High Court Okays Half-Day School

DETROIT (UPI) — The Michigan Supreme Court, flatly laying the blame on the State Board of Education, unanimously ruled today that half-day school sessions are legal in financially troubled school districts.

In a swift opinion on cases brought from the Detroit suburbs of Livonia and Waterford, the court overturned Circuit Court rulings that half-day sessions were unconstitutional.

The court said the State Board of Education was at fault for not defining what constitutes a full day of instruction.

"It is the responsibility of a State Board of Education to supervise . . . public schools . . . and, as a part of that responsibility, to promulgate regulations specifying the number of hours necessary to constitute a school day . . ." the unanimous opinion said.

'FAILED TO LEAD'

Chief Justice Thomas E. Brennan, in announcing the court's ruling at a news conference said, "Their responsibility is to lead and they failed to lead. I think that can be taken as a criticism, yes."

The board has been under fire in recent weeks for allegedly failing to provide the educational leadership required of it by the Michigan Constitution. Gov. William G. Milliken is urging that the eight-member board be abolished and replaced by a single superintendent of public instruction.

Earlier Story, Page A-5

The high court heard arguments on the cases only last Tuesday, and Brennan admitted that such swift action in rendering an opinion was "pretty unusual."

★ ★ ★

"But we did feel a need for speed on this thing," he said.

The suits were brought against the school boards in the two communities after half-day classes were ordered because of a shortage of funds.

★ ★ ★

Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman and Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer ruled that the half-day sessions were unconstitutional.

Full school days can now only be resumed in Waterford Township if voters approve the proposed 9-mill property tax hike Nov. 25, acting Supt. Dr. John Pagen said in commenting on the State Supreme Court decision.

RECORD PLEDGE — General Motors Corp. and its Pontiac area employes yesterday reported a record gift of $837,597. Attending yesterday's PAUF luncheon were (from left) Thomas C. Dorlas, GM division chairman; Warren H. Eierman, general campaign chairman; F. James McDonald, Pontiac Motor Division general manager and chairman of the local GM Plant City Committee; Miss Lily Boykins of Fisher Body plant; Stephen Toth of Pontiac Motor; Leonard Hylla of GMC Truck and Coach Division; and Richard E. Sova of GM Parts Division.

No Appeal Likely on Half-Day Ruling

There won't be any appeal of the court decision upholding the Waterford Township School District's half-day classes, said one attorney representing a parents' group who took the issue to the State Supreme Court.

Attorney Miss Frances A. Avadenka said the parents' lawyers have no plans to appeal the decision by asking for a rehearing before the high court or going to federal court and then the U.S. Supreme Court.

★ ★ ★

On the other hand, Waterford Schools acting Supt. Dr. John Pagen said he was "obviously pleased that the school board's decision for shortened schedules to avoid deficit financing was confirmed."

All of Waterford's 18,500 students will be on shortened schedules this year — grades 1 through 3 on half days this fall, grades 4 through 6 in the winter and secondary students on schedules shortened by one hour all year long.

MILLAGE HOPES

Pagen said he hopes all forces will now rally to pass the one-year, 9-mill proposed property tax increase Nov. 25 because that is the only way the district can get more money to resume full day classes this school year.

"If I had children in the Waterford School District, I'd move out," commented Miss Avadenka.

"A half school day is not a sufficient amount of education," said Miss Avadenka, one of three lawyers trying to ban half-day school sessions on behalf of parents.

She said she couldn't criticize the high court decision but indicated she was disappointed with the ruling.

"I can't comment on the legal decision because I haven't read it," she said. But she added:

"It is now time for citizens of this state to agitate for state legislative action to precisely define the length of a school day. It would be binding on all school boards.

★ ★ ★

"Citizens should try to shake up the legislators."

Three bills are now proposed in the State Senate to set the length of the school day, according to Miss Avadenka. But they propose different lengths — six hours, five hours and four hours.

PAUF at 86.9 Pct. of Goal

By DIANNE DUROCHER

More than 13 per cent short of its goal, the 1969 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign (PAUF) — scheduled to end today — has been extended at least one week, campaign chairman Warren H. Eierman announced yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The length of the extension will hinge on next week's report, Eierman told 75 volunteers at the third campaign report luncheon yesterday, sponsored by local businessmen, at the Holiday Inn, Bloomfield Township.

★ ★ ★

This is the third consecutive year the annual fund drive has had to be extended.

Campaign pledges to date total $1,077,935 — or 86.9 per cent of the original goal of $1.24 million.

GM IS HAILED

Eierman congratulated General Motors Corp. and its Pontiac-area employes for being the first major division to report 100 per cent of its goal or $837,597.

The figure includes gifts totaling $647,597 from hourly and salaried employes and an all-time high GM corporate gift of $190,000.

★ ★ ★

F. James McDonald, Pontiac Motor Division general manager and local GM Plant - City Committee chairman, thanked the campaigners and contributors for their excellent work. He saluted the unions representing GM hourly employes for their support of the PAUF campaign and the 55 agencies it serves.

PARTICIPATING LOCALS

GM employe locals participating in the PAUF drive are United Auto Workers Locals 653, serving Pontiac Motor Division and GM Parts Division; 594 of GMC Truck and Coach Division; 596 of Fisher Body Plant and locals of the Pattern Makers League of North America and the United Plant Guard Workers of America.

★ ★ ★

"It appears that we still have a good chance of reaching our goal, and I urge all volunteers to get out and finish their solicitations and assignments by next Friday's meeting," Eierman said.

★ ★ ★

The community division, led by Mrs. Vincent Bronsing, yesterday reported $15,769 or 95.2 per cent of its $16,548 goal.

The figure includes area contributions from: Pontiac, $946 or 35 per cent; Waterford Township, $6,606 or 127 per cent; Independence Township, $2,383, or 86.6 per cent; Orion Township, $2,962 or 106.7 per cent and Oxford Township, $2,149 or 89.5 per cent.

★ ★ ★

The commercial division, led by Howard Nelson, reported $119,562 or 63.8 per cent of the $417,992 goal.

★ ★ ★

Lawrence Wiseman, chairman of the manufacturing division, reported $18,314 or 38.2 per cent of the $47,822 goal. The advance gifts division, headed by Richard Fisher, reported $99,927 or 74.8 per cent of its $133,582 goal.

★ ★ ★

Next Friday's report meeting will be at noon at the Pontiac Elks Lodge, 114 Orchard Lake.

Drug-Offender Aid Proposed

By JIM LONG

Terming the punishment of young drug offenders as "ineffectual," an Oakland County circuit judge has proposed that the county take new and immediate steps toward their rehabilitation.

The appearance of five youths before him for sentencing on drug offenses yesterday prompted Judge Arthur E. Moore to recommend alternatives to imprisonment.

★ ★ ★

He delayed sentencing the five, ranging in age from 17 to 21, until he receives a response to a letter outlining his plan to the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

Related Story, Page B-8

★ ★ ★

In writing board Chairman George Edwards, Moore urged that the county make three "emergency provisions."

- The establishment of at least two half-way houses where drug addicts and other young people can be sheltered and supervised while undergoing psychological and psychiatric treatment.
- A program operated by the county mental health or health department providing the circuit court or the probation department with adequate medical and scientific treatment for drug offenders.
- Additional probation officers to adequately supervise the "excessive" load of drug cases.

'LACKS EFFECTIVE PROGRAM'

Moore said that the county presently does not have an effective program in the handling of drug users.

"This leaves the sentencing judge with the dilemma of imprisonment without treatment or probation with contagion to the community," Moore said.

★ ★ ★

Senate Unit OKs School Aid Bill

LANSING (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee today reported out a billion-dollar state school aid bill including $25 million for parochial schools and said tl would seek a Supreme Court opinion on the contstitutionality of parochiaid.

The bill includes some $22 million less than the nearly $1.04 billion called for in Gov. William Milliken's educational reform message.

★ ★ ★

In a burst of speed yesterday the Senate Taxation Committee sent four revenue bills to the floor and thus cleared the way for action on Milliken's educational package.

Two of the measures would eliminate the property tax credit on the income tax — pulling in some $116 million — and call for a popular vote on a 16-mill statewide property tax.

The other two, both Democrat-sponsored bills, would remove machinery and and equipment supplies from the sales and use tax exemption rolls. That would make an extra $60 million, sponsors said.

Earlier yesterday, Senate Minority Leader Sander Levin introduced an alternative to Milliken's 16-mill statewide tax proposal.

Levin called for a 20-mill tax ceiling on residential property and a $3,000 homestead exemption, with equal provisions for residential property renters.

There would be no ceiling on the tax for nonresidential property.

Weekend Climate Fine for Powwows

The weatherman predicts an Indian summer weekend for Pontiac area residents, with temperatures in the 60s.

According to the five-day forecast, temperatures will average 10 degrees above the normal high of 44 - 51 and normal low of 27-33 through Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Tomorrow's high is expected to reach 61.

No rainfall is predicted until the middle of next week. Sunday's outlook is partly sunny and continued mild.

Probabilities of precipitation are near zero today, tonight and tomorrow.

Thirty-five was the recorded low before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. By 2 p.m. the mercury had climbed to 49.

Nov. 15 D.C. March Barred; President In on Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials who refused to issue a permit for a mass march to protest the Vietnam war admit they have not read a report contending a similar rejection helped trigger violence during the 1968 Democratic convention.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst said again yesterday the government would not allow a march of thousands along Pennsylvania Avenue and around the White House Nov. 15 because of "a substantial likelihood of serious violence."

Mayor Richard J. Daley also raised the specter of potential violence to bar a march during the Democratic National Convention in Chicago last year.

★ ★ ★

Although the National Violence Commission reported earlier this year Daley's permit refusal was a key factor in confrontations that followed, both Kleindienst and a key aide, John W. Dean III, said they were unfamiliar with the findings.

COLLECTIVE DECISION

"I'll be honest with you," Dean told a news conference Thursday. "I did not go over that material, no." With a nod, Kleindienst indicated he had not read the report either.

But Kleindienst added the decision to bar a mass march was a "collective decision of the executive branch of government," including President Nixon, made in accordance with "facts and circumstances as they exist in Washington, D.C.," and "not necessarily in relation to Chicago."

Ron Young, an official of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, coordinator of next week's activities, said the group would continue efforts to obtain a permit.

There "is a possibility," he said, the committee will attempt a mass parade to the White House even if the government stands by its decision to forbid the march.

$30-Million Budget a Record

By JEAN SAILE

It took five roll-call votes yesterday but Oakland County's 1970 budget, for a record $30 million, was approved by the board of supervisors on a 23-3 vote.

Recording no were Thomas O'Donoghue, D-Ferndale; Niles Olson D-Orion Township, and Christian Powell, R-West Bloomfield Township.

The salary package — $14 million containing an average 10 per cent increase for county employes — hurdled two amendments to pass unchanged.

Powell had attempted to reduce the package $118,210 by a series of graduated cutbacks in proposed pay raises. Another amendment, introduced by James Brennan, D-Berkley, would have slashed pay raises 20 per cent across the board. It would, however, have left $500 as a minimal increase.

SAVINGS SPLIT SUGGESTED

Powell suggested the savings from his amendment should be split two ways — $50,000 going to a salaries contingency fund to repair any specific inequities and the remaining $68,210 transferred to the operating budget as a cushion against reduced nontax revenues which he suggested had been "strained" to meet the commitments of the budget.

★ ★ ★

Brennan's argument was that a 20 per cent reduction would bring the over-all increase down to what he called the national average — 8.1 per cent versus the 10 per cent proposed.

★ ★ ★

Powell's amendment failed by a 20-5 vote and Brennan's by a 19-6 vote. The votes followed a charge by William L. Mainland, D-Milford Township, that the budget was "being nibbled to death by ducks."

Mainland contended his committee had made cuts in the area of new personnel to be hired, reducing that number to 73 from the 158 requested. He said the raises proposed were deemed necessary in order to retain experienced personnel.

FUNDS FOR ELDERLY

The only budget change made was in the area of senior citizen program funding.

An amendment introduced by James Mathews, D-Pontiac, saw the transfer of $78,000 from the $699,672 contingent fund to a senior citizen program to be administered by the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity with approval by the Board of Supervisors. The issue passed by a voice vote.

★ ★ ★

An appropriation to the OCCEO of $39,325 already in the budget, was not touched.

Another amendment which would have doubled the county's present roads appropriation was tabled by a vote of 20-5.

COMMISSION FUNDS LACKING

The roads amendment was introduced by Lawrence Pernick, D-Southfield. He noted the $400,000 already contained in the county's budget for roads, but said that due to lack of money in the Road Commission it may be impossible for that body to come up with the $400,000 it needs to match the county's money. A third portion of road work funds is to be

Defense Cost Foes Active

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate defense-cost critics are plotting new drives to cut arms spending, including curbing the Safeguard antimissile system, despite their largely unsuccessful efforts with the $20.7-billion military procurement authorization bill.

Leaders of the bipartisan coalition opposing the administration's missile defense proposal began laying their latest plans even before yesterday's 58-9 Senate vote sent the compromise procurement bill to the White House.

Their new target is the $70-billion-plus defense appropriations measure scheduled for consideration next month.

But the efforts to amend the money bill by limiting Safeguard funds to research could be hampered by pressures to end the year-long congressional session and adjourn for the Christmas holidays.

PROXMIRE'S PLANS

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., announced the plans to make new assaults not only on the Safeguard but on other items in the appropriations measure.

President Nixon is expected to sign within the next few days the authorization measure that drew some criticism during a three-hour final debate yesterday. The House approved it in just a few minutes by voice vote Wednesday.

* * *

While this will clear the way for consideration of appropriations legislation, Pentagon backers in the House appear to have set up a schedule that will make it difficult for Proxmire and the anti-Safeguard forces to mount a major fight.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., one of the leaders in the fight, also plans to seek restrictions on U.S. military aid to Laos and Thailand. His amendment to the authorization bill was dropped by Senate-House conferees.

* * *

The House Appropriations Committee, which must originate the money measure, still has to hear from Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird before sending the bill to the full House. It has set Dec. 1 as a tentative date for reporting it.

Mine Blast Kills 65 in S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — At least 65 men sinking a new shaft into one of the world's richest gold lodes were killed today by exploding dynamite far below the surface.

* * *

The death toll was announced by a spokesman for General Mining and Finance Corp., owners of Buffelsfontain mine near Klerksdorp, 100 miles southwest of here.

* * *

Sixty-three men perished immediately in the explosion and two injured men brought to the surface died later, the spokesman said.

* * *

Rescue workers pulled 29 injured miners to the surface, some in serious condition.

* * *

"Half an hour before the blast," the spokesman said, "nine or 10 cases of explosives were sent down the shaft. They must have exploded accidentally.

Federal's Plans Glenwood Store

A building permit for a $750,000 new Federal Store in Pontiac represented most of the $1 million in new construction recorded by the city building inspections division during October.

* * *

The store will be in the Glenwood Plaza at Glenwood and Perry. Federal's also has a downtown store at 91 N. Saginaw.

* * *

The new store will open in March or April, according to a company spokesman. None of the company officials contacted would say if the store on North Saginaw would be closed after the new one opens.

* * *

The downtown store's lease reportedly is up for renewal next spring.

* * *

The new store will have 80,000 square feet of space in a single-story building.

* * *

The inspection division also issued permits for four single-family dwelling units with a total value of $64,000. However, seven home demolitions also were approved in the month.

Dem Criticizes Decision

Call-Rate Cut to Cost User?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman says a government-business decision to cut interstate long-distance telephone rates could end up costing phone users more, not less.

Rep. Jonathan B. Bingham, D-N.Y., says he may try to block what he called an "outrageous deception" by the Federal Communications Commission and the giant American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

* * *

AT&T said Wednesday it had reached agreement with the FCC to cut its interstate phone rates by nearly $240 million starting early next year. At the same time, the FCC said it would allow the company to boost its profits.

Bingham charged in a speech to the House yesterday that AT&T will use the FCC ruling to win approval of pending rate increases in Michigan, 15 other states and the District of Columbia to more than make up for the cut in interstate rates.

ADDED REVENUES

Requested rate increases for New York State alone would, if approved, bring in $175 million in added revenues, Bingham said. And, if the increases for local rates in the other states are okayed, it would increase the figure to at least $300 million, he said.

The FCC's authority is limited to interstate service. Local rates are governed by the individual states.

* * *

With the FCC ruling in its pocket, the congressman said, AT&T can now argue that the FCC has approved an increase in its profits, and state regulatory commissions can do no less.

"The FCC, in effect, has greatly strengthened AT&T's case for increased local rates and has greatly enhanced the possibility that these local increases will be granted.

CONSUMER THE LOSER

When that happens . . . the consumer will be the loser," he said.

Under a 1967 ruling, the FCC permitted AT&T profits between 7 and 7.5 per cent, but yesterday's decision could result in a temporary return of 8 to 8.5 per cent.

AT&T contended in a series of informal talks leading to the FCC decision that a higher rate of return was needed to attract investor money needed to raise the billions of dollars the Bell system spends each year to expand its facilities.

Tanker Lifeboat, Body Found at Sea

BOSTON (AP) — An unidentified body and an empty motor lifeboat with the name "Keo" on it were recovered Thursday night about 40 miles southeast of the area where the 629-foot Liberian tanker Keo broke apart Wednesday in a storm and its 36 men were stranded on the stern.

* * *

A Coast Guard spokesman said this morning the body was recovered by the USS Fox during an intensive search of 20,000 miles of ocean off Nantucket.

* * *

Five Coast Guard and five Navy ships searched yesterday and through the night, and planes were to rejoin them at dawn.

* * *

"The chances are that if they are found now they will be in lifeboats or on rafts," a Coast Guard officer said.

County Budget a Record

met by the communities in which the work is done.

It was noted that the capital building program as outlined in the budget can still be changed. Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the board of auditors, said that should the county not be able to raise all of the money it anticipates from no-tax revenues, the capital building program would be the first cut.

* * *

In other business, the board voted to approve payment of $8,500 to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) for the purpose of winding up the Transportation and Land Use Study (TALUS). The study comes under SEMCOG jurisdiction on the first of the year.

SEMCOG will meet at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at the courthouse auditorium to approve its 1970 budget, it was announced.

A comprehensive report on county involvement in airport operation was presented to the board by Wallace Gabler, R-Royal Oak. Consideration of the report was, however, postponed until the Nov. 20 board meeting.

No action was taken to further supplement Aid to Dependent Children emergency clothing allowances. The $52,500 requested by the Social Services Department in addition to the $90,000 appropriated in September was to be a topic for discussion by the human resources committee at its meeting at 9:30 a.m. today.

A resolution signed by 23 members of the board in which they stated ADC should be a responsibility of the federal government was approved.

The film's highlights range from a visit to the capital, Helsinki, to the Lahti ski-jumping championship competition and Finnish farm life.

* * *

Mrs. Hjordi Kittel Park, noted traveler-lecturer, does the narration.

Tickets are $1.50 at the door or $12.50 for a season's series ticket which covers 10 films running through April 25, 1970.

Harry L. Winston, 1265 Lakeside, vice president and national accounts manager for Tempco Inc., Detroit-headquartered personnel services company, has been elected to the firm's board of directors.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley, chairman of the Municipal Finance Commission, has announced that the commission has approved $65,000 in drain bonds for the Kollar Drainage District, which serves the township.

Proceeds from the sale of the bonds will be used to pay for right-of-way and construction of the intra-county Kollar drain.

* * *

The bonds will be redeemed through a special assessment of homeowners in the area serviced by the drain.

Other members of the Municipal Finance Commission are state treasurer Allison Green and Ira Polley, former Superintendent of Public Instruction.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Dr. Howard McNeill of Hickory Grove has been reappointed to the state medical board by Gov. William Milliken.

Dr. McNeill's term expires Sept. 30, 1973.

Senate confirmation of the reappointment is required.

Arson Blamed in City Blaze

Arson was blamed by Pontiac fire officials for a blaze at the Salvation Army's Men Social Service Center late last night. Damage mainly was caused by smoke.

Some 70 men were routed out of living quarters in the two-story building at 118 W. Lawrence after the fire broke out near the upholstery shop on the second floor.

* * *

"It was definitely set," said Assistant Fire Chief Charles Metz. "We found evidence of three distinct fires in the area."

* * *

Though firemen were able to confine the fire to a storage area, Metz, said, dense smoke throughout the second floor of concrete and steel building hampered operations.

SMOKE DAMAGE

The fire did not spread into the living quarters, but, according to Maj. Leonard Espinosa, director of the center, the smoke was so heavy that linens had to be cleaned.

Fire Marshal J. Allen Tunny estimated damage to the contents and building at $2,000.

* * *

The fire department received the alarm at 11:23 p.m. and had the fire under control in less than an hour.

Is Dana Whitmer Hunting a Job?

Is Pontiac Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer seeking employment outside the school district?

* * *

He says no.

However, Mrs. Joan Walker of 168 N. Astor said at last night's school board meeting she had heard he had made applications at Michigan State University, Wayne State University and other colleges.

Whitmer, in response to the question, said he has received many offers in the years he has been superintendent here, but was not interested in any of them.

* * *

He added that someday one might turn up that he would be interested in, and at that time he would notify the school board.

Senators Seek Mutual Cease-Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and his Republican counterpart, Hugh Scott, both previously critical of U.S. Vietnam policy, are sponsoring a resolution supporting President Nixon's efforts to end the war but also calling for a "mutually observed cease-fire."

The two Senate leaders would not reveal details of their resolution in advance of its introduction today but Mansfield said he and Scott worked it up to "generate support for the President."

* * *

An aide to Scott said the Senate resolution "requests the President to call on the government of North Vietnam to observe a mutually observed cease-fire."

The proposal comes one day after the House Foreign Affairs Committee approved 21-8 a resolution supporting Nixon's efforts to "negotiate a just peace."

The House measure makes no mention of a cease-fire.

Both Mansfield and Scott previously have proposed ceasefires, but without specifying they should be "mutually observed."

Mansfield said last Oct. 2 he thought the United States should adopt an immediate standfast and cease-fire policy in which U.S. troops would shoot back only when attacked. The Montana Democrat has suggested the war just may fade away if the United States doesn't stir it up.

While he has been mildly critical, Mansfield also has urged that Congress and the people give Nixon their backing.

Speaking of Nixon's efforts to end the war, Mansfield said in the Oct. 2 interview: "He sure as hell wants out. He is just finding the ways and means difficult."

Scott made what appeared to be a proposal for a unilateral cease-fire in Vietnam last month. But after the idea was denounced by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Scott issued another statement saying that he intended to propose a mutual cease-fire.

The Pennsylvania senator also found himself going counter to the administration during the summer when he proposed more troop withdrawals at a time Nixon was trying to fend off such pressures from Democrats. At that time he was the assistant Republican leader.

* * *

The Senate leaders decided to go with introduction of the resolution today. Scott's aide said, after getting 34 signatures early yesterday afternoon—with still more senators saying they wanted to cosponsor it.

The House resolution, largely fashioned by Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., and introduced three days ago, has the backing of 181 members.

AMENDMENTS DEFEATED

No hearings were held prior to the closed committee session. Among amendments defeated were ones calling for public and executive hearings, and support for Nixon's determination to withdraw ground combat forces at the earliest practicable date.

"This will be an affirmation of the President's policy giving him an open ended authority to do what he wants in the name of gaining a just peace," Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., said. Fraser voted against the resolution.

Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., another opponent, said, "This obviously is an attempt to intimidate the moratorium crowd."

She Knows the Needs of Handicapped Firsthand

By T. LARRY ADCOCK

"You want to know how I found out I was handicapped?" Mrs. Evelyne ("Call me Evelyne") Villines asked.

"I was a little girl and I walked to school the very first day . . . My teacher sent me home to tell my mother that she didn't have time to teach a crippled child.

* * *

"But there was a happy ending. The next day I went to school with the mayor that was my dad—and with the president of the school board—that was my uncle."

A little help from her friends and, more importantly, from her loved ones was the key to Evelyne's successful life in a world of men and women who do not have braces on their legs as she does.

BUSY WOMAN

Evelyne is executive secretary of the Iowa Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, the American Association on Mental Deficiency, the Iowa Association for Retarded Children—or as her very young son labels his mother, with sincerity and affection, "a professional cripple."

Evelyne spoke yesterday morning in Waterford Township at the second Oakland County Conference on Mental Health, sponsored by the Regional Interagency Committee on Mental Retardation of Oakland County.

Her likening of physical handicaps to mental handicaps was apropos. Society is beginning to understand physical disabilities, to cope with people who are afflicted with them and to treat them as people.

Now is the time to apply the same understanding to the people-problem of mental retardation.

A great portion of Evelyne's address was taken up in criticism of too-typical relationships between mental retardation counselor and "client."

'LADEN WITH CASES'

"I am concerned about our counselors who are working with people but are so laden with cases that they never get to really know their clients.

* * *

"What if one day a fire burned all our files? The next day our clients would come in, and probably the first thing we would ask them is their names and what they wanted to do with their lives.

"Our files get thicker and thicker and we become more and more impersonal. We have to give our clients the chance to speak and realize their goals. Maybe their goals are unrealistic —were yours?

"I know a young man in Iowa who became very bored with his institutional training. All he wanted to do in life was drive a fire engine—because then he too could participate in part of life's excitement.

"Fortunately for my friend, he had a very good counselor. Today, the young man is one of the best janitors any fire department ever had."

Speaking on employing handicapped and the mentally retarded persons, Evelyne stressed the need for preparing not only the employer and the supervisor for working with the "client," but the co-workers as well.

* * *

"The mentally retarded worker so needs the help and the friendship of his fellow workers. What happens during the coffee break? Does he have to sit in the corner by himself? What is to happen to that retarded worker after 5 o'clock?

* * *

"We get so hung up on training programs that we sometimes forget to teach our clients how to live. So many of our kids just exist. We must eliminate these dehumanizing practices and replace them with instruction for things we would be bitterly fighting for if we did not take them so much for granted . . .

LOVE, RESPECT

"Things like love, respect and dignity.

"Everyone, including the handicapped and mentally retarded, must live life to the fullest.

"Everyone needs someone to love and something to hope for.

* * *

"With professional dedication, ladies and gentlemen, this love and hope is what you can provide."

Carl Childress And Mrs. Rheba Cope Work With A First Grader

Active in Special Education

Parents Praise 2 Who Care

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

WEST BLOOMFIELD — People who care were lauded last night by parents of children with learning disabilities.

Carl Childress, principal of Doherty School, and Mrs. Rheba Cope, head of the district's special education department, were awarded plaques by Dr. Anthony Witham, superintendent of West Bloomfield schools, and special advisor to the group presenting the awards.

Childress and Mrs. Cope were honored for "good will on their own time and with concern and feeling for children and parents," according to Mrs. Howard Jacobs, president of the West Bloomfield Association for Children with Learning disabilities.

Mrs. Cope, a social worker, runs the special education services under the district's philosophy, "Every child is entitled to an education to the limit of his potential."

SPECIAL OPPORTUNITIES

The program offers special classes for the mentally handicapped, an adjusted study program for children with emotional difficulties and individual disabilities.

West Bloomfield has three classrooms in which trained teachers work with mentally handicapped children through junior high school. Senior high students are sent to special educational programs in other districts.

Boys unable to learn effectively in regular classrooms are placed in an adjusted study program created last year. Boys who are socially immature, withdrawn, or overly active to the point of disrupting class frequently qualify for this program, according to Mrs. Cope.

Special teachers train the boys to better handle their emotions while keeping up the youngsters' academic standings.

RANGE OF ACTIVITIES

Classroom activities range from traditional academic lessons to game sessions.

'Every Child Is Entitled To An Education To The Limit Of His Potential'
—Mrs. Cope

"The program tries to provide an environment around the child which will enable him to utilize what the school has to offer him," says Mrs. Cope.

* * *

Mrs. Cope ran the program by herself last year but requests for counseling became so great that another social worker and a psychologist were hired.

The social worker, Mrs. Jeanette Freier and the psychologist, Mrs. Gayle Beck — who will take over as special education coordinator next month — aid Mrs. Cope in holding confidential interviews with the children and parents.

OTHER RESOURCES

Students needing more help are sent to a consulting sychiatrist. Services of other community agencies such as family-service organizations, child-guidance clinics and even courts are utilized when needed.

* * *

Children needing aid usually are referred by teachers, parents and courts. Occasionally a child will walk in by himself, asking for help, according to Mrs. Cope.

* * *

Parents of children with learning disabilities also need some help occasionally. Childress helped fill this need by organizing regular meetings of parents to discuss the problems a child with special disabilities may provide.

* * *

Mothers meet every two weeks and couples meet every four. The program includes a speaker every other month.

Learning disabilities in children are a common problem, but many parents have a hard time accepting it at first," says Mrs. Jacobs. "Engaging in this form of group therapy helps. Who else would understand the little things — the little achievements your child will make — but other parents with similar circumstances.

PROVIDES A FORUM

"You can say things to one another you might hesitate to say otherwise. You can discuss how the child fits into your home life, school and society," she added.

* * *

Mrs. Jacobs explained the group started about six years ago as a perceptual development group when parents realized that they should stay together. Today there are more than 30 couples in the group.

'Test-Run' Probe Result to Be Told

WIXOM — Results of an investigation into an allegedly improper test-run in a car will be announced at next Wednesday's council meeting by Mayor Wesley E. McAtee, he said today.

The test-run was conducted by Chief of Police Thomas McGuire, according to Patrolman Walter Springer, who filed a written complaint.

* * *

The test allegedly was at 80 miles an hour on a three-mile stretch of road between Loon Lake and West roads Oct. 22 shortly before 3 p.m.

School Building Talks Delayed

Decisions on the type of new schools needed to handle increasing student enrollment were deferred by the Huron Valley Board of Education until a special meeting Monday.

Action was delayed because two board members — Dr. Norman Krieger and Bernard Loftus — were absent from last night's session.

* * *

The 9 p.m. meeting Monday is at the Board office, 7404 E. Highland.

Last month the board approved holding an election for a school bonding issue Feb. 2, 1970.

BUILDING PLANS

The projected number of students for 1974-75 is 10,408. The board is discussing plans for two elementary schools, a junior high school and a senior high school. Total building capacity when finished should be around 10,558.

A citizens committee appointed to study the problems recommended that separate schools for junior and senior high students be built, possibly on the same site.

Wixom Drain Project Hit

WIXOM — An Oakland County supervisor has jumped into the simmering storm drain controversy here.

* * *

Lew L. Coy, 2942 Loon, representing District 27, says he'll appeal to the City Council next Wednesday to drop plans for a 36-inch storm drain that would serve the Birch Park subdivision on the south side of Loon Lake. The drain empties next to a bathing beach.

Construction of the drain, nearly half completed, was halted three weeks ago after residents in the subdivision, fearing pollution of the lake, called on City Council to halt the $125,000 project. Included in the cost was paving of several streets in the subdivision.

The council ordered the work stopped pending a hearing before state officials on the pollution question.

NOT RESOLVED

That hearing was held in Lansing a week ago but officials admitted the pollution question was not resolved.

"This is a new concept," says Coy, "considering treatment of storm water before it enters a lake."

* * *

Coy lives in Birch Park subdivision. "I've stayed out of the issue until now, since am a supervisor, because I didn't want it to become political," said Coy. "Now I feel I have to get involved."

Coy has talked privately with several members of the council but he's not convinced they'll issue a permanent order to halt construction of the drain.

'AT THEIR MERCY'

"So I'll go to council next Wednesday and appeal to them. I'll ask them why is it that we have to have state legislation to keep our local officials from contaminating one of our natural resources. Really, we're at the mercy of our local officials.

"And if we don't do something about this type of pollution, then Oakland County will have a lot of mudholes one of these days."

* * *

Seriousness of the drainage situation as it contributes to pollution is reflected somewhat in correspondence Coy has received from Dr. Bernard D. Berman, Oakland County health director.

In his letter to Coy, Dr. Berman says "Let me first point out that the Oakland County Health Department has no direct legal authority to approve or disapprove the location or design of storm water drainage systems."

DIFFERENT OUTLET

In earlier correspondence, Dr. Berman had questioned the location of the drain outlet. He had recommended the outlet be relocated down stream from the bathing beach.

Continuing from his latest letter to Coy, Dr. Berman says, "Questions regarding pollution of lakes by storm water drainage have been raised in several areas of Oakland County.

* * *

Any drainage of inhabited areas into water courses carries with the flow some degree of undesirable contamination. It has been felt that the high dilution factor limited the seriousness of such pollution.

"The ultimate remedy . . . would be to collect and treat all runoff waters. This would be highly impractical and expensive . . .

CLOSE BEACH

"I will recommend to our County Board of Supervisors and our legislative representatives that legislation be considered which would provide for review of the location, design and impact on water quality of storm water drainage systems by health and natural resource consultants."

The only other course of action open to health officials at the moment is to close bathing beaches after it is determined the water is polluted.

