Governor Tells Legislators to Use Vets' Fund

Oakland's New University Is Really Shaping Up

Pontiac Press Photo

WALLS ARE UP—The first academic building on the campus of Michigan State University Oakland is right on schedule, according to George Karras, MSUO supervising engineer. Workmen are now installing windows in the building and putting up the interior walls. Roy Alexander, director of student affairs, said that facilities for closed circuit TV are being provided in all classrooms. MSUO is scheduled to open for a freshman class of 600 in September, 1959.

D. B. Varner Named Director of MSUO

DURWARD B. VARNER

Durward B. Varner, associated with Michigan State University Oakland since its inception two years ago, today was named administrative director of MSUO.

The announcement was made by Michigan State University President John A. Hannah and approved by the State Board of Agriculture, governing body of MSU, at a meeting in East Lansing.

The 42-year-old Varner has been coordinating the growth of the university in his position as MSU vice president in charge of all off-campus programs.

When Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson held a press meeting in January, 1957, to announce they were donating their 1,400-acre estate, their spacious Meadow Brook Hall home and a $2,000,000 cash endowment to Michigan State, Varner was there.

He immediately envisioned the tremendous educational potential in the offing.

His elevation to become head of MSUO, which opens this fall, is effective immediately, President Hannah said.

Varner said he was "pleased beyond words" when informed of the appointment. "I have been handed one of the great educational challenges in this country," he said.

It will probably be mid-summer before he can move his wife, Paula, three children, Tom, 16, Judy, 12, and Susan, 4, from their present East Lansing home to Oakland County. No home site has been picked here as yet, he said.

The story of "Woody" Varner is one that engrosses education from boyhood days.

He has been tagged with the nickname "Woody" since his college days at Texas A & M. It originated as Varner's family lived in a little cattle and cotton town called Cottonwood in western Texas.

Also, some of his college pals believed his first name to be "Durwood" instead of Durward.

Lack of money destined Varner for an educational career rather than engineering, which he always dreamed of.

"After I paid all my fees and tuition I didn't have enough money left for engineering instruments," he recalled.

His great love for Michigan State University and the high esteem in which he holds President Hannah has led him to turn down presidencies at a large midwestern university and a southwestern college, his friends say.

And throughout his visions into the future, Varner says the great prospects of MSUO have kept him with the institution.

His first taste of learning came from his father who, as a school teacher, taught him all subjects during high school in Cottonwood.

From there Varner enrolled at the Texas military college in 1936 because he became "tremendously impressed" with what he saw during a visit there with a high school 4-H club.

He was president of his sophomore and junior classes and valedictorian of his graduating class of 1,400. Varner also commanded the Texas A & M cadet corps and

MSUO's First Building Proceeding on Schedule

The walls of Michigan State University Oakland's first academic building are up, and the building is almost entirely closed in.

George Karras, MSUO supervising engineer, reports that workmen are now putting in window panes of the first classroom structure to rise on the 1,600-acre campus.

"We're right on schedule," Karras said today.

Aluminum window frames are being installed in the one-story laboratory wing, which will house, in addition to labs, library and office space, according to Roy J. Alexander, MSUO director of student affairs.

The three-story classroom wing is almost completely windowed, Alexander said.

Facilities for closed circuit TV are being provided in all classrooms, he revealed, adding that the new institution plans to use the system in its instructional program.

Designed to be virtually independent with its own faculty and administration, although a "sister" school to Michigan State University, MSUO will open its doors to a freshman class of 600 in the fall of 1959.

Since both wings of the building are almost completely closed in, work has moved rapidly ahead, Alexander reported.

Interior walls are being installed in the three-story wing, and are already erected in the one-story section.

39 CLASSROOMS

The building will contain 33 classrooms with a seating capacity of 35 students, and six classrooms holding 70 persons each. Also in the building will be two large lecture rooms, four elementary and advanced chemistry and physics laboratories.

Dr. Alexander said the two wings will be connected by a covered patio area.

The building's library will hold 200 students at a time, and will have enough shelves for between 70,000 and 80,000 volumes, he said.

A relatively new heating concept, currently in use at the Air Force Academy, will be used at MSUO, Alexander said.

★ ★ ★

"A boiler will use hot water under high pressure, which will flow through pipe installed in the ceilings," he explained.

PARKING LOT

Dr. Alexander said that the one-story wing should be completed July 15, but office space will be available as early as the end of June.

A parking lot near the building is almost completed, except for some grading, Alexander said.

He reported that applications are rapidly coming in at the new institution, and that 29,000 introductory brochures have already been distributed to interested students in 18 different states.

Truck Sales Climb, Monaghan Reports

Sales of GMC trucks continued their upward trend in the first 10 days of 1959, it was announced today by Philip J. Monaghan, vice president of General Motors and general manager of GM Truck & Coach Division.

Deliveries during this period represented a 28.7 per cent gain over the comparable period of 1958.

This followed a December domestic sale total which was the highest rate of sales since January of 1957, and 38.9 per cent over December a year ago.

Executions Rise to 195 in Cuba

Castro Declares Every 'Murderer' to Be Shot Despite World Opinion

HAVANA (UP) — "We have given orders to shoot every one of these murderers," Fidel Castro declared Wednesday night as the total of Batistans executed by the revolutionary regime was then reported at 185.

Fresh dispatches today told of the execution of 10 more men by order of revolutionary courts, boosting the reported toll to 195.

Criticism mounted abroad of the hurried military trials and firing squad deaths. But the rebel chieftain, asked by newsmen if the executions would be stopped, replied:

"No. To the contrary, we have given orders to shoot every one of these murderers. And if we have to battle world opinion to mete out justice, we are prepared to do it."

Castro had scheduled a news conference later in the evening but called it off with word that he was ill. The nature of his illness was not disclosed, but the strenuous life he has led during the past two weeks was probably telling on him.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Wayne Hays (D-Ohio) proposed today that the United States impose a trade embargo or forbid tourist travel to Cuba if necessary to halt widespread executions by the new Castro regime.

Army Discloses Plan to Launch 2nd Moon Probe

NEY YORK (UPI) — The Army disclosed today that it expects "shortly" to launch its second moon rocket.

Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, research and development chief, made the announcement in a speech prepared for the National Security Industrial Association.

The Army's first lunar probe was launched last Dec. 6 and traveled about 66,000 miles into space before falling back and burning in the atmosphere.

"We are now preparing for our second lunar probe to be launched shortly," Trudeau said.

House Dems Simmer With GOP in Control

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

LANSING — The House of Representatives is in the controlling hands of the Republicans — nothing startlingly new—and Democrats are inclined not to feel too badly about yesterday's setback.

Although they would feel more politically potent with the House leadership, some Democrats stirred undercurrents after the organization scuffle that "now the Republicans have to prove themselves."

Democrats, including the three from Oakland County, wouldn't state flatly that the Republicans will have to bear the major responsibility should they not be able to bail the state out of its most crucial financial crisis since the depression.

However, the Democrats indicated after Wednesday's Republican victory that they may not be hesitant in the future to place the blame squarely on the shoulders of the "leaders" as the 1959-60 legislature.

With this in mind, Buchanan Rep. Don R. Pears, elected House speaker, called upon both fellow Republicans and Democrats "to guide Michigan back into the sunlight."

"Let's not have this House known as the House divided," he urged hopefully in his acceptance speech.

Pears, a 59-year-old life insurance and real estate salesman, gained the top spot in the House after his party successfully warded off Democratic moves to turn the organization into a parliamentary circus.

All this came about because Michigan voters last November brought about an unprecedented 55-55 split in the membership.

Oakland voters went along with the statewide tide. They elected three Republicans and three Democrats.

Pears had said earlier that Republicans, if they should capture control, would give chairman and co-chairmanships on all committees to their party members.

'NO COMPROMISE'

Democrats said they were willing to compromise because of the split, but Republicans declared no deal.

During the fussing over which party should have leadership 83-year-old Lapeer Rep. Louis C. Cramton lashed out against his fellow lawmakers.

"In my 50 years of legislative service never has there been such a trying time for the state. Does it matter who gets the speaker. Let's get busy and do the business that we were elected to do," shouted the Republican veteran.

Regardless, Detroit Democratic

GOP Cuts Down Power of Dems

Limits Committees to 5 Members, 4 Slated to Be Republicans

LANSING (UP) — In the face of angry Democratic protests, majority Senate Republicans moved today to clamp a tighter grip on most standing committees by limiting minority membership to a lone Democrat.

The action struck a blow to chances for greater inter-party harmony in the state government. Democratic Gov. Williams reportedly has been of a mind lately to apply balm to frictions that have marked the past.

Republicans outnumber Democrats this session, 22 to 12.

After a GOP caucus yesterday, Sen. Frank Beadle of St. Clair, Republican majority leader, said it was decided to abandon the four Republicans and two Democrats ratio set up two years ago for 15 committees.

The size of these committees, he said, will be reduced from six members to five, with Republicans claiming four seats on each and allowing one to Democrats.

"Our theory is that because of the situation in the house, where it is so evenly divided, Republicans in the Senate are going to be responsible for whatever legislation comes out and passes," Beadle said.

Accordingly, it was agreed to claim control commensurate with this responsibility," he said.

Lt. Gov. John B. Swainson, a Democrat, called the plan "spiteful," a move to "punish the people who have found it to their advantage to elect Democrats."

Sen. Harold M. Ryan of Detroit, Democratic floor leader, said the 12 Democrats combined received more votes Nov. 4 than all 22 Republicans. Democrats registered a net gain of one seat.

Act Would Aid State in Present Financial Crisis

Williams Fears a Debt of $135 Million by the Middle of May

LANSING (UP)—Gov. Williams today urged mortgaging the 50 million dollar Veterans Trust Fund to tide the state over a cash shortage he said might zoom to 135 million dollars by May 15.

In a message to a joint Senate-House meeting, he called such a shortage "unmanageable." He said unless the Legislature acts promptly to relieve it, the state must skip payrolls and default on welfare payments.

Even wringing all available cash from the huge veterans nest egg "will not put us on easy street," the governor cautioned. He promised to meet the long-run problem of new taxes "head-on"—but later.

Williams opposed outright liquidation of the trust fund, calling instead for its temporary utilization. Ultimately, he said, the fund should revert to its present status. He did not say in how many years.

At the heart of the mortgage plan was a proposal to turn over temporarily perhaps 30 million dollars in Veterans Trust Fund securities of the University of Michigan and Michigan State University, both now in dire financial straits.

The schools would be authorized to put up the bonds as collateral for loans and to apply interest from the bonds against borrowing costs.

Similarly, he asked lawmakers to approve:

1. Transfer of 16 million dollars in veterans fund securities to the public school employes retirement fund, thereby freeing that additional amount of school aid fund income in the months ahead for distribution to hard pressed local districts.

2. Appropriation from the state general purpose kitty of $1,100,000 a year to the Veterans Trust Fund to make up for temporary loss of interest to the vets fund and underwrite continuation of the indigent veterans benefit program.

3. Ransoming of the mortgaged securities "over a period of years."

In picturing future state fiscal prospects, the governor noted that mostly because of laggard state aid payments local school districts have borrowed beyond 50 million dollars, and that the state has fallen almost $15 million behind in obligations to the U. of M. and MSU.

At the moment, he said, the state

Jaycees Honor Insurance Agent

Name Coulacos 'Man of the Year'

By PETE LOCHBILER

For thousands of Pontiac youngsters, the choice of William V. Coulacos as "Outstanding Young Man of the Year" is a good one.

The Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce last night gave the 32-year-old insurance agent that title and its Distinguished Service Award for 1958.

Jaycees picked Max E. Kerns as outstanding boss of the year and W. B. Neal as key man of their organization.

Kerns, a partner in the H. W. Huttenlocher insurance agency, was cited for community service. Neal, a self-employed vending machine distributor, was selected for his Jaycee activities.

★ ★ ★

The awards were made during the annual Bosses Night banquet, at which the guest speaker was William J. Moriarty, assistant sales manager of the Mercury-Edsel-Lincoln Division.

Coulacos was cited primarily for his work with young people.

Although his five years as head of the Pontiac Boys Club didn't figure, technically, in the selection, they weren't forgotten either.

From 1952-1957, Coulacos befriended thousands of Pontiac boys, gave them leadership and counsel.

He won praise because his friendships were personal, his interest sincere, his help real. It was estimated last night that Coulacos knows 2,000 or more boys by their first names.

Since he became an agent for North American Life Insurance Co. two years ago, Coulacos' interest in youth hasn't lessened.

The list of his activities for young people is a long one.

He's the spark plug of the Downtown Kiwanis Club's youth committee, putting in many voluntary hours at the club's youth camp.

★ ★ ★

He's a member of the advisory board for the Foundation for Emotionally Disturbed Children at Pontiac State Hospital and makes it a point to visit young patients at the hospital at least once a week.

Coulacos is active in the Boy Scouts and the Wever-Owen-Hawthorn Community Club.

He's been a Jaycee five years, serving on many committees, and every year puts in many hours as a solicitor for the Pontiac Area United Fund.

Married and the father of one daughter, Coulacos was honored also for his business success. In his first two years as an insurance agent, Coulacos has underwritten more than $1,000,000 in policies.

★ ★ ★

A native of Quincy, Mass., and a graduate of the Springfield, Mass., College, Coulacos lives at 2306 St. Joseph St., West Bloomfield Township.

It May Be Pawnshop for Vet Fund

By BOB VOGES

LANSING (UP) — Time was when the Veterans Trust Fund, now possibly en route to the pawnshop, was as sacred as motherhood or the American flag.

Just what is the 50 million dollar Veterans Trust Fund anyway?

Exactly what the name implies —a fund held in trust for the state's veterans.

The trust fund traces back to 1943 when World War II patriotism and state surpluses both were running high. The legislature put 50 million surplus dollars into a post-war reserve.

The money should be used, lawmakers then declared, "for the purpose of liquidating Michigan's obligations, after the termination of the war, to its returning servicemen, their widows or dependents."

Purpose of the fund is to extend help, based on need, to eligible veterans unable to get emergency assistance elsewhere.

Grants for emergency medical assistance, rehabilitation and care for children of veterans are typical uses of fund money.

It was provided that the fund itself should remain intact. The 50 millions are invested in government securities. These investments are low in interest, but strong in security.

Cannon Assails Budget Pressure Tactics

Takes Exception to Bureau Letter

Appropriations Leader Says Witnesses Should Not Have to Back Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) said today he does not want witnesses pressured to support President Eisenhower's budget when they appear before his House Appropriations Committee.

Cannon criticized a letter from Budget Director Maurice H. Stans which cautioned department and agency heads against asking more money than the budget would provide.

The letter reportedly reminds the government officials that it is a violaton of the 1921 Budget Act to ask increases in budget requests without clearing them through proper channels. But a Budget Bureau spokesman denied that it was meant to gag prospective witnesses.

Eisenhower will send his 77-billion-dollar budget to Congress Monday. Cannon's committee plans to start hearings Tuesday.

"How are we going to intelligently act on a budget when the witnesses who were the experts in preparing it are under restraint when we ask them to give us details," he asked in an interview.

Meanwhile President Eisenhower and top Republican spokesmen appeared ready today with a fighting defense of the administration's space missile and security programs.

Key leaders in the new and heavily Democratic Congress already have promised searching and critical investigations into all phases of the Eisenhower defense policies and programs.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon has indirectly invited such an investigation, and expressed to fellow Republicans confidence that the programs will stand up under the scrutiny.

Both the President and the new Republican Senate leader, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, defended the programs publicly Wednesday.

Eisenhower told a National Press Club luncheon that this country had "made remarkable progress" in the field of long range missiles.

As to the Soviet's accomplishments in this field he said, "If we did not believe that they were somewhat ahead in certain phases we would indeed be a little stupid, because they have been working at it for many years, and our urgent work in this field on the long-range missile has started only something like four years ago."

captained the varsity basketball team.

Varner graduated with a degree in economics in 1940, the same year he married his wife, whom he met at a college social function at Baylor University, her alma mater.

After a short time with the Federal Land Bank in Houston following his graduation, Varner was called to active duty as an Army second lieutenant. He served six years, two overseas, and was discharged a lieutenant colonel.

He was made assistant dean of students at his alma mater in 1945. Later he moved over to the University of Chicago where for three years he did graduate work in economics.

It was in May of 1949 that Varner joined Michigan State with the department of agriculture economics. In 1952 he became one of the youngest directors in the country when he was named to head the Cooperative Extension Service at MSU.

In 1955 he was given the title of vice president, the first such position in the 100-year history of the school.

Learning of his new appointment Varner said his big hope is that he can help "build a great tradition of learning at Michigan State University Oakland."

Dapper Texan Tells His Story

Tsermengas Gives His Account of Events Leading to Murder

A nattily dressed Texan continued to hold a Circuit Court jury spellbound this morning with his marathon testimony of events leading up to the 1957 murder of Texas tough guy George Kean in Commerce Township.

When the six men and six women jurors were dismissed at noon today, Demitrios B. Tsermengas, 40, had been expounding for more than four hours how he became a virtual captive of Kean.

Tsermengas, an ex-convict who has spent nearly 10 years in prison, is testifying in his own defense. He is charged with second degree murder in Kean's death.

Afternoon testimony will be Tsermengas' story of the shooting of Kean, which Tsermengas says was accidental, in a friend's home.

How Kean, Tsermengas and two other Texans made their way toward Michigan, on the way kidnaping two Collinsville, Ill., policemen, was told in testimony today.

Kean, called a gangster and the most wanted man in Texas by police, once told Tsermengas "I'm a tall Texan myself, I can do anything I'm big enough to do."

Tsermengas said he shot Kean accidentally Dec. 16, 1957, in the home of Donald E. Chandler, 1872 Point Dr., when he and his two companions attempted to disarm him after Kean, in a drunken stupor, threatened to kill them.

Throughout his testimony, Tsermengas, attired in a tan suit, white shirt and maroon polka-dot bowtie, and sporting a mustache, told jurors he stayed with Kean "not because I was afraid to die, but I was thinking of those three kids that bear my name."

House Dems Simmer With GOP in Control

Rep. Joseph J. Kowalski staged a dying fight to enforce a 1955 law of the Legislature which would have required 56 Republican voters in order to win control, instead of the present 55.

This Democratic last-ditch stand blossomed forth Tuesday when it was learned Democrat Rep. Josephine D. Hunsinger could not attend due to a recent illness.

This fear of the lessening of necessary voting strength was increased at noon yesterday when another Detroit Democrat, Rep. Frank J. O'Brien, was fogbound in Detroit and not present for roll call. He later appeared, however.

By their majority, Republicans voted down House Clerk Norman E. Philleo's ruling that 56 votes were needed to win the leadership. Then by the same one-vote margin, Republicans won their point that it takes but a majority of those present and voting to organize.

Kowalski warned Republicans that should their ranks dwindle and the Democrats gain the majority they would attempt to reorganize the House.

A 2-EDGED SWORD'

"We're serving notice on you," he said, "that this is a two-edged sword."

Forty-two minutes after the organization battle began, Pears was escorted to the rostrum and handed the gavel.

Rep. Charles A. Boyer (R-Manistee) beat Rep. Albert R. Horrigan (D-Flint) for speaker pro tem by the same 55-54 margin.

Oakland's six legislators—Democrats Arthur J. Law (Pontiac), James Clarkson (Southfield) and John C. Hitchcock (Hazel Park) and Republicans Lloyd L. Anderson (Waterford Township), Farrell E. Roberts (West Bloomfield Township) and William Hayward (Royal Oak)—voted along party lines throughout.

Area Auto Men Face Hearings on Tax Evasion

Two Oakland County men were among seven defendants arraigned yesterday in Detroit Common Pleas Court on charges of evading state sales tax payments of new cars.

All were under $500 bond today pending examination Feb. 9. Common Pleas Judge Benjamin Stanczak released them on $500 personal bond after all stood mute.

The county men involved in the case are Leo M. Calhoun, 1851 Craigen Drive, Bloomfield Hills, general manager of Stu Evans, Inc., and Robert Carrier, 1002 Hickory St., Royal Oak, sales manager of Shores Chevrolet.

Exhibit Stars New Diesel Cab

GM Shows Trucks in Chicago

Star of the GM Truck & Coach Division exhibit at the Chicago Automobile Show opening Friday will be a lightweight Diesel tilt-cab model that has an outstanding array of new engineering features designed to bring more net profit to the truck fleet operators, it was announced by P. J. Monaghan, vice president of General Motors and general manager of the division.

★ ★ ★

Attending from the truck division will be Monaghan, R. C. Woodhouse, general sales manager; J. B. Mosely, Eastern regional sales manager; W. L. VanDeWater, executive assistant in charge of dealer relations, and B. J. Crandell, public relations director.

Also attending will be Roger M. Kyes, GM vice president in charge of GM Truck and several other plants.

It will be the first time that the new GMC model, DLR-8000, has been on public display in a truck exhibit. Around it will be grouped nine other GMCs, a cutaway V-8 engine of 200 horsepower, a cut-away Torqmatic transmission, and a 6-71 Super Economy Diesel engine.

A photographic display involving 11 back-lighted full color transparencies showing GMC trucks at work near some of the nation's landmarks will serve as a backdrop for the exhibit.

Among the pictures is the world's largest portable indirectly illuminated transparency, measuring 6x20 feet, of a rare shrimp dock scene in Louisiana.

The complete from-the-ground-up newness of the lightweight Diesel highway hauler is the first material evidence of GMC's vast engineering development program that in the months ahead will bring a steady stream of major product improvements for truck owners, Monaghan said.

The DLR-8000 has stabilized air ride, independent front wheel suspension, fabricated frame and aluminum cab, with only a 48-inch measurement from bumper to back of cab. It's many new features make it the lightest and safest of any highway tractor in the 60,000 pound G.C.W. weight class, he continued.

"Our GMC truck exhibit this year is by far the most interesting and significant we have ever had," Monaghan said. "The 10 models we are displaying are a representative cross-section of the GMC line which we believe to be the best quality product in the truck market today.

Williams Asks State Mortgage Vets' Fund

treasury is 34 millions short of what is needed to liquidate general fund obligations, not counting a school aid arrearage that hit 44 millions today.

The amount will grow steadily from month to month until it hits 70 millions in mid-May, or about 135 millions counting the school aid arrearage which also will continue to mount, he said.

Williams said the school aid deficit "must" be regarded as part of the over-all General Fund cash shortage even though the Legislature has not yet technically recognized it as such.

As he never has before, Williams stressed the "joint nature" of responsibility shared by the executive and the Legislature and the "imperative" need for cooperation between the two.

Although he devoted more space in his message to the cash crisis, the governor listed unemployment, particularly in the Detroit area, as the state's No. 1 problem.

No single act, by the executive or the Legislature, can dispel the "ugly prospect of a certain degree" of continued joblessness, he aid.

CHRONIC UNEMPLOYMENT

He blamed increasingly chronic unemployment on a complex of factors, most notably automation, loss of defense contracts after the Korean War, obsolescence of Michigan industrial plants and the tendency of big industries to decentralize—largely for market reasons.

But he said there are solutions. He said the governor's special science advisory board, the 100-man committee on the state's economic future and a strengthened economic development commission could be expected to chart a course for improvement.

Drive Launched to Help Burned Out Area Family

Friends and neighbors of the Warren Newsom family of Highland Township whose home burned down Tuesday are promoting a campaign to raise funds, clothing and furniture for the destitute family of six.

The Newsums' six-month-old son, David, died in the fire that swept through their frame cottage at 2809 Duck Lake Rd., as Mrs. Newsum tried vainly to reach the baby's crib.

The couple's other small children are Vickie, 1½, Edward, 3, Lois, 4, and Michael, 5.

A two-bedroom home on Highland road near Duck Lake road has been donated by an anonymous person for the family's use. They presently are staying at the home of Newsum's father at 96 Monterey Ave.

Approximately $120 in cash, along with clothing, food and some furniture already has been donated.

Anyone wishing to contribute more may leave their donations at the Fire Station on Duck Lake road or to call Lester York of 1735 N. Duck Lake Rd., chairman of the campaign. He will arrange for pickups.

Waterford Teen Club Closed by Police

Waterford Township police have closed Steve and Sally's Teenage Club, Highland road at Pontiac Lake road and arrested the owners, Steve Fearn and Sally Jean Wright of Pontiac.

The couple was charged with operating a club without a license. They pleaded guilty and paid a $10 fine in Justice of the Peace Patrick Daley's court.

Police said residents had complained about the conduct of teenagers attending the club.

The club opened in September as a private club with each member required to pay a $1 fee. Police said they found that the club was not confined to members only, but that anyone could participate in its activities.

The club cannot reopen without the Waterford Township Board's approval for a soft drink license.

Baby Dies in Detroit as Candle Starts Fire

DETROIT (AP) — Two-month-old Julius Cash of Detroit was burned fatally last night in a fire apparently started by a candle used because electricity had been cut off for nonpayment of bills.

Firemen rescued his two young sisters unharmed. Their mother, Mary Cash, 20, had gone shopping.

Arctic Air Moves Eastward

Cold Weather Returns

By The Associated Press

Wintry weather, with cold and snow, spread from the northern Rockies into the midcontinent today, ending a brief spell of fairly mild weather.

The arctic air covered the Northern and Central Plains and the upper and mid-Mississippi Valley. It headed eastward and was expected to cover most areas, excluding the eastern seaboard and Southeast states.

Snow accompanied the outbreak of cold along the eastern slopes of the Rockies, with falls in eastern Colorado, Wyoming and western Nebraska. Highways west of Denver were closed. Gusty winds swirled the snow, cutting visibility. Drifts nearly two feet deep were reported in the Golden, Colo., area and a foot deep in Cheyenne, Wyo. Four inches of snow was indicated in the region. Lighter falls were reported in the Upper Mississippi Valley and in the Lake Superior region.

Temperatures dropped sharply as the icy air moved into the Northern Plains, with below zero readings in North Dakota and Montana.

The colder air dipped as far south as Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle.

Wet weather prevailed in wide areas from the Rockies eastward to the Atlantic Coast. The major belt of precipitation extended from Missouri and Arkansas northeastward through the Ohio Valley and lower Great Lakes region. Rain fell in most areas, with snow near Lakes Erie and Ontario.

In other parts of the country, skies were mostly cloudy in the Pacific Northwest and Southern Plains and fair to partly cloudy in other areas.

★ ★ ★

In contrast to the cold in the northern areas, considerably warmer air spread into the eastern Ohio Valley and lower Great Lakes district. Rain was reported in wide areas in Eastern sections.

The Day in Birmingham

U. of M. Alumnae Plan Telephone Bridge Parties

BIRMINGHAM—With the precision of a military operation, the two annual telephone bridge parties sponsored by the Birmingham Alumnae Assn. of the University of Michigan will get under way at 2 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. next Thursday.

Mrs. Paul C. Robertson of 25665 Franklin Hills Dr., who heads the committee of 17, says the group hopes to top last year's record of a thousand dollars which provided scholarships for three U. of M. freshmen in September.

She said about 30 have already signed up and others are needed in the bridge event.

Students in the Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills and Troy area are eligible to file for the scholarships.

Prizes in seven categories will be at the home of Mrs. Frederick Adams, 325 Overhill Dr. Hostesses are to notify Mrs. Adams as soon as a winner is chosen, and prizes will be sent out immediately by "runners."

The bridge parties, the main source of income for the scholarship fund, have shown a steady annual gain since they were started several years ago.

Mrs. Robertson summed it up by saying "the more hostesses, the more money; the more money, the more students we can help."

Baldwin Library announces a special department temporarily set up for the benefit of income taxpayers. It includes the 1959 edition which discusses in full changes in tax laws and how to apply them.

O. T. Moore, vice president and chairman of the Personnel Committee for the International Institute, will be the guest speaker at the Senior Men's Club meeting at the Community House tomorrow.

Moore, who served as director of the U.S. Naturalization Service for 26 years, will talk on "Problems of the Foreign-born in Metropolitan Cities."

Lauron W. Mercer

Service for Lauron W. Mercer, 69, of 112 Linda Lane, will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday in the William R. Hamilton Co. Chapel in Detroit. Burial will follow in Woodlawn Cemetery, Detroit.

He died Wednesday in Women's Hospital, Detroit, after a brief illness.

Mr. Mercer had been senior vice president of the Square D Co. in Detroit since 1955.

Surviving beside his wife, Jean, are two sisters in California.

Mrs. Arthur C. Hensel

Service for Mrs. Arthur (Zoe) C. Hensel, 84, of 1171 Cedar Dr., will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow at Manley Bailey Funeral Home. Burial will follow in White Chapel Cemetery.

Mrs. Hensel died Wednesday at Pines Convalescent Home in Farmington after a lengthy illness.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Lawrence Shafer of Knightstown, Ind., and Mrs. Robert Konersman of Birmingham; and two brothers in Quebec.

Spills Burning Grease, Sets House Afire

A fire gutted a Waterford Township home at 5 p.m. yesterday, causing an estimated $4,000 damage.

Joseph C. Warley of 1384 Murray St. told Waterford Township firemen that as he lifted a burning pan of grease from the kitchen stove to carry it outdoors he dropped it, setting fire to the kitchen. It then spread throughout the entire house.

Firemen battled the blaze for more than one and one-half hours.

Las Vegas Hotel Wants Beauties, Not Strippers

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—One of the hotels on the glittering "strip" here has placed newspaper advertisements for chorus girls with the warning that "no nudes need apply."

★ ★ ★

The Sands Hotel, involved in a controversy with some of this gambling resort's hotels which have been featuring bare-bosomed chorines in floor shows for the past 18 months, announced in its ads "All you need be is beautiful" to become one of its chorus girls.

★ ★ ★

Singer Frank Sinatra and producer Jack Entratter, who together will audition girls Friday and Saturday for forthcoming Copra Room shows at the Sands, said they believed the American public would rather see pretty faces and lavish costumes than a stage full of sheepish-looking showgirls displaying their bare chests.

Cuba has published its first atlas. Based on the 1953 census, the 160-page book includes 156 municipal maps of the island's six provinces.

MEAT EATERS — Argentinians are the biggest red meat eaters in the world (see drawing). Per capita consumption there was 242 pounds in 1957. The United States produced 28.5 per cent of the world's red meat (beef, veal, pork, mutton, lamb, goat and horse meat) in 1957, but garnered only fifth place in consumption. Of the 43 countries listed by the U. S. Agriculture Department, Japan ranked lowest. Russia's average per person was believed to be around 53 pounds.

Amazon Missionaries Enjoy Jungle Lullaby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Leo Halliwell say they have no trouble sleeping after 33 years as missionaries in the Amazon River Valley.

Halliwell made tape recording of jungle sounds before they left the Amazon. The couple plays the tape every night. They say it lulls them to sleep.

