President Assumes Control Again

Legion Convention Hears Most Vets Are Working; UNESCO Gets Criticism

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—American Legionnaires wound up a rain-soaked parade in the wee hours today and then turned to the thorny UNESCO question and other convention issues.

A joint meeting of the Americanism and Foreign Relations Committees was reported unofficially to have turned thumbs down on a special committee report that gave a clean bill of health to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

The report had said that UNESCO was neither Communist nor atheistic, nor in favor of world government.

Secretary of Labor James Mitchell in a speech prepared for the Legionnaires said that more than 98 per cent of the nation's male veterans of World War II had jobs in August.

In discussing the problem and status of veteran workers, Mitchell cited figures which he said "give some indication of the prosperity being enjoyed by America's "ex-servicemen."

He said 64½ million Americans now are employed and that former servicemen "along with the rest of the American wage earners are earning more money than ever before in the nation's history."

He said that in August, a decade after the end of World War II, more than 14 million veterans were at work.

This, he added "is a pretty good record."

For the third time in the four conventions the Legion has held here, Miami's traditionally sunny skies gave way to rain for the annual parade.

It hadn't rained here for a full day since early July, but yesterday a stubborn downpour forced postponement of the parade from 4:30 p.m. until 8 p.m.

But scarcely half an hour after the procession of 25,000 marchers, 100 bands and 50 floats had started the skies opened again.

Marchers were drenched to the skin. Floats that took months to prepare at costs of thousands of dollars were wilted. The rain straightened out the pretty coiffures of drum majorettes and other girls in the parade.

Later, the skies cleared and the parade finished in clearing weather.

2 Area Officials Comment on Selling of Sanatorium

Comment on the proposed sale of the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium to the state came from two officials today.

Albert Weber, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the TB Sanatorium, said he understands that the institution's ownership was set up as a corporate body vested in the Board of Trustees.

"When the state or our county Board of Supervisors are ready to talk business about the sale of the sanatorium, or any change in its operation, we are ready to consult with them," he stated.

Meanwhile, State Sen. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) advanced a proposal for immediate use of the building's annex to house the backlog of mentally defective children in the county awaiting commitment.

Both statements followed announcement Monday of a plan formulated by State Mental Health Director Charles A. Wagg recommending the state buy the hospital for conversion to handle mental defectives.

Broomfield stated he will have to be sure quarters on a par with the present ones will be provided county TB patients before backing Wagg's proposal.

Weber advised caution in pushing the sale. "While it is a fact," he said, "that the sanatorium now has a considerably reduced number of patients over some former years, it is no time to get in a hurry about any change in its use or ownership.

"The decreased number of patients may be due to two things,

Dearborn Asks Dismissal of Toll Road Law Suit

City Now Claims Case Was Filed Prematurely With Supreme Court

LANSING (AP) — Counsel for Dearborn has asked the State Supreme Court to dismiss a suit it brought to test the constitutionality of Michigan's new toll road law.

James A. Broderick, assistant Dearborn corporation counsel, said the suit was brought prematurely before the community had suffered specific damages and that attorneys for the Michigan Turnpike Authority had converted the suit into a bond validation case.

The Authority has been awaiting the court's decision so that construction bonds will be free of legal challenge. The bonds will finance the proposed Saginaw-Flat Rock toll road.

Broderick argued that the toll road law violates home rule control over city streets.

Former Supreme Court Justice George E. Bushnell, representing the Authority, urged the court to make a decision so that the toll road could proceed.

"It's absurd," he said, "to say Michigan can't feed into the great turnpike network which starts 'way up in Maine and runs half way across the continent."

* * *

He said the authority conceded it must have local consent to alter local streets and that the proposed route was reasonable.

Turnpike lawyers held that even if Dearborn withdrew from the case the legal test could go on in the name of the intervening association.

The court allowed Broderick 10 days to file more briefs.

'Seeing-Eye' Master Claims Sightless Collie

MUSKEGON (AP)—Kelly, Muskegon's blind collie, had a new home today.

* * *

Indirectly, she also found homes for six of her kennelmates at the Muskegon County Humane Society shelter.

Mr. and Mrs. Len King of neighboring Wolton adopted Kelly after learning her former owners had been forced to leave her at the shelter when they moved to a larger city. The 18-month-old collie has been blind since a puppyhood injury.

Harold D. Williams, an agent for the humane society, appealed for a "seeing-eye" master for the dog. A flood of visitors and telephone calls answered the appeal within two hours, he said.

Six visitors, when they learned Kelly had already been spoken for, adopted other dogs at the shelter.

Williams said the society will have a veterinarian examine Kelly to determine if her sight can be restored.

School Leader Urges Williams to Liberalize Law

LANSING (AP) — Dr. Clair L. Taylor, state superintendent of public instruction, suggested today that Gov. Williams ask the Legislature to liberalize the law controlling the 100 million dollar state bond issue for assisting distressed school districts with school construction.

Dr. Taylor asked Williams to submit the proposal to the special legislative session Nov. 1.

Under a constitutional amendment approved by the voters last spring, the state can issue bonds and loan to the school district money for school construction.

The state school chief said that it is impossible for him to determine how much bond issue money should be floated.

Work Resumes at Indiana Plant

Nonstrikers Return to Perfect Circle Under Guard Protection

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP) — Nonstrikers returned in force today to resume piston ring production in the Perfect Circle Corp. foundry under protection of National Guardsmen. The troops were under orders to prevent any recurrence of last Wednesday's riot.

The influx of workers was slowed because guardsmen checked each car coming onto the foundry parking lot.

A skeleton force of 84 workers got the foundry ready yesterday. Manager Chasley Juda said the doors were opened today "to anyone who wants to work."

The production force of the foundry before the strike started July 25 was 260 workers. About 100 persons, including supervisors, were in the plant a week ago when 5,000 strike sympathizers gathered outside. Shots were fired by both sides, and eight persons were wounded.

* * *

There were no incidents yesterday as the skeleton crew entered and left the foundry. Six hundred National Guardsmen, carrying rifles and backed by tanks, patrolled the plant area and the city.

Col. Howard Wilcox, national guard commander, relaxed the state of martial law last night to permit the UAW to hold a meeting in its union hall here. He said about 150 members attended.

Meanwhile in St. Louis striking bus and streetcar operators will be asked at a showdown union meeting today to return to work and end a crippling transit tieup in the metropolitan area.

Union officials notified Gov. Phil M. Donnelly, who seized the utility shortly after the sudden, unannounced strike hit early yesterday, that they would, "under protest," direct the strikers to return to work.

'Tis Rough Life Indeed for Today's Housewife

CLEVELAND (AP)—Today's housewife works much harder than her grandma did, Mrs. Davis Whitfield, Ohio director of home economics said yesterday. She gave this example:

"It was easier for Grandma to make an iron kettleful of soap than for us to do the thinking required in making decisions about which of the many kinds of soap we should buy."

AF Will Take Shot in the Dark

Rocket Is Designed to Probe Secrets of Dusk and Dawn

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—Air Force scientists tonight take a literal shot in the dark in a new series of upper-atmosphere research.

At approximately 20 minutes after ground sunset, the Cambridge Air Force Research Center will fire an Aerobee rocket at nearby Holloman Air Development Center designed to probe some of the secrets of dawn and dusk.

Just what can be expected, Air Force spokesmen are not willing to say.

The project has drawn more publicity than the Air Force cares about. It started when a British scientist announced in London that the U.S. Air Force would attempt to create artificial moonlight.

The Air Force has done its best in subsequent publicity concerning the event to knock down any expectations that tonight's tests will be spectacular.

Basically, the experiment involves the introduction of sodium vapor at an altitude of between 40 and 70 miles above earth. The Aerobee rocket, equipped with special mechanism to fire two containers of metallic sodium pellets dispersed in thermite, will be launched from the southern New Mexico desert if weather conditions are "near perfect."

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Journal American said today that New York Gov. Averell Harriman will announce his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination at a $100-a-plate dinner here.

Orders Kavanagh Tested After 5 Traffic Violations

LANSING (AP)—Secretary of State James M. Hare today ordered his Democratic colleague, Thomas M. Kavanagh to appear before a licensed examiner to determine whether he is fit to continue driving.

Hare's abrupt action resulted from disclosures yesterday that Kavanagh had received five traffic violations tickets in the 18 months before he became attorney general and that the Secretary of State's office had dropped normal action in the case.

Sheriff Ferris E. Lucas of St. Clair County, spokesman for the Michigan Sheriff's Assn., made the disclosure in answering charges by Hare that local officials are lax and play favorites in licensing motorists.

After a lengthy conference with his division heads this morning, Hare said he still was unable to pinpoint responsibility for dropping the usual license re-examination which Kavanagh would have been subjected to for three speeding arrests in one year.

"All I know," Hare said, "it was a h—— of a mistake of bad judgment."

He said Kavanagh would be cited to appear within a week before an examiner in Lansing to determine whether his license should be suspended, revoked, or whether he should be placed upon probation.

Hare said Kavanagh told him "I do not want anything but the normal, routine procedure."

CITATION CANCELED

Alma Paulle, supervisor of Hare's driver improvement section, said that her files showed that a citation to Kavanagh to appear for re-examination 19 days after he took office had been canceled on orders of George M. Newman, but that Newman does not recall having given the instructions.

Yesterday, Newman told reporters he did not issue the instructions.

Kavanagh was convicted of the following traffic violations since June, 1953.

June 6, 1953: convicted of improper overtaking and passing by Justice Charles A. Speer of St. Johns. Assessed $4 fine and $2 costs.

April 24, 1954: Paid $6 in fines and costs to East Lansing traffic court for speeding conviction.

Aug. 23, 1954: Convicted of speeding by Justice Eleanor Randall of Tekonsha. No fines were listed as paid on state records.

Oct. 30, 1954: Convicted of speeding by Justice Elmor H. Coltson of Olivet. No fine or costs listed on records.

In the last two cases, Kavanagh said he paid fines and costs—$6 in the Tekonsha case and $5 in the Olivet case—by check a week after the convictions.

Employes Vied for Fund Honors

Sought 100 Per Cent of Quota on First Day of UF Campaign

Employes of four Pontiac firms yesterday vied for the honor of hitting the 100 per cent mark in contributions on the first day of the United Fund drive.

Completions in the Industrial Division were tallied by two plants —Universal Oil Seal and American Forging and Socket.

Leslie Ware, plant chairman for Universal, reported 146 per cent of goal, with contributions totaling $1,045 from 93.4 per cent of the company's employes.

Forging and Socket workers subscribed $3,214, exceeding their quota by $468. So far 295 of the 398 employes have signed pledges, plant chairman Willard McRae stated.

In the Commercial Division, workers at Mills Bakery pledged $374, or an average $11 each. Fred Deal, of the firm, reported 100 per cent participation.

The Community National Bank also reported 100 per cent of quota, with additional pledges still to come. The combined employe-firm gift to date is $6,580.

Shop-Site Statement Expected Next Week

Bernard Edelman, head of a company which owns a proposed shopping center site in Bloomfield Township, today said a "complete announcement" about plans for the development will be made next week.

Billboards on the 145-acre site at Telegraph and Square Lake Rds., along Pontiac's southern border, have been re-painted to announce "Michigan's Miracle Mile Town & Country Shopping Center" will be built there.

The signs were blanked out shortly after Edelman last month withdrew a request that Pontiac annex the property.

Resumes Work by Drafting Note to Soviet Union

Conference on Foreign Affairs Acts as Tonic to Cheerful Ike

DENVER (INS) — President Eisenhower enjoyed a good sleep of eight hours last night, apparently taking new strides toward recovery in the wake of resuming control of U. S. foreign policy.

Today's early-morning medical bulletin on Eisenhower said his condition continues to progress satisfactorily without complications.

The President put in his most strenuous day yesterday since his 18-day-old heart attack, meeting with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in a 25-minute discussion of high policy matters.

The meeting served as a "tonic" for the President who was described by Dulles as "interested, alert and helpful."

Among other things accomplished in the bedside conference was the draft of a preliminary letter to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's position on U. S. proposals for disarmament.

The plane carrying Dulles back East was to return today to Denver with a further morale-booster for Eisenhower. Aboard will be his brother, Milton, president of Pennsylvania State University.

Dulles, who carried the letter back to Washington to forward it to Moscow, also got what he called "positive suggestions" from the President on the forthcoming Big Four foreign ministers' meeting at Geneva.

DISCUSS EGYPT

The secretary told newsmen he and the President discussed other "substantive" matters, too, including U. S. efforts to halt Egyptian purchases of arms from the Soviet bloc.

Dulles' visit was in line with a program set up last weekend by Eisenhower's doctors. It is designed to get him gradually back to his duties and give him something to do while recuperating.

Chief Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams, who has been running White House operations and seeing the chief executive for about 15 minutes each day on routine matters, will head back to Washington Thursday to attend a Cabinet meeting the following day.

White House News Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen Milton Eisenhower would accompany Adams on the President's personal plane, the Columbine III.

Milton, youngest of the President's four brothers, was the first scheduled to see him since his attack.

The visit was expected to be purely of a cheering-up nature, although in the past the educator has been considered one of the President's closest unofficial advisers on government affairs.

The chief executive told his doctors yesterday that he thoroughly enjoyed the Dulles visit. Medical examinations before and after the conference indicated that the President was not upset by anything that was discussed.

After the morning meeting with Dulles, the President's bed was wheeled to a sun deck at Fitzsimons Army Hospital for the second time in two days. Attired in pajamas, golfing cap and sunglasses, he spent 20 minutes in the sunshine and fresh air.

When he saw Adams later, he signed three routine documents. These, with the letter to Bulganin, brought to 28 the number of items he has signed or initialed since he was stricken.

The weatherman predicts a cloudy, windy day with scattered showers and thunderstorms and a high of 70-74.

Tonight will be cloudy and cooler with a low of 46-50. The high tomorrow will be 62-66. Fair and cooler is the forecast for tomorrow night with a low near 45 degrees.

The mercury reached a high of 77 degrees at 3 p.m. yesterday in Pontiac. The thermometer reading at 2 p.m. today was 62 degrees.

The wind velocity was 13 miles per hour from the southwest.

Iran Joins Western Nations Defense Circle

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Iran lined up officially today with the Western-backed Middle East defense alliance, closing a major gap in the anti-Communist world's defense chain south of the Soviet Union.

The Iranian government announced its adherence to the Baghdad Pact, which already unites Turkey, Iraq, Pakistan and Britain in a mutual defense agreement.

With Iran, the Middle Eastern group forms a solid land belt from the Mediterranean to the Himalayas. The North Atlantic Alliance extends the chain on across southern and western Europe, the Atlantic and North America.

Premier Hussein Ala announced he had sent a Foreign Ministry official to the Baghdad headquarters of the Middle East pact with a note advising that the Iranian government would submit its adherence to the treaty to Parliament for ratification.

NEED APPROVAL

Approval of both houses of Parliament is necessary, but the Shah's strong support of the treaty was believed to assure its ratification.

Opening the Senate Oct. 8, the ruler said: "It is fitting that my government take the necessary steps and precautions for the defense of our frontiers as well as for safeguarding the rights of our country."

One informed source said Iran would formally announce its joining the alliance "before the Geneva conference" of the Big Four foreign ministers, scheduled to open Oct. 27. The timing, said the source, stemmed from an "obvious" reason—presumably a desire to strengthen the hands of the Western Big Three at the parley.

Iranian adherence to the pact is certain to arouse the ire of her Soviet neighbors on the north.

Muskegon Area Wishes Ike Well in 2-Block Note

MUSKEGON (AP) — A massive combination "get well and happy birthday" message from Muskegon County to President Eisenhower reached proportions estimated today at two blocks in length with about 20,000 signatures.

The program, inaugurated last week by the Muskegon Chronicle, sought 15,000 signatures on the huge greeting to be sent to the President at Denver. Forms were made available through schools, business places and industrial plants.

* * *

Spokesmen yesterday said school children alone had returned 15,000 signatures.

The huge packaged greeting is scheduled to leave by air Thursday for relay to President Eisenhower at his hospital in Denver. The President will be 65 Friday.

Summerfield Sees Victory Without Ike

DETROIT (AP)—Postmaster General Summerfield says the Republican Party will win the 1956 election "even without President Eisenhower."

Summerfield, attending the National Association of Postmasters Convention here, refused to say, however, whether his prediction indicated that the President would not seek re-election.

Summerfield told a news conference last night that this country "has never before been so confident and encouraged as under the Eisenhower administration."

The Republican Party's "well-deserved acceptance and the confidence it enjoys" will lead to victory in the national election next year, he said.

* * *

"Never before have so many had so much in a time of peace," Summerfield said. "It's unthinkable that the people would want a change." He added:

"I think the party will win even without President Eisenhower."

Ailing Adenauer Worries Bonn

West Germans Discuss Probable Successors of 'Iron Man'

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's serious illness has touched off a wave of speculation over who would succeed him if he left the political scene in West Germany.

* * *

The 79-year-old leader is in bed indefinitely with a "slight" case of bronchial pneumonia. His doctor said yesterday "there is no reason for special concern" but that no one can say when the Chancellor "can resume his official duties."

Pressures at home and abroad to take West Germany out of the Western camp made the condition of the leader who put his nation in that camp a matter of acute concern.

NO NAMED HEIR

The Chancellor has never publicly designated a political heir.

Political observers agree there would be no smooth transition of authority in Bonn — such as happened when British Prime Minister Eden succeeded Sir Winston Churchill—unless Adenauer should resign and designate his own successor.

* * *

With his towering prestige, the iron-willed old man probably could pick his heir if he should step down voluntarily. There was little possibility of this unless his convalescence stretches out for months.

The government so far was running smoothly with Vice Chancellor Franz Bluecher serving as active chief. But Bluecher is not even in the line of succession. He is a leader of the No. 2 partner in the government coalition, the Free Democratic party, and not a member of Adenauer's big Christian Democratic Union.

* * *

If Adenauer is suddenly removed from the helm, three names stand out in official speculation here as possible successors: Finance Minister Fritz Schaeffer, Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard and Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

Speaker at First Civic Lecture Series Warns of Current Russian Smiles

"Communism is a faith. You can't fight a faith with guns, goods, or dollars."

World traveler and speaker Robert Kazmayer told his Pontiac audience that last night when he spoke on "The Challenge of a Changing World." His lecture, held in the Pontiac High School auditorium, is the first in the Civic Entertainment Series, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club here.

"You can't fight even a bad faith with no faith of your own. The only way to fight communism is with a better faith, a finer vision, a greater dream—the fatherhood of God."

This was the challenge Kazmayer held out to Americans, as he outlined forces and powers shaping world events as he has seen them first-hand in world-wide travel and study.

"In 1939 there were seven world powers. Today there are two superpowers—the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R.," he pointed out.

"Beware of the Russian smile!" Why do the Russians smile? Kazmayer believes it is because 200 American jet bases surround the iron curtain and the Reds are wary. Communism is "burning down in Russia," he thinks, but winning more and more converts outside of Russia.

"The United States must have a strong, unwavering foreign policy—not one that seesaws according to politics. We must remain strong, externally and internally, and not let the smile deceive us."

"Faith in the fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of mankind, is something our forefathers won for us, at great cost. We take it rather casually," Kazmayer warned.

"America must recapture the vitality and virility of faith that made us what we are. We must be backed with the Faith that is above, beyond and within life. Otherwise, there can be a dark, disturbing night ahead for us and the world."

Three revolutionary factors are shaping the world today, Kazmayer said. There is a revolt of the "have - nots" against the "haves," of the non-white races around the world against the white people.

There is the revolutionary new philosophy of the government taking responsibility for the masses, he added. And, thirdly, the revolution of atomic fission which, used constructively and linked with electroncis, can completely change life as we know it, Kazmayer said.

"Don't think the Communists create all the trouble. The trouble in the world would be there if there had been no Marx or Lenin.

"But when trouble busts out, communism moves in. It grabs the controls and uses the trouble to further its own ends.

"South Africa is sitting on a volcano. One day it's going to blow. When it does, the Reds will be in it. They didn't create the problems there, but they'll use them for their own ends.

"West Germany is pro-Western now. But they are getting ready to try for some of our markets—South American and then Japan. Later, if a showdown comes between Russia and the United States, Germany will go whichever way is best for Germany."

The British, Kazmayer says, are America's best and most sincere allies.

Later, talking informally, Kazmayer said that the team of Eisenhower and Dulles had created a feeling of confidence in foreign lands.

"It is essential that we maintain our strength—externally, and internally," he concluded. "And don't be lulled into inaction by the Russian smile."

Next program in the series of seven will be a travelog, "Formosa," with colored movies, by Margaret Baker, to be presented Nov. 1. Tickets may be procured from any Kiwanian or at Dickinson's or Osmun's stores. Proceeds are used to promote Kiwanis youth work.

Sale of Sanatorium Brings Comments

the excellent record of the sanatorium in releasing cured patients and a lack of customary work in case finding.

"Macomb County, which has been sending its TB patients here, states that a recent case-finding campaign has located more active cases than were found for many years past," Weber said.

"Our patients and employes can be assured the board will not stand for anything to lessen their hopes for a cure or continuance on the job . . ."

Broomfield said, "If the sale is carried through it would probably take six to eight months to negotiate. Meanwhile, children in Oakland would remain a burden on their families.

"If the TB San's annex could be turned over to the state immediately it would accommodate about 85 of these youngsters while negotiations for the sale are going on."

The senator stated he met yesterday with Royal Oak Supervisor Fred W. Smith, who heads the county's negotiating team.

Smith said Monday the sale would not be agreed to unless adequate new quarters could be provided and the state offers a fair price.

"We must assure both the sanatorium's staff and patients they will not be pushed out in the cold," Bloomfield asserted.

Broomfield, Rep. Leslie H. Hudson (D-Pontiac) and Rep. Theodore F. Hughes (R-Berkley) will be among a group meeting tomorrow in Lansing with Gov. Williams to discuss Wagg's plan which includes state purchase of the Farmington Children's Hospital.

The three Oakland legislators are members of a special interim committee on mental health. Majority and minority leaders of both the Senate and House will be present along with the interim Senate Committee on Audits and Appropriations.

Report Peron Will Be Interned

Sources Say Paraguay Will Send Ex-Dictator to Remote Ranch

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP) — Authoritative sources said today Juan D. Peron, Argentina's toppled dictator, would be interned on a ranch in interior Paraguay. This would meet demands by the new Buenos Aires government, which accused Peron of making political statements in exile.

* * *

The informants said Peron probably will be sent to a ranch near the town of Villarica, 105 miles southeast of Asuncion. This would get him away from the capital, which is just across the Paraguay river from Argentina. The Argentines are afraid his present proximity to them will inspire diehard Peronistas to make trouble for the regime headed by Provisional President Eduardo Lonardi.

There was no official announcement yet by Paraguayan President Alfredo Stroessner's government that the controversial Peron would be interned, but the semiofficial newspaper Patria said it would be done.

* * *

Argentine complaints of Peron's conduct in exile stemmed from his remarks last week to a newsman that he still considered himself constitutional president of Argentina, despite his overthrow in the revolt Lonardi led last month. Peron also was quoted as saying the Peronistas would win at least 70 per cent of the votes if an election were held in Argentina now.

Algerian Plan Finds French Unopposed

PARIS (AP)—With little opposition developing so far in the National Assembly debate on Algeria, the French government took a long view today toward new policies for that terrorist-plagued North African territory.

* * *

Premier Edga Faure's Cabinet announced after a meeting last night it had agreed on reform measures to be presented before the end of the year. There was expectancy, however, that Interior Minister Maurice Bourges-Maunoury would outline some initial steps toward peace with the nationalists during the Assembly debate today.

The Cabinet announcement said the reform plans would be presented to the two houses of the Algerian Assembly, one made up of French representatives and the other of Moslems. Presumably an extended period of negotiations would follow with the members of the two chambers.

Williams Proposes Teacher Pay Boost

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams made public today the draft of a bill he will recommend to the Legislature Nov. 1 to give public school teachers a $200 a year raise.

* * *

The bill would give the increase to all full time teachers, from kindergarten through the 12th grade who spend at least half their time in actual teaching, supervision or administration.

It would leave the raises at the discretion of local school boards but the money would be paid only to school districts which certify that they are using the money for wage boosts.

* * *

The increases would cost 11 million dollars and would come from an estimated 15 million dollars of unappropriated state school aid money which was not expected when the Legislature was in session.

The Day in Birmingham

Education Board Awards Pembroke Addition Bid

BIRMINGHAM — To expedite construction work on the Pembroke School addition, the Board of Education last night awarded the contract to the low bidder, Palmer-Smith Co., with a base bid of $148,691.

Normally, bids first are turned over to the architect for study, which was done in the case of mechanical and engineering bids. Total base bids for all three phases of construction ranged from a low of $188,840 to a high of $215,795.

Supt. of Schools Dwight B. Ireland said all recent bids have been so well within estimates that it might be possible to construct a six to eight-classroom elementary school immediately, to serve the Westchester Village area. This is sooner than planned.

Final arrangements for the Westchester site, on West Maple Road east of the developed area off Cranbrook Road, were approved last night.

