Mott Center Okayed for OU

Establishment of a Mott Center for Community Affairs at Oakland University was approved today by the Michigan State Board of Trustees.

The center will be financed by the C. S. Mott Foundation, the university and community participants.

The director of the center will be Dr. Lowell Eklund, 47, dean of Continuing Education at Oakland University.

Eklund said the center will enable the university to extend its resources to the schools and adult residents of the county.

An initial project of the center will be the organization of community forums to explore current problems of regional concern through informal conference-type meetings.

It is hoped that these sessions will lead to action programs aimed at solving issues under study, Eklund said.

The Oakland Forums, as they will be called, will be a part of a Community Enrichment Program, to be coordinated by Mrs. Frisella Jackson, director of conferences and institutes in the continuing education division since 1961.

ART APPRECIATION

This phase of the program will also include a variety of approaches to appreciation of the arts, to be done in connection with the school's Meadow Brook Music Festival and other summer activities.

"We are honored to have the cooperation of the Mott Foundation in this program, which we believe can have a marked effect on the intellectual and economic growth of this area," University Chancellor D. B. Varner commented.

Donate Stock

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Anibal of Bloomfield Township have donated 1,000 shares of General Motors Corp. common stock, valued at $94,625, to Michigan State University and Oakland University.

The gift was accepted today at the meeting of the Michigan State University Board of Trustees.

The donation is to be divided equally between the two schools and will be used primarily for scholarships in the field of engineering.

The Anibals, who live at 1435 N. Cranbrook, donated 1,000 shares of GM stock to Oakland in 1961. It was then valued at $56,000.

The funds were used for student housing, and today one dormitory on the campus bears the name, "Anibal House."

Anibal's interest in the universities stems from a long association with MSU, from which he graduated in 1909 with a degree in mechanical engineering.

Anibal started as an engineer with the Olds Motor Co. in 1909. From 1911 until 1921 he worked for the Cadillac Motor Car Co.

He came to the Oakland Motor Car Co. in 1925 as chief engineer and continued in that post until his retirement in 1947.

Anibal is credited with some 200 automotive and engineering advances, including remote-control gearshift, multibeam headlamps, mechanical fuel pump and automatic spark control.

Wind, Snow Jolt Michigan

By United Press International

A shrieking 35-mile-an-hour wind, accompanied by an eight-inch snowfall, roared through Houghton and Keweenaw counties in Upper Michigan during the early morning hours today, causing a drop in temperature and making most highways impassable.

The Weather Bureau said the severe weather was the forerunner of a bitter cold front hovering over the Great Lakes.

The bureau said the cold front was expected to start moving in over Michigan late today, causing a drop in temperature and heavy snow.

The State Highway Department said a heavy west wind caused some drifting of snow along I-75 from St. Ignace to the Soo and west on M28. One to two inches of snow fell in the extreme eastern part of the Upper Peninsula.

Rumor Celebrezze to Quit

McCone Expected to Resign CIA Post

WASHINGTON (U) — Strong indications that John A. McCone will resign shortly as director of the Central Intelligence Agency developed today along with a fresh flurry of speculation about Cabinet turnover.

McCone's return to private life would open another high-level post for President Johnson to fill as he begins his new administration.

Cyrus R. Vance, deputy secretary of defense, has been mentioned in some government quarters as a possible successor for the CIA post.

Johnson made his first Cabinet choice yesterday. He announced the resignation of Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges and named as his successor John T. Connor, 50, New Jersey drug manufacturer.

The announcement came on the heels of a report that Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon plans to resign within a few months.

A Republican but a strong Johnson supporter, Dillon is expected to return to his family's New York investment banking business. In October Johnson asked him to stay on indefinitely; Dillon apparently feels he cannot.

Speculation on Dillon's successor has fixed mainly on Donald C. Cook, head of American Electric Power Service Corp., New York, and a long-time friend and adviser of the President.

Other prospective shifts — confirmed neither by the White House nor by those directly involved — were said to include:

The departure — also within the next few months — of Secretary Anthony J. Celebrezze from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Most frequently mentioned as a possible successor is Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, whose term as governor ends in January.

The resignation before Jan. 1 of John S. Gleason as veterans administrator. There are recurrent reports he is returning to the First National Bank of Chicago. He was vice president of the bank when he entered the government.

Wants Longer Workweek for Legislators

LANSING (U) — Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Marquette, wants Michigan's 42,500-a-year legislators to make better use of their time than they did when they were paid less.

Legislators start collecting a salary of $10,000 and expense money of $2,500 Jan. 13, making them the highest paid in the nation.

The raise from $7,000 and $1,250 has brought about a shift in thinking about the nature of the job — from part-time to full-time.

In past sessions, legislators often met briefly Monday night, started work in earnest on Tuesday and adjourned for the weekend on Thursday night.

HAD TO HURRY

Legislators often were faced with the necessity of hurriedly disposing of minor and major legislation.

Jacobetti, who will be associate speaker pro tem of the House when it convenes Jan. 13, said "If we go to a five-day workweek right at the beginning of the session, we won't have those 15-foot daily calendars at the end."

"The minor legislation would be cleared out at the beginning and the way would be cleared for the major work, or the controversial legislation on which we would have to work out agreements," he said.

Expect College Offer for TB Sanatorium

Oakland County Community College officials today offered $927,000, the appraisal value, for the purchase of the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

Officials of the Oakland County Community College were expected to make an offer this afternoon for purchase of the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

A meeting of county officials was scheduled at 1 to hear a report on two appraisals of the 84-acre site and buildings, located on Cooley Lake Road in Waterford Township.

The meeting climaxes several weeks of quiet negotiations between county and college officials.

Scheduled to attend, besides college representatives, were the ways and means, buildings and grounds, social welfare and TB Sanatorium committees of the board of supervisors, the social welfare board of directors and the TB Sanatorium board of trustees.

No details of the offer were available at press time, but it was expected to be in the neighborhood of $1 million.

247-ACRE PARCEL

The first was a 247-acre parcel east of Pontiac formerly used by the Army as a Nike Missile base.

Buildings in the TB Sanatorium complex include the 100-bed main hospital, an annex now used as a county youth home, a power house, a storage and garage building, and four residences used by medical personnel.

County officials spent several months studying plans to convert the TB facility to some other use. The project was abandoned, however, when it was found to be too costly.

The ways and means committee voted to recommend sale of the facility last October.

Mercury in Retreat; Turn Up the Heat!

Turn up the thermostat to night; a low zero to 10 is predicted. Snow flurries are forecast also.

Tomorrow will have variable cloudiness with a few snow flurries. Highs will range from 10 to 16.

The low mercury reading preceding 8 a.m. today was 27. At 3 p.m. 23 was recorded in downtown Pontiac.

Mills Plan Would Be Under Social Security, Financed Separately

WASHINGTON (U) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, a major congressional opponent of President Johnson's health care plan, says he is prepared to support a program administered by Social Security but separately financed.

Mills' views amounted to a rough sketch of a program for the aged different from the administration's Social Security plan but compatible enough with it to give every indication that a compromise could be reached.

If this should prove to be the case, the decade-long controversy in Congress over health care for the aged could be settled by mid-1965. The program is one of Johnson's principal legislative goals.

Mills, an Arkansas Democrat, is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which has been the graveyard of legislation for health care of the aged under Social Security.

"I could vote for a payroll tax to finance part of the cost of health care for the aged," Mills said when he was reached by telephone at his district office in Little Rock, Ark. He said further he has "no objection to Social Security administration of such a program." He added:

EASIER WAY
"It would be easier for them to do it, and it certainly would be less expensive than setting up a separate agency."

As for the prospects, he said, "I assume the committee would be able to work something out."

He declined to speculate on what benefits might be provided under a plan of the kind he would favor, or what its cost might be.

The Johnson-backed plan is essentially similar to those proposed earlier by President John F. Kennedy and congressional sponsors over the years. It would provide hospital, nursing home and some outpatient service — but not regular doctor care — for the aged.

INCREASED TAX

The cost would be met, for Social Security retirees, by increasing the payroll tax now paid by both employers and employees — (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Goal for College Higher

Fund Progress 'Splendid'

"Our Osteopathic College committee continues to make splendid progress," said Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. today.

"We have encountered some taxes and the prospects of interest charges that push the cost slightly in excess of $300,000, instead of the original $275,000."

"We actually have $261,000 pledged right now and there are some excellent prospects that have not given final amounts."

"In addition to these, a few of our original donors suggested they might increase their pledges if we lagged a bit at the end of the drive. Further, we still have high hopes that three more luncheon clubs will assist," he said.

"The immediate prospects are really excellent, and the committee would like to feel it could close out this big job and have the land ready for delivery to the Osteopathic College Board before 1964 comes to a close."

"Currently, we plan to invite some of our more successful and younger businessmen to pitch in and help us on the last lap of this whirlwind campaign."

"Our goal stands directly ahead and Pontiac is going to make it," Taylor said.

Goldwater, Burch, Miller View Republican Friction

PHOENIX, Ariz. (U) — The big three of the 1964 Republican presidential campaign concluded a second summit session today at the hilltop home of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Dean Burch, the embattled national chairman, said they discussed "a little internal friction in the party," but declined specifics.

Burch and Rep. William Miller of New York, Goldwater's running mate in the November election, flew into Phoenix yesterday and left this morning.

Miller said their talks were a continuation of the meeting in Jamaica, West Indies, held immediately after the election.

He said another meeting was planned but no date or place has been determined.

Although both men looked tired, Burch said their serious talks had lasted only about an hour and a half.

BURCH'S FUTURE

Burch, who used the "internal friction" phrase, said they had discussed his future as party chairman, noting: "It's hard to have any kind of discussion without going into that."

Burch again said he expects to be chairman after a Jan. 22-23 meeting of the Republican National Committee in Chicago.

He declined again to estimate how many of the 132 committee members will back him. He called it useless speculation and said he wasn't going to pin himself down.

Asked whether proposals that the party adopt a two-chairman system were discussed, Miller replied, "Not specifically." He also called Burch the best man to head the committee at this moment.

2-CHAIRMAN SYSTEM

The two-chairman system would involve one man serving as administrator while his colleague took over as committee spokesman.

10 X-Ray Stars Discovered in Universe by Scientists

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer
AUSTIN, Tex. — In two short years, scientists taking a new look into the universe have discovered 10 X-ray stars.

These are stars or clouds of gases that broadcast X rays. Earth people need not worry — the rays are too soft to get through our atmosphere.

The X-ray stars were detected by special Geiger counters on rockets soaring up 100 miles high on quick-look flights.

All 10 are within the Milky Way, our own great galaxy of 200 billion stars.

Their positions imply that most X-ray stars are associated with supernovae — the brilliant, explosive death of stars, Dr. Herbert Friedman of the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, D.C., said today.

Three of these X-ray sources may be elusive neutron stars, he told the second Texas Symposium on Relativistic Astrophysics at the University of Texas.

A supernova involves the explosion of outer gaseous portions of the star, and an implosion or inward collapse of its core, he said.

Gravitational collapse of the core could concentrate star material into neutrons — a main particle in the nuclei of atoms — at a density of a billion tons per cubic inch. Material as big as our sun could be squeezed into a sphere only 10 miles in diameter, Dr. Friedman explained.

Very hot but tiny neutron stars would not radiate much visible light but could send out X rays. Now there is new evidence that they may cool rather quickly, become even dimmer and harder ever to see, he said.

The rocket peeking — begun only in 1963 — found X rays streaming from three points in the heavens where no visible light nor any radio energy can be detected at all, Dr. Friedman reported, so they may be neutron stars.

The powerful X-ray source in Scorpius may be associated with a shell-shaped, radio-emitting nebula encircling the region, he added. It resembles the Cygnus veil nebula which is the remnant of a supernova occurring 50,000 to 100,000 years ago.

Dr. Friedman cited increasing evidence to think that neutron stars exist and can be found. The search continues, aimed at better understanding of the birth, life and death of stars, including the ultimate fate of the earth's life-sustaining sun.

Defense Budget Cut in 'Reserve' Merger

You might think it was his money he's saving, the way Secretary of Defense ROBERT S. McNAMARA continues to slash the fat off the Nation's military establishment.

Well, it is—his and the rest of the taxpayers'.

Latest of his streamlining, budget-cutting moves is the abolition of the Army Reserve organization and transfer of units comprising half its 300,000-man force to the National Guard. The Guard's strength will thereby be increased to 550,000 from its present enrollment of 400,000.

McNAMARA

Estimated annual saving from the consolidation is $150 million, with other benefits taking the form of a more uniformly-trained and coordinated secondary line of defense.

As was the case following the secretary's recent drastic curtailment of outmoded and excess military bases, cries of anguish, rising mainly from the throats of politicians or those who foresee loss of special privileges, were heard on all sides.

But McNAMARA has turned a characteristic deaf ear to his critics while giving the green light to implementation of his praiseworthy concept of military reorganization.

We commend the Secretary of Defense on his conscientious and intrepid championship of the public weal in the administration of his department, and at the same time give a bow of acknowledgement to President Johnson for steadfast support of his cabinet officer.

Top Nuclear Instructor Gives Teaching an 'A'

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW made the remark that "He who can, does. He who cannot, teaches."

Any number of effective refutations of this could be cited. One of the latest was made by Dr. FELIX BLOCH, co-winner of the 1952 Nobel Prize in physics for his work in nuclear magnetism, who for 14 years has taught at least one introductory course in physics at Stanford University.

Teaching beginners is gratifying, he says, and not at all easy. "It means putting complex ideas into their simplest form. Sometimes this forces one to clarify his own ideas — not a bad thing."

It may be argued that brilliant doers have more important things to occupy their time than teaching. But for the really gifted student, says Bloch, routine teaching by routine teachers doesn't do much good.

"Let nobody say it is a waste of time to put so much effort into a few," he says. "It is the few who count."

Bloch concedes that a good teacher need not necessarily be a top man in his field. But if he is good as a doer, the chances are good that he can do well as an imparter of inspiration and information to others.

"At least," says the scientist, "he has something to impart."

Fiscal Facts of Life Dawning on Latinos

Encouraging words and — better yet — performance related to the U. S.-Latin American Alliance for Progress come from the southern end of the partnership.

Long after the Alliance was launched in 1961, many Latin American governments chose to believe that it was just another philanthropic gimmick whereby Uncle Sam's dollars could be siphoned down south of the border.

But as diplomats and economists from 20 nations gathered in Lima, Peru, for the third annual review of the Alliance, there was heartening evidence that most Latin American nations now accept its goals and are working to achieve them.

Despite galloping population growth that threatens the continent's hard-won gains in housing, education, health and food production, and mushrooming inflation in many countries, the Latin Americans succeeded this year for the first time in meeting the Alliance's goal of an over-all 3 per cent per capita product growth rate. Total continental export earnings rose 8 per cent.

More important perhaps than any statistical balance sheets was what seems to be a new awareness of what the Alliance can and should be.

Brazil's Minister of Planning Roberto Campos epitomized the nascent sense of self-reliance when he observed, "Neither our fate nor our salvation are in the stars. They are within ourselves."

This realistic concept for national progress has notably been lacking on the part of recipients of U.S. assistance.

Five Landmarks in Rights Cases

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — In all its history, five decisions of the Supreme Court stand out as the great landmarks in its handling of civil rights. The last one came this week.

These decisions have been spread out over more than a century. In the course of it the court completely reversed itself, which in turn is a reflection of the change in attitude in this country toward Negroes.

The Dred Scott decision of 1857. It said slaves and their descendants were not U.S. citizens.

The 1883 decision which said it was constitutionally all right for owners of places of public accommodation, like hotels or inns, to discriminate against Negroes. This, of course, included refusing to serve them.

The 1896 decision, with its tremendous impact on American life and history for more than a half a century. This said it was constitutional to segregate Negroes from whites so long as they got equal treatment.

The 1954 decision banning public school segregation. This completely reversed the 1896 decision and opened the doors of American life to Negroes by declaring segregation by its very nature was unconstitutional.

The decision Monday. This said hotels, or motels or other places of public accommodation — if they are involved in interstate commerce — cannot refuse to serve Negroes because they're Negroes. This threw out the decision of 1883.

As a follow-up to the 1954 decision, Congress in 1957, for the first time in this century, passed a civil rights act to protect Negroes, and another in 1960.

Both were pretty limited, hardly more than beginnings.

Then this past summer, Congress passed the Civil Rights Act of 1964. This was far-reaching, particularly in a section which prohibited discrimination in places of public accommodation that were involved in interstate commerce.

On Monday the court upheld the constitutionality of this section — thus throwing the 1883 decision out the window. It based its opinion not on the 14th Amendment as the court or other places of public accommodation clause of the Constitution which gives the government the power to regulate interstate commerce.

David Lawrence Says:

Court Divided on Sit-In Ruling

WASHINGTON — Every now and then justices of the Supreme Court who dissent from a majority opinion of the tribunal speak out in vehement language.

But rarely, if ever, have four of the justices told the five others, in effect, that they really didn't LAWRENCE know what they were doing when they issued — as they did this week — a ruling unprecedented in American history.

The decision concerned two groups of persons, one of which went into a tearoom in a department store in Arkansas, and the other of which entered a lunchroom in a store in South Carolina.

They seated themselves as part of a "sit-in" demonstration and asked for service. It was refused, and they declined to leave when requested. They were arrested as trespassers and convicted, but appealed their cases through the state courts without success.

But between the time they were convicted and the date that the Supreme Court considered their appeal, Congress passed the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

MAIN QUESTION
The main question before the court, therefore, was whether the passage of the new law nullified the convictions. The court said it did and freed the convicted individuals.

Justice Black, one of the four dissenting justices of the Supreme Court in this case, said:

"Even assuming, however, that the Civil Rights Act was intended to let people who enter restaurants take the law into their own hands by forcibly remaining when service is refused them, this would be no basis for holding that Congress also meant to compel states to abate convictions like these for lawless conduct occurring before the act was passed."

Justice Black pointed out that the "legislative history" of the act is "perhaps the most extensive and careful" ever compiled for any bill passed by Congress — "including millions and millions of words written on tens of thousands of pages contained in volumes weighing well over half a hundred pounds, in which every conceivable aspect and application of the 1964 act were discussed ad infinitum."

NO EXPRESSION
He said that "not even once did a single sponsor, proponent or opponent of the act intimate a hope or express a fear that the act was intended to have the effect which the court gives it today."

The doctrine that passage of a law by Congress can set aside convictions for crimes previously committed under state laws — which were valid at the time the offense was committed — is perhaps the most revolutionary ruling that the Supreme Court has enunciated in modern times.

What's Behind Campus Activity?

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Two months of University of California student rallies, picketing and sit-ins aimed at expanding campus political activity bring to mind how far I've seen students go politically in some foreign countries.

The California demonstration and civil rights activities organized by students at some schools raise the question: Will U.S. campuses eventually become the political hotbeds universities already have become in many other countries?

I was in Mexico City a number of years ago when the authorities were moving the University of Mexico from the center of the city to the suburbs. Mexicans told me this move was in large part aimed at getting the students outside of the capital so their political effectiveness would be reduced.

In an emergency, I was told, Mexican government troops could bar the students from entering the central city. As long as the university was in the center of town, such control was practically impossible.

Voice of the People:

Communists on Campus Influence Future Leaders

Communists led a college rebellion in California and the leaders are touring America making speeches to the students, including Michigan State.

The fact Communists are roaming around recruiting should send Americans into violent protests but it doesn't. They are out shaking the bushes after super patriots. Colleges are hotbeds of Communists. Some college professors are Communists and hold strong influence over students who will be teachers, doctors, politicians, clergymen, news commentators and artists.

One of them might be President or head our Department of State, and then they may advocate co-existence with Russia, disarmament, Medicare and other forms of socialism.

'Waterford Police Cleaned Newsstands'

The Waterford police have done a marvelous job of cleaning up their newsstands. Why don't the Pontiac police get busy?

We could also use some help from interested citizens. Complaints can be made to local druggists, the Michigan Pharmaceutical Association and the U. S. Supreme Court.

'What Would Jefferson's Comments Be?'

Thomas Jefferson said "We must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debt. We must make our selection between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude."

People ask what he would do in this day's world. You doubters and spenders, he would say the very same thing if he were alive and our President today.

'Isolation Will Not Solve Smut Problem'

If you take smut magazines off newsstands and prohibit kids to mention them, this is going to backfire right in your lap. Instead of teaching your children morals you are too busy trying to isolate them from this problem, making this mysterious, exciting, vulgar thing more tempting for the adolescent mind.

Making gambling illegal hasn't stopped it. Prohibition did not stop drinking. Isolation will not stop smut, but will make it more interesting.

extreme nationalist student groups.

In China in World War II, I learned from Mao Tse-tung's men that the Red, leader's own political activist beginnings were on a school campus. A stable chunk of early Red Chinese activity was among students.

None of this is to imply that student political activity in the countries I've reported from is always either right wing or right wing. I do mean to suggest that in many foreign countries student political activity has been strong enough to help overthrow governments.

In the foreign countries I have been in, the students (right wing, left wing or whatever) usually were prepared to resort to violence in the heat of demonstrations. This was true, however moderate their leaders intended to be when the movements were organized.

Car Inspection Urged in State

LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University's Highway Traffic Safety Center advised Gov. George Romney Wednesday how a vehicle inspection program could operate in Michigan.

The report was the result of a study of states which have such programs. The center said periodic vehicle inspections in Michigan "could contribute significantly to traffic accident prevention."

It proposed:

1. All owners be required to have their vehicles inspected at least once annually.

2. Inspections performed at qualified, state-authorized, privately-owned garages, repair shops and eligible service stations, and by certified mechanic-inspectors.

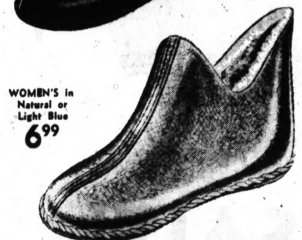

3. The State Police commissioner administer and supervise the program.

4. A proposed fee of $2.25 would be charged, of which $2 would go to the garage for labor costs and $.25 to the state for administration. Eventually the program would be self-sustaining.

Bright Yule Looms for Quake-Torn Anchorage

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Less than nine months ago this booming northland city was stricken by one of the mightiest earthquakes ever recorded.

With its first postquake Christmas approaching, the city's merchants find the current business picture as bright as the twinkle in Santa's eyes.

The consensus is that business this Christmas season promises to be very, very good, despite the big shake of March 27, and perhaps the best ever.

Employment is up and the Salvation Army's Christmas kettles are ringing out a tune of quarters and dimes far louder than in past years.

'BIGGEST YEAR'

Vance Phillips, coproprietor

of two large locally owned department stores, said: "This will be our biggest year by quite a bit. Every year so far has been the best and 1964 is no exception. There are just more people around this year and they are not holding back in shopping."

Mayor Elmer Rasmuson, who also is president of the National Bank of Alaska, commented: "Probably the season will be one of the best we have ever seen in Anchorage."

This view is shared by William Renfro, executive vice president of the Matanuska Valley Bank.

"All the people we talk to, customers of the bank, particularly in the retail trade, seem to be enjoying an excellent business this season," Renfro said.

MORE PAYROLLS

"The reason they give is earthquake reconstruction work — much of the work has gone on later than usual and there are just more payrolls."

Yvonne Krotke, manager of the State Employment Service Office in Anchorage, said quake reconstruction work has resulted in lower unemployment and a higher than normal level of winter employment.

"Several of the big jobs are continuing through the winter," Mrs. Krotke said, "and a lot of the men who are usually laid off at this time, because of severe winter weather, are still employed."

Among projects continuing through winter's subzero temperatures are the reconstruction of two schools and the J. C. Penney Co. store, as well as new construction on a hotel and office building.

CONDITIONS IMPROVED

Robert Grier, Penney's manager, said he finds business conditions definitely better than a year ago.

"Sales have shown an increase and it seems there is just more money in circulation this year," he said.

The firm is operating from three different locations while a huge new building to replace the one shattered in the Good Friday temblor is under construction.

HIGH LEVEL

Jack Ferguson, Northern Commercial Co. manager for Anchorage, said business is good and he expects it to continue at a high level through the Christmas season.

Northern Commercial's big downtown store also was destroyed March 27. The firm is operating out of temporary quarters, with no room for its appliance, furniture and hardware departments.

"If we just had more room," Ferguson said, "we'd have no complaints at all."

Lt. Col. Daniel G. Rody, Salvation Army commander in Anchorage, said the volunteer agency has more families to help this year because of the quake, but people appear to be more generous with contributions.

NEEDY FAMILIES

Most of the needy families, Rody said, are from the small native villages so hard hit by seismic sea waves March 27.

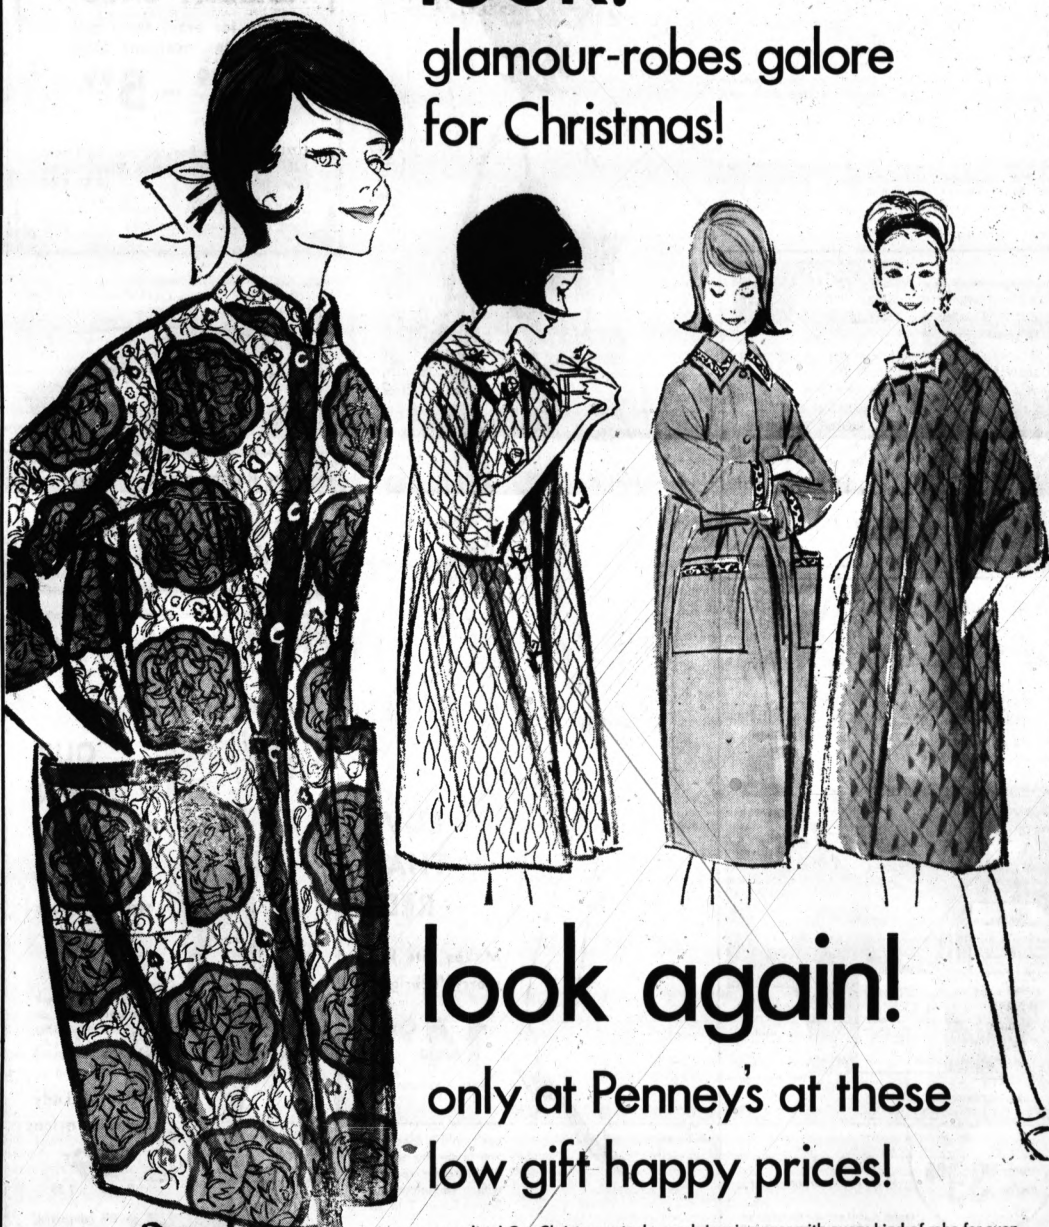

"The cities and towns — Valdez, Seward, Kodiak and Anchorage — so not appear to have increased needs this year, because just about everyone is working," Rody said.

There are vast deposits of iron ore in Newfoundland. Fourteen mines were being worked last year.

Carved Nativity Scene Now Family Treasure

STREATOR, Ill. (AP) — When Julius Nowag was a boy in Germany he longed to have a Christmas crib.

He often admired manger scenes in store windows. But he was too poor to buy one. So he told himself: "I'll carve one."

At 13 he went to work in a coal mine, but failing health forced him to quit after 10 years.

2 LARGE TREES

Nowag practiced on potatoes. When ready, he chopped down two large linden trees and, in 1905, began his knife work. In the course of almost 20 years he carved 120 pieces.

He died in 1938, and left the Nativity scene to his daughter, Mrs. Ted Winkler of Streator.

During World War II her brother, Lukas, buried it so it would not be burned or stolen. With the return of peace it was dug up. Mrs. Winkler visited Germany in 1954 and brought home her heritage.

Each Christmas season she proudly displays it in the living room of her home.

