2 Boys Plucked Off Chunk of Ice in Lake St. Clair

DETROIT (AP) — Two half-frozen boys were plucked from a Lake St. Clair ice floe in a pre-dawn rescue today by four off-duty policemen, groping along inch-thick ice which they intermittently plunged through.

Eerie cries for help echoing across a vast expanse of ice set off the search. It ended almost 12 hours later and two miles out off St. Clair Shores.

The boys, Lawrence W. Brandt and Richard Rouillard, both 11 and of St. Clair Shores, were carried by helicopter to an awaiting ambulance. Their condition was reported good at a hospital.

They were rescued by Sgts. Arthur Layman and Arthur Furno and Patrolmen Arthur Deblauwe and James Housey of St. Clair Shores, who continued the search after 70 others and a Coast Guard helicopter had given up for the night.

Layman, who led the strong-out party on the ice, went through several times, but each time was hauled back by a rope the four had tied themselves together with.

Finally hearing weak calls for help above the whirling of searchlight generators, the four turned off the generators and heard the boys' cries more clearly. Shortly afterward, the two were spotted on a thick ice floe surrounded by water.

Seeking Increase of Debt Limit

Sec. Anderson Asking Senate Finance Group for Quick Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Anderson appears before the Senate Finance Committee to ask quick action on a five-billion-dollar increase in the national debt limit.

The House passed the administration bill for such an increase by a 328-71 vote Thursday.

Under the bill, a 250-billion-dollar ceiling would be in effect until June 30, 1959. The present limit is 275 billion.

The Finance Committee has been more reluctant to raise the ceiling than its House counterpart, the Ways and Means Committee.

The House passed a 15-billion-dollar boost in 1953, but the Finance Committee substituted a temporary increase of six billion.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va) long has contended the debt limit is Congress' last effective control over federal spending.

In advance of Anderson's testimony, Byrd would say only that he would demand "full justification" from the secretary for President Eisenhower's new five-billion-dollar request.

Heart Attack Takes Life of Ike's Eldest Brother

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Arthur B. Eisenhower, 71, eldest brother of President Eisenhower, died of a heart attack at his home last night. He had had several seizures in recent years.

A retired banker, he collapsed in the bathroom while washing his hands and was dead when found by his wife Louise a few minutes later.

President Eisenhower immediately postponed a White House dinner scheduled Thursday night for the Supreme Court justices.

There was no word from the White House whether the President would attend the funeral. Arrangements for the services are incomplete.

Arthur Eisenhower started with the Commerce Trust Co. in Kansas City as an errand boy at $4 a week in 1905 and by 1934 was the bank's executive vice president.

He became vice chairman of the board in 1955. He resigned that post and as president of the smaller Plaza Bank of Commerce in November of 1956. A few weeks later he suffered a heart attack.

At the time of his death, he was

Navy Is Pushing Vanguard Work

May Be Replaced by Jupiter Unless Satellite Is Launched Soon

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Navy is busy in another effort to get its temperamental Vanguard rocket off the ground in the next few days. Unless it performs quickly, the Army's Jupiter-C missile may be the first to shoot up a U.S. satellite.

Informed sources disclosed that bad weather and a frustrating series of mechanical bugs in the complex Vanguard spoiled several attempts to fire it last week. The first Vanguard blew up on its launching pad here last Dec. 6.

These failures have thrown the U. S. satellite program far off schedule. If a goal set by President Eisenhower had been met, three or four tiny American "satellites" would be in orbit now and the Vanguard would be set to launch bigger satellites in March.

As one delay continued to run into another, the conviction grew that the Vanguard must fly soon—in a matter of a very few days—or the Jupiter-C may take off first, carrying a 29.7-pound satellite.

The Vanguard still is experimental. Its second-stage guidance "brain" never has been tested in flight. All components of the Jupiter-C have been flown and were reported to have performed well. Authorities close to the Vanguard project said heavy rains—a rarity at this season in Florida—were troublesome during last week's firing attempts.

One of Florida's worst winters has interfered with efforts to step up the U.S. missile and rocket programs. Rain washed out an attempt to fire a Thor intermediate range ballistic missile. Friday, water in underground conduits caused a power failure.

Congress Gets Ike's Proposals to Aid Education

Billion Dollar Program Calls for Assistance to Brightest Students

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress today gets President Eisenhower's detailed proposals for fostering education of more of America's brightest students, particularly in the fields of science and mathematics.

