Orders Placed for Ore Giants

Two Carriers Will Be 729 Feet Long, Largest on Great Lakes

DETROIT (AP) — Two giant ore carriers, the largest ever to sail the Great Lakes, are on order in Detroit.

The Great Lakes Engineering Works announced yesterday it has received an order from Bethlehem Steel Corp. to build a 729-foot freighter. The firm is also building a similar-sized carrier for Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Largest freighter on the lakes currently is the 716-foot Cliffs Victory, launched several years ago.

Both new vessels will have 75-foot beams and 28-foot drafts. Charles Haskell, Works president said, The Bethlehem carrier, to be built for the Pickands Mather & Co. Fleet, will have an oil-fired turbine developing 8,000 shaft horsepower, he added.

Haskell said the longer, deep-draft vessels are being built for the day when the Great Lakes connecting channels project is completed. That will enable them to carry more cargo at less cost, he said.

The 729-foot length is a maximum because of limitations at the Soo Locks.

Great Lakes Engineering also is building a 689-footer for the Interlake Steamship Co., Haskell said.

"We feel this new upsurge in shipbuilding, induced by the deeper drafts of the St. Lawrence Seaway and the interconnecting channels, will go far toward regaining for Detroit its traditional leadership in shipbuilding."

Flames Trap, Kill Royal Oak Woman

A 58-year-old Royal Oak woman died in the flames of her burning cottage near Port Huron as she tried to rescue personal effects last night.

Mrs. Lucille Smart, of 1919 Rochester Rd., Royal Oak, was fatally trapped in a cottage in the Lakeport State Park, according to St. Clair County Sheriff's Department.

Three township fire departments, Grant, Fort Gratiot and Burtchville, fought the fire which was blamed on an overheated oil stove.

Mrs. Smart, wife of Whitney Smart, was a concessionaire at the park during the summer.

Police said she discovered the cottage chimney ablaze, told a neighbor to call firemen and then went back into the flaming cottage about 7:45 p.m. to rescue her belongings.

Jets Zoom Off Ship Greeting Eisenhower

ABOARD USS SARATOGA (R)—President Eisenhower cruised off Florida's East Coast today for a demonstration of atomic warfare tactics by jet aircraft of this 350 million dollar supercarrier.

The President was accompanied by three Cabinet officers and other high ranking officials on the cruise scheduled to end shortly after noon tomorrow.

They flew here this morning from Washington. Eisenhower's plane, Columbine III, landed at Mayport Naval Auxiliary Air Station.

(Related story Page 19)

At 9:28 a.m. and taxied within 50 feet of the Saratoga's gangplank.

The President and his party immediately went aboard the 60,000-ton carrier and it put out to sea.

Before landing, the President's plane circled the carrier, where 2,000 sailors spelled out "Welcome Mr. President" on the flight deck.

IKE GREETED

The President greeted Secretary of the Navy Gates and Secretary of Defense Wilson, who came on a plane a few minutes earlier. Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey were on Eisenhower's plane.

One minute after the President's plane landed, an order rang out aboard the Saratoga "start the jets."

As Eisenhower stepped from the Columbine, two jets were catapulted off the ship with a mighty roar.

PLANES LAUNCH

Navy sources said the catapult launching was arranged to show the President how quickly planes can be put in the air, even when the carrier is tied up in port.

The jets were Skyraider interceptors. The Skyraider holds the world speed record of 733 miles an hour over a 3-kilometer course and its turbojet engine with a booster, after burner gives the plane a phenomenal rate of climb.

The President is to be aboard the carrier until early tomorrow afternoon when he will go ashore here and fly back to Washington.

LANDINGS IN DARK

Tonight, the President was to be shown the always delicate operation of carrier landings in the dark. Friday, the task group will shift to defensive maneuvers, with mock demonstrations by guided missiles and other weapons that would be used against attacking ships or planes.

The Saratoga, scheduled to join the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean later this year, carries a crew of some 3,000 and about 100 planes. It is a sister ship of the Forrestal, first of the class, but is a few feet longer, making her the Navy's biggest flattop.

It was the second tour of sea duty this year for the President, who spent six days aboard the cruiser Canberra on a slow cruise to the Bermuda Conference in March.

The show being put on for him by the Saratoga is part of "Lantflex," the first Atlantic Fleet exercise of 1957.

Pontiac Sailor Critically Hurt

Seattle Auto Accident Kills One, Injures Four; All Shipmates

A 23-year-old Pontiac sailor was reported in critical condition today following an automobile crash in Seattle which claimed the life of another sailor and injured three others.

Pipefitter I.C. John R. Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Cooper, of 122 Glenwood Ave., was tentatively identified as the driver of the car which, police said, was traveling 100 m.p.h. when it crashed into a steel pole in the downtown section.

Killed in the wreckage was Patrick T. Cahill of St. Peter, Minn., a Navy fireman.

The five occupants of the car were crew members of the hydrographic ship, Requisite.

According to a sister, Cooper was just beginning his seventh year in the Navy after re-enlisting last year. He is a graduate of St. Michael's High School.

His parents were vacationing in Indianapolis when they were informed of the accident. They are returning to Pontiac today.

Police reported the engine of the car was thrown 90 feet. The hood, front fenders and radiator traveled another 20 feet, while the battery was hurled through the window of a dance studio.

Truck Smashup Kills 13

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — The North Carolina highway patrol said 12 migratory workers were killed today and an estimated 30 persons injured in a head-on collision six miles north of Fayetteville.

The patrol said a truck loaded with migratory farm workers crashed with a huge tractor-trailer. The crash occurred at an intersection of highways 301 and 102.

The tractor-trailer overturned and the truck loaded with workers caught fire. The impact tossed many of the workers onto the rain-slick highway and into ditches.

The state patrol said the driver of the truck, identified as Tom Junior Mackey, was thrown out of the vehicle and killed. Two other workers in the front seat of the truck were burned to death. The injured were taken to hospitals at Fayetteville and Dunn.

City Policemen Aren't Against Outside Probe

Answer Plan to Have Ex-Enforcement Head Check Straley Rule

The proposed probe by former Michigan State Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard into the records and activities of the Pontiac Police Department, suggested in a Pontiac Press editorial Tuesday, became more than a suggestion today.

Detective Herbert C. Cooley, president of Pontiac Police Officer's Assn., who has been leading demands for an investigation under the six-year rule of Police Chief Herbert W. Straley, said he had talked with more than 40 officers who showed no disfavor to the proposed investigations by Leonard.

Cooley added that Leonard is experienced in police administration and should be a qualified investigator into complaints which the association intends to charge against Straley in hopes of ousting him.

In response to a proposed investigation of his administrative capabilities and records, Straley said today:

"I still claim Cooley is not running the Division of Police or Pontiac. He is still a plain ordinary detective."

He said he did not think the Leonard-headed investigation would be necessary since "the whole thing" was a local problem and will "properly be disposed of."

'PROBE NOT NEEDED'

If the city commission and manager order the investigation, Straley said he would "appreciate it" although he did not think it was necessary.

"We (the department) have been getting along OK except for a few rabble-rousers who want to use the newspapers as an office instead of keeping their interest in the citizens of Pontiac," Straley added.

Meanwhile, Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem said he will interview members of the vice squad (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Hare's Deputy Voices Theory on Missing Cash

State and Surety Firm Agree Upon Division of Recovered Funds

LANSING (AP) — A state official speculated today that Anna and Floyd Thorpe may have stashed away as much as $20,000 in cash in a safe deposit box before their capture.

Sidney H. Woolner, deputy secretary of state, said early efforts to account for missing state funds linked with the flight of Mrs. Thorpe fell about that much short of balancing out.

"We all have a hunch that it might have been stashed away in a safe deposit box, maybe somewhere in Texas," Woolner said.

He said as far as he knew there were no specific leads to bear out the theory, and that if there were such funds, they would be extremely difficult for investigators to find.

Woolner based the speculation on a quick calculation that only about $60,000 of the $80,811 that disappeared with the former St. Clair Shores branch manager could be accounted for based on Thorpe statements and investigation so far.

Yesterday, Secretary of State James M. Hare said that the American Surety Co., which paid over $50,000 to the state in the Thorpe case, had agreed the state should have first crack at any missing sums recovered.

Hare said the agreement was reached after conference on the subject with surety firm representatives.

CLAIMS ON MONEY

Because the missing money belonged to the state, the state has a claim on any of it that may be recovered.

Because the surety company covered part of the state loss, it, too, can assert a claim to recovered sums.

Against the gross loss, the state has applied an offset of $5,445, the amount Mrs. Thorpe had coming to her in fees at the time of her disappearance.

Branch managers are required to deposit their entire collections with the state treasurer. They are then reimbursed the fees due them, usually about five weeks later.

By this process, the state loss was reduced to $75,166.

AMOUNT REDUCED

It was against this total that American Surety paid over its $30,000, reducing the amount the state was out to $25,166.

This figure subsequently was reduced to $19,434, chiefly as a result of the equity realized by the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Veterans and Newcomers Bid for School Board Seats

A pair of veterans and a pair of newcomers to the school scene will contest Monday for two seats on the Pontiac School Board.

The top two candidates will be elected to the seven-man board at a period when it is about to spend some $3.5 million on new school construction, including a new senior high school.

During their four-year terms, the new members will face decisions involved with approval of operational budgets of more than $30 million plus construction projects which will run over $7 million.

Undoubtedly, their biggest problem will be how to find the money needed for additional classrooms and personnel in the face of climbing enrollments.

ENROLLMENT RISING

School board projections show next fall's enrollment of about 19,000 steadily rising over a four year period to some 23,000.

The board will be meeting with such groups as the county allocation board, state equalization board, the taxpayers, bargaining committees for teachers, secretaries and maintenance personnel.

They'll be trying to decide on the best curriculum possible while wading into the deep seas of land purchases and building construction.

The contenders are Louis H. Schimmel, 20-year school board veteran and current board president; Robert B. Oliver, 16-year member; William H. Anderson, 10-cal businessman; and Lloyd R. Ludy, a production expeditor.

Anderson, 44, of 919 Spence St., is a partner in the Columbia Non-Ferrous Foundry and Machine Co., of Pontiac, and is making his first bid for public office.

He attended Pontiac High School and is active in Masonic affairs. He is worshipful master of Pontiac Lodge 21 of the Masons, a member of the White Shrine and Order of the Eastern Star. Anderson is a past monarch of the Iraq Grotto and past president of the Michigan and Western Ontario Grotto Assn.

He is married and has two daughters, one attending Madison Junior High and the other married.

Ludy, 39, of 2299 N. Opdyke Rd., Pontiac Township, is in the production control department of National Twist Drill Co., Rochester, where he is an expeditor. He has served for the past two and a half years on his township's zoning board and has two children (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

U.S. Judge Blocks Move Teamsters to Picket to Give GI to Japanese to End Trusteeship

By OUR WIRE SERVICES

WASHINGTON (INS) — A federal judge today temporarily blocked a U. S. decision to surrender American G. I. William E. Girard for trial in Japanese courts for the firing-range death of a Japanese woman.

Judge Joseph C. McGarrachy issued a temporary restraining order barring the government from relinquishing its jurisdiction of Girard until arguments can be held on a habeas corpus writ.

He set arguments on the writ for next Tuesday.

Meanwhile Earl J. Carroll, 53-year-old former Air Force major, said in New York yesterday that Girard's family had accepted his offer to help defend the 21-year-old soldier from Ottawa, Ill. Carroll said he would serve without fee and would pay his own expenses.

In Japan, the Army said Girard had selected Ituro Hayashi as his chief lawyer and had asked Maj. Stanley F. Levin, Hollywood, Calif., to serve as his personal legal adviser.

Carroll, now head of a Manhattan investment firm, said he planned to file a writ of habeas corpus in U. S. District Court here asking that Army authorities be ordered to return Girard to Washington for a court hearing. Carroll said he would contend Girard's constitutional rights have been violated.

Protests have been stirred in Congress and elsewhere by the decision to hand over Girard to the Japanese for trial. One investigation is under way in the Senate, and another is pending in the House.

Girard faces Japanese charges of "inflicting bodily injury causing death" to Mrs. Naka Sakai. She was shot Jan. 30 while scavenging for scrap metal on a U. S. Army firing range. Death was caused by an empty cartridge fired from a grenade launcher.

Japan has demanded that its courts try Girard, contending he acted beyond the bounds of his duty. The U. S. Government acceded. It said that Girard was not authorized to fire the cartridge case, although he had orders to guard some equipment on

Why do some things smell differently before a rain? Or is this belief merely superstition and folklore?

The moist air that usually precedes the falling of rain has a tendency to bring out the odor of things. But this alone does not explain the greater sensation of smell experienced on the eve of rain.

Because rain usually occurs in bad weather, when pressure is low, air (and smells) in low areas tend to rise as the air pressure lowers, because of the lighter weight of the layer of gases above.

This, added to the natural effect of moist air, often makes a swampy smell strongly before a rain. The same is often true in other low or depressed areas. Not always can any difference be noted. Careful observers, though, can often sense the difference in smell and, therefore, the old saying that "things smell different before a rain" does have a scientific basis and is not merely folklore.

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

A rebirth of a 3½-year fight to unseat James R. Hoffa and his self-appointed officers from Pontiac Teamsters Local 614 posts will be touched off next Tuesday when members picket the local's hall at 1410 E. Telegraph Rd.

Members are out for the end of Hoffa's trusteeship over the 3,500-member local, and "an honest and democratic election."

The picketing is another step in the long struggle by the rebelling members to loosen Hoffa's grip on the union. It began in October of 1953 when Teamsters President Dave Beck ordered the trusteeship.

A group, called the Rank-and-File Committee of Local 614, is 2,500 strong, according to a spokesman.

He explained the purpose of the committee and picketing was to "bring to the attention of the AFL-CIO Joint Council and to the public in general our plight, and to force the issue, if necessary, to a point where we will be granted a supervised and honest election of officers."

Rep. Bow (R-Ohio) said today support from fellow congressmen for his move to do away with disputed treaty provisions has grown "much stronger."

Bow is slated to testify before the House Foreign Affairs Committee next Thursday.

Rep. Fulton (R-Pa.), a Foreign Affairs Committee member, sided with arguments that have been presented by the administration. "It's a burden on the GI, he's abroad without his consent," Fulton acknowledged in a separate interview. But he said the only alternative is to withdraw U. S. troops abroad altogether, because in peacetime American forces can be stationed abroad only with the consent of the foreign country concerned and that country's sovereignty has to be recognized.

Rep. Boyle (D-Ill.), who said yesterday he may go to Japan to try to contact Japanese officials in Girard's behalf, indicated to trip he is not likely to make the trip.

Boyle said he had checked with Rep. Mason (R-Ill.), who represents Girard's home district, and said it appears that "the die is cast" by the administration decision Tuesday.

It is claimed, have been "discriminated against by past and present officials" of the local.

It is this same group which is seeking an investigation of Local 614's affairs by Sen. McClellan's Senate labor racketeers probes.

The probe of the Pontiac local is still "under consideration," Chief Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said last month.

Another demand of the insurgent unionists is that officers be elected from within the rank-and-file strength. They charge that the seven present officers and numerous business agents were "brought in by Hoffa from Detroit."

Hoffa stepped into the local picture after two of its officers in 1953 were convicted on conspiracy charges.

The rebellious members claim there is no reason for Hoffa's trusteeship to remain.

"The officers say that, because we are after an honest election, there's dissension in the local," the spokesman commented.

The Teamsters' international constitution calls for a trusteeship when there is internal strife in a local.

The committee said it's taking matters in its own hands now because "we were ignored by the international in 1953 and have continued to be ignored since."

"SUSPECT FOUL PLAY" Although they declined to place any specific charges against present officers, members said they "suspect foul play." They refused to elaborate.

They asked: "If this is the cleanest run local in the state, why can't we have an honest election?"

Earlier this year, Leann Harrelson, acting president of Local 614, said it was the "cleanest run local, and that there was nothing to hide."

CHARGED FUND MISUSE When similar removal proceedings failed several years ago, the anti-Hoffa faction filed suit charging misuse of one million dollars in members' dues. The suit was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

Many stormy meetings have been conducted since 1953, aimed at getting local elections and to strip Hoffa of his power.

The fiery Teamsters boss, rumored to be Beck's successor, faces trial June 18 on charges of attempting to secure records of the McClellan Committee by bribery.

The Big Ten Conference, labeled by many the most powerful in the country, called the AMA charges "ridiculous and certainly unfounded," and Jesse Mortensen, coach of the University of Southern California's Coast Conference championship track team, called them "absurd."

ANN ARBOR (U)—A University of Michigan freshman was in University Hospital here today with injuries suffered when he fell last night from a classroom building. Hospital authorities said Harvey G. Lapides, 18, of Detroit, was in "reasonably fair condition" after breaking both arms and receiving head cuts in the fall. Police Lt. Krasny said a 30-foot piece of window sash was hanging from a fourth story window of Haven Hall. It was attached at one end to a radiator inside. The other end was dangling free. Lapides apparently was trapped inside the building and used the cord to aid his escape.

Thinks Thorpes Hid $20,000 in Bank Box

state through sale of Mrs. Thorpe's house.

That's where the figure stands today, with the possibility the amount might be reduced further if the state is able to collect $3,934 left behind by Mrs. Thorpe in a personal bank account. The account now is tied up.

The surety firm's agreement with Hare thus means that all sums recovered beyond what is owing the state will be applied against the $50,000 paid out by American Surety in conformity with its bonding agreement.

Joseph A. Sullivan, deputy attorney general, said that while there had been no opportunity yet to assay the legal problems carefully, it appeared some monies might be gotten from the state out of the Thorpe interest in a hotel at Mazatlan, Mexico.

"How Thorpe invested the money, and how feasible it will be to recover—we're not certain at this point," Sullivan said.

Sullivan said it appeared that a smaller sum might be recovered out of the investment by the Thorpes in a Corpus Christi cocktail lounge.

"Our plan is simply to recover as much as we can on the theory that it was state funds which were involved," Sullivan said.

$35,000 IN HOTEL DEAL He said it was his understanding that the hotel interest amounted to around $35,000, notwithstanding a figure almost double that sum mentioned by Thorpe in interviews in Texas.

Only a few thousand dollars were involved in the cocktail lounge deal.

The Thorpes were caught while consuming the cocktail lounge purchase. The FBI arrested them on federal flight warrants.

The couple waived extradition and Michigan authorities have gone to pick them up. Mrs. Thorpe faces a state embezzlement charge; her husband is accused of aiding and abetting the embezzlement.

KICKBACK CHARGE The Thorpes repeated yesterday a charge that they took the money because kickbacks to Democratic politicians in Michigan put them $2,000 in debt to the state. "All political appointees were required to kick back 10 per cent of their gross salary," Thorpe was quoted as saying.

The Day in Birmingham

Baldwin Library Friends Form Membership Drive

BIRMINGHAM — Friends of the Baldwin Public Library have named Richard Henne, president; Theron VanDusen, vice president; and Mrs. W. Ogden Vogt, secretary-treasurer.

Committee chairmen are Edgar Dare, program; Sylvia Parker, membership; and Mrs. Donald Scriven, publicity.

In connection with her duties, Miss Parker has begun immediately to formulate plans for an area wide membership drive in the fall.

"Prospective members," she said, "need not wait, however, until the drive is opened to become one of the Friends. Applications will be accepted at any time."

Miss Parker stated that she may be contacted at her home, 763 N. Woodward Ave. or through the library office.

Michigan's State Highway Dept. has sent city traffic authorities a new space diagram for the control of traffic lights on Hunter boulevard within the city limits. While it will continue to favor early morning southbound traffic and the northern flow in the evening it is felt, the new pattern will permit smoother travel.

Residents according to the police have complained of the repeated stop and start travel now on Hunter. The new pattern is designed to reduce this and, if satisfactory, will become permanent.

Members of the Birmingham YMCA have been invited to hear president of World Alliance of YMCAs, Charles Dunbar Sherman speak.

He will give an address at the First Congregational Church, Forest at Woodward in Detroit at 7 p. m. tomorrow. His subject will be "The World Outlook and Service of the YMCA."

Two fund transfers have been given Birmingham Commission sanction to meet deficiencies.

From reserve capital $36,000 will be put in the special assessment district for the East Maple avenue paving project. The Elton skating rink deficiency will be met by a $6,000 transfer from the contingent reserve.

James S. Kern, 21, of suburban Birmingham, was sentenced to 90 days in jail after pleading guilty before Federal Judge Ralph M. Freeman to reckless operation of a motorboat.

He admitted that with two friends he had taken a boat, without permission, from a marina near Lexington last August 13, running down two fishermen on the St. Clair River. Both men in the boat which was struck were injured.

Buying Milk by Gallon

MILWAUKEE—There was an increase of 22 per cent in the fluid milk purchased by American households in gallon packages in the 11 months ended in February 1957, compared with usage in the same period two years before. Half-gallon purchases rose by 68 per cent and single-quart purchases declined by 22 per cent.

Bids are being received for the first telephone exchange for Asmara, Ethiopia.

Lost 1 Vote in 4 Years

FREEBURG, Ill. — Mayor Harry Savre, recently re-elected, wonders which friend he lost since the last election. This year Savre received 352 votes against 317 for his opponent. Four years ago he won 353 to 316.

Sixth Causeway to Link Miami to Beach Areas

MIAMI — Work is scheduled to start soon on a new causeway linking Miami and the beach areas. It will be the sixth crossing Biscayne Bay.

The new drive will start at 36th street on the Miami side of the bay and provide a direct route from Miami's International Airport to beach communities, making it unnecessary for this traffic to go through the downtown section.

Egypt will produce its own newsprint and wrapping paper in two new mills.

Keeps Eye on Future

EL PASO, Tex. — Mrs. Anna Jane Colford of El Paso stopped briefly recently to mark an event which she considers "no accomplishment at all." It was her 100th birthday. Her secret of long life: "stay active."

Bombers Collide During Maneuvers

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. (AP) — Two single-seat attack bombers collided while approaching an aircraft carrier during maneuvers and both pilots are believed dead, the Navy said last night.

The accident, some 400 miles west of Los Angeles, occurred Tuesday night.

Identified by the Navy as the missing pilots were Cmdr. Milton K. Dennis, 40, Los Altos, Calif., and Lt. (j.g.) John W. Thompson, 26, Sunnyvale, Calif.

Baby Sitters Choosy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A couple of teen-aged baby sitters out in the fashionable Main Line section of suburban Philadelphia only work in tandem these days — and only at homes which have swimming pools. That way, one of them can mind the youngsters while the other enjoys a swim.

Roosevelts Up Again Despite Plane Crash

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Undaunted by a crackup of their plane, Elliott and Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. planned to continue an aerial cattle-buying tour today.

Elliott said his eldest son Bill Roosevelt would fly here from Denver in another plane and pick them up. They planned to stop to see some cattle at Larned, Kan., on the way to Denver.

The sons of the late President and two other men escaped injury yesterday at Fort Scott, Kan. when Elliott's plane hit mud on a takeoff and skidded through a fence into some brush across the road. A Fort Scott pilot estimated the damage at $10,000.

"I've been in several crackups," Elliott said after a motor car car trip to Kansas City. "Three of them in the war, in Mosquito bombers and P38s. I would say were major ones. This one was definitely minor."

He said the plane was insured.

Future's Vital Resource Unlimited in Michigan

Several years ago, one of Pontiac's staunchest citizens, FRANK W. STEERE, suggested that the Great Lakes area of the United States was destined to become the most important sector of this continent.

"Here," said Mr. STEERE, "is the world's greatest supply of fresh water, and as populations and human needs expand, water becomes a primary commodity. People and industry need water constantly and they need it without interruption and in tremendous supply. Our Great Lakes offer an unlimited amount forever."

Mr. STEERE was a trifle ahead of the pack (which is no new accomplishment for the omnipotent seer of Watkins Lake), and the past few years have been bearing out the accuracy of his forecasts.

As Oakland, Wayne and Macomb Counties slowly expand into one of the most populous areas in the United States, the water question becomes bigger and bigger. Both people and manufacturing institutions are more acutely aware of the absolute necessity that an ample water supply imposes inexorably on all modern existence.

The water shed in this area is sinking. Pontiac has no cause for alarm in 1957 and probably not in 1958 or 1959. But the day of reckoning looms ahead.

It can't be escaped. It's inevitable.

Hence, we—and that means families and factories alike—turn to the inexhaustible supply that savant Steere foresaw in our Great Lakes. Neither drought, storms nor the machinations of nature in her vilest mood can jeopardize a fresh water supply that emanates from this comforting source.

The New York Times recently said: "The American dream of unlimited expansion soon may face a test by water."

We'll face up to this. Provincially, we are apt to think of the Great Lakes as a private Michigan institution, but Ohio is already planning a $200,000,000 project to claim water from Lake Erie. Engineers say the average flow that passes Northern Ohio would supply nearly one billion people.

This is a staggering total. It challenges credulity.

And, remember, in our greater affluence, we in Michigan regard Lake Erie as a minor sort of "Great Lake"—one with no challenging length, width or depth.

Editor N. R. HOWARD of the Cleveland News is chairman of this huge Ohio project, "The Lake Erie Watershed Conservation Foundation." Mr. HOWARD is an astute, hard-headed individual with vision and perception. Ohio is fortunate in this selection.

Ultimate construction costs of two and a half billion are contemplated by Ohio authorities and the legislature expects the whole thing to be self-liquidating.

Anyway, there's enough water to go around. We'll spot Ohio the entire Lake Erie segment, just casually and with aplomb. We still have Michigan, Huron and Superior up our sleeve. If Erie will supply a billion, these three giants could supply several times the population of the globe.

The New York Times is perhaps more prophetic than it knows. It may be just a question of "when." The Water Planning Board in this area must remain alert and continue its current activities.

If you lived elsewhere and the water shed began to drop, could you view it with equanimity? That's the predicament engulfing the balance of the U.S.

The Great Lakes area will ultimately know no limitation on water demands. Industry can take it in copious gobs as soon as the area is geared to make use of our potential. The consumption of water per household is increasing steadily and persistently; and yet the man at home will have all normal needs filled and his lawn sprinkling can go on for days at a time if he wishes.

Industry, meanwhile, finds ever widening requirements and the two combine to threaten the source of many localities. We read of water rationing all over the country during the summer months. There has even been a modicum of it here, but as we tap the Great Lakes, even this will vanish forever.

Right now Mr. Howard says, "The most critical material of the future will probably be water. And we live in the land of liquid gold. Piping Lake Erie to industry will be Ohio's greatest project."

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors just appropriated $58,000 for a complete engineering report on the feasibility of bringing Lake Huron water to Oakland County. This is a wise move and a very sensible precaution. Neither homes nor industry can exist without ample water.

We face the question of Detroit or Lake Huron as the source. This can be ironed out equitably by the proper authorities. At first blush, one is inclined to favor Lake Huron but a detailed study might reverse this opinion.

Michigan will have all the water we can use in industry, in the homes, for recreation and for the farms. No other spot on this globe can equal our greatest ultimate resource. The Middle West will have the satisfaction and assurance of knowing we happen to be the favored folk through good luck and fortuitous circumstances.

Hail to Michigan.

The Man About Town Skeeters Scarcer

Breeding Grounds Getting Rare in the Pontiac Area

Green thumb: What any gardener knows is the wrong hue — it's really dirt colored — and blistered.

From all sections of the Pontiac area come reports that the mosquitoes are strangely absent this spring. Nobody seems to be worried about it, but many are hunting for an explanation.

One lady says she would ask the mosquitoes themselves, if she could find one. Another avers they died at birth — of disgust during the May weather. But a fear is rampant — they may be on a fast and will be hungrier and more ravenous than ever when they do come.

On the serious and sensible side, we might cogitate a little on the fact that most of their breeding grounds in this area have lost the battle with the bulldozer.

If you didn't get your spring flowers planted on time.

Mrs. Rebecca Alred of Clarkston, suggests that you now plant sunflower seeds. In her words, "They're the greatest catcher uppers of all flowers."

Double Steal?

David Lawrence Says:

Budget Could Be Cut by $4 Billion

WASHINGTON — Four billion dollars is not easy to find these days, but this correspondent believes he has located inside the government itself a p p r o x i m a t e l y that sum and perhaps more to pay for the mutual security and foreign aid program proposed recently by President Eisenhower.

LAWRENCE

It could cut the budget by four billions and perhaps more. And nowadays anybody who can come up with a budget cut is supposed to be in tune with the times.

FOREIGN CURRENCIES

The four billions emerge in the form of foreign currencies that today are being used by nations abroad to buy American farm surpluses.

These surpluses consist of wheat and other grains, dairy products, fruits and almost everything else that the farmer has been able hitherto to dump on the government of the United States for purchase.

What happens is that, with the authority of the Congress, the farm products are sold overseas and payments by foreign governments are made in foreign currencies. Thus, anything sold to some countries would be in the local equivalent of pounds or francs or lire.

COUNTERPART FUNDS

These sums have been given the name "counterpart funds." They usually are spent in the same countries which buy the surpluses. But the United States has troops in some and military installations in other countries, and makes all sorts of purchases locally.

Up to now only 21 per cent of the "counterpart funds" are brought into the Federal budget and show up in the form of appropriations or as receipts when sales are made. The other 79 per cent doesn't get into the budget at all, and only small amounts have been spent thus far.

The House of Representatives was told during debate this week that, as a result of farm sales overseas, more than one billion dollars now is available in foreign currencies for spending by the United States government. If the pending legislation is passed, approximately four billion dollars worth of surpluses in the United States will be ready for disposal abroad.

AGREEMENTS MADE

Since the legislation was first passed, agreements have been made with 20 countries, covering 87 different disposal programs. Commodities involved in these agreements have cost the Commodity Credit Corporation nearly three billion dollars, and only one billion dollars worth has thus far been exported.

Now, there's no reason why the government shouldn't buy more and more of the agricultural surpluses as they arise and sell them overseas except that the project has to be carefully handled so as to avoid ill feeling in other producing countries which may be deprived of their markets.

But the best answer to this is that the world, with its increasing population, is in need of more and not less food. Backward areas are, of course, undernourished and need help.

STRATEGIC MATERIALS

In a report filed on May 9 by Chairman Cooley of the House Agriculture Committee, it is noted that virtually all the foreign-currency funds used thus far have been employed for purchases of strategic materials, military procurement and economic development, and for the payment of certain obligations of the United States government abroad.

