Rebel Resistance Is Fading

Troops Seize Radio Station of Insurgents

Junta Rejects U.N. Cease-Fire Appeal Acceptable to Foe

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) —

Troops loyal to the civilian military junta occupied the main rebel radio station today and insurgent resistance in northern Santo Domingo appeared to have collapsed.

Units of the Dominican air force police moved into the silent Santo Domingo radio station this morning after a brief exchange of fire with snipers in nearby buildings.

The junta, scenting victory in the civil war, turned down last night a U.N. appeal for a cease-fire which the rebels were ready to accept.

Troops loyal to the junta appeared to have control of more than half the industrial-suburban area north of the east-west corridor established by U.S. troops leading to the international zone for refugees. The main rebel stronghold lies south of the corridor.

The sound of battle lessened during the day. A military officer who led the occupation of the radio station said "the insurgents have disappeared and we are trying to find them."

There still was no official figure on casualties in the battle, which has been raging for three days. There have been unverified reports of many dead among civilians living in the northern suburbs.

NOT INVOLVED
U.S. troops are not involved in the fighting, but a U.S. military spokesman said five American soldiers were wounded by rebel sniper fire in 56 separate shooting incidents in the 24-hour period ending at midnight. U.S. battle casualties stand at 19 dead and 99 wounded.

Negro Woman Name Delos Hamlin Named Envoy County's Top Citizen

OK on Appointment Would Set Precedent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Patricia Roberts Harris, an assistant professor of law at Howard University here, will be nominated to be ambassador to Luxembourg — the first Negro woman ever to have ambassadorial rank abroad.

The White House announced today that President Johnson intends to send Mrs. Harris' nomination to the Senate for confirmation. There had been earlier reports that she was in line for the post.

Three Negro men now are serving as ambassadors abroad. Mrs. Harris will be nominated to succeed William R. Rivkin, who has resigned.

Mrs. Harris, a native of Mattoon, Ill., received her A.B. degree from Howard University in 1945 and did graduate work at the University of Chicago and American University here. She received a doctor of laws degree from George Washington University in 1960, ranking first in her class. She also was assistant editor of the George Washington Law Review.

Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, was named Oakland County's outstanding citizen by the Oakland Citizens League last night.

The 1965 award was presented to Hamlin at the league's annual dinner meeting held at Devon Gables in Bloomfield Township.

Frost May Hit Area Tonight

There's a chance of scattered light frost tonight with temperatures ranging from 36 to 46.

Tomorrow will be a good day for gardeners, golf, picnics and cleaning house. The weatherman predicts sunny and warmer with highs hitting 65 to 75.

Partly cloudy and warmer is Friday's forecast.

Morning winds northwesterly at 8 to 18 miles per hour will become light and variable tonight.

A low of 56 was recorded in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. The thermometer registered 71 at 2 p.m.

Senator Loses Out on Bridge Refinancing

Milliken Declares Amendment to Fund Bill Is Not in Order

LANSING (AP) — Lt. Gov. William Milliken today ruled as not germane an amendment to a Senate appropriations bill that called for refinancing the Mackinac Bridge.

Sen. Thomas Schweigert, R-Petoskey, who last week lost a fight to get a bridge refinancing bill out of committee, tried to attach the rider to a $60.6-million capital outlay bill which he said would save bridge users $1.5 million a year.

Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, challenged whether the amendment was germane to the bill, which provides funds for state building projects.

A timely recess for Michigan Week festivities gave Milliken nearly an hour to mull over his decision.

He ruled that although Schweigert's amendment referred to general fund appropriations, it was not germane to capital outlay for building.

The northern Michigan senator sought to have the state issue general obligation bonds with which to buy the $99.8 million outstanding in bridge revenue bonds and shift supervision of the bridge to the highway Department.

He said tolls could then be reduced for one-way auto traffic from $3.75 to $2.35 with no cost to taxpayers.

Schweigert at first lodged a challenge to the ruling of his fellow Republican, but withdrew it when Democratic leader Sen. Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, urged that Milliken's decision be upheld.

With the bridge question out of the way, the capital outlay bill passed without further discussion. With only seven more session days before deadline for bill passage, the controversy kept the Senate pace to a crawl. A $184 million higher education bill was one of the only six measures to win final approval yesterday.

Major arguments on the higher education bill centered around salary for the new appointive superintendent of public instruction and operation of the cooperative extension program of Michigan State University.

Complete Car Tax Repeal Backed in House Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Complete repeal, by stages, of the excise tax on automobiles was reported to have won a preliminary vote in the House Ways and Means Committee today.

President Johnson had recommended that the present 10 per cent tax, amounting to about $230 on the average passenger automobile, be cut in half by Jan. 1, 1967.

The industry has been pressing for outright repeal, and has promised to pass savings along to car buyers.

It was understood that in an informal vote today, subject to possible later reversal, the committee favored modifying the bill to provide a 3-point drop in the tax July 1, as Johnson recommended, to be followed by successive drops each Jan. 1 of 2 per cent and eliminating the tax as of Jan. 1, 1969.

Johnson's proposal would bring the tax down to 5 per cent as of Jan. 1, 1967.

The drive to get the bill to the House was picking up speed, and several members predicted the committee work would require less than the predicted week.

The committee was understood to be disinclined to favor a wider extension of the retroactive features of the bill.

Johnson recommended that arrangements be made for persons who buy automobiles or air conditioners between May 14 and July 1 to get refunds of the tax, if Congress passes the legislation.

There continued to be pressure outside the committee for extending the retroactive feature to other goods.

Decide Change in Voting Bill

Senate Votes Today on Poll Tax Statement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate votes today on a proposal that Congress declare the poll tax has been used in some states to deny Negroes their voting rights.

Offered by Republican and Democratic leaders as an amendment to the voting rights bill, it is designed to mollify liberals who have tried to have poll taxes for state and local elections flatly outlawed in the pending legislation.

They already have been outlawed in federal elections by constitutional amendment.

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., led a blistering attack on the proposed amendment, accusing Senate leaders of "marching down the hill" after beating down the attempt to ban the poll tax.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach and some strong supporters of the measure have said to outlaw state poll taxes by statute could be unconstitutional.

They proposed instead that the voting bill provide for a quick court test of the tax.

The amendment for a congressional declaration is sponsored by Sen. Mike Mansfield and Everett M. Dirksen, the Democratic and Republican leaders.

It would declare the constitutional right to vote is denied or abridged in certain states by making poll tax payments a condition to vote.

Voting on the amendment was expected in midafternoon and despite some stormy vocal criticism, it appeared certain of adoption.

Meanwhile, Rep. William McCulloch of Ohio, ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee, said the way the bill now stands it could produce illegal ballots that might sow the seeds of revolution in the United States.

McCulloch is backing a voting measure that would guarantee voting rights anywhere in the nation where qualified people have been kept from casting a ballot by racial discrimination.

New Position for Bank Chief

Made Pontiac State Chairman of Board

After serving as president of Pontiac State Bank since the bank's inception 20 years ago, Milo J. Cross has been elected chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

He will be succeeded by Edward E. Barker Jr., formerly executive vice president.

Cross guided the bank's growth to a bank with $56 million in total assets and nine offices.

CIVIC MINDED

He has been active in civic projects, serving as president of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce and the Pontiac Rotary Club.

He has served on the boards of the YMCA, the Pontiac Area United Fund, Downtown Pontiac Business Association, and Children's Aid Society.

He lives at 1975 N. Hammond Lake, Bloomfield Township.

Barker, of 60 Cherokee, came to the bank in April 1964 as executive vice president and director.

EXPERIENCE

He has outstanding background of banking experience as vice president and senior commercial lending officer of the Society National Bank of Cleveland for many years.

No Baker Report Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee met today but adjourned by a 6-3 party-line vote today without acting on a Republican motion to delete any criticism of Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., from a proposed report on the Bobby Baker case.

However, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., told newsmen that he expects a majority of the committee will favor deletion of any derogatory references to Williams from the report finally submitted to the Senate.

Williams protested yesterday that what he called "leaks" concerning a draft report prepared by the committee's special counsel, L. P. McLendon, were to the effect that it criticized him for not turning over information he had about the Baker case promptly.

Fidel Hits U.S. Intervention in Dominican Uprising

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro charged yesterday the United States sent its armed forces into the Dominican Republic because it is "serving new Cubans around every corner."

Castro, in a one-hour and 50-minute speech, broadcast by Havana radio and television and answered here, said American intervention in a Dominican uprising has turned into a "true political debacle for the Yankees."

Addressing the graduating class of a military training school at Matanzas on Cuba's

Resistance to Junta Said Crumbling

Mayabr said Col. Francisco Caamaño Domo, the insurgent leader, had expressed willingness to accept a truce.

Imbert's forces were pressing a tanked offensive to smash rebel pockets north of the U.S.-controlled east-west corridor across Santo Domingo.

Commodore Francisco J. Rivera Caminero, the armed forces secretary, claimed the drive was progressing steadily, but there were signs the junta forces were running into stiff resistance on the southern flank of the eastward push.

Sharp explosions jolted the capital waterfront yesterday, arousing fear that the junta troops were shelling the rebels' main stronghold in the downtown area.

The junta blamed the blasts on dynamiting by U.S. troops in an area east of the Ozama River, but this could not be confirmed by U.S. authorities.

A U.S. attempt to woo away the junta's military support failed when the Dominican armed forces refused to abandon Imbert.

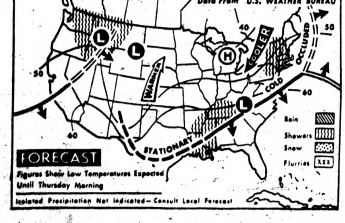

The United States reportedly hoped to force the junta out to set the stage for formation of a coalition government acceptable to both the rebels and the military forces opposing them.

"NATIONAL HARMONY" — Rejecting what he called official U.S. pressure, Rivera Caminero said the military would only accept a new government of "national harmony" composed of the junta and "all democratic parties in the country."

OCC Levy Will Be on July Bills

The City Commission was told last night the community college tax levy will go on the city's July tax bill.

The commission received a letter from the new Oakland Community College. The letter requested the college millage be tacked onto the city bill.

Last year — the first that the community college spread its one-half mill — the millage was put on the December county tax bill.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren said the state law permits community colleges to split their tax collections.

Other cities in Oakland County are also due to collect the college tax in July.

OUTSIDE CITY

Areas in the county outside of cities will receive college taxes on their regular county tax bill.

Since the city's 1965 tax bills are already printed, Warren said the college's millage would have to be added to the total.

He said that bills would probably be rubber-stamped to show the addition of the college tax.

Commented Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., "I hope we can make a clear note that this is definitely for the college."

"I also hope people will understand and not be calling city hall or the commissioners on this."

Teacher Group Elects Officers

Robert Hutchinson, a sixth grade teacher at Covert Elementary School in Waterford Township, yesterday was named president-elect of the Waterford Education Association (WEA).

Hutchinson will take office in May 1966. Other newly elected officers and chairmen of the association began their one-year terms immediately.

Also elected yesterday were Mrs. Virginia Taylor, vice president, and Gerald R. Lewis, secretary.

Ronald Arnold, principal of Silver Lake Elementary School, was elected WEA president-elect a year ago and assumed office yesterday.

Newly named committee chairmen were James Ritchie, legislative; Mrs. Barbara Meheke, public relations; William Liimakkala, teachers' ethical and professional standards; Mrs. James Wilkinson, publications; Fred Forsythe, professional problems; John Poage, representative assembly; and Larry Timm, salary.

$50,000 Area Theft Brings 5 to 10 Years

The theft of a $50,000 pearl necklace from a Bloomfield Hills home has landed a 22-year-old Macomb County man in the state prison at Jackson for 5-10 years.

The sentence was imposed yesterday on Charles L. Voakes of Clinton Township by Oakland County Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondoro.

Voakes pleaded guilty April 27 to burglarizing the home of Louis Morse, 674 Rutledge, and stealing the two strands of oriental pearls after forcing open a safe. The burglary occurred Dec. 28, 1964.

Since Voakes was arrested March 9 as he crawled through a window of a Grosse Pointe home, six other persons, including two women, have been implicated in the Bloomfield Hills burglary.

All were involved in transporting the pearls over state lines, according to the FBI.

According to Capt. Walter Sluiter of the Bloomfield Hills police, Voakes admitted to stealing $100,000 worth of items from 35 homes.

85 Cong Are Killed in Viet Air Strike

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese fighter-bombers killed 85 Viet Cong in an attack in Binh Thuan Province today, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The spokesman said a U.S. forward air controller observed the Viet Cong assembling in company strength in a mountain valley and called in Vietnamese planes that were flying to another target.

The fighter-bombers attacked with heavy bombs and machine guns for 20 minutes.

Forty U.S. Navy planes destroyed three military barracks and inflicted heavy damage on other installations in the second consecutive day of air strikes against North Viet Nam, a U.S. military spokesman reported.

The spokesman said the aircraft from the carrier Coral Sea struck at two target areas 40 miles north of the demilitarized zone separating North and South Viet Nam.

The raid was the second in 24 hours after a six-day suspension of air strikes against the Communist north.

MAY BE BROADENED

Speculation grew that the United States may broaden the air attacks.

The barracks were destroyed at Huon lao. It was not known whether they were occupied.

A military radio station, a powerhouse and communications and administration buildings were reported destroyed at nearby Cham Hoa.

The spokesman said 30 Skyhawks, Skyraiders and Skywarriors, supported by 10 F4 and F4 Crusaders, pounded the targets for 45 minutes with missiles, rockets and 50 tons of bombs.

LIGHT GROUND FIRE

Pilots reported light ground fire and said no enemy planes were sighted.

All the planes returned to the carrier safely, the spokesman said.

U.S. Marines carried out their first amphibious assault in South Viet Nam today, moving across the Ca De River to hit Viet Cong-held Truong Minh village.

A burst of gunfire wounded one Marine in the operation nine miles from Da Nang, but the guerrilla fled and no further contact was made.

It was the first time the Marines had crossed the river, which has been the northern boundary of the Marine operating area around Da Nang.

In Truong Tinh village, the Marines found only 12 women and children and one old man. There were many hooby traps, trenches and bunkers.

Multi-Satellites Orbit by U.S.

Single-Booster Shots Disclosed by NASA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States twice launched eight satellites or satellite parts into orbit with a single booster in March and followed up with a 7-for-1 shot April 2, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration disclosed.

All were launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., and were unidentified until NASA listed them in its periodic satellite summary, compiled at the Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md.

In mid-April NASA disclosed the first of the 8-for-1 launches, which took place March 9. The Air Force merely had announced that a satellite had been launched by a Thor-Agena rocket.

The Goddard summary identified the orbiting bodies, however, as:

Two gravity gradient satellites. Such spacecraft test techniques for use of the earth's gravity to keep a satellite antenna pointing constantly toward the earth.

A Greb satellite. Previously launched Grebs have been used for solar X-ray measurements.

Oscar 3, a ham radio satellite. Oscar 1 was a simple device that merely transmitted the word "Hi" in Morse code, and Oscar 2 carried a somewhat longer message. Oscar 3 was designed to receive at 50 kilocycles on the international 2-meter amateur radio band, and to retransmit instantly on the same band. It will permit two-way conversations between ground stations up to 1,000 miles apart.

RADIO WAVES

Sural, a device for measurement of the refraction of radio waves in the ionosphere for calibration of the Defense Department's space surveillance system.

EGRS 3, not otherwise identified.

A spacecraft identified merely as dodecahedron, apparently thus describing its shape.

Rocket Blast Aborts Test

WHITE SANDS Missile Range, N.M. (AP) — A Little Joe 2 rocket exploded in flight shortly after launch today, ending in failure a severe high-altitude test of a safety system for moonbound astronauts.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesmen said the explosion occurred about halfway through the rocket's first burning period of 40 seconds.

There was no immediate indication for cause of the failure.

The test was the fifth in a series of firings at this southern New Mexico test range to determine how safe astronauts would be should a malfunction occur in their Saturn booster during launch toward the moon.

FIRST THEORY

A space agency spokesman first theorized that the test ended when the rocket's second stage failed to fire. A later announcement was made, however, that an explosion had occurred.

He said it has not been determined where the internal bleeding started.

School Board Approves Teachers' Pay Increases

BIRMINGHAM — Teachers' pay raises ranging from $100 to $200 were approved by the board of education last night.

The 1965-66 salary schedule incorporates the $150,000 set aside for salary improvement in the extra 5.6-mill levy approved in the district last June.

Base salary for the holder of a bachelor's degree will be $5,350. With steps ranging from $225 to $325 annually, the maximum in this category for a teacher with 12 years of experience is $8,000, marking a $200 increase over the figure for this year.

Minimum salary for the teacher with a master's degree will be $5,650, with a maximum of $9,800. The figures now are $5,550 and $9,600, respectively.

The beginning salary for the teacher with 30 semester hours beyond a master's degree or a two-year master's degree was boosted from $5,550 to $6,050. The maximum after 12 years is $10,250, compared to the present $10,000.

A differential of $500 is added to the master's degree schedule for the holders of doctorate degrees.

The salary schedule approved by the board had been recommended by the Birmingham Education Association.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Richard C. Halsey has been promoted from teacher to assistant headmaster of City and Country School of Bloomfield Hills.

Halsey's appointment, and that of Mrs. Frederick C. Booth as assistant director, were announced last night by headmaster George Rooper.

Halsey, 27, is a Troy city commissioner. He has served on the Troy Citizens School Study Committee and the Troy Civil Service Study Committee and is a member of the Troy Volunteer Fire Department.

Chairman of the social studies department and teacher of history and government at City and Country School for 11 years, Halsey holds a bachelor's degree from Kalamazoo College and a master's degree from the University of Michigan.

Mrs. Booth, 1565 Washington, Birmingham, has taught kindergarten and nursery classes at the school since 1947.

The commission voted unanimously to concur with a City Planning Commission recommendation that the parcel on Auburn near the projected site of the osteopathic college be rezoned.

Final action on the multiple housing - commercial rezoning is scheduled for June 8.

Developer Charles L. Langs of 3631 Dorothy, Waterford Township, said the $15 million development would have several types of multiple housing and single-family residences.

A second motion on the rezoning said that the city building inspector should be informed of Langs' plan to comply with all city codes before a building permit is issued.

PASSES 52 — Offered by Commissioner Robert C. Irwin, the second motion passed by a 5-2 vote. Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. and Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson voted against it.

Hudson charged that it was time that the city stopped throwing up roadblocks in front of developers.

Irwin, who also sits on the planning commission, said that body had wanted detailed plans before the rezoning was given final approval.

Cushing, a former resident of Manila, was awarded the plaque by the Philippine government in 1963 for helping to establish a Boys' Town here. One of his brothers, the late Col. James Cushing, was a guerrilla leader in the Philippines during World War II.

Cushing was known in Guam as an adventurer, inventor and stunt man. He was said to have performed high dives from the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco and from the Manhattan Bridge in New York City in 1936.

The raft had two 40 horsepower outboard motors, but Cushing said it drifted until it reached the Claro Seas near Babuyan Islands in the northern Philippines.

He said Cushing told his rescuers he and his son went to sleep aboard the raft after anchoring it off Puto Point in Guam on the night of April 11.

Cushing said winds and tides dislodged the anchor and the following morning he and his son discovered they were far at sea.

Simms—98 N. Saginaw

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steelworkers' executive board convenes as the union's highest appeals body today to hear protests arising from the Feb. 9 union election.

The 33-member board was called into session by President David J. McDonald, who was expected for reelection to a fourth term by Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel.

When union tellers declared Abel the winner last month by 10,142 votes out of the more than 600,000 cast, McDonald said he would ask the executive board to investigate irregularities and order a recount in some locals.

It was uncertain how long the meeting would last, but it was expected to take up most of today and possibly another day or two.

QUICK DECISION

A quick decision, however, was considered likely so the union can concentrate on basic steel contract talks.

The board was expected to hear numerous protests of voting irregularities in separate locals, plus general protests by McDonald.

The meeting came a day after the basic steel talks — twice interrupted by the bitter Abel-McDonald campaign and the election aftermath — resumed in Pittsburgh. Although negotiations continued today, many board members have key roles in the talks and little hard bargaining was expected until the meeting ended.

The executive board is controlled by Abel men and in the only real test of strength in recent months it went against McDonald. The 33 members include McDonald as president, Abel as secretary-treasurer, the international vice president, and the directors of the 29 districts.

Each man has one vote unless there is a roll call. Then he gets one vote plus another for each 10,000 members who voted in his district. The three top officers get a vote equal to the highest vote cast by a single director.

Abel's power lies largely in the support of the national director of Canada and the director of the east Chicago district, which has 114,000 of the union's nearly one million members.

In a surprise turnabout, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., former General Motors board chairman, received an award himself yesterday before he presented $10,000 awards to three scientists.

Sloan, who will be 90 Sunday, presided over the presentation ceremonies for the annual Alfred P. Sloan awards in New York. But before the presentations, Laurence S. Rockefeller, board chairman of the memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, gave Sloan a medalion for leadership, generosity and inspiration in seeking better ways to deal with cancer.

The Sloan awards went to Drs. Irwin H. Krakoff, Henry T. Randall and C. Chester Stock. The awards are supplemented by further expense funds to pay for a year's travel and research.

Critical Priest Gets New Post

Father Joseph Cocker, the 26-year-old Roman Catholic priest suspended for publicly criticizing the church's opposition to birth control, will be given a new job, diocesan authorities said today in Portsmouth, England.

Father Cocker, a parish priest in the Isle of Wight, has been in retreat since March when he got into trouble for defending Father Arnold McMahon, another young priest who advocated contraception.

Father Cocker's new post will be at East Hengrove, Berkshire.

Pakistani President Visits Troops

President Ayub Khan of Pakistan paid a surprise visit to his front-line troops in the disputed territory of Hann of Kutch yesterday.

"Pakistan wants peace — especially with its neighbors," Khan said. "We have no intention of declaring war on India."

"Should the Indian leaders carry out their threat of aggression, Pakistan will face the situation with full confidence."

Sentencing Hinges on Reconciliation

A judge says sentencing of comedienne Cass Daley on charges of furnishing alcohol and contributing to the delinquency of minors will depend on the success of a reconciliation with her husband.

Municipal Judge William Christensen said yesterday in Newport Beach, Calif., he urged Miss Daley and her husband to reconcile for the sake of their son, Dale, 16. The 49-year-old comedienne has been estranged since last June from her husband, Frank Jerome Kinsella, 65.

She was convicted by a jury April 13. Police said she supplied a 16-gallon keg of beer for a motel room party last March 26 attended by 29 teen-agers, including her son.

Cameraman Killed on Movie Location

LIHUE, Hawaii (AP) — Walt Disney cameraman Robert King Baggott was thrown into the surf during the filming of a movie off Kauai Island Tuesday and died of shock and hemorrhaging, an autopsy has revealed.

Baggott, 47, of Northridge, Calif., was hurled from a 16-foot outboard boat when it was hit by a wave. He had been helping to film "Lieutenant Robin Crusoe, USN."

Also pitched into the water was Peter Ellenshaw, winner of a special effects Oscar this year for his work on Mary Poppins. Ellenshaw reached shore unharmed.

Record Shipping Seen for Seaway

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — St. Lawrence Seaway officials are confident of a record shipping year despite continued low water levels in the Great Lakes and unusually heavy ice conditions that curtailed early traffic.

The seaway shipping season opened April 8, equalling last year's starting date, earliest in seaway history. However, near freezing temperatures and ice kept traffic well below that of the opening weeks a year ago.

Senate OKs Auto Exhaust Control Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed and sent to the House Tuesday a bill aimed at putting air pollution controls on auto exhaust gases about the time 1968 cars hit the market.

Under terms of the measure, approved by a voice vote, the secretary of welfare would be directed to issue regulations by Sept. 1, 1967, for control of emission of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide gas. But the auto industry would get a year's advance notice on the standards.

The secretary would get the advice at a technical committee which would report by Jan. 31, 1968.

Imported foreign cars would be required to meet the same standards.

WOULD HAVE AUTHORITY

The measure's sponsors said they understood the standards might be met by a device on exhausts or by changed engine design.

The new secretary would have authority to inspect auto plants to see that regulations are being met.

The bill also provided for a study on pollutants from diesel engines used in trucks, with the results to be reported to Congress by Jan. 31, 1967.

A $20 million annual grant program for two years to aid cities and states in development of new types of plants which would dispose of solid wastes without polluting the air also was authorized.

At least 125,000 Americans will die this year from the effects of cigarette smoking, it is estimated.

Red Congratulations Pour In

N. Viet Chief Hailed on 75th Birthday

TOKYO (AP) — Communist congratulations poured into Hanoi for the 75th birthday today of Ho Chi Minh, who stood in a borrowed dress suit to plead at Versailles after World War I for Vietnamese independence, and now is president of the Communist half of his country.

The straggly bearded old revolutionary was acclaimed for his support of the war against the United States and the pro-American government of South Vietnam.

One telegram of congratulation from Chinese Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung, President Liu Shao-chi, Premier Chou En-lai and Marshal Chu Teh called Ho "an outstanding veteran fighter of the international Communist movement."

It again promised support for North Viet Nam's "stirring and just struggle against U.S. imperialism for national unity."

LONG ACCOUNT

Hanoi radio carried a long account by American leftist writer Anna Louise Strong, now in North Viet Nam, of three recent conversations with Ho. She described him as "too witty to be called a saint."

Miss Strong said Ho lives in a two-room house and uses the ornate official palace which once housed the French governor general of Indochina only to receive visiting dignitaries.

Apparently in sound health, he breakfasts at 5 a.m., has lunch at 11 and supper at 5 p.m., with a glass of milk between meals.

Miss Strong said he was "direct and personal in approach, quick and unexpected in reply." He recalled his life 50 years ago as a pastry cook and waiter in the French merchant marine, when he traveled to many countries preaching Vietnamese independence.

SEEKING HELP

"Were you confident in those days that you would live to see an independent Viet Nam?" the writer asked.

"Frankly, no," he replied. "I was not yet a Communist. I was seeking help. People in Viet Nam, my father among them, were discussing who could help get free from France. Some thought Japan, others Britain, others America. I went abroad to see."

Ho was disappointed by New York City, he said. The skyscrapers were "full of money coming in and out, but their towers kept the sunlight away from the homes of the poor. I thought, 'There is no help here.'"

Ho, a Communist since 1920, said he became a Red convert after reading Lenin's speech on national and colonial questions.

PARTY FOUNDER

He became a founder of the French Communist party and at the end of World War I appeared before the men who were deciding the fate of Indo-China. His plea for Vietnamese independence from France went unheeded.

When World War II ended, Ho made unsuccessful efforts to negotiate partial independence with the French. He established as region of Southern Alaska.

a provisional government in Hanoi in 1945, purged the anti-Communist nationalists in the independence movement, then began the guerrilla war which ended in victory at Dien Bien Phu in 1954. After a year as premier of the north, he became president.

Apparent Low Bidder

(CHICAGO AP) — The General Services Administration says Roy A. Brown of Grand Rapids, Mich., was the apparent low bidder for the improvement of the post office at Alma, Mich. Brown bid $27,000.

