Polio Immunization Starts Tuesday

Rochester Area Will Have First of 48 Clinics

30,000 School Pupils in Lower Three Grades Will Get Vaccine

By JACK ROSS

First clinics in the mass polio immunization of first and second graders in Oakland County will be set up next Tuesday in Rochester school district.

Some 30,000 children will receive the first in a three-shot series of the Salk-type polio vaccine at a total of 48 central clinics in county schools.

Public health workers, doctors, volunteers and elementary school staffs are prepared to go into action in what may prove to be the last big offensive that will virtually wipe out polio as a threat to mankind.

Dr. John D. Monroe, health director for Pontiac and Oakland County, reviewed the many weeks of preparation undertaken here in advance of yesterday's sweeping endorsement of the Salk polio vaccine, then summed it all up by saying, "We're ready."

In Oakland County 35,987 children participated in the tests last spring. Of these, 8,243 received the vaccine, 8,291 received placebo shots, 409 received partial injections and 19,044 received no shot at all.

Eight children came down with paralytic polio, including four who received placebo shots and four who were not inoculated. Three children came down with non-paralytic polio, including one who received the vaccine and two who were not inoculated.

This was disclosed yesterday by Dr. Thomas Francis Jr. of the University of Michigan in a report of his lengthy evaluation of the vaccine tests.

By contrast, 49 others of the 118,771 Michigan youngsters who

ROY ANNETT

Death Takes City Realtor Roy J. Annett

Prominent Pontiac Man Dies in Detroit After Year's Illness

Roy J. Annett, prominent Pontiac realtor and for many years a civic leader, died yesterday in Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit. He had been in failing health since suffering a heart attack nearly a year ago.

Mr. Annett, 68, was a real estate broker here for 31 years and served as branch manager for the Michigan secretary of state for 22 years.

Following his rise from motorman to conductor to dispatcher for the Detroit United Railway in Detroit, Mr. Annett came to Pontiac in 1913 as superintendent of the Flint-Pontiac Division.

Ten years later he went into the real estate business with Edward Stout. In 1933, he established his own business office in the Waldo Building, East Huron and Perry Sts.

After seven years, he moved his company into its present location on the ground floor of the building.

He was first appointed Pontiac branch manager of the secretary of state's office by Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald 22 years ago and continued in the post through the administration of Owen J. Cleary.

A charter member of the Pontiac Kiwanis Club, he had served as president of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce and was the last surviving member of the original board of directors of the Pontiac Salvation Army.

He was a director of the YMCA, a charter member of the Pontiac City Club and a member of the Pontiac Real Estate Board, among other realty organizations.

Among the fraternal organizations to which he belonged were Elks Lodge 810, Roosevelt Lodge 510, Moslem Temple Shrine, Detroit, and Knights Templar. He was given life membership in the Roosevelt Lodge in 1952.

A hunting and fishing enthusiast, Mr. Annett belonged to the Indian Fishing Club and the Hopewell Hunting and Fishing Club. He spent his vacations at a Northern Michigan cabin.

Mr. Annett, who lived at 194 N. Berkshire Rd., Bloomfield Highlands, was a member of All Saints Episcopal Church.

He was born in North Branch, the son of Joseph and Catherine Annett. He married his wife, Lila Barger, in Detroit on Oct. 10, 1908.

He is survived by his widow; a daughter, Mrs. Rolfe Smith, of Clarkston; a son, Bruce, of Pontiac; a sister, Mrs. Mae Murray, of Pontiac, and a brother, George, of Elk Lake.

Funeral service will be held at 11 a.m. Friday at All Saints Episcopal Church, the Rev. C. George Widdifield officiating. Burial will be in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery.

Bearers will be Howard W. Huttenlocher, Harcourt S. Patterson, Edward E. Wilson, LeRoy F. Kellogg, Milo J. Cross and Elmer R. Pettingill.

Mr. Annett's body will be at Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home until Friday morning. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests friends may make memorial contributions to Mr. Annett's church or the Salvation Army.

Governors' Help Asked in Strikes

Mississippi Executive Urges Intervention in Phone, Rail Walkouts

ATLANTA (INS) — Southern governors were being urged today to meet in an effort to settle the month-old, nine-state telephone strike, while efforts continued in Washington to end a costly railroad walkout.

Gov. Hugh White of Mississippi asked Gov. Lawrence Wetherby of Kentucky to call a meeting of Southern governors to discuss the phone strike involving about 50,000 workers. White said he thought a meeting of governors with union and company officials could "assist in bringing about a settlement."

Federal mediators continued to talk separately with representatives of Southern Bell and the Communications Workers of America (CIO) in Atlanta.

In Washington, meetings continued in an effort to end the railroad strike of about 25,000 non-operating employes that has crippled rail service in 13 states.

At Charleston, W. Va., negotiators were subject to call-back in the 10-state walkout of Atlantic Greyhound bus drivers.

Retired Laborer Wills $35,000 to Polio Fund

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—The $35,000 estate of Theodore Neshkoff, who died Sunday, goes to the March of Dimes "for the use of children crippled by infantile paralysis." Neshkoff, a 73-year-old retired laborer, said in his will he had "no relatives and no intimate friends." The will was offered for probate yesterday—the day the Salk polio vaccine was pronounced a success.

HYDE PARK, N. Y. (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt stated she was "delighted" with the outcome of the Salk vaccine tests. "Of course, we will have to go on with the March of Dimes for a long time, because we still have people who have had the disease who must be cared for," the former president's widow said.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Mexican Health Ministry has asked the United States for 100,000 doses of Salk polio vaccine.

NEW YORK (AP)—The proud parents of Dr. Jonas E. Salk said they knew his antipolio vaccine would be a success when he inoculated his own wife and three sons more than a year ago.

The father, Daniel, 65, a retired designer of women's neckwear and blouses commented:

"We were not surprised. We saw this coming.

"We knew for some time, for a year and a half."

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who developed the Salk vaccine against polio, agrees that mental disease should be the next major target of preventive medicine.

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Dr. Salk was given a standing ovation by 400 fellow scientists and newsmen yesterday when he reported on his successful polio vaccine. The vaccine is an unpatented product, so Dr. Salk's only reward aside from his regular salary is the satisfaction of his accomplishment.

ROME, Italy (AP)—There's a town in Michigan named Hann Harbor, or Ann Hertor or is it Ann Harbor? Italian editors used all three yesterday while struggling to achieve Ann Arbor, the dateline on news stories about the Salk polio vaccine report.

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Parents of children who participated in the Salk polio vaccine test will learn from state and local health authorities whether their children got vaccine or dummy shots.

Growing Season in State Begins One Day Early

In the first report of the year, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said the crop season is under way earlier than in recent years.

As of April 1, the index of seasonal advancement was one day ahead of average for Michigan compared with eight days behind average a year ago.

During the first 10 days of April, the weather was dry and warm and oat planting was under way in southern and central Michigan. Light to moderate to moderate showers started April 11 and more rain was forecast.

The wheat crop came through the winter in good condition and the yield per acre prospects were above average. The crop was estimated at 27,570,000 bushels, eight per cent below last year and 13 per cent below average.

Michigan's fruit crops also came through the winter without serious damage, the service reported.

Senate to Vote Today on MSU

New Name for College Expected to Be Okayed This Afternoon

LANSING (AP)— If everything goes according to schedule, the Senate will vote this afternoon to change Michigan State College to Michigan State University.

The House having already approved the name-change, the bill would then go to Gov. Williams for his consideration.

The upper chamber defeated two attempts to give Michigan State some other name yesterday — then pushed the bill up for a final vote today.

Sen. Harry F. Hittle (R-East Lansing), who steered the measure in the Senate, said he would put it to a vote soon after the chamber convenes (2 p.m.) and predicted confidently that it would pass with several votes to spare. Opponents said they thought Hittle was right.

The chamber defeated on an unrecorded voice vote an amendment by Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville) to name MSC the "Michigan Agricultural University."

Then it beat down 9-17 a motion by Sen. Cora M. Brown (D-Detroit) to make it "Michigan State Central University".

The bill came out of Hittle's Senate Judiciary Committee shortly before noon as predicted, reportedly on a 5-2 committee vote. It had been sent there to keep it out of the hands of the supposedly hostile Education Committee, where it normally would have gone.

Hutchinson argued that a compromise name must be found by the Legislature because MSC was so determined to have nothing but "Michigan State University" and the University of Michigan was determined to have almost anything but that.

Occasional Showers Forecast for Area

Temperatures yesterday ranged from a low of 50 to high of 69 in downtown Pontiac. A trace of rain was recorded but not enough to measure.

At 8 a.m. today the mercury stood at 50 degrees, rising to 62 by 1 p.m.

Raging Storms Kill 2, Hurt 23 in West, South

Property Damage High, but Wheat Crops Saved by Snowfalls

CHICAGO (INS) — Snow and windstorms left two persons dead, 23 injured and millions of dollars in property damage today in Rocky Mountain and south-central states.

Two persons were killed and 20 others injured yesterday in a raging windstorm at Pueblo, Colo., which followed a heavy spring blizzard in northern Colorado, southern Wyoming, and western Nebraska.

A 47-year-old tenant farmer, John Shavers, was burned to death at Sherill, Ark., when he fell across a stove trying to escape from tornado-like winds that wrecked his home.

Up to a foot and a half of snow fell in the Rocky Mountain states during the unseasonable blizzard. Windstorms that whipped up later piled the snow into huge drifts that blocked highways and stranded motorists.

To the south, the wind stirred up blinding dust in southern Colorado and New Mexico, snarling transportation. A 140-mile desert stretch of U.S.66 between Albuquerque and Gallup, N. M., was closed because of the dust.

Winds of up to 95 miles an hour were clocked around Pueblo, where the two deaths and 20 injuries occurred.

Snowfall there measured up to 15 inches at Kimball. In Wyoming, Cheyenne had 18 inches of snow.

Beating by Boy Follows Pattern of Barbara Case

By ARNOLD S. HIRSCH

Mrs. Jack B. King gave a clue today to the brutal attack her 12-year-old son (by a previous marriage), Terry Morgan, made on little Cindy Lynne Montgomery, 3, yesterday.

The boy's attack paralleled the one made on 7-year-old Barbara Gaca, whose body was discovered two weeks ago in a West Bloomfield Township dump. "That's all he's talked about since it happened," the mother said.

Both girls were sexually molested. Both suffered repeated puncture-like stab wounds.

Mrs. King described her son as an average student at the Owen Elementary School. He is a member of the safety patrol and likes baseball and other sports.

Has he ever been in trouble before?

"He got into a house once a couple of years ago, but that's all," she answered, tears welling again in her reddened eyes. "Last night was the first time he's ever done anything like that."

Mr. and Mrs. King moved into their home at 255 W. Fairmount Ave. in February and bulldozers still roar around the neighborhood leveling the lots. The little home has to be approached by foot.

Mrs. King was divorced from Terry's father, Lyle, four years ago, she said. With him she had three other children, Jeff, 15, and two younger children, whom she didn't want to name. They all live with the Kings.

"We don't care about ourselves, but the children have to go to school and sit next to other children. How will it be for them?" she asked.

Mr. and Mrs. King have one child of their own.

Victim of Brutal Attack

VICIOUSLY ATTACKED—Tiny Cindy Lynne Montgomery, 3, who was brutally attacked last night by a 12-year-old boy, is shown above in a photo taken three weeks ago. She smilingly holds a neighbor's dachshund pup. Cindy loved dogs. She went to her uncle's home yesterday because he had received a new little pup. She had been playing with the dog when she was lured into the basement of a partially constructed home. Searchers found her lying semi-consciously, suffering multiple nail punctures and a broken neck. She had been beaten with a nail studded board and attacked.

Cindy Fights for Her Life; Birthday Plans Canceled

By AL LOWMAN

But last night, the friendly gray-eyed youngster always eager to make new friends was viciously attacked and beaten by a 12-year-old boy.

Why?

Cindy's parents, Charles, 27, and Natilie Montgomery, waiting anxiously outside their only daughter's room at Pontiac General Hospital, wonder who could have been so vicious and why.

"She's so friendly with everyone—always making friends with other children," her father said.

"We've read about these things in the papers," he added "but you never think it will happen to you—what can be done to prevent it?"

Mrs. Montgomery, waiting tearfully at her husband's side, thought of the day's events that led up to the tragic attack.

"Cindy and I were visiting at my mother's house with my sister (Mrs. Wendell Beaird) yesterday afternoon. Cindy knew my sister had a new puppy at home and wanted to see it so bad.

"I let her go when my sister left. They said I'd missed her only by a few minutes when I went over to take her home for supper."

Although Mrs. Montgomery didn't say it, she was probably thinking if she'd been just a little earlier, her daughter would have been spared the harrowing experience — an experience too horrible for an adult to bear, not to mention a little girl.

Cindy had been playing near the Beaird home at 203 W. Strathmore Ave., when her mother came for her.

A short time later her bruised, violated body was found in the basement of the house.

Society wonder's what is to be done. Only the authorities can answer.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery wonder too—but that's of secondary importance.

Preliminary Hearing Scheduled Today for Boy, 12

By JOSEPH K. SFAIR

A 3-year-old Pontiac girl was attacked and left lying semi-conscious in the basement of a partially-completed house on West Rutgers St. last night. She suffered multiple nail punctures and a broken neck.

The child, Cindy Lynne Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Montgomery of 575 E. Mansfield Ave., today was reported in critical condition at Pontiac General Hospital. She had been attacked sexually, according to Pontiac Police.

Slated for a preliminary hearing in juvenile court today was Terry Allen Morgan, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack B. King of 255 W. Fairmont St., who told police he enticed the child into the new home.

The youngster was noticed missing about 6:30 p.m. yesterday by her uncle, Wendell N. Beaird of 203 W. Strathmore Ave., where Cindy was visiting.

After a search party of some 20 neighbors was called by Beaird, George Fisher of 188 W. Strathmore Ave., heard the child whimpering in the basement of the unoccupied home.

Police quoted him as saying her slacks were tied around her neck, her lower clothing torn off and she was bleeding profusely. Detective James F. Bale found two nail-studded boards spattered with blood in the basement. Police are holding the boards for evidence.

Following questioning by police, another child in the neighborhood said he had last seen Cindy walking away from her uncle's home with Terry.

When police went to Terry's home, the youth jumped out of a side window and attempted to escape. He was held by his 15-year old brother.

Police Chief Herbert W. Straley said the youth admitted beating the girl after luring her into the home. No explanation was made by the boy, according to police.

"By the luck and grace of God, the child was found when she was," said Straley. "Otherwise she might not have been located until this morning."

The child suffered nail punctures in the head, abdomen and back. Hospital authorities said they hadn't attempted to count the numerous punctures. She also

Rosebush Quads Slated to Receive Salk Shots

The 4-year-old Rosebush quadruplets are going to be vaccinated with the Salk vaccine "as soon as possible," their mother says.

Mrs. Kenneth Rosebush, rejoicing yesterday over the news of the effectiveness of the vaccine, said:

"I think it's just wonderful. Polio has been an awful fear for all parents — that the children had to be cooped up all summer long so they would not catch polio. Now my children can get out and play without my having this fear.

Supervisors OK Increase in CD, Sheriff Personnel

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved two moves increasing law enforcement and civil defense personnel.

Some $6,000 was appropriated to provide an assistant to County Civil Defense Director Lewis C. Jarrendt, who has been handling his duties alone.

Another resolution was passed authorizing addition of eight sheriff's deputies.

In other action, Supervisor Elmer Kephart, of Bloomfield Hills, reported that County Health Director Dr. John D. Monroe had accepted a position as professional adviser to the Tuberculosis Sanatorium Board of Trustees.

Kephart said Dr. Donald Smith has been named temporary medical superintendent of the Sanatorium.

Supervisor Lee H. Clack, of Oxford Township, presented a resolution which was adopted honoring the memory of the late Roy B. Cowdin, an Oxford Township supervisor for ten years.

A request was referred to the Juvenile Affairs and Salaries Committees from the Juvenile Division asking that four child welfare workers and two stenographers be added to its staff.

In a letter, Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore explained the backlog of cases makes more workers necessary if proper service is to be maintained.

The board approved sale of three county-owned lots in Starr Acres, Royal Oak, and one in Bloomfield Hills addition, Pontiac.

A lease previously granted the Michigan State Police to land located north of the contagious hospital on North Telegraph road was canceled.

The law agency had intended to build a police barracks on the site which never materialized, explained Supervisor Willis M. Brewer of Pontiac.

Approval was given a Board of Auditor's plan to set up a Division of Revenue in the Collections Department. Auditor John C. Austin said expense of employing two persons to run the department would be more than made up for by increased collection of debts.

The board adopted a sick-leave plan to include employes of all county departments.

"The county previously had no plan for compensation of workers during unavoidable periods of illness," said Supervisor E. H. Waterhouse, of Huntington Woods.

Royal Oak Files to Annex Land

Seek 76-Acre Plot to Be Site of Vickers New Plant

Royal Oak city yesterday filed a petition with Oakland County Clerk Lynn D. Allen to annex the 76 acres of Troy Township on which the Vickers Corp., of Detroit, plans to build a $2,000,000 plant.

At the same time, the Oakland County Board of Supervisors set a June vote on a previous move by Troy to incorporate a major part of the township, including the prospective tax-rich Vickers property, as a city.

Royal Oak City Attorney Allen Hertler said the city would move to annex the land whether or not Troy incorporated it.

"If the Troy vote is in favor of incorporation, our present petition will be no good. We'll have to submit another petition asking the supervisors to set a vote on our annexation of the land from Troy city," he stated.

The present petition has 897 signers, with only about 600 needed. "If the land is incorporated by Troy, then our second petition would require about the same number of signers," the attorney explained.

"But at least 10 of them would have to be Troy residents, whereas none were needed from the township on the first petition."

If the Troy vote fails, then the present petition will be good, said Hertler. In either case, Royal Oak would need only a majority of the combined vote of both units to gain annexation. Royal Oak's larger population should assure it success once the matter can be brought to a vote, said Hertler.

might have suffered other head injuries. Hospital authorities said the child suffered internal pelvic injuries.

Terry, a safety patrol boy in the fifth grade at the Owen School, has never been in serious trouble, according to police. According to Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore, Terry appeared in his court for a preliminary hearing in 1953 for trespassing into a home with another boy. However, the matter was handled unofficially at that time by the court.

Moore said that records showed that Terry had an intelligence quotient of 76 during the former incident and "sounds like another mental defective case."

Moore said he is making a personal investigation of the matter.

The girl's parents said Cindy had been visiting her grandmother earlier when her uncle and aunt came to the grandmother's home and told the girl about a new puppy they had been given.

She had been playing with the pup when she was lured away from her uncle's home by the youth.

participated in the overall tests of the vaccine came down with the disease. The total includes those who receive only partial injections, placebo (dummy) shots or no shots at all, as well as those who were given the vaccine.

Three of the four polio victims who received the vaccine were paralytic cases. Two of these were in Kent County and the third in Calhoun County. The fourth victim, a non-paralytic case, was in Oakland County.

Names of children who took part in the tests were not disclosed.

In preparation for the immunizations here Dr. Monroe said everything that possibly could have been done in advance has been completed. Sterile hypodermic syringes and needles, antiseptics, cotton and other supplies are packaged and ready to be moved out to the schools where clinics will be set up.

Supplies of the vaccine itself, enough to immunize an expected 30,000 county children, are on the way, having been delayed only because of the necessity for federal licensing which followed yesterday's report by Dr. Thomas Francis Jr. at Ann Arbor.

Some 120 members of the Oakland County Medical Society are prepared to step in and run the clinics scheduled for each shot of the series, and staff members of St. Joseph Mercy and Pontiac General Hospital are alerted to handle sterilization of clinic supplies once the program gets under way.

A corps of more than 1,000 volunteer workers under Mrs. Howard Rieman of Birmingham is poised to go into action to help staff the clinics, transport supplies, keep records and handle the countless other tasks involved in the huge undertaking.

At the county health department, Dr. Monroe's aides are busy with administrative details of the immunization, checking lists of supplies, planning for distribution of people and materials, and acting as the control center for the program.

In addition, principals and teachers at the nearly 200 elementary schools of the county are making preparations for moving and keeping track of their first and second grade pupils during the clinics.

Parents of children who participated in last year's field tests of the Salk polio vaccine in Oakland County will be notified if their children received the real vaccine.

Dr. Monroe said certificates will be given in the schools to those children who actually got the vaccine. He advised parents of children who participated but did not bring home a certificate, which means they received only the sterile water, to make certain they have returned a parental request form to the school.

Parents of all first and second graders must also return the forms to the school, since no child will be vaccinated who does not have the signed slip from his parents.

Deadline for return of the forms is Friday, allowing time for the necessary administrative work involved.

Dr. Monroe said Saturday clinics would be held in the city and other heavily-populated areas, while school buses would transport children to and from weekday clinics in outlying districts.

He emphasized that all request forms, on which parents signify their desire to have their children get the free shots, must be returned to the schools no later than Friday.

Clinics for Pontiac and Waterford Township are scheduled May 7. Children in cities of south Oakland County will receive the vaccine in clinics Saturday, April 23.

Tuesday, April 19

Brooklands School, including Hamlin and Gethsemane Lutheran.

Wednesday, April 20

City Postpones for Week Public Housing Ban Action

The City Commission last night postponed for a week action on a petition calling for an ordinance prohibiting additional public housing in Pontiac. "Final" action on the Glenwood Estates Subdivision rezoning was also deferred a week.

Decision to postpone the public housing action came after a 4-3 vote defeated a motion by Commissioner Harry W. Lutz (District 7) that the ordinance be put to a public vote.

The petition, framed according to city charter form, gives the commission the option of adopting the ordinance or presenting it at an election.

Charges of "political trickery," and "disenfrachisement of the people" were fired by Lutz after his motion lost. Commissioner Floyd P. Miles (District 4) agreed with Lutz that the action was "dangerous."

"When 6,000 people (the reported number of signatures on the petitions) ask a privilege and are not granted it that is dangerous," Miles said.

"If the commission passes a motion banning public housing, next week it can change it. If the people vote against it, only another vote of the people could change it."

No vote was taken on a motion by Mayor William W. Donaldson (District 3) that the ordinance be adopted by the commission.

Miles' motion to postpone further action a week came after Commissioner Harcourt S. Patterson (District 2) pointed out the commission had 20 days to act on the petitions. The motion passed by a 4-3 vote.

Batted around for three months, the Glenwood Estates rezoning issue was put off another week at Donaldson's request after he said he had definite knowledge General Motors Corp. is interested in the land.

Lutz crossed swords with the mayor at that point, asking, "How come you have information we don't?" He charged the mayor was carrying on "secret negotiations."

Donaldson answered he "would be glad to invite" Lutz to every meeting he attends.

Commissioner John A. Dugan, (District 5) came to Donaldson's defense saying it was his duty as mayor to meet with people and that he "has never held back anything from me." Commissioner John E. Carry (District 6) also supported the mayor.

An attorney for the home building firm which wants the subdivision rezoned to residential classification asked if he was assured action would not be postponed again next week.

"No, not necessarily," Donaldson answered, "But we hope so."

The attorney said his firm can build low-cost houses on the land now, even though zoned for manufacturing, but said the company wanted to construct higher-priced homes which would require the zoning shift.

Press, Official Ballot Totals Nearly Identical

The official Oakland County vote totals for the April 4 election vary only slightly from figures computed election night by the Pontiac Press, the Board of Canvassers reported today.

The Press hit exactly the vote on the amendment establishing a non-partisan State Board of Canvassers. It came within 30 ballots of the correct figure for seven candidates for state positions.

The Board of Canvassers is composed of Mrs. Sarah Garrett, of Commerce Township, chairman; Mrs. Minnie Sherwood, of Pontiac, secretary; and Carlos G. Richardson, of Waterford Township.

Gas Thief Trapped by Water Switch

FLINT (UP) — Cass Smith, of suburban Flint got mighty tired of having someone drain his gasoline tank almost nightly for two weeks. So he set a trap.

Sheriff's men booked Ernest Belford, 17, of Flint, on a charge of larceny after finding him beside his stalled car two miles from Smith's home.

Deputies said Belford's car had stalled because it wouldn't run on water, a goodly amount of which was found in his tank.

Smith had tipped sheriff's men to what he was doing. They had failed to trap anyone, despite his almost nightly complaints over the last two weeks.

Commission Action Poses Threat for Junk Dealers

What may be the beginning of a long-term drive to eliminate junk yards and used auto parts establishments from many sections of the city was touched off at last night's City Commission meeting.

Last week, the operating permit for East Side Auto Parts, 181 E. Pike St., had been withheld on the motion of Commissioner Floyd P. Miles (District 4).

Last night, owners Marvin and Charles Finkelstein appeared to state they plan to clean up the premises as best they can and erect a board fence.

Commissioner John E. Carry (District 6), their representatives; moved that the license be issued providing ordinance violations are eliminated.

Miles cautioned the brothers not to invest too much money in renovating the establishment.

"I would hate to see them make a large expendiure, until further study is made," he said. "I've got nothing against these men personally. But this whole industry is a problem."

In other business, the commission received some 300 signatures on petitions protesting issuance of a tavern license at 1460 Baldwin Ave.

Liquor licenses were renewed for seven taverns, 12 Class C establishments and one hotel.

Miles and Commissioner Harcourt S. Patterson (District 2) opposed renewing two of the Class C permits.

The Commission concurred with a City Plan Commission recommendation and authorized rezoning lots 3, 4 and 5, Merrimac Subdivision, to commercial 1 classification.

Referred back to the plan board was a request to rezone to manufacturing residential property at Madison and Perry streets. Action was deferred a week on rezonings in assessor's plats 147 and 163.

Public hearings were held and confirmation deferred for special assessment rolls for curb, gutter and drainage on Burt avenue from Montcalm to Hillside and Hillside drive from Burt to Summit, and a water main in Third avenue from Laurel to Highwood Subdivision.

Hearings were set for next Tuesday on receiving special assessment rolls for curb, gutter and drainage on Elm street from Jessie to Sanford and a sanitary sewer on Wyoming avenue.

The city clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for concrete pavement on various streets and public necessity was declared for reinforced concrete pavement on Portland street from Montcalm to Owen and Kennett road from Baldwin to Wing.

Engineer's estimates were presented and public hearings set for next Tuesday for the following projects:

Curb, gutter and drainage on Beverly avenue from Baldwin to University.

Curb, gutter and drainage on Cornell avenue from Baldwin to University.

The Day in Birmingham

City Sets Dates to Give Salk Polio Inoculations

BIRMINGHAM — Like the rest of the nation, Birmingham yesterday heard the news it had prayed for and yet had half anticipated: the Salk polio vaccine works!

Health agencies at county and local levels are now moving rapidly with plans to inoculate an estimated 30,000 Oakland County first and second graders.

Dates for Birmingham youngsters have been tentatively scheduled for May 7 and 14 and June 11. City Health Nurse Anyce Gillette said today that most parents have already returned the forms authorizing the shots for their children.

In that respect, this city ranked among the top in the county last year when close to 70 per cent of the forms sent local residents were returned with an affirmative nod.

Mrs. Gillette estimated that between 2,400 and 2,600 first and second graders here will receive the series of shots.

