4-H ROYALTY — Beryl Austin, 15, of 6960 Kier, Groveland Township, and Bill Rathburg, 18, of 1271 S. Lapeer, Oxford Township, were crowned king and queen of the Oakland County 4-H Fair last night. They were chosen on the basis of their contributions to 4-H and their community.

4-H Fair Draws Biggest Crowd

The Oakland County 4-H Fair got off to a running start last night with what veteran fair officials described as the largest crowd ever in its history.

There was standing room only in the grandstand and on the hillside beside the horse arena for the evening program, which included the crowning of the king and queen. The Pontiac Press freckle contest, judging of the best-costumed riders in three categories and presentation of parade awards.

Today is kiddies day at the fair with prices reduced on the amusement rides until 5 p.m. This evening's program, beginning at 7 p.m., will feature Milky, the Magic Clown.

Also on tonight's program will be the senior beef showmanship contest, a pie-eating contest, the Moore Studio Singers of Owosso and a tractor operating contest.

Western halter class riders will take the arena at 9 a.m. tomorrow and sheep judging is scheduled for 10 a.m.

LIVESTOCK AUCTION

Dog obedience classes will perform in competition at 1 p.m. A dog obedience demonstration, supervised by Regina Armstrong, K-9 4-H Club leader, is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Annual highlight of the fair, the auction sale of prize-winning livestock, will begin at 8 p.m.

Tomorrow night's entertainment will also include the prize-winning Jackie Rae Dance Studio drill team.

Fair officials were hard pressed to find room for all the exhibits this year as the fair continues to grow.

The fair will continue through Saturday night this year instead of closing at Saturday noon as in past years.

Tiger Manager Dressen Dies

DETROIT (AP) — Charlie Dressen, manager of two pennant-winning baseball teams at Brooklyn in the early 1960s, and most recently manager of the Detroit Tigers, died today in Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital.

Tiger officials said the hospital had informed them Dressen, who would have been 68 next Monday, died at 10:30 a.m. (EST) of a cardiac arrest.

Dressen entered the hospital last Sunday with a kidney infection that followed two heart attacks, one last year and the second this spring.

He is survived by his widow, Ruth.

Dressen, somewhat quieter as manager of the Detroit Tigers his last job—than he was during his playing days and early managerial assignments, had been in good spirits despite his ill health.

SUCCESSOR SIDELINED

He had to give up active management of the team after his second heart attack May 16. Coach Bob Swill took over as acting manager, then was himself put out of action by cancer of the lung.

Dressen took over from Bob Scheffing during the 1962 season while the club was in ninth place and was in the midst of molding what was perhaps his best team since the pennant winners of Brooklyn when he suffered his first heart attack during spring training in 1965.

Part of Dressen's daily ritual after his heart attacks were long walks.

He took walks daily from the hotel when he was released following his first attack but was confined to the hotel for much of the time after the second one. He died most of his walking in the hills.

STRANGER TO ILLNESS

Dressen often boasted of never having suffered injury during his playing days. The first heart attack brought him face-to-face with serious illness for the first time.

He often said he never expected to take orders and have to follow them the way he did with the doctors.

Under Dressen, the Tigers finished in a tie for fifth in 1963.

They were fourth in the American League in 1964 and 1965.

His heart attack during spring training prevented him from assuming his managerial duties until Memorial Day.

City Seeking Solons' Help

Ask Top-Level Inquiry Into Fate of Program

Three members of Congress will be asked to investigate why Housing and Urban Development (HUD) authorities have not reauthorized HUD's workable program for community improvement.

The decision to ask for the top-level inquiry followed discussion last night by the City Commission of a 90-acre housing project — including public housing for the elderly — on Auburn west of the osteopathic college site.

The commission is to invite a HUD representative here to explain details of a housing project proposal presented informally to the commission Monday night by Developer Charles L. Lange of Waterford Township.

Meantime, reauthorization of the workable program, which is necessary before any federal programs can be undertaken, is an obstacle to doing any development, as Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. last night reminded the commission.

Commissioner Leslie R. Hudson said Sen. Philip Hart, Congressman Billie S. Farnum and Sen. Robert Griffin should be asked to investigate why the workable program hasn't been reauthorized.

GAVE INFORMATION

Hudson said the city had complied with HUD requests for information on the workable program.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren said calls on the workable program to the Chicago regional HUD office were met with the reply: "It's in process."

Spokesman Feels Men Will Reject Idea in Vote, Continue Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of the grounded airlines and their striking mechanics agreed today to try to set up an arbitration panel for ending the air travel tie-up, but the chief labor spokesman said he doubts his members will agree.

Members of the International Association of Machinists employed by the five trunk lines would have to vote on whether to submit unresolved issues to arbitration and go back to work in the meanwhile, union president P.L. Stiemiller said.

And, he said in an interview, "If you ask me whether they will agree, I would say no."

A membership vote killed one effort at settlement 10 days ago after negotiations had agreed to it.

However, Stiemiller said he would advise the union membership that the alternative to the arbitration panel is legislation by Congress.

OPTIMISM

Some optimism had been generated in Congress by the agreement to try to set up the arbitration panel.

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., called it encouraging, and said in a statement: "Perhaps this voluntary method of settlement will establish a pattern for similar disputes where essential public services are deeply involved."

Stiemiller estimated it will take 3 1/2 days to get the men's verdict.

Speaking for the carriers, William J. Curtis accepted the idea in principle.

LEGISLATION

The agreement was reached as the committee moved toward action on back-to-work legislation after failure of a new negotiating effort last night.

The hearing went ahead. AFL-CIO President George Meany told a news conference that a proposed law to halt the strike would be a step toward socialism. He urged Congress members "do not regret for the rest of your lives."

Meany, whose request for permission to testify before the House Commerce Committee was denied, said the pending bill would strike at basic freedom of Americans and "deliver a crippling blow to the whole labor movement and to the liberty of every American who works for wages."

Detroit Police on Alert After Disturbance

DETROIT (AP) — Police leaves were canceled and officers were placed on 12-hour shifts today in an effort to prevent a repetition of last night's disturbances in a racially mixed area of Detroit's east side.

The precautions were announced by Police Commissioner Ray Girardin who said, however, that he did not expect trouble.

Girardin also said ministers and other civic leaders, both Negro and white, of the section that borders the exclusive Grosse Pointe area had been asked to urge parents to keep their children off the streets.

A routine arrest resulted last night in a fight that drew a crowd. Windows were broken, cars belonging to both Negroes and white were stoned during a 30-minute period in which 150 policemen sealed off the area and cleared the streets.

Light Showers Likely to End

Cloudy skies and some light showers may be expected through tonight with rain ending tomorrow morning.

The weatherman reports temperatures will continue about the same, lows tonight registering 46 to 62. Highs will aim for 72 to 79 tomorrow.

Partly cloudy and a little warmer is Friday's prediction.

A low of 58 was recorded prior to 8 a.m. today. At 3 p.m. the mercury had reached 66.

2 U.S. Jets Kill S. Viets by Mistake

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Fifteen South Vietnamese civilians were killed and 182 wounded when two U.S. Air Force jets bombed and strafed a village in the Mekong Delta, an Air Force spokesman announced today.

He attributed the error to the local Vietnamese province chief who picked the target.

The attack took place last night eight miles from Can Tho, the largest town in the Mekong Delta. The F105 Super Sabre jets hit the village with bombs and 28mm cannon fire.

The error was not discovered for 14 hours. Then help was rushed to the scene and the injured were taken to the U.S. hospital in Can Tho.

In the Central Highlands, an outnumbered company of the Korean Tiger Division decimated a North Vietnamese battalion of about 600 men in a bitter all-night battle lit by flares from circling American planes.

HOLD GROUND

The Koreans killed 170 Red soldiers and held the jungle battlefield when dawn came, taking in an unusually high total of 78 Communist weapons.

The battle flared west of Pleiku seven miles from the Cambodian border in an area where three North Vietnamese regiments are reported by intelligence.

While the Koreans held the field, American warplanes swept in with rockets and bombs.

In both North and South Viet Nam, U.S. planes made hundreds of strikes, including a B-57 raid on a suspected troop hideout 40 miles northwest of the South Vietnamese coastal town of Qui Nhon.

PILOT DOWN

For the first time in two days, the U.S. command announced no aircraft losses in the Communist North. But the Air Force disclosed that the top pilot of the war, Maj. James H. Kasler, 40, Indianapolis, was shot down in his F105 Thunderchief 70 miles northwest of Hanoi on Monday.

Other airmen saw Kasler bail out and made radio contact with him on the ground but helicopters were unable to pick him up. He was presumed captured, although officially listed as missing.

GMC Truck Cites Record Production

GMC Truck & Coach Division production for 1965-66 has set an all-time record for a model year, it was announced today.

Calvin J. Werner, a vice president of General Motors and general manager of GMC Truck & Coach Division, said the production figure of 134,735 vehicles also included record highs for five individual models.

The output of commercial trucks and buses was nearly 6 percent above the previous production mark of 127,176 vehicles established in 1964-65.

The record months and their production totals for 1965:

- September, 11,264;
- October, 12,188;
- November, 12,531;

The record months for 1966 were:

- June, 12,755;
- July, 11,124.

Production, which ended Friday for the previous model year at the division, is scheduled to resume Aug. 22.

A GMC spokesman said some 8,000 employees will return to work on a gradual basis.

Assembly operations at Pontiac Motor Division are slated to resume the following Monday, one week after GMC Truck & Coach Division returns to production.

Fisher Body Plant employees are expected to be called back sometime later this month after closing out 1965-66 production last week.

U. S. Viet Commitment

Signs Point to Korea-Size War by Christmas

EDITOR'S NOTE — President Johnson says more U.S. fighting men will be required in Vietnam — and more will be sent. Where does the troop buildup stand now? And most important, where is it headed? In this article, Associated Press Writer Bob Horton reviews the American commitment in Vietnam and looks to its future.

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Signs mount that the United States may have a Korea-sized war on its hands in Vietnam around Christmas.

This would mean an American commitment of about 470,000 men in Southeast Asia, on peak level of U.S. forces used in Korea as a means of trying to

a settlement of the conflict.

"More manpower will be required," President Johnson told a news conference July 20. "We

Gen. William C. Westmoreland

D-Miss., told The Associated Press the force "necessary to do the job on the ground" could eventually run as high as 500,000.

"It's very apparent we're going to need more men there,"

Stennis, chairman of a Defense subcommittee, said. He predicted in January U.S. troops in Viet-Nam would hit 400,000 by the end of this year.

One Pentagon official, who

the actual 1966 year-end strength in Viet Nam probably will be nearer 375,000. But he said defense officials have talked of a 500,000-man ground force to be available within coming months.

capability and that at this point

there has been no firm decision to deploy men in such numbers.

The whole question of the

spiral attention this week with word of two studies casting doubt on the adequacy, over the

American forces in Viet Nam.

NIXON ESTIMATE

About the same time, former

was saying in Saigon after meeting with top military officials he felt a half million men would be needed to win the war.

Speculation immediately arose that Nixon was reflecting the view of Westmoreland.

The two studies — whose existence coincidentally became

ington level examination.

And Johnson told a news conference Tuesday he had neither seen nor heard of any such re-

School Money Woes of Detroit Examined

LANSING (AP) — The state pays a smaller share of school costs in Detroit than in other districts but Detroit's problems are bigger, Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh told Gov. George Romney Tuesday.

Romney met with educators, Detroit leaders and legislators in an effort to find solutions to Detroit's school money problems.

They generally agreed that remedies should be planned in time for consideration by the Legislature when it returns Aug. 22.

A. L. Zwerdling, a member of the Detroit Board of Education, proposed a school district income tax where needed. Sen. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, suggested special aid for large cities.

'$12.5 MILLION NEEDED'
Members of the Detroit board said the district will need about $12.5 million more than the $159.4 million in its 1966-67 budget to avoid cutbacks, including proposed half-day sessions for the first and seventh grades.

Cavanagh said in 1958, state aid was paying about 41 per cent of Detroit's school costs. Since then, he said, it has dropped to 38 per cent in Detroit while climbing above an average 50 per cent in other districts.

But, he said, in large cities, while the population decreases the needs and costs of services increase.

Large cities, Cavanagh said, have more elderly residents and more low income families. These groups, he said, are less able to pay taxes but need more services.

Urging increased support for Detroit Schools, Mary Ellen Riordan, president of the Detroit Federation of Teachers, said school "is one place where there seems to be a possibility of breaking the poverty cycle and the delinquency cycle."

SURPLUS
"When you help Detroit, you don't hurt the rest of the state. You help it," said Thomas Brennan, president of the State Board of Education.

Asked about possibilities of using the state's general fund surplus to help Detroit, Romney said the surplus is just temporary.

He said it was $154 million at the end of June, would be down to an estimated $62 million next June and would disappear in 1968.

Romney and legislative leaders agreed that at least $4.5 million of Detroit's $12.5 million need could be easily filled. Detroit, they said, has budgeted $4.5 million for teachers' retirement payments which the state should handle.

Commit Boy in Girl's Death

DETROIT (AP) — A 16-year-old boy accused of raping a 4-year-old girl and beating her to death was committed Tuesday to Boys Training School at Whitmore Lake.

In committing the youth, whose identity was withheld by authorities but who was described as a dwarf, Probate Judge James H. Lincoln denied a request to try the boy as an adult.

The Wayne County prosecutors office had sought an adult trial for the youth on charges of killing Patricia Stetten July 7.

The girl's mother, Rosemary, 31, said she saw the youngster flee the basement of her apartment and discovered the body of her daughter in a coal bin.

The youth will be eligible for release from the training school on his 19th birthday. Lincoln said the only way the boy can be held after that time are by consent of his father or if he is adjudged mentally ill and is committed to an institution.

Lincoln said the court's child study clinic indicated the boy could be rehabilitated.

Hearing Is Tonight in Avon on Firm's Zoning Request

AVON TOWNSHIP — Residents will have an opportunity to make their feelings known tonight on the issue of the rezoning of 34 acres of township land for industrial use.

A hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Township Hall at which time a number of area residents are expected to present arguments against the rezoning.

The land in question is a 24.12-acre section located between Rochester and Orion Roads.

The Dura Corp., which owns the plot is seeking the zoning change in order to build a five-building complex across from the site of the National Twist Drill and Tool Co.

For the past two years the acreage has been zoned for administrative and professional use.

NEARBY OWNER

The hearing was demanded by Arthur Underwood, owner of 34 acres near the proposed industrial park site.

Underwood contends that the zoning matter will be before the board legally for the first time tonight.

The zoning board at its July 15 meeting recommended that the Dura zoning be approved, despite the objections of about 50 area residents.

