Ike Aide Says State Will Get Defense Work

Rise of Jobless in Area Now 'Critical'; GM Mum on Pontiac Layoffs

DETROIT (AP)—An aide to President Eisenhower predicts "something will be done speedily" by the federal government about Michigan's growing labor surplus caused by automotive industry layoffs.

Howard Pyle, a White House administrative aide, said yesterday that the President's Economic Council is giving the state's surplus labor problem a thorough-going study.

In predicting speedy action, Pyle said it perhaps would come through the channeling of defense contracts to Michigan.

Both Gov. G. Mennen Williams and Detroit Mayor Albert E. Cobo have appealed to the federal government to declare Michigan an area of critical labor surplus. Williams renewed last week a plea made previously.

Officially Washington so far has taken no action on either appeal, however, there were indications that some Michigan cities might be listed this week. Such designation gives areas priority on defense contracts.

Pyle, however, described Michigan unemployment as seasonal and said it was declining in a speech to a Detroit meeting of Oakland and Wayne County Republican Women.

"I don't believe it is any sign of a softening of the high level national prosperity," he explained.

A tapering off in auto production was expected to continue this week over Michigan, bringing additional layoffs.

Practically all industry sources predicted May would be the lowest production month thus far this year.

General Motors Corp. declined to confirm reports that 550 workers were laid off yesterday at the Pontiac Division in Pontiac and that another 50 would be furloughed by the Fisher Body Division.

Pentagon Heads Tussle With Service Rivalry

AP Wirephoto

Senators to Probe Service Feud

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Chavez (D-NM) said today a Senate Appropriations subcommittee he heads will investigate a row among the armed services over basic defense policies.

* * *

Secretary of Defense Wilson had sought to avert an inquiry by calling top civilian and uniformed officers of the three services yesterday to a joint news conference designed to play down the squabble.

Wilson said he doesn't think a congressional investigation is needed or that it would do any good.

"I wouldn't think so," he said in reply to a question. "I have confidence that I'm getting my military advice from the right people. I think the country thinks so too."

Chavez, who had said earlier he thinks top tofficials of the Army, Navy and Air Force are acting like prima donnas, told a reporter today:

"We plan to have the high brass of all three services in here, and ask them why is it they are bickering."

'LITTLE HURRICANE'

Wilson described the new public row as a "little hurricane" and said he wants to end it before it becomes serious. "I think," he said, "the eager beavers are gnawing down some of the wrong trees." He declined to elaborate.

Wilosn was flanked at the news conference by the secretaries of the three services and the four members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The trouble broke out Saturday with the publication of several news stories based on papers "leaked" by still unidentified officers whom Army and Air Force chiefs described yesterday as colonels or people of lesser rank.

* * *

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, the Army and Air Force chiefs of staff, disavowed much of the material that had become public over the weekend purportedly representing their services' views.

NOT SERIOUS

Sen. Thye (R-Minn), a member of Chavez's subcommittee, told a reporter he considers the inter-service dispute is not serious, and could have been expected with three branches elbowing each other for shares of the defense budget.

The White House declined comment on the row yesterday, and Wilson told newsmen he had not discussed it with President Eisenhower—"I don't know whether I haven't caught up with him or he hasn't caught up with me."

Press Pot-O-Gold Contest to Offer Excitement, Prizes

If you've ever worked a crossword puzzle all the way through, perhaps you've had a similar thought.

Your chance is on the way—next Monday when The Pontiac Press will open its summer POT-O-GOLD contest, a new word puzzle that is as intriguing as any crossword you ever saw.

Readers who come up with the correct solutions will win weekly cash prizes of $100, plus an additional bonus of $25 for being Press subscribers of record.

And that's not all.

If any week should go by without a solution, the Press will add another $100—and so on every week until someone becomes a winner.

Constructed by a group of the nation's leading crossword puzzle experts, POT-O-GOLD consists of a series of jumbled letters which, when put together, form simple words. The trick is to solve the clues given in accompanying stories or anecdotes.

For example, you might be given the letter A, T and R with the clue: "This can cause real harm in the house." The solution to this portion of the puzzle would be RAT.

The contest will run weekly until Labor day and will be open to any person who submits a solution on the official entry blank printed in The Press. Send in as many as you wish. The only people who will be ineligible will be employes of The Press or members of their families.

Each contest will consist of one puzzle which will be reprinted

Naples Strews Truman Path With Flowers

* * *

The Italians — and the Americans — loved him in Rome but their warm welcomes paled in comparison to the enthusiastic greeting he received when he arrived in Naples late yesterday.

