Report Campaign Progress

Pontiac Press Photo

Commercial Division Near Half of UF Goal

At a breakfast session today, Commercial Division leaders reported that $74,552 has been raised toward the division's $176,500 quota in the current Pontiac Area United Fund campaign.

John P. Niggeman, chairman of the Commercial Division, told division leaders that he was encouraged by the early returns, which are 42 per cent of the division's target in the drive.

"With the showing to date, we certainly can reach our goal," Niggeman said.

He urged vice chairmen to stress to volunteer workers the importance of getting pledge cards quickly distributed, filled out, and returned to the United Fund offices.

Pointing out that many solicitors' kits have not been turned in, Niggeman reminded division leaders that only a week remains in the campaign.

George A. Watson, vice chairman of the chapter plans group, reported his workers have raised $52,985, which is 48 per cent of their $110,330 quota. Included are firms with 10 or more employes.

Clyle R. Haskill, vice chairman in charge of the small teams group, reported collections of $4,798, or 30 per cent of his group's $16,137 quota.

Three units, known as the red, white, and blue teams, comprise the group, soliciting firms with under 10 employes. Haskill reported the red team ahead of the others with 44 per cent of its quota raised.

Gerald A. Bax, vice chairman of the government group, reported his solicitors have turned

Thousands Hear Nixon on Tour

Tells Delaware Crowd He and Lodge Are Men With Experience

EN ROUTE WITH NIXON (AP) —Vice President Nixon said today the coming years "demand that America mount a great offensive for freedom."

He suggested that he and Henry Cabot Lodge are the men to guide that offensive.

Speaking to thousands of cheering listeners in a midtown square in Wilmington, Del., the Republican presidential candidate bore down on a familiar campaign theme.

He asserted that experience best qualifies him and Lodge for the highest offices in the country in dangerous times.

He said that in dealing with dictators, "You must not under any circumstances make a concession without getting one."

And, as in dozens of campaign talks, he said America is the strongest nation in the world and under a Nixon administration would increase that strength.

Crowds Stop Kennedy Cars

NEW YORK (AP)—Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy and his wife rode through a mass of humanity and a paper snowstorm on Broadway today, bidding for the critical New York electoral vote.

The day was devoted to a maximum effort to be seen, with a minimum of speaking.

He said the American people will have to decide why Vice President Richard M. Nixon will not meet him in a fifth debate on the issues.

The ticker tape, confetti and torn paper began flying when Mayor Robert F. Wagner joined the Kennedys on lower Broadway.

Mrs. Kennedy was buttoned up in a three-quarter length oyster white coat. She wore a matching cloche, gloves and pearl earrings.

The parade had not gone far on Broadway before a crowd began knocking down police barriers. Progress was inch by inch after that.

★ ★ ★

The candidate shed his topcoat, and Mrs. Kennedy stood up with him, waving to office workers in the upper windows of the financial district buildings.

Ships Return to Russia; Did Red Space Shot Fail?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four Soviet ships, once believed in position to track a dramatic Russian space shot, are heading back across the Pacific toward home.

Their departure after more than four weeks on station buttressed a belief here that Russia failed or postponed some spectacular space feat planned to coincide with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's trip to the United Nations.

Nixon Proposes Lengthening Friday's Debate

Kennedy Backs Extra Hour Idea, Still Presses for 5th Session

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's television representative asked today for an immediate meeting between representatives of the networks and the candidates to work out details of extending Friday's scheduled television debate to two hours.

Sen. John F. Kennedy, meanwhile, pressed for a fifth television debate with Nixon shortly before election day, saying he'd meet the Republican presidential nominee anywhere, anytime that suits him.

Nixon, up to now, has said his travel schedule makes a fifth epcounter impracticable.

He countered with a proposal that Friday's debate be extended to two hours, with the second hour being opened up to the public who could question the candidates through an impartial moderator by telephone.

Fred C. Scribner, Nixon's chief representative fo rthe debate series, said he has sent telegrams to the committee representing the networks and the candidates asking them to meet at once.

Kennedy said Tuesday he would be willing to accept Nixon's proposal to extend the fourth debate from one to two hours but "this is in no way a substitute for a joint appearance in the final days of the campaign."

Campaigning in New York, the Democratic presidential nominee said "the American people are entitled to know why" Nixon wants to close off the debates in the final stages of the campaign, after the fourth debate this Friday.

WHY RELUCTANT?

"Why is Mr. Nixon unwilling to give one more hour of his time to 70 million viewers in the last 18 days?" Kennedy demanded.

Kennedy added in a statement: "The fact is that the closer a debate is held to election, the more difficult it is for any candidate to engage in any questionable tactics or inaccuracies for which he may be called to account in a face-to-face encounter."

Oil Fumes Fatal

"DEAR ABBY" — Fans of Abigail Van Buren cluster round The Pontiac Press columnist, pressing for her autograph. The demonstration proved Abby's popularity with Pontiac Press readers, especially with the gentler sex.

That Slick, Chic Abby Wows 'Em in Pontiac

More than 1,000 people flocked to Pontiac Central High School last night to hear The Pontiac Press' popular advice columnist Abby Van Buren describe her amazing and often fascinating career.

The chic little woman, known best to her millions of readers as "Dear Abby," displayed the same direct, and usually humorous approach to other people's problems that has made her famous as the

Earlier in the day, Abby addressed 150 young representatives of area high school newspapers and yearbooks in Pontiac Northern High School's Little Theater.

Her frank replies to questions thrilled the teen-agers.

Both appearances were sponsored by The Pontiac Press which publishes Abby's column daily in the women's pages.

"I gravitated toward people with problems at an early date," said Abby, describing how she became a successful columnist whose work now appears in over 500 newspapers daily.

AND THEY DID

Disgusted with the advice-to-the-lovelorn column appearing in her hometown newspaper in San Francisco, Abby marched directly into the editor's office and announced "You need me."

She convinced him by giving her answers to some of the letters sent to her predecessor and was hired in 1956.

Since then, her advice column has become the best known in

Sale or Charter of American Ships Forbidden

Castro Has Stocked Up on Goods, Foreseeing Crackdown

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today banned all exports to Cuba except certain medical supplies and foods.

It also forbade sale, transfer or charter of American-owned ships to Cuban interests without specific government approval — a move that blocks the Fidel Castro regime from using American shipping for transport of supplies purchased elsewhere.

The economic crackdown is in reaction to the Castro government's seizure of more than a billion dollars of American business interests in Cuba.

It comes atop the curtailment of the Cuban sugar quota earlier this year which denied Cuba the opportunity to sell to the U.S. 700,000 tons of sugar valued at about $95.5 million — sales that would have been under a U.S. subsidy of about $35 million.

Castro's government took full advantage of a long Washington debate on whether to apply the sanctions to import millions of dollars worth of essential items from the United States in advance of today's announcement.

Economic experts said that if Cuban factories continue to operate and automobile wheels to turn before the Soviet bloc can take over the industrial supply problem, it is because shiploads of spare parts were rushed here from the United States in the past few weeks.

Castro is expected to react to the new U.S. move by expropriation of still further American businesses.

Robert Berreller of the Associated Press staff said in a dispatch from Havana that Castro may also:

1. Make a formal demand that the United States abandon its huge Guantanamo Naval Base.

2. Break diplomatic relations with the United States.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman conceded today that the State Department has requested about 30 embassies and consulates abroad to send in picture proof of how foreigners want to come to the United States.

But the department denied the request was made for domestic political purposes. It said the photographs will not reach here until mid-November — roughly a week after the Nov. 8 presidential election.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, had sent a telegraph to the State Department asking what the department was up to. He saw it as an effort by the State Department to prove that U.S. prestige is high in foreign countries.

8 Weathervane Counties Indicate Close Fall Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The closest presidential election since 1916 may be in the making if the apparent trend in eight "weathervane" counties is maintained.

Each of the eight counties, strung across the nation from New Hampshire to Oregon, has voted consistently for the winning presidential candidate for more than a half century.

An Associated Press survey of the best available political opinion at this time gives three counties to Vice President Richard M. Nixon and three to his Democratic rival, Sen. John F. Kennedy. Two are regarded as undecided.

If this trend is followed in the Nov. 8 voting some of the guinea pig counties are going to lose their attraction for the dopesters.

But if their division represents a true picture of the national situation, the contest between Nixon and Kennedy could rival that of 1916, when Woodrow Wilson beat Charles Evans Hughes by a little more than 600,000 popular votes and 275 to 254 electoral votes.

NO CLEAR ISSUE

With the election only three weeks away, there appears to be no overriding issue. Foreign policy, farm prices and Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion are among matters voters mentioned. But no clear trend was established.

In usually Republican New Hampshire, Coos and Stafford counties have voted for the presidential winner every four years since the turn of the century.

In Coos, which gave President Eisenhower nearly a 2-1 margin over Adlai E. Stevenson in 1956, the editors of two Republican weeklies said Kennedy looks like the winner.

Provides 'When' and 'How' on Needs

Proposition No. 1 Key for Schools

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a three-part series in Proposition No. 1, which, if approved by Michigan voters Nov. 8, would continue an amendment to the constitution to permit distressed school districts to borrow building and operating funds when needed—and at a lower rate of interest—with the backing of a special state fund.)

By DICK SAUNDERS

When you step into the booth to vote Nov. 8, you will be confronted by a multitude of candidates for offices, ranging from the highest in the nation to first rung on the local government ladder.

Important, too, will be the first of three proposals on which you, the people of Pontiac, Oakland County and the entire state of Michigan will decide.

"Proposal No. 1" they call it.

The committee appointed by the state superintendent of public instruction to formulate the 1955 amendment and the current proposal is under the chairmanship of Louis H. Schimmel, president of the Municipal Advisory Council of Michigan and president of the Pontiac Board of Education.

Proposal No. 1 deals with many things, but all can be summed up this way:

It is a way to provide for school needs when they are needed and a way to pay for these needs.

LOUIS H. SCHIMMEL

JUST A WAY TO PAY

In the simplest terms it means you and your children can have the school facilities you need and pay less each year for them.

Whether it is called a constitutional amendment, a school bond proposal, a joint house resolution, or any other fancy and confusing name — remember, it's just a way to pay for that new classroom.

Two things in its favor are that (1) it is not entirely new, and (2) it has proven ability.

The plan was first put before you in the 1954 election. Then, because it was untested, many of you viewed it with doubt.

It was admittedly "an experiment," said Schimmel.

You now are being asked to decide if it works, if it is basically good enough to use for another 10 years.

Let's do something we couldn't do five years ago — look at its past.

What does Proposal No. 1 actually do?

1. It provides new classrooms when they are needed.

2. It lets you eliminate half-day sessions in schoolrooms. No school district in Michigan has to delay building rooms to house full-day classes under the new financing methods.

3. It improves how your schools are operated by giving your school administrators more money for operating expenses.

4. It helps Michigan catch up on its school needs. Last year,

Gloomy Skies to Last Through Thursday

Skies will continue to be overcast through Thursday with temperatures much lower, the weatherman says. Today's rain may change to light snow flurries tonight.

For the next five days temperatures will average about 6 degrees below the normal high of 60 and normal low of 41.

Thursday will be colder but Saturday and Sunday will be somewhat warmer. Temperatures will turn cold again about Monday.

Morning light variable winds will become northerly this afternoon and increase to 15 - 20 miles tonight.

Fifty was the lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. At 2 p.m. the recording was 46.

Truck-Car Collision Hurts Four

Taken to St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, where their injuries were not immediately known, were:

Glenn Lokajarul, 31, of 13734 Third Ave., Highland Park; his brother Gene of 170 West Grand Ave., Highland Park; Chris Kusk of 112 Hickory Road, Bloomfield Hills. All were occupants of the truck.

Bloomfield Township police said that the truck, going west on Big Beaver Road, turned into northbound Woodward traffic when the Luther car struck it broadside.

Robert Armstrong, vice chairman of the two professional groups, reported that one unit has raised $10,314 or 70 per cent of its $14,789 quota; the other $4,439, or 52 per cent of the $8,393 quota.

William A. Shunck, vice chairman of the education group, reported his solicitors had made considerable progress toward their $13,449 quota, although no total of pledges had been made by the group.

"I am confident we will raise more than last year," Shunck stated.

Huge Still Smashed Near Downtown Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — A huge still, so big it was reminiscent of the prohibition era, was uncovered in the fringe of the downtown district Tuesday.

Before police finished, they had put their axes to a 500-gallon still, four 500-gallon mash tanks and other equipment for making illegal liquor. Two men were arrested. Others were sought.

Victoria, Tex., Gasps in Wind, 6.8 Inches of Rain

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP)—A powerful squall line hit Victoria with a one-two punch Tuesday night, dumping 6.8 inches of rain on the city, sweeping cars down flooded streets, driving about 200 persons from their homes and smashing some plate glass windows in stores.

The storm hit the city in two waves, packing winds up to 52 miles an hour and driving, blinding rain. Water ran five feet deep in some areas, Fire Chief M. S. Shaw said.

It also was wet in the extreme west central plains, with snow or snow mixed with rain, while rain fell from much of the central and Southern Plains eastward through the Mississippi Valley and into the Ohio and Tennessee valleys. Snow flurries flecked extreme northern sections of the upper Great Lakes region.

Slick, Chic Abby Wows 'Em Here

the world. It is translated into 12 languages. She also had written a best-seller titled "Dear Abby," translated into six languages.

Her mail bag brings in between 8,000 and 10,000 letters a week, coming from as far as the Fiji Islands.

"And you know, the problems in the South Pacific are the same as in Pontiac," Abby told her audience last night.

"Teen-agers everywhere voice the same complaint — 'My parents are too strict or old-fashioned,'" she said by way of example.

"It is important for you to know just how far you can get with your parents. This gives a sense of security to teen-agers. It's a miserably confused youngster who doesn't know what he can expect from parents," she added.

Other questions posed by Pontiac area teen-agers were answered with the same directness. Some of these were as follows:

Q — What do you think about parking?

A — It's inevitable. Why else would a fellow own a car? But it's up to the girl to set a time limit, say 30 minutes. Take an alarm clock if you have to. Remember, it's the girl who makes the rules.

Q — Is it okay to go to drive-in movies?

Q — How do you get rid of a boy you don't like?

A — Introduce him to a girl you don't like.

Q — What do you think about teen-agers in love?

A — I don't think you know what love is. You think it's true love, but when you gain in experience you come to realize what is the real thing and you know how silly you were being before.

Asked what she thought about teen-agers going steady, Abby asked for a show of hands to indicate how many present were.

All but a very few hands were raised in the positive.

The general consensus among teen-agers present was that going steady was good because it assured a girl of being in the social swirl, having Saturday night dates and being invited to all the big events.

One youth who replied in the negative, David Norton, 17, of Lake Orion, said he preferred to go "steadily." He explained that this means the boy and girl could occasionally date others, but could rely on being invited to the big events.

Abby concurred that going steadily was better than going steady. That way you will get to know more people better, learn more about life, and not be likely to become involved," she explained.

In her talk to a mostly-adult crowd in the evening, Abby quoted freely from the more humorous letters she receives.

"Humor is close to pathos, though; and I never try to be funny in my replies just for the laughs," Abby explained.

"Daily I consult clergymen of all faiths, doctors and psychiatrists, to know which manner of reply would best serve easing a problem," she said. "Sometimes a kick in the pants is recommended."

"What this column really means to me is helping people," Abby added.

One of the greatest satisfactions in her work, said Abby, is knowing that she has helped 1,200 unwed mothers find proper assistance in their need.

Many of her letters are not answered in her column, Abby admitted, but all those with stamped and addressed return envelopes enclosed get a reply, she said. Abby has a staff of eight secretaries assisting her in her work.

After many moves from one station to another, this mother of two small children refused to accompany her husband to his next assignment in Japan.

Daily letters pleading for his family to join him failed. Months later he wrote his wife, telling her to get a divorce because he was going to stay in Japan and marry there.

Abby advised the distraught wife to write him every day, telling him of her love, sending pictures of their two charming children, and samples of their school work, but never mentioning the "other woman" in his life.

"I received the happiest letter of my life 27 months later: 'God Bless you, our daddy is coming home for Christmas.'"

Can Oil but Fast

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — A machine produced by the Chemetron Corporation's Girdler Process Equipment Division here can fill 383,000 quart cans of lubricating oil in eight hours—enough oil to keep 190 American car owners in oil changes for 30 years.

CROWD ENJOYS PONTIAC PRESS COLUMNIST—More than 1,000 persons, mostly women, heard last night's talk by columnist Abigail Van Buren, whose personal advice appears daily in The Pontiac Press. The witty, urbane speaker described her experiences as the nation's most talked-about newspaper woman, whose hard-headed advice to the "love-lorn" is usually as funny as it is practical.

Ritter Linked to Bookmaking

Ex-Restaurant Partner of Nursing Home Head Testifies at Hearing

DETROIT (UPI)—William Ritter, Royal Oak nursing home operator, was booking bets for others and gambling himself before he fled to escape at least $100,000 in debts, a witness before a federal referee in bankruptcy testified yesterday.

Harold Weaver, 28, Royal Oak cook and former partner in a drive-in restaurant near Ritter's nursing home, told Referee Joseph C. Murphy he won $4,100 from bets he placed with Ritter this year.

Ritter and his wife Edith fled their home Sept. 7, leaving behind a tangle of debts and a nursing home many of his creditors thought they had a share in.

The 45-year-old Ritter, of 2361 Midpine Road, West Bloomfield Township, is accused of bilking 30 persons out of what may amount to $500,000.

UNRAVELS DEAL

It was demanded by three creditors who hold more than $100,000 in promissory notes made by the Ritters with the assurance that they were building a second nursing home.

Just before the Ritters fled, Mrs. Ritter sent a note to her attorney in which she said "things are in such a mess that we have to chuck everything and leave."

Dem Upset Winner Tells Kellis: You Too

A Democratic congressman who got himself elected in a Republican stronghold encouraged congressional candidate James G. Kellis that Oakland County should be no exception.

An old comrade in arms in the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) of Kellis, Minnesota Congressman John A. Blatnik, told a small gathering of the Birmingham Democratic Club last night not to think such a victory couldn't take place Nov. 8 in traditionally Republican Oakland County.

In town to give his service friend a boost in his campaign, Blatnik told how in 1946 he was able to win his congressional seat which had been held by a Republican many years.

"Although I took this by a narrow margin," Blatnik, a 49-year-old former captain in the paratroops, said, "two years later I was elected by the largest plurality of any Democrat or Republican in the history of Minnesota."

NEVER WITHOUT IT

Kellis smiled hopefully. Republicans have held the 18th congressional seat in Michigan (Oakland County) as long as it has been in existence.

At a press conference and dinner earlier, Blatnik, who called Kellis "the most courageous man of all the volunteers" in the OSS, emphasized his purpose was not to criticize current Congressman William S. Broomfield's service to the county, but rather to help Kellis defeat him.

"You have to live with him — I don't. But I will say this, when Jim Kellis comes to Congress he will come along with a Democratic majority."

SERVES AS REUNION

The evening served as a reunion for Kellis, Blatnik and George Bookbinder of New York, who served behind enemy lines also during World War II in the OSS with the two men.

This provided for a combination of war and political talk, with stress on the latter.

Blatnik decried that the country under the Eisenhower administration had not advanced during 7½ years, but had slid downward with a "sluggish, wobbly and spasmodic economy" brought on, he said, by the "particular vested interests" favored by Republicans.

Unlike the past, Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy will provide the leadership because "he is a man with a purpose," Blatnik said.

Eight Uncertain Areas Indicate Tight Fall Vote

Clinton L. White, editor of the Coos County Democrat, a Republican weekly, said Kennedy's religion would help him carry the county.

Two weekly editors rated the Stafford County race as a tossup, another listed it for Kennedy and a fourth for Nixon. Eisenhower carried the county four years ago by a 3-2 margin.

In usually Republican Indiana, Nixon was credited with the lead in bellwether Vanderburgh County but Kennedy was reported gaining. Eisenhower took the county 4-3 in 1956.

NIXON IN LEAD

A continuing man-in-the-street poll, conducted on the streets and shopping centers in Evansville by radio station WJPS gave Nixon 47.6 per cent of the prospective vote, Kennedy 41.96 per cent, the remainder undecided.

In the Midwest farm belt, Iowa has two counties that have been on the winning side in this century.

The folks in Jasper County seem to favor Nixon. In Palo Alto County the race is regarded as inconclusive but favoring Kennedy.

Results of polls and surveys by the Newton Daily News and The Associated Press in Jasper County gave Nixon 50 per cent, Kennedy 37 per cent and 13 per cent undecided. Eisenhower had a 9-7 advantage in 1956.

The Emmetsburg Reporter and Democrat tested sentiment in Palo Alto County. Kennedy routed Nixon out of the lead in a straw vote but by such a thin margin that the results were inconclusive. In the county Eisenhower barely nosed out Stevenson four years ago.

In Wyoming, Albany County, in which is located the city of Laramie, is regarded now as Nixon territory. But Kennedy was reported gaining strength there. Eisenhower carried it about 4-3.

Republican leaders conceded that Kennedy is ahead in Laramie County, in which Cheyenne is located. Eisenhower carried the area by only about 500 votes in 1956.

In Oregon, Crook County, which has been right on presidential candidates since it was founded 78 years ago, is up in the air. Editor E. S. Donnelly of the Central Oregonian said, "Sentiment just doesn't seem to have jelled yet." Eisenhower won it by 74 votes four years ago.

Proposition 1 Key to Schools' Future

for the first time in more than 25 years, Michigan was able to build enough classrooms to take care of its annual increase in enrollment.

5. It has replaced several hundred obsolete classrooms.

6. It has put us first in the entire country.

No other state has done so well in respect to matching increased numbers of students with the new facilities when needed and in replacing old, worn out classrooms.

The "question mark" you voted for in 1955 has become a huge exclamation point.

"It is the best school financing program that Michigan has ever developed," asserts Schimmel.

Educators throughout the state join in their praise.

Read over the above list of things the 1955 proposal has done, but this time add the following words onto each of them.

The new Proposal No. 1 does all this regardless of existing debts, the present tax base, population, or the number of children in any properly organized school district. The few changes suggested in this plan deal strictly with finances.

They are designed to make school building programs even easier to pay for, make them cheaper and cost you less in taxes.

But the financial side is a story in itself.

This, the story of your dollars and how many are being saved by Proposal No. 1 will be covered next.

Birmingham Man Killed in Collision

Two men were killed, one a Birmingham resident, in a car-truck collision 30 miles east of Windsor, Ont., last night.

They were killed when a car driven by LaFontaine, who was returning home from a hunting trip, collided with a truck driven by Geauvreau at an intersection on Highway 2 near Tilburg.

Found Dying in Pontiac; Revolver Lies Nearby

A 29-year-old man was found dying along the curb on Featherstone Street in Pontiac early today. Arthur L. Schneider had been shot once in the right temple. The weapon, a .38 caliber revolver, lay near the victim, according to Pontiac police.

He died an hour later in Pontiac General Hospital.

NEW UNION HALL — The low-lying, white-brick building on Baldwin Avenue, south of Kennett Road, is nearing completion. It's the new, $97,000 Fisher Body Local 596 (UAW) hall, scheduled to open in a few days. Started June 23, the hall is next door to the converted home at 821 Baldwin Ave., which the local has used as headquarters for many years.

Board of Education Adopts 1960-61 Operating Budget

BIRMINGHAM — The Birmingham Board of Education last night adopted an operating budget of $5,653,310 for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

Also approved by the board was the debt service budget of $1,536,213.

A record 83 per cent of the total operating budget will go for salaries.

Funds in the debt service budget will be used to pay off school construction bonds and build up a reserve fund.

In presenting the budget to the board, Supt. Otis M. Dickey stated:

"This budget has been carefully prepared and represents careful weighing of available facts and concern for educational standards and values."

"We believe this budget will enable us to move forward in a continuing development of a high quality educational program in the Birmingham schools.

Both budgets adopted represent revenue expected from taxes of $23.52 a $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Operating taxes total $16.12 per $1,000 and the debt service tax is $7.4 a thousand.

In May the school board was informed by former superintendent Dwight B. Ireland that the system might face a $400,000 deficit.

However, since that time, the county allocation to the Birmingham district has increased with a higher reassessment of the county's over-all valuation.

Another factor that allowed the district to increase its budget was the approval of voters to increase taxes $1.90 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation.

In another action, the board approved a building needs survey to be conducted by Ohio State University.

Purpose of the study is to determine the immediate and long range needs of the school district.

Mighty Mac Cuts Lights for Savings

ST. IGNACE (AP) — The Mackinac Bridge Authority, like any practical housewholder, turns off unnecessary lights on the five-mile span between Michigan's peninsulas to save on the electric bill.

That's the answer given by Authority General Manager Ed Hallenhoff to criticism by late-season tourists who feel cheated at missing the night spectacle of a giant electric light necklace on the bridge.

plains, "we cut off as many lights as practical to reduce the electric bill. Cable lights are cut off Oct. 1. Within the next day or two, one of the twin rows of overhead roadway lights will be cut out.

"There just aren't enough tourists around at this time of year to pay for keeping all the lights on."

Hallenhoff was unable to state the exact dollars-and-cents figure on the electric bill, but said "We know, naturally, there is a saving."

The full blaze seen in summer season photographs includes 98 cable lights of 107 watts each, plus the twin rows of overhead street lights. "One row of street lights provides ample illumination for the traffic at this time of year," Hallenhoff says.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Smoked-chicken bologna?

He told Kentucky poultrymen Tuesday that a new chicken product has been test-marketed in Ithaca, N.Y., under names of "chicken frankfurters" and "bird dogs." He said they captured 15 per cent of the hot dog market.

"This hot dog does not taste like chicken," he said. "If it did, it would compete with chicken and that's not what we want."

U.S. Bans Exports to Castro's Cuba

have the U. N. condemn the United States on charges of waging aggression against the Castro regime.

Valerian A. Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, told the U.N. Political Committee the Cuban charges showed to the entire world that the United States was continuing a war-like policy while talking peace in the United Nations.

FEAR INVASION

Cuba accused the United States Tuesday night of waging aggression against Castro's regime as a prelude to a "grand scale" military invasion.

Two U. S. government agencies issued the formal orders today in the new crackdown on Castro. The Commerce Department issued that imposing the partial embargo on exports and the Maritime Administration the one dealing with shipping.

The export order forbids shipment of farm products "eligible for subsidy payments or stocked by the Commodity Credit Corp." However, there is an exception — the United States will honor its commitments for wheat and wheat flour shipments under the international wheat agreement.

Farm experts said the order will not have any great practical effect in so far as farm commodities are concerned — partly because Cuba has already shifted much of its food buying to Soviet bloc countries.

Trade specialists in the government said the curbs will cut off more than half of all American shipments to Cuba, but that a substantial amount of trade could be continued under the regulations.

WILL FEEL PINCH

Even without the American restrictions, exports to Cuba have been sharply curtailed this year. Shipments in January-August 1959 totaled $282.8 million but dropped in January-August 1960 to $177.7 million.

Officials said exports have been discouraged by steep duties imposed by the Castro regime and because American shippers have had difficulties collecting on bills owed by Cuban customers.

Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, has repeatedly accused the administration of showing too little concern over the Cuban situation.

His Republican opponent, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, promised early action and indicated he would take still further steps to hamstring the Castro government if elected.

Erie-Lackawanna Railroad Launched

NEW YORK (AP) — The Erie-Lackawanna Railroad Co. launched its corporate life Tuesday as successor to two historic carriers, the Erie Railroad Co. and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western.

The new rail system, a $737 million giant stretching from the Eastern Seaboard to Chicago, legally came into being at a first meeting of a 22-director board that installed Harry W. Von Willer as its boss.

Von Willer, Erie president, was elected chairman, president and chief executive officer. Perry M. Shoemaker, Lackawanna president, was named Vice Chairman and chief administrative officer.

The board, composed of 14 representatives from the larger Erie and eight from the Lackawanna, chose Milton G. McInnes as executive vice president. McInnes had served the Erie in that capacity.

Fusing of the 109-year-old Lackawanna and the 128-year-old Erie culminated three years of merger talks. It was designed to shore up both financially, partly through savings foreseen by consolidation of paralleling operations between New York and Buffalo.

High Guy Wire Ride Make a Good Story

Their automobile crashed through a guard rail and wound up on a grass plot 85 feet below. Police said it slid down a telephone pole guy wire. They were uninjured.

No More Needle-Scratch

New Smallpox Vaccinator

CHICAGO (UPI) — A simplified method of smallpox vaccination has been introduced as the possible successor of the needle-scratch inoculation feared by children.

Dr. Harvey Kravitz, clinical assistant professor of pediatrics at the University of Illinois Medical School, invented the vaccinator — a multiple puncture, plastic scarifier.

The scarifier is a device which looks like a ring and is worn by the physician on his thumb. It has a plastic plate on which nine plastic points are arranged in rows of three.

The points are grouped so closely that a minute drop of vaccine will cover all nine.

Once the vaccine is dropped on the points, the doctor can vaccinate the child or patient by pressing the scarifier against the skin of his patient's upper arm, imbedding the vaccine in the skin.

The scarifier is a single use item, mainly because of its low cost of manufacture and the impractibility of sterilizing plastic.

Dr. Kravitz said the scarifier has several advantages, the most important being that the patient suffers almost no pain from the treatment, in contrast with the current needle-scratching method in use for the past 90 years.

Advises Freshmen

MIDDLEBURY, Vt. (UPI) — Middlebury College President William C. Fels told a class of 383 freshmen "You are a kind of Dorian Gray in reverse. The painter's work does not change with the life of the man; his changes as the painter paints."

Michigan Families Rejoice Over Kaminsky's Freeing

EDWARDSBURG (AP)—Five farm homes of Michigan's Cass County were full of cheer today upon news of the release of Mark Kaminsky from Soviet detention.

★ ★ ★

At midday Tuesday they still had not received official word of his arrival in the free world. But news stories filled the void. Their last word from Mark was Aug. 18.

At Lafayette, Ind., Purdue University said Tuesday it is holding open a teaching position for Kaminsky.

Prof. Elton Hocking, head of the department of modern languages, said the university signed a contract with Kaminsky for him to teach Russian here this fall and assumes that he was detained by circumstances beyond his control.

"We must protect his teaching position," Hocking said.

Temporary changes and shifts in teaching assignments were made in the modern languages department in order to handle classes Kaminsky was scheduled to teach. But no one was hired to replace him.

★ ★ ★

Mark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ignace Kaminsky, and three brothers, Paul, John and Daniel, and a sister, Mrs. Amy Ksiezopolski, all live in the Edwardsburg area on farms. Another sister, Enita, is serving as a missionary in Africa.

Mrs. Ksiezopolski, speaking for the family, said the news was received with a lot of relief in the scattered farm homes.

"I am certain he was not involved in any espionage," she said.

Mark's sister said she had not known of the report given by the Soviets that he had confessed spying on border installations. None of the family had heard from Mark since his release, she said.

Mrs. Ksiezopolski said her parents had lived in Cass County for some 40 years. They had immigrated from somewhere in Poland, she said.

The elderly parents were not available for comment, Mrs. Ksiezopolski said, but she assured a newsman that they were very happy over the outcome of Mark's trip to Russia.

Treat American Pair Rough in Jordan Jail

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI)—Two young Americans, a 25-year-old girl and a 23-year-old student companion, were reported today to have been kidnaped by Jordanian soldiers along the Israeli border and held for 10 days in a common jail in the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem.

Dolores Anne Baker, of Cleveland, Ohio, was seized along with Toni Falco, of New York, Oct. 1, Falco said, and was jailed under "unspeakably filthy conditions" in Jordan before being returned to Israel last week.

Both the slim, raven-haired Miss Baker and Falco arrived in Israel in early summer to study Hebrew at the Kibbutz Givaat Haim in the border area north of Tel Aviv.

Falco said he and Miss Baker were returning from a picnic on the afternoon of Oct. 1 when they were challenged by five Jordonian National Guardsmen, who blindfolded them and marched them to a tent for questioning by a Jordanian officer.

Both, he said were slapped and called "Jews" and "spies" by the Jordanians. They were asked about military formations in the vicinity of the Kibbutz, a type of collective settlement, of which they knew nothing, he added.

Later on the same day, Falco said, they were taken to the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem where the New York youth was jailed with common criminals and Miss Baker with prostitutes.

He said that during the bus trip, a Jordanian soldier struck the girl with a rifle butt when she complained over the way she was being treated.

The prison food consisted mainly of rice served in a big vat into which the prisoners dipped their hands, Falco said. For the first six days both Americans ate practically nothing and at the time of their release, each had lost 12 pounds, it was added.

Falco said an American priest was allowed to visit him after the fourth day in jail while a friend of his studying at the Franciscan College in the old city of Jerusalem brought them canned food, apples and chocolate.

The American consul furnished cigarettes and clothing, Falco said, since he and Miss Baker were still in the shorts they were wearing for the picnic.

Miss Baker declined to answer questions about the report of kidnaping and ill-treatment at the hands of the Jordanians.

KIDNAP FOILED — Police said James E. Reinhardt (left), 24, of Oxnard, Calif., was seized in a Burbank, Calif., bank Tuesday where he had taken Mrs. Betty Utterback (right) of Burbank to withdraw $8,500 a few minutes after he had kidnaped her 21-month-old daughter. Bank employes suspected something was wrong by Mrs. Utterback's manner and called police. The child was recovered safely. AP Photofax

Bowles Backs Kennedy's Side

DETROIT (UPI) — Rep. Chester Bowles, D-Conn., said Tuesday Sen. John F. Kennedy's position on the islands of Quemoy and Matsu is aimed at taking the "initiative" away from Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse Tsung.

He said U.S. military leaders have termed the two offshore island indefensible.

This, he said, leaves this country in the position of having these alternatives: "put our tail between our legs and run," or, throw U.S. troops in to defend the islands and run the risk of all-out nuclear war.

Bowles said he believes the U.S. position should be to try and get Chiang Kai Shek to withdraw his Nationalist troops from the islands.

Then, he said, the U.S. would not be committed to defend them and "the real rule of diplomacy is never to commit yourself."

Bowles said that by ending the commitment to defend the islands, the U.S. would take the initiative away from Mao.

Diggs Blasts Lodge for Negro Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Michigan Congressman Charles Diggs said Tuesday the "highest Negro appointment" made during the Eisenhower administration was "thrown out in order to give the job to (Henry Cabot) Lodge's son."

He said the highest Negro appointment made by Eisenhower was Ernest Wilkins as assistant secretary of labor, a post now held by Lodge's son.

Diggs said Vice President Richard M. Nixon has "refused to associate himself with Lodge's cabinet proposal. I call on the vice president now to disassociate himself from the way in which Lodge had Wilkins replaced in order to get George Lodge a job."

Shooting to Win

Coddle Foreign Students

★ ★ ★

The students told foreign newsmen touring the university Tuesday that the Soviet government pays their plane fares to and from Moscow. They get an initial 3,000 rubles to buy a winter wardrobe. Room and tuition are free. And they say they get a monthly allowance of 900 rubles—the pay of an average Soviet factory worker—to cover food and incidentals.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev announced during his tour of Indonesia last February that the university would be established for students from the three underdeveloped continents. After considerable fanfare, the institution opened Oct. 1 with a student body of about 300, including 65 Soviet students specializing in foreign languages. Soviet officials say the enrollment ultimately will total 500, from 65 countries.

Some of the foreign students said their home governments tried to stop them from attending.

"Eleven wanted to come from my country," but only I made it," Joseph Sankona, 25, of Cameroon reported. "Our government didn't want us to go."

Sankona said that he escaped from his West African homeland by getting permission to fly to Togo, and the Soviet consulate there helped him fly to Moscow.

Several students said they had come to Moscow instead of seeking education in the West because of fear of racial problems at Western universities.

Castro Admirer Target of Bomb

Gabriel Ruiz, 55, and his son, David, 21, who operate the shop, were unhurt by the blast. They were sleeping in an apartment at the rear.

The bombing was the most violent act in the current wave of demonstrations here against the revival of firing squad justice in Cuba. Some 50,000 Cubans including many exiles from the Castro regime live in Miami.

Police said the bomb was placed or thrown against the shop door. It blew the door apart, smashed most of the windows and did extensive damage to the interior. Windows of adjoining businesses were shattered.

"The people who do this are either murderers or they are crazy," said the younger Ruiz, who came here from Cuba with his father six years ago.

"Sure we like Castro but we don't support him. We never even talk politics in the shop."

When it comes to Protection . . . it pays to have the BEST

Sure, it's the man's house — but when Junior gets going with gusto, those ear muffs better be right on hand — or dad might as well move out.

Dependable insurance is like that, too. It's one thing you can't buy when you need it most. After an accident or loss has occurred, it's too late to get better insurance if the policy you have proves unsatisfactory.

So don't gamble with "cheap" insurance. Buy only the BEST — and buy it today.

No Victims Vaccinated

Seventh Polio Case Here

The effectiveness of polio vaccine became more apparent last week as Oakland County recorded its seventh case of polio this year, according to the county department of health.

None of the seven victims had been vaccinated.

The latest victim was an eight-year-old girl in Milford. Four of the 1960 polio cases have been children, three adults.

At the same time last year 36 cases had been reported in the county. The 1959 total was 38 cases.

Of other less serious ailments, the weekly communicable disease report from the county health department shows mumps on the rise.

There were eight new cases reported last week.

No new cases of communicable diseases were reported in Pontiac last week.

Nuclear Sub Bats 4 for 4 With Polaris

WASHINGTON (AP)—The submarine Patrick Henry has successfully test-fired four combat-type Polaris missiles from a position about 500 miles off the coast of Florida, the Navy announced today.

The firings were during an Oct. 15-18 period.

"All of the missiles went the full programmed range and landed in the planned impact area," the announcement said.

The full range of a Polaris is 1,200 miles, but the shots announced today were not necessarily all programmed for that range.

The Patrick Henry failed in earlier missile launching efforts several weeks ago. Three of four attempted launchings were unsuccessful.

Eye New Rates on State Plates

Vehicle License Costs Would Fall Into Only 4 Weight Categories

LANSING (AP)—The secretary of state's office is working with the State Highway Department on a new, simpler license plate rate-charging system, says Secretary of State James M. Hare.

The system under study will charge flat rates in four weight categories, Hare said. Presently, license plate rates increase with each additional hundred pounds of vehicle weight.

The system, Hare said, is designed to simplify rate charges.

"All that remains is to figure out how the change can be made without changing rates more than $1 either way for the buyer of the plate, or changing present state revenues," Hare said.

A workable plan should be ready for final study in November or December, he added. Similar plans are in operation in other states.

Russ Threaten to Boycott U.N. Disarmament Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union today threatened to boycott the U.N. disarmament debate if the United States and its allies insist on pressing Western arms reduction plans.

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin said "the Soviet Union will not participate in such a waste of time."

Opening the disarmament debate in the General Assembly's 99-nation political committee, Zorin rejected the Western proposals as a danger to peace. He accused the West of pursuing a policy of procrastination and of further aggravating international peace.

The Soviet delegate blamed the West for the disarmament deadlock, charging that the Western powers were using the arms talks as a screen to cover up efforts to organize an international espionage system.

TIED TO K's DEMANDS

He asserted it would be impossible to establish an international police force as long as "the executive machinery of the United Nations as headed by one man who in all cases can express the interests of only one group of states."

Khrushchev had demanded that the office of secretary general be replaced by a three-man board, including representatives of the Communist bloc, the Western countries and the noncommitted nations.

Two Problems Before Officials

Commissioners Facing Trampolining Controls, Go-Carting Course

The season's over for outdoor trampolining, but City Attorney William A. Ewart was asked last night to start thinking about next year.

Both commissioners—and Commissioner Wesley A. Wood, too—had reported numerous complaints this summer about noise and late hours at the three centers in Pontiac, one in each of their districts.

Ewart said he would also consider a provision requiring trampoline operators to furnish insurance covering possible injuries to trampoline fans.

The six-month license, which the commission granted Pontiac attorney John W. Bell to operate the centers on West Huron Street, Baldwin Avenue and Auburn Avenue, expires at the end of the year.

Commissioners weren't sure whether go-carting is a seasonal sport or a year-round one, but they still haven't decided on a site for a course.

A suggestion that one being considered on South Saginaw Street was promptly opposed by Commissioner Robert A. Landry, who said too many nearby householders would be disturbed by the noise.

The city has been thinking of Hawthorne Park as a site, but the plan hasn't jelled.

Ask Support of 2 Ballot Proposals

ROCHESTER — The Rochester Community Council of Parent-Teacher Associations is urging support of two proposals that will appear on the Nov. 8 ballot.

One issue, Proposal No. 3, asks for an amendment to the state constitution which would put a call for a state constitution (Con-Con) on the April ballot.

The other, Proposal No. 1, would continue in effect the unlimited tax feature on school bond issues.

Robert Chandler, chairman of the council's legislative committee, reported that information concerning the school loan amendment and the Con-Con proposal has been forwarded to Rochester PTA units.

Both issues have the backing of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, the council's parent organization. The council is asking its member units to hold panel discussions on the two proposals.

The local PTA groups will outline their plans for the year when the council meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Rochester High School.

Two Ex-Champs Still Competing in North-South

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — In its nine-year history the North and South Senior Golf Tournament has yet to produce a two-time champion.

Of the 16 men competing in today's second round two are former winners seeking to upset that tradition.

Thomas Robbins of Pinehurst, who won in 1956 and J. Wolcott Brown of Sea Girt, N. J., who scored in 1958, both were impressive first-round victors Tuesday.

Robbins, former U. S. Senior king, bounced out co-medalist Martin McCarthy of Chevy Chase, Md., 4 and 3. Brown, in the most one-sided match, eliminated Carl Haymond of Los Angeles, 6 and 5.

Ike's Life as President Was Devoted to Peace

EISENHOWER

Despite having spent 41 of his 70 years as a soldier, President EISENHOWER obviously wants most to take his place in history as a man of peace.

★ ★ ★

Even with the triple setbacks of his last year in office—the explosion of the Paris summit and enforced cancellation of good will missions to Soviet Russia and Japan—it is difficult to see how any other verdict can be rendered.

In Detroit on Monday a few days after his birthday he looked hale and hearty and in good spirits. Some medical tests during the middle of September showed him continuing in excellent health.

On his nonpolitical tour to Detroit where he addressed the AMA's industry stag dinner he appeared undaunted by the cares of office and vigorously confident of his judgment, most especially in the controversial areas of national defense, foreign policy and economic principles.

He continues to believe in a sound dollar, a balanced budget and limited government.

During his speech at Cobo Hall he again stressed labor-management peace rather than prolonged strikes working against our country.

The President called the UAW bigot leaflets as the use of extreme propaganda and distortions. Further commenting on this vein, he urged everyone to vote his own conviction and his own conscience in the coming election.

We believe he meant exactly what he said. Without doubt this man from Abilene is devoted to peace.

Hurrah for the Pirate's Terrific World Series

What a series! What can you say? In one swift moment the incredible Pittsburgh Pirates turned the wildest World Series in history into their first championship since 1925.

Humiliated by the Yankees 12-0, 10-0 and 16-3 they came battling back to show that each game is a different story. Their spirit was never dampened. They were out to show the home folks and they did just that.

Trying to pick any one hero for the Pirates would be tough. But you can bet that BILL MAZEROSKI with his game winning home run in the ninth inning will long be remembered by the home town fans. It was his clout that put the frosting on the cake.

It's hard to leave out Hal Smith's pinch hit homer in the eighth with two aboard, and Rocky Nelson's home run in the second. But the climax homer by Mazeroski was the thrill to end all thrills.

All this just goes to prove that anything can and does happen in this game we call our national pastime. The Pirates were down, but never counted out. Today they rule the roost as World Champs.

Will Last Great Debate Hold More Ammunition?

The fourth and perhaps final act in what has been billed as a great political drama will be staged Friday when the TV networks carry the NIXON-KENNEDY debate.

Whether each act has been more emotional and more exciting than the one before is up to the individual. For some reason we don't think this has been the case.

In accordance with the time honored campaign practice of saving the heaviest ammunition until last — and with Mr. NIXON's own conviction that political fireworks should be stored for the last few weeks of the campaign, maybe we can expect a hotter debate this time.

However, the verdict will probably be split, as after the first three. Who was the winner of each depended on the viewer (or the political columnist he consulted), except that in the first one KENNEDY clearly had an edge in the appearance of health.

Those viewers who remain uncommitted might look at Friday's broadcast in the light of an old school aphorism, brought to mind by Soviet Premier Khrushchev's United Nations' conduct: "If you have the law on your side and not the facts, pound on the law. If you have the facts on your side and not the law, pound on the facts. If you have neither the law nor the facts on your side, pound on the desk."

In any event, we will be surprised if the drama is anything other than more of the same.

Okay, But Don't Miss the Bus

David Lawrence Says:

UAW Won't Own Up to Its Bigotry

WASHINGTON—The latest sensation of the campaign is the exploitation of the so-called religious issue by the United Auto Workers of America, the principal labor union in the automobile industry.

LAWRENCE

In the union's own newspaper there appeared on Sept. 26 last a four-page insert calling on the members of the union to support Sen. Kennedy, Democrat, on account of the bigotry issue.

Four pages were devoted to material in support of Sen. Kennedy, and the front page was taken up entirely with drawings of the Statue of Liberty holding aloft a torch and a hooded member of the Ku Klux Klan carrying a torch in one hand and a club in the other.

The auxiliary political organization of the union has since had a million extra copies printed for public distribution in the campaign.

When Walter Reuther, president of the union, was asked in Detroit on Monday whether he would repudiate the document, he didn't exactly do so. What he said was merely a criticism of those who, he claims, had "misinterpreted" it. He expressed regret at the "implication some may have drawn" that the newspaper supplement was exploiting the religious issue.

He explained that if the United Auto Workers erred—he did not say he believed it had erred—then it was an error of judgment and "not of intent." He added that "we did not intend to imply that people who disagreed with us politically are bigots."

He did not explain why three weeks had elapsed without any comment from him or any effort to stop further circulation of leaflets reprinting the article and the drawings.

FRIENDS, FOES PAY

Here is a newspaper published by a union comprised of Protestants as well as Catholics, Republicans as well as Democrats, all of whom pay to the union dues which in this case were used to publish a document of political partisanship.

For not only was Sen. Kennedy's speech before the Protestant ministers at Houston published in full but not a single word about Vice President Nixon's denunciation of the so-called religious issue was contained in the newspaper or its supplement.

The Michigan Fair Election Practices Commission has issued a statement condemning the UAW newspaper article and has said that "this leaflet unmistakably implies that the issue of the campaign is between freedom and the Ku Klux Klan."

The commission added that the pamphlet "in effect smears one of the parties, and attempts to exploit the religious issue for political advantage. Bigotry is not to be fought with bigotry in reverse."

President Eisenhower, who happened to be in Detroit on Monday, referred to the UAW article in a speech.

He said:

"I believe that anyone who is guilty in America of putting out any kind of document that tries to tear down our self-respect, which tries to make us believe that we are not trying to do the good and best things for ourselves and the rest of the world, this is a disservice to the United States."

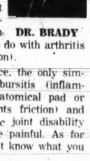
Dr. William Brady Says:

Bursitis Not Connected With Trouble in Joints

"I don't doubt that calcium and vitamin D helps in many instances of arthritis, but there seems to be a contradiction when you say in an allied disease, bursitis, there is actually a building up of calcium deposit in the joint. It would be interesting to read your explanation for this. . ."



DR. BRADY

In the first place I do not teach that calcium and vitamin D has anything to do with arthritis (joint inflammation).

In the next place, the only similarity between bursitis (inflammation of an anatomical pad or sac which prevents friction) and rheumatiz—chronic joint disability—is that both are painful. As for "arthritis," I don't know what you mean.

Years ago I had subacromial bursitis. I'm one of the hypersensitive kind—I holler "ouch" at the mere thought of being hurt. So, on several occasions, I cried so piteously with the pain that we called a physician who gave me a shot of morphine or cocaine or something for relief, in the night.

The bursitis ran its course in a few weeks and, thanks to daily diathermy and passive manipulations of the shoulder and later active exercise, under supervision of a physical therapist, I recovered in three months without any impairment of shoulder function.

A year later I sustained a fracture of the opposite shoulder. X-ray pictures of both shoulders (for comparison) revealed calcification (a "deposit" of calcium) in the bursa, although I had no pain, stiffness or impairment of function following the bursitis.

So you see, I hope calcification or a "deposit" of calcium is a consequence of injury, disease or physical degeneration and not a cause of it. Lime (calcium) is laid down in the tissue in an attempt to patch up as well as possible when the body can no longer produce functioning cells to heal the wound, injury or disease. A plaster-of-paris repair job.

DUE TO INJURY

Inflammation of one of the bursas around the shoulder is probably the most frequent bursitis. It is usually due to injury or strain. To ascribe it to "rheumatism" is moronic—unless you can explain what no physician can explain, namely, what is "rheumatism"?

As for the effect of cold and damp on bursitis or any other ailment, it is wholly a question of comfort. If you are over 2 years old and not a blithering idiot you know, better than anyone else does, whether your abode or your clothing is warm enough.

Now and then I receive reports from readers who declare that hormone treatment (ACTH injections) into or around the inflamed bursa have given them prompt and lasting cure. I cannot help wondering whether the bursitis in such cases would not run its course and be over with just as promptly without treatment.

Injection of novacain into the bursa or into the soft tissues around the bursa is uniformly successful in giving the sufferer prolonged relief and permitting sufficient use of the shoulder to prevent "freezing"—permanent stiffness and partial loss of use from adhesions.

Some physicians treat shoulder bursitis successfully by aspiration—withdrawing serum from the tense, swollen bursa or sac. The sac normally contains only a drop or two of fluid and, even when acutely inflamed, only a few drops; but aspiration of only a few drops may give immediate relief to tension and pain. This may be worth repeating in a day or two, under local anesthesia.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Something Must Be Done to Remedy Lapeer Home'

We would like to commend The Press and Mr. Lochbiler on the article about the conditions at the Lapeer Home. This is a deplorable situation and one that should not exist in this land of plenty.

There is nothing disgraceful about a retarded child. It is heartbreaking for the parents that their child can't live a normal life. All of us want normal, healthy children but some are not so fortunate. I feel these are God's special children and we should not shut the door in their face. These children can't help themselves, so it is up to us. What would be your feelings if one of your children had to live in such unsanitary conditions?

If the people in office can't have a sound and fair budget they should be replaced. We build monuments to the dead. What about the living? We send millions to other countries. What about our own people? Their lives are worth saving also.

Having Tough Time in Deciding Vote

I'm 78 years old and have never missed voting. This is the hardest time I have ever had in trying to know how to vote.

The Republicans turned down medical care for the aged through Social Security. Many of we old people have no income but through Social Security and need medical care but can't afford it.

The Democrats are for medical care through Social Security but it looks like Kennedy may get beat. I think I will vote for Kennedy although it's against my principles.

'Commanders Still Charged Neglectful'

I know of no one who even hinted that F.D.R. was not justified in declaring war after the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor where 2,200 American servicemen died in their sleep.

What one writer called attention to was that Pearl Harbor's defenders were not warned by the State Department that such an attack might occur. Pearl Harbor's investigating committee chairman, Harry S. Truman, then a Senator said, "The blame for such failure lay on the White House door steps." To this day the Army and Navy commanders in charge of Pearl Harbor at that time are still charged with neglect of duty and are denied a chance to prove themselves not guilty.

Some of the theaters in outlying communities have a special teen price of 60 cents with the adult fare usually 90 cents and children under 12 years 30 cents.

This enables teen-agers from 13 to 16 to attend the show for less than the adult ticket. It brings in more business for the theater and also solves the problem of what to charge the 12 and 13 year olds who both try to purchase children's tickets.

I wish our local theaters would consider adopting a similar price range. There are many teen-agers who would welcome the opportunity to see our shows at the teen price.

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 19, the 293rd day of the year with 73 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1814, the Star Spangled Banner was sung in Baltimore for the first time.

In 1936, a round-the-world airplane race between three newspaper reporters ended when H. R. Ekins of the New York World-Telegram flew into Lakehurst, N.J., after covering 25,000 miles in 18 days, 11 hours, 14 minutes and 33 seconds. He nosed out Dorothy Kilgallen and Leo Kiernan.

In 1953, Arthur Godfrey fired singer Julius La Rosa for showing in his words a "lack of humility."

Thought for today: Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr., said: "Life is an end in itself, and the only question as to whether it is worth living is whether you have enough of it."

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Blessed is the man to whom the Lord will not impute sin. —Romans 4:8.

★ ★ ★

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Everyone Has Pre-Sleep Ritual

Terry is like millions of youngsters for he has a standard pre-sleep ritual. All of us do, but some are very bizarre. However, Terry shows the effect of "conditioning" while he was still bottle fed. Pass this case along to the parents of such children.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"But he has a bad habit," his Daddy irritably protested.

"Terry can't seem to go to sleep at night unless he has the corner of a wool blanket against his cheek.

DR. CRANE

"If we go visiting my parents, then Terry will cry 'til we find a wool blanket for him.

"I slapped him the other night in my anger. Now I am ashamed of myself, but it irks me to see him acting like a baby. Why does he demand that wool blanket?"

PRE-SLEEP RITUALS

All of us have our one special pre-sleep ritual.

In my case, I start out on my back, with my head on the pillow. Mrs. Crane is usually snuggled on my left shoulder.

Soon she is sound asleep. I may lie there thinking of tomorrow's work for a few minutes; then I begin to grow drowsy.

That's when I roll over on my face and stick my head under my pillow, using it to keep the back of my neck warm. Then I drop off into sound slumber.

In Terry's case and that of most youngsters, we can easily see why they want the wool blanket or some other soft, flannel cloth.

For in babyhood, they are usually fed by bottle. But it slips from side to side unless anchored by having a cloth or blanket wrapped around it.

So the baby is soon "conditioned" to the feel of a wool blanket as an essential part of its prelude to sleep.

PAVLOV'S DOG

Whenever the canine was given food, a bell rang. Soon the bell itself would start saliva flowing till the dog drooled, though no food was in sight.

So the blanket is likewise a conditioned object that the average baby has linked with its pre-sleep ritual.

Other children may insist on sucking their thumb in order to gain the relaxation needed to drift into slumber.

Since the blanket habit of Terry is not injurious, it might very well be ignored.

But thumb sucking may lead to ridicule from other children if it also occurs during school, so you had better tactfully change it.

THUMB SUCKING

One of the simple ways to do so is to cut a strip of rubber from an old inner tube, much as boys do for making a slingshot.

With a safety pin, fasten the far end of the rubber strip to the foot of the child's mattress.

Then stretch the child's arm full length at its side. Now pin the upper end of the rubber band to the cuff of the child's pajama sleeve.

Although there is now no tension from the rubber strip, as soon as the youngster bends its arm to stick the thumb in its mouth, the rubber stretches. This tension quickly fatigues the child so its thumb slips out of its mouth.

The unpleasant effect of the tension in its arm will soon attach to the act of thumb sucking and thus cause the child to stop the habit altogether.