Through cooperation with developers of the area, the board is purchasing at original cost, slightly more than ten acres, including water and sewer tie-ins, for about $58,350.

Part of the Evergreen interceptor sewer is better than none and with this in mind, representatives from Birmingham, Troy, and Bloomfield Townships and Bloomfield Hills, proposed yesterday to push toward that objective.

Each representative will ask of his governing body that the four municipalities from the North Evergreen Sewage Disposal Authority. The authority proposes to construct an interceptor which would provide sewage treatment through Birmingham's plant, for the area north of 14 Mile Road within the Evergreen district.

Ultimately this would serve as the north portion of the Evergreen, should the long awaited $2,740,000 project go through. The four areas, plus Southfield Township and the City of Lathrup Village comprise the district. All but Troy are involved in court proceedings for failure to halt Rouge River pollution.

At yesterday's meeting, officials agreed to follow suit on a proposal out of Monday's local City Commission meeting, in which the city offered to advance to the Oakland County Drain Commissioner for securing engineering studies on the North Evergreen project.

Also involved would be negotiations for necessary contracts with Detroit where the sewage would flow and with the state Health Department.

A two-day rummage sale will be in full force at the First Presbyterian Church on West Maple avenue tomorrow and Friday. Hours will be from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m.

CLEAN STAINED TOILET BOWLS AS EASILY AS A WET CLOTH CLEANS A BLACKBOARD!

If you can clean a blackboard with a wet cloth, you can keep your toilet bowl sparkling white, deodorized and disinfected using a new solution called "Jiffywhite"

The solution is applied to a special hand mop, then wiped in and around the bowl. It develops a clean-smelling soap-like sudsing action which rapidly dislodges dirt, grease and even hard-crusted stains.

Jiffywhite is a ready-to-use liquid, which is non-poisonous, easy on the hands, and harmless to porcelain. It can be used also to remove brass tarnish and stains from all porcelain, ceramic tile, shower stalls, swimming pools, etc.

Versatile 'Healer' Nabbed by Police

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A self-styled healer, police said, offered remedies for sickness, poverty, alcoholism, jealousy, evil influences, broken homes and love affairs.

Officers arrested David Genaro Troncoso, 32, and booked him on suspicion of malpractice of medicine last night. Literature listed Troncoso variously as a doctor of metaphysics, a psychologist, mentalist and doctor of divinity.

Police Lt. Frank Cunningham said a woman complained Troncoso threatened her when she told him she planned to go to police after his promise of "bringing her lover back from Mexico" failed to materialize.

Margaret and Townsend Both Headed for London

LONDON (AP)—RAF Group Capt. Peter Townsend was due in London tonight, Princess Margaret tomorrow morning.

* * *

This much was fact. All else was speculation.

Is this the week of decision for the pretty sister of Queen Elizabeth II?

Will the world be told at last that she plans to marry the poor but handsome flying man—or that she doesn't?

Will they meet publicly for the first time in three years?

NOBODY KNOWS

Outside the inner circle, nobody knows.

Even the brasher morning newspapers were reduced to telling the story in the form of questions and guesses.

Townsend, on leave until Nov. 7 from his post of British air attache at Brussels, reached Le Touquet Airport at Paris today en route to London.

* * *

The princess is coming by train from the royal castle at Balmoral, Scotland, where she spent her summer vacation.

Townsend declined to tell newsmen where he will stay or what engagements he has made in England.

CHURCH OPPOSES

The Princess, with the Queen and other members of the royal family, will dine next Wednesday with the Archbishop of Canterbury, ecclesiastical head of the Church of England.

The church officially opposes the remarriage of divorced persons whose ex-spouses are still alive. Townsend is a divorced man. He was the innocent party in the divorce action, but the church makes no exceptions.

* * *

The Daily Mirror, noting that Queen Mother Elizabeth also would attend the archbishop's dinner, remarked:

* * *

"Those who believe a decision for or against the princess's marriage is pending think the dinner would be an ideal occasion for a conference on the subject."

Call Witnesses in Mike Probe

Senate Will Investigate Tapping of Jury Room in University Research

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Internal Security subcommittee called eight witnesses today to testify about the placing of a concealed microphone in a jury room as part of a University of Chicago research project.

Among them were Dean Edward H. Levi and Prof. Harry Kalven Jr. of the university's Law School, who supervised the project. Also summoned were the present and former U.S. attorneys for the Kansas court district where the recordings were made.

* * *

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) said the subcommittee's hearing was intended to bring out all the facts and lay the groundwork for any legislation necessary "to insure against occurrences of this kind in the future."

Unknown to the jurors, a microphone was hidden in their room to record their deliberations in five civil cases tried in Federal District Court in Wichita, Kan., in May 1954.

Kalven said last week the microphone was placed in the jury room as part of an extensive study of the operation of the jury system.

He said the recordings were made with the prior consent of the judge, the U.S. attorney for the district, and attorneys for all parties involved in the cases.

Chief Judge Orie Phillips of the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals also said in a recent interview that he knew of the placing of the microphone in the jury room. He said that "certain safeguards were used to make sure no harm was done to anyone."

Atty. Gen. Brownell said the Justice Department is "unequivocally opposed" to such recordings.

Reuther Says Reds Feed Upon Poverty

TORONTO (AP)—CIO President Walter Reuther says he is convinced the Communists, despite their friendliness since the Geneva summit meeting, still are bent on world domination and to achieve it will try to "forge poverty into power."

Reuther told a meeting of the Empire and Canadian Clubs yesterday that the Communist aim presents a challenge to free nations to abolish poverty through social justice.

Helping in this, he continued, are the free labor movements, one of the free nations' most important assets.

"Communism is weak everywhere in the world where there is a free labor movement with a sense of moral and social responsibility," Reuther declared. "But in areas where labor is weak, such as Italy, communism can exploit poverty."

House 'Too Ordinary'

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—University of Oklahoma Professor Richard A. Goff obtained a temporary court order yesterday to halt work on a house—he claimed it was just too ordinary for the neighborhood. Goff, a zoology instructor, objects to the two bedroom bungalow being built by Cecil Woods. The instructor lives in nearby modernistic redwood home stained in weathered gray.

FIRE LESSON — Children at Malkim Elementary School get a dramatic lesson in fire prevention as GMT fire chief Kenneth Goodell puts the "House of Hazards" through its paces. Left to right are Goodell and his assistant E. J. Nolen. The miniature house has been shown in Pontiac elementary schools this week in observance of National Fire Prevention week, which also inspired tonight's fire prevention program at the North Side Softball Park.

Fire Prevention Program Readied for This Evening

A sixty-foot lifeline slide, a blazing tank truck and a water battle with two- and-a-half inch fire hoses will highlight tonight's Chamber of Commerce Fire Prevention Week program at the North Side Softball Park.

City, GMT and county fire departments will participate in the annual demonstration, with Chamber of Commerce chairman Harvey Johns and Pontiac fire chief Vic Bodamer at the public address microphones. The program is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. under the lights of the softball park.

Raising of the flag, which leads off the program, is followed by the spectacular "church rise," in which a 28-foot ladder is raised from the ground and held aloft while a man climbs it by means of four guy ropes held by firemen on the ground.

In the next item, the 100-foot aerial ladder is raised and rotated with a man riding its end. This is followed by the lifeline slide, in which a man demonstrates escape from a burning building by sliding down a 60-foot rope.

A fire of propane gas, shooting 35 feet out of an open pipe, will be extinguished by dry chemicals, and the GMT champion firefighting team will demonstrate its proficiency in putting out blazes.

Following this, a 300-foot stream of water will be played from the top of the aerial ladder, and a gasoline tank truck will be set afire and extinguished with dry chemicals.

Winding up the program will be the water battle between Waterford and Independence Township fire departments. In this event each team, armed with a two-and-a-half inch fire hose, will attempt to force a barrel the length of a steel cable into the force of the opposing hose.

Throughout the program, a team of clowns will cavort accompaniment.

"I'm sure the program will do a lot of good," Fire Chief Bodamer said today. "When people become fire-conscious, they start thinking about fire prevention."

In case of rain this evening, the program will be postponed one week, officials said.

Judge Cites Minister for Criticism of Court

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP)—A Baptist minister was cited for contempt yesterday by Judge Frank T. Lloyd Jr., of the State Superior Court for writing a letter that touched "on the integrity of the courts."

The letter by the Rev. Loriot D. Bozorth of the First Baptist Church, Gloucester, was not read or introduced into the court record. As published in the weekly Gloucester City News, it criticized Lloyd's decision ordering a referendum on Sunday liquor sales in Gloucester.

Nixon Slated to Open Interfaith Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) —Vice President Nixon will open a three-day national Conference on Spiritual Foundations here Oct. 24, performing in a role filled last year by the now ailing President Eisenhower.

The announcement that Nixon would speak was made by the Foundation for Religious Action in the Social and Civil Order, which is sponsoring the conference. The foundation describes itself as a nationwide independent organization of lay leaders and clergy of the Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and Greek Orthodox faiths.

Bonn Approves Soldiers' Bill

Measure Will Authorize West German Military Armed Forces

BONN, Germany (AP)—The Bundestag gave preliminary approval today to the first permanent bill for the buildup of West Germany's 500,000-man defense force.

* * *

By the usual unanimous vote. The lower house sent the "soldier's bill" to the committees for further study at the end of the first reading. Two additional readings, during which serious opposition may develop, are required for final passage.

In an effort to prevent revival of the militarism which helped lead Germany into two World Wars, the soldier's bill forbids political party activity by military personnel.

* * *

Other legislation will authorize conscription, give the government special powers to cope with emergencies, name the commander in chief, define the conditions for claims to exemption from military service, and give the government the right to buy or confiscate land for military purposes.

Newest Heart Operation Told

Surgeon Suggests Ike Condition Be Evaluated for Possible Work

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — A heart surgeon has suggested that President Eisenhower should be "evaluated" next spring for a relatively new operation which he said can prolong life in coronary cases.

* * *

Dr. Claude S. Beck of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, said the operation has shown ability to "take the steam out of" a subsequent heart attack in a patient who has survived one or more. Placing powered asbestos on heart muscle is one factor in the operation.

Dr. Beck said in an interview yesterday that in his opinion the the President should be evaluated for such an operation "in six months" and that "if the examination showed the operation could be safely done" it should be undertaken. He talked with reporters after describing the operation to the District of Columbia Medical Society.

"If and when he gets a second attack," Beck said, "he would be better able to ward it off."

Dr. Beck and many doctors, including President Eisenhower's top heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, still consider the operation only an "experimental" one.

RAISES BLOOD FLOW

But Beck said its value has been demonstrated not only in experiments on animals but among 275 patients in his own experience and smaller numbers in the experience of some other surgeons.

The operation is designed to increase blood flow to the heart in case of a blockage or restriction of a coronary artery, and, also to allow better distribution of the blood already there. It involves such things as:

1. Rubbing vigorously the heart muscle and the under side of its surrounding sac with an instrument which another heart surgeon said involved "rubbing it with something like a hob-nail boot."

2. Putting powdered asbestos in the area of the muscles and sac to emhance abrasion, and help stimulate the formation of extra channels of blood.

* * *

3. Partially tieing off one of the heart's major veins, so as to promote a "backflow" of blood and allow a "more even distribution of oxygen between an affected area of the heart and normal areas."

Millionairess Decides to Separate From Hubby

CHICAGO (AP)—Millionaire Mollie Netcher Bragno has left her husband but isn't comtemplating a divorce at this time.

* * *

That was the gist of statements made yesterday by her legal counsel.

* * *

"She and Mr. Bragno are at the present time separated," said one of her attorneys, Walter H. Moses.

* * *

Benjamin B. Davis, the other lawyer representing the heiress to an estimated $14,300,000, said there are "no present plans" for divorce action. That, he added, "is something time will indicate."

Post Offices Get Talking Vending Stamp Machines

DETROIT (INS) — The latest thing in vending machines is a device that swallows coins and dispenses stamps, proper change, and even chit-chat.

The machine, soon to be tested in post offices throughout the country, currently is on display at the 51st annual Postmasters' Convention in Detroit.

The machine works thusly:

The customers drops a nickel, dime or quarter into the slot and dials the number of stamps he wants in either two, three, or six cent airmail denominations.

The device returns the stamps and proper change, if required.

But the real fun doesn't start until the customers start to walk away. The machine's loudspeaker then calls out happily:

* * *

"Thank you, now introduce me to your friends." Or:

"Thank you, this is another move to streamline your post office."

Finally, the machine comments: "By the way, those stamps are sanitary."

Boy Evades Police

TEANECK, N. J. (INS) — Alan Herrman, 6, had no intention of being arrested just because he stayed out too late. He hid for 11 hours while a search party of police, firemen and civil defense workers hunted for him. He finally left his hiding place in a bush three houses away and came home.

Co-operation Eliminates New Hudson Traffic Jam

Thanks to splendid official co-operation Saturday, there was no traffic jam of Ann Arbor bound football fans on the Pontiac Trail at New Hudson.

In fact, there was quick and much appreciated response to an editorial complaint in this newspaper about conditions prevailing during the rush to the Michigan-MSU game.

★ ★ ★

Oakland County Sheriff Irons and Captain Mohr of the Redford Post of State Police co-operated in providing the needed traffic officers. In this they had the wholehearted approval of Lyon Township Supervisor Smith.

As a result the heavy volume of traffic drawn to Ann Arbor from this area by the Army-Michigan game moved across the intersection with a minimum of delay. The same held true for the somewhat less congested flow of homeward bound traffic.

★ ★ ★

The Press is aware that conditions at this point are especially difficult to control because of the normally heavy travel on Grand River road. When that traffic has to be interrupted to permit passage of so many Ann Arbor bound cars, the situation becomes unusually hard to handle.

Therefore we commend Messrs. Irons, Mohr and Smith for the efficiency and promptness with which this annoying and dangerous condition was remedied.

Wilson's Achievements at Pentagon Please Ike

From Douglas Larsen, one of our NEA Washington correspondents, comes an interesting sidelight on the work of Charles E. Wilson as Secretary of Defense.

Mr. Larsen makes it clear that the Pentagon accomplishments of our Oakland County neighbor and former top man at General Motors, are well known to the President. More than that, he points out that no one in the country has a keener appreciation of the value of those accomplishments.

★ ★ ★

Long before Ike's heart attack, Secretary Wilson had won the President's full confidence in his ability to direct the U. S. military program. This direction, of course, is subject to National Security Council and presidential decisions.

Secretary Wilson is accomplishing things Ike always had considered vital during his military career. He is establishing firm management controls over the sprawling military organization and applying businesslike technics for running it.

For example, before the President left for Geneva he asked the Secretary about the size and number of U. S. bases around the world. Though this information previously had been thought impossible to compile, Mr. Wilson handed Ike a complete inventory of the information desired.

Most important of the Wilson accomplishments in the President's eyes, writes Larsen, is the Secretary's success with the so-called new look. This means that every branch of the service is well on its way to achieving a maximum atomic weapons capability. That is an all important ingredient of national security.

The Soviet announces it will discontinue its military bases on foreign soil. Here of late the Russians have been acting as children do the two last weeks before Christmas — and probably with as little sincerity.

Ike's Best Medicine Yet

Perhaps only grandparents will understand fully why gifts from his three grandchildren have seemed to be the best medicine President Eisenhower has had since his heart attack.

In a not too strict sense of the term, the gifts might be described as works of art created especially for one of the world's most famous amateur painters. They were in fact crayon drawings by Susan, 3; Barbara Anne, 6½ and David, 7½, the children of the President's son, John.

★ ★ ★

David's masterpiece pictured the President and himself riding horses and was captioned "How are you, Ike?" Barbara Anne's work featured a farm house with smoke pouring from the chimney. It bore the words —"Love— Anne." Little Susan's gift could be described as impressionistic finger painting.

★ ★ ★

Accompanying these precious pictures was another gift which must have made the President feel a glow of happiness—six pieces of bubble gum. As far as we know the President never has acquired the bubble gum habit. We suspect, however, he realizes that in his grandchildren's eyes that gum was the finest gift they could send him.

Water is becoming scarcer in this country, but such is not the case with fog to be in!

Farmers Report Remarkable Recovery of Wheat Seeding

Tomorrow: A day you cannot waste—it is saved for you.

Several Oakland County farmers have called our attention to the fact that never before in their lives have they seen such growth in new wheat as has taken place since last week's rains. When most of the wheat was sown last month, the fields resembled dry ash heaps, and the drilling was done in a cloud of dust. The farmers had misgivings as to whether or not the seed would germinate. But with the coming of sufficient moisture the fields in a few days have taken on the appearance of a well-kept and well-watered lawn. In the words of one of the farmers, "That rain was worth a million dollars to the wheat growers in the Pontiac area."

Tattle-Tale Gray

David Lawrence Says:

Both Parties Have 3 Well-Qualified Men to Run for the Presidency Next November

WASHINGTON — The biggest myth of our times—recently spread—is that there are really no good men available for the presidency.

The truth is that there are three Democrats and three Republicans, any one of whom, if entrusted with the responsibilities of the chief executive, would make a great record and advance the prosperity and well-being of the United States.

The three Democrats are Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio, Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia.

The three Republicans are Vice President Richard Nixon, Sen. William F. Knowland of California, and Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts.

This is not to say that any of the three Democrats named could get the nomination—politics in America being what they are.

ELECTED 4 TIMES

Thus, Gov. Lausche has made a great record in Ohio, having been elected four times by overwhelming majorities, even in 1952 when Gen. Eisenhower was running. But, because he is a Catholic, he has been written off by the politicians in the Democratic Party who fear he couldn't carry the South any more than Al Smith could in 1928.

* * *

They are wrong, of course, because Smith was beaten then by the "prosperity" issue which benefited Hoover immeasurably in the North and sufficiently to carry the election without the southern states he won. Lausche, who is a liberal conservative, would win Republican votes galore in the North and would fit the present-day picture by furnishing the necessary reassurance to the business world.

As for Sen. Byrd of Virginia and Senator Russell of Georgia, both are considered too conservative for the labor-union bosses who control the nominating process by holding a veto over both presidential and vice-presidential nominees in the Democratic Party.

On the Republican side, Sen. Knowland is without doubt the top Republican from the standpoint of legislative experience and long familiarity with important problems of government. As Republican leader of the Senate, he has shown himself to be tactful and persuasive.

CONVICTIONS STRONG

The people of California may not always agree with some views expressed by their senior senator, but they have tremendous respect for his ability and the sincerity of his convictions. Bill Knowland would never sacrifice his convictions to win a political office.

The man about whom considerable controversy has been raised is Vice President Nixon. The Communist "Daily Worker" displayed a few days ago an editorial article with the headline, "Stop Nixon!" The main attack on him, however, comes at present from the Democrats. They really fear he would win. They know in their hearts that he is a better campaigner than any man the Democrats will nominate and may prove far more effective on the stump than Harry Truman or Franklin Roosevelt. He is better than either Stevenson or Harriman on television and radio. He can make extemporaneous speeches with a dramatic appeal.

For Nixon doesn't skim the surface and depend on cliches and slogans. He really argues his case and hits the opposition with arguments that hurt because they are convincing.

The Vice President is young enough not to be disappointed if he doesn't get the nomination in 1956. He has had already, however, a lot of experience in politics. He fought Sen. Taft at the 1952 convention and helped to swing California to Eisenhower over the protest of Gov. Warren's forces. But when, after Eisenhower was nominated, this correspondent asked Nixon at that same convention if he would favor Taft for the vice presidency, he unhesitatingly said he would. The conversation occurred just before Eisenhower picked Nixon to be the vice presidential nominee.

Dr. Brady Says:

M.D.s, O.D.s Must Meet Same Medical Standards

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Ever since Topsy was a colt and I had too much time to cogitate on long drives on the mud roads of Yates County, I pondered a rankling question: Why was there so much animosity between regular, "old school," allopathic physicians and "new school" or homeopathic physicians?

This mean spirit was a heritage left us by nineteenth century practitioners and we (huh, please remember I was an honest doctor for years before I turned newspaper quack) conducted ourselves accordingly for a quarter of a century.

Eventually, however, homeopathic physicians became members or fellows of the county, state and national medical societies—as indeed they had a right to be, by law. Today, it seldom occurs to an intelligent physician to ask whether a respected colleague studied medicine in a regular or a homeopathic school.

Medicine, as the "leaders" say, is making great strides.

Not great enough, however, to get away from another nineteenth Century handicap—p r e j u d i c e against osteopathic physicians. If there was some excuse for this fifty years ago there is none now.

Since Tony was a pup, and especially in the second quarter of the twentieth century osteopathic physicians have been required to meet all the qualifications regular physicians are required to meet, to get a license to practice, at least in one state, and that proves my point," regardless of what sticky, tricky games the politicians in the licensing racket in other states may play.

POLITICS BLAMED

The disgraceful mess the politicians of America have made of the licensing of physicians, healers or whatever you prefer to call 'em not, only retards the progress of the healing art; it increases the cost of medical care.

* * *

Consider how the snide works: A doctor licensed to practice in New York is legally qualified to practice in California upon registration of his New York license with the California board of medical examiners, and vice versa—the arrangement between the two states being what is called reciprocity.

But a doctor licensed to practice in Illinois — uh-uh! His license doesn't mean a thing in California, and vice versa. In order to obtain a license to practice in California he or she must take not only the regular written examination, but also an oral examination.

This oral examination is the gimmick which makes it virtually impossible for the supplicant to practice in California—unless he or she has an "in" with the politicians who control the racket.

WHY COSTS ARE HIGH

Multiply such shenanigans by 48 and you'll have some idea why the cost of medical care is too high.

* * *

If a man or woman gets the M. D. degree from a school authorized to grant the degree, that should be his or her qualification to practice medicine and surgery in any of the 48 states or territories.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

Dislikes Crane to Dump Entire Burden on Wife

I agree wholeheartedly with Concerned, who dislikes Dr. Crane's column. It is typical of the usual run of 'expert' advice written by men and aimed at women. The threat is always there, obvious or implied.

If he were sincere in wishing to promote marital bliss, seems to me he'd stress the fundamentals, good manners, fair play and consideration for both sexes, and not dump the whole load on the woman, which doesn't do any good anyway.

And by the way, I saw a picture of his own wife some time ago, a hefty-looking gal if I ever saw one. Doesn't she ever read him?

Anti-Crane and How

Employes Should Know Management's Viewpoint

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
INS Economic Commentator

The recent incident at New Castle, Ind., in the Perfect Circle dispute, where troops were ordered in to stop all work, all picketing, and to close taverns, seemed like a throwback to a more primitive past. The action followed the injury of eight persons.

* * *

It should be borne in mind, despite emotional excitement, that class warfare is out of tune with the spirit of the American free-choice economic society. Class conflict is a Marxian tool, and, since it takes two to make a fight, management should sedulously avoid economic warfare.

* * *

Irrespective of artificial privileges conferred by law on associations of men, known as labor unions, management should not default on its own obligation to live harmoniously with employes.

SEEK SHORT CUTS

If problems are not thought through, executives sometimes seek short cuts, such as appeasing labor union bosses rather than creating optimum conditions of employment.

* * *

Now that the National Labor Relations Board has clarified the right of employers to exercise freedom of expression — a privilege which was temporarily clouded by a misinterpretation of the Wagner Act—executives have an obligation, fairly and honestly, to compete for the minds and hearts of their employes.

Thus, it is not enough for management to take a passive position, and merely react to the pressing of grievances by others.

Management should imaginatively seek to establish circumstances and conditions of employment which will add to productivity and contribute to the success of the enterprise.

* * *

In order to avoid chronically fighting a rearguard defensive action, industry must compete in the realm of dynamic ideas. Sometimes management must communicate over the heads of the union bosses with the rank and file. Otherwise, labor sentiment jells against them, and then it is too late to oppose plans with which they are out of sympathy.

AUTO FIRMS' ERROR

The major automobile companies made this error in dealing with the guaranteed annual wage issue. Virtually all the public discussion came from union sources.

* * *

In a free-choice economic society, the final power is with the people — the rank and file workers, the customers and the voters. In the competition of ideas, it is a mistake to be too "dignified" to undertake to sell your own program.

But selling is based on persuasion, which in turn presupposes respect for the other fellow. Selling rejects the dictatorship of Marxism, and accepts Henry C. Carey's doctrine emphasizing "the harmony of interests" of all economic groups.

In implementation of constitutional rights, there must be no double standard. It is dangerous to assume that an association, called a union, can legally do acts which would be deemed unwarranted by another voluntary association, called a corporation.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Deserted Mother of Four Could Have Saved Marriage With Proper Advice

The code of the newspaper is to get at the facts and then present them tersely to the public. Hilda's remarks show that this scientific column fits that code, and enables the newspaper to stop divorce. Thus it keeps both father and mother together, so their children are much happier.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case P-363: Hilda L., aged 38, follows this column in the Pontiac Press.

"Dr. Crane, I am greatly indebted to your writings for helping make my marriage so happy and secure," she added.

* * *

"You pinpoint the most critical problems in marriage and don't mince words. And that's what people need. We crave specific advice, not wordy mouthings of platitudes.

"A few years ago we lived in Detroit where you were to address our Town Hall regarding sex and marriage problems.