Reef 1,250 Miles Long

BRISBANE — Australia's Great Barrier Reef, 1,250 miles long, is the mightiest coral structure in the world. The reef, built up by trillions of limestone-depositing sea organisms, has many stretches never walked by man. About 500 of the cays and islands are uninhabited.

Cowtown Boasts Genuine Wyatt Earp Jail

Wichita Restores Part of Old West

By FRANK TIFFANY

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—A bit of the Old West — so real that you can get yourself tossed into the genuine Wyatt Earp jail — has been restored here.

The arch over the entrance welcomes you to Cowtown. Like the busy city that has grown where that famed early day marshal once kept things orderly with a fast six-gun, Cowtown still is growing.

This year the civic-minded business and professional men and women who formed Historic Wichita, Inc., to keep pioneer relics and spirit alive are in clover. The city, after two budget-squeezing years, voted $15,000 for maintenance and a caretaker, so private funds can go into Cowtown's expansion.

R. M. Long, newspaper editor, currently is Historic Wichita's president. Long's devotion to Cowtown has deep roots. He is managing editor of The Wichita Eagle, still the property of the Murdock family that ran it when Cowtown was all there was to Wichita in the 1870s.

Marcellus Murdock, present Eagle publisher, is a son of Col. Marsh Murdock, the Eagle's founder in 1872. And Col. Marsh is a familiar character to most of the nation's small fry, in the current television series, "The Life and Legend of Wyatt Earp."

The Wyatt Earp jail is the centerpiece of Cowtown, which occupies a virgin flat of grass and dirt streets on the bank of the Big Arkansas River five minutes by auto from the main business district.

The small, wooden structure bears a bronze nameplate dedicated to the famed marshal. The plaque wasn't there, of course, when Earp used the jail as a sobering-up station for boisterous cowhands at the "pay day and whisky" end of the old Chisholm Trail.

It was restored with minor renewals here and there, after serving as a coal house through the years until Historic Wichita found it, bought it, and moved it to its present site and glory.

COWTOWN, KANSAS — Richie Quinlan; 7, draws a bead on the photographer while visiting Wichita's restored Cowtown. The jail in the background once cooled off boisterous cowhands during the days when Wyatt Earp preserved the peace.

Across the street is the Munger House, first home built in Wichita 87 years ago. Nearby are other rough frame buildings — the first volunteer fire station; the first school, a one-room, sod-roofed, dirt-floored structure; a drug store; and the first railroad station, hard benches and all.

Each is furnished with authentic antiques. Most furniture and fittings were donated by descendants of Wichita pioneers.

With Long and his associates — businessmen, doctors, ministers, former city officials and a former Kansas governor, Wichita attorney Payne Ratner — it has been a labor of love.

A sustaining membership in Historic Wichita costs $5, a life membership $100. Every penny goes into Cowtown's improvement.

Last May, wives of members combed the city and staged a rummage sale that netted $625 for the "fix up fund" — for paint, repairs and a general cleanup. Sponsors say the sale may become an annual affair.

Since opened to the public, Cowtown has drawn thousands of visitors. For visitors there is a souvenir pamphlet, telling the city's history in word and picture.

Roseville Bows to Irish, Moves Election Date

DETROIT (AP)—The Irish vote is heavy in suburban Roseville.

With this in mind, Roseville's school board is going to change the date of an important school tax election.

"We can't afford," said board attorney Raymond Cashen, "to get the Irish mad at us."

Cashen, himself an Irishman, said the board inadvertently set the election for March 17, St. Patrick's Day, requiring the closing of all bars under election law.

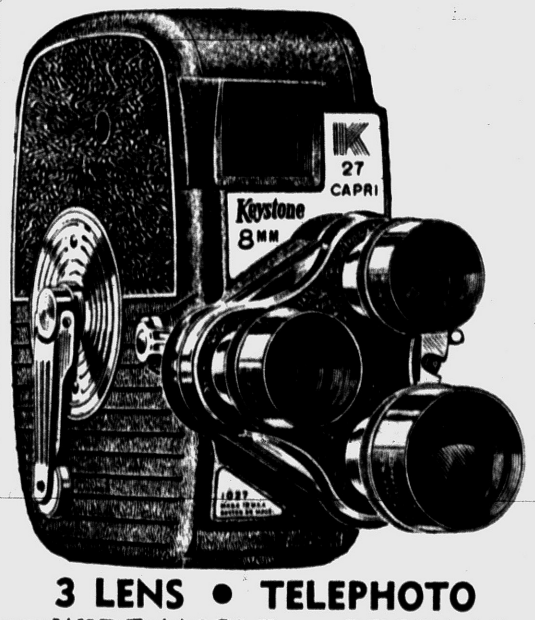

Set Vocational Training

CAIRO — The United Arab Republic is planning to establish 18 vocational centers for training in printing, glass, leather, engineering, woodwork, radio, and textile industries. The centers will be able to train 800 preparatory-school graduates under an industrial apprenticeship plan.

Deserving Chiefs Take Top Spot in Basketball

Three cheers for Pontiac Central High's basketball team. Let's bask in our glory while the Chiefs cling to the top rung in the Michigan AP weekly rankings.

The West Huron Street quintet deserves the top spot. They have been playing heads up ball all winter to achieve their 5-0 record.

Ranking first in the entire state is something brand new for a Pontiac high school basketball team. We have had some good teams in the past few years, but they have never quite achieved the top ranking. Third place a couple of years ago was our best showing to date.

★ ★ ★

Friday's game should be a pip with the Chiefs taking on Flint Northern ranked No. 2. Win or lose, the coaches and players should know that all Pontiac is mighty proud of their splendid showing.

Currency Convertibility Benefits West Europe

Fears of economic warfare between Britain and the member nations of the European Common Market (ECM) have been brushed aside by recent currency developments in Western Europe.

After consultations these nations, including Britain and the Scandinavian countries, decided to make their currencies freely convertible into dollars or other money. This could not have come about unless Western Europeans felt confident of their economic future.

The move was dictated by strength in all countries except France. But under Gen. DE GAULLE'S austerity program that nation is moving vigorously to bolster its economic status. In ECM Britain saw a competitive threat to its world trading position and acted to forestall it.

European currencies should now be more attractive to world traders and in time may result in increased business. There still are many controls, however. For example, British and French citizens cannot change their money into dollars and import quotas are general.

No one is quite sure what the results will be and the free world's money is still a long way from complete convertibility. A French financier calls the currency reshuffle "a pretty momentous step." West Germany's Finance Minister Erhard expresses "profound satisfaction." A British leader says it is the biggest contribution to free trade since World War II.

Economic experts in the United States feel that it means greater competition for American products in European markets. Our State Department, however, hails it as a welcome and substantial move forward in international relations.

Nomination of Strauss Likely to Be Approved

The chances appear likely that LEWIS L. STRAUSS, Secretary of Commerce, will be approved when his nomination comes up. He is disliked by many Senators but they do respect his ability.

★ ★ ★

Currently he is serving in the post under recess appointment of Nov. 10. Prior to this he had served a five year term as Atomic Energy Commission chairman.

Strauss is well trained for the Commerce post after 27 years of association with a Wall Street investment house. Aside from this training he has served as a director on several large corporations.

★ ★ ★

His business experience far outweighs some of his predecessors as Secretary of Commerce. During the New Deal under FDR, businessmen were in low repute, so much so that President ROOSEVELT gave the job to a South Carolina lawyer by the name of DANIEL C. ROPER in 1933.

★ ★ ★

Another weird choice by ROOSEVELT to follow ROPER was HARRY L. HOPKINS, by profession a social worker. Following HOPKINS came JESSIE H. JONES, an outstanding banker from Texas.

Next in line to hold the post was former vice president Henry A. Wallace, agronomist by profession. This appointment was merely paying off a debt to Wallace for his services in the 1944 campaign, so wrote FDR to Jones.

President TRUMAN ousted WALLACE 18 months later because of a speech deploring our Russian policy as bellicose.

★ ★ ★

Checking this list over it is easy to understand how it would be hard to vote against a man with such formidable experience.

Ice Fishermen Leave Traps for the Skaters and Others

Curve: What causes accidents by the driver (hugging the wrong one.)

Several complaints have been received about the holes being left unprotected, that fishermen cut in the ice in the many lakes in the Pontiac area. At least two children have fallen into such holes while skating, and would have drowned had not help been immediately at hand.

An old board, some willow brush from the shore, or other warning can easily mark the spot. It is hoped we can go through the winter with no casualties of this kind.

Other complaints say that dead fish are left on the ice, which then are eaten by the neighborhood dogs and are sickened by the bones, also that in a few cases the ice is littered with beer cans and bottles and other garbage. Let's keep our lakes clean of drownings and otherwise.

A New Road

David Lawrence Says:

Eisenhower Commands Respect

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower may have thought last Friday he was addressing the most important audience in the nation when he talked to both houses of Congress, but he was mistaken. His audience at a 50th anniversary celebration of the National Press Club of Washington was really more important.

LAWRENCE

For, in his address to the Congress, the President revealed the national and international policies of his administration. To the press he revealed Dwight Eisenhower—the man, the soldier, and the chief executive of the most powerful government in the free world. He spoke to far more newspapermen than are eligible to attend his usual press conferences at the White House.

Contrary to the insidious propaganda that has in recent months been spread in America, Eisenhower was no invalid standing before the members of the press nor an individual, as sometimes pictured, indifferent to the cares of his office.

No "part-time" president of hesitant speech stood before the assembled newspapermen and their associates, but a chief executive of erect bearing whose ruddy face, alertness and directness of speech gave an even better impression of health and vigor than six years ago when he was inaugurated.

Dwight Eisenhower has his critics—they differ with him vehemently on public questions. But few persons who have watched him in public office would deny that he has an innate graciousness and kindliness toward his fellow man, natural and spontaneous, which is his biggest asset.

When the President was asked by the newsmen to do a bit of reminiscence about his work as head of the Allied armies in World War II, he did so with characteristic modesty. He gave credit to his associate commanders and to his staff. He conceded that there had once been doubts among our Allies as to how the war should be fought—whether the invasion of Normandy was wise and the length of time it might take to achieve victory. "But," he said, with a smile, "we won."

Looking back to those fateful days of the war when the lives of millions of American and Allied soldiers depended upon the wisdom and judgment of the commanders, one wonders why today there are even a few misguided persons writing for the press or making partisan speeches who would question for a moment the fidelity to his job which Dwight Eisenhower as a man of military tradition gives to the constitutional office to which he is bound by oath to serve faithfully.

Arguments on public policy involve natural differences of opinion, and there is justification for sharp debate on issues and principles. But respect must be given to the chief executive as a person, especially when he is honestly trying to carry out the duties of his office.

Politics sometimes regrettably becomes intensely personal, but no man in the White House in the memory of this correspondent has been subjected more to the sniping barbs of politically minded individuals than Dwight Eisenhower.

As a president, Eisenhower will rank high in history, not because he has succeeded in every policy but because he has dealt earnestly and sincerely with some of the most frustrating problems that ever faced a chief executive in our history.

The presidency itself is today an impossible job. The public expects one man to be policy maker, administrator, debater, showman and leader of popular causes, and, with all that, to make progress in government, notwithstanding that the opposite political party has an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress.

The Country Parson

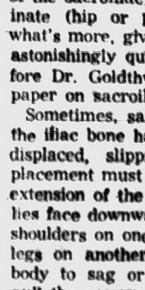

"Most of our homes have both a Bible and a radio—but allow the wrong one to be silent."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Manipulation May Relieve Sacroiliac Displacement

Years ago, Dr. Joel E. Goldthwait described relaxation of strain of the sacroiliac joints.

That was the first I had heard of relaxation, sprain, strain, dislocation, displacement or even the slightest motion in the acroiliac joints. In fact, I was taught in medical school that no movement in these joints was possible, except in a woman about to bear a child.

DR. BRADY

The sacroiliac joints are the junctions, one on either side, of the sacrum or base of the spine with the ilium or wing of the innominate (hip, pelvic) bone on either side.

Prior to Goldthwait's elucidation of sacroiliac strain, most victims were content to take a lot of fool medicine for lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism (the trick specialists had not yet discovered the hypnotic power of "arthritis"), use lively liniment, apply porous plasters or go to Tepid Springs to have the acid, waste matter or poison boiled out of their systems. That's what the bartender, barber or friendly cop advised.

I have no positive knowledge to confirm this, but I believe osteopathic physicians were manipulating what they called subluxation of the sacroiliac or slipped innominate (hip or pelvic bone) and, what's more, giving many patients astonishingly quick relief long before Dr. Goldthwait published his paper on sacroiliac strain.

Sometimes, said Dr. Goldthwait, the iliac bone has become slightly displaced, slipping forward. Replacement must be tried by hyperextension of the spine—the patient lies face downward with chest and shoulders on one table, thighs and legs on another. This allows the body to sag or hang, tending to pull the sacrum forward on ilium.

EXPLAIN, DOCTOR!

Now, now, I'm merely telling you what Dr. Goldthwait said. Please don't ask me to explain it, for frankly I too find it hard to understand—although I am not going to deny that slight displacement or motion of ilium on sacrum can happen.

On the other hand I must accord the osteopaths credit for their recognition of motion in the sacroiliac and their skill in relieving or correcting the trouble.

Here's a bit of simple advice for the protection of all sacroiliacs: Never bend your back to lift anything off the floor or ground; squat down, keeping your back erect, and use your thighs to lift with.

Finally, let me suggest that if you do strain your sacroiliac, manipulation by an osteopath may be your best bet.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Fear Can Bring Strange Reactions

Bob's case shows how easily we can hoodwink ourselves about medical conditions. His wife was almost a nervous wreck keeping oxygen tanks in their hotel room and regulating the flow into Bob's nostrils. Yet his body showed no oxygen hunger when we shut off the tank valve, for Bob was like many dope addicts whose hunger is chiefly in their minds!

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE A-428: Bob T., aged 56, is a dynamic salesman.

"But he is in terrible shape right now," his wife telephoned me recently.

DR. CRANE

"For he has had a bad case of asthma the past six months. He was put on oxygen for a few days to help relieve his tension and now he insists he will die if we don't keep oxygen flowing steadily into his nostrils.

"But I believe he doesn't need the oxygen, and our last doctor intimated the same thing.

"However, Bob gets panicky and says he is dying if I don't keep the oxygen flowing steadily from the tanks we must keep in our hotel room at all times.

"Dr. Crane, could you please drop in to see Bob. Since he is an old friend and admirer of yours, it would do him a lot of good, even if I am wrong about the oxygen."

"HORSE SENSE"

Medicine, like other branches of science, is really based on simple "horse sense" rules.

Our body was built to operate on air that contains not quite 20 per cent oxygen and about 80 per cent nitrogen.

In cases of heart attacks, pneumonia and a few other crises where anemia doesn't permit enough oxygen to reach the muscles on the usual 20 per cent atmospheric oxygen content, then we enrichen the mixture by bubbling oxygen into your nostrils via tubes or even use of the oxygen tent.

But it is unwise to use extra oxygen if your body doesn't need it, for you just burn yourself out that much faster.

To clinch this idea in simple, understandable fashion, I later explained to Bob that when we blow on a fire, the fuel burns up faster because of the extra oxygen.

A bellows on the old blacksmith's forge did the same thing. It drove more oxygen against the coal, so the coal turned redder and was consumed faster.

Extra oxygen thus acts much like extra thyroid extract and is not good for a person who doesn't need such additional prods.

So I asked Bob's wife to turn off the oxygen from the tank. Bob got panicky. He claimed he was dying. He cried out to his wife to have mercy on him and turn the oxygen back on.

★ ★ ★

But I checked his heart action and calmly told him he was not showing any ill effects.

I sat there feeling his pulse and listening to his heart tones.

Bob acted as if he were asphyxiated for lack of oxygen. He threshed around and even tried to faint.

But his pulse remained steady and hardly varied more than 3 or 4 beats per minute, despite his mental turmoil.

After 15 minutes, I asked his wife to turn the oxygen back on. Although Bob had dropped his head back and acted unconscious, he immediately became rational and calm again, showing that his supposed oxygen hunger was a mental problem.

★ ★ ★

If his body had needed the extra oxygen, his heart would have begun to beat faster and his pulse would have zoomed when we cut off the tank oxygen.

I offer this case to show you how easily a college educated man can deceive himself about medical problems, for the smarter you are, the easier it is for you to become a hypochondriac (worry wart).

★ ★ ★

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

Reader Hits Free-Spending Government Study Groups

Every time I go through a newspaper I read of more commissions and "study groups" figuring out places to slap on more taxes. I've yet to read anything of moment about ways to cut expenses.

★ ★ ★

I note nine of our state supported colleges are going for a lump sum which they will divide up. This will be a real whing-ding, the idea being it will avoid duplication. However, the joke is that it will require a boost of 12 million dollars. One of our seats of learning is doing 400 research projects. The only one mentioned was a study of the "relationship of undernourishment to working capacity."

★ ★ ★

In view of the way educators are reaching for taxpayers, it might be worthwhile to know just how little the worker can exist on and still pay taxes to support the researchers doing the spending.

These are only a couple samples. The same attitude permeates every level of government with claims that "the people demand it." Half the so-called demands of the people are demands of those spending the people's money.

★ ★ ★

When one of these commissions is made up of people battling to feed and clothe their families and pay the demanded taxes all with 25-cent dollars, it won't require several hundred pages of reports nor will it need a professor of semantics to get the drift of it. It's about time to force some of our visionaries (who are supposed to protect our interests) to make the pattern fit the cloth instead of dreaming up new patterns with more frills with demands for more cloth.

'It's Easy for Ike to Be Unmoved'

Eisenhower was displeased with the demonstrations against the Russia bum. Well, if someone had slaughtered two of Eisenhower's children and an uncle, he would want jeers and boos for the faker. I didn't picket at the Detroit Club, but I came out of the regions he made deep with the blood of the dead and dying.

Offers Suggestions to Road Workers

I'd like to give a word of praise to the Road Commission for the heroic work the men performed New Year's Eve. We were out in the mess and were very grateful to them as well as others who had to be out, such as police, firemen, doctors, ambulance drivers, etc.

It occurred to me that it might be an idea for road men to have a truck loaded with salt at one of their homes so when an emergency comes up they could take off in that for the point they ordinarily load up, thereby saving a lot of time. It's also this equipment doesn't drop the salt in front of the vehicle instead of back.

Anyway, bravo to all who cleared the roads.

'Martin Ouster One More Error'

Throwing Joe Martin out was a bad mistake and the GOP will regret it, for he was a sound thinker and a good leader. The Republicans make more and more mistakes as they get farther and farther behind. What will they be like in 1960?

'We Use Cards for Missions'

We use old Christmas cards in our missionary society. We cut them, paste them on poster paper, ship them to mission fields. Many of these children have never seen a pretty picture, let alone owned one, and missionaries give them out in their contacts and thus win their confidence.

'He's Blaming Wrong Party'

Concerning the criticism of poor radio reception, I agree he has a gripe, but he's blaming the wrong party. I've had radio trouble, also, and happen to know it's an amateur radio bug. It's too bad people are deprived of the news because a guy wants to play.

'That Proves We Don't Squander'

Connecticut's Governor wants to junk 56 of his state's departments as an economy measure. Here's a hero in government and furthermore he's a Democrat, showing that the party really wants to save money. Will someone introduce him to our man Williams, for I'm a Democrat but I don't favor the millions Williams has tossed around.

Stumps U.S. in Political Campaign Tour

Mikoyan's Energy Wears Out Reporters

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

NEW YORK (AP) — "That guy!" gasped the veteran West Coast reporter: "There was that one little kid with a big red baseball cap in the whole crowd. This Mikoyan no more gets out the door than he spots him and goes right over to pat him on the head. All the cameras went off at once."

The scene had taken place at Perino's restaurant on Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles.

In Detroit an exhausted reporter at the end of a long day sank into his chair at the office: "If Mickey Mantle could only have the legs this guy has got! He must have walked 10 miles today through all those auto plants. And he's 63 years old too."

At the Lincoln Electric Co. plant in Cleveland Mikoyan stopped to chat with a worker who spoke a bit of Russian. After a brief but cordial exchange, Mikoyan extended his hand to give a warm clasp and said: "And please do remember to give my very best wishes to your father and mother."

★ ★ ★

At a news conference at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles a correspondent asked a ticklish question: "How is it that you have managed to survive through four governments of the Soviet Union when others have not?"

Without a flicker of an eyelash, Mikoyan quipped in reply: "Didn't I say before that I thought I was fortunate . . ."

All these and dozens of other incidents illustrate one fact about Anastas I. Mikoyan. He takes to political campaigning like a duck to water. He has a gift for doing exactly the right thing at the right time in order to win over his audience or grab the stage. He loves being in the limelight. And he doesn't mind an uphill struggle.

"You know if he were to stick around for a while I think he would get elected senator," joked a California businessman.

And in fact in his seven-day, five-city coast-to-coast tour of America, Mikoyan was waging a real political campaign. He was running against the deep mistrust for the Soviet Union which by now is ingrained in the American mind. He was campaigning to establish a picture of a Soviet leader as a warm, friendly, humorous and human type of person. He was campaigning against trade restrictions, against suspicion of Soviet motives. The platform he was running on was peace and an end to the cold war, more trade and more contacts between the Soviet Union and America, and the concept of "let's talk things over even if we don't think we can settle anything."

The Mikoyan technique includes humor, frankness, reasonableness, a warmly human approach and unperturbed stolidity in the face of open hostility.

His sense of humor has made more impression than perhaps any other single element in his approach:

On Adlai Stevenson: "After our talk with him Khrushchev and I exchanged impressions. We decided here is a thinking American who desires to understand us better. He lacked a few million votes of becoming president. Perhaps if we had been approached we could have lent them to him."

★ ★ ★

On U.S. trade restrictions: "Among things permitted for export to the Soviet Union are laxatives. Thank you, but it is impossible to soften us up that way."

Seen at close quarters over a period of time, Mikoyan emerges as a man of enormous vitality and energy. This is not merely a matter of being able to walk miles, make one speech after another before tough audiences, and get by at times with only a few hours sleep. It is a question of having the bounding vigor which makes these things and the other responsibilities of Soviet statesmanship a creative opportunity and not just a chore.

Apology Kills Charge

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Malmud were brought into court on jaywalking charges, they denied crossing the street against the lights but apologized for calling the patrolman who arrested them a "jackass." Case dismissed.

Passing New Law Not an Easy Matter

By TOM SHAWVER

LANSING (AP)—Ever said to yourself in anger and frustration, "There ought to be a law"?

Most likely, that's as far as you went to right what you thought was a wrong against yourself, your community or society in general.

Fact is, however, that many a Michigan law has had its roots in just such a situation. Any citizen has the right to propose a new law, and many do.

The trick is to bring one of Michigan's 144 legislators around to your way of thinking. Only state representatives and state senators may sponsor legislation to change existing laws or set up new ones.

Let's say, for example, that you'd like to reduce the daytime speed limit on state highways from 65 to 60 miles an hour.

You outline your thinking to a legislator and, if he goes along with the idea, he usually drafts a bill in rough form and turns it over to the legislative service bureau in the capitol. State attorneys there polish it up in correct legal form.

Next the bill, with the names of one or more sponsoring lawmakers attached, goes either to the House or Senate for introduction, depending on whether its chief sponsor is a representative or senator.

That's only the beginning. From that point on, the measure may be tossed into the legislative scrapheap at any one of the many hurdles it must cross before the governor finally signs it into law. Each is a protective barrier set up to minimize the chances for hasty or ill-conceived action.

TWO READINGS

First, let's say, the bill, with an assigned number attached, is introduced before the full House membership. The House clerk twice reads the title outlining its purpose so that members know what's before them for consideration. Those are the first and second readings.

Next, the speaker assigns the bill to one of dozens of special committees made up of legislators. The speed limit bill probably would go to the public safety or roads and bridges committee.

Whether the bill lives or dies at that point often hinges on whether the committee chairman, a member of the majority party, supports it. He's the man who schedules hearings and calls for committee votes.

If he's against the bill, he may ignore it. If he's for it, he'll probably schedule a hearing, calling in traffic safety experts and law enforcement men to testify on the need and probable effects.

If a majority of the committee approve, the bill, possibly amended, does to the floor of the House for further consideration. If not, it dies then and there unless a majority of the elected members (56) vote to pull it from the committee.

Debate begins at that point, first on what's called "general orders." There it can be amended or pigeonholed if lawmakers vote to return it to committee. Survival pushes it on to third and final reading where "yes" votes by a majority of members-elect can sent it across the capitol rotunda to the Senate.

There the whole process begins all over again.

BACK TO HOUSE

The Senate, perhaps, passes the measuure and amends it, too. Back it goes to the House for consideration of the amendments.

If House members okay them, the measure goes to the Governor for signing. If not, a special "conference committee" of senators and representatives is appointed to settle the differences.

Agreement, disagreement or compromise may bring further votes.

If and when both houses come to terms, the bill goes to the Governor. In most cases, he signs the bill into law.

★ ★ ★

Usually, he vetoes some. These go back to the legislature where two-thirds of the members-elect in both houses must support the measure before it becomes law over the Governor's veto.

Does the whole lawmaking process sound discouraging? It's full of barriers and pitfalls, all right, but if your pet bill dies somewhere en route, just remember—there's always next year.

★ ★ ★

Gov. Williams, among others, ought to know. Ten years in a row he's backed a bill to stamp Michigan's top agricultural products with a "seal of quality." Ten times it has met defeat, but Williams, undaunted, is going to have another try at it this year.

Can't Charge Bad Back to Old Library Building

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Mortimer D. Schwartz, chairman of the Norman Public Library Board, made a stirring appeal before the City Commission for a new library building but he spoke in a half-bent position.

He explained to the commission he had a crick in his back, and added: "I would like to say I got it from holding up the old library building to keep it from falling down. But the truth is I did a little too much gardening."

Hal Boyle Says:

In Sick, Angry World—Chionchios Forgive

NEW YORK (AP)—Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato:

"It is not a matter for the state," murmured Frank Chionchio. "It is for God to decide."

The question at issue was what was to be done with Jean Iavarone, accused of kidnaping the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chionchio 2½ hours after her birth in a Brooklyn hospital.

To the consternation of officials neither young lawyer Chionchio nor his wife wanted to press charges against widowed Mrs. Iavarone, mother of eight children herself, after a tip to police led to the discovery of their daughter in her home, not far from Brooklyn police headquarters.

The young couple who had borne themselves with a dignity beyond hysteria during their long ordeal, were not interested in punishing the kidnaper. They were only happy and grateful they had their baby back, alive and well.

This attitude was incomprehensible to the forces of the law, who had thrown from 500 to 700 men into a 10-day-and-night street-by-street search for the stolen infant.

To Chionchio, 28, a lawyer for the Port of New York Authority, Mrs. Iavarone, 43, was "a poor, sick woman" unable to comprehend the enormity of the crime or the suffering it had caused.

★ ★ ★

Only after considerable pressure by legal officials, during which it was pointed out that he himself could be held as a material witness in the case, did he reluctantly sign a complaint against Mrs. Iavarone.

Even then, as he left the conference, the young father murmured stubbornly: "It is not a matter for the state. It is for God to decide."

Police felt just the other way. They were pretty sure it was a matter for the state. They felt that Mrs. Iavarone, none of whose seven living children dwelt with her, was more calculating than ill.

Their theory: Mrs. Iavarone deliberately stole the infant in the hopes of palming it off as her own and thereby forcing her boy friend to marry her. She faces a possible sentence of 2 years to life in prison if convicted.

To many, the attitude of Mr. and Mrs. Chionchio must seem incredibly naive. The instinct for revenge and retribution is overwhelmingly strong in most of us, and when someone hurts us we want to hurt them back just as soon as we are able to.

We pay lip service to the ideals of forgiveness, turning the other cheek, and doing unto one another as we would have them do unto us. But in our daily life we often don't live up to these ideals. We turn to the older law of fang and claw.

It is inconceivable, certainly for most of us, to think that Mrs. Iavarone, if proved both sane and guilty, should go unpunished by the laws of man.

★ ★ ★

But it is unimportant whether Mr. and Mrs. Chionchio are right or wrong. In an angry world, surely sicker and just as confused in many ways as the woman who stole their baby, their Christian charity under stress stands as a bright beacon of true faith.

Instead of retaliation, they have responded to this blow against their happiness and family security with forgiveness, a reach for understanding, and a desire that a higher judge decide the case.

It is an example of humanity at its best, as rare as it is inspiring.

DETROIT — Three countries exported more automobiles in 1957 than the United States. West Germany was the leader with exports of 502,241 passenger cars, Great Britain second with 426,272, and France third with 218,565. The United States exported 141,969.

Horse Slips and Falls on Mounted Policeman

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Mounted Patrolman William R. Blaylock suffered only minor bruises and a red face when his horse slipped and fell on him.

Blaylock was almost struck by a motorist who ran a red light. He yelled for the driver to halt and was approaching the car when his horse slipped on an oily spot. Blaylock went down and the motorist went on.

Head Almost Every Major Committee in Congress

Southerners Wield Vast Power on Capitol Hill

(This is the fourth of a series of articles by a noted Washington correspondent highlighting the key men in the Capitol today as the new session of Congress gets to work.)

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — Thanks to the one-party system below the Mason-Dixon line, southern legislators amass so much seniority that they head practically every major committee in the two houses of Congress.

This phenomenon of politics gives the lion's share of power to a small section of the Democratic Party.

Because these chairmen automatically wield vast influence over their less favored colleagues, they must be watched during the current session for portents of the 1960 campaign issues.

In the Senate, Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas has assigned to himself unprecedented powers which have been discussed in an earlier article in this series. His fellow southerners, however, are close on his heels.

Elder statesman Harry F. Byrd of Virginia controls the potent finance committee whose actions acutely affect the purse and taxation of every American. To an even greater extent, the House Ways and Means Committee writes the ticket on tax legislation, since all money bills must originate in the House. Its chairman is Rep. Jere Cooper of Tennessee.

The Armed Services Committee chairmanships of both chambers are neatly tied up by a couple of Georgia gentlemen: Sen. Richard Russell and Rep. Carl Vinson. When they whistle, the Pentagon jumps.

The average American, in thinking of agriculture, visualizes vast fields of wheat and corn. Not so the Capitol. There, both committees are controlled by tobacco, cotton and sugar cane boys: Rep. Harold Cooley of North Carolina and Sen. Allan J. Ellender of Louisiana.

★ ★ ★

The two banking and currency committees are headed by southerners: Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas and Rep. Brent Spence of Kentucky. Fulbright is also the most powerful member of the foreign relations committee, since he is second in rank to the aging, 91-year-old chairman, Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island.

CONTROL EDUCATION

Union leaders who have made vast inroads into the northern branch of the Democratic Party have met with frustrating roadblocks in much of the southland. By the inexorable rule of seniority, the chairmen of both labor committees are southerners: Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama and Rep. Graham A. Barden of North Carolina. Ironically, these committees also control legislation on education, despite Dixie revolts against the Supreme Court's ruling on integration.