Think Machines Have No Limit

Could Store Knowledge of World, Grade Papers at 6,000 Per Hour

WASHINGTON—Electronic computers, or so-called "thinking machines," are triggering a second industrial revolution in offices and factories.

The first industrial revolution, begining in the 18th century, introduced power machinery that took over many taks of human muscles. The new revolution is providing a potent assistant for human eyes and brains, the National Geographic Society says.

The first revolution gradually ended some of the most brutal forms of physical labor—for example, slaves' backbreaking job of pumping out silver mines in New Spain with crude machinery.

The computer revolution, which got under way during World War II, will free men from many mentally stultifying tasks such as adding and multiplying thousands of figures, filing and retrieving massive amounts of routine information.

PREDICT ELECTIONS, TOO

A computer can be "programed" or instructed to perform an astounding variety of assignments. Computers of the Social Security Administration keep track of perhaps 170,000,000 names involving $2 billion in wages.

They have supplied missing words to the Dead Sea Scrolls, predicted presidential elections, translated English into Braille, and transcribed 1,800 words a minute.

A computer at the University of Illinois, taught patterns of musical composition, quickly composed a four-movement piece. Another computer, programed to play checkers, learned in 20 hours to beat its instructor. Computers also play chess, and some scientists believe the world championship will someday be held by one.

Even more startling uses for computers may be in the offing. A United Nations conference discussed an enormous computer to store the world's knowledge.

Using new physical principles, the equivalent of one human's memory could be written on a piece of glass the size of a photographic plate. Such plates might then be hooked up into a fantastic common memory.

Computers might also be used to forecast a nation's economic health and perhaps avert depressions.

A mathematical physicist has parlayed $6,000 into a $240,000 fortune in six years by putting stock market data through a computer and following its advice.

Doctors may some day feed details of patients' symptoms into a compufer and wait while the computer compiles a list of diseases that could be responsible.

Theoretically, this would prevent the doctor from overlooking rare ailments. Lawyers might also use computers to do research for legal precedents.

U.S. Doesn't Know of Red Cuban Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — A state department spokesman said Tuesday "we have no information" on a report that Communist troops are being trained in Czechoslovakia for service in Cuba.

A press dispatch from Bogota, Colombia, quoted Robert R. Reitemeyer of the Hartford (Conn.) Courant as saying the GBI had disclosed that several thousand "military volunteers" were training in Czechoslovakia for service in Cuba.

Press officer Joseph Reap told a news conference at the state department "we have no information on that." The Central Intelligence Agency and the Federal Bureau of Investigation have declined comment.

Reap also said that he had not heard of any gathering of Chinese Communist troops in Cuba. Reitemyer told the Inter-American Press Association meeting at Bogota that there was reason to assume that some Red Chinese troops were already in Cuba.

Man, Them Cats Have Got to Go

EAST LANSING (AP) — East Lansing police have made their first arrest under a new ordinance limiting the number of cats or dogs to four per household.

Police said neighbors complained Mrs. L. P. Dendel kept more than 20 cats at her home. An investigator said he counted seven in her yard.

Mrs. Dendel pleaded guilty to violation of the ordinance in East Lansing Justice Court. Sentencing was postponed for two weeks to give her a chance to get rid of the excess cats.

Red Square Blanketed

LONDON (AP) — Moscow's streets and squares were carpeted with snow today after the first heavy fall of the winter, radio Moscow reported.

Lovelorn Lassie Asks the State to Repair Road

She loved the boy, she said. He'd been going steady with her. But he loved more the 1955 Ford on which he lavished time, money and tender care.

Now he hadn't dated her in a month. The last time he drove up their road he almost broke an axle on the ruts and potholes.

"Now, I love that guy, so couldn't you please fix our road," the letter concluded.

U.S. Compacts Force Renault to Curtail

PARIS (UPI)—The state-owned Renault Co., France's biggest automobile manufacturer, announced it would dismiss 3,000 workers because of a drop in exports.

★ ★ ★

Renault, which sold over 100,000 automobiles in the United States last year, saw its sales drop sharply this year following the introduction of many types of "compact" cars by American firms.

Varied Breeds Born as Result of Meddling

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP)—A cow belonging to a farmer near here had a multiple birth recently but the offspring can hardly be called twins.

The two different breeds from the same cow is the result of some scientific meddling. The Guernsey is attributed to artificial insemination; the Hereford to later service by a bull.

Alaska has an area of 586,400 square miles.

Tax Exemption Loss Fought by State PTA

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers has filed suit against the City of Lansing contesting removal from the tax exemption list.

In a circuit court suit, the congress contended it is eligible for tax exemption as a nonprofit, benevolent and charitable corporation serving as a research and information bureau for parent-teacher groups and dedicated to education improvement.

The group said it was tax exempt from 1950 through 1959 but was placed on the tax list after moving into a new headquarters.

The congress said it has a state membership of 400,000 in 2,100 local parent-teacher organizations.

Taxes of $971 were paid under protest by the organization pending outcome of the suit.

Lansing also recently removed the Michigan Education Association property here from the tax exemption list.

The association is not contesting this action but is seeking exemption for some property in East Lansing.

Packer Organizer Dies

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Andrew B. Turnbull, president of the Green Bay and Post Publishing Companies and an organizer of the Green Bay Packers football team, died Monday. He was 75.

Packaging Corporation Reports Sales Up 8 Pct.

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI)—Packaging Corporation of America reported today sales of $138,278,790 for its first fiscal year which ended June 30, 1960.

The firm, organized in July 1959, said the sales represented an 8 per cent increase over combined sales of its three predecessor firms.

Net earnings for the first fiscal year amounted to $6,510,713, the company said.

The corporation operates seven of its plants in Michigan, including a pulp and paperboard mill at Filer City, a paperboard mill and a folding carton plant at Grand Rapids, and corrugated container plants at Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Plymouth and Detroit. The company said 3,133 of its 8,900 stockholders live in Michigan.

NY Mayor Won't Refuse City Hall Steps to Jack

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor Robert Wagner, a Democrat, held today that he could see no reason to refuse Sen. John Kennedy the use of the City Hall steps for a rally.

Answering an objection by the Republican county chairman, Wagner said that Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller let Kennedy campaign in front of the state capitol in Albany, and if the governor let taxpayer property be used as hustings, than the mayor could hardly have grounds to refuse.

Pledges Verdict on State Pay

Civil Service Board to Decide by December About Possible Hikes

LANSING (AP) — The State Civil Service Commission has promised a decision in December on whether state workers will get a pay increase next year.

The commission recommended no wage increase last year. The last general wage hike for the state's 30,000 classified workers came in 1959 and cost the state an estimated $11.5 million a year.

The commission reported a detailed wage survey, planned to help determine state pay scales, has been completed.

Data was collected from more than 350 private employers, 30 Michigan and county jurisdictions, 17 states and the federal government. Tabulation of the data is under way.

EFFECTIVE BY JULY 1

The commission said it would adopt any necessary wage adjustments by the end of the calendar year and make them effective at the start of the fiscal year, next July 1.

"The survey will show the commission exactly where most state employes stand in pay rates for comparable jobs outside state service," said Frank-lin K. Dewald, state civil service director.

"Civil service has traditionally held that state pay rates should be adequate to not only keep talented career workers but also to attract competent new people," Dewald said.

DANCE IN HER PLANTS — This Indian girl is dancing in order to "excite" plants into growth at the laboratory of botanist T. C. N. Singh in Pondicherry, India. The scientist says plants thrive on music and even respond to the rhythms of the classical dance the girl performs for her leafy audience. Dr. Singh, working on increasing India's food production, says song-and-dance treated plants are hardier and grow thicker. But (like humans) they can be killed by overexposure to one tune.

Dewey May Get Cabinet Job

Lodge Turns Into Gold for GOP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry Cabot Lodge is the surprise package of this presidential campaign. Evidence accumulates that Lodge is as important to the Republican ticket as is Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

★ ★ ★

For example: When the chips are down in the concluding weeks of the campaign, Lodge will be given the job of making New York State safe for Republicanism. He is to be assigned five days of campaigning in New York.

Republican strategists know that the ticket carrying the five or six top industrial states will win the election. Those are the areas in which Lodge has been heavily exposed with more to come, especially in New York.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee's principal responsibility is the opposite of Lodge's. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, D-Tex., was added to the Democratic ticket in a bid for the South. For Johnson, Democratic strategists want a minimum exposure in the North and a maximum exposure in the South and Southwest.

The left wing of the Democratic party with command posts in the great Northern cities resented Johnson's nomination and said so. There was resentment in the South, too, but the resentments of Northern left wingers and Southern conservatives were on conflicting grounds.

Southern conservatives resented Johnson's collaboration with a new deal-fair deal presidential candidate and his endorsement of a far left-of-center platform. The clamor of Northern protest against Johnson has subsided. His achievement has been more positive in the South.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., and Gov. Ross D. Barnett of Mississippi are balking. Byrd is withholding endorsement of the Democratic presidential ticket. Barnett is in active opposition.

The consensus of pulse-feelers in the South is that Johnson, so far, has done a pretty good job of preventing a break-away in that area.

Could it be that Thomas E. Dewey is coming to Washington, after all? Yes, it could be, replied a top Republican strategist who should know what he is talking about.

Dewey might come to Washington in a Nixon Cabinet is that strategist's opinion. It was suggested that Dewey would be tempted by only two Cabinet posts, department of state and national defense, in that order.

No, the strategist replied to another question, he probably would not be tempted by the Supreme Court. That does not seem reasonable, but that is what the man said.

Dewey's claim on Nixon is valid. He has ability and a knowledge of the world. Also, he almost invented Ike-for-President and, but for Ike, where would Nixon be?

Auto Sales Tax Receipts Down

Decline of $3 Million Is Laid to Fewer Deals and Lower Prices in State

LANSING (UPI)—Fewew automobile transactions this year than last plus a lower average sales tax per transaction has dropped the state's income from this source by $3 million, Secretary of State James M. Hare said. The figures compared were for the first nine months of the year.

Hare said $16,224 transactions brought in $30.49 million in the January-to-September period of 1960, while some 838,302 transactions accounted for $42.51 million in the comparable period of 1959.

Sales of both new and used cars were counted in the compilation of tax figures.

Hare said that the average tax per sale was $48.38 in 1960, which was $2.94 less that the $51.32 paid per sale in 1959.

"This decrease is probably due to lower prices of popular compact cars and of used cars, and to the generous discounts offered on many 1960 standard and luxury automobiles," Hare said.

Music Charms Dental Patients to Forget Pain

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Music hath charm, even on a guy in a dentist's chair, the American Dental Association's 101st annual session was told Tuesday.

Dr. Morgan L. Allison, professor and chairman of oral surgery and anesthesia at Ohio State University College of Dentistry, said use of stereophonic music may hold promise for helping reduce pain in certain dental situations.

The new pain-soothing approach is known as "auditory analgesia" and employs selected sterophonic music and a masking sound heard through earphones by both the patient and the dentist. The volume of each sound is controllable by the patient at his discretion.

Dr. Allison said studies to date have shown the technique is highly successful in many dental cases, but that more information about the technique is needed.

Allison said it was not known whether the technique is a kind of relief by distraction, a result of suggestion, or actually a method to interfere with transmission of pain impulses from the nerves to the brain.

Engineering Recruiting Still Going Full-Blast

Demand for Top Execs Slackening

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Business still is in the market for executive talent. But some of the urgency has gone out of the search and fewer top job openings—except in the sales departments—are reported by specialists than a year ago.

Recruiting of engineers still is a full-time occupation for many firms, expecially those in the defense and allied industries. And many devices to curtail raiding of other staffs, or to cut the high cost of recruiting an engineer or scientist, are winning favor.

One is the growing trend toward setting up career centers in connection with national meetings of technical groups—a big saving in time and effort, and bringing into the open a once furtive practice.

But in the engineering field, too, new need for engineering executives, as apart from the basic staff, is reported slackening.

Some of the easing in the rush to find top men to head production, engineering or general administrative staffs may be due to the slump in many industries. But a large part is traceable to cost-cutting studies.

JOBS DUPLICATED

A sharp look at personnel at all levels, has led some companies to feel that many jobs are duplicated. And a peek at the rosters of their rivals has shown some that competitors are hiring fewer men to get the same job done.

A survey of 133 large companies with average annual sales of $113 million shows them expecting to fill 292 jobs paying from $10,000 to $75,000 a year during the coming six months. This is 2.2 jobs per firm.

A year ago a like survey showed 466 job openings, or 3.5 per company. Six months ago there were 199 openings, or 2.5 per company.

The recruiting firm sponsoring the poll, Executive Manpower Corp., New York, says sales executives are bucking the trend. The openings have increased in the last six months—28.5 per cent of the total now as against 27.1 per cent in March.

This in line with the stepped up sales drives of many companies as competition increases and customers grow more coy.

2 GROUPS UP

Manufacturing production executives are second in line—21.9 per cent of the openings now, against 18.6 per cent earlier in the year. A group including general management, administrative and research executives is third with 16.1 per cent of the openings now, against 11.2 per cent last time.

But the search for engineering executives is sharply off in the last six months—14.7 per cent of today's opening against the 22.5 per cent that put this field in second place in March.

Relatively unchanged are openings for marketing, advertising and financial top men—all at the bottom of the list now and before. Where do companies find the wanted executives? More than half say within their own company. About a third try a management recruiter, or advertise, or go to employment agencies. But 15 per cent—more than six months ago—hire men from their competitors.

At the engineering and scientific level, as apart from the executive level, the cost of recruiting stays high. A congressional subcommittee study of 76 firms doing more than 50 per cent of their business with the federal government puts the average expense for each man at $1,022.

★ ★ ★

Careers, Inc. is plugging the career center as an answer. The last one held during the Western Electronics Show & Convention in August drew 5,000 visitors, and 1,500 of them registered for job interviews with the 24 companies paying Careers, Inc. to maintain recruiting staffs at the center.

Swainson Stumps Outstate—Bagwell Sticks to Detroit

"I am for the elimination of discrimination in employment because of age," said the 35-year-old Democratic nominee for governor soon after he began a typical 16-hour day of campaigning Tuesday. It started in Lansing and took him to Albion, Battle Creek and Benton Harbor.

His comments on old age problems came at a gathering of senior citizens, retirees and party workers at a Reo factory local United Auto Workers' Hall. He proposed a seven-point program to improve the social, economic and health problems of Michigan's aging.

The GOP nominee was described as "the outstanding challenger of all" in the 27 state governor races this year and Swainson as the "hand-picked choice of the UAW."

"It is a typical propaganda piece which overstates the picture in one instance and understates it in another," Swainson said in answer to a reporter's question.

"I'd have been surprised if it had taken any other position," he said.

* * *

Swainson's aides pointed out that the article devoted about 10 paragraphs to Bagwell's background and only about three to the lieutenant governor.

FACTORY GATING

The long day of campaigning began in typical fashion outside a factory gate. After a couple of hours of handshaking with workers and the meeting with oldsters, Swainson attended a conference of the State Administrative Board and then shook some more hands—this time at an informal sandwich-and-coffee buffet attended mainly by campaign workers in Lansing.

Another trip to a factory gate in Albion, a newspaper interview in Battle Creek and a speech at a $10-a-plate fund-raising dinner wound up the day's schedule.

Swainson drew a standing ovation when introduced at the Third Congressional District dinner, where he shared the spotlight with Sen. Patrick V. McNamara, Atty. Gen. Paul Adams, Supreme Court Justice Theodore Souris and Rep. Richard Boling of Missouri.

Speaking on aid to education, Swainson said that numerous study committees had shown the need for accelerated school construction.

"The time for fact-finding is over," he said, "and the time for fact-facing is here. We must offer our children educational opportunities that are second to none."

Today's schedule calls for six speeches, a news conference, and appearances at two factory gates, a school assembly and a political rally. He will visit St. Joseph, Benton Harbor, Watervliet, Kalamazoo, Hillsdale, Jackson and Bay City.

McNamara Assails GOP 'Antitrust Lag'

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Democratic Sen. Patrick V. McNamara said Tuesday that Republican laxity in enforcing anti-trust laws has encouraged big business and helped bankrupt many small businessmen.

* * *

McNamara said Republicans have helped "the big get bigger and the devil take the small businessman."

* * *

Bowles Claims GOP Keeping U.S. Stunted

LANSING (UPI)—Rep. Chester Bowles, D-Conn., a top adviser on foreign policy to Democratic presidential hopeful John F. Kennedy, said Tuesday night Republican "inertia, confusion and lack of faith" was holding the United States back in world affairs.

* * *

He told the Lansing World Affairs Council Russian Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has "dominated most of our discussions of world affairs" for the past several years.

"Future historians will surely regard this as odd," Bowles said.

"Why, they will ask, should 20th century America, with its vital, able people, its dynamic industrial system, its boundless resources, and all its magnificent traditions in behalf of human freedom, become so blindly obsessed with what the Kremlin says and does," he said.

"Contrary to what we have lately been told, the foundations of a just and durable peace will not be created by angry debate in a Moscow kitchen or in the United Nations Security Council," Bowles said.

He outlined a nine-point program which he called "areas for action" on which a Democratic administration would work.

* * *

Included were improvements in national defense, better disarmament and arms control procedures, a "more effective partnership" with countries of the Atlantic community, greater and more equitable economic assistance, a new policy in the U.N., a different attitude toward Latin America, a fresh approach to the Middle East, a "more realistic perspective on China" and improvements in the domestic picture.

* * *

Bowles, one time governor of Connecticut, has been prominently mentioned as a possible choice for Secretary of State if Kennedy wins Nov. 8.

EN ROUTE WITH BAGWELL (AP)—A fired-up Paul D. Bagwell unleashed twin attacks against Michigan Democrats last night, accusing them of resorting to "scare propaganda" and trying to ignore Lyndon B. Johnson as their vice-presidential nominee.

The Republican governor-candidate, stepping up his campaign pace in the vote-rich Detroit area, said both devices are designed to divert attention from a poor civil rights record in Congress.

Bagwell warned against "tricks of bigotry" as he ranged through the 13th Congressional District, a midtown Democratic stronghold with a population about 60 per cent Negro.

His 17-hour day began shortly after sunup with handshakes for workers at Burroughs Corp., a businessman machine manufacturer, and wound up near midnight with a speech before a Negro group in the bar of a private club.

Today, Bagwell makes a one-day thrust into West Branch and Cheboygan before returning again to Detroit.

"The symbol of the Ku Klux Klan was brought for the first time into this political campaign in Michigan for a deliberate purpose," he told some 200 Republicans in Highland Park. "It is scare propaganda to develop a religious and racial 'bloc vote' for the Democrats."

Bagwell displayed a four-page pamphlet circulated by the United Auto Workers to boost Sen. John F. Kennedy, Democratic presidential candidate. It depicts the Statue of Liberty and a hooded knight of the Klan and asks: "Which Do You Choose, Liberty or Bigotry?"

"We haven't heard the last of the 'Liberty or Bigotry' pamphlet," the candidate declared. "Thousands and thousands of copies were printed in Detroit and so far I haven't heard of any being burned by the sponsors.

"It is just as immoral and un-American to build religious and racial 'bloc voting' for a candidate as it is to conduct a religious or racial campaign against him."

'PHANTOM' LBJ

To loud applause, Bagwell described Johnson as the "phantom" Democratic standard bearer in Michigan and dared Democrats to bring him to Southern Michigan "so voters can question him on his record."

Democrats are afraid to expose Johnson's record on civil rights' legislation to public scrutiny in Michigan for fear of losing the election, he said.

Earlier, Bagwell demonstrated his vote-getting technique with hundreds of office workers as they poured out of the General Motors Corp. office building at the 5 p.m. rush hour.

* * *

"The prettiest girls in Detroit work in the GM Building," he told two comely young women. They giggled with appreciation but allowed as how they weren't old enough to vote.

Bagwell pressed two "Junior Boosters for Bagwell" membership cards into the hands of two little boys and as an afterthought added a 50-cent piece with the advice to "buy yourselves a couple of malts."

"And tell your dads I want to go to work for them," he added.

A fresh-faced young man pumped his hand hard and recalled "many a lecture I heard in your classes, professor." Bagwell used to teach speech at Michigan State University.

"Oh, you're just a darling," shouted a middle-aged receptionist. Bagwell barely got his handshaking arm out in time to avoid a kiss.

* * *

State Tax Commission After Bigger Staff, Budget

LANSING (UPI) — The State Tax Commission was expected to try and justify its bid for a larger staff — and a larger budget — today in hearings before a special committee of the Michigan Senate.

The committee, which is studying property taxation and equalization problems, heard spokesmen for local tax units and private industry advocate the staff increase yesterday.

"I am now convinced that in order for the tax commission to do an acceptable job statewide, we must have a larger staff," commission chairman Robert A. Eckhardt told the committee.

Edward W. Kane, executive secretary of the commission, has recommended a staff increase of 55 and a budget increase of $362,000.

Three witnesses before the committee recommended staff increases as part of their proposals to help make property taxes more equitable on different classes and kinds of property.

They were Clifford C. Christenson, Grand Rapids lawyer representing several industrial and commercial clients in Western Michigan; Albert E. Champney, director of the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation, and George Kostishak, equalization adviser to the Washtenaw County Board of Supervisors.

All three indicated "discriminatory assessments" were possible under the existing programs.

The chief problem cited by the half-dozen witnesses appearing before the legislative committee was that under Michigan's property tax structure and laws governing assessments and equalization, personal property has often been taxed at a much higher level than real property.

TAX INEQUALITIES

Several witnesses cited specific examples which they said showed inequalities.

Commission member Gerald Barr said recommendations on how to take into consideration depreciation of personal property for assessment purposes, plus the equalization functions of county and state officials, were aimed at correcting these inequalities.

Last spring's 13.6 per cent hike in equalized valuation by the state board of equalization was an effort in this direction, commission spokesmen said.

Part of the reason for the needed new staff members would be that assessed valuation could be kept more current, they said.

This would eliminate the need for drastic increases — or decreases — in equalized valuations with the resultant effects on revenue possibilities and budget considerations of local units, they said.

* * *

Other lawmakers on the committee were Sens. Charles Feenstra, R-Grand Rapids; Carlton H. Morris, R-Kalamazoo; Lewis G. Christman, R-Ann Arbor, and Harold M. Ryan, D-Detroit.

Representatives of various groups appearing before the committee included:

The Lansing meeting was the final one in a series of six held at various points around the state to study tax matters.

Debate by 2 Hopefuls May Run Extra Hour

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy said today he is willing to extend Friday's television debate with Vice President Richard M. Nixon an extra hour.

* * *

Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, had said earlier he was against a two-hour debate, as suggested by his Republican opponent, because he doubted whether viewer interest could be held that long.

There is some doubt whether the extension is possible now.

The fourth debate, as scheduled now, will be broadcast over the major TV and radio networks from 9 to 10 p. m. Pontiac time.

Both candidates will meet face to face in the New York studios of the American Broadcasting Co.

* * *

Kennedy's aides apparently have given up any idea of a fifth Nixon-Kennedy encounter, as proposed originally by the senator. Nixon spokesmen said complicated travel arrangements make another meeting impossible.

He also asked that candidates respond to questions telephoned in from the public, as well as questions from newsmen in the studio.

If the Friday debate is extended, Kennedy aides said there will be no questions from the public because the networks ruled it impracticable.

Both candidates will make opening statements of eight minutes. Then they will be questioned for 30 minutes by a panel, after which they will present three- to five-minute summary statements.

The program will be carried on th TV and radio networks of ABC, Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Co., and the radio network of the Mutual Broadcasting System.

Michigan, Hawaii to Match Votes

LANSING (AP) — Michigan has accepted a challenge to match the voting record of Hawaii in the Nov. 8 election.

* * *

Hawaii, Quinn reported, had 92.9 per cent of its registered voters cast ballots in the first election for state officers. The election will be the first-time citizens of Hawaii vote for a president.

Williams admitted the goal might be too optimistic, but accepted the challenge, saying Michigan ordinarily makes a good showing on election day.

About 66 per cent of Michigan's registered voters cast ballots in the 1958 election, the elections bureau said.

Brands Dems Sympathy Seekers

Bentley Hits 'the Pamphlet'

DETROIT (AP)—Republican senatorial candidate Alvin M. Bentley said Tuesday that a UAW-CIO pamphlet was distributed for "the unmistakable purpose of creating the impression that a vote for Richard Nixon was a vote for bigotry and religious hate."

Bentley said the Democrats, the UAW and Sen. John Kennedy are "trying to get sympathy votes from Catholics, Jews, Negroes and other minority groups."

Auto Production Up for Week and Year

DETROIT (UPI) — The Automobile Manufacturers Association reported today that automakers turned out 162,549 vehicles last week including 144,615 cars, 17,849 trucks and 85 buses.

This compared with 140,506 cars, 18,395 trucks and 100 buses in the previous week.

Kellogg Fund Provides for Hospital Training

BATTLE CREEK (UPI) — The W. W. Kellogg Foundation today announced a grant of $133,210 to the Catholic Hospital Association of the United States and Canada and St. Louis University for the addition of three extension-correspondence courses in hospital training.

WHY MORE TRAINING?

The Job Guide, published by the U.S. Dept. of Labor, gives this answer: "You should weigh carefully the long run advantages offered by jobs you are considering against immediate gains. You should be aware of the great importance of education as a general and specific asset. Technical or professional training received after leaving high school will give you definite advantages in seeking and finding a job. When advancement opportunities occur, preference is generally given to persons with superior educational qualifications — other things being equal."

Question on Caskets Needs an Answer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP) — George Radway, who retired this year as superintendent of Ohio Penal Industries, says a question asked him years ago by a reporter still bothers him because he never learned the answer.

To keep open range cattle off highways, the commission authorized painting where needed, after hearing Chief Engineer W. C. Williams report that cattle will not cross a yellow center stripe on a highway unless driven to it.

Tax Collectors Get 'Em

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Tax collectors are now using walkie-talkie radios to head off tourists who pass through customs at the International Bridge without paying state levies on liquor. The system has boosted the tax take $40 a day, according to Auditor Richard T. Aldrich.

Parking Lot Has 1900 Auto Show; Counts 400 Cars

OCEAN CITY, N. J. (UP)—Some 400 cars were lined up in the city parking lot recently ranging from foreign models to many types of American-made vehicles.

But there were no 1960 models on display. In fact, the majority of cars dated back to the early 1900s.

The occasion was the National Meet of the Antique Automobile Club of America.

One of the highlights of the show was the appearance of the 1917 Locomobile which served as Gen. John J. Pershing's staff car in France during World War I.

The top of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., where one of the great battles of the Civil War was fought, is now so heavily settled that few home sites are available.

Old Style Rail Trip Attraction at Zoo

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP) — One of the side attractions of the new Portland zoo is a narrow gauge railroad, on which passengers get a choice of a genuine steam engine or a streamliner.

An experiment in moonlight excursions over the line's four miles of track, winding through woods to Washington Park for a top-of-the-hill look at Portland's lights, was so successful that a summer-long night program has been set up.

The train takes 35 minutes to make the round trip including a pause for sightseeing.

Officers Stop Display

TUCSON, Ariz. (UP) — A 17-year-old Tucson youth had a few drinks and then displayed his strength to friends.

He uprooted 12 mailboxes—all by hand—before officers arrived.

Kennedy Back in State Oct. 26 Ahead of Dick

MOUNT CLEMENS (UPI)—Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., announced Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy will kick off his fourth campaign trip into Michigan in the Seventh Congressional District Oct. 26.

O'Hara, who is seeking re-election, said Kennedy will arrive at Selfridge Air Force Base shortly after 2 p.m. and will motorcade to Detroit via Mount Clemens, Roseville, and East Detroit.

Kennedy will speak at the municipal parking lot in Mount Clemens at 2:30 p.m., at the Eastgate Shopping Center in Roseville at 3:15 p.m., and at Shopper's fair in East Detroit at 3:45 p.m.

A Democratic rally will be held in Detroit in the evening but full details have not yet been worked out.

Kennedy's previous visits to Michigan include an address at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Convention in Detroit in August, a Labor Day speech in Detroit followed by a motorcade to the State Fair, Pontiac and Flint and a flight to Muskegon for an evening address, and whistlestop train tour from Ann Arbor to Jackson, Marshall, Albion, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Owosso and Saginaw.

His forthcoming visit will precede by one day the visit of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, his Republican presidential opponent, who will whistlestop from Grand Rapids to Monroe.

Kennedy indicated he might make a fifth trip to Michigan following Nixon's Oct. 27 visit.

Nixon, like Kennedy, addressed the VFW Convention in Detroit. He also visited the state late last month, starting his trip at Selfridge Field and visiting Mount Clemens, Flint, Saginaw and Bay City.

The Vice President's visit to Mount Clemens was seen as a boost to former Republican Rep. Robert J. Mc Intosh of the seventh Congressional District.

RED HOT RECEPTION — Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong, noted jazz musician, gets an enthusiastic greeting from Ajax Bukana, Ghana's leading jazz dancer, on arrival in Accra. The top-hatted greeter was among a group which welcomed Armstrong Thursday. The American trumpet star is on a 35,000 mile concert tour of Africa.

Kennedy's Headway Down South Splintering Nixon's Strategy

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Party claims of a Democratic resurgence in the South may pose some new threats to Vice President Richard M. Nixon's basic campaign strategy.

★ ★ ★

The Republican presidential nominee has been working hard to rack up half a dozen Southern and border states to offset the admitted advantage of his Democratic rival, Sen. John F. Kennedy, in New England.

★ ★ ★

Nixon's strategists have hoped to link these states with those of the Midwestern farm area as a foundation from which he could win the presidency by at least splitting with his opponent the electoral vote of the industrial states — including New York and California.

★ ★ ★

But the Southern flank of this base has come under heavy Democratic attack in the last couple of weeks. There is some evidence that the flank is weakening somewhat.

SHIFT TO KENNEDY

The most recent Associated Press survey showed Kentucky changing from the Nixon column to a doubtful status, and Louisiana shifting from doubtful to Kennedy.

The survey indicated Nixon leads in Florida, South Carolina and Virginia, which have a total of 30 electoral votes.

Republicans say these give Nixon the opportunity to solidify a formidable base with the farm areas of Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Iowa, Illinois and Indiana.

Paradoxically, Republican prospects appear to have gained in the farm belt which the Democrats thought a month ago would be theirs. At the same time GOP strength may have waned in the South and border areas where their opponents were singing the blues in September.

Democratic strategists attribute what they claim is a shift in Southern attitude in part to the talk by Henry Cabot Lodge, the GOP vice-presidential nominee, about the probability that there would be a Negro in a Nixon Cabinet.

Nixon has repeatedly discounted that talk, saying he would name the best men or women regardless of race. He said he has made no commitments.

The Democratic party workers had regarded civil rights as a moribund issue, with the positions of the presidential candidates equally distasteful to the majority of Dixie voters. But they don't think the average Southern voter is ready for a Negro in the Cabinet.

Both Kennedy and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, have paralleled Nixon's stand that race should not be a factor in Cabinet appointments.

To promise any post to any race or ethnic group, Kennedy said this week, would be "racism in reverse at its worst."

Johnson said he believed a man should be neither appointed nor barred from appointment because of his "race, religion or section of birth."

Kalkaska Crash Kills 3

KALKASKA (AP) — Three persons were killed Tuesday in a two-car head-on collision near Kalkaska in Bear Lake Township, Kalkaska County. The dead were Edward J. Sher, 45, of Algonac; Harold B. Fandrick, of St. Clair; and Robert H. Kettler, 46, of Fife Lake.

Plan New Law on Real Estate

Committee Working on Constitutional Change to Permit Sales Control

DETROIT (AP)—A movement proposing to write into the Michigan Constitution the "unqualified right" of a property owner to refuse to sell, lease or rent "to any person whatsoever" has been launched here.

The proposed amendment also would empower real estate agents "with discretion, pursuant to their property owners' instructions, to make and exercise choices for them (owners') without interference."

The movement is sponsored by the Michigan Committee for the Protection of Property Rights. The committee's founders are Orville F. Sherwood, executive secretary of the Grosse Pointe Property Owners Association, and Irving E. Ingrahan, president of Sherwood's association.

Sherwood told a news conference that Rep. Robert Waldron (R-Grosse Pointe) has agreed to introduce the proposed constitutional amendment in the 1961 legislature. He said other legislative support is anticipated and that pledges of support will be asked from current House and Senate candidates.

Sherwood and Ingrahan said the decision to form the committee and seek the amendment, which would have to be approved by a majority of the electorate, was reached after discussions with other property owner associations and with brokers.

They said a pro-amendment folder entitled, "Home, sweet home; Is it really yours?" had been mailed initially to 14,000 Grosse Pointe property owners and would be distributed statewide.

It solicits pledges of funds to support the amendment campaign and urges contact with legislators in behalf of the proposed amendment.

Sherwood said the amendment merely would confirm and spell out what has been held up to now to be the law: That a property owner can sell or refuse to sell to anyone.

Piggyback Hauls Move Into Big Time Operation

NEW YORK (UPI)—Piggyback operations have enabled the freight forwarder to become a potent third force in freight transportation, still pretty much dominated by railroads and truckers.

Piggybacking goes back to Civil War transport, but as a commercial service it was first introduced in 1884 when the Long Island Railroad moved farmers' produce-laden wagons into New York City from Eastern Long Island. There was a flat rate of $4 for the wagon, two horses and a driver.

Demand for this service died before the century ended, however, and it wasn't until 1953 that the railroads brought it back in an effort to recapture traffic lost to motor carriers. Now 35 railroads offer it.

It increases in popularity every year. In the first 36 weeks of this year more than 379,000 flatcars were loaded with one or more piggyback vans, an increase of 34.6 per cent over the comparable 1959 period and 111 per cent above 1958.

Domestic freight forwarders have become major users of piggyback since they were authorized last year by the Interstate Commerce Commission to use it.

Sidney B. Lifschultz, head of Lifschultz Fast Freight, explained that traditionally forwarders have rendered an expedited service for less-than-carload shipments, with trucks for pick-up and delivery at the beginning and end of the movement and railroad box cars for the long haul.

★ ★ ★

Now with piggyback, he added, they can handle van loads of a single shipper and provide door-to-door service without the delays of loading and unloading at their terminals.

There are roughly 100 freight forwarding firms with total annual revenues of more than $500 million.

Lifschultz said freight forwarding is a service industry and the services provided give the shipper fewer headaches and lower costs than those he would encounter if he had to depend on several handlers to achieve the same results.

Air Force Gives Nose Cone to the Smithsonian

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force presented to the Smithsonian Institution's National Air Museum Tuesday the RVX 1-5, the first reentry nose cone recovered after a space flight of intercontinental distance.

The RVX 1-5 was fished from the South Atlantic April 8, 1959, after a Thor-Able rocket boosted it on a flight of more than 6,325 miles from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Plunging back into the atmosphere at 15,000 miles an hour, the nose cone was subjected to heat of more than 6,500 degrees centigrade.

Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, Air Force research and development chief, presented the nose cone to Dr. Remington Kellogg, acting secretary of the Smithsonian.

MOSCOW (UPI) —An unofficial 10-man Soviet "peace delegation" is en route to New York convinced that war is "not a fatal inevitability."

The delegation, headed by Supreme Soviet Deputy Aleksandr Korneychuk is to take part in an unofficial meeting of Russian and American public figures, the official Tass news agency reported.

The meeting from Oct. 29 to Nov. 4 is being held on the initiative of Norman Cousins, chairman of the American Committee for a Sensible Nuclear Policy and editor of the "Saturday Review."

Tass said its purpose is to discuss problems of peaceful coexistence, disarmament, international cooperation and the strengthening of friendly relations between the Russian and American peoples.

Khrushchev to Address Homecoming Gathering

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Foreign Office announced today Soviet Premier Khrushchev will address a homecoming meeting in Luzhniki Stadium Thursday. He is expected to make a report on his attendance at the United Nations, from which he returned last Friday.

Russ Move A-Arms —Ready for Parade

MOSCOW (UPI) — Huge trucks snorted through Red Square Monday midnight, propelling giant cannon and canvas-shrouded missiles in the first major dress rehearsal for Russia's Nov. 7 October Revolution parade.

★ ★ ★

Expert observers said the parade appeared to offer no surprises. There were no tanks among the 200-odd vehicles which whisked through the square, and the experts said none of the missiles appeared large enough to be intercontinental.

★ ★ ★

Preparations for the rehearsal tied up traffic in downtown Moscow for several hours. Knots of shivering spectators gathered in unusually chilly weather to see the show.

Fear Antimatter Bomb Research

British Are Concerned Over Experiments by East and West

LONDON (UPI)—British atomic scientists fear that research now being conducted by both the East and West may ultimately lead mankind to a weapon far more powerful than the hydrogen bomb — the antimatter bomb.

Scientists in the United States, the Soviet Union and at Geneva's European Center for Nuclear Research (CERN), are engaged in studying antimatter with immensely powerful particle accelerators called proton synchrotons.

Their research up to this point is limited to scientific theory and it is possible they may never be able to find a practical application, either as a tool or weapon, for the fantastic release of energy which occurs when matter cancels out matter.

Prof. Joseph Rotblat, one of the original wartime atomic bomb pioneers, said today: "As time goes by someone may have an idea how this can be done. It is not a very cheerful thing to think about."

In antimatter, two forms of energy (protons and anti-protons, for example) annihilate each other, completely releasing all their energy.

This is much more effective than the fusion of atoms that creates the hydrogen bomb. Theoretically, if it were possible to make one, a single antimatter bomb would equal the destructive power of many hydrogen bombs of similar size.

At present, antimatter can be produced only in giant machines generating billions of electron volts of power — and then only in minute quantities. There is no known method of storing it so that enough can be accumulated for practical purposes.

"I don't myself see how anyone can develop a method for doing so," said Professor Rotblat.

"But scientists seem to find short cuts on so many problems these days. And there is a great deal of thought being given to antimatter.

"We know the Russians have produced very large machines (synchrotons) which will study, as well as accelerate, "the" fundamental particles."

Top Athletes Team Up for Kennedy

CHICAGO (UPI) — Democrats have announced formation of a new National Sportsmen for Kennedy Committee made up of athletes from all major sports.

A team of athletes has already been lined up by Republicans on behalf of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The Democratic team had 84 active and retired athletes as supporters of Sen. John F. Kennedy and more were being enlisted, the Citizen's Committee for Kennedy-Johnson said.

Among those already listed as cochairmen of the sportsmen's group were professional football players like John Unitas, Lenny Moore, Alan Ameche and Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb of the Baltimore Colts.

In hailing formation of the committee, Kennedy said in a statement that he is a "firm believer in the theory that one method of coping with the complex problem of juvenile delinquency is through active participation in athletic competition."

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio warned Tuesday that an agreement giving Polaris-equipped U.S. Nuclear submarines base facilities in Scotland is "fraught with the most serious consequences for Britain."

★ ★ ★

The British-American agreement represents a "new capitulation of the British government to U.S. aggressive circles, the broadcast said.

★ ★ ★

The agreement reportedly will allow the United States to base a submarine tender at a Scottish port and to build up comprehensive servicing, maintenance, and communications facilities in Britain for a Polaris submarine force.

Management, Labor Agree

Presidential Commission Will Air Railroad Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—Railway management and operating brotherhoods agreed today to submit their dispute over work rules to a presidential commission.

★ ★ ★

This removes a continuing threat of a nationwide strike over what railway management describes as "featherbedding," meaning forced use of unnecessary workers or payment of wages without a commensurate return in services.

The operating brotherhoods are the unions of employes who operate trains.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell announced at a news conference that the presidential commission will make a detailed study of the dispute over work rules and practices and have its recommendations ready next December.

The 15 members of the commission will be named by President Eisenhower. Five will be nominated by railway management and five by the operating brotherhoods.

The remaining five members will be designated as public members.

Mitchell said the public members will be named without consultation with either side in the dispute.

Mitchell described the agreement to have a commission study the dispute as "a monumental step forward in one of our basic industries."

Mitchell said the recommendations of the commission will not be binding. He said, however, that they will have great weight.

There are 42,000 sawmills in the United States. Of these, 33,000 are small operations producing less than a million board feet annually.

Hoover Opens Club Building

Named for Him, the 5-Story Edifice Is Built for 600,000 Boys

The five-story marble-and-glazed-brick building stands at 771 First Ave., directly opposite the United Nations. From it, 866 clubs with more than 600,000 members throughout the country will be directed.

Never before has the United States needed boys' clubs and other character building institutions "more than right this day," said Hoover, the organization's board chairman.

The structure is known as the "Herbert Hoover Building." It was made possible by a special gift from the Charles Hayden Foundation and contributions from corporations, other foundations and individuals, including the boys themselves.

Tranquilizer Market Tends to Stabilize

CHICAGO (UPI)—The vast majority of Americans get along quite well without tranquilizers despite popular belief to the contrary.

★ ★ ★

David D. Stiles, director of Market Development at Abbott Laboratories, reported only one in 20 new prescriptions for private patients was for a tranquilizer type drug.

He added that in many of these cases the tranquilizers were taken for discomforts unrelated to mental conditions, such as various types of nausea in pregnancy and after surgery.

Stiles said the tranquilizer market has tended to stabilize over the past two years.

Sculptor Once Used Moistened Bread

LONG BRANCH, N. J. (AP)—Sculptor Maurice Podell once lived and worked by bread alone.

★ ★ ★

Podell now works in Bronze and plaster, but as a child in Russia the only medium he could afford to use to create his miniature busts was moistened Jewish rye bread.

Rye bread gets hard as a rock and almost as permanent, Podell says. Now 60, he still has some of the little bread statues.

Dr. Mary Ann Cusack of Michigan State University Oakland was guest speaker at the annual luncheon of the combined Child Study Club groups in the Pontiac area Tuesday at Kingsley Inn. "Why Children Watch TV" was Dr. Cusack's topic.

Mrs. Neil Gray offered the invocation.

Mrs. Julius Koprince of the Junior Child Study Club was general chairman for the program. Committee chairmen were Mrs. Donald Johnson of Clarkston Child Study Club, reservations; Mrs. Charles Bowers, Child Culture Club, speaker; Mrs. Edmund Gunter, Clarkston Senior Child Study Club, decorations; Mrs. William Emerson, Waterford Child Study Club, hospitality; and Mrs. Robert Bego, Child Study Club Group III, publicity.

Go Ahead, Entertain the Others

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently I invited a neighbor and her visiting mother to a luncheon at my house, in honor of the mother. Two days before the luncheon, my neighbor telephoned me to say that her mother had taken ill and she was sorry but they would not be able to come to the luncheon.

I immediately called the other guests whom I had invited and canceled the luncheon. I have been told that this was inexcusably rude to the other guests and that I should have let them come anyway.

Since the only reason for the luncheon in the beginning was so that the mother could see some of her old friends, I thought it would be pointless to have it since she could not be present. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?

Answer: I am sorry, but you really should have had your luncheon as planned and told your guests when they arrived that you were sorry but the guest of honor was not able to be with you.

Dear Mrs. Post: Our oldest son has been going steady with a girl for about six months. They are not engaged. This is our problem:

We are having a bar mitzvah for our 14-year-old son and want to invite this girl. Our son wants us to seat her at the family table.

I do not think she belongs at this table and that she should be seated elsewhere with friends. Will you please settle this?

Answer: You are right, until her engagement to your son has been announced, she should not be seated at the family table.

Dear Mrs. Post: If a woman is approaching a doorway and there is a group in front of her in which the man is holding the door open for the woman in the group, should he also hold the door open for the woman approaching?

★ ★ ★

Answer: If the approaching woman is close to the door he should let her go through it before he does so himself, but he is not expected to act as a doorman for her and other women who may be following her.

Hold City Pairs Bridge Tourney

Symphony Is Outstanding in Its Opening Performance

By A. MICHAEL DEMPSEY

The Pontiac Symphony Orchestra opened its 1960-61 season Tuesday evening with an outstanding performance in the Pontiac Northern High School Auditorium.

The orchestra, under the direction of Francesco DiBlasi, opened the concert with the well-known "Overture to Der Freischutz" by Weber. This selection was highlighted by the smoothly flowing melodic lines of the horns, outstanding throughout the concert.

The best known of Beethoven's symphonies, his Fifth, followed. This work demands meticulous and exacting care in its performance. It is to the credit of the orchestra that such an effort was made this early in the season.

The second half of the program was devoted to music by American composers. Highlight of this section, and indeed of the evening, was the Aaron Copland composition, "A Lincoln Portrait," narrated by John Gregory. Beautifully interpreted by Mr. DiBlasi, the piece was charged with the tumult and excitement of the times.

A graphic picture of Lincoln the man emerged from the intricate fusion of text and score. The orchestral pictures of rural America were magnificent and the composition sparkled with life from the early tension-filled passages to the powerful final chords.

The ambitious debut of this year's orchestra continued with the Samuel Barber composition, "Adagio for Strings." The winding sonorous melody was passed from one section to another and the maturity of tone on the part of the string players was evident at all times.

A. Roger Welton, first flutist of the orchestra, was featured in the "Bagatelle for Flute and Orchestra" by Victor Kolar. Mr. Welton, an instrumental music instructor in the Pontiac Public Schools, displayed great dexterity and musicianship along with a beautiful tone endowed with warmth.

Selections from "My Fair Lady" closed the concert with verve.

The orchestra and Mr. DiBlasi are to be congratulated for the memorable evening of music given to the community whose good fortune it is to have such a hard-working talented group in its midst.

To Host OES Unit

Mrs. William Hooper of Cooley Lake Road will entertain Group 4, Order of the Eastern Star, at a dessert luncheon Thursday at 12:30.

Preaches What She Practices

You're Right—Our Abby's a Dear

By MARJORIE EICHER
Women's Editor
The Pontiac Press

In a whirlwind visit to Pontiac that included luncheon, a press conference, a talk to teen-agers at Pontiac Northern High School, dinner at the Pontiac City Club and an 8 o'clock speech at Pontiac Central High School, the petite advice columnist left a trail of autographs and witticisms.

I was fortunate to be with her much of the day. She's one of those people who grows on you. The longer I was with her, the more I appreciated her.

Well organized, keen and to the point, she has a warmth and love of people that is genuine.

She's a small-city girl from the Middle West—Sioux City, Iowa, to be specific. Last night there were at least two former schoolmates of Abby's from Sioux City's Central High in the audience, Paul Metzler of Birmingham and Mrs. Clarence Brown of Orchard Lake.

They talked about the pictures in the school annual and how nobody has changed — much! Abby remembered Mr. Metzler as "Metz."

SHE'S GRACIOUS

Her graciousness with the teen-agers who mobbed her for autographs was cause for comment from the older generation.

In our getting-to-know-you session, Abby talked about her "wonderful husband," an inventive-minded man who "put pot roasts into orbit" when he created a pressure cooker that has become a household word.

My teen-agers thought she was pretty strict with her teen-agers. "Of course teen-agers should have cars," she said, "when they carry all-A report cards!" She agreed later that this view was probably a little unrealistic unless public transportation were easily accessible.

Her 18-year-old daughter Jeannie, a freshman at the University of Colorado in Boulder, is "majoring in boys and minoring in archeology," according to Abby. Her son is at prep school this year, which leaves the columnist more time to devote to her writing.

★ ★ ★

Asked about hobbies, she smiled her reply, "My writing is my hobby — my family is my career."

★ ★ ★

She told of the thousands of letters she receives each week, many of them from lonely people. It takes the efforts of eight secretaries and a corps of U.S. mailmen, but she answers every letter! The most provocative, of course are condensed for her daily column which is syndicated in over 500 newspapers throughout the world.

FOLLOWS HUBBY

Abby, who is an identical twin, is Mrs. Morton Phillips of San Francisco. She has a "Whither thou goest I go" attitude to the number one man in her life and suits her speaking engagements and column commitments to his needs.

Her office is in her home, and soon that will be moved south to Santa Barbara, Calif., because that's where her husband's business will take them. They have had a wonderful marriage, she said, for 22 years.

Pontiac extended a warm welcome to "Dear Abby" (center) Tuesday. Greeting her at lunch on behalf of The Pontiac Press were James Dickerson and Women's Editor Mrs. Marjorie Eicher. Autographs were in demand wherever Abby appeared.

Pontiac Woman's Club Meets

Hears Talk on Geography

Professor George Prophet of the geography department of Michigan State University gave a talk on "Geography in the News" at Monday's meeting of the Pontiac Woman's Club in Adah Shelly Library. The geography of Africa was covered.

After a report by Mrs. Hayden Henley on the recent Southeastern District Woman's Club Convention in Royal Oak, announcement was made of the Oakland County Federation meeting Nov. 4 at St. Philip's Church in Rochester.

Special projects committee members reported that funds from the recent card party were sufficient to continue support of club projects including Girls Town, nurses Scholarships, Girls Ranch and various local activities.

Mrs. H. N. Watson and Mrs. Walter Krause were appointed to a committee to assist with the Pontiac Centennial.

Mrs. Harvey Perry and Mrs. Daniel Murphy were guests.

Committee for the day was comprised of Mrs. I. M. Lewis, Mrs. Clarence Myers, Mrs. Mark Cheney, Mrs. Glenn Behler, Mrs. William L. Pfeiffer, Mrs. George Barnard, Mrs. Ferman Huston, Mrs. Clyde Anderson and Mrs. Harry Stowell.

Luncheon Next Wednesday

To Kick Off AFS Week

At a kickoff dessert luncheon Oct. 26 in the Bloomfield Hills home of Mrs. Arbie O. Thalacker, North Oakland County's branch of the American Field Service will initiate plans for participation in American Field Service Week in April.

Mrs. George W. Romney, honorary chairman of AFS Week, will outline plans for a festival North Oakland area members will stage on April 29. Proceeds will be used for scholarships for teen-age exchange students.

Smoker Fires Up Abby

It's a Burning Question

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: If you can help me, you're a genius. Mel is a wonderful husband but he smokes in bed. He's burned our blankets, sheets and even the floor.

ABBY

I've cut things out of the paper showing him where whole families were burned up by people smoking in bed, but he still does it. He'll get up to smoke and falls asleep smoking, so I wait till he's asleep and then I hide his cigarettes. He wakes up and begs for a cigarette, promising he won't fall asleep, but he always does.

I worry about the lives of our children and other people in this building. Can you or any of your readers help?

MEL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It would appear that your "wonderful husband" is not only selfish but too weak to break a habit which is endangering the lives of others. Ask a doctor to recommend some methods of curing a tobacco slave. Do it before the ashes he leaves are his own.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I heard that you wrote a book called "Dear Teen-Ager." Please send me the book and if it is any good I will send you a check.

B. S. S.

DEAR B. S. S.: Please send me the check and if it is any good I will send you the book.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday we were "prisoners" in our own home. Some people we know, terrible bores and freeloaders, called and asked if we planned to be home Sunday. I said we were going to be gone all day.

Come noon I saw them drive into our driveway, so I pulled down the shades and locked the doors. They kept driving past our house until 5 p.m. We didn't dare go out to enjoy our patio. My husband and I fought about this all day.

He said they knew we were home because they could see our car in the garage and it was childish not to go out and invite them in.

I said I had nothing to serve and refused to get trapped into entertaining. Who was right?

"PRISONER"

DEAR PRISONER: Your husband. You should have enjoyed your patio, allowed them to join you, and served nothing. And the next time they phoned, I'd have told them I was NOT entertaining, so please don't come.

DEAR ABBY: There is a girl in our school you might call a hit-and-run type. She likes to go after a boy who is going with another girl and break them up. Then she drops the boy like a hot potato and breaks up somebody else. Now this girl is after my boy friend. Should I bust her a good one in the mouth? She doesn't want anyone for herself, she just enjoys breaking people up.

MAD

DEAR MAD: Don't bust anyone in the mouth. If a hit-and-run flirt can break you up, it's a break for you. Let her have him.

★ ★ ★

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teen-agers Want To Know," send 25c and a large, self-addressed stamped envelope in care of The Pontiac Press.

Presbyterian Group Meets

The January - March Group of First Presbyterian Church were luncheon guests Tuesday of Mrs. John Main of South Pemberton Road, Bloomfield Hills. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Robert Will, Mrs. D. E. Rightmire and Mrs. E. R. Vogel.

Mrs. Lawrence McCann gave the devotional study, and Mrs. Philip Meacham reported on missionary education.

Mrs. Harry J. McGrath, will continue as chairman for the coming year, Mrs. Meacham was elected vice chairman; Mrs. Glen J. Dolan, secretary; and Mrs. T. C. T. McFetridge, treasurer.

Mrs. Carl A. Rehm was a guest.

Mrs. J. R. Peterson of West Walton Boulevard, Drayton Plains, will be the November hostess.

Thirty-one states and the District of Columbia have individual income taxes; 19 withhold all or part of the tax from wages and salaries. A 20th will begin to do so next year.

Ask Junior What Toy He'd Like

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—The best way to select a gift for children is to ask the children their choice, the director of Frankfurt University Clinic's psychiatric department suggests.

Dr. Gerhard Bosch says parents are to blame when their children take a toy to pieces.

"This is because the majority of today's toys just aren't toys any more," Bosch said.

TOO PERFECT

"Toys today are so perfect a clockwork automobile, for instance—that the child cannot play with it. He can only busy himself a little with it. At the most he can take it apart to see how it works."

"Then" Bosch said, "The parents spank junior although more often than not they're to blame. They buy things that please themselves."

"The fully automatic toy is in place only when the child understands something about it," Bosch's associate, Dr. Helmut Sennewald, said.

★ ★ ★

"To give a six-year-old an electric train is ridiculous," the child psychiatrist said.

Parents should bear in mind that most children always want things the kid next door has, the two said.

Also important, they said, is not to give too many gifts.

How to choose a toy?

"The best way is to ask the child himself," Bosch said.

Protective sunglasses are being developed for space travel that will save the retina from injury when the light intensity increases too quickly for the eye to react.

Marjorie Skaggs Repeats Nuptial Vows

The Rev. Wilbur Courter officiated at the double-ring nuptials of Marjorie Skaggs and Alan L. Getter Saturday evening in Covert Methodist Church, Waterford Township. Altar flowers were white chrysanthemums and gladioli.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Skaggs of Orchid Street, Waterford Township, and the Leo Getters of Manton.

White butterfly roses, gianellias and English violets rested on the prayer book held by the bride, gowned in white silk organza over taffeta. Medallions of Alencon lace re-embroidered with pearls and sequins enhanced the bouffant skirt, styled with bustle bow and cathedral train.

The bride's elbow-length veil of silk illusion was caught by a tiara of iridescent crystals and pearls.

and frosted grapes were arranged in a crescent for the honor attendant, with round bouquets for bridesmaid Eunice Collins of Keego Harbor and Vicky Smith of Waterford Township, junior attendant. They wore cerulean blue silk organza over silk taffeta, and crowns of pearls and tulle.

Highlights of the church reception was the lighting of an anniversary candle. Receiving guests, Mrs. Skaggs wore navy blue Chantilly-lace over taffeta. Mrs. Getter chose a blue suit of sheer wool. Both wore orchids.

After a honeymoon in the Upper Peninsula and Mackinac Island, the couple will be at home in Pontiac.

