Strikes Hit London, New York

23,000 Drivers Idle in East, Crippling Trade

Wide Area Will Feel Impact of Teamsters Move by Monday

NEW YORK (AP)—A truck strike, idling more than 23,000 drivers, hit New York City and a wide surrounding area today and threatens to choke off the region's commerce.

The AFL Teamsters Union called the strike of general freight drivers at one minute after midnight to back up wage increase demands. Emergency mediation sessions failed to avert the scheduled walk-out.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York, who viewed the strike as "disastrous" for the city's trade, sought vainly for a last-minute delay to permit further negotiations.

Teamster leaders turned down his appeal, saying the strike had already been postponed twice for a total of 45 days, with no agreement in sight.

The strike affects all metropolitan New York and Long Island, reaches deep into New Jersey and up to Poughkeepsie in New York state. New Jersey is affected as far south as Trenton.

The truck strike is expected to have little influence during the weekend business lull. Its main impact will come Monday or later. Freight blocked by the strike includes food for major chain stores, supplies for defense factories, newsprint and exports and imports.

Without trucks to carry cargoes from railroad and steamship terminals, shipping will eventually be jammed behind huge piles of unremoved freight.

Certain items handled by truck drivers covered in special contracts will continue to move, however. These include fuel, milk, meat, fruits and vegetables, bakery goods, building supplies, and beer. The strike was called by 12 teamster locals whose members (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Boy Sits on Pedal, Goes for Wild Ride

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Grandpa James K. Green got the ride of his life with 2-year-old Timothy Davis.

Green's daughter, Mrs. Helen Davis, left her son Timothy in the front seat of her auto with her father, whose injured foot was in a cast. Timmy sat down on the accelerator and turned on the ignition. The car roared away in low gear, leaped a curb, tore out the front porch of a house, careened next door where Mrs. Marion Copeland fainted as it whizzed by her.

Green finally slammed on the brake with his hand. Mrs. Copeland was the only casualty, but Grandpa Green says: "Next time the kid stays in the back seat."

6 Students Die in Crash

TRAGEDY FOLLOWS GAME—A crumpled car bearing homecoming football game decorations and inscriptions, lies jammed against the pilot of a passenger train locomotive after a grade crossing collision at St. Cloud, Minn., last night. Six high school sophomores, four girls and two boys, were killed and two other boys were injured.

Plane Misses Hurricane

15,000 Hoosiers Hear Ike Plead for GOP Farm Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower returned to Washington today, fresh from an eight-week work and play vacation and a call for the farmers to help elect a Republican Congress this fall.

Eisenhower's private plane, the Columbine, landed at Washington National Airport a few hours after hurricane Hazel had swept through on its northward drive.

The President left yesterday from his summer White House at Denver, Colo., but he stopped off at Indianapolis, in the heart of the Midwest farm belt, to tell an enthusiastic throng that a GOP Congress will help assure American farmers "a foundation of enduring prosperity."

Speaking of a wildly cheering, capacity crowd of 15,000 at Butler University, the President jabbed at the Truman administration for what he termed the farmers' "serious loss in buying power" in 1951-52.

And—in a separate speech at a smaller rally of GOP colleagues—he sounded a challenge to Republicans to spur "our horses . . . and to get to going" in the party's drive to maintain control of Congress in the Nov. 2 elections.

His major address last night—broadcast nationwide by radio and telecast in 15 farm states—marked another step in his personal campaign to swing voters into the Republican column this fall.

During the first 21 months of his administration, he said, "we have (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

British Facing Food Shortage in Dock Tie-Up

Government May Use Troops to Load Ships During Emergency

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill called his third Cabinet meeting in three days today to find a solution to London's crippling dock strike. The walk-out threatens Britons with a return to the austerity of World War II.

The Cabinet session at No. 10 Downing St. Churchill's official residence, was the fourth this week. It came as the unofficial dock stoppage threatened the nation's food and fuel supplies.

Reports were current in London that the government may declare a state of emergency and bring in troops to load and unload ships. Unofficial circles said, however, the situation had not yet reached the stage for such stringent measures.

At the same time, a spreading wildcat bus strike knocked more than half the teeming capital's double-decker buses off the streets, bringing a weekend of traffic chaos.

Faced with a grim warning from the government, millions of housewives prepared to stock up their larders.

A Ministry of Labor statement issued after an emergency Cabinet meeting last night said the walkout of 24,000 London dockers "is having a serious effect on the country's export trade, is endangering food supplies and threatened to cause unemployment in other industries."

Britain lives by food imported from abroad. A third of that food, and the trade that pays for it, is channeled through the port of London.

Neither strike showed any signs of a break.

Nine more depot joined in the bus strike overnight, bringing the total of men out to more than 20,000 and the number of buses idle to 3800. The busmen are demanding a minimum weekly wage of $28 against the current minimum of just under $22.40.

The dockmen are demanding an end to the present system of compulsory overtime. The employers have agreed to consider the demand as soon as all men are back at work.

About 4,500 tug and barge workers are due to walk out tomorrow in support of the laborers on the docks. That would cut supplies of coal and fuel oil and pile up the capital's garbage, which normally is taken to sea by barge and dumped.

Visiting Editor From Greece Welcomed

Athens Newspaperman Arrives in City to Join Pontiac Press Editorial Staff

Spyros Sellinas arrived in Pontiac Friday morning to spend three months as a member of the staff of the Pontiac Press.

An experienced newspaperman and author, he is foreign news editor of Vradyni, one of the largest daily newspapers in Athens, Greece.

Before coming to Pontiac he covered hearings at the United Nations in New York on the Cyprus question in which Greece is deeply interested.

Sellinas came to the United States through an invitation from the State Department.

Following three months as a member of the Press staff he will tour the United States for a month and then return to Greece. The purpose of his visit is to acquaint himself with this country and its attitudes and way of life so that he may contribute to a wider understanding and greater international friendliness on his return.

During the Greco-Italian war in Albania in 1940 Sellinas was in charge of foreign broadcasts at the Athens Central Radio Station.

He has also edited many books of a historical nature, the latest of which is "Greece at War," relating to the part Greece played in the Second World War at the side of its Western allies.

In addition to his newspaper work, Sellinas will tour many of the industrial plants in the area, visit Cranbrook and other cultural and educational institutions, and attend many clubs and civic group meetings during his stay in Pontiac.

Next Wednesday noon he will address the Civitan Club at the Pontiac Hotel on the Cyprus question.

Floods Forecast in Ohio Valley

2 Pennsylvania Rivers on Rampage Following Hurricane Hazel

PITTSBURGH (INS)—The Ohio Valley is threatened today with heavy floods in the wake of hurricane Hazel.

Pittsburgh reported floods in nearly all sections of the city.

The Pittsburgh Weather Bureau said to expect a crest at the point of 30 feet-five feet above flood stage.

All up the Monongahela and Allegheny valleys communities struggled with flood waters.

State Police at Butler said the town has been hard hit and "taking a terrific beating."

State Police said communities like Zelienople and Harmony are almost "completely inundated."

They said the water is still rising and filling streets.

Upstream along the Monongahela, conditions were worse. At Morgantown, W. Va., Donely King, a lock tender, said the river has been rising about half a foot an hour. He added: "We don't know when it is going to stop. It just keeps coming up."

King added that at Fairmont, W. Va., the water has been rising at the rate of about six-tenths of a foot each hour—faster than at Morgantown.

King said that the water at Morgantown already is 10 feet above normal.

At Brady, Pa., a railroad engine pushing a freight car plunged into the swollen Allegheny River. Four men—the engineer, conductor, fireman and yardmaster—were rescued.

At Kittanning on the Allegheny, police said the water has been rising at the rate of a foot an hour and they expect it to continue at that rate for another five hours.

Patrolman James Schreengost said the main business district will almost surely be flooded. He said he expects the water to rise above flood stage within the next few hours.

Hurricane Fails to Halt Paper's Anniversary Run

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP)—The Doylestown Intelligencer put out its 150th anniversary edition today—and because of Hurricane Hazel, much of the printing operation was the same as that employed 150 years ago.

Newsmen on the old Bucks County newspaper had to work 6 1/2 hours by candlelight and kerosene lamps last night to get out the special 32-page edition.

The hurricane brought about a power failure at the newspaper plant, as it did over much of Bucks County.

"We used facilities that could have been used 150 years ago to produce the same paper," commented Managing Editor George Thompson. "But that's what made the difference between missing an edition or maintaining a perfect record of 150 years of publication."

All operations were done by hand except the actual printing, which must be done on an electrically-operated rotary press. Power was restored at 1:05 a.m. today in time to roll the presses.

Pedestrian Hit; Dies in Hospital

Struck Crossing Street in Front of Home of Lake Orion

A 67-year-old Lake Orion man died at Pontiac General Hospital early this morning of injuries suffered when he was struck by a car last night in front of his home.

The victim, Alex Nowakowski of 446 S. Broadway was returning home with groceries when, according to four witnesses and the driver, he stepped into the path of an auto driven by Duane K. Raymond, 31, of 1058 Highland Dr., Lake Orion.

Nowakowski, who suffered a skull fracture when hit at 7 p.m., died at 12:10 a.m. Lake Orion Police Chief Clarence Braidwood quoted the southbound driver as saying he couldn't avoid hitting the man when he darted out in front of his auto.

Witnesses, according to Braidwood, said the victim attempted to cross during a break in traffic. Funeral arrangements are pending at Allen's Funeral Home in Lake Orion.

Train Hits Car; 6 Students Die

Bodies of High School Sophomores Strewn for Block Along Track

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP)—Six high school sophomores returning from a homecoming football game were killed last night when a passenger train smashed into their car, crumpling it "like an accordion."

Bodies were strewn for a block along the tracks.

The victims were identified as: Sharon Roder, Shirley Hinkemeyer, Janice Johnson and Nancy Minars, all students at St. Cloud Cathedral High School; William Ehl, Duluth, Minn., and Larry Stollman, Ardorch, N. D. The two boys were students at St. John's High School in nearby Collegeville.

Hospitalized here were James Johnson, brother of Janice, and Ralph Mahowald, Grand Forks, N. D.

The youths, all between 15 and 16, had been spectators at the football game between De La Salle of Minneapolis and Cathedral.

Gay homecoming decorations still fluttered from the littered wreckage of the car. Persons who viewed the wreckage turned away "crying and screaming," a witness said.

Police identified Janice Johnson as the driver of the car.

Crisis at Pontiac General

Hospital Filled to Capacity, City Commissioners Told

By ARNOLD S. HIRSCH

A serious auto accident or fire requiring only five to six beds would put Pontiac General Hospital "over the limit—halls and all," city commissioners were told by hospital administrators last night.

All but two commission members and one trustee attended the meeting, called to show commissioners overcrowded conditions at the city hospital.

The situation is so serious we would have to find emergency quarters in a high school or somewhere else if disaster should strike, Hospital Board Trustee William P. Babcock declared. Dr. N. F. Gehring, hospital chief of staff, said if last year's Flint tornado had struck Pontiac, the situation would have been hopeless.

In a letter the Hospital Board said in part: "At Pontiac General Hospital, there is seldom a day on which not

Damage Mounts Into Millions; Floods Threaten

Killer Storm Tears Up Swath From Haiti On to Hudson Bay

From INS and AP Dispatches

NEW YORK—The toll of death and destruction left in the wake of hurricane Hazel mounted swiftly today as communities from South Carolina to Ontario, Can., plunged into the mammoth task of rescue and reconstruction.

At least 69 persons lost their lives in the U.S. and Canada as a result of the violent storm whose path and range of destruction was one of the worst on record.

In the U.S., the toll, which might possibly go higher in later reports, stood at at least 47 dead. In Ontario, Can., 22 deaths were attributed to the hurricane.

After tearing up the eastern seaboard of the U. S., Hazel churned across Lake Ontario late last night to whip rain-soaked Toronto and southern and central Ontario province with winds that still were as high as 70 miles an hour.

By morning the skies were clear over the path that Hazel followed since sweeping in from the Atlantic Friday morning to smash against the Carolina shore. The winds at its core then were raging at 130 miles an hour.

Civil Defense authorities, police and the American Red Cross tended to scores of injured and thousands left homeless.

Property damage was estimated in multi-millions of dollars along the broad scar that Hazel left.

Power and telephone lines were down in many areas leaving thousands without light and heat to ward off the cold of dropping temperatures that followed the storm.

The center of the storm passed to the west of the major cities of the eastern seaboard, although Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York were battered by winds that in gusts reached more than 100 miles an hour.

Early today the death toll by states was: Pennsylvania, 8; North Carolina, 1; New York, 7; Virginia, 5; Maryland, 5; Delaware, 1. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Change in Weather: Only Light Showers

Pontiac residents may get a little relief from rainy weather over the weekend as weather forecasters, with crossed fingers, predict only light showers tonight and no rain Sunday.

The U.S. Weather Bureau says it will be cooler tonight with a low of 36 to 40, but a little warmer Sunday, high expected to be between 50 and 54.

Yesterday temperatures remained fairly constant, with the low being 41, high 52. Today at 8 a.m. the mercury stood at 42 degrees, rising to 47 by 2 p.m.

Dinah Is Spontaneous, Sticks to Live Singing

By EARL WILSON

HOLLYWOOD—Hollywood's TV studios suddenly have those "Pre-Recording Blues." Let a guy sing a couple of notes at a cocktail party and somebody says, "Hey, was that pre-recorded?" or "Why don't you use one of your old records next time you sing that one?"

Until the sad Mario Lanza mistake, many TV viewers were only vaguely aware that some TV singing stars were mouthing recordings they'd already made.

Although everybody's blasting the pre-recording flake, Dinah Shore, something of a singing authority, says:

"Pre-recording isn't for me but there's plenty of reason for Lanza, Betty Hutton, Betty Grable and others to pre-record."

"To me," says Dinah, "spontaneity means more than perfection. But for Lanza."

"Well," said Nashville's gift to song, "he was nervous and this was to be his first public singing in three years. Suppose he'd tried to sing live and cracked on one of his high notes."

"It'd have been a bigger story than this one!"

I mentioned to Dinah that on the night of the great Lanza louse-up, Betty Grable's first words after the show were:

"I hope I wasn't out of sink." Meaning "out of synchronization"—that is, she hoped her silent lip singing matched the notes of her pre-recorded song.

"She knew what we all know," said Dinah. "If you miss that 'lip sink,' the audience notices it, comments about it, and you've spoiled the whole mood."

Donald O'Connor, Betty Grable, Betty Hutton and the others who sing and dance at the same time have to pre-record," said Dinah. "Not being a dancer, I can just stand up there and sing. Besides, I'm supposed to be selling pop tunes."

"Suppose I make a mistake. Well, I capitalize on it."

"But if I pre-recorded four or five days before, then felt differently on the day I mouthed it, it wouldn't be the same mood and it wouldn't be right."

Dinah has pre-recorded a couple of times, but she says: "It's not for me. I sing better when I pre-record, but the spontaneity is gone."

Lenin's Embalmer Dies Suddenly in Moscow

MOSCOW (U)—The man who embalmed V. I. Lenin has died.

He was Boris I. Zbarski, professor of biochemistry at the Moscow Medical Institute. The newspaper Medical Worker announced today he died "suddenly" but did not give the cause of death nor his age.

Lenin's preserved body, exposed in a glass casket, has been the shrine of world communism since his funeral in 1924. Stalin's body now lies beside it in the Red Square mausoleum.

Roof Thatchers Become Scarce

But Old Art Is Destined to Survive on Historic British Cottages

WASHINGTON—The roof thatcher, who has contributed notably toward the charm of the English countryside, practices today a picturesque but diminishing craft.

