Ionia Judge Reverses Straley Ouster Ruling

Pontiac Motor Assembly Lines Roll Tomorrow

All 8,000 Men Will Be Back After Shutdown Which Lasted 44 Days

Production of 1960 model automobiles will resume when laid-off workers take their positions on the line for the second shift at 4:18 p.m.

All of the approximately 8,000 production workers laid off when most operations ceased at midnight Oct. 27 will be back at work with the Dec. 10 shifts, according to Semon E. Knudsen, division general manager and General Motors Corp. vice president.

Close to 6,500 already have returned to their jobs. The remaining 1,500 idled will return tomorrow and Thursday.

"Full scale production will begin with tomorrow's second shift," a division spokesman said today.

"The full scale quota for the remaining 2½ days this week—a half day Wednesday, Thursday and Friday—calls for 4,643 units to roll off assembly lines in six GM plants across the country."

A spokesman for the Fisher Body Division here said most of its 2,400 production workers laid off because of the 116-day steel strike would return to work by the first shift tomorrow.

"Others will receive special notification from the plant," the official said.

Calvin J. Werner, Truck and Coach Division general manager and GM vice president, has announced Monday as the date for resumption of work on the light- and medium-duty truck lines.

More than 1,000 hourly rated division employes started returning to work yesterday.

Some 500 heavy-duty truck employes will remain idled for another two weeks, according to Werner, because of "material steel shortages."

"Coach production schedules will be maintained," he said.

MIDLAND, Tex. (UPI)—Judge Bill Hart, busy yesterday fining overtime parking violators, forgot his own car and got a ticket for overtime parking.

Fired Police Chief Can Seek Post Back

Ionia County Circuit Judge Morris K. Davis today reversed a Civil Service Commission ruling which ousted Straley.

Straley was fired by the Commission on April 4.

In his decision, Judge Davis ruled that Straley has committed no acts of "misfeasance or nonfeasance" within 90 days, of the time charges were filed with the Commission.

Straley would not immediately disclose his plans. "I expected it," he said of the decision.

The State Civil Service Act under which Straley was fired imposed a 90-day statute of limitations upon the filing of charges.

"I have studied the record carefully," said Judge Davis. "I can find no specific wrongs committed by the chief—as chief—on or after Nov. 12."

Straley was stripped of command by Public Safety Director George D. Eastman on Nov. 12, 1958, at which time Eastman assumed personal command of the department.

If Straley wishes his job back, his next step will be to petition Judge Davis for an order reinstating him as police chief.

"The city did not prove that he failed to do something at a specific time," Judge Davis said. "The law is specific on this point."

He noted that City Manager Walter K. Willman appeared reluctant to press charges against Straley.

"It seems that it was the doing of Public Safety Director George D. Eastman," he said.

Willman, as appointing officer, under the State Civil Service Act, was the man who filed the charges against Straley.

"I expected it," said a victorious Straley today when informed that his appeal for reinstatement as police chief had been upheld in Circuit Court.

"The things that Willman (City Manager Walter K. Willman) and Eastman and those other rabble-rousers did to me couldn't, in all justice, go unreversed forever."

For Straley, the decision of Ionia County Judge Morris K. Davis opened the door for his return to the $9,000-a-year post he was fired from by the Civil Service Commission April 24.

But whether he'll ask for his job back was not known.

"I will make no statement on that subject at the present time," he said.

One thing appeared certain — the former chief will probably ask at least for his back pay, amounting to about $5,000 since his dismissal.

Straley has been employed by a trucking firm in recent months.

"Well!" said Willman.

"I'll be darned!" said Eastman.

"I can't believe it!" said City Attorney William A. Ewart, who prosecuted the case against Straley.

Eastman said that any decision to rehire Straley — or to attempt to remove him a second time if he is reinstated — was strictly up to Willman.

And Willman on this point was closed-mouthed.

"No comment," he said "None at all."

Ewart said he could not immediately predict the city's legal position in the mopping up of the legal details involved in the case.

"I won't know a thing until I've studied the decision itself."

Straley served as the city's police chief from Nov. 11, 1951, until his dismissal by the Civil Service Commission.

Open warfare broke out between the chief and the Pontiac Police Officers Assn. (PPOA) after Pontiac voters on April 1, 1957, approved the scrapping of the 25-year-old Police Trial Board and placed the 110-man department under civil service.

The favorable vote climaxed a PPOA campaign to be freed of the seven-man Trial Board, whose members were appointed by the City Commission.

Association members charged that Straley exercised undue influence over the Trial Board and that it lacked rules of procedure.

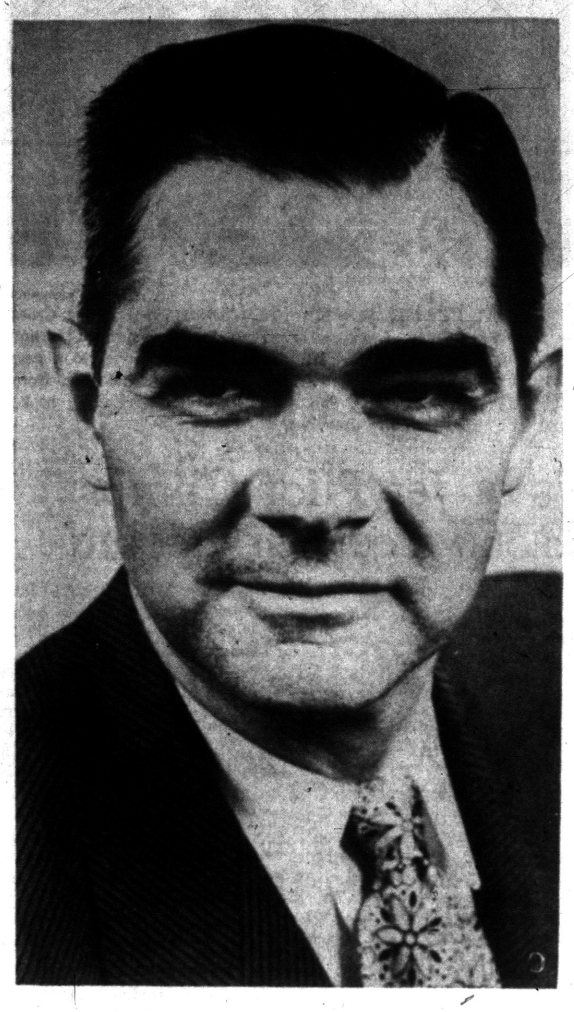

It was only a month later that the PPOA was demanding the removal of Straley. The association listed numerous grievances against the chief and claimed vice flourished in the city.

Vice squad officers openly charged their work was hampered by Straley's policies, which, they said, permitted the growth of the numbers racket in the city.

Worried about the internal strife, the City Commission entered the controversy in September of that year. Commissioners authorized a $9,000 study of the department by an impartial outside agency, the Public Administration Service (PAS) of Chicago.

The PAS report added fuel to the fire.

Made public on May 7, 1958, the report was a blistering criticism of Straley's regime.

20 Skip Prison

IVY BLUFF, N.C. (AP)—Twenty of North Carolina's worst criminals broke out of Ivy Bluff Prison — the state's Alcatraz — today.

They overpowered their guards and escaped with an arsenal of weapons.

A huge manhunt was under way in North Carolina and Southern Virginia as the hardened convicts, with a four-hour start before the break was discovered, stole automobiles near Yanceyville, N.C., and apparently fanned out in a variety of directions.

Ivy Bluff is considered the state's toughest prison. State prisons Director William F. Bailey has described the inmates as "incorrigibles, hardened criminals — the type you find in Alcatraz."

Normally housing fewer than 40, Ivy Bluff is situated in an isolated area 65 miles northwest of Raleigh and 20 miles from the Virginia state line. Completed in 1956, the prison is a red brick structure surrounded by a high fence topped with barbed wire.

Only last month, seven of its inmates were convicted of maiming themselves to escape work. Prisoners work in a huge rock quarry some 500 yards from the prison building. Three of those who escaped were among the men convicted of maiming themselves.

The escaped men were reported armed with a submachine gun, rifles and pistols—17 weapons in all.

Fifteen other prisoners refused to join in the break.

The convicts escaped in a prison truck, but later cars were reported stolen in the area.

R. A. Allen, assistant director of prisoners, said in Raleigh the break began at 12:40 a.m. It was not discovered until 4:30 a.m., when the overpowered guards were found.

President Calls for Disarmament

Says Western Powers Must Remain Strong Against Red Threat

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—President Eisenhower, speaking to a crowd reflecting this nation's poverty, today called upon all national leaders "worthy of the name" to join in an enforceable system of disarmament.

But he made it plain both the United States and Pakistan are determined to be strong so that "we may be in a better position confidently and effectively to search out paths to world peace with justice."

Backing up this theme, Eisenhower and Pakistan's President Mohammed Ayub Khan in a joint declaration urged non-Communist countries to maintain their defense alliances as a bulwark against communism.

Winding up his second day here, Eisenhower was acclaimed by Pakistanis on all sides, and hailed by the Pakistani President as one of the world's greatest champions of peace.

Eisenhower started out his event-filled day by appealing to Americans everywhere to wipe out all prejudices as a contribution to peace. He spoke to U. S. Embassy employes.

He and Ayub Khan whisked over the city in a U. S. Marine Corps helicopter to look over a Pakistani rehabilitation center for refugees.

AT POLO FIELD

His speech to a citizens' reception at the polo field adjacent to the presidential palace was a major one, and the highlight of his 40-hour stay in Pakistan.

About 15,000 Pakistanis—some in rags — squatted in the sun to hear him. His remarks were translated into their Urdu language.

"We are now in the nuclear age. No scientific discovery itself is evil. It becomes evil only when devoted by unworthy men to wicked purposes," he said.

"The world—the entire world—must insist that the conference table, rather than force be used for the settlement of international disputes. Every national leader worthy of the name must participate in this effort."

Werner Vice President of General Motors Corp.

Calvin J. Werner, who less than two weeks ago was named general manager of the GM Truck and Coach Division, yesterday was elected a vice president of the corporation.

A veteran of 36 years with General Motors, Werner has patented 62 inventions, all of which are assigned to the corporation.

One of them — shock absorbers—has a direct role in the new GMC truck development.

Before his appointment as Truck and Coach Division head, Werner had been general manager of GM's Moraine Products Division at Dayton, Ohio, for close to five years.

He began his General Motors career in 1923 with Delco Products Division at Dayton. He remained with that Division in various engineering and manufacturing capacities until joining Moraine Products in 1955.

Accepted by the GM Board of Directors earlier in the meeting were the resignations of Donaldson Brown, Walter S. Carpenter Jr., Lammot Du Pont Copeland, Emile F. Du Pont and Henry B. Du Pont.

The five also were directors of the E. I. Du Pont De Nemours Co.

FOLLOWS COURT RULING

The GM Board accepted their resignations in compliance with a Federal Court ruling in an anti-trust action involving the two firms. The Court had held that no officer or director of Du Pont could serve in the same capacity with General Motors.

A GM Board spokesman said the resignations were accepted "with deep regret."

"These directors and their pred-

Also elected at yesterday's meeting was Lloyd D. Brace, chairman of the First National Bank of Boston, as a director and member of GM's finance committee.

Director Lucius D. Clay, retired U.S. Army general, was elected to the bonus and salary committee.

Dance Festival Fails; Wind Blows, Blows

SYNOPSIS: The Eskimos of young Oonik's village are worried because for some mysterious reason the Ice King of the North has prevented the summer from arriving on schedule. To placate the Ice King, the villagers plan a festival in his honor.

CHAPTER TWO

"The Ice King of the North is very angry," said Miski, the wise man of the Eskimo village. "He sends frigid winds and storms of snow even though it is August and the ice on the sea should long since have melted.

"To placate the Ice King we must have a festival in his honor. Then he will surely put aside his anger and we will be able to do our summer hunting for reindeer and rabbits and duck."

"Hooray!" cried Oonik, the Eskimo boy. "I love festivals! Dancing! And singing! And eating! Oh, that will be good!"

But Oonik's mother said, "How can we have a festival? Hunting has been so poor there is scarcely any food left in the village. In my house we are down to our last seal flipper."

"It is the same with us," moaned the other women. "Our storerooms are nearly empty."

Oonik's father said, "Can we not have a festival without food?"

Miski shook his head. "The Ice King would be insulted if we had a festival in his honor and had no food. If we did not care to bring out our food in his honor perhaps he would not care to stop the winter winds."

Then the men said, "Very well. We will do it for the winter storms must end."

So the Eskimos returned to their igloos. The women melted snow and put their last hunks of meat in the water to stew. The men made flat drums out of wooden hoops covered with the thin inner tissues of seals.

When all was ready the villagers returned to the igloo of Miski, the wise man. They all sat on the floor of the snow house and Miski stood in their middle and sang a song to the Ice King.

He asked the Ice King to get over his anger and bring the Eski-

Striking Bus Drivers Make Courtesy Runs

About 20 cars are on the road every day, following established bus routes and maintain, as near as possible, established bus schedules, said John Sytsma, president of the drivers' union.

The courtesy cars bear signs announcing the service and explaining that though no fares can be charged legally, donations are welcome.

The State Labor Mediation board has invited union and management to a negotiating session Thursday in an effort to end the three-day strike over higher wages.

Colder Tonight, but Warmer Spot Set for Tomorrow

It will be fair and a little colder in the Pontiac area tonight, the weatherman says. The mercury is expected to drop to 25 degrees.

Wednesday's high will be a mild 40. Little temperature change and partly cloudy is the prediction for Thursday.

Winds westerly at eight miles an hour will become northwesterly at 18-28 miles late today and diminish tonight.

If Toy Is Too Babyish . . . You Are in for Trouble

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

In some ways children are as difficult to buy presents for as the fussiest adult. If you get a top he considers "babyish," you're in trouble. Little boys hate to get clothes as a gift, while little girls usually love them.

Either sex should love a member of the wiggly zoo. For mothers who are against all live pets, here's the answer. You can get a donkey, turtle, bird or duck. All have movable heads.

Another animal that requires no care and should delight the younger set is a TV horse or dog. Both are to be sat upon.

MRS. ODELL

If your child is fascinated with pirates, give him a metal pirate's treasure chest, complete with lock and key. His treasure is bound to be different from Blackbeard's, but who cares?

Maybe your small son will be proud to have leather slippers just like Dad's. If you get Dad a pair too, Junior should be pleased to wear his.

For the mechanically minded boy, there is a rocket test center toy; or a telegraph signal set; or a clock that actually runs, yet can be taken apart and put together again. Mothers should be warned that it has 25 pieces!

Little girls will like guest towels to embroider or a set of three-dimensional animals to fold. They will also like a plastic sewing kit that contains both material and a doll to dress.

Have you seen the new sleds? Made of unbreakable plastic, they resemble an elongated dust pan as much as anything. Tapes are fastened on each side for hand grips.

If a live pet is on your list, one store carries a good supply of hamsters, cockateels and finches.

To Hold Inter-County Meeting on Future Plans

Cite Pontiac's Need for County Help With Airport

By PETE LOCHBILER

Oakland County should stand ready to enter the Pontiac Municipal Airport picture — both as a planner and as a financier—according to Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

In the near future, the airport may become too big a concern for the city of Pontiac to handle alone, said Hamlin today as he and several civic leaders visualized a new era dawning for the Pontiac airport.

What exactly the future holds is still a matter of conjecture, but Pontiac leaders predict that the boom in air travel will spur development at the airport.

Hamlin stressed that the future of Pontiac's airport is tied in not only with Pontiac development, but with the future of air service facilities throughout southeastern Michigan.

Hamlin, a Farmington resident, heads a subcommittee of the six-county Supervisors Inter-County Committee which will hear an important report Thursday on a six-month study of the air facility needs through 1970 in Oakland, Wayne, Macomb, Washtenaw, Monroe and St. Clair counties.

Also commenting on the airport were Mayor Philip E. Rowston, City Manager Walter K. Willman, George Richman, president of the Downtown Merchants Assn.; A. C. Girard, president of Community National Bank; Fred V. Haggard, president of the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council; and Homer D. Hoskins, airport manager.

"It is time that the air facility problem is brought to the attention of Oakland County," Hamlin said. "Air transportation and the airplane have matured to the point where they have become a way of life to industry and to the people as a whole.

"The people not only need roads, water and sewers nowadays; they need airport facilities and good air services."

The county should be prepared to accept responsibility for the airport as a facility that serves a far wider area than merely the city of Pontiac, said Hamlin.

"No local unit of government (Pontiac) should be asked to shoulder the burden of promoting a facility for the whole area," he believed.

Rowston, predicting that the jet age will have a resounding impact on transportation, sensed the big role the airport may be called on to play in the near future.

PREPARE FOR SERVICE

"I believe we should consider immediately all possible avenues of development to implement our new terminal building and prepare ourselves for countywide services, at least, perhaps, for service to the metropolitan area as a whole.

"The tremendous progress of jet aircraft has rendered most airports inadequate and created an urgent demand for additional facilities.

"Although Pontiac airport can provide many services for smaller aircraft now, it should be expanded to accommodate the potential demand which is becoming increasingly acute."

Both Rowston and Willman predicted continued interest of the City Commission in airport expansion.

"The Commission definitely deserves credit for the land acquisition and many improvements of the last several years," the city manager said.

"I am certain their enthusiasm will continue. And with the continued financial help of federal and state authorities and the cooperation of area which uses the airport, I see nothing but continued progress in store for us.

"The coming passenger service (scheduled tentatively for next fall) will be a definite shot in the arm and will help point the way for everyone to the tremendous potential that exists in connection with the airport."

Richman's view of the airport is enriched by his many years experience as a flier there himself.

"The airport used to be more of a recreational center, but we have to change our way of thinking now," he said.

cially the airport — took a back seat because of the fact that a major transportation center (Detroit) was just a few miles away.

"Now we are in a transition stage. It is time now to strive for facilities and services to meet our needs—direct air transportation to Chicago and New York, for instance: air communications that would bring us the commercial and industrial interests that have been by-passing Pontiac."

Richman joined Girard and Haggard in foreseeing the favorable economic effect an expanded airport would have.

"Industry and business undoubtedly will put the better airport to more use and this would be bound to have a beneficial effect on Pontiac economy," Richman said.

"For such established industry as General Motors, an expanded air facility here would be a marvelous step forward."

Girard said he was in support of a new, forward-thinking policy concerning the airport.

He said the airport should become an areawide interest and believed Pontiac and its neighbors would suffer, competitively, in the fields of business and industry if Oakland County does not keep step with the jet age.

"Aviation will become increasingly important in all phases of life in the days ahead," Girard believed. "Progressive areas will keep abreast of this development and they will prosper because of it."

Haggard predicted that a busier Pontiac airport would favorably affect employment levels in the county.

The aviation industry itself, if it settles important branches in this area, would provide new jobs for more people, he observed.

But just as important, Haggard continued, would be the indirect affect on employment.

Haggard explained by noting that in many instances air transportation has been a shot-in-the-arm to business and industry, with a resultant upswing in commerce and production for an area which has air facilities handy.

Hoskins summed up the expansion program which the city has carried on in the past several years under the federal-aid-to-airports program, a cooperative plan of assistance in which the federal government pays one-half the cost, the state one-quarter and the local government one-quarter.

By next fall, the $345,000 terminal-tower should be in operation — a facility that meets only the minimum needs of the airport, he said, but one which was necessary for the passenger service scheduled for next fall also.

About the same time, one of the runways (east-west) will have been extended to 5,500 feet in length and strengthened to handle all conventional twin-engine craft and the smaller, four engine planes, too.

The airport has developed about a dozen new sites, ranging in size from 100 feet by 100 feet to 175 feet by 300 feet, for lease to private business. And there's lots of room left to develop still more sites after these are spoken for, Hoskins added.

Allocated and requested state and federal funds have been budgeted through 1961, said Hoskins.

Local governments cannot finance costly airport improvements by themselves, he said, nor can the state, which is already contributing to a score of improvement programs.

Last year, Congress set the controversial airport aid fund at $63,000,000 for 1960 and 1961. A new aid bill will be up again for discussion next session and Hoskins predicted that the amount would be raised.

"More and more communities are asking the federal government for aid," said Hoskins. "More funds will have to be made available or needed improvements won't take place.

Charged With Shoplifting

A Chicago man, charged with shoplifting from a Birmingham store, is being held in Oakland County jail on $10,000 bond after waiving examination yesterday.

John F. Marlin, 28, charged with stealing three sweaters from Danby's Store for Men, 122 W. Maple St., was bound over for trial in Circuit Court next Monday by Birmingham Municipal Judge Edward B. Emery.

Marlin was arrested Friday by Detective Richard Chambers and a store detective as he approached his car.

The police had been notified after witnesses saw Marlin put the three sweaters into a cardboard box.

Detective Chambers said he found nearly $2,000 in stolen merchandise in the trunk of Marlin's car.

Price tags still on the merchandise showed they were from stores in Owosso, Flint, Battle Creek, Grand Rapids and Lansing, Chambers said.

Pakistani Banquet for Barbara

Barbara gasped when she was confronted by the long buffet table in the sprawling state guest house.

"That is not particularly typical of Pakistan," one sari-clad hostess said. "Try some of this."

Barbara put a spoonful of mutton curry on her plate. Another Pakistani hostess suggested Barbara try a piece of nan—flat bread eaten by Pakistanis from the lowest classes to the highest.

"Oh you eat that with your fingers," she was told.

Underwriters Set Wednesday Meeting

The Pontiac Life Underwriters Assn. will hold its monthly breakfast meeting at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow in the Elks Temple.

Guest speaker will be Rudolph Leitman, multimillion dollar producer of the Detroit Agency. He has led the Michigan Division of the New York Life Insurance Co. for the past 15 years in sales. He also has been a member of the Million Dollar Round Table for 15 years.

Raw Weather Still Stinging Northeast Area

By The Associated Press

Stormy weather which dealt crippling blows across sections of the Northeast and South appeared diminishing today. Raw weather, however, stung parts of the Northeast.

Will Seek $100,000 Loan

Application to the federal government for a $100,000 loan to begin a long range Waterford Township water and sewer project was the main topic for discussion at last night's township board meeting.

Several meetings between engineers, bonding attorneys, consultants and the township board has resulted in application to the Federal Housing and Home agency for the advance-funds to cover the plan-preparation.

Total cost of interconnecting present water systems, laying new mains, and providing elevated water storage space will be approximately $8,000,000.

Clerk James Seeterlin presented several applications for the board's review and recommendations, before he was authorized to make application for the loan.

The plans for the installations were studied with the future growth of the township in mind. At the present time, there is a population of some 45,000 residents, and according to the Detroit Regional Planning Commission, by 1970 population in Waterford Township will be 88,500, Seeterlin pointed out.

After considerable discussion regarding the township board's policy on the police department operation, Arthur Holmes 34, of 3065 Stapleton St., Keego Harbor was hired.

Holmes, a former Keego Harbor policeman, was placed on the department payroll last week, and trustee John Coleman challenged the action before the township board had received recommendations on Holmes for the position.

Ten people from the Golfview Park subdivision were present at a hearing from 7 to 9 p.m. on the establishment of a street lighting district in the Elizabeth Lake road and Cass-Elizabeth Lake road area.

After a lengthy discussion, the board authorized supervisor Elmer R. Johnson to create the special lighting district at a cost of $714 annually.

The Waterford Township school district will pay a total of $19.62 for nine lots, the township will absorb approximately ten per cent of the total, and the balance will be divided between the 233 assessments in the subdivision, or about $2.45 for each assessment annually.

The problem of hiring a sewer plant operator was again discussed, and the clerk was authorized to advertise for a certified sewer plant operator, with at least a four year background in civil engineering.

The Michigan State Health department had presented correspondence to the effect that unless the township hired the plant operator soon, the matter would be referred to the Attorney General.

Township Recreation director Thomas Belton was present regarding flooding of ice skating rinks in the area, and requested that the township assist the recreation department in setting up and maintaining the rinks.

The Waterford-Drayton Kiwanis club has tentatively approved $200 to get this project underway.

The Silver Lake Estates subdivision plat was approved, the fire prevention code was again considered, and a package liquor store license was issued to the Tel-Dixie super market.