Ballerina Can Teach Us Lesson

BY ALICE HART
NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

Dame Margot Fonteyn is in the United States as guest artist with the Royal Ballet. Watching her as she danced the part of Princess Aurora in "The Sleeping Beauty," I marveled at the way she drifted across the stage, light as thistledown.

This is the result, of course, of years of concentrated study and constant exercise on her part. What looks so delightfully easy is achieved only by an enormous effort.

The life of a ballerina is a dedicated one. But Dame Margot, who is 41, can teach the American women who will see her dance one tremendously important lesson. She is an example of what the human body can be when it is treated with respect.

NO SAGS

A ballerina cannot allow herself sagging muscles, a drop seat, flabby arms or a comfortable little round stomach. The muscles must provide an instant response.

What this celebrated dancer has accomplished on one plane, any woman can accomplish on another. Through spot exercises and self-discipline, she can keep a firm and beautiful body for as long as she's willing to work at being handsome.

Launder Cashmere, Suggest Experts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cashmere experts recommend washing the fiber instead of dry cleaning because the gentle agitation in laundering renews the softness and keeps the sweater fluffy.

Here's Some Sewing Shortcuts to Help Mom

AP NEWSFEATURES

But it's never more important than when they're readying their youngsters to go back to school.

Suddenly they discover Johnny has outgrown all his jeans, and by the time they have new ones made, there's no time left even to put in a fastener.

Or Susie has decided that the dresses Mom made for her last year just weren't stylish enough.

What to do? For Johnny clip in snap fasteners, available at notions counters, that require no sewing. They hold tightly enough that if Johnny just loves to wrestle, they'll still hold.

For Susie, trim her dresses with braid and buttons that you match up with the pattern when you buy it.

Braids may be simple rickrack — an old favorite with renewed life in a wide range of colors — or as elaborate as wide, silver or gold thread combined with color can make it.

BUTTONS FOR ALL

Buttons are equally suited for any and all types of uses and clothes. They may be simply utilitarian, to close a boy's shirt or trousers — or purely decorative, to ornament a little girl's dress. They come in every color you might imagine — in lovely shapes and designs, plain or studded with imitation gems.

Embroidery — with braid, by hand, or on the machine — is very popular. Teenagers like it on jumpers, skirts or blouses.

The National Notions Assn. points out that these days there are all kinds of important new devices to be found on the notions counter, such as pinking shears for the lefthanded.

NO EXCUSE

Or the completely mechanized homesewer. It can pick up a palm size electric scissors that will zoom through her cutting as her electric machine does through her sewing. Or you can mend and decorate in one easy operation with iron-on patches in pretty designs and colors.

★ ★ ★

For the 60 million home sewers in the country, there are more and more shortcuts. The smart mother will take advantage of them as another school year approaches.

Women in Slacks – Look Behind You

By DOROTHY ROE

This has been the theme of cartoonists and satirists for lo, these many years, ever since Marlene Dietrich launched American women on a slacks-happy era.

Many were the sins committed in the name of fashion in the early days of feminine in slacks, when the female form often looked far from divine. Big or little, fat or thin, women took to slacks with happy abandon, ignoring rear views that pained their public.

"POTATO BAG"

These first bifurcated garments usually sagged in the seat, bagged at the knees and gave the wearer the general appearance of a bag of potatoes.

After 20 years and much research, slacks have become pants, carefully designed for figure flattery, slim, tapered and without a bag or bulge in a carload.

One of the new champions of pants for every woman is Jack Winter of Milwaukee, who started turning out a precisely engineered kind of pants some five years ago and now has three factories, with a fourth now in prospect, located in Milwaukee, Marianna, Ark., and Columbus, Wis., plus showrooms in New York.

Winter says all women can wear pants sucessfully, if they are carefully fitted. He uses supple, non-bulky fabrics, goes in for expert tailoring and believes all women's pants should be sleek and smooth.

1. Always try on pants before buying, and look at them fore and aft, in a rear-view mirror. If they fit, they must follow the natural lines of the body, with no bulges, bags or straining seams.

2. If you want to be sure of a perfect fit, always remove your girdle before trying on pants.

3. If you have a bulge in front, choose pants with a little fullness at either side. This may be achieved by darts or pleats. Winter uses a belt that goes through a two-inch loop concealing a dart on each side. This allows ease through the middle, without apparent bulk.

4. If the pants fit through the hips and stomach, don't worry about waistline adjustment. This is easy to do by taking in or letting out the center back seam.

5. Only women with slim, boyish figures should wear the boy-style pants, which fit tight across the stomach, with no extra fullness. These hang slim and straight, emphasizing long legs.

6. Designed for women of average figure are fly-front pants with side slash pockets, concealing a slight gore at each side.

PANTS FOR ALL

Pants are made for all figures these days — the important point is to be sure you choose the proper style, and that it is perfectly fitted.

Also remember that pants are made for different occasions—some for sports, some for at-home wear—and pick the right style for the right time and place.

Say No With an Explanation to Children

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

The doll in the store window still wore its gay little skirt and black velvet jacket. Suddenly, in the midst of her longing admiration, Lee saw that its price tag now read $1.59.

So she asked for it again. Rushing into the store next door where her mother was talking to the dry cleaner, she cried, "Mama, come and see! That doll doesn't cost $2.98 any more. It only costs $1.59! Can I have her now?"

"No!" retorted her mother sharply. "You can't have her. Do you think money grows on trees? You've got more dolls now that you know what to do with."

She did not reproach Lee for requesting the doll because she is a mean person. Like others among us, she reproached Lee because refusing anyone's demands on her always makes her uncomfortable.

Reared to believe that it is "loving" to give anything that is asked of her, Lee's mother has to respond to any demand she cannot grant with self-reproach and reproach of the other fellow.

But at 8 years of age, Lee doesn't understand this. All that she understands is that asking for things always ends in hurt.

For if we grow up with parents who reproach us for asking for things, we gradually learn to stop asking for things. It's how we avoid the hurt of reproach. After a while we may even cease to know when we want things.

A kind of hopeless inertia settles over us so that we can no longer vividly feel a wish to take a vacation, to buy a frivolous hat, to repaper the dining room.

We notice the efficient new can opener in our neighbor's kitchen and admire our sister-in-law's new fall coat—but the idea that these desirable things could be possessed by us never occurs to us.

★ ★ ★

Our childhood's reproaches for asking have done their crippling work. We have lost the ability to want.

★ ★ ★

Of course we find nice-sounding reasons to justify our inertia. Joan needs shoes—we can wait till next year—the bus will be too crowded to go downtown this afternoon. But we're only fooling ourselves.

The truth is, we can't think, "I want that can opener"—and act on our wish. We are too used to squashing our wishes to be able to act on them.

HAIR CARE EQUIPMENT

So many new items on the market . . . how does the perplexed woman know which to buy?

Well, it depends somewhat on the results you hope to obtain. If your hair is hard to curl, set it in large loose curls with hair clips, or set it with large rollers.

Use smaller pin curls and smaller rollers for hard to curl hair. The new magnetic roller are fine for natural curly hair or a new permanent. However, you will want to stick with the brush rollers if hair is harder to curl.

The French roll has it's own brush roller base to help you make a neat job. Any of these aids will help you to hold your shampoo and set in place until your next appointment.

New Baby on Way?

★ ★ ★

Pleasant decorations are usually on the must list in furnishing baby's room but, most important, are those items which contribute to the child's safety and development.

Money should not be spared, for instance, when purchasing a mattress for the little one. Baby's bedding should be firm enough to provide support for a growing body with just enough buoyancy to give comfort to the little one who will spend a great deal of his early life in bed. Hand-me-down cribs often do for new additions to the family, but brand new bedding can't be duplicated.

Your "self image" is the picture you have of yourself—the way you think you look, and the idea of the sort of person you are. Our self image is influenced or created in us by those who were important to us in early youth.

Image Not Always True

It's Good to Know Thyself

I always have thought, and have written in this column many times, that a woman is apt to live up to the picture she has of herself. If she thinks of herself as attractive or as unattractive, it affects her in many ways.

The picture she holds in her mind influences the way she carries her head, the way she walks, her mannerisms, her facial expression and therefore her facial contour, and the clothes she buys.

Of course it also affects her personality drastically. If she feels unattractive, she may be selfconscious and retiring. If she feels attractive, she is likely to be more outgoing and have selfconfidence which puts her at ease and makes it possible for her to forget herself.

Psychologists and psychiatrists now speak of the "self image" or the picture a person has of himself. Today these self images are felt to be the key to many emotional problems and conflicts in human relationships.

Our self image is influenced or created in us by those who were important to us in early youth.

We usually get these from the remarks and attitudes of our parents when we are children or very young people. Sometimes the self image is influenced most by a favorite relative or teacher. At any rate, our self image has a terrific effect on the way we look and the way we act.

Most of us have a physical self image, or a definite picture of the way we think we look, and also a mental self image, or a definite idea of the sort of person we are and what we are like. Sometimes the self image we have is not at all like we really are.

Any saleslady will tell you how very wrong the self images of many women are. If a woman thinks of herself as very young she may buy clothes which would look well only on a slim 20.

However, this is much better than having an unattractive self image. If a woman thinks of herself as unattractive because of some defect in beauty, she may actually become unattractive in appearance.

In order to get a true physical image of yourself, look in a full length mirror and look at yourself sideview and backview as well as front view. After that, go after any defects so that your self image is true and attractive and therefore does not lead you into mistakes.

For Smaller Room

A small room may seem spacious if one color family is used on the walls, woodwork, floor and the largest pieces of furniture. Home economists suggest that curtains to match the wall also make the room seem larger.

Couple United in Presbyterian Rite

A dinner-reception in Old Mill Tavern Hotel, Waterford, followed the afternoon vows of Charlene Maybelle Koehler and Charles E. Spurgeon, repeated to the Rev. Roy F. Lambert Saturday in Lakeland United Presbyterian Church, Waterford.

The Carl C. Koehlers of Waterford Hill Terrace, Waterford, are parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Trula Woods of Knoxville, Tenn., and Clyde Spurgeon of Stanley Avenue.

The bridal gown of white silk tissue taffeta was styled with a yoke of Alencon lace and a Sabrina neckline. Medallions of Alencon lace were set into the full skirt which swept into a chapel train.

On the esquire side were Carl R. Koehler, best man, and ushers Richard and Allan Fisher, all of Waterford, with David Spurgeon of Pontiac.

Leaving for a southern honeymoon, the new Mrs. Spurgeon donned a costume suit of gray Italian wool knit with black accessories. The couple will live on Percy King Court, Waterford.

College Just for Rich? Let's Consider 'Extras'

By FAYE HENLE

(NEA) — It's an old saying: you are sending your youngster to college because you went — or because you didn't go.

Is college for the rich only? From the size of current tuition bills, this is what one might believe. And, how much additional will all the extras cost?

If this were 1952-53, I could give you these answers with authority down to the last penny. Based upon income and costs during those years, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in 1958 issued a study called "Costs of Attending College."

In order to answer in terms of 1960 dollars, I've had to take the government figures and adjust. I'm assuming our incomes have risen at about 3 per cent annually for the past seven years. Working with the Consumer Price Index, I've added 11.5 per cent to the cost of specific items. As a rough guide:

Somewhat over 80 per cent of the youngsters who will enter college this fall will come from families who don't earn as much as $12,200 a year. Somewhat over 42 per cent will come from families whose annual incomes range between $3,660 and $7,320, around 20 per cent from families making between $7,320 and $11,000 and around 19 per cent from families with annual incomes under $3,660.

If your youngster is destined for a private college, the mean expenditure for extras, over and above tuition, totals $1,377; at a public institution, $1,122.

Food is the biggest single expense, comes to $450 at a private college, $395 at a public one. The charge in some institutions is much steeper.

You may hear how hard it is to pay for books and supplies, but this frankly amazed me. The cost for these at both types of institutions is just about equal — $59 to $60. But $88.50 for students at public colleges and $93.50 for those at private schools was frittered away at the snack bar and for cigarettes.

Who was it that ever started that myth about "plain living" at college? The mean expenditure for recreation and entertainment at public institutions on this budget absorbs $121, at private colleges $133.

Travel between home and college is a factor, too. It is figured at $108 for a student attending a private college, $68 for one at a public school.

Forecast 5 Women to 2 Men

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — A couple of Houston doctors believe that the day will come when there will be five women to every two men.

The two put in a couple of comforting "ifs," however—if, the standards of living today continue, and if the human life expectancy hits 100 years.

The doctors, in a recent medical publication, pointed out that as the life expectancy gets longer, there are fewer and fewer men around.

"It's a man's job in most instances to keep things together, both at home and at his job," Dr. Taylor said. "He generally bears the financial responsibility for keeping the home running and sending the kids to school."

A good deal of the blame, said Dr. Taylor, can be put on feminine shoulders. He said too often a woman's "ambition will drive a man to his grave."

But on the other hand, he said, man's life expectancy is shorter also because he doesn't take care of himself as a woman does.

"Men don't go to the doctor's office for check-ups as often and they don't follow doctor's orders when they do," he said. "And a man doesn't pay as much attention to his diet as a woman does."

Dr. Robert Norris, a gynecologist and co-author of the medical publication, stated flatly that "the female definitely is the stronger sex."

"She can withstand many things that a man cannot," Dr. Norris said. "There is a theory that female hormones are probably a deterrent factor in coronary cases."

He said that four times as many men have heart trouble as women, and that there definitely is more lung cancer in men than women.

"But," observed Dr. Norris, "we never know how these figures are going to turn out for sure. Maybe it won't be five women to every two men. Maybe it will be four women to every two."

Mrs. Richard Dawson will receive her College Collation and green beanie at Grand Rapids Oct. 30.

Grandmothers who proudly bestow hand-crocheted mats on newly married granddaughters have told me their gifts are not always appreciated.

Now, I'll grant that young homemakers rarely use antimacassars, crocheted or embroidered. But their general enthusiasm for informal early American furnishings suggests more suitable crocheted gifts.

Stiffly starched white crocheted place mats on a polished table are charming. They are also more distinctive than machine-made copies or printed plastic.

FRAME BOUQUET

Doilies with stand-up, fluted edges placed under frilly shaded lamps may not "send" the youthful housekeeper. But let her try that same doily under a low bowl filled with a delicate bouquet and see what a pretty frame it makes.

One reason I was slow about using mats given to me when I was first married was that I didn't know how to wash and starch them. For the benefit of others who might need similar advice, this is how an expert instructed me.

A homemade stretcher simplifies the finishing of laundered place mats. To make one take a piece of ¾-inch plywood slightly larger than the mat.

Stretch a mat flat on the board and draw an outline, indicating with X's each loop of the mat. Drive one-inch rustproof nails about ½ inch into board on each X. As many as eight to 10 place mats can be stretched at one time.

FAN HELPS

Drying of mats is speeded by an electric fan or by cutting out center of board, to allow for better circulation of air.

If you don't want to make the stretcher, draw an outline of mat on a piece of paper.

Before laundering remove stains. White mats or yellowed mats may be bleached. Wash by hand in warm suds without rubbing or wringing. Rinse several times, squeezing out excess water.

Most crocheted mats look their best if stiffly starched. To starch, prepare an extra heavy solution of a glossy starch, mixing until smooth a half-cup starch and one cup cold water. Add one quart of rapidly boiling water, stirring constantly. Cover hot starch and cool just enough to handle.

To keep starched pieces from sticking to paper pattern outline or stretcher, cover with waxed paper.

If the paper pattern is used, place on well-padded surface, pin in place with rust-proof blocking pins.

If there are stand-up parts to a doily, lift, separate and shape parts around balls of crushed tissue paper when almost dry. Remove tissue paper and mold the piece around your fingers as desired.

If you iron to achieve a smooth shiny finish or to flatten the mat, sponge starched surface very lightly and press. Be careful not to catch point of iron in the crocheted stitches.

Good Grooming Shows

Key to Growing Old Gracefully

How can older women make the most of their looks? How can old age be postponed? How can it be enjoyed? These questions bother women who want to keep youthful mentally and physically, even though the calendar is against postponing the inevitable.

Many women manage to keep youthful, maintaining surprising vigor into the very late years. What is their secret? On the other hand, some women look older than their years. Why?

The secret of getting the most out of your age seems to lie in many things. But the formula boils down to:

1. Keep active at something you like.

2. Take the best possible care of your skin, hair and figure.

3. Get a moderate amount of exercise.

KEEPS ON MOVE

One 92-year-old woman attributed her longevity and spryness to the fact that she never got bored. She visits her three children and grandchildren regularly.

"When I get restless or feel I am beginning to get on their nerves, I move on," she says. "I go home and see my neighbors for a while, then I am off to visit another of my children's homes."

A 70-year-old woman is a playground recreation teacher all the year round. Says she: "The only time I am lonesome is when I am on vacation. I miss the children, their mothers, the fun and gab connected with the group. It keeps me young."

"I always wanted to travel," she says, "and my husband made me agree that I would, even if he weren't around to enjoy it with me. It has helped me forget."

EAT WELL

Once the skin has begun to wrinkle there is not much you can do except use nourishing creams at night, and eat well. If the skin is just beginning to line, you may be able to postpone the inevitable by eating foods that nourish skin and hair. Career women and other women who live alone are likely to feel it is a waste to cook vegetables for one person.

★ ★ ★

They may settle for a sandwich for the main meal, whereas to maintain the health of vital attributes to beauty such vitamin A vegetables as sweet potatoes, beet greens, spinach and broccoli are essential to the diet. A little of this each day should keep one ahead of Father Time, as the body stores this vitamin.

Foil neck lines and crows-feet around the eyes at once by using a good cream in addition to eating proper foods.

GRAY HAIR CARE

An older woman's hair should be well groomed and gray hair should be coiffed properly to be charming. Some older women like to dye their hair, having begun that practice when the hair turned gray. There is no reason why they shouldn't if they can afford the upkeep. Gray hair is beautiful though, and many older women learn to appreciate it.

Older women should learn to eat the right foods, but not overeat to keep their figures well proportioned. Docotrs are only too happy to suggest a good diet for your calorie requirments.

And when it comes to makeup, too little is better than too much. Put some color in your cheeks and at your lips, two places where it is necessary. Emphasize features that need to be played up or down. Wear clothes that are more conservative than flamboyant, but not utterly old-ladyish.

Stroke Upward

(NEA) — When you cream your face at night, be sure to apply it with light, upward strokes. If you pull downward as you cream, you're dragging facial muscles down and defeating the very purpose for which you're using the cream.

If you're uncertain about the method, have a professional facial just once and watch each step. This will provide you with enough clues.

Later Than We Think . . Don't Say Manana

By RUTH MILLETT

"I never saw so many lone women in my life," said a husband who recently returned from a trip to Europe with his wife. "I kept thinking how glad I was that my wife and I were enjoying our trip together."

A few days after hearing that remark I picked up a small volume of short essays by J. P. McEvoy, "Charlie Would Have Loved This"—the title coming from the first article in the collection.

It's just a little story about an elderly widow trying to be a good sport and enjoy a tourist's party on the beach at Waikiki—a place she and Charlie (who was her husband) used to talk about visiting "someday."

But somehow they never got around to making the trip. Whenever Charlie got a little money ahead he bought a few more acres to add to his farm.

And then one day Charlie was gone and his lonely widow set out to take the trip the two of them were always planning to take together—someday.

"Charlie would have loved this" the widow, seeing the sights alone, would say wistfully every now and then. And that's about all there was to the story.

But it's a story a lot of middle-aged couples ought to read . . . those couples who had to put off doing a lot of things together when their children were small and somehow fell into the habit of putting off the realization of their own dreams.

Time has a way of passing quickly after a couple reaches the middle years and there is not as much time as they think for doing things together, later.

What they really want to share—they had better not put off sharing.

There's a world of difference between a wife's being able to turn to her husband to say, "Look Charlie . . ." and a widow's saying wistfully, "Charlie would have loved this . . ."

Beneath It All

(UPI) — Underpinnings for trouser fashions come from an underwear firm that has developed a new process of full-fashioned knitting.

The process makes it possible to produce a skin-smooth pant in three lengths. For wear under shorts and jamaicas, there's the brief. For perfectly smooth fit under bermudas and brief skirts, there's the trunk model. And the medium tight model underlines, without a wrinkle, stretch pants, toreadors and culottes.

Treat Them Nightly

Our Hands Suffer Daily

(NEA) To many women, a weekly manicure is the beginning and end of hand care. It isn't, of course, and women who persist in this attitude will eventually find themselves with rough and aging hands.

For the truth is that your hands take a good deal of punishment whether your job is at home or in an office. Either way, they need tender treatment each night. They should be creamed as faithfully as you cream your face and neck. And while you're about it, don't neglect your elbows.

Many a woman who doesn't give her elbows a thought for weeks gets a shock when she sees herself in a sleeveless evening gown. Hair, dress, skin all look perfect. But there are those nasty little dark patches that are the elbows.

In giving yourself a manicure, there are some basics to remember. Don't file your nails straight down the sides. This only weakens them. If you have a professional manicure and the manicurist does this, stop her. Make her file them into gentle ovals.

CUT THE CLAWS

Remember that a medium length is a far prettier and more feminine length for nails than the long one. Claws never rate compliments. And they hint that they're fairly useless since who can do housework or type with long, curving nails?

★ ★ ★

By the same token, deep red or purplish shades are anything but attractive in nail polish. Pick whatever tint you like but keep it soft and pretty.

Pick a hand lotion that's rich in lanolin if you really want results. And really work it into your skin each time you use it.

Your Discards Will Aid Needy

Mission Group Seeks Goods for Shipment to Southwest and Abroad

Discarded clothing, bedding, furniture and other household appliances around your home needn't sit idle any longer. They can be used by the Pontiac Missionaides, 1130 Myrtle St., Waterford Township.

From the organization's headquarters the material will be shipped to the needy around the world, according to Mrs. Angus McDonald, president, and Mrs. Gertrude Anderson, resident secretary.

Some may be destined for migrant laborers in the Southwest. The Rev. James A. Donnelly, C.S.C., has made a plea along with the organization here for the unwanted materials.

Fr. Donnelly said he has engaged the services of the local United Trucking Service to transport free of charge any of the items persons would like to earmark for his area. His parish is the Lady of Sorrows Chruch in Austin, Tex.

Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Anderson said those wishing to donate discards need only get in touch with them.

Here's a Ruling That Could Set Ol' Miss Reeling

JACKSON (UPI) — It is all right to drink liquor in dry Mississippi so long as you don't possess the stuff, the State Supreme Court ruled Monday.

The high court came to the aid of J. T. Hutson who gave away some valuable property while too drunk to know what he was doing. When he tried to recover the property a lower court turned him down because, it said, he was obviously violating Mississippi's state-wide prohibiton law aigainst possession of liquor.

The Supreme Court ruled that the law prohibits only possession of whisky. There is no law against drinking it.

The high court ordered a new trial of Hutson's case and said that even if he were drinking his own whisky "simple justice demands that such a victim have a remedy."

Detroit Based Firms Tell Sales, Earnings

DETROIT (AP) — Three Detroit based companies have made financial reports.

Parke, Davis & Co. reported Monday record sales and net earnings for the first nine months of 1960. The drug firm reported sales of $151,250,936 for the first nine months of 1960, compared to $141,639,979 for the same 1959 period. It reported net earnings of $22,506,176 for the period this year, compared with $22,214,780 in the same period last year.

Detroit Edison reported Monday net earnings of $36,816431 for the 12 months ending Sept. 30. This equaled $1.57 per share. This compared with $33,622,935 or $2.36 a share for the previous fiscal year.

Dura Corp. said Monday sales for the fiscal year ending July 31 totaled $59,482,430 and earnings totaled $1,375,073. This compared with $50,232,730 and $1,927,694 for the previous year.

Crest Endorsement Okay, Says Dentist

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The American Dental Association's unprecedented endorsement of a particular brand of toothpaste has produced a particular brand of trouble: Internal dissension.

But ADA President Paul H. Jesserich says recognition of Crest toothpaste as "an effective decay preventive agent" was necessary and wise.

Dr. Jesserich, dean of he University of Michigan Dental School, told the ADA House of Delegates:

"I am quick to agree that not all of the publicity was desirable or favorable, but all of the publicity was not within the control of the association. On the benefit side of the ledger, the announcement made the public conscious that there was a measure for the falsity of claims on decay preventing that most companies did in fact make false misleading claims."

Jesserich said any such report "which did not identify the specific product as Crest would have been relatively meaningless and subject to abuse by firms which could not market an effective product."

Famed Cowboy Rides on Cars, Not Horses

LANDER, Wyo (UPI) — Stub Farlow was probably one of the most famous cowboys in the world although most people outside Wyoming have never heard his name.

Practically everyone has seen his picture, though. Stub, bronc buster, rodeo rider, law officer, friend of governors and leading citizen of Fremont County, Wyoming, is the cowboy depicted on the Wyoming license plate.

Since 1936, when the Wyoming plate first carried the famous design of the cowboy on the bucking horses, nearly two million plates have been stamped out.

The cowboy also has been used in other ways to designate the state until the silhouetted rider forelock blowing in the wind, hat triumphantly aloft over a sunfishing bronc, has become synonymous with Wyoming.

The late Lester Hunt, former Wyoming governor and senator, who got the idea for the cowboy on the license plate, called Stub "the most typical cowboy I ever knew."

Grandson of a full-blooded Sioux, son of an adventurous cowhand who pioneered in Fremont County, Stub was a symbol of the old Wyoming of wide open spaces and high spirits.

He was born at Landey Feb. 2, 1886, and practically grew up on a horse.

At 15 he started riding in rodeos and during one six-season stretch he used to say, "never got bucked off."

Stub's maternal grandfather was a Frenchman named Jules Lamoreaux, who went west over the Overland Trail by ox team to Nebraska, where he married a Sioux Indian girl named Woman Dress, a sister of Chief Gall, war chief of the Custer Massacre.

Stub's grandparents pioneered in Fort Laramie, Wyo., in 1865, then migrated to South Pass, Wyo., at one point averting an Indian attack because his Sioux mother jumped out of the covered wagon and waved an Indian blanket at a party of marauding Sioux.

His father was born in Iowa, ran away from home and headed west when he was 16. He became a rancher in Fremont County and in later life was a state representative.

Stub died at 67 on July 24, 1953, while serving as Fremont County undersheriff, but he had already gained immortality.

Arms Talks in Warsaw Last for Hours

State Chamber Drives for Sales Tax Hike

LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce Tuesday launched a drive to gain voter approval of the one-cent sales tax increase proposal on the Nov. 8 ballot.

★ ★ ★

"If we do not approve this one cent increase then the alternative is a state income tax," said Harry R. Hall, executive vice president of the chamber.

He said voters must be "made aware that the state needs more revenue to meet its increasing responsibilities."

Hall said the state chamber was making an eight-page brochure which he said thoroughly discusses all angles of the ballot proposition available for distribution by interested groups.

Democrats have generally opposed the sales tax increase proposal, while Republicans have generally backed it.

Both Parties Unsure of Texas Balloting

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Texas Democrats and Republicans, both claiming their national tickets are leading the state in voter preference, agree that neither side has the election in the bag.

Republican leaders said a poll by a Texas firm showed Vice-President Richard M. Nixon was favored by 44 per cent of the voters with 39 per cent leaning to Sen. John F. Kennedy and 17 per cent undecided.

The Democrats, pointing to a poll by a New York firm, said 46 per cent of the voters are for Kennedy, 39 per cent for Nixon and 15 per cent undecided.

Both parties claimed gains over earlier polls.

Boston Herald Endorses Nixon for President

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Herald, which supported President Eisenhower in the 1952 and 1956 presidential elections, Tuesday endorsed Vice President Richard M. Nixon for president.

The Herald, which describes itself as independent Republican, said its decision to support Nixon "has not been easy."

"Two years ago we urged Mr. Kennedy for re-election as senator," the Herald said in an editorial. "He has many attractive qualities.

"But Mr. Nixon outweighs him in experience, sensitivity for official relationships, concern for the freedom of choice of the individual, conservatism in fiscal matters and sound basing in economics and foreign affairs."

Jet on Training Flight Crashes, Killing 7

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. (AP)—A jet tanker, on a night training mission crashed on a marshy shore near here Wednesday night, carrying seven crewmen to their deaths.

Witnesses said the six-engine KB50-J tanker caught fire almost immediately after takeoff from Langley and was enveloped in a sheet of white flame when it came down with a roar that shook houses miles away.

Th giant tanker was attached to the 427th Air Refueling Squadron, 450th Air Refueling Wing, of the Tactical Air Command.

Identities of those who died were withheld by the Air Force pending notification of next-of-kin.

Montmartre Quarter Protects Its History

WASHINGTON — Montmartre, the paradise of bohemians and impecunious artists, has become a kind of "national park" in the modedrn city of Paris.

The city government has set up a special committee to protect the quarter made famous by Toulouse-Lautrec, Renoir, Utrillo and Picasso.

Old houses, monuments, and streets will be restored. New buildings must conform to the original style of the quarter.

The flowering of Montmartre from a once disreputable village into a shrine is a Cinderella story with touches of irony. It is directly due to the fact that almost nobody wanted to live there a century ago.

PARISIANS HATED CLIMB

In the 19th century the booming city of Paris spread across the Ile de France, the National Geographic Society says. But the village on the hill known as the Butte Montmartre did not profit from the boom, because most people refused to climb up to it from Paris.

Montmartre's sole virtue, apparently, was that it got lots of wind. Millers found it an ideal spot. One of the old mills, the Moulin de la Galette (Pancake Windmill), is still a prominent landmark.

Gradually the area became a hangout for apaches, or bandits, and acquired an unsavory reputation. Artists, traditionally destitute, also took up residence there. Rents were cheap, and the painters couldn't afford to be fussy about the climb or the bad reputation of their neighbors.

Once the trend was established, painters from all over the world driftedd to Montmartre. Degas, Van Gogh, Corot, Renoir and others settled on the Butte and on the slope going down toward the center of Paris.

In the 1880s and 1890s, they flocked to the Moulin Rouge (Red Windmill), which had been converted into a cabaret. Many were attracted by the stunning posters made by Toulouse-Lautrec, a stunted nobleman who sat morosely hour after hour in the Moulin Rouge garden.

★ ★ ★

The old Moulin Rouge burned down shortly before World War I. A new artistic generation, with such stellar names as Picasso and Utrillo, arose to carry on the Montmartre tradition.

Perhaps nowhere in the world is there an atmosphere quite like that of Montmartre.

It is as if the ordinary things of everyday life were magically transfigured into objects of beauty. A walk through Montmartre is a walk through a living painting. Everywhere one sees artists, each trying in his own way to catch on canvas a little of the ethereal yet homespun personality that is Montmartre.

But Hayden, Stone & Co. Says Caution Is Word Until Election

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hayden, Stone & Co. says that the performance of recent months suggests that the market may double-cross the pessimists by advancing against the bearish news background just as it double-crossed the optimists last January by declining when the news was pretty favorable.

However, until the economic picture improves, the presidential election has taken place, and the market demonstrates its ability to hold above the recent low area of 565-575 in the Dow Jones Industrial Average, caution should be the watchword and selective purchases the key to success, the firm says.

Hayden, Stone feels it unlikely, however, that any extension of the pre-election recovery will carry the industrials very much above 600 at the moment.

The Dow theory trader says the current upmove has all the earmarks of an importance advance ahead as investment buying leads the way while the public sits on the sidelines. He says to be patient, diversified, fully invested, use this area to buy, and expect a better market from here on well into 1961.

L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. says it would be logical to expect a testing of the old lows sooner or later, but in this testing he would expect more new lows in the electronics and science stocks than in the oils. Hooper also suspects that the motors may have established some fairly solid lows.

Gas Lighting Fashionable Once Again

Richmond's last gas street light was extinguished when World War II blackouts became necessary — but they are coming back.

Fifty antique lights which once lit the streets of Baltimore will be used in courtyards of a new two million dollar apartment house here.

Officials of the Commonwealth Natural Gas Co. says Dallas has 21,000 in use, Phoenix 6,000; Kansas City 10,000; Los Angeles 20,000; Cleveland 4,000 and Shreveport, La. 46,000.

Most children have their complete set of baby teeth sometime between the ages of two and three years.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials for normal regularity.

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge.

Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs cramp and gripe the entire system. Of all laxatives, only new COLONAID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

(1) COLONAID moisturizes dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONAID'S unequalled rebulking action helps restore flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONAID acts gently, on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon.

COLONAID relieves even chronic constipation overnight. Is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. And COLONAID won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get COLONAID today! INTRODUCTORY SIZE 43c.

Your Discards Will Aid Needy

"Mission Group Seeks Goods for Shipment to Southwest and Abroad

Discarded clothing, bedding, furniture and other household appliances around your home needn't sit idle any longer. They can be used by the Pontiac Missionaires, 1150 Myrtle St., Waterford Township.

From the organization's headquarters the material will be shipped to the needy around the world, according to Mrs. Angus McDonald, president, and Mrs. Gertrude Anderson, resident secretary.

Some may be destined for migrant laborers in the Southwest. The Rev. James A. Donnelly, C.S.C., has made a plea along with the organization here for the unwanted materials.

Fr. Donnelly said he has engaged the services of the local United Trucking Service to transport free of charge any of the items persons would like to earmark for his area. His parish is the Lady of Sorrows Chruch in Austin, Tex.

Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Anderson said those wishing to donate discards need only get in touch with them.

Here's a Ruling That Could Set Ol' Miss Reeling

JACKSON (UPI) — It is all right to drink liquor in dry Mississippi so long as you don't possess the stuff, the State Supreme Court ruled Monday.

The high court came to the aid of J. F. Hutson who gave away some valuable property while too drunk to know what he was doing. When he tried to recover the property a lower court turned him down because, it said, he was obviously violating Mississippi's state-wide prohibiton law against possession of liquor.

The Supreme Court ruled that the law prohibits only possession of whisky. There is no law against drinking it.

The high court ordered a new trial of Hutson's case and said that even if he were drinking his own whisky "simple justice demands that such a victim have a remedy."

Detroit Based Firms Tell Sales, Earnings

DETROIT (AP) — Three Detroit based companies have made financial reports.

Parke, Davis & Co. reported Monday record sales and net earnings for the first nine months of 1960. The drug firm reported sales of $151,250,936 for the first nine months of 1960, compared to $141,639,979 for the same 1959 period. It reported net earnings of $22,506,176 for the period this year, compared with $22,214,780 in the same period last year.

Detroit Edison reported Monday net earnings of $36,816,431 for the 12 months ending Sept. 30. This equaled $1.57 per share. This compared with $33,622,935 or $2.36 a share for the previous fiscal year.

Dura Corp. said Monday sales for the fiscal year ending July 31 totaled $59,482,430 and earnings totaled $1,375,073. This compared with $50,232,730 and $1,927,694 for the previous year.

Crest Endorsement Okay, Says Dentist

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The American Dental Association's unprecedented endorsement of a particular brand of toothpaste has produced a particular brand of trouble: Internal dissension.

But ADA President Paul H. Jeserich says recognition of Crest toothpaste as "an effective decay preventive agent" was necessary and wise.

Dr. Jeserich, dean of he University of Michigan Dental School, told the ADA House of Delegates:

"I am quick to agree that not all of the publicity was desirable or favorable, but all of the publicity was not within the control of the association. On the benefit side of the ledger, the announcement made the public conscious that there was a measure for the falsity of claims on decay prevention that most companies did in fact make false misleading claims."

Jeserich said any such report "which did not identify the specific product as Crest would have been relatively meaningless and subject to abuse by firms which could not market an effective product."

Famed Cowboy Rides on Cars, Not Horses

LANDER, Wyo. (UPI) — Stub Farlow was probably one of the most famous cowboys in the world although most people outside Wyoming have never heard his name.

Practically everyone has seen his picture, though. Stub, bronc buster, rodeo rider, law officer, friend of governors and leading citizen of Fremont County, Wyoming, is the cowboy depicted on the Wyoming license plate.

Since 1936, when the Wyoming plate first carried the famous design of the cowboy on the bucking horses, nearly two million plates have been stamped out.

The cowboy also has been used in other ways to designate the state until the silhouetted rider forelock blowing in the wind, hat triumphantly aloft over a sunfishing bronc, has become synonymous with Wyoming.

The late Lester Hunt, former Wyoming governor and senator, who got the idea for the cowboy on the license plate, called Stub "the most typical cowboy I ever knew."

Grandson of a full-blooded Sioux, son of an adventurous cowhand who pioneered in Fremont County, Stub was a symbol of the old Wyoming of wide open spaces and high spirits.

He was born at Lander Feb. 2, 1886, and practically grew up on a horse.

At 15 he started riding in rodeos and during one six-season stretch he used to say, "never got bucked off."

Stub's maternal grandfather was a Frenchman named Jules Lamoreaux, who went west over the Overland Trail by ox team to Nebraska, where he married a Sioux Indian girl named Woman Dress, a sister of Chief Gall, war chief of the Custer Massacre.

Stub's grandparents pioneered in Fort Laramie, Wyo. in 1865, then migrated to South Pass, Wyo., at one point averting an Indian attack because his Sioux mother jumped out of the covered wagon and waved an Indian blanket at a party of marauding Sioux.

His father was born in Iowa, ran away from home and headed west when he was 16. He became a rancher in Fremont County and in later life was a state representative.

Stub died at 67 on July 24, 1953, while serving as Fremont County undersheriff, but he had already gained immortality.

State Chamber Drives for Sales Tax Hike

LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce Tuesday launched a drive to gain voter approval of the one-cent sales tax increase proposal on the Nov. 8 ballot.

★ ★ ★

"If we do not approve this one cent increase then the alternative is a state income tax," said Harry R. Hall, executive vice president of the chamber.

He said voters must be "made aware that the state needs more revenue to meet its increasing responsibilities."

Hall said the state chamber was making an eight-page brochure which he said thoroughly discusses all angles of the ballot proposition available for distribution by interested groups.

Democrats have generally opposed the sales tax increase proposal, while Republicans have generally backed it.

Both Parties Unsure of Texas Balloting

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Texas Democrats and Republicans, both claiming their national tickets are leading the state in voter preference, agree that neither side has the election in the bag.

Republican leaders said a poll by a Texas firm showed Vice-President Richard M. Nixon was favored by 44 per cent of the voters with 39 per cent leaning to Sen. John F. Kennedy and 17 per cent undecided.

The Democrats, pointing to a poll by a New York firm, said 46 per cent of the voters are for Kennedy, 39 per cent for Nixon and 15 per cent undecided.

Both parties claimed gains over earlier polls.

Boston Herald Endorses Nixon for President

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Herald, which supported President Eisenhower in the 1952 and 1956 presidential elections, Tuesday endorsed Vice President Richard M. Nixon for president.

The Herald, which describes itself as independent Republican, said its decision to support Nixon "has not been easy."

"Two years ago we urged Mr. Kennedy for re-election as senator," the Herald said in an editorial. "He has many attractive qualities.

"But Mr. Nixon outweighs him in experience, sensitivity for official relationships, concern for the freedom of choice of the individual, conservatism in fiscal matters and sound basing in economics and foreign affairs."

Jet on Training Flight Crashes, Killing 7

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. (AP)—A jet tanker, on a night training mission crashed on a marshy shore near here Wednesday night, carrying seven crewmen to their deaths.

Witnesses said the six-engine KB50-J tanker caught fire almost immediately after takeoff from Langley and was enveloped in a sheet of white flame when it came down with a roar that shook houses miles away.

Th giant tanker was attached to the 427th Air Refueling Squadron, 4505th Air Refueling Wing, of the Tactical Air Command.

Identities of those who died were withheld by the Air Force pending notification of next-of-kin.

Montmartre Quarter Protects Its History

WASHINGTON — Montmartre, the paradise of bohemians and impecunious artists, has become a kind of "national park" in the modedrn city of Paris.

The city government has set up a special committee to protect the quarter made famous by Toulouse-Lautrec, Renoir, Utrillo and Picasso.

Old houses, monuments, and streets will be restored. New buildings must conform to the original style of the quarter.

The flowering of Montmartre from a once disreputable village into a shrine is a Cinderella story with touches of irony. It is directly due to the fact that almost nobody wanted to live there a century ago.

PARISIANS HATED CLIMB

In the 19th century the booming city of Paris spread across the Ile de France, the National Geographic Society says. But the village on the hill known as the Butte Montmartre did not profit from the boom, because most people refused to climb up to it from Paris.

Gradually the area became a hangout for apaches, or bandits, and acquired an unsavory reputation. Artists, traditionally destitute, also took up residence there. Rents were cheap, and the painters couldn't afford to be fussy about the climb or the bad reputation of their neighbors.

Once the trend was established, painters from all over the world driftedd to Montmartre. Degas, Van Gogh, Corot, Renoir and others settled on the Butte and on the slope going down toward the center of Paris.

BUYS FLARES — The first package of flares offered for sale beginning yesterday by the Auburn Heights Lions Club to help defray the cost of its annual Flare Night program on Halloween was purchased by Richard L. Clarkson Lambastes Baker's Carver Stand Republican Raymond L. Baker's charge of "hasty action" in the handling of the Carver School District situation today drew a countercharge from his opponent for the 4th District seat in the State Legislature.

State Rep. S. James Clarkson, Democratic incumbent in the 4th District, demanded that Baker present his own solution to the Carver school problem in Royal Oak Township.

"You have publicly stated that you do not know whether you will announce your own solution to this problem prior to the election," Clarkson asserted in a letter to Baker.

'FOULEST TYPE OF APPEAL'

"This is because you have no solution," Clarkson charged. "You have nothing to offer except what approaches the lowest, crassest and foulest type of political appeal.'

"I demand, and you owe the people, your solution to the problem. You have been loud, but you have not been constructive.

"Your issue is phony and you are phony by stooping to, what in my mind, is the despicable and destructive approach which you have taken.

"I am accusing you of conducting a low-level campaign and call upon you to offer your solution . . . which you have repeatedly refused to do," Clarkson concluded.

Baker yesterday said that Gov. G. Mennen Williams acted hastily in suggesting that the Carver School District dissolve and attach itself to Ferndale or Oak Park.

Baker said further study should be made into the matter of the all-Negro school district by a fact-finding committee composed only of Oakland County agencies.

SUPPORTS CHARGES

Roberts supported his fellow Republican's charges, saying the decision of disbanding or annexing the school district should be delayed until the legislature meets in January.

"By delaying any decision until the legislature is in session," Roberts said, "the facts of the Carver situation could be made readily available to the legislature in the event that special legislation is required."

Meanwhile, the ninth graders from the Carver district who were refused admittance to Detroit schools because of failure to pay tuition are attending school in specially set up classes in the specially set up classes in the The Carver School District has no high school of its own.

Ask 5 Changes in City Charter

Four Are Requests for Pay Boosts for Mayor, Other Officials

UTICA — City Clerk Edward Havel expects a record turnout in the Nov. 8 election when voters here will decide on five proposals to change the city charter.

Although the count of voters registered for the presidential election has not been completed, Havel said all indications are that registration in Utica will reach an all-time high.

"People who had never voted here before came in to register for this election," Havel commented. He reported that 810 citizens registered for the last election.

Included in the five proposed city charter revisions are four requests to boost the pay of city officials.

The City Council wants to set the salaries for the city treasurer and city assessor rather than being bound at certain figures by the charter.

The treasurer now receives 1½ per cent of collected taxes as his pay while the assessor is paid an annual salary of $500.

The other two issues ask pay hikes for both the mayor and city councilmen.

Authorization is requested to boost the mayor's salary from $500 to $1,000 per year and to increase the councilmen's pay from $10 to $20 per council meeting.

The city clerk said the present figures were set in 1937. He said the salaries now are considered too low because of the added responsibilities of the Utica officials.

The fifth proposal asks voter approval of a change in dates of the city's fiscal year which presently starts Jan. 1 and ends Dec. 31.

If the change is approved, the fiscal year would start July 31 and end the following June 30.

Havel said paper ballots will be supplied to Utica residents voting in the election. He said there wasn't enough room to put the proposals on the voting machines.

Speedway Owner to Sue Over Drag-Strip Rebuff

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP—The township's refusal to allow a drag strip to be built here nearly a year ago will result in a Circuit Court suit, officials learned last night.

In a letter to the township board, attorney Paul M. Mandel stated that a hearing on the drag strip is anticipated late this year or early in 1961.

Mandel said the suit is to be filed by Robert Amos, owner of the Pontiac Speedway on M59.

The Township Board of Appeals last November turned down Amos' request to complete a drag strip he was building at the speedway.

Depreciation of property values in the area of the proposed drag strip is the reason given for the denial by the appeal board.

The issue came before the township when Amos requested that 15 acres be rezoned adjacent to the present speedway. The property needed to be rezoned, Amos said, to allow construction of a curve necessary for cars to make a complete circle, and return to the starting area once the race was complete.

The zoning board turned Amos' request down. He went to the board of appeals where he was refused permission that would have allowed him to continue.

Amos has stated that nearly $60,000 had been paid out when construction was halted. At least $40,000 more is needed to complete the strip, he said.

White Lake Twp. Residents Irate

Water Rate Probe Due

By JIM LONG

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — A thorough investigation of water rates charged residents in a subdivision here was promised last night by the township board.

A group of property owners representing the Twin Lakes Village Subdivision termed the rates charged them as "ridiculously high" in protesting to the board.

A petition signed by 16 of the 17 property owners in the subdivision objecting to the water fees was presented to the board. The subdivision is located in the eastern portion of the township.

In arguing that water charges were too high, the group cited water rates in various communities of the county. While most of the community comparisons used as examples were not township rates, most were either considerably lower or comparable to those charged in White Lake.

Supervisor Edward Cheyz told the audience that he didn't think the comparisons were fair to the residents of the township or the township since too many other factors were involved in citing water rates charged in cities.

Cheyz, along with the board, said, however, that an immediate check of other townships would be carried out to determine what rate scale might be used.

All members of the board agreed that the water rates seemed to be "extremely high."

One resident living in the subdivision said that her water bill for a three-month period was $56. Another said he had received a $30 bill for the same length of time.

ERROR APPARENT

Board member Richard Paschke, who explained that he was a member of the board when the rates were adopted, said that "apparently an error has been made."

"It was the first private water system in the township and so it was our first experience in setting rates," he pointed out.

"The rates set back in 1958, when the rates were approved, were to be both fair to residents and the township. We felt we were fortunate to get a subdivision that supplied water to its owners."

The water rate, he said, is charged to maintain the system once it is taken over by the township. However, this won't happen until there are 70 homes built in the subdivision.

"When the fee was set we realized that we were overcharging, but it was to allow a cushion should anything happen to the water system after the township took it over."

Until the water systems revert to the township, the subdivision developers will maintain it.

Paschke said, however, the cushion now seems in excess.

"An attempt will be made to rectify the unequal rates," he said.

A meeting will be held sometime next week with the property owners after the investigation is made. Residents of the subdivision were told to hold up paying their water bills that are due this week until after the meeting.

The meeting ended amiably with one woman commenting:

Rochester Schools to Award Contracts

ROCHESTER — The Board of Education expects to award the contract for construction of three elementary school projects in the district at a special meeting Monday night.

The low base bid of $781,488 for the new Howard L. McGregor School and additions to Hamlin and Meadow Brook schools was submitted by Leslie Construction Co., Ferndale.

There were eight other firms whose sealed bids were opened Monday night. Their bids ranged up to $823,000.

A total of $900,000 has been budgeted for the three school building programs. This figure includes certain alternates, architectural fees and equipment, said School Supt. Donald C. Baldwin.

TO PUSH UP BID

The alternates will push the Ferndale company's bid up to about $810,000.

"But if, with the other fees and equipment, we can come out within the $900,000, we'll be satisfied," the superintendent added.

The bids were turned over to the Birmingham architectural firm of O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach for review. Their recommendation will be presented Monday night.

The school administration also is working on the plans with the bids to see what corners must be cut or alternates eliminated to contain the projects within the $900,000 figure.

They estimated the three projects will cost about $15 per square foot.

The new McGregor School will have 14 classrooms, a library, general use room, multipurpose room and service areas. It will cost about $500,000.

TO ADD 6 ROOMS

Six classrooms plus a library and general use room will be added at both Hamlin and Meadow Brook schools.

The two additions will cost some $200,000 each.

For Exchange Students

AFS Will Seek Patrons

Doorbells will be ringing in the Avondale School District Saturday as American Field Service workers seek patron memberships for their AFS project.

Proceeds raised from the sale of memberships will be used to send two local high school juniors abroad for a summer or a semester of school.

Initiated several years ago, the AFS program has enabled local students to spend a summer in Germany and the Netherlands before 1960.

Just returned after spending the summer in Norway is Avondale's Karen Vogel. Exchange student at the local high school this year is Hetty Knippen of the Netherlands.

The adult committee in charge of Saturday's door-to-door campaign will assist the students working on the drive.

Those responsible for organizing the AFS project in Avondale are Mrs. Paul W. Kivari, Mrs. Earl Wilson and Mrs. Paul White, who still serve actively on the program.

They say that besides contributing to an AFS scholarship a person buying a patron's membership also is entitled to attend AFS activities and social events.

To be eligible to apply for a scholarship, an Avondale student must be a junior with two years of a foreign language and be 16 years old before the July 8 embarkation date.

★ ★ ★

AFS is a national organization which has the sanction and approval of the State Department.

Red China Doesn't Dare Brag of Production . . . It's Not There

TOKYO (UPI) — Red China isn't making any bones about it these days: There just wasn't any big leap forward in production this year — not to even talk about.

Peiping doesn't publish it for the world to read that the leap forward stumbled somewhere along the line, but there have been hundreds of clues — large and small — leading to this deduction.

The persons who know this best are the managers of tractor plants, party bosses in the communes and government functionaries in the steel mills.

There appears ample evidence these "cadres" have been called on the carpet in Peiping to answer for the failure.

Evidence of this began to mount earlier this year when Red China announced that natural calamities had destroyed much of the 1960 food crop. After that there were no more announcements of exceeding production quotas.

The latest, published in the Peiping press today, tells of "progress in reaping late rice crops in Du-kien, Kiangsi, Hunan and Szechwan provinces," some of China's most fertile areas. Progress, no more.

The same press reports, distributed by the new China news agency in broadcasts from Peiping monitored here, told of "great advances" in other Iron Curtain bloc countries.

★ ★ ★

They told of "overfulfillment by Soviet industry of the plan for the first three-quarters of this year." Papers headlined bonus production in Mongolian handicraft industries and successful wheat crops in Communist Albania. Harvests in Communist Viet Nam and Hungary were marked out for special attention.

Indications were that Peiping's rulers — rather than publicly admit failure — were holding the successes of "sister Communist Countries" up as a goal for mainland China.

At the same time, the Peiping press let it be known that laborers were wasting too much raw material for the amount of finished goods turned out.

"The Peiping Peoples" daily gave prominence to the campaign among steel workers in Chungking and Tsingtao for their increase in output," NCNA reported.

This is not big news in any league, but in Red China where the Communist party dictates the size of headlines it indicates Mao Tze-tung is worried.

Below this is printed — in smaller headlines — a Communist party directive on "the timely purchase of farm produce following the autumn harvest." One can only deduce there must be a severe shortage, and the Communist party is warning everyone to get down to the store in a hurry before stocks run out.

Frantic efforts by Lapp herders to stop the animals were of no avail. Said Finmark's border commissioner, Audun Magnus: "We have asked the government for money to make proper fences along the border. So far we have got nothing."

Now the Soviets and the Norwegians are preparing for the complicated red tape necessary for repatriation of the defectors.

Film People Want to Hang On to Money

Switzerland Tax Haven for Stars

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What makes Switzerland so attractive to famous names who once inhabited Hollywood?

Is it the crystal, smogless air? The scenic grandeur of the Alps? A more likely reason for the American-Swiss colony is the new financial vista to be gained by residence there.

'Tis said that the tiny country is becoming virtually an Alpine Beverly Hills with such inhabitants as Yul Brynner, William Holden, Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer, Deborah Kerr and Peter Viertel, Sophia Loren, etc. not to mention Charlie Chaplin.

THOMAS

To be sure, some are foreign born, but they have made their fame and most of their fortune in the American film industry, centered in Hollywood. There are other Hollywood actors and creators who live or do most of their work abroad: Jack Palance, Robert Mitchum, Orson Welles, Otto Preminger, Darryl Zanuck, Norman Krasna, Stanley Donen, John Huston.

Some declare they live and work abroad for convenience or for artistic reasons. Brynner has said that it is only accidental that his last four pictures were made out of the country. He explains that he is hard to cast in the usual Hollywood product.

The fact is that there are definite advantages for movie figures to live and work abroad as a top Hollywood lawyer explained: "Film people often have only a few years of high income; they are not like business professional people, who can earn good salaries most of their adult lives. It's only natural that they will seek ways to avoid paying 91 per cent of their earnings to the government.

"There are two ways to avoid — not evade — paying American taxes by going overseas. One class establishes residence in another country. If they do not live here or work here, they are not subject to U.S. taxes. They pay taxes in the countries where they receive their money.

"Switzerland is advantageous because residents are taxed in relationship to the size and cost of the house they live in. The amount of income isn't considered. Another advantage is in the secrecy of the Swiss banks.

"The other class is the floater. He doesn't establish residence anywhere, but keeps moving from one country to another. Thus he pays taxes nowhere."

The tax advantages of living abroad were exploited a few years ago under a totally different method. When the government sought to encourage use of American money and brains to develop foreign countries, it bowed to a request of oil interests to allow suspension of income tax for American workers who spend 18 months abroad.

Alert lawyers at a big talent agency discovered the clause and started shipping name clients overseas. Such figures as Clark Gable, Gregory Peck, Kirk Douglas and Gene Kelly made films abroad until they had served enough time for the tax exemption.

But Congress caught on and placed a $20,000 ceiling on the exemption. Nowadays stars have to give up their American residence — not their citizenship — to gain the tax advantage.

But the expatriates are not the sole reason for the continuing decline of production in Hollywood, as we'll see Wednesday.

U.S. Sounds Cuba Warning

Again Tells Travelers to Stay Out, Not Get Involved on Island

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department has issued a new warning for American adventurers to stay out of Cuba.

It said that their intervention in Cuban affairs could have serious consequences for the United States as well as cost them their lives before a firing squad.

The department previously had urged Americans not to travel to Cuba unless they had "compelling reasons" to go there. No ban has been imposed on travel to Cuba, however.

The new statement denounced as "drumhead justice" the execution by the Castro regime of two Americans accused of taking part in an invasion of Cuba on Oct. 5.

The charge was based on the fact that appeals by the two Americans —Robert Otis Fuller, 25, of Miami, and Allen Dale Thompson, 36, of Queen City, Tex., and Mooringsport, La. — were decided against them in five minutes.

But the department made it clear that it does not condone the actions of Americans who join in international adventures such as plots to overthrow Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Department spokesman Joseph Reap said that the U.S. government "looks seriously on the involvement of individual Americans in the internal affairs and disputes of other countries."