Parents will be notified within a reasonable length of time as to which of the two was administered to their children, Mrs. Gillette said.

She added that further organizational meetings will be held with health chairmen next week.

Problems pertaining to the Pierce-14 Mile shopping center and surrounding property were brought before the Zoning Board of Appeals last night.

One result was that a lot owned by Mrs. Irene Jankie of Beverly Hills, was given the status of business zoned property.

Mrs. Jankie had asked for clarification on this point, since lots at the northern boundary of hers were zoned half business and half terrace classification.

Tabled until the shopping center land owners confer with the Board of Education was a request to modify the 25-foot setback requirement called for in the parking ordinance, where the lot is adjacent to or across from residential property.

Owners plan a parking area at the rear of their stores. They hope to secure an indication from the school board of future use anticipated for school-owned property north of the proposed parking area, to guide the zoning board in any decision.

45 Million May Get Salk Vaccinations

Nation's Doctors Turn to Huge Task of Inoculating Children Aaginst Polio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Doctors and health officials in communities across the nation, cheered by success of the Salk vaccine, today turned to the huge task of inoculating millions of children against polio.

Most local inoculation programs were expected to begin within about a week of yesterday's announcement that the vaccine was 80 to 90 per cent effective against paralytic polio.

* * *

From city after city came reports that inoculations were scheduled to start Monday or sometime during the following week. A number of cities however, said they did not expect to begin until early May.

The earliest starting date so far came from San Diego, Calif., where authorities hope to begin inoculating by Saturday.

The first shipments of vaccine went out to state and local health organizations last night shortly after the federal government formally licensed it for general use. The official approval was given by Secretary of Welfare Oveta Culp Hobby after Public Health Service scientists evaluated reports on last summer's vaccine field test.

* * *

Houston, Tex., planned to start next Tuesday and hoped to get all its 60,000 eligible children inoculated in one day. In other cities health authorities said the project would move as fast as the available doctors could manage. Most estimates indicated that only rarely would more than a week be required to administer each shot in the series.

There was no nationwide figure on the exact number of children who will receive the protective shots this year but the final count will be in the tens of millions.

* * *

Inoculations for nine million children are being provided by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which ordered its supplies long before the tests results were available. This vaccine is allocated to all first and second graders, considered the age group most vulnerable to the disease.

The foundation's vaccine also will be given to children who took part in last season's test but got only a harmless, ineffective injection. This was done to provide a control factor in analyzing the vaccine's value.

* * *

There were estimates that as many as 45 million might be vaccinated this year.

Manufacturers of the vaccine, which takes three months to make, were reported stepping up production.

A number of private inoculation programs might be developed. The first of these announced in New York was by a union local to provide free shots for all of its members' children under the age of 18.

Women Cannot Wake Up Beautiful

By PHILLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—A foolhardy legal hassle is taking place in New York between two lipstick manufacturers, each of whom claims in its advertising that it can make a woman "wake up beautiful."

As a woman, I say they should both lose.

It is difficult enough to wake up civilized, much less beautiful, and no amount of rosy tinge on the lips in the a.m. is going to change, perceptively, the situation. What of the bleared eye and the smeared hairdo? Not to mention the expression of alarmed idiocy with which—as a woman grows older—she greets the rising sun?

But the lipstick makers, caught up in their work and dedicated to the glories of greasepaint, continue their fruitless fight . . .

The suing company claims that it, and only it, can make us girls lovely in the frazzled dawn. The other outfit claims in ads its lipstick similarly makes women "wake up beautiful."

I guess one must feel sympathy for these cosmeticians, both of whom have devoted a deal of money and brilliant brainwork to concocting this preposterous idea. But personally I am more sorry for girls who may take it all at face value.

(Night.)

Husband: Well!

(Morning)

Husband: Well . . .

As I say, there are too many other factors to be considered besides the rose-tinged lips. Like getting the night cream off, getting the eyes open, getting the nose unpolished, getting the pin curls untangled, getting the crinkles (from skin, muscles and nightclothes) uncreased. And, perhaps most important, recapturing the urge to be beautiful.

Most every woman has the urge, at night, to wake up beautiful in the morning. By morning, however, this is frequently replaced by a simple, primitive instinct for survival. In the strenuous grope from bed to bath, nine out of 10 women think more of coffee than of cosmetics.

It is noon as I write this. My eyes are four-fifths open, my mind is again caffeinated into action. On my lips is one coat each of the new lipsticks. I have been up for four hours—and I still don't look beautiful.

Farouk 'Critical,' Actually Thinking of Going to Work

ROME (AP)—Ex-King Farouk of Egypt needs a job and is having no luck finding one, the Italian magazine Tempo reports.

In an interview with the deposed monarch, who has been living lavishly in exile, the magazine's current issue quotes him as saying:

"I was never personally rich. The men of the revolution confiscated all my private property.

"My situation is critical. I must go to work to live."

Farouk's first try at getting employment, interviewer Lello Bersani wrote, was with a big industrialist who turned him down.

The ex-King's only sign of retrenchment so far has been to give up his surburban villa and move into an apartment in Rome. He still travels the night club circuit in kingly style.

Toledo Man Gets 2 Divorces in Day

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Walter H. Devaney, 34, got two divorces yesterday.

He divorced Mary Parker Devaney, whom he married in 1941, and Eleanor Shaft Devaney, of Auburn, N.Y., whom he married in 1948.

Domestic Relations Court granted him a divorce from his first wife, mother of his two children, on grounds of wilful absence. The court granted him a divorce from his second wife on grounds he was not legally married to her.

Devaney said he married the second time after his first wife wrote that she had divorced him. He said he learned in 1952 that his first wife had not gone through with the divorce, so he and his second wife separated.

College Student Trying to Reject $350,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Eugene F. Suter Jr., a Yale University senior, is seeking to renounce a $350,000 trust fund and says he prefers to rely on "two hands and a head of my own."

The student's petition, filed in Surrogate's Court, is opposed by the fund trustees. They told Surrogate William T. Collins that under his father's will Suter may not receive the principal of the trust until 1963.

By that time, they added, the young man, now 23, may have "a change of mind."

Collins has reserved decision on Suter's request.

Fliers Spot, Report Fire

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn. (AP)—Two fliers saw the roof of a house ablaze near the airfield here and landed to turn in the alarm. They found the owner of the house, Thomas Cobey, sitting placidly in the living room unaware the house was burning. The fliers, Cleve Costley and Francis Einarson, aided firemen and Cobey in putting out the fire, which did $600 damage.

Thinks Formosa Safe

MANILA (AP)—Maj. Gen. Robert Schow, U.S. Army deputy chief of intelligence, said last night he did not believe the Red Chinese would try to invade Formosa. "Red China has too much sense to try it," said Schow, who is on a tour of the Far East.

Ike Tuning Up for Middlecoff

President May Play With Masters Champion This Weekend

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower looked forward to a practice round of golf today to tune up for a possible weekend match with Cary Middlecoff, the 1955 Masters Tournament champion.

Middlecoff, who won the Masters here Sunday, had left town by the time the President arrived yesterday for an eight-day work-and-play vacation.

But White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen there was a possibility Middlecoff might return to Augusta about Saturday to take on the chief executive.

Eisenhower got in 18 holes yesterday afternoon at the Augusta National Club, site of the Masters, even though he was bothered "quite a bit"—as Hagerty put it—by bursitis in his right shoulder. For the past six weeks or so the President has been going to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington for treatment of his bursitis. The 15-minute stints at the hospital have helped, but Eisenhower got a setback Monday in tossing out the first baseball at the season opener

The pitch, Hagerty said, wrenched his arm painfully. That was the reason Eisenhower used only his left hand in waving greetings yesterday to crowds in Augusta and Charleston, S.C.

On the plane trip from Washington, the President stopped in Charleston for a visit to the Citadel military college, which presented him with an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Besides more golf, Eisenhower planned some work today on the foreign aid message he will send to Congress next week. Hagerty said there had been no decision yet whether the message will go to the Capitol while the President still is in Georgia—through next Wednesday—or after he returns to Washington.

Auto Contract Talks Starting Long Haul

DETROIT (AP)—Auto industry negotiations over the guaranteed annual wage and other new contract issues settled today into a long grind expected to continue until an early June deadline.

The CIO United Auto Workers was scheduled to meet in separate afternoon sessions with General Motors and Ford. Negotiations with American Motors Co. also were due to start today over the same issues.

The GM talks were due to recess today until the middle of next week. The Ford conferences, which began yesterday, were expected to last all week.

The motor companies have uniformly refused to take any position for or against the UAW demand for year-around pay, but have stressed voluntary policies to promote regular employment.

Salk Vaccine Report Seals Doom of Polio

Polio's number is up!

That's the meaning of the long awaited report on the vaccine perfected by Dr. Jonas E. Salk. When Dr. Thomas Francis Jr. told newsmen at Ann Arbor that the vaccine is safe, effective and potent, he was announcing another history making medical milestone.

★ ★ ★

When he added that the vaccine was found in tests last year to be 80 to 90 per cent effective, he gave the answer millions of anxious parents were eager to hear. Dr. Salk himself believes that the vaccine is potentially almost 100 per cent effective. He also believes it can bring complete triumph over polio and its lieutenants of terror and tragedy.

Besides giving the world the great gift of assurance that children now can be vaccinated successfully against paralytic polio, the report revealed the vaccine to be "incredibly" safe. Only four-tenths of one per cent of the children vaccinated suffered minor reactions.

It was wholly fitting that this greatest triumph of preventive medicine was announced on the 10th anniversary of the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Stricken by polio at 29, Mr. Roosevelt played a prominent part in launching the great co-operative fight against the disease.

Dr. Salk who says he has merely capitalized on research done by others, studied under Dr. Francis at the University of Michigan. He had such faith in his vaccine that the first persons given it were himself, his wife and their three children.

A quiet, retiring scientist at 40, Dr. Salk's achievement makes it certain that his name will live in history with those of the outstanding giants of medical research.

Desperation Farm Cure Announced by Kremlin

According to the official newspaper Pravda, some 30,000 city dwellers — party officials, economists, engineers, etc. — are to be given short course training in agriculture. Thereafter they are to be sent to work on farms for two months.

That apparently is considered sufficient preparation for the next step in the program for curing agricultural ills. These novice farmers then will be appointed chairmen of the one-third of all Russia's collective farms which the government considers inefficient.

Pravda contends it is probable that competent chairmen could be found among collective farmers. But because there isn't time, this obviously risky gamble has been decided on. The fact remains that with one-third of all farms below standard, agricultural collectivism in Soviet Russia is a self admitted failure.

Whether this desperation program will produce any satisfactory result remains to be seen. Certainly not even the Kremlin itself could blame non-Russians for being skeptical over the possibilities of farms managed by agricultural beginners.

Those who complain most are most to be complained of.

Habits and Taxes

Are we Americans getting away from some of our vices?

Until there is more evidence the answer probably will have to be "no." Yet certain tax statistics provided by Commerce Clearing House indicate that the people of this country are doing less gambling, smoking, card playing and drinking.

As might be expected there were immediate accompanying adverse effects on our naitonal treasury. For example, revenue from taxes on gambling during the second half of 1954 dropped 26 per cent below the total for the same period of 1953. That cost our treasury $1,250,000.

In the same period smoking decreased 4.50 per cent with a resulting $37,500,000 drop in tobacco excise revenues. Television has been blamed for a decline in card playing which has caused a seven per cent cut in revenue from the sale of the paste boards. But the smallest decline of all, five per cent, in the revenue from liquors and beer cut treasury income most — $76,000,000.

In view of the Nation's continuing population growth, these statistics are difficult to explain. Perhaps they do reflect a change in our habits on the side of moderation. It may be, too, that a changed attitude toward health accounts for the reduced demands.

There also is the possibility that some temporary unfavorable economic conditions of last year are involved. But until there is more enlightening evidence, it would be unsafe to conclude that a trend has set in.

The Man About Town

Still Giving Hopes

Our Nearest Oil Well Now Gets the Acid Treatment

Gettysburg address: One thing that Lincoln and Eisenhower have in common.

With new oil well strikes coming in at several points in Southeastern Michigan, work persists on the nearest attempt to Pontiac. On the on Big Lake Road, an acid treatment now is being applied at a depth around the 4,000 foot level. After over two years' work on the project, who has charge of the undertaking, still has hopes of a gusher, with some prospects of a good strike in natural gas.

Frank Summers,

As proof that most of us eat too much, the Royal Canadian Air Force has released the results of a survey. It finds that a vitamin pill, a third of a biscuit and two and one-half pieces of jelly candy is enough to keep a man alive for a day. But who would want to live even for one day on such a diet?

The Shout Heard 'Round the World

David Lawrence Says:

Stevenson Rocking Boat at a Very Critical Time

WASHINGTON — If Adlai Stevenson had contrived purposely to encourage the Communist Chinese to believe that America is disunited and that her allies are seriously at odds with her on Far Eastern policy, he could not have delivered a more convincing speech to that end than he did on Monday night.

For, while to many Americans the former presidential candidate would seem to have been motivated merely by domestic political considerations and by his own ambitions — which can be realized only by undermining the political popularity of President Eisenhower—the Red Chinese could well imagine that the speech represents the beginning of a retreat by the Democratic majority now in control of Congress.

Only a few weeks ago they voted solidly to support the resolution authorizing the President to use our military force to defend Formosa and "related positions and territories of that area." Is "bipartisanship" to be spelled differently now, with divisive speeches by partisans at a time of grave crisis in international affairs?

There are, of course, differences of opinion here and abroad over the extent to which the "related areas" — namely, the offshore islands — shall be defended. But the issue was thoroughly debated in Congress, and it would seem that Stevenson now is merely accentuating a difference that has already been resolved. For the Congress was informed that there was no intention on the part of the President to defend the offshore islands as such, but to defend them "only in situations which are recognizable as parts of, or definite preliminaries to, an attack" on Formosa.

This has been made clear to members of Congress on the Democratic side, and especially to Senator Walter George, Democratic chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. But now it would appear that Stevenson has publicly repudiated the leadership of the Georgia senator and prefers to go it alone in proclaiming what he believes should be the foreign policy of the Democratic Party.

Senator George favors the renunciation of the use of force in and around Formosa, and so does President Eisenhower, who has called for a cease-fire to be arranged by the U. N. It is not Eisenhower or our Allies who can regulate whether force shall be used.

Only the Red Chinese can decide whether there is to be war in the Far East. Any pronouncements about United States policy should be left to the President of the United States to make.

The speech by the former presidential candidate is full of contradictions so characteristic of many of his addresses. While, for example, he condemns the Eisenhower administration for not doing what it says, and for not meaning what it announces in its threat of "massive retaliation," Stevenson unfortunately chooses as his illustration the Allied retreat in Indochina. For this he blames America when he ought to know that the United States backed down from the use of force there because neither the French nor the British —our Allies—would go along with us.

Here was a case in which Eisenhower and Dulles did precisely what Stevenson now pleads should be done—namely, adopted an attitude deferential to the wishes of our Allies. But having followed our Allies, America is now blamed by Stevenson for the loss of Indochina. He certainly cannot have it both ways.

Stevenson's speech exhibits a greater concern for the feelings of the Allies than it does for the feelings of the American people. This is probably due to a desire to make it appear that in foreign policy the administration is inept and incompetent.

While professing high motives himself, Stevenson accuses the administration of yielding to "considerations of domestic political expediency" in making its Far Eastern policies. There are critics inside the Republican Party but fortunately they have not been in favor of appeasing the Communists, and are trying instead to keep the administration from yielding to those "peace at any price" elements in the Republican Party which, like Stevenson, advocate withdrawal from the offshore islands.

Stevenson would, of course, wash his hands of any responsibility if the policy he advocates were really adopted.

If, for example, after the United States withdrew moral support from the Nationalist government and a disintegration of morale developed on Formosa among the troops of Chiang Kai-shek—which Stevenson now significantly derides as "over-age" —the titular leader of the Democratic Party probably would not concede that, by his speech and proposals, he had helped to break down the morale of the Nationalist troops on Formosa, just as the Truman-Acheson administration did in pulling the rug from beneath Chiang Kai-shek's forces on the mainland of China in 1949.

Stevenson is rocking the boat at a critical time, and if his words are heeded by the Democratic majority in Congress, then America is headed for the era of chaos and divided government predicted by many observers last autumn.

Prospect of Capital Punishment in State Brings Varied Opinions From Readers

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

It is my fervent hope that when the bill for capital punishment comes up, our people will take as much interest in protecting our children from sex degenerates as they do in their health.

I was appalled to read that there are records of almost 8,000 known potential killers in the Detroit area, as was published during the Barbara Gaca murder case.

Capital punishment must be the answer. We sure don't have it now. There are just too many of this type person running loose now.

R. W. Sheffield

167 S. Francis

This letter is in regard to Mr. Eugene Lankford's recent plea for capital punishment.

My husband is also an ex-GI who fully supports Mr. Lankford and we have two small children. Our sincerest sympathy goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Gaca and all parents who have suffered such loss.

But, let me say this: What will be accomplished by imposing capital punishment on maniacs? A maniac is not going to be frightened away nor cured by such action. Then too, there is always the possibility that an innocent person would be executed for someone else's wrongdoing.

Christ said, "Thou shalt not kill." Therefore, in my mind, to support capital punishment or to actually execute is no different than to kill as these maniacs have done. Such persons are not normal and need help.

Christ said to help those who have sinned. Could any of you sleep in peace knowing that a very sick person has been executed rather than helped to live a normal life?

Mrs. John E. Finkbiner

7 Front St.

In answer to Joseph Gynac's letter on capital punishment, I say he evidently has no children or he, too, would be for capital punishment. He stated that "justice might misfire and hang an innocent man," but I doubt very much that a mistake like that would be made. After all, the law is pretty thorough.

These sex crimes and killings of late have become pretty sickening and disgusting. why are all these sex deviates allowed to roam the streets? I believe we should have a hospital or such for people like that.

I think a lot of these crimes and sex killings we have all been reading about would come to an end if the punishment were greater. As the mother of a little girl, I am all for capital punishment.

Jack Habel Relates TV Show Experience

Last week Mrs Habel and I appeared on a television quiz show while visiting New York City. Here's my answer to the critics.

First off, we wrote no letter. We were picked from the studio audience which volunteered almost en masse. Maybe we use the right toothpaste. It was not a charity or hard-luck show. Recently a bank manager and a navy officer from Annapolis participated.

Only men play the quiz game. Each contestant was required to state verbally and in writing why he wanted to win for his wife. I said my wife had been cheerfully loyal during four crises, including a fire, in an otherwise happy married life.

Some people play the horses for money. Not being a gambler, I played a quiz game for prizes.

Two Send Replies to 'Dog Lover'

I would like to reply to "Dog Lover." He says that dogs are tied up in the hot sun and dog coops out in the sun. I would like to ask him if that is any worse that running loose in it. Also running all over his neighbors' property.

Why do those people think their dogs have a right to do that? He also had another wonderful idea; fence the school children up and let the dogs run loose.

I don't think the dog ordinance just passed says you have to tie them out in the sun. If dog owners love their pets as much as they would have people believe, they can easily provide a little shade for them.

I think the dog ordinance is one of the best things the City Commission has ever done. Let's have it enforced. If that is done, in a few years there won't be so many unwanted and uncared for litters around.

Also let the police watch at night for them when dog lovers turn them loose. I don't have a dog to bother my neighbor and I don't want to be bothered cleaning up behind his dog, either.

I am not a hater of dogs and I don't hate my neighbors.

Cats Next

I would like to ask "Dog Lover" how she would like to see her pretty flowers, shrubs and lawn destroyed by the dogs allowed to run wild. My flowers are so beautiful and the result of hard labor and to see the dogs running over them when they are ready to bloom is disheartening to say the least.

Our lawn is covered with garbage in the early mornings because stray dogs have knocked over the garbage can looking for something to eat.

Owners of dogs who really love them don't let them run wild. They keep them in their backyards. Our neighbors on each side provide plenty of fresh water, a shade tree to lie under and plenty of food for their dogs. They are on a chain attached to a long wire where they can run and exercise.

I am a lover of dogs, too, but also a lover of a pretty lawn and flowers. Here is hoping the law to keep dogs on their own property will be enforced.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Prayer Far Surpasses Sleeping Pills in Attempt to Solve Any Problems

Journalism has moved forward. The advice column, conducted by a sob sister, has now gone scientific. Modern newspapers are allied with leading clergymen, such as Rev. Gisler, as well as the public schools and medical profession. A scientific column like this one fortifies all agencies of moral hygiene.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case O-303: The Rev. Robert J. Gisler of the famous Snyder Methodist Church in Jacksonville, Florida, meets all the problems of his parishioners, which is quite in accordance with Christ's example.

"Dr. Crane, I need 600 copies of your various rating scales and booklets," he wrote recently.

He employs these, as do some 1,500 other clergymen who write to me each year, to help inform his teenagers, as well as improve the marital deportment of husbands and wives.

Clergymen are usually the top-notch applied psychologists in their communities, for a large portion of their time is spent in private counselling with parishioners on family and sex matters.

The "Confessional" of the Roman Catholic Church is likewise of vast psychological benefit to their church members and has probably saved millions of people from mental institutions.

Repeatedly in this column I have urged you to consult God as your best adviser and physician.

Prayer far surpasses sleeping pills, narcotics, liquor and other attempts to evade your problems.

But it isn't enough just to pray to God for help. You must then implement your own prayers by doing something positive.

It often takes a specific blueprint or scientific prescription, plus a lot of hard work, as you saw in Jerry's case on Monday, where he spent years breaking his homosexual habits.

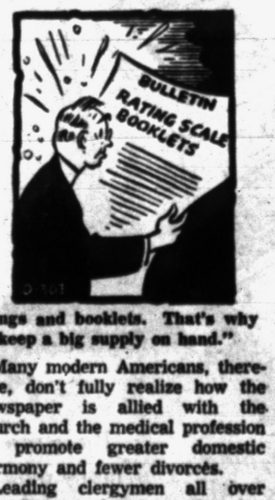

Clergymen and physicians by the hundreds thus try to help you and also save themselves the necessity for private tutoring of every parishioner or patient, by using many of the medico-psychological booklets offered via this newspaper.

"Dr. Crane, please send me 300 sets of your various sex booklets," a prominent physician wrote me yesterday.

"I am so rushed I can't take the time to sit down with every patient and explain things in elaborate detail.

"Besides, it would take 30 minutes to do so, and I'd have to charge him a high fee for that much time.

"So I simplify matters by handing such patients two or three of your newspaper clippings and booklets. That's why I keep a big supply on hand."

Many modern Americans, therefore, don't fully realize how the newspaper is allied with the church and the medical profession to promote greater domestic harmony and fewer divorces.

"Dr. Crane, whenever I marry a couple," says Father Rudolph Hodik, Wisconsin's "Family Rosary" priest, "I always hand the bride a few relevant booklets of yours, neatly sealed in a plain white envelope."

Clergymen try to give engaged couples some sound advice on marital deportment. And they generally utilize the aid of local physicians.

But to make doubly sure that all couples will have a full briefing on such vital matters, they often rely on these medico-psychological booklets offered by this progressive newspaper.

So don't get the erroneous idea that the modern advice column is limited to puppy love affairs of teenagers.

Newspapers now are the mainstay of psychological counseling and psychotherapy as they tie-in with churches, schools and the medical profession.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.

Health of All Candidates Should Be Considered

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Was it Anthony Trollope who proposed euthanasia for persons approaching seventy? Wasn't it Trollope's proposal that Doctor Osler cited humorously in an address to the graduating class at Johns-Hopkins and the news bureaus sent round the world as Osler's own recommendation?

Trollope never made it. He shoved off at 67. Osler did a little better; he conked out at a respectable 70.

Old-timers may remember that the conductor of this perennial column advocated compulsory retirement from work, profession, or business at 64. Looking back, I think now if my plan had been accepted — voluntary retirement at 60, compulsory retirement at 64, with a pension computed at half the individual's annual income or earnings since the age of 40—I could have done a lot more bowling in recent years.

Perhaps my opinion about the time to retire was biased by what I found when I examined the candidates for the presidency in the course of the 1920 campaign. On the one hand the governor, who cheerfully went through every test I wished to make, said I might write what I pleased about his condition. But maybe he knew he was in excellent health. On the other hand the senator wouldn't submit to any kind of examination unless and until I gave him my word not to reveal to the public what I might find . . . I kept my word. Privately I predicted that if elected he would not live out his term.

Ever since I have pondered the question: Why do we entrust the fate of our country to a man or men whose capacity to bear the burden we do not know or care to know? Think of this when you think of Teapot Dome and Yalta.

In the armed services officers must pass a physical examination to qualify for promotion or even to remain on active duty. But nobody cares whether the Commander-in-Chief is capable of doing his job, just so long as the politicians like him. In Yankeeland, we are inspired by patriotism July 4, Feb. 22, Nov. 11 and maybe other days in different sections of the country, but the rest of the time we serve party politics.

As Osler observed in "the doctor's bible," a man of 28 or 29 may have the arteries of a man of sixty, and a man of forty may present vessels as much degenerated (physical degeneration, cardiovascular degeneration, C V D, arteriosclerosis, hardening of the arteries) as they should be at eighty.

So a person's chronological age is not important. What we should know is whether the individual is anatomically and physiologically capable of fulfilling the requirements of the office to which we purpose to elect him.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, but to diseases, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

South Explains Integration Fear

Tells Supreme Court of Problems Expected in Ending Segregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — More Southern states lined up today to tell the Supreme Court of problems they fear if segregation is abruptly ended in public schools.

Three states — Virginia, North and South Carolina — told the court yesterday their public schools may be destroyed unless enough time is allowed to work out problems locally and to win public acceptance of mixed schools.

Speaking for North Carolina, Asst. Atty. Gen. I. Beverly Lake said putting Negro and white pupils together now would bring "turmoil and confusion from which only our enemies could derive any satisfaction."

Lake, who spoke only a few minutes before the court recessed for the day, was due up again today.

In a brief filed in advance of the oral arguments, North Carolina expressed fear that "bloody race riots" might follow any sudden ending of school segregation.

The problem before the court is what to do about putting into force its unanimous decision of last May 17 that public school segregation is unconstitutional.

Foreign Diplomats Warm to Adlai Ideas

WASHINGTON (AP)—A number of foreign diplomats viewed Adlai E. Stevenson's Far Eastern speech today as giving President Eisenhower more room for diplomatic maneuvering toward a peaceful settlement in the Formosa Strait.

State Department officials, taking their cue from Secretary Dulles, were guarded in their comments. But those willing to talk privately agreed the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee's address would give added impetus to diplomatic talks on the problem.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the State Department has discussed with New Zealand the possibility of a new move within the United Nations.

A critical point in Stevenson's plan was whether the Eisenhower administration would be willing to pay the price countries like Britain might demand for their support—giving the U.N. authority to decide the future of Formosa, perhaps through a pebiscite.

Rule Ohio Judge Can't Order All From Courtroom

CLEVELAND (AP)—No Ohio judge can order all spectators and reporters from a courtroom during a trial—even at the written request of the defendants, an Appellate Court ruled here yesterday.

"A defendant has no right, constitutionally or otherwise, to a private trial—that is, one hidden from the public view," the court said.