Young County GOP to Choose Officers

New officers for the coming year will be elected by members of the Oakland County Young Republican Club when they meet tonight at 8 in Birmingham.

Honored guests will be Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County) and Arthur G. Elliott Jr., county GOP chairman.

Joe Bianco, club chairman, said a complete slate of officers will be elected — including the chairman, vice chairman, treasurer and corresponding secretary.

License Suspension Error Corrected

A recent list of drivers license suspensions from the Michigan Secretary of State's Office erroniously listed Orbin A. Childers of 89 E. Montcalm St., as having lost his license due to drunk driving.

Childers did not have his operators license revoked or suspended and his name should have been omitted from the list, according to the office.

The rate of homicide victims among divorced women is three times as great as among married women, according to a recent survey.

MEDAL PERFORMANCE — The Distinguished Flying Cross is pinned on Cmdr. Lawrence E. Flint by Vice Adm. Clarence Ekstrom. Flint piloted his F4H Phantom II carrier jet to a new unofficial world's record of 98,560 feet yesterday in a flight from Edwards Air Force Base. The record the pilot apparently broke was set by a Russian last July.

speed as it plunged back into the atmosphere, the plane grew so hot from air friction that the paint on its nose and tail surfaces peeled away.

Flint soared to 98,560 feet, eclipsing the mark of 94,658 feet set in July by the Soviet Union's Maj. V. S. Ilyshin in a TU431 jet.

"Under better atmospheric conditions—if the upper air had been colder—I could have gotten a little more out of the engines and could have gone higher," said Flint, a tall, handsome 39-year-old who wears his graying hair close-cropped.

"I didn't know I actually had set a record until I came down. It is completely dark up there and I couldn't see my instrument panel."

The flight from takeoff to landing took 40 minutes. His period of twisting weightlessness lasted a minute and a half.

The Navy gave Flint a Distinguished Flying Cross for his feat. He returns this week to his home in Patuxent, Md., where he has a wife, Betty. He soon will begin training other pilots in the use of the record-setting plane.

Urges Enforceable Disarmament System

the two executives reviewed worldwide political questions, particularly dealing with relations between non-Communist countries and the Chinese-Soviet bloc.

They reaffirmed satisfaction over increasingly "close cooperation between Pakistan and the United States."

They emphasized the importance of maintaining the strength of the free world's defense alliances—the Central Treaty Organization in the Middle East, and the Southeast Asia Treaty. Pakistan is a member of both.

Their communique made clear that the United States will continue to provide major economic and military defense assistance to the hard-pressed Pakistanis to help lift living standards and maintain their security.

Waterford Twp. Boy, 6, Injured by Skidding Car

A Waterford Township youngster was in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital today after being hit by a slow moving automobile early today.

Six-year-old Jerry Tafel, son of Michigan state police trooper Gerald Tafel of 3531 Lakewood drive, was waiting for a school bus when he suddenly darted into the path of her car, Mrs. Stephen Ruelle of 1082 Alhi St., Waterford Township, told police.

The boy skidded along in front of the car for about 15 feet before she was able to stop on the slippery road, police said.

An emergency operation was performed on the boy at 10 a.m. for possible internal injuries.

16-Inch Snowfall Buries Buffalo Area

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Up to 16 inches of heavy, wet snow, drifted by gales, buried southwestern New York today while much of the rest of the state recovered from damaging high winds.

The storm, yesterday and overnight, snapped power lines, stranded school buses and closed rural schools in the Lake Erie snow belt.

Give Final Figures on Area UF Drive

Pledges for the Pontiac Area United Fund reached $662,865.11 as against a goal of $647,698, according to final figures released by Chairman Robert R. Eldred and President Leonard T. Lewis.

Actually, the employe pledges have already shrunk $13,000 because of the steel strike with some additional loss coming.

"We're very proud of the campaign committee," said President Lewis. "The workers turned in a grand job and the community responded generously. We are theoretically at 102.3 per cent of our goal, but the payroll losses because of the steel slack have already eaten up the overage. However, that had nothing to do with the fine work done by the volunteers."

Blizzard Winds Lashing Europe

Death Toll Already at 60 From Cold, Floods; Ships in Trouble

LONDON (AP) — Hurricane winds howled around the storm-lashed coasts of Europe for the third day today. The great storm brought blizzards, floods and a deep freeze from the northern tip of Scandinavia down through central Europe.

The death toll from the battering by the elements edged toward 60.

After nearly 24 hours of heavy rain along the French Riviera, engineers and rescue workers braced to meet a new flood threat in the Reyran River valley, where more than 300 persons died in the break of the Malpasset Dam last week.

The Reyran was rising rapidly, and a fleet of buses stood ready to evacuate about 2,500 people from the seaside suburb of Frejus-Plage.

In the Atlantic, mountainous waves up to 80 feet high buffeted great liners, putting them as much as 24 hours behind schedule.

The captain of a French navy weather frigate reported from far out in the Atlantic: "I have just heard from an American ship. Her captain thinks the storm has put 500 ships in difficulties."

British Coast Guardmen answered distress signals from the 3,000-ton Swedish freighter Anna, driven ashore on the rocky east coast of Scotland. A line was rocketed to her deck, and rescue teams prepared to hoist the crew to the overhanging cliffs.

Only a few miles away the 217-ton British trawler George Robb had heeled over on the rocks earlier Monday. All her crew of 12 men were lost and a Coast Guardman collapsed and died during the search for survivors.

mos good weather so they could have good hunting again.

Then Miski sat down and the men began to beat on their drums with sticks made of ivory walrus tusks.

ESKIMOS SING

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Then the Eskimos sang. First they sang in a soft chant keeping time to the drum beat. Presently their voices rose and their singing became louder than the wind, roaring around the igloo. Oonik, anxious to please the Ice King, sang louder than all the rest.

The dancing started. All the men and boys stood in their places and stamped on the floor and moved their arms up and down in curious patterns meant to placate the Ice King.

After that the food was served. Oonik took half his share outside to his dog Keotuk who crouched at the door.

"Don't worry," said Oonik soothingly to his dog. "This has been a festival such as I have never seen. It is bound to have pleased the Ice King and tomorrow good weather will come and we will have good hunting again."

But, alas! On that very night came a storm worse than any that had come before.

The furious wind swept sheets of ice from the north and hurled them on the tiny Eskimo village. Three igloos were smashed by the tons of ice and the poor owners had to move in with neighbors. A mountain of ice pushed out of the sea and towered over the village.

"The Ice King did not hear us, there is nothing more we can do," Miski told the terrified Eskimos who gathered in his igloo after the storm.

Oonik went out in the cold. He fell to his knees in the snow and pressed his mouth against the ear of Keotuk, the dog.

"Listen to me, Keotuk," he murmured. "I have a plan!"

Keotuk wagged his tail and licked his master's chin as if to say, "I'll do anything you say!"

"Come, then," said Oonik, jumping to his feet. "You and I are going to Santa Land!"

White Sox Trade Callison to Phillies

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies today traded third baseman Gene Freese to the Chicago White Sox for outfielder Johnny Callison in an interleague deal.

This was the ninth trade completed during the major-minor baseball sessions. It was the eleventh since the interleague trading period went into effect Nov. 21.

Freese, 25, batted .268 for the Phillies last season. Promoted from a pinch-hitting role to the regular third base assignment, he hit 23 home runs and drove in 70 runs. Four of his homers came in a pinch-hit role.

Callison, only 20, is regarded as one of the most promising sluggers of the future. He opened the season with the White Sox but was optioned to Indianapolis of the American Assn. in early June and batted .299 there.

Commission Speeds Up Meeting to Do Shopping

BIRMINGHAM—The hustle of men busy Christmas shopping here last night prodded City Commissioners to move fast on their meeting agenda so they could join the throngs.

It was men's night only in Birmingham stores—women stayed away from the melee. And, members of the City Commission, all men but one, were anxious to get their Christmas shopping completed also.

In rapid-fire action, they:

Shelved a request from the Twelve Towns Drain Board seeking right-of-way approval on Coolidge highway, due to additional information submitted by the Board at the last minute.

(The information was turned over to City Manager L. R. Gare for a report next week.)

Okayed construction of a backstop and fence for the new Little League ball diamond at Eton Park and awarded the contract to low-bidder Arrow Fence Co. for $1,370.

And okayed purchase by the city of six new vehicles from low bidder North Chevrolet Co. at a price of $7,540.

(To be replaced are three police cars, a suburban truck for the engineering field crew, a pickup truck for the Sewer Department, and a pickup truck for the Forestry Department.)

Bloomfield Hills architect Eero Saarinen has received the Dickinson College Arts Award for "distinguished achievement in architecture."

Saarinen's award consisted of a Wedgewood medallion and $1,000. The ceremony took place at the college in Carlisle, Pa. Saarinen has designed the MIT auditorium, General Motors Technical Center, the new U.S. Embassy in London, and the Milwaukee War Memorial, among other buildings.

The Franklin Cemetery Auxiliary will hold its annual Christmas Party Thursday at the home of Mrs. Donald S. Brownlee, 656 F. Square Lake Rd., Bloomfield Township.

Following business, members will exchange Christmas gifts.

D. A. Baker

Service for D. A. Baker, 66, of 1662 Hamilton Dr., Bloomfield Township, will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday from Manley Bailey Funeral Home.

Burial will be in Fayette, Ohio, with a graveside service at 2:30 p.m. Thursday.

Mr. Baker died today at his home after a lengthy illness.

He had his own machine and grinding business in Birmingham until his retirement in 1955.

Surviving besides his wife, Bessie, are a daughter, Mrs. John D. Leasia of Royal Oak, and three grandchildren.

Judge Upholds Orsini Sentence; Fine Is Paid

Frank A. Orsini paid a $100 fine and $25 in costs yesterday after being found guilty on his appeal of a 1956 drunk driving conviction.

Orsini, of 206 Bassett St., received the sentence from Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland who found him guilty last week on his appeal from the court of former Waterford Township Justice Willis D. Lefurgy.

Orsini, a business agent with Pontiac Teamsters Local 614, was arrested by township police July 3, 1956 for being intoxicated during an argument with a trucker on a highway.

Found guilty by Lefurgy, he was ordered to pay $100 fine and $25 costs.

This sentence was suspended pending his appeal to Circuit Court.

In upholding Lefurgy, Judge Holland imposed the same sentence or 30 days in the county jail. Orsini paid the fine and costs.

Student's Suit Deemed Unwise —Case Dismissed

TRENTON, N. J. (UPI) — The State Supreme Court Monday voted unanimously to dismiss action by a former college student who sued Columbia University for failing to teach him wisdom.

Roy G. Jacobsen, 28, of Hackettstown, N. J., had sought $8,065 in damages.

Jacobsen said the damages would cover three years tuition, loss of earnings while he was a student at Columbia and $16 for legal advice.

He pleaded his own case when he appeared before the state's highest court to present his arguments last month in an appeal against a lower court ruling that there was no cause for action.

Attorney Charles Egan who represented Columbia University quoted Superior Court Judge Gerald T. Foley that "Wisdom cannot be taught, if in fact it can be defined."

Alpine Switzerland, with an area of only 15,900 square miles, has 125 winter resorts, 900 licensed ski instructors and about 7,000 hotels.

FBI Slates Parleys to Fight Auto Thefts

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The FBI will hold a nationwide series of conferences next month to devise ways to combat the rising number of auto thefts.

FBI Chief J. Edward Hoover said yesterday invitations would be sent to law enforcement officers and others whose work is closely connected with the question.

The first conference will be held Jan. 6, 1960, at La Grange, Ga. More than 180 conferences will be sponsored in the current series.

FBI crime statistics showed that 270,965 auto thefts were reported in 1958, an increase of 5,000 over 1957.

Officer of 40 & 8 Charges Politics

Says Legion Practices Segregation as Much as His Own Group

DETROIT (AP)—A national vice commander of the American Legion's expelled 40 and 8 says the chief of the veterans group is trying to use his job as a political steppingstone.

"Every fellow who becomes a national commander of the American Legion wants to become a big man politically," said Fred E. Garrity, 60, of Detroit.

Garrity is one of five national 40 and 8 vice commanders. He said his group was expelled from the legion because of the political ambitions of its national commander, Martin B. McNeally.

McKneally expelled the fun-loving 40 and 8 from the legion because he said the group had a membership ban on Negroes.

"I don't know what McNeally's political ambitions are or who is putting the pressure on him," said Garrity, "but there are kingmakers in every organization."

Garrity said the 40 and 8 has a "white males only" caluse in its constitution. He said legion posts follow the same policy without the clause.

"We have no quarrel with the legion and never forced any with it," said Garrity. "Now they are kicking us out for the same thing they do under the table. I don't know of a single Negro in a white (legion) post in Detroit."

Mackie Predicts 3 Strip Cities Along Highways

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Three major expressway routes in Southern Michigan will become "strip cities" by 1957, Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie predicted Monday.

For all practical purposes these routes will be "one gigantic metropolis," Mackie said in remarks prepared for ceremonies dedicating 55 miles of Interstate 94 (U.S. 12) in Calhoun, Kalamazoo, Van Buren and Berrien counties.

Population will boom, he said, along U.S. 12, running from Detroit to Chicago, the U.S. 16 Detroit - to - Muskegon expressway and U.S. 23 from the Ohio border north to Bay City. He likened their potential development to a section between Philadelphia and New York where population density exceeds 600 persons per square mile.

"Such a development will afford us with the opportunity of designing ideal communities, with roads, industries, residences and businesses coordinated into an over-all plan for living," Mackie said.

The commissioner urged communities and townships along the new expressway routes to start long-range planning on zoning and similar matters.

What a Schnozz!

NEW YORK (UPI) — A cement cast made of Jimmy Durante's nose showed that his famous schnozz measures 77 millimeters long, 36 millimeters wide and has a visible circumference of 98 millimeters. These figures compare with an average person's 55-26-62.

Last Civil War Veteran Takes Turn for Worse

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Confederate veteran Walter Williams fought his fourth bout with pneumonia this year and his doctor said Monday he had taken a turn for the worse.

Williams, 117, last surviving veteran of the Civil War armies, had a 101 degree temperature Monday night.

Williams, who celebrated his 117th birthday, Nov. 14, has been bedridden the past two years.

He Had an Excuse

NEWCASTLE, Wyo. (AP)—Fred M. Bozanich, 20, showed up a little late for his wedding. But he had a good alibi. He was in justice court, paying a $25 fine and $5 court costs for disturbing the peace.

Push to Restore Defense Work

Michigan Congressmen Alarmed by Decline of Contracts for State

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's congressional delegation is planning a bipartisan attempt to reverse the steady decline in defense work being awarded to Michigan industries.

Earliest efforts are being directed at getting a share of contracts to be awarded for three Army vehicles — the M60 tank, the M88 tank retriever and the M113 armored personnel carrier.

The Army reportedly is planning to place sizable orders for the three vehicles, although totals won't be available until Congress approves the defense budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

A Defense Department spokesman said current acquisition plans are of necessity classified until the Army finds out how much of the estimated 41-billion-dollar defense budget it will be allotted.

Whatever the final total, prime contracting or subcontracting work resulting from the orders could be expected to create or preserve a sizable number of jobs.

Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich) wrote all members of the state's congressional delegation recently urging a combined effort to boost the state's share of military contracts — which has been declining steadily since the Korean War.

University to Return Student Loan Grants

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP)—Wesleyan University has decided to return about $30,000 in student loan funds to the federal government, presumably in protest of the loyalty affidavit required of students who borrow money.

Asked whether the board also voted to withdraw from the Federal Student Loan Program, University President Victor L. Butterfield said "That's as far as it went" — meaning the decision to return the funds.

LITTLE GABE AND THE GOLDEN STARS — A Christmas Story — By Walt Scott

Thurm Blames Trailer Firms

Claims Corner-Cutting Competition at Fault; Cites Thermostat Need

ELKHART, Ind. (AP)—The president of a firm whose trailer heaters have been blamed for the asphyxiation of 16 persons says part of the fault is due to corner-cutting competition in the mobile home industry.

Eight of the victims died in Michigan.

Alvin Siefert, head of Thurm Engineering Corp., Elkhart, said the company's model 8MNS gas heater was "border line faulty."

But he told the Elkhart Truth that producers of small camping and hunting trailers insisted on buying the heaters without safety thermostats for $13 apiece.

Siefert said the cheaper heaters needed improvements in construction of the firebox and stack ventilation holes. Without these changes and a safety shutoff device, the heaters produced more gas than could be ignited and used.

This extra gas seeped out into the trailers, lulling occupants into a stupor from which they never awakened.

But Siefert said trailer manufacturers and dealers—there are dozens in this northeastern Indiana area—went past the danger point in cost-saving methods of installing the heaters.

Tests made after the death reports began coming in, he said, showed the heater should be vented by a straight pipe through the trailer's ceiling. But in every death trailer they checked, Thurm technicians found ventilation made by a short elbow pipe through the side.

The worried trailer industry isn't standing still concerning the heater deaths. At least two trade groups—the Mobile Home Manufacturers Assn. and the Travel Trailer Manufacturers Assn.—are working with insurance companies to set up minimum safety standards for equipment.

Request $400,000 in Use Tax Refunds

LANSING (UPI) — Nearly $400,000 in refunds has been requested by persons who paid the additional 1 per cent use (sales) tax during the 52 days the levy was in effect, Deputy Revenue Commissioner Clarence Lock said today.

Lock said about $100,000 had been paid in refunds, the bulk of which was in the added tax on new and used car sales, and "three or four times that much" was waiting to be paid

The car buyer who paid the $30 or so additional under the 4 per cent levy before the tax was outlawed by the Supreme Court, can file a refund request by contacting the Revenue Department in Lansing.

2nd Trial Approved for Mack, Whiteside

Their first trial last summer ended in a deadlocked jury. The jury stood 11 to 1 for conviction when it was discharged by U.S. District Judge Burnita S. Matthews here.

Has Common Courtesy Become Thing of Past?

Maybe you saw a picture the other day showing a San Francisco policeman pininng a rebellious motorist against his motorcycle after the man allegedly assaulted him during an arrest.

It might have been Pontiac instead of the West Coast. The general attitude is about the same wherever you go.

The fellow, according to police, was getting a ticket for speeding and failing to heed a siren. When the encounter was over, the list of charges included resisting arrest and assault and battery.

Persons stopped for speeding, parking illegally and other minor infractions decide to resist the arresting officer or officers. Sometimes even crowds of 50 to a 100 gather to cast their weight against the law.

It is gravely disturbing to see either the offenders or their volunteer mobs of supporters thus compounding the offense. Yet it goes on every day. This is lawless behavior which shows utter contempt for the law and its enforcers.

Why?

Perhaps it is twofold.

We seem to have grown into a nation of edgy personalities with utter disregard for our fellow man. Our sole interest is ourselves, and to heck with the next fellow or his feelings.

Far too much of this attitude exists. Police officers as well as motorists are sometimes guilty. With Christmas approaching, this should be an appropriate time for all of us to practice a little common courtesy.

Long Dynasty Appears Headed for Oblivion

As recently as just a few months ago Ex-Governor EARL K. LONG was making a mockery of state government in Louisiana. Now the worm has turned and old blowhard EARL is dumped for what we hope is the last time.

The once powerful Long dynasty seems ended at least for the time being. With Earl gone from the scene all that is left is Senator Russell Long. Russell is the son of the late "Kingfish" and his plans for the future have not been disclosed.

The elimination of the hot-tempered, uncouth LONG is an indication that the voters will eventually speak their piece. They let it be known in no uncertain terms that they had had just about enough of rambunctious EARL.

Louisiana without a Long is like cake without a frosting. But it is entirely possible that Senator LONG may fill this niche.

Southeast Asian Trade Dominated by Chinese

Small nations of Southeast Asia have long been uneasy by reason of an estimated 11 million Chinese living in their midst.

Most of these Chinese are of the merchant class who through their industry, perseverence and business sense exercise influence in the economic life of relatively undeveloped countries out of all proportion to their numbers.

They seldom become citizens of the countries in which they live. Both Formosa and Peiping seek to hold their loyalty. Monthly remittances that almost all Chinese abroad send to relatives at home are said to be one of mainland China's principal sources of foreign exchange.

Last May Indonesia asked the 2.5 million Chinese (three per cent of the population) living in that country to become citizens. There has been little response. In another step to curb the Chinese merchants' domination of the economy, SUKARNO has banned trading by aliens in rural areas beginning Jan. 1. Last year he also closed down Nationalist Chinese schools and shops.

In the opinion of experts the only way to ease the animosities caused by the presence of Chinese nationals in all Southeast Asia is to require their merger with the native peoples. They should then have equality and security of land tenure.

Continued strife benefits Communist factions seeking to overthrow existing governments. Red China already has warned Indonesia that anti-Chinese activities would harm friendly relations between the two countries.

Something New Has Been Added

David Lawrence Says:

Japan Envoy Calls War Blunder

WASHINGTON — The Japanese ambassador to the United States in 1941, Adm. Kichisaburo Nomura, is quoted as having just said that the attack on Pearl Harbor was a "great blunder" for Japan, "forced on our responsible people by young, audacious elements."

LAWRENCE

This is not hindsight on his part, either. For no man worked harder than he did in those days to prevent hostilities between Japan and the United States.

"You will win, but war settles nothing," he said privately to this correspondent in discussing the possibility of war. This was just a few days before the break came. He was convinced that the Far East would not be peaceful for decades to come if America and Japan went to war.

Ambassador Nomura's views on the unwisdom of a conflict with the United States were known to the foreign office in Tokyo, and this is one of the reasons why he was never apprised in advance that there would be an attack on Pearl Harbor.

But, to be realistic and fair, it is necessary to point out that there were blunders in American policy, too. A large share of the blame for the war must be taken by those in Washington who did not fully grasp the fundamental reasons that led to the rise in power of the militaristic bloc in Japan.

HAD WARNING

Cabinet crisis after cabinet crisis should have been a warning that the truly liberal groups in Japan were losing out because the passions of nationalism were being inflamed by attacks on American policy toward China — a policy which was regarded then as hostile to Japan's commercial expansion on the Asian mainland.

The United States was right, to be sure, in opposing Japanese aggression in Manchuria and other areas in China. Commercial development, on the other hand, should have been possible without the necessity of interfering with the aspirations of each nation to be free and independent. American policy might well have been pursued in that direction.

Possibly the biggest opportunity for a peaceful solution of the Far Eastern dilemma came in 1934 when the Japanese government announced at a London conference with special envoys from Britain and the United States that the treaty limiting naval armament, sponsored by the late Sec. of State Charles Evans Hughes, could no longer be adhered to by the Tokyo government.

One of the reasons given was the build-up of American military and naval bases in the Philippines. Unfortunately, the minds of the American people, and particularly the officials of the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt, were occupied primarily with domestic affairs in those years.

Instead of pointing out that the United States would have to build up its naval strength, too, if the existing treaty were ended, and that this would precipitate a period of tension, nothing was done to promote a different solution. Also, America failed to keep up its naval armament.

Certainly there were enough peaceful elements in Japan at that time which could have rallied to the idea of a new treaty of friendship with the United States and the creation of new commercial projects in the Far East.

The United States and Japan could have shared in these ventures and thus have overcome the arguments of the militarists who insisted that, in view of Japan's growing population, something drastic had to be done —even if it involved military aggression—to provide outlets for Japanese industry and trade.

In the light of what is happening today—with China in the hands of the Communists and Japan reduced materially in military and economic strength—the United States and Britain have no really powerful ally in the Far East.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Tablet Form Doesn't Mean Riboflavin Is Medicine

"I took riboflavin as you suggested, for cracks at the corners of mouth, which I had had for some time," reports a reader.

"Some time" might be a week, a month or five years.

"Almost immediately," the reader continues, "the cracks healed.

"Then after a few weeks I discontinued the tablets, and now after two months time they have reappeared. Would it be harmful to take the tablets all the time? (L.H.D.)"

DR. BRADY

First it may be well to explain that riboflavin is otherwise known as vitamin B2 and was formerly called vitamin G.

The Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council recommends these daily allowances as the minimum nutritional requirements of riboflavin:

For infants
under a year old .....0.6 mg.
For children one to twelve years old .....0.6 to 1.8 mg.
For girls 12 to 20
years old .....1.8 to 2 mg.
For active woman 2.2 to 2.7 mg.
For sedentary man .....2.2 mg.
For active man ....2.7 to 3 mg.
(Mg. means milligram — about 1/65 of a grain).