Underwood said that at the time the home owners were told that the recommendation would be sent first to the Oakland County Coordinating, Zoning and Planning Committee and that it would not be considered at the July 13 meeting of the Township Board.

NO OBJECTORS

The Township Board did, however, consider the zoning matter at its July 13 meeting and approved the change, "subject to the approval of the coordinating committee."

There were no objectors present, said Underwood, because it was believed that the board could not legally rezone the land until after the county committee had considered it on July 14.

Underwood said residents are opposing the building of factories because the area is strictly residential and a plant would be a source of heavy traffic in the vicinity.

Presentation of the Ralph Braid trophy for junior beef showmanship was scheduled for 1 p.m., along with award judging and riding performance in the English halter class.

Vegetable judging and flower identification contests are also on this afternoon's docket. The children will be permitted

Hospital Unit Being Honored

ROCHESTER—The new Rochester unit of Crittenton General Hospital is being honored by a proclamation of the Village Council setting aside Aug. 13 through Aug. 19 as "Crittenton Week."

During this period and the weeks immediately following several local organizations will be presenting a variety of entertainment for the benefit of the new facility.

Friday the Rochester Rotary is sponsoring a football game between the Pontiac Arrows and the Flint Blue Devils at Rochester High School.

On Wednesday of next week the Hills Theater has a program planned that includes a "sneak preview" of a new Italian comedy film. A number of local merchants will provide door prizes.

The Rochester Elks will hold an ox roast at Warsaw Park on Aug. 27.

Tickets for the activities are available at various local sites. Construction work on the new hospital, located on Walton Boulevard at Livernois, was begun last July with completion slated for July of 1967.

Rattler Killed by White Lake Man in Yard

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — G. H. Mosser of 570 Elkford reported killing a rattlesnake in his front yard Monday.

Mosser described the snake as being approximately four feet long and two inches in diameter. He said it had two or three rattles.

Mosser's wife and daughter sighted the snake when they were leaving for work. They rushed back into the house and reported their discovery to Mosser who killed it.

The dead snake is now reposing in a bucket and is the object of attraction for neighbors and township police, who were called to the scene.

The Michigan rattler is known as the Massasauga. If not treated promptly its bite may prove fatal.

COMMON IN COUNTY

The snakes are fairly common in Oakland County. In 1965, a Waterford Township girl was bitten while playing ball on a schoolground.

District Setup Is Approved by Troy City Commission

TROY — The City Commission has voted to set up a special assessment district to finance construction of a water system in the Charnwood Hills subdivision.

The project was necessitated by a recent water shortage in the area. Five wells have gone dry already and residents have petitioned the commission for Detroit water.

City Manager Paul A. York said work on the system will begin sometime this fall with completion slated for early spring.

The area to be assessed for the system is bounded by Beach Road on the west, by Square Lake Road on the south, by a line halfway between Coolidge and Crooks on the east and by the subdivision's northern boundary on the north.

The assessment is being made on an area basis with the Charnwood No. 3 half of the district benefiting directly, according to York.

PROPERTY VALUE

The remaining half of the district, he said, would be paying for indirect benefits. Their property values would be raised by the availability of the system and it would be there for them to tie into when they need it, York said.

Engineering estimates, noted York, have placed the cost of the project at about $143,000. This figure, he said, would be met by a bond issue.

Each lot owner would be assessed an estimated $1,650, York said, payable over the 10-year life of the bond issue at six percent interest or in a lump payment, to retire the bonds.

MASTER PLAN

The city manager said the city is working on a master plan which will eventually bring Detroit water to all parts of the community.

Approximately half of Troy will be served by the system when the Maple Road water main, now nearing completion, is finished.

In other action at the Monday night meeting, the commission appointed George Peck, formerly of the Oakland County Planning Commission, to be the city's first full-time planning director.

Library Is Recipient of Gift

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The township library has received an addition to its reference collection in the form of a new set of Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The complete set was presented as a gift from the Britannica Corporation as recognition of the work done by the Friends of the Library in the past 10 years.

In 1961, when the library moved from its outgrown one-room quarters in Keego Harbor into its present building, a member of the Friends donated the use of a large van.

Men and boys volunteered their services and moved the book collection.

The money saved from the move was used to provide books and equipment for the new facility.

Members of the Friends donated over 2,600 hours of time to a supplementary staffing program when the library was forced to operate with a severely curtailed budget.

RAISE MONEY

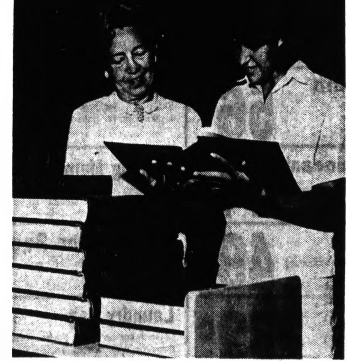

Throughout the years, the Friends have held used-book sales to raise money for new books, sponsored art exhibits showing the work of the elementary school children, and held puppet shows for the library's youngest patrons.

They also started a Great Bookworm Group, acted as hostesses for a regional conference of the Michigan Library Association and supported the Scholarship Fund of the Michigan Library Association.

Through the Friends' Newsletter, they have acted to keep the township aware of the library, its services and problems. There are over 1,200 members who belong to various groups in Michigan which work to achieve informed citizen support of their library.

Test Sled Kills Two Ford Men

DETROIT (AP) — A high-powered test sled, being prepared for a safety test, accidentally roared down a rail track at the Ford Motor Co. proving grounds in suburban Dearborn Tuesday, killing two men and injuring a third.

Research technicians James E. Kaiser, 27, of Detroit and Howard J. Riopelle Jr., 40, of nearby Taylor, were killed. Riopelle died four hours after the accident at a Dearborn hospital.

Injured was Stephen C. Keast, 22-year-old son of President William R. Keast of Wayne State University in Detroit. Keast, a Cornell University student, was working temporarily at the track during the summer. He was treated for knee bruises at the Ford Medical Clinic.

The men were working on the track in front of the sled in preparation for testing of a truck body mounted on the device, a Ford spokesman said. The Ford spokesman said Ford personnel were investigating how the accident occurred.

Grand Jury Decision Set in 48 Hours

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley will announce within 48 hours whether he will ask for a new Wayne County grand jury, he said today.

The so-called Piggins grand jury, which began nearly one year ago to investigate allegations of traffic ticket fixing, will expire Aug. 31.

If Kelley decides a new grand jury is warranted, he would make his request to Wayne County Circuit Court judges.

Today Kelley would not say whether indications of horse racing irregularities might be a factor in his decision. Nor would he speculate on asking for a grand jury in Oakland County, which is one of the tracks.

Fire Calls Rise in Waterford

Waterford Township firemen responded to 75 fire calls last month, 14 more than the previous July and 20 more than in June.

Big increases in car and grass fires accounted for the difference, according to the monthly report.

Included among the 75 fires last month were 42 of the brush and grass variety, 20 vehicle fires and nine building blazes.

The seven-month fire total this year is 346 against 335 for the same period last year. However, direct fire damage is $101,566 through July this year against $161,715 for the first seven months in 1965.

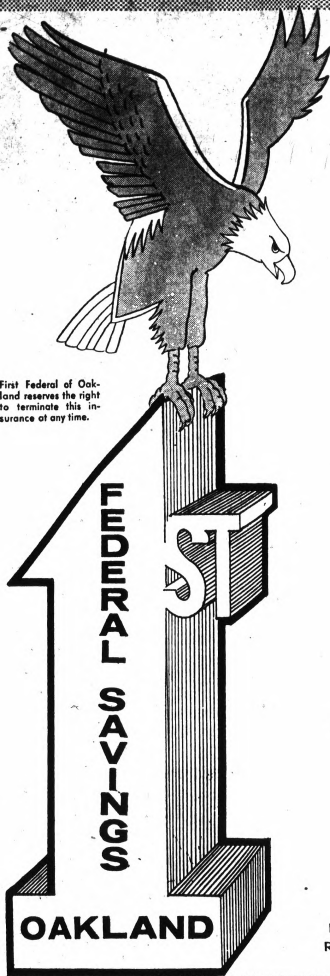

Township fire fighters answered 100 alarms last month to raise the 1966 total to 514 compared with 500 for the same period last year.

Urge Confabs to Aid Youth

Every Michigan community should hold a conference on Youth Day concerning how to improve opportunities for youth, the 1967 Michigan Week Council decided recently.

Youth Day, the final day of Michigan Week next year, will fall on Saturday, May 27.

"The main objective," stated Robert B. Miller, chairman of the Greater Michigan Foundation's Council on Youth Programs, "will be to search out all of the youth opportunities in Michigan and to determine what the young people of the state are thinking and what they seek as they look to the future."

'Truth in Packaging' Is False Idea

Having passed the Senate 72 to 9 and now before the House, another Big Brother measure to further enlarge and complicate the Federal bureaucracy is on its way to enactment. It is labeled the "truth in packaging bill."

If it becomes law, 8,000 packaged food, drug, cosmetic and sundry items for which consumers pay $63 billion annually would come under control of Federal regulation.

The proposed bill is pernicious on two counts. It is unnecessary. In the first place, because there is already ample Federal and state legislation, if enforced, to do the job. Secondly, it would inevitably be the opening wedge for a series of bureaucratic procedures in the name of consumer protection which could disorganize the most efficient system for mass manufacture and distribution of goods the world has ever known.

Moreover, there is no better sleuth than the American housewife for detecting infrequent instances of processors deliberately juggling packaging shapes and weights to deceive the public. She is pretty hip to monkey business on market shelves; and a product which violates her trust doesn't long remain there.

Backed by such an iniquitous law, there looms a government-sponsored trend toward standardization of major commodities in everyday use as to size, content, quality and, inevitably, price. This could be the road to ruin for many industries which play such an important part in the national prosperity.

It would unquestionably disrupt the packaged-goods enterprises with all their ramifications, such as national advertising in the newspapers and magazines and on radio-TV, transportation for national distribution, manufacture of cartons and packages, local employment and investment in supermarkets.

You can help head off such a calamitous blow to America's merchandising structure by contacting immediately your Congressional Representatives and enjoining them to nullify the ill-considered, portentous approval given the "truth in packaging" bill by the Senate.

Inquiries Initiated Into Racial Disorders

Belatedly, official inquiry is being made into the wave of recent rioting, looting and destruction that erupted in Negro slums in Brooklyn, Chicago, Cleveland, and in the Watts section of Los Angeles a year ago.

Suspecting that the uprisings did not spring spontaneously from excess in furtherance of civil rights but were instigated by trained leaders bent on fomenting chaos, a grand jury has begun an investigation in Cleveland while Brooklyn authorities contemplate similar action.

In the wake of the violence, sensational intelligence is surfacing indicative of the power behind the scenes.

A reliable news source pins the Chicago riots on the machinations of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM) organized by civil rights fanatics oriented toward Fidel Castro. In Cleveland, there has been identified an underground figure who aroused Negroes into attacking National Guardsmen, and another inciter, a disciple of Malcolm X, is accused of running a "bomb school."

Although Attorney General KATZENBACH says there is no present evidence of a national plot to use civil rights as a shield for organized rebellion against authority, he does say that agitators unquestionably had a hand in touching off the violence in the several communities.

The Cleveland grand jury can undoubtedly get to the bottom of the outbreak in that city, and a Brooklyn grand jury could be equally effective. But in both cases, as elsewhere, help is needed on a national level. It can only come from the Department of Justice, the one agency with the resources to track down the professionals who, it appears, are creating civil disorder for their own selfish or sinister reasons.

Air Strike Grows as Irritant

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON—One of the worst messes of the year — the airlines strike — is beginning to cause the kind of irritation that, in the end, may put tight strings on both management and labor.

The machinists' union has been on strike against five airlines over a month. This shutdown represents 60 per cent of the country's air services.

But this is an election year and Congress, not anxious to antagonize labor, has been hemming and hawing about passing legislation to force the strikers back to work until a settlement is reached.

The machinists say the airline companies figure they can hit a better bargain if Congress forces the strikers back to work and, therefore, for the past week have made no new offers. There was no bargaining last week, but talks resumed Monday.

The machinists on July 31 voted down as not big enough a wage increase agreed to by their own negotiators and the airlines and blessed by President Johnson who intervened to get a settlement.

The strike continued. Then the Johnson administration pussyfooted in this election year and refused to take a stand one way or the other on whether Congress should pass a law forcing the strikers back to work.

The Senate finally passed a resolution ordering them to return to their jobs for 30 days and giving the President authority to keep them there another 150 days until a settlement is reached.

It would be a worse mess still if, after such a measure became law, the strikers refused to return to work.

At first, the Senate sought to justify its action on the grounds that the strike had caused a national emergency. But Johnson's secretary of labor, W. Willard Wirtz, said there wasn't any such thing.

Then the Senate said the strike "threatens substantially to interrupt interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive any section of the country of essential transportation services."

NOW IN HOUSE

The House Commerce Committee is now considering action on the Senate bill but, meanwhile, the chairman, Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., urged the strikers and the companies to settle the dispute to avoid legislation "you will regret the rest of your lives."

Thereupon Wirtz summoned the negotiators of both sides to a joint session.

There have been basic frustrations about these negotiations — as there always are about any such dragged-out negotiations resulting in long strikes affecting the public interest — and the results eventually may not be good for management or labor.

Ten-Foot Pole!

David Lawrence Says:

Reform of 'Guideposts' Needed

WASHINGTON—Sometimes it takes months, if not years, for an administration to become realistic about the operation of the American economic system.

Thus, for instance, President Johnson and his advisers have just begun to realize that the LAWRENCE "guideposts" for both wages and prices which they have sponsored for the last few years are not infallible or even practicable as a means of guiding either industry or labor unions.

The administration can exert a lot of influence to increase or decrease inflation.

For the government virtually controls interest rates. It has power to enlarge or reduce the outflow of exports and the inflow of imports. It can encourage or discourage investments abroad. Finally, it can enact a tax cut that causes money to become plentiful and starts an inflation spiral which can reach such extremes eventually that severe restrictions have to be applied.

Under these circumstances, it's a healthy development that this week Secretary of Commerce Connor and Secretary of the Treasury Fowler both concede that maybe the "guideposts" extolled since 1962 are somewhat inflexible and will have to be studied further.

GUIDES 'VALUABLE'

President Johnson himself, on the other hand, told a news conference that the "guideposts" have been valuable and that inflation has not been excessive or gotten out of hand.

But nobody knows just what the "guideposts" or "guidelines" really mean in a particular industry or how "predictivity" of the workers can be accurately measured.

The government cannot operate businesses and know their day-to-day problems in a competitive world.

The two Cabinet officers have hinted that the 3.2 per cent "guideposts" should be revamped.