The decision came in a case brought by Cleveland's three daily newspapers — the Plain Dealer, News and Press. They objected to a ruling by Common Pleas Judge Parker Fulton barring spectators from a pandering trial while a witness talked about "lurid details."

Chinese Reds Claim Airliner Sabotaged

HONG KONG (AP)—Hong Kong's government ordered a full police investigation today into the crash of an Indian airliner chartered by Red China. But the British colonial authorities said the possibility that the plane was sabotaged here —as Peiping radio charged—was "extremely remote."

U.S. officials in Washington and Hong Kong dismissed the Communist charges as "ridiculous" and "utter nonsense." The plane's owners, Air India International, confirmed that mechanical trouble had delayed its departure from Bombay for Hong Kong for several hours.

The four-engine Constellation went down Monday night in the South China Sea between Borneo and Malaya. Nineteen persons were aboard, including eight Chinese Communists en route to the African-Asian conference in Indonesia next week.

You Need Not Keep Track of Card in This New Game

By OSWALD JACOBY
(Last of Five Articles)

The most urgent of all leads is a singleton ace. Get it out of your hand as soon as you can, since otherwise somebody may take it away from you.

Lead your own suit if you have only small trumps or if you have no short side suit. With such a hand you cannot expect to do much trumping, and you therefore want to make the most of the advantage of leading your own suit.

Don't be in a hurry to lead your own trump suit if you have only a few trumps headed by the ace, particularly if you have a singleton or void suit on the side. Your trumps may be more valuable for ruffing than for leading. If somebody else leads your suit, your ace will help you get the lead quickly.

When you are lucky enough to have five or more trumps, lead one or two rounds and then stop. The rest of your trumps will be useful for trumping. The idea is to stop before an opponent can trump and take the trick away from you.

When an opponent is going to win the trick, try to play a card that is already face up on the table. Such a card gives the enemy only 10 points. If you give them a new card in one of their suits, the card is worth 20 points and gets them much closer to the bonus for a calypso.

Even if the card is in your own suit or in your partner's suit, you still throw away an old card rather than a new card. Maybe your new card will be more useful later on; but the old card will never be useful.

When your side is going to win the trick, try to play a card that is not already face up on the table. If the card is in one of your partnership suits, it is worth 20 points and puts your side closer to a calypso. Even if you are just discarding an enemy's suit, you prefer to get rid of a new card to make sure that it never gets won by an opponent.

Don't try to keep track of all 208 cards. You can't do it, and the effort to do so will just spoil your fun. Calypso is a game for enjoyment, and you can play very skillfully without working too hard. Do try to remember something about your own trump suit, however. Keep one eye open for the cards that are missing from your calypso.

If they all get played, you cannot make a calypso; and then you must concentrate on spoiling the opponents' hands rather than trying for your own. If your suit is heavily played during the first three deals, only a few trumps will be left for the fourth deal. Contrariwise, if your suit is lightly played during the first three deals, a large number of your trumps will be left for the fourth deal. Knowing which is the case may help you plan the play for the last hand.

If you are an enthusiastic bridge or canasta player, try an occasional game of calypso as a change. You'll not only enjoy the new game, but you'll also go back to your old favorite refreshed.

Reds Eager to Repatriate Greek Youths Held for Indoctrination Since Civil War

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

SALONIKA, Greece (AP) — "Why did they not send us back our children when we asked for them —six or seven years ago?" the Greek official said. "Why are they so anxious now?

'Perhaps it is because now many of the children are grown up and ready. Perhaps, from the Communist way of thinking, the time has arrived."

The official was discssing with me the grave problem of Greek repatriates from Communist countries, where anywhere from 35,000 to 50,000 Greeks — the majority young people — have been kept since the civil war. The Communists not only have agreed to repatriate some of them now. They seem anxious to send them in large numbers.

"To do the work of the Communist party in Greece, they would require only a relative few," this official continued. "Most of the repatriated people probably still are loyal Greeks. But surely among the young people now there must be many who have been turned into convinced Communists."

* * *

Young boys, snatched from their peasant villages in the rugged mountain areas of northern Greece, given special treatment in a big city under ceaseless indoctrination, isolated from all other inflences, might well have become convinced in seven years.

The 200 repatriates in Kastoria, near the Albanian border, are housed in squalid surroundings in two abandoned schoolhouses. Unanimously they seem to hate the Communists and all their works. They hotly deny there have been any agitators among them, that any among them ever expressed the wish to go back to the Communist lands. But even these people do not want to work in the villages or on the farm any more. They want to head to the cities.

These people represent the first trickle, some 3,700 repatriates. Many of them have now been resettled in villages. They are not the people who cause the Greek authorities the greatest concern. The authorities are wondering about those to come—the youngsters grown to maturity under Communist teaching and isolation.

Northern Greece is a hard, stony land. For young men given special treatment abroad, the return is a shock. The Communists seem to have tried to make sure that the contrast would be felt keenly.

Here in Macedonia, close to the borders of communism, there is concern about the possibility of a future guerrilla nucleus in Greece, usable by the Communists in time of emergency.

At the end of the civil war some 15,000 Red Greek guerrillas fled across the borders to Communist countries. To these, say Macedonian officials, add a fair number of young men trained through their boyhood in communism and wholly under Red influence.

Foresters, game wardens and security forces have been alerted in northern Greece to be on the lookout for Communist agents infiltrating across the Bulgarian and Albanian borders. Several Red leaders who had crossed secretly into Greece with instructions to reorganize the shattered underground party apparatus have already been arrested.

Bob Considine Says:

Franco Builds Giant War Memorial

MADRID (INS)—Generalissimo Franco is building in the snow-capped mountains just outside Madrid a war memorial, and perhaps personal tomb, on a scale hardly equalled since the construction 47 centuries ago of the Cheops pyramid. The dictator chose the site and drew the original designs.

Topped by the largest cross ever constructed, a granite symbol whose upright column is almost as tall as the Washington monument, the costly and well-guarded memorial will be known when opened to the public as El Valle De Los Caidos, literally The Valley of the Fallen. The Franco government estimates a million military and civilian followers of the nationalist cause lost their lives in the civil war of 1936-39.

Such remains of the dead followers of Franco's victorious Falange Espanola Tradicionalista as can be reclaimed will be reburied in a tremendous basilica being built in a tunnel blasted through the pyramid-shaped peak which supports the towering cross.

The mountain rises from the floor of a lush valley reaching deviously out of Madrid and ending abruptly at this and higher rises behind the memorial mountain. These loftier peaks serve as a backdrop for the titantic cross and make it visible for many miles before one reaches the dedicated area.

Inside the tunnel, which is longer than St. Peter's in Rome and almost as high-ceilinged, scores of drillers were at work on the rugged stone when, according to Gabriel Soria, Spain's representative of the Radio Corporation of America, my wife and I became the first newspaper people to visit the scene.

In contrast to the chattering drills, sculptors worked painstakingly at the wall coverings that follow in the wake of the gougers: notably a sensitive scene depicting the dead of Toledo's beseiged Alcazar marching out behind the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse. Men pushed dump buckets of cement along mine-like train rails. Above the clatter and roar, Soria, a product of the University of Southern California and a former movie director, answered a few questions.

"This represents a different point of view from your American view," he said. "This is a way of saying that, sometimes, a book is more nourishing than food bought at the same cost. When the general (Franco) defeated the Reds he was given great amounts of money by the people of Spain. There were strings attached. He could have spent it on himself if he had so chosen.

"But he felt it was proper to erect something that would honor those who fell and become, for the next thousand years or so, a symbol against communism. He personally scouted the Madrid area and selected this site. He paints, you know, and knew what he wanted, and so it was comparatively easy for him to set the pattern."

Soria estimated the eventual cost might run about $7,000,000. Other Spaniards say that $75,000,000 is a more accurate figure, and add that prison labor has been used and Franco will be buried at the tip of one wing of the cross and Jose Antonio, founder-martyr of the Falange, at the other. Soria doesn't think much of these reports and suggested that if prison labor was being used it was odd there were no guards about the busy workers.

Suffice it to say the place already is overpowering and when completed will rate with Felipe II's Escorial and the treasures of Toledo as a prime tourist attraction. The cross, its base, piazzo and monks' quarters behind the cross appear deceptively modest in size as one approaches. Up close the effect is astonishing. The Piazzo is as large as St. Peter's; the monks' quarters almost like a Pentagon. From the floor of the submerged basilica straight up to the tip of the cross is about 600 feet.

Enormous statues of the evangelists huddle at the 4-sided base of the cross. My wife and I reached that level by way of an open walled elevator which we shared with a vast bucket of cement. In a smaller elevator we rose in strained silence through the core of the cross to the height of the wings and climbed out on the huge left bar. It sways a mite in the wind and there is little to hold on to. If the generalissimo wants a restful hereafter we'd advise him not to choose this as his final resting place, but it can't be denied that El Valle De Los Caidos one day will become one of the wonders of the world of tourism.

American boys of age 14 today are 5.9 inches taller and 31.3 pounds heavier than 14-year old boys in 1877, according to a recent comparison of physical measurements.

Corinne Calvet, Actor Are Married in Tangier

TANGIER (AP)—Film actress Corinne Calvet and actor Jeff Stone, balked recently when they tried to get married in Portugal, succeeded yesterday in the U.S. legation here.

In Lisbon, Miss Calvet's visa was not in order and they were refused a Portuguese license.

Mum's the Word for New Game

LOS ANGELES (INS)—You can now keep your children quiet in any language.

It's done with a simple word game using eight cubes. A Los Angeles couple invented the pastime one day by using sugar cubes as an appeasement device to keep their youngsters amused while they entertained guests.

It proved such a success not only with their offspring but with other children that the inventors made the game available commercially under the name, "Qu bila," pronounced "cueby-la."

The game, which can be played in any language, will also be sold in Braille for the blind, and another in Morse code for Boy Scouts.

MacDowell Male Chorus to Perform

Miss MacFarlane Is Guest Artist on April 23

Phyllis MacFarlane, lyric soprano, will be guest soloist with MacDowell Male Chorus here April 23. She will sing two groups of songs as part of MacDowell's 24th Annual Spring Concert in Pontiac High School Auditorium.

Miss MacFarlane is a graduate student in the Music Department of the University of Michigan. Her music will include selections by Joseph Haydn, George Frederick Handel, and Modest Moussorgsky. Miss MacFarlane also plans to sing several light operatic favorites.

Her appearance will highlight the variety of music MacDowell members planned for this year's annual song festival. Their program will include both sacred and secular music of popular and semi-classic stature.

Director George Putnam will lead the chorus in such traditionally appealing songs of America as "Black Is the Color of My True Love's Hair", Down in the Valley," "Wanderin' ", "A Spirit Flower", and "Cindy". Oscar Schmidt, associate MacDowell director will accompany them.

The program will feature the Slavic folk song "Water Ripple and Flow," which the chorus sang in a recent appearance at Port Huron.

It has been arranged for male voices by Deems Taylor.

The program will begin at 8:15 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from any member of the chorus.

Family Dog Gets New Home for Her Puppies

If the family dog has just delivered a litter of pups, you may be wondering where to put them at night and other times when they are not next to "Mom."

The tub provides a bedding area that is free of drafts and is easy to clean. Moreover, a laundry tub won't leak.

Gals, Don't Clatter Those Earrings

Those earrings that hang down are quite handsome on many women.

But have you noticed how enraptured some of these women get with the sound of the earrings?

Creased Hats Will Give Hubby High-Style Look

That's advice from a men's hat designer, Frank Bianchi, who says hats just don't rate this season unless they show "a casual crease."

You have to add the crease yourself, just as old-time cowboys did. And you have a choice of stylish creases.

Bianchi, who designs for Adam Hats, likes a crease planted rakishly on the side of the fedora. But he lists four other creases:

1. The "sandwich crease"—a flat, horizontal crease which divides the hat like a sliced hamburger bun.

2. The "bishop's crease"—a diagonal crease going fore and aft, so that the hat looks like the bishop in a chess set.

3. The "clover leaf crease"—four creases, one on each side of the hat, for a gay four-leaf clover effect.

4. The "stove pipe crease"—a casual dent anywhere in the hat, so most of the hat remains standing.

If you're wondering how come creased hats suddenly are popular, Bianchi says you can blame it all on cowboy hats, which are sneaking eastward as sports wear. Or maybe, he says, it's those cowboy pictures on TV.

BABY FINE HAIR

Women with baby fine, limp hair will agree with me that warm weather is not your best time of year. You know too well what a hot, humid day will do to your curls.

We have learned that careful styling and right kind of permanent does help to give this kind of hair body and curl. This extra fine hair is the only type we do not advise brushing. Brushing is good for this hair, but not for the hairstyle.

Very fine hair should be held in place at night with bobbies and covered with a net or veil when out in the wind, for once it is allowed to become completely disarranged it will not go back in place until it has been reset.

Junior Club Musicians Presented

Perform at Senior Tuesday Musicale Gathering

Tuesday Musicale's work in its Junior Clubs showed beautiful and satisfying results Tuesday afternoon at Grace Lutheran Church in the program presented by 11 boys and girls chosen by competition from the 160 members of the four Junior Clubs.

Following a business meeting conducted by president Mrs. Paul Kern, Mrs. Ralph Norvell, chairman of the day, introduced three members of the Matinee Musicale, the youngest age group. Joyce Livingstone and Clark Lefurgy were heard in piano solos and Penny Nicolls appeared in a piano duet with her sister Pam of the Student League.

Other members from the Student League (seventh and eighth graders) were Jerry Exline, Mary Jo Pauli and Jay Hall, pianists.

The oldest group, the Senior League (11th and 12th graders) presented a variety of performers; Burton Belant and Phyllis Smith, vocalists, and Judy Dickstein, pianist. Another, Donald Green, was to have been heard in a flute solo but was unable to appear.

All of these boys and girls were chosen by a committee of judges from the Tuesday Musicale and displayed a poise, self-assurance and musicianship which speaks well for their teachers, parents and the work of Tuesday Musicale which encourages and helps these youngsters in their serious study of music.

Especially honored were Pam and Penny Nicolls and Mrs. Howard Heldenbrand who received high ratings in the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs Junior Festival held recently in Detroit.

Mrs. Norvell also paid tribute to the counsellors who assist her—Mrs. J. J. Wyley, Mrs. D. V. White, Mrs. F. M. Hathaway, Mrs. W. S. Furlong, Mrs. H. C. Hall, Mrs T. E. Nelson, Mrs. R. D. Allen, Mrs. P. J. Saghy, Mrs. C. W. Buck and Mrs. C. C. Braid.

Mrs. Norvell explained the point system used in the various groups as an incentive to studying seriously and performing regularly before their classmates. She also showed the gold Victory statuettes which are awarded each year to the highest point-winner in each club.

Speaker for the day was Mrs. Ralph Curtis of Oxford, president of the Southeastern District of Music Clubs. She brought greetings and news from the state federation and explained the purposes and aims behind state junior club work.

The speaker concluded with "We feel that enjoyable and constructive music study during the early years of childhood will enrich the pattern for later appreciation of the fine arts".

She also reminded parents of the challenge to them in encouraging continuous music study and all club members of their duty to the young people of the community.

The tea tables, arranged by Mrs. Robert Tarr and Mrs. Ray Falk, were decorated by beautiful spring-like bouquets of jonquils, snapdragons, and hyacinths in artistic old English glass slippers, compotes and candlelabra.

3 Women Win Club Trophies

Mrs. Cleatis Batten, Mrs. Glendon Moon and Mrs. Otto Mertz won trophies recently at a meeting of the Fashionette Club in Pontiac High School.

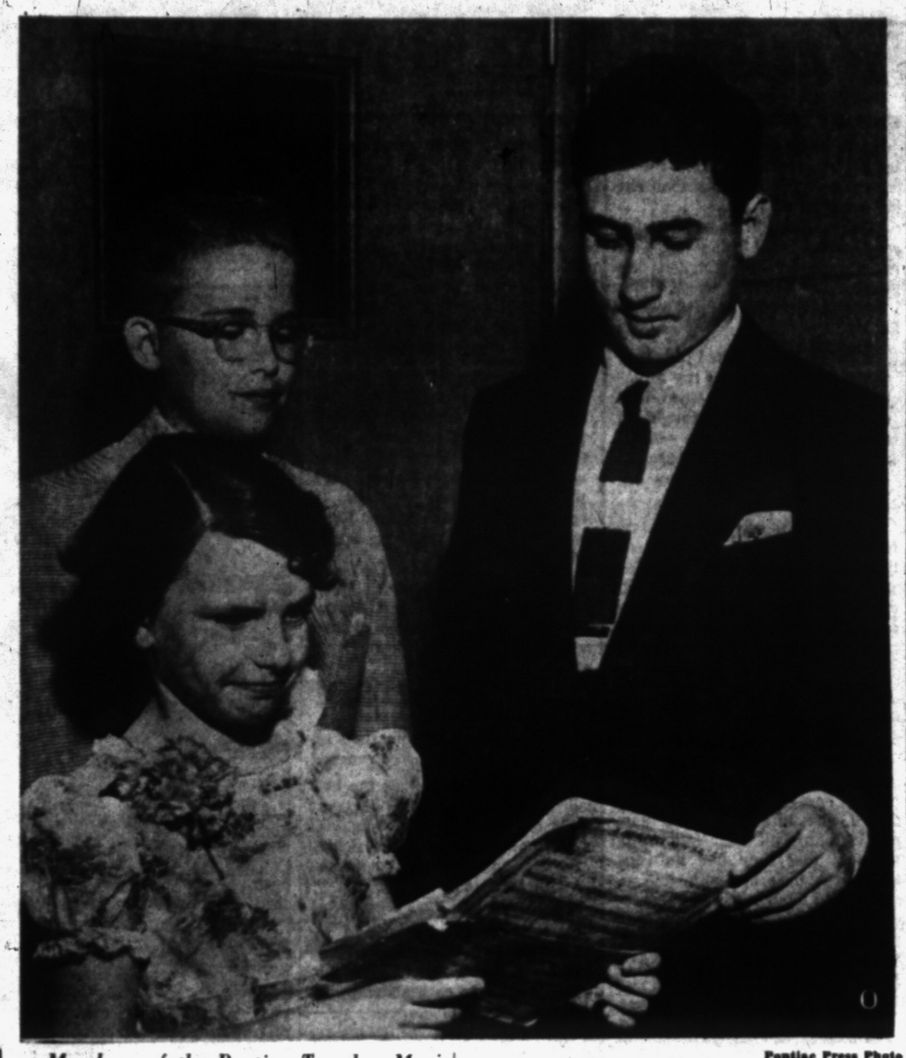

As well as winning the trophy for losing the most weight on her team, Mrs. Batten won the trophy for the week and also the one for losing the most weight of any member in the club.

Members gathered Tuesday evening in the gymnasium of the school. Their Easter project was contributing food for a basket which was presented to a needy family.

Left-Handed Book

If you're a southpaw, you often feel how ungraceful you are when thrust into situations designed for the righthanded.

Now, at least one kind bank has decided to allow you to be graceful — left-handed checkbooks.

Members of the Pontiac Tuesday Musicale were entertained Tuesday afternoon by members of the junior group. The gathering was held in Fellowship Hall of Grace Lutheran Church. Pictured checking the music for one of the selections was Clark Lefurgy of Colrain drive and Jay Hall of Navajo road (left to right) and Joyce Livingstone of Oneida road.

We Identify Many Words With Experiences

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

Dr. J. E. Schmidt of Charleston, Ind., a reader, has started me on a pastime more insidious than eating peanuts.

"I should like to know what you consider the most fascinating word or phrase in the English language," Dr. Schmidt wrote. "May I have your choice and the reason for it?"

When I first started thinking about this, I felt sure my affection for certain words was based on the picture each brought to mind. Thus amethyst, coral, opal, sapphire, emerald are all lovely words because they belong to lovely objects.

And smooth, creamy, rich, my favorite adjectives, go with delightful things to eat. Frosty, a nice crisp word, means to me delicately etched window panes of a country winter. Rain, April, autumn, moor are enchanting words because each reminds me of something I find pleasant.

But as I went farther, I found I don't always like names of beautiful objects. Diamond and ruby, for instance, are ugly words to me. Lark, mourning dove and nightingale are favorite words, but chickadee and thrush, just as worthy from a bird point of view roll not lovingly off my tongue.

I enjoy tranquil—yet jonquil moves me not a whit. Grape hyacinth—two wonderful weeded words—veronica, almond, willow please me. Yet rose, which names my favorite flower, isn't pleasant because, perhaps, I once know a woman named Rose who represents everything I dislike in a female.

Scabiosa, handsome bloom though it be, suggests a disease to me. Peony, for some strange reason, brings up blowsiness and don't ask me why.

I find pleasure in lizard but can scarcely bear to say serpent. Tender is a beautiful word, but so is churlish: I'm fond of lackadaisical, termagant, torture, tarantula, traitor, though all are unpleasant in definition.

I think I most hate the words filth, scraggy and bilious. Strident scratches on my ears no matter how softly pronounced.

Picking beautiful words is one of the oldest rocking-chair games in the world. Years ago everywhere I went we discussed and tried to improve upon Wilfred Funk's list of 10, including, as I remember, moon, mellow and mother.

Mr. Funk also told of the visiting Frenchman who said HIS favorite English phrase was "cellar door." I remember disagreeing with that—I once slid down one so violently I still have a scar in a strategic spot.

I love the word mother, but not mother-in-law. Incidentally, the French terms for in-laws are charming—belle mere, beau pere, belle soeur.

To answer Dr. Schmidt directly: Words, generally, fascinate me, even disliked words. And to me the most delightful phrasing in our whole language occurs in the soothing poetry of the 121st Psalm, first verse: "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help . . ."

Don't Map Child's Career

By ANNE HEYWOD

We hear a great deal about the young person who does not get sufficient career guidance in high school, and, in fact, a great many people blame all their failures on the fact that they had no vocational guidance in youth.

But, bad though it is to be underguided, it is far worse to be overguided. And this is a mistake made by many eager-beaver young mothers.

Here, for example, is what Mrs. K. says in her letter: "My son wants to enter the field of forestry, and be a forest ranger.

"Will you please tell us the best college for that subject, also any books on the subject, and an idea of the opportunities in the field?"

Sounds simple enough, doesn't it? But let's read further.

"He is 13 years old," she continues, "and is a freshman in high school. His marks are very good, in all subjects, but he doesn't seem to care about going to a regular college.

"All he does all day long is wander in the woods at the edge of town. He goes after school every day, and on holidays and summer vacations, we almost never see him, he is always out ranging around the woods.

"He takes a sandwich and a book with him, and doesn't come back till supper time. He's always been that way, since he was very young, and his sisters—he has three older sisters—hardly ever see him.

"So please let us know about the field of forestry."

My suggestion is that you forget the idea of forestry as a career. This young fellow is probably lonely, and outnumbered with sisters at home, and is using the forest roaming as an escape.

He may be very shy, as brilliant children frequently are, and the fact that he gets excellent marks in school with a minimum of studying, plus the fact that he always takes a book with him on his jaunts, would indicate that he is running away from something.

Have a talk with his high school teachers and guidance people, and perhaps with the family doctor. He may have difficulty adjusting to people.

But whatever you do, don't let him settle on forestry as a career.

As the twig is bent, the tree inclines—but the gravest mistake a mother can make is to bend the twig prematurely!

Sliced Fruit Tops Sugar, Batter Added

Mrs. Paul Gorman's Upside-Down Cake Made From Mix

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Tomorrow and Friday and Saturday you are going to meet your neighbor selling cake mixes in the corner grocery store. In the interest of the Pontiac Civic Auditorium these women are giving their time. All are members of the Pontiac Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Paul Gorman, president of the Federation, will be on hand to help sell and also to buy. She'll probably buy some white cake mix to make this version of Peach Upside-Down Cake.

Mrs. Gorman is active in many civic affairs. She is vice president of both the high school PTA and her child study club.

PEACH UPSIDE DOWN CAKE
By Mrs. Paul Gorman

1 box white or yellow cake mix
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup brown sugar
Sliced peaches

Prepare cake mix as directed on package. Melt the butter or margarine in square cake pan and spread over entire surface. Pack down the brown sugar on the butter evenly. Drain the peaches and place three rows of the well-drained fruit on the sugar. Pour cake batter over fruit. Bake at 350 degrees for about 35 minutes, or until tester stuck into cake comes out clean. Reverse at once on large platter. Serve hot or cold with whipped cream if desired.

Weigh Child's Demands Carefully

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

In a new book on child guidance, I find these words: "Never allow a child to bully you into granting a demand. It teaches him to force recognition by being unpleasant."

Do they shock you?

They should.

For this "expert" is telling us: "Your child's pleasant manner, not the justice of what he asks, determines your decisions. Forget whether he is entitled to what he demands. Consider only whether he presents his demands agreeably."

To follow such advice would make us utterly dependent on the moods of children. It would not only deprive us of our own integrity but increase any problem we might have with an angry child.

If Alice comes home from school to find her little sister has spilled her nail polish, she may become angry. Her anger may inspire her demand that we forbid further misuse of her property.

The fact that she may try to "bully" us into action on her demand has nothing whatever to do with us.

Our business is a just decision on her demand. If we deny her justice because her manner is unpleasant, we're going to be in trouble.

Unless we can dispense justice to her regardless of her attitude, we will have a chronically resentful child on our hands — or one who learns to use insincere, cajoling words to manipulate what she wants.

Because she does not trust it, she has to rally anger to "force our recognition." If she trusted our justice, she would ask for what she wanted with the "pleasantness" so desirable to the "expert."

Not trusting it, she has to use excited belligerence to club her point of view into our heads.

Under such circumstances, we do not concern ourselves with her "unpleasantness." Instead, realizing that it represents suspicion of our fairness, we take special care to dispense it to her.

Despite the "expert," we cannot afford to permit a child's "bullying" to dictate our treatment of her. We cannot make our loyalty to justice dependent on "pleasantness" or "unpleasantness."

We have to judge the rights and wrongs of Alice's demands on us whether she advances them gently or angrily.

We are supposed to be grown-up people, not 19th century ladies swooning off into irresponsibility at the sound of a raised and angry voice.

New Color for Kitchens

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

What happened to the stand-pat red and white kitchen? Or the green, yellow and white one, or the blue and white?

Today's kitchen colors are not at all typical of this one room as it used to be schemed, but are, instead, as varied as the colors for the rest of the house.

"Meet the wife" is not the way for a man to introduce the woman to whom he is married. Nor should he introduce her socially as "Mrs. Brown." Instead he introduces her to someone he knows well as "Mary" or to someone he knows only slightly as "my wife."

But no matter what he says in introducing his wife, there should be pride in his voice.

3. Cabinets stained pink with white counters, soft pink walls, deep blue pattern on white for the curtains, deep blue and white floor, deep blue chairs and a pink table.

Keep Pet Book Indexed

Do you like to look at pictures of animals of all kinds? How about keeping all of the animal pictures that you like?

Kathleen Jones of Rochester, N.Y., sent in this Winner of the Week idea. Have you sent yours in yet? A Try It book filled with new ideas goes to Kathleen for sharing this with us.

