Grand Trunk Rail Stoppage Settled

169 on Two Gulf Islands Choose to Stay With Pets

Expect Service to Start Monday for Commuters

Hope to Begin Freight Runs Sunday; Contract Has Few Changes

The nine-day Grand Trunk Western Railroad strike that closed some automobile plants and threatened to close many more ended last night.

And some 1,500 commuters between Pontiac and Detroit can resume their train rides Monday morning.

With trainmen returning to their jobs today, the railroad planned to get some freight and passenger trains rolling again this afternoon.

A railroad spokesman said the first freight train to move since the strike began would leave Detroit at 5:29 p.m. today.

The first passenger train left Port Huron this afternoon for Chicago.

Commuter service will resume Monday morning and full service should be restored by Tuesday, railroad spokesmen said today.

"This, however, is dependent upon our recalling crews and getting the tracks checked as a safety measure," said Francis A. Gaffney, vice president and general manager.

Gaffney said the items of settlement were "the same as those offered to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen before the strike with the addition of increased wage rates of approximately $2 per day to about $23 men."

MEDIATOR ON HAND

The settlement was reached by negotiators soon after Leverett Edwards, a member of the National Mediation Board, entered the negotiations.

The strike by the Brotherhood idled 6,400 railroad employes and was the first serious tie-up to hit Grand Trunk in more than 40 years.

The work stoppage, which began Sept. 1, had forced General Motors' Chevrolet Division to shut down its motor plant in Flint, idling 4,500 workers.

No further details of the settlement were revealed and there was no comment from the Union.

If the strike had continued much more days, Mayor Louis Miriani of Detroit warned earlier this week, more than 300,000 Detroit area workers would have been idled.

Edwards got the union and railroad together for the bargaining session which brought about the settlement.

Earlier in the day, Edwards met

LADY DONNA IS NO LADY — High winds from Hurricane Donna whip the waters of Biscayne Bay at Miami, Fla., into a froth, tossing a huge wave high in the air. Palm trees on the shore bend before the fury of the storm. The open circle on the map indicates Donna as it passed over Cape Sable and headed north northwest off Florida's west coast today. Underlined is Tavernier where the hurricane claimed its first victim today. Also underlined is Sanibel Island where the Coast Guard sent helicopters to evacuate stranded persons. Highway U. S. 1, which links the Florida Keys with the mainland, was awash in many places.

From Our News Wires

MIAMI, Fla.—Hurricane Donna brushed past the Miami area with heavy rains and wind gusts up to 97 miles an hour today and headed northwestward toward the Tampa Bay area—second most populous in Florida.

The center of the massive storm was 80 miles west of Miami and plowing slowly across the sparsely settled Everglades this morning.

Florida's lower Gulf Coast already was getting a foretaste of Donna's fury. High winds broke telephone lines into Naples, a booming resort town 125 miles south of Tampa and 100 miles west of Miami, long before the center was due there.

Near Fort Myers, 160 residents of two hurricane-threatened islands refused to evacuate to the mainland, most of them because they did not want to leave their pets behind.

Civil Defense Director H. G. Hitzling of Fort Myers said 29 persons were left behind on Captiva Island and either 129 or 133 on Sanibel.

He said all refused "five or six times" to leave and that high winds and rains forced the Coast Guard to call off rescue efforts to halt a helicopter airlift to the mainland, abandoning the islanders irrevocably to braving Donna's tempests on the low-lying areas.

In the big storm's path lay Fort Myers, with 22,000 population, Sarasota with 33,000, Bradenton with 19,000, then the cities which face one another across Tampa Bay—Tampa with some 270,000 people and St. Petersburg with 178,000.

Sombrero Lighthouse, in the Florida Keys, reported winds up to 106 miles an hour this morning when Donna burst through that string of islands. It was the highest velocity yet recorded in the storm.

At 11 a.m., the Weather Bureau reported the hurricane center at latitude 25.9 north, longitude 81.8 west, between Naples and Everglades City. This is roughly 145 miles south of Tampa.

MOVING 9 M.P.H.

The eye was moving northwestward at 9 miles an hour. Top winds were estimated at 135 miles an hour.

The Tampa Weather Bureau urged quick evacuation of low coastal sections of the entire area. It said Donna would pass close or just to the east of Tampa Bay early Sunday morning.

The hurricane's center was moving over land and the Weather Bureau said there was a chance of its turning to an even more northerly course which would be certain to keep it well inland.

However, the lumbering storm

Donna Late and Hours Pass Slowly

By BEN PHLEGAR

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Like many another lady, Donna was late for her date in Miami.

The 1½ million residents of the Miami-Fort Lauderdale area had to wait hours longer than they had expected for the much publicized arrival of the year's most potent storm.

Many, in fact, have been waiting for years. The southeast Florida coast has escaped not only the storms but even hurricane warnings for the past 10 years.

Donna, with the full wrath of a woman scorned, was due to

DR. GEORGE N. PETROFF

Civic Leader Dies at Home

Dr. George N. Petroff Won Honor From State, Local Jaycees

Dr. George N. Petroff, outstanding Pontiac civic leader, died unexpectedly of a heart attack this morning in his home at 219 Cherokee Road. He was 42.

Honored by the Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce as Michigan's "Outstanding Young Man of 1953," Dr. Petroff in 1951 was chosen the outstanding Jaycee in Pontiac.

He headed the Junior Chamber of Commerce here in 1952 and in that year was voted the outstanding Jaycee president by 47 Michigan junior chambers.

In 1956 he served as president of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

The father of six children, Dr. Petroff served on the Pontiac General Hospital Building Committee, was active in Boy Scout and PTA work, and headed the Pontiac Area United Fund's professional solicitations.

Dr. Petroff served as athletic physician for Pontiac Central High School and St. Michael High.

He was on the staffs of Pontiac General and St. Joseph Mercy Hospitals, and served on several committees of the Oakland County Medical Society.

BORN IN PENNSYLVANIA

Born in Uniontown, Pa., Dr. Petroff moved to Pontiac in 1948.

He received his medical education at Wayne State University and served as an officer during World War II.

Dr. Petroff was a member of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed at [illegible] Funeral Home.

Congolese Call a Cease Fire

U.N. Announces Orders Which Would End Bloody Kasai War

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union told the United Nations today nothing is going to stop it from giving aid to the Congo government if it wants to.

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The Congolese army, apparently won over by President Joseph Kasavubu, today ordered a cease-fire in the Congo's bloody civil war.

The United Nations announced the cease-fire order which, if obeyed, will wreck Premier Patrice Lumumba's military campaign to crush his secessionist foes in Kasai and Katanga provinces.

The announcement came a few hours after Premier Lumumba demanded that the United Nations stop Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and his aides from what he called their interference in the Congo's internal affairs.

Dems Play 'I've Got Secret,' Says Bagwell in Talk Here

Paul D. Bagwell today accused Michigan Democrats of playing "I've Got a Secret" when it comes to discussing what they are going to do about the state's "serious problems."

The Republican candidate for governor made the statement in a speech prepared for the GOP ox roast on the John F. Ivory estate in White Lake Township today.

Many of the estimated 2,000 persons attending the picnic formed a motorcade at 1 p.m. in front of the County Courthouse in Pontiac.

With cheers, horn blaring and placard waving, the long line of packed cars headed out West Huron Street for the picnic site on Cooley Lake Road.

Bagwell, U.S. Rep. Alvin M. Bentley, who is seeking election to the U.S. Senate, Huntington Woods Mayor David R. Calhoun, state treasurer candidate, and U.S. Rep. William Broomfield, R-Oakland, led the colorful parade.

'THRILL BATTLE'

"We are fighting an uphill battle," Bagwell told GOP partisans assembled at the estate, "but we will win if we have the will to win.

"We know we are up against a well-disciplined political machine, but the best machine in the world can't hide the facts of the need for a change in the administration."

Democrats, Bagwell said, have no concrete program to offer the state.

"They are today playing house with the welfare of the state, playing house with the future of the 1,600,000 children in our school system, playing house with the 1,200 children who have been committed to hospitals for the mentally retarded but can't get in because facilities are not available. This is the height of political irresponsibility.