The President, too, says that there should be "some flexibility." He adds: "We are constantly looking for something better."

To threaten the steel industry, meanwhile, with the cutting down of space contracts, as the administration has done, or to revive the idea of dumping commodities from the stockpile on to the open market may affect prices at the moment, but the administration is, for political reasons, unable or unwilling to put similar restraints on labor unions' demands.

So the net effect is to emphasize governmental power without any particular sanction of law behind it.

Sooner or later, it will have to be recognized that, with an increasing population and a tremendously expanding economy, the role that government spending plays is truly decisive.

So the real problem is how to set up disinterested and impartial tribunals either to "guide" the economy or at least to render equitable decisions in the disputes arising over everything from interest rates to wage scales and prices and the flow of American dollars.

Nader Should Take Look at Traffic Death Study

NEW YORK — People... places... things...

The Michigan Auto Club's in-depth investigation of 42 traffic deaths during the last Memorial Day weekend suggests that Ralph Nader would extend his safety crusade beyond the car manufacturers.

Thirty-five drivers were involved in the 25 accidents. Thirty-one were men. Ten were between 17 and 19 years old; 14 between 20 and 29; and 24 (or 63 per cent) were between 30 and 39.

Ten had definitely been drinking, 17 others were checked by police as "uncertain."

The drivers averaged 6.4 previous traffic violations known to police. Eight had been called in for questioning about their records, or had had licenses suspended or restricted.

Not one report indicated that seat belts had been used by the dead.

Maybe there's more to that Pentagon cliché than meets the eye. It goes, "around here you can easily tell the optimists from the pessimists. The optimists are studying Russian. The pessimists are studying Chinese."

If Brian Epstein, manager of the Beatles, can straighten them out with the human species, somebody ought to send him to Viet Nam to clear up that one.

Best part of the Clay-London fight was ABC's nifty opening gambit — Clay footage that worked out beautifully with the lyrics of Frank Sinatra singing "In Old London Town." Early Bird has seldom been put to more imaginative use.

'Great Society' Giveaway in Reality Is Takeaway

Let Big Brother and his "Great Society" tell us whether we have the right to bear arms; settle all our strikes; keep unemployed people unemployed by providing them with subsistence payments; take care of the elderly who haven't planned for retirement or sickness (why should they?); tell us who is to live beside us and to whom we may sell our property; send the greatest share of "poverty" money to places like Texas and New York.

Haven't you felt the pinch yet? How much does the government have to take out of your paychecks before you will realize these programs are paid for not with government money, but with your money?

So let Big Brother take care of you. Let him take away your integrity, your self-reliance and your individual choice. As for me, I'll fight to protect and maintain what is rightfully mine.

Reasons for Hiroshima Bombing Recalled

While the wedding of Luci and Pat was being held, pickets paraded before the cathedral and the White House, criticizing the United States for the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, twenty years ago.

Does one remember why we bombed Hiroshima? A lot of people were killed in a few short minutes, but many American servicemen and Hawaiian civilians were killed at Pearl Harbor in another short period. Every day is an anniversary of some war atrocity. Remember when all the fighting men, wounded men, even the nurses were killed at Corregidor?

There is no nice war. War is terrible, and people die. The use of the atomic bomb saved many lives by shortening the war. It was an overwhelming decision for the President to make, but had he chosen not to use our "ultimate weapon," we might not be here today.

I believe we have the greatest crime rate in the history of Pontiac and I seldom hear of one of these robbers or hoodlums being caught.

'Will Socialists Share Fairly in Publicity?'

In previous state and national elections, Michigan voters were confronted with a bedsheet choice of parties and their candidates. Equal campaign exposure was virtually ruled out for all but the two major parties.

It will be interesting to observe "equal time" provisions in the forthcoming November general election as the Socialist Labor Party is the only opposition to the two think-alike, act-alike major parties.

The Socialist Labor Party is the only party of genuine Socialism in America and the only organization with a sensible program to meet the overriding issues of these crucial times.

Impediment...

The Boston Herald

International cooperation is such a difficult thing to bring about that even when two nations want to cooperate they sometimes find it is almost impossible.

Take the new military tank that the United States and West Germany are building on a cooperative basis. Everybody agrees that it makes more sense for both armies to be equipped with similar tanks and that the same design should be built in both countries.

But the trouble is that American bolts won't fit German threads and vice-versa. The Germans, of course, are on the metric system; we stick to inches, feet and yards.

It really does seem time for the United States to catch up to the rest of the world. The metric system is simpler to use; more people use it. Why shouldn't we jump over rulers and tape measuring tape and substitute new metric measures?

Of course it would not be that easy. Everything we have is in feet and inches. Imagine the confusion there would be! But somehow we should start introducing it. We have been out of step with the rest of the world too long.

Those Phone Calls...

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Anonymous, abusive and obscene telephone calls may soon be a rarity. Telephone companies throughout the country are beginning to move against them, and new electronic equipment is making it possible to catch the guilty persons — and quick.

New devices include gadgets to notify authorities when the answering call is being made; they "lock in" the line so that the originating telephone can be located through computers in a matter of seconds. In one New York case a prankster was arrested in a public telephone booth while he was actually making the call; the system can be that efficient.

These calls can be particularly shocking to young people and to persons being harassed for unpopular statements or actions. It is good news that means are at hand for catching the culprits.

The Dallas Times Herald
The modern girl gets a lot out of a dress and leaves it out.

Communist Peril Fading, Says U.S. Envoy to Japan

TOKYO (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer said today he regards communism as a "shrinking danger" in Japan and believes the younger generation is swinging from Marxist concepts to "a more realistic approach."

"I am not basically worried" about communism in Japan, said Reischauer who after five years as envoy to Tokyo is returning to Harvard to teach Japanese history.

Reischauer, 55, said in an interview the nationalism that plunged Japan into World War II lingers among older Japanese "particularly those who have not participated so much in the forward rush of recent events."

But he said there has been a fundamental change in the young people — "a greater respect for the rights of the individual."

"Given the surrounding realities of the modern world, they have recognized that the prewar type of nationalism is economically, politically and militarily not feasible," he said.

One of the most popular envoys the United States has sent to Japan, Reischauer's departure has been top news here since he announced his resignation two weeks ago. He has been interviewed daily by newspaper, radio, television and magazine reporters and his comments have been given wide prominence.

An indication of the esteem in which he is held was given this week when Shigeru Yoshida, a noted postwar prime minister, invited Reischauer to his home for a TV interview that was shown throughout the nation. Yoshida, now 88, seldom sees anyone at such length.

Gifts from Japanese friends have been pouring in so profusely that packing seems endless, said Reischauer, who leaves Japan Aug. 19.

Reischauer was asked whether he thought review of the U.S.-Japan security pact in 1970 would touch off another outbreak of the violence which marked revision of the treaty in 1960.

"The extremists will not forego their activities," he said. But he added that they would be a minority since feeling over the issue has been subsiding.

Reischauer said he supports U.S. policy in Viet Nam but feels the situation there is "not a satisfactory one."

The United States, he said, must find a better way to handle the Vietnamese problem based on local nationalism and "very much broader international support than we are able to muster today."

Wayne County Circuit Court Is Timed on Suits

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne County Circuit Court processes personal injury lawsuits more slowly than the average state court, a nationwide study showed Tuesday.

However, the Wayne County court is faster than most other metropolitan courts in the nation.

The Institute of Judicial Administration, a New York University legal research organization, said that the Wayne court took 32.7 months from filing to verdict in such cases. That compares with the national average of 19.9 months.

FILM STAR RELATES ROBBERY— Silent film star Cornelia Griffith sits on edge of her bed and holds her pet possum as she tells about being robbed yesterday. Diet of Pesticides May Spell End for All Falcons

By Science Service
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—The falcon, once a powerful hunting companion to kings, may be a victim of pesticides, as so many other birds and small animals already are.

Female falcons in the United States and Canada are being fed starlings that have been contaminated in the laboratory with high but sublethal doses of dieldrin, a long-lasting insecticide used on crops to control grasshoppers and other insects. Mother falcons' eggs are then analyzed, and fat samples taken from these females and from control females are studied to determine the effect of known levels of the insecticide on fertility.

Unionist Urges Defeat of Romney

LANSING (AP)—A union official urged state workers Tuesday to unseat the No. 1 state employee—Gov. George Romney.

"If you help bring (Democratic candidate) Zelon Perry to the governor's chair, and G. Mennen Williams to the U. S. Senate, we will do our best to help you," said William Marshall, executive vice president of the Michigan AFL-CIO.

Marshall was one of several union leaders to address an estimated 900 state workers at a rally following their 15-block march around the State Capitol. The march was called by the Michigan State Employees union, an affiliate of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, to protest with Romney.

He was on his way to a meeting in the State Appeals Court chamber over the Detroit school finance situation and had to cut right angles through the parade in order to reach the court.

TOOT HORNS

The drivers laid on their horns and continued tooting long after Romney disappeared into a building. One of the marchers carried a sign reading, "Donald Duck for governor. It doesn't make sense, but neither does Romney."

Nothing was said as the governor crossed the street, but a passenger in one of the cars waved and Romney waved back.

Tom Fitzpatrick, area director for the State and Municipal Workers union, called the Civil Service Commission "the last claim he can't control them," Marshall said, adding: "Politicians can't fool the people forever."

The largest single group in the march seemed to be hospital workers. Women marched in hospital sides uniforms and placard-carrying groups came from Ionia, Howell, Mount Pleasant, Fort Custer and Lapeer state hospitals.

BEST PAID

The commission, which said last week that Michigan employees are about the best paid in the nation, was holding its monthly meeting in Grand Rapids.

"I don't believe the Civil Service Commission is helping employees, and I don't think Romney is either," Marshall said.

"The governor claims he's helping the commission's work because it is protected by the constitution."

Priest to Continue Fight for Reinstatement
The Rev. William H. Dubay, a militant Roman Catholic clergyman suspended from his duties, says he will continue his fight for reinstatement.

At a news conference in Santa Monica, Calif., yesterday, Father Dubay said his suspension has been affirmed by the chief administrative body of the Church.

James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, Los Angeles archbishop, suspended Father Dubay last February, criticizing the priest for his outspoken views on racial matters.

Father Dubay marked the Pope in 1964 to remove Cardinal McIntyre, alleging the cardinal had taken a weak stand on civil rights.

Writer Arrest Hurts Yugoslav Image

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

President Tito of Yugoslavia appears to have made a bad mistake which will cause new damage abroad to communism's image and even have important impact inside the Red bloc. He has helped again to expose a basic weakness of the Communist system: its inability to tolerate criticism.

Because of its unique position between East and West, Yugoslavia's communism operates in a goldfish bowl, with all the world looking on. When the League of Communists blunders, everybody knows about it.

The League of Communists, as the Yugoslav party is called, appears to have blundered in the case of Mihajlo Mihajlov, the young writer and college lecturer jailed for planning to start an opposition magazine.

The case has an importance well beyond Yugoslavia. It points up the gulf between Communist words and Communist deeds.

LIBERAL CHARTER

By inviting arrest, young Mihajlov made a mockery of the 1963 Yugoslav constitution which on paper is an ultra-liberal charter. Mihajlov challenged the party to abide by constitutionality.

The Yugoslav party — as Communist parties invariably do — instead made a martyr of Mihajlov by persecuting him, just as the Soviet party did to two writers sentenced to hard labor for writing critically about the Soviet system.

The result in both cases is indignation among intellectuals abroad — the class Communists want most to impress — and the emergence of more and more figures like Mihajlov from the rising generation.

There must be some acute, embarrassing among party leaders in Belgrade. The case arose at an awkward time. Already there was a clash in Yugoslavia between the liberalizers and the old dogmatic conservative Communists over economic and social reforms. Tito took the side of the liberalizers.

ONE-PARTY RULE

But, as the Mihajlov case demonstrates, liberalization goes too far if it challenges one-party rule, which is what Mihajlov was up to.

Mihajlov is a product of the school of Milovan Djilas, whose book "The New Class" criticized the iron rule of a small party clique. Djilas, a wartime partisan leader and Communist comrade-in-arms of Tito, had his book published abroad in 1957. He is still in prison.

Djilas had the idea that the party should abide by principle and become a guiding organization for the nation rather than its dictatorial ruler.

Mihajlov now climbs to prominence as an heir to Djilas, in the world spotlight as a critic and challenger of the system.

Had he not been persecuted — this was his second jail sentence — he might have been just another Don Quixote tilting at Communist windmills. But he exposed himself to reprisal, and the party under Tito, worried about its authority, took the bait.

Horseback Trip a 4-H Endeavor

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — Steve Wilson, 18, vice president of Kentucky 4-H clubs, is making a 20-mile trip from Wickliffe to Louisville by horseback. He hopes to arrive Aug. 17, the eve of the opening of the state fair.

Negro Doctors Back Protests Over Rights

CHICAGO (AP) — Negroes who carved out successful careers as medical leaders voiced support today of demonstrations and protests designed to create equal opportunities for Negroes.

The new president, the outgoing president and a past president of the National Medical Association said that direct action and confrontation must take place before changes occur. A Negro psychiatrist echoed their views.

The association, a 71-year-old predominantly Negro medical organization, is holding its annual convention in Chicago. "The demonstrations must continue," Dr. John P. S. Holloman, New York City, new NMA president, said in an interview.

"To advocate cessation would be an effort to sweep the problem under the rug. "It would be the same or worse than denying labor unions the right to strike."

Dr. W. Montague Cobb, professor of anatomy at Howard Medical School, Washington, D.C., and a past association president, qualified his endorsement.

He said that while it might be tactically sound to stage new demonstrations for specific objectives, he feels "the law of diminishing returns has set in" on repetitive actions such as the marches on Washington, D.C., and Selma, Ala.

Murder Exam Stories Conflict

Hearing on Slaying to Resume Aug. 23

The first-degree murder examination of a 23-year-old Pontiac man is scheduled to resume Aug. 23 after conflicting testimony yesterday from two youths who said they witnessed the killing.

Curtis Lewis Jr. of 335 Howard, McNeil, charged in the case, was named by each witness as fatally wounded 28-year-old Donald A. McGhee with a shot from a 22-caliber rifle July 27.

But, according to Calvin Beal, 15, of 387 Howard McNeil, McGhee threatened the defendant with a knife moments before he was shot.

Beal, on the witness stand for over an hour, also testified he had been warned by another youth following the slaying to "tell the truth" or get "messed up."

A second witness appearing yesterday, 18-year-old Charles Threkeid of 10 Utah, said he watched Lewis shoot McGhee following an argument.

'EMPTY-HANDED'
Threkeid said, however, that McGhee was empty-handed and had his arms up in the air when felled by the rifle shot.

Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan ordered Lewis held in the Oakland County Jail without bond pending resumption of the hearing in two weeks.

Planners List Higher Budget

Waterford Twp. Unit
Is Seeking $32,091

The Waterford Township Planning Commission last night recommended approval of a 1967 planning department budget totaling $32,091.

A 3.4 per cent increase over the current budget of $29,265 the proposed new budget will be submitted to Supervisor Dorothy W. Olson for consideration.

The township board will adopt a final budget for all township departments this fall.

In other business last night, the planning commission recommended final plat approval of Whitehorse Lakes Estates Subdivision.

REDUCE DENSITY
After discussing results of a recent apartment survey, the planners agreed to recommend reducing the density of apartments.

Present standards are 15 units per acre with septic tanks and 30 units per acre with sewers.

The commission was in accord that apartments aren't being built too fast in the township and that there aren't too many of them in proportion to single family homes.

Track Probe
Vet Guarded

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan State Police placed a 24-hour guard around state veterinarian Norman Stoner Tuesday as state officials probed alleged widespread doping of horses and illegal betting by jockeys in Detroit race tracks.

Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley was to call a news conference in Lansing today concerning the investigation, revealed in a copyrighted story in the Detroit Free Press.

Kelley and Gov. George Romney have been working on the investigation "for a period of over a week," said Leon Cohen, deputy attorney general.

State Police Commissioner Frederick E. Davis said "we do have some men looking into this," but added "I know of no warrants."

REVEAL PROBE
Disclosure of the investigation came on the heels of the resignation of Berry N. Beaman, state racing commissioner, last Thursday and followed action by a federal grand jury which subpoenaed four jockeys and a trainer Monday as witnesses in an alleged gambling conspiracy connected with a series of July 1 gambling raids made by Internal Revenue Service agents.

The Free Press said the "unimpeachable sources said the probe involves the illegal use of pain-killing drug on thoroughbred race horses and off-track betting by jockeys, both prohibited by law."

Stoner was described as initiating the investigation "when questioned under test results being returned by the state testing lab in Lansing."

The newspaper said the "sources said mass dopings of horses took place at the Detroit Race Course late in the 1965 thoroughbred season and at Hazel Park Raceway early in the 1966 season."

JOCKEYS BET
"The sources said, too, that jockeys have been placing bets with bookmakers."

Romey appointed Joseph A. Childs former state police commissioner, to replace Beaman, 75, Monday. Beaman resigned Thursday, saying pressures of the job called for a younger man and citing business requirements and illness of his wife.

Waterford Teacher Talks Will Resume

Negotiations between committees representing the Waterford Education Association (WEA) and Waterford Township Board of Education will resume at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

The talks will be under the direction of a mediator from the State Labor Mediation Board.

If and when agreement is reached between the bargaining teams, approval of a 1966-67 contract with the district's teachers will still hinge on ratification by a majority of teachers and board of education members.

The teachers previously voted to withhold their professional services in the fall if accord is not reached.

Wants Bounce in Speed Law

Fed-up with speeders, especially on residential streets, City Commissioner John A. Dugan wants to put bumps in streets to slow them down.

Dugan said last night that he had received a petition signed by 39 residents of Second to put three humps in the street to combat speeds.

"There are probably a couple of complaints," he said, "but I certainly would slow people down."

He asked for a full report on the possibility from City Engineer Joseph E. Neippling.

The humps, which would be about 3 to 5 inches high on city streets, are frequently used in trailer parks to slow down traffic.

Neippling, who agreed there probably would be legal problems, said the practice was common on the east coast.

He said further that Oakland County engineers are currently taking inventory of possible physical means to enforce speed limits.

Thieves 'Strike'
A thief or thieves who broke into the Timberlakes Bar and Bowling Alley at 18 N. Perry escaped with some $258 early yesterday, Pontiac police were told.

The money was taken from a cash register and coin box in the bowling alley, which was entered by unknown means after a window had been smashed in the adjacent bar.

Four engines, a ladder truck, and an aerial unit responded to the blaze just after 1 a.m. Some units remained at the scene until about 5 a.m.

Metz said remains of two paper-filled wastebaskets were found at the scene of the fire.

In addition, according to police, a cement building adjoining the burned-out structure had been broken into.

State to Decide Ballot Status

Sticker Votes Will Be Tallied

Sticker votes received by a Royal Oak attorney for a short term on the Circuit Court bench will be counted by the Oakland County Board of Canvassers, but it will be up to the State Board of Canvassers to decide if his name will appear on the November ballot for the seven-week post.

In a legal opinion, County Corporation Counsel Robert A. Allen said today that the only obligation of the county canvassers regarding circuit judge candidates is to forward all the returns to the state.

The opinion was requested.

He claims his name should also appear for the short term because of the sticker votes.

The short term did not appear on the primary ballot because so one filed petitions for it.

in Break-In Case

A 17-year-old youth held by Pontiac police for investigation of breaking and entering was released yesterday after being cleared of complicity in the crime.

Tommy Colburn of 60 Green established his innocence in voluntarily taking a polygraph test, according to police.

Two other youths arrested in a break-in at a doctor's office early yesterday are being held for further questioning, police said.

Regular periodic treatments with artificial kidney machines not only can keep doomed patients alive, but can also restore a high percentage of them to an active life.

Fake Inspector Calls Again

A man allegedly posing as a "health department inspector" is sought by Pontiac police after a 24-year-old woman said she was approached at her home and asked if she needed a "cancer test."

A description of the suspect reportedly matched that of a man named two weeks ago by the Oakland County Health Department as an "impostor" and possible sex deviate following three similar incidents.

Mrs. Kenneth Mason of 23 S. Padlock told police she summoned her husband to the door after the man asked if she was alone at home.

Mason said the man left when asked to show identification.

The couple described the man as a light-skinned Negro of medium build between 30 and 35 years old.

Visiting Americans Convinced Cambodian Is Neutral in War

TOKYO (AP) — Seven American visitors to Cambodia said today they are convinced Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodia's ruler, is neutral toward the Viet Nam war and is trying to keep Cambodia a sanctuary.

Sihanouk admitted there is limited movement of a few Communist Vietnamese along Cambodia's border, but no Cambodian "willingly cooperates" with them, Russell Johnson of the American Friends Service Committee told a news conference.

Part of Cambodia's 33,000-man army patrols the border and village militiamen are on the lookout for strangers, said Donald Duncan, a former Special Forces sergeant in Viet Nam who is now on a magazine staff.

ATTACKS REPORTED

Duncan said the Cambodians told them U.S. and Vietnamese planes attacked two border villages on July 31 and Aug. 2, he said the group did not see the attacks.

His C-47 aircraft arrived in Bangkok, Thailand, with only 15 melons, however, because of a stop at Guam for repairs.

"We were told it would take a while to repair the engine," Hayes said Tuesday. "An important part was not available on Guam."

A behind-the-scenes deal, however, suddenly ended with appearance of the needed part — and a shortage in melons.

2 Michigan Men Die in Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Michigan servicemen have died as a result of non-hostile action in Viet Nam, the Defense Department announced Tuesday.

They are: Army Spec. 4 Andrew M. Duncan, husband of Mrs. Patricia H. Duncan of Detroit, and Marine Pfc. Gary S. Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil J. Ferguson of Grand Rapids.

Thousands Homeless

Quake-Ridden Tashkent Rebuilding

TASHKENT, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Under a moonless sky, eerie lights from bulldozers illuminate heaps of rubble, splintered tree stumps and what is left of houses that once stood in quake-wrecked Tashkent.

On nearby streets, the people who used to live in the houses sit in tents and watch the demolition crews.

Cigarettes glow in the darkness, radio music is drowned out by the trucks, and the No. 1 topic of conversation is last April's powerful tremor that left 300,000 persons homeless.

Five miles away, other men and equipment work through the night to complete a massive housing project called Chilizhar. Before the winter rains came in November, Chilizhar's apartments must house thousands now living in tents, Soviet officials say.

Day and night, these scenes are repeated as this largest city of Soviet Central Asia tries to recover from the shock of April 25.

It was a powerful one, reaching a force of 6.25 on the 10-point Richter Scale. In the four months since the first quake, there have been more than 600 additional tremors, including five big jolts, yet Soviet officials claim only 15 persons have been killed and about 500 injured.

The explanation offered is that the earthquake moved up and down, not sideways, and it struck hardest at old one-story buildings of unbaked mud and bricks that easily crumbled.

After the first quake, Communist officials closed the city to foreign correspondents and by the time it was reopened this month, the most heavily damaged houses had been knocked down and carted away.

CONDEMNATION
Earthquake damage caused authorities to condemn more than two million square yards of downtown housing.

"As a result," says Sofia Sokolova, assistant editor of the newspaper Pravda Vostoka (Truth of the East), "68,000 families became homeless."

At an average of more than four persons per family, this means that about 300,000 persons — one fourth of Tashkent's 1.2 million population — lost their homes. More than half of these have had their homes torn down and have been assigned other housing.

Mrs. Sokolova said 36,000 persons have moved into new apartments.

About 19,000 Tashkent residents were given plots of land to build their own houses. Some are prefabricated wood units costing about $1,000, payable in installments over 10 years.

The Shape of Man's Future—2

Evolution Process Near End?

(EDITORS NOTE—Prospects that natural human evolution will cease and man will control what his future shape will be are based on new understanding of how genes direct both heredity and growth. The following second of four articles explains how scientists are cracking the genetic code.)

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

For the past eon or so, man has muddled along, gradually gaining mastery over other creatures by accidents.

Accidental alterations in the mechanism of his heredity slowly — by trial and error — made man better adapted to his environment than his rivals.

That's the accepted scientific view today, and scientists call this long, frequently bungling process "evolution."

This process may be near an end.

BETTER OR WORSE

For better or worse, scientists now believe, man will not much longer have to wait for an accident to change his heredity.

He will cause his own "accidents."

If the heart he was born with wears out, he'll be able to grow a new one — in a laboratory, and have it transplanted into his chest; or perhaps he will grow it in his own body, feeding the new on the old.

In the past, the accidents, or mutations, that made some men different from their ancestors were caused either by errors in the way nature put together the tiny living blueprints passed down from parent to offspring; or by occasional strong bursts of radiation from the sun that disarranged those blueprints.

SAFER METHOD

Today, however, scientists are learning to bring about mutations with chemicals — a much safer method, because this way the mutations eventually may be predicted and controlled.

Mutations result from changes in the structure of genes. Although too tiny to be seen in an ordinary microscope, genes contain the patterns by which all living things develop.

Every human body cell has about 150,000 genes, grouped in 46 chromosomes — tiny bodies — in the cell's core, or nucleus.

So when body cells divide, the chromosomes split into two sets of pairs and line up in the center of the nucleus. The nucleus, and at the same time the rest of the cell, divides down the middle. Each of the two resulting cells has the same number of chromosomes, and thus genes, as the parent cell.

THE LIVING WAY

This is the way all living things grow, by increasing the number of body cells.

When they reproduce, the process is slightly different. The egg cell of the mother has only half the need number of chromosomes. The sperm cell of the father has the other half. They unite and the fertilized cell thus acquires the total of chromosomes necessary for later division and growth.

Genes are molecules of acid, complex and strangely formed. Each looks something like two corkscrews twisted into one another and connected at intervals by bonds. A sort of chemical spiral staircase.

The molecule's name is deoxyribonucleic acid, or DNA.

SPECIFIC ORDER

Its spirals are made of chemical bases called adenine, guanine, cytosine and thymine, arranged in a specific order opposite each other.

When time comes for a cell to divide, the identical corkscrews separate, one staying in the parent group of chromosomes, the other going to the offspring. Each then makes a replica of itself, drawing upon chemicals in the cellular fluid.

The arrangement of the chemical bases along the spirals creates a crude alphabet: A for adenine, G for guanine, C for cytosine and T for thymine. Groupings of these bases form "words" in a language that gene specialists — geneticists — are learning to decipher.

One side of the spiral staircase may be an arrangement of bases or letters into a grouping like this:

attitgccagataccg.
The other side: taacagggtctatgcg.

The letters are almost invariably in multiples of three. Scientists found one of the keys to this code when they learned that each triplet directs the formation of one of some 20 amino acids which make up proteins, the building blocks of living tissue.

Each of the 64 possible three-letter combinations carries information that enables the cell to make protein — in other words, to grow — so that it resembles its parent.

Storing the formulae for making human protein is a pretty big job for a tiny molecule, but DNA has another job, too. It not only must carry information from one generation to the next, it must see that this information gets out of the nucleus into the body of the cell where protein is made.

To do this, DNA makes single-corkscrew copies of itself, differing in that a base called uracil is substituted for thymine. The copy, lacking an atom of oxygen, is called ribonucleic acid, or RNA.

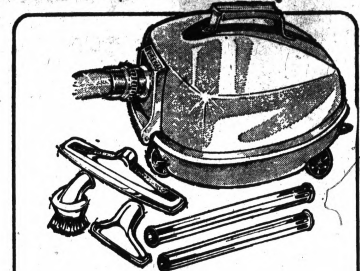

RNA passes out of the nucleus into the body of the cell and attaches itself to some tiny clumps called ribosomes. Ribosomes are miniature chemical factories where, with the help of enzymes, amino acids are converted into proteins.

Some cells make the kind of protein needed for nerves, others make the kind needed for internal organs, others make the kind of protein in which calcium can be deposited to form bone. All function according to the instructions they receive from DNA via RNA unless an accident occurs — either through a goof by nature or from such outside forces as radiation.

The resulting of genetic accidents may be beneficial. One of them gave man the kind of thumb that helped him make tools. If the accident leads to useless deformation, the offspring often dies before it can pass the trait on to future generations.

Monday's Opera Is Rehearsal for Premiere

The first performance of Aaron Copland's opera, "The Tender Land," scheduled for Monday at Oakland University, has been designated instead as a dress rehearsal by Dr. David Di Chiera, director of the Opera Institute.

It will take place at 8:30 p.m. in the Matilda R. Wilson Theater, and will be open to the public, free of charge.

The official Michigan premiere of this opera follows on Wednesday, also at 8:30 p.m. in the Wilson Theater. Price of admission is $1.50.

The performance will culminate the six-week program of the Opera Institute, directed by Dr. Di Chiera under the joint auspices of the Meadow Brook School of Music and the Mott Center for Community Affairs.

Because of its simplicity, she will be able to wear this A-line dress for a number of different occasions on campus.

Yellow Paint, Clowns Stir Creativeness in Children

At a time when one wonders what is art and what is not, there comes a refreshing exhibit.