Health Dept. Findings

Seminary Not Polluting Water

ORCHARD LAKE—Sts. Cyril and Methodius Seminary, Orchard Lake and Commerce, has received a clean bill of health from the Oakland County Department of Health following a series of pollution tests run on water samples taken from a section of Orchard Lake that fronts seminary property.

The testing was conducted following complaints from residents living in the area of the seminary alleging that a "foul odor" was being emitted from the water near a drain pipe that runs through the seminary grounds.

* * *

The seminary had erected temporary storm drains during construction of building additions in order to effectively drain the property for excavation and construction.

Seminary officials explained that absolutely no sewage was being piped into the lake. The seminary's sewage system is hooked onto the Farmington interceptor line.

'GOOD RESULTS'

Melvin Goldman, an official with the Health Department's Environmental Health Division, said that the complete series of tests revealed good results.

He said that, although the laboratory testing indicated there was no problem with the water at this time, periodic tests would continue to be taken.

* * *

Goldman said the "smell" in the water possibly could have been due to the fact that the water running through the drain had been lodged in the ground for some time.

Mystery Surrounds Death of Rochester Man in Fire

ROCHESTER — Why Loyce D. Snyder ran back into his burning house early yesterday morning will always remain a mystery.

* * *

Snyder, 40, the father of five children, was awakened by his two youngest boys around 2 a.m. yesterday. They smelled smoke. He gathered his wife, Laura, and four of the children and led them out of the house, at 145 Romeo.

* * *

"Only God will ever know why he returned to the house," said Rochester Fire Chief Lyle Buchanan, "although we're assuming he thought his oldest boy, 17-year-old Daniel, was missing and he went back in to look for him."

* * *

Daniel had run to a next-door neighbor (Mrs. Helen Mowat) to call the fire department. "Call the fire department — we're on fire," he told her.

ALREADY BLAZING

"The house was already blazing by then," said Mrs. Mowat.

Firemen later found Snyder's body in the first-floor laundry room of the home. He had been trapped by the smoke and flames. There was only one small burn mark on his hand.

* * *

Chief Buchanan estimated the damage at $30,000. He said it was close to a total loss. "We don't think we'll ever know the real cause of the fire," said Buchanan, "but we do think it started in the kitchen; maybe someone had accidentally left a stove burner on."

* * *

Buchanan said the house had just been rewired and the fuses were in good condition. "It's just one of those unexplainable things," he said. He ruled out arson or foul play in the fire.

GROUPS MEETING

Snyder worked in the advertising and sales promotion department of Ford Tractor Operations, 2500 E. Maple, Birmingham.

* * *

Snyder's neighbor, Mrs. Mowat, said several groups are meeting this morning to decide how they can help the family.

* * *

Service for Snyder will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at Pixley Memorial Chapel, Rochester, with burial in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery, Troy.

* * *

Airport Push Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved the Nixon administration's plan for vast expansion of the nation's air system over the next 10 years, with airline passengers and other users footing much of the bill.

* * *

The program calls for 800 new airports of varying sizes and $12 billion worth of radar, automatic landing equipment and other navigational facilities.

Space Bill Forwarded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved and sent to the Senate a $3.7-billion authorization bill for space expenditures in the year ending next June 30.

* * *

The bulk of the funds in the bill would be used for the Apollo man-to-the-moon program and is designed to help finance three manned moon shots in the next nine months.

Fire Hits Highland Concrete Company

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — Fire caused an estimated $400 damage at the Advance Concrete Producers, 975 N. Milford, early this morning, according to a Highland Township Fire Department spokesman.

He said a gas-fired salamander — used to cure cement — caught fire, and the flames went up the side of the building to the roof.

Student Suspension Policy OK'd After Debate

Pontiac School Affairs

By MARY SUNDSTROM

A student suspension policy was approved by a 4-2 vote of the Pontiac School Board last night after nearly two hours of heated discussion.

* * *

The policy adds "disrupting the normal functioning of school" to a list of 18 reasons for which a student may be suspended or have his classes closed.

* * *

It also included a provision for probation of a student under conditions agreed to by the student, his parents and the school officials.

Board members Christopher Brown and Dr. Robert Turpin voted against the proposal. Mrs. Elsie Mihalek was absent.

'NO SOLUTION'

"I don't think punishment is a solution to the problem (of student disturbances)," said Brown.

He said he felt the solution could be found with continued meetings with parents, students and teachers which have been going on since disruptions at Northern and Central high schools Sept. 25 and 26 and Oct 1.

Dr. Turpin echoed his sentiments.

Board member Mrs. Lucille Marshall said she felt the word "shall" in the proposed policy should replace the word "may" in several portions to tighten the regulation and assure that no double standards would be used.

REFERS TO CLAUSE

She referred specifically to a clause which stated that students participating in disturbance(s) "may (a) be suspended for the remainder of the semester, and-or (b) may be recommended for exclusion by the board of education."

Board member John Irwin disagreed, saying there might be specific cases where the "shall" would be too binding.

* * *

Several people in the audience agreed with him and a youth who identified himself as an Oakland University student said he thought it would establish a "concentration camp standard."

There was a mixed reaction in the audience regarding the proposal.

HIT AS INSTRUMENT

Kenny Walker of 97 S. Jessie said he felt it was "another instrument for racist teachers to take advantage of black children."

He also asked how many parents had been involved in preparing the proposal.

* * *

A man identified as Jim Graham said he also felt parents should have been involved in making the policy.

Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer said he felt recent conferences with parents had indicated vast parental support.

Robert Nelson of 915 Spence said he supported the rule and didn't see why anyone should object to it.

Frank Johnson, address unknown, spoke against the amendment, maintaining the probationary agreement to be made by a student, his parents and the school is an outgrowth of a contract.

* * *

A clause of the amendment introduced for discussion at the Oct. 16 board meeting included a requirement that a student who has been out of school for disciplinary reasons sign an agreement regarding his future behavior.

This clause was replaced in the proposal adopted last night by the probation clause.

'DISRUPTING SCHOOLS'

Mrs. Jackie Nichols of 41 Bagley also spoke against the amendment, saying it was like a police academy rule.

Mrs. Joan Walker of 168 N. Astor said she also felt rules would not solve the problem of school disturbances, but better education would. A reading teacher, Mrs. Walker said that students are disrupting schools because they can't read.

* * *

Mrs. James Baldwin of 179 Augusta said she felt that discipline, not rules, was most important. She emphasized that the discipline should be tendership, not punishment.

During the discussion there was a short demonstration of support for the Oakland University student when Board Chairman Russell Brown said the student could not speak because he was neither a Pontiac resident or taxpayer.

A man who said he lived at OU said his daughter attends a Pontiac school, and therefore the university is in the school district. About 30 OU students and some parents stood in the youth's support. Finally, by a 5-1 vote of the board, with Russell Brown dissenting, the student was allowed to speak.

Whitmer Pledge

Center Push Vowed

Pontiac Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer promised last night that, despite money problems, the school district will do everything in its power to construct the complete Human Resource Center.

He said a minimum cost package for the center is expected in about two weeks from its designers who are studying bids which were opened Tuesday.

* * *

A combination of lowest bids for the elementary school-community use complex totaled about $7.1 million. The estimated cost and available funds for the project is $4.6 million — $2.5 million less than actual bid prices.

He said if the project were redesigned and rebid, the district would probably have to pay more than the bid prices it now has for less school.

RISING COSTS

He attributed the difference between estimated cost and actual bid prices to rising construction costs of one to 1½ per cent per month and to rising wage bases in the building trades.

He also told the audience of an opinion of Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley that the school district is not now eligible for the grant from the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development of $1.1 million under present state law.

* *

These funds were earmarked for construction of dual-use facilities in the center. He reported that bills have been introduced in both the State Senate and House to remedy the situation, but that legislative action must take place before Dec. 18, when bids expire.

The board passed a resolution thanking Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford Township, and Rep. Arthur J. Law, D-Pontiac, who introduced the bills.

Furry Visitor Is Smelled Out

SHOW LOW, Ariz., (AP) — The Arizona Highway Department eliminated an unwanted visitor from its field office Thursday using an unorthodox method.

* * *

Ralph Lewis, field office clerk, opened a can of sardines, tied a string to it and placed it in the middle of the room.

When the odor filled the room, the skunk came scurrying from behind a cabinet. Lewis pulled the can across the floor and out the door with the skunk in hot pursuit.

'Draft Letter Bears Stamp of Obscenity'

TERRA LINDA, Calif. (AP) — Taking advantage of a new federal law, a young man has notified the post office he considers obscene a letter ordering him to appear for a preinduction physical.

With tongue in cheek, Robert Blanch, 20, filed a notice with Postal Supt. Frank Ely on Thursday, demanding his name be removed from his draft board's mailing list.

Ely said the form will be forwarded to the Post Office Department in Washington "on a routine basis."

Just the Ticket, Baby Decides

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — After buying four tickets to Friday night's home show, Mrs. David C. Kehl was suddenly frantic. "My baby ate the tickets," she reported. "I need four more."

* * *

One-year-old Cynthia apparently was unaffected. The Women's Guild of the Home of Guiding Hands, sponsor of the benefit, said Mrs. Kehl will be given new tickets without charge.

In both World War I and World War II, Russia suffered the most casualties.

On Teacher Recruiting

Waterford in a Stew

Waterford Township school officials aren't really sure where they stand in recruiting the teachers they need for the resumption of full class days.

This is what acting Supt. Dr. John Pagen and Personnel Director Richard Higginbotham told the board of education last night.

* * *

They reported they have enough interested candidates, but they are not all in the right areas — nor can they be hired at this time.

* * *

The school district is under an Oakland County Circuit Court order to resume full class days by Nov. 26.

But school officials have said they won't be able to take elementary children off half-day schedules and secondary students off days reduced by one hour until early in 1970.

Then they hopefully will have more money and the needed teachers hired.

* * *

So far, 266 persons have shown interest in teaching in Waterford, most of them about to graduate from college in December or January, reports Higginbotham.

* * *

The search is hampered because "we can't sign them up," Higginbotham said. More money is needed and that could come if voters pass a property tax hike Nov. 25.

ELEMENTARY, SCIENCE

Elementary and science teacher applicants are the greatest need, Pagen said.

There are two weeks left for election campaigning, and a giant rally is scheduled from 7 to 8 p.m. Nov. 21 at Mott High School, it was reported at the meeting.

* * *

Theme of the rally is "I like Waterford." A parade is to be followed by singing, cheering and speeches — all around a bonfire. Mementos are to be dropped by a helicopter.

In other business last night, the board:

- Heard a report that there is favorable reaction to school administrators keeping Wednesday afternoons free for time to talk to residents and for the trial telephone question hot line and newsletter.
- Learned that the $27,000 federal Head Start program at Drayton Plains School for 30 four-year-olds is proving successful.
- Was told that the district's unique computer instruction program — Indicom — will be used to help deficient high school students in communications and mathematics and adults in basic education.
- Decided that students planning to participate in moratoriums must get absentee forms signed by parents.

6 Eyed for School Post

The search for a new Waterford Township superintendent of schools has been narrowed down to six finalists, including acting Supt. Dr. John Pagen.

School trustee Eldon Rosegart, chairman of the search committee, said yesterday the selection won't be made before the Nov. 25 millage election.

* * *

Pagen has served as head of the school district since Aug. 1 when former Supt. Dr. Don O. Tatroe left to head the Michigan Association of School Boards in East Lansing.

The next move of the search committee is to interview the six finalists, according to Rosegart.

About 40 applicants from New York to California were considered for the job after first being screened by university placement bureaus, Rosegart said.

Acts on POWs' Behalf

Red Cross chapters across the land are addressing strong appeals to Americans to write the Red Cross in North Vietnam with the object of influencing the military there to provide humane treatment for U.S. prisoners of war.

The concerted action is the result of an American Red Cross-sponsored resolution which was passed without a dissenting vote by 77 governments and 91 national Red Cross societies when the International Conference of the Red Cross met in Istanbul recently.

★ ★ ★

Embodied in the resolution covered by the Geneva Conference are provisions that all prisoners be promptly identified; afforded an adequate diet and medical care; permitted to communicate with other prisoners and the "exterior"; promptly repatriated if seriously sick or wounded; and at all times protected from abuse.

According to Department of Defense figures, there are 413 men of the U.S. armed services known to be prisoners in North Vietnam, and 918 others missing and believed captured.

★ ★ ★

Communications supporting the resolution should be addressed to Office of President, Red Cross of the Democratic Republic of North Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam.

Tax Aids Homeowners

GEORGE ROMNEY, secretary of Housing and Urban Development in the Nixon cabinet, must have thrown a scare into millions of homeowner-taxpayers the other day with his suggestion that the income tax deduction they get for interest and taxes on their mortgages be cut back.

No such change in the tax laws is under consideration. At a time when the entire structure of the income tax system is under review in Congress, it has not even been mentioned. Middle-class taxpayers can continue to cherish these deductions as two tax breaks designed especially for them.

ROMNEY

Nor is Romney serious with his proposal. His point was merely that it would be a good way "to bring home to middle-income and affluent families that they are getting a tax subsidy."

Middle-income people are not aware of the Government's help to them, said ROMNEY, so they "tend to resent the idea that public money —their tax money—is being used to help the disadvantaged and the minority groups to meet their housing needs."

Maybe we ought to repeal part of their right to take the mortgage interest-tax deduction, he then suggested, and earmark the extra money for improving city slums.

Homeowners ought to count their blessings. Not only do they have their own homes—something many people can only dream about—but Uncle Sam is helping them pay for them by allowing them to deduct both their mortgage interest and also their local property taxes.

★ ★ ★

What homeowners consider right and just for themselves is simply another tax loophole in someone else's eyes.

Fiends Foul Halloween Spirit

Halloween, an annual fun night celebrated by small fry and teenagers with parties, masquerade and "trick or treat" forays, has become increasingly an opportunity for outlet of diabolical cunning on the part of sadistic dispensers of treats.

News reports from across the Country brought to light many such incidents. Occurring in at least four states, the viciousness took the form of secretion of sharp objects in the food or candy offered, or contaminating it with tasteless but potentially dangerous ingredients.

Locally, police departments in Pontiac and Waterford and Orion Townships received complaints of goodies being rendered injurious by the concealement of razor blades, ground glass and the like.

Since it is extremely difficult to pinpoint the source of the harmful "favors" that find their way into the youngsters' bags as they make their rounds, those responsible for the maliciousness have little fear of detection.

It would be most regrettable that on a night devoted to innocent and exhilarating enjoyment, Halloweeners, for their own protection, are obliged to confine their quest for treats to acquaintances in their immediate neighborhoods.

Student Groups Quietly Shifting Tactics

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The headlines go to student moratoriums, demonstrations and marches and to judge-baiting in Chicago.

CROMLEY

But some quiet new shifts in tactics now being instituted by student groups across the United States promise to be considerably more significant in changing the nation's universities, and, if successful there, in bringing student influence to bear on national and international problems.

★ ★ ★

● Students are turning to the law to get college rules, regulations and administrative procedures changed. They're employing highly paid attorneys from some of the nation's largest and most prestigious firms.

★ ★ ★

● In a number of test cases, students are taking college authorities to court on student rights. Attorneys say the young people are winning a majority of these cases.

● Students are using mediators — usually skilled attorneys — to negotiate with college officials in long sessions reminiscent of labor bargaining. These meetings are aimed at securing concessions on student rights.

BARGAINING AGENTS?

The next step may well be that student associations or other student groups, like labor unions, may well ask for certification as bargaining agents for the undergraduate and graduate men and women on campus.

Lobbying groups composed of paid professionals — legal or publicity experts — may be sent to state legislatures and to Congress to quietly work on the lawmakers in the traditional manner.

★ ★ ★

These steps could be highly effective. The students and student groups involved in this new trend seem to have ample funds. They have a large constituency that has shown an ability to get involved emotionally.

In maneuvering thus far, students have been fighting principally for a loosening of college regulations on how and where they shall live, on how they may be expelled, who shall deal with them and under what rules when accused of campus violations and for a larger student voice in college policy.

★ ★ ★

In the background there is a strong movement against grades, against required class attendance, against a considerable number of required courses for graduation, against the way courses are taught and for the addition of some new courses.

But with the growing student discussion of the Vietnam war, defense expenditures, race, the slums and state and national politics there is nothing to stop the students from following the lead of the nation's labor unions in using their influence on these major problems.

Bruce Biossat

Critics of Viet Speech off Base

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Much of the domestic reaction of public figures to President Nixon's Vietnam speech was entirely predictable. But a good deal of it was strangely off the mark, and it raises key questions about credibility and the uses of the English language.

BIOSSAT

For instance, it was said by many critics, some of them even quite moderate, that there was "nothing new" in the speech.

★ ★ ★

The simple fact is that there was. Never before had the President himself said that he has an "orderly, scheduled timetable" for the full withdrawal of all U.S. ground combat forces — or that this plan has been communicated to and accepted by the Saigon government.

That represents a public commitment of utmost significance, far beyond the closely parallel earlier comments of Defense Secretary Laird or the private word from several administration officials that such a plan exists and is thoroughly under way.

UNASSAILABLE

Nixon's decision not to announce the timetable produces arguments and effects but the "newness" of his basic assertion is unassailable.

Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas found the President's expressed positions "indistinguishable" from those of former President Johnson and former Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Fulbright had much company on this claim.

★ ★ ★

Yet a quick review of Johnson's final major utterances on the war discloses not the faintest hint by him of any proposal or plan of unilateral troop withdrawal by the United States from South Vietnam.

Nixon's decision not to declare publicly his withdrawal timetable, which several close foreign policy observers and now even some heretofore skeptical GOP dove senators believe he has, runs into two principal difficulties.

IRREVERSIBLE INTENT

It does not satisfy such men as the thoughtful former Defense Secretary Clark Clifford who thinks that Saigon will assume its own military burdens only when we have asserted before all the world our irreversible intent to take out all combat troops by a fixed date.

Moreover, the President's secrecy as to numbers and dates comes sharply athwart the credibility problem.

★ ★ ★

The question therefore becomes whether Nixon's assertion of a timetable plan will be believed even by the "silent majority" he says exists and hopes will support him.

Fresh polling checks by Gallup suggest they may. But doubt about what any president says has now sunk deep roots in this country.

★ ★ ★

Critics who press Nixon to move faster, who say there is no plan unless it is theirs, do not know their man.

He is unlikely to yield. He thinks he has big backing. And he thinks he is right.

Agnew Fans Ap-paul-ed by Rumor of His Death

Millions and millions of adoring Spiro T. Agnew fans across the land are hoping and praying that the tragic rumor spreading like wildfire is baseless.

The rumor, of course, is that the beloved vice president has been dead for six months.

HOPPE

In order to prevent a leaderless nation from panicking, so the story goes, the administration has been using a stand-in to fill Agnew's speaking engagements — reportedly W. C. Fields Jr., son of the late, great actor and a chip off the old block.

★ ★ ★

Administration sources have, of course, vehemently denied the report. If the vice president were dead, said one top aide, he'd be the last to know.

But what has given the tragic rumor fresh currency is the plethora of hints in the recordings of Agnew's (or Fields') recent speeches — recordings that have been bought up and treasured by the nation's bereaved Agnew fans.

PREOCCUPATION

First of all, he has been solely occupied by "the Moratorium" (from the Latin root, "crematorium"). And let us take just one quote the Harrisburg, Pa., recording:

"We can, however, afford to separate them (the impudent snobs) from our society," the recording clearly says, "with no more regret than we should feel over discarding rotten apples from a barrel."

★ ★ ★

The apple is, of course, the symbol on Tarot cards for death by being crushed. And the rotten apple, naturally, is the symbol for a rotten death by being crushed.

Moreover, the apple is used to stuff the mouths of roast pigs. (Some see here a fantasy of the police gobbling up the impudent snobs.) Pigs being fat, many feel this proves Agnew met his demise when a huge Sumo wrestler fell on him during an exhibition match.

'FEARED A FAT JAP'

"I long ago feared a fat Jap would be the end of my career," he is reported to have cried in his last moments.

In any event, a University of Titusville professor, after scientific tests, has distinguished three different voices on the Agnew recordings — a comic voice during last year's campaign, a silent voice for the first nine months of this year, and a new strident voice recently — "with a whine," as he put it, "like a B42."

★ ★ ★

And a Decatur, N.J., girl claims that by playing the latest recording backward she can distinctly hear a voice from the grave saying, "I have here in my hand, heh-heh, DOCUMENT THAT SHOWS . . ."

Concern for the care of and protection of animals should be everyone's responsibility. However, the writer of a recent letter has been misinformed as to the law. Student Is Proud of Waterford Mott Teams

I am proud to say that I am a student at Waterford Mott High School. Our varsity football team boosted its record to four wins and four losses when it beat Waterford Township. All Mott students can be proud that we beat Waterford Township, along with Waterford Kettering, especially since this was the first year we played our closest rivals. Our junior varsity team deserves praise since it is undefeated in seven games. Mott is now the champion of Waterford Township.

Property Owners Must Stand Up for Rights

Waterford Township is having its troubles with the fury of the people about Township officials voting themselves raises, and schools on half-day sessions. Some official gave right-of-way for the construction of a drain pipe to run over property that was dedicated for use of those in the immediate community, and over a strip of land assigned for the use of only those in the plat it lies within.

The developer of apartments and single homes on 85 acres, 750 feet away, did not notify any of us of his intent. Now we of Williams Lake have to fight for our rights to have clean water for swimming and protection from pollution that can kill the fish and other wildlife. Let all who live near or on lakes band together and stand up for your rights as citizens and property owners.

BERRY'S WORLD—By Jim Berry

"Poor devil! He came out for cuts in defense spending, and the Pentagon closed his military base!"

Questions and Answers

(Q) I'm trying to find a young deodorized skunk for Christmas. I've called all pet shops in the area with no results. Can you help?

B.

(A) We can't, but the Conservation Department can. They have a list of people who handle such animals, and if you'll call 674-2261, they'll tell you whom to contact.

(Q) I've been staying with my brother and his wife since January, with my mother's agreement to send my share of Social Security checks. I haven't received a penny; though when I filed a claim, Social Security people said it would start coming in a couple of months. I've called many times, but no results. Why the delay?

D. R.

(A) You have changed residence since you first filed a claim, and that must be approved before transferring funds. They have explained this to you, so you know, too, that as soon as the transfer is approved, you will receive all you are due.

(Q) I've been trying to get into Fisher Body, because we can't afford to take our two girls to the eye doctor. I've heard you have to be a certain height and weight to work there. Is this true?

N. L.

(A) There are no height and weight requirements to work at Fisher Body, other than that they should be in relative proportion in keeping with health requirements. However, you'd probably have better luck looking elsewhere for work, because right now there are no openings for women, and they already have 4,000 female applications on file.

HE NEEDS BLOOD—David Park, 8, and his two brothers are the object of a massive blood drive at Key West, Fla., where hundreds of seamen from the Navy base are lined up to help keep the Park boys alive. All three boys are hemophiliacs.

3 Hemophiliac Brothers Aided

Sailors Answer Plea for Blood

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A Navy rescue operation has yielded 302 pints of blood for the three Park boys, and there's more where that came from.

The children are hemophiliacs, whose blood does not clot. A slight cut is enough to put them in the hospital.

* * *

Among them, Clifford Park, 16, and his brothers David, 8, and John, 4, have had more than 1,000 pints of blood transfusions this year.

The cost of the blood at $35 a pint plus the mounting hospital bills was becoming a burden to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Park, could no longer bear.

DROVES OF SAILORS

Word of their plight reached Navy men in the big Key West military complex, and on Thursday the sailors showed up in droves at a blood clinic run by the Hemophilia Foundation.

* * *

Little John was there to watch.

"He's fascinated watching the people draw out the blood," his mother said. "He's so used to seeing it go in."

"It's a wonderful sight," said Helen Wynne, president of the foundation. "They are arriving in sixes and tens."

"The commanding officers of the Fleet Sonar School called," Mrs. Park said. "He said half of his men had just been vaccinated and wanted to know if we would take donations in four weeks. We agreed."

$1,876 FOR 3 DAYS

When John Park was hospitalized three days in September it cost $1,876. His brothers also have made trips to the hospital. Mrs. Park estimated the bills at $30,000.

Their father makes $8,500 a year as an employe of the Office of Housing and Urban Development.

Subjects Give Queen Vote of Confidence

ELIZABETH

Queen Elizabeth II has received a one-sided vote of confidence from subjects who took part in a national opinion poll asking whether Britain needs her.

The London Daily Mail published the poll, which was in the queen's favor by 84 per cent to 16 per cent.

Among reasons cited why Britain needs the queen is that she is a source of tradition, pomp and pageantry, an aid to foreign relations and tourism and a bulwark of peace.

Those who thought the country could get along without her said she was powerless, obsolete and cost Britain too much money.

what is your potential?

When you think deeply about it from a religious standpoint, you begin to wonder — can anyone really measure man's potential, or put any limits on it? Can you measure God's love for His creation? No. But we can learn to let it mold and fill our lives. Hear this public lecture, "What Is Your Potential?" by JANE G. NY Mets Make Stage Debut

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Seven grinning, tuxedo-clad New York Mets turned song-and-gag men before a resort hotel audience—and scored a hit.

* * *

Not that baseball's world champions made a home run in their show business debut Thursday night. Their singing, loud and in unison, had hardly any harmony. Some punch lines got ragged delivery. Customers' comments afterward, ranged from "great" to "comical" and "You can't expect too much of them."

* * *

But storms of applause came from a capacity dinner audience of 1,100 eager to greet the Mets for what they are—incredible come-from-behind baseball heroes.

* * *

Outside their names shown in marquee lights along the resort-hotel strip, and in the casino no Met fever extended to New York baseball caps on the dealers.

$10,000 APIECE

The seven—Tom Seaver, Jerry Koosman, Donn Clendenon, Ed Kranepool, Tommie Agee, Cleon Jones and Art Shamsky—opened a two-week stand at Caesars Palace at $10,000 apiece.

* * *

The athletes were on a bill starring singer Jimmie Rodgers and comedian Jerry Van Dyke. The Mets appeared in a 27-minute act with comic Phil Foster, who introduced them.

* * *

A screen descended and color-film clips showed some of the Mets worst and best moments the past season—infield bobbles, outfield collisions and brilliant plays like catches by Agee and Jones.

* * *

Then, in a spotlight, with their team numbers on the backs of their tuxedo jackets, the Mets appeared. Sturdily they sang a special version of "Impossible Dream":

* * *

"And the game is much better for this

"That the Mets, scorned and laughed at—ha! ha!

* * *

"Still strove, with one last ounce of teamwork,

"To reach that unreachable star."

* * *

When they finished Foster shouted, "the Magnificent Seven!"

Long applause.

METS IN VEGAS—Seven members of the world champion baseball team, the New York Mets, make their stage debut at Caesars Palace last night before a sellout crowd. Nixon's Ho Contact Identified?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A teny who represented France at the funeral services in Hanoi for Ho.

MAJOR MOVE

In his Vietnam policy speech last Monday, President Nixon said that in mid-July he became convinced it was necessary to make a major move to break the deadlock in the Paris talks.

"I spoke directly with an individual who had known Ho Chi Minh on a personal basis for 25 years," said the President. "Through him I sent a letter to Ho Chi Minh."

* * *

Nixon said he did this outside the usual diplomatic channels with the hope it might lead to constructive progress in bringing the war to an end.

While there was no official confirmation that Sainteny is the man Nixon turned to for relaying his message to Ho, officials indicate Sainteny was approached by the administration in late July.

NOT FIRST TIME

The answer signed by Ho, which in effect rejected the peace bid, was received Aug. 30, only a few days before Ho's death was reported.

* * *

It was not the first time Sainteny had been used by a government to bridge the gap between Hanoi and the West.

* * *

When World War II ended, Sainteny was ordered to return to Indochina as soon as possible to reestablish French rule.

* * *

He was reported frustrated by what he considered a deliberate maneuver by the United States, Britain and Nationalist China to prevent the French return.

He has been quoted as writing, "At the present time the allied attitude is more harmful than the Vietminh (the independence movement)." It was during this period that Sainteny and Ho established a close friendship.

1946 ACCORD

Feb. 28, 1946, Sainteny and Ho signed an agreement under which France recognized the Republic of Vietnam as a free nation but still a member of the Indochinese Federation and the French Union.

Under the Sainteny-Ho accord 15,000 French troops in North Vietnam were to be relieved by native troops within a five-year period. France agreed to train and equip the Vietminh forces.

However, friction arose and by November 1946, fighting broke out that resulted in the Indochina war and the defeat of France.

Throughout the war Sainteny maintained that negotiations with the Vietminh could have brought an acceptable compromise.

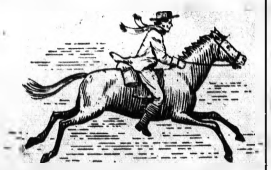
He served in North Vietnam as a delegate general for the French government from 1954-1957, in an effort to restore friendly relations between Paris and Hanoi. But when he left, he considered his mission a failure.

Attics Converted to Dormitories

Little-used attics are ideal locale for dormitories for school-age children. The conversion can largely be achieved by adding finishing materials to the existing structure and by using storage-type partitions such as bookshelves or clothing cabinets to provide separate study and sleeping areas for each child.

Spaced patterns of paneling are well adapted to remodeling projects of this type since they may be applied directly to existing walls or structures.

Some folks used to go two days' ride for a jug of Beam Bourbon.



Jacob Beam was a big, easy-smiling grain farmer who came through the Cumberland Gap in 1788 to homestead the fertile land now called Kentucky. And with the choicest grains from his harvest, Jacob made his own brand of Bourbon. Was it good? Everyone agreed it was the lightest, best-tasting Bourbon within a two days' ride. Today, you get that exact same taste with Jim Beam. Because for 175 years, we've made our Bourbon to the very same formula Jacob used. It's the Beam family art. Only one difference now. You don't have to ride a horse two days to get it. "World's finest Bourbon since 1795."

California Dems Look to 1970

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — California Democrats, hitting hard on the war and economy issues, launched a drive today to oust Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan and recapture control of the legislature in 1970.

* * *

The party's prospective candidates, statewide leaders and grass-roots representatives gathered for a two-day "Project '70" conference to devise the strategy for next year's campaign.

* * *

The highlight of the conference will be a panel discussion Saturday featuring the two major gubernatorial prospects, Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco and Jesse M. Unruh, Democratic leader of the state Assembly. Likely U.S. Senate candidates also will participate.

* * *

Bitterly split over the Vietnam war issue the past four years, the state's Democrats are unified on it now, said Leon Cooper of Los Angeles, southern California party chairman and conference leader.

'NOTHING NEW'

"I think the people have listened patiently in the President and he has conceded, I think, that he doesn't have anything new to offer," said Cooper.

* * *

"If he does not provide an end to American participation in Vietnam by next year, I think the Republican party is in trouble from the top down, and it will go all the way to the assembly districts."

* * *

Republicans hold all major state offices except attorney general and control the assembly by 41 to 39 and the senate 21 to 19. Democrats captured one U.S. Senate seat last year with the victory of Alan Cranston, the conference keynoter. This year they will be after Republican Sen. George Murphy.

* * *

Cooper said the conference would concentrate on picking vulnerable Republican legislators and pinpointing the issues that can win those seats to the Democratic side.

* * *

He admitted it would be difficult to defeat Reagan, elected in 1966 by nearly one million votes.

Ag Unit to Meet

VC Assault Saigon Outposts; Start of Winter Drive Feared

SAIGON (AP) — An estimated 100 Vietcong guerrillas assaulted government outposts defending Saigon early today for the first time in 18 months.

The shelling was the heaviest in more than two months. The South Vietnamese military commander for Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces said the sharply stepped - up attacks while other enemy forces made 68 rocket and mortar attacks across the country.

★ ★ ★

Most of the attacks were in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon or in the central highlands. Casualties included two Americans killed, six wounded, three Vietnamese civilians killed and 18 soldiers wounded.

Vietcong guerrillas attacked two outposts manned by South Vietnamese combat police on the southern fringe of Saigon with AK47 rifles and hand-fired rockets shortly after midnight. The posts are about a mile apart.

There apparently was no attempt to infiltrate into the city, as earlier reports had indicated; instead the mission was to destroy the outposts, and it did not succeed, although the posts were lightly defended.

One South Vietnamese combat policeman was killed and seven were wounded. The bodies of three barefoot guerrillas dressed in black pajamas were found alongside one of the posts. Five assault rifles and one rocket launcher were found nearby.

It appeared the Vietcong were local force guerrillas who live in the swamps on the southern edges of the city. The attack was typical of the Vietcong guerrilla warfare during the early 1960s.

Government forces made no apparent attempt to pursue the guerrillas, but outposts were reinforced.