There is no reason why the same method and formula of payment cannot be applied to other projects and expenses of the United States in foreign countries, thus saving all or much of the money originally put in the budget for mutual security and foreign aid.

There are, of course, certain items that have to be paid for inside the United States, such as military "hardware" used in American bases abroad. But more and more of the foreign-currency fund can be converted into dollars, if necessary, by using barter methods.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Vitamin E (Wheat Germ) Keeps Animals Fertile

A reader told us recently how she had prayed for nine years for a "bundle from heaven" and then, a few months after she had started taking the iodine ration, conceived. Coincidence?

It has been shown in the laboratory that sterility occurs in both male and female rats on calcium deficient diets.

A great deal of publicity has been given to vitamin E as an anti-sterility vitamin. In animals, vitamin E deficiency seems to cause sterility in the male and failure in the female to carry pregnancy to full term.

Just what bearing this may have on human sterility or abortion is conjectural. It is only in animals, such as rats, that deficiency or lack of vitamin E is known to have a definite effect on reproduction.

Male rats, born of mothers on normal diets and then at weaning placed on E-deficient diets, become sterile when they are from 50 to 150 days old. If such rats are suckled by mothers on E-deficient diets they never become fertile.

Please bear in mind, all of the statements I am quoting here apply to animal nutrition. As already mentioned, the effects of adequate intake or deficiency or deprivation of vitamin E on human nutrition are conjectural.

PAMPHLET ON REQUEST

However, it is well to remember, in any circumstance, that the best source of vitamin E is wheat. Plain wheat as it comes from the threshing. Now don't argue. Send me a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for the pamphlet Wheat to Eat.

The vitamin E in wheat is in the heart or germ of the grain. Freshly separated wheat germ contains perhaps six times as much as the wheat itself does. The vitamin E is in the wheat germ oil.

The most potent form of it is in the wheat kernel, provided the wheat is eaten within a day or two after grinding or, still better, freshly cracked in your own coffee mill or in one of the hand or power mills described in the pamphlet.

It is certain, says Bicknell & Prescott's The Vitamins in Medicine (authoritative medical textbook not available to general public) that wheat germ oil cannot contain anything not present in wheat germ.

Wheat germ loses much of its vitamin value when it is kept for a few days. So the best way to assure one's intake of vitamin E, to say nothing of B-complex and A, is simply to restore whole wheat to one's diet.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan (Copyright 1957)

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Uses Trump Card in Wedding Plot

Nancy played a trump card in order to win Hank, but it was a very exciting affair and Hank awakened me in the middle of the night for reassurance. Actually, I just increased his apprehension. But read the final outcome and then scrapbook this case record.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case V-304: Nancy M., aged 29, is the girl I picked for bachelor Hank, whom I've described earlier this week.

"Dr. Crane, I have the solution to our problem," she spoke eagerly, after I had suggested she go away for a few days or else import some supposed suitor to give Hank some competition. "I'll call up a cousin of mine."

He comes to Chicago on business trips regularly, anyway, and I'll ask him to do me a favor and get here this week-end."

Well, Nancy's cousin arrived on schedule. But, of course, she didn't tell Hank the man was a cousin: No, she deftly let him know it was an old friend whom she felt duty-bound to entertain.

Hank grumbled and suggested finding another girl for this "old friend" but Nancy said the visitor had come especially to see her, so she thought it would not be fair to push him off on another girl.

So Nancy kissed Hank affectionately and told him not to worry about her, for she'd get home as early as possible.

That was an excellent negative thought, for Hank immediately be-

Voice of the People

'If You Don't Like Unions, You Have Right to Move'

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

A lot of people have been writing and griping about joining unions. They say it's because it takes away some of their freedom and rights. Well, one of their rights is to quit and go to some other state to work. They might not make a living wage, but they will be a lot happier, because they won't have to pay union dues.

A lot of people don't like sewers and sidewalks put in front of their property because it takes a lot of money, but they have no choice, because the majority wants them. If you don't want to pay for them, you can sell your property and move elsewhere. These things will increase the value of your property and a good union will increase the value of your job.

If you look around, you'll find a lot of things you must do that you don't want to do. So if you don't want to join a union, go elsewhere to live, where wages are lower, and see if you're any happier.

Addison Group Requests Delay

The Addison Township Citizens' Committee feels that action of our Board of Education at the Wednesday meeting did not give sufficient weight or recognition to recommendations of the Area Study Report. It was the recommendations of this report that led to successful consolidation and forming of the Oxford Area Community School system.

Our request is simply that the Board of Education withhold any definite action toward the purchase of a high school site until we have an opportunity to discuss it further.

Hoffman Proposes Income Tax End

Through the efforts of the Man-lon Forum, Congressman Clare E. Hoffman of Michigan introduced in Congress House Joint Resolution No. 232, providing for the repeal of the income tax sixteenth amendment. Here is the text of the resolution:

"After five years from the ratification of this article, the 16th article of the amendment to the Constitution of the United States is repealed, and thereafter the Congress shall not have power to lay or collect taxes on incomes derived from any source."

The Hoffman amendment will be fought by international forces. It will be understood and loved by every man and woman who pays income taxes.

Mr. Downes Tells Ideas on Schools

Two weeks ago you quoted Louis Schimmel as being extremely angry. They are staying away from school bonds in Michigan. They are losing this and that from the allocation board. And now, two weeks later, Pontiac school district is able to sell two million, seven hundred thousand dollars worth of bonds.

Also you say this will raise 9.5 million with state aid and other sources for the Pontiac school district and two weeks ago we had a calamity as far as the school finances go. Also two weeks ago they were basing their talk on figures the county allocation had and which had not been submitted to the State, and the State equalization upped those figures a few points. Looks to me someone was yelling wolf before he was hurt.

They are going to build or start to build a new high school. Since they are able to sell these bonds, may I say this: Just how much do they anticipate this high school to cost and how much are they going to allocate of this two million, seven hundred thousand toward the new high school and what portion of it do they intend to build and what is the estimated cost of this portion? The taxpayers certainly are entitled to know now, as we certainly don't want another deal like the Pontiac hospital. If this letter is doing a disservice to the schools, I am willing to take it. I want schools just as taddy as anyone and the most that can be gotten in classrooms and buildings of simple, economical design. And I want the best teachers we can get.

I feel the public has a right to have some knowledge of how its money is to be spent and what for, as the taxpayers are footing the bill.

W. S. Downes

Says Stevenson Should Be Quiet

I wish there were some way to put a clamp on Stevenson's big mouth. He's just an ordinary citizen with a law practice, probably has no greater knowledge of world affairs than my butcher, and there he is, running all over the globe making statements as though he were some ambassador. It's bad enough listening to him squawk here at home, but when he's abroad he should support U.S. policies or decline to comment. Only a fool peddles family squabbles all over the neighborhood.

Decent Democrat

woman and I'm sure many fellows would want her to marry them, but I seriously doubt if she'd marry a stranger."

"But he isn't a stranger," Hank answered in obvious excitement. "She said he was an old friend, and felt obligated to him."

"Well, go to bed and get some sleep," I reassured him. "For if she doesn't elope, she'll surely call you in the morning."

But I knew very well Hank would never get a wink of sleep till he contacted Nancy, which was by telephone about 3 a.m.

To shorten this case, let me tell you that Hank and Nancy were married before his mother got home. Hank actually breathed a sigh of relief to know that he had finally made up his mind and stopped stalling in futile indecision. Send for my booklet "The New Strategy of Advertising & Selling," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents.

It contains advice on the "minor decision" which is very vital in winning husbands.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Japanese Songstress Considers Trip to U.S.

TOKYO (AP) — A teen-age Japanese girl who has parlayed an off-key version of "Banana Boat Song" and a feline come-hither look into fame and fortune is considering taking her talents to the United States next fall.

Michiko Hamamura, now star-cing in a "Cavalcade of Jazz" at Tokyo's Nichigeki Theater, has become the rage of Japan since posing for a magazine portfolio of nude pictures a few months ago.

A spokesman for Nippon Victor Recording says Miss Hamamura has been invited to appear on a U. S. television show in September and has accepted.

Ike's Message Will Dedicate Truman Library

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower plans to send a message to be read at the July 6 dedication of the Harry Truman Library at Independence, Mo. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said in response to inquiries yesterday that Eisenhower's message "undoubtedly will be read" by Franklin G. Floete, head of the General Services Administration.

Floete will attend the ceremony to accept the library on behalf of the government. Hagerty added that Floete would be there in his GSA capacity and not as a personal representative of Eisenhower.

The 1½-million-dollar library, financed by private contributions, will house Truman's collection of presidential papers, said to be valued at 17 million dollars.

Hagerty said in reply to a question that so far as he knew Eisenhower was not invited by Truman to attend the ceremonies. Relations between the two men have not been cordial since the 1952 campaign.

Use of Nurse's Training Saves Life of Child

MASSAPEQUA, N. Y. (AP) — A 36-year-old housewife applied some prewar nurse's aid training yesterday to save a tot who fell into a canal near her Long Island home.

Mrs. Grace Ruden was working in her kitchen when Frank Pizzarelli, 3, ran in and announced breathlessly: "My brother is in the water."

The housewife raced to the canal, waded in up to her waist and pulled Patrick Pizzarelli, 1½, ashore by his hair. He appeared lifeless.

Then Mrs. Ruden applied her never-before-used lessons in artificial respiration. After 15 minutes the boy stirred and opened his eyes.

Germans Get Bigger on Peacetime Plenty

BERLIN—Prosperity and ample food are bringing about great changes in Germany—and in Germans—according to some observers in Berlin. Heart ailments or blood pressure brought on by overweight are becoming common in this view, and "an unaccountable gluttony has gripped the nation."

Adjustments that expanding girths have made necessary are cited as causing large expense throughout the country—railways have had to remake aisles and doors for the more obese customers to get through, and theater and cinema seats, comfortable in the old days, are being replaced by models that will take the new posterior that prosperity has brought. Doctors blame "the hungry war years" more than the normal German diet it is stated.

Dayton, Ohio, is the birthplace of the airplane, cash register, electric starter and automotive ignition.

Foreign Students Flock to Austrian Universities

VIENNA — Since military occupation ended, late in 1955, foreign students are beginning to flock back to Austrian universities, Vienna notes. In the first year the number increased by more than 1,000 to 4,549.

The percentage of women students was 15 per cent lower among the foreigners than among Austrian students and most of those of both sexes from abroad show a striking preference for medicine and art. It is primarily European states that account for the gain in number of foreign students. Those from Germany, 1,000 held the numerical lead.

There are about 140 tornadoes in the U. S. each year.

Indian Teachers Draw $7.56 for Month's Work

CALCUTTA, India — Minimum salary of a primary teacher in West Bengal, India, is $7.56 a month, Calcutta reports. Maximum pay is $15.54. The salary is not paid to the teacher regularly every month, according to Harendra Nath Mazumder, president of the All-India Primary Teachers' Federation.

A primary teacher in that state has no security of service and enjoys no provident fund benefit. Mazumder hopes to boost the pay for primary teachers to $17.85 to $21.

Some 325,000 foreign workers now are employed in Switzerland, Zurich reports.

Boost Pay at Hillsdale

HILLSDALE, N. J. — Hillsdale College faculty members will receive a 7½ per cent pay increase next semester, an average of $300 to $400 a year. The board of trustees also elected to membership Tyrone Gillespie of Midland, assistant to the president of Dow Chemical Co.

Keep a Record of Child's Shots

Denver Doctors Warn Parents to Keep Track of Inoculations

DENVER (INS) — Doctors warn parents to keep a record of their children's protective shots and boosters. To help out, the Colorado State Medical Society gives the following list:

Polio: Two shots and a booster should be given all children from one year or older. How many boosters are necessary is not known as yet, but practice is to have them annually.

Triple shot—diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus: first shot at between one and two months, second at two to three months and a third between the third and fourth month. Boosters are necessary at 16 to 18 months and at two to three year intervals thereafter if a doctor recommends.

Tetanus "wound booster": Often recommended by doctors after severe injuries. If the child has not had a tetanus shot in eight to 10 years, the wound booster may not suffice and an anti-toxin injection may be required.

SMALL POX
Smallpox vaccination: Original shot during first year, normally during fifth or sixth month. Repeat when child starts school and every five years thereafter.

BCG vaccine against tuberculosis: Only on recommendation of doctor in cases of extra exposure to tuberculosis.

Typhoid and paratyphoid: Normally not given except on doctor's suggestion.

Infectious hepatitis: Injections of gamma globulin may be taken after exposure and repeated at six week intervals if exposure continues.

Measles: Gamma globulin may be prescribed by physician in epidemics or cases of extreme exposure.

Anti-rabies serum: Animal and dog bites should be taken to the doctor to decide whether serum should be given. Shots are given within 24 hours of the bite and repeated in 14 daily injections.

German measles (rubella): An expectant mother should receive serum injection if exposed to German measles to protect the unborn child from injury.

233 Missionaries Sent

ST. PAUL, Minn. (U)—Nine Lutheran bodies and two church-related agencies in North America sent 233 missionaries to mission fields in 17 countries during 1956.

Dr. Andrew S. Burgess, professor of missions at Luther Theological Seminary here, who compiled the statistics, said the total number of Lutheran missionaries from America now serving abroad totals 1,623.

Plagued Day And Night with Bladder Discomfort?

Such a common thing as urinating or drinking may be a source of mild, but annoying bladder irritations—making you feel restless, tense, and uncomfortable. And it's not just at night, with nagging backache, headache or muscular aches and pains due to over-exertion, strain or emotional upset, are adding to your misery—don't wait—try Doan's Pills.

Doan's Pills have three outstanding advantages in three ways for your speedy return to comfort. 1—They have an easing soothing effect on bladder irritations. 2—A fast pain-relieving action on nagging backache, headache, muscular aches and pains. 3—A wonderfully mild diuretic action thru the kidneys, tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes. So, get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. Ask for new, large, economy size and save money. Get Doan's Pills today!

Cigarette Smoking Cuts Life, Researchers Report

NEW YORK (INS) — Cigarette smoking "hastens death," two American Cancer Society researchers reported this week.

The scientists told a convention of the American Medical Association in New York that they had found a "spectacular relationship" between cigarette smoking and lung cancer deaths.

CLEAR ASSOCIATION

Drs. E. Cuyler Hammond and Daniel Horn asserted also there was a "clear cut association" between smoking and heart disease deaths, the nation's number one killer.

A 44-month statistical study of the smoking habits of 188,000 men in the 50 to 70 age group, they declared, showed the overall death rate for smokers averaged 68 per cent above non-smokers.

The Tobacco Industry Research Committee quickly criticized the Hammond-Horn report, declaring: "The causes of cancer and heart disease are not yet known to medical science."

HASTENS DEATH

In a news conference with science reporters after their formal talk, the pipe-smoking Dr. Hammond, of Baltimore, and his colleague declared:

"Based on the survey, it is our opinion that cigarette smoking hastens death, depending on the amount of puffing done."

Dr. Horn said his "estimate" was that death is accelerated "about 7 or 8 years" for heavy smokers in the age bracket studied, while those who smoke under a half pack daily "live on the average of about two to three years less as a group."

LOWERS RISK

Giving the final report of their nine-state survey which began in January, 1952, the researchers told a scientific meeting of the 106th annual convention that "quitting smoking lowers the risk of death."

To support their statements, they presented statistics on autopsy reports of 11,570 men in the study group who died during the survey.

The figures disclosed that in comparison with non-smokers, the death rate from all causes was: —123 per cent higher of heavy smokers (two or more packs a day).

—96 per cent higher for one to two packs a day smokers.

—70 per cent higher for those who puff one-half to one pack a day.

—34 per cent higher for those who smoked up to a half pack daily.

The cancer society researchers said their half-million-dollar study centered in California, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin.

They told the nation's doctors lung cancer death rates were 25 per cent lower in rural areas when compared to large cities.

This factor, they declared, "suggests either better diagnosis in the cities or the existence of urban cancer-causing agents besides those in cigarettes."

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS

Other highlights from the ACS report to the AMA which renewed the controversy over the effect of cigarettes on health included:

—Heart disease accounted for 52.1 per cent of all so-called "excess" deaths among men with a history of regular cigarette smoking.

—The heart disease death rate among heavy smokers was almost three times greater than among non-smokers.

—Lung cancer death rates were "10 times higher" (1,000 per cent) among regular cigarette smokers when compared to those who never smoked.

—Men who had given up light smoking from one to 10 years earlier had a death rate only 30 per cent higher than non-smokers as compared with 61 per cent for those who continued to smoke.

Pipe smokers fared better in the mortality tables than cigar or cigarette smokers, Drs. Hammond and Horn declared.

Overall death rates among pipe smokers were 12 per cent higher than non-smokers. The death figures for cigar smokers, they said, was 22 per cent above the non-smokers.

The heavy smoker fared the worst among all those in the survey.

The death rate from heart disease, the researchers said, was "almost three times greater" among heavy smokers, and the lung cancer death rate was "64 times that of non-smokers."

Timothy V. Hartnett, chairman of the Tobacco Research Committee, issued a statement simultaneous with the ACS final report which belittled its findings. He declared:

"The causes of cancer and heart disease are not yet known to medical science. Today's Hammond-Horn statistical statement, like their previous reports, does nothing to change this fact. Also, as scientists have stated, the study itself is open to criticisms as to methodology, selection of subjects, and unsupported assumptions.

"Statistical studies often have an important role in research. Their function, however, is to suggest possible areas for further and more definitive investigation using experimental techniques. They do not prove cause-and-effect relationships.

"The Tobacco Industry Research Committee still shares the widely held position that the basic origins of cancer and heart disease will eventually be learned by careful laboratory and clinical study, not through statistical reports that are subject to differing interpretations from the innumerable variables involved.

"The Tobacco Industry Research Committee will continue its support of such independent research and hopes that a significant period of experimental research by all interested groups may now follow the past few years of intense propaganda and unwarranted conclusions."

Bee in Your Car May Buzz You to Death

A bee in your car may turn out to be a fly in the ointment that spills your Sunday afternoon pleasure drive — and wrecks your life.

Swatting Sam, a driver who's annoyed by the buzzing bee inside his auto, may cause a traffic accident by batting away at it.

THAT'S THE WORD

That's the word from the National Safety Council, which says Sam and others like him often are victims of little distractions — which cause big traffic accidents.

You're probably read about Rapid Robert, who doesn't take time to shave in the morning. So he mows his beard with a plug-in electric shaver in the modern manner as he speeds down the highway, saving time and losing his life.

CRAZY PEOPLE

Crazy people? Sure! You wouldn't do that? Maybe not. But how about the dropped cigarette ashes? While you brush frantically, your car travels 73 feet a second at a moderate 50 mph.

The kids start a squabble in the back seat. Do you turn around to break it up?

HERE, GIMME

Have you ever said this to the little woman? "Here, gimme that map. A woman can't tell north from south." And while your eyes follow Route 52 to the next turn, you shear off a mailbox that says Rural Route 2 and end up in a ditch.

So don't say you aren't subject to distractions. Maybe you don't shave in a moving car, but there are lots of other ways to get a close shave. For instance.

Friendly Frank, the horn honker's delight, always turns to see what buddy blew his noisemaker at him. The din of a crash is the next sound he hears.

WIGGLES PINKIES

Wavin' Wilda hates to be called a snob. Even in busy city traffic she finds time to wiggle her pinkies at Mrs. Jones. "That darn ole car stopped RIGHT in front of me!" she wails to the judge.

Everybody's familiar with Romantic Ray and Lovin' Lil. They're the bill and cooers who just can't keep their lips apart and their eyes on the road. A clutch, a kiss — and a collision!

The thirsty kid, too, is one who's distracted. He's balancing a soft-drink bottle between his legs. So drink bottle between his legs. And then there's the star-gazer.

"Look at them great-big stars up there," he purrs to his favorite gal. They both see stars, but not the celestial variety.

In the same category is the scenery-scanner. He's the motorist who "slows down" to 60 mph to gawk at the colors on the Painted Desert — and ends up in a room painted all white.

All comical characters? The council points out they have one thing in common — they're all distracted. And they're all potential accident causers.

100 Ships to Parade in Huge Naval Show

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NORFOLK, Va. (NEA) — The antics of sailors with shore leave and in a holiday mood are not exactly new to citizens of this naval base town.

But mild concern is growing over the partying which threatens to develop when 70,000 foreign and U.S. sailors, 1,000 celebrating diplomats, 25,000 tourists and Defense Secretary Charles Wilson arrive for what promises to be the greatest international naval review in history.

It'll be the first event of its kind held here, or anywhere else in U.S. waters, in 50 years. And natives who recall the show 50 years ago, featuring the presence of President Teddy Roosevelt, aren't sure they've had sufficient time to recover. It was a real whirling then, they claim.

This big sea extravaganza, June 8-13, is a major event in the celebration of the 350th anniversary of the founding of the first American colony at Jamestown, Va. Sometime later, probably in October, the celebration is expected to attract a visit by the Queen of England.

MORE THAN 100

More than 100 U.S. and foreign ships from the fleets of at least 17 countries will steam into this huge U.S. Navy base for the show. The biggest ship afloat, the new aircraft carrier Saratoga, sister ship of the Forrestal, is expected to be the prime attraction. The guided missile cruiser Canberra will lead the review. Every other type naval vessel, down to PT boat size, will participate.

It should set an all-time high for colorful sea-going pageantry.

The formal review is scheduled for the afternoon of June 12, weather permitting. The ships will anchor in a double line out at sea a few miles and Charles Wilson will do the official reviewing by sailing between the two lines. Guns will be fired. Sailors will salute. Flags will be unfurled. And whistles will roar.

President Eisenhower was asked to be the chief reviewer but he couldn't make it.

MOST TIED UP

The 10 days will find most of the ships tied up at piers and docks in the Norfolk harbor and open for public inspection. During this time most of the crews will be given shore leave and that's why the natives are bracing themselves.

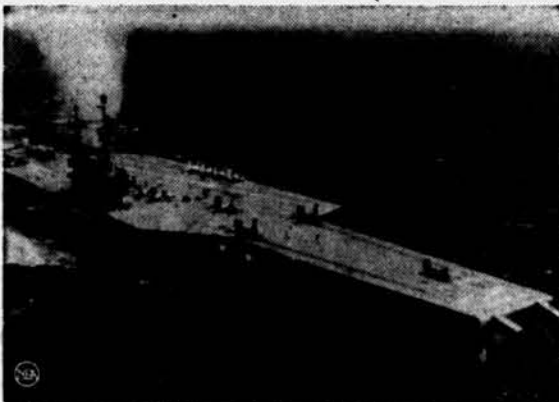

To ease the strain on the city's colorful taverns, although experienced in catering to sailors, they've cooked up a raft of special events including symphony concerts and ballets.

There will also be a major league baseball game, a boxing show, a county fair, a swimming meet, a circus and an ice show. If that schedule does not satisfy the recreation needs of the visiting foreign sailors they can have free trips to nearby Colonial Williamsburg and Jamestown Island.

The U.S. State Department got into the act by deciding just what nations would be asked to par-icipate. The official statement says:

"Only those nations should be included which might have some reason for celebrating the Jamestown founding. The list was therefore limited to the Americas, those European nations which participated in the exploration and settlement of this country, and those countries which are members of NATO."

That's why Russia was not invited. Russian representatives, however, will be among the big crowd of diplomats coming from Washington to watch the review and take part in a large round of parties.

Official host for the whole shebang is Adm. Jerauld Wright, boss of the U.S. Atlantic and NATO fleets. Adm. Wright enjoys an international reputation as an excellent host so all guests are guaranteed a swell time.

Searching for Difference in Food Radioactivity

NEW YORK (U-P) — Scientists will examine canned food left in the Antarctic by the Scott expedition in 1910 to determine if it is less radioactive than present-day food. The Atomic Energy Commission will try to find out whether "background radiation"—which all food has from natural sources—has increased during the past 12 years of atomic explosions.

Shell Injures Collector

TOKYO (U-P) — A Japanese scrap metal collector Hiroshi Katsumata, 22, was injured today when a bazooka shell exploded as he picked up shells during target practice at the U. S. Marine firing range at Gotemba, about 60 miles south of Tokyo.

Poles Expected to Wind Up Deal

Aid Delegation to Get Half of $95 Million Now, Rest at Later Date

WASHINGTON (U-P) — Poland's aid delegation was expected today to settle its $95-million-dollar U. S. deal half now and half later rather than wait around to get it all at once.

A joint U. S. - Polish announcement to that effect may be forthcoming today.

It would wind up four months of negotiations topped off at the end by an unexpected congressional delay.

The Poles arrived in Washington last February. They came in response to public statements by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles that the United States would help any nation in its first days of economic distress after breaking away from iron-fisted domination from Moscow.

The $95-million-dollar figure was settled upon after long and exhaustive talks at the State Department.

A little more than half of this will come from available funds, including a $30-million-dollar loan from the President's special fund. The rest will come from a congressionally authorized fund to finance sales of U. S. farm surplus.

The Poles are anxious to get the aid flowing, particularly the $4 million dollars worth of cotton they want. For that reason they were expected to sign a partial agreement.

Besides the $4 million in U. S. cotton, the Poles were expected to get, in approximate figures, 32 million dollars in wheat, 10 million in fats and oils, 4 million in coal mining gear, 2 million in soy beans and 13 million in costs of transporting these items.

Jaycees to Help Elderly Widow Clean Her Home

SAGINAW (U-P) — Living alone in her small frame home here sometimes is pretty rough on Mrs. Gertrude Wood.

She's an 81-year-old widow who lives alone, supported only by a pension.

But still, the sun sometimes shines for Mrs. Wood. Saturday will be one of those bright days if it doesn't rain.

The Saginaw Junior Chamber of Commerce has selected her house for a top-to-bottom cleanup as part of a citywide campaign.

Early Saturday morning, volunteer workers will arrive to clean Mrs. Wood's yard. Painters will daub the outside of the house with a new coat supplied free by a local manufacturer. Others will mend her fences. By nightfall, Mrs. Wood's small frame house will be a showplace.

Open Expensive Dam

TOKYO (U-P) — An electric push button today opened the gates of Ogochi Dam which took 19 years, 60 million dollars and 82 lives to complete. The 447-foot high dam, capable of supplying water to 1,220,000 persons daily, is on the upper reaches of the Tamagawa River in the outskirts of Tokyo.

At Waterford High School

Five Sisters to Appear in Recital

Five sisters from one family in Waterford Township will be among the three hundred youngsters under 16 years of age to appear in the fifth annual ballet recital at 8 p.m. Friday at the high school.

The Dawson girls, Barbara 4, Kathryn 5, Christine 8, Delores 10, and Margaret 11, are all pretty little girls with deep dimples in their cheeks.

Two more sisters at home, Diane, 2, and tiny Mary, only 3-weeks old, will eventually make up the family line of ballerinas according to their parents Mr.

and Mrs. Charles Dawson, of 2147 Ferndale Ave.

Their two sons, Charles, 14, and Jimmy, 12, plan on being in the audience when the curtain goes up Friday night.

Sponsored by the Waterford Township Recreation Department, the recital climaxes 32 weeks of instructional classes under the direction of Carol Wolfe.

A trip to Mother Nature's Realm will be portrayed in colorful dance and songs.

Students dressed in gay costumes will perform, and an orchestra accompanying the show will help create atmosphere for visits to the land of "Let's Pretend."

Children will represent blue skies, pink clouds, sunset, stars, night shadows, storm clouds, tornadoes the Rainbow Lady, and in the Finale.

During the second half of the show the advanced groups will enact the story of the "Twelve Dancing Princesses."

More than 1,500 people are expected to attend the affair, according to Mrs. Wolfe. The public has been invited to attend, and tickets may be obtained at the door.

FAMILY AFFAIR — Five sisters from the Waterford Township Dawson family, will be featured in a ballet recital at 8 p. m. Friday at the high school. The "ballerinas" include, Margaret 11, Delores 10, Christine 8, Kathryn 5, and Barbara 4. Baby girls at home are Diane 2, and Mary, 3-weeks, who will probably be in the lineup next year, according to Carol Wolfe, director.

Frenchman Tries to Form Cabinet

PARIS (U-P) — Another prospective French premier, Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, began consultations today with other parliamentary leaders today about his chances of forming a new government.

Bourges-Maunoury, 42-year-old Radical Socialist and defense minister in Socialist Premier Guy Mollet's outgoing government, took on the task after Pierre Pflimlin failed to rally sufficient support among France's diverse political parties.

The new candidate's first step was to confer with Mollet in a bid for Socialist cooperation.

As a member of Mollet's coalition, Bourges-Maunoury probably can count on Socialist backing. But if he adopts Mollet's plan to increase taxes—most pressing need of the near bankrupt French government—he also may run afoul of the conservatives.

Young Prowler Stabs Housewife in Scuffle

DETROIT (U-P) — Mrs. Celia English was beaten and stabbed three times last night in a scuffle with a teenage prowler at her east side home.

"I heard a noise and saw a boy about 16 trying to force his way into the children's bedroom," Mrs. English said. "I screamed and grabbed him, then he stabbed me."

She suffered knife wounds in the back and arm and a bruised eye. Her children, Dennis, 4, and Kathy, 3, slept through the scuffle. Her husband, Robert, was at work.

Williams Lashes at 'Lies' About High State Taxes

DETROIT (U-P) — Gov. Williams said yesterday that the charge that high taxes are driving business out of Michigan "has all the advantages of the big lie over complex and difficult truth."

"We are suffering from the long range trend toward monopoly of ownership and decentralization of plants in the automobile industry," he said.

"The independent automakers have been virtually squeezed out of business and the big three intend to put their new plants closer to their regional markets."

"The best answer to this is to bring in other types of industry—chemicals, for example—which can take the place of lost auto production."

Then he adverted to the problem of seasonal unemployment due to seasonal auto production scheduling.

"Ultimately," he said, "the auto industry will have to correct this and find some way to avoid throwing masses of our people out to work every time somebody miscalculates the market or forgets to put fins on the new model."

Calypso Songs, Marriage Denied by Elvis Presley

HOLLYWOOD (U-P) — Elvis Presley, sitting on a couch with his current best girl, declared flatly that "marriage and calypso are the farthest things from my mind."

