Roger M. Kyes Returns to GM, Made Director

On Vice President List; Will Be Top Man Over Truck, Dayton Plants

Roger M. Kyes, who gave up his post as general manager of GMC Truck & Coach Division and as a vice president of General Motors to become deputy secretary of defense under Secretary Charles E. Wilson, has returned to GM.

He was re-appointed a vice president of the corporation yesterday afternoon and for the first time placed on the board of directors. He will be group executive in charge of the GMC Truck & Coach and the Dayton and Household Appliance Divisions.

He also will serve on the operations policy committee and the administration committee of GM.

The announcement after a board meeting quashed rumors that the 48-year-old industrialist would leave General Motors for a top post with another auto maker.

In his old job Kyes was the head of one of GM's operating divisions. He now is group executive in charge of seven operating divisions — the four Dayton, Ohio divisions, two household appliance divisions and the GMC Truck and Coach Division here.

In addition to the GMC Truck & Coach Division, these include, in Dayton: Frigidaire, Inland Manufacturing, Moraine Products and Delco Products; and the Packard Electric in Warren, Ohio, and the Delco Appliance at Rochester, N. Y. When Kyes resigned the No. 2 defense post he had agreed to fill the $22,500 job with the Defense Department for only one year and that year ended last Feb. 2. Kyes remained on the job until May 1 at the request of Wilson, former GM president who left the company to become secretary of defense.

GM directors also elected Ivan L. Wiles, Buick general manager, and Thomas H. Keating, Chevrolet general manager, as directors.

Wiles and Keating also were named to the operations policy committee with Kyes. Their elections are effective immediately.

Cab-Union Case Re-opens Today

Photographs Submitted Showing Picket Lines Around Stands

The contempt hearing against officers and members of Teamsters Local 614, AFL, brought by the Pontiac Cab CO., May 5, was re-opened today before Oakland County's three Circuit Court judges.

Cab company attorneys, who charge the union with ignoring an injunction against interference with company operation, submitted photographs of pickets around company cab stands at Saginaw and Pike streets and at 430 Orchard Lake Ave.

Headed by Mrs. Lucile G. Cornell the cab company charges the union with strongarm tactics in trying to organize drivers.

Mrs. Lee Hill, cab dispatcher, testified this morning that since the court's restraining order of May 2 forbidding the union to interfere with the operation of the cab company, she called police May 16 to stop pickets from preventing passengers from entering cabs.

Mrs. Hill said the men were using "rather strong language," but admitted on cross-examination that they were not swearing. "They told the passengers to ride in a union cab, not use a cab cab."

Cohn Testifies Stevens Anxious to Oust Reds

Admits Government Is Really in the Hands of Patriotic Individuals

WASHINGTON (AP)—Roy M. Cohn testified today he never heard Secretary of the Army Stevens say anything to indicate "he liked Communists any better than I do."

And Cohn agreed—in response to a suggestion from Army Counsel Joseph N. Welch—that the "government is really in the hands of patriotic individuals" and is "not really in the hands of traitors."

His testimony came at a session of the McCarthy-Army hearings where the predominant mood seemed to be a chastened sense to hold off from the pounding blows of the past weeks of angry exchanges.

In the background were reports of strong sentiment to try to wind up the hearings as quickly as possible.

Recognizing this, Welch told the committee he was "somewhat troubled" lest they be wound up before he could get all his cross-examination completed.

Chairman Mundt (R-SD) told Welch he wanted to reassure him "you will be given all the time you want to interrogate witnesses."

Welch said he wants ample time to cross-examine Sen. McCarthy and Francis P. Carr, staff director for the McCarthy subcommittee.

During the luncheon recess, Mundt told reporters he will try to get a showdown Thursday on the question of whether the hearings can be wound up next week. Cohn's statement Stevens never said anything to him to indicate any liking for Communists came under questioning from Sen. McClellan (D-Ark).

McClellan suggested Cohn was "softening" his charges that the Army tried to "blackmail" the McCarthy subcommittee into halting its investigation of Communists in the Army.

Cohn denied that, saying he was "just as anxious, as we were" in getting individual Communists out of the Army.

Welch, questioning Cohn, wanted to know if Cohn wouldn't help him relieve some of the "dismay" that Welch said the nation may have felt from all the charges and counter-charges coming out of the hearings.

U.S. May Fight if China Attacks

Dulles Warns That We Might Act in Asia With or Without Allies

WASHINGTON (INS)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the U. S. might fight back — with or without allies — if the Chinese Communists openly engaged in armed aggression in Indochina or anywhere else in the Far East.

But Dulles declared that the U. S. has no intention of going into Indochina alone under present conditions.

He also told a news conference that the Korean talks at Geneva are very close to a breakdown, and he indicated that time is running short for America's free world allies to accept the limited action concept he has advocated to save as much as possible of Southeast Asia.

Dulles warned that the time may come when the united action plan is no longer practical. However, he emphasized that, as of today, the plan still holds promise of success — if it wins general agreement.

The cabinet officer said the Geneva conference may come to a head in the next few days, both on Indochina and Korea.

Rebel Tunisians Grab at Cigarettes in Boycott

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—Bands of young Tunisian nationalists roamed the native quarters of Tunis today grabbing cigarettes out of the mouths of smokers.

The independence-seeking nationalists were attempting to enforce a boycott against French goods, particularly such state-manufactured items as tobacco.

Bentley on Witness Stand Tells of Shooting in House

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Alvin M. Bentley today calmly confronted the four Puerto Rican fanatics who shot him and four other congressmen on the House floor March 1 and described the attack that almost snuffed out his life.

The Michigan Republican, most seriously wounded of the lawmakers, testified at the Federal Court trial of the Puerto Ricans on 10 counts of assault.

As Bentley described the murderous attack, he glanced toward the defense table and saw his assailants face-to-face actually for the first time.

Afterward, he told reporters: "I was curious, of course." Compared to photographs made at the time of the attack, Bentley found the ring-leader — 34-year-old Lolita Lebron — "more subdued . . . pensive . . . meditative." He said her confederates — Rafael Cancel Miranda, Andres Figueroa Cordero and Irving Flores Rodriguez — looked "the same."

Testimony from Dr. Joseph R. Young, Bentley's hospital surgeon, vividly disclosed how narrowly Bentley escaped death.

In graphic medical terms, Young told how the bullet hit Bentley below the right arm-pit traveled downward through his chest and body, tearing gaping holes in his lung, diaphragm, stomach and liver. The surgeon doubled up his fist to demonstrate the size of the hole in Bentley's liver and said that at first it appeared that organ was "almost beyond repair."

When Bentley was admitted to the hospital, Young said, he was "the picture of a man in severe shock" — cold, clammy, gray and in excruciating pain.

"His condition was critical and remained so for many days thereafter," he said. "The outlook for his recovery was poor."

During the surgeon's testimony, Bentley listened intently from a front row courtroom seat, to see as he said later — "if he was holding anything out on me." Bentley still is suffering the effects of the gunshot wound and some of the damage will be permanent.

He said he hopes to be a courtroom spectator later in the trial if the Puerto Ricans testify.

Bidault Claims Peace Progress

French Delegate Leads Discussion on Indochina at Geneva Today

GENEVA (AP)—French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault said today some progress has been realized at the Indochina peace conference and "the results achieved show us the path to future agreement."

In a speech obviously aimed at public opinion in France, where Premier Joseph Laniel's government is fighting for its life, Bidault laid heavy stress on what he called his "effort at conciliation."

The French foreign minister led off the semi-public debate of the nine-party parley, which awaited a major policy declaration by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov later in the day.

Bidault's speech was primarily a review of the proceedings to date. He acknowledged that all major issues remained unsettled, but expressed hope that solutions might soon be in sight.

Though there was no advance word on what the Russian would say, Western diplomats generally believed he would either (1) make new proposals to make it difficult for them to break off the conference, or (2) blast the West for refusing to accept Communist proposals already advanced for a cease-fire in Indochina.

Western circles also believed his speech was aimed as much at the French National Assembly in Paris as at the Geneva delegates. The Assembly swung back into debate on Indochina today, with many of the deputies highly critical of the policies of Premier Joseph Laniel's government.

Ground Troops Mop Up After Heavy Bombing

Indochinese Catholics Repel Commie Assault on Delta Village

HANOI, Indochina (UP)—French air and ground forces today destroyed two large Communist troop and supply bases so near Hanoi that smoke rising from the rubble could be seen from the city.

Warplanes furnished to the French by the United States wiped out a Red base only seven miles from this imperiled city by dropping 50 tons of bombs, the French High Command announced in disclosing for the first time how near the Reds had advanced.

The bases were built up by small organized units, but the main force of Red troops, the conquerors of Dien Bien Phu, was reported halted temporarily by bombed-out sections of Highway 41.

The high command declined to give details of the destruction of the second base, located 7 1/2 miles southeast of Hanoi.

American-made B 26's unloaded 1,000-pound bombs on the first base, near Seno, east of Hanoi, and fighter planes followed through with delayed-action bombs.

French ground troops rushed into the base after the bombing mission had been completed but encountered little resistance. They killed 11 rebels who put up a fight.

Reconnaissance planes took pictures which the high command said showed the base was "100 per cent destroyed."

French military sources said the bases had been prepared for many weeks to serve as stepping stones for Red Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap's grand offensive against the delta later this month.

Within the delta perimeter, a massive column of Red regulars and guerrillas was reported building bases similar to the ones destroyed today, awaiting the signal for the mass assault.

In another Red River Delta action rebel soldiers attacked the important village of Tanh Phu, 25 miles west of Hanoi, in a region densely populated by Indochinese Catholics.

Catholic militiamen repelled the attack and killed 30 Reds, the high command said.

The air raids on nearby Red bases were announced amid these major developments on Indochina:

Stocks Hit Hard but Grow Steady

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was shaken severely today by a major selling wave that hit hard in the second hour.

But by early afternoon the reaction had spent itself, and the market steadied above the lows. Losses went to between 1 and 4 points in many instances. Few issues were able to withstand the drive.

Shortly after the start of the second hour, selling mounted in intensity until the tape fell behind in reporting actual transactions on the floor of the New York stock exchange.

U. S. Jet Pilots Compete Teams Hit Targets at 600 Miles an Hour in Air Force's 1st World Series of the Air

By JOHN W. FITZGERALD

Assistant to the Editor

NELLIS AIR BASE, LAS VEGAS, Nevada — Forty-five miles from Las Vegas on the sun-baked desert at Indian Springs Gunnery Range top United States Air Force jet aces started the initial day of the first All Jet Gunery Meet Monday.

On the gunnery range early Monday morning with the temperature in the 90's U. S. jet teams went to work in earnest to pile up points in the first round of the five day meet.

Target after target was ripped to shreds as all four members of each team took deadly aim and fired away.

Monday's events included low angle bombing, low angle strafing, high angle dive bombing and high angle rockets.

Several factors must be considered in this modern day type of gunnery. First of all for these jet fighters this is the world series and they are playing for keeps. The type of jets competing in this meet include F86F, F84G, F94B, F86A.

The average speed will be between five hundred and six hundred miles an hour.

Traveling at this rate the pilot has only five seconds from the time he picks up the target until he releases his bomb load. The radius of the target circle is 75 feet and the majority of his fall will be within twenty feet of a direct bulls eye.

Coming in for a bomb run the planes are flying around eight thousand feet when they start their dive on the target, they must release their bombs or rockets not (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Canine Tornado Victim Finds Peace in New Home

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

Dogs, too, have tales to tell about the disastrous dates in history that have left their marks on mankind — for instance June 8, 1953, in Flint. On that evening a tornado spread death and destruction over a residential area in that city.

If "Red" could talk, he would narrate a story that goes something like this:

"One year ago today I was a carefree young Irish Setter, living the luckiest dog's life any canine ever experienced. My home, although it was supposed to be outdoors in a nice new kennel, somehow turned out to be a lovely home on Coldwater road in Flint.

"My master was a perfectly swell guy. Always remembered the bone and would offer a gentle pat on the head when what I really should have received was a firm reprimand—couldn't seem to resist chewing his slippers.

"And my mistress, well, she was not only easy on the eye, but she had that special gentle quality that made this young dog heart of mine feel I was completely accepted as a member of the family.

"And then it happened. "On that day a year ago at 8:45 p.m., I had decided to sleep out in my doghouse inasmuch as it was so warm and muggy.

"My story is written in the hearts of hundreds of lonely survivors and on grave markers of the several hundreds they mourn.

"Within a few seconds, the tornado placed me among the many animal orphaned whose families had been swept away and whose homes had been leveled.

"I don't remember any more until I awoke. Someone had picked me up and placed me in the Genesee County Animal Welfare Society (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

GRATEFUL—This Irish Setter named "Red" seems to be thanking his mistress, Mrs. J. Gardner Lewis of Birmingham, for giving him a new home after the Flint tornado a year ago today made him homeless. The Lewises have received an annual award for kindness to an animal from the Oakland County Chapter of the Michigan Animal Rescue League, Inc.

Birmingham Commission Passes Budget for 1954-'55, Approves 1.85 Pct. Interest

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — City commissioners walked out of last night's City Commission meeting with glooms of satisfaction on their faces: passage of the 1954-'55 budget came off without a hitch, and interest on the sale of the $225,000 fire station general obligation bonds was pleasantly low.

The $1,335,855 budget shows an increase in tax rate of one-half mill, raising the rate from last year's $19 per $1,000 assessed valuation to $19.50. Money-wise, the budget is $1,171,405 higher than its predecessor.

Northern Trust Co.'s low bid of $27,583.75 as total interest on the bonds for two new fire stations was readily accepted by the lawmakers, who were awed by an interest rate of only 1.85 per cent.

City Manager Donald C. Egbert commented that he did not know of any bonds recently sold with as low an interest rate.

Also on the brighter side, an informal hearing on the proposed off-street parking lot in the area bounded by Merrill, Woodward, Brown and Pierce found the majority of those attending in accord.

A 50-50 method of sharing the assessment on the $227,000 lot was basically agreed upon by the city and property owners attending.

Commissioners will hold a committee session Thursday to review the proposed off-street parking ordinance, and Oscar Gunderson, traffic engineer, will bring up to date a traffic survey made of the city.

Property owners in the area will receive a detailed report outlining the assessing method and amount. These items will all be discussed at a future hearing.

He was associated with General Motors for 15 years and worked for other car manufacturers before going to Packard. Survivors include a widow and a sister, Mrs. Charles Hoffman, of Tipp City.

Contracts have not yet been let, but Holy Name Church officials hope that construction of the new $600,000 church will begin by the 15th of this month. The Alumni House and the church are to be demolished.

All permanent equipment and furnishings have been moved to the auditorium, where activities will be held until completion of the new building. Parishioners have been asked to pledge at least $300,000 at this time.

suggestions, that the "government is really in the hands of patriotic individuals."

Cohn also agreed "absolutely" that American fighting forces "on land, in the air and on the sea" are as wonderful today as they were in World War II, World War I, or the Korean War.

Despite all the "dismay and wrangling," Welch asked, "the country and particularly the mothers and fathers of our boys in service may rest assured we have a beautiful Army, and Navy, and Air Force, ready to fight Communists abroad and at home."

Cohn agreed there is "no doubt about it."

Earlier, Cohn swore that Army Counselor John G. Adams once said he would "stop at nothing" to prevent the McCarthy subcommittee from questioning members of the Army's top loyalty board.

And, Cohn testified, Adams threatened to cause an "embarrassing" report to be circulated about him unless the subcommittee withdrew subpoenas for loyalty board members.