"This is fantastic," said the surprised and beaming former president, who had been rousingly cheered only a few hours before by 300 U.S. embassy employes in Rome.

Truman and Mrs. Truman had planned to spend today sightseeing beginning with a trip to Salerno, where the Allies established their first beachhead in Europe in 1943. Later, they were to go to Paestum where there are many ancient Greek and Roman ruins.

Wurtsmith Airmen Lead in Competition

OSCODA (AP) — The 445th Fighter Interceptor Squadron of Wurtsmith Air Force Base held the lead with 1,000 points today in the second day of the 30th Air Division's rocketry competition.

Poor flying weather held up the start of competition.

The 42nd Squadron of Pittsburgh and the 80th of Youngstown, Ohio, failed to score. Two squadrons from Selfridge Air Force Base at Mount Clemens and one from Niagra Falls failed to get into action because of the last start.

The shoot is expected to last at least five days.

Johnson Stock Rises

DALLAS (INS) — Sen. Lyndon Johnson's stock as the No. 1 dark horse candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination rose today as the state convention began in Dallas.

Measles Delays Trip of U.S.-Korean Tots

TOKYO (AP) — Measles tonight postponed the airlift of 16 tiny Korean-American orphans to new homes in the United States.

One little girl turned up with the disease and doctors diagnosed two more "probable cases."

Two U.S. doctors said the cases were not critical but they ordered the tots isolated for at least 21 days.

The orphans—children of American servicemen and Korean girls—arrived last night by air from Seoul. World Vision, Inc., which supports 101 orphanages in South Korea, is sponsoring mass adoptions.

He's No Idler Hater

MARSHALL, Ill. (INS) — Farmer Ronald Medsker, 32, said in a jail cell today that he hates parking meters. He proved his violent dislike of them by driving into town at night, running his truck over the curb and smashing 41 of the 45 meters on the Marshall city square.

Complete Plans for EBI Session at City Schools

Business, Industry Men Will Observe Classes, Meet Teachers

Plans are complete for Educational — Business — Industry Day Wednesday, according to J. Cecil Cox, assistant superintendent of schools, in charge of school arrangements for the program.

Some 150 local business and industry men will gather at Pontiac High School at at 8:45 a. m. for an orientation program followed at 10 by a tour through one of 25 public or three parochial schools.

These classroom tours, Cox said, will impart information regarding new methods of teaching plus information regarding use of new equipment.

Depending on the school, visitors will tour classrooms to see education as it is today, Cox said.

Lunch at noon at each school will find teachers as hosts to the visitors in an informal question and answer period concerning that particular school's operation and ideas of education, Cox said.

If they desire, the representatives of business and industry will return to Pontiac High School at 1:30 for further questions and answers. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of schools, will explain the building program for schools in Pontiac during this special session.

Army to Display Disputed Nike

Rockets to Be Blasted in New Mexico Today Before Newsmen

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N. M. (AP)—The Army fires sometime today, weather permitting, its controversial ground-to-air missile, the Nike, in a demonstration in southern New Mexico.

* * *

Principal interest in the three-day demonstration is expected to center around the Nike itself—a pencil-slim instrument of war which has figured prominently in recent days in a running dispute between the military services.

* * *

In addition to seeing the actual firing, the newsmen will be taken on a tour of training facilities for men who form the Nike battalions.

It was at nearby Ft. Bliss, Tex., that the first such Nike battalion was formed several years ago. Training now is being conducted there for other troops who will handle the ground-to-air rocket in the future as a part of the nation's antiaircraft defenses.

* * *

Prior to the briefing there was no official word whether a three-day embargo on news coverage of the event would be maintained as originally announced. Pentagon officials originally set the embargo, they said, because of limited communication facilities and a desire to give all news media an equal break.

'Farmers' Aide Starts Serving 4½-5 Year Term

State Supreme Court Turns Down Appeal in Lapeer Evictions

Clayton C. Gilliland arrived at Jackson Prison yesterday, but no one knows how long he will stay.

The fiery leader of rebellious Lapeer County farmers entered the prison by ambulance, after a last-minute legal maneuver to keep the gates from closing behind him had failed.

He may still launch an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Gilliland has played a major role for many years in the stormy proceedings in which Lapeer County farmers fought what they considered illegal assessments levied against them in the 1953 failure of a mutual fire insurance company.

Yesterday Gilliland and his attorney drove to Judge Timothy Quinn's courtroom in Lapeer Circuit Court, armed with letters from two Detroit doctors saying he should not make the trip to Jackson.

Judge Quinn had Gilliland examined by Dr. Harry B. Zimmer, who reported him fit to make the trip, and the central figure in the eviction hassles began his ride to Jackson.