Expert of 87 Advises: Work, Don't Rust Out

ENDWELL, N.Y. (UPI)—While the nation focuses its attention on the choice of a new president, an 87-year-old upstate New Yorker has been turning his mind to the retiring Chief Executive.

William Davis a former contractor with 12 years experience at retirement, recently sent president Eisenhower a cane he had spent several months whittling out of California redwood.

A note written to the President for Davis by a granddaughter said, "This cane I made with a pocket knife. I hope you like it and enjoy it on your farm in Gettysburg, Pa.

If the President's idea about celebrating his retirement are anything like Davis', the cane will be a useful gift.

Davis marked his stepping down from active life by making the 67-mile hike from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to Easton, Pa., in 16 and one half hours.

Davis has spent much of his time since then carving and whittling.

He has made a number of canes, hunting bows for his five grandchildren, a miniature old fashioned sleigh and several model canal boats like those he used to see near Wilkes-Barre before "steam took over" around 1892.

Davis said he began whittling when he was 12 years old, four years after he moved to Wilkes-Barre from his birthplace in South Wales.

But changing times have affected even the pocket knife he uses in his work and calls "man's best friend." Davis said, "I used to be able to get a good one for 40 cents, and it was better than one I pay $5 for now.

Davis, who moved from Wilkes-Barre to his daughter's home here in 1949, studies ancient history and the Bible when he is not whittling. He completed the mail order Bible courses offered by seven schools, but he "never gets tired of studying," Davis said.

★ ★ ★

"You know," Davis added, "when you get to be my age, you have to keep busy or you'll rust out."

Issues Are Pretty Ticklish

Both Candidates Forced to Tiptoe

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The presidential candidates are making this the most cautious campaign in recent history.

They might have started a fire long ago if there weren't some sensitive things they had to worry about.

Take Sen. John F. Kennedy, who criticizes America's defenses, says it has lost prestige, and is lagging economically.

All these are criticisms of President Eisenhower's two administrations. But Kennedy is careful not to tear into Eisenhower personally.

Asked why, Kennedy said he has great respect for the President and that his criticisms are after all aimed at his administration.

But there's a sound reason why the senator is laying off the President himself. It might cost him votes because Eisenhower is still so highly popular—so much so that he could probably beat either Kennedy or Vice President Richard M. Nixon if he were running against them right now.

Nixon has some problems of his own to worry about—more than Kennedy, perhaps — but certainly enough to keep him from pulling out all the stops.

In the first place, there are more registered Democrats than Republicans.

He has to hold the Republicans but can't win with them alone. He has to appeal to independents and some Democrats too.

No wonder he's been saying voters should "not think of the party label but think of the country first" and vote for the better man.

He has obliquely criticized the administration on some things, but very obliquely. He has praised its record highly but at the same time says a record is something not to stand on but to build on.

He has two things to worry about inside his own party, which may explain why he sounds less liberal than Kennedy but not so conservative as Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the darling of the party's extreme right wing.

Nixon can't afford to sound too conservative without antagonizing liberal Republicans. And he can't sound too liberal without inducing the Goldwater platoons, who wouldn't vote for a Democrat, to stay home election day.

BOTH TIP-TOEING

So Nixon and Kennedy have to tip-toe a bit while giving the appearance of running to a fire. If he anything, Nixon has to be more cautious than Kennedy.

★

His dilemma showed up sharply when his vice-presidential running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, got loose in Harlem and sounded off on the subject of Negroes.

He said it would be a "wonderful thing to have a qualified Negro in the Cabinet."

This might have appeal for Northern Negroes but hardly for white Southerners at a time when Nixon is hoping the Democratic platform, with its very liberal civil rights plank, might drive Southern states into his camp.

Although Nixon himself has been pretty forthright both in the South and in the North in saying improvement in civil rights is necessary, he tried to soft-pedal Lodge's exuberance.

He thought it important enough to issue a statement saying his Cabinet selections would depend on a man's ability and not on his race or creed.

Both Nixon and Kennedy are anxious for that Southern vote. Nixon has sent Lodge into Dixie, besides going there himself. Kennedy has gone there, too, and has sent his running mate Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas barnstorming the Southern acres.

If there's one slogan the candidates in this campaign carry around in their heads at all time and in all places it probably would be this one: caution.

Little Laos Rips Russia With a Verbal Barrage

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—Tiny Laos squared off at the Soviet Union Tuesday in a rare diplomatic broadside that made surprised delegates turn around in their seats to make sure who was talking.

The tongue-lashing, that rivaled the best the United States or any of its allies has been able to deal out this season, came from Laotian Ambassador Sisouk Na Champassak—a man usually never has a bad word for anybody.

Champassak, speaking in the General Assembly's administrative and budgetary committee, roundly scolded Soviet delegate A. A. Roschin for his attack yesterday on Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's U.N. financial policies.

"Anything that doesn't bear the hallmark of Moscow is considered unlawful or illegal," Champassak observed.

He said it was "a disappointment to hear the repetition of the attack on the secretary general and the United Nations itself" but added "We are not surprised" in view of the past Soviet performance.

Roschin Monday had said Hammarskjold spent $260,000 in Laos for administering only $213,000 in U.N. aid and charged the secretary-general's operations in the Southeast Asian kingdom were aimed at supporting the "United States line."

Champassak said Hammarskjold went to Laos last year because he was invited by the Laotian government.

"I have warm tribute for the secretary general," the Laotian said.

He noted that Russia only recently sent its first ambassador to Laos following a military coup that put staunch neutralists in the administrative capital of Vientiane.

"I am happy to see that," Champassak said. "I ask them (the Russians) to show us a more realistic and cooperative attitude. Let them work peacefully."

Johnson Swings Into Ohio; Lodge Hunts N.Y. Votes

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson today wound up a 15-speech marathon campaign swing in pivotal Pennsylvania during which he hammered away at Republicans on international issues.

In a 200-mile swing in Pennsylvania Tuesday, he delivered speeches in five key upstate counties. At stake are Pennsylvania's 32 electoral votes.

Winding up the day's campaigning, he told a cheering, standing-room-only crowd of 3,500 in a dance hall here that Republicans are architects of "a policy of neglect in foreign affairs."

WANTS INSTITUTE

He recommended establishment of an institute of Latin American affairs to be partly financed by revenue from the Panama Canal.

He said the institute could be set up in the Canal Zone to train American administrators for service in Latin-American diplomatic posts.

Turning to Republican conduct of foreign affairs, he said: "We haven't stopped communism 9,000 miles away or 5,000 miles away. In fact we haven't even stopped it 90 miles away in Cuba.

"This next administration must formulate new foreign policies. The present ones are not too bad but the administration of them has been neglectful."

Lodge was scheduled to meet here with the leaders of the four big dairy cooperatives in the New York-New Jersey milkshed before flying to Rochester, where he will wind up the campaign trip.

Lodge, Republican vice-presidential candidate, predicted Tuesday that a Negro would be appointed to the Cabinet if Vice President Richard M. Nixon, his running mate, were elected president.

In Albany, at the beginning of the tour, he accused Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate, of "pussyfooting and dodging" the issue of whether a Negro should serve in the Cabinet.

"Let him declare where he stands. If he's against it, let him say so," Lodge told newsmen.

Kennedy said Monday in Ohio that he was not going to promise a Cabinet or any other post to any race or ethnic group. He said such promises were "racism in reverse at its worst."

IF GOP WINS . . .

Lodge was asked to comment on charges that he was "reneging" on reported pledges that a Negro would be appointed to the Cabinet should the GOP ticket win the Nov. 8 election.

He said there ought to be a Negro in the Cabinet because it would do "enormous good" for United States foreign relations and also fulfill the national purpose.

"I will make this prediction," he said. "If Richard Nixon is elected, there will be a qualified Negro in the Cabinet."

An Associated Press reporter and photographer then understood him to add, "That's a promise."

Lodge later denied that he had used the word "promise" and it was not in a recording of the interview.

Another reporter on the scene did not hear it.

In Syracuse, Vincent P. O'Brien, Lodge's press secretary, claimed that Associated Press dispatches reporting the interview were erroneous.

O'Brien said his examination of a transcript of the tape-recording showed clearly that the word "promise" never was said by Lodge.

Reporter Michael Keating of The Associated Press said he had heard the word in an aside by Lodge.

In his denial, Lodge repeated the word "prediction" and pointed out, as he had at other times, that it was the President's job to make Cabinet appointments.

Nixon has said he would appoint the best men he could find, without regard to race or creed. He said again Tuesday in Florida: "I have made no commitments, and I don't think any should be made. But I will say . . . that, if elected, I will appoint the best man."

LODGE MAKES A PREDICTION — Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican candidate for vice president, tells reporters Tuesday at Albany Airport he predicts a Negro might be named to the Cabinet if a new Republican administration is elected. In commenting on this, Vice President Nixon said he would make no commitments at this time.

But LBJ Is Family Brand

'Lady Bird'...A Nickname

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

★ ★ ★

The purpose (these Americans believe) was to match her initials with his. So that she too would be an LBJ all the way. Like the cattle brands and calling cards.

"Lady Bird" says 'taint so 'tall.

"When I was a baby and in no position to protest," she explains, "the family cook and maid-of-all work gave me the nickname 'Lady Bird'—though I had a perfectly respectable calling name of Claudia."

Her parents took up the name, then her playmates. When she went away to a girls' school she tried to keep the nickname quiet—"but old friends infiltrated and the first thing I knew, there it was again."

So it was coincidence, not the senator's ego, that gave the Democratic vice president a wife with the proper initials on her fashionable handbags.

When the daughters, Lynda Bird and Lucy Baines, were born, it possibly occurred to the senator there was a saving to be made in monogrammed baby buggies by joining them to the ranks of LBJs. Still later, when a family dog was acquired, it seemed quite natural that a "Lady Beagle Johnson" would fit into the family fold more appropriately than, say, a Schnauzer.

HE MET A GIRL

And all this because the big senator met a girl who'd never been allowed, nominally, to grow up.

Great dynasties from little oddities grow.

Speaking of dynasties, the dynamic vice presidential candidate began his dynasty after a courtship as swift and forceful as his present whirlwind campaign.

She knew who he was because five months earlier, on a sightseeing trip to Washington, she had carried with her a notation that she should call him. The slip of paper said, "He's a wonderful guy to show you the town."

But she was a most proper Lady Bird, and a shy one. She kept the note, but also held onto her pride and refused to phone.

When Lyndon saw her in the business office, he invited her to breakfast. Then he swept ahead like a sand storm, peppering her with proposals. He drove her to San Marcos to meet his mother and father. Then he went on to Karnack to see her daddy.

It is understandable now, a quarter century later, that Mrs. LBJ's most often-heard comment about her husband is: "An exciting man to live with—an exhausting man to keep up with."

Kennedy Sets Down Plan for More Aid to Aged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy proposed a seven-point program today to help aged Americans. He said the program would "bring the Social Security system up to date."

The Democratic candidate for president outlined the program in a telegram to Rep. Aime J. Forand, D-R.I. Forand was to read it to a senior citizens rally in Los Angeles today.

Kennedy's program:

1. Medical insurance based on the Social Security system.

2. Adequate Social Security benefits with some consideration to adjusting them to meet increases in the cost of living.

3. Improvement of job opportunities for older workers and the reduction of employment discrimination against them.

4. "We can give older citizens a new sense of usefulness by encouraging them to engage in such needed activities as homemaker services, practical nursing and senior center leadership."

5. Financial incentive to low rental housing for older persons.

6. Encouragement of states and local communities in their research programs for older people.

7. More provisions for rehabilitating and training the physically and mentally handicapped.

Dick Is Threat to Peace—Adlai

He Charges Reckless and Misleading Talk as Well as Demagoguery

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson says the best way to assure peace is to keep Vice President Richard M. Nixon and his "dangerous impetuosity" out of the White House.

The two-time Democratic presidential nominee accuses Nixon of reckless, dangerous and demagogic talk and of misleading the people regarding the nation's strength.

Stevenson assailed Nixon and the Eisenhower administration Tuesday night in an address before 1,100 persons at a $100-a-plate dinner of the "New York Citizens for Kennedy and Johnson."

'LET US TELL TRUTH'

Stevenson, addressing himself to Nixon and his running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, said: "Let us tell the truth to the American people."

"And let us stop this dangerous talk about anybody's being weak, disloyal, or soft-headed if he talks about peace by any other means than 'massive retaliation' or your futile finger waggling in Khrushchev's face," he said.

"Let's stop kidding the people that they've never had it so good."

Stevenson said Sen. John F. Kennedy has been trying to tell the country "that we have been misled and deceived for years, that the power balance in the world has been changing while we have been sleeping, that our invulnerable postwar position has vanished."

U.S. Prestige Poll? What Poll, Pals?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The office of Sen. John F. Kennedy reportedly has asked for the results of U.S. government polls testing American prestige abroad.

A similar request reportedly was made by Sen. J. William Fullbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

U.S. Information Agency officials said while the agency has been making public opinion studies for many years it has made no recent poll on the question of prestige, which has become an issue in the presidential race between Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Officials indicated that a reply along that line was being made to Fulbright and to Kennedy's office.

Midwest for Nixon?

CHICAGO (AP)—First results of a survey by Publishers' Auxiliary today showed that the majority of daily and weekly newspapers in eight Midwest states think their communities will vote the Republican ticket in the presidential election.

Meeting of Top Women Has Been Canceled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first joint public appearance of the two top women in the national political committees has been canceled.

Mrs. Margaret Price of Ann Arbor, Mich., vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee and her GOP counterpart, Mrs. Clare Williams, assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee, were to appear on "Meet The Press" (NBC-TV) on Sunday, Oct. 30.

"Meet The Press" reported today that the panel show has been canceled because Mrs. Price declined to appear.

Emily Claims Cabot Is 'So Well Trained'

By JOY MILLER

You're pretty surprised, too, if you've been expecting a proper Bostonian matron of formidable dignity and lofty graciousness.

But Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge, wife of the Republican candidate for the vice presidency, seems so completely unselfconscious and interested in you. You can understand why someone once commented: "Every man in politics should marry an Emily Lodge."

Now on the campaign trail with her husband, she keeps in the background, graciously acknowledging introductions with a smile and saying not a word.

She simply doesn't like to make speeches. She rarely gives an interview, because, she says, "I haven't very much to say; Cabot says it so well. I just pick up the things we forget, pack, see that Cabot's fed, that sort of thing."

But as for campaigning — "I adore it. Since I have no responsibilities and no speechmaking, I can just enjoy meeting people and seeing the beautiful country. There are places I've never been before, such as Northern California."

She doesn't have an opinion about the election outcome. "I don't think that far ahead," she says. "I don't believe in counting my chickens. Or as my father used to say: 'Man proposes, God disposes.' I live for today and do all I can, and don't think beyond —to Nov. 8."

'HE'S WELL TRAINED'

"I do think, however, it would be fine if Cabot becomes vice president. I certainly hope he does. He's a very well trained and hardworking man. And he has optimism about people, about this country.

She doesn't feel at all tired now, she says, but last week she was pretty fatigued. That's one reason she admires the wife of the GOP presidential candidate so much. "I think Pat Nixon is wonderful, the way she campaigns, and still does her duty by her children. She's a tremendous woman."

AP Photofax

Testifies Tab Hunter Beat Dog 5 Minutes

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — A cocktail waitress says she once saw actor Tab Hunter beat his dog across the paws with a leash chain for five minutes or more.

Then, she said, he dragged the dog some 75 feet and tied him up.

The waitress, Joanne Elliott, who lives near Hunter, said last week she had alternately been threatened and offered a bribe not to testify against the actor.

Another neighbor, Raymond L. Paul, testified he saw Hunter lift the dog by a choke chain "and swing him around in an arc in mid-air for about five or six feet."

Union Poll Favors Jack

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communications Workers Union said today a scientifically weighted poll it took among its members shows the Democratic ticket leading in the election race.

Sugar, gold and coffee in succession have dominated the economic life of Brazil for many years.

All Sorts of People Belong To Credit Unions . . .

. . . Because as Owners of Our Credit Unions, We Take Care of Our Own Financial Needs and Requirements

Many credit unions are holding Open House at their offices tomorrow. You are invited to attend.

WHAT IS A CREDIT UNION?

A credit union is a group of people, chartered under federal or state law, who save their money in a common fund . . . lend to each other from that fund . . . charge a low interest rate for the use of their money . . . and with the income from interest, pay dividends on the money used and cover the cost of running a credit union.

Members of a credit union have a common bond. They attend the same church, or work at the same place, belong to the same organization, or have some other such contact.

A credit union is a non-profit corporation owned by its members. It's purpose is to provide "low cost" credit for its member-owners and to encourage thrift. All profits are returned to the members in dividends and interest refunds. A credit union is democratic action applied to money. It is free enterprise. It is people working together for their common good.

20,000 credit unions serve 12 million Americans in all walks of life.

We help each other . . . join us.

TAKES MICROSCOPIC STUDY — It takes microscopic study to read the 19,000 "volumes" of this culture library at the Pfizer Medical Research Laboratories in Groton, Conn. Set in stacks that slide on overhead tracks for easy access, each "book" is a pencil-sized vial containing dormant forms of microbial life which can be awakened at any time for use in the study and development of antibiotics. The cultures are freeze-dried and vacuum-sealed to preserve their dormancy indefinitely. Some "rare books" in this library are 15 years old.

New President Won't Be Able to Take Traditional Vacation

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It now seems doubtful that either presidential candidate will get much of a vacation after the election—if he wins.

For years, it has been traditional for the victor to take a rest of several weeks before plunging into the formation of his new administration.

If Sen. John F. Kennedy wins, he'll probably stay close at home right here in Washington because the time will be getting near for the birth of his second child and he won't want to be far from his wife, Jackie.

And if Vice President Richard M. Nixon wins, he may take a short breather in South Florida which he likes very much, but his associates say he will want to hurry back to Washington to work on the transition of government with the Eisenhower administration.

President Eisenhower probably would make office space available for some of Nixon's chief lieutenants, but the same degree of cooperation would not be likely for a Democratic winner.

LEWIS CLOWNS

Clowning at the world newspaper forum in Los Angeles last week just before Nixon spoke to the meeting, comedian Jerry Lewis, a Democrat - for - Nixon, had these barbs for Kennedy:

And: "I want you to understand that everything here tonight is spontaneous. I may have pockets full of paper, but I never use notes like that other boy."

The vice president was on the football team when he went to Whittier College, but he says his athletic ability was such that he never got into the game unless the score was hopeless one way or the other.

He says that during his current campaign speaking tour, he has been on more football fields than he ever graced as a player.

Nixon has a bland way of getting at the fact that his opponent comes from a wealthy family.

He never mentions the fact that Kennedy is a millionaire, but hardly a speech passes but what Nixon gets in an anecdote or two about his own impecunious background.

He spoke last week in the Coconut Grove of the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles, an enormous room which serves as a chi chi night club in the evenings.

The vice president said that when he was courting his wife, Pat, they never had enough money to get into the Coconut Grove, but they used to date in a small bistro across the street.

Pretty Gal Uses Feminine Wiles on Patrolman

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI)—A city policeman was writing a parking ticket when a pretty girl flounced up and pounded:

"Oh, officer, you aren't going to write me a ticket, are you?"

"Please, you know I just forgot all about what time it was."

"Oh, all right," the officer relented, putting away his pencil and tearing up the ticket gallantly. The girl turned abruptly and, stifling a giggle, walked away.

"Just a minute," he said. "Aren't you going to move your car?"

"Oh, it isn't mine," she replied. "I just wanted to see if I could do it."

Cuban Captain Injured by Gun

Attack on Castro Has Been Reported, but Is Being Denied

HAVANA (AP)—The army captain who commands the military post at suburban Cojimar, where Prime Minister Fidel Castro lives, is in a hospital for treatment of a bullet wound in his side, El Mundo, the government - controlled newspaper reported today. It gave no details of the shooting.

Amadeo Barletta Jr., exiled Cuban newspaper editor, said in Bogota, Colombia, Tuesday that he had received a report of an attack on Castro early Sunday. A spokesman at Castro's Havana office denied any attempt to assassinate the prime minister had taken place.

Barletta said he was told Castro was in a house next to the Italian Embassy at the time of the shooting. The Italian ambassador had reported in Havana that two bullets struck the embassy residence on Sunday about 2 a.m.

★ ★ ★

Later Sunday morning, Castro and the national police chief passed the embassy and talked with police investigating the shooting, which has not been officially announced or explained by the police.

Did Thief Get In Via Dog Door?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Burglars may have taken the dog's way in when they entered the apartment of a retired stockbroker and slipped out with a safe which the owner said contained nearly $3 million worth of stocks and jewelry.

★ ★ ★

The victim is Raoul Fernandez, 50, who describes himself as the son of a Spanish nobleman. He says the stock, about $2 million worth, is non-negotiable, meaning the thieves can't cash it in. But most of the jewelry, he says, is uninsured.

★ ★ ★

Officers figure the burglars — or burglar — got into the West Hollywood apartment late Monday by reaching the door lock through a small swinging door made for a dog, or by using a pass key. The previous tenants had a dog.

★ ★ ★

Fernandez returned home from a social engagement early Tuesday and discovered the burglary. The stock was in the Coca-Cola Co. Fernandez' wife, Katherine Johnson Candler Fernandez, was a Coca-Cola heiress. She died four years ago.

The Star Spangled Banner

Our Children Should Sing

By ZINITA FOWLER
UPI Feature

Halfway through the first verse of "The Star Spangled Banner," I realized that I was playing a piano solo.

One by one the voices of my seventh and eighth grade chorus had dropped off until finally no one was singing.

Suspecting some kind of a prank, I turned around on the piano stool to face them, and saw that while a few were grinning mischievously, most of the children sitting there were actually embarrassed.

"What happened?" I asked.
"We don't know it," was the reply.

I could scarcely believe my ears. This was the first meeting of my Junior High Chorus.

I had suggested that for a warm-up we sing some patriotic songs because "everyone knows them." I was flabbergasted that they did not.

Here was a bright group of 35 to 40 youngsters — the future leading citizens of the community — who could not even sing the first verse of their country's national anthem.

"America the Beautiful" fared no better. They were able to sing one verse of "America," but only because one or two of their former teachers had held morning exercises each day, including the pledge to the flag and one verse of that particular song.

On a hunch, I said, "All right, let's all sing 'Witch Doctor'" (which was the current pop favorite). They did, right down to the last "ooh-ah-ah," without missing a word.

This year, when I changed jobs to a school which hires a regular music teacher for grades three to six, I again found that the children could not sing the patriotic songs of our country.

What is happening in our schools that our children are reaching the seventh and eighth grades without having included in their daily school life songs which are a part of our national heritage?

These songs could be integrated with the study of our fundamental subjects. For example, they are closely interwoven with our nation's history, and they could be used in poetry reading and interpretation in language.

Children come into the world full of music. As their parents and teachers, we can see that they continue to be filled to the brim with the worthwhile, the beautiful sounds.

SPARTANBURG, S. C. (AP) — Rural policemen Bill High and Wallace Snow, accompanied by a couple of citizens, recruited as hatchet men, moved into the area of an illicit liquor still to break up the operation.

After the dust had cleared, all hands joined to destroy the still.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The plastic coatings increasingly available in spray cans for household use are blood kin to both ancient and modern lacquers.

New City Public Service

Leaf Collection Starting

The department of public works inaugurates a new public service this week — leaf collection.

Starting tomorrow, city crews will begin coverage of all streets, removing leaves which property owners are asked to rake into the gutters.

Leaf collection is timed to fit in with the regular rubbish collection schedule, said Clyde Christian, DPW superintendent.

For those residents whose rubbish collection day is today, leaf collection will be tomorrow and Friday.

For those whose rubbish day is Thursday, the leaf pickup will be Monday and Tuesday.

Christian said there would be other leaf collections scheduled in the coming weeks.

The DPW superintendent offered some words of advice in connection with the new service.

He advised parents to caution children about playing in leaves in the streets and reminded that burning of leaves in the street is a misdemeanor in Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

In case it rains on a leaf collection date, the schedule will automatically be set back one day, he added.

U.S. Resumes Laos Army Pay

'Confused Situation' in That Country Is Said to Have Been Corrected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department Tuesday formally announced the resumption of salary payments to the Royal Laos Army which put the present neutralist government into power.

Press officer Joseph Reap said the "confused situation in the country which had made it impossible to handle those releases in the normal fashion" has now been corrected.

The announcement confirmed reports from State Department officials that the program had been resumed after a suspension announced Oct. 7.

Reap said the order to resume military assistance was issued Monday. But he said authorization was given several days ago to J. Graham Parsons, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, to give assurances to the neutralist premier of Laos, Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Reap was asked if the split in the Laos army has been healed. The royal army has been divided between followers of Capt. Kong Le — who engineered a bloodless coup Aug. 9 which ousted a pro-American government and installed the present neutralist regime—and troops who remained loyal to rightest Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

Reap replied that some progress has been made in unifying the army, at least sufficiently to allow salary payments to be made.

Navy Radar Men Getting On the Beam

WASHINGTON (AP)—The navy has ordered special training courses to sharpen the perception of radar men aboard "electronic intelligence" ships and planes.

The radar men are being taught to quickly distinguish between radar beams from unfriendly and friendly transmitters.

Such quick distinction is necessary in deciding whether a plane or ship has come under the radar search of a Communist, Allied or U.S. transmitter—and whether counter-radar equipment should be opened up to frustrate the searchers.

The recognition program includes sound tapes, slides and narratives to make a radar man familiar with what radar pings from friendly and unfriendly sources will sound and look like on his equipment. The course also will include instructions on the "type of vehicle from which the signal can be expected to emanate." This presumably means whether the radar beam is coming from an approaching interceptor plane, from a ship or from a land station.

The courses are being assembled by the U.S. Naval Training Device Center at Port Washington, L.I., and will be put into general use as soon as they become available.

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q: My hobby is breeding tropical fish. Is any special care required for the Zebra fish? N. F. of Saint John, N.B., Canada.

A: In my opinion, this is one of the most interesting hobbies a person can have. Every new species you add to your collection provides new interest and color. The lively little Zebra fish hails from Ceylon.

This breed is about one inch long, active and brilliantly striped. Unless your new addition is about to present you with a batch of little zebras, you'll have trouble distinguishing the male from the female. The basic care is uncomplicated.

★ ★ ★

Feed fine textured tropical fish food to the babies and medium food to the older fish. The ideal water temperature is about 75 degrees. Mama Zebra will eat her eggs if she has a chance, but if the bottom of the tank is lined with large glass marbles, the eggs nestle safely between them until hatching time.

Book Business Huge for U.S.

'Infant Care' Tops List With 12 Million Copies Sold Since 1913

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Yearly, anonymous authors turn out low cost best-sellers for a major American publishing house — the U.S. government.

With some 30,000 different titles, the same names reappear on the best-selling list with the regularity of the dictionary.

New parents apparently are the government's biggest block of readers. "Infant Care" holds the record of 12 million copies sold since its original appearance in 1913. Second and third place go to "Prenatal Care" and "Your Child from One to Six."

'TAX' POPULAR

The coming challenger of recent years is "Your Federal Income Tax" according to C. W. Buckley, superintendent of documents.

"It's a wonderful way for the public to benefit from the research, experimentation and results of all aspects of government work," Buckley said.

The "bookstore" as he terms the printing office, grossed a record $8 million in the last fiscal year. Prices range from five cents for ninth-place "Septic Tank Care" to $74 for a book of airport plans.

About 15,000 letters and 1,000 telephone calls daily pour into the office from all over the world. The books appeal to people because they give the "practical approach to problem," he said.

Prices are set by the cost of production plus 50 per cent. The operation is self-sustaining and

West Germans Patent Uranium-Refining Plant

BONN, Germany (AP)—A leading German nuclear scientist says the day is approaching for uranium-refining machines costing about the same as an automobile does in the United States.

The West German government a few days ago moved to hang the secret label on the patent for the gas centrifuge method of refining uranium developed by Prof. Wilhelm Groth. The move was taken at the request of the United States, which fears lest atomic weapons get into the hands of irresponsible small governments.

Groth, 56, director of physical chemistry at Bonn University, said in an interview that it will take at least a year, probably two, "before the instrument is developed enough to be used for commercial purposes."

Cost for installation: about 10,000 marks ($2,380).

The greatest money saving the centrifuge method has over the accepted diffusion procedure now used in the United States, Soviet Union and Britain lies in the installation of the device, Groth said.

SEPARATES URANIUM

The centrifuge is used to separate uranium 235 from the heavier isotope U238. U238 is used as fuel in nuclear reactors.

Both methods begin after the uranium ore has been reduced to gas. In the centrifuge method the gas is whirled about at enormous speeds, isolating the richer U235 much as wheat is isolated from chaff.

In the diffusion method, the gas is pressed through tiny holes by the force of electrically produced thermal energy. This must be repeated many times to produce U235 rich enough to be used as fuel in nuclear weapons.

Prof. Werner Heisenberg, Nobel Prize-winning nuclear physicist and director of the Max Planck Institute for Physics in Munich, has said he did not attach much importance to the centrifuge method.

Heisenberg said he didn't think the method would reduce production costs considerably. He said the United States had experimented with it but decided to use gaseous diffusion as the cheaper process.

Groth suggested the reason the United States did not use the centrifuge during World War II was because of lack of certain raw materials necessary to produce the apparatus.

"And now that the Americans have spent $3 billion on the diffusion plants, they certainly are not going to change over," he said.

The Australian sea horse is almost invisible when in the midst of seaweed because of the leaf-like growths on its body.

Dock Union Trades Automation for Fund

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Harry Bridges' longshore union and the Pacific Maritime Association announced agreement Tuesday night on full mechanizing of West Coast ports.

★ ★ ★

Under the six-year agreement, employers will pay $5 million annually into a workers benefit fund.

★ ★ ★

In exchange, the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union gives up all work rule restrictions on cargo handling.

A joint ILWU-PMA statement called the agreement an epochal achievement in industrial relations.

The agreement applies to all union workers presently in the industry.

The regular collective bargaining agreement on wages, due to expire in 1962, was extended to 1966 along with the mechanization agreement. Negotiations on wages can be reopened annually.

★ ★ ★

The mechanization pact assures the dock workers there will be no layoff, a guarantee of minimum weekly earnings, early retirement or a lump benefit at normal retirement at 65 plus additional death and disability benefits.

★ ★ ★

The weekly wage guarantee, on a 35-hour week basis, will become effective when labor-saving devices and changed methods reduce work opportunity.

★ ★ ★

The wage guarantee will not apply when tonnage drops because of a decline in economic activity.

Container shipping has been the major form of dock mechanization under recent development. Truck tractors deliver preloaded containers in the form of trailer vans and massive cranes load the containers directly into specially designed holds.

PLAN CONFERENCE — Initial preparations for Oakland county's first conference on school-social agency relationships were taken yesterday when the invitation list was compiled. Over 300 educators and social agency workers will be invited to this daylong meeting Nov. 17 at the CAI Building in Waterford Township. The conference is designed to improve communication between schools and social agencies regarding mutual services and problems of special education for children. Committee Chairman Ross A. Wagner (center) goes over the names with two of his committee members, Mrs. Ruth Spurlock (left) of Pontiac, home service director for the Oakland County Chapter American Red Cross, and Miss Frieda Huggett, visiting teacher in Waterford Township public schools.

Beggars Will Work in India's New Plan

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Beggars will become choosers under a new scheme of the Delhi State Administration.

The administration plans to establish an official "Poor Home" where beggars can pick their own vocational training in arts and handicrafts.

The scheme will cost approximately $638 million and take two years to complete.

Formerly, beggars lingered around railway stations, bus stops, market places and religious shrines. Under the new Beggars Act, they are subject to arrest and internment.

The Poor Home will be constructed near the New Delhi Jail. It will have a reception and classification center besides separate units for able-bodied beggars, disabled beggars and those suffering from leprosy and tuberculosis.

TO SCREEN SICK

After the preliminary screening, lepers and tuberculars will be handed over to recognized isolation hospitals run by the government.

Director of Delhi Administration R. L. Verma, said that "although the beggars will not be made to feel they are in jail, we have selected the site for their Poor Home near the central jail so that they are under constant vigilence."

Verma said many beggars, particularly the lepers, have a tendency to remain "at large."

According to a survey conducted by the Delhi School of Social Work in 1956, there were 3,000 beggars in the capital.

Verma, who is very enthusiastic about the new scheme, said it was bound to solve the problem of beggars who had become a "genuine nuisance" for the authorities.

"Why should they like to remain beggars when we will have trained them as skilled technicians in many a handiwork?" Verma asked.

New State Teachers Will Average $4,400

LANSING (AP) — Teachers with bachelor's degrees from Michigan colleges and universities received an average starting salary of $4,400 annually this fall, the Michigan Education Association (MEA) reports.

The MEA research division surveyed 24 teacher education institutions in the state.

★ ★ ★

The highest annual starting salary was $5,800 and the lowest was $3,400. Graduates going into the metropolitan areas of the state received more money to start than those in outstate areas, the survey showed.

Times to Print in Paris and NY

Undersea Cable Will Link Shops in Unique Journalism Venture

PARIS (AP)—The New York Times begins Thursday the publication of a Paris edition simultaneously with the issuance of the newspaper in New York. Two virtually identical editions will be published in New York and Paris.

The Paris publication is a unique venture in journalism. The new edition will be printed in Paris, but much of the selection, editing, composition and layout will be done in New York.

The printing press near the Paris Opera and the editorial room near Times Square will be linked by teletypesetter circuits—known in the trade as TTS—along an undersea cable and over three radio circuits. Men at keyboards in New York will tap out column after column of news dispatches which will emerge in type from a typesetting machine in Paris.

★ ★ ★

The men at the keyboards in New York punch out perforated tape. The coded tape is then fed into an electrical transmitter which reproduces an identical tape on a reperforator in Paris. This second tape is fed into a machine which automatically casts lines of type.

This system has been used for years in the United States.

In addition to having many identical news stories, the two papers, in New York and in Paris, will have the same headlines and general makeup.

Opossum Defies Policeman's Club

DUNCAN, Okla. (AP)—The next time Policeman Karl Graham tries to dispose of an opossum he'll probably use some way other than hitting it.

While on night patrol duty he found the opossum at a bank building. Rather than shoot it in the city limits, he hit it over the head with the butt of his pistol. The opossum wasn't fazed but the gun handle broke.

Graham gave up and took the animal to the city limits where he turned it loose.

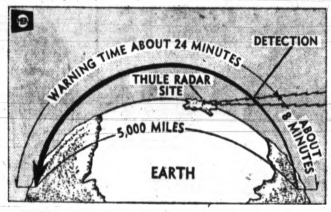
Adenauer Sends Letter for Nikita Khrushchev

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has received a letter from West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. The contents were not disclosed but it is believed to contain a request for more rapid repatriation of German war prisoners still held in the Soviet Union.



ARCTIC GUARDIAN — The radar station at Thule, Greenland — first of three designed to warn North America of a missile attack — is now in operation. Sketch shows how the radar will pick up, compute and report the trajectory of an enemy missile coming over the top of the world. The U. S. and Canada would have from 15 to 24 minutes to get defense operations under way, depending on the distance of the missile's target. The four huge antennas at Thule are 165 by 400 feet in size and have a range of 3,000 miles. Another station at Clear, Alaska, will be ready next summer. The third, completing coverage of the Soviet Union, will go into operation in Yorkshire, England, in 1962.

Expect Award of Contracts

Waterford Twp. Will Act on 2 Elementary Schools Tomorrow

Contracts for two more Waterford Township elementary schools will be awarded at tomorrow night's board of education meeting, according to Supt. William A. Shunck.

Bids for the schools were opened at last month's board meeting and referred to architects Smith & Smith for recommendations.

There will be a discussion on the proposed school amendment on the Nov. 8 ballot which would extend benefits of unlimited tax financing on all school bond issues.

Bids will be opened for construction of a well for the proposed elementary school at the intersection of Williams Lake and Elizabeth Lake roads.

Shunck will present a detailed report on building fund expenditures of the $5 million school bond issue approved by voters two years ago.

Asst. Supt. Dr. Chandos Reid will present a report on phases of current in-service training of the school district's teaching personnel.

There will also be a discussion of items to be included in conjunction with the present and future school building program.

Beauty Has No Value If Too Close Home

While there they checked this year's ranch registry and found the names of guests from Russia, Austria, the Orient, Africa and almost every state in the union.

But there were no Arizonans listed from the home state of the Grand Canyon.

Chatterbox

Satellite Just Won't Shut Up

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Explorer VII satellite just won't shut up.

An official of the National Aeronautics & Space Administration (NASA) says the situation "is getting to be funny—or embarrassing."

When the 91.5-pound satellite went into orbit Oct. 13, 1958, it carried a tiny timer that was supposed to silence its 20-megacycle radio after precisely one year. This was to keep the radio from interfering with the conversation of subsequent satellites with their ground stations.

But when the timer was supposed to throw the cutoff switch, the satellite refused to shut up. At last report it was still braying its way around the world as though in love with its own voice.

Pump Ocean Water Beneath City

Long Beach Due to Stop Sinking

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—For years downtown Long Beach has been slowly sinking—and putting up walls to hold off the ocean.

But this subsidence may stop soon, city officials say, because the palm tree-shaded parks, office buildings sites and broad streets now rest on water instead of air. And it's about time, they say, because one building weighs $22 million has dropped 27 feet since the 1930s.

They blame the oil wells. For years hundreds of them have been pumping out the black gold from an abnormally shallow deposit. The sandy earth was left with nothing to beef it up. The surface began subsiding into the shape of a giant bowl.

As the earth settled, pipelines were pinched off, storm drains and sewers disrupted, railroad tracks buckled and buildings cracked.

PUMPS IN WATER

Most folks just waited and hoped the sinking would stop. But some decided it wouldn't stop while millions of gallons of oil and large deposits of natural gas were being removed. The only remedy, they said, was repressurization.

After extensive legal work, the city started a few years ago pumping sea water into the ground. To date, 250 million barrels have gone through perforated pipes into the sandy soil. In the last year the injection has averaged 370,000 barrels a day.

B. N. Hoffmaster, chief harbor engineer, looked at his charts Monday and announced: "Subsidence has stopped in some areas and has been greatly slowed in others in the last 2½ years."

An annual survey shows land sinkage has been virtually eliminated in the downtown area. The giant bowl is several sizes smaller, leaving the harbor the main trouble spot. Here too, subsidence has been drastically cut. The 1958 study indicated the center—where one firm spent $6 million on dikes—was sinking at the rate of one foot a year. It's half that now.

"If all goes well and plans work out the way we hope they will," said Charles L. Vickers, general manager of the port, "we will be in real good shape to completely eliminate subsidence by a year from now, and possibly as early as next July."

Satchmo Is Big Hit on Swing Into Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Trumpeter Louis Satchmo Armstrong got a boisterous welcome from 100 Nigerian jazz musicians and a cheering crowd of 1,000 as he flew in Tuesday to begin a six-day tour of this newly independent African nation.

★ ★ ★

He was sweating in the humid, 80-degree weather and looked tired, but he told newsmen he felt fine. Armstrong is on a goodwill tour sponsored by the U.S. State Department and an American soft drink company.

Melon Patch Owner Own Worst Enemy

DENISON, Iowa (AP) — A Denison farmer, disturbed by raids on his melon patch, rigged his largest melon so that an auto horn would sound when the melon was moved.

But, his neighbors report, while the farmer and his family were away from home the horn tooted for more than half an hour. The noise didn't bother the melon thieves. They almost cleaned out the patch.

Actress Judy Holliday Has Tumor Removed

NEW YORK (AP) — A tumor described as noncancerous was removed Tuesday from the throat of actress Judy Holliday, a spokesman for her reported.

The spokesman said she was expected to be fully recovered within three weeks.

Car Owners Given Lesson About Keys

SUNNYSIDE, Wash. (AP) — Sunnyside people are looking for the magician who made four cars disappear and then vanished himself —without the cars.

★ ★ ★

All the autos materialized at the police station and the cops were as puzzled as the owners.

★ ★ ★

In each automobile was a note giving the address of the owner. On the doorsteps of the owners' homes were notes saying in effect:

"This will teach you not to leave your keys in your car."

Breeze Through Meeting

Minus two members, the City Commission whipped through a brief agenda last night without a word of controversy.

★ ★ ★

Absent were the two lawyers — Mayor Philip E. Rowston, attending a mayors' convention in San Diego, Calif., and Commissioner Milton R. Henry.

Missing too, from his chair at the end of the commission table was City Manager Walter K. Willman, heading the convention in San Francisco, Calif. of the International City Managers Association (ICMA). Willman's term as ICMA president ends tonight.

Commissioner John A. Dugan, mayor protem, and Robert A. Sherer, assistant city manager, were substituting. Rowston will be back for the meeting next week and Willman the week after.

There were no objections raised at hearings on assessment rolls covering proposed curbs and gutters on South Jessie Street, Prospect to Raeburn, and on Melrose Street, Madison, to Perry.

Adjourned one week to allow protests was a hearing on the roll covering proposed sidewalks on the north side of Willard Street and the west side of Jessie Street.

A report next week was ordered on results of a protest petition turned in after another hearing was over. It was on plans for curbs and gutters on Cameron Avenue, Baltimore to Mt. Clemens.

Hearings scheduled for Oct. 25: On plans for a $11,076 water main in Kennett Road, Stanley to Carlisle, with the assessed cost set at $3,233, and on the assessment roll covering proposed curbs and gutters on Stirling Avenue, Mt. Clemens to Madison.

Evans Products Mulls Merger With Aberdeen

GUNNING FOR GAS — Not missiles but "pigs" are launched by this structure rising out of an Oklahoma prairie. The pigs are spheres of neoprene that are sent through the lines of Colorado Interstate Gas Co. to salvage gasoline from "dips" in the line. Underground, the pigs are pushed along by gas pressure, squeegeeing accumulated gasoline ahead of them. The system is said to have brought out nearly a million gallons in its first two months of operation.

Crashproof Car Not Yet in Sight, Says GM Man

CHICAGO (UPI) — A foolproof or crashproof car is not in sight, safety leaders were told Tuesday.

"The foolproof or crashproof car is not imminent," he said, "and the hope for such will continue to be wishful thinking that only diverts attention from the urgent, primary need for better trained and better controlled drivers."

Kieffer also said automobiles 10 years from now probably won't be radically different from the current models.

Kids to Say 'Thanks' for Muskegon Arena

MUSKEGON (UPI) — "Thank you, Mr. Walker" is the theme of a youth program which today starts a Dedication-Day civic salute of a new $1 million all-purpose arena for Muskegon.

An afternoon parade leads into the arena where youngsters will gather for a formal program of entertainment and speeches, including an address by Bene G. Oosterbaan.

The kickoff activity falls one week ahead of formal dedication of the arena when Vice President Nixon is scheduled to take part as principal speaker.

Statue of Gorilla Turns Into Cozy Apartment

FARMINGDALE: N.J. (UPI)—When the Jersey Jungle animal farm is open for business, Bobar, the mechanical gorilla, stands at his post emitting ferocious roars and waving his arms to attract tourists.

But this year, the 9-foot gorilla, made of wood, chicken wire and canvas, started giving out a curious "chirp, chirp" through his jagged teeth.

Investigation showed that a family of starlings had turned Bobar's head into a cozy, rainproof apartment.

IUE Seeking GE Settlement

Union Negotiators Get Full Authority to End Strike Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) negotiators meet General Electric officials today with blank check authority to settle the 18-day strike on whatever terms they see fit.

But General Electric indicated it would not alter the contract proposals it made Aug. 30, which the IUE has rejected.

Both sides were to meet with federal mediators again this afternoon. No progress was reported in Tuesday's session.

The IUE GE conference board, faced with a defection by its largest local and back-to-work sentiment elsewhere, Tuesday approved Union President James B. Carey's proposal that the negotiating committee be given full authority to sign a new pact without prior approval by the conference board.

The blank check, however, is good only until Sunday. If no agreement has been reached by then, the conference board will hold another meeting a week from today.

The IUE has demanded a two-year contract with 3½ per cent wage increases each year.

GE's Aug. 30 offer was a three-year contract with wage hikes of 3 per cent immediately and 4 per cent in April 1962. A major stumbling block is IUE determination to retain the cost-of-living escalator clause.

Political Opponents Contribute to Funds

Burno got a letter asking him to contribute to Porter's campaign. He gave Porter a $1 check. It was a safe gift. Porter endorsed it and handed it back.

When Mount Holyoke College for women opened in 1837, its Book of Duties said: "The young ladies are to be required to walk one mile per day until the snow renders it desirable to specify time instead of distance." The time was set at three-quarters of an hour.

State Man Says He Was Researching

Denies Spying in Soviet Union

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI) — Mark I. Kaminsky of Edwardsburg, Mich., looked homeward today, denying he did any spying in Russia.

The high school teacher told a Detroit radio station in a transatlantic telephone interview Tuesday night that there is "no truth at all" in the espionage charges. He also denied radio Moscow charges that his companion, Harvey C. Bennett, 26, of Tracy, Calif., had "turned states' evidence against him."

BOOTED BY REDS — Two American tourists, Harvey C. Bennett, 26, (left) of Tracy, Calif., and Mark I. Kaminsky, 28, of Edwardsburg, Mich., talk to newsmen in Vienna, Austria, Tuesday after they were expelled from the Soviet Union. Kaminsky was sentenced to seven years in prison on spy charges but the term was commuted. The Reds claim Bennett turned state's evidence. Kaminsky denies this. The Michigan man said the charges stemmed from research he was doing for a book on Russia's preparation for war.

The Michigan man said he hoped to obtain seats on a plane home today.

Kaminsky, 28, said "They talked with Harvey for hours and hours on end and finally he signed an article in which the wording may have looked like he turned state's evidence, but he didn't. He was a material witness at my trial."

Kaminsky said he was convicted of espionage in the Soviet Union after he admitted traveling through Russia to gather material for a book on the Kremlin's preparations for war.

The tourist, whose family lives on a farm near Niles, Mich., arrived in Zurich Tuesday night. He was sentenced to seven years on spy charges, but the Russians suspended the sentence and expelled Kaminsky and Bennett.

"They told me it would be foolish not to plead guilty," Kaminsky told a news conference here. "They gave me a lawyer. He was not of much assistance, but he cheered me up. He advised me to confess to the charge wholeheartedly and tell the court I felt very remorseful. He stressed the part about 'remorseful' time and again."

"I did not carry out espionage nor did I confess to espionage," he said. "I did confess though that I was getting material for a book."

He explained later that under Soviet law it is considered espionage to gather the material he collected — "such facts as that there are soldiers everywhere in Russia."

He said the subject of the survey was: "The Soviet Union Talks Peace While Preparing for War."

★ ★ ★

He added that he took pictures but saidd they were confiscated.

★ ★ ★

Kaminsky, a big, heavyset man in a light blue suit, said the Russians had treated him well although they subjected him to questioning to eight hours a day.

Every Year Sees More Use of Frozen Foods

Yes, food shoppers are using more frozen vegetables each year, states the Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. The frozen vegetable industry almost tripled its pack from 564 million pounds in 1949 to 1.6 billion pounds in 1959.

To meet consumer wishes for frozen potatoes alone, the industry froze 371 million pounds last year. This was five times more than they froze in 1953. French fries made up eighty-five per cent of the frozen potatoes used last year. Frozen cut corn has "big appeal." More than three times as much was packed in 1959 than was in 1949.

Add a package of cooked mixed vegetables (drained) to a tangy cheese sauce and serve over toast. Nice for lunch.

Vegetable Stuffings Good in Veal Birds

Brown the birds slowly, add ¼ to ½ cup liquid and simmer 45 minutes to 1 hour or until tender. Serve with sour cream gravy.

Soup Is Quick

Here's an exciting new idea for the "Dagwood" rushers—the frantic group who gobble a bite on the run each morning. It's soup—speedy soup—heated in 4 fast minutes, about the time it takes to brush the hair. Try hot buttered tomato soup tomorrow morning. You'll find it energy-giving as well as expedient!

Fish Party Appetizers

Turn left-over fish into crisp pastries for party appetizers this easy way. Make pastry with your favorite recipe or pie crust mix, roll out, cut into squares. Add a generous amount of Spanish olive oil along with salt, pepper and instant minced onion. Place a heaping teaspoon of fish mixture in each square of pastry, fold over, seal and bake in hot oven until pastry is golden and crisp.

Quick Fall Dinner

Fall meetings mean many quick dinners, and they can be good. For one such dinner serve Herbed Hot Pork Sandwiches. Toast slices of bread under the broiler on one side. Turn toast and brush with melted butter flavored with caraway seed, oregano, minced parsley and a dash of garlic salt; brown lightly. Serve heated canned brown gravy with sliced pork over the toast.

Melt currant or grape jelly and use as a quick sauce for cottage pudding.

Special Baked Apples

The addition of Muscatel or Port wine to baked apples makes a savory fall dessert. Fix the baked apple as usual with brown sugar and butter, then, just before removing from the oven, add 1 tablespoon of wine to the cavity of each apple. Serve with wine-flavored whipped cream made by adding 2 tablespoons powdered sugar and 2 tablespoons wine to each cup of the whipped cream.

Plan to Eat Cheese

Cheese! Cheese! There's lots of cheese! This is one food which will be featured in many stores this month states the Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josepine Lawyer. There are several reasons for this.

In the summer, cows produced more fresh milk than consumers used. Some of this surplus went into cheese. Now much of this cheese is aged and ready for sale. There is also more cheese than last year due to the fact that milk production has been slightly higher than a year ago.

FLUFFY DIPS — Three new party dips are all prepared from the same base — a blend of mayonnaise and whipped crystals of instant nonfat dry milk. One has dried beef and mushrooms added to it; the second adds egg and pickles; for the third cheese and ground peanuts make the difference.

Whip Nonfat Dry Milk Use in New Party Dips

A new kind of party dip, fluffy and flavorful has been developed. A blend of mayonnaise and whipped crystals of instant nonfat dry milk is the magical base for a three-in-one combination. Add a different list of ingredients to each third of the light-textured mixture, and a trio of party dips is ready to serve with your favorite assortment of crackers.

FLUFFY DIPS

1 cup instant nonfat dry milk crystals
⅓ cup ice water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1-1½ cups mayonnaise or salad dressing

Mix instant crystals with ice water in bowl. Whip until soft peaks form (about 8 minutes). Add lemon juice; continue beating until stiff peaks form (3-4 minutes longer). Lightly fold mayonnaise or salad dressing into whipped instant crystals to blend. Makes about 4 cups.

Fluffy Dried Beef and Mushroom Dip:

Blend ½ cup finely chopped dried beef and 3 tablespoons finely chopped cooked mushrooms into one-third of the basic fluffy dip mixture.

Fluffy Egg and Pickle Dip:

Blend 2 hard-cooked eggs, sieved, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard and 2 tablespoons finely chopped sweet mixed pickles into one-third of the basic fluffy dip mixture.

Cheese Dip:

Blend ½ cup grated Cheddar cheese and 2 tablespoons ground peanuts into one-third of the basic fluffy dip mixture.

Lettuce Is Fit for Queen, You

If you want to feel like a Queen, be sure to include lettuce in your salads. Well, anyway, it's known that Queen Catherine, the eighth wife of King Henry VIII, used lettuce in her salads.

Catherine, if she were around today, would surely be mighty happy with so much lettuce available, to say nothing of the abundance of other fresh vegetables for fixing the perfect salad. In her day, edible vegetables were very scarce. If she wanted a special salad, Catherine would send a messenger to Holland. Henry, just to please her highness, even commissioned a French priest to travel the continent to acquire a better knowledge of vegetable culture.

Catherine, though, would certainly agree with the famous chef who once called lettuce the world's best salad ingredient. And don't just restrict that to a crispy, ruffled frame for salad plates. Serve lettuce in tossed salads or shredded and combined with other vegetables and dressings, as an accent for meat and egg sandwiches, and if you'd like to be fancy about it, here's an idea for Swiss lettuce rolls that would have made Queen Catherine really smack her lips:

Spread a combination of cottage cheese, chopped nuts, grated carrot and mayonnaise on washed and dried lettuce leaves. Roll as tightly as possible, secure with toothpicks and chill for one hour. Cut the roll into slanted slices with a sharp knife. Swiss lettuce rolls can be served as a garnish for meat, as part of a vegetable plate, or as a special salad.

Pork Pancake Sandwich a Breakfast Treat

Next Sunday morning try sausage and pancake "sandwiches" for a treat that's different and easy to make. Thoroughly brown pork sausage meat, breaking it up with a fork as it cooks. Make a batch of pancakes and put two together with a filling of pork sausage. Serve with maple sirup.

Make a "batch" of pancakes in advance and keep hot by placing in a warm oven between folds of a towel which has been placed in a shallow baking pan.

Butternut Squash Rates High on Fall List

Abundant supplies of winter squash are signs of fall, states the Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. How many of the five varieties have you used?

You'll experience a treat when you try the tan colored butternut squash. It's a favorite for several reasons. The butternut squash has a light tan skin which is thin and easy to cut. The seed cavity is very small and there is little waste. It's flesh is smooth and free from stringiness.

Sub Gum Soup Almost a Meal

Beef Sub Gum Soup has the tantalizing flavor of the Far East, but is made with American down-to-earth ease. Tiny cubes of beef are browned to a turn, then mixed with Chinese vegetables, rice bouillon and soy sauce to simmer till the flavors blend. Note that except for the meat all are truly convenience foods. The vegetables and bouillon are canned and the rice is added to the mixture just as it comes from the package.

★ ★ ★

Rice is so handy to have on hand at all times. It keeps indefinitely, and can be cooked in minutes to serve as a vegetable or added to soups, salads, casseroles and a wide variety of dishes. You'll appreciate its economy, too.

★ ★ ★

Beef Sub Gum Soup is a hearty soup which is a nourishing meal in a bowl. Little is needed to complete the meal. But to carry out a Far Eastern menu, you can include a simple dessert of preserved kumquats with steaming cups of tea.

Beef Sub Gum Soup

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (No. 2) mixed Chinese vegetables
3 cans (10½ oz.) beef bouillon
2 cups water
¼ cup uncooked rice
2 tablespoons soy sauce
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 egg, beaten

Brown beef in butter. Drain vegetables and chop. Add to meat with bouillon, water, rice, soy sauce and pepper. Bring to a boil. Stir. Cover and simmer 40 minutes. Remove from heat. Slowly stir in egg. Let stand until set. Makes 4 servings.

Swedish supper: your best meat balls (made miniature size) along with a casserole of scalloped potatoes and paper-thin slices of cucumber marinated in vinegar, sugar, salt and pepper. Apple pudding for dessert!

You Can Vary Bread Pudding

Peanut butter's so much better for you, anyway. Acutally, the peanut is full of health-giving nutrients, being packed with protein and containing a good amount of energy-giving fat and the valuable "B" vitamins. You'll do well to remember that, Mom, when the youngsters come traipsing into the kitchen with their hunger story during the summertime vacation.

Of course, you can use peanut butter in many interesting ways . . . not just as inbetween snacks for the kiddies. But they, as well as the rest of the family, will really go for Peanut Butter Bread Pudding, prepared like this:

Scald two cups of milk and add ½ cup of sugar, ½ teaspoon of salt, 1 teaspoon butter or margarine, and 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Beat 2 eggs and gradually add the milk mixture.