His testimony on this point was in support of the McCarthy camp's contention the Army was trying to stop Sen. McCarthy's investigation of communism in the Army when it accused the senator and his aides of improper pressures for favored treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine.

Today's morning session of the 29th day of the televised hearings got under way 45 minutes late because the senators first held a closed-door meeting to discuss the possibility of speeding up the hearings. There were reports of considerable sentiment to try to wind them up this week.

However, the closed meeting apparently produced little beyond another clash between Sen. Symington (D-Mo) and Sen. McCarthy. Other senators described it as similar to their public row of yesterday.

The Democrats, noting McCarthy's demand that Clark Clifford be called as a witness, made a formal motion that Clifford be summoned to the witness chair immediately. The Republicans voted it down 4-3.

Kidnaper Released, Judge Drops Charge

SAN MATEO, Calif. (U) — Ervin Arnold, who said he took 4½ year-old Kathie Langdon to give her a good home, was free of a child stealing charge today.

Municipal Judge Fred M. Wyck-off said no useful purpose would be served by holding Arnold, 46, a welder. The action followed a conference yesterday with Kathie's divorced mother, Mrs. Marilyn Campbell of Sacramento. Mrs. Campbell said Kathie had been virtually reared by Arnold, whom she called "Daddy Arnold" and his late wife.

Kathie accompanied Arnold from the home of Peter Dahl, her grandfather, May 23.

She was found, unharmed, with Arnold two days later.

5 of 6 Trustees Resign Posts in Port Austin

PORT AUSTIN (U) — This village at the top of the Michigan Thumb has lost five of its six governing trustees by resignation in the last month.

Only Jack A. Webb of the original six remains in office.

Each of the five who quit said only that he was resigning because of "conditions beyond my control." But there have been sharp differences between the trustees and Village President Harry F. Schmidt on policy and procedure.

Philip Woodworth, village attorney, said a new set of trustees to govern the village could be accomplished via a special election or by appointing three new trustees to form a quorum, which could then appoint two others.

Those who have quit as trustees over the last month are Harold Knoblock, Andrew Horetaki, Joseph Pattison, Walter Hunt and Henry Antoski.

Only about 50 more local youngsters can register to attend the seventh annual Frog Hollow Day Camp sponsored by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department and Pontiac Public Schools.

Over 450 children have already registered, according to David R. Ewalt, parks and recreation director. Only the last two of seven camp periods remain open, said Ewalt. They begin on Aug. 2 and 9.

Boys 7 through 13 years old and girls 9 through 12 may register by taking their applications to the recreation department at 35 Hill St. and paying the $2 fee.

The fee pays for bus transportation, a Frog Hollow tee shirt and noon meals. Activities will include fishing, hiking, campcraft, singing, adventure trips, cooking and woodcraft.

Curtsie on special assignments, while continuing as a vice president, a director and a member of the operations policy and administrative committee.

Curtsie and other GM officers were re-elected.

Keating joined GM in 1916 and since 1949 has been a vice president, general manager and a member of the administrative committee.

Kyes joined GM in 1948. He served as executive in charge of the procurement and schedules staff and then as assistant general manager of the Truck and Coach Division before being promoted to general manager two years prior to his "draft" by President Eisenhower and Secretary Wilson.

The Dayton and Household Divisions manufacture such items as Delco electric equipment, Frigidaire refrigerators and washers, Moraine bearings, and other products.

Car-Stripper Caught, Receives Probation

A West Bloomfield Township youth was placed on 90 days probation for larceny from an auto after he and a juvenile companion were caught Sunday morning stripping a car.

Larry Fredericksen, 17, of 6894 State Park Blvd., and a 14-year-old companion were held by Lewis Loch, of 32510 Oakley, until Orchard Lake Police could notify Oakland County Sheriff's deputies who were investigating another auto-stripping at the home of Mrs. Bill Bern, 3363 Elder.

Fredericksen pleaded guilty Monday before W. Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C. Dietler. The juvenile is in custody of his parents pending court action.

Deputies said the youths took them to the hiding place for their auto accessories loot, and found Mrs. Bern's missing hub caps among the auto parts cache.

French Destroy Two Red Bases

sources in Washington reported that the Eisenhower administration was deeply concerned over the Red drive into the Red River Delta and the President may decide within 30 days whether to ask Congress for authority to intervene directly in Indochina.

2. Gen. Paul Ely arrived in Saigon on his way to Hanoi to take over the supreme command in Indochina.

Ely arrived in Indochina as military observers reported that Communist strength in the all-important Red River Delta now was equal to that of the French.

Ely, relieved from assignment as French army chief of staff to assume the responsibility of French supreme commander in Indochina, arrived at the capital of Saigon by plane from Paris.

Outgoing High Commissioner Maurice Dejean, whose duties also will be assumed by Ely, and Gen. Henry - Eugene Navarre, the outgoing military commander, met the new chief at the airport.

Ely's arrival coincided with a strong Communist buildup for an all-out assault on the delta. The Red rebels Monday captured three French posts in the delta in sharp clashes south of Hanoi.

Guatemala Cuts Civil Liberties

Red-Supported Regime Suspends Constitutional Rights for 30 Days

GUATEMALA (U) — Guatemala's Communist-backed government ordered a 30-day suspension of constitutional guarantees today.

The action was taken at an extraordinary session of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's Cabinet. It followed three weeks of rising tension following U.S. objections to the delivery of a large shipment of arms from Communist Poland to the Central American country.

Among the civil rights suspended was the constitutional article establishing freedom of expression and the press.

The Cabinet said it was imposing the suspension in view of the "current situation." A week ago Arbenz charged a well-financed plot of "serious proportions" had been uncovered against his government.

New fears of trouble were aroused last night when a two-engine mystery plane showered anti-Communist leaflets over a town in western Guatemala and also flew over the capital.

Another such plane—or the same one—dropped leaflets on the capital May 26 and dived on the city several times before it disappeared.

Time Eases Memory of Tornado Horror shelter along with dozens of other homeless dogs. I wasn't even a hero, like some of the others who had led rescue parties to their buried families.

"All I wanted was an occasional sip of water. No food at all. Then I would fall asleep again, hoping each time to wake up and find I had just had a bad dog dream."

"Every time the door opened, I hoped they had come for me—but they never walked through that door."

"Several days went by and I heard the shelter people telling how I cried and groaned in my sleep, but they said they could find no broken bones or cuts. They said the hair on my nose and around my collar had turned completely white overnight. I couldn't explain to them that it was just homesickness that bothered me."

"One day I did open both my eyes when visitors came and I saw Mr. and Mrs. J. Gardner Lewis, 581 N. Adams Road, Birmingham. They had come for me in answer to a newspaper story someone had written about me. I knew right away they wanted me and I wanted to go with them."

"Once, last November, I had a visitor at my new home. It was my former mistress who had just gotten out of the hospital. My master was dead. I was glad to see her, but she and I both agreed my place now was with the Lewis family and she officially transferred my ownership."

"Hunting's good around here and when the memory of the tornado creeps back, I start looking for a pheasant to chase. I like chocolate covered peanuts, too, and I even got a whole bag of my own for Christmas."

"Really bad times are when it storms, and then Mrs. Lewis understands and sits and talks to me. Gradually this tornado business is slipping away and I expect to live happily ever after with the Lewises."

The conclusion of Red's story is told by Mrs. Lewis who says he is a fine dog and they are glad they could do something for this animal who lost his first family.

In recognition of the "outstanding humanitarian act" of the Lewises, the Oakland County Chapter of the Michigan Animal Rescue League, Inc., has just presented the couple with its annual citation.

ROLAND W. REESE

New Postmaster Replaces Fowler

BIRMINGHAM — After almost six years as postmaster here, Bernard E. Fowler, 55, served his last day in that capacity yesterday.

Succeeding Fowler is Roland W. Reese, 51, of 1847 Webster, who took office today.

Active in civic affairs, Reese formerly owned and managed a market here. He is a member of the Recreation Board and deputy director of civil defense here.

A Democrat, Fowler was appointed in 1948 by former president Harry S. Truman. He was removed from office following alleged operational irregularities revealed after a postal inspection last October.

Fowler said he has no immediate plans for the future.

Shaggy Dog Tale Portrays Poosh as Real Linguist

WASHINGTON (INS) — The shaggy little dog named Kid is reputed by its master to know 2,000 words, although it never talks.

Kid and her owner, H. S. Gatchell, 73, paid a visit to the news room of the Washington Post and Times Herald, where Gatchell put his dog through her paces.

"Kid," said Gatchell, "where is the thing that words come from?"

The educated pooch walked across the room and placed her nose against Webster's Dictionary.

The throng around the dog increased. "Kid," said Gatchell, pointing to the circle of idle craftsmen, "one of them has a bow tie."

The canine walked up to the city editor and stuck her forepaws on his chest. Sure enough, he sported a bow tie.

Then came the piece de resistance that made one spectator murmur, "It makes me ashamed of my own children."

Gatchell dropped a piece of bread on the floor. Then he told the shaggy dog, "Don't touch it until the man in the bow tie tells you to, three times."

The city editor asked the dog twice to take the bread. She didn't budge. At the third request, however, she eagerly grabbed the food and bolted it down.

Gatchell admitted that all his dogs were not that smart. "I had one dog who couldn't even learn his name," he remarked sadly.

Laniel Regime Likely to Topple

French Government in Danger as Assembly Debates Indochina

PARIS (AP)—Premier Joseph Laniel's foes returned to the National Assembly today to attack the Indochina war policy today amid signs the shaky French government may finally be forced out of office.

The Indochina debate, which began last week with the usual assaults from the Socialists and Communists, was expected to warm up today when members of parties in Laniel's own majority open fire on his conduct of the war. Several leaders from these groups have asked to speak.

Debate on the explosive issue is not expected to reach the crucial stage until tomorrow. Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, on whom Laniel apparently is counting to turn the tide in his favor, will return from the Geneva conference to speak then.

Bidault waited over in the Swiss capital to hear Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's policy speech to the Indochina conference today. Western observers in Geneva generally believed the Russian had scheduled his statement at this time in an effort to influence the National Assembly action.

It was generally agreed that Laniel, who twice in the past month had to call for votes of confidence to continue his Indochina policy unchecked, would seek another such vote at the close of the talking.

The balloting probably will not come before late Thursday or Friday.

Reporter Scares Robber With His Press Card

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—A newspaper reporter frustrated a would-be robber here with the mere flick of his press card.

Chester Brooks, 18, a reporter for the San Angelo Standard-Times was waiting at the Western Union office here Sunday night for his friend to lock up.

Someone poked into Brooks' back what he thought was a knife. A voice said, "Tell your friend to give me all the money in the place."

Brooks fished a press card from his shirt pocket and flourished it before the intruder, saying, "I believe you've made a mistake, buddy."

Whereupon the intruder backed out the door and fled.

Joel Martinez, 26, Odessa, Tex., was arrested later at a bus station and was charged yesterday with assault with intent to rob.

Faces Court Martial in Assault-Stubbing

George Theobald, 19, who pleaded guilty last week to a charge of felonious assault in Oakland County Circuit Court, was turned over to authorities at Selridge Field Monday to face AWOL charges.

Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty suspended sentence on the assault charge so that officials could return him to the air base for court martial.

Theobald was involved in the fatal stabbing of Paul Velez, 19, of 294 W. Wilson St., last Jan. 10, for which his companion, Oliver Ortega, 16, was sentenced to 1½ to 15 years in prison yesterday. Ortega was found guilty of manslaughter by a circuit court jury May 28.

To Graduates of All Ages, New Frontiers Lie Ahead

By LAURA Z. HOBSON
International News Service

RIVERDALE, New York — I just saw the graduation day exercises of two lovely girls, Miss Jill Whedon and Miss Jonna Simon, and to me it was a special graduation day because when they were infants, nearly 18 years ago, I had held each of them in my arms many a time.

Never are we more aware of the flight of time than when our own sons and daughters, or those of our closest friends, pass one of the milestones that separate childhood from maturity, and this outdoor ceremony on a sunny afternoon was just such a milestone.

In their long white dresses, one a redhead, the other a blonde, each thinking herself so grown-up and each looking so utterly young, these two girls symbolized all the nation's sweet girl graduates this month of June—and if I may keep the adjective, all the sweet boy graduates too.

Watching them take their diplomas, I remember a picture I'd seen a day before at a "sweet woman graduate," a grandmother graduate in fact, Mrs. Blanche Stanley, one of Columbia University's 6,400 graduates, and first in her own class of 350.

In her black college gown and mortarboard, she held up her Phi Beta Kappa key for her 18-month-old granddaughter, Christine—and the two faces matched each other in exuberance and joy.

"I've dreamed of a college degree," Mrs. Stanley said when I phoned to ask about her graduation day, "for 38 years."

"I finished high school at 14½, worked for a while and then went to teachers college upstate for two years. Later, I got a job as an accountant, married, and had two children, but college still remained a dream. At last, in 1931, with my son in the Army and my daughter engaged, I finally enrolled."

Wasn't it tough, being surrounded by youngsters in every class? "Oh, I got along beautifully," she said. "Once in a while I'd hand out some advice, but they accepted me and there must have been a thousand incidents that made me laugh."

She specialized in Russian history, which rather intrigued me too. "My grandfather was in our diplomatic service," she explained, "and maybe that started my interest in world affairs. But there was a more practical reason as well."

ARTHRITIS PAINS WERE UNBEARABLE SAYS CALUMET LADY

"Rheumatism pains struck me whenever I moved my arms or legs, and lots of times I would have done anything to stop the pains," says Mrs. Peter Stella, 71 County Road, Calumet, Michigan.

"For seven years I suffered the awful pains of rheumatism, arthritis and lumbago. Any movement that I would make sent pains shooting through my arms, legs and back. When I bent over I never knew if I would be able to straighten up or not. I could hardly get out of bed in the mornings, and it was very painful when I walked. It's terrible to say, but there were times when I wished I was dead because of the unbearable pains. I went to a clinic in Wisconsin and after a thorough examination, they told me that I was in good health except for the rheumatism and arthritis. They couldn't help me, so I tried about every medicine under the sun, but nothing I tried helped me until my husband saw an ad in the newspaper for O-JIB-WA BITTERS. It told about the good results O-JIB-WA had brought to another person that was suffering the same way I was. He wanted me to try it, but I was discouraged with all medicines, and didn't want to. He brought home a bottle of O-JIB-WA BITTERS anyway, so I started taking it. It was almost a month before I saw much results, but in four months I was all better. I get around fine now and do all the things I couldn't do before. I have my own garden in which I do all the work, and I even painted our house this year. My husband says it seems like he's got a new woman in the house. I give many thanks to O-JIB-WA BITTERS for making my new health possible and hope other people who are suffering will give it a try. I know they will be as pleased with O-JIB-WA BITTERS as I am."

U.S. Studying McCarthy Taxes

Investigation Continues, to Take 60 More Days, Andrews Says

DENVER — T. Coleman Andrews, U.S. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, said yesterday his agency is looking into financial affairs of Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) and will wind up the probe within 60 days.

Andrews told reporters after a speech the investigation has been in progress for many months. In his speech to a group of Denver civic leaders, he said his department has no authority to disclose such investigations "but McCarthy has saved us the trouble—he has announced he is being investigated."

Atty. Gen. Brownell on Oct. 16, 1953, gave McCarthy a clean bill of health on questions of personal finances and possible election law violations, but said the government still was investigating the senator's income taxes. A report issued by a Senate elections subcommittee on Jan. 2, 1953, raised questions about McCarthy's financial transactions.

