Waterford Schools Seek 9-Mill Tax Hike

By DICK ROBINSON

Waterford Township voters will be asked to pass a one-year, 9-mill property tax increase Nov. 25 to provide money to put some 18,500 children back on full-day classes.

The millage amount was decided by the board of education last night. It also agreed to appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court an Oakland County Circuit Court ruling that it must restore full-day classes by Nov. 3.

At the same time, school trustees canceled a proposed bond issue that had been slated for the same ballot.

The 9-mill levy — $9 per 1,000 of assessed property evaluation — for the 1970-71 school year would provide just enough funds so the school district could borrow the money to restore full days this shool year and pay for full days the next year, acting Supt. Dr. John Pagen said.

The school district will have to go into the red next spring to finance full days, Pagen explained, but it is hopeful of getting permission from the Municipal Finance Commission to borrow money on anticipated revenue if the millage passes.

Two-thirds of the millage revenue would be used to finance full days next school year and one-third to repay the loan for full days this year, according to Pagen.

Trustee Billie S. Farnum proposed the levy for just one year because it is possible that the governor's plans to revamp school financing may provide more revenue for Waterford in 1971-72.

A 9-mill tax increase, which would be levied on December 1970 tax bills, would cost the average property owner about $90 per year, Pagen estimated. He figures the average property is worth about $20,000 and is assessed at $10,000.

3 ISSUES DEFEATED

Waterford voters have defeated three millage issues in the past two years, the last a two-year 9-mill proposal in March. Property owners now pay tax on a total of 32.63 mills, of which 24.63 is for operating schools.

Seventeen out of the county's other 27 school districts levy higher operating taxes, Pagen has said.

Pagen estimated the 9-mill tax increase would raise about $1.8 million during 1970-71.

★ ★ ★

A decision the board made two weeks ago to hold a no-tax-increase bond issue election to primarily build a needed junior high school along with the millage proposal was unanimously rescinded.

EXPLAINS REASONING

Trustee Eldon C. Rosegart explained the reasoning this way:

"As much as you can tell people the bond issue won't increase taxes, they can never separate bond issues from millage increases on the same ballot.

"Once the millage is passed, we could call a bond issue for the near future."

As expected, school trustees unanimously voted to appeal Judge William J. Beer's order giving the school district five additional weeks to restore full days.

School Attorney John Rogers said he would file for a stay and appeal to a higher court today or Monday and that he expects the issue to be heard there early next month.

SUIT BROUGHT BY PARENTS

Beer originally gave school officials two weeks when he ruled that shortened class days as a cost-cutting device and a state law prohibiting deficit financing are unconstitutional.

The suit was brought by a group of Waterford parents shortly after half-day school sessions went into effect for three elementary grades last month. Secondary students are on a shortened day by one hour for the second year.

Schools officials had said it is impossible to hire some 130 teachers, redistribute supplies, reschedule classes and rearrange bus schedules by Nov. 3.

In fact, the soonest that secondary students could go back to school for six hours a day would be January, Pagen said.

Restoration of elementary full days would probably take longer since it is difficult to find enough teachers in the middle of a school year, Pagen said.

Waterford Township schoolchildren will go back to full-day classes no matter what happens in their parents' court battle providing residents pass a proposed tax increase, Pagen said.

POWER PLAY—Foreign Minister Willy Brandt (left) of West Germany's Social Democratic party shakes hands with Free Democratic party leader Walter Scheel. Backers Confident Tough Plan Will Be Law

Coal-Safety Bill Clears Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of the most stringent coal mine safety bill ever to clear a branch of Congress say they are confident the measure will become law this year.

Following a 73-0 Senate vote yesterday, the measure was sent to the House where a similarly tough measure already has been approved by the Labor and Public Welfare Committee.

★ ★ ★

Congressional action has been spurred by the tragedy at Farmington, W. Va., last November where 78 miners died in an underground explosion and the wide publicity given recently to black lung disease.

House managers said they would push to bring the safety bill to the floor as soon as possible.

Although not a single Senate vote was cast against the measure on final passage there were several fights on amendments during five days of floor debate.

The bill had been under study for months in a labor subcommittee headed by Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., before it was sent to the Senate floor.

★ ★ ★

Williams said after the Senate vote he was confident the legislation "will mean very significant improvement in the working environment of the nation's 130,000 coal miners."

The bill would establish federal minimum dust levels in the 3,600 U.S. coal mines for the first time.

FEDERAL INSPECTIONS

It also would set up stricter controls over methane gas, provide for tighter and more frequent federal inspections, require that all electrical equipment and wiring be made spark-proof, ban smoking and use of flames in mines, and establish a program of interim compensation payments for miners disabled by pneumoconiosis or black lung.

In the last major floor fight yesterday, the Senate declined to exempt small, so-called nongassy mines from the equipment requirements of the legislation.

Sen. John S. Cooper, R-Ky., arguing for such an amendment, said the requirements would be so costly that many of the small mines would be forced to close.

Williams and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., offered a compromise under which the nongassy mines would have five years to install the new equipment, instead of four as provided in the main bill.

This was adopted 45-31.

Under the dust provision, all mines will be required within six years to meet a standard of not more than 2 milligrams per cubic meter of air.

2 More N-Tests Set in Aleutians

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission plans two more nuclear test explosions on Amchitka Island in the Aleutian chain after yesterday's blast which did not yield an earthquake or a tidal wave.

The Soviet Union, Japan and Canada as well as numerous U.S. scientists and political figures had objected to the one-megaton underground explosion because they feared it would cause seismic disturbances in the temblor-prone Alaskan or Aleutian faults.

But the blast yielded only a ground roll on the desolate, windswept island, and apparently didn't even bother 25 sea otters swimming in pens near ground zero.

AEC officials at a control center in Anchorage said two more nuclear tests were planned under the island Tundra during the test project.

NO VISIBLE AFTERSHOCKS

Gov. Keith Miller, a Republican who supported the test, said the commission had advised him that it would be at least two years before another test would be set off on Amchitka.

Scientists said there were no visible aftershocks but that scientific instruments may register unfelt aftershocks for days or weeks. They said no radiation escaped from the 4,000-foot deep hole in which the blast was detonated, and that a building atop the hole was not damaged.

The AEC said the first explosion was a suitability test and indicated the results were satisfactory. It has not announced a reason for the next two.

JAMES R. HOFFA

Parole Request by Hoffa Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa, once counted among the nation's most powerful labor leaders, faces at least another year-and-a-half behind bars of a federal prison following rejection of his plea for parole.

Hoffa, who has served two years and eight months of an eight-year sentence for jury tampering, lost his try for early release yesterday when the U.S. Parole Board rejected his bid. The board said it would reconsider his case in March 1971.

Hoffa, the stocky, defiant leader of the two-million-member Teamsters Union whose legal battles with the government began under the Kennedy administration, and still are going on, is in the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison.

Nixon Will Intervene to Block Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department announced that President Nixon will intervene to block a strike against six major railroads tonight.

A department spokesman said the President has decided to appoint an emergency board, whose members will be announced later, to take up the year-long dispute.

Appointment of the board automatically will postpone strike action for 60 days.

PAUF to Begin Fund Drive With Ball, Torch Lightings

A ball tonight and a dual torch-lighting ceremony tomorrow will highlight this year's Pontiac Area United Fund general kickoff.

The ball, sponsored by Annett Inc. Realtor, 28 E. Huron, is at the Holiday Inn of Pontiac. Actual kickoff begins at noon tomorrow at the Pontiac Mall with a helicopter dropping UFOs (United Fund Objects) containing numbers which can be turned in for gifts donated by The Pontiac Mall.

★ ★ ★

The first torch lighting will follow at The Mall with music provided by a Boy Scout band. Campaign leaders will be lifted to the torch in a Consumers Power snorkel for the lighting.

A car "care-a-van" of campaign leaders, the Boy Scouts band and other agency volunteers will then head for downtown Pontiac for a torch lighting at 1:25 p.m. at City Hall, 450 E. Wide Track.

★ ★ ★

The ceremonies mark the start of the area's 21st United Campaign, which seek money for 55 health, welfare, education and recreation agencies. This year's goal is $1.24 million, a 15 per cent increase over the amount raised last year. The drive will run through Nov. 7.

New Car Sales Set September Record

From Wire and Local Reports

DETROIT — Americans, though growing cautious in their purchase of nonessentials, bought new cars at a record rate in September.

All four American auto makers announced records of one sort or another.

Even American Motors, which often discloses sales figures only when asked, volunteered that September sales were 21,121, "the highest for that month in five years."

Sales during the month were spurred by introduction of the 1970 models and bargains on remaining stocks of 1969s. Industry sales for September totaled 709,388 cars, compared with the previous record of 601,375 in 1968.

Sales for the first three quarters were 6,303,636, second only to 1965 when the industry registered 6,397,199 new car sales through September.

Last year through nine months the auto makers sold 6,275,829 cars.

With a strong finish the industry could top the record 1965 domestic sales figure of 8.7 million cars.

Pontiac Motor Division today reported it sold 69,385 cars last month, surpassing the previous September record of 63,655 set two years ago. In the final 10 selling days of the month, the General Motors division sold 28,754 cars compared to 28,443 in the final 10 days of September 1968.

CHRYSLER CUTBACK

Chrysler Corp. reported its September sales of 117,501 were the best since 1950, but sales for the first nine months have trailed 1968 figures by nearly 90,000 units.

Chrysler also had a dip in profits this year and revealed yesterday that it would cut back its white-collar staff.

Warm, Dry Weekend Forecast

Pontiac area residents may look forward to a warm weekend with temperatures ranging from a high in the 80s to a low near 48.

Partly sunny is the forecast for tomorrow, and partly cloudy and warm is the prediction for Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Winds light and variable 6 to 12 miles per hour today will shift to the southeast tomorrow.

The probabilities of precipitation are near zero today and tonight, and 10 per cent tomorrow.

The low before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 57. The mercury had climbed to 70 by 2 p.m.

Education meeting at City Hall seemed to have one common desire — an education for the children of Pontiac in safe, undisrupted schools.

Their collective plea to the school board was that a solution be found to the disturbances that have plagued city high schools since last week.

Northern High School closed last Friday as a result of seemingly racially-related fist fights between students last Thursday, and Central High School closed Monday because of student-to-student confrontations at PCH last Friday.

TENSION BUILDS AGAIN

Racial tension built again at Northern Wednesday when white and black groups of students gathered and threatened to fight. Parents have patrolled halls in the two high schools and several junior highs since the first incident Sept. 25.

Both black and white parents attending last night's meeting, which overflowed the City Commission Chambers, urged that all of the youngsters involved in the recent disruptions be punished.

★ ★ ★

Others urged meetings with involved students to attempt to pinpoint causes for the disturbances. They said that once administrators and the board know the

House Votes End to Sheridan Tank Beset by Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House — turning aside efforts to chop $2 billion worth of other weapons projects — has voted to kill the trouble-plagued Sheridan tank.

★ ★ ★

The proposal to end the $1-billion Sheridan program as seen as the current contract is completed was shunted through the House yesterday with little debate and no vote count.

★ ★ ★

The proposal was backed by Armed Services Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, (D-SC.,) whose committee concluded the tank's caseless ammunition is dangerous and the tank itself was not worth the time and cost of development.

But efforts by military spending critics to cut money from the safeguard antimissile system, C5A supercargo plane, ships, helicopters and missile programs were easily defeated one by one.

$57.6-MILLION CUT

The critics tried to cut the projects from a $21.35-billion authorization for procurement of military hardware.

Rivers' committee already had cut $57.6 million from the Sheridan program, leaving only $15.2 million for completion of the present contract.

★ ★ ★

It had urged the Army to correct the tank's problems — particularly the danger of ammunition explosions inside the tank — before it asks authority to buy any more.

But the amendment shouted through yesterday would terminate the program entirely when the contract runs out.

As final as the House language is, the decision could be reversed in future authorization bills if the Sheridan's problems were solved.

★ ★ ★

Cuts attempted by spending critics but defeated by the House yesterday would have trimmed:

- All $345 million for deployment of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system, leaving intact $400 million for research and development.
- $1 billion above the administration's request for ships, added by Rivers to modernize the U.S. naval force.
- $481 million for purchase of 23 additional C5A cargo planes.

★ ★ ★

- $275 million for production of six carrier-based F-14 Navy fighters, a plane still in the development stage.
- $86 million for 170 Cobra helicopters.
- $77 million for the Short Range Attack Missile which has suffered development problems.

Haynsworth: No Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Clement F. Haynsworth today denied reports by congressional sources that he had sought to have his nomination to the Supreme Court withdrawn.

"I did not think about such a thing," Haynsworth told a reporter who asked whether he had asked President Nixon to call back the appointment. "I don't know where you all got such a thing. Somebody else dreamed the thing up."

★ ★ ★

When then asked whether he anticipated asking that the nomination be withdrawn, Haynsworth replied: "I have not and I don't."

Despite Haynsworth's denial, and one from the White House, the congressional sources who disclosed the original reports to the Associated Press yesterday remained firm today.

HEAD COUNT REPORTED

The sources said the White House had concluded after an informal head count that at least 40 of the 100 senators were prepared to vote against confirmation of the 56-year-old U.S. appeals court judge.

One midwestern senator was reported to have told his staff hours before the reports were published yesterday that Haynsworth was asking that his name be withdrawn and that a statement from the White House was imminent.

★ ★ ★

But afterward and following a talk with Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the latest information "indicates that this report is absolutely untrue."

GOP Enthusiastic

Romney: Senate Try Open

WASHINGTON (AP)— Republicans generally reacted with enthusiasm Thursday over an indication by former Michigan Gov. George Romney that he may run for the Senate next year against Sen. Philip Hart, D—Mich.

Asked by newsmen if he felt tempted to step down as secretary of housing and urban development and enter the Senate race, Romney replied:

"I haven't completely closed the door."

Told of Romney's statement, Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., House minority leader said the former governor would be "an excellent candidate for the Senate.

FORD DELIGHTED

"I'm delighted to know he has not foreclosed the possibility of running," Ford said.

Rep. Donald Riegle Jr., R-Mich., said:

"If he decided to run, he would be an excellent candidate and, if elected, an outstanding senator."

★ ★ ★

Riegle is known to be considering seeking the Republican senatorial nomination for himself, but he said if Romney runs he would not oppose him in the primary.

When asked about speculation that he might seek the Senate position, Romney said:

"Well, I'm not doing anything in that connection. I haven't completely closed the door. I'm not doing anything about it—I'm not seeking it or anything."

Second Man Places Collins in Cycle Shop

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A second man has placed John Norman Collins, accused of murdering an Eastern Michigan University coed, in an Ypsilanti motorcycle shop during much of the time the crime allegedly was being committed.

John Lehto, a 26-year-old employe of J and J Motorcycle Shop, backed the shop owner yesterday in saying that they were with Collins on the afternoon of July 23.

The coed, Karen Sue Beineman, allegedly was abducted by a motorcycle rider at about 12:30 p.m. July 23. An autopsy report indicated she was dead by 3 p.m.

Birmingham Area

Crossing Guards Scarce

BIRMINGHAM — The Police Department has reported a shortage in school crossing guards for the 1969-70 school term.

In the 1969-70, city budget, seven school crossing guards were authorized to provide protection at critical locations, a police department spokesman said.

Police Chief Daryle Bruestle has offered three alternatives to the City Commission as a method of alleviating the personnel problem:

- Reevaluate present crossings and cover only the ones that are most crucial, eliminating the need of some guards.
- Adjust the financial benefit of the position in order to attract more applicants. The present pay is $2.50 per day and each guard works two hours per day.
- Study feasibility of employing high school students to fill the positions.

The Commission is studying the recommendations.

New Pullout Move Seen Before Yule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, the Senate's senior Republican, predicted today President Nixon will order a new troop withdrawal of 40,000 men from Vietnam before Christmas and that "most of the ground troops" will be pulled out by the end of 1970.

"I expect that the President will probably give us another troop withdrawal for Christmas—enough to make 100,000 men this year," the Vermont senator told a reporter.

★ ★ ★

He said he has not discussed the possibility of such a new withdrawal with Nixon but that "The South Vietnamese government seems to be confident it can take things over.

Some 60,000 troops have been included in troop withdrawals announced by Nixon so far.

13 Are Arrested in Pontiac Drug Raid

By KINGSLEY COTTON

A major source of heroin in Pontiac may have been uncovered by city police last night.

In their second major narcotics raid in less than a week, officers of the Pontiac police vice squad broke into a South Side home early last night. Police confiscated $8,000 worth of suspected narcotics and $2,000 worth of property believed stolen, and made 13 arrests.

Last Saturday vice squad officers confiscated more than $14,000 worth of narcotics and made two arrests on a raid at an apartment on Douglas.

Eight officers in three cars swooped in on the home of Shellena Bently, 18, of 392 Going at 8:30 last night.

While four officers covered the front and sides of the four-room house, the other four broke down the rear door.

A search warrant had been obtained earlier yesterday.

Arrested and charged with sale of narcotics were Miss Bently, Cynthia Pippen, 21, of 107 Wessen and Michael Whitaker, 23, of 61 Orton.

Lily Pullard, 26, of 17 Gillespie, was arrested and charged with possession of narcotics.

NINE OTHERS ARRESTED

Nine other persons were arrested and charged with loitering.

Confiscated were what are suspected to be marijuana, cocaine, and heroin as well as two pistols and a rifle. The property believed stolen consisted mainly of furniture, a number of television sets, radios, and record players.

Twelve of the thirteen persons were arraigned this morning before Pontiac District Judge Cecil McCallum.

Whitaker's bond was set at $65,000 while Miss Pipen's and Miss Bently's were set at $35,000.

WARRANT SOUGHT

Bond for those charged with loitering was set by McCallum at $500. Miss Pullard was being held until a warrant could be obtained charging her with possession of narcotics.

Conviction on a charge of selling narcotics, carries a minimum prison term of 20 years, according to Detective Bruce Jarvis.

★ ★ ★

In terms of the number arrested, last nights raid was one of the largest in department history, Jarvis said.

"It was the culmination of three months of investigation and surveillance," said Sgt. Guy White, head of the department's vice squad.

"We are fairly confident," Jarvis added, "that this operation was the direct supply for a major proportion of the heroin addicts in Pontiac."

7 Arrested as City Police Seek to Keep Schools Quiet

While relative calm prevailed yesterday in Pontiac city schools, police nonetheless arrested a number of youths.

The arrests were made, according to Pontiac Police Chief William K. Hanger, in an effort to prevent the gathering of large crowds around the schools and the subsequent disturbances which have plagued Central and Northern high schools for the past week.

★ ★ ★

In the wake of racial disturbances at the schools, police also reported the firebombing of a house in a Negro residential area and a number of incidents where youths reportedly were throwing rocks at passing cars.

No one was injured but minor damage occurred at the home of Marvin Jackson, 62, of 31 Franklin Blvd. last night when a Molotov cocktail was tossed through his kitchen window.

YWCA PARKING LOT

The incident occurred at 7:40 p.m., according to police.

★ ★ ★

Officers speculate that the bottle, containing fuel oil or kerosene, was thrown from the parking lot of the YWCA on Huron.

Six Pontiac Central students were arrested by police yesterday, includng three juveniles.

TOLD TO DISPERSE

According to police reports, the three were among a group of about 15 who were told to disperse. Officers said the three arrested were the ones who failed to comply.

Three juveniles also were arrested and charged with setting a fire in a locker at Central.

★ ★ ★

Another juvenile, previously suspended, was arrested at Northern High School at 10 a.m. yesterday and charged with loitering.

Two assault and battery complaints were lodged by Central students yesterday, according to police, but no arrests have been made.

Fourteen students — eight white, six black — had been singled out by Northern High School administrators as being involved in Wednesday's clash there and have had classes closed to them.

RECORDED AS ABSENT

(Students with closed classes may not attend classes for up to 10 days, during which they are recorded as absent. A student may make up missed work when he returns.)

★ ★ ★

Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer said that those students had been "identified by one of the people at the scene of the disturbances as committing an act such as hitting another person or as inciting others."

★ ★ ★

He said that the administrators are working on a plan to suspend or close classes to the 300 or so students involved in Wednesday's disturbance in a meaningful way.

He said last night he was not prepared to announce the plan.

STUDENT BLAMES OUTSIDERS

Whitmer said early in the meeting that administrators' investigations had shown no particular incidents that incited the recent disruptions and that no demands from students had been set forth.

★ ★ ★

Cecelia Brown, a black Central High student said that outsiders had started everything, but if a problem had not existed among students in the first place the outsiders' influence would not have been so great.

★ ★ ★

Another unidentified black student added, "If the board of education would stop making racist decisions and Dana P. Whitmer would quit lying to us, there wouldn't be this trouble."

Miss Brown said that a list of Black Student Union demands had been placed before the board last winter, but black students were unsatisfied with the action or lack of action taken on the demands.

'RESULT OF DEMANDS'

Whitmer pointed out that the recent Human Relations Institute for all teachers in the district was one result of the Black Student Union demand that racist attitudes of teachers be worked on.

He added that steps had been taken to improve the transportation problem for black students and that more black teachers and administrators had been hired.

★ ★ ★

Some students complained about the parents patrolling halls recently. They said some parents disrupted classes, some grabbed students as they walked down the hall, some were in the way — especially at Central, where crowded conditions exist.

★ ★ ★

An unidentified white student said she was glad to know that so many parents were interested in students' safety and education, but that the adults in the halls made students feel as if they were in a police state.

'REFLECTION OF SOCIETY'

"The situation is a reflection of our own society. Give the students feedback and let them deal with their own problems. The only way to get this solved is through the students," she said.

★ ★ ★

Several white and black parents and students complained of double standards for students by administrators and teachers at the schools — especially Northern.

★ ★ ★

Ernest Seay, a probation officer, said that he talked to black and white students milling outside Northern Wednesday and found that both groups had the same complaints — that black students were getting preference or that white students were getting preference.

★ ★ ★

The board's two black members, Dr. Robert Turpin and Christopher Brown, urged administrators to talk with students from both sides to get to the root of the problems.

'STIFFER DISCIPLINE'

One parent identified as Mrs. Jean Norberg, said that the Northern High School parents Human Relations Committee had met and recommended to the school's administration that stiffer discipline be initiated. She said she felt this recommendation fell on deaf ears.

★ ★ ★

Another unidentified mother said she told Whitmer and Northern's Principal Philip Wargelin she would get together a committee of mothers to go through the school records to find out who was out of school Wednesday and attempt to compile a list of those involved in the disruption then.

★ ★ ★

A white woman, who tearfully admitted her son was involved in Wednesday's incident, said she felt her son should be disciplined by the school as should all others involved.

★ ★ ★

Several people said they felt children today have too much freedom and have been allowed to speak too much. They indicated that students should be "put in their place" and be kept silent.

DEFEND STUDENTS

Other adults jumped to the defense of the students, however, saying that students are much more aware of what's going on than parents were when they were in high school.

★ ★ ★

They indicated that children today are an intelligent generation due to television and improved teaching methods.

★ ★ ★

"You are living with your own successes, one woman said.

In Waterford

New School Policy

Waterford Township residents with problems or questions can now meet directly with top school officials without an appointment.

School administrators will put aside their work one afternoon a week to meet with residents on school problems.

★ ★ ★

Acting Supt. Dr. John Pagen announced the program and a one-day pilot telephone "hotline" service at the Waterford Board of Education meeting last night.

Pagen said the purpose of the new public information program is to clearly open channels for residents seeking school information, to "instill a public trust" in school officials and to eliminate rumors.

SERVICE TO RESIDENTS

The program was not brought about by the proposed millage increase election, according to Pagen, but will be a service to residents unable or unwilling to ask questions at the public school board meetings.

All key central school administrators and individual school building administrators are too keep their schedules free Wednesday afternoons to talk with residents, Pagen said.

The program goes into effect next Wednesday.

Parents will also man three special telephones on a one-day trail basis to answer questions or hear complaints. If successful, the hotline could be continued.

Hotline phones will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Oct. 15. The numbers are 682-6082, 674-4226 or 682-7112.

In other business, the board heard a report which indicated that the use of narcotics found in Waterford schools is "gaining in acuteness."

Dr. Gerald E. Megiveron, coordinator of secondary schools, told the board there was eight reported serious cases of narcotics in schools all last year and already five this year.

★ ★ ★

He said a curriculum guide for teachers on narcotis and drug abuse was compiled last spring and that teachers are to start using the guide in teaching about the dangers of drugs this year.

Kelley Still Is Cool to Governor Race

LANSING (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley hasn't changed a bit in recent weeks in his desire not to be governor, despite several developments which might have changed his thinking, statehouse sources say.

"He'd rather have cancer than be govenor," is the way one of them put it.

★ ★

Kelley has generally been considered pointing at a race for the U.S. Senate in 1972 against incumbent Robert Griffin. However, Griffin's recent selection as Republican whip in the Senate has given him a national forum and some observers believe, has made him a more formidable foe in 1972. Kelley doesn't feel that is necessarily correct.

Twig Found in His Brain

SALEM, Mass. (AP) — Eight-year-old Roger Dion Jr. is back at school following the removal of a two-inch twig from his brain at North Shore Children's Hospital.

Roger fell late in August, and a small branch entered his nostril. He removed the stick and was treated by a pediatrician who found nothing in the nasal passage.

Later the boy developed headaches and a fever, symptoms similar to meningitis.

"We knew he had some sort of penetrating wound and had introduced an infection," said Dr. Sidney Paly, a neurosurgeon who performed the operation.

Dr. Paly said Thursday that "we...made a hinged flap in the bone, elevated the brain, looked under the frontal lobes and found this twig about two inches long lodged between them.

"It had not done a lot of damage, fortunately, and we removed it easily." Roger was discharged from the hospital two weeks ago and entered the third grade.

"What makes this (operation) unique was that the foreign body was a twig," said Dr. Paly. "I don't recall ever hearing about anything like that before."

California Eyes Cars Suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The state attorney general's office has disclosed that California is contemplating suing the nation's major automobile companies for millions of dollars of damage inflicted by smog.

Chief Deputy Dist. Atty. Charles O'Brien said yesterday that criminal as well as civil action was being considered on behalf of the cities and counties of the nation's most populous state on grounds the car makers "conspired to retard the introduction of smog control devices in the state of California."

★ ★ ★

Appearing before the legislative assembly's meeting, O'Brien said Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch has asked the authorization of 58 county counsels and hundreds of city attorneys in California to file the suit.

The U.S. Justice Department recently dropped an antitrust suit against Ford, Chrysler General Motors, American Motors and the Automobile Manufacturers Association, who were charged with conspiring to delay development and installation of smog control devices on cars.

OUT-OF-COURT

The out-of-court settlement is still to be approved by U.S. District Judge Jesse Curtis at a hearing in Los Angeles on Oct. 28.

Carvings Flow With Feelings

Artist Hews to His Grain

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

FARMINGTON — "I take a piece of wood. The grain suggests the first few lines. If I don't see a picture in it, I throw it away," explained Jean Paul Gaugy, a French-born sculptor of rough-hewn woodcarvings.

The carvings lining the walls of his basement studio parade a wide range of human emotions — from humor to pathos — on the gay faces of young girls and the drawn, work-worn faces of withered old men.

Each emotion is chiseled into permanency by Gaugy's own work-worn hands; studies in themselves with the skin grain made prominent by too much work with wood stain.

"Art is communication. You work with your feelings and put your emotions in your carvings," insists Gaugy, who spent the days of the Czech crisis working with wood to portray the loss of freedom of the people.

The diminutive Gaugy, dressed in a sweatshirt and pants and looking like someone's younger brother, has big ideas.

HIS OWN LANGUAGE

"Each artist must write his own language and then teach people how to understand it. This is his responsibility — to find a new form of communication. You can't just throw a canvass on an easel and put paint on it. You must think what it means and what it is going to say."

Gaugy, 25, developed the emotion evident in his works during his early years among the night people of Paris.

* * *

He left school at age 14 to take a construction job. Unhappy, he went to Paris to find work.

At 15, he was able to learn enough to make a living as a nightclub portrait artist while studying art during the day. He recalls reading anatomy and art books and attending classes sporadically.

LEARNED TO LOOK

"I lived with night people and learned how to see people. You develop your emotion and then learn how to translate the emotion with your hand. After a while you can just do it," he shrugged.

Gaugy met his wife, a Farmington girl named Margaret, while in Paris. The two came back to the U.S. two years ago because artists have a better chance here according to Gaugy.

* * *

He began working with wood after reaching the states because his favorite medium, stone, was too expensive.

Gaugy soaks a piece of wood, usually cypress, "because the grain is tortuous," in oil. Then he dries it for a month. He sketches his theme on the wood and begins carving, usually only a hammer and chisel. Afterwards, he stains the wood, often adding colors, "Dark or light depending on my mood."

IMITATIVE STYLE

He confesses that his current style is an attempt to imitate the brush strokes of Claude Monet, a 19th century founder of the Impressionistic school.

"I try to translate the way he stroked and used his brush with my chisel."

* * *

The effect offers a distinct sense of mood rather than an intricate photographic representation.

The esthetics of art have not obscured Gaugy's business sense. He explained that art is a business by which he chooses to support his wife and month-old child.

QUALITY NEEDED

"You have to product yourself," he commented, adding that the demand for art works is so great that artists can't meet the supply. Still, an artist must make his pieces of such a quality and sell them at such a price that people will still want to buy them some 15 years from now, he cautioned.

Many people buy his art for investment purposes and they don't really love the piece, Gaugy explained. Admitting that this attitude disturbed him at first, Gaugy insisted that he has come to understand it, explaining that people usually begin enjoying the pieces once they are in the home.

Gaugy displays his works in several galleries in Detroit, in Ohio and Chicago areas, and will have showings in Florida and New York this year.

He is frequently invited to demonstrate at state fairs and art shows. He prefers displaying his works where he can actualy talk to people.

Gaugy has a one-man show at the Masonic Temple on Grand River and Farmington Road this weekend. Hours are 2 to 10 p.m. Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday.

He is so busy that he turns down commissions he "doesn't feel like doing," like a request for a sculpture to be placed in Kennedy Square, Detroit.

He indicated fear of doing a big commission and being stereotyped as is Alexander Calder (a 20th-century sculptor famous for his mobiles). People today don't buy anything by Calder that doesn't "look like Calder" he explained.

He indicated he didn't want to be tied down to any one style.

"By the time you are 35 to 40 you may be mature enough to stick to one style. Then you try to go deeper into your own forms."

Despite Independence Efforts

Homes Still Waterless

By NED ADAMSON

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — Some 40 households in this township are really going to appreciate the convenience of hot and cold running water — if and when they see it again.

Nearing a month of going without running water, the 40 families living north of Woodhull Lake in the Clinton, Pinedale, Lakeview and Hillcrest districts have been obtaining water supplies via the tea kettle and gallon jar route from a tank truck brought into the area by the county department of public works.

"The citizens have been amazingly cooperative and patient about the water dilemma when you consider how frustrating the situation has been," said Township Clerk Howard Altman.

Altman, a youthful "take-charge" guy who makes it a point to get concerned about any situation that might warrant the attention of the township government, has been the man in the middle during the local water dilemma.

When wells went dry in early September, Altman swung into action.

Public meetings were called, many phone calls were made — some of them angry — and a lot of heat was applied. The county agreed to truck water into the Woodhull Lake neighborhood.

* * *

But Altman decided that the water truck was only an interim solution.

He decided to avoid any further bureaucratic haggling and hired a contractor to construct a temporary water line through the affected area.

REAL FRUSTRATION

Construction crews laid the line in a matter of days and Altman and the residents had visions of the morning shower again.

But that is where the frustration really began.

Before water could be pumped through the line and into the homes, the county health department had to approve it for public consumption.

* * *

The water has been coming up unsuitable for use in test after test for nearly two weeks, with no one quite sure what the chief contaminant is.

ALTMAN

"We have flushed nearly a half million gallons of water through the line, scoured it with all kinds of cleaning agents, but it is still showing a positive reaction (with contaminants) in the laboratory analyses," Altman noted.

THROUGH FORECASTING

Altman is now through forecasting when the Woodhull Lake residents will have water.

"I simply cannot say now when we will have water. We are using some new procedures in taking the water samples for tests and maybe that will be the answer," he added.

* * *

Meanwhile, costs of meeting the water crisis are mounting. The cost is an estimated $6,000 to $8,000 on the water line with the bill to be presented to the county DPW.

Considerable additional monies have been expended in cleaning the line. And a spokesman for the DPW says it is costing $3.60 per gallon to have the water trucked in. Nearly 900 gallons have been delivered to the waterless homes.

* * *

There is no indication when the dry wells might recover their normal levels.

Pontiac Twp. Police Force Chiefly One Man at Start

By TIM McNULTY

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has decided that its community has come of age — an age to warrant its own police department.

* * *

To head and to establish the Pontiac Township Police Department, the board chose a man of no little experience.

* * *

Richard Earl Brown, 48, of Royal Oak has been patrolling the township, along with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, for almost four weeks.

A 23-year veteran of the Birmingham Police Department, Brown has hundreds of hours of police training under his leather Mace-and-gun-toting belt.

COURSES VARY

He has attended courses ranging from childbirth procedure to riot control. "The more training a policeman can get, the better he can do his job," said Brown.

* * *

A lifetime resident of Oakland County, Brown enlisted in the Army in 1942. Within a year he was promoted to staff sergeant. In the Italian campaign of World War II, Brown was wounded three times and received a Purple Heart each time.

* * *

Discharged in 1944 because of his wounds, Brown worked at GMC Truck and Coach Division and the Birmingham Post Office. "I found out soon that that type of work just wasn't my cup of tea," Brown said.

* * *

He joined the Birmingham department in 1945 and rose to the rank of sergeant before he resigned in 1968. In 1957 he received the City of Birmingham's Medal of Valor for shooting a holdup man after he himself had been shot in the chest.

MISSED POLICE WORK

Earlier this year Brown decided he wanted to get back in police work. "I really missed police work," said Brown, "and I figured the only way to get back was to find a place where I could build my own department.

* * *

"Diversity is the attraction to police work," Brown said. You never know what's going to happen. People are interesting, and 90 per cent of a policeman's job is helping people."

* * *

He said a great part of his job in the township is to get in the residential areas "and just let the people know that we're available to them."

Brown has two immediate goals for his new department: to hire more officers to provide patrol 24-hours-a-day, and to consolidate the police and fire calls under one telephone number.

* * *

All police calls now are routed through the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. The township fire department has its own number.

Avon Township Gives Library Resolution OK

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has adopted a resolution urging that the "adjustment of ownership and use of the township library be approved in principle."

* * *

The resolution, identical to the one passed by Rochester in August, means that the title to the Avon Township Free Public Library, 210 W. University, Rochester, will be deeded to Avon Township with the library's assets split between Rochester and Avon Township on a ratio based on the number of users in each municipality.

* * *

Township Supervisor Cyril Miller said he felt the library board, which now holds the title in trusteeship, will be "agreeable" to the plan.

* * *

He said all three administrative units (the city, township and the library board) "realize the path we are following and recognize it to be in the best interests of the township."

* * *

Miller also said the township "has no intention of entering a relationship with the Wayne County Library System." A sharing relationship with Wayne County was proposed by the library board. However, no action was taken on it.

Novi Assets-Division Duet Gets Pitch in Court Today

NOVI — Another verse in the discordant city-township duet called "Who gets which assets from the former village" will be composed in Judge William J. Beer's court this afternoon.

Events leading up to City Attorney Howard Bond's motion ordering a final division of assets — are long and involved. Court dates have been frequent.

* * *

The Village of Novi and 98 per cent of the township were incorporated as a city in May 1968. A city charter was approved last Februry.

The incorporation left the remaining residents living on eight small and separate "islands" around the new city.

TOWNSHIP LOST FIGHT

The acting township officials unsuccessfully fought the incorporation for several years. Earlier this year their last appeal to the State Supreme Court was denied.

In May, Judge Beer ordered the township to hold a special election to select new township officers and a board. Most of the acting officers now lived in the city.

* * *

The court also ordered the township not to spend any more funds without court approval. The question of accounting between the township and the city was adjourned for 30 days.

Since election of new township officers, representatives from the two governments have been meeting regularly.

