$46.7 Billion Recommended for Defense

House Unit Avoids Missile Hassle in Making Its Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee steered clear today of the Pentagon controversy over relative U.S. and Soviet military might as it recommended $46,759,267,000 in new funds for the Defense Department for the fiscal year starting July 1.

This is $711,733,000 less than President Johnson requested but enough, the committee said in its report, "to continue the maintenance of the strongest military establishment in the peacetime history of the United States."

It is $460,743,000 less than the department was given for the present fiscal year.

The committee said it was "inclined to conclude" by McNamara's testimony that "the missile force we have programmed can be depended upon to carry out its military mission under all of the conditions we can foresee."

NO MENTION
The report, written by Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., did not mention testimony of Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, to the effect that the Soviets are narrowing the military gap between them and the United States and that the administration is placing too much emphasis on missiles.

In summary, the committee said this is what the money will provide:

- Food, clothing and modern equipment for 2,686,000 armed forces. Operation of 67 military installations.
- Maintenance of 875 active naval vessels.
- MILITARY AIRCRAFT
 - Maintenance and operation of more than 30,000 active military aircraft and procurement of 2,655 additional planes.
 - Construction of 33 new naval vessels and conversion of seven others.

The uniformed armed services would consist of 874,000 Army, 673,700 Navy, 190,000 Marine and 843,000 Air Force personnel.

CRUNCH — If streets could talk, the conversation might go something like this. Osmun: "How do you feel about all this crazy construction?" South Saginaw: "It tears me up." That's what's happening to South Saginaw here, as contractors work on the major approach to Pontiac's perimeter road near Osmun Street. This will be the entrance to the first leg of the road off Saginaw. Northbound traffic is being routed to the west side of Saginaw around the construction site. City officials hope to have the road opened from Saginaw around to West Huron by July 1.

De Gaulle Said Satisfactory Following Prostate Surgery

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle underwent an operation today for a prostate gland disease, and his condition was officially described as "very satisfactory."

A medical bulletin issued by three doctors at Cochin Hospital said:

"The operation took place normally. The condition of Gen. de Gaulle is very satisfactory."

Won't Break With China—K

Leaves Door Open for Communist Unity

MOSCOW (AP)—On his 70th birthday, Soviet Premier Khrushchev declared today he will never break relations with Red China but will "always leave an opportunity for rapprochement and understanding."

It was his second speech of a day that saw many of his old friends and leaders of the Soviet bloc gathered about him in the Kremlin.

Earlier in the day he received his country's highest medal, Hero of the Soviet Union.

At that ceremony, he made a fumbling little talk saying that a man of his age has little time left.

But he promised to work on for the people, declaring no one should yield to old age.

HIGHEST DECORATIONS
Then after receiving the highest decorations of the Soviet bloc nations, Khrushchev launched into the issue uppermost in the minds of world communists—the angry dispute with Peking.

Unlike his speech on Wednesday, when he denounced Mao Tse-tung and other Red leaders by name, Khrushchev did not mention the Chinese directly.

He said the Soviet Communist party had always worked for Communist unity.

For hours after the surgery, however, there was no formal announcement that the 73-year-old president had been on the table, though sources close to the government said he had.

The sources close to the government, who declined to permit use of their names, said there was "no reason to

They indicated that an official bulletin would be issued later in the day.

They said de Gaulle himself had ordered that nothing official be said for the moment about his operation.

Newsmen and passersby crowded around the hospital entrance. Light rain fell.

It was reported that de Gaulle was aware he must have the operation for the past three weeks.

Johnson Urges for Moderation

Asks Rights Factions to Understand Others

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, deploring violence and disorder in the civil rights struggle, says all groups should exercise moderation and try to understand the other fellow's viewpoint.

Johnson was asked to comment yesterday, at his biggest-ever news conference, on civil rights demonstrations that run against the law or threaten violence.

He replied:

"We do not, of course, condone violence or taking the law into your own hands, or threatening the health or safety of our people. You really do the civil rights cause no good when you go to this extent."

The President also expounded on national defense controversies, the rail negotiations, the booming economy and politics.

At one point, he virtually announced his candidacy for a four-year White House term, saying he was enjoying his work and "prepared to continue."

FIRST APPEARANCE

The conference, broadcast live by television and radio networks, marked Johnson's first appearance in the big State Department auditorium where President John F. Kennedy held all his sessions with newsmen.

Wearing television blue, Johnson faced the biggest news conference crowd on record—512 reporters and convention members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. The previous high was (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Goes to House for Approval of Firing Clause

AFL-CIO's Scholle Calls Measure Step in Right Direction

LANSING (AP) — The Senate today passed Gov. George W. Romney's $1 hourly minimum wage bill 22-9 and sent it to the House for concurrence in an amendment.

A coalition of Democrats and Romney's floor leaders killed three crippling amendments which earlier had been tacked on by Senate Republicans.

The bill goes to the House—which already has approved the bill in the form Romney submitted it—in the same form as it was when released by the Senate Labor Committee.

The committee, headed by Sen. Robert VanderLaan, R-Grand Rapids, had changed the House endorsed measure to make it illegal for employers to habitually fire their workers to avoid paying the minimum.

VanderLaan said there would be no difficulty in winning the House Labor Committee's endorsement of the bill.

BETTER BILL

Michigan AFL-CIO President August Scholle called it a "step in the right direction."

A high of 83 at 2 p.m. today shattered the previous record of 72 on April 7.

Cloudy and cooler with a chance of more showers and a high of 54 to 62 is the forecast for tomorrow.

The outlook for Sunday is more of the same, cooler with a chance of showers.

Morning southerly winds at 8 miles per hour will shift to west to northwest at 15 to 35 m.p.h. and diminish slowly tomorrow.

It was a year ago tonight that high winds and hailstones as large as golf balls hit the Pontiac area at about 8:45 p.m.

3 Among 10

The three Republican-sponsored amendments were among 10 that were thrown at the bill during initial debate Thursday.

Attempts to exempt theaters, fishing firms, small businesses and resort hotels from the bill were defeated.

The minimum wage bill ranks high on Romney's legislative program for the year and is viewed as an essential issue in the 1964 election campaign if he runs for reelection as expected.

Aviatrix on Last Leg of Flight

EL PASO, Tex. (UP) — Mrs. Jerri Mock landed at El Paso today, stayed 50 minutes and took off for Columbus, Ohio, on the last leg of her flight to become the first woman to fly solo around the world.

Mrs. Mock is scheduled to arrive in Columbus for a big civic welcome early tonight.

A spokesman for the welcoming committee said Mrs. Mock would fly direct from El Paso to Columbus and was expected to arrive in the Ohio capital between 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. EST.

Dressed in a powder blue skirt and sweater, Mrs. Mock, 38, powdered her nose, had her 19-year-old Cessna 180 plane refueled and noted that she was anxious to get home to her husband and two children.

She has been away since March 29.

She must fly about 1,650 miles to reach Columbus. Controller in the tower at El Paso International Airport said Mrs. Mock told them nothing about making a stop en route.

WEATHER GOOD
The weather was reported good all the way.

El Paso was out of her way. But she flew to El Paso because she needed the distance to make the required total of 22,838.8 miles for a record. She lost some mileage earlier when she bypassed Singapore.

New GMTC Engine Bears County Colors

Oakland County has a powerful entry in the Michigan product of the year contest — up to 170 husky horsepower — in GMC Truck & Coach Division's Toro-Flow diesel engine.

The newly developed engine, along with Walled Lake Public Library and Travis Turkey Farm in Addison Township today were named to carry the county's colors into Michigan Week competition.

Henry M. Hogan Jr., county M-Week chairman, said all three entries, the library for outstanding community service and the farm for agricultural achievement, have received top local honors for 1964.

"GMC Truck's new engine is hailed by industry experts as the most important breakthrough in diesel engine design in 50 years," Hogan said.

Toro-Flow was introduced by the division in January. The V6 engine, named for a unique toroidal air flow in the combustion chamber, is said to offer greater operating economy than other similar engines.

Other qualifications as county product of the year included its impact on the local economy and being a factor in boosting employment.

LIBRARY CITATION

Walled Lake library's citation is its third in a month. On April 12 it was honored as outstanding state regional library, and recently received the Book of the Month Club national award for serving a community of more than 25,000 population.

3 Policemen Shot to Death Near Atlanta

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga. (UP) — Three Gwinnett County policemen who apparently surprised a gang of auto thieves were handcuffed together and shot to death early today in a remote wooded area.

The three, all married and with children, were lined up on a hill off a county road and slain with bullets in the back of the head, County Commissioner Urban Freeman said.

The three were J. R. Everett, 28; Ralph K. Davis, 40; and Jesse N. Gravitt, 52.

Freeman said Gravitt was ill and the other two were taking him home when they received a radio call to investigate suspicious activity near the northeast expressway about 15 miles north of Atlanta.

Beckwith Jury in Deadlock for Second Mistrial

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A second white Mississippi jury deadlocked today in the Byron De La Beckwith murder trial and Circuit Court Judge Leon Hendrick again declared a mistrial.

This marked the end of the state's second effort to convict Beckwith, a dedicated segregationist, of the murder of Negro integration leader Medgar Evers.

The jury said it was hopelessly deadlocked after 18 hours of deliberation. It gave no breakdown of how it stood.

Beckwith's first trial ended Feb. 7 with the jury split 6-6. He was accused of the ambush slaying of Evers, a crime that shocked the nation last summer.

Evers had spearheaded mass desegregation demonstrations and boycotts here.

Judge Hendrick called the jurors into the courtroom at 11:30 a.m. and polled each of them as to whether they thought there was any chance of a verdict.

The emphatic replies ranged from "It doesn't look too good" to "I wouldn't think so" and "No, sir."

"I have never been in favor of forcing a verdict," the silver-haired, 60-year-old judge said. "I have never been in favor of wearing out 12 men such as you are. You are dismissed."

Hendrick ordered Beckwith remanded to the sheriff and returned to his jail cell on the fourth floor of the courthouse.

Beckwith showed no emotion as he followed two marshalls out of the courtroom.

The judge said the case would be continued to May term of court.

Beckwith, 43, a fertilizer salesman from Greenwood, Miss., seemed relaxed and not at all worried as the hours dragged by. He joked with his guards, talked with his 1-year-old son and waved and nodded at spectators who filled the courtroom at first, then drifted away as time went on.

The jurors began deliberations early Thursday afternoon. With time out for supper, they kept at it until the judge sent them to bed at 9:45 p.m.

In the first trial, the jury deliberated 11 hours before Hendrick gave up.

Train Kills Inmate Near Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR (AP)—An escaped mental patient died under the wheels of a passenger train last night. The train then was hit from the rear by a freight locomotive, injuring six passengers.

Two of the passengers—both Michigan men—were hospitalized. About ten others shaken up by the impact declined medical attention.

Mrs. Mary Chi Wang, 24, of Ann Arbor ran in front of the 12-car New York Central Twilight Limited and hurled herself face down on one track when the locomotive was about 60 feet away, a waitress told police.

Mrs. Wang had walked away from a psychiatric ward of the University of Michigan Hospital earlier yesterday, said Sgt. Irving Hollis of the Washtenaw County sheriff's office. Foster, Mrs. Wang had worked as a laboratory technician at the hospital.

The engineer of the Detroit-Chicago train, Carl E. Cross, 58, of Jackson said it was traveling about 45 miles an hour and he had no chance to stop in time.

After the train was halted, it was rammed in the rear by a locomotive hauling six freight cars.

One of the injured, Mark Moore, 19, of East Tawas was admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital with head and shoulder lacerations.

Also hospitalized was John McMillen, 63, of Detroit, a waiter on the train's dining car. He suffered a back injury.

Rough Road Lies Before Commission

There are some big decisions awaiting the new City Commission to be elected Monday.

The seven men Pontiac voters place around the big curved table at City Hall won't find the going easy.

Some of the major problems facing them are:

- Hiring a full-time professional city manager and naming a permanent chief of police.
- Choosing whether one or several developers will handle the redevelopment phase of urban renewal, and learning to live with urban renewal problems in general.

Will Remove 'Construction' Barricades

There have been barricades up for 11 days on East Pike at the perimeter road, routing traffic around Clinton River Drain "construction" at the Pike Street bridge next to the main library.

There has been no construction for 11 days on East Pike at the Clinton River bridge.

Tomorrow the barricades will be taken down. Motorists will be able to drive by the main library for 14 days.

There will still be no parking in the big municipal lot across from the library for about 49 days. It will be used to store construction equipment about that long.

East Pike will be open two weeks. Then, it will be closed again for construction.

Massachusetts Primary Becomes Popularity Poll

BOSTON (UPI)—An apparent Democratic "good" will create an unwanted state popularity poll in the Massachusetts presidential primary April 28.

In effect, it will pit U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy against his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

It may hurt the political hopes of Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody because his name is so far down on the list of candidates.

The problem is this: Democrats officially must elect 58 delegates at large to the Democratic National Convention in the April 28 voting. But they goofed and entered only 56 candidates.

Thus voters won't be able to cast a single vote for all the candidates. They can't vote "the straight party ticket."

Each voter must mark 56 "X's" beside 56 names if he wants to give each candidate an even vote. Some say the voters will be selective—they'll run their eyes down the ballot and pick out only the familiar names: the Kennedys, Boston Mayor John F. Collins, U.S. House Speaker John W. McCormack or his nephew Edward, or Peabody.

The names are lined up alphabetically so it's even possible that a comparatively minor political figure named Joseph Albano (he's first on the list) will get the most votes.

But supposing Peabody, who is way down the list, gets fewer votes than any other leaders. Some observers say that might influence potential opponents to Peabody to come forward and run against him at the June state convention at West Springfield.

The vote is expected to be extremely tight. Some state officials predict a turnout of less than 20 per cent of the state's registered voters.

Seek Reward; New Uniforms

Atlanta State Patrolmen, ordered to lose more than three and a half tons in overweight, have been promised a reward that most men relish when they, too, go on a diet. New outfits.

In the troopers' case, they're getting new uniforms—but not until September, their deadline date for trimming down.

As an extra enticement, the troopers will get Sam Browne belts, which admittedly will look smarter on pouchless officers.

The order went out last June to the 418 members of the State Patrol. Lose more than three and a half tons by September of 1964. Three hundred and one were overweight.

School Budget Up 8 Per Cent

Waterford Education Board, OKs Figure

A tentative school budget for 1964-65, up approximately 8 per cent over the current one, was approved last night by the Waterford Township Board of Education.

The $6,490,637 budget will be submitted to the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board.

Based on assumption that the allocation board will allow the same 8.71 mills of the 15-mill tax limitation as in the current budget, the tentative budget contains two other major "ifs" factors.

These are the amount of state aid forthcoming and increased valuation and the resulting added tax revenue.

The new budget, $6,490,637 more than the current one of $5,945,882, estimates increased revenue from the following sources:

- Approximately $60,000 from an increased local tax levy of .79 mills of the 2.5 mills maximum approved for operating at the polls last June.
- This will boost the total operating tax from the current 21.21 mills to 22 mills. This total includes 12.5 mills of the 2.5 mills maximum approved for operating at the polls last June.
- Approximately $52,000 due to an anticipated increase in the state equalized valuation from $13 to $116 million.
- $110,081 in estimated state aid.
- $29,631 in miscellaneous revenue.
- The balance of the increase from the cash balance as of July 1, the start of the new fiscal year.

Staff Increments

Most of the budget increase in expenditures, or $72,252 of the $494,949, is earmarked for staff increments and additions to staff. The salary schedule remains the same as last year.

A total of $225,400 is projected for the increments and $140,000 is earmarked for new personnel.

Other major budget increases include $59,112 for operation and $26,910 for transportation.

A new budget expenditure is $5,000 earmarked for the start of a community school program, the concept of greater use of school facilities by the general public.

When the allocation board specifies a mileage rate for the school system, a final budget will be prepared for board consideration in June.

Both recently returned from Italy, the two have inspired their respective students to portray and expand upon their various experiences.

Those attending the 8:30 p.m. travelogue have been urged to come as tourists, taking their cameras and sketch books and wearing comfortable shoes.

LBJ Requests Moderation

437 for a 1961 Kennedy conference.

Speaking softly, and tossing out occasional quips, Johnson volunteered eight announcements and fielded 16 questions with apparent ease during the 31-minute conference.

Asked to give his attitude on civil disobedience as a tactic in the civil rights struggle, Johnson said, "We do not think the violation of one right or the denial of one right, should permit the violation of another right."

COUNCIL MODERATION
The President said he would "conduct moderation" to all groups, and understanding of their fellow men and trying to appreciate his position."

He said that as long as racial discrimination exists, "We are going to have protests and we are entitled to protest and petition under our constitutional rights."

But he expressed the view that Senate action "with reason and dispatch" on the civil rights bill would "bring those protests and bring those disturbances and bring those disturbances from the streets and the alleys into the courts where they belong."

In the political sphere, Johnson said he expected the presidential campaign to be "a hard fight, a difficult one." And he drew laughter by adding, "I would hope that it wouldn't be too close."

COMMENT ON POLL
Reminded that a poll of editors indicated broad expectation of a Johnson victory at the polls, the President commented, "I hope that they feel in November as they do in April."

And when asked if he were concerned about the possibility that independent electors committed to neither party might be elected in Southern states, Johnson said:

"I would always be concerned about any elector that was not committed to vote for me."

In a more serious vein, he expressed doubt as to whether a substantial number of voters "will feel that the future of this country should be placed in the hands of independent electors."

Questioned about conflicting high-level statements comparing American and Soviet missile and air strength, Johnson said, "I am pleased with our strength."

He said the Kennedy and Johnson administrations have spent $25 billion more for defense in the past three years than would have been spent had the rate of the final year of the Eisenhower administration continued.

He said this money has bought "extra combat divisions, extra nuclear warheads, extra missile strength."

Johnson said Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara "operates a tight budget" but an adequate one.

"You can depend on what he tells you," the President said.

Johnson also said he would personally make a decision "I think is in the national interest" as to whether to adopt proposals by Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, for development of a new bomber.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

When Arteries Harden, Others Bear Load

Q — I have hardening of the arteries and heart disease but am much improved after three years of treatment.

Do the arteries have the power to rid themselves of the fat that accumulates in them and cause hardening?

A — Your arteries can not rid themselves of the changes that have taken place in their walls.

If, however, you have been able to eliminate the factors that caused your arteries to harden, the work of the abstracted arteries will have been taken over by other arteries.

This is accomplished by their becoming wider and by sending out collateral branches to nourish the tissues that were deprived of an adequate blood supply.

Q — In a recent column you advised against deep breathing exercises but you didn't give any reason. Please explain.

A — There is nothing wrong with standing before an open window in the morning and taking a deep breath.

Many people do this and feel better for it.

On the other hand, to take a series of 10 or 12 deep breaths would expose you to the danger of hyperventilation.

This would make you light-headed or faint. It even causes some persons to lose consciousness momentarily.

It is much better to go through a series of vigorous exercises that will make you take deep breaths.

Deep breathing after such exercises helps you catch up on your oxygen supply without causing hyperventilation.

Q — In a recent answer you said Dilantin was given for epilepsy.

I don't have epilepsy but my doctor is giving me this drug for throbbing in the head, ringing in the ears and general nervousness.

In what way would it be helpful in my case?

A — Although this drug is most often used to treat epilepsy, it may also be used for persons with chorea (St. Vitus' Dance), shaking palsy and excited states.

If it helps you, there is no reason why you should not continue to take it.

Q — I am 45 years old and will be married soon. I still menstruate. Would it be dangerous for me to have a baby at my age?

A — Many women have their first baby after the age of 37. Because a first labor at this age is likely to be unduly prolonged and because forceps delivery is so often necessary in such mothers, most doctors prefer delivery by Caesarean section.

This would eliminate the dangers mentioned.

N.Y. Reform Bill Passed

AP Photofax

NOW BACK TO CAMPAIGN — Gov. Rockefeller is in a smelly mood yesterday after his liquor reform bill passed the New York State Legislature in a special session. Passage of the bill, which had created a crisis in his state, left the presidential hopeful with time to campaign in the Oregon primary.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was back on the national political trails today after a victory in a special session of the Legislature approved his controversial liquor reform program.

But he left behind persistent rumors that his success was due in part to a bargain with U.S. Rep. Charles A. Buckley, leader of the Bronx Democratic organization.

Some Bronx legislators voted for the bill, in opposition to most Democrats. This support was reported to have been given in exchange for Rockefeller's pledge to sign a bill that would permit candidates in a primary to be listed on the ballot in a state.

UNFAIR MOTIVE

Rockefeller told a news conference it was "unfair" to attribute such motives to the Bronx delegates.

Rockefeller, a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, said settlement of the dispute over liquor legislation had freed him to "concentrate more effectively on the national scene."

Within a few hours after the Legislature adjourned, Rockefeller signed the bill and left by private plane to resume his campaign in Oregon's presidential preference primary.

claimed the bill threatened the existence of small retailers. Other foes said lower prices would lead to more drinking.

NO CERTAINTY

Rockefeller said there was no certainty prices would come down $1 a bottle but he hoped they would under pressures of competition.

The vote on the compromise plan was 34-23 in the Senate and 80-63 in the Assembly.

Democrats provided the margin of victory. In the Senate, 29 Republicans and 5 Democrats voted for the bill, with 30 votes needed for passage. In the Assembly, the bill was supported by 73 Republicans and 7 Democrats, with 76 votes needed for passage.

The Press Offers Analysis of Commission Candidates

Probably more people are uncertain over the candidates in the current City election than ever in history.

The voters emphatically swept all but two of the old commissioners out of office, and one of these (Taylor) was aligned on the side of the City in general against the balance of the commission. The March election was the most lopsided and united political action in all Pontiac history. Hence a list of new names appears on the ballot. The Press has been asked many questions. The situation is further complicated by two sticker candidates who were beaten in the primaries by an eyelash and who have decided to "have a go" in the election itself.

In an attempt to offer some guidance for those who are unacquainted, we have these suggestions. They are the results of a conference between Press editors who tried to weigh the merits and values as equitably as possible.

Here are our findings:
In District One, we feel that T. Warren Fowler is better equipped and better qualified to fill the duties in the City Hall. Mr. Fowler has long been a Pontiac business man and thus has the training and knowledge that should make him of value and assistance on the commission.

In District Two, we have a "write-in" candidate in the person of PHILIP SAUER who is opposing ROBERT C. IRWIN and ALLAN J. DENHAM. OUR Press editorial board believes all three are qualified.

In District Three, William H. Taylor is running against Sam Gabriel. Mr. Taylor was the soundest man on the former commission and time after time he voted against the six.

He is an outstanding candidate.
In District Four, both LESLIE H. HUDSON and FLOYD MILLS are qualified. LESLIE HUDSON may have more years ahead and is already dedicated to spending a portion of his life in public service. FLOYD MILLS has served before and did creditably.

In District Five, we have veteran John A. Dugan who served previously and is able and qualified. Robert McKeever finished second in a list of six but Dugan was far out in front, and has already established himself.

District Six sees WESLEY J. WOOD opposing F. H. BEEDLE. WOOD is much better known and, he too, has served on strong commissions in the past and is a veteran with experience.