Meanwhile, about 150 North Vietnamese soldiers attacked a South Vietnamese militia outpost 30 miles northwest of Saigon and six miles from the Cambodian border early today. Headquarters said 84 enemy soldiers were killed, 50 of them by American helicopter gunships and artillery, while South Vietnamese casualties were one killed and nine wounded.

Four Get $100 From Mystery Philanthropist

STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — He's dark-haired, in his 20s, probably bearded and driving a silver-green Pontiac. He gives away $100 bills.

Nobody knows why, except maybe the Indian, if he is an Indian, and he isn't telling.

★ ★ ★

It's a complete mystery to a college professor, a retired farmer, a service station attendant and a teen-age girl who got the bills.

"It's really weird," John Tackett, editor of the Stephenville Daily Empire, said Thursday. "We call him the Phantom Philanthropist."

4 GET GIFTS

The mystery gifts were bestowed on four persons Sunday, but the story only came to light after the recipients visited banks to check the legitimacy of the bills.

Larry Newlin, who pumps gas at a station in nearby De Leon, apparently was the first to catch the mystery man in his bountiful mood.

★ ★ ★

Newlin said the man gave him a $100 bill to pay for $6 worth of gas and told him: "You lucky boy, go ahead and keep the change."

Noting Newlin's dumbfounded look, the man added, "Go over there and see the Indian, and he'll tell you what this is all about."

'NO SAVVY'

Newlin said he approached the man indicated, who was standing near the service station, and asked him for an explanation.

"No savvy," was all the man would say.

★ ★ ★

"It looks like you're $100 richer," a banker told Dr. Robert Fain, a science professor at Tarleton State College, who says, "I've had another $100 worth of enjoyment telling about it."

Here's the story, as Fain tells it:

"I was sitting in my car downtown Sunday and my wife was in a phone booth. A car pulled up, and the fellow driving asked for directions to Dallas.

$100 FOR DIRECTIONS

"I gave him the directions and he said, 'I appreciate it very much. I'd like to give you something to show my appreciation.' He picked up a bill, rolled it up in a little roll and threw it out the window.

Fay Rainey, 15, said she and her sister were in Desdemona, north of Stephenville, when a man drove up, asked directions, then tossed a $100 bill out the window.

Hamilton Gaines, 81, a retired farmer, said he was walking across a highway when a man stopped his car, told him, "You're a nice looking old fellow. I like that smile," and handed him a $100 bill.

★ ★ ★

All but Fain described the phantom as bearded, good-humored and apparently sober. Fain was not certain of the beard.

Farm Prices Up

LANSING (AP)—The index of prices received by Michigan farmers on Oct. 15 was 267 per cent of the 1910-14 average, the same as for mid-September but up nine points from mid-October of last year. Higher prices for beef cattle and hogs plus smaller gains for corn, milk and wheat mostly accounted for the rise from a year ago, the State Crop Reporting Service said.

Internal Woes Belie Tough Soviet Talk

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny talked tough to the United States in his Bolshevik anniversary speech, but the impression remains that some influential men in the Kremlin want to ease Soviet-American tension. One big reason could be the Soviet economy.

* * *

News Analysis

is seeking to concentrate more energy and resources on domestic welfare and that this is causing some political difficulty.

* * *

The regime is pressured on the one hand by a hungry military-industrial complex and on the other by impatient reformers and the rising demands of Soviet consumers. If it is going to turn to internal problems effectively, the Kremlin must satisfy the military that there is no major threat to the security of the Soviet Union and the Communist bloc.

Seeming to reflect such pressure, Podgorny said Thursday that the talks on strategic arms limitation opening this month come at a time of urgent need for steps to end the momentum of the arms race.

"Huge resources spent on the arms drive could be transferred to peaceful means for increasing the welfare of the people of the world," he said.

* * *

Those expenditures also could place the Soviet Union in a better position for eventual concentration on political and economic competition with Americans around the world, rather than on a path of dangerous military competition. As of now, economic problems stand in the way of such a course.

* * *

Podgorny gave figures suggesting rising production in some fields, but also showing the gulf between the Soviet and U.S. economies.

Electric power production in 1969, he said, will reach nearly 690 billion kilowatthours, a good deal less than half the U.S. 1968 figure. He said the U.S.S.R. will produce about 329 million tons of oil. The U.S. 1968 figure was 110 million tons. U.S. 1969 production will be 25 million tons more.

LOWER OUTPUT

Soviet press figures for the first nine months indicate a motor vehicle production for 1969 of about 850,000, compared with a U.S. production of about 10 million.

Podgorny gave no specifics for agriculture or consumer production. He said farm production, despite unfavorable weather, was "not bad," and probably better than the 1961-65 annual levels. In those years in some cases production was so poor that Moscow had to turn to Canada and elsewhere for grain. Press comments on this year's outlook have been pessimistic.

Last month the Soviet press said nearly 30,000 industrial enterprises now operate on the "new system" begun in January 1966, and from these enterprises came 91 per cent of this year's "profits." The "new system" is a timid reform involving more local managerial discretion, incentive payments and cutting of costs, which means widescale firing of surplus labor. Despite good results, there is evidence of trouble in the obvious clashes with party doctrine.

* * *

Recently Mikhail Suslov, a hard-liner in the Politburo, growled in an article in the party journal Kommunist that reforms are permissible only within a strict framework of central planning. The suggestion is that there is a sharp division of opinion on how far economic reform can go.

* * *

The party is trying to increase local initiative and at the same time retain unquestioned central control. The two aims don't mesh. Almost two million Soviet planners at ministry and factory levels have stakes in the bureaucratic system. These inevitably get in the way of reform.

Gribbs to Take Rest; Blacks Seek Recount

DETROIT (UPI) — Mayor-elect Roman Gribbs, already plagued by an election's bitter aftertaste as a group of black businessmen say they'll seek a recount in the vote-casting that saw Gribbs slip by his Negro opponent, is leaving town.

Gribbs and his wife, Katherine, were to fly to the Caribbean today for a 10-day vacation.

* * *

What the 43-year-old attorney and Wayne County sheriff was ducking out on, at least temporarily, was action taken yesterday by the Rev. Raymond Shoulders, a spokesman for the 50-member Fenkell Businessmen's Association.

Shoulders, known as a moderate in the black community, charged that "a lot of suspicious things went on" in the 7,063 vote-defeat of Richard Austin by Gribbs.

'SOME HANKY-PANKY'

"We believe there was some hanky-panky in this election and we want it recounted," the Rev. Shoulders said. "I'm willing to put in the first $1,000 to get this thing off the ground."

The Baptist minister, who also owns a supermarket, said that in the primary election Austin, the 56-year-old Wayne County auditor, did well in 12 precincts but that his showing did not improve in the balloting Tuesday. "And it should have," Shoulders said.

However, John D. Smith, the city election director, poohhooed the Rev. Shoulders claim.

"I just don't go for this about hanky-panky," he said. "If he's talking about our machines down here, why, the man who controls our computers was an avowed Austin supporter."

* * *

The cost of a recount under Michigan law runs $5 a precinct. Austin would have to scrape out nearly seven votes in each of the city's 1,111 precincts to overturn the election.

Groves Student Has Good Look at Government

By MIKE WILSON

"One guy called up with clues to a murder case. I called up the police Commissioner's office, and the clues he gave me were eventually used in the trial, as direct evidence. Of course, we get a lot of crank calls, too."

The speaker is Groves student Steve Mintz, president of the Human Relations Club. He's talking about "City Hall Central," an Action Line-type organization designed to help make Detroit's City Hall more responsive to the average citizen.

* * *

Steve worked there full-time last summer, and works part-time now.

Sponsored by Detroit's Urban Corps, it is a community service manned by students from the Detroit and suburban area. Steve feels that he was lucky to get the job.

"Most of the kids are college students at either Wayne or Michigan State. I was the only one who was from a high school."

THEIR BRAINCHILD

City Hall Central is the brainchild of Dan Carlson, who heads the city's Urban Corps, and Saul Jacobsen, a staff member of the MDCDA (Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority.)

"I worked for Saul at the beginning of last summer on MDCDA. When he and Carlson got the idea of City Hall Central, Saul asked me if I'd like to join it, so naturally I said, 'yes.'

* * *

"It was really exciting. I got to meet all sorts of councilmen, and once, while attending a hearing on a sewage dispute, I got to talk to Councilman Mary Beck. She's really a nice lady; and I noticed that she was the only one at the meeting taking notes," said Steve.

* * *

The aim of the City Hall Central Staff is to serve the residents in the greater Detroit area in three ways:

- Compiling a comprehensive list of the available public services and agencies relevant to the problems of the Detroit residents.
- Making the public aware of these services.
- Answering residents questions, complaints, and emergencies through direct handling and referrals to these services and agencies.

To insure satisfactory handling of each complaint, said Steve, a follow-up system is implemented. This is to make sure every last detail has been conveyed to the complainer.

* * *

City Hall Central handles a multitude of things, said Steve. "We'll take care of anything from health, housing and legal affairs to birth certificates and traffic and transportation to places for the individually handicapped.

"The main difference between us and "Action Line" is that the newspaper column will handle things only that are interesting to the readers. We'll take care of anything."

When it started late last July, City Hall Central received about 100 calls a day. Now that figure is close to 300, which is more than enough to keep its ten phone operators busy.

* * *

"You don't get paid unless you're a college student," said Steve. "They get over $3 an hour."

4 From Abroad Attending Northern

By GARY SHERWOOD

The Youth for Understanding teen-age exchange program sent four foreign guests to Pontiac Northern this year through the International Club.

Udo Molinari came from Germany. He lives in northern Bavaria, just north of the "Equator of the white sausages."

* * *

"I came to the United States because I wanted to learn about the country, speak with the people and see how they are living and working," said Udo.

Upon arriving at Northern, he faced the same situation as any new student, he was lost! But he was found quickly and finds the Northern students friendly.

Udo plans to become an atomic physicist or work as an interpreter in Parliament of the United Nations. He enjoys swimming and hopes to join PNH swim team next semester.

For the first time, Northern has an exchange student from Finland. Her name is Merja Siira.

"School is much easier here," Merja stated. She likes the variety of classes because in Finland one does not have a large selection.

One difference she finds is that in her own country, students may wear whatever they wish to classes. "Parents are stricter here. In Finland," she explained, "teen-agers have much more independence."

FAVORITE SPORT

Marja's favorite sports are swimming and also she enjoys horseback riding. Before coming to the U.S., Merja had never eaten corn-on-the-cob. Now it is her favorite "American" food.

Niko Mlodenovic, just arrived at Northern last Monday. He's from Istanbul, Turkey. However, he says he's more Greek than anything else.

Niko says "teen-agers in Turkey are very disciplined in school and out of school, more so than in this country. The schools are about the same, only people walk here as if they were shopping."

* * *

He came to the U.S. to receive a better education and life. He says the subjects are on the same level in both countries, but the materials used there make it difficult at times.

FAVORITE FOODS

His favorite foods are salads and potatoes. Swimming is also his favorite sport. Niko was amazed at the size of Northern's pool and could hardly wait to get in. Other sports which interest him are soccer, volleyball and ping pong.

Another German student is Chris Shrimpf from Celle, near Hanover. He hopes to make architecture his career.

* * *

Chris enjoys having such a large subject choice. His favorite is chemistry.

Spirit at Adams Spirals at Final Football Rally

By PAT VOLL

Spirits were high, but there was a note of sentimentality, too, Friday afternoon during Rochester Adams High's pep assembly.

The Adams Highlanders were dressed for their last football game this season. The assembly was a tribute to senior members of the varsity and to coach Max Hasse. The cross country team and coach Al Geirke also were honored for outstanding performance in the state cross-country championships.

From the pep rally in the gym, students were led by the Adams cheerleaders to the football field for a ceremonial "burning of the Eagle bonfire." The Madison Eagles were the Highlanders final opponent.

BLACK HISTORY IN FOCUS

Students at Adams gained knowledge of American black culture and black history last week. George Norman, creator of the "Black Odyssey Exhibition," displayed and explained it.

Norman's intent, as he put it, was "to show the role of the Negro in history without separating it from the rest."

* * *

Norman, born in Detroit, got his idea for the display while teaching Sunday School and noticing the effectiveness of visual aids.

Norman always has been interested in the education of all people and in the contributions the black man has made, so he decided to enlarge his exhibit and take it to colleges and high schools.

Since then he has traveled throughout the country speaking and trying to enlighten people who have not known much of black culture.

Norman's exhibit constantly grows, and he is working on a series of slides that will be made available to interested teachers.

"Most exhibits are so cold and impersonal, so I try to make mine warm and friendly," he informed Adams students and faculty.

'SPIRIT WEEK'

This has been "Spirit Week" at Northern, climaxed by a sixth-hour pep assembly today to build up spirit for the annual Pontiac Central-Northern game.

Monday was class skit day. Skits were presented by each class in the morning and then judged by the pep club. The juniors went away with the prize.

* * *

Student clash day was Tuesday with students trying to clash as much as possible. Clubs were also asked to make signs which would be judged.

Wednesday, found the teachers with their old grubs on. It was "teacher dress-down day" with students coming to school dressed in Sunday best.

* * *

The death of Central's chief was mourned in yesterday's funeral. Students came dressed in black, mourning the death of Central's spirit.

Homerooms were judged today on how well they were decorated.

PJ Party Set for OLL Girls

By MICKEY SEETERLIN

"Don't forget your sleeping bag and popcorn," is the cry of the female portion of Our Lady of the Lakes' student body.

Tomorrow night, following 7:30 mass, OLL girls will be the guests of God's Mod Squad for a pajama party in the gym.

* * *

God's Mod Squad will prepare breakfast Sunday. Officers of the club are Colleen O'Malley, president; Nancy Wilke, vice president; Lucia Spanski, secretary; and Diane Sibel, treasurer. Sister Mary Richard is faculty adviser.

The Varisty Club is sponsoring a paper drive to help defray the cost of new bleachers. Anyone who has old newspapers or magazines to contribute may leave them at the school or contact the school and a Varsity Club member will pick them up.

* * *

A "Las Vegas Night" will be sponsored by the club Nov. 15, at the CAI building beginning at 7 p.m.

Walled Lake Game Fires Up Central

By JOANNE SANDERSON

Tonight's game against Walled Lake Western has been long awaited by many at Walled Lake Central.

To boost spirit, a committee was formed by Central's Student Council.

* * *

The committee met several times to decide just what it would do. After weighing the merits of many different ideas, the committee decided to hold a bonfire.

The bonfire, held yesterday, was jointly sponsored by the Varsity Club, Pep Club and the council.

All week a class competition was held to see who would have the honor of lighting the bonfire.

The voting was done by money being placed in canisters. Each class had a separate jar in which the class members could place their votes. The class with the most money by fourth hour yesterday won the honor.

During the bonfire, spirit was promoted by the cheerleaders and the pep band. Cider and doughnuts were sold by the Pep Club.

WLC students have distinguished themselves as able singers when Saturday the quartet won a place on the State Honors Choir.

The WLC students who participated were Ed McCallum, Don Hoffman, Jeanne Stafford and June Sanderson. This was a first for WLC.

Students are working on a project to try to save a life. A plea for help came from Mrs. John Collins for her sister-in-law, Mrs. Grzrna, who is in need of a kidney machine.

To purchase one she must have $3,000 or an equivalent amount of coupons. Students are collecting coupons.

She needs the machine eight hours daily, three days a week. It is used to purify the blood.

The coupons are being collected at the bookstore and will be forwarded to the Michigan Kidney Foundation.

'Arsenic, Old Lace' at Pontiac Catholic

By CRYSTAL BOOMER

Stars may be born tomorrow night and Sunday as Pontiac Catholic High presents "Arsenic and Old Lace."

* * *

Their nephew, Jonathan Brewster, portrays a murderer who tries his luck once again as he plots the death of his brother Mortimer.

Performances both nights begin at 7:45 in the gymnasium. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

BASKETBALL GAME

The Girl's Athletic Association sponsored a basketball game Wednesday between the freshmen and sophomore girls.

Junior Girls Puff to Victory at Troy

By MONA CLARKSON

Junior girls at Troy High School trounced the senior girls, 14-8, recently in a powder-puff football game.

Playing on the winning team were Joyce Harlukowicz, captain, Joan Schroeder, Claudia Schoonover, Maureen Burke, Beth Gordon, Lynn Faber, Laura Dunkelburger, Diane Danowski, Sandy Hilligoss and Holly Havrenak.

* * *

"It was a good, clean game," said Martha Russ, gym instructor, who, along with Clem Kolesar, started the idea of powder-puff football at Troy High last year.

Coaches were boys in the same grades as the girls who do not play football as an extracurricular activity. Flag football rules were used.

By RUTH SOMERS

"Go get 'em, kill, mug 'em" was heard by the crowds as the senior girls faced the juniors in their annual powder-puff football game Oct. 29. True to tradition, the class of 1970 stampeded the juniors, winning 14-8.

Senior Leslie Parker earned the title of most valuable player as she scored both touchdowns for the class of 70. Runner-up was Kim Driver.

Cheerleaders Rob Fiddler, Bill Murray, Jim Wilson, Doug Hubbard, Doug Izak, Casey Hamill, Larry Brower and Mark Buckley entertained the spectators during halftime.

The after-game victory celebration was held at Howard Johnson's where a round of cokes was ordered and coaches Dick Curran, Wally Alix and Dave Neubacher were toasted.

Sponsors for the game were Robert Balla and Vincent Ruggers.

The Daughters of the American Revolution award was presented to Anne Richards. Contending for the honor were Chris Clark, Anne and Kim Driver. The senior class nominated the contenders with the final choice made by the faculty.

Next week the yearbook Exodus will be sold for $6. This is the last chance to purchase it as no extra publications will be ordered for spring distribution.

Cocktails and Buffet

Newlywed Hansons Are Feted

By SHIRLEY GRAY

Newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ross Hanson (Frances Donohue) of Bloomfield Hills, were the guests of honor at a cocktail party and buffet last weekend given by Mr. and Mrs. W. Kent Barclay of Burning Bush in Bloomfield Village.

Hanson is a programming and distribution manager for Ford Division. Appropriately, the guest list looked like a registry of company management, among them Lee and Mary Iacocca, M. S. (Matt) and Jean McLaughlin, William and Blanche Benton, Donald and Jody Peterson, John and Liz McLean, Ted and Celia Rickard, William and Bobby Heller, John and Jean MacAuliffe, Lee and Eva Whiteman and Charles R. Beacham.

Earlier in the week, Frances, who is headmistress of Kingswood School, Cranbrook, was taken out to lunch at the Village Woman's Club by the Parents Council, Kay Barclay again masterminding the details.

The group's wedding gift was especially apt — a paperweight-size reproduction of a sculpture right outside Frances' office. It's "Young Girl Studying," the work of Pam Walsh, one-time student, now teacher-sculptor at Cranbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. William Horgan are really and truly going to have a housewarming, but how can there be a housewarming without furniture? The Horgans, who took over the former Maurice Barnett residence on Rolling Rock Drive in Bloomfield Hills in September, hoped to invite everyone in sometime in November.

But the new Scandinavian furniture they ordered last summer while visiting Mary's native England hasn't arrived yet!

Bloomfield Open Hunt Club's Annual Ball is Saturday. Let this be fair warning not to be late for dinner, with such treats in the hors d'oeuvre department as lox and cream cheese on bagels, smoked eel and, the main course, roast stuffed Cornish game hen with wild rice.

As if that weren't enough, dessert will be one of man's finest achievements, Baked Alaska.

That same evening, the past presidents of Bloomfield Hills Country Club will gather for their annual dinner.

Music Fit for a Prince

Yehudi Menuhin will play at a special Buckingham Palace concert celebrating Prince Charles' 21st birthday Nov. 14 with a 32-piece Menuhin Festival Orchestra. Also playing at request of Prince Charles will be Jaqueline De Pre, says Women's Wear Daily.

OU Presents Long-Hair in Musicum Performance

By JUNE ELERT

Oakland University's Collegium Musicum, an aggregation of 30 instrumentalists and singers, mostly students, will move into Dodge Hall on the campus Monday to present its first concert of the year.

★ ★ ★

What kind of music would you expect to hear from a Collegium Musicum? Director Lyle Nordstrom explained that the name is appropriate to "a university ensemble that plays music that was composed before 1700."

★ ★ ★

It seems appropriate also to the classical Greek and Latin education of the Renaissance period which produced the composers whose works will be heard.

★ ★ ★

John Dowland was an Irish lute player who lived in London, composed art songs, traveled in Europe and was official musician at the courts of Denmark and Charles I of England.

★ ★ ★

William Byrd was a court chapel organist who composed a deal of keyboard music, motets and psalms as well as some madrigals and other secular melodies.

★ ★ ★

Orlando Gibbons was educated at Oxford and Cambridge. He was organist at Westminster Abbey for a time and composed in much the same forms of music as the others, for keyboard instruments and voice.

KING HENRY VIII

Many other composers will be represented, but topping the list, by familiarity of his name at any rate, is Henry VIII, who was, according to Nordstrom, "a pretty good composer" in addition to his better-known attributes and detractions.

Nordstrom arrived at OU in August, fresh from a year of directing the early music program at Stanford University, where he also took his MA and DMA degrees.

★ ★ ★

He's a young fellow of 26, married and the father of a 2-year-old-girl. His wife, Patricia, is also an early-music fan and plays with the group. Their daughter's efforts on a plastic recorder are so far limited to playing at home.

★ ★ ★

Nordstrom had a go at rock 'n' roll at one time, even to the extent of doing a recording with John Sebastian, a former member of the "Lovin' Spoonful."

★ ★

Long sideburns are the only visible clue to a leaning which disappeared because he says, "I found early music much more alive, much more challenging than the things the rock groups were doing then. I do think some of the music they're putting out now is better though — has more to it."

★ ★ ★

Nordstrom has a collection of the fascinating instruments of the Renaissance period. These are not, unfortunately, antiques, but have been made within fairly recent times according to the original designs.

★ ★ ★

They are rarely used now in orchestration, though Nordstrom says they do appeal to some modern composers for the clarity of their tone.

CRUMHORN

Some were originally military instruments, like the shawm, which may be as long as nine feet and was the predecessor of the modern oboe. Others, equally unfamiliar, include crumhorns, kortholt and sackbutts.

★ ★ ★

The program will be given by a number of small vocal groups and a variety of instrumental ensembles.

★ ★ ★

"Music from Renaissance England" will begin at 8 p.m. Admission is free.

Owe Loyalty to Boss; Follow Only His Orders

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am secretary to the owner of a small but successful business and have been for some time. I handle all the bills.

Recently my boss' wife called and asked me to send the office telephone bill home. She said her husband had unjustly accused her of making several costly long distance calls from the office and she wanted the bill to prove that she had not. Naturally I sent the bill to her.

Here's the hitch. My boss has had a girlfriend for several years. She lives out of town and I know that he makes many long distance calls to her. (He doesn't know that I know about her.) I don't know if his wife suspects anything. She is a lovely woman. (His wife.)

★ ★ ★

Well, today my boss said, "If my wife asks for the phone bills again, please don't give them to her!" No further explanation.

What am I supposed to do now? I can't ignore the wife's requests. And I can't tell her that her husband doesn't want me to send the phone bills to her. I am Very Truly Yours,

IN A QUANDARY

DEAR IN: You are working for HIM—not HER. And no secretary who is as sharp as you appear could be so naive as to send the office telephone bill home to the boss' wife without first consulting the boss. It's almost as though you wanted his "lovely" wife to catch him in something.

Don't take orders from anyone but your boss again, or for Christmas you're apt to get your walking papers.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: What ever happened to all those nice thoughtful ladies who used to offer their mailmen a glass of ice-cold lemonade in the summer, and a cup of hot steaming chocolate in the winter?

Even a glass of ice WATER would be nice, and it surely wouldn't break up anyone's budget. Would it now?

WALKING DRY

DEAR WALKING: Those "nice, thoughtful ladies" were our mothers and grandmothers, most of whom are gone now. You're right. It wouldn't break up anyone's budget, but it's not the money—it's the time that most homemakers are reluctant to spend. With all the new-fangled time-saving devices at milady's fingertips today, she seems to be too "busy" for the old-fashioned courtesies. Doesn't make much sense, does it?

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: In nearly nine years of marriage, my husband has rarely told me he loves me. Yet I know he does. How do I know? Let me count the ways:

He appreciates my efforts as a wife, mother and homemaker. Although he doesn't tell me in so many words himself, he brags me up to others. He never corrects me in public. He doesn't drink or gamble or make me jealous by being too attentive to other women in my presence.

★ ★ ★

When he's wrong, he says, "I'm sorry." When I'm wrong, he doesn't remind me of it over and over again. He never says MY house or MY children — always "OURS."

I could go on and on. So what if he finds it difficult to put into words what he feels? There are many men to whom words come easily, but they are only "words."

★ ★ ★

My man has trouble articulating what he feels, but he expresses his feelings more eloquently by what he does.

If women would stop nagging their husbands by asking, "Do you love me?" and pay attention to how their men TREAT them, they wouldn't have to ask. They would KNOW.

Sincerely,
"LOVED" IN LOUISVILLE

Couple Nail Rubinstein, Retailer, in Hard Case

Mrs. F. Louis Niederhofer and her dentist husband (he claimed medical expenses and loss of Mrs. N's services) got $30,000 for her fingernails . . . not just the tips but all 10 down to the base. Women's Wear Daily says a jury ruled in her favor and against Helena Rubinstein and McAlpin's Department Store when the Cincinnati woman charged that HR's strong and long fingernail hardener, bought in 1966, caused her nails to fall off.

To make matters worse, she reported, they fell off again after they had grown back. The product has since been taken off the market.

Out of Work

Met Stars Keep Busy

By STANLEY JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Anna Moffo claims she's boffo in the nude.

Leontyne Price says her closets have never been cleaner.

Thomas Schippers says he's done things he wouldn't have gotten around to until he was 90.

And patrons of the Copacabana may not know it, but seven of those swingers in the night-club orchestra are members of the Metropolitan Opera.

* * *

These are just some of the things top performers at America's most prestigious music theatre are doing to make money or kill time since a dispute over pay prevented raising of the great golden curtain Sept. 15 and has kept it lowered ever since. The opera house is burdened by a $3.5 million deficit from last year and faces a still bigger one.

* * *

With the Opera House at Lincoln Center closed, Miss Moffo went to Italy to star in "A Story of Love" in which she plays a nude bedroom scene.

ART FILM

The Pennsylvania-born soprano does no singing, but she told reporters here, "it is, indeed, an art film." In it she plays a young wife and mother who attempts suicide after an adulterous affair.

After a trip to California, she said, it's back to Italy to make another film.

* * *

Miss Price, who was once a maid in Meridian, Miss., put her early training to good use.

"I've cleaned out all my closets and moreover, I'm having my house painted inside and out," she said.

Conductor Schippers said "I've been able to do things I might not have gotten around to until I was 90, such as going through my music library."

* * *

Schippers said he had also used his enforced idleness to draw up programs three years in advance for the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra which he is scheduled to begin conducting next year.

Not everyone has been so lucky.

BORROW MONEY

"Practically everyone I know has borrowed money," said chorus singer Charles Kuestner. For seven weeks the Met, through court action, blocked payment of $65 a week from the State Compensation Board.

* * *

"Employers lose interest when they find out you work for the Met," he added, "because they know you'll go back to it when it reopens."

Dame Alicia Markova, fed up with forced inactivity, asked for and was granted release from her contract as head of the opera's ballet Oct. 30. Two of her dancers, Sylvia Grinvale and Judith Thelen, have joined the corps de ballet at Radio City Music Hall.

* * *

Seven players from the orchestra are working at the Copa.

But like all the rest, from stars to chorus, they want to get back to the Met.

Wear a Wig? Take Care of Own Hair

Wig wearers beware!

While there is nothing harmful about wearing a wig, there are some precautions that should be taken.

A hat worn constantly or a wig worn all day every day can prevent your scalp and hair from "breathing." It's the kind of confinement that can make your own hair dull looking and unmanageable.

Utilize your wig for special occasions or for emergencies, but let your own hair see the light of day too. When you remove your wig, shake out your own hair and brush it lightly.

Wig wearers should shampoo their own hair more often because of the increased perspiration under the wig. Gentle baby shampoo is recommended for frequent shampooing because it doesn't dry out the hair and leaves it shiny and manageable. Make sure that your wig fits properly. If it's too tight it will tend to make your hair mat — and give you headaches.

Why Grow Old?

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Mothers with small children are likely to think that they never have time for exercise, but there are more available moments than you realize. Why not use them for health and fun?

* * *

If you live in a city, you can do some isometric exercises while you ride the elevator and your children are doing their thing, hanging from the hand rail or jumping up and down. You can also do isometrics while sitting in a bus or subway, waiting for an appointment, sitting at a desk or on a park bench.

* * *

When you take your small fry to the park, walk about awhile before subsiding on one of the benches. Also, don't be self-conscious about unobtrusively climbing a couple of rungs on the jungle gym or hanging from the monkey bars. I know one young mother who goes down the slides at least six times.

* * *

One reader claims that merely by walking up four flights of stairs to her apartment, twice a day, she maintains legs strong enough to keep up with many an 18-year-old. Beside that, she claims that walking is faster than waiting for the overrushed elevator. She then substantiated her claims by taking a stiff mountain-climbing trip with her husband.

* * *

The stair-climbing idea is especially interesting because some time ago there were some studies which indicated that women who live in two-story houses rather than one-story dwellings are less subject to coronary and vascular troubles because of the extra exercise. If you live in an apartment house, walk up a few flights several times a day. Keep your back erect and let your thigh and leg muscles do the work.

* * *

You can shift an ounce or two from your tummy to your calf by taking advantage of every opportunity for exercise while going about your daily activities. Climb the stairs. Walk when doing errands!

* * *

If you live in the suburbs, it is often better for everyone to drive to a nearby park rather than tumbling over one another in the back yard. There the mother can walk and even jog for a few minutes, and like the city mother, sneak a few moments on the exercise equipment. A game of tag with your children is one of the quickest and most enjoyable ways to stir up circulation.

* * *

Try a stretch kitchen! Think of those articles on the high shelves as a blessing rather than a curse. Feel the pull on the waistline and the diaphragm and under the chin. Keep your knees slightly relaxed so that you do not assume a swayback posture. The activities I have mentioned today do not require extra time but will add up to a bonus in good looks and health.

Americans Lag Behind in Beef Eating

WASHINGTON (AP) — Latest world export figures show consumer demand for red meat has no national boundaries among countries able to afford it, but some authorities say the trend can't continue forever.

The Agriculture Department says in a new report that higher beef prices in the United States were largely responsible for the export surge. Last year U.S. meat imports totaled 2.1 billion pounds, compared with 1.9 billion in 1967.

But American hunger for more meat has not been the whole story. Per capita consumption in two-thirds of the 39 countries surveyed has risen above the average of four years ago.

The department's new yearbook issued last week says that by the year 2000 Americans will be eating 192 pounds of meat each per year.

The estimate may be conservative since last year U.S. per capita consumption was 183 pounds, compared with 142 only 20 years earlier.

And Americans last year were fifth behind New Zealand 224 pounds; Argentina 220; Uruguay 218; and Australia 204 pounds.

The statistics tend to support arguments that as countries become more affluent their people eat more meat, either from local production or imports.

Agriculture Department experts seem optimistic about the capabilities of American farmers to meet future food demands. The 1969 yearbook says, for example, that by the year 2000 farm production will be twice what it was in the mid-1960s.

"This will be accomplished with around half the work force, somewhat more land, and possibly two to three times the volume of nonfarm resources that were used in the mid-sixties," the yearbook said.

Tempest in Bra Cup Uplifting Men's Eyes

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — There's an "uplift" quality even in the no-bra look. It uplifts the eyes of men from the hemline to the bosom — fashion's current erogenous zone.

Yet this new phase of the "freedom in dress" trend does have its drawbacks. Only about half the female population can play. The other half just isn't built for the game.

They will simply have to "dream they went bra-less" in their Maidenforms.

Is the bra about to join the fashion limbo?

* * *

"Certainly not," said Babette Bardot (cousin of Brigitte), who has just been named "Miss Bra America."

Miss Bardot doesn't wear a bra on her job. She is said to be America's highest-paid stripper. But when she's not working she belongs to the pro-bra contingent. After all, she measures in at 44-26-36.

The no-bra look, like every passing fad since the mad mod scene, is aimed at the "little girl" figure. But, sadly, women who shouldn't indulge will.

And now we will be treated not only to beach-ball knees under flirty skirts but neat jersey tops pushed out of shape by twin bulges a few inches above the navel.

The small-bosomed lass can look attractive without a bra. The purpose of a bra is to control and mold and if your figure is perfect to begin with, molding you don't need.

But even the girl with a bosom that's nonexistent to all points and purposes in fashion needs a little molding. And the big gal needs a lot of it.

* * *

There are reasons why the entire feminine world won't clutch the bra rebellion to its collective breast.