Three men appearing before Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan Monday on driving under the influence of liquor charges pleaded not guilty, and their trials were set for June 16.

PUSAN, Korea — Twenty-two crewmen apparently drowned when a small Korean freighter sank in a storm off Korea's southern coast last week, police reported today.

Ambulance Airplane in Sea Crash; 3 Live

ACAPULCO, Mexico — A Mexican ambulance plane bringing an air crash victim to a hospital here crashed at sea near this Pacific resort town yesterday.

A search of the wreckage disclosed no trace of the injured man, Teofilo Olea Figueroa, or the two crewmen. Police at first concluded all had been killed and their bodies washed out to sea.

Then late last night searchers found all three on a lonely beach near Acapulco, alive but badly hurt. The crewmen said they had towed their patient through swift currents to the beach; then had lost consciousness.

Olea had been injured in the earlier crash of his own plane at Omatepec, 100 miles east of Acapulco.

5-Cent Chocolate Becoming Victim of Rising Prices

CHICAGO — The 5-cent candy bar may become a treat of the past if the price of cocoa beans continues its rise, says the president of the National Confectioners' Assn.

Philip P. Gott said the price of cocoa beans, at present 70 cents a pound compared with 5 cents a pound in 1941, is forcing candy makers to decide whether to reduce the amount of chocolate in their products or raise prices correspondingly.

He said the problem heads, the agenda of the group's 71st annual convention being held through Thursday.

Asks Examination on Breakin Charge

Gene Hill, 43, of 10-Mile and Beck Rds., Novi Township, demanded examination on breaking and entering charges Saturday before Orion Township Justice Helmar G. Stanaback. Hill is being held in Oakland County Jail after he failed to furnish $5,000 bond.

Examination of Hill on a charge that he broke into a storage shed at the Dr. Goldberg Day Camp at 41390 W. 10-Mile Rd., Novi, will be held June 15.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies arrested Hill, a camp employee, after the breakin in which thieves took two portable motors and tools from the camp. The stolen property was later recovered.

Cupid Wins Case: After 50 Years Couple Marries

VANCOUVER, B.C. (U-A) 72-year-old Philadelphia woman, cheated of romance in England 50 years ago by a stern father, sailed for New Zealand today as the bride of the ex-farmer her father forbade her to love.

John Edgecombe of New Zealand, a 70-year-old wealthy dairy farmer, married Prudence Coker yesterday in a civil ceremony here shortly after they arrived from opposite sides of the globe.

Their romance started on a Devonshire England farm. Miss Coker's father ordered Edgecombe to leave the farm. Edgecombe prospered in New Zealand. Miss Coker went to Philadelphia.

Edgecombe, whose first wife died in 1932, learned Miss Coker's address last January and proposed after a short exchange of letters. They met here for the first time since 1904.

Aid to Koreans Wasted--Rhee

Bureaucratic Red Tape Biting Into Rebuilding Money

SEOUL (U)—President Syngman Rhee today accused the United States of wasting Korean aid funds on "unnecessary administrative expenses" and proposed that he take over the U.S.-financed rebuilding program.

Rhee said the ruins of Korean factories "stand gauntly for anyone to see, with few signs of reconstruction or rehabilitation despite the millions of dollars that supposedly were earmarked for that purpose."

"China received billions of dollars worth of goods and materials, but most of it was wasted," Rhee declared in an interview. "Whoever may have been responsible, we do not want Korea criticized as China was."

The ROK President suggested that the United States "grant dollar credits to the Republic of Korea, as has been done in the past with France and Great Britain, supply a small staff of financial and procurement advisers and provide for strict accountability."

"We want to make sure that every dollar is spent honestly," Rhee declared. Informed of Rhee's criticism, a highly placed U.S. official said he was mystified by recent statements of South Korean government officials attacking the aid program.

He said joint approval of expenditures for all aid measures is required by law and the South Koreans have approved all major projects.

"The hardest job we have had here is to make haste slowly and try to advise Korea to spend the money wisely," he said. "They expect factories to spring up overnight."

Rhee said the United States and South Korea should withdraw immediately from the Geneva conference.

"The world knows that we never had the slightest hope that the Communists would consent to the unification of Korea at Geneva or at any other conference," he declared. "That was why we opposed the truce and why we continue to insist that all negotiations with the Communists are futile at best and dangerous at the worst."

Pontiac's School Needs

Do the people of Pontiac want half day school sessions?
 We don't think so.

But that inferior brand of education is just what is in prospect unless the electors of the district do something about it.

That is why Pontiac's Board of Education is submitting a 10 year school tax increase program on the ballots June 14. The additional money is needed to meet increased operating costs and finance more school buildings and classrooms.

Back in 1948 State school aid amounted to $112 per pupil. The resulting $1,555,000 paid more than two-thirds of the total school budget. Beginning in July, State aid will be $130 per pupil. But the resulting $2,210,000 will pay less than half the $4,847,499 school budget because of higher costs. At the present rate local property taxes will yield about $2,000,000, leaving a $638,000 operating deficit.

By September total school enrollment will be 17,000 or 1,200 more than at present. With every possible existing facility bursting at the seams, the board has no choice but ask the people for more money.

Its tax increase program, therefore, is designed to balance the operating budget and finance a 10 year, $9,000,000 building program. The increased cost to the average taxpayer with property assessed at $3,000 will run from $13 to $14 a year.

This additional tax revenue will make possible new buildings to care for an expected enrollment of 23,000 by 1964. Planned expansion includes 100 more grade school rooms, 10 multipurpose rooms, a new 48 room senior high school and 48 junior high classrooms.

Pontiac can't afford to dodge this challenge.

Anyway, He Deserved It

Though his views hadn't a thin chance of standing up in court, in this case we share Lapeer County Sheriff Gregory's dislike of diplomatic immunity.

The reason is that it was diplomatic immunity which sprung one ISTVAN TORMA from Sheriff Gregory's jail after the arrest had grown into an international incident. The trouble started when TORMA, who is second secretary of Communist Hungary's Washington legation, apparently went on a bender, starting in Detroit.

In Lapeer County the car in which the diplomat and his two drinking companions were riding, forced a sheriff's car off the road. The three men were arrested on charges of being drunk and disorderly. Torma's companions were fined, but the Hungarian stood mute in court. In effect he said to Sheriff Gregory "you can't arrest me."

But arrested he was and he stayed that way until our State Department intervened, through Gov. WILLIAMS and Atty-Gen. MILLARD.

Despite assurances from Mr. DULLES' men that TORMA couldn't be held, Sheriff GREGORY thinks he deserved jail as much as the other two, and we agree.

In fact we suggest that Mr. TORMA stay away from Michigan and that his government recall him for conduct unbecoming a diplomat.

It's well and good for a person to have a lot of backbone, but not enough to reach the point where he combs his hair.

Dr. Bunche Cleared

It must be gratifying to all who know and admire Dr. RALPH J. BUNCHE that an investigating board has upheld his loyalty.

As most people familiar with his record realize, the director of U. N.'s trusteeship division is one of the Nation's outstanding citizens. Born in Detroit, he worked his way up despite the handicaps of poverty and race.

A star athlete and a student at Howard and Harvard Universities, he is well grounded in both anthropology and ethnology. Besides service in our State Department, he played a distinguished role as head of the U. N. Palestine Commission.

The decisively favorable report on him by the International Organizations' Employees Loyalty Board vindicates the judgment of U. N. Secretary General DAG HAMMARSKJOLD. The world organization's top executive has chosen Dr. BUNCHE for the new position of deputy secretary general.

The record indicates that Dr. Bunche will take into that office the same talents and devotion which have made his previous public services so valuable.

The poor contribute most to prosperity. Nineteen out of 20 rich people are too stingy to spend money (that's why they're rich), but most poor people are spendthrifts who put their money into circulation as fast as or faster than they receive it.

Congressman Dondero Didn't Cause Delay in Passing of St. Lawrence Seaway Bill

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical to the nature.)

Writer "Donkey" rightly named himself in his recent letter attacking Congressman Dondero for having to take 20 years to get the St. Lawrence Seaway across.

That 20 years is only a drop in the bucket. The first bill appropriating money for that seaway called for $45,000 for dredging a channel at St. Clair Flats. The bill passed Congress in 1855. Congress passed it over his veto, however.

Zach Chandler (Rep.) got another appropriation through Congress only to have it vetoed by another Democratic president, Buchanan. In the battle to uphold that veto the leader was Jefferson Davis. August 20, 1867, real work did begin and was completed (St. Clair) late in 1871. Another deepening was begun in 1873 and completed in 1878.

In those early days Democrat leaders "loaded" the committee in charge of bills for internal improvements with southern and eastern Democrats led by Jeff Davis to the ratio of six against western improvements to one from westerners.

Who has fought the hardest against the St. Lawrence down the years? It is Democratic New York City and they are still going strong. Don't blame it on Dondero and the Republicans for that 20 year delay. This is the first time since 1928 that the Republicans have had Congress and the Presidency.

World Going to Bad, as Forecast in Bible

This old world seems to grow worse and worse day by day; but this is prophesy being fulfilled according to the Bible.

The proof is made plain in the actions and disbelief of atheists and agnostics today more than ever before.

Mothers Who Are Jealous of New Babies Must Overcome Their Selfish Thoughts

Noreen hated her baby so intensely she was sent to a mental sanitarium for shock treatment. Thousands of wives have occasional hateful flashes regarding their new baby, so read this carefully. It is not abnormal to resent disruption of your happy monopoly of your husband so don't think you are going insane if you feel like Noreen. But recognize your thinking.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
 Case L-326: Noreen D., aged 29, went berserk after her baby was born and spent three months in a mental sanitarium where she had a long series of shock treatments. Many wives get unstrung during and after the first pregnancy, so I shall present this case for its scientific value. Paste it in your scrapbook.

Noreen was a beautiful girl who attracted men as honey draws flies. She had suffered a very unhappy childhood, with a drunken father and a broken home before she left grammar school.

So she was unduly hungry for attention and love. Her vivacity and beauty made social affairs a balm to her previously wounded ego.

Then she married, and within two months found that she was to have a baby. She became frantic with anger and bitterness.

"Dr. Crane, I first tried to have an abortion, but this failed. Then I almost lost my mind with rage when I found I had to stay home from parties.

"My husband's work kept him away a great deal, and now I could no longer travel with him.

For the very act of talking over one's problems, helps lessen the tension. And she was not so unnatural as she thought, for it surprised her to know how many thousands of other wives have secretly hated their first baby, at least momentarily. For the pregnancy interferes with their own social life.

If a wife has been a coddled, only child and has been unduly spoiled, or if her childhood has been hard and she then doubly relishes the delight of a husband who loves her, it is not unnatural to have secret grudges occasionally against any kind of who may spoil her privacy.

There is no inevitable attraction between mother and baby. This love is a learned habit, and usually starts during early pregnancy. But hatred may also develop then, too. So send for my bulletin "Facts about Pregnancy," enclosing a stamped return envelope plus a dime. Learn to love your baby early.

"My husband would call me by telephone each night, which was the only thing that kept me going. "But I raged at fate for dealing me this unlucky card, and I kept building up greater dislike for my baby.

"In the middle of the night, while alone in our country home, I had the baby. There wasn't even a doctor or nurse in attendance.

"I became delirious with pain and frustration. During the following week, every time I heard the baby cry or even move in its crib, I could have screamed so great was my resentment.

"I couldn't even bear to nurse him, although I had plenty of milk. Even to this day, and five years have passed, I can't stand the sight of mothers pushing baby carriages.

"They make me so insane with rage that I almost black out. I literally cross the street to avoid passing a mother with a baby.

"Dr. Crane, I realize my attitude is unnatural, but this is just the way I feel, so I am telling you the truth."

Off Cuff Political Talks Seized, Distorted by Reds

By DAVID LAWRENCE
 LONDON — Anybody who wants to see the relations between Great Britain and the United States stronger on the side of friendship need not look far for the causes of the often exaggerated differences. There are relatively few Communists in Great Britain, but nobody knows the extent of Communist influence which is invisible.

There are, on the other hand, troublemakers who deny any connection with the Communist party and yet who manage to direct the left wing of the Labor party into channels that coincide somewhat with the line of hostile expressions coming regularly from Communist propaganda.

Thus, the other day the London correspondent of "The New York Times" wrote these significant sentences:

"The idea that the United States and the Soviet Union are two equally malignant colossi whose quarrels Britain can avoid has been spread by leaders of the left wing of the Labor party in speeches, newspaper articles, and pamphlets for the last two years. "As a result many thousands of working-class folk honestly believe that Britain, long a citadel of freedom, can remain neutral in the contest between the free world and totalitarianism."

It is interesting to note that politicians of the left wing here have recently been portraying the Eisenhower administration as eager for war, and this line, oddly enough, has appeared in newspapers in Southeast Asia as well as on the continent of Europe.

It has long been a Communist propaganda objective to try to picture the American government as a "warmonger."

So, while normal and natural differences of opinion occur between Britain and the United States, everything that is said in a press conference in Washington is seized upon as an excuse to distort the American position.

Incidentally, one may well wonder whether the presidential press conference as an institution should not be given a thorough re-examination by the government at Washington and some drastic changes made in its operation lest it do far more harm to the United States than it does good abroad in allegedly keeping the American people informed.

As between waiting a day or so, until a carefully prepared statement can be issued to define a public policy, and taking the risks of what the impromptu utterance in a press conference can do by way of damage to American interests abroad, the value of a few hours' delay to take proper precautions is obvious.

They do not have press conferences here in Britain with the prime minister. The government is interrogated regularly in the House of Commons by the opposition party, but the questions are submitted well in advance, as they should really be in press conferences in Washington. For these are not ordinary times.

Conditions such as prevail in wartime are being faced on every side except by the press, which still feels that military operations or plans remain fair game in the news business.

The existence of an enemy who is ready to transmit every scrap of information ferreted out by a vigilant press seems somewhat different.

Vitamin C Aids Assimilation of Calcium and the D From Sunshine Also Big Help

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
 One of the physiological functions of calcium in the individual with normal nutrition is (quoting Wright's Applied Physiology and Duncan's Diseases of Metabolism) coagulation of the blood. This is to say, calcium is essential for normal clotting of the blood, which prevents excessive bleeding.

Calcium deficiency, from which most Americans suffer, is not the only cause but certainly it is a common cause of constant bleeding of the gums, frequent or excessive nosebleeds, prolonged bleeding or oozing from surgical or accidental wound and excessive menstrual bleeding.

Best food source of calcium is milk and milk products, particularly cheese, any kind of cheese. Skim milk is as good as whole milk in this respect but sour milk, butter, milk, Acidophilus milk, and Bulgarian milk (skim milk boiled for five minutes and sown with a culture of lactic bacilli obtained from yaghourt (Yoghurt) and allowed to stand in a warm place for several hours while it ferments) is better, provided one likes the sour taste, because an acid reaction in the intestine favors assimilation of calcium.

If the Balkan people have more vite or live longer than other people it is more probable because they assimilate more calcium from food and not because the lactic bacilli in the soured milk they consume prevent the growth of harmful germs in the intestinal tract.

Metchnikoff himself turned up his toes at the age of 71—perhaps the poor fellow ran out of Bulgarian lactic bacilli. Only one-third of the calcium in times to be overlooked, though there apparently is more caution in this respect in Britain than in France or in America.

It is not difficult to provoke a breach between the American and British peoples if international affairs are reported with the same spirit of contentiousness that we see in an athletic contest.