COUNCIL DISSATISFIED

Dissatisfied with the progress of negotiations, city councilmen voted early last month to authorize Bond to file a show-cause order.

Bond and Township Attorney Emory Jacques met three weeks ago before Judge Beer in an attempt to compromise on division-of-assets delays.

The two attorneys couldn't agree, according to Bond, and the matter was held over until last Wednesday. That date was canceled due to Judge Beer's schedule, with today's session scheduled instead.

While the attorneys are involved in court proceedings, the city and township negotiators are busy behind the scenes. Progress has been made since the beginning of September.

LETTERS EXCHANGED

Originally, letters flew back and forth: "The city is accusing the township of unnecessary delays" and the township is protesting the city's "needless, unjustified and costly action" in filing suit.

Appraisers have been at work. When results are in, negotiatons will begin in earnest.

Major facilities owned by the township but now on city property include the township hall, library and park.

Bargaining in 'Amicable Atmosphere'

Clarkston Board, Teachers Talk Again

CLARKSTON — Negotiations between the board of education and the Clarkston Education Association (CEA) resumed yesterday for the first time since CEA members struck the district Monday.

A board spokesman said the sessions were conducted in an "amicable atmosphere."

* * *

Neither side had scheduled further talks, but there was a possibility of a meeting later today or tomorrow.

The board accepted the CEA offer to resume negotiations after the teachers dropped their demand that talks resume only in the framework of the state fact-finder's recommendations.

LEAVE COMPROMISE

Little progress was reported on salary differences yesterday. However, a compromise was worked out on the teacher's demand of two days leave for personal business.

Negotiator Floyd Vincent said the school board agreed to CEA's proposal of two personal days while dropping a legal-and-moral-day clause. Vincent said the personal days clause will require administration approval before the leave can be taken.

* * *

CEA officials did not reveal the specifics in their revised salary demands.

Vincent said the revised offer is the one CEA had said represented only a $37,000 difference between the school board's offer of a $7,325 to $12,550 scale and the fact-finder's recommendation of a $7,375 to $12,625 range.

'IN HIP POCKET'

"They have been holding this latest offer in their hip pocket," Vincent said.

The board continually has contended that CEA's previous salary demands would mean expenditures of $300,000 over income and require a school-operation tax increase of 25 per cent.

* * *

Vincent said Clarkston's property valuation per child is approximately $9,500. "This is about $1,500 below the base of any district around us, yet we are still able to offer a scale that represented raises ranging from $875 to $1,440. I think we have been more than fair," he said.

* * *

The board's attorney, Charles Keller, was reported to be in attendance at last night's negotiation session. Yesterday afternoon Keller said he could not comment on the board's thinking on the possibility of securing an injunction ordering the teachers back to work on Monday.

Uniform Needs Attention

Girl in ROTC Not Dressed Up

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Jean Ann Sarnowski dates a National Guardsman and has a brother in the service in Vietnam, and she thought she really ought to know more about the armed forces.

So now she's the only girl in the Rider College Reserve Officers Training Corps.

Jean Ann, an attractive 20-year-old brunette, is finding out what they mean when they say, "Well, that's the Army for you," and it isn't quite what she expected.

For one thing, they didn't have any girl uniforms and until hers arrives she's soldiering in men's fatigues made for somebody a lot bigger than five feet tall.

A BIG STEP

Also, a girl of that size finds it tough making the 30-inch strides required in ROTC drill.

"I have to wear these men's fatigues you wouldn't believe," said Jean Ann. "They're just atrocious! They're these big, balloon-type things, and the pants come up to my chest."

★ ★ ★

Jean Ann said she was not interested in taking a commission in the Women's Army Corps when her training is completed.

★ ★ ★

She says she just decided "Most girls know absolutely nothing about the military and I thought it would be interesting to find out."

'A NICE CHANGE'

Besides, added Jean Ann—a junior majoring in marketing—"I figured it would be a nice change from a typical subject and a good way to get a general studies elective out of the way."

What does her boy friend think of all this?

★ ★ ★

"He's not enthused about my venture in ROTC."

And her family?

"My father thinks it's a riot."

"Neither a borrower nor a lender be.... so, stock up on milk for the weekend."

Hearing Oct. 30 for M43 Sector

LANSING (AP) — A public hearing over the proposed reconstruction of nearly 13 miles of M43 in Kalamazoo and Van Buren Counties will be conducted Oct. 30 in Kalamazoo by the State Highway Department.

The hearing will begin at 8 p.m. at Grand Prairie school.

EYES RIGHT? — Rider College ROTC class members have their eyes directed right according to the drill, but not in the direction one might expect. Jean Ann Sarnowski ranks as a real attraction in the company of all her male classmates.

Georgi Crosby, 26, a former Las Vegas showgirl, testified in a divorce action that Bing Crosby's 33-year-old son Philip drank to excess and often stayed away from home at night. Superior Court Judge Laurence J. Rittenband granted her a default decree yesterday in Santa Monica, Calif.

She and Crosby were married July 11, 1967, in Albuquerque, N.M., and separated less than a year later. They had no children. Crosby was ordered to pay $500 monthly alimony for 27 months.

Actress Wins Suit Over Loss of Role

SHIRLEY

The Los Angeles District Court of Appeal says actress Shirley MacLaine is entitled to $750,000 in damages over loss of a starring role in the film "Bloomer Girl."

The court yesterday upheld a 1967 judgment in Superior Court in favor of Miss MacLaine.

The defendant, 20th Century-Fox, was charged with breach of contract when it changed its mind about making the film. Under the 1965 contract, the actress was scheduled to portray Evalina.

Singer Sues Firm for 'Poor-Quality' Film

Ballad singer Johnny Rivers filed a $500,000 suit yesterday against Vidicam of Hollywood, charging the firm turned out a poor-quality film of his charity concert in Santa Monica last Dec. 27.

The singer's Superior Court complaint said he had hired a production crew and special technicians in anticipation of obtaining a film of acceptable quality for commercial use on television that would gross more than $250,000.

But he said the firm, and codefendant Robert Boathouse, failed to operate camera equipment properly and knew in advance they could not handle the assignment satisfactorily.

Playwright Hospitalized in St. Louis

WILLIAMS

Tennessee Williams' brother says the playwright has been in a St. Louis hospital since Sept. 21 for treatment of the effects of long use of a sleeping pill.

The brother, Dakin Williams, an attorney of Collinsville, Ill., said Williams fell ill during a visit with their mother, Mrs. Edwina Dakin Williams, in suburban Clayton.

He added that the playwright, 55, would stay in Barnes Hospital indefinitely but planned to attend the opening of his play "Camino Real" in New York Jan. 8.

Only 13 Remain in Last Man's Club

By SAM HANCOCK

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (UPI) — Eleven of the last 13 members of the Last Man's Club got together for dinner Wednesday night. It was the club's 36th annual meeting.

As usual, a bottle of French cognac held the attention of the old men. Each asked himself: "Will it be me?"

★ ★ ★

The Last Man's Club is World War I veterans, all American Legion members.

In 1934, when there were an original 146 members, the bottle of French cognac was presented to the club, with the understanding it will not be drunk until the club's membership "has dwindled to one."

The club's membership has dwindled to 13, and 11 of these men got together Wednesday night in the Effingham Legion Club.

★ ★ ★

Occupying its usual place of prominence on the speaker's table was the bottle of cognac, which had been removed from its place of safekeeping in a bank vault.

Someday, the surviving member will dine alone. He will read the names of 145 members for whom Taps have sounded and proclaim, "They have gone to their eternal reward." Then the last man will pop a cork on the bottle of cognac and drink to their memory.

75 YEARS OLD?

"Everyone thinks he is going to be the one to drink it," said Leonard Steis, 78, club secretary. "I'll let you know how it tastes."

No one knows exactly how old the bottle is, but many believe its vintage dates back 75 years.

A typewritten note on the green glass bottle reads: "This bottle of cognac is being presented to the Last Man's Club in the year of 1934 by Dr. C. C. Holman, the seal of which is not to be broken until its membership has dwindled to one. Five years ago this bottle was found in an upright position in the basement on a sill, which evidently had been placed there a number of years ago by the former owner of the home, Mr. John Feldhake."

The Last Man's Club roster includes Andy Beasley, Dr. E. E. Webster, Paul Tonn, Adolph Sudkamp, R. A. Volts, Alfred Gruel, R. M. Michaelree, Henry Bersig, and Alf Underriner, still active as a druggist and the "baby of the group at 69."

Bersig recalls how he almost dropped out of the running. "Back in 1936 I had pneumonia and they had about pronounced me dead. Three or four members of the club were working on a caisson to bury me with. They're all dead now."

'Double Agent' Linked to Ambush of 2 Patrols

SAIGON (UPI) — The alleged double agent in the Green Beret case provided Communist troops with information that led to the annihilation of two five-man Special Forces patrols, U.S. military sources said today.

They said Thai Khac Chuyen apparently had access to the Green Berets' secret patrol plans and tipped the Communist troops on where the reconnaissance missions would be going.

* * *

Within 15 minutes of their insertion by helicopter into Communist territory, the patrols were wiped out, according to these sources.

About 20 South Vietnamese soldiers died on similar missions during the same two-week period, they said.

Chuyen later was arrested and interrogated.

He disappeared June 20, and the U.S. Army charged eight Green Berets with murder and conspiracy in the case. Those charges were dropped Tuesday.

* * *

Because of the U. S. losses suffered in the Communist ambushes of the patrols, a senior American officer was relieved of his post within the U.S. command, the sources said.

Col. Robert B. Chesnult, commander of all Green Berets in Vietnam, was one of the eight who faced charges in the case. He returned to the United States Wednesday denying that any double agent had been killed.

'PENETRATION AGENT'

"There was a penetration agent," Rheault told newsmen before his departure from Vietnam. When asked if Chuyen was this agent, he said, "I believe so."

Sources close to the investigation said Chuyen's role as a double agent was confirmed by lie detector and truth serum tests administered at Green Beret headquarters at Nha Trang.

* * *

Chuyen's body has never been found. It was the Army's contention that he was drugged, shot at Nha Trang and dumped into the South China Sea in a weighted bag.

S. Viets Pressured to Return Home

SAIGON (AP) — Premier Tran Thien Khiem has distributed a directive calling for strong measures against military men and civil servants who refuse to return to South Vietnam after receiving training abroad, the government news agency said today.

Vietnam Press reported the directive said that in "the present war situation, this desertion from service cannot be tolerated, especially when it is committed by elements who have enjoyed such privilege."

The instructions called for stern punitive measures, including prosecution before military courts. There was no mention of how many persons might be involved.

School Plan Unveiled

Gov. WILLIAM MILLIKEN'S comprehensive education-reform package to be considered in a special session of the legislature which convenes Monday is as far-reaching as it is unprecedented.

MILLIKEN

It embraces a three-part program to be implemented over a three-year period, with its constitutional aspects to be voted on by the electorate next August.

Essential elements of the program are:

• The elimination of school-support property taxes on the district level and establishment of a statewide property tax coupled with a proposed 2.6 per cent income tax increase to fund the State's educational system. A primary benefit of such a revision would be the equalization of educational support per student that now varies greatly from one school district to another, depending upon the respective wealth of communities and value of their tax bases.

• The reduction of intermediate school districts from the present 59 to 10 or 15 regional districts, a reorganizational move dictated by diminished need for a multiplicity of such agencies; and abolition of the elective eight-member State Board of Education in favor of a State director of education appointed by the governor.

• Allocation of 2 per cent of the total school budget ($848.6 million for the current fiscal year) for parochial and private-school aid.

★ ★ ★

Admittedly, education in Michigan is in a state of crisis, calling for bold and innovative remedies. We think MILLIKEN'S school-taxation plan has much to recommend it and could well be the answer to the financial plight in which most of the State's school districts find themselves.

★ ★ ★

His plan for restructuring the intermediate school district setup and shift from a state board of education elected on a partisan basis to a single, responsible school head can easily be supported, although it could generate considerable opposition in many quarters.

But we strongly oppose his aid-to-private-schools proposal on legal, philosophical and economic grounds —a position we have taken from the outset of the issue.

★ ★ ★

Moreover, we think that Gov. Milliken may have erred in advocating too much change in too short a time. Politics has been termed the art of the possible. Is it possible that he has ignored this precept?

Economic Pros at Odds

Demonstrating that economics is one of the most inexact of sciences were the divergent opinions recently expressed by four leaders in the field at a University of Michigan-sponsored panel discussion.

The mix of conclusions stressed on one hand the urgency of halting inflation even at the expense of a slight business recession; and on the other, the assurance that "small inflation"—up to 5 per cent a year—isn't necessarily an evil. In support of the latter position, it was pointed out that the Country has had a creeping form of inflation for 35 years and that in comparison with other nations it has been inconsequential, with no detrimental effect.

★ ★ ★

On the subject of interest rates and their undeniable effect on availability of commercial credit, one expert saw the current 8½ per cent prime interest rate (actually 11 per cent because of stipulation that a portion of the loan remain on deposit with the lending institution) declining to a pre-boom level as the economy slows in response to Federal fiscal and monetary policies. Another, while foreseeing interest rates settling back slightly in the near future predicted that "we would never see 6½ per cent again in our lifetime." In fact, said he, we may look back on the 8½ (11) per cent rate as a "moderate, reasonable and attractive one."

★ ★ ★

And so it goes. The main booby trap in the realm of economics is the imponderable factor of mass behavior and response to economic stimuli. Until the reactions of John Q. Public can be precisely plotted—and who would be rash enough to predict such an eventuality?—the study of economics will continue to provide a most fascinating guessing game.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

Ho Chi Minh

Chicago Tribune

Sentimental gushing about Ho Chi Minh in the "liberal" press, on television and even in official remarks was to be expected, considering the prevailing psychosis of unreality induced by the Vietnam war. He has been described as benign and gentle, wise and witty, beloved of children, a philosopher king, a man god, and even —believe it or not—another George Washington.

★ ★ ★

"The plain truth," as Columnist Bernard Levin wrote in the London Daily Mail, "is that Ho Chi Minh was a ruthless and bloody tyrant." Lest we forget this in all the sickening posthumous exaltation of this small-fry Stalin, it is well to review some of his enormities.

After the Geneva accords of 1954, Ho introduced a typical communist terror in North Vietnam, from which more than 900,000 civilians fled to South Vietnam before Ho stopped the exodus by sealing the border. This was done in violation of his agreement.

In North Vietnam land owners, including peasants with only one or two hectares of rice land, were dispossessed as a class and many thousands (estimates range as high as 150,000) were shot. Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, victor at Dien Bien Phu in the war against the French, finally protested that the terror had gone too far. The communist magazine Nhan Van, of Hanoi, was permitted to report in its Nov. 5, 1956, issue: "People were arrested, jailed, and cruelly tortured; people were executed or shot on the spot and their property was confiscated; innocent children of parents wrongly classified as landlords were starved to death."

Virtually a whole generation of natural leaders in South Vietnam — village and hamlet chiefs and elders, school teachers, priests, monks, doctors, nurses — were eliminated in a systematic campaign of assassinations and kidnapings. Farmers who resisted the Vietcong — and in many instances their children, also — were mutilated and killed as examples of what others could expect.

A survey of available American and South Vietnamese records by The Tribune in 1967 indicated that at least 25,000 civilians had been assassinated and more than 60,000 others had been abducted — most of them never heard from — in 10 years. The assassination total now exceeds 30,000. Uncounted thousands of other civilians now have been killed in indiscriminate acts of terrorism, including the destruction of schools, hospitals, churches, pagodas, market places, and village halls by mines or fire.

★ ★ ★

These atrocities are never mentioned by American peaceniks, but Hanoi has often boasted of its successes in this kind of warfare. For example, a report on the Hanoi radio for the period from January of 1961 to January of 1965 said: "Hamlets destroyed, 7,559."

That would be an appropriate line for Ho's epitaph.

Game Of The Week!

David Lawrence Asks:

What Price Vietnam Pullout?

WASHINGTON — Which is better — short-range politics or long-range patriotism? This question is pertinent now, and it concerns not only the future of the United States but the destiny of other countries as well.

LAWRENCE

Too many members of Congress are playing with fire. They are, in effect, telling the enemy that America is ready to raise the white flag in Vietnam before the end of 1970.

★ ★ ★

It seems incredible that a small group from both parties in Congress is demanding that President Nixon announce that the withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam would be completed in 15 months, even though the enemy makes no concessions whatsoever.

Gen. Lewis W. Walt, assistant commandant of the Marine Corps, said in a speech last night that he believes the Vietnam war would have been ended a year ago if it were not for the "voice of dissent" in this country.

'VOICE OF PEOPLE'

He added that the Communists have judged this to be the "voice of the American people." He declared:

"In the past year, over 10,000 Americans have been killed in Vietnam. Those who dissent may not have fired the rifle or thrown the grenade, but they must bear a part of the responsibility for the loss of those gallant Americans."

★ ★ ★

If merely a problem of domestic politics were involved, certainly it would seem more popular to end a war than to keep one going indefinitely. But there's more to the issue.

The United States may find itself in the midst of a major war within the next two or three years, and this could conceivably provoke the use of nuclear weapons in Asia with possible attacks against the United States.

GOLDBERG SPEECH

Despite the outward appearances of friendship between Moscow and Washington, North Vietnam is directly sponsored by the Soviet Union. It will be recalled that Arthur Goldberg, former American ambassador to the United Nations, pointed out in a speech during the last few months of the Johnson administration that the Soviet Union, not Vietnam, is "the greatest threat" to the United States.

He said Americans have "too long taken their eyes away from the main ball game."

Politics today is on the side of surrender — at least that is the way various members of Congress interpret public opinion.

★ ★ ★

It remains to be seen what the American people would say about a pullout from Vietnam if the consequences should prove to be grave.

The Wall Street Journal, in an editorial the other day commenting on the possible results of an American withdrawal from Vietnam, said:

"The Communists would take over South Vietnam by military force, which would be a cheap enough price if the international effects stop there. But just as the American debacle at the Bay of Pigs helped prompt the Soviet initiatives leading to the Cuban missile crisis, so we expect American defeat in Vietnam would encourage the adventurers throughout the Communist world.

"We do not know whether the next crisis would break out in Thailand, Berlin, South America or elsewhere, but we do feel that over the long run a show of American irresolution is likely to result in worse crises, not easier ones."

Bob Considine Says:

Gun Group Exec Takes Potshot at Disarmament

NEW YORK — Hello, folks. All you good people who are rooting for world disarmament and a lessening of such crimes as the recent killing of four women (one employe and three depositors) in a bank vault will be interested in a letter from the Northwest Gun Owners of Bellingham, Wash. Fasten seat belts and flak jackets.

CONSIDINE

Ben Hinkle, the club's president, writes:

★ ★ ★

'2 SIDES TO QUESTION'

"Any reasonable person knows there are two sides to any question. It is the duty of the press to present both sides. In too many cases this has not been true with the gun question. People who do not own or use guns for legitimate purposes will readily believe the one-sided propaganda that has flooded publications in recent years.

"We wish to appeal to your sense of fairness, your loyalty and your duty to the millions of citizens of this great republic who look to American journalism for equal and equitable news coverage to print the other side of this controversial question.

★ ★ ★

"One of the most serious threats to our national security to come before this nation in modern times is whether to disarm the American people. If you do not agree, print your rebuttal along with our fact sheet to show how we are wrong."

★ ★ ★

The "fact" sheet asserts:

"The United States of America was created out of tryanny and oppression by patriots of freedom who armed themselves and won their independence. With this fresh in their minds, they wrote the 2nd Amendment to our Constitution, 'a well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.'

ARMED POPULATION

"The United States today has the largest armed civilian population the world has ever known. It is the strongest bastion of freedom and the greatest obstacle to Communist domination."

★ ★ ★

Okay, you crazy gun-bearing cop-fighters, fireman-snipers, college campus guerrillas, rooftop assassins and other "well-regulated militia" types, fall in four abreast and march to the barricades protecting us from the two-front invasion by Communist Albania. One hopes that the peace-loving sportsmen who shoot only birds, deer, moose, mice, etc. will be on Albania's side.

Voice of the People:

'Citizens Must Strive for Safer Community'

A quotation in The Press by Curtis H. Rossow, assistant planner for Waterford Township, read "Fast-growing communities often neglect to provide adequate recreational facilities for their residents. They would rather spend their money on such things as the police department." Mr. Rossow neglected to mention how inadequate our police department is, compared to recreational facilities in Waterford.

★ ★ ★

He did mention a deficiency of not having enough community parkland to serve residents within two miles of their homes, but did not mention a deficiency of police manpower to assure the citizens of this community a safe place to live and conduct business. Mr. Rossow stated there were 1,100 acres of public recreation land in Waterford for some 65,000 residents, but nothing was said about the 20 patrol officers trying to serve this fast-growing community of 65,000.

★ ★ ★

We do not deny the importance of recreation, especially for the youngsters, but as police officers and citizens we must also strive to make this a better and safer community, then provide the non-essential luxuries.

CARL W. SOLDEN, PRESIDENT
WATERFORD TOWNSHIP POLICE OFFICERS ASSN.

'Let's Approve Waterford School Millage'

As a concerned Waterford Township parent I support the board of education. The members have worked for us to try and make a fine school district. Although the taxpayers have turned down the necessary millage, the board is still trying to do its best. Let's go all out to support our schools. Vote "Yes" for our future.

★ ★ ★

We are overtaxed on our property, but let's pass this millage that is desperately needed and then each write our legislators in Lansing and insist that they pass an educational reform to ease our burden.

MRS. S. R.

Two Give Opinions on Recipients of ADC

It is time for a change in our welfare and ADC laws. It isn't fair for hard working people to bear the burden of other people's children. I don't mind having welfare for women who have small children and whose husbands have deserted them, but I do mind having to pay high taxes for the women who have several children by different men without the benefit of marriage.

★ ★ ★

I also object to paying for people who sit around doing nothing while someone else supports their families. If the men who let their families go on welfare and ADC were made to pay back the money they receive, we working people might have a tax relief. I refer to the perfectly healthy ones that are too lazy to work. Give us working people a break. Our kids deserve just as much as yours and we have to work to give it to them.

DISGUSTED TAXPAYER

I have read where ADC mothers are protesting for more money for clothing for their children. An ADC person receives as much as an average factory worker and has no taxes to pay except sales tax. I believe these people could make a go of it if they tried, but they couldn't have all new clothes and fancy food.

MRS. GEORGE EDWARDS

'Suggest Distributing Food Stamps by Mail'

Why not distribute the County food stamps by mail? A book of specially-encoded tickets, issued to each applicant to identify the payments, can be signed and mailed with check or money order and eliminate the need of security police and crowds. There is a great need for the government to figure out ways and means of stopping this walking sickness which has hit our society.

BETTY R. FRASER

'Many Homes Torn Down for Businesses'

What can be done about houses that are being torn down? There have been about ten houses torn down in the Union Lake area in the last year and a half. In their place you see some kind of business going up, mainly gas stations. Do we really need two or three on one corner? What about the several homeless families because of this? Are any homes being built in their place so a working man or an ADC or welfare family can afford them? No, they have to pay a high price for rent because the lower priced homes are being sold to businesses. Is this fair?

Question and Answer

The telephone company is cutting tops off dead elms and leaving the trash on County right-of-way. Why does the County let them get away with it?

W. A. WHITMER
BIRMINGHAM

REPLY

Because the phone company is doing them a favor. The County can't get to all the dead elms immediately, and dead branches tend to break and fall—on people, houses, cars, etc. Phone crews top the ones they find and leave the wood in a pile for the County to collect. Michigan Bell Division Forester Hoatlin says crews always talk to property owners first and the arrangement is agreeable to all concerned.

Question and Answer

I just bought an incubator. Can you tell me where to get some fertile chicken eggs?

P. DeHAAN
AGE 10

REPLY

No eggs are guaranteed fertile, but most farmers with chickens would have some that probably are. Why not take a trip to the Oakland County Farmer's Market on Pontiac Lake Road? It's open every Saturday and a number of farmers sell eggs there. You can surely find one who can supply a few eggs for hatching.

Yanks Battle N. Viets at DMZ; 3 U.S. Aircraft Lost

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. paratroopers fought North Vietnamese forces along the demilitarized zone and closer to Saigon while the United States lost three more aircraft in the war, military spokesmen said today.

Two observation helicopters of the 82nd Airborne Division were shot down early today in a fire fight 20 miles north of Saigon. Paratroopers on the ground lost one man killed and 10 wounded in the engagement, reports from the field said.

* * *

The 82nd Airborne has only its 3rd Brigade in Vietnam. That, together with one regiment of the 3rd Marine Division, are the major combat units being redeployed under President Nixon's second round of troop withdrawals.

A U.S. Air Force Phantom fighter - bomber crashed Thursday 95 miles northeast of Saigon, killing one crewman. The U.S. Command said the plane was believed shot down by enemy ground fire.

2 YANKS KILLED

Two Americans were reported killed and 20 wounded in 20 enemy rocket and mortar attacks during the past 24 hours, the U.S. Command said.

The DMZ action involved paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division, moved up to replace departing Marines, spokesmen said.

* * *

The spokesmen said a company of 100 to 150 paratroopers was patroling a mile south of the DMZ late Thursday when it ran into fewer than 50 North Vietnamese troops in bunkers.

* * *

A two-hour exchange of small-arms and machine-gun fire killed two paratroopers and wounded four. Enemy casualties were not known.

MOTOR BARRAGE

Another company of paratroopers a mile away came under a 25-round mortar barrage from North Vietnamese but suffered no casualties, U.S. headquarters said.

Paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division have been redeployed along the DMZ to help fill the gap left by the 3rd Regiment, 3rd Marine Division, which began redeployment to Okinawa last Monday under President Nixon's second round of American troop withdrawals.

* * *

The 3rd Brigade of the 101st Airborne is patroling around the craggy outpost known as the Rockpile, operating farther north than ever in the war. It was moved from the A Shau Valley, 60 miles south along the Laotian border.

Official sources said that while the defense of the northern frontier will fall primarily to the 20,000-man South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division, the 101st Airborne will conduct reconnaissance patrols along the DMZ as well as the Laotian border.

BATTLE ACTIVITY LOW

The clash along the DMZ was one of several sporadic actions across the country, but again no major sustained fighting was reported by the allied commands.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command said Thursday battle action had dropped to its lowest level of the year.

The Navy reported a five-inch gun aboard the cruiser Boston blew up today while firing on enemy positions and four men were wounded. It was the second time in three months that one of the Boston's guns had blown up while firing in support of ground units, the Navy said.

New-Dem Parley

FLINT (AP)—Michigan's New Democratic Coalition has scheduled a two-day conference for this weekend in Flint to decide what actions it will take in anti-war activities and in the 1970 elections. The meeting is scheduled for Flint I.M.A. pavilion.

Adams Shifts Into High Gear

By PATRICIA VOLL

"One disadvantage of this new schedule is that I can't skip and go out to lunch illegally this year," laughed senior Fred Wade at the new Rochester Adams High School.

Adams has just begun its first year as the second high school established in the Rochester School District. Adams students temporarily are attending the Rochester High School building in the afternoon. Rochester High students attend in the morning.

Many prefer the new system although all their friends are not enrolled in the same school. Senior student Nancy Jerome said, "I can finally sleep in on those brisk wintry mornings."

A. A. Turko, co-op adviser, said it was an excellent opportunity for students to find morning jobs.

CHANGE IN FEBRUARY

The afternoon shift is to conclude in February upon completion of the new Adams school building.

* * *

Adams students not only have a new identity but an almost entirely new staff of teachers, counselors and office help.

Ralph Hawes is the first principal of Rochester Adams. Dominic Mautle is the assistant principal.

All the counselors excluding Mrs. John Ryan are new to the school district, and they are: Donald Kemp, Dave Parks, and Mrs. A. A. Bogard.

'SWING HOUR'

Adams Student Council, made up of representatives of the four classes meets daily during the "swing hour," the hour between the end of the RHS day and the beginning of the Adams' school day.

Officers of the Student Council are junior Debi Kresge, president; senior Dave Konderik, vice president; junior Amy McKay, secretary; and senior Debi Durkee, treasurer.

* * *

The Adams Varsity Club, is sponsored by Max Hasse, the varsity football coach for Adams.

Pep rallies take place in the afternoons before football games and class councils meet regularly, planning various activities.

* * *

Adams' "Highlanders" have enthusiasm and involvement in their new school and their colors of gold and brown are quickly becoming a familiar sight to schools throughout the county.

* * *

The annual "College Night" program will be held Oct. 13 beginning at 7:15 p.m. Parents and students of both Rochester Adams and Rochester High Schools will be able to talk with 45 representatives of educational institutions.

The program will be broken into four half-hour sessions.

'Madwoman' Cast at Groves

BY MIKE WILSON

Michelle Bowman, Anne Hilfinger, Nancy Jardak and Pat Ursin are four madwomen.

That is, they are in respect to the casting of Groves' fall production, "The Madwoman of Chaillot," written by Jean Giraudoux. The play will be held Nov. 20-24.

* * *

Pat, in the lead role, portrays the aged Countess Aurelia, the Madwoman of Chaillot Street. Michelle, Anne and Nancy, are cast as Mme. Gabrielle (Madwoman of St. Sulpice), Mme. Constance (Madwoman of Passy), and Mme. Josephine (Madwoman of La Concorde), respectively. They are the countess' three women companions.

In other roles are Linda Konde as Irma, the Countess Aurelia's daughter; Thom Zawacki, as the hard pushing corporation president; and Steve Weinstock as the broker.

"I'll give me a chance to show off my girls," said drama teacher Mrs. Susan LaBatt.

A two-act play, "The Madwoman of Chaillot" deals with attempts of an oil corporation president and an oil prospector to try to tap a large pool of oil beneath Paris. They envision Paris as a city of oil wells and her residents as standardized workers.

The story develops when the Countess Aurelia and her vagabond friends undertake destruction of the two men's plans.

Other members of the cast: Joshua Schrier, Steve Crandelius, Sandy Estroff, Barrie Brown, Rick Orbach, Mike Barrie, Terry Smith, Brian Sherwin and Debbie Diehl.

One of three Brandon High School senior girls — Sherry Taylor, Susan Foster or Terrie Grovesteen — will be chosen today as this year's homecoming queen.

The class float and hall competitions were inspired by this year's theme "Here Come De Circus."

Homecoming week featured a special event each day. Monday, sweat shirt day; Tuesday, hat day; Wednesday, blue and white day; Thursday, dumb-hair-do day; and today topped the week as spirit and team day.

PARADE TONIGHT

The homecoming parade will assemble at approximately 6:30 tonight at Cedar and Ball streets in Ortonville.

* * *

The town's fire engine along with Brandon's cheerleaders will lead the annual parade. Included in this parade will be: Margo Mahoney, 1968-69 homecoming queen; Margie Widman, Miss Ortonville; the Byron Band; Brandon's Australian exchange student, John Smith; Youth for Understanding student, Bernhard Scholten from Germany; Brandon's three queen candidates; Brandon's senior band; senior float, the junior princess and float; the sophomore princess and float; and the freshman princess and float.

* * *

A bonfire on the Brandon baseball field will follow the parade.

The senior class will sponsor tonight's dance from 9:30-11:30. The group "Love Is" will entertain.

New PNH Policy

By NATALIE KILMER

In an effort to achieve better attendance, Pontiac Northern has changed its attendance procedure. Richard L. Tilwick, PNH attendance counselor, offers this explanation, "Attendance and the granting of credit have been tied together.

"If a student misses more than 15 per cent of the total school days in a semester, he will be required to take a five-hour comprehensive examination in the class or classes."

* * *

Glenn Griffin, father of last year's valedictorian, Patrick Griffin, has been added to the staff of PNH along with 23 other new teachers this year.

Sophomores proclaimed their "Sophmore Spirit" on a 16-foot, red-and-white banner in one of the main halls — too bad they didn't check the dictionary for the spelling of sophomore.

STEPS TAKEN ON TENSION

After the recent outbreak of racial tension at Pontiac Northern High School, several steps have been taken to relieve the situation.

Meetings held all day Friday gave some parents, students and faculty members an opportunity to express their opinions and plans were set in motion to alleviate the problems.

* * *

Most often students commented that they simply wanted an education without interruption.

Many students have very definite ideas on the situation. Ruth Goemarere, a PNH senior feels that, "When a minority of students can run a school it's a bad situation."

'INNOCENT PEOPLE HURT'

In Rose Ann LaVerdure's opinion, "It's a disgrace to the community." As far as the cause of the upset, Earl Williams states, "I don't think it's outsiders, it's two gangs in Pontiac fighting it out. Innocent people are getting hurt between the two gangs."

Del Darling, PNH junior, put it this way, "If this is freedom, we don't want any!"

Lee Calvin expressed the opinion of many when he said, "You feel like you're under watch all of the time."

Gracie Dominguez expressed this belief, "They're only doing it to try to prevent what happened Thursday."

Planning Begun for Avondale's Homecoming

By PATTI ANDRUS

* * *

Debating Course Is New

By JOANNE SANDERSON

With the opening of school at Walled Lake Central, many new ideas and courses have materialized.

One of the new programs at WLC is the debate program.

This program is a semester class, unlike last year's extracurricular program. Kathy Walker is teacher and debate coach.

Students in the program have already begun preparing for this year's debate issue — Resolved: That Congress Should Prohibit Unilateral United States Military Intervention in Foreign Countries.

TWO WORKSHOPS

Debaters have participated in two workshops this year.

They hope to attend the workshops held at Michigan State University, University of Michigan and Battle Creek.

These workshops are designed to familiarize the new students with the techniques of debate and the issues found within the debate proposition.

Plans for homecoming are centering around a Walt Disney theme. Any club or class may build a float. Homecoming candidates will be selected this week.

Each class will choose four candidates with the exception of the senior class which will choose five.

This year homecoming will be held on Oct. 17 when the WLC Vikings meet the Pontiac Northern Huskies.

* * *

Seniors will participate in College Night Tuesday, at Farmington High School.

The night will begin with a dinner at 5:30 sponsored by the board of education.

* * *

The program will start at 7 with a panel discussion. This discussion will feature speakers from Oakland Community College, the University of Michigan and the University of Detroit.

The topics disussed will be college selection, student activism and adjustment to the college campus concerning dorm life and the community student.

Novi

By TERRY VALENTINE

During the last three weeks of May, about 50 Novi High School girls tried out for cheerleading.

Florence Pangborn, physical education teacher, coached the girls.

* * *

Split up into groups of four or five, the girls learned one new cheer and one old one, and also made up their own pompon routines.

Pompon routines were to bear no similarity to other routines.

VARSITY JUDGES

Novi's experienced varsity cheerleaders — Kathy Winner, Virginia Clift, Pat Ling and Sue Vivian — and Miss Pangborn judged the girls on their over-all personality, coordination and their school grades, which had to be above a C plus.

Picked as cheerleaders for the varsity teams were Diano Krezel, Marilyn Prosch, Barb Reska, Eunice Reuter, Debbie Ward and Denise Ward.

* * *

The junior varsity team consists of Debby Dale, Claire DeBrule, Ann Padget, Cheryl McMillan, Sue Boyer and Sue Calhoun.

At Cheerleading Camp Novi won first-place ribbons for a Novi cheer and a camp cheer, with second-place ribbons for two pompon routines.

Marilyn Prosch won a second place trophy for most outstanding cheerleader.

Dominican

By CNYDI WYZGOSKI

Two classes were added to the Dominican Academy curriculum this year — general business and journalism.

Journalism previously was offered only as an extracurricular activity.

* * *

Both the Woodlander (yearbook) and The Come Back (newspaper) will be put out by the journalism class. The staff already has presented the student body with two issues of The Come Back. The drive for yearbook ads has begun. An award will be made to the class bringing in the most money in ads. The goal this year is $500 per class.

The race was on to see who started the year off with the first project and the winner was the senior class.

* * *

Monday it started its charm sale. The charms are miniature class rings with the year of graduation on them. They come in a choice of silver or gold bands and a varied assortment of setting colors.

Yesterday installation of class officers and executive members of the Student Council was held.

Oakland Christian

By LAURA KIRKPATRICK

Candy and competitive spirit soon will fill the halls at Oakland Christian High School.