She tells us that we will need sheets of paper 8 by 11 inches. Fold these in half to make the book pages 5½ by 8. Paste on tabs with each animal on them. You can make these or use store tabs.

Keep your pages in order, but wait until you have quite a few pages before tying them together with a colorful shoe lace. You may want to make several books.

Fish, dogs, cats, and birds are just a few of the tabs to make. You will never get tired of looking at your animals.

After you have each book complete, you may want to put a heavy paper back on it. Letter "Pets" in large letters.

Miss Woodward Tells Girl She Should Not Write Boy She Met Only Briefly

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: A couple of months ago I met a boy from a town that is a couple of hundred miles from here. Would it be all right for me to write to him in care of the company where he works?

I have no other way of getting hold of him and I don't want it to look like I'm chasing him. My plan was to write and give him a phone number for him to call when he gets in town."

If you don't want to seem to be chasing him, then that letter is one you shouldn't write. Your impulse to get hold of him is chasing him, hard.

And tracking him down where he works might be very indiscreet. (Many companies have no regard for personal mail and open everything that comes in.)

Any sign from you over a distance of two hundred miles is an out-and-out plea for attention. It's a reminder that he didn't bother to find out when you first met how he could find you again should he ever come back to your town.

If he is really interested he'll track you down through the channels in which you first met. So keep yourself busy while you wait for him to do just that.

"Dear Miss Woodward: When the boy I love was home on leave I sat with him one night in the show. Near the end I started to talk to my girl friend.

He got angry and he and his two friends went and sat with some other girls. Should I still like him?

And should I write to him to find out if he is still angry because I didn't get to see him after the show?"

Missing him after the show was hardly your fault. He'd already left you and gone off with his other friends. He knew you were there and could have found you, had he wanted to.

So the fewer questions you ask him about that the better. If you've been writing to him all along, write him again. Just say you're sorry you didn't see more of him when he was home. And see what he says.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'm in love with a boy in an Army camp near my home. I've had two dates with him in the year I've known him. He doesn't know how much I like him.

I've called him several times, but he is very cool with me and I get the impression that he gets annoyed. There are long silences in our phone conversations.

Please tell me how I can get him to show more interest in me!"

Well, being the eager beaver is hardly the way to do it. You've been chasing him like mad with very little encouragement from him.

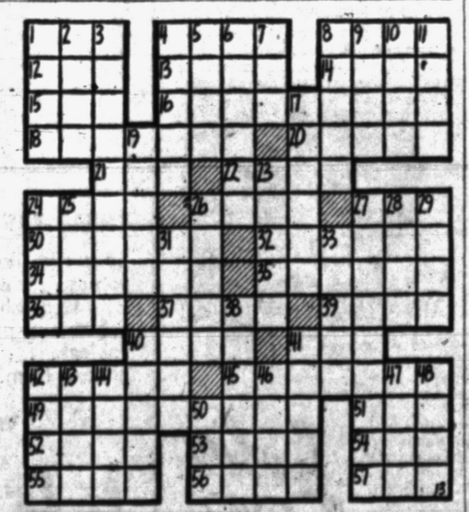

He hasn't yet let you catch him. Must you be hurt more before you're convinced that he doesn't want to be caught?

Vitamin A is said to have a definite relationship to ability to see at night.

Greta Garbo the Greatest

By MARGARET LATROBE

Garbo the elusive, the magnificent, is experiencing a comeback even though she is personally having no part of it. A book about her is currently in the stalls, and main street movie houses across the country are once more advertising several of her best films. (Your correspondent has just enjoyed a good cry over "Camille.")

Now I don't care whether or not Miss Garbo makes another movie, although if it were the right story with the right director—well, the Academy Awards wouldn't need judges for top honors for the finest performance among actresses. For my money, Garbo has more expression in a glance than all the current crop of screen ladies bundled in one tow-sack.

Nor is it of any moment what interviewers of old interviews have to say about her stint in the Stockholm barber shop, the famous quote about "vanting to be left alone," whether she might have married Jack Gilbert, and what the elegant star poured over her breakfast cereal. So she liked coffee on the Wheaties plus a dollop of jam? Who cares? Some people eat pickles with molasses.

But when the inevitable reference to Garbo's having big feet gains currency from apparently double-visioned observers — my typewriter trembles with outraged feminine vanity. She does NOT have big feet.

One of the startling charms of living in Manhattan is that one often finds celebrities as close neighbors — although their orbit bears not the faintest resemblance to yours. Garbo was for a time our neighbor. She walked along the same streets of an afternoon, browsing through antique shops and art galleries—or just walking.

I wasn't antiquing or marketing for art objects. I was marketing for a young gentleman in a baby carriage, who found it fun to be wheeled through city traffic, counting soot particles on his tiny fists and grinning toothlessly at kind policemen and anybody who grinned back at him, one of whom was always Garbo. 'Twas thus that I had occasion to observe the famous feet.

Why anyone would notice Greta Garbo's pedal extremities when they could look at her face must always mystify me. For hers is the strange and poignant beauty one sees once, and no more. The perfection of features, delicacy of coloring, the frail grace, and her voice which is somewhere between a Casals cello concerto and water gurgling over stones—indescribable! Please, just one more movie, Miss Garbo.

If you really care, the feet under discussion were usually wearing low heeled brogans which aways look two sizes larger than tricky sandals. Size six—and though not given to heavy gambling, I'll take bets on it.

It takes TCP to get the full power from High Octane Gasoline

Cars being made today are the most powerful ever built. And with this extra power you also get extra economy—more miles per gallon.

The reason for these benefits is that today's engines are high compression engines and make more complete use of the power available in today's higher octane gasolines.

But did you know that the kind of driving most people do most of the time —local driving—can, in a short time, create a condition that offsets the extra power and economy that these engines should get from high octane gasoline.

Why? Because this kind of driving increases the build-up of certain combustion chamber deposits—the root of most power and gasoline waste. And to overcome these deposits you need a gasoline with a special kind of additive.

What happens is this:

As your engine warms up, these deposits warm up, too—glow red hot. And these glowing particles act like hot coals —ignite the gasoline mixture ahead of time . . . before the pistons reach proper firing position. This is called pre-firing and means that power works against you instead of for you.

In addition, these same deposits have another power-wasting effect: They foul spark plugs, causing your engine to miss.

Engineers will tell you there's nothing more wasteful of power and gasoline than pre-firing and spark plug "miss."

But there is an answer—there's one high octane gasoline that gives you all the advantages of high octane without the power-crippling effects of these deposits—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP*.

TCP, the Shell-developed additive, fireproofs the deposits so that they no longer cause pre-firing. No longer can they glow red hot and ignite the gasoline mixture. And TCP stops spark plug "miss," too. Your spark plugs do the job they are supposed to do.

Start getting the full power built into your engine. Get Shell Premium with TCP. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

SHELL

Only Shell Premium Gasoline has both TCP and High Octane!

Pontiac Teachers Take Day to Study Curriculum

FLUIDITY IS IMPORTANT—The English department of the Pontiac high school held an afternoon session during the annual Curriculum Conference to discuss ways to encourage today's students to use better English. Keeping the English course on a fluid basis was important, agreed the new teachers and the older teachers of the department. Pictured at this session were, left to right, Constance Pokela, Pontiac High School teacher and winner of a recent Fullbright scholarship; Margaret Port, John Thors, high school principal, John Antisdale and George Fisler, all English instructors.

Education Is a Process, Not a Product

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

"Members of the education profession and those of the public who are looking for the magic word or the special gimmick which will solve education's problems will never find it. There is no royal road to learning—no set of specifics . . ."

Speaking on "Gearing Instruction to the Individual Child," Dr. G. Lester Anderson, dean of the school of administration, University of Buffalo, launched the annual Pontiac Curriculum Conference Tuesday morning in the high school auditorium.

Emphasizing that the very diversity of the individuals in this nation has made America strong, Dr. Anderson cautioned the teachers against trying to cast every Johnnie and Janie in the same mould.

"This country must have leaders. By the same token there must be followers. We must have extroverts and introverts, liberals and conservatives, athletes and esthetics, thinkers and doers. Diversity is a resource, not a handicap," he declared.

Dr. Anderson has served education for more than two decades in the role of the classroom teacher, high school principal, teacher training instructor and as an administrative professor.

He said there were two questions teachers should ask themselves:

"What is the task of education?

"What must be done to accomplish it?"

Answering these he stated that every teacher is obligated to transmit to the boys and girls of this country the social heritage of this nation.

"This is our debt to society. But we have another to the individual child. We must help him to develop to his optimum whether it be for a white-collared job or for driving a truck or a bus."

Dr. Anderson said that he believed that society could best be served by helping the individual and this must be done within a social framework of reference to the Judaic-Christian ethic which involves teaching moral and spiritual values.

He criticized the educational theory which says, "we must prepare the boy or girl for the first job."

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER—Lucy K. Hayden, teacher in the Pontiac high school English department, contributed to the session on the study of the role of the English teacher in the high school curriculum. Miss Hayden was notified this week that she had been granted a summer scholarship to the University of London to study art, literature and music for the 17th century period. She will leave Pontiac June 29 and return in time for the fall semester.

"Rather we should ask ourselves what kind of an education we can give today in 1955 which will prepare that boy or that girl for life in the year of 2000," he said.

Automation alone, that which we are reading so much of today in industrial development programs, will have changed the requirements for that first job by the time the student is ready for work, said Dr. Anderson.

Explaining that it was better to give each child general competences, including a good grounding in reading, writing and arithmetic, Dr. Anderson said that education was a process, not a product.

Reminding the teachers that other agencies including the home, the church and the community contributed to the total education of the student, Dr. Anderson said that the teacher's challenge was in "giving the best of themselves for the years they had to influence youth."

Besides the 3 R's, Dr. Anderson said the teacher was responsible for training in the ways of citizenship.

"School is a way of life while it is being experienced. The life young people live in schools determines what they are and what they will be except for the outside forces which may be more influential," he continued.

Stressing the teaching of proper attitudes, he said the answer for a good educational program was in good teaching.

He advised against grouping students according to intelligence quotients or abilities.

"You will find that even within these groups, abilities will range from seven to eight years. More successful teaching takes place when the variable increases rather than decreases," he declared.

Clues to good teaching practices, he said, could be found down in the third grade and even in the kindergarten. Class structures now practiced by a lot of young teachers, he said, are examples of good teaching.

He pointed out the importance of curriculum conferences such as Pontiac carries on each year. This, he said, was needed in order for education to re-evaluate its processes and find new and better ways of teaching.

"Teaching is a task for the professional teacher, not a job for a technician," he concluded.

Glenn Husted served as general chairman for this year's program with Gerald White, elementary coordinator, assisting.

The afternoon session with Mrs. Agnes Cox as chairman, was devoted to "Teaching the Art of Listening."

Charles N. Hill, director of the Howell Chamber of Commerce and former instructor at Michigan State College said that the media of communication was all-important in the education process.

"People can be trained to listen. Communication consists of listening, speaking, reading and writing and these must be integrated, not correlated," he said.

He warned the teachers assembled at the Whittier School session that if they were still "fighting the battle of the predicate nominative, they were lost."

There is a wider and greater approach to communication than in the most formal of English as it has been taught for years, he said.

Citing the kinds of listening, he said students should be taught that there is discriminative listening, critical and evaluative listening and appreciative listening.

Calling listening an active process and vital to education, he said the background which should be developed for effective listening included eight points:

1—Maintaining an awareness of one's own motives in listening.

2—Sharing with the speaker responsively.

3—Arranging favorable physical conditions for listening.

5—Structuralizing the presentation.

6—Striving to group the central ideas.

7—Exploiting fully the rate differential between speech and comprehension.

8—Seeking experience in listening to different expository material.

Mr. Hill said that the elementary years of the student are his greatest listening years. Research proves, he said, that in the junior high school years, listening drops and continues to drop through high school picking up a little during college.

EVERYONE COUNTS—Dr. G. Lester Anderson, on the high school auditorium platform, emphasizes the value derived by this nation from the diversity of its population.

Sextuplets Reported by Yugoslav Paper

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—The Zagreb weekly newspaper "Vjesnik U Srijedu" reported today that a 19-year-old woman gave birth to sextuplets in the tiny village of Todorovo, in the mountainous Yugoslav province of Bosnia.

The paper said all six of the babies—two girls and four boys—died, the boys upon delivery and the girls three days later. The mother was reported in a critical condition, suffering from loss of blood and exhaustion.

There was no official confirmation of the report.

The paper identified the woman as Hatidza Ibricic.

IT HAS BEEN PROVED—Mrs Agnes Cox, chairman of the afternoon session devoted to the study of the language arts, and Charles N. Hill, speaker on teaching the art of listening, confer prior to the program held in the Whittier School. Teaching the art of listening is vital to the total education process, claimed Hill who cited research figures which prove this statement.

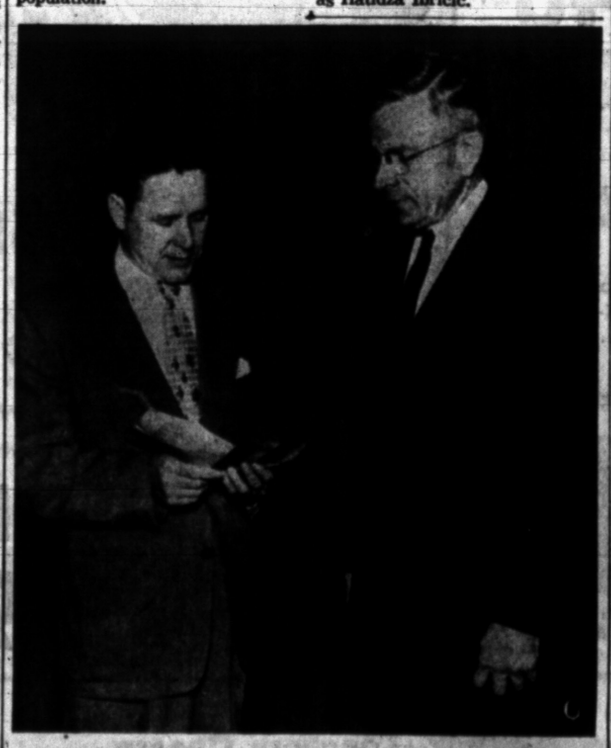

Parents Who Lost 4 Hail Polio Vaccine

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Leo Linnemanstons, of Milwaukee, who lost four of their eight children to polio during an eight-day period in 1952, heard the results of the Salk polio vaccine test announced yesterday and said, "If only . . ."

The couple was overjoyed by the Salk vaccine's triumph because two of their remaining children are young enough to be susceptible to polio. Linnemanstons said he plans to take the children to a doctor for vaccination as soon as supplies are available here.

The couple's four children, three girls and a boy, ranged in age from 4 to 16. They all died of bulbar type polio.

Linnemanstons said, "I was telling my wife it would really be wonderful if it really does work."

WELL DONE, DR. ANDERSON!—Headlining the opening session of the Curriculum Conference this year was Dr. G. Lester Anderson, dean of the school of administration at Buffalo University. A former classroom teacher and high school principal, Dr. Anderson has served as an instructor and coordinator in teacher training institutions. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, right, superintendent of Pontiac Schools, is shown congratulating Dr. Anderson on his address, "Gearing Instruction to the Individual Child." During the afternoon, Dr. Anderson served as resource person for several group discussions on curriculum held in the high school.

Hal Boyle Says:

Young Bedouin Symbol of Changing Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egypt is in transition, proud of its mighty past but anxious to cure its old poverty by turning to new ways.

Abraham Noman is as good a human symbol as any of the slow changes that are bringing fresh hope of better times for this ancient land.

Abraham is a 6-foot, 195-pound, 29-year-old Bedouin, whose fierce ancestors once roamed the desert.

Some Bedouins, a proud and independent people, still roam the desert and live in tents. Others have compromized with civilization and come to town to live. Abraham is a town Bedouin.

* * *

"My great grandfather was the last in our family to live in a tent," he said. "The desert Bedouins have no education. They are ignorant."

Abraham Noman's family has done pretty well, all things considered, since coming to town. Abraham himself is a servant in famous Mena House, an old-fashioned sprawling hotel near the pyramids at Giza.

Most of those whose needs Abraham tends are tourists, and many of them have been famous. They often laugh and make jokes when they first see Abraham. He does look odd to them in his small skullcap and long nightgown garb—like a figure out of the Arabian Nights.

* * *

Abraham patiently smiles through their laughter. He probably thinks tourists look odd, too, but he is too polite and gentle to show it. He likes tourists because he can learn from them.

"I had but nine years of schooling," he said, "and whenever I hear a new word I like to find out what it means.'

Abraham waited on a number of us who came here on a preview flight by Trans World Airlines of its new Super Constellation. He turned out to be about our best friend in Egypt. Sometimes you can learn as much about real life in a strange country from the guy who presses your pants as you can from one of its politicians.

All of us who jested among ourselves at Abraham on sight, came to admire him for his kindliness, his dependability in doing his duty, his intelligence, and his complete sense of personal dignity.

* * *

Abraham Noman doesn't know where his last name comes from, but thinks it probably was facetiously given to one of his ancestors a few generations back by a British officer. In any case, he now likes it.

Here is Abraham's self-portrait in his own words:

"My father and I lived the same. But my father lives better than his father did.

"There are nine of us in my family—my father and mother, my wife and myself, my one brother, our three children, and a servant. The servant is a boy of 12 who does the marketing. He is a poor boy without a family. We took him with us because he had no one to play with. We pay him a small amount each month.

* * *

"My father was a dragoman, an interpreter. I earn 120 pounds a year (about $344).

"But we have bought a house with nine rooms. My father and mother come first in my life. They will until my last day. Without them I would never know life.

"In some homes the man does first what his wife says, before his father and his mother. I think that is bad.

"Yes, I am happy living in Egypt. It is my luck to be a servant. I cannot turn it back. I do not get angry working for others. When I feel sorry, I pray to the gods.

"But I want my children to be better than me.

"My children are all right. They are good. I hope they go to school for a long time and grow up to be judges or army officers. I would prefer them to be officers—but only if there are no more wars."

Abraham Noman said he thought life in Egypt was getting better for people in his position. When I asked him if he had a grudge against this world, he spread his big palms wide, smiled, and said:

"I am content in myself. What now may I do for you?"

Woman Fined for Hiding Body

Dragged Man's Corpse for 7 Miles Behind Car and Tossed It in Lake

NORWICH, Conn. (AP)—A Superior Court judge has fined a woman who dragged the body of a man over seven miles of road on the end of her car and threw it into a lake.

Mrs. Annie Sadd, 50, of Willimantic, said she did it in a state of panic after the man dropped dead in her summer home Feb. 17.

* * *

Judge Samuel J. Mellitz fined her $1,000 and imposed a three-month suspended sentence yesterday. She pleaded guilty to charges of failure to notify the medical examiner of a sudden death, and unlawful removal of a dead body.

Mrs. Sadd told the court Harry Strosberg, 59-year-old building contractor whom she backed in several business transactions, died of a heart attack in her East Lyme summer home.

She panicked when she saw him dead, she said, and dragged the body out of the house. She tied it to the rear bumper of her car and towed it over seven miles of lonely roads to a small lake.

* * *

The body was found the next day at the end of a bloody trail that led to the lake.

Mrs. Sadd's lawyer said she was "a very highly respected citizen of Willimantic" and that she disposed of the body "because she had become panic stricken."

Bonanzagram No. 6

The bank robber had gotten away with a large haul, ducking in during the Friday midday rush and leaving unnoticed with a bag of bills — $10,000 worth. Detective Conn spotted it for an inside job but the suspected cashier had been occupied in the vault at the time, and had given the alarm when on returning he discovered that his cash drawer had been rifled. Investigation gave him a completely clear record. The break came ten day's later when the bank president's secretary, coming back from lunch, found a note rolled in her typewriter. It was the expected tip-off from an inside informer, but was written by a novice at typing who had failed to strike certain keys. However, Detective Conn managed to figure out the meaning and cracked the case. Can you, too, decipher the message?

How To Play 'Bonanzagram'

Solve the "Bonanzagram" by filling in all the missing letters, as indicated by the underscores, in the message. Insert only one letter above each underscore. Many clues to the missing letters are hidden in the story, or anecdote, accompanying the message. Clues may also be found in the message itself, and, in a few cases, the contestant's general knowledge should provide the correct letter. The contestant will note that the message is unpunctuated. Punctuation as well as words must be correct for a winning solution.

When properly filled in, the "Bonanzagram" will spell out a clear message that will conform in every way with the clues. In many cases it will seem that more than one word would be the correct one. That's part of the fun! You should weigh the clues and select the BEST possible word in each case.

How to Submit Entries

1. After solution is completed, "Bonanzagram" should be clipped and pasted to a two-cent postcard with your name and address.

2. Entries will be received at the Pontiac Press office, 48 W. Huron St., until 5 p. m. Tuesday, April 19. Mail entries must be postmarked before midnight Tuesday, April 19 for Bonanzagram No. 6. Address "Bonanzagram, % Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

3. Entries may be mailed in envelope but contestant's full name and number of puzzle must be printed in upper left corner of address side of envelope.

Facsimiles made by hand and corresponding as closely as possible to the original "Bonanzagram" printed in the Press will be accepted but are limited one to a family. Mimeograph, duplicator or other unofficial mechanical reproduction is forbidden.

How to Collect the Prize

The entrant must work out and keep duplicate solution as a claim check. When the solution is published in the Press, he should compare his "claim check" with the published solution, and, if his claim check is identical, he should call in person with his claim check at the Press office, 48 W. Huron St., before 5 p. m. on the Monday following publication of the solution.

If a winner cannot call at the Press office in person, he should mail his solution to "Bonanzagram Editor." Postmark on this letter must be not later than 5 p. m. the Monday after publication of the answer. Correct answers are void unless the contestant reports his claim by the deadlines listed here.

4. Only one winning entry from a family will be eligible for the prize, but there is no limit on number of entries.

5. The Press retains the right to correct typographical errors.

Statesman Topic of Book

Secretary, Guard Betray Private Life of Churchill

NEW YORK (AP)—You've never seen a better picture of Sir Winston Churchill than the one just drawn by a visiting English couple:

Roly-poly statesman, a huffer, puffer and snuffer, weeping and then chuckling in private as he composes a speech stomping through a manorial hall without his teeth, working his aides and secretaries to a frazzle, hating whistling, hating cigarettes, hanging onto the end of a cross-cut saw, blasting at a bodyguard and being blasted back, loyal to his staff and inspiring in them a loyalty which never slackens one iota.

It's the bodyguard who in a book, "Assignment: Churchill" (Farrar, Straus & Young) provides most of this sharp, intimate and vastly revealing picture. He is Walter Henry Thompson, Scotland Yard inspector who has served at Churchill's elbow for 20 of the last 30 years.

But it's one of the secretaries, Thompson's wife, with Sir Winston for several years as World War II was developing, who in the course of an interview adds some colorful details. They have been here while the inspector made a coast-to-coast lecture tour.

It was in this country, too, according to Thompson, a spare, inspector-like looking fellow with a stern glance but a pleasant manner, that Sir Winston had his narrowest escape from an assassination attempt. It was in Chicago, in 1931. As Secretary for Colonies, he had aroused implacable Indian ire, and it was an Indian whom Thompson intercepted after a Churchill lecture. Thompson spotted him, drew his gun and captured him. He says the man had an accomplice, that he was dangerously near, and that he meant business.

Now retired, in his mid-sixties but looking a smart 45, Thompson has seen the Prime Minister through some tight spots. He has slugged it out with a mob yelling for Churchill blood in Egypt. He has slugged it out with friendly but no less threatening demonstrations at London elections. He has been riding with the Prime Minister when a buzz-bomb nearly turned their speeding car topsy-turvy in war-time Britain's capital.

Churchill thrives on risk, Thompson says—he calls him Winston, Winnie, Father or Old Man. The wartime leader and author sleeps with a pistol handy, and is a goot shot. But after one close shave he reminded Thompson:

"There is Someone besides you looking after me. I have a mission to perform."

There was a lighter side, though, and Mrs. Thompson suggested: "Tell about his striptease."

It seems Sir Winston always napped at five in the afternoon, Thompson explained: "He would walk along one side of his bedroom, around the bed, then get in. In the course of the walk he undressed, dropping his clothes wherever he took them off. By the time I'd walked after him picking them up, and drawn the curtain, he was sound asleep."

Then there was the day he cut down a tree at Chartwell: "He hated to lose a tree, and he was sad. The gardener brought us a cross-cut saw. Winston got on one end and I on the other. He had no more idea how to use a cross-cut! Fast; he'd go, too fast. So very soon he told the gardener to take his end. The gardener was fresh, and before long I was tired. I looked at Winston, leaning against another tree, watching us, smoking a cigar, so satisfied, and I thought, well!

"Here, you take it,' I said to him.

"He waved me a no. Puffing on that cigar, he said, 'You keep right on Thompson, you're doing fine.'"

Mrs. Thompson remembered how economical he was with words. He'd interrupt his dictation and cry, "Gimme!" which meant she had to tear the sheet out of the typewriter and show it to him. Or he'd stick out his hand and order "Klop!" She had to ask him what that meant: it was his word for punch.

Water, Sewage Studied by U. S.

Public Facilities Ought to Be Increased 60 Pct. in Next 10 Years

WASHINGTON (UP) — Public water and sewerage facilities must be increased by 60 per cent in the next 10 years to meet the demands of the country's growing population, according to the Associated General Contractors of America.

In the March issue of its official magazine, the association cited preliminary results of a survey by four government agencies to confirm the need for such an increase.

The survey showed the necessity of an estimated $25,000,000,000 outlay to expand the facilities and eliminate present shortages over the next 10 years.

The 1954 value of the systems was estimated at $42,000,000,000—$23,000,000,000 for water supply and $19,000,000,000 for sewerage.

A $25,000,000,000 increase would represent a 33 per cent hike over the $9,000,000,000 in five years which President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers has estimated as necessary to bring the nation's facilities up to present needs, it said.

The survey was conducted by the Commerce Department's Water and Sewerage Industry and Utilities Division, the Census Bureau, the Public Health Service and the Geological Survey.

Results of the study are expected to be published soon in a service bulletin of the Commerce Department's Business and Defense Services Administration.

Of the $25,000,000,000 total, the survey recommended slightly over $10,700,000,000 for water supply needs and about $14,600,000,000 for sewerage facilities.

The study found that 1,400 water systems were inadequate today, the AGC pointed out.

A 1952 survey by the Munitions Board showed nearly 1,000 systems to be deficient and a 1953 Geological Survey study put the number at 1,300.

Not Enough Room!

Only One Fault With Opener at Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—No one in this newest American League city could think of a way to improve on Kansas City's Opening Day 6-2 shellacking of the Detroit Tigers but the Athletics are going to try in a re-opener today.

There was only one thing wrong with yesterday's inaugural from the time former President Harry Truman southpawed out the first ball until old Ewell Blackwell made Red Wilson bloop a double play ball at ageless Pete Suder.

There wasn't enough room to let all the eager Kansas Citians see the game.

* * *

Besides the ambidextrous Truman, the Athletics plan to pitch Arnold Portocarrero, a fireball righthander whose post game comment yesterday was:

"We didn't come to Kansas City from Philadelphia to lose."