North America's smallest and rarest bear is the Blue or Glacier Bear, which stands only two feet high at the shoulder. Its habitat is the Mount St. Eli with the French. He established as region of Southern Alaska.

MICHAEL RUGGERIO

FBI Probes Car Blast Fatal to Boy

HAZLETON, Pa. (UPI) — An FBI team joined local and state authorities today in an effort to determine what kind of explosive was used to kill an election official's son when he started his father's car.

Michael Ruggiero, 17, was the victim of the blast which rocked a residential area and sent bits of metal flying in all directions.

It was election day yesterday and Mike was home from school. His mother, Antoinette, 43, had to do some grocery shopping so he decided to drive her to the store in his father's automobile.

Mike walked to the firehouse where his father, a power shovel operator for a strip mining firm, was on duty yesterday as an election judge and got the key to the 1953 model car, parked only half a block away.

The youth turned on the ignition and the car was blasted to bits in a puff of black smoke. Mike was killed instantly.

TYPE OF EXPLOSION

An FBI team joined Hazleton and state authorities today in an effort to find out what type of explosion caused Mike's death.

Authorities were unable immediately to determine a motive in the case. They said neither Ruggiero nor his son had any known enemies nor had either received any threats.

And Police Chief Frank Uzman said it was unlikely that Ruggiero had any explosives in the family car.

The blast rocked a residential area and sent bits of metal flying in all directions.

HEARD BLAST

The elder Ruggiero heard the explosion and raced from the polling place. Ignoring cuts and burns, he dug into the blazing hot wreckage and reached his son's body.

The force of the blast ripped power lines, leaving 3,500 homes in the area without electricity. State police radio channels were knocked out and were switched to emergency operations.

Mike was hurled into the back seat of the demolished auto. The force of the blast was so great that it tore his clothes and shoes from his body.

Rails Deeply Imbedded in Nation's Economy

National Transportation Week, now being observed, pays well-earned tribute and recognition to all the transportation agencies—the railroads, the trucks and buses, the airlines, and the barges that ply the waterways.

Each provides an essential service. Each has its firm place in the economy of the Nation. Each has inherent advantages which appeal to the varied needs and wants of shippers and travelers.

But — without minimizing in any way the value of any of these carriers — it can fairly be said that one is now, as in the past, fundamental to the whole transportation system.

That one is the railroads. Railroads opened this country and made possible the winning of the West and a nation unified from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to the Gulf. And railroads, despite the emergence of the other carriers, are the one agency which can transport anything movable at any time. They offer the utmost in economy, efficiency and dependability.

The railroad plant that serves us now is vastly different from that of only a few years ago. In the postwar era, something like a billion dollars a year has been spent on modernization—this year the figure will reach a record $1.6 billion.

The Iron Horse has been around a long time — but he's still the friskiest of colts.

Spotlight of History Focused on the OAS

Mankind has long struggled with the complexities of uniting sovereign states into autonomous entities — with little success. The tug of diverse economic, ethnic and social interests invariably precludes total consolidation.

Historically, the unification of the original 13 American colonies into states and the gradual division of the land into the present federation of 50 states constitutes a miracle of political and governmental solidarity.

Mainly as result of the Dominican upheaval, we hear much about the OAS — Organization of American States.

Contrary to popular belief, this political league, now comprising 20 nations, is not merely a contemporaneous move toward continental homogeneity.

Under various names, the Latin American organization has existed for 75 years. It wrote a declaration of human rights before the United Nations got around to it, has attempted formulation of a system of Latin American international law and organized a regional defense pact two years ahead of NATO. Above all, it has given high priority to the idea of concord in the Western Hemisphere.

While the roots of the inter-American system go back to 1826 when Liberator SIMON BOLIVAR called a meeting of eight nations in Panama to write a treaty for common defense and peaceful settlement of disputes among neighbors, the OAS dates its birth to the formation of the International Union of American Republics in 1890.

Political familyhood, as Bolivar envisioned it, did not arrive until 1947, when a new generation of defense-minded Americans, meeting in Rio de Janeiro, drew up a treaty for mutual protection against aggression. In 1948 in Bogota, they agreed on a charter, calling themselves the OAS.

But devoid of the muscle of overriding sovereignty, the strength and influence of the organization has waxed and waned, rising to assertive position only as crises threatened.

Such is the OAS, to which the United States looks soon to assume mastery over the subversive, Communist-oriented forces now infiltrating many Latin American countries.

Whether it can measure up to the challenge is a serious question. Any proposal to strengthen the OAS, and thereby weaken national authority, is bound to stir lively debate.

But as Puerto Rico's former Governor Norberto Marin says: "There are great struggles under way in the world, and I believe we should be in position with proper instruments in the OAS to prevent the Communists from moving in."

We hope so.

LBJ Is Caught in Tangled Web

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — President Johnson not only ran up against history. He got hung on a book.

He got on the book when he sent Marines into the Dominican Republic. This was intervention in the internal affairs of a Latin-American country, something the United States had promised not to do.

Reports from the Dominican Republic say an anti-American feeling is intense among the rebels against the conservative and unelected junta which this country had been backing. This is where Johnson ran into history.

In this century's first 30 years, presidents ordered Marines into various Latin-American countries for various reasons and sometimes kept them there for years. Anti-Americanism covered the southern continent.

Worse still for American popularity and influence this government repeatedly backed dictators. President Franklin D. Roosevelt tried to wipe out these memories with his good neighbor policy.

After the war the United States agreed to the charter of the Organization of American States which says: "No state or group of states has the right to intervene directly or indirectly for any reason whatever in the internal or external affairs of any other state."

COMMUNISM INCOMPATIBLE

Three years ago the foreign ministers of the OAS, including the American, also agreed that "the principles of communism are incompatible with the principles of the inter-American system."

Johnson has cited that second agreement in defense of his use of Marines, but that agreement didn't give any American country the right to intervene on its own against communism or for any other reason in any other country.

But, if Communists are as much of a threat in the Dominican Republic as Johnson seems to think, then if he took no action he might face the same kind of dilemma and embarrassment that hit President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Fidel Castro, in the years he led the Cuban revolution against the dictator, Fulgencio Batista, long backed by the United States, never represented himself as a Communist. Then, when he took over, there was communism on the front steps of the United States.

He may have felt it was better to risk the wrath of Latin Americans for intervening than the fury of Americans if he didn't.

Sound Of Music

Right-to-Work Ban Hits at Rights

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has just asked Congress to pass a law that would, in effect, take away the civil rights of the American workingman by coercing him into joining a labor union.

If he refuses, he will be punished either by losing his job LAWRENCE or by being denied a job in the future in any plant or factory or business establishment where such a union contract with the employer exists.

This proposal, if enacted into law, would wipe out overnight the laws passed by 19 states forbidding compulsory unionization and upholding the right of the individual to work anywhere without being required to give up his conscientious beliefs.

The Supreme Court of the United States has again and again affirmed the right of a citizen to "freedom of belief." There are many citizens, including some in religious groups, who conscientiously believe that they should not be compelled to join any organization of a private nature.

President Johnson, in his message to Congress this week, did not make any reference to the constitutional rights of the citizen, nor did he answer any of the objections frequently raised in the past that the right to work is a civil right.

NO EXPLANATION

In fact, Mr. Johnson, although discussing at length a wider coverage of the minimum wage law, restrictions on "excessive overtime work" and changes in the unemployment insurance program, made no comprehensive explanation of why he wants Congress to eliminate the right-to-work laws of the 19 states.

The President's reference to this proposed amendment of the National Labor Relations Act reads in full text as follows:

"Finally, with the hope of reducing conflicts in our national labor policy that for several years have divided Americans in various states, I recommend the repeal of Section 14 (B) of the Taft-Hartley Act with such other technical changes as are made necessary by this action."

Although the President submitted the drafts of bills for the other changes that he requested, he did not do so with respect to the amendment that would abolish right-to-work laws. He merely said:

"Bills embodying the third (proposal) have already been introduced in Congress."

HARDLY ANY PHASE

There is hardly any phase of the problem of labor-management relations about which it could not be said that the issues "for several years have divided Americans in several states."

Also, it is rare indeed that an important piece of legislation — such as the abolition of civil rights — does not get any more extended explanation from the chief executive than was contained in the message submitted to Congress yesterday.

The workers in 19 states who have been free from coercion now may face a compulsory unionization program.

Theoretically, a worker who is employed in a business that is not interstate in character could still refuse to join a union under existing state laws.

But the phrase "interstate commerce" has been broadened so much in the recent civil rights law in order to remove racial discrimination in hiring employees that it may be doubted whether any substantial number of jobs in any state could be classed today as outside federal jurisdiction.

Voices From Space

The Corriere Della Sera (Milan)

There is a truly intriguing story making the rounds of the world press. It tells of two ingenious young Italians who built, with only a few hundred dollars' worth of equipment, a space monitoring station capable of picking up communications between the manned Russian space satellites and stations on the earth. The story they have to tell is indeed horrifying, as the following article from the Milan daily reflects.

What could be a more terrible death than that of a Soviet cosmonaut who disappears into space knowing that back on earth his comrades will do everything they can to make sure that no news about his fate leaks out and that his very name is forgotten? Before the Gemini shot we knew everything there was to know about the American astronauts and their ship.

It's quite a different story with the Russian. Before a launching do they feel resigned to the possibility of being utterly forgotten? Since November 28, 1960, fourteen cosmonauts have disappeared. And we wouldn't know about

Voice of the People:

New Dog Repellent Given to Pontiac Mail Carriers

Pontiac mail carriers have been issued aerosol containers of a new dog repellent to have handy when they observe a loose dog approaching whose intent is questionable. This new protective device has been adequately tested and discourages dogs without injuring them. Its use is condoned by organizations who previously objected to actual physical contact as a means of self-defense.

It should be pointed out that there are existing ordinances which prohibit owners from allowing their dogs to run loose. As a further preventive measure, postal regulations permit the non-delivery of mail to patrons who allow their dogs to menace the carrier in the performances of his duties.

Two Comment on Area School Activities

We had the privilege of serving as chaperones at the Pontiac Northern Junior Prom Saturday evening and were impressed by the young people attending the dance. Sophomores waited tables and seniors came later to clean up.

Mr. Wargelin, the faculty and parents are to be commended on the wonderful work they are doing in raising such fine young boys and girls.

'Township Was Informed of Sewer Costs'

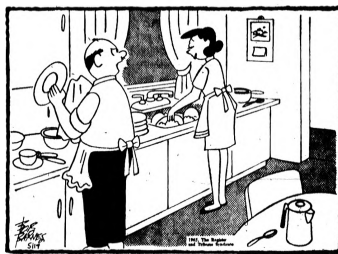

As a resident of Walton Heights Manor subdivision I attended most of the special township meetings on sewers. Sealed bids were received by the Oakland County D.P.W. and opened July 7, 1964. The lowest bid was accepted.

Priests on sewer payments were given at township meetings with a breakdown on each item payment and when it was due. If residents were not satisfied at this time a petition should have been signed and submitted.

During inclement weather sewer work was stopped and these men worked on the roads. No protests were made of this action at the time.

them if a few people in the West had not intercepted their desperate signals and cries of terror.

Nine such recordings have been made at Torre Bert by two brothers, Giovanbattista and Achille Judica-Cordiglia. The Torre Bert Space Monitoring Station occupies five rooms in the villa Bertalozza, which houses a private hospital specializing in geriatrics and is run by the brothers' father.

The monitoring station is staffed by Giovanbattista and Achille (aged twenty-six and thirty-two, respectively), their wives and their sister Teresa, who is seventeen and is their Russian translator. The taped documentation that they have collected is striking and at times disturbing, but so far, no one has taken the trouble to examine the tapes for evidence other than terror.

The names of five of the nine cosmonauts whose signals were recorded at Torre Bert are: Serenly Shbiton and Pyotr Dolgov, who perished May 2 1961, along with a woman whose name was not mentioned in the intercepted conversations.

Vassili Zovodovsky, lost October 14, 1961.

Lodovsky, lost October 20, 1962.

Alexei Belokonev, lost November 12, 1962. The first Soviet cosmonaut perished on November 23, 1960 — i.e., pre-Gagarin. His space ship made four orbits and Torre Bert intercepted five Morse code messages in English reading "SOS to the whole world." Four days later, on December 2nd, the Russians reported only that they had orbited a Sputnik VI but that the vehicle had disintegrated.

The second cosmonaut was lost between February 2 and 3, 1961 — still pre-Gagarin. This is one of the most astonishing recordings made at Torre Bert. Over the cosmic noise you can hear heartbeats and breathing. On February 4 the Soviets announced that Sputnik VII had disintegrated. Then came Shbiton, Dolgov and an anonymous woman on May 18th — post-Gagarin.

'Project Head Start'—I

Enthusiasm for Preschool Plan Growing

Editor's Note: "Project Head Start" is a program designed to give children of poverty-stricken families something they might not otherwise get—a head start in life. In the first of three dispatches LPI reporter Louis Cassels explains how the project will work.

By LOUIS CASSELLS
United Press International
WASHINGTON. From Ventura County, Calif., to Alameda County, Calif., American communities are preparing to launch a unique kind of salvage operation.

"It's called 'Project Head Start,'" and its object is to rescue half a million children who otherwise would start school this fall under hopeless handicaps.

They are the children of poverty. They have spent the first four or five years of their lives in deprivation and neglect which has stunted the growth of their minds.

Some have vocabularies of less than 100 words. Many have never colored with crayons, listened to a story, visited a zoo, or enjoyed any of the other preschool learning experiences which middle-class children take for granted.

If they are sent to kindergarten or first grade as they are, they'll begin the adventure of education with two strikes against them.

FURTHER BEHIND

Most will find it impossible to keep up with their classes. They'll fall further and further behind until they wind up, some years hence, as dropouts, delinquents and welfare cases.

Project Head Start will not overcome all of their disadvantages.

But it will give them what its name implies—a head start in kindergarten or first grade.

For eight golden weeks this summer, these underprivileged boys and girls will be given every kind of help that an affluent society can provide—free medical and dental care, nourishing meals, trips to zoos and museums, supervised play and—most important of all—the thrill of learning to draw, to write, to recognize objects and letters, under the stimulating guidance of expert teachers.

Mrs. Landon B. Johnson calls Project Head Start "the most exciting, productive and practical project that any government can embark on."

Her enthusiasm seems to be shared by millions of other Americans from coast to coast. Old-timers in Washington cannot recall any federal program that has ever caught on so quickly and widely.

It was initially conceived as a minor front in the war on poverty. When the plans were announced last February, Sargent Shriver's Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) had fully set a goal of 100,000 children for the first summer.

PUBLIC RESPONSE

The public response, Shriver says, was "simply fantastic." The OEO was deluged with applications from schools, churches, women's clubs and other community organizations eager to sponsor child development centers.

Julius Sugarman, deputy director of the project, now estimates that 10,000 centers will be in operation by the first of July, with a total enrollment of about 520,000 children.

This means Project Head Start will reach more than half of the children of poverty who will be coming of school age this year.

A pin-studded map on the wall of Sugarman's office shows that the centers will be in operation in 1,450 of the nation's 3,000 counties, including 261 of the 300 counties with the largest number of poor people.

MUSHROOM GROWTH

Holmes Alexander, OEO's assistant director for public affairs, says the project's mushroom growth is "a tribute to local initiative." He points out that the OEO will not establish any centers on its own, but will simply provide funds for approved centers sponsored by nonprofit community groups.

To qualify for federal funds applicants must guarantee that the center will be open to all poor children in the neighborhood served, regardless of their race or religion. The strict ban on segregation has caused some white groups in the South to withdraw sponsorship applications.

But on the whole, Southern states are well represented by pins on Sugarman's map. The thinnest coverage, for reasons unexplained, is in Midwestern states such as Wisconsin, Kansas and Nebraska.

Shriver estimates that it will cost about $105 million to staff and operate 10,000 head start centers for two months. The federal government will underwrite 90 per cent of the cost. The local sponsor must put up 10 per cent, but it does not have to be in cash.

Most sponsoring groups will make their contribution "in kind"—that is, in the form of free space in community buildings and unpaid volunteer labor.

on this part-time help of about 500,000 unpaid volunteers, who will drive cars, type records, examine eyes, pull teeth, administer shots and otherwise use their special skills to reduce the odds against the most underprivileged children in the world's most privileged society.

Thousands Pitching In

Midwest Bounces Back From Twisters

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP) — The Midwest, with a lot of outside help, has demonstrated it can bounce back from disaster.

It will take years to restore the Palm Sunday tornado belts to something near normal but a stout start was made in the first four weeks after one of the nation's most destructive storms.

Thousands of volunteers, from Boy Scouts to convicts, have cleared streets and highways and made some progress toward cleaning debris from private property.

Replacing demolished buildings by the thousands is a long-range job but it's moving.

CLOSED OUT CLAIMS

Less than a month after the storm, insurance companies had closed out more than half of the claims very proud of the insurance industry in this disaster," said John H. Shuttleton of New York, assistant to the general adjuster of the American Insurance Association. "There have been others where I wasn't so proud."

He and Red Cross officials agreed that an unusually high proportion of homes and industries carried adequate insurance. Estimates on destroyed or damaged houses covered by inclusive home owners' policies range from 90 to 98 per cent. These policies even cover living expenses while new homes are built.

Some religious sects such as the Amish, who don't approve of insurance, are helping one another rebuild smashed buildings and also are working on non-members' homes.

FIGURES NOT FIRM

Figures aren't firm yet, but property damage estimates in Indiana alone range upward from $30 million from 11 twisters that slashed across the state in three distinct belts, killing at least 137 persons and injuring hundreds.

But not everyone had adequate insurance. Some had none, and that's where the Red Cross stepped in. There was the case for example of the Campbell-Garver family, who lived on an unpaved road near the north central Indiana town of Russia, which was virtually demolished.

Bachelor Arthur Garver, 55, went to church on Palm Sunday evening. His sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Campbell and their family, went to their favorite fishing camp on the Mississinewa River, about 40 miles away, to check whether it would be covered by a new reservoir.

While the family was gone, a twister smashed the barn and henhouse into splinters. It lifted the old stove-heated frame house off its foundations and chucked the contents into rubble.

'PRETTY BAD'

"It seemed like one of the worst things," said 58-year-old Mrs. Campbell, "was that we couldn't even get a drink of water. The tornado took the pitcher pump and a section of pipe right along with the well house."

"It was pretty bad, digging for hours to get those 30 sheep out from under what was left of the barn," Garver recalled. "Funny thing, only three were dead. Another funny thing, we had three chickens and the two hens were all right but the rooster was missing. He came back next day from the way the twister went."

After the shock the men discovered a crucial loss. Garver and 38-year-old Leroy Campbell produce a substantial amount of the family's revenue by shearing sheep. Their shearing equipment was largely destroyed in the collapsed barn.

After rescuing the sheep, the family slept in its three cars, only one of them operative — that night.

NO MONEY

"It was pretty grim for a few days there," Mrs. Campbell said. "We didn't have any money for food, and worse, we didn't have any gasoline money so the men could go to sheep shearing jobs. We heard the Red Cross was helping people and we figured we needed help as much as anybody."

The Red Cross provided money for food, tools and gasoline. Daniel W. Bachman, assistant director of Red Cross disaster service for the eastern area, has recommended an $8,000 grant to build a house and barn. A farmer is letting the family use a small tenant house.

So well-insured were most Indiana tornado victims that the Red Cross estimates it may spend half or less of the million dollars it expected to give them. Bachman, who was rushed here from California floods and hasn't been home in Alexandria, Va., since Dec. 23, explained that the money — grants, not loans — is distributed to meet needs, not losses.

HELP THEMSELVES

"For example," he said, "an attic full of old clothes could be sold but not needed. This is a businesslike proposition, not a dole or charity. It's the people of the United States helping themselves."

A Red Cross worker sits down with a family asking help and works out a budget after issuing a voucher for temporary needs.

The budget includes all assets, probable earnings and the amount of money that can be borrowed from local banks or such agencies as the Small Business Administration, Federal Housing Authority, Federal Home and Housing Administration and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

The total is compared with the family's financial needs, and if it falls short, the Red Cross makes up the difference.

The Red Cross spent $26 million in the 1937 Ohio and Mississippi river flood

U.S. Deportee Is Slain in Sicily

TRAPANI, Sicily (AP) — Onofrio (Nono) Minaudo, alleged Mafia member who was deported from the United States and Canada, was found shot dead Monday in the Sicilian Village where he was born.

Police said Minaudo, 65, was struck by four bullets. They said they were investigating as to whether his death stemmed from Sicilian murder and armed robbery charges dating to 1917 and 1923.

These charges had lapsed by the time he returned finally to Sicily from Canada in 1964.

In 1963 he was mentioned in testimony before a U.S. Senate Crime Committee by then Detroit Police Commissioner George A. Edwards, who described him as among the "lieutenants," or fourth-ranking tier in the Mafia underworld command.

Minaudo's deportation from the U.S. started in 1951 when he was charged under Michigan law with conspiring to prevent workers from joining a union at a Detroit plant. He pleaded guilty and this led to his deportation in 1953.

Old Song Says 'a Kiss Is Just a Kiss'---Part of Indian Parliament Disagrees

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — To kiss or not to kiss was the question before the Indian Parliament.

The whole thing started with moves to strengthen film censorship, which the Indian government uses in a fatherly attempt to protect the nation's morals.

Kissing, said one woman

Soapy Heads for Africa

After Talk With LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, conferred with President Johnson prior to his departure Tuesday for a 10-day trip to Africa. Among other things, Williams will attend a conference of the U. S. chiefs of missions in Ethiopia.

Promoted by Dow Firm

MIDLAND (AP) — Harold Boscher, manager of services of the Dow Chemical Co.'s Midland division, has been named general manager of the division, the firm said Tuesday.

member, is "totally irrelevant" to the Indian way of life and, therefore, shouldn't be permitted in Indian movies. A kissing scene, she said, amounts to "distortion of reality."

Warning to the subject, male members of Parliament chimed in with comments.

PERVERTIONS, SEMINDES. A Communist member said kissing was okay but that he didn't want any "perverted songs and seminde pictures of women" flashed on screens around the country.

A Socialist member declared that if Communist standards were applied to films, none of the West's extremely popular films could be imported. Western films are "full of sex appeal," he said, and are bound to be popular because people go to the movies "for relaxation, not serious."

The subject of kissing has been bothering India for a long time. Madras and Bombay. In days of yore of Hollywood, for years solved the problem in somewhat the same manner the Lone Ranger and his cowboy colleagues used to. Where the cowboys headed for girls but swerved off to kiss their horses, Indian stars here in an collision osculatory course — and then burst into song.

Or, they spun away and wrapped themselves in barks embrace around the nearest tree.

In one Indian film, every time it appeared a kiss was coming for sure, a mysterious stranger would jump out of the bushes brandishing a knife. The hero always had to break off and fight a duel — singing all the while.

The average Indian male wouldn't dream of kissing a woman, even his wife, in public. Increasingly, however, they're beginning to feel maybe the West has something in this kissing business. As a result, American films featuring bikinis and temperature-raising love scenes are extremely popular. Indian men flock to theaters by the thousands.

But, says Parliament, they shouldn't expect to see any "made-in-India" kissing scenes.

MAROONED BY FLOOD — Floodwaters from heavy rains, measuring up to six inches, surrounded these homes and cars in San Antonio, Tex. Hundreds of low-income families on the city's west side were routed from their homes yesterday by floods.

Floods Plague San Antonio

More Rain Due in Texas City

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Flood-ravaged San Antonio braced for another round of thunderstorms today, storms which the U.S. Weather Bureau said would send rivers on the rise again.

More than 11 inches of rain fell yesterday, paralyzing most of the city. Hundreds of low-income families on the city's west side were routed from their homes by the floodwaters. Many saved only what they could carry.

Shacks and shanty houses were swept off their foundations by the rampaging waters of usually docile creeks.

Olmos Creek, Salado Creek, San Pedro Creek, Mud Creek and Alazona-Apache Creeks all left their boundaries.

Torrential rains kept up most of the day, slackened off for a few hours, and then began again late last night. The rains continued to fall early today.

MORE RAINS

The San Antonio bureau warned that "new and heavy rains would cause flooding again today."

Auto travel yesterday was at best inadvisable and usually impossible. Every street in the downtown section was flooded yesterday morning when the normal rush hour started.

Some of the streets became impassable later in the day when the rains slackened, but thousands of persons never made it to work at all.

Miraculously, there were no deaths, although thousands were forced to the roofs of their homes and cars. The fire and police department switchboards were jammed with calls for help.

A roving helicopter plucked some of the stranded from their roofs.

PLEA FOR BOATS

Rescue and civil defense personnel issued a plea for all available boats for rescue work in the inundated areas.

The west and southern portions of the city were hardest hit. To the north and east, where the ground rises gently toward the hill country of central Texas, only underpasses and some low-lying sections were flooded.

Early in the day, water stood

Says 25 Cities Due Fast Transit by '80

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An authority transit says that at least 25 major U.S. cities will have rapid transit systems under construction or complete by 1980.

Donald C. Hyde, vice president of the Institute for Rapid Transit and general manager of the Cleveland (Ohio) Rapid Transit System, predicted yesterday that tomorrow's cities will be linked by high-speed passenger train networks that will be tied with local transit systems for quick connections.

Hyde spoke at a news conference held in a rapid transit car on display at Washington's Union Station during an institute meeting here.

Woman Dies in Wreck

CLIO (AP)—Mrs. Emma Marie Brown, 55, of North East, Md., was killed Tuesday when the car in which she was riding and a truck collided near Clio.

Mosquitoes Pester Flood Area

CHICAGO (AP)—A farmer's son develops lumps as big as baseballs.

A St. Louis pediatrician says he has "never seen it so bad."

A university professor says, "I've never heard so many people complaining."

The incidents concern flood water mosquitoes, a vicious brand of insect that breeds best under spring floodwaters.

FARMLAND SWAMPED

Thousands of acres of rich farmland were swamped last month when the Mississippi River flooded its banks from Minnesota to Kentucky.

The floodwaters have receded but left an irritating legacy — mosquitoes.

"It's simple," says Prof. W. R. Horsfall, University of Illinois entomologist, "the more area you get under water, the more mosquitoes."

Mosquito outbreaks have been reported in many cities in Illinois.

Medical Pioneer Dies

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Dr. Ellen J. Patterson, 91, a pioneer in the development of surgical instruments and techniques, died Tuesday. She had taught at the University of Pittsburgh for 29 years except for a brief time when she taught at the University of Paris in France. She was born in Pittsburgh.

Missouri and Kentucky. Health officials in Benton and Paducah, Ky., have described the situation as the worst in 10 years.

ONE OF WORST

Adding to the complaints is the fear the mosquito-borne encephalitis (inflammation of the brain), which claimed several lives in Illinois last year, may break out again.

St. Louis officials describe the mosquito infestation as possibly the worst in modern history.

Dr. Raymond Hellweg, 33, a St. Louis pediatrician, said he and his colleagues have "never seen it so bad."

"Instead of little lumps, some of the bites cover quite large areas," he said. "A few are as big as baseballs."