Eisenhower arranged to send the Senate and House a special message on a four-year, billion-dollar program of aid to education that already has been sketched in broad outline.

It contains no provision for aiding school construction.

Major elements of this new program involve federal scholarships and fellowships to promote advanced studies, and matching grants to the states to help in picking and guiding the National Science Foundation, to be used in promoting science education and training.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) announced he will introduce legislation tomorrow to carry out Eisenhower's education program. He voiced hope it would receive "strong bipartisan support."

But in advance of Eisenhower's special message, some Democrats already have criticized the new program as falling short of needs.

Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) said Eisenhower should have proposed aid for school construction again this year. Previous Eisenhower requests along this line have never gotten far in Congress.

Kennedy said government statistics show the classroom shortage is still bad. He announced he will introduce this week a bill calling for 1½ billion dollars in federal grants to the states for school construction over a five-year period.

The Eisenhower program faced other pitfalls. Some members of Congress are opposed to federal aid to education in any form. And there is a possibility the school segregation issue may be raised in connection with the program.

222 Missing as Ships Flounder

Gale Lashes Japan Coast

TOKYO (AP) — A total of 222 persons, including 170 on an inter-island ferryboat, today were believed lost in a windstorm that lashed the south and east coasts of Japan.

Seven vessels were missing despite an extensive air and sea search.

The 496-ton ferryboat Nankai Maru radioed the single word "Danger" yesterday about an hour after leaving Komatsushima.

One of many ferries that cross the strait, the Nankai Maru carried 141 passengers, including at least 10 children, and a crew of 29.

Dulles Promises Aid to Mideast

U.S. Support Is Certain if Reds Attack, He Tells Pact Nations

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles told leaders of the five Baghdad Pact nations today the United States will support their nations with "mobile power of great force" against any Communist invasion.

Dulles' keynote speech at the opening of the Middle East alliance's Ministerial Council meeting emphasized that any potential aggressor "knows in advance that his losses from aggression would far exceed any possible gains."

"But," he said, "if perchance deterrence fails" the United States will contribute its mobile power to save the people of the Middle East.

The secretary of state is attending a pact conference for the first time since the alliance was formed in 1955.

Held in Woman's Death

BILLY RAY VANHORN

Sympathetic Phone Call Brings Suspect's Arrest

Police and sheriff's detectives are very grateful today that Leslie W. Lampi, of 394 Whittemore St., decided to try and help a friend Friday night.

Lampi, a friend of Drulard Murdock, 55, of 127

Josephine St., Waterford Township, called to offer his sympathy upon hearing of the brutal murder of Murdock's wife Hazel, 39.

He learned that one of the men being sought for questioning was Billy Ray VanHorn, 24, whom both he and Murdock knew.

Lampi, knowing the bars that VanHorn usually frequented, decided to go looking for the suspect. He found VanHorn wandering around outside the Avenue Bar, 137 Oakland Ave., at 12:30 a.m.

"I'm looking for a place to stay tonight," VanHorn told him. Lampi said he'd find him a place to sleep and drove VanHorn to the Pontiac Police Department.

"I don't think he knew where he was until we were inside the station," said Lampi.

Police didn't know that VanHorn was wanted yet and called the Oakland County Sheriff's Department to verify what Lampi told them about VanHorn.

Later, after VanHorn had confessed to the brutal crime, Lampi said rather sheepishly, "I guess I was pretty lucky. It never entered my mind that he might have been armed."

Plane Crash-Lands; 4 Area Men Unhurt

Four Pontiac area residents found their ice fishing expedition to Saginaw Bay interrupted Sunday as their single-engine plane crashed in a landing on the ice of the bay. All escaped uninjured.

Flying the Tri-Pacer plane owned by Pontiac funeral director Earl J. Smith Jr., 35, of 138 W. Lawrence St., was Earl Stockman, 38, of Rochester, manager of the Pontiac Mirror & Glass Shop, 732 W. Huron St.

Passengers along with Smith were William Ford, 60, of 43 S. Genesee Ave., Pontiac gas station operator, and his son William Jr., 31, of 863-Menominee Rd., an employee of Pontiac Motor Division.

