Jury Claims Lattimore Made False Denials

Asian Expert Indicted Again for Perjury at Red Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Owen Lattimore, controversial Far Eastern specialist, was indicted today on charges of falsely denying he had been a "follower of the Communist line" and a "promoter of Communist interests."

The new two-count perjury indictment was returned by a federal grand jury before U. S. District Judge Edward A. Tamm. In effect it substitutes for parts of an earlier indictment which had been thrown out by the courts.

U.S. Atty. Leo A. Rover told reporters he will move to have the new indictment consolidated with the five remaining counts of the older indictment returned against Lattimore in December 1952.

Two of the seven counts of the original indictment were dismissed by the courts

One of the dismissed counts—the key one—alleged Lattimore falsely denied before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee that he had been a Communist sympathizer or promoter of Red causes.

The courts held the word "sympathizer was too vague. The new indictment nowhere uses the word "sympathizer."

Lattimore, a resident of Baltimore, has been called a Communist agent by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and by the Internal Security subcommittee formerly headed by the late Sen. McCarran (D-Nev).

Throughout four years of argument before congressional committees and courts, Lattimore has heatedly denied Red connections and sympathies. His comment when McCarthy several years ago called him the top Communist agent in this country was: "Pure moonshine."

The indictments grew out of testimony Lattimore gave in 12 stormy days of testimony in 1952 before the Internal Security subcommittee.

That group, then headed by McCarran, who died recently, was investigating the Institute of Pacific Relations and its publication, "Pacific Affairs" which Lattimore once edited.

Lattimore was not immediately available for comment on the new indictment but his attorneys promised to issue a statement.

Wade Appeal Denied by Supreme Court

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Supreme Court today denied leave to appeal to Morrison T. Wade and his wife, Bessie, in their convictions of operating a $750,000 charity racket.

The Wades once operated the Society of Good Neighbors. The state charged they turned the society into a fraud against the public.

The Wades were convicted Sept. 14, 1951, after a 104-day trial that cost an estimated $100,000. It was the longest criminal proceeding in Michigan history.

Wade was sentenced to 4 to 10 years in prison. Mrs. Wade was placed on probation for five years and ordered to pay a $5,000 fine.

(Wade's home is at Ward's Point, West Bloomfield Township.)

Since their convictions, Police Lt. Claude Ingersoll said they had been operating Holiday Park, a bathing beach and park concession at Elizabeth Lake, in Oakland County.

TOWED TO SAFETY—Howard A. Tattrie, 52, looks unhappy as he reached land after his proposed 15,000 mile voyage to Nova Scotia ends two miles off Cleveland in Lake Erie. The U. S. Red's Bid for Bonn Unity Wins Only Socialist Favor

BONN, Germany (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's new bid for four-power talks aimed at unifying Germany won support from German Socialists in Parliament today.

But Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government coalition parties spurned it.

The Molotov proposal also got a cold shoulder from British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, and a French Foreign Office spokesman said the United States, Britain and France had left the door open to constructive Russian proposals on Germany.

However, he said that no such proposals had been found in Molotov's speech last night.

In the United Nations, V. K. Krishna Menon of India called on leaders of East and West Germany to get together on unification. He said the Soviet Union had recognized the sovereignty of East Germany and the Western powers were preparing to do the same in the West.

Therefore, he said, leaders of the two sections should be able to get together and work out unification.

"It appears to us that it should be possible for Germans to talk to Germans in order to find ways—or at least the beginning of ways—to establish the unity of their own country," Krishna Menon said, adding that Germany was a key to peace.

Eden expressed his views at a Conservative party conference in Blackpool, England.

"They, the Russians, have made every effort to draw Germany to their side and pervert us from drawing Germany to ours," Eden said. "They have created German armed forces in their sector long ago. They have consistently refused to agree to Germany being reunited, except on terms which would result in the Communist minority being given the power to subvert the whole state.

"This is the Communist plan and it is still their plan.

Five Men Killed in 'Copter Crash

Whirlybird Is Downed in Heavy Rain Near Louisiana Base

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Col. William A. Daniels, Alexandria Air Force Base commander, said today five men died in the crash of a helicopter about five miles west of the base.

Col. Daniels said the helicopter was "pretty much of a mess." He declined to say whether the men were all from the base. Identification was withheld pending notification of relatives.

Daniels said the aircraft went down between 10:30 p.m. and midnight yesterday. Rainstorms and strong winds occurred in the area at that time.

The helicopter made a routine flight around Leesville, in southwest Louisiana yesterday. It ran into bad weather on its return trip and turned back. The base had no contact with the craft afterward.

Ike May Press for Showdown on Dixon-Yates

Tries to Remove Legal Barrier on Proposed Power Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration showed signs today of pressing for a pre-election showdown on its politically touchy plan to feed private power into lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Calling yesterday for a review by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee of the plan, it asked for the waiver of a legal provision which would keep the contract from taking effect before next year unless the committee okays an earlier date.

Opponents of the plan, known as the Dixon-Yates contract, raised new protests of "skullduggery" and "scandalous."

Reports circulated yesterday that the contract had been approved. An aide said Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) had received word to that effect.

The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC), government partner in the proposed deal, said only the contract "has not been signed."

At the Summer White House in Denver, Asst. Presidential Press Secretary Murray Snyder said, "We know nothing about it."

Sen. Langer (R-ND), chairman of a Senate antimonopoly subcommittee which has been looking into some aspects of the proposal, demanded to know from the AEC by midafternoon whether the contract has been approved "in any manner whatsoever."

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) announced the Atomic Energy Committee, which he heads, will open a public exploration of the contract's terms, probably starting next Wednesday.

Eisenhower has directed AEC to negotiate a contract with the Dixon-Yates group for power which would replace that which TVA supplies to AEC plants. Dixon-Yates would build a 107-million-dollar steam plant at West Memphis, Ark., and the electricity generated would be served to TVA customers over TVA lines.

Making up the Dixon-Yates group are Middle South Utilities, Inc., headed by Edgar H. Dixon, and the Southern Co., headed by E. A. Yates.

Administration spokesmen have termed the plan the most economical and practical way of supplying future power needs of the area. Foes have said it will harm and perhaps eventually destroy TVA and will cost the government more than a TVA steam-generating plant.

Frost Misses City, but Hits Outstate

A protective cloud cover saved Pontiac and vicinity from the expected frost last night, but the rest of Michigan was hit by the coldest weather of the season.

Pellston was the coldest spot in the nation with 18 degrees. Grand Marais had 20, Cadillac 21, Houghton, 27, Sault Ste Marie and Traverse City 28, Gladwin and Jackson 31 and Grand Rapids 32.

Pontiac's lowest temperature was 39 degrees yesterday, but the mercury dropped to 37 at about 5 a. m. today. The high yesterday was 55.

The forecast for Friday is fair and a little warmer, with a high of 56-60. Low tonight will be 36-40, the U. S. Weather Bureau says.

Downtown temperature at 8 o'clock this morning was 42, rising to 51 by 2 p.m.

Pontiac Firemen Ready to Show Skill at Eastern Junior High School Tonight

Thirty Pontiac firemen, after last-minute rehearsals Wednesday, set the stage today for a fire fighting demonstration in connection with Fire Prevention Week.

High shooting flames will be the only footlights for the city's firefighters when they make their debut at Eastern Junior High School athletic field at 7:30 p.m.

This evening's display will prove an entertaining lesson to local residents that fires are "the cause of greatest destruction to the American people," said Fire Chief John F. Schroeder.

Showing off their latest fire-fighting techniques and equipment, the fire eaters will battle a gasoline truck fire several times in the field.

Two firemen, attired in night clothes of a man and a woman trapped in a blazing building, will jump from the second floor of the school into a rescue net.

Schroeder called attention to the fact that property losses resulting from fires last year reached a record high of $900,000,000, with over 12,000 persons killed.

Capt. Victor Bodamer and Schroeder both explained that this year's intensive campaign here is intended to make Pontiac the safest city in the nation.

"We want top billing in this country's fire safety record for 1954," said Schroeder. "We know that everyone will help by using more precaution than any other time."

Also cooperating with the fire department's campaign are the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce Fire Prevention Committee and the Association of Insurance Agents.

Bank Employes Outfox 3 Bandits

Foil Theft of $200,000 From Queens Branch With Lowered Curtain

NEW YORK (AP) — Three daring bandits set out today to stage what might have been a well planned $200,000 robbery of a Queens branch bank—but failed because bank officials had made better plans for just such an event.

The three robbers posed as window cleaners and greeted bank guard John Rumpfield as he arrived for work. Then they stuck a gun in his ribs.

They forced him to open the bank door and, guns drawn, greeted four succeeding employes as they arrived.

When bank Manager Richard Meyerose appeared, they ordered him to open bank vaults containing some $200,000. Meyerose began to comply.

But the robbers had failed to reckon with an advance "danger signal" which bank officials had arranged as a tipoff to incoming employes when something was wrong.

This was a curtain in the window of the bank's back door. When it was up, everything was all right. When down—something amiss.

Assistant Manager William Kelleher drove up behind the bank and spotted the drawn curtain. He called police.

Proposal 2 on Ballot

Conlin Sales Tax Revision Opposed by Schoolmen

The Oakland County Association of School Administrators reaffirmed their opposition to the Conlin Amendment Wednesday in a four-point resolution.

At a meeting in Birmingham, the administrators were unanimous in rejecting the plan which will be presented to the voters on the November ballot as proposal 2.

Pin-pointing their reasons for opposition, they said:

1—The Conlin Plan does not solve any of the schools' present problems.

2—They believe the monies available for operation of schools might be less under the plan than under the existing Sales Tax Diversion Amendment.

(See related story on page 27.)

This is due to the specification in the Conlin Plan that the cost of sales tax collection be deducted before the schools get their money. Another deductible item is the cost of the teacher retirement fund.

3—This proposed Amendment fixes in the Constitution provisions for financing public school employes retirement fund which the county group believes may be injurious to the fund and in the long-run prove inadequate.

4—It transfers the problem of the so-called "time-bomb" from the state legislature to the individual school district.

The resolution adopted by the county educators puts them on

Air Force B50 Burns Fiercely After Exploding

Ship Was on Routine Mission From Base in El Paso, Tex.

WILLOWS, Calif. (AP)—An Air Force B50 weather reconnaissance plane crashed, exploded and burned near here last night, killing 13 of the 17 men aboard.

Four enlisted men miraculously survived.

The bodies of the 13 men have been recovered, Sheriff Lyle Sale announced today.

Three crewmen parachuted to safety just before the big plane crashed near here last night, and a fourth was thrown clear.

The big plane, on a routine mission from its base at Biggs Air Force Base in El Paso, Tex., dived out of murky skies and hit the earth with a shattering roar at 7:12 p.m. A huge ball of fire burst into the skies, visible for miles.

Sgt. Frank Imely, S. Sgt. Joseph E. Wittene and Airman 1.c. John B. Patton parachuted to safety at the last moment.

T. Sgt. Natuidad Vasquez was thrown clear when the plane hit.

Their homes were listed as Biggs AFB.

The Air Force gave no hint as to the cause of the crash.

Six hours after the crash, Vasquez was still unconscious in the Willows General Hospital. Wittene, Patton and Imely were also in the hospital, but appeared to be suffering nothing worse than shock.

Patton said a fourth man who bailed out plummeted to death. His body was found near the wreckage.

Willows is at the head of Sacramento Valley in northern California.

Housing Increase Adding to Road Problems

(Editor's note: Recentl the Press cited a few of the street and highway needs of Pontiac and Oakland County, and pointed out that heroic measures will be needed to provide for the driving needs of this area's rapidly growing population. Following is the second in a series of articles presenting these needs in greater detail.)

By BURDETT C. STODDARD

A phase of this area's growth which bears directly on the highway problem is the vast increase in dwelling units.

Each new subdivision erected means more new streets feeding cars into already clogged main roads.

According to the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission, a growth of 135,068 occupied dwelling units took place in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb Counties from 1950 to 1954. An increase of 16.3 per cent.

Oakland County added 35,361 units for a gain of 32.4 per cent. Wayne increased 79,172, or 11.8 per cent. Macomb grew at a rate of 41.5 per cent, with 20,535 new units.

The planning commission points out that although Wayne as a whole grew by 11.8 per cent, Northern Wayne County, omitting Detroit, expanded its housing units by 32.7 per cent.

"The fact that only one of five additional occupied home units was located in . . . Detroit, which gained a total of 27,586 units against 107,482 for the rest of the metropolitan area, marks a significant feature of the 1950-54 growth," the commission states.

The Detroit rate dropped, they point out, from the 1940-50 pace when Detroit accounted for two of every five new units in the area.

Thus the focus of new building is moving south from Detroit into Oakland and Macomb Counties meaning this area can expect a continued high building rate for years to come.

A corresponding increase can be expected in miles of subdivision roads emptying an ever larger number of cars into main arteries.

As more homes are made available in Oakland County, the number of commuters living here, but working in Detroit, will swell. These people will use the main arteries daily in getting to and from work.

The Oakland County Road Commission estimates that 40 miles of subdivision roads are added to the county network each year.

An example is a large subdivision located south of Perry Mount Park Cemetery in Pontiac including 154 duplexes. A mile-and-a-quarter of new roads are being developed to serve the subdivision.

Apart from the problem they create in spilling cars onto main highways, subdivision roads pose a maintenance problem. Most of them should be hard surfaced to prevent their breaking up each spring, road commissioners say.

In a rapidly expanding area such as this, facilities must not be allowed to lag behind.

This area's road system has been losing the race with all other types of population-induced growth for 20 years.

The Day in Birmingham

Fire Marshal Scott Urges Continual Prevention Work

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — Fire Prevention Week, in Birmingham and nationally, will come to a close this Saturday, but as Fire Marshal George Scott says, "This should be a kick-off for the entire 52 weeks of the year."

"Suggested safety measures are being sent home through the schools this week, but these should be a constant reminder that the easiest way to prevent 90 per cent of our fires, nationally, is through precautions," Scott said.

The biggest program here has been conducted in the schools, Scott added, but letters have also been sent to the city's 400 businesses and industries.

To start the campaign, all literature was delivered to the schools in the shiny red fire truck. Questionnaires were taken home by children in the third and higher grades.

When these are filled in by parents and returned, each youngster is entitled to a junior fire marshal's certificate.

The lower grades received a drawing to take home and color. This year's slogan, "Let's Grow Up, Not Burn Up," written across the cartoon, brought the point home to those parents.

Movies have also been shown in the schools and local theaters, and a fire prevention window display has been set up at McBride's hardware store.

As a follow up on inspection forms mailed to merchants, the fire department this week is stepping up its inspection program in the business areas.

Fire Chief Vernon W. Griffith pointed out that fire prevention week is held each year at this time for a purpose, in reminding that this Saturday is the anniversary of the disastrous Chicago fire that happened in 1871, with a loss of $168,000,000.

A new youth program launched the past week is receiving an enthusiastic response from junior and senior high school students, reports Paul Heins, YMCA youth director.

Youth committees of both the Y and the Community House are supervising the program at the Youth Room of the Community House, which is to be open on Tuesday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Activities thus far have been set up to include travelogue, health, and sports films, games and dancing, but youth will have its say through questionnaires that are being distributed. Many of their recommendations will be incorporated into the program, Heins said.

Newcomers will be given a visitors card good for two weeks, he said, and may purchase a membership card for a small fee at the end of that time. A time schedule may be obtained through the Y.

Plans for a $40,000 building as a first step in establishing a new Presbyterian church to serve residents on the east side of Birmingham, have been submitted, with an optimistic outlook of a six-months completion date, the Rev. Mac Taylor said yesterday.

He has been called here to serve as minister of the new church. Funds to build the first unit on Big Beaver road off Adams road, have been contributed by the Detroit Presbytery.

"The new unit, all on one floor, will probably take the form of a chapel, with nursery facilities," the Rev. Mr. Taylor said. Undaunted by the lack of a building, he announced that regular services will begin Oct. 31 at his home at 2588 Windemere Rd.

All parts of the house will be utilized for nursery and Sunday school space and the time of service will be announced shortly.

Chevrolet to Use Willow Run Area as a Parts Depot

DETROIT (UP) — General Motors announced today Chevrolet was taking over more than a million square feet of its giant Willow Run plant as the first step in a "Nationwide streamlining" of the division's parts and accessories department.

T. H. Keating, GM vice president and Chevrolet general manager said the division would lease 896,000 square feet from another GM division and build an additional 125,000 square feet.

"Air freight facilities at Willow Run were also a factor in choosing the location," Keating said. "Chevrolet employment needs at Willow Run may ultimately reach nearly 1,000 jobs."

Cyprus Demand Strains Turkish, Greek Relations

ISTANBUL (UP)—Greek demands for Cyprus are straining the new ties linking Greece with Turkey and Yugoslavia in a 20-year military pact.

Turkish officials, vitally interested in Britain's strategic crown colony in the eastern Mediterranean, hint that continued Greek pressure before the United Nations will poison Greek-Turkish friendship and make military cooperation impossible.

• • •

Turkish public opinion strongly opposes the Greek demand. Cyprus is in headlines day after day. Newspapers urge the Ankara government to join actively in the fight. Turkey's public policy thus far has been one of restraint.

The British, building up the 125-mile long island as a military base to replace Suez, say they will not consider moving out and will boycott any U.N. debate on the subject.

County Schoolmen Oppose Conlin Plan

record as opposed to the stand taken this week by the Michigan Education Association of which they are all members.

The Conlin Plan was devised by Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton). It was written to erase a long standing threat to the state treasury, if the time comes when sales tax collections decline.

Under the Sales Tax Diversion Amendment, passed by the voters in 1946, the schools are paid a portion of sales tax collections which were made two years previous.

Conlin's plan proposes to pay out the sales tax currently as fast as it comes in. The total will rise or fall directly as collections change.

Court of No Record Appearance Slated

BIRMINGHAM — Justice John J. Gafill yesterday turned Michael O'Conner, 18, of 551 Oakland Ave., over to George F. Taylor, Oakland County Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, for an appearance in the county's "court of no record."

O'Connor is charged with possessing false documentary evidence to purchase an alcoholic beverage.

John E. Bell, 19, of 529 Chester St., is scheduled to appear in Justice Court Oct. 29 on the same charge.

The two were found guilty on Oct. 1 of illegal possession of an alcoholic beverage.

Flood Churns Toward Town

Roswell, N. M. Periled as Reservoir, Channels Fail to Hold Crest

ROSWELL, N.M. (AP)—A 10-square mile reservoir and diverting channels failed to hold a raging flood crest early today and flood waters pouring around the gates of the reservoir raced toward Roswell.

Several families in south Roswell were evacuated from their homes in the early hours of the morning and Mayor Bert Ballard said:

"We feel there is definitely a flood threat right now. The Rio Hondo is coming up. It has gone out of banks on Virginia street."

The churning waters reached the reservoir at 1:30 a.m. More than 70 National Guardsmen and volunteers desperately sandbagged and reinforced the banks of the main diverting channel leading to the reservoir.

Ballard said the banks of the river outside Roswell had been reinforced by 2,500 sandbags during the night under the direction of two engineers.

Tells Pier Group Fish Scales Beat Steak in Nutrition

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (AP) — The Massachusetts Health Department recently advised fishermen they no longer could dispose of fish scales in the Gloucester harbor.

Faced with a growing accumulation of smelly fish scales, the Community Pier Assn. asked Arnold G. Carey, a Boston engineering consultant, for advice.

After a study, his advice: "Eat them."

Carey said the taste may not be so good, but a pound of fish scales is about 20 per cent more beneficial than a pound of steak. He added the fish scales are so high in food value they "could grow hair on a billiard ball."

He offered other alternatives: burn the scales in an incinerator with dry garbage, convert them into fertilizer, bury them under some faraway sand dune.

Duels in the modern sense were not known in the ancient world.

Trieste Accord Signed

Signing in London of an agreement ending the nine year old Trieste dispute was an event of great importance for Europe and the West.

In Italy the news that the long fight over the Adriatic port had ended was greeted with great enthusiasm. In Yugoslavia the reaction was milder but the press of that country is reported to have expressed satisfaction.

Credit for the final settlement is given diplomats of the United States and Britain. Under it Zone A which includes the port of Trieste and has been occupied by American and British troops, goes to Italy. Zone B which has been held by Yugoslav armed forces, is retained by that country.

★ ★ ★

The Trieste issue reached the boiling point in March, 1948. Then, to aid the return to power of the De Gasperi government, the U. S. and Britain announced they would work for Italian sovereignty over the whole free territory of Trieste. While this did help win the election, it enraged Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia and the Trieste dispute has been a threat to peace ever since.

Russia, as a signatory of the Italian peace treaty of 1947, is expected to protest the settlement arguing that a treaty cannot be changed legally without the assent of all signatories.

What Moscow opposes most is the prospect of Italy tying itself up with the Balkan defense alliance of Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey. The wording of this alliance allows Italy to become associated with it. That association will be facilitated by the Trieste settlement.

★ ★ ★

Italy, Greece and Turkey are associated with NATO and by alignment with them, Yugoslavia indirectly also would become associated with NATO. This, of course, strengthens the Allies' southern flank in Europe and by so doing reduces the danger of Russian aggression.

Junior Achievement

This week 465 teenagers of both sexes begin another year of Junior Achievement operations.

Before the week is out these boys and girls of Pontiac, St. Frederick and St. Michael High Schools will have organized eight companies and started manufacturing.

As in the past, each company will have one or more sponsors and stock will be sold at 50 cents a share. During the Winter students not only learn finance, production and marketing, but profit from the help given them by the three advisers named by each sponsor.

Local firms and organizations participating this year are Community National and Pontiac State Banks, Pontiac Motor Division, Standard Oil Co., Consumers Power Co., Fisher Body Division, Truck & Coach Division and the Rotary Club.

Junior Achievement work is wholly independent of the schools. Yet we think it provides a very practical and highly interesting kind of educational preparation for adult life. From these 465 teenagers there may emerge a financial wizard or genius of merchandising or manufacturing.

The statement that Bing Crosby's voice has been heard by more people than any other voice is in error. That distinction belongs to the voice of conscience.

Fluorides for St. Louis

St. Louis, Missouri, the Mississippi River metropolis, soon will have fluoridated drinking water.

A bill authorizing this important dental health measure awaits the certain signature of Mayor Tucker, at whose request it was introduced. In commenting on the action by the Board of Aldermen, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch said in part:

> "Fluoridation will cut dental decay in our children and make the city a better place to live and raise a family . . . Laboratory tests conducted by industries . . . showed conclusively that the addition of fluorides in limited quantities constitute no hazard to their products."

In other words, as of now 18,000,000 Americans are drinking fluoridated water. Another 3,500,000 are drinking water containing fluorides naturally in the desirable amounts.

That fluoridation will continue to spread, says the Journal of the Michigan State Dental Association, is as inevitable as has been the case with all other proved public health measures.

"How old a person is depends a great deal upon his outlook on life," asserts a psychologist. Maybe so, but it depends a great deal more upon when he was born.

A couple are worried about their five-year-old boy. When leaving the house, he doesn't charge the screen door and knock it slam-bang against the outer wall.

Another Now Is Projected to Be Built in the County

Chaperone: What you should be to your cigar or cigarette—don't let them go out alone.

Still very much in the promotion stage is a new four-lane limited access super highway pavement of 14 miles, all in Oakland County. It would lead southeast from Kent Lake Park through the Townships of Lyon, Novi and Farmington, largely parallel to Grand River Road and ranging from 600 feet to 3,000 feet north of it. Its eastern terminus would be where it would connect with the Farmington cut off, just west of that city. State Highway Commissioner and his board have approved it, and they now are working for Oakland County to get behind the project. Chairman of the Oakland County Road Commission points out that the whole must have the approval of the local Board of Supervisors. Its construction is principally to relieve the pressure on Grand River Road between the park and where it widens out near Farmington. The maps of the survey show it to be on an entirely new right of way. The cost is estimated at $7,500,000, but federal aid would bring the cost to the state and county down to $4,000,000.

Charles M. Ziegler

Robert O. Felt

Christian Should Pray for His Pastor Rather Than Criticize, Says a Reader

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

We seem to live in an age of dissatisfaction. We are dissatisfied with husband or wife, with employers, and with elected officials. This over-critical attitude is creeping into our churches.

Last Sunday the minister of the church we have been attending for several months revealed that a small minority of the ruling body were asking him to resign. The woman sitting next to us was moved to tears and my husband and I were sick at heart.

Those who carry on the work of the church should have a sense of dignity and loyalty and faithfulness. No Christian should get bitter and criticize his pastor.

Instead, pray for him, that God will keep him close to Himself and bless his ministry. Your minister wants constantly to be of spiritual help to others, but be gracious in your demands.

Remember that your minister is human. He will make mistakes and when he does, forgive him and pray for him.

Do not carry on any quarrels or bitterness in the church. This is contrary to Christian principles and causes many to turn away from the church and be lost.

Courthouse Belongs in City, Says Reader

This is my opinion on location of the new county courthouse. It would cost the public the cost of the building many times over in time and money to have it way out on Telegraph Road.

The inconvenience would be great to many people. Many single items of business would require several trips. Lawyers would have to have larger fees due to the additional time required.

Any land owned out there and then some would be required for future purposes. Such things as the infirmary, contagious hospital and requirements like county road shops are O K out there, but not the courthouse.

Our city needs to have nice buildings right along side the other high office buildings for the purpose of making it look like a city. The county jail was located where it is to be near the courthouse.

On the present site and the adjoining city property a two or three story building could be built and expand upward as required and the cost spread out as more room was needed at a probable interest saving.

Let's make Pontiac look like a city.

Couples Who Don't Have Any Children Should Consider Surgery Last Resort

Marilyn is typical of many young wives who have never learned the rhythm theory and how it operates. Furthermore, hundreds of apparently sterile couples have had children after following the suggestions below.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case M-334: Marilyn H., aged 26, is the wife described yesterday.

"Dr. Crane, our major worry during this first year of our marriage, has been sex," she confessed.

"Yesterday you explained something that has puzzled me a long time. But I am still uncertain about the time when a wife can conceive.

"We have wanted a baby. But I never get pregnant. Do you suppose I am sterile? A doctor once told me my womb was tipped. Could that be the reason?"

Millions of women have tipped wombs without suffering any serious effect, so Marilyn's problem very likely is not due to that fact.

Furthermore, sterility is something that affects husbands about as often as wives.

So before any surgery is performed to straighten Marilyn's tipped womb, it is more sensible to check upon her husband's sperm cells, and also to make sure her Fallopian tubes are open.

But even before she needs to do that, she should be sure she has made an adequate test of pregnancy at home.

For there may be only a 12-hour period in the entire month when a wife will conceive. By chance alone, this 12-hour span could be missed over a period of many years of marriage.

So I asked Marilyn if she had kept a record of the exact duration of her menstrual months. Fortunately, she had, and she gave me the figures, which were 27, 28, 26, 27, 27, 29, 25, 28, 27, 28, 26, 28 and 27 for the preceding year.

By examining those figures, you see that she fluctuated between 25 days on her shortest cycle and 29 days on the longest.

Modern medical research shows that the most likely day on which conception takes place is the 15th before the onset of the next menstrual period.

"But Dr. Crane," Marilyn inquired, "how can I tell when my next period will begin?"

She can't, for she varies between 25 days and 29 days on her cycles.

But she does know when the last cycle started. So here is how to figure out when a wife will be most likely to get pregnant.

If Marilyn should happen to have a 25-day cycle this month, then the 10th day after the onset of the last period would be the ovulation day (freeing of the egg or ovum from an ovary).

If, however, this should prove to be a long month (29 days), then the 14th since the onset of her last period would be the ovulation day.

That means, therefore, that she would be most likely to become pregnant anytime between the 10th and the 14th days after the onset of her last period.

The rhythm theory, followed by millions of Roman Catholics, is based on that kind of reasoning.

But in the rhythm theory, we allow an extra 3 days on each side of that brief span of ovulation days, so the 7th to the 17th would constitute the total time during which she might conceive.

The rhythm theory operates with a high degree of accuracy if a wife is on a fairly regular monthly cycle, and Marilyn is a typical case of such a wife.

In fact, she became pregnant the very next month by following this schedule. Send for my bulletin "Facts About Pregnancy," enclosing a stamped, return envelope, plus a dime.

Aunt Het

They ought to get together on their stories. John talks poor so beggars won't bother him, and Amy talks rich so folks will think he's a big success.

David Lawrence Says:

Citizens Who Never Vote the Target of Both Parties

WASHINGTON — The most important piece of political information today which can have a decided influence on the outcome of the congressional elections is related to the attitude of the stay-at-home voters.

This affects both parties. Hence the political organization which can get to the polls the larger number of stay-at-home voters with a predeliction toward that party can win the election.

Scientific surveys made in areas where voters were interviewed both before and after election substantiate the fact that stay-at-home voters often overbalance those who switch from one party to the other.

Thus, field representatives of the Bureau of Applied Research of Columbia University did a concentrated study on Erie County, Ohio, with particular reference to the hotly contested Willkie-Roosevelt election in 1940. The findings read in part as follows:

"Non-voting is a serious problem in a democracy. It is therefore worthwhile to look at these non-voters somewhat more closely. The great majority of them were deliberate non-voters; in October during the last interview before election, 29 per cent intended to vote and knew for whom they would vote, seven per cent intended to vote but did not yet know for whom, and 64 per cent did not intend to vote.

"In other words, two out of three cases of non-voting were intentional and premeditated, according to the voters' own statements. But even in the other groups there were some non-voters who resembled the premeditated ones . . .

"As a net result, three-quarters of the non-voters stayed away from the polls deliberately because they were thoroughly unconcerned with the election . . . only a small number of people were kept from the polls by a last minute emergency."

The widespread fallacy that many people switch from one party to the other during a campaign is dealt with on the basis of research results by the Columbia survey as follows:

"The notion that the people who switch parties during the campaign are mainly the reasoned, thoughtful, conscientious people who were convinced by the issues of the election is just plain wrong. Actually, they were mainly the opposite . . . some people were converted by campaign propaganda but they were few indeed . . .

"In summary, then, the people who did most of the reading and listening not only read and heard most of their own partisan propaganda but were the most resistant to conversion because of their strong predispositions. And the people who were most open to conversion—the ones the campaign managers most wanted to reach—read and listened least. Those inter-related facts represent the bottleneck of conversion."

Another scientific study made by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan analyzed the 1948 and 1952 presidential elections, and found that in 1952, while party allegiance was a strong factor in the Democratic vote, it was less important in the Republican vote.

Issues such as Korea and corruption were mentioned more frequently than the personality of the candidate. The survey says:

"The much lower reference to traditional party allegiance on the part of the Eisenhower supporters in 1952 no doubt derived, in part from the fact that a large proportion of Eisenhower's support came from the people who had previously been Democratic supporters or non-voters."

What often confuses the picture is the conspicuous fact that Stevenson, though losing in 1952, actually polled more votes than had been received by either a Republican or Democratic candidate in any previous presidential election, with the exception of 1936. But Stevenson got only 44.3 per cent of the whole vote.

Thus, the total vote may remain the same or may even increase for each party but the percentages tell the story. The only conclusion which seems logical is that large proportions of the stay-at-homes in both parties who hadn't been voting were aroused sufficiently to go to the polls.

That's the key to the 1954 congressional campaign. For nearly all of the "switchers," based on scientific surveys, have already made up their minds and cannot be converted.

It's those who haven't been interested at all who can, if persuaded to vote, influence the result depending on the work done by the party organization or its precinct workers.

Mendes-France is the philanthropist who put the hill in the bowling alley.

We don't blame him much about squawking against re-arming his German neighbors. Napoleon had the same problem 150 years ago when he limited 'em to fifteen thousand uhlans.

The teeth of the dragon doubled each year. It was this dentrifice that sharpened the Allies at Waterloo. Blucher eluded Grouchy and bit Napoleon from the rear.

France is a republic founded on gestures and spoon-fed with opportune resignations. Mendes-France is a diplomat who promises you nothing and makes good.

Don't overlook the fact that a Frenchman is well dressed when he is wearing nothing but a left lapel with a ribbon in it.

Political preference is powered by concessions and sparked by intrigue. Premiers are rabbits in high hats.

It was not treason when Petain ate the mess of porridge. The treason consisted of licking the spoon. De Gaulle might have been premier if he hadn't paraded twice on one permit. When they were playing touch tag with the finger of suspicion in 1950 Pleven, Mollet and Queuille all refused the honor of leaving a tri-colored ring in history's bath tub.

Yogis Finally Discover That Dr. Brady Has Been Stealing Their Own Stuff

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

In the past year a dozen readers in widely separated places have informed me, in a patronizing way which invites "Oh, yeh?", that some of my teachings are very good, for they follow yoga — or some such occult "science."

According to Webster there are several varieties of yoga, such as bhakti (devotional), jnana (intellectual), karma (work) and Hatha (physical).

One yogi says it is obvious that my recommendation of plain wheat instead of refined white flour and belly breathing instead of chest breathing are inspired by hatha, which prescribes natural and disapproves of artificial things.

Oddly, as it seems to me, some yogis who advocate and personally follow what we of the western world consider extremes in food and dress, advocate an extremely unnatural practice—the habitual use of enemas.

Of course I have heard about yoga and yogis since Topsy was a colt, but until the past year or two I thought a yogi was a fellow who could toss a rope into the air, climb the rope and disappear.