HUGE BITES

The huge bites aren't because the mosquitoes are different, Hellweg said, "but because they're bigger than I have ever seen."

River cities in northern Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Minnesota have stepped up mosquito abatement programs.

"We're hitting it in those areas that were inundated," said Harold Donfalla, mayor of Clinton, Iowa.

Across the river at Rock Island, Ill., one of the hardest hit flood cities, City Manager Ray Borch said the city has increased its mosquito abatement budget by 50 per cent.

AAUW Honors Mrs. Thomas

Mrs. Olin Thomas, Gale Road, White Lake Township, has been honored by the Pontiac branch, American Association of University Women.

The branch is designating its contribution to the national fellowship program of AAUW the "Dorothy King Thomas gift contribution."

AAUW fellowships are awarded to American and foreign women students for an academic year or longer and are for graduate work only.

American women must have a Ph. D. degree or its equivalent in order to qualify for a grant.

FROM OHIO

Dorothy King Thomas was born in Ohio. She worked her way through both high school and college, graduating from Ohio State University in 1923.

Marrying immediately after graduation, she and her husband moved that year to Michigan. Olin Thomas is a vice president of Wayne State University.

Mrs. Thomas is president of the WSU Faculty Wives Club and past president of the Pontiac branch of AAUW.

She is on the board of directors of the Oakland County Michigan Children's Aid Society and also of the Oakland County Psychiatric Clinic Boards Association. She is also active in the work of Oakland County Mental Health Board and a member of the White Lake Township Planning Commission.

The Thomas have two sons, a daughter and five grand children.

Strawberry Festival Set for Saturday

"Fun in the Berry Patch" is the theme of Bloomfield Country Day School's annual Strawberry Festival, to be held on Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the school, on East Square Lake Road.

Sponsored by the Mothers Club, the fair will feature games and pony rides, strawberry-filled desserts, fresh berries, baked goods, bright geraniums and picnic lunches.

The mothers have had a decorator's fling with wicker baskets this year, using their imagination on many sizes and shapes for various uses.

Other booths include the Parcel Post booth, where surprise gifts from "round the world" can be purchased; Farm and Garden Booth; BCDS' own "Plea Mart in a Berry Patch," and a gypsy fortune telling booth. Proceeds from the day of fun for the whole family will be used for the scholarship fund.

Directing the country fair this year is Mrs. Kirk Horigan, assisted by Mrs. W. E. Hartman Jr.

BCDS students, dressed in their bright shirtwaist uniforms, will assist fair-goers on the day of the event. They will be directed by Headmistress Marjorie W. Sallie.

Life is just a bowl of strawberries for Mrs. William F. Ploch Jr. of Birmingham and her daughters, Kathy (left) and Maggie. All three are working on the annual Strawberry Festival of the Bloomfield Country Day School to be held Saturday from 10 a. to 5 p. m. at the school.

Efforts Are Rewarded

You'll Be First to Know

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I know this will never get in your column but I am going to write it anyway just to get it off my chest.

You always take the position that if a man cheats on his wife, and friends of the wife know about it, they should not tell the wife.

I disagree with you. I have tipped off three of my friends when I found out their husbands were cheating on them. I didn't just "hear" that they were, I made it my business to get proof.

All of these women thanked me for telling them. If my husband ever cheated on me, I would want my friends to tell me about it.

NEWPORT
DEAR NEWPORT: Don't worry. They will.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26, have six children and another one on the way. My problem is my husband. He likes women.

Last winter I caught him trying to kiss my sister. I couldn't take it, so I threw him out. I've been on welfare ever since.

My husband keeps coming home for meals, to get his laundry done up, and he even sleeps here sometimes. He isn't supposed to be here at all.

If my case worker at the welfare knew about it, she'd stop my checks. I told my husband if he liked home life so much he should live here and behave himself, but he says the kids make him too nervous for a steady grind.

Should I let him stay? I miss him when he's gone.

BATON ROUGE
DEAR BATON ROUGE: Talk to your case worker. The welfare department has been known to straighten out worse cases than your husband.

And let this be a lesson to young women who bring six children into the world before discovering their husbands can't stand children.

Problems? Write to ABBY, care of The Pontiac Press.

For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press, for Abby's booklet, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Many Come to Dinner

Among the guests at the recent retirement dinner for Mrs. Annie Mae Lee and Mrs. Una McFarland was former superintendent of Pontiac schools, Frank Dufraim of Toledo.

Others honoring Mrs. Lee at Holiday Inn were John Thors Jr., William Lacy, Richard Fell, Francis Staley and Barbara Wilson.

Polite Note Is Required of Couple

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: Last evening my wife and I were supposed to go to a buffet party given by a business friend and his wife. We accepted the invitation while back and had every intention of going. But when we were getting ready to leave, we received an emergency call from my wife's mother and we had to rush over there and accept the invitation while back to the party. I would like to know if a note should be written to the hostess apologizing for our not going to her party.

A: You must write a note of apology to the hostess, explaining why you could not come to her party and it would also be a fitting gesture to send some flowers with it.

Q: Is it considered bad manners to take a sip of coffee, tea or other beverage while there is food in the mouth? In other words, must the mouth be completely cleared of all food before taking a drink of anything?

A: It is best manners not to put liquid into the mouth while there is food in it. However, if the amount of food is so little as to be undetectable to others, it is permissible to take a sip of coffee or other beverage.

Q: Will you please tell me what the letters R.S.V.P. stand for on an invitation? I know it means that guests are expected to reply, but what I am really interested in finding out is the actual translation of these letters.

A: R.S.V.P. is the abbreviation of the French, "Repondez s'il vous plait" which translated into English means, "Reply if you please."

Celebration Fetes George Walker

By SIGNE KARLSTROM
Friends of the George W. Walkers of Delray Beach, Fla. will be happy to know that they will be in the Burlington Arms Apartments for the summer.

Daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Otto, have planned a Sunday evening party in their home honoring Mr. Walker's birthday.

Mrs. Arthur Weiland who commutes between her home in New York and her apartment in Birmingham is entertaining for brunch, Sunday, in Kingsley Inn.

BACK FROM SOUTH

Mrs. William L. Mosher Jr. of Rudgate Road returned this past weekend from Houston, Texas.

Following the marriage of her niece Pat Gilchrist to James Tuck on May 1st she motored to Houston with her mother Mrs. Peter N. Slipsager who had come to the Mosher's for her granddaughter's wedding.

There was also a visit in Kansas with Mrs. Mosher's sister, Mrs. Samuel J. Smith, where some serious golf was played. Mrs. Mosher's reputation as a golfer is well known and she is now waiting for the season here.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Torgerson have also returned home after a week's visit in New York City.

HOPE HANKO

Fall vows are planned by Hope Hanko, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Hanko of Gary, Ind., and Darrell Eugene Dowdy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Dowdy of West Rutgers Street. She is an alumna of Indiana University.

Nettke Vows Are Spoken

A reception in the Kingsley Inn followed the recent vows of Diane Carlisle Erwin to Richard Allan Nettke in the Sacred Heart Church, Auburn Heights.

Rev. Edward Hodous, S.J. of the University of Detroit faculty offered the nuptial Mass for the couple who chose Virginia Beach, Va. for the honeymoon.

Their parents are the J. L. Erwins of Birmingham and the Richard A. Nettkes of Troy.

The bride's white linen sheath gown was styled along Empire lines, with Watteau train.

Mrs. Tom Blaze of Warren was honor matron with bridesmaids, Mrs. Steven R. Erwin and Kathy Nettke.

On the esquire side were Tom Maher, best man and ushers Steven R. Erwin and Bruce Carrico.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Detroit where he is presently attending the School of Dentistry. The couple will reside in Birmingham.

Hawthorne Fair

The PTA of Hawthorne School will sponsor a fair from 2 until 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Robert Petty, chairman announces that rides, games, cake walk, bake sale and various booths will be much in evidence.

Teach Child How to Handle His Money

By MARY FEELEY

Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

We have only one child, a daughter 15 years old in the tenth grade.

How can we set an allowance to teach her how to handle money? As it is, her Dad and I give her what she needs.

We feel we are spoiling her and not preparing her for the future.

Mrs. H. Easton, Pa.

Dear Mrs. H.

Maybe you aren't really spoiling her. Parents these days have a terrible guilt complex about how they're raising their children, no matter what they do. And it makes me good and tired.

Some of the most reasonable, thoughtful, intelligent parents I know go around with a burden of fear that they aren't turning their teenagers into perfect people.

Well, nobody has ever yet produced a perfect generation — as witness you and me!

But be that as it may, I think an allowance is a good idea. It not only puts responsibility on your daughter, it can also help her to realize that the individual can, to some extent, make money do what she wants it to do.

There is a certain adventure in managing money, and it's a fine lesson to learn early in life. You don't tell me what you expect her to pay for out of her allowance. So I'll just have to go on some basics I believe in.

She should be given an amount that will allow her to pay her specified expenses, plus some to save. The usual, and entirely reasonable proportion of an income to put into savings is 5 to 15 per cent of the total.

On the basis of average planning patterns, this works out pretty well in the long run.

Through managing a certain amount of money regularly, she will learn to save any surplus from one week or one month, to add to the next, so that in a certain period of time — which she must figure out — she can buy some major item she wants.

Discuss with her what you expect her to pay for out of the allowance. Consider her needs in the terms of her age and her group spending. Set down any rules you feel are in her best interests.

You certainly needn't feel obligated to give her a certain sum just because "all the others have it." Use your own good judgment — and you really do have some by the time you've raised a child to the age of 15.

Once you've settled on the amount of her allowance, stay with it.

(You can write to Mary Feeley in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions of widest interest will be answered in her column.)

Congressman to Be Guest of GOP Women

The Republican Women's Clubs of Beverly, Franklin, Birmingham, Troy and Bloomfield will sponsor a luncheon for U.S. Representative William S. Broomfield. Setting for the 11:45 a.m. event on May 28 is Devon Gables.

Mrs. Harold Rubel is in charge of reservations which are due in before May 25.

Congressman Broomfield is now serving his fifth term in the U.S. House of Representatives and is the ranking Republican in the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

He is also the senior Republican on Asia and National Security subcommittees and is a member of the Africa subcommittee.

Use Smock in Kitchen

Like to get off the ground with color and look like an airline hostess when you're working in the kitchen? You can — with the aid of a colorful, colorfast smock.

Some airlines equip their hostesses with multi-color smocks to slip on quickly over their neat dresses or uniforms. You could do the same when you're having a do-it-yourself party. A bright smock over a party dress will help you to look pretty while still staying on the job.

Colorfast colors will also make the smock — bought or made — as easy on the wash as an apron. But it's a lot easier on the eye.

Planning residence in Milford after their Niagara honeymoon are the Duke Edward Grosjeans (Patricia Stewart) who chose the Inglen Avenue United Presbyterian Church for their recent vows and reception. Their parents are the Warren R. Stewarts of Sterling Avenue and the Robert J. Grosjeans of South Avery Road. With her colonial gown and train of sequined white Chantilly lace, the bride wore a tiered illusion veil and carried carnations with lilies of the valley. Attendants included Mr. and Mrs. Thom E. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Prindz, Dolores Alexander, Sally Stewart, Kelly Barker, Richard Stewart, Jerry Hart and Mark Grosjean. Rev. E. I. Watkins performed the evening rite.

The David J. Cotchers (Carolyn Sue Riddle) left for a honeymoon in Atlantic City and the East Coast after recent vows and a reception in the Fenton Methodist Church. Their parents are the George E. Riddles of Holly, Mrs. Lloyd Tyson, Silver Lake Road, Lyon Township, and the late Paul Cotcher. Alencon lace accented the bride's gown and cathedral train of white silk organza over tulle. A lace Dior bow held her illusion veil. With Cherie Riddle, her sister's honor maid, were bridesmaids Mrs. Arthur Strom and Sharon Lynch. Daniel Cotcher was best man, Theodore Mullen, Arthur Strom and Alfred Malachuk ushered.

Burt Schedules Saturday Fair

The Burt School, Waterford Township, PTA will hold its fair from 4 to 7 p.m. Saturday at the school.

Chairmen of the fair are Mrs. Byron Merritt and Mrs. Robert McMorris.

Booths will include handicrafts, a flower shop, a country kitchen and a lollipop tree. There will also be games and hayrides.

Repeat Vows in Utah Rites

Recent vows were repeated in Salt Lake City, Utah by Diane Vera Wisniewski, daughter of the Theodore Wisniewski of that city, and Charles David Canterbury, son of the Charles W. Canterburys of Lexington Road.

Attendants included Sylvia Sanders, as maid of honor, and bridesmaids, Karen Mitchell, Christine Wisniewski and Karen Haycock.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Dennis Wisniewski and ushering were Lawrence Pullin, David Webb and David Butt.

Protect Skin From Sun

Tanning takes on a very personal tone each season. Whether you burn and peel constantly or turn a handsome gold-brown in two days depends upon your skin type.

However, sun lotions can make a difference. New formulations with silicones and moisturizers screen out sun rays if you want this and the moisturizers keep the skin from getting too dry and leathery.

One warning from dermatologists: constant deep tanning (that mahogany look) leads to rapid skin aging. Be prudent during your sunning days.

Lutheran Guild to Hear Pastor

Pastor David Eberhard of Riverside Lutheran Church, Detroit, will speak before members of the St. Stephen Lutheran Ladies Guild on Thursday at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Warren Navarre will be in charge of the program. Others involved in the planning of this meeting are Mrs. William Innis, Mrs. Ed Schlereth and chairman Mrs. Donald Christ.

Simmer Raisins to Go Into Oatmeal Cookies

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

There is still another month of school that means another month of packing lunches.

Then there's vacation time when the youngsters will be in and out of the house all day, saying, "I'm hungry."

So, Mom, you may as well resign yourself to keeping the cookie jar filled.

Mrs. O. B. Womack knows all about school lunches and hungry children. She shares with Press readers her family's favorite oatmeal cookie recipe.

OLD-FASHIONED OATMEAL COOKIES
By Mrs. O. B. Womack
1 cup raisins
1 cup water
3/4 cup soft shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar

2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups oatmeal
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
200 minutes. Drain liquid into measuring cup and add enough water to make 1/2 cup.

Cream shortening, sugar, eggs and vanilla together. Stir in raisins liquid.

Sift and stir dry ingredients. Add oatmeal, raisins and nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls about two inches apart on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 8-10 minutes at 400 degrees. Makes 67 dozen.

Battle in Viet Nam Is a Total War of Many Fronts

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

SAIGON. This is a war with out a front, and with many fronts. It is a total war, indiscriminate of its victims, soldier or civilian.

More than 35,000 Americans, ranging from civilian and military advisers to the tough U.S. Marines and paratroopers assigned to guard vital bases are arrayed here in a vast effort to save South Viet Nam from a Communist take-over and to give it economic and political stability.

American dead since Jan. 1, 1961, total more than 450.

The effort ranges from the watery Delta of the Mekong River in the south, to the triple-tiered jungle traversed by the Ho Chi Minh Trail on the north, to the dusty runways of the big Da Nang air base on the coastal plain.

The war is fought aboard armed junks and converted landing craft patrolling the 20,000 miles of river channels flowing into the Mekong River.

ARMED HELICOPTER

It is fought with the armed helicopter, called "The Huey," and the troop-carrying copter called the "Slick."

It is fought from savage ambush and it is fought by an American agricultural expert in a Communist Viet Cong-surrounded village.

It is a war of frightened villagers and special heroes.

PERFECT FIELD

The high, jungled ranks on either side give the Communists a perfect field of fire with which to rake the decks with rifle, machine gun or mortar fire. Shelter is scant or nonexistent. Explosive mines lurk just below the surface.

Some of the Vietnamese boatmen wear tattooed across their chests the junk force motto — "Sat Cong." It means kill the Viet Cong. A man captured with it on his chest is liable to torture and death, at the very least to have the live flesh torn away to erase the motto.

The "Hueys" and the "Slicks" have given the helicopter new status in this war. In most guerrilla wars, a ratio of 10 to 1 has been considered necessary for defensive forces successfully to meet hit-run guerrilla attack.

The helicopter has cut it to five-to-one.

FIERCELY PROUD

And the pilots of these hovering craft that fly into the face of enemy gunfire are fiercely proud of their machines and their accomplishments.

Maj. Edwin Riley of Norwalk, Conn., is a veteran pilot of a "Huey" assigned to protect the troop carriers. His craft carries four machine guns on the outside and two pods each carrying seven rockets.

Says Riley, "If the 'Slicks' suffer a single hit, then the armed helicopter hasn't done its job."

Some 500 miles to the north east of the Delta, where the Hai-Vien River flows into the South China Sea, is the city of Da Nang. The French used to call it Tourane. Its population is about 150,000 and it also is home base for 15,000 Americans, including 9,000 Marines.

FRENCH COLONIAL

Cool, thick-walled homes set amid palm trees and flowering gardens are reminders of French Colonial times.

Its streets, thronged with bicycles, pedicabs, preps, children and just plain people.

An open-front shop is the headquarters for an enterprising Da Nang merchant named Kim Chi. He will sell you a piece of jewelry or rent you a jeep.

Its business motto is: "No A. C. Viet Cong," no M.P. trade with Kim Chi.

NO ONE KNOWS

No one knows how many of the faceless Viet Cong the town harbors behind its peaceful and tropical facade.

Its streets have been put off limits for the Americans for fear of a Viet Cong instigated incident.

Footing the river is the sandwich one day. A Viet Cong terrorist had planted a bomb on the terrace less than 20 feet away. The bomb failed to explode on schedule, and police seized the terrorist when he returned to find out why. His bomb's failure saved Smith's life.

Men and jet fighters streaming into the Da Nang base to add muscle to the fight against Communist aggression have strained it to its utmost capacity. Troops have mushroomed around barracks buildings and new buildings go up overnight.

RESTING ON RUNWAYS

Resting on the runways are the F100s, the F104s and the Marine Phantoms which give ground support to South Vietnamese forces and carry the war to the north.

Maj. W. W. Irwin of Wenatchee, Wash., commands a squadron of F104s that is based on a runway at California. He reached Da Nang. Less than 24 hours after arrival, he flew his first mission.

Workshops of the Da Nang base are the F100s, from close support to strikes against North Vietnamese bridges and other communications and supply lines.

Squadron Commander J. A. Muesch of Yellowstone National Park pointed out a chart on a hangar wall. It showed that in 32 days U.S. fighter-bombers had dropped more than a million pounds of bombs on Communist targets.

Maj. Ronald Ingraham of Bethesda, Mich., wears the Silver Star for missions coming to the rescue of downed pilots.

BUSINESSLIKE

These are businesslike fighting forces, trained to a demanding profession.

Commanding the Marines whose job it is to protect the base is Brig. Gen. Frederick Karch.

Karch concedes that his forces cannot prevent a suicide mortar attack against the base, either from the Viet Cong or from the Viet Cong-inhabited villages nearby or even from a hidden platform within Da Nang.

But the tough young men under his command daily are pressing their defensive perimeter closer to the green hills which mark the beginning of the mountains and jungle beyond.

They seek contact with the Viet Cong and they are getting it.

You get the impression that they hope the Viet Cong will come out of the hills in a massive strike against them.

This is I Corps, the northernmost of the four military corps in South Viet Nam.

Da Nang is its most tempting target, both for a Communist attempt to humiliate the United States and as a must for Communist victory.

Maj. Gen. Nguyen Chuah Thi, energetic commander of I Corps, believes Da Nang is No. 2 on the Communist list. No. 2 may be the ancient royal capital of Hue.

To the west of Da Nang and Hue lies the beginning of the jungle-covered Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Here, along the border with Laos, the jungle is triple-tiered. The top tier of dense foliage feeds upon the second and its roots never reach the ground.

Somewhere within the jungle is the secret headquarters of the Communist command in I Corps. It remains successfully hidden in a jungle in which a good day's progress may be limited to 75 yards.

AMERICANS SCOFF

Americans scoff at any suggestion that Da Nang could develop into another Dien Bien Phu. The defeat at Dien Bien Phu in 1954 broke the French fighting spirit and ended the war for Indo-China.

The French fought from a jungle and mountain surrounded bowl. The U.S. Marines are backed by the South China Sea and wide open supply lines.

The French fought a colonial war.

Despite huge American aid, this is a Vietnamese war under Vietnamese command.

2 OU Students in High Posts

Two Oakland University students were recently elected state officers of "Circle K," a nationwide college service organization affiliated with Kiwanis International.

Chosen to serve a one-year term as state governor of Circle K was sophomore Robert J. Girardot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Girardot of 408 Second, Rochester.

Visiting all 15 Circle K chapters during the course of his term, Girardot will function as a coordinator for existing clubs and aid in the organization of new ones.

Elected state secretary for the student organization was David Hobson, a sophomore from Falls Church, Va.

Less than a year old, the OU chapter of Circle K has aided in fund raising for the Lost Deafles of Oakland County, an organization aiding acoustically-handicapped children in the area.

The club has also handled balloting in student elections and was responsible for bringing the Flood Bank to the campus.

More than two thirds of Southern Europeans who went to another country to seek work in 1963 went to Switzerland or West Germany.

State Episcopal Group Allows Women Officers

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—The Episcopal Diocese of Western Michigan decided Tuesday to permit the seating of women on its executive council and the election of women deputies to its provincial synod.

The diocese thus became one of the few in the nation to make such office available to women.

A diocesan canon change permitting this was voted at the 91st diocesan convention. The vote was not made public. At the same time the diocese decided to limit members of the standing committee to men only.

Mrs. Donald Spalsbury of Kalamazoo was elected president of the Episcopal Church women of the diocese at its 45th meeting. Mrs. Franklin Sassen of Charlotte was elected first vice president and Mrs.

Donald Kingsley Jr. of Holland second vice president.

A group of lay members and clergymen were honored for services to the church.

The clergymen were the Revs. Donald Carey, Grand Rapids; Donald Gray, Hastings; and William C. Warner, Holland, all for extended years of service.

The laymen were James B. Burr, Robert F. Hooker and John H. Uhl, all of Grand Rapids; Arthur P. Stone, Battle Creek; and Miles A. Cowles, Three Rivers.

Warren Reports on Proposed Sewer

Final drawings and cost estimates are expected by mid-June for a sanitary sewer on Opdyke from the city's sewage treatment plant to the south city limits at Square Lake Road.

City commissioners received a progress report last night on the proposed sewer.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren reported that test borings are now being made and final plans would be presented in about four weeks.

The proposed sewer would serve the projected Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine and proposed residential and commercial developments in the Opdyke-Square Lake Road area.

The osteopathic college is to be built on the southwest corner of Opdyke and Auburn.

COMBINED FACILITY

Cost estimates presented last night on another sewer project. Estimates were presented for a combined sewer in Yale between Carlisle and Baldwin.

The assessed cost will be $6,754, plus sewer stubs at $1,728. The city's cost will be $15,246 with the total cost reaching $23,728.

In other action last night, City Engineer Joseph E. Nepling reported on work started this year on railroad crossings in the city.

He said that Grand Trunk Western Railroad plans to rebuild crossings on Walton, Columbia and West Huron. Also, surface repairs are scheduled for the overpass on Oakland north of Tallahassee.

PUBLIC HEARING

A public hearing was held last night on special assessments for delinquent water and sewer bills.

The city has about $4,000 to be assessed on delinquent bills.

In still other business, the commission passed a resolution commending the efforts of the Baldwin - Walton Community group.

Club in the city's cleanup campaign.

The north side club had over 100 adults and youngsters participate in a cleanup last Saturday. Five trucks were used to haul away debris.

Soviet Arms for Cyprus Obsolete?

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Defense Minister Polycarpus Georgiadis said last night that Cyprus has purchased anti-aircraft rockets from the Soviet Union.

But he dodged a newspaper report that the weapons were never delivered because they were obsolete and useless.

Patris, a newspaper which supports the Greek Cypriot government, had claimed that the rockets were neither purchased nor delivered because they were "useless for the island's defense." Georgiadis issued the following statement:

"The rockets were purchased along with other military equipment from the Soviet Union under favorable terms on the basis of an agreement signed in Moscow between the Soviet and Cyprus governments Sept. 30, 1964.

"The rockets provided in the agreement were sent about the 3rd of December to Alexandria (the United Arab Republic), where they were received by a duly authorized representative of the Cyprus government for shipment to Cyprus.

OBTAINED ADVICE

"We obtained the advice of experts concerning the type of rockets purchased. In any case, the nature of the matter is such that I cannot divulge any more particulars."

Patris said the weapons had a range of only 2½ miles and that Russia demanded $9.8 million for them.

The newspaper said the weapons were similar to others sent to Egypt 10 years ago.

Wixom to Lansing

'Train Robbery' Begins Trip

WIXOM—The Lansing-bound Wixom Thunderbird Special started with more than one bang yesterday as about 360 residents witnessed an attempted "train robbery."

The all-in-fun holdup ushered in a Michigan Week trip to the state capital by elementary school children and senior citizens.

The trip aboard the special train was sponsored by the city and local industry.

Three unidentified "desperadoes" hopped on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad at Wixom shouting, "holdup," much to the delight of the children who were wise to the stunt. Hero of the day was Paul Green, an off-duty city policeman who disposed of the robbers with his trusty six-shooter.

Traveling with the delegation to Lansing were Mayor Wesley E. McAtter, Clerk

Treasurer Elizabeth A. Waara, Deputy Clerk Donna Thorsberg and Justice of the Peace Elwood Grubb.

The group was recognized in both houses of the State Legislature, and each resident shook hands with Gov. Romney and Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken.

While learning about state government, the group also spread the word about activities in Wixom.

With a population of 1,500, the city boasts an employment of 4,500. The Ford Motor Co. makes Thunderbird and Lincoln cars at its Wixom assembly plant.

ONE VISITOR

One of the Lansing visitors from Wixom was Isabell Livingston, 72, of 49345 Pontiac Trail.

Miss Livingston's father, M. C. Livingston, installed the Capitol's first switchboard in 1898. She was then 5.

"Dad used to take me on his shoulders and go up in the Capitol dome," she said.

AREA NEWS

1, 8 P. M. Concerts

Navy Band in Oxford Thursday

OXFORD—The United States Navy Band, which has the reputation of being the world's finest, will give two concerts tomorrow at the Oxford High School Auditorium.

A matinee performance will be presented at 1 p. m. The evening concert will begin at 8.

A capacity crowd is expected for both concerts.

Sponsored by the Oxford Lions Club, the band will be "beefed up" by the addition of several local music students.

Tickets are available from any Lions Club member or at the Parrish Insurance Agency, 24 S. Washington.

NAVY VETERAN

The band will be under the baton of Lt. Cmdr. Anthony A. Mitchell, a veteran of nearly 30 years as a Navy musician.

Joining the Navy in 1936, Cmdr. Mitchell graduated from the Navy School of Music with honors and became a member of the band in 1938.

He later became leader of the Navy dance band and solo clarinetist with the concert band.

Sign-Up Tomorrow for Kindergartners

ROCHESTER—Kindergarten registrations for those children who will be 5 years old on or before Dec. 1, 1965 will be held at Rochester elementary schools tomorrow.