"Well, I had been reared by a wonderful Christian mother who, however, had felt that conception and having babies was not quite nice.

"Anyway, Father ran off with a redhead without benefit of clergy, leaving Mother to rear us four children by herself.

"And she did a wonderful job of it, too. But I thought it would be interesting to have Mother hear your lecture, so I took her with me.

"Knowing her, I thought maybe she would be shocked!

"After the address, you may recall we had a luncheon for you and your wife. And when Mother saw Mrs. Crane at the speakers' table, sitting proudly at your side, she said: 'Dr. Crane must be a very fine man to have such a charming wife.'

"Later, when we were driving home, Mother was unusually quiet. Then suddenly she said: 'Dr. Crane was right. We shouldn't blame men for the way God made them. And I think if I had had somebody to talk to me the way Dr. Crane spoke to that big audience today, your father and I could have had a happy marriage.'

"Dr. Crane, I wanted to tell you this, for it was such a surprise to me to hear my mother open up and make this confession.

* * *

"I can fully believe her, too, for if it hadn't been for your booklet on 'Sex Problems in Marriage,' I might have made the same tragic mistake which she did."

GOD EXPECTS HELP

Most of us, in our prayers, ask God to help us. But did it ever occur to you that God expects us to help him?

He thus planted a brilliant brain in our skulls and made us in his own image, figuring we'd become Junior Partners and help improve the conditions around us.

And so we have in many ways. We raise bigger yields of corn and wheat by scientific study of agriculture.

We now purify water and pasteurize milk until we have almost entirely eliminated many contagious diseases, such as typhoid, TB, etc.

We have also learned to vaccinate and inoculate against smallpox, diphtheria, etc.

* * *

But God expects us to help him vaccinate against broken homes, divorce and delinquency.

It isn't enough to pray to God to give us a happy, harmonious home. That is just part of the solution.

We, too, must then work intelligently to make our homes happy. That requires us to understand the different psychology of the male vs. the female.

And we must likewise learn to adjust to modern monogamous married life, especially since mankind was originally created to have a harem.

If you wives wish to safeguard your homes, send for my booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," with 20 cents (non-profit), plus a stamped return envelope.

Innocent wives may ignorantly drive their husbands away and thus be unintentional causes of their own broken homes. So learn the facts and you can then help God keep your home intact and happy.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

British Court Flattens Steamroller Smuggler

LONDON (AP)—John McKenna is a big man and he does things in a big way. He has been fined 3,150 pounds ($8,820) for smuggling steamrollers out of Britain.

British law prohibits the export of scrap metal, of which there is a shortage in this country. So, said witnesses for the customs service in court yesterday, McKenna shipped out his old steamrollers as working machines which would be put to service flattening roads in Belgium.

Soviet Labor Commissar Charged With Laziness

MOSCOW (INS) — Pravda charged today that Soviet machine and tool building minister Piotr Parshin is guilty of "routinism in solving problems of technical progress.

The Moscow newspaper also accused Parshin of "apathy and lack of initiative" which has caused widespread delay in production.

450 Deaths Attributed to Floods in North India

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Official sources said today some 450 persons died during the devastating floods last week in the north Indian states of Punjab and the Patiala Princely Union.

These sources said most of the deaths apparently were caused by the collapse of buildings and houses rather than by drowning.

Prime Minister Nehru termed the floods the worst in 70 years.

Bob Considine Says:

Restrant Foods Ain't Fit for a Conasewer

NEW YORK (INS)—"Here it is 4 o'clock, already, and I ain't et since 9 this morning," the cab driver announced as I managed to squirm into his tin tumbrel. It was one of those new-type New York cabs designed exclusively for two guys who are seldom in town, Eddie Arcaro and Willie Shoemaker.

* * *

Somehow, probably via a guilt complex, I felt responsible for the man's gastric problem. I represented a pitiless throng that had commandeered the poor soul's services all day long without letup.

A passing thought, unexpressed, prompted me to urge him to eat instanter, and to hasten his salvation by getting out then and there. But then I remembered that it's next to impossible to get out of those cabs, once in. He might die of starvation during the process of extrication. So I tried to see another side of his crisis.

"If you've been as busy as all that you must be rich enough to be the second co-maker on my new $300 loan," I said with a wit so convulsive that I quickly fastened my seat-belt, expecting him to lose control of himself and the car.

* * *

"Naw, that ain't why I ain't et," he said, driving on morosely. "The few calls I get didden bring me near home. So I done without. I'm hongery."

NOT A RESTAURANT!

"But the restaurants . . ." I started, with a wave of the arm that must have encompassed three or four dozen of the finest in the hemisphere, as well as a number of good places that do not depend on a plush rope to restrain the client.

* * *

Now he almost did lose control of the hack. Looking around at me and driving by the instinct peculiar to New York cabbies, he said as follows:

"Are you daffy, Mac? I wooden eat in no restrant in New York. Or anywhere else, Brooklyn included. There ain't a good piece a food in no restrant, didden you know that?"

It was plain to him that an imbecile had wandered into his cab. The imbecile was silent, thinking of the dough he had wasted through the years, eating at places where they charge you $3.50 for a peeled hot dog. I could have had the same bad food for a dime, it seems.

But I mentioned a list of restaurants nevertheless . . . places the whole world knows and sometimes reveres. The air was heavy with their fragrance.

* * *

"Ain't et in any of them joints," my friend conceded, "but I know they can't be no good: They're restrants. Me . . . I like to eat good."

He settled back until I could see only the top of his head. He seemed to be in the posture of a man in one of those lean-back lounge chairs, staring contentedly at the ceiling while he counted his blessings.

GOOD AT HIS FOOD

"A man's what his food is," the mobile philosopher said. "He's as good as his food and as lousy as his food. Me, for breakfast I take a fresh orange. Then a slab of hullwheat and tea.

* * *

"Then I'm at woik, pushing this thing all day. Maybe 4, 5, I'm hongery again. I go in a nickel-in-the-slot joint if I can't stand it no longer. I look at the wedgetables. They look fresh, I go for some, but only they look fresh.

"Then I'm off and home a little after 9," he said with the quietest joy I've heard in a man's voice in years. "Let's say I've had a capon killed for me that day and I've picked some vegetables before some bums put their fingerprints on them. I'm ready, now.

"I get things started—I got 6, 12 ways of fixing a capon—and now I have my drink. I got a bottle of Scotch from before the war. Still got the age on the label. I nurse it.

"Sometimes I like a wodka. Not this wodka around here. That ain't wodka. Mine's from Czechoslovakia. If I get a long haul, you know, somebody wants the track or something and is loose with a buck, I got caviar for dinner . . . here you are, Johnny."

I got out, with a little help, paid and tipped him. I expressed the hope he'd eat soon but he shook his head. He had seen the wedgetables here and there, he said, and he'd have to wait until he was off work.

"I don't want to rap it," he said, "but sometimes it's tough to be a conasewer."

Stalin Had Heart Seizure Before Potsdam

WASHINGTON (INS) — Former President Harry S. Truman disclosed yesterday that Soviet Marshall Stalin, who died in 1953, suffered a heart attack in 1945 which delayed the Red dictator's arrival at the Potsdam conference.

Truman wrote in his memoirs that the nature of Stalin's illness "was a well-kept secret." The ailment forced Stalin to give up vodka at the Potsdam dinners, according to the ex-President.

The fourth installment of the retired president's memoirs, published by Life magazine also brought to light that:

1. Truman found Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, now under fire in Moscow, harder to deal with than Stalin himself at the Potsdam Conference. He said it was "always harder to get agreement out of Molotov than out of Stalin."

2. He discovered at Potsdam that "The Russians were not in earnest about peace" and decided then that they should have no control over postwar Japan. Truman recalled: "I made up my mind that General MacArthur would be given complete command and control after victory in Japan. We were not going to be disturbed by Russian tactics in the Pacific.

* * *

3. He became so nettled by Big Three quibbling at the conference that once he threatened to "pack up and go home." He wrote his mother and sister, Mary, during the meeting: "You never saw such pig-headed people as the Russians."

4. But there were "no secrets" at Potsdam — other than Russia's reaffirmation on entering the war against Japan. Truman said this "had to be kept secret" because it was a wartime military matter.

The former President, describing events at the Big Three meeting in July 1945, gave his impressions of Stalin, British Prime Minister Churchill and Churchill's successor at the conference, Clement Attlee. He found Stalin a man of "wry humor" who believed that human feelings were "poor advisers in politics."

STALIN HEART ATTACK

Truman made two references to Stalin's heart condition, which occurred almost eight years before the Soviet dictator died. He wrote:

"The arrival of Marshal Stalin from Moscow was delayed because of a slight heart attack which he had suffered — this was a well-kept secret."

Later, at Potsdam, Stalin confirmed the fact of his heart attack during a Soviet state dinner which the American President described in a letter as "a wow." Truman recalled the event in these words:

"I was seated next to Stalin, and I noticed that he drank from a tiny glass that held about a thimbleful. He emptied it frequently and replenished it from a bottle he kept handy.

"I assumed that it was vodka, which everybody else was being served, and I began to wonder how Stalin could drink so much of that powerful beverage. I finally asked him, and he looked at me and grinned. Then he leaned over to his interpreter and said, 'Tell the President it is French wine, because since my heart attack, I can't drink the way I used to.'"

The man who had been catapulted into the U.S. Presidency only three months before told how Molotov proposed that the other powers "address a formal request to the Soviet government" to obtain its entry into the war against Japan. Russia had agreed at Yalta to enter the war tthree months after VE-day in Europe.

Truman had this to say about Molotov's proposal:

"I saw in it a cynica ldiplomatic move to make Russia's entry at this time appear to be a decisive factor to bring about victory . . . I was not willing to let Russia reap the fruits of a long and bitter and gallant effort in which she had no part."

Couple Splurge on Steak After Week on $7.84

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—A young San Angelo couple enjoyed a big juicy steak dinner last night in celebration of proving that two can live on $7.84 worth of food a week.

"Economizing was fun, but this steak is good too," said Robert Myre, airman stationed at Goodfellow Air Force Base here.

His wife Mary said she preferred not to compare the steaks and the week's menus she drew up in accordance with a nutrition report which said the basic food requirements for a couple cost $8.56 a week.

The week's economizing ended Sunday night with Mary showing a profit of 72 cents over the nutrition report.

Both Mary and Bob said they enjoyed the economy meals and felt they had plenty to eat.

A physical checkup showed that Mary did not lose a pound during the week. She remained a trim 108. Robert dropped from 163 to 160 pounds—which he blamed in part on doing without his nightly half a glass of peanut butter.

Hal Boyle Says:

Bald Eagles' Fate Would Please Franklin

By HAL BOYLE

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—When the question of picking the American national bird was brought up, Benjamin Franklin said to those who spoke for the bald eagle:

"They are damn pirates. I want the turkey!"

* * *

His peers, as they did on occasion, overruled the wisest scientist - businessman - diplomat — perhaps the most all-around man—the world has known.

Franklin preferred the turkey as a symbol because he thought it was more typical of this land. Many civilizations had used other eagles.

* * *

And old Ben, who had many lores, knew the bald eagle had a habit of preying on a hawk called the osprey. It would wait until the osprey dived and caught a fish, then attack it in the air, force the harried hawk to drop its earned prey — and dive and grab the reward itself in its powerful talons. Such robbery tactics, Franklin felt, shouldn't symbolize the young American nation.

Perhaps through tradition, perhaps because the bald eagle is one of the world's most magnificent looking birds, perhaps because the founding fathers were weary of Franklin's perfection and the fact he looked like a homely homegrown turkey himself, they turned him down and made the bald eagle the emblem of our land. So he is.

The bald eagle isn't bald at all. It got the name because of the white feathers on its head, and it could just as well be called the "bald-tailed eagle," too, because it roosts on white feathers.

The news I have today would interest bird - loving Benjamin Franklin, to whom America was a lifelong loving notebook of discovery.

The news: While bald headed men in the United States are increasing mightily, the bald eagle is dying out rapidly.

Says Herbert H. Beck, retired head of the chemistry department of Franklin and Marshall College:

"At the present rate of decline of the bald eagle, I feel that by the year 2025 the great seal of the United States in Washington, D. C., will represent a bird that lives only in memory. It will be as gone as the dodo."

This is not an hysterical judgment. Professor Beck, who will be 80 next month, for 50 years has been a meticulous student of ornithology, specializing in eagles, and has kept a diary of bird movements all that while.

* * *

He speaks with wholehearted admiration of Charles Broley, a retired Canadian banker who lives in Tampico, Fla., and is known widely as "The Eagle Man."

They have set up a mail network of checks on the habits of eagles and their movements, in cooperation with other bird lovers. The only way that has been figured out to do this is to put a metal identifying band on the bird. For obvious reasons this is done only to young nesting eagles, and eagles don't nest in subways.

* * *

"You know Broley is only about 62," said the professor, who is a mite hard of hearing but built like a quarterback, "and he can still climb up and band the eaglets himself."

Into his boy-blue eyes came the wistful look of an older knight watching a young knight reach out for the holy grail he himself had yearned for . . . a look utterly sharing and without envy.

* * *

"You know," he said, soberly, as if he were trying to fix something important in the memory of a careless child:

"The bald eagle is disappearing. Unless something is done to check its decline, this emblem of our people will have vanished. None will be alive."

Tomorrow: The world's only eagle refuge has no eagle.

"SEEING-EYE" CAT — Meet "Specks," year-old cat who is the "seeing eye" for "Blackie," blind, seven-year-old cocker spaniel. They are shown with their mistress, Gloria Bloodworth, of Gainesville, Ga. She guides him carefully across the street to a bird bath, halting him for traffic and then nudging him on. She waits patiently until the cocker finishes drinking and starts him on the return trek. He trots closely behind the cat, who periodically turns back to give him a reassuring brush under his nose. She also guides him around the Bloodworth home to keep him from bumping into furniture and helps him up and down stairs.

Small Radiation Detector Developed by Army

WASHINGTON—The Army Chemical Corps has developed a radiation detector no larger than a pack of cigarettes. It is expected to replace the film badge.

The new detector, unlike the film badge, can be used over and over and no processing is required.

Called a "tactical radiation dosimeter," the device employs five tubes full of liquids that change colors when a dangerous amount of radiation is present in the person wearing the dosimeter.

If Allaska becomes a state, it will rank eight in recoverable coal reserves with about 100 billion tons still to be taken from the ground.

...And They Shall Have Music...

They Remain as Different as They Are Alike

(This is the third of a series of five articles on the careers and private lives of America's foremost musical team—Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein.)

By CHARLES P. ARNOT

One way or another, the whole history of Rodgers and Hammerstein is bound up in the lives of two men who are as different as they are alike.

* * *

Composer Richard Rodgers is a story-teller in music whose flying fingers turn out hit tunes with the quiet efficiency of an auditor. He rarely plays the piano for his own amusement.

Lyricist Oscar Hammerstein II is a "perambulatory" playwright-poet who may walk 10 miles during weeks of labor on an unforgettable 50-word refrain. He is only temperamental about writing lyrics—nothing else.

Both have apartments in Manhattan and comfortable retreats in the country. Over the past 25 years, they have maintained about the same standards of living—what their wives call "Very Middle Class."

Both married attractive women named Dorothy following romances that blossomed—at different times—on ocean trips to England. Both wives have had their own businesses—separately—as interior decorators.

LINKED WITH GREATS

In music and the theater, they share the same meticulous tastes, the same burning drive for perfection. The theater has lifted them to the heights and plunged them to the depths.

Their amazing careers have linked the theatrical greats of today and yesterday, from Mae West to Mary Martin, from Lew Fields to Ezio Pinza.

If they had it to do all over again, they still would choose their beloved theater. They have no thought of retiring.

Rodgers, seven years younger and several inches shorter than Hammerstein, is taut and stocky with a great fund of nervous energy. He has no long hair, no garret, no Bohemian tendencies.

CONSTRUCTION FOREMAN

Interviewers invariably liken the unpretentious Rodgers to a businessman—more often than not settling on "stockbroker." It has been said he's the perfect example of what a composer should not look like.

Hammerstein, a rugged six-footer, has been compared in appearance for most of 15 years to a construction foreman. He is relaxed, warm, serious, sensitive—above all, a complete optimist. Dorothy Hammerstein says that's his weakness—if he has one.

"Oscar is a very honorable man who doesn't lie to himself," she observes. "His only weakness is that he is an escapist. He simply doesn't want to remember anything unpleasant."

* * *

Hammerstein admits he's "in love with a wonderful theater." But he qualifies this burst of affection with:

"Professional gratification can't do you much good if you don't have a happy home to come to."

MOST SEEN PLAYS

It is a statistical fact that more people have seen the plays of Oscar Hammerstein than any other living playwright. It is an artistically-accepted fact that Richard Rodgers is one of the three greatest living popular American composers, along with Cole Porter and Irving Berlin.

* * *

Over the years, Rodgers' music has been called sad, gay, folksy and even holy. One eminent critic offered this comparison:

"Where Cole Porter electrifies you with his wit and sophistication and Irving Berlin captivates you with his pure, simple tunes, Dick Rodgers digs into your heart."

Since he fingered out a tuneful little ditty called "Campfire Days" at age 14, Rodgers figures he has written more than 1,000 songs—some of them in less than five minutes. Many have been composed with paper and pencil, without the aid of a piano.

DOWN TO EARTH GUY

The whole secret of his success is that he considers himself a practical, down-to-earth man of the theater. And like any other man with a job, sits down and goes to work.

Music never comes to him at unexpected moments. He is a theatrical composer who looks on the problem of writing songs as finding the right musical approach to a given dramatic situation. He produces melody only when in quest of it.

Rodgers is indifferent to his surroundings when composing. It doesn't tire him. When creating the beguiling music for the colorful "Carousel," he sat undisturbed at the piano while his two daughters created minor bedlam in the living room.

When you hear a song called "The Next Time It Happens" from the next R & H musical, "Pipe Dream," remember that it took Dick Rodgers less than an hour to write the music—an hour interrupted by a dinner engagement.

* * *

"For me, the process of musical composition is a very rapid outpouring," Rodgers explains. "I can't compose note by note, as though I were carving wood—a chip here, a chip there."

Rodgers' biggest single income item still is a memorable ballet entitled "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" which was introduced in a 1936 Broadway show called "On Your Toes."

Tomorrow: Charles Arnot takes us into the working day of both musicians and presents genius creating another chapter of "Musical Americana."

THE TEAM AT WORK—These are the men who have given the world some of the mots unforgettable music ever written. Rodgers, shown at the piano, composes the music after Hammerstein has produced the lyrics—the reverse of the usual song-writing process.

Musicians Tune Instruments for Oct. 19 Concert

Pontiac Press Photos by Eddie Vanderwerp

FRANCESCO DiBLASI, CONDUCTOR

The full Pontiac Symphony Orchestra is rehearsing Igor Stravinsky's "Berceuse" and "Finale" from the "Firebird Suite" under the direction of Francesco DiBlasi. The Oct. 19 performance is the first of a series of five concerts to be presented at Lincoln Junior High School during the 1955-56 season.

Largest of the string section is the double bass. It is especially difficult to play with the delicacy required in Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" which will feature the string section in the Oct. 19 performance. The double bass was the instrument of Serge Kousivitsky, one of the few people who played this instrument in solo concert.

Often called the "kettle drum," the tympani is the most difficult instrument in the percussion section as it has to be tuned often. The pitch of the drum has to be changed in the middle of a selection through the use of foot pedals. The player has to very carefully tap the edge of the instrument to get the correct intonation.

The French horn is an extremely difficult instrument to play. It is played mostly by changing the shape of the lips. The thrilling introduction to Act III from Richard Wagner's "Lohengrin" will feature this section of the orchestra in the Oct. 19 performance.

Trombones are used very effectively in the prelude for orchestra by Clark Eastham which will have its premiere performance Oct. 19. The instrument runs the complete gamut of use in all types of music.

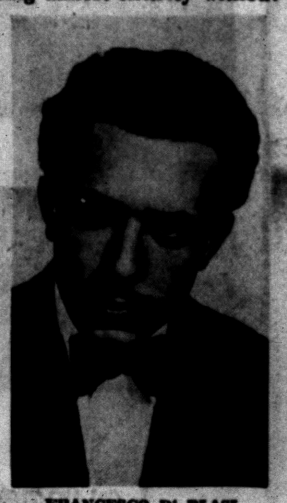

The cello will be the first instrument to be featured in the Oct. 19 concert presented by the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra. These members of the cello section are rehearsing with great anticipation for the concerto for cello and orchestra which will feature Georges Miquelle as guest artist. The haunting phrases of "Kol Midrei" by Max Bruch appeal especially to the Pontiac audiences.

Local Symphony Opening to Feature Three Artists

Orchestra to Perform Under the Baton of Francesco Di Blasi for 3rd Year

Three great musicians will be featured in the season's first appearance of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra Oct. 19 at Lincoln Junior High School.

Francesco DiBlasi returns as conductor for the symphony's third year. Conducting almost entirely without a score, Mr. DiBlasi gives his full attention to symphony members who are enthusiastically attending rehearsals each week.

FRANCESCO DI BLASI

Recently appointed as musical director and conductor of the Michigan Grand Opera Company, Mr. DiBlasi has conducted several opera and choral companies in New York City, and has conducted performances with the famed Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo.

Clark Eastham, nationally known composer and resident of Royal Oak, has been commissioned by the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra to write a new work.

Called "Prelude for Orchestra," it will receive its American premiere at this opening concert of the subscription series of the symphony under the baton of Conductor DiBlasi.

Eastham is well known for his choral work, "I Hear America Singing," and his numerous compositions for symphony orchestra and chamber music.

* * *

His music has been performed by such major symphony orchestras as the Detroit Symphony and Columbus Philharmonic.

Guest artist will be Georges Miquelle, former cellist with the Detroit Symphony.

Besides his many solo appearances, Mr. Miquelle is remembered for his Sunday afternoon chamber music programs on television. He will perform the Haydn cello concerto with the Pontiac Symphony.

Pontiac Tuesday Musicale Opens Its Autumn Season

Club Hears Vocalists From MSU

Pair's Selections Delight Audience at Fellowship Hall

Pontiac Tuesday Musicale opened its season Tuesday afternoon in Fellowship Hall, Grace Lutheran Church.

* * *

Pauline and Gene Greenwell, both of the faculty of Michigan State University, delighted their audience with their choice of solos and duets which covered a great variety of song literature and displayed a rare mastery of voice technique and dramatic interpretation.

Mrs. Greenwell opened her group of songs with the familiar aria "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from "Samson and Delilah" by Saint-Saens.

Her beautiful voice and warm personality were evident in all her offerings including the somber Scotch ballad "Lord Randall" by Cyril Scott, the whimsical "The Windmill" by Colin Taylor and "Love's Philosophy" by Roger Quillen.

* * *

Mr. Greenwell chose for his opening number the 15th Century "Roister Doister" by Peter Worlock, followed by Winifred Bury's "There Is a Ladye," the Negro spiritual "Go Down Moses" arranged by Harry Burleigh, and "The Flea" by Moussorgsky.

VOICES BLENDED

His rich bass voice blended well with the lovely soprano voice of Mrs. Greenwell in several duets, the quiet "Under the Greenwood Tree" by Liza Lehmann, "Fair Chlora" by Haydn and "Spring Wind" by Eric Thiman.

* * *

Their enjoyment of dramatic comedy transmitted itself to their audience in the old Irish "Stuttering Lovers" by Herbert Hughes, "Anglers Song" by Henry Laws and two encores, both old English folk-tunes, "Keys of Heaven" and "Johnny, Come Kiss Me Noo."

The concert was enhanced by the artistic and sympathetic playing of accompanist Carol Broughton, a recent graduate of Michigan State University Music School.

Mrs. J. B. Forman reported on the State Federation of Music Clubs Convention held at Interlochen this summer attended by Mrs. Paul A. Kern and Mrs. Gordon Wollcock.

Nina Foch (left) TV and movie actress who came to Pontiac yesterday to help launch the United Fund campaign, is interviewed by Judith Clemence, Pontiac Press women's editor after the kickoff breakfast. Miss Foch spoke at the breakfast and later assisted Campaign Chairman Robert H. Critchfield light the torch which will burn at Saginaw and Oakland until the close of the campaign.

Breakfast Stars Actress

By JUDITH CLEMENCE

The star of the Pontiac United Fund Kick-off Breakfast Tuesday morning was movie and television actress Nina Foch.

* * *

Diminutive and vivacious, the actress appeared at Devon Gables in a trimly cut navy blue suit with navy shoes sporting bright red heels.

Her light brown hair was brushed neatly back from her head, and her blue eyes are probably the most expressive we have ever seen.

Recognizing that Miss Foch is one of television's top actresses, we asked how she felt about doing live productions. She said she loved the challenge of television, and she added, "I'm mad for it and anyone who insults television is my enemy. It has given me parts I might never have had."

* * *

The talented actress has known success in movies and on Broadway and will soon be seen in Cecil B. DeMille's "The Ten Commandments."