The statement on marriage came entirely unsolicited when a reporter asked him yesterday if he planned to make a calypso record now that the Caribbean rhythms are making an inroad on the rock 'n' roll craze. (He doesn't).

A few weeks ago a Mexico City City newspaper reported that Presley planned to wed actress Yvonne Lime in Acapulco.

"Man, the night that report came out I was out with Anne," He nudged pretty Anne Neyland, onetime Miss Texas. "What did we do that night, honey?"

She reminded him that they had gone to a local moviehouse.

"Man, that's right. And you should have seen the faces drop on the people when they saw me in a movie with another girl than the one I was supposed to marry in Mexico. Where do those crazy reports come from?"

He and the young actress sat in his dressing room along with a half-dozen friends with whom he went to high school in Memphis. It was lunchtime and Elvis ate what must have been a special sandwich. The concoction consisted of French fried potatoes, tomato and burnt bacon between two big slices of bread. A bottle of pop washed it down.

"Man," he said, "when I get married, it'll be no secret. I'll get married in my home town of Memphis and the whole town'll be there."

Elvis' deal at MGM is currently the talk of the industry. He's getting $250,000 plus 50 per cent of the profits for making "Jailhouse Rock."

"We have our own technical schools now," said one industrialist. "Actually, Sao Paulo needs agricultural experts for the fields. But for the factories, we're training our own."

The heavy immigration to Sao Paulo has solved one major problem of industrialization that the rest of Brazil faces. In Sao Paulo there is no lack of technicians for the factories.

Although U. S. investments make up about 60 per cent of the total foreign investments in Sao Paulo, other nations are moving in rapidly. Germany has invested 72 million dollars in Brazil since 1952—more than any other nation—and 85 per cent of this money is in Sao Paulo.

Asks U.S. Try to Cut A-Testing

Senator Wants to Limit Future Nuclear Blasts to Certain Amount

WASHINGTON (U-P) — Sen. Anderson (D-NM) suggested today the United States make a definite proposition to limit nuclear bomb tests to the equivalent of 10 million tons of TNT a year.

Anderson, vice chairman of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee, told newsmen the limit should be based on the amount of radioactive material hurled into the atmosphere by bomb blasts—not on the size of the bombs themselves.

He said he proposed an equivalent of 10 megatons because it represents a middle ground among suggestions a special atomic energy subcommittee has heard for a bomb-testing level to minimize radiation damage to present and future generations.

Anderson said the 10-megaton limit might be apportioned among the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain—the only nations which so far have developed nuclear weapons. He said there is no inspection problem since monitoring devices enable detection of testing activity from afar.

"Somebody has to make a start toward limiting these tests," Anderson said. "Nobody could hear without being disturbed the testimony we have received about the damage that could be done to persons on earth—and to thousands or millions still unborn—if the level of radiation continues to go up."

Two Men Return $2,350 in Envelope

EVANSTON, Ill. (U-P) — A school district truck driver got a pleasant surprise yesterday just a few minutes after he reported the loss of an envelope containing $2,350 in school funds.

The money had been deposited in the State Bank and Trust Co. Sigward Hanson, the truck driver, was told when he telephoned the school district office to report the loss.

Hanson learned about the loss of the envelope as he was parking his truck in front of the bank. An unidentified woman told him an envelope had come sailing out of the truck. Hanson, who had several envelopes containing school funds on the dashboard, winced.

He reported the loss to police. Then he called the school office and was told the money had been deposited by two men. The money laden envelope, addressed to the bank, had been found by James J. O'Connor and Albert Patterson, Chicago, who delivered it to the bank and went on their way.

Sao Paulo: Fast Growing South American Chicago

By JULIUS GOLDEN

SAO PAULO, Brazil (U-P) — The New World's newest melting pot—Sao Paulo—today is Brazil's cradle of industrialization.

Paulistas, the proud and diverse people who inhabit this city, call it "the fastest growing city in the world; the Chicago of South America."

The city is dramatic evidence that a community, left far behind by the industrial revolution of the last century, can overcome the handicap in a rush toward the future.

Paulistas, referring to the state as well as the city, say "Sao Paulo is a locomotive pulling 20 empty cars (the other Brazilian states)."

Built over rolling hills and shallow valleys, Sao Paulo is a melting pot of three million. On its wide modern boulevards walk Germans, Japanese, Italians, Hungarians and even descendants of proud Confederates who left the United States after the Civil War.

And the immigrants keep coming. Some bring money, others technical know-how. Still others come with empty pockets and big dreams. But all add to Sao Paulo's dynamic personality.

In this nation of vast lands and untapped resources, Sao Paulo has a niche of its own. It has taken long strides ahead of the rest of Brazil.

From its soaring skyscrapers, its modern factories, come more than half of the country's textile products, chemicals and medicines.

Sao Paulo's industrial growth far outshadows its population increase, which in itself is amazing. This city has grown by one million in six years and last year became Brazil's most populous city.

Industrial growth in Sao Paulo, best shown by the increase in value of basic industries, borders on the fantastic. The value of metallurgical industries has grown from less than one million dollars in 1940 to eight million in 1950 to 18 million in 1955.

The automotive industry was valued at two million dollars in 1950 and five million in 1955. The value of the chemical industry grew from eight million dollars in 1950 to 21 million in 1955.

There is an estimated one billion dollars invested in and around Sao Paulo by U.S. companies.

General Motors has announced a 10 million dollar expansion plan here. Ford Motor Co. is expected to follow suit.

In the chemical field, money has been invested by W. R. Grace and Co., Celanese, Union Carbide and others. Union Carbide invested five million in a plastics plant. Borden Chemical is making formaldehyde and other chemicals in a four million dollar plant.

Although U. S. investments make up about 60 per cent of the total foreign investments in Sao Paulo, other nations are moving in rapidly. Germany has invested 72 million dollars in Brazil since 1952—more than any other nation—and 85 per cent of this money is in Sao Paulo.

The heavy immigration to Sao Paulo has solved one major problem of industrialization that the rest of Brazil faces. In Sao Paulo there is no lack of technicians for the factories.

SKYSCRAPERS CROWD Sao Paulo's metropolitan heart, graceful testimony to the city's fantastic boom.

From Carriages to Automobiles

First Oakland Launches Pontiac Into a New Era

(Continuing the recollections of early days in Pontiac, by Arthur Pound, Reprinted from the current issue of the University of Michigan Alumni Quarterly.)

By ARTHUR POUND
Pontiac Buggy early acquired Dunlap Vehicle, named for and managed by Lee Dunlap, and in another five years created another subsidiary, Crescent Vehicle. A reshuffle in 1904 left Murphy sole owner of Pontiac Buggy, while his associates held interest in the subsidiaries.

Apparently, all concerned wanted Mr. Murphy free to dicker and trade as he pleased while following the new idea toward automobile experiment and manufacture. Demand from automobile companies for labor had driven wages up and sales competition stiffened from carriage plants in the South and West.

Presently Murphy secured rights to assemble a two-cylinder car designed by Cadillac, and in 1907 he organized Oakland Motor Car Company, which gradually took over the Pontiac Buggy plants.

After a brief whirl with the two-cylinder car, Boss Murphy shifted to a stout four-cylinder job which won so many hill-climbing contests that W. C. Durant—the little wizard who founded G. M.—bought control of Pontiac for his new General Motors Company in 1908.

Taking stock and notes for his interest, Ed Murphy stood forth as sure to become one of the big men in General Motors, but he soon passed away at the very height of his powers. Lee Dunlap became general manager and directed the first heavy expansion program in Oakland, as that name was continued for a time until shifted to Pontiac—a name that has a real punch, like old Chief Pontiac himself.

Although few persons in Pontiac were then aware of the import of these fruitful transactions and the difficulties presented by the change-over, Harry Coleman knew the strain under which Ed Murphy and his assistants had labored, and he also sensed some of the community perils which flow from swift and sudden industrial growth.

Therefore, through his paper, he conscientiously sought to condition Pontiac so that it might grow in friendly understanding and improved facilities for good living as well as in wealth and population.

Mr. Coleman, too, died early, and no wonder, for he carried Pontiac's problems on his thin, brave shoulders for years. I rejoice in this opportunity to do him honor here and now.

Fortunately, his successors in that now important newspaper have maintained the tradition and extended its scope and strength.

There is another chapter to the automobile picture in Pontiac, that of commercial vehicles. Rapid Motor Vehicle Company, organized down East by Max Grabowsky in 1902, established here in 1904 the first factory in America exclusively planned for commercial vehicle production.

My cousin, Thomas J. Turk (B.M.F. '10), who recently passed away in Muncie, Ind., was its first engineer on the Pontiac job.

General Motors bought Rapid in 1908, likewise Reliance Truck of Owosso, merged the two companies here in Pontiac, and thus started the mammoth General Motors Truck Company.

Through a later association with Yellow Truck and Coach Company, solidated here, General Motors Truck became the world's largest manufacturer of commercial vehicles—trucks, big and small, and coaches.

So now, the small but lively paradise of my youth has grown to 10 times what it was when I was young.

Huge operations draw wealth hither from all corners of the world; and likewise people from all parts of the United States and those from foreign lands who can gain admittance.

After a shaky start, the industry by which it lives has confounded all the skeptics. In 1912 my good boss and thousands of others were forecasting a nearby saturation point for automobile production, and indeed, there have been periods—1913, 1920-21, 1930-34, and a few summer months of 1936, when sales declined sufficiently to cause real concern and distress in the automobile centers.

The marketing problem involved in distributing a bulky, valuable commodity which is affected sales-wise by weather, climate and general purchasing power, is always difficult and grows more touchy as the industry itself becomes so huge that a slump here distempers the whole national economy.

Research, engineering, mass production, volume methods at all points, and automation just around the corner—these conquering systems do continuously and progressively improve products in both quantity and design.

It is therefore vital to the community, and indeed to the nation and in some degree to the whole world, to work with equal skill and tenacity on the processes of distribution, to the end that men here and everywhere may have, not only new and improved automobiles, but also all other goods and services which ameliorate the lot of mankind and promote the good life for soul and body.

After 50 years or so in lands and cities far away, I wouldn't mind being right back in Pontiac as a boy again, knee pants and all; but, not being able to dissolve the years, let me conclude by saying, along with the wandering Ulysses of old who never ceased to love the homeland from which he had so long been absent: "I cannot but remember some things that were most precious to me."

2 Say Smoking Hastens Death

Military Study Brought Controversial Research Team Together

NEW YORK (U)—A military study 12 years ago first brought together the two men who in recent years carried out the massive—and controversial—survey on the effects of smoking.

The pair, E. Cuyler Hammond and Daniel Horn, presented their final report on tobacco yesterday at the convention of the American Medical Assn. They said their findings from the American Cancer Society's statistical study of smoking and death rates indicated a spectacular association between smoking and lung cancer and heart disease.

In 1945, Hammond was a major in the office of the Army Air Force Surgeon. At the Pentagon he met Horn, a civilian who joined him in a project to ascertain the effect of a pilot's age on the cause of aircraft accidents.

In 1946, Hammond became director of the Statistical Research Section of the Scientific Department of the American Cancer Society. In 1947 Horn became his assistant.

In some circles, both medical and nonmedical, their views are regarded with some reservation because neither is a doctor of medicine.

Their findings also have been questioned by a tobacco industry research committee, which views with misgivings both their methods and assumptions. The committee says that the causes of cancer and heart disease still are not known to medical science.

Hammond, who will be 45 on June 14, is a native of Baltimore. He received a bachelor of science degree in zoology at Yale in 1935 and took his doctor's degree in science at Johns Hopkins University in 1938.

Since 1953 he has been at Yale as a professor of biometry—the study of disease by statistical analysis. He and his wife and three children live in New York.

Horn, 41, is a native of Rochester, N. Y. He was graduated as a bachelor of science in mathematics at Northeastern University in 1938 and received his doctor's degree in philosophy at Harvard in 1943.

Subsequently he taught at Harvard and Yale. He has been a lecturer in psychology at Princeton University since 1948.

He and his wife and four children live on an 18-acre farm in Flemington, N. J., where they raise Labrador retrievers.

Tornadoes Set Record With 624 in Five Months

WASHINGTON (U)—A record 624 tornadoes that took a toll of more than 100 lives were reported across the United States during the first five months of this year, the Weather Bureau said today.

The previous five-month high was 392 in 1955. The bureau said, however, that the sharp increase was due more to better reporting than to an actual increase in the number of storms.

The same storms that spawned most of these tornadoes brought record-breaking rainfall in the Southwest and caused frequent flooding throughout most of Texas and Oklahoma and parts of Louisiana, Arkansas, Kansas and Missouri.

Last month alone, at least 324 tornadoes were reported to the Weather Bureau. This preliminary total is a record for May or any other month. The previous May record was 219 in 1955.

The April count was 236 tornadoes, more than double the previous April record of 114 in 1956. The Weather Bureau said the 300 tornadoes reported during January, February, March and April far exceeds any previous total reported for the first four months of a year. Texas had 95 of the 300 and Oklahoma had 46. A state-by-state breakdown of the 324 tornadoes in May is not yet available.

The bureau said the highest toll in lives came in the early evening of May 20 when a storm hit Ruskin Heights, a suburb of Kansas City, and killed at least 39 persons.

The bureau said advance warnings enabled thousands to reach shelter in basements along the tornado's path. More than 50 persons in the cellar of one house and 150 in a church basement were saved although the buildings were demolished.

April tornadoes took 29 lives and 13 were killed in January.

Appointed Police Head

DETROIT (U)—Margaret Conway, 48, has been named chief of the Police Department Women's Division, succeeding Mrs. Margaret Snow, who died April 16.

23-Ounce Baby Dies

DETROIT (U)—A 23-ounce baby girl, Mary Ann Boes, died Tuesday after living six days in an incubator. The child, born prematurely last Wednesday, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Boes.

Senate Readies Aid Legislation

Foreign Relations Unit Seems in Mood to Cut Funds by $750 Million

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee begins shaping a foreign aid bill today. There were indications the program may be cut by 750 million dollars or more.

There also were signs the committee is in a mood to deny the Eisenhower administration most of the long-range authority it has asked for military and economic assistance to free world nations. Authority now is granted on a year-to-year basis.

The administration is asking $3,865,000,000 in new foreign aid funds for the fiscal year starting July 1.

In advance of today's sessions, Sen. Sparkman (D-Aia) said that there is much stronger support within the committee for a long-range economic development loan fund than there is for permanent authorization for military assistance and defense support appropriations.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) who supports the administration's whole program, agreed with Sparkman that the committee will seek language under which the proposed development fund "can be assured of continuing authority."

The administration bill would authorize 500 million dollars for such a fund for the first year, as well as authority for the fund to borrow 750 millions from the Treasury each of the next two years.

Under its language, any money not spent in any year would remain in the fund for loans in succeeding years, as would any repayments to the fund.

Hal Boyle Says:

Tracy's 'Reading' Tires Poor Dad

NEW YORK (U) — One of the more desperate ordeals of parent-hood is listening to a child read who can't read.

Now and then a small local female member of my own tribe comes up to me, carrying a heavy volume upside down in her hands.

"Read it to me," says Tracy Ann, who is almost 4 now. This probably is a heart-warming picture to a man selling subscriptions to the book-of-the-century. It may even brighten the view of an anemic professor of literature with bright hopes that the culture of yesterday lies securely in the brave small hands of tomorrow.

But to me it creates another prospect.

The situation usually goes like this. I have a library that emphasizes the long human reach toward perfection. It catalogs man's endless search for a word that will give a better answer than the sword. A lot of people's libraries are probably like that.

But my daughter, who leeringly refers to herself as "Cuddle Bug" in the presence of strangers, isn't as yet interested in what books say they say.

She's a story girl herself. Her idea of reading is that any book ought to say what pops into her mind.

She tugs out a valuable old political volume showing twelve different ways Williams Jennings Bryan could have beaten McKinley in 1900 if he had talked less about gold and used brass knuckles.

"Read me this, Daddy," she orders.

"Well, once upon a time there was a baby robin that was ready to leave its nest but it was afraid to fly."

"Uh-huh."

"The mama robin told her baby, 'Kid, you got all the free worms you are going to get from this nest, so now hop out and beat your wings and fly.'"

"Un-huh."

"But the baby robin was afraid. And then, all of a sudden, a bumblebee came along and stung the baby robin in his back porch. And the baby robin fell off the nest and fell, and fell, and then it began to beat its wings. And suddenly it was flying, just like its mommy told it that it could."

"No?"

"No?"

"No, that isn't what the book says. I'll read it to you."

"All right, then, what does it say?"

"Well, once upon a time there was this little bunny rabbit going hippity-hop to school and it met a strange man who put it in a pot and cooked it and then a horse came along and ate it, and then a really, really great big bumblebee came along and stung it in the back porch. Isn't that a sad story, Daddy?"

"Yes, indeed."

"Do you like sad stories, Daddy?"

"Not particularly."

"You don't? I do. Let me read this book over to you again. Once upon a time there was this little bunny rabbit who was going . . ."

"Daddy, wake up. Can you hold the book? My hands are tired. Well, it's a sad story. Once upon a time here was this little, bunny rabbit and . . ."

Hippity-hop, over and over. The rabbit never gets any wiser, the bumblebee always delivers the punchline in the end. No matter how often Daddy suggests hopefully that the bumblebee might sting the bad man instead, and direct intervention and papa's ever-present coaching.

Asked yesterday to identify his devoted benefactor, however, Junior had to claim a truthful answer "would tend to incriminate me."

Young Beck, pampered by a lifetime of paternal benevolence, is faced with contempt action for drawing too tight a cloak of silence about the crumbling Beck financial and labor empire of the Pacific Northwest.

Senate racketeers contended fiercely yesterday that the snickering son of the Teamsters Union boss invoked the Fifth Amendment in a manner that was "capricious" and "frivolous."

Previous testimony in the running serialization of Dave Beck's pursuit of money has indicated capriciousness and frivolity are not new aspects of Junior's life.

At one point in the probe, young Beck was described as a "spoiled boy" who turned Seattle into a circus when he launched one of his business enterprises.

PORKY SCION

The porky scion of Beck's million dollar empire was once a guard on the University of Washington football team. Testimony and questions before the Senate committee have listed such diverse occupations for him as an international organizer for the Teamsters and a beer distributor.

One of the questions the younger Beck didn't decline to answer in Tuesday's appearance was about his marital status. He replied in the negative when asked if he had a wife.

Witness after witness has sketched a roly-poly, florid-faced Papa Beck as a perpetual Santa Claus where his single offspring is concerned.

Junior, a bulky, balding facsimile of his bulky, balding 62-year-old father, has, according to testimony before the Senate committee, been financially enriched by papa's

Father's Protection Gone

Beck Jr. to Stand Alone?

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

Dave Beck Jr., after 36 years of walking in his father's protective shadow, may soon stand alone in the cold glare of a federal courtroom.

the bunny rabbit leap out of the cooking pot at the last minute and ride away safely on the horse.

"Daddy," she said indignantly, "can't you read this book? It's a sad story."

Youth, an elder must hope, will rise in time fresh from the unyielding platform of early despair, and enjoy a happy ending.

Political Rival Dies on Iraqi Senate Floor

BAGHDAD (U)—Prime Minister Buri Said's leading rival, Sen. Saleh Jabr, fell dead today as he spoke to the Iraqi Senate.

Jabr, 61, headed the Umma Socialist party, which was dissolved in September 1934 along with other Iraqi parties after Nuri's supporters won an overwhelming majority in the Parliament.

Jabr had left Iraq for Europe before the election, advising his party to boycott the vote, but later returned to lead the opposition to the government in Parliament.

Troops Leave Taipei

TAIPEI, Formosa (U)—The last contingents of the 33,000 Chinese Nationalist troops rushed here to quell anti-American demonstrations May 24 were withdrawn from the city today. Troops normally stationed in Taipei remained. The martial-law proclaimed after the riots also remained in force, but conditions generally were normal.

Broadway Flop Booms

NEW YORK (AP) — Going abroad has worked fine for the play "Girls of Summer."

The problem comedy appeared briefly on Broadway early this season, receiving mixed critical notices. But the script now is being performed by 17 companies in Europe — and a London production is in the offing.

A Cuban trucking firm now uses that country's first refrigerated trailer trucks.

Makes Lucky Decision

Elmer Visits His Doctor

By ELMER WHEELER

After finding that hole in my hair, not due, of course, to the guy giving me treatments, but caused perhaps from old age, improper diet or moths, I made a decision.

It took me months of self-treatment as a fatso before I saw my doc; so now after months of self-education, I again came to this lucky decision.

I say lucky because it was, as you'll see.

Didn't the doc set me right on my calories when my homemade methods and listening to the tall tales of my friends had failed? In fact, I had put on an extra eight pounds.

Anyway, I saw it was time (with holes in my hair, no less) to see him. I phoned for an appointment.

I explained that I had a large hole in my hair and needed some fast and expert advice before I ended up in a hair doily factory.

"I guess you've been giving yourself some home treatments to save a doctor's bill, eh?" he smirked.

PAYING EXPENSIVE FEES

I assured him it was nothing like that. In fact, I was paying very expensive fees to a scalp specialist. I told him I had tried homemade remedies but if I could save a buck and get cured in a drugstore or barbershop, what of it?

"Didn't do much good," he said. "eh, son?"

No, it didn't, I admitted; otherwise, why in thunder would I be talking to him and getting insulted by the minute?

Besides, I told him that each minute he wasted talking to me I lost another 100 hairs.

"Yeah, son, I know, I know," he went on. "I just wanted to be sure you had been through the tonic stage, the barber cure, and the hair clinic stage and was ready for medical advice."

I said yes. He said come over. For three days I got madder and madder. First at the wife for finding the hole in my hair; then at the doc for snickering at me, then at myself for being a fool.

In the meantime the hair grew longer over the eyes of my sheep dog, and so I got mad at him for no other reason than his was a problem of getting weekly hair-cuts and mine was just the opposite.

That very afternoon the papers came out with a new cure for receding brows, supposed to be discovered in Africa where there are no bald heads. No heads, perhaps, but all with hair.

I read every line of what the guy said who talked with the fellow who personally visited the medicine man who told how his brother in the next battle area discovered the hair grower.

I told my doc the ingredients this African cure-all for the head had in it. He offered to mix some up if I went to the drugstore and got the stuff.

He made up a whole bottle. It sure smelled bad but after all isn't that the basic requirement of good medicine, anyway?

PLEASED WITH RESULTS

I was so pleased with the results I phoned my doc to cancel my next appointment. I informed him the stuff was preventing my hair from falling out. "It's like it was stuck on me now," I assured him.

"Have you combed it lately?" he asked. I hesitated. To tell the truth, I hadn't, but I would.

I called him back, sheepishly as my sheep dog, and said I had combed it. The comb was still laughing at me. He told me to come over.

"If it's a bottle you want, well, son, I've got a bottle here that I'll positively guarantee will keep hair on your head. In fact, the American Medical Association will back up my discovery."

I offered to run right over. When I got there, I shook with nerves like a guy going off dope. I trembled. "Where's the bottle? Where is it?" I screamed.

"Take it easy, son. Take it easy," he said. "It's right here. But don't you think we need a little examination first?"

I shouted no. I had diagnosed my condition enough. I wanted the bottle. The bottle. THE BOTTLE!

"Well, here it is then," he said. "And guaranteed by the American Medical Association to keep what hair is left on your head ON your head."

He handed me the bottle. I grabbed it fiercely. I looked at the label. It was familiar. Very familiar to me. I had seen lots of them. Hundreds of them in my very own office.

It was a bottle of glue.

Heal What Ails You by 'Pain Diversion'

PANAMA CITY, Panama—The Guaymí Indians of Panama have some unusual healing practices. Among them is "pain-diversion" therapy, used for a pain in any part of the body.

Through it they relieve the suffering by causing a more severe pain in the same part. Toothache is treated by attaching a nail to a piece of wood, heating it red hot, and then briskly touching the parts around the affected tooth nine or 10 times. The same is done for gallstones or pains in the liver or spleen.

When there is a swelling in which there is pus, the red-hot nail is thrust in until the pus drains out. The treatment is said to be quite effective and, according to an American observer, the wound generally heals in a few days.

Many Children Believe Milk Comes From Bottles

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The ladies of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau have discovered that too many children think milk comes from bottles.
They've announced a campaign to do something about it.
The organization is distributing posters of a "Good Health Giant," who explains it really comes from cows. And besides the children who do the best coloring job in the posters will be eligible for prizes at county fairs next summer.

NOTICE OF HEARING ON SPECIAL Assessment Improvements by Bloomfield Township Board.

To the owners of the following described property:
Lots 1 and 2 of Island Lake Woods' part of East 1/4 of Section 18, Lots 3 through 11, inclusive, Lots 12 and 13, and part of Outlot B of Island Lake Woods No. 1, Part of the West 1/4 of Section 17 and the East 1/4 of Section 18, Bloomfield Township, Oakland County, Michigan.

Please take notice that the Township Board of the Township of Bloomfield has tentatively declared its intention to make the following described improvements:

Grading and constructing 2 inch bituminous aggregate surface and work incidental thereto, on Lakeland Lane and Kirkland Court from West Long Lake Road to Cul-de-Sac, Bloomfield Township, Oakland County, Michigan; and has tentatively designated the special assessment district against which the cost of said improvements is to be assessed as consisting of all the lots and parcels of land set forth above.

Plans and estimates have been prepared and are on file with the Township Clerk for public examination. The estimate of cost as prepared shows the cost of said project to be $8,353.25. Take further notice that the Township Board will meet on June 12, 1957, at 8:00 o'clock p.m., at the Bloomfield Township Hall, 4200 Telegraph Road, in the Township of Bloomfield for the purpose of hearing any objections to the petition, to the improvements and to the special assessment district therefor.

County Planning Groups Meet

Mull Over With Others Better Coordination of Various Programs

Five southeastern Michigan county planning commissions met last night with officials of the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission and the Supervisors Inter-County Committee. The group wants better coordination of its various programs.

The session at Northwood Inn, Berkley, was run by J. Robert F. Swanson, chairman of the Oakland commission.

Speakers were Edward Conner, chairman of the inter-county committee and of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors, and Paul Reid, regional planning commission director.

Other planning commissions attending were from Livingston, Macomb, St. Clair and Washtenaw Counties.

Through these meetings it is expected that common planning problems will be worked out. Swanson said. The group hopes to coordinate its planning so that recommendations can be developed that the inter-county committee can put into action, he said.

The inter-county committee is made up of representatives from the boards of supervisors in five area counties, Oakland, Wayne, Macomb, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Monroe.

The USS Sperry, named for Dr. Elmer A. Sperry, an inventor, engineer and pioneer of submarine instrumentation, refitted and repaired more than 144 U. S. combat submarines in the Pacific sea battles in World War 2.

To Have Been Born Several Centuries Too Late

Tower of London Makes One Happy

By PHYLIS BATTELLE

LONDON (INS) — The average American has an uncomfortable aversion to the old-fashioned art of death by decapitation. Possibly this stems from the fact that a head that was lopped might've belonged to your own ancestor.

Lost treasure is quite another thing again. Americans are very sentimental about such stuff as old buried diamonds and rubies in musty, rusty chests.

Possibly this stems from the fact that Americans like riches, although there may be a gentler explanation in the case of small children who are currently reading "Captain Kidd."

At any rate, a visit to the Tower of London is an experience unsurpassed in both the fields of treasure-hunting and tragic history.

Inside these great walls built in the 12th Century are 18 acres full of memories (and tombs, racks and chopping blocks) from the old days when Henry VIII disposed of women and Richard III disposed of children and other kinds of people, and men of wealth disposed of gigantic fortunes.

SMALL DWELLING

Stepping gingerly around the lovely green plot where Anne Boleyn lost her head for the last time, the visitor comes upon a small stone dwelling, inside of which London's Ministry of Works has recently begun digging for a fortune which may have been dropped into a vault below the present stone floor of a bell tower three centuries ago.

Standing beside a hole, 6 feet deep so far, and 20 feet long, is a mustachioned man who digs this sort of thing. Mr. John Charlton. He is the "inspector of ancient monuments" for London.

"It would be quite amusing of course, if we should find anything here," he remarks briskly, "but so far all we've unearthed are a lot of pieces of pieces of pottery, a child's copper bell and a great many bones."

(Having been 30 years in the business, Mister Charlton is somewhat blasé about bones. "These are only meat bones, fortunately; human bones are a great nuisance. Unless you can come up with 30 or 40 rather complete skeletons, you can't come to much of any conclusion. And then you have to rebury them, and it's a great deal of work.")

What Mr. Charlton and the ministry are searching for—officially, on the record—is further archaeological data contributing to the historical knowledge of the Tower of London, which was built by William the Conqueror, partly destroyed by Oliver Cromwell, and restored to its rugged stature by ensuing monarchs.

A VAST FORTUNE

But the project was "pushed" by several historically minded Englishmen who insist that archaeological tests indicate there may be a vault below this particular part of the great wall.

And in that vault may be the vast fortune of Sir John Barkstead, amassed a lot of loot before fleeing during the Restoration.

"He was caught and returned, all right," said Charlton cheerfully, "But Charles II was so eager to get rid of the chap that he hanged him promptly."

"As I understand it, some wretched girl friend of Barkstead's said casually one day that he had buried a big treasure. She wouldn't say where, so they probably got rid of her too.

"Everybody looked for it. Samuel Pepys spent a devil of a long time searching. But there's no record of anyone's locating it, and here we are."

STEEPED IN HISTORY

While awaiting the results of the exciting search for buried booty, which if found will almost certainly revert to the crown, the tourist can rove the grounds and steep himself in history.

From "The Booby Tower" where prisoners were murdered, to the "Tower Green," where some of last year didn't seem to go with the most distinguished names in the colors on the new cars," he vately executed, the London Tower deserves its title, "The Saddest Spot on Earth."

License Color Switch Makes Hit With Drivers

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A switch in the color of license plates from black and orange to black and white seems to have lowered Texas motorists' sales resistance.

he sold more tags earlier this season. "The orange and black we used 'Tower Green,' where some of last year didn't seem to go with the most distinguished names in the colors on the new cars," he

Scientists Asking Ban on Weapons Called Qualified

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The 2,000 scientists who signed a petition calling for an end to nuclear bomb tests are thoroughly qualified to speak as experts on the subject, says Dr. Linus Pauling, who prepared the document.