Arrayed against him for the Tigers will be Steve Gromek whose record last year was 18 victories against 16 losses to Portocarrero's 9-18.

It is doubtful today's retake will draw the sellout 32,844 that watched the opener but no one would give big odds on it. Not after the way this baseball crazy town took to their rejuvenated Athletics yesterday.

One baseball game doesn't make a summer. And one victory won't put the A's in the first division. But anyone who saw the A's during and after their auspicious start knows they have a new spirit if not new talents.

An astute student of the game, Manager Bucky Harris of the Tigers, is one who thinks the A's may be a lot more efficient than many think.

6th Frame KC A's Rally Spoils Tigers' Opener

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Last in the grapefruit league, last in the American League—how long can it last?

That's what the Detroit Tigers were wondering today, and you could hardly blame them.

The Tigers, who failed to win any prizes during the training season, flopped in their opening game of the regular season yesterday, losing 6-2 to the aroused Kansas City A's.

A capacity crowd of 32,147 — including former president Harry S. Truman — whooped it up as the A's made a triumphant start in the American League.

The loss dropped the Tigers into last place, where they were accompanied by the Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles, both of whom have .000 marks in the young season.

For five innings, it was anybody's game yesterday, with the large, noisy crowd rooting for a home team rally. It came in the 6th inning.

The A's shelled Ned Garver, Detroit's starter, for three runs to break up a 2-2 tie and take a firm lead.

And it was Garver's control—of all things—which led to his downfall.

The veteran righthander, who usually is razor sharp with his control, forced the lead run across the plate when he walked Elmer Valo with the bases loaded. The A's had filled the bags on a double by Bill Renna, a walk to Bill Wilson and an intentional pass to Joe Astroth.

* * *

After Garver—very unintentionally—walked Valo, he was touched for a two-run single by Don Bollweg, and that was the ball game.

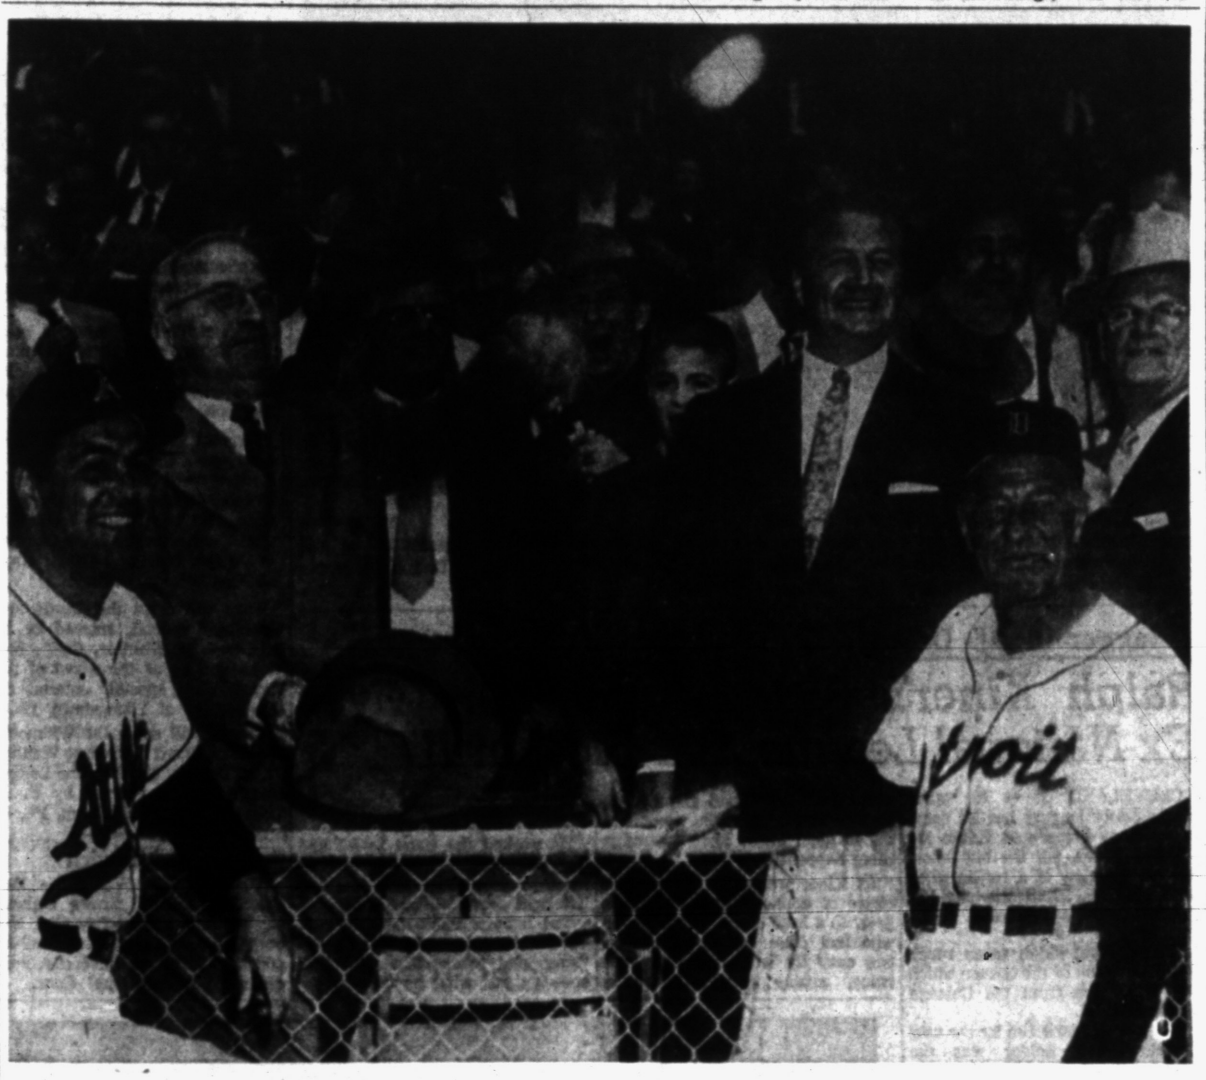

The Tigers had erased a 2-0 deficit by scoring single runs in the 4th and 5th innings. A walk to Ray Boone, a double by J. W. Porter and a long fly by Bill Tuttle—who was robbed of an extra base hit by Renna—accounted for the 1st tally. The 2nd came across when catcher Red Wilson led off the 5th with a home run over the left field fence.

Alex Kellner, who worked the first six innings, was the winning pitcher. Ewell Blackwell, the elongated righthander who the Yankees thought was washed up, pitched the final three innings and blanked the Tigers with two hits in the last three frames.

The Tigers will get a chance to square things with the A's, and possibly climb out of last place.

Steve Gromek, an 18-game winner (plus a 16-game loser) last year, was named to pitch for Detroit. He was to be opposed by Arnold Portocarrero, the young man with the tongue-twisting name and quick-twisting fast ball.

Pontiac 9 Wins Opener After 2 Extra Frames

Stubborn Cranes Knot Count in 7th, 3-3, but Chiefs Win in 9th

They had to do it the hard way, but Pontiac High School's baseball team came through in the 9th inning Tuesday to take its 1st victory of 1955 by a 4-3 count. Losers were Cranbrook School's Cranes who outhit Ed Heikkinen's club 11 to 5, but failed in the clutch.

Chiefs went two extra innings before wrapping up the victory.

After grabbing a 3-0 edge on two runs in the 1st frame and another in the 3rd inning, Chiefs went hitless and runless up to the final session.

* * *

Fred Campbell's Cranes garnered a single tally in the 5th on an error and two singles, then squared the count in the 7th, at regulation time. Three singles and a walk were parlayed for the two runs. Prendergast, who scored Cranes' 1st run, and Pete Dawkins made the circuit to send the game into extra frames.

A walk and three singles accounted for PHS' 1st runs. Dan Daniel, Bob Murphy and Ted Wharry singled. Walt Poe drew a pass after Dick Slade had scored and the bases were loaded. The walk sent Daniel home.

* * *

Al Hayward got the 3rd run, in the 3rd frame. He scored from 2nd base when Cranes' 2nd baseball bobbled Poe's sharp roller.

Slade brought in the winning counter. He beat a roller to 3rd base, went to 2nd on Daniel's sacrifice and strolled home when Crane's pitcher fired a pickup of Poe's grounder over the 1st baseman's head.

Pontiac plays its 2nd game at Waterford's field today at 4 p.m. against the Skippers. Bob Johnston, who was relieved in the 7th yesterday by Larson, probably will start again.

Rookie Hopes Homer Will Keep Him on Brave Roster

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Chuck Tanner, the rookie who made his major league debut by clobbering the first ball pitched to him for a home run, hoped today his contribution to Milwaukee's 4-2, Opening Day victory over Cincinnati will keep him on the team when the squad is cut May 12.

The 25-year old Tanner, up from Atlanta in the Southern Assn. where he hit .323 and played the outfield last year, said "and to think I was ready to give it up all last spring. It happened after the Braves sold me outright to the Atlanta club after using up all my options.

* * *

"It's hard to realize I've finally made it, not only the majors but getting a homer on my first try—and the first pitch too. I was more nervous after it happened. Believe me, I was flying on the clouds when I circled the bases. I don't remember touching any of them."

Braves Manager Charlie Grimm said in the clubhouse, "There's a good chance Chuck will stay come cut-off time. We've liked him all spring. He's got a fine, level swing and should be a good hitter."

After his shower Tanner put in a long distance telephone call to his wife at New Castle, Pa., and told her and his two young sons, "Looks like I've finally made it honey, and after nine years too."

* * *

Tanner's blast came in the eighth inning before 43,640 fans, and they agreed to the man there was never a better time for it.

Cincinnati had edged ahead 2-1 in the top of the inning. Tanner was called in to hit for Warren Spahn and the left-handed rookie socked the first pitch by Gerry Staley into the right field stands to tie the score.

* * *

Billy Bruton swung on Staley's next pitch for a single. Henry Aaron, the "Who-Me" kid, pounded a triple to the center field fence scoring Bruton with the winning run. Ed Mathews drew a walk off reliefer Jackie Collum, and Thomson, "the Flying Scot," sent Aaron home with the insurance run on a long sacrifice fly.

Thomson came down with a sore shoulder two weeks ago that looked like it might keep him on the sidelines for Opening Day. He got two-for-three, drove in two runs yesterday, and also was credited with the sacrifice fly.

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—The 3,015 total held jointly by two teams at the top of the American Bowling Congress tournament team standings is looming larger and larger.

Although veteran ABC officials predicted it would never hold up it has stood quite an assault. Cole Finder Mercury of Chicago and Howards Clothes of St. Paul, Minn., are the co-leaders.

The defending champions Hamm's Beer of Chicago didn't come close to that figure last night as they managed to hit just a 2,907, far out of the running. Two Bowling Hall of Famers lived up to expectation as Joe Wilman fired a 631 and Joe Norris a 628 but the other three shooters were all under 575.

Many of the top teams have tried to catch the leaders, with Steve Nagy's team falling three pins short of taking the lead Monday night another of bowling's big teams, Chicago Falstaff, rolls tonight. It boasts two top stars in Buddy Bomar and Ned Day.

Although the team standings and doubles remained unchanged yesterday, the singles and all events both underwent a shuffling of places. Dan Stoltz, a telephone company engineer of Valparaiso, Ind., furnished the day's top performance.

Stoltz, bowling with a team from Hammond, Ind., zoomed into 3rd place in the singles with a blazing 702. He wound up with an 1,897 total in the all events for 6th place in his 2nd ABC tournament.

Joe Bolek, of Cleveland, missed the all events lead by a mere seven pins as he finished with a 1,931 total, food for 2nd place.

Eddie Gerzine of Milwaukee still leads with 1,938. Another all events change saw Chuck O'Donnell, member of Nagy's team of St. Louis go into 5th with a 1,913 total.

Gerzine also holds the singles lead with a 738 total while a Niles, Mich., tandem, George Lutzen and Bill Hilligoss, hold the doubles with 1,290. The booster lead is held by the Fighting Irish of Dayton, Ohio, with a 2,795.

There were no changes in the top 10 in team standings last night.

Lepcio First to Clout Pair

Bosox Hit Only Two Homers in Oriole Park All Last Season

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ted Lepcio of the Boston Red Sox says "I was swinging at everything I could see" in explaining how he became the first man to hit two home runs in a single game at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

Lepcio's two drives accounted for three runs yesterday as the Sox opened their American League campaign with a 7-1 victory over the Orioles.

"They were feeding me curve balls," Lepcio added, "and I guess they got them inside a little too much. But both were strikes."

The homers cleared the wall with plenty to spare at the 309 foot mark. Only two Boston home runs were hit here all last season—one by the missing Ted Williams and White.

Robinson Eyes 'Middle' Crown

Says He'll Claim Old Title Back if Olson Beats Maxim, Moore

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, who meets Ted Olla of Milwaukee here Thursday night in his fourth comeback bout, says he will reclaim the middleweight title he once held if champion Bobo Olson vacates it.

"Olson obviously is interested in the light heavyweight title," Robinson said. "He meets Joey Maxim tonight and if he wins he'll fight Archie Moore for the title. If he beats Moore, Olson will surrender his middleweight crown.

"In that case I will reclaim the title because I retired as the unbeaten champ. I am confident I can get by Olla. I have first claim to the title because I never gave it up. If I had beaten Maxim for the light heavy title I would have relinquished my middleweight crown."

Boxing promoter Dr. Jack Gules said he has offered Rock Castellani, rated as a logical contender, a bout with Robinson here in July if Sugar Ray beats Olla in their 10-rounder.

Fondy Having Great Start for Chicubs

CHICAGO (AP)—Unless they can put a damper on Dee Fondy's torrid hitting in a hurry, National League pitchers will have to come up with a new "book" on the Chicago Cubs' first baseman.

In the two games the Cubs have played this season, Fondy has cracked out five hits in nine at bats and driven in seven runs.

Hopeful Eliot Begins Illini Football Practice

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Spring football drills begin at Illinois Wednesday and Coach Ray Eliot is hoping to find enough talent to better last year's record of one victory and eight losses, the worst in Illinois grid history.

Eliot's biggest problem is to find replacements for six regular linemen. His biggest question mark is running star J. C. Caroline.

Ring Futures at Stake

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The boxing futures of Carl (Bobo) Olson and Joey Maxim are at stake tonight in their scheduled 10-round bout before a near-capacity Cow Palace crowd and a national television audience.

Olson's world middleweight championship is not on the block, but the star of Sid Flahertys' stable is anxious to whip Maxim decisively and put himself into a position to challenge Archie Moore for the light-heavyweight title.

The situation is even more critical for the 33-year-old Maxim. A loss to the smaller Olson, and the former light-heavyweight champion would probably be shunted to the sidelines as far as any future big money matches are concerned.

* * *

The word from Jack (Doc) Kearns, Maxim's manager, was that his tiger was in "the best shape of his life" this morning.

"We'll have no excuses," said Kearns. "He's ready to go and I think he can win. If he does we'll keep on going, probably in the heavyweights because there's more variety and more money there. If he doesn't . . ."

The body-punching Olson, sharp as he has ever been, according to observers here, has expressed more pre-fight confidence than for any previous match. He has made no secret of the fact he wants to meet Moore for the light-heavyweight crown and admits, without much urging, that he would enjoy a crack at Rocky Marciano's heavyweight championship in the near future.

* * *

The chances of tonight's bout ending in a knockout are considered remote. Both fighters are excellent boxers, but neither is noted for a kayo punch. Maxim has announced he plans to keep Olson at a distance with a left jab, but the middleweight champion has said flatly he'll out-box the bigger Maxim and pile up his usual body-punching points.

A crowd of 13,000 is expected, with the gross gate almost certain to reach $130,000 and perhaps higher, according to promoter Bennie Ford. There was nothing left at the box-office this morning except seats ranging downward from $7.50. Ringsides at $15 were long gone.

* * *

The fight will go on national television at 7 p.m., Pacific Standard Time, over CBS.

The weigh-in was scheduled for 10 a.m. (PST), with Maxim expected to hit 175 pounds on the head and Olson likely to come in at a shade under 170.

Orioles Sell Batts to Indianapolis Nine

BALTIMORE (AP) — Catcher Matt Batts of the Baltimore Orioles has been sold outright to Indianapolis of the American Assn., General Manager Paul Richards has announced.

Batts, 32, came to Baltimore last winter from the Chicago White Sox in a seven player trade. The amount the Orioles received for him in the sale announced yesterday was not disclosed, but was believed to be in the neighborhood of $10,000.

No Change in Tourney

JACKSON (AP)—For the 1st time since it started 10 weeks ago, the Women's State Bowling Tournament over the weekend failed to produce a single change among the leaders. Irene Southworth of Lansing rolled 511-123—634 in the handicap singles but failed to make the leaders' board.

Odd Play in Cubs' Game Brings Rule Clarification

CHICAGO (AP) — A strange play which occurred in the third inning of yesterday's game in which the Chicago Cubs beat the St. Louis Cardinals 14-4 will bring a bulletin of clarification from National League President Warren Giles.

* * *

Rookie Gale Wade of the Cubs grounded to Stan Musial at first who flipped the ball to pitcher Tony Jacobs covering the bag.

Jacobs dropped the ball then picked it up and started towards the mound. Wade, meanwhile, looked as if he were returning to first base but apparently thought he was out and started for the dugout. Jacobs tossed back to Musial who tagged Wade out.

* * *

"I should have stopped him," said first base Cub coach Bob Scheffing. "But I never for a moment thought the guy would keep on going past the bag."

* * *

* * *

Giles said he'll send out a special bulletin to umpires, managers and scorers to clarify the play which is not covered in official league rules.

Dietz Likes New Post at Indianwood

Returns as Pro at Club Where He Won State Title in '52

Mike Dietz, one of Oakland County's golfing newcomers, likes his pro job at Indianwood Country Club very much. He succeeded the veteran Bob Waara, who now is a course owner himself.

"I've always liked this place," says Mike, "Remember, I won the Michigan Open championship over this fine course, and I've always liked to play it."

Mike his wife Helen, and on weekends, his brother Jack, will operate the club's pro shop. The course opens formally, on Friday, and, in Dietz' words, "it's in grand shape." Mike, 36, only recently came off the pro winter circuit after two years of play as a touring pro. He returned to Michigan after the Baton Rouge, La. tourney, and to Indianwood very shortly thereafter.

Dressen's Revamping of Senators Even Includes Switching of Long-Time Roommates, Cubans Split

NEW YORK (AP)—Chuck Dressen, the reformed letter writer, is back in town, perched atop the American League with his Washington Senators in a first place tie.

As the Senators may not be enjoying such a lofty status the next time around, Dressen is taking advantage of the situation. Chuck has made changes at Washington, some of which may not be apparent to the naked eye.

* * *

For instance, he has been breaking up "roomie" assignments of long standing. Old friends no longer will be able to pal together. The new rule is that a veteran should room with a rookie. Coach Joe Fitzgerald, who used to room with Eddie Yost, now bunks with Ernie Oravetz, the 5-5 rookie outfielder. Bobus Boy Harmon Killebrew has been assigned to Coach Cookie Lavagetto.

* * *

"I want the boys to learn as much baseball as they can, both on the field and off the field," said Dressen. "As often as possible, pitchers will room with catchers so they can discuss their problems after the game is over."

* * *

Among other things, Dressen plans to do away with the practice of Cuban players rooming with other Cubans. He wants all of them to learn English, instead of talking Spanish all summer.

"I can't send over to the United Nations for an interpreter everytime I want to give a sign," he said. "I want the Cubans to learn English good enough to get the signs and talk some baseball. They don't seem to have any trouble, picking up enough English to order their meals."

Dressen made the final decision on his "Learn English" campaign during Monday's opening game with Baltimore. Pinch Runner Pedro Ramos, a Cuban, was on third base and another runner was on second with one out. As Pitcher Bob Porterfield was the batter, Dressen wanted to use the squeeze play. After a hurried consultation with Ramos, he wasn't sure he had made himself clear. So he called in Pinch Runner Bob Oldis to run for pinch runner Ramos. After all the conferences, he decided the squeeze had lost its surprise value so he let Porterfield hit away and got a run on a sacrifice fly.

* * *

"Everybody on this club is going to have to carry his share of the load," said Dressen. "I don't want any cheerleaders on the bench. I want to be able to call on everybody on the roster. We've got some pretty good bench men, like Jesse Levah and Oravetz to send up in the pinch."

Washington may wind up in the second division, as usual, but nobody is going to have a free ride under Dressen. With a manager who loves to juggle his lineup with pinch runners and pinch hitters, everybody will have to pull his share of the load—or else.

Canadiens Crush Wings, Send Playoffs to Limit

MONTREAL (AP)—The Stanley Cup series came full cycle again today, with Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings headed for Detroit and the deciding game of the world's hockey classic.

From somewhere last night, Canadiens called on hidden reserve that bowled over the series-favorite Red Wings with a surprising 6-3 trouncing. It was no fluke victory. Coach Jimmy Skinner of the Red Wings said a bit grimly: "We were beaten; we played lousy hockey."

So the cycle comes around again. Just a year ago the same teams tied then as now at three games each, traveled to Detroit for the seventh game. Wings won in overtime 2-1. The only difference this year is that each team has won all its games on home ice. Last year each won twice on foreign ice.

Coming from behind twice in this series, Canadiens go into Thursday's game at Detroit with buoyed confidence, content to let the Red Wings do the worrying.

But to stop the Red Wings on Detroit ice will take more than renewed confidence. The Detroiters haven't been beaten at home this season since Dec. 19. They don't intend to start when it means a difference of $500 to each player.

Since Dec. 19, when Canadiens subdued them 5-0, the Red Wings won 13 National Hockey League games at home and tied five. In the Cup semi-final and final they beat Toronto Maple Leafs twice and Canadiens three times.

Canadiens will look to Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion to keep up his scoring pace. The Boomer bagged two of his team's goals last night and ran his total for semi-final and final to eight, putting him in a tie for the playoffs with big Gordie Howe of Detroit.

Geoffrion had lots of help in the Montreal uprising. Jean Beliveau, Jackie LeClair, Floyd Curry and Calum (Baldy) MacKay boosted the Montreal total.

Curry has been the surprise package of Canadiens in the playoffs. The hard-working rightwinger, who took over the spot left vacant by the suspended Maurice (Rocket) Richard, has counted seven goals in all.

It was a game to Canadiens' liking last night. They played it wide open most of the way and handed out bump for bump. They rang up two goals while Detroit was shorthanded and gave up one when they themselves were undermanned.

There wasn't the sustained, blistering speed that marked last Saturday's game when Canadiens won 5-3, but the action seldom flagged. At the same time the Red Wings definitely weren't up to the form, in spirit and dash, they showed even in losing Saturday. They played with less assurance when the Montreal attack was at its best.

When Beliveau put Montreal ahead at 7:30 of the opening period it could have been either a good or bad omen. Twice before in the series Canadiens have scored first only to lose the game.

Delvecchio raced in fast to score on Vic Stasiuk's rebound at 13:16 to pull Detroit into a tie for the only time in the game.

Canadiens jumped in with lots of drive when the wings went shorthanded early in the second period. LecLair tipped in Geoffrion's passout at 3:45 and Geoffrion lifted in a backhander at 5:21.

Wings closed the gap at 15:54 when Ted Lindsay's goalmouth pass skidded into the net off the skate of Delvecchio.

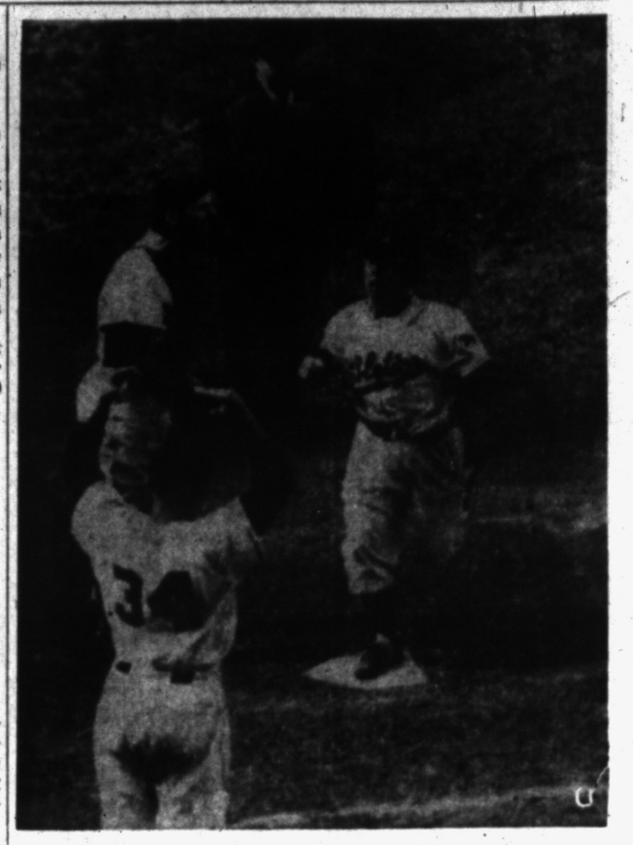

Geoffrion's second goal—the puck going in off his leg when Beliveau shot—sent the whole Detroit team surging up to referee Red Storey to protest. Sawchuk joined his protesting mates and was given a misconduct penalty.

TRY THAT FAILED—Dickie Moore of the Montreal Canadiens tries to put the puck past Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk in the 6th game of the Stanley Cup playoffs at Montreal Tuesday night. Montreal won, 6-3, to tie the series at 3 games apiece and force a 7th and deciding game at Detroit's Olympia Thursday.

4-Bagger in AL Debut

Ralph Kiner's 352nd Home Run Gives Ex-National League Star Big Thrill

CLEVELAND (AP) — No other active major leaguer has hit nearly as many homers as Ralph McPherran Kiner, but the big fellow felt all the glow of a rookie when he belted his 352nd into the left field seats here yesterday.

* * *

But in that home run by the new Cleveland left fielder was the major bit of drama which the record Opening Day throng of 50,230 fans will remember.

* * *

After nine years in the National League — seven as a Pittsburgh Pirate setting the home run pace for the senior loop — Kiner was making his start as an American Leaguer. Some start, too, with a salary of about $50,000 making him the top money man on the pennant-winning Tribe.

"Maybe, I was too anxious, because I was all tightened up out there," Kiner said afterward. "In fact, I really was scared. Everything seemed new and different, just as though I was starting over in baseball."

The crowd cheered as Kiner came to bat the first time — with the bases filled, one out, and no score yet. He struck out, swinging at a pitch that had missed the outside corner.

The fans' disappointment had little time to last, because Vic Wertz smacked Virgil Trucks' next pitch into center field for a two-run single. But when Kiner came up in the third he whiffed again, taking a called third strike.

Kiner came up again in the fifth, after the Indians had given a 4-0 lead to Bob Lemon who was pitching in good form. Then a strange thing happened.

As Kiner walked to the plate a ripple of applause started, and it grew to a loud cheer. For a player who had done nothing but catch two easy fly balls and strike out twice, getting such a cheer in Cleveland Stadium is strange indeed.

He worked the count to 3-1 and then paid off the cheers by smashing a Trucks' fast ball into the left field seats 340 feet away.