"They are asking the people to buy a pig-in-the-poke program and my opponent refuses to outline any definite plan," Bagwell said

Merchants Offer Free Meals

You'll Really Eat This Up

Thanks to a huge aluminum frying pan that can handle 250 scrambled eggs at one time, the Downtown Merchants Association, is planning to offer free breakfast to 1,000 persons a day as a kickoff feature every morning of the Downtown Fall Festival next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Eggs, pancakes and coffee will be the menu at the breakfast site on West Huron Street, a block west of Saginaw.

Picnic tables for 240 persons will be moved into the site Wednesday night in time for the first breakfast at 9 a.m. Thursday morning. Breakfast will last from 9 to 10:30 a.m. each day of the three-day sales event.

The location will be the parking lot of the Oakland County Prosecutor's office at the southeast corner of West Huron and Wayne streets.

The frying pan has been lent to the festival by the Michigan State University Agricultural Department. It is six feet square, and with it goes a chrome-plated hoe for stirring.

The West Side Civic Club is to provide cooks. The breakfast will

Restrict Nikita to Manhattan

U.S. Note Advises Him to Remain Near U.N. 'for Security Reasons'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The United States notified the Soviet Union today Premier Nikita Khrushchev during his visit to New York must not travel off Manhattan Island.

In a memorandum delivered to the Soviet U.N. delegation, the United States requested that arrangements be made for the Soviet leader to reside as near as possible to U.N. headquarters and to limit his movements to those required by his official mission as head of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

U. S. sources said similar restrictions were being placed on Hungarian Communist party chief Janos Kadar and Mehmet Shehu, premier of Albania.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The Congo today requested postponement of the scheduled security council meeting until a Congolese delegation can arrive tomorrow.

It'll Be a Little Warmer Tomorrow

Temperatures will be a little warmer tomorrow, with the high about 78. Low tonight will be 55, the weatherman says.

Monday and Tuesday will be partly cloudy and cooler. Precipitation totaling about one-quarter of an inch will occur about Monday or Tuesday.

Northeasterly morning winds at 8 m.p.h. will become northwest increasing to 8 to 14 m.p.h., diminish and become light and variable tonight.

Fifty-two was the lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The reading at 1 p.m. was 69.

Sum of the People

Unionists Are Influenced by Many Election Issues

By JOHN KRAFT
(Special to The Pontiac Press)

"An overwhelming majority of the AFL-CIO membership will vote for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket." So said Joseph Beirne, president of the Communications Workers of America on a television program last week.

The possibility that union members will decide to favor the Democratic ticket rather than Nixon and Lodge hardly comes as a new notion. But does it mean that there is some deep identification of union members' interests and the Democratic party?

According to a steelworker in McKeesport, Pa., it does. He told a Kraft interviewer recently:

"Look. The Republicans gave us the Taft-Hartley law, right? So where's the percentage in voting for the Republicans? They don't care about unions, in fact they're against them, right? I'm for Kennedy and Johnson."

In different language, the same sentiment was expressed by a pullman porter in Detroit:

"Maybe the head of our union doesn't see much difference between Nixon and Kennedy, but I do. Kennedy tried to get some good legislation through last year and it was the Republicans who messed him up. What the Republicans call right-to-work means no unions. They don't care about unions and the working man, and that's the main reason to vote against them."

Remarks like these are apparently confirmed by the figures showing how union members and their families felt late in August about the coming election.

And here it can be seen that a clear majority of union members and their families do indeed plan to vote for the Democratic ticket. But is it "overwhelming"? A full 14 per cent still have not made up their minds.

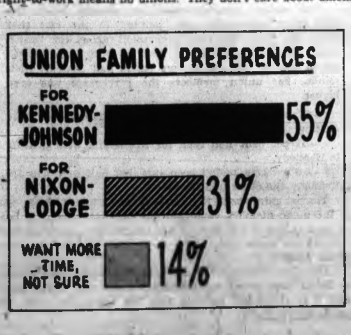

Close to one out of three seem to have rejected the arguments of the pullman porter and the steelworker quoted above. And when comments of all union members are listened to carefully it turns out they are liberally sprinkled with quite different reasons.

CITES EXPERIENCE

A member of the UAW in Milwaukee spoke this way:

"I think I'm going to switch this year, to be perfectly honest. Why? Well I got nothing against the Democrats at all, but when you consider that Lodge has had all that experience with the United Nations and dealing with the Russians and Nixon's been no slouch either, then you have to have men with experience in there. I'm not saying that getting along

West Retaliates With Stiff Restrictions on East Germans

Stops Giving Transit Visas for Use Outside Red Area

From Our News Wires

LONDON — The Western allies struck back at Communist East Germany today and imposed severe counter-restrictions on. East Germans wishing to travel to the West, authoritative sources reported in London.

The sources said the West had stopped granting transit visas for East Germans who want to travel outside the Iron Curtain.

The measure was in direct retaliation against the East German regime's latest restrictions on access to West Berlin.

Today's development was foreshadowed by the allies yesterday when they warned the Soviet Union they would take all steps necessary to end the regulations imposed by East Germany in violation of four-power agreements on Berlin.

POLICE SLOW TRAFFIC

The counter-restrictions, effective today, came as East German border police began slowing truck traffic to Berlin by making some truck drivers stop and unload their trucks for inspection.

The Communists said they were looking for "propaganda material."

Authoritative diplomatic sources in London said no new travel documents have been issued to East Germans as of today. New restrictions were expected but nothing was announced.

It was clear the West was reserving the right to further action to met the new Communist challenge in the divided city, a western outpost 110 miles inside Communist East Germany.

At the same time, Acting Chancellor Ludwig Erhard appealed to West German businessmen for a voluntary boycott on trade with Communist East Germany.

He said the Communist regime of East Germany was trying to drive a wedge between West German businessmen and their government by pretending that whatever happened politically, trade could go on. He appealed for moral resistance to this effort.

The money raised will be split equally for the party's national, state and county campaigns.

Hours Pass Slowly as Donna Is Late

fling hurricane force winds of upwards of 85 miles an hour into this area as early as Friday afternoon. Instead it was well after midnight.

WAIT AND WAIT

The hours between passed painfully low as the natives, tourists and refugees from the Keys south of here waited for the big blow.

Stores, banks, offices and restaurants began closing at noon Friday. Buses quit. Streets were deserted. Some bars closed and even the postoffice, despite its famous motto, sharply curtailed activities.

Branch post offices were shut. Postal employes were advised to remain at home unless they could get to their jobs in absolute safety. The public was asked to avoid street corner letter boxes which could flood.

Two of the main downtown bridges over the Miami River—Flagler Street and Miami Avenue—were closed to traffic. The River wends its way through the heart of the business district and the bridges, which open frequently to permit boats to pass, long have borne the brunt of criticism for snarled traffic. The river, running bank full, was churned to a white lather by the storm.

Reporters attempting to view conditions in the Keys first hand were turned back by state patrolmen at Homestead near the tip of the Florida mainland. Highway U. S. 1, which links the Florida Keys with the mainland, was awash in many spots.

LOOTING PREVENTED

In the residential district of fashionable Key Biscayne off Miami only one home showed lights Friday night. Residents had been urged to leave the low, exposed key and almost all complied. Cars returning from the Key Friday night were searched as police sought to forestall possible looting.

Miami Beach hotels had impromptu hurricane parties. One hotel manager said he had told his guests to remain inside for their own safety and that if they didn't like the rule they could check out.

Harrelson Again Sought by Police

Find Car, but Not Him; He Faces a Charge of Assault and Battery

Area police again are looking for Leaun W. Harrelson, 24-year-old son of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614 President Leaun Harrelson.

This time they want to arrest young Harrelson on an assault and battery charge.

Pontiac police, at the request of Bloomfield Township police, went to the home of the elder Harrelson at 344 East Boulevard Thursday night in search for his son.

They found his car parked in front of the house but couldn't find young Harrelson.

He was in Municipal Court Aug. 31 when he pleaded guilty to forging some 60 names on nominating petitions for the August primary election.