Pauling, a Nobel Prize winner who heads the biochemistry department at the California Institute of Technology, came to the defense of the signers yesterday in the face of criticism from President Eisenhower, among others. At his press conference the President said he had noticed that "in many instances scientists that seem to be out of their own field of competence are getting into the argument" over the danger of radioactive fallout from nuclear tests.

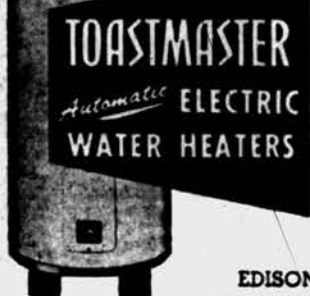

"It is absolutely wrong to say the signers are not qualified to speak out," said Pauling. "The leading geneticists in the nation signed. Most of the signers are biologists and are just the people who do know the biological effects of radiation. Nobody in the world is more competent to speak on this question."

THE BEST GIFT FOR FATHER YET!—FROM PENNEY'S

Bob Considine Says:

If Shipselayed News of Today---

NEW YORK (INS) — Mayflower II is inching toward Plymouth, Mass., with the bronze and steady hand of Capt. Alan Villiers at the wheel.

The replica of the British trading vessel that brought William Bradford and 102 settlers to America 337 years ago hopes to reach Port June 14 or 15, will stay 10 days, then sail for New York to spend the summer as a tourist attraction.

Her leisurely passage, which included several becalmings, began at 5 p.m. on April 20 at Plymouth, England. The original took 63 days. The passenger list included a soldier named Miles Standish, a young cooper named John Alden and may or may not have included one Priscilla Mullens.

Most of the shipload's descendants now are members of the DAR and meet once a year in Washington for the benefit of the orchid growers of America.

Right now, Mayflower II is in the general area of Bermuda, properly wary of reefs and Hamilton real estate agents. Capt. Villiers reported recently, over his anachronistic radio transmitter, that the earth is indeed roundish, no sea serpents had been sighted and that food and water are holding out fine. He slipped out of Plymouth with enough for eight weeks regular and 18 weeks rationed eating and drinking.

DEPENDENT ON SHIPS
We take the foreign dispatches of our newspapers so much for granted we forget that in the days of Mayflower I the settlers had to depend on such ships as the sole means of communication with the mother land and the old world beyond.

Suppose that prevailed today? The little boats that would go out from Plymouth to meet Mayflower II, and receive the tidings its people had brought across the Atlantic, would learn that The Netherlands had joined with other little nations in defiance of Russia's threats concerning NATO bases, and that Cardinal Segura had died in Madrid the same day — April 8.

They'd learn that the Queen of England visited Paris on April 9, and that Saudi Arabia got arms aid from the U. S. and the last wreckage was removed from the Suez that day.

And that on April 15, Jordan's King drove out pro-Egyptian and pro-Soviet elements from his government, and the Pope expressed sympathy for Japan's protest against atom bomb tests.

But Mayflower II could have brought no word of what happened in Europe after that. Its people would not have known that on April 21 it was announced that Egypt expected to accept U. N. arbitration of Suez disputes.

Or that on April 24, Dr. Albert Schweitzer urged world opinion to demand an end to nuclear tests. Or that on the following day the U. S. Sixth Fleet sailed for the Near East in the most vigorous gesture we ever made in that troubled area.

BATTLESHIPS DOOMED
They wouldn't know, and thus we wouldn't, until mid-June that on April 27 the British navy, one of the great deterrent forces in history, decided to scrap its battle-ships and rely forever after on carrier-based atomic bombers and seaborne missile launchers.

Nor that Israel released a U. S.

woman charged with spying, that

Jordan accepted $10,000,000 in aid, and that the British foreign minister, Lloyd, asserted that the agitation against atomic tests was Communist-inspired.

We would be bereft of intelligence that Russia, in a remarkable about-face, had indicated

a willingness to open a portion of its skies to aerial inspection.

This their spokesman first hinted in London May 1, 10 days after the Mayflower cast free.

And we'd be in the dark about U. S. Marine landings in Beirut, Churchill's argument with modernistic painter Ruskup Spear, an bid.

Egyptian plot to kill King Saud, the resignation of the Italian Premier Segni, Cardinal Wyszyński's trip to Rome, nor know that the British and many other countries are fixing to do business with Red China.

Unfurl that spinnaker, Villiers!

STILTED SCULPTOR — Using skills to get closer to his work, former sailor Barney West bangs away at this exotic nine-foot "Tiki" statue at his home in Larkspur, Calif. Impressed by the Easter Island and Polynesian carvings he saw while in the Merchant Marine, Barney has begun a new career by sculpting similar statues and selling them. A statue like this one — a Hawaiian family god — will sell for about $400.

County Kiwanis Boosting Sale of Michigan Apples

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWN—Kiwanians as their agricultural SHIP—Kiwanis Clubs of Oakland project of 1957. County, 15 in all, will put their full weight behind a project to push the sale of Michigan apples locally. This undertaking was adopted by field Township Hall on Orchard Lake road. John C. Finlayson, chairman of the West Bloomfield Kiwanis Club Agricultural Committee, has invited leading apple growers, retailers and representatives from local newspapers and radio stations. A special guest will be Holland Patterson, manager's secretary of the Michigan State Apple Commission.

Kiwanis Clubs of Rochester, Pontiac, Royal Oak, Farmington, Oak Park, Ferndale, Southfield, Berkley, Birmingham, Holly and Fenton will be represented.

Retailers invited to the meeting include representatives of the Wrigley's, National, Kroger, Atlantic & Pacific and Food Fair grocery chains. The Greater Detroit Food Dealers' Assn. and the Michigan Food Retailers Assn. will also send representatives.

To add zest to the campaign, Kiwanians will stage an apple pie baking contest in October. Winners from the 15 clubs participating in the project will meet in Pontiac to determine the champion of Oakland County.

Josephine Sawyer, Consumers Marketing Information Officer for Oakland County, will play a large part in the promotion of the contest. She is employed by the Michigan State University Agricultural Extension Service.

Library Reports on Book Loans

Walled Lake Service Signs 6-Month Lease; Needs Books for Youth

WALLED LAKE — The first report issued by the Walled Lake Community Library reveals that almost 3,400 books were loaned during its first 10 months of operation.

A total of 2,616 books were passed out to holders of library cards from the library shelves. Another 800 special requests for books not in the library were filled.

Information released by Mrs. Helen Foss, recording secretary of the Library Planning Board, disclosed that the library has been experiencing a steady growth. The growth has been taking place in the number of patrons and in the number of books available.

The board has signed a six-month lease to remain in its same quarters on the second floor of the Ramsey Building in downtown Walled Lake, next door to the city offices.

The library is still operating from funds received through donations and the sale of library cards.

A proposal that the library be tax supported by property owners in the city was defeated by a small margin at the April 1 spring election.

Board members say the current need is for books for children of all ages. The library was opened last Aug. 4.

Dogs Live Longer

NEW YORK—Four to five years have been added to the average dog's life in the past 25 years.

Musical Night Slated at Church

ROCHESTER — A religious musical night is being planned for Thursday at Church of the Nazarene here.

The Lacy Trio, part of a quintet that traveled the world singing the gospel for 21 years, will appear at 7:30 p.m. The public has been invited to attend.

The church, in its recent annual meeting, heard reports including the facts that all bills are paid; attendance has increased in every department; and the pastor, the Rev. T. C. Riddle will stay on at the church for another year.

Board Meeting Tonight

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP—Harold Doebler, township clerk, has announced a special meeting of the township board here, at 7:30 tonight. The session is for the purpose of considering budget cutting, he said.

MR. AND MRS. S. GAJDA

Catholic Ceremony Read

ROCHESTER — Helen Dorothy Dzuris became the bride of Stanley Gajda in a June 1 ceremony at St. Andrew's Catholic Church here. The Rev. Fr. Edward G. Baumgartner performed the 10 a.m. ceremony before 200 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Peter Dzuris of 507 East Third St.

Wearing a gown of crystal and embroidered organza over tulle, the bride's fingertip veil was secured by sequins and pearls. She carried a prayer book with a white orchid.

Mrs. Fran Anderson, sister of the bride was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Catherine Dzuris, sister of the bride, Delores Dzuris, niece of the bride, and Mrs. Hugo Tuenser.

Chester Morgan, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man and ushers were Charles Williams, Frank Falletich and Stanley Anderson.

A reception was held at Auburn Heights Community Hall. After a Florida honeymoon the couple will reside at 507 E. Third St., Rochester.

Scout Leaders Elect Officers at Whitfield

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—The Whitfield Neighborhood

Girl Scout Leaders held their annual election of officers recently at the home of Mrs. Leonard Doub on Square Lake road.

Elected Neighborhood Chairman was Mrs. Doub, with Mrs.

Ray Marentette and Mrs. Arthur Silverthorn to fill the office of vice-chairman. Mrs. Dale Olson was elected secretary-treasurer for the group.

Whitfield Scouts are in need of adults to assist in various phases activities, such as troop leaders, camping or outdoor enthusiasts, officials announced.

June Is Dairy Month: You Never Outgrow Your Need for Milk

Pontiac Press Home Editor

June is Dairy Month. It is the month when we focus our attention on that important class of food under the heading of Dairy foods. Included are, of course, milk, cream, butter, cheese and ice cream. We think we are safe in stating that everybody eats some food in this category every single day.

It may only be the cream in your coffee or the butter on your toast. It may be an ice cream soda. It may be a toasted cheese sandwich or a cottage cheese salad for lunch.

It may be the baby's bottle of milk. Or it may be the butter-milk, evaporated milk or non-fat dry milk you homemakers use in cooking. For some it might be a sour cream dip for potato chips. But all of us need and want dairy foods daily.

America's dairy herds were started when the first settlers came to Jamestown 350 years ago. These pioneers brought cows with them and started the dairy industry, an industry that now employs over two million people.

GOOD OLD DAYS?

Gone are the days—and fortunately so—when you ran out with your pitcher to let the town milkman dip into the huge milk can on his cart and pour out your day's supply of milk. It wasn't pasteurized and it probably wasn't very clean. Summertime then always brought an epidemic of milk borne diseases.

In the state of Michigan we are protected against getting anything but pasteurized milk if we buy all our milk from regular dairy sources. The farmer who sells a quart or two to his neighbor or to the summer visitor does not have to pasteurize that milk. It is up to us to see that our families are protected by getting our milk only through channels that come under the pasteurization law.

After milk reaches your home it is your job to keep it in the best condition. Heat and sunlight will harm it. Don't let it sit on the doorstep; take it in and refrigerate it immediately. Light, especially sunlight, will destroy the vitamins in milk. And heat, of course, will sour it in time.

WATCH YOUR MILK

Cottage cheese, cream and buttermilk need the same refrigeration to keep them in perfect condition. Skim milk seems to sour quicker than regular milk so be extra careful about constant refrigeration for that.

Regular cheese should be kept in aluminum foil or plastic wrappings. The mold that sometimes forms on cheese is not harmful.

Cut it away and use the cheese. Some homemakers keep cheese wrapped in a cloth saturated with vinegar. We have never found that effective in preventing mold.

Butter must be kept wrapped because it is quick to pick up other odors from nearby foods in the refrigerator. If you're lucky enough to have a refrigerator with a butter keeper, you never have to worry in hot weather.

Otherwise, it's a battle between having the butter too hard or just a pool of melted fat on the plate. Judicious timing in removing butter from the cold before a meal is the answer.

REMOVE ICE CREAM

Ice cream, of course, has to be kept in a frozen state. If the ice cube section compartment of your refrigerator doesn't keep it hard enough to suit you, remove the ice cream from the package. Place it in an ice cube tray, cover it and store it that way. We think your troubles will be over.

Sour cream actually isn't that at all. Dairy sour cream is made from fresh sweet cream to which a starter is added. This is similar to the one used to make cultured buttermilk. It results in a tangy, sweet-sour product.

Don't think, though, as one reader did that sour cream has any fewer calories than sweet cream. But it is a good food with many uses.

MUSHROOM 'N' SOUR CREAM

Mushrooms and sour cream are both gourmet foods. Combine them together in a recipe and you have one that's doubly delicious. Like mushrooms in tangy sauce served on toast. Excellent for luncheon or Sunday night supper.

To make four servings . . . Sauté 1/2 pound of fresh sliced mushrooms in 2 tablespoons of melted butter until mushrooms are tender and browned; combine 1 tablespoon of flour and 1 cup of dairy sour cream; blend into mushrooms and cook until thoroughly heated. Season to taste. Serve over toast squares.

If you like blintzes, you'll probably like the following pancakes. They have cottage cheese right in the pancake batter. Serve them for dessert with a rich strawberry sauce.

CHEESE PANCAKE ROLLS

3 eggs, separated
1/2 cup cottage cheese
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup flour
1/4 cup milk
Beat egg yolks, and cottage cheese together until cottage cheese is quite smooth. Mix in salt, flour and milk. Fold in egg whites that have been beaten stiff, but not dry. Bake on a hot, lightly greased griddle. Turn pancakes as soon as they are puffed and bubbles appear. Brown other side.

Spread strawberry sauce over each pancake and roll up. Fasten with toothpicks. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and garnish with more strawberry sauce on top. Serve hot or cold for dessert as they are delicious any time. Makes 6 servings.

Strawberry Sauce

1 10-ounce package frozen sliced strawberries, thawed
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons cornstarch

Thaw strawberries. Mix sugar and cornstarch in small saucepan. Stir in strawberries and boil about 3 minutes until sauce thickens. Makes 1 1/2 cups sauce. Serve warm or cold.

One of our best sources of complete protein is Cheddar cheese, a concentrated form of milk. Now you can buy it freshly shredded in packages, ready to use in casseroles, salads, sandwiches and sauces. Each package contains one cup of shredded cheese.

Use two packages of this shredded cheese or shred two cups of it yourself for a vegetable-cheese casserole. It needs only twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

Cheese-Lima Casserole

3 tablespoons butter

1/4 cup minced onion
1 No. 2 1/2 can tomatoes (3 1/2 cups)
3 to 4 cups cooked and drained lima beans
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of garlic salt
1 to 2 teaspoons chili powder
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup cold water
2 (4-ounce) packages freshly shredded cheddar cheese (2 cups)

Cook onion in butter until onion is clear. Add tomatoes, beans and seasonings and simmer gently for about 10 minutes. Add flour to cold water, blending to make thin paste. Stir into hot mixture and continue cooking over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened.

Divide half of mixture among four oiled individual casseroles, sprinkle 1 cup of the shredded cheese on top and add remaining beans. Bake in 350 degrees oven for 20 minutes. Remove from oven, sprinkle with rest of cheese and return to oven for about 5 minutes, until cheese is melted. Makes 4 servings.

Buttermilk is mentioned in the world's earliest book on milk and its production, published in Zurich, Switzerland in 1540 A.D. Today's buttermilk is a dependable drink that combines well with fruit juices. It makes an unusual sherbet.

Buttermilk Sherbet

2 cups buttermilk
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup crushed pineapple
1 egg white
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Combine buttermilk, sugar and pineapple and freeze until the con-

PREPARING FOR THE GAME — At the age of ten, baseball can be an all-absorbing passion. For Little League members like Johnny Lundquist of Lower Straits Lake it's really LIFE. Johnny and his mother know that husky active boys need at least three or four glasses of milk every day. Milk makes an excellent snack food, furnishing plenty of energy for the all-important game that's next on the agenda. Johnny's folks are Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Lundquist of 3132 Adele Terrace.

"I JUST LOVE MILK" — That's what Mrs. Richard Justice said when she was approached about having her picture on this special Dairy Month page. It's fortunate she feels that way about milk, for her doctor suggests she drink lots of it. In August the Justices will have their first child. They are new residents of Rochester, living at 357 Winry. Babies nowadays are healthier because their mothers have a good diet before the children are born.

Leon Sirlin, her five-year-old son, Keith, and Jerry the collie turn out to welcome Mr. Thomas. The Sirlins live on Elsinore drive in Sylvan Shores.

GREAT-GRANDMOTHERS TOO — "You never outgrow your need for milk" is taken literally by a great-grandmother, Mrs. Eugene F. (Nellie) Williams of Lakeside drive in Elizabeth Lake Estates. For a nourishing lunch Mrs. Williams often has a fruit and cottage cheese salad. Not only does cottage cheese furnish calcium in the diet but also protein at a reasonable price. Cottage cheese is a versatile food, combining well with many other foods. Mrs. Williams has four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. She is active in church, civic and social affairs in the Pontiac area.

OPEN UP, HONEY — Little Cheryl Barner is only five and a half-months old. She loves her bottle and makes a few attempts to hold it herself, but can't quite do it. So Mother, Mrs. Bruce Barner of 3440 Watkins Lake road, takes over the pleasing chore.

If Cheryl knew anything about Dairy Month, she'd be an enthusiastic supporter of it. Meanwhile, she consumes quantities of milk and concentrates on growing up. Maybe she'll be Miss Front Page some eighteen or twenty years hence.

A WONDERFUL DESSERT — High School students consume gallons of ice cream each day. Double dip cones are standard equipment during the noon hour. Ice cream is another excellent source of milk for anyone; fortunately the young need not worry

June Dessert Quickly Made

Who wants to cook on a bright June day, when all the world's on vacation? And yet, your family's interest in "what's for dessert" never takes a holiday!

That's why your favorite "busy-day dessert" . . . instant pudding . . . fits so well with your lazy-day summer mood. No cooking, no time, no work to fix.

Daffy-Down-Dilly

1 1/2 cups cold milk
1 package Lemon Instant Pudding
1/2 cup orange sections
1/2 cup coconut

Pour milk into mixing bowl. Add pudding mix and beat slowly with egg beater about 1 minute just until well mixed, (do not overbeat; mixture will be thin).

Quickly fold in orange sections and coconut. Pour at once into serving dishes and let stand to set—takes about 5 minutes. Makes 4 or 5 servings. Also delicious made with Vanilla or Coconut Cream flavor.

Produce Shares Spotlight With Other Bargains

The supply of food and the demands of shoppers influence the price you pay for the weekly market basket. Good examples of how supply and demand will affect your pocketbook this week are fryers and cabbage, states Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, MSU Marketing Information Agent.

Greater consumer demand for fryers from now through the summer months will keep prices at a steady level, and is one reason why fryers are six to eight cents a pound higher than last week. On the other hand, increasing supplies of cabbage have changed prices from 10 to 13 cents to 7 1/2 to 12 1/2 cents a pound in most stores this week. FRESH PRODUCE—Produce counters grow brighter with each warm day. The big news in homegrown produce is that Michigan strawberries are expected in the Benton Harbor area this week end. This means that within a week or two you will find an ample supply of Michigan berries.

Some strawberries from other states have recently been damaged by rains. It will pay to check quality carefully.

Asparagus will be four to six cents a pound less this week. Although 90 per cent of Michigan's crop goes to processors, you will find asparagus a seasonal buy in most markets.

Supplies of cabbage, green beans, corn, and tomatoes are on the increase. Liberal is the word to describe the potato supply. Since potatoes do not keep well in warm weather, buy just the amount you can use within a week.

Tropical storms have damaged bananas, and prices are expected to go up because of this. Bing cherries and cantaloupes have been damaged by rains. This will result in a smaller supply and high costs for those available.

Watermelon can now be a "summer like treat" for as little as six cents a pound for the long grey variety.

MEATS—Generally, meats are steady or slightly higher this week. Thriftier red meat choices, compared to other cuts, include beef chuck, pork loins and Boston butt, veal and lamb shoulder.

Young "spring lamb" arrived in most markets this week. Some stores may feature your favorite cuts.

Poultry rates its usual share of attention. Thrift conscious shoppers will find stewing chickens wearing the lowest price tag in this department. Stewers are meatier than the popular fryers and broilers.

Alert shoppers may find large farm turkeys a few cents less per pound than most hen turkeys. Choose frozen birds with unbroken freezer wraps. Leave in the wrap when thawing. If your family likes variety, a duck dinner may cost less than you might think.

EGGS & DAIRY—You may find a slight increase in egg prices this week. At 43 to 49 cents a dozen for large size Grade A eggs, they are the best egg value and one of the best protein buys.

In keeping with Dairy Month, cottage cheese, cheddar cheese, ice cream and butter are specially marked in some stores.

CANNED AND FROZEN ITEMS—Large stocks of frozen peas, corn, spinach, strawberries, orange juice and lemonade is the reason so many are featured.

Very adequate supplies of last season's canned freestone peaches, apple sauce, pineapple, tomato and grapefruit juice are being offered at a few cents less than usual.

Lamb Patties with Currant Sauce

1 1/2 cups ground lamb
1/2 cup milk
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon marjoram
1 egg, well beaten
1/2 cup red currant jelly
1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind

Combine lamb, bread crumbs, milk, salt, marjoram and egg. Shape into 6 patties about 1/2 inch thick. Place patties on charcoal grill or broiler grid. Broil on one side until brown, 8 to 10 minutes. Turn and brown on second side. Heat jelly slowly until melted. Add orange rind. Serve on patties. Serves 6.

Two-Fruit Dessert Has Bread Base

Pretty pink rhubarb and strawberries are both in season again. One complements the other in this dessert.

Trim crusts from 6 slices of bread; dip in heavy cream and saute in butter until brown. Wash 1 pound rhubarb; cut in 1" pieces; add 1/2 cup water; simmer until tender—about 5 minutes. Just before removing from heat add 1 pint strawberries. Spoon fruit mixture over toast. Makes 6 servings.

Molasses Tops Luscious Rolls

Best breakfast recipe we've come across in a long time is this one for Molasses-Nut Breakfast Rolls. It's a one-step, one-pan operation!

Molasses takes to brown and serve rolls in a method similar to that used for upside-down cake. No mixing, though. Just pop 'em in the oven. Extra incentive, too, in knowing that the real New Orleans molasses topping is rich in usable iron.

Add a tablespoon or two of molasses to milk for the children. Mix it with softened butter for a waffle, muffin or toast spread. Use it as a cereal sweetener. You'll find molasses helps those breakfast doldrums!

Molasses-Nut Breakfast Rolls

3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1/2 cup real New Orleans molasses
1 package clover-leaf brown and serve rolls
3 tablespoons chopped nuts

Mix melted butter and molasses in 8-inch baking pan. Place rolls, upside down, in pan. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 minutes, or until rolls are baked. Let stand 1 minute. Remove rolls, sprinkle nuts over top and serve.

Frozen Juice and Pecans Make Sweet Bun Sauce

Combine 1/4 cup frozen concentrated orange juice and 1/4 cup of sugar. Bring to a rapid boil. Then let it boil for a full minute. Stir in 1 tablespoon butter and 1/4 cup pecans and pour it over freshly baked cinnamon or sweet rolls.

Bake Tuna, Carrots and Macaroni in Foil Cups

Looking for something nourishing and tempting to serve to your youngsters at lunchtime? These delicious Corral Tuna Macaroni Casseroles will make a big hit. Tuna, macaroni, evaporated milk, carrots and hard-cooked eggs are flavorfully combined to produce a nutritious dish children will love.

Baked in practical and eye-catching individual casseroles made of heavy-duty aluminum foil, there'll be little cleaning up afterwards.

Corral Tuna Macaroni Casseroles

1 tablespoon salt
2 quarts boiling water
2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
1 cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/2 cup water
1 1/2 cups cooked or canned sliced carrots
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup finely chopped onions
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 hard-cooked eggs, diced
1 7-ounce can solid-pack tuna, drained

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni, so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Melt butter or margarine and blend in flour. Gradually add milk and 1/4 cup water and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add carrots, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper, onions, nutmeg and eggs; mix well.

Break tuna into large pieces. Add tuna and macaroni to sauce; mix well. Form 4 individual casseroles of heavy-duty aluminum foil by shaping squares of double-thickness foil around 1-cup baking dish. Fill casseroles with macaroni-

Mashed Potato Makes Crust for Meat Pie

Here's an unusual meal in a dish built around mashed potatoes.

Spanish-American Potato Pie

1 small onion, chopped
1 cup celery, diced
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 pound ground beef or veal
1 cup canned tomatoes
1/2 cup sliced, stuffed, green olives
1/2 teaspoon salt, pepper to taste
4 cups seasoned mashed potatoes
1 egg

Saute onion and celery in butter or margarine. Add chopped meat and cook until lightly browned. Add tomatoes, olives, salt and pepper and mix well. Add egg to mashed potatoes. Beat well.

Spread half of the potato mixture in the bottom of a greased shallow casserole. Cover with meat mixture. Top with rest of potatoes. For a festive touch force mashed potato mixture through pastry tube to make decorative border of potatoes.

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 45 minutes or until lightly browned. Serves 6 to 8.

Cocoa Adds New Flavor to Cinnamon Toast

Searching for a new way to serve toast at a brunch or luncheon? Try Chocolate Cinnamon Toast for a gourmet touch.

Mix together, 1/2 cup cocoa, 5 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 6 tablespoons sugar. Spread on hot crisp toast.

Cut Up Fish Sticks for Hot Canapes

More and more fish sticks are being used for hot canapes, as well as for main courses and snacks. For canapes, experts suggest cutting each stick in two or three pieces—heating as directed on the package either before or with a colored cocktail pic, and serve with two or more sauces.

FISH STICK DUNKS

Blue Cheese Sauce

To two cups mayonnaise, add 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1/4 cup grated blue cheese. Mix together and serve in a bowl. Sprinkle with chopped chives.

Spicy Sauce

To a cup of ketchup, add 1/2 cup chili sauce, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire, 1 teaspoon horseradish, juice of 1 lemon, 1/4 teaspoon celery salt, dash Tabasco, 1 tablespoon vinegar.

Bread Crust May Be Chewy or Tender

When baking yeast dough, you may have difficulty in always having a good crust. A wrinkled top crust may be caused by letting the bread cool in a draft. A hard, tender crust is produced by brushing the top of the loaf with water several times during baking, after the loaves have been in the oven at least ten minutes. For a tender, shiny crust, brush the top of baked loaves with unsalted shortening as they cook on a rack. Brushing with water, then, tends to produce a more chewy crust.

June Is Dairy Month

What with all the days, weeks and months set aside for various commercial, charitable and other reasons, most people probably pay little attention to all the proclamations and other gimmicks used to draw attention to the special causes being pleaded at the moment.

During June the nation's dairy industry gets together to proclaim its virtues and to put on a special campaign to sell the products of the cow.

The cow is an animal that does deserve some special recognition from mankind, for no beast has given as much to man as the producer of our milk.

The cow is seldom pictured as a noble animal, an adjective we apply to the dog. She is more often described as a docile, contented animal who is responsible for little inspiration to poets, artists and writers. She merely goes on eating grasses of the field, which we human beings cannot eat, and we pay little attention to her.

June was originally selected as Dairy Month because a good many of the country's 22 million or so cows live in areas where green grass begins to grow lushly in May and June. This means that the flow of milk from the cows increases rapidly over what it has been during the months when the cows were eating last year's hay.

There's more milk to be sold in June, so the dairy industry makes a special effort to tell all of us why we should be drinking more milk, eating more butter, cheese, ice cream and others of the big family of dairy foods.

Since milk still holds the title of "nature's most nearly perfect food" and since most of us, especially adults, don't consume as much milk as we should, according to the nutritionists, there is probably good reason for us to cooperate with the cows and the dairy industry in celebrating June Dairy Month. Milk and its products have a great deal to offer in terms of pepping us all up after months of winter lethargy.

Cinnamon Adds Tang to Many Box Mixes

One dessert so old that it will probably seem brand new to today's family is cinnamon ice cream. It also can be made the quick and easy way with packaged mixes—as can many kinds of frostings and cream fillings.

The American Spice Trade Association suggests these ways of letting cinnamon bring good, old-fashioned flavor to packaged mixes.

Cinnamon Ice Cream

1 package ice cream mix
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Combine ice cream and cinnamon. Mix and freeze according to directions on the package. Yield: 6 servings.

Creamy Cinnamon-Chocolate Pie

Line a 9-inch pie plate with vanilla wafers. Fill with the above Creamy Cinnamon-Chocolate Pudding. Chill 5 to 6 hours or overnight. Just before serving, decorate with whipped cream, if desired. Yield: 6 servings.

Rice Ring Circles Creamed Tuna

Creamed Mushroom and Tuna Fish

1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, or 3 cans (4 ounces each) mushrooms
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon minced onion
2 tablespoons minced parsley
2 cans, 10 1/2 ounces each, condensed mushroom soup
1/2 cup milk
1 tablespoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 can, 10 1/2 ounces, tuna fish, drained and flaked

Rinse the mushrooms lightly in cold water. Remove stems and slice. In a heavy skillet melt the butter or margarine; add the mushroom caps, sliced stems, lemon juice and onion. Cook for 10 minutes, shaking the pan occasionally.

Remove the mushroom caps to a bowl. Reserve. Add the parsley, mushroom soup, milk, paprika, salt, pepper and nutmeg; cook 5 minutes. Add the mushroom caps and tuna fish; reheat. Serve over hot fluffy rice ring. Serve immediately. Serves 6.

Store Cake Is New Snack Treat When Toasted

How about serving a new snack treat the next time you entertain? Coconut Sweet Toppers are mid-party dainties the youngsters will enjoy as much as the oldsters.

They are made with cookie-like coconut rounds, either plain or chocolate covered, from your grocer's ready-to-eat cake department. The toppers suggested taste particularly luscious when served warm. Try several different toppers and let your guests choose their favorite.

Coconut Sweet Toppers

Cut coconut rounds, plain or chocolate coated, into 5 pie-shaped wedges. Arrange wedges 1 inch apart on cookie sheet. Top with one of the following.

Center a solid mint chocolate patty on each wedge. Place in slow oven (300 degrees F.) to heat cookie and soften chocolate patty, 2 to 3 minutes. Serve while warm.

Arrange a cluster of 5 miniature marshmallows on top of each chocolate coconut round wedge. Broil 5 to 6 inches from source of heat until marshmallows soften and are lightly toasted. Serve while warm.

AUNT JEMIMA WAFFLES A LA MODE WITH LOG CABIN SYRUP

Just the thing when company drops in—or a new dessert for the family. They're so easy. You start with tender Aunt Jemima waffles—crisp and golden brown. Add plenty of Vanilla Ice Cream. And top generously with Log Cabin Syrup.