Many of the humble cottages of England, Scotland and Wales have forsaken their thatched coverings in favor of slates, tiles or asbestos shingles.

But historic landmarks, such as Anne Hathaway's cottage in Stratford-on-Avon and poet Robert Burns' at Ayre, are re-roofed in the traditional manner. So are thousands of other homes.

Thus thatchers are still busy workmen, careful and proud. The trouble is that since the war there have been too few recruits in the trade, says the National Geographic Society. Young men went elsewhere for better paying jobs. The overwhelming number of English thatchers now are well into their 40s.

However, as long as the prime examples of the thatcher's art stand, the old-time roof will likely survive even if on a limited scale.

Not long ago probably the most famous thatched roof in the world was done over. Spectators craned necks to watch a workman scale the roof that once sheltered Anne Hathaway, Shakespeare's wife.

He bent deft fingers and balanced precariously on the top-most ridge and along the overhanging, high-pitched gable, sometimes on a one-piece ladder, sometimes on a long extension ladder. Those who witnessed his work knew the craft was still alive.

Early American colonists laid thatched roofs over their log cabins and split-board cottages. The first "Quonset huts" in America were erected by Pilgrims in Massachusetts who wove straw and reeds over an arched framework of poles. Indians called these English wigwags.

Tavern Hideouts Risky for New Jersey Reds

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (INS)—Anti-American conspirators will have to give up the traditional dimly-lit tavern as a place to hatch plots — at least in New Jersey.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1954

An Avoidable Issue

Secretary General HAMMARSKJOLD wisely has hastened to straighten out a misunderstanding resulting from an unfortunate choice of words in a handbook for U. N. staff members.

This section of the handbook holds that in a conflict between national and international loyalties "the conduct of the international civil servant must clearly reflect his obligation to the international organization."

U. S. Ambassador LODGE quite properly has protested this statement. Obviously it could be construed by some as reflecting the opinion that U. N. is a world or supra government.

Any such inference runs contrary to fact and the specific terms of the U. N. charter. Unfortunately in these days of international tension it also is capable of doing the world organization incalculable harm.

The Secretary General has done well to make public his interpretation of what the International Civil Service Advisory Board meant by the term loyalty. In his words it means "observing the discretion, impartiality and independence necessary for the operation of any international organization."

That to us means loyalty to U. N. objectives plus efficiency and integrity without weakening one's loyalty to his country. By making this unmistakably clear, the board, author of the handbook, could do much to erase what was an avoidable misunderstanding.

$10,176,000 for Roads

Announcement by the State Highway Department of its two year $10,176,000 program for improvements in Oakland County is important news here.

Most of this sum will go to five major projects, all of which are badly needed. When completed they should ease our ever growing traffic congestion somewhat.

Projects listed for 1955 include widening of Perry Street to four lanes from the city limits to Lake Orion and construction of a grade separation at Orchard Lake and Telegraph Roads.

Other projects are widening of Perry Street inside the city limits, of M59 from Auburn Heights to Livernois Road, widening of Rochester bridge and re-capping four miles of U. S. 10.

While this news from Lansing will be welcomed generally, it only scratches the surface of our highway and traffic problems. Not long ago LEON V. BELKNAP, Road Commission engineer-manager, surveyed Oakland County's highway needs. His conclusion was that it would take $10,000,000 a year for 10 years to put county roads in shape to meet present needs.

Big though that sum is, it appears more moderate in the light of two facts. Oakland is the State's second most populous county and the cost of road construction, as Commissioner ZIEGLER has pointed out, has increased 125 per cent since 1942.

Chinese-Russian Tension

Students of Asiatic affairs see in the new Peiping-Moscow agreement hints of tension between the two greatest Communist powers.

WILLIAM L. RYAN, foreign news analyst for the Associated Press, is among those who considers the pact highly significant. Especially is he impressed by the Russian announcement of intention to get out of Port Arthur by next June. This suggests to RYAN that the Chinese may have demanded such action.

Another straw in the wind may have been Premier CHOU EN-LAI's return from Geneva by way of Ulan Bator, the capital of Outer Mongolia. There, in what once was part of China but now is in the USSR, he said some important things.

These added up to notice to the Russians that Red China sets great store by her territorial integrity and sovereignty. He also re-emphasized his doctrine of "Asia for Asians" and indicated that he does not consider Muscovites as Asians.

It should not be forgotten that this new agreement indicates continued close relations between Peiping and Moscow. Nonetheless the belief that strains exist between the two Red Nations is shared by several observers. Among them is Sir ALEXANDER GRANTHAM, Governor of British Hong Kong, who recently addressed the Detroit Economic Club.

Certainly a rift between China and Russia would have a profound effect on the international situation. If such a rift should develop, cold war pressure on us and the rest of the free world obviously would ease.

Half-Million Dollar Issue for Roads Scrutinized

By JACK L. GREEN
 LANSING—People attracted by the idea of a $500,000,000 bond issue to "build tomorrow's roads today" might take a long, thoughtful look at the five-year-old history of the state's $65,000,000 hospital bond issue.

The motivation and history of the two are so much the same that observers can't help but wonder if their outcome might not be the same.

The Citizens' Research Council of Michigan this week told the story of the bond issue spending for tuberculosis hospitals—and it was enough to make every thrifty taxpayer sit back and think.

Just as in the case of highways, the 1950 Legislature was worried about its inability to build necessary additional hospitals out of current revenues.

Just as in the case of highways, some bright lad got the idea of floating a bond issue and "building tomorrow's hospitals today."

Just as in the case of the highways, everybody piled on the bandwagon in a sort of "what-do-we-care-what-it-costs" spirit.

The hospital bond issue was sold to the voters with a great hoopla about how progressive and forward looking we all were. You can hear the same build up now for the half-billion-dollar highway bond issue.

The voters approved the bond issue—as they probably will the highway bond issue if they get a chance—and virtually wrote a blank check for its expenditure by the Legislature.

We must not forget that much of the hospital bond issue was well spent for state mental institutions. This probably is because local governments normally do not own mental hospitals and so had no motive for log-rolling.

But five million dollars of the total was earmarked for tuberculosis hospitals—and that was when the backscratching started.

(Gov. Williams already has started suggesting that about one-third of the half-billion bond issue be used for county roads.)

The Citizens' Research Council tells the story thus, in brief:

1—Of the original plan to add 1,000 new beds, only 760 were obtained. At the same time, 157 beds went out of use, so there was a net gain of 603 beds.

2—There are 1,096 more beds in all TB hospitals in the state now than the number of patients, including those on waiting lists.

3—It was shown before any of the beds were built that most of them were not needed.

4—Now content with raising the $5,000,000 amount set aside for TB construction, the bright and greedy boys "borrowed" $3,340,000 more from the money which the people had been told was to go for mental hospitals.

5—On the basis of occupancy rate, at least $1,880,000 was wasted.

6—The Legislature, anxious to keep its hand on the distribution of this pork, divided up the responsibility between the "Little Legislature," the Tuberculosis Sanatorium Commission, a special legislative committee and the State Administrative Board, without allowing any one group—unless it were the lawmakers—the final say.

(Gov. Williams, at odds with the Highway Department, already is proposing that a special agency be created to decide what parts of the state shall get their fingers in the half-billion-dollar road bond issue. How would you like to sit on that agency?)

Are You Willing to Assist Teenagers? Then Call the Central Volunteer Bureau

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

Someone writes a letter and it's amazing how many people will take the time to write and say how wrong he is.

Yet would these same people take time out to help our teenagers, who on the whole are a pretty fine lot?

There is a tremendous need right here on our doorsteps for volunteer workers to work with teenagers. Work with a great deal of satisfaction in it.

A few on the urgent list include: A young couple, Friday evenings, to supervise the "Teen Canteen" at the Pontiac Y.W.C.A.; someone to play the piano and one or two to lead singing at the Pontiac State Hospital (if you think the young folks here don't need help, you are very wrong. They are just as important as the child next door. Believe me, the children at the hospital are as sweet as any.)

There is a need for someone to help with the intake of children etc., at the Children's Home, hours 5 to 7 p. m.

The Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Group are always short of workers. For the person with just a small amount of time to give there are a great many jobs such as taking children from foster homes to the dentist. Someone is needed to edit a newsletter for a hospital. It's my hope that folks instead of running down our teenagers will give a call to the Central Volunteer Bureau at PE 4-3398 and register at once to help them.

Pick Quality Matrimonial Merchandise If You Want to Maintain a Happy Home

Jimmy wants to know if I practice what I preach. Well, read about my romance with Mrs. Crane and see for yourself. There are a few basic rules for happy homes. If you follow them, your home must be happy, for psychological rules are just as inexorable as chemical laws. But it takes work to keep a home a happy one.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
 Case M-34: Jimmy S., aged 22, is engaged to be married.

"Dr. Crane, your home seems to be very happy," he said, after visiting my older son for a week at our house. Is yours just one of the lucky 3 out of 4 which escapes divorce?

"Or do you have a formula by which a person can be positive he will never get a divorce? I'm doubly interested because I am to be married in a couple of months."

Yes, my home is a happy one. And I shall never have a divorce, because I know enough to prevent a divorce.

This week I have given you several actual cases from my office files that deal with this vital problem. One rule for maintaining a happy home is to pick wisely at the start and get quality matrimonial merchandise. I did.

It was in a young people's meeting at a church where I first met Mrs. Crane. And I actually fell in love at first sight.

"But many people do that," Jimmy argued, "yet it seems they fall out of love later on. So how did you keep your love from growing cold?"

Well, I exercised it. Oh, that doesn't mean that I haven't argued with Mrs. Crane, or barked at her sharply when I am under tension and things go wrong.

Those characteristics of the average husband are evident in the best regulated homes.

But I never let a quarrel persist

She is a good looking woman, too, and was a very popular girl. We kiss when we say farewell and when I return from trips, and it isn't perfunctory.

Our children know there is nothing forced about our affections for ourselves and for them.

Our home is topsy-turvy most of the time because so many of us are in it and we always are backing some new project, but it is a happy and hilarious place because we practice what I preach in this column.

And she meanwhile must run the house, keep up correspondence with all the children who are away from home, and fill out the income tax forms even for our grown children, who impose on her talents much as I do.

At night when I go to bed, Mrs. Crane snuggles down against my shoulder. However, she first kneels down and says her prayers, even though the bedroom is frosty in winter.

She is a good looking woman, too, and was a very popular girl. We kiss when we say farewell and when I return from trips, and it isn't perfunctory.

Our children know there is nothing forced about our affections for ourselves and for them.

Our home is topsy-turvy most of the time because so many of us are in it and we always are backing some new project, but it is a happy and hilarious place because we practice what I preach in this column.

Protestants to Observe Annual 'Laymen's Sunday'

Dr. HOWARD V. HARPER

The Twentieth Century may be known in Christian history as the age of the layman. Emerging from many centuries in which the man in the pew was little more than a Sunday-morning spectator in a clergyman's church, Christian men have in recent years increasingly taken responsibility for the application of religious values to the layman's Monday-through-Saturday world.

Of the 30 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox bodies that make up the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., 20 have national laymen's organizations. Together these 20 groups form the over-all interdenominational United Church Men, which each year sponsors Laymen's Sunday.

Tomorrow in more than 100,000 American churches teams of laymen will replace the clergy in the morning services, dramatizing the layman's growing acceptance of his own ministry.

Build around this year's theme: "A Time for Decision," sermons, prayers, and Scripture readings — all by laymen — will stress the Christian approach to the world problems, social issues, and business affairs with which the layman must cope in his daily life.

Backing up faith with action, United Church Men engage in year-round promotion of such projects as Religion in Industry, support of Christian colleges, and laymen's programs of Evangelism.

This year's special activity, known as "Operation Abundance," will be to finance the distribution of American farm surplus goods among the undernourished people of foreign countries.

Monday, October 18, the Church honors St. Luke, the "beloved physician" who was with St. Paul on the last of his journeys — the one that took him to Rome and death. Luke may have been present when Paul was beheaded there.

He was a Gentile, who "came lately" into the early Christian group, but hardly any member of the original company made as large a contribution as he did. Without St. Luke's Gospel we should have missed many of the loveliest items in Christian literature.

He is, for example, the only writer who tells the stories of the Prodigal Son and the Good Samaritan. Without his book of the Acts of the Apostles we would know very little of what happened in the days just after the Resurrection.

Both these books, incidentally, are addressed to someone named Theophilus, and there have been many conjectures about who this Theophilus was. It is possible that there was no such person.

The name Theophilus means "beloved of God," and it may be that Luke was writing to some Christian convert whose real name he thought he had better not use. He calls him "most excellent" Theophilus, indicating that this must have been someone of high rank.

Perhaps it was better to protect him by keeping him anonymous and just call him "beloved of God." Christians were not too popular in those days. The recipient of Luke's writings could have been risking his high position, or even his life.

On the last day, Wednesday, October 20, of the nine-day Feast of Tabernacles, the Jews have a special celebration known as the Rejoicing (or over) the Law — Simhat Torah, in Hebrew.

The basis of this occasion is the fact that the annual cycle of Scripture readings comes to an end on this day (always the 23rd day of the month of Tishri) and starts over again from the beginning on the day following.

By JAMES J. METCALFE
 Yes, even after all these years... If you would still be mine... Your eyes would be as moonlight and... Your lips would be as wine... My heart would span the years gone by... And all that went between... Back to the days when you and I... Were only seventeen... I never ceased to think of you... When skies were gray or blue... Deep in my heart I loved you, dear... And I belonged to you... I wish that somewhere in this world... We two would meet again... And somehow everything could be... The way that it was then... But now I know not where you are... And only God can say... If we can come together, dear... And it can be that way.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY
 And Saul said unto Samuel, I have sinned: for I have transgressed the commandment of the Lord, and thy words: because I feared the people, and obeyed their voice.—Samuel 15:24.

As sins proceed they ever multiply, and like figures in arithmetic, the last stands for more than all that went before it.—Sir Thomas Browne.

Habit Corrected

The first great thing you did for me was cure me of the cathartic habit. Formerly I thought it absolutely necessary to take one or two tablets every night. Now I never resort to any cathartic or other aid and never need it. Furthermore, since I quit taking tablets I have had no further trouble from piles. (M.C.)

Answer—Thank you, but I didn't cure you. I told you how to break the dumb habit of taking physics. With rare exceptions every one who thinks, as you did, that some sort of "aid" is essential to keep the bowel working can break the habit as readily as you did, if he is not too ignorant to read understandingly. Send twenty-five cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope, for booklet "The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene."

Alfalfa
 Ben Told alfalfa tea contains all known essential vitamins. (W.F.)

Answer—None. It doesn't contain enough vitamins of any kind to matter. However, a pinch or a spoonful of alfalfa may contain more vitamins than an equal weight of almost any food in the everyday diet of most Americans.

Small Bunion
 I am getting a small bunion. It isn't large enough yet to worry about, but any shoes I wear seem to irritate it and I want to avoid that. (Mrs. T.R.)

Answer—Go barefooted or in stocking feet as much as possible. Wear only straight inside line shoes—or shoes that seem to toe in slightly, never shoes that turn the toes outward.

Maceration
 Feet sweat so much the skin gets all chafe and thickened and sore. (J.R.)