Practically every investigating committee of the Senate is headed by Sen. John L. McClellan of Arkansas, who is chairman of government operations and the now-famed Senate Racketeering Committee. He is also a powerful member of appropriations and judiciary.

Even the post office and civil service committees of the two houses are controlled by southerners: Sen. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina and Rep. Tom Murray of Tennessee.

Vast power is wielded by Rep. Howard W. Smith of Virginia as chairman of the House Rules Committee, a group which has had a tidy little habit of bottling up legislation which displeases the ultra-conservative Smith and his cohorts.

At the other end of the Capitol, Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi rules the judiciary committee with an iron hand and Communist-hating soul.

Believe it or not, but there are a few non-southerners who have gained such positions of power that they bear watching in the crucial session-ahead.

A FEW EXCEPTIONS

Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona and Rep. Clare Cannon of Missouri reign supreme over the two appropriations committees which control the pursestrings of our nation.

Informed politicos are also keeping their eye on Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the assistant majority leader who holds important posts on the foreign relations and rules and administration committees.

The single most important Republican in the upper chamber is Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire: Dean of the GOP, former Senate president pro-tem and chairman of the appropriations committee, who now heads the Republican policy committee. Bridges outranks all of his GOP colleagues on appropriations and the dazzling new space committee. And is No. 2 Republican on the Armed Services Committee.

Senators Everett Dirksen and Thomas Kuchel bear the titles of Republican leader and whip, but behind the scenes you can be sure that Bridges will manage to pull the more crucial strings.

The top-ranking GOP member of the House is newly elected minority leader Charles A. Halleck, but the real and undisputed boss of that chamber is Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas—a southerner, natch!

Born as a French fur-trading center in 1764, St. Louis became the crossroad of America's westward expansion. Today it ranks as the queen inland port on the Mississippi.

Paying Social Security Tax

Refund Due in Some Cases

By RAY HENRY
Associated Press Writer

You've probably got a Social Security tax refund coming if you worked for two or more employers last year and earned more than $4,200.

★ ★ ★

For example: Suppose you worked for the Acme Building Co. for the first seven months of 1958 and received wages of $3,800 and for the Ace Construction Corp. for the last five months and received $3,600.

The Social Security Law required both companies to deduct a 2¼ per cent tax for Social Security from the money you earned. Each company had to do so without regard to the deductions made by the other.

This means that you paid Social Security tax on $7,400 in wages or a total tax of $166.50. The Acme Building Co. deducted $85.50 (2¼ per cent of $3,800) and the Ace Construction Co. deducted $81 (2¼ of $3,600).

And, it means you paid too much tax. Under the Social Security Law, you only needed to pay the 2¼ per cent on $4,200 of what you earned in 1958 — or a total tax of $94.50.

★ ★ ★

So, now you're due a refund of $72. That's the difference between the $94.50 you needed to pay to meet the requirements of the Social Security Law and the $166.50 you actually paid.

Here's a simple way you can find out whether you're due a refund:

Get together the federal withholding tax statements given you by your employers in 1958. (If your employer hasn't yet given you such a statement, put in a request for it.)

On each statement, you'll notice a small square with these words printed in it: F.I.C.A. employe tax withheld, if any.

Now add the amounts of money you find entered in the square on each of the withholding statements. If the total is more than $94.50, you're eligible for a refund.

How do you get the refund?

You should apply for it at the time you file your regular income tax form with the Internal Revenue Service. You do so by adding the tax overpayment to the amount of income tax which was withheld from your wages for 1958.

Thus, the overpayment increases the amount of your withholding tax for 1958. It can decrease the amount of tax you still owe. Or it might increase the amount of your refund of taxes from the Internal Revenue Service.

If you need help in claiming the refund, you can get it from the IRS.

If you fail to claim a Social Security tax overpayment for the year you paid it, you can claim it within the following two years. After that, you're out of luck.

For example: If you overpaid in 1956, you must claim it by Jan. 1, 1960. After that, you can't get a refund.

★ ★ ★

Employers may not get Social Security tax overpayments paid for employes. The Internal Revenue Code views such payments as part of the cost of running a business.

Fight to Repeal Tax on Autos

Bill to Void 10 Per Cent Levy on Cars Asked by Michigan Dem

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new fight to repeal the 10 per cent federal tax on automobiles is getting under way with the opening of the new Congress.

Rep. Thaddeus Marchrowicz (D-Mich) introduced a repealer on opening day last week, and Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain (R-Mich) planned to offer his own measure later today.

Marchrowicz, a member of the tax-writing House ways and means committee which will consider the bills, said prospects are "fair or better than fair" for repeal of the wartime tax this year.

Chamberlain, in a speech prepared for the house today, said failure to repeal the auto excise "contributed immensely to the crippling economic recession that plagued the nation during the past year."

* * *

Chamberlain noted that President Eisenhower had asked for removal of tax inequities in his state of the union message to Congress last week, and added:

"It is my hope that this is one of the areas of revision that the President had in mind — together with many of our other wartime excise taxes."

Administration opposition to repeal of the tax last year kept the measures from coming to a vote, Machrowicz said, "but I know that several fellow members on the ways and means committee are more favorably disposed toward it this time."

* * *

Chamberlain called the tax "a millstone around the neck of one of our basic industries.

"It is not a 'relief for Michigan' bill," he continued, "this is a matter that reaches deep into the heart of every village in the United States."

Film Academy Repeals Red Competition Bylaw

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—The Academy of Motion Picture Art and Sciences repealed its bylaw barring Communists from competing for Oscars Wednesday, saying it is unworkable.

It attributed this to the fact that it has no control over the engaging of talent for films.

Urgency for Branch Universities Told by Hannah

St. Augustine House Near Oxford

Ex-Executive Heads Religious Community

By LEE WINBORN

ADDISON TOWNSHIP—Nestled in the hills southeast of Oxford is St. Augustine House—a Lutheran religious community, believed to be the first of its kind in the United States. It was founded by a man who is devoting his life to Christian service and the development of the "Congregation of the Servants of Christ."

Arthur C. Kreinheder was an executive of the J. L. Hudson Co., Detroit, for over 20 years before he decided to fulfill a life-long ambition and study for the priesthood in the Church of Sweden.

Father Kreinheder, who is now 53, found the incentive to study theology after a visit to the religious community of Taize, France, which he had read about in a national magazine.

He spent Holy Week in 1949 with the Brothers of Taize. The following January he resigned from his position at Hudson's and left for Sweden to study for the Lutheran priesthood.

RETURNS HOME

Six years later, in 1956, Father Kreinheder was ordained and returned to his home near Oxford to take part in the establishment of a religious community for Lutherans.

He offered the use of his home on Drahner road as a retreat house for members of the Fellowship of St. Augustine.

The Fellowship was founded in 1956 to "promote interest, study and understanding of the religious life in a community for Lutherans."

In a little over two years since its founding the Fellowship has grown from 15 to over 200 members. Included on the Fellowship roster are clergymen, seminarians, deaconesses, pastors' wives, students and lay people of various Lutheran synodical affiliations.

"During our first years," Father Superior Kreinheder said, "our prayers of the Fellowship were answered," Father Kreinheder said, "and a religious community called 'the Congregation of the Servants of Christ' was established."

SOME TAKE VOWS

Today there are two brothers who have taken vows and two oblates who follow the life of prayer while carrying on their regular vocations in the community. Oblates are not bound by the three vows of poverty, chastity and obedience.

"During our first years," Father Superior Kreinheder said, "our service to the Church and its Lord will be mainly one of worship and work at St. Augustine House."

"We see many opportunities for service—great vistas for our work of preaching, teaching, assisting the poor, helping those abandoned by others and publishing booklets and liturgical materials," he added.

Just recently members of this religious community offered their services to the new Community Hospital near Almont to do whatever tasks are assigned to them.

The daily schedule at St. Augustine House begins at 6 a.m. with prayers followed by breakfast and morning chores. Prayers at 9 a.m. precede another work period, and there are prayers before dinner at noon which is followed by rest.

PRAYER STARTS DAY

The afternoon schedule is marked by prayer at 3 p.m., another work period and a meeting at 5:30 to discuss and rehearse the liturgy for the following day.

Angelus, Vespers and supper at 6 p.m. come before a recreation time, and at 9 p.m. the Office of Compline, a short period of prayer, completes the day's activities.

On Sunday and Feast Days the Holy Eucharist is celebrated at 9 a.m., and no work is scheduled, Father Kreinheder said.

BUILD BIGGER CHAPEL

St. Augustine House is on the crest of a hill on 40 acres of wooded land and has a small chapel of its own at the end of the entrance hall. Last summer a larger chapel was constructed near the house from a dismantled quonset hut.

LUTHERAN FATHER SUPERIOR—A former executive of the J. L. Hudson Co., Detroit, Arthur C. Kreinheder of Oxford, gave up his position in the business world in 1950 to study for the priesthood in the Church of Sweden. After his ordination, he returned to his home on Drahner road in Addison Township and founded a religious community for Lutherans, said to be the only one of its kind in the United States.

Future plans include the remodeling of the garage into a guest house for those who visit the retreat. Now with overnight facilities at a minimum, residents in the neighborhood take in visitors to St. Augustine House for short periods of time.

Seminarians and other students are not expected to be able to make contributions other than their labor, Father Kreinheder said. Pastors and others who spend their time in study may contribute whatever they care to.

"We are supported only by the savings of our members and by contributions," the father superior added.

His Birthday Hopes Are for Eyesight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Today was little Hugh Thornhill's 7th birthday—and he spent it with a doctor who hopes to save the failing sight in the boy's one remaining eye.

Hugh, who arrived here from Natchez, Miss., last night with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Thornhill, has been to doctors before. He suffers from glaucoma, a disease that destroys sight through pressure inside the eyeball.

The boy has undergone 10 operations since he was 5 months old—and lost his right eye four years ago.

When hopes for his left eye grew dim, a Utah man named C. Shreve wired Natchez Mayor Troy Watkins that Dr. William Ferguson of San Francisco had saved the sight of his grandchild, a victim of the same disease.

The Thornhills decided to place their final hopes in the hands of the San Francisco specialist.

Probe Continues in Grand Rapids

Hospital Says Accident Victim Examined Fully Before Going to Jail

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — A 28-year-old Grand Rapids man who died of injuries he suffered in an auto accident was given a complete examination at a hospital before he was taken to jail, Assistant City Attorney James Miller said today.

Miller said doctors at St. Marys Hospital reported that Augustua Griggs was examined for nearly two hours in the hospital's emergency ward but showed no signs of neurological or brain damage.

Miller said the intern who examined Griggs treated minor cuts and abraisions on his face and head and said the man then asked to be released but was turned over to police who wanted him for investigation of drunk driving.

The assistant city attorney, who was investigating the incident at the request of the city commission, said the surgeon who operated on Griggs said he had a type of brain injury that builds up slowly and causes a slow leakage of blood in the brain.

Miller quoted the surgeon as saying Griggs was doomed to die because of the injury but that the symptoms might not show up for several hours after the injury.

Miller said he will make a complete report on his meeting with officials of St. Marys Hospital to City Attorney Claude Vander Ploeg today.

Vander Ploeg and City Manager Donald Oakes were ordered by the city commission to investigate the man's death after Attorney Alphonse Lewis Jr. told the commission "criminal neglect" caused Griggs' death.

Griggs was involved in a two-car accident early last Friday. After treatment at the hospital, he was jailed. Found unconscious in his cell about six hours later, he was returned to the hospital where he underwent surgery for a fractured skull and died Saturday.

Police officers who took Griggs from the hospital to jail were cleared of any negligence by Deputy Police Superintendent John McGavin.

"We think the police were justified in taking Griggs from the hospital after the first trip there and putting him in the cell block," he said. "Griggs was under arrest. There was no other place for him."

Tea Output Increases

BUENOS AIRES — Argentina's tea production climbed to 4,000,000 pounds in 1957 compared with a 1946-50 average of 228,000 pounds. An increase in plantings indicate future annual crops of 44,000,000 pounds.

Mammoth Wave Sweeps Toward College Campuses

By TOM DYGARD

EAST LANSING (AP)—The war babies are growing up and going to college.

The mammoth wave of human beings that flooded the secondary schools now is sweeping on toward the colleges and universities.

The American Council on Education says there will be 12,283,000 persons of college age in the United States in 1965-66 and 14,304,000 in 1970-71, compared with 8,571,000 in 1954-55.

On top of that, a greater percentage of the college-age population is going to college than ever before.

How can the problem of bursting the seams of higher education be licked?

Is the answer in bigger and bigger universities, giant communities of students? Or is the answer in more smaller colleges?

HANNAH HAS SOLUTION

Dr. John A. Hannah, an old hand at the business of mushrooming college expansion, says the solution is in branch universities.

"For every university there is a maximum size beyond which it is not intelligent to go," he said.

Hannah, president of Michigan State University, said he believes the MSU cutoff point should be an enrollment of 32,000. The present enrollemnt is almost 20,000, better than three times more than the 1945 total and a 29 per cent increase over the 1946 boom year in education.

When the cutoff point is reached — when the campus is so large and sprawling that students can't walk to class in 10 minutes, when the necessary administrative machinery is so bulky that it defeats its purpose, when duplication of facilties becomes imperative—the school reaches a point of diminishing returns.

'MUST BRANCH OUT'

"The school must either stop enrolling students or branch out to another campus," said Hannah. "We can't stop enrolling because our society demands more and more training for young people, and it demands equal opportunity."

★ ★ ★

MSU is branching out. Next fall it will open Michigan State University Oakland, a branch near Pontiac in Oakand County MSU officials expect 600 freshmen for the first year and an eventual enrollment of 30,000. The branch will be autonomous except at the very top and will not necessarily be an exact image of MSU.

It is a matter of record that the area is lacking in higher education facilities. Pontiac is a city of 80,000. Yet neither Oakland County nor adjoining Macomb County has a four-year college.

WHY A BRANCH?

But why a branch rather than a new, independent college?

"One of the most important reasons," said Hannah, "is that the area is getting he school quicker this way. MSU has the administrative facilites, the know-how, to set up a new university.

★ ★ ★

"The prestige of the degree is no small matter," he added. "A student graduating from MSUO will get a degree from Michigan State University. He will have to meet Michigan State University standards. We have the prestige that it takes years to build, and MSUO will have that prestige immediately."

Pointing to the growing need for requirements of the world today for more people with post-graduate studies behind them—Hannah said branch universities are better prepared to set the student up for advanced education.

STUDENT'S ILL-PREPARED

"Community colleges serve a great purpose if they do their job well," Hannah said. "But too often we lose students who met the standards of their junior college, then found themselves not well enough prepared for advanced study on the university level."

A branch university would set the necessary standard from the start, he said.

Hannah suggested that community colleges offer excellent opportunities for students who plan to attend college only two or four years, and then quit.

★ ★ ★

From the standpoint of operating funds—the money that a state-supported school such as MSU must get from the state—Hannah pointed out that branches represent a unified drive.

"The branches won't be pulling against each other for the money available," he said.

The need for a common goal and a unified leadership may result in one state board for higher education, but Hannah added:

"Places where that has been tried show very little evidence that it was a help. But costs alone may lead us to that."

Accentuate Positive, Mikoyan Tells U.S.

From Our News Wires

NEW YORK—Anastas I. Mikoyan, the Soviet Union's No. 2 man, urges a "Da, da, da" yes, yes, yes approach to Soviet-American relations instead of "Nyet, nyet, nyet" no, no, no.

The first deputy premier, wined and dined Wednesday night by 1,100 business and industrial leaders at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, maintained that the Soviet Union posed neither an economic nor a military menace to the United States.

At the dinner sponsored by the Economic Club of New York, Mikoyan hammered at the same themes—peace and coexistence and more trade—he has used in similar talks with businessmen and officials in cities across the nation during the past week.

"I can confirm that the American people, both the ordinary people and the business people, want peace," Mikoyan said.

"Now the talk is more of the economic menace of the Soviet Union—that it is an even greater threat. That talk is equally groundless. It would be best to stop frightening yourselves" he added.

Mikoyan holds a news conference at the U.N. today behind a hedge of security precautions even more stringent than those used to protect President Eisenhower or Queen Elizabeth II.

Every door to the U.N. buildings except the visitors' entrance at the north end was to be closed at 10 a.m., an hour before the Kremlin leader's scheduled arrival. The entire U.N. guard force will be stationed around the buildings.

Only holders of U.N. passes will be admitted to the grounds, and an additional ticket is required for admission to the General Assembly Hall at noon for the news conference.

Auto Industry Will Present 3 Devices to Control Fumes

DETROIT (UPI) — The auto industry has developed three devices to control exhaust fumes which, it admits, may have contributed to the widely-publicized Los Angeles smog.

Five technical papers which will be presented to the Society of Automotive Engineers here Friday outline the devices developed in five years of scientific research on the problem of smog-causing exhaust fumes.

But the authors of all the papers emphasized there were still many problems to be solved before it would be practical to put any of the devices on the average motorist's car.

Harry A. Williams, managing director of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, said the reports on the devices marked a major breakthrough in attempts to control the obnoxious fumes from automobile engines.

All of the devices were developed through the AMA's Vehicle Combustion Products Committee, a cooperative group made up of representatives of all the major auto producers, Williams said.

★ ★ ★

The devices, which already have been tested on vehicles operated in the Los Angeles area, are capable of reducing the hydrocarbons of exhaust fumes — which cause smog—from 60 to more than 90 per cent under various driving conditions, Williams said.

Two of the devices, a flame-type afterburner and a low-temperature catalytic converter, have been developed into complete automobile exhaust system prototypes.

The third type, a high-temperature catalytic converter, apparently proved too impractical to develop further.

The low-temperature converter, Williams said, is so promising that the prototype model is being fabricated in sufficient quantity to permit simultaneous proving ground tests by all of the automobile manufacturers.

R. T. Vanderveer and J. M. Chandler, both Ford Motor Co. engineers who reported on the low temperature catalyst, said it removed 60 to 73 per cent of the smog-causing elements in exhaust fumes.

★ ★ ★

They said the device is only slightly larger than a standard muffler and should present no installation problems.

But it will cost an estimated $150 and will last only about a year under normal driving conditions, they said.

Other problems included omission of an obnoxious odor under certain conditions.

Advantages of this device over the other two include a reduced warm-up time needed to reach satisfactory operating efficiency and the fact that it can be built from ordinary steel because of its low operating temperature.

S. L. Ridgway of Thompson-Ramo-Woolridge Inc., a Los Angeles company cooperating in the program, said the afterburner-type device presents many problems yet.

The afterburner unit is bulky and requires a high degree of heat which increases its cost of operation, Ridgway said. An auxiliary pump also is needed to add additional air to the exhaust mixture, he said.

★ ★ ★

G. J. Nebel and R. W. Bishop, both of General Motors, reported the high temperature catalyst would last about a year before it needed replacement. Because of its high temperatures, heavy stainless steel is needed in construction of this unit, bringing its total weight to about 95 pounds and reducing the road clearance of the car to which it is attached.

Other problems which must be solved before the system could be used commercially included excessive warm-up time, noise, heat (which in one case burned the test car's flooring), odor and expensive operation.

Ike Asks Soviet for Suggestions

Wants Honest Proposals on German Problems and European Security

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Soviet Union today had an invitation from President Eisenhower to put forward "honest, peaceful" suggestions for solving the problems of German reunification and European security.

The President, who extended the bid in his remarks yesterday at a National Press Club luncheon, coupled it with a promise to give Russia specific guarantees against possible military attack by a United Germany.

But he served notice the United States would not accept current Russian proposals for uniting the two German states because they were aimed at completely demilitarizing the country and trying to isolate it from the rest of Western Europe. This won't work, Eisenhower said.

★ ★ ★

Moscow Radio monitored in London today called for East-West talks on Germany and said its position on a German peace treaty was flexible and subject to negotiations, but it did not back down on its current proposals.

The President said he did not expect any definite proposals to be made during his talk next Saturday with Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, who arrives in Washington tomorrow.

He added, however, that he hoped to find out from Mikoyan whether there is an "honest, peaceful motive" behind Russia's professed desire for another round of negotiations on Germany.

The President's remarks were made against a background of stepped-up discussions at the State Department on all aspects of the German problem and European security.

Lodge to Help Plan U. of M. Centennial

State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge of Drayton Plains and 40 other alumni of the University of Michigan Law School have been named to a committee planning the school's centennial next Oct. 22-24.

The committee includes Secretary of the Army Wilbur L. Brucker, Sen. Philip A. Hart, Rep. Martha W. Giffith, former secretary of the treasury George M. Humphrey; Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Michigan Chief Justice John R. Dethmers and Edgar Eisenhower, the President's brother.

Between 600 and 1,000 are expected to attend the centennial.

Hearst to Take Post Now Held by Curtice

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower yesterday appointed publisher William Randolph Hearst Jr. as chairman of the President's Committee for Traffic Safety.

Hearst, president of the Hearst Consolidated Publications, succeeds Harlow H. Curtice, who retired recently as president of General Motors Corp.

In accepting Curtice's resignation from the committee today, the President thanked him for his public service and praised his work.

Hearst, who has been acting chairman of the safety committee's advisory council, will take over from Curtice at the committee's next meeting early in February.

Bad Roads Give Holiday to Some

Close Brandon Schools, Buses Unable to Travel on Several Routes

Brandon schools in the Ortonville area were closed today when "treacherous roads made driving hazardous," school officials said.

In the Rochester Community School District, buses were sent out but drivers were instructed to travel only on the main roads, not on the side roads because of icy conditions.

★ ★ ★

All buses went out in the Lake Orion School District, and only one driver reported having difficulty when he skidded near an intersection and had trouble getting under way again.

Oxford and Romeo community school officials reported that all buses were sent out this morning but a number of Romeo buses were late returning because of the icy back roads.

★ ★ ★

Lake Orion school buses damaged by vandals yesterday were repaired in time to make the school run this morning.

All students attending the Huron Valley Schools were in session today with the exception of those on back roads who could not be picked up by the school bus.

Republicans Call Williams' Slip on Procedure

LANSING—Almost before Senate lawmakers were settled in their seats yesterday, Republican senators caught Democratic Gov. Williams in a procedural slip-up and called him on it.

★ ★ ★

The Governor had sent a message to the Senate asking for confirmation of his appointment of former Sen. George S. Higgins, Ferndale auto dealer, to the State Civil Service Commission.

"We'd like to confirm him but unfortunately we don't have the power," declared Sen. Edward Hutchinson of Fennville. "I move we return the message to the Governor."

★ ★ ★

Unlike virtually all other major commission appointments, those of the Governor to the civil service agency do not require Senate approval.

GM Consultant Sees Record Sales Boom

TORONTO (AP)—North America will face the biggest sales boom in history during the next 10 years, Kenneth McFarland, education consultant for General Motors and one of the continent's top salesmen, has predicted.

McFarland, named top salesman in the United States in 1957 by the National Sales Executive Club, told a conference on sales management that "we need to build so many things in the next 10 years that their total value will exceed the value of all privately owned property in North America."

Area Man Recovering From Effects of Fumes

A 31-year-old Waterford Township man who was overcome Friday night by fumes from a can of solvent while working at the Auto Electric Shop, 367 S. Saginaw St., was reported in satisfactory condition today.

Edward Shaw, 6401 Elizabeth Lake Rd., had been on the critical list at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital since he was found unconscious on the second floor of the shop Saturday morning.

Bowden Named to Labor Post

Lansing Toolmaker Is Williams' 2nd Choice as State Commissioner

Gov. Williams has picked James A. Bowden, a 59-year-old Lansing toolmaker, as his second choice for state commissioner of labor.

The Governor announced his appointment yesterday as successor to Russell White of Owosso, who was rejected by the Republican-dominated State Senate not long after his selection 14 months ago.

In the meantime, Neil B. McArthur, of 2300 Middle Belt Rd., West Bloomfield Township, has been acting commissioner. The governor announced he will revert to his former status as deputy commissioner.

Bowden, a native of Scotland, is a member of the United Auto Workers, Oldsmobile Local 652, which White headed at the time of his appointment.

★ ★ ★

Asked about Bowden's chances for Senate confirmation, Williams said he "breathes cooperation' and comes with a fistful of letters of recommendations."

Marshall Stricken, Removed to Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall, 78, was stricken ill today and was taken to the Ft. Bragg Army hospital. He was reported resting comfortably.

Pentagon officials said that the former Army chief of staff, secretary of state and secretary of defense, felt ill upon awaking today at his winter home in Pinehurst, N.C.

Col. Merrill Powell, a Ft. Bragg medical officer, was summoned and decided to remove the veteran soldier and statesman to the hospital for observation.

The seizure was informally described as a "spasm" of the sort sometimes associated with a mild stroke.

Baptist Circle Slates Missionary Meeting

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Elizabeth Missionary Circle of the West Bloomfield Baptist Church on Orchard Lake road will have a missionary meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A film titled, "A Day With the Bothwells" will be shown. It concerns efforts of missionaries in the Belgian Congo. Visitors have been invited to attend.

At Michigan Township Assn. Meeting

Sounds Alarm on Annexation by Cities

LANSING (AP)—Some 500 delegates to the Michigan Townships Assn. (MTA) have been urged to guard against attempts to undermine township government.

The warning was sounded yesterday by the group's executive director, Joseph A. Parisi Jr. The group claims membership of about 1,000 Michigan townships.

Parisi said:

"The real issue faced by the townships today is the issue of whether or not we want to surrender God-given endowments of worth and dignity of the individual to an all-powerful, centralized government.

"We must be ever aware of any new iden, scheme or plan which—under the guise of so-called efficiency and economy—transfers the functions of local government to the next higher level, or worse still, to the state or national agencies."

Parisi said the township adage—"Government closest to the people is the best government"—underlines the fact that Michigan's 1,260 townships make up half of the state's population.

"We must convince township critics," he added, "that these people are no less important than their brothers who live in the 194 cities of the state."

"The critics," he continued, "have yet—except to abolish townships and create big business—to come up with any constructive criticism which would be of benefit to township residents."

Parisi said representatives of five Michigan cities—Flint, Lansing, Battle Creek, Grand Rapids and Muskegon—recently organized "to study the possibility of finding a new and easier way to annex township territory."

He noted that the MTA rendered considerable assistance in 1958 to townships fighting annexation."

"We won every election," he added.

The MTA is scheduled to wind up its three-day session today with election of officers and consideration of resolutions.

Driver Attempts to Pass Truck in Fog on M21 Near Imlay City

IMLAY CITY—Two men were injured yesterday in a head-on auto collision in fog on M21, three miles east of here, the Lapeer County Sheriff's Dept. reported today.

★ ★ ★

Kenneth J. Anderson, 46, of 480 S. Almont Rd., Imlay City, suffered contusions and abrasions of the chest and a slight head injury. He was treated by his family physician.

★ ★ ★

Clifford W. Clark, 33, of 1636 Holland Ave., Port Huron, had abrasions and lacerations of the face, left hand, elbow and left knee. He was taken to Lapeer County General Hospital where he is reported in good condition today.

Deputies said Clark apparently pulled out to pass a truck and due to the fog didn't see Anderson's car approaching in the opposite direction.

★ ★ ★

Waterford Area Setting Up Plans for Fluoride

An organizational meeting for the summer topical fluoride program in Waterford Township will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Waterford High School, coordinator Mrs. John Hoke announced.

★ ★ ★

Letters have been sent to Parent-Teacher Associations in the township requesting that their health chairmen be present to help outline the program.

Application forms must be distributed and collected throughout the schools before actual scheduling of children's appointments can begin, Mrs. Hoke said.

More than 1,900 children participated in last year's 10-week summer program, and there were enough funds after expenses to pay for one portable dental unit, costing approximately $1,000.

★ ★ ★

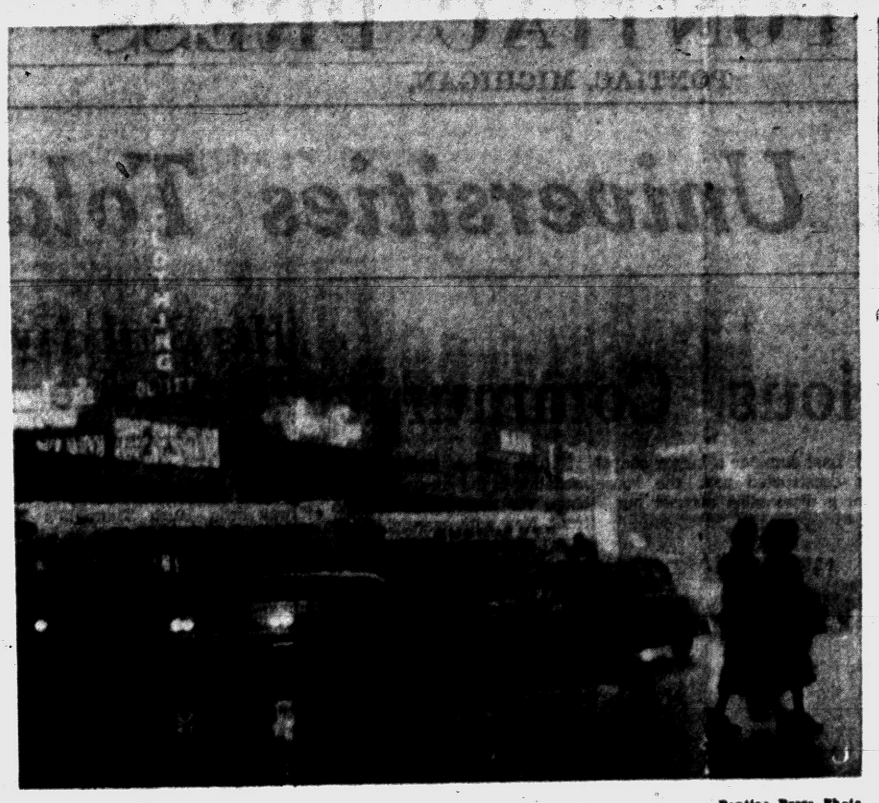

The fee for each child is $4 for four fluoride treatments scheduled throughout the summer. Children in the second, fifth and eighth grades may participate in the program.

Civic Leaders Go to Jail for March of Dimes

PORT HURON (UPI) — Twenty Port Huron business and civic leaders will go to jail later this month, but it's all in a good cause.

The jailings, under warrants signed by St. Clair County Prosecutor Richard Shonk, will be part of the March of Dimes campaign.

The business and civic leaders attired in regular prison garb, will remain behind bars until bond of $100 each is donated to the polio campaign.

De Gaulle Promises New Algeria Voting

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle today opened the first National Assembly session of the Fifth Republic with a pledge of new elections in Algeria aimed at settling the nationalist turmoil there.

The deputies in the packed chamber stood while De Gaulle's speech was read by the Assembly president.