NEW CHEESE CAKE PIE, MADE WITH COTTAGE CHEESE AND BISQUICK SHORT PIE CRUST

Whip together until stiff one 12-oz. carton creamed cottage cheese, 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. vanilla, 1 cup whipping cream. Fold in 9-oz. can drained, crushed pineapple. Freeze 2 hours in Bisquick Short Pie crust (Recipe on package). Top with berries.

SOUP SHAKE MADE WITH MILK AND CAMPBELL'S SOUP

Cooling lunch or snack-time idea. Just take a can of Campbell's Tomato Soup. Add one can of cold milk and then a dash of cinnamon. Shake well or whirl it through your mixer. Chill for lunch. Or fill a whole pitcher for a backyard picnic supper. Try it soon!

WHEATIES AND FRESH RASPBERRIES WITH MILK

Breakfast time treat! Plump, sweet, red raspberries and cool, foaming milk on crisp flakes of whole wheat. Wheaties, milk and fruit make a hit with everyone. And you know Wheaties are great for energy, too. For variety, top with old-fashioned cinnamon sugar.

"DAFFY-DOWN-DILLY" MADE WITH JELL-O INSTANT PUDDING

Grand dessert for busy summer days! To 1 1/2 cups milk add one package Lemon Jell-O Instant Pudding. Beat slowly just until mixed. Quickly fold in 1/4 cup diced orange sections, 1/4 cup Baker's New Angel Flake Coconut. Pour into dishes—let stand to set.

SERVE A CHEESE TRAY WITH RITZ CRACKERS

Great idea for late afternoon or TV snacks—or a backyard party. Cheese appetizers are always popular—always easy. Serve richer, crispier Ritz Crackers with Cheese . . . or for a quick, easy meal serve snack sandwiches made with sliced Cheese and cold cuts.

INDIVIDUAL MEAT LOAF MADE WITH NONFAT DRY MILK

It's brown and beefy—yet moist and easy to slice because it's made with Nonfat Dry Milk. Use your favorite meat loaf recipe but with equal parts of Nonfat Dry Milk and water in place of other liquids. Try it this new way.

THE FLAVOR OF REAL BUTTER MAKES ASPARAGUS MORE DELICIOUS

Fresh tender asparagus at its finest—when topped with a generous pat of real Butter! Or with Drawn Butter Sauce: Just melt slowly 1/4 cup butter. Stir in 2 tablespoons flour, 1/4 cup water, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, seasonings.

HAM 'N CHEESE SHORT CAKE MADE WITH EVAPORATED MILK

Split hot biscuits (made with Evaporated Milk, of course) and top with slices of ham and with Cheese sauce. Evaporated Milk makes Cheese sauce (or any cream sauce, for that matter) extra-smooth and delicious.

Layer Tomato Slices, Crackers

Fresh tomatoes, always a summertime favorite on American tables, are tastier than ever in a delicious new version called "Crispy Scalloped Tomato Slices." Baked triple-decker style between layers of minced onion and crispy saltine cracker crumbs, the scalloped slices will add an appetizing "plus" to luncheon and dinner menus. Here's the easy way to prepare them:

Crispy Scalloped Tomato Slices
 4 medium-sized tomatoes (about two pounds)
 2 cups coarsely crumbled saltine crackers
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 4 tablespoons melted butter
 1/2 cup minced onion
 2 tablespoons water
 (Chopped parsley optional)
 Heat oven to 425 degrees F. (moderately hot oven). Slice tomatoes into 1/2-inch slices. Combine crumbs, salt, pepper and 4 tablespoons of melted butter. Sprinkle one third of crumb mixture over bottom of a greased 8-inch by 8-inch by 2-inch baking pan.

Arrange half of tomato slices over crumbs. Sprinkle with half of minced onion. Repeat. Drizzle remaining melted butter, and water, over top of last crumb layer.

Cover; bake at 425 degrees F. for 15 minutes. Uncover, and continue to bake until tomato slices are tender (about 15 more minutes). Makes 8 servings. Sprinkle, if desired, with chopped parsley.

Stuff Bologna Slice With Spicy Salami

Bologna, the bland-flavored sausage that's high on the cold cut popularity list, makes an ideal "wrap" for a stuffing of chopped salami and minced onion.

Serve the combination as the main dish of luncheon or supper, and accompany it with broiled bananas and a crisp vegetable salad, if you like.

Sausage Rolls
 1/2 cup sliced salami
 1 small onion, finely chopped
 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
 8 slices bologna
 2 tablespoons fat
 Combine salami, onion, and mustard. Spoon into centers of sliced bologna. Roll each filled bologna slice and fasten with cocktail picks. Cook bologna rolls in hot fat until browned. Serve immediately. Four servings.

Vinegar Institute Seeks Unusual Uses of Product

Have you ever wondered how many different uses there are for that bottle of vinegar on your kitchen shelf? Well, so has the Vinegar Institute, a national trade association of vinegar manufacturers.

The Vinegar Institute is conducting a study to find out just how many different uses there are for this most versatile of all manufactured food products.

You can help in this project. You probably have a favorite recipe that is flavored with vinegar. Perhaps you have discovered an effective non-food use for vinegar, such as in cleaning.

Whatever interesting uses you make of vinegar, the Vinegar Institute would like to hear about them. While this is a research project and not a contest, no prizes are being offered, you are invited to write a letter telling about your pet uses of vinegar and send it to the Vinegar Institute, 27 East Monroe, Chicago 3, Illinois.

AN ANCIENT FOOD
 Vinegar, which means "sour wine," probably is one of the oldest foods ever manufactured. It originally was made from grapes, and possibly was discovered when wine or grape juice standing in a vessel turned sour.

Today most vinegar is made from apples (cider vinegar) and from grains. But some vinegars are also made from grapes, oranges, bananas, dates, raisins, pears, apricots, peaches, pineapples and from sugar, honey and molasses.

Vinegar has an interesting history. It is reported that the Egyptians used vinegar in their mortars.

PRICELESS DRINK
 Cleopatra had another use for vinegar in ancient Egypt. She bet Mark Antony that she could devour a fortune in a single meal. To prove her point, she dissolved a priceless pearl in a cup of vinegar and then drank the expensive liquid.

From the Bible we learn that Ruth was given a cooling drink of vinegar while working in a barley field at high noon. It was believed in those days that vinegar would help avoid sunstroke. Some people today consider vinegar in cold water a refreshing drink. Others believe this beverage is a good diet aid.

Hippocrates, the "Father of Medicine," used vinegar for its strange healing powers. During the Middle

Serve Shrimp in Grapefruit

Breaded shrimp in hot savory grapefruit will please the family on hot-summer nights. Team with a new vegetable, asparagus or new little potatoes, add a brown-and-serve type bread which you can do in the oven while the grapefruit heats, and you have a tempting main-meal dish.

Breaded Shrimp in Hot Savory Grapefruit

1 10-ounce package individually frozen breaded shrimp
 1 large grapefruit
 3 tablespoons lemon juice
 1 tablespoon salad oil
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
 1/4 teaspoon horseradish
 1/4 teaspoon paprika
 2 tablespoons minced celery
 3 tablespoons minced onion, preferably green onion and top
 1 tablespoon minced parsley

Halve grapefruit, remove core and loosen sections. Mix half of pulp and juice from each with seasonings. Pile mixture back into grapefruit halves. Set in shallow pan and heat in 400 degrees oven 10 minutes.

Deep-fry whole breaded fantal shrimp by package directions. Drain on paper towel.

Arrange shrimp in grapefruit halves with tails over edge (extras may be placed around base). Spoon some of sauce in shells over shrimp. After shrimp have all been dunked in sauce and eaten, be sure everybody eats remaining sauce—it's delicious by itself, too!

NOTE: When grapefruit available are small, use a whole grapefruit for each serving. Cut a top off stem end, not more than a fourth of the whole. Makes 2 servings.

Salad Greens Must Be Dried Before Using

Brightly colored spring salads will sharpen appetites. Yellow green leaf lettuce, bright dark green spinach, jade green watercress and red-veined beet leaf make a colorful combination for just pennies per serving says the MSU Marketing Information Agent Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

One secret of salad success is dry salad greens. After washing, pat them dry. Dry salad greens will not dilute the dressing during the tossing, and the salad will come to the table looking crisp and inviting.

Fold sour cream into hashed brown potatoes just as you are ready to serve them. The result will be a new flavor treat.

Serve Fresh Asparagus With Shrimp Sauce

The wide variety of fresh vegetables in the markets during the spring and summer offer many interesting combinations for the homemaker to serve with companion sauces.

Asparagus is one of the vegetables that makes a pleasing partner for cream sauces with many variations. Cheese, pimiento, eggs, seafood — each one alone or in combination blends with the delicious flavor of this, and many other green vegetables.

For lunch or dinner, when a buffet or family style service has been planned, a combination of fresh asparagus on toast topped with a shrimp and hard-cooked egg sauce will be eye-appealing and add an interesting blend of flavors to the menu. As an accompaniment serve tomatoes cut in half and broiled with a topping of shredded American cheese.

Crabmeat or lobster or a combination of both may be substituted for the shrimp in the cream sauce. You will want to make this dish often for your family and friends.

Asparagus Spears With Shrimp Sauce

3 small bunches fresh asparagus*
 1/2 cup butter
 1/4 cup flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Dash each of pepper, Tabasco sauce, and paprika
 2 cups milk

Proper Meat Care Is Safety Measure
 Don't let a balmy breeze wafting through your open window invite you outdoors from the dinner table before you've taken care of the food left from the meal. It's just such a balmy breeze, warmed by a hot sun perhaps, that causes disastrous effects on foods left standing at room temperatures.

Meat, for example, left from a meal should be cooled, covered, and promptly refrigerated. To conserve space, the bones may be removed from the meat before it is stored.

The same rule applies when meats are cooked for future use. The cooked meats should be quickly cooled, uncovered, then covered, and stored in the refrigerator. Cooling may be hastened by setting the pan of meat in cold water. Occasional stirring of broth or gravy of stews or soups prepared for future service will increase the rate of cooling, too.

1 1/2 cups cooked, shelled, and deveined shrimp
 2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
 3 slices buttered toast
 Pimiento
 Break tender part of each asparagus spear from woody base. Remove scales, if sandy. Wash thoroughly. Cook covered in salted boiling water until tender; drain. Melt butter in saucepan over low heat and blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk slowly stirring constantly until sauce is smooth and thickened. Fold shrimp and eggs into sauce carefully. Allow shrimp to heat through.
 Place hot buttered toast slices on serving dish. Cover slices with well-drained asparagus spears. Top with shrimp sauce or pour sauce over in separate dish to be served with asparagus. Garnish with pimiento and sprigs of parsley. Makes 6 servings.
 Variations: Substitute 1/4 cup each of flaked canned lobster and crabmeat for the shrimp and eggs called for in above recipe.
 *About 2 pounds. If desired, 2 packages of frozen asparagus spears may be substituted. Cook until tender as directed on package.

SHRIMP SAUCE ENHANCES — Shrimp or lobster cream sauce will add new flavor appeal to fresh asparagus spears for a main dish at luncheon or for dinner. For an added accompaniment broil half tomatoes with a topping of shredded American cheese.

Be Sure Charcoal Burner Is in Shape for Season

Now that another outdoor cooking season is here, it's a good idea to check your charcoal grill equipment.

The grill itself may need a little touching up. During the "off season," areas where paint is chipped from the bowl or legs may have rusted. If the bowl needs painting, make sure you use heat resistant paint.

Don't paint the inside. Chrome legs, of course, shouldn't be painted, but if they are chipped, varnish or shellac can be used to protect areas that might rust.

A new supply of gravel with which to cover the bottom of the fire bowl also should be obtained. Experiments at Arvin Industries, Inc., show medium size stones, from 1/4 to 3/8 inch in diameter, are most suitable.

Other items needed are a small rake or tongs with which to manage the fire and a long-handled spatula, fork, and knife to handle the food.

If you use a spit, you need heavy twine, metal foil for drip pans, skewers, and spit forks. Don't forget an extension cord if the spit is turned by an electric motor.

Also handy are heavy potholders or mittens, trays, paper plates and trowels, a carving board, and large salt and pepper shakers.

Old Fashioned Flavor Gotten by New Method

For creamed vegetables the easy way... today's flash: Place one package frozen vegetables (green beans, peas, corn or any other favorite), 1/2 cup water and 1 teaspoon salt in saucepan. Cover. Bring quickly to a boil, separating vegetables with fork to hasten thawing. When water boils, reduce heat and cook until just tender.

After cooking add more water, if necessary, to make 1/2 cup liquid. Combine 2 tablespoons instant powdered cream and 1 tablespoon flour and sprinkle over hot vegetables. Stir and cook over low heat until sauce thickens. Serves 4.

Butter—for Extra Flavor

Give the gourmet's touch to dinner simply by using garlic butter with hot breads and steaks; serve drawn butter with broiled lobster. Once in a while, give that extra-fancy look to hot biscuits, muffins, waffles and other breads by serving butter shaped into little round balls. And here's a tip for parties: shrimp butter for hors d'oeuvres.

Use Lots of Milk During Dairy Month

Beat sherbet until it is light and fluffy. Replace in refrigerator tray. Freeze until firm, stirring frequently. Serves 6.

Nonfat dry milk is on everyone's pantry shelf these days, we hope. It provides such a wonderfully simple way of adding extra nutrition to other foods. And it is the dieter's best friend. In the following recipe it is used to make a tempting salad dressing or raw vegetable dip.

Dieter's Dressing
1/2 cup nonfat dry milk
1/2 cup ice water
1/2 cup cottage cheese
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons minced chives or green onion tops
Dash cayenne pepper
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
1/2 teaspoon celery seed
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Whip nonfat dry milk in ice water until stiff. Add rest of ingredients and blend until smooth. Use as a salad dressing or as a dip for favorite raw vegetable strips.

Evaporated milk will make a good ice cream sauce. Serve it hot or cold.

Golden Honeyscotch Sauce
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup honey
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup evaporated milk

Combine in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, to soft ball stage (234 degrees). Stir in another 1-3 cup evaporated milk and cook until thick and smooth, about three minutes longer. This makes about 1 1/2 cups sauce.

Milk, cream, cheese, butter, ice cream, cottage cheese, buttermilk, nonfat dry milk, evaporated or sweetened condensed milk. They're all yours to use in Dairy Month and throughout the year. Here's to your good health!

Cook Vegetables in Foil

Use grade A eggs for poaching, frying and cooking in the shell or whenever appearance is important. Use grades B and C for scrambling, baking, sauces and combining with other foods; they're more economical.

Children Will Approve

Give your children three to four cups of milk each day. Children over two can take part of this as American cheddar or cottage cheese or ice cream, or in cooked foods.

Spicy Marinade Helps Blend Flavor of Veal

Marinades and long cooking are usually seasoned best by whole (as against ground) spices. Did you ever wonder why?

Poles Will See American Way

On June 9th when the International Trade Fair opens in Poznan, Poland, a tall, blue-eyed blonde from the United States will be on hand to help show the Polish people how Americans live. Barbara Sampson, home economist for the Birds Eye Division of General Foods, is making the long journey to Poland at the invitation of the U. S. Department of Commerce which, for the first time, is sponsoring a United States Exhibit at a trade fair behind the Iron Curtain.

The United States Exhibit at the Fair (which runs from June 9 to June 23) is designed to show the Poles and visitors from other Eastern European countries some of the vast array of products which are available in the United States... some of the things we wear, use and consume.

The exhibit will emphasize family living, and the various displays will feature such categories as food, automobiles, shelter, children's and adults' recreation, books, music, art and clothing.

One of the exhibits will feature frozen foods, displayed in the best supermarket manner. Here daily demonstrations will be given showing various methods of preparing frozen foods—on top of the range, in a rotisserie, in the oven, in electric fry pans, toasters and blenders.

In an adjoining "hall of appliances," dishwashers, refrigerators, clothes dryers, ranges, automatic ironers, etc., will be demonstrated. There'll also be a model home set up, with the various rooms forming a sequence of displays showing how an American family lives.

Asparagus Increasing in Michigan This Year

Five hundred new acres of asparagus in Michigan this year should mean plenty of this favorite spring vegetable. But weather must cooperate, and cool rainy weather will slow the growth and total production. A few warm days will be your clue to look for larger quantities of asparagus for canning or freezing.

For free copies of bulletins with the latest instructions for canning or freezing, contact the Marketing Information Agent, 1260 West Boulevard, Pontiac.

The answer is something good cooks can profit by. Nature does a good job of sealing the flavor into spices. Whole pepper, for example, has been stored successfully for periods up to 100 years. When we grind spices we are simply starting to release the flavor. For any normal amount of cooking this works fine because the flavor of the ground spices gets into the food quickly.

However, for lengthy cooking and steeping (marinating), it is better to let the heat and time do the extracting of the flavor. Instead of grinding, the heat and time do the extracting of the flavor. Instead of grinding, the heat and time do the extracting of the flavor. Instead of grinding, the heat and time do the extracting of the flavor.

This special value of whole spices was the reason for development of the blend we call mixed pickling spice. As the name implies, this blend of as many as 16 whole spices, was designed for pickling. But, when the proper use of the whole spices is understood, mixed pickling spice becomes a mixture with many possibilities.

Marinated Veal Roast
1½ ounce can beef bouillon
1½ tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon whole mixed pickling spice
1½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon crumbled whole sage leaves
1½ teaspoon crumbled whole marjoram leaves
1½ teaspoon crumbled whole thyme leaves
3-pound boneless veal roast, rolled
2½ tablespoons shortening
2 medium carrots, peeled and sliced
1 medium onion, peeled and sliced

Combine first 8 ingredients. Heat but do not boil. Place veal in a close-fitting dish. Pour in marinade. Cool. Cover dish and place in refrigerator to marinate a full 24 hours, turning several times.

Remove meat from marinade. Heat shortening in a heavy skillet or Dutch oven. Wipe excess marinade from veal and brown well on all sides.

Remove from heat. Add marinade and vegetables. Cover and bake until tender in a preheated slow oven (325 degrees), 1½ to 2 hours, basting several times.

Remove meat to a platter to keep warm. Strain gravy and thicken, using 1½ tablespoons flour to each cup of strained gravy. Heat to boiling point, stirring constantly. Serve over sliced veal. Yield: 6 servings.

MARINATED VEAL ROAST — Tempt the family's appetite with veal roast. Marinate it in a bouillon-lemon juice mixture to which mixed pickling spice has been added. Then roast slowly.

DANDEE BAKERS

Sour Cream Aids Bean Salad

A combination of zesty flavors in a pretty salad bowl makes the perfect luncheon dish or late snack. When a special color touch is added, there's nothing more appetizing. Keep it simple, like this canned green bean salad bowl. It is quickly prepared, yet contains ten different good tastes—even if you count the tangy sauce! Crunchy bread sticks give the solid, substantial note. Here's how the salad is done:

Blue Lake Green Bean Bowl
1 No. 303 can Blue Lake green beans, drained

1 two-ounce can anchovy fillets, drained
4 sliced hard cooked eggs
2 quarts washed greens for salad
1 tablespoon minced onion
1/2 cup minced celery
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon capers
Set aside some of the beans, anchovies and eggs for garnish.
In salad bowl combine greens, onions, celery, pepper, rest of beans, anchovies and eggs. Arrange bundles of beans, slices of egg and anchovies on top. Combine sour cream, sugar and capers. Spoon over salad. Toss and serve. Makes 4 servings.

Cut Broiling Steak Thick

Experienced outdoor cooks say if you're planning to broil steak over charcoal, it's wise to have it cut at least an inch thick; cut the fat around the outside to prevent curling.

Scallop Spuds on Stove Top

Here's a delicious version of scalloped potatoes that fits in nicely with the quick and easy methods that are emphasized so much today. It's called pan-scalloped potatoes and is prepared right on top of the range in a fry pan.
The pared cubed potatoes are cooked gently in melted butter for a short time. Then evaporated milk, boiling water and seasonings are added and everything is simmered for about twenty minutes so that the potatoes are tender and the sauce is thickened.
With the butter and evaporated milk you can imagine what a nice rich sauce this is and, of course, it's wonderfully smooth. When the potatoes are ready to serve, a sprinkling of finely chopped parsley or chives, grated cheese or paprika makes a pretty garnish.

Pan-Scalloped Potatoes

3 cups cubed raw potatoes
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup evaporated milk
1 cup boiling water
1/2 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
Finely chopped parsley, chives or grated cheese for garnish, if desired.
Pare potatoes and cut in about 3/4-inch cubes. Melt butter in a 10-inch fry pan. Add potatoes. Cook and stir over low heat 3 to 4 minutes, until most of butter is absorbed. Add boiling water to evaporated milk, then pour over potatoes.
Cook over low heat until potatoes are tender, about 20 to 25 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add seasonings. Sprinkle with parsley, chives or grated cheese, if desired. Makes four servings.

Save This Suggestion for an Emergency

Hamburgers in a flavorful tomato gravy surrounded by mashed potatoes—sound like a lot of work? It's actually a "quick-and-easy" with the aid of canned hamburgers in gravy and canned tomatoes. Remove the hamburgers from their gravy and set aside.
Combine drained tomatoes with the gravy, and season with salt, pepper, a teaspoon of poultry seasoning and a bit of garlic powder. Simmer until thickened; then add hamburgers and simmer a little longer until they are heated through. Serve on a platter surrounded with hot mashed potatoes.

Add Meat Balls to Green Salad

In this unusual main dish salad cheese crackers flavor the meat balls, and the marinade-dressing adds the zip of the barbecue. Add a cup of your favorite cream soup with cheese crackers to "go with," and there's a fine one-act performance.

BARBECUE CHEF'S SALAD

Barbecue Dressing
1/2 cup salad oil
1/4 cup cider vinegar
1/4 cup catsup
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon chili powder
Dash pepper
Combine all ingredients in a jar; shake well to blend. Store in refrigerator overnight; then remove garlic. Makes 1 1/2 cups dressing.

jar; shake well to blend. Store in refrigerator overnight; then remove garlic. Makes 1 1/2 cups dressing.

Meat Balls

1 lb. ground chuck
12 cheese crackers, finely rolled (about 1/2 cup crumbs)
1 small onion, chopped
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Combine all ingredients; mix well. Form into 18 balls; saute in fat until browned (about 10 minutes). Cool.
To make salad, marinate meat balls in Barbecue Dressing for several hours, turning once or twice. Just before serving drain dressing into a sauce boat, top assorted salad greens with marinated meat balls, deviled eggs and tomato wedges. Pass the dressing and lots of cheese crackers for a satisfying main course. Serves 6.

Peanut Butter and Dried Fruit Blend

If you'd like to try a new way of getting your share of our bounty of peanut butter, one of these days make a Peanut Butter Roll. Wonderful with ice cream alongside.
Mix one-fourth cup of peanut butter with one-third cup of dried fruits, such as raisins, apricots and dates. Form into a roll about one inch in diameter. Coat the roll with confectioners sugar, wrap in wax paper and put in the refrigerator to chill. To serve, slice off a modest portion, and place a scoop of ice cream on the side.
Americans will eat about 650 million gallons of ice cream this year, Department of Agriculture predicts.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

Will Benson is the son of the late Joe Benson. He has been the Box P ranch in the Eastern Valley in frontier Colorado ever since Joe and Sarah Pardee took him in, a homeless, hungry kid, seven years back. Will, having the deepest affection for the Pardees, was distressed by the bitterness between Joe and his wife Sarah, who has lived in a wheel chair since an accident.

One morning Will rode with Joe Pardee and Gene Dillingham, another of Joe's cowboys, to meet Al Beam, who had challenged Pardee's domination of Eastern Valley. When Joe Pardee, who was the loser in the duel, Dillingham killed Beam in a rage of grief. Dying of his wounds, Joe told Benson: "Take care of Kathy Morgan, referring to a young woman who had attracted Joe's interest."

Sarah taking charge of the ranch, Benson as a farmhand, this made him an enemy for Gene Dillingham, who expected to get the job. Going further, Sarah, who was the winner of the Box P, to make him eligible to be a member and assert authority in the Eastern Valley Cattle-men's association. Joe Pardee had been its president. The new president, Al Beam, was not the fighter for the ranchers' right that Joe was. Will wants to maintain Joe Pardee's iron-fisted policy of keeping the valley free of violence. To protect Kathy, he has to fight. When two newcomers, John Mathers and Al Romig, come to Benson's home, he is told that the valley, her new ranch partner's hostility to them, Sarah, Will's own anger is greater when later he learns from Kathy Morgan that Mathers and Romig are preparing to bring a colony of fifty families to live in the valley, added by Merle Turner, an Eastern Valley man. Turner is a crony of Dillingham's and an enemy of everyone else in the valley. Will goes to Mathers to warn him to give up his colonization scheme. Mathers, defiant, promises to return with his colonists in the spring. Will lays his plans: he induces Coley Alton to tip the head of the valley.

Chapter 12

The Day before Christmas Sarah sent Curly King and me into the Cedar Hills to find a tree. We were glad to be in the saddle on this fine day. The sunlight was very sharp on the thin covering of snow and there was no wind to speak of. Although the air was chilly, it was not disagreeable so. We climbed steadily, holding to the ridges as much as possible, the snow gradually deepening.

Near noon we found a cedar we couldn't pass up, a good two feet taller than I was, and as perfectly shaped as it was possible for a tree to be. We dismounted and I cut it down, then we stood staring into the valley, the Box P buildings toy-sized, the houses of Carlton barely visible to us. I'd never been here before without being pressed for time. Now we just stood and looked.

Suddenly I was angry, thinking here was the valley, stretched out before use — our valley, our home — and again I told myself I would not give it up. Then I couldn't stand it any longer. I said, "Let's ride," and wheeled toward my horse and mounted. I rode down the slope, carrying the tree in front of me, and it took a moment for Curly to catch up.

He asked curiously, "What hit you?"

"Just got to thinking," I said, "about what will happen next spring."

He nodded. "It'll be something, all right."

We put the tree up in a corner of the front room that afternoon. Sarah, sitting in her wheel chair, looked at it for a long time and then turned her radiant face to me.

"It's wonderful Will," she said. "It's the most wonderful tree I ever saw."

After supper Gene Dillingham left the house, and a few minutes later I heard him ride away. He had been doing so every other night for several weeks. I hadn't asked where he went, and he didn't say anything about it, but that was fine with me.

We decorated the tree that night with strings of popcorn and paper chains that Sarah had made. She had cut out a big star and painted it red, and I tied it to the very top of the tree.

We sat down and admired our work for a while. After a time Dogbone and Curly went to the bunkhouse. I would have gone too, if Sarah hadn't said, "Will, please stay."

So I stayed and smoked, sitting on the couch. When I glanced at Sarah, I saw that her gaze was on me, and that the smile had gone from her lips.

"Will," she said, "this is the time of year when good friends are cherished above everything else. If you have only a few, each means more than when you have hundreds. I can't tell you how grateful I am to know I can leave everything to you, and not worry."

It was a moment before I could speak. "Sarah, you know . . ."

She motioned for me to be silent. "I've got to talk, Will, and this is a good time. I've had this on my mind ever since Joe died, but I've been afraid to say it because of the way you felt about him." She hesitated, then asked, "I can say it, can't I?"

I was afraid to hear what she had to say, but I didn't have the heart to say No. I said, "Sure, go ahead," and rolled a cigaret.

"I was in love with Joe and I think he loved me when we were married," she said. "Maybe I imagined it when I married him, because it's natural for a woman to want love. Whether I didn't really understand him or whether he changed is something I'm not sure about. Well, you know how terrible for me to say I was glad he was killed." She swallowed. "I was, Will, I was."

I glanced at her and looked away. She hurried on. "You never questioned Joe or what he did because you admired him, but he had one quality that made me hate him. He had to control everything. Maybe that was what made him use his gun as often as he did and made him run everything in the valley. I think he actually enjoyed having people afraid of him. Finally I got so I couldn't stand up against him. I simply surrendered and did what he asked. That's why I'm crippled. He made me ride Prince."

I stared at her, remembering that Joe had sold Prince to Alec Dodson not long after Sarah's accident, but I had never connected the two events before.

Prince was a black gelding that had been a bad actor from the day Joe broke him, and only a vicious man would have made a woman get him.

"He knew I was afraid of Prince," she said, "and it seemed to make him ashamed that I'd be afraid of anything. One morning after you and Gene had left, he told me to put on my riding skirt. I thought we were going for a ride, but instead he brought Prince to the front of the house. When I came out, he told me to get on. I refused, and he cursed me and said he'd tie me into the saddle if I didn't try."

She was staring at me now, her eyes begging me to believe.

"He was a coward, Will. You won't believe that, but it's true. When I came to, he said if I told anybody what had happened he'd say I was a liar. I was supposed to say my mare stumbled and fell with me. I did what he said. At the time I didn't know how badly I was hurt. I was afraid of him, too."

She wiped her face with a handkerchief as she slumped against the pillow at the back of her chair. She said: "I had to tell you because it has a lot to do with the way I feel about the valley. When Joe was alive people were afraid of him. I've watched him bully people into agreeing with him. I've been in meetings when people voted his way because they didn't dare vote any other way."

I knew that was true, but I had never held it against Joe. I only half listened to Sarah as she went on. "Somehow I've got to make up for what Joe did. I've been a prisoner here a long time, and it will be a long time before I can change the feeling that Joe gave other people about me and the ranch. We won't fight anybody — not to keep them out of the valley, anyhow." She gripped the arms of her chair and leaned forward. "Will, I'm going to walk again. You'll see."

I got up and looked down at her. "Sarah, I'll do anything I can for you except one thing. I won't give up the Box P. Telling me about Joe didn't change that."

I walked to the front door, and just as I reached it she said, "Will, I looked back, and she said softly, 'Merry Christmas, Will.'"

I said, "Merry Christmas," and left the house.

After I was in bed, I thought about what Sarah had said. As I thought, I began to wonder. Though I had never known Sarah to lie to me, I found it hard to believe Joe Pardee did what Sarah had said.

I was still awake when Dillingham came in. He stopped beside my bunk and look down at me. Suddenly my skin was prickly. I didn't have my gun with me, but I promised myself that if I lived through this night I'd never go to bed without it.

ST. LOUIS — The nation's industries have practically eliminated wet-paint warnings by use of infrared heating for surface finishing treatment. In South Africa Speakeasies Illicit Legal Sales Boom

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—A speakeasy is a "shebeen" in South Africa and a "pineapple" is a drink, not something explosive you toss at a rival bootlegger.