The Indians didn't need the run, but Manager Al Lopez said he was "sure glad to see Kiner hit that one—it's just what he needed."

Many Gadgets Offered to Lure Dyed-in-Wool Angler

LANSING (UP) — A string, a hook and a gob of worms could fill a creel when today's fishermen were small boys.

But full-grown sportsmen become gadget-minded.

Just how gadget-minded is shown by the flood of gimmicks on sale as the April 30 opening of the trout and general fishing season approaches.

To make fishing an easier, lighter, and drier sport, manufacturers have come up with ingenious casting devices, negligee-thin plastic clothing, and such rigs as umbrellas that fit onto the angler's head.

Among the novelties to be used in and along streams and lakes this season:

A telescopic rod that extends 24 feet and is easier to carry than the old-fashioned cane pole. It is ideal for freshwater bait tossers who want to reach out into a lake for bluegills and bass.

A small folding outdoor stove that weighs only two pounds and can cook for three straight hours.

A new line of spark plugs that reduce fouling and rusting at trolling speeds — problems that long have plagued outboard motorboat operators.

Pollard Likely to Reject Offer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Jim Pollard reportedly will tell LaSalle college officials today that he will not take the school's vacant basketball coaching job.

The post was offered to the 32-year-old forward of the Minneapolis Lakers last week after Ken Loeffler resigned as LaSalle coach to become court mentor at Texas A&M.

A Laker spokesman said in New York yesterday he was sure Pollard would have notified the pro club if he had any intention of leaving. It also was reported that Pollard's wife is against the move to Philadelphia.

Wolverine 9 Blanks Tartars for 6th Win

ANN ARBOR (UP)—University of Michigan baseball squad rocked four Wayne University pitchers for 11 hits yesterday as the Wolverines set back the Tartars, 6-0.

It was Michigan's 6th victory of the season against three losses and one tie. Glen Girardin started for the Wolverines and was relieved in the 7th by Don Poloskey.

Paul Zoeb started for Wayne and was tagged with the loss.

School for Anglers

Prof. Lagler to Conduct Classes April 23 at UM

By MORT NEFF

On Saturday, April 23rd, at the University of Michigan, a large congregation of fishermen and would-be fishermen will gather for a schooling in the sport. Prof. Karl Lagler who fostered the idea will be in command of this first "clinic" of its kind — and it is possible that the idea may prove so popular that the big field house where it is to be held will bulge with "students."

NEFF

Prof. Lagler suggests that the entire family attended the all-day affair, taking along a box lunch which may be consumed during a brief respite in classes.

Plans for the day call for a fast-paced session from which many a neophyte angler will return home well rewarded in information that will help catch more fish!

The morning sessions will see some of Michigan's best-known biologists on stage with diagrams, color slides and motion picture films aimed at teaching one and all to identify all fish common to Michigan lakes and streams.

Leading exponents of the fine art of bait, fly and spin-casting have promised to attend to aid in the instruction.

The floor of the field house will be cluttered with a few natural hazards similar to those encountered in a river or lake.

Large rocks, logs and brush piles will be strategically placed. The students will learn where a fish is most likely to be found with relation to these objects—and the importance of accuracy, casting to the exact spot, will be dramatically demonstrated.

Moreover the instruction will have a genuine personal flavor, for the audience will be invited to participate.

Later in the day special buses will take the gathering to various University buildings where the work of the Institute for Fisheries Research will be shown.

Seeks to License Great Lakes Fishing

LANSING (UP) — The House began consideration today of a measure to require a license for Great Lakes fishing after the house conservation committee voted 10-0 in favor of it yesterday.

Twelve previous attempts to license Great Lakes fishing have failed in the legislature but Rep. Kenneth Trucks (R-Baldwin) sponsor of the measure, claims he has enough support to pass it this year.

"A license is required to fish on inland lakes and I think we should be consistent in our licensing," Trucks said.

Steelhead Wary, but Smelt on Move in Au Gres East Branch

By JACK PATTERSON

Opening day for steelhead trout on the Au Gres went strictly according to formula. The usual handful of fishermen, the multitude of people in fishing attire, the occasional rumor of a fish being taken "up above the dam" if one happened to be stationed below that obstruction, or "below the dam" if he dallied above it. A few fish were taken, of course, and some fairly nice ones, but the general batting average was close to .000.

PATTERSON

The stream was very low for this time of year and not too badly muddied for bait fishing. Nicest part of the whole deal was the summery temperature which made streamside napping a pleasant occupation.

Incidentally the East Branch of the Au Gres has the honor of currently being host to the 1st major smelt run. The fish, which have been lying in the bay in shoals for the last week, are entering the river and its tributaries in force right now, and in the daytime, too. If smelt dipping appeals, the two and a half hour run to Au Gres should prove worthwhile.

We'd like to stick in a word of appreciation for Pontiac Retail Store Mgr. Hank Gotham who is sponsoring the sportsman's show scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week at his Mt. Clemens street headquarters. Displays by Pontiac sporting goods and boat dealers should give the city's outdoors-minded residents a chance to see what's new in the line of fishing and hunting gear.

* * *

There will be displays by major gun companies, too, and sportsmen will have a chance to chat with "Mr. Michigan Outdoors" (Mort Neff) and national casting champion Ben Hardesty. An all-Pontiac sportsman's show sounds like progress to us and if this one is well received it could very easily become an annual feature. Let's get over there and have a look!

* * *

Crow shooters can get just about all the action they can handle at this time. The black marauders are settling down for the spring nesting season and are particularly susceptible to owl decoys and calling.

Aside from the fun directly involved in busting crows in mid-air, the crow shooter is making an important contribution to conservation of other, more valuable wildlife, by thinning out their numbers.

Ducks, which once again are in danger of reduction beyond the point of return are vulnerable to the depredations of crows to an appalling degree. Michigan is an important wildfowl breeding area.

Making the grade a little easier for our local fowl is a worthwhile objective. Killing crows, whenever and wherever possible is a useful step in that direction.

Sure and certain signs of spring: What promises to be a bumper crop of garter snakes is beginning to put in an appearance around our diggings. We must remember to set aside a collection for neighbor Jim Jenkins, whose establishment is not blessed with such an abundance of serpents and whose children feel thereby shortchanged.

Indoor Season Ends; PAC Holds Easter Tourney

Second Outdoor Test Takes Place Sunday at Pontiac Lake

Pontiac Archery Club concluded its indoor league season last week with team number one, composed of M. Cascadden, D. Schnitzhofer, Al Orr, W. Hitchcock and J. Babin winning over team number five.

A banquet and presentation of awards for the indoor league will be held April 20 at 6:30 p. m. at the Community Activities Building in Waterford.

On Easter Sunday, annual sunrise services were held, with 45 present. A 28-target shoot followed. George Marks won the men's free style and Cascadden took the men's instinctive.

Women's winners were Hannah Hedges (free style) and Barbara Cascadden (instinctive). Rick Denne and Edith Grove were the junior winners. The next shoot will be held April 17 at 10 a. m. at the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area range.

The HUNGRY SPORTSMAN By Eddie Meier

Here is an easy and tasty method of preparing smelt in this last month before oysters disappear from the markets! Make a dressing of 1 cup bread crumbs, moistened with 3 tablespoons melted butter in which ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and ¼ teaspoon sage have been simmered for a minute or two. Then add 3 cups of finely chopped oysters.

Place a layer of smelt in a heavily buttered casserole, cover with half of the dressing; add another layer of smelt, then remainder of the dressing; and top with a third layer of smelt, sprinkled with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 35 minutes.

Mild Weather Aid to State Deer Herd

Mild spring weather throughout Michigan has "dissolved" threats of further deer starvation, conservation field reports indicated Tuesday.

Game workers said the herd already has scattered over most of its summer range.

Coast Man Purchases Racing Yawl, Escapade

DETROIT (UP) — Wendell Anderson of Detroit announced yesterday he has sold his fleet yawl, Escapade, to James Y. Camp of Bakersfield, Calif., for an undisclosed sum.

The sale apparently marked an end to Escapade's appearance in Great Lakes' sailing events since Camp disclosed he planned to take the craft to the West Coast for racing.

Marquette won 20 straight basketball games last season.

Fenton Trips Wolves, 9-5; Southfield Track Team Bows

Clarkston High's baseball team opened its season on a losing note Tuesday afternoon and the Southfield High track squad met the same fate in a meet at Redford Union.

Clarkston assumed a 5-2 lead in the first five innings as George Lang held Fenton to four hits and fanned 3, but Fenton jumped on reliefer Jim Ruddock for 7 runs in the 6th innings to win, 9-5.

Vern Carmean collected 2 doubles and a single in five trips to account for half of the Wolves' hits and Gary Nelson added two more with a double and single, driving in 3 runs.

Clarkston plays at Oxford Thursday before opening the Wayne-Oakland League campaign Monday.

Redford Union took 9 firsts in whipping Southfield's Thinclads, 68 1/3 to 40 2/3. Gordon Hart was a double winner for the losing Bluejays, winning both low and high hurdles.

Flyweight Champ to Box Fellow Argentine

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Pascual Perez, world flyweight champion, will fight a fellow Argentine, Alberto Barenghi, tonight in a non-title 12-round bout.

This will be the champion's first fight since he wrested the flyweight crown from Yoshio Shirai of Japan, in Tokyo last November.

FIRST VICTORY — Good pitching helped PHS chalk up its 1st victory of the 1955 baseball season yesterday at Wisner field. Two of the three boys above had a hand in the 4-3 win over Cranbrook. Bob Johnston (left) starter, was relieved in the 7th with the count tied at 3-3, by Arnold Larson. Other lad (right) is big Jim Jones.

Compile 82-27 Total in First At-Home Meet

Hayes Jones Sets New Mark for High Sticks With 15.1 Victory

Track athletes representing Pontiac High School Tuesday afternoon hung up what is believed to be one of the highest dual meet winning totals in the school's history. Coach Wally Schloerke's powerhouse crushed Flint Central 82-27 on the Wisner track and field. It was the second successive overwhelming victory of the season—in only two competitive trials—for the Chiefs. Pontiac won the Central Michigan College invitational on 70½ points to open the schedule.

On Friday afternoon, at Wisner field, Chief thinclads oppose Dearborn Fordson in the last home appearance this spring. Hereafter the squad will be "on the road."

One record went by the boards Tuesday. Hayes Jones sped over the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.1 seconds to erase a mark made by Wilson in 1953 (15.3 seconds).

Schloerke and his aides, Ray Lowry (veteran track coach), Ed Graybiel (football coach) and Dean Wilson were delighted with the show of power once more. There are plenty of indications the team may be one of the school's best of all time. Wally credited work of the trio with providing the fine all-around balance the squad has displayed.

Jones was the top man. The speedy lad totaled 17 points. He tied for 1st in the high jump with teammate Alex Barge at 5-9 and won the high sticks and the broad jump. He was the high man in the CMC event, also.

Total would have been larger than the 82, if Chiefs' half-mile relay runners had not overrun the baton exchange zone. They had it won in 1:34.1 but were disqualified.

Perry Williams' 4:47 mile victory was a pleasant surprise for Schloerke. His final 300 yard sprint overtook Tilley of Central for the win. Bill Douglas' 2:05.7 half mile also was a good job, as was Charley Spann's 220 win in 23.6 seconds. Spann did well in Freeman Watkins' spot in the medley relay. Watkins suffered a minor injury.

After a season of trailing Herm Windom of Central, Watkins got partial revenge yesterday.. The PHS speedster ran a dead heat with the flashy Indian at 10.4 in the century.

Chiefs' medley relay team was a second off the school's all-time mark with a 2:35.0 performance.

It was almost a full sweep of 1st places for Pontiac. Out of 13 events, PHS took 12 (one tied), lost only the disqualified relay.

Summary:

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Jones (P); Wilson (P) 2nd; Robinson (PC) 3rd. Time: 15.1 seconds (new field and PHS record).

Jansen Goes to Coast Loop

Pitcher Prefers Job With Seattle Instead of Coaching Giants

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Larry Jansen is heading back to the Pacific Coast League today, accepting an offer "too god to refuse" as a pitcher with Seattle instead of a coaching job with the world champion New York Giants.

The 34-year-old righthander, this srping had been attempting a comeback with the Giants, with whom he spent his entire eight-year major league career. Jansen was removed from the player roster last July by the Giants and carried as a coach. He hadn't been overly impressive during the exhibition games this spring.

* * *

Jansen, the father of seven, said he could make more money with Seattle than the $10,000 he would draw with the Giants and would be closer to his home at Forest Grove, Ore.

Jansen joined the Giants in 1947 after winning 30 games for San Francisco of the PCL the year before. His overall major league mark was 120-86.

Maryland Passer Hurt

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Frank Tamburello, the University of Maryland's first-string quarterback, has a broken right hand and it's not known yet whether or not the injury will permanently disable him.

Raschi Ready to Start Work for Cardinals

Ailing Back of Ex-Yank Pitcher Appears to Be in Good Shape

CHICAGO (AP) — Vic Raschi, who has become somewhat of a forgotten man this spring, has won his battle with back miseries and soon will be ready fr pitching assignments from Manager Eddie Stanky of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Stanky has said all along that his club's main problem is pitching, and if there were any disbelievers they probably were converted yesterday when the Chicago Cubs teed off on five Cardinal hurlers for 18 hits and a 14-4 victory. Raschi, if he's right, should come in handy.

* * *

It was a little over a year ago that Raschi was cut loose by the New York Yankees in a sale to the Cardinals that had a sentimental impact on the baseball world. The big righthander, now 36, had won 120 games for the Yankees, including 21 in each of three seasons, and lost only 50.

* * *

"We knew Raschi had a bad back when we got him," Stanky said before his Cardinals hurried out of Chicago yesterday. "He won eight for us last year (losing nine and completing only six out of 29 starts) and I look for him to win 8 to 11 for us this time."

Raschi soberly has been going about a routine of getting his back into condition with little notice this spring.

* * *

"He was entirely on his own," said Stanky. "He knows his arm and back better than I do. I just let him come around by himself. Last Saturday he had a good three innings against Detroit (yielded one hit and had four strikeouts). In three or four days we'll start using him."

* * *

Raschi says he is far from through.

"My back is feeling much better," he said. "I'm a year older and I've played another year—and I hope to be of some help to the Cardinals for three more years anyway."

One Champion Loses in Army Ring Meet

OAKLAND ARMY BASE, Calif. (AP)—The All Army boxing championships go into their quarter-finals tonight with Herb Mickles, 1954 All-Army and All-Service 147-pound champ, missing by a surprise upset.

Shortly before the former president was scheduled to throw out the first ball in the Kansas City Athletics' opener against Detroit yesterday, Mrs. Truman was asked which hand her husband would use.

"I don't know," she replied, "and I don't believe he knows yet. He's not very good either way."

Pudgy Briton in U. S.

Cockell Doesn't See Rocky Marciano as Superman, Thinks He Can Win Title

NEW YORK (AP)—"He's no superman. He's got two arms and two legs just like I have. I hope to win the title otherwise I never would have come here."

That's the way England's Don Cockell sized up his coming title fight with heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano in San Francisco, May 16.

The pudgy 217-pound British heavyweight boss arrived early yesterday morning from England on the Queen Mary, was the guest of honor at a press party here and then departed for San Francisco. He is due at the Golden Gate city 9:30 a.m. Friday.

"Marciano is a great champion and he behaves like a champion," said the hog farmer from Horam, Sussex. "If I should win, I hope I can conduct myself like he does.

"Many people seem to have the idea that Marciano is crude and rough but I don't see it. He is a scientific fighter. He never throws two punches in the same place. He places his punches correctly and places his weight behind his blows."

Cockell and Rocky met at the signing ceremony here Feb. 25. He never has seen the hard-hitting heavyweight king in a live fight but said he has studied the movies of Marciano's two fights with Ezzard Charles.

"No, I can't say now how I intend to fight Marciano," the 26-year old British Empire titleholder said. "I shall adapt myself to conditions in the ring. I shall make my moves as I go along."

Asked whether he thought Marciano was a "foul fighter," Don said "No, I don't think so. However, I am prepared for anything. If he plays rough I can do the same. But I'm looking for a clean fight."

Cockell has won 10 fights straight since he gave up the light heavyweight division. His last defeat was an 11-round knockout by Randy Turpin on June 10, 1952. Two fights before that one, he was stopped in four rounds by New York's Jimmy Slade on Dec. 4, 1951.

* * *

Don doesn't like to talk about those losses, naturally, but manager John Simpson, jumps into the breach.

"He had to cut off close to 40 pounds each time," said Simpson. "We told him he could no longer make the cruiserweight limit of 175 pounds but he insisted on trying. It weakened him too much. As a heavyweight he is faster and a better puncher. I give him a 50-50 chance to win the title."

Braves, Tribe Get Off to Flying Start

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Could be that the opening day of major league baseball set what may be the pattern this season. Milwaukee and Cleveland were off and winning and the New York Giants, Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees couldn't do a thing about it.

The preseason popularity polls had Milwaukee's Braves copping the National Leage flag, with the world champion Giants and Brooks somewhere behind. Cleveland was picked to repeat in the American, again beating out the Yanks.

Milwaukee and Cleveland made hay yesterday while the other three pennant contenders were stopped by rain. The Braves uncovered rookie Chuck Tanner, who swatted a first-pitch pinch home run to get a 4-2 victory going against Cincinnati, and Cleveland, mixing power with its pitching, knocked off the Chicago White Sox, a dark horse threat, 5-1.

The Chicago Cubs won their second 1955 decision, beating the St. Louis Cardinals 14-4 in the only other National league game played.

* * *

In the American, the Kansas City Athletics broke into their new surroundings with a 6-2 victory over Detroit, and the Boston Red Sox gave the Baltimore Orioles their second setback 7-1.

Tanner, a 25-year-old prospect up from Atlanta, carried on the Braves' rookie-a-spring program. Manager Cholly Grimm, who sprung loose Billy Bruton in '53 and Hank Aaron in '54, tapped Tanner to bat for Warren Spahn with the Braves trailing 2-1 in the eighth. He homered on the first major league ball pitched to him.

* * *

That tied the score, and after Bruton singled, Aaron clipped Gerry Staley's next pitch for a triple and the lead run. Ted Kluszewski had given the Redlegs their 2-1 edge in the top of the eighth, hitting his second homer of the season.

Like Spahn, Cleveland's Bob Lemon got off toward another 20-victory season, handling the White Sox on four singles and a double. The Indians, apparently not as over-confident as general manager Hank Greenberg feared, got to Virgil Trucks for two runs in the first as Vic Wertz singled with the bases loaded.

Al Smith and Ralph Kiner homered.

The game at Cleveland hauled in 50,230 fans—tops for the day as the majors drew 190,951. Milwaukee was second with 43,640.

* * *

The Cubs knocked out Brooks Lawrence in a five-run first and went on to total 18 hits off five Card hurlers.

Boston and new manager Pinky Higgins kicked up their heels as Ted Lepcio smacked two home runs in the rout of Baltimore. Frank Sullivan set down the Orioles on five hits, while Boston had 13 against three Baltimore pitchers. The crowd was 38,085.

UNUSUAL ANGLING—Stuart Post, 17, bagged this 31-inch, 8-pound pike with a five-iron while playing golf at a Holland, Mich. club. He found the fish in a pool close to the river that had overflowed onto the course, then receded, leaving the fish stranded.

STITCH IN TIME — Two workmen at the conservation department's forest fire experiment station near Roscommon finish overhauling a firelane plow in preparation for the coming forest fire season. The plow, which is now standard fire suppression equipment throughout Michigan, was designed and built at the station.

Phils, Giants Try Again Today

Scheduled Opener Is Rained Out; Program Moved Up Intact

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Champing at the bit, the Philadelphia Phillies and the world champion New York Giants try again today —weather permitting — for a season opener.

Rained out yesterday, all Opening Day ceremonies were rescheduled for today. These include a downtown pep rally, a parade of ball players (two to a convertible) to Connie Mack Stadium and Mayor Joseph S. Clark's throw-in of the first ball.

The postponement was beneficial in one way: both outfielders Del Ennis and Richie Ashburn, recently injured in a jarring collision in an exhibition game, will be in the starting Phillies lineup.

THURSDAY'S SCHEDULE

Rain Again Dampens Opener at Brooklyn

BROOKLYN (AP)—Rain again is in prospect as the Brooklyn Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates make a second try to open their 1955 seasons at Ebbets Field today.

Originally listed for open dates today, the two clubs could avert rescheduling yesterday's rain-postponed opener later in the season if they get a break from the weatherman.

Manager Walt Alston will stick with Carl Erskine (18-15) as his starting pitcher. Pittsburgh's Fred Haney will follow the same plan, standing pat with Max Surkont (9-18).

Record Crowds Saw State Cage Tourneys

LANSING (UP)—Michigan's 1955 high school basketball tournament hit an all-time high in attendance with 427,886 fans viewing playoff games last month.

The previous record total was 381,023, set in 1954.

Officials of the tournament's financial committee said today gross receipts amounted to $286,338.59—about $27,000 more than last year's record total.

Rear Muskies, Pike, Walleyes

Test Spawn Collection and Rearing Methods at Drayton Hatchery

Experiments in pike, walleye and muskie rearing is being planned by the fisheries division of the conservation department, with some of the program to be undertaken at the Drayton Plains Fish Hatchery.

Workers plans to test various spawn-collection and rearing methods at both Drayton and at Wolf Lake hatchery, using information gained from experiments last year.

Walleye production has been successful in the past and more are being raised from eggs taken from Newaygo Dam. Weather permitting, the program will be started with northern pike and muskellunge as soon as possible. Pike will be secured where available, while muskie eggs or fry will likely be obtained from Wisconsin.

The fish are to be used for stocking purposes.

Saginaw Solon Wants to Boost Prep Schedules

LANSING (UP)—Rep. Thomas Burns (R-Saginaw), who claims "the quality of high school basketball is not what it should be," asked the House today to appoint a committee to investigate state scheduling procedures.

Burns said more games should be allowed during a year to "foster and encourage more competitive basketball."

The Saginaw Republican said high schools are "not producing college material" during the 18 season games allowed by the High School Athletic Association under current regulations.

Smelt Run Begins

BOYNE CITY (AP) — A heavy smelt run is on in Porter Creek at nearby Advance where a regulated dipping program will begin Wednesday night. Lance Russ, directing the netting program and related events, said Sandra Howard, 16, of Advance, will be crowned smelt queen next Saturday night.

THE STORY OF BREAD—3
How Bread Is Made

After the wheat is ground into flour, it is mixed with water or milk, salt, sugar, shortening, and yeast. The yeast makes it become light and fluffy.

The dough is shaped into loaves and carefully baked. Another ingenious machine then slices the loaves and wraps them—just as you find them in the store.

In early days, people ground their grain by hand between heavy stones. Then they shaped it into crude loaves and baked it in outdoor ovens or over hearth fires. Many peoples in the world, who do not have modern machines and ovens, still make their bread as they did in the days of the Bible.

The little Syrian girl in the picture is baking her bread on a "jug-oven." She grinds her wheat in a stone hand-mill, mixes it into a paste and plasters it in big chunks on the outside of a tall earthenware jug filled with hot coals.

You can color the picture as you wish and save it so you will have the complete story of bread by the end of the week.

Flying Platform Shown to Public

Revolutionary Aircraft Very Simple to Control, Uses Ducted Fan

PALO ALTO, April 12 (AP)—The flying platform was demonstrated publicly for the first time yesterday, and further details were revealed of its amazing talents.

The new device, built for the Navy by the Hiller Helicopter Co., has no wings, and is about six feet in diameter. It is maneuvered while in the air by the pilot shifting his weight. If you want to go ahead, lean forward; to the left, lean left. Pilot Phil A. Johnston said, "I'd let my kids fly it, it's no trick at all."

The flying platform rises on a column of air, created by fans that suck in air from the top and thrust it out with great force at the bottom. The two fans create a balancing force like a gyroscope.

* * *

When Johnston went up yesterday, mechanics started the two small gasoline engines by pulling cord cranks—just like an outboard boat motor—and the drum-like craft roared into action. Johnston pressed a lever and it hovered about six feet off the ground.

During the test flight, the platform was tethered to a rope for safety and security reasons.

Stanley Hiller Jr., president of the company that built the device, when asked if the flying platform could be classed as a flying saucer, said:

"Yes, it might well be the beginning. This idea only scratches the surface."

When asked how fast the platform would go—something the Navy has been keeping secret, Hiller would only say:

Golden Harvest

CINCINNATI (AP) — A dandelion hunter who found a box of unnegotiable bonds valued at $62,000 was given a $100 award yesterday. Vernon Presley, his wife and their friends had stopped near Dayton, Ky., to look at the dandelin patch. Presley stumbled over a box stolen from the home of William Peebles, of suburban Silverton. Presley was rewarded on the box's return.

SWELLING AND INTENSE PAIN IN ARMS AND LEGS MADE LIFE MISERABLE

"Read my true testimonial," says Mr. William Roe, 617 S. Rosemary Street, Lansing, "and judge for yourself why O-JIB-WA BITTERS is best for rheumatism, arthritis and stomach trouble."

"I've had lumbago off and on for quite some time, but nothing ever struck me down like an attack of rheumatism and arthritis did about five years ago. My legs, feet and ankles were swollen so big that I couldn't lace up my shoes; in fact, having them on at all was hard to bear. My arms were stiff and ached terribly all the time. I couldn't raise them up to my neck or put them behind my back to fasten my suspenders. Then it got worse—if you can imagine that. I was forced to bed for about three weeks, while cramps in my legs kept me awake and I was just miserable. On top of all this, my stomach was acting up. I love greasy food and was unable to eat any without gas, cramps and indigestion upsetting me. Then, about two years ago, I saw an ad in the newspaper praising O-JIB-WA BITTERS for helping someone who was in about the same shape I was. My daughter bought me a bottle and I began taking it. In about a month, the swelling started to go down, and the pains and stiffness began to leave my arms and legs. Soon, I was up and around doing things again that I wouldn't have believed possible just a few months before. Since that time, I haven't been bothered with an ache or pain, and O-JIB-WA BITTERS straightened out my stomach too. I can eat anything now without worrying about stomach upset, and even bacon grease on bread doesn't bother me. Believe me, after my experience, I wouldn't be without O-JIB-WA BITTERS. I even take it with me when traveling. Many people have asked me how I manage to get around so well after the bad shape I was in, and I'm glad to tell them how O-JIB-WA BITTERS put me back on my feet. I have recommended it to many others, and they are pleased with it too. It is my hope that this statement reaches someone who needs help, and will give O-JIB-WA BITTERS a fair trial like I did."

Navy's 7th Fleet Alert as Chiang Visited Quemoy

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Units of the U.S. 7th Fleet, including the flagship, were alert for rescue operations if anything happened to President Chiang Kai-shek's plane during his trip to and from Quemoy, official American sources said today.

The ships were ready to help if for any reason the plane came down in the Strait of Formosa. Vice Adm. Alfred M. Pride, fleet commander, left Keelung on the heavy cruiser Rochester yesterday morning for the alert and returned seven hours later.

President and Mme. Chiang made the trip to Quemoy, only six miles from the Communist island port of Amoy, in the generalissimo's private plane.