Gravity is its toughest enemy. If you wear larger than an A-cup you won't achieve the comfort from bralessness which is claimed to be its greatest asset. That downpull isn't going to be a joy. In addition, many doctors claim it will strain muscles.

* * *

Clothes are enemy No. 2. Designer clothes, except for a few see-through evening things and some at-home wear aren't made to be worn without a brassiere.

* * *

Award-winning designer Leo Narducci, said, "We don't make clothes that stand up in corners any more. So we can't make bras that stand up in corners any more, either. I don't think 'No-Bra' means NO BRA. It just means a new body awareness."

Dr. Michael C. Kozonis, chief cardiologist at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, will present a half-hour lecture accompanied by screen illustrations, at the Nov. 10 meeting of the Pontiac Area Hammond Organ Society. Members may bring guests to the event in the Downtown Grinnell's store on South Saginaw Street.

Mrs. Janecek Is Niblick President

Mrs. William Janecek was elected president of the Niblick Golf League for 1970. Elections were held at the annual luncheon recently in the Elks Temple.

Others elected were: Mesdames Lynn D. Allen, vice president; Hunter Bazzell, secretary, Donald A. Murphy, treasurer.

Life memberships were awarded to Mrs. Fred Sytz and Mrs. Harold Stankster.

A charitable donation was voted and plans for the Christmas party completed. It will be held at the Elks Temple Dec. 16 and will host the golf and bowling leagues.

Polly's Pointers

Life's Brighter Now

DEAR POLLY — Like Barb, I had touble dyeing articles satisfactorily but the new liquid dyes work beautifully in my washing machine. I use HOT water, pour in the dye, mix thoroughly BEFORE putting in the article. Let it go through the full wash cycle twice. Do NOT let is rinse in between. After running through the wash cycle twice, I use three cold-water rinses or until the water runs out clear.

* * *

I have even dyed things as large as bedspreads. When re-washing, use a cold-water detergent and wash the dyed article separately from the other wash. A small amount of dye is sure to wash out but not enough to hurt the looks of the item.—LUELLA.

* * *

DEAR POLLY — When you finish dyeing and rinsing anything, put it in cold water with a handful of salt to set the color. I also soak things I buy that might fade in cold water with salt.—JUDY

* * *

DEAR GIRLS — There are those who scoff at the idea of using salt to set the color but I do it. Annie has a good suggestion in her letter where she warned against letting water from the faucet run onto the recently dyed article while rinsing. Fill the container being used and then put in the garment. This is when the job is being done in a big pan or tub and not in the washer.—POLLY

* * *

DEAR POLLY — Do a kindness to little children and invalids by not sending them cards decorated with little crystal grains, loose tinsel or fiberglass. It is almost impossible to brush these particles off bed clothes. If one has sensitive skin, they can cause itching.—MRS. J. E. S.

POLLY'S PROBLEM

Specter of Poverty in Old Age Lingers

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A lot of middle-aged Americans are living with a comforting illusion.

They think social progress is rapidly eliminating the specter of poverty in old age.

They are wrong.

* * *

A projection by the Senate Committee on Aging indicates that a substantial majority of the Americans who retire in 1980 will be living on pension incomes well below any reasonable standard of adequacy.

Specifically, the projection shows 86 per cent of retired couples will be trying to get along, 11 years from now, on less than $5,000 a year. Three-fourths of them will be making do on less than $4,000 a year, and half will be below the official poverty line of $3,000 a year.

NOT BRIGHT FUTURE

For a couple now in their 50s, that isn't a very bright picture of what the future holds.

Another projection shows how pension income in 1980 will compare with the preretirement earnings of the people affected.

About three-fourths of the men who are living in retirement in 1980 can expect to have total pension income, from government and private sources, amounting to less than half their preretirement earnings.

What this means, in practical terms, is that the average couple will have to cut its living standard in half the day the wage earner retires—unless they have managed to lay aside a fair amount of money in savings, securities or annuities.

FEW ARE WILLING

Only a very small percentage of American families are able or willing to save enough during their years of peak income to make a significant difference in their economic security after retirement.

The committee on aging headed by Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., sees three ways to make the picture a little brighter for people now in middle age.

* * *

First, it says, there must be substantially higher Social Security payments, financed by higher payroll taxes during the working years.

Second, government and private employers need to reconsider and perhaps reverse policies which now encourage people to retire early on reduced savings during the years when he is earning a good income.

Third, the government may need to stimulate saving by selling bonds which would have a guaranteed constant purchasing power. In other words, the income from such bonds would be increased automatically as the cost-of-living index rises.

Whether the government will do any or all of these things in time to help those who are now middle-aged is a debatable question.

* * *

Executions Debated

Murder Up in Britain

LONDON (UPI) — A government report disclosed today a growing number of murders since Britain abolished capital punishment. It offered statistical ammunition for both sides in the debate on whether to bring back the death penalty.

The report said, for example, that since Britain experimentally abandoned the penalty in 1965, there has been a sharp rise in the number of murders that would previously have qualified the murderer for hanging. There were 10 such murders in 1964 and 26 in 1968.

* * *

However, it said that increase continued a trend that had begun back in 1962. And it noted that, over-all, the risk of being murdered in England or Wales is the same today as it was 10 years ago — three chances in a million.

* * *

Britain abolished the death penalty in 1965 for a five-year experimental period. That law will expire and hanging will come back into force July 31, 1970, unless parliament renews the law. The forces pro and con already have begun marshalling their arguments in televised debates and newspaper columns.

Math Program to Be Repeated

LANSING (AP) — The State Board of Education has scheduled a repeat demonstration of a method of teaching youngsters from an inner city school advanced mathematics. The demonstration, by youngsters from the Myra Jones Elementary School in Detroit, will be held next Wednesday morning in the law building auditorium at Lansing.

The board said many legislators ,board members and staff members of the State Education Department missed a previous demonstration, held Oct. 28, because of previous commitments.

More than 650,000 cars were stolen last year.

City Schools, GM Sponsor High School Equivalency Classes

Some 163 employes of three General Motors plants in Pontiac are taking advantage this fall of a GM-Pontiac School District-sponsored high school equivalency program.

The new program, General Educational Development (GED), is geared to those who have not completed high school. It covers two 15-week semesters with class attendance one day a week for each class.

* * *

Pontiac Motor Division, Fisher Body Division and GMC Truck and Coach Division are participating in the program, and offer classroom space.

A GED student may take one, all, or a combination of the four classes offered — English, history, math and social studies.

QUALIFICATION FOR TEST

When he completes the classes, the student may take a GED test to qualify for certification considered by many employers and colleges as equal to a high school diploma, according to Tom Everitt, supervisor of Pontiac Schools Adult Education and coordinator of GED program.

Pontiac Motor and Fisher Body each offer eight classes within their plants, scheduled so employes may take the classes just before or just after their work shifts.

* * *

The classes at these two plants are open only to employes because of plant restrictions.

Truck and Coach offers its 12 GED classes at St. Frederick's Catholic Church during the day and at Washington Junior High School in the evening, also coordinating classes with shift schedules.

OPEN TO ANYONE

These classes are open to anyone because they are outside the plant.

Although GED tests are given monthly by Oakland Community College, which serves as the local testing bureau, the tests will be brought to the GED classes at the end of each semester, Everitt said.

* * *

There are 89 employes enrolled in the Truck and Coach classes; 29 in the Pontiac Motor classes and 45 in the Fisher Body classes.

Besides thhe classes for the three plants, Pontiac Schools Adult Education also offers four classes at the Hayes Jones Community Center and at Jefferson Junior High School, where 10 and 15 persons are enrolled, respectively.

* * *

Teachers for the GED program are all certified by the state and the classes are operated with state funds gained through the regular state aid formula used for public day school.

Armed Forces Waste Millions on Blueprints

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The armed forces are wasting millions of dollars a year on architectural blueprints.

The money goes down the drain because expensive designs are modified after the plans have been drawn, or because the facilities are never actually built.

* * *

No one knows exactly how much is squandered annually in this way. But a recent spot check by the General Accounting Office (GAO) indicates it is, in the GAO's term, an "important" sum of money.

* * *

GAO auditors checked 72 construction projects undertaken by the armed forces during fiscal years 1965-67. The engineering and design costs of these projects totaled $6.7 million.

'LOST EFFORT'

Of this, GAO found, about $2.6 million was wasted on "lost effort."

For example, naval officers at Lemoore Air Station in California decided that they couldn't get along with an evaporative air-conditioning system which had already been designed, at a cost of $15,000, for a new aircraft maintenance hangar. They demanded and got a new set of plans for a refrigerated air-conditioning system.

* * *

At Lackland Air Force Base in Texas, plans were drawn up for bachelor officers quarters in three one-story buildings. Then authorities decided to put up a large building with a high-rise design.

After $56,757 had been expended on the revised plans, it was discovered that the high rise building could not be constructed within Defense Department cost limitations. The revised plans had to be scrapped.

'CAN'T GO THERE'

At the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School at Monterey, Calif., an academic building was "resited" after plans were 75 per cent completed.

The superintendent of the school insisted that the location of the building be changed in order to preserve an arboretum and cactus garden. Cost of wasted plans: $65,000.

* * *

Another major cause of waste, GAO said, is that the armed forces frequently draw final blueprints for proposed buildings before Congress has approved their construction.

Among the 72 projects reviewed were nine in which completed designs had to be shelved because Congress refused to vote money for their construction. The wasted design effort cost the taxpayers $650,000.

Phone Firm Tolled Off by Virgin Islands

ST. THOMAS, V.I. (AP) — The Virgin Islands Public Service Commission has decreed a series of regulations designed to aid citizens in their frequent disputes with the Virgin Islands Telephone Co.

The new regulations, announced yesterday, were denounced by the company as extreme. William Tresselt, vice president and general manager, declared: "No telephone company anywhere in the world operates under such regulations. I doubt if any company could."

Among the targets of the telephone company is a rule giving a subscriber a credit of $3 a day for each day beginning the third day after service is interrupted through no fault of the subscriber.

In other words, if a person's telephone malfunctions and the company does not fix it within two days, the user begins to collect from the company at the rate of $3 daily.

GM: No New Chevy Office Set for Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. says "There are no plans for construction of a new Chevrolet Division central office building in Detroit in the forseeable future."

Earlier, John Z. DeLorean, general manager of Chevy, told a newsman that "we are looking at the possibility of building somewhere within a couple of blocks of" GM's present headquarters in Detroit.

Who's right?

* * *

"This statement (the denial) came from the top," said a GM spokesman. "That's all I can say."

'OVERCROWDED'

"We are grossly overcrowded," in the present quarters, DeLorean was quoted as saying.

"We have some departments in five different places and that's very inefficient," DeLorean said.

* * *

Chevrolet, largest of GM's domestic car divisions, is the only without a new or modernized headquarters. It is currently housed in a five - story annex in the rear of GM's central office building in Detroit's New Center area.

Drug Trip: A Costly Way to Travel

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first in a three-part series on drug abuse.)

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

The drug "trip" is probably one of the most expensive go-now, pay-later packages on the underground market today.

MISS BENAVIDES

In terms of health, it has been known to take lives. The legal penalties also are severe.

Whether it is heroin, marijuana, or some other substance, federal and state law control all activities (importing, receiving, producing, selling, giving away, possessing).

First offense for possession in a federal court may be punished by 2 to 10 years imprisonment with a fine of $20,000, second by 5 to 20 years and further offenses by 10 to 40 years.

WHY SO APPEALING?

Why then is it so appealing to "trip" even while medical researchers list the dangers in tampering with this Pandora's box?

And, if a young person refutes the medical studies, how can he ignore the legal repercussions?

★ ★ ★

In one respect, perhaps, the Drug Age is the inevitable child of a booming society bent on finding more ways to make life easier.

"You take a car so you won't have to walk, you turn on the TV so you won't have to think, and you drop acid (take LSD) to feel good—everything's done for you today," said a 23-year-old.

NURSED GENERATION

"We are seeing the effects of a generation nursed on the medicine cabinet," says Dr. Russell Smith, medical director at Maxey State Training School for Boys near Ann Arbor.

Considering that the parents rely on tranquilizers, aspirin, pep pills, vitamins—pills for every ill, mental and physical—it's no wonder their offspring face their problems the same way, according to Dr. Smith.

★ ★ ★

Twenty years ago the common cold was called just that. The doctor told his patient to go home, crawl into bed and drink plenty of orange juice, Dr. Smith recalled.

Today the same malady is diagnosed as psychosomatic, and the doctor gives you a tranquilizer.

EASY TO FIND

According to Dr. Smith, studies indicate that the majority of young people take their first trip on prescription medications available in their own home.

★ ★ ★

"It's easy. The kids just go in and take a bottle of pills off the bottle-packed shelves, knowing that mom and dad will never miss it.

"Others just take the prescription refill and march over to the neighborhood drugstore," he said.

COMPLICATED ANSWER

The answer to resolving the abusive drug problem is as complicated as the spectrum of offenders.

For example, the ghetto youth resorts to drugs to escape his environment, while the teenager from the wealthy suburb takes them as a form of rebellion, experts explain.

A college student shoots "speed" (amphetamine) to stay awake for final-exam week because he worries of flunking out. Another 20-year-old trips on acid in hopes of flunking his medical exam for the draft.

For the drug user, there is no past or future, only immediate relief, which he gets by taking drugs.

'CHEMICAL CRUTCH'

While the physical health hazards are high, most doctors basically are concerned with the younger generation's inability to face reality without this "chemical crutch."

Drug use is merely a symptom of other problems, which, if they could be faced and solved would be the greatest defense against such use, according to Mrs. Andrew Goldstein, a case worker from the Oakland County Catholic Social Services.

"At 17 or 18 a young person is trying to find himself. In doing so he must step out of the family shadow and start assuming the responsibility for making decisions," she added.

But the initial flight for freedom is neither always successful nor enjoyable. The growing process often is painful.

In the treatment of drug users, medical authorities urge individual physicians to do more than once was thought to be enough, namely, merely create a drug-free environment.

Instead, doctors are being urged to give the user a drug-free life as well as proving to him that his life is better off without drugs.

(NEXT: What motivates the young.)

Removal of an Elm Trees Neighborhood

By DICK SAUNDERS
Managing Editor, The Pontiac Press

We have affectionately tagged our backyard "Tornado Alley."

All was peace and serenity until the state started messing with our foliage and the local lumberjacks arrived.

★ ★ ★

SAUNDERS

Last June someone from one of those state bureaucracies did some artwork on our giant elm. He does divine work in yellow circles — the kind that signify a diseased tree which must be removed.

We hired our lumberjacks on some good recommendations from friends.

ANYTHING IN SIGHT

From that moment on it's been a nightmare. Our lumberjacks are adept at hitting anything in sight.

The first branch was dropped across my utility lines, ripping them and half the siding from the back of my house. For an encore they sheared my two small fruit trees in half, knocked my neighbor's wires down and demolished a portion of his cyclone fence.

★ ★ ★

The lumberjacks left, and I didn't hear from them for a month. A phone call to the head man produced some results.

He entered the hospital with a nervous condition.

His "crew" reappeared on the scene late Monday.

PLUNGE INTO DARKNESS

They promptly dropped another monster limb across my wires, ripping them from the house and plunging us again into darkness.

The Consumers Power Co. crew arrived. The scene was unbelievable: In the darkness of evening, linesmen climbing all over my house trying to install a new cable; lumberjacks still hacking away at old giant elm.

★ ★ ★

Suddenly two carloads of Pontiac Police converged on the scene.

My wife ran out the font door shouting, "I'm sorry I parked so close to the corner, but there's no place left to put the car!"

WHAT CAR?

"What car?" One officer replied. "We were told the house was dark and some people were trying to break in."

Wednesday the lumberjacks returned. This time they again ripped the wires from my neighbor's house and further contributed to the demolition of his fence.

★ ★ ★

Now it's getting so the kids are standing around taking bets on what else our trusty lumberjacks can find to demolish.

Who knows what tomorrow will bring?

I'm beginning to feel like I'VE got Dutch elm disease.

Army Docs Bare His Flaws

He's Got a Fizz-ique

By TIM McNULTY

"Strip to your shorts and shoes," he yelled.

Oh what a great equalizer of all men, I thought. What other organization besides the United States Army could bring out the sameness of humanity?

McNULTY

I thought that until I realized I was the only one wearing boxer shorts.

I was sure not everyone taking preinduction physicals that day last week was laughing at me, though, in my slightly paranoid state, I detected a couple of snickers.

WHY WASTE TIME?

They all look so healthy, I said to myself. Why should I waste Army doctors' time? Why can't I go back to my typewriter and watch my pouch pooch some more?

They weren't ready yet for my faultless logic, so I lined up with the rest of the herd.

★ ★ ★

At the first of 15 checkup stations, they drew blood. I don't think the private cared what kind of liquid the needle sucked out — as long as it was reasonably dark red.

(I wondered how he would fare if I put a log on the arm rest.)

With clenched teeth, I moved on to the doctor's review station. Some apathetic healer listened to my tale of woe. I recounted to him my early traumas, my contagious bronchial diseases and the possibility of a recurring attack of beriberi.

He made a notation and passed me on.

UNSEEN EYE TEST

I wasn't sure I had taken the eye test until a corporal said, "Your vision's 20-20." If there was an eye chart, no one bothered to point it out.

Later, the line moved to a large drafty room where all the healthy bodies began to squat and jump up and down on their ankles. All the boys laughed nervously. I watched in terror. My ankles are surely as weak as my eyes.

★ ★ ★

Hobbling to the next station, some soldiers ordered us into an airtight hearing test room. Someone gave instructions how to press the button when you heard a noise and then he shut the door.

I yelled out "What?" and made everyone's hearing score 20 decibels lower.

COUGH DROPPED

Later, it came to that point; the doctor asked me to cough. I let out with a long, low bronchial - asthmatic wheeze.

Looking a little incredulous, the doc passed me on.

Finally, they let us dress.

The doctors told me I was a "Reject." One of the young healthy bodies toddled up. "Gee, that's too bad," he said.

"Yeh, that's too bad," I replied.

Pentagon Eases Policy on Yule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has decided to permit liberal leaves and early discharges for the Christmas season.

The Pentagon's Thursday announcement said men due to be discharged will be released one to two weeks early "to permit men due to return to civilian life to be home for Christmas."

Detroit Magic Gone; Old Age Setting In?

By JEAN SAILE

The music that big cities once stirred in my soul is fading.

Maybe it's because I'm getting older, but then again, maybe it's because the cities are getting older.

★ ★ ★

Downtown Detroit at 9:30 a.m. on a weekday reveals more sidewalk and streets than it does people and cars.

There's a lost look about it.

LOOKED UNREAL

Cadillac Square, thronged during the Moratorium, is deserted — maybe a dozen pedestrians like me angling across it. The Follies' sign announces "Starlet" — "Wild Women." It doesn't look real.

The magazine seller huddles behind his stand — peering out at the 40-degree cold. There are pigeons, lots of them.

★ ★ ★

Down toward Hudson's, the people become a little more noticeable: suburban dowagers and city people — easily distinguishable.

The escalator to Hudson's 12th floor — a kaleidoscope of goodies — and the beginnings of Christmas: mock ceilings of glittering foil puffs, thousands of tiny lights blinking over a construction scene, workers strolling back and forth.

Here is the place where Christmas will come to life in another few weeks. Here Santa Claus will be king, but now it has no magic.

DOWN TO EARTH

Down to earth in an elevator. A man whose long well-washed locks circle a shining bald pate stands in front of me. That's unreal, too.

Across to Washington Boulevard, and cigarette butts littering the sidewalk in front of some of the nation's finest stores. I disappear inside the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel. This, at least, has life. There are voices here. None are noticeable outside.

★ ★ ★

There is some music — big city music.

Outside again and down into the Congress-Griswold section. Young men on their way to financial success predominate. They are subdued. Traffic is picking up, but still no music.

I cut across to the City-County Building and my meeting inside. It has been a dull morning.

ONCE UPON A TIME

There was a time — presuburbia, prekids — when a giant city's downtown set free my soul. It gave lift to my feet and accelerated my pulse.

The activity, that was it. One never knew what drama existed just down the street or around the next corner.

★ ★ ★

It's true no longer — not for me — not in Detroit.

Whale Is Astray, Headed Upstream in Frisco's Bay

PORT CHICAGO, Calif. (UPI) — A whale passed through here Wednesday, apparently under the impression he's a salmon.

When he should have been heading down the Pacific from the Arctic to spawning grounds off Baja California, he was heading up San Francisco Bay toward the fork of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers.

★ ★ ★

Navy officials said the 30-foot mammal made what may have been a romantic pass at a barge tied to the dock here before continuing on upstream.

State Parks Set Record for Use

LANSING (AP) — Attendance at Michigan's state parks, which has already passed last year's record, is likely to go considerably higher as autumn campers and nature-trail buffs take to the woods.

The Department of Natural Resources said 18 million day visitors have used the 72 state parks through mid-October, topping the 1968 mark by about 400,000.

★ ★ ★

In addition, 401,000 camping families have obtained permits to use state facilities so far, up from the 389,000 permits issued in 1968.

★ ★ ★

Officials said that the summer's generally sunny skies and high temperatures had a big bearing on bringing recreationists to state parks in record numbers.

★ ★ ★

Southern Michigan parks drew the biggest crowds, totaling 10.4 million day visitors and nearly 129,000 camping families. At the mid-October count, the figures topped 1968 by 439,000 visitors and 4,484 campers.

Doctor Urges Motorcycle Makers to Develop Safety Devices

CHICAGO (AP) — A Michigan medical researcher says motorcycle makers should develop safety devices for their product.

* * *

This view was set forth by Dr. Charles H. Rasmus of Mount Clemens in a paper presented Wednesday at the annual clinical assembly of osteopathic organizations.

Dr. Rasmus said there had been a sharp rise in the number of motorcycle accident deaths since 1960 because of large sales of inexpensive imported motorcycles in the $500 to $600 price range.

Before then, such deaths averaged about 500 a year. In 1968 there were 1,900 and in 1966 a peak of 2,043.

SOME STATISTICS

Dr. Rasmus quoted statistics showing that:

- Last year there were 2.1 million registered motorcycles, compared with 102 million motor vehicles of all types.
- There were more than 209,000 motorcycle accidents in 1968, or one for every 10 motorcycles, compared with 2 million motor vehicle accidents, or one for every 50 cars.
- The death rate for motorcycles during 1968 was 23 per 100 million miles of travel, compared with 5.5 per 100 million miles for motor vehicles, including pedestrian deaths.
- Ninety per cent of motorcycle accident victims are under 25, while 80 per cent of all motor vehicle accidents involved persons over 25.

* * *

Dr. Rasmus described the motorcycle as "an unstable vehicle," and said:

"Because of the severity of motorcycle accidents due to the fact that the rider is completely unprotected, manufacturers of deaths from motorcycle accishould, in addition to providing dents decreases in states which quality bikes at reasonable require the wearing of a helmet, prices, develop some protective since most of the cycle deaths shield or roll bar to protect the result from skull or brain injurider's lower extremities, even ry. if they are offered as optional equipment."

Auto thefts in the U.S. occur Dr. Rasmus said the number at the rate of 1,000 a day.

More Secret Talks Likely on Viet War

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials still intend to seek private peace talks with Communist negotiators in Paris if the time comes when they feel secrecy might accomplish something. At present they don't think it would make any difference.

* * *

Evidently it was because secrecy contributed nothing to the negotiations earlier this year that President Nixon decided to disclose in his Monday night speech 11 private meetings had been held in Paris—and were part of the record of stalemate in the talks since he took office.

Nixon's statement departed from his own stated policy about not disclosing even the fact of secret talks.

The disclosure became an issue in Paris Thursday when Hanoi's Ambassador Xuan Thuy charged it broke a promise made by U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge last March 8.

BROADER ACCUSATION

Xuan Thuy used the charge to publicize a broader accusation that "American representatives do not keep their promises even for little things."

The United States, he argued, "speaks much of peace; in reality it pursues war."

A U.S. spokesman in Paris called Xuan Thuy's attack an insult and ridiculous.

Both sides in Paris also said secret talks could still be used and there was no doubt among officials here they would be if and when the peace talks begin to move.

President Nixon called for "private talks" in the early weeks of his administration. At a March 14 news conference he said, "I thnik that is where the war will be settled."

CAREFULLY GUARDED

As it now turns out, according to Xuan Thuy's statement Thursday, he and Lodge had already agreed March 8 they would in fact engage in secret discussions.

Until Nixon spoke out Monday night the privacy of the discussions had been carefully guarded on both sides, although there were hints and speculations last spring and summer that more was going on in Paris than was apparent from the publicly reported sessions.

Attorney Plans Zoning Fight

An attorney living near a controversial proposed apartment site on Loon Lake in Waterford Township said today he will seek a court injunction to stop the project.

Seymour Beitner, 2978 Shawnee, said he expected to file the suit about the middle of next week.

* * *

He claims that township officials who failed to disclose their financial interests allegedly are involved in the development, which will create a lake hazard from additional boat traffic and a burden on the school system.

Bietner attended a meeting of about 20 Loon Lake residents last night at the home of Dale Hargraves, president of Loon Lake Shores Association subdivision.

NOT DECIDED YET

Hargraves said this morning the association has not decided whether it will become a party in the proposed suit.

Three representatives of a group now forming to unite all Waterford neighborhood associations into a federation also were present.

The land, on the northwest shore of the lake, was rezoned from single family to permit 126 apartments.

Beitner also says there is no legal guarantee that the project always will prohibit children and boats, as now planned.

Vinyl's Covering Doors, Windows

A new development in FHA housing for the elderly is the use of new low-maintenance vinyl-clad wood windows and gliding doors. The first federally-sponsored project to use them is Walnut Towers in Hagerstown, Maryland.

The window and door units, manufactured by the Andersen Corporation and marketed under the name Perma-Shield, feature a vinyl sheathing over a preservative-treated wood core. They do not require painting, and will not pit, rust or corrode. Welded insulating glass is standard.

St. Louis Wins, 5-2

Blues' 'Guerrillas' Stun Wings

DETROIT (UPI) — Getting beat by the St. Louis Blues is like suffocating in an oxygen tent.

Or like getting hung by No. 10 thread; or suffering a concussion from whipped cream; or getting a bad case of whiplash from watching that fine young blonde across the street, or . . . well, you get the idea.

★ ★ ★

The Blues and their "guerrilla offense" bedeviled the Detroit Red Wings to defeat Thursday night by a 5-2 score, making the home team look like a bunch of school boys in the process — as they can do to a team.

The well-disciplined band of warriors of Scotty Bowman were at their blanket-checking best, and despite 17 penalties being meted out for a total of 48 minutes, most of the fighting was taking place after play had been stopped.

"It had to happen," sighed Sid Abel, wearing his coach's hat once again. "We've been winning a few games where we played badly."

"Maybe this will be good for us, I'm not saying a loss is good," he added with a quick smile, "but maybe this will start them thinking."

CANADIENS ERUPT

There was only one other National Hockey League game played and in that one, the Montreal Canadiens exploded out of a 1-1 tie with three goals in the final period to take a 4-1 win from Philadelphia.

The Flyers took the lead in the first period on a goal by Bill Sutherland but Yan Cournoyer evened it up in the middle session and the Habs got tallies from Mickey Redmond, Claude Provost and Jacques LaPerriere in the final 20 minutes to hand Philadelphia its first home loss in 13 games at the Spectrum.

★ ★ ★

The loss popped a four-game Detroit win bubble but left the Red Wings still in first place in the East Division of the NHL — right along with the Boston Bruins Saturday night's foe and the Canadiens.

Gordon "Red" Berenson did most of the damage by assisting on the first goal and scoring the next two St. Louis markers himself.

EX-WOLVERINE

Berenson, a University of Michigan star and one of the few to star in the pro ranks after college, assisted on ex-New York Ranger Phil Goyette's seventh goal of the season at 2:54 of the opening period, only 35 seconds into a Detroit penalty and the first of three St. Louis power play goals.

Wayne Connelly banged in his third of the season as Blues' goalie Jacques Plante paid the price of wandering behind his net after the puck on a Red Wings' power play.

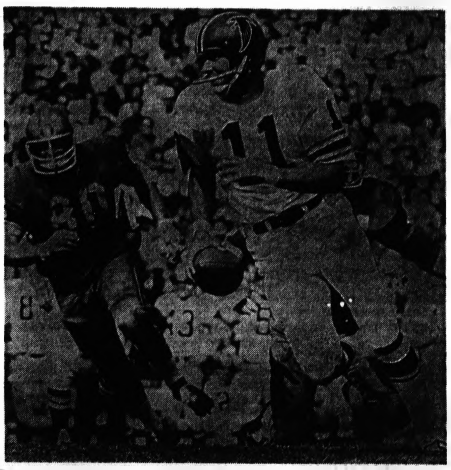
★ ★ ★

Berenson unknotted the score at 9:51 on another power play and only 1:09 after that he rapped in his seventh goal of the season.

Larry Kennan and Garry Unger traded tallies in the second session with Ab McDonald getting his seventh to round out the goal-getting. Frank St. Marseille, the former Port Huron IHL star, had two assists and played a standout game for St. Louis.

Unger's marker, while Detroit had a man advantage, came while the youngster was centering the big line in place of Alex Delvecchio, who took an end-over-end spill at the start of the period and was taken to a Detroit hospital for X rays for a possible shoulder break.

However, no break showed up and the damage was called either a ligament or muscle tear by a team physician. It was not known whether Delvechio will miss the Boston game this Saturday.



ROLLOUT FALCON — Randy Johnson will call the signals for the Atlanta Falcons Sunday against the Detroit Lions because he can scramble. The Falcons have had their quarterback hit 41 times this year and coach Norm Van Brocklin decided to start Johnson instead of Bruce Lemmerman because Johnson can roll out and scramble better against a strong blitzing Lions' defense.

Wolverines Cautious

Surprises in M-Illinois Rivalry

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) —Illinois yearns for an upset of Michigan Saturday but the football experts, thinking logically, do no believe the potential is there to do it.

The old rivalry has been rife with surprises in the past and, physically, the Illini are in good shape to make a try. But after seven straight losses, eight leading back to last year, Coach Jim Valek has a job getting the team ready mentally.

★ ★ ★

Michigan could be somewhat let down mentally also, since Illinois is the lowliest team the 18th ranked Wolverines have faced in the Big Ten. But with a chance to go to the Rose Bowl on the line, U-M can't afford to relax.

"Illinois is a much better team than their record indicates," said Wolverine coach Bo Schembechler Thursday. But Schembechler said much the same thing prior to U-M's 35-9 romp over Minnesota two weeks ago and before last week's 35-7 homecoming win over Wisconsin.

STATISTICAL TALE

Illinois' winless ways are reflected both offensively and defensively in the statistics. The team has totaled only 92 points while yielding 245. It has 108 first downs to 149 for opponents, 948 rushing to 1,674, 890 passing to 964.

Michigan, meanwhile, has racked up 217 points while allowing 120. It has 140 first downs to 120 for opponents, 1,558 yards rushing to 1,173. Passing is even with 974 yards for and against.

★ ★ ★

Illinois came out of last week's 49-22 defeat by Purdue with Glen Collier, defensive left end, nursing a sprained ankle and Larry McKeon, reserve split end, suffering a knee injury. Collier is expected to be ready but McKeon is doubtful.

For Michigan the only regular not expected to start is middle linebacker Marty Huff, who has a strained knee.

Billy Taylor, who piled up 293 yards rushing in the last two games as Glenn Dougherty's replacement, is scheduled to start again with Doughty recovered from injuries and in reserve.

NO. 5 RUSHER

Taylor is the Big Ten's fifth leading rusher with 343 yards while quarterback Don Moorhead is third in passing with 42 completions in 85 attempts for 576 yards. His 143 yards rushing gives him a total offense of 719—fourth in the conference.

Dave Jackson and sophomore Darrell Robinson are the workhorses for the Illini. Jackson has gained 391 yards in 95 rushes and Robinson 388 in 92.

Bob Bess has 183 in 39 and quarterback Steve Livas has lost 68 yards in 74 attempts

Illinois has a fine punter in Terry Masar, who has booted 32 times at a 39.8 yard average.

Saturday's contest is the 55th in the series which dates back to 1898. U-M has won 36 and lost 18.

MSU Seeks Purdue Upset With Soph Calling Signals

EAST LANSING (AP) — A sophomore from Iowa City won't be the home state favorite when Michigan State goes against Purdue in a meeting of two upset-prone football rivals at Lafayette, Ind., Saturday.

Rookie Backup quarterback Steve Piro will be starting his first game. His record is nine pass completions in 19 tries for only 89 yards and no scoring.

Piro worked in the last half in the 16-0 loss to Indiana last Saturday and saw a little action in the Ohio State game. Otherwise he has been in only as a ballholder on kicks.