District Seven presents the puzzle of the whole election. Robert Landry found two opponents within a vote of each other in the primary. Curtis L. Webb edged Emmett S. Welbaum by a single count and shortly thereafter the latter elected to run as a write-in candidate. The saints themselves would hate to predict the outcome in this district. Mayor Landry led the old commission in dumping the City Manager and the Chief of Police. If Webb and sticker candidate Welbaum split the opposition to Landry which exists in so many quarters, the Mayor could slide back into office. If not — who?

These are offered as suggestions for those who seek some assistance. There are two additional matters on the voting agenda. Voters face a slight tax increase. It's simply unavoidable.

We must vote "yes" unless we want inferior service, and an undermanned city and future retrogression. Taxpayers have been fortunate here. Our rate is way down on the low side compared to other cities and we have faced fewer raises in the past. The current increase is overdue and to the average taxpayer it amounts to only a few dollars over a full year. No one is anxious to pay more taxes, but practically everything you buy has edged upwards — more than Pontiac taxes.

The Press believes the community needs a "yes" vote. We feel the matter of the firemen is an administrative matter and should be settled through those channels.

Election Year One of Weirdest

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON—It's a weird, this presidential election year, one of the weirdest in a long time.

In polls or presidential primaries:
1. A woman without a chance — Maine's Senator Margaret Chase Smith — picks up speed but she's not going any place.

2. A prince of Southern segregationists, Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace — does surprisingly well in the North.

3. The men who talked and tried the hardest — New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater — finished behind the silent man type — Henry Cabot Lodge — who wasn't even there.

And Pennsylvania's Gov. William Scranton — who could rock himself to sleep with the monotonous insistence that he has no presidential ambitions while admitting he'd accept a "draft" — is still considered a likely Republican presidential prospect.

Wallace went into the Wisconsin primary and captured 25 per cent of the total vote, that a lot of northern whites are just as much segregationists as southern whites.

Then in the Illinois primary — where his name wasn't even on the ballot — more than 4,500 people wrote it in, giving him more votes than Rockefeller, Scranton, Michigan's Gov. George Romney, and Harold Stassen.

Mrs. Smith campaigned hard in the New Hampshire primary last month and wound up down near the bottom of the list with only 2,120 votes. In this week's Illinois primary she said she spent only $85 on two campaign appearances.

ONLY NAMES
But when the returns came in she had almost 200,000 votes. Goldwater got 400,000. Their two names were the only ones on the ballot.

But the real weird in all of it is the popularity of Lodge who because he is U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam under the Johnson administration — hasn't said a word about what he thinks on domestic issues.

And, because he hasn't held political office in 14 years — since John F. Kennedy took his Senate seat away from him in 1952 — probably few Republicans can remember where he stands or what he thinks on anything.

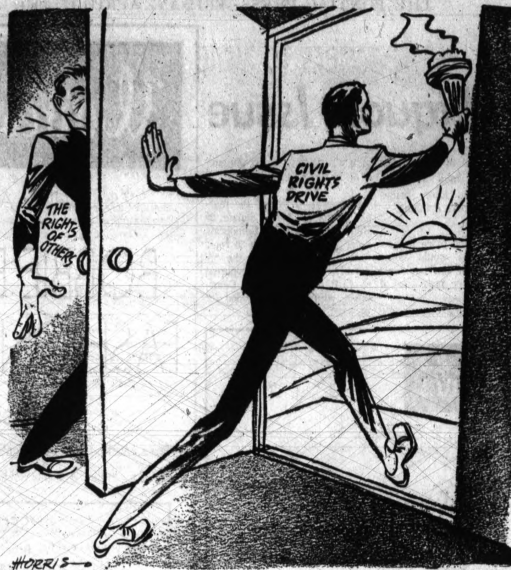

Yet in the New Hampshire primary, where his name was not even on the ballot and voters decided to write it in, he finished first over all other Republicans who are, or want to be, considered for their party's nomination.

The continuing popularity of Lodge, who has never said he is a candidate, might be interpreted as a changing attitude in American politics — that people like politicians who keep their mouths shut.

But that's an idea that can't be carried too far, otherwise the men who wind up being the Democratic and Republican candidates would have to go to Europe and stay there during the presidential campaign.

David Lawrence Says:

'Civil Wrongs' Hurt Rights Fight

WASHINGTON — When the leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties in the United States Senate join together to warn the organizers of public demonstrations on the racial problem that they must not violate the laws of the land, it is a significant indication of the great concern that pervades the Congress today lest the civil rights conflict bring a national crisis.

The joint statement was followed by a pointed affirmation of support by President Johnson at his news conference yesterday.

These utterances are the first that have been specifically directed by government spokesmen here to the demonstrators who now are being told that what they are doing may do more harm than good to their cause.

What President Johnson and the leaders of both parties in the Senate have just said becomes of major importance as timely counsel to those who are following the paths that lead to violence.

The joint statement issued Wednesday by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Democratic majority whip, and by Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, Republican minority whip, reads as follows:

CIVIL WRONGS
"Civil wrongs do not bring civil rights. Civil disobedience does not bring equal protection under the laws. Disorder does not bring law and order.

"We are standing for law and order. We are working for equal protection under the laws for all American citizens. This is the purpose of the civil rights bill.

"The right of petition is a basic right in America, but it also is basic to our system of government that there must be respect for the law. No one can condone violation of the law.

"The main reason we are advocating the civil rights bill is because too many states and too many individuals are defying the law of our Constitution and are denying constitutional rights to our fellow citizens.

PEACEFUL CRUSADE
"Those who are struggling for civil rights will help their cause greatly by conducting their peaceful crusade with the same good manners, forbearance and devotion so abundantly displayed last August in the civil rights march on Washington.

"Violence is the very antithesis of law and order. Illegal disturbances, demonstrations, which lead to violence or to injury, strike grievous blows at the cause of decent civil rights legislation.

"Unruly demonstrations and protests that bring hardship and unnecessary inconvenience to others — even by those who have long suffered indignities — are not helping the cause of civil rights. Indeed, they are hurting our efforts in Congress to pass an effective civil rights bill."

President Johnson said to his news conference yesterday:

"We do not, of course, condone violence or taking the law into your own hands, or threatening the health or safety of our people. You really do the civil rights cause no good when you go to this extent . . . I would counsel moderation to all groups."

Just before the President made his comments at his news conference, the leaders of six of the largest of the country's organization of Negro petitioners for antidiscrimination laws condemned the plan for a traffic tie-up at the World's Fair and said it was contrary to the best interests and needs of the Negro people.

Jewish Girl Dance Partner to Jordan's King Hussein

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON—It was a gay, mad night to remember! The Arab king of Jordan danced with a Jewish newspaper correspondent.

It all happened at the White House state dinner for young King Hussein, who is seeking U. S. support to block neighboring Israel from diverting water from the Jordan River.

RUTH MONTGOMERY
A jazz buff, the 23-year-old king sat through a red-hot musical by the Dave Brubeck quartet which was so lively that it set the crystal chandeliers tinkling in the East Room.

Afterwards he glided out onto the polished floor of the oval Blue Room with Lady Birj Johnson in his arms, and although the First Lady is only 5-feet 4-inches tall, she lowered above the diminutive monarch.

The next thing we knew, the ruler of the Hashemite kingdom of Jordan was dancing with petite Trude Feldman, who stands 4-feet, 10½-inches and was topped nearly three inches by the king.

What his majesty did not realize was that Trude, who had not been invited to dinner but was allowed to come in afterwards with the press, is a former Hebrew teacher who lived three years in Israel.

NO EXPLANATION
"Have you been in Jordan?" the king graciously asked his twirling partner.

Trude managed to say "no," without explaining why. After all, no Jew is knowingly permitted to enter Jordan, a secret of her proud heritage.

In fact, she is the daughter of celebrated Rabbi Moses J. Feldman, ranking member of the Orthodox Jewish community in Los Angeles.

Her three brothers and one of her brothers-in-law are also rabbis, and she herself writes columns for the weekly Jewish press and a magazine called Jewish World, plus an occasional place for the Jerusalem Post in Israel.

During her recent residence in Israel, whose existence the Arab world declines to recognize, she covered the celebrated Eichmann trial, and played a bit part in "Exodus."

Since Hussein obviously did not know her identity when he asked her to dance, I asked Trude how she thought it came about.

With becoming modesty, she replied: "Because I'm short. I was the only woman there who was shorter than the king."

"I only wish our dancing could have brought the two countries peacefully together."

Letter on Hate Movement Wins Readers' Acclaim

I commend Mrs. Robert Turpin on her recent letter. It is encouraging to know there are people of all races who want to create a decent America.

I, too, find it revolting to listen to many of our prominent leaders especially those supposedly dedicated to spreading Christianity preaching hatred, prejudice and legislation whereby the very foundation of our nation is endangered.

Equality cannot come by laws and demonstrations. People must join in determination to wipe out hatred and bigotry. Only then will we enjoy the blessings of this country and preserve them for future generations.

Freedom for All

Mrs. Robert Turpin's VOP letter was excellent, and I'm sure thinking people agree. However, Mr. Albert B. Clesage Jr., of Detroit, though representing a church which still calls itself Congregational, is really a minister of the United Church of Christ. Continuing Congregationalists, of which the Pontiac church is a member, still believe in freedom for all.

I'm sure Mrs. Turpin and others know the record of our Pontiac church members in Urban League work, YWCA, United Church Women and other activities. We don't want Pontiac citizens to identify us with the United Church of Christ.

Criticizes Editorial on 'Mass Murder'

In an editorial The Press rightly condemns the murder of children by the Nazis in Germany and then concludes that such a thing could not happen here.

Let's not shine our halos so much. It was less than a year ago that innocent children were murdered in Birmingham, Ala., and no one has been accused and convicted of that crime. What about that lady in New York who was murdered after arousing the neighbors three different times and no one even notified the police? How many here in the United States are willing to speak out against crime, if it may mean a loss of popularity? It would be less if it involved their job, and I am afraid that if there were danger to life that we Americans would be just as silent as the Germans.

If I am wrong, how about the "silent millions" refusing to speak out against injustice due to color right here in the U.S.A.?

Albert A. Riddering

(Editor's Note: First, you can hardly compare five deaths with "several million." Secondly, these five murders—ghostly as they were—stand far removed from the Hun's slaughter of Jews and children. For the incidents here never had government sanction and approval.)

'Special Effort Made for Blessed Days'

We agree with the editorial concerning the Christian who darkens the church only on Easter and Christmas. But in all fairness, remember that many go on these two blessed days have made a special effort.

This does not necessarily mean that the large increase in due to two-day attendance, but rather shows the importance of these days hold. I have attended church on these days when ill and I'm sure many others have done the same.

God already knows what is in the heart, and forcing one to attend church will not make him a Christian. Gerald Miller said that the Pope may have been concerned with the flourishing increase of the Communist party in Italy, the largest in Western Europe. This seems to indicate that the influence of ordered church attendance has not accomplished the desired effect. Unless a man's heart is touched and changed by Christ's redeeming power and grace he is a miserable sinner.

Swap Money for Lives?

The Jackson Citizen Patriot

The National Safety Council is making what many Americans may regard as an astounding proposal.

It is asking them to spend more money to save their lives in today's souped-up traffic.

Such a suggestion is notable if for nothing but its boldness. For some reason that is hard to explain, the safety movement has been strangely timid in asking for money — real money — to prevent accidents.

The result is that too many people have come to the conclusion that safety can be had for free, or at least at bargain basement rates.

This is just as impractical and unrealistic as expecting sanitation, education, health and other fundamental citizen service for free. It just can't be done.

The Safety Council cites the need for more traffic police, more driver education, a more traffic engineering, improved driver licensing procedures.

How much more would all this cost?

Five hundred million dollars a year.

What does the Safety Council believe it would buy?

A saving of 22,000 lives a year. The nation's traffic toll hit an all-time high of 43,400 deaths in 1963. The first two months of this year it went up to 22 per cent.

If the same thing were to happen in us, as, police or some other great threat to the national welfare, would we hesitate to move in on it with money and action?

It's time we really moved in on traffic accidents — on an emergency basis. The Safety Council is making sense.

and even the parties themselves are divided.

This is currently being illustrated by the wide variance of responses in Eastern Europe to Mr. Khrushchev's proposal for a world Communist conference later this year. Response has ranged from the unquestioning support of the Czechoslovakians to the complete silence of the Rumanians.

No doubt in time they will come into line, but not merely by a wave of what the Chinese Communists make a fetish of — "Mr. Khrushchev's example." Each party will consult its own interests in seeking to make the best use of the situation.

Neither are the have-not countries certain to line up behind Peking. Many Arabs and Africans, for instance, not to speak of Indians, seem by no means anxious to follow Peking's lead.

Detroit Teachers to Vote for Bargain Agent May 11

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's bargaining representative election for its 10,000 public school teachers has been set for May 11.

Assuming there is no hitch, the teachers will choose between a comparatively young union, the Detroit Teachers Federation (AFL-CIO), and the Detroit chapter of the traditional National Education Association (NEA).

The bargaining election date was set Thursday at a conference of representatives of the rival groups and School Supt. Samuel M. Brownell.

The election winner will be spokesman for all teachers before the City Board of Education.

RESTRICTED VOTE

Election eligibility is to be restricted to teachers and other school personnel below the rank of supervisors and administrators.

The Detroit Education Association, through President Eugene Staley, indicated it would reserve the right to protest the election result because of the voting eligibility.

The federation, a labor union, excludes supervisory and administrative personnel. The DEA includes them.

The May 11 election follows from an April 8 election in which the teachers voted overwhelmingly in favor of a proposal that they be represented by one organization.

CALL OFF STRIKE

As a result of the vote, with the school board then agreeing to a voting showdown between the federation and association, the union group called off a strike scheduled for last Wednesday.

EAST LANSING (AP) — The Michigan State University Board of Trustees Thursday unanimously adopted a resolution stating, in effect, that President John Hannah can continue in office as long as he pleases.

It said because of his "knowledge and experience" that the president "shall be eligible to continue in office at the pleasure of the board for such term as he shall be able to serve efficiently without regard to the mandatory retirement occasioned by age."

The trustees also approved the appointment of two professors to top administrative posts and accepted gifts and grants totaling $882,483.

Dr. John Dietrich, professor and chairman of the speech department since 1959, was named assistant provost and director of the MSU educational development program. He becomes the first person to hold the title for the program, aimed at making maximum use of the university's teaching talent and resources.

Scientist Against LeMay Bomb Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington: BIG BOMB: The Pentagon's top scientist—Dr. Harold Brown—has taken issue with Air Force chief of staff Gen. Curtis E. LeMay's call for a 100-megaton bomb.

"It does not seem at this time to make sense to do such a development," Dr. Brown said in secret testimony to a House Appropriations subcommittee that was released Thursday. LeMay has told Congress frequently that the United States needs such a bomb.

Brown, Department of De-

County TV Group Votes In Officers

Marshall Crossett, 536 Cameron, has been elected president of the Television and Electronics Service Association of Oakland County.

Crossett operates C & V TV, 158 Oakland. The Association has made up of some 40 television repair shop owners in the greater Oakland County area.

Others elected were Andy Condon, 2726 Winkelman, Waterford Township, vice president; Ralph Dalby, 348 Lehigh, secretary; and Walter Grogan, 4730 Clarkston, treasurer.

Heading the board of directors will be retiring president Max Tester, with newly elected board members William McGlashen, Coleman Gayheart, Thomas Johnson, Lyle Sweet, William Obel and Simund Chmiloak.

Screen Writer Expires

ENCINO, Calif. (AP) — Roy Chanslor, 64, one of Hollywood's best known screen writers, died Thursday of a heart attack.

fense director of research, said "there is no question that the bombs we have now will destroy the biggest cities in the world."

"The question," he continued, "is whether you can do it better with a larger number of those than with a smaller number of 100-megaton bombs."

Brown said that if instead of building the big bomb "you spent the same amount of money on developing and deploying a larger number of smaller weapons, you could do more damage."

MORSE-VIET NAM: The Senate's most persistent critic of U.S. policy in South Viet Nam, Oregon's Wayne Morse, has accused the nation's "Pravda-like press" with doing a "cover-up" job on facts about the situation there.

In a 46-minute Senate speech Thursday night, the Oregon Democrat made his daily demand for removal of U.S. troops from South Viet Nam to stop what he termed "the unjustified killing of American boys" in the Southeast Asian nation.

Noting that the American Society of Newspaper Editors is meeting this week in Washington, Morse said:

"If the Pravda-like press in this country really started giving the American people the facts" and stopped what he called a "cover-up" the people would "vote 5 to 1 to get out of South Viet Nam now."

The United States has no more right being in South Viet Nam, Morse said, than the Soviet Union has being in East Germany.

NANCY: A 20-year-old cancer victim, bedridden for 10 years, toured Washington Thursday and met Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson on the White House south lawn.

Nancy Martin of Lewiston, Maine, was told 10 years ago she was suffering from cancer of the spine and had six months to live. Although she has been in a nursing home for six years and can sit only for brief periods, she is due to graduate from Lewiston High School this June.

She was on a specially arranged tour of the White House when Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, brought her case to Mrs. Johnson's attention.

In a brief visit, the First Lady chatted with Miss Martin and her family about life in the White House.

Mrs. Johnson gave Miss Martin a personally inscribed etching of the White House to take home.

A special plane flew Miss Martin here, and she toured Washington on a stretcher in a specially equipped ambulance. Her mother, Mrs. Napoleon St. Hillaire, and her 13-year-old half brother, Dennis, accompanied her.

Highway Dept. Makes Survey

Don't look now, but you're having your picture taken. If you're wondering where the camera is, better look up—straight up.

The pictures are being taken from a sub-roseo plane for the State Highway Department.

The department is beginning an extensive aerial survey and mapping program on more than 370 miles of Michigan highways, including 43 miles in the Oakland County area.

It's done every spring between the time the snow has left and new foliage begins to obscure ground contours.

This year's survey will include 23 miles of I-696 mostly in Oakland County, from East-western Highway to I-94 in East Detroit, and 29 miles of I-96 between Farmington and Brighton. State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said the aerial photographs generally will be used to develop plans for relocation of some highways and modernization of others.

In the case of I-96, it is planned to widen the super-highway to six lanes in the couple years at a cost of about $5.3 million.

The other aerial survey in the county is for plotting an east-west superhighway between 10 and 11 Mile roads for completion in two to three years for about $3.7 million.

On most aerial surveys, a corridor one-half to three-quarters of a mile wide is photographed. Ground survey crews establish points of reference which enable photogrammetry personnel to develop contour maps from the aerial photographs.

The photographs will be taken from an altitude ranging from 1,500 to 3,000 feet.

Mackie said the highway department in the past seven years has taken aerial photographs of nearly 4,000 miles of highways and proposed routes.

Aerial surveys reduce final survey time by 30 per cent, right of way planning by 15 per cent, road design by 5 per cent and soils location time by 10 per cent, he added.

Surveying by the conventional method of a five-man ground crew costs about $1,000 a mile, according to Mackie, while the combination of aerial photography and photogrammetry reduces the cost to $400 a mile.

Most of Michigan's new freeways were located and designed from maps prepared by photogrammetry methods, he said.

Highway department crews have placed eight-foot-long yellow oil cloth crosses or painted the crosses on existing highways to give the aerial photographer a focus point.

The crosses are merely reference points and don't necessarily indicate the route of a new highway, Mackie pointed out.

Photogrammetry as a science means much more than sticking a camera out an airplane window and clicking a picture below.

The plane must fly as nearly a straight line as possible at a fixed altitude, while the special high-speed camera clicks off a series of overlapping pictures of the earth below.

Since the altitude and direction of a plane can't be controlled precisely, the camera has a built-in level that is photographed each time. This allows corrections to be made for the errors in flying.

The plane's altitude also is recorded for each picture.

The final result is a detailed, perfectly matched series of pictures of the earth.

By using stereoscopic glass or a special projecting machine, a three-dimensional effect can be obtained, showing all the hills and valleys and allowing engineers to measure the height of trees from the photos.

Report on U. S. Consumer

Health Hoaxes Costly, Dangerous

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the last of five dispatches by the UPI's national reporter on the American consumer.)

By HARRY FERGUSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Millions of Americans cling stubbornly to the belief that there is a fountain of youth somewhere over the rainbow, and they are swindled out of $500 million annually.

They buy things that not only cannot possibly help them but actually endanger their health and in some cases their lives. Take, for instance, Mme. Cora Galenti-Smith and her "Fountain of Beauty Ranch."

Before she was fined and sentenced to prison for mail fraud, she had separated gullible American women from $1 million.

What she advertised was "a glorious facial rejuvenation," which turned out to be some sort of skin peeling process.

What she used was a strong solution of carbolic acid which left many of her victims disfigured for life.

ADVERTISED CURE-ALL

Or take the case of Mrs. Alice Hill cited by the federal Food and Drug Administration. She drove 165 miles to see a man who advertised a cure-all herb tonic.

He examined her left foot and then advised her she had a tumor in the right breast, diabetes, arthritis, a malfunction of the gall bladder and possibly cancer of the colon.

She bought $185 worth of tonic before she realized it wasn't helping her.

No federal expert even attempts to guess what Americans spend annually on things they believe have nutritional value, the so-called diet supplements.

SOME VALUE

Some of them are valuable and needed when taken under the supervision of a physician. Others are a waste of money.

Commissioner George P. Larrick of the Food and Drug Administration believes so many persons, particularly in the higher age brackets, waste their money because they accept as truth at least one of the following myths.

• That all diseases are due to faulty diet.

• That our food is nutritionally inferior because the American soil is impoverished from long use.

FOOD PROCESSING

• That commercial food processing destroys nutritional value. Larrick says the fact is that processing reduces the value of some foods, preserves it intact in some and in others actually adds to it.

• That minor aches and fatigue mean a person is eating the wrong thing or not enough of the right thing.

Myths die hard and thousands of persons still are being swindled as a result of Dr. Elisha Perkins and his metallic tractor.

He obtained a patent in 1796 on two metal rods about three inches long. By pulling them downward over the affected part of the body, the disease was supposed to be yanked out.

NO CURE

George Washington was one of Perkins' patients, but there is no record of a cure.

Perkins' theories were widely disseminated in this country and abroad," says the Food and Drug Administration.

"They still persist today. We see them in the magnetic belts, magnetic bracelets and many types of complicated-looking contraptions.

"There is no scientific evidence to support the theories of Dr. Perkins and all devices based on his theories are considered worthless for any medical purpose."

INTEREST IN SEAWATER

Currently there is much interest in seawater on the theory it contains minerals not available elsewhere, and the going price seems to be $3.75 a gallon.

The Food and Drug Administration rules that seawater is useless and, in the case of heart patients, can be dangerous.

It made a six-state roundup of persons who were selling it and advertising it would help cure persons suffering from cancer, diabetes, epilepsy, asthma, arthritis, insanity, catalepsy, high blood pressure, baldness, sterility, split finger nails, goiter and gray hair.

Food fads come and go, and the Food and Drug Administration carefully investigates all of them and then publishes its findings.

RECENT RESULTS

Here are some recent results: "Yogurt may be recommended for certain intestinal conditions, but nutritionally it is the same as milk, which costs much less."

