetable would give car makers only six months to make design changes to meet new standards of safety engineering.

But, a Ford spokesman said, already started.

Donald R. Frey, general manager of the company's Ford division, said, "We are assuming what is going to happen in January. The law ought not to put us in a position where we have to assume what it is going to say."

General Motors said it is studying parts of its 1968 plans in the light of what is known so far. A spokesman indicated that "all new tooling" may be needed if new standards require present designs be thrown out.

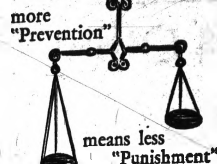

Chrysler also has expressed concern over the uncertainty of their plans in view of the legislation the new safety standards.

Insurance Urged for Mental Health

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Psychological Association believes the nation's health insurance industry should broaden its coverage in the mental health field to include fees for psychotherapists.

In a booklet made public during the weekend, the organization said that when the insurance companies "single out one profession — medicine — and ignore another — psychology — for reimbursement they are inadvertently, but nevertheless effectively, acting in the role of a licensing or regulatory body."

WNFGA Supports Conservation

By MADELINE DOEREN
The Michigan Division, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association Inc. is sending 72 leaders and teachers to the Higgins Lake Conservation Schools this summer.

The State-wide program was the outgrowth of the local clubs' sincere concern with resource management. They believe that through teachers' contacts with Michigan youth, future generations would develop appreciation and an awareness of stewardship toward our national resources.

SCHOLARSHIPS GIVEN
To date, the Division has given 750 scholarships for one week each throughout a five-week Conservation program. It first sent representatives in 1952.

Two hundred and fifty teachers have attended these schools annually for the past several years.

Among area teaching couples attending this week are the James Brighams of Haddrell Court and the junior Walter Mosers of Ordram Court, Oakland Township.

Lake Angelus branch WNFGA is sponsoring the Brighams. She teaches at LeBaron School and her husband at Kennedy Junior High.

The Mosers, who both teach 9th grade, accepted their scholarships from the Rochester branch. She teaches at Clarkson Junior High and Mr. Moser is at Central Junior High in Rochester.

Sylvan Lake branch is sponsoring Harold E. Rose of Canterbury Drive who is on the Whitfield School faculty. He is a member of the Citizens' Advisory Committee on deer conservation and president of the Tee Creek Hunt Club.

According to the Michigan Department of Conservation, the week of conservation training is NOT slanted toward nature study!

The Department, along with university and college personnel who work with the teachers, attempt to give them a sound, thorough background for understanding the conservation picture.

FIELD TRIPS
Classes are held both indoors and out. Field trips supplement classroom discussions.

No time is spent on plant or animal identification as references are available in the library.

Conservation concepts and principles are integrated throughout the week and there is free time each day for students to pursue their own interests in the library, at the beach, or elsewhere.

The success of the program depends largely on the voluntary but wholehearted participation of everyone who attends.

According to Mrs. Allan J. Carter of Cobb Creek Road, Oakland Township, who attended as conservation chairman and auditor of the course, 55 branches of the Michigan Division, WNFGA, participated in the program.

From the Pontiac area scholarships were given by the following branches: Lake Angelus, Sylvan Lake, Sylvan Manor, Clarkson, Holly, Milford, Pontiac and Rochester.

Others are Oakland, Wing Lake Shores, Cranbrook, Walnut Lake, Foxcroft, Chapel Hills, Birmingham, Bloomfield Heights, Bloomfield Hills, Osage, Fenton and Grand Blanc.

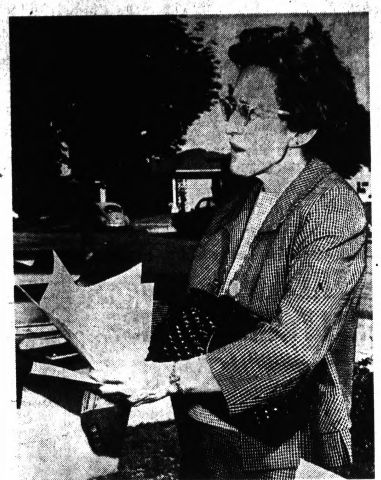

Also holding scholarships are Donald Maxwell, Warrington Drive; James Tyrell, Clarkson; and James W. Kelly, Tipico Trail.

MSU CREDITS
Michigan State University is now giving credits toward undergraduate and graduate students who attend the credit week course given during the summer. Credit is transferable to any school in the state.

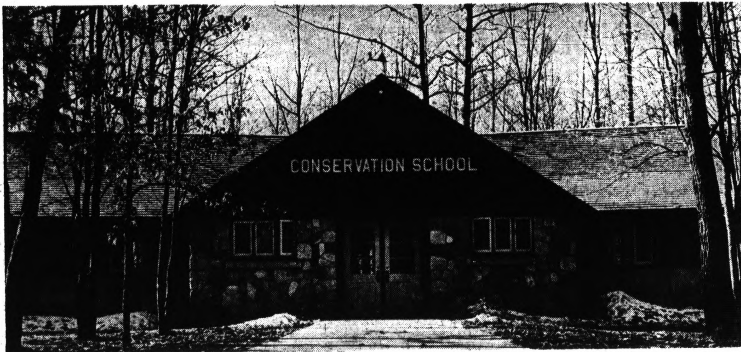

Resources studies in this year's program include earth history and minerals; soil and water; also forestry, ecology and wildlife; men and resources (all-day field trip); social-economic aspects and outdoor education; conservation and the curriculum (examination for credit students.)

Anyone can attend these courses but scholarships are provided by individual associations, clubs and business firms. Classroom teachers, school administrators or youth leaders (4-H, Scout, Campfire etc.) have these scholarships available to them.

Women's Section

Mrs. Allan J. Carter of Cobb Creek Road, Oakland Township, conservation chairman of the Michigan Division, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, checks a Conservation School program.

Will She Get Her Man?

A Mountie Is Her Quest

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am a high school senior and I plan to become a nurse. I also have another ambition. I want to marry a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Please don't laugh at me, Abby, I am serious.

I am not pretty, but I do have plenty of friends and I've been told I have a good personality. I've dated guys from school, but they don't satisfy this feeling I have.

I have read everything about the R. C. M. P. and am more determined than ever to marry one. How can I meet one?

FROM VIRGINIA

DEAR FROM: You could take a trip to Canada and get "lost" in the Rockies, but there is always a chance that the bloodhounds might find you first. Get your R. N., then apply for a job in Canada.

And in the meantime, keep repeating the motto of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police: "We always get our man." And maybe you'll get yours. Lotsa luck.

DEAR ABBY: Harry is somewhere in his late sixties and has never been married. I am a widow, 58. We started seeing each other about a year ago and agreed to be just friends and nothing more.

We enjoyed each others' companionship immensely for a while, then he broke his promise and got romantic. I put him in his place and we agreed once more to be only friends.

Now Harry wants me to accept a diamond. He says he is not pressing for marriage, but he would like for me to wear his ring. I would like to accept it, but I don't want to commit myself to marriage. What do you think he has in mind?

WATCHING MY STEP

DEAR WATCHING: He could be only trying to cut off your circulation. No matter what he says, his tone has a wedding ring to it.

DEAR ABBY: When I read "Insulted's" letter, complaining because she had received a garbage pail from her aunt and uncle for a wedding present, it brought back memories.

Years ago, an English professor was reading a play in which the author had attempted to depict poverty, filth, and squalor against a background of garbage cans, clotheslines, etc. The professor became enraged.

"What's wrong with garbage cans?" he wanted to know. "In India there are no garbage cans because there is no garbage. And there's no garbage because there's no food! Garbage cans are an indication of plenty," he said. "A mark of an affluent civilization of which any nation may well be proud!"

I have never forgotten those words. It also instilled in me a new respect for garbage cans. "PRACTICAL" IN CORONADO

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORRIED SICK: Quit worrying. I never use a writer's name, initials, or reveal the city from which the letter came without the consent of the writer.

DEAR ABBY: As a physician and psychiatrist, may I comment in answer to MADISON M. D.: The girl who requested the pills, may really not want them, but rather may be craving for the friendship and advice of someone she can trust.

Her confidence should certainly be respected, as few parents are able to sympathetically counsel their teen-age children. Sincerely, ANOTHER M. D.

DEAR ABBY: Why are you polling DOCTORS on whether a 16-year-old girl should be given contraceptive devices and information without the knowledge and consent of her parents? It is clearly a LEGAL question. And the answer is an unequivocal NO!

ATTORNEY AT LAW, MPLS.

Next Time Leave Tot at Home

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: We have seven children and recently my sister invited the whole family to her daughter's wedding. At the reception we were seated at long tables.

I have always stressed good table manners at home, but I spotted Billy, who is 4, scooping his food across his plate straight into his mouth. I corrected him. In the course of the meal I must have corrected 10 or 15 times, sometimes to little ones who were still learning; sometimes to the older ones who were still learning; sometimes to the older ones who were showing off.

Later I was severely criticized by another sister who said this was not the time or the place to teach—Eileen Black.

NO CHOICE

Dear Mrs. Black: Ordinarily I would agree with your sister that no one, child or adult, should be criticized or disciplined in front of others.

However, in the circumstances you describe, I feel you had no choice but to correct your children, especially the older ones who were trying to attract attention.

May I suggest that it would be pleasanter for you as well as the other guests if you left the youngest of your children home for another year or two, or until they need less supervision?

PERMANENT VALUE

Dear Mrs. Post: One of the men in our company is retiring and we, the employees, would like to present him with a gift when he leaves. What would be suitable?

Must it be something personal or must we give him something for his house? We had thought of a globe or portable bar—Pam.