It is bad enough to see members of Congress and of Parliament swinging out in criticism on foreign questions without informing themselves of all the facts, but it is even more discouraging to see the political partisans of past administrations in the United States out on the stump seeking publicly to discredit the foreign policy of their own government in respect to our allies. This is just for the Communist mind.

The miracle is that the relations between Britain and America on the whole remain as good as they are.

Washington and London are working more closely together, governmentally speaking, than they have been in a long time, and there would be no harm in bluntly expressing differences of opinion if it were not for the manipulations and the mischiefmakers who tend to use such items in their publicity campaign to create a real cleavage between the British and American peoples.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

International News Service
 You probably wondered who the sad villagers were in the chorus of the Army-McCarthy sponsored television clinic.

They telled not neither did they spin. For an over-optimistic moment we thought somebody had finally produced the silent commercial plunger.

But the fellow seated directly to the rear and left of Jenkins was not his golf side. He was a curious tourist who happened to be going by the building.

The rather beefy old gal with the terrace of chins was boning for a baccalaureate. This month she graduates from the conservatory of keyhole astronomers.

Do you remember the other old gal bobbing up and down like a crow in a cornfield? She specialized in monitored telephone conversations on five-party lines.

Every once in a while Mundt turned and thanked the official back-scratcher in the second row. He is the only man in the Capitol who can push congressional laundry into a mail chute.

The melancholy person back of Adams looked like the corporal in charge of pall-bearers. Actually he was a sidewalk superintendent who came in during the rainy season.

Did you notice the fidgety character who parted his scalp from ear to ear? He was a Hartz Mountain canary raiser shopping for a new song.

That little fellow in back of Senator McClellan was a mousy character who happened to get trapped. Reading from left to right he should have been in the Fort Dix photograph. So the committee made the amende onerous by permitting him to look important out of focus.

That little old lady with the feather in her toque was somebody's mother. Her wandering boy saw her and brought her home. That was the reason he was wandering.

The kernel in back of the jiggardier-derrier looked like they were riding tandem. The janitor put in bicycle seats for them. But nobody there got tickets from a speculator.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities.—Rev. 18:5.

Many afflictions will not cloud and obstruct peace of mind so much as one sin; therefore, if you would walk cheerfully, be most careful to walk holily. All the winds about the earth make not an earthquake, but only that within.—Archbishop Leighton.

Most Americans get insufficient vitamin D daily. People should expose the bare body to sunshine, direct or diffuse skyshine, whenever possible, for this enables the body to produce vitamin D.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, sent to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered if Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Californians Go to Polls Today

James Roosevelt Pits Famous Name Against Marital Scandal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—James Roosevelt, eldest son of the late President, pits the political drawing power of his once-magic name against headlined scandal charges and nine opponents today in the feature race of the California primary election.

Voters will ballot for a U.S. senator, 30 congressmen, a governor and other state offices.

Perhaps 50 to 55 per cent of the 5,664,000 registered voters were expected to respond to an unexciting campaign between Republican Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and Richard P. Graves, Democratic candidate for governor, and a fairly routine fight for the U.S. Senate.

Roosevelt appeared confident the voters in the Democratic 26th Congressional District of Los Angeles would overlook sensational charges of his estranged wife Romelle that he was intimate with a dozen women—charges he denied in court.

"It has been a very satisfactory campaign," the tall, 46-year old Democratic candidate said in an election eve statement. He did most of his campaigning in about 200 homes in the Y-shaped district.

His chief Democratic opponent, Ned Redding, community newspaper publisher and a descendant of Thomas Jefferson, predicted he'd take both nominations himself. Both cross-filed on the Republican ticket. In all, five Democrats and five Republicans entered the race.

RETURN OF THE PRODIGAL PUP—"Where have you been, Billy Boy?" seems to be the question mother dog Sandy (right) is asking her long-lost son. It seems the Chicago family that owns Sandy gave Billy away, but mother dog began to pine to the extent of going on a hunger strike. Owner Mrs. Irene Peterson had to put an ad in the paper to locate the pup and pay $25 to get the young fellow back.

Hearing Starts on Jobless Pay

House Committee Will Consider Extension of Compensation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Another item of President Eisenhower's legislative program comes under congressional scrutiny today as the House Ways and Means Committee opens hearings on a proposal to bring another six million workers under the unemployment compensation system.

The hearings get under way on the heels of a fresh government report showing a modest improvement in the over-all employment picture.

A Commerce-Labor Department report, issued late yesterday, said employment increased by half a million between April and May. The new total was 61,119,000. Unemployment declined by 160,000 to 3,305,000, a high for May since World War II.

With factory employment still dropping — but at a reduced rate — the departments conceded that the nation's employment improvement in May was "smaller than usually occurs at this time of year."

The Ways and Means Committee expected to devote four days to hearing Eisenhower's proposals to extend unemployment compensation coverage to about 2,150,000 federal workers, 3,500,000 employees of smaller operators, and 200,000 agricultural processing workers.

About 36 million of the more than 61 million American workers now are covered. Farm workers are exempt and there is no pending proposal to bring them in.

Eisenhower's plans do not call for congressional action on jobless pay benefits. These traditionally have been set by state law. The federal government collects a 3 per cent payroll tax on employers to pay the system's costs but rebates most of it to the states.

Red Chess Team Minus Kingpin May Get Rooked

NEW YORK (AP)—A Russian chess team, expected here for a tournament with an American team starting June 16, will be without its No. 1 player, world champion Mikhail Botvinnik.

Harold M. Phillips, who arranged the match, reported yesterday that Botvinnik had been dropped from the team but all efforts to find out why had been fruitless.

Phillips, president of the United States Chess Federation, said Botvinnik is a frail man and shows great tension when he plays. "My own belief is that Botvinnik's health would not permit him to come," he said.

The champion's absence, he said, increases American prospects for victory.

'26 Motorcycle Holds Up for Trans-U.S. Crossing

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Glen O. Miller, 74, of South Gate, Calif., is crossing the continent on a 1926 motorcycle. He's on his way to visit a stepson, Harold O. Miller, in Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Traveling only in daytime, the retired woodworker took 14 days to get here from California. He resumed his journey today after a week's visit with another stepson here.

Big-Car Luxury and Performance at the Lowest Price of all

The closer you compare values the more certainly you'll see—here's the standout buy on automobile row.

In size and weight alone Pontiac offers you more car per dollar than a like amount ever bought before. And that's important, because that long wheelbase is the reason for comfort, riding ease and roadability unapproached within hundreds of dollars of its modest price. Pontiac is always restfully smooth, steady and quiet. Your hands on the wheel are free of jarring road shocks. You round all corners on an even keel . . . cruise without tiring for hours on end.

Powering this big, luxury car is an engine without a peer for all-around performance. It just goes on and on—mile after mile and year after year—responding with quiet, effortless alertness to your touch . . . always ready for nimble action in traffic, or a day-long run.

And along with these big-car features you get remarkable savings. Operating and upkeep economy are, of course, exceptional. First cost is the least for any big, luxury automobile—within a few dollars of the lowest-priced cars. Our trade-in appraisals are notably large and Pontiac's resale value is extremely high. Come in for the facts about today's most startling value.

Bob Considine Says:

Unlike President, Advisers See His Program Moving

WASHINGTON (INS) — How's Ike's legislative program coming? Darned slow he feels. Others around the White House who know more about the Congress than does the President say it's coming along as well as could be expected—when one considers he has only a 3-vote edge in the massive House of Representatives and the Republicans are slightly the lesser party in the Senate.

Maj. Gen. Jerry Persons, an old hand around Capitol Hill who is Eisenhower's liaison man there, let me see the box score on the program at the White House the other day. I don't use "box score" loosely. The president's legislative program is listed on eight or ten huge charts which show the exact condition of each bill at the moment. The charts are spread out before the President and his legislative advisers—each Monday morning for discussion and diagnosis.

As of now, only two of the ten farm program measures have passed, and three of the 12 appropriation bills. One chart of ten bills, ranging from Hawaiian statehood to immunity for witnesses appearing before congressional committees, showed one bill passed (migratory labor) and one "presumed dead"—Taft-Hartley law amendments.

On another 11-item chart, there were four "X's"—big ones. They were the St. Lawrence Seaway, a measure which had evaded both F.D.R. and Truman, extension of excise taxes, the Highway Act extension (all funds collected by the federal government on gasoline taxes go to roadbuilding and maintenance), and the Korean Security Treaty (which only had to pass the Senate).

Mrs. Hobby's special bills are moving slowly, save for the top one, extension of social security benefits to groups hitherto excluded. Of the next 20 items displayed, seven had "X's" beside them, including "air force academy." The 18-year-old vote was killed dead.

Gen. Persons expects Congress to extend the trade agreements law and bring in a broad housing program. He doesn't necessarily subscribe to fears expressed within the administration that Ike is in for a beating on his farm price-support program (a sliding parity scale), its major tax plans, and his efforts to get a debt limit increase.

Eisenhower takes an active interest, and should. History keeps its own box score on such things. He knows it will decide whether he was a good, bad or indifferent president by what it shows.

The Eisenhower legislative program, incidentally, is a sample of his penchant for delegating authority and his zeal to create a "team." Last August he asked his cabinet officers and heads of independent agencies to submit to him the proposed legislation which they thought was needed to make his campaign pledges and general promises come true.

More than 1,300 proposed laws were presented to the White House. A committee formed by Gen. Persons first weeded out all but 350. With the aid and consent of the cabinet (whose members had to appear and scrap for their selections) the President cut the list to 55 before tossing it on to Capitol Hill—just behind his hat.

Gen. Persons spends more time on the Hill than at the White House, explaining and sometimes cajoling. Half a dozen other White House aides, including Boston attorney Max Rabb and the brother of Gen. Al Guenther, are also kept busy lining up congressional support.

Ike's Monday meetings at the White House with his downfield blockers are blunt and to the point. Ike reads the congressional record and more than holds his own in the sessions. The senators concerned are Ferguson, Saltonstall, Bridges, Knowland and Millikin; the Representatives Martin, Halleck, Amden and Leo Allen. The cabinet officer or independent agency head is brought in, grilled, gets in his licks.

"Everybody says what they damn think," Gen. Persons said. He said, too, that he's optimistic... considering.

EXPLODING STAR—Discovery of a titanic explosion that occurred about 20,000,000 years ago was announced by the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, Calif. Arrow points to bright object which appeared a month ago. It is a supernova, or exploding star, produced by the explosion which Caltech astronomers say was vastly more powerful than that of an H-bomb. Photograph was made by a 200-inch Hale telescope at Palomar.

United Fruit Co. Drops Pamphlets to Strikers

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (U) — The United Fruit Co. pressed its case directly with the strikers today in an attempt to end the paralyzing, month-old walkout of some 25,000 banana workers.

In a surprise move obviously designed to bypass balky union officials the company airdropped thousands of leaflets over the struck banana belt last night. They outlined a compromise offer to boost wages and improve working conditions.

Kalamazoo Annexes Panhandle Acreage

KALAMAZOO—The City of Kalamazoo is some 300 acres larger today by virtue of a State Supreme Court decision approving annexation of the "Panhandle"—the Michigan not the Texas variety.

The high court ruled yesterday in favor of Kalamazoo's annexation of the industrial area, called the Panhandle, located on the outskirts of the city. It covers about 300 acres.

The ruling, passed by a 5-3 vote, ended a two-year court fight between Kalamazoo and Kalamazoo Township.

Eleven industries occupy the entirely non-residential area.

The annexation will add $5 million to Kalamazoo's assessed tax valuation.

Boy, 12, Rescued at Swimming Pool

OAK PARK — A 12-year-old Detroit was reported in fair condition in Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital, Detroit, today after suffering a brain concussion while swimming at the Crystal Swimming Pool, 15500 W. Eight-Mile Rd.

Police said Melvin Boyer was in the water when his cousin, Harvey Simon, 11, also of Detroit, saw him reach for the side of the pool, then sink to the bottom.

Harvey summoned a life guard, who in turn called police. A rescuer stood by but was not used.

It was theorized that the boy struck the bottom of the pool after diving into the water.

Residents in Vicinity of Northland Shopping Center Vote

SOUTHFIELD TOWNSHIP — Voters in the southern strip of Southfield Township Monday voted against the incorporation of the area as the city of Southfield Park. Casting a total of 2,243 votes, residents turned down the incorporation 1,337 to 906. Sixty-one per cent of the 3,679 registered voters in the area cast their ballots. Population of the area is about 7,800.

Proposed for incorporation as a home rule city was a six square mile area bounded by Greenfield and Inkster and Eight and Nine Mile Rds. The area includes the huge Northland shopping center.

Twelve candidates had also filed for election to a nine-member charter commission to draft a charter for the city if the incorporation issue were approved.

"I think the people showed good judgment in successfully preserving the boundaries of the township," said Township Supervisor William Roemer.

John Crew, president of Southfield Citizens League, said that the group worked hard toward incorporation and might try again.

Said Howard Coleman, publicity chairman for the league, "We did the best we could and it seems the people of this area are not prepared to incorporate at this time."

Asked if it had been a fair vote, Coleman said, "We feel that it was a fair vote. This is still a democracy and the majority vote still rules."

Coleman said there was no ulterior motive in working toward incorporation of the area, but all who did so felt sincerely that it was for the good of the district.

"We intend to carry on with the Southfield Citizens League and its aims to better our area," he added.

The vote by precincts was: No. 2 at John Grace School—173 yes, 141 no; No. 6 and 8 at Grace School—413 yes, 348 no; No. 9 at Nine Mile and Prosper road fire station—176 yes, 248 no; and No. 12 at Magnolia School—144 yes, 600 no.

Planes Spray 34,200 Acres

High Winds Halt Effort to Strike Gypsy Moth Menace in Lansing Area

LANSING — A total of 34,200 acres out of a scheduled 104,000 have been sprayed from the air in the first two days of an intensive effort to wipe out a Michigan infestation of gypsy moths, destructive to trees and vegetation, the State Agriculture Department reported today.

C. A. Boyer, chief of the department's Plant Industry Bureau, said that the four planes blanketing Lansing and surrounding territory with DDT spray had to curtail operations Monday because of brisk winds. They were not able to complete nearly half of the area as originally scheduled.

Boyer still has hopes that with favorable weather, the job can be completed in two more days, however.

On the assurance that the outbreak can be killed off if the area is sprayed before June 15, the state "little legislature" last week appropriated $150,000 for the spraying job and a follow-up trapping program.

The moth larvae were discovered in the Lansing area last month, the first time farther west than Pennsylvania.

MR. and MRS. BOB C. TAYLOR

Barbara Butler Repeats Vows in Emmanuel Baptist

Barbara Joan Butler spoke her wedding vows with Bob C. Taylor Saturday evening in Emmanuel Baptist Church.

For the ceremony the bride chose a ballerina-length gown of nylon lace and nylon tulle over taffeta. Medallion Nylon lace covered the bodice, and the taffeta skirt was covered with tulle.

A crown of pearls held the fingertip veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Patricia Ann Zeigler was maid of honor wearing a ballerina-length gown of blue nylon net over satin. Her bouquet was composed of varied shades of pink roses.

Parents of the bride couple are Mr. and Mrs. Virgil E. Butler of Whitfield drive and the D. K. Taylors of Vilas, N. C.

Conley Taylor served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Ira Stuckey and Wilfred Dickens.

Mrs. Butler chose a pink linen suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink and white roses for the ceremony.