"The 'minerals' in blackstrap molasses are mainly impurities that get in during the sugar refining process and have no health importance."

"Wheat germ is a useful cereal food, but it does not perform any nutritional miracles."

SPECIAL NEEDS

Least the Food and Drug Administration be placed in the position of denouncing all dietary foods, it points out that there are people who need something special.

Persons suffering from a heart condition and high blood pressure need low sodium and salt-free food.

Diabetics require a special diet. Some elderly persons need special food to solve their hearing problem. People with allergies frequently benefit from special diets.

But the slogan of the administration is this: "There is no substitute for a well-balanced diet. Pills cannot take the place of food."

SPOTTING QUACK

The Food and Drug Administration gives these rules on how to spot a medical quack:

"Is the formula or treatment secret?"

"Does it promise a quick cure?"

"Does the sponsor claim medical men are persecuting him or fear his competition?"

"If the answer to any of these is yes, investigate before you invest. Save your money and maybe your life."

S. Rhodesia Regime Considers Break With Britain

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — Southern Rhodesia's new white racist government would like to declare independence from Britain before the British election next fall, his far-right supporters in the but it can't be sure the Southern Rhodesian Parliament will vote to go it alone.

nearby 4 million Africans.

With only a five-seat parliamentary majority, Smith's five-day-old government would collapse if even a handful of party members dissented. Smith acknowledged the political problem by telling reporters Thursday he isn't giving much thought to a break with Britain now.

OPPOSE AFRICANS

Smith did emphasize his opposition to giving Africans any more political power. Britain refuses to consider independence while a white minority government controls this rich gold and asbestos-mining state.

The deadlock was a factor in Prime Minister Winston Field's ouster. The party felt he had not pressed Britain hard enough for independence, and it is counting on Smith to follow a tougher line.

If Smith's government falls on the independence issue, the door will be open for a power bid in the subsequent national election by Sir Roy Welensky, former prime minister of the now abandoned Rhodesian Federation.

Welensky, a moderate white supremacist, said Thursday he could be drafted.

Although he made no commitment for or against a declaration of independence, Welensky warned a break would mean the loss of British veto protection at the United Nations against outside intervention in Southern Rhodesian affairs.

The new government faces some immediate trouble at the United Nations because of its detention Thursday of leading African nationalist Joshua Nkomo and three of his chief associates. The four were ordered confined for a year to a remote game reserve for allegedly stirring up violence and disrupting the economy.

Mobs of African nationalists rioted in protest Thursday, stoning cars, chasing African children out of their schools and blocking roads to Salisbury's Highfield African Township.

Africans and whites exchanged blows after 60 Africans staged asidown strike in Salisbury's central square. A white woman and four white men were struck by Africans. Police broke up the demonstration with dogs.

America, Japan Set

TOKYO (AP)—American and Japanese television representatives decided today to set up centers in New York and Tokyo on Sept. 1 to exchange educational and cultural TV programs.

The decision was made at a two-day conference on the establishment of U.S.-Japan cultural and educational television program exchanges.

Last Chapter Is Realism

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—Nicholas Schatroph told Magistrate Bernard Isman yesterday he had stolen a $4 carving fork from a department store so he could write the final chapter of a treatise on shoplifting.

He said he wanted to study the relationships "between shoplifters and the store, between the store and police and shoplifters and police." All the relationships were good, he said, except the one between shoplifters and the store.

Store security officers arrested Schatroph outside the store. Isman gave him a suspended sentence and ordered him to post $1,000 bond to keep the peace for two years. Isman also ordered him to keep out of the store where he took the fork.

But Urban League Hopeful

'Skills Bank' Off to Slow Start

Pontiac Area Urban League's effort to find more and better jobs for Negroes is off to a slow but hopeful start.

A month-long registration effort turned up exactly 94 persons filling with a "skills bank" out of some 4,000 employable nonwhites in Pontiac.

While disappointed at this showing, Urban League officials think they will be able to expand this beginning once they can show concrete results.

"People are really looking for us to do something. They want to be referred to jobs right away," noted Raleigh Hairston, job development director for Pontiac Area Urban League.

He said another large group the bank failed to attract are Negroes already employed in jobs where they have built up seniority.

CONTINUED EFFORT

But Hairston contends continued effort will prove to them that the Urban League program may be able to help them advance, too.

"But actually, we didn't do too badly in the response we got. We hoped to reach many more, but it turns out we did as well proportionally as larger cities."

Cleveland, with its large Negro population, yielded but 2,000 skills bank registrants, he said.

Although Negroes display a wait-and-see attitude toward the bank or statistical file with a nationwide index, it has drawn much publicity since its inception in January.

PROGRAM AIMS

The aim is threefold: • To "deposit" facts submitted by working age (18-45) Negroes to see what type of work they are now engaged in and what their ability and potential indicates they can do.

• To survey major employers and see what skills are actually in demand, and what the firm's attitude is toward hiring Negroes.

• Last, but most important, to match qualified persons with jobs they might not otherwise know about, while alerting employers that qualified Negroes are available.

Two-thirds of those who went to churches, schools and Urban League offices at 132 Franklin Blvd. to register their skills were women. Most of those filing were under age 40.

LIST EMPLOYMENT

Listing employment they would like to hold, 27 per cent said clerical and sales; 25 per cent hospital work; service jobs, 19 per cent; semi-skilled jobs, 15 per cent; and professional-managerial, 8 per cent.

Perhaps the most interesting data collected dealt with education level-work experience.

Of 29 high school graduates interviewed, only two have managerial or professional positions; 12 have service occupations; seven clerical or sales work; and eight are semi or unskilled.

Among seven Negroes with one or two years of college, none had better than clerical jobs and two are unskilled workers.

COLLEGE GRADS

Revealing were statements by Pontiac Negroes with college training. Most told of difficulty in securing employment on a level with their educational background.

One, a young mother, with good college record, graduate credits and a clerical experience, related repeated frustrations in even having an employment application accepted. She has been unable to obtain full time work.

To turn up jobs to fit these statistics is the next, and hardest part of the skills bank.

"We're going to contact 60 to 80 firms in this area which have 10 or more employees," Hairston said. The form to be used will ask about the company's work force, especially how Negroes are used within the organization.

TO HEAD LIST

The three local General Motors plants in Pontiac will head the list, but Urban League interviewers will also visit stores and small factories.

Along with this, Urban League is counting on the pressure of change, the reappraisal of equal rights going on across the United States to make the skills bank work.

"Each day, the situation changes. Yesterday, they may have had no need for certain skills—but tomorrow an employer may need them," said Hairston.

Citizens League to Vote on College

Oakland Citizens League members will vote on whether or not to back a county community college at their annual dinner May 13 at Devon Gables in Bloomfield Township.

The nonpartisan civic action group's board of directors is proposing that the 550-member organization come out in favor of voting to establish a community college in the June 8 school elections.

Main speaker at the annual dinner will be Oakland University Chancellor Durward B. Varner.

Election of six directors is also on the meeting's agenda.

'BLENDING' THOUGHTS — The Pontiac and Utica-Rochester chapters of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America are celebrating Harmony Week with a 5:30 p.m. Saturday "Songfest" in the Pontiac Mall concourse. There is no "weak" harmony here, though, as (left to right) Bob Carroll, Utica-Rochester president, Bart Carroll, Pontiac chorus director, and master of ceremonies Bob Greene discuss the script.

'Poverty War Won't Overcome Bias to Negro'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Chairman Stanley H. Lowell of the New York City Commission on Human Rights, says Negro deprivation can't be overcome by stepping up the general war on poverty.

Lowell, a vice president of the American Jewish Congress, told the organization's biennial convention: "Certainly the Negro requires solutions in these basic areas of human concern. But his color gives his problem an other dimension and creates another barrier that is distinctive and different, that must be overcome."

"A century of total discrimination against the Negro as a group cries out for years of special effort in his behalf."

Barry Backers Say Contab Not a Secret

Huntington Woods attorney Larry S. Davidson today denied that a "rump" convention held by him and other ultraconservative Republicans in Birmingham last week was secret.

It only seemed so because it was spontaneous, according to Davidson, the spokesman for a small group of Oakland County right-wingers who want the GOP to nominate Sen. Barry Goldwater for president.

"It was not secret and not closed," Davidson said. "And it was unpublicized only because it was not planned in advance."

Disclosure of the "extra" convention came earlier this week when its slate of state convention delegates arrived at GOP offices in Lansing. Also filed in Lansing was the list of delegates approved by the regular Oakland County Republican convention in Southfield last week.

The action by Davidson's group drew charges of "secret" and "clandestine meeting" from the head of the regular party organization, County GOP Chairman Charles L. Lyle.

School Budget Talk Has Harmonic Note

The Waterford Township School Board's weighty task of reviewing details of a proposed school budget was lightened last night by a musical interlude.

A feature of regular board meetings is a curriculum report. Last night's report was on music and it blended well with the rest of the agenda.

Elementary music supervisor Mary Phipps not only reported on the music program in the schools, but also brought with her a contingent of music teachers who sang some of the songs offered at the various grade levels.

Miss Phipps pointed out that 280 classrooms are serviced at the elementary level in the music program.

George Fetter, band director at Kettering High School, spoke on the expansion of the instrumental program into the elementary grades.

BROADEN PROGRAM

Fetter said that a year ago, instrumental music instruction was introduced in the sixth grade. Now with four second-year school instructors being utilized, it also is offered to 5th graders, he said.

Besides discussing the budget and listening to the music presentation, board members approved contracts for 27 new teachers who will begin duties in the fall.

Also approved was the reinvestment of $64,000 in debt retirement funds in United States Treasury Bills.

A request that the board consider relocating its future elementary school site in the Twin Lakes subdivision was tabled pending an April 25 visit to the site by board members, administrators and subdivision representatives.

SUBDIVISION VIEW

The subdivision group would like to see the site located away from their immediate area. No plans for school construction have been made on the site.

Also last night, the board voted down a motion by member John Boardman to use machines for the June 8 election.

A general feeling was that the additional cost of $400 over a paper ballot election would not be justified because a light voter turnout is expected.

Though Bids Opened

Cost of Sewer Arm Remains Uncertain

Although bids to construct the Tarabush sanitary sewer arm in Farmington Township were opened yesterday, the County Department of Public Works remained uncertain today regarding the actual cost.

After contractors' bids were opened on the two sections of the project, one of the apparent low bidders claimed it had made a mathematical error in arriving at its total bid figure.

Northeast Construction Co. of Utica submitted a bid totaling $335,928 to lay 21,000 feet of pipe as section two of the project.

Now the company claims that the figure should have come to $423,928 in totaling up its estimated costs.

This would raise the project's total construction cost for sections one and two to $662,689, or $45,000 over the county engineers' estimate. Otherwise, the job would be done for $45,000 under the estimate.

STILL LOW BIDDER

Either way, Northeast still would be the apparent low bidder for section two. The apparent second low bid came to $433,210.

Public Works Director R. J. Alexander said his department is studying Northeast's worksheds leading up to the bid total to see if a $423,928 figure actually was intended.

"If the firm's cost estimates add up to the lower figure, then we will hold them to it," said Alexander.

In this event, Northeast could withdraw its bid and the job probably would go to the second low bidder, he added.

Northeast might have to forfeit its 5 per cent bond on the bid if it declines to do the job for the lesser amount. Forfeiture would cost the firm about $17,000.

The firm probably would forfeit $17,000 if it felt that it otherwise would lose $88,000 by going ahead with the job at the lower figure, Alexander explained.

He said his department should be able to reach a decision with the contractor by April 23.

The contracts are to be awarded by the County Board of Supervisors April 28, so that construction can start May 14.

UTICA FIRM

Shelby Construction Co. of Utica is apparent low bidder for section one—16,000 linear feet of sewer pipe—at $238,761.

AFTER SPEECH — Whitney Young of the National Urban League congratulates Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy's speech yesterday before the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Young was one of several Negro leaders attending yesterday's session of the ASNE.

'Should Accept Criticism'

Calls Press Oversensitive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before a critical audience of newspaper editors, a critic of the newspapers criticized today newspapers' sensitivity to criticism.

Writer Ben H. Bagdikian, in a talk prepared for delivery to the annual convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, suggested that:

"The press ought to lower its threshold of righteous indignation at the idea of outside criticism and disinterested study, and mend what is largely a zone of silence in the news columns about basic problems of the press.

APPLIED TO OTHERS

"The idea of expose, complaint and reform is built into the heart of American newspapering—when it is applied to others.

"Papers ought to resign themselves to this same therapy for themselves. And to the fact that they are no more entitled to select their critics than are politicians or playwrights."

Bagdikian, a Saturday Evening Post writer and former staff member of the Providence (R.I.) Journal, told of rebuffs and frustrations in trying to obtain from newspaper publishers data on what it costs to produce a good newspaper, for a study financed by the Guggenheim Foundation.

One newspaper group refused, he said, because of his frequently critical writings on the press. This group mentioned specifically a humorous Bagdikian article on unfunny comic strips entitled, "Don't Laugh, It's The Funnies."

NO JOKES!

"There are some first-rate publishers of first-rate papers in that association, yet they said I couldn't look at their economic data because I made jokes about comic strips," Bagdikian observed.

"Individually, some newspapers take their lumps manfully.

"Now and then groups do, as did the New England Society of Newspaper Editors which supported and accepted a critical study in 1960.

"The ASNE is masochistic at its annual meetings, and the Associated Press Managing Editors undertake some intramural hazing.

NEUROTICS

"But on the whole the American daily press is dangerously close to neurotic about outside criticism, and dangerously resistant to the kind of basic study that most other comparable institutions in our society consider necessary and inevitable."

Several Possibilities

U.S. Team to Survey New Canal Routes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson is sending a survey team to Colombia today to study the possibility of building a sea-level canal there to replace the Panama Canal.

Johnson told a news conference yesterday that Colombia was only one of several possible sites for a new canal and that the United States hoped to launch similar studies in other Central American countries.

The 10-man U. S. team includes military experts, engineers and cartographers and will be equipped with three helicopters to look over terrain.

Johnson said the study was being made by agreement between the U. S. and Colombian governments and that the U. S. team would work with a Colombian team of experts.

The idea of a sea-level canal to supplement or replace the Panama Canal has been discussed for years. It gained urgency last January when riots led to temporary disruption of U.S.-Panamanian relations.

ARGUMENTS FOR

Proponents of a sea-level canal have put forward military, political and economic arguments for the project. A sea-level canal would not have locks like the Panama Canal and would be less vulnerable to wartime attack or sabotage.

It would be easier to operate and require less security arrangements. Therefore, it is held, a sea-level canal would require less of a U. S. presence as in the Panama Canal Zone and run into fewer political problems such as those with Panama.

Another argument for such a canal is that the Panama Canal is unable to handle some of the larger ships, both military and commercial.

Central American countries are in hot competition to get the new canal. Routes have been proposed in Panama, Mexico and Nicaragua as well as Colombia.

SEVERAL ROUTES

Johnson told newsmen there were several alternative routes for such a canal which "will have to be studied carefully before a decision can be made." He mentioned no particular sites, however.

The President said the administration hoped for early House approval of a Senate-passed bill which would authorize a sea-level canal study.

It long has been contemplated that atomic energy would be used to dig the new canal, and this has threatened to raise an international problem.

Under the nuclear test-ban treaty signed a year ago the consent of other signatories would be required for any peaceful use of atomic energy which might send radioactivity across national boundaries.

This theoretically could give the Russians an opportunity to try to veto the project.

Nine of every 10 American women marry, President Kennedy's Commission on the Status of Women has disclosed.

Junior Editors Quiz on HORSES

QUESTION: Where did the word "horse" come from?

ANSWER: We all know that the barbarian tribes from northern Europe swooped down and overthrew the Roman Empire, but we don't always realize that one of the reasons the barbarians were successful was that they used many horses in their armies.

The Romans, although they did have cavalry regiments, relied largely on the foot soldier.

It was from these same horse-conscious North European peoples that we get our word "horse." The ancient Norwegian word for this animal was "hross," and the German word was "ross."

As the Germanic tribes and the Vikings invaded England, their languages merged with that of the Britons to become "Anglo-Saxon," which soon developed into English.

A horse was now called "ros" or a "hros," and these words soon joined into "hors," which was the word used by Chaucer in his famous "Knight's Tale."

As people began to write more and more, they added an "e" to "hors" forming the word we use today.

FOR YOU TO DO: Pronounce "hors." Doesn't it sound like a longer word than one with just four letters? In English, "e" added to the end of a word is usually silent, but it makes the vowel before it, in this case "o," long. Adding the "e" suggests the long sound of "horse," and that was why it was added.

Physicist Told of Park Danger

Slain Professor Had Warnings by Police.

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Gallagher Jr., slain nuclear physicist, had been seen roaming Central Park at night on several occasions and once was warned by a patrolman to keep to the paths for his own protection.

Gallagher, 31, an assistant professor at Columbia University, was shot to death in the park late Tuesday night or early Wednesday.

Chief of Detectives Lawrence J. McKearney disclosed Thursday that Gallagher's photograph was recognized by several patrolmen doing duty in the park. Police emphasized that there was nothing suspicious in his actions.

Police are seeking two men who were at the scene when Arthur Blakey, an elevator operator, said he came on Gallagher's body during a stroll early Wednesday morning.

MAN QUESTIONED

A man identified as David Farquharson, one of two other men said to have joined Blakey at the death scene, has been questioned.

A pair of women's shoes found near Gallagher's body apparently was not connected with his slaying, police said.

Among other leads checked out was that of a white station wagon containing two men seen cruising in the park near where the body was found. The car proved to be one rented by the telephone company for night maintenance checks.

The murder weapon, a 25-caliber pistol, has not been recovered.

Gallagher is survived by his wife, Kristin, and two young sons.

There were 17,144 townships in the nation at the conclusion of the last census of governments.

De Gaulle Defends French Assistance Plan

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle defended his program of aid to underdeveloped nations Thursday night against critics who think he ought to spend part of the money for French schools and housing.

He also told a nationwide radio-television audience that France must continue to develop its independent nuclear force to keep from becoming an American protectorate and to dissuade a Soviet attack.

De Gaulle, 73, made no new policy declaration. His chief purpose appeared to be to reply to mounting criticism in France against heavy expenditures for nuclear weapons and foreign aid.

France is spending approximately 1.8 per cent of its gross national product on foreign aid, the highest percentage in the world and more than double the .72 per cent the United States spends. Critics protest that more money should be used at home, especially for educational facilities and housing.

Ohio Court Decides
Glenn a Candidate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court kept Lt. Col. John H. Glenn's name on Ohio's Democratic U.S. senatorial ballot today, but gave an opponent until Monday to plead further.

The state's highest court refused to order the 42-year-old space hero eliminated from a four-way race, despite his belated attempt to withdraw because of a head injury and later complications which affected his inner ear.

Public Alert Slated
on Respiratory Illness

DETROIT (AP) — A "symptom alert" on respiratory disease will be conducted by the Tuberculosis and Health Society of Wayne County May 1-June 15 to alert the public to chronic cough or shortness of breath. Malcolm L. Denise, Ford Motor Co. vice president, is chairman for the drive.

France's annual birth rate increased about 300,000 between 1942 and 1946, and institutions of higher learning must turn away thousands of students for lack of room. There is a critical housing shortage.

Since he returned to power in 1958, de Gaulle said, France has boosted education spending from 10 to 16 per cent of the national budget. He said housing construction has increased from 750 to 1,000 units a year.

France's revenues have risen 30 per cent during the five-year period, de Gaulle said. Therefore, he argued, why should

Cong Retreat
Claims Nixon

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says morale cannot be strong in South Viet Nam when the Communist guerrillas are allowed to retreat without harassment into the "sanctuary" of North Viet Nam or Laos.

"What is needed now is strong American support and a change in their concrete steps within their respective capabilities to fulfill their obligations under the treaty."

Rusk Says Viet Peace
Depends on Red Defeat

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — South Viet Nam "will have peace when Hanoi and Peking have been taught to leave their neighbors alone," U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a welcoming crowd of 800 at Saigon airport today.

"You and those of us who are at your side must defeat their effort to impose their own misery upon you," Rusk said. "That this will be done I have not the slightest doubt, and I am here to make clear once again that we shall help you do it."

Rusk's visit, first to South Viet Nam by an American secretary of state in office, brought Saigon the tightest security arrangements ever imposed for an official American visit. The capital's normally bustling main streets were deserted except for police spaced at close intervals as the motorcade swept through to the American Embassy.

BANNERS WELCOME
Banners strung across the road from the airport read "Welcome U.S. Secretary of State."

During his two-day visit Rusk was to meet South Viet Nam's premier, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, confer with American officials and take a one-day field trip into the Mekong Delta for a look at the war against the Communist Viet Cong. He leaves for Washington Sunday.

Rusk came from Manila and Formosa and said in his brief arrival statement that "the Vietnamese people could take heart from the degree of solidarity" achieved at the Manila meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

"We agreed," he said, "that the defeat of the Communist campaign is essential not only to the security of the Republic of Viet Nam, but to that of Southeast Asia."

"We agreed that the members of SEATO should remain prepared, if necessary, to take further concrete steps within their respective capabilities to fulfill their obligations under the treaty."

between the United States and the Soviet Union.

These "two hegemonies," de Gaulle asserted, "are tending to share the world so long as Western Europe is not able to do so on her own."

De Gaulle, reaching out for more influence in world affairs, is bidding for leadership of a third force in politics, economics and culture to exist be-between the United States and the Soviet Union.

De Gaulle gave no details on how France's nuclear force is developing. There is no evidence that he has a fully operational strike unit, although the government announced late last year that atomic bombs and supersonic planes to deliver them were on production lines.

Plans are proceeding for hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific within two years.

Buick has a great transmission.

An automobile transmission, we grant you, isn't the most soul-stirring subject on earth. Nothing to look at either.

But if you'd like for your next new car to give you a better break on performance and gasoline mileage, something happened last week to your guide.

The Los Angeles to New York Mobil Economy Run proved one thing for sure. There's quite a difference in the transmissions of new cars.

Three out of four for Buick.

The long-time champion in the transmission league—Buick—walked off with the 1964 economy trophies. No other single make of car won as many awards as Buick. Four entries, three winners.

The winning Special carried the new Super Turbine 300 automatic transmission; the LeSabre was equipped with the Super Turbine 400 (both optional at extra cost). They're the latest in a long line of Buick transmissions well known for their smoothness and absence of "shift feel". The Super Turbine is a refined and improved torque converter type to help you safely pass cars and trucks as well as gas stations. You'll hear a lot about it in the next couple of years as this modern kind of transmission is adopted by more and more car builders.

What about engines?

Of course, an efficient transmission gets more efficient when teamed up with a lean, agile engine. The winning Buick power plants were our new V-6 and V-8.

The 300 cubic inch V-8 in the winning Buick Special (the lowest priced of all Buicks) and the Buick LeSabre (the lowest priced big Buick) is like a well-conditioned fighter. All muscle, no fat. Weighs 160 lbs. less than other V-8's of similar punch. It took every other V-8 in the Economy Run.