REHEARSING PLAY

Critically acclaimed for her leading role in the Broadway hit "John Loves Mary," Miss Foch is now rehearsing for Theater Guild's "Child of Fortune" which will open in New York Dec. 26.

* * *

The 31-year-old actress comes from a gifted family. Her mother, Consuelo Flowerton, starred in several Broadway hits, and her great-great uncle was the famed British poet, Lord Byron.

Dick Foch, the actress' father was conductor of the London Civic Symphony and the Vienna Strasser Symphony.

Most of her spare time is spent painting in oils. She is an accomplished pianist and is proficient in fencing and skeet shooting.

* * *

Her first trip to the Detroit area proved exciting to Miss Foch. Her husband, James Lipton, grew up in Detroit, and she said, "I've sure heard enough about it."

Omit Veil for Second Reception

Bride, Bridesmaid May Wear Gowns at Later Event

By EMILY POST

"I plan to be married soon. I will wear a white ballerina-length dress and shoulder veil. Since my fiance is from another city, there will be a second reception two weeks after our wedding in my fiance's home town for those who could not come to the wedding.

"I would like to wear my wedding dress and veil on this occasion if it is proper. Also, my fiance's sister will be my maid of honor. May she wear her dress at this second reception?"

Answer: You may wear your dresses with all propriety to receive the guests, so that they may have the impression of how you looked on your wedding day. You should not, however, wear the veil.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me who is supposed to leave first when two people pay a friend a visit on the same afternoon: The one who was there first, or the second one who interrupted their visit?"

Answer: In most situations the one who arrived first is expected to leave first. An exception is when the first is a very intimate friend who has come to spend the afternoon and the other one is a formal visitor.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am a secretary in a small office. My employer always introduces me to any visiting relatives or friends who come to the office to see him. Is it my place to rise and offer my hand upon being introduced? I am in my early 40s."

Answer: You do not get up and offer your hand. You simply incline your head and say "How d'you do."

Other people don't care how much you worry as long as you don't worry out loud.

BALDNESS

Are you worried about falling hair? Is your hair getting thin in spots? Let us consider some of the facts about baldness. There is no "sure fire" way of growing hair on a bald spot. Of all the methods I have investigated, scalp massage is most apt to help. You can do it at home with your own two hands while watching TV. Any type of massage which will increase the circulation of blood in the scalp is okay.

Women worry unnecessarily about baldness. In my many years of experience I've never seen a woman's hair get thin to the point of baldness. So long as she has hair, there is a way of styling so as to make it presentable. If you have this problem, perhaps we could help you.

Child Study Clubs Hear Counselors

Five Area Groups Are Addressed by Flint Couple

Home was defined as the "Laboratory of Life, Labor and Love" by Mr. and Mrs. William Genne when they spoke to members of five area Child Study Clubs Tuesday evening at Rotunda Inn.

* * *

Mr. Genne is a full-time teacher-counselor with the Flint Clara Elizabeth Fund for Maternal Health. His assignments include teaching family relationships at the Flint Community College, teaching expectant fathers' classes and work with junior high school youth.

Mrs. Genne is primarily a homemaker for her family of four children. She teaches one section of the family class at the college and shares with her husband the leadership of the Marriage Forum for engaged and newly married couples.

They were married in 1937 and each has served on the boards of their church and several service organizations. Together, they are program consultants and members of the advisory board of the Michigan Child Study Association.

* * *

The Gennes were introduced by Mrs. Thomas Doremus of Waterford Child Study Group II.

"VISIBLE LOVE"

In speaking about labor, Mrs. Genne said, "Work is love made visible. Work occupies much of our adult lives, part of it is dull and part exciting, and we have to help our children realize it."

* * *

Mr. Genne explained that love is learned about in the laboratory of the home, and most important is the quality of the relationship between husband and wife. It influences more than any directly applied love on the child, but he also emphasized the importance of tender, loving care for each individual child.

Mrs. Howard Powers of Junior Child Study Club was in charge of decorations and Mrs. Charles L. Bowers, Child Culture Club, handled favors.

Lists were checked and arrangements made for the annual cooperative meeting of five area Child Study clubs, held Tuesday evening at Rotunda Inn. Pictured (left to rgiht) are Mrs. Dean Toles of Waterford Township Child Study Group I; Mrs. Jackson Byers, Waterford Township Child Study Group II; Mrs. Roy M. Sweet Top a Surprise With Beans

Mrs. Derragon Says Hearty Lima Dish Will Serve 8 to 10

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

This is the season of the year for hearty casseroles. Mrs. Don Derragon suggests one with lima beans. It has an unusual topping for which you can use the new miniature marshmallows.

Music and care of an invalid husband fill Mrs. Derragon's life. She belongs to Tuesday Musicale and is vice president of the Pontiac Music Guild. Her friends comment on her happy disposition.

LIMA BEAN CASSEROLE
By Mrs. Don Derragon

1 pound dried lima beans
3 tablespoons brown sugar
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 strips bacon
Salt and pepper
Marshmallows

Soak beans overnight. Drain and add boiling water to cover. Cook until tender, about ½ hour. Melt butter or margarine, add sugar and seasonings. Mix with beans and pour into a buttered casserole.

Lay strips of bacon over the top. Cover and bake 1 hour in a 350-degree oven. Add a little boiling water, if the beans dry out. Remove cover and top with marshmallows. Brown under the broiler and serve at once. Serves 8-10.

Keep in mind that eggs, matches, salt, fruit juices and rubber all contain substances which tarnish silver.

If you can't afford or don't want to buy a rug right now, it's a good idea to paint the floor, then spatter it with gold paint for a smart effect. Add scatter rugs if you like.

Don't Panic When Child Is Demoted

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Within the coming weeks, it is possible that your child's teacher will find it necessary to say to you:

"David's work has not been up to standard. I don't think he's ready for third grade work. So if you can't get him to improve it, I'll have to recommend that he be put back to repeat the second grade."

* * *

The chances are, David's teacher will expect us to react to her news with panic. She'll expect us to resist the idea of demoting him with angry arguments or discouraged pleas for delay.

She'll expect us to be terribly upset by his failure to deliver a "standard" third grade performance—and bring to it all the exhausting, hackneyed, "standard" emotions of parents whose moral values are machine-made and mass-produced.

Let's surprise her. Instead of resisting her idea of demoting David, let's beat her to it with immediate acceptance of it.

* * *

Let's say to her, "Miss Jones, relax. If David is having to strain for third grade work, I do not object to demotion. Quite the contrary, I'd like him demoted at once.

"For I've no intention of pressing him to 'improve' his work. My whole duty to David is to see to it that he works happily and thoroughly. He can't possibly do this under pressure from you or me. So let's get him out of this third grade quickly before its strains teach him to do sloppy and discouraged work."

THE REAL ISSUE

A child's respect for his work is always the real issue in a school demotion. Conditions of strain destroy this respect. That is why we cannot afford hackneyed "standard" feelings toward his demotion.

How we treat David's demotion will never be forgotten. All his life he will remember how we chose to deal with his setback in the third grade.

If we make loving and independent use of it to strengthen his self-respect, he won't think of setbacks as defeats. But if we mix this setback up with those destructive "standard" emotions of discouragement and shame, he may never get straight on setbacks.

All our confusion and agitation will disappear the instant we can welcome David's demotion as a good and productive experience.

To wake us up, I quote some words from one of the greatest teachers of children who ever lived — Switzerland's Heinrich Pestalozzi:

"Parents should never hurry children. Let them first attain that strength which comes from dealing well with matters nearest at hand. Be fearful of sternness or strain. By ambitious pushing, we diminish the powers of the child and disturb the equilibrium of his nature. The natural way of teaching is never coercive."

Extend Carpets' Life by Frequent Brisk Sweeping

WASHINGTON (INS) — Keep your carpet as clean as your vacuum cleaner and carpet sweeper allow and it will come through its less frequent professional cleaning with flying colors.

According to the National Institute of Rug Cleaning, it isn't hard to clean a carpet that isn't overly soiled.

A very dirty carpet, they warn, cannot be satisfactorily cleaned on location, no matter how up-to-date the equipment, and should be sent to a plant.

The colors that show dirt most easily, they say, are pastels and royal shades.

"Bright girl, my Betsy!"

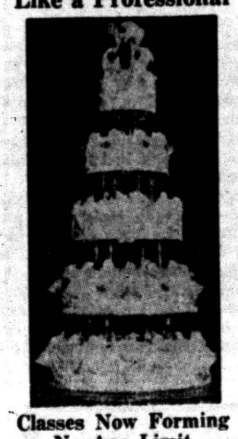

I just can't get over the marvelous way my Betsy outsmarts her housework. Take wood floors for instance. I hear other wives complain about all the scrubbing and waxing they have to do. But not my Betsy! She cleans and waxes them in one easy operation with Bruce Cleaning Wax. Why, she's through in half the time and fresh as a daisy! And our beautiful wood floors are always getting compliments. My Betsy and her Bruce Cleaning Wax sure make small work of a big job. I'm mighty proud of both of them.

By WILMA GREENWAY

Some 860 enchanted youngsters were caught in the spell of "The Land of Oz" yesterday afternoon, when the curtain went up on Pontiac High School's first Children's Theater play of the season.

The play, to be presented at 3:30 p.m. each day through Friday, already is a sellout, with no tickets left for matinee performances and tickets for the 8 p.m. Thursday showing selling fast.

Children from 5 to 15 set spellbound while Mombi the Witch concocted "lots of trouble," Tip (the boy who wasn't a boy) and Jack the Pumpkinhead adventured through the land of Oz with the sawhorse that came alive, and His Majesty the Scarecrow lost his emerald kingdom to an army of pretty girls who conquered with soft glances and winning smiles.

H. M. Woggle Bug, with his T.E. college degree (Thoroughly Educated), lent an air of erudition to the performance. And the storm of wolf whistles that greeted the appearance of the lovely Glinda, the Good Queen, proved that the small fry among the audience knew a good thing when they see it.

The student actors performed with ease and finish. From the moment when Mombi the Witch let out her first ear-splitting scream until Tip, the hero, threw off his spell and appeared in his new and glamorous role, the play held the attention of both its young audience and the handful of adults who found the trip to fairyland an intriguing one.

SCENERY MAGIC

Mary Parrish, director of the fantasy, must have used a little magic of her own to get the scenes changed so smoothly. Although there was no ringing down of curtains, and the production had eight scenes, the scenery was shifted in the twinkling of an eye, with no noticeable interruption of the continuity.

Carolyn Hawn, Jerry Young, Dick Ramsdell and Harold Mapley took the parts of Mombi, Tip, Jack the Pumpkinhead, and Sawhorse, respectively. Bob Crandall was the emperor scarecrow; Jack Larson was Woggle Bug; Don North, the Tin Woodman, and Nancy Armstrong was Glinda the Good, with Donna Chilvers and Diane Spratt as her attendants.

There was a Guardian of the Gates (Bob Groenberg), the Winkie Chamberlain (Bob Skinner), and dancing gillikins Janet Ellender, Phebe Henderson and Helene Prizant.

Marilyn Gregg as General Jinjur and Rosalie Richards, second in command, headed the girl army that conquered without a fight but was routed at the sight of a mouse.

Completing the army were Judy Baker, Mary Crowder, Judy Curran, Jean Hunt, Marilyn McLain, Judy Huntwork, Judy Lauckner, Marie Meyer, Sonja Ryan, Jo Ann VanTassel, Judy Levine and Sandra Mair.

* * *

OTHERS IN CAST

Winged monkeys were Judy Elwell and Doris Enbody. Graceful sunflower girls were Jeanne Andrews, Barbara Berg, Sharon Boyce, Deanna Dovre, Elizabeth Gregory and Emily Thompson.

* * *

Twelve actors made up the living scenery—JoAnn Dearing, Amber Fenely, Toby Gilbert, Fran Glisky, Bob Keavy, Pauline Logsdon, Sally Maier, Norma Passage, Fred Roeser, Carol Venner, Barbara Welch and Martha Wendland.

Assisting Mary Parrish with the production were Shirley Pengilly, assistant director; Arthur Tyrrell, lighting director; Ken Lenigan, stage manager; Leonard Berry, curtain; Harold Cummings and Dick Hartman, lights.

Charlotte Stark was wardrobe chairman; Doris Enbody and Rosalie Richards, publicity; Harold Hanson and Bob Skinner, sound effects, and Pauline Logsdon, tickets. The Association for Childhood Education arranged for bloc ticket sales throughout the grade schools.

Sari Silk Glitter in Cottons

MIAMI, Fla. (INS) — The elegant and expensive glitter of Sari silks is going to flash in budget cottons next season.

The gold embroideries which feature "Oriental" dresses in the $125-and-up class have been duplicated successfully in printed washable cottons, some of them with a no-iron finish.

Cotton "Sari dresses," retailing under $25, were shown by most of the 70 members of the Miami-Florida fashion council at the opening of their resort and cruise wear market week.

The dresses copy Oriental silhouette as well as Oriental pattern. One typical $22 outfit of dull green pima cotton with a pattern of wash-fast gold dots, had a twisted halter neckline and a full skirt. There was a matching bolero for cover-up occasions.

Another "Sari" for $22 was a tunic sheath of turquoise cotton with a random pattern in gold that grew into a gold border at the band of the tunic.

One dress with the Sari glitter but a Western silhouette was a $17 shirtwaist in an all-over black-and-gold pattern of little pyramids and heiroglyphics. It is available in five colors and is both washable and non-iron.

End 'Fly-Away' Hair

Static electricity gives you a shock when you walk across a carpeted floor, and causes "fly-away" hair that just won't stay put. Tame those wild tresses with a creme rinse after each shampoo. It won't eliminate the electric shocks, but it will end your "fly-away" hair problems.

Child Study Clubs Hear Counselors

Five Area Groups Are Addressed by Flint Couple

Home was defined as the "Laboratory of Life, Labor and Love" by Mr. and Mrs. William Genne when they spoke to members of five area Child Study Clubs Tuesday evening at Rotunda Inn.

* * *

Mr. Genne is a full-time teacher-counselor with the Flint Clara Elizabeth Fund for Maternal Health. His assignments include teaching family relationships at the Flint Community College, teaching expectant fathers' classes and work with junior high school youth.

Mrs. Genne is primarily a homemaker for her family of four children. She teaches one section of the family class at the college and shares with her husband the leadership of the Marriage Forum for engaged and newly married couples.

They were married in 1937 and each has served on the boards of their church and several service organizations. Together, they are program consultants and members of the advisory board of the Michigan Child Study Association.

* * *

"VISIBLE LOVE"

In speaking about labor, Mrs. Genne said, "Work is love made visible. Work occupies much of our adult lives, part of it is dull and part exciting, and we have to help our children realize it."

* * *

Mr. Genne explained that love is learned about in the laboratory of the home, and most important is the quality of the relationship between husband and wife. It influences more than any directly applied love on the child, but he also emphasized the importance of tender, loving care for each individual child.

Mrs. Howard Powers of Junior Child Study Club was in charge of decorations and Mrs. Charles L. Bowers, Child Culture Club, handled favors.

Lists were checked and arrangements made for the annual cooperative meeting of five area Child Study clubs, held Tuesday evening at Rotunda Inn. Pictured (left to rgiht) are Mrs. Dean Toles of Waterford Township Child Study Group I; Mrs. Jackson Byers, Waterford Township Child Study Group II; Mrs. Roy M. Jones, Child Study Group III; Mrs. Howard Powers, Junior Child Study Club, and Child Culture Club president Mrs. Charles L. Bowers.

Sweet Top a Surprise With Beans

Mrs. Derragon Says Hearty Lima Dish Will Serve 8 to 10

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

This is the season of the year for hearty casseroles. Mrs. Don Derragon suggests one with lima beans. It has an unusual topping for which you can use the new miniature marshmallows.

Music and care of an invalid husband fill Mrs. Derragon's life. She belongs to Tuesday Musicale and is vice president of the Pontiac Music Guild. Her friends comment on her happy disposition.

LIMA BEAN CASSEROLE
By Mrs. Don Derragon

1 pound dried lima beans
3 tablespoons brown sugar
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 strips bacon
Salt and pepper
Marshmallows

Soak beans overnight. Drain and add boiling water to cover. Cook until tender, about ½ hour. Melt butter or margarine, add sugar and seasonings. Mix with beans and pour into a buttered casserole.

Lay strips of bacon over the top. Cover and bake 1 hour in a 350-degree oven. Add a little boiling water, if the beans dry out. Remove cover and top with marshmallows. Brown under the broiler and serve at once. Serves 8-10.

Keep in mind that eggs, matches, salt, fruit juices and rubber all contain substances which tarnish silver.

If you can't afford or don't want to buy a rug right now, it's a good idea to paint the floor, then spatter it with gold paint for a smart effect. Add scatter rugs if you like.

Don't Panic When Child Is Demoted

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Within the coming weeks, it is possible that your child's teacher will find it necessary to say to you:

"David's work has not been up to standard. I don't think he's ready for third grade work. So if you can't get him to improve it, I'll have to recommend that he be put back to repeat the second grade."

* * *

The chances are, David's teacher will expect us to react to her news with panic. She'll expect us to resist the idea of demoting him with angry arguments or discouraged pleas for delay.

She'll expect us to be terribly upset by his failure to deliver a "standard" third grade performance—and bring to it all the exhausting, hackneyed, "standard" emotions of parents whose moral values are machine-made and mass-produced.

Let's surprise her. Instead of resisting her idea of demoting David, let's beat her to it with immediate acceptance of it.

* * *

Let's say to her, "Miss Jones, relax. If David is having to strain for third grade work, I do not object to demotion. Quite the contrary, I'd like him demoted at once.

"For I've no intention of pressing him to 'improve' his work. My whole duty to David is to see to it that he works happily and thoroughly. He can't possibly do this under pressure from you or me. So let's get him out of this third grade quickly before its strains teach him to do sloppy and discouraged work."

THE REAL ISSUE

A child's respect for his work is always the real issue in a school demotion. Conditions of strain destroy this respect. That is why we cannot afford hackneyed "standard" feelings toward his demotion.

How we treat David's demotion will never be forgotten. All his life he will remember how we chose to deal with his setback in the third grade.

If we make loving and independent use of it to strengthen his self-respect, he won't think of setbacks as defeats. But if we mix this setback up with those destructive "standard" emotions of discouragement and shame, he may never get straight on setbacks.

All our confusion and agitation will disappear the instant we can welcome David's demotion as a good and productive experience.

To wake us up, I quote some words from one of the greatest teachers of children who ever lived — Switzerland's Heinrich Pestalozzi:

"Parents should never hurry children. Let them first attain that strength which comes from dealing well with matters nearest at hand. Be fearful of sternness or strain. By ambitious pushing, we diminish the powers of the child and disturb the equilibrium of his nature. The natural way of teaching is never coercive."

Extend Carpets' Life by Frequent Brisk Sweeping

WASHINGTON (INS) — Keep your carpet as clean as your vacuum cleaner and carpet sweeper allow and it will come through its less frequent professional cleaning with flying colors.

According to the National Institute of Rug Cleaning, it isn't hard to clean a carpet that isn't overly soiled.

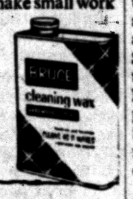

A very dirty carpet, they warn, cannot be satisfactorily cleaned on location, no matter how up-to-date the equipment, and should be sent to a plant.

The colors that show dirt most easily, they say, are pastels and royal shades.

"Bright girl, my Betsy!"

I just can't get over the marvelous way my Betsy outsmarts her housework. Take wood floors for instance. I hear other wives complain about all the scrubbing and waxing they have to do. But not my Betsy! She cleans and waxes them in one easy operation with Bruce Cleaning Wax. Why, she's through in half the time and fresh as a daisy! And our beautiful wood floors are always getting compliments. My Betsy and her Bruce Cleaning Wax sure make small work of a big job. I'm mighty proud of both of them.

P.S. For lighter waxing on linoleum and wood, Betsy uses Bruce Floor Cleaner.

860 Enchanted Children Enter Magic Land of Oz

By WILMA GREENWAY

Some 860 enchanted youngsters were caught in the spell of "The Land of Oz" yesterday afternoon, when the curtain went up on Pontiac High School's first Children's Theater play of the season.

The play, to be presented at 3:30 p.m. each day through Friday, already is a sellout, with no tickets left for matinee performances and tickets for the 8 p.m. Thursday showing selling fast.

Children from 5 to 15 set spellbound while Mombi the Witch concocted "lots of trouble," Tip (the boy who wasn't a boy) and Jack the Pumpkinhead adventured through the land of Oz with the sawhorse that came alive, and His Majesty the Scarecrow lost his emerald kingdom to an army of pretty girls who conquered with soft glances and winning smiles.

H. M. Woggle Bug, with his T.E. college degree (Thoroughly Educated), lent an air of erudition to the performance. And the storm of wolf whistles that greeted the appearance of the lovely Glinda, the Good Queen, proved that the small fry among the audience knew a good thing when they see it.

The student actors performed with ease and finish. From the moment when Mombi the Witch let out her first ear-splitting scream until Tip, the hero, threw off his spell and appeared in his new and glamorous role, the play held the attention of both its young audience and the handful of adults who found the trip to fairyland an intriguing one.

SCENERY MAGIC

Mary Parrish, director of the fantasy, must have used a little magic of her own to get the scenes changed so smoothly. Although there was no ringing down of curtains, and the production had eight scenes, the scenery was shifted in the twinkling of an eye, with no noticeable interruption of the continuity.

Carolyn Hawn, Jerry Young, Dick Ramsdell and Harold Mapley took the parts of Mombi, Tip, Jack the Pumpkinhead, and Sawhorse, respectively. Bob Crandall was the emperor scarecrow; Jack Larson was Woggle Bug; Don North, the Tin Woodman, and Nancy Armstrong was Glinda the Good, with Donna Chilvers and Diane Spratt as her attendants.

There was a Guardian of the Gates (Bob Groenberg), the Winkie Chamberlain (Bob Skinner), and dancing gillikins Janet Ellender, Phebe Henderson and Helene Prizant.

Marilyn Gregg as General Jinjur and Rosalie Richards, second in command, headed the girl army that conquered without a fight but was routed at the sight of a mouse.

Completing the army were Judy Baker, Mary Crowder, Judy Curran, Jean Hunt, Marilyn McLain, Judy Huntwork, Judy Lauckner, Marie Meyer, Sonja Ryan, Jo Ann VanTassel, Judy Levine and Sandra Mair.

In charge of the Gump, wonderful flying contraption that rescued the principal characters from the culinary horrors to which the girls' army had doomed them, was Mike McNair.

Winged monkeys were Judy Elwell and Doris Enbody. Graceful sunflower girls were Jeanne Andrews, Barbara Berg, Sharon Boyce, Deanna Dovre, Elizabeth Gregory and Emily Thompson.

Twelve actors made up the living scenery—JoAnn Dearing, Amber Fenely, Toby Gilbert, Fran Glisky, Bob Keavy, Pauline Logsdon, Sally Maier, Norma Passage, Fred Roeser, Carol Venner, Barbara Welch and Martha Wendland.

Assisting Mary Parrish with the production were Shirley Pengilly, assistant director; Arthur Tyrrell, lighting director; Ken Lenigan, stage manager; Leonard Berry, curtain; Harold Cummings and Dick Hartman, lights.

Charlotte Stark was wardrobe chairman; Doris Enbody and Rosalie Richards, publicity; Harold Hanson and Bob Skinner, sound effects, and Pauline Logsdon, tickets. The Association for Childhood Education arranged for bloc ticket sales throughout the grade schools.

Sari Silk Glitter in Cottons

MIAMI, Fla. (INS) — The elegant and expensive glitter of Sari silks is going to flash in budget cottons next season.

The gold embroideries which feature "Oriental" dresses in the $125-and-up class have been duplicated successfully in printed washable cottons, some of them with a no-iron finish.

Cotton "Sari dresses," retailing under $25, were shown by most of the 70 members of the Miami-Florida fashion council at the opening of their resort and cruise wear market week.

The dresses copy Oriental silhouette as well as Oriental pattern. One typical $22 outfit of dull green pima cotton with a pattern of wash-fast gold dots, had a twisted halter neckline and a full skirt. There was a matching bolero for cover-up occasions.

Another "Sari" for $22 was a tunic sheath of turquoise cotton with a random pattern in gold that grew into a gold border at the band of the tunic.

One dress with the Sari glitter but a Western silhouette was a $17 shirtwaist in an all-over black-and-gold pattern of little pyramids and heiroglyphics. It is available in five colors and is both washable and non-iron.

End 'Fly-Away' Hair

Job Prepares Girl for Marriage

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"All I ask for my daughter," a mother told me recently, "is an early marriage to a nice boy. Then she won't have anything to worry about."

* * *

And yet, every day, I see the girls who married the first boy who proposed. Most of them never had a decent job or any experience in self-discipline or self-development. They seem to have plenty to worry about.

Actually, a couple of years spent working at an interesting and demanding job is the best possible preparation for marriage. But it is hard to make some mothers see it, largely because things were different in their time.

Take, for example, this letter from a mother in Ohio:

"I am writing about my daughter," she says. "and I am most concerned about her. She is engaged to be married to a fine boy.