If hatha or any other yoga teaches that people should eat plain wheat instead of refined white flour and breathe with the belly (bellows) instead of the rib cage (chest) I'm all for it. But if yoga departs from the natural way to urge people to interfere with the automatic or natural regulation of the bowel I'm opposed to it.

For further information and advice send me a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for the pamphlet "Wheat to Eat," or the pamphlet "Belly Breathing" if you ask for both inclose 10c. Or send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for No. 25 Little Lesson "The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene." If you'd like also the pamphlet "You Need Not Have Piles" inclose 10c for it.

It is remarkable that, whereas I have been teaching these lessons for years it is only in the past year or two that the yogis have discovered I am stealing their stuff.

Warning to yogis or near-yogis who may feel it incumbent to enlighten me: No one who promotes the colon filling station business can tell me anything about health or hygiene.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

U. S. Motorists Get Pat on Back

Foreign Auto Experts Heap Special Praise on Women Drivers

CHICAGO (UP) — Just tell the next back-seat driver who complains about your driving that police and traffic experts from a dozen European countries think you're pretty good behind the wheel.

And if you're a woman, you're extra good, the foreign experts say.

Here are some of their observations, as reported to the Chicago Motor Club:

American men, on the whole, are skillful disciplined and patient drivers, but American women outstrip them in all three departments.

Drivers in the United States have too many signs, signals and speed limits to put up with.

In Europe, the experts said, motorists are more on their own and have a chance to adjust their driving and speed to road conditions, instead of fixed laws.

They also thought we bunch too closely together on highways, which results in more stopping than in Europe. Of course, they pointed out, America has more cars than Europe has.

Some of the foreign experts said they were so confused by the number and variety of our road signs that they lost hours backtracking to read signs they had missed.

Sometimes, they said, the signs turned out to be billboards.

By EDDIE CANTOR

Did you know that I was once in Wall Street? Oh, I don't mean in '29, when everybody was in it. In it? We were under it! I'm referring to the time when I worked for Weir Brothers, brokers, at 25 Broad Street.

I ran errands—helped get out the mail—and tried to be worth the seven bucks they were paying me. That was 1906. You can't get me for that kind of money now!

Friday afternoons were very important. Everybody pitched in to get out the "Weekly Market Letter." If you were one of Weir Brothers' customers, you'd receive this letter telling you what to buy or sell. What you bought or sold meant commission to the firm.

On one particular Friday, when the head man, J. C. Weir, left for the weekend, the door had no sooner closed behind him when I grabbed a little fur jacket that belonged to one of the girls in the office—jumped up on a long conference table, and gave an exaggerated imitation of Anna Held, singing "I Just Can's Make My Eyes Behave." The staff stopped work on that all-important "Weekly Market Letter."

I should have been suspicious when they suddenly stopped laughing and applauding, but ham that I was—was? — I continued.

Then came the blow. J. C. Weir, having forgotten his briefcase, returned—saw the picture—and yelled the dreaded words: "You're fired!" I wanted to get my hat, but he bellowed, "Get out!—Get out!" He was really angry.

Ten years later—June, 1917—opening night of my first Ziegfeld Follies, the doorman delivered a card to my dressing room. It read: "J. C. Weir—Weir Brothers—25 Broad Street."

When my ex-boss was ushered into my dressing room, he handed me a fine leather hatbox in which I found a high silk hat. We both smiled when he said, "This is to replace the hat you didn't get when you left our firm!"

Judge Performs Unmarriage Rite on Divorce Day

PORT HURON, Mich. — When the judge hands down a divorce in Circuit Court here the couple receiving it also gets an "unmarrying ceremony" — whether they like it or not.

Here's the way it goes:

Judge Edward T. Kane has the two stand before him just as if it were their parting day. He fixes upon them a stern look and says:

"You have no right to feel elated just because you are being granted a divorce. You are not to be praised, but blamed for failing to make your marriage work."

After this the judge reviews the couple's wedding vows and their married life and points out to them where they failed. He often then makes an attempt at reconciliation.

"Sometimes this works," he says, "but more often the damage has been done."

Woman Finds Research Field

Dr. Toolan Works With Rats Which Have Been 'Given' Cancer

By VIVIAN SANDE

NEW YORK (UP) — She was a brilliant student, graduated from the University of Chicago with top honors when she was 17.

Today, a woman in her 30s, she is credited with being the first person to grow human cancer in animals. The result of her work may speed up science's efforts to find a cure for the dread malady.

Dr. Helene Wallace Toolan, a small, pretty woman with curly brown hair and gray eyes, is an associate at the Sloan-Kettering Institute research unit of the Memorial Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases.

Dr. Toolan, an example of the women of our time who have become VIPs in fields once considered for men only, works with her six assistants in one of the liveliest laboratories in the Institute. Some 400 animals — hamsters and rats — are treated there each day.

The means of growing human cancer in laboratory animals in sufficient quantity for research has been sought sporadically by science for the last 50 years.

Two years ago, Dr. Toolan found this could be achieved to some extent by pre-treating the animals with small amounts of cortisone and radiation.

One year ago she reported to the American Association for Cancer Research that she had been increasingly successful in her experiments.

This year, she reported that one human cancer removed more than a year ago from a man's leg now is thriving in more than 1,000 hamsters and rats. The man is alive and well.

After his death, she continued her studies, taking a doctorate at Cornell University medical school. She taught at Cornell for a time, and two years ago moved to Sloan-Kettering.

She has remarried, to Dr. James Toolan, a psychiatrist. Her older son is studying medicine at Columbia University. Her younger son is in high school.

Dr. Toolan sees the world of research science opening wide its doors to women.

Being a woman, she said, has been no handicap to her in her career, even though a kindly professor once warned her, "Don't think you're ever going to get anywhere in science, Helene. It's a man's world."

"The only time being a woman is a handicap," she said in an interview, "is when the woman herself thinks it is."

Floating Post Office Totes Mail in the Adirondacks

OLD FORGE, N. Y. (UP) — A floating post office has served customers along a 12-mile stretch of the Fulton Chain of Lakes in the Adirondacks since 1901.

The post office, the United States of America Mailboat, is the only service in the postal system combining the functions of rural mail delivery and "railway' post office.

The large cabin and passenger boat can carry 40 passengers on its trips down the lake between Old Forge and the town of Inlet.

A railway postal clerk sorts the mail for each camp or hotel during the journey and Capt. Don Gurnep blows a horn as the boat nears a dock.

A carrier rushes down to the dock and exchanges an outgoing bag of mail with the clerk as the boat cruises past.

Clerk Lou Edwards says that on rare occasions a bag gets a dunking during the quick exchange, but this happens less than once a year.

President Benjamin Harrison, a summer resident of Second Lake, was influential in getting the mailboat launched after he left the White House.

Special legislation authorized the boat 53 years ago, when most summer visitors could only reach their hotels by boat.

The tooting mail carrier runs twice daily from mid-June to September, and once daily in early June and early September. Burnep is the third contract operator of the boat since its launching.

The mailboat has its own cancellation, Inlet-Old Forge RPO (for railway postoffice). The clerk stamps the mail on the return trip from Inlet.

A camp or hotel owner can receive service from the mailboat by providing two mail bags and a dock. The boat served some 60 customers in the past summer.

Safecracker Has Never Seen One He Couldn't Open

PARIS, Tex. (AP)— Sam Fuqua, a spry 78, makes his living opening safes. Never saw one he couldn't crack. Lawmen don't bother him. All his thousands of safe-crackings have been strictly legal.

From miles around, they call him to open jammed safes when burglars hit them, combinations fall or fire scorches them.

Fuqua's pet peeves are amateur safe-crackers who knock off the knobs and ruin the combinations. "They don't have a chance to open the safe," he frowns. "They just mess them up. And I have to clean up after them."

Professional safe-crackers usually do a nice, clean job explains Fuqua. But he admits the pros are few and far between these days. "Modern safes are just too tough for most of 'em."

Pigeons Home to Roost

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Marines fired a single gun salute and the city's pesty pigeons took off from the Civic Center like frightened jets. City officials, who have tried many ways to get rid of the birds, were disappointed when they soon fluttered back.

Judge Releases Juror With Sick Baby at Home

SALT LAKE CITY (UP)—U.S. District Judge Willis W. Ritter was interviewing prospective jurors here recently when one man asked to be excused on grounds his baby was ill and he had problems at home.

The judge promptly released the man from duty, saying he didn't think a juror should be straining at the leash to get away.

In explanation, Ritter recalled that once, when he was a practicing attorney, one of the jurors at a trial had a pressing appointment, and "he persuaded all the rest of the jurors to rule against me" in order to get away quickly.

Must Be a Live Show

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Cowboys —and horses— were racing across the TV screen, and Kathleen Card, 4, was watching them. Her younger brother preferred to throw things around. Exasperated, Kathleen warned:

"If you don't stop that you'll break the television, and all those little horses will fall out on the rug."

Germans Build World Markets

Engage in Activities With Look to Future in Isolated Areas

FRANKFURT (UP) — German business men and technicians, thinking today of markets 20 years from now, are engaging in myriad activities extending around the world and including such small and relatively unknown countries as Yemen.

Big-name firms as well as others which seldom have been heard of pass up no chance to open world markets which Hitler's policy of "autarky" and World War II had closed to Germans.

Reports on these German activities are often short and inconspicuous such as the recent one from New Delhi:

"The Indian government, on advice from its German consultants, will locate its first 500,000-ton steel plant at Rourekela in Orissa state. The Krupp - Demag experts decided on the site because of nearby iron ore deposits."

But probably even more than India, the Near and Middle East, crisis - ridden and suspicious of any of the great powers, seem to take an increased interest in German business offers.

Recently it became known that the Egyptian government is considering an agreement with a German firm granting it concessions to cultivate considerable areas of the western desert near the Cairo-Alexandria highway. It was expected the firm would use the land to grow tobacco, tomatoes, and beets for export to Germany.

It was a surprise to economy experts to learn that tiny Yemen, a country ruled by one family, is contemplating granting an unidentified German firm a concession to drill for oil.

Probably the greatest success of post - war Germany on the world market was the Volkswagen, the small automobile now being sold in virtually all free European countries as well as in India, Indonesia, Ceylon, Thailand, Ireland, South Africa, and Brazil.

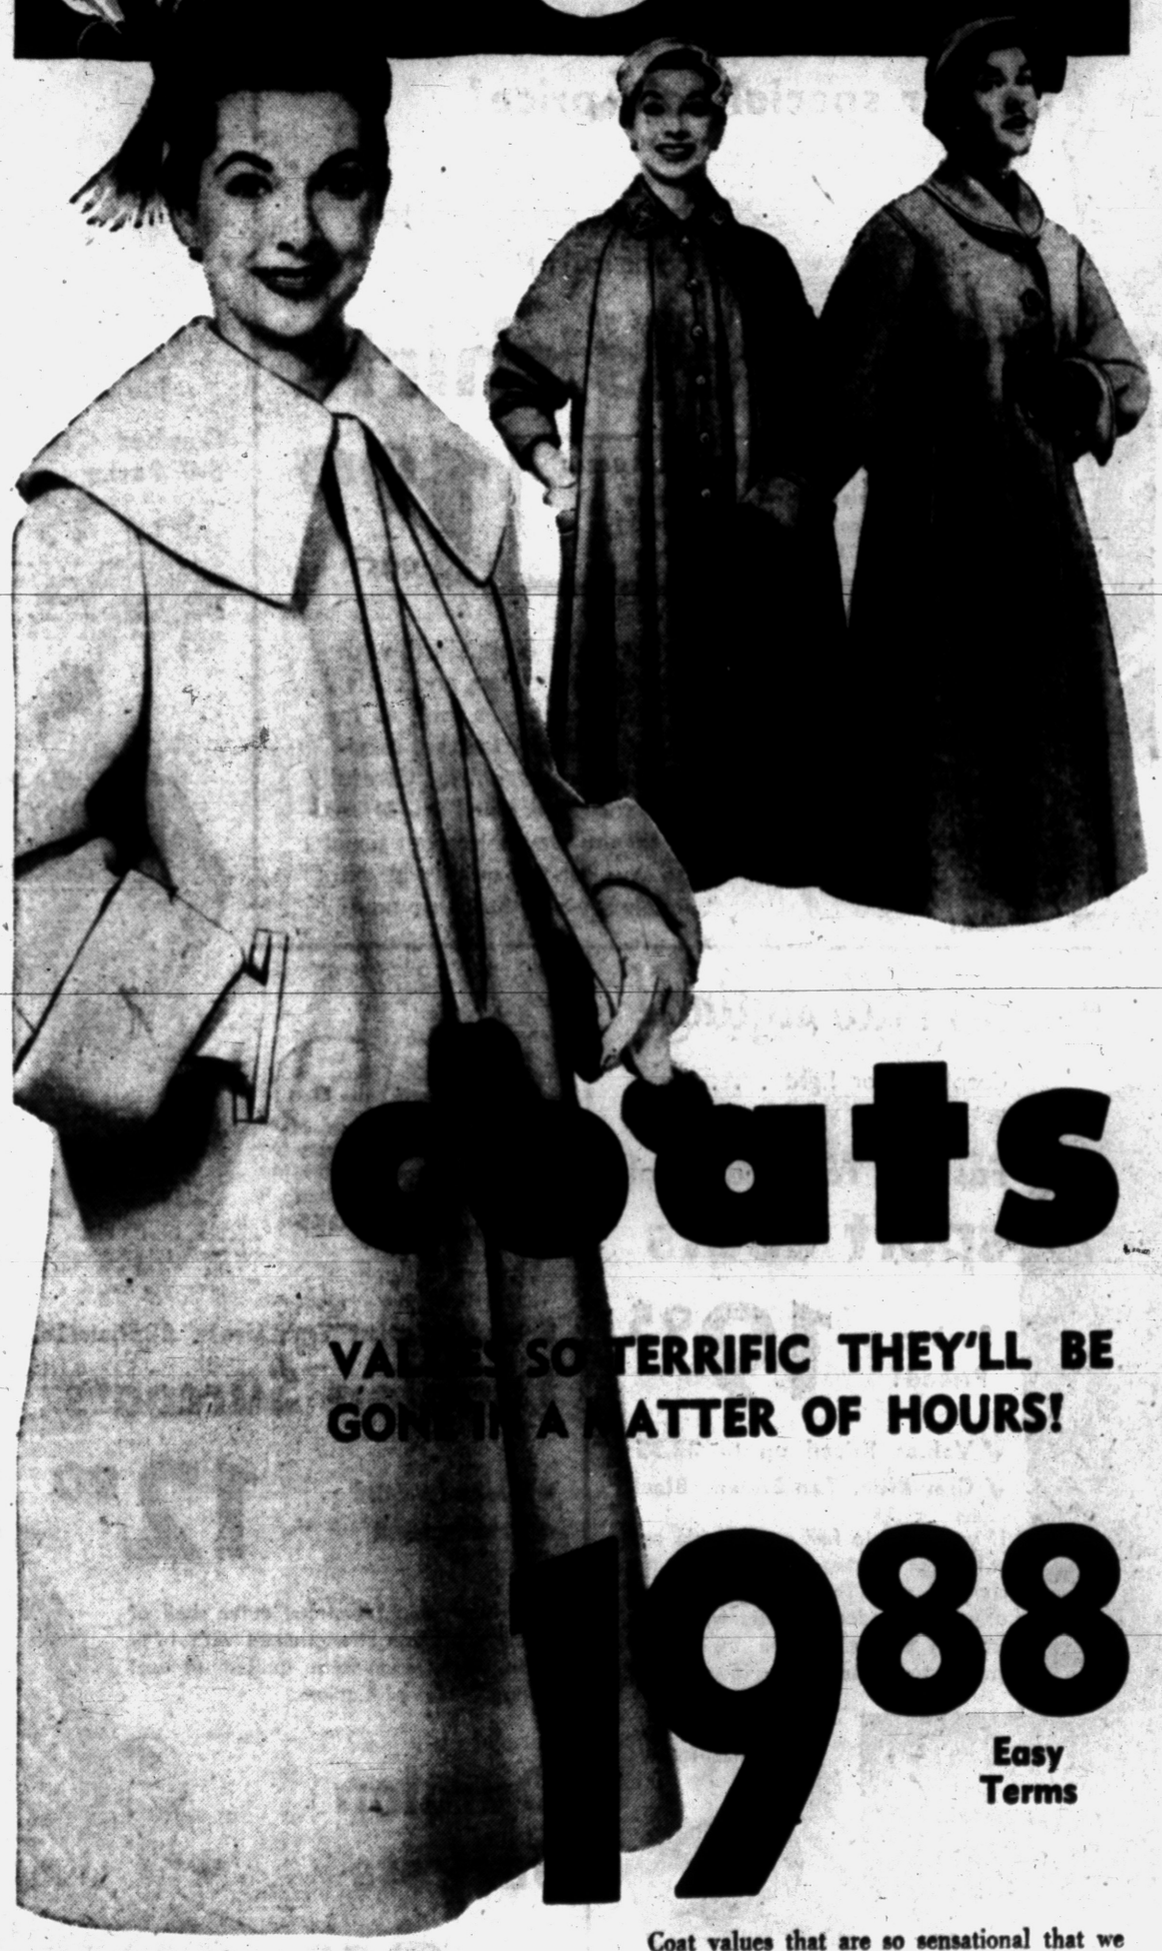

Where high customs and tariffs make import of the automobile virtually impossible, assembly plants are being established with local labor doing most of the work.

In Brazil and other Latin American countries, German steel experts are busy helping governments and private firms to streamline production, and there is hardly a German diplomat leaving for South America who does not consult with German business experts prior to his departure.

Official and private observers in the Middle East keep a watchful eye on Egypt and India where there are plans for the construction of huge power plants which should enable both countries to make tremendous progress toward industrialization. What Krupp and Demag experts are to steel, Siemens electricians are to power, and it is no longer a secret that Siemens will be offered a part in the building of a huge power plant in India.

Civil Defense Promotes 'Run-and-Duck' Formula

(Editor's Note: This is the second of three dispatches on America under atomic threat.)

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission has said the H-bomb "can take out a city."

Those words, calmly uttered, are hardly descriptive of the death and the pain and the stink and ruin of atomic disaster.

But they help to explain why U. S. defense planners do not intend to promote construction of vast, deep mass shelters in the heart of potential target cities.

In any case, it would take too long to dig such shelters into the bowels of America's 92 "critical target" cities. Defense planning is based on the assumption that Russia can hit these cities with A-bombs or H-bombs now.

For another thing, the cost of a national deep shelter system would be gigantic, perhaps as much as $5,000,000,000.

Finally—under heavy A-bomb or H-bomb attack mass shelters might be transformed in seconds into mass death traps.

But a possible alternative to mass shelters — the alternative of "when you hear the alert, duck" — is no longer thinkable.

When the country had no early warning system to speak of, and before the H-bomb entered the arsenals of the East and the West, the "duck" formula made some sense. Any shelter, even if it was no more than the underside of a desk table, was better than none.

But "duck" is no defense against a weapon that can "take out a city." So now the formula is "run-and-duck."

It is based on another assumption—that before next July 1 our defenses will be such that at least an hour will elapse between the yellow warning that an attack is coming and the red warning that the bombs are about to fall.

In that hour, the defense planners say, get as far from the heart of the city as you can. Then when "warning red" is sounded, duck into whatever shelter is available.

Run-and-duck is not a perfect defense and perfection is not claimed for it. But Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson believes evacuation of target city centers of population will save millions of lives.

And it will become more and more feasible as cities prepare for their bomb-day roles, and as radar and other defenses improve.

When run-and-duck was first proposed, it was greeted with considerable skepticism. The task of evacuating congested downtown areas of big cities in an orderly fashion—without panic or mob scenes—seemed dismayingly difficult.

But Peterson says it can be done. In Chicago, he points out, the population of the Loop dwindles at the end of each work day from 900,000 to 85,000 in a few hours.

In any case, the job is worth trying, and several cities already have had practice evacuation drills, among them Spokane, Shreveport, Mobile and Bremerton. Several others have scheduled drills this fall.

Just getting people away from the target city is not all there is to run-and-duck. Getting the word to them in the first place is a big job. Planners depend on sirens and Conelrad Radio—AM channels 640 and 1240—to do that.

Shelters against flash heat and flying debris must be provided on the edges of the target center for those who get that far.

Rescue teams, fire fighting equipment, previously rehearsed traffic control, emergency hospital—all these are necessary and already are being provided by states and cities with funds matched in part by federal money.

Above all, suburban areas and neighboring towns must be ready and willing to absorb the refugees, to administer to their needs for food, water and shelter, and to maintain order among those who might under stress go primitive.

The Federal Civil Defense Administration has not put together any exhaustive report of what the states and cities have done to date toward getting ready for the bombs.

But a spokesman summed it up this: "A h-l of a lot—but not enough."

Food Handler Class Meets Here Tonight

First meeting of a four-week sanitation school for food handlers will be held at 8 p.m. today in the Municipal Court building, Mill street near Pike.

City Sanitarian Charles S. Cohen said attendance is mandatory for persons employed in restaurants, soda fountains, taverns, bars and other establishments where food is handled. A certificate of attendance will be presented when the four classes are completed.

A new four-week class cycle will begin the first Thursday of each month through May, Cohen said. The classes will be instructed by Cohen and Ralph Florio, food restaurant sanitarian.

Motorists Are Injured in Two-Car Collision

Two motorists were injured yesterday when their cars collided at 14 Mile road and Birmingham Blvd. in Southfield Township.

Richard J. Viculin, 31, of 2452 Clifford, Detroit, was admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital with fractured ribs, nose cuts and chest pains. His condition today is listed as good.

The other driver, Cline V. Larch, 36, of 1970 Washington, Birmingham, was treated at the hospital for chest pains. Both motorists told Oakland County sheriff's deputies that they did not see the other car.

Fryers, Pork Loin Share Honors as Meat Bargains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frying chickens and pork loin share the honors this week as the best buys in the meat departments of food stores over the nation. Eggs are a bargain too.

Frying chickens will be down anywhere from a couple of cents to six cents a pound from a week ago. Production is up and supplies will be big for the rest of this year. In the wholesale markets, broilers are selling at the lowest prices for this time of year since back in 1940.

A good number of markets will feature turkeys, too. Again it's a matter of near-record supplies on the farms.

The pork situation has shown considerable improvement lately—from the standpoint of the consumer, that is. Last spring's big pig crop is coming to market and wholesale prices are declining.

Some markets are reducing egg prices by as much as 10 to 12 cents a dozen this week. For eggs also are at 14-year-lows at wholesale. What's more, federal specialists believe eggs will continue to sell below year-ago levels at least until spring.

On the other hand, butter prices appear to be headed higher. Some markets will add two or three cents to the price of a pound of the spread this week.

At the top of the list of good buys in vegetables are cabbage, onions, potatoes, cauliflower, beets and peppers. Produce men also consider celery, spinach, eggplant and sweet potatoes as good values.

Printing United With Fine Arts

Rochester Tech Joins With Columbia for New Degree Course

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UP) — A new agreement in the graphic arts field between Columbia University and the Rochester Institute of Technology is being hailed as a step toward meeting the growing demand within the printing industry for college graduates with a liberal arts background as well as technical competence.

Beginning with the 1954-55 academic year, students from RIT's Department of Printing will be able to receive the Columbia degree of bachelor of fine arts after completion of additional requirements in liberal arts courses. The arrangement will run for three years.

Under the program, RIT students will be allowed to transfer credits in technical printing courses towards the graphic arts requirements for the B.F.A. degrees.

RIT, considered to have one of the country's outstanding schools of printing in facilities, equipment and program, now awards the associate in applied science degree to graduates of its two-year program in printing.

The school also confers the bachelor of science degree for satisfactory completion of the four-year program.

A printing industry leader, Thomas R. Jones, president of Daystrom, Inc., who is chairman of the Graphic Arts Center program at Columbia, calls the program an encouragement to "young men to recognize the potential of the graphic arts as a career possibility," and predicts that it "should improve the qualifications of personnel which will be available to the industry in years ahead."

Solid 'Seawater' Is Being Utilized on A-Submarine

AKRON, O. (INS) — Scientists have created a solid, structural material that behaves like waterproof seawater.

It's used as part of the outside hull of the first atom-powered submarine, the U. S. Navy's Nautilus.

The stuff is a kind of rubber specially developed by B. F. Goodrich to allow sound waves to pass through it in about the same manner as sound travels through the sea itself.

The rubber houses the sub's electronic sonar gear which uses sound waves to detect surface or other undersea craft. The use of any material which does not share the characteristics of seawater would cause the sonar signals to blank out or distort so that a target could not be located accurately, the company says.

Illiteracy on the Way Out

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, D. R., (INS) — Adult education is obliterating the small amount of illiteracy remaining in the Dominican Republic. Currently, 3,600 reading and writing centers, established in factories, businesses and schools, serve 92,000 children, men and women, ranging from 14 to 72 years of age, the Dominican Republic Information Center reports.

'Skunk Holidays' School Becomes Smelly Memory

DeWITT, N.Y. (UP) — The "School of Skunk Holidays" has gone under the wrecker's hammer.

Not that skunks were the most important part of the 88-year history of the little red schoolhouse in this Onondaga County village, but they caused what may have been the most unusual annual holidays ever proclaimed in any U.S. school district.

Every spring, for uncounted years, a family of skunks moved into the old frame building.

When pupils and teacher could no longer stand the odor, the trustees were notified and the official holiday proclaimed.

Two years ago, the skunks won the battle. The schoolhouse was boarded up. Recently the trustees decided to have it torn down.

Lets Wife Name Twins

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Columbus Walker Cook agreed that his wife should name their new twins since "you're going to be calling them the most and besides I won't be around her to raise them." Cook is 80. The twins make 17 children for him and his 42-year-old wife. And Cook had 11 others by two previous wives.

Sees Big Demand for Lean Porkers

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — The porker that will lift the mortgage in the future will have plenty of lean meat under his hide says R. L. Coppersmith, University of Illinois farm marketing specialist. The demand is strictly for red meat without fat, he said

The school's College of Agriculture is taking the lead in promoting the hog most in demand. Working with the Departments of Agriculture and Animal Science, Coppersmith has organized marketing conferences at the stockyards for packer buyers, order buyers and commission salesmen. Country-wide meetings will be held for farmers to encourage production of meat-type hogs.

"It is a matter of selection within a breed," says Coppersmith.

Fluorescent Lights Help African Violet Nursery

MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — Starting with eight African violets three years ago, Mrs. R. Victor Hanks, has converted her home into a nursery with 168 varieties of violets growing under fluorescent lights. She has 18,000 plants arranged on racks in the basement. The 75 lamps over the racks burn 16 hours a day, she says the plants need the 8-hour rest.

Trying Out the Policy

STURGIS (UP)—Mrs. and Mrs. Vic Kosloski had just signed a contract for insurance to cover their household goods when someone smelled smoke. The couple's davenport was on fire. What caused it? The man who had just sold the Kosloskis the policy had dropped a lighted cigarette between the cushions.

An annual snowfall of 50 to 60 feet is not uncommon in Oregon's Crater Lake national park.

New Chinese University to Counter Brain Washing

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — A plan for a new university in Singapore to save young Chinese brains from the brain-washing which thousands of them, it is said, have been getting in Red China has been announced here.

Dr. Lin Yutang, one of China's most distinguished expatriates, and the Chinese writer with undoubtedly a larger American following than any of his compatriots could claim, will be president.

The sons of Chinese away from home have always gone back to the "mainland," as Dr. Lin called it, to study.

That used to be fine, but now, he asks, what could be worse. He does not know just how many, perhaps thousands yearly, return there now. The Communists promise them a free living at Red universities; many of them, perhaps almost thousands yearly, stay there, lost to their parents and to the free world.

Nearly two years ago some wealthy Chinese in Singapore decided to offer their young men and women a counter opportunity. They pledged just under seven million U. S. dollars, and made a gift of 500 acres of land only a few miles outside Singapore, and invited Dr. Lin to be president.

"The unique privilege has been given me," he said, "to create a first class Chinese university outside China."

Some buildings are already going up, but most of the work will await Dr. Lin's arrival in the fall—he has left New York, his home for many years, on a leisurly trip to Malaya.

Total enrollment will reach perhaps 1,000. Nanyang university, as it will be called, is intended to keep Chinese culture alive. It will be open to all races, and instruction will be mainly in English.

"There are a lot of Chinese Ph.D's," said Dr. Lin, "who have not been able to get better jobs than running groceries on Broadway, or working here as waiters, or raising poultry. They are going to be the teachers."

The number of U. S. students will probably be small. At present there is no financial backing from this country, but Dr. Lin hopes some day he may be able to interest one of our rich foundations. In drawing up his plans he has received the advice of several American university officials.

His appointment was announced at a lunch given by his publisher, Prentice-Hall, which has received the manuscript of another of his novels and intends to bring it out in the spring.

Born in China in 1895, Dr. Lin studied there, in Germany and at Harvard, which gave him his M.A. in 1922. Linguist and scholar, and also the inventor a few years ago of a Chinese typewriter, he taught for some years, from 1916 on, in Peiping—as an unrelenting foe of the present Chinese rulers, he says Peking, not Peiping. "The Importance of Living," published in 1937, was the first of his two dozen books in English to win him his big audience in this country.

Dad, Pop, Poopsie Agree Adoration Beats Adulation

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — They're jolly well upset in England these days over whether it's proper and respectful for kids to call their parents "mum" and "dad."

Seems a London vicar was shaken to his British walkers to discover that some of the young people coming in to post their marriage banns couldn't recall their parents' first names. Too much mum and dad-ing going around for legal efficiency, implied the vicar, much less lineal reverence.

Well now, isn't that remarkable?

As an American of the informal school, I'd say these Britishers don't know when they're well off. Most U. S. parents consider themselves fairly revered if they're called anything the flattering side of "the Old Lady" —or its parental counterpart.

And to show you how the American mind works, the ones I know even sorta like that!

"I'll tell you what," said my dad once, when I was in the 10-year-old, melodramatic formal stage and was calling him father in private and sir in public. "I think it's very kind of you to be respectful, but it makes me feel quite old when you call me father. And I feel like a tyrant when you call me sir. Couldn't you make it less formal?"

I did. It was informal. So informal that deference to his present business and social standing makes it impossible to reveal; but at home—at the heart of the hearth—he loves it. Mother, not to be sloughed off by this lovely nonsense, became known as Toots. And Toots she remains, though her hair has turned a pretty silver and she is president of the Kiwanis women's club.

Other kids, throughout the country, have pulled similar parental punches.

There's been a great movement toward addressing parents by their first names, a trend which would cause Britishers to quail, no doubt (except perhaps for the vicar, who could at least keep his records straight). But the U.S. parents thus addressed seem to think it's great.

The American parent seems to lean toward love, rather than strict reverence, from his offspring. And through experience, he feels that camaraderie brings love.

There's also the matter of personal pride—the youthful glow a parent feels from being greeted, devotedly, as if he were almost age-for-age with the young 'un.

The pride often increases with increasing age. My grandfather, a civic and business leader in Dayton, Ohio, called a family powwow on the subject in the mid-'30's.

"Now that my eldest grandchildren are in their teens," he announced flatly, "I think I should stop being referred to as grandpa, don't you?" It reflected on his age and he would prefer to be called by his initials, "L. G."

Reborn under his convivial nickname, L.G. is still tending to his business, playing golf, and has just written his second book at the age of 88.

Over in England, where the controversy is pip-pipping along.

New Indark Tomato Is Big, Disease Resistant

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A new tomato, combining the better qualities of elder varieities, has been developed by Dr. Victor M. Watts, horticulturist at the University of Arkansas. Dr. Watts said the tomato is strongly resistant to disease and produces larger, rounder and meatier fruit.

The new tomato is called Indark —derived from the names of the states in which it has been tested, Indiana and Arkansas.

Indark seeds are expected to become avilable commercially in 1955.

Ambulances Metered

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A fleet owner here has borrowed an idea from taxis. He put 22 taxi meters on his ambulances.

Elaborate Plan Goes to Waste in Easy Arrest

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Revenue agents, tipped a bootlegger was driving out of the hills with a big load, worked out an elaborate plan.

One agent, posted by the road, was to fire a shot into the air as the car went past him. This was a signal to another agent a quarter of a mile away to prepare to shoot the tires on the car if it wouldn't stop on a signal—and they were sure it wouldn't.

Another quarter of a mile farther along, were two more agents in a fast car ready to chase what they hoped would be a crippled vehicle.

All four heard the car and the first shot was fired. The engine's sound halted abruptly. After several minutes the three agents made their way to the first one's station and found he had made the capture single - handed. The bootlegger thought the shot was a blowout, stopped his car and climbed out to look.

Club Salutes Navy Flag

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The South of Broadway Assn. at its luncheon meeting reached the time to pledge allegiance to the flag. But no flag. A member looked out the window, spotted a destroyer tender in the harbor with the Stars and Stripes flying. Members turned right-face, eyed the distant flag and pledged allegiance.

Four Escape Injury in Runaway Ambulance

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A runaway ambulance, it brakes useless, rolled more than 60 miles an hour down the main coast highway and came to a stop without injuring the driver or the three occupants.

Fire chief R. A. Jenkins said the ambulance even got a green light at one intersection. Unaware that the vehicle was out of control, the two patients thanked the driver for the fast ride.

The ambulance was towed to a garage for repairs to a ripped brake lining.

The replacement of railroad ties runs to an average annual bill amounting to more than $250 million.