An art show is now in progress at the North Oakland Opportunity Center on West Lawrence Street. The artists are children, ages three, four and five, involved in the Oakland County Head Start program.

Art in the manner of texture, imagination, color and mobility has taken charming dimensions in the hands of the small ones.

All of the pie-plate clowns are smiling, oblivious that their balloon noses are becoming unblown.

A little out of proportion perhaps, but the thought is there with Leonard's wallpaper bird.

Someone named Kenneth made a cloth sculpture bathing suit and sewed every seam himself. A friendly pair of egg-carton caterpillars with pipe cleaner antennae are offered.

A wistful gold fish with macaroni-shell scales and two gold paper mache pigs are included.

Character sketches accompany much of the work, making you want to meet the young artists.

On a cereal-spotted spider, "This was done by the smallest boy in class, his name is Teddy. He is lovable and easy to get along with."

A vibrant study in yellow, blue and green that would rival modern art is labeled: "Jennifer was working with color, watching changes and comparing them. She liked the feel of paint on her hands. No picture was intended."

Apparently many shared Jennifer's enthusiasm for wet paint. All of the faces in all of the pictures wear big smiles—even a brown cylindrical dog. Yellow is the favorite color.

The show is a good place for primary and nursery school teachers to glean art project ideas.

Delegates include Mrs. Emory Mitchell, Mrs. Elmer Hopp and Mrs. Otto Repuhn. Alternates will be Mrs. Richard Schaller and Mrs. Harding Ferguson.

Local College Girl an Expert in the Art of Sew and Save

By JEANNE NELSON

Clothes and the college girl become synonymous in the fall. While mothers wait over some shopping trips and dads fume about bills, the stores bustle with anxious coeds.

But things at the Nikolai Bogdanov home on Portage Avenue are somewhat different. Olga, the Bogdanov's 19-year-old daughter who will begin her second year at the University of Michigan, is an expert seamstress and has made most of her own clothes for some time.

You might think this young lady, who is vitally interested in the natural sciences, would miss the shopping trips for the newest campus clothes. She doesn't. She much prefers to pore over pattern books, selecting a few, and then dreaming up ways to make the same pattern look like five or six different designs.

CAN HAVE MORE

The combination of her talented hands and prolific mind has enabled Olga to have a much more varied wardrobe than many of her classmates who must depend on the manufacturers to dress them.

Sewing first began for Olga when she was about ten years old. Doll clothes at that time were the extent of her dress-making skills.

It wasn't until she reached junior high school that she started taking a serious interest in sewing for herself.

Before she began college life, she was graduated from Pontiac Central High School with a 3.8 average and a member of the National Honor Society.

Now she has finished her first college year maintaining a 3.2 record.

USES A-LINE

Her strong sense of good lines is indicated in her wide usage of the A-line that fashion experts agree is flattering to almost any figure.

She finds that the fluidness of the A-line creates an unbroken image. At the same time outlining the figure.

Olga is the daughter of Russian born parents. She, however, was born in Regensburg, Germany. When she was about three, her parents brought her to the United States to live.

Her father is an assistant professor in electrical engineering at the Detroit Institute of Technology. Olga credits her mother with having stirred her interest in sewing.

"But," she says, "now the tables have been turned and my mother often depends upon my judgment in the selection of patterns for her."

This summer, the green-eyed petite coed, has been working at an area department store to help out with her college expenses.

She is delighted with the clerking job because she gets an early start on the fabric sales and a discount as well.

"It's the little things, she says, 'that add the unusual touch to an outfit.' She likes to use 'different looking' buttons and trying to achieve a customized tailored effect.

COORDINATES

More often than not, Olga prefers to make several matching coordinates which save on material costs and provide her with a wide selection of ensembles.

She applies the same rule of thumb to her jewelry and accessories. Most of her outfits have matching purses, head scarfs and the like.

Life is far from just sewing, working and learning for this teen. She loves to bowl, dance and sun at the beach. In fact, she plans to do just that before leaving for Ann Arbor next month.

When we asked about a steady beau, she laughed and replied, "Oh well, I guess I like to play the field."

Versatility is the keyword for this delicate floral print cotton ensemble Olga modeled. Not content with one outfit designed expressly for casual wear, she added a matching skirt for another look. The white batiste "Nothing" blouse can be worn without the jacket with either skirt or shorts to make a third outfit. Not shown is a matching head scarf.

Don't Despair There's Hope

Good Years Ahead for You

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I wrote to you when I was 14, but didn't take your advice. Believe me, I wish I had. You wouldn't remember my letter, you get so many, but I asked you if I should go back with a boy I'd broken up with and you said no.

I did anyway because I was crazy about him. Well, I got pregnant. I wanted to go to a home because I knew I had made one big mistake and didn't want to make another, but my parents thought we should get married.

We've been married two years now, and I am the most miserable (I probably didn't spell it right, I had to quit school) girl in the state of Texas.

My husband doesn't want to work steady, he doesn't pay any attention to me or the baby. He runs around with the kids, and there have been times when we haven't had enough to eat.

All our money goes to get his car fixed up so he can drag race. I haven't told my mother how unhappy I am. I've caused her so much worry, I can't hurt her any more.

Please give me advice, Abby. This time I'll take it.

SEVENTEEN AND OLD

DEAR SEVENTEEN: It won't be easy to finish your education, but if you really want to, you can do it. Encourage your husband to grow up and face up to his responsibilities.

Try to build as good a marriage as possible with the material you have.

Most important, confide in your mother. She may not be as surprised as you think. If your marriage is hopeless, perhaps it is better to recognize it now, than 10 years and 6 babies from now.

Janet, 5, (right) displays her paper bag hand puppet to Jerry, 4, (note self-made hat) who looks on in bemused wonderment. The children's art work is part of the Head Start Art Show, now in progress at the North Oakland Opportunity Center, West Lawrence Street. The show will continue until Saturday. Hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Polly's Pointers

Steam Is Secret

DEAR POLLY—If you want to freshen the flowers on last year's summer hat, put your kettle on and let it steam, hold the hat a few inches from the spout and let the steam filter through.

The flowers will lift up before your eyes. Veiling also freshens this way. Those who do not have a tea kettle can use a pan of steaming hot water.—MRS. A. H. T.

DEAR POLLY—The plastic ties on my rain bonnet would not stay tied very long and always seemed to come loose when I was shopping and had an armful of parcels.

I removed the original plastic ties and replaced them with a pair of black white shoe strings. The ends were run through the eyelets on the bonnet and tied there in a knot. They really stay tied.—ETHEL.

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for the reader who wanted to know how to tint bread. I just add food coloring to the batter. The amount depends on how deep you want the color. I use red and green for holiday breads and one helped make sandwiches for a wedding out of blue bread.

Spread several slices with alternating colors and then slice for sandwiches and you can also alternate the white bread with the colored for this sandwich loaf.—MOLLY.

DEAR GIRLS—A baker tells me the food coloring should be mixed with the water that goes in the bread for an even look to the tinted bread.—POLLY.

DEAR POLLY—After we purchased a dishwasher, I had no use for my rubber-covered dish drainer, so I bent wires even on the bottom and then made a pillow to fit inside.

My small dog likes his new bed better than his expensive dog basket and visitors always comment on it.

These drainers may be purchased in different colors if you wish them to harmonize with colors in a room.—MRS. S. T. S.

DEAR POLLY—With cut flowers now being brought in from our garden, I hope some of the readers will appreciate my Pointer.

If the stem of any cut flower is too short for the vase being used, pull out a broom straw, bend in the center and gently insert the doubled end up into the cut stem and clip off to the desired length. Even when a clear glass vase is used, this is not unsightly.—HELEN.

Anyone submitting a Polly's Problem, a solution to a problem or a favorite homemaking idea will receive a dollar if Polly uses the item in Polly's Pointers.

Boys Will Alter Career Choice

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (UPI)—Boys change their minds about a career choice between the junior year in high school and the sophomore year in college, according to Project Talent being conducted at the University of Pittsburgh.

An analysis of information on students shows that engineering most attracted the boys in high school. But two years later two-thirds of the aspirants had shifted interest to other fields. And of 743 boys who wanted to go into business, more than 200 had other ideas two years later.

You'll Bring Bad Talk Upon Self

By ELIZABETH POST

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancé was drafted. He is stationed at a camp several hundred miles from here and will not be able to get home for some time.

I have a week's vacation coming up and would like to drive down to visit him. Could there be any possible impropriety in my going? — Betty Lou

Dear Betty Lou: Yes, there could be considerable impropriety in your going to see your fiancé unless he can arrange for you to stay in the home of a married friend.

The other solution would be to take a girlfriend with you, asking your fiancé to arrange for dates for her. You would lay yourself open to all sorts of criticism if you were to stay alone in a hotel or motel.

MINISTER AT RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Post: Our daughter, who is Protestant, is getting married in the Catholic church. Do we invite our Protestant minister and his wife to the wedding and reception or would that be considered an insult to him? — Mrs. R. M.

Dear Mrs. R. M.: By all means invite your minister to your daughter's wedding reception as you would any other friend. Before sending him an invitation to the ceremony, however, I would try to find out how he feels about attending a Catholic service.

It is not a question of insulting him, but of relieving him of the embarrassment of refusing.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice:

I am sorry to ask you for this information because my friends tell me that you did have it in the paper once before. I am not very large, I like busts, and the darts that come up from the side seam to the bustline are so much more flattering to me than the ordinary darts. So many patterns I already have don't have this dart, will you tell us once again how to change the lines of our darts? Mrs. L.A.G.

Dear Mrs. L.A.G.:

This is a rather simple change to make and is actually pattern drafting in a way that I think most of you can achieve without a too-boo! Follow the instructions carefully, and if you are unsure of yourself, make it up in an inexpensive fabric first. This is called a French dart.

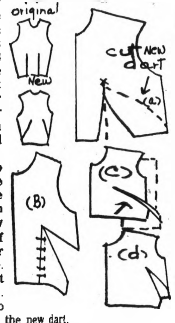

Usually this dart will appear about 1 to 2 inches above the waistline although I have seen some shift dresses where this dart actually begins about 3 inches below the waist. Since this dart usually ends right at the tip of the bust, mark your pattern at the exact tip of your bust. Measure yourself from the shoulder tip to bust to find this measurement.

• Draw a line from the tip of your bust to the place where you wish the dart to end at the side seam. Slash your pattern at the center of the dart below the waistline up to the point of your new dart. Also cut your pattern on your new dart line.

• Next, close the original dart by folding it out of your pattern. This will cause your pattern to separate the correct width for the new dart.

• You will have one more detail to complete. You must know exactly how large the side seam extension should be before cutting garment. Pin a piece of paper to the side of your pattern extending several inches from the outer edge. Next, fold your pattern on the new dart line, fold the lower line of the dart up to meet the top line.

If there are any changes to be made at the side seams such as adding extra fabric, draw this extension while the dart is still folded in place. Cut your pattern on your new side seam marks, unpin and fold down the new dart. You will be amazed to find the shape of the side seam to accommodate this dart. Good luck, it's fun, but shouldn't be done by beginners!

Of course, you can always make a smock out of Daddy's old shirts for protection, but this still isn't a protection against water.
"I bought an inexpensive shower curtain and made simple dress-length smocks from a pattern consisting of only two parts. This is easily washed off and doesn't leak through when saturated. If you don't have an old shower curtain, get several mothers together with preschool children and use one new curtain to make many of these disaster proof smocks."

Remodeling of Parking Lot Authorized

Contract for 2nd Pedestrian Bridge OK'd

City Affairs

City Hall were among the items approved last night by the City Commission.

Planned for Kennett in front of Alcott Elementary School, the pedestrian bridge is to cost $15,445. The contract went to Hill and Thomas Contracting Co. of Lansing.

Construction is to take four months. The city has erected one overhead walkway across West Huron in front of Webster School.

The civic center parking lot is to be revamped to eliminate traffic congestion at a total cost of $13,600. Room for 100 cars is to be added to the present lot.

City workers plan to redesign the parking facilities.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENT
Monies for both projects are to come from the 1966 capital improvement fund.

In other business, the commission deferred action on formal approval of proposals for the transfer of Pontiac Municipal Airport to Oakland County.

This was the second consecutive week that the commission had failed to consider putting the city's offer for the transfer in writing as requested by a special county airport committee.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said only that the items were deferred to permit further study by the commission.

CHARGES WITHDRAWN

In still other business, the commission received word that unfair labor practice charges filed by two employee groups had been withdrawn.

The charges were filed by the Pontiac Fire Fighters Association and the Pontiac Police Officers Association.

Commission action was tabled on a request from the Matador Lounge, 16-20 E. Pike, for a dance permit. The question was tabled until ownership of the lounge can be determined in court.

Also last night, Mayor Taylor disclosed that city records indicate that the Downtown Pontiac Business Association owes the city some $11,756 from 1963-65.

ANNUAL AUDIT

City auditors uncovered the debt in their annual audit of the city's books.

A public hearing was held last night on closing Wren-at Midway to eliminate traffic to the Midway Mile shopping center from the residential streets. Permanent barricades are to be erected there.

A petition for a water main on Princeton from Jaycee Park to Highwood was referred to the water department, while requested rezoning for an 85-acre parcel at Opdyke and Square Lake Road was sent to the city planning commission.

The latter petition was for residential-3 and commercial rezoning for a multiple housing (300 units) and shopping center development proposed for the extreme southeast corner of the city.

MARVIN M. ALWARD

Resignation Submitted by Finance Chief

City finance director for nearly eight years, Marvin M. Alward, 58, of 69 Osceola, unexpectedly submitted his resignation last night to the City Commission.

Alward said he plans to retire effective Oct. 31, 1967. He said he would be on the job until May 15 and then take accumulated vacation and sick day benefits.

Alward suggested that his replacement be hired by Jan. 1 to enable him to train him.

Appointed by the City Commission, Alward becomes eligible for early retirement at age 60 in October of next year.

GIVEN POST

He joined the city in March 1929 as a clerk in the treasurer's office. He was named finance director in November 1958.

Commission Holds Public Hearings

Several public hearings were held and still more city planning commission recommendations were received at last night's City Commission meeting.

One disputed rezoning to permit a service garage for the post office on West Huron was denied by the City Commission after the request had been withdrawn.

A hearing on necessity for paving Stephens, Perry to Moreland, was held with the special assessment roll to be presented next week.

Assessments for sidewalk construction on the east side of Telegraph from Ruth to the Clinton River are also to be presented next week.

A hearing was set for Aug. 23 on paving of Owens, Baldwin to Portland, to be done at the expense of General Motors Corp.

APPROVE REZONING

At the same time, the commission approved rezoning for a parking district in the area bounded by Kennett, Wing, Owens and St. Clair.