INSISTS ON WORKING

"After they both graduated last June from the university, we all expected them to be married right away. But no! My daughter insists on waiting a year or two, so she can work at her job for a while.

"Her husband-to-be seems to think it is a good idea, too, if she wants it that way."

"So my daughter is at work now.

* * *

"Every time I try to get her to stop and get married, she raises quite a fuss. She says it's very important that she have this experience, and so on.

"But, as I tell her, Bob is an attractive man. A lot of girls in his office are doubtless setting their caps for him and she may lose him if she goes on like this.

"Anyway, what does she need this experience for? She'll be a wife and mother and won't have to worry about office jobs any more."

In this mother's day, it would have been inconceivable to insist on a job, but I think the daughter is wise. If she really has the business bug—and she seems to—she will always regret it if she has missed the experience of working.

GOOD PREPARATION

Also, a year or two to get established, for both the husband and wife, is excellent preparation for marriage. Moreover, if the boy is willing to wait, it seems to me it's their business.

In mother's day, a girl married, had her babies and eventually married them off and setted down to puttering in the garden.

But a young bride today may plan to resume her career after the children are grown. It will be easier all around if she has had the original work experience.

Then, too, ways of living and costs of living have changed a lot in the past 30 years. Most young couples like to feel that there is always the possibility of a two-paycheck family.

Dinner Given for Bride-Elect Suzanne Karner

Bride-elect Suzanne Karner was honored at a dinner party given Monday evening by Mrs. Windiate Shanks of Clarkston.

Suzanne, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Karner of Menominee road, will marry John H. Rehm at St. Benedict Church Oct. 29. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Rehm of Watkins Lake road.

Guests attending the dinner were Mrs. Karner, Mrs. Ronald Felix, Mrs. Stanley J. Treadwell, Mrs. Harry F. Leser and Mrs. Frank Thomas.

Others were Mrs. Paul Hammond, Mrs. Paul Wetzel, Marjorie Phelan, Jean Thorsberg and Mrs. Leon J. Forsyth.

Waiting in Line Consumes Time

DENVER (INS) — Housewives buck a buying bottleneck that consumes more than 11 eight-hour "work" days a year.

A survey conducted by a Los Angeles firm showed the wives who do the shopping and marketing for the family spend that much time standing in line waiting for their turn as the "next customer."

The stop-watch check was made on the time consumed in customers waiting for change, receipts, wrapping, calidations, bill figuring and charge totallings.

Perfumed Bath Was Well-Liked

Much has been written about how the Greeks and Romans, and many kings and queens down through the ages, were devotees of the perfumed bath.

But did you know that there were American Indians who also attached importance to it?

Ingenious is the word for the suspended bath-tub basket that was devised by the Sioux Indians. Herb and fragrant leaves were placed in the basket and in it sat the Indian Brave while his loving Squaw placed hot stones beneath the basket and threw cold water on them. The fragrant steam bath was his perference.

Monroe Historical Society Marks Points of Interest

MONROE (AP)—The Monroe County Historical Society is proud of the progress that has been made in marking spots of historical interest.

Three new historical markers recently put in place brought the total number in history-rich Monroe County to 14. The society's goal is to place at least 30 markers in the city of Monroe and the county.

A recent achievement of the society was the relocation of the equestrian statue of Gen. George Armstrong Custer from an obscure part of Monroe to a vantage point in the center of Monroe. Custer, the heroic Indian fighter of "Last Stand" fame, was born in Monroe. Plans are now under way to provide better night lighting for the statue.

The society also is considering the practicability of marking curb space in the vicinity of some of the markers to permit tourists to park their cars long enough to read the texts. The idea is to be referred to city officials.

TOLEDO BELONGED

Among the three new historical markers just installed is one on the court house lawn setting forth Monroe County history since July, 1817. That was the date the county came into being as one of the first steps in the organization of Michigan territory after the war of 1812. It recalls that lands now included in Lenawee and Washtenaw Counties, as well as those now occupied by Toledo, Ohio, originally were a part of Monroe County.

A new marker in front of the post office tells of the early mails transported first by couriers on French ponies, then by stage. It also marks the site of the original home of Judge Daniel S. Bacon. Here developed the childhood romance of the judge's daughter, Elizabeth, and George Armstrong Custer. Gen. and Mrs. Custer lived in the home after the Civil War.

A third marker on the north shoulder of East Elm Ave. just west of the intersection with the old Dixie highway has to do with the history of the paper industry at Monroe. It notes that while Monroe County now is a center for one of the largest concentrations of paper board manufacture in the world, its original fame came from the manufacture of newsprint and wrapping paper.

Financing of the marker campaign is being carried on by voluntary contributions to the society's funds and by sponsorship of markers by cooperating civic organizations.

The Historical Society has under discussion a proposal to obtain replicas of the old whipping post and town pump.

Detroit Edison Buys Atom Site at Monroe

DETROIT (INS) — The Detroit Edison Co. has revealed purchase of Lake Erie property which may be used as a site for its proposed atomic energy power plant.

The 500 to 600-acre tract near Monroe, Mich., will be submitted to the Atomic Energy Commission along with two other Michigan sites for consideration as the location of the proposed atomic power installation.

The company emphasized, however, that no decision has been made yet on where to locate the revolutionary plant.

Walker L. Cisler, president of the company, said the latest purchase is part of the firm's long-range planning aimed at keeping ahead of estimated future electric power and heat needs.

Dog Is Accurate Clock

DUBOIS, Wyo. (AP) — Dubois rancher Dode Schanno's dog must have a built-in clock.

The dog will sit quietly alone in the car for 15 minutes, but no longer. If Schanno overstays the 15 minutes, the pooch puts its paw on the horn button and leaves it there until Schanno comes back on the run.

Wire Insulation Makes Small Motors Powerful

NEW YORK — Electric wires using silicone-modified enamel insulation are said to make possible the manufacture of smaller electric motors with greater power.

One national electric-appliance company reports that tests show such motors can operate for 10 years continuously at 325 degrees without damage to the insulation.

That's equivalent to the normal operation of a washing machine motor for a century.

States east of the Mississippi consume 69 per cent of the U. S. meat supply.

U. S. Memorial Library Nearly Ready in Berlin

BERLIN — The American Memorial Library in West Berlin, nearing completion, will be the most modern in Europe and a center of culture for the free world.

It will eventually house 600,000 books, many donated by Americans. It contains a lecture hall, a record library, a children's library, and many departments for special collections.

About two out of three first graders troubled with learning to read are said to be below par in their vision.

Tests Show Type Faces Regulate Reading Speed

CHICAGO—Type face is a big factor in reading speed.

Tests have shown that the same copy set in 10-point Garamond, Scotch Roman, Antique, Bodoni, Old Style, Caslon, Kabel Light, Cheltenham, Typewriter, and Cloister Black brought about progressively slower reading.

Cloister Black was nearly 15 per cent harder to read than Garamond.

There are covered bridges in five of Canada's 10 provinces.

U. S. Support of Dictators in Latin America Attacked

NEW YORK (INS)—Dr. Eduardo Santos, former president of Columbia, criticized the U.S. government today for supporting what he called the "dictatorships" in many countries of Latin America.

* * *

He said the U.S. government now faces the problem of regaining the confidence and respect of the Argentine people after having supported the regime of deposed Dictator Juan D. Peron.

"This is true in the relationships between the United States and many countries of Latin America which have become the victims of the machineguns of dictators," he declared.

Santos, whose Bogota newspaper "El Tiempo" was closed after a dispute with Columbian President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla, spoke at the opening of the hemisphere conference of prominent private American citizens to explore the role of voluntary organizations in defending basic freedoms.

The two-day sessions sponsored by the Americas Foundation and the Overseas Press Club.

FAILURE OF DEMOCRACY

Drawing a sharp distinction between the peoples of the Latin American republics and their governments, Santos warned that the big danger facing South America lies in the failure of Democracy which, he said, would turn the people to Communism.

The conference chairman is Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz whose Buenos Aires newspaper "La Prensa" was seized during the Peron regime. Louis P. Lochner, president of the Overseas Press Club, said it was "shocking" that the Argentine General Federation of Labor had refused to restore "La Prensa" to Gainza Paz since the ouster of Peron.

"We are now rendering every assistance to our fellow member Dr. Gainza Paz for its restitution," Lochner added.

Gainza Paz noted in opening the conference that the Inter-American Press Association had succeeded in promoting greater understanding among the American states. He said even greater possibilities exist for promoting communications and understanding among the people of both Americas outside official government channels.

* * *

Adolph A. Berle Jr., former U.S. ambassador to Brazil and now a law professor at Columbia University, warned that the Soviet bloc was now attempting to crack the solidarity of the American nations in the United Nations.

Huge Nickel Ore Deposit Discovered in Far East

MANILA (AP) — The Philippines has unearthed what experts say is the first and largest deposit of nickel ore — a strategic war material — in the Far East.

Agriculture Secretary Juan De G. Rodriguez announced the discovery of 29 million metric tons of iron deposits containing 1.38 per cent nickel ore on Nonoc island, off the northeast tip of Mindanao island in the southern Philippines.

Williams Seeks Farm Supports

Asks Direct Subsidies From Federal Coffers to Aid Michigan

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams today recommended direct federal crop subsidies as part of a federal-state program to boost sagging farm income.

* * *

Williams said direct subsidies should be tried out on an "experimental or exploratory basis" in an effort to give farmers a more stable economy.

The Governor made the recommendation after a meeting with members of the State Agriculture Commission, the State Marketing Council and the State Department of Agriculture.

Williams called the meeting to review the group's report on current Michigan farm income and to discuss what can be done to increase it.

The group recommended the state expand its marketing program. The Legislature appropriated more than $374,000 this year to help farmers market their crops.

SEAL OF QUALITY

The farm experts also advocated passage of a "seal of quality plan," whereby farmers can label quality products under state control.

The governor has recommended such a program to the Legislature every year since 1949, but the lawmakers have consistently defeated it.

On a national level, the group recommended:

1. Establishment of strategic reserve levels of stockpiled farm crops.

* * *

2. Removal of all price support regulations so that prices would be governed by the law of supply and demand.

3. Removal from production on a "fair rental basis" enough acreage to keep production at a level that will take care of demand in a free market.

4. Establishment of a self-supporting agricultural insurance plan.

Williams said the group made a survey of "farm labor income" of some 500 farmers over a 26 year period.

* * *

The report revealed, he said, that some farmers have a negative "farm labor income."

"Fram labor income," Williams said, is the amount a farmer has left after deducting costs of operation plus five per cent for interest on land and equipment.

Admit Negro Churches

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Two Negro churches were admitted to the Austin Baptist Assn. last night—first in the history of the Southern Baptist Convention, church leaders said. The action came after Dr. Ed Bratcher of Austin, born and reared in the missionary field, said "it is difficult for a missionary in Africa to explain why their converts cannot attend Southern Baptist churches."

WAITING FOR PONTIACS — 26 haulaway units of the Motorcar Transportation Co. wait in the company's new Joslyn Avenue yard for consignments of 1956 Pontiacs, due to be issued October 21. The 28-acre Joslyn Avenue yard, now in use during the asphalt paving of the company's main yard on Highwood Boulevard, will shortly be the site of a new garage. The paving of the main yard, which was completed during the Pontiac changeover shutdown, cost $25,000 and was designed, company officials said, to protect new Pontiacs awaiting transportation from the dust of an unpaved lot.

Bids for Bond Issue to Be Taken Oct. 24

BERKLEY—Bids for the $750,000 bond issue here will be taken Oct. 24 at 8 p.m. in the Board of Education office in the Berkley High School.

Supt. Milburn Anderson said today that Berkley meets the necessary requirements of the State Department of Public Instruction to borrow the money from the new State Fund Loan Program law.

The money will be used for additions to present school buildings and to build two junior high schools.

Back-to-Beards Craze Worries Razor Crowd

An optimist is a guy who marries his secretary and thinks he'll keep dictating to her.

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"At first," said Bill (The Beard) Johnson, yanking nervously at the spinach patch on his chin, "my face just looked dirty."

The good-looking singer and leading-man who's landed probably the best role of the season—in "Pipe Dream"—was implying that it no longer looks that way. This being a land of free opinion, what could I say? Bill's one of the front-runners in the Back-to-Beards movement which is spreading throughout the land. The safety razor crowd is already trying, as they say, "to put a strop to it."

BILL JOHNSON
... Before and After ...

"How did this thing happen to you?" I asked Bill the Beard.

"Well, with me, it started in 'Kismet' . . . actually before that when I wore a false beard in a play. I got to like it. One reason is, women look at it and think you're very interesting with that beard."

"You're sure that's what they're thinking?" I asked.

"I got proof," he nodded. "Actually this era right now is the only period of our history when men haven't covered their faces with beards."

★ ★ ★ ★

Tyrone Power, Jose Ferrer, Skitch Henderson, Ernest Hemingway, Mitch Miller, Burl Ives and Walter Slezak are among our Big Beards currently.

Face Fuzz is coming back. The Smith Brothers could be having a high old time here now if they weren't dead.

"It doesn't . . . er . . . scratch or anything?" I asked Bill.

"You mean itch? No. My beard's very soft. I trim it myself. There's a special razor, you know, for beard-trimming. You just set it."

"Like a lawn mower?"

★ ★ ★ ★

"You're getting the idea. You see, 'Doc,' the fellow I play, lived around Monterey, Calif., in the John Steinbeck country, and was a ladies' man and was courting a girl who thought he had a weak chin.

"He liked it and kept it on. For anybody who's got a weak chin, these beards are fine."

"Have any women recoiled from your beard?" I asked.

"Not at all. I have a spinster aunty whom I thought would object, but she doesn't. I feel it does something for me."

What it does we will let the womenfolk say. Personally, my problem is, how can I get a crew-cut beard?

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Dick Haymes—wearing a wedding ring and singing romantically—was a real hit opening at La Vie before Eddie and Debbie, Pupi Campo and bride Betty Clooney, and others. The women present felt his love songs were addressed to Rita like Frankie's used to be sung to Ava. He was humble, and when they brought him back for several encores, he said, "Oh, bless you. You're food for the soul."

Frank Sinatra now has a Japanese houseboy . . . Garbo, who just reached 50, tells friends she's "half a century old" . . . Carol Channing, star of the soon-due "The Vamp," wants everyone to know she AIN'T expecting, as rumored.

Renee Taylor, a cafe cigarette girl, has a featured role in the upcoming play, "A Four Letter Word."

RENEE TAYLOR

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Author Eddie Davis was asked if gagwriting paid well. "Sure," he said, "—I have a solid gold ulcer."

Schoolman Resigns

DETROIT (AP) — Arthur Dondineau, 69, has announced his resignation of superintendent of schools in Detroit. He said Tuesday he will quit his $25,000 a year position on July 1. Dondineau has been superintendent since 1945.

To Organize Romeo Square Dance Club

ROMEO—A square dance club is being organized under the direction of the Elementary Schools Club of Romeo.

The first dance will be held Saturday evening, Oct. 15, at 8:30 in the Romeo High School auditorium. The public is invited to attend. Organization of a permanent club will be a part of the evening's program. Couples will have the opportunity of indicating whether or not they wish to attend monthly meetings of the club on a membership basis.

Those who attend the first session may deduct the cost of their ticket from the year's membership fee.

The date for the second club dance in the series is already scheduled for Nov. 26.

Autumn Events Will Finance Scholarship

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—The Waterford branch of the National Farm and Garden Assn. is planning two fall activities to finance its scholarship project.

The group is holding a bake sale Friday, beginning at 10 a.m. at Jacober's Market, corner of Andersonville Rd. and Dixie Hwy. They will also have a rummage sale in November.

The $250 scholarship will be awarded each June to a Waterford Township High School graduate interested in agriculture or allied subjects.

Area Men Map Plans for Farm Bureau Drive

METAMORA — Lapeer County Farm Bureau Membership Committee and area men met with Archie Moore of the State Farm Bureau office recently to map out plans for the annual membership drive to take place in December.

WE BOTH RECEIVED GREAT RESULTS FROM O-JIB-WA BITTERS

"Because this famous medicine helped both of us, we are glad of the opportunity to tell you about it" says Mr. & Mrs. C. S. Cornwell, 241 E. Woodland, Ferndale, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Cornwell

"I have been bothered with arthritis for over 15 years, but never gave in to it. It was in my knees, and they used to squeak like an old boot, sounding like they needed oil. After sitting down, I would have to stand several minutes before attempting to walk, and when I walked, it seemed that one foot just couldn't catch up with the other. I was getting so crippled up that I didn't know what to do. After trying many kinds of medicine for arthritis without help, a friend suggested that I try O-JIB-WA BITTERS. Last May, I had my wife get a bottle, and we both started taking it. She had been bothered with her stomach, gall bladder and nerves for some time. She couldn't sleep very well, and was tired and run down all of the time. We both have great faith in roots and herbs, so we followed the directions closely. I can't say exactly how long it took before I was better, but it wasn't too long. The pain and stiffness just slowly went away. My wife too, hasn't been bothered since, and is so full of pep that she is always going around the house just looking for work. She used to have stomach attacks, but now can eat anything without worrying about harmful effects. I walk so much brisker now and even get down on my knees and work in the garden. We can't say enough for O-JIB-WA BITTERS, because we are so satisfied with what it's doing for us. It's wonderful how one medicine can do so much good when you give it a chance. We believe that it will help you too."

Township Board Hears Appeal

Request Zone Change to Commercial Site in Southfield

Plans to build a medical clinic, restaurant, flower shop and gift shop at 10½ Mile Rd. and Northwestern Hwy. were revealed last night when the Southfield Township Board heard an appeal by Dr. Russell Wright of Detroit to change the zoning at the proposed site from residential to commercial.

The board referred the request to the township's zoning board.

In other business, trustees accepted the resignation of John Grew from the Board of Appeals. Grew offered his resignation because of the pressure of outside business affairs. The board voted to send him a letter of appreciation for the work he has done for the township. Grew's successor will be appointed by the remaining two Appeal Board members.

Trustees also voted vacation pay for the township dog warden, levied a $1.00 charge for copies of police reports, approved the reopening of Pennsylvania drive between Lee Baker street and Southfield road as a private road and officially accepted a plat of Southfield Farms subdivision.

Parking Heads Milford Agenda

Discuss Off-Street Plan in Town Council Meet Monday

MILFORD—Signed petitions to re-zone the Compass Reality's 131 acres of North Milford road were presented to the council at Monday night's meeting.

The company has asked that the plat be zoned commercial so that they may go ahead with a shopping center in conjunction with their home building program. The company told members that they plan to construct the homes first, however.

A detailed discussion regarding the controversial off-street parking problem in Milford, was conducted.

Six representatives from the Chamber of Commerce, headed by Don Breen led the discussion. All agreed that more space than had already been suggested is needed. The council had agreed to buy Chester Arms' old home on Union Street to accommodate 25 cars.

Oakland County State Bank's president, Paul Sinclair assured the council that the bank would finance an off-street parking plan on a ten-year basis if the group comes up with a satisfactory procedure.

The Atlantic Heights subdivision was officially accepted by the council members. The 27-acre plat owned by Jack Hyman is now under development for the construction of 80 new homes along Atlantic street, and heavy equipment is working day and night preparing the rolling hills for suitable home sites.

Water Problem Arises Again

Citizens Protest Water Test Wells in Areas in Farmington

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Farmington water problems again came in for their share of consideration at the regular meeting last night of the Farmington Township Board. Residents of Normandy Hills, Glen Orchard, and Ridgewood Manor Subdivisions presented protests against test wells in their areas.

Robert W. Burton, president of Glen Orchard Assn., urged that the township board reject options in these areas, adopt the proposal of the Thompson-Brown Co. of the township-wide water authority, and seek acreage rather than lots as a site for future wells.

A letter from Lewis and Watkins, Detroit Attornies for Ridgewood Manor residents, protested a proposed option on a site in that subdivision pointing out that in the absence of condemnation, community wells and storage tanks would be unlawful in a highly restricted residential area.

A. G. Leonard, township attorney, pointed out that the object has not yet been exercised, and that until such time as actual test drilling begins, the board need not fear litigation.

A letter presented by Thompson-Brown Co. at a special meeting on Sept. 29 proposing a township-wide water authority was read.

Charles Brown, president of Thompson-Brown, suggested that residents of other subdivisions, which now have water systems be consulted as to their willingness to become a part of such an authority. He pointed out that one individual familiar with the operation of water systems could execute such a program. The board tabled the proposal for further discussion.

The Board acted favorably on Mr. Brown's request that they assume water authority for two of his subdivisions, Old Homestead and Kendalwood, No. Two, upon their completion, Thompson-Brown to assume all costs until a water authority is established.

* * *

The Board adopted a resolution that Judge Arthur E. Moore of Pontiac be obtained to represent the township in preparation and legal work relative to obtaining water.

"This water committee must have legal advice if it is to go on." Ernest V. Blanchard, township supervisor said.

Children 'to Live, Learn, by Doing'

Proud Lake Recreation to Take Care of Sixth Graders

MILFORD—Sixth graders in the Huron Valley school system will have an opportunity to "live and learn" for one week at the new Proud Lake Recreation center on the Wixom road, according to Arthur Burklund, Elementary School co-ordinator.

There are 71 students in the sixth grade, and already 56 parents have indicated their enthusiasm for this "learning by doing" method of teaching.

Hailed by educators and park planners from all over the world as one of the finest camps of its kind, the Proud Lake Camp is situated in the heart of 3,296 acres of state owned wooded hills.

Participants have full use of canoeing facilities, along with their swimming and fishing activities, as the Huron River runs through the center of the camp.

Although this is a new venture for Huron Valley students, other school systems have been participating in the program for two years.

OPERATION COSTS

Land use, soil, fish, game and forestry are taught at the camp and State and County Conservation officers spend one full day instructing students in good conservation practices.

Operation costs for room and board at the camp for the Huron Valley group, will be about $7 per student for a week. This includes the services of an experienced cook, and the pupils assist in the preparation and serving of the food.

Care of their sleeping quarters is entirely up to each individual student, and according to Camp Manager Alfred Masini, professional help is hired to clean up and preserve the property after each group leaves.

Masini explained that although the camp is worth well over $200,000 the Parks Division acquires their grants solely from Legislative appropriations.

Materials for the two dormitories and mess hall were about $53,000 including the equipment. The State Department of Correction supplied the unskilled labor for construction work, consequently the Conservation Department was able to build this fabulous camp for students.

Teresa Kurtz and Kenneth Coe, Elementary School teachers, will be the advisers for the group and will occupy the camp Nov. 28 to Dec. 15.

Freed Jap Prisoner Reveals Jail Practice

TOKYO (AP)—A paroled Japanese war criminal says some others, still serving sentences, walk in and out of Sugamo Prison at will, hold regular outside jobs and return "only to sleep."

* * *

"The prison is like an apartment to them," said former Gen. Sadao Araki, onetime minister of war, in an article in Bungei Shinju, a magazine with 800,000 circulation.

Some stay out for a month at a time, he said.

* * *

The Japanese Foreign Office, in charge of the prisoners, called Araki's account "exaggerated." A spokesman said prisoners are allowed only three days leave at a time and each application is carefully screened.

Laborite Stricken Aboard Ship Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Hector McNeil, 48, a British Labor party leader and former second-ranking official in the British Foreign Office, died yesterday at the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center.

McNeil was stricken with a brain hemorrhage last week while aboard the liner Queen Mary en route to this country. As soon as the ship docked he was taken to the medical center.

From 1946 to 1950 he served as minister of state in Great Britain, a Foreign office post ranking just below that of the foreign secretary, who at that time was Ernest Bevin.

As minister of state, McNeil represented his country in the United Nations from 1946 to 1949. He was recognized as a nimble-witted, effective spokesman for the West in some of the bitterest clashes of the cold war.

McNeil's last trip to the United States was in connection with his recent work as European representative of the Encyclopedia Britanica.

He is survived by his wife and a son.

47 Americans Can Leave China

Reds Reveal Internees Need Only Sign Request to Gain Freedom

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China said today 47 Americans behind the Bamboo Curtain are free to leave any time they apply for departure and said it is examining the cases of 19 other Americans accused of crimes.

The official Peiping radio quoted People's Daily, the official party newspaper, as saying the 47 have not applied for exit permits.

The broadcast said that in accordance with its agreement with the United States at Geneva, Red China "is now examining their cases (the 19) one by one according to Chinese legal procedure and . . . will inform the British charge d'affaires in Peiping of the results."

Under the agreement the British diplomat was selected to act for any American wishing to leave Red China.

Diplomatic officials in London said the charge d'affaires, Con O'Neill, has opened new talks with the Red Chinese regime aimed at speeding release of the 19 Americans.

They said O'Neill has not been allowed to see any of the 19.

The Red Chinese recently released 10 Americans through Hong Kong and two more reportedly left Shanghai today by ship for Japan.

NATO Military Expenses Described as 'Insufficient'

PARIS (AP)—The defense chiefs of the North Atlantic Alliance turned toward home today after hearing stern warnings that Western military spending must go up — not down.

* * *

The defense ministers of the NATO allies opened their three-day conference Monday hopeful that the recent peaceful overtures from Russia might warrant cuts in their appropriations for their armed forces.