RACE FOR SEATS—The above map shows states where Democrats or Republicans are expected to win in the November 2 election. Doubtful states and those where no elections are being held are also shown.

Elections in 13 States Will Decide Senate Control

By BEM PRICE
AP Newsfeature Writer

Thirty-six Senate seats are at stake Nov. 2—and control of the Senate for the next two years of the Eisenhower administration.

The Republicans admittedly are running scared while the Democrats are oozing confidence.

At present the Senate is divided—49 Republicans, 46 Democrats and one independent. Ernest Brown, a Republican, was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death last week of Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev).

Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, the independent, has said he would vote with the Democrats in the organization of the 84th Congress.

What frightens the Republicans is the possibility that the Democrats may pick up one or more seats, thus obtaining a tie or a working majority with the aid of Morse.

The 36 seats at stake include the constitutional one-third of the membership which comes up for re-election every two years plus five vacancies created by four deaths and one resignation (that of Nixon as senator from California).

In actuality there have been five deaths (in addition to McCarran's) in the Senate, a fact which has brought about a peculiar situation in South Carolina but which wil have little theoretical bearing on control of the Senate.

Sen. Burnet Maybank of South Carolina died after he had been renominated for a full six-year term. Renomination in South Carolina, a normally one-party state, is the equivalent of re-election.

The South Carolina Democratic committee appointed State Sen. Edgar Brown to appear as the party's candidate in the November election.

This selection of a senator by a small group of men, however, brought widespread protests, and former Gov. Strom Thurmond is now campaigning against Brown as a write-in candidate.

In any case, both Thurmond and Brown profess to be Democrats, though Thurmond was for Eisenhower in 1952 and once bucked the national party by appearing as a presidential candidate in 1948 on the State's Rights Democratic ticket.

On the surface this fall's contests would appear to favor Republicans since 21 are for seats now held by Democrats and 15 for seats held by Republicans.

What upsets this apparently pro-Republican calculation is the fact that the South seems to be solidly pro-Democratic again.

The net result is that control of the Senate probably will be decided in about 13 states where the outcome of contests between the two parties is doubtful.

Apparently safe in the Republican column are New Hampshire, Michigan, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Idaho. Maine already has re-elected Republican Margaret Chase Smith.

The Democrats apparently are sure of Rhode Island, Minnesota, West Virginia, Virginia, Tennessee, South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas.

In the doubtful column are Oregon, California, Wyoming, Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Delaware, Colorado, New Mexico and Montana.

The fact that only 33 states are holding elections and 36 seats are to be filled is accounted for by the number of deaths and Nixon's resignation. New Hampshire, North Carolina and Nebraska are holding two races each this year.

Republicans say they believe they have good chances of picking up seats in Illinois, Ohio and Delaware and middling-to-good chances in Iowa, Colorado, Montana and New Jersey.

Democrats are hopeful of New Jersey, Wyoming and Kentucky. They label their chances fair in Massachusetts, Oregon and California.

Marilyn, Joe's Wedding Started Out on Happy Note

(Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series on why Cupid struck out with the Joe DiMaggios. Today: The happy side of Marilyn and Joe's married life.)

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Marilyn Monroe built her marriage around one rule: keep her man happy with everything from a special television chair to breakfast in a big, double bed.

The world was carried away by the elopement in San Francisco nine months ago of the cuddly blonde and Joe DiMaggio, one of the greatest baseball heroes of all time. The press breathlessly followed their wedding trip to Japan and Korea.

But when they returned home, Marilyn drew a curtain of privacy around their roomy, two-story rented home in Beverly Hills and settled down to trying to make her marriage work.

She put the TV set next to the fireplace so Joe could watch sports events from his favorite easy chair. She bought a special footstool for him. Marilyn claimed, at least, that she let Joe pick the shows he liked to watch. Often she would serve him his dinner on a small folding table in front of his chair.

"Joe doesn't have to move a muscle," she beamed proudly then. "Treat a husband this way and he'll enjoy you twice as much."

Marilyn also replaced the double bed in the English-style house with a king-size bed.

"A bed should be big enough so both can have their sleeping independence," was the Monroe doctrine. "You know—some people snore, some people kick.

"I don't believe in separate bedrooms, though! Often in bed you think of something you want to say. You're not going to get out of bed and chase down the hall to another room. This separate bedroom deal is not in the American tradition. In the pioneer days, did you ever hear of a man and his wife sleeping in separate covered wagons?

"Sometimes we have breakfast in bed," she added dreamily.

Marilyn often told friends she wanted "two children as soon as possible." One bedroom in the home was reserved for 11-year-old little Joe, the ballplayer's son by actress Dorothy Arnold (Marilyn called her husband big Joe.) The curvy actress told friends she loved being a stepmother to little Joe.

Mrs. DiMaggio also confided during her marriage that she believed a man never should "have to think about his clothes. A wife should see to it his shoes and suits are sent out to be cleaned."

"I like to iron Joe's shirts and often I haven't the time," she said then, "I like to look at Joe in a shirt I ironed."

Another time she said, "I thought a lot about getting married before I did it. I told myself, this time I have to stay married. Joe helped me decide—it was just being with him, knowing someone honestly cared what happened to me.

"When marriage is right, it's wonderful. I'd pick it before everything else, because it's your life."

But marriage began not to be wonderful.

Rumor U. S. Asked Taipeh to End Raids

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Rumors that Nationalist China has suspended bombing attacks on the Communist mainland at the request of the United States circulated here today.

There was no confirmation from either U.S. or Nationalist sources. But there have been no announced bombings of Red mainland bases for several days.

The U.S. Embassy and military mission here professed to know nothing of such a request and Chinese officials refused comment.

Anne Sterling Gives Police Suicide Scare

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Anne Sterling was taken to a hospital early today when police feared she had taken an overdose of sleeping pills.

Detective Robert Brown and Charles Hancock said they found the 32-year-old blonde unconscious in her apartment at 7760 Hollywood Blvd.

They said they found four medicine bottles, all empty except one containing two sleeping pills, next to her bed along with a two-page note which began: "Dear mother, please don't grieve for me . . ." The rest was illegible, the officers said.

Doctors at Hollywood Receiving Hospital said after pumping Miss Sterling's stomach they found no signs of sleeping pills.

The detectives said they went to the actress' apartment after receiving a call from her doctor, who reported that Miss Sterling had called him, said she was ill and the line suddenly went dead.

Merritt Says Reverter Clause in Deed Was Held Invalid

Oakland County Corporation Counsel Harry J. Merritt has submitted an opinion to the Special County Building Committee that the present courthouse, jail and Health Department sites in downtown Pontiac could be sold.

The committee requested the opinion after some questions were raised whether the present land and buildings could be disposed of if a new courthouse is built on the city's western edge as proposed by the Board of Supervisors.

To explain his opinion, Merritt presented some background of the downtown property.

In 1818, Stephen Mack acting for a group called the "Pontiac Company" took title to 1,280 acres here and laid out a town. The company then sought to have the town established as the county seat.

In 1819, the company offered to donate sites for a courthouse and jail. In 1820, as an added inducement, the group offered $500 toward construction of the courthouse and the same for the jail.

On March 28, 1820, the county was organized and Pontiac made its governmental center.

On June 30, 1832, Merritt reported, Mack executed a deed conveying the property to the county, but he placed a clause in the deed stating the lots would revert to him if ever used for other purposes than a courthouse or jail.

"In 1925 the Oakland County Bar Assn. appointed four of its most outstanding members as a committee to assist the Board of Supervisors in clearing the title to the courthouse property.

John H. Patterson, James H. Lynch, Carl H. Pelton and Glenn C. Gillespie were the committee. They gave the Board of Supervisors an opinion that the title could and should be cleared and outlined their reasons therefor.

In March 1926, the Board of Supervisors instituted court action to get free of Mack's reverter clause. Both the Oakland County Circuit Court and State Supreme Court supported the supervisors' position, said Merritt.

"Thus we have a situation," Merritt stated, "where our Supreme Court has said that the reverter clause was extinguished as to the heirs of Stephen Mack. . . .

"It seems to me at this time that any lawyer, conversant with the facts, who repudiates what the committee did, in other words still maintains that the county cannot deliver marketable title . . . is dragging the proverbial red herring across the courthouse trail.

"It is my opinion that the county . . . has marketable title . . . and could deliver a warranty deed without fear of any successful attack thereon."

Nevada Campaign Sparked by Supreme Court Battle

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Nevada Democrats carried to the State Supreme Court today their battle for an election in November to fill the two-year balance of the late Democratic Sen. Pat McCarran's term.

The high court arranged to hear an appeal on an injunction won yesterday by the GOP against putting senatorial candidates on the November ballot. The court indicated it would rule swiftly.

With the Republican majority in the Senate only three seats, the legal maneuvering has taken on added drama and injected fuel into an otherwise lusterless Nevada election campaign.

At stake is whether Republican Gov. Charles Russell's appointee to the Senate, Reno Republican Atty. Ernest Brown—an Eisenhower supporter—will fill out the term or whether an election will be held next month to decide the successor.

Lester Summerfield, former GOP national committeeman from Nevada, won the preliminary round of the great legal hassle yesterday when Dist. Judge A. J. Maestretti granted a permanent injunction.

BARRE, Mass. (UP) — Mrs. Catherine Hilfer, a young widow, regularly flies a 37-year-old French biplane that Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker flew during World War I. It's okay, she says, but the open cockpit is "a bit drafty."

Abandoned Oil, Gas Wells May Explode

Danger Lurks Underground in Tulsa

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A 40-acre residential area in southeast Tulsa is located over abandoned oil and gas wells that are capable of blowing up at any time, gas and petroleum experts told a gathering of property owners last night.

Lee Miller already has abandoned his home because of "an overpowering odor of gas" that filled the house. He told the meeting of more than 100 persons the trouble was not in gas lines but from a well drilled in 1913 and plugged four years later.

• • •

Also located in the Loma Linda development is the Eisenhower Elementary school.

Eisenhower principal Vernon Jackson told the group:

"I am not an alarmist. I do not plan to take my own children out of school."

At that, another father spoke up:

"You can count mine absent now."

• • •

The parents were about evenly divided over whether to take their youngsters from school.

Vance Smith, Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. representative, said his company has checked the school and found it safe. He promised the firm would keep a constant watch of the area.

He said records showed at least 20 wells in the half section in which the school is located. He also disclosed the area is honeycombed with old coal mines.

• • •

Asked how he described the situation, Smith replied:

"In one word—dangerous!"

Available records showed that six wells were not capped, but filled only with mud and sand. The task of locating all the wells was said to be almost impossible.

Oil company geologists said the recent drought possibly might have let the underground gas escape through cracks in the ground.

German Student Likes Life in U.S. School

By ABBIE L. KUCSERA

Hanns Kristen is a German youth who left his native land on an adventure in education last July. Today—after one month as a senior at Southfield High School, he is a highly popular student who has formed definitely favorable opinions of this country.

Hanns, to be 17 years old in November, is one of 227 exchange students out of more than 2,000 candidates named by the American Consulate to come here to study for a year.

The schools here, the youth observed, are very big, and he remarked about the "nice school spirit" and the apparent youth of the teachers at Southfield.

In his homeland, he attended Quakenbrueck High School, in the little town where he lives, near Bremen. Teachers there, he said are quite a bit older than those at Southfield.

He explained some of the differences in the school system in Germany, where they have 13 grades. Four years of these are passed in elementary school and the other nine in high school.

HANNS KRISTEN

The students there remain in one classroom the entire school day and the teachers pass from class to class. The day's session begins about seven in the morning and lasts until one o'clock. Lunch is eaten at home, and not in school as it is in the United States.

One requirement for German boys and girls is that they must learn the English and French languages in addition to their own. Latin is an optional subject.

He has noticed that school life here is a bit less formal and that more emphasis is placed on extra-curricular activities.

For recreation, he said, students go in groups and spend their time swimming in the pools and rivers there. They play tennis and have boat clubs and in winter skate.

Climate, in northern Germany where he lives, is slightly more moderate than here—not so hot in the summer, not so cold in the winter.

He likes the food here too. In his land, not quite so much meat is served, and potatoes are eaten in more quantity. Salads are different, mostly because of the dressings they are eaten with. Corn and melons, which he enjoys very much, are not available where he lives.

"And the ice cream, it is so good here," Hanns says, "I think that I shall never eat German ice cream again!"

Soda pop is a favorite in his homeland, except ginger ale, which he had never had there. Hot dogs and hamburgs, the American favorite, are eaten in the German home, rather than in roadside stands or restaurants.

Hanns is working to get high grades here and when he returns home will finish the thirteenth grade, then hopes to attend a technical university, probably in Berlin. He says he would like very much to become a mechanical engineer.

Right now, the youth's immediate concern is finding a job after school, or weekends, so that he can earn some ready cash for essentials.

Asked about the progress of building up the towns and cities in his homeland, Hanns said it is going along well, although there is still work to be done. He observed that not so many subdivisions and small communities are being built there, as in this country.

The young exchange student is being sponsored here by the World Council of Churches, and is under the supervision of Townsite Community Church in Lathrup. He is staying at present with Mr. and Mrs. William R. Vincent of Birmingham.

Hanns is enjoying his education in America and will have much to tell his two sisters and younger brother when he returns to Germany next August.

His parents, who are both dentists, are Dr. and Mrs. Guenter Kristen. They work together and both have offices in the same building in Quakenbrueck.

Hanns was born in Berlin in 1937. A month before their house was bombed in 1943, the family moved to Pomerania in Eastern Germany. There they remained until the Russians invaded in 1945.

Committee Opens Hearings on Ike's Highway Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spade work begins today on President Eisenhower's "grand plan" to modernize the nation's highway system at an estimated cost of 50 billion dollars over the next 10 years.

The question of how to foot the bill will be uppermost in the minds of a special five-member advisory committee opening two days of hearings today. Witnesses from 22 organizations are scheduled to testify.

Eisenhower named an old Army associate, retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, to head the committee. It has instructions to come back with a report for submission to Congress in January.

Liberace Plays Piano--- His Girl Friend Sighs

By EARL WILSON

HOLLYWOOD—I went to a wonderful party at Danny Thomas' house and guess who played the piano? Liberace. Liberace's girl friend, slim, pretty, black haired Joanne Rio, sat on the steps of the sunken living room, gazing soulfully at him . . . Marie McDonald was there, too.

Joanne, who's been dancing at Moulin Rouge, has also appeared on Liberace's show. She's the daughter of Eddie Rio, who's well known in show business.

"No, we're not engaged," Liberace smiled when I asked him the obvious question. "After my concert tour, I'm going to Europe."

Student Poisoner Freed From Jail

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — Richard La Force, 20-year-old Caltech science student convicted of poisoning beverages intended for a friend is free again to pursue his studies.

La Force was found guilty in May 1953 of putting poison in a water bottle in Robert Hayden's apartment. He claimed he was in love with Hayden's wife Joyce. The California Youth Authority released him from the Deuel Vocation at Tracy last weekend, with instructions to send a report each month to a probation officer until he is 25.

La Force indicated he will enter some college, but not Caltech.

Four Major Works Are Credited to Ike

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Eisenhower administration, says Undersecretary of Commerce Walter Williams, can claim four major accomplishments, chief of which is "the proper economic climate."

The others listed by Williams in a news conference yesterday: "Return to integrity in government, cooperation between the legislative and executive branches, and improvement in the quality of government."

Williams said the administration has worked to produce an economic climate favorable to prosperity and one that "is a requisite for the kind of political climate Americans cherish."

Cowboy Actor Resents Being Home on Range

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Guy Madison, the cowboy actor, spent too much time home on the range, he complained in winning a divorce yesterday from actress Gail Russell.

Madison testified it was often necessary for him to cook meals and clean the house because his wife "had no interest in keeping up the home, wouldn't allow servants and showed no interest in my work."

* * *

The 32-year-old actor won an interlocutory decree on a cross-complaint as Miss Russell, 29, dropped her suit. Her attorney said she was too emotionally upset to appear in court. The couple married in 1949 and separated last year.

Madison agreed to pay his wife $12,000 cash plus minimum alimony of $2,400 a year for the next 10 years, or until she remarries.

'Singing' Broadway Dog Becomes Neurotic, Quits

NEW YORK (AP) — A dog who sings on Broadway can become neurotic. "Ted (Sport) Morgan," an airedale, who performed opposite Phil Silvers in the hit musical, "Top Banana," got $300 a week for his stint.

* * *

His plight came to light in trial of an agent's breach of contract suit. The spotlight was too much. Sport began to miss cues, shake his head, bark when he should have been quiet, his trainer, Nathan Wollman, testified.

"He shivered as he waited to go on. He was neurotic—just like a person," Wollman said.

An understudy took his place.

Quiet Campus Belies Vast U-M Research Program

ANN ARBOR (AP)—There is nothing violent looking on the University of Michigan campus. But in its buildings, men are working on vital research for war as well as peace.

Few people have heard of the "Project Michigan" which includes research on radar, guided missiles, battlefield illumination and remotely controlled vehicles.

Much of it is classified material, placed with the university by the Army and Navy to make use of existing research facilities.

In a recent speech in Detroit, University Vice President Marvin Niehuss quoted from a talk delivered by Assistant Secretary of the Army George Roderick to the American Ordnance Assn.:

"What I have seen in Ann Arbor, when I visited the University of Michigan, is not dream stuff. It is hard, practical reality at work."

Niehuss said the university housed some 00 special projects "touching every field of human life."

Among them Niehuss said were projects covering everything from television to balloons.

Some of them have developed rapidly. Supported by a grant of a million and a half dollars from General Motors Corp., the institute of industrial research is doing medical work on occupational disease.

The institute has already produced a test devised by Dr. Merle Lawrence to determine how much noise a worker can stand in his place of work.

Other projects include the peacetime development of the atom. A new radiation therapy unit has been established at University Hospital for the treatment of tumors and cancer.

The huge machines are already in place and awaiting shipment of radioactive cobalt.

These projects, Niehuss said, take place in a "community of over 1,300 scholars, teachers and scientists, approximately every fifth one of whom is listed in 'Who's Who'."

Hanoi Awaiting Commie Rulers

Tension Mounts in City as French Prepare to Pull Out Sunday

Editor's Note:—Dispatches from Hanoi, capital of North Viet Nam, have been subject to increasing delays in transmission as the French withdraw in preparation for the Vietminh takeover of the city Sunday. The following dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Forrest Edwards came via French army cable and arrived almost 48 hours after it was filed.

By FORREST EDWARDS

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—Tension mounted tonight in Hanoi and violent incidents increased as French troops prepared to turn over the North Indochina capital Sunday to the Communist-led Vietminh.

The city's native quarter was aroused by a report that a French soldier had shot and killed a Vietnamese who protested when the soldier took a fountain pen away from him. An Indian witness said the victim was a Chinese "madman" who ran amok with a knife and was killed by French military police when he charged them.

* * *

In another incident today, witnessed by an Indian army officer attached to the international armistice commission, a group of raggedly dressed Vietnamese youths pulled two Vietnamese city government clerks off their bicycles and beat them, only a block from Hanoi's French business section.

Until those happenings, the city had exhibited a lethargic calm toward the impending French departure. An advance party of 250 Vietminh administrative and technical personnel arrived Monday in preparation for taking over public utilities and a detachment of 180 civil security police moved into the city today.

Some 250 Vietminh military police are scheduled to arrive Saturday.

* * *

The change in government functions also was occasioning some friction. Vietminh administrative personnel protested to the French authorities today that necessary cable equipment had been removed from the telegraph office.

The French claimed that the telegraph service was a privately owned and operated company which could remove any of its equipment. The Vietminh officials claimed all equipment must be left for them under terms of the Geneva cease-fire agreement.

The Vietminh police group toured police stations and posts under French escort, traveling in French trucks driven by French personnel and guarded by French troops. At several stops crowds of Vietnamese gathered to cheer the new arrivals.

* * *

Present plans for the changeover call for the main force of Vietminh troops to enter one end of Hanoi as the last French security forces march out next Sunday across the bridge, nearly a mile long, spanning the marshes and channels of the Red River.

Margaret Agrees to Assist Candidate

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Miss Margaret Truman plans to participate in the Democratic political campaign this fall.

The daughter of former President Truman has agreed to help in the Missouri 4th District Congressional fight. Republican incumbent Jeffrey Hillelson, seeking re-election, is opposed by Democrat George Christopher, a former congressman.

William Poindexter, district chairman for the Missouri Young Democrats, said yesterday Miss Truman had agreed to head a "Youth for Christopher" campaign and is expected to make several appearances at rallies near election time.

The 4th is the Truman's home district.

Pilot Flies Flaming Jet From City Before Crash

CHICAGO (AP)—An Air Force pilot whose F86-D jet caught fire 24,000 feet over Chicago last night, prevented the flaming plane from crashing in the metropolitan area by guiding it to the open countryside.

The pilot, 1st Lt. Edward F. Schroeder, 25, of St. Louis, parachuted to safety on a farm about 10 miles west of O'Hare field, on the city's northwest side. He suffered minor bruises.

British Firm Claims Shoes Outlast Wearer

LONDON (AP) — A shoe guaranteed to outlast the wearer has British children baffled. A west England manufacturer issued a pair free to each of a group of children with instructions to report back in half a year.

They have just checked in—every last shoe intact. They reported they had climbed and crawled, slid and scampered, kicked and scuffed and scraped, but the shoes would not wear out.

The manufacturers say the new shoes cost less to make than ordinary footwear, because fewer processes are required.

Man Faces Rape Probe

A 20-year-old Royal Oak Township man is being held for investigation of statutory rape in the case of a 16-year-old girl who gave birth to an infant found dead in Oxford Township Sunday, according to Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem. The girl's case has been placed in the hands of juvenile authorities for investigation, Ziem added.

Pet Bird, Unlocked Safe Mar Fire Drill Success

NORTH SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The fire drill at the City Hall was a success yesterday except for slight oversights by two workers. City Clerk Wilma Briggs dashed through the imaginary flames to close the doors on the safe. A Justice Court employe, practice or not, ran back for her pet canary.

Barber Forfeits Dollar

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — A man entered a barber shop here and plopped into the chair of A. C. Trull, instructing that his hair be cut to a length of 1½ inches. Trull worked carefully for 30 minutes and the customer gave him a dollar.

Trull then watched as the customer produced a rule, measured his hair, said it was cut too short and demanded return of the dollar. Amazed and disgusted, Trull complied, but says rules are prohibited from now on.

Bob Considine Says:

U.S. Journalism Is Closer to 1st Estate Than the 4th

Editor's Note: Following is the fourth of a series of five special articles by Bob Considine telling the story of America's free press in commemoration of National Newspaper Week.

NEW YORK (INS) — "The United States has, in truth, printer's ink in its veins," the Times of London said in a recent and somewhat startled look at U. S. newspapers and their influence. "Newspapers are a part of a national legend, and journalists right from the earliest days move across the pages of American history as regularly — and in many cases as glamorously — as do in English history the great names of the ancient nobel families.

"The editor in any given community is a leading figure and enjoys a prestige and an income far higher than the doctor, civil servant, or lawyer. (The American, incidentally, often writes to his editor with his problems before approaching a lawyer.)

"In Washington the reporter patronizes the official — even the President himself — whereas in Whitehall the reverse tends to be the case. All too often the British reporter approaches the civil servant from a position of educational and social inferiority.

Quite the opposite is true in America, where the reporter is usually the equal, if not the superior, in education and polish of the man whose brains he is supposedly trying to pick."

An overestimate, perhaps, but a statement indicative of the giant strides the American newspaper industry has made through the generations. Enroute, probably in the earliest rounds of its battle for a free hand in the shaping of its destiny, it left behind it the source whence it sprang—British journalism. Now, as the Times of London puts it, it is closer to the "first estate" than the "fourth." Its responsibilities keep pace.

The road of the American newspaper to its present place was a thorny one. Never in history have forces stopped trying to deprive the press of its duty to lay the truth before the people. America became the first country of a truly free press just as it became the first free country. But ancient prejudice against the distribution of printed truth dogged progress here.

The battle continues. One of the more recent efforts to clamp the cold hand of government censorship on the world's last free press was made in the report of the so-called Commission on the Freedom of the Press, sponsored by Henry Luce of Time, Inc., and Dr. Robert Hutchins. Had its findings become law, your newspaper today would be an American version of Pravda, wholly beholden to Washington for guidance.

In colonial times an editor spent almost as much time in jail as in his printshop.

The first newspaper ever printed in American, Publick Occurances, issued in Boston in 1690, was suppressed by royal authority the day it appeared. Seems it contained "reflections of a very high nature." The country's fourth paper, the New England Courant, appeared in 1721 in Boston under the editorial direction of James Franklin.

So outspoken was it against British rule that James Franklin was forced out as editor. He placed his young brother Benjamin in the job. Benjamin Franklin later moved on to found one of the most influential voices for liberty, the Pennsylvania Gazette.

Turning point of freedom of the press came with the acquittal of John P. Zenger, publisher of the New York Weekly Journal. His trial in 1734-35 decided the right of colonial newspapers to record and discuss the activities of the government, and the right of juries to judge the intent of publication rather than merely the fact. It marked the cutting of the noose from which all hopes of a free press dangled, "the greater the truth the greater the libel."

The founding fathers included publishers who made it clear from the Declaration of Independence till their deaths that the press must not be the tool of groups seeking to prolong an evil stay of power.

"Thomas Jefferson said:

"Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

Eleven of the 14 states ratified between 1789 and 1791 the first of the initial ten amendments to the constitution, with its famed, "Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of speech or of the press."

But there was not always smooth sailing after that. Not until 1896 did a court declare it illegal to jail a reporter for refusing to reveal the source of a story. And not until New Jersey acted in 1934 was it against the law to assault a reporter or cameraman at work on a story.

Sunday newspapers are today as much a part of the Sabbath as religious services and rest. But once they were bitterly fought. The frist to appear was "L 'Independant,' New Orleans French triweekly, which broke the ice in 1835. The lead was timidly followed and under attack for many years.

In 1857 the New York Sabbath Committe called for an end to the "Sunday news-crying nuisance, the most obtrusive and least defensible violation of the Sabbath."

Newspaper Week, 1954, finds the free press better prepared to defend itself. It has only to look at the pathetic parroting Iron Curtain press to know that vigilance must be maintained.

(Tomorrow: The place of the American press in the community and national economy.

Wholesale Food Prices Drop Slightly This Week

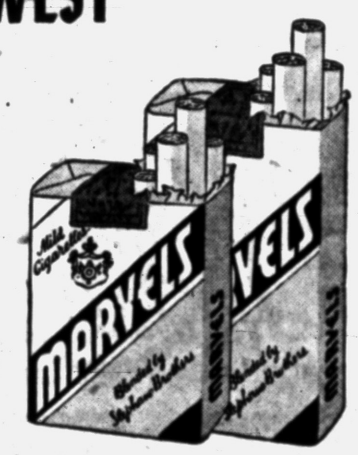

NEW YORK (AP)—Wholesale food prices as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet index declined slightly this week.

The index stood at $6.69 compared with $6.71 last week. A year ago it was $6.57.

Food rising in price included flour, wheat, corn, oats, hams, cheese, milk, coffee, tea, rice and steers. Lower were rye, barley, bellies, lard, sugar, cocoa, eggs, potatoes, raisins, prunes, hogs and lambs.

The index represents the total cost at wholesale of one pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Plucky Tot, 2, Learning to Use Artificial Limbs

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Hospital spokesmen expressed satisfaction today with the progress made by 2-year-old Lonnie Lynn Williams but said his training to get used to artificial limbs would continue for another week.

Lonnie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Williams of Lexington, Tenn., is at Mary Free Bed Children's Hospital and Orthopedic Center in Grand Rapids. He is awaiting a second artificial arm.

It is the second trip to the center for the youngster who was born without arms or legs.

Last May Lonnie came to the center to receive the first pair of jointed artificial legs fitted for a child under 4 years. Within a month he also received an artificial arm.

Hospital directors said his ready acceptance of the artificial limbs indicated a wonderful adjustment but decided against the second arm at that time as too great a burden.

Turkey Sentences 131 Reds to Prison

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—A Turkish military court sentenced 131 Communists today to prison sentences ranging from 5 months to trial in Turkish history.

The court's 850-page decision after secret hearings lasting a year acquitted 36 other defendants. All 167 were charged with attempting to organize an underground Communist party for the purpose of overthrowing the present government.

Police had described the defendants as the hard core of the Communist organization in Turkey.

To Study Man's Sanity

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A sanity commission to examine Paul R. Spinner of Lansing in the hitchhike slaying of another Lansing man was named Wednesday by Circuit Judge Archie D. McDonald. Police say Spinner has admitted killing Niles Liscomb, 30, last Aug. 4 after Liscomb had given him a ride in his car.

The commission will be composed of Drs. Carl Bradford of Lansing, Herman Van Ark of Eaton Rapids and Phillip Brown of Charlotte. It will make a report Oct. 25.

An average inter-city motor truck in the U. S. travels about 48,800 miles per year.

Hannah to Be Speaker

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Dr. John A. Hannah, Michigan State College president and former assistant secretary of defense, will speak at a dinner meeting of the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Assn. tonight. Aesort operators also will hear John C. Beukema of Muskegon, president of the Great Lakes Harbors Assn. and recently named by President Eisenhower to the St. Lawrence Seaway Commission.

Winds Whip Up Lake

PORT HURON (AP)—Strong winds Wednesday drove waves from Lake Huron onto beaches and breakwaters from Port Huron northward. Considerable property damage was reported. Small boats were warned off the lake. Coast Guard officials said the high winds were expected to end today.

Students Fired From Sky Vigil for Roof Antics

WESTFIELD, Mass. (AP)—There may be a shortage of civil defense volunteers, but Director William Bushmann says school students no longer will be allowed to man the Ground Observation Corps tower on the roof of the Westfield High School.

He said yesterday that instead of looking for airplanes, the student watchers;

1. Flew model airplanes.
2. Tampered with fire extinguishers.
3. Ran around the roof.
4. Watched football games on an adjoining field instead of the sky.
5. Displayed a fresh and argumentative attitude toward the school custodian.
6. Punched holes in the ceiling of the tower.
7. Drove staples into the walls.
8. Caused other damage to the interior of the tower.

Paper Plans Centennial

OWOSSO (AP)—The Owosso Press, one of the state's oldest newspapers, will celebrate its 100th birthday Monday with a centennial edition. Present and past employes of the paper will attend a special dinner.

J. Evans Campbell, president and publisher, and his brother George W. Campbell, treasurer, were honored Wednesday at a Kiwanis Club dinner. Paul A. Martin, editor and publisher of the Lansing State Journal, was the main speaker.

New York Silences Ambulance Sirens

NEW YORK (AP) — The hospitals commissioner has silenced the city's ambulance sirens effective Nov. 1 to cut down on noise and in the interest of safety.

Their wail is unnecessary, dangerous and "just spectacular stupidity," said Commissioner Basil C. MacLean.

However, police will continue to give ambulances right of way wherever possible, he said, and special red lights on the vehicles will continue in use to attract police attention.

There are only two species of living elephant, the African and the Indian.

Lutheran Plan Over 1st Hurdle

Delegates to Convention Reject Move to Scrap Central Church Control

TORONTO (AP)—A vast program for pyramiding controls within the United Lutheran Church in America was over its first major hurdle today. But the controversial plan faced extended debate in the 19th biennial convention under way here.

Convention delegates began considering the proposals point by point after blocking a move to scrap the whole plan for the time being.

Opposition to convention action on the program, described as "the most momentous in the history of the church," developed last night in a motion by the Rev. J. J. Scherer of Richmond, Va.

He advocated turning the entire 118-point plan back to a committee for another two-year study, declaring that on a matter "so vital," more time is needed to "study, think and pray."

But the Rev. W. Carl Satre, Toledo, Ohio, who heads the commission which drew up the plan and sent it to delegates two months ago, called this an effort to "stymie and gag the convention at the beginning."

* * *

Pastor Satre told delegates they would "be the most frustrated body of men and women in the world" if they had to go home and say they did not even discuss the proposals.

* * *

He said the program, aimed at laying down lines of supervision over the church's now-disconnected and independent agencies, put before the denomination the "most momentous" decision in its 36-year life.

The church has more than 2,150,000 members, chiefly in the United States but also in Canada. It is America's biggest Lutheran body.

Old Camden Ferry Shed Leveled in $100,000 Fire

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — The old Market Street ferry building, recently converted into a produce market and auction house, burned to the ground last night. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

The stubborn blaze, fanned by strong winds blowing in off the Delaware River, brought out virtually all of Camden's fire-fighting equipment and two fireboats from Philadelphia, across the river from Camden.

Uncle Dan Casts Eye on Summer Camp for Youths

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Dan Vinson, who has played Santa Claus with donated toys to millions of children the past five years, said today he is figuratively packing away his beard and red suit in favor of another philanthropic project.

Uncle Dan, as the 70-year-old asphalt salesman is affectionately known, has been making a little brighter the Christmases of children who would otherwise be forgotten.

* * *

Most of his efforts have been devoted to children of convicts who are unable to send presents home.

"I wasn't going to have anything to do with toys this year because I wanted to concentrate on a new summer camp," Vinson said today. "However, letters already have come in so I am going to send materials to prison chaplains and to police departments. They can carry on from there if they wish."

* * *

When Uncle Dan talks about his summer camp he gets a gleam in his eye. He has leased an old Indian boarding school and 150 acres of land at Colony in eastern Oklahoma. This year, he entertained about 500 underprivileged children.