Following a reception at the Knights of Pythias Hall, the new Mrs. Taylor changed to a princess-style gray dress with gray and white accessories. She wore a rose corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The newlyweds left for a honeymoon through the southern states and upon their return they will spend a few days in New York.

Council Fire Held

Three hundred parents, friends and Camp Fire Girls attended the annual Citywide Council Fire Saturday at Bunyan Bowl of Oakland County Sportsmen's Club. The fire-lighting ceremony of the outdoor program was preceded by the presentation of awards. Among those receiving awards was Clarence Graves, recipient of a five-year membership award.

Honeymooning in the southern states are Mr. and Mrs. Bob C. Taylor who were married Saturday in Emmanuel Baptist Church. Parents of the couple are the Virgil E. Butlers of Whitfield Street and the D. K. Taylors of Vilas, N. C.

Asks Wives to Promote Plant Safety

Expert Sure That Women Could Cut Industrial Toll

Safety engineers are missing a good bet in failing to enlist the American housewife in their program to reduce the staggering toll taken each year in on-the-job accidents and injuries.

One woman who should know what she's talking about thinks the wives and mothers of industrial workers could become the safety man's strongest ally in his war on accidents.

She is Joanna M. Johnson, director of the nursing division of a large industrial firm, a post she created and has filled for the last 25 years.

She thinks that strong appeals can be made directly to the workers, then passed on to the workers' wives.

Miss Johnson suggests that visual education programs, which are being used in plants to promote safety, be made available to housewives to show them how industry is being made safer for their husbands, brothers and sons. Miss Johnson feels that precedent is on her side in trying to bring women into an active phase of industrial safety programs.

She points to the active role being played by mothers in many cities in the organization and operation of school safety patrol systems—like the 132 women in Milwaukee, Wis., who are currently engaged in just such a program.

But, she continues, women can't get into a safety program until they know something about it. Someone must actually go out after them, tell them what the problem is, how important it is to them and their families.

Once she has the facts, the housewife and mother will support any program which tends to keep the wage-earner in the family safe, happy and productive, Miss Johnson insists.

Plants Help Girl Recover

By JANET ODELL

Not every prescription can be purchased at the drugstore. Occasionally—and this is the case of polio patient Patty Mason—the prescription calls for a hoe, a rake and some plants.

When Patty, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Mason of Birmingham, came home from the hospital after a three-month bout with polio, the doctor suggested she be given horticultural therapy. Under the direction of Mrs. William Burlingame, Patty has been working with growing things at weekly sessions.

Until just recently Patty has had to work indoors. She has now started a small garden behind the garage, with tomato plants bravely pioneering in the back row.

In spite of three months' absence from school Patty has caught up with her class and is finishing the fifth grade this month. The brace on her left leg does not inhibit her. Physically she may be a little slower than the average, but during her reporter's visit with her she was active most of the time.

Her mother said that Patty's spirit is wonderful, that she never doubts her complete recovery. Learning to take cuttings and to care for them until they become plants and making corsages are two of the skills Patty was taught by Mrs. Burlingame.

The corsages brought Patty a little local fame. When her school's PTA had a program recently, Patty was asked to make the corsages for the guests. With her mother doing the winding, Patty filled her order for red and white carnation corsages.

Horticultural therapy helps mental patients, helps the aged whether they are sick or well. It also helps perfectly normal young people who are having a temporary setback in their activities due to polio or heart disease.

Patty Mason is one example. Her blue eyes sparkle as she expertly swings her walking sticks out to check on the condition of her tomato plants.

You feel that polio is just an annoying thing she'll take in her stride. This business of working with plants is a pleasant pastime and a new hobby that her eager mind and active body can enjoy. Patty is really quite a honey of a girl.

Employers Frown on Sloppiness in Speech or Dress, Casual Attitude

Mary Margaret McBride Says: Think of Being Seventy and Never Seeing a Cow!

Charles Antell who helps to run a new kind of summer camp for entire families of city people, including grandpas and grandmas, tells me that some of the 65-year-olds have never before been outside New York. Many actually know cows only from pictures and, according to Antell, go a little mad with joy when they first hit the country.

MISS MCBRIDE heads to look at you and moo plaintively.

"Some get right out of the bus and begin to pull leaves off trees to smell," he reports. "Others nibble berries. One 70-year-old was so excited he ran about like a child. A few of the more timid are stunned and silent for an hour or so until they get acquainted with the outdoors."

Think of being 70 and not knowing about cows! When I was 5 I supposed all little girls hurried down to the barn-lot on summer evenings, wearing blue gingham aprons tied in the back and carrying cups for their fathers to fill full of warm, rich milk straight from cream-colored cows who turned their heads to look at you and moo plaintively.

The smart job-seeker realizes the need casual manner doesn't register well with the interviewer. Right, the trim suit, neat little to make a favorable impression. The costume hat and alert posture suggest efficiency to at the left is inappropriate, and the girl's the interviewer.

Avoid Both Gaudiness and Primness

Assemble Job-Hunting Outfit Carefully

In a short time many of you will be receiving that long-awaited diploma and setting out to present yourselves as good business bets.

Regardless of the job you seek and the amount of schooling you've had, you'll have to sell yourself into that first job. And, for that matter, into any others that follow.

In a too casual approach, or sloppiness in speech and dress, a prospective employer is likely to see a warning of careless work habits.

So the wise girl assembles her job-hunting outfit carefully and endeavors to be alert, straightforward and interested in an interview. She neither sits stiffly nor slouches, and she doesn't fidget.

Then putting an end to a summer day, "Mary Margaret, Tommy—come wash your feet!" Mama would call, and from the dark would emerge, blinking, to quarrel over who should be the first to take the tin washpan to the well and fill it with water.

run - down heels, slightly soiled gloves, spots and split seams may turn the decision against you.

A dark suit is probably the best job - hunting outfit. At this time of year, you can buy a light-weight one that is well-tailored, crease-resistant and cool enough to keep you comfortable through a day of pavement pounding.

While you'll avoid being over-dressed, you shouldn't appear too prim either. And a tailored suit provides an excellent background for the little touches that are quite proper for this occasion: A lapel pin, small, tailored earrings, a fresh blouse.

In gloves, your best bet would be white cotton. Their fresh appearance always makes a good impression.

Select shoes that will be comfortable as well as smart looking. Dark pumps are most acceptable. Sandals or heavily decorated shoes are never a good choice.

Just as you needn't be afraid of sparkling your suit with a few feminine touches, you needn't be afraid of makeup.

It's not what you put on your face that counts; it's how it looks after you've finished that will influence an interviewer.

If your complexion is disturbed, hide the blemishes with a medicated lotion.

One famed cosmetic house has a medicated duo that will help you to heal and conceal them at the same time. A cream works overnight to dry up the blemishes and a lotion goes under makeup to continue the healing action as it conceals.

The same firm features made-to-order face powder that is blended by a company representative to a customer's coloring and skin type. The service is offered in department stores throughout the country.

To achieve a natural effect, remove excess powder, brow pencil and lipstick with cotton after they have set a couple of minutes.

Keep your hairdo in place by spraying on a liquid net and topping it with a tailored, head-bug-ging hat.

Then, with confidence in your appearance, you should be able to meet interviewers with the poise that's necessary to produce the happy balance between the too casual and the too formal approach.

Every delegate to Congress from Hawaii since 1920 has introduced statehood bills.

Try It

Simplify Code Learning

Sometimes you belong to an organization which requires you to learn a code. If you try to do this without a purpose, it may seem impossible to master, but here is a suggestion which will make it fun and also will keep the code in front of you to brush up on.

Here is a code board which was made by a group of scouts who needed to learn the Morse code. You need not be a scout to learn this, for you and your friends can use code to flash different signals or to tap to one another.

The back board was made of plywood, and the brads were used to fasten the twigs on. Short sections of twigs were dots and long sections were dashes.

Get a book from the library to see the code, then make your board with the twigs in position after each printed letter. This will be a good ornament for your room.

The board may be given a coat of varnish, but do not stain it, for the twigs will stand out much better on the lightest background possible.

Put brads in the top of the back for easy hanging, and this will make an extra wall hanging for your room.

Woman, 50, Fears Job Interview

Six Pointers Given to Help Her Over the Hurdles

By ANNE HEYWOOD
"I am a 50-year-old housewife," a woman writes, "and what that my children are grown I intend to go back to work."

"I used to be a secretary and am brushing up my skills, but I am terrified of the job-hunting process. It's been so long, I don't know how to behave on the interview for a job."

"Should I use an employment agency, or how should I go about getting leads? And what will I say when they ask for my experience?"

First, face the fact that most people dread a job-hunting interview. Young or old, experienced or inexperienced, it is not a happy time.

Also, many of the people on the other side of the desk don't like it too well. They can be shy and insecure.

After all, they are charged with the responsibility of hiring someone, and they are nervous lest they make a mistake. So you aren't the only nervous one!

Here are a few pointers:

1. Remember, secretaries are still scarce, so you are one of the workers in most demand.
2. Try your state employment service first. They may have just the job for you, and they will know which companies are open-minded about age and which are not.
3. Dress comfortably: wear an outfit which is not only suitable but in which you feel really at ease.

4. Offer to start on a trial basis. This gives the employer a chance to try you out without being committed to keep you, which will make it easier for you, too.

5. Tell the truth on your application blank; state the jobs you had before marriage, the approximate dates and then put "housewife—23 years," or whatever.

6. Answer box number advertisements in your newspaper. This gives you the opportunity to present yourself on paper, so to speak, which paves your way and makes the interview itself less of a plunge into icy water.

Stretch Out in Contour Chair Let's Be Lazy, Relaxed

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

Of course every piece of furniture that is sat on or slept on should be as comfortable as possible, but it's a good idea to own a special encourager of down right laziness.

We hear so much about tension and what to do for it, but it's all too easy for a busy day to slip by without a refreshing interlude of rest, despite good intentions.

The special lazy furniture, such as a contour chair, stands by amid hustle and bustle with just one purpose, and an invitation that's hard to ignore.

Now it may be that contour chairs are a success because men like to put their feet up on their desks—the angle where the chair tips is almost the same. And in a contour chair—many women tried the tilt-back-feet-up pose for the first time, and liked it.

New slim, lightweight designs now make it easier to find room for a contour chair, and the one sketched can be used either indoors or outdoors.

The upholstery-covered foam rubber pad is removable. Underneath is a sling seat and back in duck or vinyl plastic which readsies it for sun-bathing.

Neighbor's Spicy Food Is Problem She Keeps Giving Dish to Folks Who Dislike It

By EMILY POST
A reader tells me: "I have a neighbor who is of a different nationality than my husband and I. She makes a certain dish which is a specialty of her nation. She sent some of it over to us some time ago.

"It was a very highly seasoned dish and as my husband and I are used to eating very plain foods, it did not appeal to us at all, and much as I hated to do so, I had to throw it away.

"When I saw her, I thanked her for sending it over, and because ordinary courtesy demanded that I say something appreciative, I said it was very good.

"Now every time she makes this certain dish, she sends some over to us. It's a shameful waste to throw it away, but we really cannot eat it. How can I get her to stop sending it to us without hurting her feelings?"

Answer: I think the only thing to do is to tell her with great regret that your doctor has forbidden your husband to eat such delicious, but highly seasoned food. And ask her not to send it any more because it is a great temptation to him to eat it, and add that you really shouldn't eat it either.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to graduate soon and have had my picture taken to put in the year-book. It turned out exceptionally well and I was wondering if it would be proper to have several copies of the picture made to enclose with my graduation announcements.

Answer: To your family and best friends—certainly.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have received an invitation to a wedding reception. The letters R. S. V. P. appear on the invitation but the bride's address is not indicated anywhere.

Since her address is not known to me, I am wondering whether it would be proper to mail my reply to the bridegroom's parents whom I know well.

Answer: In this situation, addressing the envelope to the bride's family at the home of the bridegroom's family is your only choice.

in Texas at 58Former Congressman
Fought Gobbledygook,
Was Zealous Dem

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Maury Maverick, champion of the underdog, enemy of gobbledygook and zealous Democrat, is dead.

The 58-year-old former New Deal congressman and stormy mayor of San Antonio died yesterday after 10 days in a hospital for a heart ailment. He left mourners on each side of every political fence.

Sheriff Owen Kilday, whose brother Paul defeated Maverick for Congress, said: "We were bitter political enemies but good personal friends. He did an awful lot for San Antonio."

Maverick, whose friends said he never side-stepped a fight from the time he first went to Congress in 1934 until he died, had a tongue as sharp as the cactus in the country he loved.

He coined the word "gobbledygook" in a letter to Franklin D. Roosevelt in which he blasted the involved phraseology of New Deal directives. Later he wrote magazine articles about it and, some say, FDR issued an order for simpler government language.

Maverick was a descendant of trail blazers into the Old West and in his 58 years had packed experience as lawyer, hobo, business executive, congressman, political reformer, author, tax collector, mayor and leader of his faction of the Democratic party in Texas.

He lost a bitter fight for recognition at the 1932 Democratic convention in Chicago when the delegation headed by Gov. Allan Shivers was seated. Maverick headed a "loyalist" faction sworn to support the Democratic nominee.

The squat, dynamic man said his career as a hobo may have formed the basis for organized relief which this country had during depression days. He roamed the hobo jungles in tattered clothes "to get to the root of unemployment" and took his finds and gave them to the national government.

He suggested establishment of camps for migrants, homes for juvenile delinquents and a broad-based relief plan.

SEOUL (AP)—A South Korean national assemblyman accused of attempted murder was released from prison today so he can sit in the new Assembly which opens tomorrow.

Kim, 36, is accused of attempting murder when he fired a pistol in a quarrel with a business rival.

Frenzied Cow
Creates Havoc
in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An 800-pound brown cow, headed for someone's dinner table, leaped over a five-foot fence on the way to a slaughterhouse here yesterday and created havoc for half an hour. The animal bowled over a small boy and charged policeman

Charles McCready. The cop fired one shot, but then held further fire as a crowd gathered.

Police reinforcements arrived and also John Przychowski, a slaughterhouse worker, armed with an electric prod pole and some rope. The pole and rope only served to excite the cow further and she ran into an alley.

As a last resort, police drove full speed at the cow with a patrol wagon, knocked the animal to the ground and then ended its life with a bullet.

Deny Oppenheimer
Right to Argue Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission has confirmed that Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer can present written — but not oral — arguments for study by the commission when it reviews his security case.

A special AEC board last week ruled that Oppenheimer, pioneer atomic researcher, is a "loyal citizen" but, by a 2-1 vote, held he is a security risk who must be barred from further access to nuclear secrets.

Oppenheimer had asked permission to present both written and oral arguments for the AEC review. The AEC last night officially confirmed earlier reports that only written arguments would be allowed.

"CHIEF"—Looking like a candidate for re-election, Sen. Theodore F. Green, 86, (D-R.I.) sits with other "braves" at the Cranston, R. I., Bicentennial celebration. Green, who has been mum on his candidacy plans, was dubbed "Chief White Buffalo" by the Indians, and was program speaker.

Talbot to Inspect Town of Linn in Considering Academy Location

LAKE GENEVA, Wis. (AP)—Air Force Secretary Talbot was expected here today to inspect an area in the nearby town of Linn as the possible site of the Air Force academy.

The Cabinet member and his party faced a possible picket line protest by a committee of Linn property owners, who said the academy would destroy property value in this resort area, about 65 miles north of Chicago.