They got a shock.

BALANCE TIPPING

NATO's top advisers warned the ministers cuts in their defense spending were unthinkable in the face of the Soviet Union's still growing military might.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, the supreme Allied commander in Europe, told the ministers the free world could win a war if it started now, but he warned that the balance of power is tipping slowly toward the Communists.

* * *

He emphasized, however, that he does not believe the Russians want war. He said he didn't think they'd start one as long as the West provides a strong deterrent.

Gruenther said the West still has the edge in nuclear weapons but warned the advantage is growing less every day because Russia's technical advances previously were underrated. If the West remains strong and united, he declared, the Russian challenge can be met.

With prices soaring and the Soviets promoting a lull in the cold war, NATO's military planners told the ministers they must weed out all but the essentials in their defense programs.

The experts emphasized repeatedly that Europe's big problem is a strong air defense, with an adequate warning system against a surprise Red attack armed with nuclear weapons.

Ex-Mental Patient Kills Law Officer

ASHDOWN, Ark. (AP)—Prosecutor R. Corker Thomas, 40, was shot to death in front of the little River County Jail here last night, and a former mental patient whom Thomas was sending to jail was arrested on an open charge.

Sheriff Aubrey Thrash said a murder charge would be filed against 67-year-old Spence Furlow, who lived alone on a small farm three miles outside this small southwest Arkansas town.

Thomas was shot in the heart with a .22-caliber revolver.

Thrash said Furlow fired two other shots into a group of men standing nearby, but no one else was injured.

The sheriff said Furlow was committed to the state hospital for the mentally ill at Little Rock from 1936 to 1940.

Thomas had ordered Furlow jailed on grounds that he had with a shotgun. The sheriff said that when he took Furlow's arm to lead him to jail, Furlow pulled a pistol and fired at the prosecutor.

MEET YOUR PRESIDENT—3
Peacetime Soldier

During World War I Dwight Eisenhower commanded a tank training battalion in this country. Ike was anxious to fight overseas but his orders for embarkation were canceled when the Armistice was signed.

Advancement was slow in peacetime but the generals had an eye on Ike. In 1933 he became an assistant to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the Chief of Staff. Two years later he went to the Philippines with Gen. MacArthur, remained there four years, helped plan the defense of the islands and won a reputation for tact and diplomacy. The picture shows Eisenhower as a major in the Philippines.

When Ike returned to the States in 1940 he was anxious to lead troops. He got his chance late in 1941 and gained attention by winning the Louisiana peacetime maneuvers.

In coloring this picture it will help you to know that the uniform shown was Army dress white. The seal is the emblem worn on Army officers' caps.

THE STRANGE ADVENTURE OF TWO RECKLESS MEN!

Girl Killed in Fall From Ferris Wheel

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A high school girl was plunged to her death here yesterday at the State Fair of Texas when a pivot on a 90-foot high Ferris wheel broke and dropped her seat to the ground.

Cynthia Combest, 17, a member of the Memphis, Tex., high school band, was dead on arrival at Baylor Hospital. Two companions in the seat with her—Kay Leslie, 15, and Barbara Allen, 14—were critically injured.

* * *

Thousands of fair-goers gasped in horror or screamed as they saw the girls, dressed in their band uniforms, fall. Two other youngsters received minor injuries when they were struck by the falling seat.

"They just fell on me and knocked a gash in my head; they fell right through to the bottom," sobbed Mollie Balfour, 13, Winnona, Tex. Bobbie Winchester, 13, Irving, Tex., also was hit by the seat.

It was the first trip for the Memphis band to the state fair.

Air Force Likes Navy Sea Plane

'Seamaster' Jet Bomber as Tactical Weapon Excites Military

WASHINGTON (AP)—Air Force interest in the Navy's new jet seaplane bomber has advanced to the point where it is considering an initial purchase of four or five of the big, fast flying boats for study purposes.

* * *

A recommendation for the purchase was reported today to have been made, probably to the Air Force Council. The council is composed of high-ranking civilian and military officials who consider aircraft requirements, designs, budgetary needs and other factors.

NAVY FIRST

The Navy, for which the Glenn L. Martin Co. produced the experimental model of the Seamaster, presumably will have priority on delivery of production models.

However, there have been indications that the Air Force wants to start trying out the Seamaster now, in its present jet-powered version, without waiting several years for the advent of atomic engines for airplanes.

* * *

The Seamaster is rated at a speed of about 600 miles per hour, putting it into the class of the Air Force's own medium and heavy jet powered bombers.

* * *

Tactically, airmen consider a primary advantage for the seabased bomber could be dispersal—getting bombers away from dependence on oversea airfields which are within striking distance of Red planes. It also would make possible air strikes from directions not predictable by an enemy.

Hitchcock Contract Pays Compliment to Vera Miles

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — What a compliment to blond, fast-zooming Vera Miles that she is the first actress ever to be put under personal contract by Alfred Hitchcock.

Hitchy, the mystery-maker, has been exposed to some mighty fine new talent, including Grace Kelly in three pictures, "Dial M for Murder," "Rear Window" and "To Catch a Thief."

When he says he believes Vera can be groomed into a potent star it isn't just idle chatter. Not when he puts his own money down to back up his judgment.

Vera is one of the lucky newcomers who have had the benefit of TV as a showcase for their talents. She has been in top TV shows as well as in such films as "The Searchers" with John Wayne and "The Way We Are" with Joan Crawford.

The Hitchcock contract starts Jan. 1 shared by C. V. Whitney who has a three-film deal with Vera.

ROD WANTED

Seeing Rod Steiger on the Columbia lot was evidence that he had business with this company. True, he's wanted for the second male lead in "The Harder They Fall," the Humphrey Bogart picture.

Rod will play a meanie — a promoter who is as wicked as they come — and that's where Steiger shines. I had heard that for a change of pace he was going to play a straight lead at Columbia, but I was told this isn't the case. He won't step out of character.

He was nominated last year for his performance in "On the Waterfront" and wait until you see him as Judd in "Oklahoma!"

ZANY ACCIDENT

Snaps: The craziest accident of the week happened when Tom Brown's mother, Marie, looked out of the window and saw her car burst into flames. A "short" was given as the reason. Fortunately she has insurance.

Oscar Hammerstein II writes that Dick Rodgers is so improved that he's now rehearsing his show. This is good news to Dick's many friends.

Saban Likes Team's Chances Against Michigan

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Northwestern football Coach Lou Saban, a young man who places a lot of emphasis on psychology, has the unenviable job of sending his winless Wildcats against Michigan Saturday.

* * *

But Saban likes his chances against the nation's No. 1 team and in the Big Ten where the by-word is "Any team can beat any other team on any given Saturday" Northwestern has a chance, slight as it may be.

* * *

Someone mentioned it might be better if Northwestern fails to show up for the Michigan game but the 33-year-old coach only smiled and said "We couldn't meet them at a better time, psychologically."

"I understand their great end Ron Kramer will not play because of injuries and fullback Lou Baldacci also is having troubles. If that's true, then this is the week to play Michigan," he continued.

"We're going up there (Ann Arbor) with the idea we can win. They're rated the best in the country so we'll just have to play our best. And remember, Michigan could suffer a letdown after its 'must' win over Army. Our kids are up for this one and their morale is good."

* * *

This isn't the first time Saban has been optimistic. Following an opening day loss to Miami of Ohio, he promised his boys would make a better showing against Tulane.

They didn't, losing to Tulane 21-0. Last week Saban almost—but not quite, predicted a victory over Minnesota. The Gophers won 18-7.

Nevertheless, Saban says: "We are improving and looking over the situation we can beat Michigan."

* * *

It may be ancient history but the freshman coach can take some heart from records of yesteryear when there were some big upsets.

There was 1916 when Ring Lardner, then writing for a Chicago newspaper, advised a Bob Zuppke-coached Illinois team "to stay in Chicago, go to a show, and have a good time" instead of invading Minnesota.

* * *

The Gophers had won 5 straight and had scored 48 or more points in each game. Illinois, having lost two games, beat Minnesota 14-9.

Nine years later, under Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite, a Northwestern team which finished the season with five victories in eight games, upset Michigan's unbeaten, unscored upon Wolverines 3-2. Those were the only points scored against Michigan in 1925.

Aside from such history, Northwestern has in its favor the fact that the Wildcats usually play their best against Michigan. Northwestern lost to Michigan, 7-0, last year when Michigan turned one of many NU fumbles into a touchdown.

If Saban is trying to tear a page from the Zuppke-Stagg book, now is the time.

Dufek Remembers Wildcats

ANN ARBOR (AP)—One man on the Michigan coaching staff knows the danger that lies in calling luckless Northwestern a Big Ten weak sister.

He's Don Dufek, once a hard-driving Michigan fullback. Now he's an assistant backfield coach. His job was to scout Saturday's opponent, Northwestern, for their 1st three games—all losses.

"I think that 1st loss, 25-14, to Miami of Ohio, threw them," Dufek said. "They were expecting to win that one, but Miami really surprised them."

"Of course Miami is no cinch for that matter," Dufek added. "They could give a lot of bigger teams a lot of trouble."

Northwestern isn't as bad as the record shows, according to Dufek. He remembers another Northwestern team in 1949.

Dufek that year was a junior on a Michigan squad that was slammed down hard by Army, 21-7, and then by supposedly weak sister Northwestern team the following weekend.

Northwestern added insult to injury with a dramatic last-minute 21-20 victory over tired and overconfident Michigan.

The unexpected Northwestern loss forced Michigan to fight for a season-ending conference championship tie with Ohio State—and made the Wolverines wait for a Rose Bowl trip until the next year.

This year, of course, it's different. Michigan beat Army for the 1st time, 26-2, Saturday. This Saturday it will meet Northwestern again.

Despite the fact that the Wildcats have fallen to Miami, Tulane (21-0), and Minnesota (18-7), Dufek says they've been steadily improving.

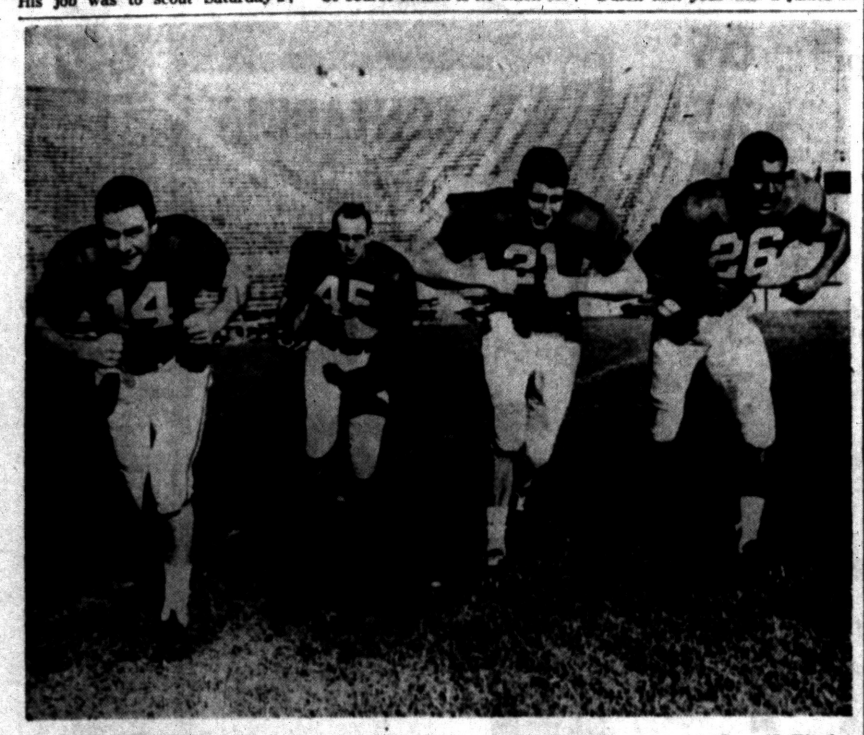

"Especially their passing," he said. "Their first quarterback, Dale Pienta, isn't as good a passer as Jack Ellis, the 2nd man, but he's a better man over-all."

Both Pienta and Ellis like to throw to end Jack Stillwell, but sometimes they aim for their halfbacks Jim Troglio and Jerry Weber and fullback John Foster.

* * *

So far as weaknesses go, Dufek concluded, Northwestern has the kind that Michigan likes. They've fumbled 14 times this season, piled up 245 yards in penalties and had 8 of 42 passes intercepted.

That's how Michigan scores.

Trabert Faces Strenuous New Tennis Career

'55 Wimbledon Champ Signs 16-Month Tour With Jack Kramer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Top tennis player Tony Trabert today faced a new and strenuous career on the courts of the world and a chance to earn $100,000 as a newly turned professional.

The strapping 25-year-old star from Cincinnati, the 1955 Wimbledon and United States Amateur champion, formally signed a 16-month contract to play for and against Promoter Jack Kramer.

Today both the veteran Kramer and Trabert sat back to await word from two other prospective members of the tour, Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad of Australian Davis Cup fame.

Kramer said the two young Aussies have until Oct. 17 to make up their minds about quitting the amateur ranks. He said he believes they will accept his terms, a reported $50,000 apiece.

Kramer admitted that Trabert's contract was better than the $75,000 he guaranted Frank Sedgman of Australia several years ago, and he said that if all goes well, Tony should gross $100,000 for the 200 matches he faces.

Kramer also revealed that Trabert's contract has two clauses, one contingent on a two-man tour with himself, and the other and better one based on the presence of the two young Aussies. Kramer, 34, may be in for rough competition.

In Manila, Hoad acknowledged Kramer had offered him about $50,000 but that he wouldn't make a decision until he returned to Australia later this week. Rosewall said he would not decide until he talked to his parents.

Signing ceremonies yesterday were held at the Los Angeles Tennis Club, citadel of amateur tennis here. Was this unusual? Big Jack smiled and replied:

"Not at all. I am a member in good standing here and we enjoy friendly relations, the professionals and the club."

Trabert, guided by his attorney brother, J. Marc Trabert of Cincinnati, in the contract negotiations, said he had deliberated long in reaching his decision to turn pro.

Lincoln Juniors Down Jefferson

Iverson Paces 21-20 Win Over Warrior 11 in Junior Hi Tiff

Lincoln's Railsplitters, led by left halfback Mike Iverson, rolled to a 21-12 victory over Jefferson in a Pontiac Junior High League football game Tuesday afternoon at Wisner Stadium. It was the season opener for Lincoln.

Iverson scored two touchdowns and ran for three conversions. He tallied the 1st touchdown in the 1st quarter on a run of 10 yards and chalked up the 2nd TD in the 2nd period on a seven-yard dash. Both scoring plays ended sustained drives.

Larry Sherwood's Lincoln team scored its last touchdown just before halftime when fullback Derris Nichols intercepted a pass and raced 55 yards to paydirt.

* * *

Larry Douglas accounted for both Jefferson touchdowns in identical fashion. In the 1st and 3rd quarters the Warrior halfback swept left end for scoring gallops of 65 yards each. Yesterday's defeat was Jefferson's 2nd of the season.

Irish-Spartan Battle Big One, Daugherty Says

Duffy Seems Prepared for Terry's Unbeaten Notre Dame Team

EAST LANSING (AP)—"The biggest assignment we've had to date," said Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty.

Duffy was talking, of course, about Saturday's meeting at Macklin Stadium with unbeaten and unscored-upon Notre Dame.

"Everything—the scouting reports, the perfect defense, the high morale they have—tells us this is a very, very good Notre Dame team," Daugherty said.

Duffy was asked how he is going about preparing for an outfit like Notre Dame.

"We're not going to try to whip the kids up for it," he said. "It's not necessary. I think they'll get themselves up. And we can't afford to point for just one with Illinois and Wisconsin coming up next."

On the practice field, a lot of the stress was on defense.

"I think the squad has improved with every game," Daugherty commented. "You have to improve or you go downhill. But we'll have to improve an awful lot defensively this week."

End coach Bob Devaney, who scouted Notre Dame against Miami, had an added comment.

"The 1st couple of games," he said, "we thought they weren't as good as last year. Now we're convinced they are every bit as good. But if we're at our best—we'll make it interesting."

Sophomore Dave Kaiser, end, from Alpena, now is a probable starter against his old school.

Kaiser spent a year at Notre Dame before he transferred to Michigan State to work under Devaney — his former high school coach.

"Terry Brennan (Irish coach) sent him over to help us out," quipped Daugherty.

Kaiser played full back at Notre Dame. The Irish were thinking of making a guard out of him but Devaney thought he had better possibilities as an end.

Kaiser played most of the game against Stanford because Jim Hinesly of Detroit, starter at the spot, went out early with an injury. He caught a pass that made the longest gain in the 1st MSU touchdown drive and also showed some fine defensive work.

Crack Milers, Santee, Dwyer Meet in Race

Garden Plans to Have Ice Skating Stars to Start Fund Drive

NEW YORK (AP)—Wes Santee, former Kansas miler and America's leader of the unsuccessful assault on the four-minute mile, and Fred Dwyer, will continue their indoor rivalry in the Olympic Carnival Invitation Mile Oct. 20 at Madison Square Garden.

Along with Santee and Dwyer in the mile event will be Billy Tidwell of Emporia Teachers, Air Force Lt. Len Truex from Ohio State, Joe LaPierre, ex-Georgetown star of the Army and Horace Ashenfelter, 1952 Olympic steeplechase winner.

In addition to track races of 440, 880, mile relay and a four-lap relay for women, Hayes Alan Jenkins and Tenley Albright, the world's figure skating champions will perform in their specialities. There will be exhibitions in gymnastics, weightlifting, fencing and wrestling.

The meet will mark the opening of the Olympic Fund drive.

Stevens Point Quarterback Ambidextrous

Ex-End Ken Roloff Performs Key Role On Unbeaten Team

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (AP) — Stevens Point State College has an ambidextrous quarterback who throws pitchouts with either hand, but that's only part of the story of the amazing Ken Roloff.

Until two weeks ago the 21-year-old senior from Kaukauna, Wis., played end. He played the flanker position so well last year he gained honorable mention on The Associated Press' Little All-America football team. His accomplishments included 27 catches good for nearly 500 yards.

In two appearances as a converted quarterback Roloff had a major role in keeping the Pointers' undefeated record intact at four games.

The 6-1, 195-pound Roloff completed 5 of 6 passes for 59 yards and one touchdown against Superior in a 25-6 win and 8 of 10 for 125 yards in helping to beat Milwaukee 37-25. He had only one throw intercepted.

Hopes to Beat Record

Campbell's Hydroplane Undergoes Examination

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Britisher Donald Campbell today planned to inspect the "Bluebird II," the hydroplane in which he hopes to better this weekend the water record of 202.34 miles an hour he set last summer.

Campbell, 34, who arrived by air last night, said he probably will make his first trial runs on the 7-mile Lake Mead course Thursday. If all goes well he will shoot for the record Sunday.

Campbell branded as a "newspaperman's myth" the description of the "water barrier." Campbell said there is no truth in the report that at speeds in excess of 200 miles an hour a boat is pounded apart before it can resume level motion.

Campbell, son of the late water and land speeder Sir Malcolm Campbell, said he ought to know since he's been through the so-called "water barrier." However, Campbell declined to describe his sensations at speeds over 200 m.p.h.

While he has never tested Lake Mead, Campbell said he expects the seven-mile course to be superior to the Ullswater, England, stretch, where he set the record. Lake Mead is smoother and wider, Campbell said.

Campbell said during the record run he'll be completely strapped in the enclosed cockpit of the Bluebird's aluminum body. He will wear a face mask with an independent oxygen supply. Inside the mask is a radio transmitter by which Campbell can describe the ride.

The Bluebird is equipped with a nylon parachute brake but Campbell says he hasn't had to use it yet. He hopes he won't have to on the record run Sunday.

Campbell said he had received a challenge from Joseph Schoenith of Detroit for a $50,000 winner-take-all match race between the Bluebird and Schoenith's Gale V, winner of the Gold Cup. The Britisher indicated he would reject the offer for a 30-mile race over any 3-mile course.

Crucial Contest!

Title Implications Carried in W-O Collision at Clarkston on Friday

By GEORGE TRUMBULL JR.

Although the Wayne-Oakland League schedule is only reaching midpoint this week, there is a feeling out at Clarkston and Clarenceville that Friday night's battle between the two undefeated prep elevens looms as the big one that might well decide the loop crown at this early date.

Defending champion Clarkston holds a slight grip on the top rung of the W-O ladder with one more league win than 2nd-running Clarenceville.

Clarenceville coach Nick Ianni will send his charges to the 8 p. m. kickoff boasting a perfect 4-0 record. They will have their hands full stopping a three-deep running attack of Clarkston's George Lang, Clyde Kiser and David Swayne running from a balanced T formation.

Clarkston will be playing before a homecoming crowd Friday and will attempt to overcome the Trojan's superior size, speed and experience.

Coach Hintz will stand pat on his regular lineup but was forced to place Fred Vess in Tom Shedlowski's guard position. Shedlowski will probably be lost for the remainder of the season.

Remembering Clarkston's 13-12 win over them last season, Trojans will be counting heavily on the running of their number one back, Bob Soop, to draw a different picture this year. Ianni was guarding against overconfidence.

In other W-O league action, West Bloomfield relies on a tinge of confidence after breaking into the scoring column last week, and its new monicker of Lakers as the team hosts Brighton Bulldogs. Lakers are still seeking their 1st win while Brighton boasts a 1-1 mark.

Milford will entertain Holly at Dad's night and hope for its initial loop win. In an inter-sectional match, Northville will tackle a strong undefeated Centerline eleven of the Bi-County League.

Tigers Sell Buffalo Team Franchise for $75,000

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A group of businessmen has come through with a $70,000 loan to save the day for the International Baseball League's Buffalo Bisons.

It was the loan, plus agreement from the Detroit Tigers to sell its local franchise for half the original asking price, that assured continued operation of triple-A baseball here next season.

The developments were announced yesterday as the deadline for raising the $150,000 franchise price through a public stock sale came and passed.

The Tigers agreed to sell the franchise for $75,000—the approximate amount raised by the stock sale—to a "Citizens' Company" headed by John Stiglmeier and Harry Bisgeir. The $70,000 loan will be used to finance team operations through next season.

Wade Stevenson, local industrialist and chairman of an informal committee of businessmen that raised the loan money, emphasized that the men who put up the money will not become owners of the baseball club.

The Tigers acquired the Buffalo franchise two years ago. The sale includes the contracts of a nucleus of players, the club equipment, and the additional help of three or four optioned players from Detroit next season.

PHS Harriers Still Rolling; Take 36th Straight Match

Looks like there's no stopping those fast-stepping Pontiac High School cross-country runners.

Tuesday afternoon, under perfect weather conditions, the Chiefs simply ran Flint Central's dogged runners into the ground of the two-mile long Beaudette Park course. Count was 16-45 (lowest total wins). Victory was No. 36 in the school's remarkable unbroken winning string.

However, the Indians had three runners in the top 10, in 5th, 8th and 9th positions.

Again, for the 3rd time this season, state prep half mile champion Bill Douglas, and running mate Perry Williams, finished in a tie for first place. They clipped 10 seconds off last week's time, with a 10:50 performance.

That 10:50 was extremely fast, when all the facts of the race are known.

At the start of the 2nd mile Williams slipped and fell. Douglas, running beside him, was thrown on Williams. Th youngsters got to their feet quickly, unhurt, and set sail to make up the brief loss of time. They finished 100 yards in front of the next runner, Gene Cretal of PHS.

Order of finish for the varsity meet:

Douglas and Williams; 3rd, Gene Cretal; 4th, Rod Treais; 5th, Larry Tilley of Central; 6th, Pete Cox; 7th, Don Evans; 8th, Ben Anderson, Central; 9th, Carl Liepmann, Central, and 10th, Alex Barge.

Pontiac Jayvees compiled a 17-38 win over Indian's juniors, with Hastings Martin of PHS 1st at 11:54, and three other PHS runners in the next three places. Martin, a sophomore, earned a place on the varsity by his performance, and will run against Flint Northern in his 1st varsity trial, here on Friday.

Top finishers for PHS were, besides Martin; 2nd, Jim Goode; 3rd, Harvey Hessell; 4th, Dick Johnson, and 5th, Ken Catlin, Central.

George LaBrasseur, Indians' coach, tabbed Pontiac as probable winner of the Saginaw Valley meet at Flint, next week. But LaBrasseur added that Arthur Hill can give the Chiefs a very difficult time, with three good men, headed by Don Brown. Brown has hit 10:40 for the 2-mile once this season, at Flint. Pontiac's depth, however, could be the deciding factor.

Flo Sets Mark in Channel Bid

Lops Off 11 Minutes to Establish 13:55 as New Record

CALAIS, France, (AP)—Florence Chadwick, the San Diego, Calif., long distance swimming star, set a record of 13 hours, 55 minutes in her England-to-France swim across the English Channel which ended early today.

Mrs. K. V. Lowe, an official observer who timed the swim, said this lopped 11 minutes off the previous east-bound mark set earlier this year by England's Bill Pickering.