Their reactions were so rewarding that next year Vinson expects to have about 5,000 from different parts of the country. There is no charge.

Ex-Red Director Indicted on Conspiracy Charge

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dr. Albert Emanuel Blumberg, former executive director of the Communist party in the United States, has been indicted on a charge of conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of the government by force and violence.

The special federal grand jury which returned the indictment yesterday said that Blumberg allegedly sought to achieve those aims "as speedily as circumstances would permit."

Convention-goer Getting to Know Hutchinson, Kan.

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)—Nels Greenlund figures it's nice having everything in one place.

Greenlund, manager of an Atchison investment firm, arrived Sunday to attend a convention of the Kansas Title Assn. Other delegates left when the meting ended, but Greenlund stayed on.

Tuesday he attended a meeting of the Kansas Society for Exceptional Children, which followed the title association session. That ended Tuesday evening, but Greenlund still didn't leave.

He's attending a session of the Kansas Assn. of Real Estate Boards, which convened yesterday and will run through Friday.

Philly DA Warns NAAWP Leader

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dist. Atty. Richardson Dilworth says he will order the arrest of Bryant Bowles, head of the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People, if Bowles trys to sponsor anti-integration meetings here.

Dilworth said yesterday that he had seen and heard Bowles claim on television that "he was coming here to do the same job he claims to have done in Milford, Del., Baltimore and Washington.

* * *

"I think Mr. Bowles should be notified right now that if he pursues the tactics in Philadelphia that he attempted in those other cities, I shall promptly issue an order for his arrest for inciting to riot . . . He will be given no opportunity to foul up racial relations in our city."

Bowles said on Tuesday that he was planning to hold a NAAWP organizational meeting here. He was in the city briefly and left without announcing further plans.

Obesity Is a Problem to Nation

Death Rate Goes Up in Proportion to Excess Weight

By TILLIE LEWIS
Written Expressly for International News Service

Back in the 18th Century Henry Giles wrote his views on obesity which, if recorded today for publication would start doctors everywhere reaching for their stethoscopes.

"There is something cordial in a fat man," he said. "Everybody likes him and he likes everybody. Food does a fat man good; it clings to him he swells nobly out and fills a generous space in life."

What this chronologer failed to note was that while a fat man "swells nobly out," he also will probably fill out his coffin much sooner than his thinner friends, according to published life insurance statistics.

Today, doctors call obesity the number one health problem of our nation, and can haul out statistics to prove it.

Between the ages of 20 and 64, overweight men have a death rate 50 per cent higher than their "normal" neighbors; overweight women pay for their poundage with a death rate 47 per cent higher. In other words, for both men and women, the death rate goes up like a kite in proportion to excess weight.

So there is far more than personal vanity behind the calorie-counting fad that is sweeping across the country. Doctors—and life insurance companies — are behind it one hundred per cent. That's why those of us in the food and beverage business are doing all we can to produce a variety of low-calorie foods and beverages and give them full flavor and sweet taste.

The secret behind the processing of low calorie foods is to substitute artificial sweetening for sugar wherever possible. In canned fruits, for example, yellow cling peaches in the usual heavy syrup pack have approximately 67 per cent more calories per can than those put up with artificial "sweetnin'"—and I defy you to tell the difference.

Bleu cheese diet dressing is produced by several food companies such as mine, with as much as 95 per cent fewer calories per serving than their higher-calorie counterpart.

Smartest Jewelry Is Kept Clean

The mature woman knows the importance of smart jewelry to complete her costume. And she usually has a good collection of costume necklaces, bracelets and earrings to suit every occasion and wardrobe need.

But, in order to be effective, costume jewelry must be kept in good condition. Jewelry pieces, like wardrobe items, should be rotated in order to get the maximum wear from each one.

If you insist upon wearing that same pair of silver earrings, for instance, both you and your "public" will soon grow tired of them.

And if they're the easiest to grab in the morning, it means that your jewelry box isn't as neat or as organized as it should be.

Most jewelry boxes have two shelves. Your earrings should go on the top shelves, with the necklaces, bracelets and pins on the bottom shelf.

To avoid tangling, close all bracelets, necklaces and pins. If the bottom layer of your jewelry box isn't sectioned, make small cardboard separators to separate the heavier, bulky jewelry from your more delicate pieces.

Pearls are often described as lustrous. Is your pearl jewelry as lustrous as it was when you bought it? If not, remind yourself to give it more frequent tubbings.

Place your pearl jewelry in a basin full of lukewarm suds and scrub it with a soft, sudsy brush. Wipe it dry with a fintless cloth.

A well-organized jewelry box makes for easy reaching and selection of that particular piece of jewelry needed to add "personality" to your costume.

Cornstarch Is Help

A little cornstarch or flour brushed over the strip of rubber around the refrigerator door after washing will make it last longer.

Here are two typical examples of Lilly Dache's "drop of a hat" collection designed to dramatize the coiffure. Left, a helmet of sable feathers follows the upswept lines of the hairdo. At right is a brown satin cap split in the maddle to show the chignon, worn well back to give full play to the softly waved hair.

Jam Sandwich Especially Good French-Toasted

Everyone will enjoy French toast made this special way.

French-Toast Jam Sandwiches

8 slices white bread
¼ cup black raspberry preserves
2 eggs
2 tablespoons sugar
½ cup milk
salt
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Spread four slices of the bread with the jam, using 1 tablespoon on each; top with matching slices and press together sandwich-style.

Beat eggs until yolks and whites are combined; add sugar, milk and a dash of salt; beat or stir until sugar is dissolved.

Place jam sandwiches in 9-inch square baking pan; pour milk mixture over them; turn once or twice so bread is evenly moistened on both sides.

Heat 2 tablespoons butter in 12-inch skillet; use wide spatula to put sandwiches in hot skillet.

Fry until golden-brown on both sides, adding remaining 1 tablespoon butter to skillet when you turn sandwiches carefully with spatula.

Roughen Surface for the New Paint

You can put a new coat of paint over an old paint job if the original paint is in good condition. But you'll have to roughen the surface so the new paint will stick.

To do this, wash the surface with a strong soap and water or with a thin paste solution of a scrubbing powder. Rinse well, and let it dry thoroughly—at least two days. Then give it a light sanding, dust it and start painting.

MR. and MRS. CARL D. BLOCKER

Married Saturday in St. Trinity Lutheran Church were Jean Jahn and Carl Blocker. She is the daughter of the Gustave Jahns of Filion and his parents are the Fred Blockers of LeGrande avenue.

Jean Jahn Is Wed Saturday

The Rev. Ralph Claus performed the 8 o'clock ceremony in St. Trinity Lutheran Church when Jean Jahn of Fairgrove avenue became the bride of Carl D. Blocker.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Jahn of Filion and his parents are the Fred Blockers of LeGrande avenue.

The bride wore a floor length gown of satin and Spanish lace which ended in a long train. A crown of seed pearls and sequins held her veil.

Mrs. Elfrieda Horetski of Port Austin was matron of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of dark green net with a lace bodice. She carried a bouquet of yellow rosebuds surrounded with chrysanthemums and carnations with yellow streamers.

John Blocker was best man.

A navy blue satin dress with navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations was chosen by the bride's mother for the ceremony. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue crepe dress with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The newlyweds are residing on Fairgrove avenue.

Tailor's Chalk Is Real Handy

If you are planning to alter a dress, it's a good idea to use tailor's chalk or a thread to mark the part to be ripped. Then, you're ready to clip the machine stitching between the places you plan to change.

Use a ripper or a pair of sharp scissors so you won't tear or stretch the material. To make your work neater, press the edges of the opened seams—taking care not to stretch the fabric.

Plan all the alterations very carefully and to be on the safe side, baste or pin the garment the way you want it before you cut.

Pontiac PTA Council Hears Debate on Conlin Bill

Two hundred members of the Pontiac Council of PTA heard J. Cecil Cox, assistant superintendent of Pontiac Schools and Theodore Wiersema, principal of Jefferson Junior High School, debate the merits of the Conlin bill which will appear on the November ballot for decision by the public, at Owen School Tuesday.

Mr. Cox traced the history of state aid to education, stating the percentage of sales tax revenue allocated to the schools by several amendments.

Mr. Wiersema, in presenting the argument against this bill, at the Tuesday meeting, stated that the removal of the collection fee and retirement fund would reduce the amount of money used for the schools to approximately the present level, and that increased enrollment would further lower the level per capita.

Mr. Cox in replying in favor of the bill, states that the present referendum diversion amendment collects the sales tax one year, appropriates it the second year, and pay it the following year, so that the time element is a problem.

Both men, however, thought this bill did not completely meet the present needs of education.

Several workshops were conducted with council representatives as conference chairmen.

Lester Stanley, principal of Hawthorne School, assisted by members of the school's Fathers' Group, discussed school problems and the fathers' help in school projects in sponsoring Father and Son or Daughter affairs. A future meeting of citywide PTA Fathers is planned for Nov. 4 at Hawthorne School.

Membership group met with Mrs. Jack Hodges. Juvenile Protection group displayed a collection of comic books, showing both acceptable and undesirable types, and stressing that parents should censor comics and encourage good reading habits.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Stephison and Mrs. Reon Baldwin as the council chairmen, also stressed the need for parents to volunteer as leaders of youth groups.

Josephine Seeley, school nurse, spoke to health chairmen. She was assisted by Mrs. George Wyman and Mrs. Paul Brown. Home Room Mothers met with Mrs. George Gray and Mrs. Leonard Saari.

Safety in the home was discussed by Glenn Husted, principal of Wilson school, assisted by Mrs. John Neaves. Bicycle safety and school and traffic safety were part of the general discussion.

Publicity chairmen met with Mrs. Lyle Dusenbury. A recommendation that each school support the scholarship fund was accepted by the assembly.

An organizational meeting for the High School PTA will be held Wednesday at 8 o'clock in the High School Auditorium.

Mrs. Orville Gauthier, librarian for the elementary schools, told of the allocation set aside for each pupil for school library use and asked assistance in repairing and processing the books now in use.

Social Worker Is Speaker

Oliva Viola, psychiatric social worker from the Child Guidance Clinic was guest speaker for the Monday meeting of Pontiac City Panhellenic. Mrs. Mahlon Benson Jr. was hostess in her Old Orchard drive home.

The speaker presented the basic functions of the clinic. She stressed the need for more hospital beds for mental patients, both child and adults.

She said that one of the clinic's aims is to overcome the problems in children which may lead to much more serious disorders sometimes impossible to cure in adulthood.

Mrs. W. Hudson Ragsdale read a letter of thanks from the Oakland County Infantile Paralysis Foundation for a donation in memory of Mrs. Harold B. Doremus, a charter member of the group.

Members of Pontiac Panhellenic decided to become voting members of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra Association.

Mrs. Richard Jackson will assist Mrs. Ralph W. Norvell, project chairman, with the purchase of a birthday gift for the Oakland County Children's Home for the month of October.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Norvell, Mrs. James F. Nye, Mrs. Jack Strait and Mrs. Donald Neal.

Men Improve Game of Golf for the Women

WASHINGTON (INS)—A lady golf champion maintains that the presence of men on the greenway improves a woman's game.

The observation comes from Capt. Lucille M. Busch, who recently won the Women's District Golf Championship at the Chevy Chase Country Club in Maryland.

The WAF, who describes herself as a "weekend golfer," spoke from past experiences with male opponents in "Two Ball Scotch Tourneys."

She readily admitted:

"Men normally play better golf than women. For one reason they can hit the ball farther."

But Capt. Busch, who has been dabbling in competitive golf for four years, found that male superiority in this case made for a happy relationship between the sexes.

"Women play better golf with men partners," she continued. "Their game is improved by the stiffer competition."

The new champ insisted that the more gallant members of the male species never ease up on their clubs to let their lady partner taste the joy of victory. Capt. Busch added:

"A lot of encouragement is all a gal can expect in mixed play."

And, according to the bachelor service woman, girls who look to the fairway as a setting for romance may just as well turn in their golf clubs. She laughed:

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. J. M.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily and lingers on and on because of its sachet base. The Chantilly fragrance really "clings" to you. I'm sure you'll love it! Get the original Liquid Skin Sachet, Chantilly by Houbigant, "the perfume that clings." Only $1.85 plus tax.

Mary Lou Kennedy Honored at Shower

Mary Lou Kennedy, bride-elect of Robert L. Overcashier, was honored Sunday at a miscellaneous shower given by her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Kennedy of Williams street.

Mary Lou is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rederstorf of East Beverly street and Robert is the son of Mrs. Frank A. Overcashier of Oxbow Lake and the late Mr. Overcashier. The couple will exchange their vows Saturday.

Cracked Eggs 'Foiled'

The best way to "foil" the aggravation of a cracked egg is to foil it tightly with a single thickness of aluminum foil to keep the white part from leaking out into the cooking water. A current magazine says that you should add a half-minute to your preferred time for soft-cooking, and cook the egg in the usual time if you want it hard.

Far from being silly, a goose is wise and wary, insofar as bird wisdom goes.

Dr. Whitmer to Explain Wever Plans

What are the plans for the conversion of Wever Junior High School to a neighborhood elementary school?

This will be the subject Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, Pontiac superintendent, will discuss this evening as guest speaker of the Wever Parent Teacher Student Association meeting.

To be held in the Wever school auditorium at 7:30, the parents from the Malkim, Hawthorne and Owen school areas are invited to attend this important meeting. The PTSA said that all interested people in the community are asked to come.

Glenn Griffin, president of the Pontiac Board of Education will also be on the program to explain about the proposed new junior high school plans which will allow the converting of Wever to an elementary unit.

British Columbia is larger than Texas by about 200,000 square miles.

Two New Comfort Devices for Baby End Those 3 A.M. Blues for Daddy

Pick a daddy—any daddy (particularly a new daddy) and ask him to talk about his fatherhood growing pains. Chances are the two most serious complaints will be something like these: 1. "Just can't get enough sleep." 2. 'Just can't get enough sleep."

Reasons? You wouldn't believe 'em (that is, unless you are a new father yourself). They talk about things like "testing"—testing to see what baby's unhappy about at 3 a.m. (when most sensible people are sleeping . . . and particularly when baby's just been fed.)

Is it the covers ..... too many or too few? Are the sheets wet, the nightclothes, the shirts, the blankets? Is baby too hot, too cold? Is he suffering from an occupational disease—diaper rash, heat rash, any rash? Are the windows open too much, too little? Are his legs caught in the crib bars? Is he tucked in too tight . . . not enough is he cramped? Poor papa must try everything—turning him, changing him, covering him, carrying him—hoping one test will do the trick!

Happily, fatherhood really doesn't have to be as dim as all that. Some smart fathers honestly never complain at all. Aside from feeding (which mama does anyway) lots of babies and fathers actually get a solid night's sleep every night.

How do they do it? No secret. One wise father in the no-sleep clan invented two clever little products that do everything a good father should do at 3 a. m.

These little wonders that work are called "sleepy-bye" and "sleepy-drye"—and here's what makes them practically "built-in babysitters." "Sleepy-bye" — a warm flannelette oversleeper—is worn over baby's nightie, pajamas or sleeper—no more blankets, no more colds from kicked-off covers.

Baby's own body heat stays right inside this roomy oversleeper—prevents him from becoming chilled or overheated. What's more baby's legs stay where they belong — no more tangling in the crib bars. And there's lots of wiggle room too. And just think—a quick zip up back or front and baby's tucked in for the night.

And what keeps baby dry? "Sleepy-drye" of course, worn right over baby's single or double diaper. This special little all-cotton diaper cover is really revolutionary! Completely water-repellent, washable, cool—"sleepy-drye" is the only diaper cover made with a triple-fabric water-repellent crotch—that means wetness is locked in the diaper—no wet beds and nightclothes, no endless crib changes.

Diaper rash? Never. "Sleepy-bye" has no hot plastic or rubber linings to make baby hot—it lets cooling air in, lets burning ammonia out.

Now—some tips on the quickest, easiest way to settle baby for the night (and to end daddy torture forever!) First, slip baby into shirt and diapers with "sleepy-dry" over tthe diapers. Pin baby's shirt to "sleepy-bye".

Next — nightclothes — whatever you prefer and depending on baby's age — sleepers or nighties for infants, pajamas for bigger babies. Last, zip baby into cozy "sleep-bye"—that's all. Baby can kick, play, move, turn —while daddy and mama rest knowing he's safe, comfortable, warm and dry.

Just an added plus—there's nothing quite as wonderful for playtime as "sleepy-bye" (older babies can actually walk in this oversleeper). Think of the clothes changes that saves!

Master the Technique of the Listener, Silence Can Work Wonders

Hang Pictures Straight ---Here's the Right Way

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

A picture must hang in exactly the right place. But there's more to picture-hanging than that. The hook and wire shouldn't show above the picture, and it should always be straight on the wall.

Here's how to plan picture-hanging so well that you're right the first time and need no extra holes in the wall.

First, cut a paper pattern the size of the picture and try it on the wall. Attach the pattern with Scotch tape to a painted wall or with pins if the wall is papered. Then, when the position seems right, make pencil dots on the wall to indicate where the picture hooks should go.

Two hooks, not one. Two hooks one near each outer edge of the picture, make sure it never needs straightening.

To find out where to make the dots, pull the picture wire taut and measure from it at the side to the bottom of the picture, as in the upper left sketch. Then locate dots on the pattern in the same position, and punch through these dots with the pencil to make the dots on the wall.

IF newest Paris madness—

Fur-lined fur coats—white ermine and black broadtail, Ocelot bordered with white fur. Try combining your old fur pieces.

Mrs. P. M.—Fur coats lined in fur are new this season. Two lightweight furs such as ermine and broadtail combine beautifully but there are many less expensive furs which are equally suitable for this combination.

Versatile Sour Cream Flavors Many Foods

Sour cream, whether you bought it or let it get that way, is not to be used just over raw vegetables.

Fold a little into salad dressings. Float a little on top of soups. Mix a lot into gravy for veal. Pour gobs of it over thin egg pancakes filled with applesauce.

Cut Radishes Into Fans

Chef's trick. Garnish steak or chops with watercress and radish fans. To make the fans, cut the roots away from the radishes but leave about 1 inch of their green tops. Then cut thin slices crosswise almost through the radish. Let the radishes stand in ice water in the refrigerator so they will spread out like a fan.

Check Size of Cord on Appliances

By HUBBARD COBB

One of the nicest things about living in this country is that when someone tells you that you should or should not do something, you can ask "why?" and expect a reasonable answer and then proceed to make up your own mind.

So, rather than just say that you shouldn't use long extension cords on heating appliances such as toasters, irons, space heaters, etc., we'll first tell you why.

When electricity flows through a wire it finds a certain amount of resistance which is about the same thing as friction. And like friction, resistance can be warm or even hot. The longer the wire that the current must flow through, the more resistance it will offer and the smaller the size of the wire, the more resistance it will offer the electricity.

When this resistance comes too high, the insulation on the wire begins to burn and pretty soon any inflammable object that is in contact with the wire begins to burn too, unless, of course, a fuse blows before things get too hot.

Now when you buy a heating type of electrical appliance, the cord that comes with it is the correct size wire and the correct length for what particular piece of equipment. When you go tacking on odds and ends of extension cords to get more length, you are not only reducing the efficiency of the appliance but you are also taking a chance that something might be set on fire or that someone might get a bad burn.

If the cord on a particular appliance is too short, take the unit to an electrician and have him install a longer and heavier cord or give him the number of watts required by the appliance so that he can supply you with the correct size cord which you can then install yourself.

Restaurant Tips Given by Writer

Man Stands Only if Woman or Elderly Gentleman Enters

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: When a man and woman are seated at a table in a restaurant, should the man rise and remain standing only when a woman comes over to the table, or does he do the same for a man?

Usually he rises only for a woman, but he would also show this courtesy to a really old gentleman.

Dear Mrs. Post: When my fiance and I sit in a restaurant booth should we sit across from each other or may we sit beside each other?

If the table is very narrow, you sit across from each other. If the table is wide and set for four people, you sit side by side.

Dear Mrs. Post: When a girl and a man are being shown to their table in a restaurant, and the man is waylaid by friends of his own who are unknown to the girl, what is she supposed to do?

She follows the waiter to the table and sits down.

Dear Mrs. Post: Often it happens that people from my office come into the same restaurant in the neighborhood and they will ask if they may sit at my table.

Away goes book or magazine and on comes boring conversation. But for the life of me I haven't been able to think of any polite escape. Is there one?

The only thing to do is to sit at a table that holds only one person or between strangers at a counter.

Dear Mrs. Post: Please explain about this situation: Husband and wife leave restaurant table, wife stops to talk with woman friends while husband continues toward door to pay check. Should he go back to meet her friends or wait at the door for her?

It is usual for him to wait for her to join him. Had he wanted to speak to these same people, he should have joined her on his way out, before paying the check.

Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening I was seated at a restaurant table with three other women when a friend of mine (whom the three women had met) stopped at the table and said a few words. Her husband was with her. Should he have been introduced, and by whom — his wife, or me?

Conversations in restaurants should be as inconspicuous and as brief as possible and, therefore, it was best not to introduce him, but to let them pass on quickly.

Dear Mrs. Post: My problem is whether it is proper to tip when eating at a lunch counter. I always thought that not having to leave a tip was one of the advantages of sitting at a counter.

If all you have is a 10 cent drink, it is not necessary to tip, but if you order food it is. You are not expected to leave as much at a counter, however, as you are when seated at a table with a tablecloth and receive attentive service.

Exciting news perfumewise this season is a new perfume atomizer. In appearance it's a delicate gold cylinder, completely leakproof (even in an airplane) and spillproof (even in the most active girl's handbag). No need to worry it will evaporate while standing on your dresser, or that in time its lovely fragrance will alter.

Tip for Jelly Makers

Jelly-making reminders: If you use liquid or powdered pectin (sold in grocery stores) to make jelly, add the amount of sugar and cook for exactly the number of minutes called for in the manufacturer's recipe. The yield is larger and less cooking time is required when you use commercial pectin.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

When you're finished with the newspaper you've been reading, carefully refold it before passing it on to some other member of the family, or an office colleague.

A badly-folded newspaper shows a lack of your consideration for others, and is almost guaranteed to put the recipient in an ill temper.

Temper Outbursts Not a Cure for Our Trouble

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

In retrospect, it seems like a rather personal question, but I'm glad all the same that the other day I suddenly asked Paul Kearney, author of many books and magazine articles, "Don't you and Claire ever fight?"

Claire is his wife and I've seen the two of them in all sorts of trying situations where the average husband begins to snap at the average wife and vice versa. The Kearneys have never raised their voices to each other when I've been present.

"We learned how to roll with the punches in the adjustment department," Paul answered thoughtfully, and then the story came out. The two met when they were both part of the adjustment department of a big watch company. The firm sold inexpensive watches and there were lots of complaints. Sometimes the customer was completely right and simply got a new watch. Then adjustment was easy.

"But often," explained Paul, "he was right as far as he went but he hadn't gone far enough. Then our job was to help him go the rest of the way — and still feel satisfied with the outcome.

"First rule is to let the dissatisfied person tell you his grievance. Your role is to listen sympathetically but not obsequiously, agree as far as you can but after that show him tactfully what he has failed to take into account."

It sounded easy but I signed gustily.

"I guess you two were just born reasonable and good-tempered," I decided with envy in my voice.

"No, no," insisted Paul, "I was not reasonable when I went to that job. It's a technique that you have to master, like any other. First of all you have to learn to keep your mouth shut and listen without showing a single sign of disagreement or temper."

Claire, who hadn't spoken up to now, murmured, "That's what he does that sometimes drives you nearly wild — he just goes silent and you can't make him speak!"

"Well, it's the best way," Paul assured us earnestly, "because then you don't say the wrong thing. If the other person has made you mad, you get a chance to cool off and think it out before you answer."

That seemed to me the moment to come to the heart of the matter: "But what if you're furious and can't hold it in?" I suggested.

"Ah, but you wouldn't last long in an adjustment department if you let yourself go like that," Paul chided. "If you need your job to live, you soon learn how to 'hold it in', as you put it. The trouble with the average attitude to marriage is that men and women believe they can get away with temper outbursts, outrageous and unfair statements, invective and the like.

The adjustment person is trained to recognize those for what they are — the outpouring of a mind temporarily off course. So you would no more get angry at the complainant than you would at a phonograph that played an insulting record.

"Because of our period in the adjustment department, Claire and I are able to keep silent, listen, wait and then be reasonable. You could learn this outside an adjustment department, but it would be harder."

Try Baking Eclairs

Want to try your hand at baking French eclairs? Use a standard recipe for cream puffs and drop the batter by spoonfuls onto a baking sheet. Then with a small knife or spatula, shape the batter into oblongs that are about 4 inches long and 1 inch wide. Make sure the eclairs are at least 2 inches apart from each other to allow for expansion during baking.

For Teenagers

Writer Defines a Term

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'm stumped. What do you consider necking? Holding hands? A boy driving with his arm around you? Putting his arm around you in the show? Kissing you once or twice in the show and good-night at home? Please tell me as I'm all mixed up and don't know where to draw the line."

Holding hands? No, that's not necking. That's just cozy and companionable — it's a warm, friendly keeping in touch to show awareness and pleasure in being near each other.

Driving with his arm around you? That's not necking because half the boy's mind is on driving the car. And half a mind and only one hand makes such driving downright dangerous.

Arm around you in the show? That's not necking either—there's too much light and too much audience. It's just uncomfortable. Unless he's much, much taller than you are, and you're happy sitting on the middle of your spine, the whole deal is awkward for you.

Not to mention annoying to the people behind you who have to try to see over and around two pairs of hunched shoulders, an extra arm and two heads close together.

This, together with kissing you in the show are sure signs you have no place to be alone together —and the only dates you have are in the show. Stealing a quick kiss is not necking. And a short good-night kiss as the door is by way of saying an affectionate "thank you" to some boy you like very much.

These random gestures of affection can hardly be considered necking. Necking is a combination of these gestures, prolonged for a time when you're quite alone. It's an activity that requires concentration and cooperation.

It sounds as though you have clearly drawn the line so far. But should you be bothered with more questions on the subject, why not send for my free booklet, Why Neck? You can have your copy by writing me for it, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Dear Miss Woodward: Our Junior High sponsors a Youth Center for teen-agers in the evening. My mother won't let me ride home from there with my boy friend even if my girl friends and kid brother go along. I'm 13 and my boy friend is 15 and he's a very good driver. Do you think mother is wrong or right?"

All that company along still doesn't convince your mother that she should let your boy friend have the responsibility of driving you home at night. She'd rather you all made it safely on foot, and so would I. You've a good 60 years or more ahead of you for cars. Can't you wait just a little longer?

What most people don't like about parallel parking is the noisy crash.

Books May Answer Many Questions

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Here are some questions which have come in my mail:

"My husband hates his job and wants to change, but before he does, he is anxious to get vocational tests.

"There are several testing agencies in a nearby city, but we don't know how to tell the good ones from the bad. How can we know?"

First, check at your library for the Handbook of the Vocational Guidance Association. It lists the accredited counseling agencies throughout the country.

Or you might check with the YMCA or YWCA, the Catholic Charities or the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies.

"My husband is very unhappy and blue, and it is affecting his work. He has been told that he needs psychotherapy, but we have very little money. Isn't psychotherapy awfully expensive?"

Your husband should have an honest talk with your family physician. If he really needs therapy, it can usually be worked out at not too great an expense.

Some hospitals have clinics, where he can be helped for very small fees. Also, some doctors practice group therapy, which is often very effective and usually less expensive.

But beware of quacks. Be sure your husband is advised by your own doctor.

"I'm all thumbs, when it comes to fixing up the house," another wife writes, "and I just don't have any flair for decorating. Moreover, we cannot afford a decorator on our budget.

"The other night after we had been entertaining my husband's boss and his wife, my husband blew up.

" 'Our house looks terrible,' he said, 'and you'll have to do something about it, or I'll never get ahead.'

"Is there any book that would give me some good ideas for simple and inexpensive things I could do to make the house look better?"

There are two that might help you—"Decorating on a Budget," by Elizabeth Ogg, and "Decorating is Fun!" by Dorothy Draper.

A Light Touch Works Best With Makeup

Keep a few make-up tricks in mind the next time you sit down at your dressing table. First, whatever type of make-up base you use, put it on with a light touch.

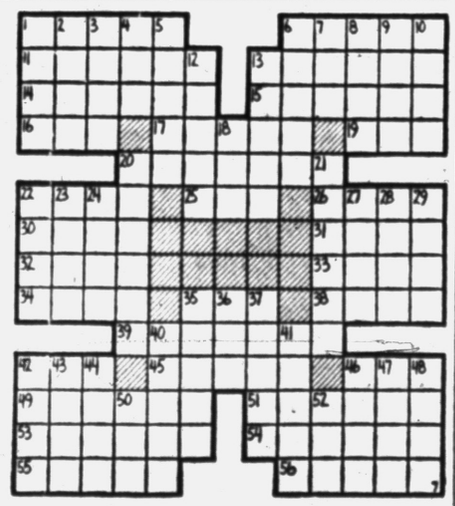

It's not meant to be a mask. Be sure to blend it well under your chin and on your neck so you don't have a "two-color" skin.

Make-up foundation can make "crow's feet"—wrinkles around your eyes less noticeable. Stretch the skin taut with your fingers and then, apply the base. This won't leave tiny, unfilled gullies on your skin, and the wrinkles won't show as much.

If you have a square, "determined-looking" jaw, try using a darker shade of make-up on that part of your face. Just be sure you blend the darker shade in with the rest of your make-up so the color difference doesn't stand out sharply.

On the other hand, if you want to make a receding chin seem larger, use a lighter base and powder on your chin to help bring it forward.

If you think your nose is too long, try a darker foundation and powder over the tip and flare of the nostrils.

FREDERICK C. ZIEM

Know Your Candidates

Ziem, O'Connell Opposed in Race for Prosecutor

This is the second of a series of articles on political candidates in Oakland County. Frederick C. Ziem, Republican incumbent, is opposed by Democrat Robert L. O'Connell for the office of prosecutor. Short biographies on the two men and their statements on how they will perform their duties follow:

Frederick C. Ziem

Incumbent Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem is seeking re-election for a second term.

Ziem, 38, of 2172 Garland Ave., Sylvan Lake, is a Republican.

A resident of Oakland County for 32 years, he graduated from Pontiac High School and received both A.B. and law degrees from the University of Michigan.

He served as assistant prosecutor in 1947, chief assistant prosecutor in 1950 and was named special prosecutor for the grand jury in 1951. He has also engaged in private law practice.

A World War II veteran, he is married and has two children. He is a member of the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church, the county and state bar assns., Masons, Elks, U. of M. athletic lettermen club and the Civitan Club.

He is a past commander of Jimmy Day Post 13 Amvets and the Pontiac Council of Veterans.

His statement:

"Without good, sound law enforcement there would be chaos. With the tremendous growth in the population of Oakland County, which trend promises to continue, it is vitally necessary that this county continue to have an experienced prosecuting attorney and a highly capable staff of assistants.

"I have served Oakland County continuously since Janury 1947 as an assistant prosecutor, chief assistant prosecutor and as prosecuting attorney.

Prior to 1947 I was engaged in the private practice of law both before and after World War II. I also served as special prosecutor of the grand jury in 1951.

"As a result of this experience, in which I have participated in the trial of almost every type of criminal case, I feel I have the experience, ability and temperament essential to carrying out the duties of this highly important office. I am also thoroughly familiar with all the problems facing a prosecutor in Oakland County.

"I will make no artificial campaign promises, but if re-elected, I pledge the following:

1. Vigorous and impartial prosecuting of criminals, never however losing sight of the protection of the rights of innocent persons.

2. Complete co-operation with the various other law enforcement agencies of the county, state and nation, and with juvenile authorities, without interfering in the operation of these other departments.

3. I will owe allegiance solely to the people of Oakland County with no obligations to any person, special group or faction."

Robert L. O'Connell

Currently engaged in private law practice, Robert L. O'Connell, 27, of 1587 Henrietta, Birmingham, is Democratic candidate for prosecutor.

Born in Huron County, O'Connell attended public schools in Owendale.

After 25 months of service during World War II, he began study toward a law degree at the University of Detroit, graduating in 1952.

He is married and has three children.

His statement:

"As prosecuting attorney of Oakland County, I shall prosecute fearlessly and impartially all racketeers, chiselers and law violators.

"I shall employ capable assistants on my staff, whose selection will be based solely upon their ability and willingness to serve the public.

"I shall establish a night release bureau in the prosecutor's office to permit minor law violators, or innocent persons who may be arrested, to obtain temporary freedom until court opens in the morning and a judge can pass upon their case.

"I shall utilize the reciprocal support law of this state to force deserting fathers and husbands, who flee to other states, to support their families in Michigan, and thus lighten the burden of taxpayers.

"I shall determine the issuance of every warrant on the merits of the individual case, without influence of political, religious or racial considerations.

"I shall require immediate preparation of every criminal case to avoid expensive delay of trial adjournments and to bring the guilty to the early determination of our system of justice and to release the innocent to their homes and families.

"I intend to give the sheriff of Oakland County and the police department of every municipality the kind of co-operation and leadership they seek in law enforcement.

"To this end, I shall urge consideration of a county morgue, where a trained medical pathologist can assist law enforcement officers in the detection of homicide by poison and other violent means."