The ninth-grade homeroom will sell candy with a prize going to each of the two top salesmen. Vickie Powell is president of the ninth grade.

The 10th grade homeroom also is sponsoring a "candy campaign" as it is called by President Mary Breslin.

Juniors and seniors, although a combined homeroom will be split by competition as the seniors, led by Kevin Lee Ballard, president, sell candy and ice cream during the lunch hour.

The juniors have no definite plans yet.

* * *

Oakland Christian had more than a new curriculum and teachers to get used to this year. It was also in a new building. It is now located in the Hickory Groves school building, a two-story structure on Square Lake Road.

The senior class discussed at a recent breakfast the senior trip and money-making ideas.

In an effort to improve communications between the administration and students of Holly High School, Principal Norman Jones opened his office from 8 to 8:30 a.m. Wednesday mornings to enable students to register complaints about school problems.

* * *

Also, a student-faculty communications committee has been formed to present pressing problems to the administration and to propose solutions. This committee meets with Jones during the lunch periods.

The student-faculty communications committee and the handbook committee were instrumental in forming the present dress code.

LACKED SUPPORT

A protest against this dress code was raised but lacked student support.

Teen Club, held in the student center and gym on Tuesday nights, has returned this year. Students may take this opportunity to play volleyball, basketball or Ping-Pong, dance or just sit and talk.

* * *

To afford the students of Holly with still more recreation time on weeknights and a place to go on weekends, support for a Holly Teen Recreation Center is being sought.

Freshman cheerleaders were chosen this week. They are Kim Crook, Patsy Finch, Patti Wiles, Marilyn Bailey, Lisa Stratton and Jodi Mitchell.

Pontiac Catholic

By PATRICK FRANCKEN

Pontiac Catholic High School started the 1969-70 year with a flurry of activity.

Tryouts for the fall play, "Arsenic and Old Lace," have begun; work on homecoming floats has started; the Phoenix yearbook staff has embarked on an expansion campaign; and freshmen have been initiated.

* * *

Howard Hoeflein, director of the play, found the tryouts encouraging. The play will be presented early in November.

The theme selected by Student Council for this year's homecoming is "fairy tales." Each class chose its own subtheme — seniors, Cinderella; juniors, Humpty Dumpty; sophomores, Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe; and freshmen, Winnie the Pooh.

SPONSOR CAMPAIGN

Yearbook editor John Parle, along with his staff, put together a sponsor campaign to finance yearbook improvements.

"We put together a staff capable of producing an outstanding yearbook," said Parle. "But, the staff can't finance it. We decided to raise the price. But we also put in a way of getting the yearbook free." If a student reaches a sponsor quota, he receives his yearbook free.

* * *

Last Friday's freshmen initiation mostly consisted of a presentation. During which the class was subjected to "good natured" abuse from the seniors.

Oxford

By LUCY SCHICK

Growing pains are evident at Oxford High School. The senior high now contains only three grades. The ninth grade was officially moved to the junior high building in late August.

This move diminished sports, the marching band and many clubs. At the same time, study halls were eliminated.

* * *

As a result, all personnel have been affected by these major changes. Every classroom is used every hour. The cafeteria is also used as a classroom.

Chemistry, physics and typing class enrollments are limited by cramped facilities.

CLASSES OVERFLOW

General biology and math classes have overflowed to the choir room, while the choir classes moved to the band room. Lack of a metals shop teacher has caused many boys to be rescheduled into gym class.

On the other hand, the new football field and the all-weather track are being hailed as superior facilities. When they were built behind the high school, a new tough cross-country course was set up at Camp Oakland.

Students and faculty are being given two months in which to adjust to all the major changes caused by becoming a three-grade school. Then a survey will be taken to determine the new system's strengths and weaknesses.

MAJOR ADJUSTMENTS

Student Council also has major adjustments to make. It has a new constitution and two new sponsors: Elmer Ball, shop teacher; and J. B. McQueen, math teacher.

A new dress code is in effect which relies on each student's own judgment of what is in good taste.

Stevenson

By ROXANNE BURKE

Stevenson High opened its doors to three foreign exchange students again this fall. Currently attending classes at SHS are seniors Gregorio de Guzman, Martin Beck and junior Antonio Yupango.

Gregorio, who hails from San Juan in the Philippines, claims he joined the exchange program to "gain experience." Among the things he'd like to do during his stay in the United States, are traveling, attending a football game and seeing snow.

* * *

Contrasting the educational processes between his homeland and the U.S., Greg states that he finds American schools a great deal less formal and claims this informality makes learning easier.

Antonio Yupango, also from the Philippines, explains his reason for joining the exchange program was to "broaden my horizons." Tony credits a great deal of human education not only to technical knowledge but to actual living experiences.

HOPES TO VISIT FALLS

During his stay in America, Tony hopes to visit Niagara Falls and is anxious to witness a snowfall. He is willing to try all varieties of winter sports including "war with snowballs."

Martin Beck accounts for his wanting to visit the U.S. to his desire to better his knowledge of the English language and to find out what America is "really like."

OLL Yearbook Ad Drive Begun

By MICKEY SEETERLIN

The annual yearbook ad drive is under way at Our Lady of the Lakes with a goal of $4,000 to finance the 1970 Lochmara. Each student who contributes $12 worth of ads will receive a free yearbook.

The homeroom which turns in the largest amount of ads will receive a free day from school to attend a movie of its choice.

Deadline for ads is Oct. 17.

Anyone who wishes to be a social patron or to place an ad in the yearbook can do so by contacting any OLL student.

COEDITORS

Yearbook coeditors are Anne Hoffman and Kathy Reed. Cynthia Kora is moderator.

What's the "Mod God Squad"? That's the new nickname the Sodality Club has adopted. This group of about 30 girls does volunteer work to help other people and the community.

* * *

Its first project of the year included participation in the Alsac March to aid handicapped children.

The Varsity Club is involved in a fund-raising venture to raise money for additional bleachers for the gym.

UNDER OWN POWER

Along with the Men's Club of the parish it is offering a "Tin Lizzie" which is a replica antique car that runs under its own power and carries one passenger.

Varsity Club officers are Mike Webster, president; Bryan Sauve, vice president; and Kathy Reed, secretary-treasurer.

* * *

The annual Junior Ring Ceremony with the blessing and presentation of class rings to the Class of '71 will be held on Sunday, at the 9:45 Mass.

Following Mass, juniors will be the guests of the sophomore class for breakfast.

* * *

There's a new club at Lakes this year—the Photography Club. The purpose of this club, sponsored by Robert Snare, is to assist the yearbook staff in taking professional type pictures for the yearbook.

W. Bloomfield Adjusting to 2 Shifts Per Day

By RUTH SOMERS

Excitment and turmoil are subsiding as West Bloomfield High School students adjust to their new two-shifts-a-day schedule.

Overcrowded conditions and a high school still under construction have caused the normal school day to be rearranged. Juniors and seniors attend school from 7:15 a.m. to 12:16 p.m. while freshmen and sophmores arrive at 11:20 a.m. and stay until 5:20 p.m.

Two of the new people at West Bloomfield are our foreign exchange students. American Field Service student Maria Rosetti is from Argentina. She makes her home with the Thomas Stevenses of Orchard Lake.

Dominique Guarino is from Paris, France and lives with the Mac M. Ashers of Birmingham.

The AFS Drive is Oct. 18. This house-to-house canvass takes place from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. followed by a workers' free lunch in the school cafeteria. The goal of $2,000 will be used to send exchange students from WBH abroad for the summer of 1970. Each participating person is entitled to free membership in the club.

The Laker football team meets the Clarkston Wolves, Oct. 10 in the homecoming game.

Weeks of time and effort have been spent preparing class floats for the halftime festivities.

The homecoming weekend is climaxed with election and presentation of the queen at the semiformal dance to be held in the gym Oct. 11.

Editors Warned Against Saturated Fats

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Breakfast Thursday was full of foods that our luncheon speakers disapprove of. Faberware took the opportunity to display all their small appliances by cooking breakfast for the food editors in the grand ballroom of the hotel.

Our first cups of coffee were chosen from pots containing different blends of coffee. Then there was a choice of ham, Canadian bacon, sausage, chicken livers, eggs, apple fritters and fruit kabobs.

An hour later we were seeing a demonstration of sausage cookery and invited to taste same. Devo Inc., (a division of Johnson and Johnson) told the story of how they developed Collagen sausage casings.

* * *

Then TV personality, chef Eddie Doucette, prepared an egg and sausage brunch dish. Other recipes for the humble pork sausage followed until we were convinced that sausage can indeed be a gourmet food. New sausage products in the near future may be made of poultry and fish.

Following a lunch of quail on rice with mushrooms, salad of artichoke bottoms and bibb lettuce, spicy squash and lemon ice, we heard all the horrible things that can happen to people who indulge in foods high in saturated fats.

Drs. William Castelli and William B. Kannel, directors of the Framingham Heart Study in Framingham, Mass., reiterated what doctors have been saying for the past few years: the increasing number of sudden deaths from heart attack can be prevented.

Certain foods seem to be the villians. Persons who are overweight, too sedentary, heavy smokers who also have high blood pressure and high blood cholesterol are prime victims. Evidence seems to indicate that proper diet will lower the cholesterol level and allow the individual to live longer.

START WITH CHILDREN

Furthermore, these doctors say we should start children on the proper diet so that their adult eating habits will not be dangerous.

There's really nothing new. Chicken, turkey, veal and fish are suggested as frequent substitutes for beef and pork. The use of refined sugar dairy products should be replaced by less fatty substances.

Learn to read labels, especially on margarine and non-dairy creamers and toppings. Unless they list liquid oils as a large part of the contents, the food may be made with coconut oil which is worse than butter.

Wouldn't you know that the meeting following luncheon would be a demonstration of food to serve at a cocktail-dinner? Was it suitable for the person prone to heart attack? Definitely not. But the concept of an informal meal shared with good companions is typical of the entertaining done today.

* * *

Nor was food at the reception with the Denmark Cheese Association the kind the doctors would have approved. It relied too heavily on cheese, and not cottage cheese.

Dr. Joyce Brothers was a special guest at the dinner given by Sara Lee Thursday evening. She is a petite, serene person with quiet charm.

The theme of the dinner was "the now and future she." As producers of convenience foods Sara Lee is interested in what the younger generation thinks. Does the very young homemaker have a guilt complex about using this kind of food? You'll remember that, when cake mixes first appeared on the market, it was felt that women had to add egg to the mix so that they would feel they were really contributing something to the cake. Today's she accepts convenience foods for what they are — a time saver.

FOOD IS MOTHERLINESS

Dr. Brothers went on to say that now she casually accepts doing some cooking and baking from scratch. She delights in doing creative shopping and in preparing gourmet foods. As in most other ways, she does her own thing. But, concluded the noted psychologist, food still expresses motherliness and being motherly is still important.

Sara Lee served two of their new products for dessert, streusel coffee cake and devils food cake with creamy icing. But the rest of their meal rated higher on the polyunsaturated scale. We had clear turtle soup, bibb lettuce with a pecan oil dressing, squab with rice, a tomato half with spinach puree and a small potato cake.

This is my last report from Chicago until next week when I will bring you the results of a long conference on food prices sponsored by the Supermarket Institute late this afternoon.

Blouseless Coeds in Florida Beat the Heat With Scarves

MIAMI (AP) — Some Miami college girls have provided reason for rejoicing among braless advocates—they're going blouseless as well.

The coeds on the Miami Dade Junior College—North Campus claim the new style helps them beat the Florida heat.

Going "blouseless" means wearing tight-fitting scarves tied at the neck and waist, with an exposed back, and nothing underneath.

The male students on campus have perked up, but some school administrators and faculty members feel such casualness should be reserved for the sand and surf.

"I stopped a couple of the girls in the halls and suggested that the apparel is more suitable for the beach," said M. J. Taylor, dean of students.

TOO MUCH

Richard Janaro, associate professor of humanities, said he thought miniskirts were a pleasant addition to the classroom, but the scarves were a little too much.

"I'd be distracted by wondering what's holding them on," he said.

* * *

The girls say their main worry is making sure the guy behind them in class isn't practicing his deftness at undoing the well-tied knot.

Best Food Buys Listed for Week

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The following guide to the nation's food buys for the weekend was prepared by the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Interior.

USDA's food experts again report that food shoppers this weekend should have no trouble finding good selections of meat and poultry and adequate selections of some fresh vegetables and fruit in food stores and supermarkets. All areas should also feature a good variety of seafoods.

* * *

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys continue to be the most abundant meats. Nearly all the well-known beef cuts are also abundant, including ground beef, liver, roasts, steaks, and stew meat. Ham and smoked picnics are in good supply in most areas. Some areas also may feature fresh pork cuts such as roasts and chops.

The most abundant fish buys in all areas are Maine sardines, canned tuna, and fish sticks and portions, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

* * *

Fresh vegetables in best supply are celery, lettuce, onions and potatoes. Apples are the most abundant fruit.

Other foods on USDA's plentiful foods list for October are fresh pears, canned peaches, rice and dry split peas.

Hostess Unwise to Announce Last Call Drink

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of the Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently I was invited to an open house party, in honor of a son's graduation. The hours were six to ten; I arrived at nine o'clock. At nine-thirty, the hostess went around to everyone, announcing the bar closes at ten and the party would be over at that time. Her son had another party to attend at ten-thirty.

I thought this was in very poor taste. A person should be given a chance to show that they have the good sense to know when to leave. Such a remark should only be made to the people staying after the specified time — if made at all.

Am I right or wrong in feeling the way I do? — Mrs. M.C.

* * *

Dear Mrs. C.: You are quite right. Only at a public place of entertainment is there any excuse for a maitre d' or headwaiter to announce a last call for drink orders. For a hostess to do so puts her home into the category of the public bar.

Her son might conceivably leave to attend the other party, but "speeding the parting guest" is not the sign of a gracious hostess. She had every right to close the bar at ten or a bit later, since the invitations specified that hour, but until ten she should have made every effort to keep her friends happy and the party going.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband would like to have 12 couples to our home for an informal party. Because I do not have enough matching china, would it be permissible to use paperware? — Helen

Dear Helen: Although I thoroughly approve of paper or plasticized plates for outdoor picnics and barbecues or very informal snack parties, they are not appropriate for a more formal buffet.

It is not necessary to have matching china for everyone. Set out each pattern of your own plates in a separate stack, and borrow the remainder from a neighbor or relative. Or you may rent china. You may do the same with the silver.

A party of 24 people is quite an occasion, and using real china, rather than paperware, will help to make it extra special.

Registered Nurses Set for New Salary Hike Following Agreement

DETROIT (UPI) — City of Detroit registered nurses have signed a new work agreement that makes them "one of the highest paid groups of nurses in the United States," the city's Labor Relations Department announced today.

"The wage settlement provides a $500 increase, with additional deferred adjustments," department Director Al Leggat said.

"With last year's $2,500 increase, it means that a registered nurse without previous outside experience may earn as of Jan. 1, 1970, a maximum of $10,000 annually after five years of city employment," Leggat said.

Mate's Job Schedule Keeps Wife Unhappy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: For the first eight years of our marriage Hank worked from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. — a civilized shift. I always got up first and prepared a good hot breakfast for him.

Suddenly, two years ago Hank decided that he hated to get up in the morning, so he got on the 4 p.m. to midnight shift. This gets him home about one o'clock in the morning! Abby, he insists that I be up waiting for him so we can have coffee together while he "unwinds." This takes at least an hour. I still have to get up early with the children, and I just can't get along on four or five hours sleep.

I have never been able to "nap" in the afternoon. I've tried, but it just doesn't work for me.

I think Hank is being very selfish and inconsiderate, so what is your advice to me?

HANK'S WIFE

* * *

DEAR WIFE: Hank's reason for working the 4 p.m. to midnight shift strikes me as being somewhat childish. Tell him if he wants you to "unwind" with him after work, he'll have to get back on the "civilized" shift, otherwise he'll have to unwind by himself.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that if a person buys a ring which has a birthstone in it, and it is not that person's birthstone, it will put a curse on him?

PAULA

DEAR PAULA: Only if that person can't meet the payments.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Why would a respectable 30-year-old man with a wife who adores him, and two lovely children, keep obscene pictures of himself and a former conquest lying around in plain view in his workshop? Aren't decent men usually ashamed of such pictures?

Does he want to humiliate me? Or does he want our children, or anyone else who happens to come in, to see them?

We are both college graduates and from good families. I am not looking for trouble, Abby, but I don't know how much longer I can let this go without mentioning it. Please, please help me.

TORTURED WIFE

* * *

DEAR WIFE: It's difficult to believe that a "decent" man would deliberately leave such pictures lying around in plain view, so I would have to assume that his "carelessness" is an unconscious cry for help. He wants to be "caught" and punished. Discuss it with him without delay. He may need professional help.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Some smart-mouthed teen-age girl wrote in saying she thought it was a "sin" for her mother to be having a baby at age 45. Well, I don't think it is a "sin" exactly, but I would like to say that I doubt if any woman in her right mind would have a baby on purpose at age 45.

* * *

I am 44 and I have a new grandchild who is eight weeks old. My daughter and her husband went on a vacation and left the baby with me, and I don't mind telling you I must have been crazy to take this child for two weeks. I haven't had a night's sleep in six days, and I am so tired all day I can't see straight — but the baby is going strong.

* * *

Women past 40 should leave well enough alone and let the younger ones increase the population. I have no sympathy for a woman who asks for motherhood in her forties. And they won't get any sympathy from their husbands either. They sleep through it all.

EXHAUSTED IN DALLAS

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Please tell the man who wanted to become a registered male nurse, but wasn't sure whether he would be accepted in a school because he had a police record, the following:

* * *

Anyone with a police record who wants to become a registered nurse should first investigate the requirements of the STATE BOARD of NURSING, NOT the admission requirements of the nursing school.

* * *

I don't know how it is in other states, but in Indiana the applicant for examination and license as an R.N. must sign an affidavit stating that he has never been convicted of a felony or any other crime involving moral turpitude.

Detroit Institute to Get Art Works

DETROIT (AP) — One of the richest private art collections in the United States has been left to the city of Detroit by the late Robert Hudson Tannahill.

The paintings, which only Tannahill's closest friends have ever seen as a group, include two of Renoir's finest works, oils by Picasso, Matisse, Modigliani, Van Gogh, Monet, Roualt, Juan Gris and many other prominent artists.

The gift was revealed recently in Tannahill's will which was filed for probate in Wayne County Probate Court. He died Sept. 25 at 76.

* * *

No firm estimate of the value of the collection could be obtained but art critics said it would be worth millions of dollars if the paintings were sold.

However, Tannahill specified in his will that the entire collection must be kept intact by the Detroit Institute of Arts. The collection is especially rich in impressionist and post-impressionist selections.

STONEWARE

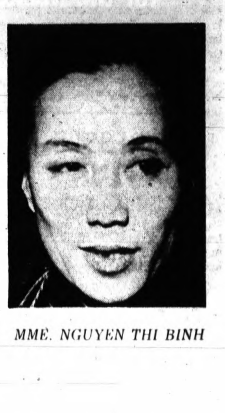

Tannahill was a native Detroiter who donated works of art to museums in the city throughout his life. His first gift to the institute of Arts was in 1926 when he offered an 18th century Portuguese stoneware vase which he then valued at $25.

Tannahill's mother was the sister of J. L. Hudson, founder of Detroit's Hudson's Department Store. She also was the sister of Mrs. William Clay, mother of Mrs. Edsel Ford and grandmother of Henry Ford II.

Notable Women Make Comments

Quotable quotes from women during the week:

"If the United States wants to settle the Vietnam problem it must stop its war of aggression and fulfill the legitimate demand of the peoples of America, Vietnam and the whole world."—Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, chief Viet Cong delegate to the Paris Vietnam peace talks.

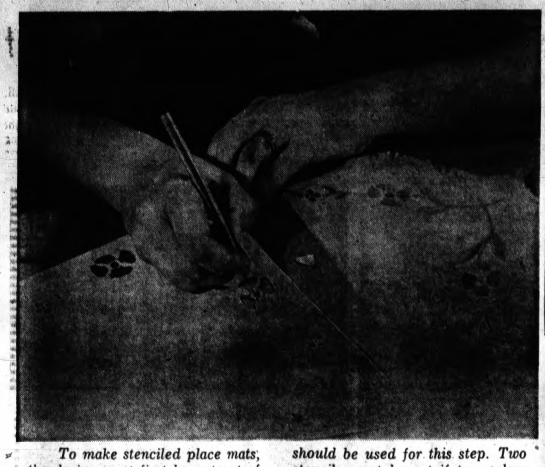

MME. NGUYEN THI BINH

RITA HAYWORTH

"Everybody else does nude scenes, but I don't. I never made nude movies. I didn't have to do that. I was provocative, I guess, in some things. But I was not completely exposed."—Actress Rita Hayworth in an interview.

To make stenciled place mats, the design must first be cut out of heavy waxed paper. The stencil knife or single-edge razor blade should be used for this step. Two stencils must be cut if two colors will be used in the design.

Easy for Beginners

Stencil Work Is Colorful Art

Whether you are the all-thumbs type or an experienced do-it-yourselfer, you will find stenciling an easy way to personalize your home.

Stenciled designs are decorative and colorful additions to place mats, curtains, pillow covers, bedspreads, dresses, aprons, towels, pillowcases and wall hangings.

Items stenciled with permanent, washable textile colors can be machine laundered without loss of color or design.

* * *

Materials required include a firmly woven, all cotton fabric. For best results, use one that has been washed to remove sizing.

Also, textile paints, stencil paper or heavy waxed or freezer paper, a stencil knife or single-edge razor blade and a short, stubby paint brush are needed.

For the first attempt at stenciling, use a simple design, either a ready-made pattern or a motif traced from an art book or magazine. Flowers, fruit, sunburst, leaves, animal shapes, birds and initials are good choices.

WAXED PAPER

To cut the stencil, place waxed paper on top of the design you have traced onto white paper. Put this against a window pane and tape securely to hold it in place. The design must be visible through the stencil paper to be copied easily.

Trace the design onto the waxed paper with a hard pencil. Then cut out the design with the stencil knife or razor blade.

If more than one color is to be used with your stencil, cut separate stencils for each color.

For example, if the design is to be a flower with petals and leaves, the flower portion might be red, with the leaves to be painted green in the final design. Therefore, one stencil will be cut for the flower and another for the stem and leaves.

Put the fabric to be stenciled on a blotter or thick cardboard to soak up any excess paint. Tack or tape the stencil in place on the fabric.

Use the manufacturer's directions for the preparation and application of textile paints. Stroke color on fabric with the stubby brush, working from the outer edge of the stencil toward the center.

Be sure not to have too much paint on the brush. Wipe off excess paint before each brush stroke is begun. Let the first color dry before adding additional colors to the fabric.

DECORATE TABLECLOTH

After simple designs and items have been successfully decorated, try a bigger project such as a bedspread or tablecloth.

Your personal touch with designs and colors will add charm and interest to any home.

Spinach Salad

Do try adding fresh spinach leaves to the usual mixed greens when you are making tossed salad. They make for pleasantly different flavor.

When fudge, after cooking, is cooled to lukewarm before beating, it should be at 104 degrees on a candy thermometer.

Watch Fuses

If you are giving a large brunch party, borrow several friends' electric toasters and let guests make their own toast; but be sure your electric wiring is adequate to take the load.

Wearing an apron made of terry cloth when you are sewing any kind of slippery material will help anchor it and keep it from sliding off your lap.

Couples Repeat Vows

The James R. Reids (Carole E. Hendrix) are honeymooning in Pennsylvania following their marriage recently.

The couple was married in an evening ceremony in the home of the Revered Mrs. Lola Marion on James K Boulevard.

* * *

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Morris of Bataan Drive performed the duties of honor attendants.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Reid of Third Street.

HUBBARD-DOUCETTE

The Church of Saint Paul the Apostle in Ithaca was the setting for the recent exchange of vows of Shirley Ann Hubbard and Bryan Adam Doucette.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Vera Hubbard of Clarkston and Mrs. Marietta Doucette of Ithaca.

* * *

The bride chose a gown of satin with lace and seed pearl accents. She carried a cascade bouquet of roses and ivy.

Mrs. Donald Lukemire served her sister as matron of honor. Gary Herubin performed the duties of best man.

Gala Benefits Kidney Care

Proceeds of a semi-formal dinner dance to be held Saturday at Western Golf and Country Club will benefit the Artificial Kidney Center at Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital.

* * *

This area's reservations chairman is Mrs. Roderick McLachlan, of Birmingham.

* * *

Six victims of kidney failure who owe their lives to the center will attend. Included are Farmington residents Edith Knapp and Harold Shpiece.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Some years ago I wrote a couple of articles about retirement and received hundreds of letters from readers. I quoted a few of them concerning the difficulties it created for a wife. There is no doubt that a man's retirement changes his wife's life pattern as well as his own. Some of these letters were humorous, some frustrated, and a few were rather bitter.

* * *

The letters from readers kept coming in long after my columns were published. Today, I bring you some letters which present another viewpoint.

Dear Mrs. Lowman,

"Here's some advice for the women who think life is so rough after their husbands retire: Tell them to get down on their knees and thank God for sparing their husbands for a life of leisure and companionship with them!

"I, too, miss friends and neighbors dropping in because I have to work to support myself. However, many so-called good friends don't call after you are widowed because you are an extra spoke in the wheel.

"Yes, get these unhappy wives together, and let me come and tell them how tired one is at the end of a hard day's work, and how lonely it is to come home to an empty house, clean, wash and iron, cook, pay bills; and worry about keeping the house in repair."

* * *

Dear Mrs. Lowman,

"A short and snappy answer on the subject of retirement. There is only one alternative to a husband's retirement and that is widowhood. Think it over, wives, and you will thank God every day for the sweetest of all blessings, companionship and love."

The completed place mat reflects some imagination and adds color to a table. The simple art of stenciling is an old craft of transferring designs to furniture and fabrics and is just as easy and rewarding today.

Barefootedness—Good, Bad? Depends Where You Stand

Going barefoot has been frowned on by mothers for generations. Physicians and podiatrists including members of the American Podiatry Association, are likely to support mother — but not completely.

Without shoes, feet are exposed to injury and infection, and especially to a painful condition of the soles of the feet known as plantar warts.

Encased in shoes, especially during warm weather, feet perspire freely, and this encourages development of fungus infections such as athlete's foot.

Twenty of every thousand Americans suffer from some foot condition according to a study by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Much of the suffering and disability due to foot disorders can be prevented by annual foot checkups, professional treatment, and personal foot hygiene.

* * *

Foot care is basically a matter of keeping your feet clean and dry. The use of pHisoHex, an antibacterial skin cleanser, in place of soap is often recommended, and has been found to control foot perspiration odor when used regularly. Frequent shoe and stocking changes will help, along with liberal use of a good foot powder.

Any injury to feet or the existence of a chronic foot ailment should be treated by a podiatrist or physician.

* * *

But MD, foot specialist, mother, and the whole family are likely to agree on one point — that walking barefoot on soft, green grass, or on long stretches of sandy beach is a wonderful feeling, often good for the feet — and for the inner soul.

Leather furniture can be cleaned with saddle soap, rinsed with a damp cloth and dried thoroughly. Complete the cleaning by using a leather conditioning dressing.

To get all of the ice cream out of a container, try using a rubber bowl scraper instead of a scoop or spoon.

Art Teachers Make It Big as Inventors

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Thou shalt not permit children to drop paint on the floor."

That's the rule Nancy Cherry and Judy Shackelford, two young women well on the way to millionaire row, credit for their success.

"We loved the children but hated the system," Miss Cherry said. "Can you imagine teaching finger-painting and not getting paint on the floor?"

★ ★ ★

That was five years ago when the two coaxed a beat-up foreign car between an apartment they shared and school. They turned to non-pedagogical pursuits and now drive a Cadillac.

The two disgruntled former art teachers, average age 26, have established themselves as inventors of toys and other things, including inflatable mannequins used to display clothing.

"When we left teaching, we had no money, only a few art supplies and an idea or two," Miss Shackelford said. "We didn't even have enough talent to make money painting portraits in Greenwich Village."

TISSUE PAPER

The first toy idea they sold to a major manufacturer involved artistic use of tissue paper and glue. Then they sold a doll with wardrobe to a mail order house.

They made a deal with Parker Brothers and marketed an inflatable pillow version of "instant insanity."

Miss Cherry, graduate of Hofstra University and a native New Yorker, is president of Inflat-A-Industries — the firm that invented and has rights to the inflatable mannequins. The "blow-ups" cost a third of what plastic and plaster versions do.

★ ★ ★

Miss Shackelford, of Alton, Ill., and a graduate of Southern Illinois University, is president of Cherry-Shackelford Creations Inc., the art end of the partnership. The newest item in that line: potted flower that opens to reveal a baby doll.

Afternoons of Art Again Planned at Detroit Institute

"Afternoons of Art" are again being sponsored by the Docent Committee of the Founders Society at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The afternoons will begin at 12:15 p.m. with a salad luncheon in Rivera Court.

★ ★ ★

Following lunch, small groups will tour the newly renovated Robert Tannahill Wing, which opened in June of this year. Exhibits include examples from the early colonists through the 19th century and feature the works of John Singleton Copley, Whistler and Winslow Homer. American furniture, silver and glass are also on display.

★ ★ ★

The luncheon tours will begin Oct. 22 and continue on Tuesdays and Wednesdays through April 29, 1970. Groups as small as 8 or as large as 80 may be accommodated.

Reservations or additional information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Carolyn Goodrich at the Institute.

Mocha Is Result of Flavor Mix

Coffee and chocolate flavors blend harmoniously.

Mocha Frosting

1 tablespoon instant coffee
3 tablespoons boiling water
¼ cup butter, at room temperature
1 tablespoon unsweetened cocoa
1½ cups unsifted confectioners' sugar

Dissolve the coffee in the boiling water. Beat the butter and cocoa together. Gradually beat in the sugar alternately with the coffee. Makes enough frosting for top and sides of a 2-layer 8-inch round cake.

Finely chop almonds and work into your pastry (or pie crust mix) for summer fruit and berry pies.

Stocks, Mutual Funds May Be Answer for Retirement

By ANNE TAYLOR
AP Newsfeature

Dear Miss Taylor: Could you advise the best place for about $200 monthly that we are now able to save with the children grown?

We have a balance due of $10,500 on our home, now worth about $35,000. We have about $2,500 in stocks, and some $3,500 in savings. Would it be better to make extra mortgage payments at five per cent or invest all we can in special accounts at five to five-one-half per cent?

We're not familiar enough with stocks or interested in them other than for the American Telephone we've received through my husband's payroll deduction.

We are both in our early fifties, and want to use the money we have in the best way possible.

Mrs. F. C., Des Plaines, Ill.

Dear Mrs. F. C.: If it's an "either-or" situation, and I don't think it need be, then an investment at five per cent wins out easily. That mortgage is an asset; you can't get money any cheaper than that, wo why pay off in advance?

If you have $200 a month to invest I think you must widen your horizons a bit and familiarize yourself with equity investments such as stocks, mutual funds or real estate.

Inflation is quite likely to be a part of our economic picture for not just months but years ahead, and the return on your investments must exceed the rate of inflation or you will be cheating yourself.

You might seriously consider purchasing an inexpensive vacation home. You will then have income from rentals when you are not using it, a small tax deduction and a hedge against inflation.

I suggest you obtain at your bookstore a copy of "Your American Research Council, and browse through it at your leisure. I think then you might think differently about limiting your use of money to just two or three outlets.

Some epicures like to add raw mushrooms to a green salad. If the mushrooms are very small, add them whole. Medium-size mushrooms can be sliced thin and used.

Coffee Drinkers Can Expect Teeth Stain

By DR. HOWARD E. KESSLER

Coffee is a subject many readers want discussed.

Drinking coffee is chiefly related to dentistry in three ways—staining the teeth, discoloring fillings and increasing salivary flow.

KESSLER

Some people blame the caffeine for staining their teeth, but this is not true. The oils of the coffee are the basic stainers.

Caffeine is white, odorless and, incidentally, a poison in certain concentrated forms.

* * *

Caffeol, a volatile oil, is mainly what gives coffee its characteristic aroma and flavor. So, de-caffeinated coffee tastes about the same as regular coffee, and, according to many authorities, is better for you, but is just as apt to stain your teeth as coffee with caffeine.

Instant coffee tends to stain the teeth much more than the slow-type coffee. Notice how it discolors your drinking cups more than does regular coffee.

A number of persons asked me in letters whether or not the new freeze-dried coffees tend to stain the teeth. From all indications they do not discolor the teeth as much as instant coffee, but they have not been on the market long enough for a definite answer to be given.

* * *

Synthetic porcelain fillings tend to become stained by coffee.

When you drink coffee with caffeine, you usually can expect many things to occur within yourself. Your stomach acid output is greatly increased, your heart beats faster, blood vessels in your brain constrict but widen in the heart area, kidneys increase their output, breathing increases, metabolic rate goes up and, what dental scientists have particularly studied, salivary flow greatly increases.

* * *

These reactions differ widely from one individual to another because caffeine tolerance is so variable. In a like manner, tooth staining associated with coffee drinking varies greatly in the mouths of different people.

* * *

In spite of these variations, we dentists see coffee stains on the teeth of a large percentage of patients because of its almost universal usage. I am told that 96 per cent of families drink coffee every day.

Area Women Wear Rings

Sarah Laura Medina and Pvt. Antonio Macias Jr., USA, will wed Dec. 27.

* * *

She is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Medina of South Paddock Street and Alfredo Medina of Mt. Clemens.

* * *

Her fiance, now stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Macias of Cottage Street.

BROWN-MOORE

January wedding vows are being planned by Linda Lee Brown and Harry S. Moore.

Parents of the engaged couple are Mr. and Mrs. David R. Brown of South Marshall Street, Mrs. Harry Moore of Dearborn and the late Mr. Moore.

Shred Cheese

Cheese blends more readily with other ingredients and melts more quickly if you shred or dice it first. One-half pound of cheese yields about 2 cups of shredded cheese.

More Nutritious

Brown rice is the whole unpolished grain of rice, with only the outer hull and a small amount of bran removed. It has a nut-like flavor and a slightly chewy texture.

You can give that pork roast the delicious flavor of Chinese pork by sprinkling it well with celery seed before roasting, and basting with one-half cup of soy sauce when it is almost done.

Correction Made

The engagement announcement of Penny Doreen Iser published Oct. 1 was incorrectly reported. Miss Iser will wed Pvt. Thomas H. Berger, USA, on Nov. 15.

* * *

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Iser of Semloh Street, Orion Township and Mr. and Mrs. Clare Berger of Lake Orion.

Garnish Pork

Boneless smoked shoulder butt looks very festive indeed if it is sliced in the kitchen, arranged on a platter and surrounded with spiced crabapples nestling in sprigs of parsley.

Before starting to iron, spread a wornout sheet under the ironing board. This prevents your freshly ironed clothes from becoming in contact with the floor.

To run out of milk is to run out for milk.

Children Ask but Who Can Answer?

By BETTY CANARY
NEA Writer

I keep having this dream. It's sometime in the future and there's a crowd of young people just standing around. "What's happening?" I ask. "Why are you milling around here?"

"Well," a young man answers, "none of us know how to do much of anything else."

"You poor things," I say, "didn't any of you go to school?"

* * *

"Most of us are very well-educated," he answers politely, "but none of it seems very, uh, what's the word?"

"Useful," I suggest.

"Relevant," he says.

"What happened?" I ask.

"It all started when I was in junior high school," he begins, but we're interrupted by a group of pretty girls whirling across the street. "They learned folk-dancing," he tells me.

"You were saying . . ." I prompted.

* * *

"Yes. Oh, I had to spend hours learning to make things in woodshop in junior high school and I didn't care much for that. But, because I made good grades, I was allowed the special privilege of being in the beginning Spanish class, although I didn't want to learn Spanish. I liked history but I didn't pay too much attention because I had already read better history books from the public library. It was the same in high school, only worse."

* * *

I awaken then and realize I've been dreaming. I even know why I have the dream. Because I've listened to the questions kids are asking today.