Spread ¼ cup of peanut butter on three slices of bread, then cut the bread into small cubes. Put the cubes into a greased baking dish and pour in the milk mixture. Then set the baking dish in a pan of hot water, and bake immediately in a 350 degree oven for about 1¼ hours, or until set.

This recipe should provide enough pudding for four servings, but you're almost bound to wind up with requests for "seconds." So you suit yourself as to whether you want to double the recipe.

Spices in Stew

Beef stew one of the family's favorite foods? Surprise them with a new flavor by adding a tablespoon of Mixed Pickling Spice to the simmering stew. Tie the spices in a little cheesecloth bag and they can be lifted out with neat dispatch when the stew is done.

Low Calorie Fish Broil a Dieter's Delight

President Eisenhower recently praised the fishing industry for helping to maintain the high standard of nutrition enjoyed by Americans. He said, "The annual observance of Fish and Seafood Week provides an opportunity to salute the men and women of America's fishing industry. The products of their work and skill contribute much to the health and welfare of us all. In maintaining the high standard of nutrition enjoyed by our citizens, the fishing industry will continue to play a major role."

The Fish and Seafood Parade, as the special week is called — an observance of the commercial fisheries and the U.S. Government — serves to bring to our attention the bounty of our oceans, rivers and lakes at a time when fishery products are especially plentiful and economical.

Among the most widely used fishery products, readily available throughout the country, are frozen fillets — cod, ocean perch, haddock, sole, flounder and many regional species. The nutritional qualities of foods from the sea which President Eisenhower has mentioned are all present in these fish; and research being conducted indicates more and more that the oils found in fish are a depressant of cholesterol in the blood. Cholesterol, as most of us know, is the number one suspect in hardening of the arteries and heart disease.

Broiled fish fillets, therefore, prepared with low-calorie toppings described below are the ideal answer to diet problems, as fishery products are remarkably high in animal protein, low in calories if not accompanied by rich sauces, and contain oils known to be anti cholesterol.

Low-Calorie Fish Broil

Select a lean fish such as flounder (171 calories per pound), haddock, halibut; ocean perch or red snapper. If in doubt about which fish are lean and which are fat, ask the fish dealer; he will be able to tell you. Have the fish cut thin if it isn't already cut. A serving is a serving, thick or thin; you'll never miss that extra little bit.

The pan in which the fish is broiled need not be greased (a calorie saved); the moisture from the fish keeps it from sticking. Preheat broiler pan and arrange fish in hot pan. Cover with any of the following low-calorie toppings and broil 2 to 3 inches from the source of heat — 4 minutes if fish is thin; 8 minutes, turning once, if fish is thicker than flounder, for example. Fish is done when it flakes easily when tested with a fork.

The toppings given below are created to give flavor and appetite appeal to the fish by adding the fewest calories possible. Ordinarily the browned and colorful appetizing color is achieved with tons of butter and paprika. Not an ounce of butter, margarine or shortening is used here.

1. Brush with a thin layer of Worcestershire sauce, sprinkle with paprika.

2. Cover during last three minutes of cooking with a mixture of minced cucumber, pimiento, onion and salt and pepper.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

4. Spread with a thin layer of catsup or chili sauce (fewer calories than butter).

Cake Dessert Can Be Kept in Freezer

During the apple season, try this new recipe for applesauce cake which can be home frozen and served months later.

Applesauce Raisin Cake

1 package spice cake mix
½ cup raisins
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
2 eggs
1¼ cups unsweetened applesauce

Add raisins and lemon peel to spice cake mix. Blend until raisins and peels are well coated. Add eggs and applesauce and blend as directed on package. Pour into a 9-inch square pan and bake in a 350 degree oven for 40 minutes. Unmold and cool cake. Cut into 9 equal squares. Slice each square cross-wise.

Minted Apple Cream Filling

1 pint heavy cream
½ cup confectioners sugar
½ cup unsweetened applesauce
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh mint

Whip cream, confectioners sugar until stiff. Fold in applesauce and fresh mint. Place a spoonful of cream mixture on one cake square and cover with another, making a sandwich. Place sandwiches in pint and one-half size home freezing containers, separating layers with foil. Snap on rigid plastic lids and freeze. To serve, allow to defrost for around 1 hour. Top with applesauce.

Having a party? Fold red caviar—it comes in jars of various sizes—into softened cream cheese. Serve as a spread with crisp flaky crackers.

Food Ads Don't Tell About Sales Alone

Don't kid yourself! Food ads don't always announce special sales, reports the Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. That is not the whole purpose of food advertisements.

Food ads are meant to announce what the grocer has for sale. Food ads can serve as reminders of foods that are in season. Food ads usually offer some clues about quality or size along with the price of the food.

Is the price a special one? How do price and quality compare with price and quality of the same food at another time or in another place? The answers to these questions are up to you.

Bean Soup Takes the Spotlight This Month

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

You know that Michigan is first in the nation in the production of navy beans. Beans may be less glamorous than autos, but they keep a lot of Michigan people in clover.

Probably the best known bean soup in the world is that served in the Senate restaurant of the U.S. Capitol. It has been on the menu daily since 1907 except for one day when it was simply forgotten. Here is that recipe:

Senate Bean Soup

Wash 2 pounds small navy pea beans with hot water until beans are white. Put on stove with 4 quarts of hot water. Braise one onion chopped in a little butter and when light brown, add to the beans.

Boil slowly for 3 hours in a covered pot, with 1½ pounds smoked ham hocks. Season with salt and pepper. Serve. Do not add the salt until ready to serve.

The newest version of bean soup is a convertible recipe. Cream of bean soup may be served hot or cold. This is a Michigan recipe.

Cream of Bean Soup

2 cups navy beans
2 onions, chopped
½ teaspoon celery salt
¼ teaspoon curry powder
2 cups boiling water
4 chicken bouillon cubes
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1 cup light cream
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika
Chopped chives

Wash and soak beans in water to cover overnight; add onions, celery salt, curry powder, boiling water and bouillon cubes and simmer until very tender and beans are soft and mushy, adding more water if necessary. Press bean mixture through sieve or mix in blender until smooth.

Melt butter and stir in flour until blended. Gradually stir in milk and cook until thickened. Stir in bean puree, cream, pepper and paprika, mix well and reheat without boiling. Sprinkle with chopped chives just before serving.

To serve cold, place in refrigerator several hours and stir to blend before serving. Serves six to eight.

ALTERNATE: Substitute a few drops of tabasco and a pinch of allspice for the curry powder and celery salt. Add the golden touch of chopped hard boiled egg yolk as a final topping.

If you like more vegetables in your soup, the following recipe may appeal to you.

Navy Bean Soup

½ pound navy beans
1½ quarts water
1 cup canned tomatoes
2 onions, finely chopped
1 small clove garlic, minced
½ cup celery tops, chopped
1 sprig parsley
2 carrots, diced
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons minced onion, additional
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

Wash and pick over the beans. Cover with the water and let stand overnight. In the morning, simmer until tender in the same water, adding the tomatoes, onions, garlic, celery top and parsley tied together, and the carrot. When the vegetables are tender, take out the celery and parsley.

Moisten the flour with the milk, add to the hot soup and again bring to boiling point, stirring constantly. Meanwhile, brown the 2 tablespoons minced onion in the butter, add vinegar and just before serving, stir these into the soup with salt and pepper. Serves 8.

Fruit and Cheese Blend in Hawaiian Sandwich

Perfect as the paradise which is its homeland—this HAWAIIAN CHEESE SANDWICH. Featured ingredient, straight from the aloha isles, is 1 cup of drained, crushed pineapple added to a blend of 1 (3-ounce) package of cream cheese and ½ cup, each, of mashed banana and chopped pecans. For a flavor dividend, spread the filling on slices of raisin bread.

Pour Lemon Sauce Over Ice Cream

Melt-in-your-mouth goodness and creamy consistency characterize this truly French dessert. The slightly warmed sauce will soften, but not melt the ice cream, blending the flavors.

Serve with Petit Fours, and Lemon Mints.

Lemon Sauce

3 tablespoons lemon juice
6 egg yolks
1 whole egg
⅔ cup granulated sugar
½ cup water
Pinch of salt

Combine all ingredients and beat slowly over boiling water until mixture reaches creamy consistency. Serve over vanilla ice cream.

Freezer Efficiency

Simplify the search for foods in your freezer by labeling each package as it is processed. Home economists at Michigan State University suggest you include the name of the food and the date it was packed. If the food is packed in more than one form, add the type of pack used. There are special crayons and labels available for labeling frozen food packages.

Mushroom Topping

For a change from potatoes and gravy, serve potatoes with mushroom topping. Cook some chopped onion in butter until tender but not brown. Add canned mushroom sauce; heat. Cut hot boiled potatoes in half and serve sauce over them.

Crunchy Filling Pleases Kids

Here's a new sandwich filling for lunch box toters of all ages. "Western Ham Sandwich Filling" is put together with raisins, ham and mayonnaise with a little mustard and lemon juice for accent. Spread between your favorite bread, it's sure to be a winning combination. You can vary the basic raisin-ham filling by adding grated raw carrot and or chopped peanuts.

★ ★ ★

Tangy-sweet, chewy raisins give fine flavor and texture to other sandwich fillings, too. Chop and combine them with deviled ham, cream or cheddar cheese, ground or finely chopped nuts and carrots, peanut butter or other spreads. Individual packages of seedless raisins are easily carried in lunch bag, box or sweater pocket and offer a quick, nutritious between-meal snack.

Western Ham Sandwich Filling

½ cup light or dark raisins
2 cups ground or finely chopped cooked ham
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup finely grated carrot
¼ cup chopped peanuts

Rinse and dry raisins; chop coarsely. Combine with ham, mustard, lemon juice and mayonnaise. For variety, add either grated carrot or peanuts, or both, to basic filling. A little additional mayonnaise may be added for a moister filling, if desired. Store in covered jar in refrigerator. Makes about 2 cups.

Basic Cake's the Same — Topping's New

Sister's Banana Cake

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 cup mashed ripe bananas
2 tablespoons milk
¾ cup chopped walnuts
Juice of one orange

Sift the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Cream butter and 1 cup sugar with vanilla and orange rind; beat in eggs thoroughly, one at a time.

Stir in flour mixture alternately with banana and milk. Fold in nuts. Turn into buttered pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches). Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 40 minutes.

Mix remaining ½ cup sugar and orange juice; pour over cake in pan as soon as it comes from oven. Cool in pan on rack; loosen edges and turn out.

Ice Cream Needs Right Temperature

Ice cream should be served cold but not so cold that is is too hard to dip. Twelve degrees is about the right serving temperature, according to ice cream producers. This is a stage where your servings are creamy, smooth, yet still firm and have the finest flavor.

If the ice cream is too hard to dip from the container, let it stand covered at room temperature momentarily. It should soften just enough to enable you to scoop out the servings you need.

To hold ice cream for lengthy periods, store it in the freezer, or in the zero degree freezing compartment of your refrigerator. Or if you wish to store it in the ice tray compartment, it will keep safely for several hours with this storage method.

★ ★ ★

Simply remove ice cream from its carton and place it in empty ice cube trays. Cover the trays tightly with waxed paper, freezer paper or foil. Place trays in the part of the freezing unit that is contacted by coils. Turn control to "cold" setting.

For Better Tomato Soup

Pumpkin Desserts - New Taste Treat

New and delicious "Full Festival" of pumpkin desserts. No pastry! No baking! Can be made ahead of time! You'll surely want to make one or all of these festive desserts. M-m-m-m that flavor!

Spicy Pumpkin Chiffon

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
2 eggs, separated
½ cup brown sugar
1½ cups mashed cooked or canned pumpkin
1 tablespoon pumpkin pie spice
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
6 tablespoons granulated sugar
¼ cup slivered almonds
¼ cup chopped dates
2 to 4 tablespoons finely minced crystallized ginger

Soften gelatine in cold water. Beat egg yolks; add brown sugar, pumpkin, pumpkin pie spice and salt. Mix well. Stir in milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring, until it begins to boil. Cook for 2 minutes, continuing to stir. Remove from heat; mix in softened gelatine. Cool.

Add cream of tartar to egg whites; beat until fluffy. Gradually add the 6 tablespoons sugar, beating until stiff but not dry. Without washing beaters, beat pumpkin mixture until smooth. Mix in almonds, dates and crystallized ginger. Then fold in egg whites.

Pour into a mold; chill until firm. To unmold, dip quickly in hot water; turn out onto plate. Garnish base of mold with whipped cream, if desired. Yields 5 cups chiffon.

¼ cup cold water
3 eggs, separated
½ cup brown sugar
1½ cups mashed cooked or canned pumpkin
1 tablespoon pumpkin pie spice
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
6 tablespoons granulated sugar
Cream layer:
2 teaspoons gelatine
½ cup water

Get Apple Book From Mrs. Lawyer

Have you tried an apple a day in the lunch boxes yet? The Michigan apple harvesting season is in full swing says the Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

Michigan grows over twenty apple varieties, but McIntosh, Jonathan, Red Delicious and Northern Spy are the varieties produced in largest volume. Of these, the Red Delicious is strictly for eating or use in salads. The other varieties can be used for all purposes.

If you'd like a free copy of Michigan's apple varieties and suggestions for using them, write or call Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, 1250 W. Boulevard, Pontiac, Michigan. Farmers are picking apples, and you'll want to pick the right apple for the right use.

Broil Creamy Sandwiches

This recipe for broiled chicken sandwich adds a few embellishments that make the sandwich hearty enough to suit the sharpened appetites that go hand in hand with nippy weather. The chicken mixture calls for plenty of diced chicken as well as celery, pickle relish and mayonnaise all blended together with double nutritious evaporated milk. Spread this on toast, top off with a goodly portion of shredded Cheddar cheese and a bright red dot of chili sauce and you have a fine main dish type sandwich ready to broil.

Since the bread is already toasted, the sandwiches only need be in the broiler a few minutes. Hustle them from broiler to the table as they're their best with the chicken "filling" hot and the cheese melty.

Broiled Chicken Sandwiches

¾ cup mayonnaise-type salad dressing
½ cup finely cut celery
½ cup sweet pickle relish
2 jars (6½ oz. each) boned chicken, diced or 2 cups diced cooked chicken
½ cup evaporated milk
6 slices toast
¾ lb. shredded Cheddar cheese
6 tablespoons chili sauce

Mix mayonnaise-type salad dressing, celery, pickle relish and chicken together in a medium size mixing bowl. Stir in evaporated milk. Spread an even amount of chicken mixture on each slice of toast. Top with shredded cheese. Place a tablespoon of chili sauce on top of each sandwich. Place under preheated broiler until cheese is melted, about 3 minutes. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Don't Overlook Winter Squash

Meet the hard-shelled winter squash family for around 10 to 15 cents per pound. These come dressed in shiny green, yellow or tan and they cook so easily remarks the Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

If you are a beginner, simply start by cutting the butternut, buttercup or acorn squash in half. Place the cut side down in a little water and let it bake in a moderately hot oven at 350 to 375 degrees for 40 to 60 minutes.

Cut the big Hubbard squash into pieces. Do not try to peel. Put it into a kettle with a small amount of boiling water. Cover and steam over low flame until the pulp is tender. Then drain, scoop out the pulp, mash, season and serve.

Cook books and friends may suggest many ways to serve winter squash. It is easy to prepare . . . and at 10 to 15 cents a lb. winter squash is an economical choice for fall menus.

BROILED CHICKEN SANDWICHES—A final sprinkling of shredded Cheddar cheese, a little chili sauce and these open face chicken sandwiches will be all ready for a quick trip to the broiler. They'll emerge toasty hot with the cheese temptingly melty, hearty enough to serve as the main dish for Saturday night supper.

Cooked Vegetable Salad Is Attractive

Now is the season of frequent entertaining, both formal and informal, and many a buffet supper will be staged in the coming months. The perfect buffet menu, of course, is one that's entirely prepared in advance and can be kept waiting for hours without wilting or drying up.

Casserole dishes have an enduring popularity because they fulfill both these demands. However, instead of the usual tossed salad, which usually looks and tastes quite sad after an hour of standing, a "cooked salad" of Spanish-Mexican inspiration waits better and is a far more substantial offering.

For an attractive platter, select vegetables which will be a contrast in color and texture; cook them until just tender but still a little crisp, and marinate each separately in a blend of Spanish olive oil, vinegar and condiments. These can all be prepared as much as a day ahead; they do not even have to be kept in refrigeration.

If you need extra refrigerator space for a chilled dessert or hors d'oeuvres, remove the vegetables from the refrigerator several hours ahead, arrange them attractively on a large platter and cover with waxed paper or pliofilm. The vegetables have more flavor, actually, if not too cold. Room temperature is just about right.

A sprinkling of chopped pimiento-stuffed olives, parsley and capers as garnish over the top of the vegetables add both color and flavor. Additional dressing can be served on the side.

To go with a casserole of macaroni, ham and cheese, the vegetable might be artichoke hearts, carrots, limas and tiny beets (these could come from a can). If the casserole is a rice dish such as Jambalaya or Arroz con Pollo (Chicken with Rice), the vegetables on the platter might be string beans, zucchini squash, broccoli, and wedges of raw tomato.

Or, if it is beef or chicken pie, cold potatoes, peas, cauliflower and carrots might be chosen. The vegetables, in other words, will complement the casserole.

Besides the casserole dish and the vegetable platter, to complete the buffet supper menu you need only bread or rolls of some sort, dessert and coffee. If hors d'oeuvres are to precede the casserole course, these might be easily-prepared pates or dips, tiny boiled shrimp served with mayonnaise, rolled anchovies on egg slices, or other ready-to-serve appetizers selected from the hostess section of the supermarket.

An example of a Spanish "cooked salad" is given, here, but any vegetables may be substituted for those suggested.

Spanish Vegetable Platter

2 medium potatoes, peeled and cooked
1 cup string beans, cooked
2 carrots, cooked, cubed
1 package frozen artichoke hearts, cooked
1 or 2 zucchini squash, cooked
½ cup olive oil
¼ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon salt (or to taste)
½ teaspoon black pepper
1 tablespoon grated onion
¼ cup chopped stuffed olives
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 tablespoon capers

All vegetables should be cooked until tender but still crisp. Drain, cool. Combine olive oil, vinegar, salt, pepper and grated onion; divide dressing among vegetales, marinating each vegetable separately.

Shortly before dinner is to be served, arrange vegetables attractively on platter, garnishing with parsley sprigs or curly chicory. Combine chopped olives, parsely and capers and sprinkle over top. Serves 8 to 10.

New Yams Star in Several Recipes

It's yam-time in Louisiana! The harvesting of the main crop is under way and yams are already being shipped to markets all over the country. That means it's yam-time in your town, too . . . time to start enjoying fresh yams in your fall meals.

Yams are such an important crop in Louisiana that each year a Yambilee celebration is held in October in the town of Opelousas. Parades and pageants, exhibits and contests, balls and the selection of the Yam Queen for a year are all a part of this colorful, jubilant festival.

Yams are an appetizing vegetable to serve with pork, which is always a favorite meat in the fall. Piquant Yams on Pork Chops have an intriguing flavor, the result of blending sweet yams, tart applesauce and sharp horse-radish. Try 'em, you'll love 'em!

Another new recipe is an unusual idea for entertaining, Yam Balls with Hot Sauce. These hot and tempting tidbits are sure to please.

Piquant Yams on Pork Chops

4 medium-sized yams, cooked, peeled and mashed
2 teaspoons prepared horse-radish
1 cup apple sauce
4 loin pork chops, about ½-inch thick
Salt and pepper

Combine yams, horse-radish and apple sauce; mix well. Arrange pork chops in 9-inch square baking pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top with yam mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour, or until pork chops are done. Makes 4 servings.

* * *

Yam Balls with Hot Sauce

1 cup mashed cooked yams
1 egg, beaten
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
Fine dry bread crumbs
¾ cup chili sauce
1 tablespoon capers
1 tablespoon prepared horse-radish
Fat

Combine yams, egg, ½ cup crumbs and salt; blend. Shape into ½-inch balls. Coat with crumbs. Combine chili sauce, capers and horse-radish; mix well. Chill. Cook yam balls in hot deep fat (385 degrees) 1-2 minutes, or until lightly browned. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve on cocktail picks with chili sauce mixture. Makes about 24 balls.

* * *

Try serving yams with another southern vegetable, okra. And yams and turkey always go well together. Cajun Creamed Yams and Turkey is a good way to use leftover turkey.

Louisiana Yams with Okra

6 medium-sized yams
1 package (10-ounce) frozen whole baby okra
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind

Cook yams covered in boiling water until tender. Cook okra as directed on package, drain if necessary. Arrange yams and okra in serving dish. Sprinkle with ½ teaspoon salt. Combine remaining ingredients; mix well. Top yams and okra with sour cream sauce. Makes 6 servings.

* * *

Cajun Creamed Yams and Turkey

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 large onion, sliced
1½ cups sliced mushrooms
1½ cups diced cooked turkey
4 medium-sized yams, cooked, peeled and diced
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup sour cream
4 slices toast

Melt butter or margarine. Add onion and mushrooms and cook over medium heat 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add turkey, yams, salt and pepper and sour cream. Heat to serving temperature, stirring frequently. Serve on toast. Makes 4 servings.

Fragrance Will Tell

Bake delicious apple-raisin squares for a breakfast surprise or dessert. Prepare a rich coffee cake batter and fold in ½ cup finely-chopped light or dark raisins and 1 cup coarsely grated apple. Turn into baking pan and sprinkle with mixture of 2 tablespoons brown sugar, ½ cup chopped nuts and a teaspoon cinnamon. Bake and serve warm and fragrant.

Crisp Cauliflower Excellent in Salad

Fresh cauliflower of top quality is now easy to find says the Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. You'll find most large heads are about 40 cents each.

Cauliflower is of top quality when the flowerts are snowy white and free from discoloration; when the individual clusters are tight and close. If there is space around the cauliflower clusters this indicates over-age. The jacket of leaves around the head should be bright green in color.

Raw cauliflower is tasty sliced in salads, and can also be used on a snack plate. Place bit-size pieces of cauliflower on the tray along with a cheese dip and let guests help themselves.

Delicate Dessert

You'll find Rice and Fruit Cream a hearty but delicately flavored dessert. To make 6 servings: combine 1½ cups cooked rice, 1 No. 13 ounce can pears (drained and cut up) with ½ cup chopped walnuts and 20 miniature marshmallows. Fold in 1 cup whipped cream, blending well. Chill thoroughly and serve in sherbet dishes with maraschino cherry garnish.

Layer sponge cake with sugared sliced strawberries and top each serving with a scoop of vanilla ice cream and a few whole berries. Company fare!

Michigan's 3rd-Ranked Prep Grid Power Here Friday

Unbeaten Flint Northern Faces PCH at Wisner

Chiefs Risk 3-0-1 Mark in Crucial Valley Game With Vikings

By BILL CORNWELL

Flint Northern, also unbeaten, brings its No. 3 state rating and high-powered attack to Wisner Stadium Friday night for an all-important Saginaw Valley Conference game with the Chiefs.

Coach Andy McDonald's Vikings were ranked 3rd in this week's Associated Press Class A high school grid poll and there is no reason to doubt the validity of their lofty position in the voting.

Sheer logic dictates that PCH is the underdog here Friday and no one knows it better than coach Paul Dellerba and his gridders as they prepare for the Flint invasion.

But the Chiefs have surprised a lot of people already this fall and they are filled with the confidence and enthusiasm that makes them believe they can upset the Vikings.

Northern, with speed to burn, has crushed four opponents so far this season. In order, the Vikings disposed of Mt. Clemens, Flint Southwestern, Saginaw High and Muskegon. As yet, nobody has even come close to stopping them.

The Vikings are favored for the simple reason that they have much more experienced personnel, especially in the forward wall where football games are won or lost nearly 100 per cent of the time.

★ ★ ★

There are experienced players at almost every position in the Northern line. Contrasting this, the Chiefs are "green" in front with the exception of end Elick Shorter and guard John Skelly.

End Carl Harris, tackles Jerry Horsha and Leroy McFadden, guard Jim Mawdsley and center Jim Livingston form a solid line for Northern, both offensively and defensively.

Northern reportedly has more over-all team speed than PCH, although the Chiefs are by no means slow and appear able to match the Vikings in backfield speed.

The Vikings boast two veteran fleet-footed halfbacks — Hue Edwards and Craig Nourse — plus Marvin Rettenmund, a 3rd-string quarterback last season who has developed rapidly into a very capable field general this year.

Northern also has another speedster, halfback Clarence Redmond, a gift from city rival Flint Central after the family moved into the Viking school zone.

Northern stands 1-0 in the league and 4-0 altogether. PCH is 1-0-1 in the SVC and 3-0-1 over-all.

The Chiefs own non-conference victories over Waterford and Wyandotte plus a 21-0 verdict over Saginaw and a 20-20 tie with Arthur Hill in league action.

Hayes Jones, Pontiac Central's all time track great and Olympic handler in the summer Games at Rome, will be honored at halftime by the citizens of the city of Pontiac.

Certificates of appreciation will be presented to Jones by Mayor Pro-Tem John Dugan, President James Jenkins of the Kiwanis Club and PCH Principal Francis Staley.

Jones will also demonstrate his hurdling ability with a run across the gridiron.

Friday's PCH-Flint Northern contest begins at 8 p.m.

Pontiac Press Photo

CENTRAL'S HOPE — Pontiac Central may have come up with an all-state candidate in halfback Dick McCauley, senior speedster, who has rolled up 577 yards rushing in 69 carries for an 8.3 average thus far this season. McCauley is Pontiac Central's hope for an upset of highly favored Flint Northern, the third ranked class A team in Michigan this week. The game Friday night will be played at Wisner Stadium.

Moose Krause Speaker at Elks Sports' Night

Edward W. (Moose) Krause, reknown athletic director at the University of Notre Dame, will be the guest speaker in the second Quarterback's night at the Elks Thursday night.

★ ★ ★

Last month, Michigan State athletic director Biggie Munn was the guest speaker and next month Fritz Crisler of the University of Michigan will be featured in the series.

Krause went to Notre Dame in 1930 after a great prep career in Chicago, and in college he was named to the All-America football and basketball teams, an honor achieved by very few men.

He was a varsity gridder for three seasons and in basketball he set numerous school records in three years.

Because of his size, Krause was dubbed "Moose" during his undergraduate days and the tag has stuck with him. Upon graduation in 1934 he served as athletic director and coach at St. Mary's College in Winona, Minn. Later he went to Holy Cross and in 1942 he went back to Notre Dame as line coach under Frank Leahy.

His coaching career was interrupted by the war when he entered the Marine Corps. In 1946 and 1947 as line coach under Leahy, he helped coach Notre Dame to the national championships and as head basketball coach his team won 20 and lost only four.

He became athletic director in 1949, after serving for one year as assistant.

Krause has been very active in civic and community affairs as well as athletics. He has been a member of the South Bend Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Board of Directors of the United Fund.

Married to the former Miss Elizabeth Linden of Chicago, he is the father of three children.

The dinner at the Elks will get underway at 6:30 p.m. Thursday. Members of the Elks and their guests are welcome to attend.

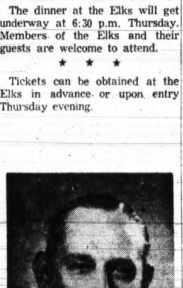
Tickets can be obtained at the Elks in advance or upon entry Thursday evening.



"MOOSE" KRAUSE

Mantle Played for One Boss; Now He's Gone

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Slugger Mickey Mantle appeared a bit hurt today when informed that Casey Stengel had been fired as manager of the New York Yankees.

"It'll be different," Mantle said. "I've never played for anyone else."

Mantle, whom Stengel described as "possibly the best player in the American League," said he was not shocked by the firing "just surprised."

"I'd like to see him back and thought he would be back," Mantle said. "I don't know of any reason for it—he's got to be a good manager—his record is better . . ."

Gould Paces Hills JV to Win Over Milford

Bruce Gould returned the opening kickoff 67 yards for a touchdown and dashed 62 yards on a reverse in the 3rd quarter for another score to lead the Bloomfield Hills junior varsity football team to an 18-13 victory over the Milford jayvees Tuesday on the Hills gridiron. The Hills' JV record now stands 2-0-1.

★ ★ ★

Bloomfield's other TD came on a 23-yard run by Rick Frick in the 3rd period. Milford tallied in the 1st stanza on Al Carlson's 6-yard scamper and again in the 2nd on a 10-yard pass play from Skip Miller to Gary Motley. Miller's pass to Scott Lovejoy added the extra point. Milford was ahead at halftime, 13-6.

Ralph Houk Is Favored to Replace Stengel

NEW YORK (AP) — Informed baseball men were ready to lay odds today that Ralph Houk, New York coach for the past three years, will succeed Casey Stengel as manager of the Yankees in 1961.

Stengel, who brought the Yankees 10 pennants and seven world championships in a 12-year tenure, was let out yesterday because he was 70 years old. Houk is 41.

Houk, a former catcher with the Yankees, who returned to the organization after serving a term as manager of the Denver club of the American Association, is expected to be introduced in his new capacity during a press conference tomorrow.

It will come as no surprise to anyone if, at the same time, Yankee president Dan Topping announces George M. Weiss' resignationas general manager. Topping co-owner of the club along with vice-president Del Webb, has taken a more active part in the club's operations in recent months.

Unlike Stengel, who will completely sever his connections with the club when his two-year contract expires Oct. 31, the 65-year-old Weiss will be retained in an advisory capacity. Weiss' contract still has several years to run.

Roy Hamey, 58, at present assistant general manager, probably will be named to succeed Weiss. Also moving into the front office would be Jack White, the present general manager of the Richmond farm in the International League, and Arthur (Red) Patterson, currently publicity director of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Bob Fishel, the club's able public relations director and a big favorite with newspapermen, will remain. Patterson, Fishel's predecessor with the Yankees, will assist White, who has been tabbed as the future big boss of the Yankees. Hamey's contract has another year to run.

Stengel bowed out and Weiss will follow because Topping and Webb agreed "there should be an age limit." In the future the club will not employ a manager after he's 63.

Stengel, chagrined and bitter over his dismissal, intimated he would be amendable to an offer to manage elsewhere.

"My wife Edna," he said, "would like me to get some money some place."

Stengel will get plenty of money when he officially leaves the Yankees at the end of the month. Besides his estimated $80,000 salary, he will receive a bonus of $100,000 as his share of the club's profit-sharing plan.

But no amount of money could salve his badly hurt pride, which he tried to protect by saying he would have liked to return as Yankee manager but not under the present conditions.

★ ★ ★

"If I wanted to come back," he said, "I would have asked for certain things to be changed. With a new group in the front office, I'd want to know who would be in control, and how much authority I would have.

★ ★ ★

"I'd want to be the one who would tell the players what to do and how to do it, not have them (the front office) do it. I'd want to be the one to decide what players to discharge and which to keep. I never was a yes man and would not want to start now."

Illinois Team Is Challenging NAIA Leader

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lenoir Rhyne of North Carolina clung to first place in the NAIA small college football rankings but Southern Illinois is challenging the leader.

★ ★ ★

Southern Illinois, also the runnerup last week, drew 246 points to 261 for Lenoir Rhyne in the weekly National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics poll. Last week, Southern Illinois also was in second place but it trailed Lenoir Rhyne by 109 points. Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for a first place vote, nine for second place, etc.

★ ★ ★

The surge of votes for Southern Illinois resulted from the team's 52-8 victory over Eastern Illinois Saturday. Both Lenoir Rhyne and Southern Illinois are undefeated in five games this season.

★ ★ ★

Third place in the NAIA rankings went to Humboldt State of California (5-0) while Southeast Louisiana State (5-0) held fourth place. Rounding out the top 10 were Whitworth, of Washington (5-0); Texas A&M (2-1-1); Florida A&M (3-0); Idaho State (3-1); Willamette of Oregon (5-0) and Langston of Oklahoma (5-0).

United States Takes Firm Hold on Show

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—The United States and Hugh Wiley of Towson, Md., took firm hold Tuesday night on the team and individual trophies at the 15th annual Pennsylvania National Horse Show.

★ ★ ★

Wiley, riding Ksar d'Esprit and Master William, turned in two faultless rounds over the 10-obstacle course. The rides earned him first and second place points in individual scoring and brought the U.S. the first place ribbon in the team scoring.

★ ★ ★

With seven more events to go, the United States now has 40 team points and Wiley has 30 individual points.

Veeck Wants to Offer Casey Job With Chisox

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—Bill Veeck, the president of the Chicago White Sox, offered Casey Stengel a job last night — but not as manager of the Pale Hose.

"The Yankees have done it again in typical Yankee style," Veeck told a Battle Creek audience. "They've fired one of baseball's most colorful personalities—at a time when baseball can ill afford it.

"There is room for Casey in our White Sox organization," Veeck said. But he didn't commit himself on what job he had in mind.

"Ever since I heard the news of Stengel getting the axe I've tried to contact him, but haven't been able to reach him," Veeck said. "However, I did talk to his wife, Edna. Until I talk to Casey, I can't reveal what kind of job I intend to offer him.

"I can't offer him the job as White Sox field manager," Veeck said, "since we have the best manager in baseball in Al Lopez. However, Casey is too valuable to wither on the vine. Baseball needs him and we will make room for him."

The Chicago president ripped the Yankees in letting Stengel go. "Casey wasn't too old last year or the year before, or even before the 1960 World Series," he said. "How can he suddenly become too old to manage. The Yankees handled the whole thing poorly."

He said he intended to pursue the job matter with Stengel.

Veeck, who addressed the Post Management Club, returned to Chicago after the speech. The speech was a departure from his scheduled talk.

CASEY'S YEARS — The colorful career of Casey Stengel is told in four stages from the time he played with the Giants in the early 1920's to this year's 10th Yankee pennant in 12 years. The photos show Casey as a player in 1920, then as Brooklyn manager in 1934, then when he took over the Yankees in 1948 and as he looked this year. Stengel, 70, was released because of his age, Yankee officials said.

Realignment Problem Faces AL Owners

NEW YORK (AP)—While baseball blinked and buzzed over Casey Stengel's "firing" and-or "retirement" by the New York Yankees Tuesday, another eyebrow raiser may be in the makings for the American League's expansion meeting here next week.

While attempting to keep pace with National League expansion, the AL may first, The Associated Press learned, make further franchise shifts before getting down to the business of adding two more teams.

The National League approved a 10-team make up for 1962 by accepting Houston and New York applications Monday.

The American has a similar expansion meeting scheduled here a week from Wednesday, but it was learned the main item on the agenda will concern a realignment problem involving Cleveland, Washington and Kansas City.

A source close to Del Webb, co owner of the Yankees who heads the AL Expansion Committee, said Webb is "gravely concerned" over those three problem cities. The problem stems from attendance lags.

★ ★ ★

Items to be discussed by the AL owners, according to the source, are:

1. Shifting the Washington franchise to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

2. Shifting the Kansas City franchise to Los Angeles.

3. A desire by Hank Greenberg, part owner of the Chicago White Sox, to obtain a franchise in Washington.

"And don't overlook the possibility of the Cleveland club being understand the operators of the club are fed up."

Washington President Cal Griffith has been ready to move to Minneapolis-St. Paul several times in the past, but was barred by other AL owners who feared congressional reprisal in monopoly legislation if they abandoned the nation's capital. Greenberg's proposal might keep everybody happy.

In Washington, Griffith said the realignment report about the Senators "sounds like somebody's pipe dream and it's a lot of baloney."

Cleveland has had attendance problems in the past, but thought it was out of the woods with its 1959 success. The situation darkened again this season, when the Indians dropped from a close second to a futile fourth.

The Kansas City club is expected to be sold in the near future. But the A's are committed to remain in Kansas City for two more years unless attendance falls below 850,000 in any season.

When the AL gets around to consideration of expansion, Dallas Fort Worth is No. 1 in line for the two new franchises. There are 17 other applicants, including Minneapolis-St. Paul, Oakland, Seattle and San Diego.

Knicks Win at PNH Gym

Pistons Lose Final Warmup

The Detroit Pistons called their exhibition season a 5-5 standoff and the Pontiac Jaycees called Tuesday night's contest at Pontiac Northern a lost cause after some 200 spectators turned out to watch the New York Knickerbockers trounce the Pistons by a 119-98 margin.

The spacious PNH gymnasium abounded with empty seats for the Jaycee-sponsored event as the Pistons had their three-game winning streak snapped with authority by the hot-shooting Knicks.

With veteran Walter Dukes and rookie Willie Jones sitting out the evening, the Pistons trailed the New Yorkers all the way. Any hopes they had of winning were thoroughly squelched by a cold second period.

Detroit went seven full minutes without a single point in the second quarter after trailing by only three, 30-27, at the end of the first stanza.

The Pistons trailed at halftime 59-43, and never could make up the deficit. They cut the difference to 86-78 entering the fourth quarter and early in the final period pulled with six, 93-87. Then the Knicks scored 10 straight points to wrap it up.

Kenny Sears tallied 22 points to pace the Knicks, followed by Willie Naulls with 21 and Richie Guerin with 20. Jackie Moreland and Bailey Howell topped the Detroiters with 18 and 17, respectively, with Gene Shue adding 15.

Following the game, Piston coach Dick McGuire dropped Frank Case and Al Seiden from the squad to trim the roster to 12 players for the start of the 1960-61 National Basketball Association season.

Pirate Official Threatens Move

Club's Vice President Says Pittsburgh Must Build New Stadium

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vice President Thomas P. Johnson of the world champion, Pittsburgh Pirates indicated Tuesday the National League club may move to another city unless local officials move ahead with plans for constructing a new stadium.

"People here are dragging their feet," Johnson told a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Pittsburgh. "We know Forbes Field has to go because of expansion by the University of Pittsburgh, but Forbes Field already is obsolete in this city."

Johnson said the Pirates and the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League have had many offers to move their franchises.

"We don't intend to," said Johnson. "But unless Pittsburgh wakes up to the fact that we must have major league facilities, I can't promise that this opinion won't change."

The Pirates, who recently beat the New York Yankees in the World Series, play their home games at Forbes Field, which has a seating capacity of 35,000.

Plans have been made to build a 28 million dollar stadium with a capacity of about 55,000 on the city's North Side.

Minnesota No Longer Draws Sympathy from Opponents

Gross Back in Spotlight

From Our Wire Services

Saginaw Valley football fans can't hardly forget the name of Jerry Gross the Bay City Central All-stater who was regarded as one of the best quarterbacks to come out of the SVC in many years.

* * *

Now it may be time for Gross to win the hearts of Detroit grid fans who have heard the bad news that Bob Lusky, flashy U. of D. quarterback has been lost for the season.

* * *

Gross passed for a touchdown against Boston College in completing five of six passes.

While at Bay City, Gross established one of the most phenominal passing records in Michigan prep history. He connected for 142 of 238 attempts for 2825 yards and 34 touchdowns.

* * *

As a freshman at U. of D. he had 39 of 79 passes for 521 yards and four touchdowns in just three games.

* * *

U. of D. now has a surprising 3-1 record with a team which was hardly expected to win three games all season because of the large number of sophomores on the roster.

* * *

Pontiac's Jim Shorter is also expected to be ready after sitting out three weeks because of a leg injury.

Texas Tech Center Named AP Lineman

By The Associated Press

E.J. (The Beast) Holub, hulking Texas Tech center and linebacker with the agility of a halfback, today was named the Associated Press Lineman of the Week for his outstanding play against Baylor last Saturday.

* * *

Holub, a 22-year-old senior who stands 6-foot-4 and weighs 217, was all but a one-man gang despite his club's 14-7 loss to the nation's seventh-ranked college football team.

* * *

A second-team AP All-America last season and a standout both on offense and defense for three years, Holub made 15 unassisted tackles, helped on eight others, recovered a fumble and blocked a pass in what Southwest observers tabbed "his finest game of an exceptional career."

Gophers Play at Michigan on Saturday

Minnesota Is Unbeaten After Four Contests; Battle for Jug

The Minnesota Gophers, no longer a lead-footed, lumbering giant that draws sympathy from the rest of the Big Ten, will bring one of the country's most surprising football teams to Michigan on Saturday.

* * *

The word from Otis Dypwick, the Gopher publicist, is that Minnesota still has big, strong linemen, and not-too-speedy backs. But the Gophers also have a passing game that has clicked with 50 per cent efficiency, a defense that has yet to yield a touchdown pass, and a genuine triple-threat guy in Sandy Stephens.

Dypwick told the Michigan Football Writers Assn. here yesterday that Minnesota — after running into 17 pass interceptions last year — has had only one in four games; that the Gophers have passed for thre touchdowns and that Stephens can run and pass and that he kicks for a 39-yard-plus average.

"He's our first triple-threat man since Paul Giel," said the Minnesota advance man. "We've surprised ourselves with four straight victories and we hope we can keep surprising."

* * *

In its sudden return to the football limelight after some lean years, Michigan has found good pickings among the unbeaten, defeating two such foes and scaring the daylights out of a third in compiling a 3-1 record.

On the Michigan Stadium sod, both Oregon and Duke tasted defeat for the first time. And at East Lansing, Michigan State was hard-pressed to rescue a 24-17 victory.

A win over Minnesota in the traditional battle of "The Little Brown Jug" would continue this trend which Elliott finds so satisfying. And it would also assure the Wolverines of at least equaling last year's 4-3 record.

"There are some advantages in playing unbeaten teams," coach Bump Elliott admitted. "It means you don't have to worry so much about overconfidence because your opponent's record speaks for itself."

* * *

By way of contrast, Northwestern had lost two in a row — both shutouts — when it visited Ann Arbor last Saturday. And yet the Wildcats managed to give Michigan one of its toughest tests of the year.

Michigan came through the Northwestern test with only minor injuries.

TAKES OVER — Former Saginaw Valley football star from Bay City Central, Jerry Gross, is now in line for the starting post as sophomore at the University of Detroit after regular quarterback Bob Lusky was ruled out for the season because of surgery performed on his knee, which was injured in the Boston College game last weekend.

One Bright Spot Is New Stadium

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—The fancy new stadium which Michigan State will help dedicate Saturday was the only bright spot on Indiana's football horizon until the Hoosiers licked Marquette 34-8.

The Hoosiers, with only one winning season in the last 12, were starting to look respectable again when trouble hit them in clusters this year.

The NCAA slapped a four-year probation on Indiana for alleged illegal recruiting by its alumni. The Big Ten followed up by ruling that Indiana 1960 games won't count in Big Ten standings and fining it a share of TV receipts amounting to about $75,000.

Possibly even worse, in the long haul, was the loss on grades of three key backs in Phil Dickens' single wing — tailback John Henry Jackson and wingbacks Ron McCauley and Mel Ross.

Dickens had to rebuild his entire backfield and didn't have a single passer credited with a completion in collegiate play.

* * *

The lack of a passing threat made Indiana's running game ineffective in its first three games — defeats by Illinois 17-6, by Minnesota 42-0 and by Oregon State 20-6.

Last Saturday junior tailback Willie Hunter, a 202-pounder from Memphis, began throwing with pleasant results. He hit end Earl Faison with a toss good for 35 yards and a touchdown. He completed another to Faison that set up another score. Willie threw only five times but completed three for 103 yards.

Indiana has some good runners, particularly sophomores Joe Maroon and Nathan Ramsey. They'll go even better if they can be relieved of facing eight-and nine-man lines by an improved aerial attack.

Faison, however, is the real standout of the Indiana team, especially on defense. The 6-foot-5, 235-pound end frequently takes out three opponents. "A sure All American if he was with a winning team," one scout tagged him.

The unnamed-as-yet stadium which the Spartans will help dedicate is an impressive hunk of concrete — or rather, two hunks. All seats are on the sidelines. The capacity of 48,344 still is the smallest in the Big Ten but facilities are unexcelled. Gentle ramps make it possible to empty the two towering stands in 20 minutes.

* * *

Indiana also has a new field house in its expanding athletic plant but it will be only the temporary home of the basketball team. A 17,600-seat arena is being planned.

Miss Detroit Finally Wins

Hydroplane Commission Rejects Race Protest in President's Cup

WASHINGTON (AP) — One month later it's official. Miss Detroit won the President's Cup regatta.

The 11-member unlimited hydroplane racing commission announced yesterday its decision rejecting a protest over the start of the 15-mile final heat in the regatta last Sept. 18.

The commission upheld referee E. M. Pentross who declared Miss Detroit, driven by Chick Thompson, the winner on the basis of elapsed time.

Bill Muncey, driver of Miss Thriftway, protested that all boats in the race except his jumped the starting gun in the final heat. This protest automatically forced a delay in declaring the official winner until the commission made its ruling.

Miss Detroit and Miss Thriftway tied for first in the unlimited hydroplane regatta with 925 points but Thompson finished the 45 miles in 19.7 seconds less than Muncey to win on elapsed time.

It was Thompson's fourth President's Cup. He also won in 1950, 1951 and 1952.

Bashful Iowa QB Is Named Back-of-Week

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Wilburn Hollis is a shy 19-year-old who quarterbacks the Iowa football team.

* * *

So when the 200-pound junior said quietly in the Hawkeyes' huddle last Saturday, "Guys, it's gotta be right this time," his teammates knew he meant it.

They gave him great protection as he tossed a 34-yard touchdown pass which gave Iowa a 28-21 victory over Wisconsin and boosted the Hawks into the top spot in The Associated Press football poll.

That pass and two scoring runs against Wisconsin earned Hollis The Associated Press Back of the Week honors.

Casey's Ouster Bothers College Football Swami

NEW YORK (AP) — If Casey Stengel gets bounced after winning 10 pennants in 12 years, what happens to a pigskin picker who misses on 13 of 50 college games? That's an average of .740 for the week and pulls the seasonal figures to .733.

This week's picks:

Iowa over Purdue: Two sophomoric teams that have jelled quickly. There is less pressure on the Boilermaker youngsters so they may pull another upset, but the Iowans will be playing at home and that will give them a thin edge.

★ ★ ★

Navy over Penn. There are few backs in the country better than the Middies' Joe Bellino.

Missouri over Iowa State: Mel West has too many helpers for the Cyclones.

Michigan over Minnesota: The Wolverines will build up their lead during the first three quarters.

Baylor over Texas A&M: The Baylors are using some of the Baltimore Colt plays — and with good success. Ronnie Bull to do the scoring.

Washington over Oregon State: It will be close with Bob Schloredt on the sidelines with a broken collarbone, but the Huskies should win.

Ohio State over Wisconsin: Two angry, defeated Big Ten clubs take it out on each other. The Buckeyes to wear down the Badgers.

The Hoosiers still are rebuilding the Spartans have the job pretty well done.

Kansas over Oklahoma State: Sticking with John Hadl and Bert Coan.

Texas over Rice: The Longhorns reach their peak every other week. Last week they lost to Arkansas so this week they beat Rice.

Auburn over Miami: The Plainsmen aren't as rugged as they have been in recent years, but they still have enough left to beat the Miamians.

Northwestern over Notre Dame: The Big Ten Wildcats are just kittens in their own league and so will take revenge on the Irish, as you will see on your TV screen.

UCLA over Stanford: Stanford Coach Jack Curtice was hung in effigy after last week's loss to San Jose. Better use of the rope would have been to solidify the Stanford line.

Mr. Chief Is Winner of Jackson Feature

Another healthy daily double payoff turned up when Murray Mc won the first race and Zero scored in the second.

The combination was 1-8 which carried a mutuel return of $155.20. Murray Mc, owned by Gaylord Vere of Adrian, scored her second victory of the year under Ivan Sugg's hustling drive to return $10.20.

Colts Tip-Top for Lions

All Baltimore Players Ready for Detroit 11

Oddsmakers See Colts Scoring Big Romp at Briggs Stadium

The Detroit Lions — unsuccessful in three National Football League starts — are having as hard a time impressing the oddsmakers as they are their gridiron opponents.

The Lions — fresh from a 28-10 shellacking at the hands of Philedelphia — will face the world champion Baltimore Colts Sunday. The Colts are favored to win by 13½ to 20 points.

The Colts have won in three out of four starts this season—their only loss coming in a tough scrap with Green Bay.

Johnny Unitas, the quarterbacking genius, is problem No. 1 for the Lions. Then, of course, there are equally dangerous Lenny Moore, Raymond Berry, Jim Mutscheller, and Alan Ameche.

"We're in the best shape we've been," Ewbank said. "Jim Mutscheller could have played at end, but we held him out last Sunday against the Rams. Johnny Unitas is as sharp as ever and I believe our defense is better than a year ago."

Layne Is First in NFL Passing

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Layne, veteran Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback, and Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts exchanged places again this week in their duel for the National Football League passing lead. Layne moved to the top, after a week in second place, with Unitas close behind.

★ ★ ★

Milt Plum of Cleveland advanced from fifth place to third after last Sunday's games and Norm Van Brocklin of Philadelphia from sixth to fourth, statistics released today showed.

Rangers Go for Platoon System of Using Goalies

NEW YORK (AP) — General Manager Muzz Patrick of the New York Rangers today endorsed ice hockey's platoon system for goalies while announcing Olympic hero Jack McCartan will make his first start of the season tonight.

"McCartan looked good in yesterday's workout and he'll definitely be in the nets tonight against the (Chicago) Black Hawks," said Patrick. "Gump Worsley is not too happy about being replaced, but we had to do something."

This is the first time in 12 years that the Rangers are carrying two goaltenders.

"This is the best system in my opinion," said Patrick. "There is just too much pressure for most goalies to stand up for a full 70-game schedule. The forwards are shooting better, harder and more often today than in the past.

★ ★ ★

"Another thing, when a goalie gets hurt it's a sound idea to have another good one on the bench. Otherwise, it's liable to cost you a victory and two points can be the difference of making or not making the playoffs."

Patrick, who also is the club's vice president, noted the increasing trend toward the two-goalie system throughout the six-club circuit.

"Detroit has Hank Bassen backing up Terry Sawchuk," said Patrick. "Boston had two goalies last year and I see where Johnny Bower of Toronto has asked for relief once in a while.

"As far as our team is concerned, we are not looking beyond tonight. If McCartan does well, he'll continue to play.

McCartan, the star of America's surprise victory at Squaw Valley last winter, played four games for the Rangers at the end of last season. He gave up seven goals and generally was impressive.

Title Chases in I-L, W-O May Be Decided This Week

League titles in the Inter-Lakes Conference and the Wayne-Oakland League could be decided on the area prep football front this weekend.

The big game in the Inter-Lakes features Southfield's invasion of Walled Lake, the two teams which were figured to battle it out for the league crown in pre-season forecasts.

Southfield, which started out with three straight losses including a 7-0 setback at the hands of league foe Waterford, has now won their last two starts.

The Jays however had difficulty in subduing Berkley and Farmington, while Walled Lake has rolled over five straight foes.

Walled Lake, now 3-0, in the league, could clinch the title with a victory, since all the other teams have either lost or tied at least two games except Southfield.

The Jays of coach Monte Charles need the victory to assure themselves at least a conference tie.

Unbeaten West Bloomfield, with a 4-0 league mark, may be in for some trouble against scrappy Clarkston on the Lake gridiron.

Clarkston owns a 2-1-1 conference mark and have only mathematical chances of winning the crown. West Bloomfield would have to lose two of its three remaining league games while Clarkston and Holly, the only other contender, would have to win all three.

★ ★ ★

In the Eastern Michigan League, Ferndale, the 10th ranked class A team in Michigan may have its hands full at Port Huron.

The Dales and Hazel Park are currently unbeaten and each boasts a 3-0 EML record. The Parkers engage non-league foe Flint Kearsley.

Birmingham, somewhat of a disappointment in the EML this year, plays host to Mt. Clemens, the team which upset Port Huron last week.

★ ★ ★

A bi gbattle takes place in the Tri-County circuit when Rochester travels to Lapeer. The Falcons suffered their first setback last week against league opponent Roseville, and another loss Friday at Lapeer would kill any title hopes.

Lapeer and Roseville are both 2-0 in the league. Rochester boasts a better season mark than Lapeer having won four of five against a 2-3 record.

Imlay City has just about wrapped up the South Central League title with Ortonville and Millington still carrying hopes that Imlay may fall to either North Branch or Oxford in its final league meetings.

Almont has very little hope of breaking the victory column this week with Southern Thumb leader Anchor Bay as its opponent Friday.

Oakland B has some big games on tap with Avondale going to Lake Orion and Clawson facing Troy.

The title chase is still wide open in the Oakland-B with the loser of the Orion-Avon clash facing elimination.

Lake Orion stands 2-0-1 in league play while avondale is 2-1. Fitzgerald, presently tied with Orion for the lead, appears to be on safe ground in its game with Madison, 0-4, this week.

ern tangles with Berkeley at Wisner Stadium and Sunday the same gridiron will feature two games.

St. Mike will host St. Benedict Sunday afternoon, and in a more local clash, St. Frederick and Orchard Lake St. Mary tangle Sunday night.

Investigating Carbo

Palermo Gets Subpoena

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Frank (Blinky) Palermo, identified by investigators as the field lieutenant of alleged underworld boxing czar Frankie Carbo, has been subpoenaed to appear in December before the Senate Anti-trust subcommittee investigating the sport.

The subpoena Tuesday directed the 55-year-old Palermo to appear in Washington the week of Sept. 5.

John Bonomi, assistant subcommittee counsel, said Palermo will be questioned about:

1. Evidence claimed by Bonomi that Palermo has been named as a temporary custodian of Carbo's powers while the latter is serving a two-year sentence in New York for illegal undercover operations in boxing.

2. Testimony by Jake LaMotta that he was offered $100,000 to throw a fight to Billy Fox in 1947 in Madison Square Garden. LaMotta testified at a June hearing he threw the fight in return for a crack at the middleweight title which he later won in 1949. At the time of the fight, Palermo was Fox' manager of record. LaMotta swore he never learned who fixed the fight.

Palermo will be among about 12 witnesses Sen. Estes Kefauver, (D-Tenn.) head of the subcommittee, plans to question. Kefauver has declined to name most of them in advance. He has announced they will include James D. Norris, former president of the International Boxing Club; heavyweight Sonny Liston of Philadelphia; Liston's manager, Joseph Barone; and James DiCarlo, an alleged racketeer from Miami Beach.

Palermo Tuesday, incensed by the presence of a newsman and a photographer, at first refused to enter the office of his lawyer to accept the subpoena. But he relented after atty. Morton Witkin was promised there would be no pictures or questions. He accepted the subpoena and ran out of the office, disappearing down a hallway.

"A" BOYS — Duffy Daugherty, MSU football coach, awards "A's" for excellence to halfback Herb Adderley (center) and Fred Arbanas for their outstanding performance in the Spartan 21-0 victory over Notre Dame last Saturday. Arbanas was awarded the game ball for his top defensive play and key blocking, which MSU coaches said was the best of any Spartan this year.

As County Point Leader

Newton Keeps Rolling

By CHUCK ABAIR

Jack Newton of West Bloomfield has got himself another comfortable scoring lead in the Oakland County scoring race and should be mighty hard to catch the rest of the way.