De Gaulle said the future of Algeria, where a nationalist rebellion has bled France for four years, could only be settled through the process of universal suffrage.

A political solution through universal suffrage would be worked out after the "pacification and transformation of Algeria," he added.

Between 1948 and 1956 the output per man increased by two-fifths on British farms.

Films, Speakers Highlight Evening

Area PTAs Present Father's Night

Seven Parent-Teacher associations in Waterford Township will present Father's Night programs featuring colored films, panel discussions and guest speakers when they meet at their schools this evening.

"Construction of the Mackinac Bridge" is the title of a colored movie to be presented at 8 p.m. at the William A. Burt School. The public is invited, according to Father Vice President in charge, Jack DeLorge.

Secretary of the Board of Education Frederick Poole will discuss the proposed building program for Waterford Township schools at the 8 p.m. meeting scheduled at Leggett School.

Preceding his talk, there will be a "Round-the-Clock" men's fashion show in observance of Father's Night.

★ ★ ★

Also observing Father's Night will be the Waterford Center PTA. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Father Vice President Richard Younce will present a pantomime entitled "Blackouts."

Oakland County Council Treasurer Sanford Stearns will present a short talk on the primary function of the PTA.

Members of the Waterford Center School also are planning polio clinics on Feb. 3 and March 3 for all area residents.

HUNTING FILM

The Waterford Village PTA will meet at 8 p.m. at the new John D. Pierce School rather than at the elementary school building this month.

Janet Schick will direct the Waterford Township Girls' Chorus in several numbers, and a film on deer hunting, "Buck Fever," will be shown.

Another feature of the Waterford Village School meeting will be an archery demonstration by Edward Kuder. Chairman of the program is Norman Dunn.

Professional photographer Dr. M. C. Worster of Pontiac, will show a colored-sound film at 8 p.m. at the Hudson Covert School.

The film is about the safari that Dr. Worster and his companion, M. J. Blakley of Flint, took in Tangoniyrike, Africa.

A panel show will get under way at 7:30 p.m. at the Jayno Adams School, with the topic, "Studying Michigan Schools," the theme for discussion.

Guest on the panel will be president of the East Oakland County Council, William Partu, along with moderator Henry Karwas, parents and teachers.

A study and discussion guide will be distributed to guests at the Lambert School beginning at 8 p.m. Guest speaker will be the program chairman for the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, Mrs. William Wright.

She will speak on "Studying Michigan Schools." Parents will be asked to complete an opinionnaire following Mrs. Wright's address.

On Monday, the Drayton Plains PTA will feature a Community Sing at 7:30 p.m. A representative of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. will present the Walt Disney film, "Our Mr. Sun."

Automobile thefts were slashed 80 per cent in one year in Decatur by ticketing motorists who left keys in their cars. Fines ran as high as $300.

Super-Salesman From Armenia

European Press Headlines Mikoyan's Antics in U.S.

LONDON (UPI) — Anastas Mikoyan has hammed his way into headlines across Europe on his American tour.

The super-salesman from Armenia had a ready audience in newspapers from London to the Vatican. All gave big, black headlines to his comments on world affairs. Many gave bigger headlines to his clowning with the stars in Hollywood.

Ever since the Soviet first deputy premier arrived in New York to start his "unofficial" tour, European papers have been publishing columns of cabled reports about his coast-to-coast reception, his news conferences and the demonstrations by egg-throwing Hungarian refugees.

Moscow newspapers also have been playing up his trip — although without mention of the demonstrations.

Mikoyan made his biggest press splash of all in Europe today with dispatches on how he cavorted on the set with Hollywood stars.

"Mr. Mikoyan Gambols on Hollywood Set," said the normally reserved Lodon Daily Telegraph.

Some papers started calling him "Mik."

In Paris, the Paris-Journal headlined: "Mikoyan's Slavic Charm Conquers Hollywood."

A barrage of editorial comment accompanied the stories. Some of it was frankly admiring. Much of it speculated nervously on what might be behind the trip.

The Daily Telegraph saw it as a phase in a Soviet "Brinkmanship" campaign. The London Daily Mail speculated that Mikoyan may be paving the way for an American visit by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, or to promote a summit meeting.

New FHA Head Faces Trouble

Norman P. Mason Not Afraid to Give Plans to Critical Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's new housing boss, Norman P. Mason, will step squarely into the middle of a first-class row shaping up between Congress and the administration. He says he doesn't mind at all.

Mason told a reporter today that "anyone with a little fighting spirit and red blood in his veins" should welcome the give and take that goes with presenting a controversial program to a critical Congress. That's the way democracy works, he said.

The controversy in this case: the extent of government housing programs under Eisenhower's efforts to hold down spending. Democratic critics have proposed more spending for Housing.

Mason, now head of the Federal Housing Administration, was nominated by Eisenhower to head the parent Housing and Home Finance Agency. The 62-year-old Massachusetts Republican will change offices as soon as the Senate confirms his nomination.

The top HHFA post is being vacated by Albert M. Cole, who made it plain to newsmen he won't be at all sad to miss this year's give and take on Capitol Hill.

Cole will become an aluminum company executive.

Woman Suffers From Bad Case of Winter Flue

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Mrs. Emma Little's winter-long ailment has been diagnosed as the flue — with an "E."

Doctors had examined her but failed to turn up the cause of her headaches, nausea, loss of weight and weakness.

Then they found that people who visited her got sick, too.

A check of the furnace showed the flue leaking carbon monoxide into the house.

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—An estate of about $114,000 was left by the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis), who died May 2, 1957.

★ ★ ★

The value of the estate was figured by Richard Williams, head of the State Inheritance Tax Division, who based the figure on inheritance tax receipts filed by the senator's widow.

★ ★ ★

The senator's widow, Mrs. Jean Kerr McCarthy, was named McCarthy's sole beneficiary and executrix.

Clerks Inspired by Bonus

Incentive Plan Ups Sales

NEW YORK (AP — What's wrong with the average department store clerk? Nothing that a good incentive plan won't cure.

That theory was advanced by a New York management consultant in a talk prepared for the 48th annual convention of the National Retail Merchants Assn. here.

"Without incentive, people use only a fraction of their capacity," Frank J. Waldenfels declared. "Without incentive we use only the feet of women salespeople — not their brains."

An incentive plan under which clerks are paid bonuses for exceeding sales quotas must be within reach of the great majority of salespeople and it must be worth their while, he said.

Fixed salaries make for listless and uninspired selling, he asserted, but "with incentives you can get extraordinary results from ordinary people — you can make good producers out of poor ones and you can make champs out of those who are pretty good now."

Waldenfels said self-service racks in department stores are no proper substitute for salespeople, especially when it comes to selling apparel.

"To sell such merchandise at good markup and with low markdowns, personal customer service is essential," he said. "You can't have one without the other."

Dexter Ware, personnel director of the J. L. Hudson Co., Detroit, told the retailers that fledgling store executives need supervised on-the-job experience as wil as metings, lectures and other formal training programs.

★ ★ ★

"Teach the supervisor to take criticism constructively," he said. "Dignify the individual by showing him the importance and value of his work. Help the supervisor profit by his mistakes and let him know we all make them. Since a young supervisor learns from success, try to provide a series of successful experiences . . ."

Here's Rundown on SAC Missiles

OMAHA, Neb. ((UPI) — Here's a rundown on the Strategic Air Command's missile inventory:

INTERCONTINENTAL BALLISTIC MISSILES

SM-65 Atlas — Developed from America's first ICBM project, it has been successfully test-fired several times. Liquid-propelled, it is designed to deliver a nuclear warhead at supersonic speeds more than 6,300 miles. It is expected to be operational by the end of 1959 and is made by Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp.

SM-68 Titan — Being developed by the Martin Co., it is a two-stage, liquid-fueled missile of advanced design. It is being built to deliver a nuclear warhead at supersonic speeds more than 5,500 miles.

INTERMEDIATE RANGE BALLISTIC MISSILES

SM-75 Thor — A single-stage, liquid-fueled missile built to deliver a nuclear warhead at supersonic speeds more than 1,500 miles, it is made by Douglas Aircraft Co. Because it is set for use overseas, the Thor has been designed for airlift by C-124's and C-133's.

SM-78 Jupiter — A single-stage, liquid-fueled missile made by Chrysler Corp. to deliver a nuclear warhead at supersonic speeds more than 1,500 miles, it is powered by a single rocket engine and launched vertically.

INTERCONTINENTAL CRUISE MISSILES

SM-62 Snark — The first of the long-range missile to reach the operational stage, it has been successfully test-fired many times. The Snark is a pilotless aircraft capable of delivering a nuclear warhead at near-sonic speeds over a range exceeding 5,000 miles. It is made by Northrop Aircraft, Inc., and can be airlifted in a C-124.

SM-73 Goose — A delta-winged pilotless aircraft with a range of 5,000 miles and capable of near-sonic speeds, it is a decoy missile which will be used to confuse enemy radar and lure enemy defenses away from bombers and missiles carrying nuclear payloads. It was developed by Fairchild's aircraft division.

AIR-TO-SURFACE MISSILES

GAM-77 Hound Dog — Air air-to-surface missile designed to be launched in flight several hundred miles from its target by B-52 Stratofortresses. It is a supersonic guided missile which carries a nuclear warhead made by North American Aviation, Inc.

GAM-63 Rascal — Designed to be launched in flight many miles from its target by the B-47, it is a supersonic guided missile which carries a nuclear warhead. It is made by Bell Aircraft, Corp.

GAM-72 Quail — A short-range missile designed for in-flight launching, it is a decoy which will be used to confuse enemy radar and defenses. It is made by McDonnell Aircraft Corp.

Convict Nearly Set for Parole Escapes

BALTIMORE (AP) — William Boyd Gilliam, 45, who had served nearly 17 years for a triple killing and would have been eligible for parole next fall, walked away from a work detail just outside the penitentiary Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Gilliam was sentenced to 38 years for the gun and knife slayings of two women and a man in Baltimore County in January, 1942. He contended the slayings occurred when the three tried to rob him.

Warden Vernon L. Pepersack said Gilliam, a trusty since May, 1956, would have been up for parole in October.

MEDICAL RESEARCHERS ASK — Is the mental attitude of drivers responsible for automobile wrecks like the above, in which six members of one family were killed?

Attitudes Can Cause Accidents

Is Reckless Driving a Disease?

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Medical research specialists have started a unique scientific investigation to stamp out automobile accidents.

Their entry into the field of auto accident prevention stems from the revolutionary idea that the nation's highway slaughter should be regarded as a mysterious disease like cancer.

The problem of finding out why the motorized menace infects some drivers and bypasses others has captured the interest of doctors throughout the country and won support from Uncle Sam's Public Health Service. PHS is currently spending about $260,000 to help finance projects in this field.

Recent accident statistics show that 80 per cent of all traffic smash-ups are caused by faulty driving. Many doctors, however, view reckless acts like speeding, improper passing and driving on the wrong side of the road, as merely symptoms of the mechanized disease killer.

They believe that the real causes eventually will be found hidden in a driver's mental make-up. It has been strongly suspected for some time that negative attitudes or intense emotions, like fear and anger, cause people to have accidents.

But the exact role which these states of mind play in the annual highway bloodbath is not known. To find out, scientists have established numerous research projects which specialize in probing the minds of American motorists.

EYE DRIVERS' TRAITS

A battery of psychological tests is being given by experts of the University of Colorado's Medical School to about 4,000 Denver high school students in an effort to learn how to locate potentially dangerous drivers before they ever get behind a steering wheel.

Psychologists are especially eager to find out if one of these tests uncovers the same information concerning the school kids as it did about several Air Force enlisted men.

When given to the military personnel in an earlier study, the test revealed that the safe drivers were usually very religious and had relatively little interest in subjects dealing with art, music or drama. Just the opposite was true of men who had committed one or more traffic violations.

The Harvard Medical School is thoroughly studying the life histories of another group of adolescents to find out what significant differences exist between safe and reckless drivers.

Other studies have shown that accident repeaters are often people who have deep-seated feelings of hostility. They have also revealed that aggressive tendencies, tenseness and fear of criticism are major factors in the personalities of reckless drivers.

ANALYZE ACCIDENTS

Northwestern University is conducting a long-range project which calls for a physician, engineer and psychologist to investigate certain traffic accidents in the Chicago area. A thorough analysis will be made of their findings to determine both mechanical and human failures that play the biggest part in accidents.

What this study reveals about the general health of smash-up victims will be anxiously awaited by doctors who believe the unknown causes of collisions may prove to be physical as well as mental.

These specialists believe that studies should be made to find out if serious ailments like heart disease and diabetes hamper a person's driving ability. Also, they favor more research to determine how certain drugs and medicines affect a driver's reaction time.

Doctors believe that pinpointing the actual human failures that cause accidents will help traffic administrators to keep unsafe drivers off the roads. They also think that specialized treatment will eventually be developed that will help cure these motorists of their faults.

You can fool some of the people all of the time — and if you're not careful, one of them may be you. . . . The old-fashioned narrow roads where two cars could barely pass are being replaced by wide, superhighways on which four cars can easily collide. —Earl Wilson.

A new chemical hormone known as ECP, given to ewes, enables them to lamb twice a year instead of once.

Mr. Commuter, Your Problem Rates Top Priority

CHICAGO (AP)—Here's a hopeful piece of news for you, Mr. Commuter.

Many people in high places are thinking of ways to help you.

Their main concern is to keep on moving you from your home station to the big city and back again.

It's a bad situation and the prospect is even worse. Motor vehicle traffic s approaching the saturation point in the scores of cites. And the main trend in the nation's growing population is toward the huge urban centers.

So 29 men — 16 railroad presidents and 13 mayors and other city officials—got together this week to exchange ideas on how to solve the commuter problem. Most of the railroads contend they make no profit in operating the commuter lines.

★ ★ ★

Here are some of the suggestions:

Government subsidies.

New equipment to lure motorists back to the rails.

★ ★ ★

A federal agency to buy equipment and lease it to the rail lines or to lend them money to buy modern rolling stock.

Elimination of the federal tax on commutation tickets.

Provision for deducting commutation fares from federal income taxes.

Giving the railroads a better break on heir taxes, allowing them more freedom in setting fares, adding or removing trains and closing unprofitable stations.

A new U. S. transportation policy that would encourage the growth of railroads.

★ ★ ★

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York, one of the conferees, said the problem is regional and should be handled on a regional basis. He proposed the creation of a tri-state—New York, New Jersey, Connecticut — transportation agency.

★ ★ ★

One of the basic points in his plan is this:

★ ★ ★

"A sharing of mass transit deficits, where they occur, among all the jurisdictions of government that have a stake."

That means local, state and federal governments.

Some Eastern interests advocated federal subsidies at the one-day meeting. Midwesterners generally opposed them.

A committee of 12 was appointed to meet within the next 30 days to start work on a program.

★ ★ ★

Railroad president members of the committee are George Alpert of the New Haven, Ben. W. Heineman of th Northwestern, Wayne Johnston of the Illinois Central, A. B. Perlman of the New York Central and James M. Symes of the Pennsylvania.

★ ★ ★

$2,500 Restaurant Bill Seems Just About Right

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—John B Dowdell, 21, of New York City, entered Wan Foo's Chinese restaurant and was hit with a bill for $2,500 before he had even a morsel of food.

Dowdell came in through a 12-foot plate glass window with his car.

The $2,500 was for damages.

Land Cruiser Home to 5 Neals

Concert Family Literally Lives on Road

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Harry Lee Neal lives by three R's—run, run and run.

He runs his family of five persons; he runs his fingers over the keyboard of his concert piano; and, occasionally, he runs the $25,000 land cruiser that is the family home seven months of the year.

Neal is half of the piano team of "Nelson and Neal." The other half is his wife, Australian-born Allison Nelson, 31.

Their self-designed land cruiser is as compact as the inside of a submarine. It has to be. For they take their three children and two concert grand pianos wherever they go.

The Neals met as students at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. Since their marriage on New Years Day in 1949, they have traveled more than a quarter of a million miles, giving concerts in the United States, Mexico and Canada.

"My children were very inconvenient children," Allison says. "They all were born during the concert season." The children are John, 4, Kathy, 2, and Allison, 10 months.

The Neals are on the road from October through April. During the summers they live in an ante-bellum home in Paris, Tenn.

"We play so many one-night stands that my friends in Paris get the idea we can't hold a job," Neal says.

When the family is on the road, Allison still finds time to cook about half of the meals in the land cruiser's tiny but efficient kitchen.

And Neals finds time to take over the wheel of the big bus from its regular driver. When the Neals are on stage, a local babysitter watches the children.

On a concert night, the Neals are on an exact schedule.

Supper is at 5:45 p.m. Then Allison washes the dishes and Harry prepares the children for bed. That's over about 6:30. The Neals take a 30-minute nap themselves and dress at 7:40. Concert time is usually 8:15.

The Neal children—for all their traveling and the non-permanency that goes with it—are bright, normal youngsters who have turned their land cruiser into a gigantic play pen.

Despite travel, Harry has just become the author of a book, "Wave As You Pass," describing his younger days in Tennessee, his marriage to Allison and the trials of family life on the road.

Besides playing, driving and writing, Neal has one other interest—listening to rock 'n' roll.

"I like it," he says, "and, besides, it's driving people back to the classics."

Incriminating Evidence

WAREHAM, Mass. (UPI) — While cross-examining State Trooper N. O. Suneson in a gambling case in district court, the defense lawyer borrowed a nickel to prove that a "one-armed bandit" that was part of the evidence wouldn't work. The lawyer hit the jackpot. His clients were promptly convicted and fined.

Well-Worn Locomotive Heads Home

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The last of the 1917 "General Pershing" army locomotives is on its way to the National Railroad Museum at Green Bay — as a gift from the Republic of Korea.

The locomotive was one of 150 specially designed for service with the AEF in France. Each bore a brass plate with four stars and the general's name. Of the 150, 149 went to France, the other stayed at home—temporarily.

It's the one that missed World War I—and during the next 40 years possibly saw more action than the other 149 put together, with service in the Philippines, World War II and Korea.

The Department of Defense underwrote its return from Pusan "as a contribution to a worthy enterprise of historical significance."

Arrival time at San Francisco is Jan. 23, with the 6th continental army command scheduling a welcoming ceremony.

Sticks Neck Out but for Naught, Loses $9,500

SEATTLE (AP)—C. W. Liston stuck his neck out Wednesday — and held it there while a city bus closed its doors on the neck three times. It was all in the line of duty.

★ ★ ★

An assistant in the City Claims Department, Liston was trying to prove to an awestruck jury that lined the sidewalk that having a bus door shut on one's neck didn't really hurt at all.

★ ★ ★

The jury didn't believe him and awarded Mrs. Mirdza Toland, who had testified it hurt her plenty, $9,500.

Some scientists now estimate that by 1976 almost one-half of all the new power station installations in the U. S. will depend upon atomic energy for their primary power sources.

Premature Triplets Get Transfusions

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The Agueros boys, premature triplets born to a 15-year-old wife last Friday, had brand new blood in their veins today.

They underwent exchange transfusions Wednesday night after physicians at Robert B. Green Hospital became concerned over their jaundiced appearance. As a precaution against possible brain damage from bile pigment, their blood was drained and replaced with banked supplies.

Still technically listed in critical condition because of their prematurity, they came through the transfusions well.

The mother, Mrs. Ramon Agueros, also has undergone transfusions to improve her hemoglobin count.

The triplets' father is 18.

Out they Go.

Russia and U.S. Trade Exhibits

Reds Lease New York Caliseum for Exposition This Summer

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Soviet Union has leased two floors of the giant New York Coliseum for its first exposition in the U.S. since the 1939-40 World's Fair, it was announced yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The announcement followed by two weeks the signing of an agreement between the U.S. and th Russians calling for a reciprocal exchange of scientific, technological and cultural exhibits this summer.

The U.S. is planning to spend more than 3 million dollars on an exhibit in Sokolniki Park in Moscow.

1482,000 to lease the second and 1$42,000 to lease the second and third floors of the coliseum from from June 10 to Aug. 4. The total gross floor area is 153,070 square feet.

Howard G. Sloane, managing director of the coliseum, said he anticipated no troubles in setting up the Russian exhibit from labor or any other quarter.

The show tentatively is scheduled to be open to the public from June 28 to July 27, and an admission fee of about 75 cents is expected to be levied.

The American show in Moscow is scheduled to last from July 4 to Aug. 2. One two two rubles—25 to 50 cents at the official rate—will be charged for admission.

Frederick T. Merrill, director of the state department's east-west contacts staff, told a news conference here the american exposition will provide the U.S. with its "first opportunity to punch a hole in the Iron Curtain in a big way."

He said the U.S. show will be "dramatically tailored to suit an audience not too educated and without too much knowledge of the outside world." He said it would be on a less sophisticated level than the American exposition at the Brussels World's Fair last summer.

Posed as Prostitute to Shelter Cuban Rebels

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

HAVANA—For the sake of freedom from dictatorship, some of the women picked up rifles and killed.

★ ★ ★

Others went sleepless, working voiceless in offices by day and smuggling drugs and bullets out of the cities by night.

★ ★ ★

And some—like "the blonde called Lillian"—let themselves be called prostitutes.

"I was nothing like the womens who fought, but I work, like everybody. I try. And I have a reputation is somethin' terrible."

This was Lillian Mesa, now a redhead with a devastating resemblance to Rita Hayworth, describing her job. It is one story of how the Havana underground worked for Castro. She says it is fairly typical of the operations of city girls during the two-year cloak-and-dagger fight against Batista.

★ ★ ★

She was a wealthy girl, who didn't really have to work. Her father had a summer home at Vera Dero Beach, and in the winter they lived plushly in Havana. She was a government school inspector, because she was too intelligent to loaf.

HEARD OF CASTRO

One summer night in 1953 a socialite college boy came to their home and told them about Fidel Castro and his bold efforts, his ideals. The family was impressed. "They was always against Batista," Lillian said. "They said, we help."

Lillian, then a palely natural blonde, moved into an apartment in Havana. She had many keys made. Word spread to the hills that any rebels who needed food, shelter, nursing or anonymity after fighting too long or becoming too well known to the government army could come to Lillian's place.

★ ★ ★

For awhile, it was about the only hiding place in town. "The turnover," she recalls, "was tremendous."

★ ★ ★

There were usually 30 rebel soldiers sharing the floor at one time. It did not look good to the neighbors, so Lillian frequently—every two months or so—rented a new apartment and moved.

★ ★ ★

In the early days, this led to embarrassments. The Castro underground communications then were not extensive, and often the boys would check into apartments that had been given up to other tenants. Sometimes they were arrested—though late in the revolutionary activity, almost every Havana family had become anti-Batista and such dangers were largely past.

★ ★ ★

Somehow—probably through the lips of some tortured boy soldier—the dictator's police learned of the "blonde called Lillian."

She dyed her hair black first, then red. It was so "hot" that she sold her car and rented a different car, from a different dealer, each week.

When New York Times correspondent Herbert Matthews needed to be taken into the Sierra Maestra in February of 1957 to see Fidel Castro, Lillian was chosen to drive him. By charming the border guards, "and telling the fantastic lies," she succeeded in getting him through, to give the U.S. its first real notice of the strength of the rebel forces and intentions.

★ ★ ★

SHE WAS CAPTURED

When she returned to her Havana operation, one week later, she was captured. In her car was a small arsenal of weapons for her boys. The Batista police took her to the bureau of investigation where she repeated the words "I don't know" for four days. Then she was thrown in jail for four months.

"The American Embassy save me," she said. "They do not try to get me out of jail—but they know I am in the jail, so they cannot kill me." She became ill. When she was so near death that they had to massage her heart, they became frightened, and released her "conditionally."

A hunted woman now, she had to abolish her business of pseudo-prostitution. She became a courier, transporting people and messages throughout the island.

★ ★ ★

Lillian is sorry today that she couldn't shoulder a gun and join the special squadron of 50 women who spent the war in the mountains.

"But everybody has his job, and mine is to look the bad girl."

WARD'S HOME OUTFITTING COMPANY

48 SOUTH SAGINAW STREET

AN ORDINANCE, GRANTING TO CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY, its successors and assigns, the right, power and authority to lay, maintain and operate gas mains, pipes and services on, along, across and under the highways, streets, alleys, bridges and other public places, and to do a local gas business in the Village of Clarkston, Oakland County, Michigan, for a period of thirty years.

The Village of Clarkston ordains:

Section 1. That wherever the word "Grantee" appears in this ordinance, it is hereby intended to designate, and shall be held to refer to the Consumers Power Company, a corporation duly authorized to do business in the State of Michigan, its successors and assigns.

Section 2. The right, power and authority is hereby granted and vested in said Grantee to lay, maintain and operate gas mains, pipes and services on, along, across and under the highways, streets, alleys, bridges and other public places, and to do a local gas business in the Village of Clarkston, Oakland County, Michigan, for a period of thirty years.

Section 3. In consideration of the rights, power and authority hereby granted, all of which shall vest in the Grantee for a period of thirty (30) years as aforesaid, said Grantee shall faithfully perform all things required by the terms hereof.

Section 4. No highway, street, alley, bridge or other public place used by said Grantee shall be obstructed longer than necessary during the work of construction of repair, and shall be restored to the same good order and condition as when such work was commenced. No part of the highway, streets, alleys, bridges or other public places of said Village shall be permitted to remain in a dangerous or unsafe condition by reason of anything done or omitted to be done by the Grantee, and it shall be liable for such damage as may be suffered by any person or corporation by reason of its negligence in the use of such highways, streets, alleys, bridges or other public places, and shall save harmless said Village from all damage and liability on account thereof.

SECTION 5. The Grantee shall be entitled to charge the inhabitants of said Village for gas, the rates now on file with the Michigan Public Service Commission and at present effective within said Village. Said rates shall be subject to review and change at any time by the Michigan Public Service Commission or its successors, upon proper application by either said Grantee or the Village, acting by the Village Council, being made thereto, and the regularly filed rates as approved by said Michigan Public Service Commission or its successors, as applicable to said Village of Clarkston, shall at all times be the lawful rates.

All bills for gas furnished by the Grantee shall be payable monthly. The Grantee may collect the minimum charges as specified in said schedule. The Grantee shall also furnish and maintain commercially accurate meters to measure the gas so furnished, and it shall, by its representatives, have at all reasonable times access to the premises of its customers, for the purpose of reading, inspecting, removing and replacing such meters.

Section 6. Said Grantee shall construct and extend its gas distribution system within said Village, and shall furnish gas to applicants residing therein whenever the amount of gas to be furnished thereby shall provide an adequate and reasonable return upon the cost of making such extensions and providing such service.

Section 7. The rights and authority herein granted are not exclusive. Either manufactured or natural gas may be furnished hereunder.

Section 8. Said Grantee shall, as to all other conditions and elements of service not herein fixed, be and remain subject to the reasonable rules and regulations of the Michigan Public Service Commission or its successors, applicable to gas service in said Village.

Section 9. The franchise granted by this ordinance is not subject to revocation, and shall be and become valid and binding only upon its ratification by the affirmative vote of at least three-fifths of the electors of said Village voting thereon at a regular or special municipal election to be held in the manner provided by law. This ordinance shall not be submitted to the electors unless the Grantee shall, within thirty days after the adoption hereof, file with the Village Clerk its written acceptance, subject to the ratification by the electors of the Village of Clarkston. Upon the acceptance hereof and the ratification by the electors as aforesaid, this ordinance shall constitute a contract between the Village of Clarkston and the Grantee for the full term of thirty (30) years from and after the date of such ratification by the electors.

We hereby certify that the foregoing ordinance was duly enacted by the Village Council of the Village of Clarkston, Oakland County, Michigan, on the 12th day of January, 1959.

Village President
Attest: RALPH THAYER
Village Clerk
Jan. 15, 1959

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION AND of Registration of Voters.

To the Electors of the Village of Clarkston:

Notice is hereby given that a special Village election will be held at the Village Hall, 25 S. Main Street, in the said Village, upon Wednesday, the 25th day of February, 1959, at which there will be submitted to the vote of the electors of the Village, the question of ratifying a certain public utility franchise contained in an ordinance adopted by the Village Council at its meeting held upon the 12th day of January, 1959, which said ordinance is entitled as follows:

An Ordinance granting to Consumers Power Comany, its successors and assigns, the right, power and authority to lay, maintain and operate gas mains, pipes and services on, along, across and under the highways, streets, alleys, bridges and other public places, and to do a local gas business in the Village of Clarkston, Oakland County, Michigan, for a period of thirty years.

On the date of said election, the polls will be open at 7 o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as may be, and will be kept open until 8 o'clock in the afternoon, Eastern Standard Time, when they will be finally closed.

The Village Clerk will be in his office on the 26th day of January, 1959, said date being the thirtieth day as determined by statute, preceding the date of said election, for the purpose of reviewing the registration, and registering such of the qualified electors of the Village as shall appear and apply therefor, which registration may be made on said date, between the hours of 8 o'clock a.m. and 8 o'clock p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

By Order of Village Council.

This advertisement promoting Pontiac as an industrial location . . . appears today in the Midwest and Eastern editions of The Wall Street Journal where hundreds of thousands of business men of other states will see it. The same editions of The Wall Street Journal will carry the advertisement again March 10 and May 5.

PONTIAC, MICHIGAN

...a place to go places!

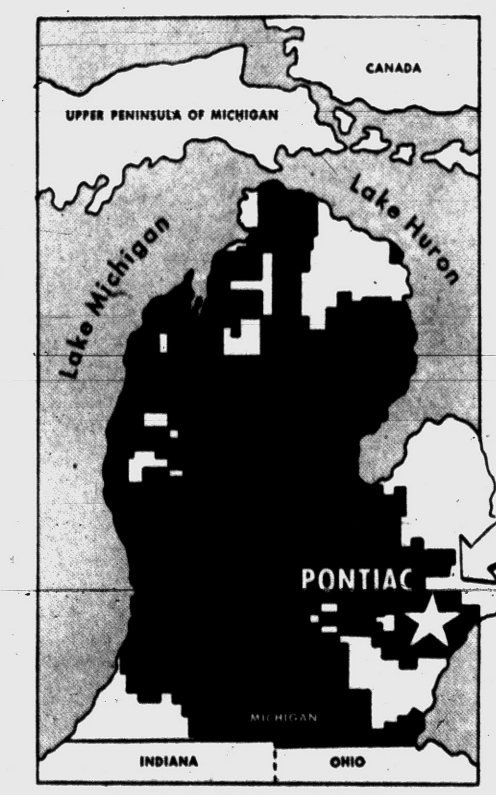

You know about some of Pontiac's thriving industries . . . industries which demonstrate that this is a place to go places.

It's the home of Pontiac automobiles and GMC trucks and coaches. From other manufacturing plants come automotive parts and accessories . . . and a wide variety of unrelated products.