A TREASURE

"It is how my father imagined the first Christmas," Mrs. Winkler said. "When I look at it, I see my father. To me it's a treasure."

She said Nowag regarded it as something personal and as a family keepsake.

She added: "People in Germany would come and say: 'You make beautiful things. You should be known.'"

But her father would shrug and say something about how traditionally an artist "becomes known after his death."

80 MILES

And so it is with artist Julius Nowag.

His daughter said people come from as far as Chicago — 80 miles — to see the crèche he fashioned long ago and far away.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)

—Coquette, Police Sgt. Pat Harrington's Chesapeake retriever, was sleeping when a burglar slipped into Harrington's home and stole his wife's purse. It was reported this week.

Coquette was awake, however, when one of Harrington's fellow officers came to the home to make a burglary report. She bit him.

The number of children under five years of age in the nation doubled between 1940-49 from 10.5 million to 20.3 million. By 1970 the total is expected to increase to 25 million.

Nationalist Chinese Agents Jeopardized by Defector to Reds

TOKYO (AP) — The lives of American-trained Nationalist Chinese agents in Communist south China are feared jeopardized by the reported defection of a high-ranking Nationalist intelligence officer.

A Peking broadcast today identified the defector as former Maj. Gen. Cheng Yi-ming, chief of intelligence in Portuguese Macao for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Defense Ministry.

In Taipei, a spokesman for the Nationalist Defense Ministry, Rear Adm. Pei Yu-feng, said he had never heard of Cheng.

The defection, if true, would be one of the most important in recent years. It undoubtedly will touch off an overhaul of Nationalist espionage and sabotage in the south China area.

ACTIVE OPERATION

Nationalist operatives have been particularly active in the Kwangtung Province area, of which Canton is the capital.

The Portuguese colony of Macao is an island in the Canton River delta 65 miles south of Canton and 40 miles west of Hong Kong.

The Red Chinese broadcast said Cheng had worked in the "special service organization of the Chiang Kai-shek gang for 31 years."

It said the veteran intelligence officer recently "began to become clear about the situation and felt he had no future in clinging to the U.S.-Chiang clique, so he made up his mind to forsake the darkness and come over to the light."

Cheng, who once held high posts in pre-Communist China in Shanghai and Canton, went from Macao to Canton last Sunday and surrendered to the Communist authorities, Peking said. He brought with him a quantity of intelligence information and equipment, the broadcast said including "two poison needles to inject for assassination purposes."

Cheng expressed his "gratitude for not having his past deeds held against him" and promised to "study hard, remodel himself and make contributions to his motherland and people," Peking said.

Ordered to Cut Negroes' Hair

New Jersey Barber
Given Court Edict

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — A North Jersey barbershop was ordered by the state yesterday to cut the hair of Negroes, who previously had been refused service.

The New Jersey Division on Civil Rights said that the police of Phillips' Barbershop in Madison constituted racial discrimination.

The division dismissed a racial discrimination complaint against a barbershop in East Orange.

The decisions came after a prolonged controversy which resulted in a public hearing last June. The barbers had contended they didn't know how to cut Negroes' hair and that their shops should be excluded from the statutes on the grounds that the services they perform are strictly personal.

CITIES LAW

George F. Pfau, director of the Division on Civil Rights, said refusal to cut the Negroes' hair was contrary to public accommodations provisions of the New Jersey civil rights law.

Pfau directed Philip Gatti, operator of the barbershop, to invite two Negro complainants to his shop for haircuts at regular prices, during regular business hours.

"He must also serve all other Negro customers in the same manner as white customers," Pfau said.

The complaint against the East Orange barber was dismissed on grounds that he had subsequently invited a Negro complainant to have a haircut in the shop's front chair.

LANDMARK DECISION

Pfau said today's ruling constitutes a landmark decision in the division's 20-year history.

He said it "involves only one offending barbershop, but its instant applies to every barbershop practicing discrimination. For, while a substantial number of shops do afford equal treatment to all customers, there are too many which do not."

Radioes Mom in Hospital

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — Eight-year-old Bob Jones has turned to electronics help to bypass Mercy Hospital rules which prohibit visits to patients by minors under 14. He and his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Jines, share a set of "walkie-talkie" radios while she recuperates from gall bladder surgery. Mrs. Jines sees Bob on the ground from her third-floor hospital room while they converse via the two-way sets in what hospital attendants believe is a "first" in patient visiting practices.

Women Escapes Blast

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Mrs. Jennie Deane, 92, escaped apparently uninjured Wednesday when an explosion ruined her northeast Grand Rapids home. Firemen and Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. inspectors sought the cause of the blast.

He Claims Pyorrhea Is Disability of Jaw

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

A dentist I met on the bowling green exclaimed: "Oh, the pyorrhea specialist, eh?"

The remark, I thought, reflected a view many dentists have taken of my teachings, particularly in regard to conservation of the teeth. They imply that, being a physician and not a dentist, I am not qualified to teach people how to save their teeth.

I was annoyed by the dentist's crack, just as I am annoyed by the dentists' narrow view of dental hygiene.

But I didn't feel any animosity toward the dentist—on the contrary I took pains to cultivate his friendship. He was an exceptionally awkward bowler and so some of the club members obviously enjoyed playing with him.

I bowled for the fun of it, not just to win, so I cheerfully accepted or chose him as a partner. One day he told me he enjoyed bowling with me because, no matter how poorly he bowled, I never complained or criticized. Later the poor fellow went away, and I have only pleasant memories of him.

No. 1 of the "Seven Keys to Vite" (the title of one of the 23 Little Lessons in the Ways of Health) and No. 1 of the 23 Lessons is the 54-page booklet, "Save Your Teeth," for which send me 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

JAW DISABILITY

In this booklet I regard pyorrhea as chronic jaw disability (analogous with chronic joint disability), degeneration of the jaw tissues—bone, tooth socket, gum, everything, due to the same cause as that of chronic rheumatism, namely, nutritional deficiency from childhood up to the present.

The primary or essential condition commonly called pyorrhea (the term means merely discharge or flow of pus, which is one effect of degeneration of the jaw tissues) is degeneration and not a specific disease. Pyorrhea is a degeneration due to lifelong nutritional deficiency, just as chronic rheumatism (or what your latter-day specialist calls "arthritis") is.

Some conservative surgery may be necessary in many cases of pyorrhea, as for draining pus pockets, for instance, but as a general rule the less surgery the better. The condition is degeneration, remember, not disease.

The important part of treatment is virtually the same nutritional regimen, month by month, year in and year out, from now on, as that which is most beneficial for the victim of chronic joint disability—chronic rheumatism. I hope no lamebrain will think this doesn't apply to what the merchant of medicine calls "arthritis."

OUT OF STEP

Many physicians dismiss my teachings about chronic joint disability by jeering at me for implying they're all out of step with Brady.

Many dentists think so, too.

This doesn't bother me at all. I'll keep hammering away on this line until some physician of standing ventures to define chronic "arthritis" clearly enough to distinguish it from what the entire medical profession calls chronic rheumatism in the days when medicine was a profession; or until two dentists agree on the nature, cause and treatment of pyorrhea.

Meanwhile, not more than one page of 10 words from anything in person, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady in a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to: The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich. (Copyright, 1964)

Investigate Magazine's Rating 'Poll'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A national magazine's prolection "poll" that rated one lawmaker among both the best and the worst members of Congress came under the scrutiny of House investigators today.

A special House committee established to look into complaints about 1964 House campaign spending and practices took up three members' complaints about an article published in the November issue of Pageant magazine.

The article, entitled: "Our Congressmen — Who is Best? Who is Worst?", rated 18 senators and 18 House members as the "most effective" and the "least effective" in the Congress.

It said the ratings were based on the returns from a survey among congressmen and the Washington press corps.

One of the three House members who called for the inquiry, Democratic Whip Hale Boggs, Jr., was in the unusual position of being named among both the "most effective" and "least effective."

RATING CONFLICT

The magazine said Boggs was rated by newsmen as one of the five best members of Congress and by other House members as one of the five worst.

Neither Boggs nor the other complainants — Reps. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, and Roman C. Pucinski, D-Ill. — challenged the magazine's right to publish an article characterizing them as ineffective.

The objections were based on the failure of the magazine to back up its ratings with any statistics, such as how many members of Congress or newsmen took part in the survey.

U. of M. Prof Expires

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Ava Comin Chase, 65, pianist and professor of music at the University of Michigan, died Tuesday of a heart attack.

Baldness Bares His Only Mistake

FIUGGI, Italy (AP) — The annual prize for the most popular advertising character on Italian television went to Cesare Polacco — the man who only made one error.

Polacco appears once or twice a week as the infallible police inspector. In each episode he brilliantly detects the guilty criminal. His aides exclaim: "Inspector, you never make a mistake."

That's where the ad plug comes in. Cesare smiles modestly, sweeps off his hat, baring a bald head, and murmurs, "yes just one. I never used — hair tonic."

Boys See the Light

BEACON, N.Y. (AP) — Two young boys will soon be seen around town carrying signs reading, "I am sorry I shot out the Christmas lights and I am soliciting money to pay for the damage."

It was either that or be locked up in the Dutchess County jail over the holidays.

The choice was given the boys, not identified because of their ages, when they appeared Tuesday before Judge Thomas Lynch. They chose to solicit donations over the next few weeks to pay for the Christmas lights they destroyed with air rifles on Beacon's main street.

State AFL-CIO Hits Appointee

DETROIT (UPI) — The Michigan AFL-CIO claimed today that Gov. Romney named a management-oriented person as one of the public members of the board that will administer the new state minimum wage law.

In an editorial in the Michigan AFL-CIO News, the union said, "There may be a conflict of interest involved in the appointment of Prof. Henry Barbour to Michigan's new Wage Deviation Board as a public member."

"Barbour is director of Michigan State University's School of Hotel, Restaurant and Institutional Management."

"His job is a management-oriented one — he trains students for future jobs as hotel and restaurant managers; he works closely with management people in the development of his school program and in placement of students," the editorial said.

Barbour responded that "Most of what they say has an element of truth in it. I am the director and we do train managers."

NOT QUITE FAIR

"But I think the union is not quite fair. They do not point out I have been a union member and we do have representatives of labor—two of them—that help plan the course work at MSU."

"I've also appeared on programs for organized labor just as I do for employer groups."

"I don't think I would be swayed one way or the other by my position. I think I can fairly represent the interests of all three groups."

"I think the public interests are a combination of the employer and employee interests," Barbour said.

He said he belonged to Local 88 of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders International Union in Chicago in 1946-47 while employed as a cook at the Drake Hotel and as a coffee steward at the Palmer House.

The union newspaper editorial claimed a major task of the wage deviation board will be deciding how the minimum wage law will be applied in the hotel and restaurant industries. "So Barbour will be judging wages in industries with which he has direct involvement," the paper said.

Sell 4,000-Pound Hippo

Coeds Shed 'Ugly Weight'

NEW YORK (AP) — Three Smith College coeds have come face to face with an ugly, weighty problem. They were delighted, but the problem, a 4,000-pound, nasty-tempered hipopotamus named Betsy, wasn't impressed.

The girls are Nancy Horner, 20, of Worcester, Mass., Ann Longfellow, 19, of Wayzata, Minn., and Ellen Emerson, 19, of Concord, Mass.

Two weeks ago, "sort of out of pity," they submitted a bid on Betsy, one of several surplus animals put up for auction by the city.

Their $400 bid won, and they arrived at Brooklyn's Prospect Park Zoo this week for a look at their "white elephant," so to speak.

"She's beautiful!" the girls exclaimed in unison. "Isn't that a lovely mouth? Isn't she great? She looks so docile."

RUMBLING NOISE

Betsy, obviously unused to this kind of flattery, pressed her ample behind against the rear wall of the cage, and made a low rumbling noise.

"Watch yourself now," said zoo keeper Kenneth Welch. "She's mean and she charges. One swipe of that head and it's all over."

When the girls discovered their was the winning bid, they were faced with proving to city officials that they could take proper care of a 10-year-old hippo.

It would not be easy, they decided, to show that a girl's college is the ideal place to keep one. Especially since Betsy has what her keeper calls "a personality problem."

NEW HOME

So they sold her to the Rio Grande Valley Zoological Association, which agreed to pay them exactly what they had bid—$400—and also pick up the tab for transportation. Harlington, Tex., will be Betsy's new home.

PILLARS OF LIGHT — Marina Towers in downtown Chicago had this appearance as they were illuminated in Christmas finery. Lights are strung on the balconies of each apartment from the 21st to 60th floors and the television station antenna on the west tower. The first 20 floors are used for parking. But, just as on most Christmas trees, some of the lights have burned out already.

Asks Space Experts' Help With California Problems

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—California Gov. Edmund G. Brown is turning to the experts on outer space for assistance in solving some of the inner space problems facing the nation's most populous state.

The governor claims his state has the largest aggregate of scientific talent in the nation—grouped mainly in its aerospace industries—and the same minds that devised a system for launching a man into space could be applied to California's pressing problems.

He suggested the companies submit bids to the state, outlining the costs for development of programs to meet the increasing needs of a rapidly expanding population.

"Through pioneering techniques of systems and developments and engineering, the aerospace industries have solved the enormously complex problems of space travel," Brown said.

4 MAJOR PROBLEMS

The state put a ceiling of $100,000 on each of the first four major problems submitted for bids.

The problems were:

1. Waste management, including smog control and elimination of water pollution.
2. A transportation system to handle the growing needs of booming California.
3. A plan for gathering data on public needs in an effort to take some of the guesswork out of government planning.
4. A better system for treating the mentally ill and controlling the criminally ill.

PROMISE ASSISTANCE

Shortly after Brown's request for aerospace help, four nationally known companies promised their assistance. They were Aerojet-General Corp., Douglas Aircraft Corp., Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and Hughes Aircraft Co.

Dan A. Kimball, chairman of the board of directors for Aerojet-General, summed it up for the company executives:

"I am confident, speaking for the industry, we can successfully utilize use of the systems' approach of aerospace development to suggest solutions in those areas of immediate concern."

The governor said the care of the criminally and mentally ill was one of the headaches the state had failed to solve and one of the big questions he hoped aerospace engineers could answer.

CURRENT SYSTEM

"The current system for handling the criminals and the mentally ill is finding it increasingly difficult to meet the requirements," Brown said.

"The number of people requiring such control is increasing rapidly in California. The current system has not been effective in obtaining acceptable behavior upon release of these persons from the institutions."

"The institutions, in some cases, apparently increase abnormal behavior so that readmission is frequent."

The governor said the space engineers may be the only ones who can develop "the common denominators involved in diagnosis, in the care and the cure, and in the economic impact upon a community."

WHAT IS NEEDED

Perhaps, Brown said, the engineers and scientists can determine what type of program is needed to "return these criminals and mentally ill to the open society with assurance that their nonacceptable behavior would not recur."

The same general problems, Brown said, exist in data collection, in waste management, and in transportation.

The Indian state of Punjab had 4,238 factories last year employing about 160,000 workers. Textiles, bicycles, sewing machines and paper were the chief products.

Fabulous Gifts Stagger the Imagination

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fur's flying throughout the fabulous and the off-beat Christmas gifts available for the shopper who's running low on ideas but not on cash.

Competing with the traditional mink coat the more affluent giver can select, there are also such items as chinchilla rug, baby carriage robes, floor-length black ermine evening coats, breeches and fencer's vests of jaguar, and tiger vests.

We've been shop-bounding the stores, the advertising pages of the newspapers and the catalogs and produced these gift suggestions which depart from the usual.

Prices are given only when the items go beyond the $25 mark.

land lamb on up to $12,000 for one of chinchilla.

The same house offers floor-length black ermine coats for $4,500; "His" and "Her" coats of silver ermine at $3,500 each; children's fur coats of other at $75; a white mink shopping coat durable enough to take rain or snow for $2,500; and tiger or leopard vests at $500 each.

Rugs for the man on a gift list also come from a store famous for its sports gear.

These included a polar bear-skin rug for $1,000; a cobra throw, at $500; and a lion skin rug for $1,500.

Another New York store is pushing baby carriage robes at $500 each; and a store known for its elegance has breeches and fencer's vest in Brazilian jaguar for $3,850.

A Texas store shows waste baskets covered in Canadian fur for $30.

The same firm is advertising "His" and "Her" balloons at $6,850 each, and "His" and "Her" recovery kits — "for life of the party people" — consisting of ice bag hats, eye masks and ear plugs.

A fashion coordinator at one New York store summed up buying trends this season when she said, "In our affluent society people don't need things, so our gifts are amusing and light."

Gifts from its boutique included a stuffed frog with spectacles, a bottle opener shaped like a football, and a tool chest for women.

Affluence also pervades the toy world—with expensive toys for adults! An Allentown, Pa. store features a number of these including a seven-foot-tall gorilla, who when plugged into a household circuit menaces roars, groans and swings its arms.

He's priced at $1,400. Another toy animated once plugged in is a performing pony and girl trainer, for $1,800.

We gleaned these other suggestions:

—For her, a purse that when opened plays a tune; a battery-powered flour sifter and a battery-powered manicure set.

—For him a set of 14 karat gold sports coat buttons for $300; a set of cuff links with the Wall Street symbols of bull and bear design, $77; a boom-bass, one-man band — cymbals, drums and noise makers on a pogo stick, $30.

CASHMERE LONGJOHNS

From the same store, cashmere longjohns, mounted trophy horns or antlers $250 and up for the hunter who "never bagged his own," and a brandy cante that appears to be a walking stick but unscrews at the handle to reveal a plastic flask.

Lifelike Dolls Leading Christmas Toy Parade

WASHINGTON — Dolls do everything nowadays but change their own diapers.

They walk, talk, wink, drink, burp, flirt, snuffle, sneeze, laugh and sing. They wear wigs, blow bubbles and twist.

Ranging in grandness from the simplest rag baby to the most sophisticated teen model, dolls have grabbed a giant share of the $1 billion toy market this Christmas.

Dolls with mechanical ability are increasingly popular, the National Geographic Society reports.

One baby doll turns her head and dutifully falls asleep in her crib at the push of a button. A beatnik moppet says, "Play it cool."

Another sings nursery rhymes, and a sports-minded doll roller-skates in circles.

One versatile youngster speaks 216 words in French, Spanish, Russian, Italian, German, English and Japanese, thanks to tiny phonograph discs that can be played within the doll.

SICK DOLL

To bring out the nurse in every little girl, there is even a sick doll. She comes equipped with three faces — an ill one (complete with red spots), sleep, and happy. She is dressed in pajamas, and has her own adjustable hospital bed.

One of the most lifelike dolls has hair that grows. The hair can be washed, set, then combed out in high-fashion style. The flick of a switch changes the hair length from short to medium to long.

Two Baltimore brothers have perfected a doll that can get a suntan. Dressed in blue swimsuit, "Sandy" freckles, then turns a golden brown after a minute in the sun.

The secret is a special coating which makes the body sensitive to light.

Many toy manufacturers believe clothes sell the doll. Consequently, high-fashion dolls may have 100-piece wardrobes, including monogrammed pajamas and miniature mink coats, meekers and swim fins.

"It costs more to clothe the doll than my child!" moaned one mother.

To make doll housekeeping easier, there are such appliances as whistling tea kettle, sizzling skillet and perking percolator. For the career-girl doll there's a desk and two-way telephone with "lite-up" dial. For the outdoor type there are golf clubs, sports cars and boats.

WIND-UP WRITER

Mechanization of dolls is not new. American dolls were walking and talking a hundred years ago.

And as far back as the 18th century, two Swiss watchmakers built three incredible dolls that still write, draw and play for visitors to the History Museum in Neuchâtel, Switzerland.

When wound up, the little author dips a quill pen in ink and writes "Welcome to Neuchâtel" in French.

The artist sketches pencil portraits of Louis XVI of France and Marie Antoinette. The lady musician sits at the keyboard of a miniature 18th-century organ, and plays simple minuets, gavottes, and quadrilles.

BLAMES DOLLS

Though a doll's life has never been better, there are spoilsports. A Czechoslovakian Communist youth newspaper blamed dolls for spreading "bourgeois ideas of a perfect lady." The newspaper warned: "Girls will grow up to be more interested in fashion than in the production of synthetic chlorophyll."

National Post for WSU Priest

DETROIT (UPI) — The Rev. Malcolm Boyd, Detroit's "espresso" priest who gained a degree of fame around the Motor City by reading poetry and writing plays, is going nationwide. The Rev. Boyd will become chaplain-at-large for Episcopal colleges and student centers across the nation, according to Washington sources.

The Rt. Rev. Paul Moore, suffragan bishop of Washington, said most of the Rev. Boyd's time will be spent visiting university campuses across the nation.

The Rev. Boyd has scheduled more than 20 lecture series and programs next year.

The Rev. Boyd, who formerly was Episcopal chaplain at Wayne State University here, resigned from his post when he came into conflict with the Rt. Rev. Richard S. Emrich, Episcopal bishop of Michigan, over the wording of one of Boyd's plays, which used the name of Christ and "damn" in dialogue slang.

WORKING PART-TIME

Following his resignation from Wayne State, the Rev. Boyd had been working part-time as an assistant at Grace Church, Detroit.

College Official Goes All Out for Money

PORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — Colorado State University Vice President A. R. Chamberlain pulled out all the stops while pleading for more money for new engineering equipment before a budget committee of the state legislature.

"The Smithsonian Institute wants us to donate two of our old microscopes because of their historical interest," Chamberlain told the committee. "But we couldn't let them have them — we're still using them."

The federal Small Business Administration has made more than $9,000 loans totaling $2 billion to concerns the last 10 years.

Township Unit No Longer Opposed

The Michigan Townships Association (MTA), once violently opposed to county home rule, has changed its attitude, according to Joseph A. Parisi Jr., executive director.

Parisi addressed some 30 Oakland County supervisors Tuesday following a luncheon at the Pontiac Elks Temple. The Township Supervisors Association of the county sponsored the affair.

"The MTA is no longer unalterably opposed to home rule," Parisi said, "but we want some restrictions in the proposed enabling legislation."

A bill proposed for the 1965 legislature by Wayne County permits home rule for all Michigan counties.

Parisi said the association will try to get the bill amended to include only the counties in the 300,000 to 400,000 population class.

ELECTIVE OFFICES

The Wayne County bill also makes election or appointment of county officers (prosecutor, clerk, etc.) optional. The association believes these offices should continue to be elective, Parisi said.

The bill should also be amended to prohibit home rule counties from overriding the authority of cities and villages in municipal utilities projects, according to Parisi.

The association will take action on three home-rule resolutions at its January convention, Parisi said. The proposals will support:

- Redistricting of counties on a population basis.
- Election of members of boards of supervisors. (They are now appointed by townships and cities.)
- Right of the counties to redistrict themselves and determine the size of their boards of supervisors.

Parisi said the recent Circuit Court ruling that the Kent County Board of Supervisors must be reorganized on a population basis will have considerable bearing on home-rule legislation.

Steamroller Operator

Retires for 17th Time

GRANTHAM, England (UPI)—Steamroller driver James Bishop, 82, has retired for the 17th time. But he expects his employer will ask him to return again.

"It takes years to learn roller driving and youngsters of 50 or so just don't know how to use them," he explained.

Cavanagh Hits Plans

of C&O to Curb Service

DETROIT (AP)—Mayor Jerome Cavanagh Wednesday said plans of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad to eliminate two of six trains connecting Detroit, Lansing and Grand Rapids "will seriously affect our community." Detroit's city council has called a public hearing on the proposed service elimination for Dec. 17.

Hospital Pickets Possible

Pontiac State Hospital may yet have a picket line around it, if employee grievances are not settled.

A spokesman for Local 49, Michigan State Employees Union (AFL-CIO) said there was "a spiraling amount of trouble" at the hospital.

Fred G. Henry, acting president of the 475-member union, said there were seven unsettled grievances.

Dr. Robert Braun, clinical director and acting medical superintendent at Pontiac State, said there had been no formal grievances filed.

"The hospital administration has always been concerned about a smooth functioning hospital and we feel our patients will get the best possible treatment when there is a spirit of cooperation between the administration and employees," said Dr. Braun.

ASKED MEETING

The union said a meeting has been sought with officials in the State Department of Mental Health, which governs state mental hospitals.

Henry said if the grievances cannot be worked out the union would "go to the governor."

Picketing would be the last step, according to the acting president.

The union has drafted a four-point program, outlining the alleged grievances. Union officials have been backed in their stand, said Henry, by a vote of members at a meeting Tuesday evening.

NURSE FIRED
Employee unhappiness at the state hospital was climaxed by the suspension last week of a nurse, who was fired, according to the union, because she dated a male attendant.

The nurse, who married the attendant was reinstated Friday.

The four-point program includes:

- Follow-up on the case of the reinstated nurse, making sure an unsatisfactory rating is removed from her record.
- Settlement of pending grievances.
- Recognition of the union in light of the Civil Service employee relations policy. (Union officials say this is the first step towards collective bargaining.)
- Negotiation of issues involving local employee-hospital relationship, including such items as holidays, days off and related practices.

Barber Shop Fours Prepare

Preparations are progressing steadily for the 22nd annual Holiday of Harmony staged by Pontiac's chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. (SPEBSQSA).

This winter's show will be at 8:15 p.m. Jan. 23 at Pontiac Northern High School, followed by the annual Afterglow (or cast party) at the Waterford C&I Building.

Tickets have gone on sale from SPEBSQSA members and at Rawley Hallman's Professional Center Pharmacy in Clarkston. They are priced at $2.50 per person for each event.

The Pontiac chapter has raised its show price this time to accommodate the society's recent affiliation with the Institute of Logopedics at Wichita University.

This is a charitable program which deals with speech correction, and the local chapter hopes to sponsor training eventually for a Pontiac area patient.

STAR ATTRACTION

Holiday of Harmony will feature the Rhythm Counts of Toronto, Canada, as the No. 1 attraction. This group was among the international society's top 10 singing quartets in the 1963 competition.

They returned just this fall from a singing tour of the British Isles.

Also on the show this time are the Roadrunners from Gary, Ind., the 1963-64 Indiana-Kentucky district champions; Michigan district champs, the Treble-shooters from Detroit; and a novelty foursome from Muskegon, the Foremasters.

In addition, the Pontiac Revel-laires chorus under the direction of Hallman will be on the program.

Anglican Church Will Drop Hymn, 'Nearer My God'

LONDON (AP)—The Church of England, in revising its hymn book, is dropping "Nearer My God to Thee."

It was considered "sentimental, of course, but doctrinally vague," said Arthur Pollard, a lecturer at Manchester University who was literary adviser for the revision.

There is a legend this hymn was sung by passengers aboard the sinking ocean liner Titanic in 1912.

Also dropped is "I Want to Be Like Jesus."

"The first line's enough, don't you think?" Pollard observed.

The hymn contains 633 hymns including 20 new ones. The words there and there are retained, but the hymn changes what the committee in charge describes as obscure or unfortunate words. New music or harmonies are supplied for some hymns.

Two Named to Cancer Unit

Two Bloomfield Township residents have been named to the board of directors of the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

E. M. Estes, of 1085 Waddington, a General Motors Corp. vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, was reelected to his post on the board.

Milo D. McLintock of 1044 Waddington was named to the board for the first time.

Ex-GI Recalls Massacre at Malmedy

KANSAS CITY (AP)—It was Dec. 17, 1944, and outside the little town of Malmedy in Belgium, Cpl. John A. O'Connell stood in a snowy field with some 150 members of Battery B, 285th Field Artillery.

They had been overrun by Hitler's Panzer divisions and captured as the Germans made their last big push to stay the Allied invasion in the Battle of the Bulge.

"We figured the rest of the world war would be a concentration camp for us," said O'Connell, now a middle-aged manager for a baking company. "I remember talking about it with my buddy Dave O'Grady."

Suddenly a German command car moved along the road beside them with the tanks from the First Panzer SS Regiment.

"A man in the command car stood up and took careful aim and fired into us," O'Connell said. "That was the signal, I guess, for the machine guns in the tanks to fire. I took one in the shoulder and went down. Someone fell across my legs. I fell face down, my hand on Dave's back. He had been hit in the chest. Then the German infantrymen began to fire into us."

'I PRAYED'

"I couldn't believe it. I kept asking myself 'why? why?' Then I prayed. Dave was a Catholic like me and I tried to get him to pray but he just gasped."

Passing tanks added their fire "just like a bunch of kids with air rifles."

Then the Germans came into the field and clubbed, stabbed and shot the helpless captives on the ground.

Another bullet passed through O'Connell's hand. O'Grady died. Late that afternoon the light began to fade and a German soldier walked up and shot O'Connell in the head. The bullet went through the side of his face and lodged in his mouth. He spat it out.

DEAD AND WOUNDED

As darkness came near a whisper ran through the piles of dead and wounded soldiers.

"Who's alive, who's alive?" "Me, me," came a few answers.

A group of wounded jumped

Waterford Twp. Jaycees to Greet New Residents

The Waterford Township Junior Chamber of Commerce will launch a program next month aimed at welcoming newcomers to the community and encouraging them to shop locally.

Willie Swenson, chairman of the project, said that Jaycees will visit families moving into the township and answer questions pertaining to government, schools, churches and any others that may arise.

The Jaycees also will give each newcomer a portfolio containing written information, maps and discount coupons from local business places.

"One of our main goals is to get more people trading in and around Waterford where they live instead of in another city where they might work," Swenson said.

up and ran for a patch of trees. Some 15 made it safely through German fire.

About three miles away, they came near a town and O'Connell volunteered to go in and see if it was occupied by Germans or Americans.

"I figured I should have died in that field. I was going to get it over with, one way or another. So I went in.

HARD TO BELIEVE

"Americans were in the town. A colonel who listened wouldn't believe my story until my buddies came and told the same thing."

That was the end of the war for O'Connell.