NEED MORE

In any instance where nutritional deficiency manifestations are present, at least two or three times the daily allowance or minimum is required to correct the deficiency and this optimal daily ration should be continued for at least a month after disappearance of the manifestations of deficiency.

Thereafter the individual chooses his own course: Either an adequate daily dose of the vitamins and/or minerals to supplement his poor diet, or else revision of his everyday diet to insure adequate intake of the vitamins and / or minerals in question.

From the reader's query it is evident that he or she regards riboflavin as medicine, for, after all it comes in 5 milligram tablets, doesn't it? Millions of gullible Americans share in this childish fancy.

The characteristic lip lesion of ariboflavinosis (riboflavin deficiency) begins as a pallor of the mucous membrane of the lips in the angles of the mouth, followed by maceration and transverse fissures. Corners of mouth are moist and covered with a honey-colored crust.

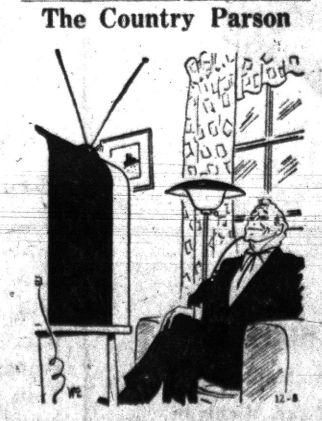

The lips become abnormally red along the line of closure. With this there is likely to be a fine, scaly, greasy peeling on a reddened line in the crease from sides of nose down around the mouth.

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Revision Isn't the Answer; Abolish the Whole System'

In answer to Ex-Nevada, who's asking for more power for small states, his state is already overrepresented. In the Senate one of Nevada's Senators represents 80,000 persons. A Michigan Senator represents over three million.

As for his specific statement about the electoral college, which is a sorry excuse for a democratic institution, one presidential elector from Nevada represents about 50,000. A Michigan elector represents over 300,000.

You couldn't understand anything at all from Cuba and it just went to prove they didn't understand how to do it because TV is very good from a distant point as a rule. WJR and WPON were poor for a long time, but they're both quite good now and WXYZ-TV should do the same.

'Is This His Way of Winning Walter?'

Senator Kennedy, runner for the Democratic nomination, has introduced the "Right to Loaf" bill. According to this bill, a person after earning as little as $1,770 can "become unemployed" and collect $2,301 in unemployment benefits. This, thinks Senator Kennedy, is the way to promote morality and raise production. Or perhaps he had to introduce the bill as a means of wooing Mr. Reuther's support for the Presidency.

Small College Must Help Itself

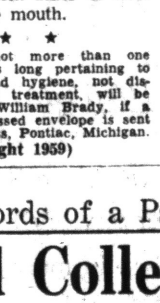

Private colleges need our support but they can also help themselves financially by the efficient business strategy outlined below. By imitating the high school Student. Faculty ratio of 24:1, every small college can get into the black ink within one semester and and stay there. Scrapbook this vital case for it can save dollars and cents for every taxpayer.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I wonder if you'd come out and give us an address to help launch our $5,000,000 campaign drive?"

CRANE

Every reader and especially all taxpayers should scrapbook this case, for it can save you a lot of taxes.

Since almost all colleges, both private and state, are harassed by constant need for more money, and since college enrollments are due to double by 1970, you should face the college problem squarely and without emotional bias.

First of all, confiscatory taxation has cut down much of the wealth that formerly was channelled into colleges.

John D. Rockefeller, for example, contributed over $76,000,000 to the University of Chicago alone.

And the Ford Foundation scattered over $500,000,000 between several hundred colleges and hospitals.

But such gifts are growing rare and may never occur again.

If we do not voluntarily support the private colleges, then they may fold up. Then the state universities will be deluged with those extra students.

In that case we shall be FORCED to pay the additional taxes for those expanded state colleges. So we taxpayers will get stuck with the bill, either way!

The private colleges are of vital importance to America, so it is wise to VOLUNTARILY offer them support.

But colleges must demonstrate better business efficiency if they wish to merit greater public support.

STUDENT-FACULTY RATIO

Harvard University had 10,834 students last year and 4,078 teachers, for a Student: Teacher ratio of about 2½ to 1.

The average college S:T ratio nowadays is 12:1.

But the city high schools run a 24:1 ratio, and are fully accredited educational institutions. North Central College, for example, is above average in its business gumption, for its S:T ratio is now 16:1.

If its ratio were brought up to the 24:1 that is typical of high schools, the faculty alone would bring in an additional $250,000 annually, which is the equivalent, at 5 per cent of a gift of $5,000,000.

Meanwhile, their own salaries could be raised materially and still leave a big amount for general expansion and overhead.

"Yes, Dr. Crane," a university president recently commented, "I agree with you, but what about our Accreditation Association which keeps demanding FEWER students per faculty?"

Well, that obsolete doctrine is fast disappearing, for if high school teachers can handle 24 pupils apiece, why can't college profs do equally well?

American business leaders are thus objecting to this outmoded malarky about FEWER students to permit more PERSONAL contacts.

At 24:1, the usual prof can easily see each of his 24 quota for personal interview twice per term and still not devote 2 hours per week to such personal counseling!

Business Colleges have long operated entirely on tuitional revenue without ANY aid from taxpayers or big business, and they do a superlative job, so Liberal Arts colleges simply MUST get hep to their efficiency methods.

U. S. Population in Major Shift

Sunshine States and Solid Industrial Areas Score Big Gains

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Census Bureau reported yesterday a drastic reshuffling with sunshine states and prosperous industrial sections benefitting most.

The total national population rose 15 per cent from the 1950 census through July 1, 1958, increasing from 150,697,361 to an estimated 173,232,000.

It now stands at 179,000,000 and is expected to reach 180,000,000 by next spring.

California had the largest population increase, adding 3,698,000 persons in the 8¼ years. Six other states gained more than one million persons each.

MICHIGAN SIXTH

Florida had the second largest population gain, about 1,744,000, followed by Texas with 1,613,000 Ohio with 1,587,000, New York with 1,483,000, Michigan with 1,458,000 and Illinois with 1,288,000.

The Western states showed the biggest percentage gain of 29.1 per cent on a net gain of about 6,600,000 persons.

The Northeast gained least percentagewise with a total increase of 9.8 per cent, about 3,800,000 persons.

But they presumably reflected the trek of older persons and others to warmer climes.

University Studies Murders

Killers, Victims Have Records

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Who are the killers, and who are the people they kill?

Some answers are provided by Dr. Marvin E. Wolfgang, a University of Pennsylvania sociologist who has just completed an exhaustive study of every criminal homicide in Philadelphia from 1948 through 1952—588 in all.

Dr. Wolfgang sought to find out when and where the killings took place, the weapons used, the motives involved and the relationship between killer and victim.

From his study, he concludes: "Homicide is the apex crime, a crescendo built upon previous assault crimes."

The Wolfgang study shows 64 per cent of the killers had previous police records. Of those with police record, 73 per cent had been arrested for aggravated assault and battery.

Those killed were not much different than the killers themselves, Wolfgang found. Of the 588 victims, 277, or 57 per cent, also had police records. Of these, Wolfgang asserts, fully 26 per cent brought on their own slayings in some way. Alcohol frequently was a factor.

NEGROES LEAD

"The most striking feature in the comparison of race and sex distributions in criminal homicide is the extent to which Negroes exceed whites. Of the 588 victims, 73 per cent are Negro; of the 621 offenders, 75 per cent are Negro," Wolfgang noted.

In 1950, the midpoint of the study, 18 per cent of Philadelphia's population was Negro.

Men greatly outnumber women as killers and victims, the study showed. Of victims, 73 per cent are males and of the killers, 82 per cent.

Wolfgang said 39 per cent of the killings were caused by stabbing; 33 per cent by shooting; 22 per cent by beatings, and 6 per cent in other ways.

Women, he found, were more apt to kill by stabbing and to be killed by beatings.

The most dangerous day for homicides was Saturday, and the most dangerous hours from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m., the study showed. In 64 per cent of the cases, one or both of those involved had been drinking, and far more often it was both.

Russians Receive Data on Sputnik From U. S.

MOSCOW (UPI)—American scientists have supplied Soviets with data from more than 700 observations of the third Soviet satellite, a Russian astronomer, said Monday.

The Tass News Agency quoted Atla Masevich, vice president of the Soviet Astronomical Council, as saying the Russians want to cooperate with foreign scientists on all problems of science including outer space.

Masevich said the USSR Astronomical Council had recently stepped up its contacts with the Smithsonian Observatory, the center of optical tracking of satellites in the United States.

Rocky-Nixon Bout Shapes Up

May Tangle in Jersey Primary April 19; If All the Signs Correct

WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility that Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller may tangle in New Jersey's 1960 presidential primary developed today.

Nixon was reported to have canvassed the New Jersey situation informally Monday night with former Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll, a dinner guest. There was no public comment from either after what was described as largely a social affair.

While Driscoll has been relatively inactive in politics recently, his support helped President Eisenhower give the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio one of the latter's worst preconvention setbacks in the 1952 New Jersey primary.

Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-NJ) said it is his judgment that if Rockefeller decides to contest Nixon for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination he is likely to carry the fight to the vice president in the state's April 19 primary.

Case, who is maintaining a neutral attitude between the two potential candidates, said in an interview he thinks most organization Republicans in New Jersey now are for Nixon. But he said this could change.

Pack 9 Cubs Turn In Reconditioned Toys

At their recent annual Christmas party, members of Cub Scout Pack 9 of Webster School turned in toys which they have been collecting and reconditioning for the past month for distribution to youngsters at the Oakland County Children's Home on Christmas day.

The toys were presented to Dave Ewalt, cubmaster, to take to the Home.

Highlights of the meeting were pack games and the singing of Christmas carols. Eighteen cub scouts received awards.

PINCH ON CHEEK FOR LEADING CANDIDATE — A New Orleans woman campaign worker gives leading gubernatorial candidate DeLesseps Morrison a healthy pinch on the cheek as he makes his way through a crowd of supporters. Morrison, a Catholic who led an 11-candidate Democratic primary Saturday, must now face former Governor Jimmie Davis in a Jan. 9 runoff. Earl Long, ineligible to seek a third successive term as governor, was third in the race for lieutenant governor. It was his worst beating since 1936.

Expect Protests on Tax Package

Beer, Liquor, Tobacco Men Already Swamp Lansing Leaders

LANSING (AP) — House leaders braced today for a surge of protests against higher taxes proposed on beer, liquor and tobacco.

Representatives of the three industries lined up to list their complaints to the House Taxation Committee, which is scanning a 34-million-dollar "nuisance" tax package passed last week by the Senate.

Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton), committee chairman, said vending machine distributors and telephone company interests also were expected to testify this afternoon.

Drinkers and smokers would pay the lion's share of the cost—about 26 million dollars—and telephone and telegraph users the rest.

An estimated 5,000 letters and cards, most apparently sent by tavern operators and beer interests, have poured into the House post office in recent days in protest against the package.

Similar strategy last month worked temporarily in the Senate, blocking a 73½ million-dollar nuisance tax program. But when an emergency revenue plan narrowed down to a choice between a Democratic-backed payroll tax and a package of consumer levies, the Republican-controlled Senate stuck its label on the latter.

Both the House and Senate were technically scheduled to meet last night after a weekend rest. But, with no prospect of tax action, only a token force showed up. Lawmakers were expected back in stronger force today.

Ypsilanti Student Dazed Over Slaying

YPSILANTI (AP) — A high school student accused of murder in the shotgun slaying of his father Sunday night says he can't recall details of the shooting.

Joe Beard Jr., 18, appeared dazed as he stood mute at his arraignment on a first degree murder charge yesterday in the death of Joseph Beard Sr., 46, at his Ypsilanti home.

The youth said in a statement to assistant Washtenaw County Prosecutor William F. Delhey that all he could remember about the shooting were events leading up to it.

"He was trying to hurt my mother," he said. Joseph's father was shot in the chest on a stairway following an argument with his wife Irene. Police said the elder Beard had been drinking.

Would Send Crewmen Back to Native Greece

DETROIT (AP)—Immigration officials moved today to send 21 crewmen of the impounded Greek ship Theodoros A. back to their native countries or aboard other ships.

Attorneys for the crewmen, 19 of them Greek and two Cuban, began taking depositions from them yesterday. The 21 have filed suit against the ship's owners, seeking $50,000 in back pay, bonuses and transportation costs.

The Theodoros A. was seized in Lake St. Clair Nov. 8 under a U.S. District Court order obtained by creditors. Held at Detroit, its $350,000 cargo of wheat was transferred to another vessel. The grain was being shipped from Canada to Venezuela.

The pearls found in American oysters usually have little commercial value.

About 75 per cent of all electrical appliances are bought by people who had no intention of buying them at the beginning of the year. And since 88 per cent of American families receive a newspaper every day, the chances are that a newspaper ad gave them the idea.

Rocket Engine Test Successful

Liquid Hydrogen Fuel Tops Kerosene; 3 New Satellite Firings Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space scientists have announced a successful test of a new tupe rocket engine and plans to orbit a trio of Echo satellites.

The nation's first rocket engine fueled with liquid hydrogen—the huge XLR115—has been test fired successfully, the Pentagon disclosed Sunday. The engine produced a kick 30 per cent greater than current kerosene-fueled rocket engines.

Plans for launching of the three Echo satellites—the first of them perhaps next March—were announced by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The balloon-like spheres will be as tall as 10-story buildings and will be fired into orbit 1,000 miles above the earth.

Scientists around the world have been invited to try to bounce radio signals off the big aluminum-coated spheres.

SIMILAR TO EARLIER

The three satellites to be used in the global communications experiment will be similar to the one inflated Oct. 28 abot 250 miles above Wallops Island, Va.

Thousands of residents along 1,000 miles of the Eastern seaboard saw that glistening sphere.

The Echo satellites to be launched next spring from Cape Canaveral, Fla., will be by far the largest objects ever rocketed to such height. They will be 100 feet in diameter but will weigh only 150 pounds.

The plastic spheres will be folded inside containers 28 inches in diameter and will be inflated when they reach their assigned altitude.

NASA hopes to bounce signals off the inflated sphere, using it as a relay for two-way radio communications between the East and West coasts.

Princeton to Publish Papers of Wilson

PRINCETON N. J. (UPI) — Princeton University will collect and publish the papers and correspondence of Woodrow Wilson next fall in a project described as the most comprehensive study ever undertaken of a 20th century American statesman.

Plans for the project were announced jointly by August Heckscher, president of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, and Robert F. Goheen, president of the university.

Dr. Arthur S. Link, biographer and Wilson scholar, will join the Princeton faculty next fall as a professor of history and director of the Wilson project.

The series of volumes on the nation's 28th president were expected to number about 40. They will be published by the Princeton University Press. Wilson, a graduate of Princeton, was president of the university from 1902 to 1910.

Sees Big Jump in Car Making

Commerce Dept. Says 22 Per Cent Rise for 1960 Will Aid Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Commerce Department predicts that auto production will jump 22 per cent in 1960 and be a strong force for prosperity.

Rising incomes, popularity of the new compact models and the trend toward suburban living will boost new car sales in 1960 to the second highest level on record, the department said yesterday.

It estimated the six American auto makers will turn out some 6,700,000 passenger cars, 21.8 per cent more than in 1959 and second only to the 7,920,186 produced in 1955.

Output in 1959 was estimated at 5,498,000 units, a hefty improvement over 1958's 4,257,812 cars, a 10-year low.

The department's annual "outlook and review" of the auto industry assumed that the steel strike would not resume next month when a back-to-work court order expires.

Steel shortages and work tieups in other lines such as copper and glass cut 1959 production by 550,000 cars, the report estimated. Of this loss, about 450,000 cars were 1960 models. But excess capacity in the industry should permit recovery of much if not all of this lost production next year.

By 100 B. C., there were more than 250 bakeshops in Rome.

U. of M. Awarded Grant for Asian Study Plan

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The University of Michigan Monday was awarded a $140,500 grant from the Carnegie Corp. of New York to finance teacher training and research programs in Asian studies.

A major provision of the grant sets up a special intern program, under which three college-level instructors and three graduate students will specialize in Asian studies each year at the university.

Funds also will be used to concourse on Asian civilizations, finance a study of political action and expression in Southwest and South Asia, and prepare maps showing the locations of linguistic and ethnic groups in Asia.

Metallic Yule Tree Could Well Kill You

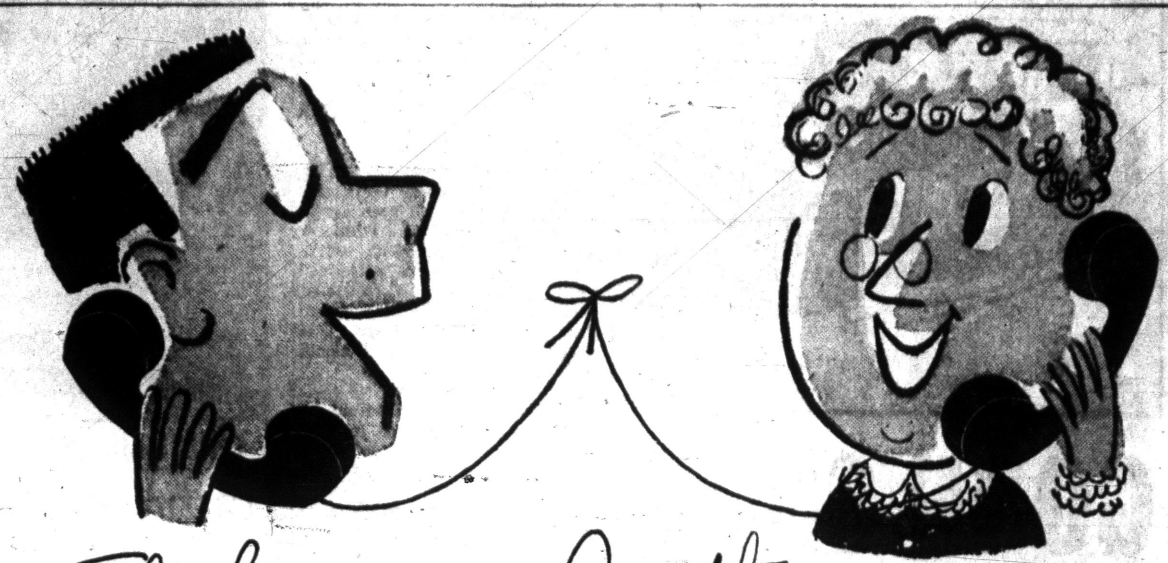

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Safety Council warned today that metallic Christmas trees are potentially as dangerous as the natural variety.

"There are hazards in using any type of Christmas tree, be it metallic or natural," the council said. "But the metallic trees present a new, potential hazard of which many people may not be aware."

The council said a voltage leak from a faulty light cord could energize a metal tree. If someone touched a "hot" tree and a nearby radiator at the same time, a death-dealing jolt could result, the council said.

USW Can Pact Near Signing

McDonald Hoping That It Will Help Jar Steel Into Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP — The Steel Workers Union is trying to complete a new labor agreement covering 25,000 members in the can manufacturing industry and use it to help jar loose a steel settlement.

Representatives of the American and Continental Can companies were reported near agreement today with Union President David J. McDonald on terms similar to the union's agreement with Kaiser Steel Corp. That agreement called for a 22½-cent hourly increase in wages and fringe benefits over a 20-month period.

McDonald hoped to finish up the can industry pact and turn to aluminum industry negotiations next week in Chicago. The union chief obviously hoped the settlements covering his members in those industries would increase pressure for a steel settlement.

Federal mediators called in both union and steel industry negotiators this afternoon for a joint meeting. There seemed to be little hope for an early steel settlement.

Amvet Carillon to Salute Dead at Pearl Harbor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Amvets will install a carillon at Pearl Harbor in memory of the 1,102 American Navy men who died in the Japanese attack on the USS Arizona 18 years ago Monday, it was announced here.

National Commander Harold T. Berc of Chicago said the bells will chime for the first time on Memorial Day next year.

Berc said the carillon will be a perpetual reminder that America should never again be unprepared for an enemy attack, "especially considering the nuclear war potential of imperial Communism."

Kelvinator Appliance Sales Rise 35 Per Cent

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Total Kelvinator appliance sales this year topped those of 1958 by 35 per cent, says Homer L. Travis, vice president in charge of sales for the American Motors Corp. Division.

Refrigerators, up 41 per cent, and home laundry equipment, with increases of 43 per cent, led dealer billings in figures reported by Travis Monday. Wringer washers, with a six per cent decline, showed the only drop in Kelvinator's appliance line which includes automatic washers, dryers, dishwashers, ranges and air conditioners.

Youngsters Visit Santa

Remember when youngsters had to use their imagination to visualize Santa Claus and his North Pole establishment?

There has been a lot of progress since them.

First, Santa Claus and his helpers moved in on every city of the land. He began appearing not only at private homes and at church festivals but in stores and on street corners.

More recently, he has transplanted his North Pole village, or hamlets that look as his village might look, to various convenient sites around the country. Youngsters and adults by the thousand have been visiting them.

Here is a picture taken at Santa's Village in the San Bernardino mountains 80 miles east of downtown Los Angeles. In winter it has honest to goodness snow, but snow or no snow it stays open 364 days a year. The closing day is Christmas itself.

This Santa's Village was the brainchild of a young business man named Glenn Holland who raised half a million dollars to build the storybook houses and equip them properly with elves, animals, toys, candy, and such rides as a 20-passenger sleigh.

Waterford Area Pupils Plan 3 Yule Programs

Three Waterford Township Parent-Teacher Assn. meetings will be sparked with the Christmas spirit Thursday night, as hundreds of children participate in yuletide programs.

"The Old Fashioned Christmas Card" is the title of a program to be presented at 7:30 p.m. at the Lambert school, and scenic backgrounds will dramatize the costumes to be worn by the pupils.

Under the direction of music teacher, Mrs. Marjorie Wiley, pupils from each of the six grades will sing a carol of their choice. Catherine Hartman will accompany the songsters.

The Hudson Covert school will feature a program titled "First Christmas," and two performances have been scheduled from 7 to 7:45 p.m., and 8 to 8:45 p.m.

Each grade in the Covert School will also present a favorite carol, conducted by music teachers, Mrs. George Underwood and Joyce Gumes. Mr. and Mrs. George Underwood will sing a medley of Christmas hymns.

Pontiac Lake school will sing carols from foreign countries France, Czechoslovakia, Italy and of the United States.

The program, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m., will also feature autoharp accompaniment by Janet McClellan and Marc Meyer. Francis J. Mansfield is directing the program.

The children will all be attired as choristers and will stand on risers in front of a simulated stained glass window in the front section of the multi-purpose room of the school.

Negro Voting Case Hurried

Supreme Court Grants Request to Speed Up Civil Rights Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Monday granted a government request that it expedite handling of a case involving powers of the Civil Rights Commission to investigate complaints of denial of Negro voting rights.

The court set the case for four hours of argument Jan. 18 Technically the arguments will cover the question of whether the court is to review the case, as well as argument on its merit.

The court directed that the State of Louisiant, which is directly involved, have all of its legal paper filed by Jan. 13.

The question involved is the authority of the commission to compel testimony by persons subpoenaed in connection with investigation of alleged denial of Negro voting rights.

The Justice Department on Nov. 27 appealed to the high tribunal to review and strike down a decision by a special federal court in Shreveport, La.

The decision was that commission rules are invalid because they will not permit persons under investigation to confront or to cross-examine witnesses, and will not let such persons know the complaints against them.

Two judges of the three-judge special court held the commission could not force Louisiana voter registrars to testify unless the rules were changed. An injunction was granted the State of Louisiana to bar such hearings. The third judge of the special court said the rules were constitutional.

Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin filed a special motion asking that action on the appeal be speeded.

Rankin told the court that while the special court's decision was limited to the western district of Louisiana, the Civil Rights Commission feels that it cannot "in good conscience" hold further hearings anywhere so long as special court's decision stands.

Are You a Tired Nag?

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Dr. George W. Northrup, Morristown, N. J., told a group of osteopaths that the habitual coffee break may create more stresses than it relieves. He explained the intake of caffeine is like "whipping a tired horse."