Students Protest at Court Building

Capital Police Scatter Segregationists After Youth Defaces Steps

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of about 50 teenagers put on a brief demonstration against school integration at the Supreme Court Building today but police broke it up after one youth wrote in red crayon on the marble steps: "We want our rights."

The flurry at the high court, which ruled at the last term that racial segregatoin in public schools is unconstitutional, followed by a few hours the noisy breakup of a meeting called at one high school with the aim of ending strikes and disorders which broke out Monday.

Generally, however, the situation was quieter than it had been for the last two days during which strikes affected nine schools and some 2,800 high school and junior high school pupils missed classes.

Several of the young people at the Supreme Court said they were from Eastern High School where most of the classes appeared back to nearly normal today. Others said half a dozen schools were represented.

The group appeared to be made up about evenly of boys and girls.

Police permitted them to remain on the marble paved plaza until they noticed one boy writing his three inch red letters on the step.

Then Capt. Philip H. Crook of the Supreme Court Police Force ordered them away. Two boys who did not obey were gently lifted to their feet and told to get moving. They went.

Officials Sift Alleged Beating of Child, 3

Oakland County aurhotiries are investigating the possibility today that a three and one-half year old girl admitted to Pontiac General Hospital earlier this week may have been beaten, according to Fred C. Ziem, Oakland County prosecutor.

The child, Susan Olin, was brought to the hospital Tuesday night by her mother, Betty, of 2135 Pompey, Waterford Township. The girl is reported in good condition today with a concussion and multiple bruises.

A statement will be taken today from Mrs. Olin, Ziem said, to attempt to determine the cause of the child's injuries. Waterford Township Police are also investigating.

STRIKE CALL — R. O. Hughes, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, has ordered a nationwide strike, Oct. 19, against the Pullman Company. The walkout will hit all Pullman cars in the nation except hospital troop trains. The conductors are asking a five-cent hourly increase and a third week of vacation.

Car Registrar Goes to Bat for Women

BOSTON (AP)—Rudolph F. King, Massachusetts registrar of motor vehicles, has gone to bat for women motorists.

He said yesterday it would be "ridiculous" to compel women drivers to have higher compulsory auto insurance than men, based on the safety records.

"Not one woman has had to appear before me personally this year," he said. "My four hearing officers all say women drivers are definitely in the minority in the cases handled."

His statement followed a hint by ons state legislator that women drivers should pay higher auto insurance rates than men.

Man Waives Examination in Larceny From Building

George Wolfe, 30, of Wayne, is awaiting arraignment in Oakland County Circuit Court on a larceny from a building charge.

He waived examination on the charge yesterday before Farmington Justice Allen Ingle, and was jailed when he could not furnish a $500 bond.

Wolfe is charged with taking an electric range Oct. 4 from a new home at California and N. Golden Gate Sts. in Southfield Township, owned by Domonic Primo Jr. of 18657 James Cousins Hwy., Detroit.

Dockers Troop Back to Work

New York Waterfront Is Bustling Again After 2-Day Paralysis

NEW YORK (AP)—Some 25,000 longshoremen resume work today on the New York-New Jersey waterfront following a two-day strike which paralyzed the world's largest port.

The International Longshoremen's Assn. won its demand for immediate wage retroactivity but in turn agreed to a 45-day no-strike pledge pending contract negotiations with the employers, represented by the New York Shipping Assn.

After agreement yesterday, word came from ILA headquarters:

"It's 100 per cent sure everybody will be back to work tomorrow morning."

With but slight warning, the ILA pulled dockers off the piers at midnight Monday, insisting the employers grant an eight-cents-an-hour pay raise retroactive to Oct. 1, 1953, before anything was done about a new contract. The old pact expired on the 1953 date.

The employers wanted to include pay retroactivity in the terms of a new contract. Their yielding to the union demand will mean an average of about $200 back pay for the majority of longshoremen —a sum total of more than four million dollars.

Man in Good Condition Following Rochester Fight

Clarence Hudson, 33, of 3204 Warren Dr., Drayton Plains, is in good condition at Pontiac General Hospital early this morning following a fight on Main St. in Rochester. Rochester patrolmen Raymond Russell and William Woehl arrested Robert J. Miller, 22, 9598 Dartmouth Rd., Clarkston, charged with being disorderly. He is being held at Oakland County Jail.

Cause of the fight was undetermined.

Ex-Counterfeiter Claims He's Doing Better in Jail

MEXICO CITY (UP)—Jeronimo Alfaro Guiterrez was arrested after counterfeiting lottery tickets for 18 years. He was sent to the Mexico City Prison and became a prison baker.

Guitterrez said he was delighted and was making more money than he ever did counterfeiting.

This is the first time he's had enough money to support his wife and seven children, he said.

Office of Red Cross Is Closed by Death

The office of Oakland County Chapter of the American Red Cross was closed today after 2 p.m. because of the death of Mrs. Alice M. Subberra of Huntington Woods. Mrs. Subberra was a home service worker for the Southern Oakland County region of American Red Cross. She worked with the chapter for 15 years, six of which were spent in volunteer activities.

Normal office hours will be resumed Friday.

Detroit Drops Case of Missing Woman

DETROIT (AP) — Commissioner Edward S. Piggins said today Detroit Police would make no further inquiry into the seven-year-old disappearance of wealthy Mrs. Mary Eghigian.

Piggins supported deputy chief of detectives Marvin G. Lane in turning down a request for the investigation of Mrs. Eghigian by a son.

An investigation was asked by other relatives after a son petitioned court to have Mrs. Eghigian declared legally dead.

"If there is a case of foul play it is one for the Florida authorities, where she was last known to be," Lane said.

Policemen Face Assault Charge

Four Will Also Deny False Arrest Count at Trial Board Hearing

Four Pontiac policemen said they will deny charges of false arrest and assault and battery when confronted by a five-man trial board preliminary hearing tonight at 7:30.

The four officers, Detective Sgts. Donny Ashley and Herbert C. Cooley, and Patrolmen Hall B. Mercer and LeRoy Hartman Jr., are accused in a bill of complaint by Oliver Tademy, 49, of 268 W. Wilson Ave.

Tademy claims he was beaten Sept. 26, during an early morning raid on an illegal liquor place near his home.

Filed with the city clerk's office Sept. 29, the complaint was made known late Wednesday.

Citing a report by Sgt. Ashley, Acting Police Chief Clark M. Wheaton said the officers were forced to restrain Tademy when he became violent and started fighting with the policemen.

Treated at Pontiac General Hospital after the incident, Tademy later pleaded innocent before Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum to a drunk and disorderly charge and was released on bond pending his trial today.

Ashley said he would attempt to show at the hearing that the complaint action is the result of a "grudge" on the part of Tademy's attorney, Milton R. Henry with whom Ashley scuffled in Municipal Court two days after the raid.

Henry was booked on a disorderly charge following the scuffle, but further charges against him were dropped after a meeting of McCallum, Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan and police who said they took Henry's word that no further incidents would occur.

Two Men Are Arrested in Illegal Narcotics Probe

Robert Seay, 28, of 372 Ditmar St. and Joseph A. Cobb, 27, of 305 Rockwell Ave., are being held by Pontiac Police for investigation of illegal possession of narcotics today after their arrest in a poolroom at 168 Wessen St.

Detective Sgt. Donny Ashley of the vice squad said 18 heroine capsules were taken from Seay and 15 from Cobb. The 33 capsules are valued at $33.

Ashley added that Seay was placed on three year's probation in 1951 on a similar charge and has two more months to serve. Cobb, Ashley added, was arrested recently for investigation.

Pot Roast Perfect on Brisk Days

Take Advantage of Thrifty Beef

Combine Savory Meat With Fresh Vegetables for Hearty Meal

These are budget meat days for the housewife. Prices on lean, grass-fed beef, perfect for stews and pot roasts and all long-cooking beef dishes, are sliding down.

Take advantage of this buy in meat and serve the various cuts often.

Use also the many fresh vegetables now in season and combine them with bottom round or chuck in this tempting recipe.

Fresh Vegetables With Pot Roast

4 pounds bottom round or chuck roast
1 tablespoon shortening
Salt and ground black pepper
½ cup water
6-8 potatoes
6-8 carrots
6-8 onions or turnips
1 teaspoon salt

Brown roast on all sides in shortening in a heavy skillet or Dutch oven, sprinkling with salt and pepper while meat is browning.

Place meat in a tightly covered saucepan or leave it in the Dutch oven. Place a rack between the meat and bottom of the container. Add one-half cup water. Cover.

Simmer (DO NOT BOIL) until meat is tender, about 2½ hours. Add more water if necessary. One hour before meat has finished cooking, add the vegetables.

Sprinkle them with the 1 teaspoon salt. Cover tightly; simmer until tender.

Remove meat and vegetables to a warm platter. Thicken gravy with flour mixed to a paste with water. Use 1½ tablespoons flour and 2 tablespoons water to each cup broth left in pan. Cook to medium thickness.

Try using liquid poured off jar of sweet pickles with the water. Adds pungency and helps tenderize the beef.

Next time you are making meat loaf, add monosodium glutamate to the meat with the other seasonings. A half teaspoon will be enough for a pound and a half of beef.

LOW-COST POT ROAST—This basic pot roast and vegetable recipe makes a hearty meal for brisk days. Use the low-priced cuts of grass-fed beef now available. Surround the roast with vegetables of your choice and serve with rich brown gravy.

Gay Cookbook Explains Hungarian Culinary Art

The Hungarians must be a delightful people; their art is gay and colorful and their recipes imaginative.

A new cookbook that combines the best of Hungarian art with the best of Hungarian cookery is called, appropriately, "The Art of Hungarian Cooking."

Exceptional among cookbooks because of its drawings by the noted artist Willy Pogany, the book was co-authored by Pogany's sister, Paula Pogany Bennett, who supplied the recipes, and Velma R. Clark, who tested them.

Mrs. Bennett herself was born in Szeged, on the Great Plain of Hungary, so her introductory notes to each chapter, explaining Magyar food customs, are especially interesting.

Her chapter on fish, for example, explains the Hungarian love for fresh-water fish, which include perch, pike and carp, species familiar to Americans.

Here's her recipe for pike fillets with cream and horseradish. The National Fisheries Institute suggests fillets of cod, haddock or ocean perch for those who can't get the pike.

Pike with Cream and Horseradish (Csuka Tejfelesen Tormaval)

1 carrot, sliced
1 onion, chopped
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 cups water
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup heavy sweet or sour cream
2 pounds pike fillets
2 tablespoons freshly grated horseradish

Cook the vegetables in the water until they are soft. Remove, and strain liquid. Blend the salt, butter and flour; add the cream, then stir in the liquid strained from the vegetables.

Return to the heat and stir the sauce until it comes to a boil. Add the fish, and simmer for 20 minutes, or until fish is tender.

Remove the fish to a warm platter; spread with horseradish, and pour the sauce over it. Serve at once. Six servings.

Ham-Cheese Tidbits Go With Tomato Juice

These tidbits taste extra-special along with tomato juice for a first course:

Make up a package of pie mix and roll into a square about one-eighth-inch thick. Cut into 2-inch squares, fill with deviled ham or grated cheddar cheese, pinch together and bake in a hot oven until golden brown. Serve hot to an admiring audience!

Add a little lemon juice and sugar to tomato juice when you are serving it as a first course.

Use Apricot Preserves to Make Quick Sauce

You can make a quick sauce for plain cake or cottage pudding by heating a cup of apricot preserves with a little lemon rind and lemon juice. Top the dessert with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream.

This amount of sauce will make enough for four servings of cake or pudding. The sauce may also be used over baked custard.

Orange Shells Filled With Party-Pretty Slaw

Here's a party - pretty salad: Mix finely shredded crisp green cabbage with cubed orange and French dressing. Pile the salad into scooped - out orange halves and sprinkle with paprika.

The orange shells will be especially pretty if you scallop their edges with a sharp knife before filling with the slaw.

An aging population probably means there will be seven million persons with serious hearing impairment in the United States 50 years from now says the American Hearing Aid Assn.

Veal in Creamy Paprika Sauce

With paprika a popular seasoning for veal, here's a dish that combines bite-size veal cubes with a flavorsome paprika cream sauce.

Serve the paprika veal over rice. Add a crisp salad and a green vegetable to complete your main course.

Paprika Veal

1½ pounds veal shoulder, cut into 1½ inch cubes
3 tablespoons lard or bacon drippings
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
¼ cup water
Paprika sauce.

Brown veal cubes in lard or drippings. Season. Add water, cover closely and cook slowly 30 minutes. Cover with Paprika Sauce and continue cooking slowly 30 minutes more or until meat is tender. 4 to 6 servings.

Paprika Sauce

¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup flour
2 cups milk
Paprika
Salt
Pepper

Melt butter or margarine, add flour and mix well. Add milk gradually and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add paprika to color and salt and pepper to taste.

PEAR NUT SOUFFLE SALAD — This beautiful molded salad is autumn's version of the souffle salad. The "fast frost method" is the same as for all of these salads, but the fruits used are the rich, jewel-like ones of fall—in this case golden pears and pale green grapes.

Autumn's Jewel-like Glow Captured in Souffle Salad

If you've always liked the flavor of a ripe juicy pear you have a new taste thrill coming when you learn how much fresh pears, properly handled, can contribute to a molded fruit salad.

There's a trick to it—but an easy one—a "character-building" lemon juice and sugar bath for the freshly diced pear before combining it with the other ingredients of a wonderful fall fruit souffle salad.

Souffle salads, you'll remember, were first created about two years ago. Now several new ones have been designed to make use of the plentiful fruits of the autumn season and to add appeal to fall menus.

Pear Nut Souffle Salad

1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
½ cup cold water
½ cup real mayonnaise
¼ teaspoon salt
Juice of 1 lemon
2 teaspoons sugar
2 pears, peeled and diced
½ cup seedless grapes, halved
One 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
¼ cup chopped walnuts

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add cold water, real mayonnaise and salt. Blend with rotary beater. Pour into refrigerator freezing tray. Quick-chill in freezing unit (without changing control) 15 to 20 minutes, or until firm about 1 inch from edge but soft in center.

While mixture is chilling combine lemon juice and sugar and pour over diced pears. Turn chilled mixture into bowl and whip with rotary beater until fluffy.

Drain pears (discarding the lemon juice; and mix with grapes, cream cheese and 2 tablespoons nuts. Fold cheese mixture into whipped gelatin. Pour into 1-quart mold.

Chill until firm in refrigerator (not freezing unit) 30 to 60 minutes. Unmold and garnish with remaining walnuts. Serve on salad greens with additional grapes, if desired. Yield: Six servings.

Rice and Noodle Rings Can Add Color to Meal

Noodle rings and rice rings are fun, and can be colorful too.

Try using those nice green spinach noodles, rice tinged with saffron or quick-cooking rice cooked in tomato juice instead of water. All the tomato flavor stays put when MSG is added to the juice.

Choose Apples in Season and According to Needs

It is always wise to choose the variety of apples that are in season and best suited to your needs. Now our local markets have about five different varieties of apples available for consumer use, but the bulk of the apple crop is just beginning.

There are still Wealthy apples on many of the fruit counters, running at 3 pounds for 35 to 39 cents, but because they are past their prime, they are actually overly mature and too mealy for all general use.

The Wolf River apple, good as a baker, is in peak supply at the low cost of 3 or 4 pounds for 39 cents.

The favorite Red McIntosh apple, which is rated excellent for eating and sauce and very good for baking pies or for salads, has just begun to appear. Although they are fine for cooking, they are actually quite small, and in another week they will be more mature and of a better quality.

If they are purchased today, they will cost you from 39 to 44 cents for 3 pounds, and they should be allowed to mellow at room temperature (60 to 70 degrees F.) for several days, to enhance their flavor.

Both the Red Delicious, well known as an eating apple, and the Jonathan apple, excellent for all purposes, are in evidence on the market—but it is a little early for top quality. In a week the heaviest volume will appear and they will be in the best size of many years.

Apples can be bought pre-packaged in 2 to 3 pound bags, by the pound in bulk, or by the peck, bushel or box. Three apples of medium size weigh about 1 pound. The medium-sized apples actually cost less and are usually more economical to use.

Since approximately 30 per cent of all apples are either processed commercially or put into cold storage for sale during the winter and spring, it is good to know the comparison of the cost of apples bought fresh today for apple pie and those purchased in the can.

Remember that 1½ pounds yield 4 cups and are sufficient for a 9-inch pie, as well as that it takes about 3 cups of canned apples for a 9-inch pie, that 1½ pounds of fresh apples will cost approximately 20 cents today, and that 1½ No. 2 cans (3⅜ cups) will run around 44 cents (29 cents a can). This means that canned apples are more than double in cost—and not as good as the fresh ones, when they are in season. It's "Happy Apple Time"!

Casserole Makes Use of Leftover Roast Beef

Try this casserole if you have roast beef leftover.

Cut the meat into 2-inch squares and mix it with drained canned tomatoes and drained whole-kernel corn. Add a little basil and allspice and salt and pepper to taste. Bake, covered, in a moderate oven until hot.

Teatime treat: Make lengthwise cuts in the top of brown-and-serve rolls; insert a piece of cheese and one of partly-cooked bacon in each cut. Brush the tops of the rolls with melted butter or margarine, sprinkle with paprika and bake according to package directions.

Make Date Pie With Buttermilk

Originally a byproduct of butter making, buttermilk is a pleasure drink for year 'round refreshment. It is the most commonly available fermented milk in the United States.

When made from sweet cream, the buttermilk is similar in flavor to skim milk. Made from sour cream, the resulting buttermilk is sour in flavor.

The buttermilk most commonly sold in today's markets is produced artificially—the milk being soured under special controls. Smooth and mildly acid in flavor, cultured buttermilk is the fermentation product of skimmed or partially skimmed milk.

Sometimes either milk or cream is added to improve the flavor. Therefore, the butterfat content of these milks may vary between 0.1 and 1.5 per cent.

Keep this welcome member of the dairy family on hand all the time to add interest and good food value to your cooking.

Buttermilk-Date Pie

1 cup sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
½ teaspoon each nutmeg and cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
2½ cups buttermilk
2 eggs, separated
½ cup chopped dates
1 nine-inch baked pastry shell

Combine sugar, cornstarch, spices and salt in medium-sized saucepan. Gradually stir in buttermilk and egg yolks, beaten. Add dates.

Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils one minute; pour into pastry shell; chill well.

Serve with topping of whipped cream or meringue made of two egg whites (left from filling) and one-fourth cup sugar. Makes one nine-inch pie.

BUTTERMILK-DATE PIE — Picture this dessert on your dinner table tonight. It's wonderful Buttermilk-Date Pie, with a flavor that's out of this world. Wholesome and nourishing to eat, so simple to make, here's a pie to add to your list of favorites.

For Weight-Watchers

Is powdered cream less fattening? Yes, one serving (a teaspoonful) contains only 12 to 15 calories. One serving of coffee cream contains 25 to 30 calories. So when you use powdered cream in your coffee, you are cutting down on calories—up to 18 calories less in every cup of coffee you drink.

Sardine Snacks Delight Nibblers

Of all the fish in the Atlantic Ocean, sea herring are the most plentiful. And, according to the National Fisheries Institute, most Atlantic herring are caught when very small, 3 to 4 inches long, and packed as Maine sardines. (California sardines, by the way, are pilchards; those imported from the Scandinavian countries are bristling and sprat.)

Large Atlantic herring are smoked, the youngest (just past the sardine size) being processed as "smoked boneless herring."

Most Maine sardines are packed in oil or in tomato and mustard sauces. Regardless of how they are packed, they make delicious snack fare, whether eaten cold right out of the can, or broiled in one of these ways:

Broiled Sardines On Mustard Toast

Drain two 3¼-ounce cans Maine sardines. Toast bread triangles on one side. Spread the other side with prepared mustard. Place a sardine on the mustard side of each triangle and broil about five minutes.

If desired, broil tomato slices seasoned with salt and pepper at the same time. Serve with dill pickles. Makes six servings.

Mashed Sardine Canapes

Drain two 3¼-ounce cans Maine sardines and mash. Add one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon chili sauce, 1 tablespoon finely chopped olives or pickles. Add enough mayonnaise to make the mixture spread easily. Season with salt and pepper to taste.

Spread on crackers or melba toast, or use as a dip for potato chips or celery strips. Makes six servings.

For Gourmet Cereal

Cereals for connoisseurs: Follow directions given on label for cooking cereal. Before adding cereal to water, mix 1 tablespoon powdered cream with each cup cereal. Serve as usual.

Good eating for Sunday brunch: Corn fritters, made from a can of drained whole-kernel corn, served with crisp bacon and maple syrup.

For Luxury on a Budget Prepare Broiled Chicken

Looking for an easy and economical way to serve chicken? Smart, economy-wise cooks know that broilers are now more plentiful and lower in price than they've been in a long time.

If you have never tried broiling chicken, here is your opportunity to discover how easy it is to serve your family luxury meals on an everyday budget.

The best chicken for broiling is a plump, young bird 8 to 12 weeks old which weighs not more than 2½ pounds dressed.

The smaller broilers may be split down the back only and cooked whole, while larger birds are easier to handle when cut into halves. The chicken will be easier to manage on the plate if you break the joints and remove the wing tips.

Before cooking, the chicken should be wiped dry, coated with melted fat and sprinkled lightly with salt and pepper. A light sprinkling of flour is optional, depending upon the preference of the individual cook.

Turn the skin side of the bird away from the heat and start to broil with a very moderate heat, keeping the meat several inches away from the flame or heating element.

As the chicken browns, turn it over several times and baste frequently with drippings of melted fat. It takes 35 to 45 minutes to broil a 2-pound chicken (dressed weight) with a moderate heat.

Some cooks may find it more convenient to start the chicken in the broiler and finish it in a moderate oven (300 to 350); others prefer to start the bird in the oven and finish it in the broiler.

Tuna Takes On Oriental Flavor

Even during the most stifling heat wave a steady diet of summer salads and other chilled foods can become monotonous, so plan on serving a hot meal now and then.

Tempt your family with Tientsin Tuna on Fried Egg Noodles. Flavorful canned tuna and vegetables are combined to make a sauce to top fine egg noodles which have been given extra flavor by frying in deep fat.

Tientsin Tuna on Fried Egg Noodles

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ pound fresh mushrooms, cleaned and sliced
2 cups boiling water
1 cup coarsely chopped celery
1 cup sliced onions
2 tablespoons cornstarch
⅓ cup cold water
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 canned pimientos, coarsely diced
1 medium-sized green pepper, coarsely diced
1 7-ounce can solid-pack tuna, drained
⅓ cup coarsely chopped sweet mixed pickles
8 ounces fine egg noodles (about 4 cups)
Fat
Salt to taste

Melt butter or margarine and add mushrooms; cook over medium heat until mushrooms are tender and lightly browned. Add boiling water, celery and onions; cover and cook over low heat until vegetables are tender.

Combine cornstarch, cold water and soy sauce; mix well and add to vegetable mixture. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add pimientos and green pepper.

Break tuna into pieces with a fork; add tuna and pickles to vegetable mixture and heat to serving temperature.

Cook uncooked noodles in hot deep fat (350 degrees) 5 to 8 minutes, or until lightly browned and crisp; drain on absorbent paper and sprinkle with salt.

Serve tuna over noodles. Makes 4-6 servings.

TIENTSIN TUNA—That versatile, pantry shelf food, canned tuna, is your standby for summer meals. This Oriental-type version of a tuna main dish is served on very fine noodles that you fry in deep fat to crispy, crunchy goodness. Add a fruit dessert for a delicious luncheon menu.

Grease Pans Lightly When Baking Cookies

Did you know---

Cookies are baked on very lightly greased pans to prevent excessive browning. Too much shortening on the pan also causes the cookies to spread.

If you use an electric mixer, turn to low speed when adding flour.

Better not store several types of cookies in the same container. They change flavors.

Warm Puddings Provide Ideal Climax to Fall Meals

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Although our family is not one for eating many puddings, I am always tempted at this season of the year to serve a hot one occasionally for dessert. Somehow the turning of the leaves makes me think of more substantial dishes as a meal climax.

One favorite warm dessert — though not strictly a pudding—is gingerbread just out of the oven, so tender that we can hardly cut it in squares.

You may make a pudding out of gingerbread, just as you may out of any plain cake, by serving it with a sauce. For gingerbread, hard sauce, lemon sauce or whipped cream make delicious toppings.

If you are preparing an oven meal, it is an easy matter to slip a pudding in with the other dishes and have the dessert ready at just the right time.

Fresh pear upside-down cake is a recipe to use in that way.

Fresh Pear Upside-Down Cake

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup brown sugar
1 large fresh pear
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
⅓ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs separated
½ cup ready-to-eat bran
1½ cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk

Combine butter and sugar in 10x6-inch pan; cook over low heat until butter melts. Spread evenly over bottom of pan.

Pare fruit and cut into slices lengthwise. Remove core. Arrange slices in bottom of pan; sprinkle with nutmeg.

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg yolks and beat well. Stir in bran. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; add to bran mixture alternately with milk, stirring until blended. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; fold into batter.

Spread over pears and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 40 minutes. Cut into squares and serve plain or with whipped cream. Makes six servings.

Pudding should be chosen to complement the rest of the meal. If a starchy dessert is on the menu, a lighter meal should precede it.

One high in eggs means that less protein is needed in the main course. It's only a matter of planning the entire meal as a unit.

With apples in such abundance at this season, try this quick applesauce pudding. Fold marshmallows into hot applesauce and serve at once. It makes a light, frothy pudding with a delicate flavor.

When I was a little girl my grandmother made a dessert called Minute Pudding. She never wrote down the directions and the recipe died with her.

This summer I came across the same Minute Pudding in the Yankee Cookbook. Perhaps some of you have memories of this pudding and would like to have the recipe.

Minute Pudding

3 cups milk
1 cup cold milk
¾ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt

Scald the 3 cups of milk and pour over a mixture of the cold milk blended with the flour and salt. Cook in a double boiler for 20 minutes. Serve with syrup or honey. Makes six-eight servings.

Fall Pie Combines Fruits of the Gods

Among ancient peoples, both the apple and the cranberry were held to be sacred fruits, the former by Aphrodite and the latter by the Druids.

Little wonder, then, that modern pastry chefs have seen fit to combine both in a heavenly creation.

A current magazine presents this ambrosial combination in a plump and colorful pie.

Harvest Cranberry Pie

2 cups fresh cranberries
2 apples, pared, cored, and diced (about 2 cups)
1½ cups sugar
3 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
Grated rind ½ lemon
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Pie pastry

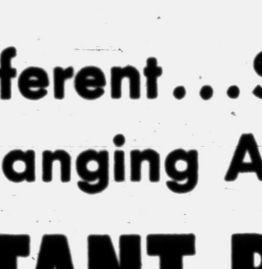

Combine cranberries, apples, sugar, flour, salt and lemon rind; fill pastry-lined 9-inch pie plate; dot with butter or margarine; top with crisscross pastry strips.

Bake in very hot oven (425) 35 to 45 minutes, or until golden-brown.

When you are unmolding baked custard, run a sharp-pointed knife around the sides of the custard cups to loosen before turning out.

It is almost 93 million miles from the earth to the sun.

Do Try Lima Beans Fixed Southern Style

Do try this flavorsome Southern way of preparing green lima beans with tomatoes.

Emmie's Lima Beans & Tomatoes

3 medium-sized tomatoes (about 1 pound)
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon minced onion
One 10-ounce package frozen lima beans
2 tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Dip tomatoes into boiling water for 1 minute or until skins can be peeled off easily or wet a tomato, insert a fork in the stem end and rotate over gas burner until skin begins to burst and can be peeled off easily. Dice tomatoes into 1½ quart saucepan. Stir in salt, sugar, pepper and onion. Cover and simmer until mushy — 5 to 7 minutes; stir a few times. Add lima beans, bring to a boil quickly; lower heat and simmer until beans are tender. Mix cornstarch with water until smooth; add to lima beans and tomatoes, stirring constantly until thick. Stir in butter and parsley. Serve at once. Makes 4 generous servings.

Ever try adding finely diced raw celery and French dressing to peanut butter for sandwich filling?

CREAMY SCRABBLE FUDGE—A B C simple—this Creamy Scrabble Fudge, made of candy-making chocolate, is designed to delight the school child and the rest of the family as well. Make up a batch and we'll vow you won't have it around much longer than it takes to play a game of Scrabble.

Scrabble Fudge Will Be as Popular as the Game

Yes, this Creamy Scrabble Fudge is destined to become as popular as the game for which it is named.

It is very little trouble to form the letters on each square of fudge by putting white frosting through a paper cornucopia, or a pastry tube, if you have one.

So here goes for the next game of Scrabble and for a sweet chocolate treat that's hard to beat!

Creamy Scrabble Fudge

2 squares candy-making chocolate
⅓ cup water
⅓ cup evaporated milk
1 cup granulated sugar
⅓ cup firmly packed brown sugar
Dash of salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup broken nuts
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar (about)
½ egg white

Add chocolate to water and milk and place over low heat. Cook and stir until mixture is smooth and blended. Add sugars and salt and stir until sugars are dissolved and mixture boils.

Continue boiling, without stirring, until a small amount of mixture forms a very soft ball in cold water (or to a temperature of 232).

Remove from heat and add butter. Cool to lukewarm (110) and add vanilla.

Then beat until mixture begins to thicken; add nuts and continue beating only until mixture loses its gloss. Turn at once into greased 8x4-inch pan. Cool until firm. Cut in squares.

Add half of the confectioners' sugar to egg white and beat well. Then add remaining sugar gradually, beating well after each addition, until mixture is stiff enough to use for decorating.

With a paper cornucopia and this frosting, print a letter of the alphabet on each square of fudge to resemble the letter squares used in the game Scrabble. Makes 18 large pieces of fudge.

Shelling shrimp isn't as bad as it used to be, now that we have those handy new gadgets. The shell lifts off quite easily and the vein is removed all at once.

American Pimientos Are Thick-Meated and Smooth

Columbus discovered red pimientos (a type of sweet pepper) in the new world and took seeds back to Spain.

Up to 1920, we imported all the pimientos we used in salads and from Spain.

But less than 20 years ago, a farmer in Georgia began growing them from imported seeds and the Georgia Experiment Station improved this American strain.

Now we have our American variety, smooth, heart-shaped, thick-meated, which is sold in jars and cans at all grocers.

The pimiento canners suggest these recipes:

Stuffed Pimientos

One 7-ounce jar or can whole red pimientos
1 can tuna
1 can mushroom soup
Paprika
½ cup chopped olives
¾ cup bread crumbs

Mix soup, tuna, olives and one-half cup bread crumbs. Stuff pimienotos and place in buttered baking dish.

Sprinkle with rest of bread crumbs, dot with butter and bake 20 minutes at 450 degrees (hot oven).

Pimiento-Chicken Loaf

1½ cups cooked chicken, chopped
2 whole pimientos, chopped
2 whole pimientos, in strips
1 egg, well beaten
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup evaporated milk, scalded
1½ cups mashed potatoes
¼ teaspoon paprika

Add well-beaten egg, salt and scalded milk to mashed potatoes. Add chicken, chopped pimientos and paprika.

Turn into greased baking dish and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until top is browned.

Garnish with pimiento strips. Makes six servings.

Pimiento Sandwiches

Spread slices of bread, plain or toasted, with mayonnaise or butter.

Place lettuce leaves on one slice and top with whole pimientos from the jar or can. Pimientos on the shelf are always in season.

Precooked Fish Is Time-Saver

The popularity of fish sticks is phenomenal, reports the National Fisheries Institute. The demand is so great that more than 60 companies are making these oblong-shaped pieces of tender-meated fish, mostly precooked and breaded, although some sticks are breaded but not cooked.

Each ten-ounce package contains ten sticks, enough for three servings. And since you have to heat your oven for the sticks, you might plan an entire oven meal, like this:

Fish Sticks Oven Meal

On a large baking sheet, arrange fish sticks from frozen package, slices of cooked sweet potatoes (either canned or fresh) and thick tomato slices.

The fish sticks need no further preparation. Drizzle melted butter and honey over potato slices and season tomatoes with salt and pepper and dot with butter. Bake at 425 for 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

FISH STICKS OVEN MEAL—Fifteen or twenty minutes after you have put this oven meal in to bake you will be sitting down to a delicious dinner of fish sticks, sweet potatoes and tomatoes. Both your kitchen and your disposition will remain cool.

Meat-Cooking Short Cuts Save Time, Pennies

Short cuts with economy meat dishes save energy and pennies for the busy homemaker:

Save time by cooking enough for two meals. Pot roast may be served cold, sliced or in sandwiches.

Stew is actually improved by an overnight stay in the refrigerator. Reheat it in the oven with a cover of mashed potatoes and you'll have a Shepherd's Pie.

Leftover braised beef may easily become Beefsteak Pie. Add potatoes and gravy and top with rich pastry.

The pressure cooker may be used for braising and stewing. Before cooking, brown meat slowly in hot fat.

Use a rack for pot roast to prevent water-cooked flavor, brown again in broiler if you like. You can have a pot roast with vegetables in less than an hour, Swiss steak in 30 minutes.

Sprinkle with Cheese

Next time you make a puffy omelet, sprinkle it with grated Parmesan cheese before folding. Or fill it with sliced onions and mushrooms cooked lightly in butter. Serve either of these omelets with a tossed green salad and crusty rolls for lunch.

Blueberry Cake With Oranges Is Quite Special

This combination of blueberries and orange is something extra-special!