But the shebeen is pretty much the same institution which flourished during prohibition in the United States. It has raised the same problems throughout South Africa, where, with a few exceptions, it is a criminal offense for a nonwhite to possess liquor.

Around-the-clock business in illegal liquor selling exists in side streets.

In some cases, Africans, Indians and persons of mixed blood are granted permits, renewable annually, which allow them to purchase a bottle of spirits and six bottles of wine or beer a month. But the vast majority of the 12 million nonwhites resort to illegal bars for their hard liquor.

Shebeens range from lean-tos behind houses to living rooms of three-roomed apartments. Here anything from imported scotch to murky local brews with a knock-out punch is available at twice the normal prices.

The traffic has fallen mainly into the hands of women known as shebeen queens.

The most primitive shebeens are those run by settlement housewives who stockpile their daily ration of four gallons of "Kaffir beer," a mild government brew, to sell during weekends.

Many operators fortify their kaffir beer with almost anything from yeast to methylated spirits, and sell it under such names as pineapple.

Said to be sweet to the taste, pineapple has been known to lay a customer flat on his back after the first drink.

The rules of the house are simple: No drunkenness on the premises and drink fast to make room for the next man. Spirits are always drunk neat, be it brandy, gin or whisky. Beer is used mainly as a chaser.

Fixed prices in shebeens range from 70 cents for a quart of beer to $1.40, for a nip of harder spirits.

Family Starts Vacation

AUCKLAND, New Zealand—The Begbie family, of Auckland, New Zealand, are having an unusual vacation this year. Tired of long tours with car and trailer, they have set off on a six weeks walk with two baby buggies.

In addition to sleeping bags and clothing, the "prams" carry a portable phonograph and records, a piano accordion and sheet music, six books (including Pickwick Papers) and a tent. There are four Begbies—mother and three children, aged 9, 11 and 15—who will "wander as we fancy," says Bruce 11: "It's beauty fun."

Truckers Invent Sign Language

Develop Unique Method for Communicating on Open Road

DENVER (INS)—Truck drivers, perhaps the world's safest highwaymen, have developed a language all their own for signaling on the open road.

SIGNAL WITH FINGERS

A "V" signal with the fingers tells an approaching truck a patrolman is ahead. Among some wildcat operators, Sands reports the "V" sign is used to signal when weighing scales are open. Thus, an overweight truck knows whether it is safe to proceed past the state weigh-in checkpoints.

A single flick of the lights between trucks means, "Hello, I'm all right and everything is clear behind me." Two flicks of the lights indicates "caution, take it easy." Three flicks is a danger signal, warning the oncoming trucker to be ready to stop at any time.

Sands warns, however, that in some parts of the country, such as the Pacific Northwest, one flick may indicate caution while two flicks is the "allright" signal.

Junior Editors QUIZ ON SPICE

DRYING CLOVES IN A SPICE GARDEN IN CEYLON

QUESTION: Why did people first use spices?

ANSWER: Long ago, when there was no refrigeration, spices were valued highly because they disguised the flavor of poor food.

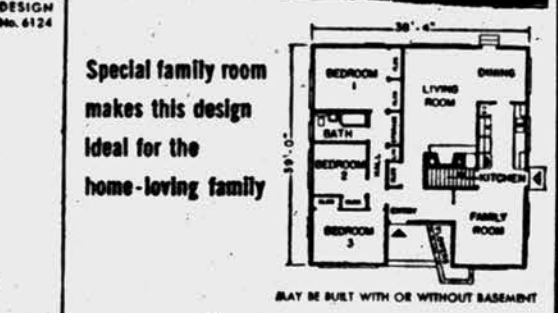

Spices were so important in those days that governments rose or fell and even went to war over the spice trade.

Most spices come from warm lands like East India. The search for a quick sea route to the "Spice Islands" led to the discovery of the New World. Men risked their lives and fortunes to bring back cinnamon, cloves and other spices then worth their weight in gold. There was a death penalty in Ceylon for stealing a stick of cinnamon.

Spices still add zest and flavor to various dishes. They are used also in medicine, perfume, candy, scented soaps and incense.

FOR YOU TO DO: Make a spice collection of your own, with mother's help, and learn how each spice tastes. You can keep them in little cardboard boxes.

Medical Society to Quiz 51,000

State Health Poll Due

Mail questionnaires and personal interviews will leave no stone unturned when the Michigan State Medical Society begins its forthcoming public opinion survey.

More than 51,000 Michigan people will be given a chance to tell what medical services they wish included in pre-payment medical-surgical plans and health insurance policies.

The disclosure was made today by Dr. D. Bruce Wiley, of Utica, chairman of the Michigan State Medical Society's Survey Committee, sponsor of the statewide opinion poll.

"In addition to mail questionnaires, a more detailed survey will be conducted by personal interview," Dr. Wiley said. "The decision to use two survey methods was based upon the recommendation of Prof. David Luck, survey specialist at Michigan State University, who has been retained as consultant by MSMS."

The personal interview survey will be conducted by Richard Oudersluys, President of Market-Opinion Research Co., of Detroit. Trained interviewers will record the views of families representing all segments of the state's population.

"Fifty-one thousand people will provide a mountain of information," Dr. Wiley continued, "but Dr. Luck feels, and we agree, that it is necessary to obtain the opinions of as large a segment of the public as possible in order to assure validity of results."

"Expense will be considerable, too, but doctors recognize the obvious fact that they and the public are partners in any plan or system of medical service. Consequently, they believe the public should be consulted as to its desires on service coverage."

Survey results will be presented to the MSMS House of Delegates in September and released to the public at the time of their review.

Bond Won't Up Rate of Taxes, Says Official

ROCHESTER — Superintendent of Schools Donald C. Baldwin emphasized this week that the $875,000 bond issue to be voted upon next Monday will not increase the tax rate for debt retirement.

The debt to be created by the new bond issue will extend the length of the debt period. However, the increased valuations, which will continue to take place, will enable the total debt to be paid off at a lower annual cost to the individual taxpayer.

Monday's election also will determine which two of three candidates; Mary Ann Beatty, Wilma Chapman and Wallace R. Hodges, incumbent, will be elected to the Board of Education for three-year terms.

Polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. Only property owners may vote on the tax question.

JOANN TRUMBLE

Joann Marie Trumble will exchange nuptial vows with Kip Warren Serota on June 15 in St. Philip Episcopal Church, Rochester. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon C. Trumble of Rochester and he is the son of Mrs. Michael A. Gentile, also of Rochester, and Robert Serota of Bloomfield Hills. She is a senior at Western Michigan University and a member of Sigma Kappa. He attended Olivet College and is a junior in the Architectural School of the University of Michigan.

66th Alumni Banquet Slated at Ortonville

ORTONVILLE — Brandon Township Schools will hold the 66th Alumni Banquet in Brandon auditorium at 6:30 p. m. Saturday. Three hundred persons are expected to attend.

Carl Wilkinson of Kalamazoo, former school superintendent here, will be guest speaker. Dinner will be served by members of the OES No. 286.

NEW HUDSON — The Maccabees of New Hudson will celebrate the 65th anniversary of their organization Friday, with a party at their hall here. Members and friends have been invited to attend.

Governor Names CD Day

Group Will Demonstrate

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — At the request of Gov. Williams and the Michigan Office of Civil Defense, July 7, has been designated as Civil Defense Day in West Bloomfield Township.

The township has been asked to repeat the outstanding demonstration which they gave in January of this year at the West Bloomfield High School and which attracted so much attention throughout the Civil Defense organization.

At this time they will be hosts to Gov. Williams and some 400 members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, who will be part of the 3,000 expected to attend the 1937 National Board Meeting to be held at the Statler Hotel July 6 - 10.

These 400 women will act as evacuees from Detroit after a mock air raid alert has been given in their meeting room. When the alert signal sounds, the women will be removed from the hotel to busses and evacuated under police escort to West Bloomfield Township.

111 Donate Blood for Rochester Bank

ROCHESTER — Mrs. Russell W. Nowels, Chairman of the Red Cross Blood Bank for the Rochester area, announced that 85 pints of blood were accepted from 111 citizens who gave life-saving blood Tuesday. Thirty-four of these donors were crediting their blood to the Detroit Branch and Machine Company Blood Bank.

For Summertime Party Dresses
Paris Likes Straight-Cut Neckline

By NORA W. MARTIN

PARIS (INS) — Paris fashion designers say a party dress should be as stimulating and as French as champagne.

They claim it's a woman's downright duty to look feminine, glamorous and luxurious at parties—and the Parisian formula for looking this way is easy:

"A party dress should have a feminine neckline, a glamorous skirt style and a flattering shade."

The neckline is the first point to watch. The most stylish décolletage this season is a straight cut strapless-neckline. The 1937 hallmark of this new strapless top is its absolute straightness.

Some strapped necklines appear on Parisian summer party dresses. But the straps are short and wide and the straight cut décolletage between them covers more than it reveals.

Skirts of the new summery party dresses are also stylishly important. Parisiennes still like full skirts for cocktails and dancing. But top designers prefer bell-shaped skirts to the fully flaring styles.

Slim skirt lines are favorites with fashionable socialites, models and film actresses who want to show off their figures.

The very last fashion craze in Parisian skirt styles is a combination of a slim and full skirt, both of the same material. This new style consists of a slim skirt combined with the dress top and covered by a front of side-slit big overskirt.

The overskirt can be ruffled at the waist, pleated or draped to a buoyant "bubble" with a cutout front wedge to show the narrow, matching skirt underneath. Paton, Balmain and Heim show such "bubble" skirts on party dresses. Dior prefers the overskirt slit at the sides in the Chinese fashion.

CHANGES THE LOOK

The new straight strapless neckline is practical because you can drape a stole of fichu over the shoulders to change the look and cover up.

Dior, Balenciaga, Maggy Rouff, Givenchy and Patou show summer party dresses with tops cut straight across from one armpit to the other. Strapless tops that dip in a V are "out of line!"

Pupils Show Teamwork at Festival

Over 3,000 Grade Schoolers Present Annual Program

By JEAN MARIE ELKINS

Put over 3,000 children together and you can be pretty sure that you'll have a small riot on your hands. Such was not the case at the All-City Elementary School Festival at Wisner Stadium last night.

All four acts of the festival, "What's Happening in Children's America," were enacted with the precision of an Army drill team.

When not on the field, most of the children were in the stands singing in the chorus. As if each was given a signal, the children would leave the stands when time for their number drew near.

This was not accomplished by many practice sessions as many more professional groups would have required but with only one rehearsal of only the chorus. The children took it from there themselves.

Each school made its own props and costumes, which were some of the most elaborate ever presented by elementary school students.

Shortly before the halfway mark in the program rain halted the festival for a few minutes. During this time it was amazing to watch how well the children acted during this unexpected emergency, filing out of the stands and into the school.

As soon as the rain let up it was decided by the spectators and students themselves to continue the show.

Proud parents and friends of the children began causing a traffic jam around the stadium as early as 6:30, because everyone was anxious to get a good seat for the festivities.

These parents and friends had good reason to be proud. The cast, chorus, music, narration and scenery all combined to make the festival one of the most successful events ever put on by the elementary schools.

Summer Concerts Under Direction of F. Di Blasi

Francesco Di Blasi, conductor of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, will conduct a series of summer symphony concerts this year. The concerts will be performed by the Detroit Little Symphony at Metropolitan Beach on Lake St. Clair.

Stanley Lock, pianist, who appeared with the Pontiac Symphony last season, will be soloist July 7; Marie Roumell, soprano, on Aug. 4; and Gordon Staples, violinist, on Aug. 18.

The concerts are co-sponsored by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, and the Recording and Transcription Fund of the American Federation of Musicians.

Mrs. Lloyd Thornton will represent the club at the National Plumbers Convention in Dallas next week.

Right to Retain Husband's Name

A woman whose husband dies does not automatically resume her first name—such as "Mrs. Sarah Brown." She continues to be Mrs. John Brown so long as she remains a widow.

And she may retain having others address letters to her, "Mrs. Sarah Brown."

Though she has lost her husband she has not lost her right to use his name.

Woman With Big Family Tackles Most Club Work

By JOAN HANAUER

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (INS) — The more family a woman has the more interested in outside affairs she becomes—and the more time she has to spend on them.

That's the opinion of Mrs. Dexter O. Arnold, recording secretary of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Arnold took time out from the federation's 66th annual convention to explain to International News Service her views on clubwomen.

"I'm certain," she said, "that it's the woman who has the greatest number of children who has the greatest concern for the future of her children."

"So she organizes herself—with the help of modern gadgets—to leave time for self-improvement so she can fully accept the responsibility of a mother with children. That means going out of the home and facing world problems so important today."

Tackling this problem of organization is easier said than done, the Concord, N.H., clubwoman admitted. She has just returned from a tour of Western states and has toured well over the nation for the GFWC. Watching some of these amazing clubwomen work has given her some idea how it's done.

SHARING OF DUTIES

"It's a question of giving out and sharing responsibilities inside the family," she said, "and of enjoying responsibilities."

In many families each child is primarily responsible for the care of his own room. This teaches responsibility, neatness and gives him a feeling of importance—as well as giving his mother more free time.

"Mothers assign jobs like foremen in factories or business managers in offices. Today women really are business managers

At Baldwin PTA Reception 4 Teachers to Be Feted

A reception is planned by Baldwin PTA to honor Baldwin's four retiring teachers. Helen Barnett, Helen Griggs, Lila Redmond and Mrs. Hazel Hire will be the honorees at the Friday affair being held at the school from 7 to 9 p.m.

The four teachers have a total of 140 years with the Pontiac school system and in some instances have taught three generations of youngsters. Former students, friends and fellow teachers are invited to the reception.

PTA members working on the committee include Mrs. Donald Williams and Mrs. Fred Larson, decorations; Mrs. Roscoe Newman, invitations; and Mrs. Herbert Slaght and Mrs. George Gaches, refreshments.

Mrs. William Travis has arranged for music and Mrs. Conrad Burlison will preside at the guest book.

Everything is in readiness for the Friday dance planned by the Oakland County Citizens' Committee for Pontiac State Hospital. Proceeds will be used for needs of patients at the hospital. Mrs. Donald Harrower (left) of Holly is dance chairman and Margaret Roehm of Poplar street is on the committee. Elks Temple will be the scene of the affair, with dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Summer smartness begins with crisp fresh looking clothes and this white blouse 'fills the bill.' Practical and pretty, it is easy to care for in no-iron dacron and cotton blend trimmed with rows of no-iron French imported lace.

Parents' Visiting Routine Irks Younger Generation

They Drop In Three Times Weekly to 'Enjoy Their Grandchild'

By RUTH VILLET

Older people usually like routine. Young people seldom do. And that can cause tension between the two generations.

A young wife writes: "I don't have an in-law problem. I have a parent problem."

"Since our first child was born a year ago, my parents have made it a habit to drop in two evenings a week to 'enjoy their grandchild' for several hours. And every single Sunday they come for a long visit."

"That doesn't sound like much, I know, but when it is a never-fail routine, it becomes a chore to us instead of a pleasure."

"I love my parents dearly and I wouldn't hurt them for the world, but I wish there were some way I could make them realize—with-out telling them—that their visits have become too routine to be easy and comfortable."

BREAK ROUTINE

You can't tell them, of course. But, perhaps, you can break up the routine with a little planning.

Why not call your mother on the morning of a night when you expect them to visit you and ask if they are planning to come over?

Then say, "Would you mind if we went out for a few hours while you are here to keep an eye on Junior? We don't get a chance to get out much, and the routine of staying home night after night is getting us down."

Another time, ask if you can leave Junior at your parents' home so that you can have friends in. Don't try to change the whole pattern. Just loosen it up enough so that you and your husband won't feel you are being fenced in.

SPECIAL LOVE

Grandparents have a right to enjoy their grandchildren, and grandchildren have a right to the special kind of love that grandparents have to offer.

Don't forget that when you change your setup, if you'll remember it, you can work out a relationship that will be as enjoyable to you and your husband and child as to your parents.

Enthusiasm Outweighs Big Talent

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Sometimes I think that desire, enthusiasm, interest, or whatever you choose to call it, is far more important to success than talent.

Given a huge talent and no motivation, you get failure. Given a small talent and strong motivation, you get success every time. Elena is an example, if ever there was one.

Elena is a mother of four children, all but one of preschool age. That is a handful of children, as anyone who has handled them knows.

Elena was a commercial artist before her marriage.

"Not really a terribly good one," she told me, "but certainly a hard-working one!"

She married, had her family and then was faced with a big problem.

NEEDED HOUSE

"We badly needed a house of our own," she wrote, "but there wasn't any money at all. So Bill and I decided to see if there was any way I could make some."

"Even if we saved for 5 or 10 years, the mere knowledge that we were getting nearer to a home of our own would be wonderful."

"At first, I went through all the wrong moves. Finally I decided to try my hand at doing some free lance art work here at home, where I could save paying a babysitter. I registered at some agencies, but nothing came of it."

"I might easily have given up," she continued, "because as I say, I'm not the greatest artist in the world. It looked so hard to get the kind of work I wanted to do, but I was bound and determined to get it."

"I dreamed up a little card. Since lettering is my specialty, I lettered them myself."

LETTERING SHOP

"They announced the opening of my free-lance lettering shop, and they were illustrated with a cute drawing of me sitting at a drawing board with children and babies yanking at me. The caption read: 'Help, help! I have to work at home.'"

"Then I listed my rates."

"Well," she concluded, "I got so much business—it's just wonderful. People were amused by the cards. And when they found my rates a little cheaper than others, they figured it was worth the trouble. Someday soon we will have that house of our own!"

Pesky Cold Calls for Grooming

Being a beauty when you have a pesky summer cold isn't easy. But it helps your morale (and other people's) if you don't give in to it to the extent of letting your skin rough and your appearance generally dowdy.

No one feels up to par with a cold, even the kind of cold that lets you walk around home or the office. But it helps a little if you take extra care with your looks during this time.

A bit of lanolin rich cream is fine for that area around the nose that always seems to turn red and rough.

If you can't shampoo your hair, you can force strips of gauze down on your hairbrush and give your hair a good brushing.

Take care to check on stocking seams, heel lifts, hemlines and everything else that might produce a sloppy appearance. And — most important — get lots of rest until the cold disappears.

Sausage-Tight Bathing Suit Won't Hide Roll

There's still time to get into shape for a good appearance on the beach this summer.

But if all your resolutions fail, there are still ways to prevent yourself from drawing giggles in place of compliments.

If you have a figure problem, don't squeeze yourself into a swimsuit that's too small on the theory that it will trim you down. It won't. It will only make you look like a sausage.

If you've a thigh problem, pick a suit with a brief skirt. If your problem is a heavy bosom, stay away from ruffled tops or other designs intended to make the 32A girl look curvy.

When you try on a swimsuit, take a good look at yourself from all angles. Other people will when they see you on the beach.

Tips on Treating Glamor Cottons

EAST LANSING — What's happened to our old standby, cotton? It has taken on different textures, weaves and finishes. It has been glazed, polished and embossed. All of these changes have done much to add to the beauty and versatility of cotton, but also have made it impossible to treat cotton in the "manner to which we're accustomed."

Glazed chintz, polished and embossed cottons must be washed gently by hand or machine, tells Lola Belle Green, extension clothing specialist at Michigan State University.

When you wash these cottons by hand, they should not be soaked. Rinsing should be done quickly in lukewarm water. DO not wring, twist or rub. Allow them to drip nearly dry and iron while slightly damp.

Automatic washers now have temperature controls and 2-speed cycles. This means that you can use a slower speed and shorter wash cycle at a lower temperature to prevent excessive wrinkling.

If you dry glazed cottons in an automatic dryer, use one half the normal load at a low temperature. Avoid overdrying because it tends to put wrinkles into the material which are hard to remove.

A certain amount of moisture is natural to each fabric and like the moisture in your skin, must be retained to keep it looking its best. Glazed cottons should be ironed on the "glazed" side with a warm iron. Embossed cottons need to be ironed on the wrong side over a turkish towel so the raised surface is natural to the fabric.

A California State Department of Public Health handbook points out that "hand-washing, hand-washing, hand-washing — is the most important single thing you can do to protect food when you are preparing or serving it."

Large brimmed straw should swing up off the neck on short figures and down for the tall, long necked girl.

Fashion Hint

When you buy a chiffon blouse this spring, look for one that's lined in silk. It will save you worry about your slip showing through.

We must be a lot more careful in choosing our hats than we were when we pinned a flower or ribbon in the hair. The short figure needs a "lift" if she wears a picture hat. The too tall figure wants descending lines in her brim.

Think Higher Education Will Help Them Get Husbands

Girls See College as Good Hunting Ground

By EUGENE GILBERT
President, Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Sweet high school girl graduates and their younger classmates are more college minded now than ever.

Why? They think higher education will help them get husbands and rear families.

Of those we talked with recently across the country nearly 80 per cent feel that a college girl is at least as likely to get married as one who does not continue her studies.

And even more insist that a college education will help her bring up her children.

It probably isn't coincidence that about the same number—80 per cent—tell us they plan to go to college.

Perhaps because it isn't such an immediate prospect, girls under 16 aren't as enthusiastic about college as their older sisters.

MARRIAGE IN MIND

Their comments on college indicate most girls have marriage very much in mind.

"In college," says a Minnesota miss, "a girl gets to meet more boys her type and more that are going to advance further in the future."

"A college girl is assured of many more contacts with the opposite sex," an 18-year-old New Yorker says.

"I'd like to see a guy," an Alabama girl adds, "who doesn't prefer a girl with some education."

Many of the comments show the girls are thinking beyond the problem of getting a husband to concern for their future family.

TRAINED TO WORK

"In case something happens to your husband some day," a Detroit girl explains, "you are better able to support your family."

"Girls need education because they will be the mothers of the future generation," a 15-year-old in Brooklyn says.

A 19-year-old thinks: "It would help you to a better understanding of parent-child relationships."

But the opposition to college is emphatic:

"I don't think a girl should go to college unless she is planning a career because she would be depriving some of the chance who could use it to better advantage," says a 15-year-old.

Another says, "I don't see how it could help bring up a family."

COULDN'T STAND IT

"Any girl can get married if she wants to," asserts a third.

And a 17-year-old girl from Minnesota settles the matter, for herself at least, by stating, "I couldn't stand school for another four years. I don't like it that much."

Seventy-three per cent agree on the general proposition that girls should go to college, career minded or not. Girls under 16 are less sure, 29 per cent voting no.

Only 16 per cent of the older girls take a dim view of careerless college. One of these is a Staten Island, N. Y., girl. She says:

"If she doesn't plan a career, it is a waste of money."

A 14-year-old Gainesville, Fla., lass agrees:

"Just to go to college with no other purpose isn't enough reason."

Counters a Massachusetts 16-year-old: "I think a girl should attend college because it makes her flexible and a more complete person."

A 16-year-old from Little Rock, Ark., contributes:

"I think she should go because even if she gets married she will want an equal education with her husband."

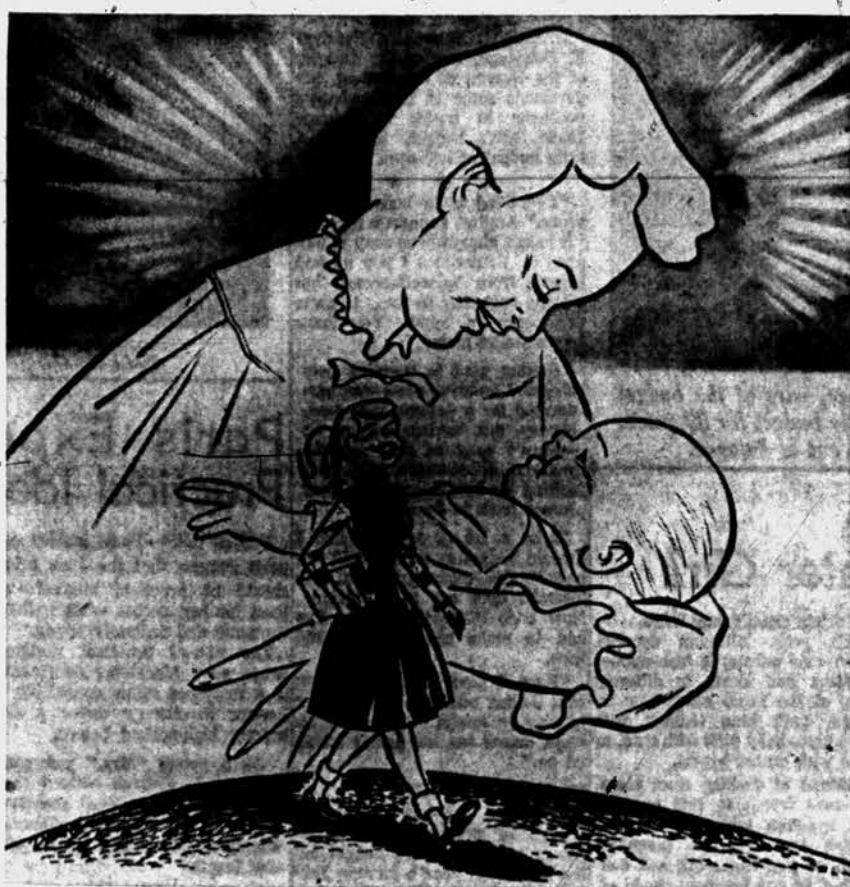

"You can help your children with schoolwork," a Brooklyn, N. Y., girl, 15, suggests practically, "and will be able to answer some of their many questions." Everyone should be educated."

In spite of the large vote in favor of college, more than half of the girls interviewed think they don't need as much education as boys.

The 17-plus bracket voted 63 to 35—with 2 per cent abstaining—that boys should have more schooling.

The 16s and under were less convinced, only 54 per cent to 43—3 not voting—sure that men should have more.

Most of their reasons boil down to the fact that the man is still

Some girls go to college to catch husbands and train for motherhood.

Garment Bags Are Divided

Wonderfully convenient are new washable vinyl garment bags divided so that the top half can be used for blouses and the bottom half for skirts.

The clear plastic front is banded with quilted vinyl in decorator colors. The entire bag can be wiped inside and out with a sudsy cloth to retain visibility and to maintain cleanliness.

Of similar construction are other divided bags with top shelves for sweaters or linens and with hanging space below.

Those conservative about make-up still may enhance their eyes.

Instead of eyeshadow, try vaseline or eye cream on the eyelids for a little highlight.

Give Hands Glamor

A foundation cream that matches the skin tone may be used on hands that are red, dark or freckled. Smooth only a small amount on and blend well into wrists and up onto forearms. A stop mark will spoil the effect.

Some Tips on Art of Leg-Shaving

There's more to shaving than merely putting a sharp blade in the razor, but too many women approach leg-shaving with an attitude of ignorance.

Since hair can soak up one third of its own weight in water, making the hair softer, more pliable and 75 per cent easier to cut, shave your legs while they are still wet from a warm bath.

Many women use soap on their legs before putting the safety razor to work, but why not copy men and use real shaving cream? The new, foamy-type cream in cans is convenient and easy to apply and shaving cream not only lubricates the skin but also holds in essential moisture.

Sharp blades are a must, and you can tell it's time to change blades when the blade "pulls" or misses hairs.

In the actual shaving process, don't use choppy strokes. Where possible use long, even strokes, upward or downward depending on which feels most comfortable.

Rinse razor frequently so it doesn't get clogged.

When you've finished, loosen your razor and give it a final rinsing under hot water. Shake out the excess moisture and, leaving it loosened, let it drain dry.

Don't put a towel or tissue to the razor or blade. Even blotting will dull the keen cutting edge considerably.

Dust Those Curves With Confidence

Take those curves with confidence—using a new pliable duster which has a flexible wire frame that slides around curves to dust every crevice.

In other words, this nylon yarn duster conforms to the furniture with just a bit of gentle pressure. And, of course, the nylon yarn is washable in hot soap or detergent suds, and dries quickly.

Mrs. Percival F. Brundage, wife of the budget director, has kept a strict family budget for 39 years. Sometimes, she admits, it gets out of balance.

Wife Joins Brundage in Budgeting

Her Field Is Home,
His Is the Federal Government

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — Mrs. Percival F. Brundage, wife of the director of the Bureau of the Budget, understands some of her husband's problems in trying to balance Uncle Sam's budget. She has a little budget of her own.

"I've lived by a budget for 39 years," Amittai Brundage told me. "It hasn't always been easy to balance it. Sometimes I slip up and borrow from 'miscellaneous,' but it's the only way to live. It gives you peace of mind. You know where you're bound."

Getting used to counting pennies and knowing each was earmarked for a definite use—food, clothes, fun, savings and so on—wasn't easy at first for the youthful accountant's wife just setting up housekeeping in New Jersey back in June 1918.

"Like a lot of young folks, I thought budgeting sort of held you back," she explained, "but my husband kept me to it, strictly. Now I do it unconsciously. I've had to make changes now and then."

"Here, I have to keep a closer one. Living costs are higher. Our income is lower. There are always extras too, we hadn't counted on."

WORKS ALL HOURS

Brundage, who has had overall charge of preparing the Eisenhower administration's budget for the 1958 fiscal year beginning July 1, has been working all hours. "Early, late, everyday, Saturdays, Sundays, ever-constantly, with very little chance to relax," according to his wife.

So now Amittai Brundage has two budgets. One for money, one for that even more precious commodity, time.

It is important, she said, that everyone have time to himself. Officials have to be in public life, she admits, but they don't have to accept all invitations and they have to know enough to go home at a decent hour.

They should bypass the trivial. This takes a pretty strong character, planning, and doing as you planned.

MANY INTERESTS

She plays tennis regularly. He enjoys golf when he can. Both are accomplished folk dancers, having mastered intricacies of the native dances of some 30 different countries, during the 23 years of their membership in the celebrated Cosmopolitan Club of Montclair, N. J.

The Brundages, also expert square dancers, have joined the capital's increasing ranks of do-si-do enthusiasts.

Two Chapters of Sorority Hold Dinner Meeting

Members of Epsilon Chapter and Zeta Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa sorority held a joint social meeting Tuesday at Devon Gables.

Thirty-five members and guests were present for the concluding dinner meeting of the present club year. Mrs. Genevieve Van't Roor, first president of Epsilon Chapter, extended greetings and Mrs. Alton Madden of Zeta Chapter gave the invocation.