And not until Jan. 12, 1945, when Americans recaptured the town did they find the evidence of one of the most infamous slaughters of unarmed prisoners.

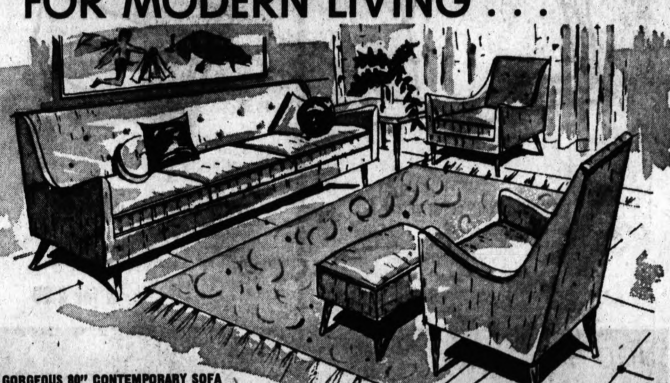

Eighty-six bodies of American soldiers were found riddled with bullets in that snowy field three miles from Malmedy.

Michigan, Ohio Police Investigating Slaying

ERIE (AP)—Michigan and Ohio police were investigating today the slaying of a 17-year-old boy whose body was found face down in a ditch about a mile and one-half north of the Ohio border in eastern Monroe County Wednesday.

Officers said the victim was identified by his brother as Raymond Espinoza of Toledo. Police said the brother told them he last saw Espinoza Monday.

PLAN YULE PARTY — Three members of the Rochester Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association wrap packages for the group's annual Christmas party tomorrow for patients at Pontiac State Hospital. They are (from left) Mrs. Calvin

King, Mrs. Louis Sneller and Mrs. Clifford Larson. The committee, which numbers 18 members, is in its 12th year of service to the hospital. The women make twice-a-month visits to a group of 61 patients, taking small treats and flowers to make arrangements for their dining room tables.

White Lake Captain Named Police Chief

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Louis H. Marsh has been promoted from captain to chief of the White Lake Township Police Department.

Also appointed by the Township Board were two members of the board of review.

Marsh, 35, has been heading the police department on a probationary basis for the last 18 months. He succeeds Andrew Plano, who disappeared in March 1963 and later notified the township he had moved to California.

Trustee Walter H. Weinman noted Marsh has been highly praised by other police departments in the county.

The new chief, who has been with the department since 1956, heads a staff of eight part-time policemen and one full-time officer. The normal force is 15 men.

PART-TIME

Marsh will continue to work on a part-time basis.

Because the supervisor no longer sits on the board of review under the new state constitution, trustees appointed R. Brooks North, 815 Charlton, to serve until November 1965.

Supervisor Edward Cheyz will be secretary to the board.

Mrs. Naomi R. Wolfe, 10237 Lakeside, was appointed to fill the vacancy left when Ernest Lambert moved from the township. Her term will expire in April 1965.

PRELIMINARY PLAT

In other action, the Township Board approved the preliminary plat for Hillview Village Subdivision, the proposed site of 21 four-unit apartment buildings.

The 26-acre parcel on the southwest corner of Williams Lake and Elizabeth Lake roads is to be developed by the White Lake Land Co.

The firm has indicated it plans to start construction early in the spring, providing the plat is approved and a building permit issued.

The parcel was rezoned from agriculture to multiple residence over a year ago.

Township trustees this week also passed a resolution endorsing the proposed Huron Valley Community Hospital.

JOHN R. OUSNAMER

Dryden Lodge 150 to Install Officers

DRYDEN—John R. Ousnamer, 2375 Joelyn, Orion Township, will be installed as worshipful master of Dryden Lodge No. 150, F&AM, Saturday night.

The public installation is set for 8 p.m. in the Masonic Temple.

Other officers to be installed include Richard Thomas, senior warden; Fred Bosch, junior warden; Kenneth Chapman, secretary; and Oliver Braidwood, treasurer.

Brandon OKs School Bonds

To Result in Additions and Purchase of Site

ORTONVILLE — The Brandon School District was given a clear-cut go-ahead on plans to issue $435,000 worth of bonds to finance expansion in a bond issue election yesterday.

The single proposition, which involved no increase in taxes, passed by a 270-97 margin.

Success of the proposal makes possible additions at Belle Ann and Brandon elementary schools and at Brandon High School, plus purchase of a future school site.

The additions will house library, band and choral music facilities, a multipurpose room at Brandon Elementary School and additional classrooms.

Also included are remodeling of present shop, shower and locker room facilities, addition of adequate storage and equipment repair space at the present bus building and more space for counseling at the high school.

CAPACITY INCREASE — The new and expanded facilities are expected to increase the district's capacity by about 300 students.

This will meet a current growth rate of 3 or 4 per cent, which right now means 30 to 40 students each year.

Schools Supt. Burt A. Glendenning was pleased with the election results, saying, "We appreciate the support the community has given the school board, and the confidence it has placed in us."

Square Dance Unit Sets Get-Together

LAKE ORION — The Stumbling Stompers Club will hold its third public square dance Saturday at 8 p.m. in Blanche Sims Elementary School.

Live music will be provided by the Porcupine Mountain Boys, a six-piece orchestra.

Callers will include Bill Toll and Gene Shaw.

Round dancing will take place between square dance tips.

Refreshments will be available. The evening's schedule will include instructions in square dancing, according to Percy Lee, chairman.

Trial Is Under Way in Shooting of Guard

HILLSDALE (AP) — Jury selection was completed Wednesday in the assault trial of Angelo LoPreto, who is accused in the shooting of an Essex Wire Corp. guard during a labor dispute last spring. LoPreto, 37, and his brother Tony, 36, were both charged in connection with the wounding of Lewis Scott. Trial for Tony will begin at a later date.

46 Acres in Avon Twp.

Rezoning Clears Hurdle

AVON TOWNSHIP — A recommendation for approval to rezone 46 acres next to the planned site of the Rochester Branch of Critten General Hospital for a "medical village" and apartment complex was given last night.

By a 5-2 vote, the Township Zoning Board recommended that 14 acres of farmland on Walton be rezoned from general farming to administrative and professional classification.

A second request to change an adjacent 32 acres from farmland classification to multiple dwelling (R-3) also received the zoning board's okay.

Lloyd E. Smith of Bloomfield Hills, originator of the request, plans to construct a "medical village" on the professional portion, and an unknown number of apartment units on the R-3 portion.

Although site plans are not final as yet, Smith said he intends to have the design of the professional building or buildings match that chosen for the Critten General Hospital branch.

White Lake Twp. Sale on Saturday by Goodfellows

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — A dawn-to-dusk newspaper sale here Saturday will climax a year of fund raising by the White Lake Township Goodfellows.

The corps of men, under chairman Joseph F. Hynds, will sell The Pontiac Press at major intersections in the township.

They have set for themselves a $1,200 goal.

Last year the Goodfellows, sponsored by Metropolitan Club Spirit No. 78, sold 2,600 papers and added $1,252 to their fund.

Since 1947 the group has provided Christmas and Thanksgiving dinners, as well as toys, for the needy.

SOUTHEAST CORNER

The property is located on the southeast corner of the Walton Boulevard-Livermore Road intersection, and is being purchased from Howard L. McGregor Jr.

Included in the property are the buildings now occupied by Snyder Dairy.

The professional area fronts on Walton and Livermore, while the apartment site faces on Livermore and is situated behind the professional area.

The zoning board's recommendation will go with the requests to the Oakland County Coordinating Zoning Committee, and then to the Avon Township Board for final action.

REZONING

In other business, the zoning board received a request from Wallace Hodges for the rezoning of 160 acres from single-family residential use to general farming use.

Development of the land is hindered by the lack of adequate sewer facilities, according to the request.

Wallace owns the property in question, which is bounded by Brewster Road on the east, Adams Road on the west, Dutton Road on the north and Judson Park Subdivision on the south.

The board set a public hearing on the request for its Jan. 20 meeting.

Exchange Student to Talk to Lions

WIXOM — Nancy Holik, who spent last summer in Sweden as a foreign exchange student, will speak at tonight's meeting of the Wixom-Walled Lake Lions Club.

The 18-year-old Walled Lake High School graduate, now a student at Michigan Christian College, traveled to Sweden under the auspices of the Michigan Council of Churches.

Nancy will talk and show slides of her trip. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. John G. Holik, 30300 S. Beck.

The Lions Club dinner meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. at Aunt Jemima's Pancake House.

As one of its services, the organization will give a case of candy for Christmas to each of the following organizations: the Wixom Goodfellows, the Walled Lake Goodfellows, Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium and Northville State Hospital.

3 Celebrities to Visit Party in Clarkston

CLARKSTON — Personal appearances by Poopdeck P. A. U. Santa Claus and Christmas Carol will highlight Saturday's 4 p.m. Christmas party for area youngsters.

Sponsored by the Clarkston Area Junior Chamber of Commerce, the party will be held at Clarkston Junior High School. Youngsters from 3 through 12 are invited.

Besides the stage show featuring the three celebrities, Peppermint movies will be shown.

Santa and Christmas Carol, who is really Clarkston's recently crowned Junior Miss Sandra Smalley, will see that everyone receives a gift.

Poopdeck will distribute autographed pictures of himself to all present.

Injuries Kill Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — James Ward, 56, of Detroit, died Wednesday of injuries suffered Sunday when he was thrown from his car in an auto crash in Melvindale.

Oxford Church Sets 2 Events

OXFORD — Two presentations are slated for Sunday at the Oxford Free Methodist Church — the annual Christmas program in the morning and a cantata at night.

The unified service at 10 a.m. will feature the nursery, primary, junior and young teen units of the Sunday School depicting the various phases of Christmas.

Special music and a short message by the pastor, Rev. Larry D. Evey, will follow.

The cantata, "The Birthday of a King" by Marilyn P. Habacker, will be presented by the 21-voice adult choir at 7:30 p.m. The pastor is the director.

Both services are open to the public at the church, located at 790 S. Lapeer Road.

Yule Concert Set at School

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — The talents of young singers and instrumentalists will be combined for Clifford H. Smart Junior High School's Christmas concert tomorrow night.

To perform are the orchestra, band and boys' and girls' glee clubs. The 6 p.m. event will be held in the school gymnasium.

FRANKELSON CAROLS

Frank Balaam is instrumental music director and Eugene Goettler vocal music director. The young musicians will present traditional carols and music by Schubert, Praetorius, Bach and Goldman.

JOIN IN CAROLS — Boy sopranos at the St. Thomas Choir School in New York City sing carols at their own Christmas party just before an early bedtime. The young singers work under the aegis of the master of the choir, William Self.

Young Choir Singers Busier Than Ever During Yule

While other grade school boys are going skating, making snowmen, and dreaming dreams of the most gorgeous Christmas ever, a dedicated group of young singers is working overtime to share the glory of Christmas music with others.

These are boys who attend the St. Thomas Choir School in New York City, and who are busier than ever during the holiday season.

But though their main responsibility is to prepare for the Christmas Eve and Christmas Day services at the church on Fifth Avenue, they manage time for their own holiday too.

A week before Christmas an evening celebration is held at the school.

Dickens' Christmas carol is read, the lights of the tree flash on, the traditional creche is rededicated, and the whole group joins in carol singing, followed by eggog.

REGULAR CLASSES

The day before Christmas finds them having their regular academic classes till noon, then singing for members of the staff after lunch.

At 4 p.m. they move to the church for manger service, singing under the direction of the master of the choir, William Self.

By 5:30 p.m., they're back at school for an exchange of gifts, followed by their Christmas dinner.

Since they'll be out late singing at the church's Christmas Eve service, they go to bed directly after dinner, to be awakened at 10:30 p.m. for a cup of tea before going to the church.

BRING STOCKINGS

At the same time they bring down their stockings, and put them on their dining room chairs, to be filled by the faculty as soon as the boys leave for church.

Bedtime is Christmas morning, at 1:30 a.m.

Christmas Day they're called at 8 a.m., line up outside their dormitory rooms, to march to the dining room singing "Adeste Fideles."

Then the stockings are opened.

FINAL RITUAL

Their final ritual of the Christmas season is to sing at the Christmas Day 11 a.m. service.

"You should see them when they leave the school," says the headmaster, Robert H. Porter.

"They're struggling with their suitcases and their gifts, because they go home immediately after the service."

And somewhere amidst the rigors of rehearsing and per-

Inmate Blamed for Fire Bomb

JACKSON (AP) — Southern, Michigan Prison officials are holding Henry Rogers, 35, of Detroit, in the detention block today after accusing him of throwing a fire bomb into a cell occupied by two other inmates.

Prison spokesmen said Rogers made the bomb by combining lighter fluid and mosquito repellent.

Inmates Charles Payton, 33, and Willie Smith, 27, were burned slightly, official said.

ARMED ROBBERY

Rogers is serving 3-to-15 years from Detroit for statutory rape. Payton is doing 5 - to - 20 and Smith 7-to-15, both on armed robbery charges from Wayne County.

Santa Fe Christmas Has Quaint Setting

SANTA FE, N. M. 070—They bury Ebenezer Scrooge every year at Christmas time in this quaint, European-like city in the Southwest.

That's because the Yuletide spirit in Santa Fe is a mixture of Indians, luminarias and piñatas, singing processions and holiday fun.

The bah-humbag visitor who isn't on his guard will be transported back 2,000 years in Santa Fe when he sees the barren New Mexico hills.

Lonely shepherds will fend their flocks as they did in Palestine. Narrow dirt roads wind up hillsides to tiny adobe villages.

This natural Biblical setting just isn't the place for a bah-humbag attitude.

PROCESSIONS

In pueblos and villages surrounding Santa Fe, natives enact Los Posados—the Processions. In one of the oldest Spanish traditions, groups of children spend nine days going door to door seeking shelter for the Virgin Mary.

The answer for them as it was for Mary and Joseph is always the same: "There is no room here."

On Christmas Eve in Indian pueblos, natives recite prayers taught them 300 years ago by the Spanish padres.

After the prayers, the Indians step outside and dance the story of the coming Christ. The dances enact ancient Spanish miracle plays.

BONFIRES LIGHTED

After the dances, bonfires are lighted to guide the lost Christ child to the village.

In Santa Fe, Christmas refuses to be a one-day trim-the-tree affair. Homes gleam with hundreds of luminarias—paper sacks lighted by a single candle inside each sack. Roaring bonfires are lighted and miracle plays take place.

Families gather to break piñatas—colorful dolls filled with candy and hung from the ceiling to be broken by blindfolded children.

Early in December, the luminarias go up on the flat roofs and walls of Santa Fe homes. Traditionally the lights lead the way for the lost Christ Child, El Niño Perdido, who will walk among the faithful at Christmas time.

FIESTA BEGINS

The fiesta of the Virgin of Guadalupe begins Dec. 11 and honors the patroness of the Americas. Then comes the nine-day reenactment of the holy family's search for shelter in Bethlehem.

In Rio Grande villages around Santa Fe, folk plays with local casts are performed. Stories of the ancient shepherds — Los Pastores — are retold. Churches in the villages are lighted by incense candles made by the natives especially for Christmas.

Finally on Christmas Day, Santa Fe burns with fiesta gaiety. In homes are roasted turkeys stuffed with picon nut dressings.

There are also marraños — roast-suckling pig. And there is corn, rice, squash, tortillas and a glass or two of sugary choke-cherry wine.

Shouts of "Merry Christmas!" fill the city. Or, as even Scrooge might have said to Tiny Tim if Dickens' tale had been set here, "Feliz Navidad, Tiny Tim. Feliz Navidad."

Seek to Save a Little Dough

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP).—Franklin County jail prisoners will be allowed to drill holes in plans of county commissioners are realized. But they'll be in doughnuts.

Commissioners, figuring to save at least one type of dough, are negotiating for a doughnut machine. They say the cost would be about $200, compared with about $450 monthly for doughnuts served prisoners for breakfast.

Judge Rules Jury-mander

CORBIN, Ky. (AP).—Deputy Sheriff Roy Manning was touring the courthouse lawn to round up a jury panel.

One man volunteered his services immediately.

When Judge Morice Bennett entered the courtroom, he spotted the man seated in the jury box and asked: "What's he doing there?"

"He volunteered to serve," the judge explained.

400-Year-Old Mills Still Grinding Grain

STOLAC, Yugoslavia (AP).—Near this ancient Hercegovian town on the banks of the river Bregava, there are several 400-year-old water mills which are still in service grinding the grain brought in by farmers of the neighborhood.

Today's Toys

Modern Living in Miniature

If children from other times had a sneak preview of the contents of Santa's pack this Christmas, they might be a bit puzzled by the toys they saw.

In fact, they might even wonder if they could be called toys.

Today's manufacturers have outdone themselves in reproducing in miniature all aspects of living, playing and studying.

The latest in doll houses is an efficiency apartment of fiberboard whose furnishings convert from living room to bedroom, all of which can be packed into an equally efficient suitcase.

A very astute doll not only has a wardrobe for every occasion but has her own quarters consisting of kitchen, dinette and bedroom.

In case she feels a case of wanderlust, she can take off in her own convertible with her matching luggage in the same color as her car's.

For her education, she has her own schoolroom.

Another glamour-conscious doll has her own beauty parlor and tilting chair for shampoos and pivoting hood for drying the hair-do.

Automation has not escaped the toy designers, either. A computer, scaled to playroom size, is guaranteed to audit family bank statements.

The playroom floor can be waxed with a battery-run polisher.

Young boating addicts can be supplied with a trailer-mounted hydroplane style boat, drawn by a motorized racer with bucket-style cushioned seats.

Auto racing sets have picked up speed by adding new refinements.

There's a flag man who opens up circuits by dropping his flag. A slot lock system permits cars to spin and slide without jumping the track.

Suspect Is Helpful

—Gets Arrested

PARIS, Ky. (AP).—Deputy Sheriff Fred Boling and Constable John Lee drove through a heavy rain, then stopped in front of the home of a wanted man.

The suspect came out, got in their car, and asked, "What's the matter? Broke down?"

"Nope," Boling replied. "Who are you?"

The man identified himself. "You're the man we're looking for," said the deputy. "You are under arrest."

Iceland Seeks Trees to Replace Forests

ROME, Italy (AP).—Iceland is seeking new trees to replace its depleted birch forests, the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) reports.

The loss of the birch forests has caused widespread soil erosion. The new trees will have to be able to withstand Iceland's severe climatic conditions.

Commercial jetliners, introduced in 1958, have been credited with creating 25,000 new jobs in the aviation industry.

GIFT SUGGESTION — The gal who has everything doesn't have this. It's a gift idea from Berlin, Germany: a plaster cast of your wife's face. However, she must visit there to get one.

This New Year In With a Bang

ROME (UPI)—"Oh my aching head" can be a common complaint in Rome on New Year's day. But it just may not be because of too much indulgence the night before.

Romans really believe in getting rid of the old when they ring in the New Year. And the result is a street cleaner's nightmare.

Promptly at midnight, everything that is old goes—and it goes out the window. Bottles, trash, old clothing, broken chairs and tables, and even an occasional washtub take briefly to the air.

For a few moments after midnight it sounds like an earthquake.

In the narrow streets of the old city, the cobblestones from wall to wall become an impassable mass of broken glass, refuse and odds and ends of furniture. And heaven help any poor soul who is abroad at that time of the night.

WRONG PLACE

Several persons manage to be in the wrong place every year and end up in the hospital with something besides wine to make their heads ache.

Anybody who is foolish enough to leave his car parked in the street deserves the bill he is going to have to pay to have all the dents pounded out. Naturally, city authorities have been trying to bring this custom to an end for years. But so far they haven't even slowed it.

Grooming Gifts Popular Since Cleopatra's Day

A century ago, during the Civil War, one of the most prized Christmas gifts was soap.

A gift box of ordinary soap, which was in short supply because of the war, prompted Mrs. Lincoln to write a personal thank-you note to the sender, expressing the President's gratitude.

Today, grooming products still rate a high priority at Christmas time, according to specialists in grooming aids.

Throughout history, gifts of grooming accessories were highly regarded. For instance, the rare aromatic oils which classy women of ancient times, including Cleopatra, used for their baths were welcome gifts.

During the middle ages strong perfumes were exchanged as gifts.

At that time, when baths were more the exception than the rule, perfume was considered almost indispensable. During the same period, a gift of a toothpick marked the giver as not only thoughtful but quite affluent.

In those days toothpicks were highly regarded by the noble classes. They often were made of precious metals and inlaid with gems.

House Building Project Appears Unpopular

VIANA DO CASTELO, Portugal (UPI)—Somebody is dead set against Justino Coeta's building a house near here.

Twice he has returned to the project to find the walls torn down, and a third time, he found a coffin on the premises containing his name on the outside and a scarecrow inside.

Union Spurred by Steel Boom

USW Feels Justified in Asking 'Fair Share'

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Booming operations in the steel industry today spurred hopes of negotiators for the United Steelworkers union (USW) in contract talks with management.

Union representatives feel justified in seeking higher wages, improved job security and a "fair share" of profits on the premise that producers expect higher sales and incomes for the first nine months of this year.

Bargainers for the "Big 11" producers were well aware of union optimism as they went into their third round of talks today.

Formal negotiations began Tuesday and continued yesterday.

The early call for meetings was made in the hope of reaching a contract in advance of the current contract's expiration next April 30.

FREE TO STRIKE

Should bargainers fail to agree by that time, the union is free to strike May 1.

USW officials have made no secret that they would base their contract demands on the prosperity of the industry.

The year-end reports of the steel industry will be used by the USW as fodder for its demands.

Ten large producers enjoyed a 27.3 per cent rise in earnings in the first three quarters of 1964.

TOP TURNOVER

The only exception was Wheeling Steel which has failed to report increased profits and has recently experienced a turnover in top management.

The hourly wages in the industry now is $3.40 an hour.

Sources close to the USW said the union aims for a wage package gain of about 43 cents an hour.

Physicist Succumbs

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. George W. Gardiner, 67, physicist and retired director of research at New Mexico State University, died Tuesday of a heart attack.

'Last Big Dig' to Save Egypt Relics From Water

ASWAN, Egypt (AP)—Scores of determined archaeologists are rallying for the "last big dig" to save Nubia's invaluable relics before they disappear beneath waters rising behind the Aswan Dam.

Eight years ago the Egyptian government announced she would build a new dam and turn the Nubian desert behind it into a 34-mile lake. This spelled death for Nubia, a vast open-air museum that was the meeting ground of four renowned ancient civilizations.

The flood waters are now rising behind the partly completed dam, and the doomed desert is beginning to disappear. Many sites will be flooded in a few months.

When construction of the dam started in 1960 the governments of Egypt and the Sudan made an international appeal for help.

Missions from 14 Eastern and Western countries flocked into Nubia and immediately started a dramatic race against the threat of rising waters.

DAY NEARS

Normally sleepy Nubia bristles with activity as the date of the final flood draws near. More than 30 archaeological camps stretch 300 miles along the banks of the Nile.

Some are tent cities that most operate from boats. These are homes and floating laboratories, fully equipped to take care of countless problems.

For example, the heavily

TEMPLES OF PHILAE — Waters encroach on the Temples of Philae behind the partly completed Aswan Dam. The temples will be saved when Americans build three dikes silted water must be constantly filtered and cooled for photographic development, which is providing a record of inscriptions that will be flooded.

The rescuers are involved in three operations: moving and saving temples or frescoes in temples that cannot be moved, recording in photographs and notes the sites that cannot be moved, and making last-minute efforts to locate new sites before the chance is lost forever.

COMPLETE RECORD

The rescuers proudly say they will have "a complete record of all archaeological sites in Egyptian and Sudanese Nubia."

Nine temples have already been moved to higher grounds, and 15 are being either protected on their ancient sites or moved away to safe spots.

West Germany has accomplished what experts term "a marvelous archaeological feat," the dismantling and rebuilding of the Graeco-Roman temple of Kalabsha.

The French are moving the 3,000-year-old temple of Amada. The Italians are starting to dismantle the Ellesiya temple of the Egyptian Emperor Thutmose III, founder of the oldest empire known in history.

The Americans will build three dikes to protect the tries which contributed most actively in the Nubian Elephantine Island, home of the Egyptian goddess Isis.

around the island, known as Elephantine Island. These temples were dedicated to the worship of the Egyptian goddess Isis.

Aided by Polish, Belgian, French and American archaeologists, the Egyptians have saved the Roman temple of Kerassi, the Ptolemaic temple of Taffeh, the temple Denfir (built by the Roman Emperor Augustus), the Nubian temple of Dakka, the colonnades of Maharragah, the Nubian temple of Dehod.

The temples of Dehod and Taffeh will be gifts from the Egyptian government to countries which have helped in Nubia since we came here eight years ago.

MANY PROBLEMS

Archaeologists view this part of the Nubian campaign with unconcealed misgiving "because of countless problems."

"If the Germans succeed in saving Abu Simbel, as they did Kalabsha, it will be the years ago," said an Italian Egyptologist.

The portion of Nubia lying inside the Sudan was given more attention by the rescuers. Classified "terra incognita" (unknown soil) by archaeologists, 100 sites were surveyed and excavated.

British diggers, led by Prof. Walter Emery of London University, made a sensational discovery when they found a great castle at Buhen. This discovery they said, sharply upset previous concepts of pharaonic military architecture.

Built 3,000 years ago during the short reign of Queen Hatshepsut, sister and wife of Emperor Thutmose III, the fortress displayed a sophisticated knowledge of military architecture.

It must have been needed to defend the strategic area of the second cataract dividing the lower and upper Nubia against the threat of a "powerful" enemy in the south.

And archaeologists are still pondering if another civilization strong enough to frighten Egypt did exist on African soil at the time of Hatshepsut.

RECOVERED TREASURE — Susanne Bonine, a secretary at the National Geographic Society in Washington, D.C., displays a gold necklace salvaged from the remains of a Spanish fleet wrecked off Florida in a hurricane in 1715.

The chain has 2,176 links. The pendant is a golden dragon whose mouth forms a whistle. The society is placing the necklace and other recovered treasures on display in its Washington headquarters.

News of Area Service Personnel

Capt. Daniel P. Warwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Arthur Warwick of 231 S. Josephine is now on duty with the U.S. Air Force's 8th Tactical Fighter Wing at George Air Force Base, Calif.

The pilot's new unit has flown award-winning combat missions over the Pacific, Philippines and Korea during two wars. It continues to provide firepower for Army troops as part of the Tactical Air Command.

The captain is a graduate of Pontiac Central High School and a former student of Michigan State University. He was commissioned in 1954 through the Air Force Officer Training Corps program.

The rank of captain was recently awarded to Lee R. Brewer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley P. Davis of Hasler Lake Road, Lapeer.

A NAVIGATOR

The airman is a B-52 navigator in a unit that supports the Strategic Air Command. He is stationed at K.I. Sawyer AFB, Mich.

A graduate of Lapeer High School, he attended Flint Junior College and was commissioned through the aviation cadet program.

A graduate of Lapeer High School and Michigan State University was recently promoted to first lieutenant while serving as a specialist in a unit that supports the 66th Aviation Company in Germany.

Thomas R. Wilson, son of Mrs. Helen M. Wilson of 527 Washington, Lapeer, is an aviator in the company near Frankfurt and entered the Army in June 1962.

KOREAN JOB

After being sent to Korea, John M. Laing was made head machine gunner for his group and promoted to private first class.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Neff of 2974 Dutton, Avon Township attended Pontiac Central and Rochester high schools.

LAING

LARGES

Two area men were recently promoted to airmen first class. Frederick A. Larges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold F. Larges of 3389 Westwind, Commerce Township, is currently stationed at Hahn AB, Germany.

The airman is an intelligence specialist in a unit that supports the United States Air Forces in Europe. A graduate of Walled Lake Senior High School, he also attended the Lawrence Institute of Technology.

The second is Robert B. Wright Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Wright of 105 Wabash, Avon Township. He is currently stationed at Hurlburt Field Fla.

A graduate of Rochester High School, he is an air policeman in a unit that supports the Tactical Air Command.

A PROMOTION DT3 James F. McDaniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. McDaniel of 440 Lowell, was recently promoted to his rank while serving at the Naval Air Station, Quonset Point, R.I.

The station serves as a base of operations for major elements of the Atlantic Fleet's antisubmarine forces.

While serving aboard the guided missile cruiser, USS Columbus, EM3 D.D. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant R. Davis of 7279 Howell, Waterford Township, was promoted to his current rank.

The USS Columbus is currently operating with the U.S. Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific.

Mice Aided Composer of 'Silent Night'

CHICAGO (UPI) — One of the best-loved Christmas carols was born because mice munched on the golden of a church organ.

The incident which put that particular organ out of commission was responsible for more than the creation of "Silent Night, Holy Night."

It also brought the guitar in as a substitute, and possibly marked one of its first uses in church music.

As the American Music Conference reported, here's how it all happened:

Christmas Eve, 1818, was a disenchanting time for Father Joseph Mohr, pastor of the church in Obendorf, Austria.

NEW HYMN

With the organ suffering from nibbling mice, a new hymn had to be created immediately for midnight Mass, something that could be sung with the accompaniment of another instrument.

Walking through snowy fields, Father Mohr developed the words to "Silent Night." Church organist Franz Gruber then composed the music.

They sang the new song together at Christmas services—to guitar accompaniment.

Although the guitar generally is used today in the secular realm of folk, classical and jazz music, there are indications that it is being rediscovered for use in religious music.

COMMUNION

A church in Atlanta, Ga., held a Holy Communion worship service last year, and used music from the 20th Century Folk Mass by Geoffrey Beaumont instead of the traditional ancient chants.

Guitar, bongo drums and trumpet were featured in the presentation employing the jazz idiom and beguine beat.