Honestly, they keep asking things such as, "If I want to be a mechanic, why take two years of Latin?" and "I made straight As in French, so why can't I speak or read it?" and "Why spend a year learning to make hot chocolate when I already know how to cook and I'd rather spend that time studying poetry?" There MUST be answers to that kind of question.

* * *

Anyway, I believe in that old truism. "If you can't say something nice about someone, don't say anything at all." So, I thought and I thought and at last I realized there was one area in which we've made terrific achievements. In school plays.

* * *

Last year, I saw a sixth grade class present scenes from "Oliver!" and the year before I saw one do a short version of "South Pacific." Last spring the fourth grade did "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang." They were almost professional productions.

* * *

When I was in fourth grade, our chorus sang, "I'm a pretty snowflake," and only one girl knew all the words. In both fifth and sixth grades I was a cabbage in a nutrition play. Talk about amateurs!

Now, if I can only sleep long enough the next time, I'm going to point out some facts to the boy in the dream. About how the kids really DO know how to do something. Maybe they won't know about the more conventional jobs, but they can all go into the entertainment field.

Brush, Broil

Broiling slices of liver? Brush them with melted butter or margarine and cook close to the heat; turn and brush with butter again before finishing the broiling.

Lumpy gravy? Mix a little salt with flour to prevent the lumps from forming.

When icing cakes, you can make them look nicer if you first frost them with a thin layer of icing. This will hold down crumbs and give a smooth, even base coat. As soon as the first icing sets, apply the final coat of icing.

Chocolate, Oranges, Herring May All Bring Headache

CHICAGO (AP) — It may hardly come as a surprise that drinking wine can give you a headache if you stay with it long enough.

But whoever thought you might get the same painful result from eating chocolates, cheese, oranges or herring?

It seems that you can, reported Australian Dr. Michael Anthony at an international symposium on headaches at Mount Sinai Hospital Medical Center Wednesday.

* * *

"Migraine is associated with detectable chemical changes in the body, namely a fall in plasma serotonin, the substance in blood which prevents the vessels from dilating or constricting excessively," Anthony said.

"When serotonin drops, vessels enlarge, blood flow increases and places painful pressure on the vessel's nerve endings, and thus you have migraine."

ALIEN SUBSTANCE

Anthony, a professor of neurology at the University of New South Wales, Sydney, said, "This drop in serotonin is due to an alien substance which enters the blood during the attack."

Research has indicated, he said, that carriers of this alien substance include chocolates, wine, cheese, herring and oranges.

* * *

Anthony said research has shown that serotonin constricts large arteries and veins and dilates smaller vessels, including capillaries.

A study of patients admitted to hospital for migraine showed that their headaches were relieved by the intravenous administration of serotonin, he reported.

Build a Better Community

UF Has Three Distinct Purposes

The United Fund is a national organization dedicated to the sole purpose of helping others.

In its attempt to serve the greatest number of people, the United Fund has three distinct but related purposes.

★ ★ ★

It exists for social reasons to serve the community and make it a better place for all to live. Further, it serves its member agencies, helping them to plan and coordinate their services as well as providing one central fund-raising campaign.

The primary purpose is to serve people; each individual who benefits from one of its member agencies is actually being served by the United Fund.

STARTED IN 1949

The Pontiac Area United Fund began in 1949 following the creation of Detroit's United Foundation Torch Drive. The Pontiac United Fund thus became the second united organization to be established in the nation.

The United Fund serves as a central clearinghouse for volunteers, providing a central paid staff for planning, administration and budgeting. This central organization enables and helps each member agency to run more efficiently.

★ ★ ★

Agencies of the United Fund must depend upon private fund-raising drives for their operational expenses. If each of the 55 agencies in the United Fund conducted separate drives, expenses would range from 15 to 25 per cent of the amount collected.

BALANCED PROGRAM

In the Pontiac area United Fund drive, encompasing all the agencies, campaign costs average about 4 per cent of the money raised.

United Fund agencies provide a balanced program of services avoiding duplication of services. Community contributors make one contribution instead of many, eliminating the annoyance of separate drives.

★ ★ ★

Modern management techniques are employed to assure that every dollar collected will result in the maximum yield of service. Each spring all the Pontiac Area United Fund agencies submit a budget for the operating year beginning in the following January.

These budgets are carefully analyzed by budget panels composed of volunteer citizens from every type of profession including labor and industry.

RECOMMENDATIONS

As a result of these studies, the various committees recommend what the United Fund should appropriate to each agency for the next year. All of these recommendations are added together and this sum becomes the fund-raising goal sought during the fall United Fund campaign.

★ ★ ★

United Fund administration also involves year-round review of agency budgets on a monthly basis. The budget committee also meets monthly to handle special financial requests from its member agencies.

★ ★ ★

As in every other United Fund activity, the fund campaign is a volunteer effort. Approximately 8,000 to 10,000 residents in the Pontiac area take part in the fund-raising effort.

★ ★ ★

Volunteers solicit the money, plan promotional programs that will spotlight the drive, do campaign accounting and speak to their fellow citizens on behalf of the United Fund agencies.

VARIED ACTIVITIES — As these Girl Scout campers show, young girls are served by the North Oakland County Girl Scout Council, another United Fund service to the Pontiac area community.

LEGAL AID — Legal advice is based on income at the Oakland County Legal Aid Society, which provides a personalized service as varied as the people who seek legal help. This is still another United Fund agency.

22 United Fund Agencies Offer Variety of Services

The 22 local and statewide United Fund agencies are aimed at providing services including assistance in professional guidance, counseling, research, recreation and education.

★ ★ ★

These agencies are open to any Pontiac-area citizens, and fees are geared to each client's ability to pay. Some agencies make no charge for their services.

★ ★ ★

The Oakland County Legal Aid Society offers legal advice and representation to persons of limited finances while Family Services of Oakland County provides family counseling services including individual personal adjustment problems, marital counseling, counseling for the aged, adolescents, and child-parent relationship difficulties.

Big Brothers of Oakland County recruits, screens and trains men to befriend boys from fatherless homes, providing masculine adult companionship for boys otherwise deprived of that important factor in their lives.

COUNSELING SERVICES

Catholic Social Services of Oakland County provides counseling services to families and individuals regarding problems of adjustment, budgeting, parent-child relationships and marriage counseling.

In addition, services are provided for unmarried parents and for placement of children in foster homes and institutions. Adoption services are also provided.

The Boys Club of Pontiac Inc. provides opportunities for boys through a continuing program of education, guidance and physical activities.

The Michigan Children's Aid Society provides temporary foster home care for children from broken homes, places children for adoption and offers counseling and planning to unwed parents.

The Salvation Army Pontiac Citadel is a religious and charitable welfare agency providing emergency assistance, counseling and spiritual guidance, transient welfare and rehabilitative and disaster services as well as maternity service for unmarried mothers.

URBAN LEAGUE

The Pontiac Area Urban League is a professional social agency working to benefit the total community by improving conditions under which racial minorities live and work. It also attempts to promote intergroup understandings.

★ ★ ★

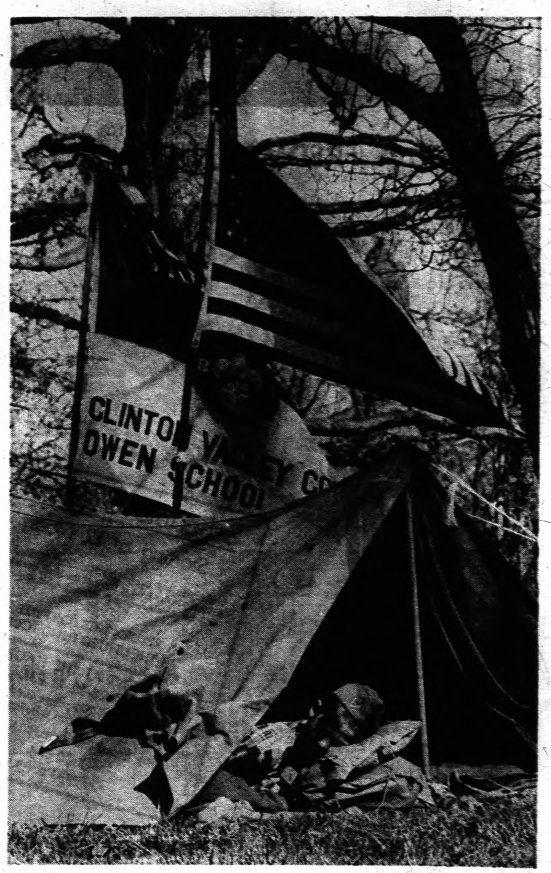

The YMCA of Greater Pontiac, serving individuals and families, provides program services in physical education and aquatics, group work, camping, informal education, social recreation, health services and counseling.

REACH OUT & CARE

A Message To The Community

Our campaign slogan this year is "Reach Out and Care." I have never been more sincere when I say that during our United Fund campaign this year we must "Reach Out and Care."

The Pontiac Area United Fund, along with the Detroit United Foundation were the first such organizations in the world. The citizens in our area started something that has been copied in thousands of cities throughout the United States and Canada.

Now twenty-one years later the Pontiac Area United Fund has reached a crossroad.

I am sorry to report that in the Pontiac area, as well as in most cities of the United States, the very foundation of the private enterprise way of life expressed through the United Fund movement is being threatened by a lack of interest and participation on the part of the citizens who created the United Fund movement.

It has become increasingly hard to recruit the army of 8,000 to 10,000 volunteers who are needed to conduct our local campaign each year and to convince all of our citizens to give a little more each year to meet the rising costs experienced by our 55 member agencies.

The agencies experience rising costs of living just as all businesses and employees are experiencing.

As a result, our past two United Fund campaigns have not reached their goals; they have not collected the necessary amount to maintain services demanded by the people of our area. Our 55 agencies have been forced, in may instances, to curtail their programs, to reduce staff and to set aside plans for new and creative programs needed in the area.

Our goal this year is $1,240,000, the highest in our history. This figure represents 15 per cent more than the amount actually raised last year. However, because of our past two unsuccessful campaigns, it is needed to retain minimal services and to prevent a further curtailment of agency staffs and programs.

When you are asket to contribute to the United Fund campaign this year please remember that you are being asked to support 55 agencies. Please realize that if we did not have a United Fund, you would be facing 55 separate agency solicitors, or more than one a week!

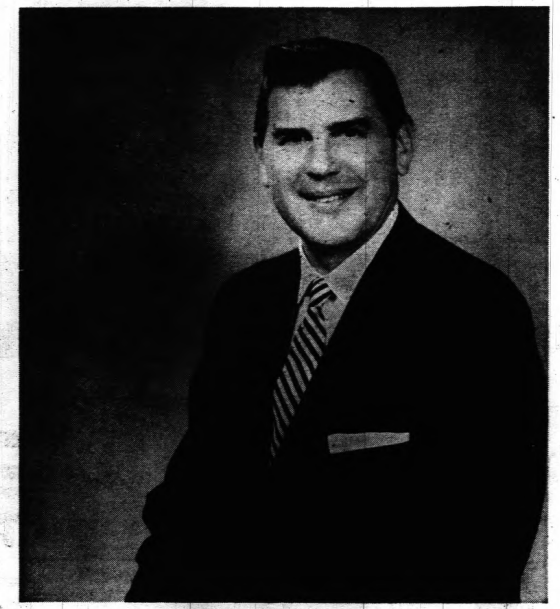

The United Fund campaign is not held to help any company or employer, it is conducted to help each of us as individuals. A refusal to give because we do not like our boss or because we resent the way our firm or company functions, will not hurt the company — it hurts you, your friends, your family and your neighbors.

Giving can be so easy by using the payroll deduction plan most firms offer, or by paying monthly amounts direct to the United Fund office.

We are all concerned about increasing taxes and higher costs. However, I think if we honestly assess our personal circumstances we have to admit that we are in a period of prosperity and we have really never had it so good.

Our area cannot survive without concern and care for one another. By surpassing our goal this year, we will prove that we do care. So let each and every one of us "Reach Out and Care."

Apollo 12 Crew Plans a Shocker on Way Home

AP Wirephoto

BURNING CONCERN — Astronaut Alan L. Bean looks over a radioisotope generator he is to place on the moon as he tells newsmen it may become too hot to handle. The generator is to supply power for the experiments the crew will conduct. At a press conference in Cape Kennedy last night, Bean said he was not concerned about radioactivity, but the generator could heat up to 1,400 degrees if left out long enough.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — After they explore the moon next month, the Apollo 12 astronauts plan to send their unmanned landing craft crashing to the surface from a height of 65 miles to create a giant seismic shock.

The impact, measured by a seismometer, could reveal much about the internal structure of the lunar mass.

* * *

Assigned to the mission, scheduled for launching Nov. 14, is an all-Navy crew of Cmdrs. Charles Conrad and Richard F. Gordon Jr. and Lt. Cmdr. Alan L. Bean. Conrad and Bean are to land in the Ocean of Storms while Gordon orbits overhead.

Bean, the only rookie on the team, described the project's planned experiments at a news conference Thursday night.

CRASH TIMING

He said the deliberate crashing of the lunar module, or LM, is to occur after the two explorers launch themselves off the moon and rejoin Gordon in the command ship, 65 miles above the surface.

"Gordon will maneuver the LM to the proper attitude for the burn," Bean explained. "Then we'll move away and fire up the jets to start the LM out of orbit. We hope to track it all the way down.

"We'd like to crash it about one kilometer from the seismometer. The impact ought to really excite it and we can infer a lot about the internal structure of the moon."

* * *

A record of the resulting shock wave, for example, could tell whether the moon is layered, like the earth, or more solid.

FIVE EXPERIMENTS

The seismometer, intended mainly to record moonquakes and meteoroid hits, is one of five scientific experiments Conrad and Bean are to deploy during seven hours walking around on the lunar surface. That's more than triple the time the Apollo 11 astronauts spent outside their module in July.

Four of the experiments will measure such things as the solar wind, magnetic fields and the pressure of the atmosphere.

* * *

The experiments will receive electricity from an atomic generator fueled by a radioactive element, Plutonium 238. The generator will build up terrific heat.

* * *

"I don't think the radioactivity is ever going to be a problem," Bean reported. "The thing to worry about is the temperature. It's up to about 1,400 degrees if you leave it out long enough."

WITHIN 20 MINUTES

He said he intended to have the generator in place within 20 minutes and didn't expect the temperature to rise above 250 degrees in that period.

* * *

Conrad and Bean hope to land about 600 feet from the unmanned Surveyor 3 spacecraft which touched down on the moon in 1967.

* * *

They want to climb 150 feet down a crater wall to clip off parts of the vehicle with a bolt cutter.

* * *

Bean said the condition of the pieces could help designers of space stations and moon bases determine how well certain materials stand up to long-term exposure in the space environment.

9th Graders' Bill Now U.S. Law

Congress and Nixon OK Class Project

LUTHERVILLE, Md. (AP) — What began as a ninth-grade project to show how a bill is drafted has ended as federal legislation signed by President Nixon.

Ralph Jaffe, the young social studies teacher at Ridgeley Junior High School who started the whole thing, is shaking his head in disbelief.

* * *

Jaffe said the idea originated last March while he was teaching two sections of the ninth grade at Ridgeley a course in how the government operates.

"We decided to try to draft a bill and after some discussion we came up with the idea of a bill that would create an adult-youth communications week, what with everybody talking about the generation gap," he said.

WHY NOT CONGRESS?

But once the bill was drafted, Jaffe added, the two sections of some 65 students decided to see if they could get it enacted by Congress.

So a delegation approached Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., in whose district the school is located.

* * *

"He was very receptive to the bill," Jaffe said, "and he introduced it in the House."

"As far as the kids were concerned, the real enthusiasm started when they found their bill had actually been introduced," he said.

The measure set aside Sept. 29 through Oct. 4 as Adult-Youth Communications Week and urged adults and youths as well as communication media to encourage dialogue between adults and youths.

LETTER CAMPAIGN

Jaffe said that once the bill was introduced, the two classes started a letter-writing campaign to gain support for it.

"We found that the kids had at least one friend or relative in every state in the union, and they wrote to them and asked that they write their friends and get them to write their senators and congressmen," he said.

Jaffe said hundreds of letters went to Congress from across the country, but that the one the classes were the proudest of came from Vietnam.

"One of the children's father was stationed there," he explained, "and he got his entire battalion to write a letter to President Nixon urging support of the bill."

On July 29 the bill passed the House. It was enacted by the Senate on Sept. 10 and President Nixon signed it into law last Thursday.

Register All in U.S., Says Passport Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The director of the U.S. Passport Office indicates she favors a national registration system, with everyone being given a number and possibly fingerprinted.

Frances G. Knight sees this not only as a possible first step toward international passport cards, but also as a move to correct faults in current identification methods which result in "enormous tax evasion, social security frauds and national crime."

"No intelligent law-abiding citizen can seriously object to a national registration which would establish his identity and safeguard his security, bank, tax and insurance benefits," she said in a paper prepared for an international trade and transportation seminar Thursday at the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Rather than an invasion of privacy, Miss Knight said, national registration would be a personal safeguard.

"If the format can be standardized, let us say by 10 nations with the largest volume of tourism, we would be well on our way towards an acceptable international identification document," she said.

She said the airlines who had been applying pressure for a "credit-card" type passport which could be scanned electronically to feed data into a computer and accelerate the transfer of passengers through international airports.

But before any credit-card type passports can be developed, she said, a footproof document must first be developed —and this inevitably will require national registration.

While the idea of a credit-card type passport sounds great, Miss Knight said, it's dangerous at the present time to try for overly swift and easy clearance of persons entering the United States.

SPEED DEPLORED

She deplored the emphasis on speed that has brought about the so-called one-man clearance at airports where one inspector handles primary inspection for four agencies—public health, immigration, agriculture and customs. Only "problem" cases are referred to a specialist for more detailed inspection.

Dow Jones Sputtering

Stock Mart Rally Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued this afternoon to ridt the waves of a rally spawned late Thursday, as advances outstripped declines by nearly 500 issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average appeared to sputter at noon, however, reaching 813.82, up 1.98, after having been ahead more than 3 points in moderate trading earlier.

Analysts still see the market climb as somewhat technical in nature, after six straight days of decline that led to an oversold condition.

"It would be nice now if we could get some positive economic news to keep it going," observed a broker.

One analyst predicts the rally will carry farther than many market watchers think, even though blue-chip issues, such as American Can, at 46¼, off ⅛, seem to be lagging in the broad advance.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up .4 at 284.8, with industrials up .6, rails off .1, and utilities up .7.

Amerada Hess was delayed in trading but later emerged after reaching a new yearly low of 36¼, down 4⅞. Thursday, despite a company indication that nine month per share earnings will show a slight improvement over last year. Eleven of the American Stock Exchange's 20 most-active issues were ahead in midday trding,while 5 were down, and 4 unchanged.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

There is a certain type of play that occurs regularly in columns and books and we have even seen it in actual games on maybe two occasions. The play has no name but it might be called "The Unnecessary Finesse."

Solomon and Wilson have included it in their book.

North is certainly entitled to go past game after his partner jumps to four spades and he chooses the five-club cue bid. South shows his diamond ace and North settles for the small slam.

If South held one more club and one less diamond, the slam would be a cinch. With the actual holdings, there is no real play for it but South finds a line of play to give him a chance.

★

He wins the heart in dummy and ruffs another heart. Then he cashes his ace of spades, leads a spade to dummy's king and ruffs another heart. This leaves only one heart out against him and one more lead from dummy will give him a chance to establish dummy's fifth heart for a discard of one of his diamonds. He needs this discard, because, otherwise, he will have to lose two diamond tricks.

He needs to get to dummy twice to accomplish this. The ace of clubs is one entry. Where can he find another one?

★ ★ ★

Maybe the jack of clubs will do. He leads the nine of clubs and plays dummy's jack. If the unusual finesse works, he makes his slam. If East produces the queen, he will be down two instead of one.

It does work but, if West were really alert, he could have foiled declarer's plan by playing his queen on the nine. We wonder if anyone ever made that sort of a defensive play at the table!

CHARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	1♠		1♠
Pass	1♠	Pass	3♠
Pass	3♦	Pass	4♣
Pass	5♣	Pass	5♥
Pass	6♦	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠K876 ♥AJ ♦KQ4 ♣AJ852
What is your bid now?

A—Bid six spades only. Your partner is making some attempt to get to seven but you have shown every coin of your values.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of responding one spade, your partner has responded one diamond to your club opening. What do you do?

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accent on marriage, a combining of forces. Question of cash arises. Pay your fair share. But don't sacrifice something for nothing. Look out for your own basic interests.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): One who offers advice may be on right track. Follow through — get legal clearance. Those who seem to aid need encouragement. Give it.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Realize what is of real value to you. Your family means more than you might imagine. Know this and act accordingly. A minor dispute should not be blown out of proportion.

IF SATURDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are creative but also practical. You are concerned with proper channeling of forces. Recent confusion is due to vanish. You will be working along steady lines — and on specific course.

Review Is Urged of Smoking Law

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Ann Arbor's school board has approved a resolution urging the Michigan Association of School Boards to review the 1915 state law forbidding sale and use of cigarettes by minors.

The board indicated it approved the resolution because smoking is a personal matter and because antismoking regulations are too hard to enforce. The vote was 5-2 in favor of the resolution.

Levy Ideas Taxing

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The main strength of America and the thing that has made this republic great is our almost limitless ability to think up new kinds of taxes.

WEST

Other nations have achieved greatness only to flounder, stagnate or fall. In each case, they reached the point where they were taxing everything in sight and were unable to devise any new revenue-raisers.

Once a nation arrives at the outer limits of its tax levying capacity, it has no place to go but down.

In other words, the danger to a nation is not overtaxation, as some economic theorists would have you believe. The danger is that it will run out of new taxes to impose.

CONTINUES TO PROGRESS

Each tax has its own ceiling beyond which it cannot be raised without causing internal rebellion. But as long as a nation has a supply of new taxes up its sleeve, it continues to progress.

By that token, I am convinced that the United States will flourish for at least a thousand summers. And maybe winters, too.

★ ★ ★

Within the past month, our country has been blessed with a number of ingenious new tax proposals, anyone of which could keep America assessing for four score and 20 years or so.

In Texas, for example, a member of the state senate hit upon the idea of a dirty movie tax. The more obscene the movie, the higher the tax.

THROWAWAY TAX

If adopted on a national scale, that levy could easily finance a landing on Mars. Providing we keep importing films from Sweden.

At a Senate subcommittee hearing in Washington this week, Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., suggested that some thought be given to a throwaway tax.

★ ★ ★

It would finance waste disposal programs be extracing a penny a pound for the sale of products that end up in the junk pile.

The new federal tax bill recently passed by the House would make interest from municipal bonds vulnerable to the federal income tax for the first now.

RETALIATION THREAT

Now some states are threatening to retaliate by taxing interest on federal securities. Which is one of the most intriguing new ideas yet conceived.

A tax on U.S. Treasury bonds and notes would, in effect, be a tax on the national debt. When you consider the size of the national debt, the revenue potentials are staggering.

★ ★ ★

But if these new taxes aren't enough for the country to thrive on, I have an idea for the ultimate in revenue measures. I call it a taxation tax.

It would be a tax on all of the other taxes, and it should bring us to the millenium.

Uglies New Beautiful People

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Weak chin? Floppy ears? Bulbous nose? Are you, in a word, ugly?

Then you're right down Bill Bordy's alley. And maybe television's, at least in commercials.

★ ★ ★

A Hollywood trade paper carried his ad this week:

"UGLY CASTING DIRECTOR

"Who gets all the work in commercials? Why, the ugly people, of course."

UGLIES UNLIMITED

The ad urged readers, "If you're ugly, unusual or interesting-looking," to call a certain number.

The number led to Bordy's office in a television studio complex. He calls his service Uglies Unlimited.

"Good-looking types are on the way out," said Bordy, 38, a part-time actor himself, big-eared but otherwise more on the good-looking than the homely side.

"Nowadays, ugly is beautiful. You can see it yourself just by watching TV commercials. The trend is to plain people. Personnext-door types are getting the work because it's so much easier for the public to associate with them.

READ ARTICLE

"The chunky, hard-hat laborer who gets the promotion because his wife has washed his shirt in that detergent. The manicurist who uses dishwashing detergent as a hand lotion."

Several months ago Bordy read a magazine article about a London modeling agency which had advertised for ugly types, got "a fantastic response" and now does a big business supplying such models for advertising.

A light flashed for Bordy: a casting directory for aspiring performers with less than perfect features. He's calling it the Ugly Casting Directory. He's promising clients that 1,000 copies will be distributed among advertising agencies and movie and TV casting directors.

For $60, a customer gets a full page showing three poses of himself—which he supplies—and a resume of his experience. Two insertions of the trade-paper ad brought 200 calls, and his phone was still ringing. "Are you ugly?" is the first question he asks. About half answer, "Yes, I am;" the others, "Not really ugly, but I'm a good character actor."

SOME TURNED AWAY

Promising - sounding applicants are invited to his office. Some he has turned away, Bordy says, because they were too good-looking. About 25 have signed up, and as many have indicated definite interest. His publication deadline is Halloween, "which I thought would be a humorous touch," he says.

★ ★ ★

Not all of his space-buyers are really ugly, Bordy concedes, but with makeup, costume and expression can make themselves look so.

What kind of ugliness is most in demand these days?

"The natural type," said Bordy, "which John Q. Public can associate with."

Brickley Gets Senate Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Thursday confirmed the nomination of James H. Brickley of Detroit as U.S. attorney for the eastern district of Michigan.

Earl Leads With His Mouth at Lewis' Press Luncheon

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—I opened my mouth the wrong way to Jerry Lewis.

When Jerry announced he's launching a theater chain to be called the Jerry Lewis Cinema, he said that the X pictures are losing favor—"the wheel is turning"—and "I don't think it makes sense dealing with something on its way out."

WILSON

This was at a crowded press luncheon at 21. Since I've often rapped dirty films, I wanted to pin Jerry down.

"Does that mean," I asked him, "that your theaters are not going to show any sex pictures at all?"

"That was our plan, Earl, but if you feel bad about it, just let us know when you want to see one."

★ ★ ★

Jack E. Leonard and Rodney Dangerfield got the crowds the other night—Jack E. opening at the Rainbow Grill, Rodney opening his own swinging club (Dangerfield's) at 6fst and First Avenue, first new nightclub in N.Y. in many a year.

They spilled into the street at Dangerfield's. "It cost me $250,000 to open. How I got involved I don't know," Dangerfield said. "And now as my club slowly sinks into the hands of the bankers . . ."

He was warm, winning and likable and was saluted by such fans as Joe E. Lewis, Milton Berle, Fanny Flagg and Belle Barth. He offered this thought: "My idea of willpower is when a guy is going to the electric chair decides that on his last meal he'll stick to Metrocal." (His club should be a hit.)

★ ★ ★

Jack E. did his famous comments: "Ed Sullivan's got a wonderful face—I wonder what his neck looks like." "Milwaukee —where they still think Lawrence Welk is a hippie" . . . "Indianapolis, the only town that's happy on Memorial Day"—and "Meet my pianist; he went to school at Berkeley where he majored in explosives.

Jack E. was preceded by singer Vi Velasco, Dangerfield by singer, Thelma Houston. They all helped the fall season get swinging.

Cigarette Is Symbol of Comfort to Some

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Here is the fifth in a 14-part series on how to stop smoking and not gain weight. The Newspaper Enterprise Association series offers a double-pronged solution to the problem. It is written by Julius Fast, novelist, medical editor and mystery writer.)

By JULIUS FAST

Dr. Daniel Horn of the U.S. Public Health Service has divided smokers into six types. Five of them have been described previously. The "relaxation" smoker is the sixth.

In the cinema stereotype, the "relaxation" smoker was usually a gracious queen of the screen, Deborah Kerr or more recently Julie Andrews, who would light her cigarette over coffee at some dim restaurant with checked tablecloths, some spacious terrace overlooking Paris, London or Budapest, who smoked as she sipped her coffee and listened to the male lead tell her about the bridge he was building, the class he was teaching, the novel he was writing.

★ ★ ★

This cigarette is a symbol to the smoker, a symbol of comfort, relaxation and ease.

It might be an after-breakfast-on-a-Sunday-morning cigarette, or after-Thanksgiving-dinner cigar with brandy, but the purpose is the same, to relax, to complement the pleasure of food.

BEAUTIFUL WOMAN

A handsome man, a beautiful woman, a good restaurant, a terrace with a view — the cigarette stands for all these and more.

The key to the entire problem of giving up ciragettes lies in these six categories.

★ ★ ★

For years and years physicians and educators have tried to formulate routines that would help the smoker "kick" his habit.

Sometimes the methods they used would work — sometimes not.

There was no consistency to their results.

What helped one man give up cigarettes had no effect on another. And once the habit was kicked, there was no guarantee the cure would be permanent.

★ ★ ★

Mark Twain put it well when he said, "Giving up smoking is easy. 'I've done it often."

Because of the indifferent results, a great number of methods for foreswearing tobacco have sprung up, each claiming (often with truth) a good percentage of success.

NOT COMPLETELY EFFECTIVE

None, however, was completely effective.

The problem from the very beginning has been the assumption that every smoker was the same and smoked for the same reasons.

★ ★ ★

If this was so it followed that one technique, whether simple or complex, would work for everyone.

But we have seen from Dr. Horn's clarification that every smoker is not the same, and therefore the same plan cannot work for all smokers.

Northern Lights Affected Location of First ABMs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The northern lights — those shimmering luminous curtains of light in the polar sky — played a key role in determining that the first Safeguard antiballistic missile (ABM) installations would be in Montana and North Dakota.

Dr. Charles Johnson, scientific adviser to the military head of the Safeguard program, told a house subcommittee that the northern lights, or aurora borealis, affect ultra-high frequency (UHF) transmissions, used in the ABM radar systems. The magentic distrubrances of the northern lights also resemble effects associated with nuclear explosions.

Because of the problem, Johnson said, scientists must work in a location where they can learn to deal with the interference — rather than somewhere else where they would have no exposure to what could be a crucial factor in making the system work.

GM Truck Turns Talk Into Jobs for Members of Minorities

By DIANNE DUROCHER

Executives at GMC Truck and Coach Division have established a program aimed at turning rhetoric into action; providing jobs — instead of the promise of jobs — for members of minority groups in Pontiac.

The program centers around a seven-member liaison committee formed a little over a year ago to facilitate communication between minority group individuals and the management of the sprawling GMC Truck production operation.

The committee is composed of black and white GMC personnel. In addition, a nine-member ministerial committee engages in job referral and also serves as a line of communication between division executives and members of the city's minority communities.

Earl A. Maxwell, director of salary personnel for the division and a member of both committees, explained that the primary function of both committees is to place qualified individuals from minorities in jobs and offer better jobs to those already employed by the division.

"This is in addition to standard employment procedures such as college recruiting and recommendations of the Pontiac Urban League and the Pontiac School District," he added.

About 15 per cent of the plant production employes are black. Division officials are seeking to place more qualified black men and women in salaried positions, Maxwell continued.

Since formation of the two committees, the number of black people in salaried positions has increased from 27 to about 130 and those in supervisory positions have increased from one to 12, Maxwell said.

"And this is only the beginning," he added.

"If an individual is qualified for a position and has the recommendation of the liaison or the ministerial committee, he will be hired with no further check," Maxwell said.

"Being a part of this large organization gives me a feeling of accomplishment and prestige," said Mrs. Gloria Green, who operates a copying machine in the division's drafting department.

She was recommended for the position about a year ago by Ramona Revis, a liaison committee member employed in the purchasing department. A month after Mrs. Green was interviewed she was hired.

Mrs. Green, mother of five, said she was unaware Mrs. Revis was a member of a committee but responded positively when she learned there was a possibility of working at the division.

A graduate of Pontiac Central High School, Mrs. Green lives with her husband Harry and her children in Detroit. Prior to working at GMC Truck and Coach Division she worked as a cashier, as a secretary for the Pontiac Board of Education and as a doctor's secretary.

Her previous jobs did not offer fringe benefits, Mrs. Green said. She said there is great security in knowing her job includes benefits such as insurance, sick pay and vacation pay.

Gloria Lewis contacted Rev. Amos Johnson of the New Bethel Baptist Church about getting a job at GMC. Johnson is a member of the ministerial committee.

Shortly following her interview with the division's personnel department she was hired as a clerk and key punch operator last March.

Miss Lewis of 64 S. Anderson is a native of Colon, Panama, and worked there as a secretary before coming to the United States in search of a better-paying job. She reads and writes Spanish and English.

Prior to working at GMC she was employed at Pontiac General Hospital as a desk clerk. In general, she is "very pleased with her new position."

William M. Taylor of 197 Judson has worked at the division for more than 14 years. Nine months ago he was promoted from an hourly position in the material department to the salaried position of clerk — material processing.

He has taken courses at Oakland Community College and a General Motors management course through Oakland University's continuing education program. Prior to coming to Pontiac in 1953 he attended South Carolina State College, Orangeburg, S. C.

Taylor, father of three adopted children said, "I have a better job with more responsibility. The position is definitely an elevation."

"There are other black people who are qualified for salary positions," Taylor said, "and I hope that with the help of the committees, they may get one."

Airplane-Cleaner May Be Washed Up at 15

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — At 15, Ron Jarboe may be washed up in his first business venture.

Since June, the youngster has been grossing up to $400 a month by cleaning and buffing private planes at Bowman Field.

The Louisville - Jefferson County Air Board wants him to stop for two reasons: He isn't licensed by the agency, and state law won't permit workers under 18 in hazardous occupations.

"The last reason is the most compelling," explained Phil Schaad Jr., the air board's manager for Bowman Field. "The law considers work around aircraft and airport ramps to be hazardous."

Ron learned about the age hang-up when he received a letter from Schaad which warned, "Since your company has no agreement with the air board, you will stop at once all activity of a commercial nature on Bowman Field."

YOUNG BUSINESSMAN — Ron Jarboe, 15, who has been averaging $400 a month by cleaning airplanes in Kentucky has been told he has to go out of business. The Louisville-Jefferson County Air Board says state law prohibits anyone under 18 from engaging in a hazardous occupation.

Michigan Doctors Urged to Cooperate on News

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan doctors were advised Wednesday that for their own good they should cooperate with newsmen to inform the public of medical advances.

"Doctors should learn that a reporter is going to write something anyway," Frank Chappell, director of medical information for Southwestern Texas Medical School, told the Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS).

It often is preferable to provide full and prompt disclosure to try to help the reporter get it firsthand and get it right, rather than secondhand, piecemeal and only half right," he added.

Dr. Donald Kahn, the University of Michigan's heart transplant surgeon, agreed and added that he would like to see the medical profession "show a little more maturity in dealing with the news media."

Chappell and Kahn took part in a panel discussion of "Physicians, Public Pronouncements and the Press: Do We Need New Ground Rules?"

Sports Fitness School for Boys, Girls Planned

The YMCA of Greater Pontiac, 131 University, announces a new program concept for youth physical fitness.

A 10-week youth sports fitness school will begin tomorrow for boys and girls in grades 1-6. The program is designed to build endurance and physical fitness while teaching new skills to the participants.

Participants will be divided by sex and age groups and classes will include instructions in gymnastics, swimming, sports, games and exercises. Another major emphasis will be on testing.

Fee for the program is $10 for non-YMCA members and $5 for current members.

Murphy Retains Auditors' Posts

By JEAN SAILE

Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the board of auditors the past six years, will remain as a member of the board for another three years and will serve as its chairman for at least another year. His terms in both capacities were to have ended Dec. 31.

★ ★ ★

Republican Murphy was nominated and voted into the positions yesterday in a political coup led by minority Republicans on the Oakland County Board of Supervisors. They had the help of many members of the board's Democratic caucus.

The vote left Pontiac's Carl O'Brien and George Grba — Democrats expelled from their caucus earlier this year — leading a nearly nonexistent following against Murphy's reelection.

'DON'T TRUST THEM'

Philip O. Mastin, Democratic caucus leader, said his caucus had failed to go along with the two "simply because we don't trust them."

Mastin said O'Brien had attempted earlier to make a deal with Democrats which could have blocked Murphy's election.

★ ★ ★

Democrat Robert Lilly, 20-year veteran of the board of auditors, was nominated for auditor chairmanship by O'Brien and the nomination was seconded by Grba. Lilly was defeated by a vote of 20-5 with one abstention.