The swift senior garnered his 10th touchdown last week for a 62 point total. Jim McDonald has jumped from out of the running all the way to a tie for 2nd place with Tom Demrick of Cranbrook.

McDonald rung up 25 points for Avondale as Demrick and his mates were blanked. Both have 46 points.

Dion Caza ranks 3rd with 44. The Troy halfback has six TDs and eight extra points. Dennis Shaw of Avon and Al McBride of Country Day follow at 39. McBride tallied 13 and Shaw 12 Friday.

Both Dick McCauley of Pontiac Central and Dave Schultz were blanked and now are deadlocked for the No. 5 position at 36.

Besides McDonald, newcomers in the top 20 this week are Central's Ray Couser and Bill Daniels of Ferndale. Couser moved in with two six-pointers at Saginaw while Daniels was getting one.

Glen Hass of Orchard Lake St. Mary, co-runnerup last fall with 90, finally broke the ice with a bang with 18 last Sunday. He had failed to score in three games.

Cranbrook, Avondale and PCH each have two representatives on the county list which has 17 schools represented.

The area race has a new leader in running ace Earl Peeples of L'Anse Creuse. He chalked up 30 points last week to match a similar total for four games and reach 60 bettering scoreless Pat Owens of Capac by three.

Bad Thumb May Sideline Layne Against Redskins

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Veteran quarterback Bobby Layne of the Pittsburgh Steelers may not be able to play against the Washington Redskins Sunday because of a stoved thumb, a Steeler spokesman reported Tuesday.

Layne worked out with the squad but was unable to do any throwing, the spokesman said.

Layne hurt the thumb Sunday as the Steelers upended the St. Louis Cards 27-14 in a National Football League game.

Army of Hunters Ready to Begin Assault Thursday

Pheasants Safe Until 10 A.M. Starting Time

Prospects Are Better in County's Northern Hunting Areas

About 600,000 hunters will march into the fields and woods at 10 a.m. Thursday, the starting time for the small game season in Southern Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Pheasants will be the most sought after targets. But any rabbits, squirrels or woodcock that show themselves within range can expect a load or two of shot to be sent their way.

Ruffed grouse, woodcock and raccoon also become legal Thursday. The season on ringnecks and squirrels ends Nov. 10. Closing dates on other game are listed in the Conservation Department's game laws digest.

The pheasant outlook ranges all the way from good to poor. It all depends where the hunters try their luck. Some areas have more birds than last year. Other places are down. But the major portion of southern Michigan has about the same number of pheasants as in 1959.

Oakland County is no exception. More pheasants are reported in the northern half. Through the middle area, the forecast is the same as last year. The southwest corner is way down.

Farmington, Waterford, Bloomfield and Southfield Townships in Oakland County are closed to hunting except on state lands. So are parts of Novi village.

The entire state is closed to hunting Thursday until 10 a.m. After the first day, shooting hours will be from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. The only exceptions are raccoons, opossum, foxes and waterfowl.

Many hunters will trek to the rich pheasant country in the upper Thumb. Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac Counties show a general improvement in pheasant populations over 1959. Lapeer county is also up. The northwest corner of Macomb County looks like a good place. Shiawassee, Washtenaw and Livingston Counties also have more birds in spots.

Conservation Department predictions call for a kill of about 1,000,000 ringnecks this year. This would be 80,000 more than last year.

Hunters can take two pheasants each day with a possession limit of four and a season limit of eight. Five fox, gray and black squirrels, singly or combined, can be shot each day. The daily limit on rabbits is five, the same as ruffed grouse.

The opening of the pheasant season will take some pressure off ducks and other waterfowl. Flight ducks should begin moving into Michigan soon. The big flights of geese will start moving south in about a week.

Hunters must remember that canvasbacks and redheads are protected this season. A large number of ducks will be mixed in with other divers moving into the state.

Most of the teal and wood ducks have headed south. The mallards and blacks still around are very decoy shy.

Running Deer Target Ready at OCSC

A running deer shoot will be held each Sunday by the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club at its range off Waterford Road, one mile east of US-10.

The shoots are open to all hunters and interseted sportsmen. The range will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each Sunday. A fee will be charged both members and nonmembers. Only rifles greater than 22 caliber can be used.

Cash Bond, director of the event, said the shoot is aimed at giving deer hunters some pre-season practice and a chance to sight in their rifles. A silhouette of a running deer slides across the range in front of the shooter who has about five seconds to hit it.

Nature Paints Pretty Picture at Area Park

Fall colors are now at their best at Hudson Mills Metropolitan Park located near the junction of North Territorial Road and Huron River Drive about 12½ miles northwest of Ann Arbor.

This was announced today by park superintendent Brent Schultz.

The chameleon was supposed to be able to perform such prodigies of endurance that the Greeks were moved to honor him by calling him "chamal-leon"—little lion.

Might Help in Future

Ask the Farmer Before Hunting

LANSING (UPI) — Courtesy—that is, respect for the rights of others—is just as important for hunters in the fields as it is on highways, in business offices or at home.

Conservation Department officials emphasized the need for courtesy to others this year by citing a "hunting permission" survey taken in central Michigan.

About 75 per cent of some 550 farmers contacted by the Department said they had allowed hunters to use their lands during the past two seasons—if they were asked.

Since the mid-1930's conservation clubs and state officials have given constant reminders to hunters that private lands throughout the state are just that—private.

The Conservation Department survey, however, indicated farmers were willing to allow hunters to use private lands and sometimes even joined the visitors in the field.

The 1958-59 survey indicated many of the farmers who refused permission to hunt on their land had good reason. They complained that hunters in previous years had trespassed or caused damage.

About 20 years ago, farmers in central Michigan started a system of cooperation with hunters called the Williamston plan.

This season, some 37 farmer clubs representing 1,800 farmers who own 113,000 acres of land in southern Michigan are enrolled in the plan. The farmers post their land and personally issue "permits" to hunters. Only ticket holders are allowed access to the farmers' lands, and the farmer sets hunter quotas.

The Conservation Department said the success of the Williamston plan and the maintenance of good farmer-hunter relations rests with the hunters.

Those who trespass or show little regard for the farmer's livestock and property often spoil the chances that the farmer will allow the use of his land for hunting in future years.

In addition to lands made available by private owners, the department said their were "60 good reasons" why hunters do not have an excuse for trespassing.

"These include the state game areas covering 201,000 acres in southern Michigan which are open to public hunting," a spokesman said.

Two new seasons open within the next week in Michigan. At 10 a.m. tomorrow, small game hunters take to the field in southern Michigan, and Oct. 25 opens the "three-in-one" trapping season above the Straits of Mackinaw.

Trapping for the "little three"—muskrat, mink and raccoon—opens Nov. 10 and 25 in the northern and southern Lower Peninsulas respectively.

NICE CATCH — While the World Series of Fishing Tour was preparing to assault Union Lake, Dale Wiltse, 17, of 146 N. Josephine St., Pontiac, was catching this 3-pound, 12-ounce largemouth bass in a lake near Lapeer. Dale wouldn't reveal the name of the lake. The bass was caught late Saturday evening on a nightcrawler.

Plain-Clothes Men to Assist Officers

LANSING (UPI) — The state conservation department says it is training "Plain-clothes men" to assist department officers in law enforcement before and during the coming deer hunting season.

★ ★ ★

The first of five briefing sessions has been held, the department said, for personnel in the Lower Peninsula. The manpower shuffle is designed to ease the load for conservation officers in recovering illegal kill, registering hunters at field offices, searching for lost persons and delivering messages.

The extra help will enable the department to send out an extra 100 patrol units in an all-out effort to curb violations.

Upper Peninsula personnel have already been briefed, the department said.

Pontiac Press Contest Waiting for Pheasants

By DON VOGEL

Oakland County hunters should take a close look at the ringneck pheasants they bag starting tomorrow. One of the birds might win a savings bond in The Pontiac Press pheasant contest.

The contest has two divisions. A $50 savings bond goes to the hunter bagging the heaviest bird during the season. A $25 bond is awarded for the longest bird.

The pheasants can be shot anywhere in Michigan with bow or shotgun. The birds must be brought to The Press for weighing and measuring.

Two Michigan anglers have taken over the lead in the World Series of Fishing Tour.

Miller took top honors yesterday on Crooked Lake near Petoskey by catching four bass weighing a total of 7½ pounds. The tour moved to the Sturgeon River for steelhead fishing today.

Union Lake, the scene of Sunday's 1st round, was the object of some unprintable words spoken by a few of the contestants. These unhappy anglers could be heard saying, "If this tour was held back home, there would be plenty of fish caught."

Others said the lake was a "true test of a champoin's ability to catch fish." Claude Rogers of Virginia Beach, Va., international salt and freshwater champion made the best statement of the day.

"Fishing on Unoin Lake is no different than fishing anywhere else," he said. "You have to locate the fish and then find out what they are biting on. And this can take time if you don't know the lake."

None of the 46 contestants had ever fished Union Lake before Sunday. Many of them saw the lake for the first time when they reached the boat landing.

Hy Peskin, the executive director of the tour commented: "In fishing there is never a loser. There is a winner and then those who didn't have any luck."

Lynn, 17, was hunting with Dennis Edwards and Jim Spencer of Pontiac. They spotted eight geese on a small pond near Lake Orion. The trio opened fire. Lynn was the only one to connect. They also bagged a limit of 12 ducks while jump shooting other potholes in the area.

Mrs. William Burk of 2657 Judah, bus driver for Lake Orion schools, said the ducks walked in front of the bus about 8:30. Mrs. Burk stopped the bus and two of her passengers, Philip Osmun and Mike Regimbal, succeeded in catching the ducks.

The hen carried a Conservation Department band on one leg. The drake was not tagged. The ducks were taken to the high school where they were shown around. No one knew whether they were wild or domestic.

The ducks were to be turned over to conservation officers

Trapping Outlook Good This Season

LANSING (UPI)—Michigan's "three-in-one" trapping season opens Oct. 25 in the Upper Peninsula—with prospects for a high take in muskrats and raccoons, says the State Conservation Department.

The mink harvest—down last year from 1958—shows little signs of improving this year, department spokesmen added.

The season opens Nov. 10 in the northern Lower Peninsula and Nov. 25 in the south.

Last year's muskrat take was 230,000—up about 35,000 from the previous year — and there were signss of an even better season this year. The racoon take was up 5,000 from 1958, and this season's harvest is expected to be equally good.

DREAM COME TRUE — Lynn Johnson, 404 Edison St., Pontiac, proudly displays the 13-pound Canada goose he shot while hunting near Lake Orion last Saturday. The goose was killed on a small pond. The 17-year-old hunter and two companions also bagged 12 ducks.

Areas in Novi Village Closed to All Hunting

Four areas of Novi Village will be out-of-bounds for hunters when the pheasant season starts Thursday.

★ ★ ★

The prohibitive hunting areas will be identified by large posted signs reading "No Hunting—Novi Village Ordinance."

The ordinance was adopted Monday night by the Village Council on the recommendation of Police Chief Lee BeGole in an attempt to cut down the annual property damage in built-up areas.

"This is the first open area northwest of Detroit for hunters and every year they swarm here without regard for village residents," BeGole said.

"We've had cases where hunters have fired their guns between houses."

The areas closed are four subdivisions. They are Willowbrook, Orchard Hills, Echo Valley and Connemara. The prohibitive hunting area totals approximately four square miles.

"That leaves about 28 square miles of good hunting land," BeGole said.

The ordinance will be rigidly enforced, BeGole emphasized. Violations will carry a 90-day jail term or a $100 fine.

Andy Griffith Growls but Likes It

'Females Plotting Overthrow of Males'

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — "Behind every man there's a woman," said Andy Griffith, growling as he drawled. "We always knew it, but we never took the trouble to see what they was doing back there.

"They was plotting our overthrow, that's what they was doing. Helping us to success, so they could take over when it happened. Do you realize our whole national economy is centered on women?

"And it's the menfolk themselves who are to blame. We've been aiding and abetting them for centuries. Every man is an accessory before the fact in the biggest crime in world history—the destruction of the human male."

Andy has been married 11 years to the same woman: Suthun gal named Barbara. He is still in love with her. But it hasn't stood in the way of his comprehension of what's "rally goin' on" in femalery.

"A man brings home his pay and his wife does the buying. Women are the chief consumers of all the goods on the market.

"The mine-workers, they don't know it, but they're diggin out iron for her toasters and curlers.

"The Nebraska livestock breeders are raising steers for her pocketbooks — to keep OUR money in.

"The furniture fellas in Grand Rapids are turning out tables for her to tell us to take our big feet off of.

"When manufacturers want us men to buy something they put a beautiful gal in the ad and darned if us fools don't rush out and get one, whether we need it or not.

"Now why," moans Andy sheepishly, "do we do that?"

The actor-philosopher points out that sponsors on radio and TV direct all their advertising to the women. "You don't find any commercials for power tools, or whisky, or office equipment, or catcher's mitts, now do you? Oh—you might come across a pitch for after-shave lotion or hair-oil but, there again, it's the gals who wind up gettin' the benefits of our sweet smellin' selves."

"And women would run that too, except the presidency is a job calls for someone over 35.

"And you know there ain't a woman in the country who'll admit that she's that!"

It thinks gals collect coupons, and convert them into free gifts, because of—of all motives—"a creative urge."

"Our tip-off as to the true motive for saving stamps," announced the King Korn Co., "came from one lowly statistic. It showed that women who are active in the creative arts—artists, writers, actresses—never save trading stamps.

"Later, an attitude-testing survey showed that women thought of their free gifts almost as though they had made them themselves.

"And they were proud of the particular piece of merchandise that had seemingly come into being through their own efforts."

If this contention is true—and I hopefully doubt it—what a market there should be for such challenging items as adult crayola coloring sets, women's erector sets, and a return of player pianos.

Drop of 17 Pct. in September

Slump in Homebuilding Causes a Second Look

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government economists today began reassessing the economic future in the light of a new report showing a sharp September slump in home building.

The Census Bureau issued a preliminary estimate that private housing starts dropped nearly 17 per cent last month to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1,077,000 homes.

This was the lowest level since the 1958 recession year and compared with an August rate of 1,295,000 homes.

A Commerce Department official said the dismal September record will prompt his staff to take a new look at 1961 home building prospects.

This will be an important element in a much broader review of the entire business outlook. Administration optimism about the future has been dampened somewhat in recent weeks by declines in industrial production, retail sales, wage and salary payments and an indicated third quarter dip in the gross national product—the total output of goods and services.

Within the administration, disagreements have arisen over whether the nation may be heading into another recession.

Some government experts viewed the September housing reports as a signal that the home building picture may have changed drastically in recent months.

"We didn't expect this kind of decline, but don't quote me (by name)," one said.

NOT A FACTOR

"We had thought that the recent easing of credit would stimulate home building because it always worked that way in the past. Now it seems to me that availability of credit may no longer be an important factor in housing."

He noted that Canada recently liberalized mortgage terms in an attempt to stimulate building, but housing starts there continued to decline nonetheless.

Two possible reasons were cited by a number of government economists and statisticians for the September slump:

1. Too many homes may have been built in 1959 and remained unsold to hang over the market in 1960. During all of last year, 1,517,000 private homes were built.

2. The supply of new homes may have caught up with the demand created during World War II, when building was sharply curtailed.

One census official returned recently from a field trip to report that some important segments of the building materials industry expect home building to mark time for several years while a new market is created through population increases.

On the other hand, builder William J. Levitt said Monday he believes housing and other industries lag only because the public "is value-starved." Levitt cited his recent success in selling, in one week, $5 million worth of air-conditioned homes in a suburban Washington development.

Government economists had expected housing starts to increase next year, under the impetus of easier credit, to a total of 1,400,000 units. They said the September report may prompt them to lower their sights.

Dag Rejects Russian Charge

Denies He Engaged in 'Extravagant Spending' to Further U.S. Policies

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold charged Tuesday that Russia, seeking to cut the United Nations budget, seemed intent on robbing the U.N. of its ability to intervene in world crises.

Hammarskjold rejected charges made by Soviet delegate A. A. Roschin that he engaged in "extravagant spending" to further U.S. policies in the Congo, Laos and Guinea. Roschin demanded a $50 million ceiling on the U.N. budget and opposed Hammarskjold's 1961 U.N. budget of $67.5 million.

The secretary-general told the U.N. Administrative and Budgetary Committee that Roschin "obviously followed up the operation forcefully started" by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to replace Hammarskjold with a three-man presidium to run the world organization.

He said he was certain the 99-member committee "can see the fallacies" of the Communist argument that he was guilty of partiality toward the Western powers.

Hammarskjold said the Soviet demand to fire Western secretariat personnel to hire more employes from Eastern Europe, Asia and Africa was "at serious variance with the U.N. charter."

Hammarskjold said his first standard for employment was loyalty to the United Nations, adding that this is "harder to find in some countries than in others."

Demand for Grains Holds Mostly Steady

CHICAGO (AP) — Prices for grain futures were mostly steady in early dealings on the board of trade today.

In wheat, demand from commercial interests offset commission house offerings. Some spreading between the December and March contracts was noted but the volume was said not to be large.

Demand for feed grains increased with a broader spread reported in both corn and oats futures. Early steadiness of corn and oats was regarded as a technical adjustment after a lengthy period of declines.

In soybeans, the trade was mixed with commission houses the best buyers and local traders pressing the market. Brokers said hedge-selling was not much of a factor in today's market.

Market Declines for Third Day

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined for the third straight session in moderate trading early this afternoon. Gold mining stocks advanced.

★ ★ ★

Losses of most key stocks went from fractions to about a point. A scattering of selected issues bucked the downtrend, making gains in about that same range.

The sharp decline in home building last month continued as a depressing factor. Third-quarter earnings of various companies continued to reflect the now-familiar profit squeeze.

Gold shares, meanwhile, were fairly active and higher in response to the rise in the price of gold in the London bullion market to a new high.

Generally lower were steels, autos, rails, utilities, chemicals, electronics, rubbers and coppers.

As gold mining shares responded to the continued upward move in the price for metal, Homestake and Dome mines each gained a point or so and Campbell Red Lake a fraction.

Benguet, the Philippine gold mining issue, traded on a succession of big blocks, showing no change in price but making a strong big as the day's most active stock.

Most steels were down as third-quarter earnings showed declines. National Steel fell a point to 73 on 3,200 shares. U.S. Steel shed about a point. Republic and Jones & Laughlin fractions.

Big three autos edged to the downside. American Motors traded about unchanged.

Texas Instruments was clipped for about a 2-point loss. Zenith dropped more than a point. Westinghouse Electric was a 1-point loser.

Ruppert spurted more than a point. NAFI and United Air Lines were around a point higher. Fractional gains were posted for Decca, Brunswick and American Machine & Foundry, the latter after reporting a substantial rise in earnings.

Help Needy at Halloween

Pontiac children will be helping needy children across the seas at Halloween time this month.

Plans for a children's fund-raising drive on Sunday, Oct. 30, will be laid at a 7:30 p.m. meeting tomorrow night at Bethany Baptist Church.

Backed by the Pontiac Pastors Association, organizers of the drive have invited all interested groups and individuals to attend to marshall participation in the door-to-door project.

Fourteen Pontiac churches already have enlisted children to make the rounds between 2:30 and 5 p.m. on the day before Halloween "trick or treating" as is the custom, but with this difference;

Pontiac's UNICEF drive is an outgrowth of similar children's campaigns in the East, where millions of dollars have been raised by American children to help children overseas.

To promote the campaign, Mayor Philip E. Rowston has set Oct. 30 aside as UNICEF Day.

Jackson said there is a line between simplification and demagoguery.

Lodge to Visit Southfield, but Skip Pontiac Monday

Southfield — but not Pontiac — will be paid a visit Monday by Republican vice-presidential candidate Henry Cabot Lodge.

Lodge will make a brief stop in the Southern Oakland County city and give a major campaign talk at 8 p.m. at the Southfield High School football field. The school is located at 24675 Lahser Road.

"We were trying to get Lodge to come to Pontiac," explained Arthur G. Elliott Jr., GOP county chairman. "But his schedule was so crowded that we couldn't squeeze it in."

Lodge, 58, for seven years the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, will speak Monday morning and afternoon in several Wayne County cities before coming to Southfield.

His trip precedes by three days one by his running mate, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who will tour through Michigan on Oct. 27. He will not come to Oakland County, Elliott said.

"There's still a chance, however, that he will come back to Michigan again," the chairman said.

County Republican leaders are rounding up what they hope will be a top-notch entertainment program in conjunction with Lodge's visit to Southfield.

Each member of the 16 GOP women's clubs in the county will invite five friends in a drive to attract a large crowd to the field. It may be a bonfire rally if fire inspectors approve, Elliott said.

★ ★ ★

For three high school students it will be the biggest night of their lives. They will be winners of a contest being staged by the county committee to encourage enthusiasm for the Nixon-Lodge ticket.

It is a contest called "Operation Initiative" in which students in the ninth through the 12th grades are asked to submit slogans, posters or essays on the theme "Why Nixon and Lodge are Best for America."

★ ★ ★

The winners in the three divisions will present or read their winning entries and will be awarded copies of the Nixon, biography by the vice-presidential candidate. They'll also spend a day campaigning with Congressman William S. Broomfield, R-Oakland County.

Stevenson Rips Into Nixon Stand

Calls Dick's Statements 'Reckless,' Especially on Quemoy, Matsu

NEW YORK (UPI)—Adlai E. Stevenson Tuesday night accused Vice President Richard M. Nixon of throwing away this country's diplomatic flexibility by committing the United States to the defense of the "indefensible" islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

Stevenson said that Nixon's declaration on the Nationalist Chinese Islands lying off the coast of Communist China was another of his "reckless statements."

He has even self-righteously criticized Sen. John F. Kennedy for sticking strictly to our treaty commitments to defend Formosa — a commitment made by the Eisenhower-Nixon administration," Stevenson said.

"It is bad enough to have to talk about such delicate matters at all in a political campaign — to talk about them demagogically is worse," he added.

The former Democratic presidential candidate said at a $100-a-plate dinner of the New York Citizens for Kennedy and Johnson that the "Republican illusion has been that hard language is the economy-size way" of coping with a great challenge.

"But no amount of Mr. Nixon's tough talk can make indefensible Islands defensible," he said. "Bluster is no substitute for strength. The problem is not one of rhetoric and ruses. The problem is one of realism and leadership."

Stevenson did not reply directly to Nixon's charge that he had favored a "deal" with the Communist Chinese to trade a guarantee of freedom for Formosa for American support of Red China's admission to the United Nations.

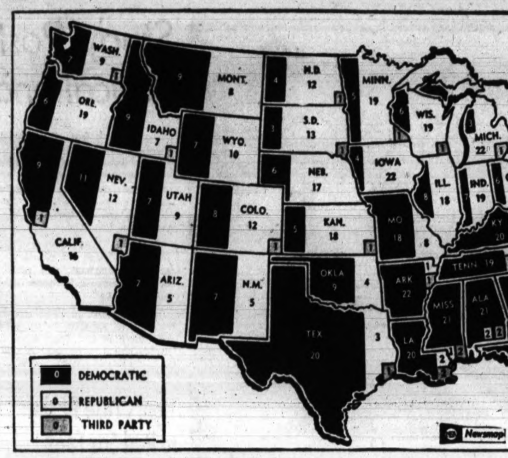
He did, however, accuse Nixon of trying to prevent the American people from learning the "whole truth" about the United States' current position in the world by impugning the loyalty of the opposition.



CENTURY'S RECORD OF PRESIDENTIAL VOTING — Since 1856, when the Republicans presented their first candidate to the voters, the United States has gone Republican 16 times, Democratic 10 times, in presidential elections. "Truest" party states: Vermont and Georgia. Vermont has voted Republican 26 times. Georgia, has always voted Democratic, with exception of 1860, when she voted for the Southern Democratic party rather than support the national Democratic ticket in the year Lincoln was elected president. Man Turning Tide for Power

Rance River Project in France Nearly Finished; 'Quoddy May Be Next

WASHINGTON — The tide tarries for no man, but it comes back so regularly that man hopes to put it to work.

The ebb and flow of the sea against the land occurs with such clocklike precision that the Coast and Geodetic Survey confidently prints advance tables showing the exact minute when high and low tides will occur all over the world. The survey's tide-predicting machine can predict tides on any beach for any day of any future year.

Such forceful regularity makes the tides tempting for power-deficient areas, the national Geographic Society says. Theoretically, tides could furnish perhaps half the world's energy needs, but men still watch helplessly as the surging sea squanders billions of kilowatts of power.

On a minor scale, Colonial Americans used tidal power to turn mills, but the dream of harnessing the tides on a large scale has never approached reality until now.

Today French engineers are completing the first stages of a giant tidal project in the Rance River, near St. Malo in Brittany. The project was planned with meticulous care. Engineers built a 160-yard model of the river's twisting inlets and underwater contours. Pumps manufactured miniature tides so that every problem could be anticipated.

Turbines will be put gradually into operation to determine whether the scheme is economically sound.

The Federal Government started a Quoddy Bay power project in 1935, but work was stopped in the planning stage when Congress withheld funds. A recent $3,000,000 study indicated the project is feasible, and Government officials are weighing its merits.

Indonesia Hails 'Hope,' Ship Takes First Patient

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The Hope, a floating hospital school to carry American medical skills to other nations, docked for a warm welcome today and within 90 minutes took its first Indonesian patient aboard.

The patient was a 40-year-old harbor worker who had just been injured in an accident.

The Hope sailed from San Francisco Sept. 22. Its name stands for "Health Opportunity for People Everywhere."

Its staff of physicians, nurses and technicians trains health personnel at ports of call and makes up teams that work in the interior. Its staff includes 15 permanent and 99 rotating physicians.

The independent English-language Times of Indonesia described the Hope's visit as a timely and practical expression of Americans' concern for those less fortunate than themselves.

3,000 Dialects in World Today

English Is Widespread but Chinese Spoken by the Most People

WASHINGTON — Linguists estimate that at least 3,000 languages and major dialects are spoken in the world today.

The total does not include many hundreds of splinter languages known only to isolated groups of tribesmen in Asia, Africa and South America.

Of all languages, Chinese is spoken by the most people and English is the most widespread, the National Geographic Society says. Other major tongues are Hindustani, Russian, Spanish, German, French and Japanese.

Caucasians employ a variety of consonants, Arabs use many guttural sounds, southwestern Africans speak with grunts and clicks, and natives of Gomera in the Canary Islands communicate by whistling.

Speed varies, too. Frenchmen race along at 350 syllables a minute while easy-going South Seas islanders utter no more than 50 syllables during that time. In the United States, women are clocked at 175 syllables a minute, 25 more than men.

Every language is peppered with slang and jargon. A foreigner fluent in English may be baffled by such American words as "corny, gimmick, moocher, jalopy, soap opera," or "to know the ropes" and "give plenty of leeway."

On the other hand, an American who has mastered a foreign tongue may find himself at odds abroad. The Portuguese, for instance, never speak the word cancer. They use a euphemism, "The little beast, God forbid." No matter how bad the weather at New Year, an American should never remind a Chinese that it is a "cold and rainy day." Among Chinese, New Year's Day is always beautiful, resplendent with luck and prosperity.

Languages constantly give and borrow from each other. English words that have entered intact into French include "sandwich," "film," and "ballet." Italians speak of "nylon," "football," and "cold cream;" the Japanese use "busa" and "matchi" for "bus" and "matchi" for "bus" and "match;" Latin Americans drink "cocktails" and "ginger ale."

In return, English-speaking peoples have accepted "ski," "geyser," and "slalom" from the Scandinavian tongues; "Soviet" and "Sputnik" from Russian; "pizza" and "influenza" from Italian; "fooey" and "kibitzer" from Yiddish; "kowtow" and "typhoon" from Chinese; and "yogi" and "khaki" from Hindustani.

Olney, Ill., Gladly Pampers Its 700 White Squirrels

OLNEY, Ill. (AP) — A colony of about 700 white squirrels is Olney's proudest boast and the town trademark.

A motorist unlucky enough to kill one with his car may be assessed a fine of $25. The same fine applies to anyone taking one out of town because Olney residents have found their squirrels do not survive outside the city limits.

"The fact that they don't venture beyond the city limits has never been explained," says Harry Hillis, editor of the Olney Daily Mail. "Science may someday find the answer but hasn't yet."

★ ★ ★

Olney goes all out to glorify white squirrels. Every policeman and fireman has an outline of the bushytailed animal as a shoulder patch on his uniform.

★ ★ ★

The white squirrels even made the Congressional Record July 14 when Rep. George Shipley (D-Ill) directed the attention of the House to "the world's only albino squirrel colony."

According to local legend, the squirrels first made their appearance in 1902. A hunter captured a male and female albino and put them on display in a cage in a local saloon.

Tippit's father, Thomas Sr., heard about the squirrels and sent his son to the saloon with orders to return with the animals and release them in woods. The elder Tippit was mayor at the time.

Weeks later baby white squirrels began to fill Tippit's Woods and the population has increased since then.

Lodge Sets Major Talk Over Television Thursday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge, the Republican vice-presidential candidate, will deliver a major foreign policy speech from Minneapolis Thursday night over a nationwide television hookup.

IN THE CORN — Weed control without cultivation was achieved in this Miami, Mo., cornfield by the use of a chemical called atrazine 80W. It was sprayed on the ground after planting but before the corn had come through. The field belongs to Robert Hisle of Miami and is examined by Glen Hartman of Falls City, Neb., during a demonstration arranged by the Missouri Farmers Association.

Ducks Drop In for Free Meals Year Around

LAURELTON, N. J. (AP) — No one along Rancocan Drive is surprised these days when Mike and Sophie arrive for a free meal.

But a stranger might take a second look when the two — a pair of wild ducks — come quacking along at mealtime.

The ducks live across the road, in Beaverdam Creek, and according to Mrs. Gertrude Tevis, have been dropping around for a free handout for about three years.

"They just waddle up to the steps, quack a couple of times and invite themselves in," she says.

★ ★ ★

The ducks are seldom seen flying anymore and apparently have forgotten the meaning of migration. Everyone along the road knows them and they seldom get turned away when they come to call.

This Drunk Driver Doesn't Go to Jail

★ ★ ★

He guzzled six 12-ounce cans of beer in 40 minutes.

★ ★ ★

Stainer won $30 in a newspaper writing contest for his story. He also shared a $100 prize with cameraman Ed Wotjas from the National Foundation for Highway Safety, Inc.

Mystery Details 'Flying' but Story Was 'Dragon'

By FRED DANZIG

Last night, it managed to take some of the squeaks, groans and rust out of an old mystery story.

Some. Not all.

"The Inn of the Flying Dragon," third in the "Hour of Great Mysteries" on NBC-TV this season, managed to be moderately successful in percolating suspense and interest and in tantalizing our imaginations.

If I sound unenthusiastic about the degree of success, it's because I found the story unworthy of all the lavish attention to detail that it received under the direction of David Greene.

Sheldon Reynolds' adaptation of Sheridan le Fanu's yarn was calmly and quietly played by a cast led by Hugh Griffith, Farley Granger, Barry Morse and a perky, new-to-American-TV-screens French actress named Macha Meril.

The story dealt with the narrow escape from the grave that an impetuous, wealthy young man had after he flipped for a beautiful young girl while both were staying at the inn, located in northern France.

Granger, as Richard Beckett, the eager beaver who was suckered into the old badger game, seemed to have too much intelligence for the role. This Beckett character was just too dumb to live. His behavior was so outlandish that I found myself unwilling to root for his ultimate triumph.

In the end, Beckett escaped the murder plot and went on to the gambling casinos at Monte Carlo. If the play ever is given an epilogue, it would have to show Beckett leaving Monte Carlo in a barrel.

Miss Meril should enjoy a successful career here, where we seem partial to actresses whose initials are M.M. And she happens to be a good little actress.

She was able, in the difficult role of Countess St. Alyre, to withhold intensity in order to present a credible nature late in the show, when her part in the rigged romance became clear.

DIALING AND FILING: I closed my eyes during last night's "Dobie Gillis" episode and, son of a gun, if it didn't sound like the old "Jack Benny Program" on radio. Dwayne "Dobie" Hickman was Benny. Bob "Maynard" Denver was Dennis Day. Their dialogue and delivery fit Benny's old scripts to perfection. At one point Dobie-Jack shouted at Maynard-Dennis, "Now, cut that out!"

After a routine beginning, "The Tom Ewell Show" last night finished up by putting Ewell into a kitchen, where he had his troubles putting together breakfast. Ewell's skill built this third premise into a laugh-filled portrait of chaos.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: A report on voter apathy in such local matters as school bond issues and charter revisions is being prepared as the ABC-TV "Close-Up!" for Thursday, Nov. 3. The half-hour program is titled, "What's the Proposition?"

"The Great Impersonation," a classic story of international intrigue by E. Phillips Oppenheim, will be adapted for NBC-TV's "Hour of Great Mysteries" on Tuesday, Nov. 15.

"The Three Musketeers," now scheduled as a two-part "Family Classics" presentation on CBS-TV for Nov. 30 and Dec. 1, will star Maximilian Schell, Barry Morse and Felicia Farr.

Nixon TV Appearance Scheduled for Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon will make a national television appearance next Tuesday, his third of the campaign.

The Republican National Committee said the program, to be carried on CBS from 9 to 9:30 p.m., would be a combined speech and rally from Cincinnati.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System has agreed to delay until Oct. 27 televising Vice President Richard M. Nixon's taped appearance on "Person to Person."

The show originally had been scheduled for next Thursday night.

★ ★ ★

A CBS spokesman said that Nixon's press representative, Herbert G. Klein, had requested the postponement last Saturday. No reason was given.

The appearance of the Nixon family is to be taped Wednesday with the interview of the vice president and Mrs. Nixon to be held in the Waldorf Towers here. The Nixon daughters will appear at their home in Washington.

Sen. John F. Kennedy was on the show Sept. 29.

New Fall TV Series Are Quite Uninspired

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Almost all of the new series have had their premieres and most of last season's survivors have returned from holiday or reruns.

The entertainment side of television's 1960-61 season shapes up like a vast sea of Grade B movie features, chopped down to TV size and time requirements. Most are turned out with the professional skill and surface gloss of Hollywood's experienced production lines. Most are uninspired. And usually downright tired variations of the successes of past seasons.

Two shows with high potentials seem to have gone astray in their production. "The Witness" series is based on a swell idea—to review the career of a notorious rogue or rascal within the confines of a committee hearing room. "The Flintstones" is a cartoon situation comedy series for adults, but is ham-handed where it could be deftly satirical.

"Checkmate," a new whodunit series, is up among the established popular shows in the ratings, and it seems to be improving as the series goes along. Part of its success, however, is due to its comfortable niche in CBS's popular Saturday night lineup — between "Perry Mason" and "Have Gun, Will Travel." "Candid Camera," too, is faring nicely in the ratings battle and probably will continue as long as the gag situations continue to amuse.

None of the new Westerns seems to have brought anything new to TV. There's a continuing trend toward multiple heroes in these, the older lawman and his younger assistant. So far all the younger assistants look so much alike it's hard to tell which show you're watching.

The same trend is notable in the action-suspense series, and there is also the same problem of identification—except in "Surfside Six," of course, where although the three investigators are hard to tell apart, they usually wear sweaters and no shirts.

Fisher Vows Nobody Can Stop His Singing

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — For those who still like Eddie Fisher and still care for his singing—there may be some joy in the word from him personally that he isn't going to put his vocal cords away on the shelf and quit.

WILSON

This had been broadcast as his decision, and he had purportedly declared that "singing has never brought me anything but headaches."

I caught Eddie as he was hopping back to London, after becoming Liz Taylor's producer. He denied the tale entirely.

"I'll be singing commercially and uncommercially as long as I live and I'd like to see anybody stop me," he said.

However, it appears that Eddie won't be appearing at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas this year, due to his new plans. He'll be going to Russia and Israel on business as a producer.

Nor have he and Liz thought seriously of abandoning the U.S. They have in fact, bought a 5-acre estate at Purchase, N.Y. and hope to occupy it when they get time—in a year or two or three.

★ ★ ★

Good news for Judy Holliday fans! Although she has finally entered a hospital, her mother tells me it's only for "a thorough checkup," that "possibly there won't be any operation," and that all the mysterious and alarming rumors are not true, "God forbid!" But Judy's low-spirited, even a little peviish—at having to go into the hospital . . . as isn't everybody?

Surrounded by Her Fans

"DEAR ABBY" — Fans of Abigail Van Buren cluster round The Pontiac Press columnist, pressing for her autograph. The demonstration proved Abby's popularity with Pontiac Press readers, especially with the gentler sex.

That Slick, Chic Abby Wows 'Em in Pontiac

More than 1,000 people flocked to Pontiac Central High School last night to hear The Pontiac Press' popular advice columnist Abby Van Buren describe her amazing and often fascinating career.

The chic little woman, known best to her millions of readers as "Dear Abby," displayed the same direct, and usually humorous approach to other people's problems that has made her famous as the leading syndicated newspaper columnist in her field. The crowd loved it.

Earlier in the day, Abby addressed 150 young representatives of area high school newspapers and yearbooks in Pontiac Northern High School's Little Theater.

Her frank replies to questions thrilled the teen-agers.

Both appearances were sponsored by The Pontiac Press which publishes Abby's column daily in the women's pages.

"I graduated toward people with problems at an early date," said Abby, describing how she became a successful columnist whose work now appears in over 500 newspapers daily.

AND THEY DID

Disgusted with the advice-to-the-lovelorn column appearing in her hometown newspaper in San Francisco, Abby marched directly into the editor's office and announced "You need me."

She convinced him by giving her answers to some of the letters sent to her predecessor and was hired in 1956.

Since then, her advice column has become the best known in the world. It is translated into 12 languages. She also has written a best-seller titled "Dear Abby," translated into six languages.

Her mail bag brings in between 8,000 and 10,000 letters a week, coming from as far as the Fiji Islands.

"And you know, the problems in the South Pacific are the same as in Pontiac," Abby told her audience last night.

"Teen-agers everywhere voice the same complaint — 'My parents are too strict or old-fashioned,'" she said by way of example.

"It is important for you to know just how far you can get with your parents. This gives a sense of security to teen-agers. It's a miserably confused youngster who doesn't know what he can expect from parents," she added.

Other questions posed by Pontiac area teen-agers were answered with the same directness. Some of these were as follows:

Q — What do you think about parking?

A — It's inevitable. Why else would a fellow own a car? But it's up to the girl to set a time limit, say 30 minutes. Take an

8 Weathervane Counties Indicate Close Fall Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The closest presidential election since 1916 may be in the making if the apparent trend in eight "weathervane" counties is maintained.

Each of the eight counties, strung across the nation from New Hampshire to Oregon, has voted consistently for the winning presidential candidate for more than a half century.

★ ★ ★

An Associated Press survey of the best available political opinion at this time gives three counties to Vice President Richard M. Nixon and three to his Democratic rival, Sen. John F. Kennedy. Two are regarded as undecided.

If this trend is followed in the Nov. 8 voting some of the guinea pig counties are going to lose their attraction for the dopesters.

But if their division represents a true picture of the national situation, the contest between Nixon and Kennedy could rival that of 1916, when Woodrow Wilson beat Charles Evans Hughes by a little more than 600,000 popular votes and 275 to 254 electoral votes.

NO CLEAR ISSUE

With the election only three weeks away, there appears to be no overriding issue. Foreign policy, farm prices and Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion are among matters voters mentioned. But no clear trend was established.

In usually Republican New Hampshire, Coos and Stafford counties have voted for the presidential winner every four years since the turn of the century.

In Coos, which gave President Eisenhower nearly a 2-1 margin over Adlai E. Stevenson in 1956, the editors of two Republican weeklies said Kennedy looks like the winner.

Nixon, Kennedy Talk Defense to Legionnaires

Both Agree on Buildup but Disagree on Present U.S. Strength

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon and John F. Kennedy agree there will be a stepup in United States preparedness but paint conflicting pictures of the nation's strength today.

Both presidential candidates drew applause at the American Legion convention with pledges that this country will marshal its might in the face of Communist thrusts reaching as close as Cuba.

★ ★ ★

Nixon told the Legionnaires Tuesday, in a reference to Fidel Castro's Cuba, that "we will take the strongest possible economic measures to counter the economic banditry being practiced by this regime against our country and its citizens."

Kennedy declared that the United States faced a critical situation created by "the steady erosion of relative American power and prestige in relation to the Communists."

He said "We must build the military power necessary to keep our commitments and stop the next war before it starts."

★ ★ ★

Nixon said, "I happen to know, and Mr. Khrushchev knows, that we are the strongest nation in the world and we are going to stay that way."

APPLAUSE LONGER

Applause timing counts gave Nixon a little bit of the edge in reaction from the almost 10,000 Legionnaires and townspeople in the audience.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy drew a hand when he remarked that "a dangerous deterioration in our relative military strength has been the direct result of short-sighted budgetary policies and bad judgment in Washington."

The crowd applauded also when Nixon remarked, "There will never be a dollar sign on what Americans will be able to do for defense."

The candidates, who spent the full day campaigning in Florida, didn't cross paths at the big Miami Beach Convention Hall where they spoke half an hour apart.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy criticized the Eisenhower administration's Latin-American policies and said, "Communism has been advancing steadily in every area of the world until the Iron Curtain now rests on the island of Cuba only 90 miles away."

Nixon said the time had come to "quarantine" the Castro regime.

Report Campaign Progress

Commercial Division Near Half of UF Goal

At a breakfast session today, Commercial Division leaders reported that $74,552 has been raised toward the division's $176,500 quota in the current Pontiac Area United Fund campaign.

John P. Niggeman, chairman of the Commercial Division, told division leaders that he was encouraged by the early returns, which are 42 per cent of the division's target in the drive.

★ ★ ★

"With the showing to date, we certainly can reach our goal," Niggeman said.

He urged vice chairmen to stress to volunteer workers the importance of getting pledge cards quickly distributed, filled out, and returned to the United Fund offices.

Pointing out that many solicitors' kits have not been turned in, Niggeman reminded division leaders that only a week remains in the campaign.

The drive, with a $672,500 goal, ends Oct. 27.

Gloomy Skies to Last Through Thursday

Skies will continue to be overcast through Thursday with temperatures much lower, the weatherman says. Today's rain will end tonight.

For the next five days temperatures will average about 6 degrees below the normal high of 60 and normal low of 41.

Thursday will be colder but Saturday and Sunday will be somewhat warmer. Temperatures will turn cold again about Monday.

Morning light variable winds will become northerly this afternoon and increase to 15 - 20 miles tonight.

Fifty was the lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. At 1 p.m. the recording was 46.

Nixon Claims Wins in Debates

He Offers Program for Solving Unemployment in U.S.

EN ROUTE WITH NIXON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon today claimed victory in his last two debates with Sen. John F. Kennedy.

Expressing confidence, he said his Democratic rival could bring along all the reference material he wanted for their final match Friday night. A minor squabble had developed after Kennedy had quoted directly from a document in their Oct. 13 appearance.

Nixon said Democratic administrations have been able to solve the problem of unemployment since 1933 only through the economic demands of war and post-war recovery.

★ ★ ★

"My program," he said, "calls for mobilizing our human resources to the full by combatting racial discrimination, by stimulating scientific research and development, by forging an adequate national program in support of state, local, and individual efforts in education."

Nixon mentioned a number of other approaches, including tax revisions to stimulate investments that could create jobs.

He also said he was determined to take all sensible measures that would, among other things, "utilize more fully our industrial capacity in steel and other lines."

Kennedy has deplored in campaign speeches the fact that steel production is far short of capacity.

Ships Return to Russia; Did Red Space Shot Fail?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four Soviet ships, once believed in position to track a dramatic Russian space shot, are heading back across the Pacific toward home.

Their departure after more than four weeks on station buttressed a belief here that Russia failed or postponed some spectacular space feat planned to coincide with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's trip to the United Nations.

Experts Expect Castro to Seek Guantanamo, Break Relations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today banned all exports to Cuba except certain medical supplies and foods.

It also forbade sale, transfer or charter of American-owned ships to Cuban interests without specific government approval — a move that blocks the Fidel Castro regime from using American shipping for transport of supplies purchased elsewhere.

The economic crackdown is in reaction to the Castro government's seizure of more than a billion dollars of American business interests in Cuba.

It comes atop the curtailment of the Cuban Sugar quota earlier this year which denied Cuba the opportunity to sell to the U.S. 700,000 tons of sugar valued at about $92.5 million — sales that would have been under a U.S. subsidy of about $35 million.

Castro is expected to react to the new U.S. move by expropriation of still further American businesses.

Robert Berrellez of the Associated Press staff said in a dispatch from Havana that Castro may also:

1. Make a formal demand that the United States abandon its huge Guantanamo Naval Base.

2. Break diplomatic relations with the United States.

In the United Nations, the Soviet Union lined up quickly today behind Cuba's newest efforts to have the U. N. condemn the United States on charges of waging aggression against the Castro regime.

Broadway Ticker Tape Parade to Launch Drive; Debate to End It

While the fourth TV debate between the two presidential candidates will be held here Friday night, there now appears little likelihood of an additional debate, as requested by Kennedy.

He said the American people are entitled to know why Nixon "is unwilling to meet a challenge on nationwide TV."

Kennedy's comment was issued to newsmen after another round of fruitless negotiations between his and Nixon's representatives.

"The fact is that the closer a debate is held to the election," he said, "the more difficult it is for any candidate to engage in any questionable tactics or inaccuracies for which he may be called to account in a face-to-face encounter."

"If Mr. Nixon persists in his refusal to face me again, the American people will have to decide why as they enter the final 18 days of the campaign," the senator added.

Kennedy staff members said a Nixon spokesman cited a complicated travel schedule as making an additional meeting impossible. Kennedy said he is willing to meet Nixon "anywhere in the nation at any hour of any day."

Kennedy said also he is willing to extend Friday's debate an extra hour as Nixon had suggested, although he does not consider such an extension "a substitute for a joint appearance in the final days of the campaign."

Provides 'When' and 'How' on Needs

Proposition No. 1 Key for Schools

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a three-part series in Proposition No. 1, which, if approved by Michigan voters Nov. 8, would continue an amendment to the constitution to permit distressed school districts to borrow building and operating funds when needed—and at a lower rate of interest—with the backing of a special state fund.)

By DICK SAUNDERS

When you step into the booth to vote Nov. 8, you will be confronted by a multitude of candidates for offices, ranging from the highest in the nation to first rung on the local government ladder.

★ ★ ★

Important, too, will be the first of three proposals on which you, the people of Pontiac, Oakland County and the entire state of Michigan will decide.

"Proposal No. 1" they call it.

The committee appointed by the state superintendent of public instruction to formulate the 1955 amendment and the current proposal is under the chairmanship of Louis H. Schimmel, president of the Michigan Municipal Finance Corp. and president of the Pontiac Board of Education.

Proposal No. 1 deals with many things, but all can be summed up this way:

It is a way to provide for school needs when they are needed and a way to pay for these needs.

JUST A WAY TO PAY

In the simplest terms it means you and your children can have the school facilities you need and pay less each year for them.

Whether it is called a constitutional amendment, a school bond proposal, a joint house resolution or any other fancy and confusing name — remember, it's just a way to pay for that new classroom.

Two things in its favor are that (1) it is not entirely new, and (2) it has proven ability.

The plan was first put before you in the 1954 election. Then, because it was untested, many of you viewed it with doubt.

It was admittedly "an experiment," said Schimmel.

LOUIS H. SCHIMMEL

You now are being asked to decide if it works, if it is basically good enough to use for another 10 years.

Let's do something we couldn't do five years ago — look at its past.

What does Proposal No. 1 actually do?

1. It provides new classrooms when they are needed.

2. It lets you eliminate half-day sessions in schoolrooms. No school district in Michigan has to delay building rooms to house full-day classes under the new financing methods.

3. It improves how your schools are operated by giving your school administrators more money for operating expenses.

This is money that, before 1955, had been used to construct buildings and rooms.

4. It helps Michigan catch up on its school needs. Last year,

Russ Threaten to Boycott U.N. Disarmament Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The Soviet Union today threatened to boycott the U.N. disarmament debate if the United States and its allies insist on pressing Western arms reduction plans.

★ ★ ★

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin said "the Soviet Union will not participate in such a waste of time."

★ ★ ★

Opening the disarmament debate in the General Assembly's 99-nation political committee, Zorin rejected the Western proposals as a danger to peace. He accused the West of pursuing a policy of procrastination and of further aggravating international peace.

TIED TO K's DEMANDS

★ ★ ★

He asserted it would be impossible to establish an international police force as long as "the executive machinery of the United Nations as headed by one man who in all cases can express the interests of only one group of states."

★ ★ ★

Khrushchev had demanded that the office of secretary general be replaced by a three-man board, including representatives of the Communist bloc, the Western countries and the noncommitted nations.

Proposition 1 Key to Schools' Future

for the first time in more than 25 years, Michigan was able to build enough classrooms to take care of its annual increase in enrollment.

5. It has replaced several hundred obsolete classrooms.

6. It has put us first in the entire country.

No other state has done so well in respect to matching increased numbers of students with the new facilities when needed and in replacing old, worn out classrooms.

The "question mark" you voted for in 1955 has become a huge exclamation point.

"It is the best school financing program that Michigan has ever developed," asserts Schimmel.

Educators throughout the state join in their praise.

Read over the above list of things the 1955 proposal has done, but this time add the following words onto each of them.

The new Proposal No. 1 does all this regardless of existing debts, the present tax base, population, or the number of children in any properly organized school district.

DEAL WITH FINANCES

They are designed to make school building programs even easier to pay for, make them cheaper and cost you less in taxes.

But the financial side is a story in itself.

This story of your dollars and how many are being saved by Proposal No. 1 will be covered next.

Truck-Car Collision Hurts Four

Taken to St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, where their injuries were not immediately known, were:

Glenn Lokajaral, 31, of 13734 Third Ave., Highland Park; his brother Gene of 179 West Grand Ave., Highland Park; Chris Kusk of 112 Hickory Road, Bloomfield Hills. All were occupants of the truck.

Bloomfield Township police said that the truck, going west on Big Beaver Road, turned into northbound Woodward traffic when the Luther car struck it broadside.

★ ★ ★

A small flatbed trailer being towed by the truck came loose on impact, traveled across the intersection and struck two cars, causing minor damage.

Victoria, Tex., Gasps in Wind, 6.8 Inches of Rain

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP)—A powerful squall line hit Victoria with a one-two punch Tuesday night, dumping 6.8 inches of rain on the city, sweeping cars down flooded streets, driving about 200 persons from their homes and smashing some plate glass windows in stores.

★ ★ ★

The storm hit the city in two waves, packing winds up to 52 miles an hour and driving, blinding rain. Water ran five feet deep in some areas, Fire Chief M. S. Shaw said.

It also was wet in the extreme west central plains, with snow or snow mixed with rain, while rain fell from much of the central and Southern Plains eastward through the Mississippi Valley and into the Ohio and Tennessee valleys. Snow flurries flecked extreme northern sections of the upper Great Lakes region.

Snow fell during the night in northern Minnesota, Southeast Wyoming and Colorado, with the heaviest fall, about 5 inches, at Leadville, Colo.

Three units, known as the red, white, and blue teams, comprise the group, soliciting firms with under 10 employes. Haskill reported the red team ahead of the others with 44 per cent of its quota raised.

Gerald A. Bax, vice chairman of the government group, reported his solicitors have turned in $2,050, 15 per cent of their $13,397 target.

★ ★ ★

Robert Armstrong, vice chairman of the two professional groups, reported that one unit has raised $10,314, or 70 per cent of its $14,789 quota; the other $4,339, or 52 per cent of the $8,393 quota.

★ ★ ★

William A. Shunck, vice chairman of the education group, reported his solicitors had made considerable progress toward their $13,449 quota, although no tally of pledges had been made by the group.

"I am confident we will raise more than last year," Shunck stated.

Ritter Linked to Bookmaking

Ex-Restaurant Partner of Nursing Home Head Testifies at Hearing

DETROIT (UPI)—William Ritter, Royal Oak nursing home operator, was booking bets for others and gambling himself before he fled to escape at least $100,000 in debts, a witness before a federal referee in bankruptcy testified yesterday.

Harold Weaver, 28, Royal Oak cook and former partner in a drive-in restaurant near Ritter's nursing home, told Referee Joseph C. Murphy he won $4,100 from bets he placed with Ritter this year.

Ritter and his wife Edith fled their home Sept. 7, leaving behind a tangle of debts and a nursing home many of his creditors thought they had a share in.

★ ★ ★

The 45-year-old Ritter, of 2361 Midpine Road, West Bloomfield Township, is accused of bilking 30 persons out of what may amount to $500,000.

UNRAVELS DEAL

The hearing yesterday was held to enable receiver Arthur Schuler to start unwinding Ritter's fantastic deals.

It was demanded by three creditors who hold more than $100,000 in promissory notes made by the Ritters with the assurance that they were building a second nursing home.

Just before the Ritters fled, Mrs. Ritter sent a note to her attorney in which she said "things are in such a mess that we have to chuck everything and leave."

Dem Upset Winner Tells Kellis: You Too

A Democratic congressman who got himself elected in a Republican stronghold encouraged congressional candidate James G. Kellis that Oakland County should be no exception.

★ ★ ★

An old comrade in arms in the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) of Kellis, Minnesota Congressman John A. Blatnik, told a small gathering of the Birmingham Democratic Club last night not to think such a victory couldn't take place Nov. 8 in traditionally Republican Oakland County.

In town to give his service friend a boost in his campaign, Blatnik told how in 1946 he was able to win his congressional seat which had been held by a Republican many years.

"Although I took this by a narrow margin," Blatnik, a 49-year-old former captain in the paratroops, said, "two years later I was elected by the largest plurality of any Democrat or Republican in the history of Minnesota."

NEVER WITHOUT IT

Kellis smiled hopefully. Republicans have held the 18th congressional seat in Michigan (Oakland County) as long as it has been in existence.

"I'm confident Jim Kellis can do the same thing here in this traditionally Republican area," Blatnik said.

★ ★ ★

At a press conference and dinner earlier, Blatnik, who called Kellis "the most courageous man of all the volunteers" in the OSS, emphasized his purpose was not to criticize current Congressman William S. Broomfield's service to the county, but, rather to help Kellis defeat him.

"You have to live with him — I don't. But I will say this, when Jim Kellis comes to Congress he will come along with a Democratic majority."

SERVES AS REUNION

The evening served as a reunion for Kellis, Blatnik and George Bookbinder of New York, who served behind enemy lines also during World War II in the OSS with the two men.

This provided for a combination of war and political talk, with stress on the latter.

Blatnik decried that the country under the Eisenhower administration had not advanced during 7½ years, but had slid downward with a "sluggish, wobbly and spasmodic economy" brought on, he said, by the "particular vested interests' favored by Republicans.

Unlike the past, Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy will provide the leadership because "he is a man with a purpose," Blatnik said.