Talks by teachers to acquaint parents with the objectives of kindergarten will be held at 9 a. m., 10:30 a. m., 1 p. m., and 2:30 p. m., in the kindergarten rooms.

Parents are asked to take their prospective kindergarten children to the school at the time of registration to help acquaint them with the school.

Parents with particular questions regarding speech correction should attend the following sessions, at which time a speech correctionist will be present: Brooklands, 9 a. m.; Baldwin, 2:30 p. m.; Highland, 10:30 a. m.; McGregor, 9 a. m.; Meadowbrook, 1 p. m.; North Hill, 10:30 a. m.; and Woodward, 4 p. m.

Michigan Saluted as Place to Work

LANSING (AP)—Michigan turns special attention today to its product of the year and agricultural development of the year and all its other products and developments that provide jobs and payrolls.

This is "Our Livelihood Day" of the 12th annual Michigan Week.

Livelihood Day Chairman Osmond Kelley of Flint says Michigan attracted international attention even back in pioneer days.

"The richness and diversity of this state's opportunities for gaining a livelihood have been exceptional as far back as history goes, accounting for the fact that great nations fought for these peninsulas for centuries," said Kelly.

TRADE SEMINARS

Trying to retain world interest, the State Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring world trade seminars today in Saginaw, Muskegon and Flint. Major speakers will include business leaders who participated in the recent 10-day business hunting tour of Europe, "Operation Europe."

Another similar seminar was scheduled for Thursday in Kalamazoo.

Rochester Jaycees List New Officers

ROCHESTER—A new slate of officers has been elected for the coming year by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Named president of the organization was Paul A. Schuteman of 880 Castelar, Avon Township.

He replaces Peter Vernia, who will serve on the board of directors.

Other officers elected were Robert Jasinski, internal vice president; Ron Tralton, external vice president; Jerry Cannon, treasurer; Roger Wall, secretary; and Alex Formicola, director.

Teacher Unit Picks Officers

LAKE ORION—New officers were recently elected by the Lake Orion Education Association.

They are Mrs. Rosetta LaMagna, president; Mrs. Frances Gaylor, president-elect; Mrs. Myrta Williams, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Cheryl Rupright, treasurer.

Fred Elman and Clint Galbraith were chosen delegates to the regional council and James Hansman was elected delegate to the representative assembly.

Al Flake will be a delegate to the Department of Classroom Teachers.

Gov. George Romney was to present plaques today to the winners of Michigan Week product and agricultural development of the year judging.

Jack Christensen, president of R. J. Enstrom Co. of Menominee, received the product award for his firm's F2B helicopter, and Andrew F. Murch of Dow Plaw received the agricultural development award for his new process of making fruit juices.

The annual Michigan Sports Hall of Fame luncheon was scheduled in Detroit in recognition of the election of three new members former Detroit

Tiger outfielder Leon (Goose) Goslin, Hamtramck tennis coach Mrs. Jean Hoxie, and the late George Lavigne—known as the Saginaw Kid—who was lightweight boxing champion from 1896 to 1899.

High Interest Is Generated in Trade Fair

TROY—The Industrial Trade Fair, planned and sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Michigan Week Committee may exceed expectations, according to Ed Rusin, Chamber president.

The fair is being held today from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. in the Troy High School gymnasium.

Rusin said that about 25 concerns have requested questionnaires regarding display space and particulars on how to qualify for the Chamber's "Product of the Year" award.

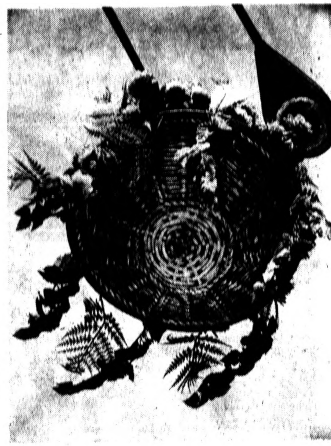

He said that about half of these are expected to exhibit during the fair.

Among those expected to exhibit are AMT Corp., Big Beaver Specialty Co., Clyde Engineering Co., Flex Cable Corp., Ford Motor Co., Michigan Crane, Inc., and Michigan Timber & Truss Co.

Michigan Week Film to Be PTA Feature

AVON TOWNSHIP—Installation of officers and a film in honor of Michigan Week will highlight the Stiles School PTA meeting at 8 p. m. tomorrow at the school, 3976 S. Livermore.

Officers to be installed by Mrs. David Hackett include Mrs. George Dill, president; Mrs. Dan Held, mother vice president; James Grissom, father vice president; and Mrs. Johnson Newell, teacher vice president.

What Is It? (See Column 1)

Citizens' Unit Seeks Signatures to Put Proposal on Ballot Again

ROMEO—A citizens' committee is conducting an organized door-to-door campaign this week to obtain the final 1,000 signatures it needs on petitions to get the school board to resubmit a recently defeated $14 million bond issue to the voters.

Chairman Conrad Friedemann said committee members have managed to get about 1,700 signatures. The goal, he said, is 2,700.

Friedemann said the door-to-door canvass has been organized into districts and that members will only go to homes where there is a voter who has not signed the petitions.

"So far we haven't detected any strong opposition to the proposal," he said, "so we're hope ful of getting the required number of signatures."

If the committee reaches its goal, the petitions will be presented to the school board next Monday. This would enable the board to resubmit the bond issue at the June 14 election.

SIX MONTHS

Otherwise it would be six months under the law before it could again be put to a vote.

The bond issue was defeated April 12 by a 416 to 372 vote.

It was to have been used for additions to the junior and senior high school and a new elementary school near the corner of Campground and 29 Mile.

If it had been successful, the bond issue would have raised school taxes in the district by 3.29 mills ($3.29 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation.)

Iraqi Leader, Balanced on Precarious Perch, Schedules Alliance Talk With Nasser

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Beirut, his regime could fall or under a new president, President Abdel Salam Aref of Iraq has gone to Cairo to talk with President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Aref's prestige in Baghdad has fallen ominously. According to persistent reports reaching Beirut, his regime could fall or under a new president, President Abdel Salam Aref of Iraq has gone to Cairo to talk with President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

The 44-year-old field marshal needs an alliance with Nasser and progress toward the planned union of Iraq and Nasser's United Arab Republic. But Aref also needs to placate the forces in Iraq which regard such a union as betrayal.

Aref's government includes such ardent Nasserites as Interior Minister Subhi Abdel Hamid, Information Minister Abdel Kerim Farhan and the air force commander, Brig. Aref Abdel Izzak.

There are also Iraqi nationalists who would hate to see their relatively prosperous oil country joined with Egypt. Maj. Gen. Tahir Yahya, the premier, may be one of these.

Aref so far has kept a precarious balance between Iraq's quarreling factions. Many observers suspect that personally he is not so strong for union as his words have sounded.

But informants say Aref is more than ever in need of Nasser's support against the growing threats to his regime.

In Iraq's mountainous north, his army has launched another campaign against the Kurds. These non-Arab mountaineers, seeking some form of autonomy, have humiliated Iraqi armies before. Nasser is believed to have advised against resuming the war.

SHIA MUSLEMS
In the south, the Shia Moslems — who form the majority of Iraq's Arab population but are treated as a minority — have become increasingly restless under Aref's rule. An ardent member of the Sunni sect, he has been accused of condoning persecution of other religions, including the Christians.

The economy is in bad shape. The West is not happy with Aref nor is the East. The Soviet Union has criticized the operations against the Kurds. There have been reports that the ousted Baath Socialists, Aref's partners in the 1963 revolution against dictator Abdel Karim Kassem, are now working underground with the Communists who once were their bitter enemies.

POLICE ESCORT — Westchester County Parkway police carry off Mrs. Petra Mueller of Mt. Vernon, N.Y., from the area of a highway widening project in Mt. Vernon. She was one of the demonstrators protesting the destruction of trees, stone bridges and homes. Sixteen persons, including a rabbi, were arrested for refusing to obey police orders.

Rocky Halts Controversial Road Project

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. (AP) Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has ordered a temporary halt on a roadwidening project that has prompted demonstrations by housewives and others seeking to save trees and homes.

The action came Tuesday several hours after police arrested 16 persons, including a rabbi, a New York City transit police captain, the wife of a Westchester County supervisor and two pregnant women.

Fifteen were carried bodily through the debris of fallen trees members of the East Hudson Parkway Authority, officials of the city of Mount Vernon and representatives of the State Public Works Department.

Rockefeller said the contractors would try to develop plans for carrying out the work "with the least disturbance to existing residential and wooded areas."

Some 800 residents met Tuesday night, and organized a committee to prepare for renewed demonstrations next Monday, if a settlement isn't reached.

A threatened stall-in this morning on the Cross County Parkway was called off.

The seven-mile Cross County Parkway connects major highways leading into New York City along the Hudson River on the west side of Westchester County and from Connecticut on the east side.

CENTURIES OLD

The trees — which the residents claim are centuries old and irreplaceable — bridges and homes are the designated victims of a project to make the parkway an eight-lane superhighway along a two-mile stretch bordered by Hunts Woods.

Both Rockefeller and Wilson have homes in Westchester.

Asks Creation of 'Peace by Investment' Corporation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., proposed today creation of a federally chartered corporation — based on the Communications Satellite Corp. idea — to channel private aid to developing nations.

This "peace by investment" corporation would be financed initially by the federal government and later by stock sales of $5 a share to small investors.

Javits said the corporation would be designed to expand by $2.5 billion the flow of U.S. private investment in projects in underdeveloped areas.

The project, he added, might decrease foreign aid expenditures. A bill he drafted for introduction to create the corporation will be sponsored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.; Vance Hartke, D-Ind.; Wayne Morse, D-Ore.; Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.; and Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

Javits said the federal government would provide initial capital funds totaling $50 million. The corporation, during its first six years of operation, could borrow from the Treasury another $500 million, not exceeding $60 million in any one year.

During this initial period, Javits said, the corporation would function as an agency of the federal government but when the original investment is repaid the corporation would transform to private operation and management.

The initial investments would be repaid through the stock sales.

"This corporation could become a major new source of private capital for economically sound enterprises in developing nations," Javits commented.

It would also forge a more direct link between Americans and residents of countries they aid overseas who also gradually diminish," he added.

16 Schools Invited to Compete

Prep Baseball Tourney Teams Learn Pairings Tonight

By JERE CRAIG

Representatives from the largest and perhaps most attractive field ever arranged for the Pontiac Invitational High School Baseball Tournament will meet at City Hall tonight to determine the opening pairings.

There will be two brackets with each having an upper and lower division established for the May 28-June 3 single elimination competition that has 16 invited teams.

This is the first tournament with 16 teams. The previous were limited to eight diamond prep squads.

There will be 7 p.m. contests Friday, May 28; Saturday, May 29; Monday, May 31; Tuesday, June 1; Wednesday, June 2; and Thursday, June 3.

The Pontiac Press - Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department sponsored tourney also will have 1, 2, and 5 o'clock games Saturday and Monday afternoons.

There may be four league champions in the classy field. At least nine and possibly 15 of the entrants will have winning records at tourney time. Pontiac Northern (10-1) has already won the Inter-Lakes title. Lapeer (5-1), Milford (6-5) and Hazel Park (10-5) need only to go unbeaten in their remaining few league tilts to clinch their respective league laurels.

SLIM CHANCES

Romeo (7-3) and Kettering (6-7) both have slim chances of catching Lapeer in the Tri-County race. Hazel Park can sweep the Southeastern Michigan Association title by beating Seasholm tomorrow.

Milford is on less secure footing in the Wayne-Oakland League, but the only three teams able to catch the Redskins-Northville (9-4), Bloomfield Hills (8-4) and Clarkston (8-5) — are also in the tournament.

Defending champion Royal Oak Kimball (5-4) is hurting due to key personnel losses last week but always is tough. The Knights won the tournament the past two years and were 2-0 in the preceding season.

Walled Lake (7-3), runner-up to PNH, also will have a winning mark. Others still capable of entering near 500 include Pontiac Central (5-8), Madison (3-4), Southfield (5-4) and Avondale (5-7).

Only Waterford (4-11) is certain to be well under the break-even level, and the Skippers have lost enough one-run games to have almost reversed their log.

Several factors are apparent even before tonight's pairings are disclosed. Northern will play the tournament's opening night game.

Pontiac Northern and Pontiac Central will be in opposition brackets. PNH likely will be in a grouping with Northville, Hills, Kettering, Hills, Madison, Kimball and Waterford.

The PNH bracket probably will include Lapeer, Southfield, Clarkston, Milford, Hazel Park, Walled Lake and Avondale.

All games will be played at Jayce Park. Ticket details will be announced.

Senators' Barrage Greet's Returning Dressen

Tiger Pitching Riddled, 15-9, by Washington

Relievers Distress Manager; Aguirre Loses; Horton Hits

DETROIT (AP) — Charlie Dressen wasn't pleased with what he saw in his first game in Tiger Stadium Tuesday night. Dressen won't take over as manager of the Detroit Tigers until sometime next week. But it was apparent he was thinking about some of the moves he'll make when he returns.

"They got eight runs off our relief pitchers, didn't they?" Dressen observed in a brief visit to the clubhouse after the Tigers dropped a 15-9 verdict to Washington.

Hank Aguirre was the victim of the Senators' uprising, and suffered his first loss in five decisions.

BIG INNING — "Bill Freehan said Hank had more on the ball than at any time this season," acting manager Bob Swift said. "I kept him in there in the fifth (when Washington scored seven runs) because I thought he could get Frank Howard out with his screwball."

Aguirre might have survived the fifth inning with a 3-3 tie if Jim Northrup had not committed an error.

BOUNCED AROUND — With runners on first and second, Northrup charged Ken McMullen's sinking line only to have it bounce off his glove. He had a chance to force the runner at second, but overran the ball and couldn't get it into the infield in time.

"He should have had the ball," Swift explained. "He was looking at the runner instead of the ball in the first place, then kept looking at the runner and reaching blindly to find the ball when he missed it."

"That's no time to take your eye off the ball," Swift concluded. Howard followed with his homer on a two-strike pitch and Willie Kirkland greeted reliever Phil Regan with a two-run shot after Aguirre had walked Woodie Held.

Al Kaline cracked a solo homer for the Tigers in the third and Dick McAuliffe lofted a three-run shot in the seventh.

Held homered for the Senators in the eighth just a minute before the game was halted for 35 minutes because of rain.

Willie Horton, the league's leading hitter, had a pair of hits, including a triple to center in the eighth which chased home the Tigers' final two runs.

HE'S STILL HUMAN — That's Willie Mays (24) of the San Francisco Giants striking out — something that seldom happens to Willie. The strikeout came in the seventh inning yesterday as Mays and the Giants dropped a 7-6 decision to the Chicago Cubs in a game halted after 7½ innings by rain and darkness. Cubs catcher is Dick Bartell. Mays currently leads the National League with an average of .403. He has clouted 14 home runs and knocked in 29 runs.

Dodgers Spoil Another No-Hitter

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Dodgers are building a reputation as late-inning terrorists. That's when they break up no-hitters.

But the light-hitting Dodgers probably stand a better chance of holding the National League lead than Houston's Ken Johnson does of breaking even on no-hitter decisions.

Johnson, who already has lost a no-hitter, came within eight outs of winning one indoors Tuesday night. He wound up with a ninth-inning shower and a 4-1, three-hit triumph over Los Angeles' Astro-spin.

The victory in Houston's domed stadium was the third against one loss for the veteran right-hander, who pitched a no-hit gem against Cincinnati last season but bowed 1-0 on errors.

CAME CLOSE — The near no-hitter was the second against the Dodgers in four days. Dick Ellsworth of the Chicago Cubs stymied them for 7½ innings last Saturday only to lose 3-1 on the only LA hit, a three-run homer by pinch hitter Al Ferrara.

The loss trimmed the Dodgers' league lead to 3½ games over the Cincinnati Reds, whose game with Pittsburgh was rained out. St. Louis drubbed Philadelphia 12-2, behind left-hander Ray Sadecki. Milwaukee nipped the New York Mets 4-3 and the Cubs downed San Francisco 7-6 in a game halted after 7½ innings because of darkness and rain.

Ring, Nature, Dugout: 'Birdie' Welcomed

CLEVELAND 6-1 — It was hardly fair to a guy who had just been notified that he was rehired as Cleveland Indians manager.

Birdie Tebbets was in a hurry. He was scheduled to speak Tuesday to a newspaper-sponsored American Legion luncheon at a downtown hotel. And he was late.

"Where's the newspaper affair?" he asked in the lobby. "On the 16th floor," he was told.

Birdie, who had just signed a $40,000-a-year pact through 1966, found several writers having lunch with a fight promoter. So he ate. Then Tebbets asked, "Whose luncheon is this?"

"Mine," said the fight promoter. "Where's the Legion luncheon?"

"Probably in the ballroom," he was the answer.

Tebbetts went down 15 flights to the ballroom. A movie was being shown. He stumbled a few times in the dark getting to the speakers' table. The film showed some wild geese in flight.

HE'S READY TO SPEAK — "I'm here," said Birdie, nudging the man next to him. "I'm Tebbets."

A PROBLEM — Defending national driving champion A. J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., has a tire problem. He encountered flaking problems while practicing in his '500 pole position race Monday.

Rules make it mandatory that the same tire brand and type used for qualifying must be used for the race in the Indianapolis '500.

Vikings, Hills Tough

Golf Meet Favors 2

By FLETCHER SPEARS

Walled Lake and Bloomfield Hills golf teams have dominated the Pontiac Press Invitational for the past five years and indications are that one of the two will wear the 1965 crown when the 14th annual outing closes Monday at Pontiac Country Club.

The field of 20 teams will tee off at 9 a.m. Monday for the 18-hole medal play tournament over the 6,365-yard course.

The Vikings of Walled Lake, unbeaten this season, showed their class last Friday by taking the regional title at Burroughs Farms near Brighton and the win qualified the team for the state tournament at Saginaw Saturday.

Leading the Walled Lake team are Jim Gironx, Russ Streeter and Russ Heron, all capable of shooting in the 70s, along with Bud Roman and Tom Maki who can tour the course in the low 80s.

The Vikings won the Press crown in 1960 and grabbed a first in 1963. Bloomfield Hills won in 1961, 1962 and held the top spot last year.

SET RECORD — In winning last year, the Barons set the team tournament record of 385 strokes, and a member of the squad, Ron Hal-den, who has since graduated, carded a 70 to set the individual record.

In regional action Friday, the Barons placed fifth in a tourney won by Birmingham Seasholm.

The Barons have a lot of potential and with a good day they could take the title and lower the records.

All five starters have been averaging rounds in the mid and high 70s.

Leading the team is sophomore Scott Springer (74), followed by Bill Scott (76), Robin Mersky (78), Hal Osterman (78) and Ed Gray (79).

ACE OUT — Northville was an early pick to give the Vikings and Barons a battle for the title, but the Mustangs' leading player, Jim St. Germain, will be playing in the local U.S. Open qualifying tournament at Meadowbrook.

Without St. Germain, the Mustangs still have a lot of talent. Jim Bertoni and Rick Talbot both shoot in the mid 70s and should be contenders for individual honors.

A couple of teams that can't be ruled out are Waterford and Kettering. The PCC course is home for both and the advantage could pay off.

A disciplinary problem cost Milford one of its top shooters and the loss may mean a poor finish for the Redskins in the tourney.

The Skins lost Burke Kingsbury three weeks ago. He was dropped from the squad by the coach following a violation of training rules.

Other teams included in the tourney are Pontiac Northern, Pontiac Central, Lapeer, St. Frederick, Southfield, Oak Park, West Bloomfield, Avondale, Orchard Lake St. Mary, Royal Oak Shrine, Rochester, Clarkston, Clawson and Ferndale.

With only a few lightly regarded teams remaining, Thielman Lanes of Louisville leads the classic division with 6,151.

The Falstaffs, who won the professional title last year with a record of 6,417 total, got off to a slow start Monday when they shot 2,996. They dropped to 2,988 Tuesday night to claim fourth place in the current ABC standings.

FALLEN ANGEL — The wall at Chavez Ravine didn't give last night but the Los Angeles Angels' Jimmie Piersall did. Actually, the speedy left fielder crashed into the foul pole chasing a Minnesota hit. He resumed play after assistance from his teammates but had to be removed soon because of dizziness.

Hurler Fans 6 Straight; Then Nightmare Begins

By United Press International

It's those bases on balls that give pitchers nightmares.

Take Dick Radatz of the Boston Red Sox, for instance. Tuesday night against the Yankees he struck out six consecutive batters but walked the lead-off man in the bottom of the 12th inning and Tom Tresh tripled him home with the winning run in a 4-3 Yankee victory.

The Monster entered the game in the ninth inning in relief of Dave Morehead, who had pitched no-hit ball for six innings.

It was the first time the Yankees beat Radatz in his six decisions against them.

Ray Barker, who had broken Morehead's no-hitter with a single, homered to lead off the ninth. Radatz came in and gave up the tying run on singles by Horace Clarke, Bob Schmidt and Bobby Richardson.

Then the Monster struck out Mickey Mantle, Joe Pepitone and Barker in the 10th, and Clete Boyer, Pedro Ramos and Schmidt in the 11th. The American League record for consecutive strikeouts is seven.

ONE WALK — Then came the walk to Phil Linz, a pop-up and Tresh's smash that hit the auxiliary scoreboard in right centerfield, allowing Linz to leg it all the way in.

In other league action, Cleveland edged Baltimore 1-0. Chicago beat Kansas City 5-4 and Los Angeles defeated Minnesota 3-1.

Fred Whitfield's single in the sixth inning gave Joe Azcue from third base with the only run as Cleveland pitcher Jack Kralik picked up his first victory against two defeats.

Don McMahon finished the last two innings for Kralik, who broke a blister on his pitching hand.

The White Sox, who lead the league, scored five runs in the fifth inning and made them hold up as Kansas City pecked away. Danny Carter, who led the Chicks with three hits, drove in the first run with a two-out single.

Bill Bryan had a home run for the A's. Joe Horlen scattered six hits in picking up his fourth victory in seven decisions.

Joe Adcock's two-run, eighth-inning double was the big blow in giving Marcelino Lopez his fifth victory for the Angels against three losses.

The Angels scored three runs in the inning. The Twins had taken a 1-0 lead in the fourth on Paul Schaal's error, two singles and Jerry King's sacrifice fly. Jim Kaat 3-3 was the loser.

Homers Spark Michigan Win

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Center-fielder Carl Cnejeck drove in five runs on three homers, one a grand slammer, in Michigan's 6-3 baseball defeat of Bowling Green Tuesday.

Cnejeck drove a 420-footer over the centerfield fence with the bases full on three straight walks in the first inning. He repeated by clearing the left-field fence, with a 360-footer with the bases empty in the third.

Held to five hits by Andy Burk and Jim Rosenblatt of their Mid-American Conference rivals, the Wolverines got their last run in the fourth on an unfield hit and shortstop Bob Gillusky's double. Marlin Pemberton went the route for Michigan.

OH, YEAH! Umpire Chris Pelekoudas had some unwanted help with his ball-and-strike rulings last night at Milwaukee. The Braves' catcher Joe Torre offers some advice in the second inning.

Two Share First Place in Women's District Golf

A pair of Birmingham golfers shared the top spot yesterday at Pine Lake Country Club in the opening tournament on the Women's District Golf Association schedule.

Mrs. Dorothy Thompson, playing out of Oakland Hills, and Mrs. John Hume, a member at Red Run, toured the Pine Lake course with 80s to share the honors.

Four players tied for third with 85s, among them Mrs. Charles Fox of Farmington and Mrs. T. M. Werner of Forest Lake.

Mrs. Thompson, runner-up in the WDGA match play tournament last year, carded a 41-39.

Mrs. Leigh LeChair of Barton Hills, WDGA's medal play champion, came through with an 89 to finish well down the list.

The first event on the scheduled attracted 98 players.

In the first flight, Mrs. J. P. Staphinikas of Oakland Hills turned in a 91 to pace the field and Mrs. C. P. Mehas wound up with a low net of 78 to lead the first flight handicap division.

Huron Champ Is Determined

The Felice Quality Market team rules as Huron Bowl Classic champion following its five-game rolloff victory Saturday night over Fontana Brothers.

The Felice entry outbowed Fontana, 4889-4664, in the rolloff led by leadoff man Tom Augello (1001) — the only one to average 200. High game for the five games was the 224 by the losers' Paul George.

Ace Left-Hander Demoted

Yanks Now Have Ford in Bullpen

NEW YORK (UPI)—Whitey Ford accepted this demotion exactly the way you'd expect him to — like a champ.

The Yankees tried to cushion the blow by saying it was only a "temporary" measure and that Ford "may or may not" be back in the starting rotation again next week.

But when you stripped away all the camouflage it boiled down to the fact he was being sent to the bullpen because he wasn't producing.

"I think it's a good idea," Ford said later on, standing in front of his locker.

"If he hadn't told me, I was going to suggest it to him. This isn't the end of the world. Really."

Whitey looked at some of the solemn faces around him and smiled in a valiant attempt to lighten the heavy atmosphere.

"You're smiling outside but not inside," someone said to him.

"Honest, I don't feel that badly about it," Ford replied.

TRY AT HUMOR

Reliever Hal Reniff, who has the locker next to Ford, also tried injecting some humor into the situation. Ballplayers are like that. They even kid about a broken leg.

"You'll love the bullpen," Reniff told Ford. "The fans talk to you all the time. They tell you how to get the hitters out, give you stock market tips and send regards to your family."

"They really keep you up to date, Whitey. C'mon out and see how the other half lives."

Ford grinned again and began buttoning the blouse of his uniform.

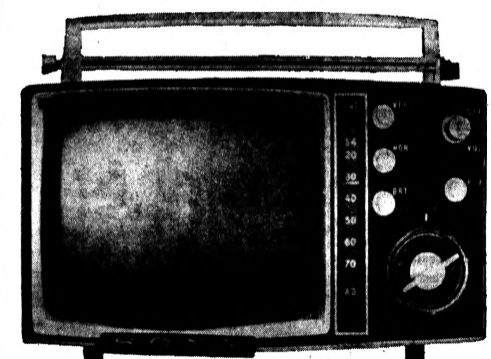

"Working in the bullpen ought to help my control," he said.

"My arm is okay. That isn't worrying me. I'm sure I'll be back starting as soon as I get straightened out. This isn't the first time I'll be in the bullpen. I've been there before. I've done some relieving in the past. Not much actually."

When Ford won 25 games for the Yankees in 1961 and was voted the Cy Young award as the majors' outstanding pitcher that year, for example, he never pitched a single inning of relief.

This year, Whitey finished only one of the eight contests he started for the Yankees, winning only two and losing five. His 6.80 earned run average is the poorest on the staff and no matter how you slice it, the Yankees are worried.

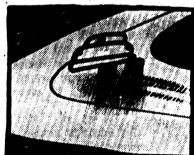

Particularly because of a delicate shoulder operation which Ford underwent in Houston this past winter.