Smith said the nose landing gear buckled in the deep snow as Stockman landed the plane. He reported $1,500 damages to the plane which is based at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

Alcoholic Confesses Killing Area Woman

Examine Court Records, Reports of Sadism in Murdock Murder

By PETE LOCHBILER

Probate Court psychiatric records were examined today by authorities planning to seek a first-degree murder warrant against Billy Ray VanHorn, 24-year-old alcoholic who has confessed the brutal slaying of a Huron Gardens housewife.

The records contain reports by two psychiatrists who examined VanHorn, one of whom stated that although VanHorn was a criminal psychopath, nevertheless he was not committable, in his opinion, under present Michigan laws.

Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem said that, before asking for the warrant, he would examine these records and also review VanHorn's confession obtained Saturday night after teams of police officers had questioned him about the death of Mrs. Hazel Murdock, 39, of 127 N. Josephine St., Waterford Township.

Mrs. Murdock's body had been found Friday afternoon on her kitchen floor.

She had been beaten, criminally attacked, stabbed in the stomach with a paring knife and strangled with a coat hanger.

Her husband, Drulard Murdock, 55, discovered the body when he returned home from work. A self-employed carpenter, he and his wife had befriended VanHorn to help him curb his drinking through Alcoholics Anonymous.

VanHorn was described by police as an unemployed drifter whose estranged wife was attempting to have committed to Pontiac State Hospital for alcoholic treatment.

He remained in custody in Oakland County Jail today as officers attempted to draw out more details of the crime.

Ziem said that VanHorn gave a straight "yes" answer to the question, "Did you kill Mrs. Murdock?" but claimed he blacked out during the actual crime.

"LIKE BAD DREAM"
"It seems like a bad dream. An irresistible urge came over me," Ziem quoted him as saying.

VanHorn's wife, Audrey, had filed the petition for her husband's commitment last Jan. 2, after she brought charges against him for non-support.

She stated in it that VanHorn was an alcoholic and "had sadistic tendencies while drinking." She said he had beat her several times when drunk.

She further stated that VanHorn had threatened "to dynamite" the home of her mother, Mrs. John Winston, 944 LaSalle St., where she was staying with their 17-month-old boy.

Acting on this petition, Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore had two psychiatrists examine VanHorn in Oakland County Jail, where he was serving a two-weeks term on the non-support charge.

One of them, Dr. L. Jerome Fink, said in his certificate to Probate Court that he examined VanHorn Jan. 14 and found him

Motive Unknown in Suicide of R. R. Young Plan Funeral of Rail Tycoon

New York Central's earnings for December and 1957 were expected to be announced today but two top men in Young's financial empire said in advance finances had nothing to do with Young's suicide.

Alfred E. Periman, president of NYC, and Allen P. Kirby, president of the Alleghany Corp., — Young's holding company — said: "Neither the financial affairs of the Alleghany Corp. nor the New York Central should in any way be related to this tragedy. The facts would bely such an interpretation."

Sign Shooters in Three Areas

Shoot Rockets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

High school boys at Houston, Tex., Spokane, Wash., and Steelton, Pa., launched homemade ballistic missiles yesterday.

They all orbited. The boys, that is, not the missiles.

The Texans had their $10 model instrumented, as the saying goes at Cape Canaveral, with an accelerometer. The boys reported their shot attained 700 miles an hour, rose two miles and landed in 50 seconds just where they wanted it.

"Better than we expected," declared 16-year-old Dennis Ashton, president of the Rocket Research and Development Society of Houston.

"It worked exactly as we predicted. As far as I am concerned, it was a perfect shot."

RR&DS of Houston has been working three years and the launching was No. 87. The missile was 30 inches long and 2 inches in diameter. The boys scurried off to work on their RJD, which is 5 feet long, 3 inches in diameter and designed to go up 30 miles. Estimated time of arrival at the countdown: 18 months.

David Loych, 16, and Joseph Count, 15, launched their 15-inch aluminum rocket from Charles W. Holub's farm near Steelton. It swooshed yellow flame, shook its fins and went out of sight.

It was their fifth and they had a new twist on the fusing—paper toweling soaked in potassium nitrate. They went right to work on No. 6, which will be a two-stage job.

The four 16-year-old rocketeers at Spokane still are looking for their missile too.

"It was at least a mile in the air when it went out of sight," said Milton Mikalson.

It was 4 feet long, 2 inches in diameter and made of seamless steel. Milton, Wayne Farmer, Wayne Kalk and Larry Sims built their missile under the supervision of their high school chemistry teacher.