Your type of driving—regular gas. The Run was through cities and towns, across super highways, in traffic, out of traffic. This was not race track driving or moving ground driving. This was your kind of driving—even though you can't expect to get as good mileage as these expert drivers in their finely tuned production cars. The distance was 1,243 miles, about what most families log in four months. All three Buicks used regular gas.

So the Economy Run is not just a cross country tour for the Mobil people and a few car buffs. It's a reliable test of a car's power plant and what it's able to squeeze out of its fuel.

We don't expect everybody to rush out this week-end to buy a new Buick just because we won a few economy trophies. There are so many other good reasons for leaning to Buick that economy usually gets second billing. There's styling, naturally. An unusually great ride. Extraordinary engineering and workmanship. And very young performance. Small wonder Buick sales are running at 11.3% over last year.

But it's nice to get economy as a plus in a Buick. Beyond the dollars saved on gas, there's a certain pride in knowing you have a car that's built to get the most out of every tank of gasoline.

Nothing Dear, I'm a Congressman

Daddy, What Do You Do All Day?

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Every now and then, daddy gets home from work, his children will climb into his lap and ask what he does all day. If daddy gets home late, mommy may become curious about that, too. We shall confine ourselves here to the children, however. It doesn't make much difference what daddy tells mommy because she probably won't believe it anyway. Sometimes daddy finds it difficult to explain his job in a way that children will understand. This is particularly true if daddy doesn't understand it himself.

The problem varies according to occupation, but oftand I would say that the hardest job to explain is that of a congressman.

I offer in evidence a report that Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., has prepared outlining what he did at work on a recent Thursday after the House had convened at noon:

"At five minutes past noon we had a quorum call. This takes half an hour, and is a normal procedure. There is a highly extraordinary procedure under which the sergeant-at-arms is sent out to arrest the absent members.

NOT NORMAL
"Normally the majority leader moves that this procedure be dispensed with. Normally no one objects. On Thursday several people objected.

"So we had a roll call vote on whether the sergeant-at-arms should go arrest the absent members and bring them in. He was not required to do so. That vote took half an hour.

"Normally, we dispense with the reading of the minutes of the preceding day's session. On Thursday, objection was raised to this, so they were read. This took 30 minutes.

"Since this journal of the preceding day's events is hardly great literature, members drifted away.

"We had half an hour's worth of another quorum call, followed by half an hour's worth of vote on another futile attempt to make the sergeant-at-arms go arrest the absent members.

"By four o'clock in the afternoon we had had four quorum calls, two roll calls, one recess and not one iota of legislation. At quarter of five we finished reading the minutes of the previous day's session and went home."

After a day like that, what does daddy say if his children ask what he does at work?

"Sometimes," wrote Pike, "I am obliged to tell my children that where I work a lot of balding and gray-haired men sometimes sit around acting like children."

DETROIT—Minutes per hour may cause a bigger hassle than cents per hour when new contract bargaining begins in the auto industry later this year.

Some 3,000 delegates representing the 1,125,000 United Auto Workers left no doubt at their goal-setting convention in Atlantic City they want "improved working conditions" put ahead of paycheck money.

HUMANIZE FACTORIES
The first 10 pages of a resolution setting up demands to what the union said is its dehumanization "to civilize and humanize the factories and offices in which our members spend half their waking lives."

But some of the goals the UAW set down to "assert the sovereignty of human beings over machines" would cost a lot of money—many millions in a year's time. The top goal alone could cost the more prolific auto plants 20 to 40 cars a day, or 100 to 200 a week.

REST PERIODS
The No. 1 item in the union's drive will be for "rest periods" in addition to personal relief time—for all workers on assembly lines and on all other jobs where the worker is not now free to take reasonable pause from the grinding monotony of production work.

No. 2 will be the curbing of what the UAW contends "is management's constant effort" to speed up operations "with unfair production standards."

TWO NEW TYPES
Two new types of rest periods were suggested by convention speakers for production workers. One was for two 10-minute stoppages of operations in each eight-hour shift. Another was for a stop of five minutes at the end of every hour.

Newmen thus far have been unable to get the companies to put a dollars and cents cost estimate on either rest period demand.

The UAW's resolution demanding rest periods set no times, but did say:

"This is a demand for no more than parity with other workers the corporations employ. The 'coffee break' is a great American institution to which the corporations' office workers and executives are permitted to pay full respect. The nature of their work, moreover, is such that they can control their pace and take rest as they need it."

GET 2 BREAKS
Production workers now get two 12-minute periods per shift to attend to personal needs. Lines aren't stopped, however. Regular employees assigned to filling in for men on relief take over.

The automakers have fought strongly in past negotiations against any more relief time than that required for personal needs. American Motors Corp. estimated in 1961 that a five-minute noon wash-up time its employees agreed to forfeit represented a company savings of $1.5 million a year.

'SNACK SHUTDOWN'
AMC workers still get 30 minutes relief time. This includes a 10-minute "snack shutdown" of the assembly line, a shift-ending five-minute wash-up period, plus the 24 minutes workers get at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler per shift.

SPECIAL REPORT

If assembly lines were stopped in five minutes every hour, the Big Three automakers say the "down time" would cut vital production and send costs skyrocketing.

As an example, they point out that a plant such as Ford's Rouge in Dearborn, where normal production is 66 cars an hour, would lose at least five cars every hour or 40 every eight hours or 200 every 40-hour week.

COST 20 CARS
Two 10-minute "coffee breaks" would cost 20 cars a day or 100 a week.

Assuming a $2,000 wholesale factory price, the five-minute stops would cost $80,000 a day; the "coffee breaks," $40,000 a day. Put another way, one plan would cost $20 million a year; the other $10 million.

American Motors tried desperately in 1961, when current three-year UAW contracts were written, to abolish both the morning "snack time" shutdown and the five-minute end of shift wash-up on company time. But its workers refused to relinquish more than five minutes even to win the industry's first profit-sharing contract.

UAW Local 75 at AMC's Milwaukee plant, says its members are going to try and win back the five-minute noon wash-up period this year.

MORE APPLAUSE
Rank and file members who complained of working conditions in their plants won more applause than any other union speakers at the goal-setting convention. Some, claiming they were "chained to the (assembly) line," insisted there be gaps in it "to give us time to catch our breaths."

UAW president Walter P. Reuther and other officers took cognizance of the complaints and the applause. Reuther came back time and again in his many speeches to demand "better working conditions and dignity."

GIVE UP DIGNITY

At one point, the convention's resolution said:
"Workers do not give up the right to dignity and self respect when they punch the time clock, nor do they become the property of the corporations during their working hours."

And it ended the section dealing with rest periods, speedups and dignity, thus:

"Economic benefits offered in central negotiations are not, and must not be accepted as, substitutes for improvement in working conditions necessary to make the plants decent, safe and healthy places in which to work."

GREATER TROUBLE

In 1961, as in some past negotiations, all the plant contracts which cover local working conditions and supplement the national economic package caused the greater trouble.

While GM and the UAW reached a national agreement ahead of a strike deadline Sept. 6, 1961, localized strikes in support of at-plant demands virtually knocked GM out of production until Sept. 22.

An Oct. 3 national strike against Ford forced settlement at the top by Oct. 12, but reluctant locals stayed out and it was Oct. 20 before local-level settlements were reached all around.

Regulations Questioned

Ban Beatles From the U.S.?

WASHINGTON (U)—The U.S. Chamber of Commerce today derided new Labor Department regulations on foreign entertainers and wondered if the Beatles would "need the OK of a Labor Department civil servant" to visit again.

"Yeah! yeah! yeah!" the Chamber chortled in a press release calling attention to an item in its weekly newsletter "Washington Report" criticizing the regulations.

"No! no! no!" replied a Labor Department spokesman when asked if he thought the Beatles or other famous foreign entertainers would be barred from the United States by the regulations.

What caught the Chamber's eye was a requirement that certain types of temporary foreign entertainers secure government certification that there are no qualified, unemployed domestic performers capable of performing in the same capacity.

If certification is denied, the foreign entertainers cannot enter the country.

NEW OFFICES
To administer the program, said "Washington Report," three new "offices specializing in entertainers" will have to be established in three cities.

The item concluded:

"Unemployment is certainly a serious problem, however the Department of Labor appears to be concentrating their solutions in nebulous areas and only assisting the employment statistics by the amount of new civil servants that are hired to administer the project."

The Labor Department spokesman said the object of the regulation is to protect "secondary" American entertainers—chorus lines and such.

The intention certainly is not to bar foreign stars, he said, and the regulations specifically exempt "unique" talent.

The Justice Department and the Immigration Service will administer the regulations, he said, venturing the guess that they, too, would see the Beatles in that light.

Recover 2nd Body in Idaho Cave-In BURKE, Idaho (U) — Rescuers late last night recovered the body of the second miner crushed to death in a cave-in Wednesday in Idaho's biggest zinc mine.

The body of 48-year-old Barney McCoy, Wallace, Idaho, had been located at midmorning yesterday, but debris in the deep shaft of the star mine stalled recovery efforts.

The body of his companion, Reed Peck, 41, also from the Wallace area, was brought to the surface about five hours after the shaft caved in following earth slippage in the tunnel area.

2-Headed Calf in Utah Alive After 9 Days

THATCHER, Utah (AP) — A Holstein heifer that looks at the world through four eyes and has two mouths and noses was nine days old yesterday.

Most experts give the two-headed calf two weeks to live, but farmer Floyd W. Adams says the calf is getting stronger and exercises in a special sling he had devised.

The heads are complete and are joined in the middle of the forehead.

Argentine Unions Call Strike, Rally

BUENOS AIRES (U) — Argentina's General Confederation of Labor (CGT) called an eight-hour work stoppage and anti-government rally in Buenos Aires today to press for higher pay and curbs on the spiraling cost of living.

The union leaders, many of them supporters of former dictator Juan D. Peron, asked for a mammoth outpouring of workers before the National Congress Building this afternoon.

The strike and rally are part of the confederation's "fighting plan" to prod the government to double the minimum wage, adopt a sliding scale geared to prices, hike pensions, scrap "repressive" legislation and provide other benefits.

Agents Find $150,000 in Bogus $20 Bills

DETROIT (AP) — The Secret Service uncovered more than 7,500 counterfeit $20 bills hidden under a pile of old clothes in a house Thursday. The U.S. Attorney's office at Detroit said the home occupants were not aware of the cache. Fake $20 bills have turned up frequently of late in the Detroit area.

Labor studies indicate that by 1970 only about five per cent of the jobs in the nation will be in the unskilled classification.

Hold Women's Conference

Oakland University will present a second all-day conference for women May 20. A sequel to last year's "Woman's Place in This Perplexing Century," the 1964 session is titled, "Woman's Choices in This Confusing Century."

A unique feature of the luncheon session will be party line dialogue with Betty Friedman, author of "The Feminine Mystique."

SPEAKS FROM NEW YORK
Mrs. Friedman will speak via a special telephone hook-up from New York City. After a short preview of her soon-to-be published second book, she will answer questions from the audience at OU by means of portable microphones and loudspeakers.

Keynoters of the conference during the morning will be Dr. Gertrude Zemon Gass and Dr. Robert O. Blood Jr.
Dr. Gass, a psychologist in the counseling and psychotherapy department of Merrill Palmer Institute, will discuss "The Identity Problem: A Woman's View of Herself."

"Women Inside and Outside the Home" will be the subject of Dr. Blood's speech. He is an associate professor of sociology at the University of Michigan and the author of several books on marriage.

In the afternoon participants may attend two discussion sessions on the choices women have.

These will be directed by panelists representing colleges, personnel departments, industry, psychologists and volunteer service bureaus.

BROCHURES

Brochures for the conference will be available after today. Further information may be had from the department of continuing education at Oakland University.
Priscilla Jackson of OU is again the coordinator of the conference on women.

They visited Hawaii, Japan, Formosa, Hong Kong, Thailand, Burma, India, Ceylon, Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon, Turkey, Greece, Austria, Southern France, and Spain.

The Saturday dinner will reflect the international trip as each hostess centers her hospitality around one part of the world.

The Alton J. Deusters' home will be decorated Hawaiian style for cocktails and hors d'oeuvres.

ORIENTAL THEME

An oriental theme will complement the main course to be served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Hayes.

Music Always First With Ruth S. Wylie

By MADELINE DOEREN

Seventy pounds of charcoal-colored French poodle named Jasper barked a lusty welcome as Dr. Ruth Shaw Wylie opened her new home on Long Lake Shores Drive for a recent interview.

Since 1949, she has been professor of composition and theory in the music department, College of Liberal Arts, at Wayne State University.

Her most recent paper on theory will be read today at the American Musicological Society divisional symposium at WSU.

It is programmed along with Dr. Wylie's "Sonata for Viola and Piano" during the University of Kansas Festival of Fine Arts, April 26-28, in Lawrence, Kansas.

Answering our query about a composer's reactions to her own work at a concert, Dr. Wylie admitted getting a "big bang" out of it.

SOUNDS DIFFERENT

"However," she continued, "It rarely sounds as the idea was conceived when written. The tempo may lag and the balance may be so limited."

Dr. Wylie is a graduate of WSU and the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester.

She belongs to the Michigan Composers' Club, Phi Beta

Alpha Alpha Slates Sale

Alpha Alpha chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority will sponsor a benefit sale on Saturday to aid their state project, "The Fenton Welfare Fund."

The sale will be from 8:30 a.m. until noon in the U.R.W. Hall on West Pike Street.

On the spring agenda are the Founders' Day luncheon, April 25 in Sylvan Glen Inn and Golf Club, also the state convention May 1-3 in Jackson.

Delegates are Mrs. Albert Anselmi and Mrs. William Kay.

The annual jewel pin dinner, May 14, in the Fox and Hounds Inn, Bloomfield Hills, was announced by Mrs. Kay, rushing chairman.

Hostesses for the Thursday meeting in the '300 Lounge' were Mrs. Anthony Grand and Mrs. Grace E. Sutton.

Kappa, American Association of University Professors, Mu Phi Epsilon sorority, Delta Sigma Rho Forensic Society and the Music Teachers' National Association.

Living with another career woman in a colonial-ranch-type home with contemporary interior and furnishings, Dr. Wylie relaxes at the badminton court behind her house.

KEEP ACTIVE

The gals practice golf there and paddle down the inlet to Upper Long Lake for a swim. In winter, they play hockey and skate, ice permitting.

It took a lot of woman-power to haul the railroad ties which form steps from the patio to the Japanese garden, this summer's project.

Both women are "rock hounds" and polish rocks, stones and driftwood in the lapidary shop in the garage.

PAINTS, TOO

Pressed about her ability at the easel Dr. Wylie considers painting strictly an avocation although she has exhibited.

She works in water colors, pen and ink and pastels.

"We do eat here but I wouldn't call it cooking," Dr. Wylie confided as we asked about favorite recipes. Coming in late from the classes at Wayne, she is tired and usually "ships up" something on the broiler.

Dr. Ruth Shaw Wylie of Long Lake Shores Drive looks over the score for her composition "Spring Quartet No. III" which has had four Detroit performances and one at Iowa University. In the background is one of her freehand pen-and-ink drawings.

Names Draw Response

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: The woman who was "DISGUSTED" because her son and his wife named their little boy "HARRY" after having named their first two boys "TOM" and "DICK" apparently has never heard of the famous BYRD brothers of Virginia.

TOM was a very successful fruit farmer and businessman who looked after his family's interests. "DICK" was none other than the famous explorer, ADMIRAL BYRD of South Pole fame.

And "HARRY" has been a United States Senator for many years.

PROUD VIRGINIAN

DEAR ABBY: What's wrong with naming three sons TOM, DICK and HARRY? I named our first son Dick.

The second boy I named after his father, whose name was Harry. Then everyone kept asking me, "Where's Tom?"

So, when we had our third son, "That settles it. There's Tom!" I can't see where there was anything "disgraceful" about it.

MRS. H. H. SKANEATELES, N. Y.

DEAR ABBY: If that grandma got all steamed up over her daughter-in-law naming her three sons, TOM, DICK and HARRY, I wonder what she would have thought of the woman in our town who named her three daughters, FAITH, HOPE and CHARITY.

MOLLY IN BALTIMORE

DEAR ABBY: Speaking of inflicting peculiar names on helpless infants, my cousin in Birmingham named her daughters, DAISY, PETUNIA, GLADIOLA and ZINNIA.

The next time she expected a baby, she was all set to add another flower to her garden of girls, but the baby was a boy.

It didn't stop her. She went ahead and named him IRIS. How do you like that?

WILLIE MAE IN MONTGOMERY

DEAR WILLIE: The boy was lucky she didn't name him PANSY.

DEAR ABBY: I was interested in the mother's comment about her son naming his three boys TOM, DICK and HARRY.

I think all three names are sensible. What would she think of a trio of little girls in Independence, Mo., who were named WELCOME, JOY and PLENTY? (Their father named the last one.)

LOVING GRANDMOTHER

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-four years ago I married a man named Harry.

He had two brothers whose names were Tom and Dick. Tell "Disgusted" not to worry.

If her son's boys turn out to be half as wonderful as these three boys, she will be lucky.

LAURALEE SHERWOOD

The Larry Sherwoods of Elinore Drive announce the engagement of their daughter Lauralee to Peter Marshall, son of the Harold H. Marshalls of Roslyn Heights, N. Y. She is a senior at Michigan State University.

Obviously the big fashion news here is the sleeveless blazer. It's made of crisp cotton gabardine and looks great with a pleated white arnel skirt. The top comes in royal blue or red with white contrast detail, or in white with red detail. This admiral's club group is available locally for about $10 for skirt and $10 for blazer.

For important afternoons, Toni Lynn designs this charming coat and dress ensemble for expectant mothers. The sleeveless Chanel coat is fashioned in crisp white pique and trimmed in Chanel fashion with black soutache braiding. The empire dress complements the coat in a woven cotton black and white checked fabric. Available locally in sizes 6 to 18 for about $23.

Patterns for Wallpaper's Cut Up Spots

Scraps of wall spaces between windows and doors and other cut up areas in the house present a real problem for the home decorator.

The United Wallpaper Company of Chicago suggests this solution: Use an all-over patterned paper, always choosing the small Provincial or closely packed type of design.

Such paper will bring color and decoration into the room and yet it will not dominate the small wall areas.

The home decorator should remember that large patterns will be cut up by the small walls, and that their very size makes them unsuitable for the small room.

Also, you may want to use small patterns for cupboard areas, bookcase backs, strips of wall over windows, and little patches of wall that present a problem.

An example would be a room containing a brick fireplace and partial wall, with beamed ceiling, doors and other wall area paneled in knotty pine. Here it would be best to choose a small Provincial pattern for the awkward room areas which need decorating. A braid rug on the floor would complete the mood.

In selecting your wallpaper, keep in mind that the closer the painted areas repeat the colors in the wallpaper, the more harmoniously unified the room will appear.

For Poison Ivy

Geologist Edward A. Gribbi, Jr., whose work has involved considerable experience with poison ivy, recommends that a "victim" wash the inside of his watch band with soap and water after contact with that plant.

Laura Condon (left) of Canterbury Drive, Sister Joseph, and Tom Browning of Fernbarry Drive prepare for "St. Ben's Family Frolic" tomorrow from 4 to 8 p.m. Sponsored by the St. Gertrude Auxiliary of St. Benedict Catholic Church, the affair has Mrs. August Boucher as general chairman and Mrs. Francis Albrecht as cochairman. Committee chairmen who have correlated arrangements include Mrs. Jay Stockwell, Mrs. Delmar Biallas, Mrs. Frank Bates, Mrs. Steve Condon, Mrs. Lionel Frieberg and Mrs. Grant Browning.

Silent Helper for Cleaning

When you open wide the windows and let in the clean fresh air of spring, it encourages you to tackle spring cleaning right away. You'll want to do it the quickest and the easiest way possible. That means enlisting the home-maker's silent helper; 3 tablespoonful of liquid chlorine bleach in each quart of warm water.

Now tackle the bathroom, kitchen, woodwork, linoleum floors, and everything washable for a spring-clean house. If stubborn stains persist, keep area wet with the solution for about 5 minutes. Rinse off and dry well.

Why Grow Old?

Your build and your silhouette should decide what kind of accessories you wear, and where you should place them to be most flattering. Pins are popular this year to personalize a suit or a dress. If your shoulders are wide, place the pin close to the inner edge of your jacket and below your collar bone. If you are a small woman with a small face, set the pin midway between your shoulder and neck and as high as it will look well.

If your suit is plain, but has flap pockets with no buttons, attach a large interesting pin to one of the flaps. Place it on an upper flap if you are short and on a lower flap if you are tall.

As a general rule, if your suit is plain and only trimmed with braid you can use a big splashy pin (unless you are very short) or a set of smaller pins that come in so many colors. But if your suit has four flap pockets and gold buttons or important frog closings, one small pin is best.

Never wear dangle earrings with a very short-stranded necklace. It presents a top-heavy look. Either forego the earrings or balance them with long strands of beads. This is especially important if you have a round face or a short neck.

CONTRASTING COLOR Scarves bloom like flowers in the spring. If your suit has too much braid and too many buttons to warrant jewelry, a scarf of a contrasting color, tucked in the neckline, adds a touch of individuality.

WMU Students Start Teaching

Three area Western Michigan University seniors are among some 750 who are taking part in the student teaching program in southwestern Michigan schools during spring semester.

They are preparing for careers in teaching under the direction of experienced teachers in the cooperating school systems.

Allen Howze, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Howze of Dittmar Avenue, is student teaching in the 6th grade at the Westwood School in Kalamazoo.

STUDENT TEACHING: Douglas Sparlock, son of the Roland Sparlocks of Pingree Avenue, is student teaching in government and history classes at Bangor High School. He will also work in the area of special education in the Kalamazoo school system.

Student teaching in the 1st grade at the Barclay Hill School in Parchment is Sharon Thornton. Her parents are the E. Earl Thorntons of Upper Straits Boulevard.

Ruth Ann Kramp, daughter of the L. Stuart Kramps of Cutler Avenue, was recently elected secretary of the 1964-5 senior class at Western Michigan University.

R. KRAMP She resides in Moore Hall and is corresponding secretary of Chi Omega sorority and member of the Tri Beta Biological honorary fraternity.

Jeanne Salathiel, daughter of the Lyndon Salathiels of Shore View Drive has been voted into membership of Gamma Delta Alpha, senior women's honorary at Alma College.

HOPE COLLEGE Leonard Dorey, a junior at Hope College, Holland, has been named to the dean's list for outstanding academic achievement during the past semester.

Mr. Dorey is the son of Mrs. Esther Dorey of Sarasota Avenue and the late Mr. Dorey.

Sharon Lynn A. Gerzanic, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gerzanic Jr. of Ascut Street, a senior at University of Michigan, has been accepted in the Phi Beta Kappa national honor society.

Special Method for Cashmere

Careful washing will keep your cashmere sweaters looking their best for years. Use lukewarm water with only a trifle of detergent. Squeeze the sweater gently like a pair of nylons. Pat dry in a heavy bath towel, then shape and spread flat in a warm place until almost dry. Press under a thin cloth. When bone dry (the next day) place on a latex foam rubber padded hanger. This will eliminate wire marks and unsightly stretching. Fine wool sweaters should be hung up so they can breathe — never store in a plastic bag, as this dries and dulls the material.