Three Passport Pleas Rejected

High Court Refuses to Ponder Appeals on Red China Visas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday refused to consider three appeals challenging the State Department's right to deny passports for Americans to travel to Red China.

One of the appeals was from Rep. Charles O. Porter (D-Ore) who contended the secretary of state had no right to bar a Congress member from such a trip.

The other appeals were by William Worthy Jr., a Baltimore newsman, and Waldo Frank, New York lecturer and author.

The high court's refusal to consider the appeals leaves standing lower court decisions upholding the State Department's position in the controversy.

The Supreme Court made no comment in refusing to act on the appeals.

Flashy Jukebox to Replace Choir in London Church

LONDON (UPI)—The vicar of a church here plans to replace his choir with a neon-lighted jukebox to show it "belongs to God as much as anything else."

The Rev. Christopher Gardner, 36, said it will play rock hymns which "sell Christianity hard."

He will introduce the chrome-plated jukebox with glittering colored lights next Sunday.

"I don't see anything extraordinary about it," he said. "I hope others follow suit."

Among the songs the box will play is "Rhythm in Religion," which the Rev. Mr. Gardner said "you can rock to."

Preacher Billy Graham Banned From Jordan

AMAN, Jordan (AP) — American evangelist Dr. Billy Graham has been banned from Jordan, an interior ministry spokesman said today, because the government has received a report from its Washington embassy concerning Dr. Graham's "pro-Israel activities, including money raising."

International Cartel?

Drug Price Testimony of Schering Disputed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators exploring "wonder drug" price markups sought to learn today whether an international cartel figures anywhere in the picture.

The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee heard Monday disputed testimony that one drug firm, the Schering Corp. of Bloomfield, N.J., has received price markups ranging from 1,118 per cent to more than 7,000 per cent on some medical products.

Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) ordered the firm's president, Francis C. Brown, to produce his company's licensing agreements with foreign drug firms.

"We want to find out whether there is an international cartel built up in the drug business," Kefauver said. He noted that Schering is the only pharmaceutical house which has failed to turn over its foreign agreements involving, among other things, rights to use patented preparations.

Brown replied that he has no objection to handing over the agreements, but said his firm has not yet obtained permission from the foreign firms involved to disclose them.

Brown repeatedly contended the subcommittee was receiving misleading figures from its staff aides, who gave the testimony about price markups. He argued that John Blair and other subcommittee staff economists were overlooking the company's costs for research, development, promotion and other factors in figuring the percentages.

They said one tablet of prednisolone contained drugs which cost Schering 1.6 cents. But the druggist paid 17.9 cents each and the suggested retail price to the patient was 29.8 cents a tablet.

Mamie Medina Hurt in 2-Car Accident

Mamie Y. Medina, 17, of 81 Auburn Ave., was treated for minor injuries and released from Pontiac General Hospital yesterday after her car was struck in the rear by another automobile.

The driver of the other car, Nelson R. Craig, 37, of 281 E. Pike St., told Pontiac Police he did not see her car ahead.

Miss Medina said she had stopped her car and signaled for a turn. The accident, on Auburn avenue east of Parke street, happened at 6:25 p.m.

First Club to Boost Johnson Organized

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)—The first Johnson-for-President club in Kansas was organized Monday night within two hours after Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) addressed a 5th District Democratic rally.

"That's fine," Sen. Johnson commented. "Let 'em organize." He said there are 132 such clubs in Texas. He also said he isn't seeking the presidential nomination.

Dem Eyes Fondly Ogle Adlai in Presidential Beauty Show

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP)—The Democrats held a big, four - hour "beauty contest" of 1960 presidential possibilities Monday night and, based on applause, the winner was Adlai E. Stevenson.

Stevenson says he isn't seeking the nomination.

Nevertheless, of seven men who were called to the lectern before a glittering, jam-packed crowd of Democrats, the tops for whooping and hollering went to Stevenson.

The occasion was a dinner honoring the 75th birthday of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. It came at the end of weekend meetings in New York of the Democratic Advisory Council. More than 1,000 Democrats paid $100 a plate to attend the event and look over the field.

TRUMAN PRESIDES

Former President Harry S. Truman and a major portion of the party big-wigs were present. Truman, bouncy and ebullient as ever, presided over the "beauty contest."

It was handled with the essence of tact and diplomacy—so as to indicate no preference for any of the presidential hopefuls.

There was no head table. Each of the aspirants and potential candidates sat with party leaders at separate tables.

When dinner ended, the curtains parted on a stage. There, seated in a semi-circle with Mrs. Roosevelt and Truman in the middle, were three U.S. senators, three governors—and Stevenson—all of whom have been mentioned for the Democratic nomination.

Truman, obviously relishing the role, called them to speak. He was the soul of finesse.

He said he would proceeed geographically, moving from west to east across the continent.

That brought Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, governor of California, up first. "A man to be reckoned with," said Truman.

Then came Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri. Having now reached the Middle West, Truman called on Stevenson.

Stevenson registered well - bred surprise.

Reporters clocked the reception at 29 seconds. Tops up to that point had been the applause for Humphrey, 17 seconds.

Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams, New Jersey's Gov. Robert B. Meyner, and Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts followed in order. The applause for Kennedy lasted 10 seconds.

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Truman referred to Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan in this manner last night:

"Those opponents who like to label him as a captive of labor or a labor leader, don't know labor. And they don't know the governor and the political future that lies ahead of him."

Truman made that mention of Williams in his listing of what he calls the seven presidential possibilities of the Democratic Party.

$856,757 Shortage Discovered

Retired Policeman's Wife Charged in Embezzlement

DETROIT (AP) — The 58-year-old wife of a retired Detroit police sergeant was charged today with embezzlement of $100,513 in a warrant drawn by the Wayne County prosecutor's office.

She is Mrs. Mary McCallum Averill and the alleged embezzlement took place while she was head bookkeeper for a Detroit architectural and engineering firm in whose books auditors reportedly discovered a shortage of $856,757.

Assistant prosecutor William P. Long said today that actually $294,550 in missing funds had been "traced directly to Mrs. Averill" but the warrant was based specifically on $100,513 found missing between July 24, 1955, and Jan. 10, 1956.

After 29 years as a bookkeeper for Giffels & Vallet, Inc., Mrs. Averill left the firm in April 1957 shortly after the firm's president, Victor E. Vallet, retired and moved to California. The firm since has been reorganized as Giffels & Rossetti, Inc.

Long said an audit disclosed the shortages two years ago, but that the case was not brought to the prosecutor's office until last July.

Long said a bank's policy of destroying some records after three years prevented tracing of $562,207 of the missing funds.

Long said the audit showed 119 checks drawn on the company were not recorded on its books, and that records showed receipt of $1,392 from Ford Motor Co. on Aug. 3, 1955, but that Ford's cancelled check showed it was for $51,392.

Mrs. Averill, who joined the firm when it was founded, was making $20,000 a year when she severed her connections. Mrs. Averill and her husband, Glenn, who have lived in recent years at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., have extensive real estate holdings in Lapeer and Macomb counties.

Long said it had been discovered that when Mrs. Averill got her job with the architectural and engineering firm in 1928 that she was on five-year probation for embezzlement of $6,000 from Pennsylvania Petroleum Co., where she previously had worked. She had pleaded guilty and been ordered to make $2,000 restitution.

Will Plan Rites for Sales Exec

Arthur Tobin Victim of Plane Crash in New Hampshire

The immediate family of Arthur R. Tobin, a sales executive from Huntington Woods killed yesterday in a New Hampshire plane crash, boarded a plane today for Manchester, N. H.

The widow will make arrangements there for her husband's burial. She is accompanied by her three teen-aged children.

Mr. Tobin, 48, of 10505 Kingston St., Huntington Woods, was midwest district sales manager for Fellows Gear Shaper Co. of Royal Oak. He left Friday to attend a company sales meeting in Springfield, Vt.

Besides Mr. Tobin, the plane's co-pilot, Howard Aiken, 39, was killed. Aiken was the only son of Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt).

Mrs. Tobin said her husband had stopped off in Manchester to visit a sister; that both his and her families live in Manchester. A small company-owned plane had picked him up there to take him to Springfield.

The plane crashed in fog and rain in a remote forest. The pilot, Norman Paulus, 34, of Charleston, N. H., staggered through the forest with a crushed chest for three hours to reach aid.

Besides his widow, Tobin is survived by two daughters, Margaret, 18, and Patricia, 16, and a son Arthur Jr., 14.

'Time for Steel to Stop Fiddling'

Mitchell Urging Both Sides to Let 3rd Party Arbitrate Troubles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell today urged steel labor and management to submit their long dispute to some third party, possibly the government, for solution.

Mitchell told a news conference the time has come for the industry and the Steelworkers Union to consider seriously seeking recommendations from a fact-finding group or from the government itself.

The labor secretary recommended that both sides voluntarily agree to let either a fact-finding board or the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service make recommendations for a settlement.

A third method, he said, would be for the parties to agree to submit their dispute to binding arbitration, or the decision of an outsider.

All three suggestions, Mitchell said, seem to him to fall within the views of President Eisenhower.

Truck Runs Into 2 Utility Poles; Driver Injured

Donald J. Younker, 20, of 25 N. Anderson St., was injured yesterday morning when a panel truck he was driving went out of control and struck two utility poles.

Younker told Pontiac police he was making a right turn from Telegraph road onto Orchard Lake avenue when the truck started to slide.

The poles hit by his truck were on the northeast corner of the intersection. The accident happened at 10:10 a.m.

MADISON, Conn. (AP) — Police Chief Jacob Rickert, on his way home for lunch, was stopped by one of his officers with a message. The chief then stepped on the gas. The officer had told him his garage was on fire.

Bad Check Brings 4-14 Years in Jail

A term of 4 to 14 years in Jackson Prison for passing a worthless $58 check in a Pontiac supermarket in October was handed out yesterday to Harold Cummings, 42, of 102½ S. Saginaw St.

Circuit Judge William J. Beer sentenced Cummings, who pleaded guilty Nov. 15 to uttering and publishing.

Center Cleared in Damage Suit

Judge Says 'No Cause for Action' in Northland Parking oLt Injury

Northland Shopping Center has been cleared of responsibility in an accident in its parking lot nearly two years ago in which a Detroit woman was seriously hurt.

Circuit Judge William J. Beer granted a motion yesterday, made by the center's attorney after a Circuit Court jury was unable to reach a verdict in a $125,000 lawsuit resulting from the accident.

The attorney moved there was no cause for action against the center because the injured woman, Mrs. Ellen Gordon, was pinned against a car as she was walking through the lot toward the shops.

"Even if there was negligence on the part of Northland Center there is a total absence of any evidence linking such negligence as a proximate cause," Judge Beer ruled.

Mrs. Gordon and her husband, Clark, filed two suits against the center and the driver of the car, Mrs. Edna Altman, of 15300 Miller St., Oak Park.

The Gordons claimed the lot was not supervised properly, in that the parked car was not completely placed in the parking stall.

Monroe Picks New Mayor

Dr. I. A. Forst Defeats Incumbent Knabusch; OK Bonds in State

By The Associated Press

Michigan school districts approved bond issues for school expansion in special elections Monday.

The City of Monroe chose a new mayor, electing Dr. I. A. Forst over incumbent Mayor Milton J. H. Knabusch.

Knabusch, seeking his third term in the nonpartisan city government, lost out by a vote of 2,317 to 1,817. He defeated Dr. Forst in the election two years ago.

Voters of Royal Oak accepted a tax increase in order to put more money into schools and build a new junior high school.

School bond issues also were approved in the Upper Peninsula cities of Munising and Escanaba.

Escanaba school district voters approved a $2,800,000 bond issue for a new high school, 1,967 - 1,212.

Munising voters gave a thumping okay to a $450,000 bond issue for a new 12-room elementary school. The vote was 689 to 138.

In Monroe's election, voters approved a 40-hour work week for policemen. The vote was 1,584 1,400.

Women Barely Escape Fire

Shop Is Gutted Within Minutes

Front Windows Burst, Three Run Out Before Racing Flames

By JIM LONG

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP —A muffled explosion, a flash fire—and within minutes there was only the charred remains of clothing merchandise and twisted beauty parlor equipment.

With flames roaring up behind them, three women dashed to safety through the burst plate glass windows of Mrs. Wilma Walters' combination clothing and beauty shop shortly before noon yesterday. The shop is located at 211 Livingstone Rd.

Mrs. Walters, a customer and an employe in the shop barely escaped before flames gutted the store.

A doctor's office next door in the one-story brick building was heavily damaged by water and smoke.

'CLOSE TO $30,000'

Dr. Dennis Kenny, an osteopath, who also owns the building, and Mrs. Walters said it would be some time before they could estimate the damage. He was alone in his office when the explosion occurred, and had no trouble getting out.

Highland Township Fire Chief Kenneth Hayden estimated damage would be "close to $30,000," including damage to the building and loss to merchandise and equipment.

The fire, which started in the basement, was blamed on an overloaded wiring system by Fire Chief Hayden.

Mrs. Walters, who has occupied her shop only six weeks, said that shortly before noon she felt a sudden jar accompanied by a muffled blast.

"I was in the rear of the store when I felt a vibration," she said. "When I started for the front of the building the plate glass window began to shatter and crumble before me.

"When I turned around flames were shooting up through a cold air duct almost where I had been standing."

She said she had no insurance.

Firemen, who fought the fire for nearly two hours, said a display of shoes and rubber boots helped feed the flames.

"Every time we thought we had it under control it would burst into flames again," a fireman said.

GUTTED BY FIRE — The small, combination clothing and beauty shop operated by Mrs. Wilma Walters at 211 Livingstone Rd., Highland Township, was a total loss after fire raced through the building just before noon yesterday. Mrs. Walters, an employe and a customer were lucky to escape the building without harm. Highland Township Fire Chief Kenneth Hayden estimated damage at $30,000. He blamed an overloaded wiring system as the cause of the fire.

Farmers to 'Strike' for Higher Prices

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — The National Farmers Organization is planning a general strike in a campaign for higher prices for its products.

Oren Lee Staley of Rea, Mo., outlined the plan Monday to about 1,000 delegates at the NFO's annual convention.

The NFO recently asked farmers to hold hogs off the market until prices jumped. Receipts dropped at some markets but the NFO called off its demonstration after a few days.

Staley told the delegates: "We will use numerous holding actions of short duration, involving other commodities. When everything is ready, we will enter an all-out holding action and continue until we accomplish our purpose — fair prices for farm produce."

Many Suggestions Offered

Troy Audit Sees No Fraud

By LEE WINBORN

TROY — City commissioners learned last night from an official audit of the city's books that, although the auditing procedures were inconclusive, they disclosed "no evidence of misappropriations of city funds."

The audit was conducted to bring order out of chaos in the financial "mess" the present administration inherited, according to Mayor Robert J. Huber.

It was also designed to put the city back on a sound financial basis, he said.

Prepared by the Detroit firm of Touche, Niven, Bailey and Smart, the audit was explained last night by William S. Woodman before a rapt audience of about 60 persons.

Covering the fiscal year ending June 30, the financial statements were prepared on a modified accrual basis because of adjustments necessitated by "the lack of internal control and general unreliability of the records," Woodman stated.

He cited mechanical errors in posting, lack of fund segregation and lack of continuity plus the fact that detailed records were not kept and that transfers of funds were not noted in both funds involved as the prime reasons for the discrepancies.

The auditor further noted that it had been the general practice of the city to include a factor of about 35 per cent for contingencies in the cost of improvement projects. He said this was the principal reason for the much-publicized overassessments.

ON BALANCE SHEET

The liability for refund or abatement of excessive special assessments, to the extent that could be ascertained, was included in the balance sheet of the Special Assessment Funds.

Woodman recommended that the city "start over with a new balance rather than try to adjust." He said he had given the new starting balances to Russell Manney, head of the city's auditing department to be instituted retroactive to July 1.

"I think the Commission can implement our suggestions with a minimum of guidance if the entire accounting is handled on the accrual basis," the auditor commented.

He further suggested the directive calling for approval of disbursements before they are made be removed from the city charter.

PROTEST ADVICE

Woodman said the Commission should relay more on its department heads. They are operating on an approved budget, and their disbursement should be merely "clerical functions."

Commission Louis Yanich protested, saying, "We would lose control over spending."

Woodman retaliated, "If the department heads can't function without the Commission riding herd on them, you ought to get different personnel."

Another suggestion made was that in order for the department heads and the city manager to prepare a proper budget, the Commission must set a "considered" policy for expenditures based on the services to be rendered.

Woodman also recommended the reduction of the number of city bank accounts, still keeping within statutory provisions, however.

The city has accepted the accrual balances pending Commission approval. Manney stated further that he agreed with the audit "to the penny."

Woodman said that the Commission "can't expect all the directives to be accomplished the first six months—maybe in a year."

Action on the audit was tabled until next Monday night.

In the meantime, the Commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow with the city liquor committee to review and discuss all applications for SDD licenses.

On Friday, the Commission will hold a closed study session to consider the proposed pay plan for city employes submitted by the city manager.

Probe Is Due of Milford Fire

State Marshal Will Investigate Blaze in Artists Workship

MILFORD TOWNSHIP — The state fire marshal has been called in to investigate a $40,000 fire that destroyed an artist workshop here Sunday.

Thompson told police that he discovered the fire while working in the shop.

"My face got warm, and when I looked up the building was on fire," he explained.

The Milford Fire Department the fire almost five hours before bringing it under control.

Royal Oak Voters OK Tax Hike

ROYAL OAK—Voters here yesterday approved an increase of 2.25 mills for school operating expenses and a two million dollar bond issue for school construction.

The first proposal, asking for a five-year increase of 2.25 miles, was approved 8,441 to 5,835. The 25-year bond issue, which will add an additional .75 mills to taxes, was approved 8,221 to 5,443.

The bond issue money will be used to build a new junior high school on Campbell road property adjoining the Lockman Elementary School.

Twice before this year, voters turned down a proposed 7 mill tax increase for schools.

The total increase of 3 mills approved at this time will cost the average homeowner approximately $19.50 more this year in taxes, according to school officials.

Lamphere District OKs $3 Million for Schools

MADISON HEIGHTS—Lamphere School District residents yesterday approved a $2,925,000 bond issue for school construction.

The issue was passed 802 to 212. There are approximately 2,500 registered voters in the school district.

The bond issue will be used to build a new high school, a seven-room addition to an elementary school, a 14-room elementary school near the present high school, and multipurpose rooms at Simmons and Woodland elementary schools.

Novi Acts Fast on Fire Problem

Council Learns Phones Are Frequently Tied Up —Orders a Third

NOVI — Fast action to install an emergency fire phone was taken last night by the Village Council when it learned that the two present fire lines are frequently tied up at the same time.

Village Manager Fred E. Olson told the five-member Council that recently his office has received several citizen complaints about the phones.

He said normally if a fire line is busy the call automatically jumps to another line.

However, he told the Council that often both lines are busy and fire calls are impossible to receive.

The phone, which will be installed this week, will be used exclusively for incoming fire calls.

He told the council that the new number would not be listed in the phone books since they are already in print.

Several spokesmen for subdivisions at the meeting said they would see that operation of the new phone would be made known to their areas.

They also commended the council on its motion to purchase the phone.

Olson told the council the extra phone would cost $9.75 a month.

"A small price for the added protection," he said.

He told the council that as soon as the phone was installed he would make the new number known to citizens.

'GOD REST YE MERRY GENTLEMEN' — Rotary club songsters are testing their voices in preparation for a gala night of caroling Dec. 21 and their traditional Christmas Eve performance. Clarkston Rotary's Ready to Greet Santa With Song

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

CLARKSTON — Known for their robust singing of harmonious melodies, Rotary Club members here are getting set for the cheeriest Christmas ever.

They will assemble in the heart of town Christmas Eve to start off the community songfest for the 20th year. More than 1,000 residents lent their voices to the chorus last season.

Every one of the 400 children expected will have a chance to talk personally with old Santa, and will be given a small box of good candy.

VISITS SHUT-INS

Santa then leaves to visit shut-in children and oldsters of the community. Other Rotarians help him bring toys for the children, roses for the women, and cigars for the men.

Rather than distribute baskets of food and clothing again this year, the Rotary club is planning to purchase shoes for needy families, announced Herbert Beech, president.

One of the most important fun projects scheduled each year, is the caroling night set for Dec. 21. The members' wives are invited to a 6 o'clock dinner and they are dressed for outdoor activity.

Following the dinner, the entire group piles onto big hay wagons and the singing gets under way immediately. A chairman for the affair has a list of shut-ins, and when the two tractor-drawn wagons pull up in front of the designated houses, full-throated harmony fills the air.

Many neighbors in the area don their coats and hats to go out and join the singing, which can be heard for blocks.

By the time the end of the list has been reached, most of the carolers can hardly talk. They all troop back to the big Community Center on Main street for a last cup of hot coffee, and to whisper a "good night and a Merry Christmas" to one another.

Holly to Honor Hartz Family

HOLLY — A testimonial dinner wil be given the Hartz family at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Holly High School Student Center. It is open to the general public.

It marks the 40th anniversary of the founding of the American Spring Corp. here by E. A. Hartz, who stil continues in the business in association with his sons and daughter. He built the corporation into Holly's leading industrial plant.

Thief Returns All but $82

ARMADA—The thief who burglarized the Bronson Hill home at 22829 Prospect early Sunday morning apparently had a partial change of heart.

The family found a bag containing everything that was stolen except the $82 in cash and a cigarette lighter in a paper bag on the back porch yesterday morning.

Returned were a gun, money bag, a watch and Hill's empty wallet, according to Romeo State Police.

Both state and local police are continuing their investigation of the burglary today.

KAREN LEE BRADSHER

Ike to Land on Soviet-Built Runway

Afghans Owe Reds Much

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — The Russians built the military airport where President Eisenhower's plane will land Wednesday on a brief visit to Afghanistan.

The big Soviet neighbor to the north paved the streets of Kabul along which Eisenhower will ride.

Afghanistan is a neutral nation receiving aid from both sides in the cold war. Russian aid, including weapons, is now double the volume and more than twice as apparent as U. S. assistance.

Afghan officials insist they are not and will not be influenced by those who help them, although some foreigners worry about this country's becoming too deeply committed to Moscow. The government expects to give Eisenhower as big a welcome as Russian leaders Bulganin and Khrushchev received in 1955.

The Russian visit produced gifts of a 100-bed hospital and 15 buses plus a 100-million-dollar credit. Soviet aid and grants now total about 300 million dollars.

Afghanistan needs foreign aid. From a center of learning and trade in ancient times, it has become a backward nation.

This rugged country is divided into three parts. The irrigated plains of the north face across the Oxus River toward Russia. In the south next to Iran and Pakistan are desert wastes.

The ragged Hindu Kush forms a mountain spine across the middle that touches Communist China on the east. In the mountains are high rich valleys, including the 6,000-foot valley in which this capital lies picturesquely.

MOHAMMED DAVID

MOSTLY MOSLEMS

Kabul is the central gathering point for diverse peoples. Almost all Moslems, they include Pushtuns, Tajiks and many lesser groups. In about 250,000 square miles—slightly smaller than Texas—the government says there are 12 million people. Some foreign experts doubt that the population is more than 9½ millions.

Less than 10 per cent are literate. With statistics lacking, estimates of average yearly earnings run from $30 to $95. About 70 per cent of the people are farmers, 25 per cent nomads who seasonally follow the best grazing grass, and the rest townsmen.

King Mohammed Zahir, 45, is the head of a traditional system of authoritarianism. The county is actually run by his 50-year-old first cousin, Prime Minister Mohammed Daud, who was educated in France and served 13 years as an army general and regional administrator. The prime minister's brother, Mohammed Naim, is foreign minister.

Daud visited the United States in the summer of 1958 and Naim was in Washington last October. Both reaffirmed Afghanistan's neutrality. They said foreign aid did not affect the country's attitudes.

"Friendly relations with the United States are independent of any purposes, including assistance," Naim said.

RUN INTO TROUBLE

Most American aid has gone into the Helmand Valley project. This program in the south is designed to irrigate the desert as a place for nomads to settle. But it has run into problems—the nomads aren't anxious to quit wandering, for one thing—and many Afghan officials are unhappy with it.