Dear Pam: The important thing is that the gift be of permanent value. It may be personal, such as a wrist watch, or it may be something for his den, such as you suggested, as long as it will give lasting pleasure.

Five Area Couples Exchange Nuptials

MRS. C. T. VAN BIBBER

At a reception, Saturday, in the Metropolitan Club, Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Gaines of West Rundell Street announced the recent marriage of their daughter, Carolyn Lucille, to Charles Thomas Van Bibber, son of the T. Rex Van Bibbers of West New York Avenue.

Rev. Marne A. Lawson, U.S.N., Chaplain, performed the ceremony in the United States Naval Station, Brooklyn, N.Y.

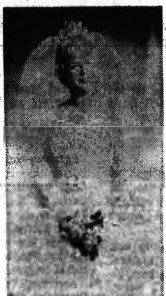

After a honeymoon in New York, the couple is residing on West Rundell Street. The bride attended the University of Michigan and Oakland University.

Country Suit Gains Favor

There was a day when the average man had one or more "tweed suits," the bulky, easy-care garments that provided the utmost in comfort and in casual appearance.

Well, they'll all have something like that again before too long — if the popularity of the so-called country suit continues as it has started.

These suits in bold plaid and check patterns with deep side vents and, in some cases, with leather buttons, are a valued adjunct to any man's wardrobe.

MRS. VANDERBURG

Reception in the Rose Kneale Room followed the marriage of Karen Sue Ledger to Arden Keith Vanderburg, in All Saints Episcopal Church.

Rev. C. George Widdfield performed the candlelight rite for the couple whose parents are the Albert E. Ledgers of Mariner Street and the Harold Vanderburgs of Royal Oak.

Handclipped imported lace over white satin fashioned the bride's tiered gown and train worn with beaded lace tiara and illusion veil. Her lace-covered prayer book held white carnations and Stephanotis.

Karen Thomas was maid of honor, with Ann Adams and Yasmien Vanderburg as bridesmaids. Ann Ledger was junior attendant.

On the esquire side, were best man Emmett Latimer, with ushers Robert E. Farms and Douglas Ledger.

After a wedding trip to Toronto, Ont., the couple will live in Royal Oak.

Got 'Recipe' From Parents

KINGS PARK, N. Y. — Edwin A. Martin, celebrating his 100th birthday at St. Johnland Home here, gave his formula for longevity but admitted not everyone can follow it.

"I blame my father and mother," he observed. "My father lived to 98 and my mother to 96."

Polly's Pointers

Revitalize Hat

DEAR POLLY — Last year I bought an expensive hat covered with silk flowers. I felt I should get at least two years wear out of it. Even though I had packed it carefully when I took it out this spring the flowers looked beaten down.

I tried to press the flowers on the hat with a regular iron but that did not work. I finally thought of my old hair curling iron. I heated it and curled all the petals so that they looked beautiful again. In fact I have had compliments on my "new" hat. — MRS. H. D. H.

DEAR POLLY — I have some answers for Mrs. W. H. S. on what to make out of plastic mesh vegetable bags. They are excellent for storing hair rollers, for school bags and make good see-through bags for holding mittens and scarves.

Most important, I think, is using them for storing garden bulbs over winter. — MRS. E. J.

DEAR POLLY — My children made hats with net for birds in those plastic mesh bags. They were heavy yarn into the mesh and the ends were overcast with the yarn. The pillows were stuffed with old nylon stockings. — MRS. K. K.

DEAR POLLY — Sew across the mesh bag right above the staple and then remove the staple. Trim. Pull the produce bag over the jug and anchor the bag over about two inches at the top and then run yarn or ribbon (interlaced) both ways to make a drawing — HELEN

DEAR POLLY — Open those plastic mesh bags and sew the pieces together (I used zigzag stitch) to make a new set for the children's basketball hoop. — MRS. H. W.

DEAR POLLY — We fill the mesh bags with net for birds in the trees in winter. The mesh gives the birds something to hold on to while they eat.

Rollled into a ball or folded flat and sewn together the bags make good scouring pads for pots and pans. — MRS. T. E. K.

MRS. M. H. SAFAVIAN

Off on a Bermuda honeymoon are Dr. M. H. Safavian of South East Boulevard and his bride, the former Karen Moxlow, who were wed recently in the Sacred Heart Church on Grosse Ile.

The cutting of a cake replica of the monument to the Iranian poet Sadi was a highlight of the reception in Dearborn Inn, immediately following the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Mohammad Safavian of Shiraz, Iran, and the George S. Moxlows of Grosse Ile.

LACE CAP

Almonoon lace capped the bride's floor-length veil of silk tulle and accented her A-line gown of white fallie. She held Phalaenopsis orchids.

With Mary Moxlow, her sister's maid of honor, were Eugenia Springer, bridesmaid and Jory Cameron, junior maid.

Dr. Behrooz Dayanin of Norfolk, Va. was best man. Dr. Jalal Panah of Pontiac ushered with Timothy Burke, Dallas D. Dudley and Timothy Moxlow.

The bride attends Mercy College of Detroit. Dr. Safavian is a graduate of Teheran University Medical School and completed surgical training at the University of Michigan.

Dr. Mehdi Safavian of Teheran, the bridegroom's brother, and Anna Schlemper of Solingen, Germany, were among the guests.

MRS. J. M. THOMAS

Newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Jon Michael Thomas (Dorothy Sue Cook) left for a trip to Mackinac Island after their vows and reception, Sunday, in the First Baptist Church, Oxford.

Their parents are the Paul Cooks of Oxford, and Mr. and Mrs. Elton J. Thomas of Grey Road, Pontiac Township.

A court train highlighted the bride's lace-appliqued Empire gown of white silk organza over taffeta worn with elbow-length illusion veil.

During the afternoon rite performed by Rev. Norman Sanders, she held a Bible arrangement of white roses and a white orchid.

With Mrs. Elwood Jeans, her sister's honor matron, were Mrs. Dayton Pender, Mrs. Lynford Allen and Joan Thomas as bridesmaids.

Roderick Dufour was best man. Guests were seated by Ralph Wingate, Rufus Gage, Russell O'Farrah, Robert Kasten and Douglas Schmiedel.

Barter Soap for Anything

A world traveler of the early 1930's reported that the pigmies of New Guinea never bathed and were amazed to see their visitors take baths.

When the natives gathered to watch a mountain waterfall used as a shower bath, the latter made by the soap was a source of great amusement.

In fact, they were spellbound by the wonder of the handfuls of suds made by a bar of soap and wanted to use it on themselves just for the thrill of making lather. Thereafter, a small piece of soap could be bartered for almost anything they owned.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Most women, even those who are the correct weight, have at least one measure which is out of proportion and many have more than one. Suppose that you had a fairy godmother or an Aladdin's lamp and could make one wish only, so far as your silhouette is concerned, what would you wish for? If you were wise, you would ask for a slim waist.

If you have a slim waist, you can carry a few extra inches in the hips and still appear slender. Of course lax abdominal muscles help thick in the waistline.

FAVORITE PLACE

The waist seems to be a favorite meeting place for extra pounds from middle age on, and sometimes sooner. What these pounds chat about I can't imagine, but I am sure that their selection of a spot to land on is not beneficial to us.

Use the following exercise as a weapon with which to banish them.

Stand erect with good posture (abdomen in, hips tucked under, chin parallel to the floor and spine straight). Now raise your right arm forward upward as you raise your left leg up and back. Feel the stretch. Return to position. This time raise your left arm forward-upward as you lift your right leg back and up. Return to position. Continue, alternating.

SECOND PART

This is the second part of this exercise. Take starting position. Raise your right arm back and up as you raise your left leg forward-up. Return to position. Now raise your left arm back and up as you lift your right leg forward-upward. Return to position. Continue alternating. Keep knees stiff throughout the exercises.

These two exercises will help flatten the abdomen and slim the waist.

If you would like to have my "Isometric Exercises" which I select especially for women, you may want that booklet.

If so send 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Question How VA, FHA Mortgages Work

By MARY FERLEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Ferley:

Will you please try to explain the system of points on a VA or FHA mortgage.

• What are points?

• Who gets them (money)?

• Why does the seller have to pay the points?

For example,

I am selling my home and the buyer is getting a $14,000 VA

mortgage. I am told that I have to pay almost

$1,000 on points

if I want to make the sale.

Can you explain

this? Mrs. A.D., Elizabeth, N.J.

Dear Mrs. D.:

Points are a discount on the money the lender gives the borrower. Less money is received by the borrower than terms of the mortgage. Since this is a reduction from the face value of the loan, a 3-point discount on a $14,000 mortgage would amount to $420. So the actual amount advanced for the $14,000 loan is $13,580.

This discount arrangement is made so that the lender can increase his return, beyond the fixed interest rate charged on an FHA or VA-insured home loan, so that it is equivalent to current mortgage yields.

This fixed allowable rate was increased in April to 5 1/2 per cent — but at the same time, conventional mortgage interest rates increased too, so that the average rate on conventional mortgage interest rates increased too, so that the average rate on conventional mortgages for new homes as of June was 6 3/8 per cent.

A lender handling a FHA or VA loan transaction with that discounting is economically necessary if he is to keep in the business of making money.

gests that the use by minors of B-B guns be limited to supervised practice on rifle or archery ranges. According to the article, leading manufacturers of air rifles also advocate shooting at firing ranges with adequate safety precautions.

"Americans still cherish the right to bear arms. But with that right go responsibility and respect for weapons," said Parents' Magazine.