Answer—Wear soft wool socks or stockings with soft wool feet or soles, never cotton or nylons. Cautious use of dilute solutions of formaldehyde on stocking feet, insoles, sometimes a brief application of very dilute solution directly to skin of soles, will generally control the excessive sweating. Instructions in pamphlet Excessive Sweating available on written request (no clipping) if you provide stamped envelope bearing your address.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Williams Raps Poor Highways

Tells Holly Residents of Need to Coordinate Bridges, Road Repairs

HOLLY—The immediate need for better schools, teachers, and new roads was stressed yesterday by Governor G. Mennen Williams at a breakfast held in his honor at the Holly Hotel.

Williams, told ninety businessmen, farmers, laborers, and local union men that "these things should be accomplished now, and not wait 30 years for the next generation to do them."

He pointed out that he has inspected roads in the northern section of the state, that were not completed because adequate bridges had not been built. On the other hand, he said, he has observed bridges that were constructed only to have the road building program fail.

Toastmaster Ben East introduced Gov. Williams and village president Worth Hitchcock, who extended the village's welcome to the official party.

County Democratic candidates were introduced to the gathering by Willis Brewer, county Democratic chairman, who was presented by Mrs. Margaret McCall. Also present were state and U.S. Democratic candidates. They included Donald Adams, Paul Sutton, and Fred Elias.

"A Detroit-Mackinac highway is a grave need," Williams stated, "as there is no adequate thoroughfare at present to handle the traffic."

He proposed a four-lane type highway, comparing in width to the bridge, now under construction.

Ferguson Tells Road Program

Talk at Lapeer Cites GOP Aim to Improve Rural Thoroughfares

LAPEER—Senator Homer Ferguson, speaking at a luncheon at the Lapeer Country Club here Friday, told Republican workers that he recognized the dependence of the farmer on highway transportation.

"The farmer's road program is getting consideration by a Republican Congress," Ferguson said.

"Now the program, after considerable planning, will bring up-to-date roads to rural areas to replace outmoded 1930 roads which serve so many regions."

In a mid-morning stop at North Branch, Ferguson also emphasized the aims of the Republican administration in the coming year.

The senator declared that a greater amount of funds from the road and gasoline tax would be channeled to the improvement of highways. Stating that one person out of every seven held a job in some way related to transportation, he stressed the significance of highways to the nation's economy.

Regarding atomic energy, he envisioned future industry geared to atomic power rather than to electricity.

Questioned about investigation of subversive elements in the current administration, he reported 6,900 security risks to have been screened from governmental positions, stating that subversive files are now available to the FBI, a situation made difficult previous to the present administration.

He appealed for an attitude of optimism and progress, rather than a foreshadowing of doom, and urged a presentation of problems pertinent to the needs of his Michigan constituents.

Continuing his two-day Thumb district tour, the senator, campaigning for his third term, also visited Capac, Imlay City and Almont.

Business Women Vote to Help Township Study Need of Incorporation

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Would incorporation benefit Waterford Township? This is the problem plaguing residents of the area.

A move to find the answer, started by the Waterford Junior Chamber of Commerce, gained support this week when the Waterford Business and Professional Women's Club voted to work with the Jaycees on a survey to determine public opinion and conduct research on the subject.

The group is the first to answer a call by the Jaycees for the aid of civic clubs in the area. The decision to help with the survey was unanimously adopted as the business women's club project for the year at the regular meeting in the CAI Building Tuesday.

"Purpose of the survey will be to determine the advantages and disadvantages of incorporation, and whether it would be beneficial in coordinating sewer and water systems, public lighting, police and fire services and other services," Mrs. Harry Alt, president, said.

"We expect to assist with a cross section poll of opinion, plan group discussions, procure speakers and participate on panels."

Also, at this meeting the women chose Mrs. Oliver Dunstan to represent the club at the Small Business Clinic, to be held at Kellogg Center at Michigan State College this weekend.

Next meeting will be the group's annual card party to be held Oct. 26 in the CAI Building. The affair, which will include table and door prizes and refreshments, will be open to the public.

Schools to Get Pickup Truck

Vehicle to Transport Hot Lunches, Food for Huron Valley System

MILFORD — A shiny new pickup truck will be delivered this week to the Huron Valley School system. Bids were submitted to the school board Thursday night.

Transporting of hot lunches from the Brooks school to Beaumont and Highland schools was reason for purchasing the truck, plus the need for a light vehicle to transport surplus food.

An invitation was accepted by the board to attend a special meeting with the Huron Valley PTA council to discuss future school additions, and the possibilities of planning for a new high school. The meeting is scheduled for Tuesday at the Bertha Baker school.

The school board also authorized the purchase of two more 60-passenger buses, as an extra route has been added to the system. This brings the total number of buses to 28, transporting about 1600 children. Some buses now double up on their routes.

'FLAT-ering Silhouette,' 'Just Rearranged' — — — Ways of Saying 'Dior'

Short gown for evening, a copy at Russeks, has new flat look and flat hip line as well.

Cardigan overblouse, narrow skirt in graphite wool jersey is one flat look Macy copy.

Male Town Tweeds Are Lighter, Softer

The town tweeds are a distinctly new version of an old wool favorite, the classic and many-patterned tweeds. The new versions differ from their forebears in that they are lighter in weight, while retaining firmness of weave, have a softer drape and smaller, overall patterns.

The only part of the "country" nature of traditional wool tweeds that remains in the town versions is a rugged, manly quality.

The LOOK Has Arrived, Where Do You Fit In?

By GAIL DUGAN
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — The flat look, she is here. Here in this country. Here to stay or no, who knows?

But Macy's and Gimble's and other big stores are showing the flat look as interpreted by "Monsieur X." Any resemblance between Christian Dior and "Monsieur X" is no coincidence.

If you're five feet two with eyes of blue and a 3-D bust, the shape of things to come is not for you. Better go some place else—Mexico maybe. Russeks calls it the "FLAT-ering silhouette."

Macy's labels it the "international" figure and Gimble's reassures with "not changed — just rearranged."

Rearranged or not, there'll be some changes made. In fact, with the first line-for-line copies of original Paris models made by all big New York stores, the day is here.

Changes are reflected, too, in the new resort collections just beginning showings in New York's garment district. To determine to just what extent the Dior look has affected American designers, NEA Service interviewed 10 of the nation's top designers. This is what they say:

Chairo McCordell: "Personally, I think it has happened, but the real proof will come if and when millions of women will acknowledge the fashion change by wearing it."

Mollie Paris: "The Dior silhouette definitely did make an impression but fortunately, the designers here were working along those lines simultaneously. All Dior did was make the designers a little more conscious of a new look."

Jack Horowitz: "Junior fashions will not reflect a very dramatic change, for young girls still love to look doll-like and young. There will be a slightly lowered waistline and perhaps 50 per cent of the skirts will be slim instead of full. Full skirts will have petticoats or puffed linings, but they will be made to cling around the hips."

Jane Derby: "I don't feel that Dior's silhouette would have been a success if New York manufacturers had not been in Paris to buy the models. New York manufacturers found that Dior had crystallized their own intentions in a very fine way. Undoubtedly the resort collection will reflect his silhouette. And independent designers will carry on with their own point of view toward fashion changes. Not all of these will be long-waisted and high-bosomed but they will be different."

Samuel Winston: "The high-bosomed, long-waisted silhouette is definitely right and therefore here to stay. I believe all designers give credit to Dior for introducing the opinion of many designers and making the public excited about it."

Lily Dache: "But yes, certainly! We badly needed a new silhouette, and this one is so becoming to every woman."

Cell Chapman: "As always, any change in fashion is good only when it makes a woman look more attractive. I believe enough women will find slender, long-lined clothes appealing, to justify placing emphasis on the long torso silhouette."

Ben Zuckerman: "There is no drastic change. Coats and suits for the coming season merely will be easier to wear, more colorful and require fewer alterations. In short, women simply will think they have better figures and prettier complexions than last year."

Susy Perette: "I think women were tired of looking like paper dolls and will welcome a change to look like grown-up sirens. Therefore, I believe this revolution will be a success."

Harvey Berin: "I think this is a change that designers understand and women will accept without realizing that it is a change. All they will know is that they look prettier and slimmer when they stand in front of a mirror, and that, after all, is enough to make fashion click."

Fashion at the grass roots or common sense level, as represented by those giants of the business—Sears, Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and J. C. Penney—is just mild about Dior. All three feel it's too early to make predictions but even if it weren't, they're on record as being unwilling to predict at all.

Not so with Nieman-Marcus of Dallas, one of the nation's fashion leaders. Lawrence Marcus, vice-president, writes that the current Dior collection crystallizes several trends that were apparent in the Dior spring collection. Nieman-Marcus thinks it a fashionable, wearable look and says their customers are buying it.

The store sees the Dior look as having a great effect on American design, though emphasizing that some of the trends were seen in the collection of Irene and Ben Zuckerman even before the Paris openings.

A last word (but certainly not the final word) comes from America's bra manufacturers. They say there will be no definite flat look but the line will be higher-bosomed with longer torso lines. And they are planning to sell a lot of corselettes to women who are willing to try to shape their future according to Dior.

Men's Clothes Gain Character

If one of our literary lights were to seek a way to say that winter is around the corner, he would probably choose to note that the pumpkin is newly frosted and he geese are flying south.

There are more convenient signs at hand for the urban populace: Winter clothes are in store windows.

It's quite a season for the male, for this year his cool weather plumage will be rich in texture and more definite in color. The new fall men's wear has positive character that takes it out of the class of "protective coloring" and back to where it belongs.

Men's clothes have a more positive masculine character. What brought this about? A combination of a new class of fabrics, light and supple wool "town tweeds," and new uses of darker, stronger colors.

Cordovan leather is made form the hides of horses.

Polka-dotted one-piece copy (Russeks) creates two-piece effect, has built-in bra.

Riding habit pebble tweed suit (also Macy's) has up-lifted bosom, tightly-fitted sleeves.

If straight figure—

No waistline! Then the middy will conceal the fact. These jumpers are most popular worn with skirts or slacks.

Miss S. P.—An easier waistline, looser and suppler, a big change from the small-waisted, rounded hip, exaggerated bosom look. This new, easy silhouette is more wearable for your straight boyish figure.

If you keep your mouth shut long enough someone may suspect that you have good common sense.

Job Tricks Learned at Card Party

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"A year ago," a young woman writes, "some friends and I were reading a column you wrote about how hard it is to get part-time jobs. There were four of us, and we were at our regular bridge luncheon, when one of the girls brought in the paper with your article in it."

"You said that the only way to get part-time jobs is to really dig and dig; that nobody would hand them out on a silver platter."

"Well, it interested us, because all of us have teen-age children and really were thinking about part-time jobs. But we had found them hard to get, as you said, so we had just given up the idea, and were playing bridge much too much."

"Then and there, we decided to do something about it. It took us a year, but now we all have our part-time jobs, and we thought if we told you about it, it might give other women some ideas."

"Mary was the only one with a college degree. She decided she was going to get a teaching job if it killed her. She had never taught, but she did a lot of work for the local PTA, and she knew there was a teacher shortage."

"She dug around, and found that by taking a summer school course she could do substitute teaching. She took the course, and is now teaching about two days a week and loving it, and even thinking of doing additional study and advancing in her teaching."

"Jean loved real estate, but hadn't been able to get into it because it requires full time and, often, even weekends and evenings. So she broke down and took a typing course, becoming real good at it."

"Then she hit all the real estate offices in town, and now has a part-time receptionist-typing job at one of the big ones."

"Margaret loved saleswork, but none of our shops wanted a part-time salesgirl. So she contacted one of the big cosmetic houses to see about direct selling—doorbell ringing."

"After all," she said, "I know I want selling, and if I can't do it any other way, I'll try ringing doorbells."

"Funny thing is, she loves it. She's on her own, makes her own hours, meets lots of interesting people, and does well financially."

"As for me," the letter concluded, "I like people, too, but I hate selling. So I finally landed a job as hostess at a restaurant in the downtown section, where I work from 10:30 to 3:30."

"Just goes to show that you can dig up a job if you really mean business."

Pamper Toddler With Pastel Coat and Poke Bonnet

In these days of too many toys, rather than too few, a thoughtful aunt or doting grandma may well turn to clothes as a good alternate. Girls are never too young to learn the importance of good clothes. Coming as gifts, these are more likely to be cherished.

Grandmothers with a bulging purse and a yen to pampering might well choose one of the lovely new pastel-colored corduroy coats with poke bonnet for a toddler. It comes with or without leggings.

In delicate pink, blue, maize or white, these toddlers look like real cherubs just stepped down from heaven. The coats are finely tailored and fitted in a smocked version, with sculptured princess lines, and some even have Irish lace trim.

Of course they soil quickly, but then they wash quickly too. Made of fine Sanforized corduroy they come through repeated washings without losing any of their original fit.

The lustrous sheen of the finely woven corduroy never lapses to that drab look of knock-about corduroys.

Bath Is Better Than the Shower for the Nerves

Nothing makes a woman feel more feminine than a luxurious, scented bath. But, busy women often forsake this luxury in favor of the short, brisk, time-saving shower.

As your doctor will tell you, a long, soothing bath is the quickest, easiest and least expensive way to relax the nerves and muscles thoroughly.

And, if you have the proper bath preparations, the bath can become a glamorous beauty (as well as health) ritual.

Starting with bath crystals, put these right under the tap for a good softening and scenting effect. Next, add bubble bath oil for an ultra-feminine feeling. It will also give your whole body the lubrication it needs.

Make certain your bath soap (choose your bath soap in rainbow colors, for a gay note) provides foamy, rich lather as well as a refreshing scent.

Starting with your toes, scrub your entire body with a soapy brush, paying particular attention to your heels, elbows, upper arms and wherever you notice roughened skin.

If you've spent some time as a weekend guest with someone who shares your love of bath preparations, you might offer her a thank-you gift of the same bath soap she so generously offered you during your stay.

Get Wind Sleeves

In a cold clime, a coat without wind sleeves is a bad buy. If the coat is a bargain, buy the inner cuffs at the five-and-ten and install them. If you're handy with a needle, wool embroidery will brighten the edges of the cuff.

Mrs. Post Agrees With Woman's Own Opinion on Matter

By EMILY POST

I would very much appreciate your opinion on the following matter. I personally feel that it is in very bad taste for anyone to dance cheek to cheek, and although I think that teenagers can get away with it because of their youth, it is especially poor taste for those past their teens to do this. There are some in our set who agree with me, but quite a few that do not. What do you have to say about this?

I agree with you very definitely.

Dear Mrs. Post: Our daughter is being married very soon here in our house. The wedding will be a simple one, although our daughter will wear a bridal dress and veil. I would like to know if it is necessary for me to wear a hat inasmuch as the wedding is in the house and not in the church, or is it permissible to appear without one?

Because it is a religious ceremony, you should wear something on your head and not be bareheaded—no necessarily a hat but a headress of some sort.

Dear Mrs. Post: Could you enlighten us on the correct wearing of veiled hats? Specifically, a young woman in our circle recently bought a very lovely hat trimmed with a light colored veil sparsely dotted with tiny rhinestones, the veil coming just below the nose.

This young woman was quite upset when she was criticized for wearing a "veiled hat" at night. Does good taste frown on wearing such a hat during the evening?

The rhinestones suggest evening wear and if she thinks it becoming and likes it, there is no reason why she shouldn't wear it.

Dear Mrs. Post: May boys of fourteen act as junior ushers at a wedding? There are two boys of this age whom we would like to include in my daughter's wedding if you say it is proper. Would they help seat the guests?

It would be entirely proper and they would help seat guests.

Confident Living

Belief in Self Overrides Feeling of Limitations

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

I once knew a man whose job it was to help people when they got into business difficulties. In his career, he must have rescued dozens of firms and individuals.