During the 6½ hours the couple spent at Quemoy visiting Nationalist headquarters and artillery positions, the Reds did not fire a single shell against the island.

A Taipei newspaper said this might have been due to a six-hour shelling the Nationalists gave Amoy the day before.

Wrigley's Plans Big Expansion

Not content to rest on its laurels —with the title of Retailer of the Year bestowed by the Brand Names Foundation, Inc., for 1954— Wrigley Stores, Inc., has in progress a multimillion-dollar expansion program.

"We feel that we are now ready for outstate expansion," says President John E. Lurie, "because we have developed a top-flight organization with the experience and personnel necessary to handle the additional responsibilities of the expansion program."

Last year Wrigley's opened modern self-serve supermarkets in Pontiac and Dearborn and at Eastgate Shopping Center in Detroit to begin the expansion program. The chain's largest market opened March 29 at Frandor Shopping Center in Lansing.

New stores will also be opened this year in Birmingham, Adrian, Rochester and Jackson.

Scheduled to open about May 1 is Wrigley's new store at Mack Ave. and Seven-Mile Rd. in Detroit. Moreover, two new stores are being erected on previous locations in Monroe and in Detroit on Fort street.

Lurie reports that construction will begin soon on a two-story office addition to the present warehouse and office building at 13901 Joy Rd. in Detroit.

Total cost of construction for the 1955 program will exceed two million dollars.

'Testing by Torture' Is Good Business

In an age when thrift is considered a wholesome virtue and a savings bank book is standard equipment in almost every home, the sight of intelligent men throwing money away should normally be the signal to "call the wagon."

Yet every year, thousands of American businessmen throw away more than a billion dollars and are praised for their actions rather than "committed for observation."

Actually, what seems like sheer madness is a continuous program of product destruction, "testing by torture," which enables brand manufacturers to see exactly how much their products will take before they wear out or fail.

It goes on every hour of the day in the research laboratories and on the proving grounds of individual manufacturers in every field you can name.

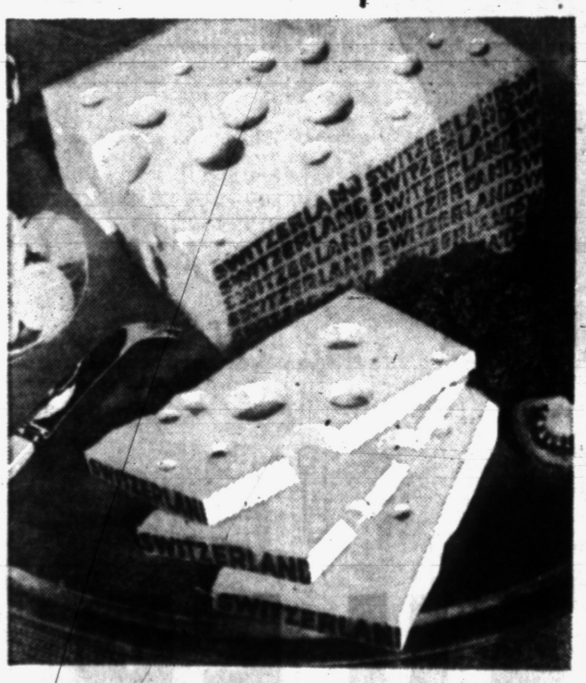

It goes on in independent laboratories employed by makers of brand-name products, like United States Testing Co. in Hoboken, N. J., where more than 30,000 tests and research projects are run each year on everything from baby diapers to cement blocks.

Buy by Brand Names

In a free economy like ours—where one manufacturer's brand competes against another — the improvements stimulated by this competition benefit us all. So, in a sense, we help secure these benefits for ourselves when we look for the manufacturer's brand name on anything we buy. You'll find they can make your shopping go much faster.

PROCLAMATION PRESENTED — Advertising Manager Ervin Levinson (right) looks on as the acting mayor of Detroit, Louis C. Miriani (center), presents Nathan W. Lurie, secretary of Wrigley Stores, Inc., with the proclamation declaring that Wednesday, April 13 is "Brand Names Day."

The proclamation honors Wrigley's, which has been named "Retailer of the Year" for 1954 by the Brand Names Foundation.

Ice-Channeling Keeps Produce Moist and Crisp

ICE- CHANNELING—18 . . . . . .

Constant research brought about Wrigley's own method of ice-channeling. Their produce chiefs realized that 70 to 95 per cent of all produce is moisture, and that when the moisture is removed, dehydration and spoilage start.

Various methods such as sprinkling, ice boxes, humid refrigeration and beds of crushed ice were the predecessors of ice-channeling.

The ice-channel, made of rust-proofed steel, is 28 inches deep, 10 inches high and 3 inches wide.

This channel employs the simple principle that cool, moist air travels downwards and sidewise.

The channels are packed to the brim with cool, humidifying crushed ice that is produced on the spot in the Frandor market.

New Zealand's capital has been located at Wellington since 1865. Before that it was Auckland.

Well-Known Products Undergo Many Tests

Once a manufacturer has a fine reputation with people, he can't rest on his laurels. He's just got to test, and test again, to be sure his brand is kept up to the highest quality standard.

Brand Names Are Promoted

What brought together more than 900 of America's leading brand manufacturers who today constitute the membership of Brand Names Foundation?

The organization was born in the apparel industries, where a specific challenge to the American tradition of free enterprise sounded the challenge for unity.

It was proposed in 1943 that a system of mandatory government grade labeling be imposed upon the underwear and hosiery industry. Specific standards were to be established and garments were to be labeled A, B and C, as the primary guides for selection of underwear and hosiery.

The underwear manufacturers, in opposition, formed Brand Names Foundation, with 22 members. Today, Brand Names Foundation includes more than 900 manufacturers of brand names in all fields.

The foundation is engaged in a program of public information, distributing information about how the brand system of distribution functions.

The year-round educational program of the foundation reaching retail dealers emphasizes that the pre-selling of brand names achieved by advertising results in lower sales cost, faster turnover, and more satisfied customers.

This aspect of the program is climaxed by the Brand Name Retailer-of-the-Year competition which, each year, brings forth more and more leadership in the emphasis of all of the values of advertised brands.

Moths Are Raised by Product Testers

U. S. Testing keeps a constant supply of 4,000 to 5,000 moths on hand. They are raised on brewers' yeast and woolen cloth.

At 5 months, when they are hungriest and most destructive, squads of 10 to a square inch are placed on a fabric or carpet and left in a temperature of 80 degrees for 28 days. The results soon show how mothproof a fabric is.

Tests of cosmetics, deodorants and some drugs involve both animals and humans. In lipstick, for example, a rabbit will be injected first to test for skin irritation or toxicity before a so-called "patch test" on women is considered. If "Brer Rabbit" breaks out, of course, that's enough for the testers.

RETAILERS OF THE YEAR—John E. and Nathan W. Lurie, president and secretary of Wrigley's Stores, Inc., were honored recently by being named "Retailers of the Year" by the Brand Names Foundation. The brothers started what is now Michigan's largest independent food chain 32 years ago in a small fruit stand in Detroit.

Reds Lack Advantages of Brand Merchandise

Want to know what Russian women will be wearing this season? According to Moscow Radio, they'll be turned out in good proletarian styles that come straight from the "House of Fashions," which is the blueprint department for Russian dress. The "House of Fashions" has no competitors . . . there's just one brand to buy . . . and no brand competition to keep down prices and stimulate new styles.

Think about that as you buy your summer wardrobe from a wide variety of advertised brand merchandise.

There are U.S. towns called Arabia, Argentine, Bavaria, Belgium, Bohemia, Bolivia, Siberia, Russia, Brazil and Poland says the National Geographic Society.

Test Machines Destroy Goods

In the laboratories of brand manufacturers, there is a variety of machines whose sole purpose is wholesale destruction. There is a machine, for example, which pulls a Venetian blind up, then lets it come down with a bang, repeating this for 3 to 4,000 cycles until the blind collapses.

There is another which "zips" a zipper open and shut at lightning speed, another that drops a 20-pound weight 200,000 times on a mattress to simulate an active 3-year-old jumping up and down.

At a large Eastern laboratory a machine stretches stockings to the breaking point, then punishes them further by dragging a steel finger across them to test their snag resistance.

Athletic equipment takes a fierce beating in laboratories before manufacturers will risk losing their places on fairways, courts and baseball diamonds.

For basketballs a machine has been built which first compresses a ball between two wooden rollers, then slams it against a wall at a speed of 17 miles per hour.

Often balls take as many as 400,000 cycles before calling it quits, considerably more punishment than they will ever take in overtime games at Madison Square Garden or San Francisco's Cow Palace.

KRAFT FOODS COMPANY

Wrigley's Meat Buyers Look for the Top Quality

A fine grain and a fine marbling. The latter means that there should be a streaking or marbling of fat throughout the lean.

This means that the excess fat, suet and bone that you ordinarily would have to trim off either before you cook the meat, or on your plate, is removed before the meat is weighed and priced in the store.

Because of this you get, and pay for, only the best part of any cut of meat you select.

Beef cattle over the years have been scientifically bred for the best eating qualities, and the goodness of the meat at the table comes from a thorough knowledge of what the housewife wants.

After chilling, the steers are placed in holding coolers where Wrigley's buyers make their selections for top quality. The meat buyers have together more than 130 years of experience and are therefore very capable of following the rigid standards of the company.

Once the selection of beef is made Wrigley's buyers stamp their purchases and the meat is held for the store's customers.

Stamped with the date of purchase, the meat is held in coolers for proper aging. After the meat has been aged to insure tenderness, the meat is put in the hands of Wrigley's expert cutters, to be trimmed for packaging.

Only Wrigley's regular top quality, naturally tender meats are offered at the stores and supermarkets and only these items on which the supply is ample to meet the customer's demands ever find their way into Wrigley ads.

Shop Without Guessing

Guessing games are fun in the parlor — but not when we shop. These days, when we spend good money for something, we want to be able to know exactly what we're getting. That's where brand names play an important part. Using them as guides takes the guesswork out of shopping.

Brands Are Catalogued

Many books and catalogs are being printed these days, listing the brand names and trademarks in a host of merchandise fields. That's because more and more people are using manufacturers' brands as guides to shopping satisfaction. Yes, a brand-identified product is a product you can depend on.

Brand Names Make Your Shopping Easier

During the 1800s, butchers celebrated Washington's birthday by displaying their meat for public inspection, while they themselves stood proudly by dressed in spotless white smocks topped by gleaming high silk hats! They were proud of their calling and of their wares.

Today, reputable manufacturers proudly call attention to themselves by advertising their brands. These familiar brand names can help make your shopping easier by getting you exactly what you want in a hurry.

Here's a tip for any wise shopper. Choose the things you buy by their brand names. That way, you'll get quality, protection and exactly what you want.

Best Shopping Bets

A product that bears a manufacturer's brand name is one you can depend on — because you know the maker will always be there to back it up. So, your best shopping bets are brand-name products.

to all of us at Saran Wrap why Wrigley's has been honored as National Brands Retailer of the Year. A philosophy of offering its customers better food products at more-than-fair prices has earned Wrigley's the loyal patronage of hundreds of thousands of Detroit area shoppers. Makers Stand Back of Brand-Name Goods

We Americans expect a great deal of satisfaction and service from the things we buy. The convenient keys to this satisfaction and service are the advertised brand names of reputable manufacturers. Remember, an advertised manufacturer must stand back of his product or lose out to his competitors.

Brands Traced to Middle Ages

The very name "brands" brings to mind the color of the picturesque old West and the marking of cattle with a hot iron to establish ownership.

The use of symbols for identification began long ago in the misty past and became especially widespread with the growth of heraldry during the Middle Ages.

At that time body armor was so concealing that its wearer could only be identified by distinctive marks upon the coat which covered his armor — that is his "coat of arms." The coat of arms thus identified that which would otherwise be unknown.

This identification by symbol was also found practical to denote various public houses, taverns and hotels in those times of widespread illiteracy. Even if a man couldn't read he could recognize the sign of the Red Lion or the Three Jolly Sailors.

The wearer of Medieval armor was not more thoroughly concealed than food packed in a metal container. The distinctive labels of, for instance, Libby and Del Monte food cans provide the same certain identification as did the three golden lions emblazoned on the shield of Richard, King of England.

Families entitled to display coats of arms were jealous of their privilege and took vigorous action against any unauthorized person using their insignia.

Wives Rely on Brands

There are research firms, you know, whose sole business consists of looking up the history of people's names. Yes, names can be pretty important — as most any homemaker knows. Because a good homemaker depends upon names — manufacturers' brand names like those you see advertised in this newspaper — to guide her in her selection of the things she buys.

UNIFORMITY ASSURED—Thousands of items of food, with names famous the country over, crowd the shelves of a modern supermarket like Wrigley's. Buying by brand assures you of uniform quality.

Research Done on Ice Cream

Wrigley's "Top Frost" ice cream didn't "just happen." Years of research and experimentation passed before a product was found fine enough to bear Wrigley's own brand name.

For several years before Wrigley's decided to carry ice cream in its supermarkets many tests were made of various brands by officials of the company.

To this finished product Wrigley's put the name "Top Frost." It undersells other brands from three to eight cents a gallon.

In addition there is always a "Flavor of the Month." This week, and continuing through April, it is chocolate fudge revel.

Kool Krisp Label Insures Fresh, Flavorful Produce

From the moment Wrigley's receives every item of produce, to the moment you buy it, the store recreates the night's coolness and simulates the morning's dew to keep that "Kool Krisp" look and flavor.

But once the produce comes into the warehouse it is never kept more than 24 hours.

Then it is on its way to the individual stores where again it is placed immediately in coolers. Shortly before the store opens it is taken out, thoroughly washed and trimmed, and placed, where necessary, in tranparent bags.

At the produce department, she can get self-service or personal service. Wrigley's produce personnel are happy to repackage any "Kool Krisp" item in the amount the housewife wants.

Ancient Brand Name

In the ruins of Pompeii, geologists have found many small jars containing fish sauces of which the ancient Greeks were so fond. Some bear the inscription: "Scarus's tunny jelly — Blossom Brand — put up by Eutyches, Slave of Scarus." Evidently Scarus was pretty proud of his tunny jelly —for just like our modern manufacturers, he actually signed his brand name to it. You can depend on advertised brand products to be backed by the pride of the maker.

Midget Family of Big Top Endorses Brand Foods

NEW YORK—A yard tall and weighing only 43 pounds, Harry Doll, beloved midget who has played under the Big Top for 30 years, says that there is only one major problem in his family. When four midgets live together, he says, they have to like the same brands of food. If they didn't, three out of four would be unhappy, for, after all, one can of soup will serve them all!

The Doll family, Harry, Grace, Daisy and Tiny, are four of the most popular performers in the circus world. Harry is the veteran trouper in the family. After getting himself established in the circus, he brought his sisters here from their home in Switzerland.

In an interview with a Brand Names Foundation representative, Harry said that with most things the family has found brands that suit their tastes. Where individual preferences remain fixed, they keep peace in the family by indulging each other in "extras." But "extras" can be hard on the budget, Harry finds, and occasionally he pines for the same freedom "big" people have when they go shopping.

One reason that the Dolls are all so interested in brand names is that they can find their favorites in almost every town in the country. In the glamorous, but topsy-turvy world of the circus, they are glad that at least their diet can remain stable. Things that suit them in Florida, where they winter, can also be found in almost every city and town from Maine to California.

Household chores in this big family of little people are fairly well divided. Harry is head of the family without question. Grace is the cook and Daisy is the housekeeper. Tiny, a dainty little woman with a lively sense of humor, is special assistant to both Grace and Daisy.

Grace is usually the shopper for the family, but Tiny points out that everyone, including Harry, is expert enough to step in and do the marketing occasionally.

With detectable pride, the Dolls say that they eat "almost half" as much as the average person. for breakfast they enjoy a small helping of dry cereal, a slice of coffee cake and coffee. Among their favorite dishes for lunch or dinner is sauerkraut and wiener schnitzel or Swiss steak.

The midnight snack is a high point of their day. After the last performance each evening, they go back to their hotel for a sandwich and "a bit of beer." They are all vehement about the kind of beer they like—two cans is more than enough for the whole family.

Odd Devices Used to Test New Products

How are products tested? In almost every conceivable way, depending on their end use. A test may involve one single operation or a complicated series of 120 operations which one manufacturer reported as "normal for my product" in a survey recently made by Brand Names Foundation.

Products may be tested for bacterial count, vitamins from A to K, resistance to mildew, skin irritation, toxicity, taste, durability, warmth, specific gravity, reflection, wear and abrasion, resistance, hardness, softness, oil absorption, rosin content, tensile strength, melting point, aging, brittleness, color fastness to everything from acids to light, shrinkage in washing or dry-cleaning, flexing, fire resistance, snag resistance, rain resistance, durability, outdoor exposure, tear resistance, water resistance, or just plain "lousiness."

When a manufacturer has a particular yen to see if this new product will maintain his reputation for quality, testers invent a testing machine where none exists.

Oftimes, their efforts result in contraptions which make Rube Goldberg's look downright conservative, like "Gorgeous Gertrude", the sawed-off mannequin that tests brassieres for loss of uplift after washing, or the very tidy device used during a diaper test which consists of a cut-in-half bowling ball, to simulate baby's bottom, plus acid, water and a measuring unit.

At other times, the efforts of U.S. Testing's Hoboken engineers have resulted in the development of marketable testing devices which laboratories all over the world have found useful.

An example of this is the tergetometer, a unit consisting of four washing machine agitators and tanks, built one-64th to scale, which is used to test soaps and detergents.

Priest Won't Tell Who Robbed Bank

DENVER (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest refused today to disclose the name of a repentant bank robber who confessed to him the holdup of the Colorado State bank here.

Yesterday, the priest returned to authorities $6,850 in bills he said was part of $7,780 taken in the daylight robbery of the Colorado State Bank Feb. 17. He said the robber gave him the money.

U.S.S. Atty. Donald E. Kelley quoted the priest as saying: "My lips are sealed. I have a sacred obligation by which I must abide even if it means my life."

Kelley said the priest "asked that he not be named and I respect that confidence."

Kelley said the priest promised to relay a message that partial return of the money would not absolve the robber of "criminal responsibility."

"I hope now that he will decide to clear his conscience entirely, by coming to the proper authorities," said Kelley.

FROZEN FOOD BOOM—From one or two items, the frozen food section has expanded to a major portion of the produce end of the store. Mrs. America can buy a complete dinner to take home and thaw.

Goods Tested by Many People

Men, women and a curious collection of animals have vital roles to play. At U.S. Testing, a visitor will often see hundreds of women walking around with white patches on their arms.

No, he is told, there has been no mass epidemic in Hoboken lately and no one has been vaccinated against some contagious disease. What is going on, he learns, is a test involving a lotion, cosmetic or deodorant.

One time, 200 men employes wore nothing but black shoes every day for two weeks. When they reported for work, their shoes were shined and the gloss measured. When they left for home in the evening, the gloss was measured again.

Findings on the loss of gloss were used in the production of a new shoe polish.

In the testing of wet versus dry shaves, manufacturers see the results with "beard cameras" which accurately measure the stubble on any shaver's chin and cheek.

Backing up the "human guinea pigs" used in the research laboratories of industry are regiments of rabbits, hares, rats, mice, cockroaches, flies, termites, ticks, fleas, ants, lice, mosquitos and moths, all of them ready to do what they can to make a product look good or bad, as the case may be.

Meat Undergoes 4 Periods of Aging

After top-quality animals have been slaughtered, they are placed in holding coolers to await inspection by Wrigley's buyers. Once these buyers have selected the meat and stamped their purchases, they are left in coolers for proper aging under strict controls to assure natural tenderness and freshness.

Wrigley's buyers point out that only top grades of meat, and that is all that the company buys, can be properly aged.

The meat is left in the cooler at the slaughterhouse for 14 days. Then the sides are quartered and delivered to the various Wrigley stores. Here the quarters are placed in the store coolers where the final aging process is completed.

Brands Nationwide

When you go vacationing this summer, you can count on retailers all across the country to help make you feel at home—just by stocking the familiar manufacturers' brands you know. That adds a lot to travel comfort—to be able to buy what you like wherever you may be. But, of course, that's just one of the advantages we have under our brand system.

Table-Trimmed Meat Stretches Food Dollars

Wrigley's table-trimming policy assure you the biggest mealtime pleasure and the most meat to eat for every penny you spend.

Table-trimming means that the excess fat, suet and bone that you ordinarily would have to trim off before you cook the meat or after it is served on your plate is removed before the meat is weighed and priced.

Once trimmed, the meat goes to an air-conditioned packaging room where quality and freshness control are maintained. Expert packagers wrap the meat in the finest transparent wrapping materials available.

Wrigley's points out that all scales at these weighing stations are set so that the wrapping and additional shrinkage are allowed for so that the customer pays only for the meat and not the wrappings.

Brooklyn Eagle Put Up for Sale

May 2 Deadline Set for Disposing of Paper as Complete Unit

NEW YORK (AP)—The Brooklyn Eagle, shut down by a strike, has been put on sale by Publisher Frank D. Schroth.

Schroth has set May 2 as a deadline for selling the 114-year-old newspaper as a complete unit.

He named O. Rundle Gilbert, an industrial sale and auction specialist, to take charge of "both the complete unit sale and the public auction of remaining assets which will be held on May 11, 12 and 13, if the Eagle is not sold as a unit . . ."

In announcing the sale plans yesterday, Schroth said: "I sincerely hope that some one or some group alert to the welfare of the borough will want to keep the Eagle alive. This i my first concern in disposing of the paper."

A spokesman for the CIO American Newspaper Guild, whose strike has closed the Eagle since Jan. 28, said the union would be "very happy" if the paper were sold as a unit. He said the principal aim of the Guild is "to get publication going with a guild contract."

The Guild, representing 315 editorial and commercial department employes, struck in a pay dispute. Members of craft unions refused to cross Guild picket lines, forcing the Eagle to suspend publication. Schroth announced March 16 that he would never publish the paper again.

Romans Had Brands

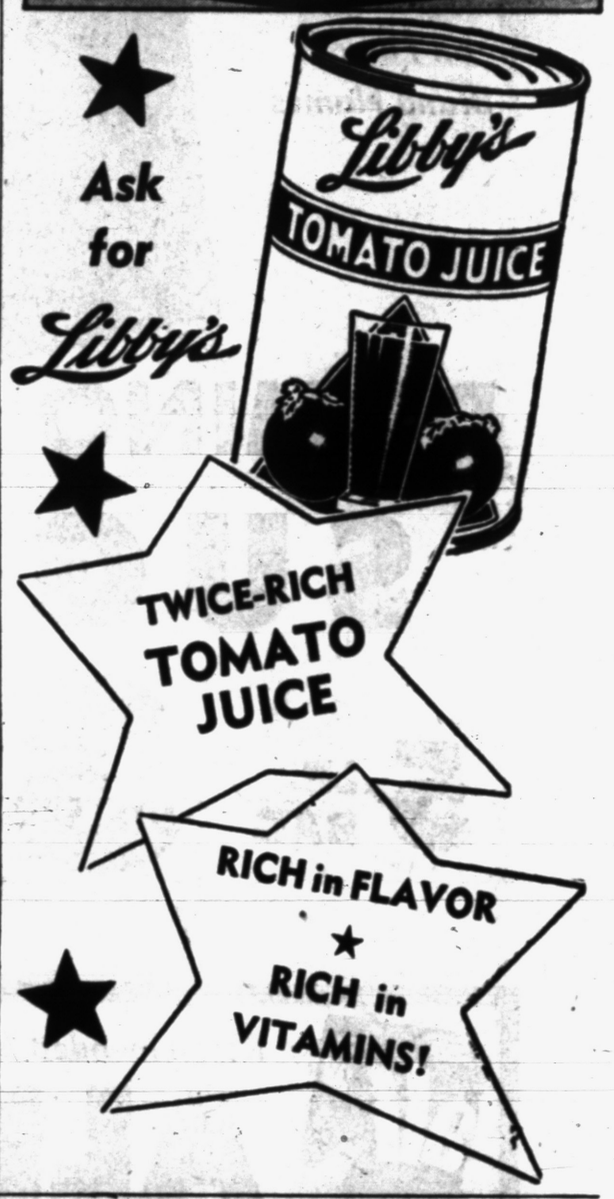

Reseafch shows that trademarks played almost the same part in ancient Rome as they do today. Wherever relics of Roman life exist — from Syria to Britain — you can find the name of workmen and manufacturers on all kinds of things. Evidently shoppers of that long-ago, but highly advanced, era were as conscious as we are that it's important to know who's responsible for what.

In a single night, a mole, which animal is only about six inches long, has been known to tunnel more than 75 yards.

The Cancer Story

Leukemia Treatment May Be Revised

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—A new theory on the nature of leukemia which may revise methods of treating the dread blood cancer was outlined today in San Francisco.

Dr. Howard R. Bierman advanced the theory in detailing results of the use of myleran, a compound used with extraordinary success in destroying the excessive white blood cells characteristic of leukemia.

The report on myleran, also known as GT-41, was prepared for presentation at the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology meeting in San Francisco. It was co-authored by Dr. Bierman, Dr. Keith H. Kelly and Fauno Cordes of the City of Hope National Medical Center in Duarte, Calif.

Yet, he said, patients in acute stages of the disease will die even though they have been freed of the common characteristic of leukemia. The results have led scientists to consider the possibility that an over-abundance of white blood cells may only be a symptom of leukemia—not the disease itself.

Dr. Bierman said he and his associates used myleran on 70 patients, including eight who had other diseases but no trace of leukemia. In all cases the granulocyte white bloods cells were destroyed.

Dr. Bierman emphasized there are several other potent killers of the white blood cells—primarily X-rays and arsenic.

The fact that the cells can be controlled but the disease can not actually be stopped indicates to him that more care should be given to finding out what causes leukemia.

3 Areas Will Vote June 7 on Incorporation Issue

Three incorporation elections and one annexation vote, were slated for June 7 yesterday by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

Major portions of Troy and Southfield Townships will ballot on changing their status to home rule cities. Bingham Farms, a one-square-mile area of Southfield Township, will decide on incorporating as a village.

The Troy vote stems from a rapid move by the township group to head off annexation by Royal Oak of an area owned by the Vickers Corp. at Crooks and Maple Rds. on which the firm plans a $2,000,000 plant.

The Troy group filed petitions March 7 to incorporate 22 square miles of the 33 in the Township. It claimed loss of the land through annexation would disrupt the Troy tax base.

The Royal Oak Chamber of Commerce has circulated annexation petitions, while Clawson also has eyed the property.

Supervisor Harriett Phillips, of Huntington Woods, yesterday introduced a motion to refer the Troy petitions back to the Boundaries Committee, after committee chairman William A. Ewart, of Pontiac had reported the petitions to be sufficient and recommended a vote be set.

Mrs. Phillips said she understood all interested persons had not been able to appear at a previous committee hearing on the petitions.

Troy Supervisor Norman R. Barnard stated the committee had conducted proper hearings and said, "I can see no reason for delay."

Walter O. Koch, attorney for Vickers and an Oak Park city commissioner, said, "The proposed Troy city boundary line appears to be highly irregular and drawn so as to pick up enough population to make the petitions valid. (An area must have 500 persons per square mile to incorporate as a city).