"Target shooting is fun and it can be a safe pastime, too, provided we parents see to it that all guns, including air rifles, are used properly," the article concluded.

Since the interest rates on FHA or VA guaranteed loans are fixed by law, the buyer can't have the discount on the money figured in the mortgage loan.

The seller is forced to pay the balance or there can be no transaction under this type of mortgage arrangement.

Of course, if the seller feels this arrangement is an injustice to him, he can simply refuse to sell his property to a buyer who plans to finance under FHA or VA. He can just hold onto his property until a buyer comes along who plans to obtain a conventional mortgage.

The reason property owners do sell under the points arrangement is because they want quick action — a sale at the moment rather than "waiting around for another prospect."

Dear Miss Ferley:

We are very concerned about this creeping inflation today. Our home is paid for and we have no debts.

Please advise us how to protect our savings in the future from inflation.

Eyebrows Need Care

Naked eyebrows — replaced by heavy-handed penciling of eyebrows — belong to another era.

Your eyes, though, look their best when the eyebrows are cleaned of stray hairs and follow the natural arch.

If your skin gets red and the tweezing hurts, apply a soothing petroleum jelly to the area before using tweezers.
You may want to apply an antiseptic to the area after tweezing, and always use clean tweezers.

Small Kennedys In Big Crowd At Wedding

John Kennedy Jr. 'Shells Out'

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—John's aunt, his mother's half sister. John likes Janet. He said that's why he gave her the big brown and white shell from his storehouse of young boy's treasures. The Kennedys spent Sunday relaxing after Saturday's marriage festivities—which included 2,000 people jamming streets about the church, monumental traffic and hundreds of spectators lined up around roads leading to the Auchincloss estate. The new Mrs. Rutherford left the church in tears as she was confronted by the unruly crowd. Spectators stretched out to touch her gown and jostled her. After the wedding party left, hundreds rushed into the church, grabbing flowers from the main altar and pieces of the white cloth on the aisle floor.

Sometime soon,
the Jones boys' father will ask himself if he has enough life insurance.

(And how much is enough, anyway?)

It's a question that often comes up when new responsibilities come along. You've probably asked it yourself.

A quick answer is a minimum of four to five times annual income.

A better one is it all depends. On the size of the family, as well as income. On the financial responsibilities still ahead. On how far other assets will go towards meeting them.

Chances are you've already decided that your other resources can't do the job alone. Especially if you have a family to support. Kids to put through college. A mortgage to pay off. Retirement ideas that call for more income than social security or your company pension will provide.

That's why you own life insurance. It gives you an important advantage over all other types of thrift: the full amount is guaranteed from the start. It's unique that way.

But remember that family circumstances change. Needs never stand still. Enough life insurance today may be too much—or too little—tomorrow. To keep your protection up-to-date, review your policies regularly with your life insurance agent. He's trained to help you.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Nervous Stomach Has Varied Causes

NERVOUS STOMACH—385 41
Q — Five different doctors have said, I have a nervous stomach. Is this serious? What treatment would you recommend?

A — A nervous stomach or gastric distress may be due to different causes.

Some emotional difficulty, such as financial worries, an unhappy home life, an unsympathetic boss or anxieties that started in childhood, is usually the underlying cause.

The condition is not serious but may be very hard to get rid of.

For this reason your doctor may want to reassure you, give you some fatherly advice about rearranging your life, and prescribe medicines to calm your nerves and relieve your stomach symptoms.

Q — In a recent column you recommended sodium hypochlorite solution to remove a sweaty odor from clothing. What strength should be used?

A — If you use a household hypochlorite such as Clorox, one teaspoon to a gallon of water is the recommended concentration, stomach.

Observe the warnings about fabrics that can't be treated in this way.

Some authorities believe that thorough washing with a detergent followed by rinsing in plain water is just as effective.

Q — My husband was hospitalized for several weeks with "antral gastritis and prolated stomach."

Aside from giving him a bland diet what can we do to prevent a recurrence?

A — Antral gastritis is an inflammation of the stomach at its antral or lower end.

A prolated or so-called fallen stomach is a normal finding in a tall thin person and has no clinical significance.

Once the gastritis is cured, thorough chewing of one's food and relaxed peaceful surroundings at mealtime are more important than a strictly bland diet.

'Brain' Claims Belittled

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — No machine in existence can think like humans and the chances that one will soon emerge are slim, according to a new, and impressive summation of the status of artificial intelligence. Headlined claims of intelligent computers have blossomed out of all proportion to the truth, wrote Dr. Hubert L. Dreyfus, professor of philosophy at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in his analysis, "Alchemy and Artificial Intelligence," written while he was a consultant to the Rand Corporation in Santa Monica, Calif. Computer enthusiasts, said Dr. Dreyfus, are much like the man who inches up a tree believing he will reach the moon. All evidence indicates that there is just such a chasm between the "brute force" thinking of even the most complex digital computers and the "elegant" thinking humans engage in as a matter of course.

De Gaulle May Get Peking Invitation

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International
Diplomatic sources in the Hong Kong listening post say Chinese Communist authorities may invite President Charles de Gaulle of France to visit Peking when he comes to Southeast Asia later this year. There already have been rumors in Paris de Gaulle might see President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam when he visits Cambodia. But French diplomatic sources say a Ho visit is unlikely because it could compromise any chances de Gaulle might have to act in a peace-making capacity in Viet Nam later. ROAD BACK: The South American republic of Ecuador appears on the road back to constitutional government after more than three years. In a move backed by the country's provisional civilian government the supreme electoral tribunal in Quito has scheduled elections for a constituent assembly Oct. 16 to draw up a new constitution; general elections for a president and congress are to follow. Ecuador has been ruled constitutionally since a military coup toppled President Carlos Julio Arosemena in 1963. VIRGIN LANDS TROUBLES: Are the Soviets having new troubles with their mammoth "virgin lands?" The area was reclaimed from the Kazakhstan steppes in an attempt to make it the new Soviet breadbasket but weather and administrative problems have kept it from fulfilling its early promise. Now the Kremlin is refusing to let any Western farm experts visit there and high-ranking diplomats suspect "maybe there's real trouble this time." KHRUSHCHEV MISSILE GAP: Diplomats in Moscow are wondering if Nikita Khrushchev is to blame for the current 16-month gap in the Soviet man-in-space program. Several years ago, about the same time the 1965-66 space budget was being drawn up, Khrushchev indicated Russia would drop out of the space race.

Helping people help themselves

Many people restricted in their activities find the telephone their only contact with the outside world. For some it is essential to earning a living. But many of them are unable to use our regular telephones. They may be hard of hearing or, because of paralysis, unable to dial or hold a phone.

With these people in mind, Michigan Bell and Bell System engineers have designed numerous devices to make telephoning possible. They have developed a phone for the hard of hearing that has a little wheel on the handset for controlling the volume. They have devised phones for people with limited use of their hands or arms. They have even developed a handset that amplifies the caller's voice if his speech is impaired.

Helping these people help themselves is but one of many ways your telephone company continues to provide the best possible telephone service—to everyone.

If you know someone who could benefit from these services just call or write your Michigan Bell Business Office. We will evaluate the individual need and then recommend or design the necessary equipment. All requests will be held in strict confidence.

Prince No Pauper on Sex Appeal

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI) — Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, was only here for 70 minutes today but it was long enough to reemphasize the growing attraction he seems to have for women.

His admirers weren't quite swooning — yet.

But a Samoan woman in the excited crowd which broke through a rope cordon shouting "I am going to kiss him. He's lovely," and headed straight for the 17-year-old prince.

Charles, en route to Jamaica after finishing his studies at Geelong Grammar School in the Australian bush, was somewhat taken aback.

Seeing his shocked look, his admirer settled for shaking his hand vigorously and giving him a wreath of flowers. The woman was identified as Peta Tokumua, a nurses' aid from Western Samoa.

It was the latest in a series of incidents during his trip to Australia which underline a fact of life the young prince will sooner or later have to face — apparently like the last Prince of Wales, now the Duke of Windsor, he has a certain amount of sex appeal.

Truman Resting After Colitis Attack

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman was resting comfortably and making a steady recovery today from an attack of "severe colitis."

Nurses said the 82-year-old Truman, although on a soft diet, showed interest in all three meals yesterday. Mrs. Best Truman spent most of the afternoon with her husband.

Dr. W. Wallace Graham said "there is no cause of alarm" in announcing his diagnosis of colitis yesterday. The ailment is inflammation of the colon, of large intestine.

Corpsmen, 300 Youths in Huge Fight

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Twenty Fort Custer Job Corpsmen brawled with about 300 local youths Saturday night following a party attended by the corpsmen here, police said.

About 150 city, county and state police quickly brought the fight under control. Police said the Negro corpsmen heard upon leaving the party that other Negro youths were "out to get them."

The job trainees met the local youths at a bus stop. The local youths began to heckle the corpsmen and stones were thrown, police said.

A Job Corps spokesman said no corpsmen were arrested. No one was hurt in the fight.

LAST YEAR

Last year, several corpsmen from Fort Custer were arrested and banned from Kalamazoo for 30 days after incidents of vandalism in which store windows were smashed.

"YOUR HEALTH" "NERVES"

It's just my nerves. I've always been this way. No many patients offer this complaint to their doctors, and receive sedation and tranquilizers. Many resort to alcohol just to "relax." Take time right now to reach up and feel the muscles of your neck and shoulders. Chances are they're tight and painful to the touch. Remember, nerves go to every organ, muscle and gland in the body. Pressure on these nerves can cause a malfunction or short circuit to these parts. Chiropractic treatments can, in many cases, remove this pressure, relax the muscles, and place you back on the road to good health. Find out now if you are a Chiropractic case.