That was only after the court had issued a warrant for his arrest when he failed to appear on an earlier trial date.

OTHER CHARGE DROPPED

Young Harrelson was accused by his neighbor of another assault and battery at the same time, but charges later were dropped.

Municipal Court Judge Maurice Finnegan sentenced him to 90 days probation for the election misdemeanor and ordered him to pay $100 court costs.

The judge set Harrelson's probation term to begin Sept. 30. County Probation officer Conrad Konczal said this is highly irregular. The judge did not order Harrelson to report first to the County Probation Office before stating that he was free to go to Chicago, Konczal said. Harrelson said he has a new job waiting there for him.

Judge Finnegan instructed Harrelson to write his probation officer to keep him informed of his whereabouts.

"The judge, however, failed to notify us where Harrelson would be in Chicago," said Konczal.

Asked yesterday why Harrelson's probation term had been scheduled to start only Sept. 30 instead of immediately, Judge Finnegan said:

"I don't want to talk about it."

He refused to make any further comment on the Harrelson case.

The latest assault and battery charge stems from a fracas in the Town and Coutry bar in Bloomfield Township where young Harrelson allegedly tore the dress off Mrs. Jerry Dodd of 57 Mark St. Aug. 2. She has pressed charges.

The bank plans to sponsor free bus rides for any rider of the Pontiac Transit Corp. who wants to enjoy the breakfast. There'll be no charge for a ride on any downtown-bound bus 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. each day of the sale.

Norman L. Pattison, general chairman of Downtown Festival Days, said many other special events are planned to make this the biggest, busiest festival yet.

Carnival rides, free parking in downtown lots, parades, street events and special displays have been lined up this year, he said.

Besides the traditional shopping values, merchants will be offering goods for sale from sidewalk displays and bazaars.

Continuous activities will be accented throughout the sale, Pattison said.

was still spewing hurricane-strength winds — 74 miles an hour or higher — over a path some 200 miles wide.

Thus the entire coastal area, as well as most of the inland and even the east coast of the Florida peninsula were likely to be raked with strong winds and heavy rains. The two coasts are only about 130 miles apart.

High storm tides, ranging from 5 to 11 feet, were forecast for the coast in Donna's path.

Hurricane warning flags flew along all of Florida's Gulf Coast north to Cedar Key, 85 miles up the coast from Tampa.

The famed Tamiami Trail, highway crossing the Everglades from Miami to Naples and Fort Myers, thence north to Tampa, was blocked when Donna felled numerous large pine trees across the roadway.

Detours around these obstacles are impossible in the marshy glades, where water levels rose steadily as the hurricane dumped hour after hour of heavy rains.

Winds up to 120 miles an hour were reported by radio from Everglades City, on the coast below Naples, as the hurricane center approached that area.

Donna shrieked into the Keys and the marshy wilderness of the Everglades with a fury that tossed fish from the sea and threw house trailers as far as a half-mile.

At least two dead were reported. Miami was hit by winds of 80 miles an hour, just over the hurricane force. Although the huge metropolitan area missed the worst of the severe storm, damage to property appeared substantial.

Police refused to let anyone on the streets and many telephone lines were out.

A week's advance warning of the killer storm, which claimed more than 100 lives last weekend in the Antilles and Puerto Rico, enabled Florida residents to ride it out in relative safety.

The body of an unidentified man was found at Tavernier in the Keys, and a youth was killed in a car wreck on the mainland, but reports of heavy casualties were not substantiated.

BABY BORN

The city of Miami, hit by hurricane force winds at daybreak, was boarded up and ready. A baby was born in a storm shelter during the night, telephone and power lines were tangled and residents were barred from the streets under pain of arrest.

The coastal highway near Fort Lauderdale was littered with fish tossed ashore by the pounding tides. A highway patrolman at Tavernier reported bridges washed out and most of the house trailers in one trailer park blown a half-mile and their contents spewed on the ground.

The water pipeline to Key West from the mainland-paralleling the Overseas Highway—was broken near Marathon, but residents had stockpiled drinking water before the storm hit.

Homestead Police Capt. Billy Wimberley reported his city "a terrible mess" with streets blocked with "trees and timber and junk."

Wind-driven sand was piled along Miami Beach streets. A newsman, Dick Lobo of Miami TV Station WCKT, said the scene reminded him of a dune-filled desert.

The winds whined through storm shutters and tossing palm fronds. The black Miami night was filled with eerie flashes as power transformers popped on their high poles.

The residential sections, many of which lost their power early in the storm, were dark as pitch except here and there through unshielded windows.

In Havana, one cloudburst, brisk winds and high seas were the only evidence of Donna as the storm veered away from the Cuban capital on its way to Florida.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro surveyed the seafront Friday night. His inspection trip drew a large crowd.

Settle Grand Trunk Railroad Strike

with union representatives headed by Thomas W. Fletcher, General chairman, and Frank Collin, vice president of the Brotherhood.

After this meeting, Edwards conferred with Grand Trunk officials for another review of negotiations.

At issue were work rules involving about 1,000 yardmen, baggagemen, switchmen and brakemen. Railroad employes in Michigan, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin were affected by the strike.

In making his plea for settlement, Miriani requested President Eisenhower to "assign federal representatives to use their authority, experience and know-how to end this strike."

Meanwhile, Gov. Williams voiced concern over the strike. Yesterday the Governor instructed Allan D. Chisholm, chairman of the State Labor Mediation Board, to offer any assistance "your organization may be able to give."

Unionists Split on Parties

with the rest of the world is the only problem we have, but you tell me: what's more important?"

Out in Seattle a setup man on a saw at Boeing, an enthusiastic member of the IAM, developed the same line of thinking a little further:

"Talk about problems in this election! You have to think about the cost of living, and giving the worker a break, and this whole segregation mess in the South with the sit-ins. My own feeling is that the Democrats could handle problems like that better than the Republicans. Certainly on giving the working man a break they would.

"But then I get to thinking about all those Sputniks flying around up there and how we're doing so badly at the Olympics and you know what I figure? To heck with what Meany and Reuther and Hayes say. We need somebody, like Nixon and Lodge, who know what to do with the Russians. And Eisenhower gave Nixon all the experience. You can't deny it."

In remarks like these, it can be seen that union members do not think exclusively in terms of which party is strongest on labor issues. Often other issues predominate, even to the exclusion of so-called "labor issues."

An earlier survey, conducted shortly after the Republican convention, also pointed to the fact that there was little that was permanent about the "union vote." That survey showed that over a three month period roughly one out of five voters had changed their minds. For union members the percentage was even higher.

—8 per cent had been for Kennedy and were drifting away.

—11 per cent had been for Nixon and were drifting to Kennedy.

— 6 per cent hadn't been sure, but half were now for Kennedy, the other half for Nixon.

The net gain was in Kennedy's favor—a total of 3 per cent of the union member vote. But the important point to bear in mind is that a full one-in-four union votes appear to have been up for grabs and subject to pressures to shift one way or the other.

Like the "Negro vote" analyzed last week, there appear to be no "one issue" characteristics about the "union vote." And it is a volatile, shifting vote the candidates must not overlook.

Kidney Ailment Fatal to Republican Leader Owen J. Cleary

YPSILANTI (UPI) — Former Michigan Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary, 60, died today at Beyer Memorial Hospital.

Cleary collapsed at opening ceremonies of a Republican headquarters here Friday and was rushed to the hospital.

Dr. Marcia L. Potter said the former state GOP chairman and son of the founder of Cleary College here was suffering from a chronic kidney disease. Dr. Potter said Cleary died at 6:15 a.m.

Cleary was talking with Rep. Alvin M. Bentley, the Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, and State Rep. James Warner of Ypsilanti when he collapsed.

He was taken to the hospital and given a blood transfusion and round-the-clock nurses were assigned to him.

Cleary's big dream was to see the business school founded by his father move into its new quarters which are expected to be occupied by Nov. 1.

Lassiter Case Date Sept. 21

Judge Rashid to Hear Lawyer's Request for Disqualification

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne County Circuit Judge Joseph G. Rashid set a deadline Friday in the Lassiter murder case.