Pontiac is only 26 miles from Detroit, in the industrial corridor that also includes Flint, Saginaw, Bay City and Midland.

It's a city of moderate size – 85,000 within the corporate limits, 160,000 in Greater Pontiac.

The city is surrounded by beautiful countryside, gently rolling, well-wooded, with hundreds of lovely lakes for fishing and water sports.

Shaded portion is the Outstate Michigan area where Consumers Power Company supplies electric and natural gas service. This area extends the entire length of Michigan's Lower Peninsula and from Lakes Erie and Huron on the east to Lake Michigan on the west.

IT'S A WONDERFUL PLACE TO WORK, LIVE AND PLAY

Pontiac is one of more than 300 incorporated cities and villages in the Outstate Michigan area served by Consumers Power Company.

They include busy industrial centers . . . Great Lakes ports . . . small towns on the borders of larger ones . . . quiet communities in farming areas or vacation lands.

This is a region famous for industrial might, for the abundance and variety of its crops, for its unequaled supply of fresh water and also for its all-around livability.

Telephone or write to our Area Development Department, H. L. Brewer, Director. Well-qualified and trustworthy men will help you find the community and the site best suited to your needs and wishes.

Reds Will See 'Oklahoma'

U. S. and U. S. S. R. Plan Movie Swaps

MOSCOW (UPI)—Russia and the United States will soon face each other in yet another arena—the movie theater.

In a few months, if all goes well, Soviet citizens will start queuing up at box offices throughout the country to see the first American feature films to be shown here publicly—and by mutual U. S.-Russian consent—since the end of World War II.

A ticket costing five rubles (50 cents) or less will buy them a glimpse into the fields of "Oklahoma," where "the corn is as high as an elephant's eye," into the Bronx, where a butcher named "Marty" found himself a girl friend, into Ernest Hemingway's story of an old man's struggle with the sea, and into other phases of American life.

Simultaneously, movie houses from New York to San Francisco will herald in lights the arrival of seven Russian films all produced in the post-Stalin period.

The American movie fan's diet will be further enriched by the Bolshoi Theater dancing "Swan Lake," by the "Idiot" of Dostoyevsky and by a drama of wartime Russia, "The Cranes Are Flying," which won first prize at the Cannes International Film Festival.

Ever since the inter-governmental cultural accord was signed in Washington last January the Soviet people have been asking:

"When are we ever going to see your postwar movies? What is a cultural agreement for if not to bring the best of Hollywood to us and show Americans what we have done in the cinema?"

The Russians, like people everywhere, don't like to be told what they should think about the outside world. They prefer to see and judge it for themselves.

The next best thing to traveling abroad is to meet Western tourists in Moscow, read non-Soviet newspapers and magazines, hear overseas broadcasts and see foreign films.

In the past two or three years, the Russian people have had slightly more direct access to American thought and opinion. Now they not only read Nikita Khrushchev's letters to President Eisenhower, but also what the President says in reply, and in his own words.

Some are able to glance through "America," the monthly illustrated magazines distributed here by the State Department. Others have exchanged words with one or more of the 5,000 or so American tourists who have visited Russia since 1957.

None of these pleasures, however, quit matches that of seeing an American film.

The Russians have seen them before. They remember Deanna Durbin in "One Hundred Men and a Girl," Sonja Henie in "Sun Valley Serenade," Walt Disney's "B a m b i" and "Snow White," Charlie Chaplin's early movies and even the exploits of Tarzan.

Occasionally, one of these old American films, some of which were purchased during the 1920's and 30's and others taken as war trophies in Germany, is shown on Soviet television. . . but so seldom that it can hardly be said that American films play in the Soviet Union.

This is why the Russians are awaiting the day when the first of the 10 United States feature movies purchased under the cultural agreement has its premiere in Moscow.

Bob Considine Says:

Fly Iowa Cattle to Graze in Vatican Fields

NEW YORK — People. . . places . . . and black Angus. . .

One of the most eye-opening gifts of Pope John XXII has received was an air shipment of 10 heifers and a lack Angus bull. The lot was given to the pontiff by Don Houston and other Catholic cattlemen around Dunlap, Iowa, and the purpose is to improve the standard of Italian cattle by introducing this strain there.

The logistics involved were impressive. The cattle were moved by truck from Dunlap by Railway Express Agency to Idlewild Airport.

Railway Express put the herd in the ASPCA shelter there, where it was fed, watered and exercised. Then all 9,000 pounds of it was piped aboard ALM cargo plane and arrived in Italy without incident.

Iowa's first and happiest bridgehead on the Vatican farm in Ponte Galeria, near the summer residence of the Pope in Castel Gandolfo was secured.

With all the big U. S. airlines now back at work, after harrowing labor troubles, one's mind somehow goes back to a man who could not have understood such stresses any more than he could condone the use of the airplane for war purposes. I mean Orville Wright.

To his end, the first man ever to fly a heavier-than-air vehicle spelled it "aeroplane." The last letter in his collected Papers betokens the withdrawn manner of a man who, with his brother, changed the history of both warfare and transportation. It is in Marvin W. McFarland's wonderful collection (McGraw-Hill):

"I have a 10-horsepower General Electric motor that I would like to sell," Wright wrote to GE from Dayton on January 24, 1948. "This motor was purchased in 1917 for use in my laboratory on a wind tunnel. I would estimate it had about 200 hours of running. . . would you be interested in purchsing it or do you know of an interested purchaser?"

Something astonishing has happened to the American stomach, and I don't mean that it's getting bigger. Peter Davis of the Sheraton outfit, which unveiled the Sheraton-Mt. Royal in Montreal over last weekend, believes that the more or less recent demand for more exotic cooking springs from the fact that countless thousands of American men (and women) sampled the indigenous culinary delights of so many nations during the war.

★ ★ ★

What he can't account for, however, is the success of the spreading Polynesian bit. . . Don Beachcomber, Trader Vic, (Victor Bergeron) etc., including the Montreal hotel's Kon-Tiki, which is run by Steve Crane, a well-fed refugee from Hollywood.

Not too many years ago we might have shied away and whinnied with alarm at the sight of a Kon-Tiki menu, which is typical of the craze: Jamaki, for instance, livers and water chestnuts wrapped in bacon. Or seaweed soup. Or chicken luau (thin sliced breast of chicken with ginger root, dow siu, garlic and other spices. Or shrimp Manila (shrimp with rice noodles)

Maybe it's a reaction against the stuff the Army fed the boys and girls during the war to end all wars that were not ended by the original war to end all wars.

To paraphrase Fred Allen, the only thing you can turn on these days around the house without getting Dr. Fidel Castro is a spigot.

The good doctor, whose idealistic phrases have been drowned out lately by the rattle of his firing squads, comes and goes and then comes again.

We wish him well and hope he stops shooting people who weren't on his side. We also hope he permits the existence of at least one other active political party in his pleasant land.

Talked to Ernest Hemingway by phone in Sun Valley the other day. In addition to completing a new book (topic censored), America's leading writer has hammered his weight down to 204.

"How did you do it?" I asked.

"Easy," he said, "I stopped drinking, except with real friends."

Dreams of Caribbean Confederation

Castro's Plans Not Confined to Cuba

By GEORGE KAUFMAN

HAVANA (AP) — The magic of Fidel Castro's personality is likely to be felt beyond the borders of this land he wrested from tight dictatorship.

The bearded 6-foot man of action promises to become an important figure to all of Latin America, and particularly the countries of the Caribbean.

Now Cuba's national hero, he speaks of the day when there will be "a spiritual confederation of Caribbean nations."

This must be disquieting for Generalissimo Trujillo, dictator in the nearby Dominican Republic. Castro does not envisage any dictatorships in a Caribbean confederation.

Castro intends to expound his ideas in Latin America. He will go to Venezuela and other Latin American countries in the spring. He plans also to visit the United States.

★ ★ ★

Castro is a man who speaks eloquently with his hands as well as with his mouth. His gestures underline his points with dramatic emphasis.

"There shall be no more bloodshed in Cuba," he says. "The people will have love."

But he has the toughness of a warrior. He also says that those who have wantonly killed "have no right to go on living." That is his justification for the military trials and executions of supporters of the ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista.

His eyes are liquid brown. They take on a pained look when someone asks a question that might be interpreted at questioning the purity of his rebellion's motives.

He rarely takes time for a meal. He has a shack whenever he is hungry. He smokes Big Havana cigars — a dozen a day. On the go day and night, he still wears the khaki battle dress of the Rebel fighter.

His present job is organizing Cuba's armed forces, putting into the service all his bearded men who want to join and regular army men who opposed Batista.

He is not in the provisional government, but his voice is the power behind it.

★ ★ ★

He went to Mexico and organized of a sugar planter's family. He left Havana University as a lawyer.

He failed to upset Batista in an attack upon Moncada barracks in Santiago in 1953. He was sentenced to 15 years in prison but later given a pardon.

He went to Mexico and organized the revolutionary band that landed in Oriente Province Dec. 2, 1956.

He is divorced. A 9-year-old son, Fidel Jr., is with him. His family includes his widowed mother, five sisters and three brothers. Brother Raul was second in command in the revolutionary movement. Now he bosses Oriente Province.

Thirty Volunteer Blood for Rare Heart Surgery

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI)—Thirty Grand Rapids area men and women have volunteered to go to Cleveland late this month to donate blood for a Grand Rapids woman who will undergo a rare heart operation.

Mrs. Janet Horjus, 26, a mother of two, is scheduled to undergo surgery at St. Vincent's hospital in Cleveland Jan. 28.

★ ★ ★

Doctors, using a mechanical heart while performing the operation, hope to correct a major defect in the upper chamber that allows one-third of her blood to flow in the wrong direction.

In order to operate, Mrs. Horjus' heart must be emptied of blood and then connected to an intricate heart-lung machine that will keep her alive during the long operation.

The donors who go to Cleveland will give blood to "prime" the machine before the operation starts and their type-o positive blood will be used to keep Mrs. Horjus alive during the long operation.

Mrs. Horjus is scheduled to leave for Cleveland Jan. 22 while the donors, riding in new cars loaned for the 275-mile trip by a Grand Rapids auto dealer, will leave Jan. 27.

★ ★ ★

At Cleveland the donors will be lodged in homes of members of a Christian Reformed Church. Mrs. Horjus is a member of the Godwin Heights Christian Reformed Church here and many of its members are among those who volunteered to donate blood for her.

"The response for blood donors is remarkable," Mrs. Horjus said. "I'm so thankful to the people who have volunteered and to the many others who have told me they will pray for success of the operation."

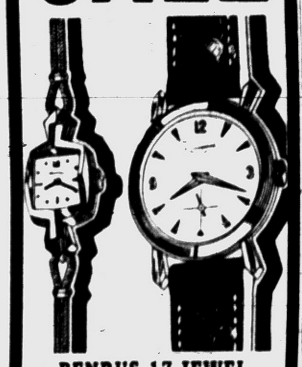

Mrs. Horjus said she has had a defective heart since birth and it has become worse in recent years. She said her doctor recommended surgery as soon as possible before the opening between the heart's upper chambers becomes too large to close.

The suburban Wyoming woman said she inquired about the possibility of having the operation at Blodgett Hospital here, where the first operation of this type was performed six weeks ago, but learned there was a long list of persons waiting.

★ ★ ★

"Finally, my doctor said I could have the operation performed in Cleveland," she said. "Within a short time, people at the Godwin Heights Christian Reformed Church were volunteering to accompany me and were making arrangements for transportation and lodging of the 30 donors. It's just wonderful what everyone has done."

Woman Assures Police She's Forced to Cook

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP)—Mrs. Williams S. Cook explained to police that she isn't running a restaurant.

A man broke into her house and ordered her to cook him a meal. He paid her $8 after eating the ham and eggs she prepared.

Police later arrested the man for investigation of house breaking.

There are at least three "inches" in the world. The United States, Great Britain, and Canada each has its own standard of measurement for the inch.

Isle of Man Parliament Rules Internal Affairs

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man — The Isle of Man, in the Irish Sea, was originally a Viking colony. Later it was governed for several centuries by the Kings and Lords of Man until Great Britian assumed direct sovereignty about 200 years ago.

The island still has its own Parliament for internal affairs and the House of Keys is one of the oldest legislative assemblies in the world. There's even a Manx language, but fewer than 200 people can speak it now.

U.S. Achievement Affects Missile Program

Metal That Hardens Steel Is Cast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists have produced the first casting of molybdenum, a metallic element which has excellent strength at high temperatures.

★ ★ ★

The Interior Department described this as a major metallurgical breakthrough of importance to space and missile programs.

Marling J. Ankeny, director of the Bureau of Mines, said scientists at the agency's Albany, Ore., laboratory had produced a simple cylindrical molybdenum casting. He said the metallurgists now are trying to improve techniques so intricate shapes can be created by the process.

★ ★ ★

He said such intricate items would advance the development of missiles, rockets and satellites, giving the missile engineer greater flexibility of design and a cheaper way to construct vital components.

★ ★ ★

The strength which molybdenum has at high temperatures is needed for certain applications in missile parts. The metal increases the hardness and strength of steel.

But its high melting point — 4,748 degrees Fahrenheit — destroyed the crucibles used in earlier attempts to cast it. By comparison, pure iron melts at 2,795 degrees.

★ ★ ★

Here is how the casting was made:

Under remote-control conditions, a high-density electric arc was used to melt a 30-pound charge of molybdenum in a water-cooled, copper-lined melting pot.

The intensely hot material was poured through a series of troughs into a rotating graphite cylinder that forced the metal to the walls of the rotating mold. There the metal consolidated, froze and produced a hollow molybdenum cylinder 4½ inches wide and 8 inches long.

The United States has about 90 per cent of the world's known molybdenum reserves, most of it in Colorado, Utah, Arizona, California, New Mexico and Nevada.

Japan Joyful Over Discovery

Dogs Survive in Antarctic

By JAMES CARY

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's press, radio and public erupted with ecstasies of delight today at the news that two of 15 sled dogs abandoned in the antarctic 11 months ago had been found alive.

"Two dogs survive!" headlined Tokyo's big dailies in type normally reserved for the death of Stalin, the outbreak of war and similar events.

★ ★ ★

Radios blared the news hourly. Newspapers, radio stations and news agencies were flooded with calls for more information. There was as much rejoicing as there had been protest when the dogs were left behind last February.

★ ★ ★

A six-man advance party was flown by helicopter Wednesday night from the antarctic expedition ship Soya to reopen the deserted Japanese base on Ongul Island. Masamk Murayama, leader of the party, radioed back that the two dogs came bounding up, wagging their tails in greeting. He said they were in good condition.

Murayama's first message gave no word of the other 13 dogs, or of how the two had managed to survive.

The 15 sled dogs, members of the vanishing Japanese Karafuto breed, were left behind when heavy ice kept the Soya from reaching the base to restock it for the antarctic winter. Bad weather halted flying after removal of the 11 Japanese scientists who had staffed the base and nine other dogs.

The dogs let behind were tied up and had food for only a few weeks.

★ ★ ★

Abandonment of the dogs had brought nationwide demands that they be saved. Some appealed to President Eisenhower to help. Memorial services were held in various Japanese cities, and a statue of the 15 was erected in Osaka.

Among the most tearfully jubilant was Miss Sachiko Murase, president of the society for protecting the Karafuto breed.

"I had been praying for them night and day," she said.

Three more of the Karafutos were taken by this year's expedition, which will spend the winter on Ongul Island in scientific observations. These, however, went along only as pets.

Soviet Scientists Predict Future

Foresee Colonization of Moon, Creation of Life, Super Surgery

MOSCOW (UPI)—Leading Soviet scientists have predicted that man in the 21st century would be able to create life artificially, would have the benefit of bloodless "supersonic" surgery and would need only one or two hour' sleep a night.

The scientists, whose views were reported by the Soviet Tass news agency, said that flights to the moon would be routine after the year 2,000, and that earthmen would be busy exploiting the moon's natural resources.

The official Soviet agency was reviewing a book, "Report From the 21st Century," in which 29 prominent Russian scientists gave their predictions on what mankind would accomplish in the next century.

The president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, Alexander Nesmeyanov said that "an early victory of organic chemistry will be the creation of organic substances by the methods of living nature."

Mikhail Ananiev, director of the institute of experimental surgical instruments, said surgeons would be able to operate without mutilating the body by employing a "supersonic lancet." He predicted the technique also would coagulate blood.

The estate of a patient in the 21st Century hospital, he said, would be controlled by a physician at "the control panel of special apparatus recording the changes in the body." Diagnosis, he said, also would be done mechanically.

Another Soviet scientist, V. Englehardt, predicted that the 21st Century citizen would waste less time in bed and thus prolong his life by keeping his eyes open longer.

Tass reported that Soviet scientists felt that flights to the moon would be commonplace by the year 2,000. As a result they bypassed the moon in their 21st Century predictions except to say that the moon would be a new continent of the earth and utilization of its natural resources would be the order of the day.

Police Break Up Juvenile Gang

13-Year-Old's Tears Bring Confession by 3 of 2 Holdup Tries

DETROIT (AP) Police cracked a juvenile gang yesterday when a 13-year-old boy tearfully admitted he participated in two holdup attempts.

A pistol-carrying 12-year-old and a 16-year-old also were arrested in a youth bureau dragnet. The three boys were held at a juvenile detention home.

Juvenile court Judge Nathan J. Kaufman was to hear the case today.

★ ★ ★

The young trio confessed two holdup attempts in the last week after the 13-year-old broke down and cried. The first was successful. The stickup netted $100 at a Detroit market Jan. 8.

The second failed Monday. A waitress at a milk bar thought the gun was a toy. It wasn't. The waitress grabbed the gun. A shot was fired into the floor. The boys fled.

Ex-Legislator, Attorney to Be Wed in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Former Republican Congressman Clarence J. McLeod, 63, of Detroit, and attorney Mary Louise DeMarco, 41, of St. Clair Shores, applied for a marriage license Wednesday in Detroit.

A widower, McLeod was a congressman for 17 years in the 1920s and 1930s. Miss DeMarco has not been married previously.

William & Mary had 70 candidates for 1958 football.

Iowa Governor Gets Reminder— a Shrunken Head

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Gov. Herschel C. Loveless received a shrunken head yesterday from the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Executive's Association as a political reminder of his problems.

Lloyd Mack of Cedar Rapids sent the head to Loveless and said that "hearsay and rumor" was that the shrunken head belonged to "one of the earliest governors in South America."

That governor "lost his head," Mack said, because of a combination of an "unfavorable press, an assembly made up of the majority of the opposition and a program of sniping and fault-finding with the continuous intent to embarrass him."

New Yorkers Claim Montreal as Suburb

By EARL WILSON

MONTREAL — Outside, the snarling wind was snapping men's hats off. A couple of days before it had been 20 below zero.

But inside in a grass skirt, sat Miss Tina Louise, the red-haired Hollywood beauty whom you've also see on TV.

WILSON

Blonde little Priscilla Alden—who does commercials on the Arthur Godfrey and Dick Clark TV shows—was also wearing something South Seas-y and skimpy.

"I'll promise you, we're going to see to it that Montreal replaces Philadelphia and Newark as suburbs of New York," a fellow was saying.

"You're mixed up," I told him. "New York's the suburb—of Philadelphia and Newark! Ask any Philadelphian or New Jerseyite."

Steve Crane, Lana Turner's ex-husband, grinned up from his pineapple drink. He had just opened the restaurant here at the Sheraton-Mt. Royal Hotel. He has a very successful Hollywood restaurant—and the Canadians feel he'll lure many New Yorkers up here. It's only an hour-and-a-half plane ride.

TINA

The Beautiful Wife and I were celebrating our 23rd wedding anniversary. We'd come up to improve our French.

There's a daily French newspaper (which we can't read) called "Le Dimanche Matin." Many stores have both French and English signs in the windows. Parts of Montreal are as French as France — and cheaper.

And the natives speak such interesting English. Our driver mentioned that "there are not many traffic today" — and when he saw Tina Louise in her grass skirt, he commented, "She is wearing very few pants."

And so we opened a new suburb.

Of course it's all according to the point of view. A Chicago fellow said, "Yeah, those New Yorkers want to spoil another town."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN N.Y. . . .

Some "practical" Democrats here now favor Symington for President. They say: "Why blow it?" . . . Zsa Zsa Gabor's apartment, rented to Robin Moore, lists in its inventory "1 round velvet bed in perfect condition." Jack Dempsey and Jack Amiel were asked by Castro confidantes to help run "clean" gambling in Havana . . . During the recent Beverly Hills fire art lover Vincent Price floated his valuable paintings on rafts in his pool . . . Cary Grant asked—and got—75 per cent of the gross of the next film he makes for UI.

EARL'S PEARLS: Winning may not be everything, so some college deans insist, but no football coach ever got a raise for building character.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Scientists tell us how to sail under the North Pole and fly over the moon, but you're still on your own when you cross the street.—Quote.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Morey Amsterdam read of increased N.Y. state taxes and grumbled, "I never thought Rockefeller would need MY money." . . . That's earl, brother.

'Judge Hardy' Inspiration to Fatherless Slum Boy

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For a fatherless Puerto Rican boy in the Harlem slums, the image of the good, grey Lewis Stone became an imposing figure on the movie screen.

★ ★ ★

"I saw all the Hardy family pictures I could," says Henry Silva. "Judge Hardy became, like a father to me. And I wasn't alone. A lot of guys in the same neighborhood felt the same way. When they balked at doing something, their fathers told them, 'Do it or I'll break your neck.'

★ ★ ★

"In the Hardy pictures, it was different. When Mickey Rooney wouldn't do something, Lewis Stone would say, 'Now let's sit down and talk this over.' That made a big impression on us."

★ ★ ★

Now Henry Silva is himself in Hollywood and in the beginnings of what promises to be a distinguished acting career. But he hasn't forgotten the comfort and stability he got from adopting Judge Hardy as his imaginary father.

Sociologists might wonder how Henry came through his boyhood unscathed. When he was growing up, the street next to his in Harlem was cited as having the highest incidence of juvenile delinquency in the nation. His father pulled up stakes when the boy was 1, leaving his mother to bring Henry up alone. Yet he stayed out of trouble.

★ ★ ★

"For one thing, I could run fast," he said. "But the most important thing was that I didn't go looking for trouble. You didn't have to go far to find it. It wasn't unusual for kids to be stabbed to death in the streets or pushed off buildings."

★ ★ ★

Henry, a tall fellow with a broad, Indian-like face, came up the hard way as longshoreman, garment worker, bus boy, waiter and finally broke into acting via the Actor's Studio. After some seasoning in stock and TV, he made his big splash as the menacing dope pusher called Mother in "A Hatful of Rain" on Broadway.

Director Fred Zinneman cast him in the movie version. The offers started pouring in the day after the preview. In 15 months here, he has had no more than five weeks off from movie making.

Sun Has Worst Rash of Spots Since 1951

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The sun has the worst rash of black spots on its face since 1951.

★ ★ ★

Mt. Wilson Observatory has photographed the spots—huge magnetic storms on the sun's surface. These storms emit radiation which often upsets radio and telephone communications on earth.

★ ★ ★

The spots photographed last Friday extended 100,000 miles across the sun's face. In 1951 a 125,000-mile cluster was observed. The largest on record, extending 152,000 miles, was observed in 1947.

CHAPTER XXVII

"I thought, when you were talking to me today—first in the morning, and later when I met you with Miss Seton—that you knew more than you were telling me."

"I still do. And you know what I'd do in your place? I'd let everybody have their fun, and I wouldn't take a mite of notice—until, of course, it looked like interfering with the company's business, then you put a stop to it, as you did this morning when Tarrant was giving trouble.

"All you have to do is mind your own business, which is the company's business. You don't have to lose sleep trying to figure out whether you're carrying normal passengers or chimpanzees. You didn't choose them and just so long as they get in and out of the coach when they're supposed to, and follow the program, you don't have to worry about how they amuse themselves at the night stops.

"The less you see, the less you know. The less you know, the less you have to report to headquarters. Stick to the main issues."

There was a pause. Then Angus smiled.

* * *

"It all makes me feel a fool. I don't particularly mind looking a fool if I've done something foolish, but I would have liked to be able to reach a few satisfactory solutions in my own mind."

"Me too. If it's any comfort to you, I don't know much, and all of it is fact. When I get to theorizing, none of it makes much sense. So let's forget it. Tell me, are you taking Miss Lovely out tonight?"

CONGRATULATIONS?

"No. She's dining with her father and Yule."

"Are congratulations in order, or am I merely imagining that one and one are about to make one?"

Angus rose and stood smiling down at the other man.

"Things are . . . in train," he said.

"Then congratulations are in order and I won't make any obvious cracks about in coach rather than in train. Are you—"

He stopped as a knock came on the door. Mr. Holt called a careless Adelante, and Angus saw that he was expecting one of the servants to enter—but when the door opened, it was Miss Seton who was standing on the threshold.

Angus caught an expression of surprise on Mr. Holt's face, and then it had given way to a smile of pleasure and he was hurrying forward to welcome her.

"Come in, come in. It's nice of you to call. I was just giving Angus some good advice. I've told him to keep his eyes on the road and not let the passengers distract him."

"Not even when they lose their luggage?"

"Not even when they find it again."

She looked from one man to the other.

"The luggage has been found?"

"It has," said Mr. Holt. "Angus decided it must be a practical joker, and so he went alooking. He found Tarrant's grips in a cupboard and he restored them to the owner."

It was some moments before Miss Seton spoke, and Angus, to his surprise, found that the color had slowly receded from her cheeks.

* * *

"I'm so glad," she said at last. "You're glad, I'm glad, he's glad—and perhaps Tarrant's glad too, who knows? I was on the point of suggesting to Angus, when you came in, that we might go out to dinner to celebrate. will you join us?"

"If you'll forgive me," said Angus, before she could speak, "I think I'll go out on my own and do something I haven't had a chance to do for some time—go round the little out-of-the-way tascas talking to the natives and brushing up the lower brackets of my Spanish. I'd ask you to join me, but some of the places aren't exactly what Miss Seton—"

"Here's how we'll do it," suggested Mr. Holt. "If Miss Seton will dine with me, we'll fix a meeting place and Angus can take us round some of these dives after dinner. . .How'd that work out?"

It was agreed that they would meet after dinner. Angus, after fixing a time and a place went out and left the other two alone. As he walked down the corridor, a servant stopped him with a message to the effect that Mr. Zoller would like to see him. Before the last words were spoken, Mr. Zoller's great bulk appeared round a corner and he hailed Angus in his guttural voice.

WANTS A BALCONY

"Ah—so! It is Mr. Graham. I have been looking for you. Can you speak with me?"

"Certainly. Would you like to come to my room?"

"No, no, no thank you. The matter is short. All I ask is, will you permit that my wife and I shall come downstairs to this floor and so make a change to a room with a balcony."

"I think it could be arranged," said Angus. "But . . . hasn't your present room a balcony?"

"Yes, there is one—but it is very narrow, and it has no cover, no roof. Down here, there are not perhaps balconies but verandas, and my wife wants to have one. I have been asking, and I find that there is an empty room along here, next to the American's."

"There's a double room between Mr. Holt's and Miss Seton's. Is that the one you want?"

"That is the one. It is big, the balcony is big, there is more air. Can you order that our things are changed from one room to the other?"

"Of course. I'll do it now."

"As a madderfact," confided Mr. Zoller, "my wife is nervous since Mr. Tarrant's luggage was taken. Yes, yes, I know that it has come back. Just now, when I spoke to the manager about the room, he told me that all it was is a practical joke, but even so, she doesn't care to stay up there. So I said to her that I could see if an empty room was downstairs."

"I'll go and make the arrangements."

It's Not Hard to Make Cooking Fun

There are two kinds of cooks, those who have fun cooking and those who cook as a matter of routine.

If you watch the woman who gets real pleasure from cooking, you'll find she's inventive, experimental, and knows a lot of good-sense short cuts that are time-savers and worksavers. Why not join the group that likes to cook by trying these tips for greater cooking enjoyment? Try some of these suggestions:

You don't have to end up with hard-to-wash dishes when you finish flouring chicken or sugaring doughnuts. Instead, shake the food and coating together in a paper bag, then discard the bag.

A weekly fish dish can be a gourmet experience if you try a new slant each week. For example, roll up those fillets, then stuff them with bread crumbs and crab meat. Or bake the fillets first, then top them with a luscious cheese sauce sprinkled liberally with almonds.

Have you served honey recently? When you do, first put a bit of butter on the honey spoon. Honey will then easily slip off the spoon in a neat portion, rather than drip all about.

For unusual cake decoration, frost the top of the cake with a smooth confectioner's-sugar frosting. "Paint" flowers or greeting on frosting, using condensed milk tinted with food coloring as "paint."

★ ★ ★

Remember that color adds a cheerful touch to mealtime. A little chopped parsley topping boiled potatoes or vegetables makes the food more appealing. Bits of chopped pimento or sliced olives will add a cheerful accent to creamed dishes or casseroles.

Cottage Cheese Spread Lower in Calories

Cream style cottage cheese mixed with minced onion, chopped cooked bacon, chopped nuts or diced fruits makes delicious sandwich spreads.

For a smooth spread to use on open-face cocktail sandwiches, whip the cottage cheese with a rotary beater or blender, or force through a sieve before adding the seasonings.

Fruit Duo Sauce Is Flavorful

When it's refreshment time for those record parties and stereo sessions on the teenage schedules these days, why not introduce a new hit number. Serve individual angelfood cups and topper sundaes.

Pink-frosted angelfood cups are available from your grocer's ready-to-eat cake department all packaged and ready to serve. Topper sundaes, the perfect party-time acompaniment, are a divine concoction of fruits and ice cream. And better yet, they can be served either warm or chilled.

★ ★ ★

Here's the recipe for the Topper sundaes:

Topper Sundaes

1 cup water
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 6-ounce can frozen pineapple-orange juice concentrate
1 1-pound package frozen red raspberries

Stir 2 tablespoons water into cornstarch. Combine remaining water and fruits in saucepan. Heat slowly over low heat. Stir in cornstarch. Cook, stirring, until thickened slightly. Serve hot or chilled on vanilla ice cream. Serves three.

Red Cabbage Can Be Cooked for Gourmet

All our tasters liked this way of giving a plain vegetable real class!

Red Cabbage Gourmet

4 cups firmly packaged shredded red cabbage
3 tablespoons light raisins
Juice of ½ lemon
¼ cup water
1½ tablespoons light brown sugar
Ground cloves
Salt, pepper

Mix cabbage, raisins, lemon juice, water, sugar and a dash of cloves in a 10-inch skillet. Cover and cook gently 20 to 25 minutes; stir occasionally. Add salt and pepper to taste. Cabbage may be cooked longer, if desired; add a tablespoon of water at a time to skillet if necessary during the cooking. Makes 4 servings.