Suburbs May as Well Prepare

Negro Exodus Is On

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International

The federal government is taking dead aim on the comfortable segregated, suburban communities which surround blighted, Negro-dominated, segregated inner cities.

The suburbs may as well prepare for Negro neighbors. They may as well prepare also for city-bred Negro children in their schools. The open housing section of the 1966 civil rights bill is no more than a preliminary skirmish.

Northern voters have compelled the administration to retreat on open housing. A compromise accepted by President Johnson would exempt substantially all owner-occupied residential property from penalties for racial discrimination in the sale or rental of residential property.

Pending now in the District of Columbia U.S. Court of Appeals is a suit filed by Negro parents who apparently hope to compel suburbs in neighboring Virginia and Maryland to absorb into their public school systems hundreds, more likely thousands, of Negro children who live in the slums of the central city.

It is estimated that more than 200,000 white residents have fled Washington in the past 14 years.

BIG ESCAPE
This is more than flight. It is a begira, a journey undertaken to escape from a dangerous or undesirable environment. The flight continues.

The capital city now is 82 per cent Negro. Public school enrollment is 89.4 per cent Negro. There are not enough children in Washington D.C. to provide a racial mix satisfactory to the federal administration or to civil rights leaders.

The white kids are available in the Virginia and Maryland suburbs. Hence, an action in federal court before Judge J. Skelly Wright.

A researcher for David Lawrence's smartly edited U.S. News & World Report turned up a quotation from a lecture delivered by Judge Wright in 1965, as follows:

"It is inconceivable that the Supreme Court will long sit idly by watching Negro children crowded into inferior slum schools while the whites flee to the suburbs to place their children in vastly superior, predominantly white schools."

Sun Protons May Harden Lunar Surface

By Science Service
UPTON, N.Y. — Protons thrown spaceward by the sun and slamming into the moon could make the surface hard, an experiment at the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's Savannah River Plant in Georgia has shown.

That the lunar surface is not covered with a thick layer of dust, as some astronomers had thought, was established by the U.S. Surveyor I and the Russian Luna 9 landings.

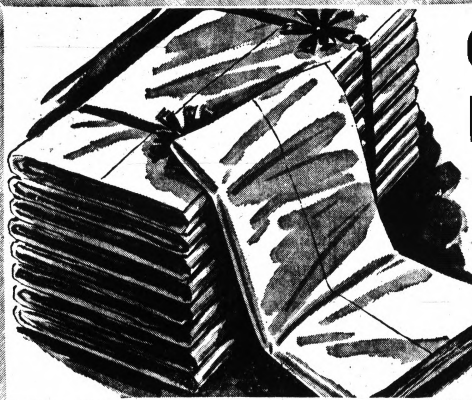

A test by Dr. Arthur C. Dama of the AEC's Brookhaven national laboratory here showed that proton irradiation can bond silica sand, a likely constituent of the lunar surface, into a self-supporting solid mass.

Protons are the cores, or nuclei, of hydrogen atoms. Free neutrons, such as found in a reactor, change into protons in about 12 minutes.

White House Brides in Spotlight

Honeymoon Privacy Worrying Luci

By FRANCES LEWINE
WASHINGTON (AP) — White House brides have had their difficulties getting off to private honeymoon spots. Now Luci Johnson, 18, hopes she can make it.

The U.S. State Department gallantly helped Dutch Princess Beatrix launch her honeymoon in secret last spring by lending her and husband, Prince Claus, an American Air Force plane.

A White House spokesman said it was "possible, but not probable" that President Johnson might do the same for his daughter.

Luci is worrying, like other White House brides before her, about getting out of the spotlight after a widely publicized wedding.

WEEK OR 10 DAYS

She says her honeymoon will last a week or 10 days. Luci is expected to be a bridesmaid at a Texas wedding just two weeks after her own Aug. 6 marriage.

White House records give Luci an idea of the problems of her predecessors.

Grover Cleveland, the only President married in the White House, probably had the worst time of it when he honeymooned with his bride, Frances Folsom, just 21, in June, 1886.

They were pursued by reporters and photographers to what they thought would be a secluded honeymoon cottage in Deer Park, Md.

PAVILION BUILT

One account noted: "They had expected to spend a quiet time away from the curious public. But to their dismay, the following morning they found a pavilion had been built overnight directly opposite their cottage and was thronged with newspaper correspondents and reporters. They fled daily honeymoon dispatches, one of which was headlined "Mrs. Cleveland Fishes."

Their seclusion vanished further "with the rush of summer visitors to Deer Park and the arrival of a church convention."

Thousands crowded around the White House for the wedding first at Friendship Lodge, the nearby country place of John R. McLean, the wealthy owner of the Washington Post.

Four cars, including two of Longworth's and one chauffeur-driven car of McLean's, were deployed from time to time at the White House, sending up horn-blowing signals to each other. The crowds rushed around trying to keep tabs on one car or another.

Finally, a window in the Red Room was raised, Alice and the bridegroom stepped out, and the McLean car hurried from the West Gate to pick them up.

Meanwhile, some 25 wedding guests managed to spot the exit and bombarded the couple with rice and old shoes. One bag of rice splattered over the getaway car. And one newspaper account said a shoe gave Longworth a black eye.

The McLean honeymoon car was a 12-horsepower, Paris-made racer, and the news account said it had left at "break-neck speed" and the chauffeur had "cast speed laws and regulations aside" to make the few miles to the honeymoon retreat in 18 minutes.

QUIET GETAWAY

Some seven years later Jessie Wilson, daughter of President Woodrow Wilson, and her new husband, Frank B. Sayre, managed to make a quiet getaway from the south entrance in "an unpretentious car," eluding reporters and well-wishers. They honeymooned in Europe.

But Jessie's sister, Eleanor Wilson, was quickly located when she and her husband, Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo, tried to give reporters some false scents after their May 7, 1914, marriage.

The U.S. revenue cutter Seneca was ordered to Washington, leading to rumors it might be a honeymoon cruise ship.

The only official word was that the honeymoon "would be passed near New York."

SLIPPED AWAY

While the bridal supper was under way, the McAdoos slipped away in a limousine adorned with the U.S. crest, followed by an open touring car carrying three Secret Servicemen. They went about eight miles west and boarded a private railroad car, the Philadelphia, often used by President Wilson.

Not Hitting Enough Home Runs—Cash

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "I'm not hitting enough homers," complained Detroit's Norm Cash Sunday after the second home run of his career over Kansas City's right fielder, first matched only by Mickey Mantle.

Cash led Detroit's 5-4 and 7-1 doubleheader sweep with a 4-for-7 day, including his season average is points to .275. But he wasn't satisfied.

"I should have at least 20 homers by now," said the 31-year-old Texan. "I'm supposed to hit 'em. Sure, I'm getting a lot of hits."

"Last year I had only 39 base hits at the All-Star break and finished with 124. What do you have now — 103 hits in 191 games already."

LOW LINERS

"I can't get the ball up in the air. Everything I hit is a line drive or on the ground."

and Cash are the only men to do it twice.

"I caught the spikes of my left foot in the dirt, this made me break stride and I had to go on and throw the ball to Cash right down the pipe," Nash said.

"I couldn't put anything on it," Cash said it didn't appear to him that Nash took anything off the pitch but his teammates "told me Nash tripped."

"That rookie has a real fast ball, that's for sure," Cash said.

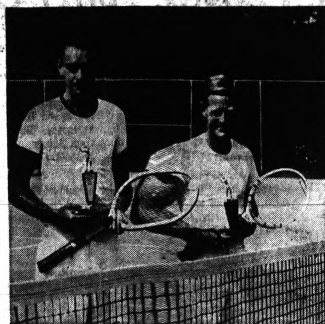

NEEDS FOUR

One of these days Cash will hit his 300th major league homer. He now has 196. This is his seventh full season in the majors.

The left-handed slugging Tiger first baseman was the American League batting champion in 1961 with a .361 mark, but this was forgotten as Roger Maris and Mantle went after Babe Ruth's home run record.

Cash's .361 has been surpassed by only one American league hitter in the last 30 years — Ted Williams three times. Cash had 41 homers and 132 runs batted in for 1961, but Maris was 61 and 142.

"They keep building bigger parks and that doesn't help the home run hitters a bit," Cash said. "The A's put up that big screen this year and it's already cost me two homers."

Racing Driver Champ Scores 'Quiet' Victory

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — Bob Johnson may be a winner, but he was nine seconds behind the race driver.

After six years in Sports Car Club of America (SCCA) competition, including a stint on Carroll Shelby's factory Cobra team, the 35-year-old caterer from Columbus, Ohio, has turned to a quieter life.

These days he drives a Mustang on the Trans-America Sedan Championship trail, which throws American and European sedans together on road courses eight times a year.

Reason for the shift: "I drive for fun," says Johnson.

Sunday he got his fun by driving to victory in the 400-mile race at Virginia International Raceway (VIR), second win in the Sedan series for Johnson and his co-driver, Tom Yeager of Marion, Ohio.

A lot of people besides Johnson found the VIR race a fun one, with its mixture of big and little cars piloted by both stock and sports car drivers.

One was a 22-year-old University of North Carolina student named Pete Feistman.

SECOND YEAR

Feistman lives in Durham, N.C. in his second year of SCCA competition and is the kind of dedicated driver who spends Sunday afternoons ironing out VIR's 12 tricky turns in his Mustang when nobody else is.

Feistman led for more than half the race and likely could have won it had he not made a

Completed Following
Long Matches

The Oakland County Open Tennis tournament is going overtime after a long series of semifinal matches yesterday on the Oakland University courts.