Eight Uncertain Areas Indicate Tight Fall Vote

An independent weekly editor called it for Nixon, but said it would be extremely close.

Clinton L. White, editor of the Coos County Democrat, a Republican weekly, said Kennedy's religion would help him carry the county.

Two weekly editors rated the Stafford County race as a tossup, another listed it for Kennedy and a fourth for Nixon. Eisenhower carried the county four years ago by a 3-2 margin.

★ ★ ★

In usually Republican Indiana, Nixon was credited with the lead in bellwether Vanderburgh County but Kennedy was reported gaining. Eisenhower took the county 4-3 in 1956.

NIXON IN LEAD

A continuing man-in-the-street poll, conducted on the streets and shopping centers in Evansville by radio station WJPS gave Nixon 47.6 per cent of the prospective vote, Kennedy 41.96 per cent, the remainder undecided.

In the Midwest farm belt, Iowa has two counties that have been on the winning side in this century.

The folks in Jasper County seem to favor Nixon. In Palo Alto County the race is regarded as inconclusive but favoring Kennedy.

Results of polls and surveys by the Newton Daily News and The Associated Press in Jasper County gave Nixon 50 per cent, Kennedy 37 per cent and 13 per cent undecided. Eisenhower had a 9-7 advantage in 1956.

The Emmetsburg Reporter and Democrat tested sentiment in Palo Alto County. Kennedy routed Nixon out of the lead in a straw vote but by such a thin margin that the results were inconclusive. In the county Eisenhower barely nosed out Stevenson four years ago.

In Wyoming, Albany County, in which is located the city of Laramie, is regarded now as Nixon territory. But Kennedy was reported gaining strength there. Eisenhower carried it about 4-3.

Republican leaders conceded that Kennedy is ahead in Laramie County, in which Cheyenne is located. Eisenhower carried the area by only about 900 votes in 1956.

In Oregon, Crook County, which has been right on presidential candidates since it was founded 78 years ago, is up in the air. Editor E. S. Donnelly of the Central Oregonian said, "Sentiment just doesn't seem to have jelled yet." Eisenhower won it by 74 votes four years ago.

alarm clock if you have to. Remember, it's the girl who makes the rules.

Q — Is it okay to go to drive-in movies?

Q — How do you get rid of a boy you don't like?

A — Introduce him to a girl you don't like.

Q — What do you think about teen-agers in love?

A — I don't think you know what love is. You think it's true love, but when you gain in experience you come to realize what is the real thing and you know how silly you were being before.

Asked what she thought about teen-agers going steady, Abby asked for a show of hands to indicate how many present were.

All but a very few hands were raised in the positive.

The general consensus among teen-agers present was that going steady was good because it assured a girl of being in the social swirl, having Saturday night dates and being invited to all the big events.

One youth who replied in the negative, David Norton, 17, of Lake Orion, said he preferred to go "steadily." He explained that this means the boy and girl could occasionally date others, but could rely on being invited to the big events.

Abby concurred that going steadily was better than going steady. "That way you will get to know more people better, learn more about life, and not be likely to become involved," she explained.

In her talk to a mostly-adult crowd in the evening, Abby quoted freely from the more humorous letters she receives.

"Humor is close to pathos, though, and I never try to be funny in my replies just for the laughs," Abby explained.

"Daily I consult clergymen of all faiths, doctors and psychiatrists, to know which manner of reply would best serve easing a problem," she said. "Sometimes a kick in the pants is recommended."

"What this column really means to me is helping people," Abby added.

One of the greatest satisfactions in her work, said Abby, is knowing that she has helped 1,200 unwed mothers find proper assistance in their need.

★ ★ ★

Many of her letters are not answered in her column, Abby admitted, but all those with stamped and addressed return envelopes enclosed get a reply, she said. Abby has a staff of eight secretaries assisting her in her work.

The happiest note in her career, she noted, came after 12 months of private correspondence with a Navy wife.

Board of Education Adopts 1960-61 Operating Budget

BIRMINGHAM — The Birmingham Board of Education last night adopted an operating budget of $5,653,310 for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

Also approved by the board was the debt service budget of $1,536,213.

A record 83 per cent of the total operating budget will go for salaries.

Funds in the debt service budget will be used to pay off school construction bonds and build up a reserve fund.

In presenting the budget to the board, Supt. Otis M. Dickey stated:

"This budget has been carefully prepared and represents careful weighing of available facts and concern for educational standards and values."

"We believe this budget will enable us to move forward in a continuing development of a high quality educational program in the Birmingham schools.

Both budgets adopted represent revenue expected from taxes of $23.52 a $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Operating taxes total $16.12 per $1,000 and the debt service tax is $7.4 a thousand.

In May the school board was informed by former superintendent Dwight B. Ireland that the system might face a $400,000 deficit.

However, since that time, the county allocation to the Birmingham district has increased with a higher reassessment of the county's over-all valuation.

Another factor that allowed the district to increase its budget was the approval of voters to increase taxes $1.90 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation.

In another action, the board approved a building needs survey to be conducted by Ohio State University.

Purpose of the study is to determine the immediate and long range needs of the school district.

Eye New Rates on State Plates

Vehicle License Costs Would Fall Into Only 4 Weight Categories

LANSING (AP)—The secretary of state's office is working with the State Highway Department on a new, simpler license plate rate-charging system, says Secretary of State James M. Hare.

★ ★ ★

The system under study will charge flat rates in four weight categories, Hare said. Presently, license plate rates increase with each additional hundred pounds of vehicle weight.

The system, Hare said, is designed to simplify rate charges.

"All that remains is to figure out how the change can be made without changing rates more than $1 either way for the buyer of the plate, or changing present state revenues," Hare said.

A workable plan should be ready for final study in November or December, he added. Similar plans are in operation in other states.

U.S. Bans Exports to Castro's Cuba

itical Committee the Cuban charges showed to the entire world that the United States was continuing a war-like policy while talking peace in the United Nations.

FEAR INVASION

Cuba accused the United States Tuesday night of waging aggression against Castro's regime as a prelude to a "grand scale" military invasion.

Foreign Minister Raul Roa submitted the charges to assembly President Frederick H. Boland with a request that they be given "the fastest possible consideration."

Two U. S. government agencies issued the formal orders today in the new crackdown on Castro. The Commerce Department issued that imposing the partial embargo on exports and the Maritime Administration the one dealing with shipping.

★ ★ ★

The export order forbids shipment of farm products "eligible for subsidy payments or stocked by the Commodity Credit Corp." However, there is an exception — the United States will honor its commitments for wheat and wheat flour shipments under the international wheat agreement.

Farm experts said the order will not have any great practical effect in so far as farm commodities are concerned — partly because Cuba has already shifted much of its food buying to Soviet bloc countries.

Trade specialists in the government said the curbs will cut off more than half of all American shipments to Cuba, but that a substantial amount of trade could be continued under the regulations.

WILL FEEL PINCH

Even without the American restrictions, exports to Cuba have been sharply curtailed this year. Shipments in January-August 1959 totaled $282.8 million but dropped in January-August 1960 to $177.7 million.

Officials said exports have been discouraged by steep duties imposed by the Castro regime and because American shippers have had difficulties collecting on bills owed by Cuban customers.

Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, has repeatedly accused the administration of showing too little concern over the Cuban situation.

★ ★ ★

His Republican opponent, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, promised early action and indicated he would take still further steps to hamstring the Castro government if elected.

Huge Still Smashed Near Downtown Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — A huge still, so big it was reminiscent of the prohibition era, was uncovered in the fringe of the downtown district Tuesday.

Before police finished, they had put their axes to a 500-gallon still, four 500-gallon mash tanks and other equipment for making illegal liquor. Two men were arrested. Others were sought.

New Castro Bloodbath Feared

Cuban Firing Squads Shock Latin Press

NEW YORK (UPI) — The renewal of mass firing-squad executions in Cuba triggered shock and revulsion throughout the Americas today.

In Cuba, the new executions were reported to have caused a deep psychological impact and citizens predicted a new bloodbath in the making.

Cuban exiles abroad demanded the United Nations act against what they termed a violation of the Geneva Convention on treatment of war prisoners.

The United States challenged the legality of the drumhead trials by which U.S. citizens were condemned and said their executions were carried out without their own counsel and the right to appeal.

Three Americans were among 15 persons shot to death by firing squads in a 72-hour period last week. They were Robert O. Fuller, 25, of Miami, Fla., Anthony Zarba, 28, of Sommerville, Mass., and Allen D. Thompson, 36, of Queen City Tex., and Mooringport, La. The execution rate in Cuba prior to the new slayings averaged one a month in the preceding 10 months.

The Cuban newspaper Avance, published in exile, said the new executions brought the total "official killings" by Fidel Castro regime to 618 since Jan. 1, 1959.

Avance claimed that 241 others had been shot without trials, 152 killed in alleged political feuds, 38 slain while resisting arrest and 18 in trying to escape and for alleged sabotage.

★ ★ ★

In Bogota, Columbia, editors and publishers attending the Inter-American Press Association convention termed Castro a "violator of all human freedoms."

They said his regime is "more pernicious and dangerous than that of its predecessor (Fulgencio Batista) because of its "Communist inspiration."

In Mexico, the newspaper Excelsior said the Castro regime no longer has "legal law or moral principle." The newspaper ABC commented that "only the ingenuous now doubt the muscovite form of Castro dictatorship."

In Argentina, La Prensa said Cuba is "a lawless state." The newspaper predicted the executions were a prelude "to a new bloodbath.

Mighty Mac Cuts Lights for Savings

ST. IGNACE (UPI) — The Mackinac Bridge Authority, like any practical householder, turns off unnecessary lights on the five-mile span between Michigan's peninsulas to save on the electric bill.

That's the answer given by Authority General Manager Ed Haltenhoff to criticism by late-season tourists who feel cheated at missing the night spectacle of a giant electric light necklace on the bridge.

plains, "we cut off as many lights plains, "We cut off as many lights as practical to reduce the electric bill. Cable lights are cut off Oct. 1. Within the next day or two, one of the twin rows of overhead roadway lights will be cut out.

"There just arent enough tourists around at this time of year to pay for keeping all the lights on."

Haltenhoff was unable to state the exact dollars-and-cents figure on the electric bill, but said "We know, naturally, there is a saving."

The full blaze seen in summer season photographs includes 98 cable lights of 107 watts each, plus the twin rows of overhead street lights. "One row of street lights provides ample illumination for the traffic at this time of year," Haltenhoff says.

Erie-Lackawanna Railroad Launched

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Erie-Lackawanna Railroad Co. launched its corporate life Tuesday as successor to two historic carriers, the Erie Railroad Co. and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western.

★ ★ ★

The new rail system, a $737-million giant stretching from the Eastern Seaboard to Chicago, legally came into being at a first meeting of a 22-director board that installed Harry W. Von Willer as its boss.

Von Willer, Erie president, was elected chairman, president and chief executive officer. Perry M. Shoemaker, Lackawanna president, was named Vice Chairman and chief administrative officer.

The board, composed of 14 representatives from the larger Erie and eight from the Lackawanna, chose Milton G. McInnes as executive vice president. McInnes had served the Erie in that capacity.

★ ★ ★

Fusing of the 109-year-old Lackawanna and the 128-year-old Erie culminated three years of merger talks. It was designed to shore up both financially, partly through savings foreseen by consolidation of paralleling operations between New York and Buffalo.

U.S. Prepares to Deport Michigan Communist

DETROIT (UPI)—The United States will deport Oct. 25 a man who was brought to this country when he was nine months old.

The Immigration Department said Frederick J. Williams, 54, will be deported to England as an undesirable alien.

Williams has admitted being a member and an organizer for the Communist party. He said he quit the party in 1947 when it became clear that the Russians were no longer allies of the United States.

Accuses Dick Nixon of Emotional Appeals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic National Chairman Henry M. Jackson Tuesday accused Vice President Richard M. Nixon of trying to submerge complex campaign issues "with simple emotional appeals and simple labels."

Jackson said in a speech before the National Press Club luncheon that a political campaign provides an unparalleled opportunity to deepen public understanding of the great issues facing the nation, as well as a great temptation to indulge in demagogic oversimplifications.

Jackson said there is a line between simplification and demagoguery.

He added that he did not believe Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, had crossed the line, "but I believe that Vice President Nixon has crossed it . . ."

Ike's Life as President Was Devoted to Peace

EISENHOWER

Despite having spent 41 of his 70 years as a soldier, President EISENHOWER obviously wants most to take his place in history as a man of peace.

★ ★ ★

Even with the triple setbacks of his last year in office—the explosion of the Paris summit and enforced cancellation of good will missions to Soviet Russia and Japan—it is difficult to see how any other verdict can be rendered.

In Detroit on Monday a few days after his birthday he looked hale and hearty and in good spirits. Some medical tests during the middle of September showed him continuing in excellent health.

On his nonpolitical tour to Detroit where he addressed the AMA's industry stag dinner he appeared undaunted by the cares of office and vigorously confident of his judgment, most especially in the controversial areas of national defense, foreign policy and economic principles.

He continues to believe in a sound dollar, a balanced budget and limited government.

During his speech at Cobo Hall he again stressed labor-management peace rather than prolonged strikes working against our country.

The President called the UAW bigot leaflets as the use of extreme propaganda and distortions. Further commenting on this vein, he urged everyone to vote his own conviction and his own conscience in the coming election.

We believe he meant exactly what he said. Without doubt this man from Abilene is devoted to peace.

Hurrah for the Pirate's Terrific World Series

What a series! What can you say? In one swift moment the incredible Pittsburgh Pirates turned the wildest World Series in history into their first championship since 1925.

Humiliated by the Yankees 12-0, 10-0 and 16-3 they came battling back to show that each game is a different story. Their spirit was never dampened. They were out to show the home folks and they did just that.

Trying to pick any one hero for the Pirates would be tough. But you can bet that BILL MAZEROSKI with his game winning home run in the ninth inning will long be remembered by the home town fans. It was his clout that put the frosting on the cake.

It's hard to leave out Hal Smith's pinch hit homer in the eighth with two aboard, and Rocky Nelson's home run in the second. But the climax homer by Mazeroski was the thrill to end all thrills.

All this just goes to prove that anything can and does happen in this game we call our national pastime. The Pirates were down, but never counted out. Today they rule the roost as World Champs.

Will Last Great Debate Hold More Ammunition?

The fourth and perhaps final act in what has been billed as a great political drama will be staged Friday when the TV networks carry the NIXON-KENNEDY debate.

Whether each act has been more emotional and more exciting than the one before is up to the individual. For some reason we don't think this has been the case.

In accordance with the time honored campaign practice of saving the heaviest ammunition until last — and with Mr. NIXON's own conviction that political fireworks should be stored for the last few weeks of the campaign, maybe we can expect a hotter debate this time.

However, the verdict will probably be split, as after the first three. Who was the winner of each depended on the viewer (or the political columnist he consulted), except that in the first one KENNEDY clearly had an edge in the appearance of health.

Those viewers who remain uncommitted might look at Friday's broadcast in the light of an old school aphorism, brought to mind by Soviet Premier Khrushchev's United Nations' conduct: "If you have the law on your side and not the facts, pound on the law. If you have the facts on your side and not the law, pound on the facts. If you have neither the law nor the facts on your side, pound on the desk."

In any event, we will be surprised if the drama is anything other than more of the same.

'Something Must Be Done to Remedy Lapeer Home'

We would like to commend The Press and Mr. Lochbiler on the article about the conditions at the Lapeer Home. This is a deplorable situation and one that should not exist in this land of plenty.

★ ★ ★

There is nothing disgraceful about a retarded child. It is heart-breaking for the parents that their child can't live a normal life. All of us want normal, healthy children but some are not so fortunate. I feel these are God's special children and we should not shut the door in their face. These children can't help themselves, so it is up to us. What would be your feelings if one of your children had to live in such unsanitary conditions?

★ ★ ★

If the people in office can't have a sound and fair budget they should be replaced. We build monuments to the dead. What about the living? We send millions to other countries. What about our own people? Their lives are worth saving also.

Having Tough Time in Deciding Vote

I'm 78 years old and have never missed voting. This is the hardest time I have ever had in trying to know how to vote.

The Republicans turned down medical care for the aged through Social Security. Many of we old people have no income but through Social Security and need medical care but can't afford it.

The Democrats are for medical care through Social Security but it looks like Kennedy may get beat. I think I will vote for Kennedy although it's against my principles.

'Commanders Still Charged Neglectful'

I know of no one who even hinted that F.D.R. was not justified in declaring war after the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor where 2,200 American servicemen died in their sleep.

What one writer called attention to was that Pearl Harbor's defenders were not warned by the State Department that such an attack might occur. Pearl Harbor's investigating committee chairman, Harry S. Truman, then a Senator said, "The blame for such failure lay on the White House door steps." To this day the Army and Navy commanders in charge of Pearl Harbor at that time are still charged with neglect of duty and are denied a chance to prove themselves not guilty.

'Theaters Could Try Three Price Ranges'

Some of the theaters in outlying communities have a special teen price of 60 cents with the adult fare usually 90 cents and children under 12 years 30 cents.

★ ★ ★

This enables teen-agers from 13 to 16 to attend the show for less than the adult ticket. It brings in more business for the theater and also solves the problem of what to charge the 12 and 13 year olds who both try to purchase children's tickets.

★ ★ ★

I wish our local theaters would consider adopting a similar price range. There are many teen-agers who would welcome the opportunity to see our shows at the teen price.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Blessed is the man to whom the Lord will not impute Sin.—Romans 4:8.

★ ★ ★

David Lawrence Says:

UAW Won't Own Up to Its Bigotry

WASHINGTON—The latest sensation of the campaign is the exploitation of the so-called religious issue by the United Auto Workers of America, the principal labor union in the automobile industry.

LAWRENCE

In the union's own newspaper there appeared on Sept. 26 last a four-page insert calling on the members of the union to support Sen. Kennedy, Democrat, on account of the bigotry issue.

Four pages were devoted to material in support of Sen. Kennedy, and the front page was taken up entirely with drawings of the Statue of Liberty holding aloft a torch and a hooded member of the Ku Klux Klan carrying a torch in one hand and a club in the other.

The auxiliary political organization of the union has since had a million extra copies printed for public distribution in the campaign.

When Walter Reuther, president of the union, was asked in Detroit on Monday whether he would repudiate the document, he didn't exactly do so. What he said was merely a criticism of those who, he claims, had "misinterpreted" it. He expressed regret at the "implication some may have drawn" that the newspaper supplement was exploiting the religious issue.

He explained that, if the United Auto Workers erred—he did not say he believed it had erred—then it was an error of judgment and "not of intent." He added that "we did not intend to imply that people who disagreed with us politically are bigots."

He did not explain why three weeks had elapsed without any comment from him or any effort to stop further circulation of leaflets reprinting the article and the drawings.

FRIENDS, FOES PAY

Here is a newspaper published by a union comprised of Protestants as well as Catholics, Republicans as well as Democrats, all of whom pay to the union dues which in this case were used to publish a document of political partisanship.

For not only was Sen. Kennedy's speech before the Protestant ministers at Houston published in full but not a single word about Vice President Nixon's denunciation of the so-called religious issue was contained in the newspaper or its supplement.

The Michigan Fair Election Practices Commission has issued a statement condemning the UAW newspaper article and has said that "this leaflet unmistakably implies that the issue of the campaign is between freedom and the Ku Klux Klan."

The commission added that the pamphlet "in effect smears one of the parties, and attempts to exploit the religious issue for political advantage. Bigotry is not to be fought with bigotry in reverse."

President Eisenhower, who happened to be in Detroit on Monday, referred to the UAW article in a speech.

He said:

"I believe that anyone who is guilty in America of putting out any kind of document that tries to tear down our self-respect, which tries to make us believe that we are not trying to do the good and best things for ourselves and the rest of the world, this is a disservice to the United States."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Bursitis Not Connected With Trouble in Joints

"I don't doubt that calcium and vitamin D helps in many instances of arthritis, but there seems to be a contradiction when you say in an allied disease, bursitis, there is actually a building up of calcium deposit in the joint. It would be interesting to read your explanation for this. . ."

In the first place, I do not teach that calcium and vitamin D have anything to do with arthritis (joint inflammation).

In the next place, the only similarity between bursitis (inflammation of an anatomical pad or sac which prevents friction) and rheumatiz—chronic joint disability—is that both are painful. As for "arthritis," I don't know what you mean.

Years ago I had subacromial bursitis. I'm one of the hypersensitive kind—I holler "ouch" at the mere thought of being hurt. So, on several occasions, I cried so piteously with the pain that we called a physician who gave me a shot of morphine or cocaine or something for relief, in the night.

The bursitis ran its course in a few weeks and, thanks to daily diathermy and passive manipulations of the shoulder and later active exercise, under supervision of a physical therapist, I recovered in three months without any impairment of shoulder function.

A year later I sustained a fracture of the opposite shoulder. X-ray pictures of both shoulders (for comparison) revealed calcification (a "deposit" of calcium) in the bursa, although I had no pain, stiffness or impairment of function following the bursitis.

So you see, I hope, calcification or a "deposit" of calcium is a consequence of injury, disease or physical degeneration and not a cause of it. Lime (calcium) is laid down in the tissue in an attempt to patch up as well as possible when the body can no longer produce functioning cells to heal the wound, injury or disease. A plaster-of-paris repair job.

DUE TO INJURY

Inflammation of one of the bursas around the shoulder is probably the most frequent bursitis. It is usually due to injury or strain. To ascribe it to "rheumatism" is moronic—unless you can explain what no physician can explain, namely, what is "rheumatism"?

As for the effect of cold and damp on bursitis or any other ailment, it is wholly a question of comfort. If you are over 2 years old and not a blithering idiot you know, better than anyone else does, whether your abode or your clothing is warm enough.

Now and then I receive reports from readers who declare that hormone treatment (ACTH injections) into or around the inflamed bursa have given them prompt and lasting cure. I cannot help wondering whether the bursitis in such cases would not run its course and be over with just as promptly without treatment.

Injection of novacain into the bursa or into the soft tissues around the bursa is uniformly successful in giving the sufferer prolonged relief and permitting sufficient use of the shoulder to prevent "freezing"—permanent stiffness and partial loss of use from adhesions.

Some physicians treat shoulder bursitis successfully by aspiration—withdrawing serum from the tense, swollen bursa or sac. The sac normally contains only a drop or two of fluid and, even when acutely inflamed, only a few drops; but aspiration of only a few drops may give immediate relief to tension and pain. This may be worth repeating in a day or two, under local anesthesia.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not diagnosis, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Everyone Has Pre-Sleep Ritual

Terry is like millions of youngsters for he has a standard pre-sleep ritual. All of us do, but some are very bizarre. However, Terry shows the effect of "conditioning" while he was still bottle fed. Pass this case along to the parents of such children.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"But he has a bad habit," his Daddy irritably protested.

"Terry can't seem to go to sleep at night unless he has the corner of a wool blanket against his cheek.

DR. CRANE

"If we go visiting my parents, then Terry will cry 'til we find a wool blanket for him.

"I slapped him the other night in my anger. Now I am ashamed of myself, but it irks me to see him acting like a baby. Why does he demand that wool blanket?"

PRE-SLEEP RITUALS

All of us have our one special pre-sleep ritual.

In my case, I start out on my back, with my head on the pillow. Mrs. Crane is usually snuggled on my left shoulder.

Soon she is sound asleep. I may lie there thinking of tomorrow's work for a few minutes; then I begin to grow drowsy.

That's when I roll over on my face and stick my head under my pillow, using it to keep the back of my neck warm. Then I drop off into sound slumber.

In Terry's case and that of most youngsters, we can easily see why they want the wool blanket or some other soft, flannel cloth.

For in babyhood, they are usually fed by bottle. But it slips from side to side unless anchored by having a cloth or blanket wrapped around it.

So the baby is soon "conditioned" to the feel of a wool blanket as an essential part of its prelude to sleep.

PAVLOV'S DOG

Whenever the canine was given food, a bell rang. Soon the bell itself would start saliva flowing till the dog drooled, though no food was in sight.

So the blanket is likewise a conditioned object that the average baby has linked with its pre-sleep ritual.

Other children may insist on sucking their thumb in order to gain the relaxation needed to drift into slumber.

Since the blanket habit of Terry is not injurious, it might very well be ignored.

But thumb sucking may lead to ridicule from other children if it also occurs during school, so you had better tactfully change it.

THUMB SUCKING

One of the simple ways to do so is to cut a strip of rubber from an old inner tube, much as boys do for making a slingshot.

With a safety pin, fasten the far end of the rubber strip to the foot of the child's mattress.

★ ★ ★

Then stretch the child's arm full length at its side. Now pin the upper end of the rubber band to the cuff of the child's pajama sleeve.

Although there is now no tension from the rubber strip, as soon as the youngster bends its arm to stick the thumb in its mouth, the rubber stretches. This tension quickly fatigues the child so its thumb slips out of its mouth.

The unpleasant effect of the tension in its arm will soon attach to the act of thumb sucking and thus cause the child to stop the habit altogether.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Auto Sales Tax Receipts Down

Decline of $3 Million Is Laid to Fewer Deals and Lower Prices in State

LANSING (UPI)—Fewer automobile transactions this year than last plus a lower average sales tax per transaction has dropped the state's income from this source by $3 million, Secretary of State James M. Hare said. The figures compared were for the first nine months of the year.

Hare said 816,224 transactions brought in $39.49 million in the January-to-September period of 1960, while some 828,302 transactions accounted for $42.51 million in the comparable period of 1959.

Sales of both new and used cars were counted in the compilation of tax figures.

Hare said that the average tax per sale was $48.38 in 1960, which was $2.94 less that the $51.32 paid per sale in 1959.

"This decrease is probably due to lower prices of popular compact cars and of used cars, and to the generous discounts offered on many 1960 standard and luxury automobiles," Hare said.

Music Charms Dental Patients to Forget Pain

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Music hath charm, even on a guy in a dentist's chair, the American Dental Association's 101st annual session was told Tuesday.

Dr. Morgan L. Allison, professor and chairman of oral surgery and anesthesia at Ohio State University College of Dentistry, said use of stereophonic music may hold promise for helping reduce pain in certain dental situations.

The new pain-soothing approach is known as "auditory analgesia" and employs selected sterophonic music and a masking sound heard through earphones by both the patient and the dentist. The volume of each sound is controllable by the patient at his discretion.

Dr. Allison said studies to date have shown the technique is highly successful in many dental cases, but that more information about the technique is needed.

Allison said it was not known whether the technique is a kind of relief by distraction, a result of suggestion, or actually, a method to interfere with transmission of pain impulses from the nerves to the brain.

Engineering Recruiting Still Going Full-Blast

Demand for Top Execs Slackening

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Business still is in the market for executive talent. But some of the urgency has gone out of the search and fewer top job openings—except in the sales departments—are reported by specialists than a year ago.

Recruiting of engineers still is a full-time occupation for many firms, expecially those in the defense and allied industries. And many devices to curtail raiding of other staffs, or to cut the high cost of recruiting an engineer or scientist, are winning favor.

★ ★ ★

One is the growing trend toward setting up career centers in connection with national meetings of technical groups—a big saving in time and effort, and bringing into the open a once furtive practice.

But in the engineering field, too, new need for engineering executives, as apart from the basic staff, is reported slackening.

Some of the easing in the rush to find top men to head production, engineering or general administrative staffs may be due to the slump in many industries. But a large part is traceable to cost-cutting studies.

JOBS DUPLICATED

A sharp look at personnel, at all levels, has led some companies to feel that many jobs are duplicated. And a peek at the rosters of their rivals has shown some that competitors are hiring fewer men to get the same job done.

★ ★ ★

A survey of 133 large companies with average annual sales of $113 million shows them expecting to fill 292 jobs paying from $10,000 to $75,000 a year during the coming six months. This is 2.2 jobs per firm.

A year ago a like survey showed 466 job openings, or 3.5 per company. Six months ago there were 199 openings, or 2.5 per company.

The recruiting firm sponsoring the poll, Executive Manpower Corp., New York, says sales executives are bucking the trend. The openings have increased in the last six months—28.5 per cent of the total now as against 27.1 per cent in March.

This in line with the stepped up sales drives of many companies as competition increases and customers grow more coy.

2 GROUPS UP

Manufacturing production executives are second in line—21.9 per cent of the openings now, against 18.6 per cent earlier in the year. A group including general management, administrative and research executives is third with 16.1 per cent of the openings now, against 11.2 per cent last time.

But the search for engineering executives is sharply off in the last six months—14.7 per cent of today's opening against the 22.5 per cent that put this field in second place in March.

Where do companies find the wanted executives? More than half say within their own company. About a third try a management recruiter, or advertise, or go to employment agencies. But 15 per cent—more than six months ago—hire men from their competitors.

★ ★ ★

At the engineering and scientific level, as apart from the executive level, the cost of recruiting stays high. A congressional subcommittee study of 76 firms doing more than 50 per cent of their business with the federal government puts the average expense for each man at $1,022.

★ ★ ★

Careers, Inc. is plugging the career center as an answer. The last one held during the Western Electronics Show & Convention in August drew 5,000 visitors, and 1,500 of them registered for job interviews with the 24 companies paying Careers, Inc. to maintain recruiting staffs at the center.

Swainson Stumps Oustate—Bagwell Sticks to Detroit

"I am for the elimination of discrimination in employment because of age," said the 35-year-old Democratic nominee for governor soon after he began a typical 16-hour day of campaigning Tuesday. It started in Lansing and took him to Albion, Battle Creek and Benton Harbor.

His comments on old age problems came at a gathering of senior citizens, retirees and party workers at a Reo factory local United Auto Workers' Hall. He proposed a seven-point program to improve the social, economic and health problems of Michigan's aging.

The GOP nominee was described as "the outstanding challenger of all" in the 27 state governor races this year and Swainson as the "hand-picked choice of the UAW."

"It is a typical propaganda piece which overstates the picture in one instance and understates it in another," Swainson said in answer to a reporter's question.

"I'd have been surprised if it had taken any other position," he said.

★ ★ ★

Swainson's aides pointed out that the article devoted about 10 paragraphs to Bagwell's background and only about three to the lieutenant governor.

FACTORY GATING

The long day of campaigning began in typical fashion outside a factory gate. After a couple of hours of handshaking with workers and the meeting with oldsters, Swainson attended a conference of the State Administrative Board and then shook some more hands—this time at an informal sandwich-and-coffee buffet attended mainly by campaign workers in Lansing.

Another trip to a factory gate in Albion, a newspaper interview in Battle Creek and a speech at a $10-a-plate fund-raising dinner wound up the day's schedule.

Swainson drew a standing ovation when introduced at the Third Congressional District dinner, where he shared the spotlight with Sen. Patrick V. McNamara, Atty. Gen. Paul Adams, Supreme Court Justice Theodore Souris and Rep. Richard Boling of Missouri.

Speaking on aid to education, Swainson said that numerous study committees had shown the need for accelerated school construction.

"The time for fact-finding is over," he said, "and the time for fact-facing is here. We must offer our children educational opportunities that are second to none."

Today's schedule calls for six speeches, a news conference, and appearances at two factory gates, a school assembly and a political rally. He will visit St. Joseph, Benton Harbor, Watervliet, Kalamazoo, Hillsdale, Jackson and Bay City.

JOHN B. SWAINSON

PAUL D. BAGWELL

EN ROUTE WITH BAGWELL (AP)—A fired-up Paul D. Bagwell unleashed twin attacks against Michigan Democrats last night, accusing them of resorting to "scare propaganda" and trying to ignore Lyndon B. Johnson as their vice-presidential nominee.

The Republican governor-candidate, stepping up his campaign pace in the vote-rich Detroit area, said both devices are designed to divert attention from a poor civil rights record in Congress.

Bagwell warned against "tricks of bigotry" as he ranged through the 13th Congressional District, a midtown Democratic stronghold with a population about 60 per cent Negro.

His 17-hour day began shortly after sunup with handshakes for workers at Burroughs Corp., a businessman machine manufacturer, and wound up near midnight with a speech before a Negro group in the bar of a private club.

Today, Bagwell makes a one-day thrust into West Branch and Cheboygan before returning again to Detroit.

"The symbol of the Ku Klux Klan was brought for the first time into this political campaign in Michigan for a deliberate purpose," he told some 200 Republicans in Highland Park. "It is scare propaganda to develop a religious and racial 'bloc vote' for the Democrats."

Bagwell displayed a four-page pamphlet circulated by the United Auto Workers to boost Sen. John F. Kennedy, Democratic presidential candidate. It depicts the Statue of Liberty and a hooded knight of the Klan and asks: "Which Do You Choose, Liberty or Bigotry?"

"We haven't heard the last of the 'Liberty or Bigotry' pamphlet," the candidate declared. Thousands and thousands of copies were printed in Detroit and so far I haven't heard of any being burned by the sponsors.

"It is just as immoral and un-American to build religious and racial 'bloc voting' for a candidate as it is to conduct a religious or racial campaign against him."

'PHANTOM' LBJ

To loud applause, Bagwell described Johnson as the "phantom" Democratic standard bearer in Michigan and dared Democrats to bring him to Southern Michigan "so voters can question him on his record."

"Democrats are afraid to expose Johnson's record on civil rights legislation to public scrutiny in Michigan for fear of losing the election, he said.

Earlier, Bagwell demonstrated his vote-getting technique with hundreds of office workers as they poured out of the General Motors Corp. office building at the 5 p.m. rush hour.

★ ★ ★

"The prettiest girls in Detroit work in the GM Building," he told two comely young women. They giggled with appreciation but allowed as how they weren't old enough to vote.

Bagwell pressed two "Junior Boosters for Bagwell" membership cards into the hands of two little boys and as an afterthought added a 50-cent piece with the advice to "buy yourselves a couple of malts."

"And tell your dads I want to go to work for them," he added.

A fresh-faced young man pumped his hand hard and recalled "many a lecture I heard in your classes, professor." Bagwell used to teach speech at Michigan State University.

"Oh, you're just a darling," shouted a middle-aged receptionist. Bagwell barely got his handshaking arm out in time to avoid a kiss.

★ ★ ★

"Boy, I've got her vote," he murmured to an aide.

McNamara Assails GOP 'Antitrust Lag'

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Democratic Sen. Patrick V. McNamara said Tuesday that Republican laxity in enforcing anti-trust laws has encouraged big business and helped bankrupt many small businessmen.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

McNamara charged that small business bankruptcies were running at a record high and there is an accompanying trend toward what he called "giantism and monopoly."

Bowles Claims GOP Keeping U.S. Stunted

LANSING (UPI)—Rep. Chester Bowles, D-Conn., a top adviser on foreign policy to Democratic presidential hopeful John F. Kennedy, said Tuesday night Republican "inertia, confusion and lack of faith" was holding the United States back in world affairs.

★ ★ ★

He told the Lansing World Affairs Council Russian Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has "dominated most of our discussions of world affairs" for the past several years.

"Future historians will surely regard this as odd," Bowles said.

"Why, they will ask, should 20th century America, with its vital, able people, its dynamic industrial system, its boundless resources, and all its magnificent traditions in behalf of human freedom, become so blindly obsessed with what the Kremlin says and does," he said.

"Contrary to what we have lately been told, the foundations of a just and durable peace will not be created by angry debate in a Moscow kitchen or in the United Nations Security Council," Bowles said.

He outlined a nine-point program which he called "areas for action" on which a Democratic administration would work.

★ ★ ★

Included were improvements in national defense, better disarmament and arms control procedures, a "more effective partnership" with countries of the Atlantic community, greater and more equitable economic assistance, a new policy in the U.N., a different attitude toward Latin America, a fresh approach to the Middle East, a "more realistic perspective on China" and improvements in the domestic picture.

★ ★ ★

Bowles, one time governor of Connecticut, has been prominently mentioned as a possible choice for Secretary of State if Kennedy wins Nov. 8.

Auto Production Up for Week and Year

DETROIT (UPI) — The Automobile Manufacturers Association reported today that automakers turned out 162,549 vehicles last week including 144,615 cars, 17,849 trucks and 85 buses.

This compared with 140,506 cars, 18,395 trucks and 100 buses in the previous week.

Total vehicle production through last Saturday was listed as 6,243,307, compared with 5,385,053 at the same point last year.

Brands Dems Sympathy Seekers

Bentley Hits 'the Pamphlet'

DETROIT (AP)—Republican senatorial candidate Alvin M. Bentley said Tuesday that a UAW-CIO pamphlet was distributed for "the unmistakable purpose of creating the impression that a vote for Richard Nixon was a vote for bigotry and religious hate."

Bentley said the Democrats, the UAW and Sen. John Kennedy are "trying to get sympathy votes from Catholics, Jews, Negroes and other minority groups."

State Tax Commission After Bigger Staff, Budget

LANSING (UPI) — The State Tax Commission was expected to try and justify its bid for a larger staff — and a larger budget — today in hearings before a special committee of the Michigan Senate.

The committee, which is studying property taxation and equalization problems, heard spokesmen for local tax units and private industry advocate the staff increase yesterday.

"I am now convinced that in order for the tax commission to do an acceptable job statewide, we must have a larger staff," commission chairman Robert A. Eckhardt told the committee.

Edward W. Kane, executive secretary of the commission, has recommended a staff increase of 55 and a budget increase of $362,000.

Three witnesses before the committee recommended staff increases as part of their proposals to help make property taxes more equitable on different classes and kinds of property.

They were Clifford C. Christenson, Grand Rapids lawyer representing several industrial and commercial clients in Western Michigan; Albert E. Champney, director of the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation, and George Kostishak, equalization adviser to the Washtenaw County Board of Supervisors.

All three indicated "discriminatory assessments" were possible under the existing programs.

The chief problem cited by the half-dozen witnesses appearing before the legislative committee was that under Michigan's property tax structure and laws governing assessments and equalization, personal property has often been taxed at a much higher level than real property.

TAX INEQUALITIES

Several witnesses cited specific examples which they said showed inequalities.

Commission member Gerald Barr said recommendations on how to take into consideration depreciation of personal property for assessment purposes, plus the equalization functions of county and state officials, were aimed at correcting these inequalities.

Last spring's 13.6 per cent hike in equalized valuation by the state board of equalization was an effort in this direction, commission spokesmen said.

Part of the reason for the needed new staff members would be that assessed valuation could be kept more current, they said.

This would eliminate the need for drastic increases — or decreases — in equalized valuations with the resultant effects on revenue possibilities and budget considerations of local units, they said.

★ ★ ★

Other lawmakers on the committee were Sens. Charles Feenstra, R-Grand Rapids; Carlton H. Morris, R-Kalamazoo; Lewis G. Christman, R-Ann Arbor, and Harold M. Ryan, D-Detroit.

Representatives of various groups appearing before the committee included:

The Lansing meeting was the final one in a series of six held at various points around the state to study tax matters.

Debate by 2 Hopefuls May Run Extra Hour

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy said today he is willing to extend Friday's television debate with Vice President Richard M. Nixon an extra hour.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, had said earlier he was against a two-hour debate, as suggested by his Republican opponent, because he doubted whether viewer interest could be held that long.

There is some doubt whether the extension is possible now.

The fourth debate, as scheduled now, will be broadcast over the major TV and radio networks from 9 to 10 p. m. Pontiac time.

Both candidates will meet face to face in the New York studios of the American Broadcasting Co.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy's aides apparently have given up any idea of a fifth Nixon-Kennedy encounter, as proposed originally by the senator. Nixon spokesmen said complicated travel arrangements make another meeting impossible.

Nixon countered with a suggestion that instead of a fifth debate, the fourth be extended one hour.

He also asked that candidates respond to questions telephoned from the public, as well as questions from newsmen in the studio.

If the Friday debate is extended, Kennedy aides said there will be no questions from the public because the networks ruled it impracticable.

Both candidates will make opening statements of eight minutes. Then they will be questioned for 30 minutes by a panel, after which they will present three- to five-minute summary statements.

The program will be carried on th TV and radio networks of ABC, Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Co., and the radio network of the Mutual Broadcasting System.

Michigan, Hawaii to Match Votes

LANSING (AP) — Michigan has accepted a challenge to match the voting record of Hawaii in the Nov. 8 election.

★ ★ ★

Hawaii, Quinn reported, had 92.9 per cent of its registered voters cast ballots in the first election for state officers. The election will be the first time citizens of Hawaii vote for a president.

Williams admitted the goal might be too optimistic, but accepted the challenge, saying Michigan ordinarily makes a good showing on election day.

About 66 per cent of Michigan's registered voters cast ballots in the 1958 election, the elections bureau said.

WHY MORE TRAINING?

The Job Guide, published by the U.S. Dept. of Labor, gives this answer: "You should weigh carefully the long run advantages offered by jobs you are considering against immediate gains. You should be aware of the great importance of education as a general and specific asset. Technical or professional training received after leaving high school will give you definite advantages in seeking and finding a job. When advancement opportunities occur, preference is generally given to persons with superior educational qualifications — other things being equal."

Go Ahead, Entertain the Others

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently I invited a neighbor and her visiting mother to a luncheon at my house, in honor of the mother. Two days before the luncheon, my neighbor telephoned me to say that her mother had taken ill and she was sorry but they would not be able to come to the luncheon.

★ ★ ★

I immediately called the other guests whom I had invited and canceled the luncheon. I have been told that this was inexcusably rude to the other guests and that I should have let them come anyway.

Since the only reason for the luncheon in the beginning was so that the mother could see some of her old friends, I thought it would be pointless to have it since she could not be present. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?

★ ★ ★

Answer: I am sorry, but you really should have had your luncheon as planned and told your guests when they arrived that you were sorry but the guest of honor was not able to be with you.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: Our oldest son has been going steady with a girl for about six months. They are not engaged. This is our problem:

We are having a bar mitzvah for our 14-year-old son and want to invite this girl. Our son wants us to seat her at the family table.

I do not think she belongs at this table and that she should be seated elsewhere with friends. Will you please settle this?

Answer: You are right, until her engagement to your son has been announced, she should not be seated at the family table.

Dear Mrs. Post: If a woman is approaching a doorway and there is a group in front of her in which the man is holding the door open for the woman in the group, should he also hold the door open for the woman approaching?

★ ★ ★

Answer: If the approaching woman is close to the door he should let her go through it before he does so himself, but he is not expected to act as a doorman for her and other women who may be following her.

Symphony Is Outstanding in Its Opening Performance

By A. MICHAEL DEMPSEY

The Pontiac Symphony Orchestra opened its 1960-61 season Tuesday evening with an outstanding performance in the Pontiac Northern High School Auditorium.

The orchestra, under the direction of Francesco DiBlasi, opened the concert with the well-known "Overture to Der Freischutz" by Weber. This selection was highlighted by the smoothly flowing melodic lines of the horns, outstanding throughout the concert.

★ ★ ★

The best known of Beethoven's symphonies, his Fifth, followed. This work demands meticulous and exacting care in its performance. It is to the credit of the orchestra that such an effort was made this early in the season.

★ ★ ★

The second half of the program was devoted to music by American composers. Highlight of this section, and indeed of the evening, was the Aaron Copland composition, "A Lincoln Portrait," narrated by John Gregory. Beautifully interpreted by Mr. DiBlasi, the piece was charged with the tumult and excitement of the times.

A graphic picture of Lincoln the man emerged from the intricate fusion of text and score. The orchestral pictures of rural America were magnificent and the composition sparkled with life from the early tension-filled passages to the powerful final chords.

The ambitious debut of this year's orchestra continued with the Samuel Barber composition, "Adagio for Strings." The winding sonorous melody was passed from one section to another and the maturity of tone on the part of the string players was evident at all times.

A. Roger Welton, first flutist of the orchestra, was featured in the "Bagatelle for Flute and Orchestra" by Victor Kolar. Mr. Welton, an instrumental music instructor in the Pontiac Public Schools, displayed great dexterity and musicianship along with a beautiful tone endowed with warmth.

Selections from "My Fair Lady" closed the concert with verve.

★ ★ ★

The orchestra and Mr. DiBlasi are to be congratulated for the memorable evening of music given to the community whose good fortune it is to have such a hard-working talented group in its midst.

To Host OES Unit

Mrs. William Hooper of Cooley Lake Road will entertain Group 4, Order of the Eastern Star, at a dessert luncheon Thursday at 12:30.

Preaches What She Practices

You're Right—Our Abby's a Dear

By MARJORIE EICHER
Women's Editor
The Pontiac Press

In a whirlwind visit to Pontiac that included luncheon, a press conference, a talk to teen-agers at Pontiac Northern High School, dinner at the Pontiac City Club and an 8 o'clock speech at Pontiac Central High School, the petite advice columnist left a trail of autographs and witticisms.

★ ★ ★

I was fortunate to be with her much of the day. She's one of those people who grows on you. The longer I was with her, the more I appreciated her.

Well organized, keen and to the point, she has a warmth and love of people that is genuine.

She's a small-city girl from the Middle West—Sioux City, Iowa, to be specific. Last night there were at least two former schoolmates of Abby's from Sioux City's Central High in the audience, Paul Metzler of Birmingham and Mrs. Clarence Brown of Orchard Lake.

They talked about the pictures in the school annual and how nobody has changed — much! Abby remembered Mr. Metzler as "Metz."

SHE'S GRACIOUS

Her graciousness with the teen-agers who mobbed her for autographs was cause for comment from the older generation.

In our getting-to-know-you session, Abby talked about her "wonderful husband," an inventive-minded man who "put pot roasts into orbit" when he created a pressure cooker that has become a household word.

My teen-agers thought she was pretty strict with her teen-agers. "Of course teen-agers should have cars," she said, "when they carry all-A report cards!" She agreed later that this view was probably a little unrealistic unless public transportation were easily accessible.

★ ★ ★

Her 18-year-old daughter Jeannie, a freshman at the University of Colorado in Boulder, is "majoring in boys and minoring in archeology," according to Abby. Her son is at prep school this year, which leaves the columnist more time to devote to her writing.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

She told of the thousands of letters she receives each week, many of them from lonely people. It takes the efforts of eight secretaries and a corps of U.S. mailmen, "but she answers every letter! The most provocative, of course are condensed for her daily column which is syndicated in over 500 newspapers throughout the world.

FOLLOWS HUBBY

Abby, who is an identical twin, is Mrs. Morton Phillips of San Francisco. She has a "Whither thou goest I go" attitude to the number one man in her life and suits her speaking engagements and column commitments to his needs.

Her office is in her home, and soon that will be moved south to Santa Barbara, Calif., because that's where her husband's business will take them. They have had a wonderful marriage, she said, for 22 years.

Pontiac Press Photo

Pontiac extended a warm welcome to "Dear Abby" (center) Tuesday. Greeting her at lunch on behalf of The Pontiac Press were James Dickerson and Women's Editor Mrs. Marjorie Eicher. Autographs were in demand wherever Abby appeared.

Smoker Fires Up Abby

It's a Burning Question

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: If you can help me, you're a genius. Mel is a wonderful husband but he smokes in bed. He's burned our blankets, sheets and even the floor.

I've cut things out of the paper showing him where whole families were burned up by people smoking in bed, but he still does it. He'll get up to smoke and falls asleep smoking, so I wait till he's asleep and then I hide his cigarettes. He wakes up and begs for a cigarette, promising he won't fall asleep, but he always does.

ABBY

I worry about the lives of our children and other people in this building. Can you or any of your readers help?

MEL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It would appear that your "wonderful husband" is not only selfish but too weak to break a habit which is endangering the lives of others. Ask a doctor to recommend some methods of curing a tobacco slave. Do it before the ashes he leaves are his own.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I heard that you wrote a book called "Dear Teen-Ager." Please send me the book and if it is any good I will send you a check.

DEAR B. S. S.: Please send me the check and if it is any good I will send you the book.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday we were "prisoners" in our own home. Some people we know, terrible bores and freeloaders, called and asked if we planned to be home Sunday. I said we were going to be gone all day.

Come noon I saw them drive into our driveway, so I pulled down the shades and locked the doors. They kept driving past our house until 5 p.m. We didn't dare go out to enjoy our patio. My husband and I fought about this all day.

He said they knew we were home because they could see our car in the garage and it was childish not to go out and invite them in.

I said I had nothing to serve and refused to get trapped into entertaining. Who was right?

"PRISONER"

DEAR PRISONER: Your husband. You should have enjoyed your patio, allowed them to join you, and served nothing. And the next time they phoned, I'd have told them I was NOT entertaining, so please don't come.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: There is a girl in our school you might call a hit-and-run type. She likes to go after a boy who is going with another girl and break them up. Then she drops the boy like a hot potato and breaks up somebody else. Now this girl is after my boy friend. Should I bust her a good one in the mouth? She doesn't want anyone for herself, she just enjoys breaking people up.

MAD

DEAR MAD: Don't bust anyone in the mouth. If a hit-and-run flirt can break you up, it's a break for you. Let her have him.

Ask Junior What Toy He'd Like

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—The best way to select a gift for children is to ask the children their choice, the director of Frankfurt University Clinic's psychiatric department suggests.

Dr. Gerhard Bosch says parents are to blame when their children take a toy to pieces.

"This is because the majority of today's toys just aren't toys any more," Bosch said.

TOO PERFECT

"Toys today are so perfect a clockwork automobile, for instance—that the child cannot play with it. He can only busy himself a little with it. At the most he can take it apart to see how it works."

"Then" Bosch said, "The parents spank junior although more often than not they're to blame. They buy things that please themselves."

★ ★ ★

"The fully automatic toy is in place only when the child understands something about it," Bosch's associate, Dr. Helmut Sennewald, said.

★ ★ ★

"To give a six-year-old an electric train is ridiculous," the child psychiatrist said.

★ ★ ★

Parents should bear in mind that most children always want things the kid next door has, the two said.

Also important, they said, is not to give too many gifts.

How to choose a toy?

"The best way is to ask the child himself," Bosch said.

Marjorie Skaggs Repeats Nuptial Vows

The Rev. Wilbur Courter officiated at the double-ring nuptials of Marjorie Skaggs and Alan L. Getter Saturday evening in Covert Methodist Church, Waterford Township. Altar flowers were white chrysanthemums and gladioli.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Skaggs of Orchid Street, Waterford Township, and the Leo Getters of Manton.

White butterfly roses, gismelias and English violets rested on the prayer book held by the bride, gowned in white silk organza over taffeta, and crowns of pearls and tulle.

The bride's elbow-length veil of silk illusion was caught by a tiara of iridescent crystals and pearls.

Ballerina Can Teach Us Lesson

BY ALICE HART
NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

Dame Margot Fonteyn is in the United States as guest artist with the Royal Ballet. Watching her as she danced the part of Princess Aurora in "The Sleeping Beauty," I marveled at the way she drifted across the stage, light as thistledown.

This is the result, of course, of years of concentrated study and constant exercise on her part. What looks so delightfully easy is achieved only by an enormous effort.

★ ★ ★

The life of a ballerina is a dedicated one. But Dame Margot, who is 41, can teach the American women who will see her dance one tremendously important lesson. She is an example of what the human body can be when it is treated with respect.

NO SAGGS

A ballerina cannot allow herself sagging muscles, a drop seat, flabby arms or a comfortable little round stomach. The muscles must provide an instant response.

What this celebrated dancer has accomplished on one plane, any woman can accomplish on another. Through spot exercises and self-discipline, she can keep a firm and beautiful body for as long as she's willing to work at being handsome.

Launder Cashmere, Suggest Experts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cashmere experts recommend washing the fiber instead of dry cleaning because the gentle agitation in laundering renews the softness and keeps the sweater fluffy.

A leading cashmere house said that dry cleaning in turn will give cashmere a flat look.

Here's Some Sewing Shortcuts to Help Mom

AP NEWSFEATURES

Busy mothers are always in need of a shortcut.

But it's never more important than when they're readying their youngsters to go back to school.

Suddenly they discover Johnny has outgrown all his jeans, and by the time they have new ones made, there's no time left even to put in a fastener.

Or Susie has decided that the dresses Mom made for her last year just weren't stylish enough.

What to do? For Johnny clip in snap fasteners, available at notions counters, that require no sewing. They hold tightly enough that if Johnny just loves to wrestle, they'll still hold.

★ ★ ★

For Susie, trim her dresses with braid and buttons that you match up with the pattern when you buy it.

Braids may be simple rick-rack — an old favorite with renewed life in a wide range of colors — or as elaborate as wide, silver or gold thread combined with color can make it.

BUTTONS FOR ALL

Buttons are equally suited for any and all types of uses and clothes. They may be simply utilitarian, to close a boy's shirt or trousers — or purely decorative, to ornament a little girl's dress. They come in every color you might imagine — in lovely shapes and designs, plain or studded with imitation gems.

★ ★ ★

Embroidery — with braid, by hand, or on the machine — is very popular. Teenagers like it on jumpers, skirts or blouses.

The National Notions Assn. points out that these days there are all kinds of important new devices to be found on the notions counter, such as pinking shears for the lefthanded.

NO EXCUSE

Or the completely mechanized homesewer. It can pick up a palm size electric scissors that will zoom through her cutting as her electric machine does through her sewing. Or you can mend and decorate in one easy operation with iron-on patches in pretty designs and colors.

★ ★ ★

For the 60 million home sewers in the country, there are more and more shortcuts. The smart mother will take advantage of them as another school year approaches.

Unveil Child-Proof Medicine Chest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new child-proof medicine cabinet has five buttons, three of which are intended simply to confuse the child. Only the second and fourth, from top or bottom, pressed simultaneously, will open the cabinet.

Are They Carefully Fitted

Women in Slacks—Look Behind You

By DOROTHY ROE

This has been the theme of cartoonists and satirists for lo, these many years, ever since Marlene Dietrich launched American women on a slacks-happy era.

Many were the sins committed in the name of fashion in the early days of feminine in slacks, when the female form often looked far from divine. Big or little, fat or thin, women took to slacks with happy abandon, ignoring rear views that pained their public.

"POTATO BAG"

These first bifurcated garments usually sagged in the seat, bagged at the knees and gave the wearer the general appearance of a bag of potatoes.

After 20 years and much research, slacks have become pants, carefully designed for figure flattery, slim, tapered and without a bag or bulge in a carload.

One of the new champions of pants for every woman is Jack Winter of Milwaukee, who started turning out a precisely engineered kind of pants some five years ago and now has three factories, with a fourth now in prospect, located in Milwaukee, Marianna, Ark., and Columbus, Wis., plus showrooms in New York.

★ ★ ★

Winter says all women can wear pants sucessfully, if they are carefully fitted. He uses supple, non-bulky fabrics, goes in for expert tailoring and believes all women's pants should be sleek and smooth.

He offers these pointers on how to buy a pair of pants:

1. Always try on pants before buying, and look at them fore and aft, in a rear-view mirror. If they fit, they must follow the natural lines of the body, with no bulges, bags or straining seams.

2. If you want to be sure of a perfect fit, always remove your girdle before trying on pants.

3. If you have a bulge in front, choose pants with a little fullness at either side. This may be achieved by darts or pleats. Winter uses a belt that goes through a two-inch loop concealing a dart on each side. This allows ease through the middle, without apparent bulk.

4. If the pants fit through the hips and stomach, don't worry about waistline adjustment. This is easy to do by taking in or letting out the center back seam.