Americans are now building roads in southern Afghanistan. The Russians are building roads in the north. This worries Pakistan because the completed roads will in a few years provide a good military route.

Afghanistan and Pakistan have been feuding for years. Kabul contends that Pushtu tribes in the harsh hills of northwest Pakistan should be in an independent state. Karachi accuses Afghanistan of trying to subvert the tribes.

At one time Pakistan choked off transit trade to Afghanistan. The United States helped reopen it, but Russia now subsidizes Afghan transit shipments and the Soviet Union accounts for an estimated 56 per cent of Afghan trade.

The Russians are equipping the Afghan army of about 50,000 men and have provided a small jet fighter air force.

In the harsh winter, flying weather is not always good here. Bulganin and Khrushchev were unable to land the first day they tried to fly into Kabul. Officials say there is only a 50-50 chance that Eisenhower will be able to make his scheduled visit.

Episcopal Church Votes Favoring Birth Control

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—The National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church votes today on a resolution reaffirming the church's stand in favor of birth control.

General conventions of the church in 1934 and 1946 endorsed birth control and family planning but the question was raised again today because of recent controversy on the subject.

Leftists Show Gains in Guatemala Election

GUATEMALA (AP) — Rightist President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes apparently retained control over Congress in Sunday's elections, but the vote boosted the 1963 presidential chances of moderate leftist Mario Mendez Montenegro.

Final returns will not be in for some time because of complicated election procedures, but Mendez Montenegro's fast-growing, left-wing Revolutionary party captured several seats in early returns. It was believed it would hold as many as 10 or 12 seats in the 66-member, one-house Congress.

Heartbeat of a Whale Is Recorded

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (UPI) —Scientists today studied the results of what is believed to have been the first successful cardiogram performed on a whale—a long-sought and significant achievement in heart research.

The cardiogram was performed Sunday on "Willie the Whale," a 44-foot, two-inch male finback whale, who was washed ashore off Cape Cod. In four previous occasions when the whale came aground, scientists were able to record his heartbeat. But Sunday's cardiogram was regarded as the first successful test.

"We got what we think are excellent recordings," a spokesman for the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution said. "Of course, we can't say for sure just what the results are. We are still trying to interpret them. But as far as we are aware, we don't know of any successful cardiograms on whales."

Shortly after the cardiogram was performed, the whale died and was towed out to sea by the Coast Guard.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, the Boston heart specialist who treated President Eisenhower after his heart attack, hurried here to take part in the test, but arrived after the whale's death. White previously had failed in an effort to record the heartbeat of a whale off Alaska.

A spokesman for the oceanographic institution said the cardiogram could be important in human heart research since both whales and humans belong to the mammal group.

Columbia to Up Fees

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia University's tuition fees will increase next September from $1,100 to $1,450 a year. The school attributed the rise to a need to increase faculty salaries.

The Columbus Boychoir

To Give 'Amahl' Saturday

The thirty-member Columbus Boychoir will open the Waterford Civic Music Assn. concert series Saturday at 8 p.m. at the John Pierce Junior High School on Hatchery road.

Presenting the seasonal "Amahl and the Night Visitors" by Gian-Carlo Menotti, the choir is made up of young boys 9 through 14 years of age.

At the conclusion of each concert, local auditions for the selection of new talent are held. Boys who qualify then enter the Columbus Boychoir School in Princeton, N.J. for further training before joining the group.

Critics in both North and South America consider this one of the most outstanding of boys choral groups. In 1957 they were the first such group chosen to represent the United States in a cultural exchange tour of 17 South and Central American countries.

Saturday evening is guest night. Holders of season tickets to the association may bring prospective members to the performance, according to president Margaret Ann Beattie.

Club Plans 'Eve' Dance

Princess Anne Excited at Being Bridesmaid

LONDON (AP)—Princess Anne, pretty, honey-blonde daughter of Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, is going to be a bridesmaid for the first time.

"The wedding is all she talks about these days," said a friend today of the 9-year-old princess.

Although it is expected that there will be at least two pages, Anne's brother, Prince Charles, will not be one of them. The entire royal family has been invited to the wedding, one of the biggest society events of the year.

All will probably attend except the queen, who is expecting her third child at the end of January. She probably will watch the ceremony on television.

Lady Pamela, slender, fair-haired heiress to her mother's big fortune, was one of the queen's eight bridesmaids and also her lady-in-waiting on her visit to Australia six years ago.

RIBBON CREATIONS CAN BRIGHTEN YOUR HOME

Wrapping Ideas Galore for Yule

It has been estimated that this Christmas Americans will use some 40,000 acres of gift wrap paper — enough to circle the earth five times if cut in strips two feet wide. To wrap packages, we will use enough ribbon to stretch to the moon six times with enough left over for a bow a thousand miles long.

And it's a glittering and original selection of gift wrappings on the market this season.

According to Kaye King, a nationally recognized gift wrapping stylist, glistening metallic sheens in gold and silver are favored. Available are wraps of gleaming foil, delicately embossed figures, sparkling snow with crystal sprinklings and even colorful fabrics.

Fine art is appearing on the scene in paper featuring paintings by noted artists. For those whose tastes fall in the strictly "wild" category are wrappings which depict Santa hitchhiking, on a pogo stick or rocketing away instead of sleighing over the housetops.

In the ribbon department are gleaming strips of plastic tape and foil which adhere to themselves when moistened. Even pretied bows are offered.

Miss King advises, "When you wrap a gift, keep in mind the person who will receive it." She suggests small designs or a solid color for smaller packages. Paper with large designs or again, solid colors for larger packages. Specially designed wrappings for men, women and even babies are available.

Conversation piece packages may be fashioned by cutting small pieces of contrasting colored paper to make eyes, nose and facial features.

Several small packages may be joined together in the shape of a truck. Cylindrical packages lend themselves to rocket ship shapes.

You can camouflage odd-shaped gifts by crushing paper around them, or turn small rectangular gifts into a sleigh by cutting sides and runners from gift wrap. A clever idea is to tie together all packages for one person with a big bow.

Ribbons and wrappings also are used as home decorations.

Place mats may be cut from wrapping paper in the form of a Christmas tree, Santa or snowman.

Women Enrolled in Moose

Mrs. Harry Beasely, social service chairman of the month introduced Mrs. Walter J. Reason of the Oakland County Juvenile Court, guest speaker.

Mrs. Harold Finn and Mrs. Willington Lewis sponsored two members, Mrs. Erwin Carver and Mrs. Vincent Pierce.

Feature Pianist

Major work that she will perform is the Rachmaninoff Concerto No. 2. Selections from Schubert and Wagner also will be featured along with a Gabrielli arrangement for piano and two brass choirs.

Vasa Lodge Will Meet

Pontiac Lodge 510, Vasa Order of America, will meet Saturday at 7 p.m., in the Knights of Pythias Hall on Voorheis road.

Refreshments will be served by Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Englund, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wickstrom and the Edwin Swansons.

MOMS to Meet

Mrs. Wade Harris will open her Pontiac road home to members of Galloway Lake MOMS unit 21 Wednesday for their annual Christmas luncheon. Gifts will be exchanged.

Auxiliary Told of Fall Meeting in State Capital

The auxiliary has affiliated with the American Legion District Blood Bank. The mobile unit will be at Elks Temple Dec. 14 from 2 to 4 p.m. Committee members cooperating are Mrs. Harold Quinn, Mrs. Bernard Espland and Mrs. Homer Hight.

It was reported that district units have sent more than $1800 worth of Christmas gifts to Veteran's Hospitals.

Mrs. Leonard Doan of Auburn Heights was appointed secretary to fill a vacancy.

Auxiliary Has Guests

Honor guests were National Commander Florence Green and State Commander Virginia Hayes.

National Commander Green's message stressed the importance of membership in the auxiliary, the care of hospitalized veterans, especially the mentally ill who, so often, have been forgotten by their families.

Youth Not a Must for Beauty

It was one of those little booths into which you step to have your own picture taken automatically. Displayed outside were strips of pictures of former customers. What was interesting about them was that the picture of a mature woman was displayed next to that of a girl in her 20s.

One would expect that the advantage of beauty would lie with the girl. It wasn't so. The mature woman was stunning. Her face was smooth and unlined, her expression radiant, her hair a beautiful, smooth silvery-gray.

Next to her, the girl peered out uncertainly over one shoulder. Her pose was awkward, her skin was blotched and she wore her hair long. It was unshaped and shaggy, hiding completely the contours of her head and making her face seem a small thing

Most of all, her expression showed anxiety, uncertainty and a certain kittenish coquetry. But in time and with care, she might become as lovely as the woman pictured next to her.

Drinks Tea From a Paper Cup

Pretty Executive Shrugs Off Success

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Three ingredients measure the makings of any success, says one of the nation's youngest and undoubtedly prettiest woman executives.

"The basic talent to begin with; then the basic training; and finally, caring enough about the job to work hard — I honestly believe these are the qualities," said Geraldine Stutz.

Miss Stutz, at 35, is president of Henri Bendel, a landmark on New York's fashionable 57th street. For two years she has occupied the specialty store's executive suite — in celadon green with works of art from her personal collection decorating its walls.

We checked in to see how Miss Stutz is doing in a business highly competitive in any city, and in a position which most career women of any age would give their eye teeth to have.

The answer is quite well. And bossing 200 employes—many of whom have been with the store 25 to 50 years — apparently hasn't given her a swollen head.

"So what's to be impressed about?" said Gerry Stutz.

The woman president is disarmingly unlike many executive types this reporter has interviewed. No chain of secretaries to break through; just one assistant, a pretty blonde. No constant telephone interruptions. And no hard-hitting, brusque manner.

Instead, you meet a relaxed, friendly woman who looks about 25; who has dark brown hair worn in a short bob, dark eyes, and the figure of a model — five feet, six-inches and around 110 pounds; a woman president who sits at her desk eating a doughnut and drinking tea from a paper cup.

"I'm usually here by nine each morning," she said. "I don't work late many evenings . . . I like to crowd in a lot of theater. But it seems like I haven't had a Saturday off since I took this job."

Miss Stutz, a native of Evanston, Ill., and daughter of a contractor, wanted to be an actress. She studied at Mundelein College, which has turned out several successful actresses, but said that "somewhere along the line I realized I just didn't have it. So I switched my major to journalism."

She arrived on the New York scene in 1947 and got her first job as shoe editor of a magazine. "I didn't know much about shoes," she said, "but the women at the top had tremendous confidence in me."

She polished her knowledge by hoofing it regularly to Europe to cover the fashion collections. And in 1954, the I. Miller Shoe Co., owned by the many-faceted Genesco Corp., lured her into merchandising.

Genesco's head, Maxey Jarman, was so impressed by her performance with the shoe business that six months after he acquired Bendel, he gave her the job of putting the store in the black.

Miss Stutz said she owns a chunk of Genesco stock, and some guesses have put her earnings as high as $40,000 a year. But she refused to talk salary.

The store president doubted if her youth and good looks had been either an asset or handicap in the job. "The way you look and the age you are don't matter in business, long range," she said. "It is how well you do the job.

"But one thing, I am not a career woman in the traditional sense . . . not like one of those Roz Russell heroines in the movies. I love men, women, children and dogs and want to get married when I meet the right man.

Old People Sneer at One Another

By RUTH MILLETT

"Old people just don't like old people."

The young woman who made that statement has for several years been doing volunteer work at a recreation center for the elderly — sort of a rocking chair version of the teen canteen.

The big problem the young volunteer workers have run into in their efforts to keep the old age center a place where the elderly can find companionship and conversation and hobby interests is trying to get the older folks interested in each other.

"The old men love to dance with the young women — but they stubbornly refuse to ask the older women to dance.

"The older women love to play cards, so long as there is one young person in the game, but they get quickly bored playing just with each other.

"And they are so critical of each other. They let it be known that the woman who makes an effort to act younger than her years—even though she is bright and gay, 'isn't fooling anybody. She's just as old as the rest of us.'

"But on the other hand they resent the woman who keeps harping on her age 'as though she had any more aches and pains than the rest of us.'

"None of them give each other much satisfaction. They don't listen to each other talk, just wait for a chance to interrupt in order to talk about themselves."

I'm quoting these comments because they may give some readers who are just beginning to grow old a hint of what they must guard against if they aren't to be lonely in their old age.

They will have to guard against becoming self-centered. They will need to be kinder and more thoughtful toward persons their own age. They will have to be as tolerant of others as they want others to be of them.

There wouldn't be so many lonely older persons if they would make an effort to help each other and to enjoy each other's company.

Return Money With Note

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: An old friend I hadn't seen for years visited us for a month and as she'd never been in this part of the country we tried to show her all the sights.

"She made an attempt to pay her way several times but we refused. On these grounds I feel she was wrong to leave a sum of money in her room with a note telling us that as she can never repay our many kindnesses she'd like at least to contribute toward the expenses.

"She further explained that she knew we'd refuse had she discussed it with us. Dare I return this to her or what do I do about it?"

Answer: Since you evidently do not want to accept it, you might write a letter such as this: "Dear Jane, You were very generous and thoughtful to leave me this gift but I would really feel embarrassed to take it.

"Please don't refuse to let me return it to you. I'm sure you would feel as I do if I had been staying with you. We loved having you and do hope that you'll come again soon." A letter similar to this could certainly not hurt anyone's feelings.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Recently a party of seven went to a restaurant to dine and we were ushered to a table in the main dining room. Shortly after we were seated, the head waiter came over and said that he would take our order. He did not, however, serve any part of the meal.

My husband, who was the host, gave him a tip. I thought this wholly unnecessary, but by husband insists it was the proper thing to do. Will you please tell me if a tip was necessary?"

Answer: In a restaurant that can be classified as deluxe, a tip is given to the captain, or head waiter, who takes the order.

Tubby Hubby Diet Aids Men

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I have had a very amusing letter from one of my masculine readers. He says, "Although I know your column is essentially for your women readers, I have noticed that you occasionally give the old man in the family a few tips on how to keep from going to pot. These are interesting.

"But you know something? It's O.K. for a woman to be vain, but we men don't mind how the years take their toll of our youthful appearance.

"We can cover up the balding pate with a good humored laugh; we know that wrinkles come from wisdom; we affectionately pat our 'only slightly noticeable' bay window and philosophize that it took 35 or 40 years to develop it; we know that when facial muscles lose their firmness we gain maturity and distinction and that a double chin is merely another conversation piece.

"I guess we're lucky that such things don't bother us!

DON'T NOTICE

"Well, take me for instance! Luckily people do not notice that my hair is thinning. I like to wear a hat a lot. My abdomen is fairly flat. I do 50 setups a day because I enjoy them, not because I want a flat abdomen. There is something I am a little curious about though, and it's that business of the 'maturity and distinction' I am gaining from having a double chin and facial muscles that are not very firm.

"In fact, I'm getting jowly! What can I do for it? I know you won't print my name, Mrs. Lowman. Not that I mind expressing a mild curiosity about such things, but you know how some guys are!

"They are curious, too, but they wouldn't beat their chins against the wall or whatever it takes to get rid of a double chin any more than I would — and they would NEVER believe that MY interest is mere curiosity!"

TUBBY HUBBY DIET

It is true that men are much more interested in their personal appearance than many of them admit. I know this to be true from my mail.

So if any of you masculine readers are "curious" about how to lose from seven to 12 pounds in 12 days time, you may want my Tubby Hubby Reducing Diet. If so, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

If any of you masculine readers are curious about how to lose from seven to 12 pounds in 12 days' time, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Tubby Hubby Diet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

A White Easter

By United Press International

A white Christmas promises to be followed by a white Easter — because of the avalanche of whites in the new spring clothes collections. White makes a strong comeback in suits, coats and daytime costumes, either in wool, silk or linen.

Mrs. Alma Cowley distributed greeting cards and corsages ordered by members.

Mrs. William Christie reported on the welfare department. She urged members to give addresses of sons in active service so that gifts can be mailed at once.

Baskets for needy service men's families will be distributed again this year.

Rhos Gather Christmas Gifts for Rest Home

Christmas gifts were collected for residents of the Hilltop Rest Home when members of Rho Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa sorority met for their annual Christmas party Thursday evening.

Mrs. Walter Sheffield of Henry Clay avenue was hostess. Assisting was Margaret Scott.

A report was given on the revised constitution by Lois Buckbinder.

Mrs. N. G. Polk, ways and means chairman, reported on the Christmas candy sale.

Mrs. Polk and Mrs. E. Cleo Wiley presided at the tea table.

Leave Her Alone, Says Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our granddaughter, 21 has made her home with us for years. She is a good, sincere, intelligent girl who has a fine disposition. She is saving her money. She's deeply in love with a man, 24, who has been home from the Navy for three years. He hasn't worked three months in all that time. We see his mother pulling weeds and mowing the lawn. He sleeps until noon, drives the family car around and doesn't look for a job.

ABBY

So far, even my granddaughter's best friends have been unable to make her see this man for what he is. I am afraid she will marry him and support him unless we can change her mind. Can't you offer some advice, Abby?

CONCERNED GRANDMOTHER

DEAR CONCERNED: I could offer much advice, but it wouldn't help a bit. When a girl is "in love" she isn't thinking — she's feeling. While the opinions of well-meaning friends may reach her ears, they will never penetrate her brains, because her brains are trapped in her heart. Let her alone, Grandmother, and pray she comes to her senses before it's too late.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the rural mailman who wanted all the mailboxes on his route lowered: Our post office people changed their entire fleet of trucks recently and we ALL had to lower our boxes four inches to accommodate the mailman. ALL SIX THOUSAND OF US!

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. O.W.S.,
Moutlake Terrace, Wash.

DEAR ABBY: That rule about rural mailboxes having to be from 42 to 48 inches from the ground was made in the horse and buggy days. Since Detroit started making automobiles to scrape the ground, the regulation states that rural mailboxes should be from 36 to 42 inches high. A rural mail carrier has from 300 to 400 boxes a day to serve, and he breaks his neck to give good service. Do you think people should expect him to also break his arm?

FRIEND OF RURAL MAIL CARRIERS

DEAR ABBY: I wear false teeth but the girl I am going to marry doesn't know it. Should I tell her about it or wait until we're married and let her find out for herself?

FALSE TEETH

DEAR FALSE: Marry the girl and keep your mouth shut.

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It would be simply fabulous to hear a TV announcer who'd never heard of the word.

Have You Tried This?

You'll Want Lots of Easy Made Christmas Cookies

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

For the next two weeks you readers are apt to be deluged with Christmas recipes, especially those for cookies. Just about everyone makes them, you know.

Mrs. Alfred Schwartz shares her recipe for easy rolled cookies. This is one she is using with her Girl Scouts who are making cookies for the Juvenile Home. Mrs. Schwartz' interests, in addition to Scouting, are bridge and the neighborhood civic association.

EASY CUT-OUT COOKIES
By Mrs. Alfred Schwartz

1 cup sugar
1 cup margarine
1 egg, well beaten
1½ teaspoons vanilla
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon baking powder
3 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt

Cream margarine and sugar until fluffy. Mix egg with milk and add. Sift dry ingredients and add, working mixture into a smooth dough.

Roll out thin on a board lightly floured or dusted with powdered sugar.* Cut with Christmas cutters. Bake until light brown at 375 degrees, about 8 to 10 minutes.

Decorate with very thin colored icing and colored sugars. Use a new art brush to paint on the icing.

Toasts With Champagne at Her Parties

Beef Too Dull for Hostess Gwen

(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles in which Washington's best-known hostesses reveal the techniques and tricks that make a party successful—and recount some times when even the best-made plans went wrong.)

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — Hostess Gwendolyn Cafritz is firmly convinced that roast beef and entertainment have no place at a dinner party.

As famed for her unpredictable sallies as for her soirees, the wife of construction tycoon Morris Cafritz expostulates:

"Who wants to be bored with entertainment, when conversation is my favorite indoor sport? And why would anyone want to serve roast beef at a party? It isn't elegant enough—and you can have it at home."

Gwen's idea of a party is a seated dinner for 22, with an ambassador or cabinet officer on each side, a glass of champagne in her hand and a toast on her lips.

Fortunately for Gwen, Morris doesn't like to propose toasts, for she admittedly loves to. As each dinner draws to a close in the Swedish modern salon of the Cafritz residence, the hostess invariably rises to her trim feet, raises her glass, and begins to speak.

"What I do is more than a toast," Gwen says. "It sort of brings contemporary affairs into connection with the honored guest. I sometimes embroider it with art and literature. If the guest is Spanish, I may talk about the Armada, and our overseas bases, and Goya paintings. I give meat and substance—something to chew over."

Throughout it all, Morris smiles proudly at his beautifully gowned wife, but once she met her Waterloo. Gwen still recalls the incident as "the most ghastly thing we've ever had happen at our parties."

"I had invited an older gentleman we'd met at a square dance, to one of our dinners," she reflected, "and he'd apparently heard about the little speeches we always have. Of course, I only call on a very select few, but just before it was time for the dessert he suddenly began to make a speech.

"He didn't even know where he was starting or stopping, and I was in agony, because I knew the chef had made a spun-sugar concoction with wild strawberries flown in from Heaven knows where. The man talked on and on, and by the time the dessert could be served the spun-sugar had collapsed, and the chef was crying.

"But what could I do," she murmured regretfully. "The duty of a hostess is to make it as pleasant as possible for her guests. Anyway, we'll never ask that old gentleman back again."

Gwen likes to send out invitations at least three weeks before a party, and although the food is prepared in her own kitchen, she takes little personal interest in that project.

"I consider operation of food very dull," she declared. "Food does not amuse me, but I pay lots of attention to the right wines, and to the effect I can get with flower arrangements, lights and candles. The table should look radiantly elegant, and the guests should be comfortable. Then the brilliant conversation will take care of the rest."

Twice a year the Cafritz' host huge cocktail parties, but the events for which they are best known are the formal seated dinners, with 80 or so other guests invited in afterwards to dance—either on the garden terrace, or on the glass floor of their downstairs barroom.

Gwen refuses to give buffet dinners, but lest she offend some of her rival hostesses, she hastens to add: "That doesn't mean I don't like to be invited to them. It's just that I like to use my lovely appointments in my beautiful dining room with the gold mirrors, the Jensen silver and the spectacular view of Washington's skyline."

Mrs. Cafritz frankly prefers her guests to be prominent, charming—and handsome. A few years ago she made news by confiding, during an interview, that she never invited OPA chief Mike DiSalle to her parties, because she liked to have "good looking" people at the dinner table.

DiSalle, who has since become governor of Ohio, roguishly called photographers and posed beside a famed Rembrandt painting at the National Gallery to demonstrate that he is practically the "spittin' image" of the classical subject.

All agreed that Mike had the last laugh on Gwen, but the good-natured, roly-poly politician still had to buy his own dinners elsewhere.

Thursday Evening in City

Holiday Fashion Show

Fashions for the holiday season will be modeled Thursday evening at the benefit Card Party of the Ani Chapter of the Armenian Relief Society.

The affair is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan building. Mrs. Frank Anderson will comment on the fashions from The De'Cor and Margaret Ann Shops.

According to ticket chairman, Mrs. Barkave Torosian, tickets are available from any society member or at the door.

Greeting Cards for Youngster Are Animated

Among favorite Christmas cards for boys and girls this year are "animated" greetings that become walking dolls or swinging clowns.

The doll, an angel that wears a holly halo, trundles under the power of an elastic band motor. Another card contains a clown named Bobo who flips and spins on a swing.

Other toys and games on Christmas cards include a brightly-colored periscope (it works) for boys, a diminutive slate with eraser and colored chalk and Nativity scene for youngsters to color (crayons included), a packet of bubble bath that is certain to delight any young lady, a replica of a compass that "Santa uses when he brings his toys to you," a red lollipop, a kit of tricks, and a "magic" message.

Even baby can be remembered with special cards. One contains a paperboard tree that can be set up as a decoration. Another is a record book of baby's first Christmas, with places to mount photographs and record gifts, and to note the new arrival's reaction to the holiday.

You're Missing Fun if You're Not Girly Girl

Being a woman is lots of fun if you go at it with enthusiasm.

The woman who says she "can't be bothered with make-up" and the girl who picks a hairdo because it's "efficient" are both missing a lot.

They're missing the pleasure that comes from looking feminine and pretty both for their own sakes and for other people.