Last court action in the slaying of Parvin (Bill) Lassiter, Royal Oak car dealer, came last May when Judge Rashid was asked to disqualify himself from the case.

Rashid was assigned to hear the charges of first-degree murder and conspiracy to murder against Lassiter's widow, Nelle, and former partner, Gordon Watson.

Rashid previously had given three Chattanooga, Tenn., men life sentences after they pleaded guilty to the killing.

The prosecution contends that the men were put up to the crime by Mrs. Lassiter, 37, and Watson, 44. They are free on bond.

The defense lawyers said the three men might have prejudiced the judge. Mrs. Lassiter's lawyer, Joseph Louisell, asked last May for time to put the disqualification request in writing. He has not done it yet.

Rashid Friday told defense lawyers that on Sept. 21 he will hear the request for disqualification if it has been filed. If not, he said he will hear arguments that day on a defense request to quash the charges.

Lassiter was beaten, shot and robbed April 6, 1959.

Bedloe's (now Liberty) Island was selected as the site for the Statue of Liberty by Gen. William T. Sherman.

The Day in Birmingham

Three Teen-Agers Fined for Theft or Destruction

BIRMINGHAM — Three teen-agers in Muncipal Court yesterday —two for stealing tires, the other for malicious destruction of property—were sentenced and fined by Judge John Emery.

Placed on probation for one year for the theft of automobile tires from North Chevrolet Co., 1000 Woodward Ave., were Douglas Ward, 17, of 1684 W. Lincoln Road, and Lance Scripter, 17, of 6956 Valley Springs Drive, Bloomfield Township.

Judge Emery, in placing the two boys on probation, also stipulated they must be home by 9 p.m. each evening and that no driving be allowed.

In addition, Ward was fined $50 and Scripter, $5 with orders to make $70 restitution.

Fined $25 and put on probation until July for damaging property at Seaholm High School was Ralph Costa, 18, of 3815 Lincoln Drive, Bloomfield Township.

Costa pleaded guilty to painting with black paint a wooden building used by a parking lot attendant.

He was caught in the act by school custodians, police said.

Registration for adult evening classes at Seaholm High School will start Monday at the Birmingham Board of Education office, it was announced today.

Classes will start Sept. 26, according to Howard L. Malwitz, coordinator of adult education.

Courses offered this year include American history, cake decorating, contract bridge, French, fundamental drawing, investment guidance, oil painting and Russian.

Other classes are sewing, shorthand, Spanish, typing and square and round dancing.

A fee of $6 will be charged for each course with the exception of investment guidance, $5; sewing, $4, and dancing, $10.

An historical marker relating the early history of Franklin Village was dedicated at noon ceremonies today on the Village Green.

The dedication of the marker, a gift of the Michigan State Historical Commission, coincided with the village's annual round-up and barbecue.

The marker tells of the founding of the village in 1824-25, its naming in 1828, and how even today, it retains the air of an early Michigan community.

Village historian Burt Wood and Mrs. Donald Adams of Drayton Plains, a member of the Historical Commission, were on hand for the dedication.

The Child Study Club of the Congregational Church of Birmingham will resume its monthly luncheon meetings Thursday at 12:45 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Howard Rieman, 18124 Locherbie Road.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Peter Loomis, president of the Birmingham Board of Education. Her topic will be "School Taxes—What They Can Mean To Your Children."

Reservations can be made by contacting Mrs. Peter Burns of 1256 Henrietta Street by Tuesday.

ident Joseph Kasavubu, Lumumba complained about Hammarskjold's statement in New York Friday night that the presidential decree firing the premier — since declared void by Parliament — was legal under the Congo's constitution.

"It is not up to the secretary general to interpret the fundamental law," Lumumba said.

ASKS INTERVENTION

He announced he has written Hammarskjold and U. N. members a call for intervention of "all nations."

Eyes Miss America Title

Our Nancy Is Gal to Beat

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—A new Miss America will be crowned tonight, and, as far as the 53 other contestants are concerned, Miss Michigan literally shaped up as the girl to beat.

Nancy Anne Fleming, 18-year-old brown haired beauty from Montague, Mich., became the only dual trophy winner of this year's pageant last night, with her victory in the third and final swim suit judging.

Miss Fleming is 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighs 116 pounds and her measurements are 35-22-35.

Earlier this week, she won a talent competition with a fast-paced description of ways to use clothing which she designed.

As the only known winner of two judging events, Miss Michigan was the visible leader in the race to become one of the 10 finalists named on stage tonight and to succeed Mississippi's Lynda Lee Mead when the winner is announced about midnight.

But the crown of Miss America 1961 is still within the grasp of any of the 53 other contestants from all the states, Canada, New York City, Chicago and Washington, D. C.

2 Defectors Expected to Help Crack Codes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviets may be expected to use the highly specialized knowledge of the two defected National Security Agency men for help in code-cracking techniques.

This appears probable on the basis of the work done by Bernon F. Mitchell and William H. Martin at the top-secret headquarters of NSA in Ft. Meade, Md.

Two congressional groups are going to look into the defection of the code clerks. A special armed services subcommittee investigating the activities of intelligence agencies will open hearings next Thursday. Witnesses will include Maurice H. Klein, NSA's director of personnel, and Gen. C. P. Cabell, deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency. The House Committee on Un-American Activities plans another hearing next Friday.

TRUMAN IRATE

The question of the defectors came up Friday night when former President Harry S. Truman talked with newsmen on his arrival in New York. Truman said "I think they're a couple of traitors and if we had them back here they ought to be shot. These birds didn't know anything about the security of the country."

There appears to be no belief that Mitchell and Martin took to the Soviets any vital policy or military plans.

The Defense Department said earlier this week that "they had no access to classified information about American weapons or defense plans." And the Pentagon statement also sought to dismiss this point with the comment that "The two men were both junior mathematicians employed in limited areas of communications statistical work."

But It's a 'Psycho'-Logical Shocker

Film Can't Scare Wife Speechless

Alfred Hitchcock has cautioned plotting husbands that his movie "Psycho," playing for its third smash week in the area, can't perform a miracle.

Hitchcock admits that Psycho was designed to be "as terrifying as possible."

But he denies it frightens the moviegoer speechless.

"Some of my men were doomed to disappointment when they hopefully sent their wives to a preview," the jaunty producer noted. "The women emerged badly shaken but still vigorously vocal."

The unpredictable Hitchcock says Psycho must be seen from the beginning, because, unlike most motion pictures, it doesn't improve when run backward.

He also insists that those who see the movie keep "the amazing secrets of Psycho" to themselves.

The movie stars Anthony Perkins, Vera Miles and John Gavin. Janet Leigh, featured as Marion Crane.

Flint Police Hunt for Man After Bomb's Near Miss

FLINT (UPI) — Police were grimly combing the city for a man who scored a near miss in his apparent effort to plant a time bomb in a crowded supermarket.

No one was injured when the bomb misfired Friday night but the incident immediately touched off fears that a psycopathic bomber might be loose in this city of nearly 200,000.

The bomber was standing in the midst of a tight group of customers when fire and smoke suddenly belched from a brief case he was carrying.

The man dropped the brief case and darted out the door before amazed onlookers could stop him.

Rex Wood, manager of the supermarket, easily extinguished the blaze.

In the cheap, leather brief case, police later found two sticks of dynamite, a can of tightly-packed gun powder and an elaborate, transistorized timing device.

Wood said the bomb sounded "like a bottle bursting" when it went off.

He said there were 10 to 15 customers within 10 feet of the bomb-carrier when the device burst into flames. Police said all of them could have been killed if the bomb had exploded fully.

There were nearly 100 customers in the store at the time, Wood estimated.

He said the man, whom he described as about 40 years old, came into the store about 8 p.m. and was standing behind the head cashier's check-out stand when the burst occurred.

Wood was unable to suggest any motive for the bombing attempt. He said he had never had any trouble at the store before.