The 35-year-old Miss Chadwick, who had swum the Channel both ways in previous seasons, had hoped to make a non-stop round-trip this time, but gave up because of the cold water.

"I realized it was far too cold for me ever to make it back to Dover, so I decided to settle for a new record," she told reporters.

Hefty Business!

PHS Seeks Funds for Weight-Lifting Sport; World's Champion Will Assist

By H. GUY MOATS

A new activity may soon be added to the general physical educational work at Pontiac High School.

The boys are going in for weight-lifting, that hefty business where they attempt to manhandle big bar-bells weighing all the way up to 400 pounds.

Just now efforts are being made to raise funds with which to purchase equipment. It takes quite a bit of cash for these devices, but it is hoped that the necessary money can be raised.

In order to show what the proposed activity involves, an exhibition will be held in the boys' gymnasium Monday, Oct. 20 at 8 p. m.

Spotlighting the event will be a demonstration by the current world and Olympic heavyweight champion, Norbert Schemansky of Detroit.

Al Thomas, former member of the public school's physical education staff will be master of ceremonies. Al now operates a health business here.

Like Art Van Ryzin, head basketball coach at PHS, who is helping arrange the exhibition, says:

"This is something new here. But it is not new in its application as a physical education activity elsewhere. We hope to get enough money to buy equipment so that the work can be started soon. It all depends, of course, on the reception the activity received at the hands of the students. In similar fashion other activities may be adopted, if there is sufficient demand for them."

"There are some problems, too. Biggest one is to find the necessary room in which to conduct the operations."

Trouble Brewing in Canadian Pro Football—Calgary Suspects Informant, Players Fined

CALGARY (AP) — Trouble rocked Canadian pro football today—the Calgary Stampeders are sure they lost a game because a player tipped off the opposition, and the Ottawa Rough Riders are shaking up their roster after fining 20 players $200 each for sub-par performances.

The Stampeders, who yesterday fired guard Dean Bandiera after accusing him of revealing their plays to the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, were reported considering a request to Western Interprovincial Football Union (WIFU) officials for a replay of last Saturday's game. The Bombers won it 13-12.

If the request is made and approved the action would be unprecedented in Canadian football.

It seemed unlikely such a request would be honored, however. League President Jack Rowand already has commented he didn't "think it really mattered much because Winnipeg probably already knew the Calgary plays anyway."

Bandiera denied the charge. "I'm innocent of everything they accuse me of," he said. "Just because I happen to be friendly with a certain player on the Winnipeg team, they accuse me of divulging plays.

"I talked to a group of Winnipeg players before our own club meeting . . . my wife and child were with me at the time and our conversation was carried on in front of the proprietor of the haberdashery shop we were in."

There was no comment from the Winnipeg club owners or players on the matter.

The Ottawa players were fined $100 for each of the last two games. The club announcement said the fines were imposed "for failure to exhibit the caliber of football of which the players are capable."

The announcement added "immediate steps are being taken to secure replacements in an endeavor to strengthen the team."

The Big Four club did not identify the players or reveal how many American imports were involved.

The Rough Riders were whipped 35-7 and 43-6 in two weekend games with Montreal. The team record is 2-6 this season.

The fines followed a three-hour meeting between club officials and Head Coach Chan Caldwell, who came to the Rough Riders from the University of Tennessee. Last week, Backfield Coach John Idzik, who accompanied Caldwell from Tennessee, was released on the grounds that he did not get along with the head coach.

Earlier this season, Toronto, another Big Four club, fined its imports $100 and its Canadian players $50 for poor play.

Another Rough Test Ahead for Chiefs

By H. GUY MOATS

There's little time for breathers in the rough and tough Saginaw Valley Conference title race. In this league, rated one of the country's hottest prep football rivalries, every week's a knock-down, drag-out battle. And, like the Big 10 Midwest collegiate conference, any one team can beat any other team on any given day.

Chiefs ran into a long, and sharp-clawed Bay City Wolf outfit last weekend. Friday night they face another tough one. Playing at Flint Central (in Atwood Stadium) Pontiac will oppose a team that has won three, lost one this fall.

Wolves dumped Chiefs by an unexpectedly big count, 33-7. Central, in its 1st Valley test against Arthur Hill, also was a loser, 26-14.

Coach Ed Graybiel, who has given the Chiefs a couple days of hard, down to earth workouts, pointed out today that Central carried a lot of power, has good running and passing games. Big Charley Thrash, dash man, at halfback has speed, heft and ability. Willie Williams, speedy and tricky runner is at the other half and Bill Ringer, junior quarterback, head the aerial game.

With the versatile Thrasher, the Indians can hit anywhere. That means Chiefs will have to set up a balanced defense, if they stop the Tribe.

Pontiac's coaches worked on both offense and defense, Monday and Tuesday, with a lot of stiff scrimmaging thrown in.

Graybiel will make no personnel changes, but plans to do a bit of shifting about, to strengthen some weak spots. Among these is the assignment of Bruce Baker as one linebacker, to work opposite big Bick Kors, who did a fine job at Bay City.

Chiefs came out of Friday's tough tilt without any injuries. Every squadman will be ready to go, Friday night.

Eight to Go to Wire in Lansing Pace Derby

JACKSON (AP) — The maximum eight starters will go to the wire tonight for the running of the Lansing Pace, feature race at Jackson Raceway.

Six of the entries, Gallant Jerry, Gosome, Scotland's Mazzy(Dust Dispatch, Rudy Brooke and Leta Lee, all have won at the current meeting. The others are Red Surprise and Pastime Judy.

Flowing Bunter Volo, driven by Earl Carriveau, won last night's opening race, paying $12.60 straight, and Dr. Pat captured the second, returning $23.80, $8.80 and $4.80. The two combined for a daily double payoff of $206.40.

Brundage Fears Olympic Games Implications

Committee Prexy Says Individuals Important, Not Nations

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Who is going to win the 1956 Olympic games at Melbourne, the United States or Russia?

American sports fans find that question a good topic for spirited debate. But members of the International Olympic Committee find it a fearsome thing, a danger to their cherished ideals of Olympic competition.

Today, with physical arrangements for the Melbourne games nearing completion, the men behind the Olympics are turning their attention more and more to the fierce nationalism that spawns the question and keeps it alive.

"The Olympic games are contests between individuals," President Avery Brundage of the International Committee said today. "They are not—and they must not become—contests between nations to decide the superiority of one nation over another, or of one political system over another."

Brundage and Lewis Luxton, chairman of the Organizing Committee for next year's games, pleaded with newsmen to do what they could to abolish—or at least minimize—the use of any unofficial point system to determine the leading teams in Olympic competition.

Luxton said point systems were ridiculous. "How," he asked, "can you balance a gold medal won by tiny Luxembourg against a gold medal won by the United States? How can you balance a gold medal won in the marathon against a gold medal for being a member of the championship gymnastics team?"

Luxton said everything possible was being done in Australia to give what he called "true meaning" to the Olympics. There will be just one Olympic village, and competitors from both sides of the Iron Curtain will be encouraged to mix freely.

Brundage said the International Committe was crossing national and political lines wherever it could. Both Red China and Nationalist China have been invited to compete. East and West Germany were persuaded to combine their teams and enter as one nation. Even those nations which do not have diplomatic relations with Australia will be welcomed to the games.

White Sox Get 4 Hurlers in Buildup Hopes

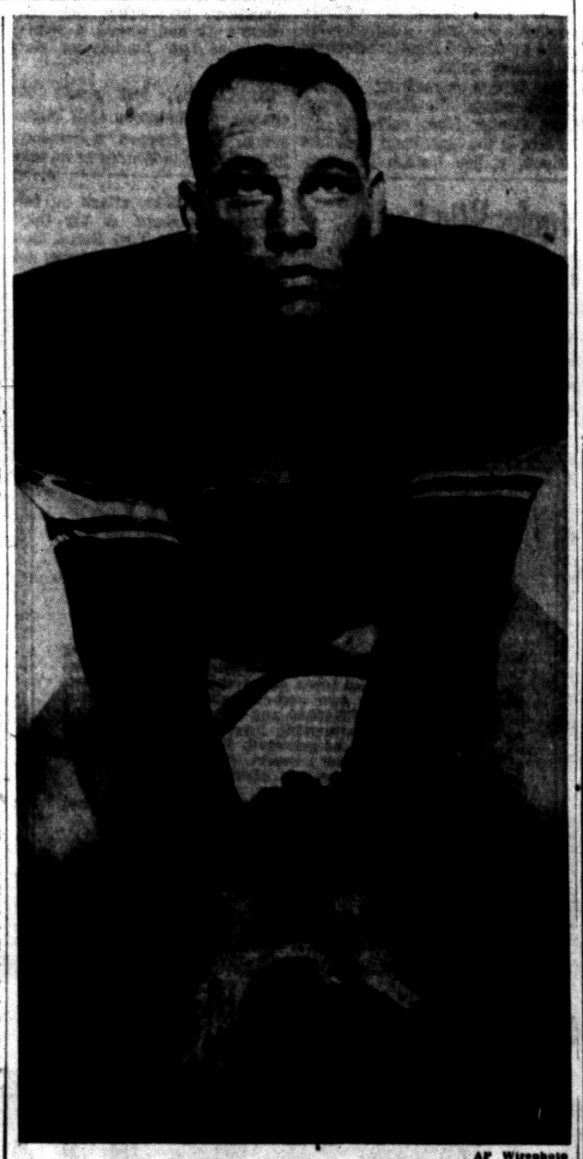

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox took their first step toward rebuilding for 1956 with a five-player deal with Memphis of the Southern Assn.

It was the first White Sox player transaction since Frank Lane quit as Sox general manager.

Vice President Chuck Comiskey announced the Sox had sent southpaw Bob Cain and an undisclosed sum of cash to Memphis for four right-handed pitchers..

They are Joe Dahlke, 25, who posted a 19-5 record working mostly in relief; Bill Dufor, also 25, with an 11-9 mark; Paul Stuffel, a 27-year-old with a 12-3 record; and Russ Heman who had an 8-8 record while on option to Waterloo of the Class B Three-I League.

Cain, a former major leaguer, had been assigned to Memphis by the Sox last season.

Wichita Back Sets MVC Pace

Klisanin Leads Loop in Rushing Average With 226 Yards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Wichita's Jim Klisanin, who walked onto the campus as a guard who thought he should be a halfback is one Missouri Valley football veteran who's playing up to his last year's reputation.

Klisanin, a McKeesport, Pa., junior they call the "Little Bear," because of his portly appearance, leads the Valley in rushing yardage with 226 and his 6.6-yard average per play is one of the best.

Teammate Jack Conway, Oklahoma A&M fullback Earl Lunsford and Leroy Hinman, another Wichita back, are well off the pace in defending their 1955 Valley statistical crowns in passing, rushing and punting.

But Klisanin is just picking up where he left off. He led the Wheatshockers in rushing and yards-per-play last season.

The 1955 Suburban Catholic League football championship could be decided Sunday afternoon at Orchard Lake.

St. Mary's high-flying Eaglets and a rugged St. Clement team from Center Line, currently co-leaders of the eight-team parochial ciricuit, collide headon this Sunday at 2:30 p.m., with the winner virtually assured of an uninhibited path to the title.

Rev. John Rakoczy's undefeated Eaglets have racked up impressive Suburban loop victories over St. James (25-7), St. Michael (25-0), and St. Rita (31-6). Paced by a veteran backfield, the high-scoring St. Mary's 11 has scored a minimum of four touchdowns per game.

St. Clement, last year's co-champ, is unbeaten in league action, but dropped a non-loop 26-20 decisoin to Warren in its season opener. Since that time the Clements have rolled to three SCL wins—Royal Oak St. Mary (31-0), St. Benedict (26-7), and St. Michael (7-0).

On the basis of comparative scores against the Shamrocks, their lone mutual opponent, Eaglets rate the nod to down Dick Daledine and Company.

Both squads boast strong attacks, especially in the rushing department, and appear about even defensively.

St. Michael, which slipped to 5th place after last Sunday's loss to the Clements, takes on St. Mary of Royal Oak in an SCL clash Friday night at Wisner Stadium. The Mikes will be favored to get back on the winning trail against the Royal Oak club.

Gene Wright's St. Frederick Rams, winless in their last 20 games, face St. Rita in a Suburban loop test Sunday afternoon at Hazel Park. Graduation-ridden St. Rita, 1954 co-champion, is without a victory this season in three starts.

Sunday's remaining SCL encounter sends Ferndale St. James against St. Benedict of Highland Park in a battle for 2nd place at Ferndale.

Yanks Win Easily in Goodwill Game

HONOLULU (AP)—The New York Yankees opened their Pacific goodwill tour with an easy 12-1 victory over the Hawaii Red Sox last night.

Irv Noren slammed two home runs in the 20-hit attack on two Hawaiian pitchers. A big third inning in which Yogi Berra, Bob Cerv and Noren hit home runs got the Yankees off to a flying start.

Yankee pitching was shaky throughout, giving up seven walks.

Bosox Cut Cash Into 37 Shares

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox voted to divide their fourth-place World Series money of $18,446.34 into 37 full shares of $472.98 and four half shares of $236.52.

Full shares went to Manager Mike Higgins, five coaches, the club trainer, secretary, equipment manager, clubhouse attendant, and players with the team most of the season.

One of the full shares voted went to the Harry Agganis Fund. Agganis, a young first baseman from Lynn, died unexpectedly during the season.

The half shares were voted to pitcher Frank Baumann, bonus catcher Jim Pagliarone, the bat boy and the Fenway Park grounds keeper.

OWN EQUIPMENT—Make it a point to be outfitted as soon as possible with your own ball, shoes, and bag. It's a good investment—in fun and scoring. In previous articles I have emphasized the importance of fitting the ball perfectly, and that just can't be done consistently with this, that, and the other ball picked from racks. Your own shoes insure better footwork.

Always be certain the soles of your shoes are dry, and test the alley runways by taking a few practice slides. If the runway surfaces are sticky, steel wool will clean them. Sticky substances also frequently get into the finger-holes. These could cause friction and blisters. It's a sound precaution to clean the holes before each bowling series.

Sooner Center Top Lineman

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jerry Tubbs, center on Oklahoma's unbeaten football team, was selected today as The Associated Press Lineman of the Week by a narrow margin over Pat Bisceglia, Notre Dame guard.

Tubbs used his 205 pounds to good advantage in helping the Sooners extend their winning streak to 22 games by whipping Texas 20-0. He almost single-handedly broke up Texas' aerial game by intercepting three passes. One set up a Sooner score, the others cut short Texas threats.

A slashing linebacker, the 20-year-old junior from Breckenridge, Tex., was credited with 20 jarring tackles. At one time he made four in a row.

"Tubbs played well for us Saturday against Texas," said Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma head coach, in an obvious understatement.

Terry Brennan, Notre Dame coach, did not hesitate to praise his 190-pound senior Bisceglia, runner-up in the votes cast by sportswriters and broadcasters.

"Bisceglia deserves being Lineman of the Week," said Brennan after the Irish had beaten Miami 14-0 Friday night.

As linebacker on defense the Wooster, Mass., lad made 11 tackles and assisted in 4 others as the Irish stopped four Miami threats within the Notre Dame 15. He recovered a Miami fumble, too.

* * *

In addition, Pat called the defense signals and, on offense, led the blockers as Notre Dame continually hit the Miami right side for substantial gains. Andy Gustafson, Miami coach, called Bisceglia "tremendous."

Two more linebackers, centers Don Karnoscak of Colorado and Bob Pellegrini of Maryland, were highly praised.

* * *

Against Oregon Karnoscak, a 202 pound senior, recovered four Oregon fumbles and on offense constantly led the interference. Pellegrini broke through repeatedly to spoil the aim of Nick Consoles, Wake Forest's star passer.

Roy Wilkins, Georgia end; Ron Beagle, Navy end; and tackles Fred Robinson, of Washington, and Billy Murphy of Holy Cross, also received votes.

Bay City Central Bidding for Ann Arbor's Top Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ann Arbor today retained its ranking as the No. 1 Class A high school football team in the state, but big Bay City Central moved into a strong challenging position.

For the 3rd successive week, Ann Arbor was accorded the top position in the Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

But the Pioneers' margin over runnerup Bay City was only eight points, compared to 34 a week ago. Apparently, the experts were impressed with Bay City Central's 33-7 romp over Pontiac, while Ann Arbor defeated Lansing Sexton, 14-0.

Of the 22 writers and announcers who participated in this week's balloting, 14 voted Ann Arbor 1st. Seven named Bay City Central No. 1, while Saginaw, which finished 3rd, picked up one 1st place nomination.

On the basis of 10 points for a 1st-place vote, 9 for 2nd, 8 for 3rd and so on, Ann Arbor polled 211 points to 203 for Bay City Central. Saginaw had 173.

Rest of the top ten consisted of Benton Harbor (145), Grand Rapids Catholic Central (96), Saginaw Arthur Hill (81), Grosse Pointe (75), East Detroit (68), Battle Creek (41) and Lansing Eastern (34).

Comprising the 2nd ten were Flint Central, Lincoln Park and Birmingham, Jackson and Muskegon Heights, Wyandotte, Midland, Port Huron, Royal Oak, and Muskegon.

Bucs Boast Top ERA Pitcher

Pirates' Bob Friend Compiles 2.84 Record for Last-Place Club

NEW YORK (AP)—The 1955 baseball season was not a complete bust for the Pittsburgh Pirates after all. They had the National League's earned run leader in Bob Friend, their 24 - year - old right-hander.

That's not all. Friend becomes the first major league pitcher in history (earned runs were first tabulated in 1912) to finish on top in ERA while performing for a last-place club.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press revealed today that Friend gave up 63 earned runs in 200 innings for an earned run mark of 2.84. He had a 14-9 won-lost record.

Lefty Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox paced the American League with a 1.97 earned run average. He yielded 45 earned tallies in 206 frames while winning 15 games and losing 10.

Viking Harriers Take 18th Consecutive Win

Walled Lake harriers romped to their 18th consecutive win yesterday against Southfield on the Bluejays' home course. The score was Walled Lake 20 and Southfield 35.

Southfield's Tom Holliday finished 1st and set a course record of 10:40: 5/10 while the next five places were captured by the Vikings. They were: Gerry Avery, Joe Bailey, Charles Wilson, Bill Hosley and Jim Wilson. The Vikings will go after number 19 this Friday at home against Hamtramck.

how to brew your own beer

First, you take a few million dollars and add a couple more.

Then go on a talent hunt for those rare and gifted men who know the art of brewing and its peculiar blend of craft and science.

Next, you fix up a brewery — a shining showplace of modern brewing equipment.

Now you bring the elements together — and promise to use only the very choicest ingredients.

Lastly — you spend a hundred years or so improving and improving and improving.

It sounds like a lot of trouble? Well, perhaps it is. But it's rewarding, too. Because that's how Blatz was born — and today it's the largest-selling beer in Milwaukee and all Wisconsin. Mighty popular here in Michigan, too!

So, instead of taking that few million dollars, take Blatz — and soon! You'll enjoy that "Golden Flavor"!

'Big Pheasant' Derby Under Way Oct. 20

With only a little more than a week left before the start of the 1955 pheasant season in Michigan, conditions for excellent shooting were regarded as very good.

Start of the state's season for the colorful ringnecks also is the beginning of the Pontiac Press annual "Big Pheasant Derby." For the Oakland County hunter (and he, or she, must be a full-time resident) who brings in the biggest (from a weight standpoint) bird will receive a $50 United States Savings Bond.

There are no changes in the rules that have been in effect for many years.

Besides the rule that a hunter must live full time in this county, other conditions to be met include:

Weight only to determine the winner. Length of tail feathers will have no bearing on the contest.

Birds may be shot anywhere in Michigan where such hunting is legal.

All entries must be brought to the Pontiac Press for weighing, inspection and photographing.

Entries must be made between the hours of 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. each day during the season, except that NO ENTRIES will be received after 12 o'clock noon, on Saturdays and none on Sundays.

In case of a tie between two birds, duplicate awards will be made.

Last year's champion bird, a rare 4-pounder, was entered by Leonard Skagg, 38 N. Jessie, Pontiac. Skagg has been a "regular" contestant in this event for years.

Snipe Is a Real Game Bird

By JACK PATTERSON

PATERSON

Jacksnipe, Wilson's snipe, or just plain snipe—this deceptively fast-flying little shore bird is one of the grandest game birds of all. And yet probably not one out of 50 present day hunters could tell a jacksnipe from a mud turtle or could care less. Their loss is the snipe hunter's gain.

Perhaps our special affection for these long-bills stems in part from the fact that we learned to wingshoot on them, back in the days when one was allowed 15 or so a day and every marsh had its full quota of the birds. A couple of boxes of shells was quite often necessary to take a limit.

* * *

Then for several years the snipe population nearly disappeared and the season was closed. Along with the decline of the species our shooting eye dwindled quite a bit too.

* * *

The snipe are coming back and once more there's an open season.

Snipe are the same patsies they always were on a straight away shot after they've straightened out, but on a crossing shot or when they are zigzagging high overhead like feathered bats, they are very easy to miss.

Alone of its shorebird cousins, the snipe is legal game, although it is almost invariably found in close proximity to protected species.

For example, on a recent afternoon we put up a pair of snipe and along with them a greater yellowlegs, a flock of plover, a couple of killdeer and an assortment of sandpipers of lesser degree, all more or less somewhat similar in appearance.

* * *

How then does the shooter stay within the law and still get some shooting, unless he's got a better-than-average knowledge of ornithology?

Well, the snipe gives himself away on two counts. First, he takes off on a fast zig-zag, unlike other shore birds. Second he lets out a cry that sounds like "scaip", which he may repeat several times. This noise is entirely different from the whistles, peepings and cries of protected species.

Snipe hunting is hard work and involves a lot of walking through knee-deep mud but it provides some of the sportiest wingshooting available today. If you don't think so, find a good stretch of really marshy marsh and have a go at it.

Upstate partridge hunting took a turn for the better after last week's rains. Many an opening hunter who found his favorite covers apparently deserted would be very pleasantly surprised if he went back and tried them, tomorrow.

* * *

Duck hunting is holding up well with the next two weeks promising to be very, very good. Big problem on public marshes is the sky-shooter. Manufacturers of standard length magnum shells didn't do anything to put these so-and-sos out of business. Aside from spoiling their own and everyone else's shooting, the sky shooter wounds many a duck that will never be recovered. Aside from an open season on long-range artists we don't know what can be done about them.

Boston Italians Honor Little's Coaching Career

BOSTON (AP)—Lou Little, who has spent 26 of his 32 years as a major college football coach at Columbia University, was honored last night by the Italian-American Charitable Society at its annual dinner.

Little, a native of Leominster, Mass., was presented the society's 1955 Gold Medal as "an outstanding American of Italian ancestry whose contribution to the progress and welfare of this nation has been notable."

Clarence Peaks. Michigan State left halfback, began his Spartan career as a quarterback.

Navy has beaten William and Mary 18 times in 21 games of football. The Indians won two and played a tie with the Middies whom they last defeated in 1942 by 3-0.

Three Scattergunners Hit Perfect Scores at OCSC

While many of Oakland County's shotgun enthusiasts were in the duck marshes over the weekend, quite a few visited the skeet fields of Oakland County Sportsmen's Club to test their prowess with the scattergun.

Three shooters scored perfect rounds, while many turned in near perfect tallies to keep the traps humming steadily over a period that usually finds gunners in the north after grouse.

Straights were fired by Paul Earl, Homer Coss and Jack Greathouse, to pace the scoring, with Bob Thiefels and Wm. Barker but a target off that pace.

Oliver Lemaux, Keith VanKirk and H. Barnes each missed a pair of the flying clays to tie down 3rd place.

Next Sunday should see one of the season's largest gatherings at this popular shooting club as the once-a-year pheasant hunter gets his shooting style brushed up a bit for the pheasant opening next Thursday, Oct. 20.

MSU-Illini Game May Be Televised

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State athletic director Biggie Munn has asked the Big Ten for permission to allow local television of the MSU-Illinois football game a week from Saturday.

Munn said he had written commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson on the proposal but has not yet received a reply.

The game is a sellout, Munn said, and the proposal has the approval of Illinois athletic officials. Michigan will be playing away from home that week.

Munn said the game, if approved, probably would be carried only by Lansing TV station WJIM, which covers the Central Michigan area in a 60 to 90 mile radius.

Baroni Sent Top Row to Many Big Purses as Owner-Trainer

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (AP)—Horseman Albert A. (Bert) Baroni, who trained Top Row to win the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap in 1936, shot and killed himself yesterday, police reported.

Born in Lucca, Italy, Baroni peddled vegetables to get his start in life. Eventually he made a fortune in silver mining in Nevada. He had been interested in horses since he was 29.

Among his horses were Specify, who won $116,000 in purses and ran second to Seabiscuit in the 1938 Hollywood Park Gold Cup; Autocrat and Goldeneye. His thoroughbreds ran under colors of the Silver State Stable.

Mother Resigns Herself to Large Family Growth

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — "I'm getting used to it," Mrs. Albert R. Boutell, 37, remarked today about her rapidly growing family.

She gave birth Friday to twins, a boy and a girl.

