Huge Johnson Program Confronts Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has outlined a massive work load for the new Congress under a record $112.8-billion budget and has assured Capitol Hill that U.S. fighting men will stay in Viet Nam as long as Communist aggression continues.

Democrats and Republicans alike applauded the determination he expressed last night in his State of the Union message to press for peace although "we have received no response to prove either success or failure on the current American peace offensive."

While Democrats applauded his declaration that he would not permit the war to sidetrack his "Great Society" programs, Republicans attacked many of his domestic program proposals and his assertion that the budget deficit for the next fiscal year would be held to $1.8 billion.

On the domestic front, the President's sweeping proposals ranged from plans to combat crime in the streets to establishment of a Cabinet-level department of transportation.

He asked for laws to guarantee equality for Negroes in the courts and in housing and a constitutional amendment which would extend the two-year terms of House members to four years.

ASKED FOR MONEY

He asked for money to push ahead on the health and education programs enacted last year, and to expand the antipoverty program.

He called for the complete rebuilding of entire central and slum areas of several cities and an attack on the polluting of the nation's rivers.

He said he would propose legislation aimed at cutting down on traffic slaughter.

On the foreign front, he asked for "a new and daring direction to our foreign aid program" with help to nations trying to control population growth.

EXPANDED TRADE

He said he wanted expanded trade with the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe.

On "pocketbook issues," he asked that the newly lifted excise taxes be slapped back onto cars and phone calls.

He also asked bigger withholdings from pay checks and a speedup in corporate tax collections. The latter two steps would not mean increases in tax rates.

But the President said he would not hesitate to ask Congress for additional taxes "if the necessities of Viet Nam require it."

QUICK REACTION

Reaction came quickly:

Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen said appropriations committees will take apart Johnson's domestic money proposals.

"Overly optimistic," said House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Johnson's prediction revenues would soar to $111-billion.

See Speech Text, Page F-1, Stories, Pages A-8, A-9

Some Democrats agreed. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., ordinarily a staunch administration supporter, questioned whether defense spending could be held to Johnson's estimate of $58.3 billion.

ON BOTH SIDES

There was criticism from both parties—especially among members of the Senate Finance Committee—for Johnson's proposal that excise taxes on automobiles and telephone calls—reduced Jan. 1—be restored to meet increased military spending.

"Personally I would rather raise taxes on liquor and tobacco than make the changes the President suggests," said Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the new finance committee chairman.

"I am opposed" to rescinding the phone tax cut, said Sen. Frank Carlson, R-Kan., senior GOP member of the committee.

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said, "The President's courageous and sensible call for increased revenues to meet the sharp step-up in defense is in the best tradition of responsible government."

Johnson also proposed stepped-up corporate tax collections and revisions in withholding of income taxes but urged no general tax boost.

He said: "If the necessities of Viet Nam require it, I will not hesitate to return to the Congress for additional appropriations and additional revenues."

Johnson devoted about one-third of his 52-minute speech to Viet Nam.

After restating U.S. determination to remain there until aggression is halted, he mentioned the 21-day pause in bombing of North Viet Nam and said the government has been working "with imagination and

CALLS FOR PROGRESS — Gov. George Romney issues a call for "Total Progress" in his State of the State talk before the Michigan House of Representatives today.

Gov. Romney's 'State of State' Wide-Ranging

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Romney proposed action ranging from water pollution control to better marriage laws today in a broadside State of the State message that paralleled many announced Democratic goals.

The Republican governor said a budget "well in excess of $900 million" including "improvements in many areas" could be met without new taxes.

He promised not to spend the entire state surplus in the coming fiscal year.

Romney told a joint session of legislature that "the job which occupied us in the first half of this decade—overcoming deficiencies in state services and the structure of state government—is well advanced.

Speech Text, Page E-7

"But great as this progress has been, it is not enough.

★ ★ ★

"Our state progress, to be adequate, must be total Michigan progress."

Such progress, he said, requires stimulated individual and private effort, stronger local government, better and broader state activities and full utilization of federal programs.

From there, his nearly 4,000-word text went on to pinpoint a full range of areas for action or concern.

Many had been cited last week by House Speaker Joseph Kowalski and Senate Majority Leader Raymond Dzendzel in a statement of goals for the Democratic - controlled legislature which seemed at least partly designed to beat Romney to the punch.

★ ★ ★

Following the congenial pattern of his meeting Friday with legislative leaders, Romney's speech contained not a single comment critical of the Democrats.

EXPANDED STUDIES

He proposed that his office and the legislature expand their joint studies of problems, especially urban renewal, condemnation procedures, mass transportation and law enforcement.

These principal spending proposals dotted his message:

- A $1-million state grant program to aid municipalities in water pollution control.

★ ★ ★

- Revision of veterans' homestead tax exemptions "to

Pontiac Tops 10-Day Record

General Sales Chief Cites Excise Tax Cut

Picking up the record sales pace of a year ago, Pontiac Motor Division today announced that its sales in the first 10 days of January were at an all-time high.

★ ★ ★

General Sales Manager E. R. Pettengill said a record total of 22,223 Pontiacs and Tempests were sold in the Jan. 1-10 period, topping by 31 per cent the previous high of 16,911 set a year ago.

★ ★ ★

In revealing the new record, Pettengill stated that the 1 per cent reduction in the federal excise tax which went into effect Jan. 1 "has helped us to start the new year off on the right track."

NY Transit Strike Ends; Buses Roll

NEW YORK (AP) — This city's first subway and bus strike, a multimillion-dollar transportation paralysis, ended shortly before dawn today. By noon, near-normal public service was restored.

The Transit Authority announced that five hours after the settlement trains were operating on all lines of the subway system and buses were maintaining schedules normal for this time of day.

Cars continued to clog city streets, however, the result of the morning rush of 3.5 million New Yorkers to their jobs.

The traffic crush associated with the strike built up even as the dispute was resolved, one hour and 25 minutes into its 13th day.

★ ★ ★

"I ask the people of New York to do the exceptional for just one more day," Mayor John V. Lindsay said in a broadcast report of the settlement.

FULL SERVICE

Before the Transit Authority set the noon hour for resumption of full service he did not expect it before "late tonight or early Friday."

The striking AFL-CIO unions — the Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union — agreed to mediators' settlement terms shortly before 6:30 a.m.

By 8 a.m., the first segment of the 237-mile-long subway system was carrying its first paying passenger since New Year's Day — on the shuttle train between Grand Central Station and Times Square. Half an hour later the Transit Authority announced that 3,200 buses were in operation.

Although describing it as "fruitless to get into the numbers game," Lindsay evaluated the new two-year labor contract for 34,400 workers at $52 million. But a TWU lawyer said it "is for $69,980,000 to the penny."

★ ★ ★

In late morning, Supreme Court Justice Abraham N. Geller signed an order freeing the TWU president, Michael J. Quill, and eight other labor leaders from jail sentences he imposed for contempt.

Charge Plot on Lady Bird

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional investigators charged today that an alleged member of the Ku Klux Klan proposed dynamiting the "Lady Bird Special" train carrying the wife of President Johnson as it passed through Mississippi in 1964.

The man was identified as Louis Anthony DiSalvo of Waveland, Miss.

On the witness stand today at the House investigation of the Klan, DiSalvo refused to answer or comment on the charge.

He cited the 5th Amendment's constitutional guarantee against self-incrimination.

The dramatic charge was made by the House committee on un-American activities' chief investigator, Donald Appell.

He asked DiSalvo if he had suggested to members of the Ku Klux Klan that a 1964 election campaign train carrying Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson be bombed as it passed over a bridge while in Mississippi.

See Story, Page D-8

There was no further elaboration on the dynamiting charge.

BARBER SHOP

The committee, conducting an intensive investigation of Klan activities in the south, said DiSalvo ran a barber shop in Waveland and also had a gasoline station and a federal license to sell firearms as a gun dealer.

The committee said the moustached 38-year old barber and gun dealer was a member of the Klan and had sold firearms, including Russian-made rifles and ammunition, to other members of the Klan.

Investigators also said that, at one time, DiSalvo attempted to organize a "firing squad," presumably to carry out terrorist acts. There was no amplification of this.

Before resuming public hearings on Klan activity, the committee voted that seven national Klan leaders be cited for contempt of congress.

The committee also recommended citations against three Chicago witnesses who appeared at a hearing last spring on communism.

Prosecution Rests in Murder Trial

The prosecution rested its case today in the murder trial of a Waterford Township teenager after receiving a setback yesterday when a verbal statement allegedly made by the youth was ruled inadmissible as evidence.

★ ★ ★

The defense opened its case shortly before noon adjournment and counsel Clarence Smith called the defendant, Alan Ross Pearson Jr., 17, to the stand to testify.

★ ★ ★

Yesterday, Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn said that, based on recent Supreme Court decisions, he would not permit a statement to be introduced because Pearson had not been advised of his constitutional rights before making it.

The alleged statement was made to State Police Trooper Robert H. Mueller of the Pontiac Post shortly after the June 27 stabbing of Jeffrey Talbot, 17, of 2045 Watkins Lake, Waterford Township.

Pearson is standing trial on a first-degree murder charge in the death of Talbot.

Mueller had quoted Pearson as saying "There's no use kidding you, I went over to kill him." Pearson later denied making the statement.

NATION LISTENS — President Johnson outlines his foreign and domestic policy in last night's State of the Union message. In the background is House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass.

LBJ Hints at Reduction of Hostilities in Viet War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Buried deep in President Johnson's State of the Union message is a 10-word proposal to North Viet Nam to start scaling down the war in Southeast Asia without negotiations or even an agreed cease-fire.

"We will respond," he said, playing it in low-key, "if others reduce their use of force."

Some of the President's closest advisers think that is, in fact, the way the war may begin to end — not with a great conference or a formal truce but with a slow dwindling of hostilities.

In his address to Congress last night, the President for the first time put the full weight of his own authority behind this alternative with a flat commitment to begin de-escalating the conflict if and when the Communists are ready.

In recent days dispatches from Viet Nam have indicated some decline in Viet Cong offensive activity.

★ ★ ★

PARALLEL ACTIONS

It could have been, however, a factor in Johnson's decision to declare at this time his readiness to reduce the fighting through parallel actions by both sides.

★ ★ ★

Johnson put forth the proposition without detracting in any way from his major effort, now three weeks old, to get the Communists to agree to a conference and a cease-fire.

★ ★ ★

In a related development, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk discussed President Johnson's Viet Nam peace offensive with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin today.

★ ★ ★

Asked if peace in Viet Nam was any closer as a result of the lengthy meeting Humphrey would say only, "Well, I have said all I am going to say on that. We had a good, constructive friendly visit."

AFL-CIO Hits Local Public Housing Law

The Oakland County AFL-CIO Council last night unanimously adopted a resolution calling for the repeal of a city ordinance which prohibits further federal public housing in Pontiac.

The ordinance, adopted in April 1955, was also recently opposed by civil rights groups here.

According to local and international union officials, the ordinance is "unrealistic, head-in-the-sand thinking which has caused a shortage of safe and sanitary dwellings within Pontiac."

Ken Morris, codirector of the UAW's Region 1, said today the International UAW "unhesitatingly throws its support behind the Oakland County AFL-CIO in urging a complete turnabout in the City of Pontiac's urban renewal thinking."

★ ★ ★

It was reported last night that the UAW is considering forming a corporation to build housing units, if the city does not take immediate action in repealing the ordinance.

Summerfield Better

FLINT (UPI) — Arthur E. Summerfield, postmaster general during the Eisenhower Administration, was recovering at home today from a heart attack suffered Christmas morning.

Area Snowfall Slows Traffic

Snowfall during the night slowed early morning drivers in the Pontiac area, cutting the visibility on country roads to about 100 feet.

★ ★ ★

The storm, which left a blanket of 2 to 4 inches of snow, is expected to diminish late today or tonight, the weatherman reports.

There's a chance of some sleet or freezing rain mixed with snow in the extreme south of the state.

TRUCK JACKKNIFES

A tanker truck jackknifed on Woodward at Square Lake Road in Bloomfield Township about 7:30 a.m. blocking northbound lanes and stalling traffic for about 20 minutes.

Twenty-four was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The mercury recorded 31 at 2 p.m.

GUARD INSPECTION — Pontiac's newly designated National Guard unit — now part of the 225th Inf., 5th U.S. Army — toed the line last night at the Pontiac National Guard Armory. Lt. Col. Royce K. ment to show that the murder was premeditated.

Pearson allegedly made the statement after he and a companion, Robert Green, 17, 1512 Eason, Waterford Township, turned themselves over to police about 45 minutes after the stabbing.

The statement was made public at Pearson's preliminary court examination last July.

Pearson denied making the statement when Mueller asked him why he had not included it in a handwritten statement about the incident.

PLAN EVIDENCE

The written confession was expected to be introduced to the jury today, the third day of the trial.

Yesterday, while the legal question of the admissibility of the verbal statement was being decided by Judge Thorburn the jury was out of the courtroom and unaware of the nature of the proceedings.

Green testified yesterday afternoon that after he and Pearson stopped their car in front of the Talbot home, Pearson was dragged out of the auto by Talbot's father, Dr. Frank G. Talbot, 43, an industrial physician.

★ ★ ★

His testimony was in direct conflict of that of Dr. Talbot, who, under cross-examination by defense attorney Clarence Smith, empathically denied that he pulled Pearson out of the car.

'SELF-DEFENSE'

Smith claims that Pearson was provoked and was only acting in self-defense.

The fatal fight occurred a door away from the Talbot home about 9:30 p.m.

Testimony has revealed that there were hard feelings between Pearson and young Talbot over a girl both had dated.

Pearson this morning reiterated that the victim and Dr. Talbot, had pulled him from the car just prior to the slaying.

Pearson said he was holding the knife in his left hand at the time. Asked by Smith why he grabbed the knife, Pearson replied "because I thought I had had it."

The youth testified that he stabbed young Talbot only twice. He said he had no intention of killing the victim and that he was scared and tense.

LEAGUE COUNSELORS — Some of the members of the Urban League counseling team are (from left) Mrs. Ronald Covalt, 125 W. Johnson; Mrs. Otis Ferguson, 431 Lynch; Diane McCall, 281 South Blvd. W. and Clarence Kibby, 312 Howard McNeill. Currently more than 200 local high school seniors are benefiting from the program. There are nine counselors in all.

National Guard Unit Inspected

Pontiac's reorganized National Guard unit—now designated as airborne—underwent its first general inspection last night at the Pontiac Armory on Water Street.

Now called Co. B, 1st Batt. (ABN), 225th Inf., the 147-man unit was inspected by Lt. Col. Royce K. Lain, Inspector General's Staff, 5th Army.

Capt. David W. MacGillis, commanding officer of the local unit, described the new airborne status of the company as part of an "accelerated training program" affecting selected guard units throughout the country.

"It is generally felt that this is the last formal inspection of the unit prior to mobilization," MacGillis said.

He said the training speedup is "designed to provide the best possible trained force . . . in the shortest possible time."

It was the guard unit's first major function at the armory since an order by MacGillis closed the building because of "structural deficiencies" a month ago.

Funds for repair of weaknesses in the armory floor are awaiting official approval of the State Military Board in Lansing.

Civilian rentals of the building — including Grand Ole Opry, boxing and wrestling and other entertainment—have been ruled out by MacGillis until the floor is repaired.

200 Seniors Being Counseled

Urban League Program Hailed

A Pontiac Urban League program designed to supplement student counseling at Pontiac high schools has become one of the most successful ever sponsored by the organization, league officials said today.

From a slow start in October, the league program now reaches more than 200 seniors, according to Elvin Ryan, league director of Job Development and Youth Incentive, who heads the program.

Initial success has prompted league plans to expand the program to include juniors in the 1966-67 school year.

Currently, there is about one school counselor for every 350 students, according to Ryan.

Counselor aides in the league program take up where the school counselors leave off.

SEVEN SCHOOLS

Involved are seven elementary school areas: Franklin, Whittier, Bethune, Bagley, Crofoot, Wilson and McConnell.

The seniors meet with counseling aides at five sites: Jefferson, Bethune and McConnell schools; the Hayes Jones Community Center and Messiah Missionary Church.

Each counselor serves without pay and has between 18 and 30 students.

The counselor aides are Christopher Ruhe, Mrs. Barbara Swan, Mrs. Otis Ferguson, Mrs. Eleanor Covalt, Mrs. Marie Johnson, Rev. Lee Gragg, James Dyer, Harold Fillyout and David Simmons Jr.

WEEKLY EVENT

Mrs. Swan and Mrs. Covalt conduct individual training sessions at Urban League headquarters two to three hours each week.

The meetings are for those students aggressive enough to ask for extra help in the program.

High school administrators are working closely with the league in steering students to appropriate counseling sessions where the student appears weak in his planning for the future.

Subjects discussed are vocational selection, dos and don'ts in obtaining a job, college financing, college and job applications and interviews and apprenticeship programs.

COMMUNITY ROLE

Several community and business leaders have already taken part in the program, appearing before groups and aiding in the counseling.

Scheduled to appear at meetings in the next five months are Harold Keith, personnel director of Pontiac State Bank; James Dyer of the personnel division at Pontiac Motor Division; and William LaRock, director of the Social Security Administration's Pontiac office.

Grant OK'd for Language Arts Program

A federal grant of $395,790 to Pontiac Schools for expansion of the system's language arts program was announced at last night's board of education meeting.

About one-third of the total grant provides for hiring of additional personnel and the balance is for purchase of equipment.

School officials said that plans are already under way to implement the expanded program Jan. 31, the start of the new semester.

It will involve hiring 23 new instructional persons at both the elementary and secondary level, including 15 reading specialists.

★ ★ ★

Besides the varied instructional supplies needed for the program, two additional school buses will be acquired with the federal funds.

COST CITED

The grant, aimed mainly at overcoming reading and spelling deficiencies, will be disbursed through the Michigan Department of Education.

★ ★ ★

The board last night decided not to apply for another federal grant for library improvement because the per-day cost in lost personnel services to prepare the application was estimated at $4,206. The grant itself would only total $15,600.

Knifed in Bar, Youth Dies

A 20-year-old Pontiac youth was stabbed to death last night after a "scuffle" in a tavern on the city's near east side.

Pontiac police identified the victim as Jessie Anderson of 168 Crestwood, who was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital just after midnight.

Anderson had been cut several times around the face and neck and had deeper wounds in the shoulder and chest, police said.

The slaying occurred at Harry's Bar, 568 S. Sanford, when, according to bystanders, Anderson began arguing with another patron.

One witness told police he turned around from the bar after hearing a brief "scuffle" and saw Anderson on the floor.

Police said none of the bar's patrons were able to identify the victim's assailant, who fled the scene on foot.

Romney Plans Wide-Ranging

improve the level of benefits for all eligible veterans — particularly for those with the greatest disability and financial need. Romney vetoed an across-the-board exemption increase last year.

● "Further substantial increases" in support for all levels of education.

● Unspecified building recommendations bringing the over - all capital outlay program to more than $475 million, three-quarters of it for higher education.

● A $10-million increase in mental health funds, including expansion of community clinics and outpatient services.

● Removal of ceilings on old-age assistance and full state payment in programs aiding crippled and afflicted children.

● "Sharp increases" in state park and fish management programs financed by state and federal funds and increased user fees.

● Refinancing of the Mackinac Bridge and removal of tolls with an increase in auto weight taxes.

● Higher salaries for top state executives.

The governor repeated his earlier declaration that merely meeting higher costs and serving an expanding population will add $96 million to this year's $820-million general fund budget.

PART OF SURPLUS

He said his new budget — to be offered late this month or early next month, would use part of the $136 million state surplus.

He said to use the entire surplus "would be highly irresponsible because we may have passed the peak rate of increase in this unequaled period of economic growth."

December's sales and use tax increases — a prime indicator of the economy — were the highest in the state's four - year boom.

Romney in 1965 called with growning emphasis for tax reform in each of his three major addresses to the legislature.

BRIEF MENTION

But this time, tax reform drew only a brief mention midway through the address.

He urged the legislature to adopt reform elements of the tax proposal he and a group of legislators drafted last year, but skipped mention of higher revenues. He said he was willing to negotiate.

The governor said cities, however, should have additional taxing powers, "including certain excise taxes and a land transfer tax once the federal tax in this field is ended."

Devoting a principal section of his speech to urban affairs, the governor called for county home rule, a means to resolve annexation disputes, and metropolitan regional planning.

He called for crime control devices ranging from a computerized law information network to subpoena power for the attorney general.

Romney declared that total Michigan progress "depends most of all on the quality of family life and the voluntary activity of responsible citizens."

Birmingham Area News

Want Romney to Back Telegraph Improvement

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Gov. Romney will be urged next week to support the campaign for safety improvements on Telegraph.

Township Supervisor Homer Case and Rep. William P. Hampton, R-Birmingham, plan to make a personal appeal to the governor, backing their claims with statistics on the high-accident stretch.

Hampton said he will schedule a meeting Monday or Tuesday in the governor's office.

The drive to make Telegraph safer was spurred by the deaths of two teen-agers on the last two days of 1965, both killed in separate accidents at the Maple-Telegraph intersection.

The two accidents took to three the number of fatalities for the year on the six-mile Telegraph stretch through Bloomfield Township.

SIX DIE

Six lives were claimed by the road in 1964.

Case will take two proposals for temporary improvements to the governor next week.

Township officials want green-arrow lights installed at the intersection to allow motorists to make left turns from all four directions.

They also are seeking "prepare-to-stop" signs 1,000 feet north and south of the intersection to warn drivers that the light is about to change to red.

GREEN ARROWS

Case said he would like to see the green arrows for left turns timed for 15 seconds.

The survey to be presented to Romney lists 435 accidents on Telegraph in 1965. Besides the three fatalities, 358 persons were injured in Telegraph accidents last year.

Next week's meeting with Romney is the latest in a long line of appeals to the governor and various county and state agencies made by township officials and residents.

The State Highway Commission now is preparing plans to widen Telegraph to provide three traffic lanes each way, separated by a 60- to 80-foot median.

NAACP Raps Funds Request

Critical of Pontiac School Administrators

Pontiac's application for federal funds under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 has been criticized by the Oakland County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Supt. of Schools Dr. Dana P. Whitmer and board of education members received word of the objections yesterday in a letter from Mrs. Ellen Ferguson, first vice president of the county NAACP.

The two-page letter rapped school administration officials for not including representatives of organized labor and Pontiac's two teacher unions along with Negro administrators on the planning committee which drew up final drafts of the $422,000 program.

"Guidelines given us from the federal government suggested that representatives of 'child-serving agencies' serve on our preliminary planning committee," Whitmer said today.

"We did this. About 50 people from Pontiac and throughout the county laid down some general guidelines for use of our staff planning group.

FROM CENTRAL OFFICE

"This staff planning group, made up of administrators in our central office, included no Negroes for the reason there are no Negro administrators at the central office," he said.

"We have three Negro principals who were consulted throughout in putting together our projects.

"But," Whitmer said, "we couldn't very well pull them out of the schools."

Copies of the letter, according to Mrs. Ferguson, were also sent to federal and state officials.

Federally funded programs, she said, are meant to be planned, drawn up and implemented with the fullest community and citizen support.

"This, in our opinion, has not been the case."

The annual meeting of the United Home Owners Associations of Bloomfield Township will be held at 8 tonight at the Bloomfield Township Hall, 2100 Telegraph.

The organization, established in 1961, is composed of the homeowners' associations of some 90 subdivisions in the township.

Fifteen new board members are to be elected tonight.

Speaker for the program will be Robert J. McBride, director of news and community affairs from WJBK-TV, Detroit.

Farnum Favors 4-Year Term

Congressman Billie S. Farnum, D-19th District, had a chance to compliment President Johnson personally on his State of the Union speech last night. Farnum was sitting on the aisle.

Asked how he liked the surprise proposal of a four-year-term for congressmen, the freshman congressman said this would make possible to do a better job without risking personal fatigue.

During the first session of the 89th Congress Farnum made 54 trips back to the district (only 5 paid by government) and made 329 appearances.

Abiding by his reputation to get a dollar value for a dollar spent, the congressman favors a reevaluation of all Great Society and other aid programs "to be certain we get the maximum benefit."

Ernie Pyle Awards Won by Newsmen

NEW YORK (AP) — Two journalists were named winners today of the 1965 Ernie Pyle Memorial Award for their coverage of the war in Viet Nam.

They are Tom Tiede, 29, a correspondent of Newspaper Enterprise Association, and John Van Doorn, 32, night city editor of Newsday in Garden City, N.Y. Each was awarded $1,000.

Tiede has been in Viet Nam since last October and Van Doorn spent three months there on special assignment last fall.

Tiede's stories appear regularly in The Pontiac Press.

The two were awarded the prize named after the famed World War II reporter and columnist for "most nearly exemplifying the style and craftsmanship" of Pyle.

endurance—to remove any barrier to peaceful settlement."

'WILL WORK'

Johnson said, "We will work for a cease-fire now or once discussions have begun. We will respond if others reduce their use of force; and we will withdraw our soldiers once South Viet Nam is securely guaranteed the right to shape its own future."

If peace efforts fail, he said, "we will act as we must to help protect the independence of the valiant people of South Viet Nam."

But, pledged Johnson, "I am hopeful, and I will try the best I can with everything I've got to end this battle and return our ons to their desires."

★ ★ ★

Dirksen said he had hoped Johnson would be more specific on Viet Nam. But "he made it very specifically clear we are there to stay until the job is done, the pledges redeemed," the Illinois senator added.

'DEEPLY DISAPPOINTED'

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., however, said he was 'deeply disappointed in the President's emphasis on dragging out the war for months and maybe even years rather than insisting that we do everything humanly possible to win it quickly."

Johnson observed that "because of Viet Nam we cannot do all that we should, or all we would like to do" but that "we will continue to meet the needs of our people."

In the civil rights field, he urged legislation to enforce "nondiscrimination in federal and state jury selection."

★ ★ ★

Dirksen said he had reservations on possible encroachment of state rights.

HOUSING BIAS

Johnson also urged legislation to ban discrimination in the sale and rental of housing.

Johnson's labor package included improved unemployment insurance, expansion of minimum wage benefits and repeal of the portion of the Taft-Hartley law which permits states to ban the union shop. The House passed this last year, but a Dirksen-led filibuster prevented Senate action.

The President apparently caught labor leaders by surprise in telling Congress he would propose legislation "to deal with strikes that threaten irreparable damage to the national interest."

For those who live on farms and in rural America," the President said, "we must plan for the future through the establishment of several new community development districts, improved education through the use of teacher corps teams, and better health measures, physical examinations, and adequate and available medical resources."

URGENT DECENCIES

The President said:

I have not come here tonight to ask for pleasant luxuries or for idle pleasure. I have come here to recommend that you — the representatives of the richest nation on earth — you the elected servants of a people who live in abundance unmatched on this globe — you bring the most urgent decencies of life to all Americans.

There are men who cry out: We must sacrifice.

Let us rather ask them: Whom will they sacrifice? Are they going to sacrifice the children who seek learning — or the sick who need medical care — or the families who dwell in squalor now brightened by the hope of home? Will they sacrifice opportunity for the distressed—the beauty of our land —the hope of our poor."

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., commented, "If we try to enact all of the President's program we will be here until Christmas."

JUNE TARGET

Johnson has said he hopes Congress will wind up its work and go home by June, but leaders of both Houses say that is unlikely.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said Congress ought to "respond speedily" to Johnson's requests.

Dirksen and Ford said they would make a formal GOP response next Monday.

They said they would record their evaluation of the State of the Union in the morning and that two—and possibly all three —of the television networks would carry it that night.

Johnson's speech, nationally broadcast and televised, was carried in color this year for the first time.

Rights Coffers Harder to Fill

By DON McKEE
(AP Special Report)

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Unprecedented gains in the fight against racial discrimination have turned into a double-edged sword for civil rights organizations, whittling away their support as well as the foundations of segregation.

In the absence of crises, civil rights organizations are losing funds and followers. Unspectacular programs such as voter registration or job improvement do not attract much money or members.

"Our financial situation is pretty desperate," said John R. Lewis, national chairman of the Atlanta-based Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

The committee is the smallest and least organized of the civil rights groups and usually has financial problems. But the bigger organizations also are feeling the pinch.

PINCH AT TOP

Included is the oldest and largest, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, founded in 1909. Its executive director, Roy Wilkins, reported recently in New York that the NAACP lost nearly 25,000 members in the past year and had an unadjusted deficit of more than $200,000.

Coupled with a 45,000-member loss in 1964, this reduced membership from a 1963 peak of 535,000 to 440,159.

Wilkins attributed the decline to a belief of some supporters that the civil rights battle is over. So did Lewis.

"One of the reasons," Lewis said, "is a feeling on the part of a great many people that the basic problems we have been struggling with are solved. Then there is just a tendency on the part of the American public, when they cannot see the dramatic action, to slow down on support."

REVAMPING DUE

The Congress of Racial Equality, experiencing wholesale changes in leadership, and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, headed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., plan to revamp their fund-raising methods.

CORE's community relations director, Alan Gartner, gave this analysis in an interview:

"The public feels in a general sense that because of the voting rights and civil rights bills, the diminution of major demonstrations and the antipoverty program — the movement as it has been is no longer a relevant matter. We disagree, of course."

Gartner said CORE had debts last Aug. 31 totaling "very close to $300,000." It has been reduced to about $210,000, he said, "a very significant cut."

"Financially, we are certainly in need," said the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, treasurer of the Atlanta-based conference. "But we are not drowning. We are still able to pay our bills."

MORE IN CRISIS

"People usually give more when there is a crisis," he said.

Enactment of the civil rights law of 1964 and the voting rights law of 1965, accompanied by continuing desegregation in the South, eased tense areas.

Federal agencies are enforcing nondiscrimination policies; federal examiners are registering Negro voters in four states; federal funds are going into new programs for the poor.

"Certainly it might be expected with the federal government moving into the civil rights field that it is going to be a factor," said Clarence Coleman of Atlanta, Southern regional director of the National Urban League.

UNITED APPEAL

Coleman said the Urban League depends largely upon civic United Appeal fund drives and therein lies a problem born of new federal programs. Anti-poverty funds for Atlanta were double the $5 million raised by the United Appeal, he said.

"This makes it a little more difficult for the United Fund," he said. The Urban League itself is turning increasingly to federal agencies, he said, having received $289,000 last year in Atlanta from the Department of Labor for a job training program.

CORE's new national director, Floyd B. McKissick of Durham, N.C., has talked of developing new techniques to fit today's situation, a drive for members and an overhaul of the organization's financial setup.

CORE depends heavily upon mail solicitations. Gartner said the organization would continue this type of appeal, "but we're selecting the people we appeal to a little more carefully."

"We're changing the pitch from beatings and brutality to a different appeal," he said. "We felt the general public was tired of the brutality story."

CORE is moving to two other areas — the Negro community and special projects, including concert tours this winter and spring by singers Nina Simone and the Clancy Brothers. For the first time, CORE has put full-time fund raisers in New York's heavily Negro Harlem and Bedford-Stuyvesant districts.

★ ★ ★

"Except for the churches, CORE has never made any money from the Negro community," Gartner said.

CORE spends $70,000 to $80,000 a month, he said.

MAIL APPEAL

Abernathy, whose Southern Christian Leadership Conference has a monthly mail appeal of 10,000 to 25,000 letters, said labor unions and private foundations would be asked to help finance Southern voter registration drives.

"So much of our work now is unspectacular," Abernathy said, "and this means we have to educate foundations, churches and other donors to put us in their budgets."

He said the organization spent about $1.7 million — equaling that of the NAACP legal defense fund — in the fiscal year ended last Aug. 31. This year's budget will be smaller. The Rev. Andrew J. Young, executive secretary, said the staff was cut from about 250 to 200 in an efficiency move after the summer. "It's true we did give financial reasons for cutting back," he said, "but mainly we had too many people hanging around."

During the 1965 Selma, Ala., crisis, the conference received generous financial support, but contributions have declined since then.

CAN SURVIVE

Asked if the group could survive finacially without demonstrations or crises, Abernathy replied:

"I think it can, because we don't use demonstrations for the purpose of raising funds. We use demonstrations for the purpose of exposing the evil system of segregation. This is not our purpose at all — to raise funds. We can survive through our mail appeal — through foundations, friends and churches; this is our basic support."

Abernathy also was asked if the campaign in Chicago would risk alienating finacial supporters in that section of the country.

★ ★ ★

"I do not see where any of our givers who sincerely make gifts to the freedom movement will curtail their giving," he said.

Winter Itch Commonplace for Dry Skin

Q — I have winter eczema. What is the best treatment for it?

A — Winter itch (not a true eczema) is frequently seen in persons whose skin is drier than normal.

BRANDSTADT

As we grow older, there is a tendency for the skin to become drier. Although there is no cure, most victims get relief by avoiding hot baths.

You should take sponge baths with cold water and little, or no, soap. If you do use soap, use a plain unscented brand and rinse it off thoroughly.

After your bath, rub a thin layer of cold cream (lanolin, not cleansing cream) on your skin.

Use a humidifier in winter to keep the indoor air from becoming too dry. A little fog or frost on the windows is proof of sufficient moisture in the air.

Q — I am 60 years old. I am getting brown spots (my doctor calls them caritosis) on my hands and face. They look like freckles but they are thicker, like flat warts. How can I get rid of them? Will they become cancerous?

A — The brown, warty freckles that most people get after the age of 50 are known as senile keratoses.

Sometimes, they disappear spontaneously in one location only to show up in another.

They are found, like juvenile freckles, on the exposed parts of the body and are best prevented by avoiding excessive sunshine, heat and dryness.

Wear a wide-brimmed hat and walk on the shady side of the street. Keeping your skin soft with cold cream also helps to prevent them.

Although they rarely become cancerous, this is a possibility. For this reason, they should be watched at intervals by a physician.