Bride-to-Be Is Killed Saving Tot

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 21-year-old bride-to-be was killed by an auto Friday after she saved the life of a baby by pushing the infant's carriage out of the car's path.

Theresa Bonano, 21, of Massapequa, N. Y., was pushing the carriage of the 14-month-old daughter of her fiance's sister-in-law when the accident occurred, police said.

Officers said Miss Bonnano saw a car driven by Richard Hanes, 220, of Brooklyn, bearing down on her and pushed the carriage out of the way before she was hit.

* * *

The infant, Theresa Graziano, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Graziano of Brooklyn, suffered minor injuries when the carriage overturned, hospital authorities said.

Ghana to Give Aid to Sudan Republic

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Ghana announced Friday it will supply financial assistance to the Sudan Republic, part of the French Mali Federation with Senegal which split last month.

A communique signed by President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana and Premier Modibo Keita of Sudan said details would be announced later.

The breakup of the Mali Federation, after a political dispute between Keita and Premier Mamadou Dia of Senegal, left landlocked Sudan without a seaport. This meant Keita had to look elsewhere for a port and for financial aid for his relatively poor country. France refused to interfere in the dispute between its two former colonies, which lie in the western bump of Africa.

Korean Children Die

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A total of 148 South Koreans, mostly children, have died of encephalitis, or sleeping sickness, since early August, the health ministry announced today. According to official tabulations, 703 persons have been stricken by the disease this summer.

"WE WANT JACK" — Sen. John Kennedy and Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown (with glasses) are hemmed in temporarily as a crowd surges around their car in Los Angeles Friday. The Democratic presidential candidate came to Los Angeles to continue his campaign. At this point, Kennedy was arriving at a suburban shopping center where he made a brief speech.

Yell Wildly for Jack in Dick's Home Area

LOS ANGELES (AP)— It was open season on Vice President Richard M. Nixon today for Sen. John F. Kennedy.

Kennedy has tossed aside his self-imposed restriction against attacking Nixon while the latter was in a hospital recuperating from a knee infection.

The Democratic presidential nominee told a wildly cheering throng outside Shrine Auditorium Friday night: "If you want to stand still under Vice President Nixon, vote Republican. But if you want to move forward, vote Democratic."

In Nixon's home grounds, Kennedy drew a crowd that overflowed the 6,570-seat auditorium. More than 3,000 persons who couldn't get in massed tightly outside to await his arrival. Police had to form a flying wedge to get him into the hall.

It was by all odds the biggest and most enthusiastic indoor crowd he has drawn on his current political swing. Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, the Democratic national chairman, and other party leaders interpreted the thunderous welcome as indicating Kennedy's chances of carrying crucial California are better than they had believed.

Pandemonium broke loose when the Massachusetts senator was introduced inside the hall. Spectators chanted "We want Jack" for nearly three minutes.

When he came to the microphone Kennedy said with a wide grin: "I just hope it will be this nice in Texas next week."

After a 9-hour rest break following a breakfast meeting today with California Democratic candidates, Kennedy will fly to San Diego Sunday and thence to El Paso, Tex.

There he will campaign with his running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson. He will seek to hold Texas' 24 electoral votes—which the state twice gave to President Eisenhower—just as he is seeking to capture what he regards as California's crucial 32 votes.

List GOP Speakers at 35 Party Dinners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican fund-raising dinners in 35 cities will be linked by closed-circuit television Sept. 29 for a program featuring President Eisenhower, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Henry Cabot Lodge and other party leaders.

As announced earlier, Eisenhower will speak at the GOP dinner in Chicago. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, will be in Boston. His running mate Lodge will be at Los Angeles.

Others who will be included in the 40-minute television presentation will be Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who will talk at the New York City dinner; Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who will speak from Houston; Rep. Walter H. Judd of Minnesota, speaking from Omaha; and Thruston B. Morton, GOP national chairman, speaking from Philadelphia.

Speakers at dinners in other cities will include:

Thomas E. Dewey, former New York governor, Detroit; Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, Flint, Mich.; Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Leonard Hall, GOP national campaign manager, Lansing, Mich.; Rep. Bruce Alger of Texas, Jackson, Miss.

Kennedy's Meeting Hot Question Directly

Nixon to Explain His Stand on Religion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The rival presidential candidates agree that Sen. John F. Kennedy's Catholicism should not be a campaign issue but the religious question refused to stay buried.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was described today as ready to detail his stand on religion as an issue in the election. And Robert Kennedy, his brother's campaign manager, Friday called religion the "major issue" of the Democratic nominee's campaign.

The Republican candidate was scheduled to make his first public statements Sunday night in response to questions on a television panel show, "Meet the Press."

It was learned that if asked to comment on the religious issue, which has taken on new emphasis in recent days, Nixon will restate, and probably expand his views. The vice president has insisted that a man's religion should not be a bar to holding public office and has urged that the question be talked about as little as possible.

There appeared to be little doubt, however, that Kennedy's Catholic beliefs would remain a heated issue as the campaign gathers steam.

COMES OUT FIGHTING

Kennedy has shown no inclination to sidestep his detractors. Friday night, speaking to a rally at Los Angeles, he repeated his stand that separation of church and state is the "happiest arrangement for organization of a society."

The senator said "I do not know what I can do other than state that as my conviction. I don't accept the view that my church would place pressure on me. Why should I be questioned as to my loyalty to the United States?"

The latest round of religious debate was touched off earlier this week when 150 Protestant ministers, under the leadership of Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, charged that a Catholic president, regardless of his own views, could come under heavy and perhaps irresistible pressures from the Catholic hierarchy to support Vatican objectives in the U. S. foreign and domestic policies.

A prominent Episcopal clergyman said Saturday it is unjust and undemocratic for Protestants to oppose a Roman Catholic for president purely on the grounds of his religion.

The Rev. Dr. Charles D. Kean, rector of Epiphany Church in downtown Washington, sharply criticized the stand taken by the Peale group.

Dr. Kean, who has often clashed publicly with the Catholic hierarchy over such issues as birth control, said it is absurd for Protestants to talk as if the Catholic Church were the only one which tries to influence public policy.

67.7 Pct. Profit Found in Drug

However, Probers Say It Was Before Tax Was Paid on Sales

WASHINGTON (AP)—A document subpoenaed by Senate investigators from files of Bristol Laboratories reports a 67.7 per cent net profit (before payment of taxes) on $830,825 of drug sales to the government in 1956.

The document reported a $323,204 tax bite—both state and federal—left a net profit after taxes of $289,135. While it did not give an after taxes percentage, the document said this averaged out to 14.96 cents per share of outstanding stock.

Bristol officials said the drug in question was the antibiotic known as tetracycline and was sold to the Military Medical Supply Agency.

Officials of the Syracuse, N.Y., drug manufacturing plant protested in vain against introduction of the document. They succeeded, however, in inducing the subcommittee not to introduce four other subpoenaed documents in which Bristol had spelled its production costs and profits on the sale of tetracycline.

Merrell Clark, Bristol's counsel, argued the detailed report would have tipped valuable information to competing firms which had not been required to give similar data.

3-County Area in State Touted as National Park

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—A Northwest Lower Michigan area of Benzie, Leelanau and Grand Traverse counties is reported in the lead for consideration as a new national parks site.

Don Humphrey, a spokesman for Region Five of the National Parks Service, said he was completing field work on the third and final report concerning economic factors involved.

He said the survey by the National Parks Service and United States Department of the Interior covers a 60,000-acre portion of Benzie and Leelanau counties, including 35 miles of Lake Michigan shoreline.

The area stretches from Good Harbor Bay in Leelanau County to Betsie Point in Benzie County.

The proposed national park would be part of the federal cash program to preserve outstanding tourist and resort areas for public use, Humphrey said.

He indicated that the Huron Mountains and Picture Rocks on Lake Superior in the Upper Peninsula also are under consideration as a national parks area.

Police said a pool ball rolled out the door of a pool parlor here and into the street, where a tire of a passing automobile hit it a glancing blow. It was the proper english to send the ball all the way across the street and through the plate glass door of a bank.