Handling arrangements for the annual affair were Mrs. E. Cleo Wiley and Mrs. Morrell Jones representing Zeta Chapter. Epsilon Chapter chairman was Mrs. Lola Sandage, assisted by Mrs. Lewis Cornell and Mrs. Gordon Rice.

No More Color Problem

Ideas for Sweater Girl

NEW YORK (INS) — Cashmere and skirts exactly any more. This year, Altmann decrees, sweaters and skirts in different tones of the same color. For instance, pale blue teamed with azure blue, baby pink with rose, or beige with amber brown.

Instead of dashing from store to store trying to find exactly the hyacinth lavender skirt to match your hyacinth lavender sweater, you can relax and don a skirt in any blending shade of blue or purple.

The sweaters you buy will have new 37 touches, however. Altmann is showing mostly three-quarter sleeves, on pullovers and cardigans alike, Ivy League button-down collars, and fly-front button closures.

He also likes tone-on-tone edging on sweaters—with the edging in a shade a couple of tones darker than the sweater itself.

High style enthusiasts will also be able to get cashmeres with ascot scarf necklines and blouson cashmeres with drawstring waistbands.

Alpha Beta Unit Re-elects Slate at Annual Picnic

Re-elected to serve Alpha Beta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma sorority for the coming year are Mrs. Irene Albright, president; Mrs. Thomas Dison, first vice president; Mrs. Clare Hubbell, second vice president; Patricia Knudsen, recording secretary; Aldene French, corresponding secretary; Mrs. P. J. Kinsella, treasurer, and Mrs. T. E. Wiersema, parliamentarian.

Officers were elected at the annual picnic and final business meeting held Tuesday evening at the Special Services Building on Franklin boulevard.

Mrs. Harvey Bidstrup served as chairman for the meeting. Assisting were Margaret Snyder, Aldene French, Mrs. Albert Kohn, Mrs. George Panks and Mrs. William Perrin.

What's in a Jacket?

Of the many jacket types, the most frequently seen is the Eton type—the hip-length jacket that fits easily or is semi-fitted.

The cropped jacket is seen everywhere and sliced off—hung loosely from the body or is snugly molded to the body at every point from the neckline to the highest point of the midriff.

Double-breasted buttons look jaunty on the short, short jackets, and bows are used widely on brief-cut flaring capes.

Paris Experts Suggest Practical Ideas for Bride

PARIS (INS)—Paris fashion experts suggest that the June bride and necklaces mounted on wire should be practical minded—at frames to wear as tiara during the least for her clothes—as well as visit of Queen Elizabeth.

The most practical wedding dress, says Madeleine de Rauch, is a two-piece affair concealing a low-cut décolletage under a demurely high-necked tulle.

As a young "Mrs." you can wear such a dress without the jacket and with colored accessories for cocktails and dinners simply by shortening it to mid-calf length.

For the wedding day a bride should have a precious lace handkerchief. Since brides do not wear handbags, the hanky can be worn tucked into a bracelet made of a chain of orange blossoms. To keep the hanky as a souvenir you can use it later as a lace doily.

Brides owning precious bracelets or necklaces can wear them as to be safe for white and colorfast veil-bands on the day of the wedding.

There are safe action chlorine bleaches in bead form to add to detergent to keep them looking fresh, bright and new. It is said to be safe for white and colorfast cottons, linens or nylon.

Physical Education Expert Points to Russia

Urges Gymnastics for U. S. Children

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—America's children, reared on television, the family car and the school bus, are showing up badly in physical fitness tests, a physical education expert reported today.

Bonnie Prudden, White Plains, N. Y., newly appointed to the President's Citizen Advisory Committee on Youth Fitness, said there is "a level to which we can't go without getting into danger, both physically and emotionally."

The Russians are spending billions for physical education — not sports, but gymnastics, "and they're not doing this for fun. They need a strong nation because they have plans for it," said Miss Prudden.

She urged America "to take a

Men to Don Specs With Monograms

Masculine Glasses Also Break Out in Rash of Color

CHICAGO (INS) — The monogrammed shirt, tie and handkerchief have a new teammate in a man's wardrobe — eyeglasses.

The initials are plainly visible to boot, either etched or attached at the temples.

Not only that, but the monogrammed frames come in colors that are a departure from the dull black or brown hues most men wear. They come in shiny, anodized aluminum finishes in blue, brown, gold and silver.

Al Martin, spokesman for the National Optical Fair which begins June 7 in Chicago, explained: "Most men need to be more fashion-conscious when it comes to eye frames."

"They'll go to a great deal of trouble to match their ties and socks but ignore their glasses."

Martin contends that a brown pair of frames should never be worn with a blue suit. He said that "the frames of the glasses should be keyed to suits just like socks and ties."

In his opinion, the well-dressed man should select eye frames that provide the same sort of color accent as other accessories.

The gold and silver frames are strictly for evening, he stressed, and should be matched to a man's cuff links and other jewelry. In other words silver with silver, gold with gold—never mixed.

can children need more gym work and running games that build endurance, but less ball playing. Schools aren't handling the problem, she said. Ninety per cent of the elementary schools have no gym at all and other schools are emphasizing recreation rather than physical education.

There is too much stress on baseball, volleyball and basketball, she said.

"Take the ball away and you have no program," she said, pointing out that gym apparatus has virtually disappeared from the schools.

Children need at least an hour a day in actual physical training or sports that build endurance, she said.

Miss Prudden said she has conducted muscle fitness tests among 4,800 U. S. children and more than 3,000 Europeans and found 59 per cent of the youngsters here failed, compared with 8 per cent in the European group.

In the past 10 years, she explained, there has been a change in attitude toward sports, a tendency to play indoors and watch television rather than participate in outdoor sports.

Miss Prudden thinks compulsory physical education is needed in the schools to overcome the bad habits that have grown up in the past 10 years.

Month Set Aside Especially for Oldsters

New York Helps Senior Citizens

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

New York City has been a leader, or I should say, the pioneer in providing companionship, social life, guidance and instruction in diet and handicrafts, etc., for its older citizens. New York City's day centers have proved to be life-savers to thousands of senior citizens.

This year on April 29 Mayor Wagner proclaimed May as Senior Citizens' Month in New York City and thereby lauded a tremendous program for these older persons.

This was designed to impress on them the fact that older years can be creative and happy, productive and busy, that many older men and women are active in practically every field, that age is not dependent on the number of years one has lived.

If anyone doubts that boredom and loneliness or the feeling of being on the shelf and no longer needed do not lead to physical illness, all he or she would have to do would be to investigate some of the records of these day centers.

I visited several of them a few years ago and was told that the visits of these older people to clinics were in direct ratio to the number of times they came to the day centers. In other words those who had been harassed with numerous physical disabilities, simply lost most of them when they became busy and happy through their day center activities.

ENLARGED HORIZONS

Day centers, schools, churches and government agencies participated in making the senior citizen project a most successful one. No one can estimate the closed doors it may have opened, the horizons it no doubt enlarged, or the hope and stimulation it brought to thousands.

Just to give you an idea let me list a few of the activities which were carried on during the month.

There was an exhibition of painting, ceramics and sculpture

Make Home a Safe Haven

Safety, like charity, begins at home. Here for you and your safety's sake are tips for at-home welfare.

Going up — or down? Last year more people died because of falls in their homes than in traffic accidents. Climb those stairs — both up and down — but hang on to the bannister and watch where you step.

Stair coverings should be securely fastened and in good repair. Never, never was steps or put a small rug at the head or foot of the flight. And since you've got to see where you are going, good lighting is essential.

Learn to carry the baby tucked under your arm like a football — that leaves one hand free to clutch the bannister. Avoid "bundle blindness" — carrying packages so large you can't see over them.

Keep all steps free of obstructions. Look at the steps leading to the cellar and attic right now... they weren't intended to be storage space.

USE STEPLADDER

A sturdy, steady stepladder or step-stool is a "must" in even the smallest apartment. Standing on furniture, window sills or shelves is one way of asking for trouble.

Don't climb in your stiletto-heeled shoes or loose-fitting slippers. Safety mules may be glamorous, but they weren't designed for climbing. Kick them off first — more comfortable too.

Once you get up there, don't over-reach. If something starts to fall, let it go. If you're susceptible to dizzy spells, let someone else make the climb for you. And easy, dad, make sure the ladder is well braced when you go out to fix the screens.

INSTALL WINDOW GUARDS

Where there are small fry, it's especially important that open windows have firmly set guards or screens should be such that small hands can't pry them open. Keep beds and furniture, on which little people can climb, away from the windows. The young ones need to be safeguarded.

On the level — train the children to put away their toys and hobby materials when they're through with them. Clothing should never be left on the floor — you can trip over that too.

Slippers should be so placed that neither you nor anyone else will fall over them if someone gets up at night. Avoid walking in the dark. Keep your flashlight handy — with fresh batteries — for emergencies, poking into dark closets, or when overhead lights would disturb others.

Small rugs need non-skid backing or non-skid pads under them. Those little mats, so beloved by so many for in front of the kitchen sink, are unnecessary... and downright hazardous when attention in handling hot foods is essential.

Keep furniture, especially low tables and footstools, fans, etc., out of traffic lanes through rooms.

Bride Fears Crowding by Uninvited

Wants to Enclose Name Cards With Invitations

By EMILY POST

A bride-to-be writes me: "We have a problem regarding our wedding. It is a custom in this city for people if they know someone in the wedding party or have a slight acquaintance with the bride or bridegroom to go to the wedding ceremony even though not invited."

"This creates a problem as our church is small and all the available seats in the chapel will be occupied by the invited guests."

"Would it be proper to enclose name cards in the invitations and ask the guests to present them to the usher upon arrival? This would insure the invited guests of a seat. Do you have any other solution to this problem?"

Answer: Your solution is not only practical, but the only one possible under the circumstances.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married the latter part of next month at one of the large hotels here in town. My contract for the reception specifies that 15 per cent of the total cost will be added for the waiters. What am I to do about the maitre d'hotel with whom I made my arrangements? Is it correct to tip him?"

Answer: You would not tip the representative of the management with whom you make the contract. But if he also serves as head-waiter it will be best to ask him if his gratuity has been included in the bill, and if he says no, then ask him frankly how much he expects.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please answer the following question which came up the other afternoon at a tea to which a friend and I had gone? Is it proper, or not, to allow the lemon slice used to flavor the tea to remain in the cup while drinking, or should it be removed after extracting the juice, and put on the saucer?"

Answer: It should be left in the cup.

Few Bright Spots in 61 Years of PHS Athletics

(This is the first of a two part series dealing with the athletic and recreational program in the Pontiac school system, mainly with the success and failures of athletics at Pontiac High School. Today we look at the past and present. Tomorrow we look into the future.)

By BRUNO L. KEARNS

Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Going all the way back to 1896 when the Pontiac Athletic Association was organized to initiate the high school's inter-scholastic program, the records show evidence of only mediocre success for PHS athletic teams.

There have been a few moments of glory, several in recent years, but winning with consistency has been a rarity.

State golf titles in 1933 and 1941, a state cross country championship in 1951, three state track titles 1955-57, plus one league football championship in 1943, the 1956 league basketball title and a few other league sports crowns in 61 years have been the extent of PHS championships.

It hasn't been exactly the most impressive record for the state's second largest high school, excluding several larger Detroit schools.

With a 3-grade student body surpassing 2,000, Pontiac stands only behind Flint Central in enrollment of schools in the state, and only four Detroit schools are larger.

Grumbling has often been heard from sports fans in the city and from outside Pontiac the question has often been asked, "What has been wrong with Pontiac High athletics?"

With its great student body, the problem could hardly be blamed on a manpower shortage. Yet there must be an answer.

The big problem as far as material goes is often the lack of numbers which turn out for the various sports, and one apparent reason for this is due to either the lack or the absence of any coordinating program which may help a youngster get started in the sport before he reaches high school.

Having the available manpower is one thing, but getting the best material is another. Only solution here is a well-coordinated community pyramid whereas the YMCA, Boys' Clubs, City Recreation Department, elementary and junior high programs and other community organizations can reach the greatest numbers for the common good.

To go with the needed material, there are three big factors which are necessary for the success of any athletic program, namely, facilities, coaching personnel and organization. Here appears to be the failures.

As for coaching personnel, the school district employs many well-versed athletic men. Many of their woes stem from the fact they must be fundamentalists from scratch with each passing year. Again this is where organization enters the picture, meaning that if fundamentals were stressed to the greater numbers in the lower brackets, the learning stage would ease with each grade up the ladder.

Football, the king of high school and college sports, has been one of Pontiac's biggest failures.

The history of PHS football goes back to 1892 when a team was organized by the students, with no coach and without faculty support. Captain Fred Broad was the leader.

There wasn't a faculty coach until 1897 and since then 20 men have guided the football program. In the long history, a record of 221 victories, 210 losses and 48 ties was compiled but an unbeaten season was never enjoyed.

Most successful periods were during the middle teens and in the late twenties. The 1915-16 teams under coach Goodloe Rogers won 27 out of 31 games, and piled up 900 points in four years.

Entry into the Saginaw Valley Conference in 1933 had a disastrous start. In the first six years Pontiac was able to win a total of only four league games.

Only three times, in 25 SVC years, has a PHS team won more league games than it has lost, the best season being in 1943 when a 5-1 record produced the lone football championship.

The following year, in 1944, a junior high football program was started in Pontiac and many thought this would be the salvation to a new era of winning football.

But in 13 years the fruits of the program failed to bear itself out. Percentages have shown that the present setup in junior high football has contributed very little to the success of the high school program.

This could also apply to basketball in view of the fact that the 1956 cage team won the first Pontiac championship since entry into the league.

Lack of, or the present antiquated facilities, have been considered as a big obstacle in building a successful program. Overcrowded conditions at the present high school have hampered not only inter-scholastic but intra-mural activities as well.

As many as 60 and 70 students often comprise a single gym class thereby making intra-mural sports unwieldy and difficult to organize and subsequently eliminating the possibility of picking up a few good prospects for the respective varsity and junior varsity teams.

Varsity teams have had their woes as well. The basketball team often has to forsake its court because an overflow of gym classes cut into the cage team's practice time.

The tennis team has been hampered by the fact that not a single court belongs to the school district. The swimming team uses an outmoded pool built in 1914 which was closed on one instance prior to a meet this season because of failure of the purification system.

Diving competition in the pool has been dangerous inasmuch as a high spring would have the ceiling and the head of the diver coming together.

Poor drainage and layout of the track, which becomes a quagmire with the slightest precipitation, isn't exactly the type of facility befitting a three-time state championship track team.

What lies ahead in the way of remedying problems of facilities? What type of organization is planned to coordinate junior and senior high activities?

This series will conclude tomorrow with an outline of plans for facilities, and with the current reorganizational and recreational plans being proposed on the junior and elementary levels.

Juggling Act Wins for Tigers

Bench-Warming
Tuttle Singles
in Winning Run

Lary Again Deprived of Victory as Foytack
Gains 3-2 Verdict

DETROIT (AP)—Some of the Detroit Tigers have performed so poorly over stretches of the season that manager Jack Tighe hasn't been able to stick with one lineup over any length of time.

Once in a while — like yesterday — the juggling brought about by sub-par performances brings a refreshing turn of events, like a 3-2 victory in 11 innings over the Washington Senators.

Tighe benched the slump-ridden Bill Tuttle during the week-end series in Chicago when the centerfielder's average skidded to .223. His replacement was J. W. Porter, Tighe's thinking being that while Porter couldn't field with Tuttle, perhaps the freckled bench-warmer could kick in with a base hit now and then.

Porter drove in one of the Tiger runs in Tuesday's 4-3 loss to Washington; he got a single in three trips yesterday before Tighe inserted Tuttle as a pinch runner when Porter singled in the seventh inning. Tuttle stayed in the contest and came through with a sharp single to centerfield that scored Al Kaline with the winning run.

The one-run triumph — the club's ninth against 10 losses by a similar margin — lifted the Tigers to the 23-23 mark in wins and losses and pulled them even with the Boston Red Sox in a tie for fourth place.

A ninth-inning flareup by the pesky Senators prevented Frank Lary from breaking a string of five straight losses. The little right-hander, with a 2-7 record, yielded a leadoff home run to Eddie Yost and kept the Senators out of reach until the ninth. Then a single and double put runners on second and third with none out and forced Paul Foytack into action.

Foytack worked out of the jam, allowing just one runner to score as he set down the "meat" of the Washington batting order. He was in trouble himself in the 10th and 11th innings as a hard rain threatened to put a halt to the proceedings, but each time escaped without scoring damage.

Lions Sign Three Rookie Backs
to '57 Contracts

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Lions announced today the signing of three more players to 1957 contracts.

Gordon Malloy, a Miami University halfback who suffered a knee injury in the 1955 College All-Star training camp will attempt a comeback with the Lions this year.

Jack Cross, Utah halfback, and Marvin Brown, offensive back from East Texas, also signed.

Cross and Brown are Lion draft choices returning from service.

Holly Man Hopes to Turn Red Fox Into a Bird Dog

By H. GUY MOATS

Wild animals, taken from their primal state and brought up in the atmosphere of civilization occasionally turn out, all right. But it's a difficult thing to train wild creatures, even if taken very young.

One such experiment was more or less a success in this area. A Detroit sportsman some years back raised and trained a coyote as a retriever, and the wild creature did a good job as a hunting companion.

Cliff Dreyer of Holly, active sportsman and operator of a gun and sports center in the Oakland county community, is embarking on a similar venture — with some important differences.

Dreyer recently found a tiny, infant red fox which had strayed from a den. He took it home and is raising it. Way the little creature responded, led Dreyer to begin training it. Now he thinks he'll bring the fox up to be a bird dog. There's nothing a red fox loves better than a nice fat pheasant, so Dreyer has his work cut out to make the experiment succeed.

"I think I can do it, too," says Cliff. With that sharp nose for scenting and the natural smartness of the fox to work with, I believe I can make a good 'bird dog' of the little fellow."

Mentioning the walleye pike plant at Lakeville lake, and the subsequent statement that only a few area waters boast the excellent sport and food fish, has brought some more comment regarding it.

Wynn has had as much as a three-day rest before only one of his last four starts, and he got that only because of a day off in the schedule. And Garcia, scheduled to face the Yankees this afternoon, has made three of his last four starts with only two days in between.

Wynn lost his sixth last night as the Yankees unloaded four home runs and 16 hits for a 13-3 breeze. It was their third in a row, but left them five games behind the first-place Chicago White Sox and also left them without catcher Yogi Berra, who suffered a fractured nose when a foul tip broke his mask.

The White Sox kept their surprising pace — winning 19 of 24 — with a 6-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox. Detroit moved into a fourth-place tie with Boston by defeating Washington 3-2 in 11 innings. Kansas City defeated Baltimore 3-2.

Wynn, a 37-year-old knuckleballer, retired the first 10 Yankees he faced before Gil McDougald belted the first of his two home runs and Mickey Mantle followed with his 12th homer of the year to start a four-run fourth. McDougald homered again in a seven-run fifth and singled in his next at bat for a total of five runs batted in. Mantle, 2-for-19 before the road trip, now is 6-for-9, the same as Bill Skowron, who homered and drove in four runs last night. The Moose had been 2-for-15 before the Yankees headed west.

Bobby Shantz won his sixth and fifth in a row with a seven-hitter, giving up homers to Chico Carrasquel and Jim Hegan. Cleveland, second and only a game out of first before the pitching collapsed, now is 7 1/2 behind in third place.

Drayton Blasts White in Waterford Softball

Drayton Drug lashed out with a 14-hit attack, including a three-run homer by Clayton Roth, to hand White Brothers a 15-5 shellacking in Waterford League softball action Wednesday at Drayton Plains.

Roth, who clouted his round-tripper in the 4th inning, had a perfect night at the plate with 3-for-3. Stu Hutchinson made three hits in four tries for the Druggists. The league's 10-run rule halted play after six innings.

3 Teams Fail to Make Deal at 40th Meet

Wings, Boston, Hawks Involved in Fruitless Player Negotiations

MONTREAL (AP)—Three National Hockey League clubs, wrestling with a budding wholesale swap of players, appeared no further ahead today after 48 hours of offers, counter-offers and thousands of words.

The NHL cleaned up its 40th annual meeting yesterday. Intra-league draft operations saw five players find new major league berths.

So far as could be learned, the big three-team deal essentially was just where it was after the 1956-57 season.

The teams reported involved are Detroit's Red Wings, the Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks. There was a chance the New York Rangers might ultimately figure.

Key players are goalie Terry Sawchuk, property of Boston, and left-winger Ted Lindsay, long a star with Detroit. Half a dozen or more other established NHL players may be involved.

In the draft yesterday, the Hawks grabbed two players owned by Detroit — defenseman Larry Hillman and center Bob Bailey. The Bruins also drafted two players — center Bronco Horvath from the Montreal Canadiens and center Norm Johnson from New York.

The Rangers drafted defenseman John Hanna from Montreal. Approval was given for television by CBS in the four U.S. cities of 21 games next season, compared with 10 last season. Approval was also given to the All-Star game for Oct. 5 in Montreal.

Pay-as-You-Go Plan No. 1 Force

TV Propels National League to Coast

NEW YORK (AP)—Television, long considered the chief cause of slumping gate receipts by baseball, now looms as the prime mover in the National League's projected expansion to the West Coast and a rich future for the major leagues.

The gimmick is pay TV — where you drop a coin in a slot to view something you now can see for putting up with commercials. The pay-as-you-watch plan has been tagged the basic reason for westward plans by the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants.

Walter O'Malley, Dodger president, has denied pay TV enters into his possible franchise shift to Los Angeles, but Variety, the theatrical periodical, has reported that the Dodgers already have given exclusive TV rights to Skiatron TV Inc.

The newspaper said "regardless of whether the Brooklyn Dodgers move their base to the Coast, the toll-TV rights to their games still are tied up by Matty Fox's Skiatron-TV."

"Fox has a signed contract with the Dodgers and also with the Giants which gives him the exclusive pay-as-you-see rights to their games if and when the clubs make their move away from New York."

"If the Dodgers stay in Gotham, and the Federal Communications Commission finally authorizes an experimental over-the-air test of toll video, Skiatron's subscription will carry the games."

Earlier yesterday, a new outfit, TV, Inc., announced it had offered 2½ million dollars to both

Little League Cuts World Series to 3-Day Session

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Little League Baseball Inc. has announced the first major revision in the 10-year history of its World Series play.

The annual four-day summer World Series will be condensed to three days with the field of eight finalists cut to four.

Instead of eight districts qualifying entries for the Williamsport playoff, four separate regional tournaments will be held.

Sites for the regional playoffs will be New York City for the East, Louisville for the South, Chicago for the North, and San Francisco for the West. Dates were not announced. Only winners in these regionals will make the trip to Williamsport, birthplace of organized baseball for 8-12 year-olds.

The World Series will start Wednesday, Aug. 21 and end Friday, Aug. 23. In previous years, the championship game was played at the original Little League field on the outskirts of Williamsport on a Saturday.

Another new ruling will cut the field in all authorized tournaments, from the league level upward, to four teams. There are about 4,300 official Little League nines in 47 states and a dozen foreign countries.

Andonian to Defend Publinx Crown

By BILL CORNWELL

The Michigan Publinx Golf Association's 7th annual state tournament began its four-day competition today at Rolling Green Golf Club in Saginaw.

Upwards of 100 of Michigan's finest public links players started a gruelling 36-hole qualifying round this morning, each one hoping to make the grade for 18-hole match play which gets underway tomorrow.

Mike Andonian of Pontiac is the defending champion and is therefore exempt from qualifying. The high school mathematics teacher won the state championship last year at the same Rolling Green course on a medal play basis.

132 Start Play in Akron Open

Former Champs Back Again, but Some Top Stars Pass It Up

AKRON, Ohio (U)—Doug Ford and Arnold Palmer, top money makers this year on the professional golf circuit, tee off with 130 other golfers here today in the opening round of the $22,000 Rubber City Open Tournament.

The four-day medal test will be played over the 6,620-yard Firestone Country Club course. Three former winners of the event, Ed Furgol, Tommy Bolt and Henry Ransom are shooting for this year's top prize money of $2,800.

Some of the game's top stars, Jack Burke, Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, Dr. Cary Middlecoff and Jim Demarest skipped the Akron tournament for practice rounds at Toledo, Ohio, where the National Open will be played next week.

Horse Trainer Gets Suspended

DETROIT (U)—State Racing Commissioner James H. Inglis ordered a 10-day suspension last night for trainer James C. Riley of Orion, Ohio, for careless use of medication in connection with a horse which won the sixth race at Northville Downs, May 28.

Inglis said the suspension was to be retroactive to June 4.

The commissioner said the decision followed an investigation and hearing. The investigation showed that the horse, Cracker-barrel, had been treated with procaine.

Inglis ordered the purse, which had been held up pending completion of the case, redistributed to owners of the horses that finished second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth in the race.

$105,000 'Spot' Offered Basilio for Title Battle

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (INS)—A group of wealthy sportsmen is offering Carmen Basilio a $105,000 guarantee to defend his welterweight championship in Jersey City against the winner of the June 17 fight between Vince Martinez and Kid Gavilan.

Attorney William George, representative for the group, said yesterday the fight would be scheduled for July 22 at Roosevelt Stadium.

Basilio and his managers said they could not accept the offer immediately. Basilio said he was giving Sugar Ray Robinson until June 13 to decide whether to defend his middleweight title against Carmen.

Andonian will be joined by 63 qualifiers in the opening of match play tomorrow.

This is the 1st time in the history of the state publinx tournament that match play has been adopted and the change is frowned upon by several members of the MPGA, including Andonian.

IN TITLE DEFENSE—Mike Andonian, math teacher at Pontiac High School, will attempt to defend the state publinx title as the tournament gets under way today in Saginaw. Andonian does not have to qualify today. Tourney actually starts tomorrow and continues through Sunday.

Maples Golf Champs Again

Birmingham High School's talented golf team won the Eastern Michigan League championship for the 4th straight year Wednesday in the annual league meet at Hazel Park.

The Maples had a team total of 321, six strokes better than runner-up Mt. Clemens. Port Huron finished 3rd with 357, followed by Hazel Park 367 and Ferndale 387.

Mike Conroy and Pete Jackson of Birmingham and Ron Manthey of Mt. Clemens shared medalist honors with 77's. Manthey triumphed in a playoff.

Mt. Clemens won the EML tennis crown for the 3rd straight time. The Bathers scored 9 1/2 points while runner-up Birmingham tallied 8 1/2. Port Huron 6, Ferndale 2 1/2, East Detroit 2 and Hazel Park 1/2.

Bob Hader won the singles title while Jeff Crawford and Tom Watson of Birmingham topped Ed Brice and Ken Grimes of Mt. Clemens to take the doubles crown.

In baseball yesterday, Tom Estes pitched a five-hit shutout as Birmingham downed Port Huron, 6-0, on the Maple diamond.

Another former champ, Jack Gregory of Detroit, will be unable to play in this year's event. Job obligations are holding him back. Wally Smith and John Kurach, two amateur standouts, will also be absent this time around.

Other talented publinx golfers entered in the field are Charles Barker and Dick Robertson of Pontiac; Jim Breigel and Dallas Space of Ann Arbor; Doug Wilson of Ypsilanti; Ty Caplin of East Lansing; Carl Mueller, Chuck Mitchell and Lyle Ostrom of Saginaw, and John McLaughlin of Ithaca.

Pontiac's Paul Bada, who burned up Pontiac area courses last year, was a possible post entry, according to Nelson. Glenn Harding of Pontiac was not expected to enter.

The state publinx tournament dates back much further than seven years, but this is the 7th year that the tourney has been conducted by the growing MPGA.

Annual Gun School Starts on Saturday

Eleventh annual session of the Williams Shooting School will get under way Saturday at the Williams ranges, 7389 Lapeer road (five miles east of Flint).

First session, from 1-5 p.m. Saturday is without cost as is that for June 15. Boys and girls from 12 to 18 years are eligible. School is designed to teach the use of firearms, safety, care of gun, sportsmanship and competitive shooting.

Lectures and demonstrations are provided for off-hiring line time. Strict supervision by competent shooting men is set up. Those attending may take own .22 rifles, or guns will be available at the school. Further information may be had by calling Dale or Paul Williams, Davison 327, or Flint Pili-grim 2-2120.

Grill Blanks Thomas, 5-0

Don Bren Hurls 3-Hit Shutout in City Loop Baseball Encounter

Don Bren pitched Griff's Grill to a 3-0 triumph over Thomas Die & Stamping last night in a City League baseball encounter at Wisner Field.

The victory was Griff's 2nd in three starts and the 3rd straight loss for Thomas.

Bren allowed only three hits, all singles, during his shutout stint and he struck out seven while walking just one.

Meanwhile, Griff's was making the most out of five safeties off three opposing hurlers. Starter Delno Chappelle and Bob Pickett were both shelled from the mound in the 5th inning when the Grill club iced the decision with four runs. Jim Featherston finished on the hit for Thomas.

The Michigan Giants and Shaw's Jewelers collide in today's City League game at Wisner Field at 5:30 p.m.

Reds Nip Phils, Nine Homers at New York

The Cincinnati Redlegs dropped Philadelphia to 3rd place with a 4-2 victory in 11 innings last night as Brooklyn took over 2nd by blanking the Cubs 4-0 in the National League games. Other tilts saw Milwaukee beat New York 9-8 in a game featured by nine home runs and St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh 5-1.

The Redlegs handed the Phils their third defeat in the last 10 games on an error, Jerry Lynch's pinch triple and Roy McMillan's single for two 11th-inning runs against losing reliever Dick Far-

Second Perfect Contest Hurler

Roger Reynolds Pitches Flawless No-Hitter for Birmingham in Softball

The second perfect pitching performance of the season on the City Softball League was posted Wednesday night at Beauclerk Park when Roger Reynolds turned the trick for Birmingham.

Reynolds pitched flawlessly — 21 batters up, 21 batters down — as his team whitewashed Elks No. 810. The score was 6-0.

Doug Hall of Shaw's Jewelers chalked up the 1st perfect game of the year, then Reynolds moved 'em down last night. Reynolds struck out seven and only two balls were hit beyond the infield.