A pretty girl or an attractive woman is much more fun to have around than a frump. Provided, of course, that an attractive personality goes along with the good looks.

Then there's a real satisfaction to be derived from putting on a dress that's fun to wear, a pair of shoes that flatter, a hat that's really nonsense but very fetching.

Greetings Not Old

By United Press International

Christmas cards are one of the newest Yuletide traditions, dating back only a little more than a century. They became popular around the turn of the century.

Today's Story

Recipe for a Christmas Present

Start with something you know most anybody from 6-to-60 can use and enjoy. Salt and pepper with "extras" that add to the fun. Then put it all in a colorful, glittering setting. This recipe serves all the people on your gift list who deserve something special for Chistmas.

I guess you have a pretty good idea of what I've been talking about: a new Camera Outfit. It's the present that's made for Christmas giving.

For as little as $5.95 you can surprise a youngster with a Camera Outfit. Or you can treat a big-man-on-the-campus to a 35mm Camera Outfit. Or you can put an ear-to-ear grin on Dad's face with a Movie Kit.

We feel sure you'll find the gifts you're looking for on our shelves. And we can guarantee you this. They all deliver the makings of a "GIVE AND TAKE" Christmas.

So, GIVE Photo Gifts for a happy Christmas. TAKE the pictures to save and share the fun. Hope to see you soon before too many more shopping days go by.

GARDENERS ON list are easy to please at Christmas. Consider such gifts as attractive, sturdy gardening tools, book or magazine subscriptions, potted plants, chemical to keep them healthy and a garden club membership.

She Have a Green Thumb?

How Many on Your List Are Garden Hobbyists?

If you're struggling with Christmas gift problems, just ask yourself how many people on your shopping list are gardening enthusiasts. Then find the gift that fills their green thumb needs best.

How about potted plants? Whether you chose the traditional Christmas plants such as poinsettia, Jerusalem-cherry plant and Christmas begonia, or year-round favorites like peperomia, philodendron or ivy, you can be extra-thoughtful by accompanying the plant with the chemicals needed to keep it healthy.

A set of two aerosol sprayers keeps plants healthy and beautiful weeks after the holiday season.

Or try a set of three tools — fork, spade and cultivator — that comes packaged in an attractive wooden gift case.

There also are strong, light stainless steel garden implements with handsome smooth wooden handles, including weeder, trench hoe, hand rake, trowel, cultivator, seed planter and an automatic line marker for making straight-edged beds and borders easily.

An annual membership in a garden club or horticultural society is an easy gift to buy and one that will be appreciated by any gardening enthusiast.

Garden clubs and societies offer horticultural lectures, garden tours, library facilities and a wonderful opportunity to chat with other gardeners the year round, and don't overlook general and specialized books that meet every gardener's interests.

One of the specialized group is Hamilton P. Traub's "The Amaryllis Manual," giving the history, propagation and culture of every known Amaryllis species. Another book for the serious gardener is Harold William Rickett's "Botany For Gardeners."

The women gardeners will like Poppins Scrubbers. Made of soft cotton jersey with a plastic moisture resistant finish, they'll keep her hands clean while she gardens.

Last, but not least, metal or ceramic flower containers provide wonderful gifts for those who enjoy flower arranging.

Dominican Republic President to Marry

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, D.R. (UPI) —President Hector B. Trujillo will marry Alma McLaughlin Simo Saturday in a ceremony expected to be one of the biggest social events here in recent years.

The ceremony, in the chapel of the Dominican "White House," will be followed by a reception.

DEAR SIR:
I see the Tigers are back at the old stand. They sign a first baseman that has fizzled with five major league clubs and he's going to replace a first baseman that had four trials with the Giants and never made it. The Tigers have half a dozen ball players and the rest are minor league performers. You aren't going anywhere with fat first basemen that bat about .235 in the majors.

Tiger Fan

Dear Tiger Fan:

At .235 he must be considered a "slugger" on Detroit's squad. Maybe next year we can get a .250 hitter.

DEAR SIR:
Should I go out and get my world series tickets now that the Tigers have added such sluggers as Bilko and Fernandez?

Billy Stoutt
Waterford

Dear Bill:

DEAR SIR:
Let's not go overboard with that Pontiac Central basketball team. Every year they have a good season over there but turn out to be the biggest tournament fizzle in the state. They will have to show a little more class than they did in the past two games to get rated number one or among the top ten again this year.

Tom

Dear Tom:

Don't you think it would be a pretty big demand to ask PCH to repeat as number one in the state? And it is not a matter of fizzling, but it goes to prove just how unpredictable tournament basketball can be.

Dear Sue:

DEAR SIR:
You've mentioned about all the great spirit at Pontiac Northern all during the fall, how about the Pontiac Central students against PNH last week? Was it spirited enough for you.

Sue

Dear Sue:

We've never challenged the spirit at PCH. The spirit was great. It was Pontiac Central all the way on the court and in the student body last Friday. Give them that kind of support the rest of the season and it should be another great year for the Chiefs.

HERE WEDNESDAY — Michigan State football coach Duffy Daugherty will be guest speaker at the MSU Oakland County Alumni Club's annual football banquet tomorrow night at Devon Gables. The Press All-County team will be honored.

Both Leagues Refuse to Consider Expansion Now

Majors Disappoint Rickey

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Branch Rickey was expected today to voice public regret over what he regards as the Major League's indecisive stand on expansion.

The venerable president of the embryo Continental League received with mixed feelings last night the announcements of the American and National Leagues not to consider expansion "at the present time."

Not even their reaffirmation of a previous resolution to favorably consider the new league's application for major league status if it gets eight cities and meets other specified requirements failed to appease the former National League club owner.

"I am disappointed but not surprised," Rickey said. "The decisions announced by the two leagues are the same as before. We had hoped for a definite stand on the part of the majors.

The National made it clear it has no thought of expanding. The American is playing the same guessing game it has played in recent months. While it acknowledges it is not feasible to expand at the present, it hastens to add it has not given up the idea of expanding in the future."

Rickey did not indicate what rebuttal, or action, if any, he would take at today's scheduled press conference following a meeting with William Shea, founder of the new league, and its five founding members. All joined forces here yesterday and immediately went into a secret huddle after the majors had concluded their individual meetings.

The National and American Leagues decided on a closing joint meeting today, instead of tomorrow, as originally planned. There is no intention on the part of the majors to meet with the Continental League.

Not everybody interpreted the Majors' actions yesterday as an obstruction in the path of the Continental League's rocky road to big league recognition. Commissioner Ford Frick hailed the announcements as a green light for the embattled five-team circuit.

"Now that the National and American Leagues have restated their positions as announced last May," he said, "the Continental League continues to have the opportunity of proceeding with its announced program.

"The commissioner looks forward to such positive action as will permit them (the Continental League) to qualify for major league status."

While the two established major leagues took a dim view of immediate expansion, the American made it plain it desired expansion but did not want to try it alone.

"We can't take the position we never are going to expand," said American League President Joe Cronin. "We believe expansion is inevitable. We discussed the possibility of going to nine clubs at this time but that is impossible without the National League. We also do no think it is feasible to go to 10 teams with the National remaining at eight."

The Continental League currently has five franchise holders. They are Houston, Denver, Toronto, New York and Minneapolis - St. Paul. Cities which had been under consideration as prospective new members included Montreal, Buffalo, Atlanta and Dallas-Fort Worth.

Huskies Take Second Crack at First Win

Maples Go to Dondero, Lake Orion a Visitor in Season Openers

By BILL CORNWELL

The Huskies from Pontiac Northern take a second crack at winning their first basketball game of the season tonight when they invade Hazel Park to meet the Vikings of the Eastern Michigan League.

Hazel Park defeated Cranbrook last Friday night on the Parker court in the opening game of the year for the Vikings.

Northern coach Dick Hall hopes his cagers will find the going a little easier this evening than they did last Friday when they tipped off a new campaign in the Pontiac Central gymnasium.

There the Huskies absorbed a 61-35 lacing from their city rivals, the Chiefs, and they were thoroughly outclassed from start to finish.

Two Oakland County schools will begin their 1959-60 seasons tonight.

Other games of local interest on tonight's prep card include Fenton at Holly, Cranbrook at Walled Lake, Rochester at Davison, Madison at Lamphere, Goodrich at Ortonville and Royal Oak Shrine at Wyandotte St. Patrick.

Although Northern had little to cheer about in the one-sided loss to PCH, Hall found some extra scoring punch from an unexpected source in Jim Capistrant, 5-foot-7 guard.

Hall received no scoring punch from an expected source on the same evening. Mike Fedynik, Northern's leading scorer last season, was limited to one point by the stingy PCH defense.

Fedynik attempted only seven shots and missed all of them while bagging a foul shot in the 3rd quarter for his lone point and missing another charity toss in the 2nd period.

It was by far the worst night of Fedynik's high school cage career and the Huskies will need his point-making support the rest of the way if they hope to make any inroads in the Inter-Lakes Conference race.

Lions Name Jim Martin 1959 MVP

Veteran Kicker Honored in 10th Season on Club

Pietrosante Is Selected Top Rookie; 4 More Draftees in Fold

DETROIT (AP) — A man who has spent most of his Detroit Lion career on the bench is the club's "most valuable player" for 1959—by vote of his own teammates.

Place-kicking specialist Jim Martin, at 35 never before a football trophy winner, was given the team's richest accolade at the season's final Fan Club luncheon yesterday.

"It's a real thrill," he said. "I can't express my feelings."

In his 10 years as a Lion—until this troublesome 1959 season—Martin did hardly anything other than kick the points after touchdowns.

In this he excelled. Otherwise, he rode the bench, coming in only for the points.

However, with injury to regular linebacker Joe Schmidt this season, it fell to Martin to fill a huge gap. He played in every game.

The fans' last luncheon party of the year also was marked by an award to rookie fullback Nick Pietrosante from Notre Dame and a renewed expression of confidence in coach George Wilson from club president Edwin J. Anderson.

The Lions gave Pietrosante their "rookie of the year" award. Because of injuries suffered in the 45-21 rout of the Chicago Cardinals last Sunday, Pietrosante may not play in the season finale against the Chicago Bears next Sunday. He has a gashed lip and a leg injury.

The Lions, 3-7-1 for the year, and coach Wilson got Anderson's praise in the midst of the continuing rumors that there may be a shakeup in both the coaching and executive ranks before another season rolls around. Anderson said Wilson and the coaching staff did a "great job" in keeping up morale "in the face of many problems." He predicted better things next year.

Anderson said the club has received commitments to play next year from four more Lion draftees. In addition to halfback Johnny Robinson and quarterback Warren Rabb of Louisiana State he said the club now has assurances from tackle Roger Brown of Maryland State, end Gale Cogdill of Washington State, and backs Jerry Norton of Idaho and John Rasso of Cincinnati.

All-County Gridders Feted Tomorrow at MSU Banquet

Members of the 1959 Pontiac Press All-Oakland County football team and their coaches will be the honored guests Wednesday night at Devon Gables when the Michigan State University Oakland County Alumni Club stages its annual grid banquet.

Altogether, 25 Oakland prep gridders and 13 coaches encompassing 13 schools will be on the honor roll for tomorrow evening's affair.

Joining the 13 members of the All-County squad and their coaches will be the 11 players on The Press Class A team in addition to Oxford High's Doug Stott and his coach, Dick Figg.

Stott, who was unanimously named to The Press Class B honor squad, received a special invitation for winning the Oakland County scoring championship.

Hugh (Duffy) Daugherty, MSU's genial head footbal coach, will be the guest speaker and members of his grid staff will accompany him to Devon Gables, located at the corner of Telegraph and Long Lake roads.

Toastmaster for the occasion will be Bud Erickson, publicity director of the Detroit Lions.

The Pontiac Press sports department will present two special awards in addition to a trophy for each member of the All-County team.

Charley Brown, Pontiac Central's All-State guard, will receive his bronze shoe emblematic of his selection as Oakland County's top gridder of the year. His coach, Jesse MacLeay, will be awarded the County Coach - of - the - Year trophy.

Color films of the 1959 Michigan State—Northwestern football game will be shown at the end of the program.

Syracuse National Grid Champ

By The Associated Press

All-conquering Syracuse University wore the national football championship crown today with an overwhelming first place vote in the final Associated Press poll, which also showed the first 12 teams solidly lined up for major bowl engagements.

The Orangemen, winners of 10 straight and the only major unbeaten and untied team in the country, took over the No. 1 spot Nov. 7 and held it the rest of the way.

The climax of the season came last Saturday in Los Angeles, where Syracuse displayed its might by crushing UCLA 36-8. So it was no surprise when Coach Ben Schwartzwalder's team landed 134 of the 201 first place ballots cast by the nation's sports writers and broadcasters.

Perhaps never before have the major bowls snatched up such highly ranked college teams. Most were signed up for the bowls more than a week ago. Syracuse accepted a Cotton Bowl invitation Nov. 14 after walloping Colgate 71-0. The Orangemen will meet the Texas Longhorns, beaten only by Texas Christian and No. 4 in the final poll.

Syracuse, in replacing Louisiana State as national champion, is the first eastern team to gain the honor since Army in 1945. Last year Syracuse was ninth in the final balloting with an 8-1 record.

Rose Bowl—Wisconsin (No. 6) vs. Washington (No. 8).
Bluebonnet Bowl—Texas Christian (No. 7) vs. Clemson (No. 11).
Liberty Bowl — Alabama (No. 10) vs. Penn State (No. 12).

The Orangemen, with a second team rated almost as powerful as the first unit, will receive the annual Associated Press trophy emblematic of the national championship. They had been ranked No. 20 in the pre-season AP poll. It was the first time in 71 years that Syracuse had gone unbeaten and untied.

The Orangemen led the nation in total offense, rushing offense, total defense, and defense against rushing. They topped the country in scoring with 390 points, giving up only 59. Syracuse averaged better than 450 yards a game in total offense, and held opponents to less than 100 yards.

The final standings, based on 10 points for a first-place vote, nine for second, etc. (First place votes and won-lost records in parentheses):

TOP TEN

1.	Syracuse (134) (10-0)	1768

Howe and Bathgate Remain Tied in 2nd; Plante Heads Goalies

MONTREAL (AP) — Bronco Horvath, Boston Bruins' center, held on to the scoring lead in the National Hockey League today despite missing one of his club's three games last week because of a toe injury.

Horvath got only one goal, raising his point total to 35, made up of 21 goals, tops in the league, and 14 assists. But his working margin dwindled to five from seven points a week ago, NHL official statistics disclosed.

New York's Andy Bathgate and Gordie Howe of Detroit each tallied one goal and two assists to remain tied for second with 30 points.

Bobby Hull of Chicago chipped in with four goals and two assists to move up from sixth to fourth place with 29 points.

Jacques Plante, Montreal goalie, continued to lead in the defense department, yielding only 2.04 goals a game. He has allowed 55 goals in 27 games.

Detroit Stamping Co., featuring Oakland County players, evened its record at 1-1 in the Detroit Senior Hockey League by nipping Vernor's 2-1 last night. Bob Byers of Walled Lake tallied both goals.

North Branch Boy Among Three Signed by Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers have signed three college freshmen to 1960 farm club contracts, Bill DeWitt, Tiger president, said yesterday.

They are John Griffin of North Branch, Mich., and Michigan State University, Don Nowery of Albion, Mich., and Western Michigan University, both outfielders, and Bill Shelton of Washington, D.C. and the University of Maryland, a third baseman.

The Tigers also signed Tom Schroeder of Kenmore, N.Y., who doubles as a catcher and third sacker.

All will report to the spring training camp, Tigertown, at Lakeland, Fla. Griffin goes to Class A Knoxville, Nowery to Class B Durham, Shelton to Class D Montgomery and Schroeder to Class C Duluth-Superior.

Schroeder was a high school and municipal league star, Griffin hit .345 in service baseball, Nowery won the Jackson, Mich., summer league batting crown with .473 in 1958 and Shelton hit over .400 in American Legion ball.

All-Star Pin Points

By BILLY WELU

LIFT AND ROLL

The action of the ball is controlled by the fingers. As the pendulum swing ends near the foul line, the fingers impart natural lift to the ball which makes it hook toward its objective.

The thumb must come out first, while the fingers pull the ball upward, counter-clockwise. This imparts the lift necessary to make the ball revolve. A rolling ball will not deflect as easily as one that spins.

It is not necessary to twist or turn the fingers or wrist. Stuff on the ball comes from the action of the fingers and the outward motion of the completed swing. A breaking of the wrist will cause what is called top roll, making the ball spin, but not roll straight forward, and spend its power before reaching the pins.

Pros Eye Top Stars From Small Colleges

Of the six graduating seniors on the 1959 Associated Press All-State team, three are likely to wind up in the pro-ranks.

Fullback Jim Hurd of Albion College already has signed with the Green Bay Packers. Halfback Walt Beach of Central Michigan was drafted by the New York Giants and will meet with officials of that club. He probably will play in the Canadian League, however.

The first team center, Jim O'Hara of Wayne State, has a meeting today with representatives of the proposed Dallas franchise in the National Football League.

Twenty-two players in all were honored here yesterday at the AP's fourth annual state college All-State luncheon. They received All-State awards and 11 players named to the state's NAIA honor team were given certificates by Sam Ketchman, Michigan chairman of the group.

Ketchman, athletic director and football coach at Ferris Institute, himself was awarded a plaque by the AP Sports Writers' Assn. for outstanding service to sports in Michigan.

The annual Coach-of-the-Year award was presented by the writers and coaches to Bill Kelly of Central Michigan. The popular Kelly, who just completed his ninth season at Central, has had only three losing teams in 30 years of coaching.

"Getting an award like this from the writers and from your fellow coaches makes all the work and effort worthwhile," said Kelly.

The AP awards were made by Al Cotton, sports editor of the Jackson Citizen-Patriot and chairman of the AP Sports Writers' Assn.

Hawks, Boilermakers Unbeaten; Defeat of Indiana Is Surprise

By The Associated Press

Ohio State's red-hot Buckeyes continued to gain basketball prestige along with Purdue and Iowa.

Ohio State scored its fourth straight triumph without defeat last night while Purdue and Iowa also remained undefeated.

Minnesota's highly ranked Gophers suffered their second loss in three games and Wisconsin went down to its third straight defeat. In a sixth non-conference game, Indiana suffered its first loss after one win.

Ohio State had no trouble with Butler, saddling the Bulldogs with a 96-66 loss. Purdue hammered Pitt 91-79, and Iowa trounced North Dakota 79-43.

Minnesota was defeated by Nebraska 76-66, and Wisconsin lost to Notre Dame 78-58.

The big surprise was Indiana's 79-76 loss at Missouri. The Hoosiers were picked to win the championship in the Big Ten and that race begins Jan. 2.

Jerry Lucas, Ohio State's 6-8 newcomer, pushed through 26 points for the Buckeyes.

Terry Dischinger, also a sophomore, scored 19 points for Purdue but scoring honors went to teammate Bobby Orrill who hit for 20.

Minnesota, trailing at halftime, took a 45-42 lead over Nebraska but the Cornhuskers were sharp at the free throw line and won out.

Indiana gave Missouri an excellent battle. The Hoosiers trailed 43-38 at halftime and the lead exchanged hands 17 times before the Tigers went in front to stay.

Wisconsin fell behind Notre Dame 38-29 at halftime and never could catch up as the Irish dominated the backboards.

Weber, Bickel Top Invitational Qualifiers

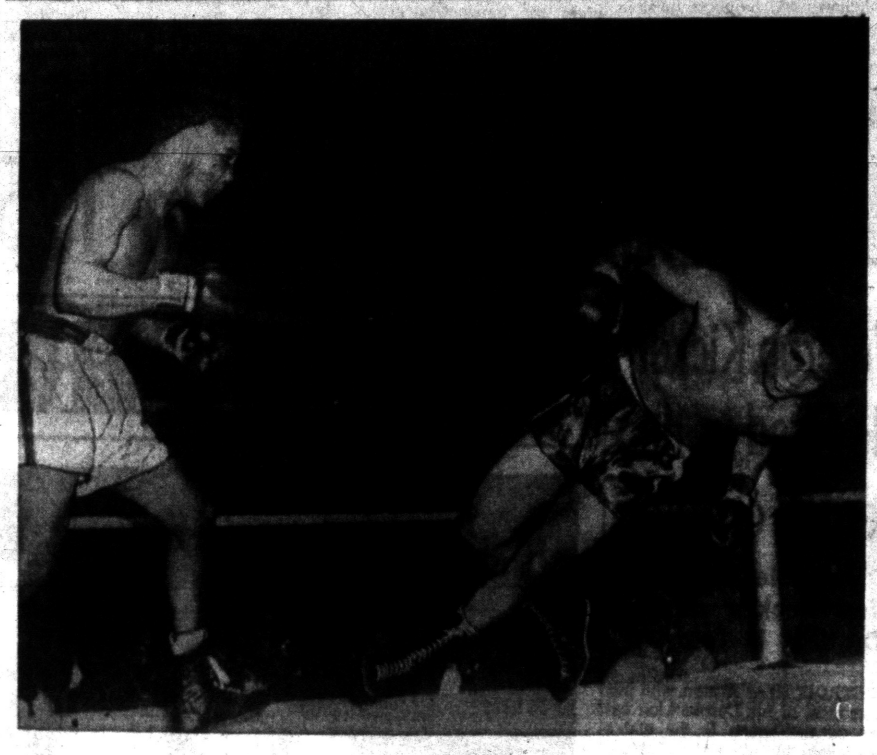

32 Move Into Keg Finals

CHICAGO (AP)—Thirty-two of the country's top men and women bowlers, after four days of qualifying rounds, today moved into the finals of the third annual World Invitational bowling tourney.

Fifteen men from a field of 128 joined defending champion Eddie Lubanski in the first day of shooting in the match-game finals in the Chicago Coliseum for shares in the $30,000 awards.

The schedule from today through Friday calls for four matches a day, at four games each for the men, for a total of 64. The women will roll four two-game matches a day for a total of 32 games.

GOING DOWN — Jesse Bowdry, St. Louis light heavyweight, goes down for a count of eight in the 7th round of last night's bout with middleweight Henry Hank of Detroit. It was the only knockdown of the fight. Hank won on a technical knockout in the 10th and final round as Bowdry's manager threw in the towel.

Part of the Friday night finals will be nationally televised (9 p.m., CST, NBC), replacing the regular Friday night fight card.

Dick Weber, a 124-pound lightweight from St. Louis, and Pauline Bickel, a 42-year-old bowling instructress from Omaha, paced the qualifiers.

Weber set a new record with a qualifying total of 7,863. But many observers were saying that Don Carter, of St. Louis, 1957 World champion and four-time All-Star champion, was the man to beat in the finals.

Carter, the "Ben Hogan" of the bowling world, who appeared out of contention after Saturday when he was 71st among the 128 men, qualified for the finals, finishing in 11th place.

Carter has long been regarded as the top performer in the match game system which employs a Petersen point system. Under this method, a bowler receives one point for each game won plus an additional point for each 50 pins he knocks down.

The women's division is regarded as a wide-open affair although most so-called experts lean to Mrs. Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., the 1957 World champion and a seven time (out of ten) winner of the All-Star. Mrs. Ladewig is regarded, along with Carter, as one of the best at match game bowling.

Frantz, on his route to the finals, had a perfect 300 game on Saturday and then came back last night with a 297 game which included 11 straight strikes before he left a 4-7-10 split on his final ball.

Big Stars From Obscure Schools

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Arnold . . . Compton . . . Scott Bluff . . . Florence Teachers . . . Mt. Diablo High . . . Miller High . . . Sam Houston . . . Murray State . . . Bethune Cookman.

Mention these names to the average football fan and he'll probably reward you with a blank stare. He should react with open mouth amazement when you tell him that from these institutions little known outside their areas come some of the finest pro football players in the land.

A study of National Football League rosters disclosed this and a number of other interesting statistics that would make a figure filbert's heart sing. For example theer are 431 active NFL players from 140 colleges, universities, junior colleges and high schools.

Take the list referred to above. From Arnold College in New York comes Andy Robustelli, a standout defensive star for the New York Giants, now in his ninth season. Compton (Calif.) Junior College contributed a 207-pound powerhouse known as Joe (Jet) Perry of the San Francisco 49ers.