Freezing with carbon dioxide snow or exposure to X rays will remove them.

Some bleaching preparations for removing freckles are available but they are not completely without danger and should be used only on the advice of a physician.

Lal Bahadur Shastri

India's Prime Minister died Tuesday morning at the untimely age of 61.

LAL BAHADUR SHASTRI was stricken at Tashkent, Soviet Union, shortly after the successful conclusion of a week-long summit conference with Pakistani President MOHAMMED AYUB KHAN initiated by Russian Premier ALEXEI KOSYGIN in a move to end hostilities between India and Pakistan.

SHASTRI

The diminutive Shastri, born in abject poverty, early emerged as a skillful politician and became general secretary for Uttar Pradesh state at 31.

In 1946, a year before India's independence, he was made parliamentary secretary to the state's chief minister.

With the ascendancy of JAWAHARLAL NEHRU to the head of state SHASTRI, long his close friend, intermittently held many top government and cabinet posts. After NEHRU suffered a stroke two years ago SHASTRI became minister without portfolio to relieve the prime minister of the ardors of office. On the death of NEHRU in mid-1964, SHASTRI was elected to succeed him.

The new premier took command of a vast subcontinent of 463 million people governed by an unwieldy bureaucracy of 33 million functionaries.

But SHASTRI proved himself an able and adroit administrator as he made India's state socialism work within the framework of democracy at home while steering a middle course in international relations.

No more symbolic epitaph of the man could have been contrived than the big part he played in resolving the conflict between India and Pakistan that has been in eruption for two decades. SHASTRI's death leaves a critical void in the ranks of national leaders who shared common cause in the pursuit of global peace and brotherhood.

Meadow Brook Season Is Again Lengthened

No better confirmation of the time-proved aphorism that nothing succeeds like success can be offered than the brief but sensational experience of Oakland University's Meadow Brook Festival.

The confirmation is both visible and audible — and on a national scale.

Now preparing for its third season of musical stars under the stars, the upcoming program of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra will again be expanded — to eight weeks with 31 concerts, beginning June 30. Last year it was 18 concerts in six weeks, a two-week and six-concert advance over the year before.

★ ★ ★

An innovation for the 1966 season is a Sunday Twilight Series at 6:30 p.m. to accommodate the overflow crowds that turned out last year.

SIXTEN EHRLING, conductor of the Detroit Symphony, will direct 23 of the concerts, while guest conductor ROBERT SHAW will lead eight. An impressive list of soloists will highlight the concert series.

★ ★ ★

The Festival is under the general chairmanship of Ford Vice President Ben D. Mills and Mrs. Mills. Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson, to whose philanthropy both Oakland University and Meadow Brook Festival owe their being, again serves as honorary chairman. Chancellor and Mrs. D. B. Varner represent the university.

★ ★ ★

We look forward with eager anticipation to another summer of the cultural delight afforded by the Meadow Brook Festival.

SOMEBODY is always trying to take the fun out of life. It is being urged that those who attend national political party nominating conventions be restrained instead of riotous.

Tough Decision on Bombing Due

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The longer President Johnson's peace offensive runs on without decisive results, the closer the President comes to the day when he must decide whether to resume the bombings of North Viet Nam targets.

It will be a hard decision to make.

Much of the good will which the United States has harvested around the world since the bombing pause began at Christmas time is likely to be quickly lost if air strikes start up again, reviving the spectacle of a great power battering a small one.

Yet if he does not resume them, the military and political advantages gained by bombing the north will in turn be lost.

★ ★ ★

Washington officials presently assume that at some point in the future, if there is no peace, the air raids, will be started again. But that point may not be reached soon. The President is said to be well aware of the need for time to let the leaders of North Viet Nam consider their predicament.

RED PREDICAMENT

The predicament is essentially this: if the Red leaders do not find some way to bring the war to an end, they face the possibilty of massive damage in an expanding conflict. But if they do move to end it by accepting the U. S. offer of negotiation, they face the possibility of losing their struggle to seize control, through Communist guerrilla forces fighting in the south of South Viet Nam.

If they felt reasonably sure of winning South Viet Nam at the conference table, then presumably they would elect to negotiate.

Their problem is also complicated by the rivalry between the Soviet Union and Red China. The impression in Washington is that the Soviet Union would like to see the conflict in Southeast Asia settled before it can explode into general Asian war but that Red China is determined to have it continued.

North Viet Nam gets arms from both Communist powers. Red China, being the closer, has long had the upper hand in Hanoi.

POPULAR MOVE

The bombing pause, as an element of the American peace offensive, has been a popular move in many parts of the world. U. S. officials believe it has undercut the efforts of North Viet Nam to rally world opinion against the United States.

★ ★ ★

But sooner or later, if North Viet Nam does not act for negotiations, the President will have to judge whether the bombing lull has gone on long enough to serve his peace-seeking purposes, and his parallel diplomatic and propaganda aims. He will then have to decide whether and under what conditions the bombing should be resumed.

First In Line

David Lawrence Says:

'State of Union' Political Speech

WASHINGTON — Realistically speaking, there is truly no such thing as a "State of the Union" message by the president. It would be more accurate to describe it as a message on the "state of the party in power" and how it proposes to stay in power.

LAWRENCE

For, if a president attempted actually to tell the people about the state of the union, he would have to mention some rather unpleasant matters.

He would have to tell about the abuse of governmental power throughout the country — the wasteful expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars for purposes which, if the details were known to all the people, would surely be frowned upon as a misuse of their funds.

★ ★ ★

But the custom seems to be for a president to tell a nationwide television audience, in effect, that no administration has ever accomplished as much as his, that the economic future is bright and rosy, and that all that needs to be done is to let the politicians who run the government keep on running it.

★ ★ ★

There is, of course, the aggravating issue of the war in Viet Nam, but this is dressed up with vague sentences about desirable objectives and the importance of bringing peace to the world.

LITTLE REVEALED

Very little is revealed as to the forces and influences of hostility which confront the United State in the complex problems of diplomacy. Generalities are deemed safer and more expedient for political reasons.

★ ★ ★

A "State of the Union" message nowadays is carefully prepared for weeks in advance. It is delivered with all the techniques of showmanship and political emphasis that will give the people grandiose ideas of the progress being made.

Nothing is said about the danger of continuous deficits in the federal treasury. On the contrary, an impression is given that sound economic and fiscal policies are being pursued.

★ ★ ★

Thus, the war in Viet Nam may be expensive and require a tightening of the belt, but the idea of cutting off or postponing programs that are really nonessential isn't seriously considered here.

MANY REASONS

The reasons for the political nature of the presidential address are many, but the most important is the assumption that the people aren't too well-informed anyhow.

Presumably, they wouldn't understand an explanation of the nation's troubles even if it were given to them dispassionately and without political overtones.

If, however, the citizens were better informed, would they stand for the platitudes of a "State of the Union" message? Would they be content to listen to the plaudits of administration supporters in Congress? Would they be satisfied with the perfunctory criticisms that come from the opposition?

★ ★ ★

Nothing in a "state of the union" message tells the people that federal deficits, amounting to billions year after year, can bankrupt the Treasury or at least cast such doubts on the value of the paper money issued by the government that a runaway inflation might ensue.

NOTHING SAID

Nothing is said about the government's interferences with private businesses or the exercise of control over prices without warrant of law.

★ ★ ★

Indeed, the cloudy side of the "State of the Union" doesn't get attention, as would be the case if a frank and forthright analysis were made of the true state of the union in America today.

Bob Considine Says:

Corporation 'Watchdog' Ready for More Baiting

NEW YORK—With publication of her annual White Paper, Evelyn Y. Davis, self-styled "noted minority stockholder," informs us that she is in good shape—she can say that again!—for her annual assault on chairmen of the board of the nation's greatest corporations.

CONSIDINE

We haven't been able to do more than skim through this tract but can see, in advance, a lot of tycoons' pounding fists on their polished desks and bellowing dark curses.

Evelyn has a knack of portraying all of them as a cross between Boss Tweed and Gaylord Ravenal, and all play fast and loose with her money.

Evelyn has stock in 70 companies and attends 50 annual meetings a year "to speak up for this country's 20 million holders of stock."

★ ★ ★

Sometimes she is given the old heave-ho out of meetings, but most times she is suffered, and sometimes what she demands seems to bring direct action.

FIRST APPEARANCE

"My first appearance of the season will be at the annual meeting of Loew's Hotels," Evelyn alerted us—and we, in turn, pass the information along to the members of that board, in case this is a good time to see Majorca.

"What I am going to ask there, and demand a complete answer on, is this: 'Who's paying for all those suites and public rooms at the Americana Hotel being used by Mike Quill's people?' That's what I'm going to ask.

"Who's picking up the tab for those guys?" That's what I'm asking.

"At the RCA meeting, I'm going to open my campaign to enforce the age limitations on corporation executives. They'll think I'm shooting at Gen. Sarnoff, right? But it's the principle of the thing that interests me."

Evelyn gets very angry when someone says to her, or about her, "She's a one-share stockholder, so what right has got to shoot her big mouth off."

That is an infamous slur she assured me. "I'm quite big in Xerox," she said, with a withering stare.

"Do me one great favor?" she asked in her engaging way at the end of the audience. I said sure, what . . . ?

Red Guerrilla Tactics Revealed

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Ho Chi Minh's newspaper, "People's Army," is running a series on guerrilla tactics.

CROMLEY

The writers say that in several important South Viet Nam battles this past year, Ho's mainline forces did not have victory as their objective.

Instead, their job was to pin down "the enemy" (our side), leaving the Viet Cong guerrilla troops "free" to run wild.

While the Vietnamese army was busy repulsing the Red mainline attack, the guerrillas fanned out to destroy local "land reform" and "new life" hamlets and assassinate hamlet leaders.

In other campaigns, says People's Army, when Red mainline troops go into battle, guerrilla units are charged with blocking or ambushing enemy relief and supply columns.

The object, of course, is to isolate the forward enemy force so it can be chewed up for lack of reserves and supplies, except those brought in by air.

Over several years, People's Army says, VC guerrillas have, one by one, secured control of strategic points along major highways and byroads in South Viet Nam.

This has been done according to a schedule. First objectives were "major highways numbered 1, 9, 13, 14."

The VC guerrillas have specialized in putting themselves in positions along these roads from which they can readily block major junctions. Their attack positions are prepared months in advance.

When mainline forces attack, therefore, the guerrilla troops are already positioned to quickly hit relief and supply columns.

In co-ordination with the mainline attack, guerrillas are charged with blasting or mining bridges leading to the battle zone.

In some battles, the guerrillas are expected to move into the fight first, attacking from all sides. "With guerrilla forces hitting from all directions," says People's Army, "the enemy is confused and does not know from which way the main attack may come."

The mainline forces are to hold back until the guerrillas expose a weak spot, then move in for the kill.

At times, guerrilla units are ordered to add to the confusion by "beating drums and empty cans and by shouting and ringing bells . . . shaking up the whole area and creating confusion for the enemy."

If the Viet Cong lose the battle, guerrilla forces are assigned to harassing the enemy. By slowing down the mopping up operations, they enable mainline forces to escape.

The guerrillas, it is quite obvious, are considered expendable.

Bob Hope, on his 14th annual tour for GIs cheered thousands of our fighting men with his comments concerning the "Vietnik" demonstrations. Reader Says Johnson Put a Price on Dignity

Isn't it time we realized what Johnson's poverty program is doing to us, aside from bankrupting us? He has set a level of income below which he says we cannot live in "dignity." That's his word and he seems to savor its use.

★ ★ ★

No one would deny another a life of dignity, but Johnson has put a price on it. He says we must display a certain show of external tinsel to establish our dignity. Have our values truly sunk so low? If dignity depends on a certain standard of living, why has a blind peddler more dignity than Mr. Johnson's protege, Bobby Baker? Why is there more to be admired in a washer woman determined to educate her children than in the rich who buy their children everything and give them nothing?

★ ★ ★

I'm not condemning the entire poverty program, because undoubtedly some of it is vitally needed, but I resent a man in the position of President who has so crass a conception of human purpose as to judge it by dollars and cents.

Considering the personal "dignity" of a President who bares a flabby stomach for the whole world to see his operation scar, one can hardly expect more, I guess.

Offers Suggestions on Littering Problem

Answering the editor's note on Mrs. Taylor's letter about littering, does Mr. Editor actually think women's garden groups are going about the streets picking up litter? They have already beautified the City by planting flower beds, etc., but I hardly think you could leave the littering problem up to them.

★ ★ ★

The answer is enforcement of the litter law which we have on our City books. Penalties are fairly stiff — not over $100 fine or 60 days in jail—but the enforcement of the law with our limited police force must necessarily be partially up to individuals who are willing to carry through with apprehending offenders.

Keeping the City clean should be emphasized in the schools. Perhaps signs posted with penalties would help. In the long run it is going to be up to all residents to take some initiative when we see the law being broken. Many bottles are thrown out of cars at night and this dangerous practice should have severe penalties. How about the men helping out with this problem? A few words in the right places at home and a little advertising would help.

In answer to Jack Pine, I also attended the meeting at Pontiac Central on deer hunting. I have heard that Mr. Roy McMullen was once the director of the Wisconsin conservation department and started a doe season in that state, thus creating record kills. When Roy left, sportsmen took over the management. Wisconsin went for three years without a deer season. Now, years later, they are still attempting to regain their deer herd as witnessed in the past season of nine days and bucks only. Are all of these stories that we heard about Roy untrue or are they merely unpublicized?

Suggests Theater Price Bracket for Youth

Why don't the theaters have a price bracket for youth between the ages of 12 and 16 whereby they would pay more than the 50 cents charged for children but less than the $1.50 charged for adults? In my opinion a person between 12 and 16 is still a child. The only people who classify them as adults are the owners of our theaters.

Interest Hike on Homes Seen

Government Agencies Are Studying Trends

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher interest rates on Federal Housing Administration home loans were clearly foreshadowed as heads of the government agencies involved testified yesterday before the House subcommittee on Housing.

FHA Commissioner Philip N. Brownstein stopped just short of saying flatly that the present rate — 5¼ per cent plus ½ per cent insurance premium — will be raised. But he said this will have to be done unless the present upward trend of interest rates generally is reversed "and at the present time there is no indication of a reversal."

The cost of borrowing money has been rising since early December, when the Federal Reserve Boardd raised by ½ per cent the discount rate, the rate at which banks can obtain money.

★ ★ ★

Brownstein would not speculate as to how soon the FHA might act, or how great an increase might be decreed. The agency has statutory authority to increase interest to as much as 6 per cent.

GET BENEFIT

Asked how large an increase he thinks would be needed to enable FHA to compete with other investments, Brownstein replied, "whatever is necessary so that investors will participate and home purchasers will get the benefit of FHA loans."

★ ★ ★

Pressed as to the timing, Brownstein said "there is still a considerable amount of churning within the investment market" and he does not feel the situation has yet stabilized. But he went on to say FHA must react promptly when the situation is clear — that delay would only create more difficulties.

An increase in the FHA interest rate would affect new mortgages insured by the agency, but would not increase the cost to home owners paying off mortgages now in effect.

★ ★ ★

J. Stanley Baughman, president of the Federal National Mortgage Association, said that agency already is paying above-market prices for mortgages and cannot continue this indefinitely. FNMA provides a secondary market for FHA mortgages, thus making more money available for lending.

U.P. Jobless Hike Is Likely in February

DETROIT (UPI) — The Michigan Employment Security Commission said today the number of jobless persons in the Upper Peninsula is likely to grow steadily through the end of February.

In its report for the 30 days ending last Oct. 15, the commission said unemployment stood at 3,800 and "is likely to increase steadily during the next four months as more workers are laid off from their jobs in the construction, service, quarrying and transportation industries."

It said figures for January would probably reflect a "sharp drop" in retail trade employment because of the end of part-time preholiday work opportunities.

"Short-term layoffs in lumbering will be dependent on weather conditions," the commission said.

"Winter weather will also limit or halt construction of many projects; however, employment in this industry will probably be at higher levels than last year."

Most Members Like LBJ's 4-Year House Term Idea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson's proposal for a four-year House term struck many members today as the most admirable idea they have heard from the White House since the last congressional pay raise.

★ ★ ★

Theh political rose that the chief executive offered the House in his State of the Union message might, like their recent salary hike, have some thorns in the form of voter opposition.

But it looked good to many members who hardly finish one campaign before starting another.

Under the Constitution, all 435 House seats go up for grabs every two years. In the 100-seat Senate, only 33 or 34 seats normally are at stake every two years and terms run for six years.

Thoughtful political scientist and campaign-weary politicians have been suggesting for years that the system be changed. But they never have had the kind of endorsement that Johnson gave.

UNEXPECTED PLAN

As a result of Johnson's totally unexpected recommendation, a constitutional amendment providing for a four-year House term probably will reach to the floor.

But it almost certainly will not take the form suggested by the President and approval is by no means assured.

A lot depends on the attitude of House leaders. Speaker John McCormack kept his own counsel. But the "father of the House," Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., was against it.

Celler, senior member of the House with 43 years of service and chairman of the Judiciary Committee, has been trying to brush such proposals under the rug for years, and obviously did not feel he was getting any help from the President.

The first building erected in the U. S. for public use under authority of the federal government was the U.S. Mint built in Philadelphia in 1792.

Struggle Likely Over Johnson's Bid for New Antibias Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's bid for laws to guarantee equality for Negroes in the courts and in housing is expected to touch off a hot fight on Capitol Hill.

"This will be the toughest one yet," predicted a high administration veteran of congressional struggles over the 1964 Civil Rights Act and 1965 Voting Rights Act.

★ ★ ★

Johnson, in his State of the Union message Wednesday night, proposed laws to:

—Guarantee nondiscriminatory selection of jurors in state as well as federal courts;

—Strengthen federal court authority over violence against civil rights workers and stiffen the federal penalties for such violence;

—Ban racial discrimination in the sale or rental of housing.

ROADS CONVERGE

Justice, the President said, is one of the roads converging on the Great Society. And "simply defined," he declared, "justice means a man's hope should not be limited by the color of his skin."

Of pressing tactical concern to the administration were the reservations expressed by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. He lent vital support to the 1964-65 civil rights legislation, and is regarded as the key to breaking any Southern filibuster over racial laws.

"This is really using the ax on the judicial sovereignty of the states," Dirksen said.

Justice Department lawyers have a head start in meeting Johnson's demands for laws to deal with discrimination in the selection of juries. He ordered preparation of such a law several months ago.

INCREASE POWER

And they have been struggling over a draft bill to increase federal jurisdiction to curb racial violence since last March 26, when Johnson ordered a law to curb the activities of the Ku Klux Klan.

★ ★ ★

President John F. Kennedy once issued an executive order aimed at ending racial discrimination in federally aided housing. Still, civil rights groups have clamored for more action. Justice Department experts have yet to get their teeth into this area, but they say they'll be on sound constitutional ground in extending antidiscrimination laws to privately financed housing.

MODEL SYSTEM

The administration is expected to ask Congress to make the federal jury selection system a model for the states to follow.

While no firm decisions have been reached on the language of the legislation, one of its victims is expected to be the "key man" system of federal jury selection as practiced in the South and some other judicial circuits.

★ ★ ★

Under this system, prominent community leaders are asked to submit lists of recommended, trustworthy jurors. This method often excludes from jury service a large percentage of the population—people who, by virtue of race, poverty or lack of social standing, are unknown to the "key man."

Some possibilities being considered by Johnson's legislative strategists:

—a law authorizing the attorney general to initiate civil suits attacking state jury systems. He could seek a federal court order against the offending county or circuit and ask the court to draw up a jury selection plan for that jurisdiction. Such a law also could authorize the federal court to enjoin all further criminal trials in the jurisdiction until its jury selection plan had been satisfactorily corrected.

★ ★ ★

—an automatic triggering device much like the one that empowers federal voting examiners to take over registration in some Southern counties today. This law might be activated by a finding that minority group participation in juries fell short of a given percentage. A possible result would be the empowering of a federal official to select all further juries in the offending area until the deficiency is corrected.

★ ★ ★

—A law to protect the unpopular defendant by allowing him to ask a federal court to remove his trial from the state court on the ground he can't be tried fairly in the state court.

More Chiefs Than Braves

RUSHVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Firemen got expert help while fighting a $50,000 blaze at a tire company.

Chiefs from 13 fire departments were gathered here discussing a countywide radio system with Rushville Fire Chief Dayton Springman.

When the fire broke out at the tire company Tuesday night, they all went along. The chiefs outnumbered the firemen.

Zambia Chief, Wilson Confer

Commonwealth Eases Demand on Rhodesia

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson came to Zambia for talks today after the Commonwealth conference agreed to withhold a demand for military action against Rhodesia's rebellious government.

Wilson was welcomed at the airport by President Kenneth Kaunda. The two hurried off for talks at State House in Lusaka.

Wilson's brief visit was regarded as a display of solidarity with Kaunda, who is struggling with economic strains resulting from the Commonwealth boycott of neighboring Rhodesia and tension along the border between Zambia and Rhodesia. Rhodesia is the normal source or channel for most of Zambia's exports and imports.

★ ★ ★

Before leaving later in the morning for Nairobi and London, Wilson planned to inspect the Royal Air Force unit he sent to bolster Zambia's defenses.

EMERGENCY SUMMIT

The emergency Commonwealth summit conference ended Wednesday in Lagos, Nigeria, with a decision not to use military force against Rhodesia. But the conference communique did not rule out such action later if needed to maintain or restore law and order.

★ ★ ★

Wilson succeeded in persuading most of the 19 other Commonwealth leaders to be patient and give economic sanctions more time to bring down Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's white minority regime. No time limit was set.

3 Medals Won—the Hard Way

By TOM TIEDE

LAIKHE, Viet Nam (NEA)—The Purple Heart is an inch-and-a-half of ribbon and an engraved George Washington on a hunk of heart-shaped metal, which is given the soldier who spills his blood in battle.

★ ★ ★

Nearly 7,000 have been presented in this conflict, three of them to a single young man.

This is that man's incredible story.

Pfc. Orval Gene Adkins, a 23-year-old West Virginian, was along when elements of the 1st Infantry Division moved into a rubber plantation which everyone figured was under Viet Cong influence.

Halfway in, the GIs were ambushed. Machine guns spat from either side of the troop trail. Snipers tied to the tops of the trees let loose with a shower of steel.

TRAPS WAITING

When the victims tumbled for cover, they were stunned and murdered by booby traps and planted grenades.

Adkins, a radio-telephone operator, was slowed by some 50 pounds of equipment lashed to his back. He managed to dodge the enemy shot but was cut down by fragments from an explosion. The upper portion of his left arm was torn open.

Moments later he was evacuated. The soldier's wound proved not serious. He was cleaned, bandaged, given medication and the following morning sent to rest up in his own tent.

"Take it easy," the medics told him.

He would follow the advice, but the VC wouldn't.

Adkins said little to his companions in the platoon area, but he sat with the others and listened. He kicked at the dirt and rubbed his hands. On one side of him was a sandbag bunker, on the other an oddly contrasting group of colorful lounge chairs.

The sun was bright.

Adkins began to feel at ease.

Then, almost lacking reality, a shot echoed from the edge of the nearby jungle. A sniper. The men dove behind the bags of sand, each reaching for helmet and rifle.

★ ★ ★

No one spoke, no one moved.

"Hey," a voice said suddenly, "I think something got me."

It was Adkins. Twisted around in his prone position, he was poking his right hip when the blood began to seep through his fatigues. He shook his head in disbelief. So did his fellows.

Moments after, he made his second trip to the medics.

Again the wound was superficial. Aid men, not knowing whether to grin or groan at the fantastic misfortune, patched him up once more and returned him to his unit area. Again they told him to take it easy.

Again he followed the suggestion — and again the enemy didn't.

The second shot came with more realism than the first. The men were edgy by now. It sounded like a blown tire and the crack rumbled throughout the dense forest.

"Ouch!" somebody cried.

It was, of course, Orval Adkins.

★ ★ ★

This bullet pierced the same bandage that covered the first wound he had sustained 48 hours and many coincidences before.

AND AGAIN

More angry than injured, the soldier jumped up, emptied four magazines into the sniper's area. Then, silent and solemn, turned away and began to walk again to the aid station.

★ ★ ★

And still another Purple Heart.

Hamlin to Lead 62 Delegates

Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, will head a delegation of some 62 Oakland County officials to next weeks Michigan Association of County Supervisors convention in Lansing.

Featured discussion items at the convention, scheduled Monday through Thursday, will be proposed legislation on county board apportionment and highway financing.

Speakers will include Gov. Romney, Sen. Philip A. Hart, Secretary of the Interior Stuart Udall and Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh.

A total of 800 county supervisors and department heads are expected for the 67th annual convention.

★ ★ ★

A "clean water" conference will be held in conjunction with the conclave.

AMONG DELEGATES

Among the Oakland County delegates will be R. J. Alexander, director of the Department of Public Works.

★ ★ ★

He will participate in a public works panel discussion.

Will Place Sidewalks Where Students Walk

CARLINVILLE, Ill. (AP) —The new men's dormitory at Blackburn College here was built without sidewalks—for a purpose.

President Robert P. Ludlum says school officials will observe where the students walk —and then build the sidewalks there.

Learn About Drink From 'Bottom Up'

NEW YORK (AP)—A Harvard University psychiatrist proposes that a new course be taught in the nation's schools and colleges — "practice drinking."

★ ★ ★

The psychiatrist, Dr. Morris Chafetz, told a conference yesterday on "Alcohol and Food in Health and Disease" that the purpose of the course would be to instruct young people how to drink socially under supervised conditions.

"Alcohol is here to stay," he said, "and people must learn to develop a healthy attitude toward it."

Chafetz suggested that "practice drinking" be initiated at a very early age, in elementary school, and continue through college.

He said that the youngest children should be given very weak drinks at first, perhaps sherry in water, with the alchoholic contents gradually increased for the older students.

CLINIC DIRECTOR

Chafetz, an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at Harvard, is also director of the Alcoholic Clinic and Acute Alcoholic Psychiatric Service of Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

He told the conference that the home is not the place to teach youngsters how to hold their liquor because many parents have guilt feelings about their own drinking.

In school, he said, the young people could be instructed on the hazards of proper use of alcohol.

Chafetz contended that the drinking would not encourage heavy consumption but would reduce it because there would be fewer heavy drinkers.

By drinking small amounts with others, he said, the young would learn how to form relationships and derive a sense of relaxation and well-being from the experience.

Farewell To A Landmark... Wixom's First Baptist Church

Now Marked for Demolition

Church Lives to Ripe Old Age

By PAT McCARTY

WIXOM — It was an eventful day, that Jan. 12 back in 1865.

President Fairfiels of Hillsdale College traveled over 75 miles to dedicate the new Baptist Church in Wixom.

Directly after his sermon, Deacon Sibley's oldest daughter, Harriet, walked down the aisle and was married to Pastor Drew.

The 101-year-old church will never see the likes of such an occasion again.

It is marked for demolition later this month.

IN FRONT OF SCHOOL

The building stands right in front of Wixom Eelementary School, and the Walled Lake Board of Education recently bought the property to improve the school site.

Purchase price, agreed to after some four years of negotiations, was $16,500.

The church was built primarily for a congregation organized 128 years ago by a dozen New York State families who settled here and established the First Free Baptist Association of Commerce.

★ ★ ★

Services were held in homes and a red brick schoolhouse until the young Rev. James D. Drew arrived and saw the need for more space.

DEEDED LAND

In 1864, Alonzo Sibley deeded land from his farm on the corner of West Maple and Wixom roads "for meeting house purposes only."

According to the church history, a lady of the times later said that the church was built "by donations of time, means, lumber, labor and money from people of all denominations with the promise that it could be used by all denominations for funerals."

The carpenter was paid $625 for his work.

In 1897, the congregation decided to move the building to the center of town. It took two weeks for horses to pull the building through a corn field to the present site on the west side of Wixom Road.

TWO ADDITIONS

Through the years, two additions were built to solve space problems until it became obvious that a new church was required to meet the needs of the growing congregation.

The new $100,000 First Baptist Church at 620 N. Wixom was dedicated in 1960.

Firmly established as a landmark, the old building has been used for Sunday school classes.

Plans now are being drawn for a new Christian education unit of about 40 classrooms, according to the church's pastor, Rev. Robert V. Warren.

SOME CLASSES

Meanwhile, some Sunday School classes will be held in Wixom Elementary School.

★ ★ ★

The view from there soon will be unobstructed.

Avon Board, Road Commission to Discuss Winkler Mill Bridge

AVON TOWNSHIP—Members of the Township Board and the Oakland County Road Commission will meet Feb. 7 in an attempt to end the present stalemate on the Winkler Mill Bridge.

Township Supervisor Cyril E. Miller said he has been meeting with residents of the area who are opposed to the type of bridge the road commission wants to install but has not reached a solution.

The bridge has been closed since it was damaged in an accident last August. The road commission wants to replace it with a wider concrete bridge while residents wants the "rustic" look retained.

In other action last night, the board was informed by the State Highway Department that traffic conditions at Rochester and Tienken roads do not warrant a traffic light at this time.

Miller said he will continue to request a light at that corner because it is "definitely needed."

Missionary Conference Next Week

ROCHESTER — A missionary and a missions - evangelist will be featured speakers at a missionary conference to be held at the First Baptist Church of Rochester next week.

★ ★ ★

Missionary Rev. Oral Kintner, who has served several terms in the Philippines with the Association of Baptists for World Evangelism, will speak at meetings Sunday through Wednesday.

Dr. R. L. Matthews, associated with the Regular Baptist Evangelistic Association, will give a series of talks from Jan. 20-23.

The meetings will be held Sundays at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. and week-nights at 7:30.

Teacher Vote Slated on Bargaining Agent

FARMINGTON — Teachers in the Farmington School District Monday will participate in an election to determine their collective bargaining agent.

★ ★ ★

Date for the election, requested by the Farmington Education Association, was scheduled by the State Labor Mediation Board.

Trailer Park Vote Set for April 11

OXFORD TOWNSHIP—Voters will be able to register their approval or disapproval on April 11 of a recent rezoning decision by the township board.

The board set the special election date last night after receiving petitions from disgruntled residents who objected to the trailer coach park rezoning of 50 acres of agricultural property on Coats Road north of Seymour Lake Road.

A 300-unit mobile home development is proposed for the area by Pontiac attorney Anthony Renne. Residents object to the rezoning because they claim this is the only part of the township left to "grow into."

Township Supervisor Lee B. Valentine said there is a question as to who will be allowed to vote—all qualified voters in the unincorporated part of the township, or only property owners. He said he will seek an opinion from the State Elections Commission.

★ ★ ★

In other action, the board approved the blacktopping of five streets in the Davis and Tan lakes area for a total cost of about $54,890.

SPECIAL DISTRICT

Valentine said a special assessment district will be set up to finance the cost of improvements on Edith, Eugene, Fredrick, Spezia and Tanview streets.

Valentine said the cost varies from $2.90 to $4.75 per front foot.

A special meeting will be held next Monday or Tuesday to determine a method of financing a new township hall which will be built in a civic center complex along with the village offices and a public library.

Fame is vapor, popularity an accident; riches take wings. Only one thing endures, and that is character. — Horace Greeley.

In Clarenceville District

Tax Renewal Vote Monday

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP—Renewal of a 7-mill operating levy for 10 years will be considered at a special election in the Clarenceville School District Monday.

School officials are attempting to combat possible confusion on two fronts as property owners weigh the proposition.

First, approval of the question would extend an expiring levy for another 10 years.

However, legal requirements which cover the wording of the proposition do not allow the levy to be described as a renewal.

Officials emphasize that a favorable vote would not raise district taxes.

LIVONIA ELECTION

They also want to avoid confusing the election with one being held the same day in the Livonia School District.

About 70 per cent of Clarenceville School District residents live in the City of Livonia but are not eligible to vote on the building bond and operating millage questions for the Livonia district.

The millage renewal being sought in the Clarenceville district constitutes slightly less than one-third of the school system's tax income.

The levy netted about $240,000 this year.

TOTAL LEVY

It isincluded in a total levy of $32.95 per $1,000 of assessed valuation as equalized, consisting of 10.05 mills for debt retirement and 22.9 mills for operation.

★ ★ ★

Operating funds are used for the salaries of some 180 instructional staff members and 120 noninstructional employes and maintenance of a high school, junior high school, four elementary units and board of education building.

Current district enrollment is 3,819, with an increase of 200 to 225 students expected for the 1966-67 school year.

4-H Girls Aid Viet GIs

MASON CITY, Ill. (AP) — Rather than devoting all their time to the routine of learning to sew and cook, girls in the Merry Makers 4-H club are remembering the servicemen in Viet Nam. They are contributing as well as collecting a variety of items to be sent to the American military personnel in Southeast Asia.

Novi Loses School Chief by Decision

NOVI—The board of education has lost a schools superintendent it never really had.

★ ★ ★

Robert Young, hired in December to head the Novi district, was to be officially welcomed at his first meeting with the school board last night.

However, he telephoned Board Secretary Richard Bingham late Monday night to report he had decided to keep his job as superitendent of the Freeland School District.

Young gave no explanation, other than that he is involved with plans in the Freeland district and feels he couldn't desert them.

He had been offered $13,000 for the job here, which he had changed his mind about once before during negotiations.

★ ★ ★

"We have some other choices," Bingham noted. "We hope to be able to interview one or two Friday night."

Death Toll Put at 230 in Rio

More Bodies Hunted in Flooded Sections

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The death toll climbed to at least 230 today as the Rio de Janeiro area began to clean up after the worst floods in its history. A major water shortage added to the city's misery.

★ ★ ★

Officials said 180 deaths had been confirmed in Rio and another 50 bodies were recovered in surrounding areas after heavy rains which began Monday caused floods and landslides. No estimate of material damage has been made.