Birmingham collected seven hits off Ed Miller and handed Reynolds a cushion he didn't need by scoring five times in the 3rd inning.

In other games yesterday, Stadium Inn pushed a run across in the bottom of the 6th to edge Bismar Inn, 3-2, and Pontiac Select-a-Drink scored twice in the 5th to defeat Richard's Tavern, 5-3.

Today's games: Louie's Tavern vs. UAW-CIO Local 653, 7 p.m., and Eddie's Bar vs. Richard's Tavern, 8:30, at Beauclerk; Pontiac Police vs. Deni's Corner, 7 p.m., and Franklin Products vs. Pontiac State Hospital, 8:30, at North Side.

Elks Birmingham 100 000 0-0 8 2 Miller and Yarbrough; Reynolds and Beck. Bismar Stadium 100 000 0-0 7 1 Grant and Bud Reed; Hollock and Wilson. Richard's 100 000 0-0 12 10 PRAD 021 020 0-0 10 10 Geiger, Harper and Hayward; Conley and Rondo.

Williams Puts OK on Game Law Bill

LANSING (AP)—A bill incorporating several important amendments to the state game law has been signed by Gov. Williams.

Among other things, the measure legalizes the slingshot as a hunting weapon and outlaws us of der.

A provision designed to banish roadside hunting requires that guns or bows be disassembled or put in a case any time they are the law applied only from March 1 to Oct. 1.

The bill also requires duck hunters to remove their blinds from Great Lakes waters within 10 days after the end of the season and permits the conservation commission to establish rules in conformance with those of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service with regard to taking of migratory wildfowl.

Annual Golf Day to Be Observed by Area's Clubs

Pontiac area golf courses will share in the national observance of "golf day" Saturday, when players may compare their cards with those of U. S. Open champion Cary Middlecoff and Ladies U. S. Open queen, Kathy Cornelius. Those who "beat the champ" will receive bronze medals.

Practically all private and fee courses will take part, with the dollar fee going to aid a number of major projects backed by the National PGA Rounds may be played any time this week. Any one is eligible.

In last year's observance of the event Oak Hills (Rochester N. Y.) had the biggest field (577). Illinois section (6,113) and Michigan (4,936) were tops. A national total of $64,000 was turned in.

Oakland Hills led the area last year with 241. Tam O'Shanter had 135, Bloomfield Hills 131, Pine Lake 110, Orchard Lake 114 and Red Run 109.

Shanraven Wins 3rd

GENE SARAZEN — 1935

Famous Golf Shots

Sarazen's Double Eagle His Greatest

(This is the first story on famous golf shots. Others will appear on future pages.)
By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor
One of the most sensational shots ever hit in golf was Gene Sarazen's famous double eagle 2 (three under par) on the 480-yard 15th hole in the 1935 Masters tournament at the Augusta National Golf Club.

The shot has gone down in the records as a 230-yard spoon shot but the 55-year-old gentleman farmer from Germantown, N.Y., says it was 232 yards. And the way Sarazen tells it, he remembers every detail as though the shot was hit yesterday rather than in the second Masters 22 years ago. "I was playing close behind Craig Wood," says Gene. "In fact Wood had already finished with a 282. I was three strokes behind with four holes to go. I was playing with Walter Hagen, then in the twilight of his career.

"We were discussing other things as we walked up to my drive. I had no idea I had a chance to win the Masters. I had to pick up three shots on the last four holes to tie. I thought it was too much to expect. Instead, I got 'em (the three-stroke deficit) all on one hole.

"Funny thing, I took that No. 4 wood and shot the works even though I had what might be considered a poor lie. It was the second year of the Masters and the fairways were not being watered. They were in poor shape. Now they are like Oriental rugs."

That double eagle enabled Sarazen to tie Wood at 283 and his victory in the 36-hole playoff was anti-climactic. Nevertheless, in the playoff he shot 144 to beat Wood by five strokes.

Today there is a bridge on the 15th hole at Augusta and a plaque in memory of Sarazen's big deuce. It is called the Fire Thorn hole but Sarazen calls it "my double eagle."

Sarazen hit some great shots in winning the National Open in 1922 and again in 1932 but none match his feat on the 15th hole at Augusta.

Bev, Fay, Wiffi Favored

Ladies' PGA Test Opens

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Bev? Hanson, Fay Crocker and Wiffi Smith have been playing well lately, and they're about as close as you can come to picking a favorite among the 26 top women golfers who teed off today in the third championship of the Ladies PGA.

This limited but strictly top class field set out with the idea that anybody can win over the 72-hole route on the short but demanding Churchill Valley course. The contestants named Misses Hanson and Crocker because they are the most recent winners on the women's pro tour and Miss Smith because she has been hitting her shots well and coming very close.

Wiffi, termed by some of her rivals as the most refreshing personality to hit the ladies tour in recent years, won the preliminary driving contest yesterday with a clout of 310 yards, barely beating out tall Mickey Wright, another youthful pro.

And the one who was rooting them in with Spanish exclamations was Argentine-born Fay Crocker, who beat them both in the Round Robin Tournament at Virginia Beach last week.

Fay, who won the Argentine women's amateur title so often she almost lost count before turning pro, explained they have a special group who speak that language.

Marlene Hagge, the younger member of golf's most glamorous sister act, is the defender in the Ladies PGA. She won at Detroit last year by beating Patty Berg in a playoff after they both had shot 291 scores.

96 Teams Announced for Best-Ball Test

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Officials of the 15th annual Blytheville Invitational best-ball golf tournament today announced the 96-team entry list was nearly complete for the event scheduled June 27-30. Co-chairman Edward Lawler said 90 teams already had been accepted with six others to be named from an overflow pool of 40 entries. Jim Taylor and Jerry Berles of Grand Rapids are defending champions in the event which has attracted golf representatives of nine states.

Among top Michigan names entered are Dale Morey, quarter-finalist in the British Amateur a week ago, Bob Babbish and Bud Gould of Detroit and Bud Reniger and Lou Wendrow of Lansing.

USGA Executive, Body Studies Ward's Status

CHICAGO (AP)—The questioned amateur status of Harvie Ward, National Amateur golf champion the last two years, will be aired tomorrow by the executive committee of the U.S. Golf Assn.

Ward, of San Francisco, will attend the meeting in person at headquarters of the Western Golf Assn. in nearby Golf, Ill.

The session is scheduled to start at 10 a.m. EST and a member of the committee who did not wish to be identified said:

"It may take an hour or it may take until the middle of the afternoon, but however long I know we will come out with the right decision."

Noted Foils Master, de Tuscan, to Retire

DETROIT (AP)—Bela de Tuscan, noted Michigan fencing master, said today he will retire at the end of this month because of poor health and move to Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The handsome, gray-haired de Tuscan, 55, onetime sabre champion of the Hungarian army, coached the Wayne State University team and developed several champions at his school, the Salle de Tuscan.

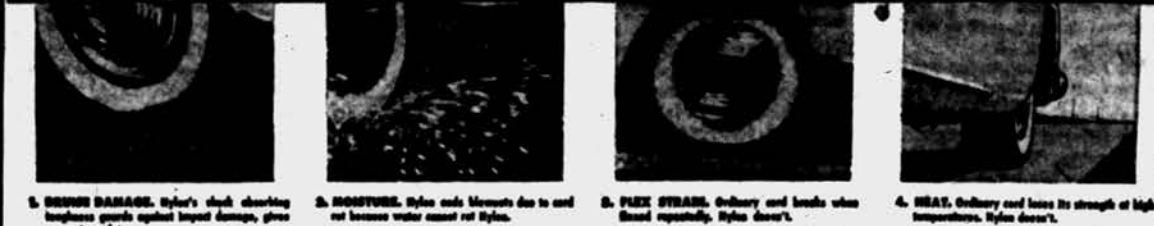

AMES — Iowa State has not scored against Oklahoma's football teams since the 1951 season.

Reuther Tells Stand of UAW

Union Officials Invoking 5th Amendment May Be Removed From Office

DETROIT (U)—The policy of the United Auto Workers union toward union officials who invoke the Fifth Amendment when questioned by a legislative body has been spelled out by UAW President Walter P. Reuther.

In an administrative letter that emphasized the rights of citizens to constitutional protection against self-incrimination, Reuther said an accused member will be given a hearing before his local union executive board.

Reuther said that unless the member involved can present to the hearing board "clear and sufficient evidence that he is beyond a doubt not disqualified from holding office under the provisions of the AFL-CIO ethical practices codes and the UAW constitution, he shall be removed from all offices held by him, either elective or appointive, and such offices shall be declared vacant."

Reuther said any action taken by the local board must be submitted to the local membership for action. He said any decision of the local shall be subject to appeal through the regular appeals machinery of the UAW constitution to the International union, the Public Review Board and the UAW convention.

Reuther said the International union believes the hearing procedure conforms to "basic democratic principles and concepts." He said it provides "sensible and reasonable machinery through which we can strengthen our continuing efforts to maintain high ethical and moral standards in the UAW and keep our union free of all influences of corruption, communism, racketeering or fascism, and at the same time, protect the basic constitutional rights of each individual citizen."

Reuther's administrative letter follows recent instances of UAW local officers invoking constitutional privileges before the subcommittee of the Senate Internal Security Committee.

Midshipmen Hope for Clear Weather

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (U)—Waterlogged midshipmen and their dripping "drags" at the U.S. Naval Academy hoped today for some clear weather that would permit the 1957 color parade to be held outdoors.

The parade, set for 5:30 p.m. on Worden Field, has been planned as the last and most colorful of four dress parades on the June week schedule. The weather man forecasts more showers.

If the color parade is forced into Dahlgren Hall by bad weather today, the shift should cause no hitch in the ceremonies.

A rehearsal for the colorful climax of the ceremony had to be held indoors yesterday for the first time in more than 25 years.

All but Queen Appear Happy at English Derby

LONDON (INS)—British newspapers today published pictures of a sober-faced Queen Elizabeth watching yesterday's running of the English Derby at Epsom.

Simon Ward, gossip columnist for the London Daily Sketch, wrote: "Rarely have I seen the Queen look so glum... she walked with set face through the throng of cheering and applauding racegoers with scarcely a glance to right or left."

The Queen's husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, was not with her. He flew to West Germany to represent the Royal Family at the wedding of Prince Tomislav of Yugoslavia and Princess Marguerite of Baden.

But the Duke will be home soon. He will celebrate his 36th birthday Monday with the Queen and their two children.

Elect Wisconsin Doctor as President of AMA

NEW YORK (U)—Dr. Gunnar Gundersen, 60, of La Crosse, Wis., was named today president-elect of the American Medical Assn. The veteran surgeon was chosen by the AMA House of Delegates and will take office next June when the annual convention is held in San Francisco. He will be the association's 112th president.

Union's Funds in His Savings

Chicago Bakers Official Denies That He Kept Any of Money

WASHINGTON (U)—A Chicago Bakers Union official testified today he deposited some $9,000 of union funds in his own savings account on orders from his union "boss," but didn't keep the money.

Anthony Conforti, president of Chicago Bakers Union Local No. 1, said he considered that "well, yes," this was a strange way to handle the money.

But Conforti said he did not question the orders which he said came from George Stuart, then international vice president of the union. Conforti said the money came from a $10,500 fund raised by Chicago Local Unions No. 300 and No. 100 for use in efforts to get a union contract with the Salerno-Megowan Biscuit Co.

Conforti told the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee that under instructions from Stuart he channeled the money into a union bank account, drew it out in cash, deposited it in his own savings account, then made withdrawals and gave the money to Stuart.

Robert F. Kennedy, counsel to the Senate committee, asked whether "it didn't strike you that this was a strange way" to handle the money.

About Death of Family Orphan Boy Still in Dark

GAYLORD (U)—Five-year-old Michael Orstrand, whose family was wiped out in a car-train crash 12 days ago, still hasn't been told he is an orphan.

But a neighbor couple who took the boy home from a hospital last Sunday say, "We think he may have some idea."

"It's funny, but he hasn't even asked for his mother or dad," said Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Sehl, who will keep the boy until relatives decide on his custody.

Michael's father, Ernest, 36, a sawmill worker; his mother Joan, 32; his brother David, 9, and sister Patricia, 7, were killed in the collision May 29 near their home in Vanderbilt in northern Michigan.

Michael was thrown from the car and suffered minor cuts and bruises.

"He doesn't talk about the accident," Mrs. Sehl said, "but when a train comes by he hides behind things, as though he were afraid. We had to drive by his house and he told us, 'I don't want to go there.'"

Thus far Michael has been happy playing with two Shetland ponies on the Sehl farm, and

Man Fatally Injured

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Lyle Gano, 57, Benton Harbor, Mich., was fatally injured yesterday when he fell nine feet from a ramp while doing plumbing on a construction job here.

Insurance Benefits Rise

NEW YORK — Benefit payments under group life insurance contracts have increased sharply in the last few years. The death-benefit total was about $625,000,000 in 1956, an increase of $75,000,000 over the year before.

Ford Local Board to Try 4 Officials

DETROIT (U)—Four minor officials of the giant Ford Rouge Local 600 of the United Auto Workers Union, who recently invoked the Fifth Amendment before a Senate subcommittee investigating communism, have been ordered to stand trial before a local board.

Carl Stellato, Local 600 president, issued the order yesterday. It followed receipt of a letter from UAW President Walter Reuther.

Unless the member can present "clear and sufficient evidence" he is not a Communist, he should be removed from office, Reuther said. The member will be given an opportunity to appeal, he added.

Men, How Would You Like This Occupation?

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I meet such interesting people—but Charles Berendzen meets such interesting feet.

Imagine having such socially prominent feet as those of Bobo Rockefeller, Miss Lily Lodge of the Boston Lodges, and Mrs. Bill Hearst Jr. right in the palm of your hand as a part of the day's work.

"I want to make a career out of it," gravely says Charles, who pedicures the glamour dolls at the beauty salon at 74th and Madison. "It's pleasant."

Charles, who's 29, and from Walters, Okla., denied positively to me that he was nervous when actress Pamela Currah came in, whipped off her coat and stood there in nothing but a leotard.

"The leg came off the stool I was sitting on and the rest of the people in the shop had quite a bit of fun," he said. "That's all there was to it!"

Not even Chicago or Hollywood have male pedicurists. Mrs. Hickman, the proprietor, once a bronco-buster in Boulder Dam, Colo., assured me.

Happening to see a man engaged in this art in Rome, Mrs. Hickman told herself, "I need a man in my place on Madison Avenue!"

He'd left the family beauty shop in Oklahoma for New York where feet are more fashionable. What with glass slippers and open-toed shoes nowadays, the Social Register Feet and Cafe Society Feet think the $3.50 tariff is quite reasonable.

Anyway, Charles said that New York women have beautiful feet because they go barefoot a lot. I know in my house they certainly do.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

After resigning from "Tonight!" I suggested to Producer Dick Linkroom that Jack Parr succeed Jack Lescoulie who'd resigned. "Good idea!" said Linkroom. Then I tipped off Parr, but said, "Let them phone you!" Soon NBC made overtures, and met his demands, including a 24-week guarantee. So Parr's soon "back in the big time" with a studio night audience that'll probably include a panel.

Janet Blair was asked to be Gwen Verdon's standby in "New Girl in Town" . . . Esther Williams and Malvina McElowney headed for Rome minus trunks — most of their clothes were burned in a fire at Esther's home . . . Churchill's medals gave him the orders — no more cigars . . . Frank Sinatra dated Ginger Rogers . . . Nikita Khrushchev heard his son Seret was chasing around Paris and called him home.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: H. C. Diefenbach of Dayton has come up with a device to save millions of steps—a TV set with a built-in refrigerator . . . That's earl, brother.

Plan Public Survey on Medical Service

LANSING — The people of Michigan are going to have a chance to tell doctors exactly what kind of medical service they want.

In one of the biggest public opinion samplings of its type ever undertaken in Michigan or the nation, Michigan's MDs are going to seek the facts in a statewide study.

The Michigan Health Council, a voluntary health education organization, will aid the Michigan State Medical Society in one portion of this gigantic study by making a mail survey of 50,000 Michigan citizens.

Dr. J. K. Altland, council president, said the purpose will be to find out what the public wants in its voluntary, prepaid medical and surgical care plans and health insurance coverage.

The study, which was recommended by the Michigan State Medical Society House of Delegates, will seek four types of information.

Foremost, is what medical services the public wants covered by medical payment plans and which endence in camp officials. The Red are most important. Secondly, the Cross said language problems has study will attempt to find out what people would be willing to pay for these services.

Other information sought includes what doctors want from prepaid programs and what are the public's medical needs.

Hungarian Refugees Give Eire Trouble

KNOCKALISHEEN, Ireland — Eire has been having refugee trouble. When fugitives from Hungary had to move on from crowded Austria, a group of 528 were received by Ireland and lodged at Knockalishkeen, an army camp near Limerick, under care of the Irish Red Cross. Shortly, newspapers and the Red Cross received a letter from the refugees' own camp council, complaining of conditions.

The refugees said they were given no proper information about their future—80 per cent wanted to go to the United States or Canada but couldn't learn about their prospects. They complained of "waste and lack of organization" and asked to participate in buying camp food and clothing. They pressed a complete lack of confinement payment plans and which endence in camp officials. The Red are most important. Secondly, the Cross said language problems has study will attempt to find out what

Edmond O'Brien Likes 'Mystery'

Praises Japanese Women

KYOTO (INS) — To Hollywood star Edmond O'Brien, Japanese women have an "aura of mystery that American women in general do not."

"This is especially so when they wear their traditional kimono," the 41-year-old actor added. But O'Brien indicated he wasn't selling American women short. In fact, O'Brien, now in Kyoto for the filming of 20th Century-Fox's "Stopover: Tokyo," said he was expecting his wife to join him soon in his first visit to the land of the rising sun.

Another first impression? "Japanese kids are simply mad about baseball. It reminds me of New York," he reminisced, pointing out to the picturesque scenery of the ancient capital but to a group of boys lustily playing the game on a field across the street.

"And speaking of kids," the academy award winner continued, "in Japan you find them everywhere — and apparently they learn baseball practically as soon as they're old enough to walk."

In "Stopover: Tokyo," also starring Robert Wagner and Joan Col-ins, O'Brien has the villain's role. "I'm an American businessman who on the surface is a gay, golf playing fellow, but underneath is a villain."

Editor Urges Malaya to Bring in New Settlers

KUALA LUMPUR (U)—Dato Sir Onn bin Jaafar, president of Party Negara, says Malaya should follow the example of the United States and Australia in bringing in new settlers.

In an article in "Kritik," a magazine of which he is editor, he suggested the immigration of Indonesians on a quota system to the unpopulated east coast so that the Malays may not be outnumbered by the Chinese.

British Heirs Insure to Beat Death Duties

LONDON — British insurance firms are enjoying a boom in policies that cover the heirs of rich men against the crippling demands of inheritance taxes. How do the policies work? An insurance executive gave an example: "Say that Lord X gives a large part of his estate to his son to avoid death duties."

"His major worry is that he may die within five years, thus leaving the gift taxable. That's where we come in. The heir takes out a policy on his father's life for the five-year period. So if the father dies within five years, the son pays the tax on the whole estate, including the gifts — but recovers the money from the life policy."

And why not? For five years she has been queen of the test stages. It started when she landed at MGM in 1952.

"It couldn't have happened at a worse time," she sighed. "The bottom was falling out of everything in Hollywood. I went to the studio every day for a year, but all I did was take lessons. Dance lessons. Vocal lessons. Drama lessons. French lessons."

"I did eight bars of a song in a party scene of 'The Bad and the Beautiful.' Otherwise, all I did was tests. And tests. And tests."

"Finally they let me go," she recalled. "At MGM, they think it's the end of your life if you're dropped. It wasn't. They were giving Debbie Reynolds and Leslie Caron the big buildup, so there was no chance for me."

Peggy got married and quit her career for a year. But when the marriage didn't work out, she returned to singing. Then came that tomato sauce jangle.

"They wanted Ethel Merman to do it, but she asked for $50,000," Peggy said. "A fellow at MGM heard about it and said he knew a girl who would do it for $50."

Peggy got the job, and $85 including overtime. Out of it came a record contract and her job as George Gobel's forehead-leaning friend. The TV fame prompted interest from Paramount — and another test!

She didn't want to sign a contract and the studio had no picture for her. But — just to prove that nothing is wasted — it led to her role in "Zero Hour."

Delhi Changed to Dilli: Official Indian Spelling

NEW DELHI (U) — It's "Dilli," not "Delhi."

Officials of the Indian capital's Municipal Administration have ruled that the twin cities of Delhi and New Delhi should be spelled, in the Hindi and Urdu languages, as "Dilli" and "New Dilli." The officials say these spellings are closer to the correct pronunciation.

However, the English spelling will remain unchanged, the officials say, because the form of "Delhi" has "already gained international currency."

Frat Boys Sell Hearse Used for Transportation

DALLAS, Tex. (U)—Kappa Sigma fraternity boys sold the used hearse they bought as a cheap means of transportation.

"It's not that we're superstitious," said James Wilhelm of Tacoma, Wash., at Southern Methodist University. "We need the money."

Only one of the girls they took to the games and dances in the hearse objected.

"She said she wouldn't be caught dead in it," Wilhelm said.

Ready for the Summer shopping stampede?

June, July and August are busting out all over — in sales. Last year summer retail sales were $1,400,000,000 more than spring sales. Summer sales gains in 1956 over 1955 were 32% greater than gains for the average quarter for the rest of the year.*

Summertime is shopping time because shopping's easier. Days are longer and the weather is better. Our booming economy has given more people more money to spend. Last year civilian employment averaged an unprecedented 65 million and zoomed as high as 66.8 million people at the seasonal peak during the summer months!*

Daily newspaper circulation is highest ever, too—now up over 57,000,000. And it remains practically constant throughout the year. There is no summer replacement for the daily newspaper!

Each summer more and more advertisers — national, regional and local — are rushing their ads into newspapers to take advantage of the surge in summer buying. Make sure you get your share of summer sales. Use the daily newspaper this summer — all summer long.

All business is local...and so are all newspapers.

Elephant Plows Farm

DUBLIN — Lack of gasoline for plowing has put an elephant to work on Grange Farm at Lucan, County Dublin. Eire. Fossell Brothers' Circus has winter quarters there and "petrol rationing" meant economizing with the tractor. So "Blackie" the pachyderm pulls the plow. Sitting astride the elephant's back to guide him is Lou Singh, Cingalese mahout, who has been looking after elephants for 18 years in 15 countries.

Plan Big CAI Fair Grains Drop Weekend of June 21 Early Deals

Plans for the Community Activities Inc. Fair, to be held the weekend of June 21, 22 and 23, in Waterford Township, are almost complete, according to Robert Beattie Jr., general chairman.

The steering committee has been meeting each Tuesday night to organize the various phases of the project, and a call has been issued to residents for "white elephant" contributions. Chipped and cracked dishes for the "Smash the Dish" booth also are needed.

One of the highlights of the fair will be the crowning of the CAI queen. So far, 10 Waterford Township area girls have registered, according to Mrs. Robert Beattie, queen chairman.

Canisters have been distributed in stores throughout the community, and people may vote for their choice by dropping cash donations in the canisters. All monies collected from this source will be used for the CAI, Beattie said.

SPECIAL FOR CHILDREN
An amusement carnival will be featured, and on Saturday afternoon there will be special rates for children. Mrs. Carol Wolfe, will present a line of ballet dancers.

Friday, June 21, hundreds of balloons will be dropped over the area from an airplane. There will be free ride tickets in many of the balloons and those who receive the lucky ones, will have a chance of winning either a boy's or girl's bicycle.

Beattie has issued a call for all volunteer workers who will construct the booths for the fair, to

Canadian Dollar Sets New 24-Year High

NEW YORK (AP)—The Canadian dollar set a new 24-year high yesterday when it closed at $1.04 1/2 in U.S. dollars, an advance of 1/32 of the day.

The Canadian dollar now is only 1/16 of a cent below its all-time high of $1.05 1/2 set in 1933 just before this country went off the gold standard.

Foreign exchange dealers said the rise of the Canadian dollar is a result of insistent demand for U.S. investment funds by Canadian industry.

Proceeds of bond issues floated in the U.S. capital market may be changed into Canadian currency before they can be utilized north of the border. This steady demand keeps pushing up the price of the Canadian dollar in terms of U.S. currency.

CHICAGO (AP)—Only small price changes developed in early hour of Trade dealings today but the trend was toward the downside.

There were indications of some mill buying developing in the wheat pit, which caused slight strength there at times. However, there was general discouragement over possibility of extension of Public Law 480 for export of farm surpluses might not reach the House floor for action.

Some corn selling developed over continued clear planting weather and fairly heavy government sales to exporters.

Near the end of the first hour old style wheat was 1/2 higher, July $2.03 1/2, new style wheat was 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, July $2.03 1/2, corn was unchanged to 1/4 lower, July $1.28 1/2, oats were 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July $1.15 1/2, soybeans were 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, July $2.34, and hard was unchanged to 1/2 lower, July $1.03 1/2.

NBC to Foreclose Mortgage on 'Home' This Summer

-- Today's Radio Programs --

Arlene Getting 2 Other Shows

'Tonight' Program Also Likely to Vanish From Video Screens

NEW YORK (INS)—NBC is foreclosing the mortgage on "Home," its hints-to-housewives show. The exact date that "Home" will be evicted by the network hasn't been announced, but it will be sometime in late summer.

Never fear, Arlene Francis, hostess on the show since it started over three years ago, won't be out of a job. She's simply going to act as her own replacement.

Arlene will do a half-hour variety show in its place. The other half hour is yet to be filled.

Miss Francis also is scheduled to do what is vaguely described as "a half-hour nighttime show" at the start of the fall season. Which makes her suspensions even stronger that "Tonight" will fold and silently steal away, to be replaced by a block of "personality" shows such as Arlene's.

The network frankly admits that "service" shows for the ilk that instructs mama how to maneuver the Queen Elizabeth into port, because such knowledge might come in handy some day, or how to convert old beat-up nylons into dandy potholders have never received high ratings.

"Home," of course, is a decided cut above the usual sort of thing. Audience response came when Arlene wasn't talking about fashions or child care... but when she was chatting with stormily fascinating Diana Barrymore.

SINGER SOUGHT

Don McNeill of Radio's "Breakfast Club" is looking for a girl singer with "personality and warmth." Doesn't have to be sensationally beautiful (ah, radio) but must be poised and polished.

The jobs pays $30,000 a year, auditions are being held in Chicago.

She Zooms to Stardom in Italian, U.S. Movies

ROME (AP)—A bright new Italian star, only 18, is shooting up in Italy's film sky. And she has a pronounceable name—Giorgia Moll.

Slender, dark-haired Giorgia has just made the big jump from so-so Italian parts to American stardom in a production of Graham Greene's "The Quiet American." She plays the slinky Oriental girl who gets mixed up in a spy case in war-torn Indochina.

Although Giorgia lacks some of the more noticeable outward attributes of her better known Italian film sisters, she has plenty of other things to brag about—but doesn't.

For one thing, she speaks Italian, French, German and English—and is learning Russian in her spare time. For another, she's a beauty contest winner from way back.

And, she is about as modest a starlet as ever jumped into a stardom part overnight.

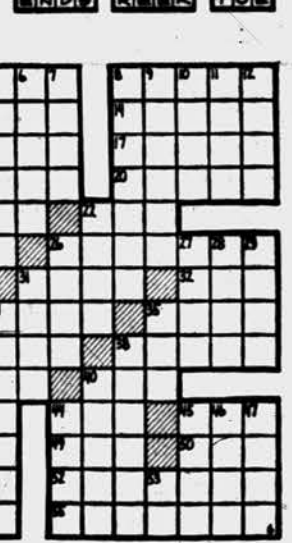

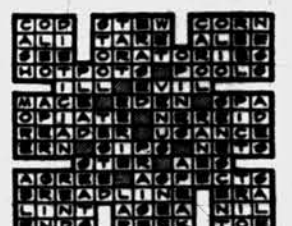

In a burst of self-analysis she once said: "What I need are the eyes of Elizabeth Taylor, the nose of Ava Gardner and the mouth of Marilyn Monroe."

"I'm just not a good-looking girl. That's why I'll never get anywhere in the film business." Apparently this opinion is not shared by very many. Since she started work in the film business four years back she's never been out of a job for a week—and this in a city which boasts thousands of out-of-work actors and actresses.

A close friend said recently of Giorgia: "She's successful enough to live and behave like a star. But she's young enough and unspoiled to want to live and behave like a healthy teenager."

Giorgia's biggest film role up to now was in the French-produced "Club of Women" made in 1954, "The Quiet American," when someone suggested he take

Canada Grounds U.S.-Built Bombers

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP)—Canada's navy has grounded its 16 American-built Banshee fighter-bombers until it finds out what caused two of the twin-jet planes to crash in May.

A spokesman in St. Louis, Mo., for the plane's builders—the McDonnell Aircraft Co.—said he had learned the grounding would be "very temporary" and that it resulted more from the effect of the crashes on the Canadian crews' morale than from any fault of the planes.

Two pilots were killed. The Canadian navy has been using the all-weather Banshees, whose top speed is estimated at around 600 miles per hour, for about two years. Eight of the jets have been flying training missions out of Halifax prior to being put aboard the new aircraft carrier have been used in training exercises at Rivers, Man.

Twice as popular

The "OK" trademark attracts more than twice as many used car prospects as any other symbol, according to a recent national survey

There are six big reasons why more people go out of their way to find the red OK. First, at Chevrolet dealers only top traders are passed by inspection experts to be sold as OK Used Cars.

You get value, plus. Each car is restored so beautifully you'd think it would have to cost much more. Volume trading on new Chevrolets means extra savings—makes OK Used Cars greater values.

In addition, every OK Used Car is reconditioned by your Chevrolet dealer for performance. His trained experts use only the most modern equipment to do the job of reconditioning properly.

And when you buy a reconditioned OK Used Car you can take it for granted the car you're buying will live up to what is said about it. Your Chevrolet dealer's reputation depends on that.

Safety is another important OK factor. Every car your Chevrolet dealer takes in trade is gone over from bumper to bumper to assure customers his cars will be both dependable and good looking.

The signature on the written warranty that is given with every OK Used Car is further evidence that your Chevrolet dealer sincerely believes in the car you buy. See your Chevrolet dealer soon.
