

Friday, December 12, 2003

Kennedy wraps up fall Friday Night Live series

By Kalee Iacoangeli, OU Student Writer

The Friday Night Live fall series wrapped up last Dec. 5 with another on the edge of your seat performance, this time by comedian Scott Kennedy.

Kennedy, who has been performing stand-up comedy full time since 1989, has appeared on HBO's U.S. Comedy Arts Festival in Aspen and was the feature comic at the Montreal Just For Laughs Comedy Festival in 1996. He has been selling out shows from coast to coast as he has headlined at many different comedy clubs and theaters, including the Riviera Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas.

He didn't stop short of giving the OU crowd something to remember. His audience-involving, improvisational comedy certainly kept FNL viewers on their toes.

"You never knew what he was going to come up with next. He was good," said senior Jessica Kronberger.

"The audience participation was the best part," added senior Marsha King. "The way he talked to people and got them involved with the show really kept things going."

Kennedy was the final performer for the fall comedy series. The FNL winter comedy series will begin Jan. 9 with comedian Maria Bamford.

The Friday Night Live comedy series is presented by OU's Residence Hall Programming and is open to OU students, faculty and staff, and their guests. For more information on Friday Night Live, contact the program coordinator in the University Housing Office at (248) 370-3570.

SUMMARY

The Friday Night Live fall series wrapped up last Dec. 5 with another on the edge of your seat performance, this time by comedian Scott Kennedy.

Created by CareTech Administrator (webservices@caretechsolutions.com) on Friday, December 12, 2003
Modified by CareTech Administrator (webservices@caretechsolutions.com) on Friday, December 12, 2003
Article Start Date: Friday, December 12, 2003