Final residential rezoning was approved for two lots on the east side of Astor, north of the alley parallel to Auburn.

An Aug. 30 hearing date was set for residential-3 rezoning proposed for property owned by the AME Church on the northeast corner of Bagley and Brush.

Personal service rezoning for two vacant lots on the southwest corner of Orchard Lake Avenue and Chapman got the same hearing date.

DENIAL UPHELD

The City Commission upheld denial recommendations from the city planning commission on three rezoning petitions and an alley vacation.

The vacation, proposed for an alley southwest and adjacent to 71 Elm, was denied along with the petition for manufacturing for the property at 71 Elm.

Despite a loud protest from the property owners, the commission denied personal service rezoning request for two lots on the northwest corner of Orchard Lake Avenue and Seminole.

Officials Hoping to Clean It Up

Detroit River: One of Busiest and Dirtiest

(EDITOR'S NOTE—The Detroit River carries more ships and cargo than any other river in the world. It also carries more pollutants than any other river in the world. But with federal help there may be hope of cleaning up the river some day. Here's a special progress report by the Associated Press.)

By JIM NICHOLS
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT — One of the world's busiest waterways is also one of the dirtiest, but federal officials are hopeful that cleaning it up can set an anti-pollution example for the rest of the country.

The Detroit River logged 16,041 ship passages in 1965, about one every half hour of the 8½-month shipping season. It also carried an estimated 1.6 billion gallons of waste into Lake Erie every single day of the year.

The Army Corps of Engineers says nobody knows for sure which of the world's waterways is the busiest. But it's thought the Detroit River, linking Lakes Huron and Erie, is first and the Panama Canal — through which shipping passes year round — is second. Nobody's sure, either, which of the major waterways is the most polluted, but the federal Public Health Service nominates the Detroit River as a likely candidate.

The PHS made a 2½-year study of the Detroit and its sludge-laden tributaries. It took nearly 25 million water samplings, and released its report in May 1965. "Unless remedial action is taken immediately," the report said, "the usefulness of the water resources of the Detroit area may be destroyed completely by pollution."

Of the 31 miles of riverbank, it said, the recreational usefulness of 25 is already "greatly diminished."

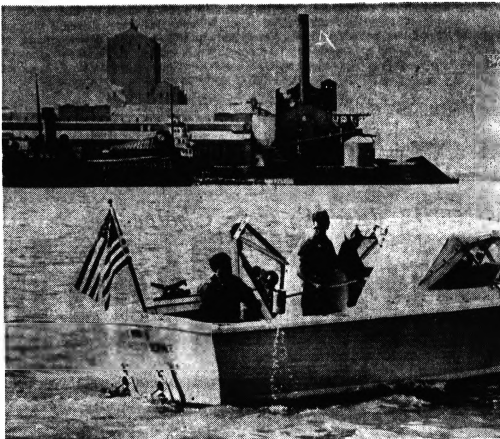

BIG CONTRIBUTORS

Murray Stein, pollution control officer of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, told a news conference Detroit contributed about one third of the 1.6 billion gallon daily flow of waste. No. 2 polluter, he said, was a Ford Motor Co. plant, which discharged about 400 million gallons a day.

Most of the rest, he said, came from steel, paper and chemical plants in Detroit and the Detroit River, linking downriver communities.

The report didn't surprise many downriver residents, who had been known to propose paving over Lake Erie to make a parking lot.

"Just step into the river," said one disgruntled waterfront resident. "You won't get wet—just greasy."

AP Wirephoto

CHECKING POLLUTION — Members of the Federal Public Health Service are shown taking water samples from the Detroit River during its two-and-one-half year study of the river and its sludge-laden tributaries. "Unless remedial action is taken immediately," the report of their findings said, "the usefulness of the water resources of the Detroit area may be destroyed completely by pollution."

Stein told Michigan, in effect, act, the federal government was something less than laudatory. Gerald Remus, general manager of the Detroit Water Department, said the river wasn't very dirty, and besides, the secondary sewage-treatment facilities the PHS wanted Detroit to build would cost $120 million. Besides that, Remus said, they wouldn't do much good.

Secondary treatment of sewage involves filters and chemicals. The PHS said that would remove phosphates, which it blamed for the choking growth of algae in western Lake Erie.

Riverfront industries weren't happy with the new pollution control standards in the report. Spokesmen said they were "unprecedented, unreasonable, impractical, confiscatory and, in some cases, unobtainable."

The manufacturers found "some obvious errors and misstatements" in the report, and at least one hinted it would consider closing its plant if forced to cut its waste flow to PHS standards.

But the industries and municipalities cited as befouling the river have fallen into line. By the end of April this year, the four major hiders, Ford, Great Lakes Steel, Detroit and Wayne County, had agreed to try to meet stiff new standards adopted Jan. 6 by the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

Cost estimates of needed equipment ranged as high as $250 million, and Remus warned that users of Detroit's water supply "sizeable rate increases."

Ky Voices Willingness to Negotiate With Red Regime on Ending War

LOS ANGELES (AP) — South Viet Nam Premier Nguyen Cao Ky says he is willing to negotiate an end to the war with the Hanoi regime "under favorable conditions," the Los Angeles Times reported today.

"We would go to the conference table to tell them we draw the line at the 17th Parallel," Ky was quoted as telling Times correspondent William Tushy during a flight Tuesday to Tam Ky, where Ky was briefed on the current Operation Colorado.

Tushy quoted the premier as saying:

NO GIVEAWAY

"We're not sitting down to give them a couple of provinces south of the 17th Parallel. They would have to withdraw their agents and soldiers from South Viet Nam.

"I'm not refusing to talk. The question is whether Ho Chi Minh will talk personally, I don't think Hanoi will accept negotiations now."

"They have nothing to lose by continuing their aggression."

Whether Hanoi will negotiate, "depends a lot on the next several months, on the American elections, on the military situation, on many things."

"If we can prove to them we stand firm, that we are stronger every day every month, then on the day they see no hope for victory, they may wish to talk, to negotiate," the report concluded.

A family man with two children needs to earn $13,234 today to equal the purchasing power of $5,000 in 1939.

MONEY CLIPS.... by Mod Red

The eagle whose likeness appears on most United States currency was actually a resident of the Philadelphia mint for about six years in the 1850s. Where he came from or why he chose the pressroom in the mint as his hangout could only be conjecture but he was something special to the employees and was permitted to come and go as he pleased, inside or outside the complex.

Peter's curiosity would give credit to a cat. He enjoyed watching coining operations and would get as close to the action as possible and remain there until he was satisfied he had seen all there was to see. This inquisitiveness was resented by the workmen but it was to lead to Peter's destruction.

It happened during a test strike of a new die. Peter became so engrossed that he failed to notice someone starting the press on which he was perched. The lurch of the flywheel threw him to the floor causing injuries that proved fatal in spite of the care and attention given him by his friends.

Satellite Work a Team Effort

By Science Service

LONDON — A five-nation team has been formed to work on the development and manufacture of satellites.

The first contract for which the European Satellite Team (EST) will bid is a $20 million one for the building of the European Space Research Organization's TD-1 and TD-2 scientific satellites.

Four satellites are to be built, two to act as standbys in the event of anything going wrong.

TD-2 is to be launched in October 1969, during a period of high solar activity, and TD-1 six months later. Each will carry 17 experiments from universities throughout Europe.

American Thor Delta launch vehicles will put the satellites into space, hence the EST's TD-1 and TD-2 scientific satellites.

Up to $800 million a year is spent by the drug industry in an effort to promote new drugs in advertising in medical and other journals.

Politicians Must Take Plunge

Swimming Pool No Luxury

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I never like to admit that I was wrong about something, but circumstances force me to do so now.

A few months ago when it was disclosed that House members were installing an expensive indoor swimming pool in the Rayburn Building, I was unable to grasp its true significance.

WEST

I jumped to the conclusion that the pool would be used mainly for fun and frolic, and therefore should be classed as a luxury.

I realize now I was mistaken.

There are strong indications that the world, having gone through periods of trial by sword and trial by fire, may be entering a period of trial by water. Let us review some of the evidence:

PROVES POINT

—When the United States lost an H-bomb off the coast of Spain, our ambassador, Angier Biddle Duke, plunged fearlessly into the surf to prove it was nonradioactive.

—When Rep. Carlton R. Slicker, a candidate for governor in Maryland, asserted that Chesapeake Bay was dangerously polluted, his opponent, Thomas B. Finan, flung himself into the waves to prove the beaches were still safe for swimmers.

—When it was rumored that Mao Tse-tung was ailing, the aging Red Chinese leader immersed himself in the Yangtze River and paddled around for 65 minutes to prove he was physically fit.

These incidents illustrate the important role that swimming plays in politics and diplomacy.

AIDS U.S. POLICY

It is obvious that Duke could not have effectively implemented American foreign policy in Spain if he had waded into the ocean wearing water wings.

Mao's aquatic feat confronts our diplomats with a new challenge.

They would be wise to keep a bathing suit in their attache cases at all times, along with an extra pair of striped pants. In the light of these developments, no one could logically blame members of Congress for trying to stay in the swim of things.

TAKE THE PLUNGE

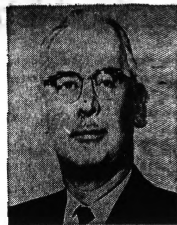

They, too, have a responsibility in the conduct of foreign affairs.

Congressmen never know when they might have to take a plunge to prove a point. Here, for instance, is one type of situation that could easily develop:

"Mr. President, Senator Fulbright has just made another speech criticizing your Vietnam policy. Do you have any comment?"

"Tell him to go jump in the lake."

The need to be prepared for situations of that sort is reason enough for both House and Senate to have swimming pools.

Sun Flare Timetable Sought

SUNSPOT, N.M. (UPI) — Astronomers at the Sacramento Peak Observatory in southern New Mexico are attempting to compile an accurate timetable of the sun's flare activity to protect future deep space astronauts from deadly radiation.

The flares, clouds of heavy radiation, are photographed daily by the astronomers perched two miles high in the Sacramento Mountains at Sunspot.

The information gathered is computed with earlier sightings in hopes some trend will be uncovered and allow scientists to predict eruption of flares.

A timetable would be invaluable for deep space travel beyond the moon. Scientists now feel radiation from the blossoming flares could hit spacecraft and endanger its occupants.

The rays also could damage unmanned probes such as Mariner 4 which last year completed America's picture taking mission of Mars.

LOOK SMALL
The flares appear tiny when seen in photographs snapped by the observatory's telescopic cameras. But they can reach awesome sizes, far outstripping any volcanic eruption ever recorded on earth.

Scientists estimate that maximum intensity flares keep 125,000 miles from the face of the sun and are about 65,000 miles in diameter.

Causes of the flares include the planet's fiery 14-million degree heat maintained by continuous thermonuclear reactions.

The danger from the flares comes from the deadly rain of proton showers that are part of some of them. Astronomers have said their knottiest problem at present is determining which flares contain protons.

Sandwiches Offer Very Good Eating

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Of sandwich making there is no end. Sandwiches are a staple article for the lunch box; a decorative part of the afternoon tea party; a main course for lunch at home; and an indispensable snack.

Once again it's national sandwich month. Once again we present some new ideas for fillings to put between slices of bread or in rolls.

Experiment with broiling open faced sandwiches. Toast the bread before

One of the joys of sandwich making is that you can be creative. Don't be afraid to try new combinations. Vary the kind of bread you use. Make your own bread. Do something different.

Serve With a Sauce

For teen-agers' favorite food — hamburgers — here's new styling with a package of frozen mixed vegetables with onion sauce. Just heat it to add the goopiness young ones like with ground beef patties.

Whamburgers

2 tablespoons all-purpose barbecue sauce
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ pounds raw beef
6 toasted hamburger buns
Vegetable Sauce

Stir barbecue sauce and salt into beef. Shape into 6 round patties. Broil on one side; turn. Spoon additional barbecue sauce over patties and broil until browned. Place on toasted buns and top with vegetable sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Cheese Whamburgers. Prepare Whamburgers as directed, broiling patties on both sides before adding additional barbecue sauce; then top each patty with a slice of cheese, spoon on barbecue sauce, and continue broiling until cheese is melted — about 1 minute.

VEGETABLE SAUCE

Heat vegetables as directed on package. Then stir in milk until sauce is of desired consistency. Heat briefly. Serve over Whamburgers. Season with spice or herb, if desired. Makes about 1½ cups sauce or 4 to 6 servings.

Note: This sauce is also delicious over meat or fish loaves, omelets, croquettes, or meat platters.

His prize is a two-week trip for two anywhere in the world, plus $500 in cash.

Dutch Diplomat

¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
12 slices (¼ oz. each) Swiss cheese
1½ cups prepared coleslaw, drained
6 slices (1½ oz. each) baked ham
6 slices (1½ oz. each) cooked turkey
Butter, softened
French fried potatoes
Dill pickles
Pimiento-stuffed green olives
Spread bread with mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Cover each of 8 slices with 1 cheese slice, 1 rounded tablespoonful coleslaw and ham. Cover with 6 bread slices, spread side down.

French Toast a Tuna Sandwich

You don't have to be French to have a good appetite. Eating comes naturally and with pleasure to Americans... especially teen-agers.

Teen-agers love to eat. And they are always looking for food. There's no better time (August

Lengthy Loaf Is One Sandwich

Submarines — Hoagies — Heroes — Poor Boys. By any name, a teen-ager can quickly tell you that they're all super-size sandwiches — assorted layers of meat, cheese, relishes, sauces and condiments, on long, crusty rolls or individual loaves of French bread — for super-size appetites.

SANDWICH-BY-A-YARD

1 loaf (1 lb.) enriched French bread, about 36 inches long Mayonnaise or salad dressing
8 slices (1 oz. each) summer sausage
4 slices (1 oz. each) Provencal cheese, cut in half
8 tomato slices (2 medium tomatoes)
16 scored cucumber slices
Catsup, mustard, relish as desired

Slice bread lengthwise in half. Spread each layer generously with mayonnaise or salad dressing. On bottom layer place sausage slices, then top layer with ½ cheese slice, 1 tomato slice and 2 cucumber slices.

Close sandwich. To serve, cut into 6 to 8 portions and serve with assorted condiments.

Cover with middle bread layer; top with tomato and cucumber slices. Close sandwich with remaining layer, spread side down.

favorites — French toast and tuna, which are given zip and crunch by pickles. They're fun to prepare, and will be a choice selection for snack time.

To dress up these tasty sandwiches for party fare, serve with cranberry sauce and celery and carrot sticks.