Rummage for Glasses

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—While attending a rummage sale, Mrs. Rose Tanner laid her glasses on a counter. A customer picked them up, paid a saleslady and departed with them. There were 394,418 autos stolen last year, according to the Insurance Information

There are 3.5 million amateur musicians in the America compared with 19 million in 1947. Stanley W. Sorensen, president of the Hammond Organ Co., reported in a recent speech.

Sad Ghosts Stand in Once-Flourishing U.P. Towns

By PHIL THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

There are ghosts in Michigan's Upper Peninsula. Sad ghosts that stand as pathetic reminders of a time when copper was king and fortunes were torn from the earth and the thick forests blanketing it.

The ghosts have names—Central, Fayette, Pequaing, Victoria, Mandan, Wyoming, Lac La Belle, Bete Grise and Delaware.

The names are those of ghost towns. Towns which once echoed with the voices of hard-working, hard-living men but which now are quiet and empty of life—or almost so.

TOP OF U.P.

Most of these ghost towns are in or near the Keweenaw Peninsula, a thick finger of land that juts out from the top of the Upper Peninsula to stab like a claw into the fierce, cold waters of Lake Superior.

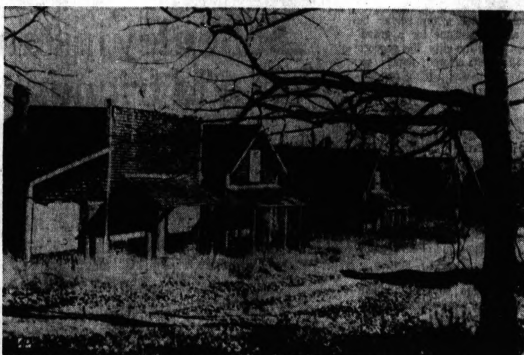

The copper boom in the Keweenaw got under way in 1843. It followed conclusion of a treaty between the United States government and the Chippewa Indians. Under terms of the treaty the Indians gave up their title to some 30,000 square miles of land in the region along the Lake Superior shore.

Almost all of the early Keweenaw mines were located in the northern portions of the peninsula. These, however, soon proved commercially unsuccessful and the mining operations moved to the peninsula's central portion where extremely rich copper deposits were found. Mining then began in earnest and from the time of the Civil War until World War I the Keweenaw Peninsula was a major producer of this nation's copper.

The boom ended when shallower deposits, which could be mined easily and profitably, were exhausted. Owners discovered the deeper a mine went the more it cost to bring the copper to the surface. Eventually, it cost more to mine the copper than it could be sold for.

COPPER PRODUCED

Copper still is produced in VACANT HOUSES — Here is a row of forlorn, deserted homes in Pequaing. There are about 65 of these, some in good condition, in the Upper Peninsula community.

U.P. GHOSTS — This map locates ghost towns in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

the Upper Peninsula, but it accounts for only a small portion of the nation's total production. As the copper mines closed, so did the villages which had grown up near them.

Such a village was Central in Keweenaw County.

The Central Mine was opened in 1854. So many Cornish miners came from Great Britain to work in the mine that Central at one time was known as the "Duchy of Cornwall."

In the more than 50 years that the mine was operated a total of more than $2 million in dividends were paid out by its operators. And, before the mine was abandoned in 1908, more than 1,200 persons lived in the village bearing the mine's name.

Central is almost completely empty now. Only a few persons still live in a few of the old houses. One of the houses has been preserved as a museum and is furnished in the fashion of the boom era. But most of the remaining buildings are gray and crumbling with age—and empty and silent.

All that remains to tell of the Central that was is a historical marker.

About five miles from Central is the hamlet of Phoenix and the site of the now abandoned Phoenix Mine.

MINE OPERATED

It was near Phoenix that the first successful modern American copper mine was opened in 1843. This was the Cliff Mine, and it was the first Keweenaw mine of great commercial importance. Before it was abandoned in 1873, more than 4 million pounds of copper were taken from it, and it paid out $1.8 million in dividends.

Other ghost towns near Central include Mandan, Wyoming, Bete Grise, Delaware (which also is called Oneida because of the one-time presence of a mine of that name in the area) and Lac La Belle. In recent years Lac La Belle has enjoyed a resurgence as a resort center.

In Ontonagon County, slightly below the base of the Keweenaw Peninsula, is the ghost town of Victoria. Its ruins lie crumpled on a steep, red-colored hillside that is surrounded by thick woods.

The Victoria Mine was opened in 1845 and worked until 1855. It is noted for having produced a 547-ton mass of pure copper that took 45 men and 15 months to bring to the surface where it was broken up.

REOPENED

After 1855, the Victoria was worked only occasionally. But in 1899 it was reopened, and from 1900 to 1910 more than a million pounds of copper a year were taken from it. The mine was given another respite when World War I flared and the demand for copper again grew great.

But after the Great War, the mine slowly closed down operations, and it was abandoned completely in 1922. It was then the village of Victoria died and became a ghost.

PEQUAING

Some 50 miles from Victoria the lonely Baraga County village of Pequaing huddles quietly on the shore of Keweenaw Bay.

It stands on what geologists call a "humble," an island connected to the mainland by deposited sediment and is regarded as the best example of such a formation in Michigan.

LUMBER CENTER

Pequaing was a village that depended on wood for its survival. In the 1880s and 1890s much of the area's timber was cut and Pequaing and nearby Baraga were the centers of lumbering.

Pequaing was given fresh impetus when the late Henry Ford made it his summer home and located a sawmill there in the 1890s. The sawmill was one of several owned by Ford Motor Co. in the Upper Peninsula. They were used to cut the hardwood timber needed in the construction of the automobiles of the time.

When, in the 1930s, wood no longer was needed in any great amounts for auto construction, Ford halted operations at Pequaing. There were 64 houses in the village when Ford abandoned operations there. Many of the houses still stand, but the windows are boarded and the doors are nailed shut. Only four families live in Pequaing now.

A tall water tower, incongruous in the center of the advancing forest, still stands at Pequaing. The letters written on it are faded badly but they still are legible. They say "Ford."

TOWN SOLD

That same year the lumber company, which owned most of the buildings in Nahma, sold the entire town to the American Playground Device Co.

American Playground now builds some of the wooden parts it needs for playground devices at Nahma but there is not much work and most of the village is studded with empty houses. They look with dirty windows at the beautiful bay.

Fayette was born during Michigan's iron boom days in the late 1800s. It was built on a gently rounded point that pushes out into the smooth waters of the bay and is overshadowed by tall limestone bluffs. Once it was surrounded by thick, hardwood forests, but they are gone now. And when the forests vanished so did Fayette.

During the few years that it flourished, between 1867 and 1895, Fayette had a population that numbered between 500 and 1,000. And the little village's smelting furnace production of iron was the second highest in the Upper Peninsula.

It was an ideal place to smelt iron. The ore boats were able to dock in the deep natural harbor on which the village faced and close at hand lay the limestone needed for the smelting process as well as the thousands of acres of timber needed to produce the charcoal vital to the smelting operation.

But as more and more iron was produced, the further and further manufacturers had to range to secure hardwood needed for fuel. It was not long before the forests in the immediate area were depleted and costs became too high to continue bringing in fuel-wood from outlying areas.

Fayette was abandoned to time and the weather.

GAUNT REMINDERS

A few of the ruins of the original buildings still stand as gaunt reminders of what once was.

But the other buildings that make up this empty village have been preserved and the village now is part of a state park. Among these structures are two smelting furnaces and casting houses, pine beehive-shaped charcoal kilns and a lime kiln, a large hotel and a general store.

There also is an opera house. It echoes no longer with the strains of touring singers—but only with the footsteps of curious tourists visiting the museum it now houses.

Vary Colors of Taillights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Researchers at Ohio State University are experimenting with rear-end lighting systems which would give the drivers behind more information than the present stop-light-tail-light arrangement on cars.

One system provides a green light when the accelerator is depressed, an amber when the driver is touching neither brake nor accelerator, and red when the driver is braking.

Glenn F. Lindsay, research associate, says: "What we want to create is a system which acts as nearly as possible as would a rigid steel bar between the two cars."

Can't 'Buck' the Odds: 2 Deer With One Shot

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Jefferson C. Fuller Jr. opened the hunting season with a bang—killing two deer with one shot.

He fired as two bucks came out in the field and started feeding. The bullet went entirely through one of the animals and more than half way through the other, killing both almost instantly.

FLEEING VIET FLOOD—Villagers in central South Viet Nam push their sampans through flood waters to safety. The high waters hit the area beginning last week. In the provinces of Ninh Thuan and Phu Yen, at least 500 persons were killed and thousands made homeless.

Says 'Stranded' New Englander

By SHEILA RYAN

For a proper Bostonian, who had always thoroughly enjoyed a proper New England Christmas for 21 happy years, it was something of a jolt to find myself stranded in Beville, Tex., for the holidays.

I really shouldn't say "stranded," for my Dallas room mate, Norma Peiper, had been nice enough to ask me to her Texas home for Christmas when I found I couldn't afford the trip back home.

But I simply couldn't picture myself having a Christmas without snow.

The climate here in Beville was much more appropriate, I thought, for an Easter weekend.

We were arriving at Norma's home, but everyone turned out and we had our Christmas gift exchange right away. (My gifts had traveled 2,000 miles, and were a bit battered.)

After church on Christmas morning, we came back to the house to face another jolt—my roommate was calmly preparing a newly-slain buck which the men of the house had just brought home.

This was to be the high point of our Christmas feast! We all helped the Mexican woman prepare the table and what a meal!

Many of the dishes were the same, but there were the barbecued deer and iced tea to cool us off.

SUPPER IN MEXICO

Next day we drove 200 miles each way to have supper in Mexico.

I met all of Norma's college friends and they moaned when they heard how far away from home I was.

But I was more than content.

Child Study Group Holds Yule Party

The December meeting of the Waterford Child Study club was held in the home of Mrs. Muri Jacobs on St. Jude Drive.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Norman Cheal, North Lake Drive, delivered a report on her recent trip to Venezuela and Colombia.

A skit, "Christmas Fashions for Fun," was presented by Mrs. Jacobs, Mrs. Gordon Carlson, Mrs. Robert Holan, and Kay Walser.

The club also held its annual Christmas cookie exchange.

Christmas Memories Linger On

After all the presents have been opened and the parties are over, most holiday seasons are forgotten. However, once in a while there seems to be a special meaning to a particular year and the memories stay with us for a long time.

For this reason, we asked some long-time area residents about past Christmases that have held special place in their thoughts during the years, with the following results:

ADAH SHELLEY

Miss Adah Shelly, Washington Street: "The year I was a young girl in Ionia, we put on a Christmas program in my living room and invited in the neighborhood. We hand-made the program with a holy border. We had music and other things at the evening affair."

J. L. VAN WAGONER

J. L. VanWagoner, Andersonville Road: "I came to Pontiac on April 1, 1900. We lived at 53 Clark Street and it was my first big Christmas after coming from the farm."

"I remember the street cars going by the place. We bought a 20-pound turkey and invited people to come. That first Christmas we had 30 people."

"Oyster soup was the big thing at night. People would come to the door and whether or not they had been invited, they were asked to come in and have some oyster soup. I was only 10 years old at the time."

SAMUEL M. DUDLEY

Samuel M. Dudley, Augusta Street: "One of the happiest Christmas times I can remember, was as a boy in Orland, Indiana. It must have been about 1884."

"I remember we children put on a cantata at church that year for our parents. During the performance, the curtain fell."

"The minister rose and asked if there was a carpenter in the house and everyone had a good laugh. I played Santa Claus and sang a duet with a little girl."

ARTHUR W. SELDEN

Arthur W. Selden, Sylvan Lake: "Christmas, 1945, our son Robert was born for the first Christmas in three years. He had just returned from overseas where he saw duty during the Battle of the Bulge. It was a wonderful Christmas."

On Today's Problems

National BPW President Speaks

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — A return to the family round table would help resolve many of the problems youth faces today.

It's as simple as that — one way at least to help solve the morality problem, the breakdown of family ties and interdependence, says the 1964-65 president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs (BPW).

The president, Dorothy M. Ford, was speaking in New York on some of the challenges facing society now and in the years ahead.

These include the increasing urbanization which uproots whole families. There is a morality problem because there's no longer the small community's pressure on behavior. Family members go their separate ways and rarely if ever sit down as a unit, even to eat together.

MORE FAMILY TIMES

"I'd like to see a return of the round table," said Mrs. Ford. "In the days when it was a part of the family's daily living, there was this give and take between parent and child . . . a training for the children to make decisions later in life."

Youth must be equipped to make decisions as well as to take jobs, said Mrs. Ford. "We're facing a youthful era . . . in a few years the bulk of our population will be between the ages of 20 and 25."

"We're also facing an educated world, where the college degree is the status symbol . . . the union card."

This calls for adjustment, she said, so that the young people who "won't go on to be our scientists, chemists and mathematicians" still will be trained for "creative employment" and not become a massive force of jobless as automation increases.

RESPECT BLUE COLLAR

Mrs. Ford urged an extensive expansion of up-to-date vocational education to help provide this training. She said society also must begin considering the blue collar worker in a new light — with as much honor accorded the technician or the housekeeper as the scientist.

"These are problems that business, labor and the government all must face," she said.

The BPW president, a resident of Sherman Oaks, Calif., came up through the ranks to her national office which guides activities of 170,000 members.

These included the presidency of the California State Federation; third, second and first national vice presidencies; and serving as delegate to International Federation conferences in Norway and Australia.

FROM KANSAS

Mrs. Ford was born at Nortonville, Kan., and graduated with Phi Beta Kappa honors from the University of Kansas. She holds a master's degree from Los Angeles State College.

She is an education consultant to the Los Angeles county school system, field coordinator for a leadership training program for women at the University of Southern California, runs her own business as a management consultant, and owns part interest in a secretarial school.

She and her husband, Clyde, a teacher, also maintain two family-sized farms at Nortonville and at Mt. Pleasant, Iowa.

Mrs. Ford will be traveling throughout her term, visiting BPW chapters, and said she already had logged more than 200,000 air miles. One of the items on the president's agenda — to convince as many chapters as she can to organize some type of youth program . . . attack the dropout problem and juvenile delinquency.

"If every one of our local clubs did a young people's project, we could change the whole face of youth in this country," she said. "Think of that!"

Confirmed Coward Hurt

'Tell Husband'—Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a confirmed coward and do not have the nerve to confront my husband with the letters he is receiving at his place of business from his ex-wife.

She discarded him for her own convenience and when things did not work out for her she decided she wanted him back.

In the meantime he had met and married me. I cannot prevent this woman from writing to my husband, but her letters begin, "My Darling, I received your letter," which means that he is writing to her, too.

That is what is breaking my heart, Abby.

We have been married only six months and he professes to love me deeply, yet he continues to deceive me by corresponding with his ex-wife. Her letters are love letters, complete with lipstick prints over her signature.

How can I let my beloved husband know that he is torturing me without admitting that I invaded his privacy? BROKEN-HEARTED BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: You can't. But don't let that stop you. Wait until you are both relaxed, unhurried and in the mood to talk, and then tell him exactly what you have told me.

The next move will be his. And if he doesn't respect his marriage vows by forsaking ALL others, the next move is yours.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine had a bridal shower three weeks prior to her wedding.

Right after the shower she broke her engagement. What should be done concerning the gifts? Thank you.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: The gifts should be returned.

CONFIDENTIAL TO M.P.: Grief can take care of itself. But in order to get the full value of joy, you must share it with someone.

Problems? Write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

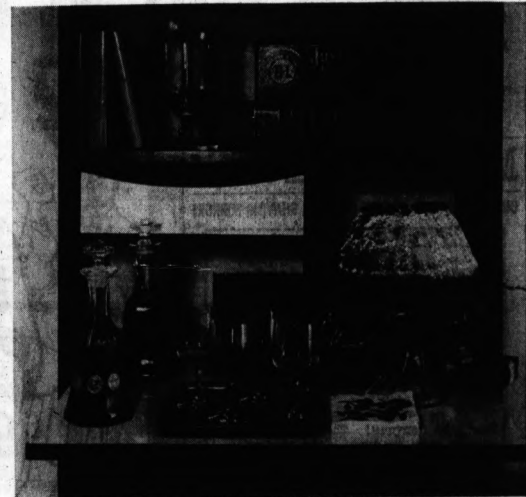

Metallic glint can lend magic to a glowing gold and pink holiday party setting. Gilded papier mache plates underline gala pink and gold studded melamine dinnerware. Goblets have wide gold bands and flatware is golden drilyte. The gilded pasta tree is guarded by a pair of copper and gold Mexican angel candle holders. It's made by gluing macaroni to a styrofoam cone on an inverted base. Spray with gold and accent with scattered pink painted macaroni. Candles and cloth are pink.

Setting for the lollipop set at the Christmas party could be the family room or a glassed-in porch. Quickly made are the pine board trestle tables on sawhorses and the scarlet cardboard carton seats. Everything is break resistant, from the melamine dinnerware to the straw toys and the enameled iron casseroles. Not needed, but nice, are shiny party bags tied with yarn, abulge with nuts and cookies for nonstop nibbling.

A Victorian touch is given to this setting for informal refreshments during the holidays. Coin glass decanters hold sherry or other wine to be served in hand-blown Postoria wine glasses. The handsome almond cake rests on a Postoria Jamestown salver. Any table in your living room can hold this arrangement for drop-in guests.

To Refinish Old Pieces

Start to refinish old wooden furniture by scrubbing it clean with hot soap or detergent suds.

Then wipe it with a damp cloth and, if possible, allow the piece to dry in the shade outdoors.

The scrubbing, which raises the grain of the wood, prepares it for smoothing with sandpaper — followed by rubbing with boiled linseed oil mixed half and half with turpentine.

Youthful Art Is Room Decoration

Paint-sized Picassos can be encouraged if those first paintings and drawings are preserved. Mount the paintings on poster board or construction paper, then spray with a clear plastic coating.

The new spray coatings will help keep paintings from discoloring, curling or tearing. Incidentally, what better decoration for a child's room than his own "art work" — mounted, sprayed and hung or tacked on the wall.

How to Go Broke on $1,440 a Month

By MARY FEELEY Consultant
in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:
I've been too proud to admit defeat, but now I really need help with our financial problems.

My husband and I are guilty of a thoughtless spending habit. However, I'm ready and willing to go on a strict budget and will stay with it, no matter how uncomfortable it fits!

My husband's take-home pay is $1,440 a month. We owe about $3,500 on installment purchases. Other expenses are:

House, $208; about $250 for food; expenses on two cars, $90; insurance, $128.30; utilities, $60; college loan, $108; personal property tax, $8.50; donations, $100.

In August, we pay our insurance on the two cars and fire, theft, etc., on the house, $501. In addition, there's the miscellaneous monthly list:

Dry cleaning, $8; milk man, $25; newspapers, $2.50; bus fare and tuition, $28; police protection, $3.30 (we live in a suburb); junk man, $2.

We have five children. One is now in college, the others — aged 15, 11, 7 and 5. Two of them are in a parochial school, which means the added burden of bus fare and monthly tuition and cost of books.

Two of the children have dental braces, now paid for, but must have their teeth cleaned every four months. We hate to economize here after spending almost $3,000 on their 2½-year program.

My husband spends about $1.50 per day on lunch. We would like to give the two older children allowances. The 15-year-old gets $3 per week for his lunches at school.

My husband's hospitalization is paid for by the company, and we put $25 a month into the credit union.

Is this enough information for you to help me?

Mrs. W.D.C., Indianapolis, Ind.

Dear Mrs. C.:
At least it's enough to bring on a lecture! Actually, what you're doing is simply keeping account of your expenses rather than trying to make them conform to your income. In order to budget properly, you must start with the income figure — the sum you have to live on — and work backwards from there.

Right off the bat, I'll say that you simply cannot afford $100 a month for donations, with the obligations you have. Neither can you afford a $30-a-month car-operating bill.

Two cars may be necessary, considering the size of your family. But you're going to have to cut both of them down to minimum use.

The expenses you list amount for $1,118 of your $1,440 a month income. That leaves $322 to cover clothing, upkeep, your personal allowance, your husband's personal allowance, ditto for the two older children, entertainment, gifts, paying off your indebtedness — and savings!

I suggest that you cut the amount of donations and car operating so that, combined, the savings on both these items equal $100 a month. This $100 should be paid on the $2,500 debt. This may hurt, but for the time being it's necessary.

While your food allotment is in line with your income, it's not in line with your budget! So see how much you can trim in this area without hardship. Even a few dollars a week will help. This may be where you'll find allowance money for the two older children.

BE LIKE LBJ
Watch utilities. You'll have to police the family's use of lights, gas, water, whatever. Watch clothing purchases, too. For the time being, live with what you have.

Change your buying habits, and even your attitude toward clothing. Make do with what you have until you get your finances organized. Cut your upkeep costs by taking meticulous care of every garment.

Your family should certainly be able to live comfortably on $1,440 take-home pay a month. And while you've had big dental expenses, I still believe if you change your money habits and substitute planned spending for frittering, you can pull your budget together. The illusion of having all you need to live on leads to careless thinking.

(If you would like Mary Feeley's leaflet on savings, send stamped, self-addressed envelope to her in care of The Pontiac Press.

Quilted Fashions for Day and Night

Head-turning, practical jumpsuit by Raymodes is designed for happy hours at home. Nylon tricot puff-quilting is toasty warm and completely washable.

The "Fair Lady" look, deftly designed by Raymond Halpern in a floor-length Schiffli-embroidered nylon robe with charming Chelsea collar is gently puff-quilted with Vycron polyester. It's all cozy warmth without weight.

The unexpected texture, the fresh impact of Vycron puff-quilting in embroidered white crepe brings into focus a new way of dressing for the night. This luxurious white A-line dress by Junior Sophisticates skims the body, hangs delicately on shoestring straps.

water color print. The pert jumper shift at the right has new texture interest. In beige with grey trim by Ilene Ricky.

Beauty, Practicality Go Together

Once upon a time a quilted comforter was something Grandma threw on the bed on extra cold nights. Then with refinements, the advantages of quilting were snapped up for winter robes and heavy outdoor jackets for men, women and children.

Today, Vycron polyester fiberfill, produced by Beaunit Fibers, breaks the fashion barrier . . . in quilting so light, so airy, so completely washable that there is no longer a limit to its styling possibilities.

Vycron-quilted styles run the fashion gamut from go-to-town suits, to discotheque dresses, to free 'n easy shifts, to one-piece jumpsuits for supreme at-home comfort and ultra sophisticated entertaining.

Puff quilting of Vycron fiberfill never mars the designer's art because it's so pliant and soft, so feather-light, and it doesn't bunch or shift no matter how intricate the quilting pattern.

STYLES VARIED

Quilted "at home" styles this season are many and varied. There is even the new pants suit with velveteen pants and warm quilted jacket in dramatic prints and colorings.

Styling, in general, is simple and dramatic, with great restraint shown in detailing. The fabric itself usually dominates the design.

Some of the satins, jacquards or lustrous twill fabrics have a richness that is further enhanced by severity in styling.

Pre-Christmas Buffet Held by Sorority

Epsilon Rho chapter and XI Gamma Delta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held their annual Christmas party Wednesday at the Waldorf Hotel.

Little Golden books were collected for the Pediatric Department of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, and a basket prepared for a needy family.

Mrs. Harold Hayden, former member of Epsilon Rho chapter, now residing in the Virgin Islands, flew to the area in time to attend the Christmas party.

The value of food sales in the nation is expected to total $89 billion a year by 1970, according to Robert W. Mueller, publisher of the Progressive Grocer magazine.

Toothpick art is fun for the whole family. You can make table decorations or gay stars and bells to hang on the wall. The base of the latter two is Styrofoam. Those are gumdrops sticking out of the star.

Toothpicks Make Decorations

A gumdrop star... a frosty Christmas bell... a sputnik-like tree ornaments... a delicate angel—these are just a few of the oh-so-easy-to-make Yuletide decorations that the whole family will have fun creating.

2 boxes round toothpicks
One 9"x12" rectangular sheet of Styrofoam, one inch thick
One can of snow spray
A table knife

A pencil, 9"x12" piece of paper and a pair of scissors
Start by drawing a large bell on the paper. Cut it out and then trace the outline on the Styrofoam. Carefully cut out the Styrofoam bell with a table knife.

The children can take over now. What remains is the placing of the toothpicks in the Styrofoam at regular intervals and putting the final touch on with the snow spray.

Put your Christmas bell aside to dry, and go to work on a tasty gumdrop star that can serve as a lovely centerpiece. Ingredients are:

50 round toothpicks
One 8" square sheet of Styrofoam, one inch thick
50 red and green gum drops
An 8"x8" piece of paper

The first step here, as in the case of the bell, is to make a pattern on the 8-inch square piece of paper, and trace the outline on the Styrofoam. While you're doing this, another member of the work party can be placing a gumdrop on one end of each of the 30 toothpicks.

The last step—after the star is cut out of the Styrofoam with the table knife—is to mount the toothpicks onto the star edges at regular intervals. The toothpicks you have left over should be pierced into the face of the star.

FOR WALL OR TABLE

Your gumdrop star will look wonderful mounted on the wall or used as a table centerpiece.

Thin toothpick angels can also add to your festive Christmas display. They're easy to assemble and you can just as easily make them by the dozen. For each one you'll need:

28 round toothpicks
2 pipe cleaners
1 marshmallow
Yellow food coloring
Two-sided cellophane tape
Small bits of tin foil, cotton and cardboard Glue, scissors, pencil and paper, pen and ink

Spray snow

Begin your angel by fashioning a small cone of paper—which will serve as her dress. By cutting and bending the pipe cleaners, arms and legs are easily made to fit the cone.

Next take the marshmallow and create the angel's face with pen and ink. A bit of cotton—colored yellow with food coloring—can then be pasted firmly to the top of the marshmallow for hair.

Cut the top of the cone off with a pair of scissors and place the angel's head in its proper position. Fasten securely by inserting the tops of the pipe cleaner legs—which you've previously fit under the cone dress—into the base of the marshmallow.

Small bits of tin foil may then be fashioned into a sequin and a tiny horn, and glued into place on the dress.

MAKING WINGS

The last step—and perhaps the one requiring the most patience—is to make the angel's delicate toothpick wings. To begin each wing, lay down a 2" square of two-sided tape on a smooth surface, preferably metal.

Next, starting from the tape's left-hand corner point, spread out 14-toothpicks—like the ribs in a fan.

While you're doing this, someone else can be cutting a 1" circle of cardboard and cutting it into quarters. Now, cover one of the quarters on one side with quick-dry glue and carefully place it over the toothpicks, with the glue facing down.

It's important that the point of the piece of cardboard coincide with the point where all the toothpicks meet. Allow to dry.

... about ten minutes, you should be able to lift the wing off its original tape foundation (carefully!); the toothpicks will be held in place by the piece of cardboard.

After making a second wing, coat both with spray snow, attach to the angel with tape, and you're finished!

Knowing Origin of Tic Helps

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE U-450: Larry P., aged 19, is the victim of a tic.
He grows unduly excited when he is called upon to recite in a college classroom. Then he starts blinking his eyes rapidly and twists his head around to the right side. "How can I stop doing this?" he begged.

Well, first we went back in a lengthy interview until we found that this nuisance habit first started in the fourth grade.

Larry was shy, sensitive boy. He was an only child and had been sheltered more than the usual only child.

But his teachers had been very understanding, so Larry got along splendidly.

At least, he did till one day his teacher was ill with the flu and a gruff, unsympathetic teacher took her place.

Some of the rowdies of the room had made things unpleasant for this substitute teacher, so she was feeling irritable.

Then she called on Larry to read aloud. Her abrupt, loud announcement of his name, unnerved him.

His hands trembled and he felt overwhelmed with stage fright.

As he rose to read, he knocked his box of pencils on the floor with a crash.

The teacher thought he did it on purpose and bawled him out, like a top sergeant of the Army.

REALLY CONFUSED

This got Larry so confused that when he started to read, he had his book upside down and thus had to turn it around in plain sight of his laughing classmates.

Well, by this time he got so upset, his voice choked up and tears began to well up.

But Larry knew he simply dared not cry, for that would label him as a baby in the sight of the entire class.

And he didn't dare wipe the tears away with his handkerchief or even the cuff of his shirt sleeve.

TWISTED HEAD

Meanwhile, he twisted his head to the extreme right, for this let him face the wall, since he sat in the extreme right row of the classroom.

Larry didn't realize it at that moment, but the pattern of muscles that were functioning at the time of this severe emotional "burn" or humiliation, were almost indelibly impressed.

Thereafter, whenever he was called upon to recite in class, this same pattern of muscles again took over.

Larry thus would blink rapidly and jerk his head around to the right. It was an involuntary reaction.

He felt powerless to prevent this standard muscular pattern.

"So that's how it all started!" Larry explained with a deep sigh.

And I nodded.

"It makes me angry to think I have been a slave for 10 years to this nuisance reaction," he added.

"Well, Larry, that's one advantage in pinpointing the onset of any psychological complex," I replied.

"For when you grow late at yourself, you have extra motivation for declaring a revolution and becoming free from your slavery."

International Idea for Yule Party

Plans are complete for the annual "Christmas Around the World" party of the New Citizens League of Pontiac. As usual, it will be held in the cafeteria of Pontiac Central High School Friday at 8 p.m.

The group has given a Christmas donation to the Oakland County Youth Center.

Village Yarn Shop

Unit to Resume After Holidays

Mrs. John McNeeley was sponsor of the new demonstration group as the Parliamentary Study Club met Wednesday in the Masonic Temple, East Lawrence Street.

She conducted the officer's demonstration with Mrs. Vivian Tubbs acting as president and Mrs. William Morris as recording secretary.