Hear ye! An Authentic Colonial Design ...

Old Colonial
TOWLE
STERLING

We're happy we can make this lovely old favorite available to you now. First introduced in 1895, it's one of the most beloved patterns in Towle's history. Old Colonial is completely individual because it is the only decorated Colonial pattern, in sterling. No other Colonial pattern has a pierced top and delicate beading running down the length of the handle. Such details, and more, give Old Colonial the distinction that has made it so popularly American for almost 70 years!

Let's Knit
Mohair Collar on Coat

Be daring! Choose for this coat a bright orange, light blue, or any of the many beautiful fashion shades that are now available.

To Get the Point
To sharpen a sewing machine needle, place a piece of fine sandpaper on the machine and sew a few stitches through it.

We used a worsted yarn for this garment, a mohair for the collar and buttons. This brought the cost for the yarn of the coat to approximately $24.00 — or perhaps you wish to knit this entire garment in a mohair to make it even dressier.

Also, if you would like a very large collar for a dramatic effect, add a few inches onto the basic collar.

Instructions for % coat No. 32 come in sizes 10 through 20. All sizes are included on one pattern.

Pattern for % coat No. 32 may be obtained by sending $1.00 by check, currency, or money order to:

How to Choose a Tablecloth

When selecting a tablecloth first know the size of the table on which it will be used. Many tablecloths are not preshrunk and a certain amount of shrinkage can be expected after laundering. Also make sure that the colors and prints are colorfast so that the cloth can be laundered without fear of fading or bleeding of color.

If you're thinking of buying embroidered tablecloths, place mats, or napkins, make sure you're getting embroidery. Some "embroidery" is only glued to the fabric, one washing can loosen the backing and cause the design to come off. Check the wrong side of the fabric for embroidery threads. If they are present, the embroidery is genuine.

History in Limelight

"Historical Night," an annual affair sponsored by the Pontiac Association for Childhood Education was held Tuesday.

In recognition of the third grade studies program, "Pontiac Yesterday and Today," it was witnessed by a capacity audience at Daniel Whitfield School.

Herrington, Webster and Whitfield students participated in the event.

Sandra Thomson, Mrs. William Gokay, Alva Flake, Mrs. Booker Vancay and Mrs. Everett Cooke were responsible for planning and directing the program.

Mrs. William Cheal, elementary vocal instructor, assisted with musical arrangements while Mrs. Carl Barton served as piano accompanist.

Ophelia Harmon and Mrs. John Buchanan assisted principal Vida Walker with hospitality.

The annual ACE breakfast is scheduled for May 8. TV personality Carol Duval will entertain at the affair in Devon Gables.

Gladys Stewart of the Lansing branch will report on the ACE international convalesce held recently at Portland, Oregon.

Now Detergents Remain Clean in Waterways

A decade of research by producers of detergents and suppliers of ingredients has come up with a way to prevent detergent-caused foam on streams and rivers.

Newly developed "soft" detergents will replace all slow-to-decompose detergents by the end of 1965. These improved products, sold under familiar names, will retain all the cleaning power of present brands — and at no extra cost.

However, even when the detergent industry voluntarily change-over has been completed next year, not all water problems will be alleviated.

Due to increased population and industrial production, many existing water and sewage treatment facilities are inadequate. Many communities will still need to take corrective steps to satisfactorily solve the over-all problem of water pollution, so that every American can enjoy pure water.

Suds for Support

The latest spandex girdles with wide lace panels combine lightweight comfort with firm control.

Since any foundation "relaxes" after a day's wear, laundering in soap or detergent suds after every wearing will snap it back to shape and restore its snug fit.

Sore Feet Are Worth the Effort

While it's not likely that a sweet young thing ever slapped a stalwart youth for staring at her feet, she should have. Unless, of course, she had incited his brashness by wearing high heels or painting her toenails.

In a series of articles in a recent issue of "Shoe and Shoe Recorder," the relationship of shoes and sex is discussed. Psychiatrists and scientists have confirmed "that ness. This in turn is supposed to incite male chivalry.

HIGH HEELS
Since the earliest times, when women grew accustomed to wearing high heels, we have been delightedly aware that the heels cause a woman's hips to sway and her skirts swing back and forth.

The high heel also accentuates the contours of the leg and ankle. The combination of all this has a hypnotic effect on the male eye.

The sensuous effects of the high heel; the throwing of shoes at bride and groom at a wedding; drinking champagne from a frail feminine shoe; the immortality of the Cinderella story are all examples of how the shoe got its foot in the door of history.

MEN STARTED IT
But, as usual, the men started it. It was the male throughout history who was first to exploit footwear for its role in attracting the opposite sex. Up until the end of the 18th century, the male wore the more ornate shoes and wore the heels, up to six inches high. Almost every style of footwear worn today by American women originated in men's footwear: the sandal, pump, mule, slipper, oxford, strap, moccasin, etc.

But the elegantly plumed male of yesterday who wore shoes to match has been replaced by the modern man wearing brogue-type shoes in somber colors and plain designs. All this is to project the subtle sex image of strong masculinity preferred by modern men.

HISTORICAL OBJECT
Since the beginning of civilization the human foot has been painted, scented, tattooed and decorated with bangles, rings, bells and garlands to focus attention to its erotic attractions. Today it's no different.

While all this may seem vaguely amusing it gives us pause to think that it may be just as sexually unacceptable to be flat-footed as to be flat-chested.

Proposal Psychology

Don't Rush Him, Girls

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE S-498: Delores B., aged 32, is the girl who has been engaged for over a year to a bachelor, aged 37.

"Dr. Crane," she continued, about that "minor decision" strategy.

"For I never had any experience in the sales field, so it is new to me."

In selling, it is usually best to ease gracefully into the crucial "dotted line" stage. After a smooth sales presentation, therefore, a star salesman doesn't rudely shatter the semi-hypnotic trance by baldly demanding:

"Well, take it or leave it! Do you want it or don't you?"

No, indeed, for that would arouse caution and subconscious warnings that are negative.

"Maybe I better sleep over this decision," would then be a typical reaction of the prospect. So the professional salesman gently commits the prospect by casually asking him questions with two answers.

Thus, instead of asking "Do you want it or don't you?" the salesman inquires:

"Would you rather have shipment by express or by freight?"

Note that his answer to that question doesn't actually commit the prospect at all. But it starts him into the habit of saying "Yes."

"Would you prefer to pay by the month or give us a check on delivery?" is another query that illustrates the "minor decision."

Before long, the prospect is so far along the "Yesing trail" that he can't back up.

Then the smart salesman will smile, offer his pen, and suggest:

"Now if you'll just O.K. this down here, we'll have delivery on the date you wished."

Please observe that the salesman even then uses the milder term "O.K.," instead of "Sign."

For that word "Sign" has a suggestive nuance that suggests "Legal contract" and thus may start subconscious negative thoughts.

Well, you girls should all take a good course in salesmanship, for winning a wedding ring is a real sales job.

In fact, I used to steer scores of grads at Northwestern and George Washington Universities into my big classes on the "Psychology of Sales and Advertising."

For the coeds then learned not only how to employ that delectable "minor decision," but they also were surrounded by an excess of men!

For the men outnumbered the coeds probably 2 to 1. Girls, it is smart strategy to enroll in courses primarily aimed toward men for in that way you enhance your chances of a wedding ring!

Indeed, you can then lean upon an attractive male classmate for help in solving the homework problems, since you can profess to know little about such masculine topics.

Polly's Pointers

Put Oil in Baby Bath

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I found it too expensive to put baby lotion all over my four-months-old baby after each bath and again when we started out into spring winds. I know she needed some type of oil on her skin, so I put a few drops of baby oil in her bath water and save the complete lotion bath for going out.

The oil-in-water treatment does not leave her greasy yet her skin never feels dry and rough.

Another thing I discovered is to hang rubber pants by each leg after they are washed. All the water drips out instead of collecting in the seat. — MRS. R. W.

father was ill for several weeks and could not stand the weight of blankets on his legs.

Me made a tent-like arrangement at the foot of the bed to keep his legs warm without the blankets touching him.

He had a reclining hospital bed and a string was tied to the top of the footrail and a snap clothespin fastened to the string. The clothespin was then snapped to the bed covers to hold them up. — BRENDA.

DEAR POLLY—My hint is a painless way to teach little ones the ABC's of good manners and common courtesy.

I did not realize my children had picked them up sooner than others until my eldest daughter's kindergarten teacher mentioned how well mannered and courteous she is.

Then I noticed how often other neighborhood mothers said that my four-year-old son, who is all boy, remembers to be polite. Say "Thank you" even to a baby and he will pick it up. "Please" is another byword in our home.

Another nicely was taught by saying "last in, first out" when a batch of cookies was being passed out to the neighborhood children. Our son soon picked up this.

Using a soup spoon correctly seems such fun that now the children wait soup for lunch every day. — MRS. J. W. W.

Financial Plan for Couples Sharing Home

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley: Would you please help us in setting up a working plan of finances for two couples combining resources.

My husband and I own our own home, mortgage free. We would have taxes, insurance, upkeep, plus utilities. We have a monthly income of approximately $184 to $200.

The other FEELEY couple from another state would have about $150 monthly, but will sell their home valued at approximately $16,000, will move bedroom furniture plus some other pieces here.

We have a half-acre garden, fruit trees, grape vines, strawberries and asparagus beds. We plan to make this change soon. How do you think we should arrange our living expenses?

Mrs. R.C.W., Dahlgren, Va. Dear Mrs. W.: I'd say the fairest way would be to figure up taxes, utilities, upkeep, and insurance, and see how the total of these items compares with the rent your friends would have to pay in a house of their own. I should guess they'd come out comfortably if they paid those expenses — then both of you split household operating costs and food right down the middle.

Assuming the four of you can eat on about $30 a week, combining resources — which you can if you want to — you and your husband would spend about $65 a month for meals.

On a monthly income of $184, taking your basic figure, you'd have $119 to cover such expenses as personal allowances, gifts and contributions, clothing, car operation if any, personal insurance, medical costs, savings, and your share of household operating costs.

LOWER INCOME

While your friends have a lower income than you do, they will have the extra padding of profit from the sale of their house.

Get together with them and put everything down on paper. Unless every item and dollar is accounted for to everybody's satisfaction, you may get into a hassle later on.

Dear Miss Feeley: I read and enjoy your column and thought perhaps you could give me some good advice. I am a widow, age 50, with one child who will complete his schooling this spring and has a good job waiting. I have a good secretarial job and have worked almost my whole life, which I enjoy.

Due to my late husband's work — traveling — we have lived in apartments. I think I would like to buy a house but my friends tell me I'm crazy.

What do you think I should pay for one? I have $25,000 in cash in savings and bonds. I receive a monthly pension of $165, my salary of $300, plus interest from the $25,000.

I have paid up life insurance of $4,500. I drive a '58 model car and I pay rent, plus utilities, for my apartment.

I realize I am not getting any younger and I admit I think about when I get older. I don't want to be a burden on anyone and I do want to live wisely. Your comments will be most appreciated.

Mrs. E.R.H., New Orleans

Dear Mrs. H.: A lot of people buy their first home at your age — because that's the first time in life they're in a position to afford it. So go ahead and enjoy it. However, don't invest every last penny you've got in the purchase.

How about a house between $12,000 and $14,000. With the financial security you now have, you might find it better to make a larger downpayment than usual — say, $5,000 — and set up a 10-year mortgage at 5 1/2 per cent. This would put your monthly payments at $65.12 — less than your present rent.

This is as it should be, since you will have expenses when you're home-owner which you don't have now — taxes, insurance, upkeep.

Choose your new house with an eye for easy re-sale. You might actually have rent-free living for these next 10 years, if you decide to sell at the end of that time and could sell at the price you paid for it.

While this may be the last thing in your mind right now, it's just one angle to consider.

In the meantime, the balance of your savings will grow. Your pension will continue and your Social Security added to it, when the time comes, could sustain you.

(You can write to Mary Feeley in care of The Pontiac Press. She will answer questions of widest interest in her column.)

English Biscuits Are Cookies to Americans

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

We're still giving you recipes from those delightful cooks who belong to the Queen Mary Section of the Needlework Guild.

Mrs. Henry Milligan shares with readers her recipe for Empire Biscuits. In England, you know, cookies are called biscuits.

EMPIRE BISCUITS

By Mrs. Henry Milligan

1/2 pound of butter

1 cup sugar

1 egg

3 cups flour

1/2 teaspoon soda

1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar

Cream butter and sugar together, add beaten egg. Sift dry ingredients together and add gradually to form a soft dough. Let chill if desired to make rolling easier.

Roll thin and cut with cookie cutter. Bake at 375 degrees for 8-10 minutes. Cool on racks.

Put a spoonful of jelly on one biscuit; cover with a second one. Spread top with plain white icing and garnish with cherries or nuts.

Communist Party Dreams of Comeback in U.S.

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The Communist party in the United States is sick, but still dreaming of a comeback. In the last of four articles on the state of the party today, an AP specialist tells of its hopes to seduce youth and capture the civil rights movement.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Communist party of the United States dreams of a comeback for its desperately sick organization.

Gus Hall, current leader of a few thousand leftovers from the once-feared organization, appears to hope his party can zero in on two aspects of American life: youthful restlessness and the civil rights uproar.

Hall is believed planning a convention this summer, possibly in Chicago, to form a Marxist youth group—avoiding the label "Communist." The party, old and tired and plagued by defections, is desperate for young blood.

Since 1961, often using a discreet form of academic blackmail, the party has pushed a campus drive for recruits. Between 1961 and 1963, leading Communists made 91 speeches in 80 educational institutions across the country.

Apparently Hall felt this was successful enough to warrant an attempt to form a "Labor Youth League" under Mortimer Daniel Danny Rubin, the party's National Youth chairman.

STUDENT HEARINGS
How do Communist leaders get their student hearings? They send out offers to appear as speakers. If these are refused, they make a campus issue of it, accusing the institution of opposing free speech and academic freedom. It can cause enough fuss to work.

From a speakers' bureau in New York, Communist leaders travel on expense accounts across the country seeking out youthful material.

Speakers include Hall himself, aging Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, a veteran of the party's earliest days; Danny Rubin; Negro leader Benjamin Davis Jr., who was once a New York City councilman, and others.

They get student audiences. Many attend out of curiosity, many to jeer. Possibly the party picks up some recruits in the process.

CIVIL RIGHTS
Another rescue attempt lies in a civil rights drive. Communists try to infiltrate organizations, take part in demonstrations, use eruptions of violence, claim credit for supporting the Negro cause and, where possible, publicize violence as the result of "white terror."

"The civil rights front is that on which the main battles are being fought today," says Hall, a tough, bulky former lumberjack who has spent 30 of his 53 years in prisons or under indictment. "It must at all times receive our top attention."

NO OFFICERS
Hall calls himself "leading spokesman." The party ostensibly has no general secretary, though Hall was elected to the post in 1959. Nor does it, ostensibly, have any other officers.

This is a legal dodge to escape responsibility under the Internal Security Act.

Hall, former party chairman in the Midwest, is a Minnesota product of Finnish descent, born Arvo Mike Halberg. He was one of the party 12 sentenced to prison for advocating violent overthrow of the government.

MEXICAN JUNKET

He jumped bail, dyed his hair, had a telltale wart removed from his neck and skipped to Mexico.

Apprehended and returned, he served extra time for his flight, and was released from prison in 1957. Today he is under indictment again and facing a possible 30 years for refusing to register the Communist party as a Communist-action group. His fate awaits action of the higher courts.

Hall's program for 1964 reads like a Communist dream world. The idea: there must be "left formations" to help elect "new forward-looking progressive congressmen and senators as well as members of state government bodies."

By progressive, Communists mean people who can be duped and used, but Hall fails to explain how the Communists will get their men elected.

LITTLE SUPPORT

Among Negroes, the party has practically no support. Recent defectors say the Negro membership is a handful. But what the party seems to hope for is the opportunity to influence Negro leaders who carry the civil rights ball. They'd like to place Communist cadres close to that leadership.

How is the party financing its current activity?

There was a time when it did not lack for money. What it couldn't collect from its various enterprises, Moscow would provide. There seems to be precious little money from Moscow today.

BUSINESS FRONTS

The party probably still has business enterprises set up under cover fronts. It still collects money from contributions. It still gets money from stray, left-leaning millionaires fascinated by communism.

About 160 Communist fronts still under FBI surveillance are potential sources of funds. But the party remains in deep trouble. The Russians long have seemed to regard it with contempt. Moscow no longer seems to want it as a source for spies. Perhaps it's because the FBI knows too much about the party.

NEEDS PARTY

But Moscow needs a U.S. Communist party. Recently, Moscow solemnly hailed the party and its newspaper, on the Worker's 40th anniversary, and paid tribute to Hall.

Today he is portrayed by Moscow as an American patriot persecuted by U.S. "ruling circles." For Soviet internal consumption, Moscow needs the fiction of a significant U.S. Communist party.

I tried to get Hall to comment on what the ex-Communists were saying about his party. He was "too busy," he said, and referred me to his "public relations man," a Communist named Arnold Johnson who once was Hall's party boss in Ohio.

I told Johnson the ex-Communists were saying the party is practically dead and that I wanted Hall's comment on this. "You're trying to blackmail us," he replied.

There was no other comment.

Rose Tree Excellent in Garden

If you wish to attract special attention to any particularly pleasing part of your property, or to dress up and dignify an obscure corner, plant tree roses.

Tree roses are the most stately of all.

Even planted in the midst of your rose or other garden they will attract the eye immediately.

What is a tree rose? It is, in effect, a small tree trunk usually three to four feet in height with what looks like a lovely bouquet of roses growing at the top.

The kind of flowers may be hybrid tea, floribunda, grandiflora or climber.

FLOWER KIND

The kind of flowers is determined by the type which the grower "buds" to the trunk.

Tree roses are wonderful accent plants because of the sharp contrast between the trunk and the flowers, which sometimes seem to be a beautiful bouquet of roses suspended in space, depending on how and where the plant is set out.

Tree roses in pots or tubs especially do marvels in beautifying a garden patio, porch or any other area used for dining and entertainment.

They probably will cause more comments from guests.

Tree roses usually are available only from nurseries, including quality garden centers.

Black Plastic Improves Growth of Rose Bushes

A 1,000-mile carpet of black plastic is being laid over 600 acres of farm land in Arizona's Maricopa Valley to improve the growth of nearly 12 million rose bushes.

The plastic, laid at the daily rate of 250,000 feet of film in 12-inch strips, eliminates weeds, keeps the ground warm and conserves moisture at the Jackson & Perkins rose ranch.

A specially designed machine unrolls the plastic, covers the edges with earth to hold them down and punches holes at six-inch intervals.

Traveling four miles an hour, it lays four rows simultaneously, 48 inches apart.

Then automation ends. Workmen place stems from wild rose plants in the holes.

T-SHAPED SLITS

A year later, the workers make T-shaped slits in the bark an inch from the ground.

Then budding eyes taken from modern rose varieties are slipped into the cuts and secured with rubber bands.

The desired variety grows out of this graft.

Eventually, the top of the wild plant is cut off so that all the nourishment from the wild root system flows into the new stem.

For exhibition blossoms, pinch off the smaller side roses buds, leaving the strong terminal bud to develop.

Terrace's Lovely View Reveals Rose Garden

If you want a lovely garden view from your terrace, plant roses.

All modern roses are ever-blooming, with two heavy-flowering periods from spring to frost, while flowering all summer long.

Bright-colored flowers are the vogue this year. Some of the most brilliant colors of all time recently have been introduced to cause exclamations of surprise and pleasure from guests.

Rose catalogues feature a tremendous range in colors with reds, oranges, pinks, yellows and whites of various shades. Lavenders are included.

No one ever has produced a blue rose and geneticists say it can't be done but there are

Many Municipalities Have Rose Gardens

There are several hundred large municipal rose gardens in the United States, as well as many smaller ones.

The large municipal rose gardens are visited by millions of people, who select for their own plantings the labeled varieties they see and admire.

Contrary to the general belief, roses are not difficult to grow. They, like people, have their likes and dislikes. Once you understand and heed their peculiarities, you will be rewarded with unsurpassed beauty.

Roses like a medium to heavy loam with an abundance of organic matter. This does not mean if you have sand that you can't grow roses. You can, but your soil will need tending to before you plant.

You will have to incorporate large amounts of organic matter such as compost, peat moss, or well-rotted manure into the soil. During dry periods you will have to be extra careful to see that your roses receive adequate water.

If your soil requires drainage, you will also have to do some work before planting. Roses don't like wet feet.

By mixing coarse cinders with the subsoil and raising the level of the flower bed, your problem should be solved. If the drainage situation is extremely bad, drain tiles may have to be installed.

They offer a thrilling new garden experience for the family as well as for guests.

Roses—Monarchs of the Flower World

Plant Dormant Roses for June Color

By JODY HEADLEE

April is the time to start thinking about June roses.

For glorious blooms in summer, you must plant dormant bushes in spring, the earlier the better. As soon as the soil is workable and your plants are delivered, it's time to go to work.

The large municipal rose gardens are visited by millions of people, who select for their own plantings the labeled varieties they see and admire.

top performance. Morning and afternoon sun, with shade during the heat of the day, is the ideal situation.

Assuming that you have solved your soil and sunshine problems, you are ready to plant your dormant bushes.

Dig holes large enough to allow each bush's roots to spread naturally.

Though it's been said many times, it's still true. It's better to plant a 50-cent rose in a 5-dollar hole, than a 5-dollar rose in a 50-cent hole. The roots must have room to stretch out and grow.

Unwrap your plants. Remove the paper and packing material gently. It is necessary to preserve as many of the roots as possible so that your plants can withstand the shock of being transplanted.

Check for broken or skinned roots. They should be cut off with sharp shears. Injured roots, if not properly cared for, can be the seat of disease and decay.

Fill a bucket with water. Place the bare-rooted bushes in the water until you are ready to put them in the ground.

At the bottom of a dug hole, mix with the soil approximately three handfuls of peat moss or compost. Build up a small cone in the center with the loose mixture. This will serve as a support to the roots' crown.

Take a plant out of the water bucket and rest it on the soil cone, spreading the roots out spokewise. Be sure that the joint (bud union) will be one to two inches below the top of the soil.

Place enough loose soil on top of the roots to hold the bush erect. Fill the hole with water. Add the remaining dirt, a little at a time, working the plant slowly from side to side to force out any air bubbles. As the water settles it will let the fine soil settle tightly about the roots.

Mound soil around rose canes to a height of about 8-10 inches. Allow this protective mound to remain in place for 10 days to two weeks. It will prevent excessive drying of the canes before the roots recuperate from their transplanting shock.

When the protection is no longer needed, remove. Leave a shallow saucer of earth about the base of the plant to collect water.

Prune each stem to about six inches from the ground. The cut should be made with sharp clippers just above a leaf bud that points outward from the plant. The next branch will then grow away from the center, allowing the sun in and air to circulate freely.

The cut should be made in a slanting direction so that any water will drain off the wound. A drop or two of clear nail polish will seal the wound immediately against insects and disease.