Some Democrats and the Republicans felt it would have been a case of "washing a good man down the drain" had Lilly been elected over Murphy. Murphy last year promised to resign should he not be retained as board chairman.

QUALIFICATIONS LAUDED

Both Murphy's qualifications and those of Lilly were lauded by both political parties, but Democratic support of Murphy — particularly among older board members — was viewed as a tribute to his qualifications.

★ ★ ★

The vote by several younger Democrats for the Republican was viewed as an attempt to end or at least calm the dissension which has repeatedly marked board meetings throughout the year.

★ ★ ★

Murphy's election to the board of auditors was accomplished by secret ballot — 21 votes for Murphy, one for Robert Patnales, Republican caucus leader, one for County Clerk Lynn Allen, one abstention and one blank ballot.

An attempt by O'Brien to overrule Board Chairman Charles B. Edwards Jr.'s decision to hold a secret vote had failed.

LILLY SUPPORTERS

The later roll call election for chairman revealed O'Brien, Grba, Mastin, William Richards of Royal Oak and Niles Olson of Orion Township voting for Lilly.

Lee Walker of Madison Heights abstained and James Mathews of Pontiac was absent.

★ ★ ★

The remaining Democrats and all the Republicans cast 20 votes for Murphy.

The election of the auditor had not been scheduled on yesterday's agenda. It was taken up under special order of business.

FORECAST FIGHT

An early display of political muscle in an attempt to align votes presaged the coming fight, however. Democrats attempted to name Gerald St. Souver vice chairman of the county's new drug abuse committee.

Led by Chairman Arthur Jalkenan, dean of students at Oakland University, the committee includes 34 county citizens, including four supervisors. The names were approved at a committee on committees meeting preceding the regular board meeting.

★ ★ ★

The committee was finally approved with no vice chairman having been named.

Controversy cropped up yesterday on a resolution, eventually tabled, which would have supported state legislation to temporarily remove the interest ceiling on municipal bonds.

LACK BOND BUYERS

The county has been held up on sewer and drain projects because of a lack of bond buyers, said to be due to the tight money market. Buyers are yet to be found for bonds to build the county's $9-million jail, as well.

Removal of the interest limit was termed "usury" by legislative committee Chairman O'Brien.

Further controversy arose over receipt of a report from the public protection and judiciary committee relative to suggested improvements at the present county jail.

Questioned, committee Chairman Dennis Aaron, D-Huntington Woods, said the report calling for a professional jail administrator as well as a consequential reduction in prisoner population, was no reflection on Sheriff Frank Irons. He said, in fact, that Irons had cooperated in preparation of the report and that any action on it would be up to the sheriff.

★ ★ ★

Murphy reported that he had come to an agreement with Pontiac city officials to use the city jail which provides an additional 19 cells. He said five jail guards and a cook would be required to staff the additional quarters. The matter is due for consideration by Aaron's committee on Tuesday.

'Set Bad Example for Youth'

Parents Hit on Drugs

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

In a nation where relief is billed on TV as just a chemical swallow away, it was almost predictable that today's young people should take up the "habit," according to a forum of psychiatrists.

Yesterday's panel discussion, lead by Dr. John C. Pollard, M.D., an associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Michigan Medical School, was sponsored by the 104th annual scientific session of the Michigan State Medical Society in Detroit's Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel.

★ ★ ★

"Why shouldn't young people turn to drugs when they see their parents take vitamins in the morning, tranquilizers by noon, 'pop a Chock at 4,' and take a before-dinner drink at 5?" asked Dr. Pollard.

He said that some 100,000 pounds of amphetamines and 30 million pounds of barbiturates are legally distributed by prescription per year — clearly a symptom of a dependent nation.

UNDER STRESS

"At 16 or 17, a young person is under great psychological stress. He must master his sexuality, the problem of personal identity — in short, all the problems of maturation," he said.

"The whole process can be very painful, but if a youth takes the easy way out by choosing drugs as immediate relief, he may never give himself an even chance to mature," according to Dr. Pollard.

Today, with more than 75 hallucinogenic products available, chemically speaking, the situation can only worsen, Dr. Pollard said.

Dr. Adolpho J. Brane, M.D., who assists part-time at Detroit's Lafayette Clinic and is an instructor at Wayne State University's School of Medicine, agreed that young people are using drugs to escape their problems.

HAPPINESS

Accordingly, marijuana gives one a very "special feeling, a happiness with the way things are," he said.

The potential danger, then, according to Dr. Brane, is that marijuana usage never allows young people to tackle their maturation period.

★ ★ ★

Today's younger generation is also concerned with the dismal world situation they will inherit.

"The possibilty of total destruction by the bomb, or facing a fatal tour of duty in Vietnam, the struggle for and against the war which makes service even harder — all these factors make it very easy for young people to 'turn off' from society and take the most immediate route for relief," said Dr. Brane.

SERIOUS DRUGS

While marijuana for some is an 'ideal substitute' for facing reality, Dr. Brane was more concerned with the increasing number of young people who are turing to the more serious drugs for relief.

On the basis of available evidence, Dr. Brane is of the opinion that of all the drugs on the market, marijuana is the least harmful.

★ ★ ★

He also noted that most of the clinical cases seen at Lafayette were extreme hard-drug cases.

"Today we see more and more young people who are moving away from marijuana and taking speed (methadrine), Dr. Brane said.

DIET PILLS

He noted that diet pills are a popular source of speed for most kids. They either take them from mother's medicine cabinet or take her refill prescription down to the druggist.

"Kids have also turned to heroin as a means of getting down fast from a 'speed high'," he said.

The great physical stress on their bodies as well as influencing the addictive tendency of heroin, poses a great danger to these young people says Dr. Brane, including eventual brain damage in some cases.

Dr. Harold Davidson, M.D., a child analyst, rested most of the problem on the parents' shoulders.

OLD HYPOCRISY

According to Dr. Davidson the "hypocrisy of the adult world has been a large factor in turning this generation of youth away from old ideals.

"We tell our children to be good, to be honest and to treat all people as equals, and then they see us cheating on income tax reforms, going through red lights, discriminating against Negroes and blowing each other up in Vietnam," Dr. Davidson said.

"Kids today know that we are not honest with ourselves — they see that we have laws that show us up for the pious, hypocritical frauds that we are.

"More people are going to be killed today in Vietnam than will ever suffer from brain damage brought about by drugs. We must be honest with ourselves if we want our children's respect and try to help them," he said.

Scott lost $86, Baron a $153 check and Watson some keys.

★ ★ ★

Robbed at 5:30 a.m. on Rockwell between Bagley and Motor were Donald E. Moore, 22, of 7278 Redriff, West Bloomfield Township, and two others who did not identify themselves to police.

Moore lost $40 and the others a total of $27.

Still Lacking? Museum Gets New Display

BONNER SPRINGS, Kan. (AP) — A moonshine still—defended by its donor as a proper exhibit in an agricultural museum because the essential ingredient in making "moonshine" is corn—was added Thursday to a display here.

Joseph A. Boyer, Blue Springs, Ga., visited the Agricultural Hall of Fame two years ago and noted the absence of a still.

★ ★ ★

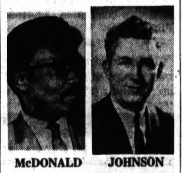

The retired U.S. Public Health sanitary engineer talked with hall officials and was given authority to locate a still.

"I went back to my home in Blue Springs, and I told the sheriff about the Hall of Fame and asked him to give me the next still he might confiscate," Boyer said.

McDonald said he and financial secretary Gil Hellman, will continue to carry outstanding policies.

Contract to Remodel County Annex OK'd

Contracts totaling $157,457 for the remodeling of the Oakland county administrative annex (formerly the county board of education building) were awarded to Steve Kruchko Co. Inc. of Waterford Township and Schultz Electrical Inc. of Pontiac. The contracts were awarded by the county board of supervisors.

The building will house Veterans' Affairs, 4-H, the county's computer system, and some Community Mental Health Service offices. It is located on the Telegraph Road Service Center.

★ ★ ★

Supervisors approved a five-year lease for District Court quarters in Independence Township. The lease for the Independence Township Hall Annex in Clarkston calls for an annual rental of $4,840.

The county loan of $176,000 to a drain revolving fund was approved. The money is used to pay for engineering costs before a construction project is funded.

SOLID WASTES

Harry W. Horton, R-Royal Oak, chairman of the public works committee, reported that his committee is still engaged in a study of solid waste disposal.

He said that while the group has not given up entirely on an incineration process as recommended in a recent tricounty survey, more concentration is being given a compaction process which would extend present landfill facility use.

Horton raised objections to an expansion of responsibility undertaken by the supervisors ad hoc roads committee. A resolution to add Telegraph Road improvement to a list of other projects headed up by M59 widening touched off Horton's spoken disapproval. Makeup of the committee was referred back to the board's committee on committeees.

Niles Olson, D-Orion Township, chairman of the airport board, asked for immediate action on an earlier request for a full developmental study on Oakland-Orion Airport. He got an informal promise that the study will be forthcoming.

AIRPORT FUNDS

The supervisors aviation and transportation committee has proposed appropriating $250,000 for improvements at the airport master plan, however.

A flurry of resolutions introduced at the end of the meeting by Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac, ran the gamut — endorsing pending state legislation, legalizing bingo, and county participation in Oakland University's announced plan to fit each Pontiac child for a job.

SENIOR CITIZENS

He also proposed the immediate allocation of $97,000 to a senior citizen program to be handled by the Oakland County commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO).

The resolutions were referred to appropriate committees.

Desegregation Plan Hit

Although the five Pontiac Board of Education members at last night's meeting said they felt a proposed school desegregation plan was undesirable and unworkable, a motion to reject it failed.

The board also failed to approve an amendment to the motion which stated that the district would submit an alternate plan.

★ ★ ★

The proposed desegregation plan calls for students to have free choice of the school they wish to attend.

★ ★ ★

The plan is part of litigation in a suit filed by the Pontiac Chapter of the NAACP in the U.S. District Court in Detroit in February, which charges the district with de facto segregation and with discrimination in hiring and placement of administrators.

COURT DATE

The suit, which has been in pretrial hearing, is next in court Wednesday in Detroit.

Board members William Anderson and Russell Brown were absent last night. Although only five board members were present, four votes are needed to pass a motion. Dr. Robert Turpin and Christopher Brown voted against the motion to reject the NAACP plan.

They had earlier voted to amend this motion to include a statement that the board would at some time submit an alternate integration plan.

The proposed desegregation plan also called for the student to select his school during an annual period from Aug. 15 to Sept. 2, with no preference given any student for prior attendance at a school.

INTEGRATION MOVES

"In case of overcrowding at any school, preference shall be given with a view toward counteracting the effect of racial segregation," the plan read.

Also included in the proposal was a provision that a new teacher to the system would be assigned to a school in which the faculty is predominately of the opposite race.

★ ★ ★

Brown said he felt last night was an inappropriate time to discuss the plan because of the recent school disruptions.

"We're talking about more than just physical integration of bodies. We should also be correcting attitudes on the part of teachers and students."

OPTIONAL PLAN

If administrators don't agree with the plan, they should come up with some options," Brown said.

Mrs. Elsie Mihalek pointed out that the board was directed by Federal district court Judge Damon Keith to respond to the plan Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Robert Turpin said he would like to see an alternate plan presented by the board or by a board-based citizens' committee.

"However, one thing we haven't done as a board is decide if we want integrated schools," he added.

Formosa Stalls Canada-China Talks

UNITED NATIONS, New York (AP) — Talks to establish diplomatic relations between Canada and Red China are stalled over the issue of how to handle Peking's claim to Formosa, diplomatic sources said today.

Canadian and Communist Chinese diplomats have held four meetings in Stockholm on Ottawa's desire to recognize Peking. The first session was held May 19; the others June 7, July 10 and Sept. 20.

★ ★ ★

Informants said Canada had agreed to break relations with Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese regime on Formosa and support Communist China's claim to membership in the United Nations if the talks succeed.

But the Canadians have refused to endorse publicly Peking's claim to the "right to conquer and communize" Formosa, a well-placed foreign observer of the Stockholm talks said. He reported Canada would not challenge such an act but was unwilling to support it publicly.

DON'T ASK BOUNDRIES

Another highly placed diplomat said Peking had asked only that Canada acknowledge that Formosa is part of China. Canada replied that it did not ask other countries to define its boundaries and should not be asked to define theirs, the diplomat said.

★ ★ ★

One informant said Canada's refusal to give in to China's demand was simply a matter of principle. Others suggested that it was motivated partly by the fact that the United Staes is committed by treaty to defend Formosa from Communist China and has its 7th Fleet in the strait between the two countries.

★ ★ ★

They said Canada would find herself in an awkward position with her U.S. neighbor should she say something that might encourage Communist China to risk war with the United States.

Man Gets Wish

The Sea Finally Wins

HONOLULU (AP) — For Larry Windley, the sea was both friend and foe. And he loved it.

"When I go, if I go," he once told a sailing friend, "I hope to hell it's in the ocean."

Windley, 36, left his native North Carolina in 1956 and came here to seek a living as an underwater photographer and professional diver.

He founded a diving firm two years later on the island of Maui and was credited with starting Hawaii's black coral industry.

HEAVY TOLL

But the warm Pacific he loved so much demanded a heavy toll.

Nearly 10 years ago, Windley emerged from a deep dive with a near-fatal seizure of bends. It left him paralyzed from the neck down.

★ ★ ★

Though he never got back the use of his legs, Windley eventually could get around on crutches.

In 1964, still recuperating, the seaman almost drowned when a friend's 68-foot catamaran developed a leak. He and four others had to be rescued by the Coast Guard.

On another sailing trip, the boat Windley was in overturned and his footlocker and all he owned went to the bottom.

Maui residents took up a collection and gave him $700 for a new start.

Unable to return to the sea for a living, Windley became active in Maui civic affairs. He backed plans to restore Lahaina to its appearance of the 1800s when the missionaries arrived, and he helped organize the annual Lahaina Whaling Spree.

He didn't own a boat anymore, but he had dozens of seagoing buddies and the ocean remained a big part of his life.

Doctor Likens Alcohol, 'Pot' Abuse

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A doctor who confines his practice to drug addicts says, "Only one in 20 who use marijuana abuses it and this is the same as those who use alcohol."

"The kid who'll drink too much will smoke too much pot," said Dr. David E. Smith, medical director of San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury Clinic which has treated more than 40,000 persons, most between 16 and 25.

Smith made the comment Thursday at a news conference prior to the 21st annual scientific assembly of the American Academy of General Practice.

"Young people know that grass or marijuana is not the drug problem today," Smith said. "It is the amphetamines and the barbiturates that are causing all the trouble.

'ABUSE IS EPIDEMIC'

"There is a drug abuse epidemic and you have a lot of kids —especially in junior and senior high schools—experimenting with hard drugs. This is the biggest concern."

Smith said that in the San Francisco area, research indicates that around 20 per cent of the pupils have tried some kind of drug "and it's because of curiosity or group conformity."

Smith told the doctors that they are "turning on a lot of people by overprescribing diet pills and by ordering amphetamines to stay awake or to help induce quick sleep."

INCREASE IN PRICE

Smith ridiculed the federal government's "Operation Intercept" which is seeking to prevent smuggling of marijuana and narcotics from Mexico.

"All it does is increase the price because of scarcity, and this makes it attractive to the professional drug handler who'll thus be gaining thousands of new possible customers for stronger stuff," Smith said.

He said he did not advocate legalizing marijuana "because this wouldn't alleviate the central drug problem," but he suggested society ought to ignore the pot user instead of arresting him, and concentrate instead on the seller.

Aid for Aged, Disabled, Blind

Nixon Forwards Welfare Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Increased financial aid to the needy aged, blind and disabled has been added to the Nixon administration welfare program, now ready for Congress in bill form.

President Nixon sent the legislation to the Capitol Thursday, spelling out his Aug. 11 proposals for replacement of present aid programs with national minimums and a family assistance plan.

The proposals contain a $1,600-a-year floor for a family of four and for the first time would allow persons holding a job to qualify for assistance.

The Nixon plan also requires mothers now receiving Aid to Dependent Children—ADC—to work or take job training if possible—a provision which has drawn criticism in Congress and elsewhere.

The new proposal for increased payments to persons receiving aid to the blind, aged or disabled was announced by Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare. It would provide a minimum of $90 a month—$63.75 to be paid by the federal government and the rest by the states.

Such categorical assistance now ranges from $35.75 a month for elderly persons in Mississippi to $144.20 a month for blind persons in California.

Finch said the increase would be made possible by a 10 per cent increase in Social Security benefits, taking enough elderly persons off welfare rolls to boost payments for those who remain.

Enactment of the administration welfare and food stamp proposals would "cut by almost 60 per cent the difference between the total income of all poor Americans and the total amount they would have to earn to rise from poverty," Finch said.

Harambee Future Development Plans

Harambee Inc., is a black nonprofit housing, redevelopment and rehabilitation corporation formed in Pontiac about 15 months ago.

Necessary funds and the assistance to begin Harambee's operation were secured from the Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority, (MDCDA) and the Archdiocese of Detroit.

* * *

Harambee is an African word meaning "let us work together."

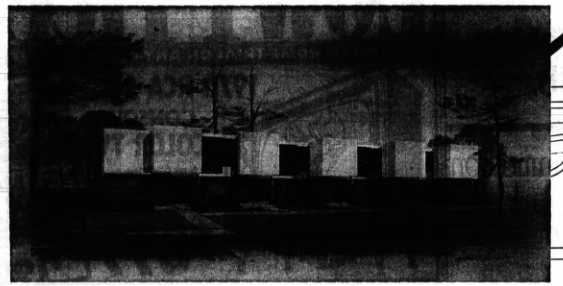

The organization has a 27-member board of directors and an advisory board of more than 40 persons representing organizations from the black and Latin-American segments of the Pontiac community.

Harambee recently announced the establishment of interest-free loans to total $1.1 million granted by operations of General Motors Corp. in Pontiac.

Charles M. Tucker, president of the black development corporation, said the GM loans have already been used to purchase several vacant land parcels located in the city's southwest section.

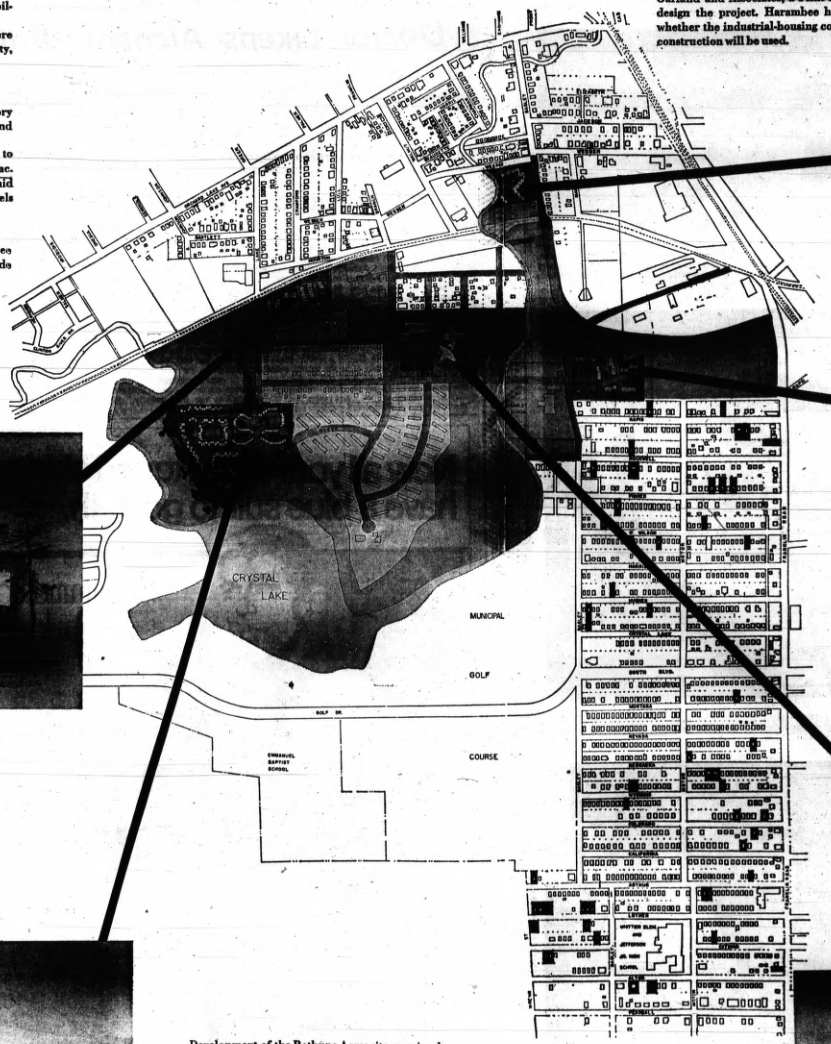

* * *

Development of several of the sites is expected to begin in about three months, according to Harambee officials. Initial development would provide an estimated 500 new housing units.

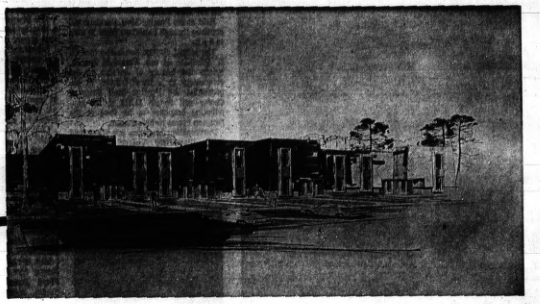

The Martin Luther King Jr. Terraces development, designed by Howard Simms and Associates of Detroit, will contain about 60 town house-type condominum units with two, three and four bedrooms. The Grand Rapids firm of Stiles-Hatten will construct the housing units. Located at Lake and Orton, the site was formerly known as the Lake Street Yards.

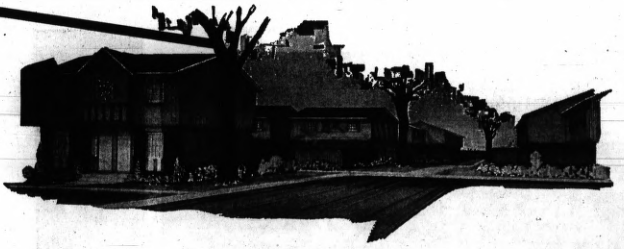

Development of the Bethune Acres site, previously known as the Old Project area, adjacent to the Bethune Elementary School, initially includes about 100 town-house units and 75-90 single-family homes. Architect for the project is Harold Varner, chief architect for the Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority. Harambee plans to negotiate with the city to purchase the adjacent property called the Crystal Beach Projects, incorporating it into development plans. The entire area is located near Crystal Lake.

The old Bagley School site, at the corner of Bagley and Wessen, will contain about 40 town house condominium units with from two to four bedrooms. The development will be known as W. E. B. Dubois Manors. Quentin Garland and Associates, a Flint architectural firm, will design the project. Harambee has not yet determined whether the industrial-housing concept for conventional construction will be used.

The Medgar Evers Homes site, at Bagley and Diston, was formerly the location of the old Kelly Foundry. Development plans call for 60 town house-type condominium units from two to four bedrooms. Harambee has contracted PreBuilt Homes of Detroit to build the units. The architectural firm of Griffin and Ward & Associates designed the development.

The entire development, called Harambee Towers, will be designed by the Detroit architectural firms of Nathan Johnson and Associates and Howard Simms and Associates under a joint contract. The site, located across from Lakeside Homes, was previously known as Surfside. Development plans call for two twin-tower apartment buildings from seven to 10 stories high, a commercial development and recreational facilities. The apartment towers will contain 75 to 100 units, ranging from efficiency to two-bedroom.

Flower Show On

By JODY HEADLEE
Garden Editor, The Pontiac Press

The sound of the tom-tom may be missing but members of 22 branches of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association pay an earnest tribute to the heritage of the American Indian at the fourth annual flower show, "The Land of the Sky Blue Water."

Held at the Pontiac Mall, the show will continue through tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The judged display, headed by Mrs. E. L. Windeler of the Waterford branch, brings the beauty of autumn to the community in a floral tribute. In appreciation the Pontiac Mall Shopping Center will donate $1,500 to the contributing branches to be used at the Drayton Plains Nature Center.

Participating branches are Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Village, Brookside, Chapel Hills, Concord Green, County Downs, Fenton, Foxcroft, Franklin, Heritage, Holiday Farms, Lake Angelus, Lorraine Manor, Maplebrook, Orion Township, Pine Lake Estates, Pontiac, Rochester, Sylvan Lake, Vernor, Waterford and Wing Lake shores.

Horticultural displays in the fruit and vegetable classes are guaranteed to make green thumbs twitch as gardeners promise themselves that next year they too will have such specimens.

All specimens were grown by their exhibitors.

The Drayton Plains Nature Center has a display featuring mounted game fish that is sure to delight fishermen.

Adults and small fry alike will thrill to the authentic replica of an Indian village in miniature. Each of the pieces in the display is handmade.

Women in the branches are advocates of creative artistry in handcraft as well as floral displays. Examples of their creativity also are on display.

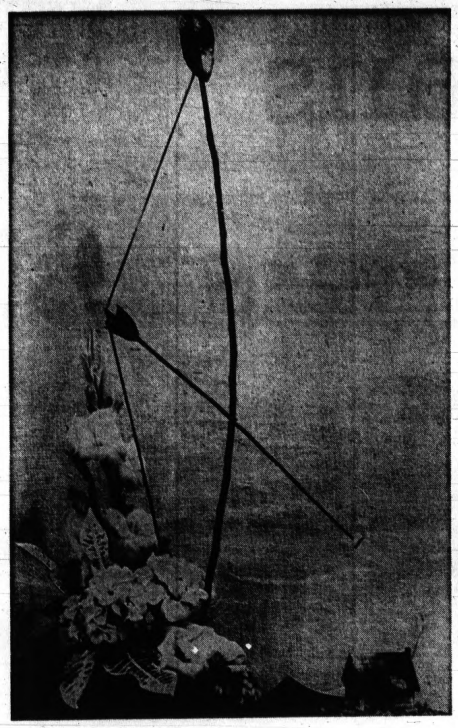

Chairmen assisting Mrs. Windeler include: Mrs. Paul Ziegelbauer, artistic design; Mrs. Kenneth Zemke, crafts; Mrs. Walter J. Doll and Mrs. Norman Cheal, creative arts; Mrs. Robert Collins, conservation education and the Drayton Plains Nature center.

Mrs. Ray Allen, demonstrations; Mrs. George Tozer, entries; Mrs. Lee Carter, horticulture; Mrs. William Baer, hostesses; Mrs. Carl Bird, judges and clerks; Mrs. Richard J. Phillips, invitationals; Mrs. James Raison, juniors.

Mrs. Bernard Bleisch, properties; Mrs. James Nye, lettering and signs; Mrs. Floyd Jones, publicity; Mrs. Arthur Young, registration; Mrs. Kenneth VandenBerg, schedule; and Mrs. Robert Genzlinger, staging.

Mrs. Fred J. Stefansky, national flower show school chairman, is the show's advisor.

WAR — Mrs. Parker Rockwell of the Pontiac branch was invited to depict the horrors of frontier war in the Pocahontas' Pedestals category. Using branches of an osage tree for the bow and arrow, Mrs. Rockwell denoted the flames of war with sprigs of red and yellow wheat. Croton leaves and flame-red gladioli and geraniums make up the arrangement. As an accessory, she used a miniature cabin with a charred roof.

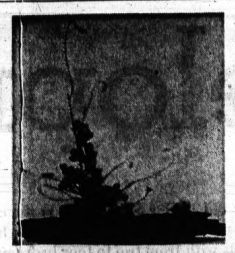

BONNET — Mrs. Earle Heft of the Westchester branch borrowed her son-in-law's scouting ceremonial headdress to recognize the "Chippewa Chiefs" in her invitational arrangement. Golden yarrow, glycerined mahonia, dried grapevine contrast with the scarlet-tipped white feathers.

Orchids By Pointe Orchid Forum And Bloomfield Hills Branch

HARVESTIME — Mrs. Alfred Nicholls of the Holiday Farms branch chose fresh vegetables and fruits to interpret Class 27 "How."

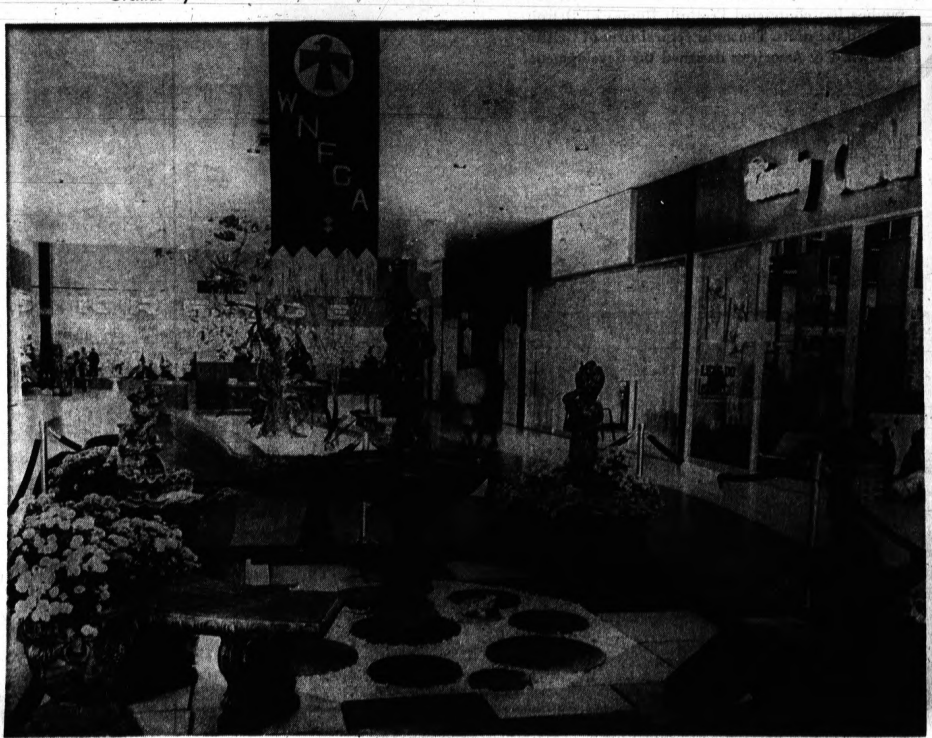

MINNEHAHA'S MINIS — Blue ribbon winners by Mrs. Donald Scripture of the Rochester branch (left) and Mrs. M. J. Nielson of the Wing Lake Shores branch depicted Indian life Lilliputian style.

GREENS AND GOLD — Button marigolds and greens set the theme for the blue-ribbon arrangement by Mrs. Richard Ankerson of the Lake Angelus branch. The gold of the flowers is repeated in the cloth and napkin with charcoal pottery used for the container and place setting. A perky bird on a bark log ties the table with its class, "Bird Watcher's Breakfast."

EXHIBITION — Mrs. J. C. Covert of the Waterford branch displayed her framed "painting" of dried materials on orange burlap. The three-dimensional assemblage was not judged.

CANNA BED — When C. Neil Kimler of Elkin Road, Commerce Township, planted his canna tubers, he wasn't prepared for the bountiful season they would treat him to. The plants reached over 7-foot tail. Normally cannas are in the 6-foot range unless they are of the miniature variety. "We fertilized them with liquid fertilizer four times," said Kimler. "Other than that, we just let them grow."

Follow These Tested Rules for Planting, Storing Bulbs

Fall is the time for bulb care — whether you're fall planting bulbs that will bloom next spring or digging up summer bulbs that require storage over the winter.

To plant new bulbs, follow three easy steps:

First, use a spade, trowel or bulb planter to dig a hole a few inches deeper than you intend to plant your bulb. Throw the excavated soil into an old dish pan or onto a board.

* * *

Second, add the soil conditioning mineral vermiculite to the earth you've removed. Horticultural grade vermiculite is porous and absorbent, aerating the soil while providing a reservoir for moisture.

A proper mix is two parts soil to one part vermiculite. Now refill the hole to the desired depth with the mixture.

Third, plant the bulbs at the depth best suited to each variety. After planting, fill the hole with the remainder of the soil-vermiculite blend.

* * *

The following chart tells the number of inches of soil that should cover various Spring blooming bulbs, as well as the number of inches apart each bulb should be planted:

Bulb	Covering	Space
Crocus	3"	3"
Grape Hyacinth	3"	3"
Scilla	4"	3"
Tulip	6"	6"
Hyacinth	6"	6"
Narcissus	6"	6"

Geraniums Spark Scene

If your summer cottage is surrounded by a green sea of ivy it's wonderful from one point of view — No grass to now. But, it sure can get monotonous, especially on rainy days.

Solve the problem easily and inexpensively by buying several clay pots of geraniums — the brightest you can find — and set they among the ivy leaves.

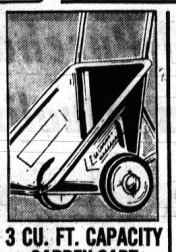

At the end of the season, transport your clay-potted geraniums home, with the rest of your luggage. With proper care, geraniums can be year-round bloomers.

First Prize, Hybrid Tea Rose, Is Sole Winner of '70 AARS Award

With the fall planting season approaching, gardeners are beginning to seek information regarding new roses. Foremost among the list of newcomers is the magnificent, deep rose-red hybrid tea, First Prize, sole winner of a 1970 AARS award.

Growing and blooming plants of First Prize have been on display in 128 Public Rose Gardens throughout the nation since early spring and the impact of this new variety on the countless thousands who have seen it has been tremendous.

From its extra long three to four inch buds, to its huge, satiny, open flower, it has received acclaim as one of the finest roses ever to have received an AARS award.

Reports from Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, and other plains states credit it with great resistance to heat, dryness and disease, and from all over the United States come reports of the great beauty of its bud and early bloom.

VARIANCE

The height of First Prize, of course, will vary with locality, from two feet in Idaho, three feet in Colorado, New York, Kentucky, and Rhode Island, to four to five feet in California. Many reports mention the broad, bushy plants and lush, deep-green, leathery foilage.

First Prize, offspring of Revelry and an unknown seedling, includes such famous roses as Fashion, Golden Scepter, Queen Mary, and Golden Masterpiece in its heritage, and displays the good qualities of all of them.

The classic, extremely long, bright red buds slowly open in a graceful spiral to a huge, brilliant, deep pink to light red rose, some five to six inches in diameter. Reports have been received from Tacoma, Washington of blooms seven to eight inches across, from Aurora, Colorado of six inch blooms, Eureka, Kan., six inch, Mt. Clemens, Mich., six and one-half inch, and Burlington N.C., six to seven inch.

Aside from outstanding beauty of bud and early flower, the blooms of First Prize have two unusual characteristics: Texture and color. The 20 to 30 broad, thick petals have a distinct, satiny quality, and actually appear almost artificial in their glowing pink. The exquisite, half-open blooms, brilliant and almost irredescent, disclose a lighter pink shading on the inner side of each petal, giving the flower a distinctly bicolor appearance.

Bloom cycle completed, the spent blossoms drop off cleanly, leaving the bush looking neat and tidy.

Fragrance is a great asset to any rose, and to add to its virtues, First Prize has a delicate "old rose" perfume that will be enjoyed by all.

Many reports have been received of the long-lasting quality of First Prize blooms, both on the bush and as a cut flower, in which department it excels as, in addition to the classic beauty of its bloom, the flowers stay fresh for four to five days.

The stems of this award winner are exceptionally thick and sturdy, holding the large roses erect, first singly and later in the season, in clusters.

Many, many reports have come in, stressing the prolific blooming of this rose. Denver, Colorado reports as many as 20 blooms at one time. Louisville, Kentucky "17 flowers and buds at this time," Eureka, Kansas "at one time there have been at least a dozen buds and blooms on this bush."

It is indeed fortunate that in limiting the award winners for 1970 to this one rose, the awards panel of All-America Rose Selections had, as a candidate for AARS honors, this most outstanding variety.

LONE WINNER

It is possible that First Prize so overshadowed the other contestants for honors that the panel may have decided there was no other candidate good enough to share honors with this rose. This is the first year since 1956 that only one All-America award winner has been named.