Blueberry & Orange Cake Dessert

2 medium-size oranges
1 cup blueberries (picked over and washed and drained)
2 tablespoons water
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Salt
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
One-half of an 8-inch square white cake
½ cup heavy cream

Grate rind from orange so you will have ½ teaspoonful. Peel oranges, removing all white membrane; cut sections away from dividing membranes into small bowl; allow juice to drop into bowl and squeeze membranes to extract juice; add orange rind.

Heat blueberries and water in 1 or 1½-quart saucepan quickly, stirring often; simmer a few minutes. Mix sugar, cornstarch and a dash of salt together thoroughly. Slowly stir into blueberries; cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until thickened. Remove from heat; stir in butter until melted, then orange sections with their juice.

Spoon between and over split cake squares; top with whipped cream that has been sweetened and flavored with vanilla. Makes 6 servings.

Minnesota, North and South Dakota produce about four-fifths of the United States crop of flax seed.

Homemade Soup Boasts Inimitable Flavor, Aroma

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Where grandma kept the soup pot simmering on the back of the stove, her granddaughters open a car or two of perfectly prepared condensed soups and turn out masterpieces in no time at all. However, we feel that good as canned soups are, they lack a certain something homemade soup has.

If your mother ever made vegetable soup, you will remember the tantalizing fragrance that hit you the minute you stepped in the house.

You will also remember that when the soup was served it contained small pieces of tenderly cooked vegetables, cubes of meat from the soup bone and perhaps some rice or barley. It was nearly a meal in itself.

We can duplicate that soup for our families without too much trouble. We don't have the coal range on which to simmer the kettle all day. But we have electric roasters, electric bean pots, Dutch ovens, or just a deep pan. The only thing we must have is time.

You can make vegetarian vegetable soup; but meat adds so much to the flavor. Although the butcher no longer throws a soup bone in "for free", it won't break you if you buy one.

You can use the remnants of a roast, provided it isn't pork or lamb. In a pinch, toss in several beef bouillon cubes before you serve the soup.

Here's a tried and true recipe for the kind of vegetable soup mother used to make:

Vegetable Soup

1½ pounds shin of beef
2 quarts cold water
Bouquet garni (mixed herbs tied in cheesecloth
½ cup carrots
½ cup snap beans
½ cup lima beans
½ cup onion
½ cup cabbage
½ cup celery
½ cup shelled peas
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

The amounts and varieties of vegetables may vary according to taste and season. Add tomatoes if desired.

Wash the meat, place in a pan with the water and add the bouquet garni. Bring slowly to boiling point, skim and simmer until the meat falls from the bones, about three hours.

Strain, add the vegetables, all diced to about the size of the peas. Simmer until the vegetables are tender but not broken.

If desired, some of the meat may be diced and added to the soup. Season and serve with grated Parmesan cheese and crusty bread. Makes six-eight servings.

One of our readers, Mrs. Edward Galpin, calls us whenever she has found an unusual recipe she thinks we would like. We wish more readers would do this.

Mrs. Galpin likes to experiment with foreign recipes and found today's soup recipe in an Italian cookbook. In translation it is called "Cooked Water."

Cooked Water

3-4 onions
2-3 stalks celery
3-4 tomatoes
3 sweet green peppers
Slices of bread
Salt and pepper
Eggs

Chop or slice the vegetables fine. Brown lightly in cooking oil, using a skillet. Add hot water to make a soup of thick consistency.

Simmer until vegetables are tender. Season to taste.

Brush slices of bread with beaten egg. Place one slice in each soup dish. Pour the thick, hot soup over the bread.

More menhaden are caught on the south Atlantic and Gulf coasts than all other fin fishes combined.

Threatens Court Action for Big House on Lawn

CHICOPEE, Mass., (AP)—James J. Gloster says he barely can get into his home because somebody left a two-family house on his front lawn.

Police investigating Gloster's complaint yesterday found construction men were moving the house as soon as possible but he declared: "I'm not going to let them move it now. I'm bringing court action against them for trespassing."

Utah produced 6,390,000 tons of coal in 1953.

ALL-AROUND MAN — When Brig. Gen. Frank Dorn retired from the Army, he thought he'd settle down in California and write. After he settled down, another general advised him to forget about writing and take up painting. Dorn took the advice and now is one of the most promising artists on the West Coast. He and President Eisenhower are the only two U. S. generals ever to hold one-man art shows.

Director Ferrer Tries New Way of Shooting Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jose Ferrer, that man of many trades and master of most, is taking a whirl at directing his first movie.

Puerto Rico-born Ferrer is starring in and directing "The Shrike," which he also starred in, directed and produced on Broadway. I dropped in on his set to see how he is coming along.

I found the balding, energetic actor pacing down a ward representing Bellevue Hospital in New York. There were no lights or cameras, because he was spending the day in rehearsals. The inmates of the psychiatric ward looked unfamiliar, having been imported en masse from the Broadway cast.

Ferrer had them run through a few lines, then halted the proceedings and conferred with cameraman Bill Daniels on camera angles for the scene. Throughout the rehearsal, dialogue director Leon Charles stood in Ferrer's place and read his lines. While giving directions, Ferrer referred to Charles as "me."

Ferrer, who wore grey slacks, pale yellow sports shirt, dark blue sleeveless sweater and a light blue scarf around his neck, was all over the set. He moved the actors like chessmen, conferred with script writer Ketti Frings and sought advice from technical adviser Alice Riddell, a pretty nurse from Los Angeles General Hospital.

• • •

"Well, this is a psychiatric ward," Ferrer explained, "and you all have some reason for being here. Some of you are overly nervous, others are more serious."

When the company broke for lunch, Ferrer told me how he is filming the picture. He takes one sequence and rehearses it for a day or two. Then the entire crew is assembled and the sequence is filmed. Ferrer moves on to another rehearsal.

Although this method seems costly, it actually saves money, Ferrer declared. Actors who appear in one sequence only can be disposed of, instead of keeping them on salary throughout the filming. And the shooting moves much faster, because the action has been well rehearsed and the camera angles doped out in advance.

Mala Powers to Quit Screen for Wifely Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Mala Powers says she's giving up the screen for the life of a real estate man's wife.

Miss Powers, 22, yesterday announced that she will wed Monte Vanton, 36, next Tuesday. It will be the first marriage for both.

Their romance started, they said, when Vanton sold Miss Powers a home last year. She said her latest picture will be her last.

Condition of Tennessee Politico Is Still Critical

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The condition of E. H. Crump, head of the Shelby County political organization, remained critical today. He continued to receive oxygen at intervals at his home here.

The 80-year-old ailing political leader suffered a relapse yesterday after he had been reported improving.

Crump's physician said he has a severe heart disease.

Seaway Effect Studied

DETROIT (AP)—Paul M. Reid, planning analyst for the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission, Wednesday told the Governor's Seaway Commission completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway will not mean radical changes for Detroit. Reid said commerce handled by the port of Detroit is conditioned by the range and magnitude of local manufacturing activities.

Fire Burns Fuel Stocks

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—A roaring fire destroyed 62,000 gallons of gasoline, kerosene, diesel fuel and tractor distillate at a Lion Oil Co. bulk station here yesterday. Five storage tanks and two buildings were also wiped out.

Vice City 'Czar' Gets Life Term

Jury Finds Gambler Guilty of Slaying Man in Phenix City in 1950

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP)—A jury struck a blow at Phenix City's tottering empire of crime last night with a life sentence verdict against the first gambler brought to trial during the wholesale vice cleanup here.

Night club owner E. L. Cook, who readily admitted killing one man and wounding two others in a wild outburst of gunplay at his honkytonk four years ago, was convicted of first-degree murder.

* * *

Cook, denounced by state attorneys as a "czar of vice and crime," had gone unprosecuted until the crackdown on racketeering began 15 weeks ago.

A grand jury had refused to indict him shortly after the killing and he went free until the investigation was reopened by state authorities directing the current vice cleanup.

* * *

The 40-year-old Cook, whose notorious 601 Club on Phenix City's once roaring Dillingham Street featured unrestrained gambling 24 hours a day seven days a week, took the verdict quietly but his attractive brunette wife screamed, "Oh no!" and sobbed hysterically that "God will punish them for this."

Roy Smith of Phenix City, one of the defendant's four attorneys, said he expected to file a motion for a new trial.

* * *

Cook, testifying in his own behalf yesterday, talked freely about killing taxicab driver John Mancil and critically wounding his uncle, William Calvert Rogers, during an argument in the 601 Club Aug. 6, 1950.

Cook claimed self-defense in the killing, insisting that Rogers drew a knife on him and that Mancil came at him with a chair.

Autumn Colors Michigan, but Rain Blurs the Views

LANSING (UP)—The beginning of Michigan's colorful autumn season brought tips on sightseeing today from conservation and tourist officials—and predictions for more cold, rainy weather from the U. S. Weather Bureau.

But when the clouds lift, these areas are expected to be cloaked in their fall best:

The Leelanau Peninsula and the Lake Michigan shoreline from Traverse City north; southwest public area and the Barry County state game area, and the hills north of West Branch and Oscoda.

Color comes late and holds a long time in the oak ridges and hardwood forests near Grayling, conservation workers said.

The peak of scenic color is often delayed a week or more by water along the Great Lakes shores.

For best sightseeing results, park officials advise sticking to streams, lakeshores and high spots.

Meanwhile, rain is bringing disappointment to Michigan hunters and farmers.

Heavy rains caused excessive damage to unharvested beans and soggy soil is slowing silo-filling and other farm operations.

The same light frosts that brought out color for sightseerers last week killed leaves on some crops and speeded maturity on others.

This week's rainy weather brings best news to state forest firefighters. The fire danger, usually high at this time because of the invasion of hunters into woodlands and the "curing" of foliage, is "greatly reduced," conservation authorities report.

Thieves Getting Gyped

WALHALLA, S. C. (AP) — A thief who steals $20 is being cheated, inflation considered, a prosecutor told a court session here.

"The dollar," said Fant, "is not worth a full dollar now and the thief who takes $20 actually doesn't get his money's worth, but still can be sentenced for grand larceny."

Son Is Charged by MacFadden

Physical Culturist Says Offspring Punched Him in Face and Head

NEW YORK (AP)—Bernarr MacFadden, 86-year-old physical culturalist and publisher, has brought his 30-year-old son into court on an assault charge.

The elder MacFadden, five feet four inches tall and weighing 140 pounds yesterday accused his six-foot, 190-pound son, Berwyn, of punching him in the face and head.

At the hearing before Magistrate Harry G. Andrews, Berwyn unsuccessfully tried to lodge a counter-complaint of assault.

The father testified Berwyn entered his office last Monday, said "you are afraid of me," then slapped him in the face and punched him.

Berwyn's attorney asked the elder MacFadden, "Did you kick your son?"

"Yes, I did," MacFadden replied. "I had to keep him away from me."

Berwyn, charged with assault, was released in parole for trial later.

After the hearing Berwyn, without giving details, told newsmen his father caused him to lose his job as a dance instructor.

"I went to see my father and he tried to shoot me," Berwyn said. He kicked me in the groin. In trying to restrain him, I accidentally poked him in the eye."

New Drug Fights Amoebic Dysentery

DETROIT (AP) — Clinical and laboratory tests have shown that a new drug, Camoform, is highly effective in treating amoebic dysentery, Parke, Davis & Co. reported today.

The pharmaceutical firm said the drug, discovered by its scientists, is not yet generally available. Camoform is an organic compound and does not contain arsenic or other toxic heavy metals.

Amoebic dysentery is a widespread disease of the tropics. It also attacks about 10 per cent of the population in the United States. Parke-Davis said approximately 700 million people throughout the world are infected by the amoebae.

Rains Jellyfish in Texas but Not Cats and Dogs

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The expression "rainin' cats and dogs" has almost passed from use since the great drought hit Texas. But Mrs. W. M. Reynolds here has a substitution:

"After that hard rain yesterday," she said, "I found two jellyfish in my front yard. I mean just that old jellyfish from the coast."

To Mail Rocks With Ads

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — Neither sleet nor snow may stop the mail, but this could slow it down! The Greater Vermont Assn. has received a request for two million pebbles, to be used in an advertising program. They'll be mailed individually, if that's any consolation to the mail carriers.

Reds in Korea Return 2 Yanks

Marine Colonel Held 8 Months as Commies Try to Convert Him

SEOUL (AP)—A U.S. Marine colonel captured in North Korea eight months ago—long after the armistice—said today the Communists apparently thought he was defecting when his plane made an emergency landing in North Korea.

Later, Lt. Col. Herbert Peters of Seattle told a news conference, the Reds suggested the United States had ordered him to fly to Kaesong for "a big diplomatic purpose."

• • •

And while the Reds held him, Peters said, they tried to convert him to communism.

• • •

Peters and Army Pfc. Charles Julius of Orlando, Fla., were returned to the U.N. Command at Panmunjom yesterday.

The Marine colonel said he tried to fly out of the airstrip but the Red soldiers held the wings of his small plane.

Both men said the Communists treated them well.

Peters said he made an emergency landing at Kaesong, the Red armistice talks base, when he lost his bearings and ran out of gas.

The Chinese and North Korean soldiers who came out to his L19 light observation plane offered to shake hands, Peters said, and appeared to think he was defecting from the United States.

Both men were flown to Tokyo this afternoon. A spokesman said they will be returned to the United States after medical checks.

Julius said he went swimming alone in a stream in the Communist half of the buffer zone when he found no guards nearby. He stepped on a mine, he said, and wandered around delirious until the Reds picked him up the next day.

4-Year Program

U of M Signs Up Largest Freshman Nursing Class

ANN ARBOR — With 534 nurses enrolled in its new four-year nursing program, the University of Michigan's School of Nursing is making a dent in the shortage of nurses.

Rhoda Reddig, school director, announced that this fall's enrollment of 201 new students is the largest class ever to matriculate. This places the U-M school close to the top among such schools in the country.

Last year's enrollment of freshmen nurses was 153.

Miss Reddig explained that the solution of the shortage of nurses seems best embodied in the four-year program, rather than the three or five-year programs which are more common.

In addition to increasing its facilities to accommodate larger enrollments, the U-M school, by offering nursing courses in each of the student's four years of liberal arts, expects to turn out potential teachers of nurses as well.

"Nurses who graduate from our four-year program have had sufficient training to qualify them as teachers," said Miss Reddig. "This means that we are able to recruit and train more and more nurses' aides, technicians and practical nurses," she added.

The U-M director also stated that the three-year program was too specialized to meet the teaching demand, and that the five-year program often discouraged young girls because it was too long.

This marks the third year of the new four-year program, and each year has brought larger enrolling classes.

Death Sentences Handed 12 Iranians in Spy Ring

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—A military court handed death sentences today to the first 12 Iranians brought to trial in the current drive against a Soviet spy ring in the armed forces.

UNTANGLING TRAFFIC IN THE AIR—Light from the radar projection table lights the faces of CAA traffic controllers in the Washington center, one of the most critical aerial traffic jam areas. Plastic markers on scope show location and identity of planes within 40 miles.

U.S. Running Out of Sky for Growing Air Traffic

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—America is running out of sky.

Due mostly to the rapid increase of military jet planes in the air, plus more flying generally, airplanes over many sections of the U.S. have become seriously overcrowded.

The result has been a curtailment of vital military operations and a serious hampering of commercial flights.

Basically, the problem results from the fact that jets use fuel so fast they are unable to observe all of the well-established air traffic rules which frequently demand circling over an airport while waiting for a turn to land.

In effect, the jets have made air traffic rules and controls obsolete.

The new problem caused by jet planes and the anticipation of commercial jet flying in the next few years has the Air Force, Navy, Civil Aeronautics Administration and the Air Transport Association working together frantically for some solution.

A spokesman for the Air Force states the military case.

"In too many instances we can't send up jet training flights because of too much other traffic in an area. Even some of our air defense patrols, which necessarily must fly through crowded areas, have to be kept on the ground from time to time. And even the strategic bombing training flights are now having to watch air traffic."

It's difficult for the experts to isolate the exact amount of delay to commercial flying caused by jets, but CAA figures reveal the airlines last year lost 240 hours in jammed traffic over Washington and 342 hours over Chicago, for example. Those jams were not caused by weather.

New York City, Norfolk, Va., Los Angeles, Detroit and San Antonio are other areas where the air traffic problem is critical because of the presence of large numbers of both jet and conventional aircraft in the air.

The ideal arrangement from the Air Force point of view would be to give all of its jets first priority in landing and take-off. But AF experts realize that this can't be done and that commercial airline schedules have to be considered, too.

The military and civilian members of the joint groups trying to work out a new system seem to agree that the answer lies in improved radio, radar and navigational aids. With improved tools, flight controllers will be able to make more efficient use of what sky there is.

Sam P. Saint, an expert adviser to the Department of Commerce, believes that in a few years every plane flying east of the Mississippi will have to be able to talk directly to the area CAA control man at all times. There are now long delays in getting instructions to planes far out from the cities.

At present, he says, planes approaching New York are contacted directly by radio and fitted into the detailed landing schedules when they are about 100 miles out. This range will have to be extended, he believes, along with extension of the radar.

An Air Force expert says it will probably become necessary for a jet pilot to have a landing clearance before he ever takes off, or even starts his engine.

Another major aspect of this problem is very high altitude traffic control—above 17,000 feet. Up until a few years ago the relatively few planes which flew up there could ignore the regular airlanes and traffic procedures until they were ready to enter the landing pattern.

Today, however, airlines, cargo lines, bombers and fighters all use these upper lanes regularly for flights. And they're getting crowded.

The difficulty here is that much of the radio equipment in use by CAA isn't able to handle adequately the traffic direction necessary at that altitude. The solution involves the purchase of a lot of expensive new radio equipment and the possible reassignment of radio frequencies.

Reporting on the Air Force's handling of this matter, Brig. Gen. Thomas L. Bryan Jr., says:

"We are in the process of establishing 50 radar air traffic control centers in the U.S. They are composed of radar capable of high altitude coverage to approximately 20,000 feet with horizontal coverage of about 40 miles."

All the experts also feel that whatever new air traffic system they agree upon, it must be able to handle both jets and propeller planes simultaneously. There can't be a system for each type of plane because both types will be using the airlanes for years to come.

Loggers Missed a Few Big Trees in Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The loggers who cut their way across Wisconsin in the early years of the century missed a few big trees.

The American Forestry Assn. has recognized a tree near the famed Dells of the Wisconsin River—an old log drive thoroughfare—as the largest jack pine in the world. It's 70 feet tall and 68.8 inches in circumference.

Wisconsin also has the largest white pine and the largest Norway (red) pine in the world.

Teachers Seek Spanking Policy

Detroit's Educators in Uproar Over Privilege of Paddling Junior

DETROIT (UP)—Detroit's public school teachers are raising a rumpus over the question of spanking unruly students.

In short, the teachers want to know if they'll be whipped for spanking junior. They say the Board of Education is not very definite on this point.

In a surprise move this week, the independent Detroit Teachers Association joined the AFL Detroit Federation of Teachers in protesting "weak-kneed enforcement of the discipline policy."

School Supt. Arthur Dondineu has been instructed by the Board of Education to clarify policy on administering corporal punishment to errant students.

The DFT charged at a meeting of the school board yesterday that some principals have failed to back teachers who used the rod to control unmanageable children.

Replied Dondineau, "We have a definite policy pertaining to disciplining students. We have never prohibited corporal punishment but we do discourage it."

Dondineau said spankings had never been strictly outlawed because the board didn't want to place teachers in the position of being openly defied.

The federation charged teachers are unable to maintain discipline in the classroom at a time when juvenile delinquency is increasing.

The teachers want to know if the school system will provide an attorney if one of their number is sued by a parent who objects to a spanking given a child.

EAST HAMPTON, Conn. (UP)—Lightning struck a firehouse, setting off the alarm and summoning volunteer firemen who promptly put out the resulting blaze.

What's in a Name? Plenty, According to Show Folks

NEW YORK (UP)—"What's in a name?" is taken to heart by many an actor. They'll shorten, twist or completely scrap their names for others that will better fit show business needs.

Some are lucky in that their names are already "good theater." Others will either use a nickname or add a middle initial to reach the goal.

Donna Lee Hickey, for instance, took the name of the character she played in the movie, "The Caine Mutiny." She is now May Winn.

Helen Koferd liked the name of the woman she played in "The Return of October." She's now known as Terry Moore. Same goes for Anne Shirley, who took the name from a movie role.

That master of the ad-lib, Fred Allen, still has John Florence Sullivan on his birth certificate.

He was a one-man evolution in stage names. During his early career he was known as Paul Huckle. As his act improved, so did his name, which changed to Fred St. James, to Freddie James and finally to Fred Allen.

Mention the name Norma Jean Mortenson, and there will be no recognition. No wonder. It hardly fits Marilyn Monroe.

Charles Edward Pratt is not the sort you'd associate with a Frankenstein monster. His other name—Boris Karloff—is.

Cyd Charisse is a much more interesting name than Tula Finklea. And it's easier to fit the name Doris Day on a marquee than Doris Kappelhoff.

Stewart Granger had a good enough name to start with. The only trouble was that another actor had gotten a lot of mileage out of the name, James Stewart.

Benay Venuta's real name is Benvenuta Crooke. She chopped her first name in half, which by the way, is the feminized version of her direct ancestor, Benvenuto Cellini.

Humphrey Bogart honored both his mother and father. The Humphrey is his mother's maiden name—Bogart, his father's family name.

Joan Fontaine settled a family problem. She took her mother's maiden name for her career while her sister, Olivia, kept the family name of de Haviland.

When Janet Cole went to Hollywood several years ago, David Selznick decided her name wasn't Hollywoodish.

Into a hat went several choices and one was selected—Kim Hunter. Ironically, a young starlet was given the name of Janet Cole a few months ago.

Recalls When Sun Tan Was Unpopular for Girls

ASHLAND, Mo. (UP) — Retiring after 52 years as a teacher, Hinton Forbis noticed a big change in youngsters through the years. He recalled that mothers used to warn him to make sure their little daughters wore their sunbonnets at recess.

"But the youth of today," he said, "strive not for a peaches and cream complexion, but for an Indian brown tan."

Conscience Cleared

MONTGOMERY, N. Y. (UP)—Wray R. Osterhout, 27, resumed civilian life with a clean slate. He stopped at the police station as soon as he came back from Korea and paid a 1951 traffic fine.

Sentences Illiterate to Read and Write

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — A 25-year-old foundry worker was placed on four years probation on a felonious assult charge. When he was brought before Circuit Judge Henry L. Beers to sign the probation stipulation, he said:

"I can't judge. I always wanted to learn to read and write, but I never had the chance."

The judge ordered the papers redrafted to include a proviso that he learn to read and write, and assigned a probation officer to help him.

"Thank you, judge," he said.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Felix Czysz hid $336 in silver coins in his home so well he couldn't find them when he moved a year ago.

Robert Deer, second occupant of the home since Czysz left, found the money while cleaning the basement and took it to police.

Czysz established ownership. He saved the money for a college education for his son.

Walkout Fails to Upset Prison

Indiana Official Claims Strike Is Flop; Many Guards Still Working

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (UP)—A walkout of guards at the Indiana State Prison failed to affect the smooth operation of the big penitentiary today, and a state official said, "The whole strike is a flop."

The opinion came from Hugh P. O'Brien, chairman of the State Correction Department, who added that the walkout "had fizzled out."

* * *

However, pickets paraded for the second day at the prison's two main gates, and Merlin Griffith, vice president of the International Guards Union, said, "We'll whip O'Brien one way or another."

Griffith said he was satisfied with the way things were going and added, "If picket lines stay in operation as they have been we'll gain five men a day."

An undisclosed number of guards assigned to the midnight to 8 a.m. shift entered the prison on schedule last night by some entrance other than the picketed gates.

Prison officials had said a full shift of guards went on duty on schedule at 4 p.m. yesterday. They could not be reached early today for a report on the number working on the midnight shift.

The guards at the big prison, which houses 2,274 inmates, are seeking a 40-hour week, improvement of working conditions and reinstatement of four guards fired last week. State officials, however, have refused to meet with the union, citing a state policy against official recognition of a union at a state institution.

Kelvinator Plant Reopens Oct. 11

American Motors and Unionists Settle 66-Day Strike Over Transfer

DETROIT (UP) — American Motors Corp. said today its Plymouth road plant here would open next Monday following settlement of a 66-day strike called to protest the transfer of certain operations to Grand Rapids.

The Mechanics Educational Society of America ordered its 1,700 Kelvinator employes off the job Aug. 2 when the company announced its decision to switch ice cream cabinet, home freezer and beverage cooler production to the Furniture City.

Settlement was announced jointly Wednesday night by Edward L. Cushman, American Motors director of industrial relations, and Matthew Smith, national secretary of the MESA.

"Both the company and the union believe that a sound foundation has now been laid for constructive relationships in the future," they said in a joint statement.

"Both are determined to make the Detroit Kelvinator plant an outstanding example of union-management cooperation."

The company said 200 to 250 tool room and other non-production workers would be called back Monday. It said about 700 additional workers would return during the week of Oct. 25, pending the completion of the Grand Rapids transfer operation.

Nixon to Brief Ike on Campaign

Vice President Says He's Encouraged About GOP Chances

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vice President Nixon, a Republican mainstay in the campaign for control of Congress, gives President Eisenhower a first-hand size-up today of GOP prospects as he found them in his speechmaking tours around the country.

Arriving in Denver last night, Nixon told newsmen he is "tremendously" encouraged about Republican chances of electing a GOP-controlled 84th Congress Nov. 2.

* * *

Conceding "it is a tough fight," he said the Republican campaign is "moving ahead" and is "off the ground."

Nixon is to take part with Eisenhower tomorrow night in a nationwide television - radio address on behalf of Republican candidates for Congress. Before that talk, Nixon and other Republican leaders planned a strategy huddle with the President at which time they were expected to urge Eisenhower to make more campaign speeches than the two he has scheduled between now and election.

* * *

Asked how he feels about the President making more campaign talks, Nixon replied:

"I am sure every appearance the President makes can be helpful. However, I am not prepared to say he should go into additional states."

More and more, the Democrats are centering their fire on Nixon, who has been ranging far and wide across the country in support of GOP House and Senate candidates.

Mendes Seeks OK on His Plan

Will Ask Ratification of German Rearmament Pact Next Month

PARIS (UP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France today carries his blitz campaign to win acceptance of German rearmament before the National Assembly, which killed the earlier European Defense Community.

He indicated he would seek formal ratification of the new pact next month.

The Assembly got its first crack at the London agreements hardly four days after the conference ended, but already some 65 questions have been filed by deputies well aware of how deep feeling on the German rearmament issue runs in France.

The Premier appeared to have carried the first round of his fight yesterday in an active meeting of the Assembly Foreign Affairs Committee.

The Committee did not vote approval or disapproval. But in a communique it praised the Premier's performance at London, where he won a British commitment to keep troops on the European continent and German agreement to West European control of her rearmament.

Quick-moving Mendes-France apparently was counting on the popularity he won at the nine-power conference to give him some kind of speedy approval from the divided, cantankerous assembly.

The Premier also disclosed to the committee he would meet with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on Oct. 20 to resume negotiations on the Saar question. He would like a settlement over the disputed border area before Germany is allowed its sovereignty and the right to rearm.

Savings in Year Climb $5 Billion

Federal Reserve Bank Reports Largest Gain Since War

Despite the recent business downturn, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reports that savings of consumers and businessmen have gained about 5 billion dollars from last year's levels at banks all across the nation.

This represents the largest dollar gain in savings in any 12 month period since the war.

Moreover, the bank points out in its monthly review, "Business Conditions," the principal competitors of banks for savings accounts — the savings and loan associations — have also enjoyed a record inflow of funds over the past year. The U. S. Treasury's savings bond program, too, has experienced its best sales year in some time.

The reasons for changes in the rate of savings accumulation, of course, are numerous. Perhaps the most important factor influencing individuals to spend or save is fluctuations in local business conditions. Another is the attitude of potential savers. If people are cautious or apprehensive about the future, their rate of saving may increase regardless of current business activity.

In a few Midwest areas, the bank points out, interest rates also have affected the saving pace.

Thus, a rate increase for savings deposits in Springfield banks appears to have contributed importantly to the rise in that area's savings over the past year. In Des Moines, too, a good share of the sharp rise in time deposits apparently stems from the relatively high interest rates paid on savings.

The Oregon independent said McCarthy "has cost the Republicans thousands of votes." He said he believes the Democrats will win control of the House by a margin of 30 to 40 seats and take over the Senate with a total of at least 51 seats.

CAI Center Offers Recreation for Children, Teenagers, Adults

Editor's note: Following is the second of two articles on CAI and its community activities center in Waterford Township. The first article appeared on Tuesday in this paper.

By WILMA GREENWAY

Sparked by the drive and initiative of a group of women who proved that a combination of action and words could get real civic improvements, the CAI Building in Waterford Township has gained national recognition as one of the finest community recreational centers in the state.

By working hard and talking the men of the community into working with them, the Waterford Women's Club was largely responsible for the teeming center, which forms a hub for youth and adult activities for the whole area.

Not one cent of taxpayers' money has gone into the modern, cement block building, although it is valued at $150,000 to $200,000, and costs $2,000 a month to maintain.

The 100x137 foot 2-story building includes a free library stocked with some 4,000 books, full-sized gym, 60x40 foot dining and games room, completely equipped kitchen, dairy bar, attractively furnished clubroom and offices.

Upstairs there is a large dance hall, and four classrooms used by two area schools. Scout activities are conducted in the basement.

Facilities of the center are available to organizations or individuals for parties, dances, banquets and special affairs. The women's club regularly serves meals to Rotary, Exchange Club and Business and Professional Women's Club, using the proceeds to beautify the building or pay off the mortgage.

St. Andrew's Episcopal Church had its origin within the center, and two other churches, a Catholic and a Lutheran, mark their beginnings to the smaller frame building which preceded it.

Currently the Waterford Township Recreation Board has taken over much of the center's facilities for its fall and winter activities program. This includes free recreation for children, teenagers and adults.

Athletics, ballroom and ballet lessons, archery, crafts, youth nights, camera club, story-telling sessions and special events are scheduled.

Saturday Morning Fun, a program of supervised play activities for boys and girls 7 to 15 years of age, is already under way. It includes ballet for girls aged 5-15, with a fee of 50 cents per hour to cover costs. Carol Wolfe, with 30 years experience in the theater and dance instruction, teaches the classes. Other ballet classes are offered from 9 to 3 Saturdays.

Slim-trim ballet for women is held at 1 p.m. Thursdays and a class for girls and boys aged 3-5 is at 2 p.m. Thursdays. Gym games, crafts, shuffleboard, checkers, story hours and treasure hunts also are conducted on Saturday mornings.

Adult camera enthusiasts may join the Camera Club, which meets from 8-10 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month. Some 40 people already are members in the club, which conducts picture contests and schedules program speakers on photographic subjects.

Archery lessons for adults and teenagers will start in December, and an adult archery league will be formed.

Ballroom dancing lessons for teenagers will begin in November. Over 500 registered for this popular activity last year.

Youth Nights for teenagers, to include dancing and social games under adult supervision, will be held weekly beginning in November. A youth committee elected by the group will help direct this program.

Young men's athletic club will open in November with a weekly evening program of basketball, table-tennis, wrestling, boxing and gym.

Girls gym on Saturday afternoons will start in December, with volley ball, basketball, shuffleboard and table tennis.

The free library, staffed by volunteers from the Mothers Club, is open Wednesday afternoons and Saturday mornings.

Community Activities Inc., a club open to any Waterford Township resident, owns and controls the CAI Building. The organization is governed by a board of 15 directors — businessmen, teachers, factory workers — elected by the membership for 3-year terms. Officers are elected for one year, and the current president is a Waterford automobile dealer, Robert Beatty Sr. Club dues are $5 a year.

Setup of the organization is such that, if it is ever dissolved, no member or group of members will benefit financially. Any money derived from the sale of building or equipment has been legally earmarked for use by the community.

Although it has no part in the administration, the Waterford Women's Club continues to be the backbone of CAI, its members are proud of their community center.

Why shouldn't they be? After all, a $200,000 enterprise is quite an achievement for a handful of housewives who really didn't know how to do anything much—except to talk, and work, and take good care of their kids!

East German 'Celebration' a Time of Gloom for Reds

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

It was appropriate that Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov was the chief figure today at the ceremonies which marked the fifth anniversary of the East German "Democratic Republic."

Officially, the observance in East Berlin was a celebration. But Molotov's dour face must have reflected the true atmosphere.

West Germany had just entered agreements under which it is to be a sovereign country and is to be brought into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Its people were happy and well fed. Its industry was flourishing.

East Germany remained under the heel of the Kremlin. It was ridden by secret police and spies. Its people were shoddily clothed, ill-fed, restive.

There was a feeling in Western capitals that the Kremlin would have to do something to offset West Germany's new status.

It had been expected that Molotov might spring one of his favorite diplomatic surprises in an attempt to head off West German rearmament.

The surprise came at a pre-anniversary state reception in Berlin. Molotov called for the withdrawal of all occupation troops from Germany and said he was willing to discuss again western proposals for free all-German elections, or to consider any new ones.

If Russia ever agreed to a free election in any territory under its control, it would be a sensation. Communism and free elections do not go together.

Further, Red German Deputy Premier Walter Ulbricht, the real No. 1 man in East Germany, had said only a few hours earlier that the Communists would not accept the Western free-election proposals.