Sprinkle one cup of commercial fertilizer, 5-10-5, in a wide circle around the center stem. Work into the soil. Water it down and you're ready to start work on the next lot.

Hybrid perpetual varieties should be planted no closer than 2 1/2 feet apart; hybrid teas, polyanthus and floribundas 18-24 inches; and climbers 6-8 feet.

'Roses for Love'

Husbands Help Tradition

Young husbands carry through the tradition of "Roses for Love" by giving their wives rose gardens that supply the family with rose blooms for many years.

A few newly developed plants are added to the garden each year.

In this way it costs no more than a bouquet of cut roses once a year, yet hundreds of blooms are available anywhere from five to twelve months each year depending on the climate.

Often gifts of rose gardens are given to young couples by parents who themselves have enjoyed roses over the years.

If one doesn't wish a single garden of roses, the plants can be spotted around the property to serve as specimen plants and thus improve the landscape.

VARIOUS COLORS

One can start out with a half-dozen or dozen plants of various colors that make striking bouquets when the blooms are brought indoors.

There are many brilliantly-colored roses from which to choose.

Except for the specimen plantings, which may be singly planted, or even in tubs, some excellent locations for rose gardens are in beds on lawns, alongside walls and fences, in a strip bed about three-feet wide, and in front of a rear lot planting or hedge.

The plants should be set from two to three feet apart.

Three feet is preferable if there is plenty of room.

Usually with the purchase of the better roses simple booklets are given out showing how to care for the plants.

Roses are easy to care for. Any spot that has been in good lawn for a few years is fine for roses; or, for that matter, any other location with reasonably good soil.

Roses will grow well in a variety of soils.

The blooms are the most popular of all flowers.

Some of the newer, fashionable shades are strikingly attractive and decorative.

Roses Give Lived-In Look

Rose plants can be a big help to owners of recently built houses.

They offer quick and satisfying results since blooms generally appear the same season in which the rose bush is planted.

Together with other shrubs, rose bushes can give the new house an immediate "lived-in look," says the American Association of Nurserymen.

If other activities are likely to leave the new homeowner with little time to get his landscape started in the first year, then he may find it worth while to try a few roses in tubs.

These tubs can be put close to the house on either side of the front doorway, or spotted about the property as accent plants.

ATTRACT ATTENTION

Improvising in this manner can serve to attract attention away from unsightly bare spots on the property.

Once using them the homeowner may want to retain the tubs of roses permanently.

They look exceptionally well on a bleached concrete stone or gravel patio.

But for quick beautification, treat your new property to at least some rose plants.

They also make excellent housewarming presents.

Black Spot Plagues Rose Flower Beds

Black Spot is a fungus which is often responsible for the defoliation of favorite roses.

To establish a control program, dust rose bushes weekly from the time the leaves come out until the late fall frosts with a recognized fungicide.

Dust sulphur, captan, ferbam and maneb are all considered good.

Pick off and burn the affected leaves.

Routine Program Assists Gardeners

Most back yard gardeners want roses simply for pleasure they give in colorful blooms and fragrance all through the season.

Getting big blooms and healthy plants merely requires a simple routine that puts the success and the fun in rose growing.

According to All-American Rose Selections, you can enjoy from 24 to 30 beautiful rose bushes with about one hour of care every week.

This minimum maintenance program is all that is needed. The rest of the time you can sit back, admire and live with your roses.

ROSE PROGRAM

Plant only the number of roses you have time for. You can add more and newer varieties each year.

Choose the color and class of rose that will give you the desired landscape effect or furnish bouquets lavishly for the home.

Buy only good plants and proven varieties. Confine your choices to No. 1 or 1 1/2 grades. For the rewards and satisfaction they return, the cost is insignificant.

Plant on time and set out in a large hole. Choose a spot with sun at least half the day, with good drainage.

Use a mulch to keep your roses and garden clean and healthy.

Water and feed on schedule. If rainfall is insufficient, soak the soil thoroughly to a depth of ten inches every ten days, especially during the hot summer months. Feed established roses when first new growth is about four inches long, again when the bushes begin flowering, and finally after the first big blooming period.

Follow a regular pest control program, using a commercially prepared, all-purpose spray or dust. Make first application when leaves develop in Spring. Continue on a weekly to two-week basis. During the heat of summer an application every ten days and after each rainfall is sufficient.

Apply winter protection in the late fall by mounding the bushes and trimming canes.

Do each job as regularly and promptly as possible. You'll learn that roses thrive easily and are even easier to enjoy.

Growing Time Depends on Geography

The reason that most seed catalogs tell the number of days a given vegetable takes to mature is that growing seasons (the number of days between average last frost in spring and first frost in fall) vary.

For instance, in southeastern Alabama the average date of last frost in spring is March 8; of first frost in fall is Nov. 15.

In western Wyoming the average date of last frost in spring is June 20; that of first frost in autumn is Aug. 20.

Obviously only the quickly maturing vegetables can be grown in western Wyoming while several crops of the same vegetables would mature in southeastern Alabama.

Or, vegetables with extremely long growing seasons, which could not possibly be grown in western Wyoming, would mature easily in southeastern Alabama.

SOMETHING NEW — A new idea in bedding plant packaging — merigolds grow in a "strip" of 12 peat pots, ready to be planted pot in all your garden. Easy to separate, no transplanting shock.

Three Sure Steps to a Tip-Top Garden

How does your garden grow? Do friends and neighbors compliment you on its beauty and bounty? And does it continue in full dress uniform until frost cuts it down?

Most successful gardeners these days have learned that there are many new methods and materials as well as new varieties of plants that help in achieving such a garden.

One of these materials is peat moss, the nature of which as a soil builder and moisture-retainer has long been recognized.

More recently it has come to be used — in combination with essential nutrients — in the manufacture of pots which, unlike clay pots, allow the roots to penetrate the walls themselves, and which are planted "pot-and-all."

The latest development in this field is the multiple or "strip" peat moss pot — several pots lightly fastened together at the rims for use in seed sowing and transplanting.

SINGLE UNITS

These, placed in light plastic trays, may be handled as single units until they are torn or cut apart for transplanting or setting out, pot and all, with no disturbance of the growing roots.

Another handy and practical help has been developed in the making of light weight but sturdy composition trays or "paks."

These replace the old-fashioned wooden flats (great carriers of the fatal damping-off disease of seedlings) for seed sowing and transplanting.

The modern method of attaining a successful flower or vegetable garden is:

- Start the seeds in light-weight, moisture-holding trays, using a standard seed mix which can be purchased or made up at home of 13 good garden loam, 1-3 dry, sharp sand and 1-3 slightly moist, pulverized peat moss, measured by bulk and sifted together;

- Transplant the seedlings to individual or multiple peat moss pots.

Finally, for large-sized plants, transplant a second time to large peat pots, the nutrient-containing walls of which are penetrated by the hungry roots. When it is time to set these out in the garden, many are already in bloom.

This simplified method has made it much easier for the amateur to grow his own plants from seed, selecting just the types and colors of flowers desired.

The inexperienced gardener beginning on a small scale, can get a seed starting kit that includes a composition tray filled with a special soil mix.

SOW THINLY

Seed should be sown thinly and barely covered. Mix very fine seed with fine sand, sprinkle evenly, and merely press into the surface.

Transplant early, before seedlings begin to crowd, using peat pots. Give all the direct sunlight possible, keep soil evenly moist and transfer to a coldframe or outdoor location as soon as danger of frost is over.

For the best effects in any garden planting, plans should be made ahead, selecting not only the kinds of flowers, but the individual varieties that will provide the sizes, colors and habits of growth that fit into each particular scheme, whether it be a border, a screen, a cutting bed, a window box or a planter.

Enjoy Indoor Garden

Bringing beauty into your home can be a problem as well as a delight. Finding a proper place for geraniums and other flowers is a perennial headache because of accidents that sometimes occur in watering and handling the plants.

Best way to solve the problem once and for all is to surface your window sills with durable, easy-to-clean ceramic tile.

You will not only have a safe place for your plants, but with ceramic tile sills you will have additional year-round beauty to enjoy.

Pint Sized Yard Tools Available

Junior's overabundant energy, usually bubbling over in balmy spring weather, can now be directed into healthful gardening activity.

A new and smaller-sized set of garden tools designed to match the youngster's size has just been introduced which will enable him to lift steam constructively.

Called the Junior Green Thumb Garden Tool Set, it includes the 3 basic garden tools, a floral rake and a shovel each of which are 36 1/2" long, and a hoe 39" in length.

Like the handles, the heads of these tools, too, are smaller, but each has the same sturdy construction for maximum efficiency as garden tools.

The well balanced, lightweight tools have long lasting solid one-piece metal forgings and extra select tree-hard ash handles, weather-protected with a clear lacquer finish.

Beginners, as well as experienced gardeners will find the set ideal for use in home gardening.

It is available at most hardware stores and garden centers as well as department stores throughout the United States.

Good Decorating Calls for 3 Requirements

Good decorating should fulfill three main requirements. It should help to the physical comfort and convenience of the family, it should reflect as nearly as possible the personality of the family, and it should satisfy the family psychologically and emotionally as a pleasant environment for daily living, year after year.

Use starter solutions (high-analysis, water-soluble fertilizers) whenever you transplant tomatoes, cabbage, peppers, cauliflower or melons.

About the first of July, apply 2 to 3 pounds of ammonium nitrate (33 per cent nitrogen) or urea (45 per cent nitrogen) to each 1,000 square feet of garden.

Apply in bands along the Gardens Need Balanced Diet

Make sure your garden gets enough plant food this spring; namely, nitrogen, phosphorus and potash.

Stan Ries, Michigan State University horticulturist, warns that each kind of vegetable has a different food requirement, but the following program will insure a surplus of nutrients for most home gardens:

If your soil is heavy (a lot of clay), distribute 35 pounds of a 5-20-20 or 4-16-16 fertilizer uniformly over each 1,000 square feet of ground before your garden is spaded or plowed.

If this is spread by hand, make sure you take more than one trip over the area.

If your soil is light (sandy), spread 15 pounds of 5-20-20 or 4-16-16 fertilizer on each 1,000 square feet in the spring before plowing or spading.

MANURE GOOD

Use manure if it is available. Apply at least 10 bushels for each 1,000 square feet. That is about 500 pounds. You can then cut your fertilizer rate in half.

Do not apply lime unless you have had your soil tested to see if it is too acid. Your county agricultural extension agent can tell you how to have this test made.

Use starter solutions (high-analysis, water-soluble fertilizers) whenever you transplant tomatoes, cabbage, peppers, cauliflower or melons.

About the first of July, apply 2 to 3 pounds of ammonium nitrate (33 per cent nitrogen) or urea (45 per cent nitrogen) to each 1,000 square feet of garden.

Apply in bands along the sides and about 4 inches from the row.

This program will provide plenty of food for the garden, comments Ries. Twice as much fertilizer won't be twice as good though.

In fact, twice as much might injure your vegetables.

One kind of stock that will flower even in the northern part of the country is known as Trysomic Seven Week stock. Most of the flowers will be fully double and all the stock colors will be represented.

Torenia Grows in Semi- Shade Spot

The little-known wishbone flower or torenia is a lovely little plant, extremely useful in semi-shade.

The bronze-green leaves on the foot-high, bushy plants are pretty in themselves. But the blue flowers are the real attraction.

Actually the upper petals are sky blue while the lower ones, often called the "lips," are violet blue.

These two shades contrast with the flower throats which are yellow.

Unless torenias are grown in pots from seeds and the plants later slipped out of the pots without disturbing the roots, it is best to sow seeds where plants are to grow.

Seeds will sprout as soon as the soil is really warm.

Summer care includes ample watering, spraying the surrounding air when it is dry, fertilizing occasionally and picking off dead or dying flowers.

Do not try to cut sprays of torenia as it does not last well in water and the plants look bad after parts have been cut off.

Give Your Garden a Head Start

A new patented plant protector with double walls that are air insulated was announced recently. The protector, called Gard-N-Gro, permits the gardener to start seeds or young plants out of doors two to three weeks early.

By extending the normal growing season 15 to 20 days (estimate in Southern Wisconsin) the average gardener can be assured of greater success in early maturity of slow-growing garden vegetables and flowers.

Temperatures under cover of the six foot long "solar" greenhouse will rise 20 to 25 degrees during the day. Thus when outside temperatures are in the 40°-50° cold for plant growth—under the protective cover temperatures will be maintained at 60° to 65° degrees.

Humidity, too, is increased, a factor which helps promote fast, or plant growth.

By controlling and improving environmental conditions for seedlings, Gard-N-Gro helps promote healthier and faster-growing vegetables and flowers.

FIVE SUPPORTS

The Gard-N-Gro protector is uniquely designed with five aluminum supports fixed between the walls of the polyethylene cover along its six foot length.

The protector is placed over the seed bed of newly planted row of seedlings. Early in the spring when weather is cold without relief, the ends of the Gard-N-Gro protector are locked shut and thus tightly sealing out rain, snow, hail high winds and rodents.

Later in the spring when temperatures are sufficiently warm, the gardener can easily open the ends and thus adequately ventilates the interior.

The new plant protector is quickly set up.

At the end of the season it can be dismantled for storage and placed in the moisture-resistant envelope. It is reusable year after year.

Retail price is $2.00 for the kit consisting of double-wall protective covering, grommets at four corners, five aluminum supports and permanent storage envelope.

When installed, the Gard-N-Gro protector is six feet long, 9 1/4 inches high and 8 inches wide.

Vegetables Are Best When Fresh

The "freshness factor" is far more important with some vegetables than with others.

So, if your garden space is limited, concentrate on the vegetables in which freshness means superior flavor.

Peas, sweet corn, lettuce and tomatoes are examples of these, with carrots and beets not far behind.

To control plant lice or aphids, spray roses weekly with a malathion or nicotine sulphate.

Quick Ground Cover Found in Variety of Annual Vines

Especially in a new garden there often is need for a plant to grow quickly and cover up an eyesore of some sort.

The annual vines will do this so it's well to become acquainted with those which grow most rapidly.

Morning glories with white, pink, red or blue flowers are well known. Scarlet runner beans may have white or scarlet flowers and have edible beans.

Cup and saucer vine has lavender-blue blooms.

Climbing nasturtiums have yellow or orange blossoms and cardinal climber has red ones. Take your choice.

Five bowlers from Pontiac Sunday night in Oakland, Calif. reached the pinnacle of their careers and now they can only pray the cloud they are riding will not dissolve overnight.

The five combined for a 3117 performance in the regular division team event of the 1964 American Bowling Congress tournament for the top total in the field.

Larry Crake, Joe Foster, George Chicosky, Les Rothbarth and Bob Murphy found themselves stealing the spotlight from bowling's big names.

A full house of 1800 fans turned out to see the Sunday night action with the Don Carter Glee and Detroit's Harper Tire teams the main attractions.

The "300" bowlers were on a pair of lanes between the two big classic division entries. They started with a 1020 game, then rolled to a 1075 and finished with 1012 and the attention of most of the fans.

Midway through the final game it grew apparent the Pontiac squad was going to take the regular division lead and the fans gave them vocal support. With one frame to go "200" was in first place to the fans' delight.

Crake, Foster and Chicosky flew back by jet airliner (after spending 47 hours driving out) late Monday and were met in Detroit by the 300 Bowl's private bus and a crowd of congratulatory friends.

If the lead holds for the nine remaining days, the team members and sponsor Joe Puertas are in for an extensive amount of publicity and rewards.

Including the singles and doubles winnings of each team member, the final prize total could approach $2000. There is an impressive trophy, and individual awards for the winning team members.

Four of them would be eligible for the American Interzone bowling tournament of the Federation Internationale des Quillets later this year in Caracas, Venezuela. The pro member of the team (Chicosky) would not qualify.

However, now comes the difficult waiting period. Wednesday the "200" lead was challenged by a Detroit squad which fell only 18 pins shy of taking over the coveted top spot.

A lack of interest from area male bowlers has resulted in the cancellation of the second annual Oakland County Singles Tournament slated for this weekend at Norwest Lanes.

Defending Champs Fail in ABC Meet

Chicago Squad in 13th Place

Pontiac Team Stays Atop Standings

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Winning successive titles in an American Bowling Congress Tournament has been a rarity since the world series of bowling began in 1901 and there will be no repeaters in the 1964 ABC being held here.

The last defending champion entered at Oakland failed to make the grade as the Old Fitzgeralds of Chicago, regular team winners at Buffalo, finished with a 2.988. They are in 13th place, after Thursday's action.

That means another team will represent the United States in an American Zone tournament scheduled in Caracas, Venezuela, next fall. The Old Fitzgeralds, by virtue of their 1963 ABC win went to Mexico last November and helped the U.S. sweep four men's championships in a world tournament.

The defending champions had a poor 813 opening game but then came back strong with 1,031 and 1,044. Jim Stefanich had a 634 and Les Zikes Jr. a 604. The 300 Bowl Team of Pontiac, Mich., is the current regular leader on a 3.117 set.

Gene Raffel, 35, a Milwaukee, Wis., bachelor, was the standout individual bowler in Thursday's ABC action as he totaled 1,971 for second place in the regular all events. Raffel had a 713 in team, 686 in doubles and 592 in singles. Bruce Sherman, Lansing, Mich., is the all events leader with 1,962.

Schedule Tryouts for Men's League

City Men's baseball league teams will have two tryouts at Pontiac Northern High School's diamond this weekend.

At 4:30 p.m. Saturday the M. G. Collision entry will meet and defending city champion Huron-Airway will work out beginning 1 p.m. Sunday.

Both managers request all candidates to bring their own gloves and shoes. The league will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Pontiac City Hall to organize for the summer season.

The Clippers will have tryouts 1-4 p.m. Saturday on the Jaycee No. 2 diamond.

BOWLING

The West Side Classic champion, 300 Bowl, did not bowl Monday due to their high scoring appearance in the ABC tournament in Oakland, Calif., but there was no danger to its unassailable lead.

With two weeks remaining, "300" has a 23-point lead in the race. Jerry Harneck (234-225-689) and Brooks Robertson (257-225-659) set the pace this week.

Airway Lanes' Friday Pontiac Motor Tempest League last week posted a 209-211-622 for James Carter; and the Guys and Dolls League that same day had a 220 by Ron Hopp and 216 by Jack Russell.

Airway's Sunday Outlaws posted 225-244-444 and 237 efforts for Leland Smith and Dick Share, respectively.

Collier's Lanes activity Monday will feature a showdown between Western Auto and Cadillac Market as the House League concludes its schedule. Doug Swords' 238-646 and Jay Lovett's 247-640 sparked Westside Mobit to an upset win over Western Auto last Monday to set up the final battle for first place.

SUBSTITUTE
Collier's Lucky Strikers League Tuesday had a 221-611 by Max Yezbick who came into the league as a replacement six weeks ago and now has the top score for the season.

The Huron Bowl Friday Ladies Matinee was led by Eva Johnston's 203-548 and Betty Trachte's 219-547. Huron's Rolling Pin circuit recorded a 525 for Hertha Schumann.

At Lakewood Lanes Tuesday night there was a 256 by Johnnie Boyce in the Women's 50's League. Last Sunday the St. Benedict's Men's League was topped by John Ogg's 247.

That same day in the Moose League, John Williams hit 206-527-711 and Dan Chapman hit 215-524-622. The Lakewood Pin splitters last week saw Lew Sullivan's 218-524-622 lead the action.

livan's 218-254-672 lead the action.

Thursday's Ivy loop was paced by the 270 bowling of Les Smith, on the Hitler Beasley squad.

Paul Tappen of Clark's Drive-In rolled a 278-608 to qualify for the Century Club in Montclair Bowling Centre's Fisher Hill circuit. Saturday's Marimont Baptist Church League reported a 223 for Robert Dendler and 217 for Amos Vaughn.

300 Bowl action included a 247-211-661 by Don Ringer last Friday in the "300" Guys and Dolls League, a 234-635 for Larry Salzman in the Double Trouble, and a 222-545 by Vera Jenkins in the Ladies Classic.

Father-Son Tourney at Airway Set

Airway Lanes' third annual Father and Son Bowling Tournament is set for Sunday April 26th with the deadline for entries next Friday night.

There will be three divisions covering ages 8-19 among the junior entries. The 8-12 group will bowl at 1 p. m. and the junior and major division entrants will start at 10:30 a. m.

The handicap tournament will permit both sanctioned and non-sanctioned bowlers to compete, but the latter will pay a higher entry fee. Further information is available at the main desk.

New Leader Emerges in Elks Mixed Meet

A new leader emerged last weekend in the Elks No. 810 eighth annual Mixed Doubles Tournament.

Ken Buckley and Addelein Elkins combined for 1262 pins handicap total to take the lead over the early leaders, Norm and Mary Hastings of Rochester.

The new pace setters are Pontiac entries. Buckley hit 627 pins actual and his partner added 470. Buckley also tied Rochester's John Feltes for the tournament's high actual game, a 247, and took the high actual series lead with his 627.

Another new individual high total is the 212 actual game by Betzi Waisanen among the female entrants.

There are approximately 600 entries for the tournament which runs through May 3rd.

Science Closer to Deciphering Genetic Code of Life

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Scientists today announced a great new step toward deciphering the genetic code of life itself.

This code determines all your heredity—eye color, sex, even partly your chances for long life —and how all living cells behave. Man's telegraphic Morse code can say anything just with dots and dashes. Nature's genetic code is basically simple, too, it uses only four chemical "letters."

But no one knows how nature forms thousands of words or commands with those few letters.

A long sentence of these words is a gene.

SYNTHETIC BITS

Now researchers have succeeded in making synthetic bits of genetic material. They know, in advance, the sequence of letters in each simple piece.

These bits of "genes" now can be used to make short pieces of protein—the material all life is made of.

By determining what kind of protein is made each time, they could trace back to spell out nature's full code that makes people or animals or plants what they are, and in such tremendous individuality.

The new step is chemical methods of making the synthetic chains of genetic material, or DNA.

TEAM OF RESEARCHERS

These were described to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology by a team of University of Wisconsin researchers, headed by Dr. H. Gobind Khorana. He's been searching for this key for 10 years.

Dr. T. Mathai Jacob presented today's report. Drs. Malcolm W. Moon, Saran A. Narang and Eiko Ohtsuka are coauthors.

Their models of genes are biologically active. In the presence of certain enzymes or chemical starters, they can be made into longer chains of DNA or they can make long chains of another basic life material, RNA. The RNA is the gene copy.

It is RNA that directs the making of all kinds of proteins needed in each cell, by making use of some or all of 20 different units or amino acids.

TWO METHODS

Dr. Khorana's group developed two methods of making DNA chains of a known sequence of letters.

One method adds code letters one at a time to a growing chain. The other takes pre-formed pairs of code letters and polymerizes or runs them together. Needed is a chemical that brings about the proper linkage between the letters. Two have been found.

Deciphering of the code could lead to possible prevention or correction of some inherited diseases, better control over cancer, or improving animal, plant or even human heredity.

In another report, a university of Chicago group presented experimental evidence that DNA also directs the formation of two other types of RNA, aside from the gene copy directing the synthesis of proteins.