★ ★ ★

Passing coach Al Dorow, an old football pro, has confidence in Piro.

"Steve is really a dedicated kid," he said. "He's improved greatly and should do a good job for us."

Piro has height, six-foot-two, and some fine receivers.

He was picked for the hot spot because coach Duffy Daugherty felt the Indiana homecoming crowd at Spartan Stadium was unfair in booing junior quarterback Bill Triplett.

WIDE RECEIVER

Triplett, a great runner on the option will play split end and wide receiver. His record against Indiana was 11 passes and no hits.

"I felt so badly about Triplett being made a scapegoat for our failures," Daugherty said.

Piro makes his debut against the mighty Mike Phipps, who has 122 completions in 218 tries for 1,794 yards and 17 touchdowns.

★ ★ ★

He is a senior and leads the nation in total offense.

It looks on the surface like putting a boy against a man.

But the spirited Spartans want to win this one badly. They can only play the role of spoiler now and could badly hurt Purdue's Rose Bowl chances with an upset.

★ ★ ★

State still has the fine rushing of Don Highsmith, who has powered for 620 yards net. This tops the leading Purdue rusher, Randy Cooper, with 486 yards.

The Spartan team is flying to Lafayette Friday afternoon in time for a workout. A near sellout crowd of more than 67,000 is expected.

Wildcats Boot 4 From Grid Team

MARQUETTE (UPI) — Four junior starters were booted off Northern Michigan University's football squad for the rest of the season today for undisclosed "disciplinary reasons," head coach Rollie Dotsch announced.

All four had been slated to start in the Wildcats' game at Eastern Illinois on Saturday and will also miss the season finale at Tampa Nov. 15.

The players were offensive lineman Bob Bottiglieri, Niles, Ohio; defensive end Doug Peterson, Stambaugh, Mich.; linebacker Pete Bovan, Oscaoda, Mich.; and linebacker Mike Skrocki, Amherst, Mass.

Dotsch refused to disclose the reason for the disciplinary action. The Wildcats are 4-4 for the season.

Wayne State Names Swimming Coach

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne State University has announced that Peter A. Roberts, 26, has been named Tartar swimming coach for the 1969-70 season. He will hold the post on an interim basis and succeeds the late John P. Hussey who dis Sept. 21.

Meanwhile, Mike Fisher and Dennis Stanczuk have been chosen by teammates to captain this season's team.

Simpson Eying Acting Career

NEW YORK (AP) — O. J. Simpson has to go a long way to match Jim Brown's marks as a pro football runner, but he already is talking about following in Brown's footsteps as an actor.

Simpson, the Southern California All-American who still is trying to earn the estimated $325,000 three-year contract he signed with Buffalo of the American Football League this year, got a taste of the acting life on a recent television series. He apparently liked it.

★ ★ ★

"Brown told me it's a good business, a good life and that he was glad to see me get into it," said the 22-year-old halfback who goes against the New York Jets in New York Sunday.

Brown, the all-time leading rusher and touchdown scorer in pro football, retired in 1965, still in his prime, after taking the bumps and bruises for nine years. He went into acting and has made a name and plenty of money for himself in movies.

Simpson, only a rookie in pro football, isn't ready for that yet, at least until he proves himself in the pros. He realizes that football can open the biggest hole for him to dash through into movieland.

"I took state drama at USC," he explained, "but it helped most being a football player. I also picked up a lot of speaking experience at banquets and on television shows."

He played a football player on a CBS's television drama recently.

"The role wasn't the most demanding because I could identify myself easily with the part," Simpson admitted. "I didn't take any lessons. The one thing they didn't want me to do was take acting lessons. They felt I had a natural way of coming across."

Lions Need Fear 'Ho-Hum' Contest

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

If the Detroit Lions are looking toward Sunday's game with the Atlanta Falcons with the same "ho-hum" as the taxi cabbies around the Motor City then the big Thanksgiving Day battle with the Minnesota Vikings might be meaningless.

Linn Hendershot, the advance assistant public relations director of the Falcons, noted on his arrival to Detroit, "I hope the Lions are thinking about the game Sunday the same way the cabbies are around here, then we could go home with our third victory."

★ ★ ★

"All of the cab drivers are sure up on the Lions, but the only thing they talk about is the game with the Vikings on Thanksgiving Day and how they will be 6-3 going into that game.

"They don't even think about the possibility of the Falcons beating the Lions," Hendershot explained.

The Falcons have 13 rookies and 16 free agents on the 40-man roster, a factor which would hardly scare a highly veteran team.

DEPLETED RANKS

But the Lions are also now depending on many rookies in view of the injuries which have depleted the offensive forces.

"Our record is 2-5, but we really had just one real bad game and that was last week against the Rams in losing, 38-6," said Hendershot.

"We've got the youngest team in pro football and if anyone doesn't think that these kids don't give 100 per cent for coach Norm Van Brocklin, they may be in for a surprise Sunday," he added.

★ ★ ★

Van Brocklin, the coach who developed the kids at Minnesota to their title contending team of today, erased the entire starting line of 1968 and started from scratch after going to the Falcons after the third game of the season when Norb Hecker resigned.

Junior Coffey, the last of the 42-man expansion squad which started with the new Atlanta franchise in 1966, departed 10 days ago, and Van Brocklin now has Jim "Cannonball" Butler, a castoff from the Steelers, and Harmon Wages a free agent from Florida who stayed around after a tryout in 1968 as running backs.

A familiar face at flanker back for Atlanta is Gail Cogdill who is still listed among the top pass receiving statistics of the Lions.

ROOKIE STARTER

Bruce Lemmerman, a rookie who made the team after a workout in training camp, started the last two games for the Rams in place of starter Bob Berry, whom the Falcons obtained from the Vikings.

Berry is out with a torn tendon in the hand and may miss at least four more weeks of action.

Randy Johnson, once the Falcons' No. 1 quarterback, will get the starting nod Sunday against the Lions and the main reason will be because Johnson is the style of quarterback who fits the game plan for the Lions' style of defense.

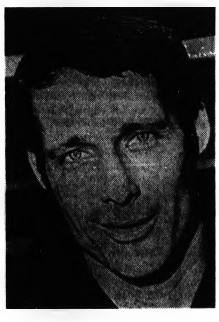
★ ★ ★

The Falcons have the poorest record in the NFL in pass protection, having allowed the quarterback to be hit 41 times thus far.

Johnson likes to roll out and scramble and the Falcons figure this will make it tougher for the Lions' front four and any linebacker and safety blitzes which the Lions like to use.

"Van Brocklin doesn't buy the excuse we lose because we're a young team," said Hendershot, "he has the team believing they can beat anyone, if everyone does his job. If the player doesn't try to do his job, he's usually not around too long," explained Hendershot.

The kickoff is scheduled for 1:15 p.m. Sunday and bleacher seats will go on sale at 11 a.m.



BACK HOME — Gail Cogdill, who for almost nine years wore the jersey of the Detroit Lions and set many pass receiving records, will be the starting flanker for the Atlanta Falcons Sunday at Tiger Stadium.

Football Draft Date Scheduled

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1970 college football draft of the American and National Football leagues will be held here Tuesday, Jan. 27, Pete Rozelle, pro football commissioner, said today. The player selection meeting is expected to last two days.

The 26 teams in both leagues will draft in the inverse order of the combined 1969 standings of the AFL and the NFL. The winner of the Super Bowl, however, will be the last team to draft and the loser will draft next-to-last despite their won-lost percentages.

★ ★ ★

Only players who have finished their college football eligibility will be picked. The draft will consist of 17 rounds and 442 athletes will be chosen.

Big Snafu Results in Horse Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Hugo Arrambide, a Buenos Aires attorney, is a generous fellow by nature and he likes to encourage young riders.

Accordingly, he decided to permit his young Brazilian teammate, Lt. Roberto Pistarini, win the International puissance, or high jumping, at the National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

★ ★ ★

"I don't think he understood what I told him," said Dr. Arrambide sadly.

All the other international horses had fallen by the wayside as the wall was raised to seven feet. Only Dr. Arrambide, on Adagio, and Lt. Pistarini, on Ulano, remained in the running.

It was here that Dr. Arrambide, a experienced international rider, made his decision. Since he was first out of the gate in the jumpoff, he told Lt. Pistarini that he would pull up. That he did.

Lt. Pistarini then entered the ring and took the warmup jump, but did not guide his horse over the wall. That finished him because international rules state that a horse that "abandons" the course cannot win. Even if Ulano had knocked down the wall, he would have won.

So there was no winner. Ulano and Adagio finished tied for second and the 8,000 spectators wondered what it was all about.

Bill Steinkraus of Noroton, Conn., rode Bold Minstrel to fourth place, clearing 6-9, while Kathy Kusner of Monkton, Md., another U.S. equestrian team rider, piloted Wicked City to fifth place, getting over the 6-3 wall.

The U.S. team leads for the international crown with 42 points while Agentina has 28 for second.

★ ★ ★

Frank Chapot of Wallpack, N.J., leads for the individual international title with 20 points.

The first championship of the show went to Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cunningham's Old Dominion from Warrenton, Va. The 4-year-old chestnut gelding won the green conformation hunter tricolor for the second straight year.

Grid Rivalries End Prep Season

Pontiac Central vs. Pontiac Northern!

Kettering vs. Waterford!

Andover vs. Bloomfield Lahser!

W. L. Central vs. W. L. Western!

Seaholm vs. Brother Rice!

Utica vs. Utica Stevenson!

Farmington vs. North Farmington!

Dondero vs. Kimball!

These intra-city rivalries and many other key contests close the 1969 area high school season this afternoon and tonight.

There are favorites in almost each case, but when they battle across street lines in the respective communities, usually all scores go out the window.

Pontiac Northern is rated a slight favorite over Pontiac Central in their 10th meeting at Wisner Stadium tonight, but this may be only because of the better record which the Huskies have posted this year.

★ ★ ★

Kettering is also a slight favorite to defeat township rival Waterford and the Captains, who lead the series 5-3 will be out to snap a two-game losing streak to the Skippers.

Waterford routed Kettering 54-6 in 1967 and again last year 39-14.

WALLED LAKE RIVALRY

A new rivalry begins in Walled Lake where former coach at Central, Leo Folsom, guides new Western High against Dick Woodworth his successor at Central.

★ ★ ★

Western is favored in the first game between the two Walled Lake teams, having won six of eight games this season compared to Central's 1-6-1 record.

★ ★ ★

The battle in Bloomfield Hills will feature unbeaten Andover making a short trip to Lahser this afternoon and the Barons are strong favorites to hand the Knights their 4th defeat in nine contests.

In a neighborhood battle in Birmingham, Brother Rice is a solid choice to defeat Seaholm and bring the Maples' record to 1-7-1 for the season.

North Farmington, one of the top class A teams in the county with a 6-2 record in likewise intent on ending Farmington's season with a 1-8 mark in a Saturday afternoon game at Farmington.

KIMBALL — DONDERO

The closest contest other than Pontiac's city clash could be in Royal Oak where the No. 2 rated Kimball Knights are favored to defeat Dondero, but with reservation.

Dondero is also enjoying one of its best seasons with a 6-2 mark and is primed for upsetting the crosstown rivals.

In Utica, the older school with a No. 11 rating in the state is expected to make rival Stevenson its 9th victim without a loss.

★ ★ ★

There are many other top contests on final agenda including Lapeer's visit to lake Orion, Clarkston's invasion of Avondale and Berkley's trip to Oak Park in an afternoon affair.

In a contest between relatively new rivals tomorrow, Southfield Lathrup travels to meet Waterford Mott.

Jack Nicklaus Continues Golf Tourney Rampage

HONOLULU (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, threatening to make the fall tour his personal showcase, carried a whopping four-stroke lead into the second round of the $125,000 Hawaiian Open Golf tournament today.

Big Jack, who has won both of the fall tournaments he has entered, established a course record with a blistering 63 on the 7,020-yard, par 72 Waialae Country Club layout Thursday.

It was accomplished in the face of blustery trade winds that reached gusts of more than 40 miles an hour and sent most of the rest of first round scores soaring.

★ ★ ★

His leading margin was the biggest of the season after 18 holes and had his fellow pros talking to themselves.

"If he keeps on putting like that, you just can't beat him," said Billy Casper, one of the pre-tourney favorites who had an opening 73, 10 shots back.

Ken Still and Dave Stockton were tied for second with 67s, while Jack McGowan and John Schroeder had 68s. The group at 69 included Bill Johnson, Grier Jones, Randy Wolff and Larry Ziegler.

GROUPED AT 70

Arnold Palmer was in a large group at 70. Leading money winner Frank Beard and masters champion George Archer each had a 71. Lee Trevino and U.S. Open champion Orville Moody posted 74s and PGA titleholder Ray Floyd had a 75.

Nicklaus, who has won $48,000 in his last two starts, the Sahara and the Kaiser, was grim-faced, tight-lipped and in deep concentration on his morning round.

"You concentrate more in the wind," Nicklaus said. "If the wind hadn't blown, I'd have been closer to the hole. But from where I was, I couldn't possibly have scored better."

After each shot, however, he was a relaxed and smiling man, talking, with the galleries, gesturing and joking.

Bowerman Leading PGA School Event

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Gary Bowerman whacked two shots out of bounds, slammed one into a pond and soared to a second round 75 Thursday, but he still managed to grab a one-stroke lead in the PGA approved tournament players' school.

★ ★ ★

Bowerman, from Toronto, posted a 143 total to go a stroke ahead of Brian Barnes of Sussex, England.

The two tied in the first round with 68s, but Barnes ran his second day score to 76 with problems in five traps and a water hazard.

The 47 players are competing for about 10 spots on the lucrative PGA tour in 1970.

Contrasting Finishes to ABA Tilts

By the Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Pipers tapered off in the last quarter while the Kentucky Colonels turned it on but both won Thursday night and continued to chase the Indiana Pacers in the American Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

The Pipers, led by John Brisker's 33 points, beat Miami 133-127 despite being outscored by the Floridians 36-31 in the final period. The Colonels used a balanced attack and a 41-point barrage in the last quarter to crush the Denver Rockets 145-119.

★ ★ ★

Pittsburgh remained 1½ games behind the idle Pacers while Kentucky was a game behind Indiana. Pittsburgh has a slight edge in the all-important percentage column, however.

The Pipers trailed 96-95 at the end of the third period but then Stew Johnson tapped in a basket to put the Pipers ahead to stay. The victory, their fourth straight, boosted the Pipers' record to 5-2.

★ ★ ★

Denver led 66-65 at halftime but the Colonels, sparked by George Tinsley and Wayne Chapman, a pair of substitutes, piled up 79 points in the second half. A balanced Colonel attack saw seven men in double figures.

Big Eight in Deadlock

Missouri Out to Stop Oklahoma's Steve Owens

By the Associated Press

"I'm never seen anyone like him. He's the best I've seen."

The speaker was Missouri Coach Dan Devine and the subject was Steve Owens, Oklahoma's slashing tailback.

* * *

And, there's a reason why the coach of the No. 9-ranked Tigers was cringing a little when he spoke of the Sooners' 6-foot-2, 215-pound one-man battering ram.

Missouri has to stop Owens—something that no other team has managed this year—and the No. 20 Sooners at Columbia Saturday to remain in serious contention for the Big Eight championship and a trip to the Orange Bowl.

The Tigers are tied with surprising Kansas State and Nebraska, all with 3-1 marks, for first place while Oklahoma is only a half-game off the pace at 2-1.

"I would hope we could stop Owens," said Devine. "Kansas State did a few times. We'll go with what we have and just hope we can stop him."

But the odds are against it. Owens, who ripped Missouri for 176 yards in a 28-14 victory last year, warmed up for this week's game by carrying the ball 53 times, one shy of the major college record, for a league record 248 yards and four touchdowns in a 37-14 coast past Iowa State last week.

He already has gained 881 yards and scored 17 touchdowns in six games, and he needs just 164 yards to break the college career mark of 3,388 set in 1968 by West Texas State's Mercury Morris.

DEFENSIVE PROBLEMS

And, the Tigers aren't blessed with an abundance of talent to stop him. Missouri's defense was far from adequate in a 41-38 squeaker over K-State last week, yielding a whopping 394 yards to passer Lynn Dickey.

Missouri, however, has a fine runner of its own—Joe Moore, who ranks third nationally with 184 rushes for 904 yards in seven games—and a dandy quarterback in Terry McMillan.

Kansas State and Nebraska, tied with Oklahoma as the No. 20 team, meanwhile, shouldn't have much trouble holding on to their share of first. The Wildcats, 5-2 over-all, travel to Oklahoma State, 1-2 and 3-3, while Nebraska, 5-2 over-all, plays host to Iowa State, 1-3 and 3-4.

In other games, it's Baylor at No. 2 Texas, South Carolina at No. 3 Tennessee, No. 4 Arkansas at Rice, Washington State at No. 6 Southern California, and No. 8 Notre Dame at Pittsburgh.

* * *

Games matching teams in the second 10 are Michigan State at No. 10 Purdue, Mississippi State at No. 11 Auburn, Alabama at No. 12 Louisiana State at night, No. 16 Georgia vs. No. 13 Florida at Jacksonville, Fla., No. 14 Stanford at Washington, UT-Chattanooga at No. 17 Mississippi, No. 18 Michigan at Illinois and Utah State at No. 19 Air Force.

No. 5 Penn State and No. 7 UCLA are idle this week.

Navy, 1-6 and still reeling from last week's 47-0 trouncing by Notre Dame, travels to Miami, Fla., in tonight's only major college action.

Texas and Arkansas, each 6-0, face little threat to their co-leadership in the Southwest Conference. The Razorbacks, who have rolled up 226 points while yielding only 40, face a team that has managed only one victory in six games, while Texas' crunching running backs should pulverize winless Baylor.

Southern California, unbeaten in six games and leading the Pacific-8 with a 3-0 mark, is an overwhelming favorite against Washington State, 1-6, as is Notre Dame, 5-1-1, against Pittsburgh, 3-4.

OSU FAVORED

Ohio State is expected to breeze past Wisconsin—a team that hasn't beaten the Buckeyes since 1918—in ringing up its 21st straight victory and holding on to the Big 10 lead.

Since Tennessee, 3-0, is idle the big activity in the Southeastern Conference will be the fight for the second place spot. Florida, 2-1, knocked from the unbeaten ranks last week by Auburn, will try to get back on the right track against a Georgia team that humiliated the Gators 51-0 last season.

* * *

The co-runnerup, Louisiana State, also knocked from the unbeaten ranks last Saturday by Mississippi, will try to turn around against Alabama, 2-2, tied with Auburn, Georgia and Mississippi for fourth in the torrid race.

Four Straight Successes

'Moon' Puts Houston in Orbit

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Gary James (Moon) Mullins hardly knows the meaning of the word "losing."

But the near-sighted University of Houston quarterback can give you the definition of "confidence."

Mullins, a redshirt sophomore, has turned Houston's season completely around by directing the Cougars to four straight victories after upset defeats.

* * *

The 5-10, 185-pounder has a won-loss record of 36-3 as a starting quarterback, including high school, college freshman and varsity competition. He guided San Angelo, Tex., Central High School to the state Class AAAA championship in 1966.

He fashioned a 5-1 mark as a sophomore in high school, 9-1 as a junior, 13-1 as a senior, 5-0 as a college freshman and 4-0 as a starting varsity signal caller.

Does he have a success formula?

"I am just fortunate," he replied. "I am fortunate that the team functions well, that it gives its best performance. Everyone is doing the job he is supposed to do."

BIGGEST THRILL

Mullins, who wears contact lenses, said his biggest thrill came last Saturday when he completed a seven-yard, fourth-down pass to tight end Earl Thomas with only 11 seconds left for a 38-36 victory over Miami.

Did he really think the Cougars would pull it out?

* * *

"Yes, I did," he said. "You have to have confidence. If you don't, you have no business out on the field in the first place."

After Florida and Oklahoma State defeated the Cougars in the first two games of the season, Houston Coach Bill Yeoman, in a surprise move, announced that Mullins would start against Mississippi State.

* * *

Mullins guided Houston to a 74-0 victory over the Bulldogs. With Mullins calling the plays, the Cougars then scored convincing victories over Arizona, and 17th ranked Mississippi before outlasting Miami.

* * *

Yeoman calls Mullins a "game player."

"He performs best when he is running the show," Yeoman added. "Actually, he doesn't look as good in practice as he does in the game. In practice he is adequate but not exceptional."

Mullins said he was surprised he was named as the starting quarterback so early in the year but he added: "I had confidence I would play a lot during the season."

NAIA Has Another Top Team

KANSAS CITY (AP) — New Mexico Highlands took over the top spot in the NAIA football ratings today after three teams skidded on two losses and a tie last week.

New Mexico Highlands has won six straight after a season-opening tie with the University of Hawaii. The Cowboys accumulated 129 points in the voting, including nine first places from the NAIA 16-member panel of coaches.

* * *

Concordia, Minn., moved into second with 101 points and a completed season record of nine victories in as many games.

Western (North) Carolina with a perfect mark in seven games, went to third with 91 points.

Texas A&I, upset last week by Sul Ross, Tex., State, dropped from first place into fourth with a 6-1 season and 90 points in the voting.

The other skidders were Troy, Ala., State and Alcorn A&M, Miss. Troy State dropped from second to a tie for 10th place with a 6-1-1 mark good for 25 points. Alcorn went from fourth to seventh with 66 points on 5-0-1.

HILLSDALE SIXTH

Southwestern Oklahoma State with 6-1 took fifth place on 71 points and Hillsdale, Mich., went to sixth with 7-1 and 67 points.

In eighth with 45 points were Northeastern Oklahoma State with 7-1 and Whitewater, Wis., State with 8-0, good for 45 points.

Doane, Neb., tied for 10th with its season-ending eighth straight victory.

* * *

Twelfth place was a tie between William Jewell of Liberty, Mo., undefeated in eight games, and Fairmont, W. Va., State, loser of one in seven.

The balance of the top 20 in order with season records:

Norther, S.D., State 7-0, California Lutheran 6-0, Tampa, Fla., University 5-1, Defiance, Ohio, 8-0, Boise, Idaho, State 6-1, Carthage, Wis., 7-0, and North Carolina Central 6-0.

Wild Windup in NBA Game Still Uncertain

CHICAGO (AP) — If you want to get technical, the Chicago Bulls-Atlanta Hawks National Basketball Association game played Thursday night is still going on Friday.

The game-ending buzzer apparently never sounded with the teams on the floor, and therein lies one of the wildest windups in pro basketball seen in Chicago Stadium. The 9,087 fans still probably don't know what went on. And they aren't alone.

* * *

Atlanta, Western Division leader, was awarded a 124-122 victory which Bulls General Manager Pat Williams said he would protest to Commissioner Walter Kennedy.

The Hawks wiped out a 17-point deficit in the last nine minutes with Lou Hudson hitting the tying basket for 122-122 in the final 15 seconds and sinking two free throws for 124-122 in the last five seconds.

The Bulls took the ball out of bounds and with one second showing on the clock, Clem Haskins took a shot. The Bulls' Tom Boerwinkle jumped into the air and tapped the ball through the hoop.

Referee Bob Rakel said he had heard the buzzer as the shot was in flight and, since another player touched it after the buzzer sounded, the basket did not count.

TIMEKEEPER CALLED

The other referee, Jack Madden, said he didn't hear the buzzer. Both officials queried Timekeeper James Seery who said:

"The buzzer has not gone off—there is one second to go."

Bulls Coach Dick Motta said that after Boerwinkle pushed Haskins' shot in, "I watched Rakel raise his arm and then motion downward signifying a good basket.

* * *

"The Atlanta players, also thinking it good, then asked for time out to set up a final shot," said Motta. "But at this point, Coach Richie Guerin raced onto the floor and grabbed both referees.

"For some strange reason Rakel then told me he heard the buzzer go off even though Madden said he had not.

"The thing that disturbs me is that Rakel checked with the official timekeeper and was told there still was one second to play and then ignored it.

"If Rakel says he heard the buzzer, or if he says he did not signal a good basket, he is a liar and I realize that by saying this I could be fined $250."

Warriors Tag Royals With 130-109 Loss

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jeff Mullins reeled off six straight field goals in the third quarter to help San Francisco open an insurmountable lead and dump Cincinnati 130-109 Thursday night in a National Basketball Association game.

Mullins scored a game-high 28 points and Nate Thurmond followed with 25—and 20 rebounds and four blocked shots—as the Warriors swamped the Royals for the second time in the clubs' two meetings.

* * *

The Warriors downed Cincinnati 120-97 Saturday night.

The Warriors took the lead for good midway in the first period but the outburst by Mullins broke the game open.

Rams Talking to Ex-Packer

Kramer Is Willing to Play . . . but

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The undefeated Los Angeles Rams, casting about for a top offensive guard to replace injured star Joe Scibelli, are talking to Jerry Kramer, the book-writing former Green Bay all-pro.

"When we lost Scibelli, the first man I thought of was Jerry Kramer," Ram Coach George Allen said of the 33-year-old ex-Packer, who retired before the current season after writing the best-seller "Instant Replay."

* * *

"I'd like to get an experienced offensive guard," Allen added in an interview with The Associated Press, "but I doubt very much that it will be Jerry Kramer. I got permission to talk with him from Phil Bengston," the Green Bay coach, he said.

"Jerry indicated he'd like to play for the Rams but that's as far as it's gone," Allen went on. "I just can't say any more."

Scibelli, an eight-year veteran from Notre Dame, was lost with a knee operation.

* * *

Allen also confirmed Thursday night that the Rams were interested in Leon Donahue, offensive lineman for the Dallas Cowboys.

"Leon was in," Allen said, "but he was examined by Dr. Danny Levinthal and failed to pass our physical examination. He has been returned to the Cowboys."

Mets Big Hit in Stage Debut

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Seven grinning, tuxedo-clad New York Mets turned song-and-gag men before a resort hotel audience—and scored a hit.

Not that baseball's world champions made a home run in their show business debut Thursday night. Their singing, loud and in unison, had hardly any harmony. Some punch lines got ragged delivery.

Customers' comments afterward ranged from "great" to "comical" and "you can't expect too much of them."

But storms of applause came from a capacity dinner audience of 1,100 eager to greet the Mets for what they are—incredible, come-from-behind baseball heroes.

* * *

Outside their names shown in marquee lights along the resort-hotel Strip, and in the casino Met fever extended to New York baseball caps on the dealers.

The seven—Tom Seaver, Jerry Koosman, Donn Clendenon, Ed Kranepool, Tommie Agee, Cleon Jones and Art Shamsky—opened a two-week stand at Caesars Palace at $10,000 apiece.

The athletes were on a bill starring singer Jimmie Rodgers and comedian Jerry Van Dyke.

The Mets appeared in a 27-minute act with comic Phil Foster, who introduced them.

A screen descended and color-film clips showed some of the Mets' worst and best moments and the past season—infield bobbles, outfield collisions and brilliant plays like catches by Agee and Jones.

Then, in a spotlight, with their team numbers on the backs of their tuxedo jackets, the Mets appeared.

DON CARTER'S BOWLING TIPS

'QUIET, PLEASE' — Does your ball make almost as much noise when it hits the lane as it does when it hits the pins? If so, you are robbing yourself of strikes and probably causing an unnecessary number of splits. Concentrate on setting the ball down gently, from a low angle. Again, make sure your knee is bent sharply, as shown in today's illustration.

Pueblo Takes Station in N. Korean Waters

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the fifth article in a series about the spy ship Pueblo written by a team of Associated Press newsmen.)

The sea turned rough rounding into the Sea of Japan and the Pueblo was a day late arriving at Sasebo. There she topped off her fuel tanks. A piece of equipment in the Sod Hut was replaced and some security material offloaded, about 600 pounds remaining on board. Not all the classified material ordered unloaded had been, but Adm. Johnson had felt it would take the Pueblo three hours to destroy all her secrets and that this would be enough in the event of a threatened seizure.

CINCPACFLT had told Bucher its worry had been the possibility of the ship colliding with harassing vessels and sinking. The men would perish in the freezing waters before search and rescue aircraft—at least 45 minutes away—could reach them. But Gene Lacy was confident he could make an emergency patch on any hole up to two feet across.

* * *

The day after Pueblo's arrival at Sasebo — Jan. 10 — two Marine sergeants reported aboard as communications technicians. They shared two common initials: Robert J. Chicca and Robert J. Hammond. They shared something else: both spoke Korean.

That same day Bucher was given a final briefing, told the mission was entirely up to his own judgment and then at six o'clock the next morning, after months of preparation, the frowsy little spy ship sailed out to listen. She was on her own, beyond the reach of help, afloat or sinking. Her armaments were a modest gun locker, two unprotected machine guns and 150 years of precedent.

INTO THE UNKNOWN

It was a gray, windy day. "I had the impression I never was going to see Sasebo again, that we were going off into the unknown," Schumacher thought. "But that's a feeling you have leaving any port."

The first trouble at sea was weather. The Pueblo sailed through the Korea Strait into the Sea of Japan and into a severe gail. The storm forced the ship 150 miles off the Korean coast. Heavy seas swept her decks. It was all Bucher could do to keep the top-heavy vessel afloat. The aftermath of the storm was to affect the direction and velocity of the ocean currents for a week, complicating navigation. But as the wind abated, the Pueblo resumed her course northward.

* * *

When she reached the 42nd parallel, she stopped. After a year and a half, she was finally on station.

At one point on Jan. 15 Bucher steered seaward to exercise the machine guns. Icing made the tarps difficult to remove and there was the same old trouble in hitting anything with the guns, something that Bucher had not reported to his superiors. After firing, the guns were covered for, as it turned out, the last time.

Attack On Ice

The next day the Pueblo moved up almost to the Soviet-North Korean border where icing was so bad Bucher ordered 20 men out with salt and leather mallets in a "full-scale attack."

On the 16th the Pueblo moved down the coast to the Chongjin area where she laid to while Bucher determined the direction of the current. It was running southwest, parallel to the coast.

* * *

Off Chongjin the Pueblo observed several vessels, including Japanese fisherman, and listened. Hostile radar did not pick her up. On Jan. 18 the Pueblo moved south to Songjin, about 130 miles north of Wonsan. There the invisible fingers of North Korean radar found the Pueblo. It was search rather than fire-control radar, however, so Bucher was not concerned.

Along the way Bucher would stop the Pueblo, so the two civilian oceanographers, Iredale and Tuck, could make Nansen casts, a process of dropping a long line overboard with sample bottles attached to measure water temperature and salinity. Iredale had only reported aboard January 5, having come in from his office in Washington. Both he and Tuck had served on the Banner and knew all about the kind of harassment the Pueblo could expect.

SIX-HOUR CAST

As a deep Nansen cast could take six hours, the Pueblo was lying to much of the time, drifting with the current. During such periods careful watch was kept of the ship's position because she could not start up without risk of tangling the cable in her screws.

* * *

In Yokosuka Murphy had noted his gyro compass had a one and a half degree easterly error. The loran-C fixes at night averaged a five-mile northwesterly error due to distortion from the so-called "night effect" on radio beacons, so Murphy also relied on celestial navigation and occasional radar checks of the distance offshore. To be on the safe side, the Pueblo usually went out to 25 miles at night. Any time the ship came within two miles of North Korea's claimed 12-mile limit, Bucher had a standing order that he be awakened if he was not on deck. But in the Sea of Japan there was a good north-south loran beacon, so the skipper got his sleep.

* * *

"I never felt any doubt as to where we were," Murphy recalled. On the five or 10 times the Pueblo moved to within 13 miles or so of the coast, she used radar to confirm her position. Once she came within 12.8 miles of land when men were working aloft on an antenna, and Bucher steered into an offshore sea to reduce roll. That was as close as he came to North Korea.

* *

Weather prevented general quarters drills on the way north, and because they interfered with the ELINT work, they weren't held while on station. The same was true of repel boarders drills. None, in fact, had been held since Yokosuka.

Limited Radar

On the night of the 19th the Pueblo lay off Mayang Do, some 50 miles north of Wonsan. Navigational fixes were made every 20 minutes, but the radar was lit off sparingly to avoid detection from shore interceptors.

* * *

Around dusk on the 21st a sub chaser passed 500 to 1,000 yards from the Pueblo, apparently bound for Wonsan at 25 to 30 knots. She paid no attention to the Pueblo, and the bridge noticed no unusual activity on her decks. Bucher considered his order to break radio silence with Japan only after he felt he had been detected. He talked things over with Lts. Harris and Schumacher and decided the Pueblo had not been spotted.

* * *

On the night of the 21st, Bucher headed for the Wonsan area, his last stretch of shore surveillance.

* * *

As the Pueblo cruised slowly along the coast, listening, another group of men stealthily crept through the night toward the Demilitarized Zone dividing North and South Korea. There were 31 of them, all officers in the North Korean Army. Each carried a submachine gun, pistol, nine grenades and five days' rations.