* * *

Gilliland was convicted of conspiracy to obstruct justice Dec. 24, 1953, and was later sentenced to 4½ to 5 years in prison by Judge Quinn. He had been free on $5,000 bond, pending two attempted appeals to the state supreme court.

RETRIAL SOUGHT

Leo Hoffman, Gilliland's attorney from Allegan, sought a retrial, charging that it was improper to convict one man of conspiracy, while acquitting three others.

The motion for retrial was dismissed by Judge Quinn, and the state supreme court upheld this action.

The violence which Gilliland was convicted of conspiring toward came at the home of a widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens, on June 2, 1952.

An angry crowd of 150 tossed Lapeer County Sheriff Clark Gregory and his deputy Ronald Reedy back into their car when the law officers attempted to evict Mrs. Stevens.

LOST 80-ACRE FARM

Mrs. Stevens lost her 80-acre farm for failure to pay an $171 assessment against it, levied after the 1935 failure of the Lapeer Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Assn.

Village of Portland Really Turns Out to Welcome Mayor Donaldson, Wife

Charles F. Gilden, Pontiac's "mayor for a day" yesterday spent a leisurely time touring the city. But up in Portland where Mayor William W. Donaldson was visiting, it was a different story.

The festivities were part of the Mayor Exchange program of Michigan Week, now in progress.

They rolled out the red carpet for the mayor and Mrs. Donaldson, as the small village of 3,400 was draped with welcoming signs and had a 50-piece high school band to greet the visitors.

But 66-year-old Gilden didn't want it this way in Pontiac. He requested a quiet welcoming so he could "just see the sights that makes Pontiac famous." And he did.

After a tour through the City Hall and luncheon at the Waldron Hotel, Acting City Manager Lewis Wrenn and Parks and Recreation Director Dave Ewalt took the visitor through a conducted tour of Pontiac Motor Division.

"Things certainly have changed here since 12 years ago when I visited Pontiac," President Gilden said. "City officials and all the people can be very proud of their beautiful City Hall."

Meanwhile, up in Portland, midway between Lansing and Grand Rapids, Mayor and Mrs. Donaldson were welcomed by a parade through the business district and led by the band. The mayor later received a key to the city.

All the fanfare was against the wishes of Mayor Donaldson and Gilden. After the Portland official left the city, the reception committee "went to town" and decorated the city to receive the visitors from Pontiac.

There was a luncheon and tea for Mrs. Donaldson and a Kiwanis Club luncheon for the mayor. A dinner in the evening climaxed the day.

"The wholesome, friendly attitude of the people made us both feel very welcome," Mayor Donaldson related.

Bookkeeper Admits to Embezzling

FROM AP and INS WIRES

NORFOLK, Va. — Miss Minnie Mangum, a plump Norfolk spinster noted for her generosity, pleaded guilty yesterday to embezzling more than a million dollars from the company she served as secretary-treasurer.

The 58-year-old ex-bookkeeper stood in a crowded courtroom and entered her plea of guilty in a voice hardly audible.

Brought to trial on an indictment containing 22 counts of embezzlement, she pleaded guilty to the 22nd, representing an aggregate of the other counts. It accused her of taking $1,082,968.25 from the now defunct Commonwealth Building and Loan Association of Norfolk.

The thefts allegedly occurred between December 1933, and December 1955.

The indictment was one of 16 brought against her after bank examiners launched a probe late last year. She still faces trial on charges she took a total of $2,884,000 from the building and loan association over a period of 22 years.

Last Thursday, a jury found Miss Manguin guilty of lying to Virginia's Banking Regulatory Agency. She was given the maximum punishment of 10 years imprisonment.

She remains free on $40,000 bond with sentencing on the charge expected after the other 14 indictments are disposed of.

The 190-pound woman was a highly respected resident of Portsmouth across the Elizabeth River from Norfolk. She had enjoyed a reputation for generosity to her family, friends and church.

Employed by Commonwealth for 28 years, her last position was that of assistant secretary-treasurer of the firm.

HIRED BY GIRLS

A bright young girl who knew what bookkeeping was all about may have been the downfall of Miss Minnie.

As assistant secretary-treasurer, Miss Minnie handled the books and hired pure girls who knew her system of card accounting.

Last September she hired Mrs. Robert G. Cannon, wife of a sailor stationed at the big naval base here. Mrs. Cannon, 21, had worked at a building and loan firm back in her home town of Waukegan, Ill.

From the start, she didn't like the way Miss Minnie handled the accounting system.