Fish in Aluminum Foil

A simple and flavorful way of preparing fish fillets is to dot them with butter, top with sliced mushrooms or slit scallions; then put them in an air-tight packet of aluminum foil and bake in a hot oven 20 minutes or until packets puff up. Slit the top of packet to serve.

Spaghetti Fixed With Lamb Is Different

Spaghetti is a great American favorite which can be varied many delicious ways if you have a good number of sauce recipes on hand. Among the tastiest of meat sauces to serve with spaghetti are those made with lamb.

A quick sauce calls for balls of ground lamb seasoned with onion and celery salt simmered in a mushroom sauce for only twenty minutes. It's a good idea to keep in mind for days when lunch or dinner preparation time is at a premium.

A second lamb sauce recipe is flavored with tomato, vegetables and herbs. Put both of these suggestions on your menus soon.

Spaghetti with Lamb Sauce

1 pound ground lamb
1 teaspoon onion salt
½ teaspoon celery salt
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1 10½ ounce can condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup milk
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
8 ounces spaghetti

Combine lamb, onion salt, celery salt, ¼ teaspoon salt and pepper; mix well. Shape into ¾-inch balls. Cook lamb balls over low heat until browned on all sides. Add mushroom soup, milk and parsley; mix well. Cover and cook over low heat 20 minutes, stirring occasionally.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Serve spaghetti with lamb balls and sauce. Makes 4 servings.

★ ★ ★

Spaghetti and Lamb Balls

1 pound ground lamb
¼ cup coarsely chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
2 8-ounce cans tomato sauce
½ teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper, to taste
⅛ teaspoon rosemary
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
8 ounces spaghetti

Shape lamb into 2-inch balls. Cook over low heat until browned on all sides. Add onion and green pepper; cook 5 minutes. Combine tomato sauce, oregano, ½ teaspoon salt, pepper, rosemary and sugar; pour over lamb. Cook, covered, over low heat, 1 hour.

Meanwhile, add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Serve with lamb balls and sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Dress Up Soup Bowl

How to dress up a soup: add miniature meat balls that have been well-browned in butter or margarine. Tomato-rice, split pea and mixed vegetable soups all benefit from this treatment, as do broths.

Better Choose Large Sized Mushrooms

This recipe is repeated by request.

Stuffed Mushrooms

1 pound medium-sized mushrooms
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 can (4½ ounces) deviled ham
⅓ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon dried crumbled (instant) onion

Wipe mushroom caps and stems with damp cloth; detach caps. Chop stems fine.

Melt butter in 9- or 10-inch skillet; add caps, and cook quickly until lightly browned; remove caps. Add chopped stems to skillet and cook quickly, stirring, for 3 to 5 minutes. Stir in lemon juice, deviled ham, bread crumbs and onion.

Pile stuffing into mushroom cap cavities; place in shallow baking pan. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 15 to 20 minutes or until heated through. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Some cooks like to use a serrated knife for freeing the fruit sections from the white membrane when preparing grapefruit halves.

Fruit and Cheese Plate Stylish Dessert to Serve

Delightful fruit and cheese ending for a meal: arrange a mound of cream-style cottage cheese in the center of a platter; surround with small baked apples alternated with guava shells. Top each apple with a little currant jelly, if you like, and use water cress or some other green between the apples and guava.

★ ★ ★

The preserved guava shells come in cans and may be bought in regular markets or specialty food shops.

Keep Lunch Box Menus Varied

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

We know two little girls who were so thrilled with the new lunch boxes they received for Christmas that they packed and ate a lunch from them at home during the holidays. Mothers are less enthusiastic about lunchboxes, new or old. And for understandable reasons.

★ ★ ★

There's something terribly monotonous about getting up morning after morning and making sandwiches along with breakfast preparations. If there are several in the family who take lunches, the sight of all those boxes lined up on the kitchen table may be more than Mama can take some mornings.

★ ★ ★

Lining them up, however, should give her ideas. Put the whole deal on the assembly line basis. And enlist the help of some of the lunch box carriers. Don't underestimate the ability of even seven and eight-year-olds to help.

If you have a freezer, you can do a lot of advance preparation. Sandwiches made with the following protein fillers keep well: lunch meats, roast beef and key, tuna, salmon, sliced cheese pork, baked ham, chicken, turand cheese spreads. Inaddition, try hard-cooked egg yolks (the whites get rubbery), peanut butter and kidney beans with pickle relish or baked beans.

Remember to butter the bread right to the edges so that the fillings won't soak in. Boiled dressing will freeze well, but not mayonnaise.

FROZEN DESSERT

Use small paper cups with lids to freeze fruit for dessert. Any canned fruit or baked apples freeze nicely and thaw out in time for lunch.

Lunch is one of your child's meals, not just a stop gap between breakfast and dinner. It should include one-third of the day's calories. Try to put in at least one food from each of the basic groups as now listed by the USDA.

Milk can be bought at most schools. If you want to send it from home, use a thermos bottle. Or occasionally freeze some chocolate milk in a covered paper cup. As it thaws, it will keep the rest of the lunch chilled. In the winter cream soups are a good choice.

★ ★ ★

The protein group is represented in the saldwich. Meat, cheese, fish, eggs, peanut butter, nuts or dried peas or beans will supply it.

The vegetable group includes both vegetables and fruits. Most children enjoy nibbling on raw carrots or celery; some like strips of green pepper and spears of cucumber. Fruit rarely is a problem. It's a natural for a lunch box.

The bread group is well represented by the sandwich. All other foods are a bonus.

Let your children help plan what is going into their lunch boxes. Then you won't have the box come home with half-eaten food in it.

★ ★ ★

Here is a sample menu you might try on the lunch box carrier in your house.

Corned Beef on Whole Bread Sandwiches
(Mayonnaise-Chopped Green Pepper Dressing)
Carrot Sticks Celery Sticks
Chocolate Delight Cupcakes
Fresh Fruit Beverage

The cupcakes can appear first as dessert at dinner. You may have to hide the rest to save them for the next day.

Chocolate Delight Cupcakes

2¼ cups sifted cake flour
1¾ cups sugar
⅔ cup cocoa
1¾ teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
⅔ cup soft butter or margarine
1 7-ounce bottle lemon-lime carbonated beverage
3 eggs

Sift cake flour with sugar, cocoa, soda, salt and baking powder. Add butter and lemon-lime carbonated beverage and mix on an electric mixer 2 minutes (or about 300 strokes by hand). Add eggs and beat 2 minutes more.

★ ★ ★

Place paper cupcake liners in muffin tins and fill each liner half full of batter. Bake in a 375 degree oven 20 minutes. When cool, spread with frosting. Makes about 2 dozen cupcakes.

Women Pay High Price for Convenience Foods

How many women are left who cook from the very beginning? Those who do might take heart from economists' findings.

Pie filling mixes, for example, save about 4 minutes in preparation time but cost about 75 per cent more than the individual ingredients.

Save tin cans with tightly fitting covers and use for steaming brown bread or fruit-cake type pudding.

Peeler Grates Chocolate

Making the most of what you have saves time and money in the kitchen. Recipes calling for chocolate, for instance, bring out the potato peeler. Use this to shred the chocolate. It's fast, safe and easier to wash than a grater.

Generous Pork Supplies Help Keep Budget in Line

Need to keep food dollars in line? Study available marketing information and choose foods in good supply recommends Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. Need to rouse appetites? You might surprise the family with fresh smelt or rosy hothouse rhubarb.

A LOOK AT THE MEAT MARKET

Most retailers report that wholesale beef prices continue at high levels. This may make beef features seem even more attractive than usual.

Notice the large amounts of U.S. Choice grade beef this winter? Last year's large beef crops made it possible for farmers and ranchers to fatten beef at reasonable cost.

The U. S. Choice grade beef situation has some special effects. For instance, price of ground beef will continue about as it has been. Ground beef cannot be made from top grade beef and still sell at 40 cents a pound. Cows, the source for most inexpensive ground beef, have been held back on farms and ranches for restocking beef herds since cost of feed is fairly low.

Pork is in generous supply and several cuts wear special prices for the week. Wide variation in price for the same pork cut may be found for several reasons.

A pork loin from a small lean animal will cost more per pound than one from a large fat hog. The meat of the small loin will have finer texture, will not be as coarse nor as fat as the loin from the large fat pig. One store may trim more fat and bone from a cut than another store and rightly ask a higher price per pound. One store may feature a cut at near its wholesale cost, while another store during the same week features a still different cut.

A study of both price and quality will help meat dollars go further. At the same counter for the same cut, some packages will have more waste or be less desirable than others.

At the poultry case, the large tom turkey wears the thrifty tag this week. Stewers run a close second in meat value for the money spent.

PRODUCE

Recent rains in the south and delays in shipments from Cuba still have an effect upon quality and quantity of some fresh produce. Tomatoes, green beans and cucumbers are among the scarcer items.

Potatoes, rutabagas, carrots and cabbage are economical choices. Boiled dinners, pot roasts and most meats are enhanced when these vegetables are used.

A small to medium size rutabaga that is heavy for its size is the best choice, states the Marketing Information Agent. Notice the thick wax on the outside? This keeps it sweet and moist on the inside. To prepare, simply peel, cut into small pieces and cook in boiling salted water. Mashed rutabaga added to mashed potato adds new flavor and color.

Apples, bananas, oranges and grapefruit lead the week's fruit selections. Enjoy tangerines while they are still in season.

★ ★ ★

Seedless grapefruit are neither Marsh seedless or pink seedless. The Duncan variety with seeds is thought by many shoppers to have the superior flavor.

OTHER FOODS

The large size egg continues to be the best egg value. Egg prices average about as they did last week.

Many canned and frozen foods are offered as special prices. Among these are large supplies of peas and Standard grade tomatoes. Standard grade tomatoes are not whole, but in casseroles, chili and in other dishes where whole tomatoes are not needed they will fill the bill for about 5 cents a cup.

APPETITE ROUSERS

February until late May is the smelt season, but already this small silvery fish is available.

★ ★ ★

Fresh smelt has a rich sweet flavor given by essential oils in the flesh. The oil evaporates quickly and is not found in stale fish. Because of its mild flavor, smelt is best when served with fish sauce or gravy.

Fresh hothouse rhubarb will add sparkling color for winter meals. A pound will make about 5 half-cups of sauce, will go far when used with other fruits for pies or salads. Allow two pounds for an all-rhubarb 9-inch pie.

No Strings Left on Snap Beans

Lots of readers ask, "Is there really any difference between a string bean and a snap bean?"

★ ★ ★

The answer is very definitely yes. Agricultural scientists have bred the strings out of string beans and so today's modern bean is correctly called a snap bean — no strings attached. From the standpoint of time saved in preparation, the snap bean was among our first convenience foods.

★ ★ ★

Fresh snap beans should be cooked in a small amount of boiling water—¼ to 1-inch. Salt may be added to the water before adding the vegetables or later. To retain green color, cook uncovered for 5 minutes and finish cooking with the cover on. Or, cover the pan from the beginning, but lift the lid briefly two or three times.

Allow 15-20 minutes for whole snap beans and 10-15 minutes for cut beans. French-style beans cook a little faster than conventional cut beans — usually in about 8-12 minutes.

Savory Fresh Snap Beans

Wash 1¼ pounds fresh snap beans, cut off tips and leave whole. Place in saucepan with 1 teaspoon salt and 1-inch boiling beef stock. Bring to boiling point, uncovered, and cook 5 minutes. Cover and cook only until crisp-tender, 10-12 minutes. Drain if necessary.

★ ★ ★

In the meantime, melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a saucepan; add 1 medium onion sliced ¼-inch thick. Saute until limp and transparent. Remove onions from pan, and blend in 1½ tablespoons fresh lemon juice. Pour over cooked beans, toss lightly and serve garnished with the sauteed onion rings.

FRESH SNAP BEANS — Fresh snap beans, with "no strings attached," onion rings and lemon juice make for a savory and convenient combination.

Better Poultry Marking Here

You can skip that New Year's resolution to buy only U.S. Government inspected poultry, Mrs. Homemaker, because you may not find much that won't be inspected next year.

Beginning on January 1, you see, all poultry plants that ship their poultry and poultry products from one state to another must, by law, be officially inspected and approved by the United States Department of Agriculture. Any plants that don't have this approval, which is given only after they meet strict sanitation requirements established by USDA, won't be allowed to ship their poultry outside the state in which they are located.

While poultry producers and retail dealers who usually kill and sell poultry locally aren't subject to the law, and there are some temporary exemptions with respect to the processing of poultry products, you'll see the USDA's inspection mark on more and more of the ready-to-cook turkeys, chickens and ducks in your butcher's case.

This inspection mark is in the form of a circle, telling you that the poultry has been inspected by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for wholesomeness and shows the plant number. It is your guarantee that the bird was healthy, and was processed in sanitary surroundings.

However, the inspection mark has nothing to do with the tenderness or eating quality of the poultry. For this look for a grade mark for example, Grade A or Grade B. This grade mark is in the form of a shield. The best birds, those which are plump and tender, show "USDA A GRADE" inside the shield, while the poorer ones are labeled USDA B or USDA C grade.

Rich Creamy Cocktail May Help Put on Weight

Too thin? If so you are probably the envy of your overweight friends who would willingly trade places with you for the sheer pleasure and relief of being able to eat anything in sight without counting calories or wincing at the message told by the bathroom scale. But underweight is a problem, too, and often a more difficult problem than overweight.

Incredible as it may seem to someone who struggles with reducing diets, it is actually easier to lose pounds than to gain them. That is, it is easier for the chronically overweight person to take pounds off than it is for the chronically underweight person to put them on.

Reducing is usually only a simple mathematical equation: if you eat fewer calories than you spend, you will lose weight. The opposite, however, is not so simple—even though the reverse of the equation is valid.

The too-thin spend more than they eat. The difficulty comes from their inability to eat the tremendous quantities they need to compensate for their bodies' spendthrift habits, over which they frequently have no control.

When weight gain is desired but elusive, despite an adequate diet, the following "cocktail" has been found effective:

1 tablespoon dried skimmed milk
yolks of four eggs
one ounce heavy cream
one pint whole milk

Beat ingredients together thoroughly, adding chocolate syrup, vanilla or almond extract if flavoring is desired. Drink one eight-ounce glass between lunch and dinner and another glass about two hours before retiring. Supplement at mealtime with Vitamin B Complex and Vitamin E.

Frozen Artichoke Hearts

When company's coming frozen artichoke hearts make a delightful salad. Cook them according to package directions and drain; marinate in a mixture of olive oil, white wine vinegar, salt and pepper. Serve on salad greens or on slices of tomato.

To Clear Stock

A slightly beaten egg white and a crushed egg shell may be used to clear a quart of stock for soup or sauces. The albumen in the egg coagulates as it is heated with the stock and any meat residue combines with the coagulated albumen. The cleared stock should be allowed to settle and then strained through a couple of thickness of cheesecloth placed over a fine sieve.

Count on needing one cup of tart red jelly for an old-fashioned jelly roll when the sponge-cake batter is baked in a 15 by 10 inch pan.

Desserts Can Perk Up Midwinter Meals

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Let's get mid-winter meals out of the doldrums. An interesting dessert will do much to keep the family happy (even if you do have to have budget menus for a while to recover from the holidays.)

★ ★ ★

Dessert should complement a meal, not just add to it. If, for instance, you are having a fruit salad, you won't want a fruit dessert too. If the main course of your dinner is a little on the light side, make up for it with a heartier dessert.

★ ★ ★

Cherry Dowdy is probably the most economical of the three desserts we're presenting today. You may use either frozen or canned cherries. The batter is made deliciously different with whole bran cereal.

Cherry Dowdy

⅓ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 cups pitted sour red cherries, frozen or canned
¾ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 egg
¼ cup hot water
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla flavoring
½ cup whole bran cereal

Mix together sugar and cornstarch; combine with cherries. Bring to full rolling boil over high heat, stirring constantly. Set aside to cool.

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Beat egg until thick and lemon colored; add hot water gradually, beating constantly. Continue beating while adding sugar. Fold in vanilla, bran and sifted dry ingredients.

Spoon cherry sauce into 1-cup custard cups; cover with batter. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) about 25 minutes. Serve warm with whipped cream. Serves 4.

★ ★ ★

This second pudding, also a fruit one, is made like the layered cookies so many of us baked for Christmas. It is another pudding to be served warm. This time the fruit is pineapple.

Pineapple Toffee Pudding

⅓ cup butter or margarine
⅓ cup brown sugar
¾ cup flour
2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup coconut
½ cup chopped almonds or pecans
½ cup well-drained pineapple tidbits

Cream ⅓ cup butter and ⅓ cup brown sugar; blend in ¾ cup flour. Pack evenly into bottom of an 8x8x2-inch pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 8 minutes.

While crust is baking, beat eggs until frothy and gradually beat in 1 cup brown sugar. Mix the dry ingredients and blend in along with vanilla, coconut, nutmeats and pineapple.

Remove crust from oven and pour batter over evenly. Return to a slow oven (325 degrees F.) and bake 35 minutes longer. Serve warm, plain or with whipped cream. Serves 6.

Since whipped cream is a naughty word in the vocabulary of anyone on a diet, some of you may shy away from this third recipe. So let's explore the ways you can cut down on the calories and still make the dessert.

You may use the packaged dessert topping found on any grocer's shelf. You may whip chilled evaporated milk. You may whip nonfat dry milk. None of them will give exactly the same flavor as whipped cream, but you'll be able to have your pudding and eat it too.

Choco-Wheat Dessert

1 cup (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 cup whipping cream
1½ cups whole wheat shreds
2 tablespoons sugar

Melt chocolate over hot but not boiling water. Add Krumbles, mixing carefully until cereal is well-coated. Turn out onto waxed paper or buttered baking sheet; let stand until hardened. Break into small pieces. Whip cream until stiff; fold in sugar and chocolate coated cereal. Yield: 6 servings.

No Danger at All

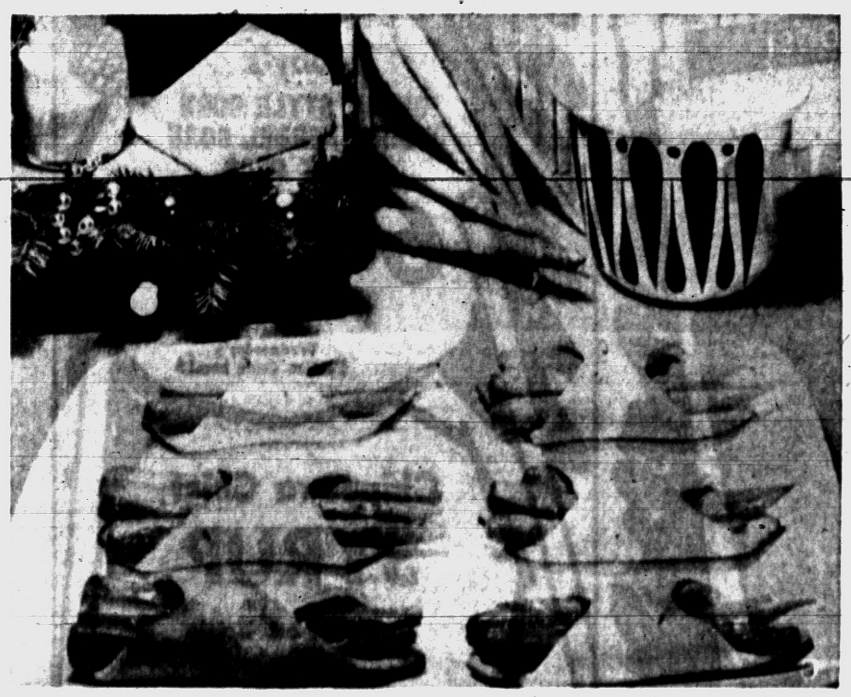

Aluminum cooking utensils are perfectly safe to use, say Michigan State University home economists. If aluminum pots and pans become colored after cooking in them, you may rest assured that this discoloration is harmless. It comes from minerals in either the foods or water in the utensil during the cooking time.

Adding salt to egg whites shortens the time they must be beaten to be stiff.

Flavor Salad Vinegar

Flavored vinegars to use in making French dressing offer interesting changes; they can be bought or made at home. Peel and slice a few garlic cloves into a cup of vinegar; cover and refrigerate several days before using. Flavor vinegar with such herbs as tarragon or basil the same way but let mellow longer.

Next time you stew apples, add a stick of cinnamon for spicy flavor.

Carrots With a Difference Get Put Into Turnovers

The versatility of vegerables is important at any season of the year. Unfortunately too many individuals have an aversin to them. It's up to the cook t make vegetables so appetizing looking that everyone wants to eat them.

★ ★ ★

Whole carrots, partially cooked, are wrapped in a biscuit cruist and baked. Just a bit of dry mustard gives interesting flavor to the crust. The turnovers are served with a cheese sauce.

Fresh Carrot Turnovers

18 medium fresh carrots
1-inch boiling water in saucepan
1 teaspoon salt
1 to 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
1½ cups biscuit mix
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon powdered dry mustard
1/16 teaspoon cayenne pepper
Cheese sauce
Paprika for garnish

Wash carrots, leave whole and place in a saucepan with boiling water and the 1 teaspoon salt. Cover and cook until carrots are partially tender, about 12 minutes. Drain. Season with melted butter or margarine mixed with the ¼ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper.

★ ★ ★

Blend biscuit mix with milk, mustard and cayenne pepper. Roll out into a 12x8-inch rectangle. Place 3 seasoned carrots diagonally across each square. Bring two opposite ends of square over top and secure with a toothpick.

Bake on a greased cooky sheet in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) about 20 minutes. Serve with Cheese Sauce. Garnish with paprika. Yield: 6 servings.

★ ★ ★

Cheese Sauce

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
¾ cup grated sharp American or Cheddar cheese

Melt butter or margarine in a milk and seasonings and cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Stir in cheese. Yield: Approximately 1¼ cups.

New Cooks Can Fry Wee Pies

Unless you're a most unusual new bride, chances are you're not yet quite at home at the range.

However, if the thought of baking pastries and pies throws you in a tizzy, relax — you can bake to your heart's content without even lighting the oven.

On top-of-the-range cookery has added a glamorous new scope of culinary art — even such things as cakes and pastries can be "baked" with cool convenience right in a skillet in a matter of minutes.

Taken from the new Skillet Cook Book, first complete cook book devoted entirely to skillet cooking ever published, this recipe for Skillet Turnovers, which are small crescents of filled pastry perfect for desserts, snacks or the main part of a meal, is easily made with prepared pie crust.

Then the crescents are filled and fried in pure vegetable oil to a golden turn — three to four minutes on each side. Try them with your favorite fruit or meat filling.

Skillet Turnovers

Use regular pie crust or biscuit dough recipe or prepared mix; roll out ⅛ inch thick, then cut into 4-inch squares or circles. Place a large spoonful of filling on one side of each square. Lightly dampen edges of dough with water and fold over; press edges together with fork.

Fry turnovers in 1 to 1½ inches of pure vegetable oil heated to 375 degrees F., until golden brown on both sides, 3 to 4 minutes. Drain on paper towels. Keep warm while frying remaining turnovers.

Serve fruit turnovers with syrup, confectioners' sugar or sour cream —have meat turnovers with hot types of fillings should be cooked previously.

SKILLET TURNOVERS — from the recipe in the new Skillet Cook Book, the first book ever published completely devoted to skillet cooking. Look for cookbook offer on vegetable oil label.

Mincemeat Cookies Quick, Easy, Good

There's an old saying that it's bad luck to count the things you make. That's a good motto when you make cookies, so beloved of old and young as a treat for their friends. Just keep the cooky jar full, with cookies that are easy to make and wholesome, and everybody will be happy.

A 9-ounce package of condensed mince meat added to a package of cooky mix makes easy cooky-jar fillers, with fine flavor and good keeping quality.

Quick Mince Meat Cookies

1 package cooky mix
1 9-ounce package condensed mince meat

Prepare cooky mix according to package directions. Add mince meat broken into small pieces. Mix well. Drop by teaspoonfuls two inches apart on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) and about 12 minutes. Makes about 48 cookies, three inches in diameter.

Cocoa Whipped Cream New and Unusual

Chocolate flavored whipped cream is delicious as a frosting on angel food cake or as a topping for puddings or cream pies.

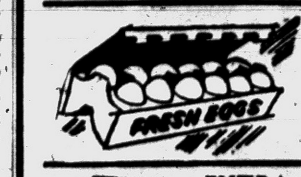

To make chocolate flavored whipped cream, whip until stiff 1 cup of chilled heavy cream and ⅓ cup confectioners' sugar blended with 4 tablespoons cocoa and a dash of salt.

The term "shallow-fat frying" means to cook food in from one to three inches of hot fat.

Excitement Aplenty in City of Fashions

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE
Women's Editor, Pontiac Press

NEW YORK—It always happens. The day we have the most exciting fashion news, excitement in another form occurs.

MRS. CLEMENCE

Just as we left the press room, story in hand, ready to be filed, we ran into a group of policemen swarming about the Grand Ballroom here at the Waldorf-Astoria, ready to guard Anastas Mikoyan who is speaking here tonight. They are among 500 police in and about the area alerted for the big event.

The chic, the new, the balanced silhouette with sameness of color from head to toe marks the Christian Dior collection of French-inspired clothes for American women.

THEY'RE ROUNDED

These elegant costumes are completely wearable, but have the unmistakable signature of a master of design.

The rounded line in dress, coat and suit is carried out and is created without shoulder or sleeve seaming for a completely smooth effect.

Hemlines are definitely lower at Dior, with skirts well below the knee. Wide sash belts and the Dior bows are prominent.

Every costume shown was completely accessorized by Dior including jewelry and hosiery. Massed strings of bead necklaces are worn high, choker style.

Fabrics include Italian silk linens, silk tweeds, sheer wool and silk and wool blends for daytime wear. For late day and evenings lace, chiffon, silk organdy and re-embroidered organdy are favored.

Sky colors are reflected in dawn pinks, clear blues, sunset oranges and reds.

★ ★ ★

Fabrics matching the costumes appeared in the hats created by Dior, and straw hats with large to small brims are in evidence. Suit jackets are short and often belted.

ACTRESS LAUDS CHAPMAN

Greer Garson, a guest at the Ceil Chapman showing, summed up the importance of this designer's collection when she told your reporter, "Ceil's clothes are feminine, glamorous and wearable." In her deep and lovely voice, she said she wears many of the designer's dresses, and she added, "I'm so glad to see our shapes back again."

The versatile actress probably always will be remembered as "Mrs. Miniver," but she said she enjoyed doing "Auntie Mame" — "There's a little bit of the Auntie Mame in all of us, you know."

Doing the commentary was another Ceil Chapman fan, Dorothy Kilgallen.

★ ★ ★

This designer is another who can feel triumphant about the return to the sane look for women, as she was adamant in her belief that the sack look was never good for anyone and refused to incorporate it in her designs.

Her elegantly cut dresses bring out the best look in every woman, with every dress hugging the figure.

CRETAN-INSPIRED

Her theme for spring is the Cretan silhouette, inspired by the elegant ladies of early history. The high, round bosom and tiny wrapped waists above tiered skirts look as chic today as they did in 5,000 B.C.

★ ★ ★

The fitted look was also stressed in the Adele Simpson showing in the classic coat-dress, the long coat costume and the redingote dress.

After viewing collections so far this week, we can not help but applaud designers who have returned to a healthy, normal state of mind. We'll all look so much better this spring.

Stained glass print in French silk is used in this belted coat-dress from the Christian Dior collection. Dolman sleeves and a wide belt are features of the costume.

Black chiffon over a dress of nude chiffon and lace is caught under at the hemline. The waistline is girdled with black silk satin and fastened with a pearl and crystal pin.

Hubby Bangs on Ceiling, Tenant Bangs Back—Abby

Wife Is Taking a Pounding, Too!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: We live directly over a woman who needs a keeper. She's on an Old Age pension and spends all her time visiting the neighbors, but not us because she had her TV on very loud one night and my husband asked her if she was deaf and she was.

ABBY

"Soon as she gets home she starts pounding on the ceiling. My husband "answers" by pounding on the floor. Then she starts up pounding on the ceiling again, and my husband encourages her by pounding on the floor some more. This foolishness is getting me down. My husband doesn't start it, but how can I stop him from answering her?"

HEADACHE

DEAR HEADACHE: The poor woman is obviously not well and if your husband doesn't realize this, HE needs a keeper. I suspect your husband enjoys this little game because he could put a stop to her pounding by simply ignoring it.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: My sister is getting married. She's a Catholic and he's an alcoholic. She is 24 years old, says she loves him and won't listen to anybody. We hate to see her throw her life away on him. Is there any way we can break it up?"

SISTER

DEAR SISTER: You can't stop a 24-year-old woman from marrying whomever she chooses. If she really loves him she'll introduce him to the "A.A." and let him help himself.

"DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am terrible but I am very much in love with a fellow my age (19) who keeps asking me to 'prove my love.' Miss Abby, I know it is a sin but he keeps after me and I'm afraid if I don't give in or else give him a good reason for refusing to, I'll lose him. Please tell me what to do."

A GIRL IN LOVE

DEAR GIRL: Tell him if there is any "love proving" to be done, he should prove HIS by controlling his physical desires until he's able to put your name on a marriage license.

"DEAR ABBY: I am a girl who is 5 feet 11 in my stocking feet, and believe me, I've never owned a pair of heels. The man I go with is 5 feet 6 (with built-up shoes) and we've taken our share of kidding. He loves to dance and so do I, but we avoid dancing in public because everyone laughs when they see us on the floor.

"I was told by an Arthur Murray teacher that we'd look better together if I led him. We gave that up because he resented it. Should we forego dancing together in public or what? Our love is very strong but I don't want to give him a complex about his size."

TOO TALL

DEAR TOO: Let HIM take the lead. If he asks you to dance in public, and you feel like dancing—put your best foot forward!

Mother Must Do Inviting

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend is stationed in an Army camp quite a distance from here. Since his induction into the Army six months ago I have not seen him, although he writes to me several times a week.

"Recently he wrote me saying that his parents are planning to visit him soon and would like to know if I would like to accompany them. Even though we live in the same neighborhood, I do not know them well enough to do more than bid them the time of day should we meet somewhere.

"I am not at all certain of the propriety or, as it may be impropriety of my going. I have asked my parents' opinion which is definitely negative.

Answer: If your boy friend's mother invites you to go with her on the trip to camp, there would be no impropriety in your accepting.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how to address a letter correctly to a widow friend of mine who is living with her married son and his wife? This son was named for his father but has dropped the junior from his name since his father's death, thus leaving two Mrs. John Smiths. As it is socially incorrect to address a widow as Mrs. Jane Smith, how can I designate the letter is for the elder Mrs. Smith without using her given name?"