BARBED WIRE CUT

On the night of January 17 about 10:30 the group, commanded by Senior Lieutenant Kim Chong Hun, cut through the barbed wire defenses and entered South Korea. Their destination was the Blue House, official residence in Seoul of South Korean President Park Chung Hee.

* * *

"Our main target was . . . to chop off President Park's head and to shoot to death his key subordinates," said one of the men, Junior Lieutenant Kim Sin Cho of the 124th North Korean Army Unit.

* * *

On Jan. 19 they happened upon four South Korean woodcutters. The assassin team threatened them with death and the destruction of their village if they told anyone what they had seen. But when the team moved on, the woodcutters called police. The North Koreans were spotted again late Jan. 21 and police dispersed them, killing and capturing a number of them.

* * *

The United Nations command immediately asked for a meeting with North Korea at Panmunjom. It was scheduled for January 24. No one at Yokosuka thought it necessary to advise the Pueblo of the incident. What bearing would an assassination attempt have on her mission?

January 22 began routinely enough.

Dead In Water

The Pueblo lay dead in the water about 18 to 20 miles off the nearest land, the island of Ung Do at the mouth of Yunghing Bay on which Wonsan was located. Tuck and Iredale made Nansen casts and Harris's men dialed and listened in the Sod Hut. Rosales, meanwhile, was developing his skills as a sketcher, an interest he had recently picked up.

The Pueblo scarcely had the look of a Navy ship. In keeping with their cover as a research vessel, Bucher and his men wore civilian dress. The captain usually put on everyday slacks and a leather flight jacket and wore a tassled wool ski hat to keep his ears warm. The ensign was kept stowed.

* * *

It was a bright day, but hazy. The sea was calm. Weather forecasts out of Yokosuka, in fact, had been pretty good: about 75 per cent accurate. Schumacher gazed shoreward at the rocky coastline with the gray-brown mountains rising above it. "Lord," he said, "can you imagine fighting on that?"

* * *

Shortly after noon two gray government fishing trawlers with the North Korean flag painted on their stacks approached and circled the Pueblo at about 100 yards. Their crewmen, dressed in standard oriental fishing garb—bearskin coats over a bare chest—stood among the fishing gear on deck looking at the Pueblo.

* * *

Bucher ordered his men to stay below so the trawlers, Rice Paddy and Rice Paddy I, wouldn't think it unusual to see so many men aboard a 176-foot ship. The trawlers moved a mile and a half north, apparently talking things over. Then they cruised back and circled the Pueblo at 30 yards while the Americans photographed them from the bridge. They were the first ships to show any interest in the Pueblo.

* * *

"I considered ourselves detected and was certain they would report us to authorities at Wonsan," so Bucher decided to break radio silence. At 1500 hours, the ship's radioman, Lee Roy Hayes, sat down at his transmitter to try and raise Japan. He was to remain on watch for the next 24 hours.

EASY DOES IT — Pontiac Parks and Recreation employes (from left) Ed Duchanoy, Willie Jones and Ken Walker take advantage of the dormant season to work on the city's arboretum. The arboretum, a triangular development bounded by Rundell, Nelson and Marquette Streets, is a continuing project of the Pontiac branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association and the City of Pontiac. The branch recently donated $780 to pay for this fall's purchase of plant material. Included in the arboretum are both native and exotic shrubs and trees.

Think About It Now

Spring Conversation Piece

Be the talk of your neighborhood! Plant some of the easy-to-grow but not generally seen small bulbs. They are ideal near walks, steps, next to stone walls or fences, in rock gardens and in larger groups between and in front of shrubs.

* * *

Everyone knows the crocus but how many know the brilliant blue of Siberian scillas? Nodding bells on 6-inch stems appear weeks before most crocus. They are fast multipliers, too. Put in a couple of dozen and in a few years you will have lots more.

* * *

Very much like them but with paler bells with white eyes and pointing upward instead of down are the chionodoxas of glory-of-the-snow. Blooming at crocus time, they stretch the season for you.

* * *

Many people know the native shy-blooming, yellow trout lily but not many know its much freer-blooming, more showy relations. These can usually be bought in mixtures and include whites, pinks, yellows, creams and rosy tones. Give them a reasonably good soil, not too dry, in a semi-woodsy spot and they should be happy.

BEAUTIFUL BLUE

Grape hyacinths, again, are blue, 6 inches high and good increasers. They look like tiny bunches of grapes upside down. They are easy and dependable.

* * *

Try the star of Bethlehem with white stars held 6 inches above the arching grassy leaves. Plant even as few as a half or a whole dozen and in a few years they will have made a good colony.

* * *

Altogether different in appearance are the little winter aconites with their tiny, buttercup-like flowers above deeply-cut leaves and about half the height of the others.

These bulbs must not be allowed to dry out in storage. Rather, the little bulbs which look like pieces of putty should be soaked overnight, if dry, and planted at once.

TRY THEM

In addition to these there are such charming little bulbs as brodiaeas, checkered lilies, sparaxis, cornlilies, new hybrid miniature tulips, miniature daffodils and a host of others. Try them, in spite of their names.

As with any garden flowers, prepare the soil well, spading it up and hoeing in some fine peat or similar humus along with a bulb or potato fertilizer (5 lbs. per 100 sq. ft.) and rake smooth.

* * *

Then, using a bulb trowel plant the bulbs in clumps of a dozen to 25 — spread out they don't show off as well. In most cases they should be planted 2 to 4 inches deep and the same distance apart, according to size.

Where squirrels or chipmunks are troublesome, peg fine chicken wire down flat over the plantings.

Control Twine Invert a Saucer

If your ball of twine rolls all over the place when you are tieing plants in the garden or packages in the house, put it in a clay saucer and invert a clay pot over it, threading the end of the string through the drainage hole.

The ball will stay put as you pull the string.

'Organic Fruit' Lecture Topic

Mrs. Matthew Zoulek of West Bloomfield Township will present an illustrated lecture, "Organic Fruit — June to December," at Thursday's meeting of the Organic Farm and Garden Club of Royal Oak.

The meeting will be held at the Royal Oak Womans' Club, 404 S. Pleasant at Fourth, Royal Oak.

Following the lecture an organic food and bake sale will be conducted.

Weed Campaign

Weedkilling sprays work faster on a warm day than when temperatures are low, but either way the result is dead weeds, report turf agronomists at Amchem Research Farm, Ambler, Pa.

Men Gardeners to See Slides at Pontiac Mall

A slide presentation, "Usually Unnoticed Flowers or Familiar Plants," will be presented by Paul Ziegelbaur of Franklin.

The program will be followed by a discussion on what to do in your garden to reap better results next year.

Mum Society Sets Meeting

The Greater Detroit Chrysanthemum Society will meet Sunday at 3 p.m. in the auditorium at 622 W. Lafayette, Detroit.

* * *

Mrs. Munns Caldwell will present a slide program of members' cultivars. Bill Collins will speak on "Putting Your Mums to Bed."

The meeting is open to interested chrysanthemum growers.

Don't despair with the advent of winter. Grow a garden under lights.

Plastic 'Tent'

You can keep both New Zealand spinach and Swiss chard growing for several weeks after frost if you erect a plastic "tent" over the plants before frost arrives.

Jobs for Her Lost by Degrees

By ROBERT H. REID

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — If a little knowledge is indeed a dangerous thing, too much of it is killing. Especially if you're a young, childless housewife who wants to do something besides stay home.

She heeded all those admonitions to "stay in school so you can get a good job," and stuck it out right through college.

Now she's probably smarter than me. But that's not what worries me most.

What worries me most is that she can't get a job.

She's too smart, the potential employers keep saying.

* * *

They're afraid she'll be bored, or demand higher pay, or lead a demonstration for more coffee breaks (although she never does at home).

* * *

Just the other day she applied for a position at a local office of a national chemical company. The interviewer took one look at the space on the application marked "education" and muttered: "You have a degree?"

Then he mumbled something about "seeing problems developing already."

PICKED ANOTHER

He later told the employment agency, "I would have hired her but she had a college degree, so I hired a high school graduate."

Earlier, she applied at one of the South's largest credit companies and got the same treatment. The interviewer seemed interested until he asked the fatal question—education.

It shook him when she said she was a college graduate, but the devastating blow came when she did well on the company intelligence tests.

"Sorry," he said, "but we're afraid you'll be bored."

SHE'D RATHER

"Maybe," she said later, "but I'd rather be a fixture in somebody's office than scrub fixtures at home."

Deciding that simple jobs were inaccessible, she tried for a more challenging position, but the results were the same—nothing.

A bank told her she had too much education for one job, but she couldn't start at a higher position because she'd have to work her way up from the first post.

By now she's decided that job interviewers must be in league with the antifeminists, and that her father could have better used his money training her to be a brick mason.

A FAMOUS AD

To paraphrase a famous ad: "To get a good job, you need a good education—but not too much."

Crackdown on Slope Rowdies

Try Afoot to Stem Ski Speeding

VIENNA (UPI) — With ski trails as crowded as highways, skiing experts are beginning to advocate the use of police on mountain slopes to curb speeding and reckless schussing.

Prof. Walter Kuenzel, head of the Austrian Institute for Maintenance of Ski Trails, said the fact that there were 84,000 skiing accidents in Austria last winter — twice as many as road accidents — points up the need for "some kind of legal ski trail supervisors to be instituted soon."

If Kuenzel and other ski experts have their way, ski police would be empowered to arrest reckless skiers on the spot.

Most of the accidents were caused by "ski rowdies going too fast and knocking over innocent fellow skiers on the crowded slopes," Kuenzel said.

"I am thinking of ski traffic police who would be equipped with shortwave senders to communicate on the slopes and spot offenders."

The police, preferably former racers, would warn each other by walkie-talkie, for instance, that "a ski rowdy in a red anorak and going faster than the limit is approaching control point No. 35 at top speed," Kuenzel said.

* * *

Kuenzel agreed that interference in a favorite pastime like skiing is highly controversial because nobody wants to encumber fun with rules.

"However, in view of the skier explosion at the slopes," he said, "some kind of supervision must be introduced."

NEED INCREASES

The creation of broad lanes for skiers, allowing higher speed, also increased the need for ski-slope traffic regulations, he added.

"We discussed the problem recently at an international conference in Innsbuck," Kuenzel said "but it was too complicated to be solved in one stroke. It will be rediscussed, and hopefully solved, at another international conference in 1970."

* * *

Kuenzel said it will be a legal problem to create rules that are internationally accepted and generally observed.

Austria this winter will start marking dangerous spots with traffic signs — a huge letter S, for sharp bends, a cross for an intersection and other signs resembling those on roads.

Area Citizens Asked to Join in Veterans Week

Waterford Township Supervisor Elmer R. Johnson is urging Waterford and Pontiac area citizens to fly their American flags and participate in or observe Veterans Day Tuesday.

He said a Veterans Week program is planned in the township next week.

"We can best acknowledge our appreciation and recognition of those brave men through full participation in the special day and week dedicated to all the defenders of our land," Johnson said.

He recommended that schools, churches, businesses and other organizations assist the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the other cosponsors in making Veterans Day and Veterans Week an outstanding patriotic observance this year.

Food-Stamp Boost Near

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In accordance with Nixon administration wishes, Congress is nearing final action on legislation that would nearly double the amount of money spent this fiscal year on food stamps for poor Americans.

The law now provides for $340 million to be spent this fiscal year for food stamps.

* * *

The House previously appropriated $340 million. Wednesday it voted by voice vote to increase the authorization to $610 million, the amount the administration has indicated it wants.

The Senate has authorized and appropriated $750 million, but House-Senate conferees probably will go along with the $610 million figure.

* * *

Over the long range, the administration has indicated it wants to expand the food stamp program to about $1.5 billion a year and change its application so that it covers every part of the country.

The Senate already has passed a bill to boost the ceiling for appropriations to $2.5 billion by 1972. This bill is now in committee.

Tribute to POWs

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed Sunday as recognition day in Michigan in honor of the American prisoners of war in North Vietnam. The governor also proclaimed Nov. 21 as Mayflower Compact Day to mark the anniversary of the compact signed by the Pilgrim pioneers who sailed from England and Holland to cape Cod.

Chinese cuisine is infinitely more interesting and varied than Japanese cookery, which derives from it. But Japanese food at times has greater subtlety and is far more beautiful to look at. You notice this at once in the bowl of clear soup served in a black lacquer bowl. The broth is light amber, a curl of a single spinach leaf encloses a white chicken dumpling resting on orange carrot shreds. This broth is the basic constituent of many dishes, and is made by boiling dried grated bonita or mackerel with dried kelp. You notice the artistry again in the arrangement of the sashimi — the strips of pink and white raw bass placed like a pinwheel or petals of a flower alongside darker red slices or raw tuna, white octopus, and gray fluke.

Oil a Slick Solution to Trash

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It is customary to wait until the last week of December to pick the year's biggest news story, but that precaution doesn't seem necessary this year.

WEST

Unless the Battle of Armageddon breaks out in the next eight weeks, the biggest news of 1969 has got to be this week's announcement that the Interior Department has found a way to make crude oil out of garbage.

* * *

That this report was treated as something less than momentous is an indication of how wedded the world is to obsolete economic systems, such as capitalism, communism, socialism and the Townsend Plan.

* * *

In these systems, the key factor is production. Therefore, most people looked at the Interior Department's accomplishment from a productive standpoint.

MISSED THE POINT

In other words, they thought of it in terms of being a new way to produce crude oil. Thereby missing the point.

Actually, what the department has discovered is a new way of getting rid of garbage. Viewed in that light, it ranks with the discoveries of Newton, Copernicus, Galileo, Darwin, Einstein and Vince Lombardi.

* * *

I was able to recognize its significance because I am a disciple of "disposalism," the economic theory which holds that getting rid of things has become even more important than production.

When you consider that solid wastes are increasing four times faster than the population, and packaging wastes are increasing six faster, then you can see the importance of converting trash and garbage to crude oil.

GARBAGE DEPRECIATION

The smart operators are probably out now, buying up options and leases on garbage dumps. Maybe we won't see it in our lifetime, but some day there will even be a 27½ per cent garbage depreciation allowance.

The prospect of using our rubbish to fuel and lubricate our atuomobiles raises hopes for other dramatic breakthroughs in disposalism.

Take sewerage, for example. We need to find something to do with our sewerage besides dumping it into our lakes and rivers.

* * *

Next to motoring, the most popular sport in this country is drinking. So I recommend that the Interior Department undertake experiments aimed at converting sewerage into alcohol.

That would solve the water pollution problem. Then if the department would find some good use for smog, the air pollution problem would be solved too.

Maybe smog could be made into a sugar substitute as a replacement for cyclamates.

Julie-Harry Special Meant to Be Different

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Some television specials are drowned in production: huge sets, dozens of dancing girls and boys, a parade of stars. That won't be the case with "An Evening with Julie Andrews and Harry Belafonte."

* * *

THOMAS

* * *

That is the concept of Gower Champion, who produced, directed and choreographed the special, and Miss Andrews went along with it. She also submitted to Champion's taskmastership, which is legendary in show business. After five weeks of intensive rehearsal on a bare stage at Goldwyn Studio, she underwent two full days of recording songs, then five days of taping the show in NBC's color studios at Burbank.

Does she enjoy the hard work?

'HATED TO WORK'

"Not particularly," she admitted during a rehearsal break. "I've had most of this year off, and I must say I enjoyed it immensely. I hated going back to work. And the fact that I don't have to begin another picture until next February is keeping my spirits up."

* * *

She isn't doing the special for the money. Rights to the show will be owned by Hathaway House, a home for retarded children which is a favorite charity of hers.

* * *

Then why do a television special?

"I guess it's largely a matter of wanting to break away from the rather plastic quality of being a movie star. In films everything is so carefully done, so expertly planned. I think it healthy to break away from that and to show that there are other aspects of your career.

STAGGERING AUDIENCE

"And the size of the audience you can reach through television is staggering. When I did my last special, someone pointed out that more people saw it in one evening than saw 'My Fair Lady' on the stage throughout its history."

* * *

Julie seemed refreshed by her year's vacation, during which she said her major occupation was "chauffeuring children." Before that, she had five years of steady film making, most of them long and tedious movies, and the strain was beginning to show.

* * *

Her last film was "Darling Lili," directed by her close friend Blake Edwards. The movie soared far over budget due to weather and other problems on European locations. But Julie feels it will be worth all the trouble. "Blake saw six reels of 'Lili' and he says it works beautifully," she remarked. "I have high hopes for it. It is handsomely filmed and funny and tuneful."

She Bares Facts of Tubbing With the Nude Set at Big Sur

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Dyan Cannon, the beauteous "Mrs. C. G." (Mrs. Cary Grant), recently joined the Nude Set at "the Institute" at Big Sur, Calif. . . . and may now be known as "The Girl Who Was Afraid to Get Out of the Tub."

Nobody would give her a towel, that was the problem.

WILSON

"It changed my life!" Dyan told me in her suite here, first showing me a photo of Jennifer Grant, now 3.

After filming "Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice," showing men, women and children in that tub, "baring themselves" for therapy, Dyan and a girlfriend decided to try it—but lost their nerve when face-to-face with the big outdoor turkish bath on the side of a cliff, with 50 nudies splashing around friendly like in the big tub.

"We went into the bath—not the tub—with clothes on. We looked around . . . dying to see everything—but afraid to look.

* * *

"Finally next night I stripped and went into the tub. Nobody was looking at me. I was always reluctant to take my clothes off publicly but five minutes afterward, I said, 'This is nothing. What'm I worrying about?' I stayed an hour.

* * *

"I couldn't get out because nobody would get me a towel.

"I forgot that I had to get out of the tub, too. Nobody would get me a towel because that was the idea—you're supposed to get used to baring yourself.

* * *

So she grinned and bared Dyan and got out of the tub. Next day she stayed three hours. She's going back Nov. 23. She acts like that tub might be a nice place to spend the weekend.

* * *

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Pearl Bailey admired a black pearl necklace in Tiffany's — about $7,000 "plus tax," Pearl says—and David Merrick has promised it to her.

"If," he told her, "you don't miss any 'Dolly' performances from now on, and on tour."

Pearl said she didn't want to wait that long, so Merrick said, "All right—I'll trust you. I'll give it to you now. But if you miss any shows, I'll take it back."

He laughed, and told me, "And I would, too."

* * *

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Allen Drake suspects his wife is lazy: "Did you ever see anybody else wash dishes in bed?"

WISH I'D SAID THAT: The way traffic is today, it's easier to star on Broadway than it is to cross it.

EARL'S PEARLS: Comic Pat Henry regrets he'll miss Dean Martin's New Year's party: "I open at the Copa Thanksgiving night—and that's when Dean's New Year's party starts."

Dr. Frank S. Caprio, author of "How to Avoid a Nervous Breakdown," was asked by a women's group to run for office. They even have a slogan: "If we can't send Congress to a psychiatrist, let's send a psychiatrist to Congress." . . . That's earl, brother.

Bridge Tricks From Jacobys

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

One of the happiest feelings a gambler can have is when he and then sees his horse win combines a horse in the first race with every horse in the second race and yell, "Come on, Everybody!"

* * *

South had the same feeling about his diamond finesse at trick five. He couldn't have cared less about its failure or success.

* * *

He ruffed the club lead in dummy and was happy to draw trumps with only two leads. Then he cashed his king of diamonds, led a low diamond and covered West's 10 with dummy's jack.

* * *

The finesse won, so South lost no diamonds. Later on, he tried the spade finesse in an effort to make seven but that one lost.

Now he can stand at the rail for the second race and yell, "Come on, Everybody!"

* * *

Suppose the diamond finesse had lost? East would have been on lead with the choice of leading away from his king of spades or giving South a ruff and discard by playing a club. Either would get rid of one of South's spades, the other would go on the long diamond and the slam would make.

* * *

For those who want to look on the dark side of life, we want to point out that West would have been better advised if he had opened a spade. This would set up one sure spade trick for the defense and South would not have been happy when he got around to playing the diamond suit.

He might well have made the correct decision. We'll never know but we can be sure that South would have put in a lot of thought before he got through.

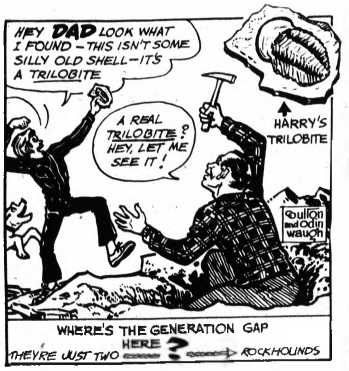
Junior Editors Quiz on GENERATION GAP



QUESTION: Is there a generation gap—if so, why?

ANSWER: A generation gap means the failure of parents and children (or all adults and youngsters) to understand each other.

We don't believe there really is or should be such a gap. It's true the young people are extremely interested in their own ideas. They have to be, since they are concerned with the future, more than the past. But doesn't the future rest on the achievements of the past?

We believe that respect, understanding and love, can cross the so-called gap and make it cease to exist. If you younger people can remember now and then to become interested in what your parents are doing, you can bet your blue and orange shirts they're going to be more interested in YOU!

Of course, it works the other way around as well, for life is a two way street; to have things run smoothly, everyone needs a break.

Look at the picture. Father and son are sharing an excitement together as they discover something new in the absorbing world of nature—where's the generation gap here? (One may find many prints of fossil sea shells in rocks—but to find a print of that rare prehistoric animal, the trilobite—that's something else;)

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Hunters Warned

LANSING (AP)—Deer hunters headed for the Upper Peninsula should plan to buy their hay or straw for bedding north of the Mackinac Bridge, the State Agriculture Department advises. B. Dale Ball, department director, explained the entire Lower Peninsula is under quarantine because of the cereal leaf beetle. Only fumigated hay or straw is allowed across the bridge and it would be much easier for hunters to buy their hay or straw in the Upper Peninsula, Ball said.

Paced by Computer Issues

Stock Mart Continues Climb

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, paced by the computer issues, continued to climb in moderate trading this afternoon, as advances bettered their lead over declines by 300 issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average spurted to 860.22, up 5.02, at noon.

Several analysts saw a statement Thursday by a noted economist, Milton Friedman, as fueling the market. Friedman said the "peak of interest rates may well have been past or could come next month." The prediction, if true, would mean an easing of credit, an incentive for investor buying.

'Mr. Friedman always has been a bellwether economist in the nation," Eldon Grimm, senior vice president of Walston & Co., commented.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up 1.0 to 298.3, with industrials up 1.6, utilities off .3, and rails up 1.5.

Fourteen of the New York Stock Exchange's 20 most-active issues advanced in midday trading, 5 declined, and 1 was unchanged.

American Telephone led the list at 53⅞, up 2¼, on a noon volume of 224,000 shares. The utility plans big rate reductions on interstate telephone calls but said that it would not reduce the interstate rate of return below 8 per cent.

Aid to Minority Businesses Set

Commerce Dept. Tells Nixon Finance Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department has announced a new step in the Nixon administration's Black Capitalism concept with the kickoff of a finance system for minority businessmen.

Calling it "a major new minority enterprise program," Secretary Maurice H. Stans announced Thursday plans to form 18 institutions to lend money to new minority-owned companies.

* * *

Stans reported the government would allocate $15 million at the outset for the minority enterprise small business investment companies—MESBICs.

Stans said 17 such firms have filed with the Commerce Department's Small Business Administration letters of intent indicating they will officially apply for MESBIC loans. Arcata National Corp. of Menlo Park, Calif., has already been funded.

Under the program a corporation or other body with $150,000 can borrow double that amount to use for loans to minority businessmen. The SBA willl implement the program.

Inflation Eats Away at Corporate Profits

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK—A closer look at the corporate profit reports for the recently completed third quarter of the year shows a deterioration that wasn't easily noticed at first glance.

CUNNIFF

Many companies reported surprisingly good earnings. In fact, more than one-half of the big industrial blue chips that make up the widely used Dow Jones stock average reported increases over the April-May-June period.

* * *

The bad news for corporations, however, was revealed by their profit margins or the percentage of net income to gross income. Sharp declines were evident throughout a long list of blue chip companies.

In fact, much of the earnings increases reported by some companies was nothing more than inflation, as pointed out by John Wright, an investment adviser and publisher of Wright Advisory Reports.

INFLATION'S BITE

"Real profits," says Wright, "are now declining, although nominal earnings are up. Dollar earnings for the third quarter were 4.5 per cent ahead f a year ago, but inflation cut dollar power by 5½ per cent."

The net result, Wright observes, is that many companies that reported earnings increases over a year ago actually had declines.

* * *

The profits deterioration shows most clearly by dividing total sales into net income.

An analysis of 25 industry groupings, based on reports through Oct. 31, shows that only six improved their profit margins. The rest remained the same or declined, some of them very sharply.

DROP IS EVIDENT

A year ago, for example, eight printing and publishing companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange had an average profit margin of 6.07 per cent. This year the figure dropped to 5.09 per cent.

A study of incomes for 24 food companies show that profit margins in the third quarter of 1968 were around 4.5 per cent. This year the percentage deteriorated to 3.63.

* * *

Evidence of similar shrinkages can be found throughout industry, strong evidence that the government's slowdown program is being felt strongly, despite the illusion created by some seemingly healthy profit reports.

The impact might be even stronger than is evident from the profit margins. Some companies, for example, have maintained profits simply by raising prices, which is easy enough to do when inflation is at a 6 per cent rate.

BANK'S COMMENTARY

In its monthly economic letter, the First National City Bank comments:

"Indeed, the key to a favorable earnings record often appeared to be the firm's ability to raise prices enough to cover increased costs without cutting sales volume."

* * *

As the slowdown develops, however, these companies no longer will have the opportunity to recoup expenses by charging more for their products. To attempt to do so would mean a loss of sales.

The true picture of corporate profits, therefore, is likely to show up in poor fourth-quarter reports, scheduled to be released in late January and early February.

MORE EVIDENCE

Additional evidence that the cooling off is producing a shiver in the business world is revealed by a Research Institute of America study of business plans for capital spending.

Private and government studies this year showed that, despite warnings out of Washington that the economy would be restrained, businessmen continued to hold to their plans to spend heavily on improving their plants.

* * *

Such studies portrayed industry executives in such an expansive mood that nothing short of an impending recession would change their minds. Now their minds may be changing.

Based on a semiannual poll just completed, the RIA, a private, industry-supported research and advisory service concludes that plans are being scaled down now and that the capital spending boom is ending.

Romney Hails Labor Pact on Prefab Homes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three AFL-CIO construction unions signed Thursday a unique contract to build prefabricated houses on an assembly line basis without any jurisdictional friction.

Secretary George Romney of the Housing and Urban Development Department hailed the contract as a significant step toward industrial home building that could eventually help solve the nation's critical housing shortage.

"The housing shortage is much bigger than 26 million units," the goal set by the government last year for needed housing in the next decade, Romney said.

"We're not catching up on this shortage, we're falling behind," he said.

3 AFL-CIO UNIONS

The AFL-CIO Carpenters, Plumbers and Brotherhood of Electrical Workers signed the contract with Prestige Structures Inc. of Charlotte, Mich., to build homes in a factory.

The agreement included a provision allowing members of each of the unions working in the factory to step across traditional craft lines when necessary, a jurisdictional question that sometimes causes major strikes on conventional construction projects.

* * *

Alan Ginsburg, executive vice president of VTR Inc. of New York, parent firm of Prestige Structures, said workers will be paid up to $4.30 an hour and that the firm eventually will produce 2,500 homes a year. It has built 150 so far, he said.

He said a three-bedroom home with one bath and all utilities would cost "well under $10,000" plus the cost of a lot, which would bring the average price to around $15,000.

The firm now employs 85 workers and will soon increase to 350, Ginsburg said.

Romney, who attended the signing ceremony at AFL-CIO headquarters, said the concept of industrial, assembly-line home building could eventually help relieve the heavy demand for new houses and predicted other firms would be formed in the relatively new field.

Better Balance

Research at Iowa State University indicates several advantages from seeding Kentucky bluegrass as compared to sodding. For one thing there is better balance between tops and roots, deeper rooting.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — Can you tell me anything about the O-T-C Securities Fund? Since the "counter market" seems to be the birthplace of tomorrow's blue chips, I would think this would be a good investment.—D. M.

A — This small-performance fund has scored above-average gains since its founding in 1956. In a comparison of 10-year investment results through 1968, O-T-C Fund was among the top 10 per cent. Its approximately $2 million in assets are invested primarily in common stock with many fine growth issues represented in its portfolio. The fund may not buy on margin or transact short sales, buy commodities or real estate or hold more than 10 per cent of the voting shares in any one company.

Interest-Ceiling Cutoff Gains

LANSING (AP) — Acting at the request of brokers, the taxation committee of the Michigan House has approved a bill to remove a six - per - cent ceiling on municipal bond interest rates until July 1, 1971.

* * *

The bill, introduced by Rep. Ray Smit, R - Ann Arbor, was reported out Thursday after market experts said some $1.5 billion worth of issues – including recently approved local water pollution control and recreation notes – are expected to flood the market in the next two months.

* * *

The committee had reviewed Smith's bill for several weeks. Testimony Thursday indicated that $167 million of local bonds have failed to find buyers so far this year.

A generally tight money market, coupled with unfavorable credit ratings of many debt ridden communities, contributes to the difficulty, experts said.

News in Brief

A $300 diamond ring and a box of rare coins valued at $125 were reported stolen in a break-in yesterday at the home of Alva Howard, 53, of 109 Osceola, according to Pontiac police.

Nixon Vietnam Stance Eases Many Southeast Asian Leaders' Fears

News Analysis

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS

JAKARATA, Indonesia (AP) —While President Nixon's Vietnam war speech was aimed primarily at troubled Americans at home, it is likely to bring some reassurance to Asian leaders who fear sudden American withdrawal.

Nixon rejected consideration of precipitate withdrawal, declaring reduction of U.S. forces would be coordinated with South Vietnam's increased military capabilities.

* * *

Southeast Asian leaders, in interviews in the last few weeks, have almost uniformly expressed deep concern that the United States would, under pressure at home, leave South Vietnam with such abruptness that its confidence in itself would be destroyed.

"We were really not worried about President Thieu falling. It's President Nixon we're worried about," said an Asian diplomat.

DIRECT RATIO

The intensity of Southeast Asian leaders' fears of South Vietnam falling to the Communists is usually in direct ratio to their distance from that war zone. Laotians, whose country is part of the Vietnam war, are extraordinarily agitated. Indonesians see Vietnam as distinctly secondary to their domestic problems.

Seni Pramoj, articulate opposition leader in Thailand, said: "Of course, Vietnam is an Asian problem. But is the United States going to pull back into its shell? Can you remain in your shell? Can you let China expand its influence? In the end, what?"

One of the most pervasive concerns in connection with South Vietnam is that a sudden U.S. withdrawal might create a vacuum and resulting inaction that would destroy the Saigon government's tenuous military and political capabilities.

Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, often critical of U.S. policies in Asia, said last week that the U.S. withdrawal from South Vietnam must be carried out with extreme care.

"The leaders' will to resist the Communists must not be allowed to melt," he observed. "And that, I think, is one of the dangers of too precipitous a disengagement from South Vietnam. The Americans have gone and carried this stone longer than they wanted to, but they have got to carry it just long enough to make quite sure the South Vietnamese government stands a fighting chance . . . I would say that is one of the crucial objectives for any timetable of disengagement."

A senior Malaysian diplomat declared his main concern was that the United States might renege on promises to accelerate training of South Vietnam' troops.

* * *

"Southeast Asia understands your withdrawal plans but fears total abandonment," he said.

MAIN CONCERN

The main concern of other Southeast Asians is not that overt invasion of their lands would follow a Communist take-over in South Vietnam but that existing Communist insurgency would increase.

Zainal Sulong, a senior Malaysian Foreign Office official, said: "Our reaction to Vietnam and its possible fall is partly the domino theory and partly internal subversion. What happens in Vietnam will affect our border. We must watch out for shipment of arms from Vietnam to the border."

* * *

These expressions of concern likely will be alleviated for the moment by Nixon's position.

Cancer Focus on Small Town

Project Hunts Clues in High Occurrence

THIEF RIVER FALLS, Minn. (UPI) — Multiple myeloma is a rare form of bone marrow cancer. In a community the size of Thief River Falls (population 8,000), it should occur only once in five years.

Last year, there were five cases of multiple myeloma in Thief River Falls in a few months.

* * *

That is why Thief River Falls has become a kind of municipal test tube. Within the past two months, the Minnesota Health Department, the United States Public Health Service and the Mayo Clinic of Rochester, Minn., have combined to make it so.

* * *

They set out to run blood tests on every citizen in the area over 50 to find the reason for the cluster of multiple myeloma. They hoped for 1,000 samples. Thanks to the unflustered hard-headedness of the Thief River Falls people, they got 1,400.