The tourney is sponsored by The Press and Pontiac Recreation Dept.

At 5:30 p.m. today the finals will be played in three divisions, men's singles, junior singles and senior singles.

Completed yesterday were the men's doubles which saw Ray Shearer and Paul Young of Birmingham defeat Bruce Gould and Rick Watson in the finals, 6-3, 6-2.

In the Junior doubles, Jim Long and Norb Parent of Norville were pushed to three sets to win over Tim Shreeman and Mike Van Guller, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2.

Matches were forced behind schedule when the early morning matches all went three sets.

A three hour marathon took place in the junior semifinals as Long won over Mark Erickson, 6-3, 6-4 and 7-5. Also in three sets was Young's win over Watson, 2-6, 6-4 and 6-3 and Shearer winning over Leon Hibbs, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

TONIGHT'S FINALS

The men's singles this evening at 5:30 on the Oakland University courts should be interesting between Young and A. Shearer who teamed as the county doubles champions.

Both are members of the Birmingham tennis club and each won singles matches over past tournament doubles champs, Ralph Alee and Dick Mineweaver.

Young defeated Alee, 6-4 and 6-1 and Shearer defeated Mineweaver, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3. In the doubles semifinals they faced the Alee-Mineweaver duo and won 7-5, 6-1.

The Junior singles' final and Senior men's final will also be completed this evening.

Jim Long, already with a doubles trophy in his possession, will face either Rick Watson or Van Guller, who must complete their semifinal match this afternoon.

Alee will go against past singles champion and his former doubles partner Leon Hibbs in the senior's event.

BUNT SINGLE—Tiger slugger Norm Cash (25) crosses first base after beating out a bunt in the ninth inning of yesterday's first game. The Tigers, held to only one hit in the first eight innings—a two-run homer by Cash—scored three runs in the ninth to down the Athletics, 5-4. Roger Repoz had trouble finding the ball but Cash had beaten the throw anyway. The Tigers took the second game, too, 7-1.

Orioles 'Wrap Package'

Pennant Is Claimed

From Our News Wires

Brooks Robinson has given Hank Bauer a birthday present — the American League pennant. "We've got it won," Baltimore's stellar third baseman said Sunday after the league-leading Orioles maintained their gapping margin over second place Detroit by blanking the Minnesota Twins 4-0. "I don't see any club good enough to beat us in the American League."

Bauer, however, isn't ready to open the pennant package — yet.

"We still have 58 games to play," said the Orioles manager, who celebrated his 44th birthday with a 13-length bullpen by the Tigers. "I've seen enough to get the pennant with the same big lead we have today."

He conceded that it's one of the better birthdays he's had. But I'd like a few more like this. And the pennant too; I'll take that."

While rookie Eddie Watt and reliever Eddie Fisher combined for a five-hitter against the Twins, Detroit's doubleheader from Kansas City 5-4 and 7-1.

Elsewhere Sunday, the Chicago White Sox whipped the New York Yankees twice, 4-1 and 5-0; Cleveland edged California 3-2 and Boston downed Washington 5-2.

KAAT CLIPPED

The Orioles clipped Jim Kaat for the only run they needed on second inning singles by Brooks Robinson, Paul Blair and rookie catcher Larry Haney. Fisher replaced Watt with two on and nobody out in the eighth and got Zoilo Versalles, Jimmie Hall and Tony Oliva in order, protecting Watt's eighth victory against two setbacks.

Last season as he bowed out as the White Sox manager, Al

Lopes claimed that Joe Mauer, "has a chance to become one of the best right-handers in the American League."

Mauer moved right to the top Sunday with a five-hit first game victory over the New York Yankees that lowered his career average to 2.15—the best mark in the American League.

CHISOX WIN TWO

Tommy John chalked up a triumph in the second game. The sweep left the club in sixth place just five games out of second place.

As his ERA attests, Hain has been a much better pitcher than his 7-10 won-loss record indicates but he has been often the victim of poor support by his light-hitting teammates.

But Sunday after giving up five hits in the first two innings, he retired the last 24 batters he faced to nail down the triumph.

After Horien stopped the Yankees in the first game, John came back in the second game to stymie them on seven hits and chalk up the 15th shutout for the White Sox pitching staff this year.

Rocky Colavito and Leo Wagner hit homers to lead Cleveland to its triumph over California. Colavito's home run snapped a 1-1 tie in the sixth and Wagner, who singled in the first four runs, hit his in the seventh.

Luis Tiant saved the victory for Steve Hargan with a 14-inning relief stint.

Tony Conigliaro homered and drove in three runs to lead Boston to its triumph over Washington. Conigliaro's single broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth and sparked a three-run rally that gave the victory to reliever Don McMahon. Dick Linares lost the game in relief.

Graebner Is Loser
in Eastern Meet

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — "It was horrible, and he played like a maestro," Clark Graebner of Beechwood, Ohio, was describing how Australian Tony Roche marched past him in the Eastern Open Tennis Championships final Sunday at Orange Lake Tennis Club. Roche, a clay court ace who hadn't won a grass court final since the 1965 Irish Championship, beat Graebner 6-4, 6-4, 6-3 in 66 minutes.

MUCH HARDER

Blonde Donna Floyd Fales of New York also played athletically, although she struggled much harder before winning the women's crown from unseeded Rosemary Casals of San Francisco. The 25-year-old Mrs. Fales, 1962 U.S. Clay Court champion, won the first major grass court title of her career by rallying to beat her 17-year-old foe 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

Teen Tanker Sets Record for Women

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sixteen-year-old Claudia Kolb prevailed in a battle of world champions to set a record of 2:23.0 in the women's 200-meter individual medley on the final day of the Los Angeles Invitational Swimming meet.

Miss Kolb, competing for the Santa Clara Swim Club, came from behind Sunday to defeat 17-year-old Karen Mulir of South Africa, who has a pending world record of 2:27.1 in the 200-meter breaststroke.

The Santa Clara High School junior's best previous time was 2:30.8 last year in the Amateur Athletic Union meet, but she said she's confident she can better the mark in three weeks at the AAU meet in Lincoln, Neb.

The South African pulled into the lead after the 50-meter backstroke leg, her specialty, but Miss Kolb regained the lead during the breaststroke phase and Miss Mulir finished in 2:34.4.

Miss Kolb bettered a pending mark of 2:29.0 set last week by Lynn Vidali in San Francisco and Miss Kolb's world record of 2:23.9, established in 1964 by Donna de Varona, also from the Santa Clara team.

Offense Scores Two Touchdowns in Intra-Squad Game

Defense Loser on Points, Still Shows Zest in Scrimmage

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The defense was not able to score in the annual Detroit Lions' intra-squad scrimmage at Wm. Stadium Saturday night but the platoon unit showed it still had much of its zest up front.

The offense, with Milt Plum and Karl Sweetan guiding their respective units' touchdowns, scored 17 points.

By the old scoring system, however, it would have been a 17-12 victory for the offense over the defense.

The defense stopped the offense eight times on downs, intercepted a pass and blocked a field goal attempt, which theoretically would have accounted for the 12 points.

Plum was effective in moving the offense to start the scrimmage with his two first string guards John Gordy and John Gonzaga paving the way.

Defensively, Roger Brown and Jim Edgerly, a rookie from New Mexico State, were at the tackles with Don Weatherspoon at defensive end and Frank Marsh and Tom Vaughn in the secondary. Bill Cody, rookie from Auburn, was at a corner linebacker spot.

Plum took the ball on the first series of plays from the 30 and after a pass interference call against middle linebacker Mike Lucci with Bruce McLenna as the receiver, the ball was placed on the two-yard line.

Amos Marsh failed in two tries to crack the defense then Plum fooled everyone with a bootleg around his left side for the touchdown. Wayne Walker kicked the point.

Karl Sweetan, trying for the second year to make the squad took over at quarterback in the second quarter.

Alex Karras went in at defensive tackle and rookies Doug Van Horn and Bob Kowalkowski replaced Gordy and Gonzaga.

Jerry Rush was switched from offensive tackle to defensive end, but Karras and rookie offensive tackle Frank Pennie of Florida State made it tough on the rookie offensive linemen.

Karras and Kowalkowski had a mild thubarg going, much in the same fashion Karras and his present roommate John Gordy used to have on the field.

Sweetan had Karras all over him, but he managed to team up with Marsh for the most exciting play of the evening. He slipped 10 yards over the line to Marsh who took the ball at the 45, got a block from John Henderson on Dick LeBeau and went 75 yards for a touchdown.

Tommy Myers took over at quarterback in the third quarter, and aided by a couple fine passes to Bill Malinckhak and Pat Stussell, he moved the ball to the 27 from where Wayne Walker booted a 45 yard field goal, with the goal posts 10 yards behind the goal line.

George Iso also had some effective passes, throwing much longer than the other three quarterbacks and he moved the offense to the 23 yard line before Roger Brown broke through to block Walker's 46-yard field goal attempt.

ROOKIE RECEIVER
Malinckhak, a rookie from Indiana, topped the receivers with seven receptions for 76 yards. Passing statistics were pretty even.

Tom Nowatzke was the most effective runner and he also ran well after taking three passes from the fullback spot.

A crowd of 7,000 watched the scrimmage, sponsored by the Community National Bank and Pontiac Jaycees, as the Lions made their first public showing before starting their exhibition campaign Saturday against the Minnesota Vikings in New Orleans.

Stuart Raps Three Hits

Shuffling 1st Baseman Leads Dodgers' Win

Associated Press Sports Writer: They stopped the music in the National League's game of musical first basemen, and look who the winner is — Dick Stuart.