Edward A. McCullough, co-chairman of the Lake Geneva Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, said yesterday Lake Geneva businessmen and merchants are strong for having the academy here but hesitate to speak out for fear of a "business boycott" by the Chicago summer residents. He said the latter are the chief objectors. The academy will be established either here, at Alton, Ill., or Colorado Springs, Colo. Talbot personally will inspect all three sites recommended by a special committee before making the final selection.

Bridge Narrows Gap Between Happiness for 2

DETROIT (AP)—Two German immigrants spoke their marriage vows yesterday at the international boundary on the Ambassador Bridge, connecting Detroit and Windsor, Ont.

After the ceremony, Herbert B. Riedel, 38, went back to Windsor, where he is a hospital orderly. Mrs. Valeria M. Unger, 40, returned to Chicago, where she works for a meat-packing company.

Riedel has been unable to come to the United States because quotas have been filled. Mrs. Unger, who has a son by a previous marriage, went to Chicago in March 1953. Now the two are hoping the marriage will shorten his separation from his bride.

Anti-Paint Roller Clauses Illegal, High Court Rules

LANSING (AP)—The State Supreme Court has ruled that the AFL Painters Union cannot put anti-paint roller clauses into union contracts.

The court said Monday it was impressed that both pan and pressure type rollers are neat, efficient devices. It rejected a union contention that the rollers were sloppy, inefficient and dangerous to health.

Painting contractors in Wayne, Oakland, and Macomb Counties won their 3-year-old court fight to block attempts of the union to gain the anti-roller clauses.

The court unanimously held that a ban on paint rollers was not a lawful labor purpose which could be included in a labor contract.

The dispute between painters and contractors led to a series of strikes in the metropolitan area between May 1 and June 19 last year. The strikes were ended by an agreement to submit the issues to the courts.

The Supreme Court Monday handed down 54 opinions in one of its busiest days in years.

In another major decision, the court said that Traverse City cannot stop Consumers Power Co. from extending its electric power lines in that community.

The city, which operates a rival power plant and electric service, served notice on the company to cease expansions beyond the service it offered April 29, 1952. The city also contended Consumers Power franchises in the city have expired.

The court, reversing a lower court, said the company may extend its lines legally and has a right to continue to use city streets for its poles for the "possible" life of the corporation.

An attempt by 105 women employees of the Ford Motor Co. to tie up the assets of the CIO United Auto Workers and its Ford Local 600 was upset by the court.

The employees have sued the company and the union for $3,500,000 charging a conspiracy to deprive them of their seniority rights. They garnished the union's accounts in seven Detroit banks, tying up $444,423 in the local's assets and $315,000 owned by the international union.

Upholding a lower court's dismissal of the garnishments, the Supreme Court said the union had assets of 13 million dollars and the local of $1,300,000, this is enough guarantee of their ability to pay any judgment, the court said.

Another union, the AFL Carpenters Union of Wayne and Oakland County was ordered to pay $720 to John T. Edward for wages he lost. He was dismissed from a job because of the union's threat to picket his employer. He said the union refused to let him become a member.

A Jackson man, Rhodes O. Medley, accused of an unexplained shooting attack on a companion, Sam Schieber, of Jackson, must stand trial in Luce County, the court said.

Charges of assault with intent to kill against Medley had been dismissed by Circuit Judge Herbert W. Runnels on the grounds the examining magistrate exceeded his authority. The state appealed.

Medley was charged with shooting Schieber during a drunken party at the cabin of Emory Baumgardner, who had brought them to his place to work.

The state Public Service Commission lost its attempt to collect truck license fees from the Welch Grape Juice Co. and the Mason Cartage Co. of Canada. Their drivers were arrested and $2,805 in fees exacted.

The court said Welch was exempt because it was shipping fresh grapes to its cannery at Lawton.

The court also upset the secretary of state's attempt to collect $64,273 in gasoline taxes from the Roosevelt Oil and Refining Co., of Alma.

The state agency contended the company should pay taxes on all gasoline being produced in a plant. The court said the gas tax was a levy on the right to use highways, collected through refiners, and that this theory only permitted taxes on gasoline shipped and sold.

In other court decisions: Forty tenants of Folk Manor in Detroit got back $7,500 in rents impounded during a suit over alleged excessive rents.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hanson, operators of a hotel at Romeo, failed to force the village Council to give them one of two liquor licenses allowed the community.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago was told that any Michigan retailer selling its goods must pay the state sales tax, even though it is partially a government agency.

The Lakehead Pipeline Co., builder of a pipeline from Duluth to Port Huron, was confirmed in a condemnation award of $600 to Arthur F. Dehn and others of Bay County for the right to cross their land.

Angry U.N. Debates Better Than War

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Angry debates in the United Nations are preferable to international wars, a U.N. mediator told the closing session of the National Council of Presbyterian Women's Organizations yesterday.

Dr. Frank P. Graham, the mediator, disputed charges that the U.N. is a sounding board for propaganda. He said it is a place in which propaganda has to "run the gamut of study, cross-examination, debate and the vote" of 60 nations.

"It is better," he said, that the representatives of 60 nations talk and even shout at each other "than that 60 million youths shoot at each other on battlefields."

Times Have Changed
EAST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—A Committee looking into the history of the East Hartford Center School found that in 1839, the authorities approved this motion: "That Miss Stanley be obtained to teach school if she can be obtained at $3 (three) a week. If not at that price, to empower the district committee to offer her 50 cents more per week."

Ewart to Report on DPW Move

Pontiac City Commission tonight is expected to hear a report from City Attorney William A. Ewart on the legal steps involved in moving the Department of Public Works headquarters from Lake street to a 10-acre site at North Saginaw and East Russell Sts.

The plan was proposed last week by City Manager Walter K. Willman. The present site is overcrowded, Willman explained, and the new location would bring the department closer to its center of work.

Room would be available in the new area for future construction of a garage and maintenance building, the city manager said. The city-owned building at 40 Mill St. could be moved to the site and the Mill street location utilized for public parking, he added.

Other scheduled action includes receiving an engineer's estimate for planned construction of combined sewer on Barkell from Fourth to Columbia and on Columbia from Barkell to 140 feet east of Joslyn.

A resolution to receive special assessment rolls for construction of curb, gutter, drainage and related work on Florence from Augusta to the Grand Trunk Western Railroad and on Barkell from Raskob to Columbia.

A petition is expected asking for construction of curb, gutter, drainage, and two-inch blacktop on Carlisle from Walton to New York.

Reports are slated from the City Plan Commission denying requests that land be rezoned for trailer parks on Mount Clemens west of the cinderator and on Walton west of Galloway Creek.

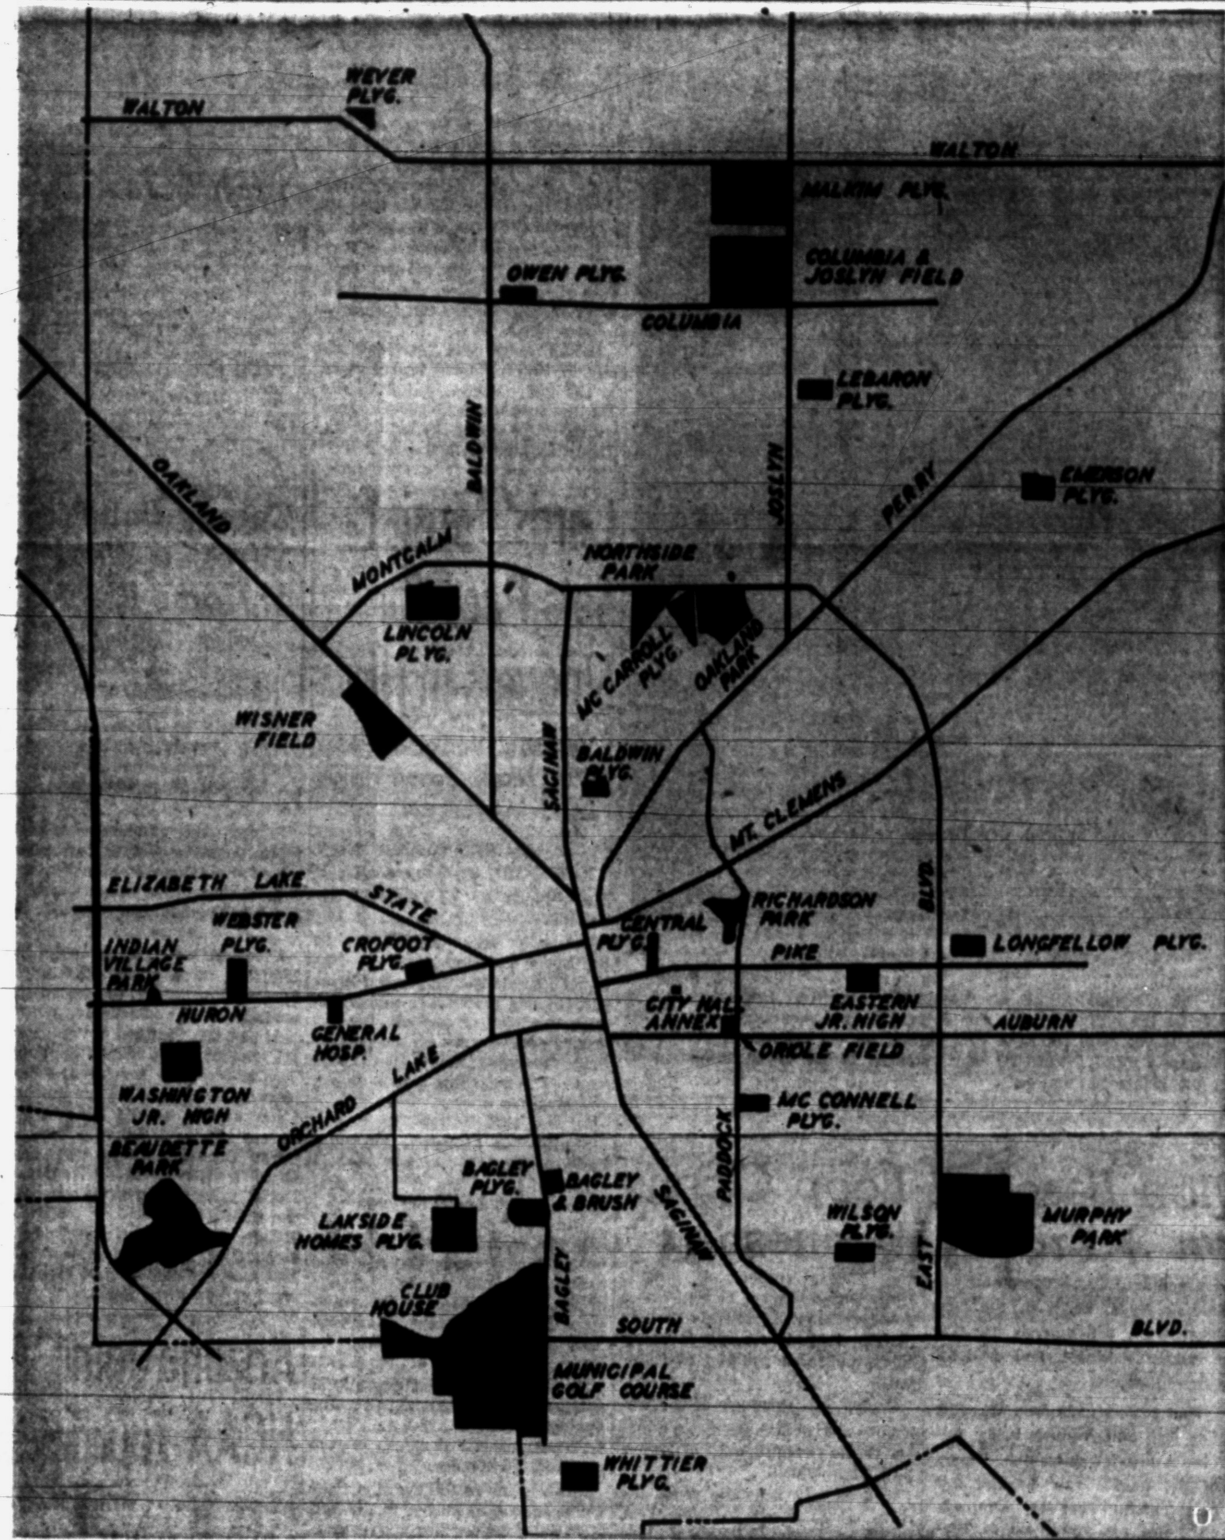

Other reports are expected from the plan commission on: An ordinance to rezone to C-1 lots 503 to 512, inclusive, of DuPont Heights Subdivision.

A request to rezone to C-1 the north side of West Huron between Thorpe and Mark.

Alley arrangement behind the Pontiac Retail Store on Mount Clemens.

The plat of Walton Subdivision on the south side of West Walton west of Telegraph.

SUMMER FUN AREAS—The above map, included in the "Have Fun in Pontiac" folder being distributed by the Parks and Recreation Department, shows city parks, playgrounds and recreation areas.

Pamphlets Describe Where to Have Fun in Pontiac

Some 18,000 copies of a folder describing how you can "Have Fun in Pontiac" are being distributed by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, according to David R. Ewart, director.

With activities listed for all age groups, the folder is available for any local organization to hand out to members, Ewart said, by contacting the Parks and Recreation Department.

The Oakland County CIO Council is distributing 5,000 copies to union locals. Others are available at the city hall and the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce.

The folder contains a map showing city parks and playgrounds plus a listing of city sponsored recreational programs.

Programs described include golf, shuffleboard, horseshoes, tennis, chess and checkers, picnicking, playgrounds, women's clubs and others.

"The Parks and Recreation Department will assist individuals and groups in many special ways," Ewart said, "such as in planning and organizing picnics, parties and clubs."

"Also in landscaping, planting trees, care of lawns and control of insects and pests. These and other services are free by calling the recreation department at FE 3-7131."

2 Hurt as Cars Crash Head On Early Today

Two northern Oakland County motorists were hospitalized early today when their cars hit head-on on M 24 just south of Clarkston-Orion road, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Ronald Schons, 23, of 1326 Indianlake Rd., Oxford, is reported in satisfactory condition with a fractured hip and foot. The other motorist, James Ross, 29, of 626 Lawren, Lake Orion, is listed in good condition with a fractured pelvis. Both are at Pontiac General Hospital.

Cadet Lt. Lee Hargreaves, of Pontiac Civil Air Patrol Group 6318, was awarded a CAP Michigan wing flight scholarship Sunday at an assembly of state groups at Kellogg Field, Battle Creek.

The certificate for 10 hours of dual flight training was presented by Maj. Gen. Lucius Beau, CAP national commander, according to Maj. Thomas Toma, commander of the Pontiac group.

Type CAP group met for an inspection of their personnel and equipment by Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

"The governor was much impressed with the equipment displayed by the Pontiac group," Toma stated, "including an air-sea rescue unit, three mobile radio units and two high-power searchlights."

Senator Claims Campaign Error

Ferguson Said to Have Asked Postmasters to Sign His Petition

LANSING (U-P) — Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.), campaigning for re-election, today stood accused by Democrats of "an outright inducement to violation of the Hatch Act."

Nell Staebler of Ann Arbor, state Democratic chairman, said that Ferguson and his campaign committee have written Michigan postmasters asking them to circulate Ferguson nominating petitions.

If the postmasters did so, Staebler said, they would be in violation of the federal Hatch Act which forbids political activity by federal employees.

The Ferguson solicitation, Staebler added, "places the postmasters in the untenable position where if they accede to the request, they are violating the law, and if they refuse, they are placing themselves in jeopardy because of Sen. Ferguson's great influence with respect to their tenure."