He once told me that the best way to rescue a firm was to rescue individual people in it; that nine times out of ten a firm would be failing because the men who worked for it didn't believe in themselves.

My friend would go into one of these sick firms when called upon. He would study the organization and the employees. On one such job, he noticed a young man of engaging personality, alert and keen, wrapping up parcels in the shipping department. "How old are you," he asked.

"I'm thirty-two," the clerk replied. "Then why are you still here wrapping packages?"

The fellow shrugged. "What's wrong with this job? I'm satisfied. It's a living. I've got no kick coming."

"You shouldn't be satisfied!" exclaimed my friend. "The trouble with you, young man, is that all the kick has gone out of you." He pointed to a man sitting behind a glass door labeled, "Sales Manager." "Do you see that desk?" he asked. That is going to be your place because that man is going to be advanced. That's where you belong, and that's where you're going to be one of these days."

The clerk looked at him unbelievably. "Leave me alone. I'm satisfied where I am. I don't want to be anything more."

"Just the same," my friend answered, "that's where you're going to be. And I want you to stand here now and look at that sales manager's office and get printed on your mind the firm idea that is where you belong."

A few days later he went to see the young man again. "You and I are going out on the road today to learn how to sell. They started off and went part of the way around the territory several times. Then one dark, gloomy night they arrived at Wheeling, West Virginia. In the railroad station, my friend turned to the younger man and said: "I'm leaving you here. You've got to sell the rest of the way by yourself. And you must do so well that you will end up behind that door I pointed out to you."

The younger man watched his teacher get on the train. He said afterward that he felt the loneliest and most scared person alive. But, from the train step, my friend called to him: "Remember, you're still not alone. You've got someone with you who believes in you and will help you."

As my friend told me later, that young man did eventually end up behind that sales manager's door. More than that, he has made a great record. "But," my friend told me, "he still insists that if I hadn't come along and broken down his sense of limitations, he would never have believed in himself."

If your mind will only believe, you can do all things through God. He is with you always and will help you. Believe that God wants you to do the best you can. Then be sure He will help you to do it.

Theater to Show Religious Films Free of Charge

By Religious News Service

PHILADELPHIA — Officials of Christian Youth Cinema Inc. announced here that the organization has purchased the Chelton Theater in a suburban Germantown and will operate it as the nation's first religious film house.

The Rev. Harry G. Bristow Jr., founder and director of the Cinema group, said no admission charge will be made at the theater's nightly showings of religious movies.

He added that one of the project's main purposes is to combat juvenile delinquency. A mutual interest in this problem, the clergyman said, led Leven Pizer, president of the theater chain, to the idea of a low price.

The Christian film organization also plans to establish an audio-visual institute and an audio-visual Sunday school at the motion picture house, Mr. Bristow said, and eventually will move its religious film library, now located at Glenside, Pa., to the building. He said the library is the largest and most complete of its kind in the world.

The Rev. C. J. Kinsolving III, rector of the Church of Holy Faith, Santa Fe, N. M., became the fourth Protestant Episcopal bishop in his family when he recently was elected bishop coadjutor of the New Mexico and Southwest Texas diocese.

Everyday Religion

DIZZY SAID IT

By DON D. TULLIS

With the country slowly recovering from its latest attack of baseballitis, many fans are convealing on the autobiography of Grantland Rice, THE WORLD I LOVED, in which he gives striking incidents in the lives of some of the great players of the past.

Among them is the famous Dizzy Dean. When he was recovering from an injured shoulder Rice asked him, "How is your arm?" He replied "Well, Grant, it ain't what it was, but what the h— is?"

That is a masterpiece. No preacher ever spoke a more forceful word on the inescapable law of material mortality. Of most everything, sooner or later, it may be said "It ain't what it was."

Summer is not what it was and the beautiful foliage of the New England hills is even now dropping its leaves for the death-bed of gorgeous Autumn.

At middle-age our bodies are not what they were. Our reflexes are slower and our reactions less forceful. We may delay this experience by clean living, but not for long. Some one told an old lady she was beautiful, to which she replied "Well, I should be. I have had ninety years in which to put on my make-up." But the best of make-ups finally fade, and no lip-stick can long withstand the tireless tick of time.

There comes a day when life itself is not what it was. He is wise who, mid changing scenes, comes to know that only God is changeless. And because He is, if we catch step with Him our FEARS AND FAILURES, OUR TRIALS AND TROUBLES will not be what they were. They will give way to a "faith that will not shrink though pressed by many a foe."

This faith will hold us in every storm. We shall sense a constant Presence walking by our side, every step, every mile of the way. And although "The stars fade, the sun itself grow dim with age and nature sink in years, we shall flourish in immortal youth, unhurt amid the war of elements, the wrecks of matter and the crush of worlds."

FAITH! It is the answer to all change and decay, and they who trust the plan and purpose of the Creator will never worry over the fact that "things ain't what they were."

Rather, they shall shout with Browning—"What's Time? Leave NOW for dogs and apes. MAN HAS FOREVER."

Gifts of Food Needed According to CROP

ELKHART, Indiana — A stepped up food appeal by CROP to the farmers and churchmen of America will reflect the greater role the churches will play in international relief in 1955.

CROP, The Christian Rural Overseas Program, is now in the midst of the 1954 canvassing season. Reports show increased spontaneous response to the need for voluntary gifts of food for victims in disaster areas of Greece, North Africa, Indo-China, East Pakistan, India and Korea.

WILL TELL OF RECOVERY—Maj. and Mrs. S. G. Dean, who are on a lecture tour, are currently residing in their trailer at 2735 James Couzens Hwy. They are fulfilling a promise made to St. Jude when the Major was facing major surgery on his lungs.

Major Dean Will Relate Story of Miraculous Cure

Monday evening at 8 o'clock, Major S. G. Deans will speak at St. Vincent de Paul Parish Hall. He is currently touring the country as a super salesman for St. Jude Thaddeus and St. Francis of Assisi and His Third Order.

For 11 years the major was with the U. S. Army. Only when tuberculosis struck did he give up military life and turn to study and lecturing.

His present work is in making thanksgiving to St. Jude, the "patron of hopeless cases", for what the major calls his "miraculous office writing and compiling hand-cure", and in helping to make this world a better place to live in by following the Third Order of St. Francis.

Most of his time in the army had been in the adjutant general's books on military life.

In 1945 he joined Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff in Luzon, Philippines. There he contracted pulmonary tuberculosis and was returned to the states for rest and recuperation.

As a last result the doctors advised surgery. It was at this time that the Deans started a solemn novena to St. Jude, promising the saint that if it were God's will that he should recover, they would promote devotion to him and do their best to make others better Catholics.

In the nine days of grace given him by the doctors' the lungs showed great improvement, and in a few weeks the major was permitted to get out of bed and eventually he was discharged.

Since then the major has completed his college studies and is now fulfilling his promise.

Back home, the Filbys checked the wedding invitation. It said the ceremony would be in Grace Methodist Church — but at Cedar Falls, Iowa, instead of Des Moines.

Load Off Her Mind

Country Reporter Bares Gripes in Weekly Column

CEDAR SPRINGS, Mich. (UP)—Mrs. Lavina Heminger, a rural correspondent for the weekly Cedar Springs Clipper, got a load off her mind in her column in this week's Clipper.

Mrs. Heminger has been the Sandy Pleasant correspondent for the Clipper for 20 years and officials of the paper said her column "is one of the most popular features of the paper."

In her column this week, Mrs. Heminger wrote:

"Well my mind is so full of a certain subject I can think of nothing else. And so even if I know I will make many enemies I must write about it. Why is it that my boy and other neighbor men can't get a deer during hunting season? I will tell you why. It is because all the deer are killed weeks before hunting starts. Last night a group of men from different cities (I could name them, the towns) and a few men nearer by were out shining deer for an hour or more. When I picked up the phone to call a friend the warning lights in different houses went out like a flash, and I heard cars coming home.

"I presume I will be tormented worse than ever but if someone don't stick up for the law what good is it? The Rentsman family saw 3 deer Sunday morning, a doe, a buck and a baby fawn. What chance have they got with a pack of dogs after them?

"Now that I have got into so much trouble I might as well tell some more. I have a neighbor who likes to torment me. They have a bunch of chickens. They like to live at my place. One sleeps in my hen house every night. I can't get her out. 2 more go home at night. I have fed them most of the summer, am feeding them now.

"They weigh from 2 to 3 lbs. I asked the neighbors to take them home. They didn't. I asked how much they wanted for them. They said $3. I said I would not give it.

"Then during the late fall, winter and early spring I am pestered to death with 5 head of cattle. They roam my fields as if they owned them. They pulled up all my strawberries last spring and ate them so I had no berries. They broke my big gate; now it lies on the ground and I am not able to fix it. When I come home from church Sundays there stand the cattle on my back cement porch.

Nina Babcock, editor of the Clipper, said Mrs. Heminger's column "already has caused repercussions." Miss Babcock said state police and conservation officers began investigating shining activities in the area where Mrs. Babcock lives soon after this week's Clipper came out.

Gasoline taxes, state and federal, and other levies on motor vehicles, will raise an estimated $30 billion in revenue in the next 10 to 12 years.

Arrest Damage Given by Jury

Appeal Likely After Judge Claims Verdict Is Out of Line

An Oakland County Circuit Court jury yesterday awarded a 32-year-old Walled Lake man a $12,000 judgment against Thomas C. Fitzpatrick and Fitzpatrick's Pharmacy Inc. on a charge of false arrest.

The jury's finding, however, was questioned by Judge George B. Hartrick.

Minor E. White of 7400 Honey-suckle Dr., brought the suit claiming Fitzpatrick had him falsely arrested and held in Oakland County Jail March 12 and 13, 1953.

"A principle of law was involved," said Hartrick. "I thought I had thoroughly explained the issue to the jury. In my opinion the jury did not understand or ignored the charge of the court and returned a verdict contrary to the law and facts as presented."

Fitzpatrick's attorneys have 30 days to enter a motion for a new trial or a motion for the judge to decide the case apart from the jury's findings. Attorneys for the defendant were reported planning an appeal.

White, formerly employed by Fitzpatrick as a pharmacist, stated in a bill of complaint that on March 9, 1953 Fitzpatrick accused him of embezzling a large sum of money.

He claimed he was arrested in the Riker building and held all day while being questioned and was not allowed to leave until he signed a statement admitting theft of $12,000. Next day he said he was taken to Lansing for a lie detector test, and upon his return was jailed without a warrant.

Fitzpatrick denied that White was held for questioning against his will and said he questioned White after finding irregularities in the cash register. He said he did not urge White's arrest and detention in jail.

Fitzpatrick said he later decided not to prosecute.

"Juries generally desire to learn whether the court is in accord," Judge Hartrick stated. "In this instance, I thought the verdict... was out of line..."

It is nevertheless understandable how lay people will occasionally form opinions which reflect human impulses rather than those justified by the testified facts in the light of the law of the case."

Kent Starts Safety Drive

GRAND RAPIDS (UP)—Kent County motorists are being warned to "watch for that walker" in a two-month traffic safety campaign. Sheriff Arnold Pigorsch and Police Superintendent Dewey Beaver said special attention will be given drivers who commit traffic violations which endanger pedestrians.

WRAPPED UP IN WORK — Starlet Maria English, who has an important role in Paramount's forthcoming "White Christmas," hasn't let her success go to her head—it's gone to her feet. Anyway, as you can see, she's all bound up in her work.

Monroe Evicted From Apartment

Mistake of Landlady Puts Movie Star in Wrong Quarters

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Because of the mistake of a landlady, a New York doctor nearly found Marilyn Monroe in his bed when he moved into his new Hollywood apartment this week, it was revealed today.

Marilyn was in a hurry to move out of her ex-honeymoon cottage on Palm Drive in Beverly Hills because the lease is up next Friday.

Furthermore, a friend of the calendar girl said: "To many memories in that house, and she figures the sooner she gets out, the better."

So two days after Joe DiMaggio struck out at home and went back to San Francisco, Marilyn rented a $450-a-month apartment in the swanky Sunset Strip area from the landlady-owner. It was beautifully furnished in expensive antiques.

Last Sunday, her day off, she moved in—lipstick, nylons and all. But the next day the rental agent told the horrified landlady he already had rented the apartment to a doctor from New York.

The physician had signed a lease, gotten the key and paid the advance rent. Furthermore, the New Yorker was a close friend of the owner's daughter who had arranged the rental.

The next day the owner had the task of "evicting" Marilyn Monroe from her new apartment.

The owner, who wishes to be anonymous, sighed that the incident was "very distressing and embarrassing to all of us. Marilyn's such a nice girl we would love to have her back when we have a vacancy."

A scant few hours after Marilyn packed her belongings and went back to the DiMaggio house, the doctor arrived with his baggage and moved in. So far he still does not know Marilyn slept there.

Now the world's favorite blonde is almost homeless. She was even forced to spend two nights at the studio.

Designer Barbara Barondess MacClean, owner of the $750-a-month home where Marilyn and Joe spent happier days, has arrived from New York to re-rent the place.

"I hope to hear tomorrow that Marilyn has decided on an apartment," she said.

Mrs. MacClean will have no trouble in finding another tenant for the English-style home in Beverly Hills. There has been a lively interest among prospective tenants. Dagmar, TV's bosomy blonde, was one who wanted to go through the house.

The designer said she plans to get a "carefully screened" tenant who will stay a long time and not wind up in the headlines.

"The lawn is a wreck," she said. "Sightseers and photographers trampled down the rose bushes."

The armies of Alexander the Great saw sugar for the first time when they invaded India.

BEAUTY FROM EAST—Winsome Keiko Awa, dubbed as the Marilyn Monroe of Japan, is Hollywood's newest import from the East. The Oriental charmer makes her screen debut in "The Bridges of Toko-Ri."

Turnpike Protests Heard at Meeting

BAY CITY (UP)—Protest against plans for construction of turnpikes in Michigan still were heard yesterday after the proposals came up for debate at the annual meeting of the East Michigan Tourist Assn.

Dan Haley, Saginaw oil dealer, said independent gasoline station owners in the Saginaw Valley are circulating petitions asking Gov. Williams to appoint a new committee to study turnpike proposals. The petitions also ask the Legislature to call a halt to further action by the Michigan Turnpike Authority until the study is completed.

The petitions were prepared by the Michigan Highway Owners and Users Assn., which Haley described as a group of oil dealers, real estate men and others interested in the tourist business.

The hassle began when the turnpike authority announced plans to build a 114-mile toll road from Rockwood, near Detroit, to Bridgeport, south of Saginaw.

If Heaven Bars Pooches, Judge Refuses to Stay

LONDON (UP)—Do dogs go to heaven? A British judge says he thinks they do—but if they don't he won't want to stay there.

Judge Tudor Rees gave the opinion yesterday in hearing a claim for damages against Mrs. Lucy Prosser, former tenant of a house in suburban Bantstead.

Mrs. Prosser said she bred dogs, but after complaints from her neighbors she agreed not to let them in her house.

"But that is like shutting out a member of the family," said Judge Rees. "What is the use of having such a faithful friend if you cannot have him in the house?"

"If unswerving fidelity and un-failing affection are passports to paradise all dogs will have honored places there," he added. "And if I do not find dogs in paradise, it will not be paradise for me and I shall probably apply for a transfer to the other place."

The judge found Mrs. Prosser responsible for the damage to the house but added: "I do not blame the dogs."