Mrs. William Pfahler presented the lesson on the correct use of terms, and four kinds of motions. Meetings will resume on Jan. 6.

Jaycettes Busy With Christmas

The Waterford Township Jaycee Auxiliary will assist the Jaycees with the children's shopping tour this evening.

Nineteen area children will shop with the Jaycees and buy a gift for each member of his or her family. They will bring them to the CAI Building where the Jaycettes will help with the wrapping.

Hot chocolate and cookies will be served and each child will receive a gift.

George Howard is men's chairman. Mrs. John Brown and Mrs. Whitney Caranahan are the Jaycette cochairmen.

SUNDAY PARTY

On Sunday, the Jaycees will have a party for their own children, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m., in the CAI Building. Santa visits and a special program are planned. Mrs. Ray Freebrey is refreshment chairman.

Mrs. Lyle Perden of Owosso, state treasurer of Jaycee auxiliaries, will visit the Waterford group, Monday in the home of Mrs. Michael Patterson on Grace K Court.

Members will bring an article they have made for auction at the Christmas party which will follow the meeting.

The birthday of one of the boys from Pontiac State Hospital, sponsored by the auxiliary, was celebrated recently in the home of Mrs. John Radenbaugh on Elizabeth Lake Road.

NEW YEAR'S EVE

The Pontiac Country Club has been reserved for the New Year's Eve party. Mrs. Roy Linn is women's chairman for that evening.

Book Review Club to Meet

Mrs. William Vann will review the book "Man Called John" by Alden Hatch, before the Waterford Township Book Review Group on Monday.

Hostess will be Mrs. Karl Kreitz of Watkins Lake Road, with Mrs. Eugene Cleland and Mrs. Geiston Poole assisting.

The group will welcome any women interested in book reviews at the one o'clock meeting.

Christmas Visit

The North Oakland Association for Retarded Children will hold the annual Christmas party at 8 p.m., Friday in the Community Services Building.

Why Grow Old?

JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. Please print this letter. I am 13 and would like to let other overweight kids know that it can be done. I had the problem of being overweight for many years.

With the aid of your calorie chart and the help of my aunt I lost 26 pounds this summer. I just cut out starches, sweets and fried foods, and ate less in general. I exercised, too.

Also my complexion has improved and my hair is not oily like it was. Crash diets are for the birds. I tried some. They left me hungry and in the end I ended up eating twice as much.

A. This letter really doesn't need an answer. It speaks for itself and should give encouragement to overweight teen-agers, and grownups as well. You do not have to diet foolishly in order to lose those extra pounds.

Q. Are the comparatively new wrinkle-removing cosmetics on the market safe to use? Please tell us about them.

BE CAREFUL, CINDERELLA

A. I judge that you mean the cosmetics which tighten the skin and thus smooth out the wrinkles some. These are safe so far as I know, but their effect is temporary. You will have to leave the party early like Cinderella did unless you apply more.

Q. I am 16 years old and a junior in high school. I have a problem. I am 5 feet, 7 inches tall and weigh 150 pounds. Most of my weight seems to be in my midriff. I can't seem to stay on a diet. I have no willpower. Is there any help for me? I have to have some help, and fast, because the big dances will be coming up soon.

A. No one else can make you stick to a diet. It seems to me that those diets which are approaching, coming nearer and nearer, might reinforce your willpower.

Imagine how you will feel if you are fat when the time comes and then think what fun it would be if you were slim. Keep this in mind every time you weaken. Do not diet in a foolish way.

TRY EXERCISES

Q. Do you have any routine of exercise which is good for the entire body, not just the hips or abdomen?

A. Yes, I have a short routine which consists of only seven exercises. This was planned for women, especially, since it is corrective to the most usual feminine figure faults.

To obtain your copy send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 1 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Q. I take exercises every day for increasing my bust measurement. Will I see improvement in from three to six months?

A. Yes. This takes time, because you are actually building muscles but you should see a difference in three or four months' time.

Do-It-Yourself Waterproofing

For a drier winter keep an aerosol waterproofer in your laundry supplies. You can waterproof many of your family's clothes at home with the new push-button waterproofing products. Aerosol waterproofer can be used on wool, cotton poplin or other flat finish materials. One spray treatment lasts until the next washing or dry cleaning.

Do-it-yourself waterproofing can be a boon for children's outdoor clothes. Use it on snowsuits, coats, leggings for keeping tots as waterproof as ducks in snow, sleet or rain.

Collect Gifts for Patients

Mrs. John Black opened her home in Foxcroft, on Tuesday for the Christmas meeting of Xi Pi chapter, Beta Sigma Phi sorority. Virginia Luther was cohostess.

"A Christmas Gift for the Doctor" was read by Mrs. Andrew Vitt.

A donation was sent to the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra and gifts were collected for women patients at Pontiac State Hospital.

Polled Teens Like Records Played Loud

CHICAGO 119—The average teen listens to the phonograph 9.5 hours a week, according to a national poll taken by the Phonola Phonograph Co.

Two-thirds of the 500 teens polled had phonographs of their own; the rest wanted them.

The average "age" of a home phonograph is three years. It has a high fidelity unit and is a portable, rather than a console model, the poll showed.

More than 52 per cent of the teens said they used their home phonographs for educational purposes.

LANGUAGE RECORDS
Most popular educational use: language records. But such diverse areas as Morse code and bridge instruction also were uncovered.

Gift wrapping a puppy for Christmas is a simple matter. Cover a corrugated cardboard box inside and out with self-adhering vinyl. This not only gives the box a festive look, but provides a waterproof covering in case of accidents. After Christmas, the puppy box can be a temporary bed for the new pet.

Baby Sitters Have to Be Competent

Nothing can ruin a mother's enjoyment of a holiday party more than the nagging worry about the proficiency of the teen-age baby sitter left at home with young children.

Youngsters are excited and expectant about the Christmas season.

Situations normally handled easily can become baby sitting crises at that time. What's more, time-tested sitters aren't always available.

Before leaving for the party, mother should allow at least half an hour for the child to become acquainted with a new sitter. Parents should tell the child frankly that they are going out for the evening.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

Mother can paste a little Santa Claus figure over the hour when they expect to return. Often the child will fall asleep watching the clock tick toward the coming-home hour.

No parent should ever leave the home without making sure the sitter is provided with a complete emergency telephone number list of doctor, neighbor, police, fire department, and hospital.

The sitter should have a number where parents can be reached.

If a child demands his parents, a short telephone conversation usually will calm and reassure the child.

A sense of humor helps, too. Often the sitter can coax a child out of a black mood by light and silly teasing.

Prefer Ornaments

Many Kurdish women of the Middle East prefer ornaments to veils and wear jewelry of beads and coins. Some tattoo their chins.

Soak in Solution

A soaking in cold soda water solution now and then will keep plastic bowl covers sweet-smelling and clean.

Savory Pineapple Dip

Measure 2 tablespoons syrup from 1-pound 4½-ounce can pineapple chunks; combine with 2 tablespoons EACH vinegar, chopped chives and chopped parsley, 6 mashed canned anchovies, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 cup sour cream and ½ cup mayonnaise. Drain pineapple and supply picks for dipping the flavorful chunks into the savory dip.

When recipes for cakes and cookies call for "nuts," it's well to use pecans or walnuts.

FRUIT AND NUT COFFEE LOAF — Split 8 Brown 'n' Serve rolls to, but not through bottom crust. Mix ½ cup mixed candied fruit with ½ cup chopped nuts and 2 tablespoons light corn syrup. Spoon into slots in rolls. Arrange in greased 9x5-inch loaf pan. Spoon any leftover filling over and around rolls. Drizzle with butter. Bake about 15 minutes at 325 degrees or until well browned. Glaze with thin confectioners sugar icing while warm. Decorate with additional fruit and nuts. Makes 44 servings.

Punch and Cookies Still Party Fare

When your home is at its festive best, what could be nicer than a series of informal punch parties between Christmas and New Year's Day? Call up old friends, invite some new neighbors and create an atmosphere of welcoming informality.

Keep refreshments simple but seasonal — a variety of homemade cookies and confections, salted nuts and a bowl of frosty punch served from an attractively decorated table.

A favorite cookie recipe developed for just such occasions is Frosted Pineapple Bars, fruited cookies with a pretty glaze. While the glaze

Cranberries Enjoyable in Many Ways

Cranberries are the favorite most accompaniment at this season reminds the District Extension Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. "Cranberries may be served as a glaze for ham or chicken, a cocktail, a bread, or a dessert."

How do you select cranberries? Look for plump firm berries with a bright sheen or shiny appearance. Some will be an intense bright red, others will be dark red, and others may be almost white in color.

The color is not a mark of quality; it indicates variety. The size may be small, for some production areas did not get enough rain during the growing season.

You may wish to freeze cranberries while the supply is large. If the package is shrink it may be put directly into the freezer. If the package is not airtight, put the berries into a moisture-tight proofing or container before freezing. Homemakers will find that frozen berries grind easier than fresh.

This is the season to enjoy fresh cranberries when their coat is less than their processed cousins. Here is a basic cranberry-orange relish.

Grind a pound of cranberries and two oranges (peeling included); and add two cups of sugar. Serve as is, or use in molded salads, breads, cakes, cookies or salads.

The recipe may be varied by adding one-fourth cup of coconut; a cup of miniature marshmallows; one-half cup sliced celery and a teaspoon of lemon juice; or two tablespoons raisins and one-fourth cup of walnuts.

Or use two apples, or one cup of crushed pineapple, with one pound of cranberries rather than two oranges.

If you prefer cranberries that need "no fixing," look on the grocer's shelves for the canned products, or in the frozen cabinet for ready-to-serve relish.

Cornbread Sandwich

If there's both leftover turkey and ham at your house, your family are likely to welcome it sandwiched between squares of hot cornbread. Top with cheddar or mushroom sauce. Cranberry sauce and a green salad can complete this main course.

is still soft, decorate the bars with candied fruits and silver drages.

A mint or lime flavored punch is well-liked by persons of all ages and can be put together right in the punch bowl with little advance preparation except to chill the ingredients.

Holiday Party Punch

1 6-oz. can frozen limeade concentrate
1 6-oz. can frozen lemonade concentrate

1 1-lb. 4-oz. can unsweetened grapefruit juice
1 3-lb. 4-oz. can pineapple juice

2 1-qt. bottles gingerale, chilled
1 quart chopped ice
1 decorated ice ring

In punch bowl, blend undiluted limeade and lemonade, grapefruit and pineapple juices. Just before serving, stir in gingerale and ice.

Unmold ice ring on top of punch. Makes about 4½ quarts (26 servings).

Frosted Pineapple Bars

2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

*1 teaspoon cinnamon
*½ teaspoon nutmeg
*½ cup chopped nutmeats

½ cup soft butter or margarine
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed

2 eggs
½ cup whole bran cereal

1 cup (8½-oz. can) crushed pineapple
1 cup chopped, pitted dates
*Optional

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg; stir in nutmeats. Blend butter and sugar; add eggs and beat well. Stir in cereal, pineapple and dates. Add flour mixture; mix well.

Spread in greased 9x5-inch baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 20 minutes.

When cool, frost with a glaze made by adding 1 tablespoon boiling water to 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar. Cut into bars to serve. Decorate with candied fruits and silver drages if desired. Yield: 32 bars, 3x1 inches.

Team in Breads Chocolate and Walnuts

1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup shortening
1/4 cup semi-sweet chocolate morsels
1/4 cup California walnuts, coarsely chopped
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon rum extract
Topping

Resift flour with sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening. Add semi-sweet chocolate morsels and 1/4 cup of the walnuts. Combine egg, milk and rum extract, and stir in dry mixture, blending only until all of the flour is moistened. Spoon in greased muffin pans.

Sprinkle about half the topping over muffins, and cut through batter in each cup to marble topping through muffins.

fin. Sprinkle remaining topping over tops.
Bake at 400 degrees 20 to 25 minutes, until pick inserted in center comes out clean. Let stand about five minutes, then turn out and serve warm.

Topping: Combine 1/4 cup brown sugar, packed, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and 2 tablespoons soft butter; blend well. Mix in 1/4 cup flaked or shredded coconut and remaining 1/4 cup walnuts. Makes one dozen 3-inch muffins.

Red and Green Centers

When baking meringue kisses as Christmas treats, center a plump red or green maraschino cherry in the meringue for a festive note.

Saffron, Almonds Coat Potatoes

For a delightful vegetable dinner, serve spinach and broiled tomatoes with these Spanish potatoes crunchy with almonds.

Potatoes Castellana
4 medium potatoes, peeled, thinly sliced
2 large onions, thinly sliced
1 pimiento, cut in silvers
1/4 cup Spanish olive oil
1/4 teaspoon saffron
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup coarsely-chopped almonds

Place potatoes, onions, and pimiento in the olive oil over moderate heat, sprinkling with salt and saffron. (If leaf saffron is used, crumble into a powder between fingers.) Cover lightly; stir once or twice to prevent sticking. During last 5 minutes add chopped almonds. Serves 6.

Price and Size of Eggs Vary During the Year

Do you always buy the same size eggs? You could be saving on food money if you watch for seasonal values in eggs, as in many other fresh foods. And when you consider that Americans consume more than 7 dozen eggs per person each year, savings could mount up.

In the fall, for example, consumers can save as much as 20 to 25 per cent by buying small or medium-size eggs instead of larger sizes in the same USDA grade.

However, by late fall, larger eggs will become increasingly plentiful and more economical, advises the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Marketing Service.

For selecting the best "size buy," USDA home economists recommend remembering: Small eggs are as economical as large ones when they are at least 1/4 cheaper; medium-sized eggs, when they are 1/4 cheaper.

In most cooking, no adjustments need be made for using small eggs instead of larger ones. For waffles, griddle cakes, muffins, plain cakes or cookies, use the same number of eggs as called for in the recipe.

However, if the results depend on a definite proportion of eggs in the mixture — such as angel food and sponge cakes or custard — adjustments will be needed.

Baking apple pie? Count on a pound of apples yielding about three cups of slices.

COFFEE TIME RECIPES — Muffins full of chocolate pieces and chocolate yeast bread are new and different for tea or coffee hours. The combination of semi-sweet chocolate morsels and walnuts is an appealing one.

Whether you're a tea hour fan or a coffee-break snacker, you'll like these two new recipes for Walnut Chocolate Coffee Ring and Walnut Carioca Muffins. They're a teaming of those famed cookin' cousins, California walnuts and semi-sweet chocolate morsels in delectable new breads.

Serve the muffins while still warm either plain or with butter, and the yeast ring either warm or cooled, as you prefer. Keep the little fingers out of the package of morsels so as to have enough for the recipes, or better yet, have an extra package of semi-sweet chocolate morsels on hand for the snackers, just as you do with walnuts for cracking and snacking from the nut bowl.

You'll find plenty of California walnuts available for these new tea time recipes as well as for all your baking, candy making, salads, main dishes and desserts. They come in-the-shell in cellophane bags, or already shelled in handy vacuum cans or clear bags.

Walnut Chocolate Coffee Ring
1/4 cup milk
1 cake or package yeast
1/4 cup lukewarm water
1/2 cup granulated sugar
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate morsels
1/4 cup shortening
2 eggs
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup California walnuts, coarsely chopped

Scald milk and cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in water. Stir in one tablespoon of the sugar, cooled milk and two cups flour; beat until smooth. Cover and let stand in warm place about 45 minutes, until very light.

Meanwhile, melt chocolate morsels over hot (not boiling) water and cool. Cream shortening and remaining sugar; add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Blend in chocolate, orange rind, salt and cinnamon. Add yeast mixture and beat until smooth.

Gradually blend in remaining flour and beat thoroughly. Stir in walnuts. Turn into well-greased two-quart ring mold, and let rise about two hours in warm place.

Bake at 350 degrees about 30-35 minutes, just until bread tests done. Let stand five to 10 minutes, then turn out onto wire rack to cool. Makes 9-inch ring.

Walnut Carioca Muffins
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder

Aptly named in Vegetable Medley, a variety of favorite vegetables coaxed to epicurean level by combining them in a deliciously flavored sour cream sauce mix.

Truly a "very special" vegetable dish, Vegetable Medley will add a memorable touch to your favorite meat course, whatever it is. You'll find many occasions to serve this "company's coming" dish that takes no more time to prepare than does a basic vegetable side dish.

Vegetable Medley
1 cup sliced carrots
1/2 cup diagonally sliced celery
1 package (9 oz.) frozen French cut green beans
1 cup water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds
1 tablespoon sour cream sauce mix

Combine in saucepan, the vegetables, water and salt. Cover and cook until partially tender, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat, and add sour sauce. Stir in sauce mix until well blended.

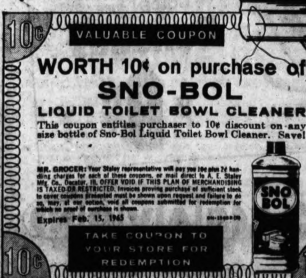

Serve immediately, with a dash of paprika and sprinkled with almonds. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Frying chicken? Try dipping it into heavy cream before coating it with seasoned flour.

Gifts From Kitchen Are Special

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

It's not too late to prepare food gifts for your friends. Maybe you'll double a recipe of something your family especially likes and give half of it away. Perhaps you'll cook something special.

A caramel sauce full of candied fruit and whole toasted almonds will please the individual with a sweet tooth. Excellent on ice cream, this sauce is also good over squares of white cake or ice cream filled puff shells.

Kentucky Caramel Sauce
1½ cups firmly packed light brown sugar
1 cup light cream

½ cup butter
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup mixed diced candied fruit
¼ cup toasted silvered blanched almonds

In a heavy saucepan, stir together the brown sugar, half the cream, butter and salt. Cook, stirring often, to 232 degrees, or until mixture dropped into very cold water forms a very soft ball.

Cool for about 5 minutes. Stir in remaining cream, candied fruit and nuts. Serve warm or cold. Makes about 2½ cups sauce.

Spiced fruit, expensive to buy, is a welcome addition to anyone's holiday table. Choose one of the following recipes or try both, if you have time.

SPICED ORANGE SLICES

4 Florida oranges
Water
2 cups sugar
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups water
¼ cup wine vinegar
12 whole cloves
3 pieces stick cinnamon
2 tablespoons dry juniper berries, optional

Put whole oranges in saucepan; add 1 quart water. Bring to a boil; lower heat and simmer 30 minutes or until peel is tender. Overcooking will cause skin to split. Drain and slice.

Combine sugar, ginger, salt, water, vinegar, cloves, cinnamon and juniper berries; stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Bring to a boil; add orange slices and simmer about 20 minutes.

Oranges may be spooned into hot sterilized jars and sealed for future use. Serve as a relish. Yield: Approximately 6 cups.

HONEYED ORANGE WEDGES

6 Florida oranges*
Water
2 cups honey
1 cup sugar
¼ cup candied fruit and peel
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground ginger

Cover unpeeled oranges with water in saucepan. Bring to a boil; lower heat and let simmer 30 minutes or until peel is tender. Drain; discard water. Cool oranges.

Cut each into 4 wedges. Place wedges in 2-quart baking dish. Combine honey, 1 cup water, sugar, candied fruit and peel, cinnamon sticks and ginger; bring to a boil; boil 5 minutes.

Pour syrup over orange wedges in baking dish; cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 2 hours. Stir wedges once to cover all with honey mixture.

If desired, orange wedges and honey syrup may be placed in clean hot jars, and stored in refrigerator. Serve hot or cold with poultry, ham, lamb or game. Yield: About 6 cups.

*If peel is thick or rough, gently grate oranges to remove some of peel.

The filbert season is such a short one that we should make the most of it. Once known as hazelnuts, these nuts are now commercially grown.

TOASTED FILBERTS

Spread whole shelled filberts in shallow pan. Dot with butter. Toast at 350 degrees for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Sprinkle with plain salt, garlic salt or seasoned salt.

Or brown whole nuts in melted butter and salt in skillet, stirring constantly.

CHOCO-COATED FILBERTS

2 cups whole toasted filberts
1 cup semisweet chocolate pieces
½ cup sweetened condensed milk
Few grains of salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Toast filberts in 350-degree oven 10 minutes. Melt chocolate over hot water. Stir in condensed milk, salt and vanilla. Cool mixture until easy to shape.

Mold around whole nuts. Roll in powdered sugar, cinnamon and powdered sugar, cocoa or finely grated coconut.

KENTUCKY CARAMEL SAUCE

SPICED ORANGES

Sliced Pineapple Becomes Gay Wreath on Pound Cake

The wreath at the window which says "Merry Christmas" to all who pass by is traced to several interesting legends.

One tells us that early Christians in Greece and Rome hung the laurel wreath, symbol of victory, in the window. Christians passing by knew immediately that the Christ Child was welcome there.

Holly, from which so many wreaths are made, was used by the Romans as protection against demons. Much later, in England and Germany, the circle of Holly with its blood-red berries, took on religious significance at Christmas because it resembled the "Crown of Thorns."

Foods for the holiday also take on the shape of wreaths. Many are elaborately decorated, as are these fashioned from rich pound cake.

Glazed Pineapple Wreaths
1 loaf pound cake (10 ounces)
¼ cup butter or margarine

½ cup brown sugar (firmly packed)
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 (No. 2) can sliced pineapple
5 red Maraschino cherries, halved
3 green Maraschino cherries, silvered
¼ cup prepared sour cream

Trim top from cake to make an even surface; trim a thin crust from remaining slice into thirds, vertically.

Combine butter, brown sugar and cinnamon; spread about a tablespoon on each piece of cake. Place on cookie sheet; broil slowly until crisp and bubbly. Top with a pineapple slice and return to oven for a few minutes to heat pineapple.

Arrange a red maraschino cherry half on each pineapple slice. Trim red cherries with slivers of green cherries for leaves. Fill center with about a teaspoon of sour cream at serving time. Yield: 9 servings.

Shell Game Can Be Nutty

Buy unshelled nuts that are clean and free from scars, cracks or holes. With shelled nuts, look for kernels that are plump and meaty, crisp and brittle, and . . . if used for garnish . . . uniform in size and color.

Unshelled nuts are often, but not always, less expensive than shelled nuts. A good rule to follow when comparing costs or deciding whether to buy shelled or unshelled nuts is: Two pounds of unshelled tree nuts make one pound (three to four cups of nutmeats).

Keep nuts in an airtight container. Once opened, refrigerate in a closed container. For longer storage, if you have room in your freezer, package the nutmeats in usable amounts. One cup of hand-broken nutmeats is a logical amount to freeze.

Nuts in the shell keep better than shelled nuts. Whole nutmeats keep better than chopped or ground nuts. Unsalted nuts keep better than salted nuts.

We teachers, from primary school through graduate school, all seem to be hard at work at the business of making it look as if our students know more than they really do.

Our standing among other teachers, or of our school among other schools, depends on how much our students seem to know; not how much they really know, or how effectively they can use what they know, or even whether they can use it at all.

When I was in my last year at school, we seniors stayed around an extra week to cram for college boards.

Our ancient history teacher told us, on the basis of long experience, that we would do well to prepare ourselves to write for 20 minutes on each of a list of 15 topics that he gave us.

We studied his list. When the boards came, we found that his list comfortably covered every one of the eight questions we were asked.

RECEIVE CREDIT

So we got credit for knowing a great deal about ancient history, which we did not, he got credit for being a good teacher, which he was not, and the school got credit for being, as it was, a good place to go if you wanted to be sure of getting into a prestige college.

The fact was that I knew very little about ancient history; that much of what I thought I knew was misleading or false and that two months later I could not have come close to passing the history college boards, or even a much easier test.

I have played the game myself. When I began teaching I thought, naively, that the purpose of a test was to test, to find out what the students knew about the course.

It didn't take me long to find out that if I gave my students surprise tests, covering the whole material of the course to date, almost everyone flunked. This made me look bad, and posed problems for the school.

REVIEW MATERIAL

I learned that the only way to get a respectable percentage of decent or even passing grades was to announce tests well in advance, tell in some detail what material they would cover and hold plenty of advance practice in the kind of questions that would be asked, which is called review.

I later learned that teachers do this everywhere. We know that what we are doing is not really honest, but we dare not be the first to stop, and we try to justify or excuse ourselves by saying that after all, it does no particular harm. But we are wrong; it does great harm.

It does harm, first of all, because it is dishonest and the students know it. My friends and I, breezing through the ancient history boards, knew very well that a trick was being played on someone, we were not quite on whom.

Our success on the boards was due, not to our knowledge of ancient history, which was scanty, but to our teacher's skill as a predictor, which was great.

A RACKET

Even children much younger than we were learn that what most teachers want and reward are not knowledge and understanding but the appearance of them. The smart and able ones, at least, come to look on school as something of a racket, which it is their job to learn how to beat.

Not only does the examination racket do harm by making students feel that a search for honest understanding is beside the point; it does further harm by discouraging those few students who go on making that search in spite of everything.

The student who will not be satisfied merely to know "right answers" or recipes for getting them will not have an easy time in school, particularly since fact and recipes may be all that his teachers know.

They tend to be impatient or even angry with the student who wants to know, not just what happened, but why it happened as it did and not some other way.

In short, our "tell-em-and-test-em" way of teaching leaves most students increasingly confused, aware that their academic success rests on shaky foundations, and convinced that school is mainly a place where you follow meaningless procedures to get meaningless answers to meaningless questions.

Price-Fixing Is Denied by Salt Company

DETROIT (AP)—The Morton Salt Co. Wednesday denied charges that it conspired to fix prices in the sale of rock salt to Detroit and other cities for use in melting snow and ice on the streets.

Morton, International Salt and Diamond Crystal Salt have been named defendants in a conspiracy suit filed by Philadelphia. Detroit's Common Council has authorized hiring of an attorney to intervene on behalf of the Motor City.

"We have never conspired to fix prices on rock salt or any of our dozens of other products," Daniel Peterkin Jr., president of the Morton Salt Co., said in a statement. He added:

"It is worth noting that we were found innocent of price fixing by a federal jury in a criminal case in Minneapolis two years ago. Subsequently, in a federal civil suit using precisely the same evidence as in the criminal suit, the court ruled against us."

"We are at a loss to understand that decision just as we are the current charges."

State Police Officer Sets Retirement Jan. 11

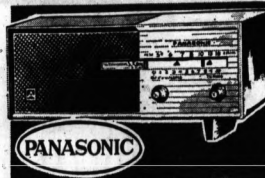

EAST LANSING (AP)—State Police Lt. Clarence Spaw, an assistant commander of the operations and communications bureau, will retire Jan. 11 after 25 years of service, commissioner Joseph Childs said Wednesday.

Spaw is provost marshal of the Michigan National Guard in which he holds the rank of lieutenant colonel. A native of Benton Harbor, he joined the guard Sept. 8, 1939.

SANTA and the SINGING TURTLE

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis — The turtle and the Snowman arrive at the Festival. The turtle explains to Santa that he is worried about the Prince and doesn't want to sing until he arrives. Suddenly Womp appears.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

No one at the Music Festival paid any attention to Womp as he squeezed his way into the back of the audience. But George, the Singing Turtle, shivered suddenly under his shell and felt the way turtles feel when they know danger is near. "There's something about him I don't like," he whispered to the Snowman. "Why do they let him in?"

"He is a musician," said the Snowman. "See he carries a flute in his hand."

"He doesn't look like a musician," grumbled George. "He doesn't even look as if he likes music!"

WELCOMING ALL

Santa was on the stage welcoming everyone to the Festival. He wished everyone a Merry Christmas and said it was too bad the Festival had to be on Christmas Eve when they were all so busy, but he hoped it would make Christmas all the merrier.

He told how long and hard the musicians had practiced and how far many of them had traveled in order to perform.

Then he listed the prizes and he said the first prize winner was to be named Grand Musician to the Queen of Fairies.

This was so high an honor the very thought of it caused the audience to gasp and George missed two heartbeats from pure excitement.

ENJOY OURSELVES

"Now let us enjoy ourselves," said Santa. The Fairy Queen waved her wand and the Festival at last began.

The first performer was a tiny cicada dressed in pale blue garb. She sang a song called "Lazy Days" about the wonderful times of summer.

The little cicada had a sweet, haunting voice and George could have fallen in love with her because she sang so beautifully and summertime was his time, too.

BUMBLE BEES

But all the while she was singing he was thinking about the missing Prince and he could not really enjoy himself at all.

A swarm of bumble bees called the Buzzing Baritones were next. They sang a love song with such feeling that half the audience wept. The Queen Fairy said it was beautiful and Santa Claus called for an encore.

"Don't worry," said the Snowman to George. "I am sure you can do better than that."

"I am not worrying about that," said George. "It's the Prince I am worrying about." He stretched his head out as far as it would go searching for the Prince over the heads of the crowd.

All he could see was the black cloaked figure of Womp, the man with the shaggy hair, the man with the shaggy hair, the man with the shaggy hair.

DUET ON BASSOONS

Now an ibex and a yak were on the stage playing a duet on bassoons. They showed great skill and musical knowledge but their music was far out and futuristic and it was clear they would never win the prize.

Next came a bullfrog who sang humms in a rich basso profundo. Then the Pied Piper from Storybook Land.

U.S. District Attorney Is Named for Interim

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Robert G. Quinn Jr., 34, took the oath of office here today as interim U. S. district attorney for the Federal District of Western Michigan.

He was named to the post by Chief U. S. District Judge W. Wallace Kent to succeed George E. Hill, who resigned to return to private law practice in Marquette.

He danced across the stage, playing gay tunes on his pipes, and all the little pliers left their seats and danced after him.

After that, a praying mantis played the cello; King Cole and his Fiddlers Three played several jigs, and Three Men in a Tub used their tub for a drum and beat out a fine, stirring march.

Next came three chipmunks who called themselves the Chipmunk Chatterboxes. They stamped their feet and beat on pots and pans and slashed sticks across an old washing board and sang at the top of their voices.