Chiefs Quit Fighting

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Chiefs of the Masai and Kamba tribes say they have agreed to settle differences through a border committee. During a week of fighting, which followed cattle thefts, 12 Kamba and 2 Masai were killed.

Claims Ministers Revive Klan Spirit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., has charged that the spirit of the Ku Klux Klan is being revived by the Protestant ministers who are challenging Sen. John F. Kennedy's bid for the presidency because he is a Catholic.

Powell said Friday the only difference is that leaders of the current movement "are charging the white robes of the Klan for the black robes of white Protestant preachers."

America, Canada Hold Top-Secret Air Maneuvers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Swarms of jet interceptors screamed through skies emptied of all commercial airliners for six hours early today, stabbing against bombers in a giant and realistic training exercise for North America's air defenses.

The military, imposing as much secrecy as it could on an operation involving hundreds of warplanes, clamped top security on "Exercise Sky Shield."

Headquarters of the North American Air Defense (NORAD) Command at Colorado Springs and the Strategic Air Command (SAC) at Omaha, warned in advance that newsmen would be banned from all affected bases for reasons of security and the "touchy international situation."

This was in sharp contrast to the normal inclination of the Air Force to show the public as much as it can about its capabilities. It aroused speculation about the underlying reasons.

SEVERAL POSSIBILITIES

One apparent reason: the necessity for secrecy about exact routes and deployment of defending and attacking forces, or any information which would show precise strengths or weaknesses in NORAD or SAC forces.

The reference to a touchy international situation was less apparent. It could have been to possible flights of some bombers and fighters across northwest Alaskan areas — not too far from Soviet territory.

Or the reference might have related to Canada, which took part in the sky operation. Canadian sovereignty, the contribution of the Royal Canadian Air Force, and the operation of U.S. Air Force planes over Canadian territory has been a controversial subject in Canada.

But in spite of the secrecy, Mr. John Citizen had glimpses of the dramatic doings.

The military cautioned that some areas might hear the thunderclap sound of a "sonic boom" as a low flying fighter surged through the sound barrier.

At all the big and little airports of the two nations there was a strange interlude. For the six hours beginning at 1 a.m., Eastern Standard Time, no commercial airliner, no private plane, no military aircraft except those taking part in Sky Shield took off or landed.

Hollywood Stars Face Occupational Hazard

By EARL WILSON

PARIS — I didn't want to come right out and tell Josh Logan that he had grown plump on this French food while filming "Fanny," so I beat around the bush.

"Do your actors get fat while working here on a picture?" I delicately inquired.

"I know that directors do!" he exclaimed, patting what was once his slim waistline. "I've gained 30 pounds.

"And Charles Boyer—well, he has a comedy part. He plays a baggy-pants bartender. Lately the pants aren't so baggy on him. In fact, he's fitting the pants now."

We were out at the Boulogne Studios where Maurice Chevalier, Leslie Caron, Torat Buchholtz and the others are winding up "Fanny"—and Josh Logan was bubbling with joy over what should be another film smash.

"I don't think he looks fat—I think he looks wonderful!" little 103-pound Leslie Caron said.

"There's a mouvement on among French industries," spoke up one Frenchman, "to cut the two-hour lunch down to one hour and do away with those big eating orgies at noon."

"I don't think it'll catch on," Logan replied happily.

"They serve you this creme fraiche on strawberries and you keep putting more and more on . . ."

Logan's the only living American who ever studied under Stanislavsky (at the Moscow Art Theater, on a scholarship from Princeton, when Stanislavsky was already ill and doing his teaching from a day-bed).

"'South Pacific' was directed according to principles I saw Stanislavsky use in the classroom," Logan said. Who would have thought that show was a "method" musical?

Record Harvest Seen as Key Crops Gain

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agricultural Department said Friday a record harvest now seems likely with most major crops registering gains during the past month.

Based on Sept. 1 estimates, the production index for all crops edged upward to 120 per cent of the 1947-49 average, to widen the margin over the former record of 118 per cent for the 1958 and 1959 crop seasons.

The department said feed grains and oilseed crops made substantial improvements during the month, while hay and forage, cotton and tobacco showed slight advances.

More Money Needed for Highway Program

Chances are that motorists will be asked next year to pay another cent a gallon in Federal gasoline tax, says Editorial Research Reports. The aim is to rescue the 41,000 mile network of interstate highways from increasing financial troubles.

Pushing the additional tax through Congress may not be easy because of charges of corruption and waste. A special House Committee will resume hearings into alleged overpayment to contractors. Some bridges admittedly were built too low to allow passage of trucks carrying ballistic missiles.

Federal and state officials assert that occasional cases of skulduggery should not be allowed to hold up progress on a vast highway program of vital importance to the national economy. President EISENHOWER has called the road project "the greatest public works program in history."

Authorized in Congress in 1956, the financing plan was based on cost estimates of $27.5 billion, very soon raised to $40 billion. Then in 1958 as an anti-recession measure, it was decided to step up spending without providing additional revenue. As a result Congress now must come up with an additional $10 to $13 billion if the road program is to be completed by 1972 as planned.

New surveys indicate that future highway demands may surpass what was expected five years ago when the plans were drawn up. Demand is outpacing construction.

There's no question of the need for more and better roads.

Algerian Deadlock Still France's Big Problem

Despite all evidence to the contrary, Gen. DE GAULLE at his press conference said that France is steadily moving toward a solution of the Algerian problem and warned the United Nations to keep hands off.

The Algerian rebels had proposed a U.N. referendum on independence but the plan is not favored in France which maintains that the Algerian question is an internal one. Discussions with leaders of the insurrection were broken off in July because the provisional government in Tunis felt the French terms were "so restrictive and so humiliating" as to make free negotiations impossible.

Red China is reported to be urging the rebels to step up the fighting and "internationalize" the conflict. MAO has granted them large credits for continuation of the war.

Arab League members reportedly are recruiting volunteers and have pledged to work for recognition of the rebel government by "friendly countries." Foreign ministers of the league promise to back self-determination for Algeria at the U.N. General Assembly opening Sept. 20.

A compromise resolution in the 1959 session of the Assembly called for informal talks on a "peaceful solution on the basis of the right of self-determination." But it did not get the two-thirds majority needed for adoption. Most Western nations were opposed on the ground that it was an internal matter for France and the United States abstained from voting.

With an ever growing "anti-colonial" Afro-Asian bloc in the U.N., France has every reason to shun debate on Algeria in the Assembly.

Bentley Says Ignore K, We Have Another Idea

At a meeting of the Pontiac Civitan Club, Rep. ALVIN M. BENTLEY, R-Mich., suggested that New Yorkers turn their backs and scorn NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV when the premier visits here later this month.

The idea is probably something most of us would like to do. But it seems to us that it would just be playing in K's hands. Also, it is a childish gesture. He is coming here for sure on a propaganda mission.

This would give the "little egotist," as BENTLEY referred to him, just the ammunition he needs to show the folks back home. It would seem to us in better taste if we were to listen quietly and not participate in any sort of demonstration.

AN AMERICAN is a person who doesn't really believe he is having a good time unless he's doing something he can't afford.

Business 'Better'; Italy Needs It

By HAROLD A. FITZGERALD
Publisher, The Pontiac Press

ROME—For centuries Italy has been "the poor relation" of all Europe. The economic situation of the struggling Italians never seemed to improve and abject poverty was synonymous with the whole boot country—the kind that suggested humiliation and despair.

But things are improving.
"Business — she is good."
At least it's better.

That's the word from old timers who have watched decades of the dreary past and who are encouraged over the recent turn of events. There is no oil and no coal and the Italians cannot even produce half enough iron for their own use.

Outspoken economists attribute the current betterment to the fact the United States lent aid to the Italians right after the conclusion of World War II.

Also, private enterprise took a determined stand and started lifting Italy by her anemic bootstraps. The land isn't prosperous, but the conditions of millions have bettered. Italy is holding up her head in world trade. In fact, for sheer energy and drive, observers tell me the Italians are matching anything you can see anywhere.

There are still nearly two million unemployed and the average Italian isn't in the financial class of the average German, Belgian, Frenchman, Hollander or Englishman.