A police officer watched over their launching. Security reasons, of course.

The fuel in all cases was powdered zinc and sulphur. And that's no secret, no matter how many million parents of young spacemen wish it were.

Does lightning ever strike an individual standing alone out in the open, as it does a tree?

Although winter is a strange time in a sense, to talk about lightning, which is several months away in most areas, this question is often asked and is of constant interest.

The answer is that lightning does strike individuals, but only rarely. A tall mast on a ship or a tall tree definitely "draws" the electrical discharges that are lightning. But a human being is too short to act as much of a lightning rod.

Nevertheless, out in the open, on flat ground a person might be the focal point of a discharge. Chances are about one in a million, but it does happen, so the old precaution of taking refuge in the house, or in a car, is a sound one.

AT DEDICATION CEREMONIES — Top Pontiac city officials turned out with many interested citizens yesterday afternoon to officially dedicate the city's new Public Safety Building. talkie with them, radioed for a rubber raft. Layman crossed the water and took the boys aboard.

The helicopter was called and the boys were whisked away. The drenched, shivering policemen walked to shore and went home.

The search started at 7 p.m., three hours after the boys went onto the lake on skates.

FOLLOWED TRAIL

"We decided to make a deep track with our ice skates, one that we could follow back when the time came," said Larry. Policemen found the trail and followed it on the ice until three inches of water over the ice dissolved the marks.

Charles Santo, searching for a car which had fallen through the ice about 300 feet from shore, first heard cries for help. When he couldn't locate anyone, he called police and the search started.

Officially the search was called off at midnight, but the policemen stayed on, although off duty.

Young Larry told this story in the hospital:

"We were out skating and noticed the iceberg so we decided to investigate it and see what it was like. It was about 100 feet long and 20 feet wide.

"We got on all right and stayed there awhile. I guess it was around 5:30. Then we started to come back. Ricky's foot went in and I fell in all the way.

THE ICE CRACKED

"We tried several times to get off the ice but every time we moved around the ice cracked.

"We never cried while we were out there... we were sure scared though."

The boys said they "just about gave up" when a nearby helicopter went away. Larry continued:

"We just yelled and yelled but nobody heard us. We tried to lie down and sleep but we go so cold we would get up in a few minutes and jump around.

"I've got an ice pond in my backyard at home. I think that is where I'm going to skate from now on."

Talk by Judge Keys Building Dedication

Circuit Court Judge H. Russell Holland called for a dedicated citizenry and employs as some 120 city officials and guests gathered yesterday at the official dedication of Pontiac's new Public Safety Building.

Judge Holland, first associate justice of the peace in Pontiac, recalled former days on the lower bench as he spoke in one of the two new courtrooms on the second floor of the $950,000 building.

Acting as master of ceremonies for the event was Mayor William W. Donaldson, who introduced Judge Holland.

Members of the Pontiac City

Commission, several department heads, and many police and Fire Department personnel attended the 45-minute ceremony. Tours through the building were conducted before and after by members of the police force.

A moment of silent tribute was paid to Leo J. Heenan, architect for the building, who died last year.

Elks Lodge 810 presented the colors prior to the talks. The invocation was presented by the Rev. Thompson L. Marcero, and the Rev. Calvin Rice gave the benediction.

health might have led to his suicide.

He said: "I feel certain that a mood of black despair over his health was responsible for his death. He would never have taken his own life to avoid a financial crisis. He was not that kind of a man."

David W. Wallace, Allegheny vice president and secretary, said that ended his life.

Kirby, 65, probably will succeed Young as chairman of N.Y.C.

A review of the dead man's business affairs showed heavy stock sales, a hanging stockholders' battle which seemed likely to go against Young, and other difficulties, but failed to reveal any reason for his action.

Puzzled friends of the dead man were forced to conjecture that the frustrating of Young's dreams for enlarging the New York Central, the nation's No. 2 railroad, into a continental network, and the N. Y. C.'s declining revenues might have triggered the shotgun blast.

Cites Custom as $15-Million-a-Year Luxury

State Senator Attacks Coffee Breaks

LANSING (AP) — The coffee break and associated privileges for state employees came under attack over the weekend as a 15 million dollar a year luxury.

Sen. Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield), appropriations committee chairman, long has grumbled about throngs of state workers he has observed coffee-breaking mornings in two large state office buildings near the Capitol.