ROLLICKING TUNES

They played such rollicking tunes and had so much fun doing it that Santa Claus himself leaped from his chair and did a jig in front of the Queen Fairy.

It was something to see and something to hear! The audience swayed and clapped and stamped their feet.

Only George was quiet, for he knew, suddenly and for sure, deep in his turtle heart, that the Prince wasn't going to get to the Festival at all.

(Tomorrow: George Finds Womp.)

5 From Michigan Ordained as Priests

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Five Michigan students were among a group of 62 from the North American College in Rome who were ordained priests in solemn ceremonies in St. Peter's Basilica yesterday.

Hawaii Is Pounded by Severe Rains

HONOLULU (AP)—Hawaii's worst storm of the season struck the islands of Oahu and Kauai Wednesday and a downpour of several inches soaked Christmas shoppers and tourists.

Some streets in Waikiki were flooded, power lines were down on Oahu and streams burst their banks on the neighboring Kauai Island.

Up to an inch of rain each hour was being measured on both islands, the U.S. Weather Bureau said, and more was predicted for today.

Hello, Down There . . .

NEWTOWN, Wales (AP)—A helicopter pilot on a rescue mission during flooding here got lost, lowered a fellow crewmember by winch to within sarcel of a patrolman, received the correct map reference, and proceeded on his way.

Shriver Encourages Private Industry to Enter War on Poverty, Lists New Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Johnson administration's war on poverty has welcomed the participation of private industry and invited more. Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, took the step Wednesday after the White House had released the second major batch of projects.

Included in the $22.6-million package was a New Jersey Job Corps training center to be operated by a subsidiary of International Telephone & Telegraph Co. for a possible fee of $540,000.

At a news conference Shriver said, "I hope that a large amount of participation by private industry will develop over the months ahead."

The urban Job Corps training center at Camp Kilmer, N.J., was one of three announced. The two others, at Tongue Point Naval Station, Ore., and Camp Gary, Tex., will be operated by nonprofit organizations.

The White House announcement also contained 18 sites in 15 states for the smaller rural job training centers. They are in addition to 41 sites announced in late November.

In all, antipoverty program officials said, about 150 rural centers to train 100 to 200 youths in basic job skills and rudimentary education are planned. They hope to have about 10 urban area centers, for 1,000 or more youths, in operation by next June.

Also disclosed Wednesday were the first assignments for the domestic version of the Peace Corps. Dubbed Vista, the program calls for 99 volunteers to work on 38 programs among poverty-stricken Americans in migrant labor camps, chronically depressed areas and big city slums.

The announcement also listed grants of more than $61 million for community action projects, adult education and work training programs, and full and part-time job training for school students who have dropped out or are about to.

Combined with the projects announced by the White House in November, Shriver said, the antipoverty program has now committed $117 million for next Congress.

separate projects in all of the states and territories.

He said demand for programs is running 50 to 100 per cent more than the $784 million which Congress appropriated for the antipoverty fight this fiscal year. He would not say whether President Johnson will ask more money from the next Congress.

COPTER REALLY FLIES — This Lockheed-built winged XE-51A has flown 243 miles per hour, which Lockheed says is a record for this type of craft. The engine, mounted on the craft's stubby 15-foot wing, supplements the turbine engine which powers the 35-foot-in-diameter four-blade rotor.

The Devil, You Say

Yule Logs Are Said to Scare Evil Spirits

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Traditional yule logs, early Dutch settlers believed, helped keep the devil and other evil spirits away.

Counterfeiters make money by making money, but so does the U.S. mint. It expects to make a profit of between $30 to $40 million on the nickels and pennies it turns out this year. The coins are valued at more than their metal content.

Actress Jayne Mansfield owns 200 pairs of shoes. Many people think tornadoes are limited to the Midwest and Southwest; actually, since '59 they have struck in 48 states.

CATTLE BRANDED

Does it upset you to see cattle branded on television horse operas? Well, simmer down, it's all trick shot stuff. The American Humane Association sees to it that the hot irons are applied to boards placed behind the animals.

Soon you may be eating plankton, the sea stuff made up of tiny plants and animals on which fish feed. It is rich in proteins and fats, and is said to taste like shrimp or lobster.

Quotable notables: "Gentleness is a divine trait: nothing is so strong as gentleness, and nothing is so gentle as real strength" — Ralph W. Sockman, Methodist minister.

There are now more than 78 million telephones in America.

As this is far more than the number of teen-agers, there is a fair chance you will get to use a phone sometime yet during your lifetime.

DIVINE CACAO

Indian tribes of Mexico at one time believed that the cacao tree was of divine origin, and its beans were used as money. Prices of a good slave: 100 cacao beans.

Can you name the first U.S. president who was born an American citizen? He was Martin Van Buren, whose birthdate was Dec. 5, 1782. The seven presidents who preceded him all had been born British subjects.

The poodle is America's most popular purebred dog, followed by the German shepherd, beagle, dachshund and Chihuahua. The Boston terrier, once ranked first, now has dropped back to about 12th place.

There may be a simple explanation of why Genghis Khan, the Mongol emperor, set out to conquer the world — he had 100 wives. Some husbands will do anything to get away from home.

Folklore: Wearing an elkskin around your ankle will keep you from having stomach cramps. Bald heads washed in sage tea will sprout new hair. A sulphur bag strung from the neck will ward off contagious diseases. In moving to a new house it brings good luck to send beforehand a new broom and a loaf of bread.

This has been a record year for horse racing. It is estimated that by the close of 1964 some 30 million fans will have bet a total of $2 1/2 billion at 50 thoroughbred tracks.

If you don't start a business of your own by the time you are 25, the odds are 300-1 that you never will.

Traditional Customs Followed

Scandinavians Return to Joys of Youth at Yuletide

HELSINKI (UPI)—Once a year the Karlsens, Svenssons, Svenssons and Hansens put aside thoughts of taxes and mortgage payments as the strains of "Jingle Bells" sound from street corners.

As November draws to a close, the first signs of another Christmas season appear in the form of a few lonely window displays.

But before long, Santa Claus is holding court in department stores or alighting from advertising-festooned helicopters.

The first carloads of flattened out Christmas trees begin moving out of the forests into towns and cities.

Chambers of Commerce and Merchants' associations string colored lights across street intersections.

DEADLINES
Post offices announce deadlines. Department stores hire extra help. Cash registers ping continuously. Shopper's tempers begin to wear a bit thin.

Soon 20 million inhabitants of northern Europe are caught in the machinery of a modern jet-powered, transistorized Christmas season.

But even as they race through December, they find time for the traditional aspects of Christmas.

The Yuletide season means a return to the old joys of childhood for the Stockholm housewife airing her linen on a 15th floor balcony, a crane operator in a Finnish paper mill, a white-clad worker in a Danish cheese factory and an Oslo street car conductor.

IN SWEDEN
Christmas begins early in the morning of Dec. 13 in Sweden, when a white-gowned "Lucia Maid," a "Maid of Light," walks slowly through the house, on her head a crown of lighted candles.

Followed by "Star Boys," usually the brothers in the family, she distributes coffee and specially baked "Lucia buns," or rolls.

Towns and cities choose their own "Lucia Maids" and crown them in impressive ceremonies. It's an honor to be chosen for the role. These official Lucia Maids visit children's homes and bring cheer to invalids.

CHURCHES PACKED
On Christmas Eve, Swedish families gather for the festive meal of ham, "lutefisk"—a delicacy of fish fillets—and rice pudding.

On "First Christmas Day" Swedish churches are packed for morning services. Swedes warm themselves after a chilly Christmas stroll with a drink of "glögg," which is pronounced something like (the sound made by a gurgling bottle).

Glögg is made from heated red wine which contains sugar, spices, perhaps raisins and almonds, along with a liberal dose of cognac or snapps.

When it comes to decorating for Christmas, the shopkeepers of Copenhagen would win one of the top prizes.

The main shopping area, the "Strøeg" from which traffic is banned, is a wonderland of window displays, each more imaginative than the next. A walk through the area is a must for every Copenhagen child.

IN DENMARK
Danish families go to church late on the afternoon of the 24th. Mother usually stays home, supervising the dinner of roast goose, red cabbage and rice pudding, which is about one-third rice and two-thirds whipped cream.

After dinner the family troops into the living room to sing old songs as they march, hand-in-hand, around the tree. Dances scours the modern electric lights for their trees. Their Christmas trees are decorated by lighted candles.

Danes spend "First" and "Second" Christmas days visiting each other for lunch around a table laden with warm and cold delicacies. Perhaps more than other Nordic peoples, Danes like to eat their way through Christmas.

In Finland, post office volunteers write out thousands of replies to letters from children from many countries, who think that Santa Claus lives in Finnish Lapland.

LITTLE CHRISTMAS
Finnish "Little Christmas," the first Sunday in December, ushers in the season, with tiny trees in every home, and pre-Christmas gifts for the children.

At "Little Christmas," the farmer begins brewing the beer he will start drinking on Thomas Day, Dec. 21.

Finnish order their Christmas hams well in advance, and lay in supplies of cheese, fruit and drink. Christmas has for centuries been a time of celebrating the harvest of the past year and hoping for a better one to come.

Smoke rises from a multitude of bath houses during the afternoon on Dec. 24, as Finns take their Christmas sauna. Then, purified in body and at peace with the world, they gather around the table for the big meal.

JOULUPUKKI
After dinner, the "Joulupukki," or Santa Claus, comes to distribute gifts. A professional "joulupukki" may have a good number of calls to make during the evening, and can often count on a glass of glögg when he makes his call.

So toward the end of his round his behavior may be wonderful indeed, and father reminds himself that next year he will insist on a non-drinking Santa.

Christmas morning is church time in Finland, also a time to honor the dead.

As in Denmark, Norwegians go to church on the 24th. Then they gather for their dinner, which may be cold pork roast, sausage and sauerkraut, or mutton. "Lutefisk," here pronounced "Lutefisk," also is a staple Norwegian item.

IN OLD ATTIRE
In some parts of Norway people—now mostly children—still observe the old custom of dressing up in old attire and going calling on their neighbors during the days between Christmas and New Year's.

Throughout Scandinavia, Christmas is a time for family celebrations, good food and drink, and getting away from the cares of everyday life.

Customs overlap from country to country, or turn up in slightly different forms. But a Dane or Norwegian would probably feel at home in a Swedish or Finnish family group during the holidays.

All agree that Christmas is too big an affair to be limited to one, or even two days. The Christmas season isn't officially over until after Jan. 6, Twelfth Night, when the tree goes out to the trashpile.

To Translate Anthem Into Nine Languages

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Nigerians have been invited to enter a contest to translate their national anthem from English into nine tribal languages—Edo, Efik, Hausa, Ibo, Igbo, Isekiri, Urhobo, Western Ibo and Yoruba.

Winning entries will get 50 pounds ($140).

ANIMAL YACKERS—What youngster wouldn't be enchanted to find her Christmas tree decorated with cuddly talking Animal Yackers? Larry, the talking lion and Cracker, the talking parrot, actually seem to be chatting. Larry's mouth and Cracker's beak move as they speak. Each says 11 different phrases at random with just a pull of the Chatty-Ring.

Russia Seems 2-6 Years Ahead

1964 Was Bad Space Year for U.S.

(Editor's Note — This is the first of two dispatches examining man's achievements — and failures — in space in 1964 and the outlook for further ventures in 1965. Tomorrow's dispatch reports on Soviet space activities.)

By ALVIN B. WEBB JR., HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—For the United States' space program, 1964 was a year of defeat, disaster and death, a year of crippled astronauts and crinkled test chambers, of problems that mysteriously hung onto rockets and of pay-lodes that mysteriously did not. As the year ends, it still remains true that nothing short of a miracle can overcome the estimated two- to six-year lead the Soviet Union has built up in the conquest of space.

By an optimistic schedule, 1965 could see the U.S. send as many as eight astronauts on orbital flights logging more than 600 hours—12 times that of all American manned flights combined to this point. In 1965, too, the U.S. will add full-fledged scientists to its astronaut team for the first time. This will bring the space trainee pool to perhaps 40 members or more.

The schedule calls for four Project Gemini shots. But prospects are that only two, or at best three, will get off the ground.

BEHIND SCHEDULE

The project — to launch two astronauts into orbit aboard the same capsule — fell 15 months behind schedule in 1964. By the year's end, the U.S. program has run up a string of 19 months without a manned space flight.

These were the other developments — and nondevelopments — of a bleak space year in the U.S.:

• The Soviet Union took advantage of the U.S. lull to increase its lead in manned conquest of space. Russia's new Voskhod spaceship carried three cosmonauts into orbit, a feat that the United States cannot hope to match until early 1967.

• America successfully test-fired three more Saturn-1 rockets, forerunners of the Saturn-5 superbooster that will lift three astronauts to the moon. But Russia countered by launching its Voskhod ship with a giant rocket estimated to be twice as powerful as Saturn-1.

• The nation's only military manned space program, an air force proposal to send two astronauts into orbit aboard a "manned orbital laboratory" (MOL) appeared headed for death, possibly in a compromise between the civilian space agency and the Department of Defense.

Biggest disappointment for the second year running was Gemini, the project that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) bought at an original price of $200 million to launch two-man teams of astronauts into orbit around earth starting in late 1963.

By the end of 1964, Gemini's price tag had soared to $1.1 billion—and had lifted no one off the ground. Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom and John Young, selected last April for the first three-orbit flight, were left to make-believe missions until March 1965, at the earliest.

Instead of the program's planned three flights this year, it had made only one by early December — A comparatively simple shot that sent an unmanned capsule on a one-way trip into orbit in spring.

ORDERS SECRECY

The space agency, stung by increasing criticism and a certainty that Congress would ask for some explanations in 1965, ordered a curtain of secrecy

— a policy that had NASA spokesmen saying "everything is proceeding nicely" despite the painfully apparent delays.

While the U.S. program bogged down, scientists awaited the Russian move that was sure to come. It did, on Oct. 12—and, as usual, in a totally unexpected manner.

Instead of the attempted linking of two spaceships in orbit that American experts had expected, the Soviets launched three cosmonauts—Pilot Valdimir Komarov, scientist Konstantin Feoktistov and medical expert Boris Yegorov—on a one-day orbital trip aboard Voskhod-1.

Voskhod was a package of surprises. The cosmonauts wore gray woolen outfits instead of the cumbersome space suits. The air they breathed was like that on earth, instead of the 100 per cent pure oxygen used by U.S. astronauts. They used an advanced landing system based on a reverse rocket, instead of relying totally on unpredictable parachutes.

6 YEARS AWAY

These were advances that were as much as six years away for American spacemen.

Despite U.S. official denials, the Voskhod booster apparently was the world's most powerful—very likely generating about 3 million pounds of thrust, or about twice the power of the Saturn-1.

The U.S. superbooster, meanwhile, provided much of the year's limited brightness in space for America. Saturn-1 flew three successful missions on Jan. 29, May 28 and Sept. 18, orbiting dummy payloads of sand and lead.

But the road from dummy payloads to live satellites is long, one. The first manned Saturn flight, carrying three Apollo astronauts into earth orbit, is not expected until 1967.

PLAN FOR MOL

While the two-man Gemini fought off a seemingly endless series of capsule problems and the moon-bound Apollo remained on a futuristic schedule, the U.S. Air Force hope-fully moved ahead with plans for MOL, the nation's first manned space station.

Air force officials predicted the first MOL could fly by late 1967 or early 1968, and optimistically went ahead with plans to select astronauts six at a time.

But the Defense Department remained unconvinced of any need for a military man in space. MOL stood face-to-face with the ax in a proposed deal by which NASA would give the air force about half its planned Gemini flights.

The year also gave the U.S. program almost as much trouble with its men as with its machinery.

14 NEW TRAINEES

On Feb. 3, 14 new trainees, highly educated and all veteran jet pilots, joined the astronaut ranks. From these are expected to come at least two of the first three Americans to set foot on the moon—around 1970, space planners hope.

But that subtle thing called "attrition" began taking its toll. In January, senior astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. became the first to leave the astronaut team. The man who soared three times around earth on Feb. 20, 1962, resigned to go after the democratic nomination for U.S. senator from his native Ohio.

Disaster haunted John Glenn. A fall in a bathroom in late February injured his inner ear, left him bedridden for weeks and spelled an end to his political career, virtually before it started.

As the year closed, Glenn was back on his feet—no longer an astronaut, or even a Marine, but a director of a soft drink bottling company.

Afflictions spread. Astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr., the nation's first man in space, came down with an inner ear infection that left him grounded indefinitely. Then, fellow space-man M. Scott Carpenter lost control of a motor scooter in Bermuda and broke some bones. His future in space is indefinite.

The greatest tragedy, however, was saved for Halloween day. Theodore C. Freeman, 34, a veteran test pilot who became an astronaut only eight months earlier, was trying to land his twin jet T-38 airplane near Houston after a routine flight.

Suddenly, an eight-pound snow duck smashed into the plane. Freeman frantically steered the craft clear of buildings, let it drop and tried to eject himself to safety.

He was too low. His crumpled body was found, the parachute barely opened. Death had struck its first blow at the U.S. astronaut team.

The troubles seemed endless. A bolt of lightning struck a launching pad, burned out wiring and delayed the second shot in Project Gemini—an accident unprecedented in Cape Kennedy history.

NASA built a giant vacuum chamber at its space center near Houston, using plans the Air Force had warned would not work. The chamber crinkled to the tune of about $4 million in repairs.

A worker at Cape Kennedy forgot to pull a plug and delayed a multimillion-dollar Saturn-1 launching at the Cape.

Ski Program Slated for Bloomfield Hills

The Bloomfield Hills School recreation snow skiing program will probably start Monday with an enrollment of 800 students plus some 20 faculty supervisors.

The largest reported ski program in the county, the group has been organized for the second straight year by the Bloomfield Hills Recreation Department's Ed Wickert.

The high school, East Hills Junior High, Bloomfield Hills Junior High and St. Hugo's all are participating.

In all but the high school organization, the students pay a registration fee which covers their transportation and supervision expenses.

CLUB DIFFERS
The high school group is organized as a club and has a slightly different method of operation. However, the recreation department arranges bus transportation and supervision for all the students.

The high school also has a boys' and girls' ski teams under the direction of Don Gregory and Linda Kayes. All of the skiers use the facilities at Mt. Holly.

The high school club will go out Thursdays; East Hills, St. Hugo and Bloomfield JHS send out on Saturdays.

During the season's peak more than 50,000 skiers pass through Tokyo's mammoth Ueno Station in a day. Until this season, special teams of husky men were hired to bulldoze ski-bound students, housewives, office workers and businessmen into trains.

Things are better under a new system. Now they have teams of husky men to pull excess skiers out of trains to prevent unbearable overcrowding (which in Japan means about three and a half bodies to every square foot).

Even with the new arrangement of pulling instead of pushing, many skiers stand from six to eight hours during the night ride to the resorts, which is almost as much time as many of them will have to spend on the slopes.

In and around resort areas such as Shiga Heights, Mt. Zao and Hope-one, farmers are finding new wealth. Up to 12 patient skiers may bundle up for the night in a room no larger than eight by 12 feet.

Night life, an integral part of most American and Continental ski resorts, is virtually unknown to Japanese skiers.

Most of them have no money for such frivolity, if it existed, and the rest are unwilling to waste all bars energy which might better be employed skiing.

The resorts do, of course, have the traditional hot baths, which many consider a satisfactory substitute for American and European night life.

One reason skiing has caught on so well — it is Japan's biggest participation sport, increasing by 20 to 30 per cent each year — is its comparatively low cost.

A skier here can live on less than $4 a day, for lodging, food and lifts. Also, a complete new ski outfit costs about $85, as compared to more than $200 for similar gear in the United States.

enth and eighth graders will ski Mondays and the latter's ninth grade will go Tuesdays. The teams go several times each week.

There were 523 in the program last season. The idea began in the high school several years ago and spread rapidly and almost overwhelmingly into the lower grades.

This brought the recreation department into the picture. Wickert guarantees the registrants seven skiing days throughout the winter.

Included among the latter are faculty members: Walter Zahrl, Del Hetherington, Russ Brown, Sharon Root, Karen Schar, Myrna Smith, Dorothy Eshman, James Drasch, William Lahti, Alan Poland, Bill Patton, Janice Pyeatt, Mary White, Keith Fenlon, Don Dennis, Harry Smith, Fred Tess, Keith Johnson and Bill Tunicliff.

At these prices, the budget may be stretched as much as the pants the girls wear.

Japanese Skiers Are Hardy Group
TOKYO (NEA) — Japanese skiers just have to be a harder lot than their counterparts elsewhere in the world.

Merely getting to one of the 30 or more major ski resorts can call for greater endurance and athletic prowess than a free run down the south slope of the Matterhorn.

Muskegon Falls to Reds' Team in Hockey Tilt

MUSKEGON (AP) — A tightly-knit Russian national hockey team overpowered Muskegon of the International League 5-1 in the exhibition game played in this west Michigan city Wednesday night.

Zephyrs right wing Brian McLay laced a waist-high, hard shot more than 60 feet over the ice for Muskegon's only score as the Russians led 5-0 in the second period.

Forwards Alex Ionov and Vasile Adachev each tallied twice from the Soviet team which is on a United States tour. Alex Stragorov scored the other goal.

Russian goalie Anatoly Rautin made 14 saves and Muskegon's Andre Gagnon stopped 24 shots in the contest marked by 16 penalty minutes.

The Russian squad, now 2-0 in the exhibition games to Port Huron for its third contest Friday.

Former Grid Star Leaving Coaching

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Bernie Cimmis, pro-war All-American lineman at Notre Dame, is stepping down from a football coaching career that has taken him to his alma mater and two Big Ten teams.

Cimmis announced Wednesday he was resigning Jan. 1 as Purdue assistant coach to enter business in the Lafayette area.

2 Cage Streaks Come to End

By The Associated Press
Seattle and Colorado State University came from out of the west and shattered the all-winning slates of two eastern teams in college basketball Wednesday night.

Seattle edged LaSalle 36-34 in the feature of a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia. CSU defeated Cornell 67-45 at Ithaca, N.Y. LaSalle had won four straight, Cornell three.

Duke, Penn State and Baylor also came through with road victories in other feature games on a comparatively slim national program.

The six-ranked Duke Blue Devils, the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action, nipped Clemson 82-79. Penn State downed Temple 73-63 in the opener of the Philadelphia twin bill while unbeaten Baylor made it five in a row by taking North Texas 86-61.

LAST SECOND

Tom Vidakovich similarly popped one from the outside in the closing minutes to put Colorado State U. ahead for good against Cornell.

Rain Mars Conditions

Fickle Weatherman Teases Skiers

The weather must have a feminine gender.

Certainly, its fickleness would do justice to any woman. At least, Pontiac area ski resort operators are very likely subscribing to such thoughts.

This wintry gal produced extensive disappointment last week with her sudden change from beautiful powdery snow flurries to a thawing rain that flurried the prospect of the first big skiing weekend around Oakland County.

Now this week the cold-shouldered lady has teased the resorts with freezing nights and warming sunshine that must have the snow makers in a quandary.

But perhaps the blues will be projected from the mind to the lips if her current indications bear fruit. The forecast of a well-below-freezing cold spell should be most heartening to the operators with the weekend so very close.

Barring an unforeseen windfall of snow along with the advancing cold front, Teeple Hill, Pontiac Lake — both of which are dependent on natural snow — and Silverbell will not be running before next week.

The latter is the area's newest ski resort and is expected to start making snow this evening, are delaying the initial skiing runs.

There has been no report from Summit, now controlled by Kandahar Ski Club.

W. Michigan Record 3-3

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — The Western Michigan Broncos pulled away in the second half Wednesday night to defeat the Illinois State Redbirds, 97-78.

And even their season's basketball record at 3-3.

The Broncos led 48-46 at halftime.

The visitors were led by Bill Gable and Dave Anderson, with 17 points each. Jerry Ross was high for the Broncos with 23.

The loss leaves Illinois State at record of 1-3.

Famous Skiing Resort Is Sold

Sun Valley, Ida., one of the most renowned ski resorts in the country, has been sold.

The little valley in Idaho's Sawtooth Mountains was bought and development began in 1928 by the Union Pacific Railroad Company.

The company ten months ago called in the Janss Corporation, a group of wealthy young executives who have made leisure a business, to recommend improvements for the area.

The Janss people became enchanted with the resort's possibilities and elected to buy it.

Sun Valley's winter season will open Saturday while the new owners begin a year's study of the situation.

Plans are to spend substantial sums to refurbish and develop Sun Valley's 4,800 acres "without interrupting the charming atmosphere that has been maintained for the past 30 years."

Cage Results

Seattle and Colorado State University came from out of the west and shattered the all-winning slates of two eastern teams in college basketball Wednesday night.

Seattle edged LaSalle 36-34 in the feature of a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia. CSU defeated Cornell 67-45 at Ithaca, N.Y. LaSalle had won four straight, Cornell three.

Duke, Penn State and Baylor also came through with road victories in other feature games on a comparatively slim national program.

The six-ranked Duke Blue Devils, the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action, nipped Clemson 82-79. Penn State downed Temple 73-63 in the opener of the Philadelphia twin bill while unbeaten Baylor made it five in a row by taking North Texas 86-61.

LAST SECOND
Charlie Williams sank a field goal from 20 feet out with only three seconds left to give Seattle its victory. He then stole the ball to balk LaSalle of a final shot.

Northern Duels Roseville

EML Battles Inter-Lakes

Eastern Michigan League basketball teams invade the Inter-Lakes circuit Friday with Roseville's game at Pontiac Northern highlighting the action.

East Detroit, highly touted in state Class A circles, journeys to Farmington, Port Huron plays at Walled Lake and Waterford hosts Mt. Clemens.

Northern coach Dick Hall, who scouted Roseville's 70-51 loss at Highland Park Tuesday night, maintains that the Wildcats are better than the score indicates.

"They are very fast and good shooters," said Hall. Roseville, which set a school scoring record of 72 points against Walled Lake last week, is sparked by veteran guard Jeff Cimlie (6-4) and newcomers Mike Hoover (6-3) and Bernie Aude (6-2).

All three are averaging in double figures. Frank Wolsky (5-6) and Jack Nizza (5-7) round out the starting five.

Northern lost at home to Highland Park, 65-62.

Waterford's defenses will be severely tested by Mt. Clemens' Bill Ford. The 6-4 senior tips the scales at 204 and is a tough player to move under the backboard.

This could prove to be a major hurdle for the Skippers. Waterford doesn't have a big man to compare with Ford.

VIKINGS FAVORED

Walled Lake will be the only I-L team favored Friday. The Vikings host a team that is 0-3 after a 2-15 record last season. The Big Reds have five lettermen on the squad, but none is over 6-2.

Newcomer Chick Dobson is the leading scorer, but Port Huron has been inconsistent in this department.

Farmington faces one of the tallest teams in the state and one that is rated a better than even chance of reaching the championship round of the state tournament next March.

East Detroit has posted three straight wins without being pressed.

Glen Bradt (6-6) is joined up front by Ron Binge (6-5) and Doug Howe (6-4). Fred Belle (5-10) and Arch Price (5-2) are on the back line.

Bradt is being heralded as one of the top players in the state.

Future Brighter for Yanks' Star

NEW YORK (AP) — With no operations on his winter schedule, Mickey Mantle is looking forward to at least a 140-game season in 1965 and maybe four more years after that.

The outfielding ace of the New York Yankees talked of a rosy future Wednesday during a one-day visit to New York from his Dallas home.

"I feel great, and it is good to know I don't face another operation this winter," the injury-riddled star said. "There is nothing to worry about."

"I feel I still have a lot of baseball in me. I hope to play at least 140 games next year and for the next two seasons after that. Who knows? I might be able to play five more years."

Mantle, 33, underwent a knee operation a year ago after playing in only 40 games in 1963. He responded by playing in 143 games this past season and hitting .303, knocking in 111 runs and hitting 25 homers.

2 Wrestling Tournaments on Prep Slate

Two wrestling tournaments are listed on the weekend prep schedule.

Warren Fitzgerald will host the Oakland County tourney on Friday and Saturday, and Waterford has an invitational tourney Saturday.

Pontiac Northern and Pontiac Central are among the 16 teams entered in the meet at Fitzgerald. Others include Cranbrook, Walled Lake, Birmingham Seaholm and Birmingham Groves.

Picked to battle for team honors at Fitzgerald are Berkley, Hazel Park and Royal Oak Kimball.

Kimball has a veteran squad that is undefeated in three outings. Craig Irwin (heavyweight) and captain Ron Neumann (130) are two of the top performers on the Knights' squad.

INDIVIDUAL DUELS

Pontiac Northern's Dave Oswalt will battle for individual honors in the 165-pound class, and teammate Bruce Tippin will tackle the 135-pounders.

Pontiac Central could come up with an individual titlist in Neal Peterson (heavyweight), who was an All-Saginaw Valley Conference selection at tackle on the 1964 football team.

The county tourney will get under way with preliminaries at 6 p. m. tomorrow. Preliminaries will continue at 10 a. m. Saturday. Finals will start at 7 p. m. Saturday.

Preliminaries in the Waterford tournament start at 11 a. m. Saturday. Finals are at 7 p. m. Teams in the Waterford action are Waterford, Kettering, Haslett, Clio, Lake Orion, Ulica, Davison and Flint Ainsworth.

Waterford won the tourney last year and the Skippers have enough talent to repeat. One of the leading Skipper performers is Gerry Gebrowsky (heavyweight).

Table Tennis Event Set for Cobo Hall

Michigan's table tennis players will move into Detroit this weekend for the Holiday Closed Tournament at Cobo Hall.