On Halloween of 1953, triplets — two girls and a boy — arrived.

In 1951, Mrs. Boutell became the mother of twin girls.

Before the multiple births she had four children, all boys.

Her husband, a 39-year-old process engineer for the Eastman Kodak Co. here, is building a four-bunk dormitory on the top floor of their five-bedroom house at Conesus, 30 miles south of Rochester.

The dormitory will be used by the "older boys," who range in age from 5 to 14 years.

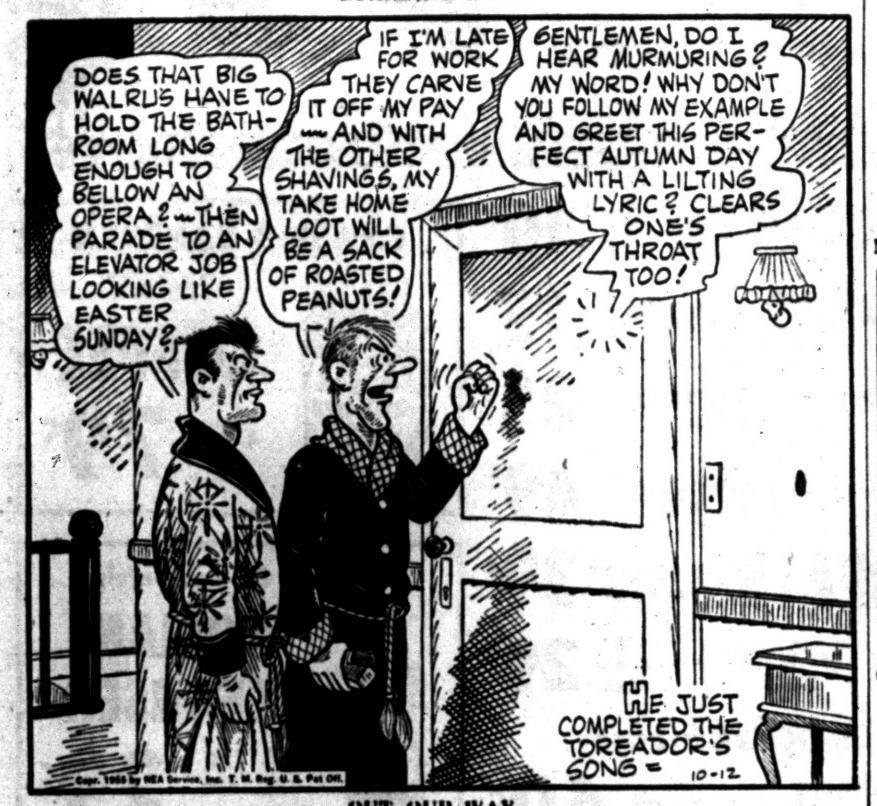

Mrs. Boutell said "every day is a picnic."

AM Displays New Rambler

Bigger Market Eyed With Small Wheelbase Model for '56

By DAVID J. WILKIE

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP)—American Motors will make its bid for a bigger share of the nation's car market in 1956 with a small wheelbase automobile that looks and drives like the conventional full sized vehicle.

The car, a completely redesigned Rambler on a 108-inch wheelbase, was shown at a preview here Tuesday by George Romney, American Motors president.

The Rambler, including a four-door hardtop and a new station wagon, will reach the market on Dec. 15. It will be sold by both Nash and Hudson dealers.

Romney told newsmen that despite major engineering and styling advances and despite the fact all car prices will be higher next year the Rambler line "will be priced below comparable Chevrolet, Ford and Plymouth models similarly equipped."

POWER EQUIPMENT

He also disclosed the new Ramblers will be offered with power steering, power brakes and other power equipment.

He said he was "absolutely confident American Motors is headed for a banner year" in 1956. The company's expansion and modernization program he said already has cost 70 million dollars. "But," he said, "it is a continuing thing."

American Motors, he said, now is equipped to produce 360,000 cars a year. Estimates of other company executives put American's 1946 production at approximately a quarter million vehicles.

McCarthy Applause Blamed for Mistrial

BOSTON (AP)—The contempt of Congress trial of Leon J. Kamin begins anew in federal court today after a mistrial yesterday because of a burst of applause for Sen. McCarthy (W-Wis) in the courthouse corridor.

* * *

Judge Bailey Aldrich called the mistrial because of the "frequent outbursts of applause . . . entirely foreign to a federal court case."

Before dismissing the jury of 11 men and one woman, the judge told them: "It must have come to your attention, and even if you didn't hear it the newspapers will acquaint you with the details."

He then dismissed the jury and ordered a new trial, without jury, to begin today.

* * *

Sen. McCarthy has been called as a witness against Kamin, a former Harvard research assistant, accused of contempt in refusing to answer six quetions dealing with communism before the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee in January 1954, when McCarthy headed the group.

Court to Test Selection of License Plate Dealer

LANSING (AP)—The State Supreme Court has ordered the Mason County Circuit Court to proceed with a test of Secy. of State James M. Hare's right to appoint a Ludington auto dealer as the local license plate outlet.

The court upheld the trial court in refusing the state's plea to dismiss the suit.

The Supreme Court said that its decision in a similar case brought by Cadillac car dealers was binding in the Mason County case.

BIDS FOR THE SALE OF A 1946 FORD school bus will be received at the Dublin School until October 18, 1955.

Ex-Prof Flying Across Nation Before Atlantic

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Roger Perreau, 54-year-old retired French professor who wants to pilot a plane to Paris, takes off today on the second leg of his New York-to-California "trial run."

With only one hour of solo time in his log book, the former French teacher took off yesterday from an Amityville, N.Y., airport and landed at nearby Youngstown Airport four hours later.

He heads for Grand Rapids, Mich., today for installation of a variable pitch propeller. Then he continues to the West Coast, from where he will try to fly back to New York nonstop. He should reach California in two or three days.

* * *

In the cross-country jaunt, he says, he wants to test out the plane's ability to haul 120 extra gallons of gasoline, enough fuel for 24 hours flying, which he carries in six tanks—four strapped to the wings and two in the cabin.

Soviet Endorses A-Control Group

Red Sanction Action Raises Hope of West's Plan for Peace

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Western sources said today they were encouraged by Russia's conditional endorsement of an international agency to carry out President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan.

* * *

V. V. Kuznetsov, Soviet first deputy foreign minister, offered a resolution to the U.N. General Assembly's key Political Committee yesterday expressing hope such an agency could be set up soon within the U.N. framework. But he added the provisos the proposed body must be subject to the Security Council and its big-power veto on major security questions and also must be open to all countries, including Red China and East Germany.

NO DIATRIBES

The United States wants the proposed atomic body to have the status of a specialized U.N. agency and strongly opposes any veto authority by the major powers over the agency's normal functions. However, Washington recognizes that any question vitally affecting the security of a state would have to come before the Security Council.

* * *

The Western informants emphasized that although the Soviet delegate hammered away for the conditions Moscow wants imposed on any atomic agency, he did not indulge in any diatribes aimed at the West.

The Soviet delegate insisted on these provisos: (1) all states would be able to join the proposed agency; (2) no country or group of countries would have a privileged position in it; and (3) the body's activities must not endanger the security of any state.

Escapes Crash Injury

MT. PLEASANT (AP) — Although his plane was demolished, Charles Lewis Jr., 22, of Middleton, escaped injury Tuesday when his single-engine craft crashed on landing at Mt. Pleasant Airport. Lewis, who was flying alone, said a sudden gust of wind tipped the wings of the plane and he lost control after a flight from Alma. He was admitted to Central Michigan Community Hospital for observation.

Board Absorbs Soy Pressure

CHICAGO (AP)—Fairly aggressive selling in soybeans was absorbed without much of a price loss on the Board of Trade today.

The selling was based on a government crop report, issued after the close yesterday. It did not reduce estimated soybean production as much as some traders had expected, and it showed fairly ample stocks of old crop soybeans still on farms.

Other cereals held close to previous final prices, although there was a slight firming tendency following an irregular opening.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was unchanged to ½ higher, December $2.05¼; corn unchanged to ¼ lower, December $1.30¾; oats unchanged to ¼ higher, December 64⅜; rye ⅜ lower to ½ higher, December $1.15¾; soybeans unchanged to 1¼ lower, November $2.38¼, and lard 5 cents lower to 15 cents a hundred pounds higher, October $11.85.

Singer Paul Robeson Undergoes Surgery

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Robeson, 57-year-old Negro singer and supporter of leftwing political causes, has undergone an abdominal operation.

Sydenham Hospital, where the operation was performed Monday, reported his condition was satisfactory but no details of his ailment.

Robeson, once a top star of stage and screen, has made few appearances lately.

He has tried unsuccessfully to get a passport for trips to Russia and other Red-dominated countries. He was granted permission recently to go to Canada for a singing engagement, but later abandoned the plan.

National Guard Starts New Recruiting Drives

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan National Guard has announced an all-out recruiting drive aimed at signing up around 100 new men a month.

* * *

The long-range goal has been set at a strength of 11,800 officers and men by June 30, 1956. The guard strength in Michigan was 10,844 on Aug. 30.

Recruiting targets during the drive, the Guard said, will be the reenlistment of current guardsmen, the signing up of veterans and recruiting of men who have yet to see service in the Armed Forces.

* * *

State headquarters told local unit officers they are facing the most compeittive recruiting situation in recent years.

Plumber's Aide Loses $50,000 in Pipe-Dream

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—When Jackson Davis, 24, found $50,000 in the basement of a Dallas home, he just quit his job and went back to his home in Corsicana, Tex.

Some of the money was in gold certificates which Jackson didn't recognize as currency. But he made a down payment on a house and bought a new automobile and a television set.

* * *

He told questioning officers he was working on his first job in the city, digging a trench for a plumbing firm, when he found the money. He was dazed to learn he had been charged with theft, police said. He gave them the old thermos bottle in which he found the money and more than $43,000 remained unspent.

After eight days in jail, Davis was released yesterday at the request of the owner of the house, whom police did not identify.

The owner said the money apparently was buried during the depression by a relative who died more than 20 years ago without revealing the presence of the cache.

Jackson's discovery first came to light when he told two Corsicana Sun reporters about it.

Production of Electricity Edges Upward in Week

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's production of electricity edged a bit higher last week but remained close to the level which has prevailed since the end of August.

Edison Electric Institute reported today that power output rose to 10,639,000,000 kilowatt hours from 10,627,000,000 kilowatt hours the week before. The total for the lastest week was 15.7 per cent over the 9,193,000,000 kilowatt hours in the same week of 1954.

All sections showed output gains over the year ago week, as follows: New England 11.3 per cent; Mid-Atlantic 7.5; Central Industrial 27.4; West Central 7.2; Southeast 19; South Central 8.8; Rocky Mountain 23.6; Pacific Northwest 7.8; and Pacific Southwest 10.7.

Speeding to Heaven?

NEW HAVEN (AP)—A car bearing placards reading "House of Prayer" was stopped for speeding yesterday.

Stock Market Snapping Back

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the best stock market comebacks of 1955 was launched today after four straight daily declines.

* * *

Advances ran from around $1 to $3 a share as motors and steels stood out in a general rise.

* * *

In early afternoon General Motors was up $2.12 at $133.37, Bethlehem Steel $2.25 at $146.50, DuPont $4.25 at $203.50, Westinghouse $1 at 56.75.

* * *

Chrysler went ahead $2. Sears Roebuck $2.62, Douglas Aircraft $2, Kennecott Copper $2.25, Union Carbide $2, Santa Fe $1.75, and Seaboard Railroad $2.50.

* * *

The ticker tape, which normally reports transactions within seconds, was late for a while in the early rush.

* * *

The market was higher from the opening. Trading was active despite New York's Columbus Day holiday but it didn't match yesterday's 3,590,000 shares.

New Postal Garage Opening Postponed

Formal opening of the city's new Post Office Garage will be held Nov. 5, instead of Oct. 13 as originally planned, it was announced today.

Postmaster Leslie H. Dean Sr. said that the principal reason for the postponement was to permit more time for arrangements and to allow for the return of Congressman George A. Dondero who is now in Europe.

Dondero, congressman from Oakland County's 18th district, had previously been invited to attend the opening, but had to leave before it was scheduled.

Meanwhile, the Post Office has moved into the garage and is operating on a limited basis. Pontiac's 30 mail trucks are being parked in the 10,000 square foot parking area connected with the garage building.

Christmas Tree Burns 5 Years for Missing GI

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—Lights on a withering Christmas tree will be burning, as they have for nearly five years, when Mrs. Luella Miller meets a train at the Decatur railroad station this afternoon.

Mrs. Miller decorated the tree for Christmas 1950. When the younger of her two sons, Pfc. Clifford Sapp, then 19, didn't return from Korea for Santa's visit, she vowed to keep the tree up until he did get home.

Since then the lights have burned 24 hours a day.

* * *

In January 1951 the Army notified Mrs. Miller that her son had been missing in action since Nov. 30.

Sometime later the hopeful mother saw a newspaper picture of some prisoners in North Korea and thought she recognized her son among them.

She held out hope, and had no further word until about a month ago.

Then the Army informed her remains of a soldier killed in Korean fighting had been identified as those of her son.

* * *

A casket containing the remains is to be on a train arriving in Decatur late today.

Mrs. Miller said she would meet the train and attend a military funeral planned for Saturday, but she isn't giving up.

"Despite what the Army says, I know my boy wasn't killed in action," she said.

"I feel I have to go ahead with it (the funeral) as if it were my boy. If it were, the best would not be good enough. If I didn't go, I wouldn't feel right about it the rest of my life. I just didn't feel I should give up hope."

* * *

She said the Christmas tree, most of its browned needles kept intact by daily watering, will stay up and the lights will keep burning.

Mrs. Miller's other son George, operates a roadside cafe at nearby Forsythe.

Veteran Back in Hospital After Hitchhiking Ride

OWOSSO (AP) — It was one day Wallace Crofoot should have stayed in bed, but that's where he found himself anyway.

Crofoot, 30-year-old disabled veteran, hitchhiked a ride to his home in Sparta as soon as he was discharged from the Veterans' Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Near Corunna the driver lost control of his car and the vehicle plunged into a five-foot ditch. The driver, unidentified, fled on foot.

No Chance to Huddle

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Police here no longer can huddle with pretty secretaries in the line of duty. Today they began dictating their crime reports into telephones for transcriptions, instead of transmitting them direct to stenographers. The new system is meant to permit officers to return more quickly to their districts.

Story Revolves Around $64,000

Comic Effectively Plays Poor Soul Trapped by Nasty Family

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS) — Jackie Gleason, who appeared on Studio One in a drably powerful drama based on a poor-soul-type Brooklyn fellow who rises from a horrible home life by successfully appearing on "The $64,000 Question," gave a warm, wallopingly effective portrayal.

* * *

He's a very good actor, one of the few comedians who can sustain and extend the dimensions of a role as written.

The Studio One play, "Uncle Ed and Circumstances," was an idea spawned in Gleason's commodious imagination and tailored to his order. But it's our opinion the story was laid on far too heavily.

Gleason portrayed a member of a Brooklyn family whose other members had attained a fine standing in their civil service-minded community—one a police officer, another a fireman, a sister, a teacher, etc.

* * *

But Uncle Ed, in the person of Gleason, was one of those misfits whose good intentions don't make them suitable to fight the battle of life, can't get or hold a job, get pushed around at home.

This reign of family terror was emphasized to a ridiculously vicious degree of verbal abuse and social dismissal of "Uncle Ed" for anything but menial errands and household embarrassments.

* * *

His rejection through the years caused him to take escape in the dream world of the movies. This led him out of his personal deprivations and resulted in an amazing knowledge of the motion picture industry.

NATURAL GIMMICK

The use of "The $64,000 Question" was natural as the clap of happy-ending thunder to spring loose this prisoner of his horrible family from his shameful home ties.

* * *

The punchline was apparent from the start—that he would win and then do something selfless with the $64,000 to permit him to get away finally from that awful family and still leave him an admirable character to the spectator.

He signed the check over to his Legree-like relatives and walked off in the rain, a sad, beleagured but poignantly triumphant, free, though still poor, soul.

Gleason has a fine facility for heavy, moody mummery. He has that tragic heaviness of feature and can create grieving introspective silence possible to mighty few actors in TV, reminiscent of Wolheim, Raimu, Lee J. Cobb, the men able to register tragedy almost instantly by stating a facial mood.

* * *

His artistry was far superior to the vehicle, whose villains were just too black to make complete sense and balance.

This was a fault of writing; possibly of direction, but the abusive air was set so that expert actors such as Mildred Natwick, Cliff Hall, Pat O'Malley, Edward Binns and others could do no less than lay it on with an equally heavy trowel.

* * *

There could have been a far more delicate balance in the writing, which stated and restated and emphasized and clobbered its contrast of a whole family of nasty people taking sadistic satisfaction in endless needling of kindly, hopeless Uncle Ed.

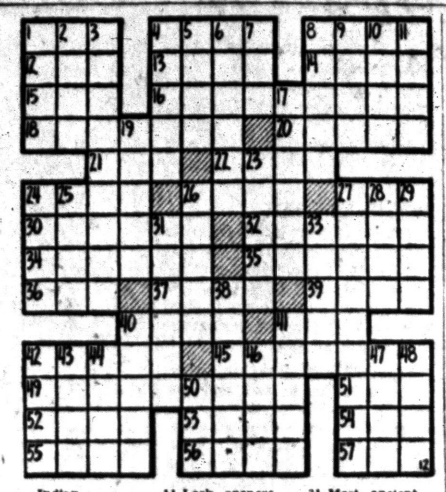

The Army reports show that between 3 and 7 per cent of all new soldiers have less than a fourth-grade education.

NBC Completes International TV Picture Transfer

An NBC-TV production crew made television history when it transmitted a picture last week from Havana, Cuba, to Miami Beach, Florida. It was the first acrosswater picture beamed to the United States from a foreign country.

* * *

NBC now will bring direct pick-ups on the "Wide Wide World" programs on Nov. 13 and Dec. 18.

Producer Norman Frank pointed out these pictures will be picked up from Cuba and beamed across the country.

The outstanding fact is that the picture crosses 230 miles of ocean with an airplane used as a pickup point. Fifty miles is regarded as maximum land distance for optimum signal relay.

NBC used special equipment from the roof of the 16-story Fontainebleau Hotel in Miami Beach.

Baseball Fan Benched by Jazz-Loving Pastor

NEW YORK (AP)—A jazz-loving clergyman shared the spotlight on The $64,000 Question CBS television and radio show last night as time limitations nudged out a baseball expert for another week.

The Rev. Alvin Kershaw, rector of the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church in Oxford, Ohio, won $8,000 in his chosen category of jazz, which he has been studying for a number of years.

He had advanced through $128 last week when time ran out. Last night he advanced through a number of questions, some of which required the playing of records and consumed considerable time.

On the $8,000 question he identified a 1925 recording as "St. Louis Blues," composed by W. C. Handy, sung by Bessie Smith, with Louis Armstrong as trumpet accompanist.

The Rev. Mr. Kershaw, 35, will appear on the program next Tuesday night to announce whether he will take his $8,000 or try the $16,000 question.

Appearing after the clergyman, Patrick Keough, 62-year-old St. Louis businessman, announced he would try the $32,000 question in his baseball category.

Michigan and New York lead the nation in the production of salt.

Ear specialists know your hearing loss is different. This means that your hearing loss must be tested and analyzed.
Giving you the hearing help that you need has nothing to do with just making all sounds louder. It has everything to do with making audible those particular sounds that you cannot hear well, or cannot hear at all.
It means scientifically filling in those gaps in your hearing which make it difficult for you to understand. For instance, the high pitched voices of young children. It means giving you a hearing aid that is fitted to you and you alone.
Now you can prove all this to yourself by trying your very own Acousticon for ten full days without deposit, expense or obligation.

Friends Spurred Columbus to Exploration

By KENNETH O. GILMORE

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Christopher Columbus performed some pretty sensational feats in his day, but he didn't originate the idea that the world was round.

* * *

He just proved it. This was no mean accomplishment, but Herbert W. Krieger, a curator of ethnology at the Smithsonian Institution here, points out that a number of other smart people were convinced the earth was round.

Foremost among them was a Florentine physician named Paolo de Toscanelli who called himself a cosmographer or observer of the world. It was Toscanelli, reveals Krieger, who provided Columbus with the map he used when he set sail for the New World in 1492. In fact, he put it in the hands of the explorer 18 years before the voyage.

This chart gave Columbus the inspiration to begin his momentous undertaking, according to Krieger, who is an expert on the man known to every school child as the discoverer of America.

"Toscanelli was a charlatan scientist who egged Columbus on," says Krieger. "But I thank him for his salesmanship in fortifying Columbus' spirit."

PHONY MAP

Actually, the map was a phony in that it didn't help Columbus one bit after he set out to sea. It was based on scanty geographic records of far eastern Asia, rumors of western voyages and mythical literature. It placed Japan, China and the sought-after "Spice Islands" a relatively short distance across the Atlantic from the European coast.

Toscanelli even threw in two legendary islands called St. Brandan and Antilla. For when it came to the question of whether the earth was spherical, he was a crank. He was determined to prove the theory.

First he tried to interest the king of Portugal in the chart, but had no success. In the meantime, Columbus heard about it, and he wrote Toscanelli for a copy.

The response was immediate and enthusiastic. He sent Columbus the chart followed up by several letters which do credit to the early history of the promotion business. Sample:

SHOT IN THE ARM

"I perceive your grand desire to navigate from the part of the east to the west . . . said voyage is not only possible, but it is true, and certain to be honorable and to yield incalculable profit, and very great fame among all Christians."

From all indications, this was just the shot in the arm that Columbus needed. "If his convictions hadn't been supported by someone like Toscanelli," says Krieger, "he wouldn't have had the nerve or determination to keep up his continual search for financial support.

"History shows that no great invention or discovery is single-handed. It comes as a result of the conviction, experience and work of a number of people."

Contrary to popular conception, Krieger emphasizes, most intelligent people in 15th Century Europe shared the idea that the world was round.

BURIED IN CHURCH

It was Columbus who finally put it to the test, and for his discovery was made Admiral of the Ocean Sea and Duke of Veragua.

Almost exactly 385 years later —in 1877—a leaden chest containing 24 pieces of human bone and an impressive medallion identifying the remains as those of the Admiral of the Ocean Sea and Duke of Veragua were discovered under the cathedral floor in Ciudad Trujillo in the Dominican Republic.

Spain, which had for almost a century been pointing to a crypt in Havana, Cuba, as the final resting place of Columbus, discovered they had instead the remains of the explorer's son, Diego.

TOURIST ATTRACTION

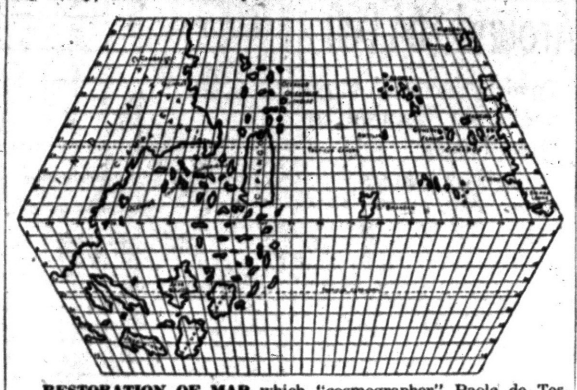

Today's Columbus Day visitor to the Cathedral of Santo Domingo in the Dominican Republic can see the heavy, leaden casket opened and view the bones of the man who discovered America.

But of all the men and women, cartographers and queens who helped Columbus develop his theory, set his course and finance his expedition, there is nowhere a monument or commemoration to Luis de Santengel.

It was from him that a part of the financing came. As overseer of Spain's police endowment fund, Santengel found it easy to dip into the funds to aid the cause of world rotundity.

* * *

Eventually he repaid his global embezzlement. But crime does not pay. And today no text book mentions his name as a contributor to the New World Expedition.

RESTORATION OF MAP which "cosmographer" Paolo de Toscanelli furnished Columbus is from Smithsonian Institution.

REMAINS OF COLUMBUS rest in this leaden sarcophagus in Cathedral of Santo Domingo, Cuidad Trujiuuo, Dominican Republic.

New B52 Bomber Passing All Tests

ELGIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — The new B52 eight-engine bomber, star of an Air Force demonstration of might, has passed all its tests thus far, officials said.

The swept-wing bomber was shown to 6,000 persons at this northwest Florida base yesterday as part of a presentation of the Air Force's best planes. It is being delivered to Strategic Air Command forces on a full production basis by the Boeing Aircraft Corp.

An F85F and the B57, American (Martin) counterpart of the British Canberra, both demonstrated "toss bombing." In this hit-and-run technique, 500-pound bombs are lobbed into the air above and ahead of the plane, which scoots away before the explosion.

The average freight-carrying capacity of railway boxcars reached 53.8 tons in 1954, exceeding the previous all-time high of 53.5 tons established in 1953 and 7.9 tons above the 1930 average capacity.

The air-conditioning system aboard the new aircraft carrier Forrestal is big enough to air-condition two Empire State Buildings.