Prompt Surgery Saving Young Victims of Cancer

EAST LANSING (UP)—Early operations on children who are cancer victims are saving lives, a Wayne University Medical College professor said yesterday.

"Cancer is second only to accidents among the causes of deaths in children," Dr. Clifford D. Benson told some 400 American cancer society volunteers attending a conference at Kellogg Center.

Dr. Benson said frequent examinations to detect any abnormal growths can be the means of saving lives.

"Pediatricians who have children under their care from birth have been the most valuable means of early diagnosis," he said. Dr. Harry M. Nelson, of Detroit, past president of the American Cancer Society, reported deaths from lung cancer in the United States are increasing at the rate of 1,400 a year.

While no drug cures cancer, Dr. Nelson said, chemotherapy is a valuable adjunct to X-ray and surgery.

"Many drugs do prolong life and alleviate suffering," he said. "The ideal cancer drug is not yet in sight, and it is not likely that a drug to cure all cancers ever will be found."

"Nevertheless," he said, "there is no case of cancer no matter how far advanced for which nothing can be done. A cure is even possible in some advanced cases."

In his discussion of cancer among children, Dr. Benson cited the case of two Detroit area youngsters, Michael Paglia Jr., 3, of Center Line, and Paula Jane Parsons, 5, of Detroit.

Michael was operated on for a kidney cancer when he was only eight weeks old, and Paula two years ago, Dr. Benson said. The cancer in Paula's kidney had spread to her lungs, but the tumor was removed.

Travel to Vegas When Looking for Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Come to Las Vegas and see Hollywood. Sounds silly, but that's the way it is up here in the land of long-legged lovelies and one-armed bandits. I stepped off the plane at McCarran Field and guess what I saw. A movie company!

They were shooting a film right at the airport. A TV outfit was making part of a series starring Ann Sheridan. She explained she plays the role of press agent for one of the Vegas hotels.

Driving down the gaudy strip of resort hotels, you can see the Hollywood influence. The architecture is by DeMille out of Zanuck. And for window dressing, the casinos offer familiar film names in the floor shows.

Keefe Brasselle was headlining at the Flamingo. Vivian Blaine, who is soon to repeat her stage role in the movie "Guys and Dolls," was lighting up the Last Frontier. Ann Blyth was winding up an amazingly successful stand at the Sahara. Those Hollywood expatriates, Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy, starred at the Sands.

One of the first persons I encountered in the Sahara lobby was Victor Mature, making Las Vegas his headquarters since the split with his wife.

Marlene Dietrich, added glamor to the place with her cool beauty. After her opening, she poured champagne for admirers, who included Van Johnson. He flew up to wish her well.

When Betty Hutton finished up her first show to a standing ovation, a reporter remarked, "We'll be telling our grandchildren about this show." It was indeed a memorable evening. One wonders how Hutton would adjust to devoting all that energy to being a housewife and den mother for the Browns.

But she remained firm in her vow to retire. I asked her about a report that she was broke and would have to keep working. "How could I retire if I was broke?" she replied.

The Statue of Liberty is 305 feet above the water.

Wolves Claw Chiefs, 32-6, in Rain, Mud

SPECTATOR HUDDLES—All the huddles weren't on the field at Wm. Stadium last night, when Bay City Central defeated Pontiac High 32-6 in the rain. A few of the small, hardy group of fans turning out

By BILL MARTIN

Pontiac High's football team was completely outclassed by an opponent for the first time this season here last night.

A handful of shivering fans huddled in Wm. Stadium to watch Bay City Central hand the Chiefs their 3rd straight loss, 32-6, in a cold, driving rain.

Once-beaten Wolves, apparently unperturbed by the rain and mud, scored twice in the 1st half and then ran over the water-logged Chiefs for three more touchdowns in the final period.

Sparkplug of Central's squad was Namon Smith, 5-foot 6-inch 132-pound fullback. Smith lugged the soaked pigskin 25 times for a net gain of 185 yards—five yards more than the entire PHS team rushing total. On one scoring march in the final period, the indestructible little speedster carried on seven consecutive plays.

Bay City posted its 1st marker late in the opening period, with Smith cutting inside his left end and splashing 61 yards for the score. Wolves made it 13-0 early in the next period after Pontiac was forced to punt out from its own 1-yard line. Quarterback Jim Chesney passed 25 yards to halfback George Stevenson, who fell into the end zone. Chesney passed to end Dan Brady for the extra point.

Chiefs staged their only sustained drive at the start of the 3rd period, taking the kickoff back 85 yards in 13 plays. Coley Gracy, Freeman Watkins and Walt Poe all contributed short gains in the march, and Gracy plunged for the final five yards.

Marv Caswell's attempted conversion fell short and Pontiac trailed 13-6.

Bay City pulled away easily in the finale. End Chuck Gatza blocked a Pontiac punt on the Chiefs 12 early in the period, and Smith scooted 12 yards for his 2nd tally.

Smith's replacement, Jim Johnson, added another score a few minutes later, going 30 yards. Willie Smith, Namon's older brother, wound up scoring with a 32-yard gallop in the final 33 seconds.

Although Pontiac collected 181 yards from scrimmage, most of the total was gained in its own territory. With the exception of their scoring march, Chiefs were never able to penetrate Central's 38-yard line.

Upsets Possible Lions, Eagles Favored to Remain Undefeated

By TED MEIER

The Associated Press
 On the face of things the Philadelphia Eagles and Detroit Lions seem a cinch to remain unbeaten this weekend as the National Football League swings into its fourth week of competition.

But it is just possible the Washington Redskins and the Baltimore Colts will upset the nicely laid plans of the Eagles and Lions.

The world champion Lions, Western Conference leaders, entertain the Colts in a night game at Briggs Stadium tonight. On Sunday, the Eagles, on top in the Eastern Conference, invade Washington to battle the Redskins at Griffith Stadium.

There are four other Sunday games. The New York Giants, tied with Pittsburgh for the runner-up spot to the Eagles, open their 30th home season at Polo Grounds against the Chicago Cardinals.

Pittsburgh entertains the Cleveland Browns; San Francisco will pay the Chicago Bears in Chicago, and the Los Angeles Rams tangle with the Green Bay Packers in Milwaukee.

Off its convincing triumph over the Rams last Sunday, Detroit is favored to stomp the Colts tonight. If Buddy Young, the Colts' star, breaks loose as he did against the Giants, the Lions may find their hands full. Then, too, the Lions were keyed up for the Rams and they may not reach the same peak against the Colts.

The Eagles also may suffer a relapse against the Redskins, a team always difficult for the Philadelphia. The Eagles just nipped Pittsburgh 24-22 last week coming from behind in the last quarter. And while the Redskins were trounced 31-21 by the Giants they can be counted upon for an inspired performance against the Eagles.

Neither a driving rain nor a power failure which reduced the Detroit field to semi-darkness could stop Riley. He returned two punts for touchdowns to pave the way for a 20-0 triumph over Villanova.

Riley broke a scoreless deadlock in the 3rd period when he grabbed a Villanova punt and streaked 39 yards for a touchdown.

Halfback Bob Burgmeier's 64-yard punt return late in the same period set up the 2nd Detroit touchdown. Burgmeier returned to the Villanova seven and quarterback Tom Tramski plunged over from the one on the 2nd play of the final period.

Midway in the 4th period Riley broke loose on a 58-yard touchdown jaunt after picking up another Villanova punt.

Spartan Squad Underdogs for South Bend Tilt

More Than 57,000 to See MSC Try for 4th Win Over Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (INS) — Notre Dame's Fighting Irish, losers in their last three games with Michigan State College, are favored today to whip the Spartans before a sellout crowd of over 57,000 fans at South Bend.

Both teams have shown uncertain defenses this year, with full-back and right halfback the weak links in the Irish lineup.

Loss of all last season's regular backfield with the exception of LeRoy Bolden has slowed the Michigan State attack. Spartans have been further handicapped by injury to Bolden, who may not play against Notre Dame.

Irish have beaten Texas and Pittsburgh but were downed by Purdue, 27-14, as the Boilermakers' star sophomore quarterback, Len Dawson, staged a brilliant four-touchdown passing spree.

MSC lost to Iowa and Wisconsin but beat Indiana in its last game.

Notre Dame rates a 13-point favorite on the passing of quarterback Ralph Guglielmi to ends Dan Shannon and Paul Matz, and the hard running of left halfback Joe Heap and fullback Don Schaefer.

The Alouettes lead the Big Four but their only loss was suffered at the hands of the Tiger-Cats the last time they met.

The other Big Four game matches the Toronto Argonauts against the Ottawa Rough Riders at Ottawa.

Northwestern in a Big Ten football game.

Northwestern has dropped its last two games to Southern California and Minnesota after an opening game victory over Iowa State.

Coach Bennie Oosterbaan will face the Wildcats with a backfield jugged by injuries. Ed Hickey, 165-pound senior who took over the right halfback post when starter Tony Brannoff was hurt against Army, now also is sidelined. Hickey suffered a broken rib against Iowa.

Oosterbaan plans to start George Corey, 175-pound junior or sophomore Ed Shannon at the spot.

Sophomore Jim Maddock who turned in a top flight quarterbacking job against the Hawkeyes will get the starting call over Duncan McDonald. Dan Cline will start at left half and Fred Baer at fullback.

Lou Baldacci, 1st-string fullback who missed the Army and Iowa games because of a shoulder injury is expected to see some action today.

Oxford Still Unbeaten

Bill Nicholson picked up a fumble and went 50 yards for the tying score in the 4th quarter.

Milford and Holly struggled to a 0-0 tie in the mud at Holly.

At Hazel Park, Birmingham scored on the 1st play and made the touchdown and extra point hold up for a 7-0 victory. Bill Watkinson intercepted the only pass the Parkers attempted and went 29 yards to score. He also added the vital point.

Oxford's Wildcats took advantage of a 4th quarter break in Friday night's sloppy going to defeat Lake Orion, 2-0, and remain Oakland County's only undefeated and untied prep eleven.

In the afternoon, Avondale protected its unbeaten, one-tied record by blanking Roseville, 13-0. Waterford and Rochester snapped off of slumps with victories and Keego Harbor was tied, 13-13, by underdog Brighton in other feature games Friday.

Fumbles reduced the Oxford-Orion game to a defensive contest, but Orion got in a hole midway in the 4th period when a penalty put the Dragons on their 1-yard line. When Orion tried to run the ball out, the center of the Oxford line rose up to halt the play in the end zone for the game-winning safety.

Avondale's tough defense and Marv Evans were too much for Roseville. Bill Johnson set up the 1st TD by recovering a fumble on the Roseville 10 and Evans scored from the 2. Dick Gronski passed to Evans and he rambled 50 yards for the other marker.

At Waterford, the Skippers spilled Van Dyke from the Inter-Lakes Conference lead, 19-6. Just before halftime, Waterford fullback Dave Larkin ran 50 yards on a trap play as Laine Hetherington laid a key block.

Larkin scored again in the 3rd period following Al Nestor's fumble recovery on the Abee's 18. In the 4th quarter, Hetherington sprinted 48 yards for the final touchdown.

Rochester bounced back from two losses to beat Dearborn Lowrey, 13-0. Falcons scored in the 1st period on a 14-yard John Burhard to Pat Nunn pass. In the final period, Buzz DeBaene carried 26 yards to score.

Bob Schilke, 240-pound tackle, sparked the Rochester defense, which held Lowrey to two 1st downs.

Keego Harbor had to come from behind twice to earn its tie with Brighton. Dennis Singleton went 68 yards in the 1st period and Tom McLennon kicked an extra point to take a brief 7-6 lead. End

Basilio Batters Gronik, Rates at Title Challenger

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Carmen Basilio, son of an onion farmer from nearby Canastota, stood out today as the only logical opponent for the winner of next Wednesday's welterweight title fight between champion Kid Gavilan and Johnny Saxton.

Carmen added unranked Allie Gronik of Detroit—the second sub for a toppled Gil Turner—to his long list of victims here Friday night and came away with assurances of both the New York State Athletic Commission and the International Boxing Club that he would get Wednesday's winner in a championship chance.

Basilio was the old master with Gronik, a flailing, hard puncher figured as a 17-5 underdog in the match with the long-standing No. 1 welter contender. Both Gronik's eyes were cut and nearly closed at the end.

The decision hardly could have been more one sided. Basilio won all 10 rounds on Judge Ted Shell's card and nine on all the others.

Judge Jack Kimball gave Gronik the third round. Referee Harry Kessler called the fourth even. The AP card had the fifth even.

After the fight, Basilio paid tribute to Gronik's unorthodox style and rugged stamina with the words: "He's the toughest kid I've ever fought."

British, Russian 3-Mile Footrace Is Abandoned

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—An expected 3-mile race today between Britain's Gordon Pirie and Russia's Vladimir Kuc fell through when Kuc withdrew.

Kuc on Wednesday had barely been beaten by Britain's Chris Chataway in world record time for the 5,000 meters. Russian officials said Kuc wanted to rest for his 5,000-meter race against Emil Zatopek of Czechoslovakia in Prague two weeks from now.

Pontiac Runners Lengthen String

Chief Harriers Defeat Flint Northern, 20-36, for 32nd Victory

Pontiac High's cross country team won its 32nd consecutive dual meet yesterday at Flint, defeating Northern, 36-20. PHS harriers' victory span dates back to midway through the 1949 season.

Vikings' Charles Garvin finished in 1st place in 10 minutes 36.6 seconds, but Pontiac runners grabbed the next five places. Bill Douglas was 2nd, followed by Perry Williams, Rod Treanor, Norris Jackson and Eugene Cretal.

Other finishers, in order, were Bill Russell, Wayne Belanger and Dan Pool of Northern. Bill Imboden of Pontiac, Mose Henderson of Flint, Fred Cox of Pontiac and Dick McKenzie and Kermit Welch of Northern.

Sophomore Alex Barge was 1st in the javelin run, won by North-ern 25-32.

Chiefs are host to the Saginaw Valley Conference meet here next Thursday.

Sugar Ray Robinson Eyes Comeback Against Olson

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, one of the greatest boxers of all time, says he has the "urge" to fight again and hopes to make a comeback.

"It all depends on how I look in training," said Robinson who retired 22 months ago as undefeated world middleweight champion.

"I feel good—I don't think I ever felt any better," said Ray at a press conference at his Harlem bar and grill Friday. "I would like to become the first retired champion ever to regain a title. And I hope to get a shot at mid-dleweight champion Bob Olson if my training works out well.

"But if I can't regain the condition that I was once so proud of then I'll give the idea up."

Robinson, who says he is 32 although the record books list him as 34, apparently has forgotten the statement he issued when he gave up his middleweight crown 22 months ago.

"I find I can't move in the ring with the same speed, dispatch and accuracy," said Robinson then. "Now the coordination isn't there any more—I don't want to wait to have someone tell me I'm through."

Robinson, whose last fight was a 14th-round TKO loss to light heavyweight champion Joe Maxim on June 25, 1952, said he would go to his training camp at Greenwood Lake Monday and take things easy for a month before he really began to train.

Philadelphia Group Makes Late Bid to Keep Athletics

By TOM BRADSHAW

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics' franchise today was in the position of a 54-year-old tree that had been buffeted by a major league hurricane—tottering before a gale out of Kansas City but not quite fully uprooted.

Roy Mack, executive vice president of the Athletics and "tree surgeon deluxe" in the drama, was bidding the f-w hours left to make up his mind whether he was prepared to sell out to Arnold Johnson, Chicago financier who wants to move the franchise to Kansas City, a move already approved by a meeting of American League owners.