One day in November, while a group of state auditors were in the office, the two women quarreled over a missing account card and Mrs. Cannon called Miss Minnie a liar for saying she didn't know about the card.

Fifteen minutes later Mrs. Cannon was out of a job. But she told the auditors all she knew.

And on Dec. 16, they swooped down in a surprise check on Commonwealth and found the firm's finances in such disarray that the company went under. The shortages totaled nearly three million dollars.

WEST PATERSON, N.J. (UP) — A 40-year-old Russian refugee woman, her infant daughter in her arms, waded to death in a pond yesterday.

The bodies of Mrs. Rosa Thormat and 4-month-old Futmat Thormat were found after the woman's husband Boris returned home from work and reported them missing.

"I am taking with me, Futmat. My heart is very weak. I don't want to live more in this world."

Police said the note absolved her husband of any blame.

Biggest H-Bomb Fouled 7,000 Miles of Pacific

WASHINGTON (UP) — The test hydrogen blast of March 1, 1954, which contaminated an area of 7,000 square miles with radioactivity presumably remains the mightiest so far set off by the United States, and presumably Russia too.

* * *

That titanic blast — unofficially estimated to have the force of 17 million tons of TNT — brought about international repercussions, and led to appeals by Japan, India and some other countries for a banning of further tests.

BIGGER SHOT

It was believed mightier by far than the United States' first pioneering test of a hydrogen "device" in the Pacific in November, 1952. Yet that earlier "shot" was itself sufficient to obliterate an entire island in the Pacific and tear a hole in the ocean floor a mile wide and 175 feet deep.

The March 1, 1954, "shot" exhibited a force about double what scientists had calculated. But AEC officials denied some unofficial statements that it amounted to a "runaway."

The United States has never disclosed exactly how many hydrogen bombs or "devices" it has tested.

Escaped Convict Terrorizes Town

Armed Thug Kills Pal; Kidnaps Police; Holes Up in Populated Area

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. (AP) — An armed, escaped convict, who kidnaped two detectives, stole their automobile and shot and killed his own companion, was believed holed up in a populated area west of here today.

* * *

7-MILE CHASE

The fugitive was identified as James Carter, 32, an auto thief and three-time loser from Rochester who escaped Saturday night from jail in Watkins Glen about 125 miles east of this southwestern New York city.

* * *

His companion in the break, John Dedrick, 23, of Corning, was killed last night as the climax of a bullet-splattered chase over a seven-mile route from Jamestown to Boomertown, the center of today's search.

DIES AT WHEEL

Dedrick died at the wheel of the police car the pair had stolen in Jamestown. Manacled in the back seat were Detectives Earl Stafford and Patrick Walen.

The car careened into a shed in the Boomertown Oil and Lumber yard.

* * *

The two detectives were not injured. They were investigating a house burglary here yesterday and stopped the two fugitives in the street to question them, without suspecting who they were. The men pulled out revolvers and forced them into the back seat of the patrol car.

* * *

and that the farm was sold illegally by the State Insurance Commissioner, acting as receiver, to satisfy judgments against her.

Besides being a spokesman for Mrs. Stevens, Gilliland, a one-time Detroit private dectective, also was a representative of the aged Ziegenhardt brothers, Chris and Paul, who refused to redeem their 240-acre farm for an assessment of $280.

Following the fracas at the Stevens farm, the widow was evicted forcefully July 11, 1952 by Sheriff Gregory, backed up by 60 state troopers who sealed off the area to prevent possible violence by the agitated farmers. Mrs. Stevens has since died.

A further appeal by Gilliland, claiming a right to appeal to the state supreme court under a statute which was passed after his conviction, was also turned down.

This action was taken last Monday, precipitating the move to a prison cellblock for the controversial adviser who figured so prominently in the shenanigans which brought national attention to the dusty back roads of Lapeer County over the past 20 years.

A proctocol signed at The Hague, Holland, by 26 nations, proposes to boost the liability of an air carrier to $16,582 for a death or an injury during international flight.

Gunpowder Burns Clarkston Youngster

A nine-year-old Clarkston boy was in good condition at Pontiac General Hospital after suffering burns of the face and hands from ignited gunpowder in the yard of his home last night.

Jack A. Passage was reportedly burned when his father's plan to light a string of powder spread across the yard backfired and burst into flames where the boy stood.

Investigating Oakland County deputies said the boy's father, Albert A. Passage, had strung out a line of powder with a pile of it at one end intending to have it burn to the pile and create a big spark.

They reported the powder was evidently lighted from the wrong end causing it to flare up in front of the youngster. Deputies said the power had apparently been taken from shotgun shells.