Staebler sent copies of the letter which he said accompanied the blank petitions and the envelope to Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.), chairman of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee, and asked for an investigation.

Staebler said the letter was on the letterhead of the Ferguson campaign headquarters and signed by Don R. Mitchell, Ferguson committee chairman.

Mitchell called Staebler's statement "a deliberate lie."

He said form letters were sent to "persons who had shown an interest in Ferguson's campaign" but care was taken not to send them to anyone on the federal payroll.

Staebler quoted the letter in part as saying:

"I know that you count Sen. Ferguson as your friend . . . and that he counts you as his friend."

"Please have your friends and neighbors sign the enclosed petitions . . . When you have completed the petitions, return them to the Homer Ferguson committee . . ."

Phony Survey Takers Curb Research

Persons claiming to be survey takers to gain an "in" for purposes of selling merchandise are making it difficult for legitimate research workers in door-to-door interviews, according to John W. Hirlinger, assistant manager of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce.

Public opinion polls and other surveys provide information which is valuable to government agencies, businesses and individuals, Hirlinger stated.

The U. S. Department of Commerce, for example, operates surveys which cover the Pontiac area to gather information on population increase, income, employment trends and other related fields, he stated.

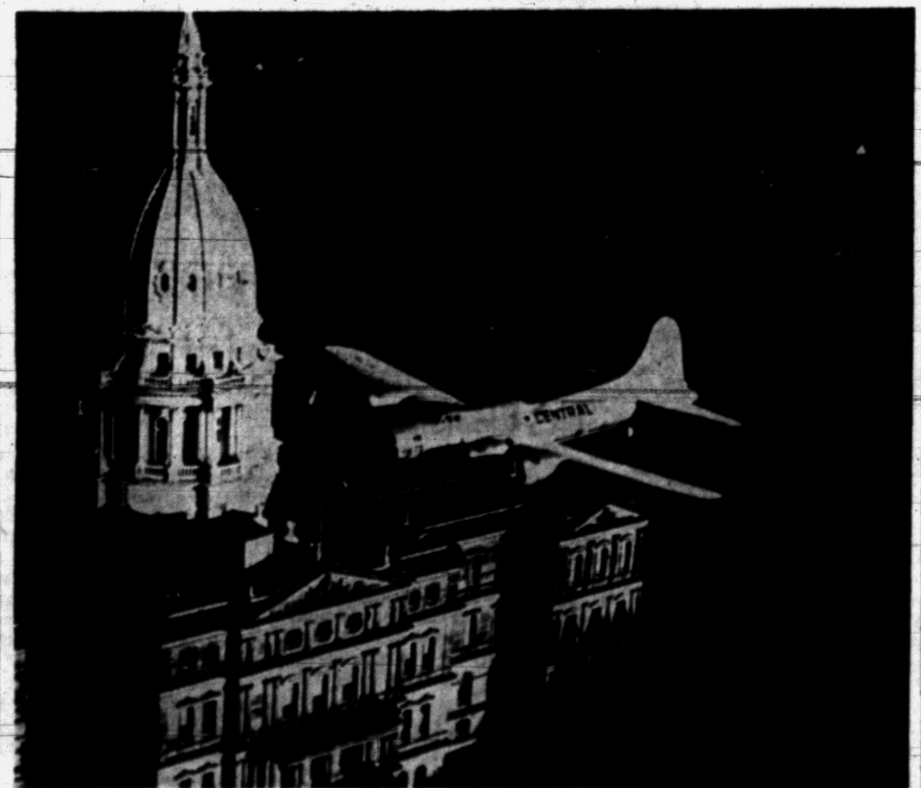

"Legitimate researchers will carry credentials properly identifying themselves which the person to be interviewed can ask to examine," the C. of C. man explained.

"Research surveys operate on a scientific basis which demands that persons originally selected for an interview must be contacted," he said. "Information given is entirely confidential."

"If the person to be contacted is not home the interviewer will return again or send the questionnaire in a letter. Persons can check a questionnaire's validity by looking for the seal of the Department of Commerce or a legitimate research firm."

A survey including Pontiac might affect only 100 local persons, Hirlinger said, but their cooperation would aid in gathering data helpful to all.

MOTHS SPRAYED—One of the four aircraft spraying 104,000 acres in the Lansing area to wipe out Gipsy Moth caterpillars sweeps the Capitol dome, well below the tip, which is 257 feet high. The above plane is a converted Air Force B17 Flying Fortress used in World War II.

POWER OF THE PRESS—A Pontiac Press want ad recently re-united the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department and a lost generator. William Gibson (left), of 394 E. Mansfield Ave., found the $400 generator on E. Pike street after it had fallen off a city truck. Gibson returned the generator when he saw a lost notice in the Pontiac Press. He received a $25 reward. Presenting the reward is Recreation Director David R. Ewart.

School Board Candidates

Three Offer Their Policy Statements

DR. WALTER L. GODSELL

EVERETT C. SPURLOCK

PAUL SIMMONS

Present secretary-treasurer of the Oakland County Chiropractic Society, Dr. Walter L. Godsell, 27, also served two years on the educational committee of the Michigan State Chiropractic Society.

A Pontiac resident since 1937, Dr. Godsell is married, has two children and lives at 178 N. Perry St. He is a graduate of the Lincoln Chiropractic College, attended Wayne and Butler Universities and is a member of the Delta Tau Alpha, national honorary fraternity.

Dr. Godwell was graduated from Pontiac High School in 1945, was president of the senior class and a member of the National Honor Society.

He is also a member of the First Baptist Church and vice president of the Pontiac Christian Men's Club.

Dr. Godsell says: "There are several factors of extreme importance facing the citizens of Pontiac in the forthcoming school election. 'Of primary importance to all is the matter of obtaining adequate facilities to accommodate the vast anticipated increase in student population. To meet this need financially, the present board has recommended the present tax increase."

"If this increase is not approved it will necessitate the gradual introduction of half days into the school system. This condition would not only cut down essential instruction time, but would leave our children more free time, with definite possibilities of increased delinquency."

"If, however, the tax increase is approved, it should be the duty of every board member to see that no extravagances take place, and that the taxpayer receives full value for every dollar invested."

"Also important, I feel that as much as possible should be done to teach a definite sense of moral responsibility in our children."

"Another point which I would be in hearty sympathy would be additional stress laid in our schools on proper nutrition."

"With the present rate of degenerative diseases, dental caries, etc., much good for future health could be accomplished by giving students reliable information on this subject."

"In past years there has been little attention given school elections. It is my conviction that there should be greater interest by the public in the problems of our school system."

Former president of the Pontiac Community Services Council, Everett C. Spurlock, 44, is also a member of the International Conference of Social Work, National Conference of Social Work, and National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials.

Spurlock is married and lives at 257 Crystal Lake Rd. He was graduated from Ohio State University and did graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania.

At the present time he is engaged in social work and is executive secretary of the Urban League. Spurlock was also an original member and former chairman of the Pontiac Housing Commission.

His civic activities included membership on the Pontiac Council on Human Relations; Catholic Family Center; Oakland County Mental Hygiene Society; Oakland County Branch, NAACP; charter member of the REMA Club and adult advisor of the Michigan Youth Advisory Council.

His statement follows: "A 1953 government report, Youth: The Nation's Richest Resource, says: 'Nothing that we as a democratic society can do holds more hope for the future than the thought, the time, the money we spend improving the preparation of our young people during these critical years for sane and useful living—we must do all we can to give our boys and girls a reliable scale of values, a sense of personal responsibility, and all the technical and scientific knowledge, all the creative skills, and all the human understanding and serenity of spirit they can acquire."

"How local communities meet this challenge depends, in a large measure, upon the active support given to the school board by the citizens. However, the initiative, foresight and leadership of school board members can arouse interest in, and enthusiasm for, our public schools."

"To be mindful of our greatly overcrowded schools is not enough. We must give thought not only to the elimination of this condition, but also to how it can best be done without excessive tax burden."

"Recognition must be given to the fact that, due partly to the decentralization of industries and partly to the fact that many sections of our cities are obsolete and must be re-developed, population shifts can be frequent and sudden."

"Consideration must be given to the planning and construction of schools, as Detroit and other cities are doing, that can be moved as the population moves, from one section to another."

"Physical facilities are only a part of the need. Salaries of teachers, who are grossly underpaid at best, must be raised to insure Operator of a tax accountant and bookkeeping service business, Paul Simmons, 45, has been a Pontiac resident since 1928. He lives with his wife and three children at 45 Lorrain Ct. and two of his children now attend Pontiac public schools.

Simmons is a member of the legislative committee of the Pontiac Board of Commerce, the Christian Men's Club, Stringham United Missionary Church and is now serving his second year as president of the Oakland County Gideons camp.

In a prepared statement, Simmons says:

"I have always been interested in the growth, training and development of young people. The schools of Pontiac must be expanded to meet the increased growth of our community."

"I am equally interested in knowing why it should cost $32,000 to build and equip an ordinary classroom, (the cost equivalent of three modern six room homes.)"

"My platform can be expressed as follows:

"1. Providing adequate school facilities.

"2. In selecting teachers, character and ability should rate as high as scholastic degrees.

"3. The enlarging of the co-operative employment program, now handled so effectively by our high school.

"4. Emphasis of spiritual values in the schools. Strive to create a better public conscience among our young people. (This need is forced upon us by increasing juvenile delinquency. This is perhaps our greatest unsolved problem, and it should not be avoided."

"A sane and earnest attempt should be made to find an answer to these issues. I do not feel that I have all the answers to our problems, but I do pledge myself to assist in finding the answers."

competency and to meet the competition of neighboring cities.

"Our visiting teacher personnel must be enlarged. Guidance programs must be instituted in schools now without them, and expanded in all of our schools. We need to make psychological testing and psychiatric treatment available to the emotionally disturbed child."

Defeat-Plagued Tigers Face Yanks After Boston Losses

Tigers carried the Red Sox 12 innings before going down to a hotly disputed 5-4 defeat. Rookie Tom Brewer went the distance for Boston and lost a chance to win in regulation time when pinch-hitter Fred Hatfield cracked a two-run homer in the 9th.

Yank Players, Averages. 'Sick'

Collins, Carey, Slaughter All on Injury List

Lopat, Reynolds Only Effective Pitchers on World Champs

By ED CORRIGAN
NEW YORK (AP)—With a hospital list that shows signs of filling the Mayo Clinic and batting averages that would embarrass little leaguers, the world champion New York Yankees uneasily awaited tonight's invasion by the Detroit Tigers.

The word around the league is that the Yanks are in distress, which should be apparent by the standings. They're three-and-a-half games behind the Cleveland Indians and the Chicago White Sox, while at this time a year ago, they were on an 11-game winning binge and five-and-a-half lengths in front of the pack.

The Yanks are said to be in the market for a long ball hitter and perhaps a pitcher. General Manager George Weiss, however, denied this with the comment that there were "no deals in the making, unless something happens all of a sudden."

With Joe Collins, Enos Slaughter and Andy Carey all out with assorted miseries and the vaunted Yank "bench" not coming through, Manager Casey Stengel is a perplexed professor, indeed.

"This club of mine has me baffled," said Case, shaking his head. "Can you imagine where we would be if it weren't for Ed Lopat and Allie Reynolds? That Reynolds is a stopper and a life-saver. What would I do if I had eight more pitchers like him? I'd think I was dreaming the best of all dreams, that's what."

"Our pitching generally has been fine. But our hitting seems to be a good argument for a longer training season. I keep telling our batters to meet the ball and turn the big stadium outfield into their advantage. They say fine and go right back swinging for the stands."

The Tigers are supposed to be ready to deal for lefty Ted Gray. But the Yanks have been tipped off he has a sore arm so they're not rushing into the transaction.

Lands 5-Pound Pike

Fishing on Cass Lake, Sunday morning, Ronald T. Walsh of 4814 Glenwood, Royal Oak, hooked into a scrappy pike. After boating the fish Walsh found it measured 26 inches in length and weighed close to five pounds. "I've taken bigger ones," Walsh reported, "but even a five-pounder can put up a pretty good scrap."

Hard Luck Hits Aussie Sprinter on U.S. Cinders

MODESTO, Calif. (AP)—Hector Hogan, Australia's "fastest human" is having quite a time for himself in this country since his recent arrival.

Some of it is good, some not so good. He hasn't cut much of a figure in his two U.S. foot races. As a spreader of good will for his native land he is a tremendous success.

The 22-year-old refrigeration engineer from Brisbane has been tapped by a bit of bad luck in his efforts on the track. He came in by plane May 20. Two days later he was running in the California Relays here. To his credit, with hardly any training, he was second in a trial and the finals, both 100 yards being timed in 9.7.

Socially, Hogan has been a big winner. His genial personality has made him many American friends. That's what his government wants.

MSC Sends 7-Man Team to NCAA Test

EAST LANSING (AP)—A seven-man squad will be Michigan State's contribution to the NCAA track and field championships at Ann Arbor this weekend.

Coach Karl Schladehan says none of his boys expect to win an event, but at least three rate as challengers. Best bets are Ed Brabham in the dashes, Kevan Gosper in the 440 and John Corbelli in the hurdles.

2 Hours of Action on TV Screen Tonight

Television fight fans will get a lot of entertainment tonight, in the bouts aired from Motor City Speedway on an outdoor show. Telecast bouts will include the Johnny Summerlin-Oscar Pharo heavyweight bout, and the state title scrap between Allie Gronik and Duke Harris. Gronik defends his welter crown. The Summerlin-Pharo fight goes on at 10 p.m. (channel 4). Title bout is blacked out for Detroit.

Star Discoverer in Turn Discovered by Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — The man who "discovered" such stars as Marilyn Monroe, Shelley Winters and Tony Curtis has himself been discovered by Hollywood.

Balding, mid-fortyish Abner Biberman has discarded his directorial megaphone and turned actor. He feels it's less frustrating.

"Marilyn Monroe came to me a few years back," he recalled. "She was out of work, needed a job. I discerned in her a great eagerness to work, a conscientiousness and devotion. But I couldn't convince my studio to sign her. Today they're all fighting for her services."

Biberman for six years was director of screen tests at a top film factory. It was his chore to work with unknown young actors, to report on their potential as film stars, and to test those he considered sufficiently important.

One day Shelley Winters was sent up along with 99 other girls to try for the role of a waitress in Ronald Coleman's "A Double Life."

"Shelley wasn't the best actress of the lot," said Biberman. "But she had a magnetic brashness, a certain quality that promised good things to come. I worked with her for weeks before we shot a foot of test film. Then the test bore me out."

Regarding new star material, Biberman explained:

"First, you look for looks. I don't mean a girl must be beautiful or a man handsome, but they must have an indefinable quality that attracts. It may even be an ugliness — but it must attract. Then you look for talent and intelligence."

After determining if a newcomer has the necessary potential vibrant personality, Biberman says the second most important attribute is patience.

"An ambitious actor must be patient," he explained. "He must be willing to work long and hard to develop his craft and to learn all there is to know about movies — from editing and camera work to writing."

"Sex appeal comes third. Clark Gable and Jimmy Cagney could never have passed a screen test, for their appeal had to mature through character roles first before it became evident. Moreover one man's sex appeal is another man's poison — one scout might turn a newcomer down while the next scout would sign him. There's no accounting for tastes."

Biberman is happy his own career as an actor doesn't depend on sex appeal. He's strictly the character type and can hardly be recognized from one role to the next.

"I'll never have a screen test, myself," he said.

Fearsome Flight Ends in Court, Fine for Driver.