Dick (Night Train) Lane, an eight-year defensive ace of the Chicago Cardinals, calls Scott Bluff Junior College (Neb.) his alma mater. Then, there are such greats as:

Here are some figures which will help settle those off season debates as to which section and which teams provide most of the pro stars. The Big Ten has 63 former players on the 12 NFL teams. Michigan State has 13 and Purdue with 12 lead the way.

Next comes the Southeastern Conference with 60 in the play-for-pay ranks. Mississippi, Tennessee, Georgia and Louisiana State claim seven each. The Southwest Conference, led by Southern Methodist's 10, Baylor's 8, and 7 each from Arkansas and Texas A&M, can brag about 47 active pros.

PNH-Southfield Tomorrow

Swim Card Gets Heavier

Pontiac Northern and Southfield each with a victory in their first dual meets, will splash in the Southfield pool tomorrow night.

Tonight, Madison Heights goes to Utica, and Hazel Park is at Royal Oak Dondero.

Last night, Detroit Thurston won its second straight meet by downing U. of D. High, 68-24, with two varsity records being set. Thurston, a strong choice in the NSL, set a freestyle medley record in 1:41 with Tim Traceay, Bruce Robison, Bob Keller and Mike Girard comprising the team.

Robison also set a 50 yard mark in :25.4 for Thurston.

Northern holds one victory in the league, easily defeating Madison last week, 69-15. But Southfield also won handily by dunking Redford 65-31.

The Jays are expected to beat the Huskies, with Jerry Carley a strong choice in the sprints.

Fitzgerald scored its second victory last night by defeating Bentley, 56-36 with Larry Leader setting a varsity record in the 50 yard at :25.6; and Don Main in the butterfly at 1:09.7.

Swimming action continues Friday, with Pontiac Central traveling to Saginaw to meet perennial power Arthur Hill in a Saginaw Valley dual meet.

Birmingham's powerhouse team will be at Southfield on Friday.

These are the standings for the North Suburban Swim League:

League	W	L	All-Meets W	All-Meets L
Northern	1	0	1	0
Fitzgerald	1	0	2	0
Southfield	0	0	1	0
Utica	0	1	0	1
Madison	0	1	0	1
Thurston	0	0	2	0

State Ski Great Home; Will Start Olympic Training

ISHPEMING (AP) — Jon St. Andre, the army's top skier and the only military skier selected for the 1960 Olympic ski jump team, has returned to his Ishpeming home on Christmas leave.

St. Andre, a ski instructor at the army's cold weather and mountain school at Fort Greely, Alaska, begins training with the 15 other U.S. jumpers competing for the Olympic team at Westby, Wis., Dec. 27.

He and the others will train at Westby until Jan. 4. On Jan. 29, they will be at Ishpeming where the best eight of the 16 candidates will be chosen for the team.

St. Andre earned a spot on the training squad by placing third in the North American meet at Squaw Valley last year. This gave him the highest rating of all service ski jumpers.

Oriole Boss Resigns

Will Honor Malzone

BOSTON (AP)—Frank Malzone, Boston's stand-out third baseman, will be honored as the Red Sox' most valuable player for 1959 at the annual Boston baseball writers dinner Jan. 27. The 29-year-old third baseman batted .280 and drove in 92 runs last season.

McMahon Hawk Aid

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Hawks have appointed Jack McMahon, veteran guard and paymaker, an assistant coach, ending an 8-year playing career in the National Basketball Assn.

Junior Wings Gain Shutout Led by Clement

DETROIT (UPI)—Jim Clement, an 18-year-old freshman at the University of Detroit, scored his first shutout last night as the Detroit Junior Wings gained a 4-0 victory over the Leamington Flyers.

The win brought the Junior Wings to within one point of Chatham, leaders in the Border Cities Hockey League. The Detroit squad meets Chatham Saturday night in Canada and again next Monday night at Olympia.

Clement had 16 saves as the club took its ninth victory in 12 starts.

Finding Head Coach 1st Task for Boss Sebo

NEW YORK (AP)—Steve Sebo took up his new duties as general manager of the New York Titans today with both eyes peeled for a head coach.

Hired by the American Football League club after Pennsylvania fired him a week ago, the one-time Michigan State assistant said yesterday that he's enthusiastic about his new post.

"I'm glad to get into the administrative end of the game," Sebo told newsmen. "It's a change and a challenge."

Sebo, 45, got a three-year contract and a salary of about $25,000 a year from an old MSU classmate, sports broadcaster Harry Wismer who is president of the Titans and one of the founders of the AFL.

His salary is probably twice as much as he collected at Penn where he led the Quakers to an Ivy League championship this season, the University's best in 12 years.

Sebo and Wismer said they would start immediately to find a head coach. Wismer said the club had "five or six men in mind."

Sebo said he would be in charge of player personnel and the club's scouting system.

"I'm going to see a couple of bowl games and take a look at some of the players we've drafted," he said. "There will be plenty of room for players."

As for pro football generally, Sebo said it wouldn't be strange to him. "I've watched the Eagles play their home games in Philadelphia," he said.

Sebo's Penn team had a 7-1-1 record this season. His record for six seasons at Penn was 18-35-1.

Henry Hank Scores TKO of Bowdry

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Henry Hank Detroit middleweight scored a technical knockout over Jesse Bowdry St. Louis light-heavyweight in the tenth and final round Monday night. Hank weighed 165¼, Bowdry 174¼.

Bowdry's manager Bernie Glickman threw in the towel at 1:51 of the 10th when Hank had Bowdry in a helpless condition along the ropes.

MSU Skaters Drop Game to Colorado

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State's hockey team lost the opener of a two-game series to Colorado College last night, 4-3. The teams play again tonight.

Brian Dutowski's goal at 11:15 of the third period gave Colorado the victory in the Western Collegiate Hockey Assn. game after the two teams finished the second period deadlocked, 3-3. The first period ended 1-1.

Previously, Colorado split two games with Michigan and MSU won one and tied one with North Dakota.

Bill Goodacre scored twice for Colorado last night and Jerry Maiko scored once. Ed Ozybko counted for MSU in the first period and Tom Mustonen and Terry Maroney in the second period.

State Will Name New Aide Dec. 18 —May Be Carillot

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Michigan State University athletic officials said today they have selected a replacement for former Spartan line coach Lou Agase, who signed over the weekend to coach Toronto in the Canadian Football League.

Athletic Director Biggie Munn and head coach Duffy Daugherty said they mailed their selection to MSU President John A. Hannah.

They said the name would not be announced until the Dec. 18 meeting of the school's board of trustees, which has to approve the selection.

Elks, Jets Win Class D Cage Openers

The Pontiac City League's Class D teams tipped off the 1959-60 season last night with the Elks and the Jefferson Jets drawing first blood in a pair of games at Lincoln Junior High.

In the "D" twin bill, the Elks won a 42-41 thriller over Eastside Shopping and the Jets breezed past Lee's Sales & Service, 45-36.

The Knights handed Newman A.M.E. a 79-58 trouncing and the Lakeside Royals, two-time city champions, walloped CIO Local 594 by a 58-40 count.

John Jefferson was nearly a one-man team for the Elks, meshing 20 points to account for almost half of his team's production. Teammate Allen Manley added 11. Russ Rana paced Eastside's quintet with 19.

Bob Graves netted 16 points and Andy Roach contributed 11 to spark the easy Jet triumph. Don Chase and Bill Peterson tallied 11 and 10, respectively, for Lee's cagers.

Roger Nosek led the K.C. assault on Newman's with 24 points, followed by John Keller with 20. Two other K.C. players also hit double figures in the scoring column. Jerry Williams paced Newman's attack with 17.

Sammy Soles bagged 15 points to feature the Royal's conquest of the Union squad. Alonzo Griffin collected 13 for the CIO.

AL Retires Rommel but He Isn't Ready

BALTIMORE (AP) — Eddie Rommel, an American League pitcher for 13 years and an umpire for 22, isn't ready to just sit in the stands yet.

The American League retired him Monday and Rommel, who was 62, Sept. 13, received the news from The Associated Press with mixed reactions.

"I haven't anything in mind," said Rommel, whose active association with major league baseball goes back to 1920. "I'd like to do something to occupy my mind."

He expressed hope he would be "contacted by someone" in baseball.

After pitching two years at Seaford, Del., Rommel recalls that Jack Dunn of the Baltimore Orioles came to look him over in 1918.

Dunn wasn't impressed and "I was pretty discouraged and just about ready to quit," Rommel said. Then a friend showed him how to grip the ball with his finger nails.

"I tried it and the first ball I threw broke about five feet," Rommel continued. "I was delighted and went up to Newark and caught on with the Bears of the International League."

In 1922, Rommel's 27 victories were best in the American League and he was runner up to George Sisler as most valuable. He had a 21-10 record in 1925.

In the 1929 World Series, Rommel pitched one inning of the fourth game and was credited with a victory. The Chicago Cubs had an 8-0 lead when the Athletics scored 10 runs for Rommel's victory.

The game Rommel remembers most vividly, however, was one he lost, a 1-0 decision in 15 innings to Walter Johnson. That was the opening game of the 1925 season against the Washington Senators with President Calvin Coolidge in the stands.

Rommel disclosed in 1956 that he was the first major league umpire to wear eyeglasses at work. He hastened to add "I don't need them for work at the plate or in the daytime. I got them just for night games when I'm on the bases."

Titans Roll On Hot Shooting

DeBusschere, North and Albee Pace Team With High Average Scoring

DETROIT (UPI)—Here's why the University of Detroit may have the hottest college basketball team in the state this year:

He has grabbed 40 rebounds and 63 per cent of the shots he has taken from the floor so far have gone through the mesh.

Another sophomore, forward Charlie North, has 44 points and 33 rebounds. His shooting average is 50 per cent for the two games.

Senior guard Ray Albee has 45 points and is shooting at a 49 per cent clip. He is a sparkplug for the team and the best playmaker at the Detroit school in many years.

Offer Big Ten Huge TV Pact

$100,000 Per Year Would Cover Four Sports

CHICAGO (AP) — A whopping $1,000,000 a year television contract has been offered the Big Ten for purposes of televising football, basketball, swimming and track events, it was disclosed Monday night.

A Western Conference official said the package offer has been made by a national advertising agency.

However, the official, who asked not to be identified, stated that the Big Ten could not receive the offer under present rules of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

The contract calls for $1,000,000 a year for three years with option for renewal.

The Big Ten, as a member of the NCAA, cannot accept the bid without sanction of the ruling collegiate body.

The NCAA, which has its own television contract for football, would have to approve the deal. If not, then the Big Ten would have to break from the NCAA if it decided to accept the contract.

LSU's Peterson Gets Florida State Post

Goggin Retains Seniors Crown

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Willie Goggin has successfully defended his U.S. national senior golf championship by topping two other veterans in a three-way playoff.

Goggin, 53, professional at a public links course in San Jose, Calif., shot a 37-33—70 in the playoff yesterday, downing Smiley Quick of Los Angeles and Olin Dutra of Rialto, Calif.

Goggin's score was two under par for the Eldorado Country Club course.

Goggin took $2,000 first place money. Quick, 50, who was playing as a senior pro for the first time, pocketed $1,500. Dutra, 58, took home $1,250.

The trio tied after 72 holes with 289 Sunday.

Plays in Rugby Feature

Dawkins' Big Test Today

LONDON (UPI) — Pete Dawkins, the All-America halfback from West Point, faces one of the toughest tests of his athletic career today when Oxford plays Cambridge in England's rugby game of the year.

Named to play win three-quarter on the Oxford team, Dawkins will be on the spot to prove himself a hero or a goat. Win three-quarter is a tough position in soccer because it offers a player ample opportunities for scoring and almost as many chances for fluffing.

Oxford is a heavy favorite to register its 36th victory in 78 games played between the two bitter rivals since 1872.

Dawkins is a Rhodes Scholar at the British school and is only the fifth American ever named to play in the annual classic, akin to the Rose Bowl game in American football.

If the modest Dawkins needed any bolstering of his morale, he could mull over Oxford captain Mal Phillips' comment.

"Pete will do," Phillips said, "he's got what it takes."

A crowd of 60,000 will be on hand in the Twickenham Bowl with at least 5,000 of them parsons ("old boys" of the two universities).

Beating Trial Starts 3rd Time

Walled Lake Youth, 19, Says County Deputies, Turnkey Beat Him

A third start was made in U. S. District Court, Detroit, today on a Walled Lake youth's $15,000 lawsuit against two Oakland County sheriff's deputies and a former deputy.

Carl E. Hess, 19, formerly of 960 Adelaide Dr., but now serving time in Ionia State Reformatory for safe robbery, accused the three of beating him up in 1957 when he was arrested on a drunk and disorderly charge.

Named as defendants are Turnkey Raymond E. Beason, Deputy Roland W. LaLonde and former Deputy Gordon Misener. Also named is the Fidelity Casualty Co. of New York, which bonds the deputies.

Today's began before U. S. District Court Judge Clifford O'Sullivan and a jury of 10 women and 2 men.

Hess claims he was mistreated by the deputies and suffered aggravation of an August 1957 brain injury. He was arrested in December.

Annual Session on Mental Health Here Wednesday

The fight to alleviate mental illness—"the nation's number one health threat"—in the Pontiac area will be the subject of a luncheon meeting tomorrow.

This will be the annual session between officials concerned with the problem and the members of the Oakland County chapter of the Michigan Society for Mental Health.

The meeting will be at the Devon Gables restaurant.

They will be introduced by Elmer E. Hartwig, Royal Oak attorney and chapter chairman.

New Plan Ready for OK

Hangar Lease on Agenda

Approval of a new leasing arrangement for hangar No. 2 at Pontiac Municipal Airport will be sought from the City Commission tonight, and it's expected the Commission readily will support the plan.

Up for passage is an $18,000 a year lease of all of the hangar to a new Oakland County firm, Aerodynamics, Inc., which wants to sell and service aircraft and electronic equipment.

Earlier this month, the Commission indicated it would approve the lease if temporary arrangements could be made for two old-time tenants of the building who would have to move out — Northern Flying Service and Land O' Lakes Flying Club.

City Manager Walter K. Willman is scheduled to report tonight that the two firms have agreed to move from their choice office spots on the first floor and accept quarters on the second until new office and hangar space, to be constructed especially for them, is available next to hangar 2 next summer.

Under the lease, the city expects to net at least $10,000 more a year than it is getting now in revenues from the hangar. After maintenance costs, the city is clearing only about $1,800. Aerodynamics said if it gets the lease, it would take over most maintenance costs.

In other business, the city will be asked for the first time to approve a change in that portion of the Waterford Township sewer system which is covered by the city's new sewage treatment agreement.

The township is asking permission to hook into the Pontiac treatment system a new sanitary sewer on Tilden street, Huron to Elizabeth Lake road.

This drain would be in the heart of the area that has been accused of polluting Crystal Lake by means of septic overflow and seepage into the West End Drain.

The City Commission has sought to end the pollution, on the one hand, and on the other has kept a watchful eye on adding any new strain on the already overloaded sewage treatment facilities.

Tilden street residents petitioned to pay for the sewer themselves through special assessments. Township Supervisor Elmer Johnson said he hoped the move would spur other residents in the neighborhood to take the same step.

Gunman Robs Grocery of $10

Sticks Up Proprietor With Revolver, Then Demands More Funds

A 35-year-old Pontiac woman was robbed of $10 at gunpoint last night as she was closing a grocery store she and her husband operated.

Mrs. Rose Kentros, 244 S. Sanford St., told Pontiac police the bandit entered the Presto Grocery Store, 536 S. Saginaw St., at 9:50 p.m. as she was preparing to leave with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Katherine Sultos, 65, of the same address.

Showing Mrs. Kentros a beer bottle, he asked: "Have you got this kind?"

Then he whipped out a nickel-plated revolver, Mrs. Kentros said, and told her: "This is a stickup. Keep your hands down or I'll kill you!"

Mrs. Kentros gave the gunman $10 from the cash register.

He told here there was more money around but she claimed she had paid bills, Mrs. Kentros reported.

The bandit then ran out the door, she told police.

She described the gunman as being about 5-feet-10, weighing 190 pounds, with black hair and brown eyes. She said he was between 20 and 30 years of age, of stocky build and of medium complexion.

He was wearing a flat cap with a bill and a tan coat, she said.

Fifteen Enlist in Navy From County Area

Other enlistees were Michael Hubbell, Robert Black, Thomas D. Ritchie and Ronald Soncrainte, all of Waterford Township; George Blum of Bloomfield Township and Clifford Billingsley of Keego Harbor.

Included in the group were William Clark of Milford, Douglas Roland and Michael G. Dolich, both of Oxford; and Robert Reeser and Roy L. Book, both of Rochester.

Others were John D. Daniels and Richard Ping, both of Walled Lake, and Edwin Renchik of Troy.

Three Await Burglary Trial

Members of Alleged Ring Charged With Part in Thefts

Three members of an alleged 16-member burglary ring are awaiting trial, and another two will be sentenced Dec. 21, after their arraignments before Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland yesterday.

Standing mute to breaking and entering charges were William H. Dickson, 18, 2121 Durham St., Utica, Gregory L. Holder, 21, of 2466 Barclay St., Utica, and Raleigh Wilson, 18, of 2382 Longview St., Avon Township.

Judge Holland entered pleas of innocent for the three and remanded them to the county jail. Dickson and Wilson are being held under $2,500 bonds, Holder, under a $1,000 bond.

Trial probably will not be held until February.

Pleading guilty to the same charges were Paul D. McIntyre, 20, of 3170 Gerald St., Rochester, and Jason M. Edgerton, 21, of 2344 Longview St., Avon Township.

The five, along with nine juveniles and two others, were responsible for a long string of burglaries, mostly in the eastern part of the county, sheriff's detectives said. They netted about $1,200 in cash and merchandise.

Lewis Moran (Professional) in Prison Again

It was back to prison today for Lewis I. Moran, confessed professional burglar who has spent 54 of his 67 years behind bars.

Moran's latest sentence of 4 to 15 years in Jackson Prison was imposed yesterday by Circuit Judge William J. Beer. Moran pleaded guilty Nov. 19 to breaking and entering of a Ferndale church.

The gray-haired, bespectacled man stood in the jury box with his hand cupped to his right ear in order to hear the judge's sentence. The judge had to raise his voice so Moran could hear.

"I approach this sentence with some sadness, for considering your age this will be like a life sentence to you," Judge Beer said.

When he was arrested by Ferndale police last month, after accidentally tripping the burglar alarm in the Church of Christ, 210 Hilton St., Moran somewhat proudly told police he has been a criminal since 1918.

LearCal Taken Over by Motorola Company

CHICAGO (AP) — Motorola, Inc., Chicago makers of radio and television equipment, plans to swap an undisclosed bloc of common stock for the LearCal Division of Lear Inc.

Motorola will acquire Lear's executive and personal aircraft electronics products business, a joint announcement by both firms said Monday.

The LearCal operations still remain in their present quarters at Santa Monica, Calif., for the present, and later will be moved to a new plant in the Santa Monica area. No change in personnel is planned.

Gullett Loses Plea for Ouster Hearing

Circuit Judge William J. Beer today refused to order the city of Pontiac to grant a hearing to LaRue E. Gullett, deputy city treasurer before he was arrested in a gambling raid a year ago.

Gullett, 43, of 301 Dick Ave., sued the city last month, seeking a writ ordering the city to grant him a reinstatement hearing under the Veteran's Preference Act.

"I conclude, as a matter of fact, the plaintiff (Gullett) was suspended without question by his superior officer, the city treasurer on Sept. 2, 1958," Judge Beer said in denying the writ of mandamus.

This is further emphasized by the fact that he surrendered his keys to the City Hall and obtained his personal effects."

In a hearing yesterday before Judge Beer Gullett took the stand to deny that the city ever had given any official notice of his removal or suspension.

He said, upon the advice of his attorney, Howard I. Bond, that he hadn't filed a notice of protest of his "oral conversation" suspension until the gambling conspiracy case against him was settled.

Gullett, his wife and three others were arrested Aug. 29, 1958, by state police rackets squad detectives. They were charged with operating a horserace bookmaking ring.

Judge Beer and Judge H. Russel Holland acquitted all five this year for insufficient evidence.

Bond said, upon hearing Judge Beer's ruling, that he was "quite sure" an appeal to the State Supreme Court would be made.

It was City Attorney William A. Ewart's contention that Gullett was not entitled to a reinstatement hearing because he had not complied with the act and filed a notice of protest within 30 days of his September 1958 suspension.

Ewart called as a witness Walter A. Giddings, city treasurer, who testified he called Gullett about Sept. 2 following his arrest to "advise him that he had been suspended."

"I told him to turn in his keys and I offered to take his personal belongings from the office to his home," Giddings said.

"I don't recall any such statement," Gullett testified.

Bond objected as Ewart attempted to review the gambling conspiracy case which led to Gullett's suspension. Bond had sought to have such testimony stricken from the hearing.

Judge Beer, however, declaring he wanted "all the facts," denied Bond's motion.

After a 15-minute review of the case, Judge Beer reminded Ewart he was more interested in what took place in the phone conversation between Gullett and Giddings.

Judge Beer ruled Bond's letter of last Oct. 19 to Ewart "does not constitute a protest even by its wording."

Ewart called also City Clerk Ada R. Evans, Mayor Philip E. Rowston and former Mayor William W. Donaldson to show no protest was received by the city within the 30 days.

Finds Plane Safer Than Car, Though

President's Pilot Mighty Careful

By PATRICIA WIGGINS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 39-year-old Air Force colonel who grew up with a love for flying is piloting President Eisenhower on his 11-nation goodwill tour.

Col. William G. Draper, on whose shoulders rests the responsibility for the President's safety in the air, probably is the least concerned of all about the flying, landings and takeoffs involved in the arduous trip.

Draper, who has been Eisenhower's personal pilot since 1953, is one of those persons who thinks the most dangerous part of flying is the auto trip to and from the airport.

While the crack World War II pilot makes it all look easy, each presidential flight is a minutely checked and rechecked operation that includes practice flights on each route to be traveled.

The current trip is Draper's second time around in two months at each airport included in the trip. He flew White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty over the same route last month on a check-up flight.

PRACTICE PAYS

Draper's practice run undoubtedly paid off last Friday when Eisenhower's big jet put down in a splashy but safe landing at Rome's Ciampino Airport. Draper took no chances, however, and delayed protocol plans 15 minutes by taking his time coming down through soupy weather on a "standard instrument approach" from the plane's cruising altitude of about 33,000 feet.

He also made a routine check of Naples weather at the same time he prechecked Rome weather before landing. Such constant precautions are probably more routine for Draper than for any other pilot in the world.

On one scheduled flight from a governors' conference in Williamsburg, Va., Draper at the last minute switched Eisenhower to a standby plane because of a minor instrument difficulty on the President's Columbine III.

Even Draper confessed later that the instrument trouble would have caused no problem 99 times out of 100, but he's not willing to take even those odds on the President's safety. As a result there have been no narrow escapes during his six years as presidential pilot.

FASCINATED EARLY

According to his father, James D. Draper, a businessman in Silver Spring, Md., Draper was more fascinated even at the age of five with airplanes at the airfield near their home in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio than with his toys. He had his first flight at age seven — in an open cockpit plane.

Young Billy continued his interest in planes after the family moved to Silver Spring, a Washington suburb. At 16, he helped organize the Silver Spring Aeronauts' Club and at the University of Maryland was the only member of the school's civilian pilot training program to qualify for Civil Aeronautics Administration training.

He was one of six men in the nation chosen by the CAA for special training at the Du Pont airport, Wilmington, Del., just prior to World War II.

After a brief stint with Pan American Airways in 1941, Draper was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Corps and assigned to the Air Transport Command, ferrying bombers to England and North Africa. From 1943 to 1946 he was a pilot with the group called "Fireball Line" which flew strategic supplies from Miami to Assam, India.

During the next four years, Draper served as pilot and chief pilot with the special air mission squadron at National Airport here. He served as co-pilot when President Truman flew to visit Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

In December 1950 Draper was named personal pilot for Eisenhower as Supreme Commander of Allied Powers in Europe. He continued in that capacity for Eisenhower's successor until 1953 when he was recalled to Washington to serve as the President's Air Force aide and personal pilot.