Avondale Halts Rochester '9' in O-A Scrap

Jackets Win, 6-3;
Cranbrook Posts 3-2
Verdict on 2-Hitter

Avondale put a serious damper on Rochester's title bid in the Oakland A. baseball race Tuesday with a 6-3 triumph.

In other pro diamond action, Cranbrook's Steve Hanway won a two-hitter over Flint Central, 3-2; and University of Detroit High nudged Birmingham Brother Rice, 10-7.

Elsewhere St. Frederick nipped Royal Oak St. Mary, 7-6, but St. Agatha moved closer to the Northwest Catholic League title by spilling Cranbrook Our Lady of Sorrows, 7-2.

Cranbrook also won a tennis match, topping Grosse Pointe University School, 4-2, with one singles match called a draw.

In golf meets, Bloomfield Hills prepared for tomorrow's Wayne Oakland League meet by tripping Milford, 150-167; and Watford Kettering dumped Avondale, 172-21.

SCORES EARLY

Rochester scored twice in the first inning aided by doubles off the bats of Bruce McDonald and Dave Call. But Harry Bartowski's hitting brought Avondale back to the victory.

He doubled in the first run and singled and scored in both the fifth and sixth inning rallies by the Yellow Jackets. Dick Reddaway's double tied it for Avondale and he scored the eventual winning run on Frank Gregg's two-bagger.

Rochester now has lost three in the race while Warren Cousins, the leader, has been beaten only once. Avondale is 4-5.

St. Fred pushed its mark to 5-4 by scoring six runs in the third inning and adding the winning marker in the sixth. Rick Hall had two hits and two runs batted in for the Rams.

Hanway lost a two-hitter last Saturday but he was too tough for visiting Flint. He fanned nine and had hitting support from batterymate Bob Foster who tripled in the fifth to tie it; and Rod Davies who plated the winning run in the eighth frame.

The Bloomfield Hills golf win was paced by Gordon Shassberger's par 36 at Highland Golf Course. Gary Quittiquit had a 42 at Bald Mountain to lead Kettering.

Cranbrook swept the doubles against GPUS after losing two singles matches. The fourth singles match was a draw when neither contestant could gain a winning advantage and it grew late.

In League Track Meets

Hills, Oxford Winners

Bloomfield Hills and Oxford ran away with league track championships yesterday.

The Barons from Bloomfield chalked up 72½ points in the Wayne-Oakland meet at Clarencville Milford scored 40, Clarencville 32½, Holly 20, Clarkston 20, West Bloomfield 5, Brighton 3, Northville 0.

Oxford's margin over second place Kettering was about the same in the Tri-County meet on the winners' track. The Wildcats totaled 72 points to 40½ for the Captains.

Romeo was third with 39. Then came L'Anse Creuse with 26 and Lapeer with 9½.

Court Upholds Award for Met's Lefty Spahn

NEW YORK (AP) — The Appellate Division unanimously affirmed Tuesday a lower court decision that awarded Warren Spahn, ace left-handed pitcher, $10,000 in damages for the publication of "The Warren Spahn Story."

The lower court had called the book "an unauthorized intrusion" into Spahn's private life.

Seven records were set in the W-O meet. And Bloomfield Hills claimed four.

The 800 relay team of John Thornburgh, Al Drake, Jim Anderson and Neil Fleming was clocked in 1:33. The Barons' mile quartet of Chuck Garabrand, John Martin, Jeff Nebel and Tom Kearney set another standard of 3:29.35.

Kearney also broke the 440 mark with a winning time of 50.8. The fourth record fell to Hills' Fred Lorentzen in the high hurdles with a time of 15.2.

ANOTHER RECORD

Jim White of Holly set a new mark of 20 seconds in the low hurdles and also won the 100 in 10.4 to be the meet's only double winners.

John Gray of Clarkston topped the high jump standard to 6-2½ and Charles Andrews of Milford broke the shot put mark with a throw of 31.5.

Other winners were Fred Grifflin of Hills in the broad jump (19-6), Bill Murgison of Milford in the mile (4:32.6), Smith of Milford in the pole vault (11-6), Needham of Milford in the 800 (2:01) and Swartz of Clarencville in the 220.

Oxford piled up eight firsts on the way to winning its title.

Romeo missed a chance for second place when Lee Swartz, favored in the 100 and 220, did not compete after the 800 relay because of a leg injury.

Jim Haviland of Kettering, who failed to qualify for the state meet in last Saturday's regional, set a conference record in the high jump by clearing 131 in the pole vault.

Kettering's Tim McGrath set a new record in the high hurdles with a time of 15.3.

School Chief Post Salary Cut

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's first term June 30, receives $17,500.

Sen. Edward Robinson, D-Deerborn, led the fight against the lower figure.

The Senate cut the figure from the $40,000 recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee to $30,000, which matches the salary of the governor.

"Bargain basement Senate," scolded Sen. Roger Craig, D-Deerborn, an advocate of the higher salary.

"This is a slap at the governor while we gripe about not having enough money for school aid," said Sen. Terry Troutt, D-Romulus, of the $40,000 proposal.

The superintendent will be appointed by the board of education under provisions of the new constitution. Elected Superintendent Lynn Bartlett, ending

Rare Look at Industrial Operation

China Plant Rating Ranges From Good to Bad in Tour of 11

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Red China has produced an atomic bomb, but what about its more basic industries? A rare peek into how they operate has been given a Canadian reporter who is on assignment in China.)

By CHARLES LYNCH

PEKING (AP) — They said they were going to show me the bad and the indifferent along with the good, and in their choice of industrial plants for me to visit, the Chinese authorities kept their promise.

I have visited 11 industrial establishments, and within my limited ability to judge such matters have rated three of them good, four indifferent and four bad.

To the layman's eye, it seems clear that the type of industry at which the Chinese are best is the one that involves a continuous process — feeding raw material in at one end and getting finished products at the other. Once your plant is built and your flow of material established, it either works well or it doesn't work at all.

Top rating goes to the No. 3 textile factory in Peking, the Peking coke and chemical factory, and the cable factory in Shenyang.

SENSE OF PURPOSE — These three establishments radiated an efficiency and a sense of purpose.

The coke and chemical plant has the straightforward job of converting coal into coke for industrial use, and producing gas for Peking.

A million tons of coke a year are produced, along with gas, coal oil, benzol, ammonium sulphate, sulphur and photographic hypo. The plant's coal comes from mines within 150 miles of Peking.

With the aid of numerous steam locomotives, it seemed to be doing everything claimed for it, and in a businesslike fashion. AT ITS BEST

The textile factory was industrial China at its best — or perhaps at its worst, in the view of textile manufacturers in other countries who have to compete with it. Women make up 66 per cent of the work force of 5,700. It seems safe to say that never have so many made so much material.

Eighty thousand spindles are at work here, and 3,200 automatic looms, turning out cotton and rayon fabric in equal measures. The noise level is roughly that of Niagara Falls on a windy day.

Daily production comes to 280,000 meters of fabric for domestic use and for export to many countries that will buy. Cartons were leaving for Switzerland.

Hand labor is minimal. Six hundred spindles per worker used to be considered good, but now each worker tends 1,200 spindles. The old quota for looms was 24 to a worker — now it's 32.

AVERAGE WAGE

The average wage is the equivalent of about $35 a month, with numerous fringe benefits including a maternity hospital and a maternity leave of 56 days. Mothers get an hour off a day to breast-feed babies less than 8 months old.

Mrs. Wang Shu-chin, who showed me around, was easily the most competent factory official I have encountered in my travels. But with something as good as this textile factory to show, she could hardly miss.

Almost as impressive was the cable factory in Shenyang in Manchuria — another continuous-process operation where the machines never stop.

There is quite a bit of heavy work and only 25 per cent are women in a force of 4,500. Much of the machinery is Russian, but Chinese workers and technicians seem to master their jobs.

Their claims to have improved on Soviet techniques seem well-founded.

OUTPUT HURT

Yeh Sen, assistant director, said the withdrawal of Soviet technicians and material in 1959 had hurt output — particularly the loss of Soviet supplies vital to the manufacturing process. Domestic supplies were arranged eventually.

To judge by the amount of finished cable stored around the factory buildings — including a lovely garden filled with the stuff — the factory is turning out cable faster than the rest of the economy can put it to use.

The industrial plants that seemed to be doing less than their best include a machine tool factory in Peking, the great iron and steel complex at Anshan, and two plants in Harbin — one making ball bearings and the other turning out measuring and cutting tools.

It was not a question of inefficiency so much as a vague feeling of aimlessness — of going through motions taught long ago, without any sense of real purpose on the part of management or workers.

"BEYOND ME"

The No. 1 machine tool factory in Peking turns out metal milling machines — employs more than 4,000 workers, and claims to produce 2,400 machine tools a year. How they could achieve anything like that output at the pace I saw is quite beyond me. Everybody seemed to be putting about on his own, endlessly sharpening chisels, inspecting drills, or "getting their heads together."

The factory is said to be producing more than 10 types of machines, with new designs coming forward every year, but there is no outward sign of either the versatility or the vitality that would be needed to make good such a program.

The Anshan iron and steel complex, one of the prides of China, has 100,000 workers and functionaries.

Ore from hills around Anshan is smelted and processed into steel, which is rolled into sheets, beams, rails and tubes. There also is a steel wire division — in all, the sprawling plant has more than 40 production departments.

SAFETY PRECAUTIONS

Safety precautions were minimal everywhere. I was flecked with tiny particles of molten steel, my eyes were bleary from peering directly into furnaces glowing, and I felt half-cooked from the intense heat. An overflow of slag from one of the blast furnaces engulfed a good part of the plant floor.

There were nine blast furnaces, but only part of them were in production. Daily production of steel was estimated at 4,000 tons.

The two plants in Harbin, far from being massive on the Anshan scale, represented workers and technicians trying to do a great deal with very little in the way of plant and equipment.

A sort of production miracle is being achieved by the ball bearing factory, which is using the rundown buildings of a one-time Japanese flour mill to turn out bearings on Soviet-made machines. The floors are all crooked and conditions generally are foul, but somehow the machines keep running. There are 7,000 workers, and much of the work is done by hand.

"WE'RE TRYING"

The management admits that its products are not yet up to international standards of durability, "but we are trying to find ways to solve our problems and catch up."

Equally inadequate in their way were the facilities of the measuring and cutting tools plant — a precision operation where things are measured down to invisible tolerances. Here again, it was admitted that the factory lacks experience in management and that there were shortcomings in the work. Li Gu-ming, a former officer in the people's liberation army, is the fifth director the factory has had in 10 years, evidence that the powers that be are aware of the factory's shortcomings.

By JANET ODELL.
Pontiac Press Food Editor.
This is Michigan Week so let's eat some of our home products.

As we have said in the past, we are fortunate to live where we do. We have a tremendous variety of food grown and/or processed in the state.

Michigan is a cereal state. A trip to one of the Battle Creek facilities is something no resident should miss.

Using corn flake crumbs, you can make interesting little breads to serve warm for breakfast.

Cherry Nut Breakfast Squares
1 package dry granular yeast OR
1 cake compressed yeast
1/2 cup warm milk (110-115 degrees)
1 teaspoon almond flavoring
2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup soft butter or margarine

3 cups corn flakes OR
1/2 cup packaged corn flake crumbs
1/2 cup finely chopped maraschino cherries
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup chopped almonds
cup butter or margarine, melted

Soften yeast in milk; add flavoring. Stir flour and salt; cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Stir in softened yeast. Roll out on floured board to 12x10-inch rectangle. Let stand 20 to 25 minutes.

If using corn flakes, crush into fine crumbs. Combine cherries, brown sugar, almonds and corn flake crumbs. Stir in melted butter.

Brush dough with milk; spread with cherry crumbs mixture, pressing firmly into dough. Cut into 2-inch squares; place on ungreased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes. Yield: 2 1/2 dozen 2-inch squares.

Michigan is an apple state. Take a couple of those apples in the refrigerator and put them in this unusual soup.

Curried Apple Soup
2 large sweet onions, peeled, coarsely chopped
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons curry powder
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup cold water
6 envelopes instant chicken broth mix
1 quart hot water
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
1 cup heavy cream
2 apples, peeled, cored and diced
Salt and freshly ground black pepper
Juice 1 lemon
Thin slices unpeeled red apple

Cook onions in butter or margarine until soft but not brown. Stir in curry powder. Blend cornstarch and cold water; add to soup and cook and stir about 1 minute.

Dissolve instant broth mix in hot water; add. Stir over low heat until boiling and slightly thickened and clear. Mix a little of the hot mixture into the egg yolk; return to soup and cook and stir about 1 minute.

Stir cream in. Remove from heat. Add diced apples. Put all through electric blender or press through fine sieve. Add lemon juice. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Reheat a few minutes and serve hot, or chill this soup. To serve garnish with thin slices of unpeeled red apple. Makes 8 servings.

Michigan is a cherry state. Most of the crop in the western part of the state is either canned or frozen.

Here are a couple of interesting recipes for the canned pit-dried sweet cherries.

Dark Cherry Chicken Salad
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1/4 cup mayonnaise

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon curry powder
2 cups diced cooked chicken
2 cups toasted sliced almonds
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1 can (1 pound) pitted dark sweet cherries, drained and chilled
Watercress

Blend sour cream, mayonnaise, salt and curry powder in bowl. Add chicken, almonds and celery; toss lightly. Chill. Toss with cherries. Mound salad on serving plate. Garnish with watercress. Makes 4 servings.

Save the syrup! Add to frozen canned lemonade concentrate for a beverage.

Dark Cherry Mousse
1 can (1 pound) pitted dark sweet cherries
3 cups dairy sour cream
1/2 cup almond macaroon crumbs
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon almond extract

Drain cherries; reserve syrup and 1/2 cup cherries. Chop remaining cherries; mix with sour cream, macaroon crumbs, sugar, and 1/4 teaspoon almond extract. Turn into 1 quart mold; freeze without stirring.

Stir cherry juice into cornstarch and salt; mix in saucepan. Cook and stir until sauce is thickened and clear; add reserved 1/2 cup cherries and 1/4 teaspoon almond extract. Cool thoroughly.

Unmold mousse onto serving plate; pour sauce over top. Makes 6 servings.

IN A LOAF PAN — If you mold your salad in a loaf pan, you can cut nice neat slices for serving. This is a recipe you'll like for warm weather; it's so cool looking and tasting.

Mold Salad in Loaf Pan for Slicing

Molded salads may be a casual mixture of foods or an arrangement of foods in a pattern or design. Both kinds are held together by a gelatin mixture. By far, the simplest to make, and the most popular, is the canned mixture.

Many, many foods can be, and have been, combined in molded salads but, over the years, favorite combinations of flavors have emerged. One of these good-tasting combinations is lime and cottage cheese.

Two new flavors join this favorite combination in the recipe for Lime Cottage Cheese Salad. Diced, canned pears add interesting design to each slice and flavor to each bite. Whipping cream makes each mouthful a smooth taste-treat.

Lime Cottage Cheese Salad
2 3-ounce packages lime-flavored gelatin
2 1/2 cups boiling water
1 cup creamed cottage cheese (1 1/2 pint)
1 1-pound can pear halves, drained and diced
1/2 cup whipping cream, whipped

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Chill until gelatin begins to thicken. Whip gelatin until light and fluffy. Fold in remaining ingredients. Pour into oiled 6-cup mold or 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp salad greens. Makes 8 servings.

Lemon Flavors Oatmeal Drops

Lemon Pecan Oatmeal Drops are those crisp, tender, yet hearty sort of cookies which are excellent for carrying to picnics. They have the wonderful nutlike flavor.

The good grain flavor of rolled oats, like all cereals, makes them suitable for combining with many other foods.

Lemon Pecan Oatmeal Drops
1 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup soft shortening
1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 egg
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 1/2 cups rolled oats
1/2 cup coarsely chopped pecans

Combine flour, soda, and salt; sift into larger mixer bowl. Add shortening, sugars, lemon rind, and juice. Beat at medium speed with electric mixer or by hand until smooth, about 2 minutes. Fold in rolled oats and pecans. Mix well.

Turn level tablespoons onto well-greased baking sheet 2 inches apart. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until done and lightly browned, 10 to 20 minutes.

Remove from baking sheet at once and cool on wire rack. Yield: About 3 1/2 dozen cookies.

Crispy Top Is Contrast to Soft Rhubarb

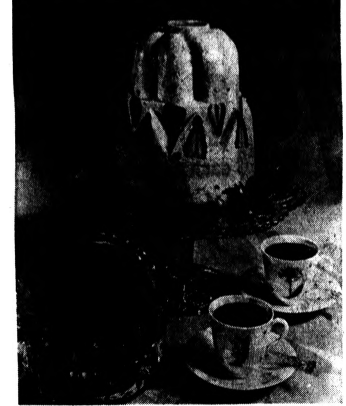

May and June are the big months for rhubarb. In addition to being good to eat, rhubarb is high in vitamins A, B1 and C. Select fresh, large, crisp and straight stalks of red or cherry color.

Rhubarb Crisp
4 cups fresh rhubarb cut in 1-inch pieces
1 medium orange, peeled and sectioned
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon salt
Vanilla ice cream

Crumb Topping
1 cup rolled oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked)
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted

Heat oven to moderate (350 degrees). For base, place rhubarb and orange sections in 9-inch square pan. Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt and orange juice in small saucepan. Cook until thickened and clear, about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour over rhubarb.

For topping, combine oats, sugar and butter, mixing well. Sprinkle over rhubarb. Bake in preheated oven (350 degrees) about 50 minutes. Serve warm.

COOL CLASSIC — Strawberry Bavarian Cream is a pillar of classic French cuisine, perfection for the warm-weather menu. Its component parts — fresh strawberries, whipped cream and unflavored gelatin.

Bavarian Cream Looks Like Fluffy Pink Cloud

In a delightful old nursery rhyme, a gentleman woos his lady by promising that as his wife she will "sit on a cushion and sew a fine seam. And feed upon strawberries, sugar and cream."

Odds are all in favor of the match—an inducement of strawberries, sugar and cream is not to be regarded lightly.

Take these three persuasive elements, add unflavored gelatin, and the whole more than equals the sum of its parts—it becomes delectable Strawberry Bavarian Cream. The dessert is a vivid pink, as airy as chiton, and perfection for the summer menu.

Most food experts believe that the dish was invented toward the end of the seventeenth century by a French cook who practiced his art in some stately home in Bavaria.

Thanks to the convenience of today's unflavored gelatin, even a dish as elaborate as classic Strawberry Bavarian Cream requires little time in the kitchen.

Strawberry Bavarian Cream
3 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup cold water
1 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups (2 pints) mashed strawberries, juice and pulp
2 tablespoons lemon juice

2 cups heavy cream, whipped
Sprinkle gelatin on cold water in a 2 1/2-quart saucepan to soften. Place over low heat, stirring constantly until gelatin is dissolved.

Remove from heat; add sugar and salt and stir until dissolved. Stir in mashed strawberries and lemon juice. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg white.

Fold in heavy cream. Turn mixture into a 2-quart mold. Chill until firm.

When ready to serve, unmold and garnish with fresh strawberries and mint leaves. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

Flavored Milk Coolers Rate High as Thirst Quenchers

"Everyone to his own taste," said the old lady as she kissed the cow! And a tastier group of milk coolers you never tried than these.

Mixing milk, ice cream and any of several flavors can let you please every individual in your crowd.

Be sure to add the garnishes of bits of fruit or marshmallows and striped straws to make these coolers as appealing on sight as they are to taste.

Banana Froth
1 cup mashed bananas
1 cup milk

Baked Frosting Tops Cookies

Bar cookies with a frosting baked right on them are truly delicious without nearly the work that's involved in making a frosted cake. They'll serve the same purpose, though, as the sweet that gives a finishing flourish to a meal.

They're good ones to carry on a picnic.

After baking, let the cookies cool for a few minutes. Then they'll slice without muss if a thin, well-sharpened knife is used.

Butterscotch Bars
1 1/4 cups sifted enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup lard
1 cup brown sugar
1 whole egg plus 1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped walnuts

Baked Frosting
1 egg white
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Cream lard and sugar. Add slightly beaten eggs and vanilla. Add dry ingredients.

Stir in nuts and spread in 12x5-inch baking pan. Beat egg white until stiff but not dry. Add sugar and vanilla to egg white and mix thoroughly. Spread thinly over cookie dough.

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes or until done. Cut. Yield: about 30 bars.

Beef Dish Is Kind You Eat on the Porch

Balmy spring weather makes out-of-doors eating a reality once again. Why not start the trek now with a porch supper?

A ground beef casserole with exotic accents is just the main dish to promote a change in menus and mood. It's a good idea to use a potato masher to break ground beef apart when browning it for this casserole, says meat authority, Reba Staggs.

Beef Casserole Oriental
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
2 green onions with tops, sliced
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1 tablespoon soy sauce
2 medium tomatoes, peeled and cut in eighths
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed mushroom soup
1 can (3 ounces) chow mein noodles

Brown ground beef and onion in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Combine ground beef mixture, salt, pepper, ginger, soy sauce, tomatoes, mushroom soup and chow mein noodles, reserving 1/2 cup noodles for topping.

Spoon into 2-quart casserole. Sprinkle with reserved noodles. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 20 to 25 minutes, 6 servings.

Herbs and Sausage

Shape tiny balls of pork sausage meat about 1 inch in diameter; roll in a mixture of dried marjoram and parsley, blended with a generous dash of nutmeg. Pan-fry slowly about 15 minutes and serve with crisp waffles and maple syrup for breakfast, suggests the American Meat Institute.

1 pint sparkling water, chilled
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Banana slices, unpeeled (optional)
Beat together banana, milk, sugar and vanilla; divide into 4 tall glasses. Mix in a little sparkling water. Add scoop of ice cream to each glass; fill with sparkling water and stir. Garnish glasses with unpeeled banana slice, if desired. Makes 5 cups.

ApricotFizz
1 1/2 cups (12-oz. can) apricot nectar
1 pint ginger ale or sparkling water, chilled
1 pint vanilla ice cream or lemon sherbet
Divide apricot nectar into 4 tall glasses. Mix in a little gin ger ale. Add scoop of ice cream to each glass; fill with ginger ale and stir. Makes 4 1/2 cups.

Fruit Punch Frost
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 pint sparkling water, chilled
1 cup diced fresh fruit
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup pineapple juice
2 tablespoons lime juice

1 tablespoon lemon juice
Fruit kabobs
In a tall glass for each serving combine 1 tablespoon softened ice cream and a little sparkling water; mix well. In a mixing bowl combine combine fruit, sugar and juices; divide into tall serving glasses. Top each glass with scoop of ice cream and garnish with Fruit Kabobs. Makes 5 cups.

Hawaiian Mist
1 cup (8 1/2 to 9-oz. can) crushed pineapple
1 can (6 oz.) frozen pineapple-lemon punch, concentrate, thawed
1 1/2 pints vanilla ice cream
1 1/2 pints sparkling water, chilled

Combine pineapple and fruit punch concentrate; divide into 6 tall glasses, about 2 tablespoons per glass.
Stir in about 1 tablespoon ice cream and a little sparkling water.
Add scoop of ice cream to each glass; fill with sparkling water and stir. Makes 6 cups.

Ever-Favorite Chocolate
1 cup chocolate syrup
1 cup milk
1 pint sparkling water, chilled
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Divide chocolate syrup and milk into 4 tall glasses; blend. Mix in a little sparkling water. Add scoop of ice cream to each glass; fill with sparkling water and stir. Makes 5 cups.

Less for More--Everyone Is Getting on Bandwagon With Low-Calorie Food Products

Americans seem to be eating less and enjoying it more reports the Consumer Marketing Agent, Josephine Lawyer. Not only are Americans eating fewer pounds of food per person, but the market for low-calorie foods has increased considerably.

Dietetic food sections are one of the fastest growing departments in food stores. One trade journal reports a 65 per cent increase in dollar sales of low-calorie foods in the last five years, compared with a 42 per cent increase in all items sold.

It pays to be informed about foods in the dietary department. Some foods may be on these shelves because they are salt-free and not because they are lower in calories in the dietetic tables and tomato juice are examples.

Dietetic foods are usually produced and packed in smaller quantities to that production and handling costs are higher than non-dietetic food.

Low-calorie dietetic foods may contain non-caloric vegetable colloids instead of oils (as in salad dressings). They may be packed in water rather than in oil (as in brine-packed tuna fish).

They may have fat extracted (as in beef slices in barbecue sauce). It's important to read labels on these products and to know what they contain. Some show little calorie difference from their non-dietetic counterparts.

Other foods, such as salad dressing and gelatin desserts reduce calorie values considerably. But is the calorie reduction significant in relation to cost?

A dietetic gelatin dessert may cost 1½ to 2½ cents more per serving than regular gelatin desserts.

Consider whether the calories saved in low-calorie dietary foods are worth the extra cost in any weight control program, fats and sweets need careful watching.

It is possible to plan low-calorie, low-cost meals without using special dietary products that bear additional cost. Careful use of natural low-cost foods can mean both calorie and money savings.

For example, nonfat or low fat milk and cottage cheese made from skim milk are low in calories and cost less than their higher-calorie counterparts.

In some cases, reduced calories result from a smaller quantity. Low-calorie bread, for example, is often simply sliced more thinly.

The calories per ounce are practically the same in all breads, so the difference between a 75 or 45 calorie slice is determined by how thinly the bread is sliced.

It pays to be informed when deciding whether to buy low-calorie dietetic foods. Let labels and cost influence your selection.

LBJ's Labor Legislation Proposals May Lock Him in Rough Battle With Congress

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's proposals for new labor legislation — including repeal of a provision of the Taft-Hartley Act — may lock him in a rough battle with Congress. At least the signs point that way.

The President could be caught in a political cross-fire between those who think he is asking too much and those who want more. Johnson asked Congress, Tuesday for legislation extending coverage of the minimum wage to 4.5 million workers, requiring payment of double time for some overtime, providing federal benefits for the long-time unemployed and repealing section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

That's the section that permits states to outlaw the union shop in collective bargaining agreements. Nineteen states have such laws.

NO. 1 GOAL

Organized labor has made repeal of 14B its No. 1 political goal, and it can't be too happy over the way Johnson made the request to Congress.

He used hundreds of words arguing for his minimum wage, double time and unemployment insurance proposals, but devoted only the last sentence of his message to 14B. He was recommending its repeal, he said, "with the hope of reducing conflict in our national labor policy."

Any such reduction will come only after greatly increased conflict in Congress, particularly in the Senate. If anything can revive the Republican Southern Democratic coalition that civil rights legislation has sundered, it is a proposal to repeal 14B.

Ten of the 19 states with laws banning the union shop are in the South. The rest are in the publican strongholds in the West and Midwest. Although labor strategists claim a bare majority of the Senate in favor of repeal, getting the bill to a vote over the determined opposition of such a sizable opposition is bound to be extremely difficult.

DEM MAJORITY

In the House, with its big Democratic majority and its debate-limiting rules, victory is more likely. "But Johnson is going to have to get in and fight if he really wants it," said a Democrat who will have to help handle the bill.

The prospect for Johnson's other proposals is not much better. Congress showed no enthusiasm for the double time or minimum wage extension provisions last year, and bills for federal unemployment insurance standards have a long history of failure.