ST. LOUIS (U) — A mysterious stranger in pursuit, James Medley Jr. sped through six stop signs at 65 miles an hour. Finally he barricaded himself inside a drug store.

The pursuer, off duty and out of uniform, displayed his pistol and badge through a glass door.

"Thank the Lord, you're a police officer!" Medley gasped.

Police Judge Robert G. Dowd, agreeing Medley had some cause for fright (but not for flight at 65 miles an hour), fined him $60 for passing up the stop signs but paroled him on a $50 speeding fine.

King of Swing Next in Line for Film Story

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (U) — Now it's Benny Goodman, the man who started the swing era in music, who's getting the film biography treatment.

The great B. G., the King of Swing, has been here to confer with producer Aaron Rosenberg and writer Valentine Davies about his life story for the movies. The film pair put out "The Glenn Miller Story," and that's why Goodman has agreed to expose his own story on film.

"I was really impressed by the Miller picture," said the band leader. "I thought it was the first time the band business has been properly presented on the screen. Usually we're just brought in to do a few numbers and have nothing else to do."

He speaks from experience. He has appeared in half a dozen films, from "Hollywood Hotel" (1937) to "A Song Is Born" (1948). His experiences were not too rewarding artistically, and he resisted all offers to film his life until the Miller film.

I talked to Goodman and his film Boswells at lunch and found him slightly more talkative than in the past. Although he was one of the leading instigators of a nervous era, he seems calm and relaxed now. He's 45, but he still has his apple-cheeked appearance and is the picture of health.

A year ago, he collapsed during a triumphant return tour with his old band. "But it wasn't my heart, the doctors told me," he said. "It was just fatigue. I figured out I had averaged four hours' sleep for four nights. There was too much excitement."

He's back tooting his clarinet, but this time with small combos in night clubs.

I asked him if he thought the band business would come back as big as it was in the prewar years.

"The band business was just like the movies," he remarked. "In those years, any movie, good or bad, made money. It was the same with bands. The business supported a lot of bands that weren't exceptional."

The really good bands, just like good movies, still do good business, he said. But the mediocre in both categories die on the vine. The bands are further hurt by the fact that kids don't dance as much as their elders did, he said.

Drill Team Makes Like Confederates

AUSTIN, Tex. (U) — Ten members of the University of Texas ROTC drill team, the Rangers wear the Confederate gray and their flag is the Stars and Bars. They are members of the Confederate Rangers, a special squad designed by Army ROTC officers to preserve a colorful part of the nation's past and to show military science students differences in past and present drills and maneuvers.

The uniforms are authentic Confederate Army reproductions. The men carry 50-caliber, breech-loading Springfield rifles, actually in use during the Civil War. The rifles are from the gun collection of Lt. Col. James Burleson, Dallas business man and ROTC liaison officer for the Texas State Guard.

Originator of the Confederate Rangers is Lt. Col. Walter F. Diesem, assistant professor of military science and tactics and a Yankee from Columbus, Ohio.

Court Decision Expected to Cut Gas Rates

Wheat Drifting Slightly Lower

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Wheat drifted lower on the Board of Trade once again today although selling pressure never became urgent. Other cereals displayed a slightly easier tone.

Main trouble with wheat was the reluctance of buyers to bid aggressively for the grain in view of the expanding harvest in the Southwest and uncertainty regarding offerings of cash wheat on the free market.

A new item of uncertainty was thrown into the picture by what appeared to be a mild price war in export circles between the United States and Canada.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 lower, July $1.92 1/2, corn unchanged to 1/4 lower, July $1.55 1/2, oats 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July 69 1/2, rye 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July $1.00 1/2, soybeans unchanged to 1/4 lower, July $3.65 1/2 and land 2 to 40 cents a hundred pounds lower, July $16.62.

Hal Boyle Says:

Reporters Make Journey Back to French Grandma

VOUILLY, France (U-P)—Everyone returning to Normandy this week—30 years after the allied landings began—has something particular he wants to see.

With some soldiers it's a bridge they helped build, or a ravine that sheltered them under heavy fire, or a family that was kind to them when they were lonesome.

But to many of 42 war correspondents flown here by Pan American World Airways the thing they looked forward to seeing most was Grandma.

She is Mme. Alexandrine Hamel, 73-year-old widow and family matriarch of the Vouilly Chateau, which dates back to the 11th Century. During the first few critical weeks of the Normandy campaign, Mme. Hamel's Chateau served as press headquarters.

It was a trying, dangerous and anxious time for everybody. A number of correspondents got hurt, a few got killed, and they all got scared. But nothing could shake the calm of Grandma Hamel, a white-haired, apple-cheeked woman, merry-faced but showing always an air of inner strength.

The correspondents slept and ate in tents in a nearby cow pasture. They wrote their stories, however, and fought the Army censors in two rooms within the chateau.

Every night Mme. Hamel stood smiling in the background as her son, Dumilly, who had been a prisoner of the Germans three years, toured the work tables with glasses of milk and plates of cookies been kind to her, except for a bit of arthritis in her wrists. "You were good boys. You didn't destroy things here as you might have," she said. "We loved you. It seemed empty when you left. I was thinking of you just the other day. The spring came slowly this year."

Then she left us for a few moments, returned and handed each a picture of the chateau on which she had inscribed in a fine old-fashioned hand, "Greatful homage to our liberators. Eternal thanks. As we drove off, we fell silent. We felt a distance between us and grand deepening even as we waved goodbye. We knew that we were leaving a warmth behind that many of us would never get to see again. But we were glad we had made the journey back."

Ike Goes to Bat for Legislation

Claims His Program Should Lead to More Secure, Peaceful Life

WASHINGTON (U) — President Eisenhower says his legislative program is designed to build the kind of national strength which will "lead us most certainly to a life that is secure and peaceful."

Going to bat for that program, the President also said in a speech yesterday that the proposals he has placed before Congress don't overstep the federal government's function or create a danger the people in government will become "merely busybodies."

Eisenhower set forth his views in an informal 10-minute talk at commencement exercises on the campus of 172-year-old Washington College in Chestertown, Md.

Before he spoke to about 3,500 under a scorching sun, he was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree. An accompanying citation praised the President as a man who is devoting "his executive and diplomatic talents to the leadership of our country in a time of decision unparalleled in the world's history."

The President told his news conference last week that from then on he intended to turn what he called his exclusive attention to speed congressional action on his program. This was his first opportunity since then to speak out publicly for that program.

So far — with the target date for adjournment of Congress less than two months off — few of Eisenhower's proposals have been written into law. Many of them face tough lobbying.

At Chestertown, Eisenhower said that in this day "it is perfectly necessary that the government do for us, and with us, many things that at one time in history would have been considered reprehensible to our form of government."

Then he ticked off programs in the same field he listed at last week's news conference — social security, agriculture, tax revision, slum clearance and housing.

He termed these "proper spheres for governmental action." But he cautioned that "because they come so close to the daily lives of every citizen, it is up to all of us . . . (to see) that all of that service is limited to what must be and need be, and doesn't overstep and get into something where they (the people in government) are being merely busybodies."

Turning then to his legislative program, the President declared no such dangers are inherent in it.

Leaders to Talk Peace in Japan

Liberals and Socialists Hope to End Crisis in Their Diet

TOKYO (U) — Leaders of all major Japanese political parties met today in peace talks aimed at ending a national crisis that began with a fist-swinging riot in the Diet last Thursday.

They met for two hours and set a second session tomorrow. There was no word of what went on at today's session.

It was the first meeting in days between Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida's Liberal party supporters and Socialists who touched off last week's violent flareup and have since boycotted Diet sessions.

Progressive, part of the conservative coalition backing Yoshida, mediated the session. It came amid newspaper talk of an assassination attempt on the Prime Minister, a move to seek Yoshida's resignation and pleas from business leaders for a return to political stability.

Some 50 deputies and policemen were injured in Thursday's tumultuous Diet session, at which Socialists tried to block upper-house consideration of a government bill to centralize Japan's police for the first time since World War II.

The measure won final approval yesterday at a session boycotted by the Socialists, who plan to contest its legality in the courts.

The youths—180 boys and 58 girls—were attending a giant three-day Communist youth rally in East Berlin.

City officials said since most of the youths were not seeking asylum because of political motives they would be advised to return home.

City officials said a first screening showed that the great majority of asylum seekers, all below the age of 18, had been attracted by the full show windows of West Berlin.

"When the kids got their first look at the rich displays, they gathered that life in the West is much better than in the East and were overwhelmed by natural desire to stay," officials explained.

Conditional Surrender
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP) — Mrs. E. A. Bowles' rascally Joe, got the upper hand in a tussle she was forced to make with the pet because he escapes his cage too easily. Hungry after three days of freedom, the animal returned and perched on her garage roof, but would not consent to confinement.

Now Mrs. Bowles must serve Joe his food on top of her garage.

Does Musical Variety Shows

Has Been on Television Before but Will Replace Froman for a Period

NEW YORK — Petite, auburn-haired Betty Ann Grove co-stars with Merv Griffin on the new summer musical variety series replacing the Jane Froman and Jo Stafford shows on the television. Miss Grove has successfully combined singing and acting in her busy career in show business. Long the songstress on television's "The Big Payoff," Betty Ann has also appeared in various television dramatic programs and portrayed Betsy, Red Buttons' girl friend, on the Red Buttons Show.

She decided on a career in show business as a young girl in her native Cambridge, Mass. At the ripe age of 11, before she turned professional and started getting paid for her song and dance numbers, she performed for every important showing of talent in and around Cambridge.

Later, while attending junior high school, she made frequent appearances as a featured singer at fashion shows in Boston. Still in her teens, she made the big move — to New York. Shortly after she arrived she landed several guest appearances on television variety programs. The guest spots led to a contract with Stop the Music and later, the Bert Parks Show.

Her ability to sell a song landed her the coveted role of Lois Lane in the Broadway musical hit, Kiss Me Kate. Betty's numbers went over big at every performance.

After several months in the show she received several television offers as a featured singer-dance-comedienne. Before joining the Big Payoff she was a regular on a thrice-weekly audience participation show, then Matinee in New York and television's Celebrity Time. Betty Ann lives in New York with her mother and Cyano, her pet dachshund.

BEATS TORNADO—Diane De Fosse, who lost both legs in last year's tornado at Worcester, Mass., shows off party dress and demonstrates how well she can use her artificial limbs on Nov. 7, 1953. At right, Diane, now eight, dances and plays in a recent picture in her Worcester home. She was one of the most tragic and most cheerful of the 1,306 injured in the June 9, 1953 tornado which also took 94 lives.

Stevens Praises Duty to Country

Army Secretary Tells West Pointers of Pride From Service

WEST POINT, N. Y. (INS) — Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens told 634 U. S. Military Academy graduates today that genuine rewards of service to the nation can only be measured in terms of inner satisfaction and humble pride.

Stevens, in an address prepared for delivery at the academy's commencement exercises, remarked: "I trust you will never forget, no matter how rocky the path you may have to travel, that the genuine rewards of service to one's country can never be measured in terms of material things, but only in terms of the inner satisfaction, the humble pride you feel because you know you have served well and faithfully."

"There is a deep personal gratification that one feels in knowing that he has persevered and overcome the vicissitudes that are always inherent in an active life in our dynamic America."

The secretary pointed out to the graduates that they are starting their professional careers "at a most critical time when the concepts of idealism, competence, and service upon which the West Point tradition is based assume an even greater importance than ever before."

He said commanders deal not weapons, logistics and terrain, but also with the fundamental relationships between people who have ideological concepts different from our own.

In this realm, he added, "decisions may be made which may be more important than arms in the long run in solving the problem now before us."

The statue of Freedom on the national capitol dome weighs 14,985 pounds and cost about $23,700.

LOS ANGELES (U) — Two magazine photographers, returned from a 60,000-mile picture taking trek through South and Central America found their highest priced models were head-shrinking Jivaro of Ecuador — who asked $25 a day, just for a souvenir.

Earl Leaf and Pat Hartley, who covered the distance by canoe, mule and airplane, said the Ecuador aborigines set the high price after a film studio shot background scenes in their area and others came there to take photographs of the people.

"They have no contact with the outside world and never use the money," Hartley says.

Illness, Storms Halt Hillary Expedition

NEW DELHI (U) — Himalayan mountaineering sources said today Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of mighty Mt. Everest, is leading his New Zealand expedition out of Nepal after a siege of pneumonia. Early monsoon storms cut short his efforts to climb still unscalped Mt. Makalu.

The sources said Hillary had successfully recovered from the pneumonia attack after a difficult descent to base camp from a camp 22,500 feet up the face of the 27,790-foot peak.

Hillary's brief message was brought to Joghani by a runner the famous climber dispatched.

Firestone TV Program to Switch to Channel 7

The Voice of Firestone will end a 25-year association with the National Broadcasting Co. Monday in its last simulcast over the network. The American Broadcasting Co. (WXYZ-TV and radio in Detroit) will carry the Voice radio and television program after that date.

As on NBC, the show will be heard in Pontiac at 7:30 p.m. on channel 7 and 8:30 p.m. on WXYZ radio every Monday. The move came when NBC took over the Voice time for the new Sid Caesar show due in the fall.

State Dubliners Are Anything — But Irish

DUBLIN, Mich. (U) — There hasn't been a Irishman living in Dublin for 12 years. And there's only one girl among the town's 13 adults and 13 children who can even come close to passing for Irish. She's of English extraction. Everyone else is either Swede, German or Bohemian.

Many historic castles and stately homes in Ireland rich in historic memories have been converted into hotels for American tourists with the added attraction of being situated in vast estates offering hunting, fishing and riding facilities.

Buildings of the University of Virginia were constructed according to plans drawn by Thomas Jefferson.

Selassie Praises U.S. Industry

Visiting Monarch Sees Michigan Auto Plants During Trip

LANSING (UP)—Haile Selassie, Emperor of Ethiopia, Monday paid tribute to American's industrial might during a brief stop in Michigan on his heralded tour of the United States.

Selassie, after a tour of automobile plants in Lansing, said "Nothing compares with U. S. mass production standards."

The erect Ethiopian Emperor, whose country became a symbol of defense against Fascists before World War II, said "It's better to see the country of one's allies than to read about it."

Selassie, clad in full military uniform that bore 10 rows of medals, was flanked by members of the royal family and Ethiopian governmental officials during his tour to Detroit, Ann Arbor and Lansing.

Throughout the tour, Selassie maintained the military bearing that has become a trademark of Ethiopian soldiers. He carried a leather crop in his left hand.

Selassie's one-day tour of the state started early Monday morning when he traveled by motorcade across the Ambassador Bridge from Windsor to Detroit.

He was honored by Mayor Albert E. Cobo at a reception at the Detroit City Hall and was presented a key to the city by Cobo.

The Emperor then went to Ann Arbor by car to receive an honorary Doctor of Civil Law degree at the University of Michigan before flying from the Willow Run Airport to Lansing.

5 Men Found Guilty of Dairy Bar Holdup

A Circuit Court jury found five Pontiac men guilty Monday of the April 20 holdup of the Walton Dairy Bar.

In Oakland County Jail awaiting sentencing June 21 by Judge Frank L. Doty are Lee D. Bates, 20, of Omar St.; Francisco M. Mendez, 26, of 61 Pine St.; Arthur C. Hewitt Jr., 19, of 1654 Giddings Rd.; Richard Parks, 17, of 22 McNeil St.; and Robert K. Smith, 19, of 52 1/2 S. Francis St.

Mendez and Bates testified against the others on the opening day of the trial, implicating them in the crime.