Mack's alternative was to produce a financial shot in the arm, a cure that became more than a vague possibility yesterday when a band of 10 "last minute" men pledged sufficient cash to keep the club in Philadelphia.

Roy took the pledge under advisement and retired to his chambers to deliberate over the weekend, with his brother, Earle, and their father, Connie Mack Sr.—the other major factors in any deal—reportedly standing by for sudden action.

Johnson last night issued a "statement of position." Johnson said he was still under the impression he was on the inside track to buy the Philadelphia American League franchise and had the cash ready whenever Roy Mack made up his mind. In fact said Johnson, he had promised Roy a five-year contract for a front-office job with the transplanted A's at Kansas City, plus a share of stock in the club, and a job for Roy's son, Connie Mack III.

But admittedly it went a little deeper into the Mack clan than just Roy's mind. The big hitch

Benedict-Rita Clash Features Parochial Card

St. Mary's St. Rita Clash Features Parochial Card

St. Mary's St. Rita clash tomorrow in a crucial mid-season contest to highlight a full 4-game Suburban Catholic League card. Both are unbeaten in three games.

Both Pontiac parochial squads are in action. Winless St. Frederick plays host to Center Line St. Clement in an afternoon game at Wm. Stadium, while St. Michael goes to St. James Sunday evening.

Mikes, who surprised Royal Oak St. Mary 38-6 on Monday, rate top-heavy favorites over St. James. Dales have lost four straight games this season, and have been able to score only one touchdown.

Rams face a tougher foe in St. Clement, newest member of the SCL. Clements lost 2 of their 4 starts by a total margin of only 3 points.

Orchard Lake St. Mary will seek its 2nd victory of the year at Royal Oak St. Mary.

Canadiens Assume Leadership in NHL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The 1954 National Hockey League campaign still is in its infancy but already the Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings, last season's Stanley cup finalists, are threatening to make a runaway of the race.

Canadiens took over 1st place last night by defeating the winless Blackhawks 3-0 in the only game of the night. The two points gave the Montreal sextet seven points, one more than the Red Wings.

All Montreal scoring was done by the high-powered line of Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, Dickie Moore and Jean Marc Beliveau. Each came through with one goal.

Oregon, USC Contest TV Highlight Today

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—University of Oregon and Southern California take over the country's television screens today for the NCAA football game of the week.

Southern Cal is favored slightly over the Ducks, who are dedicating the game to Ken Sweitzer. Sweitzer, star lineman on last year's Oregon squad, was fatally wounded by Jack Patera, a guard on this year's team, in a deer hunting accident Thursday. Patera, at the urging of Sweitzer's widow, has agreed to play today.

Kickoff is at 4:30 p.m. (EST).

Golf Takes Holiday

CHICAGO (AP)—Outside of a select few who are competing in Australia, America's golf pros are in for a comparative rest until the winter tournament tour begins in California.

The Professional Golfers' Assn. fall tournament schedule includes only three events. They are the LaGorce pro-amateur in Miami, Fla., on Dec. 7; the Miami Open Dec. 9-12 in Miami, and the Havana Invitational in Cuba, Dec. 16-19.

Nation's Top Collegiate Grid Powers Play Today, Wondering Who Will Be Next Upset Wave Victim

By ED CORRIGAN

The Associated Press
 The top college football teams in the country stepped on the fields today wondering who would be the next victim of the strange wave of reversals that have struck all season.

Battle Creek Dog Wins Friday Event
 Winning over a field of 39 bables in Friday's 13-inch, all-age bitches event at Sashabaw Ranch. Oak Shadows Agatha (Gordon H. Nelson, Battle Creek) collected 89 points toward the 120 she needs for a championship. This was her 2nd top place in two weeks. She is two-years old.

Today's and Sunday's events will conclude the Oakland County Beagle Club's 4-day AKC licensed trial.

Other places in order went to Jaynes Little Pan (Wally Jayne, Ann Arbor); Little Irma (Charles Thomas, Garden City); Bessie (Crest Springs, George Schroeder Jr., Grand Haven); and reserve, Red Brook Shire (Roy St. Aubin, St. Clair Shores).

Oklahoma, the heir-apparent to Maryland's mythical national crown, faced what appeared to be an easy assignment in Kansas. The Jayhawks haven't won a game in four starts and are not even thinking in terms of whipping the Sooners who have ground out three straight victories without a defeat. All they hope to do is make it interesting.

Notre Dame and Michigan State, two teams trying to regain lost prestige, met in South Bend with favored.

The NCAA's national television game of the week starting at 4:15 p.m., EST, over ABC pitted Southern California against Oregon. There were tragic overtones to this game. Two days ago Jack Patera of Oregon accidentally shot and killed Ken Sweitzer, a standout guard on last year's team, while hunting deer. It was doubtful if the grief-stricken Patera would be able to play.

Duke faced a difficult assignment against Army, while Navy journeyed to Pitt. Two of the East's unbeaten, Penn State and West Virginia, met and Maryland, twice beaten after winning the national title last year, entertained North Carolina.

Of all the big boys, UCLA faced the most perilous chore. The Uclans met Stanford and while they were favored, Stanford has a strong club that would provide an uncomfortable afternoon for the third-ranked team in the country.

The Big Ten has perhaps the strongest league this year and could be that the race will go right down to the final Saturday of the season before being decided. Wisconsin, Ohio State and Minnesota all are unbeaten and united while Purdue has only a tie against it and that against Duke a non-conference foe. Wisconsin played Purdue today. Ohio State went against Iowa and Minnesota took last Illinois.

Rejected Is Favorite for Rich Gold Cup Test

CHICAGO (AP)—King Ranch's Rejected is an 8-5 favorite in the 19th running of the rich Hawthorne Gold Cup today which closes the 1954 racing program at Hawthorne.

Rejected will carry top weight of 123 pounds over the mile and one-quarter. He'll be ridden by Eric Guerin.

Here are the leaders in Michigan's Class A high school football conferences:

SAGINAW VALLEY — Flint Central (1-0) and Saginaw (1-0).

WESTERN MICHIGAN — East Detroit (1-0).

BORDER CITIES — Grosse Pointe (2-0) and Dearborn (2-0).

RAYMOND SAMPSONS ALL-ELECTRIC HOME — On the shores of Watkins Lake, the Raymond Sampsons have constructed an all-electric home which is actually the house-of-tomorrow for today's living. A beige brick with California redwood and turquoise for trim, the house is 96 feet long and has a three-way heating system. Even the sidewalks and driveways are wired for heating during bad weather. Picture at the lower right shows their son's room. At the top right, the kitchen with its ribbon striped mahogany and built-in double-oven thermador stove is shown. This unit, recessed in the brick wall, is lined with soft pink tile the same color used for the tiled floor and counter tops.

Your Neighbor's House

Raymond Sampsons of Watkins Lake Build a House-of-Tomorrow

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE
Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sampson are living in the house-of-tomorrow today—on the shores of Watkins Lake.

A lovely Roman brick two-story contemporary design that measures 96 feet in length, the house is trimmed in California redwood and bright turquoise.

It is an all-electric house which is the result of superb electrical engineering and planning on the part of Sampson (electrical engineer with Pontac Motor Division of General Motors Corporation.)

Built into the sloped shores of Watkins Lake, the house from the roadway appears to be a one-story design. And from the lakeside, you see two levels with tri-leveled patios and porches overlooking the lake.

Although the Sampson home is modern in line and facility, it has a lot of the past in interior decor and furnishings. The two periods present a picture of natural affinity proving that different eras of design can live together.

It is not only air-conditioned, but light-conditioned, which is a new innovation in modern illumination method.

Sixty-nine light fixtures, 55 silent switches, 121 wall outlets and 20,000 feet of electrical cable have combined to achieve the ultimate in lighting possibility.

There is a public address system which is a two-way hook-up with even the dog kennel connected to the unit.

High-fidelity built into ceiling speakers in living room, den and combination kitchen and dinette has its headquarters in the brick wall of the kitchen.

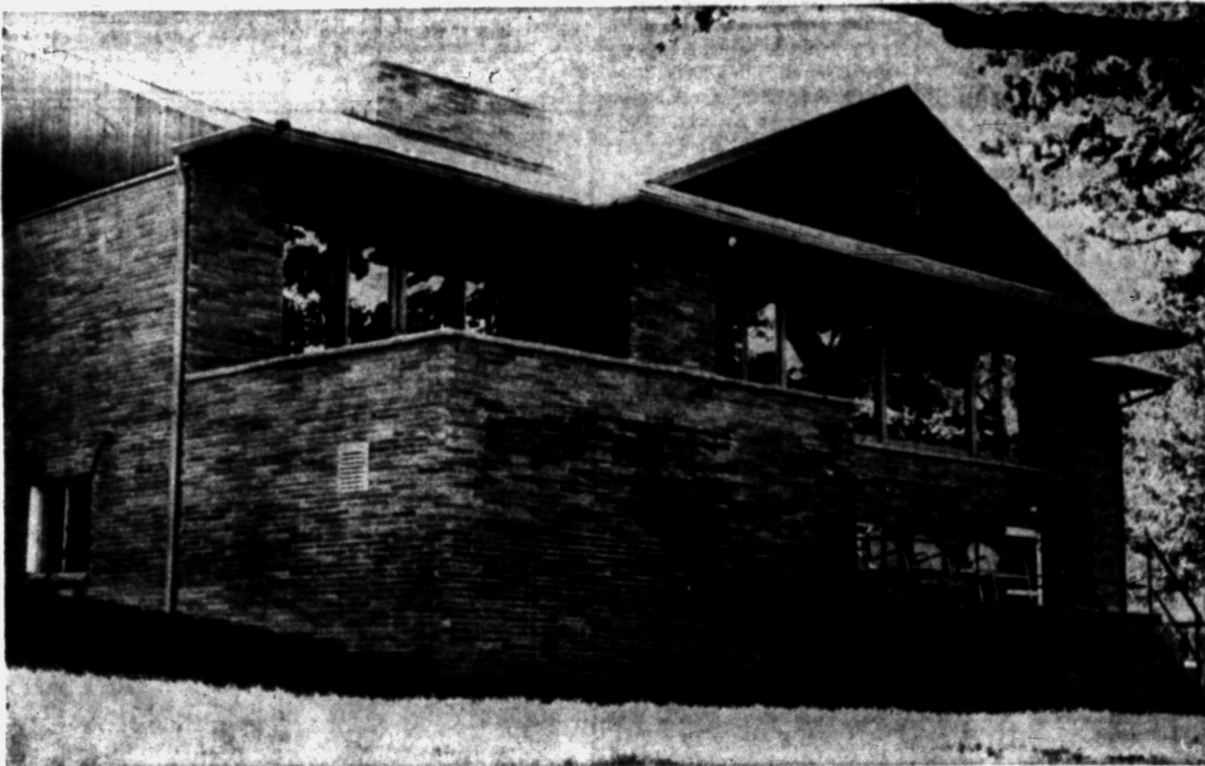

Five television outlets, an electronic relay detector system, electric calculator, portable telephones, a motor driven drapery control and an electric organ with a tape recording operating through an 11-speaker audio-unit are all part of the electrical features of the Sampson home. The television aerial was designed by Sampson for ultra high-frequency as well as the current TV band.

The driveway and the sidewalks have been equipped with a heating system which will take care of snow and sleet in inclement weather.

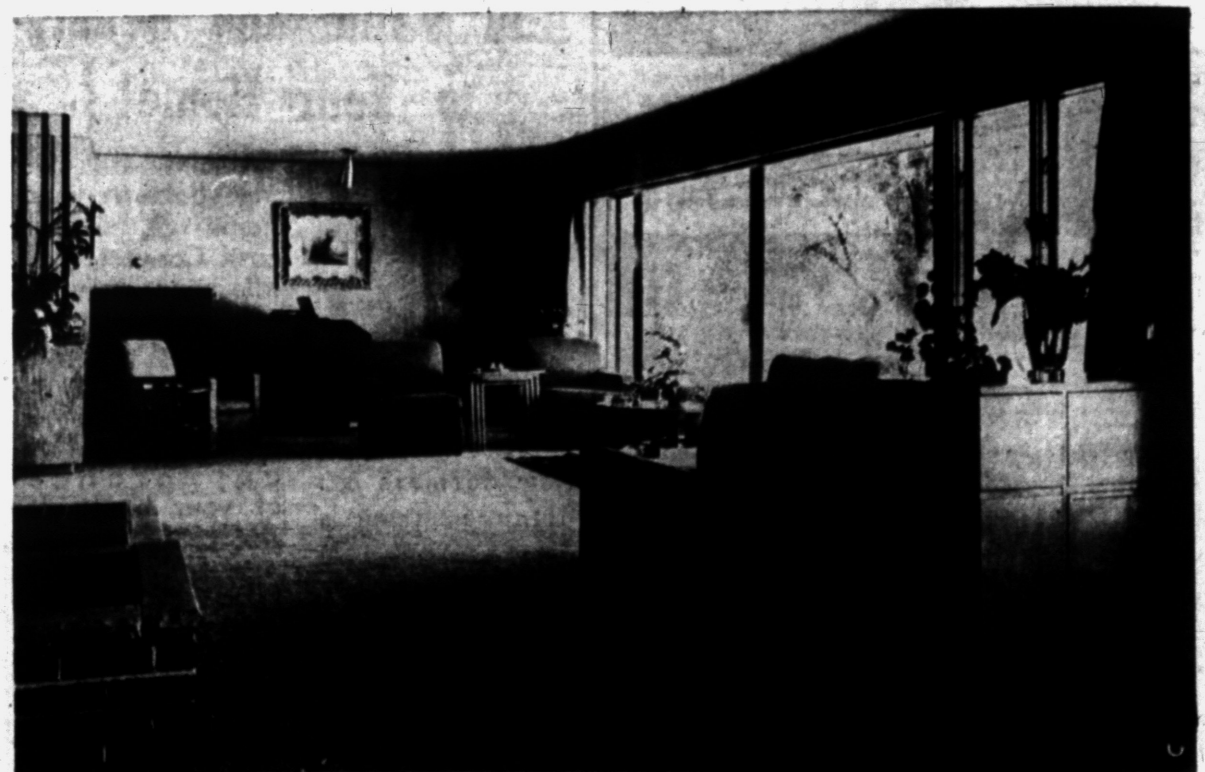

Matching the efficiency and convenience of the electrical network are the building materials, both on the exterior and the interior, and the lovely color schemes chosen by Mrs. Sampson.

Running across the lakefront of the house, the long living room has one wall of windows. (Continued on page 14)

TRI-LEVEL PORCH—The lakefront view of the Sampson house shows three levels of porches and patios on the two-level house.

The top porch will eventually be built-in and is accessible to the house through the French doors of the dining area.

JAPANESE ASH PANELS—From the island of Japan, the Sampsons chose natural ash for the paneling in their living room and entrance hall. A honey beige in color tone, the wood has an interesting wavy grain which stands out from the other wood. Mrs. Sampson chose bittersweet, beige and brown for furnishings in this room and turquoise for carpeting.

MRS. SAMPSON RELAXES IN LIVING ROOM—Favorite spot in her living room is where she can see the other shore of Watkins Lake, says Mrs. Sampson. The upper photo shows the Sampson living room from the entranceway where its spacious windows overlook the lake and shoreline of mature oak trees.

If the metal drawer pulls on a chest or cabinet keep pulling apart, you can tighten them permanently with quick-setting iron cement.

Chances are the screw threads in the pulls are worn. Coat the threads with iron cement, available at hardware stores, suggests a household magazine. Tighten the screw in the pull and let the cement set for 24 hours.