It is on the minimum wage issue that Johnson may catch it from liberals. He failed to recommend any increase in the present hourly rate of $1.25, leaving the matter to Congress after cautioning it to consider the effect of an increase on costs and prices.

With labor clamoring for an increase, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., stepped quickly into a position of leadership on the issue. Speaking to a convention of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, AFL-CIO, in Miami Beach, he urged an increase to $1.50.

DECENT LIVING

Kennedy said the country can afford such an increase at once, with "further increases compatible with our competitive positions and our advancing standards of decent living."

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz launches the fight for repeal of 14B before a House Labor subcommittee Monday. It could be the start of a long, hot summer for Johnson in his relations with Congress.

Administration Fires 1st Shot in War on Mail-Order Gun Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration today opened its fight for a bill to curb mail order traffic in guns with a charge by Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach that the National Rifle Association has used "misleading" and "preposterous" arguments against the measure.

Katzenbach, lead-off witness before the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee, devoted a considerable part of his prepared statement to a point-by-point rebuttal of NRA objections to the legislation.

The bill, Katzenbach said, is designed "to help the states protect themselves against the unchecked flood of mail-order weapons to residents whose purposes might not be responsible, or even lawful."

The principal provision of the bill would prohibit unlicensed persons from transporting, shipping or receiving firearms in interstate or foreign commerce.

The attorney general said that the NRA, in a letter urging its 700,000 members to pressure congressmen and senators to oppose the bill, warned that "if the battle is lost, it will be your loss, and that of all who follow."

Said Katzenbach: "It is impossible for me to understand the NRA's view of what battle is being fought and what the stakes are. In my view we are all joined in a nationwide battle—a battle against rape and robbery and muggings and murder—and the stakes are public order and safety for every citizen."

"In a country in which more than half the 8,500 murders each year are committed by firearms, many of them assuredly obtained by mail, congressional action is called for now," the attorney general said.

He contended the NRA's argument that the measure could lead to elimination of "the private ownership of all guns" is "not conceivable. I am compelled to say that there is only one word which can serve in reply to such a fear—preposterous."

DUE TO FOLLOW

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and Secretary of the Army Stephen Allen were due to follow Katzenbach before the subcommittee, whose chairman, Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., has urged a limitation of mail order gun sales for several years.

The proposed legislation would require retail gun dealers to limit sales of handguns to residents of their states, raise the annual license fee for dealers and manufacturers and give the secretary of the treasury discretion on who should be licensed to manufacture, import or deal in deadly weapons covered by the federal firearms act.

"A major advance under this bill would be to curb the great, unrestricted volume of imported weapons; about a million are imported each year," Katzenbach said.

He said "I really cannot understand why the legislation we are talking about should seem a threat at all to sportsmen, hunters, farmers and others who have a productive or necessary or enjoyable interest in the use of rifles, shotguns or sporting handguns."

U.N. Health Unit Committee OKs Resolution on Expulsion of Nation for Race Bias

GENEVA (AP) — African and legal committee by a vote of 59-27. The resolution was aimed at South Africa, which already has won preliminary approval of a resolution authorizing expulsion by a simple majority of any country considered guilty of racial discrimination. A two-thirds majority now is required.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — More than 1,600 children were evacuated from the Bangkok WIDO administrative financial International School today after an anonymous telephone caller said a bomb had been placed in a locker. Bomb demolition teams from the U.S. military advisory group found no bomb.

LONDON (AP) — The cost of living in Britain jumped 2.1 points in April, the Labor Ministry's index of retail prices showed today. The rise — from 109.9 to 112 — was the largest one-month increase since 1955. Since the national election which put the Labor party in power in October the cost of living has gone up 4 points.

Higher taxation in the recent budget was responsible for much of the latest increase.

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — The Presbyterian Church of Scotland agreed at its General Assembly Tuesday to allow women to be elders of the church if a majority of the presbyteries agree and next year's assembly ratifies the decision. The assembly also agreed to allow its panel on doctrine to prepare a report on the possibility of admitting women to the ministry.

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland says it "intends to take further steps with the U.S. government" in connection with the defection of Wladislaw Tykocinski, chief of the Polish military mission in West Berlin. Pap, the official Polish press agency, accused U.S. military police and West Berlin police of trying to pressure Tykocinski's wife to defect with him. The agency called Tykocinski's defection "an act of treachery against the state."

Tykocinski was the second member of Poland's diplomatic colony to defect this month. Marek Radomski, 19, son of the Polish economic attache in East Berlin, asked for political asylum in the West on May 5.

ROME (AP) — An anonymous telephone call led police Tuesday night to a stolen 16th century painting worth $120,000 with it was a note saying it was taken on a bet.

The 11-by-14-inch oil portrait of a girl by Dutch artist Jan Van Scorel was stolen Sunday from a private gallery in the Doria Palace.

The caller told police to go to a church where they would find "something very precious wrapped up."

Thousands Turn Out for Queen in Bonn

BONN, Germany (AP) — Thousands of Germans turned out today to cheer Queen Elizabeth II on her round of ceremonial honors in West Germany's capital.

Elizabeth, Elizabeth II, chanted the crowd in the market square in front of city hall when she came to sign the golden book of Bonn. The solemn tones of "God Save the Queen" quieted the crowd as the queen stood on the outside stairway balcony.

She smiled and waved a gloved hand as she turned to enter the building and the crowd cheered and waved thousands of paper British and German flags.

Before getting to city hall the queen and her husband, Prince Philip, stopped to place a wreath on a memorial to "victims of wars and tyranny."

Erected last year, the simple black plaque with gold lettering faces a broad lawn in the university park where a crowd of several thousand, mostly women and children, had gathered.

The queen wore a light green coat and white hat. She gently touched the wreath of lilies after military aides had put it in place and stood solemnly while a trumpeter played the German funeral and memorial anthems, "I Had a Comrade."

Skies were cloudy and weather chilly. Police estimated 10,000 persons lined the narrow streets and squares of Bonn by the time she arrived at city hall. The market square was about half full.

Romney Verdict on 2 Generals Due Tomorrow

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. George Romney was expected to hand down a final verdict tomorrow in the National Guard case that has held the careers of two general officers in limbo for the last seven months.

At stake were the future careers of Michigan Adjutant General Maj. Gen. Ronald D. McDonald, and Quartermaster General Brig. Gen. Carson H. Neider.

NY Police Chief Resigns Post

NEW YORK (AP) — Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy, who resisted demands by civil rights groups for civilian review of complaints of police brutality, has resigned to become president of the National Automobile Theft Bureau.

Murphy, 51, announced his resignation at a news conference Tuesday. The announcement came a few hours after a City Council subcommittee had recommended the creation of a permanent council committee on police affairs to "spot check" and, when requested, to review decisions of the Police Department Civilian Complaint Board. Murphy said his resignation had "absolutely nothing to do" with the subcommittee proposal. He said he had been negotiating for the job since March 10.

"It's only a coincidence that the report came out the same day," said Murphy.

He said his new post, which he will assume July 1, "is an opportunity to myself and to my family that I can't afford to say no to. The life of a police commissioner gives me no time for family life. I have young children I want to be with them."

Murphy is a native New Yorker who has headed the 27,000 man force — the largest in the nation — since February 1961. Murphy's last two years have been punctuated by intense civil rights activity, including rioting in Harlem and Brooklyn last summer and accusations of police brutality.

The fatal shooting of a 15-year-old Negro boy by an off-duty white policeman was the forerunner to the Harlem and Brooklyn rioting. The killing of several Puerto Ricans by police in separate other incidents aggravated the situation.

Civil rights groups and most reform Democratic leaders have urged the creation of an external review board, charging that the departmental body has been biased and ineffectual in dealing with police brutality complaints.

No Revision in U.S. Economic Forecast Despite Sparkling 1st Quarter Performance

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers said today the government has not revised its 1965 economic forecast despite an unexpected high rate of expansion in the first three months.

"After such a quarter," Otto Eckstein said in a speech prepared for the National Association of Purchasing Agents, "it is easy to put on rose-colored glasses."

"But for the remainder of the year, the quarter-to-quarter gains that we can realistically expect will be considerably smaller," he said.

PREDICTION

The council has predicted that the gross national product, the sum of all goods and services produced, will rise from $623 billion in 1964 to $660 billion this year. In the first quarter, the rise was $112 billion, considerably more than expected.

Eckstein said that the abnormally high rate of automobile production and strong steel buying induced by a strike threat were the major factors in the rise.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rt. Rev. William F. Creighton, Episcopal bishop of Washington, has indirectly criticized FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover for deceiving what he called the "bleeding heart" concern of some judges for youthful offenders.

Bishop Creighton, in a luncheon speech Monday, did not mention Hoover by name. But he referred to "one very prominent American" and "many months ago" who "deserved men of compassion as 'bleeding hearts'."

Abusing people with "bleeding heart" epithets, the bishop said, was "a sickness of our times."

Hoover, in an interview last Nov. 18, attacked "bleeding heart" judges in discussing lawlessness in big cities, including Washington. He elaborated in a Nov. 24 speech at Loyola University, Chicago, by criticizing "the bleeding hearts, particularly among the judiciary," who he said "are so concerned for young criminals that they become indifferent to the rights of law-abiding citizens."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., invited critics of his "truth in packaging" bill today to visit a supermarket.

"It doesn't take an expert to find plenty of deliberate confusions, psychological traps and outright deceptions," the Michigan Democrat said in a speech prepared for an AFL-CIO community conference here.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, noting that some of his best friends are newspaper people, says the news media have an important role in the modern world.

"In this changing world, there is an increasingly vital role to be assumed by news media in the self-analysis, self-criticism and self-understanding so essential in the success of the democratic society," Johnson said at a presentation Tuesday of journalism awards to college students.

He noted jovially that some of his advisers as well as his wife first made their mark on college newspapers.

Johnson called journalism a profession "very vital to our democracy."

New Minting of Silver Dollars Is Expected to Be Gobbled Up

By RICHARD F. WHALEN
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK—Silver cartwheels are scheduled to roll out of the Denver Mint soon, but they'll probably roll right into the pockets of souvenir hunters and speculators and never be seen again.

The 45 million silver dollars would be the first to be minted in three decades. They should be worth at least $2 each, coin dealers say.

"It's ridiculous," said Tom

Wass, president of International Numismatics Corp., Tuesday. "Everybody's crying about the silver shortage and now the government's throwing away $45 million on silver dollars nobody needs."

JOINS ATTACK

Benjamin Stack, a partner in Stack's Coin Co. and a member of the U.S. Assay Commission, said: "I'm absolutely stunned. Those silver dollars will never even get into the collectors' hands, much less the public's."

The speculation will be tremendous. It will be an absolute mess."

The speculators would be betting on an increase in the price of silver or in the numismatic value of the dollars.

The Silver Users Association, an industry group, also believes that the new silver dollars would disappear immediately. Even silver producer interests indicated surprise at the order for minting them.

The Treasury and Federal Reserve System said they have not yet worked out a plan for distribution. Coins normally go through the Federal Reserve System to the nation's banks.

GAVE ORDER

President Johnson gave the go-ahead to make the silver dollars over the weekend, noting that Congress appropriated $600,000 for the minting last year and adding: "It has always been my intention to carry out the will of Congress as soon as feasible."

The silver-producing states of the West traditionally have been vocal in demands for silver dollars.

Silver, however, is in such short supply that even if the United States eliminated silver from all coins, industrial demand would still far outstrip the production of mines. The government's dwindling stockpile has been filling the supply gap. The Treasury is expected to disclose soon its recommendations for reducing or eliminating silver in dimes, quarters and half dollars.

DISAPPEARANCE?

John B. Stevens, chairman of the executive committee of the Silver Users Association, said:

"The 45 million silver dollars to be minted in the next six weeks will immediately disappear unless the speculative interest in silver is removed. This can only be accomplished by completely eliminating the use of silver in all subsidiary coins."

The mint turned out more than 855 million cartwheels between 1944 and 1955, but none is in general circulation today. Coin dealers ask as much as $130 for even the most common specimens.

Johnson directed the Denver Mint to produce the silver dollars by June 30. Fern Miller, superintendent of the mint there, said she doesn't know yet when production will start.

Tensions Ease in Dispute Over Jordan River Waters

JERUSALEM (AP)—An Arab-Israeli conflict over the Jordan River waters still threatens the Middle East, but tensions have eased in this capital.

The easing is attributed to the Arab world split over Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba's moderate views toward Israel, successful Israeli armed attacks on Syrian projects to divert the Jordan River and Israel's armed forces, now completely mechanized and strengthened up with American antiaircraft missiles and other new weapons.

Premier Levi Eshkol in an Independence Day speech May 6 cautioned his countrymen, how ever, that nothing as yet has happened to justify any slackening in Israel's efforts to "create the military potential required to avert war and repel aggression."

These efforts, he said, should be continued "much as we should like to draw encouragement from every manifestation which may hold out hope for a change toward peaceful coexistence" with the Arabs.

TERRITORIAL VIOLATION

Eshkol and other leaders warned the Arabs after they announced plans to divert the Jordan River to prevent the Israelis from getting their share of the water.

"Any violation of our water rights will be interpreted as a violation of our territory," said Eshkol.

There seems little doubt the Israelis will continue to smash at any Arab construction equipment used in the Jordan diversion scheme.

Two such Israeli attacks—the most recent last Thursday—on Syrian diversion operations near the Israeli border have been termed successful here.

HIT EQUIPMENT

Israeli artillery and tank fire hit bulldozers and other equipment. The first attack in March halted diversion operations. When the Syrians resumed work, the Israelis hit the site again.

Also in their favor, say Israelis, is the disparity in Arab ranks.

Israel showed off its new army at an Independence Day parade. The display of military brawn was an obvious warning to the Arabs. Besides the missiles, the Israelis paraded new radar-controlled antiaircraft guns, a new 160mm mortar and redesigned Sherman tanks, armed with 165mm guns.

But the air force stole the show. Sixty French Mirage jets, followed by a formation of Vautour assault bombers, transports, helicopters and light planes flew above the Tel Aviv parade route.

Death Claims Leftist

Noted Artist Dies

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—Marvin Cone, 73, a noted artist whose paintings have been exhibited in the nation's major art galleries, died Tuesday after a year's illness. Cone, who was a colleague of the late artist Grant Wood, was on the faculty of Coe College from 1919 until 1960.

Beetle War Has Military Look

DOWAGIAC (AP)—Anybody who thinks that aerial insecticide spraying involves only the dumping of a few barrels of bug killer from a plane is vastly mistaken.

Aerial spraying, as recently demonstrated in a Cass County operation against the cereal leaf beetle, takes on almost the complexity of a military bombing and strafing run.

It involves a study of wind conditions, temperature, use of a radio system between ground support and the planes, detailed maps, and markers showing the pilots where to release the deadly spray.

The Cass County operation was carried out by the Michigan Department of Agriculture co-operating with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

ADVISING PILOTS

Don White of Benton Harbor was in charge.

A large trailer housed ground operations at Dowagiac Airport. A radio and telephone operator and a dispatcher were constantly advising pilots on how they were doing.

The base operators also kept track of the sprayed sections with the help of multi-colored maps.

Small captive balloons, called "ty-koons," plus a jeep with a powerful beacon light, were used by field men to guide the planes to the right acreage.

Two single-engine converted Navy torpedo bombers were used to cover large areas. A small Piper Pawnee was used to spray small fields, and it was used in more heavily populated areas.

The planes usually took off shortly after dawn to give maximum flying time, but on a few days they were grounded by early morning because of increasing winds.

The contract was awarded to the H.V. Flying Service of Hemet, Calif., low bidder on the project.

More Teacher 'Sit-Ins' Said Possible, Not Probable

By the Associated Press

Are other Michigan cities faced with potential teachers' sit-ins in demonstrations like the one which closed Hamtramck's public schools recently?

A sampling of educators around the state indicates there is virtually unanimous agreement that "it could happen here—but it's not likely to."

Although an Associated Press survey turned up an undercurrent of dissatisfaction in some districts, teachers' school board relations generally were described as "good to excellent" in most areas.

The Hamtramck demonstration last month kept some 4,000 students from their classrooms and was denounced by critics as an illegal strike which violated the Hutchinson Act, a state law prohibiting such action by public employees.

HOLDING 'SIT-IN'

But the demonstrators' members of the Hamtramck Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO) contended they were merely holding a continuous "sit-in" union meeting when they moved into a school building and stayed there around the clock for more than three days to support their demands for higher salaries.

The Hamtramck group is part of the Michigan Federation of Teachers (MFT), which has been engaged in a struggle with the Michigan Education Association (MEA) for control of bargaining rights between teachers and school boards.

"Because of the action by the Hamtramck teachers," said one education board member in Jackson, "the MEA and the National Education Association (NEA) will become much more militant because they feel they have to do this or lose a lot of teachers to a regular trade group."

In Jackson, he added, "I think we're going to try to prepare the groundwork for any bargaining that may come up so it will be done in a reasonable sort of way—and so teachers won't feel they have to force the issue of things which are threats in order to talk with the administration and board."

"I don't think there's any sense in saying they cannot belong to anything smacking of a union."

An even stronger view supporting teachers' rights to bargain for pay increases and other benefits came last week from the new State Board of Education.

BASIC PRINCIPLES

The eight-member, all-Democratic board unanimously adopted a statement of basic principles which called for repeal of the Hutchinson Act and in effect supported the right of teachers to strike.

Most Michigan cities have not yet felt the brunt of the power struggle between affiliates of the teachers federation and the education association, although the federation won the right to represent Detroit's 10,000 school teachers last year threatening a strike.

Most association spokesmen deplore strike talk among teachers, preferring what they call "sanctions" to gain improved standards. Sanctions can include refusal to sign annual contracts.

Ray MacLoughlin, executive secretary of the Flint Education Association, said he believed the action of the Hamtramck teachers' union was both illegal and unethical.

DOMINANT GROUP

"It is to be noted that the union has been the dominant group in Hamtramck for 25 years, and that they have been unable apparently to devise successful negotiation procedures within the law," MacLoughlin said.

I would most earnestly trust that similar action will not be forthcoming in Flint. It should be understood by Flint citizens that nearly 60 per cent of Flint's teachers are more poorly paid than were the teachers of Hamtramck, and that the remainder of Flint teachers are only a little better paid."

MacLoughlin said he would do what he could to achieve better conditions for Flint teachers by legal means. But he added:

A DASHING HOUND—A skateboard is just the thing for a dachshund to knock around town on. Tina, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Hutchinson of Madison, Wis., finds the board fits snugly over and aft. If she could only learn to ride the thing, she could keep up with a greyhound.

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—Everett V. Lee, 45, of 5672 Virginia, died yesterday. His body is at the C. J. Godhardt Funeral Home, Keego Harbor.

Mr. Lee was an employee of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. Surviving are his wife, Naomi E., a son, Gary E., stationed at 39 Leola, Waterford Township at 10 a.m. tomorrow in Voorhees-Siple Chapel with burial in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

Surviving are the parents; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee, both of Pontiac,

"It is most unfortunate that under existing law there is no means for teachers to negotiate with a board of education that chooses to be dictatorial, or with a community that chooses to ignore the needs of their teachers."

MacLoughlin contended that one of the most unfortunate consequences of the Hamtramck action was "the apparent breakdown of law enforcement."

"One of the reasons for this was the undoubted fact that the penalties provided by law are far too harsh," he said.

Under the Hutchinson Act, any government employee who engages in a walkout "shall thereupon be deemed to have resigned and shall no longer hold such position."

The law says the dismissed employee can be rehired, but only with the loss of pension and seniority rights, with no pay raise for one year and with probationary status for two years.

TEST UNLIKELY—From Menominee to Kalamazoo and from Ann Arbor to Traverse City, the likelihood of the Hutchinson Act being tested by a teachers' walkout in the near future appeared dim.

Asked whether a Hamtramck-type demonstration could occur in their district, here is a cross-section of comment from educators, school board members and education writers.

"Relationships among the teachers, administrators and board members are such in Kalamazoo that extreme action in salary situations seems less than a remote possibility. Communication is open and operating, and decisions are reached through co-operative planning."

—Dorothy Rothrock, supervisor of publications and parent group relations, Kalamazoo Public Schools.

"Under the right circumstances, a strike could occur anywhere. But there is no indication local teachers have even thought along these lines, much less given consideration to a similar move." —Bruce McCrea, Muskegon Chronicle.

ROBERT P. LEWANDOWSKI

TROY—Service for Robert P. Lewandowski, 21, of 6006 Donaldson will be 10 a.m. Saturday at Price Funeral Home. Burial will be in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery.

Mr. Lewandowski died yesterday after a long illness. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Retherath of Troy, and one sister, Rosemary at home.

His body will be at the funeral home after 2 p.m. tomorrow.

GEORGE MATHIESON

OXFORD—Service for George Mathieson, 87, of 65 Pleasant will be 2 p.m. Friday at William Sullivan and Sons Funeral Home, Royal Oak. Burial will be in Oakview Cemetery with Masonic graveside service by F&AM Lodge 464, Royal Oak.

Mr. Mathieson died this morning after a long illness. He was a former conductor-dispatcher and assistant superintendent for the Detroit United Railroad, and a former state representative from the 4th District.

He was also a member of Royal Oak Elks Lodge No. 1523, an honorary member of Royal Oak Rotary Club, past patron of Order of Eastern Stars Chapter 167 and Royal Oak Lodge No. 464 F&AM and a member of Masonic Shrine, Detroit.

Surviving is one brother, Charles of Oxford.

MRS. JOSEPH POTULSKY—ORION TOWNSHIP—Service for Mrs. Joseph (Helen) Potulsky, 65, of 3886 Morgan, will be 11 a.m. Friday at St. Michael's Church, Pontiac. Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery, Pontiac.

Mrs. Potulsky died yesterday after a long illness. She was a member of St. Michael's Church.

Surviving besides her husband is one son, Leonard of Clarkston; five sisters, Mrs. Ollie Barber, Mrs. Lucille Chojnacki, Mrs. Bruno Pacer, all of Clarkston, Mrs. Charlotte Morris of Pontiac and Mrs. JoAnne Chojnacki of Detroit; two brothers, Paul Poli of Ortonville and Norbert Poli of Oxford; and two grandchildren.

Arrangements are being handled by Hutton Funeral Home.

MRS. THEODORE WEDYKE—TROY—Service for Mrs. Theodore (Dorothy) Wedyke, 49, of 876 Robinson will be 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Price Funeral Home. Burial will be in Accacia Park Cemetery, Birmingham.

Mrs. Wedyke died suddenly yesterday. She was a member of the VFW Auxiliary, DeWolfe Drenon Post 4037, Troy.

Surviving besides her husband are her mother, Mrs. Blanche Proctor of Detroit and one sister.

sequences of the Hamtramck action was "the apparent breakdown of law enforcement."

"One of the reasons for this was the undoubted fact that the penalties provided by law are far too harsh," he said.

Under the Hutchinson Act, any government employee who engages in a walkout "shall thereupon be deemed to have resigned and shall no longer hold such position."

The law says the dismissed employee can be rehired, but only with the loss of pension and seniority rights, with no pay raise for one year and with probationary status for two years.

TEST UNLIKELY—From Menominee to Kalamazoo and from Ann Arbor to Traverse City, the likelihood of the Hutchinson Act being tested by a teachers' walkout in the near future appeared dim.

Asked whether a Hamtramck-type demonstration could occur in their district, here is a cross-section of comment from educators, school board members and education writers.

"Relationships among the teachers, administrators and board members are such in Kalamazoo that extreme action in salary situations seems less than a remote possibility. Communication is open and operating, and decisions are reached through co-operative planning."

—Dorothy Rothrock, supervisor of publications and parent group relations, Kalamazoo Public Schools.

"Under the right circumstances, a strike could occur anywhere. But there is no indication local teachers have even thought along these lines, much less given consideration to a similar move." —Bruce McCrea, Muskegon Chronicle.

"The need is eminently clear for passage now of House Bill 2450, the Professional Negotiations Act. Had this act been the law, it is unlikely that any such illegal action as that in Hamtramck would have occurred."

The conditioning of illegal acts and failure to act on any such demands brought two results—an immediate economic gain to 150 teachers, and a dramatic demonstration to old and young alike, both in and out of school, that the law is made to be broken."

"If it can happen here, why can't it happen there?"—Wendell Hills, Hillsdale Community Schools superintendent.

"Both teachers and school board members replied (with a definite 'No'). This takes, said, a lot of bitterness over a long period of time."—Carl Olson, Radio Station WCCO, Traverse City.

"A demonstration of this nature could occur—but it is not likely in our school district."

—Bradley Henson, assistant principal of Adrian high school and president of the Adrian Teachers Association.

"Such a demonstration can occur anywhere. However, it would not anticipate that it would happen in our community (Ann Arbor). The potential is always there, but our board of education and the administration are available for discussion at any time on these kinds of problems if they happen."

—Jack Elzy, Ann Arbor school superintendent.

PROFESSIONAL CHARACTER—"I do not believe so, not unless the professional character of the faculty changes," —Menominee superintendent of schools.

Among school administration officials—principals and superintendents—there was general, by unanimous denunciation of the Hamtramck action.

LEVELS RAISED—From an old salary scale ranging from $5,000 a year to $7,650 after 12 years, the levels were raised to $5,200 a year to $8,400 after 11 years. Teachers with a master's degree were paid an additional $300 at all levels under the old scale, and will get $400 now.

Around the state, the new Hamtramck salaries are higher than in most cities.

In Bay City, for example, the pay scale will be raised from the present minimum of $4,200 to $5,000 for beginners with bachelor's degrees.

Paul Rowley, president of the Bay City Board of Education, said:

STATE STANDPOINT—"From a state standpoint, we stack up fairly well. But that doesn't preclude the opportunity to make progress. We don't want to fall behind again. That's what we did before and got into a bind. But the ability to pay is directly tied to the support of people of the community."

Menominee's pay scale is $4,800 for beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree, $5,100 for those with master's degrees.

Reineck will sub for City Clerk Mrs. Olga Barkley, who will be attending a five-day convention in Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Barkley, gray-haired and petite, handles the commission with a ladylike gentleness.

Reineck, however, has credentials to command the attention of the commissioners. He was a 20-year veteran of the U.S. Army, retiring with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

In his two years at City Hall, Reineck has been administrative assistant, "interim" city manager, city manager, personnel director and personnel officer.

the Hamtramck teachers' action. Most school board members included in the sampling all were critical of the walkout, but some teachers took a more sympathetic view.

The Menominee superintendent said the local reaction was one of "disgust with the unprofessional display of alleged professional people, largely because of the effect it has on boys and girls—there are other avenues and methods of approach."

But Menominee teachers said the reaction was pro and con among their colleagues.

In Battle Creek, Enquirer-News Editor Walter D. Hinderliter reported that teachers there "generally seem to deplore the 'bad image' given by the Hamtramck affair."

MOST HORRIFIED—"At least, most of them are horrified at the thought of such demonstrations here," he added.

Mrs. Jane Dagwell of the Midland Daily News said the reaction locally, according to one educator, was one of disdain for the situation which brought it about.