Oakland and Wayne GOP Women Hear Ike Aide

Luncheon Climaxes Fund Drive

Former Gov. Pyle of Arizona Speaks to 1,000

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE

* * *

The wind-up luncheon climaxed a fund-raising campaign which began in April and which added $76,000 to the party's general campaign fund.

Six hundred women in Oakland County, under the direction of Mrs. Brooks Marshall of Birmingham, raised $18,579 of this amount.

Twice elected governor of Arizona, and now administrative aide to President Eisenhower, Pyle arrived from Washington to address the women at Hotel Sheraton-Cadillac, Detroit.

* * *

The speaker pointed to the fact that the little woman simply can't be dismissed so easily any more.

HOLD PURSE-STRINGS

Statistics, he said, remind us that women own half of the corporation stock in the U. S., and 65 per cent of all saving accounts in banks are in the names of women. And, he added, more than 80 per cent of the spending in this country is done by women.

* * *

Pointing to the domestic situation, Pyle told the women that those in the White House are acutely aware of the seasonal decline in employment in this area, but, he said, "I do not believe, nor do any of us, that this is any sign of a continuing softening of the high level of national prosperity."

There is an upward trend in expenditures which is expected to continue, he said.

The speaker said that we have not depleted our defense budget, stating that mutual security expenditures are part of a national insurance policy.

* * *

"Two years ago our European allies were spending for defense purposes $3 for every $1 received from the United States. These countries are now spending the equivalent of $6 of their own money for every dollar."

VIGOROUS IKE

Pyle reported on the health of President Eisenhower, saying that he is as full of vigor as ever and that he has more time for constructive work of the White House than before, since being relieved of trivial tasks.

* * *

The speaker told of the respect and admiration aides have for the President, and said, his "bigness is transmitted to the entire staff."

Pyle said that the presidential campaign will be hard fought on the local level and warned the women to "take care of your homework."

"Do your homework, get it down straight and then pour it on," Pyle urged his audience, as he said, "We can't possibly win with Michigan outside the family."

* * *

Pyle said that there is a historical cycle and that the "cycle moves from bondage to spiritual faith, from spiritual faith to courage, courage to freedom, freedom to abundance, abundance to selfishness, selfishness to apathy, apathy to dependency, and from dependency back to bondage."

* * *

In closing the speaker said that we are fortunate to have President Eisenhower to give us four more years in the Republican Party's "unlimited future."

First Lady Candidates

Mamie Would Be Cinch at the Polls

She's the world's most important hostess—America's "First Lady." Will Mamie Eisenhower hold that position again? Or will it be Nancy Kefauver? Or Marie Harriman? Who'll be Adali Stevenson's first lady if he's elected? In this series of articles, Ruth Montgomery provides close-up looks at the "first lady candidates."

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (INS) — If Americans elected first ladies instead of presidents, a former meat packer's daughter could probably sweep the nation by a landslide.

* * *

Bubbling, breezy, blue-eyed Mamie Doud Eisenhower has already proved her mettle in the sometimes onerous, always unpaid job as chatelaine of the White House.

Family chatter about heart ailments was old-hat to Mamie long before President Ike developed ticker trouble. She has lived with a heart murmur since early childhood, when her wealthy, doting parents began taking her to Texas each winter from Denver's mile-high altitude.

Except for avoiding plane rides whenever possible, Mrs. Eisenhower has valiantly declined to let her heart condition interfere with the official duties that inevitably swamp a first lady. In fact, her health has never been better than during the past two years in the White House.

Mamie, who tasted bitter sorrow with the death of her first-born son, Dwight Doud, of scarlet fever 35 years ago, is today a happy, doting grandmother.

Maj. John Eisenhower and his wife live nearby at Ft. Belvoir, Va., and their four lively youngsters overrun the White House to the delight of Grandpa Ike and Mamie.

AIDED BY MOTHER

Mrs. John Sheldon Doud, the First Lady's witty mother whom Ike long ago nicknamed "Min" for his favorite comic-strip character, also shares the hectic pace of the Eisenhower menage, except when playing hostess to the first family at the "Little White House" in Denver.

* * *

Mamie, with less time for canasta and Bolivia these days, has been pinch-hitting for her famous husband when presidents of national

Wiser to the ways of officialdom than four years ago, Mamie now limits her receptions for women to 100 or 200 guests each. Even so, in an average week she pumps as many hands as a candidate for county sheriff.

TYPICAL WEEK

Consider a typical week this month:

Returning from Gettysburg with organizations and veterans' groups clamor for a White House handshake.