Remember this: Iron cement is so strong that you probably won't be able to take the pulls apart if you want to refinish the chest or cabinet.

Incinerator Can Be Made by Handy Man

For burning household rubbish, an incinerator built of concrete blocks on a concrete foundation is excellent. The base is 4 by 5 feet, and the concrete should be reinforced with chicken wire.

Use standard size building blocks, setting the first course on a thin layer of mortar and leaving two 8"x8" spaces at the front to provide ample draft for complete incineration.

The cover is turkey wire, 1"x2" mesh, with welded joints so the wires won't separate due to the heat. Eye-bolts may be inserted in the joints between two of the top building blocks, if you want to hinge the mesh cover by looping down two pieces of the wire into the metal eyes.

Clean Spattered Siding

Paint spattered on asbestos-shingle siding when the trim is painted can be removed easily. Scrape the thick paint off with a knife. Then rub the remainder off with a cloth dipped in paint remover. Better still, be careful and avoid spatters when painting the house trim.

down. Paneling for two walls is in Japanese oak finished in its natural shade (honey beige) and the wall which separates the fireplace with its raised slate-covered hearth and its accompanying planter of brick.

Mrs. Sampson chose turquoise for the carpet coloring of the living room. It is a Puerto Rican hand-hooked pattern. This carries the color from the exterior to the interior of the house.

Furnishings are in beige, brown and bittersweet, with a deeper beige used for the draperies.

At one end of the living room is the dining area. The wall which faces this section is a built-in glass-doored china cabinet and it holds the many interesting milk glass and pressed glass pieces owned by Mrs. Sampson. French doors from this end of the room open on to the top porch outside which will eventually be enclosed.

The kitchen with its brick wall, its pink tiled thermador stove wall and its copper hood, has ribbon striped mahogany for paneling. This same wood is used in the cupboards and in the wainscot of the dinette area. Pink colors the floor tile and a deeper shade of the same hue forms formica counter tops for the working area.

A laundry room, also painted turquoise, has one full wall of built-ins. These include a hobby room for Mrs. Sampson whose two doors are completely slotted for threads and sewing supplies.

In the bedroom wing is the master bedroom with its sandalwood walls and pale beige draperies. This room has its own bathroom suite.

A den, with cherry red carpeting, has gray walls and it is accessible through a powder room. This facility has a door opening from the slate-floored foyer.

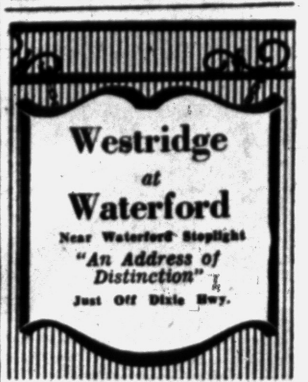

On the first-floor of the Sampson home, there is a recreation room, a hobby and workshop room and a boy's bedroom. Their son, Larry, 16, has another room for his aquariums and hobby collections. There is also a man's den on the first floor.

The home site chosen by the Sampsons was once the location of Mrs. Sampson's playhouse.

"After all, a good spot for a playhouse should naturally make a good home location," said Mrs. Sampson.

Contrary to a lot of people's building experience today, the Sampsons have nothing but the highest praise for their architect, their builder and the people who constructed their modern home. Clifford Wright, A. I. A.

of Detroit was the architect; P. R. Clawson, Pontiac, contractor and the cabinet workers were Clifford Moyes and Carl Monroe.

Man Uses Lumber Wisely

Attractive Home Can Be Built at Savings

Thinking of taking a hand in the building of your own home? If you can use a hammer and saw and are willing to bone up a little on the wise use of lumber, you can save yourself money without getting in the way of the architect or builder.

Here is a case history provided by the National Lumber Manufacturers Association of just how one man went about getting exactly what he wanted for a home at considerable savings.

He achieved a good-looking Colonial style house of 1,838 square feet. One of the handsome features of the house was a 16 by 16 foot den with ceiling and walls finished with natural wood at a cost less than for imitation paneling materials. The lumber association points out there are numerous species of wood, other than those used in this case, that would serve equally well.

Principal savings for Lee Moffett of Stockton, Calif., came from the way he used his lumber. He used lower grades where they would do the job just as well by proper utilization. Other economies included use of short lengths where there was no point in buying long boards and then sawing them up, or where shorts could be matched to "look long."

This is Mr. Moffett's "case history."

For diagonal sheathing for the house, he used several thousand feet of 1 by 8 inch log grade (No. 4 common) knotty incense cedar. It was tongue-and-grooved to give close joints for good insulation. At the time of milling, a small V was run on the two edges of both sides of each piece.

Mr. Moffett went through this sheathing material ahead of the carpenters and cut out sections 2 to 8 feet long that would be suitable for paneling the den. These pieces were stored to assure complete dryness until after the contractor's work was finished.

Then Mr. Moffett did the paneling. By having the V on the edges of both sides it was possible to select the better side for the face. The end result was that he obtained a very high grade appearance from low grade lumber.

In putting up the paneling, starts were made in each of the four corners by placing the grooved edge in the corner, then working to the middle of each wall with the tongue exposed.

This made it possible to blind-nail each piece so that no time was consumed in putting nail holes and the job was more attractive than if the boards had been face-nailed. By starting in the corners, the final fitting was made over windows and doors so that only a short board had to be ripped to fit, usually in a place where the off-width would not be noticeable.

The ceiling was made of the same material in 4 foot boards blind nailed between the rafters to the solid sheathing above. The 4 foot boards were end-matched somewhat for grade to give the impression that the 16 foot ceiling was made of full length 16 foot boards on top of the exposed rafters, although actually the 4 foot boards butted against the rafters.

The natural appearance of the wood was so attractive that no money had to be spent for a finish. By using sections of low grade lumber and doing the work himself, Mr. Moffett had a

A railroad classroom for farmers enrolled its one hundred thousandth student early this season, according to Railway Freight Traffic magazine.

The bright yellow mobile school is a rebuilt passenger car that the Union Pacific railroad sends through the West to promote scientific farming.

The facility is made up of a Union Pacific agricultural supervisor and six regional representatives.

Visiting lecturers include state college agronomists and dairy and soil specialists.

The car, with its film library of 30 motion pictures, a public address system, and an automatic record player, has traveled 60,000 miles since its maiden run early in 1948.

den of lasting beauty at great savings.

Exterior walls were made from low grade (No. 3 and Better Common) knotty incense cedar. All heartwood 2 by 12 planks were re-sawn on a bevel to give 1 1/2 inch thickness on the thick edge and 1/2 inch thickness on the thin edge. This thickness on top of 25/32 inch solid sheathing provided superior insulation. The house is warm in winter and very cool when the temperature hits 105 degrees, according to Mr. Moffett. The wide and thick siding also was effective in carrying out the Colonial styling of the house. The siding was painted with three coats of good paint, which covered the knots well.

Mr. Moffett used Douglas fir for the 4 by 6 inch stringers under the 2 by 6 inch tongue-and-grooved sub-flooring and for the long 2 by 6 inch rafters and ceiling joists. Short joists were white fir, which Mr. Moffett bought unseasoned at a lower price and dried on the lot ahead of construction.

The total amount of lumber used in the house, including a two-car garage, was 31,000 feet.

How to 'Patch Up' Furniture Scratches

Furniture has an unfortunate habit of collecting scratches—aided and abetted usually by its possessors.

Some of these scratches, if they are light, may be concealed by rubbing them over with boiled linseed oil, turpentine and white vinegar, combined in equal proportions. There are also a variety of special products, manufactured for the purpose. These are available at your paint or hardware store.

FOR THE NARROW LOT—This house was designed to meet requests for a good looking compact house with all of the best features of a rambling, more expensive ranch model. Three bedrooms and a total of 1,100 square feet of living space are provided although the house is only 26 feet wide. This should fit a 40-foot lot. Plan N-61, this house was planned by Alfred H. Ryder for the Architects' Home Plan Bureau, Box 141, Bethlehem, Conn.

Home Improvement Now Big Business

Money, manpower, and materials are being invested by American property owners in dwelling improvements at the estimated rate of $12 billion annually says a National Association of Real Estate Boards spokesman.

Fritz B. Burns, Los Angeles, chairman of the NAREB Build America Better Council, made the statement in a speech to the Virginia Real Estate Association convention at the Statler Hotel, Washington, D. C.

"This record - breaking up - swing in activity in housing rehabilitation can best be attributed to more favorable financing for improvements; a catering to the 'do-it-yourself' market by manufacturers of tools and materials; enforcement of housing health, safety, and sanitation codes by municipal governments; elimination of rent ceilings by the federal government which spurred long-delayed maintenance on rental units; and the desire of the public for higher housing standards," the California home-builder said.

Total population of the U. S. in 1790 was 3,929,214.

3 Glamorous Leather Shows to Be in January

Three glamorous "Leather In Decoration Shows" instead of one will be presented by The Upholstery Leather Group in 1955, according to an announcement made today by Edward S. Fitzgibbons, president of the Group.

The three different shows, all sponsored by the leather association, will be presented at the January markets in Chicago and Grand Rapids, and at the mid-market in April at Highpoint, N. C.

"Our expanded program for the show became necessary because of the much increased use of the new, easy-care upholstery leathers by manufacturers and designers," Mr. Fitzgibbons said.

Multi-Bath Homes Up

At least one out of every four new homes under construction have multi-bathroom facilities — a minimum of one complete bathroom and additional powder room or half-bath. In the last few years there has been an increase of 85 per cent in the number of new multi-bath homes. Features that distinguish the new, enlarged bathrooms include waterproof tile surfacing from floor to ceiling, built-in storage and facilities partitioned for privacy.

Folks Over 65 Boost Building

More Persons Build Homes After 60 Than Before Age of 30

The nation's older population—the 13-odd million people in the 65-and-over group—may cause a housing "boomlet," a market analyst predicts.

"People no longer knit or play checkers as they grow older," says Fred R. Haviland. "They want and use practically everything anybody else uses, and this includes wanting their own home and having the money to pay for it," he adds.

Haviland, who is director of market research for Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co., explains that the current preoccupation with "young" home-makers has all but obscured the fact that more people build homes after 60 than before 30.

He cites two studies that reflect the vigor of these oldsters:

A recent Bureau of the Census report indicated that older couples formed nearly as many households in the period from 1950 to 1953 as were formed by newly married couples. And a poll of some 165,000 subscribers to a magazine catering to the older people revealed that at least 45 per cent plan to build or buy a new home.

The so-called old-age group has more spending money, too, even though their producing days may be over, Haviland points out. For one thing, they have fewer financial commitments now, their children are on their own and the mortgage on the old home-stand has been paid off.

Second, the new Social Security bill that recently was passed added some 10 million people to the social insurance lists, while increasing benefits for the six million currently covered.

Lending considerable impetus to this craving by "well-along" folk for new homes has been the wide introduction of the ranch-type home, with its single-level rambling floor plan, he said. Such homes offer the very latest in deluxe conveniences and comfort and labor-saving equipment but often are too expensive for budget-conscious young homeowners.

Furthermore, the single-level compact design eliminates the necessity of climbing stairs, and minimizes the house and yard work needed to maintain the large older houses.

These factors have introduced an interesting sidelight, Haviland said. While the older folks shift to the small, single-story homes, the younger couples with larger families and smaller down-payment funds, are seeking the roomier, older dwellings.

Home builders, recognizing this trend, have launched the "trade-in" house program in many regions. This permits the owner of an older house to sell it to the builder who, in turn, modernizes it and re-sells it to the couple unable to afford comparable convenience and spaciousness in a new home.

Many features popular in homes designed with an eye to the elderly buyer also have been incorporated in a "Home of Safety" built recently in Cleveland. The house, costing about $30,000, is the brainchild of a Jim Chandler, real estate editor of the Cleveland Press.

Entry is gained through a gradually-sloping ramp instead of steps; driveway and walks have a non-skid surface and are pitched slightly to prevent the formation of water or ice puddles. Electrical cables buried in the entry keep it ice-free. The garage door is radio operated and the garage as well as all closets are automatically lighted when doors are opened.

Save on Gas to Get Most Out of Range

Take it easy on the gas!

This stern admonition isn't a police warning to motorists. Instead it's a bit of advice from the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association to help the housewife make the most efficient use of her automatic gas range.

It points out that because the gas flame is so flexible the housewife literally has a thousand shadings of heat to choose from for cooking purposes and that it is not necessary to use "full throttle" all the time.

For example, the best way of preserving the health-giving vitamins and mineral salts in fresh vegetables—as well as to keep them from being cooked to pieces—is to use the "waterless" cooking method which is made possible through the accurately controlled flame of the automatic gas range.

GAMA says its fast, high flame permits the use of less than a cupful of water to cook the average family serving by bringing it to a boil quickly; then the gas is turned to a lower flame that just holds the food at a boiling point, until done.

And if the range has a simmer burner you can use its gentle, even flame to bring out the flavor of soups and many other dishes as well as keep coffee warm in the morning at the very minimum of cost.

Various Ideas to Illuminate a Bookcase

There are several ways to illuminate a floor-to-ceiling bookcase so you can readily find the publication you're looking for.

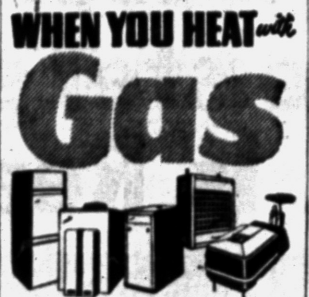

One system is to attach to the top molding of the bookcase the type of long reflector lamp that is often used in museums to light paintings.

Also, directional spot lights can be recessed in the ceiling directly in front of the shelves. Or you can hang "bullet" lights from the ceiling and aim them at the shelves.

Still another and better approach is to build a lighted cornice across the top of the bookcase. The cornice board should be 8 to 10 inches deep and hung from the ceiling 8 inches out from the front edge of the shelves.

Attach a row of fluorescent fixtures to the ceiling behind the cornice board. The light flooding down not only will illuminate the book titles but will add to the general brightness of the room.

Glass Block Protects, Lets Daylight In

Because it has insulation value equivalent to an eight-inch brick or 12-inch concrete wall, glass block is the ideal material for providing a source of daylight where structural strength and privacy are desired.

Translucent glass block protect the interior of the home from the outside view while admitting a high percentage of available daylight.

Beverly Hills Wall Shelf Dandy for Show Pieces

By STEVE ELLINGSON

Just facing the normal problems that come up each day is enough, but when the professional scare merchants get going, they can drive a person crazy.

I got to thinking about this last night while I was eating dinner and listening to the radio. The cancer boys were getting in a lot of good licks for their campaign. Later on the heart experts gave their grim figures over television. They said people were practically dying like flies from heart trouble. This morning on the car radio I learned that mental hospitals were far overcrowded. Nervous breakdowns were topping the list for America's best killers.

Now all this may be true, but the fact remains that we live longer today than people ever did before. At no other time in history have we enjoyed the vigor of youth for so long into late middle age. Of course, fighting disease is a sound idea. We should contribute as much money as we can afford.

It must be remembered, however, that the professional scare merchant, who is on the payroll of the National League for the Prevention of Disease X, earns his bread and butter, by manufacturing fear and gloom. He knows that if he frightens the people enough, the contributions will be bigger. The question is, how do we measure the damage that is caused by planting these seeds of worry in the minds of so many people? Isn't that as bad as deliberately infecting a person with a disease?