James Janowicz, president of the Bay City Education Association, said teachers must maintain a professional status to be effective as teachers.

"The need is eminently clear for passage now of House Bill 2450, the Professional Negotiations Act. Had this act been the law, it is unlikely that any such illegal action as that in Hamtramck would have occurred."

the city, the lower the pay scales. Here are some sample salaries, with many adding extra pay for Ph.D. holders or teachers with an M.A. plus 30 hours credits:

Grand Haven—starting pay, $4,800 for teachers with bachelor's degree, $5,096 for master's. Maximums after 12 years, $7,717 and $8,256.

Traverse City—Starting, $4,800 for B.A., $5,000 for M.A. Maximums, $6,800 and $7,200.

Butte Creek—Starting, $5,200 for B.A., $5,400 for M.A. Maximums, $7,000 and $8,800.

ADRIAN SALARIES—Adrian—Starting, $5,000 for B.A., $5,300 for M.A. Maximums after 10 years, $7,000 and $7,300.

Muskegon—Starting, $5,100 for B.A., $5,400 for M.A. Maximums, $7,650 (after 12 years) and $8,450 (after 13 years).

Flint—Starting, $5,100 for B.A., $5,500 for M.A. Maximums, (after 13 years) $7,836 and $8,463.

Ann Arbor—Starting, $5,000 for B.A., $5,100 for M.A. Maximums, (after 10 years) $7,800 and $8,400.

Port Huron—Starting, $5,000 for B.A., $5,300 for M.A. Maximums, $7,600 (after 12 years) and $8,025 (after 13 years).

HEADS OF HOUSEHOLDS—In Owosso, the pay scale recently approved for the 1965-66 school year calls for $4,800 for beginners who are "heads of households" and ranges up to $7,200 for teachers with 15 years service.

There is another scale for "nonheads of households" in Owosso, but this designation is scheduled to disappear a year from now.

School districts with higher pay scales have a built-in advantage when it comes to bidding for teachers, but some communities rely on attractions other than salaries.

"The Lansing district has had no great problem getting teachers because of its nearness to Michigan State University," reported Robert Stuart, education writer for the Lansing State Journal.

UPPER TWO-THIRDS

Lansing area pay scales generally are believed to be in the upper two-thirds of the state, he said.

Morey Amsterdam's Brainchild

'Thin Books'---a New Craze?

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Comedian Morey Amsterdam has dreamed up something that might be the successor to Tom Swiflies and elephant jokes. He call it thin books.

Here's how it came about: Created one day at his cello, he was weary and ill at ease. He looked up toward his library shelf and spotted a single, emaciated volume. "A thin book," he mused. "Now what could be the title of a book so thin?"

That did it. His inventive mind started toying with the possibilities. He has tried out his titles on friends, and they agree that he could make a splendid contribution to cocktail party conversation, though not necessarily to literature.

Here are a few samples of Morey's titles for thin books:

"Friends of Charles de Gaulle"
"Good Used Cars"
"Good Cheap Restaurants"
"Happy Nightclub Owners"
"People Who Have Helped Me in Show Business"
"Blind Dates That Turned Out Great"

"Happy Hollywood Marriages"

Elephant Jokes

Never one to bushel-over his light, the pear-shaped comedian claimed that it was he who originated the elephant joke craze as well.

Fortunately, the overworked elephants have been given a rest, and now we have thin books. Will they make the best-seller list? I decided on a test run with Hal Kanter, gag man extraordinaire and presently producer of TV's "Valentine's Day."

"I'll call you back," said Kanter. Unlike some Hollywood types, he did call back, and he offered such titles as:

"Victor Buono's Diet"
"Drew Pearson's Secrets"
"Life with Ethel," by Ernest Borgnine.

POSSIBILITIES

You can see the thing has possibilities. Thin books author Amsterdam isn't resting on his laurels, however. He isn't resting on anything. During his vacation from "The Dick Van Dyke Show" he will play the Sahara in Las Vegas for a month. Then he returns to produce his own movie for United Artists. It's called "Don't Worry, We'll Think of a Title." "Yes, that's the real title," the comedian explained. "It's the story of an astronaut who circles the earth 98 times and when the capsule returns to earth he isn't in it."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Western Michigan University will receive a $33,444 State Department grant to finance a program designed to introduce students to the culture of Yugoslavia. The money will support a summer seminar in Yugoslavia after a preparatory reading and lecture program at the University.

Hard-Up Mountain Man Offers to Give U.S. His 86-Acre Farm to Settle $1,717 Claim

DEL RIO, Tenn. (AP) — Wilford Metcalf, who says he is so hard up that poverty looks good to him, offered today to give the government his 86-acre mountain farm to settle its $1,717.52 claim against him.

"My daddy raised all 13 of us children to be honest," said the 46-year-old World War II veteran. He is accused of cutting timber on government land.

"I hope to settle this matter honorably. I don't have $1,717.52. But I want to be honest. I would be willing to give this farm in settlement of this claim."

He wrote his congressman, Rep. James F. Quillen, of Tenn., after a government attorney advised him he had until May 26 to meet the claim. Quillen turned it over to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman with the comment that if the problem couldn't be solved "we had better forget about winning any war against poverty."

Metcalf's farm is in a deep valley in a remote section of Cocke County, adjoining Cherokee National Forest. The government claims 55 acres of his farm lies within the forest and bases its claim on timber cut there.

Metcalf has carved a narrow road down the hillside to the house. It is barely passable by foot. No vehicle can use the road.

Metcalf, his wife and four children, moved to another house four years ago so the children could get to school without climbing the steep trail.

"I bought the property from Leonard James Dec. 18, 1950," he said. "My deed calls for 86 acres, more or less, and it was my understanding that the line ran to the top of the mountain."

"Three years ago the government surveyed and stopped me from removing any more timber, at which time I wrote the late Sen. Estes Kefauver and had not heard any more from them until last week."

He said he had paid $500 for the farm with 16 20 acres of tillable land. His money crop is tobacco.

Metcalf was helping a neighbor plant tobacco when a reporter found him. He walks three miles from his present home each day to milk the cows on his farm.

Ship Return Ends Rescue off Ice Island

BOSTON (AP) — The ice breaker USS Edisto headed to ward Boston harbor today after a month long battle to rescue 20 men from a melting ice slab northwest of Iceland.

Her arrival will end the saga of Arlis II, the Navy's ice island that for four years carried scientists through the Arctic Ocean from Alaska to the Greenland Sea.

The Navy sent the Edisto north in April four days after she returned from a four month mission in Antarctica.

After fighting 16 days to traverse 150 miles of consolidated pack ice, she reached the ice island and took aboard the inhabitants and 30 tons of equipment on May 10.

The evacuees left the ship at Keflavik, Iceland, for their homes or vacations.

Arlis II was operated by the University of Alaska for the Office of Naval Research.

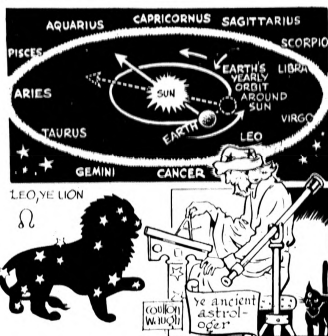

State Dept. and Red to Avoid 'Teach-In'

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The planned Viet Nam "teach-in" next weekend at the University of California Berkeley campus will be without the speaking services of the U.S. State Department and Communist party leader Gus Hall.

The State Department said Tuesday it will send no representatives because Berkeley sponsors are admittedly conducting the "teach-in" as a protest against government policy rather than a debate.

Gus Hall, general chairman of the Communist party in the United States, said that he declined an invitation because his appearance "might create problems about the speakers' list."

Junior Editors Quiz on ZODIAC

QUESTION: Is the zodiac a real thing, or just something dreamed up by astrologers?

ANSWER: The zodiac is a real thing. Think of the sun rising in the east, appearing to move across the sky and sinking in the west. If you get up just before dawn, you would probably notice a group of stars, or constellation, in about the place the sun was to rise.

What should happen to this group of stars during the day? The sunlit sky blanks out the stars by day; but if you could see them, you would observe that these stars behind the sun at dawn would swing behind it all day and sink behind it at sunset.

Now look at our illustration. Imagine yourself on earth looking at the sunrise.

The solid arrow points to the group of stars behind it, and you see it as the constellation: Aquarius. (Ancient astrologers gave names to constellations because they fancied they looked like gods and animals, such as Leo the lion.)

But a month later the Earth has moved in its orbit around the sun to a new position (dotted outline). Now the stars behind or near the sun in the constellation Pisces.

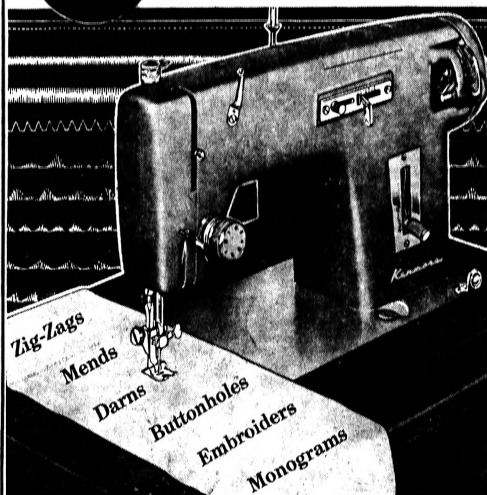

Later the sun will seem to slowly move in front of Aries, and so on during the year, until it is back in Aquarius again. This belt of 12 constellations, which make a band going around our solar system 30 degrees wide, is called the zodiac.

FOR YOU TO DO: The old astrologers imagined stars influenced peoples' lives, although few nowadays believe this. To find out roughly where the zodiac lies, figure where the sun rises and sets and sweep your arm up and across between these points. Besides the sun, the moon and major planets also appear to move within this zone.

Senate Faces Showdown on Bridge Funds

May Slow State Bill; $184 Million Okayed for Higher Education

LANSING (AP) — The Senate faced a showdown on Mackinac Bridge refinancing today which threatened to bring the already slow consideration of bills to a crawl.

Senators approved a $184,341,200 appropriation for higher education yesterday after seven hours of debate passed only five other measures.

The bridge debate was expected in connection with the planned $60,000,000 appropriation for state building projects.

Sen. Thomas Schweigert, R-Detroit, the majority leader, complained Tuesday about the slow pace as bill passage deadline, May 28, nears. He said today's bridge complications might use up another half-day or more.

A Schweigert bill to the same effect was killed by deadline in the state affairs committee Friday amidst angry comments about political tactics.

Sen. Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, the majority leader, complained Tuesday about the slow pace as bill passage deadline, May 28, nears. He said today's bridge complications might use up another half-day or more.

The refinancing and transfer of bridge supervision is supposed to save $1.5 million a year to no expense to the taxpayers while permitting lowering of tolls from $3.75 for a one-way auto trip to $2.35.

Major arguments on the higher education bill centered around salary for the new appointive superintendent of public instruction and operation of the cooperative extension program of Michigan State University.

Senators finally voted to trim the proposed superintendent's salary from the $40,000 recommended by the appropriations committee to $30,000, the amount earned by the governor.

After an attack by Sen. John Bowman, D-Roseville, against house economics aspects of the extension program, senators voted against trimming the agency's appropriation.

The bill brought Senate spending so far for the 1965-66 fiscal year to $332,017,876, close to the figures outlined by Gov. George Romney in his budget.

Planes Hit North for Second Straight Day

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese fighter-bombers killed 85 Viet Cong in an attack in Binh Thuan Province today, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The spokesman said a U.S. forward air controller observed the Viet Cong assembling in company strength in a mountain valley and called in Vietnamese planes that were flying to another target.

The fighter-bombers attacked with heavy bombs and machine guns for 20 minutes.

Forty U.S. Navy planes destroyed three military barracks and inflicted heavy damage on other installations in the second consecutive day of air strikes against North Viet Nam, a U.S. military spokesman reported.

The spokesman said the aircraft from the carrier Coral Sea struck at two target areas 40 miles north of the demilitarized zone separating North and South Viet Nam.

The raid was the second in 24 hours after a six-day suspension of air strikes against the Communist north.

MAY BE BROADENED — Speculation grew that the United States may broaden the air attacks.

The barracks were destroyed at Huan Lao. It was not known whether they were occupied.

The spokesman said 30 Skyhawks, Skyriders and Skywarriors, supported by 10 F4 and F8 Crusaders, pounded the targets (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Frost May Hit Area Tonight

There's a chance of scattered light frost tonight with temperatures ranging from 36 to 46.

Tomorrow will be a good day for gardeners, golf, picnics and cleaning house. The weatherman predicts sunny and warmer with highs hitting 65 to 75.

Partly cloudy and warmer is Friday's forecast.

Morning winds northwesterly at 8 to 18 miles per hour will become light and variable tonight.

A low of 56 was recorded in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. The thermometer registered 70 at 1 p.m.

Await Decision on Amendment to Voting Bill

Offer Plan to Soothe Senators Seeking to Outlaw Poll Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate votes today on a proposal that Congress declare the poll tax has been used in some states to deny Negroes their voting rights.

Offered by Republican and Democratic leaders as an amendment to the voting rights bill, it is designed to mollify liberals who have tried to have poll taxes for state and local elections flatly outlawed in the pending legislation.

They already have been outlawed in federal elections by constitutional amendment.

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., led a blistering attack on the proposed amendment, accusing Senate leaders of "marching down the hill" after beating down the attempt to ban the poll tax.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach and some strong supporters of the measure have said to outlaw state poll taxes by statute could be unconstitutional.

They proposed instead that the voting bill provide for a quick court test of the tax.

The amendment for a congressional declaration is sponsored by Sen. Mike Mansfield and Everett M. Dirksen, the Democratic and Republican leaders.

It would declare the constitutional right to vote is denied or abridged in certain states by making poll tax payments a condition to vote.

Voting on the amendment was expected in midafternoon and despite some stormy vocal criticism, it appeared certain of adoption.

Meanwhile, Rep. William McCulloch of Ohio, ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee, said the way the bill now stands it could produce illegal ballots that might sow the seeds of revolution in the United States.

McCulloch is backing a voting measure generally in line with one proposed by House Republican leaders.

This would guarantee voting rights anywhere in the nation where qualified people have been kept from casting a ballot by racial discrimination, he said.

"It has no tricky triggering provision," McCulloch asserted.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., the committee chairman, said it would be out of order for him to reply to Williams at this time.

He emphasized that the committee has before it only the second of two proposed drafts and no report has been completed.

Before the committee issues a report, Jordan said, it will go over the latest draft line by line, page by page. Once a report has been approved, he added, then the committee will speak for itself.

The committee's Republican minority will file a separate report.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Troops loyal to the civilian military junta occupied the main rebel radio station today and insurgent resistance in northern Santo Domingo appeared to have collapsed.

Units of the Dominican air force police moved into the silent Santo Domingo radio station this morning after a brisk exchange of fire with snipers in nearby buildings.

The junta, scenting victory in the civil war, turned down last night a U.N. appeal for a cease-fire which the rebels were ready to accept.

Troops loyal to the junta appeared to have control of more than half the industrial-suburban area north of the east-west corridor established by U.S. troops leading to the international zone for refugees. The main rebel stronghold lies south of the corridor.

The sound of battle lessened during the day. A military officer who led the occupation of the radio station said "the insurgents have disappeared and we are trying to find them."

There still was no official figure on casualties in the battle, which has been raging for three days. There have been unverified reports of many dead among civilians living in the northern suburbs.

NOT INVOLVED — U.S. troops are not involved in the fighting, but a U.S. military spokesman said five American soldiers were wounded by rebel sniper fire in 56 separate shooting incidents in the 24-hour period ending at midnight. U.S. battle casualties stand at 19 dead and 59 wounded.

Jose Antonio Mayobre of Venezuela, U.N. Secretary General U Thant's special Dominican envoy, told a news conference that Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, the junta chief, "indicated he thought he was winning and therefore could not talk of a cease-fire."

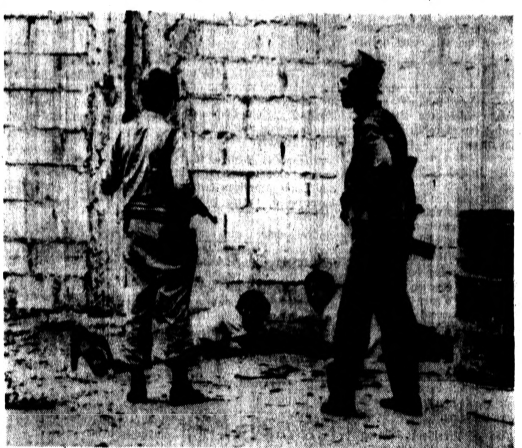

Mayobre said Col. Francisco Caamaño Domo, the insurgent leader, had expressed willingness to accept a truce.

Imbert's forces were pressing a tank-led offensive to smash rebel pockets north of the U.S.-controlled east-west corridor across Santo Domingo.

Commodore Francisco J. Rivera Caminero, the armed forces secretary, claimed the drive was progressing steadily. But there were signs the junta forces were running into stiff resistance on the southern flank of the eastward push.

Sharp explosions jolted the

Probers Air Report on Baker Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A divided Senate Rules Committee meets in secret today to consider a report on its investigation of Bobby Baker.

A new round of controversy broke out on the Senate floor yesterday when Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., demanded that the committee's Democratic majority support or repudiate criticism of him that reportedly appears in a preliminary report.

Williams, not a member of the committee, helped to initiate the committee's investigation of how Baker pursued lucrative business deals while secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority.

He said a draft report prepared by the committee's special counsel, L. P. McLaughlin, had been leaked and was critical of his role in the investigation.

"If there are those who wish to make accusations, I think it is only fair that they make them here, in my presence," Williams told the Senate.

OUT OF ORDER

Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., the committee chairman, said it would be out of order for him to reply to Williams at this time.

He emphasized that the committee has before it only the second of two proposed drafts and no report has been completed.

Before the committee issues a report, Jordan said, it will go over the latest draft line by line, page by page. Once a report has been approved, he added, then the committee will speak for itself.

The committee's Republican minority will file a separate report.

MILO J. CROSS

Made Pontiac State Chairman of Board

After serving as president of Pontiac State Bank since the bank's inception 20 years ago, Milo J. Cross has been elected chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

He will be succeeded by Edward E. Barker Jr., formerly executive vice president.

Cross guided the bank's growth to a bank with $56 million in total assets and nine offices.

CIVIC MINDED

He has been active in civic projects, serving as president of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce and the Pontiac Rotary Club.

He has served on the boards of the YMCA, the Pontiac Area United Fund, Downtown Pontiac Business Association, and Children's Aid Society.

He lives at 1975 N. Hammond Lake, Bloomfield Township.

Barker, of 60 Cherokee, came to the bank in April 1964 as executive vice president and director.

EXPERIENCE — He has outstanding background of banking experience as vice president and senior commercial lending officer of the Society National Bank of Cleveland for many years.

Fidel Hits U.S. Intervention in Dominican Uprising

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro charged yesterday the United States sent its armed forces into the Dominican Republic because it is "seeing new Cubans around every corner."

Castro, in a one-hour and 50 minute speech, broadcast by Havana radio and television and monitored here, said American intervention in a Dominican uprising has turned into a "true political debacle for the Yankees."

Addressing the graduating class of a military training school at Matanzas on Cuba's north coast, Castro said if Americans dared land in Cuba "they are going to get shipped out."

The new second lieutenants cheered the statement and several times during the speech chanted "Hail, Castro."

The landing of U.S. forces in Santo Domingo has put the Organization of American States (OAS) "in a ridiculous situation," Castro said.

SEEKING GHOSTS

Castro said the United States took the action because "they are seeing ghosts all over the place" — seeing new Cubans around every corner.

"This demonstrates they no longer have disrespect for Cuba," Cuba has become for the Yankee imperialists something like the honey man with which they scare children," he said.

"In Santo Domingo something new has come up. The people have lost their fear of the Yankee imperialists."

The United States, he said, did not count on this.

NOT SCARED

"They thought with one battalion everything was solved. They landed even more battalions and they (the rebels) were not scared of them," Castro said.

"The revolutionary wave that shakes the world has forced the United States into acts of despair ... Santo Domingo has become a true political debacle for the Yankees."

Attempts to create an international force to intervene in any Latin American country have failed, Castro told the officers.

In Venezuela, Castro said, the government "is uncertain of what to do if it should send troops ... the revolutionary spirit has been penetrating its troops, as can be shown by the insurrection of Puerto Cabello and Carapano, and they are scared that they would be the Dominican Republic the troops will become contaminated with the revolutionary spirit of the Dominicans."

Rejecting what he called official U.S. pressure, Rivera C. Marinero said the military would only accept a new government of "national harmony" composed of the junta and "all democratic parties in the country."

The rebels have refused to participate in any government with the junta.

Two of President Johnson's special envoys, Undersecretary of State Thomas C. Mann and former ambassador John Bartlow Martin, returned to Washington last night.

State Department sources said Mann and Martin reported to Secretary of State Dean Rusk. No details were given out.

AIDE REMAINED

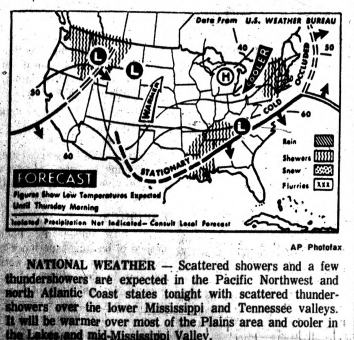

McGeorge Bundy, the President's national security affairs adviser, remained in the Dominican Republic to continue the U.S. peacemaking effort.

Eight-Satellite Launch Bared

Believed Most Ever Orbit by 1 Rocket

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States secretly launched eight military satellites into orbit with one rocket last March 9, the New York Times said today.

This was the greatest number of payloads ever put into space with one booster by this country and it is believed to exceed any multiple launching made by the Soviet Union, a Washington dispatch said.

The story also said in part:

The satellites were launched by the Air Force Thor-Agena rocket from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California. They were pushed apart from each other by metal springs, a simple technique first used by the Navy's Vanguard satellite launcher in 1958.

The satellites are circling the earth in orbits ranging between 361 and 585 miles high.

SIMILAR TECHNIQUE

A similar technique will be used by the Air Force several times next year to put eight military communications satellites into orbit at one time from a single Titan-3C rocket.

The launching in March represents not only a high degree of technical refinement in launchings, but in tracking as well. Radar networks that help the nation catalogue man-made objects in space have been able to tell one satellite from another, even though all eight are traveling close together in space.

Teacher Group Elects Officers

Robert Hutchinson, a sixth grade teacher at Covert Elementary School in Waterford Township, yesterday was named president elect of the Waterford Education Association (WEA).

Hutchinson will take office in May 1966. Other newly elected WEA officers and chairmen begin their one-year terms immediately.

Also elected yesterday were Mrs. Virginia Tharp, vice president, and Gerald R. Lewis, secretary.

Ronald Arnold, principal of Silver Lake Elementary School, was elected WEA president-elect a year ago and assumed office yesterday.

Newly named committee chairmen were James Ritchie, legislative; Mrs. Barbara Meko, public relations; William Laimakka, teachers' ethical and professional standards; M. S. James Wilkinson, publications; Fred Forsythe, professional problems; John Pange, representative assembly; and Larry Timm, salary.

Prosecutor's Aide Is Listed as Critical

Chief Assistant Prosecutor Robert D. Long was reported in critical condition today at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, where he has been in a coma since being rushed here yesterday morning.

Long was hemorrhaging and had undergone "a tremendous amount of blood transfusions," according to his doctor.

He said it has not been determined whether the internal bleeding started.

According to Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson, Long, 55, has been ill for several months, suffering from anemia and high blood pressure.

85 Viet Cong Killed

for 45 minutes with missiles, rockets and 50 tons of bombs.

LIGHT GROUND FIRE

Pilots reported light ground fire and said no enemy planes were sighted.

All the planes returned to the carrier safely, the spokesman said.

U.S. Marines carried out their first amphibious assault in South Viet Nam today, moving across the Ca De River to hit Viet Cong-held Truong Minh village.

A burst of gunfire wounded one Marine in the operation nine miles from Da Nang, but the guerrilla fled and no further contact was made.

FIRST CROSSING

It was the first time the Marines had crossed the river, which has been the northern boundary of the Marine operating area around Da Nang.

In Truong Vinh village, the Marines found only 12 women and children and one old man. There were many booby traps, trenches and bunkers.

At least two U.S. Marine jet squadrons based in the Philippines have been put on the alert for duty in Viet Nam, possibly this month, a high military source reported.

They will bring U.S. Marine strength in South Viet Nam to nearly 16,000 men.

MARINE BEACHHEAD

The new squadrons will be based at the Marine beachhead at Chu Lai, 53 miles south of Da Nang, where Seabees are building 8,000-foot runways.

A rocket spokesman said 6,000 feet would be completed by May 28 and jet operations could begin then.

The new squadrons are expected to be used primarily for strikes against the Viet Cong inside South Viet Nam and for close support of Marine ground troops when they begin expected large-scale operations against the Viet Cong.

A Marine enlisted man was wounded during the night when a sniper opened up on the battalion headquarters at the Chu Lai beachhead.

NEW RUNWAY

The high military source also given up for lost more than a month ago when their 22-by-11-foot raft, made out of empty oil drums, blew out to sea from Puto Point in Guam.

PROVED FRUITLESS

A week-long search by boats and planes proved fruitless, and authorities presumed the pair had drowned.

Only Cushing's wife, Marjorie, remained hopeful that her husband and son might drift to the Philippines. In a recent letter to Joaquin P. Reyes, publisher of the Manila Times, she said:

"I am just waiting every day for news from Frank and Frankie. They have been gone for over a month now but I feel that they will get along somehow."

In Guam today, Mrs. Cushing expressed joy and relief when informed her husband and son had been saved.

IN SHORT SUPPLY

Mrs. Cushing said she was concerned because the two men had only one day's supply of water and she was not sure of what raw fish alone would sustain them.

"Everyone had faith they would be found and now they are," she said.

Details of how the Cushings managed to survive their 37-day ordeal were not immediately available.

Defense Secretary Macario Dela Riza said they would be brought to Manila either later today or tomorrow.

The Cushings had been searching for rare tropical fish from their raft.

Cushing, a former resident of Manila, was awarded a plaque by the Philippine government in 1961 for helping to establish a Boys' Town here. One of his brothers, the late Col. James Cushing, was a guerrilla leader in the Philippines during World War II.

Cushing was known in Guam as an adventurer, inventor and stunt man. He was said to have performed high dives from the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco and from the Manhattan Bridge in New York City in 1936.

A Bloody Murder? Just Prank

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — An elaborate prank in which they staged a fake murder scene with a pint of human blood turned into a nightmare for three Emory University students who found themselves the object of a police manhunt.

It proved a costly prank, also. The three students, whose names were withheld, were suspended for two years by the privately endowed Methodist university.

Police diagnosed the grisly scene found last Wednesday in an Emory dormitory television lounge as a hoax, but conducted an extensive investigation anyway. They were hot on the trail of the three students when the culprit decided to confess Tuesday.