Dick Stuart? Bill White, whom Philadelphia acquired from St. Louis, collected seven hits and drove in five runs Sunday, and Orlando Cepeda, whom St. Louis acquired from San Francisco to fill the gap created by White's departure, took over the league batting lead.

But Stuart, whom the Phillies got rid of after acquiring White, took the Los Angeles Dodgers to the head of the league by rapping three hits, driving in three runs and scoring the winning run in the Dodgers' 6-4 victory over St. Louis.

That victory, plus Pittsburgh's loss, 6-1 and 6-5 in 10 innings to Philadelphia, vaulted the Dodgers over the Pirates and into first place, by one percentage point. San Francisco beat Atlanta 4-3 and made it a three-way jam at the top, trailing the Dodgers by only three points.

The Dodgers, Stuart's fourth team in three seasons, picked up the colorful first baseman early in July after he had gone unclaimed for three weeks following his release by the New York Mets.

As a Met he hit .218. In 13 games as a Dodger he's collected 14 hits, 38 at-bats for a line of .38 average, drive in nine runs and hit three of his seven homers.

And believe it or not, he has yet to make even one of the errors he is so noted for.

"It's very exciting to be playing with a club that's fighting for the pennant," Stuart said. "Everytime you get a base hit, you know it means something."

Stuart's performance overshadowed that of Cepeda, whom the Cardinals must after in May when they realized White's winter departure had left too much of a hole at first.

Cepeda rapped three hits, scoring two runs and driving in one, and vaulted into first place in the batting race with a .339 mark.

Elsewhere in the National League, Houston whipped Cincinnati 7-6 before losing 10-6 and New York topped Chicago 2-1.

Stuart singled home a run in the first inning and homered in the third. Then in the ninth, with the Dodgers trailing 4-3, he doubled home the tying run, then scored as John Roseboro singled. The loss halted the Cardinals' winning streak at six games.

White ripped Pittsburgh out, pinch-hit single.

apart, smashing three doubles, his 16th homer and a single and driving in five runs in the Phillies' opening-game victory. He added a double and a single in the nightcap, but the Phillies needed a run in the 10th to win it.

Tony Gonzalez singled, was sacrificed to second and came home on Doug Clemens' two-

Opinions of State's Powerful Attorney General Are Result of Long Study

LANSING (AP) — Frank Kelley is a man of many and strong opinions — strong enough to control the actions of even the governor.

This applies only to legal matters, but in a government of law, the attorney general is a key man.

Since taking office in 1962, Kelley has issued more than 500 formal opinions interpreting the law for state officials, legislators and, in some cases, county prosecutors.

The officials have to abide by those opinions, too, unless a court overturns them.

MANY MANHOURS

"Some people think that when he is asked for an opinion, Frank goes into his office with his yellow legal pad, says, 'Well, let's see, what's my opinion on this,' and writes it," said Leon Cohan, deputy attorney general.

"Actually, a tremendous number of manhours go into each opinion," Cohan said. "It's a tremendous responsibility and you want to be right."

A request for an opinion goes to one of 13 divisions in the Attorney General's Department, where an assistant does the research and drafts a proposed answer.

The draft is reviewed by a division chief and then by the Opinion Review Board, composed of five senior attorneys chosen to represent diverse legal, political and philosophical backgrounds.

MANY DRAFTS

It may be rewritten many times before it finally reaches Kelley's desk and it goes out over his signature.

Kelley never has issued an opinion that did not have a majority vote of the review board, Cohan said, "although the opinion of the laws meant one man's isn't to say he wouldn't if one vote.

The U.S. Supreme Court later said the same thing. In fact, only one Kelley opinion has been overturned, and that case still is in court, meaning the decision isn't final, Cohan said.

Kelley points to the near-perfect record as evidence of the careful scrutiny each opinion receives at all levels before it is issued.

As attorney general, Kelley is head of the largest law office in the state, with 85 civil service lawyers working for him.

Their salaries range from $7,746 to $25,624. The attorney general's salary is $20,000, raised by the Legislature this year to $20,000, effective next Jan. 1.

In a sense, Kelley is lawyer for the people of Michigan. He is using Illinois, on the taxpayers' behalf, in an effort to limit its diversion of Lake Michigan water.

But Kelley is not quite a family lawyer for Michigan taxpayers. For one thing, he won't answer requests for opinions from private citizens. And if a state official asks for help in accomplishing something, the attorney general — acting almost as a judge rather than a lawyer — might turn around and tell him the whole thing is illegal.

This opinion process probably is the attorney general's most important function, Cohan said.

An open report to all Oakland County voters:

As a public service stemming from the belief that one man stands above all other candidates for Oakland County Circuit Judge, the 154 practicing attorneys listed below make this report of the July poll which asked this question of all the members of the Oakland County Bar Association: "Of the 22 men entered in the primary, whom would you prefer for Circuit Judge?"

Here is the result of that poll:

William R. Beasley was the overwhelming choice in the opinion of these men who know him best. William R. Beasley was "preferred" by 248 of the 353 respondents—a 70% favorite. The two closest followers each received 108 votes—a 30% choice.

For that reason, and because we know well all 22 candidates for Judge in Oakland County, we urge you to vote for William R. Beasley August 2 for Circuit Judge in Oakland County.

People Key to Problem of Integrating the Schools

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.
Executive Director
Urban League

(Editor's Note—This is the final article in a three-part series on integration in education.)

The last two columns have discussed the problems of getting integrated quality education for our public schools, and some of the suggestions which have been made. But the key to the school lies in the people—the teachers, pupils, and the administrators.

The teacher stands at the heart of the school system, yet this important profession is grossly underpaid and undervalued. Most cities do not pay their teachers as much as industry or suburban schools pay, thereby losing the most promising talents.

Teachers who have stayed in the central city are faced with the problem of changing school populations. As white middle-class youngsters move out of the city, they are replaced by Negro children from disadvantaged homes.

Children who seem to be incorrigible discipline problems often just need special attention and care which is difficult to give them when class sizes run to 35 and 40. Cultural barriers create problems too.

When a teacher asks a slum child how many apples remain if you have 24 and give away 12, he is asking a child who has never seen 24 apples and has never heard of anyone giving anything away.

Teaching in schools like this requires a zeal and a dedication which must be fostered. The spirit of a Peace Corpsman or Vista volunteer must prevail. Perhaps our school systems should give consideration to this kind of spirit in preference to some college credits in education.

Unless teachers learn to deal with children on their own terms and not on a middle-class basis, they will consider them uneducable.

There are few successful Negro professional people today who have not been told at one time or another to prepare for vocational training and not to bother to go to college. Their teachers were mistaken because they underestimated the strengths of many of these children.

Simply to survive in the hell of a slum implies qualities of strength and determination which could be used to motivate them. These children often have a style and a flair which only needs careful nurturing to bring to fruition.

I recently witnessed a parade in which some of these "uneducable" children participated.

They were from a central Harlem neighborhood and were decked out in uniforms and hats.

Their leader gave them a single command — a number — and they proceeded to give a breathtaking display of intricate steps and drills which lasted for several minutes.

These 6 and 7-year-olds had mastered this demanding drill which required memory and expert coordination because they were properly motivated. They got attention and applause and they had developed a team spirit which made all things possible.

They weren't lazy either, they wanted to continue marching after the parade ended. If the same motivation were offered, I know they could learn their lessons as well as any other children, but someone has to reach them with extra care and attention to make up for the wounds a segregated society inflicts upon them.

Another key to the schools is the administrators.

U. S. Commissioner of Education Harold Howe II told them at the School Administrator's Conference co-sponsored by the Urban League and Teacher's College, that they must lead their communities, not follow them.

He said they must put their jobs on the line and insist on meaningful integration in their schools.

Scientists Eye the Workings of Catalysts

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Scientists may be a step closer to solving the mystery of how catalysts work — a vital discovery that could save millions of dollars a year for industry.

Scientists at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology have observed in their study with a germanium-nickel catalyst that tiny variations in the movement of electrons across the interface between the nickel and germanium greatly increased catalytic activity.

Drs. Max C. Delbert and Raymond F. Baddour, working under a National Science Foundation grant, discovered that "catalytic activity increased by as much as a factor of four when calculations indicated a variation of electron transfer across the interface of a single electron per 10,000 nickel atoms in the catalyst layer."

They found the catalyst's activity by measuring the decomposition rate of formic acid to hydrogen and carbon dioxide in the presence of the catalyst.

Catalysts are substances which, when added to certain raw materials, trigger the reaction and also enable reactions to take place that would otherwise be impractical or difficult. The catalysts themselves are not used up in the process.

I hope they take his advice for without their leadership integration will be hard to achieve.

NASA Looks to Future

Space Repairman: 1 Facet of Study

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "Hello, Apollo repair service. This is Goddard Space Flight Center. One of our solar observatory satellites is having battery trouble. Could you send a man up right away? And please hurry. We're missing one of our best looks at the sun in a long time."

It may not be too many years before astronaut repairmen will be flitting through space at 17,500 miles an hour to fix or replace parts in expensive satellites — much as a television repairman comes to our homes today.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration took a step in this direction this week when it awarded a $150,000 study contract to Ball Brothers Research Corp.

The seven-month study will cover a broad area, including assembly of space stations in orbit, maintenance and repair of such stations and scientific satellites, personnel and material transport and handling, and personnel and material recovery.

BASIS FOR STUDY

Ball Brothers will base the study on use of the three-man Apollo spaceship which is to ferry American astronauts to the moon. The space agency is considering several other possible uses for the Apollo craft, including a long-life multiman space station.