Answer: You address her as Mrs. John Smith, Sr.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am a secretary in a small office. My employer always introduces me to any visiting relatives or friends who come to the office to see him. Is it my place to rise and offer my hand upon being introduced? I am in my early forties."

Answer: You do not get up and offer your hand. You simply incline your head and say "How d'you do."

SHERRILL G. LYON

What Young People Think

Teeners Rate Good Books Over TV, Radio

By EUGENE GILBERT
Gilbert Youth Research Co.

The teenage bookwor is not extinct.

Actually, a good book ranks higher on the teenage preferred entertainment list than television or the movis.

"I'm much mor interested in good literature," says 16-year-old Sherry Gilbert of Nashville, Tenn., "than watching Marilyn Monroe wiggle across the screen."

Admittedly this is a young woman's point of view. But Sherry speaks fo about 40 per cent of the 604 boys and girls we polled in a recent survey.

Television was listed as to preference by 30 per cent and the movies by 29 per cent.

The bookish youngsters say they'll have time later for late movies and new movies, soap operas and horse operas. They learn more from books, they way, and what they read sticks with them.

"Television and movies are definitely limited in their scope," says Sarah Schilling, 17, of Coatesville, Ind. "But you can always find a book to suit your mood and personality."

★ ★ ★

Among the dissenters is Tom Gathwohl, 13, of New Suffolk, N.Y. "I have enough reading in school," Tom says. "I enjoy just sitting back and watching television."

Most of the movie fans agree with 15-year-old Stanley Rouk of St. Louis, Mo., who explains, "You can get out of the house and really enjoy yourself."

★ ★ ★

About one in every four of the youngsters say they read two books a month—books other than those assigned at school. About the same number, however, say they read for pleasure only when they have time betwen school assignmnts.

The favorite reading matter is adventure stories, although biographies rank almost as high. Also popular are historical novels, romance fiction, mysteries and science fiction.

Undoubtedly as a result of the recent developments in space technology, science fiction is gaining new popularity. In a poll taken a year ago, we found that only 9 per cent listed this category as their favorite. The barometer has since risen to 20 per cent.

★ ★ ★

The most popular books with teenagers in the last six months was "The Diary of Anne Frank." Rounding out the list of most-read books were "Gone With the Wind," "Peyton Place," "The Last Hurrah," "Dr. Zhivago," "Crime and Punishment,' "The Old Man and the Sea," "Northwest Passage,' and three classics, "The Scarlet Letter,' "David Copperfield," and "A Tale of Two Cities."

PREFER BEST-SELLERS

About three-quarters of those questioned say they prefer books from the best seller lists.

★ ★ ★

Teenage television appetites favor westerns, Mysteries and dramas follow. At rock bottom are quiz shows and old movies.

The favorite program — listed tops by 22 per cent—is the Perry Como Show. Gunsmoke was first with 17 per cent.

Also rating high are Wagon Train, American Bandstand, Tales of Wells Fargo, The Dinah Shore Show, Perry Mason, Wyatt earp, Maverick, and Have Gun Will Travel.

★ ★ ★

Como is the favorite personality, with Dick Clark, Ward Bond, Dinah Shore, Dale Robertson, Sid Caesar and James Arness ranking high.

Obviously, the recent quiz show scandals influenced teenage viewing habits. About 96 per cent of the youngsters say they have watched give away programs, but only 50 per cent still do. And only 42 per cent think the programs are honest.

THINKS THEY'RE FIXED

Lois Ann Davidson, 19, of Coatesville, Ind., says she has read too much about them being crooked or fixed to believe otherwise.

Claudia Moran, 18, of Duluth, Minn., also has lost faith. She says she no longer watches because "the object of a quiz show is to see how much a person knows, not how much of what he was told that he can remember."

In defense of quiz shows, 15-year-old Paul A. Fink of Hoosick Falls, N. Y., says: "Just because there's one bad apple in the bunch, it doesn't mean they're all bad." And Bernie Cohen, 16, of Valley Stream, .N. Y., adds: "Many people lose and I don't believe they would stoop so low as to get paid for losing."

HAVE 'INSIDE' INFO

Then there were a couple of youngsters who professed to have inside information.

Bill Calise, 16-year-old Valley Stream boy, says he knows quiz shows are honest because "I know someone who won." But a 17-year-old New Orleans girl says they are dishonest, adding: "My father's the program director of one of them."

We asked the teenagers if they agree with people who say rigging quiz shows is all right because it improves their entertainment quality. Ninety-seven per cent said no.

"If a quiz show is dishonest, it isn't worth watching," says Sharon Patterson, a 16-year-old St. Louis girl. "If I found out that a show was dishonest, I wouldn't watch it. All the fun would be gone."

Ivan Sumner, 1, of Detroit, says: "I think dishonesty snowballs."

Man Makes Grade in Women's Rating

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first edition of "Who's Who of American Women" contains the names of 19,000 prominent women — and one man.

Shirley Povich, sports columnist for the Washington Post made it clear today he's not mad about being included. In fact, he's rather used to that sort of thing.

Povich, whose unmistakably masculine face adorns his daily "This Morning" column, often gets mail addressed to Miss Shirley Povich.

Once he was invited to join the League of American Penwomen, and the application blank asked such questions as "How do you get along with the men in your profession?" Povich filled it in with, "I simply try to be one of the boys."

As for "Who's Who of American Women," Povich conceded he didn't try very hard to correct the mistaken impression of the publishers, adding "If it's all right with them, it's all right with me."

JESSE M. SORIANO

Recipient of a B.A. degree in political science from Michigan State University is Jesse M. Soriano. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse B. Soriano of Ferry avenue.

Reducing Club Holds Meeting and Gym Night

"Gym Night" was the program when Fashionette Club met Tuesday evening at Adah Shelly library. Mrs. Leslie Cooper led the group in exercises.

Mrs. Frederick Root won the trophy for losing the most weight during the week. Mrs. Harold Hopper was last week's winner.

Mrs. Charles Meier received an award for winning the December contest for losing the most weight during that month.

Mrs. James Newbigging, president, appointed committee chairmen Mrs. John Reichert, hospitality; Mrs. Edwin Bennett, kitchen supplies and Mrs. Martinus Hanson, flower and sympathy fund.

Program chairman, Mrs. Raymond Hibbs appointed a committee to assist her. They are Mrs. Frank Reichert, Mrs. Frank Lamie and Mrs. Hopper.

Color Schemes of Victorians Were Shocking

Color combinations that the Victorians loved we wouldn't dream of wearing.

★ ★ ★

They thought that brown trimmed with pink was chic and they also liked purple and orange together.

★ ★ ★

The reason? Aniline dyes were discovered in 1856 and this opened up a whole world of bright color to Victorian women.

A Frenchman, Pierre Carmien, patented the ball bearing in 1870 and used it in a free-wheeling bicycle.

Hardest to Achieve Family Friendship

By RUTH MILLETT

If you want to stay friendly with your children through the years—

Stop whatever you're doing when they want to talk—and let them alone when they obviously don't want to answer questions.

Try to find some good in all of their friends.

Give them some privacy in their own home.

Recognize as inevitable the stage when they would rather do things with their friends than with their family.

Don't offer advice every time they have a proboem. Encourage them to work out their own solutions instead of offering yours.

Don't take their daily ups and downs too much to heart. The parent who says calmly "It could be worse" is often more comforting to a child than the one who takes a child's dis appointment harder than the child does.

Don't act "hurt" when you are really angry. Honest anger honestly expressed does a lot less damage to a relationship than a parade of hurt feelings.

Don't resent the fact that when your children start to think for themselves their opinions sometimes conflict with your own.

When you ask your children to do a job for you don't always insist on its being done your way.

Don't tattle to others the things your children tell you in confidence.

Let your children make as many of their own decisions as you can safely trust them to make.

Be flexible enough to let your children entertain on the spur of the moment if you really want them to bring their friends home.

Don't remind them all the time of all the things you do for them.

Guard the Finish of Wash-Wears

Wash and wear durability of fabrics depends to a great extent on the resin finishes. Therefore, it is necessary to preserve these finishes to minimize wrinkling.

To do this, wash in warm water of 100 to 110 degrees. Heavily soiled garments may be washed in hotter water of 120 to 140 degrees.

Don't Overdo It!

Snacks Are Valuable for Some

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I may seem inconsistent in suggesting that some women should eat a bit between meals. I am not speaking of the woman who is on a reducing diet, although even in that case I have said that it is sometimes wise to save some of the allowable daily intake for these times.

★ ★ ★

Many days are needlessly mottled with fatigue. The woman in the home may get up quite early in the morning and then rush and rush for most of the day. Mid-morning and mid-afternoon energy slumps are treated realistically by most companies which allow time for the coffee break.

★ ★ ★

The wrong kind of snacking raises "hobbs" with the women who must watch her weight or the one who is on a reducing diet, but the woman in the home may need the short rest period which the coffee break provides, as well as, a small pick up in energy which a small bit of food can give.

During the war they learned many things about working with the least fatigue and the greatest production. The value of light but periodic food intake was one of them. Another was the value of music while working.

The question of the way you distribute your calorie intake during the day is a highly individual one. Distribute it in the way in which it will do you the most good. Like anything else, if you have a small supply you must spend it wisely.

Skim milk and fresh fruit are perfect in-between meal snacks. They are good for health and energy and weight control. Just be sure to count them in on your allowable daily intake!

Another way to increase energy and reduce tension is by physical exercise. While it is fun to combine exercise with some game such as golf, tennis or badminton, this is not practical or possible for many folks. Many people have neither time nor facilities for such sports. If you make exercise at home a regular part of every day, you will be astonish at the buildup in energy which you will experience.

Perhaps you would like to have my "Perfect Daily Routine" which is a short routine of exercise especially planned for women. If so, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 19 to me Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Mrs. Frank Hyde of Riverdale announces the engagement of her daughter, Janet Carroll of Williams street, to Martin J. Cronan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cronan of Williams Lake road. Miss Hyde is a graduate of Michigan State University, where her fiance also attended.

JANET C. HYDE

Bottled Blondes in 1880's

During the 1880's, blondes became what gentlemen preferred. This trend was sparked by the two beauties of that era — Lily Langtry, famed as the world's most beautiful woman, and America's own Lillian Russell. Both ladies were blonde.

★ ★ ★

Everything these two famous beauties did was news in a country hungry for news and fashion excitement. Their coiffures were dressed close to the head, ears exposed, a bun on top, with the popular "forehead fringe" or curls. This hair-do became the rage. Women everywhere rushed to the peroxide bottle and the curling iron.

★ ★ ★

In the stampede to change their hair color, some American ladies even followed the lead of the Victorian girls in England — and died their hair with colorings derived from lead, iron and walnut juice. The results often were so bizarre that it was not long before everyone realized the truth of the expression, "gentlemen may prefer blondes but they marry brunettes."

Colorful Chiffon

Chiffon scarves, a year-round favorite, appear in fashion's newest colors. Paisleys, florals and geometrics decorate silk scarves.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Gordon Davis of Birmingham announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Jayne, to Thomas J. Pivirotto of Los Angeles, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Pivirotto of Clifton, N. J. Thomas is a Purdue University graduate. Margaret is a graduate of the University of Michigan

St. John Church Women to Join Augustana Unit

Women of St. John Lutheran Church voted to dissolve existing organizations and join the Augustana Lutheran Church Women in their fellowship program. The group met Tuesday evening in the church parlors.

Elected to serve on committees were Mrs. Julia Nelson, Mrs. Helen Dovre, Mrs. Dallas Folsom and Mrs. Wayne Santala, nominating; and Mrs. Adolph Hornblad, Mrs. John Berglund and Mrs. Edward Stafne, membership.

Hostesses for the meeting were wives of the board members, with Mrs. Maurice Christopherson as chairman.

The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 3 in the church parlors.

. Estimates are that about 100 million work days are lost each year in the United States due to the common cold or related respiratory ailments.

Party Fetes Helen Jepson

Helen B. Jepson, bride-elect of J. Roger Anglemier was honored at a miscellaneous shower Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Fergus J. Owens of Watkins Lake. Cohostesses were Mrs. Walter Deibel and Mrs. Jerry Proctor.

Miss Jepson is the daughter of Mrs. Arthur J. Jepson of Covert road and the late Mr. Jepson. Her fiance is the son of Mrs. R. R. Anglemier of Front street and the late Mr. Anglemier.

Guests at the shower were Mrs. Jack McLaughlin, Mrs. Wayne Powell, Mrs. Larry Fraser, Mrs. James Larkin, Cherri Parker, Mrs. Norman Parker, Mrs. Lester Hawley and Mrs. Hubert King.

★ ★ ★

Baptist Group Holds Meeting

Twenty members of the Women's Fellowship of Faith Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. Ray Wilkins on Andersonville road Tuesday. Vice president Mrs. Richard Dickinson assisted with the meeting.

Members were asked to bring infant's apparel for needy families to the next meeting.

Those interested in donating small cribs, bassinets or infant's chairs to the nursery department of the church have been asked to contact Mrs. Roger Frick of Oak Hill street.

Palsy Group to See Film

A new film entitled, "Deadline 53 Minutes," will be shown at the meeting of Oakland County affiliate of United Cerebral Palsy Association, to be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Mark Twain School.

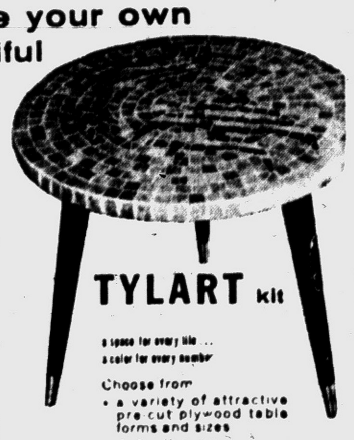

A report on the recent national convention of UCPA held in Washington, D.C. and a discussion of future activities of UCPA in this area will also be held.

At Your Buffet

Your Friends Will Like Distinctive Napkin Folds

With the increasing use of paper napkins for informal luncheons, buffets and other "fun" get-togethers, try folding the napkins into interesting candle, "pocket" or other unique designs to lend distinction to your table or buffet settings. They make unusual conversation pieces.

The napkins you use need not be lavish. And of course, being of paper, they're not expensive.

★ ★ ★

Many of the simpler folds are hand-me-downs from charming Old World restaurants. For best results, use dinner-size paper napkins. Those having softer, more "workable" texture are best.

Here are three attractive folds you might try as a starter, suggested by the makers of a table napkins concern. The candle fold, in particular, gives a dramatic effect standing upright at each place in a large table setting.

Candle Fold: Unfold a paper table napkin and smooth it out gently. Then re-fold it into a triangle, pressing fold slightly to crease it. Turn fold down about one inch and press thie edge. Turn napkin over so cuff that is formed will be outside. Roll napkin loosely but carefully from one pointed cuff edge to the other. Tuck end of corner inside cuff to hold "candle" steady. Stand candle napkin upright in center of plate.

★ ★ ★

Pocket Fold: Unfold table napkin. Turn one end down about 1½ inches and crease lightly. Turn opposite end up about 3 inches, creasing this fold lightly. Turn last folded end over again, bringing it slightly above the upper fold already made. Now turn napkin over. Fold longer edge of one side in about 4 inches, then fold opposite end over it. Turn napkin over again and lay it on your plate. A pocket is now ready to receive a knife, fork and spoon tucked conveniently inside.

★ ★ ★

Swan Fold: Form a triangle with pre-folded table napkin by bringing folded end to opposite free edge corners. Press along the center fold. With the free edge corners as the point, fold sides in to the center, creasing the outer folds. Tuck extended points under the napkin. Then fold entire napkin in half, sides down. Carefully pull up each free corner of napkin in the center to form "feathers." Stand swan napkin upright on center of plate.

Be Chic in Boots

For severe winter weather, a pair of those chic leather boots with high heels and warm woolly lining is a sound investment. They look smart while warding off the cold.

A chemise blouse of gold lame cotton in tile print goes with most any skirt. The blouse is accented with a jewel neckline and a bow tied high to give the Empire look.

Owen PTA Has Discussion on Michigan Schools

Owen School PTA met Wednesday afternoon at the school for a program on Studying Michigan Schools.

Group discussion leaders were Mrs. George Wood, higher education; Raymond Young, finance; Mrs. W. Michael Twichel, curriculum, and Frank Kay, teacher certification.

Mrs. John Newman and Mrs. Earl Oltesvig will represent the PTA in Ann Arbor Saturday at the conference on Michigan Schools.

Third grade mothers served refreshments and Mrs. Cleo Wiley and Mrs. John Ketvirtis poured. Mrs. Wiley's room won the attendance prize.

Philathea Class Meets for Dinner

Loyal Philathea Class of First Baptist Church held a business meeting and cooperative dinner Tuesday evening in the educational department of the church. The Rev. William E. Hakes spoke to the group.

Ralph Forman presented awards to 12 members who had the highest points in one month in the contest for getting new members. Mrs. Alma Minton showed movies of her trip through the South.

PCH-Flint Northern Tilt Rates Ascloseasthis

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

A word from "down under" comes from Bert Anselmy, Pontiac professional roller skater, who is the coach of the U.S. 18-member team touring Australia and New Zealand.

"We were greeted in Auckland by the Maoii tribe of Indians," writes Bert, " and they put on a colorful ceremonial dance with all the enthusiasm of a tribal war dance or coronation."

The American skate team then put on an exhibition and according to Anselmy, "it was impossible to explain the reception and fascination of the crowd."

Among the five Michigan skaters on the team are Louis Parker of Pontiac and Mary Ellis Clouse of Clarkston.

"The kids were a little homesick at times, but have been impressed with the beautiful countrysides and hospitality of the people," said Bert.

After competition against New Zealand skaters, the team expects to be back by January 26th.

Speaks Pure Stengelese

Casey Tops Comedians for Laughs at Dinner

By JAMES BACON

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—No one understood Casey Stengel last night, but he scored more laughs than Milton Berle or George Jessel.

The occasion was a Shrine testimonial for the colorful and comical — except in World Series — manager of the world champion New York Yankees. More than 1,500 attended, including dozens of leading sports figures.

★ ★ ★

Berle and Jessel were never better but Casey sent them both to the showers muttering: "What did he say? What did he say?"

It was Casey's night and he talked about pennant winning strategy, the recent NCAA penalty on the University of Southern California, Ty Cobb and actors.

The topics were all right—but all in the same sentence.

★ ★ ★

Casey spoke pure Stengalese, an idiom understandable only to the Yankees and chaucerian scholars on Skid Row.

One of the latter translated Casey thus:

"Well, I'll tell you how you get to become manager of the year. You take a guy like Rhyne Duren, who was so slid he walks 185 men a year in the minors. After five years you put him in the majors and he's still out to make a new walk record, so you look at his bifocals.

★ ★ ★

"They're too small. The guy's whole trouble is, he can't see the home plate. Then you bring in high priced oculists and you give him bigger bifocals that reach to 60 feet 6 inches.

"But then his control gets too good, I don't want that.

"So I solve it by having him wipe his bifocals with a dirty rag on each pitch. The guy wins six and saves 18 for me. It was the greatest change of face in major league history."

★ ★ ★

Casey said that Yogi Berra was booed for the first time in his life last year at Baltiore, but added that the Yankee catcher still doesn't believe it.

"So I do the only thing—I on the field, Yogi turns t dugout and says 'Isn't it awfu way those fans are booing Casey?'"

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

According to AP and UPI high school basketball polls, Pontiac Central and Flint Northern rank as the 1-2 teams in the state by the closest margins.

★ ★ ★

This would make the clash between the two as the top game in Michigan Friday night and it indicated a jam-packed crowd will fill the PCH gym.

With both teams very closely matched in the scoring column, the story of the game is expected to be told on the backboards.

Flint Northern is 6-0 for the season and PCH is 5-0. Each is 3-0 in the Saginaw Valley Conference and the team averages to date show both teams with identical offensive and defensive totals.

★ ★ ★

Each has averaged 60 points per game and each has given up an average of 50 points per opponent.

With 6-4 Bob Hamilton, 6-2 Pat Manley and 6-1 John Gillian, the Vikings of coach Jack Marlette are regarded as the best rebounding quint in the Valley.

Gillian is also the league's top pointmaker with 116 points for a 19.3 average.

★ ★ ★

Biggest problem for Northern however is depth. The first five Vikings have acounted for 343 of the 365 points scored this season, including 41 for Manley, 65 for Hamilton, 48 for Chuck Jones and 73 for Jesse Johnson, all seniors.

For the Chiefs, guard Charley Barge, who has only two more games before mid-year graduation, is the leading scorer with 100 points for a 20-point average.

John Bandy with 69, Harrison Munson with 57, Bill Hayward with 25 and Phil Rabaja with 17, account for the other scoring among the regulars.

The brunt of the board work falls on the shoulders of Hayward and Munson. Hayward a 6-2 junior, has not hit the scoring column to any great extent this year, but he has been a big factor on defense and on the boards.

Munson started slowly but against Flint Central he had his greatest night with 21 points and 23 rebounds. The question now is—can Munson do it again?

Sole possession of first place in the SVC is a stake in the game as well as Pontiac's position as the top ranked team in Michigan.

Coach Van Ryzin was startled by the number one ranking in view of the fact that the last three teams which have held the position all suffered defeats immediately afterward.

"We're in good physical condition, and we will expect Flint Northern to come down here with fire in their eyes, but our kids are as ready as they will ever be," said Van Ryzin.

★ ★ ★

A large contingent of Flint followers is expected to follow the Vikings. Extra reserved seat tickets were printed and were still available today at Osmun's and at the high school.

★ ★ ★

Football Gets Own 'Wild Card'

SPORTS

Several Grid Rules Changes Made by NCAA

Substitute Can Enter Game Each Time Clock Is Stopped

LOS LANGELES (AP) — College football in 1959 will have the "wild card" player. He will be a substitute who can re-enter a game as many times as his coach chooses, provided he goes in when the game clock is stopped.

The player could be a key quarterback, a kicking specialist or perhaps a guard carrying instructions from the sidelines.

As a result of rules changes, the game should be more wide open and crowd-pleasing.

Such was the hope today of the men who write and rewrite the rule book, the National Collegiate Rules Committee. Their major changes, announced yesterday after a three-day meeting:

1. Relaxation of the substitution rule.

2. Widening the goal posts—for the first time in the history of the game—from the present inside-the-post distance of 18 feet 6 inches to 23 feet 4 inches, or the outside distance of 19-2 to 24. The posts remain 10 yards back of the goal line.

3. Revisions of penalties, including infractions on tries for the extra point.

Unchanged was the two-point conversion rule.

Acting Chairman H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, serving as head of the committee for the 10th year, said there was considerable sentiment against a return to the two-platoon system.

★ ★ ★

He explained the "wild card" player, as in a poker game, this way:

"If only one eligible substitute enters the field while the clock is stopped, he will not be recorded as an entry except during an excess time out, such as when a player is hurt.

"However, if more than one substitute enters the field between downs, each sub will be recorded.

★ ★ ★

"Basically, we are keeping the rule of last year. But it will allow a team to get a man into the game when the clock is dead."

The clock is officially dead on many occasions during a game, such as on an incomplete pass or a ball thrown or carried out of bounds. Under present rules, a player cannot re-enter a game more than twice during a half without a penalty.

Safety was a main factor in keeping the goal posts where they are, Crisler said.

Another change increases the number of times out per half from four to five.

★ ★ ★

Rules involving penalties were changed.

No distance penalty, meaning a stepped-off yardage penalty, shall be greater than half the distance to the goal line.

For instance, no team can be penalized from the 16-yard mark to the one. Now it will be set back to the eight.

The try for the extra point was revised when there is a penalty.

3 Players Sign Tiger Contracts

Red Wilson, 2 Rookies Come to Terms for '59 Baseball Season

DETROIT (AP)—Veteran catcher Red Wilson and two rookie hopefuls have signed their 1959 contracts, the Detroit Tigers announced today.

Wilson batted .299 last season, highest in his six-year major league career. He agreed to terms from Madison, Wis., in a phone conversation with general manager John McHale.

Rookies Bob Bruce, a pitcher, and Jack Feller, a catcher, also signed with the Tigers.

Bruce, who is playing winter ball in Puerto Rico, played for Detroit's Charleston American Assn., and Birmingham Southern Assn. farm clubs last season. He compiled a 2-1 record at Charleston and a 5-4 mark at Birmingham.

Feller, who joined the Tigers at the tail-end of the 1958 campaign, hit .261 for Detroit's Augusta Sally League farm club last year.

Wilson was the second Tiger regular to come to terms. Second baseman Frank Bolling signed in December.

NO PIN STRIPES — Tony Kubek, the Yankees' shortstop, finds that Supply Sgt. Frank Ergagovich doesn't have New York flannel on his shelves at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. Kubek has been called into the Army for a six-month tour of duty.

Wing Veteran Kelly Sidelined

May Miss Two Games Due to Injury; Strate Called Up

DETROIT (AP)—Defenseman Red Kelly of the Detroit Red Wings is sidelined with a foot injury and Gordon Strate has been called up from the Hershey Bears to take his place.

Kelly was hurt in Monday's practice when teammate Pete Goegan's shot struck him in the foot. He suffered a bad bone bruise on the outside part of his left foot.

The injury did not respond to treatment. Strate, who played 45 games with the Red Wings last season and five the year before, will join the club in Boston for Thursday night's game.

★ ★ ★

Strate, 23, has played 34 games at Hershey.

Doctors said Kelly might also miss Saturday night's game in Toronto.

New Coach Says U of D Has 'Great Potential'

DETROIT (AP) — "It's quite a challenge. I really believe there is great potential here or I would not have taken the job."

With those words Jim Miller started off the job as coach of the University of Detroit football team.

In his first official act he met yesterday with members of press-radio and TV at the weekly meeting of the Detroit Sports Broadcasters Assn.

The 38-year-old former Purdue assistant opened the session up for questions and one of the first ones was "Do you think you at the University of Detroit can compete with the Big Ten, especially Michigan and Michigan State, for the blue-chip athletes?"

★ ★ ★

Miller calmly sidestepped the question by saying: "Recruiting is so big, and competition so tremendous. We'll go after the good boys. My plan is based on aggressive recruiting.

"I believe in getting boys from all over, but the place to start is here in Detroit and Michigan. We must interest coaches in our program, and in me."

Miller, one of Purdue's most active recruiters, said he sees weaknesses in the Big Ten's "need" program for athletic scholarships.

★ ★ ★

"There are some good boys the Big Ten schools cannot get," he said. "Idealistically, the need program is sound. But realistically, it is not as sound as it should be."

He also dodged questions about assistant coaches. He said he will talk with the present assistants, John Ray, Ken Stilley and John Shada, "I have some people in mind," he said.

Miller plans a straight-T, wide-open offense.

"We'll try to pass as much as we can. But we have to establish our running game first. We have to have a good quarterback to run the offense. We'll start there."

It is believed Miller signed a three-year contract with UD officials. He said he plans to purchase a home and move his wife and four children here, from Lafayette, Ind., as soon as possible.

MEETS PRESS—Just 12 hours after he arrived in Detroit from Purdue where he was assistant football coach, Jim Miller gathered with newsmen to discuss his new position as head mentor at the University of Detroit. He is shown gesturing to members of the press at the luncheon held yesterday

I-L Wrestling Tonight

The Inter-Lakes League will have a full schedule of wrestling tonight. Waterford will be at Van Dyke, Walled Lake is host to Berkley and Southfield is at Farmington.

Christian in Tie for 1st

Central Christian moved into a tie for 1st place in the National division of the Class D City Basketball League with a 33-27 victory over previously unbeaten Eastside Shopping last night at Lincoln Junior High.

It was 7-7 entering the 2nd quarter and 15-15 at halftime, but Christian forged into a 21-17 lead in the 3rd period and stayed ahead the rest of the way.

Ray Smith meshed 18 points to account for more than half of the winner's total while Don Smith tallied 13 for the Eastside quintet.

Welden's deadlocked the idle Lakeside Royal for 1st place in the Class D American League with a 50-36 conquest of Jefferson. Bob Richards paced Welden's with 17 points and Allen Manley scored 11 for Jefferson.

Griff's Grill prevented Field's from tying Booth Homes for Class B leadership by handing the Landscape cagers a 63-45 shellacking last night at Pontiac Central. Leroy Parks sparked Griff's balanced attack with 17 points. Jerry Hill netted 16 for the losers.

Winless Rex's Standard took it on the chin for the 6th time, a 49-40 loss to Glenn's Motor Sales in the other Class B scrap. Dick Goldsworthy fired 12 points for Glenn's while Lee Collins took scoring honors in defeat with 15.

From Mound to Cage Court for Robin Roberts

EAST LANSING (AP)—Robin Roberts, best known as a baseball pitcher for the Philadelphia Phillies, today was named as an added starter for the Michigan State Varsity-Oldtimers basketball game Saturday.

Roberts originally came to MSU as a basketball player and was second high scorer in the 1945-46 season. He left in 1947 to sign as a baseball "bonus baby" with the Phillies.

In his years with the Philadelphia club, Roberts has been a 20-game or better winner for six seasons.

Hockey Tourney Delayed

Wednesday night's three scheduled Class B games in the City Junior hockey tournament at Northside Park were postponed due to fog, unfavorable weather conditions and poor ice.

The postponed games have been rescheduled Friday night on Northside ice with the same order and the same starting times. Class A tourney competition resumes tonight with three games at Northside.

Fitzgerald Sinks Huskie Swimmers

Gary Rose won two events for the Pontiac Northern swimming team but the Huskies still lost a 61-35 meet to Warren Fitzgerald last night.

Other Northern victory was turned in by diver Bill Ratliff. Fitzgerald took seven first places.

Monday the Huskies swam at Southfield High School at 4:00 p.m.

Harris Looms as Bosox GM

BOSTON (AP) — Stanley R. (Bucky) Harris, 62, a veteran of more than four decades in baseball, appeared the top choice today to succeed Joe Cronin as general manager of the Boston Red Sox.

Harris, ousted as Red Sox manager when Cronin was purchased for $250,000, plus shortstop Lynn Lary, in 1934, has been serving as a special assistant to Cronin and owner Tom Yawkey the past two years.

No Catcher Shortage

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Three catchers signed 1959 contracts today with the San Francisco Giants.

Bob Schmidt, Hobie Landrith and Al Stieglitz were the first Giants to ink pacts this year. Terms were not made public.

Tar Heels Topple North Carolina State, 72-68

Top Rating Jinxes Wolfpack

By The Associated Press

A kid from Pittsburgh clicked on a layup off a pretty pass from a kid from Brooklyn. Then another Brooklyn crewcut flipped in two free throws..all within 22 seconds.

★ ★ ★

It wiped out a top-notch performance by two boys from Philadelphia, two from scattered points in Indiana, and another from Dorcester, Mass.

An All-Star game?

Nope, just a neighborhood brawl in Raleigh, N.C. last night as North Carolina whipped top-ranked North Carolina State 72-68 in an overtime college basketball thriller.