★ ★ ★

More rain hampered operations Wednesday night as volunteers searched for more bodies in the shantytown "Favela" slums on Rio's hillside. Most of the deaths occurred there.

The rain caused more landslides but no new victims were reported. Most of the hillside residents had been evacuated.

CONSERVE WATER

Gov. Francisco Negrao de Lima appealed to the public to conserve water after a landslide plunged a 150-pound boulder into a pipeline and cut off 40 per cent of the city's drinking water.

★ ★ ★

The shortage affected the city's most populated sections, including hard-hit Copacabana and Tijuca. The governor said it was likely to last several days.

★ ★ ★

The floods buckled streets and burst sewers and mains.

"Our biggest problem now is food and shelter," said Delio Santos, assistant to the state's social service secretary.

PUBLIC RESPONDED

The public responded quickly to radio and television appeals for food for the refugees. Long lines formed outside emergency centers as citizens brought sandwiches and steaming pots of rice, vegetable stew and black beans.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Embassy made available powdered milk, wheat and vegetable oils from stocks of the food-for-peace program.

Ten inoculation pistols were en route from the United States for the inoculation program.

U-M Student Protesters Will Stay 1A, Says State Selective Service Boss

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's Selective Service boss said Wednesday he will make no recommendations for changes in the draft reclassifications of University of Michigan students who lost deferments after their anti-Viet Nam war sit-in.

Col. Arthur Holmes, state director of Selective Service, said Selective Service officials in Washington advised him by telephone Wednesday that Asst. Atty. Gen. Fred M. Vinson Jr.'s letter on the subject contained nothing to warrant a change.

"Unless I am ordered to do so by my superiors, I do not plan to recommend any change in the draft status of the students," Col. Holmes said.

Holmes referred to Vinson's letter to Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., in which Vinson said the Selective Service Law could not be used to "stifle any constitutionally protected expression of views." Hart, protesting the reclassifications as a violation of constitutional safeguards for free speech, had sought out the Justice Department's position.

DOZEN STUDENTS

About a dozen University of Michigan students lost their student deferments and were reclassified immediately available for the draft or given "delinquent" status as a result of the sit-in last Oct. 15 at the Ann Arbor Selective Service headquarters. A "delinquent" finding precedes a 1A classification, as a rule.

Thirty-one young people, mostly students, were fined and given jail sentences in court for trespassing. A number have appealed from the jail sentences.

Holmes said he recommended reconsideration by local draft boards of the students' deferments after consulting with Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national Selective Service director. Holmes said the students were guilty of interfering with the draft law.

Shastri Had Rendezvous With Destiny

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Fate lay in wait for Lal Bahadur Shastri.

For this colorless little man just under five feet tall and noted more for compromise than decision had never been out of the Indian subcontinent when called upon 18 months ago to succeed the flamboyant and revered Jawaharlal Nehru as prime minister of India.

It was Nehru who described himself as "out of place everywhere, at home nowhere."

NEWSOM

Yet it was Nehru, harassed by mounting opposition at home and with a border war with Red China at his doorstep, who died in the India of his aristocratic Brahman ancestors.

And it was Shastri, born in poverty of a caste of scribes, clerks and petty officials, who died in Soviet Tashkent at the moment of his greatest diplomatic achievement and at the peak of his prestige in India.

There was no reason to believe that Shastri wanted a war. Yet last September, when he stood firm against Pakistan, and Indian troops drove to the threshhold of Lahore, Shastri's prestige at home rose to a new peak, and the Indian army felt it had restored itself after being defeated by the Red Chinese in 1962.

His popularity rose again when at Tashkent he reached an agreement with Pakistan President Mohammad Ayub Khan to ease tensions between their two countries.

When Nehru died without a visible successor in mid-1964, there were many questions.

● Could an India split by language, caste and religion, torn further by seemingly insurmountable economic difficulties, survive under any but the dynamic leadership of a Nehru?

★ ★ ★

● Could the Congress party, which under Nehru had been the country's ruling political party ever since independence, survive?

FOLLOW SHASTRI

The questions which followed Nehru, today follow Shastri.

The Congress party is split both by personal jealousies among its leaders and by elements of right, center and left with the rightists currently in the ascendancy.

Currently favored to take over is the present acting prime minister, Gulzarilal Nanda, who as home minister had been second to Shastri in the order of government.

Nanda also served as interim prime minister after Nehru's death. As home minister under Nehru, he is credited with firm action during Nehru's last illness in bringing religious riots in Calcutta under control.

CARRY-OUT TERMS

He also has pledged to carry out the terms of the agreement reached by Shastri at Tashkent. He describes himself as a "Socialist but not a Marxist."

Next is Defense Minister Yeshwantrao B. Chavan. Chavan, a relative unknown in the western world, once was described by friends as a "red-hot Marxist."

He became disenchanted with the Communists during World War II and today is regarded as left of center.

★ ★ ★

Clear out of it is former Defense Minister and Ambassador to the United Nations V. K. Krishna Menon. Once regarded as Nehru's heir apparent, he has been in disgrace since Red China's attack on India.

How to Save on Taxes—10

Receipts, Canceled Checks Needed

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 10th of a 14-part series, "Cut Your Own Taxes," by tax expert Ray De Crane, designed to help readers save money on their income tax returns.)

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Special Writer

The wisdom of preserving receipts and canceled checks is quickly realized at income tax filing time. Nowhere is this more prudent than in preserving throughout the year all medical expense records.

★ ★ ★

The person who has all the supporting proof never hesitates to make a proper medical deduction.

Those lacking the proof frequently have to overlook this tax-saving opportunity.

Medical expenses are deductible on your tax return to the extent they exceed 3 per cent of income.

SEPARATE ITEMS

Before starting out on your medical deduction, separate first the expenditures for medicines and drugs from your other medical expenses.

The drugs are includable in your tabulation beyond one per cent of income. For the $8,500 taxpayer, for example, this would mean the cost of drugs beyond $85.

Your medical expenses include the cost of hospital and health insurance, fees paid to doctors, dentists, optometrist, chiropractor, psychiatrist, Christian Science practitioner, hospital, mental institution, nurses, cost of laboratory tests, X rays, physical therapy treatments, eyeglasses, dentures, hearing aids and batteries, rental of wheel chair or crutches and ambulance hire. Include also the transportation costs in obtaining medical care.

That could be taxi or bus fare or an allowance for the use of your own car.

FIVE CENTS

IRS regulations permit the use of a five-cents-per-mile allowance for the use of your own car for medical purposes. You can also include parking charges.

You can consider only those medical expenses for yourself, your spouse and your dependents.

From this medical expense tabulation of our $8,500 taxpayer you have a ready guide for your own return:

Prescribed drugs	$115.00
Less 1% of total income	85.00
Excess	30.00
Hospital insurance	210.00
Bradley Hull, M.D.	85.00
Leslie Sleman, D.D.S.	115.00
Transportation (300 mi. at .05 per mile)	15.00
Eyeglasses (Dr. Arthur Madden)	35.00
Total Medical Expense	$490.00
Less 3% of Total Income	255.00
Deductible	$243.00

★ ★ ★

If you were the chief support of one of your parents who was 65 or over you could claim the full amount of medical payments made in his behalf without reference to the 1 per cent or 3 per cent rules even though he had $600 or more income.

SEPARATE STATEMENT

Your separate statement attached to your return should show a separation of the medical payments for your family and your parents if you and your spouse are both under 65.

TAX TIP: Consider this plan for your medical records. Place an envelope labeled "Medical Expense" in your file cabinet. Each time you pay a bill put your receipt in it or put the canceled check for such payments in at the end of each month. At the end of the year your records will all be assembled for you.

Pontiac School Affairs

Board OKs Compromise on Bargaining Agent Vote Campaign

Pontiac Board of Education members last night reached a compromise agreement on a set of regulations governing campaign activities preceding the election to determine a bargaining agent for teachers.

An eight-point outline of suggested regulations presented by the administration for consideration of the board last night drew objections from representatives of both of the school system's teacher organizations.

The Pontiac Education Association (PEA) and Pontiac Federation of Teachers (PFT) are vying for the bargaining agent designation.

An election date, probably in March, will be set Monday at a hearing of the State Labor Mediation Board in Detroit.

Laurence Reamer, PEA representative, and A. Lynn Westhoven, president of the PFT, both disagreed with an election procedure item that banned use of teacher mailboxes during the campaign.

CAMPAIGN MAIL

Supt. of Schools Dana P. Whitmer explained that this restriction was included because campaign mail would likely stimulate teacher conversation about the election during school hours and thus, indirectly hinder classroom work.

Beamer said he felt the election will be a continuously stimulating topic of conversation whether literature appears in mailboxes or not.

Westhoven suggested that all morning mail be witheld from teacher boxes of the administration is concerned about teachers being distracted.

Board members were divided on the mailbox issue. James L. Howlett felt use of mailboxes would involve the school system in the campaign and he opposed it.

Theorizing that campaigning will exist anyway, Russell L. Brown said the boxes should be made available.

SUGGESTED PROPOSAL

An amendment to the suggested proposal then was offered by Dr. Robert R. Turpin to allow mailbox use three school days before the election and this was approved by the board.

The other main teacher objection to regulations also was resolved by an amendment.

Brown suggested that the competing groups each be given access to school facilities on one occasion prior to the election for a mass meeting at no charge for building use.

Regulations had specified that custodial fees be paid to cover costs to the school system.

POLICY MANUAL

Relative to Monday's hearing, the board amended a provision in its personnel policy manual to let teachers use one of their annual two days of paid personal leave time to attend the hearing.

In other business last night, the board approved suggested bylaws for the Pontiac School District Citizens Committee on Human Relations and named two board members to serve on a committee to work toward integration of the school system.

Appointed to the committee by board president Monroe M. Osmun were Howlett and Dr. Walter Godsell. A third member will be named later, Osmun said.

DATA PROCESSING

Also last night, the board agreed to expand its contractual agrement with Oakland Schools for data processing services.

The school system was authorized to spend $6,430 in addition to amounts aproved in the 1965-66 budget and $18,280 for new services in 1966-67.

Police to Seek Pay Mediation

City Group to Petition State Labor Board

A spokesman for the Pontiac Police Officers Association (PPOA) said today that the group would file for mediation in their wage dispute with City Hall.

Charles Lindeberg, head of the PPOA wage committee, said that work on a petition to the State Labor Mediation Board would begin today.

Lindeberg said there was no headway made yesterday in an afternoon meeting with Mayor William H. Taylor Jr.

The police spokesman had no comment on a possible affiliation with Pontiac Teamsters Local 614, although the PPOA did meet last night with three union representatives.

★ ★ ★

"We came to a standstill again," said Lindeberg of the 1½-hour meeting with Taylor.

NOT NEGOTIATING

Lindeberg said the PPOA did not feel that city officials were negotiating. "All we get is no," he said.

The PPOA seeks longevity pay and $49 a year more than the $351 offered in a wage plan adopted by the city.

$1.2-Million Bond Sale Is Authorized for April

Issuance of $1.2 million in bonds for school system expansion and improvement was authorized last night by the Pontiac Board of Education.

Funds from the bond sale slated for April will be used to erect and equip additions to existing school buildings, to remodel present buildings and to acquire sites for future construction.

The bonds will mature each May 1 from 1967 through 1970.

In conjunction with the bond issue, the board approved preliminary drawings for proposed additions to Franklin and Emerson elementary schools submitted by Denyes Associates Inc.—Architects.

Estimated cost of the Emerson addition, which will include four classrooms, two conference rooms, a library and a teachers' lounge is $158,355.

PROJCETED COST

Projected cost of the Franklin addition is $153,820. It will include six classrooms and three conference rooms.

The timetable for both projects is the same. Working drawings are scheduled for completion by Feb. 25, bid opening March 23, awarding of contracts March 30 and completion Sept. 1.

Truck Catches Fire Answering Blaze Alarm

ORANGEBURG, S. C. (AP) — Firemen's faces as well as their engine were red when their own truck caught fire, not once but twice, on its way to help fight a lumber company blaze at Rowville near heer.

Both fires were minor and did little damage, but that wasn't the end of the local company's troubles. A fan belt broke, causing another delay on the truck's return trip.

MOURNERS STAMPEDE — Police use bamboo poles to control a stampede among mourners during the cremation of India's Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri in New Delhi yesterday. Crowds estimated at nearly a million jammed the funeral route. AP Photofax

Nanda Seeks India Leaders' Support

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister G.L. Nanda was reported seeking help today from India's political kingmakers to guarantee his staying in power.

As the senior member of the Cabinet, Nanda, who is 67, succeeded the late Lal Bahadur Shastri after Shastri's death Tuesday. He was said to feel strongly that the ruling Congress Party should not ask him to step down in favor of another candidate.

* * *

Nanda was acting prime minister after the death of Jawaharlal Nehru May 27, 1964, but gracefully relinquished power when the kingmakers chose Shastri as a compromise acceptable to the party's many factions.

Nanda met party president Kumaraswami Kamaraj today and reportedly said he should continue in office at least until general elections next year.

LOOK FOR SUPPORT

Other potential candidates also were moving to gather support.

The plum is the leader's seat on the Congress party benches in Parliament. The man filling it is automatically asked by President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan to form a new government.

* * *

Party leaders discussed the situation informally today. The party's powerful working committee scheduled a formal meeting Friday to plan an election.

Challenges to Nanda may come from Defense Minister Y.B. Chavan and Information Minister Indira Gandhi. Both want the job, but whether they make a bid will depend on results of the maneuvering now under way.

STRONG MACHINE

Chavan, 51, has the strongest political machine of all the candidates. A former chief minister of Maharashtra (Bombay) State, he can offer party leaders important votes in the west central coastal region.

This may be an important factor. Some Congress leaders feel the party will face stiff going in the next general election.

* * *

Mrs. Gandhi, 48, Nehru's daughter, has important support in the Congress party's left wing. She also has the political aura of Nehru's name, a strong plus for any office seeker in India.

There also are two potential dark horses, former Finance Minister Morarji Desai, a rightwinger, and Mrs. Vijayalakshmi Pandit, Nehru's sister.

HOLDS MEETING

Nanda also met today with U.S. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who represented President Johnson at Shastri's funeral.

* * *

Humphrey said he and Rusk expressed their pleasure at the peace agreement Shastri and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan reached in Tashkent just before Shastri's death.

"We hope the spirit of Tashkent will prevail," Humphrey told newsmen.

* * *

Asked by Rusk if Shastri's death would affect the Tashkent agreement, Nanda replied: "So far as I am concerned, I have made it abundantly clear — the nation will stand by the agreement."

ASHES ON VIEW

It was announced in New Delhi that an urn containing Shastri's ashes will be placed on view at the prime minister's official residence in New Delhi so the public can pay homage. Later the ashes will be immersed in the holy Sangam River near the city of Allahabad.

State Supreme Court Refused to Hear Oral Arguments, New Data on Redistricting

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Supreme Court refused Wednesday to hear any oral arguments or seek out new information on legislative apportionment.

★ ★ ★

It will base its decision on House and Senate districting on information already in its own records or those of the Legislative Apportionment Commission, which failed to reach agreement on a new plan before its New Year's Eve deadline.

★ ★ ★

Chief Justice Thomas Kavanagh signed the order Wednesday, but said the justices were not scheduled to meet again until Feb. 8, their next regularly scheduled conference and opinion day.

The high court also is ordering that records and proceedings of the commission be turned over to it.

2 DISSENTERS

Justices Harry Kelly and John Dethmers had dissented from the majority's decision to deny a Republican request that oral arguments be permitted and that new information be sought.

★ ★ ★

"We already have heard oral arguments, and apparently the majority of the justices felt gathering new information would give us nothing we need to make a decision," Kavanagh said.

★ ★ ★

Democratic intervenors in the lawsuit challenging the state's present Democratic-drafted legislative districting, meanwhile, called a proposal by the Republican members of the commission "a partisan gerrymander to achieve control of the Senate."

It was a repeat of the charges brought by the 34 Republicans and independents who filed the suit shortly after the present population-based districts were approved by the High Court 18 months ago.

The Democrats maintained, in a brief filed with the court, present districts meet all applicable standards of the Michigan and U. S. constitutions.

Oranges Help Many Dishes Taste Better

VEGETABLES IN ORANGE SAUCE

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

One of the few nice things about winter is that it is the peak season for oranges.

Nature does a pretty good job of packaging the orange.

Once, long ago I read that if you were in an area at lunch time where you thought the restaurants weren't acceptable, you could always buy oranges and peanuts. Both are safe to eat when divested of their outer skins.

Don't limit your use of oranges to breakfast time. They belong in meals throughout the day.

Use orange juice in salad dressings. Add it to tea in place of lemon. Cook rice in it. Use it in place of water for pudding mixes.

Add orange wedges to heated honey and serve with little sausages. Cut wedges into small pieces and add to coleslaw.

SQUASH IN ORANGE CREAM SAUCE

1 pound yellow squash
1 pound zucchini
2 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup sour cream
2 tablespoons flour
Chopped chives

Scrub squash well. Cut slice from stem and blossom ends. Do not pare. Cut into thin slices. Place in small amount of boiling salted water. Cover, cook about 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, prepare sauce. Stir undiluted orange concentrate into melted butter and heat until just warm. Combine sour cream and flour and stir into sauce. Heat, do not boil.

Serve over hot cooked squash. Garnish with chopped chives. Yield: 3 to 4 servings.

Serve molded orange salad for luncheon or a buffet dinner.

2 3-ounce packages orange flavored gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1½ cups fresh orange juice
2 navel oranges, peeled
¼ cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup chopped pecans
Lettuce cups

Dissolve gelatin completely in boiling water; add orange juice. Chill until thick and syrupy, but not set. Cut oranges into bite-size pieces; drain thoroughly.

Mix about 2¼ cups thickened gelatin with orange pieces. Spoon into rectangular dish or fill individual molds about ⅔ full. Chill until partially set.

Combine remaining gelatin with sour cream; blend until smooth. Fold in pecans. Spoon sour cream mixture on top of orange gelatin and chill until firm.

Cut into squares or unmold and serve in lettuce cups. Makes six servings.

Change that snack you nibble as you watch TV to one with some vitamin C in it too. It's new and different.

FRESH ORANGE NIBBLES

1 cup doughnut shape oat cereal
1 cup bite-size rice biscuits
1 cup bite-size corn biscuits
1 cup bite-size wheat biscuits
1 cup dry roasted peanuts
1 cup thin pretzel sticks
¼ cup melted butter or margarine
2 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons grated orange peel
2 tablespoons fresh orange juice

Combine cereals, nuts and pretzels in a large bowl. Mix together melted butter, sugar, grated peel and orange juice. Pour over dry mixture and toss lightly to mix well.

Spread mixture in a thin layer in a shallow baking pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 30 minutes until crispy. Shake pan or stir with wooden spoon occasionally during baking.

Keeps well stored in airtight container. Recipe may easily be doubled. Makes about six cups.

Separate for Freezer

Pieces of cut-up chicken will not stick together when frozen in the home freezer if each piece is wrapped in waxed paper, then placed in the freezer bag or carton. This way you can choose your pieces without thawing the entire chicken.

Change Macaroon Pie With Coconut, Coffee

If it's pie for company dessert, give your guests a choice of Coconut Macaroon Pie or Coffee-Flavored Macaroon Pie. Easy to do—repeat the same recipe twice, making a few minor changes the second time and it's a different pie.

★ ★ ★

Serve pieces of each on an attractive tray and let the guests choose the version that tempts them most.

Coconut Macaroon Pie

3 egg yolks
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter, melted
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon almond extract
3 egg whites
1⅓ cups (about) coconut
1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell

★ ★ ★

Combine egg yolks and salt; beat until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar, 3 tablespoons at a time, beating well after each addition. Blend in milk, butter, lemon juice, and almond extract.

Beat egg whites until they will form stiff shiny peaks. Fold into pie filling mixture with coconut. Pour into pie shell.

Bake at 375 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes, or until knife inserted into center comes out clean. Cool.

★ ★ ★

Garnish with dollops of whipped cream and top with nuts or flaked coconut (plain, tinted, or toasted), if desired.

★ ★ ★

Coffee - Flavored Macaroon Pie. Prepare Coconut Macaroon Pie as directed, increasing sugar to 1 cup and adding 2 tablespoons instant coffee with the milk, butter and flavorings.

Peppermint Drink

Try Choco-Peppermint Treat, made in a jiffy with dairy chocolate milk. Heat one quart chocolate milk, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, and a dash of cinnamon to serving temperature. Garnish the hot chocolate with peppermint sticks. Try this treat as a terrific "warmer-upper."

Marinate Steak in Wine and Oil

Broiled Plank Steak

2 pounds (about) top-quality flank steak
¼ cup rose wine
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 teaspoons seasoned salt

Trim any excess fat and membrane from steak.

In a shallow dish (large enough to hold steak), with a fork, beat together the wine, oil and 1 teaspoon of the seasoned salt. Turn over steak in marinade; allow to stand at room temperature for 4 hours, turning a few times.

Remove steak and wipe as dry as possible with paper toweling; sprinkle each side with ½ teaspoon of the remaining seasoned salt. Broil close to high heat for 3 to 5 minutes on each side.

Slice diagonally across the grain in very thin slices. Makes 4 servings.

Hot Spicy Wine Beats the Cold

Mulled Wine is a heart warming beverage to serve on cold days to guests at Open House or who come in after active sports such as skiing or hiking. The cup of red wine steaming hot with its rich aroma of spices and wine delights the nostrils as well as the taste.

Whole allspice, cinnamon and cloves, plus a dash of nutmeg are the spices used. Whole spices hold their flavor longer than the ground and keep the wine clear and sparkling.

If you are serving a crowd, additional quantities of spiced syrup can be made, ready for heating with the wine as needed.

Mulled Wine

1 cup sugar
1 cup water
2 3-inch pieces cinnamon
12 whole allspice
12 whole cloves
Dash nutmeg
1 lemon
3 cups red wine

Combine sugar, water and spices in saucepan. Peel lemon and drop whole peel into sugar mixture. Stir to dissolve sugar. Simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand 30 minutes. Strain. Add wine and heat slowly to just under boiling point. Serve hot. Makes about 6 servings.

MULLED WINE — In the old days they took a hot poker and plunged it into the wine. Less dramatic is today's method which results in an equally pleasing drink for cold weather.

FRUIT PANCAKES — Hot pancakes flavored with cranberry juice and served with sour cream and cranberry sauce make Sunday morning breakfast or brunch an occasion to remember. The pancakes are made with your favorite mix, using bottled cranberry juice instead of milk. The sauce is also made with cranberry juice from a bottle.

When a recipe calls for a "dash" of a seasoning, add less than ⅛ teaspoon.

Fruit Juice Flavors Pancakes and Sauce

Any day that starts with fruit pancakes with sour cream can't be all bad. And when you serve them for Sunday morning breakfast with lots of strong, hot coffee and plenty of time to enjoy them, it's pancake heaven at home.

* * *

Or try them for luncheon, supper, or a gourmet dessert. You'll find this delightful recipe is simplicity itself to make and the results must be tasted to be believed.

* * *

For the Pancakes, substitute bottled cranberry juice or cranberry juice cocktail for the milk in your favorite pancake mix. Spread half the pancakes with sour cream, cover with the remaining cakes, and drizzle with your favorite fruit syrup heated until it's warm.

Or make your own tart-sweet Cranberry-Orange Sauce with this easy recipe.

The hot cakes with sour cream are delicious with a number of fruit flavors. You'll want to try them with glass-packed apple juice, grape juice, and prune juice.

* * *

You'll find the hot pancakes, cool sour cream, and warm fruit syrup add up to some of the happiest eating you've experienced.

FRUIT PANCAKES WITH SOUR CREAM

1 cup bottled cranberry juice cocktail or cranberry juice; or bottled apple, prune, or grape juice
1 egg
2 tablespoons cooking oil or melted shortening
1 cup prepared pancake mix
½ cup dairy sour cream
Fruit sauce

* * *

Combine juice, egg, oil or shortening with pancake mix. Stir until mixture is free of lumps. Pour batter, using ¼ cup for each cake, onto hot griddle. Bake until tops are bubbly and edges dry. Turn; cook second side.

Spread ½ of pancakes with sour cream and cover with remaining pancakes. Serve with bottled fruit syrup or cranberry-orange, apple, prune, or grape sauce. Yield: 4 servings, 8 pancakes.

Cranberry Orange Sauce

⅔ cup sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
2 cups bottled cranberry juice cocktail or cranberry juice
1 to 2 teaspoons grated orange ring, as desired

Combine sugar and cornstarch in saucepan; mix well. Stir in fruit juice. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add orange rind; mix. Serve warm atop Cranberry Pancakes.

Apple Sauce

Prepare as directed for Cranberry Orange Sauce and substitute bottled apple juice for cranberry juice; add ⅛ teaspoon each of cinnamon and cloves to sugar mixture and omit orange rind.

Prune Sauce

Prepare as directed for Cranberry Orange Sauce and substitute bottled prune juice for cranberry juice. Substitute 1 teaspoon each of grated lemon and orange rind for the 1 to 2 teaspoons grated orange rind called for.

Grape Sauce

Prepare as directed for Cranberry Orange Sauce and substitute grape juice for cranberry juice. Omit grated orange rind.

Important Rule

Do you want tender, tunnel-less muffins? Follow the important rule—add liquid and mix the dry ingredients until just moistened. Muffin batter should never be smooth.

French Fry Onions for Meat Dishes

French fried onions are natural to serve with steak, but they also dress up plain hamburger. Plan on one medium-sized mild onion per serving. These are cut in ¼-inch thick slices, separated into rings, soaked in milk for one-half hour.

Drain the onion rings, then coat in flour which has been seasoned with salt and pepper. For 4 medium onions, 1 cup flour with 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper will be required.

Heat the lard to 365 degrees and fry the flour-coated onion rings until brown. Drain on absorbent paper.

Chop Apples for Pancakes

For a chilly day breakfast treat, make apple pancakes. Place 1 cup of milk, 1 egg and 1 tablespoon of liquid shortening in bowl. Add 1 cup of pancake mix and ½ cup of chopped raw apple. Mix until batter is fairly smooth. (If you substitute melted shortening, add it after pancake mix.)

Bake on a griddle until golden brown, turning only once. Serve with melted butter and cinnamon sugar. Makes 7 to 8 pancakes.

Hot Sandwiches an Answer to Good Eating in a Hurry

Ever have days when dinner time just sneaks up on you? Or days when afternoon activities run late and the family's evening activities begin early?

When it's necessary to prepare dinner in a hurry, take advantage of the many convenience foods available to help you out.

If there is some left-over roast beef, pork or lamb in the refrigerator, utilize prepared foods to make a delicious (and quick) second meal from it.

Prepare savory hot sandwiches by adding canned tomato sauce and canned French fried onions to left-over gravy. Serve with sliced meat on crusty French bread or toast.

Hurry-Up Hot Sandwiches

Can of potatoes or 1 cup left-over potatoes
Salt and pepper
Butter
Left-over gravy from roast meat
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1 can (3½ oz.) French fried onions, crumbled
8 slices left-over roast beef, lamb or pork
4 slices toast

Drain can of potatoes. Heat and season with salt, pepper and butter. Mix gravy and tomato sauce, and heat. Stir in onions.

Place meat in gravy only long enough to heat (longer will cause loss of flavor). Place meat on toast, top with gravy and serve potatoes at side. Makes 4 servings.

Muffin Base Holds Ham, Pineapple

Luscious, bright hot snacks of English muffins, spread with zesty deviled ham and topped with glorious looking pineapple, make marvelous munching during the midwinter doldrums.

Spicy cinnamon and brown sugar are sprinkled over these fabulous-tasting snacks for extra zest, and bright red cherries "burst forth" from the centers of each.

The teen-agers will love the juicy sweetness of these hearty hot snacks—so plan to serve them at their next gathering, along with fresh fruit drinks.

Women at club luncheons will also welcome these exotic tasting snacks, served a little more delicately with knife and fork.

Hawaiian Ham-Uffins

2 English muffins, split
1—4½ ounce can deviled ham
¾ cup drained, crushed pineapple or 4 pineapple slices
2 teaspoons butter, melted
4 tablespoons brown sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 maraschino cherries, halved

Broil muffin halves on both sides. Spread each half with deviled ham and top with pineapple. Combine butter, brown sugar, and cinnamon. Sprinkle over pineapple.

Garnish each muffin with a cherry half. Broil until bubbly. Serves 4.

Beef-Cheese Filling

Make a delightful sandwich filling by mixing cut-up dried beef with cream and blue cheese. Good proportions use 1 jar (2½ ounces) dried beef, 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese and 1 ounce blue cheese. Use on rye or whole wheat bread.

Dates, Bacon for the Filling

The sauce for "Spiced Tongue with Date Sauce" is quite a bit off the beaten track. Made with grape jelly, lemon juice, coarse pieces of California dates and the spicy liquid used in cooking the beef tongue, it goes delightfully with the meat.

Spiced Tongue with Date Sauce

1 fresh beef tongue, 3 to 3½ pounds
Salt
2 teaspoons pickling spice
1 lemon, sliced
Water
⅔ cup dates
⅓ cup grape jelly
4 teaspoons cornstarch
2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice

Wash tongue in worm water; place in large saucepan or kettle with 2 teaspoons salt, pickling spice, lemon and enough water to cover. Cover pan; bring mixture to boil, then reduce heat and simmer 3 hours or until tongue is tender.

Strain and save 1 cup cooking liquid. Plunge tongue into cold water until cool enough to handle.

Meanwhile, cut dates into coarse pieces. Mix jelly and cornstarch in saucepan; blend in lemon juice and reserved cooking liquid. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil and is thickened, stir in dates and salt to taste.

Remove skin from tongue; cut away gristle from thick end; slice tongue thinly, cutting diagonally across grain; arrange on warm platter. Serve with date sauce. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

Ham Patties Get Crown of Yams and Pineapple

High Hat Ham-Yam Patties dress up a meal, use up left-over ham. Using the new instant yams, this meat-and-potatoes dish fixes easily.

Mix 2 cups finely chopped ham with ¼ cup bread crumbs and 3 tablespoons syrup from an 8½-ounce can of sliced pineapple; shape into 4 patties. Top patties with the 4 pineapple slices.

Prespare instant yams into mashed yams following package directions; mix with ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg yolk, ½ cup bread crumbs, dash of nutmeg; shape into patties and place over pineapple slices. Bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes.

To serve, garnish with parsley sprigs.

Good with buttered green peas, hot rolls and angel cake.

Oat Cake Is Spicy

Because it contains a cup of rolled oats, this hearty, tender-crumb layer cake has the good nut-like grain flavor of cereal. A light spicing of cinnamon and cloves lends it pleasing overtones of their flavors, too.

It is the type of moist, really fine flavored cake that is amenable to any dessert occasion.

The wholesome two-egg cake is a fine example of the ingenuity of today's cereals. Breakfast cereals are excellent for ingredient use in recipes because they are inexpensive, convenient, add flavor and texture.

Further enhancing this cake is a tangy, uncooked lemon frosting which provides needed contrast in flavors.

Old-Fashioned Spicy Oat Cake

1 cup rolled oats, quick or regular, uncooked
1 cup milk, scalded
1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
1½ cups brown sugar, packed
½ cup butter or margarine
2 eggs

Add oats to milk; let stand while preparing other ingredients. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt, cinnamon, and cloves.

Cream together brown sugar and butter or margarine; add eggs, one at a time, and continue beating until creamy and smooth. Add dry ingredients alternately with oat-milk mixture; blend well after each addition. Pour batter into 2 greased and floured 8-inch cake pans.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until done, 30 to 35 minutes. Cool cake layers in pans on rack 5 minutes; remove from pans and finish cooling on rack. Spread lemon frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. Yield: One 8-inch cake.

Lemon Frosting

⅓ cup butter or margarine
4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
3 tablespoons lemon juice
Few drops yellow food coloring

Cream butter or margarine. Blend in sugar, lemon juice and rind, a small amount at a time, and beat until proper spreading consistency. If desired, a few drops of yellow food coloring may be added. Yield: Enough to frost a 2-layer 8-inch cake.

Cranberry Sauce Tops Chicken

Individual chicken mounds garnished with cranberry sauce are tasty, colorful items.

In a large bowl combine 2 cups diced, cooked chicken, 1 beaten egg, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 cup uncooked rolled oats, ¼ cup sliced mushrooms and ¾ cup finely diced celery. Mix thoroughly.

Pack into six 6-ounce well-greased custard, or casserole dishes. Bake about 50 minutes or until well browned. Let stand about 5 minutes before inverting into serving plates.

Top each with a spoonful of whole cranberry sauce. Serves 6.

SPICY OAT CAKE — Lightly spiced oatmeal cake is moist and tender, yet sturdy enough to slice nicely. It is iced with tart lemon frosting.

Junior Editors Quiz on FUNGI

QUESTION: Why don't fungi look green like other plants?

ANSWER: The simple, odd little plants called fungi are low in the scale of plant development. They don't look green because they have no leaves with green chorophyll, which the higher plants use to manufacture their own food in the process called photosynthesis.

Fungi must live on other plant or animal matter. Some are very helpful to man, as they remove useless or decayed matter. Some, like the mushrooms, are delicious to eat.

The mushroom is an umbrella-like structure which grows up from the main part of the plant, or mycelium, a mass of white threads which is concealed underground or in rotted material.

The mushroom scatters tiny spores which are like seeds and from which new mushroom plants can grow. Some of the wild mushrooms are extremely poisonous — it's best to leave all wild mushrooms alone.

Besides the mushrooms, you will find many kinds of interesting fungi growing on trees, such as the bracket kind, or on fallen logs or on the ground, such as the puffball variety.

Many of these plants have strange habits and are fascinating to study. Winter is a good time to get acquainted with them.