Blooming like one of her own peonies since the Gettysburg "dreamhouse" was actually completed, she shuttles back and forth by car for blissful weekends in the country. Not for Mamie, however, are such strenuous hobbies as gardening, golfing and fishing.

An exercise hater, she plays scrabble with her mother, flicks the TV dials, attends to household chores and curls up on the patio with her favorite historical novels. Come Monday, and she is back in the Washington harness again.

* * *

Ike on Monday, she posed for pictures with the Mother of the Year, entertained Senate wives at a distaff luncheon, opened a new center for the Goodwill Industries, received the Daughters of the Society for Cincinnati, held a reception for out-of-town acquaintances, opened the National Cathedral flower mart, posed for pictures with leaders of several worthy groups, and entertained a group of children afflicted with cerebral palsy.

* * *

Add to this the supervisory job of running the White House, and a never-ending correspondence of several hundred letters a week, and you wonder when Mamie's salary will begin.

Mrs. Ike, with her vivacious charm and breezy slang, has a way about her. She captivates old and young alike, just as 39 years ago she enthralled a young second lieutenant while visiting with her parents at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio, Tex.

Ike Eisenhower, something of a lady-killer himself, took one look at the laughing-eyed girl with the Lillian Gish bangs and promptly invited her for a stroll around the fort. Then he tried to make a date, but popular Mamie was booked for an entire month.

* * *

With determined perseverance, Ike kept calling until the teenaged charmer finally gave in. They were married eight months later, after a Valentine's Day engagement.

YOUTHFUL RADIANCE

Today, Mamie's youthful radiance belies her nearly 60 years and continually confuses White House callers, who sometimes gasp: "But I expected to meet a much older woman!"

* * *

Having sacrificed her favorite hobby—shopping for bargains in department stores—the First Lady now orders from newspaper ads, meets her duplicate dresses at parties and flag-raisings, merrily takes her glass-house existence on the chin, and dotes on Ike.

Teased by former Denver beaux who complained that they never could see what Ike had that they didn't, she giggled gayly: "Yes, but look at him now!"

Mamie would prefer the quiet life of Gettysburg to the White House fishbowl, but she loves her man. If he thinks the country needs him, she'll be right here in Washington, gripping strange hands for another four years—the voters willing.

Oldsters Stay Youthful by Singing

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I promised, to tell you today about the "Singing Seniors." They are really a glee club, formed under the direction and with the financial aid of the Musicians' Emergency Fund, and at the request of the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies.

* * *

This group is unusual because the average age is 70, the youngest member being 65 and the oldest 90 years of age. I had heard about them and was eager to see and hear them. I had that pleasure not long ago.

First I must tell you that they look like a much younger group, not only because of their appearance but because of their humor, enthusiasm and general outlook. Four members showed up for practice following one of the big snowstorms in New York, when the weather and traffic were far from normal.

I had wondered how a choral group of that age would sound. They sang beautifully and their voices were lovely. Only once in a long time, on a very high note, would you even suspect them to be an older group.

* * *

They were organized a little more than a year ago. Today they have 37 members, 26 women and 11 men. They come from six homes for the aged and from two Golden Age Clubs. You can tell that they love what they are doing. Their enthusiasm and that of their director is contagious.

I asked what these men and women had done in their more active years. Among them are a graduate nurse, a teacher, a pastry chef, a wrestler, a librarian, a housewife, a designer and a stenographer.

* * *

They have been very successful ever since their first appearance. They sing at homes for the aged, at churches, and on radio. After their performance in a home for the aged a social period follows, and the group has its own parties too.

You can tell what a fine time these older people are having. They meet their new friends at each practice session and at parties. They take their song books home and practice and sometimes sing solos for the people in their own home for the aged.

They take great pride in their work. One woman said, "This keeps us young. We are going forward rather than backward." Another, eagerly, "We have improved, haven't we?" They are eager to progress and interested in branching out into television.

Here's a salute to the Singing Seniors and to all of the older folks they make happy.

Hotel Hostess Can't Rely on Charm

By ANNE HEYWOOD

There's all the difference in the world between reading about a foreign country in a travel book and actually visiting the place.

* * *

Sometimes it turns out to be better than you visualized it and sometimes worse—but it's always very different.

The same thing is true, only more so, about jobs. Particularly about jobs in the hotel field.

Many women, judging by my mail, think that working in a hotel is just like being hostess in your own home.

They say, "I would like to become banquet manager in a hotel because I just loved giving dinner parties when my husband was alive."

DESCRIBE TALENTS

Then they go on to tell how good they are at arranging flowers, making canapes, supervising the maid-of-all-work and putting the guests at ease.