The tourney will be held Saturday and Sunday with competition consisting of singles and doubles events in boys, junior, girls, women, novice, novice beginners, Class A, B, C and championship classes.

Further information and entry blanks may be obtained by calling Detroit, DU 2-0000.

Pilot Rescues Photographer

Lifted off icy slope in Army Helicopter

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—An Army helicopter pilot from Ft. Eustis has been credited with saving the life of a magazine photographer who had slid 1,800 feet down the icy slope of an anti-arctic mountain to the edge of a 400-foot precipice.

Jack Kestner, Norfolk Ledger-Star military reporter, wrote of the incident yesterday, shortly after his return from a week's stay with operation Deep Freeze '65 in the antarctic.

The incident occurred Dec. 3 when Life magazine photographer Mike Rougier and writer Michael Durham were returning from a field trip in rugged mountains near Shackleton Glacier.

Rougier was descending to one side of the group in a glissade (a controlled slide in which an ice ax is used) when his ax suddenly struck glazed ice as hard as concrete.

The ax bounced off the surface and Rougier began a rapid descent of the slope.

KEPT ROLLING

"I tried to guide myself with my hands and elbows but I kept rolling over," Rougier said later. "Climbing up the slope I had seen this ice-fall (precipice) and I knew if I went off that I'd had it."

Rougier, his heavy gloves and mittens gone ripped to shreds, tumbled onto them, lay still a moment then staggered to his feet and waved. He was standing on the edge of the 400-foot drop.

Durham and one of the two accompanying geologists began a hasty descent toward him while the other geologist made his way to a motor toboggan they had left at the foot of the mountain, and raced back to camp.

Within minutes after word of the accident had reached camp, a UH1B turboprop helicopter was on its way to the scene.

WAVED THEM OFF

"When I saw where they'd have to land I waved them off for it looked absolutely impossible," Rougier recalled. "But Lockhart (Chief Warrant Officer James B. Lockhart of Montezuma, Ga.) just gave me the 'no sweat' sign (thumbs up) and kept coming."

Lockhart, a veteran of Viet Nam flying, eased the chopper within a few feet of the ground and Army medic Clifford Crilly of Cave Creek, Ariz., jumped out, bundled Rougier onto a stretcher and the hovering helicopter veered back to safety.

The number of private utility electric generating stations in the nation has declined from more than 17,000 in 1917 to less than 400, Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon told the Public Power Association in a recent speech.

Durwood (Duke) Ledbetter

Hasn't Quit Yet

Plugs Air Safety Since 1923

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—Durwood (Duke) Ledbetter started flying in 1923. A year later he saw a plane crash into the streets of Kansas City, killing the barnstorming pilot and scattering hundreds of leaflets the plane was carrying.

"Flying is safe if conducted properly," the leaflets proclaimed.

Duke Ledbetter was deeply impressed by the message—and the example of its disregard. He has been plugging flying safety ever since.

A robust 61, today he's still flying—more than 33,000 hours logged. And although mandatorily retired at 60 from American Airlines, he finds himself working harder than ever.

Duke conducts weekly classes on air safety here and talks air safety to groups all across the nation. He does it free.

FEELS GOOD

"It's selfish," he says. "I feel I'm doing something worthwhile—this makes me feel good."

Now Duke is enlisting other retired pilots in his speaking-teaching program.

"I thought if I could enjoy it, why not other retired airline pilots," he says.

Ledbetter is president of the Grey Eagles, an organization of 317 American Airlines pilots over 50, each with a minimum of 2,200 flying hours logged.

Duke flies with the Civil Air Patrol, hunting the lost pilots who too often are found dead in the wreckage of their planes plastered on some hillside.

"Malfunction of equipment is rarely involved when a private pilot flies into trouble," Ledbetter maintains.

"Almost always it's lack of knowledge and experience, violation of some basic safety rule. Ninety-eight per cent of the accidents can be traced to pilot error or deficiency."

Duke thinks that percentage—and the accidents—can be cut way down.

REALIZE FAULTS

"The pilot needs to realize his own limitations and those of his aircraft," he says.

"For example," says Duke, "the vortices (air whirlpools) created by big jets can turn a light plane inside out three miles behind the jet."

It's like tying into a miniature tornado. It can cause structural failure or a la Franciscan upside down. If it crashes, nobody knows what happened."

They Help the Needy—in Style

CHICAGO (AP)—The Bible says simply, "Feed my lambs," but the Little Brothers of Notre Dame won't settle for that.

They feed their lambs—hundreds of Chicago's elderly and forgotten—on a la Franciscan upside down. If it crashes, nobody knows what happened."

"A meal of any kind will sustain the body," says Brother Jack Riordan, "but we want to feed the spirit as well. The little special things we do, like serving champagne or setting the fruit salad on fire, gives our friends a consciousness of their dignity, a feeling someone remembered."

Over the Christmas weekend, Riordan and his three brother companions in the only center of its kind in the United States will serve gourmet dinners to 750 persons and present each with a small gift—gloves, cologne or perfume.

PARTIES, DINNERS

Most of the guests will be entertained at parties in neighborhood halls. The bedridden will be served hot dinners in their dwellings.

A brother bearing a tray and a brightly wrapped parcel will be the only visitor many of these shut-ins will have during the yuletide season.

The practical will say that without the frills the brothers could serve an ordinary meal to twice as many persons. But that would mean abandonment of an idea conceived by Armand Marquette, a Paris business man, in 1939.

He wanted to do something then about remembering the elderly poor without making them feel they were objects of charity. But the war intervened and it was 1946 before he founded the brothers in Paris.

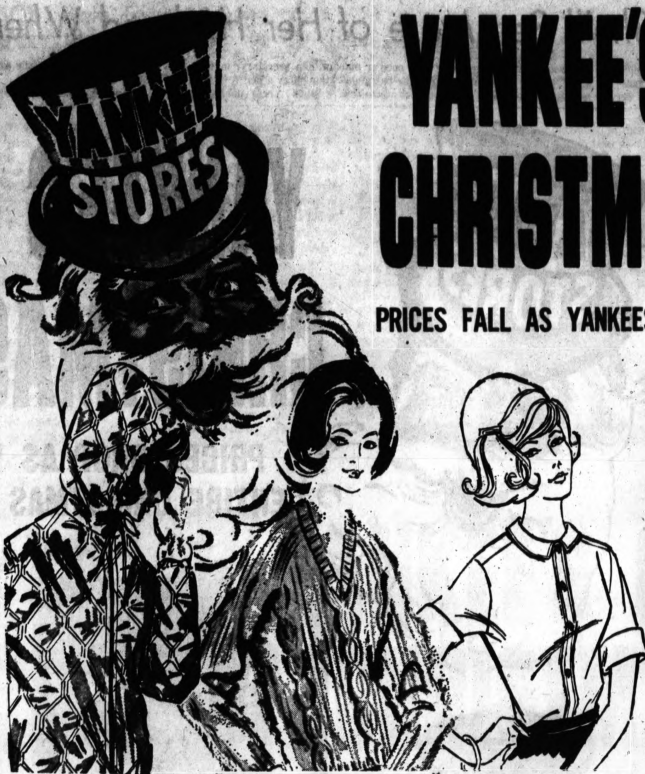

LAYMEN

The brothers are laymen, but take yearly vows of poverty, chastity and obedience. After five years they promise to remain brothers for life, but they can be released from this pledge.

Mrs. Humphrey Feels She'll See More of Her Husband When He's Vice President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey doesn't expect her life to change very much when her husband becomes vice president.

"I think we're going to see more of each other than we have in a long, long time," she told a group of women reporters who gathered at her home Wednesday for coffee.

Humphrey's new position — away from the demands of being a senator — comes at a time, she said, when "you can share many, many things you couldn't when your children are growing up."

When the children were young, she said, it was hard to help her husband in politics and be a mother, too. "You have a guilty feeling half the time," she said.

VERY GRATEFUL

Now, she said, she was very grateful that "it's this time of our lives." Mrs. Humphrey, 55, is a young-looking grandmother with short white hair.

Two of the Humphreys' four children are married and have homes of their own. They are Hubert III, known as Skip, who lives here, and daughter Nancy, Mrs. Bruce Solomonson of Minneapolis.

The other two Humphrey children are Douglas, 16, a junior at Shattuck Military Academy in Fairbault, Minn., and Robert, 20, a sophomore at Mankato State College in Minnesota.

Nancy has two daughters and is expecting a third child in March. Mrs. Humphrey hopes it will be her first grandson.

HOLIDAY VISIT

The three boys will be home for Christmas, but the Solomonsons aren't coming.

The Humphreys want to remain in the four-bedroom suburban home where they have lived for 16 years.

With all the talk about the government providing an official home for the vice president, Mrs. Humphrey said, "We're very happy here and would like to stay put."

Secret Service men have taken over what was once a paneled playroom in the basement.

She has set up her own office, with a secretary, in what was Humphrey's den.

"He's very unhappy — he doesn't have a den," she said with a wily smile.

She also has her own sewing boys' bedroom. A good seamstress, she is working on a dress to wear Inauguration Day, New York designer Count Sarni is making her inaugural ball gown.

Large Group of Reservists Can Avoid Regular Drills

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are 181,600 Army enlisted reservists who, if they wish, can escape regular drills throughout the year under the new plan to merge Reserve units into the National Guard, it was learned today.

These are men who have served from 4 to 10 months on active duty under a special program and have a remaining reserve training obligation of up to 6 years, minus the time they spent on active duty.

Such an out will not be available in the future to young men who sign up in this "reserve enlisted program" as an alternative to being drafted for two years of active service.

The practice has been for them to enlist in either a Reserve or Guard unit, take their 4 to 10 months of basic training, then return to civilian life where they have been obligated to drill weekly and to go to summer training camp for two weeks each year.

AVOID DRILLS

The new program announced by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara last weekend gives such enlisted reservists a way of avoiding weekly drills, although some of them would be liable for the yearly two weeks' summer training.

This is because defense officials have decreed that the National Guard, being expanded to a strength of 550,000 with the addition of about 150,000 reservists, shall be an all-volunteer force.

They have said that if a man does not want to accept service in a Guard unit, he could be transferred to a reserve manpower pool.

This pool now totals more than 453,000 officers and men who still have reserve obligations but do not drill and are not assigned to units. In effect, they are names on a list, subject to mobilization in an emergency.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union was expected to accuse the United States of masterminding Premier Moise Tshombe's war against the Congolese rebels in a speech to the U.N. Security Council today.

Soviet delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko also was certain to hit at the U.S.-Belgian mission to rescue foreign hostages from the insurgents in Stanleyville last month and to denounce Tshombe as a stooge of the Western powers.

The Soviets ordered Tshombe's charge d'affaires out of Moscow Wednesday, accusing him of activities hostile to the Soviet Union. They termed Tshombe a henchman of imperialism and said his regime was carrying on a campaign of slander against the Soviet Union.

In a procedural wrangle at the start of the Congo debate last week, Fedorenko called the paratroop operation "aggression by Belgium, the United States and Britain" and said the Congolese people were engaged in a "holy struggle" of liberation.

SMOKE SCREEN

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson replied that the Soviet Union was trying to throw up a smoke screen against charges that Moscow was aiding the rebels.

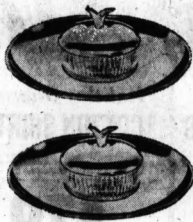

Top diplomats of 35 African nations scheduled another Congo discussion today and gave signs of an African move to soften the tone of the council debate so that some agreement can be reached with the West.

Arsene Assouan Usher of the Ivory Coast, an African member of the council, criticized some African speakers Wednesday for being "swept away by oratorical license."

Usher called for a new rescue mission to save the Congo itself, a task that "must be accomplished by the small nations of the world."

Lenin Award to Finn

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet President Anastas I. Mikoyan will visit Finnish President Urho Kekkonen Dec. 21-22 and present him with the Order of Lenin "for outstanding services in the development of friendly good-neighbor relations" between their two countries, the newspaper Pravda said in Moscow today.

City, State, Federal Levels

Misconduct Charges Face 9 Officials

By United Press International
Nine highly-placed persons at city, state and federal levels were under indictment today on charges of malfeasance in office.

The misconduct in all the cases involved money and charges ranged from embezzlement to bribery. However, there was no known link between the cases. The indictments were issued separately.

At the national level, a federal grand jury in Alexandria, Va., yesterday indicted a former aide to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, and two other Pentagon officials for misappropriation of defense funds.

In Illinois a former state revenue director was charged with official misconduct involving the acceptance of fees from envelope companies doing a $2-million business with the state.

In Omaha, Mayor James Dworak and four others were accused of taking thousands of dollars in bribes from building contractors to smooth the way for the erection of a luxury apartment project.

SHORTAGE UNCOVERED
Acting Atty. Gen. Nicholas Deb. Katzenbach said in Washington that the misuse of the defense funds, estimated at about $65,000, had been discovered by the Pentagon last fall during a routine audit.

The money, $10,000 of which had been earmarked for "certain confidential projects" in South Viet Nam, was embezzled between 1960 and 1963. About $12,000 of the money has been recovered.

The men charged in the indictment are scheduled to be arraigned Tuesday.

They are:

• James Robert Loftis, 53, a $20,000-a-year administrative aide to McNamara, who retired March 22.

• John A. Wylie, 57, a $17,500-a-year head of the budget and finance branch in the Pentagon under Loftis who retired last January.

• William H. Godel, 43, a $20,000-a-year deputy director for management of the Pentagon's Advanced Research Projects Agency. He was removed from office last Aug. 24.

USED STATUS

According to the grand jury, the three men used their official status to get payments from military officers authorized to draw government funds, giving false receipts. The men then allegedly used false documents to get money from defense agencies which they used to repay the officers. The officers were in no way involved, according to Katzenbach.

The "envelope case" scandal in Illinois involved a former Illinois revenue director and campaign manager for Gov. Otto Kerner, Theodore J. Isaacs, Isaacs, a close aide to Kerner, was charged with misconduct and conspiracy while in office.

The former state official, who managed Kerner's campaign for reelection this fall until the charges came to light, is accused of obtaining fees from two envelope companies doing business with the state.

A county grand jury also indicted John J. Lang, former su-

'SERIOUS THING'

Kerner, who was reelected to a second term as governor, told newsmen, "An indictment is a very serious thing, of course, but under our system of government a man is always innocent until proven guilty. The defendant will have a chance to present his case in the trial."

In Omaha, the grand jury indicted Mayor Dworak and four others on bribery charges in connection with a million-dollar apartment project, brought counterclaims from accuser and accused.

The charges against Dworak were brought by John B. Coleman, a Chicago builder, who said Dworak agreed to pocket a $25,000 "campaign contribution" in exchange for a promise not to veto a rezoning action for a $1-million apartment project.

Asked why he offered the money and then made his charges public, Coleman said, "I cannot and will not do business with grafters. With the advice of responsible people in Omaha I decided to stay and expose this corruption."

'PLAYING ALONG'

Dworak told newsmen he had been "playing along" with Coleman in order to gather evidence against him.

Named with Dworak were city councilmen Ernest Adams and Stephen Novak; former city planning board member C. R. Buttner; and contractor Ronald Abboud.

Guinea Ballet Banned

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI)—The chief Israeli theater censor banned the Guinea National Ballet from making its January debut because its dancers performed naked from the waist up. "It's not art," he said.

HOLE IN THE WALL—This is one of five places where West Germans can enter East Berlin to visit their kin during the holidays. The tomb-like openings were made last Christmas when passes for visits were issued for the first time.

If War Near, NATO to Put Atomic Mines on Border

WASHINGTON (UPI)—NATO now has atomic "mines" in its arsenal for defending Central Europe and has plans for placing them near the Iron Curtain if war appears likely.

Top political authorities presumably will decide at what stage of an emergency the intricately controlled mines, accurately called "atomic demolition munitions" (ADM), would be employed.

Supreme headquarters of the allied powers in Europe (SHAPE), the NATO military headquarters in Paris, devised the plan after long study of the value of the small nuclear munitions for arresting attackers at certain strategic points early in a war.

But the plans are somewhat different from proposals attributed to West Germany in dispatches yesterday from Paris and Bonn.

SHAPE plans call for placing the mines only if there is international tension, and Communist attack across the Iron Curtain offers a possibility—not on a permanent basis as the German proposal was reported to advocate.

TERRITORY LOSS

Whatever its details, however, the reported German proposal serves to call attention to concern in Bonn that nuclear weapons be used early enough in war, if necessary, to prevent loss of territory.

The mines, set off by remote control, would provide "early nuclear warning" as Paris dispatches pointed out.

They would thus fit into the "forward strategy" ordered into effect by U.S. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, supreme commander in Europe, on Sept. 1, 1963.

THIS strategy, SHAPE resources say, means that "resistance to enemy hostility begins right on the Iron Curtain."

Up to 1955, plans called for withdrawing behind the Rhine River in the face of an attack. The defense line was moved East as NATO forces proved stronger and now is the Iron Curtain frontier itself.

Atomic demolition, which might play a major part in slowing or halting an attack, can be quickly and easily employed.

No need is seen to plant so-called atomic minefields permanently at the Iron Curtain where they would impose severe maintenance and security problems. An enemy would learn rapidly where they were.

The mines would not be useful on the North German plain. Areas where they could be used to create a barrier against mechanized attack are the historic Pulda Gap invasion route through Central Germany and along the forested German side of the Czechoslovakian border.

LOW YIELD

The demolition devices, which are of very low yield comparable to a few tons of TNT, would temporarily seal mountain corridors or forested regions.

They would slow enemy progress with blast effects and with short-lived radioactivity which would prevent attackers from clearing a path of advance for hours or a few days.

Authorities do not believe such use of atomic munitions would provide a big nuclear counterattack by an enemy.

The mines would be used in precisely selected spots, where they would be superior to missile warheads or bombs, and they would not be exploded on enemy territory.

Christmas in Germany Is Different Today

By ZANDER HOLLANDER
United Press International
FRANKFURT (UPI)—Christmas in Germany is not what it used to be.

But then it never was.
The Christmas traditions of much of the world think started here are mostly overlaid and refined imports on a prehistoric foundation.

Take St. Nicholas, the German version of Santa Claus, for example.

Pre-Christian Germans celebrated the Dec. 21 winter solstice, when daylight hours start to lengthen, as the Feast of Tyr, the god of the sun, war and justice.

Earlier in December, they believed, Wotan and his "wild army" of heathen subgods roamed the land, blessing the crops of good people, wreaking havoc on evildoers.

ST. NICHOLAS
Came the early Christian missionaries and German converts learned of St. Nicholas, the Bishop of Myra, who fed his Asia Minor flock miraculously during famine.

Still later, German Christian knights returned from the Crusades with happy tidings from Bari, the Italian town where the sainted bishop's relics are kept.

St. Nicholas, the knights said, visited homes everywhere on the anniversary eve of Christ's birth, bestowing presents on all, especially the children.

The tradition took in Germany, as it did throughout Europe — but with a difference. Here, the white-bearded, red-suited old gentleman traveled with an ogrelike club-wielding companion named Rupprecht.

RUPPRECHT
While St. Nicholas dispensed joy, Rupprecht — descendant of Wotan and his "wild army," scholars say — spanked naughty children with his club and carried off the worst little hellions in a sack.

Alas, poor Rupprecht is changing too. In recent years — perhaps influenced by the American G.I. concept of what Santa's assistants should be — German department store window decorations show him less ogre-like, more of a good-natured elf — or omit him altogether.

Merchandise managers say they sell more toys that way.

Another illustration of Germany's changing Christmas is the Christmas tree.

Ancient Druid high priests heaped piles of spruce and firs on mountain tops and decked them with chicken entrails and

YULE LOGS

When the first rays of the sun peeped over the horizon, the priests set torch to the "Yule logs" (Yul was another name for Tyr) and hurled bonfires down the mountains.

The flaming juggernauts signaled the hearth-dwelling heathen in the valley below it was alright to start guzzling, mead.

The missionaries drove out the Druids. But early German Christians celebrating the coming of Jesus kept on using Yule logs. The firs and spruce were moved into the homes, minus chicken entrails but still decked with fruits, and topped with the Star of Bethlehem.

Again, the metamorphosis is not over.

DO-IT-YOURSELF

decorating was a do-it-yourself, family affair. Germans decorated their Christmas trees with apples, oranges, paper-cutouts, even strings of beads.

Now the shops sell tons of artificial ornaments — again perhaps the G.I. influence.

And the growing number of families who heed fire department warnings to use electric lights rather than candles on their home Christmas trees is enough to make Wotan turn over in his grave.

Kids Get New Roles at School

EATONTOWN, N. J. (AP) — The boys are baking cakes and the girls are driving nails at memorial school and enjoying every minute of it.

All members of the same eighth-grade class, the 12 boys are whipping up dishes in the home economics kitchen while the nine girls are in the industrial arts shop learning how to use saws, hammers and electrical wire.

Principal Charles Lanza and their teachers say the youngsters are enthusiastic about the switch.

"I've started to help my mother with the cooking at home," said 15-year-old Robert Custis. "My specialties are apple crisp dessert and frankfurters wrapped in bacon."

The young chefs take some ribbing from the other boys in school, "but they leave us alone quick enough if we bring them samples of our cooking," Custis said.

"They'll prepare a luncheon at the school soon for their mothers."

The girls have been using jigsaws lately to cut the patterned wooden pieces of the sewing kits they're making. Next they'll wire up an electrical question-and-answer game.

"I may end up as handyman around the house," said 15-year-old Shirley Starr.

By The Associated Press
Unprecedented prewinter cold accompanied by lashing winds paralyzed the Northwest today, dropping temperatures far below zero and turning parts of storm-battered Montana into disaster areas.

Temperatures plunged to 40 below zero in some areas, and the U.S. Weather Bureau said the cold would last at least five more days. One reading Wednesday was -59 atop a mountain 24 miles Northeast of Lewis town, Mont.

The temperature was -10 and colder through most of the northern Plains and the cold weather was accompanied by blizzard conditions across the Dakotas. The arctic air spilled over the mountains into the normally mild Pacific coastal area.

The severe weather had strange and sometimes tragic effects.

Eleven cattle stranded in deep snow at 10,000 feet above sea level west of Creede, Colo., were given tranquilizer shots, hauled securely to a helicopter and carried to lower levels.

In Bloomington, Ill., a 71-year-old woman died Wednesday of carbon monoxide poisoning when furnace fumes were sucked into her home by a bird's nest blocking the chimney.

The Weather Bureau said the old spell — "which has barely begun in the Northwest" will spread into parts of Tennessee and Mississippi by the weekend. A spokesman advised motorists not to travel northwest of Minneapolis.

Wind-whipped snow and plummeting temperatures turned six Montana counties into disaster areas as severe blizzard conditions blasted the eastern third of the state.

Gov. Tim Babcock applied the disaster area designation to Powder River, Carter, Fallon, Prairie, Rosebud and Custer counties.

December records tumbled in Billings, Dillon, Great Falls, Livingston and Missoula. The temperature was -54 in the tiny community of Summit near the Glacier National Park. Great Falls had -34, Cut Bank -25, and Lewistown -26 Wednesday. Marysville, a mining camp northwest of Helena, reported -60. The -59 reading was taken at an Air Force weather station.

snapped a natural gas line which burst into flames south of Cody, Wyo., killing one man and severely burning another. Numerous homes were without heat as long as 5 hours.

The Pacific Northwest power system, with an unprecedented 6.2 million kilowatts load suffered many failures because of overdemand.

Snow plows and airplanes were utilized to reach isolated ranchers and cattle. An 88-year-old man died as he attempted to walk through snowdrifts from a stalled truck.

Washington State, experiencing one of its worst cold waves, shivered through record low temperatures. The coldest spot Wednesday night was -19 in Spokane, the lowest ever for December.

Winds measured at 92 miles per hour raked northwestern Washington, driving a 50-foot shrimp boat aground and tearing a large sawdust barge loose from a tug.

Three deaths were attributed to the Washington cold siege, including a 10-year-old boy who was killed when his sled hit a tree in the Seattle suburb of Bellevue.

Snow and cold struck Oregon, sending the temperature to -16 east of the Cascade mountains. Cold wave warnings were in effect for eastern New Mexico after cold air crossed into the state.

North Dakota Gov. William Guy set up emergency precautions to assist travelers caught in the blizzard. The governor urged absolutely no travel until the storm subsides. The temperature dropped to -20 and -30 in North Dakota. Some flights were canceled by airlines and many buses were not running.

Dickinson was without power for 3½ hours Wednesday morning in -25 temperature.

Forty schoolchildren were stranded at Reeder, N.D., and taken into homes when zero visibility halted bus service.

Postmistress Vivian Hilde spent Wednesday night sleeping on her post office mail sorting desk because of the blizzard.

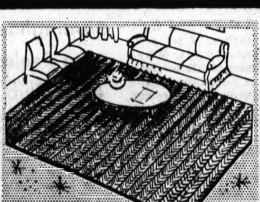

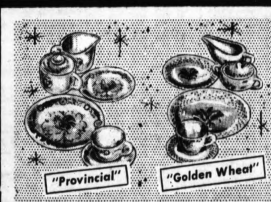

The temperature was -16 Sibley on the northern Iowa border, and the Weather Bureau said the mercury would plunge further.

The weather was cold across the nation with the exception of the Deep South and Florida. Fort Myers, Fla., had a 79.

Oklahoma, dropping the temperature from 59 to 24 in 4½ hours in Oklahoma City.

Industry Apprehensive About '65

Crisis Feared in Movie Morals

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Film industry leaders are looking with apprehension to 1965, the year many fear will bring a crisis in movie morals.
With self-censorship reins greatly eased, the major companies have been pouring forth films with a heavy quotient of sex and seduction. It seems almost incredible that only a few years ago "The Moon Is Blue" was denied a production code seal because the word "virgin" was used.
"The Moon Is Blue" seems a

fairly tale compared to today's movies.
How far can the movie makers go without arousing militant action by the moralists?
LIMIT BEING PUSHED
Some industry observers believe the limit is being pushed. They cite numerous examples of questionable taste.
The cause celebre of the moral crisis may turn out to be a film from the neofeminist American movies, Billy Wilder, "Kiss Me, Stupid" is arriving just in time for the Christmas holidays.
The film has brought a sharp break between the production code administration and the powerful National Legion of Decency. The code administration, which the major companies sponsor and support, gave a seal of approval to "Kiss Me, Stupid."

The legion, which classifies films for Roman Catholics, stamped the movie with a C— condemned. This has rarely happened to a major Hollywood film.
ASTONISHMENT
The legion expressed "astonishment" that the seal would go to a film "so patently indecent and immoral."
It added: "It is difficult to understand how such approval is not the final betrayal of the trust which has been placed by so many in the organized industry's self-regulation."
Hollywood newsmen last week got a look at what caused the legion's indignation. "Kiss Me, Stupid" tells the story of a swinging singer named Dino (Dean Martin) who gets stuck in a Nevada town when a couple of amateur songwriters try to sell him tunes.
To keep him in town, the piano teacher (Ray Walston) hires a floozy (Kim Novak) to pose as his wife and throw herself at Dino. But things get mixed up and Dino spends the night with the real wife (Felicia Farr). The story is told in raucous style with emphasis on double entendres.
FINAL BETRAYAL
It is the legion's phrase "final betrayal" that chills the hearts of film leaders. In times past the legion has exerted powerful influence on Hollywood to clean up its movies. Does this mean a declaration of future action?
The answer will be known in 1965, when the crisis of movie morals may become a national concern.

No Demobilization Order for 2 Local Reserve Units

Pontiac's two Army Reserve units have received no official word on the Defense Department's demobilization plans, it was announced today by Major Robert W. Fry, coordinator of the two local and three Flint units.
"We're continuing our regular training schedule until we're ordered to do otherwise," Major Fry said.
Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced last week that the nation's Army Reserve units, containing nearly 500,000 officers and men, will be either placed on inactive standby lists or combined with existing National Guard units.

Negotiations are presently under way between Sixth Corps headquarters in Battle Creek and Oakland County officials for construction of a $500,000 training facility for the two local units on county property.
Approval for a lease on a 3.75-acre site in the County Service Center has already been granted by the buildings and grounds committee of the board of supervisors.
FUTURE UNKNOWN
Major Fry said he had no idea what would happen to the construction plans if the two local units are disbanded or merged with the local National Guard unit.
Sixth Corps officials are also awaiting official word on McNamara's announcement.
Ralph Manning, who has represented the Army Reserve in land negotiations with the county, said planning for the new training center will continue until orders to the contrary are received from Washington.

Cites New Concept of Emergency

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Only 19 per cent of patients brought to the University of Michigan Hospital for emergency treatment in a sample five-month period required hospitalization, according to findings of a study of emergency room service.
The survey was undertaken "because we feel hospitals should adapt themselves to the public's changing concept of what an 'emergency' means," explained Dr. A. C. Kerkowske, director of the hospital.
Kerkowske said the growing emphasis on hospital emergency service has resulted from better patient care available in hospitals and the decline of "house calls" by doctors.
"Today the general practitioner who will make house calls is a rarity," he said. "The greatest number of doctors have accepted the hospital concept of treating their patients where the best facilities, equipment, and staff consultation are immediately available."

Pontiac's two reserve units—2nd Battalion, 333rd Regiment of the 70th Division (training) and the 4th Howitzer Battalion of the 39th Artillery—have a combined strength of 451 officers and men from all over the country.
They presently train in leased quarters at 40 Walnut which officers have termed "wholly inadequate."
Pontiac has one National Guard unit, Co. A, 2nd Battalion of the 15th Infantry, with a strength of 150 officers and men. The Guard unit trains in a small armory at 57 Water.