DIFFERING ROLES

The two RNA molecules—Ribosomal RNA and Transfer-RNA—play different roles in protein production. The gene-copy kind of RNA is called Messenger-RNA.

Drs. William S. Robinson, Samuel B. Weiss and W. T. Hu presented the first direct evidence that these other types of RNA come from the nucleus of the cell, and that they are made under direction of DNA. The genetic code from DNA to within the cells where proteins are made. Transfer-RNA transports amino acids to those sites. There most of the time, but the Messenger-RNA carries particles, known as ribosomes, are made. The Ribosomal-RNA is on hand to act what it does is not clear.

ELECTRIC WATER HEATER

If you wash your clothes or dishes automatically, you should heat your water electrically. Why? For best possible results, automatic washers and dishwashers need 160° water and lots of it. Only an electric water heater can regularly give you water that hot without burning out.

And remember, the electric water heater you buy from any retailer in South-eastern Michigan carries Edison's one-year money-back guarantee of satisfactory performance. In addition electrical repairs, if ever needed, are free from Edison.

Film Reviews in Waterford

Composite of Ratings at Township Library

A movie review service called the Green Sheet now is available at the Waterford Township Library.

A composite review based on opinions from representatives of 10 national organizations, the Green Sheet also suggests suitable audiences for pictures.

These range from general audience (GA) to adult (A). Other ratings include young people (YP), mature young people (MYP) and a special children's rating (C).

Representatives of the following organizations comprise the film estimate board:

American Jewish Committee, American Library Association, Federation of Motion Picture Councils, General Federation of Women's Clubs, National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Others are National Council of Women of the USA, National Federation of Music Clubs, Daughters of the American Revolution, Protestant Motion Picture Council and Schools Motion Picture Committee.

DOMESTIC FILMS

The motion picture review committees of these organizations screen all the important domestic films and many foreign pictures, independently preparing their reviews.

These are then discussed and compiled into a "film estimate" which represents the composite review of all members.

Mrs. Richard Lee, Waterford librarian, said the library not only will post the Green Sheet for inspection by visitors, but also would answer questions from parents regarding suitability of a particular film.

Specialized Streetcar Recalls Memories

OSLJEK, Yugoslavia (P) — When Dragutin Houskneht retired after 38 years as a streetcar driver, his colleagues gave him just what he wanted for a present — "an old streetcar that had been taken out of service."

He fixed it up as a house and lives there. But he left the old bell, signal lamps and even the strap handles intact, for what he said were "sentimental reasons."

City Airport Has Decline in Patronage

Patronage on North Central Airlines (NCA) flights continued to dip at Pontiac Municipal Airport last month compared to the same period last year.

The decline continued despite a slight increase in outbound passengers from the month before, according to J. J. O. Edwards, station manager.

There were 17 passengers on outbound flights in March, compared to 15 in February. However, NCA carried 31 on outbound flights in March 1963.

There were only seven passengers on inbound flights last month, compared to 14 the month before and 47 in March a year ago.

The decrease is evident in three-month totals. There have been 56 outbound and 39 inbound passengers so far this year, compared to 95 outbound and 112 inbound for the same three-month period a year ago.

Also, last month, outbound NCA flights carried 1,480 pounds of airmail, 698 pounds of air express and 1,140 pounds of air-freight.

Outbound flights in February carried 897 pounds of airmail, 659 pounds of air express and 1,430 pounds of freight.

Inbound flights for March carried 775 pounds of airmail compared to 1,280 pounds in February. Inbound freight totaled 3,743 pounds last month and 3,467 the month before.

'Jewish Law Grads Finding Less Bias'

NEW YORK (AP) — Jewish law graduates seeking positions in New York City are encountering less discrimination than they did 10 years ago, says the Yale Law Journal.

However, the magazine said in its current issue that Jewish law graduates still have more trouble finding jobs than non-Jews, get fewer promotions, and earn less in their first years.

The findings were based on questionnaires filled in by about 200 Yale Law School graduates since 1951, and interviews with 30 New York law firm executives and 20 students seeking jobs.

At Barry's request, the board of supervisors authorized him to ask the courts to establish proper by the County Board of lake levels and allow the drain-lors to advance $25,000 so a lake levels can be ade-controlled.

Affected will be several thou- and lake-front property owners in Waterford and Independence townships.

The ultimate cost of maintain- ing the water levels then will be determined by subsequent en- gineering studies, he added.

Barry said that selling the water level

He said this can be done by damming peak flows in the Clin- ton River at two separate loca- tions each spring.

This would have taken an in- definite amount of time because of the great number of land own- ers in this instance, according to Barry.

He successfully had asked the board to waive the petitions "in the interests of public health and necessity."

Undies Source of Trouble

Making Beds Real Shocker

LONDON (U)—British nurses complained today that making hospital beds is a shocking job.

Nearly every time they touch a sheet or pillow, they get a mild jolt from static electricity, Nurse E. M. Banfield said in a letter in the Nursing Mirror.

"A bed from which we don't actually get a shock is becoming very rare," she wrote.

The Nursing Association, the nurse's labor union, said the trouble probably was due to nylon underwear worn by the nurses.

Midwife Hilda Griffiths, quoted by the Nursing Mirror, blamed plastic covers in which hospital beds are wrapped when not in use.

An official at the Royal College of Nursing said the shocks are "only a slight sensation and not harmful in any way."

Priceless Earring Found in Beer Can

BOSTON (AP)—A priceless 2,300-year-old Greek earring stolen from the Boston Museum of Fine Arts last September has been found—buried in a rusted beer can.

The earring was unearthed Thursday by Florence Wolski, a Boston University student, after several hours of probing the earth in Fenway, a park area near the museum.

A man held for the theft had told police the earring was buried not far from the museum. Mrs. Wolski was one of a group of students who joined in the search.

Doolittle Raiders Set for Annual Meeting

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—More than 40 Doolittle raiders, now gathering in Fort Worth for their 18th annual reunion, will be greeted Saturday by Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle, leader of the World War II bombing of Japan.

Of the original 80 raiders, 56 are still living. A record 44 planned to attend the reunion.

Hussein in New York for Talks With U Thant

NEW YORK (U)—King Hussein of Jordan arrived in New York for private talks with Secretary-General U Thant of the United Nations.

The 28-year-old king was greeted at the airport yesterday by about 200 Arabs. Some carried signs reading "We shall return to Palestine."

The International Sanitary Bureau, founded in Washington, D. C., in 1902, was the world's first international health organization.

School Officials May Forget Real Job

By LESLIE J. NASON, M.D.

Actual learning has become a stepchild in some schools.

In them too much emphasis is placed on administration of buildings, legal matters, public relations, school organization. All too often the people who handle these jobs receive the highest salaries.

DR. NASON

Administrators receive training in schools of education in each of these subjects but textbooks and professors seldom mention the most important element — administration of the learning process.

A long-awaited step in the right direction is the newly formed "Center for Cooperative Study of Instruction" just established at the University of Chicago to find out what actually happens when teachers teach and students learn — and what happens when the process fails.

When, and if, the process fails, the responsibility should be placed firmly upon the shoulders of the person responsible for the operation of the school, the principal.

First in his responsibilities should be that for which schools exist — that pupils learn. Every time an alert principal sees that a child gets back on the learning track he eliminates a potential dropout. Failure to diagnose a pupil's learning problem promptly produces a potential dropout.

Let me illustrate. Jay is in the ninth grade. His report card showed four C's and a D. Jay's father made an appointment with the principal; in fact, he made three visits to the school where he was informed that Jay's ability was low and that he could not be expected to achieve any better.

The principal did not cite any specific areas in the learning process in which Jay was having difficulty or lacked skill. The school was not solving Jay's problem. The baffled father brought Jay to me.

HANDICAP OBVIOUS

Jay's major handicap in his school work was immediately obvious. He could scarcely write! No one had even taught Jay how to hold a pencil. He held it so awkwardly and so close to the point that it was necessary for him to twist the paper so he could see what he was writing!

In this awkward position the act of writing absorbed almost all of Jay's attention. No wonder he did poor work.

Jay had just failed a test in consumer mathematics. In talking to him it was immediately clear that he understood every

If you are acquainted with duck plays, see if you can recognize all the ducks waddling around in today's hand.

You are in a rather normal three no-trump contract. After West opens the five of spades, you see 10 easy tricks if the club finesse works. You also see nine sure tricks if the spades are 4-4, but if West has five or six spades you have problems.

So, even though your first impulse was to go up with dummy's queen of spades, you restrain yourself and play low. East plays the jack and you must duck in your hand also.

East leads back the nine of spades and in the event that West had led from a six card suit your troubles are over. Even though you lose the club finesse East would not have a spade to lead to his partner.

Actually West led from a five card spade suit. Now, if he ducks East will have a spade to lead back later and South will go down.

It is easy for you to see that West should duck. We are looking at all the cards. At the table West should duck also, but he might decide to go up, clear the suit and trust that one of his red queens would furnish an entry for the last two spades.

Time's Luce Resigns as Top Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Henry R. Luce, who cofounded Time, Inc., more than 40 years ago, has resigned as editor-in-chief.

Hedley W. Donovan, 49, directly under Luce as editorial director, succeeds to the company's top editorial position. Luce took the new title of editorial chairman.

Luce announced his resignation Thursday at the annual stockholders meeting. The board of directors elevated Donovan to his position.

"I'm 66 years old," Luce said. "I'm in good health and eager to keep active. But I feel the opportunity has presented itself to transfer, for the definite, concrete responsibility."

STAFF WRITER
Donovan joined Time, Inc., as a staff writer for Fortune in 1945. He was named managing editor of that publication in 1953. Six years later, he was appointed second-in-command editorially for Time, Inc. In 1962 he became a member of the board. Time, first of the magazines to be published, came into being in 1923 under the direction of Luce and Britton Hadden, one of his classmates at Yale. Hadden died in 1929.

Luce said he will continue working for Time, Inc., "approximately full time" but "without the pressure of the responsibility for the big decisions."

Dinosaur Getting Museum Cleanup

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The near-perfect skeleton of a 100-million-year-old dinosaur is in the Dallas Museum of Natural History for cleaning and reassembly.

The bones once supported an 18-foot-long land reptile. They were found about 15 miles north of Decatur, in north Texas recently by Bob Schlauger, a Southern Methodist University paleontologist.

Slaughter said the skeleton represents "the most complete dinosaur of its age ever recovered in Texas."

Seeks High Court Mark in Longevity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Justice William O. Douglas has ended a quarter-century on the Supreme Court with a vow to serve another decade and set a longevity record for the high tribunal.

"I have no plans for retirement," Douglas told newsmen Thursday in his office. "If I keep my health, I will serve 10 more years and beat the record of Justice Stephen Field."

Field served for 34 years and 6 months. Douglas, 65, enters his 26th year on the Supreme Court today. He was appointed in 1939 by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and along with Justice Hugo Black is one of two remaining Roosevelt appointees still on the court.

FREQUENT REPORTS
Asked about frequently heard reports he will resign from the court, Douglas said he intended to leave only when he felt he could no longer do the job.

"I have always feared serving under the delusion of adequacy," he said. "Some people have that delusion. Like baseball pitchers. Judges often have it. I hope at least I have the wisdom to quit before I lose touch. That is real wisdom."

Douglas said that when he does retire he will pursue his hobbies. "I'm interested in the outdoors, in conservation, hiking, pack trips, mountain climbing, photography, plant collecting, and I'll probably do some writing."

Oscar Award Gives Boost to Poitier TV Prospects

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — The Sidney Poitier victory in the Oscar scramble may result in some enormous advances for Negro actors.

There has been talk around Broadway and Hollywood for a year that Poitier might be the first Negro to have a dramatic series on TV... and this, of course, was long before he won the Oscar. The talk is being revived now. Sammy Davis Jr. is going to start shortly in a Broadway show, "Golden Boy," which could attract further attention to another Negro talent, already acclaimed as one of the greatest. Harry Belafonte, Pearl Bailey, Ella Fitzgerald, Lena Horne, Diana Carroll, Louis Armstrong, Cal Calhoun, Duke Ellington and so many others are already top in cafe and supper clubs.

If there's any opposition to such advances, it won't come from fellow actors.

After Poitier won an Oscar for "Lilies of the Field," it was easy, of course, to find a lot of people who'd been for him all the time... But we know positively about one actor who'd been rooting for him... and that was a competitor, Paul Newman. "Do you have hopes of winning the award yourself?" we quizzed Newman (who was nominated for "Hud") the afternoon before the award show.

"I would like to see Sidney Poitier win," was Newman's answer. "He is an outstanding and worthy actor."

Newman and his wife Joanne Woodward—who had a night off from their "Baby Want A Kiss" preview—cheered loudly in their apartment when Poitier won, and Newman said, "This is a great credit to the Academy," even though it matched the Oscar away from him (and Albert Finney). Newman sent Poitier a wire which said:

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...
The Richard Burtons attended a dinner party at Perona's and Liz told the host, "Don't separate us—we've only been married two weeks"... Frank Sinatra phoned Mister J's Steakhouse after the Oscar show and told Jilly, "I'll be in tomorrow—defrost a side of beef!"

Johnnie Ray and Nanette Fabray—both have defective hearing—were on the dais at the League for the Hard of Hearing luncheon here... Charlie Chaplin's son Michael, 18, is studying drama in London (and clerking in a law office to pay for it)... Cy Howard and Gloria Grahame will battle for the custody of their eight-year-old daughter.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The best time to hold your tongue is when you feel you must say something or bust."
EARL'S FEARS: Men have always paid dearly for freedom. History says so—alimony proves it.

Missile Lead Falters—Barry

Says LBJ Regime Underestimates Reds

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater charges the Johnson administration has "recklessly underestimated" the Communists and allowed the U.S. missile lead to falter.

The Arizona Republican swung away from a prepared speech at a rally Thursday night and stirred up his dispute with Defense Secretary Robert McNamara.

He differed sharply with McNamara's assertion—backed by President Johnson—that this country is increasing its arms superiority over the Soviet Union.

CONTRARY REPORT
Goldwater referred to figures released by the Pentagon Wednesday. Its report countered testimony by Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, that the Soviet Union has closed in on the U.S. edge in military strength.

The Pentagon figures are misleading, Goldwater said, given out only to silence critics.

"The whole truth is not being told to the American people," Goldwater said. An Air Force reserve general, he has long contended that McNamara is depending too heavily on missiles over manned bombers. Goldwater, bidding for votes in California's June 2 presidential primary against Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, said there's no doubt the United States remains the greatest military power in the world.

LOSING STRENGTH
But, he said, "I do charge that under this administration we are losing this strength." Returning to Washington after a shortened two-day speaking stint, Goldwater left behind a demand that Rockefeller supporters quit raising the extremist issue in the California campaign.

He urged the New York governor to call off a so-called task force of seven Republican state legislators, all members of the Rockefeller delegation, who charged that right-wing Goldwater supporters are out to take over the Republican party.

20th Century Spectacular

NY City, World Fair Equal Greatest Show

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This article is another of a series of articles on the New York World's Fair.)

New York City and a World's Fair add up to the greatest dual tourist attraction of the 20th Century, according to Jerry E. Fisher, Automobile Club of Michigan touring manager.

The World's Fair is beyond a doubt the most spectacular single event to which any city or nation has ever been host, but even the greatest show on earth will be unable to completely eclipse the lure of the world's most populated city.

"Long before April 22 — scheduled opening date for the Fair—New York alone was the greatest tourist attraction in the nation," says Fisher, "and long after the Fair closes two years from now, the city will still remain a 'must' for tourists."

New York, as the AAA Tour Book points out, "is a city of dreams and hopes, of wealth and poverty, of success and failure."

Many national and world records are held by this city, its newest being the largest World's Fair in history.

MOST EVERYTHING

New York has the most money, business and entertainment, plus a great seaport, railroad center, produces more goods than any other city, claims the title of "Garment King," has 300 lines of manufacturing, 42,000 manufacturing plants, prints 75 per cent of the nation's books and claims 75 per cent of the nation's advertising agencies.

In addition, it has six prominent schools of higher education.

tion, bridges, tunnels, subways, theaters, TV studios—and the Yankees, to just scratch the surface.

"Considering what it has to offer, this city's a real tourist bargain, and has been since 1625 when purchased from the Indians for a reported $24 worth of beads, buttons and other trinkets," Fisher says.

"But, ever since Manhattan Island began, prices have been going up," says Fisher. "Now it costs as much to tour Manhattan for a day as it did to buy it 333 years ago... and $24 for touring doesn't include the Fair."

MICHIGAN SIZE

This plot of ground once known as tiny colonial settlement of about 800 persons, called New Amsterdam, has become a city of almost 8 million—the population of the entire state of Michigan.

"New York need not be a frightening experience for the novice tourist who sees the Fair and decides to venture forth into the city," points out Fisher.

One way to see the sights with complete assurance of comfort and safety is to take a guided bus tour.

You can travel through the city with a guide for four and one-half hours at a cost of $5.50. This is just one of many such tours.

DIFFERENT WAY

A different way to see the city is by water on a Circle Lines three-hour cruise around Manhattan ($2.50 for adults, $1.25 for children).

Day or night, the tourist is able to keep himself occupied in New York. What to see is a problem as big as the city.

Many streets must be walked to be appreciated, others are best seen from the window of a tour bus.

Regardless of how you plan to sight-see, certain attractions are necessary stops if the tourist wants to say he has at least viewed what AAA lists as the highlights:

COSTS NOTHING

Hours can be spent just touring Times Square, and it doesn't cost a cent.

A visit to the Empire State Building should be one of the first things considered. From this structure's 86th floor, one can see out 50 miles over the city.

For a miniature trip around the world, visit the United Nations Building and take a guided tour. For $1, a guide will introduce you to this building which has something representative from countries of all the member nations.

Even if one never intends to own a share of stock, Wall Street should still be seen in action. It is here that the hub of the capitalistic system is located.

MAIN ATTRACTIONS

Then there are the Statue of Liberty, the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts, Rockefeller Center, and for those who still have the time and energy a tour book will point out countless sights and places to visit.

A few of them are Greenwich Village, Chinatown, Carnegie Hall, Central Park and the Hayden Planetarium.

"Walk, ride a bus, take a taxi or a boat — do whatever you want," says Fisher, "but see New York City while visiting the Fair. It's the greatest going show in the world."

New GMTC Engine Bears County Colors

Oakland County has a powerful entry in the Michigan product of the year contest — up to 170 husky horsepower — in GMC Truck & Coach Division's Toro-Flow diesel engine.

The newly developed engine, along with Walled Lake Public Library and Travis Turkey Farm in Addison Township today were named to carry the county's colors into Michigan Week competition.

Henry M. Hogan Jr., county M-Week chairman, said all three entries, the library for outstanding community service and the farm for agricultural achievement, have received top local honors for 1964.

"GMC Truck's new engine is hailed by industry experts as the most important breakthrough in diesel engine design in 20 years," Hogan said.

Toro-Flow was introduced by the division in January. The V6 engine, named for a unique toroidal air flow in the combustion chamber, is said to offer greater operating economy than other similar engines.

Other qualifications as county product of the year included its impact on the local economy and being a factor in boosting employment.

Walled Lake library's citation is its third in a month. On April 12 it was honored as outstanding state regional library of the month and recently received the Book of the Month Club national award for serving a community of over 25,000 population.

Travis Turkey Farm, 1400 Mack, is one of the state's biggest turkey producers and operates its own processing plant on the premises.

"This organization," said Hogan, "is regarded by poultry authorities everywhere as a model of its kind."

Birmingham patent attorney Dale A. Winnie, who headed the product and achievement selections, said several local industries were given other awards for their entries.

PRODUCT EXCELLENCE
Cited for product excellence were Pontiac Motor Division's GTO high performance car; AMT Corp. of Troy; Dura Corp. Oak Park, and Jim Robbins Industries, Royal Oak.

Honorable mentions went to the Berry Door Co. for a new automatic garage door; Tempire Corp. for a novel water cooler and Automotive Conversion Corp. for converting a panel truck into a rescue wagon. All three firms are in Birmingham.

Oakland County's product, community and farm winners, will face a regional contest next week with entries from Wayne and Macomb counties.

De Gaulle Has Operation

$46.7 Billion Recommended for Defense

House Unit Avoids Missile Hassle in Making Its Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee steered clear today of the Pentagon controversy over relative U.S. and Soviet military might as it recommended $46.785,867,000 in new funds for the Defense Department for the fiscal year starting July 1.

This is $685,133,000 less than the department was requested but enough, the committee said in its report, "to continue the maintenance of the strongest military establishment in the peacetime history of the United States."

It is $434,142,000 less than the amount was given for the present fiscal year.

With only minor variations, the committee went along with the administration's recommendations as outlined to it by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

It said it was "inclined to conclude" with McNamara's testimony that "the missile force we have programmed can be depended upon to carry out its military mission under all of the conditions we can foresee."

It said the report, written by Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., did not mention testimony of Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, to the effect that the Soviets are narrowing the military gap between them and the United States and that the administration is placing too much emphasis on missiles.

The United States, the committee said, is "superior in military strength to any other power" and the new appropriations recommended "will support a continuation of this superiority."

In summary, the committee said, this is what the money will provide:

- Food, clothing and modern equipment for 2,886,000 armed forces. Operation of 687 military installations.

- Maintenance of 875 active naval vessels.

- MILITARY AIRCRAFT
 - Maintenance and operation of more than 30,000 active military aircraft and procurement of 2,655 additional planes.

- Construction of 53 new naval vessels and conversion of seven others.

The uniformed armed services would consist of 974,800 Army, 673,700 Navy, 190,000 Marine and 843,000 Air Force personnel.

CRUNCH — If streets could talk, the conversation might go something like this. Osmun: "How do you feel about all this crazy construction?" South Saginaw: "It tears me up." That's what's happening to South Saginaw here, as contractors work on the major approach to Pontiac's perimeter road near Osmun Street. This will be the entrance to the first leg of the road off Saginaw. Northbound traffic is being routed to the west side of Saginaw around the construction site. City officials hope to have the road opened from Saginaw around to West Huron by July 1.

LBJ Calls for Moderation by All Civil Rights Factions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, deploring violence and disorder in the civil rights struggle, says all groups should exercise moderation and try to understand the other fellow's viewpoint.

Johnson was asked to comment yesterday, at his biggest-ever news conference, on civil rights demonstrations that run against the law or threaten violence.

He replied: "We do not, of course, condone violence or taking the law into your own hands, or threatening the health or safety of our people. You really do the civil rights cause no good when you go to this extent."

The President also expounded on national defense controversies, the rail negotiations, the booming economy and politics.

At one point, he virtually announced his candidacy for a four-year White House term, saying he was enjoying his work and "prepared to continue."

FIRST APPEARANCE
The conference, broadcast live by television and radio networks, marked Johnson's first appearance in the big State Department auditorium where President John F. Kennedy held all his sessions with newsmen.

Wearing television glasses, Johnson faced the biggest news conference crowd of 400—512 reporters and television members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. The previous high was 437 for a 1961 Kennedy conference.

Speaking slowly, softly, and tossing out occasional quips, Johnson volunteered eight announcements and fielded 16 questions with apparent ease during the 31-minute conference.

Asked to give his attitude on civil disobedience as a tactic in the civil rights struggle, Johnson said, "We do not think the violation of one right or the denial of one right, should permit the violation of another right."