It isn't just happenstance that Eisenhower has become the flyingest President in history with Draper as his personal pilot. Draper was largely instrumental in having the President switch to little twin-engine planes for trips to his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

He argued they were safer than traffic on narrow roads. He also gave a boost to presidential helicopter travel.

Draper neither smokes nor drinks. But he doesn't mind if members of his hand-picked crew do — providing they won't be flying for 48 hours.

When not piloting the President, Draper lives quietly in Silver Spring near his parents, with his German-born wife, Ruth, whom he met during World War II, and their four children—Mary Ann, 12, Jimmy, 10; Billy, Jr., 4; and Priscilla, five months.

Sen. Stennis Favors Johnson for 1960

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John C. Stennis (D-Miss) has come out in support of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex) for the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

Stennis said that Johnson has the "knowhow and the drive and would do a fine job" if nominated and then elected.

The Mississippi senator, appearing on a television interview Sunday, said Johnson would make a "very strong candidate" throughout the nation but he warned it would not be easy for the Democrats to recapture the White House from the Republicans.

Meanwhile, in Newark, N. J., Samuel H. Beer, Harvard professor and national chairman of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), said that if the Democrats are defeated, Johnson's leadership in the Senate could be blamed for it.

Child Bride, 15, Hopes for Baby by Christmas

The pretty 15-year-old from White Plains, Va., posed a legal problem when she arrived here to join her 21-year-old husband, Norman a year ago.

British law prohibits the marriage of anyone under 16, and it is a criminal offense to have sexual relations with a girl of 14, Barbara's age when she was married at Halifax, N. C., in 1958.

Questions were asked in Parliament, but Barbara was allowed to stay with her husband. Since then they have lived quietly in a London apartment.

Said Barbara, 16, next February: "I think 15 is a wonderful age to have a baby. I'm hoping for a girl."

New GMC Engines Seen as 200,000-Mile Units

Severe dynamometer tests and many thousands of miles of road experience confirm the fact that GMC Truck and Coach Division's new V-6 and V-12 gasoline truck engines have exceptionally long lives, according to C. V. Crockett, GMC chief engineer.

GMC engineers who have subjected these engines to unusually severe "cycling" tests and punishing highway workouts rate the engines as 200,000 mile units. They feel that, with proper maintenance, the engines will hit this mileage mark in most operations without major overhaul.

While both dynamometer and road tests have been used extensively, Crockett said that the dynamometer findings provided the most accurate yardstick for measuring the engines' durability. This is because the dynamometer can accurately control load and speed conditions over lengthy periods which is not practical on the highway.

Setting out to find out how long the V-6s and twin-6s would hold up under maximum dynamometer punishment, GMC engineers ran various engines day and night under peak loads, Crockett said. Results exceeded expectations.

LITTLE BORE WEAR

"A V-12," Crockett divulged, "was run 2,750 hours, nearly half of the time at 3,500 r.p.m., although in actual usage it would be governed at 2,400 r.p.m. to provide a speed of 55 miles per hour.

At this time, after running the equivalent of 175,000 road miles, the engine was opened up for inspection. Bore wear was an almost immeasurable .008 and maximum main bearing wear showed a negligible .0025.

The engine was then placed in a GMC highway tractor and sent to the GM Proving Ground for further durability tests.

"On a crankshaft durability test, a 401 cubic inch V-6 was run at 4,000 r.p.m. under full load conditions (this would approximate a speed of 70 to 80 miles per hour) for 750 hours.

After thus proving the crankshaft was fully capable of handling such extreme punishment, the GMC engineers reconditionad two of the engine's exhaust valves and put the engine into service at the Proving Ground."

In the cycling series, the human element was completely eliminated. They were arranged with abrupt changes so that every possible condition from idling to full speed could be provided.

At the end of the tests, the engines had invariably developed more horsepower than at the beginning due to the decrease in friction as the engine became fully "broken in."

The tests were made with "regular" non-premium gasoline of about 94 octane and water and oil circulation were provided at the same rates as in regular use.

Motors Big Aid to Market Gain

Advances and losses were small. Trading was fairly active, slackening off after the normal opening push.

Wall Street feeling was that the line of least resistance appeared to be upward, although the steady, but slow, progress was heartening. The market has risen minor amounts in the past three seesions after digesting a big spurt in the first half of last week.

Steels showed little reaction to the urging of Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell that both sides in the long dispute submit it to a third party, possibly the government, for solution. Changes were narrow and mixed.

Advances by auto makers came as production lines began operating again in Detroit. Chrysler was best, rising nearly 2 points, but compact car makers joined the other Big Three in small gains.

The market apparently was ignoring the latest indication of tight money, another record high in the treasury's short-term bills.

Chemicals had an upward tendency with DuPont up more than 5, Union Carbide up more than 1 and Air Reduction ahead around a point.

Some specialty issues, notably Universal Match and Universal Oil products, were actively traded. The former was up nearly 7 points, while the latter was only narrowly ahead. Westinghouse spurted more than 2 while General Electric was ahead almost a point after trimming part of an earlier gain.

International Nickel was best among nonferrous metals, rising almost 2, as others in this group awaited settlement of the long copper strike. Oils and rails, which recently have recouped part of their deep 1959 losses, turned irregularly lower.

News in Brief

James D. Miller, 50, of 6185 Waterfront St., Waterford Township, pleaded guilty to a drunk driving charge Monday before Springfield Township Justice Emmett J. Leib and paid $200 costs and was placed on two years probation.

James G. Maybee, 23, of 3299 Harrison St., Rochester, paid a $25 fine plus $25 costs after pleading guilty to reckless driving yesterday before Avon Township Justice Luther C. Green.

Wheat, Soybeans Off in Sluggish Trading

CHICAGO (AP) — The grain futures market opened within a steady range today then slipped into weakness on wheat and soybeans. Both commodities showed losses running to major fractions during the first several minutes.

The pressure was not more than moderate, however, and was described as reflecting slow demand more than any new bearish influence.

Other grains held about steady. A report that oats exports so far this crop year have climbed to more than 20 million bushels compared with a little more than 7 million a year ago brought some scattered buying in that pit.

After about an hour wheat was unchanged to ⅜ cent a bushel lower, December $1.96⅝; corn ¼ lower to ⅛ higher, December $1.10⅛; oats unchanged to ¼ higher, December 78⅛; rye ¼ higher to ¼ lower, December $1.32; soybeans ⅛ higher to ⅜ lower, January $2.18⅞.

2 Change Pleas in Robbery Case

Say They Are Guilty; Accused of Taking $35 in Hooded Holdup

Two of three accused burlap sack robbers, who held up the Hilltop Drive-Inn in Springfield Township last month, today changed their minds and pleaded guilty to armed robbery. Sentence will be passed Dec. 21 by Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland.

Yesterday, Phillip E. Brooks, 19, of 4980 Grange Hall Rd., Holly, and Lawrence J. Achten, 17, of 124 Myron St., Ortonville, stood mute at their arraignments and had innocent pleas entered for them by Judge Holland. They then were returned to the county jail unable to post $10,000 bonds.

They again were returned to jail without benefit of bond today.

Lawrence P. Scott, 22, of 121 Bird Rd., Ortonville, yesterday was remanded to the township justice court for examination on a motion of his attorney. He is being held in jail on a $10,000 bond.

A waitress said the men, wearing sacks over their faces, forced her into a back room and escaped with $35 from the cash register. Achten was arrested and implicated the other.

Steel Firm in Hassle Over Union Officials

DETROIT (AP) — Three United Steelworkers Union officials were fired from their Great Lakes Steel Corp. jobs yesterday for what the company said was misconduct at labor-management meetings.

The company, telling of the firings in letters to its 10,000 production workers, said it acted under the USW contract that has remained in effect during the steel strike injunction.

Management named the three as Martin Tarlowicz, vice president of USW Local 1299, and George Kenyon and Frank Badalamente, chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the local's grievance committee.

Officials of Local 1299 indicated they will file formal grievances protesting the firings. Local President Sadvery said the Union feels it has the sole responsibility for disciplining its officials.

The company said that Badalamente broke up a meeting of management with one group of workers and that Tarlowicz and Kenyon insisted on being present at a second such meeting, defying attempts to stop them.

Company officials said the meetings were called with employes in an attempt to correct a "slowdown" in the plant. They said the meetings were not collective bargaining meetings.

Dixie Hwy. Will Get Sports Goods Store

Slaybaugh's Hunting & Fishing supply store, now at 630 Oakland Ave. in Pontiac, will move into the new $50,000 modern building, according to the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Slaybaugh.

For more than a year, extensive land filling operations have been in progress on the building site which borders on Loon Lake and the Clinton River.

The cement block and brick building will be 158 feet by 50 feet wide, and will have a large showroom with adjoining storage and warehouse space. Blacktop parking space, surrounding the building, will be available to customers.

Pro-Hoffa Men Lose in Court

Judge Refuses to Halt Case Asking Removal of Union Chief

NEW YORK (AP)—Five members of the Teamsters Union have lost in a court action to block a move aimed at removing Union President James R. Hoffa.

The five had sought to throw out an anti-Hoffa case brought in Washington Federal District Court by 12 other union members.

U.S. Dist. Judge William B. Herlands dismissed yesterday a suit filed by the pro-Hoffa Teamsters on grounds that his court had no jurisdiction over the matter.

"To interpose would be most unseemly and an intolerable interference with the orderly administration of justice," he said.

The five union members had said they were acting for the entire union membership. They charged the insurgent Teamsters, who are represented by attorney Godfrey Schmidt, with getting financial help from industry.

Schmidt has denied the charge, claiming it has been used previously in efforts to stop action against Hoffa.

Called Sadist, Menace; RO Man Sent to Prison

A 29-year-old Royal Oak ex-convict, who was described as "a sadist—a menace to society" was sentenced to life imprisonment yesterday for raping his 13-year-old stepdaughter.

Circuit Judge William J. Beer handed out the maximum sentence for statutory rape to Joseph I. DeCoulode of 1418 S. Main St. He had served time in Jackson Prison in 1955 for taking indecent liberties.

"Ths man is a sadist, who is a menace to society," said Assistant Probation Officer Jack C. Hays in recommending incarceration in his presentence report to the judge.

"I can find no forgiveness for you whatsoever," declared Judge Beer in passing sentence. DeCoulode pleaded guilty Nov. 23 to abusing the girl. He has been separated from his wife.

Orion Woman Hurt as Car Strikes Tree

A Lake Orion woman was injured this morning when her car skidded into a tree along Orion road south of Adams road in Oakland Township, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Clara M. Plassey, 40, of 246 Lakeview Dr., was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. She was treated for cuts and bruises.

She told deputies that she was driving east when her car went out of control on ice, skidded into an embankment, rolled over and struck a tree.

Rugby Fans Come to Scoff; Cheer Dawkins

TWICKENHAM, Eng. (UPI) — All America halfback Pete Dawkins of Royal Oak came through his first major test in British rugby today with flying colors, standing firm in the face of strong Cambridge pressure to help Oxford to a 9-3 triumph in the annual classic against Cambridge.

Some 60,000 fans packed the Twickenham Bowl here for the game—and thousands who came to scoff at the Army star stayed to cheer him off the field.

He didn't exactly star—but he never put a foot or hand wrong throughout the entire 80 minutes. In the last five minutes, especially, as Cambridge threw everything at him in a desperate effort to pull back the Oxford lead, he cooly played himself out of trouble to continuous roars from the Oxford supporters.

16 major American companies increased their newspaper advertising linage enough in 1958 to be included in the list of the top 100 national newspaper advertisers—each with investments in excess of $1,000,000.

WJBK to Use Tape; Lee Alan Let Out

DETROIT (AP)—Radio station WJBK and disc jockey Lee Alan have parted company, but the station said the separation stemmed from "simple economics."

WJBK-TV, a sister of the radio station fired its news director Jac Legoff recently for editorializing on the air in violation of company policy. The action followed Legoff's statement that so-called "payola" was a part of the American way of doing business. The turmoil that followed saw three disc jockeys leave either the radio or television station.

Harry R. Lipson, managing director of the radio station, said that "there was no question of payola" in Alan's leaving, and added in a statement:

"We regretfully terminated his employment because it was no longer economically feasible to maintain a live show during these (midnight to 5 a.m.) hours."

Lipson said the midnight to 5 a.m. program had been taped experimentally for several days.

Offers Way to Control Violent Explosions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A research engineer came up today with a novel way to control violent explosions.

Basically the technique consists of moving the explosive material at supersonic speeds or at the same velocity as the natural speed of the shock wave which causes its detonation.

When the detonating wave can't overtake and spread through the speeding explosive material there is no reaction, no blast.

This procedure, the researcher said, can be used to mix and make products out of chemicals too dangerous to handle by ordinary manufacturing methods. It could be done by slightly decreasing the speed of the chemicals so the detonation wave could spread slowly through them and produce slow-motion reactions.

The process also should make possible short, lightweight ramjet engines with high fuel economy and with a wide range of speeds at or just above the speed of sound, he added.

Dr. Ebbert A. Gross, former chief research engineer for the Fairchild Engine and Aircraft Corp. at Deer Park, N.Y., described the technique before the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

The method was developed at the University of California, where Dr. Gross is a National Science Foundation research fellow. It was done with the aid of a supersonic wind tunnel in which dangerous gases were made to travel at six times the speed of sound—too fast to be detonated.

Aircraft Firm Buys Trailer Companies

DALLAS (UPI) — Two Michigan housetrailer companies were involved in an agreement announced here by Chance Vought Aircraft, Inc., one of the nation's biggest manufacturers of military fighter planes.

F. O. Detweiler, president of Chance Vought, said yesterday the firm has bought two house trailer companies and signed an agreement to buy a third.

Detweiler said the acquisitions would make his company the biggest manufacturer of trailer homes in the country.

General Coach and ABC, Detweiler said, were acquired through stock purchases. The principal officers of both companies will be retained and a similar agreement is expected with Mid-States.

UF Chairman to Be Saluted

Eldred Will Be Among State Campaign Chiefs at Celebration Fete

Robert R. Eldred, chairman of the 1959 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign, will be among the Michigan campaign leaders from 150 communities to be honored by the Michigan United Fund at the Campaign Achievement Celebration Luncheon to be held at Kellogg Center in East Lansing Dec. 15.

The celebration will be sponsored by Ford Motor Co., as a tribute to the citizens who led the many united campaigns throughout the state.

John S. Pfarr, president of the Michigan United Fund, said, "In the face of a steel strike, and the constant threat of payless paydays to employes of state-owned institutions, this year's campaign will be saluted for having done exceedingly well."

"Without the dedicated service of local campaign leaders," Pfarr said, "and the millions of Michigan citizens who are giving the necessary dollars to make the United Fund campaigns a success, many services would have to be curtailed."

Finch Murder Trial Promises Stark Drama

Its setting is more society's well-to-do. It is steeped with intrigue, extra-marital romance and violence. It has attracted widespread advance notice.

The case appears due for a long run.

The scene is a courtroom on the eighth floor of the Hall of Justice in the Civic Center. Throughout the trial, there will be flashbacks to another scene, the grounds of an estate in suburban West Covina.

There, in the darkness last July 18, a slender brunette socialite — known as Lady Barbara in her fashionable tennis set—toppled on the lawn, a bullet in her back.

The state charges the doctor is the one who murdered her. It charges he had an accomplice — his red-haired sweetheart, Carole Tregoff, 22. She also is accused of murder.

The story of Dr. Finch has more than one uncommon aspect. He was a married man when he met Barbara. She was a married woman. They fell in love while she was his patient, then solved their romantic problem with an exchange of spouses. Barbara's husband, Lyle Daugherty, married Finch's wife, Jean. Finch married Barbara.

CAROLE TREGOFF

It looked like a fine union. Finch was a great tennis enthusiast and Barbara, a vivacious woman of compelling charm, fell neatly into life at the tennis club.

Into the doctor's life one day more than four years ago drifted an 18-year-old girl, a beauty who had been a fashion model in high school. She was Carole Tregoff Pappa, married to her childhood sweetheart, James Pappa. She wanted a job in Finch's office. Finch made her his personal secretary. In time, their relationship became more personal.

Carole won a divorce last January. Mrs. Finch sued for divorce in May. She charged her husband tried to strangle her. Her maid, Marie Anne Lidholm, said later that Mrs. Finch once asserted the doctor threatened to put her in a car and shove it over a cliff if she proceeded with the divorce.

A private investigator, William S. Lewis, said Mrs. Finch came to see him about getting a bodyguard and told him: "I probably won't be alive by Christmas."

Well, That's One Way to Get Free Bathrobe

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Jack Paar, who frequently laments that the maids walk in on him at the Beverly Hilton while he's unclad, got a wire from Conrad Hilton while he was in Pittsburgh opening a new hotel there.

Hilton told Jack that as a Christmas present he was going to send a bathrobe, and also equip all the Hilton maids with blinkers.

Jackie Gleason was feeling mean and announced that when he goes on Arthur Godfrey's TV spec in January he'll tell his followers, "If any rating service calls asking whether you're watching the program, tell them 'No.' That'll louse the whole thing up." (And him and Godfrey, too, I just figured out, because I'm shrewd.) Gleason, being likened now to John ("The Great Profile") Barrymore, because of his acting, his loving and his tippling, looked at a picture of his own paunchy profile, and said, "Barrymore's profile was amateur night compared to mine!"

Jaye P. Morgan and Chuck Kelly, of the Modernaires, who had the quietest of weddings, even though it was in Las Vegas, are honeymooning—apart. She's in New York preparing a cafe act, and he'll be working in Las Vegas till Dec. 19. Then they'll move into their new Hollywood home.

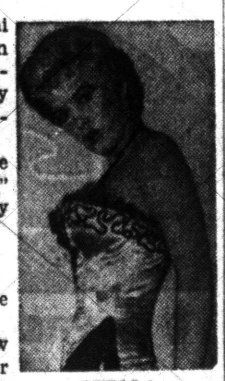

Marlon Brando and Anna Magnani have the worst case of mumbles yet in their new picture; they're hardly understandable . . . The pickpockets are busy in the shopping crowds. Watch your wallet . . .

I met Stella Stevens, who took the Tina Louise role in the "Li'l Abner" movie, down at Longchamps, and wittily asked her where she was born.

"Hot Coffee, Mississippi," she said.

"What's that near?" I asked her.

"Hushpuckenny, Mississippi," she said.

STELLA

It seems that last summer she flew home from Hollywood and loaded her son, Herman, 4, on a plane and got out of there fast. Her ex-husband squawked, charging her with kidnaping, and she was held in contempt of court. I asked where was the son now. Stella looked at me like I was crazy. "Why, he's with me!" she exploded.

Old Jet Engine Now Snow Plow; Clears the Track

Research scientists bought a surplus jet, mounted it on a caboose, weaned it from expensive jet fuel to diesel fuel, and found they could blast tracks and switches free of snow and ice for 100 feet in front of the jet exhaust.

The exhaust roars from the engine at better than a thousand miles an hour, permitting a clean sweep-down of yard tracks without moving trains idled on them. The caboose travels along on a parallel track, the jet exhaust directed hydraulically back and forth, up and down.

J. J. Wright, director of the NYC's research center here, said the U.S. Air Force and the Federal Aviation Agency have become interested in the jet plow for possible use in sweeping off snowed-in airport runways.

The city government of West Berlin has built a two-story Jewish Community Center that includes a synagogue accommodating 650 persons.

Philadelphia Storytellers Set Galloping, Airy Pace

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—I kept waiting for old Charley Weaver to pop up in the NBC-TV production of "The Philadelphia Story" last night and let loose his famous whoop:

"These are my people!"

Seriously, even if these people seemed a bit strange, they put on an effective adaptation of Philip Barry's story of a character-building wedding on Philadelphia's main line.

As far as I'm concerned this sort of airy yarn is so right for TV because it has so much more velocity than impact. Think of it: for 90-minutes we sat there waiting to discover who lovely, cool, cunning Tracy Lord — played by Diana Lynn — would marry. Of course, she's as surprised as we are when she finally decides.

This sort of production needs a galloping pace to succeed and it got just that from Fielder Cook's direction and the enthusiastic playing of the stars, especially Miss Lynn, Christopher Plummer and Gig Young.

However, there were some rough, sticky spots in the otherwise professional presentation: Miss Lynn, on her wedding day, trying to straighten out her life and, later, making a cryptic speech to the wedding guests.

Not showing the guests was an unfortunate omission but who cares if a scene or two didn't come off? The thing about a play like this is — who cares?

The most interesting points in the production were seeing Plummer abandon his ever-present "intense" look and play a Tony Randallish part so easily, and watching Miss Lynn handle her sweet-but-daggerlike assignment so stylishly. And Robert Asher deserves a bouquet, too. He composed the fine background music.

DIALING AND FILING: Play Your Hunch returned to NBC-TV yesterday morning, in place of Treasure Hunt. I don't know how the contestants feel about it, but I think emcee Merv Griffin has the right approach to the show. He doesn't seem to take it seriously at all.

Danny Thomas appeared on Milton Berle's special some weeks ago and last night, Berle repaid the debt by appearing on Thomas' CBS-TV half-hour.

They unloaded some atrocious gags, but the basic theme was a good one and they brought off not one, but two, cute finishes.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: During a recent visit to Paris, CBS-TV's Person to Person crew taped visits to the homes of fashion designer Pierre Balmain, Olivia De Havilland, Jean Pierre Aumont and his wife Marisa Pavan.

Alfred Hitchcock will produce and direct two one-hour specials for NBC-TV's Startime series "Incident" and "Girl With a Secret."

Tom Tully of CBS-TV's fading Lineup is lined up for a new situation comedy series with himself as star . . . NBC-TV's Tightrope starring Mike Connors has been renewed for another 13 weeks . . . Dean Douglas who sings next Saturday on Dick Clark's ABC-TV show used to be the cue card holder for the Clark show. His name was Douglas Wilson at the time . . . Anna Kashfi perhaps best known as Marlon Brando's ex-wife makes her TV acting debut in a forthcoming ABC-TV Adventures in Paradise episode titled "The Archer's Ring." . . . A 13-week series of 90-minute filmed sports shows featuring rodeo polo rugby and sports car races debuts on CBS-TV Sunday Jan. 3.

U. S. in Minority on Algeria Vote

But France Has Last Laugh as Majority Is Insufficient for Action

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and Britain backed France Monday in a futile attempt to vote down a U.N. resolution asking consideration of political issues in French-Algerian peace talks.

But the vote in the U.N. Assembly's Political Committee — 38 - 26 with 17 abstentions—was short of the two-third majority required for adoption of the resolution by the Assembly itself.

France, which boycotted the meeting, was delighted by the proposal's failure to win a sufficient majority. France calls the Algerian question an internal issue and no business of the United Nations.

The United States and Britain contended that the resolution might harm chances of ending the five-year-old Algerian revolt.

The French insist that a cease-fire precede political talks. Algerian rebel leaders insist they must negotiate on the North African territory's political future simultaneously with discussions of an end to the fighting.

The resolution asks the two parties to hold informal talks on implementing the right of self-determination which French President Charles de Gaulle has promised Algeria. The word independence, which was included in a resolution that failed by one vote in the Assembly last year, was omitted this year.

The Communist bloc voted for the resolution, but was mild toward France in the preceding debate. Today the Soviet group goes on the defensive, fighting a resolution deploring Communist disregard of U.N. appeals for Hungarian independence and the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary.

Supreme Court Won't Review Contempt Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Monday refused to review the contempt of Congress conviction of Horace Chandler Davis, who refused to answer questions asked by a House subcommittee on un-American activities.

Davis appeared before the group in Lansing on May 10, 1954, in response to a subpoena. He refused to say whether he had ever been a Communist party member, or if he knew of Communist activities while he was a student at Harvard. Davis was employed for a time as a mathematics teacher at the University of Michigan.

A U.S. District Judge in Michigan found Davis guilty of contempt of Congress and imposed a sentence of $250 fine and six months in jail.

Davis questioned in his appeal to the Supreme Court whether an investigative committee of Congress has power to compel testimony as to a private citizen's ideas, his associations, or his activities in recommending his ideas

1,499 national or regional companies each invested $25,000 or more in daily newspapers last year to tell consumers about 3,784 products.