In addition to having been chosen for the 1970 AARS award, this rose already has been honored with a Silver Certificate from Portland, Oregon, and no doubt will receive many more recognitions of its outstanding qualities in the next few years.

A Compost Heap Helpful Boon to Home Gardeners

Don't throw away those fall leaves, coffee grounds, banana peels, tea leaves, lawn mowings, even vacuum cleaner fluff. Put it on the compost heap! You'll have a richer garden next year.

All you'll need to begin your own compost heap is a bottomless bin made of boards of chicken wire that will be large enough to hold the vegetable waste. A bin 6 feet by 6 feet will be adequate for a garden of half an acre.

Pile the soft waste material in the heap until it is about 6 to 8 inches deep. If it is dry, water it down until it is thoroughly moist.

★ ★ ★

Add a thin layer of soil for activator to stimulate the rotting process. If natural materials aren't available your nursery or garden center will have commercially prepared products.

CONTINUE

Continue this process layers of waste material and activator — until the pile is 4 to 6 feet tall. A productive heap should be moist as well as warm, and to help create these conditions rake the top of the heap to a slightly concave shape so it will catch rainwater.

The final step is to cover over the entire compost pile with a layer of soil about 6 inches deep. This acts to retain the necessary heat, encouraging the breakdown of the proteins and carbohydrates inside.

★ ★ ★

The American Association of Nurserymen offer this additional reminder. You are not building a rubbish heap with a mere collection of garbage and trash. That sort of collection will only attract bugs and disease carrying insects, and it is certain not to attract neighbors.

A real compost pile will be dark brown or black in appearance, and it will be sweet smelling. It will show no trace of the original materials.

GUIDELINES

With the guidelines suggested by the nurserymen, you will have a compost pile for your use in feeding your garden soil next planting season. And you'll be feeding it a royal banquet.

Handbook Aid to Rosarians

The 1970 "Handbook for Selecting Roses" is truly a "golden treasure of rose buying information." In its new, bright golden jacket, the Handbook is the latest in the annual series published for gardeners by the American Rose Society.

More than 1,000 roses are listed and the latest information given about the height, color and National Rating of each. The National Rating is obtained through an annual survey supplied by the 18,000 members of the Society.

The convenient size (3½' x 6¼") of the Handbook fits neatly into pocket or purse. Members of the American Rose Society make it a practice to carry this handy reference piece with them at all times.

Besides the conveniently arranged listings there is detailed information about services offered by the ARS, description of the current All-America Rose Selections, a section about the highest rated roses by color (especially valuable to the beginner) and any changes in the classification of listed roses since the previous handbook.

IN TIME

The "Handbook for Selecting Roses" is being published in time for the fall planting season, a time considered most favorable by garden experts.

It is also ideal for those considering catalog orders for spring delivery. To receive your copy send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to the American Rose Society, Dept. H, 4048 Rosalea Place, Columbus, Ohio 43214.

Organic Club to Hear Talk

"The Challenge of an Organic Garden and Its Effect on Nutrition" will be the talk delivered by Vincent Bergmann at the Thursday meeting of the Royal Oak Organic Farm and Garden Club.

The lecture will be held at 8 p.m. in the Royal Oak Woman's Club building, 404 S. Pleasant, Royal Oak.

Bergmann is a recently retired advertising man who has accepted the challenge of gardening with enthusiasm and reports his results pictorially. The meeting is open to the public.

Protect Tools, Next Spring on the Way

Most "gardener-fathers" are everlastingly after the small fry to put tools back where they belong, clean and dry.

Yet, these same fathers, hard-pressed for time, frequently round up all those expensive, helpful pieces of gardening equipment, pack them into a crowded corner of the garage or tool-shed and hope for the best each fall.

The pleasures of a blooming spring garden will be somewhat watered-down if spreaders, mowers, and rakes present a rusty, neglected look when seen next year.

Condition all the garden tools that have worked wonders all summer and fall. Clean all movable parts. Paint to prevent rust-formation during the next several months.

Oil applied to metal parts will double the life of much garden equipment. When winterizing the spreader, avoid dabbing paint near the holes to prevent possible clogging.

Let's put an end to the procrastination on when and where the proposed stadium for the Detroit professional teams is going to be built.

The Lions and Tigers have mutually agreed there is a need for the stadium and they have publicly indicated the urgency of a decision.

Yet they procrastinate, all because of a worthless plan proposed by a downtown Detroit stadium site.

If the two major athletic teams want a chaotic preview of a stadium being built in a downtown area of a major city they should take just one ride around the Three-Points "undomed" Stadium being built on the Golden Triangle in Pittsburgh.

Located on the junction of the Allegheny, Susquehanna and Ohio Rivers, the stadium adds to the beauty of the new Pittsburgh skyline, but this has to be its major contribution.

The people of highly populated Allegheny County are furious over the site. They claim that the downtown Pittsburgh businessmen bought off the county politicians.

COBBLESTONE AREA

Except for one major access road, which must cross the bridge at the point of the stadium, the entire area surrounding the 55,000 seat structure is made up two-lane cobblestone streets and a prolific setting of slums.

A parking deck for 4,500 cars is the extent of primary parking area for the stadium.

It was 1½ hours after game time and the Lions' buses leaving Pitt stadium two weeks ago, were still bumper to bumper for almost the entire distance to the airport.

★ ★ ★

Can one imagine what this traffic situation will be like with a stadium in the heart of this congestion, or when the office crews let out during the afternoon baseball games?

★ ★ ★

The recent Detroit Chamber of Commerce plan for the riverfront stadium has to be the plan of yesteryear and not the plan of tomorrow.

They are talking about property acquisition and railroad track relocations which in dollars means $18 million to $30 million dollars.

They are talking about primary parking facilities of 4,600 and remainder to be dispersed in business lots, 10 to 15 minutes away from the stadium.

They are talking about 27.5 acres for the stadium complex, and the easy access of which they talk is access to the central business district and not to the major points of outstate Michigan.

And then there is the financing, a factor which has Mayor Cavanagh's palm reaching to Gov. Milliken and the state of Michigan.

If Milliken goes along with the downtown site and the "feasibility fiasco" which has been presented, it's sure to go into a state referendum and by 1969 they will still be talking about what could have been.

The Stadium Authority of the city of Pontiac in presenting the bid for a site at M59 and I-75, has made a sincere bona-fide offer.

The presentations have been costly but they have been made and pursued conscientiously, and from all requisites for building the modern stadium of tomorrow, they have been the most sensible as far as: 1. location availability to the people of Michigan, 2. the availability and cost of land acquisition, 3. the access of current and potential roads, 4. the convenience and availability of auto, bus, rail and air facilities, 5. the sure availability of primary parking for 27,000 cars, 6. the faith and credit financial backing of the city's $500 million valuation, 7. the locale of Oakland University's and Oakland Community College's facilities and manpower.

WHERE'S COUNTY SUPPORT?

Together, the Lions and Tigers constitute a total investment of at least $25 million in today's professional sports market.

It would be a shame to see the market place relegated to 27 acres in the center of two million people when there lies available 200 acres surrounded centrally by 7½ million buyers.

What is as upsetting as the procrastination which is evident, is the apathy of the government of Oakland County in failing to make public commitment or offer endorsement and support for the professional athletic tenants to this great marketplace.

Should the teams decide on the I-75 and M59 site then the county might jump on the bandwagon.

Buick Open Golf Tournament Canceled

Absence of Top Name Pros Believed Reason for Move

By FLETCHER SPEARS

Big time golf will apparently take a holiday next year in Michigan.

Missing from the 1970 schedule will be the $125,000 Buick Open, held for the past 11 years at Warwick Hills near Grand Blanc.

Word that the rich event was being removed from the PGA tournament slate came from Buick public relations head Jerry Rideout, who has also served as tournament chairman for the popular Buick event.

GETTING OUT

Rideout revealed to The Press the contents of a letter sent to Joe Dey Jr., commissioner of the Tournament Players Division (TPD) of the Professional Golfers Association:

★ ★ ★

"This is to confirm that Buick will not sponsor a tournament in 1970. Buick was one of the first national firms to put its name on a golf tournament and over the years it has been a good promotion.

"But from time to time we review our various promotion programs and re-evaluate. It is our decision to discontinue the tournament."

WOULDN'T ELABORATE

Rideout declined to elaborate on the factors that were involved in reaching the decision. It has been common knowledge, however, that he was unhappy because a number of the more prominent names on the tour bypassed the Buick event to practice for the British Open.

★ ★ ★

The Buick Open was slated for July 2-5 next year. The British Open comes the following week, but in the past, it's been the procedure for some of the bigger names on the circuit to head for Britain a week early to get in some practice licks. Notable among this crowd were Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus.

'NO SURPRISE'

Dey said he was disappointed that Buick was dropping the event but he said the announcement came as no surprise.

"It was not a total surprise," said Dey. "I knew there was a question since they had not exercised their option. There's a 60-day period in which they can renew it. So we knew there was some indication it was possible they wouldn't renew it."

★ ★ ★

Dey said the date given Buick probably was not the reason for dropping the tournament. "He (Rideout) knew well in advance of the dates and they were completely acceptable."

STILL TALKING

Dey said he had talked with several groups about filling Buick's spot on the schedule, among them the Warwick Hills Country Club. "The Warwick Hills people are interested. I understand they were totally unaware of the Buick move," said Dey.

Whether Warwick Hills was interested was not certain as of noon today. Robert Breeden, president of the club's board of directors, said he was not aware of any interest by the club in promoting the event. "I've heard no discussion on that at all," said Breeden. "I'll be darned if I know what to say." (MORE)

Hayes Scott, chairman of the board of directors, is in Washington, D.C., on a business trip and was unavailable for comment.

MAY REENTER?

Rideout's statement pertained to the 1970 season so it's conceivable that Buick could reenter the picture later.

★ ★ ★

The schedule is now on a year-to-year basis which leaves the years beyond 1970 wide open.

The demise of the Buick Open is the second bit of bad news for Michigan golf fans.

Just last month, the $100,000 Michigan Golf Classic became a fiscal fiasco when the sponsors couldn't come up with the money to pay the players.

A spokesman for Michigan Golf Classic said earlier today that efforts are still being made to tally all receipts from the ill-fated Classic which was held over the Labor Day weekend at nearby Shenandoah Country Club.

When the sponsors couldn't pay off, the TPD then came up with $50,000 for the players, a sum which the TPD hopes to get back from sponsors of the Classic. That matter is now in hands of attorneys for both the sponsors and the TPD.

MSU Plays Notre Dame

Wolverines Rated Favorite

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Missouri at Michigan. It looks like an intra-squad scrimmage instead of a battle between nationally ranked teams.

The Wolverines are favored by a slim one-point margin despite being ranked 11th to the Tigers' No. 9 position.

Michigan has whomped two foes — Vanderbilt by a 42-14 margin and Washington by a 45-7 count, while Missouri has stepped on a pair, Air Force by a 19-17 score and Illinois by a convincing 37-6.

★ ★ ★

Michigan has a fine option quarterback in junior Don Moorhead. Missouri has one in senior Terry McMillan.

COUNTER MOVE

The Wolverines feature sophomore Glenn Doughty springing out of the backfield like he'd just stepped on a nail. The Tigers counter with junior Joe Moore, who also doesn't have to spot a jet any yards in a race down the runway.

★ ★ ★

Moorhead, who was voted Midwest Back of the Week by UPI for his work last Saturday, has more impressive statistics than McMillan. Michigan Coach Glenn "Bo" Schembechler has a more wide-open offense than Missouri's Dan Devine, who prefers going through defensive tackles than over or around them.

Moorhead has clicked on 18 of 28 passes in two games for 202 yards and a single touchdown while McMillan is 12 for 28 for 216 yards. But the Wolverines' Grand Haven product has gained 239 rushing in 29 carries with five scores compared to 108 yards in 20 attempts without a touchdown for the Tigers' junior college transfer.

Doughty has one thing in common with Moore — neither started his collegiate career as a running back. Doughty began as a split end while Moore was a linebacker for the Mizzou frosh.

Moore, like Doughty, gained 191 yards last week, but trails the Michigan counterpart by 14 yards for both games and at 48 has made four more tries to get through enemy lines. Doughty has a 2-to-1 touchdown edge.

EAST LANSING (AP) — The eyes of the nation won't be on Michigan State and Notre Dame this weekend as in 1966 when the football rivals both were unbeaten and played to a 10-10 standoff the last game of the season.

That was the year MSU partisans jeered because the Irish had the ball in the closing minutes but played possession, running out the clock on the ground instead of gambling with a pass for a win.

★ ★ ★

Saturday's game at South Bend has been called lacklustre. Supporters of both universities will be watching it closely, however, trying to determine if either the Spartans or the Irish have a hope of going anywhere this fall.

★ ★ ★

Michigan State had to come from behind for two early wins, 27-11 over Washington and 23-15 from Southern Methodist.

Scoring pushes on the rushing game saved State both Saturdays.

Michigan State quarterback Bill Triplett has been a bust as passer so far, completing only eight of 28 tries for 59 yards.

Coach Duffy Daugherty still is going along with the junior who took over as signal-caller in midseason last year. Triplett has been able to drive the team in for touchdowns when they are needed.

He has the third best running record, gaining 127 yards in the two games by carrying on the option.

★ ★ ★

Leaders in the established rushing attack have been senior Don Highsmith, a bulldozer runner, with 217 yards. Scatback Eric Allen, an elusive little mite, has netted 186 yards.

★ ★ ★

The defense has been the solid rock of the Spartan team. Time and time again the defensive corps, led by the rush of the front four, has held the opposition to give State good field position. Six lost fumbles didn't help the MSU cause.

Defensive end Wilt Martin and linebackers Don Law and Mike Hogan have been some of the standouts.

Lions, No. 1 on Defense, vs. Offense-Minded Browns

It will be Cleveland's offense (No. 2 in the NFL) against the Detroit Lions' defense (No. 1 this week) before a probable crowd of 82,000 at the Lake Erie Municipal stadium Sunday.

Leading the Cleveland offense is a familiar name, Ron Johnson, who is one of the many outstanding rookies in pro football this year.

★ ★ ★

What is even more surprising is the fact that the Browns rank only behind the Minnesota Vikings on offense and they are doing it without the services of Leroy Kelly, the top runner in the league last year.

★ ★ ★

Kelly has been injured and Johnson and Reece Morrison have carried the load. Morrison is only a second-year player with the Browns and in two games he has rushed 40 times for 179 yards and an average gain of 4.5. He has also caught six passes for 71 yards.

Against Washington he ran for 131 yards in last Sunday's 27-23 triumph.

Johnson, the former University of Michigan star, is even doing better. He has carried 37 times and picked up 191 yeards for 5.2 average and has scored four touchdowns.

Cleveland will also have the current top punter in Don Cockroft who is averaging 45.2 yards per try, while the Lions will have the league's top punt returner in Lem Barney, whose 74 yard touchdown return is the only one so far this season in the NFL.

The Lions' defense which has victimized the quarterback six times in two games, led the defensive statistics in seven categories, including average offense per game and percentage of passes allowed per game.

The Lions and Browns have met only seven times in regular season play with the Lions holding a 6-1 advantage in the all time series, but the two teams were arch-rivals during the 50's when they tangled for the NFL championship four items with the Lions' winning three.

The lone defeat at the hands of the Browns was the 1964 contest at Municipal Stadium which ended 37-21 for Cleveland.

FORMER BUCKEYE

One of the veterans of the Browns who has played in three of the games with the Lions is defensive captain Jim Houston, linebacker from Ohio State.

"I'm personally ashamed of our record against the Lions and would like to do something about it," he was quoted as saying.

The Lions have decided to fill the vacancy at offensive guard, created with the injury to Bob Kowalkowski, with Frank Gallagher, a 240 pounder who played at North Carolina and who is in his third year with the Lions.

Kickoff is 12:30 Michigan time Sunday.

Assistant Cage Mentor for Pontiac Northern

Bill McKinney today was named assistant basketball coach at Pontiac Northern High School.

He replaces Jay Shutt who gave up the position to continue work toward a graduate degree. McKinney was athletic director at Madison Junior High last year. He is currently an assistant football coach.

McKinney will assist head coach Dick Hall and have charge of the junior varsity cagers.

Post 6-1 Verdict

Early Goals Spark Wings

DETROIT (AP) — Two first period goals started the Detroit Red Wings on their way Thursday night, and they followed up with one more in the second period and three in the third for a 6-1 decision over the New York Rangers.

The win moved Detroit's exhibition record to 5-2-1 and dropped New York's mark to 6-3-0 in pre-season play.

Detroit's Wayne Connelly opened the scoring at 10:29 of the opening period on a slap shot from Garry Unger. Four minutes and 17 seconds later Bruce MacGregor followed with a goal, assisted by Nick Libett and Pete Stemkowski.

Gordie Howe kept the pressure on New York goalie Ed Giacomin with an unassisted goal at 1:41 of the second period, but then New York's Vic Hadfield interupted the Detroit binge with a goal from Jean Ratelle at 2:02 of the period.

Detroit wound up the scoring on goals by Stemkowski, Larry Jeffrey and Libett.

Flyers Option Center

HERSHEY, Pa. (UPI) — Veteran center Garry Peters has been optioned to Quebec of the American Hockey League by the Philadelphia Flyers. However, a Philadelphia spokesman said Peters may be back with the Flyers when they open their National League season against Minnesota Oct. 11.

Pistons Shattered by Bullets, 122-116

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Former Toledo University star Steve Mix, now a rookie with the Detroit Pistons, went back to his home court Thursday, but that wasn't enough as the Pistons fell to the Baltimore Bullets 122-116 in a National Basketball Association exhibition.

Baltimore, now 3-3 in preseason play, took the lead early in the second quarter and never fell behind. Earl Monroe lead the Bullets in scoring with 29 points and Ray Scott and Jack Marin came up with 22 each.

Mechanical Brain Stymied for F-Bird, Lansing Odds

The computer can't even come up with a clear-cut favorite in the battle between the Pontiac Firebirds and Lansing All-Stars to decide the Central Division leader of the Midwest Football League.

Fed the data of their records, the mechanical brain gives the Firebirds less than a half-point advantage in their game Saturday night in Lansing.

On the board the betting would be even.

In the power ratings of the MFL, the computer says:

1. Pontiac Firebirds	98.5
2. Lansing All-Stars	98.1
3. Lackawanna Lancers	98.0
4. Dayton Colts	95.0
5. S.W. Michigan Hawks	85.5
6. Grand Rapids Chiefs	72.6
7. Flint Wildcats	68.4
8. Detroit Cowboys	62.6

Pontiac and Lansing both lost to Lackawanna, but each has defeated the Lancers in their last meeting. Against each other in the first meet, the Firebirds and All-Stars played to a 13-13 tie.

What does Saturday's battle at Lansing Sexton field mean?

It means the probable Central Division title. The only roadblock after this game would be Dayton, and both teams still have to meet the Colts.

★ ★ ★

The addition of another bus has extended the deadline for those desiring to make the trip for a $7 package. The buses will leave Wisner Stadium at 5:15 p.m.

Fans driving to Lansing can purchase advance tickets at the VFW Post No. 1370. A capacity crowd of 4,000 is expected for the game.

BITING THE DUST — Chicago White Sox' Rick Morales had dust in his eyes but he came up with a triple on this head-first slide against the Minnesota Twins yesterday in Minnesota. Twins' third baseman Harmon Killebrew puts the tag on Morales but it came too late to catch the Chisox speedster. Twins won, 6-5.

Winner Meets NL Titlist

Twins, Birds Await Playoffs

BALTIMORE (AP) — "We're trying to accomplish in five games," Earl Weaver said, "what in previous years it took 162 games to do."

That's how the Baltimore manager views the upcoming inaugural American League playoff series between the Orioles and the Minnesota Twins, opening Saturday in Memorial Stadium.

★ ★ ★

Crowds of 45,000 or more are expected for each of the two games in Baltimore, where attendance just eased over the one million mark on the final day of the regular season.

Saturday's game between the divisional champions will start at 1 p.m., EDT, with Sunday's delayed until 2 p.m., because of a local ordinance.

After winning 109 games, two short of the league record for victories in one season, the Orioles still haven't qualified for the World Series.

"I think there's more anxiety waiting for the playoffs to start than it is for the World Series," Weaver said, "because we're still trying to reach the Series.

MORE IMPORTANT

"The World Series becomes important only after you're in it. Right now, it means nothing to four teams. Soon it will be important to two teams, and the other two will be rooting for their league."

Mike Cuellar, 23-11, and Dave McNally, 20-7, both left-handers, will pitch the first two games against the Twins—who had only a 31-25 record after lefties in the regular season.

Cuellar and McNally each had no-hit bids spoiled by Minnesota's Cesar Tovar in the ninth inning this year. Jim Palmer, Baltimore's third game starter, pitched a no-hitter against Oakland while running up a 16-4 record.

The Twins will counter with their 20-game winners, right-handers Jim Perry and Dave Boswell, but Manager Billy Martin has not named his third starter.

Baltimore held an 8-4 advantage over the Twins in the season series, but Weaver says, "we're not taking them lightly. They have an explosive ball club."

Three Orioles nursed minor injuries Thursday as rain forced cancellation of their scheduled workout.

SORE FOOT

First baseman Boog Powell has a sore heel, catcher Ellie Hendricks had an infected toe lanced and reserve infielder Bob Floyd is bothered with a sore elbow.

All hurts, real and imagined, are expected to clear up when the playoffs start and money is on the line.

"The extra money we pocketed during the first 162 games," Weaver said, "can be doubled in value during the next five games."

Redlegs' Pete Rose Keeps National Loop Bat Crown

Atlanta (AP) — Cincinnati's Pete Rose won the National League batting championship for the second straight year Thursday night with a bunt single against Atlanta he called "the biggest hit I ever got—not the longest, the biggest."

The tap down the third base line came with two out and runners at first and second in the eighth inning after Rose had gone 0-for-3 while his closest contender, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, was 3 for 3.

★ ★ ★

At that point, Clemente had climbed to within .0008 of Rose, who finished with an unofficial .348. Clemente went out in his fourth trip against Montreal and ended the year with an unofficial .345 average.

"I knew if I went 0-for-4 and he went perfect he could beat me," Rose said.

He said he learned of Clemente's three hits from "some fellow in the first row. I was as nervous as I've ever been. I didn't know what to do."

★ ★ ★

Rose, who has 1,018 hits in the last five seasons, said, "That's the first time in my life I've bunted with two men out and runners in scoring position."

★ ★ ★

Rose said he had set his goal for 200 hits and 100 runs before the season began. He achieved both. Rose scored twice in Cincinnati's 8-3 victory over Atlanta Thursday night, giving him 120 for the year to tie San Francisco's Bobby Bonds for the league scoring title.

HUD Grant OK'd for Calvin College

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., announced yesterday that the Department of Housing and Urban Development has approved a $1.21-million loan to Calvin College for a new dormitory.

The three-story structure on the Grand Rapids campus will house 242 students and a small infirmary, Griffin said.

N.Y. Underdog Against Braves

ATLANTA (AP) — The pressure that goes with long winning streaks was lifted from the New York Mets and Atlanta Braves Thursday, but there still will be plenty to go around when the teams open their best-of-five series for the National League championship here Saturday.

The Mets, winners of the East Division, lost their nine-game winning string in a 5-3 defeat at the hands of the Chicago Cubs while Cincinnati ended the Braves' 10-game streak 8-3 as the regular season ended Thursday.

★ ★ ★

Atlanta, listed as an 11-10 favorite over the Mets, clinched the West Division crown Tuesday by trimming the Reds 3-2. New York wrapped up its division last week by blanking St. Louis 6-0.

The Mets, who arrived here Thursday night, hold an 8-4 edge over Atlanta this year.

The opening game — it starts at 4 p. m. EDT — will match the aces of the two teams — 25-game winner Tom Seaver of the Mets and 23-game winner Phil Niekro of the Braves.

SECOND GAME

Atlanta's Ron Reed and New York's Jerry Koosman will work the second game Sunday before the series moves to New York for games on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, if necessary.

The third game probable pitchers are Pat Jarvis for Atlanta and Gary Gentry for New York.

The Mets late-season streak was led by their outstanding pitching corps while the Brave streak was highlighted by good pitching and the red-hot bat of Rico Carty, who had a .387 average as Atlanta won 17 of its last 20 games in September. Tony Gonzalez hit .489 in the Braves' final 10 game winning streak.

★ ★ ★

The Mets, once the darlings of futility, overtook the Cubs, who held a nine-game late season edge, to win the East by eight.

Atlanta won the West by three games over San Francisco, but the torrid race saw five teams in the title picture as late as three weeks ago.

New Bosox Manager Has 'Good Guy' Tag

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox are doing an about face. Even an Army drill sergeant couldn't order louder—or softer.

The Red Sox went from one extreme to the other Thursday in naming Eddie Kasko, 38, a 10-year major league infielder, to manage the team in 1970 and '71.

Kasko, who wound up his playing career with the Red Sox in 1966, was picked to succeed Dick Williams, 40, who led Boston to its first American League pennant in 21 years as a rookie manager in 1967.

★ ★ ★

Williams, who began his managerial career in the minor leagues after finishing his playing career as a Boston utilityman, was chosen for his toughness. It paid off with the pennant.

'GOOD GUY'

Kasko, who succeeded Williams two years ago as manager of Toronto in the International League, takes over with the tag "good guy."

Williams straightened out the team which had a "country club" atmosphere and led the Red Sox to a "Impossible Dream." The dream didn't last long. With one year left on a $50,000 contract, he was fired by owner Tom Yawkey on Sept. 23.

★ ★ ★

Williams was given the gate for alleged lack of communication with his players. He had feuded with many of his stars—and stars always come first.

Kasko played his final year in the major leagues with many established stars such as Carl Yastrzemski, Tony Conigliaro, Rico Petrocelli and Jim Lonborg. In addition, he sent up many players to the Red Sox as manager at Toronto and then, the last two years, at Louisville.

Williams was considered hard-nosed. He was a throw back to the old time manager, who ran his club with an iron first while trying to win. Kasko, in contrast is soft-spoken—more the professor type.

"I don't consider myself a strict disciplinarian," Kasko said. "I think being firm and fair is better than being a strict disciplinarian."

FIRST MOVE

In his first official move, Kasko named former Red Sox right-hander Charlie Wagner his pitching coach. Wagner, 53, who has assisted Kasko the last three years in the Boston minor league training camp, succeeds Darrell Johnson.

★ ★

The Red Sox executive office automatically named Eddie Popowski as a returnee as a coach. Kasko has his choice of naming two others, one to serve in the bullpen.

2 Semifinal Berths Set in Net Meet

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The last two semifinal berths in the $20,000 Pacific Coast Tennis Tournament are being decided today as Roy Barth meets Tomas Koch and Bob Carmichael plays Stan Smith.

Barth, from San Diego, Calif., moved into the quarterfinals Thursday by beating Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico, 17-19, 6-3, 6-2.

Koch of Brazil, Carmichael of Australia and Smith of Pasadena, Calif., had reached the quarterfinals previously.

Arthur Ashe of Gum Springs, Va., the No. 1 seed, reached the semifinals by dumping Jaime Fillol of Chile, 7-6, 6-2, and Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., got there by trimming Jeff Borowiak of Lafayette, Calif., 13-11, 6-4.

Borowiak was the last amateur in the men's singles.

Top-seeded Margaret Court of Australia beat Eliza Pande of Palo Alto, Calif., 6-3, 6-0, and moved into the women's semifinals. Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif., got there by beating Janet Newberry, also of La Jolla, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Rookie Aids Stars

GREENVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Rookie Mack Calvin scored 21 points Thursday night to lead the Los Angeles Stars to a 117-96 victory over the Carolina Cougars in an American Basketball Association exhibition.

Formosa Pair Leads World Cup Event

SINGAPORE (AP) — Formosa's Hsieh Yung Yo and Hsu Chi San fired a combined 139 today to take the team lead after two rounds of the World Cup Golf Tournament with a total of 277.

The Taiwan pair moved in front by one stroke over the U.S. team of Orville Moody and Lee Trevino with whom they were tied for the lead after the opening round.

The U.S. team shot a combined two-under 140 on the par-71 course of the Singapore Island Country Club and finished the second round with 278.

Orion Harriers Trim Madison

Senior Charles Hopper flashed around the course on a school record 10:01 yesterday to lead Lake Orion to a 23-38 cross-country victory over Madison.

Carl Fusco of Madison checked in second at 10:07 and teammate Ed Prine took third.

Orion's Ron Stanley and Wayne Jones placed four-five.

Kettering Ace Sets Cross-Country Mark

Kevin Reabe and Dave Meyerhofer continue to pace Kettering's cross country team as the 1-2 runners but they weren't enough yesterday as the Captains finished second to Southfield in a triangular meet.

Reabe's time was a course record of 10:11.7, while Meyerhofer finished in 10:22.5.

★ ★ ★

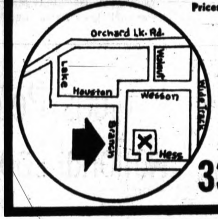

Southfield with 32 points, had Gary Andrew and Brad Holst, third and fourth. Kettering had 34 points and Livonia Churchill 58.

Seattle Wins

CHEHALIS, Wash. (AP) — The Seattle SuperSonics squandered a 13-point lead but still managed to eke out a 113-112 victory over Chicago Thursday night in a National Basketball Association exhibition game.

Seattle's Bob Rule topped the scoring with 34 points. Clem Haskins had 25 for the Bulls.

No. 3 Rated Prep Team at Wisner Tonight

One of the classy teams in the state will put its talents on display this evening at Wisner Stadium.

The highly-regarded invader is Flint Northwestern, ranked No. 3 in the high school Associated Press poll, and playing the role of host are the Chiefs of Pontiac Central. Kickoff is 7:30.

TOUGH ASSIGNMENT

A victory would look nice on the Chiefs' record, but they figure to have their hands full against the potent Flint eleven that has scored 113 points in ripping three foes.

* * *

They have played one common foe — Flint Southwestern. Northwestern won, 37-18, while the Chiefs were stopped, 16-6.

PIVOTAL GAME

The Chiefs, although 1-2 on the season, are 1-0 in the Western Division of the Saginaw Valley Conference and tonight's game will determine how they'll fare in the '69 race. The Chiefs' offense perked up last week in a 34-0 win over Saginaw Arthur Hill.

* * *

There are a number of other interesting games on the Friday night slate.

Pontiac Northern's Huskies were at Livonia Stevenson this afternoon for an Inter-Lakes League contest, whiel another I-L outing this evening sent Walled Lake Central against the Skippers of Waterford.

SKIPPERS VENGEFUL

The Skippers are smarting from two successive losses after opening the season on a winning note, so the Vikings of Walled Lake could be in for a rough evening. The Skippers have an added score to settle, too. It's been 12 years since they beat Walled Lake.

An I-L contest on the schedule tomorrow afternoon finds Farmington entertaining Southfield Lathrup.

PICTURE CLEARING

The Wayne-Oakland figures to come up with a better title picture after tonight's games.

Bloomfield Hills Andover (2-0) and West Bloomfield (2-0) are heading the pack and both are paired against tough opponents.

Andover, 3-0 over-all, is at Milford, while West Bloomfield entertains Northville. In the other W-0 games, Brighton invades Kettering and Clarkston plays host to Clarenceville.

ALMONT TRAVELS

Almont, a surprise 21-18 winner over New Haven last week in a Southern Thumb clash, is on the road this evening against another tough league foe, Capac.

Dryden, owner of a 1-0-1 mark in the Thumb circuit, entertains Memphis in another key contest, while the remainder of the schedule finds Armada at Richmond and Anchor Bay in a non-leaguer at Marine City.

Imlay City's Spartans are 3-0 and they'll try to make it 4-0 in a contest this evening at Harbor Beach (2-1) in a Greater Thumb outing.

In a key Northwest Catholic League contest tomorrow, the Lakers of Waterford Our Lady (2-1) entertain the Dales of Ferndale St. James (3-0) on the Kettering High School field. The Dales are ranked No. 2 among the state's Class C teams.

GLENWOOD PLAZA—NORTH PERRY AT GLENWOOD

Avon Jackets Face Wildcats

Nothing has been easy for the Yellow Jackets of Avondale this season.

The Yellow Jackets are 1-2, with a 1-1 record in the North Division of the Oakland Avalanche League, and they'll try to improve that mark against upstart Oxford tonight.

SLIM SETBACKS

Those two losses inflicted on the Jackets have been by a total of eight points. There was the 20-14 loss to Milford in the season opener and a 6-4 setback in Romeo last Friday. The lone win was a 12-6 verdict over highly-regarded Troy.

* * *

Oxford, on the other hand, is enjoying its best season in years. The Wildcats are 2-0-1, 1-0-1 in the league, and they are favored by a scant two points in the collision this evening.

That's one of the big ones on the O-A schedule.

ORION TRAVELS

Another important contest finds Lake Orion at Rochester Adams. Orion, now 1-1 after an 8-6 loss to strong Utica Saturday, needs a victory to stay in the running for honors in the North Division. Adams, like Avondale, has suffered a couple of close setbacks, the latest a 12-8 failure at Oxford last week.

* * *

In other games on the O-A schedule this evening, Rochester travels to Lampher, Bloomfield Hills Lahser is at Clawson and Troy visits Madison.

On Saturday, Romeo invades the Chieftains of Utica.

RANKED FOURTH

One of the area's top Class A squads will be in action this evening in Birmingham when Groves entertains the powerful Raiders of North Farmington.

* * *

North Farmington is 3-0 and figures to make its Northwest Suburban League record 2-0 in the contest against Groves. The Raiders are ranked fourth in the Associated Press poll.

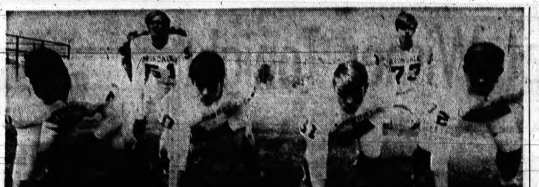

Two other Northwest Suburban games are on the Saturday slate. Those find Westland John Glenn at Ferndale and Oak Park at Detroit Thurston.

HEAD FOR SHOWDOWN

Ferndale and Royal Oak Kimball are heading for a showdown in the Southeastern Michigan association.

* *

Tonight, Ferndale is at Hazel Park and Kimball is at Birmingham Seaholm in what should be tuneups for the Kimball-Fernadale clash next week at Ferndale.

Runners Take Grid Spotlight From Passers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Running backs are hogging the spotlight now that three of the top passers in National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics history have graduated.

The big guns so far are Mike Sallier of Doane, Neb., Dan Ehle of Howard Payne and Chuck Riley of Westminster (Utah). Sallier has romped for 856 yards on 101 carries in three games for an average of 185.3 yards a game. Ehle has totaled 553 on 63 carries and Riley 532 on 103. Sallier has scored eight touchdowns to lead the NAIA.

* * *

The past couple of years they have performed in the shadows of passing stars Sim Byrd of Troy, Ala. State, Sonny Wade of Emory & Henry and Jeff Petrucci of California, Pa., State.

New passing leader is Don Dalton, Western Carolina quarterback, who has completed 22 of 49 passes for 530 yards in two games. Curtis Broome of Lane (Tenn.) is the top receiver so far with six catches for 144 yards in one game.

* * *

Total offense leader is Kenny Ray of Central Oklahoma with 250 yards on 30 plays in one game, while Bill Dement of Angelo, Tex., State is the top punter with a 49.3 average on nine kicks. Cliff Harris of Ouachita Baptist leads in returns with a 42-yard average.

Salmon Plentiful, Trout Scarce

By United Press International

Salmon fishing continues to provide anglers with excellent sport, but upstream trout and brook trout are hard to find.

With the official conclusion of the "trout season" at hand, designated trout streams will be off-limits to Michigan fishermen. Many streams in the lower part of the state will remain open for steel head and brown trout.

* * *

The salmon are biting at several new locations, including the West Arm of Grand Traverse Bay; Porter Creek in Lake Charlevoix at Advance; and at the south of Bear Creek at Petoskey.

In Grand Traverse Bay, salmon, mostly coho, averaging from 8 to 16 pounds, are being taken in 80 feet of water about 25-to 40 feet from the surface.