* * *

The hotel field, and particularly the job of banquet manager, takes a lot more than charm and flower-arranging.

In fact, it is such a grueling job women banquet executives are as scarce as can be.

One of the few that I know is Evelyn Robinson, who works in a large New York hotel. And while it's true that she has charm—a lot of it—she also has certain other corollary abilities.

* * *

For example, she has detailed knowledge of the price down to the penny of hundreds of dishes; ability to handle labor relations with an enormus staff; detailed knowledge of liquor regulations; details of the entertainment taxes, fire regulations and licensing; complete knowledge of every aspect of the hotel and how it runs; the ability to remain charming with a thousand urgent details pressing in on her all at once.

SOME 'WAYS IN'

If you're still intrested in the hotel field, here are some "ways in." Start as a desk clerk, especially if you've taken a course in hotel work. But best bet of all is via office skills.

If you are a good switchboard operator or typist, that's an in. If you're a top secretary, you might be lucky enough to get in as the manager's secretary.

That according to Mrs. Robinson and others in the field, is the best way.

Also, such jobs are usually a five-day week, which is not true of Mrs. Robinson's job!

But be very sure that you're really interested enough in hotel work to take the time—and it's usually long—to work up into the job you want.

NOTHING LIKE HOME

Be sure you really like the pressure and hectic atmosphere, because working in a hotel is not one single bit like being the hostess in your own home!

* * *

If you want further information about jobs in the hotel field, send me a stamped self-addressed envelope in care of the Pontiac Press and I'll send it to you.

See Flood Relief at Troy

Residents Ask Fast Relief

City May Use Monies Advanced by Property Owners

TROY — Emergency drainage procedure will be discussed by the city's attorney at the special commission meeting tonight at 8 p.m. at the Troy City Hall.

If the attorney rules it feasible legally, the city may use money advanced from property owners to start construction of drains. Flooding of subdivisions has brought residents and city officials to seek faster relief than through the regular channels of having a county assessment district formed. The county method would require several months, officials say.

Using property owners' funds immediately would set a precedent for other anti-flood projects, according to Clifton Truesdell, acting city manager.

The city's representative to the North Evergreen Sewage Disposal Authority is to be named tonight and is expected by officials to be Harry McLennan, who has been doing special assignments for the community for many years in the drain and water field.

He represented the city, with a letter authorizing him from City Clerk Lawson Lockhart, at this morning's meeting in Bloomfield Hills, the initial gathering of the Authority.

Plans for a sewage disposal project will be considered and commissioners will study proposed ordinances on food handling and justice court costs.

Transfer Books to City Library

Westacres Branch Shut; Walled Lake Unit Tells Financial Standing

WALLED LAKE — The books owned by the West Bloomfield Township Branch Library at Westacres have been transferred to the new library at Walled Lake city, it was revealed today by the Library Planning Board.

The Westacres branch at 7200 Cedar Bank was closed recently. The building is now being used for storage by the West Bloomfield Township Police Department.

The big task of moving the books was performed by several board members with the help of four local youths who donated their services. They were Leon and Oliver Sova, Mike Smith and David Charney. Local cleaners loaned a truck.

It was estimated that 2,000 books were involved in the transfer, boosting the board's grand total of about 3,500.

In reporting on the financial standing, Treasurer Mrs. Omar Joramo disclosed that a total of $244.33 was raised from Tag Days. The Twin Beach PTA has approved a donation of $50 to the board fund and Ben Schneider, local real estate salesman, pledged $10 each month for a year.

BAPTIST MANOR — Above is architect's idea of how the $1,000,000 Baptist Manor for retired persons will look upon completion on a 30-acre site in Farmington Township. Detroit Baptists hope to house 250 or more retired men and women there.

Purchase Site on 13 Mile Road, Farmington Township

Baptists to Build $1,000,000 Manor for Retired Folks

By MARY CELINSKE
Farmington Correspondent

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — A modern, $1,000,000 home and cottages for the aged, to be known as Baptist Manor, will soon be built on a 30-acre site opposite Glen Oaks Country Club on 13 Mile road here.

For years the Detroit Baptists have been planning the project to care for persons in the area who have reached the age of retirement.

Plans and drawings for the proposed project have already been made by Schreve, Walker & Associates, architects and engineers, and have received favorable comment wherever they have been viewed.

The main buildings, to be constructed first, will include an infirmary, library, lounge, conference room, chapel, and dining room and kitchens, as well as single rooms and apartments for about 40 residents. In the future, single cottages will be added to house couples or members of one family.