Many Apollo stations may some day be patrolling the skies.

In an emergency situation, one of them could steer over to a crippled satellite and one of the astronauts, trained as a technician, could leave the station and stroll over to execute repairs.

Astronaut Michael Collins proved this was feasible during the recent Gemini 10 flight when he walked over to an Agena satellite 247 miles above the earth and retrieved an experiment package from it.

FURTHER EXPLORATION

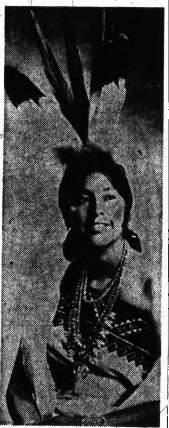

During the Gemini 11 flight scheduled to start Sept. 9, Astronaut Richard F. Gordon Jr. is to explore this further — using a power tool to remove and fasten bolts to a device on the side of the Gemini spacecraft.

The power tool was designed by the Martin Co., which also is developing a family of wrenches, screwdrivers and other devices for use in space and on the moon.

and costly failures occurred last April 8 when an Orbiting Astronomical Observatory intended to give man his first clear telescope look at the stars soared into a perfect orbit, only to have a battery die two days later. With a price tag of more than $50 million — plus more than $12 million for its rocket — it was one of the most expensive scientific satellites built by the U.S.

An orbiting repairman might have saved it — but this nation's space program is too early in its development for such luxuries.

With huge rockets of the Saturn family coming along, the United States within a few years will be launching satellites weighing 100 tons or more. They'll cost hundred of millions of dollars. Then it may be necessary to have a repairman handy — to rush over to replace a transistor, or even a television tube.

INDIAN BEAUTY — Wah-leah Lujan of the Taos-Pueblo tribe was chosen last night as Miss Indian America in the 13th annual pageant at Sheridan, Wyo. She is from New Mexico and is enrolled in art studies at Fort Lewis College in Durango, Colo.

The Ball Brothers study will consider the possibility of sending an Apollo ship after an orbiting Solar Observatory which has been circling the globe between 380 and 450 miles since Feb. 3, 1965. Ball built OSO 2 and is familiar with its operation.

Possibilities include recharging the OSO 2 batteries, replenishing its control gas supply and returning an experiment package to earth for examination.

Many satellites launched by the United States failed early in their orbital lives because of the malfunction of simple pieces of equipment.

Among them are the Nimbus 1 weather satellite, which lost its orientation system and was unable to point its power-drawing solar panels at the sun, and an Orbiting Geophysical Observatory, which began to tumble when its stabilization system failed.

Nurses' Strike
48 Hours Away

Try Again Today to Avert California Crisis

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — State conciliators called negotiators for 33 bay area hospitals and more than 2,600 nurses back to the bargaining table today in an effort to head off a major walkout in 48 hours.

But, prospects for settlement of the pay dispute were dim.

A spokesman for the militant California Nurses Association (SNA) said yesterday, "as far as we're concerned, they (the hospitals) don't even have a proposition on the table."

Chief state mediator Thomas J. Nicolopoulos said during a 10-hour bargaining session which ended early Saturday that the dispute was "on the critical list." He scheduled today's talks for 2 p.m. PDT (5 p.m. Pontiac time).

The nurses submitted two-week notices last month to back their pay demands.

FIRST IN NATION

The U.S. Public Health Service said in Washington that if the nurses actually did quit, it would be the first such walkout in the nation.

The CNA said it was seeking a pay scale of $600-$720 a month. The hospitals offered $500-$570.

The hospitals have already begun reducing their patient load, and most are just admitting emergency cases at this time. A move was also under way to transfer convalescent patients out of the hospitals.

The CNA said it had set up a pool of nurses who would go on emergency duty during a walkout. The hospitals have urged ex-nurses to offer their services in the event of a strike.

'Unlock Mysteries of the Sea'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There are people addicted to the study of sponges — a marine creature and one of the world's most primitive animals.

There also are people who spend many of their waking hours examining starfish, squid, sea cucumbers and other outwardly repulsive denizens of the ocean.

The unhappy thing about these people, according to the oceanography panel of the President's Science Advisory Committee, is there are too few of them.

The time has come, the panel said in a recent report, "for intensified research in marine biochemistry and pharmacology."

The sea, said the report, abounds with creatures which manufacture chemical substances of great promise in the treatment of human diseases, perhaps including cancer.

"The value of biochemical studies on the great diversity of marine plants and animals is indicated," the panel said, "by the isolation of chemicals that have antiviral, antimicrobial, cancer-inhibiting, nerve-blocking, or heart-stimulating properties in laboratory experiments."

Take the sponge, for example.

Study of these odd creatures, which to the layman look more like plants than animals, "unexpectedly revealed a unique material... which may have practical importance in that it is apparently highly effective in treatment of certain virus infections and leukemia in laboratory animals."

Many sea cucumbers, starfish, and related marine animals produce chemicals of the group which includes digitalis, the heart stimulant now obtained from the fougere plant which grows on land.

Sugar Ray Takes Crack at TV

By GENE HANDSAKER
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The guy's good," a supporting actor muttered admiringly from the sidelines.
Star Ben Gazzara: "That was beautiful, Ray."
Director Leo Penn: "Beautiful, Sugar."

That Sugar Ray Robinson, ex-welterweight champion, five times middleweight king, completed a scene in his new career-acting. He guest-stars as a fighter in a segment of television's "Run For Your Life." In the low-key sequence he lies in a hospital bed, comatose after a fight beating, mumbling dialogue with Gazzara.

QUIT BOXING
Yes, said Sugar, donning a tan bathrobe during a break, he has retired for good from boxing.
"I love this, love performing," he said. "I'm a ham at heart. I've been in front of cameras for years, in the ring and on the air in interviews after fights."

"I see myself on the screen in the rushes, and the director and everybody are so happy, it really gives me a big lift."
Robinson, virtually unskilled from his ring career, is 45.
Next he flies to Spain for a feature, "Egghead on Hill 56," then returns here for a Western, "Chuka," written by star Rod Taylor.

He has had other offers. None of the roles are as fighters.
"That's what I'm so happy about. I don't think I can prove anything as a fighter."

Except for a "Car 54, Where Are You?" this is Robinson's first acting. He never has had a drama lesson.
"John Huston, the director, told me in Rome a year ago, 'Ray, you have something most actors would love to have—personality. Anybody can learn to read lines.' That made me feel so good."

"I play my part just as Ray Robinson would. I'm not trying to be an actor."
"I made a whole lot in fighting, between three and four million, and I wish I had it now. A lot went to taxes, and the government owes me a half million. I won the case but haven't got the money yet."

He owns real estate in Harlem, Chicago and Cleveland.
He looks forward to spending six or eight months a year on the West Coast. He and his second wife, Millie, have a home in New York City and an apartment in Los Angeles.

Robinson has made a television pilot on physical fitness and hopes to find a sponsor, featuring each week a different exercise.
"I'd be so happy to pass on what tips I can," he said. "No matter what you have, if you don't feel well, what good is it?"

Woman Found Slain in Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) — The body of a 35-year-old divorcee was found riddled with bullets at the foot of her bed yesterday in her apartment.

Police said Mrs. Joyce Weir, clad in nightclothes, was found by a friend who had last seen her alive Saturday night at the apartment.

The upper part of Mrs. Weir's body was riddled with bullet wounds from a small caliber revolver.

The friend, Earl Hopengardner, 41, Detroit, said he came back to see Mrs. Weir after leaving early Saturday evening.

He told police he came through an unlocked back door.

Mrs. Weir, who moved into the one-story apartment only last week, had two children in private schools, neighbors told police.

Police said the killer apparently removed a bathroom screen to get into the apartment and left by the back door.

Judge, Officer Shot

PLENTYWOOD, Mont. (UPI) — Duane Falk had just been fined $50 for assault. He reached into his pocket as if to withdraw the cash. Instead, he whipped out a pistol and began shooting.

The husky oil worker killed the mayor and wounded the judge and a policeman before a bullet from the officer's service revolver smashed between his eyes and killed him.

Falk, 35, who had been accused of assault several times, appeared in city court Saturday on charges of beating Robert Engstrom in a bar-room fight in June.

The 220-pound oil worker claimed Engstrom owed him $200 for automobile accident damages.

William Demikas, an 80-year-old justice of the peace who must use a crutch to support himself, and Mayor Ludwig Tande, 46, the acting prosecuting attorney, offered to drop the charges if Falk would stay away from Engstrom.

DECLINED OFFER

Falk declined the offer and was fined $50. He leveled his .22-caliber pistol and began to shoot.

Demikas was hit in the shoulder as he reached out to shield himself. Tande dropped to the floor and tried to crawl out of the room. Two bullets entered his body.

Policeman Ole Fiske, 59, tried to draw his 38-caliber revolver and was struck in the side by a shot from Falk's pistol.

However, Fiske grappled with Falk and managed to fire the shot that killed him.

Demikas and Fiske were reported in satisfactory condition and funeral services were being arranged for the mayor of this town of 2,000 in the northeast corner of the state.

Junior Editors Quiz on EXERCISE

QUESTION: How did exercising originate?

ANSWER: Exercising is important throughout life. It develops the bodies of growing children and keeps those of the grown-ups in tune.

We don't know enough about the early history of man to say exactly when exercising originated. But because exercise, which makes us feel so good, is a part of play, we can feel sure that children in early times got a lot of it as they played in front of their caves or huts.

Exercise on a large, organized scale came into history in the early Greek period.

The Greeks built gymnasiums, or places where the physical training of young people could be carried on.