5. Only women with slim, boyish figures should wear the boy-style pants, which fit tight across the stomach, with no extra fullness. These hang slim and straight, emphasizing long legs.

6. Designed for women of average figure are fly-front pants with side slash pockets, concealing a slight gore at each side.

PANTS FOR ALL

Pants are made for all figures these days — the important point is to be sure you choose the proper style, and that it is perfectly fitted.

Also remember that pants are made for different occasions—some for sports, some for at-home wear—and pick the right style for the right time and place.

Good Grooming Shows
Key to Growing Old Gracefully

How can older women make the most of their looks? How can old age be postponed? How can it be enjoyed? These questions bother women who want to keep youthful mentally and physically, even though the calendar is against postponing the inevitable.

Many women manage to keep youthful, maintaining surprising vigor into the very late years. What is their secret? On the other hand, some women look older than their years. Why?

The secret of getting the most out of your age seems to lie in many things. But the formula boils down to:

1. Keep active at something you like.
2. Take the best possible care of your skin, hair and figure.
3. Get a moderate amount of exercise.

KEEPS ON MOVE

One 92-year-old woman attributed her longevity and spryness to the fact that she never got bored. She visits her three children and grandchildren regularly.

"When I get restless or feel I am beginning to get on their nerves, I move on," she says. "I go home and see my neighbors for a while, then I am off to visit another of my children's homes."

A 70-year-old woman is a playground recreation teacher all the year round. Says she: "The only time I am lonesome is when I am on vacation. I miss the children, their mothers, the fun and gab connected with the group. It keeps me young."

"I always wanted to travel," she says, "and my husband made me agree that I would, even if he weren't around to enjoy it with me. It has helped me forget."

EAT WELL

Once the skin has begun to wrinkle there is not much you can do except use nourishing creams at night, and eat well. If the skin is just beginning to line, you may be able to postpone the inevitable by eating foods that nourish skin and hair. Career women and other women who live alone are likely to feel it is a waste to cook vegetables for one person.

* * *

They may settle for a sandwich for the main meal, whereas to maintain the health of vital attributes to beauty such vitamin A vegetables as sweet potatoes, beet greens, spinach and broccoli are essential to the diet. A little of this each day should keep one ahead of Father Time, as the body stores this vitamin.

Foil neck lines and crows-feet around the eyes at once by using a good cream in addition to eating proper foods.

GRAY HAIR CARE

An older woman's hair should be well groomed and gray hair should be coiffed properly to be charming. Some older women like to dye their hair, having begun that practice when the hair turned gray. There is no reason why they shouldn't if they can afford the upkeep. Gray hair is beautiful though, and many older women learn to appreciate it.

Older women should learn to eat the right foods, but not overeat to keep their figures well proportioned. Docotrs are only too happy to suggest a good diet for your calorie requirements.

* * *

And when it comes to make-up, too little is better than too much. Put some color in your cheeks and at your lips, two places where it is necessary. Emphasize features that need to be played up or down. Wear clothes that are more conservative than flamboyant, but not utterly old-ladyish.

Stroke Upward

(NEA) — When you cream your face at night, be sure to apply it with light, upward strokes. If you pull downward as you cream, you're dragging facial muscles down and defeating the very purpose for which you're using the cream.

* * *

If you're uncertain about the method, have a professional facial just once and watch each step. This will provide you with enough clues.

PHYLLIS AINTOS

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Aintos of Detroit announce the engagement of their daughter Phyllis to Donald E. Zimmerman, son of the Edwin E. Zimmermans of South Josephine Street. No wedding date has been set.

Opens Home to Moms

Mrs. Maude Place of North Saginaw Street opened her home Tuesday to MOMS of America, Inc., members of Unit 2, for a school girl luncheon and afternoon of sewing for Pontiac General Hospital. Mrs. Kate Buell of Royal Oak was cohostess.

* * *

Announcements were made of a roast beef dinner, from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Willis School, sponsored by Galloway Lake MOMS; and a turkey dinner and bazaar scheduled by MOMS of Unit 19, Nov. 3, at the Community Hall, Auburn Heights.

Presidents and committee chairmen of the Michigan State Board will meet at 11 a.m. Nov. 7 in the Veterans' Building, Detroit.

The National Board will sponsor a luncheon and card party at 12:30 p.m., Nov. 14 in the American Legion Hall, Royal Oak.

* * *

Mrs. Clarence E. Hickmott of North Johnson Avenue will be hostess for the Nov. 1 meeting at 12:30 p.m. in her home.

Later Than We Think ...Don't Say Manana

By RUTH MILLETT

"I never saw so many lone women in my life," said a husband who recently returned from a trip to Europe with his wife. "I kept thinking how glad I was that my wife and I were enjoying our trip together."

A few days after hearing that remark I picked up a small volume of short essays by J. P. McEvoy, "Charlie Would Have Loved This"—the title coming from the first article in the collection.

It's just a little story about an elderly widow trying to be a good sport and enjoy a tourist's party on the beach at Walkiki—a place she and Charlie (who was her husband) used to talk about visiting "someday."

But somehow they never got around to making the trip. Whenever Charlie got a little money ahead he bought a few more acres to add to his farm.

And then one day Charlie was gone and his lonely widow set out to take the trip the two of them were always planning to take together—someday.

* * *

"Charlie would have loved this" the widow, seeing the sights alone, would say wistfully every now and then. And that's about all there was to the story.

But it's a story a lot of middle-aged couples ought to read . . . those couples who had to put off doing a lot of things together when their children were small and somehow fell into the habit of putting off the realization of their own dreams.

Time has a way of passing quickly after a couple reaches the middle years and there is not as much time as they think for doing things together, later.

What they really want to share—they had better not put off sharing.

There's a world of difference between a wife's being able to turn to her husband to say, "Look Charlie . . ." and a widow's saying wistfully, "Charlie would have loved this . . ."

London model Sandra Paul appears to be wearing a wig. It's really a monkey-fur hat that hugs the head and is embellished with black velvet ribbon.

Treat Them Nightly
Our Hands Suffer Daily

(NEA) To many women, a weekly manicure is the beginning and end of hand care. It isn't, of course, and women who persist in this attitude will eventually find themselves with rough and aging hands.

For the truth is that your hands take a good deal of punishment whether your job is at home or in an office. Either way, they need tender treatment each night. They should be creamed as faithfully as you cream your face and neck. And while you're about it, don't neglect your elbows.

Many a woman who doesn't give her elbows a thought for weeks gets a shock when she sees herself in a sleeveless evening gown. Hair, dress, skin all look perfect. But there are those nasty little dark patches that are the elbows.

* *

In giving yourself a manicure, there are some basics to remember. Don't file your nails straight down the sides. This only weakens them. If you have a professional manicure and the manicurist does this, stop her. Make her file them into gentle ovals.

CUT THE CLAWS

Remember that a medium length is a far prettier and more feminine length for nails than the long one. Claws never rate compliments. And they hint that they're fairly useless since who can do housework or type with long, curving nails?

* * *

By the same token, deep red or purplish shades are anything but attractive in nail polish. Pick whatever tint you like but keep it soft and pretty.

Pick a hand lotion that's rich in lanolin if you really want results. And really work it into your skin each time you use it.

Fashionette Club Hears Talk on Social Security

The Fashionette Club, sponsored by Pontiac Department of Parks and Recreation, heard W. Keith Potter, field representative of the Pontiac District Office of the Social Security Administration, Tuesday in Adah Shelly Library.

*

The speaker told of benefits payable when a worker retires or is disabled, and listed benefits for survivors.

Mrs. Peter Hernandez received the club trophy for the greatest weight loss during the week.

Mrs. Edward Cook, chairman for the group's Nov. 1 annual banquet, announced that plans have been completed and the affair will be at Kingsley Inn.

Last week the club attended a hayride party at Hayride Lodge in Rochester.

A Halloween masquerade party will be featured at next week's meeting.

Your Discards Will Aid Needy

Mission Group Seeks Goods for Shipment to Southwest and Abroad

Discarded clothing, bedding, furniture and other household appliances around your home needn't sit idle any longer. They can be used by the Pontiac Missionaides, 1130 Myrtle St., Waterford Township.

From the organization's headquarters the material will be shipped to the needy around the world, according to Mrs. Angus McDonald, president, and Mrs. Gertrude Anderson, resident secretary.

Some may be destined for migrant laborers in the Southwest. The Rev. James A. Donnelly, C.S.C., has made a plea along with the organization here for the unwanted materials.

Fr. Donnelly said he has engaged the services of the local United Trucking Service to transport free of charge any of the items persons would like to earmark for his area. His parish is the Lady of Sorrows Chruch in Austin, Tex.

Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Anderson said those wishing to donate discards need only get in touch with them.

Here's a Ruling That Could Set Ol' Miss Reeling

JACKSON (UPI) — It is all right to drink liquor in dry Mississippi so long as you don't possess the stuff, the State Supreme Court ruled Monday.

The high court came to the aid of J. T. Hutson who gave away some valuable property while too drunk to know what he was doing. When he tried to recover the property a lower court turned him down because, it said, he was obviously violating Mississippi's state-wide prohibiton law aigainst possession of liquor.

The Supreme Court ruled that the law prohibits only possession of whisky. There is no law against drinking it.

The high court ordered a new trial of Hutson's case and said that even if he were drinking his own whisky "simple justice demands that such a victim have a remedy."

Both Parties Unsure of Texas Balloting

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Texas Democrats and Republicans, both claiming their national tickets are leading the state in voter preference, agree that neither side has the election in the bag.

★ ★ ★

Republican leaders said a poll by a Texas firm showed Vice-President Richard M. Nixon was favored by 44 per cent of the voters with 39 per cent leaning to Sen. John F. Kennedy and 17 per cent undecided.

★ ★ ★

The Democrats, pointing to a poll by a New York firm, said 46 per cent of the voters are for Kennedy, 39 per cent for Nixon and 15 per cent undecided.

Both parties claimed gains over earlier polls.

Detroit Based Firms Tell Sales, Earnings

DETROIT (UPI) — Three Detroit based companies have made financial reports.

★ ★ ★

Parke, Davis & Co. reported Monday record sales and net earnings for the first nine months of 1960. The drug firm reported sales of $151,250,936 for the first nine months of 1960, compared to $141,639,979 for the same 1959 period. It reported net earnings of $22,506,176 for the period this year, compared with $22,214,780 in the same period last year.

★ ★ ★

Detroit Edison reported Monday net earnings of $36,816431 for the 12 months ending Sept. 30. This equaled $1.57 per share. This compared with $33,622,935 or $2.36 a share for the previous fiscal year.

Dura Corp. said Monday sales for the fiscal year ending July 31 totaled $59,482,430 and earnings totaled $1,375,073. This compared with $50,232,730 and $1,927,694 for the previous year.

Boston Herald Endorses Nixon for President

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Herald, which supported President Eisenhower in the 1952 and 1956 presidential elections, Tuesday endorsed Vice President Richard M. Nixon for president.

The Herald, which describes itself as independent - Republican, said its decision to support Nixon "has not been easy."

"Two years ago we urged Mr. Kennedy for re-election as senator," the Herald said in an editorial. "He has many attractive qualities.

"But Mr. Nixon outweighs him in experience, sensitivity for official relationships, concern for the freedom of choice of the individual, conservatism in fiscal matters and sound basing in economics and foreign affairs."

Crest Endorsement Okay, Says Dentist

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The American Dental Association's unprecedented endorsement of a particular brand of toothpaste has produced a particular brand of trouble: Internal dissension.

But ADA President Paul H. Jeserich says recognition of Crest toothpaste as "an effective decay preventive agent" was necessary and wise.

Dr. Jeserich, dean of he University of Michigan Dental School, told the ADA House of Delegates:

"I am quick to agree that not all of the publicity was desirable or favorable, but all of the publicity was not within the control of the association. On the benefit side of the ledger, the announcement made the public conscious that there was a measure for the falsity of claims on decay prevention, that most companies did in fact make false misleading claims."

Jeserich said any such report "which did not identify the specific product as Crest would have been relatively meaningless and subject to abuse by firms which could not market an effective product."

Famed Cowboy Rides on Cars, Not Horses

LANDER, Wyo. (UPI) — Stub Farlow was probably one of the most famous cowboys in the world although most people outside Wyoming have never heard his name.

Practically everyone has seen his picture, though. Stub, bronc buster, rodeo rider, law officer, friend of governors and leading citizen of Fremont County, Wyoming, is the cowboy depicted on the Wyoming license plate.

Since 1936, when the Wyoming plate first carried the famous design of the cowboy on the bucking horses, nearly two million plates have been stamped out.

The cowboy also has been used in other ways to designate the state until the silhouetted rider forelock blowing in the wind, hat triumphantly aloft over a sunfishing bronc, has become synonymous with Wyoming.

The late Lester Hunt, former Wyoming governor and senator, who got the idea for the cowboy on the license plate, called Stub "the most typical cowboy I ever knew."

★ ★ ★

Grandson of a full-blooded Sioux, son of an adventurous cowhand who pioneered in Fremont County, Stub was a symbol of the old Wyoming of wide open spaces and high spirits.

He was born at Lander Feb. 2, 1886, and practically grew up on a horse.

At 15 he started riding in rodeos and during one six-season stretch he used to say, "never got bucked off."

Stub's maternal grandfather was a Frenchman named Jules Lamoreaux, who went west over the Overland Trail by ox team to Nebraska, where he married a Sioux Indian girl named Woman Dress, a sister of Chief Gall, war chief of the Custer Massacre.

Stub's grandparents pioneered in Fort Laramie, Wyo. in 1865, then migrated to South Pass, Wyo., at one point averting an Indian attack because his Sioux mother jumped out of the covered wagon and waved an Indian blanket at a party of marauding Sioux.

★ ★ ★

His father was born in Iowa, ran away from home and headed west when he was 16. He became a rancher in Fremont County and in later life was a state representative.

Stub died at 67 on July 24, 1953, while serving as Fremont County undersheriff, but he had already gained immortality.

State Chamber Drives for Sales Tax Hike

LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce Tuesday launched a drive to gain voter approval of the one-cent sales tax increase proposal on the Nov. 8 ballot.

★ ★ ★

"If we do not approve this one cent increase then the alternative is a state income tax," said Harry R. Hall, executive vice president of the chamber.

He said voters must be "made aware that the state needs more revenue to meet its increasing responsibilities."

Hall said the state chamber was making an eight-page brochure which he said thoroughly discusses all angles of the ballot proposition available for distribution by interested groups.

Democrats have generally opposed the sales tax increase proposal, while Republicans have generally backed it.

Jet on Training Flight Crashes, Killing 7

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. (AP)—A jet tanker, on a night training mission crashed on a marshy shore near here Wednesday night, carrying seven crewmen to their deaths.

Witnesses said the six-engine KB50-J tanker caught fire almost immediately after takeoff from Langley and was enveloped in a sheet of white flame when it came down with a roar that shook houses miles away.

★ ★ ★

Th giant tanker was attached to the 427th Air Refueling Squadron, 4505th Air Refueling Wing, of the Tactical Air Command.

Identities of those who died were withheld by the Air Force pending notification of next-of-kin.

Montmartre Quarter Protects Its History

WASHINGTON — Montmartre, the paradise of bohemians and impecunious artists, has become a kind of "national park" in the modern city of Paris.

The city government has set up a special committee to protect the quarter made famous by Toulouse-Lautrec, Renoir, Utrillo and Picasso.

Old houses, monuments, and streets will be restored. New buildings must conform to the original style of the quarter.

The flowering of Montmartre from a once disreputable village into a shrine is a Cinderella story with touches of irony. It is directly due to the fact that almost nobody wanted to live there a century ago.

PARISIANS HATED CLIMB

In the 19th century the booming city of Paris spread across the Ile de France, the National Geographic Society says. But the village on the hill known as the Butte Montmartre did not profit from the boom, because most people refused to climb up to it from Paris.

Montmartre's sole virtue, apparently, was that it got lots of wind. Millers found it an ideal spot. One of the old mills, the Moulin de la Galette (Pancake Windmill), is still a prominent landmark.

Gradually the area became a hangout for apaches, or bandits, and acquired an unsavory reputation. Artists, traditionally destitute, also took up residence there. Rents were cheap, and the painters couldn't afford to be fussy about the climb or the bad reputation of their neighbors.

★ ★ ★

Once the trend was established, painters from all over the world driftedd to Montmartre. Degas, Van Gogh, Corot, Renoir and others settled on the Butte and on the slope going down toward the center of Paris.

★ ★ ★

In the 1880s and 1890s, they flocked to the Moulin Rouge (Red Windmill), which had been converted into a cabaret. Many were attracted by the stunning posters made by Toulouse-Lautrec, a stunted nobleman who sat morosely hour after hour in the Moulin Rouge garden.

★ ★ ★

The old Moulin Rouge burned down shortly before World War I. A new artistic generation, with such stellar names as Picasso and Utrillo, arose to carry on the Montmartre tradition.

Perhaps nowhere in the world is there an atmosphere quite like that of Montmartre.

It is as if the ordinary things of everyday life were magically transfiguredd into objects of beauty. A walk through Montmartre is a walk through a living painting. Everywhere one sees artists, each trying in his own way to catch on canvas a little of the ethereal yet homespun personality that is Montmartre.

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q: My hobby is breeding tropical fish. Is any special care required for the Zebra fish? N. F. of Saint John, N.B., Canada.

A: In my opinion, this is one of the most interesting hobbies a person can have. Every new species you add to your collection provides new interest and color. The lively little Zebra fish hails from Ceylon.

* * *

This breed is about one inch long, active and brilliantly striped. Unless your new addition is about to present you with a batch of little zebras, you'll have trouble distinguishing the male from the female. The basic care is uncomplicated.

* * *

Feed fine textured tropical fish food to the babies and medium food to the older fish. The ideal water temperature is about 75 degrees. Mama Zebra will eat her eggs if she has a chance, but if the bottom of the tank is lined with large glass marbles, the eggs nestle safely between them until hatching time.

Book Business Huge for U.S.

'Infant Care' Tops List With 12 Million Copies Sold Since 1913

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Yearly, anonymous authors turn out low cost best-sellers for a major American publishing house — the U.S. government.

With some 30,000 different titles, the same names reappear on the best-selling list with the regularity of the dictionary.

New parents apparently are the government's biggest block of readers. "Infant Care" holds the record of 12 million copies sold since its original appearance in 1913. Second and third place go to "Prenatal Care" and "Your Child from One to Six."

'TAX' POPULAR

The coming challenger of recent years is "Your Federal Income Tax" according to C. W. Buckley, superintendent of documents.

"It's a wonderful way for the public to benefit from the research, experimentation and results of all aspects of government work," Buckley said.

The "bookstore" as he terms the printing office, grossed a record $8 million in the last fiscal year. Prices range from five cents for ninth-place "Septic Tank Care" to $74 for a book of airport plans.

About 15,000 letters and 1,000 telephone calls daily pour into the office from all over the world. The books appeal to people because they give the "practical approach to problem," he said.

Prices are set by the cost of production plus 50 per cent. The operation is self-sustaining and still turns in a profit to the treasury — more than $3 million last year.

Although basically a mail-order business, the printing office operates a bookstore in its building where 2,000 of the publications are displayed and available to the public.

Stop for a Drink?

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (UPI) — Street Department cleaners had a tough job on their hands after an unmanned cement truck rolled down a hill backwards and hit three parked cars before smashing into a truck loaded with soft drinks.

West Germans Patent Uranium-Refining Plant

BONN, Germany (AP)—A leading German nuclear scientist says the day is approaching for uranium-refining machines costing about the same as an automobile does in the United States.

* * *

The West German government a few days ago moved to hang the secret label on the patent for the gas centrifuge method of refining uranium developed by Prof. Wilhelm Groth. The move was taken at the request of the United States, which fears lest atomic weapons get into the hands of irresponsible small governments.

Groth, 56, director of physical chemistry at Bonn University, said in an interview that it will take at least a year, probably two, "before the instrument is developed enough to be used for commercial purposes."

Cost for installation: about 10,000 marks ($2,380).

* * *

The greatest money saving the centrifuge method has over the accepted diffusion procedure now used in the United States, Soviet Union and Britain lies in the installation of the device, Groth said.

SEPARATES URANIUM

The centrifuge is used to separate uranium 235 from the heavier isotope U238. U238 is used as fuel in nuclear reactors.

Both methods begin after the uranium ore has been reduced to gas. In the centrifuge method the gas is whirled about at enormous speeds, isolating the richer U235 much as wheat is isolated from chaff.

* * *

In the diffusion method, the gas is pressed through tiny holes by the force of electrically produced thermal energy. This must be repeated many times to produce U235 rich enough to be used as fuel in nuclear weapons.

Prof. Werner Heisenberg, Nobel Prize-winning nuclear physicist and director of the Max Planck Institute for Physics in Munich, has said he did not attach much importance to the centrifuge method.

Heisenberg said he didn't think the method would reduce production costs considerably. He said the United States had experimented with it but decided to use gaseous diffusion as the cheaper process.

* * *

Groth suggested the reason the United States did not use the centrifuge during World War II was because of lack of certain raw materials necessary to produce the apparatus.

"And now that the Americans have spent $3 billion on the diffusion plants, they certainly are not going to change over," he said.

The Australian sea horse is almost invisible when in the midst of seaweed because of the leaf-like growths on its body.

Dock Union Trades Automation for Fund

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Harry Bridges' longshore union and the Pacific Maritime Association announced agreement Tuesday night on full mechanizing of West Coast ports.

★ ★ ★

Under the six-year agreement employers will pay $5 million annually into a workers benefit fund.

★ ★ ★

In exchange, the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union gives up all work rule restrictions on cargo handling.

A joint ILWU-PMA statement called the agreement an epochal achievement in industrial relations.

The agreement applies to all union workers presently in the industry.

The regular collective bargaining agreement on wages, due to expire in 1962, was extended to 1966 along with the mechanization agreement. Negotiations on wages can be reopened annually.

★ ★ ★

The mechanization pact assures the dock workers there will be no layoff, a guarantee of minimum weekly earnings, early retirement or a lump benefit at normal retirement at 65 plus additional death and disability benefits.

★ ★ ★

The weekly wage guarantee, on a 35-hour week basis, will become effective when labor-saving devices and changed methods reduce work opportunity.

★ ★ ★

The wage guarantee will not apply when tonnage drops because of a decline in economic activity.

Container shipping has been the major form of dock mechanization under recent development. Truck tractors deliver preloaded containers in the form of trailer vans and massive cranes load the containers directly into specially designed holds.

Times to Print In Paris and NY

Undersea Cable Will Link Shops in Unique Journalism Venture

PARIS (AP)—The New York Times begins Thursday the publication of a Paris edition simultaneously with the issuance of the newspaper in New York. Two virtually identical editions will be published in New York and Paris.

The Paris publication is a unique venture in journalism. The new edition will be printed in Paris, but much of the selection, editing, composition and layout will be done in New York.

★ ★ ★

The printing press near the Paris Opera and the editorial room near Times Square will be linked by teletypesetter circuits—known in the trade as TTS—along an undersea cable and over three radio circuits. Men at keyboards in New York will tap out column after column of news dispatches which will emerge in type from a typesetting machine in Paris.

★ ★ ★

The men at the keyboards in New York punch out perforated tape. The coded tape is then fed into an electrical transmitter which reproduces an identical tape on a reperforator in Paris. This second tape is fed into a machine which automatically casts lines of type.

This system has been used for years in the United States.

In addition to having many identical news stories, the two papers, in New York and in Paris, will have the same headlines and general makeup.

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Beggars will become choosers under a new scheme of the Delhi State Administration.

The administration plans to establish an official "Poor Home" where beggars can pick their own vocational training in arts and handicrafts.

The scheme will cost approximately $638 million and take two years to complete.

Formerly, beggars lingered around railway stations, bus stops, market places and religious shrines. Under the new Beggars Act, they are subject to arrest and internment.

The Poor Home will be constructed near the New Delhi Jail. It will have a reception and classification center besides separate units for able-bodied beggars, disabled beggars and those suffering from leprosy and tuberculosis.

TO SCREEN SICK

After the preliminary screening, lepers and tuberculars will be handed over to recognized isolation hospitals run by the government.

Director of Delhi Administration R. L. Verma, said that "although the beggars will not be made to feel they are in jail, we have selected the site for their Poor Home near the central jail so that they are under constant vigilence."

Verma said many beggars, particularly the lepers, have a tendency to remain "at large."

According to a survey conducted by the Delhi School of Social Work in 1956, there were 3,000 beggars in the capital.

Verma, who is very enthusiastic about the new scheme, said it was bound to solve the problem of beggars who had become a "genuine nuisance" for the authorities.

★ ★ ★

"Why should they like to remain beggars when we will have trained them as skilled technicians in many a handiwork?" Verma asked.

New State Teachers Will Average $4,400

LANSING (UPI) — Teachers with bachelor's degrees from Michigan colleges and universities received an average starting salary of $4,400 annually this fall, the Michigan Education Association (MEA) reports.

★ ★ ★

The MEA research division surveyed 24 teacher education institutions in the state.

★ ★ ★

The highest annual starting salary was $5,800 and the lowest was $3,400. Graduates going into the metropolitan areas of the state received more money to start than those in outstate areas, the survey showed.

Expect Award of Contracts

Waterford Twp. Will Act on 2 Elementary Schools Tomorrow

Contracts for two more Waterford Township elementary schools will be awarded at tomorrow night's board of education meeting, according to Supt. William A. Shunck.

Bids for the schools were opened at last month's board meeting and referred to architects Smith & Smith for recommendations.

There will be a discussion on the proposed school amendment on the Nov. 8 ballot which would extend benefits of unlimited tax financing on all school bond issues.

Bids will be opened for construction of a well for the proposed elementary school at the intersection of Williams Lake and Elizabeth Lake roads.

Shunck will present a detailed report on building fund expenditures of the $5 million school bond issue approved by voters two years ago.

★ ★ ★

Asst. Supt. Dr. Chandos Reid will present a report on phases of current in-service training of the school district's teaching personnel.

There will also be a discussion of items to be included in conjunction with the present and future school building program.

Opossum Defies Policeman's Club

DUNCAN, Okla. (AP)—The next time Policeman Karl Graham tries to dispose of an opossum he'll probably use some way other than hitting it.

While on night patrol duty he found the opossum at a bank building. Rather than shoot it in the city limits, he hit it over the head with the butt of his pistol. The opossum wasn't fazed but the gun handle broke.

Graham gave up and took the animal to the city limits where he turned it loose.

Beauty Has No Value If Too Close Home

While there they checked this year's ranch registry and found the names of guests from Russia, Austria, the Orient, Africa and almost every state in the union.

But there were no Arizonans listed from the home state of the Grand Canyon.

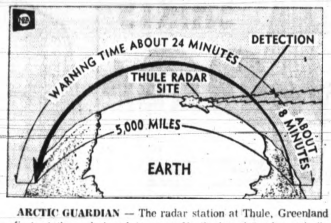
Adenauer Sends Letter for Nikita Khrushchev

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has received a letter from West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. The contents were not disclosed but it is believed to contain a request for more rapid repatriation of German war prisoners still held in the Soviet Union.



ARCTIC GUARDIAN — The radar station at Thule, Greenland — first of three designed to warn North America of a missile attack — is now in operation. Sketch shows how the radar will pick up, compute and report the trajectory of an enemy missile coming over the top of the world. The U. S. and Canada would have from 15 to 24 minutes to get defense operations under way, depending on the distance of the missile's target. The four huge antennas at Thule are 165 by 400 feet in size and have a range of 3,000 miles. Another station at Clear, Alaska, will be ready next summer. The third, completing coverage of the Soviet Union, will go into operation in Yorkshire, England, in 1962.

Chatterbox Satellite Just Won't Shut Up

An official of the National Aeronautics & Space Administration (NASA) says the situation "is getting to be funny—or embarrassing."

When the 91.5-pound satellite went into orbit Oct. 13, 1959, it carried a tiny timer that was supposed to silence its 20-megacycle radio after precisely one year. This was to keep the radio from interfering with the conversation of subsequent satellites with their ground stations.

But when the timer was supposed to throw the cutoff switch, the satellite refused to shut up. At last report it was still braying its way around the world as though in love with its own voice.

Pump Ocean Water Beneath City

Long Beach Due to Stop Sinking

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—For years downtown Long Beach has been slowly sinking—and putting up walls to hold off the ocean.

★ ★ ★

But this subsidence may stop soon, city officials say, because the palm tree-shaded parks, office buildings sites and broad streets now rest on water instead of air. And it's about time, they say, because one building worth $22 million has dropped 27 feet since the 1930s.

They blame the oil wells. For years hundreds of them have been pumping out the black gold from an abnormally shallow deposit. The sandy earth was left with nothing to beef it up. The surface began subsiding into the shape of a giant bowl.

As the earth settled, pipelines were pinched off, storm drains and sewers disrupted, railroad tracks buckled and buildings cracked.

PUMPS IN WATER

Most folks just waited and hoped the sinking would stop. But some decided it wouldn't stop while millions of gallons of oil and large deposits of natural gas were being removed. The only remedy, they said, was repressurization.

After extensive legal work, the city started a few years ago pumping sea water into the ground. To date, 250 million barrels have gone through perforated pipes into the sandy soil. In the last year the injection has averaged 370,000 barrels a day.

B. N. Hoffmaster, chief harbor engineer, looked at his charts Monday and announced: "Subsidence has stopped in some areas and has been greatly slowed in others in the last 2½ years."

An annual survey shows land sinkage has been virtually eliminated in the downtown area. The giant bowl is several sizes smaller, leaving the harbor the main trouble spot. Here too, subsidence has been drastically cut. The 1958 study indicated the center—where the firm spent $6 million on dikes—was sinking at the rate of one foot a year. It's half that now.

★ ★ ★

"If all goes well and plans work out the way we hope they will," said Charles L. Vickers, general manager of the port, "we will be in real good shape to completely eliminate subsidence by a year from now, and possibly as early as next July."

Satchmo Is Big Hit on Swing Into Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Trumpeter Louis Satchmo Armstrong got a boisterous welcome from 100 Nigerian jazz musicians and a cheering crowd of 1,000 as he flew in Tuesday to begin a six-day tour of this newly independent African nation.

★ ★ ★

He was sweating in the humid, 80-degree weather and looked tired, but he told newsmen he felt fine. Armstrong is on a goodwill tour sponsored by the U.S. State Department and an American soft drink company.

Melon Patch Owner Own Worst Enemy

DENISON, Iowa (AP) — A Denison farmer, disturbed by raids on his melon patch, rigged his largest melon so that an auto horn would sound when the melon was moved.

But, his neighbors report, while the farmer and his family were away from home the horn tooted for more than half an hour. The noise didn't bother the melon thieves. They almost cleaned out the patch.

Actress Judy Holliday Has Tumor Removed

NEW YORK (AP) — A tumor described as noncancerous was removed Tuesday from the throat of actress Judy Holliday, a spokesman for her reported.

The spokesman said she was expected to be fully recovered within three weeks.

Car Owners Given Lesson About Keys

SUNNYSIDE, Wash. (AP)— Sunnyside people are looking for the magician who made four cars disappear and then vanished himself —without the cars.

★ ★ ★

All the autos materialized at the police station and the cops were as puzzled as the owners.

★ ★ ★

In each automobile was a note giving the address of the owner. On the doorsteps of the owners' homes were notes saying, in effect:

This will teach you not to leave your keys in your car.

Breeze Through Meeting

Minus two members, the City Commission whipped through a brief agenda last night without a word of controversy.

★ ★ ★

Absent were the two lawyers — Mayor Philip E. Rowston, attending a mayors' convention in San Diego, Calif., and Commissioner Milton R. Henry.

Missing too, from his chair at the end of the commission table was City Manager Walter K. Wilman, heading the convention in San Francisco, Calif., of the International City Managers Association (ICMA). Wilman's term as ICMA president ends tonight.

Commissioner John A. Dugan, mayor protem, and Robert A. Stierer, assistant city manager, were substituting. Rowston will be back for the meeting next week and Wilman the week after.

★ ★ ★

There were no objections raised at hearings on assessment rolls covering proposed curbs and gutters on South Jessie Street, Prospect to Raeburn, and on Melrose Street, Madison, to Perry.

Adjourned one week to allow protests was a hearing on the roll covering proposed sidewalks on the north side of Willard Street and the west side of Jessie Street.

A report next week was ordered on results of a protest petition turned in after another hearing was over. It was on plans for curbs and gutters on Cameron Avenue, Baltimore to Mt. Clemens.

★ ★ ★

Hearings scheduled for Oct. 25: On plans for a $11,076 water main in Kennett Road, Stanley to Carlisle, with the assessed cost set at $3,233, and on the assessment roll covering proposed curbs and gutters on Stirling Avenue, Mt. Clemens to Madison.

Evans Products Mulls Merger With Aberdeen

GUNNING FOR GAS — Not missiles but "pigs" are launched by this structure rising out of an Oklahoma prairie. The pigs are spheres of neoprene that are sent through the lines of Colorado Interstate Gas Co. to salvage gasoline from "dips" in the line. Underground, the pigs are pushed along by gas pressure, squeegeeing accumulated gasoline ahead of them. The system is said to have brought out nearly a million gallons in its first two months of operation.

Crashproof Car Not Yet in Sight, Says GM Man

CHICAGO (AP) — A foolproof or crashproof car is not in sight, safety leaders were told Tuesday.

"The foolproof or crashproof car is not imminent," he said, "and the hope for such will continue to be wishful thinking that only diverts attention from the urgent, primary need for better trained and better controlled drivers."

Kieffer also said automobiles 10 years from now probably won't be radically different from the current models.

Kids to Say 'Thanks' for Muskegon Arena

MUSKEGON (AP) — "Thank you, Mr. Walker" is the theme of a youth program which today starts a Dedication-Day civic salute of a new $1 million all-purpose arena for Muskegon.

An afternoon parade leads into the arena where youngsters will gather for a formal program of entertainment and speeches, including an address by Bernie G. Oosterhaan.

The kickoff activity falls one week ahead of formal dedication of the arena when Vice President Nixon is scheduled to take part as principal speaker.

Statue of Gorilla Turns Into Cozy Apartment

FARMINGDALE, N.J. (AP) — When the Jersey Jungle animal farm is open for business, Bobar, the mechanical gorilla, stands at his post emitting ferocious roars and waving his arms to attract tourists.

But this year, the 9-foot gorilla, made of wood, chicken wire and canvas, started giving out a curious "chirp, chirp" through his jagged teeth.

Investigation showed that a family of starlings had turned Bobar's head into a cozy, rainproof apartment.

IUE Seeking GE Settlement

Union Negotiators Get Full Authority to End Strike Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) negotiators meet General Electric officials today with blank check authority to settle the 18-day strike on whatever terms they see fit.

But General Electric indicated it would not alter the contract proposals it made Aug. 30, which the IUE has rejected.

Both sides were to meet with federal mediators again this afternoon. No progress was reported in Tuesday's session.

The IUE GE conference board, faced with a defection by its largest local and back-to-work sentiment elsewhere, Tuesday approved Union President James B. Carey's proposal that the negotiating committee be given full authority to sign a new pact without prior approval by the conference board.

The blank check, however, is good only until Sunday. If no agreement has been reached by then, the conference board will hold another meeting a week from today.

The IUE has demanded a two-year contract with 3½ per cent wage increases each year.

GE's Aug. 30 offer was a three-year contract with wage hikes of 3 per cent immediately and 4 per cent in April 1962. A major stumbling block is IUE determination to retain the cost-of-living escalator clause.

Political Opponents Contribute to Funds

Burno got a letter asking him to contribute to Porter's campaign. He gave Porter a $1 check. It was a safe gift. Porter endorsed it and handed it back.

When Mount Holyoke College for women opened in 1837, its Book of Duties said: "The young ladies are to be required to walk one mile per day until the snow renders it desirable to specify time instead of distance." The time was set at three-quarters of an hour.

State Man Says He Was Researching

Denies Spying in Soviet Union

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Mark I. Kaminsky of Edwardsburg, Mich., looked homeward today, denying he did any spying in Russia.

The high school teacher told a Detroit radio station in a transatlantic telephone interview Tuesday night that there is "no truth at all" in the espionage charges. He also denied radio Moscow charges that his companion, Harvey C. Bennett, 26, of Tracy, Calif., had "turned states' evidence against him."

The Michigan man said he hoped to obtain seats on a plane home today.

Kaminsky, 28, said "They talked with Harvey for hours and hours on end and finally he signed an article in which the wording may have looked like he turned state's evidence, but he didn't. He was a material witness at my trial."

Kaminsky said he was convicted of espionage in the Soviet Union after he admitted traveling through Russia to gather material for a book on the Kremlin's preparations for war.

The tourist, whose family lives on a farm near Niles, Mich., arrived in Zurich Tuesday night. He was sentenced to seven years on spy charges, but the Russians suspended the sentence and expelled Kaminsky and Bennett.

"They told me it would be foolish not to plead guilty," Kaminsky told a news conference here. "They gave me a lawyer. He was not of much assistance, but he cheered me up. He advised me to confess to the charge wholeheartedly and tell the court I felt very remorseful. He stressed the part about 'remorseful' time and again."

"I did not carry out espionage nor did I confess to espionage," he said. "I did confess though that I was getting material for a book."

★ ★ ★

He explained later that under Soviet law it is considered espionage to gather the material he collected — "such facts as that there are soldiers everywhere in Russia." He said the subject of the survey was: "The Soviet Union Talks Peace While Preparing for War."

★ ★ ★

He added that he took pictures but saidd they were confiscated.

★ ★ ★

Kaminsky, a big, heavyset man in a light blue suit, said the Russians had treated him well although they subjected him to questioning to eight hours a day.

The Everglades region of Florida is 140 miles long and 50 miles wide.

BOOTED BY REDS — Two American tourists, Harvey C. Bennett, 26, (left) of Tracy, Calif., and Mark I. Kaminsky, 28, of Edwardsburg, Mich., talk to newsmen in Vienna, Austria, Tuesday after they were expelled from the Soviet Union. Kaminsky was sentenced to seven years in prison on spy charges but the term was commuted. The Reds claim Bennett turned state's evidence. Kaminsky denies this. The Michigan man said the charges stemmed from research he was doing for a book on Russia's preparation for war.

Demand for Grains Holds Mostly Steady

CHICAGO (AP) — Prices for grain futures were mostly steady in early dealings on the board of trade today.

★ ★ ★

In wheat, demand from commercial interests offset commission house offerings. Some spreading between the December and March contracts was noted but the volume was said not to be large.

Demand for feed grains increased with a broader spread reported in both corn and oats futures. Early steadiness of corn and oats was regarded as a technical adjustment after a lengthy period of declines.

In soybeans, the trade was mixed with commission houses the best buyers and local traders pressuring the market. Brokers said hedge-selling was not much of a factor in today's market.

Gold Stocks Up, Steel Declines

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was lower for the third straight session in moderate early trading today.

Losses of most key stocks were small and many were unchanged. A few issues bucked the trend.

Steel issues were dampened by the growing number of reports of sharp declines in third quarter earnings.

Gold stocks were fairly active and some advanced in the wake of news that the price of gold had soared in London. Dome Mines was up more than a point. Homestake gained a point, Campbell Red Lake was up a fraction.

Benguet, the Philippine gold mining stock traded unchanged at 1¾ on successive blocks of 10,000 and 17,000 shares.

Eastman Kodak fell more than 2 and Texas Instruments was down more than a point. Schering was off a full point lower.

Autos, oils, rails and electronics edged lower. Aircrafts and copper showed little or no change.

NAFI spurted about 2 points. Small gains were posted for International Paper, Johns-Manville and United Air Lines.

Jones & Laughlin was off a fraction. Bethlehem and Republic Steel eased. U.S. Steel erased an initial loss of about a point and traded unchanged.

Small losers included New York Central, Texaco, Liggett & Myers, Montgomery Ward and Chrysler.

The ticker tape was late briefly in an active opening, then dealings slackened.

No Victims Vaccinated Seventh Polio Case Here

The effectiveness of polio vaccine became more apparent last week as Oakland County recorded its seventh case of polio this year, according to the county department of health.

★ ★ ★

None of the seven victims had been vaccinated.

The latest victim was an eight-year-old girl in Milford. Four of the 1960 polio cases have been children, three adults.

All have been of the paralytic variety but no deaths have been recorded from polio this year.

At the same time last year 36 cases had been reported in the county. The 1959 total was 38 cases.

★ ★ ★

Only one case has been reported in Pontiac this year.

Of other less serious ailments, the weekly communicable disease report from the county health department shows mumps on the rise.

There were eight new cases reported last week.

No new cases of communicable diseases were reported in Pontiac last week.

Two Ex-Champs Still Competing in North-South

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — In its nine-year history the North and South Senior Golf Tournament has yet to produce a two-time champion.

Of the 16 men competing in today's second round two are former winners seeking to upset that tradition.

Thomas Robbins of Pinehurst, who won in 1956 and J. Wolcott Brown of Sea Girt, N. J., who scored in 1958, both were impressive first-round victors Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Robbins, former U. S. Senior king, bounced out co-medalist Martin McCarthy of Chevy Chase, Md., 4 and 3. Brown, in the most one-sided match, eliminated Carl Haymond of Los Angeles, 6 and 5.

Foreign Children to Benefit

Help Needy at Halloween

Pontiac children will be helping needy children across the seas at Halloween time this month.

Plans for a children's fund-raising drive on Sunday, Oct. 30, will be laid at a 7:30 p.m. meeting tomorrow night at Bethany Baptist Church.

Backed by the Pontiac Pastors Association, organizers of the drive have invited all interested groups and individuals to attend to marshall participation in the door-to-door project.

Fourteen Pontiac churches already have enlisted children to make the rounds between 2:30 and 5 p.m. on the day before Halloween "trick or treating" as is the custom, but with this difference.

★ ★ ★

Funds raised by the children will be donated to the United Nations Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF), the organization charged with the giant task of helping 55 million distressed children and mothers in more than 100 countries around the world.

The money goes for food, milk, medicine, clothing and shelter.

Pontiac's UNICEF drive is an outgrowth of similar children's campaigns in the East, where millions of dollars have been raised by American children to help children overseas.

To promote the campaign, Mayor Philip E. Rowston has set Oct. 30 aside as UNICEF Day.

Ask Support of 2 Ballot Proposals

ROCHESTER — The Rochester Community Council of Parent-Teacher Associations is urging support of two proposals that will appear on the Nov. 8 ballot.

One issue, Proposal No. 3, asks for an amendment to the state constitution which would put a call for a state constitution (Con-Con) on the April ballot.

The other, Proposal No. 1, would continue in effect the unlimited tax feature on school bond issues.

Robert Chandler, chairman of the council's legislative comittee, reported that information concerning the school loan amendment and the Con-Con proposal has been forwarded to Rochester PTA units.

★ ★ ★

Both issues have the backing of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, the council's parent organization. The council is asking its member units to hold panel discussions on the two proposals.

★ ★ ★

The local PTA groups will outline their plans for the year when the council meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Rochester High School.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Woody Sauldsberry can make $1,000 if he loses 10 pounds by Nov. 1.

The St. Louis Hawks' new front-liner reported to the National Basketball Association club weighing 234 pounds.

Forge Firm Announces Promotions

The American Forging & Socket Co. of Pontiac has announced three promotions, according to James J. Rath, vice president.

Arthur B. Swartz, who has served the company as production superintendent, has been promoted to the post of factory manager. Swartz, who joined the company in 1944, will be responsible for manufacturing, production control, quality and related functions.

Swartz lives with his wife at 2914 Olsego Ave., Waterford Township.

William E. Jenkinson, 4660 Sherbourne Ave., Waterford Township, has been named production superintendent. He was formerly general foreman of production.

Merlyn D. Mathews, of 150 Clive St., Waterford Township, will supervise vendor contact and scheduling as well as customer contact and shipping.

In announcing the appointments, Rath explained that each of these men has been with the firm for many years.

Lodge to Visit Southfield, but Skip Pontiac Monday

Southfield — but not Pontiac — will be paid a visit Monday by Republican vice-presidential candidate Henry Cabot Lodge.

Lodge will make a brief stop in the Southern Oakland County city and give a major campaign talk at 8 p.m. at the Southfield High School football field. The school is located at 24675 Lahser Road.

★ ★ ★

"We were trying to get Lodge to come to Pontiac," explained Arthur G. Elliott Jr., GOP county chairman. "But his schedule was so crowded that we couldn't squeeze it in."

Lodge, 58, for seven years the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, will speak Monday morning and afternoon in several Wayne County cities before coming to Southfield.

His trip precedes by three days one by his running mate, Vice President Richard M. Nixon. Nixon will tour through Michigan on Oct. 27. He will not come to Oakland County, Elliott said.

"There's still a chance, however, that he will come back to Michigan again," the chairman said.

County Republican leaders are rounding up what they hope will be a top-notch entertainment program in conjunction with Lodge's visit to Southfield.

★ ★ ★

Each member of the 16 GOP women's clubs in the county will invite five friends in a drive to attract a large crowd to the field. It may be a bonfire rally if fire inspectors approve, Elliott said.

★ ★ ★

For three high school students it will be the biggest night of their lives. They will be winners of a contest being staged by the county committee to encourage enthusiasm for the Nixon-Lodge ticket.

It is a contest called "Operation Initiative" in which students in the ninth through the 12th grades are asked to submit slogans, posters or essays on the theme "Why Nixon and Lodge are Best for America."

★ ★ ★

The winners in the three divisions will present or read their winning entries and will be awarded copies of the Nixon biography by the vice-presidential candidate. They'll also spend a day campaigning with Congressman William S. Broomfield, R-Oakland County.

Stevenson Rips Into Nixon Stand

Calls Dick's Statements 'Reckless,' Especially on Quemoy, Matsu

NEW YORK (UPI)—Adlai E. Stevenson Tuesday night accused Vice President Richard M. Nixon of throwing away this country's diplomatic flexibility by committing the United States to the defense of the "indefensible" islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

★ ★ ★

Stevenson said that Nixon's declaration on the Nationalist Chinese Islands lying off the coast of Communist China was another of his "reckless statements."

He has even self-righteously criticized Sen. John F. Kennedy for sticking strictly to our treaty commitments to defend Formosa — a commitment made by the Eisenhower-Nixon administration," Stevenson said.

"It is bad enough to have to talk about such delicate matters at all in a political campaign — to talk about them demagogically is worse," he added.

★ ★ ★

The former Democratic presidential candidate said at a $100-a-plate dinner of the New York Citizens for Kennedy and Johnson that the "Republican illusion has been that hard language is the economy-size way" of coping with a great challenge.

"But no amount of Mr. Nixon's tough talk can make indefensible islands defensible," he said. "Bluster is no substitute for strength. The problem is not one of rhetoric and ruses. The problem is one of realism and leadership."

Stevenson did not reply directly to Nixon's charge that he had favored a "deal" with the Communist Chinese to trade a guarantee of freedom for Formosa for American support of Red China's admission to the United Nations.

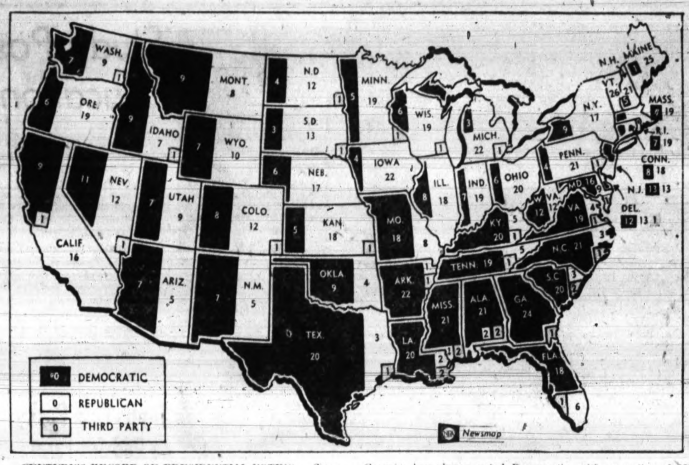
He did, however, accuse Nixon of trying to prevent the American people from learning the "whole truth" about the United States' current position in the world by impugning the loyalty of the opposition.



CENTURY'S RECORD OF PRESIDENTIAL VOTING — Since 1856, when the Republicans presented their first candidate to the voters, the United States has gone Republican 16 times, Democratic 40 times, in presidential elections. "Truest" party states: Vermont and Georgia. Vermont has voted Republican 26 times, Georgia, has always voted Democratic, with exception of 1860, when she voted for the Southern Democratic party rather than support the national Democratic ticket in the year Lincoln was elected president. Man Turning Tide for Power

Rance River Project in France Nearly Finished; 'Quoddy May Be Next

WASHINGTON — The tide tarries for no man, but it comes back so regularly that man hopes to put it to work.

The ebb and flow of the sea against the land occurs with such clocklike precision that the Coast and Geodetic Survey confidently prints advance tables showing the exact minute when high and low tides will occur all over the world. The survey's tide-predicting machine can predict tides on any beach for any day of any future year.

Such forceful regularity makes the tides tempting for power-deficient areas, the national Geographic Society says. Theoretically, tides could furnish perhaps half the world's energy needs, but men still watch helplessly as the surging sea squanders billions of kilowatts of power.

On a minor scale, Colonial Americans used tidal power to turn mills, but the dream of harnessing the tides on a large scale has never approached reality until now.

Today French engineers are completing the first stages of a giant tidal project in the Rance River, near St. Malo in Brittany. The project was planned with meticulous care. Engineers built a 160-yard model of the river's twisting inlets and underwater contours. Pumps manufactured miniature tides so that every problem could be anticipated.

Turbines will be put gradually into operation to determine whether the scheme is economically sound.

The Federal Government started a 'Quoddy Bay power project in 1935, but work was stopped in the planning stage when Congress withheld funds. A recent $3,000,000 study indicated the project is feasible, and Government officials are weighing its merits.

Indonesia Hails 'Hope,' Ship Takes First Patient

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The Hope, a floating hospital school to carry American medical skills to other nations, docked for a warm welcome today and within 30 minutes took its first Indonesian patient aboard.

The patient was a 40-year-old harbor worker who had just been injured in an accident.

The Hope sailed from San Francisco Sept. 22. Its name stands for "Health Opportunity for People Everywhere."

Its staff of physicians, nurses and technicians trains health personnel at ports of call and makes up teams that work in the interior. Its staff includes 15 permanent and 99 rotating physicians.

★ ★ ★

The independent English language Times of Indonesia described the Hope's visit as a timely and practical expression of Americans' concern for those less fortunate than themselves.

3,000 Dialects in World Today

English Is Widespread but Chinese Spoken by the Most People

WASHINGTON — Linguists estimate that at least 3,000 languages and major dialects are spoken in the world today.

The total does not include many hundreds of splinter languages known only to isolated groups of tribesmen in Asia, Africa and South America.

Of all languages, Chinese is spoken by the most people and English is the most widespread, the National Geographic Society says. Other major tongues are Hindustani, Russian, Spanish, German, French and Japanese.

Caucasians employ a variety of consonants; Arabs use many guttural sounds, southwestern Africans speak with grunts and clicks, and natives of Gomera in the Canary Islands communicate by whistling.

Speed varies, too. Frenchmen race along at 350 syllables a minute while easygoing South Seas islanders utter no more than 50 syllables during that time. In the United States, women are clocked at 175 syllables a minute, 25 more than men.

Every language is peppered with slang and jargon. A foreigner fluent in English may be baffled by such American words as "corny, gimmick, moocher, jalopy, soap opera," or "to know the ropes" and "give plenty of leeway."

On the other hand, an American who has mastered a foreign tongue may find himself at odds abroad. The Portuguese, for instance, never speak the word cancer. They use a euphemism, "The little beast, God forbid." No matter how bad the weather at New Year, an American should never remind a Chinese that it is a "cold and rainy day." Among Chinese, New Year's Day is always beautiful, resplendent with luck and prosperity.

Languages constantly give and borrow from each other. English words that have entered intact into French include "sandwich," "film," and "baby." Italians speak of "nylon," "football," and "cold cream;" the Japanese use "busa" and "matchi" for "bus" and "match;" for "bus" and "match;" Latin Americans drink "cocktails" and "ginger ale."

In return, English-speaking peoples have accepted "ski," "geyser," and "slalom" from the Scandinavian tongues; "Soviet" and "Sputnik" from Russian; "pizza" and "influenza" from Italian; "fooey" and "kibitzer" from Yiddish; "kowtow" and "typhoon" from Chinese; and "yogi" and "khaki" from Hindustani.

Ducks Drop In for Free Meals Year Around

LAURELTON, N. J. (AP) — No one along Rancocan Drive is surprised these days when Mike and Sophie arrive for a free meal.

★ ★ ★

But a stranger might take a second look when the two — a pair of wild ducks — come quacking along at mealtime.

The ducks live across the road, in Beaverdam Creek, and according to Mrs. Gertrude Tevis, have been dropping around for a free handout for about three years.

"They just waddle up to the steps, quack a couple of times and invite themselves in," she says.

★ ★ ★

The ducks are seldom seen flying anymore and apparently have forgotten the meaning of migration. Everyone along the road knows them and they seldom get turned away when they come to call.

This Drunk Driver Doesn't Go to Jail

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

He guzzled six 12-ounce cans of beer in 40 minutes.

Stainer won $30 in a newspaper writing contest for his story. He also shared a $100 prize with cameraman Ed Wotjas from the National Foundation for Highway Safety, Inc.

IN THE CORN — Weed control without cultivation was achieved in this Miami, Mo., cornfield by the use of a chemical called atrazine 80W. It was sprayed on the ground after planting but before the corn had come through. The field belongs to Robert Hisle of Miami and is examined by Glen Hartman of Falls City, Neb., during a demonstration arranged by the Missouri Farmers Association.

Olney, Ill., Gladly Pampers Its 700 White Squirrels

OLNEY, Ill. (AP) — A colony of about 700 white squirrels is Olney's proudest boast and the town trademark.

A city ordinance passed in 1925 protects the albino colony and a white squirrel has the right-of-way on any street in town.

A motorist unlucky enough to kill one with his car may be assessed a fine of $25. The same fine applies to anyone taking one out of town because Olney residents have found their squirrels do not survive outside the city limits.

"The fact that they don't venture beyond the city limits has never been explained," says Harry Hillis, editor of the Olney Daily Mail. "Science may someday find the answer but hasn't yet."

★ ★ ★

Olney goes all out to glorify white squirrels. Every policeman and fireman has an outline of the bushytailed animal as a shoulder patch on his uniform.

★ ★ ★

The white squirrels even made the Congressional Record July 14 when Rep. George Shipley (D-Ill) directed the attention of the House to "the world's only albino squirrel colony."

★ ★ ★

According to local legend, the squirrels first made their appearance in 1902. A hunter captured a male and female albino and put them on display in a cage in a local saloon.

Tippit's father, Thomas Sr., heard about the squirrels and sent his son to the saloon with orders to return with the animals and release them in woods. The elder Tippit was mayor at the time.

Weeks later baby white squirrels began to fill Tippit's Woods and the population has increased since then.