Coho in Lake Charlevoix, averaging from 8 to 12 pounds, are being hooked from about 40 to 50 feet down.

HITTING AT TAWAS

The best coho fishing in Lake Huron continues to be at the mouth of the Tawas River, while coho from 10 to 14 pounds are being caught off Thompson Creek by Schoolcraft County in the Upper Peninsula.

Trolling for chinook at the south end of Manistee Lake has produced catches averaging nearly 20 pounds. Chinook fishing also remains fairly good in Lake Michigan at Muskegon.

*

Southeastern Michigan continues to provide perch fishermen with consistent results. Good-sized perch still are being taken off Huron Point in Lake St. Clair and in Brest Bay in Lake Erie.

In Jackson County, perch are hitting at Clark and Lime Lake.

Except along the "Coho Coast," fishing in northern lower Michigan has been slow. Success has been poor mainly because of the lack of fishermen in the Cadillac, Houghton Lake, Alpena and Cheboygan areas.

No Barrier Big Enough

BOYNE CITY (AP) — The power of the Coho salmon's spawning urge has been demonstrated along Porter Creek near Boyne City.

State biologists report the big fish smashed through one-inch iron pipes set an inch apart at the mouth of the creek and swarmed upstream to spawn.

The weir was one of several erected to prevent the salmon from swarming into shallow creeks where they were speared and clubbed by swarms of fishermen last year. Biologists said they believe repairs to the weir have blocked the spawning run at Porter Creek.

Keg Meeting Set

The first meeting of the Pontiac Women's Bowling Association open to all area bowlers, will be held Sunday at 5 p.m. at the Elks Temple.

A new format for the city tournament will be discussed. All members are urged to attend.

PNH Harriers Post Triumph; Mott Defeated

Pontiac Northern's cross country team, led by George Pickering, notched a 22-37 victory over Walled Lake Central at the Northern course yesterday.

Pickering was timed in 10:05 and was followed by Tim Howell of Walled Lake. Mike Taylor placed third and Bill Turnbull finished fourth for Northern.

* * *

Northville topped Waterford Mott 18-43 in a meet at Mott. Paul Bedford of Northville set a course record of 10:38. Roger Strader placed third for Mott.

Bloomfield Hills Lahser took four of the top five places in a meet with Rochester and grabbed an 18-41 victory.

Mike Manz and Jay Kershenbaun of Lahser tied for first in 10:59. Jeff Smart of Rochester was third.

Three Ex-Titlists Sharing Golf Lead

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Three former champions were tied for the lead going into today's third round of the U.S. Senior Women's Golf Tournament.

They are Mrs. Marge Mason, Ridgewood, N.J.; defending champion Mrs. Philip J. Cudone of Myrtle Beach, S.C., and two-time winner Miss Maureen Orcutt, Haworth, N.J. All have 157 totals.

Mrs. Mason, the 1967 champ, shot an 82 Thursday. Mrs. Cudone fired a four-over-par 77 at Ridge Country Club and Miss Orcutt had a 78.

Mrs. Lowell D. Brown of Tyler, Tex., is two shots behind the leaders. The final round of the 54-hole tournament is set today.

Miss Post Wins Pro-Am Title

LAKE SAN MARCOS, Calif. (AP) — Pro Sandra Post and three amateur partners ran around the Lake San Marcos golf course in 60-54—114 Thursday to capture the pro-am part of the Mickey Wright Invitational Golf Tournament.

Miss Post's best-ball score of 54 was good enough for first money of $150. Ruth Jessen, whose team was in at 119, earned $125 for her best-ball score of 55.

Dodger Hurler Singer Gains 20th Victory

Houston Boss Irate Over Call in Allowing Key Run to Score

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bill Singer of the Dodgers got his 20th victory Thursday night but all Houston manager Harry "The Hat" Walker got—the way he sees it—is a slap in the teeth. The Dodgers shoved over the winning run in the bottom of the ninth to beat Houston, 5-4, and leave Walker fuming mad.

It was a wild pitch that enabled rookie catcher Bob Stinson to score from third, sliding around the tag at the plate. That's the way plate umpire Andy Olsen called it, at least, but it's not the way Walker saw it.

"It's the worst call I've ever seen," Walker screamed for all to hear after the game. "He hasn't touched home plate yet." The squabble was a fitting climax to one of the National League's hottest seasons. And for Singer it was a happy finale.

NO TOMORROW

"I was nervous the whole game," Bullet Bill said after he'd nailed No. 20 for the first time in his six-year big league career. "I knew there wouldn't be any tomorrow if I lost this one."

Singer won his 19th nearly a month ago and Thursday was making his fifth shot at winning 20. He did it, following Claude Osteen's 11th hour script of the night before and for the first time since the Koufax-Drysdale era, the Dodgers have two 20-game winners.

"The last few times out there it seemed like I was trying to climb Mt. Everest," Singer smiled. "I'm just happy I got it."

He got it by the tiniest of margins and Walker isn't so sure he has it yet.

It was a see-saw game with the lead changing hands four times after Ted Sizemore slapped his fourth homer of the year in the first inning for Los Angeles.

But was tied going into the ninth and Stinson, making only his third start of the year, opened with a single. Singer sacrificed him to second and Maury Wills, who was celebrating his 37th birthday, bunted for a single and the Dodgers had runners at third and first with one out.

CALLED SAFE

Walker then brought Jack Billingham, a former Dodger out of the bullpen to pitch to Sizemore. But Billingham's first pitch was in the dirt and got away from catcher Johnny Edwards. Stinson raced for the plate, Edwards raced for the ball. The ball and Stinson got to the plate at the same time and Olsen called Stinson safe.

The Dodgers raced to congratulate Singer and Walker charged Olsen with something less than congratulations on his mind.

It was a wild scene on the field and Walker was still throwing everything in sight when he reached the clubhouse.

Barry's Loss Is Big Chunk

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rick Barry would have gotten $92,500 more for playing with the San Francisco Warriors this year than he is getting from the Washington Capitols, lawyers revealed Thursday.

The figures came out in U.S. District Court where lawyers sought to fight an injunction that forbade Barry from playing professional basketball for anyone but the Caps.

BOWLING

Fran Bertram, league secretary of the Huron Bowl Classic, reports that a total of 31 participants rolled a 600 series or better during last week's competition while 89 keglers racked up games of 200 or more. No wonder this league is one of the most exciting to watch in this area.

A total of 41 leagues submitted result sheets detailing competition for the week, one of the largest ever recorded.

Despite the number this week, more results keep coming in each week as new fall leagues get under way at the various lanes.

At the rate new leagues are forming, it's not unwise to advise those thinking of forming leagues for the winter season to contact the lanes of their preference for choice bowling times.

DON CARTER'S BOWLING TIPS

A STRIKE — Sometimes a bowling instructor will suggest that you set your thumb at "11 o'clock," or perhaps "10 o'clock." He is thinking of the ceiling as being the 12 on such a dial and he wants your thumb to be pointing just slightly to the left as you release the ball. The tendency for most bowlers is to turn the thumb much farther and this should be avoided.

Waterford Schools Seek 9-Mill Tax Hike

By DICK ROBINSON

Waterford Township voters will be asked to pass a one-year, 9-mill property tax increase Nov. 25 to provide money to put some 18,500 children back on full-day classes.

The millage amount was decided by the board of education last night. It also agreed to appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court an Oakland County Circuit Court ruling that it must restore full-day classes by Nov. 3.

At the same time, school trustees canceled a proposed bond issue that had been slated for the same ballot.

The 9-mill levy — $9 per 1,000 of assessed property evaluation — for the 1970-71 school year would provide just enough funds to the school district could borrow the money to restore full days this shool year and pay for full days the next year, Pagen said.

'WILL GO INTO RED'

The school district will have to go into the red next spring to finance full days, Pagen explained, but it is hopeful of getting permission from the Municipal Finance Commission to borrow money on anticipated revenue if the millage passes.

Two-thirds of the millage revenue would be used to finance full days next school year and one-third to repay the loan for full days this year, according to Pagen.

Trustee Billie S. Farnum proposed the levy for just one year because it is possible that the governor's plans to revamp school financing may provide more revenue for Waterford in 1971-72.

A 9-mill tax increase, which would be levied on December 1970 tax bills, would cost the average property owner about $90 per year, Pagen estimated. He figures the average property is worth about $20,000 and is assessed at $10,000.

3 ISSUES DEFEATED

Waterford voters have defeated three millage issues in the past two years, the last a two-year 9-mill proposal in March. Property owners now pay tax on a total of 32.63 mills, of which 24.63 is for operating schools.

Seventeen out of the county's other 27 school districts levy higher operating taxes, Pagen has said.

Pagen estimated the 9-mill tax increase would raise about $1.8 million during 1970-71.

★ ★ ★

A decision the board made two weeks ago to hold a no-tax-increase bond issue election to primarily build a needed junior high school along with the millage proposal was unanimously rescinded.

EXPLAINS REASONING

Trustee Eldon C. Rosegart explained the reasoning this way:

"As much as you can tell people the bond issue won't increase taxes, they can never separate bond issues from millage increases on the same ballot.

"Once the millage is passed, we could call a bond issue for the near future."

As expected, school trustees unanimously voted to appeal Judge William J. Beer's order giving the school district five additional weeks to restore full days.

School Attorney John Rogers said he would file for a stay and appeal to a higher court today or Monday and that he expects the issue to be heard there early next month.

SUIT BROUGHT BY PARENTS

Beer originally gave school officials two weeks when he ruled that shortened class days as a cost-cutting device and a state law prohibiting deficit financing are unconstitutional.

The suit was brought by a group of Waterford parents shortly after half-day school sessions went into effect for three elementary grades last month. Secondary students are on a shortened day by one hour for the second year.

★ ★ ★

Schools officials had said it is impossible to hire some 130 teachers, redistribute supplies, reschedule classes and rearrange bus schedules by Nov. 3.

In fact, the soonest that secondary students could go back to school for six hours a day would be January, Pagen said.

Restoration of elementary full days would probably take longer since it is difficult to find enough teachers in the middle of a school year, Pagen said.

Waterford Township schoolchildren will go back to full-day classes no matter what happens in their parents' court battle providing residents pass a proposed tax increase.

POWER PLAY—Foreign Minister Willy Brandt (left) of West Germany's Social Democratic party shakes hands with Free Democratic party leader Walter Scheel. Last night, they drafted a coalition agreement that would bring Brandt's party into power for the first time. Both parties were meeting today to decide whether to ratify the agreement.

Backers Confident Tough Plan Will Be Law

Coal-Safety Bill Clears Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of the most stringent coal mine safety bill ever to clear a branch of Congress say they are confident the measure will become law this year.

Following a 73-0 Senate vote yesterday, the measure was sent to the House where a similarly tough measure already has been approved by the Labor and Public Welfare Committee.

★ ★ ★

Congressional action has been spurred by the tragedy at Farmington, W. Va., last November where 78 miners died in an underground explosion and the wide publicity given recently to black lung disease.

House managers said they would push to bring the safety bill to the floor as soon as possible.

Although not a single Senate vote was cast against the measure on final passage there were several fights on amendments during five days of floor debate.

The bill had been under study for months in a Labor subcommittee headed by Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., before it was sent to the Senate floor.

★ ★ ★

Williams said after the Senate vote he was confident the legislation "will mean very significant improvement in the working environment of the nation's 130,000 coal miners."

The bill would establish federal minimum dust levels in the 3,600 U.S. coal mines for the first time.

FEDERAL INSPECTIONS

It also would set up stricter controls over methane gas, provide for tigher and more frequent federal inspections, require that all electrical equipment and wiring be made spark-proof, ban smoking and use of flames in mines, and establish a program of interim compensation payments for miners disabled by pneumoconiosis or black lung.

In the last major floor fight yesterday, the Senate declined to exempt small, so-called nongassy mines from the equipment requirements of the legislation.

Sen. John S. Cooper, R-Ky., arguing for such an amendment, said the requirements would be so costly that many of the small mines would be forced to close.

Williams and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., offered a compromise under which the nongassy mines would have five years to install the new equipment, instead of four as provided in the main bill.

This was adopted 45-31.

Under the dust provision, all mines will be required within six years to meet a standard of not more than 2 milligrams per cubic meter of air.

JAMES R. HOFFA

Parole Request by Hoffa Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa, once counted among the nation's most powerful labor leaders, faces at least another year-and-a-half behind bars of a federal prison following rejection of his plea for parole.

Hoffa, who has served two years and eight months of an eight-year sentence for jury tampering, lost his try for early release yesterday when the U.S. Parole Board rejected his bid. The board said it would reconsider his case in March 1971.

Hoffa, the stocky, defiant leader of the two-million-member Teamsters Union whose legal battles with the government began under the Kennedy administration, were continued during the Johnson administration and still are going on, is in the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison.

2 More N-Tests Set in Aleutians

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission plans two more nuclear test explosions on Amchitka Island in the Aleutian chain after yesterday's blast which did not yield an earthquake or a tidal wave.

The Soviet Union, Japan and Canada as well as numerous U.S. scientists and political figures had objected to the one-megaton underground explosion because they feared it would cause seismic disturbances in the temblor-prone Alaskan or Aleutian faults.

★ ★ ★

But the blast yielded only a ground roll on the desolate, windswept island, and apparently didn't even bother 25 sea otters swimming in pens near ground zero.

AEC officials at a control center in Anchorage said two more nuclear tests were planned under the island Tundra during the test project.

NO VISIBLE AFTERSHOCKS

Gov. Keith Miller, a Republican who supported the test, said the commission had advised him that it would be at least two years before another test would be set off on Amchitka.

Scientists said there were no visible aftershocks but that scientific instruments may register unfelt aftershocks for days or weeks. They said no radiation escaped from the 4,000-foot deep hole in which the blast was detonated, and that a building atop the hole was not damaged.

The AEC said the first explosion was a suitability test and indicated the results were satisfactory. It has not announced a reason for the next two.

PAUF to Begin Fund Drive With Ball, Torch Lightings

A ball tonight and a dual torch-lighting ceremony tomorrow will highlight this year's Pontiac Area United Fund general kickoff.

The ball, sponsored by Annett Inc. Realtor, 28 E. Huron, is at the Holiday Inn of Pontiac. Actual kickoff begins at noon tomorrow at the Pontiac Mall with a helicopter dropping UFOs (United Fund Objects) containing numbers which can be turned in for gifts donated by The Pontiac Mall.

★ ★ ★

The first torch lighting will follow at The Mall with music provided by a Boy Scout band. Campaign leaders will be lifted to the torch in a Consumers Power snorkel for the lighting.

A car "care-a-van" of campaign leaders, the Boy Scouts band and other agency volunteers will then head for downtown Pontiac for a torch lighting at 1:25 p.m. at City Hall, 450 E. Wide Track.

★ ★ ★

The ceremonies mark the start of the area's 21st United Campaign, which seek money for 55 health, welfare, education and recreation agencies. This year's goal is $1.24 million, a 15 per cent increase over the amount raised last year. The drive will run through Nov. 7.

Nixon Will Intervene to Block Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department announced that President Nixon will intervene to block a strike against six major railroads toight.

A department spokesman said the President has decided to appoint an emergency board, whose members will be announced later, to take up the year-long dispute.

Appointment of the board automatically will postpone strike action for 60 days.

New Car Sales Set September Record

From Wire and Local Reports

DETROIT (AP) — Americans, though growing cautious in their purchase of nonessentials, bought new cars at a record rate in September.

All four American auto makers announced records of one sort or another.

Even American Motors, which often discloses sales figures only when asked, volunteered that September sales were 21,121, "the highest for that month in five years."

Sales during the month were spurred by introduction of the 1970 models and bargains on remaining stocks of 1969s. Industry sales for September totaled 709,388 cars, compared with the previous record of 601,375 in 1968.

Sales for the first three quarters were 6,303,636, second only to 1965 when the industry registered 6,397,199 new car sales through September.

Last year through nine months the auto makers sold 6,275,829 cars.

With a strong finish the industry could top the record 1965 domestic sales figure of 8.7 million cars.

Pontiac Motor Division today reported it sold 69,385 cars last month, surpassing the previous September record of 63,655 set two years ago. In the final 10 selling days of the month, the General Motors division sold 28,754 cars compared to 28,443 in the final 10 days of September 1968.

CHRYSLER CUTBACK

Chrysler Corp. reported its September sales of 117,501 were the best since 1950, but sales for the first nine months have trailed 1968 figures by nearly 90,000 units.

Chrysler also had a dip in profits this year and revealed yesterday that it would cut back its white-collar staff.

Warm, Dry Weekend Forecast

Winds light and variable 6 to 12 miles per hour today will shift to the southeast tomorrow.

The probabilities of precipitation are near zero today and tonight, and 10 per cent tomorrow.

The low before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 57. The mercury had climbed to 67 by 12:30 p.m.

Parents And Students Plead For Safe Education In Pontiac

Safe Schools Urged by Pontiac Parents

The estimated 250 persons who attended last night's Pontiac Board of Education meeting at City Hall seemed to have one common desire — an education for the children of Pontiac in safe, undisrupted schools.

★ ★

Their collective plea to the school board was that a solution be found to the disturbances that have plagued city high schools since last week.

Northern High School closed last Friday as a result of seemingly racially-related fist fights between students last Thursday, and Central High School closed Monday because of student-to-student confrontations at PCH last Friday.

TENSION BUILDS AGAIN

Racial tension built again at Northern Wednesday when white and black groups of students gathered and threatened to fight. Parents have patrolled halls in the two high schools and several junior highs since the first incident Sept. 25.

Both black and white parents attending last night's meeting, which overflowed the City Commission Chambers, urged that all of the youngsters involved in the recent disruptions be punished.

★ ★ ★

Others urged meetings with involved students to attempt to pinpoint causes for the disturbances. They said that once administrators and the board know the

House Decides to Kill Troubled Sheridan Tank

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House — turning aside efforts to chop $2 billion worth of other weapons projects — has voted to kill the trouble-plagued Sheridan tank.

★ ★ ★

The proposal to end the $1-billion Sheridan program as seen as the current contract is completed was shouted through the House yesterday with little debate and no vote count.

★ ★ ★

The proposal was backed by Armed Services Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, (D-SC.,) whose committee concluded the tank's caseless ammunition is dangerous and the tank itself was not worth the time and cost of development.

But efforts by military spending critics to cut money from the safeguard antimissile system, C5A supercargo plane, ships, helicopters and missile programs were easily defeated one by one.

$57.6-MILLION CUT

The critics tried to cut the projects from a $21.35-billion authorization for procurement of military hardware.

Rivers' committee already had cut $57.6 million from the Sheridan program, leaving only $15.2 million for completion of the present contract.

★ ★ ★

It had urged the Army to correct the tank's problems — particularly the danger of ammunition explosions inside the tank — before it asks authority to buy any more.

But the amendment shouted through yesterday would terminate the program entirely when the contract runs out.

As final as the House language is, the decision could be reversed in future authorization bills if the Sheridan's problems were solved.

★ ★ ★

Cuts attempted by spending critics but defeated by the House yesterday would have trimmed:

- All $345 million for deployment of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system, leaving intact $400 million for research and development.
- $1 billion above the administration's request for ships, added by Rivers to modernize the U.S. naval force.
- $481 million for purchase of 23 additional C5A cargo planes.

★ ★ ★

- $275 million for production of six carrier-based F-14 Navy fighters, a plane still in the development stage.
- $86 million for 170 Cobra helicopters.
- $77 million for the Short Range Attack Missile which has suffered development problems.

Haynsworth: No Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Clement F. Haynsworth today denied reports by congressional sources that he had sought to have his nomination to the Supreme Court withdrawn.

"I did not think about such a thing," Haynsworth told a reporter who asked whether he had asked President Nixon to call back the appointment. "I don't know where you all got such a thing. Somebody else dreamed the thing up."

★ ★ ★

When then asked whether he anticipated asking that the nomination be withdrawn, Haynsworth replied: "I have not and I don't."

Despite Haynsworth's denial, and one from the White House, the congressional sources who disclosed the original reports to the Associated Press yesterday remained firm today.

HEAD COUNT REPORTED

The sources said the White House had concluded after an informal head count that at least 40 of the 100 senators were prepared to vote against confirmation of the 56-year-old U.S. appeals court judge.

One midwestern senator was reported to have told his staff hours before the reports were published yesterday that Haynsworth was asking that his name be withdrawn and that a statement from the White House was imminent.

★ ★ ★

But afterward and following a talk with Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the latest information "indicates that this report is absolutely untrue."

GOP Enthusiastic

Romney: Senate Try Open

WASHINGTON (AP)— Republicans generally reacted with enthusiasm Thursday over an indication by former Michigan Gov. George Romney that he may run for the Senate next year against Sen. Philip Hart, D—Mich.

Asked by newsmen if he felt tempted to step down as secretary of housing and urban development and enter the Senate race, Romney replied:

"I haven't completely closed the door."

Told of Romney's statement, Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., House minority leader said the former governor would be "an excellent candidate for the Senate.

FORD DELIGHTED

"I'm delighted to know he has not foreclosed the possibility of running," Ford said.

Rep. Donald Riegle Jr., R-Mich., said:

"If he decided to run, he would be an excellent candidate and, if elected, an outstanding senator."

★ ★ ★

Riegle is known to be considering seeking the Republican senatorial nomination for himself, but he said if Romney runs he would not oppose him in the primary.

When asked about speculation that he might seek the Senate position, Romney said:

"Well, I'm not doing anything in that connection. I haven't completely closed the door. I'm not doing anything about it—I'm not seeking it or anything."

Second Man Places Collins in Cycle Shop

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A second man has placed John Norman Collins, accused of murdering an Eastern Michigan University coed, in an Ypsilanti motorcycle shop during much of the time the crime allegedly was being committed.

John Lehto, a 26-year-old employe of J and J Motorcycle Shop, backed the shop owner yesterday in saying that they were with Collins on the afternoon of July 23.

The coed, Karen Sue Beineman, allegedly was abducted by a motorcycle rider at about 12:30 p.m. July 23. An autopsy report indicated she was dead by 3 p.m.

New Pullout Move Seen Before Yule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, the Senate's senior Republican, predicted today President Nixon will order a new troop withdrawal of 40,000 men from Vietnam before Christmas and that "most of the ground troops" will be pulled out by the end of 1970.

"I expect that the President will probably give us another troop withdrawal for Christmas—enough to make 100,000 men this year," the Vermont senator told a reporter.

★ ★ ★

He said he has not discussed the possibility of such a new withdrawal with Nixon but that "The South Vietnamese government seems to be confident it can take things over.

Some 60,000 troops have been included in troop withdrawals announced by Nixon so far.

13 Are Arrested in Pontiac Drug Raid

By KINGSLEY COTTON

A major source of heroin in Pontiac may have been uncovered by city police last night.

In their second major narcotics raid in less than a week, officers of the Pontiac police vice squad broke into a South Side home early last night. Police confiscated $8,000 worth of suspected narcotics and $2,000 worth of property believed stolen, and made 13 arrests.

Last Saturday vice squad officers confiscated more than $14,000 worth of narcotics and made two arrests on a raid at an apartment on Douglas.

Eight officers in three cars swooped in on the home of Shellena Bently, 18, of 392 Going at 8:30 last night.

While four officers covered the front and sides of the four-room house, the other four broke down the rear door.

A search warrant had been obtained earlier yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Arrested and charged with sale of narcotics were Miss Bently, Cynthia Pippen, 21, of 107 Wesson and Michael Whitaker, 23, of 61 Orton.

Lily Pullard, 26, of 17 Gillespie, was arrested and charged with possession of narcotics.

NINE OTHERS ARRESTED

Nine other persons were arrested and charged with loitering.

Confiscated were what are suspected to be marijuana, cocaine, and heroin as well as two pistols and a rifle. The property believed stolen consisted mainly of furniture, a number of television sets, radios, and record players.

Twelve of the thirteen persons were arraigned this morning before Pontiac District Judge Cecil McCallum.

Whitaker's bond was set at $65,000 while Miss Pipen's and Miss Bently's were set at $35,000.

WARRANT SOUGHT

Bond for those charged with loitering was set by McCallum at $500. Miss Pullard was being held until a warrant could be obtained charging her with possession of narcotics.

Conviction on a charge of selling narcotics, carries a minumum prison term of 20 years, according to Det. Bruce Jarvis.

★ ★ ★

In terms of the number arrested, last nights raid was one of the largest in department history, Jarvis said.

"It was the culmination of three months of investigation and surveillance," said Sgt. Guy White, head of the department's vice squad.

"We are fairly confident," Jarvis added, "that this operation was the direct supply for a major proportion of the heroin addicts in Pontiac."

7 Arrested as City Police Seek to Keep Schools Quiet

While relative calm prevailed yesterday in Pontiac city schools, police nonetheless arrested a number of youths.

The arrests were made, according to Pontiac Police Chief William K. Hanger, in an effort to prevent the gathering of large crowds around the schools and the subsequent disturbances which have plagued Central and Northern high schools for the past week.

★ ★ ★

In the wake of racial disturbances at the schools, police also reported the firebombing of a house in a Negro residential area and a number of incidents where youths reportedly were throwing rocks at passing cars.

No one was injured but minor damage occurred at the home of Marvin Jackson, 62, of 31 Franklin Blvd. last night when a Molotov cocktail was tossed through his kitchen window.

YWCA PARKING LOT

The incident occurred at 7:40 p.m., according to police.

★ ★ ★

Officers speculate that the bottle, containing fuel oil or kerosene, was thrown from the parking lot of the YWCA on Huron.

Six Pontiac Central students were arrested by police yesterday, including three juveniles.

TOLD TO DISPERSE

According to police reports, the three were among a group of about 15 who were told to disperse. Officers said the three arrested were the ones who failed to comply.

Three juveniles also were arrested and charged with setting a fire in a locker at Central.

★ ★ ★

Another juvenile, previously suspended, was arrested at Northern High School at 10 a.m. yesterday and charged with loitering.

Two assault and battery complaints were lodged by Central students yesterday, according to police, but no arrests have been made.

School Plan Unveiled

Gov. WILLIAM MILLIKEN'S comprehensive education-reform package to be considered in a special session of the legislature which convenes Monday is as far-reaching as it is unprecedented.

MILLIKEN

It embraces a three-part program to be implemented over a three-year period, with its constitutional aspects to be voted on by the electorate next August.

Essential elements of the program are:

• The elimination of school-support property taxes on the district level and establishment of a statewide property tax coupled with a proposed 2.6 per cent income tax increase to fund the State's educational system. A primary benefit of such a revision would be the equalization of educational support per student that now varies greatly from one school district to another, depending upon the respective wealth of communities and value of their tax bases.

• The reduction of intermediate school districts from the present 59 to 10 or 15 regional districts, a reorganizational move dictated by diminished need for a multiplicity of such agencies; and abolition of the elective eight-member State Board of Education in favor of a State director of education appointed by the governor.

• Allocation of 2 per cent of the total school budget ($848.6 million for the current fiscal year) for parochial and private-school aid.

★ ★ ★

Admittedly, education in Michigan is in a state of crisis, calling for bold and innovative remedies. We think MILLIKEN'S school-taxation plan has much to recommend it and could well be the answer to the financial plight in which most of the State's school districts find themselves.

★ ★ ★

His plan for restructuring the intermediate school district setup and shift from a state board of education elected on a partisan basis to a single, responsible school head can easily be supported, although it could generate considerable opposition in many quarters.

But we strongly oppose his aid-to-private-schools proposal on legal, philosophical and economic grounds —a position we have taken from the outset of the issue.

★ ★ ★

Moreover, we think that Gov. Milliken may have erred in advocating too much change in too short a time. Politics has been termed the art of the possible. Is it possible that he has ignored this precept?

Economic Pros at Odds

Demonstrating that economics is one of the most inexact of sciences were the divergent opinions recently expressed by four leaders in the field at a University of Michigan-sponsored panel discussion.

The mix of conclusions stressed on one hand the urgency of halting inflation even at the expense of a slight business recession; and on the other, the assurance that "small inflation"—up to 5 per cent a year—isn't necessarily an evil. In support of the latter position, it was pointed out that the Country has had a creeping form of inflation for 35 years and that in comparison with other nations it has been inconsequential, with no detrimental effect.

★ ★ ★

On the subject of interest rates and their undeniable effect on availability of commercial credit, one expert saw the current 8½ per cent prime interest rate (actually 11 per cent because of stipulation that a portion of the loan remain on deposit with the lending institution) declining to a pre-boom level as the economy slows in response to Federal fiscal and monetary policies. Another, while foreseeing interest rates settling back slightly in the near future predicted that "we would never see 6½ per cent again in our lifetime." In fact, said he, we may look back on the 8½ (11) per cent rate as a "moderate, reasonable and attractive one."

★ ★ ★

And so it goes. The main booby trap in the realm of economics is the imponderable factor of mass behavior and response to economic stimuli. Until the reactions of John Q. Public can be precisely plotted—and who would be rash enough to predict such an eventuality?—the study of economics will continue to provide a most fascinating guessing game.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

Ho Chi Minh

Chicago Tribune

Sentimental gushing about Ho Chi Minh in the "liberal" press, on television and even in official remarks was to be expected, considering the prevailing psychosis of unreality induced by the Vietnam war. He has been described as benign and gentle, wise and witty, beloved of children, a philosopher king, a man god, and even —believe it or not—another George Washington.

★ ★ ★

"The plain truth," as Columnist Bernard Levin wrote in the London Daily Mail, "is that Ho Chi Minh was a ruthless and bloody tyrant." Lest we forget this in all the sickening posthumous exaltation of this small-fry Stalin, it is well to review some of his enormities.

After the Geneva accords of 1954, Ho introduced a typical communist terror in North Vietnam, from which more than 900,000 civilians fled to South Vietnam before Ho stopped the exodus by sealing the border. This was done in violation of his agreement.

In North Vietnam land owners, including peasants with only one or two hectares of rice land, were dispossessed as a class and many thousands (estimates range as high as 150,000) were shot. Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, victor at Dien Bien Phu in the war against the French, finally protested that the terror had gone too far. The communist magazine Nhan Van, of Hanoi, was permitted to report in its Nov. 5, 1956, issue: "People were arrested, jailed, and cruelly tortured; people were executed or shot on the spot and their property was confiscated; innocent children of parents wrongly classified as landlords were starved to death."

Virtually a whole generation of natural leaders in South Vietnam — village and hamlet chiefs and elders, school teachers, priests, monks, doctors, nurses — were eliminated in a systematic campaign of assassinations and kidnapings. Farmers who resisted the Vietcong — and in many instances their children, also — were mutilated and killed as examples of what others could expect.

A survey of available American and South Vietnamese records by The Tribune in 1967 indicated that at least 25,000 civilians had been assassinated and more than 60,000 others had been abducted — most of them never heard from — in 10 years. The assassination total now exceeds 30,000. Uncounted thousands of other civilians now have been killed in indiscriminate acts of terrorism, including the destruction of schools, hospitals, churches, pagodas, market places, and village halls by mines or fire.

★ ★ ★

These atrocities are never mentioned by American peaceniks, but Hanoi has often boasted of its successes in this kind of warfare. For example, a report on the Hanoi radio for the period from January of 1961 to January of 1965 said: "Hamlets destroyed, 7,559."

That would be an appropriate line for Ho's epitaph.

David Lawrence Asks:

What Price Vietnam Pullout?

WASHINGTON — Which is better — short-range politics or long-range patriotism? This question is pertinent now, and it concerns not only the future of the United States but the destiny of other countries as well.

LAWRENCE

Too many members of Congress are playing with fire. They are, in effect, telling the enemy that America is ready to raise the white flag in Vietnam before the end of 1970.

★ ★ ★

It seems incredible that a small group from both parties in Congress is demanding that President Nixon announce that the withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam would be completed in 15 months, even though the enemy makes no concessions whatsoever.

Gen. Lewis W. Walt, assistant commandant of the Marine Corps, said in a speech last night that he believes the Vietnam war would have been ended a year ago if it were not for the "voice of dissent" in this country.

'VOICE OF PEOPLE'

He added that the Communists have judged this to be the "voice of the American people." He declared:

"In the past year, over 10,000 Americans have been killed in Vietnam. Those who dissent may not have fired the rifle or thrown the grenade, but they must bear a part of the responsibility for the loss of those gallant Americans."

★ ★ ★

If merely a problem of domestic politics were involved, certainly it would seem more popular to end a war than to keep one going indefinitely. But there's more to the issue.

The United States may find itself in the midst of a major war within the next two or three years, and this could conceivably provoke the use of nuclear weapons in Asia with possible attacks against the United States.

GOLDBERG SPEECH

Despite the outward appearances of friendship between Moscow and Washington, North Vietnam is directly sponsored by the Soviet Union. It will be recalled that Arthur Goldberg, former American ambassador to the United Nations, pointed out in a speech during the last few months of the Johnson administration that the Soviet Union, not Vietnam, is "the greatest threat" to the United States.

He said Americans have "too long taken their eyes away from the main ball game."

Politics today is on the side of surrender — at least that is the way various members of Congress interpret public opinion.

★ ★ ★

It remains to be seen what the American people would say about a pullout from Vietnam if the consequences should prove to be grave.

The Wall Street Journal, in an editorial the other day commenting on the possible results of an American withdrawal from Vietnam, said:

"The Communists would take over South Vietnam by military force, which would be a cheap enough price if the international effects stop there. But just as the American debacle at the Bay of Pigs helped prompt the Soviet initiatives leading to the Cuban missile crisis, so we expect American defeat in Vietnam would encourage the adventurers throughout the Communist world.

"We do not know whether the next crisis would break out in Thailand, Berlin, South America or elsewhere, but we do feel that over the long run a show of American irresolution is likely to result in worse crises, not easier ones."

Bob Considine Says:

Gun Group Exec Takes Potshot at Disarmament

NEW YORK — Hello, folks. All you good people who are rooting for world disarmament and a lessening of such crimes as the recent killing of four women (one employe and three depositors) in a bank vault will be interested in a letter from the Northwest Gun Owners of Bellingham, Wash. Fasten seat belts and flak jackets.

CONSIDINE

Ben Hinkle, the club's president, writes:

★ ★ ★

'2 SIDES TO QUESTION'

"Any reasonable person knows there are two sides to any question. It is the duty of the press to present both sides. In too many cases this has not been true with the gun question. People who do not own or use guns for legitimate purposes will readily believe the one-sided propaganda that has flooded publications in recent years.

"We wish to appeal to your sense of fairness, your loyalty and your duty to the millions of citizens of this great republic who look to American journalism for equal and equitable news coverage to print the other side of this controversial question.

★ ★ ★

"One of the most serious threats to our national security to come before this nation in modern times is whether to disarm the American people. If you do not agree, print your rebuttal along with our fact sheet to show how we are wrong."

★ ★ ★

The "fact" sheet asserts:

"The United States of America was created out of tryanny and oppression by patriots of freedom who armed themselves and won their independence. With this fresh in their minds, they wrote the 2nd Amendment to our Constitution, 'a well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.'

ARMED POPULATION

"The United States today has the largest armed civilian population the world has ever known. It is the strongest bastion of freedom and the greatest obstacle to Communist domination."

★ ★ ★

Okay, you crazy gun-bearing cop-fighters, fireman-snipers, college campus guerrillas, rooftop assassins and other "well-regulated militia" types, fall in four abreast and march to the barricades protecting us from the two-front invasion by Communist Albania. One hopes that the peace-loving sportsmen who shoot only birds, deer, moose, mice, etc. will be on Albania's side.

Voice of the People:

'Citizens Must Strive for Safer Community'

A quotation in The Press by Curtis H. Rossow, assistant planner for Waterford Township, read "Fast-growing communities often neglect to provide adequate recreational facilities for their residents. They would rather spend their money on such things as the police department." Mr. Rossow neglected to mention how inadequate our police department is, compared to recreational facilities in Waterford.

★ ★ ★

He did mention a deficiency of not having enough community parkland to serve residents within two miles of their homes, but did not mention a deficiency of police manpower to assure the citizens of this community a safe place to live and conduct business. Mr. Rossow stated there were 1,100 acres of public recreation land in Waterford for some 65,000 residents, but nothing was said about the 20 patrol officers trying to serve this fast-growing community of 65,000.