A sound, healthy body was a Greek ideal. Soon, exercise was developed into competitive sports.

The Greeks held the first athletic events in history. At first, foot races were held on the plains of Marathon, but jumping, javelin and discus throwing and wrestling events were added.

Thus developed the famous Olympic Games, the first record of which is 776 B.C. In 1896, the Olympic Games were reestablished.

The man who is always in a hurry falls down occasionally. But most of the time he is likely to get somewhere. The bench-sitter never falls down and never gets anywhere.

West has a normal lead of the ten of hearts against South's four-spade contract. South has an equally normal lead of the king of clubs in this suit, there is a way to beat the hand.

Now South makes his run for the dummy's king and leads a spade for a finesse. West is in with the king and should look around carefully before leading to the next trick.

He knows that South holds the ace of hearts as part of his bid. What else does South hold? One possibility is the actual hand shown in the diagram. Another is one with four trumps to the queen-king-ten and the ace of clubs. A third will include all three aces.

The third possibility is most unlikely. With three aces, South might well have made some move toward a slam. How about the other two possibilities? The actual hand held by South is certainly one that would have called for South's bidding.

He might well have bid the same way if his ace of spades had been the ace of clubs. With only four spades, he would probably have made some bid to suggest a final contract somewhere else.

West's next step is to ask himself, "How can I beat this contract?"

If South holds the ace of clubs, there is no way to defeat him, but if East holds the ace of clubs and South holds three clubs in this suit, there is a way to beat the hand.

Now South makes his run for the roses by leading out his king of clubs. It holds and a club to the ace and a club ruff saves the rubber.

'Tide Turning' on Population

By Science Service

NEW YORK—Demographers now believe "the population tide can be turned back." The Planned Parenthood—World Population organization said.

Hope is based on the rapid acceptance of family planning programs in newly developing countries, 23 of which have set up nationwide programs to date.

As late as two years ago, world population in 2000 A. D. was projected at 7.5 billion. Now the official United Nations projection stands at six billion.

The figure assumes that the trend toward massive government-aided birth control programs evident in the past year will accelerate.

Among countries which have begun large programs are India, Pakistan, Chile, Communist China, Taiwan, Korea, the United Arab Republic, Tunisia, Turkey, Japan, Kenya, Ceylon and Jordan.

Latin America, a Johnny-come-lately in the field of birth control, has now also begun to face the problem.

Texas Girl to Wed Indian Prince

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A Dallas girl who calls herself an average American will marry an Indian prince a week from Thursday, and when the stars are right they'll wed again in India.

Sally Budd will be 21 the day Prince Richard Yeswant Rao Holkar slips a diamond on the finger where she wears the sapphire and emerald ring he designed and gave her when they became engaged last November.

The civil rites were to have been followed immediately by a five-day religious ceremony at Indore, India, but the Hindu priests decreed that Dec. 21 would be a more propitious day. Richard, who intends to earn a doctorate degree before he returns to India for good, was studying political science in Florence, Italy, on Stanford University's year abroad program when he met Sally, a fellow student.

LEARNS ABOUT FAMILY

To Sally, he was plain Richard Holkar. Much later she learned his family ruled the ancient princely state of Indore until India's independence in 1947.

"He is quite a bit more formal than the friends I'm used to, but that's understandable from his background," says Sally. "Yet he's very adaptable. When I met him in Florence, he wore blue jeans for about the first three months."

Sally's father is C. Burcham Budd Jr., a tax lawyer who is prosperous but not in the manner of royalty. Sally insists she's not in society or debutante circles.

"My father is very much opposed to all that," she says. "He has traveled through Europe as a student, lived one summer in Guadalajara, Mexico, and has visited India, Thailand, Hong Kong and Japan this year."

since he was 11. When the maharaja died in 1962, the Indian government passed over the prince and elevated his half-sister Usha, a full-blooded Indian, to maharani.

Royal families have retained many privileges and riches, but he's very adaptable. When I met him in Florence, he wore blue jeans for about the first three months.

There's no question that they will live in India eventually, even though Richard took out American citizenship a year ago.

"India can be the most fantastically promising new frontier or it can be deeply depressing," says Sally. "I think India is a challenge to herself, which thus far has been left unanswered. To me it's a challenge I'm not sure I want to answer."

But Richard is sure he wants to, and I want to be with him."

The civil wedding will be attended by the immediate family in the Budd living room. There'll be a reception at an exclusive private club.

Royal families have retained many privileges and riches, but he's very adaptable. When I met him in Florence, he wore blue jeans for about the first three months.

There's no question that they will live in India eventually, even though Richard took out American citizenship a year ago.

But Richard is sure he wants to, and I want to be with him."

The couple will squeeze in a month's honeymoon in Spain, Switzerland, and at Ischi, near Capri, before returning to Palo Alto, Calif., for school.

Sally's flowing white wedding dress in Dallas won't do in India — white is for mourning there. Instead, she'll wear a sari of red and 24-carat gold bangles.

The first two days of the religious wedding rites will involve Sally's conversion to Hinduism. The next day will be almost exclusively for the priests, the fourth will be devoted to presenting her to the family deity, and the fifth is for the wedding ceremony in Indore's elegant palace.

A benefit concert featuring a famous Indian star player and a reception will follow, Sally says, adding:

"Sort of boggles the mind, doesn't it?"

Dog Is Retrieved

LONDON (UPI) — The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will present "There, the 11-month-old black retriever of Mr. and Mrs. Stan-ley Lomax of Farnworth, the society's first bravery award ever given a dog for saving another dog from drowning."

Fear Ocean Seaweed Shortage

By Science Service

HALIFAX, Canada — Though man is only beginning to make full use of the ocean as a source of food and other items, Canadian scientists are already worried that some of the demands will be too great.

Extracts from seaweeds such as Irish moss, kelp and rockweed find more than 40 different uses in the food, pharmaceutical and textile industries and in agriculture.

The value of seaweed harvested in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island is now about $1 million annually, and there is considerable industry based on the collection of widely scattered wild plants.

Further industry growth will place additional demands on known beds of commercially important species.

While surveys will probably reveal new sources, it is quite possible that cultivation of selected species of seaweeds will become necessary, said Dr. A. C. Neish, in charge of plant physiology at the Canadian National Research Council's Atlantic Regional Laboratory, here.

'Creative Set' Creates Stir Giving Frank, Mia a Bash

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The Creative, or Intellectual, Set of New York paid its tribute to Frank Sinatra and his bride Mia Farrow with an exclusive party at 21 where the hosts were a couple of our brainier talents, Bennett Cerf and Leland Hayward.

Just so you'll know what the Creative or Intellectual Set is . . .

These were among the who partook of the caviar-to-champagne feast which included arugella Italian salad requested by Frank:

Arlene Francis and Martin Gable, the Jule Styne, the Adolph Green, Betty Comden and Steven Kyle, George Plimpton of Paris Review, Sammy Cahn and Mary Harrington and Jimmy Van Heusen.

Word had spread that the honeymooning Sinatras were at 21 and the place was packed, with autograph boys and photographers on the sidewalk until the revelers left about 1:40.

Mia the bride had slid into the limousine—but Frank remembered he was having an intellectual evening and that he had a date with another intellectual—Savant Joe E. Lewis.

Before taking Mia to England with him, Frank plans to take her home to New Jersey to eat out of his mother's famous home-cooked Italian meals.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Maureen O'Sullivan's friends are worried about her health after her third thyroid operation. She's still working on "The Subject Was Roses," in Cape Cod. . . Carl Reiner, leaving Sardi's, heard cabareters yelling after him, "Watch out, The Russians Are Coming." . . Later he walked briskly past the Astor Theatre, where his film is playing—and didn't stop to look. Producer Charlie Kasper, gifted "Funeral in Berlin" co-star Eva Reizne with a white Rolls-Royce. . . Verna Lee, Frank Sinatra's co-star in "Assault on a Queen," which opened recently, has her name misspelled "Lisa" on the Loew's State marquee.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Larry Gorge figures his 10-year-old son Billy is a born ballerina; he's already dating Mamie Van Doren's kid sister!

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Things are moving so rapidly these days," says Bobby Goldsboro, "it won't be long before we have Sunday space drivers."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Stupidity is a common trait of those who disagree with us." (Arnold Glasow.)

EARL'S PEARLS: Girls with old-fashioned fathers have learned that raising the hemline can raise the roof—Bill Copeland.

20th-Century Fox's "Fantastic Voyage" is about a trip through a man's bloodstream. Someone suggested the theme music be called "Red Cells in the Sunset" . . . That's earl, brother.

HIGHLAND APPLIANCE CO.

It's the name of the story Every AUGUST...

Wrong time of the year for us! ... Great for fishing and swimming! ... but fish hooks and sun glasses are not our business! ... Home appliances are! Except that the appliance business in August is like selling ice to Eskimos! ... too late for summer appliances—too early for TV and stereo. Regardless, you may still need that new refrigerator or air conditioner now, or perhaps you'd like that color TV or stereo Hi-Fi right now instead of next month. If so, we're giving you good reason to buy it immediately! ... UNUSUAL SAVINGS! ... Buy at our lowest prices of the year! ... For instance, what other month of the year can you buy a completely frost-free refrigerator-freezer combination for just $165 ... or a new color TV for $279 ... a stereo console for $399 ... See for yourself! ... check our prices! ... check your savings.

Everything goes, including new 1967 models. Everything is "top-notch" top-brand, floor models priced accordingly.

You'll be glad you bought during this August Sale at Highland—where you pocket the savings.

Better get to Highland now. Your family may be there waiting for you.