He sounded off after complaining that he couldn't get into the Stevens T. Mason Building's commodious cafeteria two mornings last week.

"It's about time Gov. Williams did a little investigating," he told newsmen. "There obviously is no attempt being made to control abuses."

Porter, who figures the average state employee spends about 200 hours a year drinking coffee and breakfasting on state time, recognized that the State Civil Service Commission allows morning and afternoon breaks of 15 minutes apiece.

He was particularly nettled about late-rising state employees who report for work, and then before they turn a tap hustle downstairs for coffee—with bacon and eggs or cereal.

"There's a lot of this that goes on and it's inexcusable," he said.

Porter and other lawmakers have complained that at certain times of the day state office building elevators are so loaded with coffee breakers "there's no room for the public."

Investigate Sanity of Assault-Slayer

"a criminal psychopath with an impulse-ridden character."

But Dr. Fink's certificate further stated that Van Horn was not committable to the state hospital under the legal definition of insanity.

The other psychiatrist, Dr. Abraham Tauber, reported he examined Van Horn Jan. 9. His report stated Van Horn was "temperamental, irritable and hostile to anyone who calls him an alcoholic."

It went on to say that Van Horn would admit to being "a weekend drinker." It said he further admitted that on occasions he had threatened his wife and mother-in-law, but maintained he was "only kidding."

Ironically, a hearing at which Van Horn could have been ordered held in protective custody until a final determination had been scheduled for 2 p.m. today.

However, the Deputy Probate Court Register in charge of hospitalizations and commitments, doubted that Van Horn would have been ordered held.

"On the basis of these two certificates, it looks as though our hands would have been tied," said the deputy, Mrs. Marian Hark.

Judge Moore, who left Pontiac on vacation today, was not available for comment.

Mrs. Van Horn, who separated from her husband about a month ago in Milwaukee, Wis., returned here as a telephone company employee, police said.

The Van Horns had been married four years, during which time they lived in several different cities in other states.

The slayer's wife was permitted to visit him briefly in jail yesterday. She said afterwards:

"The evidence points to him, I know. But I don't believe he's capable of doing something like that—he's not that vicious."

She said she had planned a divorce and intends to go through with it, and added, "I don't know now whether I'll wait until the trial is over or not."

Van Horn, who had been suspected because blood was found on his clothes and his name was found written down by Mrs. Murdock on her grocery list, had maintained his innocence through about 15 hours of questioning Saturday.

His confession finally was obtained by Capt. Millard Pender of the Waterford Township Police, State Police Sgt. Charles Leaf and Sheriff's Det. Marion Bauman.

Pender said the break came when he asked Van Horn, "Why did you hit her (Mrs. Murdock)?" He said Van Horn then replied wearily, "I don't know."

It was then, Pender said, that Van Horn began pouring out his story.

The confession was then made official in a question - and - answer statement taken by Ziem and a Circuit Court stenographer in the presence of the police officers.

According to Ziem, Van Horn's statement went like this:

"Van Horn walked to the Murdock home around 2 p.m. after drinking beer in a nearby bar for about two hours.

He said he wanted to tell Murdock he had a job lined up. Murdock was not at home, so Van Horn asked Mrs. Murdock if he could use her telephone to call a local charity organization about the job.

After making the call from the bedroom, Van Horn came out to the kitchen where Mrs. Murdock was preparing lunch.

She was quoted as saying then "Don't you ever come to this house again when you've been drinking."

Van Horn became angered and struck her "several times in the face with his fist," Ziem said, knocking the woman to the floor.

Van Horn said he did not remember what happened afterward. According to his statement, the next thing he remembered was seeing the woman lying on the floor, her face bloodied, the paring knife lodged in her stomach and the clothes hanger twisted about her neck.

Van Horn said he didn't remember strangling or stabbing the woman, Ziem said.

After the woman was dead, Van Horn washed up in the bathroom, returned to the bedroom, threw the contents of the victim's purse on the bed and took about $2.

He left the Murdock home by the front door and during the next few hours drank beer in several area bars until spotted in one of them by Leslie W. Lampl, of 394 Whittemore St.

Lampl, who was acquainted with both Van Horn and Murdock, drove Van Horn to the Pontiac Police station.

Fair Building's Space Sold Out for 10 Years

HANOVER, Germany — One of the world's largest exhibition buildings is going up at the site of the German Industries Fair in Hanover.