★ ★ ★

Coaches Frank McGuire and Ev Case, a couple of leading proponents of interstate travel, had themselves another winding while a stands-jamming 13,000 watched at Raleigh's Reynolds Coliseum.

When it was over, Brooklynite McGuire had indicated to Indianan Case and the basketball world that he's ready to put in another bid for the kind of national championship honors he bagged with his Yankee Tar Heels two seasons ago.

N.C. State, just voted into the No. 1 spot in the weekly Associated Press poll, led most of the way until Tar Heel Ray Stanley (Brooklyn) scored a field goal and two free throws to send the game into overtime at 63-all.

★ ★ ★

With the score knotted 68-all and 22 seconds remaining, Lee Shaffer (Pittsburgh) took the perfect feed from Doug Moe (Brooklyn) for the winning layup. In the last second, Harvey Salz (Brooklyn) wrapped it up with a pair of free throws.

It was the 10th victory in 11 games and fifth straight Atlantic Coast Conference victory for third-ranked North Carolina. Rival State dropped its second game in 13 tries and slipped to second in the ACC race at 5-1.

Of the 20 players used in the game (11 by State), eight are from New York, five from Pennsylvania, two each from New Jersey and Indiana, and one apiece from Virginia, Massachusetts...and North Carolina.

Dayton, using its five iron men for the second straight game, ran its record to 10-3 with a 60-56 victory over Xavier of Ohio; St. Joseph's, Pa. made its mark 10-2 by toppling St. Francis, Pa. 82-66; and Virginia Tech, now 9-2, swamped Davidson 91-70 in other feature games of the Wednesday program.

Frank Case, a New Yorker who went west, scored 20 points as Dayton avenged its loss to Xavier in the National Invitation Tournament finals last spring. Sub Johnny Egan came off the bench and scored 23 points in St. Joseph's victory, and Bob Ayersman matched his season's average with 26 points for Virginia Tech, now 4-0 and challenging perennial West Virginia in the Southern Conference race.

Four players hit double figures, led by Joe Ritchie with 19, in Wake Forest's 88-58 ACC victory over South Carolina, and Maryland, outshot from the floor, hit on 29 on 35 free throws for a school record in spilling Georgetown (DC) 61-53.

★ ★ ★

A 24-8 edge in free throws enabled Mercer to upset Georgia 66-62, and Penn used Joe Bowman's 26 points to hand Ivy League foe Columbia its eleventh straight loss, 87-74.

Bill Kennedy's 17 points were tops for revived Temple in a 64-48 victory over Delaware, and Army and Navy bagged afternoon victories.

★ ★ ★

Darryl Kouns hit for 28 in Army's 74-57 victory over Yale, and Navy breezed past Brandeis, 82-39 with Jay Metzler's 18 points pacing a balanced attack.

Indians Sell Altobelli

TORONTO (AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League today announced the purchase of first baseman Joe Altobelli from the Cleveland Indians for $20,000.

Altobelli played last year with Indianapolis of the American Assn., hitting .287 and driving in 74 runs. He will replace Rocky Nelson, a .326 hitter who was drafted by Pittsburgh Pirates.

Joe Cronin Named AL President

Group Picks Former Boston Star for Post

Only Final Acceptance by Owners Necessary to Make It Official

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Cronin, one of baseball's most celebrated stars, unofficially has been crowned president of the American League.

★ ★ ★

An American League screening committee yesterday agreed that the 52-year-old Cronin should succeed Will Harridge as president of the major league's junior circuit, effective Feb. 1. The 73-year-old Harridge resigned last month.

Cronin is general manager of the Boston Red Sox.

His formal acceptance of the league club owners in a New York meeting Jan. 31.

★ ★ ★

Cronin, a brilliant major league player attended the session with the screening committee.

Cronin said he was not intrested in becoming league president unless certain conditions were met. And they were.

The conditions included moving the league office from Chicago to Boston, but retaining a branch office in Chicago.

The branch office would be in charge of Harridge, who resigned as league president after 27 years in office.

Still to be confirmed at the Jan. 31 full league meeting was Cronin's request for a five-year contract at Harridge's salary—namely, $50,000 a year with a $15,000 expense account.

Cronin was elated over his selection and said he was deeply indebted to Harridge.

★ ★ ★

"Mr. Harridge has done a top-notch job," said Cronin. "I know I must confer with him to continue the excellent job he has done in running the American League."

Harridge's right-hand man in Chicago was Earl Hilligan, director of the league service bureau. Cronin said he would have to discuss with Harridge's staff and possibility of a transfer to Boston.

Dartmouth's oldest football rivalry is with Harvard. The series began in 1882.

Bing Crosby Tourney Starts Today

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Golf's glamour boys, heartened by good news from the weatherman, hit the trail today in the first round of Bing Crosby's $50,000 national pro-amateur tournament.

The forecaster predicted clear skies through Friday—and possibly Saturday—for the double edge tournament played over three lush courses bordering the Pacific.

★ ★ ★

The 300-man field, 150 teams, starts on Pebble Beach, Monterey Peninsula or feared Cypress Point, the 6,317-yard layout with the fabled 16th hole. Par for the course is 37-35—72. Sheltered Monterey goes 6,246 in 35-37 and Pebble Beach is 6,701 with par 36-36.

The weather broke only Tuesday, leaving the courses damp for the first day's play. The teams rotate over all three courses for three rounds.

The final round for the top 40 teams and 60 low pros is scheduled Sunday at Pebble Beach.

The amateurs, all handicapped by Bing himself, don't keep score. It's strictly a best ball event.

You find glamor galore among the play-for-pay and the simon pures. Favorites to cop with $4,000 top money include last year's champ Billy Casper, local favorite Ken Venturi, and Ernie Vossler. Venturi won the Los Angeles Open, first event of the new year, and Vossler took the second, the Tiujana Open.

Top pro in the team competition picks up $2,000, a prize won last year by Jay Hebert, who plays again with Los Angeles attorney Roger Kelly. Kelly also was a pro-am champ in 1947.

★ ★ ★

The entertainment world is represented by 21 performers including Phil Harris, Jim (Maverick) Garner, Johnny Weismuller, Don Cherry, Ray Milland, Fred MacMurray, Dean Martin, Bob Crosby, Gordon MacRae, Desi Arnaz, Ray Bolger and John Raitt. Bob Hope cancelled because of illness.

The sports world is represented by Jackie Jensen, Ernie Nevers, Frank Albert, Allie Reynolds, Bill Rigney, Ralph Kiner and Pete Elliott.

Casper is teamed with Bob (Horse) Reynolds, former Stanford football great. The pair finished second in 1957. Vossler pairs with Bill Higgins, outstanding California amateur, and Venturi teams with Chuck French.

About that 16th hole, 222-yard over-the-water killer; Art Wall took a 7 there yesterday, and vowed that during the tournament he'd go the safe way, a short iron played to the left instead of a direct shot.

4 Former Champions in Women's Tourney

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Defending champion Betsy Rawls and three other former winners were among the players to beat as the Tampa Women's Open golf tournament began today.

★ ★ ★

Thirty-one professionals and 86 amateurs are on hand for four-day, 72-hole tourney. The professional field is the largest in the 13-year history of the event.

★ ★ ★

The women pros are competing for prizes totaling $7,500. First place is expected to be worth about $1,200.

Sonny Ray Gets Decision on TV

CHICAGO (AP) — Sonny Ray, with a smashed right hand, and Roque Maravilla, who was in a blackout for seven rounds, went through the motions for 10 rounds last night.

★ ★ ★

Ray, the fifth ranked light heavyweight contender, gained a unanimous decision in the Chicago Stadium nationally televised bout.

Ray tagged his Boise, Idaho, opponent with a long right on the first punch he threw in the first round. Maravilla, making his TV ring debut, staggered. A left and another right floored him.

Rogers Hornsby, one of the top batsmen of all time, was not effective at the plate in his two years in the minors: he hit .232 in the Texas-Oklahoma League in 1914 and .277 with Denison of the Western Assn. in 1915.

Pistons Bow to Hawks Despite Big Comeback

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Pistons weren't as successful as the weatherman in bringing the high-flying St. Louis Hawks to earth last night.

The Hawks, grounded by fog at Cleveland on their flight here, rose up and survived a late fright in beating the Pistons 114-108.

The National Basketball Assn.'s Western Division leaders watched a 24-point lead wither to three points in the fourth quarter. But NBA scoring leader Bob Pettit flipped in three quick points in the final minute to help avert an upset.

By winning the Hawks widened their lead over the second-place Detroiters to 10½ games.

★ ★ ★

St. Louis, which arrived by bus 55 minutes before game time, led 104-80 with 5:40 left. But Detroit scored 13 straight points in the next 90 seconds to close the gap to seven points with Walt Dukes leading the way.

The Pistons continued their rally. George Yardley cashed a three-point play with a minute left and the Pistons were behind only 111-108. Then Pettit smashed the Detroit hopes.

St. Louis was red hot at the outset, connecting on 54 per cent of its floor shots in the first quarter and 52 per cent in the game. Detroit couldn't match this, being accurate on only 38 per cent of its shots.

★ ★ ★

Cliff Hagan of the Hawks led all scorers with 28 points. Pettit, who scored 50 against Detroit Sunday, was held to 17. Dukes topped Detroit with 25 points. Gene Shue and Joe Holup followed with 17 each.

In other NBA games last night the Eastern Division leaders, the Boston Celtics, whipped the New York Knickerbockers 123-112 and the Syracuse Nationals downed the Philadelphia Warriors 119-104.

Tommy Heinsohn and Bill Russell scored 25 points each for the Celts. Paul Arizin tallied 34 for Philadelphia.

The Pistons are idle until Saturday when they face the Warriors at Detroit Olympia.

Badger Aide Given Florida State Job

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Florida State University announced today that Perry Moss, assistant coach at the University of Wisconsin, had accepted the post of head football coach, succeeding Tom Nugent.

Dr. Robert M. Strozier, FSU president, declined to announce terms of Moss' contract until after the university's board of control had acted upon it.

Nugent has accepted the job as head football coach at the University of Maryland.

Returning to Boston?

MILWAUKEE, (AP) — Former Marquette football Coach Johnny Druze may be headed back to Boston College where he served as an assistant early in his coaching career, it was reported Wednesday night.

The Milwaukee Sentinel said Druze may become the first assistant to head coach Mike Holovak.

Pontiac Golden Gloves to Feature 25 Fights

The pace has stepped up for the Pontiac Golden Gloves tournament to be held January 31 and February 7 at Pontiac Central gymnasium.

Trainer Bill Strange has been conducting the training sessions at the Jaycee gymnasium on North Perry street.

★ ★ ★

The Golden Gloves are working out between 6:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. daily. Winners of the local tournament will have their names inscribed on a huge 3-foot trophy which has been donated by Lou Michot.

The trophy will be displayed at various business establishments around Pontiac.

Approximately 25 bouts will take place on the opening night of the tournament, Sat., Jan. 31.

The semifinals and finals will be held the following Saturday, and the winners will be sent to Grand Rapids to compete in the state championships.

From Grand Rapids the winners will then go to Chicago for the Midwest tournament.

Tickets for the tournament can be obtained at numerous locations around Pontiac, including: Rogers Sporting Goods, Welden Sporting Goods, Club 99, Griff's Grill, Triple XXX, and the Sports Shop.

General admission ticket prices start at 99 cents. Members of the Children's Home will be guests at the opening night.

New Marquette Coach

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Pat Naughton, line coach at Kansas State College since 1955, announced today he has accepted a similar post at Marquette University.

Naughton, 37, went to Kansas State from the University of Detroit.

A native of Chicago, he is a graduate of Depaul University of Chicago.

Clarkston at Holly Friday Night

W-O League Battle Features Big Schedule

St. Fred and Eaglets Play Home Loop Tilts; Avondale at Madison

By CHUCK ABAIR

A good indication of how the tight Wayne-Oakland race is going to go may be determined tomorrow night when high-powered Holly plays host to Clarkston, the defending champion, in the feature game of a big Class B-C schedule in this area.

Holly is figured to be rough to beat the rest of the way if the Broncos can get by this one. They have been rolling in high gear recently after a slow start and own a non-league win over Clarkston.

The two teams are currently tied with Clarenceville and Keego for 2nd place. Brighton heads the pack with three straight wins but must play rugged Northville Friday. A Brighton loss would create a three-way deadlock as Clarenceville plays West Bloomfield at home. Milford is at Bloomfield Hills in a battle for last place.

Things are also getting interesting in the Oakland B where Fitzgerald is attempting to prevent Troy from repeating as champion.

Fitzgerald will play at Lake Orion Friday while Troy goes to Clawson. Both are boasting 3-0 loop records. Orion currently ranks 2nd with 2-1. Avondale (1-2) hits the road again playing at Madison.

In the Suburban Catholic, St. Frederick and Orchard Lake St. Mary will resume their race for title honors. The Rams entertain weak St. Clement determined to bounce back from Tuesday's beating by the Eaglets. OLSM will also be at home meeting tough Ferndale St. James. St. Rita plays at Royal Oak St. Mary in the other SCL tilt.

Oxford gets a golden opportunity to knock Imlay City from the unbeaten ranks in the South Central Conference. Ortonville will seek its initial league triumph at North Branch.

Royal Oak Shrine meets Lourdes, Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows vs. St. Thomas, Country Day visits Harper Woods and Madison Lamphere is at Clintondale rounding out the schedule.

Pontiac Press Photo

Walled Lake, Berkley Meet in I-L

By BILL CORNWELL

Walled Lake gets a golden opportunity to move into a contending position for the Inter-Lakes Conference basketball title Friday night when the Vikings play host to undefeated Berkley.

The Walled Lake-Berkley clash is the No. 1 attraction of a full I-L schedule which also sends Waterford to Van Dyke Lincoln and pits Farmington against Southfield at Farmington.

A full Eastern Michigan League slate finds Royal Oak Kimball at East Detroit and Port Huron at Mt. Clemens on Friday and Ferndale at Hazel Park tonight.

★ ★ ★

Rochester, unbeaten in five starts, returns to the hardwoods tomorrow following a long layoff for its Tri-County League opener with Romeo on the Rochester court. L'Anse Creuse visits Lapeer to complete the Tri-County program.

Walled Lake has a chance to tie Berkley for 1st place and snap a two-game losing skein if the Vikings can topple the rangy Bears who are currently bidding for their 4th straight Inter-Lakes cage crown.

John Shadford's Walled Lake cagers won their first four games, then went into a tailspin at Keego Harbor where they dropped a non-conference decision in overtime to West Bloomfield.

★ ★ ★

They made a gallant effort to upset Southfield last week at Southfield before coming out on the short end of a 59-58 score for their 2nd consecutive setback and 1st in the I-L.

Walled Lake and Southfield are presently tied for 2nd place with 2-1 marks while Berkley leads the pack with a 3-0 record.

Berkley was expected to be strong this season, but the Bears are proving even better than anticipated. With tall Dave Burris showing the way, the Bears have mowed down seven opponents.

★ ★ ★

Waterford, fresh from an 80-57 rout of Pontiac Northern, hopes to improve its 1-2 league standing and overall 2-4 record at the expense of an unpredictable Van Dyke team which still hasn't lived up to pre-season expectations. Southfield could have trouble, but the Jays are favored to beat Farmington.

★ ★ ★

Rochester, Oakland County's newest member of the Class A ranks, rates an edge over Romeo, although the unexpected often happens when these two schools come together. Romeo whipped L'Anse Creuse in the only Tri-County game played to date.

Ferndale seeks to preserve its position at the top of the EML standings this evening and the Dales will be heavily favored to dispose of weak Hazel Park.

★ ★ ★

Dearborn Fordson invades Royal Oak Dondero tomorrow night for a Border Cities League collision in another feature contest on the area basketball menu.

Muskegon Golfer in St. Pete Lead

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Defending champion C. R. Benedict of Muskegon, Mich., held a one-stroke lead at the halfway mark in the third annual Sucoast Seniors Golf Tournament Wednesday with 143.

★ ★ ★

Benedict, who set a tournament record with 67 Tuesday over the Sunset Golf and Country Club course where par is 36-35 — 71, slipped to 76 while R. M. Owens of Dunedin, Fla., matched play for a 144 total.

Pontiac bowlers have turned in very impressive performances in keg events in Chicago the past two weekends against some of the best in the nation.

Paul George had some of the big city boys standing up and taking notice in the Peterson Major Classic there Sunday when he reeled off a 1,595 total to take over 4th place in the standings of the long event.

Motor Inn proprietor Lou Koprince also drew a lot of praise for his 1,509 which earned him a squad award. George has a good chance of gaining one of the top prizes. Some 10,144 bowlers are battling for $253,600 in prize money.

Other scores in that meet for local boys were as follows: Monroe Moore (1,480), Del Kasat (1,302), Bud Peel (1,386), Wally Johnson (1,368), Ray Kasat (1,355), Rex Todd (1,301), John Dura (1,242) and E. Croteau (1,168).

The West Side Mobil team of Huron Bowl shot a four-game total of 3,854 to place 5th among 32 teams in the Ray Schalk Classic in the Windy City. The same group hit 3,821 in the Laredo Classic but failed to place among the leaders. Each competed in a singles event besides.

Jay Lovett's 812 sparked the big Schalk showing and he also led the way in the Laredo with 804. Other double tourney scores were: Clark Balch (799-780), Monroe Moore (800-799), Les Rothbarth (299-327) for four games, Joe Bonfiglio (698-339) six games and John Nickell (466-772) six games. Nickell combined 228s in the Schalk for the top singles.

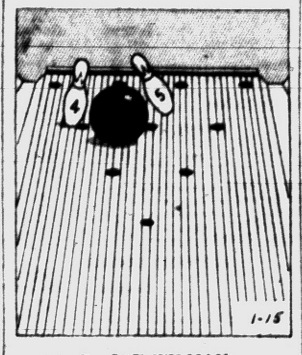

A 1,232 by a Chicago star was the top singles total. Nickell led the Pontiac delegation with 1,123, Balch hit 1,076, Lovett 1,049, Moore 1,038, Rothbarth 1,021 and Bonfiglio 983.

Speaking of Balch, he has been on the go trying to get Pontiac's proposed "700" Bowling Club organized. He has called a 2nd organization meeting Jan. 25 at the Teamsters Local 614 building on Telegraph.

Elks Bowlers Set for Tourneys

Strikes and Spares

By JOE WILMAN

Anytime you're faced with the 4-5 split or a similar one, you can figure that your shot must be almost perfect to convert it.

Your ball is about nine inches in diameter, and there's about seven inches between the two pins if they are still on spot. So, you can see the shot must come into the two pins almost perfectly in order to hit both of them.

This is a left-side split, the 4-5, so take your stance on the right side of the approach. Release the ball to the right of center and angle it across the alley so it comes into the two pins exactly in the middle. Always aim between the two pins, as it's virtually impossible to turn it in any other way.

Similar splits are the 7-8 (which can be made by shooting from the same angle), the 5-6 and the 9-10. For these latter two splits, take your stance and release the ball to the left of center.

Some splits might seem to you impossible to convert. Actually, we call them "impossible splits," but they aren't really. They're just difficult — splits like the 7-10 for example.

Ladies National Event Begins Here Saturday

Men Open State Play at Ann Arbor Same Day

Men and women bowlers of the Pontiac Elks Club are busily preparing for tournament action which starts this weekend on two fronts.

Both the 39th annual men's state at Ann Arbor and 2nd Ladies National Invitational event here are scheduled to begin Saturday afternoon.

A total of 124 teams of women keglers will compete during the four weeks of action at Lodge 810 starting at 2 p.m.

Several Pontiac teams will open the women's program following a kickoff luncheon and program which will include the throwing of the 1st ball by mayor Philip Rowston. Various bowling officials and Elks officers will be in attendance.

★ ★ ★

Deers of Pontiac won the team crown with 3,090 last year as city teams took nine of the 1st ten places. Eileen Steinhelper hit 695 for singles honors and Sally Hoffman won all-events with 1,771 for other local titles. The only crown not swept by Pontiac was doubles as Marge Spalding-Clpa Walker and a Hillsdale duo tied at 1,250.

Pontiac will have the largest number of entries in the state tournament with 78 teams, 150 doubles pairs and 300 in singles shooting for a chance to split up the $14,722 in prize money.

The meet will run nine consecutive weekends coming to a close on March 15. Forty other cities will be represented led by Muskegon, Ann Arbor, Royal Oak, Detroit, Ferndale, Saginaw, Port Huron, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Jackson, Lansing and Battle Creek.

★ ★ ★

J. E. "Cap" Holliday and his team of 70-year olds and the 65-and-over group of Pontiac, captained by Carl Keller, will start the tourney.

Dickie's Service of Pontiac became the only team to ever win state team honors taking both divisions two years ago when the event was held here but city keglers were blanked last winter despite the efforts of Paul George. George was an early all-events leader.

Pontiac has never won the doubles crown in either handicap or actual play and has done very little in singles. Les Rothbarth was the only actual champion with his 671 in 1952. He won handicap honors the same year and the all-events crown in '54. Local kegler G. Winters won in all-events in 1932.

Bluth's 7730 All-Star Record

Wins Qualifying Trophy With Big 36-Game Total

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)— Ray Bluth won the qualifying trophy of the All-Star bowling championships 36-game total in the 18-year history of the tournament.

★ ★ ★

The brawny, crew-cut St. Louis an knocked down 7730 pins in three dozen games, spread over five days.

The previous record in the initial portion of the National Individual Match Game Championship was the 7630 sum piled up by Chuck O'Donnell in December, 1950.

O'Donnell is a teammate of Bluth's on the St. Louis Budweisers, current National Team champions.

Bluth also set the 30-game record on his march of the finals, 6169. The previous high mark in this category 6391, also was formerly the property of O'Donnell.

Bluth, who had been the leader at the end of the first 24-game elimination which ended last night, enhanced his position today in the semifinals with six-game series of 1261 and 1321.

49ers Sign Heckman

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers Wednesday signed Val Heckman, a University of Florida tackle, to a professional football contract with a bonu. No figures were reported.

Heckman, to be tried as an offensive guard, was the 49ers' tenth draft choice last year.

Prizes Approach $50,000,000

Giveaways End Fat Year

NEW YORK (NEA)—Presently, somebody with the best 25 words or less is going to win one share of every common stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange — and thus bring to a close the fattest year in giveaway contests this country has ever seen.

The number is already well over 600. The value of prizes approaches $50,000,000. And American business, trade and commerce has pumped at least $500,000,000 into the making of contest industry that rivals our two-party political system.

And like political chieftains, contest designers and promoters are still at odds over how to bring the entry blanks in.

On the one hand, you hear from an advertising executive whose job is to conjure up contests: "Numbers of dollars don't mean much to the average entrant. A $100-prize is about the same as a $1,000-prize. You've got to translate the numbers into things."

Consequently, the people with this language difficulty took home this year: dozens of cars, boats, bicycles, swimming pools, diamond watches, diamond rings, skates, scooters, houses and sewing machines.

On the other hand are cold cash contests and their sponsors. "People understand cash," said a spokesman for this point of view. "Give them what they understand."

Consequently, in 1958, instant money was handed out by the mattressful, the barrelful, the shovelful (with a five minute time limit). Also: a $32,000 charge account; a complete portfolio of stocks; all your debts paid; $100 per day for a year; a year's salary; your weight in gold.

On the third hand (while we're on Madison Avenue), there is the faction that believes the way to success is the irresistible prize.

But while prizes are important in the success of a contest, the industry has come to suspect that Americans may be growing tired of loot for its own sake.

"We are, after all," an expert in advertising said, "a nation with a spirit of competition. We like a good, clean fight. We like a challenge."

Today, more than half of the contests are run under rigorous rules where the entrant must make a calculated guess, think of a word that rhymes, or actually write a complete sentence.

To the casual observer, reviewing the bumper year in giveaways it would seem that contests have pushed their prizes and requirements to the limit.

Transistors Replace Many Vacuum Tubes

NEW YORK — Ten years ago, when the first transistor was made in a New York laboratory, it was a noisy, hard-to-manufacture curiosity that seemed to offer little challenge to the vacuum tube.

Now, with more than 600 different types in production, the transistor has replaced the vacuum tube in hearing aids, is rapidly supplanting it in portable radios, and is seriously challenging it in computers, military gear, and other types of electronic control and communications equipment.

SAC Aces Score 'Hits'; Targets — 2 U.S. Cities

By JAMES C. WEBSTER

ABOARD A B-47 OVER OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — I'm returning from a "bombing mission" that could well have wiped out Oklahoma City and Amarillo, Tex.

Our crew aboard this B-47 is one of the best at the Strategic Air Command's Lincoln Air Force Base on the Nebraska plains — and it has just proved it.

★ ★ ★

"This is probably the best job we've done," the Aircraft Commander tells me over the interphone. The crew has "dropped" 230 "bombs" from this six-jet plane and only two have missed their targets.

Actually, our "bombing mission" consisted of nothing more than radar signals backed up by the same strategy that would have been used if our weapons had really being atomic.

★ ★ ★

Just two misses. And Maj. Jack Crook, suave, 33-year-old AC from Kooskia, Idaho, has a reason for both. "One was in a thunderstorm and the other was off the coast of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

"The navigator locked on to a ship instead of a dock and the ship moved," he said. But the navigator, Maj. Vernon L. Biaett, Glendale, Ariz., didn't miss over Oklahoma City or Amarillo.

The crew made an even dozen "bomb runs" over the two cities —and all 12 were "right down the rain barrel," said the co-pilot, 1st Lt. Harry E. Krebbs, Omaha, Neb.

It's an eerie feeling to look out the glass canopy of a jet going 600 miles an hour.

There is no visible means of propulsion — you can't see anything going into the front ends of the six jet engines and only a misty cloud trails far behind the craft.

The view of the clouds is somewhat different — we were at 40,000 feet and that's well above them.

12 RUNS, 12 HITS

When the clouds thin out a little, you can see the curvature of the earth. Omaha and Lincoln (50 miles apart) looked as though they were almost next-door neighbors.

After our "bomb runs" over Oklahoma City, we headed for Amarillo. We passed over Amarillo every 20 minutes or so. A ground scorer called back our scores — all smash hits.

Biaett said this trip was the second on which our crew had hit 12 targets.

That's what makes Crook's outfit a "select" crew — the top designation. The first step is to become "combat-ready" and then to become a "lead" crew.

Op one of the runs, Biaett commented, "we know the Russians can't do any better than that."

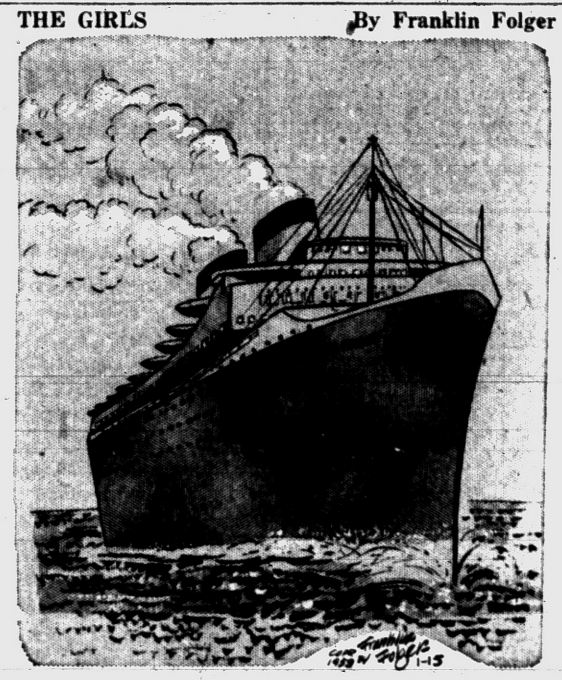

★ ★ ★

Crook added grimly, "We're knocking a corner off the Kremlin building every time we go by."

These aces, who will represent their 370th bombardment squadron in international bombing competition, take their jobs seriously.

Aside from having the responsibility for a two-and-a-half million dollar aircraft and the lives of four men (mine included), they realize that someday they may be headed for Russia on a retaliatory mission with a nuclear or thermonuclear weapon nestled in the bomb chamber.

Futures Slow in Early Trade

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures prices were easier again today in unusually slow early dealings on the board of trade.

Brokers said buyers for all accounts were very scarce and demand very meager. The setback in soybeans ran to major fractions of a cent despite another sharp advance in the price of soybean meal which extended steady gains into the eighth consecutive day and to new highs again for the season.

★ ★ ★

None of the expected export wheat business with Pakistan and Yugoslavia developed overnight.

Wheat was unchanged to ½ cent a bushel lower near the end of the first hour, March $1.96⅜; corn unchanged to ⅛ lower, March old type contract $1.13⅞; oats unchanged, March 66⅝; rye ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, March $1.35⅛; soybeans unchanged to ⅛ lower, January $2.15⅝.

Market Pushes for New High

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to recover and was pushing toward another record high in heavy early trading today.

Pivotal issues rose from fractions to a point or so. An assortment of stocks was unchanged or slightly lower.

Most motors showed a string of plus signs but gains were small. Reports were of rising car sales in December.

American Metal Climax was up about 2 in active dealings. Pfizer advanced more than a point. High-priced Superior Oil of California eased 10 points following a wide advance recently.

★ ★ ★

Cit Financial, which weathered selling pressure yesterday on news that Ford Motor Co. will re-enter new car financing, rebounded more than a point.

North American Aviation was off to reports of a stretchout in certain Aircraft programs.

American Motors rose fractionally at the start in a resumption of yesterday's big rise, then erased by Bethlehem, General Motors, American Telephone, Goodyear, General Dynamics, Union Carbide, New York Central, Phelps Dodge and Anaconda.

Clarkston Community School District

Oakland County, Michigan

4½%, 4¼%, 4% and 3⅞% Bonds

Dated November 1, 1958 — Due June 1, as shown

This District, 50 square miles in area, represents the consolidation of some ten former school districts. It lies eleven miles northwest of Pontiac along US-10, the main highway connecting Detroit, Pontiac, Flint and Saginaw. The District is situated in the heart of a lake area which lies in gently rolling country; it is becoming increasingly popular for attractive year-round residences ranging in value from $15,000 to well above $50,000.

There are also good farming areas within the District boundaries, and recently some small diversified industry has been locating there.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR dear husband and father, William A. Harty, who passed away January 13, 1958.

You bade us not a last farewell
You said goodbye to none
Your loving heart had ceased to beat
Before we knew that you were gone
God saw that you were suffering
And the hills were hard to climb
And so he closed your weary eyes
And whispered peace be thine
Sadly missed by wife, Belle, and two daughters and their families.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF Charles H. Crow who passed away 7 years ago today, January 15th, 1952.

We cannot Lord, thy purpose see;
But all is well that's done by thee
Sadly missed by wife, son and family