FOR YOU TO DO: Take a magnifying glass and a notebook and see what kinds of fungi you can find growing outside. Check your notes later with a nature book or encyclopedia.

Wants Law's Long Arm to Bring Son Home

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — A soldier's mother has been quoted as telling police: "Go ahead, arrest him. I want him here."

★ ★ ★

That came from the mother of Ross M. Terrien, an Army specialist fifth class in Viet Nam. She said he had written her that he got a letter saying he had not paid a $5 parking fine at San Francisco International Airport, and that if he did not post bond within five days he would be arrested.

Highway Safety—4

Autos Safer Now, but Much Remains to Be Done

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Cars are safer than they used to be and the shiny new 1966 models are the safest cars yet produced in the U.S. But the horsepower race has not ended, and some believe the crashproof car can be developed if Detroit wants to do it — or if Washington wants to force Detroit to do it. This is the fourth of five dispatches on automobile safety.)

By ROBERT J. SERLING

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prevention is the key to greater highway safety.

Prevention of accidents in the first place; prevention of injury or death if an accident does occur.

The latter involves the vehicle itself. Never in the long history of the auto has so much attention been focused on its safety faults and virtues as in recent months.

The automotive industry took a beating during last summer's Senate hearings on highway safety. The criticism may have been more than warranted but it was inevitable.

As one industry official told UPI:

"Detroit is an obvious target — first because it's easier to criticize the vehicle than the human being driving it; second because the industry has been sticking out its chin with overemphasis on horsepower and speed in its advertising."

ROLE OF AUTOMOBILE

The role of the automobile in highway safety is neither all-black nor all-white.

There is no doubt that cars are safer than they used to be. There is no doubt the 1966 models are the safest ever, with seat belts, impact-resistant door latches, crash-padding, emergency flasher lights and recessed hubs on steering wheels now standard equipment.

But there also is no doubt that cars could be even safer. The improvements available today fall somewhat short of what the experts say is necessary to make an automobile literally crashproof — barring a high-speed collision that would make survival almost impossible.

Most fatal accidents occur at speeds of less than 50 miles an hour, and thus survival should be possible.

DESIGN CHANGES

The U.S. Public Health Service says major auto design changes could cut highway fatalities by 43 per cent.

The organization that has done the most work in this field is the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo, N.Y., which for years has conducted an automobile crash injury research program on a scale unmatched by any other group in industry or government. It is financed partially through industry funds, but it is totally independent and objective in its findings.

The Cornell scientists have studied more than 50 thousand auto accidents with same thoroughness that investigators have probed into the causes of air crashes. Their findings can be summed up thusly:

● Ejection of occupants from the car itself is a leading cause of serious injury or death; even with all its faults, the structure of the modern automobile is a very capable protective shell and every means should be taken to keep drivers and passengers inside that shell.

In some accidents, fatalities are more than 10 times as great for ejectees. Over-all, the risk of death or serious injury is two-and-a-half times greater if you're thrown out of a car.

● Once kept inside, however, the interior of the car still can be injury-causing meat grinder.

The steering assembly is a major hazard, responsible for the majority of fatal or serious injuries received by drivers. The instrument panel, particularly when unpadded, is the second leading offender.

★ ★ ★

Next comes the windshield. Other dangerous areas include the door structures, front corner posts, top structures, the backrests of the front seats and the rear-view mirror.

Incidentally, there is considerable statistical evidence to show that it's safer to be in a big- or medium-size car than a small one in a collision.

★ ★ ★

In effect, Cornell's research has pinpointed the areas of greatest potential vehicle danger. The obvious question is to what extent automotive design has reduced these known hazards. The answer is partially.

LIFESAVERS

According to the Cornell technicians, such safety devices as seat belts, padded instrument panels, recessed steering wheels and stronger door latches can and do save lives and prevent injuries — but they are not the ultimate answer.

Seat belts, for example, have been something of a supposed panacea — the object of many publicity campaigns which proclaimed that they could save 5,000 lives a year if universally used.

They probably could, yet Cornell's research shows that the seat belt is merely a worthwhile device capable of reducing deaths or injuries in many instances, but not always.

For one thing, the American public has yet to really adopt this restraining device. Less than 40 per cent of the cars on the road today have belts.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT

This is a great improvement over the 19 per cent so equipped in 1964, and the 9 per cent two years ago, but it still leaves about 48 million cars without this accepted safety aid.

Furthermore, many drivers and passengers don't use belts when they're available and those that do use them mostly on long trips.

A nationwide survey taken this year revealed that only 44 per cent use belts all the time in local or urban travel, 38 per cent sometimes and 18 per cent never.

★ ★ ★

The survey also revealed that 67 per cent always wear belts on long trips, 25 per cent sometimes and 8 per cent never.

DANGEROUS FALLACY

It is a dangerous fallacy to assume that a belt is of value only in high-speed driving on the open road. The majority of accidents, according to the National Safety Council, occur within a few miles of home.

Depedning on the circumstances, one can get killed just as easily at 20 miles an hour as at 50 or 60 — plus the fact that exposure to accidents is far greater in urban driving than in country traffic.

The main purposes of the belt are often misunderstood. It is intended mainly (1) to prevent ejection from the car and (2) to restrain drivers and passengers from being tossed against lethal objects within the car.

It is highly effective in the first instance, but not as effective in the second. It usually won't prevent, for example, striking heads against windshields or instrument panels, nor does it offer much protection against a driver's being hurled against the steering wheel.

Cornell's studies show that a shoulder harness, combined with the seat belt, would be a far greater injury-death deterrent. But considering the length of time it has taken to get many Americans just to wear belts, the shoulder harness is not likely to catch on.

Stronger door latches, introduced in 1955 and improved recently, are another excellent antiejection device.

Cornell says the earlier designs resulted in 40 per cent fewer ejections. Later models have proven strong enough to bend the door frame without failing.

Cornell feels, however, that door handles should be redesigned to prevent inadvertent opening.

Actor Divorces Wife 'Offstage' 44 Years

LONDON (UPI) — Former Shakespearean actor Herbert Alfred Ellis, who hasn't seen his wife since they parted 44 years ago, was granted a divorce yesterday because of her presumed death.

★ ★ ★

"Now I have met someone I want to marry," the 63-year-old watch-repairman said. "I shall propose formally in June if Elsie does not turn up."

Movie Will Aid Summer Program

The Lost Decibels, a group of parents of deaf or hard of hearing children in Oakland County, today announced plans to sponsor a motion picture premiere to raise money for the group's summer program.

The Adams Theater in downtown Detroit has been booked next Tuesday night for the debut of the movie, "The Spy Who Came In From the Cold," starring Richard Burton.

Tickets for the 8:15 performance can be acquired by contacting Mrs. Joseph J. Ruva, 1280 Club, Bloomfield Township. Donations will be accepted.

Bra Caught in 'Ringer'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Discovering that the cause of an alarm which sent them rushing to a home in North Knoxville was a bra placed in an oven to dry, firemen yesterday termed it a "falsie alarm."

You Should Send a Note of Welcome

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: The parents of a friend of mine are coming to this city soon to visit her and her family. She will not be able to put them up at her house because of lack of space and had planned on taking a room for them at the hotel.

I have a big house on the same street as my friend and have offered to put them up here. She was delighted with the idea and immediately wrote her parents telling them of this.

Now, I would like to know if it is necessary for me to write her parents, too, inviting them to stay here or is my friend's letter telling them of my offer, sufficient?

A: Even though your friend has written to her parents telling them of your kind offer, you should write a note inviting them to stay in your house.

AT-HOME ADDRESS

Q: I am going to be married very quietly. No invitations will be issued but we are going to send announcements to quite a large list of friends and relatives.

We would like to include an at-home address. May this be put on the wedding announcement itself or must a separate at-home card be enclosed.

A: The at-home notice may quite properly be engraved in the lower left hand corner of the announcement, as follows:
After the first of February
10 Pinecrest Road, Boston

★ ★ ★

The clothes of the bride's and groom's parents as well as those of the wedding guests are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Correct Clothes for a Wedding Reception."

SUSAN LEE ULIGIAN

The engagement of their daughter Susan Lee, to John Allen Pfleeger, both of Long Beach, Calif., is announced by former Pontiac residents, the Charles Uligians of Port Huron. His parents are Mrs. Henry Pfleeger, San Diego, Calif., and the late Mr. Pfleeger.

NANCY ANDREA BAIN

August vows are planned by Nancy Andrea Bain, Michigan State University senior, daughter of the Ivan S. Bains of Oakland Avenue, and Michael Terry Russell, son of the E. E. Russells, Duck Lake Road. Her fiance attended Central Michigan University.

Are You Bride-to-Be?

Are you planning a wedding in 1966?

We are interested in having your engagement and wedding news. But we need your cooperation.

The Pontiac Press has printed forms for both engagement and wedding announcements. But you may send in the details, giving full names and addresses (husband's names for a married woman) and other pertinent details.

Please include a telephone number so that we may check if necessary.

TIME LAPSE

There must be two months between engagement and wedding stories, if there is to be a picture with both.

No engagements are announced less than a month before the wedding date.

We prefer to receive wedding stories and pictures before the ceremony.

If pictures are taken at the wedding, we must have them no later than two days after the ceremony (that is, by noon Tuesday for Saturday weddings.)

If the wedding takes place out of town, this deadline is extended.

BEST PICTURES

Pictures should be black and white, preferably glossy prints. Snapshots cannot be used. Color and tinted prints are not acceptable.

While The Pontiac Press makes no promise to use every picture submitted, some printed mention of the event will be made.

There is no charge for editorial space, but it cannot be reserved nor can we promise the size of picture or its position.

Engagement and wedding pictures are kept for two months, then discarded. They may be called for any time after publication.

Go to All Lengths for Spring Suits

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK — It's a case of you pay your money and take your choice when shopping for a spring suit, that uniform of the modern American woman.

★ ★ ★

Jacket lengths wander anywhere from the natural waistline to fingertip, even in some instances long enough to look like tunics.

Skirts are narrow, skirts are flat-pleated at sides or all around to provide motion when the wearer is walking but hanging slim.

Otherwise, skirts have a cluster of small gathers across the front of the waistband, skirts have pyramid-shaped front panels, or they have a slight flare.

In her summary of trends for spring, Eleanor Lambert, the organizer of and spokesman for the designers group, saw the suit situation thusly:

LENGTHS VARY

". . . Great variety in jacket lengths and the degree of fitting. For the woman with the tall, slender figure, however, most designers stress the hipbone length, front-fitted jacket, double-breasted, and with double side vents.

This type usually has a flaring skirt with A-line panels. Suits have neat, small collars or none at all . . . There are absolutely no echoes of Chanel pipings . . . or of the round Balenciaga shoulder.

"Suitings are smooth surfaced or porous and thin, not tweedy. There are many silk and wool mixtures, many slubbed silks with traces of color against a neutral background . . . Many checks, overplaids and stripes."

One new suiting fabric is elasticized cotton with a shirred texture.

The designer, Ann Fogarty, used it in a blend of red and dark blue for a suit with straight skirt—a couple of inches above the knee in length—and jacket with fitted front, loose back. A solid blue blouse matched the notched lapels of the jacket.

HARRY FRECHTEL

At the firm of Harry Frechtel, a famous label in the suit and coat business, the word for suit jacket lengths was varied.

Jackets were semi-fitted, usually cut on slim lines, coupled with folded panel skirts, or skirts with soft front fullness.

At Ben Zuckerman's, most suit jackets were short, hipbone length, and often worn open. Zuckerman combined them with all kinds of pleated skirts—box, accordion or umbrella.

★ ★ ★

In the suit field, look also for belts, circling the natural waistline, slung below the waist, or half belts at the back. Watch for welt seaming too, a carry-over from the influence of Paris' Andre Courreges.

AP Wirephoto

She kept traffic moving in New York. The city's recent transit strike sent Miss Sheilah Hurd and 20 other policewomen back to the classroom for an emergency one-day course in moving traffic. For the first time in the department's history policewomen were assigned to traffic duty.

London's Sassoon Cries 'Cut' for Feminine Look

Sassoon, the London hair stylist who makes Janes look like Joes, claims every woman in America ought to get rid of her hair "so she'll have time to do some real living."

Nightly pinups, teasing, bouffant hairdoes and bobby pins are ridiculous, he says, "especially when this country is otherwise such a modern, spectacular place."

Short hair, he says, would give women time to be more feminine.

Sassoon expressed his views for 200 fashion writers attending New York Couture Group style previews Monday. The ladies gasped when shown one German model with platinum blonde hair shorter than Sassoon's.

Sassoon charges $25 when he cuts a girl's hair, and she must have it recut every two to three weeks.

"Each girl's hair is done individually," he says, it's styled to her bone structure and contour of her face. She can brush it any direction and it will look perfect."

So far, ladies in this country aren't rushing to their hairdressers to cut their tresses.

In the words of beauty expert Virginia Graham: "Imagine showing your wedding pictures and have people ask, 'Which one's the groom'?"

Sassoon shrugs off criticism. "'A woman's haircut is the most important part of her dress," he says. And who cuts his? "Anybody I can find sitting around. You want to?'

State Forests Are Discussed at Gathering

A letter supporting the application of all garden clubs in this country for a commemorative postage stamp honoring the garden club movement and its 75th anniversary has been sent to the postmaster-general.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Rose Thomas and Mrs. Blythe Abare. Guests were Mrs. Dwayne Hammond and Mrs. Viola Furler.

Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. Albert Kray, Mrs. Henri F. Buck and Mrs. Henry Mehlberg.

The meeting is open to any woman interested in book reviews.

Those Who Refuse to Learn Cannot Be Taught by Others

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We just moved from the South to the West Coast. We have Southern accents, and every time one of us opens our mouth, we get looks that would freeze the ears off a brass monkey.

ABBY

Our son had three fights in school last week. He is only eight years old, and every fight has been because some kid said something hateful about the South. They undoubtedly heard it at home and were repeating, but it hurts just the same.

These Northerners claim that THEY are not prejudiced, that WE are. But they are sure not practicing what they preach. How are we supposed to cope with this kind of treatment?

SOUTHERNERS MOVED WEST

★ ★ ★

DEAR SOUTHERNERS: Only education will overcome prejudice. But those who refuse to learn cannot be taught. Try to teach your children to respect the other person's point of view, even though he may not share it. And to "speak softly but carry a big stick." (Teddy Roosevelt.)

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Four of us girls who work together have lunch at a small luncheonette every noon.

★ ★ ★

We leave work a few minutes early to be sure to get a booth. We eat our lunches at normal rate. The place fills up quickly, and when we have a cigarette leisurely with a second cup of coffee, the glares we get from the customers who are standing over us, breathing down our necks, are enough to kill.

★ ★ ★

We ignore them as though they weren't even there. We do not intentionally sit there just to be mean. We've paid for our lunches and think a second cup of coffee (and a third if we feel like it) with a cigarette is not taking advantage.

We'd like your opinion.

THE FOUR DOLLS

DEAR DOLLS: If you can, in good conscience, sit and have a second and third cup of coffee "leisurely," while others are standing and waiting to be fed, then you must expect glares. (I would glare, too.)

Fear of Moral Deficiencies At Work

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: My brother and his wife whose home is three times the size of ours want me to take my mother to live with us.

Ever since they sold her house to build this big home of theirs, she's lived with them in her personal suite. She and I have never gotten along because she knows I have never forgiven her for running around with other men. That killed my father.

When I was a child she always belittled me because I wasn't pretty like her. I am so afraid that my brother and his wife will call me undutiful if I don't take her . . .

ANSWER : Then you'll have to take her. So long as you're afraid of being undutiful and bad, there's no alternative to taking her. You'll have to take her to prove that you're good, dutiful and abundantly virtuous.

Of course, if you didn't care about being bad and undutiful, you'd have no problem. Happily accepting yourself as a still resentful, still unforgiving daughter, resistance to your brother's demand would be easy.

You'd say to him, "No, bad girl that I am, I won't want to live with mama any more than she wants to live with me. It's awful of me, I know. I know I should feel much more forgiving and kindly toward her than I do, but I don't.

I don't like her. And now that we all agree on the wickedness of my character, let's change the subject and have a cup of tea."

Do you know what constitues the power of your brother to frighten you into accommodating him and his wife? Your own fear of your moral deficiencies.

If we are not afraid of knowing ourselves to be morally deficient, nobody can scare us by telling us we are. Knowing ourselves to be still resentful, still unforgiving toward our mother, learning that our brother knows it, too, doesn't hurt us at all.

We see kindly forgiveness of mama's mistreatment of us as an ideal moral achievement toward which we can work, but we feel under no obligation to pretend to have achieved it as of now.

We know we have a long way to go before we can accomplish that spiritual insight of Jesus into the darknesses which motivate human cruelty and so understand them that He could immediately forgive tormentors. So we are not in the least ashamed that we haven't yet been able to forgive mother.

Curable—if

One form of cancer — Hodgkin's disease, which affects the lymph glands — is curable, contrary to what most medical textbooks say. At least 40 per cent of patients can be cured if their disease is detected early and treated intensively by radiation, according to Dr. Eric C. Easson of Manchester, England. They can then expect to live as long as normal people of the same age and sex.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of articles in which Josephine Lowman brings you her Beauty Improvement Plan in an attempt to help you lose up to 20 pounds in just eight weeks. Clip the special menus and exercises which appear each day so you may reuse them. Today Josephine Lowman talks about food and YOU!)

Well, they did it again! The turkey and dressing and gravy and plum pudding landed just where I didn't want them to. What about you? This is the appropriate time to make New Year's resolutions and the time when they are most likely to be put into effect — when the seams are bursting! Act now before you let them out. Don't weaken!

Want to join the fun? Thousands and thousands of women are following my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan, many of them for a loss of 15 or 20 pounds in eight weeks. Others wish to see how much they can improve their appearance generally and perfect their measurements in eight weeks.

If you have been following this program, you have now analyzed your figure, decided what your ideal weight is, and weighed and measured yourself. You have also been using the sample menus I have published each day.

TOO MUCH FOOD

The main reason for overweight is simply eating more food than the body needs. The rest is stored as fatty deposits. In a small percentage of cases a glandular deficiency may play a part but this is so rare that you can probably forget all about it.

★ ★ ★

No one food is fattening or slimming. Any food is fattening if you eat too much of it. However, some foods bring you so many calories that if you indulge in them heavily or regularly, there are not enough calories left for the essential foods and the variety of foods a good reducing diet requires.

★ ★ ★

There just isn't room for many of them or frequent consumption of them when you wish to lose weight.

Clip the menus I am printing. They have been carefully planned and calorie calculated. These will give you a start and you can also refer to them later.

SAMPLE MENUS

One large orange
One egg, boiled or baked

Coffee or tea with one teaspoon sugar

One glas skim milk (8 ounces)
Salad — made of three tablespoons cottage cheese and one small tomato, quartered

DINNER

Fish filet — 3-inch by 4-inch by 1-inch — with lemon juice
Medium-sized baked potato (seasoned with chives or chopped parsley, or onion or garlic salt.)

One-half cup green beans

You can use one teaspoon of butter on vegetables.

Two Say Vows From Hospital

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Although both bride and groom were well and healthy, the wedding of Barbara Thompson, 16, and Rodney Schmelzer, 22, was held in a room in Ancker hospital here.

★ ★ ★

The bride insisted on having her sister, Mrs. Pat Kastner, as her maid of honor even though Mrs. Kastner was hospitalized with fractures of both legs suffered in a motor car mishap. The "I do's" were said at the sister's bedside as the rest of the bridal party stood nearby.

Bob Wright Wins Audience

By MARGARET BROWN

"Any word from our celebrity?"

Crossed fingers and hopeful smiles answered the anxious query of Pontiac - Oakland Town Hall president Mrs. Alex Capsalis at Huron Theater Wednesday, only minutes before singing star Bob Wright's scheduled 10:30 a.m. appearance.

Brittle motor-stalling temperatures and a late Detroit plane arrival (nearly 9:30 a.m.) from transit - crippled New York had Town Hallers wondering if the popular performer would make it.

The "Everything's under control" sign came at 10:20 when the dashing Mr. Wright and his accompanist Tom Booth — in the true spirit of showmanship — arrived, unruffled and eager to perform, ". . . if we can ever get warmed up."

Opening on a reverent note with Tschaikowsky's "Pilgrim's Song," Wright offered a moving and varied morning of music.

His repertoire was particularly well-received in that he (with obvious pleasure) included several lesser known yet hauntingly appealing selections.

The zest of Gilbert and Sullivan won his audience as the silver-haired baritone crisply rendered the patter song "Modern Major General" from "The Pirates of Penzance."

A medley of current favored tunes, concluding with the romantic "If Ever I Would Leave You" closed Wright's program. When rousing applause called for an encore, he jested, "See, I told you I'd never leave you."

Mr. Wright — back in New York for more television work —is the father of four: a physician at Stanford University, his eldest son; another son, leader of a rock and roll band "The Elephants"; and twins who are at home in Wilton, Conn. with Mrs. Wright, a non-professional ". . . but an excellent golfer."

★ ★ ★

Another program favorite was a solo piano rendition by Wright's youthful and talented accompanist Tom Booth who gave "I Love Paris" a novel treatment with various moods, including classical, a Latin beat, boogie and the torchy lilt of syncopated jazz.

NEXT SEASON

Mrs. Socrates Sekles, first vice president, announced next year's program which opens Oct. 5 with Dr. Norman Vincent Peale discussing "Creative Thinking and Creative Results."

Other scheduled appearances are: actress Beverly Younger, with "Original Character Sketches"; correspondents David Schoenbrum and John Peer Nugent with "As America Goes" and "South Africa — What It's Really Like." Nancy Cooke is slated for "Fashions Around the World."

Members are anticipating this Feb. 9 when Vincent Price will appear reading "Dear Theo — the Letters of Van-Gogh."

Literature by WCTU Is Subject

Members of the Oakland County Women's Christian Temperance Union met Tuesday in the Waterford Community Church.

Hostesses were members of the Drayton Plains Union with Mrs. Henry Mehlberg in charge.

Mrs. Parker Tagsold told of the importance of using WCTU films and literature for educating school and church groups.

Plans were made to send two members to the national leadership training classes in Evanston, Ill. in March. The two going are Mrs. William Heets and Mrs. Frank Deaver.

Special music was provided by Mrs. Clifford Eberle, Mrs. H. A. Carson and Mrs. D. A. Paulson. Mrs. W. Nelson Miller was pianist.

A buffet reception from 2 to 6 p.m. will be held for the Eugene C. Campbells of Auburn Road on Sunday. The event will take place in the Midrow Drive home of their daughter, Mrs. Robert S. Dunham and honors the couple on their 50th wedding anniversary. Wed in Morganfield, Ky., on Jan. 4, 1916, the pair has two sons, Richard D. and Engene C. Jr., 12 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Moms at Work

(AP) — Of the married women working outside the home, nearly two out of five had children under 12 years of age, a recent survey shows.

Place for Belt

A cup holder screwed to the bottom sid eo feach wooden clothes hanger provides a place on which to hang the belt that goes with the garment.

Hint of Spring

Can spring be far behind? Not in the minds of fashion leaders, who are already giving us a hint of what colors will bloom in the spring. It will be a light, lyrical season of rain-washed pastels; subtle tints with just a delicate shade of color. At the other end of the spectrum will be wild, wonderful, bright shades. There's nothing in between.

It may be time for the American Football League to go underground and to revert to guerrilla warfare before launching another full scale offensive against the National Football League.

The NFL recently won one of the biggest battles with the AFL in recruiting the best of the college crop.

This by no means indicates however that the NFL has won the pro football war.

Before battle lines are drawn for another big skirmish for players next Fall, the AFL may be wisely planning tactics to gain better exposure in NFL strongholds.

The Midwest area, from Pittsburgh to Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis, Green Bay and St. Louis has been an invincible fortress favoring the NFL.

HARDLY DENTED

Closest artillery power to the Midwest for the AFL has been Kansas City and this novice pro city has hardly dented the NFL armor.

This in general has been an AFL weakness and a strong reason for the recruiting failures.

Most football minds readily concede that the Midwest, largely the Big Ten and some strong independents, hold the strong share of the nation's college gridiron power.

The area also has the largest stadia and the greatest fandom as denoted by the attendance records which show Ohio State, Michigan, Michigan State and the rest of the Big 10 leading the country.

Here is one primary reason why the AFL is favoring strongly a franchise in the Midwest.

It needs to get a foothold in the Michigan, Ohio, Illinois area. It also needs to get better exposure in these areas.

Granted, the big TV contract has put the AFL on more solid ground, but when Oakland or Denver are playing in competition with the Bears, Packers or Lions, there is little reasonable doubt as to where the living room channels will be stationed.

AFL public relations in the midwest and in other major sections of the country is weak.

Many AFL teams have players from Midwest cities and colleges who could be goodwill ambassadors for gaining attention from the news media. But for some reason, AFL public relations has done little to gain this exposure easily available to them.

STRATEGIC PLANS

Some AFL folks may be awakening to this weakness and in their strategic plans they are looking for and may find the NFL napping in some area away from the main arena.

One place is in minor league football which now has eight lesser and semi-pro leagues in operation around the country, including the Midwest Football League, of which Pontiac is a member.

The AFL is quietly moving to tie up some of these leagues as farm affiliates.

They know that if there are eight cities from Michigan, Ohio and Illinois in the Midwest Football League in 1966, and each AFL city gets an exclusive affiliate agreement with each MFL franchise, they will have put a big foot forward in gaining exposure within the walls of the NFL fortress.

One could plainly see how this would affect the player battle, say around 1970-72.

If the high school stars of today in would-be AFL "farm cities" such as Pontiac, Lansing, Flint, Grand Rapids, Toledo, Dayton, etc., are brainwashed to AFL thinking, the losses could be serious for the NFL.

Huskies Play WTHS Quintet for Loop Lead

Walled Lake Travels to Farmington; Play for Third Place

There'll be little prestige this season for the winner of the Inter-Lakes League basketball championship.

The four teams in the I-L, who have found little success outside the conference, now turn to the league race to determine who'll wear the 1965-66 crown.

And it's just possible that that the winner of the title may wind up with an over-all record below .500.

With one league game behind them, Pontiac Northern's Huskies share the lead with Waterford's Skippers at 1-0.

Farmington and Walled Lake are 0-1 in league competition, yet the Farmington squad owns the best record (4-4) of the four teams.

FARE BADLY

In 25 nonconference games, the four I-L squads have picked up eight wins and dropped 17. And there are more nonconference tilts remaining.

★ ★ ★

But for the moment, the four will turn to league play.

PNH, (2-4) winner of five of the last six conference titles, will entertain Waterford (3-4) tomorrow night while Farmington plays host to Walled Lake's Vikings (1-7).

Although coach Dick Hall and the Huskies are suffering this season, there are better days ahead.

Hall, who has had only one losing season—his first in 1958-59 at 5-10—has been giving sophomores and juniors a lot of playing time and the move should produce dividends the next two seasons.

TWO SENIORS

The two seniors in Hall's starting lineup are Larry Frye, a 6-5 center, and guard Bob Harris.

The other three positions go to the underclassmen and Hall has a lot of talent in this crowd.

Manning the forward posts will be Don Hayward, a 6-3 sophomore, and junior Jack Brown (6-1). And getting the nod at the other guard post will be either Jack Clancy, a 5-8 sophomore, or Archie Powell, another sophomore.

Waterford's Skippers have been good and bad and they suffered a setback against Kettering Tuesday night when center Bruce Bookout (6-4) re-injured an ailing knee.

TIGHT DEFENSE

The Skippers looked particularly bad against a tight man-to-man defense tossed at them in their 54-50 loss to Kettering, and it could be that PNH might use the same weapon.

Waterford has one of the best shooters in the county in forward Rick Ziem, who is averaging 23 points a game.

Farmington, the pre-season choice to finish in the league basement, has been the most consistent of the loop teams despite its 0-1 I-L record.

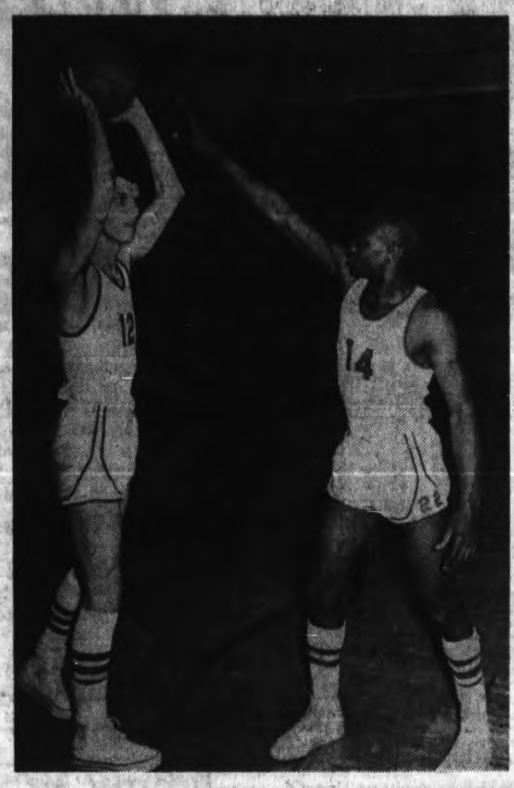

The league setback came on Waterford's floor, with the Skippers sewing up the victory only in the closing minutes of play.

Farmington has one of the best guards in the county in senior Mike Wilson, a 5-11 playmaker, who is averaging 17.7 points a game.

Coach Ken Butler has had little to smile about in his first year at the helm of the Vikings.

He and the Vikings jumped off on the right foot, downing Plymouth in their opener, but since then they have dropped seven in a row.

Guard John Huebler has been the most consistent performer for the Vikings. In eight games, the 5-10 senior has averaged 19.7 points a game.

Pontiac Press Photo

ONE-ON-ONE — Jim Hester (left) and Archie Powell are trying to break into Pontiac Northern's starting five. The Huskies will be seeking their second Inter-Lakes victory in as many games tomorrow night at home against Waterford. The Skippers are tied with PNH for first place.

Two NBA Coaches Reach Milestones

By the Associated Press

When Red Auerbach won his first game as a National Basketball Association coach, Dave DeBusschere was only six years old.

Nineteen years later, Auerbach has 999 more victories for an NBA milestone while fellow coach DeBusschere has scored 41 points for a personal milestone.

Auerbach gained the 1,000th victory of his coaching career Wednesday night as Boston defeated Los Angeles 114-102. DeBusschere, the NBA's youngest coach, reached a personal high scoring mark as a player in Detroit's 129-111 triumph over Philadelphia.

In the only other game San Francisco topped New York 122-114.

The Lakers were at a disadvantage against Auerbach and the Celtics. They played without league-leading scorer Jerry West, who was back in Los Angeles for treatment of an eye injury suffered in the All-Star game Tuesday night.

31 REBOUNDS

Bill Russell scored 20 points and grabbed 31 rebounds for Boston while Walt Hazzard and Elgin Baylor each had 21 for the Lakers.

DeBusschere, who became a playing-coach last season, never had scored more than 33 points in a game before Wednesday night. He connected on 11 of 14 first-half shots as the Pistons raced to a 66-48 lead.

DeBusschere also snared 24 rebounds, two short of his personal high. Wilt Chamberlain topped Philadelphia with 41 points and 28 rebounds.

Reserve Paul Neumann came off the bench early in the second period in sparking San Francisco to its victory over New York. With the Knicks ahead 38-37, Neumann scored 12 of the Warriors' 29 points in the period and San Francisco never was headed.

N. Michigan '5' Wins

HOUGHTON (AP)—Invading Northern Michigan overwhelmed Michigan Tech 113-69 in a basketball game Wednesday night.

High scorer for the game was Northern's Gene Summers with 29.

Flint Northern Could Test PCH; Saginaw Game Coming Up

Pontiac Central's Chiefs are sitting on one of the warmest basketball hot seats in the state.

The hot seat is the No. 1 position among Michigan's Class A high school teams, an honor accorded the Chiefs this week by the Associated Press.

It was an honor that caught PCH coach Fred Zittel by surprise. "We're not the best. We don't belong in the top five," insisted Zittel.

But No. 1 the Chiefs are, and they'll get a chance during the next two weeks to find out if AP was right in its selection.

PCH has piled up a 6-0 record and shares first place at present with Saginaw in the Saginaw Valley Conference race. Both are 4-0.

The first team to get a shot at the state's top Class A quintet is Flint Northern, which plays host to the Chiefs tomorrow night.

On paper, the Northern quintet does not present a formidable challenge.

The Vikings are 1-2 in the SVC and 1-3 over-all.

SAGINAW GAME

It's just the kind of record that could spell disaster for the Chiefs, who might get caught looking past Northern to the game with Saginaw Jan. 25.

Northern is no pushover, but the team has shown little to indicate it can handle the Chiefs.

With 6-2½ Jessie Evans controlling the backboards and scoring from close range and 5-7 guard Jim McClendon keeping the defense loose with his long one-handers, the Chiefs have presented defensive problems that no team has been able to handle to date.

On defense, the Chiefs have fared just as well. They have given their six opponents an average of 54.1 points a game, the best in the SVC.

Numerous Sports Guests to Attend Elks' Banquet

The annual Father - Son banquet, the largest such sports affairs of its kind in Oakland County, will have representatives from various state universities, Detroit professional teams and local sports figures in attendance next Thursday night, January 20th at the Elks Temple.

Annual host for the event is Pontiac Elks Lodge 810.

Last year, the banquet was the largest in its 17-year history with 800 area fathers and sons attending.

★ ★ ★

According to Jim Hanes, one of chairmen of the event, a limited number of tickets are still available and there should be another capacity crowd.

MORRALL BARR

"We had no more tickets available to fill late requests and it appears this may be the case again this year," he noted.