FRENCH TOASTED TUNA SANDWICHES

¼ cup chopped celery
¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
10 slices bread
2 eggs, slightly beaten
3 tablespoons milk
Dash salt

Combine first 4 ingredients; spread on 5 slices bread; top with remaining bread. Combine eggs, milk and salt. Dip sandwich on both sides in egg mixture. Brown slowly on both sides in butter in skillet.

Serve immediately or keep warm in oven. Makes 5 sandwiches.

FRENCH TOASTED TUNA SANDWICH

Ground Beef, Bologna, Cheese Mixed Into Sandwich Filling

The manager of a high school cafeteria, serving 900 students each day, should know what teen-agers like to eat.

Mrs. Josephine Weaver of Beaverton, Ore. invented a Pizza Burger which found favor not only with her young customers, but with the judges in the National Sandwich Idea Contest.

It won her $500.

To make the teen-tested Pizza Burger, Mrs. Weaver combines cooked ground beef with ground sausage and cheese, a mixture blended with spaghetti sauce and seasoning.

The savory filling is spread on split, toasted hamburger buns or English muffins and baked until the cheese melts.

Pizza Burger

6 ounces bologna
3 ounces Cheddar cheese
¼ pound ground beef
¼ cup prepared spaghetti sauce
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon leaf oregano
¼ teaspoon sage
6 enriched English muffins or hamburger buns, split and toasted
3 slices (1 oz. each) Cheddar cheese

beef until lightly browned. Pour off drippings. Add bologna mixture, spaghetti sauce, parsley, salt, oregano and sage to ground beef. Mix only until blended.

Spread ¼ cup mixture on muffins or buns. Cut each cheese slice into 4 strips. Place 1 strip crisscrosses on each sandwich.

Bake in preheated 450 degree oven 10 to 12 minutes, or until cheese melts.

Red and White Fillings Please

Grind the last of that baked ham for a sandwich filling. Use either mayonnaise or sour cream with which to moisten the ham.

If mayonnaise is used, season with pickle relish; if sour cream is used, you may want to season with prepared horseradish or prepared mustard.

Pare cucumber and quarter lengthwise; remove seeds and chop extremely fine. Add the chopped cucumber to cream cheese along with finely grated onion (pulp and juice), salt and white pepper for a delicious sandwich filling. If you like, you may add a layer of smoked salmon to the sandwiches.

Crumble tangy American blue cheese into hot buttered noodles and season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve with crisp salad and garlic bread.

Toast Buns for Shrimp and Pickles

Here's a new idea for a shrimp sandwich. It should appeal to those who do not care for mayonnaise mixtures.

Fresh shrimp is cooked gently in butter or margarine with chopped onions and sweet gherkins. The mixture is served on toasted hamburger rolls. Garnish with more pickles and potato chips for an interesting luncheon.

PICKLE SHRIMP BURGERS

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ pound fresh shrimp; shelled and deveined
¼ cup chopped sweet gherkins
¼ cup finely chopped onion
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
4 sweet gherkins, sliced lengthwise
4 hamburger rolls, buttered and toasted

Melt butter or margarine over low heat. Add shrimp, ¼ cup gherkins, onion, salt and pepper. Cook until shrimp turn pink, about 6 minutes. Arrange sweet gherkin slices on bottom roll halves. Arrange shrimp mixture over pickle slices and cover with top roll halves. Makes 4 sandwiches.

PICKLE SHRIMP BURGERS

Freeze Fruit Whip in Cones

No matter what the festive occasion, birthday or special holiday, refreshments invariably highlight a children's party. Although small-fry never pass up traditional birthday cake and ice cream, they like variety, too.

Knowing the kinds of goodies that have the greatest appeal for children — soft cookies, sour buns, lollipops and such — home economists in the Lever Home-making Center have concocted a luscious new frozen filling for waffle cuplets or crispy ice cream cones, always high on the list of favorites.

This new filling is simply and quickly made with dessert topping mix and a fold-in of colorful raspberry preserves. Convenient as well as flavorful, it is an inexpensive treat that can be kept in the freezer until serving time.

Even small children can easily handle these cones—

The combination of crispy cone and luscious whip provides an interesting blend of textures and flavors that will tempt parents to join the party from the sidelines.

Frozen Lucky Cones

1/4 cup cold milk
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1 envelope dessert topping mix
1/4 cup raspberry preserves
8 waffle cuplets

Combine milk and vanilla in deep 1-quart bowl. Add dessert topping mix. Stir to blend. Whip at high speed on mixer until

FROZEN LUCKY CONES—A mixture of dessert topping mix and colorful raspberry preserves fills ice cream cones for the young.

BAKED BRUNCH RAMEKINS—A new idea—baked casseroles! Served straight from the oven to hearty appetites, these rich-in-flavor Baked Brunch Ramekins are sure to please. Tomato sauce with mushrooms is the flavor secret in this breakfast surprise.

Meat, Eggs, Cheese for Casseroles

Here's wide-awake food at its best. These hearty individual casseroles will start the day off right. Serve them to your family for weekend breakfast, or let these colorful ramekins star at a "come alive" brunch for family and guests as well.

Spicy pork sausage, eggs and Cheddar cheese are combined with a cornmeal-sour cream mixture made special with tomato sauce and mushrooms. Easy and fun to prepare, these casseroles bake in less than half an hour.

Serve piping hot with fresh fruit, buttered toast triangles with choice of preserves, and hot coffee. No one will be late for this sunny breakfast!

Baked Brunch Ramekins

1/2 lb. bulk pork sausage
1 cup cornmeal
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce with mushrooms
3/4 cup boiling water
3 eggs
1 cup sour cream
6 eggs

Brown sausage in skillet; drain. Cover bottoms of six individual casseroles or ramekins with sausage.

Mix together cornmeal, salt and soda. Pour tomato sauce and boiling water over and stir. Beat in three eggs and sour cream. Pour cornmeal mixture on top of sausage in casseroles and drop a whole egg in center of each. Sprinkle with cheese.

Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Hawaiian Sundae

Want to try a new idea for a "homemade" sundae? Try this Hawaiian Delight. Just combine 1 cup drained crushed pineapple, 1/2 cup honey and 1/4 cup quartered green maraschino cherries. Add a few drops of green coloring and mint flavoring. Chill thoroughly and surprise your family.

Skillet of Beans Heated on Back of the Grill

Add spicy barbecued wieners, Boston brown bread and a pot of full-bodied coffee and you have fresh air appetites well in hand.

Barbecued Beans
1 pound Canadian bacon
1/2 cup diced onion
1 clove garlic minced
2 1-pound cans pork and beans
2 teaspoons Kitchen Bouquet
1/4 teaspoon marjoram
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 cup molasses

Cut Canadian bacon into 1/4-inch thick slices and then into large cubes. Fry in skillet over outdoor grill until brown and slightly crisp.

Cover and cook over low heat at back of grill about 30 minutes. Remove cover and continue cooking 15 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Magazine Hits N. J. Gun Law

RAHWAY, N. J. (AP) — The Dome, a monthly magazine, has editorially attacked New Jersey's new gun-control law, claiming it is a threat to individual rights.

The editorial also contends the law could not be effective "because most criminals

It said a wife, or any relative or friend of a criminal can purchase a weapon for him and thus defeat the purpose of the law.

The magazine claimed it speaks with authority. It is published and written by the inmates of Rahway State Prison.

'Loud' Unclear Cyclist Freed

Judge Burns also threw out the city ordinance covering the offense, saying it did not specify how loud is too loud.

Gene Nelson a Director

Dancer Finds New Career

By HOWARD C. HEYN

HOLLYWOOD — When Gene Nelson was gravely injured in an equestrian accident nearly 10 years ago, a certain segment of his audience said—and not without sympathy—"Well, there goes another good dancer."

Gene himself wasn't sure he'd even take a step again. His pelvis, among other things, was fractured, and he feared one leg would be shorter than the other. Always an enthusiastic rider, Nelson was on location in Tennessee when a horse threw him, then fell on him. That was in 1957.

He did dance again, in 1960.

He found a new career, as a director.

"It's an old wives' tale that dancers are short-lived professionally," he said. "Most of our famous film dancers are still agile today, and so am I. The real reason I danced sporadically after I recovered is simple: There just aren't enough musicals to keep dancers busy these days. You have to learn to do something else."

"Shut up in a hospital, I learned to write scripts. The first few didn't get used, but they got me contacts in television. One of these asked me if I wanted to try my hand at directing. I jumped at the chance. You know what happened?"

Among a long list of shows Nelson directed was the first live TV presentation of "Matinee Theatre." He also appeared in many, sometimes as a dancer.

"You have to learn fast because that's the way they do everything in television," he said. "A director must know script technique."

"Dancing, too, was a natural advantage. When I was essentially a dancer I usually did my own choreography. That puts you into intimate relation to the camera and the director. A dancer's sense of timing also is a boon in directing."

STARTED AT 12
Nelson began dancing at 12. At 15 he became a professional, in a Fanchon and Marco juvenile revue. Now 46, he is back at Warner Bros., where he did 10 films as a performer between 1948 and 1953. Most were musicals, and so is the one he is now directing, "The Cool Ones."

This is his sixth feature in five years as a full-time director.

"I work 11 months of the year and I never worked harder," he said. "It's a strange thing, perhaps. But everything that has happened to me has turned out to be useful in some way, like script writing."

S. Africa's Huge Sandy Wastes From Gold Mines Are 'Out to Pasture'

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—For the past 80 years, Johannesburg has been faced with a growing problem—what to do with the miniature man-made deserts which surround the city.

Ever since gold was discovered in 1886, disposal of the sand left after the glittering wealth has been extracted by dredge mining, has given mining authorities a headache.

Flowers and lush green grass are beginning to cover the towering pyramids of sand. There are plans to build bowling greens, soccer fields and tennis courts on the great desertlike wastes.

For years, mining companies have struggled with the problem of the encroaching sandy wastes, what to do with the growing mountains of golden dust, which often tower higher than the city's skyscrapers.

14 TYPES OF SEED

After five years of continuous research the experts came up with an answer: Grass. Experiments with more than 400 varieties of trees, shrubs and grass were tried before hitting on the right combination of 14 types of seed. When sown together they germinate on the dry sandy terrain.

South Africa's great gold-bearing reef, one of the richest in the world, extends for 130 miles. It leaves in its wake over 25,000 sand pits, many containing as much as 25 million tons of residual dust.

SERIOUS CONCERN

The drifting menace has caused serious concern among health authorities who claim the sandy deserts are responsible for widespread contamination of water and foodstuffs.

Spreading for hundreds of square miles, much of the mining area is unsalable. When the gold mines run dry, the drifting sand takes over, obliterating most of the surface workings.

Industrialists and town planners hesitate to build factories anywhere near a gold mine dump for fear the fine sand particles might ruin delicate machinery. Food manufacturers fear contamination of their products.

Grazing the great chain of golden deserts is a long-term task but mining research experts forecast that one day Johannesburg and the neighboring gold mining towns will be surrounded by pleasant grassy

They agree also that if their experiments prove successful their methods could be used to transform some of Africa's arid deserts into valuable pasture land.

Golden Gate Record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Golden Gate Bridge officials say a record 94,855 vehicles crossed the span last Sunday. The previous high was 94,852 on June 12.

Torch Drive Leaders Set

DETROIT (AP) — The 1966 Community Chest Torch Drive campaign will be headed by four Detroit area executives who were appointed Tuesday. They are: Wallace E. Wilson, a General Motors vice president, De C. Malow, Jr., president of the Barton Malow Co., Bennett J. McCarthy, vice president and general manager of Michigan Blue Cross, and Thomas R. Reid, director of civic and governmental affairs for the Ford Motor Co.

California Policemen Patrol Beat in the Sky

LAKEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — One recent summer afternoon, a man streaked onto a used car lot, hopped into an auto and drove away. Minutes later a small helicopter swung over the fleeing vehicle and directed sheriff's ground units to close in. A loudspeaker blared a command to surrender. This so rattled the man he lost control of the car, which served across a lawn and into a tree. The man fled afoot, but the helicopter dogged him until he was caught.

In another case, a sheriff's deputy, checking a gathering of youths, was surrounded by a gang. But a chopper arrived and the youths dispersed. The sheriff's office says this is the first time intensive anti-crime helicopter patrols have been tried in such a relatively small area, although Los Angeles County has used copters for mountain rescues and routine patrols since 1955. All of Lakewood is visible from a helicopter cruising at 1,500 feet. The results will be reported by Robert C. Gilbre, head of the Police Science Department at California State College at Long Beach. Financed by a $150,350 grant from the U.S. Justice Department, the office of law enforcement assistance, Sky Knight is the largest grant to date to a local law enforcement agency, and the fastest to get into operation, says Harold M. Earle, chief of the sheriff's administrative division. Three helicopters are manned by two sheriff's deputies each, in three eight-hour shifts. Since machines need refueling and pilots need rest, the craft are airborne about five hours per shift. The program began operating June 6 out of nearby Long Beach Airport. "If it's successful," Earle said, "the aero detail may grow the 10 times its present size within two years," with similar patrols in other areas.

Segment of I-94 to Open by Nov. 9

MOUNT CLEMENS (UPI) — A $16-million segment of I-94 will be opened to traffic by Nov. 9, the Macomb County Road Commission said yesterday. "The stretch of highway will complete I-94 through Michigan,"

It had been held up for more than four years because of drainage facilities. Formal ceremonies were expected for the opening of the stretch of highway by Nov. 9.

Soviets Put Lid on 140-Year-Old Mystery of Czar

'Good Driver of '66'
Selected in Detroit

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet authorities have apparently put the lid on the 140-year-old mystery of the grave of Czar Alexander.

They rejected as legend the idea that Alexander faked death in 1925, then wandered for 40 years — most of them in Siberia — disguised as a monk.

The question of what actually happened to Alexander, so intrigued Leo Tolstoy that he began a book on the case. Earlier, Tolstoy had written of Alexander and Napoleon in "War and Peace."

An article in the current issue of the Soviet weekly magazine Ogonyok blames Tolstoy for perpetuating the idea that Alexander was not buried in the grave marked as his.

NEW ARTICLE

Last November, a Soviet writer suggested that the mystery could be cleared up by opening Alexander's grave. The new article said nothing about opening the grave. It claimed instead that exhaustive evidence showed Alexander died where and where history says he did.

Tolstoy wrote that Feodor Kuzmich, an old monk, appeared in Siberia in 1896 and wandered there for 27 years amid rumors that he was the "dead" czar in disguise.

According to Tolstoy, Alexander "died" suddenly at Taganrog, in southern Russia, far away from St. Petersburg, the czarist capital. Tolstoy said he had not been ill but had been depressed and said he wanted to give up his throne.