IT WAS EASY

As it turned out, it was easy. The medical specialists feared Thief River Falls would be scared of the thought of cancer. Personal letters were sent to those slated for testing. There were explanations broadcast and printed on radio, television and in the newspapers.

* * *

When the field representatives arrived in October, they expected the job would take them up to two weeks. They were finished in one.

* * *

Dr. Sidney Finkelstein, an official of the state Health Department who was in charge of the program, said the response was a little hard to believe.

* * *

"We didn't turn anyone away," he said. "The more samples we get, the better our sample will be."

COOPERATION HAILED

He credited the careful advance work and the cooperation of the local radio station and newspaper for the success of the program.

* * *

"We were prepared to go into homes but nearly everyone came to us," Finkelstein said. "Most of them made appointments and came to the Northwestern Hospital," the project headquarters.

* * *

Don Olson, news director at KTRF, said the townspeople "seemed to feel they were supporting a civic venture rather than worrying about an exotic problem."

* * *

"There were no fears, no worries, merely curiosity and desire to help in what doctors called a pioneer medical study," Olson said.

* * *

The doctors are not sure they will find the answer to why Thief River Falls should suddenly have five confirmed cases of multiple myeloma. But they're trying.

Ex-Editor Joins House GOP Staff

LANSING (AP) — House Republican leader Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, has announced the appointment of Carmen Seats, former city editor of the Owosso Argus-Press, to the House Republican staff as an administrative assistant.

* * *

Seats had been employed by the Owosso newspaper since 1961 and formerly worked for newspapers at Holland, Mich., and Kettering, Ohio. Waldron said he will handle research assignments dealing with current issues and legislation for the 83 House Republicans.

A Court Suit Seeks To Stop Use Of This Lake Drain

Waterford Residents Sue

Drain Use Halt Sought

A suit was filed in Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday to halt the use of a storm drain running into a picturesque lagoon of Williams Lake in Waterford Township.

Residents of Lake Williams Heights subdivision claim the 42-inch drain will pollute the lake near a swimming beach.

★ ★ ★

Waterford Township Attorney John McGrath filed the suit, which seeks to enjoin the drain builders or water in the drain from trespassing on the subdivision's dedicated park.

The large drain extends nine feet on to the parkland which surrounds the lagoon, according to McGrath.

'BUILDERS GOOFED'

"The builders of the drain goofed," McGrath commented. "They didn't get an easement on the parkland for the drain."

He explained the consent of all lot owners, which number more than 150, would have to be given for the easement.

★ ★ ★

Named as defendants in the suit, McGrath said, are:

Mildred K. Campbell, deed holder of nearby land setto become an apartment site; general contractor Leon Blanchura of 2520 Airport who bought the land on land contract; builders and developers Holtzman and Silverman of Southfield, who bought into the land contract and installers of the drain Weismann Contracting Corp. of Redford.

The 42-inch drain runs from an apartment-single-family home development site on Airport Road north of Williams Lake School, west over private property, down Fortune Street, and across a township-owned lot into the lagoon.

Some 130 residents met last night to discuss the drain and to learn of the court action, McGrath said.

Residents also started to organize a new Williams Lake Association. Another organizational meeting was set for Dec. 4 at Williams Lake School.

Schools Name 2 Canvassers

Charles E. Meissner of 476 Lynch and Philip L. Weber of 2483 Walce, West Bloomfield Township, were appointed by the Pontiac School Board last night to the board of canvassers to fill two terms ending Dec. 31, 1973.

Meissner, a Republican, was an unsuccessful candidate for a seat on the Pontiac School Board in June. Weber is a Democrat.

★ ★ ★

The four members of the Board of Canvassers certify votes in school district elections.

Also at last night's meeting, Assistant Supt. William Lacy reported the official fourth Friday enrollment of Pontiac Schools totals 24,474 students.

SUBJECT TO AUDIT

This count is used to determine the school district's state aid revenue.

The figures are subject to audit by the Michigan Department of Education, Lacy said.

★ ★ ★

Lewis Crew, a personnel director for Pontiac Schools, reported the 1969-70 staffing of teaching personnel included 135 new and 26 returning teachers.

Of these, 51 are men and 110 are women; 62.7 per cent are white, 35.4 per cent are black and 1.9 per cent are other (Chinese, Spanish American, etc.).

AGENDA APPOINTMENT

Norma Pond of 137 Oliver, secretary of the Pontiac Schools Human Relations Committee, speaking for the group, asked the board last night why the committee had not been given a spot on the agenda.

The committee, a product of the school board, had requested a permanent appointment on the agenda in order to communicate with the board.

★ ★ ★

"If the board feels the committee is not important, we would like to know," Miss Pond said.

Board Chairman Russell Brown said the board is considering the appointment request.

MEETING IGNORED

Members of the school board were invited to the last meeting of the Human Relations Committee Oct. 20, but only Dr. Robert Turpin attended. Committee members said they had received no notifications from other board members who did not attend.

Board member Christopher Brown suggested the committee is meaningless and a waste of time, because the board has ignored many of its recommendations.

★ ★ ★

William Anderson, president of the board when the committee was formed, said he feels the committee is important and would like to attend its meetings. He said he was on vacation Oct. 20.

Chairman Brown agreed to try to get the board together for a convenient meeting time with the committee.

Consumer Proposals a Farce, Says Nader

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader has charged President Nixon's proposed consumer protection legislation is "farcical in part and deceptive in the remainder."

Nader launched his attack Thursday by releasing drafts of two administration bills and the text of a letter he was sending to Mrs. Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant on consumer affairs.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Knauer could not be reached for immediate comment.

The letter declared a bill giving statutory standing to the existing White House Consumer Office "adds little to what the office can do presently."

HITS PROPOSAL

Nader also condemned a proposal in the bill to include representatives of business on a 20-member consumer advisory council to be appointed by the President.

"Do you know of any consumer representatives on any of the dozens of industry advisory committees that are attached to various government agencies?" Nader asked, and then answered: "There are none."

★ ★ ★

He said in his letter industries obviously would be happy to "advise and assist your office. The tenor of this entire bill suggests a relationship to the consumer movement similar to company unions vis-a-vis the labor movement a few decades ago."

Nader said it would be wrong to establish a Consumer Protection Division within the Justice Department as the President proposes because the department already represents agencies the new division is supposed to monitor.

'STEP BACKWARD'

"Most important, the draft bill gives no indication of resources requested in terms of funds and manpower," Nader wrote.

He said a second bill, the Consumer Product Testing Act of 1969, "is a step backwards and a serious one at that." Nader contended the measure is vague and gives industrial and commercial standards groups exactly what they wanted.

★ ★ ★

"This bill would lead to quasi-official status to private standards groups, an undermining of the policy of governmental standards arrived at independently for public health, safety and credibility," he said.

As a postscript, Nader said the administration had consulted with trade groups in drawing up its proposed legislation but had failed to communicate with consumer groups.

NAMES GROUPS

Nader named the Grocery Manufacturers Association, the American Retail Federation, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers as businessmen's groups which had been consulted.

"Such preferential access is to be deplored . . . ," Nader said.

★ ★ ★

Under the proposed bills, the consumer office would be created to stimulate and coordinate federal consumer programs, represent consumer interests in other federal programs and channel consumer complaints to the proper agencies.

The consumer protection division's duties would include representation of consumer interests in certain federal proceedings and investigations into the needs, interests and problems of consumers which affect commerce.

Abandoned Philly Boy's Mother Held

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The mother of an 18-month-old boy who died in the home of a foster mother came back Thursday night to claim the body and was charged with abandonment.

The woman, Elba Cruz Lopez, 28, told police she and her five other children were living with a relative in Camden, N.J. Police, who had earlier investigated reports she left the other children with friends and neighbors in North Philadelphia, checked her story and said all the others were at home.

★ ★ ★

More tests were scheduled today on the body of Eric Lopez, the son who died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reese after falling from a hobbyhorse. An autopsy Thursday failed to show the cause of death.

Police said the young boy had gone from hand to hand in the past year and a half before Mr. and Mrs. Reese took him in.

SHE LOVED HIM

"I sure loved that child," said Mrs. Reese, who said she had hoped to adopt Eric.

The childless Mrs. Reese told police she got Eric—without even knowing his last name—from a neighbor across the street. He had been in three other homes in the North Philadelphia section before that.

She said she and her husband, a shipping clerk, already had bought clothing and toys for the child's Christmas.

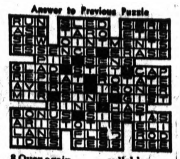
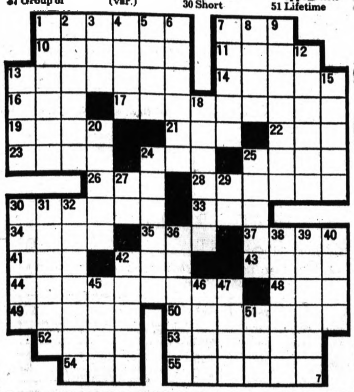
Answer to Previous Puzzle





A Look at TV

Hope Special Falters

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — Musical comedies, unlike wine, do not improve with age. The book of a 1933 Broadway hit, "Roberta," had the look of a period piece when presented in a 90-minute adaptation Thursday night on NBC as a Bob Hope special.

MISS LOWRY

The program was made by putting cameras on a stage play with a theater audience, a procedure which does not help the TV viewer.

* * *

What stood up beautifully were those lovely Jerome Kern-Otto Harbach songs. With Michele Lee and John Davidson singing numbers like "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" and "The Touch of Your Hand," there were some fine moments. And there was also a great fashion show somehow connected with the story of an American boy inheriting a Paris dress designer's salon and a house and having a stormy romance with his new partner, Miss Lee.

* * *

Hope played the part that made him a star—a wisecracking bandleader.

VERY INTERESTING

All sorts of updating was undertaken. Hope's lines included jokes about Jackie Onassis, Tiny Tim and marijuana. The hero was supposed to be a quarterback on the Los Angeles Rams.

It was, in spite of its shortcomings, interesting to watch.

"Debbie Reynolds and the Sound of Children," the preceding NBC special, was a light musical romp and a pleasant if hardly memorable hour.

It teemed with cute children acting out a series of original songs based on the old rhyme starting "Monday's child is fair of face."

* * *

The kids swarmed over playgrounds, sang songs, fed pets. Debbie was a combination Pied Piper, field marshal and star—singing, dancing and troop-leading.

ABC has announced a major overhauling of its schedule starting Jan. 19. It will drop five shows, add four and relocate a number of others.

* * *

Canceled are "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," "Music Scene," and "The New People"—all new shows—plus "Hollywood Palace" and "Dating Game."

* * *

It will move its Wednesday night movies to Monday nights and fill the two-hour period with variety hours starring Johnny Cash and Engelbert Humperdinck. Earlier on Wednesday it will have a new situation comedy, "The Nanny and the Professor."

* * *

"The Pat Paulsen Show" will start the Thursday night schedule and the "Survivors" will be moved to that night. "Love, American Style" will replace Jimmy Durante and the Lennon Sisters Friday nights and they will move to Saturday nights, following Lawrence Welk.

* * *

All the canceled shows have been at the bottom of the Nielsen rating lists.

Income Tax Vote Called in Cadillac

CADILLAC (AP) — Citizens in Cadillac have marshalled petition signers to force a referendum on an income tax proposal recently adopted by their city commissioners.

* * *

As approved by the commissioners, the tax was to have been effective Jan. 1, 1970. But dissident residents Thursday night presented the commissioners with some 390 signatures calling for a popular vote on the matter before it can be enacted.

* * *

The referendum has been set for sometime in February.

High Court Okays Half-Day School

DETROIT (UPI) — The Michigan Supreme Court, flatly laying the blame on the State Board of Education, unanimously ruled today that half-day school sessions are legal in financially troubled school districts.

In a swift opinion on cases brought from the Detroit suburbs of Livonia and Waterford, the court overturned Circuit Court rulings that half-day sessions were unconstitutional.

The court said the State Board of Education was at fault for not defining what constitutes a full day of instruction.

"It is the responsibility of a State Board of Education to supervise . . . public schools . . . and, as a part of that responsibility, to promulgate regulations specifying the number of hours necessary to constitute a school day . . ." the unanimous opinion said.

'FAILED TO LEAD'

Chief Justice Thomas E. Brennan, in announcing the court's ruling at a news conference said, "Their responsibility is to lead and they failed to lead. I think that can be taken as a criticism, yes."

The board has been under fire in recent weeks for allegedly failing to provide the educational leadership required of it by the Michigan Constitution. Gov. William G. Milliken is urging that the eight-member board be abolished and replaced by a single superintendent of public instruction.

The high court heard arguments on the cases only last Tuesday, and Brennan admitted that such swift action in rendering an opinion was "pretty unusual."

★ ★ ★

"But we did fel a need for speed on this thing," he said.

The suits were brought against the school boards in the two communities after half-day classes were ordered because of a shortage of funds.

★ ★ ★

Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman and Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer ruled that the half-day sessions were unconstitutional.

Full school days can now only be resumed in Waterford Township if voters approve the proposed 9-mill property tax hike Nov. 25, acting Supt. Dr. John Pagen said in commenting on the State Supreme Court decision.

RECORD PLEDGE — General Motors Corp. and its Pontiac area employes yesterday reported a record gift of $837,597. Attending yesterday's PAUF luncheon were (from left) Thomas C. Doriss, GM division chairman; Warren H. Elerman, general campaign chairman; F. James McDonald, Pontiac Motor Division general manager and chairman of the local GM Plant City Committee; Miss Lily Boykins of Fisher Body plant; Stephen Toth of Pontiac Motor; Leonard Hylla of GMC Truck and Coach Division; and Richard E. Sova of GM Parts Division.

D.C. March Barred; Nixon In on Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials who refused to issue a permit for a mass march to protest the Vietnam war admit they have not read a report contending a similar rejection helped trigger violence during the 1968 Democratic convention.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst said again yesterday the government would not allow a march of thousands along Pennsylvania Avenue and around the White House Nov. 15 because of "a substantial likelihood of serious violence."

Mayor Richard J. Daley also raised the specter of potential violence to bar a march during the Democratic National Convention in Chicago last year.

Although the National Violence Commission reported earlier this year Daley's permit refusal was a key factor in confrontations that followed, both Kleindienst and a key aide, John W. Dean III, said they were unfamiliar with the findings.

COLLECTIVE DECISION

"I'll be honest with you," Dean told a news conference Thursday. "I did not go over that material, no." With a nod, Kleindienst indicated he had not read the report either.

But Kleindienst added the decision to bar a mass march was a "collective decision of the executive branch of government," including President Nixon, made in accordance with "facts and circumstances as they exist in Washington, D.C.," and "not necessarily in relation to Chicago."

Ron Young, an official of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, coordinator of next week's activities, said the group would continue efforts to obtain a permit.

There "is a possibility," he said, the committee will attempt a mass parade to the White House even if the government stands by its decision to forbid the march.

★ ★ ★

Kleindienst, the Justice Department's No. 2 official, acknowledged the New Mobilization Committee had pledged to keep the demonstration peaceful.

But some "pro-violence groups," he said, "are seeking to infiltrate the mass march." He identified only the militant Weatherman section of the Students for a Democratic Society.

★ ★ ★

Dean added: "In fairness to the New Mobe committee, they have not brought under their umbrella any one known to have been involved in violent activity."

New Mobe spokesmen, meanwhile, disputed Kleindienst's predictions of violence, claiming the charge was made to frighten would-be participants.

★ ★ ★

The Rev. Richard Fernandez of Philadelphia, director of Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam, a protest sponsor, accused Kleindienst of telling "a patent lie" in saying students from the University of Wisconsin and Massachusetts Institute of Technology may be planning to "engage in violent conduct" since disruptions had occurred on both campuses.

PAUF at 86.9 Pct.; Drive Extended

By DIANNE DUROCHER

More than 13 per cent short of its goal, the 1969 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign (PAUF) — scheduled to end today — has been extended at least one week, campaign chairman Warren H. Elerman announced yesterday.

The length of the extension will hinge on next week's report, Elerman told 75 volunteers at the third campaign report luncheon yesterday, sponsored by local businessmen, at the Holiday Inn, Bloomfield Township.

★ ★ ★

This is the third consecutive year the annual fund drive has had to be extended.

Campaign pledges to date total $1,077,935 — or 86.9 per cent of the original goal of $1.24 million.

GM IS HAILED

Elerman congratulated General Motors Corp. and its Pontiac-area employes for being the first major division to report 100 per cent of its goal or $837,597.

The figure includes gifts totalling $647,597 from hourly and salaried employes and an all-time high GM corporate gift of $190,000.

★ ★ ★

F. James McDonald, Pontiac Motor Division general manager and local GM Plant - City Committee chairman, thanked the campaigners and contributors for their excellent work. He saluted the unions representing GM hourly employes for their support of the PAUF campaign and the 55 agencies it serves.

PARTICIPATING LOCALS

GM employe locals participating in the PAUF drive are United Auto Workers Locals 653, serving Pontiac Motor Division and GM Parts Division; 594 of GMC Truck and Coach Division; 596 of Fisher Body Plant and locals of the Pattern Makers League of North America and the United Plant Guard Workers of America.

"It appears that we still have a good chance of reaching our goal, and I urge all volunteers to get out and finish their solicitations and assignments by next Friday's meeting," Elerman said.

★ ★ ★

The community division, led by Mrs. Vincent Bronsing, yesterday reported $15,769 or 95.2 per cent of its $16,548 goal.

The figure includes area contributions from: Pontiac, $946 or 35 per cent; Waterford Township, $6,606 or 127 per cent; Independence Township, $2,383, or 86.6 per cent; Orion Township, $2,962 or 106.7 per cent and Oxford Township, $2,149 or 89.5 per cent.

★ ★ ★

The commercial division, led by Howard Nelson, reported $119,562 or 63.8 per cent of the $417,992 goal.

★ ★ ★

Lawrence Wiseman, chairman of the manufacturing division, reported $18,314 or 38.2 per cent of the $47,822 goal. The advance gifts division, headed by Richard Fisher, reported $99,927 or 74.8 per cent of its $133,582 goal.

★ ★ ★

Next Friday's report meeting will be at noon at the Pontiac Elks Lodge, 114 Orchard Lake.

Drug-Offender Aid Proposed

By JIM LONG

Terming the punishment of young drug offenders as "ineffectual," an Oakland County circuit judge has proposed that the county take new and immediate steps toward their rehabilitation.

The appearance of five youths before him for sentencing on drug offenses yesterday prompted Judge Arthur E. Moore to recommend alternatives to imprisonment.

★ ★ ★

He delayed sentencing the five, ranging in age from 17 to 21, until he receives a response to a letter outlining his plan to the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

In writing board Chairman George Edwards, Moore urged that the county make three "emergency provisions."

- The establishment of at least two half-way houses where drug addicts and other young people can be sheltered and supervised while undergoing psychological and psychiatric treatment.
- A program operated by the county mental health or health department providing the circuit court or the probation department with adequate medical and scientific treatment for drug offenders.
- Additional probation officers to adequately supervise the "excessive" load of drug cases.

'LACKS EFFECTIVE PROGRAM'

Moore said that the county presently does not have an effective program in the handling of drug users.

"This leaves the sentencing judge with the dilemma of imprisonment without treatment or probation with contagion to the community," Moore said.

★ ★ ★

Moore also sent a letter of his plan to Arthur Jalkenan, chairman of the supervisors Drug Abuse Committee and dean of students at the Oakland Community College Auburn Hills campus.

Weekend Climate Fine for Powwows

The weatherman predicts an Indian summer weekend for Pontiac area residents, with temperatures in the 60s.

According to the five-day forecast, temperatures will average 10 degrees above the normal high of 44 - 51 and normal low of 27-33 through Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Tomorrow's high is expected to reach 61.

No rainfall is predicted until the middle of next week. Sunday's outlook is partly sunny and continued mild.

★ ★ ★

Probabilities of precipitation are near zero today, tonight and tomorrow.

Thirty-five was the recorded low before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. By 12:30 p.m. the mercury had climbed to 48.

$30-Million Budget a Record

By JEAN SAILE

It took five roll call votes yesterday, but Oakland County's 1970 budget, for a record $30 million, was approved by the board of supervisors on a 23-3 vote.

Recording no were Thomas O'Donoghue, D-Ferndale; Niles Olson D-Orion Township, and Christian Powell, R-West Bloomfield Township.

The salary package — $14 million containing an average 10 per cent increase for county employes — hurdled two amendments to pass unchanged.

Powell had attempted to reduce the package $118,210 by a series of graduated cutbacks in proposed pay raises. Another amendment, introduced by James Brennan, D-Berkley, would have slashed pay raises 20 per cent across the board. It would, however, have left $500 as a minimal increase.

SAVINGS SPLIT SUGGESTED

Powell suggested the savings from his amendment should be split two ways — $50,000 going to a salaries contingency fund to repair any specific inequities and the remaining $68,210 transferred to the operating budget as a cushion against reduced nontax revenues which he suggested had been "strained" to meet the commitments of the budget.

GOOD NEWS TONIGHT! 7:30 at the Alliance Church, 220 N. Cass Lake Road at M-59. —Adv.

Brennan's argument was that a 20 per cent reduction would bring the over-all increase down to what he called the national average — 8.1 per cent versus the 10 per cent proposed.

★ ★ ★

Powell's amendment failed by a 20-5 vote and Brennan's by a 19-6 vote. The votes followed a charge by William L. Mainland, D-Milford Township, that the budget was "being nibbled to death by ducks."

Mainland contended his committee had made cuts in the area of new personnel to be hired, reducing that number to 73 from the 156 requested. He said the raises proposed were deemed necessary in order to retain experienced personnel.

FUNDS FOR ELDERLY

The only budget change made was in the area of senior citizen program funding.

★ ★ ★

An amendment introduced by James Mathews, D-Pontiac, saw the transfer of $78,000 from the $699,672 contingent fund to a senior citizen program to be administered by the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity with approval by the Board of Supervisors. The issue passed by a voice vote.

★ ★ ★

An appropriation to the OCCEO of $39,325 already in the budget, was not touched.

Another amendment which would have doubled the county's present roads appropriation was tabled by a vote of 20-5.

COMMISSION FUNDS LACKING

The roads amendment was introduced by Lawrence Pernick, D-Southfield. He noted the $400,000 already contained in the county's budget for roads, but said that due to lack of money in the Road Commission it may be impossible for that body to come up with the $400,000 it needs to match the county's money. A third portion of road work funds is to be

The information breakdown is designed, the IRS said, to assist federal agencies and state and local governments plan for their various projects and programs.

Four Key Tax Measures Sent to State Senate Floor

LANSING (AP) — In a burst of speed and politicking, the Senate Taxation Committee has sent four revenue bills to the floor and cleared the way for action on Gov. William Milliken's education reform package.

Two key Milliken tax proposals were pried from committee late yesterday after one previously dissident GOP member switched his "no" vote to "aye."

★ ★ ★

The measures would eliminate the property tax credit on the income tax — pulling in some $116 million — and call for a popular vote on a 16-mill statewide property tax.

Two others, both Democrat-sponsored bills, would remove machinery and equipment supplies used in agriculture and industry from the sales and use tax exemption roles. That would make an extra $60 million, sponsors said.

REMAINED IN COMMITTEE

The governor's proposed five-cent-a-pack increase in the state cigarette tax remained in committee, as did several other bills to remove various tax exemptions.

Yesterday afternoon, Sen. Gordon Rockwell, R.-Mount Morris — one of three Republicans on the five-member committee — joined Democratic members John Bowman of Roseville and John McCauley of Wyandotte in refusing to put out the bill.

★ ★ ★

Within the half-hour Rockwell got a call from the executive office and conferred with two Republican colleagues, then reversed his stand and voted to report the bill.

"I intend to oppose the bills" on the floor, he said.

The tax bills, introduced earlier this year by Bowman and McCauley, would hike taxes on such items as machines used in auto plants; ploughs, tractors and combines at work on farms; and presses and stereotyping equipment used to publish newspapers.

★ ★ ★

Bowman said he wanted to "give the businessman up and down the block the same tax advantage as the big guys."

Defense Cost Foes Active

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate defense-cost critics are plotting new drives to cut arms spending, including curbing the Safeguard antimissile system, despite their largely unsuccessful efforts with the $20.7-billion military procurement authorization bill.

Leaders of the bipartisan coalition opposing the administration's missile defense proposal began laying their latest plans even before yesterday's 58-9 Senate vote sent the compromise procurement bill to the White House.

Their new target is the $70-billion-plus defense appropriations measure scheduled for consideration next month.

But the efforts to amend the money bill by limiting Safeguard funds to research could be hampered by pressures to end the year-long congressional session and adjourn for the Christmas holidays.

PROXMIRE'S PLANS

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., announced the plans to make new assaults not only on the Safeguard but on other items in the appropriations measure.

* * *

President Nixon is expected to sign within the next few days the authorization measure that drew some criticism during a three-hour final debate yesterday. The House approved it in just a few minutes by voice vote Wednesday.

* * *

While this will clear the way for consideration of appropriations legislation, Pentagon backers in the House appear to have set up a schedule that will make it difficult for Proxmire and the anti-Safeguard forces to mount a major fight.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., one of the leaders in the fight, also plans to seek restrictions on U.S. military aid to Laos and Thailand. His amendment to the authorization bill was dropped by Senate-House conferees.

* * *

The House Appropriations Committee, which must originate the money measure, still has to hear from Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird before sending the bill to the full House. It has set Dec. 1 as a tentative date for reporting it.

INNER LOOP ROAD—Concrete is ready to be poured on the city's extension of Wayne Street in downtown Pontiac. Mine Explosion Feared Fatal to 62 in Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Sixty-two miners were believed killed today when cases of explosives apparently were set off accidentally 1½ miles underground in the Buffelsfontein gold mine, the corporation that owns the mine announced here.

"Anyone down there at the time of the blast hasn't a hope in hell," said a spokesman for General Mining and Finance Corp. "It is highly unlikely that anybody caught in a blast like that could survive.

"They were sinking a shaft and at the bottom of a shaft, there is nowhere to hide. The chances of them being sealed up but still alive are nil."

Sixty of the missing miners were black. Two were white.

Rescue workers pulled 29 injured miners to the surface, some in serious condition. Two of the survivors are white, and the others are black.

ACCIDENTAL EXPLOSION

"Half an hour before the blast," the spokesman said, "nine or 10 cases of explosives were sent down the shaft. They must have exploded accidentally

Federal's Plans Glenwood Store

A building permit for a $750,000 new Federal Store in Pontiac represented most of the $1 million in new construction recorded by the city building inspections division during October.

* * *

The store will be in the Glenwood Plaza at Glenwood and Perry. Federal's also has a downtown store at 91 N. Saginaw.

* * *

The new store will open in March or April, according to a company spokesman. None of the company officials contacted would say if the store on North Saginaw would be closed after the new one opens.

* * *

The downtown store's lease reportedly is up for renewal next spring.

* * *

The new store will have 80,000 square feet of space in a single-story building.

* * *

The inspection division also issued permits for four single-family dwelling units with a total value of $84,000. However, seven home demolitions also were approved in the month.

'Back-Door' Foreign Aid—Fulbright

Plan to Give Jets to Asians Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon plans to produce as many as 325 relatively inexpensive, easy-to-fly fighter aircraft for Asian allies including South Vietnam over the next five or six years.

Officials yesterday reported this is the foreseeable demand for the new jet as Sen. J. W. Fulbright attacked the program as "back-door foreign aid."

The plane would go not only to South Vietnam but also to South Korea, Formosa and other countries eligible for U.S. military aid, Pentagon officials said.

Many would be sold but an unspecified number of others also would be given away under the aid program, they said.

'CONTINUED INVOLVEMENT'

Fulbright chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the Pentagon's proposed development of the plane implies the United States expects to be involved in Southeast Asia "for a good many years to come."

Fulbright sharply criticized the plan as a Senate-House conference group completed action on a $20.7 billion military procurement bill containing $28 million for the aircraft.

The Pentagon put in a request for development funds for the plane earlier this year at the suggestion of Rep. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

Fulbright accused Rivers of foisting the new aircraft program onto the Pentagon.

DESIGN NOT CHOSEN

Although the design has not been chosen, Pentagon officials expect the plane to follow or be a revamped version of the Northrop-produced F5 "Freedom Fighter," the standard American giveaway plane which more than a dozen countries have received over past years.

The F5, similar to the Air Force's T38 supersonic trainer, has been popular among the smaller nations because it is not laden with complicated electronics gear requiring intensive training.

* * *

The United States has never used the F5 for its own forces but some 1,000 models have been sold or given away abroad under the aid program.

* * *

The F5 flies up to 1,000 mph and can haul over three tons of missiles or bombs, making it ideal for close support of troops in a war like Vietnam.

Allies probably would be able to buy the new plane for something around $1 pleted action on a $20.7-billion military million each.

Tanker Lifeboat, Body Found at Sea

BOSTON (AP) — An unidentified body and an empty motor lifeboat with the name "Keo" on it were recovered Thursday night about 40 miles southeast of the area where the 629-foot Liberian tanker Keo broke apart Wednesday in a storm and its 36 men were stranded on the stern.

* * *

A Coast Guard spokesman said this morning the body was recovered by the USS Fox during an intensive search of 20,000 miles of ocean off Nantucket.

* * *

Five Coast Guard and five Navy ships searched yesterday and through the night, and planes were to rejoin them at dawn.

* * *

"The chances are that if they are found now they will be in lifeboats or on rafts," a Coast Guard officer said.

Arson Blamed in City Blaze

Arson was blamed by Pontiac fire officials for a blaze at the Salvation Army's Men Social Service Center late last night. Damage mainly was caused by smoke.

Some 70 men were routed out of living quarters in the two-story building at 118 W. Lawrence after the fire broke out near the upholstery shop on the second floor.

* * *

"It was definitely set," said Assistant Fire Chief Charles Metz. "We found evidence of three distinct fires in the area."

* * *

Though firemen were able to confine the fire to a storage area, Metz, said, dense smoke throughout the second floor of concrete and steel building hampered operations.

SMOKE DAMAGE

The fire did not spread into the living quarters, but, according to Maj. Leonard Epsinosa, director of the center, the smoke was so heavy that linens had to be cleaned.

Fire Marshal J. Allen Tunny estimated damage to the contents and building at $2,000.

* * *

The fire department received the alarm at 11:23 p.m. and had the fire under control in less than an hour.

Is Dana Whitmer Hunting a Job?

Is Pontiac Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer seeking employment outside the school district?

* * *

He says no.

However, Mrs. Joan Walker of 168 N. Astor said at last night's school board meeting she had heard he had made applications at Michigan State University, Wayne State University and other colleges.

Whitmer, in response to the question, said he has received many offers in the years he has been superintendent here, but was not interested in any of them.

He added that someday one might turn up that he would be interested in, and at that time he would notify the school board.

Murphy, chairman of the board of auditors, said that should the county not be able to raise all of the money it anticipates from no-tax revenues, the capital building program would be the first cut.

* * *

In other business, the board voted to approve payment of $8,500 to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) for the purpose of winding up the Transportation and Land Use Study (TALUS). The study comes under SEMCOG jurisdiction on the first of the year.

SEMCOG will meet at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at the courthouse auditorium to approve its 1970 budget, it was announced.

A comprehensive report on county involvement in airport operation was presented to the board by Wallace Gabler, R-Royal Oak. Consideration of the report was, however, postponed until the Nov. 20 board meeting.

No action was taken to further supplement Aid to Dependent Children emergency clothing allowances. The $52,500 requested by the Social Services Department in addition to the $90,000 appropriated in September was to be a topic for discussion by the human resources committee at its meeting at 9:30 a.m. today.

A resolution signed by 23 members of the board in which they stated ADC should be a responsibility of the federal government was approved.

Senators Seek Mutual Cease-Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and his Republican counterpart, Hugh Scott, both previously critical of U.S. Vietnam policy, are sponsoring a resolution supporting President Nixon's efforts to end the war but also calling for a "mutually observed cease-fire."

The two Senate leaders would not reveal details of their resolution in advance of its introduction today but Mansfield said he and Scott worked it up to "generate support for the President."

* * *

An aide to Scott said the Senate resolution "requests the President to call on the government of North Vietnam to observe a mutually observed cease-fire."

The proposal comes one day after the House Foreign Affairs Committee approved 21-8 a resolution supporting Nixon's efforts to "negotiate a just peace."

The House measure makes no mention of a cease-fire.

Both Mansfield and Scott previously have proposed ceasefires, but without specifying they should be "mutually observed."

Mansfield said last Oct. 2 he thought the United States should adopt an immediate standfast and cease-fire policy in which U.S. troops would shoot back only when attacked. The Montana Democrat has suggested the war just may fade away if the United States doesn't stir it up.

While he has been mildly critical, Mansfield also has urged that Congress and the people give Nixon their backing.

Speaking of Nixon's efforts to end the war, Mansfield said in the Oct. 2 interview: "He sure as hell wants out. He is just finding the ways and means difficult."