Guest speaker for the event will be Detroit Lions' star pass receiver Terry Barr. Master of ceremonies will be Detroit sportscaster Al Ackerman.

Among some of the noted sports figures who have given confirmation as to their attendance are Bob Swift, Willie Horton and possibly couple other Tigers; Earl Morrall, ex-Lions quarterback now with the New York Giants; Ron Kramer of the Lions, George Maskin of Detroit Pistons' public relations, Chuck Davey, state boxing commissioner, golfer Chuck Kocsis, plus other players and representatives from Michigan, Michigan State and the University of Detroit.

Local prep coaches and players will also attend.

★ ★ ★

Entertainment is scheduled and many autographed sports items will be awarded to the children for door prizes.

Franklin Five Perils Groves' Perfect Mark

Undefeated Birmingham Groves, the state's eighth-ranked Class A team, faces a major challenge tomorrow night at Livonia Franklin.

★ ★ ★

Franklin's 4-2 overall mark may not be impressive, but the Patriots have taken the measure of the three league foes they have faced to tie Groves for first place in the Northwest Suburban loop.

★ ★

Thurston, which has lost in league play only to Groves, goes to North Farmington. Oak Park and Wayne John Glenn battle over last place at Wayne.

Seaholm is the only team that is not really in contention for the Southeastern Michigan Association crown. The Maples can knock Berkley out of a contenders role tomorrow at Berkley.

The remaining four teams are tied for the lead with 2-1 records. Only two will remain in first place after tomorrow night.

★ ★ ★

Southfield goes to Hazel Park and Royal Oak Kimball is at Ferndale. The losers, however, won't be out of the title picture because more than half the season remains.

★ ★ ★

Tigers' Pilot Foresees Flag

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Charlie Dressen, Detroit Tigers' manager who talks about his days in the National League with the Dodgers and Braves with the glory of Caesar recalling his Roman Empire, looks for the Tigers to be in the thick of the American League pennant race from start to finish.

WILLIAM ECKERT

At Wednesday's annual Detroit Tigers banquet, attended by press, radio and TV, plus club officials, players and coaches, Dressen said, "With the youth and desire that we have on this year's team I feel we will be in the running all the way.

"I'd rather have .280 hitters with desire rather than .300 hitters who have no desire," he added, "and these young players here have what we want."

He proceeded to introduce the 10 Tiger players in attendance, and in conclusion he said, "When I come back to this event next year, I hope and feel confident I'll be speaking for the American League championship baseball team."

COMMISSIONER ATTENDS

In attendance at the Tigers' event was newly elected baseball commissioner, William D. Eckert who said that one of his big jobs was "to get the game to more people" and he "would see that the demand is met."

Eckert indicated that expansion and conference shifts may be one of the answers but, "We in baseball will have to take a good look at the situation before granting any franchise shifts or expanding."

With him on the tour is his newly elected executive administrator Lee McPhail who has baseball background in his favor with several Major League organizations.

When asked about the Milwaukee-Atlanta legal battle over the Braves, he said, "It is now a matter for the courts."

When asked about the possibility of inter-league games he noted, "It may be well we look into it, and we might do it."

★ ★ ★

Speaking in general terms, with a brief answer to each question, the former Army general admitted he has "not been on this job long enough to give answer to the many questions he has encountered during his tour of the Major League cities.

Loyola Quintet Routs Broncos

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Chicago Loyola won its 12th game in 13 starts by trouncing Western Michigan 117-86 Wednesday night.

The speedy visitors placed seven men in double figures in their balanced attack and were racing away from the Broncos after a close first 10 minutes of play.

The score was tied and the lead changed hands a few times in the early moments, but Loyola then took a 12-10 lead and built on the margin all the rest of the way. Loyola led at the half 57-37 and threw many reserves into the game.

Western was hurt by fouls. Both John Scholtens and Reggie Lacefield fouled out in the second half. Western also lost Ajac Triplett by injury.

Waterford Squad Pins 26-23 Loss on Orion

A somewhat riddled Waterford Township wrestling team responded to a handicap last night and outwrestled Lake Orion, 26-23, to end a two-meet losing streak.

★ ★ ★

The Skippers had to forfeit the final two matches due to a manpower shortage even before the match began, putting them 10 points behind. (In the earlier 30-23 WTHS win over the Dragons, the two teams divided the last two matches.)

Kalamazoo Five Nips Adrian College, 99-91

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Kalamazoo College outlasted Adrian after a seesaw battle and won 99-91 Wednesday in MIAA basketball.

Jim Peters was high man for Kalamazoo with 24, while Ron Stevens dropped in 21 for the Bulldogs.

Academic Rule Irks Ivy League Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The threat of an Ivy League revolt still hung over the National Collegiate Athletic Association today as it cleaned up the last details on its 60th annual convention.

The convention proper wound up Wednesday, passing a number of amendments implementing its controversial 1.6 rule, a rule that establishes a minimum grade level for athletes—about a C minus.

And it's over this rule that the Ivies are up in arms. They have let it be known they will not live with it, will not abide by it and are ready to accept the penalties involved.

PENALTIES

The penalties could include ineligibility for NCAA championship events, including the indoor track championships and the basketball championship, both coming up next month.

"Certainly we'll accept the penalties," said Jerry Ford, athletic director at Penn. "Here and now. It's a matter of policy."

★ ★ ★

Ford even hinted that the Ivy League may, in time, bolt the NCAA.

"It's always a possibility," he said. "I don't think we would pull out over this issue, but it's always a possibility."

The Ivies — Penn, Brown, Columbia, Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Dartmouth and Princeton—oppose the rule on principle.

"Our position is that there is no distinction between students and student-athletes," Ford said. "The NCAA is in the business of legislating for athletes.

"When the NCAA goes into the area of grades and admissions and financial aid, they are intruding on an area which, in our opinion, is not in their province."

RESOLUTION

A resolution was adopted urging the U.S. House of Representatives Judiciary Committee to conduct extensive hearings into the free agent player draft, that is, a draft by both professional football leagues.

The House committee has before it a bill granting professional football certain anti-trust exemptions.

A resolutin by the University of New Mexico calling for the return to the one-platoon game in football was tabled.

An amendment limiting football scholarships to 35 and basketball to five was defeated.

Everett D. Barnes of Colgate was re-elected president.

The American Football Coaches Association selected Southeastern Conference Commissioner Bernie Moore for the Stagg Award for contributions to the game.

The NCAA also voted to permit schools with a male enrollment of fewer than 1,250 to use freshmen. The previous limit was 750.

Sights New Goal

Jimmy Brown Quitting?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim Brown, perhaps pro football's greatest runner, said today he is considering leaving the game for a new goal — generating capital for Negro businessmen.

Brown, 29, says one enterprise which will occupy his time includes three leading Black Muslims and will take him into the clouded world of championship boxing.

It will be "strictly business," he adds, and the profits of the enterprise "will be invested in Negro businesses and organizations to try to bolster the economy of the Negro."

★ ★ ★

"This is the answer," the famed 228-pound Negro Cleveland Brown fullback said in an interview. "It will help Negroes to realize how to help themselves and how to use the dollar effectively.

★ ★ ★

"This involves not a segment of the population but the complete population. It's magnitude is so great and so wide."

Brown provided these details of the enterprise:

He and five other men have joined to form Main Bout, Inc., a corporation that will handle closed circuit television and ancillary rights to major boxing matches, including a heavyweight championship bout between Cassius (Muhammad Ali) Clay and Ernie Terrell.

★ ★ ★

The president of Main Bout is Herbert Muhammad, the son of Elijah Muhammad, head of the Black Muslim sect, and is himself a leading member. Other muslims with voting rights include world champion Clay and John R. Lee, a Negro attorney in Chicago.

Namath Says Knee's Ailing

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Joe Namath says his right knee, which gave the former Alabama quarterback so much trouble during the 1964 football season, may require more surgery.

★ ★ ★

The New York Jets' signal-caller, who was named Rookie of the Year in the American Football League, was contacted Wednesday by the Birmingham News in Houston, Tex., where he is working out for the AFL All-Star game Saturday. Namath said he will be back in New York around Jan. 22 "and I'll find out for sure (about the knee) then."

Eaglets in NWCL Showdown

OLSM Hosts St. Benedict

St. Michael, St. Fred Play Home Games

The Northwest Catholic League basketball championship probably will be decided tomorrow night at Orchard Lake St. Mary.

The Eaglets (6-1) take on frontrunning Highland Park St. Benedict (7-1) and the winner is expected to take the remaining league foes in stride.

OLSM polished off challenger Royal Oak St. Mary, 71-68, Tuesday after a long layoff. It was the Eaglets second win over one of its closest rivals for the crown.

The other contender is St. Ben and the Ravens have inflicted the only blot on OLSM's record.

First place St. Michael is expected to continue winning in the Macomb Catholic League tomorrow at Kennedy Junior High against Marine City Holy Cross. St. Frederick, in second place, entertains winless New Baltimore St. Mary at Madison Junior High and Waterford Our Lady travels to Detroit St. Rose.

OL St. Mary has a big home court advantage. And the Eaglets have been waiting for this rematch since losing at Highland Park 69-58.

The Macomb Catholic League should be known as the Oakland loop. St. Michael, St. Fred and Waterford OLL are dominating the basketball as they did in football.

All three are favored to win and make the championship a three-way dogfight between the local schools. The remaining schools are in Macomb County, except for Detroit St. Rose.

Pontiac Horse Wins on Track in Florida

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. — Pontiac race horse owner Ralph Mazza hit the winner's circle recently at plush Pompano Park with his six-year-old gelding, Queen's Mason.

Piloted by Tom Merriman, one of the leading drivers in the Florida circuit, Queen's Mason paced the mile in 2:07 4/5 for his first win in five starts.

Full Slate in O-A

Kettering Hopes to Pull Away

Waterford Kettering, buoyed by its nonleague win over Waterford High Tuesday, steps back into Tri-County action tomorrow night with a chance to fatten its league lead.

The Captains are home for a game with last place Romeo. Oxford goes to Lapeer in the other league game. Second place L'Anse Creuse is idle and this gives Kettering (2-0) a chance to gain ground.

* * *

Romeo (0-2) has good size, but the Bulldgos have not proved to be as strong as their preseason rating. Kettering is due for a letdown after rolling past Oxford and then its close decision over arch-rival Waterford. The Captains are 6-0 overall.

Lapeer (1-1) can pull in to a tie with L'Anse by taking Oxford (1-2).

Warren Cousino can just about sew up the Oakland A crown by winning at Clawson. The Patriots are 6-0 in league play while Clawson, tied for second with Fitzgerald, is 4-2.

Fitzgerald appears to have a safe game with Madison (1-5) at Warren and could become Cousino's sole challenger.

Avondale goes to Rochester where fourth place will be decided. Both teams have 3-3 records. Lake Orion 1-5 plays at Troy 2-4.

Tomorrow's action will complete the first round of play in the O-A.

* * *

Rochester will be trying to keep a winning streak of four games going against Avondale that has suddenly lost its scoring punch after an impressive start. The Yellow Jackets have dropped three straight since starting the season with the same number of victories.

* * *

In fact, Rochester and Cousino could be the best teams in the league right now. However, the Falcons may have played themselves out of title consideration when they dropped their first three games.

Key Thumb Game Slated at Capac

Dryden and Almont are on the road tomorrow night for Southern Thumb Conference basketball games, but the players will be keeping an eye on what is happening in Capac.

The Cardinals (4-1) travel to Memphis (2-3) while Almont (3-2) is at Brown City (1-4). The big tussle will be between Capac (5-0) and Anchor Bay (4-1).

New Haven (1-4) is at Armada (0-5).

Victories by Dryden and Anchor Bay would leave the two schools tied with Capac. Almont would be a length behind if the expected triumph over Brown City takes place.

Quadrangular Meet at PNH

PCH, Ypsi, Vikings Vie in Wrestling

Pontiac Northern's Huskies, unbeaten in three dual encounters, will try their luck in a quadrangular wrestling tournament Saturday on their home mats.

★ ★ ★

Visiting the Huskies will be Pontiac Central, Ypsilanti and Hazel Park.

Each school will enter a junior varsity and a varsity squad. Wrestlers will start weighing in at 10 a.m.

PNH coach Bill Willson said two mats would be used with the first bouts slated to start at noon. The matmen will take a break at 3 p.m. and return for the second session at 5 p.m. Varsity finals will be on one mat and will get under way at 7:30.

Hazel Park, runner-up in the recent Oakland County Invitational Tournament, rates the role of favorite, but the Vikings should get a lot of competition from PNH and PCH.

Ladies in Semifinals

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Defending champion Phyllis (Tish) Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., met Mrs. Harton Semple of Sewickley, Pa., in the semifinals of the South Atlantic Women's Amateur Golf Championships today.

Christian College Fives Take Break

A break from state Christian College AA play follows Tuesday's first meeting of the two Pontiac area quintets in the league basketball race.

Michigan Christian Junior College took a 102-98 decision from Midwestern Baptist Seminary and will turn to out-of-state schools for competition the next eight days.

The Warriors from Rochester led most of the way at Midwestern; but late in the game found themselves down, 81-79. Jim Martin's three-point play then put them ahead for good.

Foul shots made the final cushion as the Pontiac seminary quintet tried to press for the basketball.

Ralph Wingate of the home team hit 40 points to lead all scorers. Michigan Christian was led by Martin's 33 and Bud Pressley's 22.

Midwestern (3-7) is idle until Jan. 22; while Michigan Christian JC (6-5) will have home games Friday night (7:30) and Saturday afternoon (3 o'clock) against Ohio Valley Christian College of West Virginia.

Next Friday, the Warriors will journey to Tiffin, Ohio, for a contest before returning for a MCCAA home game Saturday.

Pick '500' Driver for Royal Oak Car

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Billy Foster of Victoria, B.C., who holds the Indianapolis Motor Speedway record for a four-cylinder car, was named as driver today on the first entry for the 50th 500-mile race May 30.

Jim Robbins Co., Royal Oak, picked the 28-year-old Canadian to drive a new rear-engine car with a Ford racing engine. Rolla Vollstedt of Portland, Ore., designed the car and will be chief mechanic.

Foster qualified his Offenhauser last year at 158.416 m.p.h., a record for the breed, and was running in 11th place at 200 miles when a water manifold broke.

Calvin Romps, 96-64

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Calvin, leading from the first basket, plastered Alma 96-64 for its fifth straight MIAA basketball victory Wednesday night. The loss was Alma's fourth in five league games.

Best Winter Conditions Loom for This Weekend

By The Associated Press

Skiing conditions in Michigan improved considerably during the past week, with most areas reporting good to very good skiing.

Waterford Township's Recreation Department also has provided free skating at five locations, including night skating on the ice at the Drayton Plains Softball Park.

The forecast for the weekend indicates the resorts could enjoy their best weekend of the season.

In addition, the prolonged cold spell has improved the outlook for almost all Pontiac winter sports enthusiasts. Ice is thickening rapidly for the skaters, fishermen and ice boaters.

The Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department made its first artificial ice of the season on school grounds and tobogganing has started at Murphy Park.

Increased natural snow fall will permit the opening of the facilities at Teeple Hill by the weekend.

Skating Twosome Watching Figures

By JERE CRAIG

Tim Wood and Myrna Bodek are watching their figures very closely, hoping for a European trip.

They've been known to cut pretty fancy figures on ice for some years now. They're not so concerned, though, with how fancy they display their skills as how pretty they do it.

Both are prime candidates to make the United States' figure skating team at the trials the last week of January in Berkeley, Calif.

While both Wood, a Bloomfield Hills High School senior, and Miss Bodek, who will enter Oakland University in March, practice at the Detroit Skating Club under senior pro Ronnie Baker, and are long-time friends, they don't skate as a team.

SINGLES

He will compete in the senior men's national championships and she will be in the senior women's field. While the U.S. team will have 18 members, the two Oakland County entrants have only three chances apiece to make it.

Both are considered in excellent positions. Wood was the No. 3 man on last year's team behind the more highly publicized Gary Visconti of Detroit and Scott Allen of New Jersey. He finished 13th in the world meet.

Visconti and Allen will bid again, though age and physical condition may work against them. Wood, meanwhile should just be nearing his potential at age 17.

Miss Bodek was the alternate in the women's singles last year. The 18-year-old who only recently moved from Oak Park to Bloomfield Township could very well slip into the berth vacated when one 1965 member turned pro.

TIM WOOD

TRAVEL

Both Tim and Myrna will leave by airplane Jan. 23rd accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wood and Mrs. Kathrine Bodek for the national championships.

Should either or both of the teen-agers qualify, then the next stop would be the World's Championships at Davos, Switzerland late next month.

They must, however, finish mastering 28 compulsory figures before the 23rd. At the national championships, they will be instructed to perform five of them.

These, plus their free skating routines, (all of which they have been working on for several months) are the means by which they must earn their visit to Switzerland.

SNOWPLOW — The basic turning and braking maneuver for the beginning skier is demonstrated by Hans Garger, director of the Lake Eldora, Colo. ski school.

SKI AMERICAN

By HANS GARGER
Written for NEA

Now that you're moving forward on skis, the idea is to be able to stop. That is, keep yourself under control.

The first basic maneuver is the straight snowplow.

The tails of the skis are displaced at equal angles from the fall line, at almost a 30-degree angle, with the tips of the skis together (never cross them).

The surfaces of the skis are at right lateral angles to the lower legs. That makes you press down on the inside edges.

There should be a very slight bend from the waist, and a slight knee and ankle bend for flexibility. Hold your hands high, with the poles pointing back.

At the moment, you're going no place. But you're ready to turn.

Unbeatables Climb to 2nd in Hoop Play

White's Unbeatables grabbed sole possession of second in the American League and Coulacos Insurance took command of the International League recreation basketball race last night.

The Unbeatables dumped the winless Champs, 70-49, while Auburn Heights Community College failed to protect its grip on second place by forfeiting to The Packers.

Coulacos won its third straight with a 56-38 romp over Autobahn Motors, and Local 653 tripped the All Stars, 59-41. Both winning teams featured balanced scoring.

White's Unbeatables won their fourth in five outings behind Booker Hurner's 23 points.

Coulacos was paced by Clarence Beers and Bill Hayward, 13 each.

★ ★ ★

Tonight's schedule has one 7 o'clock AL contest at Madison JHS, and open practice at Pontiac Central.

Casper a Hit in Coast Golf

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Native son Bill Casper was the leading gallery attraction today as the $40,000 San Diego Open Golf Tournament got under way.

★ ★ ★

But lanky Al Geiberger had something else going for him — a bird tucked away in his golf cap.

Unlike a live sparrow that baseball's Mr. Casey Stengel once released from his cap during a game years ago, Geiberger's bird was plastic.

It was a good charm, indeed, for Geiberger, in Wednesday's pro-amateur competition, shot a six-under-par 65 and won $500 in first money in individual play.

The tournament setting is the 6,738 yard, par 35-36—71 Stardust County Club.

Resort Worker Moves

Former Pine Knob maintenance crew chief Paul Hartl now is a partner in the state's newest ski resort, Cannonsburg, northeast of Grand Rapids.

2 Share Lead in Cage Loop

Spencer Floor and Frushour & Struble posted victories last night to remain tied at 2-0 for the lead in the Waterford Township Class A basketball league.

Spencer, paced by Bill Gapp 25 points, routed Local 594, 102-65, while Frushour & Struble knocked off Powell's Trucking, 66-61.

Local 594 (0-2) spurted to a 10-2 lead in the frist quarter but Spencer scored 19 in a row to take the lead. Dick Oliver led the losers with 29 markers.

Jim Chamberlin scored 18 points — all in the third quarter —to spark Frushour & Struble. Dave Dodd tossed in 22 for the losers. (0-2).

In the other game, Dale Fussman picked up 18 points to lead a 70-60 victory over Drayton Drug (1-1).

The annual Nub's Nob Hootenanny Folk Festival will be Saturday and will feature the Jamestown Trio.

Tourist Map Covers 87 Resort Centers

All 87 state winter recreation centers are described in the 1965-66 Winter Sports Map published by the Michigan Tourist Council in Lansing.

The four state regional tourists associations are responsible for compiling the annual map. Copies are available at no charge by contacting the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing, 48926.

The map includes descriptions of snow slopes, trails, life equipment, dining and sleeping accommodations, entertainment and other recreational facilities in the various areas.

Medical Research Project Aiming High

Dr. Donald Dawson: Biochemistry In A Barn

One of the proverbial "men in white coats" at Pontiac State Hospital is Dr. Donald Dawson, an energetic combination of teacher, doctor and scientist.

Walking at a pace that equals a half-trot or slow run, Dr. Dawson is busily engaged in setting up a joint research program embracing the staffs of Pontiac State and Pontiac General Hospitals.

Initial medical research efforts will begin in two main areas: infectious hepatitis and organ transplantation.

Hopefully, one day the products of Dawson's laboratories will mark Pontiac in the medical field as much as the city's output of cars, trucks and buses does in the industrial world.

The 38-year-old teacher-doctor-scientist exhibits complete enthusiasm for the project, which is scheduled to be fully operational by Feb. 1.

The bulk of the equipment to launch the medical research program is being donated by the federal government and private concerns, such as drug companies.

Operating funds are secured in much the same manner, although Pontiac General has contributed $6,000 and Pontiac State $3,000. A relatively modest operating budget of $40,000 is projected for the program's beginning.

Pontiac State Hospital is furnishing the research facilities, converting areas of the hospital that might surprise the former occupants.

For example, a kitchen formerly used to prepare patient meals now will house test tubes, electronic devices and other equipment for a general research laboratory.

BARN CONVERTED

Also, a portion of an ancient but sturdy barn that once housed the hospital's dairy herd now will have an experimental surgery room and cages with mice, rabbits and monkeys.

Medical research actually is already under way to a limited extent with Dr. Dawson's own experiments.

Dr. Dawson's research on infectious hepatitis is being conducted in conjunction with a five-year grant from the U.S. Navy. That grant also is providing the budding research program with surplus government equipment.

Completing the research facilities at Pontiac State will be a 24-bed clinical ward.

TRANSPLANTATION

In the area of organ transplantation, Dr. Dawson is not primarily concerned with the transfer of whole limbs or organs, but rather the biochemistry of transplantation, namely: the chemical reactions of organisms.

The medical research program, which eventually is to be incorporated as the Pontiac Medical Research Center, was an idea fostered by area doctors.

The idea grew from the need for facilities to enable interns and other doctors at local hospitals to tackle research work.

★ ★ ★

It was thought that a research program would be another means of attracting interns and resident doctors to Pontiac hospitals.

UNTAPPED POTENTIAL

Meantime, Dr. Dawson indicates that the Pontiac area has an untapped potential as a research center.

He noted the caliber of area doctors, nearby Oakland University and Oakland Community College as some factors producing the potential.

Designated director of the research program, Dr. Dawson received his PH. D. degree from George Washington University and his medical degree from Georgetown University.

★ ★ ★

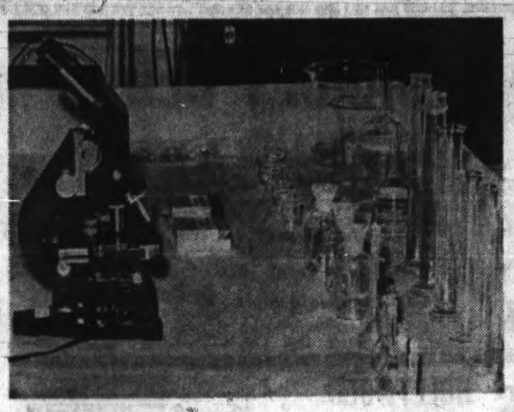

Following his internship and residencies in surgery at the University of Chicago Clinics, he was senior resident and instructor in surgery for two years there.

HEAD OF UNIT

He also founded and was head of the tissue transplantation unit there.

With giant hopes and aspirations, backers of the new research program hope the staffs of other area hospitals will join the research activities.

The future growth of the program may also include an affiliation with several state universities.

LAB WORK — Neatly arranged in rows, test tubes and microscopes stand ready for the medical research program to be launched Feb. 1. Surplus government equipment, some of it never used, makes up the basic stock for the projected research work.

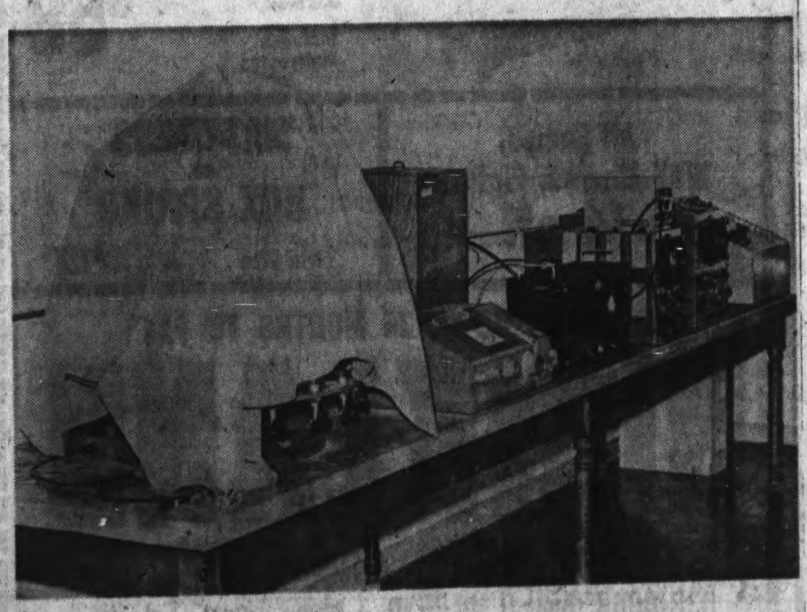

CONVERTED BARN — The joint research program involving the medical staffs of Pontiac State and Pontiac General Hospitals will be housed in these converted facilities at Pontiac State. A portion of this barn will be used for animal cages and an experimental surgery unit.

Pontiac Press Photos

NEW FURNISHINGS — White sheets are among the new furnishings for the old barn at Pontiac State Hospital. The building formerly was home for the hospital's dairy herd. With a new research program, a portion of the barn will house an experimental surgery unit and cages for small animals used in experiments.

SCIENCE FICTION? — Appearing considerably changed, this former kitchen area has been equipped with strange-looking electronic gadgets in preparation for the research program. This area will be used as a general research laboratory, the smell of chemicals to replace the former aroma of food.

Utilities Pay City Costs

MADISONVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Mayor David Parish says the people of Madisonville are "the luckiest in the world."

For the last 11 years, the townspeople have paid no city tax of any kind.

'65 Waterford Fires Costlier Than '64

Waterford Township firemen battled fewer but costlier fires last year than in 1964, according to figures released today by Fire Chief Lewis A. Goff.

There were 227 fewer fires last year.

However, damage attributed to fires in 1965 totaled $231,710 compared to $160,401 the previous year. In addition, two deaths resulted from blazes last year. There were no fire fatalities in 1964.

December's 19 fires in the township raised to 493 the total number of blazes for the year. In 1964, township firemen were summoned to quench 720 fires.

The fatalities included Mrs. William N. Pipe, a 57-year-old Oakland County Probate Court official, who died of smoke inhalation in a Dec. 29 fire at her home at 2451 Voorheis.

A 4-year-old boy died in a fire in February.

Alarms, including rescue and emergency runs, total 790 last year compared with 975 in 1964.

Convicts High on Education

LANSIN G(AP) — Michigan's prisoner-at-school program is getting bigger, says State Corrections Commissioner Gus Harrison.

Each year the number of convicts taking high school or college courses increases, he said. The same is true in the job-training program.

The educational program a state penal institutions reflects modern prison policy in contrast to the harsh prison codes of an older time.

Harrison says the Michigan prison system gets about 700 new prisoners annually who are illiterate and another 1,000 who have dropped out of school at about the ninth grade.

Of the 8,200 prisoners in Michigan, he says, some 600 men are taking high school courses with about 200 earning diplomas each year. Another 35 convicts are taking classes from state colleges or universities.

Murder Suspect Is Mum

Klan Probers Quiz 'White Knights'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House investigators today continue questioning members of the White Knights, a Mississippi Ku Klux Klan group said to be guided by a code of threats, violence and "extermination."

The House Committee on Un-American Activities began calling members of the group to the witness stand yesterday.

Among those refusing to to answer questions was Byron De La Beckwith, who was tried twice for the murder of civil rights leader Medgar Evers.

De La Beckwith, a slightly-built Greenwood, Miss., fertilizer salesman, invoked the 5th Amendment's constitional guarantees against self-incrimination to most inquiries about his Klan activities.

He appeared to go out of his way to be courteous in his refusals to answer, punctuating each drawled reply with at least one well-modulated, "suh."

FREED BOTH TIMES

The committee avoided questioning De La Beckwith about the murder of Evers, a crime for which he was tried twice but freed each time because of hung juries.

Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., said it would not be proper to go inti a criminal matter which has not yet been resolved.

Donald T. Appell, chief inv igator for the committee, said that De La Beckwith had been recruited into the Klan in Augu 1964, following the two trials.

★ ★ ★

GROUP CHARGED

The group has been charged with much of the racial violence in southern Mississippi.

A White Knights directive Appell read to the committee said that as long as the public is "on our side, we can just about do anything to our enemies with impunity."

Appell said the group's constitution contained references to "beating, floggings, burning of property" and "extermination."

★ ★ ★

The committee also was told that De La Beckwuth, along wi the Klansman painted a black stripe around the home of a man they dah accused of hiring "the wrong nigger" to paint the house.

Appell named Gordon Lackey of Greenwood, Miss., as the second man. Lackey, who appeared beforw the committee earlier yesterday, also invoked the 5th Amendment.

★ ★ ★

The committee's inquiry into the White Knights is part of its investigation into Klan groups operating throughout the South. The hearings are expected to last several more weeks.

N. J. Housing Blamed for Reservoir Site Lack

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — New Jersey is running out of suitable reservoir sites as housing developments swallow up the countryside, says a state water engineer.

Donald J. Kroeck, supervising engineer of the State Division of Water Policy and Supply, said the state must act promptly to buy up sites for future water reserves.

Body Insulin Synthesized

First Human Protein Supplied Artificially

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Human insulin has been synthesized in the laboratory for the first time.

★ ★ ★

It is the first human protein man has made artificially, and only the third protein ever made.

The synthesis of effective human insulin was achieved by Dr. Panayotis G. Katsoyannis and his coworkers at Brookhaven National Laboratory, Upton, N. Y.

Although there is no need now for commercial production of artificial insulin, it may be necessary in the future since supplies of natural insulin are limited and diabetes is on the increase.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Katsoyannis told Science Service that the success of his step-by-step research has inspired him to further work. He is looking for higher yields of the synthetic protein so that enough can be produced to study insulin's role in diabetes.

ANALOGUES

This will be done through the use of radioactive insulin and chemically altered forms of the compound, called analogues.

The first artificial protein, sheep insulin, was synthesized by Dr. Katsoyannis with a University of Pittsburgh research team two years ago.

German and Chinese chemists independently have made sheep and beef insulin, respectively. Although the three proteins differ only slightly, creation of human insulin required the development of new methods.

★ ★ ★

The synthesis of a human protein marks a high point in the efforts of chemists to understand body processes, such as enzyme and hormone action, through the study of protein structure. Enzymes also are proteins.

★ ★ ★

Insulin is a protein hormone, made by the pancreas, a large gland near the stomach. In some unknown way, insulin stimulates the body's burning, or oxidation, of sugar.

Star's Success Story Is Spun Around Her Gnomelike Features

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—She was only a grocer's daughter, but she refused to be put on a shelf.

BOYLE

So, at 23, Rita Tushingham, who never took a formal drama lesson in her life, has become one of Britain's brightest young film stars.

Her story is that of the ugly duckling who became a success without turning into a swan—a Cinderella who looks more like a wistful gnome.

★ ★ ★

Rita is 5 feet 2 and built a bit like a pigeon-chested roving guard for a girl's hockey team. Her face would never win a beauty contest, but her face is her fortune. It looks like an elf toy drawn by Walt Disney, and shines with the awkward grace of youth.

'I'VE BEEN LUCKY'

"It's the face that helps in films," she said. "It has to have something that comes through. I've been lucky."

Going to football games in her native Liverpool stirred Rita to dream of a career in the theater.

"I thought the response of the crowd was marvelous," she said.

Rita quit school at 15, spent three months taking a business course during which she learned to type and write "I love you" in shorthand.

SMALL PARTS

She landed a job as assistant stage manager with the Liverpool Repertory Theater. She played a few small parts, served as a prompter, and worked from 9 in the morning until 11 at night.

"It was good training," she recalled.

"But I had to leave because I wasn't experienced enough. I hadn't been to drama school. So I went and got myself a film part."

The part she got was the role of heroine in "A Taste of Honey," and she got it by winning out over 2,000 other applicants. Her biggest previous role had been one in which she played the back legs of a donkey in pantomime.

FIVE OTHER FILMS

Since then her touching, homely features have been in five other films.

"Instead of playing the sad-eyed girl," she said, "I'd like to be a bit more zany—more like I really am."

★ ★ ★

She is married to Terry Bicknell, a television cameraman, and they have a 20-month old daughter, Dodonna, named after an ancient mythical Greek city.

"We found the name listed in the back of a dictionary, and liked the sound of it," she explained.

Rita says she likes "being married, antiques, Buster Keaton, Cornwall when it's windy and rough, cooking roasts and making puddings, coach horses, Labrador dogs, children—and I'd like to lose 10 pounds and put them in the bank.

★ ★ ★

"I dislike snobby people, routine housework and getting up early in the morning, and central heating."

★ ★ ★

Her philosophy:

"It is important to have a base in life, and from that base you can enjoy it. To me the base is family.

★ ★ ★

"Your profession should give you enjoyment, but it should never be your life."