Two sectors without sufficient population were omitted, Koch stated. Supervisor Clayton G. Lilly, of Ferndale, said the areas left out could be annexed after Troy becomes a city.

Vickers has said it would build the plant whether or not the land is annexed to Royal Oak. Mrs. Phillips' motion to refer the matter back to committee was voted down.

There are about 15,000 people living in the Troy area which would be incorporated.

'Cat on Roof' Labeled Best by Play Critics

NEW YORK (INS) — "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," by Tennessee Williams, has been named the best American play of the 1954-55 season by the New York Drama Critics.

Other runners-up in the play division were "The Desperate Hours," "The Rainmaker" and "The Bad Seed."

The winning musical, which despite good reviews closed earlier this month after a short Broadway run, received 11 votes compared to six for "The Pajama Game," one of the best box office attractions on Broadway.

"Plain and Fancy," "Silk Stockings" and "Fanny" were other selections by the 23 critics in the musical division.

Seven New Supervisors Attend First Meeting

Others were Lawrence H. Best, O. G. Holway and Fred Elias, of Hazel Park; John L. Carey, of Springfield Township and Howard C. Decker, of Pontiac Township.

2 Industrialists Await Tax Evasion Sentence

DETROIT (AP)—Two Detroit industrialists charged with evading $659,404 in income taxes in 1947-48 pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) to one count of a six-count indictment in Federal Court yesterday.

They are Leonard Friedman, president, and Benjamin Goldberg, vice president and secretary, of the LaFayette Steel Co. They were released under $50,000 bonds to await sentence.

The pair was indicted in January 1954.

Troy Residents Approve Budget

To Schedule Election on Increase of Taxes at Later Date

TROY TOWNSHIP—Subject to a later election, a 1955-56 budget of $199,000 has been approved by the annual meeting of the township.

The sum is $55,000 higher than this year, and is a record high for the township.

The budget hinges on the voters reaction to a tax increase of 2.25 mills to raise $73,800 for added expenses to the police, fire and recreation departments of the township.

A vote on this will be held at some date other than the June 7 vote on incorporation.

The township is seeking the receipt of 1 mill from the 15 mill levy from the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board, to finance a portion of the proposed increase. If this is approved, voters will ballot on only a 1.25 mill increase.

Included in the budget is a provision for hiring two additional policemen, raising the force to five officers. Funds for a new fire truck and a fire station are also in the budget.

Newsmen to Appeal Contempt Conviction

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Six newspapermen and a free-lance photographer who were convicted of contempt yesterday for defying a ban on taking pictures in a courthouse will test the ban through an appeal to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

Attorneys for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and the Greensburg Tribune Review said yesterday that they would file without delay an appeal from the contempt finding by the Westmoreland County Court judges.

* * * *

The two newspapers took pictures in the Westmoreland County Courthouse corridors of John Wesley Wable after he was convicted there last Dec. 28 of two slayings on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

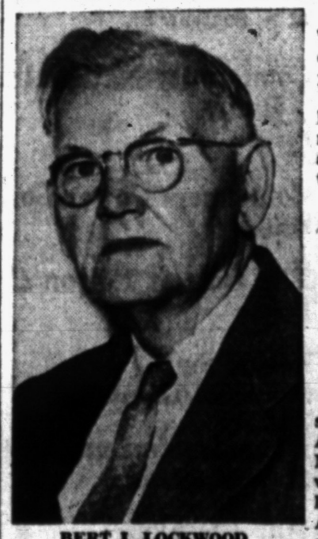

An order of the court issued on the eve of Wable's trial forbade taking pictures of prisoners anywhere in the courthouse or the adjoining jail.

(AP) — Fred Marinelli, retired coal miner who came from Italy in 1903, has bought a $5,000 car decorated like the American flag — red and white stripes and a blue, star-spangled hood. The special paint job on the Lincoln cost him an extra $100. He explained: "I'm planning a trip back to Italy later this year. I'm going to take my car with me to show people of my old country how America treats immigrants."

Suggestions of Fire Chiefs Offered to Reduce Hazard

Fire officials throughout Oakland County today offered suggestions for combating the rash of grass fires which is keeping their forces on the run.

Unusually dry spring weather coupled with high winds combined recently to keep alarms in township halls ringing frequently.

Behind the troublesome blazes is the threat that a fire in a home may get a good start before fire-fighting equipment can be recalled from dousing a grass fire.

"The township fire department has been plagued for the past week with grass fires," Waterford Township Acting Fire Chief Ed Smith said today.

"These grass fires have cost not only time and equipment but also the lives of many small game animals. In addition shrubbery and small fruit trees in the area are also damaged," he added.

He suggested picking a spot well away from the house and garage, and cleaning a strip of earth around the pile.

"Don't try to burn too much at one time, and have a pail of water and a wet broom ready. When you are done, soak embers with water and stir to be sure all embers are wet.

"If the rain hadn't come, we'd have still been going. My suggestion is for residents to burn their trash when the wind dies down, toward evening," Price stated.

Pontiac Township Fire Chief Carl Schingeck has come up with a possible solution to the annual problem.

"Our department had 3,000 copies of the conservation law governing open fires printed last year, and distributed to every house in our area.

"We still have grass fires, but this idea has more than paid for itself in educating the public. Our residents now know they should secure a permit. We've only had one really bad grass fire so far this year," Chief Schingeck stated.

Circuit Judges Order Election

Carver School Voting to Recall 2 Members Will Be Scheduled

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP—The three Oakland County Circuit judges yesterday signed an order calling for a recall election on two George Washington Carver School Board positions within 30 days.

The trio ruled recall petitions valid March 31 which had been circulated by a Citizens Improvement Committee against board members Chester Carter and Mrs. Loretta Baker.

They were filed by board member James E. Harrison, who heads a two-man minority on the body claiming reforms are needed in the school's administration.

The order directs the board to employ a qualified elections officer to set up the balloting.

Charles Jones, attorney for Carter and Mrs. Baker, yesterday told Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor that he will appeal the circuit judges' ruling to the State Supreme Court.

"If an appeal is taken, the election would have to be held off until the high court makes a decision," said Taylor. However, a regular school board election is coming up in July, he pointed out.

Formed in 1945, the school district has seen parents picketing the building, fish-fights at board meetings, disputed elections and the alleged beating last January of Mrs. Baker.

Bingo Permitted Under Right Rules

DETROIT (UP) — Despite an amendment to the State Constitution banning it, bingo apparently was still legal in Detroit today — if you play it by the right rules.

A game was played at the American-Serbian Memorial Hall last night and police, though fully aware of the game, made no attempt to stop it.

Precinct police said they had been notified of the game and that it had been approved by the Wayne County prosecutor's office.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor Ralph Garber has ruled that the game is legal where admission is charged at the door but cards are not sold individually.

Garber said this system eliminates the necessary elements of gambling and has refused to issue warrants in such cases.

Police Supt. Jack Harvill said he knew nothing about the game but "we go by the prosecutor's ruling."

Wilson Buys Southern Farm

4,000 Acre Plantation in Louisiana Acquired for Cattle Project

WASHINGTON — Purchase by Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson of a 4,000-acre estate in Louisiana has been confirmed here. He is expected to take possession in the near future.

The estate, known as "Richland", includes an antibellum home dating back to 1820. The sellers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Dudley, have restored the spacious house during the past few years to the approximate state of the original plantation home.

No purchase price was released but it is understood to be in the neighborhood of $200,000. Secretary Wilson first saw the property some months ago when he paid a visit to Gov. Robert F. Kennon in Baton Rouge.

Secretary Wilson and his son, Edward E. Wilson of Bloomfield Hills, are associated in raising dairy cattle on a farm on Coolidge and Crooks road in southeast Oakland county.

The Wilsons plan to use the Louisiana plantation for production of beef cattle, and possibly for further experiments in breeding dairy cattle adaptable to hot climates of the nation.

Studio Suspends Rita for Failure to Begin Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Rita Hayworth has been suspended by her studio because she failed to report for work on a new picture.

Columbia Pictures announced the suspension yesterday, and asserted that under her contract she cannot work elsewhere until she makes two films for Columbia.

The warfare between the actress and the studio broke out last Thursday. She notified Columbia that she was not reporting for work on "Joseph and His Brethren," scheduled to start shooting Monday. Her lawyers then filed suit in federal court to end her contract, contending that postponement of the picture's starting date had nullified the agreement.

Miss Hayworth said the delayed start interfered with her plans to make a trip to Europe. The studio said she had no grounds for ending her contract.

Congress to Probe Refugee Relief Act

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kilgore (D-WVa) said today he agrees there should be an inquiry by Congress into operations of the Refugee Relief Act, as demanded by Edward J. Corsi and promised by Sen. Langer (R-ND).

Langer announced last night that a Judiciary subcommittee on immigration which he heads will "conduct a full and complete" inquiry to see how the program is working. He said he hoped to work out detailed plans at a subcomittee meeting this afternoon.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn), meanwhile, asked Secretary of State Dulles to explain security aspects of his ouster of Corsi as a State Department adviser on refugee problems.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt), however, said in an interview that while the Corsi case might have been "mishandled," he thinks "there was nothing else Secretary Dulles could do."

"I think the secretary probably realized he was faced with an impossible situation, with the House (judiciary) committee opposed to Corsi," Aiken said.

Deutsch to Film Life of Singer Buddy Clark

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — What a very interesting story Armand Deutsch has chosen for his first independent picture after leaving MGM! When I tell you that it is based on the real life story of the late singer Buddy Clark and his gallant wife, Nedra, you'll know what I mean. Buddy was one of the most popular singers in the country and had one of the happiest marriages until he was killed in a plane crash.

Armand tells me, "But don't think this will be a downbeat picture. It is the story of a woman's great courage and spirit set against a background of Buddy's greatest recordings."

"I want to do this very much," Joan told me when I called her between scenes on "Queen Bee." "What actress wouldn't want the part of the great Schiaparelli, not only wearing gorgeous gowns but being surrounded by them in fashion shows?"

It's a new Betty Hutton at the Beachcomber's in Miami, — a Betty who now sings sweet soprano and does none of the shouting which was so characteristic of her style in the past.

Betty, it seems, has had her voice retrained by Alma Pedroza, more or less of a mystery prima donna from Mexico. She is said to have an extraordinarily high vocal range and has sung in the opera in Mexico City.

Just an agreement on terms is all that is necessary to see Mitzi Gaynor back on her old lot, 20th Century-Fox, to appear opposite Frank Sinatra in the movie about the songwriting trio, Da Sylva, Brown and Henderson.

Mitzi would play Marie Da Sylva. The strongest boosters for Mitzi are producer Henry Ephrom and Phoebe Ephrom, who wrote the screenplay of "No Business Like Show Business."

Actor Purdom and Wife Fail to Get Together

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A four-hour conference with a Superior Court judge left actor Edmund Purdom and his blonde wife Tita without a reconciliation.

The Purdoms separated last November and he filed suit for divorce in January charging mental cruelty. It was delayed automatically when Mrs. Purdom, former London dancer, applied for a reconciliation.

* * *

She emerged tearfully from Superior Judge Louis H. Burke's chambers yesterday after the lengthy discussions. She had nothing to say. The British-born Purdom spoke for both of them:

"When people separate, there are problems. Divorce doesn't necessarily solve these problems. What we are trying to do is get at the problems, and solve them, whether there is a divorce or not."

The Purdoms have two children. Another session was set with Judge Burke in two weeks, Purdom said. "The judge is accomplishing something."

Reporters asked him about the reports that a romance between him and Linda Christian caused the breakup. "The problems are from within, not without, as has been suggested," he said.

Moisture Spurs Wheat Selling

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavy moisture over wide areas of the winter wheat belt, including some which have been dry for a long time, created moderate selling pressure in wheat on the Board of Trade today.

While wheat opened lower and was unable to recover back to the previous close, other grains did much better than the bread cereal. Soybeans recouped opening losses. Feed grains were only slightly easier at the start and then made small gains.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was unchanged to ¾ lower, May $2.08¼; corn ⅛ to ⅜ higher, May $1.42⅝; oats unchanged to ¼ higher May 71; rye ½ lower to ¼ higher, May 96½; soybeans ¼ lower to ½ higher, May $2.49⅝; and lard unchanged at 2 cents lower, May $13.15.

Family Reveals Dr. Sam Letter

Slayer Told Mother He Would Like to Join His Murdered Wife

CLEVELAND (AP)— Dr. Samuel Sheppard wrote his mother from a jail cell that he "would like to join" his dead wife but added "she would be totally disappointed if I should give up."

The letter, made public by the osteopath's family last night, was written Aug. 5, a month after pretty Marilyn Sheppard was murdered. It came at a time when detectives were questioning Dr. Sheppard who later was convicted of second-degree murder.

Dr. Sheppard, now 31, is in the Cuyahoga County Jail awaiting an appeal of the conviction. He wrote:

"The last question period was yesterday morning. All the detectives without exception have said there is absolutely no evidence of premeditation in this case.

"The ones yesterday denied their wish to get a false confession, but for me to have faith in God if innocent. After all their statements, a man almost wished he could answer their questions.

"They attempted to mold the suspect to their impression of him. According to them, I would be better off legally and treated much better by them if I were guilty and could explain their questions.

"It would be impossible for a guilty man to go through this going-over without confessing, in my opinion."

He also told his mother: "Don't wish to go over and over these things and subject you to all this, but I think I'll be better off to express these feelings in writing than to keep them inside."

The mother, while she was alive, refused to make the letter public.

CIO Backs TB Group in Fight for Howell San

LANSING (AP) - The Michigan Tuberculosis Association today reported it had the support of the Michigan CIO Council in its running fight against groups proposing the conversion of the State TB Sanatorium at Howell to a mental hospital.

"Taking a sanatorium away from tuberculosis and giving it to mental health will solve nothing," said Barney Hopkins, secretary-treasurer of the CIO Council.

"To deprive southeastern Michigan of the facilities of the Howell sanatorium would seriously affect public health in that part of the state."

Group Reports Bankruptcies Up

65,000 Cases Expected to Be Filed This Year, Lawmakers Claim

WASHINGTON (INS) — The House Appropriations Committee reported today that the U. S. is threatened with the greatest number of bankruptcies in the country's history — exceeding even those of depression days.

The committee's surprise warning was embodied in a report to the House on a bill appropriating 450 million dollars for the 1956 fiscal year for the State and Justice departments, the Federal Judiciary, and the U. S. Information Service. The committee-approved bill went to the floor for immediate consideration.

The committee stated that during the current fiscal year ending June 30 approximately 65,000 bankruptcy cases will be filed. It added that 75,000 are expected to be filed in the year beginning July 1.

The committee did not elaborate on the significance of the rise in bankruptcies. However, Edwin L. Covey, chief of the bankruptcy division of the U. S. Courts' Administrative Office, testified recently that "the upward trend began in 1953 when 40,087 cases were filed."

Covey, who has been associated with bankruptcy work for the past 36 years, said 53,136 cases were filed in 1954, an increase of nearl7 one-third over the preceding year.

The greatest number of bankruptcies ever filed was 70,049 in 1932, at the height of the Depression.

Rep. John Rooney (D NY), chairman of the House appropriations subcommittee which heard Covey, told the federal official: "This is appalling news, because as I read the newspapers, everything in this country is fine and dandy, better than ever."

Covey gave this breakdown for bankruptcies in the 1954 fiscal year: Farmers, 322; employes, 40,889; professional people, 154; housewives and others not in business, 3,359; retail merchants, 3,-191; manufacturers, 745; service-type businesses, such as garages and cleaning establishments, 4,-476.

The committee approved the entire allotment of $1,151,400 requested for bankruptcy referees' salaries and $1,650,000 for their expenses.

The committee cut only seven per cent from the overall funds requested by the administration. Here is the way the funds were allocated: State Department, $126,-769,977, a reduction of $20,497,220; Justice Department, $197,525,000, a cut of $3,960,000; U. S. Information Agency, $80,500,000 or $8,-000,000 less than asked; and $16,-000,000 for refugee relief, the entire amount requested.

The federal bureau of investigation received the full $88,000,000 requested, a boost of $8,618,000 over the current fiscal year.

Claims Steel Boom Is 'Mushrooming'

NEW YORK (INS)—The magazine Iron Age reported today that the steel boom is "mushrooming."

It said some major producers are operating far in excess of capacity without making any appreciable dent in order backlogs, and noted that incoming business is running as much as 50 per cent above capacity among the larger mills.

Iron Age pointed out, however, that production is not the only problem confronting the industry. It cited the scrap supply situation.

In this connection, the publication reported that the State and Defense Departments are taking a strong stand against scrap export restrictions, since they favor giving our European allies what they need to maintain production, and scrap is vitally necessary.

Good Business Surprises Some

Others Wondering How Long Present Tempo Can Continue

NEW YORK (AP)—Business is so good for most companies today that it's surprising some businessmen — and making others ask: "How long can this last?"

* * *

Doubts about the second half are widespread. But a number of executives are so pleased with the way the year has started out and picked up momentum that they foresee new sales records.

Ernest R. Breech, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., says his firm is turning out cars in greater volume than ever. But retail demand is outstripping production and dealers' stocks are lower than they should be. Ford is increasing production schedules steadily.

* * *

The big demand for autos, the Commerce Department reports, sent total retail sales volume during March to 14½ billion dollars, 15 per cent higher than a year ago.

Du Pont's sales and profits are running about 17 per cent ahead of 1954. President Crawford H. Greenewalt reports. He sees a good chance for Du Pont's sales this year to top 1953's record.

Metal producers, aided by booming demand and higher prices, are also optimistic.

* * *

Through all this record of cheer runs the one thread of doubt: Is this too good to last? Some look for a slowdown from summer on. But many are predicting good times will last into 1956.

New Actress to Star as 'Miss Marlowe'

Murrow's Staff Fights to Hide Mike on Marilyn

By EARL WILSON

★ ★ ★ ★

We understand everybody associated with Ed Murrow's program wanted the privilege of planting the hidden walkie-talkie on Marilyn Monroe's person. Usually it's concealed inside the bodice. Janet Leigh wouldn't let anybody fix it on her but Janet Leigh, though usually a gent does it.

BARBARA

★ ★ ★ ★

Bob and Ray did it on their radio show: "Let the Household Finance Co. solve your financial problems! Do you need cash? Do you owe money?" . . . "Yes, I do" . . . "Well, sir, don't waste a minute! Why don't you go to the Household Finance Co.?" . . . "That's who I owe the money to."

★ ★ ★ ★

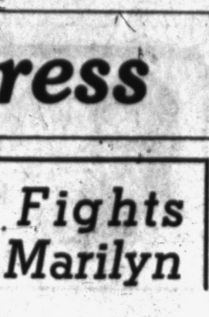

Marion Marlowe'll play Las Vegas—at the new hotel, "The Dunes"—from June 13 to July 12, then take a California vacation for two weeks. When's she marrying Larry Puck? . . . "I think pretty soon. I'm getting lonesome."

★ ★ ★ ★

"The career of a pop singer" as outlined by Kermit Schafer who produced those "Pardon My Blooper" record albums:

1949—Finished last in servicemen's amateur contest.

MARION

1951—While changing tire near B'way, the jack slipped, car fell on his toe, he screamed in pain and anger. Overheard by Mitch Miller of Columbia Records who signed him to record contract for "inventing new song style." Picture on Life and Look same day. Had dates with Gloria Vanderbilt and Zsa Zsa Gabor. Insisted they were just friends.

1952—Turned down $1,000,000 a night to play Las Vegas.

DIDI

Cummings gets scissored twice a week for his NBC TV show and two barbers began slugging each other—while he was in the chair—over which should have been photographed with him . . . each insisting he gives the haircut better. The special short coiffure was created for Italian Prince Umberto's royal head about 1895.

★ ★ ★ ★

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Steve Allen'll use George Gobel's NBC studio and El Capitan Theater for his TV program when he goes to Los Angeles in June to play Benny Goodman's life story at Universal. Jayne Meadows, his wife, will be in another movie . . . Joe E. Lewis is off to play 16 weeks at El Rancho Vegas —longest run of any star in that town.

Red Skelton, ailing again, has a date at Mayo Clinic . . . Ava Norring was tossed by a horse, the wedding gift from her husband . . . Didi Douglas, singing at the Park Avenue, wears a gold-flecked dress that costs 30 bucks a yard.

Pretty Lee Sharon's giving up stripping, with Sammy Davis Jr. planning her new cafe act . . . Nat Cole sat in at the piano at Louis Armstrong's huge Basin Street opening . . . A Vegas visitor writes, "The only thing that closes early here is the Western Union office—so you can't wire your winnings home."

Redmond Cribben, suspected in a N. Y. bank job, may be returned to sports; he was Sing Sing's best athlete . . . Teresa Wright's here to see shows and may leave with a new play . . . Doris Duke's Hawaiian mansion was damaged by fire.

★ ★ ★ ★

A customer at Lindy's mentioned the many suntans there and someone said, "Of course—the walters are all back from their Miami vacations!" That's earl, brother.

Louise Albritton Leaves Serial

Dentist Provides Break for Helen Shields, Born in British Honduras

In a space of seven weeks, she has accepted two new major roles —both of them enormously time-consuming.

Seven weeks ago, she became the mother of a baby girl named Sharon Helen and shortly thereafter agreed to succeed Louise Allbritton in the role of Maggie Marlowe on "Concerning Miss Marlowe," TV Daydrama.

Born in Belize, British Honduras, of Alabama-born parents (her father was with the United Fruit Company), Helen attended high school in Mexico City. Upon her graduation, Helen convinced her parents she was old enough to go to New York and become an actress.

However, Helen says that when she arrived she was too bashful to look for a job and so for the first few months "just suffered." She did manage to get into summer stock and joined her family in Washington the following year where she worked for the Capital City radio station doing an early moring shopping program for a department store.

Back in New York, Helen got into Gotham radio through her dentist who just happened to know a station manager, and who sent her to see him. This led to Helen's reading for the late Martha Atwell, director of many radio serials, and to being cast in the serial "Rich Man's Darling."

Since then, Helen has done a good deal of radio serial work but she has also remained close to the theater. In addition to summer stock every year, Helen appeared in several New York shows including the revival of "Liliom" which starred Elia Kazan, Burgess Meredith and Ingrid Bergman.

She understudied the feminine lead in "A Streetcar Named Desire," summer-toured in the starring role of "Angel Street," and was in road companies of S'"The Silver Whistle" and "Apple of Your Eye."

She appeared in the movie "The Whistle at Eaton Falls," and has been seen on "Robert Montgomery Presents," "U. S. Steel," "Celanese Theater," "The Web" and other TV series.

McNamara Gives Up Job on School Board

DETROIT (AP)—Sen. Patrick V. McNamara (D-Mich) gave up his job as a member of the Detroit Board of Education yesterday and Dr. Remus Robinson, a surgeon, was named to fill out his unexpired term.

Dr. Robinson, the first Negro ever elected to the board, was chosen at the April 4 election to succeed McNamara on July 1 for a six-year term.

Sen. McNamara told the board, "Perhaps it would be beneficial to the board as well as the newly elected member to serve now rather than wait until July 1." McNamara was elected senator in the Democratic sweep in Michigan last November, upsetting Republican Homer Ferguson.

State Man Admits Shooting of Rival

MUSKEGON (AP)—Authorities today held a 31-year-old factory worker who they say admitted the fatal shooting of Isaiah Lang, 31, on a lonely country road two days ago.

Lang's body, riddled with 14 wounds from a .22 caliber rifle, was found by a search party last night in a wooded area not far from his home in Blue Lake Township, about 10 miles north of Muskegon.

Held without charge in Muskegon County Jail was Robert Anderson Nance of Dalton Township. Officers said he admitted provoking Lang into an argument over the affections of a woman, then shooting him to death.

Lang, a foundry worker, had been missing since Monday morning when he drove his wife to work. Dalton Township firemen started a search after Township Constable Arthur Davis noticed Lang's abandoned car on the roadside. The body was found about 300 feet from the car.

Lang and Nance both were married. Neither had any children.

Russia Uses Terror to Get Uranium Ore

He revealed that the Soviet Union has dominated the country's uranium operations and used terroristic methods and forced labor to extract the ore.

In an affidavit to U.S. authorities in West Germany and submitted to the United Nations, Kubacka stated that more and more Russians are being sent to take over control of the mining operations. He reported even Czech Communists are viewing this "with much easiness."

Kubacka's account, which covers the period of his imprisonment as a slave laborer from August, 1951, until his escape on July 7, 1954, provided the most recent account of Russia's exploitation of Czechoslovakia's rich uranium deposits.

It indicated the rush with which the Kremlin is piling up all available uranium supplies in order to match the Western powers' lead in both the military and civilian uses of nuclear energy.

Kubacka's story was but one of a dozen sworn accounts by refugees from Communist-run Czechoslovakia, Poland, Albania and Hungary on forced labor operations inside the satellite countries.

The young refugee told of his ordeals in the uranium camps and the brutality meted out to prisoners for the slightest infractions or for failure to produce according to the required quotas. Some of the tortures, he said, included solitary confinement in dark, narrow dungeons, starvation and beatings.

The camps, he said, are run under the iron fist of the STB, the Communist State Secret Police.

Kubacka indicated all the ore mined by the slave laborers is sent to Russia. Sixty trains a week —and possibly more—are being dispatched eastward into the Soviet Union, without any compensation for the Czech state.

"First there were relatively few Russians, all in civilian clothes. Recently more and more Russians have taken over functions. Now there are some 40 at pit 11 (one of the work areas in the Joachimsthaler mine).

"They have displaced inspectors and other Czech experts, although their technical attainments are small. Czechs view this development with much uneasiness.

"The overseers allude ironically to the competence of the Russians who, as they even tell them to their faces in the course of discussions, have only come in order to learn from the Czechs.

"Many Communists also, as was likewise brought out in discussions with prisoners, realize that the most valuable minerals are being taken from Czechoslovakia to Russia without compensation to the Czech Republic for them."

Slampa Milan, another Czech escapee from the uranium camps, corroborated the state of affairs in the camps as told by Kubacka. Milan said prisoners who completed their sentences and were set free were made to swear in writing not to divulge the secrets of the uranium mines.

Both former inmates said the Communist Prague regime's so-called amnesty of prisoners last year, highly vaunted by Red propaganda organs, was but a political move. The amnesty, according to Kubacka, "did not apply to political prisoners or to any who had been sentenced by state tribunals." Subsequently, he added, a special supplementary edict was issued to cover "collaborators."

U.N. records are brimming with accounts of slave labor conditions in Russia, Red China and satellite countries. Efforts by the U.N. to point out the situation and bring an end to slave labor practices have been sharply rebuffed by the Soviets.

Texas Solons Push State's Onion Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress may have a new air about it as it reconvenes from its Easter recess.

"New, tender and sweet Texas onions"—20,000 pounds of 'em—will be parceled out to returning House and Senate members tomorrow. There will be some too for government officials.

Rep. Kilgore (D-Tex) said the "season's first and best onions... will be distributed by wives of Texas members, gaily costumed.

Austin Anson, executive secretary of the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Growers and Shippers Assn., acknowledged the distribution is a promotion stunt and he told reporters:

"If we can get the nation's capital Texas - onion conscious, the word and maybe the perfume will spread out over the whole land."