Constructs Pillbox to Prevent Robbery

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Liquor store operator Byron Gambulos' establishment was dynamited last Sunday only five days after it was robbed of $4,400.
To ward off further such incidents he has constructed a pillbox with bulletproof windows on top of the building.
Gambulos said Wednesday the pillbox would be manned around the clock. The Oklahoma Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has invited the FBI to help in investigating the explosion which heavily damaged the store.
Only 19 per cent of the total was admitted to the hospital. This could be taken, Battad said, "as one measure of the degree of urgency of the patients' illnesses."

Lecturer From U. of M. Is Invited to Finland

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Invited by the Finnish Ministry of Education, University of Michigan music lecturer Orin Dalley will go to Finland Dec. 26 to assist the Scandinavian nation's schools in improvement of their instrumental music program. Dalley's work is to be supported by UNESCO.

After Common Market Deal

French Wheat Is Threat to U.S. Exports

BONN, Germany (AP)—Charles de Gaulle's victory this week on the bread-and-butter issue of European farm policy raises a threat to U.S. exports of grain.
Officials are now at work on a system of farm prices, subsidies and import duties that will strengthen the French position as Western Europe's leading supplier. That could elbow out American exports.
The French victory came at two night sessions of the European Common Market council at Brussels, Belgium, after de Gaulle had threatened to pull out if he did not get his way.
The council finally agreed to set up a single system of grain prices for the six member countries: France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.
PAIR RESTRICTED
West Germany—and at the last, Italy—resisted. They did not especially oppose French leadership on farm matters but they were trying to get advantages for their own farmers. The other five had been working to consent to a reduction in its grain prices, the highest in the area.
The decision to yield was made in Bonn last month.
The prices which go into effect in 1967 will still be 30 to 50 per cent higher than today's world prices. That is traditional in Europe, where governments have long kept grain prices high to insure an adequate bread supply in time of war.
Now it's not bread that matters so much — Europeans no longer lean so heavily on what used to be called the staff of life.

As they grow more prosperous they consume more beef, veal, pork, butter and milk. European farm experts point out that these are all just a processed form of feed grain — and Europe's growing market for feed grain most interests the American farmer.
LOWER PRICES
Although the German prices will be lowered, the prices the French peasants get are going to be higher. That means more French production, on top of a surplus that has forced the French government to sell wheat to Red China at bargain rates.
So there will be pressure on the West Germans to buy more French wheat. There's a difficulty at this point: French wheat is the soft variety that makes those delicious long loaves Parisians buy for immediate use.
Next day you can drive nails with them. Germans like a bread that can be made into lunch sandwiches the night before, and the German bakers want a loaf that can lie on shelves for a few days and still be salable. To make that they need to mix in hard wheat from overseas.
If the Germans have to buy more French wheat, American experts think they'll have to feed it to the animals — and that would cut down America's share in the growing feed grain market.
LIKED LOWER
The United States government would have liked European prices to be set a good deal lower, so that there would be no chances of increased French production. But there was never much possibility of that.
American officials can console themselves with the thought that now Western Europe is in a position to plan its production. That means it can work on a worldwide agreement for the grain trade. The United States considers this to be an essential element in the Kennedy Round of talks to lower tariff barriers.

SWEET OLD LADY — This stately 80-year-old is none other than Sophia Loren, playing the part of Lady Lesdale in a movie, "Lady L." being filmed in Paris. Hollywood makeup man Bill Tuttle is the one who hid Sophia's charms.

'Four' Seen Key Figure in Brando Plan to Quit

By EARL WILSON
HOLLYWOOD — Marlon Brando's still got his eye on retirement... he's just a little slow getting to it... the new target date is 1968.
He politely declined to discuss Anna Kashfi or Tarita when I visited him on the set of "Moulin Rouge" at 20th Century-Fox where he's playing a German officer with a German accent. When he mentioned several more films, I said, "Do you remember telling me last year of retiring?"
"I still want to," he said. "When I sold my company last year, I had contracts for seven pictures to fulfill, one of which I've done this year, two of which, hopefully, I will do next year, leaving four more."
After that... well, I've thought of writing... Do you know," he said, turning to me, "what you're going to be doing four years from now?"
If Brando retires in four years, he'll be a pretty young "senior citizen" — he's 40 now.
Brando thoughtfully asked if I'd have some coffee when I visited him and went off to get some for me though not having any himself... a courtesy which made quite an impression on me.
Emoting with Brando currently is Trevor Howard. Frank Sinatra in his night club routine says that Trevor and some of those British actors are good drinkers. "They make Dean Martin look like Donna Reed," Frank says.
THE MIDNIGHT EARL...
Jane Morgan's doctor ordered her not to sing or talk for 10 days, till the ruptured blood vessel in her throat heals; Joe Williams took over her Copa stint... Richard Burton and Liz Taylor set recorded greetings to Hume Cronyn, who won the Academy of Dramatic Arts' achievement award... Dagmar showed off her new figure at the Chateau Madrid — she dieted away 42 lbs.
Abbe Lane gave fiance Perry Leff diamond cufflinks, initialed "HH." She says it means "Happy Husband"; he claims they belong to Hubert Humphrey and he got 'em by mistake... Shelley Berman and Warner Bros. on the verge of signing a big-money contract — he'd write for them, not perform.
TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A local actor boasted, "I did a death scene so realistically that four stagehands sent me flowers."
REMEMBERED QUOTE: "You can complain because roses bushes have thorns, or rejoice because thorn bushes have roses. It's all how you look at it." — J. Kenfield Morley.
WISH I'D SAID THAT: Most Americans restrict their exercise to running briskly to the refrigerator between TV commercials.
EARL'S PEARLS: A board meeting (claims L. S. McCandless) is a gathering where people sit and talk for hours of things they should be doing.
Mike Mazurki, wrestler-turned-actor, was asked which profession he preferred. His answer: "Acting—there aren't as many rehearsals..." That's the headline.

Auto Makers Eying Imports

No Indication of Big Move on U.S. Market

DETROIT (AP)—U.S. auto manufacturers are keeping a close eye on increases in sales of imports, but there is no indication any of them plan any major move as yet to try and get some of the sales.
Indications are that foreign auto makers will wind up 1964 with about 400,000 sales in the U.S. market and predictions are that they will top 500,000 next year. This would be their best year since the 600,000 of 1959.
Henry Ford II, chairman of the board of Ford Motor Co., told a news conference Tuesday that Ford was following with interest the current increase in imports sales.
Spokesmen for the imports say that one of the reasons for their sales surge in the American market this year may well have been the trend of U.S. manufacturers toward longer, more powerful and more highly trimmed autos.
EXCELLENT OUTLOOK
Ronald J. Lucas, executive vice president of British Motors Corp., set the keynote for the imports when he said, "The 1965 outlook for imports is excellent."
provided the importer is serious about the American market and has a complete marketing operation."
This referred in part to the campaign which most foreign auto makers have conducted in the past two years to woo out weak dealers in the U.S. and wind up with a hard core of determined sales agencies.
The imports are offering more choices than ever before to tempt the U.S. buyers. Currently, 42 makes of imports are on sale in the U.S. market with 193 passenger models. This compared with the 343 models that U.S. auto makers have available this year. Nearly one third of the imports can be considered sports cars.
Sales record for the first nine months of 1964 showed that 15 of the 20 top imports improved their sales-per-dealer averages over last year. Volkswagen was still the individual leader, with its dealers averaging 306 sales. MG had 33 and Volvo and Triumph led for third with an average of 31 sales per franchise through the first nine months.

Mott Center

Okayed for OU

Compromise on Medicare?

Establishment of a Mott Center for Community Affairs at Oakland University was approved today by the Michigan State Board of Trustees.

The Center will be financed by the C. S. Mott Foundation, the university and community participants.

The director of the Center will be Dr. Lowell Eklund, 47, dean of Continuing Education at Oakland University.

Eklund said the center will enable the university to extend its resources to the schools and adult residents of the county.

An initial project of the center will be the organization of community forums to explore current problems of regional concern through informal conference-type meetings.

It is hoped that these sessions will lead to action programs aimed at solving issues under study, Eklund said.

Donate Stock

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Anibal of Bloomfield Township have donated 1,000 shares of General Motors Corp. common stock, valued at $94,625, to Michigan State University and Oakland University.

The gift was accepted today at the meeting of the Michigan State University Board of Trustees.

The donation is to be divided equally between the two schools and will be used primarily for scholarships in the field of engineering.

The Anibals, who live at 1455 N. Cranbrook, donated 1,000 shares of GM stock to Oakland in 1961. It was then valued at $56,000.

The funds were used for student housing, and today one dormitory on the campus bears the name, "Anibal House."

Anibal's interest in the universities stems from a long association with MSU, from which he graduated in 1909 with a degree in mechanical engineering.

Party Friction

GOP Trio Meeting Without Newsmen at Goldwater's Home

PHOENIX, Ariz. (P) — The big three of the 1964 Republican presidential campaign huddled overnight at the hilltop home of Sen. Barry Goldwater discussing "a little internal friction in the party."

National GOP Chairman Dean Burch and New York Rep. William E. Miller, Goldwater's running mate in the November election, flew into Phoenix yesterday and planned to leave today.

They remained well out of reach at the Goldwater home overlooking Phoenix. A guard at the gate turned away newsmen.

It was Burch who said the meeting was to discuss the "internal friction" issue and also his future as party chairman.

"It's hard to have any kind of discussions without going into that," the Tucson, Ariz., attorney said.

"USELESS SPECULATION"

He said he expects to remain chairman after a meeting of the Republican National Committee in Chicago Jan. 22-23, but would not estimate how many votes of confidence he can count on.

He termed this "useless speculation."

Another known topic of discussion was a letter Goldwater sent out asking some members of the National Committee to give their views on mistakes made during the past presidential campaign.

The letter, labeled private and confidential, sought off-the-record advice on how to hold the "hard core" of voters who backed Goldwater and yet bring more into the GOP fold.

PREPARING PAPER

The Arizona senator is working on a paper analyzing mistakes made in the campaign and suggesting corrections.

Goldwater indicated he intends to present his findings to the National Committee meeting in Chicago.

"Our problem, as I see it," Goldwater wrote, "is to retain that hard core and add to it by enticing back into the party those Republicans who did not vote for the ticket, who did not vote at all, or who voted for the opposition."

Expect College Offer

for TB Sanatorium

Officials of the Oakland County Community College were expected to make an offer this afternoon for purchase of the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

A meeting of county officials was scheduled at 1 to hear a report on two appraisals of the 84-acre site and buildings, located on Cooley Lake Road in Waterford Township.

The meeting climaxes several weeks of quiet negotiations between county and college officials.

Scheduled to attend, besides college representatives, were the ways and means, buildings and grounds, social welfare and TB Sanatorium committees of the board of supervisors, the social welfare board of directors and the TB Sanatorium board of trustees.

No details of the offer were available at press time, but it was expected to be in the neighborhood of $1 million.

If the purchase is made, this will be the second of three proposed campus sites acquired by the college board or trustees.

247-ACRE PARCEL

The first was a 247-acre parcel east of Pontiac formerly used by the Army as a Nike Missile base.

The ways and means committee voted to recommend sale of the facility last October.

Injuries Fatal

McCone Is Expected to Quit CIA Post

WASHINGTON (P) — Strong indications that John A. McCone will resign shortly as director of the Central Intelligence Agency developed today along with a fresh flurry of speculation about Cabinet turnover.

McCone's return to private life would open another high-level post for President Johnson to fill as he begins his new administration.

Cyrus R. Vance, deputy secretary of defense, has been mentioned in some government quarters as a possible successor for the CIA post.

Johnson made his first Cabinet choice yesterday. He announced the resignation of Sec. of Commerce Luther H. Hodges and named as his successor John T. Connor, 50, New Jersey drug manufacturer.

The announcement came on the heels of a report that Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon plans to resign within a few months.

A Republican but a strong Johnson supporter, Dillon is expected to return to his family's New York investment banking business. In October Johnson asked him to stay on indefinitely; Dillon apparently feels he cannot.

Speculation on Dillon's successor has fixed mainly on Donald C. Cook, head of American Electric Power Service Corp., New York, and a long-time friend and adviser of the President.

OTHER SHIFTS

Other prospective shifts — confirmed neither by the White House nor by those directly involved — were said to include:

— The departure — also within the next few months — of Secretary Anthony J. Celebrezze from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Jolt Michigan

Report 8-Inch Fall in Upper Part of State

By United Press International

A shrieking 35-mile-an-hour wind, accompanied by an eight-inch snowfall, roared through Houghton and Keweenaw counties in Upper Michigan during the early morning hours today, closing schools and making most highways impassable.

The Weather Bureau said the severe weather was the forefront of a bitter cold front hovering over the Great Lakes.

The bureau said the cold front was expected to start moving in over Michigan late today, causing a drop in temperature and heavy snow.

The State Highway Department said a heavy west wind caused some drifting of snow along I-75 from St. Ignace to the Soo and west on M26.

DURING NIGHT

The eastern part of the northern Lower Peninsula was hit by a one-to-two-inch snowfall during the night, with two inches accumulating on the ground at Mackinaw City.

Much of the southern Lower Peninsula was spared from the snowfall, but highways in Hillsdale County were reported wet from a light overnight snow.

In the northern Lower Peninsula, one-half to one inch of snow fell in the Traverse Bay area causing a few scattered slippery spots on state highways.

Wants Longer

Workweek

for Legislators

LANSING (P) — Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Marquette, wants Michigan's $12,500-a-year legislators to make better use of their time than they did when they were paid less.

Legislators start collecting a salary of $10,000 and expense money of $2,500 Jan. 13, making them the highest paid in the nation.

The raise from $7,000 and $1,250 has brought about a shift in thinking about the nature of the job — from part-time to full-time.

In past sessions, legislators often met briefly Monday night, started work in earnest on Tuesday and adjourned for the weekend on Thursday night.

HAD TO HURRY

Legislators often were faced with the necessity of hurriedly disposing of minor and major legislation.

Jacobetti, who will be associate speaker pro tem of the House when it convenes Jan. 13, said "If we go to a five-day workweek right at the beginning of the session, we won't have those 15-foot daily calendars at the end."

"The minor legislation would be cleared out at the beginning and the way would be cleared for the major work, or the controversial legislation on which we would have to work out agreements," he said.

Congress Foe

Separate Plan

Move Could Mean Bill to Be Clear by Middle of Next Year

WASHINGTON (P) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, a major congressional opponent of President Johnson's health care plan, says he is prepared to support a program administered by Social Security but separately financed.

Mills' views amounted to a rough sketch of a program for the aged different from the administration's Social Security plan but compatible enough with it to give every indication that a compromise could be reached.

If this should prove to be the case, the decade-long controversy in Congress over health care for the aged could be settled by mid-1965. The program is one of Johnson's principal legislative goals.

Mills, an Arkansas Democrat, is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which has been the graveyard of legislation for health care of the aged under Social Security.

"I could vote for a pay-roll tax to finance part of the cost of health care for the aged," Mills said when he was reached by telephone at his district office in Little Rock, Ark. He said further he has "no objection to Social Security administration of such a program." He added:

EASIER WAY

"It would be easier for them to do it, and it certainly would be less expensive than setting up a separate agency."

As for the prospects, he said, "I assume the committee would be able to work something out."

He declined to speculate on what benefits might be provided under a plan of the kind he would favor, or what its cost might be.

The Johnson-backed plan is essentially similar to those proposed earlier by President John F. Kennedy and congressional sponsors over the years. It

Goal for College Higher

Fund Progress 'Splendid'

"Our Osteopathic College committee continues to make splendid progress," said Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. today.

"We have encountered some taxes and the prospects of interest charges that push the cost slightly in excess of $300,000, instead of the original $375,000."

"We actually have $361,000 pledged right now and there are some excellent prospects that have not given final amounts."

"In addition to those, a few of our original donors suggested they might increase their pledges if we lagged a bit at the end of the drive. Further, we still have high hopes that three more luncheon clubs will assist," he said.

"The immediate prospects are really excellent, and the committee would like to feel it could close out this big job and have the land ready for delivery to the Osteopathic College Board before 1964 comes to a close."

"Currently, we plan to invite some of our more successful and younger business men to pitch in and help us on the last lap of this whirlwind campaign."

"Our goal stands directly ahead and, Pontiac is going to make it," Taylor said.

Nat (King) Cole

Reportedly Has

Tumor on Lung

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nat (King) Cole — one of popular music's greatest stars — is receiving cobalt treatments for a tumor on his lung.

The fact that the 45-year-old singer is seriously ill was disclosed yesterday by his physicians. They declined to say whether the tumor is malignant.

When Cole was admitted to St. John's Hospital in nearby Santa Monica Dec. 9 his illness was termed a respiratory ailment.

His physicians — Dr. Robert Koslitchek and Dr. Elmer Rigby — said Cole would be able to go home in about 10 days; just after Christmas.

They said "the medical prognosis is optimistic."

The first inkling of Cole's illness came when he was forced to cancel a few remaining days of an engagement at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas.

HEART WARMING — Everyone enjoyed the Lions Club party for blind and crippled school children at First Presbyterian Church yesterday noon. Eight-year-old Karen Perry (left) of Lake Orion listens as Lion Club member Robert Radunz and 5-year-old Karl Owens of West Bloomfield Township try to guess what's in the packages being distributed by Mrs. Paul Lantz who teaches Braille at Baldwin Elementary School.

Fabulous Gifts Stagger the Imagination

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fur's flying throughout the fabulous and the off-beat Christmas gifts available for the shopper who's running low on ideas but not on cash.

Competing with the traditional mink coat the more affluent giver can select, there are also such items as chinchilla rug, baby carriage robes, floor-length black ermine evening coats, breeches and fencer's vests of jaguar, and tiger vests.

We've been shop-hounding the stores, the advertising pages of the newspapers and the catalogs and produced these gift suggestions which depart from the usual.

Prices are given only when the items go beyond the $25 mark.

land lamb on up to $12,000 for one of chinchilla.

The same house offers floor-length black ermine coats for $4,500; "His" and "Her" coats of silver otter at $3,500 each; children's fur coats of otter at $75; a white mink shopping coat durable enough to take rain or snow for $2,500; and tiger or leopard vests at $500 each.

Rugs for the man on a gift list also come from a store famous for its sports gear. These included a polar bear-skin rug for $1,000; a zebra throw, at $500; and a lion skin rug for $1,500.

Another New York store is pushing baby carriage robes at $500 each; and a store known for its elegance has breeches and fencer's vest in Brazilian jaguar for $6,000.

A Texas store shows waste baskets covered in Canadian fox fur for $30.

The same firm is advertising "His" and "Her" balloons at $6,000 each, and "His" and "Her" recovery kits — "for life of the party people" — consisting of ice bag hats, eye masks and ear plugs.

A fashion coordinator at one New York store summed up buying trends this season when she said, "In our affluent society people don't need things, so our gifts are amusing and light."

Gifts from its boutique included a stuffed frog with spectacles, a bottle opener shaped like a football, and a tool chest for women.

Affluence also pervades the toy world — with expensive toys for adults! An Allentown, Pa., store features a number of these including a seven-foot-tall gorilla, who when plugged into household circuit mimes, roars, groans and swings his arms.

He's priced at $1,400. Another toy animated once plugged in is a performing pony and girl trainer, for $1,600.

We gleaned these other suggestions:

—For her, a purse that when opened plays a tune; a battery-powered flour sifter and a battery-powered manicure set.

—For him a set of 14 karat gold sports coat buttons for $300; a set of cuff links with the Wall Street symbols of bull and bear design, $77; a boom-bass, one-man band — cymbals, drums and noise makers on a pogo stick, $30.

CASHMERE LONGJOHNS

From the same store, cashmere longjohns, mounted trophy horns or antlers $250 and up for the hunter who "never bagged his own," and a brandy cane that appears to be a walking stick but unscrews at the handle to reveal a plastic flask.

MINIATURE FUN — Interior decorating in miniature is fun. Here a young practitioner of the art plays around with some ideas on how she's going to set up her new, fully furnished "Rooms-in-Miniature" living room. Should she use the wood grain finish or the plain color on the reversible walls?

SANTA and the SINGING TURTLE

By LUCREE BEALE

Synopsis — The turtle and the snowman arrive at the Festival. The turtle explains to Santa that he is worried about the Prince and doesn't want to sing until he arrives. Suddenly Womp appears.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

No one at the Music Festival paid any attention to Womp as he squeezed his way into the back of the audience. But George, the Singing Turtle, shivered suddenly under his shell and felt the way turtles feel when they know danger is near. "There's something about him. I don't like," he whispered to the Snowman. "Why do they let him in?"

"He is a musician," said the Snowman. "See he carries a flute in his hand."

"He doesn't look like a musician," grumbled George. "He doesn't even look as if he likes music!"

WELCOMING ALL

Santa was on the stage welcoming everyone to the Festival. He wished everyone a Merry Christmas and said it was too bad the Festival had to be on Christmas Eve when they were all so busy, but he hoped it would make Christmas all the merrier.

He told how long and hard the musicians had practiced and how far many of them had traveled in order to perform.

Then he listed the prizes and he said the first prize winner was to be named Grand Musician to the Queen of Fairies.

This was so high an honor the very thought of it caused the audience to gasp and George missed two heartbeats from pure excitement.

ENJOY OURSELVES

"Now let us enjoy ourselves," said Santa. The Fairy Queen waved her wand and the Festival at last began.

The first performer was a tiny cicada dressed in pale blue gauze. She sang a song called "Lazy Days" about the wonderful times of summer.

The little cicada had a sweet haunting voice and George could have fallen in love with her because she sang so beautifully and summertime was his time, too.

But all the while she was singing he was thinking about the missing Prince and he could not really enjoy himself at all.

BUMBLE BEES

A swarm of bumble bees called the Buzzing Baritones were next. They sang a love song with such feeling that half the audience wept. The Queen Fairy said it was beautiful and Santa Claus called for an encore.

"Don't worry," said the Snowman to George. "I am sure you can do better than that."

"I am not worrying about that," said George. "It's the Prince I am worrying about." He stretched his head out as far as it would go searching for the Prince over the heads of the crowd.

All he could see was the black cloaked figure of Womp, the manwhiffer. George drew in his head and shuddered.

DUET ON BASOONS

Now an ibex and a yak were on the stage playing a duet on basoons. They showed great skill and musical knowledge but their music was far out and futuristic and it was clear they would never win the prize.

Next came a bullfrog who sang hums in a rich basso profundo. Then the Pied Piper from Storybook Land.

U. S. District Attorney Is Named for Interim

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Robert G. Quinn Jr., 34, took the oath of office here today as interim U. S. district attorney for the Federal District of Western Michigan.

He was named to the post by Chief U. S. District Judge W. Wallace Kent to succeed George E. Hill, who resigned to return to private law practice in Marquette.

danced across the stage, playing gay tunes on his pipes, and all the little pixies left their seats and danced after him.

After that, a praying mantis played the cello; King Cole and his Fiddlers Three played several jigs, and Three Men in a Tub used their tub for a drum and beat out a fine, stirring march.

Next came three chipmunks who called themselves the Chipmunk Chatterboxes. They stamped their feet and beat on pots and pans and slashed sticks across an old washing board and sang at the top of their voices.

ROLICKING TUNES

They played such rollicking tunes and had so much fun doing it that Santa Claus himself leaped from his chair and did a jig in front of the Queen Fairy.

It was something to hear! The audience swayed and clapped and stamped their feet.

Only George was quiet, for he knew, suddenly and for sure, deep in his turtle heart, that the Prince wasn't going to see to the Festival at all.

Hawaii Is Pounded by Severe Rains

HONOLULU (AP)—Hawaii's worst storm of the season struck the islands of Oahu and Kauai Wednesday and a down-pour of several inches soaked Christmas shoppers and tourists.

Some streets in Waikiki were flooded, power lines were down on Oahu and streams burst their banks on the neighboring Kauai Island.

Up to an inch of rain each hour was being measured on both islands, the U.S. Weather Bureau said, and more was predicted for today.

U.S. Grain Farmers Facing New Woes

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK—American grain farmers may be facing new troubles abroad as well as the aftermath of a severe drought at home.

The six nations of the European Common Market have reached a peace pact after long battles over grain prices in their lands. For Americans the end result may be that the French will grow more grain to get the higher prices agreed upon. This could cut into the $600 million a year market the United States has enjoyed in the Common Market countries.

They also will have a common tariff against grain imports that can further hamper American shipments which otherwise would have lower prices than those that European farmers are guaranteed.

The weather that has plagued some American farm areas is reported to have been much kinder to both Soviet and Red Chinese grain growers. Their harvests are reported large, and perhaps even sufficient for home demands. The big market in these Communist lands that the United States and Canada shared this year may disappear in 1965. This would further contract the world outlets for American surplus grain.

Another headache And this will be just another headache for the U.S. government in its long struggle with the farm problem.

For American business in general there is further evidence in the Common Market grain pact that a new era of isolationism may be building up abroad. This once again would frustrate the efforts of the advocates of freer world trade that is touted as helping every one sooner or later.

The British have slapped a 15 per cent surcharge on most of its imports as part of its battle to protect the pound sterling.

Everything that cuts into our exports, or shrinks our markets, makes the deficit that much larger and harder to handle. And that affects the dollar's reputation, domestic interest rates, and the protection of U.S. gold reserves.

LOSS WILL HURT Any loss of American farm markets abroad will hurt by just that much; Any loss of markets by higher tariffs, permanent or temporary, hurts by just that much. That is America's stake in the recent decision by Great Britain and by the Common Market six—France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

These trade moves, as well as any threat of reviving isolationism, will be threshed out at the meeting, starting next month, of most of the trading nations outside the Communist bloc. Their goal is to slash as many tariffs and other trade barriers as possible. Their chances of success are clouded by the events of recent weeks and months.

The best way to keep this deficit within bounds is to increase the size of American exports. This is a prime goal of U.S. government policy.

Question Is: How Much?

Russia Willing to Pay

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—The Soviet Union is willing to make a payment of unspecified amount to Secretary General Thant personally to wipe out the threat to its vote in the United Nations, informed sources said today.

However, the sources said, Russia has insisted that it alone will determine how much it will pay and when it will pay it.

The new conditions were reported to be holding up settlement of the U.N. financial crisis. It was precipitated by Russia's refusal to pay its assessments toward U.N. peacekeeping operations in the Congo and other world hot spots.

The U.N. Charter says that any country behind in its payments the equivalent of the previous two years assessments will lose its General Assembly vote.

The Soviet Union owes $52.6 million for U.N. peace-keeping operations in the Congo and the Middle East. The Russians have contended that these assessments should be made only by the Security Council, where they have a veto.

Under the plan Russia would make a payment to this fund, thereby averting the embarrassment of earmarking money specifically for the peace-keeping operations it objects to.

Major Work Halted
—by the Picket Lines

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Wildcat picket lines today turned away hundreds of space construction workers and brought major work to a standstill on the huge $750 million Merritt Island station.

Pickets were also set up at the main entrances to the nearby Patrick Air Force Base, headquarters of the Atlantic missile testing range, and construction work on a $1 million laboratory at the base was stopped.

The pickets, members of Carpenters Union Local 1685, gathered at all major entrances to the sprawling project Apollo spaceport for the day. The Apollo spaceport is on Merritt Island, but there were no pickets at entrances to the main missile center at Cape Kennedy itself.

Walters of 1140 Hillside is secretary and general counsel of S. Kresge Co.

James Smith of 459 Martell, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., was elected president of the Detroit Automobile Club of Michigan for a one-year term at the annual board of directors meeting Tuesday in the Detroit Athletic Club.

Rev. R. Brubaker of 1825 Riverside, Bloomfield Hills, president of Automotive Bill Service Corp. and Ideas, Inc., was re-elected treasurer.

See Continued Halleck Rule

House Leadership Not Discussed at Confab

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Charles A. Halleck's continued rule as head of House Republicans seemed assured today as the party's depleted ranks went home after their first postelection conference.

The matter of whether the Indian should be replaced as part of a move to give the party a new image wasn't even discussed at Wednesday's conference.

It could be brought up at the next scheduled meeting on the morning of Jan. 4, the day the new Congress convenes with the House Republican membership almost 40 votes short of what it now is.

Spokesmen for a group seeking a leadership change and changes in leadership practices said privately there was no one in the House with enough strength enough to challenge Halleck. But they clung to a hope that something might happen between now and January to change the outlook.

DECIDE JAN. 4 The decision on who will be floor leader in the new Congress will be made Jan. 4 along with decisions on some other matters discussed Wednesday.

Major unfinished action may be a move to have the Republicans endorse the statement of Republican governors interpreted by many as a call for removal of Dean Rusk as chairman of the Republican National Committee. Burch was the handpicked choice of Sen. Barry Goldwater, defeated GOP presidential nominee.

A statement calling for approval of the governors' position was drafted by a group of 20 moderate and liberal Republicans. But Rep. Robert T. Stafford of Vermont, its sponsor, did not put it to a test when it was blocked by lack of a majority.

One resolution offered the proposed change in rules in the speaker's power to determine whether bills presented by standing committees should be referred to the House Committee on House rules.

AN ATTENDED An estimated 119 Republicans attended the conference, including about 18 who were defeated last month.

So harmonious was the session that Rep. Silvio O. Conte of Massachusetts likened it to the "Abigail Plimpton Sewing Society."

Rules Eyeglasses Are Subject to Tax

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Ruling against an opinion by the state attorney general, Circuit Judge Stuart Hoffus held Wednesday that eye glasses sold by optometrists are subject to the state sales tax.

It ended a suit brought by Wurzburg Co., a department store here, which sought to recover $6,101 in sales tax plus interest of $779 from the Department of Revenue.

The suit involved tax paid by Wurzburg from Sept. 1, 1957, to March 21, 1963. Atty. Gen. Frank Kelly held in an opinion earlier this year that eye glasses sold by optometrists are not subject to sales tax.

Wurzburg and Wurzburg sought to collect against the state.