Joint Session Planned on CD Future

The fate of Oakland County's civil defense program probably will be charted at the Jan. 26 joint meeting of the ways and means and civil defense committees of the County Board of Supervisors.

★ ★ ★

Some county officials have been advocating either a cutback of the CD budget or merging of the unit with another county department.

Members of the ways and means committee indicated earlier that they would make a firm recommendation on the future of CD prior to the Feb. 8 meeting of the board of supervisors.

The civil defense committee at a meeting yesterday petitioned the Jan. 26 joint meeting.

Seek Ways to Repair Congress Image

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of three articles on "The Image of Congress." It deals with "telling the story;" the second with committee handicaps including seniority; the third with recommendations.)

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

WASHINGTON—What's wrong with the public image of Congress?

Fascinated in finding the answer is a former Republican congressman, George Meader of Ann Arbor, who is the associate counsel on the Joint Committee on the Organization of Congress.

When this committee meets again on Jan. 18, some recommendations will be reviewed in the attempt to improve the image of Congress by making changes for a more effective Congress and by offering ways and means to get the congressional story to the people.

Senators and representatives fret so much about the unflattering image of the Congress that committee cochairman Ray Madden, D-Ind. seriously suggested having a public relations committee "to bring the facts about the Congress to the people instead of being on the defensive all the time."

★ ★ ★

He resents that "it's an outdoor and indoor sport to ridicule the Congress."

BETTER JOB

The rub is that Congress does a better job than most Americans realize, contends Meader, but there's no one voice to get the true facts to the people.

In contrast the executive branch project its accomplishments through the President in his news conferences and frequent television and radio appearances.

Every federal government department has a press agent and a steady stream of news releases to keep the public informed.

Of course, by the very character of Congress there are as many voices as there are members: 535.

57 PER CENT

The public knows little about how the Congress functions.

According to a recent Gallup poll, some 57 per cent of the American people don't even know the name of their congressman, much less how he voted on key issues.

On a CBS national citizenship test, 34 per cent flunked it.

The American who goes to Capitol Hill to watch his congress in action isn't given much assistance.

★ ★ ★

Visitors in the galleries can't hear too well and have no idea what's being debated, but they do wonder why only a dozen members are in their seats.

25-CENT CHARGE

Tourists are annoyed at the 25 cent charge just to be guided through the halls.

They see policemen who are young and don't look capable of stopping such an invasion as those Puerto Ricans pulled off a few years ago in which five members were shot, including Alvin Bentley of Owosso.

Talked-about changes "to tell the story of Congress" are:

- More use of television. At present only Senate hearings are televised at the discretion of each committee chairman.
- More microphones in floor and in galleries to better the hearing of debate.
- Bulletproof glass partitions around certain secions of the visitors' galleries where someone could explain to tourists what's going on down on the floor and to answer questions.
- Use of a central reception center (perhaps the old Senate chamber) where visitors on arrival could get a briefing on how Congress operates and what's on the day's calendar. Show a film about Congress.
- A more dignified appearance. Example; smart uniforms on capitol guards, older pages, perhaps college students.
- Better decorum by members. Former Congressman George Dondero, Royal Oak Repulbican, used to lecture his colleagues every opening session on "dignity and politeness." Listen to the member addressing the House. Don't read the newspapers. Don't walk around the chamber. Don't be noisy.

★ ★ ★

Most important of all is the proposal for the adoption of a simple code of ethics for its members. As was stressed in a recent television show, conflicts of interests should be clearly defined.

CLARIFICATION

Members indulging in them are already subject to censure or removal from office, but clarification is said to be needed.

★ ★ ★

If such a code were in strict effect the charge of unnecessary junketing would disappear from the headlines when a member traveled at public expense.

New Serum Will Fight Yellow Scorpion Bite

JERUSALEM, Israel Sector (AP) — A highly effective serum against the bite of the common yellow scorpion, the most poisonous in the world, has been developed at the Hebrew University, a university spokesman says.

He claimed final tests have shown it to be several times more potent than the serum prepared at London's Lister Institute — hitherto the only source of serum.

Wisconsin Prof Gets Japan College Degree

Reese, now emeritus professor of neurology, spent six moths in Japan in 1959 helping to establish the Department of Neurology at Kyushu.

By JACOBY & SON

One of the most fascinating hands in the International team trials occurred in the third round. Seven of the nine pairs that were fortunate enough to hold the North-South cards reached six spades or six no-trump, while two others reached the optimum contract of seven diamonds.

JACOBY

One pair reached seven after South elected to make the fancy response of two clubs to the opening spade bid and North rebid two diamonds. The other pair to get there were Mathe and Hamman.

The bidding is shown in the box. Hamman, sitting South, showed his great strength by immediately jumping to three diamonds. He continued with a four-heart cue bid after Lew raised diamonds, whereupon Mathe went into the Blackwood routine and asked for aces and kings.

After Bob showed no kings, Lou was convinced that he would have to hold the queen of diamonds for his three diamond response and Lew went to seven diamonds.

There are only 12 tricks at either no-trump or spades. The 4-4 diamond fit gave Bob his tenth trick in spite of the bad trump break.

He won the club lead with dummy's ace. Then he took dummy's king of diamonds and led a second diamond to his ace. When East showed out, Bob led a club and ruffed it small.

Then he cashed dummy's jack of diamonds, came to his hand with the ace of hearts; led out his queen of trumps to pull West's last tooth and eventually discarded two hearts and the queen of clubs on dummy's long spades.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Vandals released over 1,600 gallons of gasoline from a transport truck parked on a lot in a heavily populated west side area, causing a serious explosion threat for more than two hours, officials said.

The gasoline streamed from the truck and down a street for seven blocks Wednesday.

Police said thieves apparently stole $100 worth of tools from the truck and then turned a valve which released the gasoline.

BERRY'S WORLD

By Jim Berry

"Talk about BRAVE—just before he lights up, he always reads the warning label on the cigarette package!"

BOARDING HOUSE

OUT OUR WAY

Text of Gov. Romney's 'State of State' Speech

LANSING (AP)—Text of Gov. George Romney's State of the State message:

Lt. Gov. Milliken, Speaker Kowalski, members of the legislature, visitors and fellow citizens:

I thank you for this privilege and extend to each of you my warm personal greetings.

We meet today midway through the 1960s.

Michigan has moved forward on a broad front of progress in the first five years of this decade.

UNPRECEDENTED BOOM

Recession has been replaced by an unprecedented boom. Personal income is up 36.5 per cent since 1960. Industrial expansions have reached an all-time high. Annual average unemployment is down from 6.7 per cent to 3.5 per cent. Employment is up 300,000 to a record of over three million.

State government has moved from a deficit of $64 million in 1960 to a surplus of $136 million in 1965. Yet in these five years, we have increased state support to local schools by 67 per cent; for higher education by 70 per cent; for mental health by 31 per cent.

We have new and expanded social service legislation. We have nearly doubled our juvenile rehabilitation facilities. We have enacted landmark labor legislation. We are a national leader in antipoverty activities. We have increased our budget for parks and recreation by 50 per cent. We have better safeguards for our natural resources, including air and water.

GOVERNMENT IMPROVED

State government itself has been improved. We have a new state constitution. As a result, the legislature has better organization and procedures, the judicial branch is being strengthened, and the first phase of executive branch reorganization has been completed.

We are already well on the way to making this decade the "soaring sixties" for Michigan.

Total Progress

The job which preoccupied us in the first half of this decade—overcoming deficiencies in state services and the structure of state government — is well advanced.

But great as this progress has been, it is not enough.

★ ★ ★

Our state progress, to be adequate, must be total Michigan progress.

For total Michigan progress we must:

1. Stimulate and encourage greater personal, family and private institutional effort;
2. Improve and strengthen the role of local government;
3. Improve the quality and scope of existing state activities;
4. Completely utilize existing federal programs.

INSEPARABLE SECTIONS

Each is important, and to be fully effective, inseparable.

★ ★ ★

For the state is one part and one part only of this great American political process of freedom through federalism. But without strength of state, it will fail. Without strength of local government, the state will fail. And without strength of personal, family and private institutional effort, all will fail.

Urban Progress

If we are to achieve total Michigan progress, we must rise to the challenges presented by our growing concentration of population — the sprawling urban centers of our state.

Today, three-quarters of the people of Michigan live in our 10 metropolitan areas. This number will continue to grow.

Accompanying this growth are many urgent problems, not all of them new. We need to recognize that the radical changes which increasingly mark urban and suburban life have far outrun our present ability to cope with them effectively. Crime and delinquency, mass transportation and traffic safety, polluted air and water, core city deterioration, antiquated governmental machinery, limited tax sources—these are some of the problems that confront us now and in years to come.

State aid to local governments is soaring. Already the state is pouring 55 per cent of its total income (including some funds from federal sources) back into local governmental bodies and services. This aid has risen 21 per cent in the past three years, to an annual level of $837 million.

NOT ENOUGH

But even this is not enough. If we are to overcome our metropolitan dilemma, we need dramatic and immediate assertion of state leadership in partnership with local government. This must be our challenge and our goal for the balance of this decade.

Urban Reform

Many of our urban problems will never be solved until we give our local officials the necessary tools and resources to help do the job. This includes reorganization and consolidation of local government for increased efficiency and clearer lines of authority and responsibility.

It is absolutely essential that we act this year on county home rule. Equally necessary is the establishment of a boundary commission to resolve annexation disputes.

Local governments have acute and growing financial needs, even though they are authorized to enact a uniform city income tax. I therefore urge you to grant cities additional taxing powers, including certain excise taxes and a land transfer tax once the federal tax in this field is ended.

Many of the problems of metropolitan living have now become regional in character, extending across city, township and county lines. I recommend that the state develop new methods of encouraging and assisting metropolitan regional planning and governmental agencies.

'BLUE-RIBBON' GROUP

We also need a "blue-ribbon" metropolitan areas study commission with a sweeping mandate to recommend action programs at the state, regional and local levels.

I renew my request for an office of local government in the executive office to further needed cooperation and coordination.

Water Pollution

Management of our water and pollution control is a major state problem with particular effects on local areas. As a result of last year's legislation, we have doubled the pollution control staff of the Water Resources Commission and armed it with new authority.

Michigan has taken the initiative to establish a Great Lakes River Basin Commission. A major fast-moving program is well under way to improve the Michigan waters of the Detroit River and Lake Erie.

I urge early legislative action to establish an initial $1 million state grant program to aid municipalities in pollution control.

I urge enactment of tax exemption, similar to that enacted by you on air pollution control equipment, for industrial waste water treatment facilities.

★ ★ ★

I again recommend appropriation of matching funds for comprehensive water resource research and planning.

Crime and Delinquency

The most pressing metropolitan problems are human and social — and among the most critical of these are law and order. Crime is on the increase, especially in metropolitan areas and among teen-agers. We need a total all-out effort to deal with every helpful aspect of this dangerous situation.

I therefore recommend development of a computerized law enforcement council aimed at better police training; planning for a center for law enforcement research; and specific legislation dealing with conspiracy, search warrant procedures that conform with federal standards, immunity for witnesses, and subpoena powers on judicial order for the attorney general and prosecuting attorneys.

Victims of violent crime perhaps should have some protection and assistance from the state. The attorney general and I would be glad to participate with you in a joint study of this problem

In addition, I propose more flexible options for the handling of juvenile offenders by the courts; more staff for boys' and girls' training schools; establishment of regional juvenile detention diagnostic centers; and expansion of our probation, after-care and foster-care programs.

Family Voluntary Effort

Total Michigan progress depends most of all on the quality of family life and the voluntary activity of responsible citizens. Government alone can never solve our mounting human and social problems.

The breakdown of the family is the foremost cause of delinquent and criminal behavior. As the family deteriorates, so will society. We must stimulate private and individual efforts to reinforce the fiber of our families. The State Human Resources Council is taking solid steps, through state and regional conferences and wide consultation, toward a new public - private partnership to stem the alarming breakdown of families.

At present I recommend: improvement of our marriage laws to encourage marital success; amendment of divorce laws to encourage reconciliation; modernization of child support laws; changes in child custody stautes to protect both parents and children; and licensing of marriage counselors.

To secure our future, more citizens must participate as volunteers. The Human Resources Council is breaking new ground to stimulate new personal voluntary efforts. For example, through the University Student Volunteer Movement, more than 3,000 college students are working in underprivileged city school districts to motivate and assist elementary school students who are potential dropouts or delinquents. This program is being expanded to include volunteers from upper elementary grades and high schools.

GIVING ENCOURAGEMENT

In addition, we are encouraging Peace Corps returnees, community volunteer projects, and volunteer assistance in mental health, corrections and social services, to marshal voluntary resources for total Michigan progress.

Traffic Safety

Total Michigan progress will never be realized until we have licked once and for all the tragedy of an inadequate traffic safety program. I believe the people are ready for action and expect us to take it. The action program I propose includes:

First, improved state support, supervision, regulation and expansion of driver education;

Second, strengthened and centralized driver licensing and examination, to be paid for by increased driver license fees;

Third, better traffic law enforcement, including implied consent for chemical tests of drinking drivers;

Fourth, mandatory annual inspection of all motor vehicles.

Michigan is the automotive and highway capital of the world. I urge that you join in making it the traffic safety capital of the world.

State Services

For the rest of this decade, and certainly during the coming year, total Michigan progress will require further improvement in the quality and scope of state services.

Budget

Much of what we accomplish this year in state-level programs will relate directly to the budget.

My over-all budget will be well in excess of $900 million. Simply the $96 million of built-in costs of extending current levels of service to a growing population coupled with meeting new programs adopted previously will require such a level. But my budget will also include improvements in many areas.

★ ★ ★

The proposed budget will use a portion of the general fund surplus. It will not use the entire surplus. To do so would be highly irresponsible because we may have passed the peak rate of increase in this unequaled period of economic growth.

Economy, Efficiency

Savings resulting from efficiency recommendations of the Task Force on Expenditure Management now totals $3 million a year. Management improvement councils have been established in each of the new executive departments to achieve administrative efficiencies now possible through departmental reorganizations.

Taxes

Assuming no major economic downturn and appropriations substantially in line with budget recommendations, we can meet our 1966-67 spending requirements without new taxes.

★ ★ ★

However, because of our unjust tax structure, the need for tax reform remains, and with our exploding population, despite record economic growth, the need for additional revenues will soon be upon us. You still have available for action a well-conceived, bipartisan tax program developed last year to accomplish both objectives. I urge you to adopt its reform elements. I stand ready to consider any adjustments of a mutally agreeable character which would be in the over-all interest of our state.

Veterans

We need a revision of the veterans' homestead tax exemption law. It should be amended to eliminate the injustice and deficiencies in the present law and to improve the level of benefits for all eligible veterans—particularly for those with the greatest disability and financial need.

★ ★ ★

When eligibility of Viet Nam veterans has been established, they should receive the same benefits granted Korean veterans.

Jobs and Housing

Urban slums are growing, and slum living in changing neighborhoods contributes to the breakup of family ties. People living in blighted areas are often poor, uneducated, and new to the city. Basic to the solution of their problems is a new sense of purpose, and equal access to education, jobs and housing.

Job training and opportunities for those on aid to dependent children should be stepped up. We should provide a cost-of-living increase and provide incentives for ADC children to work and stay in school.

When available jobs cannot be filled with unemployed Michigan residents who want work, something is wrong with our basic educational training or apprenticeship programs. Because the shortage of building trades craftsmen is retarding economic growth, improvement in training and apprenticeship programs is receiving priority attention.

We are also experiencing growing difficulty in securing mental health, corrections and social service personnel. With increased hospital and medical care through Medicare, we are facing a shortage in physicians and trained health personnel. Our state agencies are emphasizing such job training and retraining.

ADDED APPROPRIATION

To expand job opportunities, I recommend a supplemental appropriation of $200,000 to pay the 10 per cent matching required under the antipoverty program. Matched with federal funds, this will provide $2 million for our cities' job training programs planned by their community action committees for the first six months of 1966.

Michigan is only 13th among the states in the number of poverty-stricken families, but is already third in community action programs and fourth in money received.

Along with a place to work must come a decent place to live. There are those who can afford it, but can't move because of discrimination. Our Civil Rights Commission is providing vigorous leadership and is determined that housing discrimination must end. I will recommend increased commission funds. However, commission action is not enough. Local governments, private groups, and individuals must be encourged to fulfill their responsibilities.

Education, Capital Expenditures

Our educational system is the cornerstone of Michigan's economic and social well-being. We must not relinquish our progress in this area.

The state is again providing more than 50 per cent of local school operating costs. My budget will recommend further substantial increases in support for elementary and secondary level, community colleges, higher education, vocational education facilities, and local library systems.

The State Board of Education in its planning and coordination of higher education should give attention to Michigan's private colleges and ways of preserving and strengthening their role.

MUST BOOST PROGRAMS

We must continue to bolster our scholarship and loan programs to bring post-high school education within the financial reach of every qualified student.

Capital outlay funds that were withheld last year pending development of plans and programs should immediately be restored through supplemental appropriation. This will permit award of contracts and start of construction on 11 projects.

In addition, my new capital expenditure recommendations will bring our total pay-as-you-go building program from planning to ribbon-cutting to over $475 million, of which $350 million is for higher education facilities.

Mental Health

In the field of mental illness and retardation, I will recommend our third consecutive 10 per cent increase in operating funds. Further expansion of community clinics and other outpatient services are needed to help thousands who in the past had no place to turn except a state hospital.

In mental retardation, we are finally turning the corner on our long waiting list and can see the time when it will be practially eliminated.

★ ★ ★

The Department of Mental Health will shortly present comprehensive recommendations to correct deficiencies in the legal disposition and subsequent treatment of mentally ill criminals.

Senior Citizens

We need speedy implementation of the Medicare program. My budget will recommend a program of comprehensive medical services for over 627,000 Michigan citizens.

★ ★ ★

For those who need help the most—senior citizens on public assistance—I recommend the removal of arbitrary ceilings on old-age assistance.

Health Services

The state currently licenses over 90 per cent of our hospitals —those caring for maternity and welfare patients. Hospital licensing should be extended to all health facilities.

★ ★ ★

I will also recommend full reimbursement of hospitals and physicians under the crippled and afflicted children's program.

Consumer Protection

Considerable additional action is needed to protect the Michigan consumer. I recommend adoption of a uniform food law and legislation to prevent a number of other fraudulent and deceptive sales practices.

Labor

For the first time, Michigan has a genuine Labor Department and the opportunity to make this new department one of the nation's best. I will recommend an expanded, realistic budget to increase its inspection activities. I also urge legislation to give its industrial section adequate code-making authority for the age of automation rather than for the belt and pulley age of the 1909 Industrial Safety Statute.

Parks, Recreation and Tourism

Our state's outstanding park and recreation system must be further expanded to serve people. I will recommend sharp increases in park and fish management programs, financed by general state and federal funds and increased user fees. I also urge protection of the beauty of our state through control of billboards and junk yards.

★ ★ ★

These proposals and many other relating to travel, water and land use are important methods of expanding our tourist industry, which is now contributing over $1 billion annually to our state.

Agriculture

I will recommend increased funds for full-scale meat and milk inspection programs and for research to strengthen Michigan's agricultural position.

★ ★ ★

Last year a third of our pickle crop was lost for lack of harvesters. Growers of other crops also suffered seriously. Steps need to be taken by federal officials to make certain we have workers to harvest Michigan's field and fruit crops. In the national competition for such workers, additional state action is needed to make Michigan more attractive to farm laborers.

International Trade

Michigan's export of industrial and farm products now totals $1.5 billion annually. The first comprehensive study of Michigan's foreign trade opportunities, completed this year, indicates our exports can be substantially increased. A special message covering specific recommendations will be submitted soon, based on a Governor's World Trade Advisory Council study.

Upper Peninsula

The announced closing of Kincheloe Air Base will heighten the problems of citizens living in the eastern part of the Upper Peninsula. No state action would help them more in the reestablishment of their economic base than the removal of the tolls from the Mackinac Bridge.

While the bridge bonds could have been refinanced more favorably when I recommended your approval a year ago, they can still be refinanced with an annual saving of about $500,000 in interest. I therefore renew my recommendation that the current Bridge Authority bonds be refinanced and that new state bonds be paid for by a slight increase in our low automobile weight taxes so that the tolls can be removed.

★ ★ ★

As another step toward helping the Upper Peninsula, I have joined with the governors of Wisconsin and Minnesota in urging the federal government to authorize an upper Great Lakes regional economic development commission.

Government Reform

I urge your adoption of a joint proposal by the attorney general and myself to amend our constitution so as to fill judicial vacancies by gubernatorial appointment.

★ ★ ★

And my support for reorganization of the Michigan military establishment has not diminished.

Unclassified Salaries

Recent personnel developments in state government should make it clear that inadequate, unclassified compensation is a handicap in attracting and retaining qualified people. It is unthinkable that the most important executive officials in state government should receive lower salaries and fewer benefits than civil service employes serving under them. You are urgently requested to approve salary rates recommended by civil service for these unclassified, underpaid top executives.

Elections

Special steps should be taken to prevent election difficulties in Detroit this fall as a result of the election of all judges in courts of record.

Township officials should be given four-year terms.

I also urge you to qualify 18-through 20-year-old citizens to serve as precinct delegates to county and state conventions and as challengers at the polls.

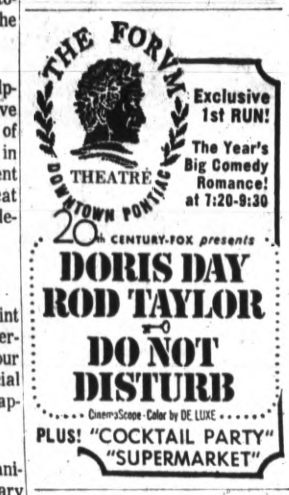

Planning

Sound progress requires sound planning. Much of our progress in recent years has been the outgrowth of such preparation.

I propose that we expand planning on a joint legislative-executive basis, similar to our ongoing studies of the lower court system and legislative compensation. Such planning could include joint selection of participants, adequate financing, and retention of our respective independent assessments of facts and results.

Such an approach could be particularly meaningful in the conduct of a metropolitan areas study commission to give immediate attention to such problems as urban renewal and condemnation procedures, mass transportation and law enforcement, including possible state assistance for local police salaries. Other joint studies are urgently required in the areas of property tax exemptions, comprehensive water resource planning, future park and recreation needs, and the school aid formula. The latter, of course, should involve the State Board of Education.

In addition, I propose that these governor's commissions be given statutory status:

Commission on the Status of Women.

Council on the Arts.

Commission on Migrant Labor.

Commission on the Employment of the Handicapped.

Conclusion

Michigan is what it is today because people of many nationalities have combined their talents to achieve economic opportunity, social justice, educational opportunity and greater cultural and recreational enrichment. In the process, Michigan has played a leading role in scientific, technological, production and marketing advances. These advances have opened the prospect of a world free from poverty, hunger, misery and disease — yes, and through communication, understanding and brotherhood — free from war.

In 1965, two young astronauts raised in Michigan and educated at the University of Michigan were the first Americans to demonstrate man's ability to walk and navigate bodily in space. Michigan has entered the space age.

Michigan's great historian, Willis F. Dunbar of Western Michigan University, recently published an epic account of the history of our two peninsulas. His concluding chapter is entitled, "Into the Space Age." I close my message to you with two quotations from it.

"It is abundantly clear that the chaotic condition and inadequacy of local government units in Michigan invites the loss of the powers of local government to the state. If government at the local level is to be kept alive and vital, changes are mandatory."

'WILL PERISH'

Local government must be kept "alive and vital" or meaningful self-government will perish. Our task is to enable local governments to make the changes that will keep them from losing the capacity for self-government through excessive dependence and therefore control from Lansing or Washington. True statesmanship or leadership does not make governments or people dependent, it makes them independent, self-reliant and self-governing.

The other quotation from Dr. Dunbar's space age conclusion is:

"The history of Michigan should warn those who shape the state's destiny in the future not to waste natural resources, to seek to build a more diversified and stable economy, and to seek out wise, enlightened and dedicated leaders. It should demonstrate that liberty under law is the best guarantee of social justice, prosperity, and happiness. It should point the way to voluntary association as the first resort when a need cannot be met through individual effort, and the wisdom of restricting government to those services that cannot be provided either through individual enterprise or through voluntary cooperation."

May we combine our efforts to provide the state leadership which will enable Michigan to make as great a contribution in the space age as we made in the age when technology, transportation and communication brought Saigon as close to Detroit in travel time as Cadillac was at the start of this century.

And with faith in God and our inspired American principles, may we lay the foundations needed to achieve total Michigan progress.

Find May Aid in Fertilization

EAST LANSING (AP)—Two Michigan State University scientists, studying reproduction in animals, believe they have found a substance in the body which eventually could help solve problems of infertility.

Dr. Harold D. Hafs, a dairy scientist, and Kenneth Kirton, a graduate student in reproduction physiology, believe they have found the enzyme which makes a sperm capable of fertilizing an egg.

They said Wednesday their basic research might be applied to human problems of infertility. An infertile couple might be helped to have children through addition of an enzyme to the sperm, they said.

On the other hand, Kirton said, removing the enzyme from the reproductive tract might achieve contraception.

Yale Forestry School Gets $250,000 Grant

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — A grant of $250,000 to establish a new chair in the Yale University School of Forestry has been announced. It will be known as the David T. Mason chair.

Dean Francis Mergen said the grant comes from the Louis W. and Maud Hill family foundation of St. Paul, Minn. Mason is a Portland, Ore., consulting forester and a leading advocate of regulated timberland yield, the university said.

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — Snow-crowned Mt. Etna exploded into violent volcanic activity today after almost two years of only minor eruptions.

The explosions fired tons of molten rock 200 yards into the air from a subterminal crater on the northeast slope, below the great central cone of Europe's tallest volcano. There was no immediate sign of any major lava flow.

Text of Johnson's State of Union Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following is the text of President Johnson's State of the Union message:

I come before you to report on the State of the Union for the third time.

★ ★ ★

I come to thank you, and to add my tribute, once more, to the nation's gratitude. For this Congress has already reserved for itself an honored chapter in the history of America.

Our nation is now engaged in a brutal and bitter conflict in Viet Nam. Later tonight I want to discuss that struggle with you. It must be at the center of our concerns.

HEALTHY SOCIETY

But we will not permit those who fire on us in Viet Nam to win a victory over the desires and intentions of the American people. This nation is mighty enough—its society healthy enough—its people strong enough—to pursue our goals in the rest of the world while building a Great Society at home.

★ ★ ★

That is what I have come to ask you.

1. To provide the resources to carry forward, with full vigor, the great health and education programs enacted last year.

2. To provide the funds to prosecute with vigor and determination our war on poverty.

DARING DIRECTION

3. To give a new and daring direction to our foreign aid program, designed to make a maximum attack on hunger, disease and ignorance in those countries determined to help themselves —and to help those nations trying to control population growth.

4. To make it possible to expand trade between the United States and Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

5. To rebuild completely—on a scale never before attempted—entire central and slum areas of several of our cities.

6. To attack the wasteful and degrading poisoning of our rivers, and, as to the cornerstone on this effort, clean completely entire large river basins.

CRIME ON STRETS

7. To meet the growing menace of crime in the streets—by building up local law enforcement—and by revitalizing the entire federal system from prevention to probation.

8. To take additional steps to ensure equal justice to all our people—by effectively enforcing nondiscrimination in federal and state jury selection—by making it a serious federal crime to obstruct public and private efforts to secure civil rights — and by outlawing discrimination in the sale and rental of housing.

9. To help me modernize and streamline the federal government by creating a new Cabinet level department of transportation and reorganizing several existing agencies. In turn, I will restructure our Civil Service system in the top grades so that men and women can be easily assigned to jobs where they are most needed, and ability will be both required and rewarded.

10. To make it possible for members of the House of Representatives to work more effectively in the service of the nation through a constitutional amendment extending the term of a congressman to four years, concurrent with that of the President.

VIET WAR

Because of Viet Nam we cannot do all we should, or all we would like to do.

We will ruthlessly attack waste and inefficiency. We will make sure every dollar is spent with the thrift and common sense which recognizes how hard the taxpayer worked to earn it.

★ ★ ★

And we will continue to meet needs of our people.

Last year alone the wealth we produced increased $47 billion; and it will soar again this year to a total over $720 billion.

Economic Policies

Because our economic policies have produced rising revenues —if you approve every program I recommend—our total deficit will be one of the lowest in many years—only $1.8 billion. Total spending in the administrative budget will be $112.8 billion. Revenues will be $111 billion.

On a cash basis—which is the way you and I keep our family budget—the federal budget will show a surplus this year. That is to say, if we include all the money your government will take in and spend, your government will collect one half-billion dollars more than it will spend in fiscal year 1967.

I do not come here tonight to ask for pleasant luxuries and idle pleasures. I am here to recommend that you—the representatives of the richest nation on earth—the elected servants of a people who live in abundance unmatched on this globe —bring the most urgent decencies of life to all American .

There are men who cry out: We must sacrifice. Let us rather ask hem: Whom will they sacrifice? Will they sacrifice the children who seek learning—the sick who need care—the families who dwell in squalor now brightened by the hope of home? Will they sacrifice opportunity for the distressed—the beauty of our land—the hope of our poor.

MORE SACRIFICES

Time may require further sacrifices. If so, we will make them.

But we will not heed those who wring it from he hopes of the unfortunate in a land of plenty.

I believe we can continue the Great Society while we fight in Viet Nam. But if some do not believe this, then, in the name of justice, let them call for the contribution of those who live in the fullness of our blessing, rather than strip it from the hands of those in need.

And let no one think the unfortunate and oppressed of this land sit stifled and alone in their hope. Hundreds of their servants and protectors is before me now in this great chamber.

3 ROADS

Three roads converge on the Great Society:

—Growth in the economic health and abundance of our country.

—Justice, to permit all our people to share the freedom an opportunity of America.

—Liberation of our genius and abundance to enrich the quality of our lives.

First is growth—the national prosperity, which supports the well-being of our people and provides the tools of progress.

I can report to you what you have seen for yourselves in almost every city and countryside. This nation is flourishing.

Workers are making more money than ever—with after-tax income in the past five years up 33 per cent and in the last year alone up 8 per cent.

MORE WORKING

More people are working than ever—an increase last year of 2½ million jobs.

Corporations have greater after-tax earnings than ever—up 65 per cent and more over the past five years and last year alone a rise of 20 per cent.

And average farm income is higher than ever—up 40 per cent over the past five years and last year up 22 per cent.

I was informed this afternoon by the secretary of the Treasury that his preliminary estimate indicates our balance of payments deficit has been reduced from $2.8 billion in 1964 to $1.3 billion, or less, in 1965. This achievement has been made possible by the patriotic and voluntary cooperation of businessmen and bankers working with your government.

INCREASED URGENCY

We must now work together with increased urgency to wipe out the balance of payments deficit altogether.

★ ★ ★

As our economy surges toward new heights we must increase our vigilance against the inflation which raises the cost of living and lowers the savings of every family. To prevent inflation it is essential that both labor and business exercise price and wage restraint.

Excise Tax

I believe it desirable, because of increased military expenditures, that you temporarily restore the automobile and certain telephone excise tax reductions made effective only 12 days ago.

Without raising taxes — or even increasing the total tax bill paid — we should

★ ★ ★

— Improve our withholding system so that Americans can more realistically pay as they go;

— Speed up the collection of corporate taxes;

We should also make other simplifications of the tax structure.

ADDITIONAL REVENUES

I hope these measures will be adequate. But if the necessities of Viet Nam require it, I will not hesitate to return to the Congress for additional appropriations and additional revenues.

The second road is justice. Simply defined, justice means a man's hope should not be limited by the color of his skin.

I propose:

— Legislation to establish unavoidable requirements for nondiscriminatory jury selection in federal and state courts — and to give the attorney general the power necessary to enforce those requirements.

★ ★ ★

— Legislation to strengthen authority of federal courts to try those who murder, attack, or intimidate either civil rights workers or others exercising their constitutional rights — and to increase penalties to a level equal to the nature of the crime.

— Legislation, resting on the fullest constitutional authority of the federal government, to prohibit racial discrimination in the sale or rental of housing.

WAR ON POVERTY

For that other nation within a nation — the poor — whose distress has now captured the conscience of America, I will ask the Congress not only to continue, but to speed up the war on poverty.

For those who live on farms and in rural America, we must plan for the future through the establishment of several new community development districts, improved education through the use of Teacher Corps teams, and better health measures, physical examinations, and adequate and available medical resources.

For those who labor, I propose to improve unemployment insurance, to expand minimum wage benefits, and — by the repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act — to make the labor laws in all our states equal to the laws of the 31 states which do not have the right-to-work measures.

And I also intend to ask the Congress to consider measures which without improperly invading state and local authority, will enable us effectively to deal with strikes which threaten irreparable damage to the national interest.

THIRD PATH

The third path is the path of liberation. It is to use our success for the fulfillment of our lives. A great nation is one which breeds a great people. A great people flower not from wealth and power, but from a society which spurs them to the fullness of their genius. That alone is a Great Society.

Yet, slowly, painfully — on the edge of victory — has come the knowledge that shared prosperity is not enough. In the midst of abundance modern man walks oppressed by forces which menace and confine the quality of his life, and which individual abundance alone will not overcome.

We can subdue and master these forces — bring increasing meaning to our lives — if all of us — governments and citizens — are bold enough to change old ways, daring enough to assault new dangers, and if the dream is dear enough to call forth the limitless capacities of this great people.

This year we must continue to improve the quality of American life.

HEALTH, EDUCATION

Let us fulfill and improve the great health and education programs of last year, extending special opportunities to those who risk their lives in our armed forces.

I urge the House of Representatives to complete action on three programs already passed by the Senate — the Teacher Corps, rent assistance, and home rule for the District of Columbia.