The sprawling five-story structure, designed exclusively for displaying electric products, will be ready when the fair opens April 27 for its 10-day run. The building's entire exhibition area has already been sold out for the next 10 years.

The Day in Birmingham

Protest of Trucking Firm Will Be Subject of Report

BIRMINGHAM — Among the reports to be considered by city commissioners at tonight's commission meeting will be that of City Manager L. R. Gare and City Engineer Grover Serenbetsz on the protest of Vito Trucking and Excavating Co. of Hazel Park.

The firm, although being low bidder on the Pine-Raynale sewer project, was not awarded the contract.

At the request of the company's attorney, Fred Buesser, Gare and Serenbetsz have checked the firm's references, and will report on the matter tonight.

In other business, Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley will inform commissioners that the County Road Commission has concurred with a city ruling that parking be banned on both sides of Cranbrook road from Maple avenue to 14 Mile road. The county, however, has increased the speed limit there from 25 to 30 miles an hour.

Moxley also will ask a Commission decision on the problem of handling parking tickets, which, he said, is becoming a clerical burden in his office. The number of tickets which goes beyond the 72-hour period increases the workload a great deal, he says, and should be corrected.

Pack B-7 will demonstrate its accomplishments with displays in the McBride Hardware and Peck's Men's Shop during National Scout Week, Feb. 7-13. Each of the 13 dens will be represented.

The pack will hold its Blue and Gold Banquet in celebration of Boy Scouting's 48th anniversary at 7 p.m. Feb. 13 in the Community House.

Merit badges will be awarded, and Kenneth Wooten, Michael Case, Mike Lowery, Harvey Bell, Ronald Graine and Ralph Moxley will "graduate" from cubbing.

Mrs. John Townner, who will leave soon with her three children to rejoin her husband in Indonesia, will speak at the Tuesday meeting of the Ruth Shain International Relations Class at the Community House.

She will speak on her past experiences in the islands where Townner is a director in Standard Oil's technical training school.

Past chiefs of Pythian Temple 94 will meet with Mrs. Edwin Weaver, 711 Bird St., at 8 p.m. tomorrow. The meeting will be highlighted by installation of officers.

DIMITRI G. VAFIADI

Service for Dimitri G. Vafiadi, 83, of 3347 W. Boston Blvd., Detroit, will be held at 1 p.m. tomorrow at St. Constantine and Helen.

During his banking career Eisenhower became recognized as a national authority on flour and grain financing.

He was one of six brothers who grew up at Abilene, Kan., and was the first to strike out on his own. A cousin at Abilene, Mrs. Ray Etherington, recalled Arthur didn't care much for books. She said he dropped out of high school, slung a green bag over his shoulder and set out to see the world and seek his fortune. He found it in Kansas City.

A mild-mannered man of great reserve, he shunned personal publicity that arose after his brother became president.

Besides his wife and the president, Arthur is survived by three other brothers; an adopted daughter, Mrs. Berton Rouchee, East Hampton, Long Island, N. Y., wife of a magazine writer; and a grandson, Arthur Bradford Rouchee, East Hampton.

The other brothers are Edgar, Tacoma, Wash.; Milton, president of Johns Hopkins University; and Earl, a publisher at La Grange, Ill. Another brother, Roy, died at Junction City, Kan., in 1942.

Announcement Expected Today

Egypt, Syria May Merge

CAIRO (AP) — The merger of Egypt and Syria into a single state is reported imminent. The newspaper Al Ahran said President Nasser and Syrian President Sukhri Kuwally announce the union today.

Top Egyptian and Syrian leaders proclaimed the advantages of the proposed federation, and the Cairo press gave it top play.

The public emphasis on the plan apparently was timed to take the edge off the opening of the Baghdad Pact conference today in Ankara, Turkey.

Al Ahran said Cairo would be the capital, the federation's name would be "the United Arab State" and there would be one government, one parliament and one army.

A plebiscite will be held in Egypt and Syria on the proposed union, Al Ahran said.

Nasser told visiting U.S. newspaper and radio editors Egypt and Syria have agreed on all except minor details.

Although Syrian officials have been talking constantly about a federation, Egyptian leaders had not commented officially in recent days. Syria has been pushing the plan since it first was proposed two years ago.

Both Syria and Egypt have received large amounts of Soviet economic and military aid. Their armies already are linked under a joint military command headed by an Egyptian and their foreign policies generally coincide.