Of course, you can't even mention the United States in this discussion, but then, you can't mention the United States with any other lands anywhere, anyway, we're so far ahead.

Last year Italy's business stepped up six plus per cent which was better than we did in the United States and about 50 per cent better than Russia.

The boom must be extended in Italy, but the country's "on the way," and Italians are thankful for that.

But this prosperity is very unevenly divided. It's concentrated in the north around Bologne, Milan and Genoa. In the south, there's entirely too much unemployment, illiteracy and fearful poverty.

Italian communists have seized these circumstances and exploited them to the limit. They foment trouble wherever possible; and the Red representatives aren't unofficial or underground. In the Chamber of Deputies, they have 141 seats, the second largest bloc.

They've instigated and abetted a large number of strikes and have added to the confusion and economic decline. They're working constantly on additional discord, trouble and bitterness. Civil disorders are the "specialty of the house" with these international rats.

It's all very complex, unhealthy and confusing with the trouble-making Soviets pouring gasoline into every smouldering fire they can find—or start.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

Submariners of our nuclear fleet carry faith into the depths of the sea. Space limitations prevent chaplains from sailing with the subs on long missions, but members of the crews conduct their own services. Tape recordings of hymns and sermons are provided. There are worship kits containing a chalice, a reversible crucifix, communion kit, candle sticks and altar cloths. This sketch is based from details of religious services in the mess hall aboard the USS Triton during its 'round the world cruise this year.

Days of All Faiths:

Pompous Emperor Made Humble

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

It was on Sept. 14 in 629 (some say 6241 that the Emperor Heraclius began the custom, now observed annually in Jerusalem, of holding up a piece of the Lord's cross to be venerated by the people. The occasion is known as The Exaltation of the Cross.

There is a legend about the first day on which the cross was exalted. The fragment which has been preserved in a silver box in Jerusalem, was taken away in 614 by the Persians, who were not Christians. Now Heraclius had recovered it, box and all, and was about to make a great production out of restoring it to its traditional place. As he moved into Jerusalem, dressed in his golden crown and purple robes, carrying the sacred relic in a splendid, glittering procession, he came to a point where he found himself physically unable to move any nearer to the holy places of the city. His feet just wouldn't work.

In fear and frustration he consulted the Patriarch, who suggested that perhaps all this grandeur was inappropriate for this cross that had once been carried so humbly through these same streets. At once the Emperor put off his imperial trappings, and when he was barefoot and dressed in simple clothes, the procession moved on with ease to its destination. The silver box was opened, the holy wood was displayed, and many miraculous cures of the sick were effected that day.

Known sometimes as Holy Cross Day, this day is observed in the Roman and Eastern churches, and in some parts of the Anglican.

Certain language peculiarities are sometimes confusing in connection with references to the Holy Cross. In French Sancta Croix becomes St. Croix, giving the impression that they are talking about a saint. St. Croix Island, for example, is really Holy Cross Island.

In England the old word "rood" is often used instead of "cross." Any church named Holy Rood Church, and there are many of them, is actually Holy Cross Church.

The Christian Church has weighty and serious reasons for remembering St. Cornelius, who in 252 rose from the status of priest to that of Bishop of Rome, and who accepted the elevation knowing that it meant sure death. This was a time of intense persecution by the terrible Emperor Decius. All Christians were in mortal danger, and certainly no prominent one had much chance of saving his life.

Cornelius was banished from Rome in 253, and later that same year he was put to death by the sword. But in his short term as Pope he managed to put down forever one of the great heresies (Novatianism) that threatened the early Church.

If Frightened, Converse About Natural Childbirth

I'm dying to have a baby but I get panicky at the thought of being examined by the doctor and going to a hospital. So please send me Little Lesson No. 4, PREPARING FOR MATERNITY, for which I enclose 35 cents and stamped self-addressed envelope. (R. D.)

DR. BRADY

Ans. — Ideal treatment for your trouble, Ma'am, would be a few quiet conversations with a woman who has experienced natural childbirth. Little Lesson No. 4 may help you, but I advise you to get from the public library Dr. Grantly Dick Read's "CHILDBIRTH WITHOUT FEAR." This famous book will surely dispel your panic.

DIET FOR WHAT?

Having been given the suggestion to follow milk diet, please express your opinion on this subject. . . . (Mrs. D. H.)

Ans. — I wouldn't do it just for the heck of it. Maybe if you'll tell me what ails you I can express my opinion.

Will you please send me the wonder drug. I haven't been able to find it in Lexington, Ky. (O. M.)

Ans.—Through my own carelessness or perhaps a misprint, a reference to a wonder drug has evidently misled you. "Wonder drug" is a nick-name a shrewd publicity agent gave the expensive medicines his employers manufacture.

What makes such medicines outrageously expensive is the high cost of the promotion to keep doctors prescribing 'em.

THE DOCTOR LIKES SHOTS

Doctor giving me calcium injections for arthritis. Have had 12 at $10 per, but can't see that I have received any benefit. He doesn't believe in medicine or vitamins by mouth. . . (H. W.)

Ans. — At $10 per dose it is so much more profitable to believe "that's the ONLY way to fix!" In my judgment calcium or vitamins, even B-12, by mouth are as effective as they can be by injection.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Dispel Needless Fears of Insanity

Don't be gullible in the matter of insanity. Use your "horse sense" and you will realize that young men likes Charles have been needlessly terrified.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE F-466: Charles M., aged 20, is a talented music student.

"Dr. Crane, I have been worried about losing my mind," he admitted to me as he sat down.

DR. CRANE

"People say I am very nervous, and I guess they are right. When I am under tension, I also keep blinking my eyes in rapid succession. "Do I have a neurosis, or am I going insane? I've been tortured by uncertainty for years, so I'd like to know the facts, even though they are bad!"

DIAGNOSIS

Charles isn't in danger of losing his mind, nor are you millions of other Americans who often become apprehensive on this point.

Please remember that insane patients don't worry about their minds!

Besides, they don't read educational columns like this to learn whether they have a neurosis or a psychosis.

Nor do they visit a physician to have a diagnosis made! Some member of the family may take them to a doctor, but they don't seek one of their own accord

But people with a neurosis often worry lest they may be going insane. They even get so frightened that their digestion becomes disturbed and many other nervous symptoms sprout.

They shop around voluntarily among several doctors, constantly seeking new advice. Such behavior in itself shows that they are quite sane.

GOD'S PUNISHMENT

Insanity is the bugaboo of the human race because we have long regarded it as a form of divine retribution for our sins.

People who have violated some sex code, are prone to worry about tightening, heart attacks, or insanity.

These three dramatic and sudden types of death or affliction, are popularly linked with God.

Such victims seldom fear tuberculosis or diabetes, leprosy or diphtheria.

No, they almost invariably select one of the classical three "divine punishments."

Charles' problem, as usual, fell in this category for he had indulged in auto erotic practices, as have probably 75 per cent of other boys.

TORTURED YOUTH

Too long we have tortured children and young people by erroneous diagnosis and threats of insanity, feeblemindedness or the like.

Always see your "horse sense" for that is simply practical psychology and ask, "why should such an action cause insanity?"

Syphilis can injure the brain, for it is a germ disease. Like sleeping sickness or encephalitis, it may destroy nerve cells.

A piece of shrapnel might also tear its way through the brain and destroy nerve cells without killing the patient. His mind might be deranged thereafter.

But germs and bullets or chemical poisons are different from self sex practices. The latter are habits just like piano playing. And piano playing does not derange your mind!

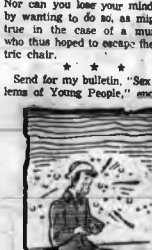

Neither do self sex practices! So free young people from this unnecessary fear of insanity.

Remember, too, you do not go insane by dreading this condition! Nor can you lose your mind even by wanting to do so, as might be true in the case of a murderer who thus hoped to escape the electric chair.

Send for my bulletin, "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a stamped return envelope and 20c (non-profit). It will soon erase the common fears of insanity

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing cost. Be sure to send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

'No Invitation Necessary to Attend Political Rally'

The article in Wednesday's paper regarding the bipartisan political rally sponsored by the League of Women Voters said, "Those interested in attending the rally should call or write (list of committee members) by Sept. 14."