Thus if Molotov meant to imply that Russia might accept the election proposals, rather than just talk about them, it was a repudiation of Ulbricht, who as the German Communist leader outranks Premier Otto Grotewohl. Maybe they just got their signals crossed.

The Russians made one big gesture last March 26 when they announced that East Germany had been made a sovereign state. It proved to be merely a gesture. There has been no change whatsoever in the status of East Germany. It remains a police state with a puppet Red government.

In the first nine months of 1954, more than 143,000 Germans fled the "democratic republic" and sought asylum in West Germany. In 1953 the total was nearly 350,000, or just short of two per cent of the entire population.

Men are still being sent to prison for taking part in the workers uprising of June 17, 1953.

It was announced this week that the Communists had arrested 547 persons in a big round-up of "United States underground agents."

Reports which leak through into West Germany tell of serious sabotage in East German factories, of crop failures and lagging industrial production.

In all, this probably was a gloomy rather than a festive Thursday in East Germany, for the Reds as well as for the people.

John Roosevelt Stumps for GOP

F.D.R.'s Son Stops in Detroit to Put in Good Word for Republicans

By UNITED PRESS

A man whose family name is almost synonymous with Democratic party politics came to Michigan to support Republican candidates in the November election.

John Roosevelt, son of the late president, stopped off in Detroit on a business jaunt Wednesday and put in a good word for Joseph A. Moynihan, GOP nominee in Michigan's 14th District, and Sen. Homer Ferguson, seeking reelection on the Republican ticket.

Roosevelt said he planned to campaign for Republican candidates across the country—except in Los Angeles and in New York. He said he would by-pass Los 'angeles because his brother James is a Democratic candidate there and New York because another brother, Franklin Jr., is the Democratic nominee for state attorney general.

"I firmly believe in party responsibility adn will do my utmost to avoid a possible stalemate and political field day in Washington which would result if Democrats win," he said in pledging his support for President Eisenhower.

Stelt, 29, has been personnel director here since April 2, 1951. He came to the post from a position with the Detroit Civil Service Commission.

In making the announcement of Stelt's departure, City Manager Walter K. Willman commented, "he's done a very fine job and we're sorry to lose him."

Willman said Stelt would be replaced for the time being by William L. Collins, a city planner. Collins will hold both positions, Willman said.

Liberace Denies Report He'll Marry Joanne Rio

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Pianist Liberace says that "there isn't a word of truth to the report that I am engaged" to marry dancer Joanne Rio.

The report popped up yesterday and Liberace promptly denied it. He said:

"I was misquote dand I am very embarrassed for Joanne, who is a lovely girl and an understanding friend.

'Peep Shows' Out

Report on Salk Vaccine Due for Release April 1

CHICAGO (AP) — A report on whether Salk vaccine is effective in preventing or mitigating polio will be ready around April 1.

This was reported by Dr. Thomas B. Francis Jr., of the University of Michigan and director of a nationwide Salk appraisal survey, in a report to the American Academy o of Pediatrics this week.

Dr. Francis said there would be "no peep show" reports based on any partial sampling of information before the April report on tests made in 217 counties in 44 states.

The vaccine was tested for the first time this year. Approximately 1,800,000 children in the first three grades of school participated.

Of the total, 445,000 got shots of vaccine, 209,000 got a fluid known to be worthless and harmless, and the rest got no inoculation of any kind. The last two groups constitute comparative controls for the study.

Dr. Francis told reporters that even if the appraisal should show that the vaccine were effective, he himself could not say whether the material would be made available for general use next year.

He said the U. S. Public Health Service first would have to rule whether the vaccine could be licensed for general use. Then the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis would have to decide wh measures to take and vaccine manufacturers would have to be able to supply the material.

Some doctors at the academy's meeting said that if the appraisal report were not forthcoming until April 1 and if it should prove favorable, there might not be time for manufacturers to make vaccine available for nationwide use next spring and summer.

Dr. Francis said his researchers still are "in the stage of collecting data rather than analyzing it." he added:

"There is no advantage in getting into a premature position. We want to be certain the data are complete and reliable. There will be no premature estimates or guesses. . . . We have considerable information but we have been avoiding keeping a peep show going to try to analyze trends."

SVC Opener Tops Area's Prep Grid Features

STAND-UP HUDDLE—A new surprise for football spectators this season will be the radically different appearance of the huddle. Instead of the traditional standing bunch-up, Villanova will use this new V-formation. Coach Frank Reagan says he feels that the new type huddle will add efficiency. All members of the team, except quarterback and center, face the line of scrimmage. This enables most of the members of the team to watch the detense as the signals are given by the quarterback.

Chiefs and Central Renew Old Rivalry; Half Dozen Other Tilts Mark 4th Week

By JACK SAYLOR

A half-dozen games in the Pontiac area hold the attention of high school football fans this week as the prep gridders move into the 4th week of the season.

While top interest is held by the Saginaw Valley League contest at Wisner Stadium between Pontiac High and Flint Central, there are several other games between close rivals.

Two are Wayne-Oakland tilts matching undefeated Holly with Keego Harbor and Clarkston with Milford. Waterford's Skippers meet Walled Lake in an Inter-Lakes game.

Lapeer is at Avondale and Romeo at Lake Orion in the top non-league games.

Unbeaten records of both Holly and Avondale are in peril, while the county's only other undefeated team, Oxford, will be a decided favorite at Ortonville.

Avondale puts its 3-0 record on the line Friday afternoon against an improved Lapeer club. The Panthers dropped their 1st game, but bounced back to win twice. Game shapes up as a close one since each holds a 1-touchdown victory over Lake Orion.

Orion, which has yielded only 3 touchdowns in 3 games, yet lost twice, entertains Romeo, winners over Richmond and Troy in its 2 starts. Ted Sela's Dragons have been able to muster only one touchdown (enough to beat Clarkston, 7-6), then were blanked 6-0 by Avondale and 7-0 by Lapeer.

The Holly-Keego game holds the W-O spotlight. Reese Protz' Holly club has won 3 in a row, including one in the league. Keego won its 1st league game against Clarkston after dropping games to Waterford and Walled Lake.

The latter pair meet on the Walled Lake gridiron with both teams on the rebound. The Vikings won twice before bowing 6-0 to Van Dyke in their Inter-Lakes opener. Waterford has dropped 2 of 3, including a 13-12 nod to Southfield in the conference.

Clarkston and Milford have identical 1-2 records and each is 1-1 in the league. The winner will be back in the thick of the Wayne-Oakland race.

Southfield and Berkley, each 1-0 in the Inter-Lakes, meet, while other leading games send Rochester to Utica and Birmingham to Ferndale.

Ex-Tackle Sets Scoring Pace in County Football

Larry Spencer, Oxford High School's tackle turned fullback, has taken the early lead among the point getters in Oakland County prep football circles.

Spencer has tallied 5 touchdowns and added 6 extra points for 36 points as the Oxford eleven has won 3 straight. Second place currently is held by Bob Blackwell of Berkley, who scored all 25 of his points last week against Farmington.

Russ Shindorf of St. Michael's was last year's "Mr. Touchdown." He tallied 17 times to win the scoring title with 102 points. Avondale's Marv Evans, who was 3rd last year with 90 points, is tied for 3rd this week at 20 points.

In the 1st 3 weeks of the season, 12 county backs have scored 3 or more touchdowns. The top 10 and ties:

	G	TD	PAT	T
Larry Spencer, Oxford	3	5	6	36
Bob Blackwell, Berkley	3	4	1	25
Marv Evans, Avondale	3	3	2	20
Mike Benedict, Oxford	3	3	2	20

Freeman Watkins, PHS	3	3	0	18
Pat Thompson, Clarkston	3	3	0	18
Bob Graham, Ferndale	3	3	0	18
Dave Larkin, Waterford	3	3	0	18
Fred Courville, So'field	3	3	0	18

Pontiac Hunters Shoot Fox While Duck Hunting

Daniel Bailey and David Stubbs went duck hunting Wednesday, but came back with an unexpected prize. Hunting in the area of Mt. Clemens street and Opdyke road, both Bailey and Stubbs hit a red fox.

Bailey was using a 16 gauge shotgun and Stubbs, a 12 gauge. The animal weighed 13 pounds, 4 ounces. Bailey lives at 928 Melrose, Stubbs at 650 Melrose.

Pontiac High and Flint Central tangle here Friday night in the 39th renewal of one of the state's oldest prep football rivalries.

Available records show that the two teams met as early as 1910, while a continuous series has existed since 1927. Central holds a big margin in the series, having won 26 games, lost 10 and tied two.

Pontiac's last victory in the rivalry was a 21-18 decision two years ago. Indians won last season's contest, 22-7.

Chiefs' defensive line will have the unenviable task of stopping two Saginaw Valley Conference's top halfbacks Friday. Spear-heading Central's high-scoring attack are Charley Thrash, a hard-running 192-pounder who was an all-Valley back last year, and fleet Herman Windom, Flint's leading scorer.

Both Thrash and Windom combine speed with power, and are capable of going all the way at any time. Thrash has averaged 9.4 yards per carry and scored four touchdowns in three games. Windom has five touchdowns and an 8.9-yard average.

Pontiac's top runner to date has been sophomore Freeman Watkins, a 180-pound halfback whose running style is similar to that of Thrash. Watkins missed the opening game, but has averaged 8.5 yards in 12 tries and scored three touchdowns in the last two contests.

PHS workhorse has been right half Walt Poe, who has lugged the ball 33 times for a net total of 167 yards. Poe, the Chiefs' co-captain, also has completed four of nine passes and caught five himself for another 164 yards. He has accounted for Pontiac's two interceptions.

Indians' line, anchored by letterman Joe Quarles at end, Steve Csintyan at tackle and 205-pound John Haynes at center, will outweigh Pontiac's forward wall six pounds per man.

Chisox Boss Would Trade Top-Line Hurler

CHICAGO (AP)—That man is at it again!

Frank Lane, Chicago White Sox general manager, says he has informed four American League baseball clubs he will consider trading a front-line pitcher for a top-ranking outfielder.

* * *

Since the World Series, he has contacted George Weiss of the New York Yankees, Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians, Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox and Art Ehlers of the Baltimore Orioles.

Ehlers at present is answering Lane's telephone calls for the White Sox' former manager, Paul Richards. Richards is the Orioles new head man.

Lane isn't saying which pitcher he has for bait, but the Sox consider their front liners to be Virgil Trucks, Billy Pierce, Sandy Consuegra, Mike Fornieles, Jack Harshman and Bob Keegan.

* * *

Lane in the past has admitted he would like to have New York outfielder Hank Bauer, who is used only part time in Casey Stengel's two-platoon system, and also has tried for Cleveland's Larry Doby.

Announcer Turns Gridder

The Detroit Lions in the NFL have a radio announcer on their team. Defensive half-back Jim David was one of the broadcasters of the Colorado A & M baseball games during the 1954 season.

Dressen Doesn't Think Robinson Is Washed Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are those who'll tell you Jackie Robinson is near the end of the trail as a major league ball player. But not Chuck Dressen.

* * *

"Sure, I'd take Jackie," Dressen told newsmen yesterday as he took over as manager of the Washington Senators. "He's got plenty of good baseball left in him."

The new Washington manager conceded, however, that there wasn't much chance of getting the 36-year-old Negro star. Dressen said he didn't think seven National League clubs would waive him out of the league.

Robinson, who played for Dressen in the 1952-53 pennant-winning seasons at Brooklyn, saw limited action this year as the Dodgers wound up second.

* * *

"No, he can't play every day any more," Dressen said, "but he can play 100 games a year easy. His trouble is his bones. He got all bruised up playing football out in California."

Under baseball rules, Dressen could make no deal for a player in the National League unless the other National teams give an okay.

Robinson is the kind of player Dressen likes to have, a good bunter and hit-and-run man with speed on the bases. The Senators were notoriously lacking in speed last season.

* * *

Dressen announced that Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto, one of the Brooklyn Dodgers' all-time baseball heroes, has signed a 2-year contract with the Senators as a coach. Cookie will coach at first base and Dressen at third, just as they did in 1952-53 with the Dodgers.

3 'Quarterbacks' May Be in MSC Lineup Saturday

By ROBERT E. VOGES

EAST LANSING (AP) — Before the football season started, there was a lot of talk about how deep Michigan State was at the quarterback position.

"Too bad you can't use them all at once," the coaches were told.

Against Indiana Saturday, Michigan State will be using what were rated as the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd quarterbacks at the same time.

Earl Morrall will be at the signal-calling position. Johnny Matsock is due to start at left half in place of the injured LeRoy Bolden. And Clarence Peaks now has established himself as the number one candidate at right half.

Pat Wilson, Lapeer sophomore and brother of Johnny Wilson, former linebacker for the Spartans, is being groomed as the number two quarterback. Matsock also may see some service at the position.

Several more shifts were made in the MSC lineup yesterday. Ed Zalar, who started the season at center, was shifted to end. Dave Goodell, who also has been at center, has been shifted to tackle.

Goodell, a 210 pound junior from Mt. Pleasant, is starting out with the reserve but with his beef and muscle should see some playing time at the position.

Crisp, cool weather yesterday gave the Spartans a chance for a long outdoor workout after they had been forced indoors by rain the day previous. The squad drilled until nearly sundown, running against Indiana defenses brought back by scouts.

At a downtown coaches meeting at Lansing yesterday, athletic director Biggie Munn gave coach Duffy Daugherty a vote of confidence.

"We figure Daugherty and his staff will be around a long time at Michigan State College," Munn said.

You Be the Quarterback

By Warren Gaer
Head Football Coach
Drake University

Houston and Texas A & M have battled on even terms for three quarters, and the score is 13-13.

A punt rolled dead on the Houston 27-yard stripe and with 10 running plays and one incompleted pass on the previous down, Houston has moved 55 yards to the Texas A & M 18-yard line, where it is now 3rd down and seven. The ball is in the center of the gridiron, and the game is being played under sunny skies with virtually no wind.

As the Houston quarterback directing your split-T formation (linemen split apart), rate these plays 1, 2, 3 and 4 for this situation:

Pitchout and forward pass
Keep play with pitchout option (quarterback runs parallel to line of scrimmage)
Pass into the end zone
Drive through the line

Coaches Finding Going Rough in First Seasons

17 New Pilots Have Record of 9-35 So Far This Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the 17 colleges that made changes in football coaching ranks after last season are finding out a new head coach is not always the answer to a successful season.

A check today shows the 17 new coaches, nine of them in their first year as head man, have won only nine games. They have lost 35.

Only Murray Warmath, who replaced Wes Fesler at Minnesota, and Darrell Royal of Mississippi State have winning records after the early weeks of the football comapign.

Warmath's Gophers have trounced Nebraska and Pittsburgh while Royal, who took over Warmath's old job, defeated Memphis State, lost to Tennessee and then overwhelmed Arkansas State for a 2-1 performance.

Terry Brennan, 26-year-old coach who replaced Frank Leahy at Notre Dame, started off on the right foot with a victory over Texas. But then the Irish were upset last Saturday by Purdue.

Football situation at Pennsylvania is a very grim one for head coach Steve Sebo. Sebo was appointed last winter after serving as an assistant to Clarence (Biggie) Munn at Michigan State. He has tasted defeat in Penn's first two games.

At Michigan State, Hugh (Duff) Daugherty's club, last year's Big 10 Rose Bowl winners, lost its 1st two games to powerful Iowa and Wisconsin.

Earl Edwards, another Ex-Michigan State assistant, moved to North Carolina State, where he's seen his team defeated three times.

Three other coaches lost their 1st two games. They were Francis X. Regan at Villanova, Tulane's Andy Pilney and F. L. Ferzacca at Marquette.

Out in the far west Neil Stahley, Roy (Bobbie) Robertson and Joe Lindahl have found tough going. Stahley's Idaho eleven has dropped three games, Robertson's club at Colorado College and Lindhal's team at Colorado State also have lost the same number without a victory.

Sacrifice Fly Rule Gave Hitters' Averages Boost

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven major league players, headed by Brooklyn's Gil Hodges, have the sacrifice fly to thank for their .300 or better batting averages in 1954.

Figures compiled by the Associated Press reveal that Hodges wound up the season with 19 sacrifice flies—most in the majors. The Dodgers' first baseman batted .304. Counting the sacrifice flies as times at bat, as was done in 1953, his average would have been .294.

* * *

The others to hit .300 or better because of the rule change were Sid Gordon of the Pirates, who hit .305 instead of .298; Andy Carey of the Yankees, .301 instead of .297; Bill Sarni of the Cards and Al Rosen of the Indians, both .300 instead of .294 and Mickey Mantle of the Yankees and Jim Finigan of the A's, both .300 instead of .298.

* * *

The rule, adopted at the start of the season, nullifies a time at bat for a batter who scores a runner from third base on a fair fly ball.

Included in the playing rules from 1908 until 1931, the sacrifice fly was abolished after the rule had been changed in 1926 to give credit anytime a runner advanced a base on a fly ball. The original rule was restored in 1939, but dropped again after one year.

Players in both major leagues produced 778 sacrifice flies and as a result, the total batting average increased 2.4 points.

Horned Frogs Shoot for Upset

Texas Christian Team in Underdog Role to Southern Cal

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Texas Christian University sends its Horned Frogs and their wide-open version of the split-T into town today, hoping to score an upset over Southern California in Memorial Coliseum Friday night.

* * *

Coach Jess Hill's Trojans, winners in succession over Washington State, Pitt and Northwestern, are definitely favored to win the intersectional game before 45,000 or more onlookers.

The Texans won from Kansas, out-gained and almost registered the upset of the new season before losing to Oklahoma, 21-16, and were barely nosed out by Arkansas last week.

Zale Kept by CYO

CHICAGO (AP)—Tony Zale, former middleweight boxing champion, has been retained as head boxing coach of the Catholic Youth Organization.

Montreal Only Big 4 Club to Draw More Fans

TORONTO (AP) — The Montreal Alouettes are solid proof that everybody loves a winner. The crowd-pleasing Larks provide the only bright picture in a season of declining crowd figures at Big Four Canadian football parks.

They've drawn 56,130 customers at Molson Stadium, their new park, for the first three home games, an increase of about 11,000 over the same period last year. And it is little wonder because Peahead Walker's flashy squad has lost only one game in seven.

Things aren't so rosy with the other three clubs with the net result that at the half-way mark of the 28-game schedule, attendance totaled 205,239, a drop of 11,499 from the 216,738 total for the comparable 1953 period.

Tony Branoff's Driving Power Missed at 'M'

Injured Knees Slowed Wolverine Back in 1st Two Games

By JOHN BARBOUR

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Much of Michigan's hopes this football season rested on the driving power of one man—right halfback Tony Branoff.

Now with two unimpressive games in the books, Tony Branoff's driving power has faded, and the Wolverines' hopes have faded too.

"My legs feel all right, but I'll be taking it easy on them for a while," Branoff said when he missed more than a week of practice before the Washington game.

That Saturday Branoff played only 35 minutes while the Wolverines unimpressively defeated Washington 14-0.

Then in the workouts before the Army game, Branoff appeared to be in good shape. The knees which had hurt him before Washington, seemed to be healing.

When the Army game was barely ten minutes old, Branoff was called from the field. He had run only two plays. His reverse, the pride of the Michigan single-wing, had lost three yards.

His knees were hurting again, and he was pulled from the game. In the Michigan training room, some felt Branoff would get into action again soon. But on the practice field, there was more than the normal doubt.

At any rate, Michigan will probably not see the familiar number 17 of Branoff on the field Saturday against Iowa.

State Breaks Records

Michigan broke all previous records in 1953-54 for the sale of hunting and fishing licenses with a total of 2,370,000, an increase of about 57,000 over the previous season.

Hoople Sees Navy, Illini, Missouri in Upset Roles

By MAJOR AMOS HOOPLE

Egad, gentle readers! It is no more than fair that while I am taking scores of bows for my upset predictions, some credit be given Dr. Pedro Zlobotny, my associate.

When we were considering the outcome of the recent Army-South Carolina game, and my figures pointed to Army, overwhelmingly, the doctor brought me up with a brusque question,

"What about the atom bomb tests in the Pacific, and their effects?"

I blushed, Harrumph! It's so easy to forget a few factors in the many that go to make up our forecasts. But I quickly computed effects of radiation, ash and fall-out and put down South Carolina.

We were the only forecasters this side of Suez who picked Army to lose!

Hydrogen blasts and radiation will figure in this week's predictions, too, kind folks.

Juicy upsets this week include: Navy over Stanford 14-6; Missouri over SMU 20-14; Columbia over Yale 14-7 and Illini over Bucks 26-14.

Here's the list:

Michigan State over Hoosiers 14-6; Iowa 20, Michigan 14; Badger over Rice, 14-6; Minnesota over Wildcats 13-7; Purdue 19, Duke 14; Notre Dame 25, Pitt 6; Army 33, Dartmouth 13; Penn 14, Princeton 13; Alabama 26, Tulsa 14; Baylor 21, Arkansas 14; Auburn 14, Kentucky 6; N. Carolina 21, Georgia 13; Georgia Tech 14, LSU 6; Miss. 21, Vandy 13; Oklahoma 19, Texas 14; California 27 Oregon 13; Oregon St. 7, Wash St. 6; USC 21, TCU 6; UCLA 28, Wash. 7.

Tatum Authors Story to Hit Grid Critics

Coach Enters Ringing Defense of College Sport

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum of Maryland, who never ducked a controversy, has turned author to enter a ringing defense of college football.

* * *

The sport comes in for too much undeserved abuse, the jowly Terrapin tutor says, and so it's time somebody wrote what is "right" with the campus sport. He does so in the latest Parade Magazine.

* * *

Here's how Tatum answers particular criticisms:

Football regiments players too much: "Discipline and training are necessary for any sport, but nobody forces a boy to practice or even go out for the squad."

Coaches place too much emphasis on winning: "What's wrong with trying to win? There's no better way to train a man for life's competition than to teach him to win in sports."

Football is too much of a business: "Actually the big business part of football is only in the gate receipts. x x x Once a team starts winning, and making money, it gets into hot water."

Too many players get hurt: "More young players get hurt in auto accidents than in running for touchdowns."

Football doesn't leave a player time to study: "Players spend a total of 480 hours on football. Students who work in campus dining halls for room and board spend 765."

* * *

Football helps the wrong boys through college: "Perhaps the unfairest criticism of all. Why penalize a boy who plays football if he has academic admission requirements?"

Players are paid fantastic wages and drive big cars; "With rare exceptions, players get their tuition, room and board. That's all."

More Than Capacity

Michigan State's Macklin Field Stadium has a seating capacity of 50,745. Last year, however, they drew more than 51,000 spectators in four of their five home games.

It's Time Out!

You're very busy? Confound it, Squidby, how can we win the bowling league if you don't take time off from work to practice?"

Mrs. Durocher Disclaims Credit for 'Change' in 'Lip'; Leo's Mellowing

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — The passing years are taking some of the fire out of Leo Durocher.

* * *

There was a time when the New York Giants' manager cooked many a guy in flames of emotion without any sense of regret or sorrow. The opposition was a mortal enemy, the umpire an unnecessary evil, even his teammates felt his wrath at times.

* * *

The Durocher of today has learned to button his lip or, at least, not to fly off the handle in unrestrained fury, with or without justifiable cause. He has learned to be charitable, tolerant of others, less critical of umpires. He still blows off steam, now and then, but the old Durocher fire-tongued barrage is missing. And he cools off very fast.

People, detecting this outcropping of humility in Durocher, attributed the reformation to the refiningly subtle influence of his wife, the lovely movie and television star, Laraine Day. She however, has repeatedly denied there had been a reformation, stoutly maintaining Leo is no different than he has always been.

* * *

Ever since Leo and Laraine were married seven years ago, one of the most difficult things for Laraine to understand has been the recurring suggestions that Leo has changed.

* * *

"I was attracted by Leo's kind, courteous and thoughtful manner the day I met him and he's been the same ever since," she said. "When people meet him for the first time, they always seem surprised. They can't seem to believe that Mr. Durocher, the perfect gentleman and Leo Durocher, the manager, are one and the same."

* * *

Leo is inclined to agree with Laraine's appraisal of him. At least, he cannot see any changes in himself other than an almost imperceptible mellowing which he attributed to the fact that he's older.

"I'm still a tougher winner than loser," he said. "If I've got a losing team and nothing I do seems to help, I usually say very little to the players.

"But if we have a winning ball club and I believe we've got a fighting chance to take it all, then I keep after my players."

Notes From Afield:

Sustained Rains During Nesting Season Have Reduced Birds in Newberry Area

By JACK PATTERSON
(Pontiac Press Outdoor Writer)

NEWBERRY—Kept our promise yesterday and didn't do a lick of driving except that incidental to hunting. In company with Dr. Vern Abbott, Pontiac, Dr. Carlton Smith, Birmingham and Charles Lavender, Newberry, we spent 10 hours in the field Tuesday.

We started in the morning on sharptails in the burnings north of Rexton. How many miles of grasslands, popple edges, swales and treeless up-lands we covered before fatigue and hunger drove us back to the car, we wouldn't care to estimate, and wouldn't be believed if we did.

We were rewarded for this not-inconsiderable effort by the sharp "kak-kak-kak" of a small covey of sharptails which got up out of range ahead of Smitty's Brittany, Duke. This lack of birds was in sharp contrast to the number of birds Drs. Smith and Abbott ran into in the plains west of Seney the day before.

There the birds were plentiful but had been rather heavily shot at since opening day and tended to get up at impossible ranges. Deadeye Smith did the birds a mischief nonetheless. In the afternoon after the dogs slowed down a bit, and the hunters had refueled by the roadside, we went into heavier cover after pats.

We hunted just about every type of cover pats frequent and some types no one ever uses except, perhaps, foolish hunters. We put up about 20 birds during the afternoon, which bears out the conclusion of the conservation commission that birds, probably because of sustained heavy rains during the nest season, are way down in this area.

Except for a rather unfortunate series of lead miscalculations while Abbott and the writer were splashing around in the innermost recesses of a cedar swamp, we blamed our lack of feathered booty on the heavy foliage. And maybe a little on the fact that the birds, to borrow a line from popular song of a few years ago "wouldn't straighten up and fly right".

Late in the afternoon we eased down an old logging road, and amid the mournful croaks of ravens put up a few birds, saw many deer and occasional sign of bear.

It was a pleasant enough way to put in our time but gave added weight to evidence already gathered that pat shooting in Luce and Mackinac counties just isn't up to snuff.

Sharptail shooting, on the other hand, seems to be on the upswing in the general area with a very heavy early season kill reported by the local conservation officer. So far hunters planning a shoot in the Newberry territory might do well to concentrate on sharptails.

Incidentally, Leonard Grinnell, Lake Angelus, currently hunting out of Newberry, was one of the discoverers of sharptail shooting hereabouts and enjoyed a very fine thing until the word got around.

Now although the birds are there, so are the hunters, so things aren't quite the way they used to be.

National Hockey Loop in Earliest Opening

By The Associated Press

The National Hockey League gets off to its earliest opening in its 38-year history tonight with games at Detroit and Montreal.

* * *

At Detroit the Red Wings, the Stanley Cup champions, entertain the Toronto Maple Leafs. At Montreal the Canadiens, Stanley Cup runner-up, tangle with the Chicago Blackhawks.

On Saturday all six teams are in action with Chicago at Toronto, Boston at Montreal and New York at Detroit. The 70-game schedule ends March 20.

The Red Wings again are favored to win the league title, but many experts believe the Canadiens and the Leafs are considerably stronger and may make it rough going for the Wings.

* * *

The Red Wings open the season with just about the same club as last year. Only Jimmy Peters, valuable utility man, is missing. And the Wings may show the strongest attacking line in the business—Alex Delvecchio, Gordie Howe and Team Captain Ted Lindsay. Delvecchio has been showing well between the two hot-shot wingers in pre-season training.

Coach Jimmy Skinner, who took over the Detroit coaching duties from Tommy Ivan, thinks his club is a bit stronger, but adds: "The whole league is stronger."

Most of the competition, the experts say, will come from Coach Dick Irvin's Canadiens and Coach King Clancy's Leafs. Irvin is pleased with his club and figures his line of Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, Jean Beliveau and Dickie Moore may be the hottest in the league.

* * *

"We're better primarily because most of our rookies of two years ago are ready to burst out with big years."

From Montreal, the Hawks drafted defensive center Johnny McCormack and rookie Gordy Hollingsworth. They sent rightwinger Murray Costello to Boston for rearguard Frank Martin. Up from the American Hockey League are George (Red) Sullivan and former Leaf Bobby Hassard. The accent is on youth, with defenseman Gus Mortson, in his ninth season in the big time, the oldest man on the club at 29.

Wildcats Hope to Break Jinx

Kansas State Hasn't Beaten Nebraska Squad at Home Since 1930

KANSAS CITY (UP) — A Kansas State victory over Nebraska this Saturday would break a jinx the Cornhuskers have held over the Wildcats for a quarter of a century.

* * *

Not since 1930 has Kansas State defeated Nebraska on its home grounds. That year the Wildcats won 10-9.

Two fleet backs may provide the spark for Kansas State's long-sought victory at Lincoln. They are senior halfback Corky Taylor and junior fullback Doug Roether.

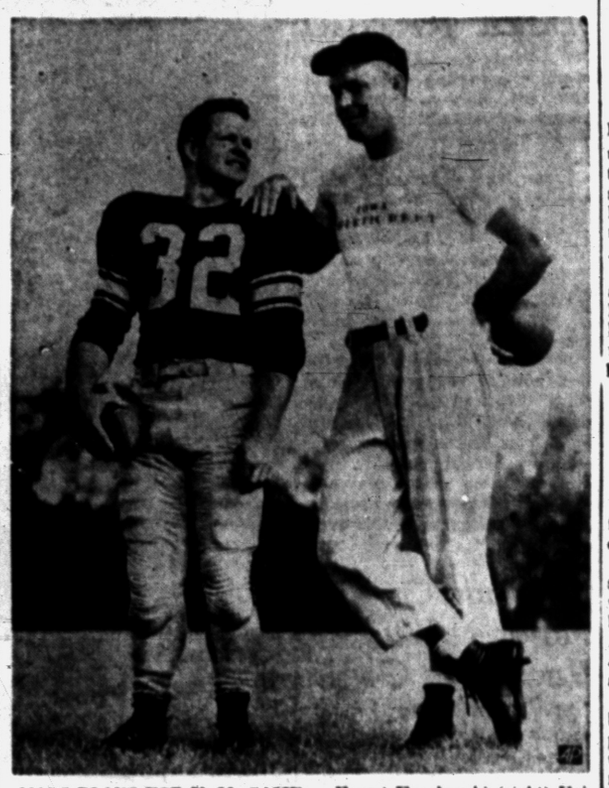

Taylor is leading the K-State squad in most departments after three games. He has scored three of the Wildcats' 8 touchdowns, caught 5 passes for 108 yards, returned 2 kickoffs for 53 yards, and gained a 226 yards net in 26 carries for an 8.7 average.

Washington 11 Downs Eastern

Braves Record Eleventh Win Over 3 Years in Junior High Loop

Defending City Junior High School League champion Washington opened its 1954 football season yesterday with an 18-6 triumph over Eastern.

* * *

Victory was the Braves' 11th consecutive win over the past two years.

Three backs each scored once for Washington. Right half Bill Lamson went 25 yards in the 1st quarter, quarterback Alex Whitlock sneaked two yards in the 2nd period and left half Willie Shaw sprinted 19 yards in the finale. Fullback Ken Beattie scored Eastern's only touchdown on a 1-yard plunge in the 3rd quarter.

* * *

Game marked the debut of John Andrews as Eastern coach. He moved from Jefferson this year to replace Tom Dodson, who retired from teaching to become a pilot for General Motors Corp.

Lincoln and Jefferson meet at 4 p.m. at Wisner Stadium today in a game postponed from Tuesday.

Wings Open Campaign With Toronto Sextet

Jimmy Skinner Makes NHL Debut, Delvecchio on 'Production Line'

DETROIT (UP) — The Detroit Red Wings open their bid for an unprecedented 7th straight National Hockey League championship tonight as hosts to the Toronto Maple Leafs, the team feared most by Detroit manager Jack Adams.

Adams, who has spent more than a quarter of a century with the Red Wings as coach and manager, knows his team can't continue its run of championships forever and he's worried about the Maple Leafs

In fact, Adams picked his Red Wings to finish 3rd this season in a pre-season forecast with both Toronto and Montreal winding up ahead of Detroit.

But the Red Wings have been installed as a heavy favorite to dominate the hockey picture again.

Detroit has all of the key personnel back from last year's squad which swept to league and Stanley Cup playoff championships. And the presence of a new coach, Jimmy Skinner, might prove to be a big asset.

Skinner has no previous NHL background, either as a coach or a player. The Red Wings are likely to go all out to get him off on the right foot.

Skinner has made one major line change, moving Alex Delvecchio up to center for Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe.

Wings will employ Glen Skov, Tony Leswick and Marty Pavelich on the second line with Metro Prystai, Johnny Wilson and Bill Dineen forming a third unit.

Terry Sawchuk is back in goal and Bob Goldham, Red Kelly, Marcel Pronovost, Ben Wolt and Keith Allen are back on defense. Two spare forwards, Marcel Bonin and Don Poile, may join Dutch Reibel on a fourth line.