To give adequate outlet for their energies, recreational facilities are also being planned. Residents who have been busy all their lives need not spend their declining years in a rocking chair. There will be many useful and interesting things for them to do. Arts and crafts will be offered and those individuals with a "green thumb" will have a chance for flower and vegetable gardens.

Baptist Manor is a philanthropic, non-profit organization, however, it is not intended as a home for indigent "inmates." It will be a comfortable, dignified residence for retired individuals and couples who do not wish to live alone or with relatives. Cost of living at the manor will be on a monthly basis with no thought of profit on the part of the management.

"It is hoped that in time Baptist Manor will be the home of 250 or more retired men and women," said Edward R. Broad, executive secretary. "Many of them will be fully able to support themselves, some will have limited income. Cost of living at the manor will almost have to be determined on each individual case. No one, however, will be turned away solely because of lack of funds."

"Care of the aged is fast becoming a major problem with more than 12,000,000 persons aged 65 or over in this country," said the Rev. Warner Cole, pastor of Covenant Baptist Church.

"By 1970 there will be 17,000,000, most of whom will not be indigent, but cannot maintain homes of their own. In today's small homes there simply is not space for aging grandparents who need care. Residences like Baptist Manor are rapidly becoming a necessity."

Albert M. Cole, federal housing and home finance administrator, has said that homes for the elderly appear to be a priority item in enactment of new housing legislature this year, and urges that such housing be provided through private financing.

Baptist Manor is affiliated with the Detroit Missionary Society and the American Baptist Convention. Offices are located at 507 Farwell Bldg., Detroit. Wesley O. Walker is chairman of the board of directors.

GM Names Officials for Dealer Program

DETROIT (AP)—In another move to advance General Motors dealer relations program, the several GM car divisions have named executives to handle the program at the division level.

Appointments are being made, the announcements say to "give dealers a direct line of communication to the top management" of the division. This was the explanation of the appointment several weeks ago of Ivan L. Wiles, former general manager of Buick division, to head up the dealer relations program at the corporation level.

In each instance the divisional level officials are being appointed executive assistants to the general manager of the division. The announcements said that the new executives will be charged with the responsibility of continuously surveying dealer opinion so that problems affecting dealers generally will be handled promptly and properly.

Stock Market Drifts Lower

* * *

The opening was active and more and more losers appeared as the trading pace slowed down.

Most fluctuations were fractional but there were some losses of around a point and a scattering of gainers as well.

* * *

Among opening blocks was Standard Oil (California) off 1 at 104 on 1,500 shares, later extending the loss fractionally; Houston Oil up ¼ at 163 on 2,500 and Chrysler off ¼ at 62½ on 1,000.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem lost fractionally. Allied Chemical, United Aircraft and International Paper gave up around a point.

Cutler-Hammer jumped a point on news of a 2-for-1 stock split and a higher dividend.

* * *

Yesterday the Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined $1.80 to $183.50 in a day of dull trading unmarked by any outstanding news events bearing on the market. Analysts described it as a further technical reaction in line with recent stock market behavior.

300 Michigan Children Die Yearly in Home Accidents

ANN ARBOR (INS)—Dr. Harry A. Townsley, professor of pediatrics at the University of Michigan reports "More than 300 Michigan children die every year in home accidents."

He said 10 times as many are crippled for life because of inadequate safety precautions.

Young children are apt to become home accident victims, he warned, unless safeguards are taken by parents.

He pointed out the most common source of injury is a short fall from a bed or bassinet where a baby too close to the edge rolls off.

The doctor also cautioned against the baby's desire to chew. He said many babies get lead poisoning from the crib paint, or burns from munching electrical cord.

Dr. Towsley said many infants who supposedly die from suffocation actually may have had severe pneumonia. He suggests any bed-time difficulty in breathing by babies should be checked.

He also warned against razor blades, sharp, heavy or poisonous objects, firearms and dangerous stairways.

"Kissing away the baby's hurt," the doctor concluded, "may only be an invitation to major disaster. You should explain dangers to children when they begin to move around the home."

"The Actor" by Niven Busch and "Selected Novels of W. Somerset Maugham" were among 95 books banned by censors in Dublin, Eire, as "indecent or obscene."

Vets Council to Aid in Getting Benefits

The Oakland County Council of Veterans will discuss means of assisting the chartered veterans' organizations in obtaining benefits for veterans and their dependents at the next regular meeting to be held Thursday, June 7, at 8:30 p.m. at the American Legion Building in Birmingham.

The discussions will be in accordance with various bills proposed by the veteran organizations.

Increased tax assessments, the possibility of having all non-service connected benefits discontinued, and a vote on a future meeting place will be among the major items on the agenda.