"It started just as a prank," one student told police. "We thought it would be labeled a prank after an hour or two. We didn't think it would go as far as it did."

GAVE ACCOUNT

Detective B. F. Corley gave this account:

The three planned the details for two weeks. Then they asked an Emory Medical student assigned to Grady Hospital to procure a pint of outdated blood.

They sneaked into the lounge during the early morning hours.

One struck an old wristwatch with a hammer while another splattered the blood about the room. One pulled some hair from his head and attached it to the hammer with blood.

One student then dragged another out the door while the third walked along sprinkling blood into the hair of the dragged "victim." This made a 60-foot trail of blood out to a parking lot.

Since the air strikes so far have not done significant damage to the North Vietnamese, to bring them to the conference table, there was speculation that the raiders may seek more important targets, possibly in the industrialized Hanoi-Hai-phong region.

Rocket Blast Aborts Test

WHITE SANDS Missile Range, N.M. (AP) — A Little Joe 2 rocket exploded in flight shortly after launch today, ending in failure a severe high-altitude test of a safety system for moonbound astronauts.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesmen said the explosion occurred about halfway through the rocket's first burning period of 40 seconds.

There was no immediate indication for cause of the failure.

The test was the fifth in a series of firings at this southern New Mexico test range to determine how safe astronauts would be should a malfunction occur in their Saturn booster during launch toward the moon.

FIRST THEORY

A space agency spokesman first theorized that the test ended when the rocket's second stage failed to fire. A later announcement was made, however, that an explosion had occurred.

The 14-ton space capsule, which the Little Joe was to push to an altitude of more than 20 miles, floated down to the desert floor under three 84-foot parachutes. It was not determined immediately if the capsule, which was to tumble through space in the suborbital flight, was damaged.

Spokesmen were unable to say what effect the failure would have on this country's moon program.

Birmingham Area News School Board Approves Teachers' Pay Increases

BIRMINGHAM — Teachers' pay raises ranging from $100 to $200 were approved by the board of education last night.

The 1965-66 salary schedule incorporates the $150,000 net aside for salary improvement in the extra 5.6-mill levy approved in the district last June.

Base salary for the holder of a bachelor's degree will be $5,350. With steps ranging from $225 to $325 annually, the maximum in this category for a teacher with 12 years of experience is $8,800, marking a $200 increase over the figure for this year.

Minimum salary for the teacher with a master's degree will be $5,650, with a maximum of $9,800. The figures now are $5,550 and $9,600, respectively.

THE BEGINNING

The beginning salary for the teacher with 30 semester hours beyond a master's degree or a two-year master's degree was boosted from $5,950 to $6,050. The maximum after 12 years is $10,250, compared to the present $10,050.

$500 ADDED

A differential of $500 is added to the master's degree schedule for the holders of doctorate degrees.

The salary schedule approved by the board had been recommended by the Birmingham Education Association.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Richard C. Halsey has been promoted from teacher to assistant headmaster of City and Country School of Bloomfield Hills.

Halsey's appointment, and that of Mrs. Frederick C. Booth as assistant nursery and kindergarten director were announced last night by headmaster George Rooper.

Halsey, 27, of 746 E. Vanderpool, Troy, is a Troy city commissioner. He has served on the Troy Citizens School Study Committee and the Troy Civil Service Study Committee and is a member of the Troy Volunteer Fire Department.

Chairman of the social studies department and teacher of history and government at City and Country School for five years, Halsey holds a bachelor's degree from Kalamazoo College and a master's degree from the University of Michigan.

Mrs. Booth, 1565 Washington, Birmingham, has taught kindergarten and nursery classes at the school since 1947.

Teachers' Pay Talks Snagged

The Pontiac Education Association (PEA) announced this morning that an impasse has been reached in salary negotiations with the administration of the Pontiac School system.

Glen Hartman, PEA president, said a mass meeting of teachers has been scheduled for 3:30 p.m. Tuesday at Pontiac Northern High School to marshal support for the PEA stand.

The PEA has proposed $5,500 as the starting salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree and no experience for the 1965-66 school year.

In addition, they are seeking fringe benefits with a monetary value of about $100 per teacher.

The school administration has proposed a salary of $5,400 for a beginning teacher.

OFFER PROPOSALS

The PEA proposal and the administration proposal will both be presented at the Board of Education meeting next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The board will then select one of the two plans.

Beginning teachers are currently paid $5,100 and $300 raise to $5,400 would be the largest given by the district in at least the last 11 years, administration officials said.

This increase escalates as the proposed salary schedules progress from the beginning point, they added.

ANNUAL HIKE

For example, the PEA proposal would give an $837 annual pay increase to a teacher with 10 years experience and a master's degree.

The administration proposal would give the same teacher a $666 raise next year.

Hartman said his group would not accept the $5,400 and would take any measures necessary, short of a strike, to attain their demands.

He said that the PEA does not believe in strikes, but would use other sanctions.

He named mass resignations, mass attendance at board meetings and picketing as possible sanctions.

Hudson charged that it was time that the city stopped throwing up roadblocks in front of developers.

Irwin, who also sits on the planning commission, said that body had wanted detailed plans before the rezoning was given final approval.

WENT TO SLEEP

It said Cushing told his rescuers he and his son went to sleep aboard the raft after anchoring it off Puto Point in Guam on the night of April 11.

Cushing said winds and tides dislodged the anchor and the following morning he and his son discovered they were far at sea.

The raft had two 40 horse-power outboard motors, but Cushing said it drifted until it reached the Claro Seas near Babuyan Islands in the northern Philippines.

Teach Child How to Handle His Money

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:
We have only one child, a daughter 15 years old in the tenth grade.

How can we set an allowance to teach her how to handle money? As it is, her Dad and I give her what she says she needs.

We feel we are spoiling her and not preparing her for the future.

Mrs. H. Easton, Pa.

Maybe you aren't really spoiling her. Parents these days have a terrible guilt-complex about how they're raising their children, no matter what they do. And it makes me good and tired.

Some of the most reasonable, thoughtful, intelligent parents I know of go around with a burden of fear that they aren't turning their teen-agers into perfect people.

Well, nobody has ever yet produced a perfect generation — as witness you and me!

But be that as it may, I think an allowance is a good idea. It not only puts responsibility on your daughter, it can also help her to realize that the individual can, to some extent, make money do what she wants it to do.

There is a certain adventure in managing money, and it's a fine lesson to learn early in life. You don't tell me what you expect her to pay for out of her allowance. So I'll just have to go on some basics I believe in.

She should be given an amount that will allow her to pay her specified expenses, plus some to save. The usual — and entirely reasonable — proportion of an income to put into savings is 5 to 15 per cent of the total.

On the basis of average planning patterns, this works out pretty well in the long run. Though managing a certain amount of money regularly, she will learn to save any surplus from one week or one month, to add to the next, so that in a certain period of time — which she must figure out — she can buy some major item she wants.

Discuss with her what you expect her to pay for out of the allowance. Consider her needs in the terms of her age and her group spending. Set down any rules you feel are in her best interests.

You certainly needn't feel obligated to give her a certain sum just because "all the others have it." Use your own good judgment — and you really do have some by the time you've raised a child to the age of 15.

Once you've settled on the amount of her allowance, stay with it.

(You can write to Mary Feeley in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions of widest interest will be answered in her column.)

Congressman to Be Guest of GOP Women

The Republican Women's Clubs of Beverly, Franklin, Birmingham, Troy and Bloomfield will sponsor a luncheon for U.S. Representative William S. Broomfield. Seating for the 11:45 a.m. event on May 28 is Devon Gables.

Mrs. Harold Rubel is in charge of reservations which are due in before May 25.

Congressman Broomfield is now serving his fifth term in the U.S. House of Representatives and is the ranking Republican in the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

He is also the senior Republican on Asia and National Security subcommittees and is a member of the Africa subcommittee.

Use Smock in Kitchen

Like to get off the ground with color and look like an airline hostess when you're working in the kitchen? You can — with the aid of a colorful, colorfast smock.

Some airlines equip their hostesses with multi-color smocks to slip on quickly over their neat dresses or uniforms. You could do the same when you're having a do-it-yourself party. A bright smock over a party dress will help you to look pretty while still staying on the job.

Colorfast colors will also make the smock — bought or made — as easy on the wash as an apron. But it's a lot easier on the eye.

Burt Schedules Saturday Fair

The Burt School, Waterford Township, PTA will hold its fair from 4 to 7 p.m. Saturday at the school.

Chairmen of the fair are Mrs. Byron Merritt and Mrs. Robert McMorris. Booths will include handicrafts, a flower shop, a country kitchen and a lollipop tree. There will also be games and hayrides.

Planning residence in Milford after their Niagara honeymoon are the Dale Edward Grosjeans (Patricia Stewart) who chose the Jolyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church for their recent vows and reception. Their parents are the Warren R. Stewarts of Sterling Avenue and the Robert J. Grosjeans of South Avery Road. With her colorful gown and train of sequined white Chantilly lace, the bride wore a tiered illusion veil and carried carnations with lilies of the valley. Attendees included Mr. and Mrs. Thom E. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Prutz, Dolores Alexander, Sally Stewart, Kelly Barker, Richard Stewart, Jerry Hart and Mark Grosjean. Rep. E. I. Watkins performed the evening rite.

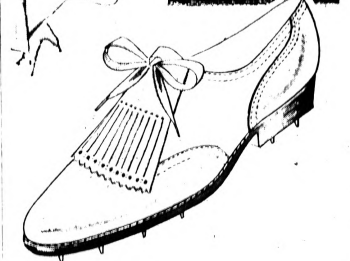

The David J. Catchers (Carol Sue Riddle) left for a honeymoon in Atlantic City and the East Coast after recent vows and a reception in the Fenton Methodist Church. Their parents are the George E. Riddles of Holly, Mrs. Lloyd Tyson, Silver Lake Road, Lyon Township, and the late Paul Catcher. Alencom lace accented the bride's gown and cathedral train of white silk organza over taffeta. A lace Dior bow held her illusion veil. With Cherie Riddle, her sister's honor maid, were bridesmaids Mrs. Arthur Strom and Sharon Lynch. Daniel Catcher was best man, Theodore Mallen, Arthur Strom and Alfred Malachuk ushered.

Michigan Saluted as Place to Work

LANSING (AP) — Michigan turns special attention today to its product of the year and agricultural development of the year and all its other products and developments that provide jobs and payrolls.

This is "Our Livelihood Day" of the 12th annual Michigan Week.

Livelihood Day Chairman Osmond Kelley of Flint says Michigan attracted international attention even back in pioneer days.

"The richness and diversity of this state's opportunities for gaining a livelihood have been exceptional as far back as history goes, accounting for the fact that great nations fought for these peninsulas for centuries," said Kelley.

TRADE SEMINARS

Trying to retain world interest, the State Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring world trade seminars today in Saginaw, Muskegon and Flint. Major speakers will include business leaders who participated in the recent 10-day business-hunting tour of Europe, "Operation Europe."

Another similar seminar was scheduled for Thursday in Kalamazoo.

Gov. George Romney was to present plaques today to the winners of Michigan Week product and agricultural development of the year judging.

Jack Christensen, president of R. J. Eastman Co. of Menominee, received the product award for his firm's F2B helicopter, and Andrew F. Murch of Paw Paw received the agricultural development award for his new process of making fruit juices.

The annual Michigan Sports Hall of Fame luncheon was scheduled in Detroit in recognition of the election of three new members—former Detroit

Tiger outfielder Leon (Goose) Goslin, Hamtramck tennis coach Mrs. Jean Hoxie, and the late George Lavigne—known as the Saginaw Kid—who was lightweight boxing champion from 1896 to 1899.

High Interest Is Generated in Trade Fair

TROY — The Industrial Trade Fair, planned and sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Michigan Week Committee may exceed expectations, according to Ed Rusin, Chamber president.

The fair is being held today from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the Troy High School gymnasium.

Rusin said that about 25 questions have requested space and particulars on how to qualify for the Chamber's "Product of the Year" award.

He said that about half of these are expected to exhibit during the fair.

Among those expected to exhibit are AMT Corp., Big Bear Specialty Co., Clyde Engineering Co., Flex-Cable Corp., Ford Motor Co., Michigan Crane, Inc., and Michigan Timber & Truss Co.

Michigan Week Film to Be PTA Feature

AVON TOWNSHIP — Installation of officers and a film in honor of Michigan Week will highlight the Stiles School PTA meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the school, 3976 S. Livernois.

Officers to be installed by Mrs. David Hackett include Mrs. George Bill, president; Mrs. Dan Held, mother vice president; James Grissom, father vice president; and Mrs. Johnson Newell, teacher vice president.

Citizens' Unit Seeks Signatures to Put Proposal on Ballot Again

ROME — A citizens' committee is conducting an organized door-to-door campaign this week to obtain the final 1,000 signatures it needs on petitions to get the school board to resubmit a recently defeated $14 million bond issue to the voters.

Otherwise it would be six months under the law before it could again be put to a vote.

The bond issue was defeated April 12 by a 416 to 372 vote.

It was to have been used for additions to the junior and senior high school and a new elementary school near the corner of Campground and 29 Mile.

If it had been successful, the bond issue would have raised school taxes in the district by 3.29 mills ($3.29 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation.)

"So far we haven't detected any strong opposition to the proposal," he said, "so we're hopeful of getting the required number of signatures."

Wixom to Lansing

'Train Robbery' Begins Trip

WIXOM — The Lansing-bound "Wixom Thunderbird Special" started with more than one bang yesterday as about 300 residents witnessed an attempted "train robbery."

The all-in-town holdup ushered in a Michigan Week trip to the state capital by elementary school children and senior citizens.

The trip aboard the special train was sponsored by the city and local industry.

Three unidentified "desperadoes" hopped on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad at Wixom shouting, "holdup," much to the delight of the children who were wise to the stunt.

Hero of the day was Paul Green, an off-duty city policeman who disposed of the robbers with his trusty six-shooter.

Traveling with the delegation to Lansing were Mayor Wesley E. McAtee, Clerk

Treasurer Elizabeth A. Waara, Deputy Clerk Donna Thorsberg and Justice of the Peace Elwood Grubb.

The group was recognized in both houses of the State Legislature, and each resident shook hands with Gov. Romney and Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken.

While learning about state government, the group also spread the word about activities in Wixom.

With a population of 1,500, the city boasts an employment of 4,500. The Ford Motor Co. makes Thunderbird and Lincoln cars at its Wixom assembly plant.

ONE VISITOR

One of the Lansing visitors from Wixom was Isabella Livingston, 72, of 49345 Pontiac Trail.

Miss Livingston's father, M. C. Livingston, installed the Capitol's first switchboard in 1898. She was then 5.

"Dad used to take me on his shoulders and go up in the Capitol dome," she said.

1, 8 P.M. Concerts

Navy Band in Oxford Thursday

OXFORD — The United States Navy Band, which has the reputation of being the world's finest, will give two concerts tomorrow at the Oxford High School Auditorium.

A matinee performance will be presented at 1 p.m. The evening concert will begin at 8.

A capacity crowd is expected for both concerts.

Sponsored by the Oxford Lions Club, the band will be "beamed up" by the addition of several local music students.

Tickets are available from any Lions Club member or at the Parrish Insurance Agency, 24 S. Washington.

NAVY VETERAN The band will be under the baton of Lt. Cmdr. Anthony A. Mitchell, a veteran of nearly 30 years as a Navy musician.

Joining the Navy in 1936, Cmdr. Mitchell graduated from the Navy School of Music with honors and became a member of the band in 1938.

He later became leader of the Navy dance band and solo clarinetist with the concert band.

In 1956, he was appointed third leader of the Navy Band.

Sign-Up Tomorrow for Kindergartners

ROCHESTER — Kindergarten registrations for those children who will be 5 years old on or before Dec. 1, 1965 will be held at Rochester elementary schools tomorrow.

Talks by teachers to acquaint parents with the objectives of kindergarten will be held at 9 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 1 p.m., and 2:30 p.m., in the kindergarten rooms.

Parents are asked to take their prospective kindergarten children to the school at the time of registration to help acquaint them with the school.

Parents with particular questions regarding speech correction should attend the following sessions, at which time a speech correctionist will be present: Brooklands, 9 a.m.; Baldwin, 2:30 p.m.; Hamlin, 10:30 a.m.; McGregor, 9 a.m.; Meadowbrook, 1 p.m.; North Hill, 10:30 a.m.; and Woodward, 1 p.m.

Rochester Jaycees List New Officers

ROCHESTER — A new slate of officers has been elected for the coming year by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Named president of the organization was Paul A. Schuttenman of 880 Castlebar, Avon Township.

He replaces Peter Verma, who will serve on the board of directors.

Other officers elected were Robert Jasinski, internal vice president; Ron Tranton, external vice president; Jerry Cannon, treasurer; Roger Wall, secretary; and Alex Formicola, director.

Teacher Unit Picks Officers

LAKE ORION — New officers were recently elected by the Lake Orion Education Association.

They are Mrs. Rosetta LaMagna, president; Mrs. Frances Gaylor, president-elect; Mrs. Myrta Williams, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Cheryl Rupright, treasurer.

Fred Edman and Clint Galbraith were chosen delegates to the regional council and James Hansman was elected delegate to the representative assembly.

Al Flake will be a delegate to the Department of Classroom Teachers.

Less for More---Everyone Is Getting on Bandwagon With Low-Calorie Food Products

Americans seem to be eating less and enjoying it more reports the Consumer Marketing Agent, Josephine Lawyer. Not only are Americans eating fewer pounds of food per person, but the market for low-calorie foods has increased considerably.

journal reports a 65 per cent increase in dollar sales of low-calorie foods in the last five years, compared with a 42 per cent increase in all items sold.

It pays to be informed about foods in the dietary department. Some foods may be on these shelves because they are salt-free and not because they are lower in calories in the dietetic examples. Dietetic foods are usually produced and packed in smaller quantities to that production and handling costs are higher than non-dietetic food.

Low-calorie dietetic foods may contain non-calorie vegetable colloids instead of oils (as in salad dressings). They may be packed in water rather than in oil (as in brine-packed tuna fish). They may have fat extracted (as in beef slices in barbecue sauce). It's important to read labels on these products and to know what they contain. Some show little calorie difference from their non-dietetic counterparts.

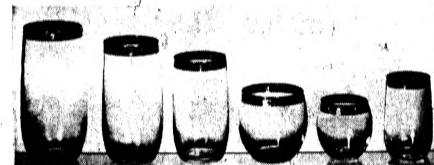

Other foods, such as salad dressing and gelatin desserts, reduce calorie values considerably. But is the calorie reduction significant in relation to cost? A dietetic gelatin dessert may cost 1 1/2 to 2 cents more per serving than regular gelatin desserts.

Consider whether the calories saved in low-calorie dietary foods are worth the extra cost. In any weight control program, fats and sweets need careful watching. It is possible to plan low calorie, low cost meals without using special dietary products that bear additional cost. Careful use of natural low cost foods can mean both calorie and money savings.

fat milk and cottage cheese made from skim milk are low in calories and cost less than their higher calorie counterparts. In some cases, reduced calories result from a smaller quantity. Low calorie bread, for example, is often simply sliced more thinly. The calories per ounce are practically the same in all breads, so the difference between a 75 or 45 calorie slice is determined by how thinly the bread is sliced.

It pays to be informed when deciding whether to buy low-calorie dietetic foods. Let labels and cost influence your selection.

Stock Market Logs to Upside

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market logged to the upside in moderately active trading early today.

Fractional gains predominated. Some of the higher priced issues rose a point or more.

Many leading issues showed little or no change. Among the top four steelmakers, leading mail order retailers, and a number of tobacco, rail and chemical stocks.

Several blue chip chemicals, however, posted fractional gains. Eastman Kodak rose more than a point.

Ranch Finds Trucks

Top Horse Power

Cowboys on the 1,700-acre McGinnis cattle ranch at Lathrop, Mo., have ridden nearly all of their spurs and saddles in favor of riding the range in GMC-style cow ponies.

Punching cows may have lost some of its glamor as a result of trucks, explains Logan McGinnis, one of the owners of this famous Charolais ranch, but trucking makes for healthier cattle and bigger profits.

"Our '63 GMC truck is a prime example," he points out. "Tough and big, this unit has rolled over 200,000 miles and its V8 gasoline engine has hardly been touched."

"It would be impossible for horses to do this truck's job and keep going day after day."

The 35-foot rig took the wide open spaces in stride, rolling over both prairie and roads with ease, McGinnis says.

It enables truck-oriented cowboys to manage 900 head of prize Charolais cattle.

LOADING CHUTE

McGinnis has equipped the GMC truck with a "unique anywhere" loading chute with side rails.

Neatly folded under the chassis when not in use, the chute can be erected quickly when needed to load and unload Charolais cattle anywhere on the ranch.

"Loaded aboard the GMC truck, our prize animals can be quickly delivered to points anywhere in the United States and Canada," he explains.

"Let's see it, the day of the cow pony is over."

"Cattlemen of long ago used to make a big thing of riding the range or galloping into the next town for supplies. But now they think nothing of traveling around the world to buy, sell or just to look at cattle like ours."

Traveling miles just to look at Charolais is not unusual. Thousands are impressed each year by this fast-growing breed of beef cattle, distinguished from the ordinary animal by its lean, muscular frame.

Most Grain Prices Are Slightly Easier

CHICAGO (AP)—Balancing of speculative commitments in the expiring May contracts dominated trading in the grain futures market today and most prices were slightly easier.

Activity was slow near the end of the first hour with soybeans 1/4 cents a bushel lower at 3 1/2 higher, May $2.85; wheat 1/4 1/4; corn 1/4 to 1 cent lower, May $1.84 1/2; oats unchanged at 17 1/2, May 71 cents; rye unchanged to 1/4 lower, May $1.74.

Hard-Up Mountaineer Offers to Give U.S. His 86-Acre Farm to Settle $1,717 Claim

DEL RIO, Tenn. (AP) — Wilford Metcalf, who says he is so hard up that poverty looks good to him, offered today to give the government his 86-acre mountain farm to settle its $1,717.52 claim against him.

"My daddy raised all 15 of us children to be honest," said the 40-year-old World War II veteran. He is accused of cutting timber on government land.

"I hope to settle this matter honorably. I don't have $1,717.52. But I want to be honest. I would be willing to give this farm in settlement of this claim."

He wrote his congressman, Rep. James F. Quillen, R-Tenn., after a government attorney advised him he had until May 28 to meet the claim. Quillen turned it over to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman with the comment that if this problem couldn't be solved "we had better forget about winning any war against poverty."

Metcalf's farm is in a deep valley in a remote section of Cocke County, adjoining Cherokee National Forest. The government claims 55 acres of his farm lies within the forest and bases its claim on timber cut there.

Metcalf has carved a narrow road down the hillside to his house. It is barely passable by foot. No vehicle can use the road.

Metcalf, his wife and four children, moved to another house four years ago so the children could get to school without climbing the steep trail.

"I bought the property from Leonard James Dec. 18, 1950," he said. "My deed calls for 86 acres, more or less, and it was my understanding that the line ran to the top of the mountain."

"Three years ago the government surveyed and stopped me from removing any more timber, at which time I wrote the late Sen. Estes Kefauver and had not heard any more from them until last week."

He said he had paid $850 for the farm with his 20 acres of tillable land. His money crop is tobacco.

Metcalf was helping a neighbor plant tobacco when a reporter found him.

He walks three miles from his present home each day to milk the cows on his farm.

Ship Return Ends Rescue off Ice Island

BOSTON (AP) — The ice-breaker USS Edisto headed toward Boston harbor today after a month-long battle to rescue 20 men from a melting ice slab northwest of Iceland.

Her arrival will end the saga of Arlis II, the Navy's ice island that for four years carried scientists through the Arctic Ocean from Alaska to the Greenland Sea.

The Navy sent the Edisto north in April four days after she returned from a four-month mission in Antarctica.

After fighting 16 days to traverse 150 miles of consolidated pack ice, she reached the ice island and took aboard the inhabitants and 30 tons of equipment on May 10.

The evacuees left the ship at Keflavik, Iceland, for their homes or vacations.

Arlis II was operated by the University of Alaska for the Office of Naval Research.

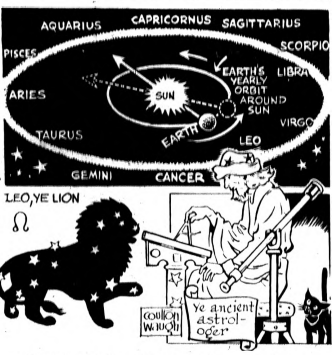

State Dept. and Red to Avoid 'Teach-In'

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The planned Viet Nam "teach-in" next weekend at the University of California Berkeley campus will be without the speaking services of the U.S. State Department and Communist party leader Gus Hall.

The State Department said Tuesday it will send no representatives because Berkeley sponsors are admittedly conducting the "teach-in" as a protest against government policy rather than a debate.

Gus Hall, general chairman of the Communist party in the United States, said that he declined an invitation because his appearance "might create problems about the speakers' list."

Junior Editors Quiz on ZODIAC

QUESTION: Is the zodiac a real thing, or just something dreamed up by astrologers?

ANSWER: The zodiac is a real thing. Think of the sun rising in the east, appearing to move across the sky and sinking in the west. If you get up just before dawn, you would probably notice a group of stars, or constellation, in about the place the sun was to rise.

What should happen to this group of stars during the day? The sunlit sky blanks out the stars by day, but if you could see them, you would observe that these stars behind the sun at dawn would swing behind it all day and sink behind it at sunset.

Now look at our illustration. Imagine yourself on earth looking at the sunrise.

The solid arrow points to the group of stars behind it, and you see it as the constellation Aquarius. (Ancient astrologers gave names to constellations because they fancied they looked like gods and animals, such as Leo the lion.)

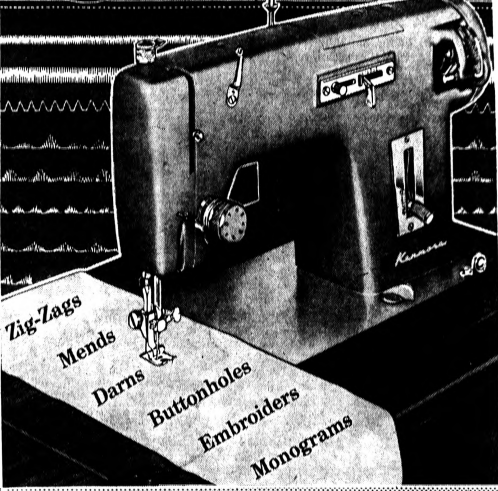

But a month later the Earth has moved in its orbit around the sun to a new position (dotted outline). Now the stars behind or near the sun are in the constellation Pisces.

Later the sun will seem to slowly move in front of Aires, and so on during the year, until it is back in Aquarius again. This belt of 12 constellations, which make a band going around our solar system 30 degrees wide, is called the zodiac.

FOR YOU TO DO: The old astrologers imagined stars influenced peoples' lives, although few nowadays believe this. To find out roughly where the zodiac lies, figure where the sun rises and sets and sweep your arm up and across between these points. Besides the sun, the moon and major planets also appear to move within this zone.