I think the old man who dropped in for a visit this afternoon had the right idea. He said most of his fears hadn't been realized in the last 12 months and he wasn't going to do any worrying for the next 12. "However," he said, "if some important worry does come along, I'll just turn the darn thing over to the regular constituted investigating committees in Washington and go ahead with my buildin'."

It might be that this idea will appeal to you too. If it does you couldn't find a better project than the Beverly Hills Wall Shelf pictured here with T-Venus Dawn Oney. In your kitchen or breakfast nook, it makes a dandy place to show off your fancy plates and glassware.

For your bathroom it makes a handy utility shelf. Or it may be stained or given a natural finish and used for knick-knacks in any room in your home.

The shelf is easy to build from the full size pattern. All you need do is trace the full size pattern on wood, then saw it out and finally put it together. The pattern lists the required materials and only simple hand tools are needed. A good project for inexperienced amateurs.

To obtain the full size shelf pattern No. 67 send 35 cents in coin to Steve Ellingson, The Pontiac Press, Van Nuys, California. (For prompt service, be sure to send to the California address.)

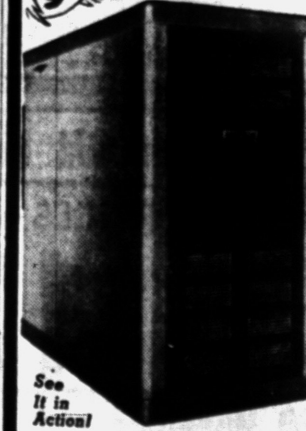

Upholstery Designs Show Ingenuity

Ingenuity of design, construction, and yarn combination are characteristic of the fall collections of the upholstery fabric manufacturers.

There is great diversity of pattern in the woven lines to assure "mix and match" for the already existent furniture of many consumers. There is a variety of fiber and yarn used in warp and filler, for color, for surface effects, and for interesting patterns.

Check Boiler Relief Valve

Every house heating boiler should be equipped with an approved type of relief valve. The Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau advises homeowners to flip the lever of the relief valve once every two months to be sure it is not stuck by corrosion and will function freely when an emergency arises.

Here's How to Do It:*Make Detachable Carry-all to Fit Standard Cartop

A detachable carry-all to fit on a pair of standard car-top carriers will furnish plenty of extra space on automobile trips. Furnished with a canvas cover, the carry-all is a safe, waterproof compartment. Being detachable from the carriers by a simple bolt arrangement, the carry-all may be removed and the carriers may be used for other purposes.

The box is made of one-inch lumber. Although the picture shows the sides as being 14 inches, these may vary, depending upon the capacity desired, from 12 to 16 inches. The sides and bottom are large panels made by gluing 1-inch boards with waterproof glue.

Make a frame for the side on which the doors will be placed (the curb side). The doors make it possible to remove or add luggage without undoing the entire canvas top. The door frame is made of 1 by 2-inch lumber, and should be of rigid construction with corner joints either mortised or dowelled.

Assemble the box as shown in the drawings. Fasten the doors to the top of the frame with 1 and one-half by 2-inch butt hinges. Then, from one-eighth by 1-inch metal, make a pair of latch plates, each three and one-half inches long. Drill four three-sixteenths holes in the plates for screws; and one five-sixteenths hole, one-half inch from the end for the bolt. Fasten a slide bolt at the bottom of each door, on the center line. Then locate the metal plates to the bottom of the box with No. 8 wood screws three-fourths-inch long.

Invert the box, and on the bottom fasten four 1 by 1 by 36-inch strips, using one-half-inch wood screws, countersunk. Space the outer strips 6 inches from the edge of the box, and the inner ones so that the bars of your car-top carrier fit snugly between the strips.

Then, mount eight 1 by 1 by 2-inch wood blocks on the carrier bars. Four are placed on each bar, each pair being 36 inches apart so as to center the box when placed on the carriers. Add four slide bolts, one at each end of the 1-inch strips, so that they will engage in their matching plates which are fastened to the 1 by 2-inch blocks on the carrier bars. These are the bolts that enable the box to be taken off the carrier bars.

The completed box may be stained and varnished to match the wood of a station wagon, or painted to match the color of the car.

Timely Tips Should Aid Home Repair

You can save yourself a lot of touching up if you tint caulking compound before it's applied to match the finish on the wood around it. The easiest way to tint the compound is to work some dry pigment into it.

When running a floor sander, never allow the sander to remain stationary while the motor is running. If you do, it will take a chunk out of the floor that will require a lot of added sanding to get rid of.

Loose interior brick such as around a fireplace can be replaced with a liquid adhesive rather than with mortar. The advantage of the adhesive over mortar is that it's quite easy to apply and won't cause the mess that getting the brick back in mortar would.

When a lock begins to work hard, smear a little powdered graphite onto the key, insert the key in the lock a few times and then work the key back and forth to open and close the lock.

Before you store canvas awnings away for the season, coat them with a fungicide so they won't be damaged by mildew should they become damp at some point.

Asbestos Resists Acid

Because they are cement reinforced by asbestos fibers, asbestos-cement building products will resist any acids or acid fumes which are not injurious to concrete. Smoke and fumes from coal combustion, for example, have no disintegrating effect upon them.

Tile-Topped Coffee Table Is Handsome, Stain Proof

Textures and sizes allows the home decorator to match any room design. The same goes for color; the tile is available in 200 different shades of the basic colors. For homes with active children, scratchproof tiled table tops are a blessing!

Winter Plans Made for Avon

Activities for Youth Include Ice Skating, Indoor Sports

ROCHESTER — Recommendations for a winter program of activities for the Avon Youth Service and Recreation Assn. Inc. have been made by its new program chairman, Mrs. Charles Maitrot.

Continuation of basketball for boys and support for ice skating for the youth of Avon Township was recommended by Mrs. Maitrot. Badminton games for girls also was urged as part of the winter program.

To strengthen its organization the group's board of directors has had a series of four meetings since the close of its summer program.

These meetings covered the re-organization of the standing committees, the incorporation of the organization, and the re-writing of its by-laws.

Mrs. Maitrot is a director representing the Rochester Village Council. Clarence Reist, an alternate director representing the Elmwood School area is the new personnel chairman.

Mrs. Henry Bright, an alternate director representing the Ross School area is now chairman of the attendance committee.

The finance committee headed by Mr. Sid Ennis is laying plans for next year's budget.

Saw Stringfellow Only Twice in Life

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—President A. Ray Olpin of the University of Utah says he hasn't talked with Congressman Stringfellow (R-Utah) more than twice in his life and doesn't recall recommending him for a perilous mission behind German lines.

Stringfellow, whose reputation as a World War II hero has been questioned by the unofficial Army Times, has been quoted in print as saying Dr. Olpin recommended him for such a mission in 1943.

At that time Olpin was a member of the faculty of Ohio State University and Stringfellow was with an Army special training group at Ohio State.

Big Cities Lose Parking Race

2 State Towns Among Top Four in Nation in Providing Spaces

CHICAGO (UP)—Cities with more than 50,000 population expanded their parking areas in 1953 but failed to keep pace with the increase in automobiles, a study shows.

But cities from 10,000 to 50,000 population fared better. They had a median of 55 spaces for each 1,000 vehicles, compared with 49 spaces per 1,000 the year before.

The study was made by the International City Manager's Association, which gathered information on traffic and parking from 892 cities.

The four cities with the greatest number of parking spaces per 1,000 vehicles were Miami Beach, Fla., with 580; Roseville, Mich., 386; Shaker Heights, O., 365, and Attleboro, Mich., 308.

Of the 892 reporting cities, 554 own or operate one or more off-street parking lots. Their total was 1,747 lots, an average of three per city. This was a 19 per cent increase over 1952 in the number of lots and a 7 per cent jump in the number of cities with such lots.

Nehru En Route to China

CALCUTTA, India (UP)—Prime Minister Nehru flew to Rangoon today, en route to Communist China for a 12-day state visit.

HOBBY BECOMES CAREER—Mrs. Gladys Galloway paints a plate that might wind up in some Michigan collection as an object of art. The wife of a Caro druggist, she began painting china 26 years ago merely as a hobby. Now she's so expert that her decorated china is sought by collectors from all parts of Michigan.

Caro Woman's Art Turns Home Into a China Closet

CARO (UP)—Mrs. Gladys Galloway, wife of druggist Harold Galloway, started painting china merely as a hobby. Now she's so expert at it that her decorated china is sought after by collectors all over Michigan and she herself is in wide demand as a teacher.

Mrs. Galloway got started on her hobby-career in Ferndale 26 years ago when she was one of two students chosen to receive special art instruction. Since then, her talents have made a virtual china closet of the Galloway home.

Today, her hobby has grown into what amounts to a full-time business.

Mrs. Galloway, mother of two, does all her work herself. Most of the china she uses is imported from Bavaria, France and Japan.

She also uses imported china paint and oils for mixing the powdered color to painting consistency. Pure gold and platinum in an oil base got into her most costly pieces.

Demonstrating her art, Mrs. Galloway picks up a piece of China with care but not with the extreme caution you'd expect. Good china, she says, is not so fragile as most people think and only a normal amount of care is necessary in handling it.

Picking up a square German quill brush, Mrs. Galloway starts to paint with a sure hand.

First she draws on a design with a wax china pencil. The wax melts away in the firing process after the painting is done. Background is dabbed on with a dabber fashioned of silk over cotton. During the firing all the paints fuse with the original glaze on the china.

Because only the overall design is painted and fired first, more than one firing at 1400 degrees is necessary. The second firing comes after more details have been added to the piece.

When she is finished, Mrs. Galloway has transformed a plain white china plate into an heirloom piece.

Mrs. Galloway has students from Lansing, Flint and Detroit as well as Caro. She also is teaching teachers, passing on her techniques so that an art of the past may become an art of today and the future.

Finland's population is about 9 per cent Swedish.

Solar Energy Confab Slated

Many Nations to Send Scientists to Meeting in Phoenix Next Year

PHOENIX, Ariz. (INS)—A technological conference of prime interest to scientists and industrial development groups throughout the Southern "sun-belt" will be held at Phoenix next year.

The international session, sponsored by the newly-formed Association for Applied Solar Energy, will be conducted by Stanford Research Institute, which has a divisional office at Phoenix.

The meeting will bring together top scientists from throughout the world to explore "the whole range of solar energy" according to Henry B. Sargent, planning committee chairman. Sargent is President of Arizona Public Service Company.

The committee has tentatively set the date of the conference for October, 1955.

Possibility of holding the sessions earlier waned when complications of securing speakers from throughout the world dictated postponement.

Major centers of solar energy research in the United States will be represented and arrangements are being made for presentations by solar scientists and engineers from England, France, Germany, India, Japan, Australia and South Africa.

The symposium will be under the general chairmanship of Lewis W. Douglas, former ambassador to Great Britain and chairman of the board of the Southern Arizona Bank and Trust Company. Merritt L. Kastens, assistant director of Stanford Research Institute, is vice chairman.

Judge Orders Mental Patient Be Sterilized

BALTIMORE (UP)—Judge Herman M. Moser of Circuit Court here has signed an order, believed one of the first of its kind in the state, directing that a woman inmate of a mental hospital undergo a sterilization operation.

Judge Moser signed the order after medical experts at the Springfield State Hospital and at the Phipps Clinic of Johns Hopkins Hospital urged the operation. Close relatives of the woman were reported to have concurred in the recommendation.

Evidence produced in court showed the woman has had five children in all, and that she suffered mental disturbances after each childbirth.

There is no Maryland law specifically authorizing a sterilization order. But Judge Moser acted upon a general statute giving the court the right to superintend the care of such patients.

Issue 5,000 Copies of McCarthy Report

WASHINGTON (UP)—About 5,000 copies of the Sept. 27 report by a special committee which urged the Senate to censure Sen. McCarthy have been distributed to the public, an aide said today.

This is about the same number reported distributed by the Senate Investigations subcommittee which returned a split decision on Aug. 31 on its probe of the row between McCarthy and top Army officials.

The Senate meets in special session starting Nov. 8 on the censure recommendations. The McCarthy-Army report did not require Senate action.

Mason Deserving Films for Writing and TV

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Actor James Mason plans to give Hollywood the heave-ho and make most of his living from now on by writing and working in TV.

Well fixed financially after his postwar career in the movies, Mason said yesterday that he will try his hand at producing and accept a movie role only if it especially attracts him. He explained: "I've always wanted to do that, especially to write, but I never could afford it until now."

Mason is reported to have earned about $400,000 from just one movie, "A Star Is Born."

Bull, Cow Charge Allegan County Cars

ALLEGAN (UP)—A bull and a cow attacked automobiles in Allegan County, sheriff's officers report today.

A bull charged into a car owned by Lawrence Blum, 51, Tecumseh, causing $300 damage, and a cow that ran into a car owned by Russell Middleton caused only minor damage.

Blum reported the bull went on its way after slamming into his car but the cow broke its leg dashing into Middleton's car and had to be destroyed.

GIs Wary of Gambling

FORT LEE, Va. (UP)—It is a bit harder to get GIs into a gambling game here. They have been told about 70 types of crooked decks of cards and 60 varieties of crooked dice by Eugene Palmer, 70-year-old reformed gambler, whose lectures are sponsored by the Pocket Testament League.

Dear Sir:-
This advertisement I found in a 1922 paper. Is it still good?
Thank You
Donald Quinewan

OLD AD GOOD AS NEW—Donald Quinewan, of Outlook, Wash., spotted the ad, top, in a copy of a 1922 New York paper. It showed an Elgin watch, priced at $14.98, which could be purchased for $2 down, with the knife and chain thrown in free. Donald wanted to know—"Is the ad still good?" Finlay Straus, New York Jeweler, successors to L. W. Sweet, decided the ad was good. They sent the watch, knife and key chain to Donald with their best wishes. The cost — $2 down and $1.30 for 10 months.

Havana Post Closed by Labor Walkout

HAVANA, Cuba (UP)—The Havana Post, Cuba's only English language daily newspaper, was hit today by its second labor shutdown in less than three weeks.

Mrs. Clara Park Pessino, publisher of the paper, said only three persons reported for work in the print shop last night and the paper was unable to publish.

A four-day strike by the mechanical force ended Sept. 28 after the Post agreed to rehire all idle men. Mrs. Pessino said the Cuban Labor Ministry decreed Oct. 5 that the newspaper was not in a position to meet union demands for wage increases.

Suggests Cull Beans for Feeding Animals

EAST LANSING (UP)—A way for Michigan bean growers to salvage some of the loss to their crop caused by heavy rains was suggested today by a Michigan State College expert.

Carl F. Huffman, college dairy nutritionist, suggested that the farmers sell some of their cull beans for animal feed.

Huffman estimated that some two million bushels, about one-third of the crop, are still in the fields. Cull beans are superior in energy value to oats and equal to corn, Huffman said. He said they can be fed, mixed in the proper proportions with grain, to dairy cows, beef cattle and lambs.

Cull beans sell for less than the price of corn so feeders should find it profitable to buy some of the spoiled crop, Huffman said.

Reflections

Hail to Business Women

Big Business would be seriously crippled with an obscure woman who guards and advises an executive. Go into the largest, most solid, most exclusive Department Store; you'll find women with responsibility that would stagger most men. Go into any store in Pontiac; you may not find a woman sitting at a desk but you'll find one at home who wields an enormous amount of influence. Ask any Real Estate Broker who buys a home. Sure we men sign the checks but it's our wives who make the choice. Business, without women, — well, there wouldn't be any.

From October 12 to Oct. 18 is Business Women's Week. Why we are asked to extol the virtues of women in business in one tiny seven day week is an anomaly without explanation. We give them a salute all the time.