Scott made what appeared to be a proposal for a unilateral cease-fire in Vietnam last month. But after the idea was denounced by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Scott issued another statement saying that he intended to propose a mutual cease-fire.

The Pennsylvania senator also found himself going counter to the administration during the summer when he proposed more troop withdrawals at a time Nixon was trying to fend off such pressures from Democrats. At that time he was the assistant Republican leader.

* * *

The Senate leaders decided to go with introduction of the resolution today, Scott's aide said, after getting 34 signatures early yesterday afternoon—with still more senators saying they wanted to cosponsor it.

The House resolution, largely fashioned by Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., and introduced three days ago, has the backing of 181 members.

AMENDMENTS DEFEATED

No hearings were held prior to the closed committee session. Among amendments defeated were ones calling for public and executive hearings, and support for Nixon's determination to withdraw ground combat forces at the earliest practicable date.

"This will be an affirmation of the President's policy giving him an open ended authority to do what he wants in the name of gaining a just peace," Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., said. Fraser voted against the resolution.

Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., another opponent, said, "This obviously is an attempt to intimidate the moratorium crowd."

She Knows the Needs of Handicapped Firsthand

By T. LARRY ADCOCK

"You want to know how I found out I was handicapped?" Mrs. Evelyne ("Call me Evelyne") Villines asked.

"I was a little girl and I walked to school the very first day . . . My teacher sent me home to tell my mother that she didn't have time to teach a crippled child.

* * *

"But there was a happy ending. The next day I went to school with the mayor—that was my dad—and with the president of the school board—that was my uncle."

A little help from her friends and, more importantly, from her loved ones was the key to Evelyne's successful life in a world of men and women who do not have braces on their legs as she does.

BUSY WOMAN

Evelyne is executive secretary of the Iowa Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, the American Association on Mental Deficiency, the Iowa Association for Retarded Children—or as her very young son labels his mother, with sincerity and affection, "a professional cripple."

Evelyne spoke yesterday morning in Waterford Township at the second Oakland County Conference on Mental Health, sponsored by the Regional Interagency Committee on Mental Retardation of Oakland County.

Her likening of physical handicaps to mental handicaps was apropos. Society is beginning to understand physical disabilities, to cope with people who are afflicted with them and to treat them as people.

Now is the time to apply the same understanding to the people-problem of mental retardation.

A great portion of Evelyne's address was taken up in criticism of too-typical relationships between mental retardation counselor and "client."

'LADEN WITH CASES'

"I am concerned about our counselors who are working with people but are so laden with cases that they never get to really know their clients.

* * *

"What if one day a fire burned all our files? The next day our clients would come in, and probably the first thing we would ask them is their names and what they wanted to do with their lives.

"Our files get thicker and thicker and we become more and more impersonal. We have to give our clients the chance to speak and realize their goals. Maybe their goals are unrealistic —were yours?

"I know a young man in Iowa who became very bored with his institutional training. All he wanted to do in life was drive a fire engine—because then he too could participate in part of life's excitement.

"Fortunately for my friend, he had a very good counselor. Today, the young man is one of the best janitors any fire department ever had."

Speaking on employing handicapped and the mentally retarded persons, Evelyne stressed the need for preparing not only the employer and the supervisor for working with the "client," but the co-workers as well.

* * *

"The mentally retarded worker so needs the help and the friendship of his fellow workers. What happens during the coffee break? Does he have to sit in the corner by himself? What is to happen to that retarded worker after 5 o'clock?

* * *

"We get so hung up on training programs that we sometimes forget to teach our clients how to live. So many of our kids just exist. We must eliminate these dehumanizing practices and replace them with instruction for things we would be bitterly fighting for if we did not take them so much for granted . . .

LOVE, RESPECT

"Things like love, respect and dignity.

"Everyone, including the handicapped and mentally retarded, must live life to the fullest.

"Everyone needs someone to love and something to hope for.

* * *

"With professional dedication, ladies and gentlemen, this love and hope is what you can provide."

Parents Praise 2 Who Care

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

WEST BLOOMFIELD — People who care were lauded last night by parents of children with learning disabilities.

Carl Childress, principal of Doherty School, and Mrs. Rheba Cope, head of the district's special education department, were awarded plaques by Dr. A. Witham, superintendent of West Bloomfield schools.

* * *

Childress and Mrs. Cope were honored for "good will on their own time and with concern and feeling for children and parents," according to Mrs. Howard Jacobs, president of the West Bloomfield Association for Children with Learning kisabilities.

Mrs. Cope, a social worker, runs the special education services under the district's philosophy, "Every child is entitled to an education to the limit of his potential."

SPECIAL OPPORTUNITIES

The program offers special classes for the mentally handicapped, an adjusted study program for children with emotional difficulties and individual Disabilities.

West Bloomfield has three classrooms in which trained teachers work with mentally handicapped children through junior high school. Senior high students are sent to special educational programs in other districts.

Boys unable to learn effectively in regular classrooms are placed in an adjusted study program created last year. Boys who are socially immature, withdrawn, or overly active to the point of disrupting class frequently qualify for this program, according to Mrs. Cope.

Special teachers train the boys to better handle their emotions while keeping up the youngsters' academic standings.

RANGE OF ACTIVITIES

Classroom activities range from traditional academic lessons to game sessions.

'Every Child Is Entitled To An Education To The Limit Of His Potential'
—Mrs. Cope

"The program tries to provide an environment around the child which will enable him to utilize what the school has to offer him," says Mrs. Cope.

* * *

Mrs. Cope ran the program by herself last year but requests for counseling became so great that another social worker and a psychologist were hired.

The social worker, Mrs. Jeanette Freier and the psychologist, Mrs. Gayle Beck — who will take over as special education coordinator next month — aid Mrs. Cope in holding confidential interviews with the children and parents.

OTHER RESOURCES

Students needing more help are sent to a consulting sychiatrist. Services of other community agencies such as family-service organizations, child-guidance clinics and even courts are utilized when needed.

* * *

Children needing aid usually are referred by teachers, parents and courts. Occasionally a child will walk in by himself, asking for help, according to Mrs. Cope.

* * *

Parents of children with learning disabilities also need some help occasionally. Childress helped fill this need by organizing regular meetings of parents to discuss the problems a child with special disabilities may provide.

* * *

Mothers meet every two weeks and couples meet every four. The program includes a speaker every other month.

Learning disailbites in children are a common problem, but many parents have a hard time accepting it at first," says Mrs. Jacobs. "Engaging in this form of group therapy helps. Who else would understand the little things — the little achievements your child will make — but other parents with similar circumstances.

PROVIDES A FORUM

"You can say things to one another you might hesitate to say otherwise. You can discuss how the child fits into your home life, school and society," she added.

* * *

Mrs. Jacobs explained the group started about six years ago as a perceptual development group when parents realized that they should stay together. Today there are more than 30 couples in the group.

School Building Talks Delayed

Decisions on the type of new schools needed to handle increasing student enrollment were deferred by the Huron Valley Board of Education until a special meeting Monday.

Action was delayed because two board members — Dr. Norman Krieger and Bernard Loftus — were absent from last night's session.

* * *

The 9 p.m. meeting Monday is at the Board office, 7404 E. Highland.

Last month the board approved holding an election for a school bonding issue Feb. 2, 1970.

BUILDING PLANS

The projected number of students for 1974-75 is 10,408. The board is discussing plans for two elementary schools, a junior high school and a senior high school. Total building capacity when finished should be around 10,558.

A citizens committee appointed to study the problems recommended that separate schools for junior and senior high students be built, possibly on the same site.

Wixom Drain Project Hit

WIXOM — An Oakland County supervisor has jumped into the simmering storm drain controversy here.

* * *

Lew L. Coy, 2942 Loon, representing District 27, says he'll appeal to the City Council next Wednesday to drop plans for a 36-inch storm drain that would serve the Birch Park subdivision on the south side of Loon Lake. The drain empties next to a bathing beach.

Construction of the drain, nearly half completed, was halted three weeks ago after residents in the subdivision, fearing pollution of the lake, called on City Council to halt the $125,000 project. Included in the cost was paving of several streets in the subdivision.

The council ordered the work stopped pending a hearing before state officials on the pollution question.

NOT RESOLVED

That hearing was held in Lansing a week ago but officials admitted the pollution question was not resolved.

"This is a new concept," says Coy, "considering treatment of storm water before it enters a lake."

* * *

Coy lives in Birch Park subdivision. "I've stayed out of the issue until now, since am a supervisor, because I didn't want it to become political," said Coy. "Now I feel I have to get involved."

Coy has talked privately with several members of the council but he's not convinced they'll issue a permanent order to halt construction of the drain.

'AT THEIR MERCY'

"So I'll go to council next Wednesday and appeal to them. I'll ask them why is it that we have to have state legislation to keep our local officials from contaminating one of our natural resources. Really, we're at the mercy of our local officials.

"And if we don't do something about this type of pollution, then Oakland County will have a lot of mudholes one of these days."

* * *

Seriousness of the drainage situation as it contributes to pollution is reflected somewhat in correspondence Coy has received from Dr. Bernard D. Berman, Oakland County health director.

In his letter to Coy, Dr. Berman says "Let me first point out that the Oakland County Health Department has no direct legal authority to approve or disapprove the location or design of storm water drainage systems."

DIFFERENT OUTLET

In earlier correspondence, Dr. Berman had questioned the location of the drain outlet. He had recommended the outlet be relocated down stream from the bathing beach.

Continuing from his latest letter to Coy, Dr. Berman says, "Questions regarding pollution of lakes by storm water drainage have been raised in several areas of Oakland County.

* * *

Any drainage of inhabited areas into water courses carries with the flow some degree of undesirable contamination. It has been felt that the high dilution factor limited the seriousness of such pollution.

"The ultimate remedy . . . would be to collect and treat all runoff waters. This would be highly impractical and expensive . . .

CLOSE BEACH

"I will recommend to our County Board of Supervisors and our legislative representatives that legislation be considered which would provide for review of the location, design and impact on water quality of storm water drainage systems by health and natural resource consultants."

The only other course of action open to health officials at the moment is to close bathing beaches after it is determined the water is polluted.

Health Dept. Findings

Seminary Not Polluting Water

ORCHARD LAKE—Sts. Cyril and Methodius Seminary, Orchard Lake and Commerce, has received a clean bill of health from the Oakland County Department of Health following a series of pollution tests run on water samples taken from a section of Orchard Lake that fronts seminary property.

The testing was conducted following complaints from residents living in the area of the seminary alleging that a "foul odor" was being emitted from the water near a drain pipe that runs through the seminary grounds.

* * *

The seminary had erected temporary storm drains during construction of building additions in order to effectively drain the property for excavation and construction.

Seminary officials explained that absolutely no sewage was being piped into the lake. The seminary's sewage system is hooked onto the Farmington interceptor line.

'GOOD RESULTS'

Melvin Goldman, an official with the Health Department's Environmental Health Division, said that the complete series of tests revealed good results.

He said that, although the laboratory testing indicated there was no problem with the water at this time, periodic tests would continue to be taken.

* * *

Goldman said the "smell" in the water possibly could have been due to the fact that the water running through the drain had been lodged in the ground for some time.

Mystery Surrounds Death of Rochester Man in Fire

ROCHESTER — Why Loyce D. Snyder ran back into his burning house early yesterday morning will always remain a mystery.

* * *

Snyder, 40, the father of five children, was awakened by his two youngest boys around 2:30 a.m. yesterday. They smelled smoke. He gathered his wife, Laura, and four of the children and led them out of the house, at 145 Romeo.

* * *

"Only God will ever know why he returned to the house," said Rochester Fire Chief Lyle Buchanan, "although we're assuming he thought his oldest boy, 17-year-old Daniel, was missing and he went back in to look for him."

* * *

Daniel had run to a next-door neighbor (Mrs. Helen Mowat) to call the fire department. "Call the fire department — we're on fire," he told her.

ALREADY BLAZING

"The house was already blazing by then," said Mrs. Mowat.

Firemen later found Snyder's body in the first-floor laundry room of the home. He had been trapped by the smoke and flames. There was only one small burn mark on his hand.

* * *

Chief Buchanan estimated the damage at $30,000. He said it was close to a total loss. "We don't think we'll ever know the real cause of the fire," said Buchanan, "but we do think it started in the kitchen; maybe someone had accidentally left a stove burner on."

* * *

Buchanan said the house had just been rewired and the fuses were in good condition. "It's just one of those unexplainable things," he said. He ruled out arson or foul play in the fire.

GROUPS MEETING

Snyder worked in the advertising and sales promotion department of Ford Tractor Operations, 2500 E. Maple, Birmingham.

* * *

Snyder's neighbor, Mrs. Mowat, said several groups are meeting this morning to decide how they can help the family.

* * *

Service for Snyder will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at Pixley Memorial Chapel, Rochester, with burial in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery, Troy.

* * *

Airport Push Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved the Nixon administration's plan for vast expansion of the nation's air system over the next 10 years, with airline passengers and other users footing much of the bill.

* * *

The program calls for 800 new airports of varying sizes and $12 billion worth of radar, automatic landing equipment and other navigational facilties.

Space Bill Forwarded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved and sent to the Senate a $3.7-billion authorization bill for space expenditures in the year ending next June 30.

* * *

The bulk of the funds in the bill would be used for the Apollo man-to-the-moon program and is designed to help finance three manned moon shots in the next nine months.

Fire Hits Highland Concrete Company

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — Fire caused an estimated $400 damage at the Advance Concrete Producers, 975 N. Milford, early this morning, according to a Highland Township Fire Department spokesman.

Acts on POWs' Behalf

Red Cross chapters across the land are addressing strong appeals to Americans to write the Red Cross in North Vietnam with the object of influencing the military there to provide humane treatment for U.S. prisoners of war.

The concerted action is the result of an American Red Cross-sponsored resolution which was passed without a dissenting vote by 77 governments and 91 national Red Cross societies when the International Conference of the Red Cross met in Istanbul recently.

★ ★ ★

Embodied in the resolution covered by the Geneva Conference are provisions that all prisoners be promptly identified; afforded an adequate diet and medical care; permitted to communicate with other prisoners and the "exterior"; promptly repatriated if seriously sick or wounded; and at all times protected from abuse.

According to Department of Defense figures, there are 413 men of the U.S. armed services known to be prisoners in North Vietnam, and 918 others missing and believed captured.

★ ★ ★

Communications supporting the resolution should be addressed to Office of President, Red Cross of the Democratic Republic of North Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam.

Tax Aids Homeowners

GEORGE ROMNEY, secretary of Housing and Urban Development in the Nixon cabinet, must have thrown a scare into millions of homeowner-taxpayers the other day with his suggestion that the income tax deduction they get for interest and taxes on their mortgages be cut back.

ROMNEY

No such change in the tax laws is under consideration. At a time when the entire structure of the income tax system is under review in Congress, it has not even been mentioned. Middle-class taxpayers can continue to cherish these deductions as two tax breaks designed especially for them.

Nor is Romney serious with his proposal. His point was merely that it would be a good way "to bring home to middle-income and affluent families that they are getting a tax subsidy."

Middle-income people are not aware of the Government's help to them, said ROMNEY, so they "tend to resent the idea that public money —their tax money—is being used to help the disadvantaged and the minority groups to meet their housing needs."

Maybe we ought to repeal part of their right to take the mortgage interest-tax deduction, he then suggested, and earmark the extra money for improving city slums.

Homeowners ought to count their blessings. Not only do they have their own homes—something many people can only dream about—but Uncle Sam is helping them pay for them by allowing them to deduct both their mortgage interest and also their local property taxes.

★ ★ ★

What homeowners consider right and just for themselves is simply another tax loophole in someone else's eyes.

Fiends Foul Halloween Spirit

Halloween, an annual fun night celebrated by small fry and teenagers with parties, masquerade and "trick or treat" forays, has become increasingly an opportunity for outlet of diabolical cunning on the part of sadistic dispensers of treats.

News reports from across the Country brought to light many such incidents. Occurring in at least four states, the viciousness took the form of secretion of sharp objects in the food or candy offered, or contaminating it with tasteless but potentially dangerous ingredients.

Locally, police departments in Pontiac and Waterford and Orion Townships received complaints of goodies being rendered injurious by the concealment of razor blades, ground glass and the like.

Since it is extremely difficult to pinpoint the source of the harmful "favors" that find their way into the youngsters' bags as they make their rounds, those responsible for the maliciousness have little fear of detection.

It would be most regrettable that on a night devoted to innocent and exhilarating enjoyment, Halloweeners, for their own protection, are obliged to confine their quest for treats to acquaintances in their immediate neighborhoods.

Student Groups Quietly Shifting Tactics

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The headlines go to student moratoriums, demonstrations and marches and to judge-baiting in Chicago.

CROMLEY

But some quiet new shifts in tactics now being instituted by student groups across the United States promise to be considerably more significant in changing the nation's universities, and, if successful there, in bringing student influence to bear on national and international problems.

★ ★ ★

● Students are turning to the law to get college rules, regulations and administrative procedures changed. They're employing highly paid attorneys from some of the nation's largest and most prestigious firms.

★ ★ ★

● In a number of test cases, students are taking college authorities to court on student rights. Attorneys say the young people are winning a majority of these cases.

● Students are using mediators — usually skilled attorneys — to negotiate with college officials in long sessions reminiscent of labor bargaining. These meetings are aimed at securing concessions on student rights.

BARGAINING AGENTS?

The next step may well be that student associations or other student groups, like labor unions, may well ask for certification as bargaining agents for the undergraduate and graduate men and women on campus.

Lobbying groups composed of paid professionals — legal or publicity experts — may be sent to state legislatures and to Congress to quietly work on the lawmakers in the traditional manner.

★ ★ ★

These steps could be highly effective. The students and student groups involved in this new trend seem to have ample funds. They have a large constituency that has shown an ability to get involved emotionally.

In maneuvering thus far, students have been fighting principally for a loosening of college regulations on how and where they shall live, on how they may be expelled, who shall deal with them and under what rules when accused of campus violations and for a larger student voice in college policy.

★ ★ ★

In the background there is a strong movement against grades, against required class attendance, against a considerable number of required courses for graduation, against the way courses are taught and for the addition of some new courses.

But with the growing student discussion of the Vietnam war, defense expenditures, race, the slums and state and national politics there is nothing to stop the students from following the lead of the nation's labor unions in using their influence on these major problems.

Critics of Viet Speech off Base

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Much of the domestic reaction of public figures to President Nixon's Vietnam speech was entirely predictable. But a good deal of it was strangely off the mark, and it raises key questions about credibility and the uses of the English language.

BIOSSAT

For instance, it was said by many critics, some of them even quite moderate, that there was "nothing new" in the speech.

★ ★ ★

The simple fact is that there was. Never before had the President himself said that he has an "orderly, scheduled timetable" for the full withdrawal of all U.S. ground combat forces — or that this plan has been communicated to and accepted by the Saigon government.

That represents a public commitment of utmost significance, far beyond the closely parallel earlier comments of Defense Secretary Laird or the private word from several administration officials that such a plan exists and is thoroughly under way.

UNASSAILABLE

Nixon's decision not to announce the timetable produces arguments and effects but the "newness" of his basic assertion is unassailable.

Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas found the President's expressed positions "indistinguishable" from those of former President Johnson and former Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Fulbright had much company on this claim.

★ ★ ★

Yet a quick review of Johnson's final major utterances on the war discloses not the faintest hint by him of any proposal or plan of unilateral troop withdrawal by the United States from South Vietnam.

Nixon's decision not to declare publicly his withdrawal timetable, which several close foreign policy observers and now even some heretofore skeptical GOP dove senators believe he has, runs into two principal difficulties.

IRREVERSIBLE INTENT

It does not satisfy such men as the thoughtful former Defense Secretary Clark Clifford who thinks that Saigon will assume its own military burdens only when we have asserted before all the world our irreversible intent to take out all combat troops by a fixed date.

Moreover, the President's secrecy as to numbers and dates comes sharply athwart the credibility problem.

★ ★ ★

The question therefore becomes whether Nixon's assertion of a timetable plan will be believed even by the "silent majority" he says exists and hopes will support him.

Fresh polling checks by Gallup suggest they may. But doubt about what any president says has now sunk deep roots in this country.

★ ★ ★

Critics who press Nixon to move faster, who say there is no plan unless it is theirs, do not know their man.

He is unlikely to yield. He thinks he has big backing. And he thinks he is right.

Agnew Fans Ap-paul-ed by Rumor of His Death

Millions and millions of adoring Spiro T. Agnew fans across the land are hoping and praying that the tragic rumor spreading like wildfire is baseless.

The rumor, of course, is that the beloved vice president has been dead for six months.

HOPPE

In order to prevent a leaderless nation from panicking, so the story goes, the administration has been using a stand-in to fill Agnew's speaking engagements — reportedly W. C. Fields Jr., son of the late, great actor and a chip off the old block.

★ ★ ★

Administration sources have, of course, vehemently denied the report. If the vice president were dead, said one top aide, he'd be the last to know.

But what has given the tragic rumor fresh currency is the plethora of hints in the recordings of Agnew's (or Fields') recent speeches — recordings that have been bought up and treasured by the nation's bereaved Agnew fans.

PREOCCUPATION

First of all, he has been solely occupied by "the Moratorium" (from the Latin root, "crematorium"). And let us take just one quote the Harrisburg, Pa., recording:

"We can, however, afford to separate them (the impudent snobs) from our society," the recording clearly says, "with no more regret than we should feel over discarding rotten apples from a barrel."

★ ★ ★

The apple is, of course, the symbol on Tarot cards for death by being crushed. And the rotten apple, naturally, is the symbol for a rotten death by being crushed.

Moreover, the apple is used to stuff the mouths of roast pigs. (Some see here a fantasy of the police gobbling up the impudent snobs.) Pigs being fat, many feel this proves Agnew met his demise when a huge Sumo wrestler fell on him during an exhibition match.

'FEARED A FAT JAP'

"I long ago feared a fat Jap would be the end of my career," he is reported to have cried in his last moments.

In any event, a University of Titusville professor, after scientific tests, has distinguished three different voices on the Agnew recordings — a comic voice during last year's campaign, a silent voice for the first nine months of this year, and a new strident voice recently — "with a whine," as he put it, "like a B42."

★ ★ ★

And a Decatur, N.J., girl claims that by playing the latest recording backward she can distinctly hear a voice from the grave saying, "I have here in my hand, heh-heh, DOCUMENT THAT SHOWS . . ."

Property Owners Must Stand Up for Rights

Waterford Township is having its troubles with the fury of the people about Township officials voting themselves raises, and schools on half-day sessions. Some official gave right-of-way for the construction of a drain pipe to run over property that was dedicated for use of those in the immediate community, and over a strip of land assigned for the use of only those in the plat it lies within.

The developer of apartments and single homes on 65 acres, 750 feet away, did not notify any of us of his intent. Now we of Williams Lake have to fight for our rights to have clean water for swimming and protection from pollution that can kill the fish and other wildlife. Let all who live near or on lakes band together and stand up for your rights as citizens and property owners.

Letters Laud Participants of Song Festival

Wish to express my appreciation to Gilbert O. Jackson, Thomas V. Marsh, John C. Tousley and students from Pontiac Central and Northern High for their fine presentation of the "Fall Festival of Song." Seems at times the public is unaware of the fine accomplishments of young people in the community.

ELIZABETH STRANDBERG
122 SUMMER, LAKE ORION

Congratulations to Pontiac Central and Pontiac Northern High Schools Vocal Departments who presented "Fall Festival of Song" Monday night. The variety of music was well chosen, and the skilled singers conducted themselves with poise. Especially noted by parents attending was the appreciation shown fellow singers. It was an enjoyable evening.

Questions and Answers

(Q) I'm trying to find a young deodorized skunk for Christmas. I've called all pet shops in the area with no results. Can you help?

B.

(A) We can't, but the Conservation Department can. They have a list of people who handle such animals, and if you'll call 674-2261, they'll tell you whom to contact.

(Q) I've been staying with my brother and his wife since January, with my mother's agreement to send my share of Social Security checks. I haven't received a penny, though when I filed a claim, Social Security people said it would start coming in a couple of months. I've called many times, but no results. Why the delay?

D. R.

(A) You have changed residence since you first filed a claim, and that must be approved before transferring funds. They have explained this to you, so you know, too, that as soon as the transfer is approved, you will receive all you are due.

(Q) I've been trying to get into Fisher Body, because we can't afford to take our two girls to the eye doctor. I've heard you have to be a certain height and weight to work there. Is this true?

N. L.

(A) There are no height and weight requirements to work at Fisher Body, other than that they should be in relative proportion in keeping with health requirements. However, you'd probably have better luck looking elsewhere for work, because right now there are no openings for women, and they already have 4,000 female applications on file.

Mart Gains Outdistance Losses

NEW YORK (AP) — Advances bounced to a fairly wide lead over declines in moderate trading early today.

The Dow Jones industrial average at 10:30 a.m. hit 857.77, up 2.57.

* * *

Prices on the New York Stock Exchange included:

Great Western Financial 26⅞, up ⅛; Lums Inc. 24¾; up ⅜; Skyline Corp. 37⅝, up ⅛; Xerox 108¼, up ⅞; Control Data 120¾, off ⅝; and Penn Central 31⅝, off ⅛.

Opening block trades included:

American Telephone, 24,900 shares at 52⅛, up ⅜; Occidental Petroleum, 5,100 shares at 24¾, unchanged; and RCA, 5,100 shares.

The market lacked much stimulation Thursday, but still managed to finish on an upswing, with the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closing at 855.20, up 1.12, after being down nearly 3 points. The Associated Press 60 stock average finished at 297.3, up 3.

Some analysts said Thursday's performance represented a further base-building and consolidation by the market in the absence of any stimulating influence. Recent drifting of the market indicates investors are sitting back, awaiting further developments, say some brokers.

Patio Decks Gain Favor

Wood patio decks are rapidly gaining favor with apartment as well as home designers.

Popularly referred to as open air "family rooms," wood decks create opportunities for outdoor recreation often missing in conventional apartments.

Pressure-treated, preshrunk Southern Pine lumber is extensively used for this purpose because of its high strength and immunity to insect attack and the elements.

Inflation Eats Away at Corporate Profits

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK—A closer look at the corporate profit reports for the recently completed third quarter of the year shows a deterioration that wasn't easily noticed at first glance.

CUNNIFF

Many companies reported surprisingly good earnings. In fact, more than one-half of the big industrial blue chips that make up the widely used Dow Jones stock average reported increases over the April-May-June period.

* * *

The bad news for corporations, however, was revealed by their profit margins or the percentage of net income to gross income. Sharp declines were evident throughout a long list of blue chip companies.

In fact, much of the earnings increases reported by some companies was nothing more than inflation, as pointed out by John Wright, an investment adviser and publisher of Wright Advisory Reports.

INFLATION'S BITE

"Real profits," says Wright, "are now declining, although nominal earnings are up. Dollar earnings for the third quarter were 4.5 per cent ahead f a year ago, but inflation cut dollar power by 5¼ per cent."

The net result, Wright observes, is that many companies that reported earnings increases over a year ago actually had declines.

* * *

The profits deterioration shows most clearly by dividing total sales into net income.

An analysis of 25 industry groupings, based on reports through Oct. 31, shows that only six improved their profit margins. The rest remained the same or declined, some of them very sharply.

DROP IS EVIDENT

A year ago, for example, eight printing and publishing companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange had an average profit margin of 6.07 per cent. This year the figure dropped to 5.09 per cent.

A study of incomes for 24 food companies show that profit margins in the third quarter of 1968 were around 4.5 per cent. This year the percentage deteriorated to 3.63.

* * *

Evidence of similar shrinkages can be found throughout industry, strong evidence that the government's slowdown program is being felt strongly, despite the illusion created by some seemingly healthy profit reports.

The impact might be even stronger than is evident from the profit margins. Some companies, for example, have maintained profits simply by raising prices, which is easy enough to do when inflation is at a 6 per cent rate.

BANK'S COMMENTARY

In its monthly economic letter, the First National City Bank comments:

"Indeed, the key to a favorable earnings record often appeared to be the firm's ability to raise prices enough to cover increased costs without cutting sales volume."

* * *

As the slowdown develops, however, these companies no longer will have the opportunity to recoup expenses by charging more for their products. To attempt to do so would mean a loss of sales.

The true picture of corporate profits, therefore, is likely to show up in poor fourth-quarter reports, scheduled to be released in late January and early February.

MORE EVIDENCE

Additional evidence that the cooling off is producing a shiver in the business world is revealed by a Research Institute of America study of business plans for capital spending.

Private and government studies this year showed that, despite warnings out of Washington that the economy would be restrained, businessmen continued to hold to their plans to spend heavily on improving their plants.

* * *

Such studies portrayed industry executives in such an expansive mood that nothing short of an impending recession would change their minds. Now their minds may be changing.

Based on a semiannual poll just completed, the RIA, a private, industry-supported research and advisory service concludes that plans are being scaled down now and that the capital spending boom is ending.

Aid to Minority Businesses Set

Commerce Dept. Tells Nixon Finance Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department has announced a new step in the Nixon administration's Black Capitalism concept with the kickoff of a finance system for minority businessmen.

Calling it "a major new minority enterprise program," Secretary Maurice H. Stans announced Thursday plans to form 18 institutions to lend money to new minority-owned companies.

* * *

Stans reported the government would allocate $15 million at the outset for the minority enterprise small business investment companies—MESBICs.

Stans said 17 such firms have filed with the Commerce Department's Small Business Administration letters of intent indicating they will officially apply for MESBIC loans. Arcata National Corp. of Menlo Park, Calif., has already been funded.

Under the program a corporation or other body with $150,000 can borrow double that amount to use for loans to minority businessmen. The SBA willl implement the program.

Romney Hails Labor Pact on Prefab Homes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three AFL-CIO construction unions signed Thursday a unique contract to build prefabricated houses on an assembly line basis without any jurisdictional friction.

Secretary George Romney of the Housing and Urban Development Department hailed the contract as a significant step toward industrial home building that could eventually help solve the nation's critical housing shortage.

"The housing shortage is much bigger than 26 million units," the goal set by the government last year for needed housing in the next decade, Romney said.

"We're not catching up on this shortage, we're falling behind," he said.

3 AFL-CIO UNIONS

The AFL-CIO Carpenters, Plumbers and Brotherhood of Electrical Workers signed the contract with Prestige Structures Inc. of Charlotte, Mich., to build homes in a factory.

The agreement included a provision allowing members of each of the unions working in the factory to step across traditional craft lines when necessary, a jurisdictional question that sometimes causes major strikes on conventional construction projects.

* * *

Alan Ginsburg, executive vice president of VTR Inc. of New York, parent firm of Prestige Structures, said workers will be paid up to $4.30 an hour and that the firm eventually will produce 2,500 homes a year. It has built 150 so far, he said.

He said a three-bedroom home with one bath and all utilities would cost "well under $10,000" plus the cost of a lot, which would bring the average price to around $15,000.

The firm now employs 85 workers and will soon increase to 350, Ginsburg said.

Romney, who attended the signing ceremony at AFL-CIO headquarters, said the concept of industrial, assembly-line home building could eventually help relieve the heavy demand for new houses and predicted other firms would be formed in the relatively new field.

Better Balance

Research at Iowa State University indicates several advantages from seeding Kentucky bluegrass as compared to sodding. For one thing there is better balance between tops and roots, deeper rooting.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — Can you tell me anything about the O-T-C Securities Fund? Since the "counter market" seems to be the birthplace of tomorrow's blue chips, I would think this would be a good investment.—D. M.

A — This small-performance fund has scored above-average gains since its founding in 1956. In a comparison of 10-year investment results through 1968, O-T-C Fund was among the top 10 per cent. Its approximately $2 million in assets are invested primarily in common stock with many fine growth issues represented in its portfolio. The fund may not buy on margin or transact short sales, buy commodities or real estate or hold more than 10 per cent of the voting shares in any one company.

Interest-Ceiling Cutoff Gains

LANSING (AP) — Acting at the request of brokers, the taxation committee of the Michigan House has approved a bill to remove a six - per - cent ceiling on municipal bond interest rates until July 1, 1971.

* * *

The bill, introduced by Rep. Ray Smit, R - Ann Arbor, was reported out Thursday after market experts said some $1.5 billion worth of issues – including recently approved local water pollution control and recreation notes – are expected to flood the market in the next two months.

The committee had reviewed Smith's bill for several weeks. Testimony Thursday indicated that $167 million of local bonds have failed to find buyers so far this year.

A generally tight money market, coupled with unfaverable credit ratings of many debt ridden communities, contributes to the difficulty, experts said.

News in Brief

A $300 diamond ring and a box of rare coins valued at $125 were reported stolen in a break-in yesterday at the home of Alva Howard, 53, of 109 Osceola, according to Pontiac police.