Tolstoy wrote that persons who saw the czar's body said he had changed so much they could not recognize him. The covered figure. When Kuzmich died, a letter found in his possession bore the initials "A. P." Alexander Tolstoy, was the same height as the czar and had the same name.

Tribe Stages 'Last Stand'

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — The Quechan Indian tribe is asking President Johnson to veto the Arizona-California boundary agreement which Congress has approved. They claim it would take away 2,000 acres of land to which they lay claim.

A spokesman for the tribe said a resolution sent to the White House represents the tribe's "last stand" against the agreement.

The Ogonyok article, written by V. Prokopenko and state archivist A. Iliritskaya, concentrated on answering Tolstoy's points.

FORGERY

They said the letter found on Kuzmich was a forgery of the czar's handwriting and not a very good one at that.

They also claimed documents showed Alexander had suffered a long illness before his death and that his coffin was open and shown to the public on the way from Taganrog to the capital.

They said a death mask made from the corpse showed that unquestionably that it was the czar's.

They said state archives and testimony of all witnesses established beyond a shadow of a doubt that "the death of Emperor Alexander I on Nov. 19, 1925, in Taganrog is a historically documented fact."

The article did not exclude the possibility that the grave had been opened by officials and the findings had led the writers to their conviction that Alexander was buried there.

DETROIT (AP)—This city's "Good Driver of 1966" is Alton K. Brown, a 51-year-old salesman from Dearborn Heights. Brown was one of 200 "safe drivers" chosen at random by officers from the Traffic Safety Squad of the Detroit Police Department.

He has had a clean driving record for 33 years. The five finalists competed in a 30-minute test of car handling skills, road problem responses and composure in heavy traffic.

Lions Face Cardinals in Exhibition Tilt

New Players Bolster Bench for Contest

McGuire, Mazzanti Acquired; A. Karras, Kramer Sidelined

The Detroit Lions have been busy on the field and in the front office as they prepare for tomorrow night's game with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The National Football League exhibition tilt will be played in Tiger Stadium starting at 8 p.m.

With only three days to get his players ready, coach Harry Gilmer has stepped up the tempo in practice sessions. Meanwhile, the front office has acquired two players to bolster apparent weaknesses.

Rookie offensive end John McGuire, 6-3, 224-pounder from Syracuse, was obtained from Baltimore and defensive end Jerry Mazzanti, 6-3, 240 pounds, was picked up from the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Lions yielded future draft choices to obtain both players. Ron Kramer and Jim Gibbons, two of the best tight ends in the NFL, have been hampered by injuries. Kramer suffered a fractured hand in the Pontiac scrimmage and will not be ready for another week. Gibbons is bothered by a sore knee.

Tackle Alex Karras will miss the game because of an injured knee.

The addition of Mazzanti, who has been in military service for two years, gives the team reserve strength behind regular defensive ends Darrin McCord and Larry Hard.

PLUM DEFENDED
"There's nothing wrong with quarterback Milt Plum that a little better blocking up front wouldn't help," assistant coach Sammy Baugh said yesterday.

"Offensively, you are about as good as your line. The days the line doesn't block for you are the days you aren't going to pass very well," Baugh added.

"Look at last Saturday (when the Lions beat Minnesota 24-6) to a 6-4 tie," Baugh pointed out.

"The blocking was nowhere near what we expect during the regular season and Plum still completed more than half of his passes."

Plum was 12-for-23 for 92 yards under somewhat slippery conditions in the game at St. Louis.

Baugh, holder of many NFL records and former head coach at New York and Houston of the American Football League, thinks the other three Lions quarterback hopefuls are about evenly matched.

"Some days one looks better and other days another seems to be coming around," Baugh said. "I'll take all of the exhibition season to decide which one to stick with."

George Igo played against the Vikings and coach Gilmer appears to be leaning more to Karl Sweetan than Tom Myers for the back-up spot behind Plum Thursday.

"It didn't have anything against the Vikings but it wasn't his fault," Baugh offered. "He had a lot of interceptions in the line in front of him."

As for the rest of the backfield, Baugh sees a lot of competition for the starting jobs. He admits to having a slight preference for rookie Bruce McClenahan, a Little All-America choice at Hilldale.

College Student in Tourney Lead

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Jack Bieber of Kanabec, Ill., may not be quite as good as a new course today after he bombarded Cascades Golf course with his first hole-in-one, an eagle and two birdies Tuesday to lead in the 49th Western Junior Tournament.

The five-under-par 68 by the University of Iowa student was better than his closest competitors in the 342-entry field.

Tigers Flex Hitting Muscles

WASHINGTON (AP)—His Tiger teammates are crowding Willie Horton's act.

Three Detroit muscle men broke loose with home runs Tuesday night in a long ball assault in the late innings that left D.C. Stadium a shambles.

Norm Cash drilled one off the scoreboard clock as the Tigers got five extra-base hits in one inning to crush Washington, 8-3.

A relatively subdued Horton merely drove in the tying run, making a total of 11 RBIs in the last four games—and slammed a triple to make it seven straight games with an extra base hit.

Horton's triple, along with homers by Cash and Orlando McFarlane, came in the eighth. Wert's homer came after an error by Fred Valentine on Earl Wilson's fly ball.

DROPPED FLY
Wilson and Frank Knetzer were tied 1-1 in matching three-hitter with two out in the Detroit seventh when Wilson flied to center and Valentine dropped the ball. Wert's fifth homer made it 3-1.

Wilson suddenly folded in the eighth when the Senators clubbed him for three hits and two runs. Larry Sherry was summoned for the mop-up detail.

Detroit won the first of the three-game series Monday, 5-3. They will try to make it a sweep tonight with Denny McLain opposing the Senators' Jim Hannan.

Horton's two runs batted in gave him 72 for the year.

Wilson suddenly folded in the eighth when the Senators clubbed him for three hits and two runs. Larry Sherry was summoned for the mop-up detail.

But still to be decided today was who among a premier field of 118 would have the unenviable task of meeting the 17-year-old high school senior in match play competition.

Beginning of the End—Detroit Tigers' third baseman Don Wert (8) is welcomed at home plate by pitcher Earl Wilson (wearing windbreaker), who scored ahead of him, and Jerry Lumpe (8), next batter, after closing his fifth home run in the seventh inning last night to trigger an 8-3 Detroit win over the Senators in Washington, D.C.

Wert's two-run homer gave the Bengals a 3-1 lead and they broke the game open with five markers in the eighth. Also at the plate are Senators' catcher Paul Casanova and umpire Bill Valentine.

Hills' Golfers on Top Team in Best-Ball

Three Bloomfield Hills golfers teamed with a Loomchur player yesterday in capturing the Women's District Golf Association's Best-Ball-of-Four tournament at Franklin Hills.

Mrs. John Kerr, Mrs. S. E. Gavne and Mrs. Robert Winger, all of Bloomfield Hills, C., joined Mrs. Robert Gamble in carding a one-over-par 41-35-76.

Two strokes back in the runner-up spot were Mrs. John Hume, Red Run; Feather Fehre and Mrs. Willard Grushcow, Indianapolis; and Kathy Henricksen of Adams Valley.

Taking third was the foursome of Mrs. R. C. Shorr, of Edgewood, Mrs. Ed Jones of Meadbrook along with Mrs. Philip O'Connell and Mrs. James O'Becky of Lochmore.

They accomplished that goal Tuesday night as Berry drove in the winning run in a 2-1 victory over Kansas City.

The triumph, boosted the White Sox into fifth place, one percentage point ahead of Minnesota.

Berry was a major disappointment to Chicago officials last year when, as a rookie, he played in 187 games and batted a meager .218. As a result of that record and his performance in spring training this year, Berry lost his center field job to rookie Tommie Agee.

When he did get to play early in the season, he showed no improvement. In fact at one point he was batting .198. Then he won back a regular job, in right by Boog Powell in the fourth.

Joe Peplone and Roger Maris cracked two-run homers as the Yankees scored first-place Baltimore, 4-1, Detroit whipped Washington, 5-3, Cleveland blanked Boston 5-0 and California stopped Minnesota 2-0.

Fris Peterson pitched a six-hitter for his ninth victory against seven defeats. He allowed Baltimore only a homer by Boog Powell in the fourth.

Hitchcock Leads Club Past Sandy Koufax

By the Associated Press

That little ulcer most managers pamper probably has a running start on Billy Hitchcock after his first game as skipper of the Atlanta Braves.

Hitchcock, who replaced Bob by Bragan as manager of the Braves Tuesday, piloted the club to a 2-1 victory over Sandy Koufax and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

And it only took four hours, 24 minutes to do the job.

Ed Matthews ripped a homer in the ninth, ending the marathon which was delayed for two hours, five minutes by rain in the fourth inning.

Elsewhere in the National League, first place Pittsburgh edged the New York Mets 2-1, Cincinnati edged San Francisco 3-2, St. Louis doubled Philadelphia 3-1 and Houston ripped Chicago 8-5.

Don Cauden doubled in one run and scored the other on pitcher Woody Fryman's single as the Pirates edged the Mets.

Collision Crew in 'A' Playoffs

Bob Tuck pitched M.G. Collision to the Men's City Class A baseball playoffs last night, downing CIO No. 54 on a two-hitter, 1-1.

The losers collected both hits — singles — in the first inning off Tuck, who struck out five and kept the CIO bats silent throughout the final six innings. He retired the last 12 batters in a row.

The victory gave M.G. fifth place in the standings and earned the team a berth in the playoffs which open Sunday night at Jaycee Park.

Booth Homes meets the Clippers at 8 p.m. Sunday and M.G. will take on Cranbrook at 8 p.m. Monday. The winners square off on Wednesday, Aug. 17, with the victor moving on to a two-out-of-three series with league champion Teamsters starting Sunday, Aug. 21.

Successive errors by MG outfielders let the runners move up but Mann was cut down at the plate trying to score on the second error and Fagerlie wound up on third. Fagerlie came home moments later on a wild pitch but Tuck ended the frame by fanning Jim Berg.

MG tied the count at 1-1 in its half of the first when first

Players Seek Break From Parent Group

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Tournament professionals are on the verge of a break with the Professional Golfers Association.

Cooler heads on both sides of the long-simmering controversy are attempting to head off a complete split, but they are running into problems.

This was indicated by the failure to reach a solid agreement in an all-day session of the PGA tournament committee Tuesday at the Upper Merion Club here, where the $100,000 Thunderbird Classic opens Thursday.

The seven-man committee kicked around some old problems, listened to gripes from various tournament players and came up empty-handed.

"We have nothing to report," said Max Elzlin, president of the PGA. "We hope to settle this thing amicably without publicity."

"We have nothing to say," added Tommy Jacobs, chairman of the players' committee.

As in Akron, Ohio, during the week of the PGA Championship last month, the tournament players and the PGA found no common ground for a working arrangement.

What will happen now? Nobody was willing to say.

ABHC opened the first inning with a single and moved around to score on a balk, fielder's choice and sacrifice fly to give the Yankees a 1-0 lead, and in the second with runners on first and second, he blasted a triple to send two more runs home. Another run scored earlier in the second on an error.

ABHC outed the winners, 5 to 2, but the hits weren't as productive as those by Collins.

Second baseman Randy Corneli led the losers with a pair of singles.

Elliot City, Md. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth and Carol Mann, running 1-2 in tournament victories and money winners, continue their battle for supremacy on the Ladies PGA golf tour this week in the $12,500 Lady Carling Open.

They head a field of 37 touring pros and a few amateurs which opens play Friday in the 54-hole tournament over the 6,995-yard, par-70 Valley Country Club course. A pro-am tourney will be held Thursday.

Miss Whitworth notched her fifth victory of the 1966 tour, breaking a tie with Miss Mann, by winning the $15,000 Lady Carling Open in Sutton, Mass., last Sunday. She edged Miss Mann by one stroke, 183 to 184.

For the year, Miss Whitworth has won $20,902 with Miss Mann the runner-up at $18,538.

City Class E Crown Taken by Yankee 9

The H. B. Yankees made a few hits go a long way yesterday as they captured the City's Class E Junior Baseball championship with a 4-3 triumph over Auburn Heights Boys Club.

The Yanks collected only two hits, both on second baseman Tom Collins, but both figured in the scoring.

Wins Seniors Golf Crown

Joel Shepherd of Kalamazoo Country Club carded a 73 on the North Course at Detroit Golf Club Monday and wound up the Michigan Senior Golf Association title when rain washed out the second 18 holes yesterday.

Finishing second in the field of 36 seniors was George Haggarty of Country Club of Detroit with a 75 on the North Course.

In third with a 72 was J. A. O'Brien of Plum Hollow Golf Club, who played the South Course which has a par four strokes less than that of the North Course. Four strokes were added to each South Course score in determining the relative standing of the players.

Unachieved Daydreams

Things You Have Never Done

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—There are too many things to do in this cluttered world. Ever sit down and catalog the things you might like to have gotten done but didn't because you were simply too busy doing something else? Here is a list of unachieved daydreams by one man who, well past life's halfway mark, is anxious to discover he has never—

Eaten locusts preserved in honey, chocolate-covered ants, or a barbecued aardvark.

Smoked hashish.

Spent an evening in a Turkish harem.

Ran short of hot water while taking a bath in Buckingham Palace.

Ridden the rods of a freight train, or ridden shotgun on a stagecoach.

Got looped in Chicago's Loop.

Pawned anything.

Flown over the North or South Pole.

Slept overnight in a coal mine or a $100-a-day hotel suite.

LOVE MAKING

Made love in a canoe, a sampan, or a royal barge on the Nile.

Read "Les Misérables," "The Last Days of Pompeii," or any novel written by Bertha M. Clay or Jean-Paul Sartre.

Trampled grapes with bare-foot girls in an Italian vineyard.

TOPPLE CANS

Danced the frug with Perle Mesta.

DOGSLED DRIVING

Played darts with an English barmaid, or kneey under the table with a Spanish duchess.

Ban on Yelling Is One of Curbs Placed on Restive Central Java

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—stronghold of the banned Communist party of Indonesia which city of Jogjakarta who feels like letting loose with a loud yell has to get permission first from the local military headquarters.

The official news agency Anders said no more yelling of slogans or general shouting will be allowed in the university city, a center of continuing political unrest in Indonesia.

In addition, assemblies of more than five persons must have special permission.

The strict measures are part of a military clampdown in Central Java in hope of restoring political tranquility. Assaults and knifings although on a small scale, still continue. Central Java is the remaining

NOT COMPLETE

Similar strict control over the populace has been put into effect in Surakarta, another Central Java city occasionally roiled by political and religious unrest.

Both areas have strong political and religious groups who support President Sukarno and recent moves made in the capital by military leaders to curtail his powers.

LOSE FIGHT

Lost a fist fight to a department store floorwalker.