From Railroad Trestle in South 2 Girls Hurtle to Death

BLUFF CITY, Tenn. (AP)—Two pering toward a water barrel frightened little girls were brushed to their deaths from a railroad trestle Saturday. Witnesses say one could have lived if she had abandoned the other. It wasn't that 13-year-old Pamela Harmon didn't want to live. Twice her fright sent her scam-arms around Dorothea and the too hazardous a way to cross two faced the unstoppable train the river to a friend's house. They fell into the icy waters of the Holston River 75 feet below. Pamela's brother David, 10, and two other children watched the drama. They had found the tres-

Tenderness Doesn't Make Boy a Sissy

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Peter's aunt is a friend of ours. She spent a recent holiday at his home. Among the other guests was the 2-month-old daughter of some neighbors.

After being fed, the baby was placed in her pink basket and put to sleep in the guest room. Later, Peter's aunt went to the room for her sweater.

Carefully, very quietly she opened its door. In the darkened room 7-year-old Peter was sitting on the bed beside the pink basket absorbed in rapt contemplation of the baby.

As she tiptoed toward him, he said in a hushed whisper, "Hurry up! Come and look at her ear. Just look at her fingernails. Did you ever see such little, tiny fingernails?"

Then Peter's aunt told us how the look of marveling tenderness on his face was suddenly replaced by one of panic. Flushing, he scrambled off the bed, whispering anxiously, "Don't tell anybody what I just said, will you? Don't tell me I was in here watching the baby. They'd laugh. They'd say I was a sissy or something."

NOT EFFEMINATE

His panic was justified. We do regard tenderness in the male sex as effeminate.

It is not effeminate. It is just love without any demand in it. It is a special sense of union with another person that gives us a feeling of his completeness as well as our own. In tenderness there is nothing of the effeminate man's dividedness, uncertainty and feeling of isolation.

Dr. Ian D. Suttie is a noted British psychiatrist. The Julian Press has published an American edition of his book, "The Origins of Love and Hate."

In it he writes, "The taboo on tenderness artificially differentiates men from women, making them bad comrades and throwing the women back upon dependence on their children."

In the present state of this world, we have no right to make any little boy ashamed of tenderness.

We who do envy his openheartedness. We ridicule it because we have been made afraid of our own. As Dr. Suttie says, "The indulgences we have been forced to renounce we will certainly not permit to others."

We ridiculing parents, not Peter, are the real sissies.

Patricia Brannan Speaks Vows in Five Points Rite

White gladioli and carnations banked the altar of Five Points Community Church for the Saturday evening wedding of Patricia Brannan and Herman Klienl. The Rev. Gordon Lindsey performed the double-ring ceremony in the presence of 200 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brannan of Joswick street are parents of the bride, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Klienl of Westbrook avenue.

For her wedding Patricia chose a gown of Chantilly lace accented by a sweetheart neckline and fitted basque waist. A tiara of pearl and rhinestones held her fingertip veil, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and white roses.

Matron of honor Mrs. Carol Rogers was gowned in white nylon over chiffon. Bridesmaids Joan Wortman and Joyce Watson wore gowns of white lace over pink chiffon and white lace over blue chiffon respectively.

Flower girl Debra Hargraves, a niece of the bride, wore a pink organza dress with a headpiece of pink and white carnations. All attendants carried roses and carnations.

Serving his brother as best man was Donald Klienl. Guests were seated by Vern Goode and Bud Hindbaugh. A nephew of the bride, David Roerink, acted as ringbearer.

For her daughter's wedding,

Mrs. Brannan chose a navy blue dress with pink accessories and wore a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. Klienl wore a red ensemble with olive-green accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

A reception was held in the church parlors following the ceremony.

The couple will reside on Green street.

Ladies Aid Society Sews Cancer Pads

Cancer pads were sewn for the American Cancer Society when Mrs. Edna Matheny opened her Baldwin avenue home to members and guests of the Ladies Aid Society of the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

Cohostesses for the dessert luncheon were Mrs. Alex Kasten and Mrs. Ralph Osborn, who also participated in the program.

Going Barefoot Aids Circulation

Going barefoot is a good way to improve circulation and give your feet a chance to breathe.

In the evening it is relaxing to sit with your feet uncovered and wiggle your toes and stretch them. This takes little effort on your part and eases the day's walking strains.