In some of our urban areas, we must help rebuild entire sections and neighborhoods containing, in some cases, as many as 100,000 people. Working together, private enterprise and government must press forward with the task of providing homes and shops, parks and hospitals, and all the other necessary parts of a flourishing community were our people can come to live the good life.

I will offer other proposals to stimulate and reward planning for the growth of entire metropolitan areas.

End Pollution

Of all the reckless devastations of our national heritage, none is more shameful than the continued poisoning of our rivers and air.

We must undertake a cooperative effort to end pollution in several entire river basins—making additional federal funds available to help draw the plans and construct the plants necessary to make the waters of entire river systems clean—and a source of pleasure and beauty for our people.

★ ★ ★

To attack and overcome growing crime and lawlessness we must have a stepped-up program to help modernize and strengthen local police forces.

Our people have a right to feel secure in their homes and on their streets. That right must be secured.

HIGHWAY DEATHS

Nor can we fail to arrest the destruction of life and property on our highways.

I will propose the Highway Safety Act of 1966 to seek an end to the destruction on our highways which already kills 135 Americans every day—cripples and injures three million each year—and which threatens to destroy $80 to $90 billion in property over the next 10 years.

We must also act to prevent the deception of the American consumer—requiring all packages to state clearly and truthfully their contents—all interest and credit charges to be fully revealed—and keeping harmful drugs and cosmetics away from our stores.

It is the genius of our Constitution that under its shelter of enduring institutions and rooted principles there is ample room for the rich fertility of American political invention.

MASTER CHANGE

We must change to master change.

I propose we take steps to modernize and streamline the executive branch and to modernize the relations between city, state and nation.

A new department of transportation is needed to bring together our transportation activities. The present structure—35 government agencies, spending $5 billion yearly—makes it impossible to serve either the growing demands of the nation —the needs of the industry—or the right of the taxpayer to full efficiency and frugality.

I will propose a program to construct and flight test a new supersonic transport airplane that will fly three times the speed of sound—in excess of 2,000 miles per hour.

To examine our federal system—the relation between city, state, nation and citizens — we need a commission of the most distinguished scholars and men of public affairs. I will ask them —to move on to develop a creative federalism to best use the wonderful diversity of our institutions and people to solve the problems, fulfill the dreams of the American people.

ELECTION PROCESS

As the process of election becomes more complex and costly, we must make it possible for those without personal wealth to enter public life without being obligated to a few large contributors.

I will submit legislation to revise the present unrealistic restrictions on contributions—to prohibit the endless proliferation of committees, bringing local and state committees under the act — to attach strong teeth and severe penalties to the requirement of full disclosure of contributions—and to broaden the participation of the people, through tax incentives, to stimulate small contributions to the party and candidate of their choice.

To strengthen the work of Congress I strongly urge an amendment to provide a four-year term for members of the House of Representatives—which should not begin before 1972.

The present two-year term requires most members of Congress to divert enormous energies to an almost constant process of campaigning — depriving the nation of the fullest measure of their skill and wisdom.

MORE COMPLEX

Today, too, the work of government is far more complex than in our early years, requiring more time to learn and master the technical tasks of legislation. And a longer term will serve to atiract more men of the highest quality to political life. The nation, the principle of democracy, and each congressional district, will be better served by a four-year term. And I urge your swift action.

Cup of Peril

Tonight the cup of peril is full in Viet Nam.

That conflict is not an isolated episode, but another great event in the policy we have followed with strong consistency since World War II.

★ ★ ★

The touchstone of that policy is the interest of the United States — the welfare and freedom of its people. But nations sink when they see that interest through a narrow glass.

In a world grown small and dangerous, pursuit of narrow aims could bring decay and even disaster.

An America mighty beyond description — yet living in a hostile or despairing world — would be neither safe, nor free to build a civilization to liberate the spirit of man.

DEFENDED BERLIN

In this pursuit we helped rebuild Western Europe — give aid to Greece and Turkey — and defended the freedom of Berlin.

In this pursuit we have helped new nations toward independence, extended the helping hand of the Peace Corps and carried forward the largest program of economic assistance in the world.

In this pursuit we work to build a hemisphere of democracy and social justice.

In this pursuit we have defended against Communist aggression — in Korea under President Truman — in the Formosa Strait under President Eisenhower — in Cuba under President Kennedy — and again in Viet Nam.

WORLD PROBLEMS

Tonight Viet Nam must hold the center of our attention, but across the world problems and opportunities crowd in on the American nation. I will discuss them fully in the months to come, and I will follow the five continuing lines of policy that America has followed under four presidents.

Policy

The first principle is strength.

Tonight we are strong enough to keep all our commitments. We will need expenditures of $58.3 billion for the next fiscal year to maintain this necessary might.

While special Viet Nam expenditures for the next fiscal year are estimated to increase by $5.8 billion, all the other expenditures in the entire federal budget will rise by only $.6 billion. This is true because of the stringent cost-conscious economies inaugurated in the Defense Department and throughout the government.

A second principle of policy is the effort to control, and reduce — and ultimately eliminate modern engines of destruction.

A-ARMS SPREAD

We will vigorously pursue existing proposals — and seek new ones — to control arms — and stop the spread of nuclear weapons.

A third major principle of our foreign policy is to help build those associations of nations which reflect the opportunities and necessities of the modern world.

By strengthening the common defense, by stimulating word commerce, by meeting new hopes, these associations serve the cause of a flourishing world.

We will take new steps this year to help strengthen the Alliance for Progress — the unity of Europe — the community of the Atlantic — the regional organizations of developing continents, and the supreme association — the United Nations.

★ ★ ★

We will work to strengthen our economic cooperation — to reduce barriers to trade — and to improve international finance.

Life of Man

A fourth enduring strand of policy has been to help improve the life of man.

From the Marshall Plan, to this moment; that policy has rested on the claims of compassion—and the certain knowledge that only a people advancing in expectation will build secure and peaceful lands.

This year I propose major new directions in our program of foreign assistance to help those countries who help themselves.

We will:

—Conduct a worldwide attack on the problems of hunger, disease, and ignorance.

MAXIMUM SKILL

—Place the maximum skill and resources of America—in farming and in fertilizers—at the service of those countries committed to developing a modern agriculture.

—And those who educate the young in other lands, and give children in other continents the same head start we are trying to give our own. To advance these ends I will propose the International Education Act of 1966.

I will also propose the International Health Act of 1966:

—To strike at disease by a new effort to bring modern skills and knowledge to the uncared-for suffering of the world —and by wiping out smallpox, malaria, and controlling yellow fever over most of the world in this decade.

POPULATION GROWTH

—To help countries trying to control population growth, by increasing our research — and by earmarking funds to help their efforts.

★ ★ ★

—In the next year we propose to dedicate $1 billion to these efforts — and we call on all who have the means to join this work.

Insistent Urge

The fifth, and most important principle of our foreign policy is support of national independence — the right of each people to govern themselves — and shape their own institutions.

For a peaceful world order will be possible only when each country walks the way it has chosen for itself.

★ ★ ★

We follow this principle by encouraging the end of colonial rule.

We follow this principle, abroad as well as at home, by continued hostility to the rule of the many by the few — or the oppression of one race by another.

BUILDING BRIDGES

We follow this principle by building bridges to Eastern Europe. I will ask the Congress for authority to remove the special tariff restrictions which are a barrier to increasing trade between East and West.

The insistent urge toward national independence is the strongest force of today's world.

★ ★ ★

In Africa and Asia and Latin America it is shattering the designs of those who would subdue others to their ideas or will.

It is eroding the unity of what was once a Stalinist empire.

MAINLAND CHINA

In recent months a number of nations have cast out those who would subject them to the ambitions of mainland China.

History is on the side of freedom. It is on the side of societies shaped from the genius of each people. History does not favor a single system or belief—unless force is used to make it so.

★ ★ ★

That is why it has been necessary for us to defend this basic principle of our policy—in Berlin, in Korea, in Cuba—and now in Viet Nam.

Distant Land

For tonight, as so many nights before, young Americans struggle and die in a distant land.

Tonight, as so many nights before, the American nation is asked to sacrifice the blood of its children and the fruits of its labor for the love of freedom.

★ ★ ★

How many times — in my lifetime and in yours, have the American people gathered — as they do now — to hear their president tell them of conflict and danger.

Each time they have answered with all the effort that the security and the freedom of the nation required.

They do again in Viet Nam.

PEACEFUL VIET NAM

Not too many years ago Viet Nam was a peaceful, if troubled land. In the north was an independent Communist government. In the south a people struggled to build a nation, with the friendly help of the United States.

There were some in South Viet Nam who wished to force Communist rule on their own people. But their progress was slight. Their hope of success was dim. Then, little more than six years ago North Viet Nam decided on conquest. From that day to this, soldiers and supplies have moved from north to south in a swelling stream — swallowing the remnants of revolution in aggression.

★ ★ ★

As the assault mounted, our choice gradually became clear. We could leave, abandoning South Viet Nam to its attackers and to certain conquest — or we could stay and fight beside the people of South Viet Nam.

We stayed.

And we will stay until aggression has stopped.

SOLEMN PLEDGE

We will stay because a just nation cannot leave to the cruelties of its enemies a people who have staked their lives and independence on our solemn pledge — a pledge which has grown through the commitments of three American presidents.

We will stay because in Asia — and around the world — are countries whose course of independence rests, in large measure, on confidence in American protection. To yield to force in Viet Nam would weaken that confidence, undermine the independence of many lands, and whet the appetite of the aggressor. We would have to fight in one land, and then another — or abandon much of Asia to the domination of Communists.

★ ★ ★

And we do not intend to abandon Asia to conquest.

Nature of War

Last year the nature of the war in Viet Nam changed again. Swiftly increasing numbers of armed men from the North crossed the border to join forces already in the South. Attack and terror increased, spurred and encouraged by the belief the United States lacked the will to continue and that victory was near.

★ ★ ★

Despite our desire to limit conflict, it was necessary to act: to hold back the mounting aggression — to give courage to the people of the South — and to make our firmness clear to the North. Thus we began limited air action against military targets in North Viet Nam — and increased our fighting force to its present strength of 190,000 men.

These moves have not ended the aggression but they have prevented its success. The armies of the enemy have been put out of reach by the skill and bravery of Americans and their allies — and by the enduring courage of the South Vietnamese who have lost eight men last year for every one of ours.

CLOSE TO VICTORY

The enemy is no longer close to victory. Time is no longer on his side. There is no cause to doubt the American commitment.

Our decision to stand firm has been matched by our desire for peace.

Search for Peace

In 1965 we had 300 private talks for peace in Viet Nam with friends and adversaries, throughout the world.

Since Christmas your government has labored again — with imagination and endurance — to remove any barrier to peaceful settlement. For 20 days now we and our Vietnamese allies have dropped no bombs in North Viet Nam.

Able and experienced spokesmen have visited 40 countries. We have talked to more than 100 governments. We have informed the United Nations, and called upon its members to help toward peace.

In public statements and private communications, to adversaries and to friends, in Rome and Warsaw, in Paris and Tokyo, in Africa and throughout this hemisphere — we have made our position clear.

SEEK NO TERRITORY

We seek neither territory nor bases, economic domination or military alliance in Viet Nam. We fight for the principle of self-determination — that the people of South Viet Nam should be able to choose their own course, in free elections, without violence, terror and fear. We believe the people of all Viet Nam should make a free decision on the great question of reunification.

★ ★ ★

This is all we want for South Viet Nam. It is all the people of South Viet Nam want. And if there is a single nation on this earth that desires less than this for its people, let its voice be heard.

No Limits

We have also made it clear—from Hanoi to New York—there are no arbitrary limits to our search for peace. We stand by the Geneva agreements of 1954 and 1962. We will meet at any conference table, discuss any proposals—four points or 14 or 40—and consider the views of any group. We will work for a cease-fire now or once discussions have begun. We will respond if others reduce their use of force; and we will withdraw our soldiers once South Viet Nam is securely guaranteed the right to shape its own future.

We have said all this, and we have asked—and hoped—and waited for a response.

So far we have received no response to prove either success or failure.

We have carried our quest for peace to many nations and peoples because we share this planet with others whose future, in large measure, is tied to our action, and whose counsel is necessary to our own hopes.

We have found understanding and support. And we know they wait with us tonight for a response that can lead to peace.

Days Ahead

I wish tonight I could give you a blueprint for the course of this conflict over the coming months, but we cannot know what the future may require. We may have to face long, hard combat or a long, hard conference, or even both at once.

Until peace comes, or if it does not come, our course is clear. We will act as we must to help protect the independence of the valiant people of South Viet Nam. We will strive to limit conflict, for we wish neither increased destruction nor increased danger.

But we will give our fighting men what they must have: every gun, every dollar, and every decision—whatever the cost and whatever the challenge.

And we will continue to help the people of South Viet Nam care for those ravaged by battle, create progress in the villages, and carry forward the healing hopes of peace as best they can amidst the uncertain terrors of war.

WE WILL STAY

Let me be absolutely clear: the days may become months, and the months may become years, but we will stay as long as aggression commands to battle.

There may be some who do not want peace—whose ambitions stretch so far that war in Viet Nam is but a welcome and convenient episode in an immense design to subdue history to their will. But for others it must now be clear the choice is not between peace and victory. It lies between peace and the ravages of a conflict from which they can only lose.

The people of Viet Nam, North and South, seek the same things: the shared needs of man, the needs for food and shelter and education—the chance to build and work and till the soil free from the arbitrary horrors of battle—and the desire to walk in the dignity of those who master their own destiny. For many painful years, in war and revolution and infrequent peace, they have struggled to fulfill those needs.

It is a crime against mankind that so much courage, and so much will, and so many dreams, must be flung on the fires of war and death.

CHOOSE PEACE

To all those caught up in this conflict, we therefore say again: let us choose peace, and with it the wondrous works of peace, and beyond that, the time when hope reaches unchained toward consummation, and life is the servant of life.

In this work, we will discharge our duty to the people whom we serve.

State of Union

This is the State of the Union.

But over it all—wealth, promise, and expectation—lies our troubling awareness of American men at war.

How many men who listen to me tonight have served their nation in other wars. How many, how very many, are not here to listen.

The war in Viet Nam is not like these other wars. Yet, finally, war is always the same. It is young men dying in the fullness of their promise. It is trying to kill a man you do not even know well enough to hate.

SADNESS IN WORLD

Therefore, to know war is to know there is still madness in the world.

Many of you share the burden of this knowledge with me. But there is a difference. For finally I must order our guns to fire, against all the most inward pulls of my desire. For we have children to teach and sick to be cured and men to be freed. There are poor to be lifted up and cities to be built and a world to be helped.

★ ★ ★

Yet we do what we must.

I am hopeful, and I will try, to end this battle and return our sons to their desires.

Yet as long as others will challenge our security and test the dearness of our beliefs with fire and steel, then we must stand or see the promise of two centuries tremble. I believe you do not want me to try that risk. And from that belief your President summons his strength for the trials ahead.

The work must be our work now. Scarred by the weaknesses of man, with whatever guidance God may offer us, we must nevertheless and alone with our mortality, strive to ennoble the life of man on earth.

Romney Withdraws General's Nomination

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney today withdrew his nomination of Maj. Gen. Clarence Schnipke as state director of military affairs, heading off the first potential battle of the 1966 legislative session.

Senate Democrats asked for the withdrawal because they believe Schnipke should not be confirmed as long as Maj. Gen. Ronald McDonald is continuing his legal fight to stay on as adjutant general.

Trading Crowds Ticker

Stock Mart Plunges Forward

NEW YORK (AP) — Aerospace defense issues paced the stock market to a ragged but powerful advance early this afternoon.

Trading was very heavy and the ticker tape ran late.

★ ★ ★

Boeing and Douglas Aircraft advanced on reports their designs for giant jet airliners will be considered by buyers when this "new era" in aviation opens.

Airlines also rose solidly. Rails and electronics advanced.

MIXED PATTERN

The pattern was mixed among steels, motors, oils, chemicals and utilities.

It was another abbreviated session, with the market closing at 2 p.m. EST — instead of the usual 3:30 p.m. even though a settlement has been announced in the New York City Transit strike.

★ ★ ★

President Johnson's State of the Union address apparently contained no unpleasant surprises and many traders who sold as a precaution in advance of the speech were back in the market.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.2 at 366.9 with industrials up 1.4, rails up 1.5 and utilities unchanged.

Prices were higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Old Town added more than 4 points to its 10-point leap of yesterday. Up about 3 were Highway Trailer and Molybdenum. Syntex added about 4, Williams Brothers 2, Elco and National Video about 1½ each. Gains of a point or so were made by Acme Missiles, Slick Corp., TWA warrants, Aerojet-General, Brown Co. and Fresnillo. Harnischfeger was off about 1.

★ ★ ★

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds declined.

Gets Probation in Assault Case

A 45-year-old Waterford Township man was placed on six months probation at his examination yesterday for assaulting a Pontiac Township resident Nov. 2.

Prior to sentencing, Township Justice Patrick Daly reduced the charge against Carl Model of 3102 Watkins Lake from felonious assault to assault and battery.

Model was ordered to pay $200 medical expenses for injuries received by Vern Acha, 2119 Windy Hill, in the scuffle, plus $40 in court and probationary costs.

Model was charged with threatening Acha with a pistol at Beardslee Truck Sales, 3088 M59.

★ ★ ★

Acha reportedly was also struck with a steel bar and required hospitalization.

12 U.S. Airmen Injured Fighting Fire in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The Fifth Air Force said today 12 U.S. Air Force personnel were injured, one seriously, in fighting a fire at Misawa City, northern Japan.

★ ★ ★

The blaze Tuesday destroyed 380 homes and left 2,500 people homeless. The fire, fanned by gale force winds, approached within 200 yards of the main gate to Nisawa Air Force Base.

Test Plane Hits Triplesonic Speed

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The No. 2 XB70A forerunner of supersonic airliners, flew for four minutes at three times the speed of sound yesterday during a 108-minute test.

During the successful test, the plane flew at twice the speed of sound for 63 minutes during the flight, aimed at determining handling characteristics under such intensive speed stress.

The test also was to study the effect of heat friction in the plane's wing and fuselage surfaces. Heat reached 554 degrees fahrenheit at the maximum speed of 2,000 miles per hour.

Triplesonic speed was achieved at an altitude of 70,000 feet.

Ambitious Employes

CODY, Wyo. (AP) — Junior high school officials here asked the parking spaces in the faculty city to paint yellow stripes for parking lot.

A crew moved in and painted the stripes. Next day, another gang of city employes resealed the asphalt-covered parking lot and covered up the newly painted lines.

Barbara: Bring Back the Jewels

CUERNAVACA, Mexico (AP) — "To hell with the money, I want my husband's jewels back" Barbara Hutton said today.

The thieves who entered the palatial Cuernavaca home of the Woolworth millionairess last week also took about $15,000 in cash and about $5,000 in traveler's checks. Miss Hutton offered a $10,000 reward for the jewels, which belonged to her seventh husband, Laotian Prince Doan Tiane de Champassak.

★ ★ ★

"I really don't expect the local police to recover them," she said in an interview. "They've been working on the case for a week now and there has been no progress. I don't think they will solve the case."

The prince said the jewels were rare and could not be replaced. He said their value was impossible to assess.

LOT OF RISKS

The thieves "took a lot of risks" in eluding three armed guards and made a lot of noise when they broke into the luxurious Japanese-style home, the prince said. The guard has since been doubled, he added.

The money and jewels were taken from the prince's bedroom. The only person who saw the robbers was Colin Frazer of Perth, Australia, an old friend of Miss Hutton who was visiting in the house.

Frazer said there were three men—"two wore sombreros, one had no hat."

He said he got up to investigate a noise and found the men taking about a dozen bottles of liquor from a bar. One shone a light in his face, he said.

NUMEROUS SERVANTS

Miss Hutton and the prince said they did not think one of their staff was responsible. They have scores of servants, including about 20 gardeners.

The prince said there was some truth in the rumor that Miss Hutton planned to sell the house but added not because of the robbery.

He said because of his wife's health, "it is inadvisable for her to travel such long distances between her properties in France, Morocco and Mexico."

The house is about 10 miles from Cuernavaca, in the village of Jiutpec. Miss Hutton married the prince there in 1964 and spends about three months a year there.

Ambush Mauls S. Viet Force

Battalion Attacked Near Joint Operation

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A large guerrilla force ambushed and badly mauled a South Vietnamese battalion and its American advisers at daybreak today within artillery range of the big U.S.-Australian Operation Crimp.

The ambush came as the South Vietnamese government prepared to join the Viet Cong in a truce for the Vietnamese lunar year celebration next week. The official news agency Viet Nam Press said South Vietnamese troops would stop fighting for three days in observance of Tet, the national holiday, which falls on Jan. 20-23.

A U.S. spokesman said the American command "will conform to the posture of the (South Vietnamese) government." It was thought that American officials might urge Premier Nguyen Cao Ky to extend the three day cease-fire at least to the four days proclaimed by the Communists two weeks ago

In the war, about 500 guerrillas ambushed a South Vietnamese battalion of about the same size clearing Main Route 1 between Trang Bang and Cu-Chi, 18 miles northwest of Saigon.

Government troops took moderate casualties but there was a heavy toll among the American advisers with them, a spokesman said.

Not far away, more than 8,000 U.S. and Australian troops in Operation Crimp engaged the Communists in several small but intense fights that raised the reported toll in the six-day push to 131 Communists killed, 80 captured and a mountain of supplies uncovered.

Buttons Says Greed a Factor in Return

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Red Buttons explained why he returns tonight to weekly television after a decade's lapse:

THOMAS

"Number one, I was being evicted from my house.

"Number two, greed."

Buttons was joking, I think. He seems neither penniless nor greedy. He appears to be as properous and well - adjusted a comedian as you can find. That has not always been true.

As Aaron Chwatt, he grew up in poverty on New York's East Side. He is at a loss how to interpret this to the child he and his wife are expecting next month: "How can my son or daughter understand that my family shared a toilet with four other families on the same floor — when they are living in Bel Air?"

As Red Buttons, he gagged his way through burlesque, night clubs and theaters until he became one of television's early comedy stars with the Red Buttons Show. It faded after two years. He later admitted part of the cause was his overanxiety.

TREATED KINDLY

The following years treated him kindly. He won a supporting actor Oscar for his first dramatic role, in "Sayonara." He remains in demand as a character actor, television guest star and nightclub performer.

Tonight he debuts on ABC in "The Double Life of Henry Phyfe." It is a half-hour comedy in color, with Red portraying a bookkeeper who is enlisted for espionage because of his resemblance to an enemy agent.

Series that start in midwinter seldom survive to shine another season. But this doesn't worry Buttons.

"I don't think the January start is a factor," said he. "The way this season has gone, any entertaining show could come in and pick up the marbles.

HONEST SHOT

"If my show does it — fine. If not, I don't know of any excuses. We're giving it a good, honest shot, and I won't be able to cop a plea if we bomb out."

He honestly believes he has a chance. He is tossing into the character all the tricks he has learned in 25 years as a comedian, and he is abetted by the masterful Fred Clark.

This time Red is playing it cool.

"Doing a show is like a pinball game," he philosophized. "You hit the ball and you give it a little body-English as it lights up with pins. That's all you can do. If you strive for perfection, you get a tilt. Believe me, I know.

GREAT CLOWN

"You take Red Skelton, one of our great clowns. If he insisted on perfection, he would have been off the air years ago. He just goes out and does the best he can, and people like that."

In conclusion, Buttons outlined what he said were the real reasons he accepted the series after dclining 50 others: "1. I liked the concept for the show; 2. I didn't have to make a pilot film; 3. I was being evicted; 4. greed."

U-M Branch in New Budget

Provisions Allowed for 2nd Flint Class

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney told the State Board of Education Wednesday his new budget would include provisions for a second freshman class at the Flint Branch of the University of Michigan.

But he said the school should be separated from U-M by 1971 or the earliest possible date after that, and eventually moved away from Flint Community College.

★ ★ ★

Romney made his announcement after board members said they have not been able to reach agreement with the U-M Regents and Flint citizens about the future of the branch.

★ ★ ★

"I'm disappointed we don't have an agreement," Romney said, "but I'm still optimistic."

APRON STRINGS

The board has insisted the Flint branch eventually cut its apron strings from the university and stand as an independent four-year college.

When and just how this should happen has been a matter of contention between the Education Board on one side and the U-M Regents and the people of Flint on the other.

The addition of another freshman class this fall would, in effect, make the branch a four-year college.

The branch originally accepted students only for the junior and senior years. A class of freshmen entered last fall and it was agreed these students should continue through graduation.

'GREAT EFFORT'

Thomas Brennan of Dearborn, Education Board president, said there has been "a great effort to a common understanding on the matter" in a series of meetings dating back to April.

★ ★ ★

At one point, Brennan said, he thought the matter was resolved after Flint philanthropist C. S. Mott and others apparently agreed to a five-point program charting the future of the branch.

★ ★ ★

"The people there don't want to agree to a specific date to separate the branch from the university," Brennan said.

"They think the people of Flint should determine this. But we are in no position to give them the authority that belongs to the board."

Tourists Head for Antarctica

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of more than 50 tourists is en route to the icy wastes of Antarctica, led by Capt. Finn Ronne, a polar explorer.

Included in the group of mostly women is Bessie Cleveland Sweeney, 83, of Washington. Only a few women have ever set foot on Antarctica.

The tourists flew to Buenos Aires Tuesday to join other tourists and a group of scientists who will sail to the frozen continent aboard an Argentine navy research ship.

4 U. S. 'Party' Movies Are Banned in Burma

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Burma's film censor board has banned four American films from showing within the country, the Working People's Daily says.

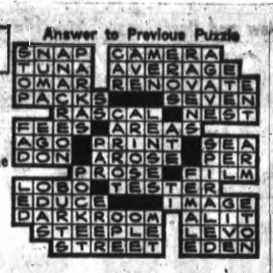

The board said the four American films — "Beach Blanket Bingo," "Ski Party," "Pajama Party," and "Muscle Beach Party," portray American teenagers dancing and frolicking making an exhibition unfit for the Burmese people.

Safety Glasses for '21' After Lazar-Preminger Go?

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The best crack we heard about Irving (Swifty) Lazar cutting Otto Preminger's scalp 50 stitches worth with a highball glass at the 21 Club came from a prominent but anonymous newspaper executive who said, "That'll teach the 21 Club it should use plastic glasses."

WILSON

A lawyer predicted that the feud would wind up with Preminger and Lazar having dinner together "just as they have for 30 years . . ."

But that was considered doubtful by some who remember a classic anecdote about Preminger.

Once some Hollywoodian said to Preminger, "You should take so-and-so to dinner some night."

"To dinner!" Preminger allegedly retorted. "He's not a dinner date—he's only a lunch date."

But after the Lazar battle, they figured Lazar would in Preminger's book, be barely a breakfast date.

LBJ Outlines Big Load for Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has outlined a massive work load for the new Congress under a record $112.8-billion budget and has assured Capitol Hill that U.S. fighting men will stay in Viet Nam as long as Communist aggression continues.

★ ★ ★

Democrats and Republicans alike applauded the determination he expressed last night in his State of the Union message to press for peace although "we have received no response to prove either success or failure" on the current American peace offensive.

While Democrats applauded his declaration that he would not permit the war to sidetrack his "Great Society" programs, Republicans attacked many of his domestic program proposals and his assertion that the budget deficit for the next fiscal year would be held to $1.8 billion.

On the domestic front, the President's sweeping proposals ranged from plans to combat crime in the streets to establishment of a Cabinet-level department of transportation.

He asked for laws to guarantee equality for Negroes in the courts and in housing and a constitutional amendment which would extend the two-year terms of House members to four years.

ASKED FOR MONEY

He asked for money to push ahead on the health and education programs enacted last year, and to expand the antipoverty program.

He called for the complete rebuilding of entire central and slum areas of several cities and an attack on the polluting of the nation's rivers.

He said he would propose legislation aimed at cutting down on traffic slaughter.

On the foreign front, he asked for "a new and daring direction to our foreign aid program" with help to nations trying to control population growth.

EXPANDED TRADE

He said he wanted expanded trade with the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe.

On "pocketbook issues," he asked that the newly lifted excise taxes be slapped back onto cars and phone calls.

He also asked bigger withholdings from pay checks and a speedup in corporate tax collections. The latter two steps would not mean increases in tax rates.

★ ★ ★

But the President said he would not hesitate to ask Congress for additional taxes "if the necessities of Viet Nam require it."

QUICK REACTION

Reaction came quickly:

Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen said appropriations committees will take apart Johnson's domestic money proposals.

"Overly optimistic," said House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Johnson's prediction revenues would soar to $111 billion.

★ ★ ★

Some Democrats agreed. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., ordinarily a staunch administration supporter, questioned whether defense spending could be held to Johnson's estimate of $58.3 billion.

ON BOTH SIDES

There was criticism from both parties—especially among members of the Senate Finance Committee—for Johnson's proposal that excise taxes on automobiles and telephone calls—reduced Jan. 1—be restored to meet increased military spending.

"Personally I would rather raise taxes on liquor and tobacco than make the changes the President suggests," said Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the new finance committee chairman.

"I am opposed" to rescinding the phone tax cut, said Sen. Frank Carlson, R-Kan., senior GOP member of the committee.

★ ★ ★

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said, "The President's courageous and sensible call for increased revenues to meet the sharp step-up in defense is in the best tradition of responsible government."

NO GENERAL BOOST

Johnson also proposed stepped-up corporate tax collections and revisions in withholding of income taxes but urged no general tax boost.

He said: "If the necessities of Viet Nam require it, I will not hesitate to return to the Congress for additional appropriations and additional revenues."

Johnson devoted about one-third of his 52-minute speech to Viet Nam.

After restating U.S. determination to remain there until aggression is halted, he mentioned the 21-day pause in bombing of North Viet Nam and said the government has been working "with imagination and

NATION LISTENS — President Johnson outlines his foreign and domestic policy in last night's State of the Union message. In the background is House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass.

Gov. Romney's 'State of State' Wide-Ranging

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Romney proposed action ranging from water pollution control to better marriage laws today in a broadside State of the State message that paralleled many announced Democratic goals.

The Republican governor said a budget "well in excess of $900 million" including "improvements in many areas" could be met without new taxes.

He promised not to spend the entire state surplus in the coming fiscal year.

Romney told a joint session of legislature that "the job which occupied us in the first half of this decade—overcoming deficiencies in state services and the structure of state government—is well advanced

"But great as this progress has been, it is not enough.

"Our state progress, to be adequate, must be total Michigan progress."

Such progress, he said, requires stimulated individual and private effort, stronger local government, better and broader state activities and full utilization of federal programs.

From there, his nearly 4,000-word text went on to pinpoint a full range of areas for action or concern.

Many had been cited last week by House Speaker Joseph Kowalski and Senate Majority Leader Raymond Dzendzel in a statement of goals for the Democratic - controlled legislature which seemed at least partly designed to beat Romney to the punch.

Jobs, Housing Prime Topics

Get Biggest Play in Governor's Message

LANSING (AP)—Jobs, training and housing—at the core of urban problems—won the most extended mention of any specific topic in Gov. Romney's State of the State speech today.

"When available jobs cannot be filled with unemployed Michigan residents who want work, something is wrong with our basic educational training or apprenticeship programs," Romney declared.

Basic to a solution of slum problems, he said, are "a new sense of purpose and equal access to education, jobs and housing.

His specific proposals included:

- Increased job training and opportunities for persons on aid to dependent children; cost-of-living increase and incentives for ADC children to work and stay in school.
- Improvement in training and apprenticeship programs.
- Job training and retraining to secure mental health, corrections and social service personnel for the state.
- A $200,000 appropriation to gain $2 million in federal funds for city job-training programs during the first six months of 1966.
- Increased appropriations to the Civil Rights Commission to help break down housing discrimination.

'FARE' DAYS RETURN — The first bus takes on the first passenger from the 9th Avenue, 54th Street garage, after the New York transit strike came to a close this morning.

Buses, Subways Are Rolling as NY Transit Strike Ends

NEW YORK (AP) — This city's multimillion-dollar subway and bus strike ended shortly before dawn today, minutes after entering its 13th day.

But full restoration of service remained hours away and 3.5 million New York workers still had to overcome the problem of getting to and from work. The mounumental traffic crush built up even as the strike's end became known.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, in a broadcast report of the settlement, said all the city Transit Authority's 6,500 subway cars and 4,000 buses could not be expected back in use "until late tonight or early Friday."

The striking AFL-CIO unions — the Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union — agreed to mediators' settlement terms shortly before 6:30 a.m.

By 8 a.m., the first segment of the 237-mile-long subway system was carrying its first paying passenger since New Year's Day — on the shuttle train between Grand Central Station and Times Square. Half an hour later the Transit Authority announced that 3,200 buses were in operation.

Although describing it as "fruitless to get into the numbers game," Lindsay evaluated the new two-year labor contract for 34,400 workers at $52 million. But a TWU lawyer said it "is for $69,980,000 to the penny."

The breaddown in wage boosts and other money items was not immediately available.

The workers went back to their jobs pending union ratification of the contract.

Lindsay placed the strike cost at more than $500 million, including $200 million wages lost.

ECONOMIC IMPACT

The Commerce and Industry Association, however, has evaluated the economic impact at more than $100 million a day.

Lindsay said he didn't know exactly where the money would be found to finance the agreement.

He expressed the hope of maintaining the 15-cent fare.

Although independently incorporated and supposedly self-sustaining, the Transit Authority for several years has had to turn to the city to make up multimillion-dollar deficits.

The mayor said that bills will be introduced soon in the legislature to create a new Transit Authority, the first step in his plan to consolidate transportation and related services into a new department.