★ ★ ★

We do not deny the importance of recreation, especially for the youngsters, but as police officers and citizens we must also strive to make this a better and safer community, then provide the non-essential luxuries.

'Let's Approve Waterford School Millage'

As a concerned Waterford Township parent I support the board of education. The members have worked for us to try and make a fine school district. Although the taxpayers have turned down the necessary millage, the board is still trying to do its best. Let's go all out to support our schools. Vote "Yes" for our futdre.

★ ★ ★

We are overtaxed on our property, but let's pass this millage that is desperately needed and then each write our legislators in Lansing and insist that they pass an educational reform to ease our burden.

MRS. S. R.

Two Give Opinions on Recipients of ADC

It is time for a change in our welfare and ADC laws. It isn't fair for hard working people to bear the burden of other people's children. I don't mind having welfare for women who have small children and whose husbands have deserted them, but I do mind having to pay high taxes for the women who have several children by different men without the benefit of marriage.

★ ★ ★

I also object to paying for people who sit around doing nothing while someone else supports their families. If the men who let their families go on welfare and ADC were made to pay back the money they receive, we working people might have a tax relief. I refer to the perfectly healthy ones that are too lazy to work. Give us working people a break. Our kids deserve just as much as yours and we have to work to give it to them.

DISGUSTED TAXPAYER

I have read where ADC mothers are protesting for more money for clothing for their children. An ADC person receives as much as an average factory worker and has no taxes to pay except sales tax. I believe these people could make a go of it if they tried, but they couldn't have all new clothes and fancy food.

MRS. GEORGE EDWARDS

'Suggest Distributing Food Stamps by Mail'

Why not distribute the County food stamps by mail? A book of specially-encoded tickets, issued to each applicant to identify the payments, can be signed and mailed with check or money order and eliminate the need of security police and crowds. There is a great need for the government to figure out ways and means of stopping this walking sickness which has hit our society.

'Many Homes Torn Down for Businesses'

What can be done about houses that are being torn down? There have been about ten houses torn down in the Union Lake area in the last year and a half. In their place you see some kind of business going up, mainly gas stations. Do we really need two or three on one corner? What about the several homeless families because of this? Are any homes being built in their place so a working man or an ADC or welfare family can afford them? No, they have to pay a high price for rent because the lower priced homes are being sold to businesses. Is this fair?

Question and Answer

The telephone company is cutting tops off dead elms and leaving the trash on County right-of-way. Why does the County let them get away with it?

W. A. WHITMER
BIRMINGHAM

REPLY

Because the phone company is doing them a favor. The County can't get to all the dead elms immediately, and dead branches tend to break and fall—on people, houses, cars, etc. Phone crews top the ones they find and leave the wood in a pile for the County to collect. Michigan Bell Division Forester Hoatlin says crews always talk to property owners first and the arrangement is agreeable to all concerned.

Question and Answer

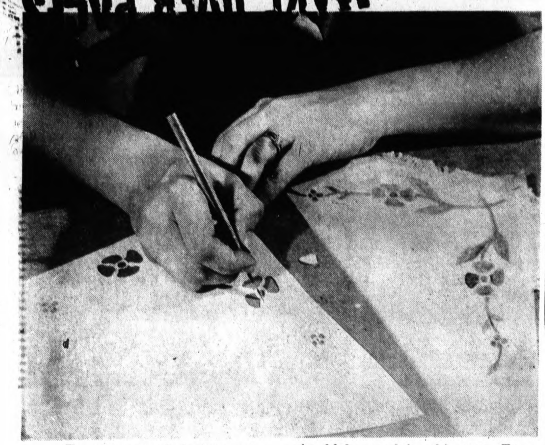

I just bought an incubator. Can you tell me where to get some fertile chicken eggs?

P. DeHAAN
AGE 10

REPLY

No eggs are guaranteed fertile, but most farmers with chickens would have some that probably are. Why not take a trip to the Oakland County Farmer's Market on Pontiac Lake Road? It's open every Saturday and a number of farmers sell eggs there. You can surely find one who can supply a few eggs for hatching.

MAKE OVER PAGE

To make stenciled place mats, the design must first be cut out of heavy waxed paper. The stencil knife or single-edge razor blade should be used for this step. Two stencils must be cut if two colors will be used in the design.

Easy for Beginners

Stencil Work Is Colorful Art

Whether you are the all-thumbs type or an experienced do-it-yourselfer, you will find stenciling an easy way to personalize your home.

Stenciled designs are decorative and colorful additions to place mats, curtains, pillow covers, bedspreads, dresses, aprons, towels, pillowcases and wall hangings.

Items stenciled with permanent, washable textile colors can be machine laundered without loss of color or design.

★ ★ ★

Materials required include a firmly woven, all cotton fabric. For best results, use one that has been washed to remove sizing.

Also, textile paints, stencil paper or heavy waxed or freezer paper, a stencil knife or single-edge razor blade and a short, stubby paint brush are needed.

For the first attempt at stenciling, use a simple design, either a ready-made pattern or a motif traced from an art book or magazine. Flowers, fruit, sunburst, leaves, animal shapes, birds and initials are good choices.

WAXED PAPER

To cut the stencil, place waxed paper on top of the design you have traced onto white paper. Put this against a window pane and tape securely to hold it in place. The design must be visible through the stencil paper to be copied easily.

Trace the design onto the waxed paper with a hard pencil. Then cut out the design with the stencil knife or razor blade.

If more than one color is to be used with your stencil, cut separate stencils for each color.

For example, if the design is to be a flower with petals and leaves, the flower portion might be red, with the leaves to be painted green in the final design. Therefore, one stencil will be cut for the flower and another for the stem and leaves.

Put the fabric to be stenciled on a blotter or thick cardboard to soak up any excess paint. Tack or tape the stencil in place on the fabric.

Use the manufacturer's directions for the preparation and application of textile paints. Stroke color on fabric with the stubby brush, working from the outer edge of the stencil toward the center.

Be sure not to have too much paint on the brush. Wipe off excess paint before each brush stroke is begun. Let the first color dry before adding additional colors to the fabric.

DECORATE TABLECLOTH

After simple designs and items have been successfully decorated, try a bigger project such as a bedspread or tablecloth.

Your personal touch with designs and colors will add charm and interest to any home.

Spinach Salad

Do try adding fresh spinach leaves to the usual mixed greens when you are making tossed salad. They make for pleasantly different flavor.

When fudge, after cooking, is cooled to lukewarm before beating, it should be at 10[illegible] degrees on a candy thermometer.

Watch Fuses

If you are giving a large brunch party, borrow several friends' electric toasters and let guests make their own toast; but be sure your electric wiring is adequate to take the load.

Wearing an apron made of terry cloth when you are sewing any kind of slippery material will help anchor it and keep it from sliding off your lap.

Couples Repeat Vows

The James R. Reids (Carole E. Hendrix) are honeymooning in Pennsylvania following their marriage recently.

The couple was married in an evening ceremony in the home of the Revered Mrs. Lola Marion on James K Boulevard.

★ ★ ★

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Morris of Bataan Drive performed the duties of honor attendants.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Reid of Third Street.

HUBBARD-DOUCETTE

The Church of Saint Paul the Apostle in Ithaca was the setting for the recent exchange of vows of Shirley Ann Hubbard and Bryan Adam Doucette.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Vera Hubbard of Clarkston and Mrs. Marietta Doucette of Ithaca.

★ ★ ★

The bride chose a gown of satin with lace and seed pearl accents. She carried a cascade bouquet of roses and ivy.

Mrs. Donald Lukemire served her sister as matron of honor. Gary Herubin performed the duties of best man.

The couple were feted at a reception in Superior Banquet Rooms in Alma.

Six victims of kidney failure who owe their lives to the center will attend. Included are Farmington residents Edith Knapp and Harold Shpiece.

Why Grow Old?

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Some years ago I wrote a couple of articles about retirement and received hundreds of letters from readers. I quoted a few of them concerning the difficulties it created for a wife. There is no doubt that a man's retirement changes his wife's life pattern as well as his own. Some of these letters were humorous, some frustrated, and a few were rather bitter.

★ ★ ★

The letters from readers kept coming in long after my columns were published. Today, I bring you some letters which present another viewpoint.

Dear Mrs. Lowman,

"Here's some advice for the women who think life is so rough after their husbands retire: Tell them to get down on their knees and thank God for sparing their husbands for a life of leisure and companionship with them!

"I, too, miss friends and neighbors dropping in because I have to work to support myself. However, many so-called good friends don't call after you are widowed because you are an extra spoke in the wheel.

"Yes, get these unhappy wives together, and let me come and tell them how tired one is at the end of a hard day's work, and how lonely it is to come home to an empty house, clean, wash and iron, cook, pay bills; and worry about keeping the house in repair."

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Lowman,

"A short and snappy answer on the subject of retirement. There is only one alternative to a husband's retirement and that is widowhood. Think it over, wives, and you will thank God every day for the sweetest of all blessings, companionship and love."

The completed place mat reflects some imagination and adds color to a table. The simple art of stenciling is an old craft of transferring designs to furniture and fabrics and is just as easy and rewarding today.

Barefootedness---Good, Bad? Depends Where You Stand

Going barefoot has been frowned on by mothers for generations. Physicians and podiatrists including members of the American Podiatry Association, are likely to support mother — but not completely.

Without shoes, feet are exposed to injury and infection, and especially to a painful condition of the soles of the feet known as plantar warts.

Encased in shoes, especially during warm weather, feet perspire freely, and this encourages development of fungus infections such as athlete's foot.

Twenty of every thousand Americans suffer from some foot condition according to a study by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Much of the suffering and disability due to foot disorders can be prevented by annual foot checkups, professional treatment, and personal foot hygiene.

★ ★ ★

Foot care is basically a matter of keeping your feet clean and dry. The use of pHisoHex, an antibacterial skin cleanser, in place of soap is often recommended, and has been found to control foot perspiration odor when used regularly. Frequent shoe and stocking changes will help, along with liberal use of a good foot powder.

Any injury to feet or the existence of a chronic foot ailment should be treated by a podiatrist or physician.

★ ★ ★

But MD, foot specialist, mother, and the whole family are likely to agree on one point — that walking barefoot on soft, green grass, or on long stretches of sandy beach is a wonderful feeling, often good for the feet — and for the inner soul.

Leather furniture can be cleaned with saddle soap, rinsed with a damp cloth and dried thoroughly. Complete the cleaning by using a leather conditioning dressing.

To get all of the ice cream out of a container, try using a rubber bowl scraper instead of a scoop or spoon.

Art Teachers Make It Big as Inventors

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Thou shalt not permit children to drop paint on the floor."

That's the rule Nancy Cherry and Judy Shackelford, two young women well on the way to millionaire row, credit for their success.

"We loved the children but hated the system," Miss Cherry said. "Can you imagine teaching finger-painting and not getting paint on the floor?"

★ ★ ★

That was five years ago when the two coaxed a beat-up foreign car between an apartment they shared and school. They turned to non-pedagogical pursuits and now drive a Cadillac.

The two disgruntled former art teachers, average age 26, have established themselves as inventors of toys and other things, including inflatable mannequins used to display clothing.

"When we left teaching, we had no money, only a few art supplies and an idea or two," Miss Shackelford said. "We didn't even have enough talent to make money painting portraits in Greenwich Village."

TISSUE PAPER

The first toy idea they sold to a major manufacturer involved artistic use of tissue paper and glue. Then they sold a doll with wardrobe to a mail order house.

They made a deal with Parker Brothers and marketed an inflatable pillow version of "instant insanity."

Miss Cherry, graduate of Hofstra University and a native New Yorker, is president of Inflat-A-Industries — the firm that invented and has rights to the inflatable mannequins. The "blow-ups" cost a third of what plastic and plaster versions do.

★ ★ ★

Miss Shackelford, of Alton, Ill., and a graduate of Southern Illinois University, is president of Cherry-Shackelford Creations Inc., the art end of the partnership. The newest item in that line: potted flower that opens to reveal a baby doll.

Afternoons of Art Again Planned at Detroit Institute

"Afternoons of Art" are again being sponsored by the Docent Committee of the Founders Society at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The afternoons will begin at 12:15 p.m. with a salad luncheon in Rivera Court.

★ ★ ★

Following lunch, small groups will tour the newly renovated Robert Tannahill Wing, which opened in June of this year. Exhibits include examples from the early colonists through the 19th century and feature the works of John Singleton Copley, Whistler and Winslow Homer. American furniture, silver and glass are also on display.

★ ★ ★

The luncheon tours will begin Oct. 22 and continue on Tuesdays and Wednesdays through April 29, 1970. Groups as small as 8 or as large as 80 may be accommodated.

Reservations or additional information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Carolyn Goodrich at the Institute.

Mocha Is Result of Flavor Mix

Coffee and chocolate flavors blend harmoniously.

Mocha Frosting

1 tablespoon instant coffee
2 tablespoons boiling water
¼ cup butter, at room temperature
1 tablespoon unsweetened cocoa
1½ cups unsifted confectioners' sugar

Dissolve the coffee in the boiling water. Beat the butter and cocoa together. Gradually beat in the sugar alternately with the coffee. Makes enough frosting for top and sides of a 2-layer 8-inch round cake.

Finely chop almonds and work into your pastry (or pie crust mix) for summer fruit and berry pies.

Stocks, Mutual Funds May Be Answer for Retirement

By ANNE TAYLOR
AP Newsfeature

Dear Miss Taylor: Could you advise the best place for about $200 monthly that we are now able to save with the children grown?

We have a balance due of $10,500 on our home, now worth about $35,000. We have about $2,500 in stocks, and some $3,500 in savings. Would it be better to make extra mortgage payments at five per cent or invest all we can in special accounts at five to five-one-half per cent?

We're not familiar enough with stocks or interested in them other than for the American Telephone we've received through my husband's payroll deduction.

We are both in our early fifties, and want to use the money we have in the best way possible.

Mrs. F. C., Des Plaines, Ill.

Dear Mrs. F. C.: If it's an "either-or" situation, and I don't think it need be, then an investment at five per cent wins out easily. That mortgage is an asset; you can't get money any cheaper than that, so why pay off in advance?

If you have $200 a month to invest I think you must widen your horizons a bit and familiarize yourself with equity investments such as stocks, mutual funds or real estate.

Inflation is quite likely to be a part of our economic picture for not just months but years ahead, and the return on your investments must exceed the rate of inflation or you will be cheating yourself.

★ ★ ★

You might seriously consider purchasing an inexpensive vacation home. You will then have income from rentals when you are not using it, a small tax deduction and a hedge against inflation.

I suggest you obtain at your bookstore a copy of "Your American Research Council, and browse through it at your leisure. I think then you might think differently about limiting your use of money to just two or three outlets.

Some epicures like to add raw mushrooms to a green salad. If the mushrooms are very small, add them whole. Medium-size mushrooms can be sliced thin and used.

Thursday Upswing Carries Over Market Higher, Trade Active

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks opened higher today in moderately active trading.

The market's abrupt upswing late Thursday marked the first advance in seven sessions. Most analysts believed the momentum would be carried over, barring adverse news developments. The feeling was that the list has been oversold and a rally would be quite natural at this time.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI marketwide indicator showed a gain of 0.74 per cent on 325 issues crossing the tape. There were 183 advances and 62 declines.

Bethlehem gained ⅜ to 28⅞ in the steels, with Republic and U.S. Steel up ⅛ each to 37.

OILS MIXED

In the oils, Atlatic Richfield rose ½ to 102, with Cities Service up⅞ to 50. Pennzoil fell ¼ to 30¾. Occidental eased to 26¼, but Jersey Standard and Standard of California were unchanged at 69½ and 56⅜, respectively.

Ford picked up ¾ to 44⅜, while General Motors rose ½ to 72¾. Chrysler dipped ½ to 37⅛. American Motors held unchanged at 10⅛.

National Cash Register jumped 2¼ to 144½ in the electronics. Westinghouse edged up ¼ to 55¼, General Electric ⅞ to 86, Litton ⅛ to 46⅞ and RCA ¼ to 42.

'Set Bad Example for Youth'

Parents Hit on Drugs

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

In a nation where relief is billed on TV as just a chemical swallow away, it was almost predictable that today's young people should take up the "habit," according to a forum of psychiatrists.

Yesterday's panel discussion, lead by Dr. John C. Pollard, M.D., an associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Michigan Medical School, was sponsored by the 104th annual scientific session of the Michigan State Medical Society in Detroit's Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel.

★ ★ ★

"Why shouldn't young people turn to drugs when they see their parents take vitamins in the morning, tranquilizers by noon, 'pop a Chock at 4,' and take a before-dinner drink at 5?" asked Dr. Pollard.

He said that some 100,000 pounds of amphetamines and 30 million pounds of barbiturates are legally distributed by prescription per year — clearly a symptom of a dependent nation.

UNDER STRESS

"At 16 or 17, a young person is under great psychological stress. He must master his sexuality, the problem of personal identity — in short, all the problems of maturation," he said.

"The whole process can be very painful, but if a youth takes the easy way out by choosing drugs as immediate relief, he may never give himself an even chance to mature," according to Dr. Pollard.

★ ★ ★

Today, with more than 75 hallucinogenic products available, chemically speaking, the situation can only worsen, Dr. Pollard said.

Dr. Adolpho J. Brane, M.D., who assists part-time at Detroit's Lafayette Clinic and is an instructor at Wayne State University's School of Medicine, agreed that young people are using drugs to escape their problems.

HAPPINESS

Accordingly, marijuana gives one a very "special feeling, a happiness with the way things are," he said.

The potential danger, then, according to Dr. Brane, is that marijuana usage never allows young people to tackle their maturation period.

★ ★ ★

Today's younger generation is also concerned with the dismal world situation they will inherit, destruction by the bomb, or facing a fatal tour of duty in Vietnam, the struggle for and "The possibilty of total against the war which makes service even harder — all these factors make it very easy for young people to 'turn off' from society and take the most immediate route for relief," said Dr. Brane.

SERIOUS DRUGS

While marijuana for some is an 'ideal substitute' for facing reality, Dr. Brane was more concerned with the increasing number of young people who are turing to the more serious drugs for relief.

On the basis of available evidence, Dr. Brane is of the opinion that of all the drugs on the market, marijuana is the least harmful.

★ ★ ★

He also noted that most of the clinical cases seen at Lafayette were extreme hard-drug cases.

"Today we see more and more young people who are moving away from marijuana and taking speed (methadrine)," Dr. Brane said.

DIET PILLS

He noted that diet pills are a popular source of speed for most kids. They either take them from mother's medicine cabinet or take her refill prescription down to the druggist.

"Kids have also turned to heroin as a means of getting down fast from a 'speed high'," he said.

The great physical stress on their bodies as well as influencing the addictive tendency of heroin, poses a great danger to these young people says Dr. Brane, including eventual brain damage in some cases.

Dr. Harold Davidson, M.D., a child analyst, rested most of the problem on the parents' shoulders.

OLD HYPOCRISY

According to Dr. Davidson the "hypocrisy of the adult world has been a large factor in turning this generation of youth away from old ideals.

"We tell our children to be good, to be honest and to treat all people as equals, and then they see us cheating on income tax reforms, going through red lights, discriminating against Negroes and blowing each other up in Vietnam," Dr. Davidson said.

"Kids today know that we are not honest with ourselves — they see that we have laws that show us up for the pious, hypocritical frauds that we are.

"More people are going to be killed today in Vietnam than will ever suffer from brain damage brought about by drugs. We must be honest with ourselves if we want our children's respect and try to help them," he said.

Still Lacking? Museum Gets New Display

BONNER SPRINGS, Kan. (AP) — A moonshine still—defended by its donor as a proper exhibit in an agricultural museum because the essential ingredient in making "moonshine" is corn—was added Thursday to a display here.

Joseph A. Boyer, Blue Springs, Ga., visited the Agricultural Hall of Fame two years ago and noted the absence of a still.

★ ★ ★

The retired U.S. Public Health sanitary engineer talked with hall officials and was given authority to locate a still.

"I went back to my home in Blue Springs, and I told the sheriff about the Hall of Fame and asked him to give me the next still he might confiscate," Boyer said.

Contract to Remodel County Annex OK'd

Contracts totaling $157,457 for the remodeling of the Oakland county administrative annex (formerly the country board of education building) were awarded to Steve Kruchko Co. Inc. of Waterford Township and Schultz Electrical Inc. of Pontiac. The contracts were awarded by the county board of supervisors.

The building will house Veterans' Affairs, 4-H, the county's computer system, and some Community Mental Health Service offices. It is located on the Telegraph Road Service Center.

★ ★ ★

Supervisors approved a five-year lease for District Court quarters in Independence Township. The lease for the Independence Township Hall Annex in Clarkston calls for an annual rental of $4,840.

The county loan of $176,000 to a drain revolving fund was approved. The money is used to pay for engineering costs before a construction project is funded.

SOLID WASTES

Harry W. Horton, R-Royal Oak, chairman of the public works committee, reported that his committee is still engaged in a study of solid waste disposal.

He said that while the group has not given up entirely on an incineration process as recommended in a recent tricounty survey, more concentration is being given a compaction process which would extend present landfill facility use.

★ ★ ★

Horton raised objections to an expansion of responsibility undertaken by the supervisors ad hoc roads committee. A resolution to add Telegraph Road improvement to a list of other projects headed up by M59 widening touched off Horton's spoken disapproval. Makeup of the committee was referred back to the board's committee on committees.

Niles Olson, D-Orion Township, chairman of the airport board, asked for immediate action on an earlier request for a full developmental study on Oakland-Orion Airport. He got an informal promise that the study will be forthcoming.

AIRPORT FUNDS

The supervisors aviation and transportation committee has proposed appropriating $250,000 for imrpovements at the airport master plan, however.

A flurry of resolutions introduced at the end of the meeting by Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac, ran the gamut — endorsing pending state legislation, legalizing bingo, and county participation in Oakland University's announced plan to fit each Pontiac child for a job.

SENIOR CITIZENS

He also proposed the immediate allocation of $97,000 to a senior citizen program to be handled by the Oakland County commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO).

The resolutions were referred to appropriate committees.

Desegregation Plan Hit

Although the five Pontiac Board of Education members at last night's meeting said they felt a proposed school desegregation plan was undesirable and unworkable, a motion to reject it failed.

The board also failed to approve an amendment to the motion which stated that the district would submit an alternate plan.

★ ★ ★

The proposed desegregation plan calls for students to have free choice of the school they wish to attend.

★ ★ ★

The plan is part of litigation in a suit filed by the Pontiac Chapter of the NAACP in the U.S. District Court in Detroit in February, which charges the district with de facto segregation and with discrimination in hiring and placement of administrators.

COURT DATE

The suit, which has been in pretrial hearing, is next in court Wednesday in Detroit.

Board members William Anderson and Russell Brown were absent last night. Although only five board members were present, four votes are needed to pass a motion. Dr. Robert Turpin and Christopher Brown voted against the motion to reject the NAACP plan.

They had earlier voted to amend this motion to include a statement that the board would at some time submit an alternate integration plan.

The proposed desegregation plan also called for the student to select his school during an annual period from Aug. 15 to Sept. 2, with no preference given any student for prior attendance at a school.

INTEGRATION MOVES

"In case of overcrowding at any school, preference shall be given with a view toward counteracting the effect of racial segregation," the plan read.

Also included in the proposal was a provision that a new teacher to the system would be assigned to a school in which the faculty is predominately of the opposite race.

★ ★ ★

Brown said he felt last night was an inappropriate time to discuss the plan because of the recent school disruptions.

"We're talking about more than just physical integration of bodies. We should also be correcting attitudes on the part of teachers and students."

OPTIONAL PLAN

If administrators don't agree with the plan, they should come up with some options," Brown said.

Mrs. Elsie Mihalek pointed out that the board was directed by Federal district court Judge Damon Keith to respond to the plan Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Robert Turpin said he would like to see an alternate plan presented by the board or by a board-based citizens' committee.

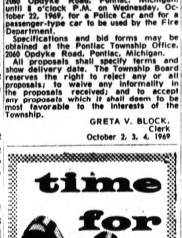

"However, one thing we haven't done as a board is decide if we want integrated schools," he added.

'M' Rated Slight Favorite Against 'M'

MORE OVER PAGES

Let's put an end to the procrastination on when and where the proposed stadium for the Detroit professional teams is going to be built.

The Lions and Tigers have mutually agreed there is a need for the stadium and they have publicly indicated the urgency of a decision.

Yet they procrastinate, all because of a worthless plan proposed by a downtown Detroit stadium site.

If the two major athletic teams want a chaotic preview of a stadium being built in a downtown area of a major city they should take just one ride around the Three-Points "undomed" Stadium being built on the Golden Triangle in Pittsburgh.

Located on the junction of the Allegheny, Susquehanna and Ohio Rivers, the stadium adds to the beauty of the new Pittsburgh skyline, but this has to be its major contribution.

The people of highly populated Allegheny County are furious over the site. They claim that the downtown Pittsburgh businessmen bought off the county politicians.

COBBLESTONE AREA

Except for one major access road, which must cross the bridge at the point of the stadium, the entire area surrounding the 55,000 seat structure is made up two-lane cobblestone streets and a prolific setting of slums.

A parking deck for 4,500 cars is the extent of primary parking area for the stadium.

It was 1½ hours after game time and the Lions' buses leaving Pitt stadium two weeks ago, were still bumper to bumper for almost the entire distance to the airport.

★ ★ ★

Can one imagine what this traffic situation will be like with a stadium in the heart of this congestion, or when the office crews let out during the afternoon baseball games?

★ ★ ★

The recent Detroit Chamber of Commerce plan for the riverfront stadium has to be the plan of yesteryear and not the plan of tomorrow.

They are talking about property acquisition and railroad track relocations which in dollars means $18 million to $30 million dollars.

They are talking about primary parking facilities of 4,600 and remainder to be dispersed in business lots, 10 to 15 minutes away from the stadium.

They are talking about 27.5 acres for the stadium complex, and the easy access of which they talk is access to the central business district and not to the major points of outstate Michigan.

And then there is the financing, a factor which has Mayor Cavanagh's palm reaching to Gov. Milliken and the state of Michigan.

If Milliken goes along with the downtown site and the "feasibility fiasco" which has been presented, it's sure to go into a state referendum and by 1980 they will still be talking about what could have been.

The Stadium Authority of the city of Pontiac in presenting the bid for a site at M59 and I-75, has made a sincere bona-fide offer.

The presentations have been costly but they have been made and pursued conscientiously, and from all requisites for building the modern stadium of tomorrow, they have been the most sensible as far as: 1. location availability to the people of Michigan, 2. the availability and cost of land acquisition, 3. the access of current and potential roads, 4. the convenience and availability of auto, bus, rail and air facilities, 5. the sure availability of primary parking for 27,000 cars, 6. the faith and credit financial backing of the city's $500 million valuation, 7. the locale of Oakland University's and Oakland Community College's facilities and manpower.

WHERE'S COUNTY SUPPORT?

Together, the Lions and Tigers constitute a total investment of at least $25 million in today's professional sports market.

It would be a shame to see the market place relegated to 27 acres in the center of two million people when there lies available 200 acres surrounded centrally by 7½ million buyers.

What is as upsetting as the procrastination which is evident, is the apathy of the government of Oakland County in failing to make public commitment or offer endorsement and support for the professional athletic tenants to this great marketplace.

Should the teams decide on the I-75 and M59 site then the county might jump on the bandwagon.

MSU-Notre Dame Contest Fails to Stir Excitement

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Missouri at Michigan. It looks like an intra-squad scrimmage instead of a battle between nationally ranked teams.

The Wolverines are favored by a slim one-point margin despite being ranked 11th to the Tigers' No. 9 position.

Michigan has whomped two foes — Vanderbilt by a 42-14 margin and Washington by a 45-7 count, while Missouri has stepped on a pair, Air Force by a 19-17 score and Illinois by a convincing 37-6.

★ ★ ★

Michigan has a fine option quarterback in junior Don Moorhead. Missouri has one in senior Terry McMillan.

COUNTER MOVE

The Wolverines feature sophomore Glenn Doughty springing out of the backfield like he'd just stepped on a nail. The Tigers counter with junior Joe Moore, who also doesn't have to spot a jet any yards in a race down the runway.

★ ★ ★

Moorhead, who was voted Midwest Back of the Week by UPI for his work last Saturday, has more impressive statistics than McMillan. Michigan Coach Glenn "Bo" Schembechler has a more wide-open offense than Missouri's Dan Devine, who prefers going through defensive tackles than over or around them.

Moorhead has clicked on 18 of 28 passes in two games for 202 yards and a single touchdown while McMillan is 12 for 28 for 216 yards. But the Wolverines' Grand Haven product has gained 239 rushing in 29 carries with five scores compared to 108 yards in 20 attempts without a touchdown for the Tigers' junior college transfer.

Doughty has one thing in common with Moore — neither started his collegiate career as a running back. Doughty began as a split end while Moore was a linebacker for the Mizzou frosh.

Moore, like Doughty, gained 191 yards last week, but trails the Michigan counterpart by 14 yards for both games and at 48 has made four more tries to get through enemy lines. Doughty has a 2-to-1 touchdown edge.

EAST LANSING (AP) — The eyes of the nation won't be on Michigan State and Notre Dame this weekend as in 1966 when the football rivals both were unbeaten and played to a 10-10 standoff the last game of the season.

That was the year MSU partisans jeered because the Irish had the ball in the closing minutes but played possession, running out the clock on the ground instead of gambling with a pass for a win.

★ ★ ★

Saturday's game at South Bend has been called lackluster. Supporters of both universities will be watching it closely, however, trying to determine if either the Spartans or the Irish have a hope of going anywhere this fall.

Michigan State had to come from behind for two early wins, 27-11 over Washington and 23-15 from Southern Methodist.

Scoring pushes on the rushing game saved State both Saturdays.

PASSER GROUNDED

Michigan State quarterback Bill Triplett has been a bust as passer so far, completing only eight of 28 tries for 59 yards.

Coach Duffy Daugherty still is going along with the junior who took over as signal-caller in midseason last year. Triplett has been able to drive the team in for touchdowns when they are needed.

He has the third best running record, gaining 127 yards in the two games by carrying on the option.

★ ★ ★

Leaders in the established rushing attack have been senior Don Highsmith, a bulldozer runner, with 217 yards. Scatback Eric Allen, an elusive little mite, has netted 186 yards.

★ ★ ★

The defense has been the solid rock of the Spartan team. Time and time again the defensive corps, led by the rush of the front four, has held the opposition to give State good field position. Six lost fumbles didn't help the MSU cause.

Defensive end Wilt Martin and linebackers Don Law and Mike Hogan have been some of the standouts.

Lions to Meet Browns

Top Defense vs. No. 2 Offense

It will be Cleveland's offense (No. 2 in the NFL) against the Detroit Lions' defense (No. 1 this week) before a probable crowd of 82,000 at the Lake Erie Municipal stadium Sunday.

Leading the Cleveland offense is a familiar name, Ron Johnson, who is one of the many outstanding rookies in pro football this year.

★ ★ ★

What is even more surprising is the fact that the Browns rank only behind the Minnesota Vikings on offense and they are doing it without the services of Leroy Kelly, the top runner in the league last year.

★ ★ ★

Kelly has been injured and Johnson and Reece Morrison have carried the load. Morrison is only a second-year player with the Browns and in two games he has rushed 40 times for 179 yards and an average gain of 4.5. He has also caught six passes for 71 yards.

Against Washington he ran for 131 yards in last Sunday's 27-23 triumph.

DOING BETTER

Johnson, the former University of Michigan star, is even doing better. He has carried 37 times and picked up 191 yeards for 5.2 average and has scored four touchdowns.

Cleveland will also have the current top punter in Don Cockroft who is averaging 45.2 yards per try, while the Lions will have the league's top punt returner in Lem Barney, whose 74 yard touchdown return is the only one so far this season in the NFL.

The Lions' defense which has victimized the quarterback six times in two games, led the defensive statistics in seven categories, including average offense per game and percentage of passes allowed per game.

★ ★ ★

The Lions and Browns have met only seven times in regular season play with the Lions holding a 6-1 advantage in the all time series, but the two teams were arch-rivals during the 50's when they tangled for the NFL championship four items with the Lions' winning three.

The lone defeat at the hands of the Browns was the 1964 contest at Municipal Stadium which ended 37-21 for Cleveland.

FORMER BUCKEYE

One of the veterans of the Browns who has played in three of the games with the Lions is defensive captain Jim Houston, linebacker from Ohio State.

"I'm personally ashamed of our record against the Lions and would like to do something about it," he was quoted as saying.

★ ★ ★

The Lions have decided to fill the vacancy at offensive guard, created with the injury to Bob Kowalkowski, with Frank Gallagher, a 240 pounder who played at North Carolina and who is in his third year with the Lions.

Kickoff is 12:30 Michigan time Sunday.

No Big Event in State

Cancel Buick Open Tourney

★ ★ ★

The $125,000 Buick Open, held for the past 11 years at Warwick Hills near Grand Blanc, has withdrawn from the PGA schedule, tournament director Jerry Rideout told The Pontiac Press today.

★ ★ ★

Despite failure to attract the top names on the tour, the tournament nevertheless was played before record crowds at the long Warwick course.

LETTER SENT

Rideout revealed the contents of a letter sent to Joe Dey, executive director of the PGA's tournament players division:

"This is to confirm that Buick will not sponsor a tournament in 1970. Buick was one of the first national firms to put its name on a golf tournament and over the years it has been a good promotion.

"But from time to time we review our various promotion programs and re-evaluate. It is our decision to discontinue the tournament."

★ ★ ★

Rideout declined to elaborate on the factors that were involved in reaching the decision.

The 1970 Buick Open was listed for the same dates as this year. It was slated for July 2-5.

The demise of the Buick leaves Michigan without a regular stop by the PGA. Back in September, the inaugural of the $100,000 Michigan Golf Classic turned out to be a financial goof when sponsors couldn't pay the players.

Two Early Goals Enough in Wings' 6-1 Decision

DETROIT (AP) — Two first period goals started the Detroit Red Wings on their way Thursday night, and they followed up with one more in the second period and three in the third for a 6-1 decision over the New York Rangers.

Detroit's Wayne Connelly opened the scoring at 10:29 of the opening period on a slap shot from Garry Unger. Four minutes and 17 seconds later Bruce MacGregor followed with a goal, assisted by Nick Libett and Pete Stemkowski.

Gordie Howe kept the pressure on New York goalie Ed Giacomin with an unassisted goal at 1:41 of the second period, but then New York's Vic Hadfield interupted the Detroit binge with a goal from Jean Ratelle at 2:02 of the period.

Detroit wound up the scoring on goals by Stemkowski, Larry Jeffrey and Libett.

DEFENDERS AT WORK — Detroit Red Wings' Gary Bergman deflects a shot by the New York Rangers in the first period of their game at Detroit Olympia last night. Mechanical Brain Lost for F-Bird, Lansing Odds

The computer can't even come up with a clear-cut favorite in the battle between the Pontiac Firebirds and Lansing All-Stars to decide the Central Division leader of the Midwest Football League.

Fed the data of their records, the mechanical brain gives the Firebirds less than a half-point advantage in their game Saturday night in Lansing.

On the board the betting would be even.

In the power ratings of the MFL, the computer says:

1. Pontiac Firebirds 98.5
2. Lansing All-Stars 98.1
3. Lackawanna Lancers .. 98.0
4. Dayton Colts 95.0
5. S.W. Michigan Hawks .. 85.5
6. Grand Rapids Chiefs .. 72.6
7. Flint Wildcats 68.4
8. Detroit Cowboys 62.6

Pontiac and Lansing both lost to Lackawanna, but each has defeated the Lancers in their last meeting. Against each other in the first meet, the Firebirds and All-Stars played to a 13-13 tie.

What does Saturday's battle at Lansing Sexton field mean?

It means the probable Central Division title. The only roadblock after this game would be Dayton, and both teams still have to meet the Colts.

The addition of another bus has extended the deadline for those desiring to make the trip for a $7 package. The buses will leave Wisner Stadium at 5:15 p.m.

Fans driving to Lansing can purchase advance tickets at the VFW Post No. 1370. A capacity crowd of 4,000 is expected for the game.