Toneff to Rejoin 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Hefty Bob Toneff soon will rejoin the injury-weakened San Francisco 49ers . . . and may get his Army discharge in time to play against Green Bay at Milwaukee Sunday. The 6-foot-2, 252-pound tackle was an All-America at Notre Dame in 1951. With the 49ers in 1952 he was named to the National Football League All-Star team.

Wilkinson Optimistic Towards Texas Game

Navy's Smith Is Switched From Quarterback to End

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — History may be repeating itself at the Naval Academy this year where a sophomore quarterback converted to end has fought his way into the starting football lineup.

He is William Earle (Bill) Smith of Mobile, Ala., who took over the No. 1 right-terminal spot this week from junior Jim Owen. Coach Eddie Erdelatz promoted him after sparkling performances in the William and Mary and Dartmouth games and tabbed him a definite starter against Stanford Saturday.

* * *

Smith, big and fast at 6 feet 1 and 185 pounds, is the only sophomore to crack the first two teams. Followers of Navy football already see in his story a striking parallel to that of Dick Duden, who made All-America at Navy in 1945 after he was moved to end from blocking back.

It was at the suggestion of Duden, now an assistant coach at Navy, that head coach Eddie Erdelatz several weeks ago switched Smith from quarterback where the talent was already deep.

"He was too good a player to keep on the bench, so we made the switch," Erdelatz said. "It's working out fine."

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Top-seeded players face either experienced fellow countrymen or foreigners who know their tennis ropes today as the 13th Pan-American tournament opens its third round here.

Both advanced to the third round yesterday.

Colorado Only Major 11 With Uncrossed Goal

NEW YORK (AP)—The University of Colorado stood alone today as the only major college football team in the land with an uncrossed goal-line — and the season is still in its infancy.

The Buffaloes have blanked Drake, Colorado A. & M. and Kansas, and are the eighth-ranking team in total yardage yielded, according to statistics released Thursday by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

* * *

Richmond leads in total defense despite giving up 233 yards to VMI last week. Syracuse heads the pass defense list.

Mississippi heads the country in defense along the ground, having given up only 18 yards to Villanova last week for an average of 44.7 per game.

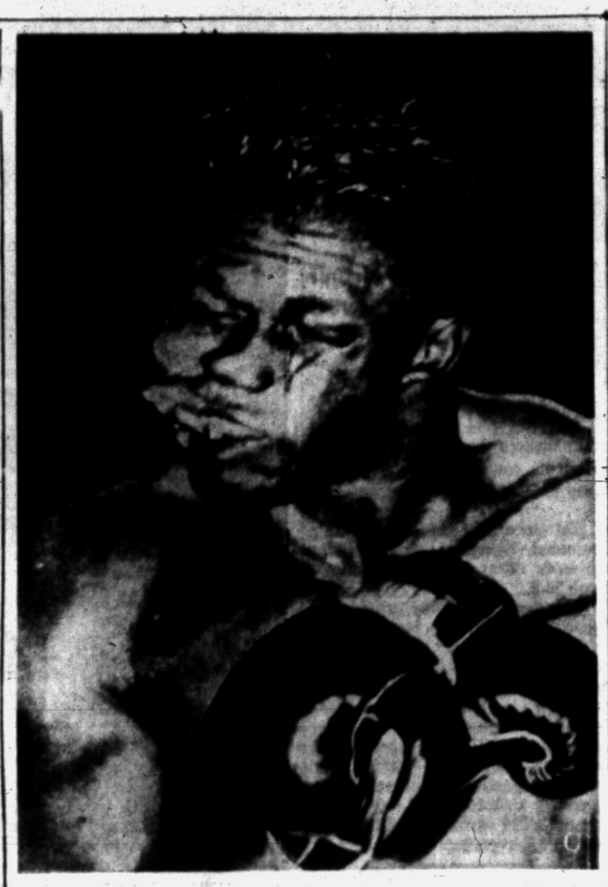

U. S. Net Stars End 2 - Day Korean Visit

Gonzales teamed with the Far East service champion, pfc. Grant Golden, to turn back Segura and Sedgman, 10-8 in doubles.

Gonzales beat Golden, 7-5, in an exhibition before an all-Korean crowd.

CRASH!—The face of Charlie Powell is twisted into a grotesque mask by the big right hand of Charley Norkus in the 7th round of a scheduled 10-rounder Thursday night in San Francisco. Powell had won 10 straight before he met Norkus, but the Port Washington, N. Y., slugger ended the bout in 2 minutes, 10 seconds of the 7th round when the referee decided Powell had absorbed enough punishment.

* * *

Norkus Slows Rapid Rise of Charlie Powell on TKO

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Charley Norkus, with a seventh-round technical knockout over California's latest heavyweight sensation, Charlie Powell, figured today he had earned a place in the back row of contenders for the title.

* * *

The Port Washington, N. Y., spoiler put the crusher on Powell's ring aspirations when he battered him into submission in a wild seventh round last night at Civic Auditorium. Norkus weighed 193, Powell, of San Diego, 212.

Norkus had scored an eight-count knockdown before the bout was halted in 2:10 of the seventh.

Ringsiders first thought Referee Frankie Carter called it a knockout. The arbiter, however, said afterwards he ruled it a TKO.

The scheduled 10-rounder was nationally televised.

Powell shot over a short right to the jaw in the first round that put Norkus on the canvas. There was no count and referee Carter said it was not a knockdown but a slip.

In his dressing room after the battle Norkus said: "Certainly I was knocked down. It was a good stiff right and I went down from it."

Powell, former San Francisco 49er football star engaging in his 13th fight, hurt his right hand in the second round.

Norkus, who knocked out Danny Nardico in Miami last February when the latter was being considered for a title shot against Rocky Marciano, was behind on the score cards of the referee and two judges when he exploded in the seventh.

Ex-Chief Gridder Plays at Wheaton

Former Pontiac High gridder Kirk Hobolth is a member of the Wheaton College varsity football squad this season. Hobolth, halfback and punter for PHS in 1953, was promoted to the Crusaders' varsity after scoring a touchdown in his 1st jayvee game.

He played over a half at quarterback last week when Wheaton routed Augustana, 46-6. Kirk is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hobolth of 779 Mae street.

Cards' Ulrich Injured

CHICAGO (AP)—Chuck Ulrich, defensive tackle for the Chicago Cardinals, has a broken bone in his right hand, Coach Joe Stydahar said today. It is uncertain whether he will make the trip for the Cleveland game Sunday. Ulrich, former University of Illinois star, is playing his first season with the Cards after service in the Army.

Week's Layoff Will Aid Sooner 11, Bud Thinks

Oklahoma Team Given Chance to Put Stress on Fundamentals

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Coach Bud Wilkinson of the top-ranking Oklahoma Sooners veered from his usual role of a pessimist Wednesday and said in so many words that his football team was ready to beat Texas in the Cotton Bowl Saturday.

* * *

Wilkinson, always affable but not ready to accept all the praises heaped on his annual output of good football teams, admitted to Sports Editor John Cronley of the Daily Oklahoman that a week's layoff worked to the Sooners' advantage.

"It's always a coach's worry about how well the kids will play as a team each weekend," he said. "There are a lot of other important problems but that is the main concern. Well, with our heavy practice stuff behind us I know by now our bunch will play it right up to the hilt.

* * *

"Now, its mostly a matter of remaining mentally alert, remembering a few things we had to learn all over again during the past week, then go all-out for every second against a really fine Texas team.

"I honestly think the week's layoff worked to our advantage. Most of the time practice periods are so few that about all you can do is concern yourself with offensive and defensive patterns for the next opponent. But with the extra week we were able to go back to blocking and tackling fundamentals before we started concentrating on Texas."

The Sooner coach said he'd feel better if Gene Calame was ready to go at quarterback but said he had all the confidence in the world in sophomore Jim Harris.

CASE—Parallel Grip.

Creates Sharp Hook—To get a maximum of hook spin on the ball, with a minimum of right-to-left ball break, the hand is moved into such position that the thumb and index finger form a parallel line across the ball.

In other words, the hand position would be similar to that of carrying a suitcase: The thumb pointing full left; fingers on the right outside of the ball, and slightly turned underneath to give security to the grip.

SHORT BREAK. PARALLEL GRIP PAYS OFF. A PIN MIXER THAT IS EASY TO CONTROL.

The hand is not on top of the ball, mind you, but slightly behind it. That is how it remains through the swing. No wrist turn whatever. Fingers will apply spin — almost a top spin—so that ball will finally break about three-quarters of the way down the alley.

Good for alleys that "run," breaking sharply from right to left. A good ball under any conditions, in fact, because it lends itself to easy control, yet has a lot of pin-mixing power. A wide hook may look pretty, but the short, sharp one collects the wood.

Two USGA Amateur golf champions turned professional at early ages, Lawson Little when 25, and Gene Littler at 23.

Camera Proves Great Addition to Sport World

Pictures Show Errors of Performers, Officials in Many Games

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK (INS) — Beyond all question, the greatest advancement in the world of sports in the last half century has been the camera.

We shudder to think what mistakes must have happened before the advent of the movie camera.

Think of the number of nose finishes that may have been called wrong in the old days and the fortunes that must have changed hands on the mistakes.

Before the cameras could pick up every foot of the running of a race, think of the fouls that must have remained hidden to the human eye but which are now mercilessly revealed by the camera.

Only last Saturday at Belmont, Eddie Arcaro's horse was disqualified because a re-run of the race on film showed that Eddie's horse had fouled another.

The cameras are equally impartial and merciless in baseball and other sports. They show whether an umpire has missed one on the bases, whether an outfielder has trapped a ball or made a shoe-string catch and whether a base-runner may have kicked a ball out of an infielder's glove.

Nowadays all football teams rerun the previous game to expose mistakes or good plays. The camera also can disclose what mistakes an official may have made.

Human eyes, human judgment and human sympathies may be fallable but the camera sees all with an impartial eye.

Indiana Horse Wins Feature at Jackson

JACKSON — St. Pat's Honor, a 7-year-old mare, owned by Lester Pletcher of Shipshewana, Ind., and driven by Dwayne Pletcher, won the feature race — The Pontiac Pace—at Jackson Raceway last night.

Pletcher brought his horse from far back in the field of Class A pacers to challenge the favorite, Clever McKinney, with Eddie Fox in the sulky, and Jimmy Brooke with Robert Whitlow at the reins.

Twenty yards from the finish line, he passed them on the outside to take the winner's share of the purse.

Harridge Asks Realtor to Keep A's Offer Alive

Bidder Says Deadline for Enlarging Stadium in KC Passed

CHICAGO (AP) — Arnold Johnson, wealthy Chicago business executive, says time is running out on his offer to buy the Philadelphia Athletics and indicates his patience is doing likewise.

Johnson has offered to buy the Athletics for a reported $3,375,000. He wants to move the franchise to Kansas City.

"I am getting together a report from my architect, engineers and even iron and steel contractors to determine how long it will take to make the Kansas City park into a big-league stadium," said Johnson. "At first they told me work would have to start Sept. 15 to 20 if remodeling is to be completed before the 1955 season opens next April.

"That means the deadline has come and gone. They are poised to start work the minute the signal is given. I will have their latest report by this weekend. If they tell me there is not enough time, I'll withdraw my offer."

Will Harridge, American League president, has asked Johnson to hold open his offer and has scheduled a meeting of club owners Tuesday in Chicago to determine the Athletics' future status.

The meeting comes two weeks after a New York session of club owners resulted in granting Roy Mack 14 days to raise $750,000 to buy control of the Athletics. He has bitterly opposed the wishes of his father, Connie, and his brother, Earle, to sell the debt-ridden club to the highest bidder.

Clark Griffith of Washington and Spike Briggs of Detroit have expressed opposition to the A's move to Kansas City. Mrs. Grace Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox also has indicated she would oppose the shift if Griffith did. Approval by six of the eight clubs would be needed for the action.

Thomas Richardson, a director of the A's and president of the Eastern League, also reportedly made an offer for the club matching that of Johnson's. He says he is backed by a small group of wealthy friends and will keep the A's in Philadelphia next year.

Johnson's plans for the Kansas City park include the building of a double deck stadium to raise seating capacity from 17,000 to 35,000.

You Be the Quarterback

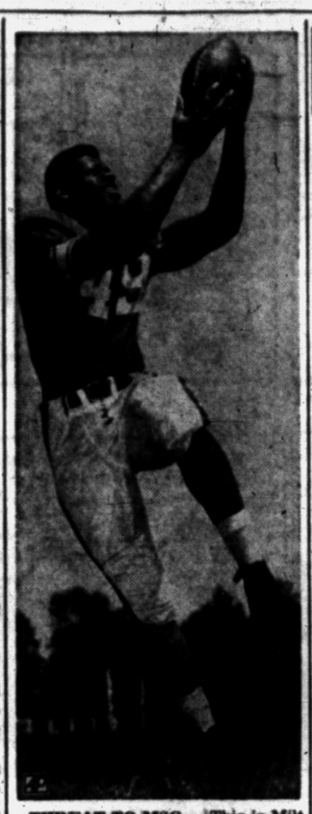

(Answer)

4. Pass into end zone. No! Pass might be unsuccessful, leaving you in a bad 4th down spot.

3. Pitchout and pass. With the end run threat, this is better than the other pass but still quite a gamble.

2. Drive through line. Better. You are marching on the ground. Stay out of the air.

1. Keep play. Best call. Too often a team takes to the air when its ground attack is working best. You should get seven more yards in two tries on the ground, especially since the defense must deploy against the pass possibility. The keep play has a better chance than the drive of getting good yardage.

THREAT TO MSC — This is Milt Campbell, star athlete who doubles as an end on Indiana University's football team and as a decathlon champion. He'll face Michigan State when State visits Bloomington, Ind., for a game Saturday.

Cubs Bring Up Two Players From Farm

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs today bought two young players from their Des Moines farm club and the Chicago White Sox assigned lefthanded pitcher Bob Cain outright to their Memphis farm.

Coming to the Cubs were pitcher Hyman Cohen, 23, and first baseman Bob Speake, 24.

Cohen, a righthander, was the Western League's top pitcher this season with a 16-6 record and a league earned run record of 1.88.

Cain originally was obtained from Memphis by the White Sox in 1949 and after a 9-12 season went to Detroit in 1951 in a deal for hurler Sol Rogovin. In 1953 he had 4-10 for the St. Louis Browns.

Hal Boyle Says:

Why Do So Many People in Hollyood Get Married?

NEW YORK (AP)—The rift between Marilyn Monroe and Joe DiMaggio, thrown out at home plate, is certain to cause 50 million self-appointed moralists to ask that old question:

"What is wrong with Hollywood marriages?"

But the real puzzle isn't that so many film colony matings end up in the divorce courts. The enduring wonder is that so many people in Hollywood bother to get married at all.

* * *

Mae West once observed, reviving a joke older than the bustle:

"Marriage is a great institution—but who wants to live in an institution?"

The divorce statistics obviously prove that scores of film stars don't actually want to live in this institution. They merely want visiting privileges. They go in and out of marriage as it suits their convenience.

Hollywood is a factory that for 40 years has been largely devoted to the manufacture of implausible celluloid fairy tales in which a pauper can marry a princess and any smart working girl can land a millionaire.

* * *

The formula behind most plots is simple and changeless: boy meets girl; there is a problem that keeps them apart; they solve the problem; boy and girl then clinch in a fadeout that is a prelude to endless bliss.

That is the main thing—the happy ending.

The trouble with many delvers in the Hollywood vineyard is that they come to believe in the plots they act out. They feel unconsciously that if they just marry all their high tension woes will be over, and they will have put the last great reel of their lives in the can—happiness.

* * *

They sometimes think of marriage as they do a sleeping pill—something to calm them down. But marriage doesn't ordinarily work that way. As countless thousands of ministers patiently preach: "Marriage isn't a happy ending—it is only a happy beginning."

Contrary to the sugar-coated fairy tales about life it offers for sale to the public, Hollywood itself is a pretty rugged jungle ruled by a financial and social caste system nearly as inflexible as that of old India.

A conventional type marriage simply isn't suitable for many who are caught up in this benzedrine-paced tempo of nervous worry and success worship.

* * *

What Hollywood needs is a new type of marriage—in fact, several types of marriage—more adapted to its needs, such as:

1. The publicity marriage. Great for two starlets who can't get their names in the paper any other way. Also fine for aging stars who need to let the public know they are still alive.

2. The multiple or mass marriage. This is useful for up to 5 actors and 5 actresses who are all, sooner or later, going to swap around anyway. By marrying each other all at once they could save future divorce costs and also have to pay only for a single big wedding celebration.

* * *

3. The contingent marriage. Under this arrangement if either performer gets better billing than the other, he or she is automatically free to shuck off the unfortunate partner as excess cargo.

Marriages such as these would bring a realizm to its marital relations that Hollywood sadly needs. Some might argue that Hollywood should reinstitute the custom of trial marriages, but this is unnecessary.

Marriage is a trial, anywhere, under the best of circumstances.

Human Eyes Not Made for Close Work: Doctor

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — Unless the human race turns back to more outdoor living, it may soon be plagued with "boudoir blindness."

That's the warning from Dr. Ned P. Hobbs, president of the South Carolina Optometric Assn., who says—the human eye was not made for modern living.

"Nature intended man to use his eyes to stalk game and look off into the horizon," says Dr. Hobbs, "not for intricate tasks within arm's length."

Weapons Being Joined for the Defense of Key American Cities

NEW YORK (UP) — Key American cities will have 'round-the-clock protection against air attack late this year when two of our deadliest defense weapons can be synchronized.

The weapons are the long-range Nike guided missile and the short-to-intermediate range Skysweeper antiaircraft gun.

The only thing now needed for bringing together the one - two wallop of these weapons is completion of the emplacements for the Nike, which are in varying stages of construction in suburbs of large cities.

Steelways, official organ of American Iron and Steel Institute, in pointing out the toughness of the overall layout, said the first emplacement scheduled for completion outside Washington, D. C., used almost 100 tons of steel in the concrete reinforcement alone.

A Nike base consists of two areas—the launching area with its fuel storage, underground magazines and the hydraulic elevators for bringing the guided missiles into position, and the radar control area.

Two officers and 36 men staff the launching area; five officers and 44 men, the control area.

Three radar units take care of search, tracking the target and control of the missiles.

Price changes were limited to fractions in all pits. After the first few minutes of activity, trading practically came to a standstill. Grainmen said the market appeared to be in need of a new incentive to move far in either direction.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ⅜ lower to ⅝ higher, December $2.18¼, corn unchanged to ¼ higher, December $1.52½, oats ¼ to ⅜ higher, December 79⅞, rye 1 to 1½ higher, December $1.37¼, soybeans ½ to 1 cent higher, November $2.69¼ and lard 2 to 8 cents a hundred pounds lower, October $14.55.

Buick Sets Goal of 556,000 Cars

Wiles Predicts Era of Prosperity Under High Competition

By ROBERT B. TARR

Pontiac Press Managing Editor

FLINT — Prediction that 1955 will be a better business year than the past year as the nation enters an era when the entire world is essentially at peace for the first time in some 13 years was made yesterday by Ivan L. Wiles, general manager of Buick Division of GM.

Speaking at a national press showing of 1955 Buicks here Wednesday Wiles said that the business decline definitely has ended. He based his optimistic outlook on three factors:

1. Consumer purchasing power after taxes continues to gain.

2. A daily population increase of 7,700 persons assures a growing demand for automotive transportation.

3. Technological advances make possible greater values for the dollar than ever before.

Wiles referred to the automotive industry as the "biggest single factor" in the national economy.

There are some persons, he said, "who still believe in the philosophy of scarcity" and that production should be arbitrarily curtailed to stimulate sales.

Asserting this was fallacious, Wiles said:

"If the automotive industry were to willfully eliminate 20 per cent of its annual production the decreased employment resulting therefore would automatically reduce the ability of the retail market to purchase this smaller volume of cars."

The resulting unemployment down through the auto industry's suppliers, he added, "would have disastrous effects on the entire economy."

Wiles predicted his company will sell more than 556,000 cars next year.

Buick's new cars will be shown to the public on Nov. 15.

He was scheduled to visit the Flint branch this afternoon.

Misc. 3926.

By Mr. Horton.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Whereas the City of Pontiac has been requested to annex a portion of the County Service Center property, and the city may have to provide as a result of the annexation, and

Whereas the City of Pontiac requested some assurance that the County will pay for all city services which the City may have to provide as a result of the annexation, and

Whereas there was some concern amongst the City Officials as to what disposition would be made of the County buildings located in the central part of Pontiac upon the completion of the new Court House, and

Whereas it is entirely fitting and proper that the Board reassure the City on the questions involved;

Now therefore be it resolved that this Board advise the City of Pontiac that whatever improvements and services which the County requests the City to construct or provide, which would normally be paid for by special assessment will be paid for in full by the County as and when the occasion for the construction or furnishing of the same arrives;

Be it further resolved that it is the intention of this Board, as soon as the new Court House facilities are available, to promptly dispose of the buildings now located in central Pontiac;

Be it further resolved, in view of the fact that annexation by the City of Pontiac must be unequivocal and unconditional other than the assurances heretofore given in the above resolution, that the City be requested to reconsider the vote by which they agreed to conditionally annex on Tuesday, June 22, 1954, and pass the resolution unconditionally.

Mr. Chairman, on behalf of the Buildings and Grounds Committee and with the concurrence of the Ways and Means Committee, I move the adoption of the foregoing resolution.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING

Members of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors:

You are hereby notified that a petition has been filed by an excess of one-third of the members elect of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors for a special meeting to consider the following:

"For the purpose of considering the results of the election on the Court House matter, bond issue and millage and for the purpose of determining the future course of action relative to resubmission of the Court House matter to the electorate of the County and any and all other pertinent matters connected therewith."

Therefore, in pursuance of the Statute, there will be a special meeting of the Board of Supervisors on Monday, August 23, 1954 at 9:30 a.m., Eastern Standard Time, in the County Office Building, 1 Lafayette, Pontiac, Michigan.

Yours truly,
LYNN D. ALLEN,
Oakland County Clerk

PROOF OF SERVICE AND MAILING

State of Michigan
County of Oakland, ss

I, Lynn D. Allen, County Clerk of Oakland County and Clerk of the Board of Supervisors for Oakland County do hereby certify that I served a true copy of the foregoing notice on each member of the Board of Supervisors, by Registered Mail, by depositing such notice in the U.S. Post Office in Pontiac, Michigan on August 12, 1954, proof of such service now being on file in my office.

LYNN D. ALLEN,
Oakland County Clerk

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 18th day of August, 1954.

Julia Maddock, Notary Public, Oakland County, Michigan.

My commission expires December 9, 1956.

By Mr. Clawson.

Mr. Chairman and Members of the Board

This Special Meeting has been called to settle upon the procedure to be followed in view of the results of the election on the Court House proposition. As you unofficially know, the vote on issuing bonds apparently carried with 21,023 voting "Yes" and 18,864 voting "No". The vote on the millage to retire the bonds failed by a vote of 21,768 "No" and 21,274 "Yes".

Our Bond Counsel, Mr. Claude H. Stevens, with the concurrence of Mr. Merritt, advises that the vote on the Bonds will stand and the millage question only will have to be submitted again to the electors.

Your Special Court House Committee, by its sub-committee, subject to approval of the entire Committee and this Board, believes that a different approach should be made to the electors and emphasis placed on some basic facts, viz:

1. That new Court House facilities are urgently needed and that the Board of Supervisors by Miscellaneous Resolution No. 2873 on January 18, 1954 (see also resolution No. 2735, 9/15/53) determined to build the facilities needed;

2. That if the millage vote is turned down, the Board of Supervisors will be faced with the alternative of considering the building and financing by Revenue Bonds where the interest cost will be much greater;

3. That the economical way to build is by "General Bond Issue" where low interest rates would prevail, particularly in view in view of the fact that this County is debt free and the approval of the ½ mill will save thousands of dollars; (as much as $1,500,000.00 may be saved by a General Bond Issue).

Now as to a plan of organization:

1. We believe the "millage" question should be resubmitted in November; the Bond proposition having been approved by the electors on August 3, 1954.

2. That this Board should appoint each Township Supervisor as a Temporary Chairman to organize a Township Citizens' Court House Committee.

3. That the senior Supervisor or his designee from each City, from the standpoint of service, should be designated as Temporary Chairman of the Supervisors from his City and that group organize a "City Citizens' Court House Committee" to function in the respective cities.

4. That the Committee in each unit arrange meetings with all organized groups in its district and place the problem squarely before them, emphasizing the dollars and cents phase involved.

5. That each unit Committee clear reports to the Special Committee through the Board of Auditors, attention of Mr. John Austin who has handled the secretarial work for the Committee), at intervals to be determined by the Special Court House Committee and immediately upon formation, notify the Board of Auditors of the personnel and officers of the Committees formed with the mailing address and phone number of the Committee Personnel to be contacted.

6. That close cooperation with the Press in each community be solicited.

7. That the Committees locally have the Press carry interviews with persons who have served on the jury and others who know first hand of the inadequacy of the present facilities.

8. That the public be advised of all the pertinent facts issued by the Special Court House Committee.

9. That the August 3rd Election returns be analyzed and special effort be concentrated in the necessary areas.

Mr. Chairman, in order to implement this report, several motions will be necessary.

Moved by Clawson supported by Schone that the millage question, as phrased on the August 3, 1954 Election, be again submitted to the electors of Oakland County at the General November Election this fall, viz:

Be it resolved by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Oakland, State of Michigan, as follows:

1. That there shall be submitted to the electors of the County of Oakland at the General November Election to be held on the 2nd day of November, 1954, from 7:00 o'clock a.m. to 8:00 o'clock p.m., Eastern Standard Time, the following proposition:

Shall the limitation on the total amount of taxes which may be assessed each year against property in the County of Oakland, State of Michigan, for all purposes except taxes for the payment of interest and principal on obligations incurred prior to December 8, 1932, be increased as provided in Section 21 of Article X of the Constitution of Michigan, for a period of 20 years from 1935 to 1974, both inclusive, by 1/20th of 1%, (50c per $1,000) of the assessed valuation as equalized, for the purpose of paying principal and interest on, and establishing a reserve for, bonds aggregating not to exceed $4,500,000 in principal amount, to be issued to pay the cost of erecting a county building in the City of Pontiac, Michigan, to house the courts and the general county offices?

2. That the said proposition shall appear upon the ballots in the above form and shall appear upon the voting machines in the following form:

Shall the tax limitation against property in the County of Oakland, for all purposes except taxes for obligations incurred prior to December 8, 1932, be increased from 1955 to 1974, both inclusive, by 50c per $1,000 of the assessed valuation as equalized, to service not to exceed $4,500,000 of bonds to be issued for a county building?

When voting machines are used, the full text of said tax limitation proposition as set forth in paragraph 1 hereof, shall be posted in each election booth.

3. Each city and township clerk shall give notice of the submission of the aforesaid proposition by including the same in the election notice for said General November Election, which notice shall contain the statement of the County Treasurer as to previously voted tax limitation increases affecting property within the County of Oakland.

Moved by Clawson supported by Dennis that the recommendations as to Temporary Chairmen and Citizens' Committees in the foregoing report be approved and by adoption of this resolution, the respective temporary Chairmen be declared appointed to organize their local Citizens' Court House Committee. Carried.

Moved by Clawson supported by Schone that the facts be made known to the public, that the Board of Supervisors has determined by Miscellaneous Resolution No. 2873 to build the Court House; that the site has been settled upon and is no longer a question and that the only question involved is whether or not we save the money a favorable interest charge on "General Obligation Bonds" will amount to, as contrasted with the higher rate on a Revenue bond basis. Lakefront with Possibilities
If you have a little imagination and a bit of energy, plus a desire to own a home on the lakefront with sand beach and a lot that is well wooded and just 1 block off the pavement, you owe it to yourself to see this home—which is 30x40 on its foundation. This home has a beautiful stone front, it still needs the finish siding on the outside, but don't let that scare you—once you're inside and see the abundance of livability that this home affords, you'll be glad to choose your own siding. There's 3 large bedrooms, extra large living room with fireplace. Activity room which is equally as spacious as the living room also features a fireplace. Easy to work in kitchen overlooking lake. Utility room. Partial basement. Gas heat. Gas hot water heater. Plastered walls. Complete bath room. 2 more bedrooms partly finished upstairs. This home built in 1946. A real opportunity for the ambitious at $13,850 with $5 000 down. Buy now in the off season and save!

Flood of Nickels Slows to Trickle

Mt. Pleasant Family Gets $8,130; Await Tax Decision

MT. PLEASANT (AP)— It's been nearly four weeks now since TV fans started sending nickels to Charles and Margaret Deibel in a nationwide campaign to make them rich.

The 26-year-old Deibels still don't dine on caviar or drive a gold-plated limousine. But since Sept. 11, the night Garry Moore asked his audience to send Mrs. Deibel a nickel apiece, the family bank account has grown by $8,130 — the equivalent of 162,300 nickels.

The flood of letters which once poured in on the Deibels' modest home at the rate of 25,000 a day has receded to 75 to 100 a day. And daily receipts have dropped from more than $1,000 to about $5 or $10.

Now the Deibels are chiefly concerned with their potential income tax and the letters and calls from people all over the country who want to share their nickel bonanza.

Internal revenue service officials in Detroit say they'll have to study all angles of the case before they decide whether Uncle Sam will demand a share of the Deibel nickels.

From whatever is left, Mrs. Deibel expects to buy the electric organ she's always wanted and her husband a camera and slide projector. The rest will go toward the education of their two children, a 2½-year-old son and a 6-months-old daughter.

Meanwhile, Deibel is working as before as an appliance salesman Mrs. Deibel has settled back into for Consumers Power Co. and her household routine.

Networks Want It Kept Secret

Lanza's, Hutton's Mouths Out of Step With Sound, Fans Now on Guard

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK (AP)—Has television painfully stubbed its toe over dubbed-in recorded singing voices on its spectaculars?

It would seem so, particularly because of the effort to keep the fact a "secret."

The excuse offered has been that the recording made in advance takes a strain off the star which might otherwise affect the singing voice in the actual performance.

But the trouble is the viewers have caught on. In the Betty Hutton spectacular the dub-in was so poor her lips didn't always keep exact time with her voice. Neither did the tempo of the song seem fully in accord with what was taking place on the screen.

The development which pinpointed the situation was Mario Lanza's appearance in the first Shower of Stars, when a three-year-old record of his voice was used. When an AP writer smoked out the story, it met with violent denial. It wasn't until two days later that the network admitted the substitution.

Normally the big telecasts record the principal's tunes during a rehearsal a few days in advance of show time. This is a carry-over from the movies, where it has been employed much more successfully because there is no "on-the-air" pressure as in television.

The out-of-step singing may have something to do with the lack of enthusiasm viewers have shown so far toward spectaculars, all of which have been in color with the idea of creating a demand for new color-TV receivers.

Watching a live program and seeing the lips of a star move ahead or behind the words can be quite disconcerting. It even could drive the audience away.

Another drawback about spectaculars is that most people have to watch them on black and white sets.

Reception of color pictures on a black and white receiver often can be quite unsatisfactory if the set is not performing topnotch. Even then, the image may not always register as sharply as straight black and white, tending toward background haziness. However, closeups and medium shots as a rule are excellent, producing an almost ideal half-tone effect.

The next spectacular is Sunday night, when a lot of folks will be watching closely to see what has been done about the voice situation and about improvements other than color which might tend to increase listener appeal.

The show, Sunday in Town, a cross-section of some of the events which take place at New York's City Center, will have Judy Holliday, Steve Allen and Dick Stawn as stars. The producer will be Max Liebman.

Paris Designer Fath Reported Seriously Ill

Jode McCrea, Son of 2 Stars in 'Lucy Gallant'

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Jode McCrea, the handsome 20-year-old son of screen stars Joel McCrea and Frances Dee, will make his film debut in Pine-Thomas' "Lucy Gallant," Paramount VistaVision production.

Jode will appear in scenes with stars Jane Wyman, Charlton Heston, Claire Trevor and Thelma Ritter.

Young McCrea visited the "Lucy Gallant" set to have lunch with the director, Robert Parrish, who has directed the senior McCrea in several pictures. Producers William Pine and William Thomas saw the good-looking young man and immediately offered him the role in the Technicolor film.

Texans Double Since '10, Deaths Stay the Same

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Health Department said yesterday that the July 1, 1953, population of Texas was 8,397,000 with 66,493 deaths that year.

But in 1910, the department noted, the population was 3,896,542—less than half what it was last year—and deaths were almost the same, 66,210.

In Dallas, the police had no explanation. The first law against carrying a six-shooter, they said, was passed in 1887.

Probate Judge Rejects Part-Time Name Change

DETROIT (UP) — Stanislawa Strzempek, 47, wanted to change her first name to Stella, but for working hours only.

She explained to Probate Judge James H. Sexton the switch would be a convenience for the 100 customers she serves daily as a fitter for a downtown department store.

By night, she said she would just as soon remain Stanislawa.

When Judge Sexton said this couldn't be done, she changed both names to become Stella Stempek.

Card Party Guests Find No Hosts to Meet Them

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UP) — The guests arrived—but there were no hosts.

Officers of the West Shoremen Drum and Bugle Corps, in a newspaper advertisement, had issued invitations to anyone interested to come to a public card party to be held at the West Shore VFW Post Home.

About 80 persons responded, only to find the card tables folded and no cards in sight. A redfaced spokesman for the corps explained: "We're sorry. Please blame it on the busy season we're in the midst of. Another date for a card party will be scheduled later."