In late morning, Supreme Court Justice Abraham N. Geller signed an order freeing the TWU president, Michael J. Quill, and eight other labor leaders from jail sentences he imposed for contempt.

He also dismissed a proceeding which sought $324,000 a day union fines for ignoring an injunction forbidding the strike.

Trial Evidence Is Ruled Out

Judge Bars Teen's Alleged Statement

The prosecution in the murder trial of a Waterford Township teen-ager suffered a setback yesterday when a verbal statement allegedly made by the youth was ruled inadmissible as evidence.

★ ★ ★

Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn said that, based on recent Supreme Court decisions, he would not permit the statement to be introduced because the defendant, Alan Ross Pearson Jr., 17, had not been advised of his constitutional rights before making it.

The alleged statement was made to State Police Trooper Robert H. Mueller of the Pontiac Post shortly after the June 27 stabbing of Jeffrey Talbot, 17, of 2045 Watkins Lake, Waterford Township.

Pearson is standing trial on a first-degree murder charge in the death of Talbot.

Mueller had quoted Pearson as saying "There's no use kidding you, I went over to kill him." Pearson later denied making the statement.

Pontiac Division Tops Sales Mark for 10-Day Period

Picking up the record sales pace of a year ago, Pontiac Motor Division today announced that its sales in the first 10 days of January were at an all-time high.

General Sales Manager E. R. Pettengill said a record total of 22,223 Pontiacs and Tempests were sold in the Jan. 1-10 period, topping by 31 per cent the previous high of 16,911 set a year ago.

In revealing the new record, Pettengill stated that the 1 per cent reduction in the federal excise tax which went into effect Jan. 1 "has helped us to start the new year off on the right track."

Hints at Reduction of Hostilities in Viet

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Buried deep in President Johnson's State of the Union message is a 10-word proposal to North Viet Nam to start scaling down the war in Southeast Asia without negotiations or even an agreed cease-fire.

"We will respond," he said, playing it in low-key, "if others reduce their use of force."

Some of the President's closest advisers think that is, in fact, the way the war may begin to end — not with a great conference or a formal truce but with a slow dwindling of hostilities.

In his address to Congress last night, the President for the first time put the full weight of his own authority behind this alternative with a flat commitment to begin de-escalating the conflict if and when the Communists are ready.

In recent days dispatches from Viet Nam have indicated some decline in Viet Cong offensive activity.

PARALLEL ACTIONS

It could have been, however, a factor in Johnson's decision to declare at this time his readiness to reduce the fighting through parallel actions by both sides.

Area Snowfall Slows Traffic

AFL-CIO Hits Local Public Housing Law

The Oakland County AFL-CIO Council last night unanimously adopted a resolution calling for the repeal of a city ordinance which prohibits further federal public housing in Pontiac.

The ordinance, adopted in April 1955, was also recently opposed by civil rights groups here.

According to local and international union officials, the ordinance is "unrealistic, head-in-the-sand thinking which has caused a shortage of safe and sanitary dwellings within Pontiac."

Ken Morris, codirector of the UAW's Region 1, said today the International UAW "unhesitatingly throws its support behind the Oakland County AFL-CIO in urging a complete turnabout in the City of Pontiac's urban renewal thinking."

★ ★ ★

It was reported last night that the UAW is considering forming a corporation to build housing units, if the city does not take immediate action in repealing the ordinance.

Snowfall Staggers Midwest

By the Associated Press

The snow piled up to more than 11 inches in Milwaukee and 8 inches in Rockford, Ill. Wednesday night.

The storm, which packed snow, sleet, freezing rain and strong winds, halted air traffic at Gen. Mitchell Field in Milwaukee and incoming planes were rerouted to Chicago.

Wind gusting up to 35 miles per hour piled the snow into 3-foot drifts. Schools were closed in southeastern Wisconsin Wednesday and thousands of workers were sent home early.

2-FOOT DRIFTS

The mercury was at zero in southern Wisconsin and 10 below in the north.

The storm zeroed in on Chicago with the city's worst storm of the winter. Four inches accumulated at O'Hare International Airport, but air traffic continued.

About 11½ inches fell at Buffalo Grove, about 25 miles northwest of Chicago.

POWER LINES

Woman Foils Knife Attack

Donna Bingham, 31, of 183 Edith told Pontiac police a knife-wielding teen-ager wearing a dark leather jacket and wool hat pulled over his eyes grabbed her from behind and attempted to steal her purse as she walked on East Pike Street.

"I'm going to stab you with this knife," the youth threatened.

"It'll be the last time you stab anyone," Miss Bingham replied.

With that she wrenched free of her assailant and chased him down South Jessie Street before he disappeared.

A second youth, who police said was waiting nearby, also fled when his companion started running.

LEAGUE COUNSELORS — Some of the members of the Urban League counseling team are (from left) Mrs. Ronald Covalt, 125 W. Johnson; Mrs. Otis Ferguson, 431 Lynch; Diane McCall, 281 South Blvd. W. and Clarence Kibby, 312 Howard McNeill. Currently more than 200 local high school seniors are benefiting from the program. There are nine counselors in all.

National Guard Unit Inspected

Pontiac's reorganized National Guard unit—now designated as airborne—underwent its first general inspection last night at the Pontiac Armory on Water Street.

Now called Co. B, 1st Batt. (ABN), 225th Inf., the 147-man unit was inspected by Lt. Col. Royce K. Lain, Inspector General's Staff, 5th Army.

Capt. David W. MacGillis, commanding officer of the local unit, described the new airborne status of the company as part of an "accelerated training program" affecting selected guard units throughout the country.

"It is generally felt that this is the last formal inspection of the unit prior to mobilization," MacGillis said.

He said the training speedup is "designed to provide the best possible trained force . . . in the shortest possible time."

It was the guard unit's first major function at the armory since an order by MacGillis closed the building because of "structural deficiencies" a month ago.

Funds for repair of weaknesses in the armory floor are awaiting official approval of the State Military Board in Lansing.

Civilian rentals of the building — including Grand Ole Opry, boxing and wrestling and other entertainment—have been ruled out by MacGillis until the floor is repaired.

200 Seniors Being Counseled

Urban League Program Hailed

A Pontiac Urban League program designed to supplement student counseling at Pontiac high schools has become one of the most successful ever sponsored by the organization, league officials said today.

From a slow start in October, the league program now reaches more than 200 seniors, according to Elvin Ryan, league director of Job Development and Youth Incentive, who heads the program.

Initial success has prompted league plans to expand the program to include juniors in the 1966-67 school year.

Currently, there is about one school counselor for every 350 students, according to Ryan.

★ ★ ★

SEVEN SCHOOLS

Involved are seven elementary school areas: Franklin, Whittier, Bethune, Bagley, Crofoot, Wilson and McConnell.

The seniors meet with counseling aides at five sites: Jefferson, Bethune and McConnell schools; the Hayes Jones Community Center and Messiah Missionary Church.

Each counselor serves without pay and has between 18 and 30 students.

WEEKLY EVENT

Mrs. Swan and Mrs. Covalt conduct individual training sessions at Urban League headquarters two to three hours each week.

The meetings are for those students aggressive enough to ask for extra help in the program.

High school administrators are working closely with the league in steering students to appropriate counseling sessions where the student appears weak in his planning for the future.

★ ★ ★

Subjects discussed are vocational selection, dos and don'ts in obtaining a job, college financing, college and job applications and interviews and apprenticeship programs.

COMMUNITY ROLE

Several community and business leaders have already taken part in the program, appearing before groups and aiding in the counseling.

Scheduled to appear at meetings in the next five months are Harold Keith, personnel director of Pontiac State Bank; James Dyer of the personnel division at Pontiac Motor Division; and William LaRock, director of the Social Security Administration's Pontiac office.

Grant OK'd for Language Arts Program

A federal grant of $395,790 to Pontiac Schools for expansion of the system's language arts program was announced at last night's board of education meeting.

About one-third of the total grant provides for hiring of additional personnel and the balance is for purchase of equipment.

School officials said that plans are already under way to implement the expanded program Jan. 31, the start of the new semester.

It will involve hiring 23 new instructional persons at both the elementary and secondary level, including 15 reading specialists.

★ ★ ★

Besides the varied instructional supplies needed for the program, two additional school buses will be acquired with the federal funds.

COST CITED

The grant, aimed mainly at overcoming reading and spelling deficiencies, will be disbursed through the Michigan Department of Education.

★ ★ ★

The board last night decided not to apply for another federal grant for library improvement because the per-day cost in lost personnel services to prepare the application was estimated at $4,206. The grant itself would only total $15,600.

Knifed in Bar, Youth Dies

A 20-year-old Pontiac youth was stabbed to death last night after a "scuffle" in a tavern on the city's near east side.

Pontiac police identified the victim as Jessie Anderson of 168 Crestwood, who was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital just after midnight.

Anderson had been cut several times around the face and neck and had deeper wounds in the shoulder and chest, police said.

The slaying occurred at Harry's Bar, 568 S. Sanford, when, according to bystanders, Anderson began arguing with another patron.

★ ★ ★

One witness told police he turned around from the bar after hearing a brief "scuffle" and saw Anderson on the floor.

Police said none of the bar's patrons were able to identify the victim's assailant, who fled the scene on foot.

Pearson allegedly made the statement after he and a companion, Robert Green, 17, 1512 Eason, Watreford Township, turned themselves over to police about 45 minutes after the stabbing.

The statement was made public at Pearson's preliminary court examination last July.

Pearson denied making the statement when Mueller asked him why he had not included it in a handwritten statement about the incident.

PLAN EVIDENCE

The written, confession was expected to be introduced to the jury today, the third day of the trial.

Yesterday, while the legal question of the admissibility of the verbal statement was being decided by Judge Thorburn the jury was out of the courtroom and unaware of the nature of the proceedings.

Green testified yesterday afternoon that after he and Pearson stopped their car in front of the Talbot home, Pearson was dragged out of the auto by Talbot's father, Dr. Frank G. Talbot, 43, an industrial physician.

★ ★ ★

His testimony was in direct conflict of that of Dr. Talbot, who, under cross-examination by defense attorney Clarence Smith, empatically denied that he pulled Pearson out of the car.

Smith claims that Pearson was provoked and was only acting in self-defense.

The fatal fight occurred a door away from the Talbot home about 9:30 p.m.

Testimony has revealed that there were hard feelings between Pearson and young Talbot over a girl both had dated.

Romney Plans Wide-Ranging

transportation and law enforcement.

These principal spending proposals dotted his message:

- A $1-million state grant program to aid municipalities in water pollution control.

★ ★ ★

- Revision of veterans' homestead tax exemptions "to improve the level of benefits for all eligible veterans — particularly for those with the greatest disability and financial need. Romney vetoed an across-the-board exemption increase last year.
- "Further substantial increases" in support for all levels of education.
- Unspecified building recommendations bringing the over-all capital outlay program to more than $475 million, three-quarters of it for higher education.

★ ★ ★

- A $10-million increase in mental health funds, including expansion of community clinics and outpatient services.
- Removal of ceilings on old-age assistance and full state payment in programs aiding crippled and afflicted children.
- "Sharp increases" in state park and fish management programs financed by state and federal funds and increased user fees.
- Refinancing of the Mackinac Bridge and removal of tolls with an increase in auto weight taxes.
- Higher salaries for top state executives.

★ ★ ★

The governor repeated his earlier declaration that merely meeting higher costs and serving an expanding population will add $96 million to this year's $820-million general fund budget.

PART OF SURPLUS

He said his new budget — to be offered late this month or early next month, would use part of the $136 million state surplus.

He said to use the entire surplus "would be highly irresponsible because we may have passed the peak rate of increase in this unequaled period of economic growth."

December's sales and use tax increases — a prime indicator of the economy — were the highest in the state's four-year boom.

Romney in 1965 called with growning emphasis for tax reform in each of his three major addresses to the legislature.

BRIEF MENTION

But this time, tax reform drew only a brief mention midway through the address.

He urged the legislature to adopt reform elements of the tax proposal he and a group of legislators drafted last year, but skipped mention of higher revenues. He said he was willing to negotiate.

The governor said cities, however, should have additional taxing powers, "including certain excise taxes and a land transfer tax once the federal tax in this field is ended."

★ ★ ★

Devoting a principal section of his speech to urban affairs, the governor called for county home rule, a means to resolve annexation disputes, and metropolitan regional planning.

Want Romney to Back Telegraph Improvement

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Gov. Romney will be urged next week to support the campaign for safety improvements on Telegraph.

Township Supervisor Homer Case and Rep. William P. Hampton, R-Birmingham, plan to make a personal appeal to the governor, backing their claims with statistics on the high-accident stretch.

Hampton said he will schedule a meeting Monday or Tuesday in the governor's office.

The drive to make Telegraph safer was spurred by the deaths of two teen-agers on the last two days of 1965, both killed in separate accidents at the Maple-Telegraph intersection.

The two accidents took to three the number of fatalities for the year on the six-mile Telegraph stretch through Bloomfield Township.

SIX DIE

Six lives were claimed by the road in 1964.

Case will take two proposals for temporary improvements to the governor next week.

Township officials want green-arrow lights installed at the intersection to allow motorists to make left turns from all four directions.

They also are seeking "prepare-to-stop" signs 1,000 feet north and south of the intersection to warn drivers that the light is about to change to red.

GREEN ARROWS

Case said he would like to see the green arrows for left turns timed for 15 seconds.

The survey to be presented to Romney lists 435 accidents on Telegraph in 1965. Besides the three fatalities, 358 persons were injured in Telegraph accidents last year.

Next week's meeting with Romney is the latest in a long line of appeals to the governor and various county and state agencies made by township officials and residents.

★ ★ ★

The State Highway Commission now is preparing plans to widen Telegraph to provide three traffic lanes each way, separated by a 60- to 80-foot median.

The annual meeting of the United Home Owners Associations of Bloomfield Township will be held at 8 tonight at the Bloomfield Township Hall, 2100 Telegraph.

The organization, established in 1961, is composed of the homeowners' associations of some 90 subdivisions in the township.

★ ★ ★

Fifteen new board members are to be elected tonight.

Speaker for the program will be Robert J. McBride, director of news and community affairs from WJBK-TV, Detroit.

Ernie Pyle Awards Won by Newsmen

NEW YORK (AP) — Two journalists were named winners today of the 1965 Ernie Pyle Memorial Award for their coverage of the war in Viet Nam.

They are Tom Tiede, 29, a correspondent of Newspaper Enterprise Association, and John Van Doorn, 32, night city editor of Newsday in Garden City, N.Y. Each was awarded $1,000.

Tiede has been in Viet Nam since last October and Van Doorn spent three months there on special assignment last fall.

Tiede's stories appear regularly in The Pontiac Press.

The two were awarded the prize named after the famed World War II reporter and columnist for "most nearly exemplifying the style and craftsmanship" of Pyle.

Expect House to Act on Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — House action may start next week on President Johnson's request to have newly lifted excise taxes slapped back onto cars and phone calls. He also wants paycheck withholdings increased.

★ ★ ★

The bigger withholdings would not mean an increase in tax rates — the wage earner would just pay more as he went along and have less to pay at the end of the year. The same would apply to a speedup in corporate tax collections asked by the President Wednesday night in his State of the Union message.

★ ★ ★

Johnson said his revenue proposals would help finance the Viet Nam war and domestic programs. He predicted his proposals would ultimately bring in more than $4 billion annually.

Johnson proposed no general tax increase but said he would make further requests later if the Viet Nam war forced an increase in revenue needs.

★ ★ ★

Sources close to the House Ways and Means Committee, where all tax legislation must originate, said it probably will begin hearings about next Wednesday.

endurance—to remove any barrier to peaceful settlement."

'WILL WORK'

Johnson said, "We will work for a cease-fire now or once discussions have begun. We will respond if others reduce their use of force; and we will withdraw our soldiers once South Viet Nam is securely guaranteed the right to shape its own future."

If peace efforts fail, he said, "we will act as we must to help protect the independence of the valiant people of South Viet Nam."

But, pledged Johnson, "I am hopeful, and I will try the best I can with everything I've got to end this battle and return our sons to their desires."

★ ★ ★

Dirksen said he had hoped Johnson would be more specific on Viet Nam. But "he made it very specifically clear we are there to stay until the job is done, the pledges redeemed." the Illinois senator added.

'DEEPLY DISAPPOINTED'

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., however, said he was "deeply disappointed in the President's emphasis on dragging out the war for months and maybe even years rather than insisting that we do everything humanly possible to win it quickly."

Johnson observed that "because of Viet Nam we cannot do all that we should, or all we would like to do" but that "we will continue to meet the needs of our people."

In the civil rights field, he urged legislation to enforce "nondiscrimination in federal and state jury selection."

★ ★ ★

Dirksen said he had reservations on possible encroachment of state rights.

HOUSING BIAS

Johnson also urged legislation to ban discrimination in the sale and rental of housing.

Johnson's labor package included improved unemployment insurance, expansion of minimum wage benefits and repeal of the portion of the Taft-Hartley law which permits states to ban the union shop. The House passed this last year, but a Dirksen-led filibuster prevented Senate action.

The President apparently caught labor leaders by surprise in telling Congress he would propose legislation "to deal with strikes that threaten irreparable damage to the national interest."

For those who live on farms and in rural America," the President said, "we must plan for the future through the establishment of several new community development districts, improved education through the use of teacher corps teams, and better health measures, physical examinations, and adequate and available medical resources."

URGENT DECENCIES

The President said:

I have not come here tonight to ask for pleasant luxuries or for idle pleasure. I have come here to recommend that you — the representatives of the richest nation on earth — you the elected servants of a people who live in abundance unmatched on this globe — you bring the most urgent decencies of life to all Americans.

There are men who cry out: We must sacrifice.

Let us rather ask them: Whom will they sacrifice? Are they going to sacrifice the children who seek learning — or the sick who need medical care — or the families who dwell in squalor now brightened by the hope of home? Will they sacrifice opportunity for the distressed—the beauty of our land—the hope of our poor."

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., commented, "If we try to enact all of the President's program we will be here until Christmas."

JUNE TARGET

Johnson has said he hopes Congress will wind up its work and go home by June, but leaders of both Houses say that is unlikely.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said Congress ought to "respond speedily" to Johnson's requests.

Dirksen and Ford said they would make a formal GOP response next Monday.

They said they would record their evaluation of the State of the Union in the morning and that two—and possibly all three—of the television networks would carry it that night.

Johnson's speech, nationally broadcast and televised, was carried in color this year for the first time.

Commonwealth Eases Demand on Rhodesia

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson came to Zambia for talks today after the Commonwealth conference agreed to withhold a demand for military action against Rhodesia's rebellious government.

Wilson was welcomed at the airport by President Kenneth Kaunda. The two hurried off for talks at State House in Lusaka.

Wilson's brief visit was regarded as a display of solidarity with Kaunda, who is struggling with economic strains resulting from the Commonwealth boycott of neighboring Rhodesia and tension along the border between Zambia and Rhodesia. Rhodesia is the normal source or channel for most of Zambia's exports and imports.

★ ★ ★

Before leaving later in the morning for Nairobi and London, Wilson planned to inspect the Royal Air Force unit he sent to bolster Zambia's defenses.

EMERGENCY SUMMIT

The emergency Commonwealth summit conference ended Wednesday in Lagos, Nigeria, with a decision not to use military force against Rhodesia. But the conference communique did not rule out such action later if needed to maintain or restore law and order.

★ ★ ★

Wilson succeeded in persuading most of the 19 other Commonwealth leaders to be patient and give economic sanctions more time to bring down Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's white minority regime. No time limit was set.

3 Medals Won—the Hard Way

By TOM TIEDE

LAIKHE, Viet Nam (NEA)—The Purple Heart is an inch-and-a-half of ribbon and an engraved George Washington on a hunk of heart-shaped metal, which is given the soldier who spills his blood in battle.

★ ★ ★

Nearly 7,000 have been presented in this conflict, three of them to a single young man.

This is that man's incredible story.

Pfc. Orval Gene Adkins, a 23-year-old West Virginian, was along when elements of the 1st Infantry Division moved into a rubber plantation which everyone figured was under Viet Cong influence.

They figured right.

Halfway in, the GIs were ambushed. Machine guns spat from either side of the troop trail. Snipers tied to the tops of the trees let loose with a shower of steel.

TRAPS WAITING

When the victims tumbled for cover, they were stunned and murdered by booby traps and planted grenades.

Adkins, a radio-telephone operator, was slowed by some 50 pounds of equipment lashed to his back. He managed to dodge the enemy shot but was cut down by fragments from an explosion. The upper portion of his left arm was torn open.

Moments later he was evacuated. The soldier's wound proved not serious. He was cleaned, bandaged, given medication and the following morning sent to rest up in his own tent.

★ ★ ★

"Take it easy," the medics told him.

He would follow the advice, but the VC wouldn't.

Adkins said little to his companions in the platoon area, but he sat with the others and listened. He kicked at the dirt and rubbed his hands. On one side of him was a sandbag bunker, on the other an oddly contrasting group of colorful lounge chairs.

The sun was bright.

Adkins began to feel at ease.

Then, almost lacking reality, a shot echoed from the edge of the nearby jungle. A sniper. The men dove behind the bags of sand, each reaching for helmet and rifle.

★ ★ ★

No one spoke, no one moved.

"Hey," a voice said suddenly, "I think something got me."

It was Adkins. Twisted around in his prone position, he was poking his right hip when the blood began to seep through his fatigues. He shook his head in disbelief. So did his fellows.

Moments after, he made his second trip to the medics.

Again the wound was superficial. Aid men, not knowing whether to grin or groan at the fantastic misfortune, patched him up once more and returned him to his unit area. Again they told him to take it easy.

★ ★ ★

Again he followed the suggestion — and again the enemy didn't.

The second shot came with more realism than the first. The men were edgy by now. It sounded like a blown tire and the crack rumbled throughout the dense forest.

"Ouch!" somebody cried.

It was, of course, Orval Adkins.

★ ★ ★

This bullet pierced the same bandage that covered the first wound he had sustained 48 hours and many coincidences before.

AND AGAIN

More angry than injured, the soldier jumped up, emptied four magazines into the sniper's area. Then, silent and solemn, turned away and began to walk again to the aid station.

★ ★ ★

And still another Purple Heart.

Will Place Sidewalks Where Students Walk

CARLINVILLE, Ill. (AP) —The new men's dormitory at Blackburn College here was built without sidewalks—for a purpose.

★ ★ ★

President Robert P. Ludlum says school officials will observe where the students walk —and then build the sidewalks there.

Hamlin to Lead 62 Delegates

Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, will head a delegation of some 62 Oakland County officials to next weeks Michigan Association of County Supervisors convention in Lansing.

Featured discussion items at the convention, scheduled Monday through Thursday, will be proposed legislation on county board apportionment and highway financing.

Speakers will include Gov. Romney, Sen. Philip A. Hart, Secretary of the Interior Stuart Udall and Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh.

A total of 800 county supervisors and department heads are expected for the 67th annual convention.

★ ★ ★

A "clean water" conference will be held in conjunction with the conclave.

AMONG DELEGATES

Among the Oakland County delegates will be R. J. Alexander, director of the Department of Public Works.

★ ★ ★

He will participate in a public works panel discussion.

Learn About Drink From 'Bottom Up'

NEW YORK (AP)—A Harvard University psychiatrist proposes that a new course be taught in the nation's schools and colleges — "practice drinking."

★ ★ ★

The psychiatrist, Dr. Morris Chafetz, told a conference yesterday on "Alcohol and Food in Health and Disease" that the purpose of the course would be to instruct young people how to drink socially under supervised conditions.

"Alcohol is here to stay," he said, "and people must learn to develop a healthy attitude toward it."

Chafetz suggested that "practice drinking" be initiated at a very early age, in elementary school, and continue through college.

He said that the youngest children should be given very weak drinks at first, perhaps sherry in water, with the alchoholic contents gradually increased for the older students.

CLINIC DIRECTOR

Chafetz, an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at Harvard, is also director of the Alcoholic Clinic and Acute Alcoholic Psychiatric Service of Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

He told the conference that the home is not the place to teach youngsters how to hold their liquor because many parents have guilt feelings about their own drinking.

In school, he said, the young people could be instructed on the hazards of proper use of alcohol.

Chafetz contended that the drinking would not encourage heavy consumption but would reduce it because there would be fewer heavy drinkers.

By drinking small amounts with others, he said, the young would learn how to form relationships and derive a sense of relaxation and well-being from the experience.

FRUIT PANCAKES — Hot pancakes flavored with cranberry juice and served with sour cream and cranberry sauce make Sunday morning breakfast or brunch an occasion to remember. The pancakes are made with your favorite mix, using bottled cranberry juice instead of milk. The sauce is also made with cranberry juice from a bottle.

When a recipe calls for a "dash" of a seasoning, add less than ⅛ teaspoon.

Fruit Juice Flavors New Egg Custard

Any day that starts with fruit pancakes with sour cream can't be all bad. And when you serve them for Sunday morning breakfast with lots of strong, hot coffee and plenty of time to enjoy them, it's pancake heaven at home.

★ ★ ★

Or try them for luncheon, supper, or a gourmet dessert. You'll find this delightful recipe is simplicity itself to make and the results must be tasted to be believed.

★ ★ ★

For the Pancakes, substitute bottled cranberry juice or cranberry juice cocktail for the milk in your favorite pancake mix. Spread half the pancakes with sour cream, cover with the remaining cakes, and drizzle with your favorite fruit syrup heated until it's warm.

Or make your own tart-sweet Cranberry-Orange Sauce with this easy recipe.

The hot cakes with sour cream are delicious with a number of fruit flavors. You'll want to try them with glass-packed apple juice, grape juice, and prune juice.

★ ★ ★

FRUIT PANCAKES WITH SOUR CREAM

1 cup bottled cranberry juice cocktail or cranberry juice; or bottled apple, prune, or grape juice
1 egg
2 tablespoons cooking oil or melted shortening
1 cup prepared pancake mix
½ cup dairy sour cream
Fruit sauce

Combine juice, egg, oil or shortening with pancake mix. Stir until mixture is free of lumps. Pour batter, using ¼ cup for each cake, onto hot griddle. Bake until tops are bubbly and edges dry. Turn; cook second side.

Spread ½ of pancakes with sour cream and cover with remaining pancakes. Serve with bottled fruit syrup or cranberry-orange, apple, prune, or grape sauce. Yield: 4 servings, 8 pancakes.

Cranberry Orange Sauce

⅔ cup sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
2 cups bottled cranberry juice cocktail or cranberry juice
1 to 2 teaspoons grated orange ring, as desired

Combine sugar and cornstarch in saucepan; mix well. Stir in fruit juice. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add orange rind; mix. Serve warm atop Cranberry Pancakes.

Apple Sauce

Prepare as directed for Cranberry Orange Sauce and substitute bottled apple juice for cranberry juice; add ⅛ teaspoon each of cinnamon and cloves to sugar mixture and omit orange rind.

Prune Sauce

Prepare as directed for Cranberry Orange Sauce and substitute bottled prune juice for cranberry juice. Substitute 1 teaspoon each of grated lemon and orange rind for the 1 to 2 teaspoons grated orange rind called for.

Grape Sauce

French-Fry Onions for Meat Dishes

French fried onions are natural to serve with steak, but they also dress up plain hamburger. Plan on one medium-sized mild onion per serving. These are cut in ¼-inch thick slices, separated into rings, soaked in milk for one-half hour.

Drain the onion rings, then coat in flour which has been seasoned with salt and pepper. For 4 medium onions, 1 cup flour with 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper will be required.

Heat the lard to 365 degrees and fry the flour-coated onion rings until brown. Drain on absorbent paper.

Important Rule

Do you want tender, tunnelless muffins? Follow the important rule—add liquid and mix the dry ingredients until just moistened. Muffin batter should never be smooth.

Apple Pancakes for Pancakes

For a chilly day breakfast treat, make apple pancakes. Place 1 cup of milk, 1 egg and 1 tablespoon of liquid shortening in bowl. Add 1 cup of pancake mix and ½ cup of chopped raw apple. Mix until batter is fairly smooth. (If you substitute melted shortening, add it after pancake mix.)

Bake on a griddle until golden brown, turning only once. Serve with melted butter and cinnamon sugar. Makes 7 to 8 pancakes.

Eaglets in NWCL Showdown

OLSM Hosts St. Benedict

St. Michael, St. Fred Play Home Games

The Northwest Catholic League basketball championship probably will be decided tomorrow night at Orchard Lake St. Mary.

The Eaglets (6-1) take on frontrunning Highland Park St. Benedict (7-1) and the winner is expected to take the remaining league foes in stride.

OLSM polished off challenger Royal Oak St. Mary, 71-68, Tuesday after a long layoff. It was the Eaglets second win over one of its closest rivals for the crown.

The other contender is St. Ben and the Ravens have inflicted the only blot on OLSM's record.

First place St. Michael is expected to continue winning in the Macomb Catholic League tomorrow at Baldwin Junior High against Marine City Holy Cross. St. Frederick, in second place, entertains winless New Baltimore St. Mary at Madison Junior High and Waterford Our Lady travels to Detroit St. Rose.

OL St. Mary has a big home court advantage. And the Eaglets have been waiting for this rematch since losing at Highland Park 69-58.

The Macomb Catholic League should be known as the Oakland loop. St. Michael, St. Fred and Waterford OLL are dominating the basketball as they did in football.

All three are favored to win and make the championship a three-way dogfight between the local schools. The remaining schools are in Macomb County, except for Detroit St. Rose.

Full Slate in O-A

Kettering Hopes to Pull Away

Waterford Kettering, buoyed by its nonleague win over Waterford High Tuesday, steps back into Tri-County action tomorrow night with a chance to fatten its league lead.

The Captains are home for a game with last place Romeo. Oxford goes to Lapeer in the other league game. Second place L'Anse Creuse is idle and this gives Kettering (2-0) a chance to gain ground.

★ ★ ★

Remeo (0-2) has good size, but the Bulldgos have not proved to be as strong as their preseason rating. Kettering is due for a letdown after rolling past Oxford and then its close decision over arch-rival Waterford. The Captains are 6-0 overall.

Lapeer (1-1) can pull in to a tie with L'Anse by taking Oxford (1-2).

Warren Cousino can just about sew up the Oakland A crown by winning at Clawson. The Patriots are 6-0 in league play while Clawson, tied for second with Fitzgerald, is 4-2.

Fitzgerald appears to have a safe game with Madison (1-5) at Warren and could become Cousino's sole challenger.

Avondale goes to Rochester where fourth place will be decided. Both teams have 3-3 records. Lake Orion 1-5 plays at Troy 2-4.

Tomorrow's action will complete the first round of play in the O-A.

Rochester will be trying to keep a winning streak fo four games going against Avondale that has suddenly lost its scoring punch after an impressive start. The Yellow Jackets have dropped three straight since starting the season with the same number of victories.

★ ★ ★

In fact, Rochester and Cousino could be the best teams in the league right now. However, the Falcons may have played themselves out of title consideration when they dropped their first three games.

Key Thumb Game Slated at Capac

Dryden and Almont are on the road tomorrow night for Southern Thumb Conference basketball games, but the players will be keeping an eye on what is happening in Capac.

The Cardinals (4-1) travel to Memphis (2-3) while Almont (3-2) is at Brown City (1-4). The big tussle will be between Capac (5-0) and Anchor Bay (4-1).

New Haven (1-4) is at Armada (0-5).

Victories by Dryden and Anchor Bay would leave the two schools tied with Capac. Almont would be a length behind if the expected triumph over Brown City takes place.

Convicts High on Education

LANSIN G(AP) — Michigan's prisoner-at-school program is getting bigger, says State Corrections Commissioner Gus Harrison.

Each year the number of convicts taking high school or college courses increases, he said. The same is true in the job-training program.

★ ★ ★

The educational program a state penal institutions reflects modern prison policy in contrast to the harsh prison codes of an older time.

Harrison says the Michigan prison system gets about 700 new prisoners annually who are illiterate and another 1,000 who have dropped out of school at about the ninth grade.

Of the 8,200 prisoners in Michigan, he says, some 600 men are taking high school courses with about 200 earning diplomas each year. Another 35 convicts are taking classes from state colleges or universities.

Murder Suspect Is Mum

Klan Probers Quiz 'White Knights'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House investigators today continue questioning members of the White Knights, a Mississippi Ku Klux Klan group said to be guided by a code of threats, violence and "extermination."

The House Committee on Un-American Activities began calling members of the group to the witness stand yesterday.

Among those refusing to to answer questions was Byron De La Beckwith, who was tried twice for the murder of civil rights leader Medgar Evers.

De La Beckwith, a slightly-built Greenwood, Miss., fertilizer salesman, invoked the 5th Amendment's constitional guarantees against self-incrimination to most inquiries about his Klan activities.

FREED BOTH TIMES

The committee avoided questioning De La Beckwith about the murder of Evers, a crime for which he was tried twice but freed each time because of hung juries.

Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., said it would not be proper to go inti a criminal matter which has not yet been resolved.

Donald T. Appell, chief investigator for the committee, said that De La Beckwith had been recruited into the Klan in Augu 1964, following the two trials.

★ ★ ★

GROUP CHARGED

The group has been charged with much of the racial violence in southern Mississippi.

A White Knights directive Appell read to the committee said that as long as the public is "on our side, we can just about do anything to our enemies with impunity."

Appell said the group's constitution contained references to "beating, floggings, burning of property" and "extermination."

★ ★ ★

The committee also was told that De La Beckwuth, along wi the Klansman painted a black stripe around the home of a man they dah accused of hiring "the wrong nigger" to paint the house.

Appell named Gordon Lackey of Greenwood, Miss., as the second man. Lackey, who appeared beforw the committee earlier yesterday, also invoked the 5th Amendment.

★ ★ ★

The committee's inquiry into the White Knights is part of its investigation into Klan groups operating throughout the South.

The hearings are expected to last several more weeks.