COUNCIL MODERATION
The President said he would "counsel moderation to all groups, and understanding of their fellow men and trying to appreciate his position."

He said that as long as racial discrimination exists, "We are going to have protests and we are entitled to."

Prostate Gland Said Cause of Surgery Need

Await Official Report on President's Health; No Reason for Alarm

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle was operated on today for a prostate gland disorder, high sources close to the French government said.

But more than six hours after the surgery, there was no formal confirmation from government spokesmen that the operation had taken place. Nor was there any official report on the 72-year-old president's health.

The sources close to the government, who declined to permit use of their names, said there was "no reason to be alarmed" about de Gaulle's condition.

They indicated that an official bulletin would be issued later in the day.

They said de Gaulle himself had ordered that nothing official be said for the moment about his operation.

Newsmen and passersby crowded around the hospital entrance. Light rain fell.

It was reported that de Gaulle was aware he must have the operation for the past three weeks.

He postponed a scheduled three-day trip through the provinces, which he had planned to begin yesterday.

Mental Patient Killed by Train

2nd Locomotive Hits Halted Cars; 6 Hurt

ANN ARBOR (AP) — An escaped mental patient died under the wheels of a passenger train last night. The train then was hit from the rear by a freight locomotive, injuring six passengers.

Two of the passengers — both Michigan men — were hospitalized. About ten others shaken up by the impact declined medical attention.

Mrs. Mary Chu Wang, 24, of Ann Arbor ran in front of the 12-car New York Central Twilight Limited and hurled herself face down on one track when the locomotive was about 40 feet away, a waitress told police.

Mrs. Wang had walked away from a psychiatric ward of the University of Michigan Hospital here earlier yesterday, said Sgt. Irving Hollis of the Washtenaw County sheriff's office. Formerly, Mrs. Wang had worked as a laboratory technician at the hospital.

The engineer of the Detroit-to-Chicago train, Carl E. Cross, 58, of Jackson said it was traveling about 45 miles an hour and he had no chance to stop in time. After the train was halted, it was rammed in the rear by a locomotive hauling six freight cars.

One of the injured, Mark Moore, 19, of East Tawas was admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital with head and shoulder lacerations.

Khrushchev Says Russia Won't Break China Ties

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev, warmed by an outpouring of tributes and honors on his 70th birthday, said today the Soviet Union will not "break off relations" with Communist China.

Surrounded by old comrades and his closest East European allies at a Kremlin ceremony honoring him, Khrushchev said the "disruptive activities" of his Chinese rivals "will suffer a failure because they have no foundation in life."

Without directly naming the Chinese, he said "what we shall do is not to plume ourselves on our successes but to fight and go ahead, not to break off relations with those with whom we have no real unity now, but always leave an opportunity for a rapprochement and understanding."

But Khrushchev warned, "This must not be achieved through concessions of principle but through a correct explanation and interpretation of the Marxist-Leninist teaching."

The Soviets, he said, "have always adhered and will continue to adhere to Marxist-Leninist positions."

His remarks at the ceremony, belatedly reported by the Soviet news agency Tass, were surprisingly conciliatory compared with his violent attack two days ago on Chairman Mao Tse-tung and his fellow Chinese leaders.

At the same ceremony, Khrushchev said he has "not so much time" left but indicated he does not plan to retire.

"I have worked hard in the past and I am working just as much now. You should not give up in your old age—don't submit to old age."

Khrushchev received congratulations by cable from President Johnson and other world leaders, including Mao, his bitter Communist rival.

At the reception, he was given the personal good wishes of his own lieutenants and Soviet bloc leaders.

Globe-Circling Aviatrix Flies to El Paso

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Mrs. Jerrie Mock, almost with in sight of her goal as the first woman to fly solo around the world, landed at El Paso International Airport today.

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Mrs. Jerrie Mock took off from this desert city today for El Paso, Tex., and a possible place in history as the first woman to fly solo around the world.

Her 11-year-old, red and white plane left the ground at 8:07 a.m. MST (8:07 a.m. EST) about an hour after sunrise.

Skies were partly cloudy when the petite pilot, dressed in a powder blue skirt and sweater, climbed into the cockpit.

She said she was anxious to get home and commented that the weather seemed to be getting worse rather than better as she neared the end of her globe-circling adventure.

Mrs. Mock, the mother of two teen-age boys and a 4-year-old daughter, will make the dog-leg to Texas to pick up the required 22,858.8 miles for her record.

She lost a few miles on her original itinerary when she bypassed Singapore.

Her single-engine Cessna touched down in Tucson, Ariz., at 7:38 p.m. MST (9:38 p.m. EST) last night on a 700-mile flight from Oakland, Calif.

She stepped out of the small aircraft with two large orchids pinned to her blouse. They were a gift from her husband, Russell, 39, who met her in Oakland.

STILL FRESH
Mrs. Mock was fresh and enthusiastic. She showed no sign of fatigue as she climbed out of her plane, the "Spirit of Columbus."

"I'll try to make it all the way home to Columbus after leaving El Paso," she told newsmen at Tucson International Airport last night.

Ballot Becomes Massachusetts Popularity Poll

BOSTON (UPI) — An apparent Democratic "roof" will create an unwanted state popularity poll in the Massachusetts presidential primary April 23. In effect, it will pit U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy against his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

And it may hurt the political hopes of Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody because his name is so far down the list of candidates.

The problem is this: Democrats officially must elect 58 delegates at large to the Democratic National Convention in

Find Damage at Hospital; Doctors Held

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Police discovered today that a cable supplying power to the operating room of a Brussels hospital had been damaged. They held two striking doctors for questioning.

The incident came to light as new intensive efforts were undertaken to end the 17-day-old walkout of Belgium's 12,000 doctors and dentists in protest against a new socialized medical law.

The office of the Brussels general prosecutor confirmed that the doctors were being investigated. No formal charges were placed.

Premier Theo Lefevre met with the rectors of Brussels, Liege, Louvain and Ghent universities in an effort to complete a settlement formula. The universities, the only four in Belgium, all have medical schools and occupy a distinctive place in Belgian life.

Later, the rectors contacted the leaders of the strike.

The government and the strikers indicated the walkout might be settled in the next 24 to 48 hours.

Rough Road Lies Before Commission

There are some big decisions awaiting the new City Commission to be elected Monday.

The seven men Pontiac voters place around the big curved table at City Hall won't find the going easy.

Some of the major problems facing them are:

- Hiring a full-time professional city manager and naming a permanent chief of police.
- Choosing whether one or several developers will handle the redevelopment phase of urban renewal, and learning to live with urban renewal problems in general.

Beckwith Jury Starts 2nd Day

Segregationist Jokes as Hours Drag By

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A dozen white men try anew today to decide the fate of Byron De La Beckwith, the staunch segregationist accused of killing Mississippi's best known Negro leader.

A previous jury, faced with the same decision, never was able to get together, and a mistrial ensued.

Beckwith is accused of murdering Medgar Evers. If convicted, he would get either death or life imprisonment.

With seven hours of disagreement behind, the jury was told by Circuit Judge Leon Hendrick to eat a good breakfast, return to the little green-walled jury room and sift through the evidence a while longer.

Seek Reward; New Uniforms

Atlanta, Ga. (U) — Georgia State Patrolmen, ordered to lose more than three and a half long in overweight, have been promised a reward that most men relish when they, too, go on a diet: New outfits.

In the troopers' case, they're getting new uniforms — but not until September, their deadline date for trimming down.

As an enticement, the troopers will get Sam Brown belts, which admittedly will look smarter on pouchless officers.

The order went out last June to the 418 members of the State Patrol: Lose more than three and a half tons by September 1, 1964. Three hundred and one were overweight.

School Budget Up 8 Per Cent

Waterford Education Board OKs Figure

A tentative school budget for 1964-65, up approximately 8 percent over the current one, was approved last night by the Waterford Township Board of Education.

The $4,830,837 budget will be submitted to the local County Tax Allocation Board.

Based on assumption that the allocation board will allow the same 8.71 mills of the 15-mill tax limitation as in the current budget, the tentative budget contains two other major "if" factors.

These are the amount of state aid forthcoming and increased valuation and the resulting added tax revenue.

The new budget, $4,830,837 more than the current one of $4,465,882, estimates increased revenue from the following sources:

- Approximately $90,000 from an increased local tax levy of .79 mills of the 2.5 mills maximum approved for operating at the polls last June.

This will boost the total operating tax from the current 12.5 mills to 23.2 mills. This total includes 12.5 mills previously voted, 8.71 from the allocation board and the new .79 levy.

Approximately $32,000 due to an anticipated increase in the state equalized valuation from $113 to $116 million.

Approximately $19,881 in estimated state aid.

Approximately $32,000 due to an anticipated increase in the state equalized valuation from $113 to $116 million.

The balance of the increase from the cash balance as of July 1, the start of the new fiscal year.

Most of the budget increase in expenditures, or $72,255 of the $94,955, is earmarked for staff increments and additions to staff. The salary schedule remains the same as last year.

A total of $25,499 is projected for the increments and $146,000 is earmarked for new personnel.

Other major budget increases include $59,112 for operation and $28,910 for transportation.

A new budget expenditure is $5,000 earmarked for the start of a community school program, the concept of greater use of school facilities by the general public.

When the allocation board specifies a millage rate for the school system, a final budget will be prepared for board consideration by June.

Obese Police Cease Feast

The results: More than two tons lost after 11 months of dieting.

The target: Another ton and a half off by September.

And the punishment if they don't lose? Disciplinary action.

"I issued the order," said Col. Lowell Conner, boss of the troopers, "and I expect it to be followed like any other order."

"I told them I didn't care how they lost, what diet they followed, just so they came within five pounds of what they ought to weigh."

One hefty officer quit just after the diet order was issued. He gave no excuse —

Kindergarten 'Training' Is Scheduled for Parents

BIRMINGHAM — The time has come for parents of next year's kindergartners to start thinking about and planning for that important first in a child's life.

Birmingham school officials have scheduled special meetings to prepare parents of the 1,366 kindergartners it expects next fall.

The roundup sessions are held to acquaint parents with the kindergarten program and advise them on how they can ready their offspring for entering school.

Scheduled for April 28 are a p.m. meeting at Adams Elementary School and 8 p.m. gatherings at Baldwin, Greenfield and Westchester. The next day they will be at 1:30 p.m. at Midvale and 8 p.m. at Pembroke and Beverly.

The Harlan meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. April 30.

The schedule for May includes Valley Woods 9:30 a.m. and Bloomfield Village 8 p.m. May 4; Walnut Lake 1:30 p.m. May 5; Terry 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. May 6; Meadow Lake 9:30 a.m. May 6; Franklin 10 a.m. May 7; and Pierce 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. May 8.

A June 1 meeting at Quanton has been set for 8 p.m.

A program on Italy will be held at the Bloomfield Art Association tonight.

Sparking the "happening" will be Cyril Miles, art instructor at Highland Park College, and Harriet Berg, of Wayne State University's dance department.

Both recently returned from Italy, the two have inspired their respective students to portray and expand upon their various experiences.

Those attending the 8:30 p.m. travelogue have been urged to go as tourists, taking their cameras and sketch books and wear comfortable shoes.

An 89-minute color film on the life of Albert Schweitzer will be shown tonight at the Birmingham Unitarian Church.

The documentary traces Schweitzer's life as an organizer, Bach authority, preacher and medical missionary and the development of his "reverence for life" philosophy.

The Evening Alliance is sponsoring the film.

OU Receives Festival Funds

Michigan State University Board of Trustees, meeting yesterday in East Lansing, accepted gifts of money for the Meadow Brook Festival at Oakland University.

The UAW of Detroit gave $5,000. Consumers Power of Pontiac and Wayne Oakland branch, Bank of Royal Oak, gave $2,500 each. First Federal Savings and Loan of Oakland in Pontiac gave $500.

The trustees also accepted $5,000 from a Bloomfield Hills couple who wish to remain anonymous.

The Meadow Brook Festival, which will bring the Detroit Symphony Orchestra to the OU campus for 13 summer concerts, is scheduled for July 28-Aug. 15.

DEPEND ON HIM

"You can depend on what he tells you," the President said. Johnson also said he would personally make a decision "that I think is in the national interest" on whether to adopt proposals by Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, for development of a new bomber.

Other major pronouncements by President Johnson included these:

The national economy operated at a record annual rate of $698.5 billion in the January-March quarter, an increase of $5.3 billion from the final quarter of 1963.

Johnson said he was "not an overly optimistic man" but believes the dispute that threatens a nationwide rail strike can be settled through collective bargaining. "I hope and pray it will be by the end of the week," he said.

Johnson said he has no interest in any government-regulated industry, and that Mrs. Johnson's television interests are in the hands of trustees. "I see no conflict in any way," he said.

Cites Need for Independent N-Force

De Gaulle Defends French Assistance Plan

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle defended his program of aid to underdeveloped nations Thursday night against critics who think he ought to spend part of the money for French schools and housing.

He also told a nationwide radio-television audience that France must continue to develop its independent nuclear force to keep from becoming an American protectorate and to dissuade a Soviet attack.

De Gaulle, 73, made no new policy declaration. His chief purpose appeared to be to reply to mounting criticism in France against heavy expenditures for nuclear weapons and foreign aid.

France is spending approximately 1.8 per cent of its gross national product on foreign aid, the highest percentage in the world and more than double the 72 per cent the United States spends. Critics protest that more money should be used at home, especially for educational facilities and housing.

France's annual birth rate increased about 300,000 between 1942 and 1946, and institutions of higher learning must turn away thousands of students for lack of room. There is a critical housing shortage.

Since he returned to power in 1958, de Gaulle said, France has boosted education spending from 10 to 14 per cent of the national budget. He said housing construction has increased from 780 to 1,000 units a day.

France's revenues have risen 30 per cent during the five-year period, de Gaulle said. Therefore, he argued, why should France renounce its own nuclear defense program and cease to aid peoples "who aspire to our civilization?"

De Gaulle, reaching out for more influence in world affairs, is bidding for leadership of a third force in politics, economics and culture to exist between the United States and the Soviet Union.

These "two hegemonies," de Gaulle asserted, "are tending to share the world so long as Western Europe is not able nor does not have the will to organize itself so that the balance may be found."

themselves directly exposed to death, would know how to prevent this for her."

"For France to deny herself her own means of deterring the adversary from a possible attack on her, when she is in a position to have them, that would be drawing the lightning while depriving herself of a lightning rod," de Gaulle said.

De Gaulle gave no details on how France's nuclear force is developing. There is no evidence that he has a fully operational strike unit, although the government announced late last year that atomic bombs and supersonic planes to deliver them were on production lines. Plans are proceeding for hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific within two years.

Rusk Says Viet Peace Depends on Red Defeat

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — South Viet Nam "will have peace when Hanoi and Peking have been taught to leave their neighbors alone," U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a welcoming crowd of 600 at Saigon airport today.

"You and those of you who are at the airport should thank your effort to impose their own misery upon you," Rusk said. "That this will be done I have not the slightest doubt, and I am here to make clear once again that we shall help you do it."

Rusk's visit, first to South Viet Nam by an American secretary of state in office, brought Saigon the tightest security arrangements ever imposed for an official American visit. The capital's normally bustling main streets were deserted except for police spaced at close intervals as the motorcade swept through to the American Embassy.

BANNER WELCOME

Banners strung across the road from the airport read "Welcome U.S. Secretary of State."

During his two-day visit Rusk was to meet South Viet Nam's premier, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, confer with American officials and take a one-day field trip into the Mekong Delta for a look at the war against the Communist Viet Cong. He leaves for Washington Sunday.

Rusk came from Manila and Formosa and said in his brief arrival statement that "the Vietnamese people could take heart from the degree of solidarity" achieved at the Manila meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

"We agreed," he said, "that the defeat of the Communist campaign is essential not only to the security of the Republic of Viet Nam, but to that of Southeast Asia."

"We agreed that the members of SEATO should remain prepared, if necessary, to take further concrete steps within their respective capabilities to fulfill their obligations under the treaty."

Must Pursue Cong Retreat Claims Nixon

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says morale cannot be strong in South Viet Nam when the Communist guerrillas are allowed to retreat without harassment into the "sanctuary" of North Viet Nam or Laos.

"What is needed now is strong American support and a change in the rules," the former vice president said in a speech to the New York Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

Buick has a great transmission.

An automobile transmission, we grant you, isn't the most soul-stirring subject on earth. Nothing to look at either. But if you'd like for your next new car to give you a better break on performance and gasoline mileage, something happened last week to be your guide.

The Los Angeles to New York Mobil Economy Run proved one thing for sure. There's quite a difference in the transmissions of new cars.

Three out of four for Buick. The long-time champion in the transmission league—Buick—walked off with the 1964 economy points. No other single make of car won as many events as Buick. Four entries, three winners.

The winning Special carried the new Super Turbine 300 automatic transmission; the LeSabre was equipped with the Super Turbine 400 (both optional at extra cost). They're the latest in a long line of Buick transmissions well known for their smoothness and absence of "shift feel." The Super Turbine is a refined and improved torque converter type to help you safely pass cars and trucks at well 42 gas stations. You'll hear a lot about it in the next couple of years as this modern kind of transmission is adopted by more and more car builders.

What about engines? Of course, an efficient transmission gets more efficient when teamed up with a lean, agile engine. The winning Buick power plants were our new V-6 and V-8. The 300 cubic inch V-8 in the winning Buick Special (the lowest priced of all Buicks) and the Buick LeSabre (the lowest priced big Buick) is like a well-conditioned fighter. All muscle, no fat. Weighs in at far less than other V-8's of similar punch. It took every other V-8 in the Economy Run.

Your type of driving—regular gas. The Run was through cities and towns, across super highways, in traffic, out of traffic. This was not race track driving or proving ground driving. This was your kind of driving—even though you can't expect to get as good mileage as these expert drivers in their finely tuned production cars. The distance was 3,243 miles, about what most families log in four months. All three Buicks used regular gas. So the Economy Run is not just a cross country tour for the Mobil people and a few car buffs. It's a reliable test of a car's power team and what it's able to squeeze out of its fuel.

We don't expect everybody to rush out this week-end to buy a new Buick just because we won a few economy trophies. There are so many other good reasons for leaning to Buick that economy usually gets second billing. There's styling, naturally. An unusually great ride. Extraordinary engineering and workmanship. And very young performance. Small wonder Buick sales are running at 11.5% over last year.

But it's nice to get economy as a plus in a Buick. Beyond the dollars saved on gasoline, there's a certain peace in knowing you have a car that's built to get the most out of every tank of gasoline.

Turks, Greeks Still Battling

Cyprus Skirmishes Keep Island Tense

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Greek and Turkish Cypriot bands today rounded out a week of intermittent skirmishing on mountain ridges overlooking the Turkish-held Kyrenia Pass, 10 miles north of Nicosia.

In one incident, the sound of machine gun fire and the crack of rifles reverberated off rocky cliffs and deep defiles for about two hours.

Greek Cypriot sources declared their forces wiped out two Turkish patrols advancing toward Greek-held positions, killing two men and wounding five. There was no Turkish confirmation.

The commander of Greek Cypriot forces in the area has his headquarters in the Greek village of Kato Khikomo. He said Canadian U.N. patrols assured him they would try to get the Turks off a hill overlooking the village and a nearby farm and quarry where the majority of the workers of Kato Khikomo are employed.

Workers kept going to the farm and quarry after Turks fired on those two places.

Commenting on the general situation in the Kyrenia Pass area, President Archbishop Makarios told newsmen Thursday on his return from Athens "Our patience has not been exhausted."

In Athens, Gen. George Grivas, 65, former EOKA underground leader in Cyprus, said that "if Cyprus is threatened by foreign intervention I will go to the side of my countrymen."

Greek Cypriots say they fear intervention by Turkey, which is an ally of Greece in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Grivas led the Greek Cypriot forces that fought the British from 1956 to 1959 to try for union with Greece.

He made no mention of the British who visited Athens to offer him the command of the Cyprus National Guard.

Area Ford Man Gets Chief Post on Truck Contract

Top job overseeing Ford Motor Company's full-line vehicle contract has been given John A. Swinford, 42, of 1111 West Bloomfield Township.

Swinford was recently named manager of operations to build 30,000 M-151 quarter-ton utility trucks. Under Ford Tractor Division, assembly will be at the company's Highland Park plant.

In announcing the appointment, Robert J. Hampson, Tractor Division general manager, said first of the vehicle contract was assumed by Ford will begin coming off the assembly line in November. The contract runs three years.

Original contract for production of the M-151 was awarded Ford in 1959, followed by production of 17,000 of the vehicles in the next two years.

Swinford rejoined Ford after a six-year absence as an executive for a California firm. He originally came to Ford in 1945 with a varied engineering background.

Former DUTY He headed the Ford truck development section, later served as chief engineer in the former Tank Division and designed the Livonia transmission plant, and the Sterling Township chassis and transmission plant.

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK—Better than usual is becoming the standard term in most government reports on how the economy is behaving this spring. There are a few laggards but most measures of business growth show gains above average for the season.

Profits are rising. Jobs are increasing in number and paying more to many workers. Factories are turning out more goods. Consumers are buying them. So stocks aren't piling up in manufacturers' and distributors' hands as they would if the economic upswing were topping out.

Construction also rose more in March than is usual. The average increase from February is 7 per cent. But this year the gain was 9 per cent. Private construction came to $3.3 billion, and public construction added $1.3 billion.

Auto production so far this year is 9.5 per cent ahead of the like period of 1963. Steel output is running well ahead of last year, although the pace may slacken soon.

Consumer spending goes on increasing, even if it hasn't yet shown the spurt that many expect as a result of the federal income tax cut.

BIG GAIN The Federal Reserve Board's registered the biggest gain since last October. It is at a record peak of 128.2 per cent of the 1957-59 average, for a neat one-half point rise since February.

Jobs in manufacturing normally remain unchanged between February and March, but this time rose 49,000 to some 17,033,000. Almost all of the gain was in the durable goods industries. This is hailed as much as an expression of confidence of the type that tends to snowball as a response to firm orders.

And the durables turned in the best performance in pushing the industrial index higher, with the business equipment companies stepping up output.

Counting in jobs outside manufacturing, the total rose 515,000 in the latest month, against an average of 66,000 for that time of year. In mid-March the total was 65,517,000. Unemployment fell 231,000 to 4,282,000. But the increasing size of the labor force kept the jobless rate at 5.4 per cent.

Durable goods employment is now back to where it was in August 1957 before increasing mechanization of factories and the 1960 recession aggravated the problem.

Counting in jobs outside manufacturing, the total rose 515,000 in the latest month, against an average of 66,000 for that time of year. In mid-March the total was 65,517,000. Unemployment fell 231,000 to 4,282,000. But the increasing size of the labor force kept the jobless rate at 5.4 per cent.

Construction also rose more in March than is usual. The average increase from February is 7 per cent. But this year the gain was 9 per cent. Private construction came to $3.3 billion, and public construction added $1.3 billion.

Auto production so far this year is 9.5 per cent ahead of the like period of 1963. Steel output is running well ahead of last year, although the pace may slacken soon.