That reply date is for candidates only, so that the committee can arrange the program.

The rally is open to anyone who wishes to attend, whether he receives an invitation or not. It is free. It is a public service of the four sponsoring leagues to the areas they serve.

Castro-ism Penetrating Chile's Politics, Labor

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Martinez is a noted Cuban newspaper publisher whose paper has been seized by the Castro government. Now residing in Mexico, he comments from vast experience on the vital Latin American scene.)

By G. MARTINEZ MARQUEZ

SANTIAGO, Chile — Chile is the Latin American country where Communist agitation is least apparent at this time.

MARQUEZ

"Perhaps," remarked a Chilean friend, "that is due to the greater experience of our Communist leaders. In recent years, at least, they have supposedly given up large scale agitation and general strikes as the means to a coup d'etat."

Nevertheless, Castro-ism, which has spurred Communist activity all over Latin America, is starring to penetrate Chile's politics and its labor movement. It has not yet made any show of mass strength, but Castro-ism can be detected in a number of publications and organizations.

A few hours after my arrival in Santiago I went to the Cafe de Brasil. As I sat at a table with Martin Leguhaimon, UPI chief in Santiago, I overheard a conversation at a nearby table.

"In Cuba," said one, "they are building a socialist regime like China's. Until now they have had to spend their time fighting the United States. But soon they will have enough experts and technicians to send to Latin America . . . and to Chile, of course."

Other customers unfortunately came between my table and the other, so the rest of the conversation was lost to me. But I was impressed by its definitely Communist tone. It was my first contact with the people of Santiago.

That same day, the students, workers and intellectuals who went to the Cuban government's "Youth Congress" returned to Chile.

According to the newspapers, they disembarked "masquerading as Cuban peasants," well coached on spreading the Cuban revolution through the rest of Latin America. "We'll see the results of their Cuban visit very soon," a journalist told me.

Until recently, Chilean politics had a peculiar characteristic. The Socialists favored militant mass action and general strikes, and they were charged with plotting to seize power.

The Communists kept their tactics legal. Among the well-to-do it was fashionable to say that you could trust a Communist but not a Socialist.

On Castro, too, there has been a slight difference of opinion between the two parties. "He is a tropical monstrosity, without ideological content," a Communist leader is said to have stated not long ago. On the other hand, the Socialists have shown a lively interest in the Cuban revolution.

Last year, Christian Democratic and radical leaders withdrew from the left-wing labor confederation, CUT. Now run jointly by the Communists and Socialists, CUT has made a pact with the Cuban labor organizations. Its leader, Clotario Blest, was recently in Cuba.

The Confederation of Copper Workers, whose leadership cannot be charged with communism, is also showing a visible inclination toward Castro-ism.

This sympathy was evidenced by the Chilean government's invitation to the Cuban ambassador to attend the meetings of the confederation. Of course the "diplomat" attends punctually. But he has not yet tried, as his colleagues have in other countries, to address any of these union meetings.

Given these developments, observers of the Chilean left-wing predict a radical and immediate shift in Communist policy. "Encouraged by the 'triumph' of the Cuban revolution," they say, "the Chilean Community party will soon adopt tactics of violence and general strikes as the appropriate road to the capture of power. They now consider it quite possible."

Carillon Recital at Cranbrook

Christ Church Children to Start Fall Term of Classes Sunday

The annual fall carillon concerts at Christ Church Cranbrook will begin tomorrow. A recital will be given each Sunday at 4 p.m. through Oct. 30.

Frederick Marriott, director of music at Central Methodist Church, Detroit, will present the opening concert.

Other carillonneurs for the month include Mrs. Richard Buchanan of Birmingham, Sept. 18; and Sidney Giles, assistant carillonneur at the University of Michigan, Sept. 28.

October recitalists have not been announced.

Christ Church Cranbrook sponsors the series of concerts on the 62-bell carillon each spring and fall. The programs are open to the public free of charge. Those attending may find ample parking space in the church lot. Persons may sit on the lawn or in the sanctuary to hear the music.

The fall term of the church school will begin Sunday with services at 9:30 and 11:15 a.m.

The nursery for children under three years of age will move back to Cranbrook House on the Booth Estate.

Parents may bring children three, four and five years of age to their classrooms on the first floor before the church service begins. Registration cards for new children will be made at this time.

Children from the first grade through the 10th will attend church with their families tomorrow for the entire service. On Sept. 18 they will leave for classes as usual before the sermon.

Parents of all new children may register them after either family service in the room just off the dining where the coffee hour is held.

The Episcopal Churchwomen of Christ Church will hold the first fall meeting at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The day will begin with Holy Communion at 10 a.m. followed by the meeting and program at 10:30. Russell Barnes, foreign news analyst for the Detroit News, will speak, at the luncheon at 12:15 p.m.

Churches of God to Hold Minister's Conference

The annual Ministers' Conference of the Churches of God in the state of Michigan will convene at the local church at East Pike and Anderson Streets Wednesday and Thursday.

The Rev. Floyd Timmerman of 317 Ottawa Dr., State Overseer for the denomination, will moderate the conference, which includes 18 churches with 125 ministers.

The Rev. John E. Lemons who came to Pontiac this week from Radford, Va., will be introduced as the new youth director of the state.

During the business sessions a council of seven men will be chosen to assist the Rev. Mr. Timmerman.

Suggestions will be presented to assist ministers in the annual Missions and Home for Children program. The date will also be set for the annual camp meeting to be held on the 40-acre grounds located near Fenton.

The conference will close Thursday evening with guest speaker the Rev. C. R. Spain, field representative for the church mission department which reaches into 56 countries. The speaker has traveled extensively through out the mission territory.

All services will be for ministers except the closing one. The public is invited, said the Rev. Moore, host pastor.

Members Meet to Organize

Lutheran Congregation Names New Church 'Cross of Christ'

Formerly known as the Lutheran Church of Bloomfield Township, members met this week to organize under the new name, the Cross of Christ Lutheran—Missouri Synod.

Located at the corner of Franklin, Telegraph and East Square Lake Roads, the church is familiar to many by the huge floral cross on the lawn.

Officers of the new congregational are Paul Hofmeister of 1712 Hamilton Dr., chairman; Thomas Willite, of 49530 Maple Rd. Plymouth, secretary; and William Thiede of 2499 Lalay Ave., treasurer.

Next spring the congregation plans to begin construction of a new worship and educational building.

Sunday morning worship is held at 9:45 a.m. followed by a coffee hour. Church School starts at 11 a.m.

The pastor of Cross of Christ Lutheran Church is the Rev. Delayne H. Pauling. A recent graduate of Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, Mo., he comes to Bloomfield Township from Iowa.

DR. JOHN LINTON

Dr. John Linton at Memorial

Preacher, Assembly to Speak, Sing at Saturday Program for Children

Dr. John Linton, noted Scottish Evangelist, author and Bible teacher, will speak at special meetings at Memorial Baptist Church Sunday through Sept. 18 with services starting Sunday morning. His subject tomorrow will be Gospel Magic.

Dr. Linton's daughter, Muriel, will present "The Little Preacher" at 3:30 today and again at the same time on Sept. 17.

Designed for boys and girls, the program consists of an eight-inch high doll preacher and a doll congregation. The doll-size replica of a church congregation resembles a scene out of Gulliver's Travels.

While boys and girls crowd around the congregation and preach a sermon, singing and Bible instruction are played from a record machine under the floor of the church.

Miss Linton plans to improve the mechanics of the recorded sermon. She hopes to install a relay system that would permit her to carry on a simulated conversation with the voice of the preacher, she said.

Miss Linton said she will spend the next two years in the Windsor-Detroit area, traveling with her miniature congregation from church to church, instructing and entertaining young parishioners.

Youth Fellowship Starts Sunday at 1st Methodist

"Do You Talk to Yourself?" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Paul T. Hart at the morning service at First Methodist Church Sunday.

The Sanctuary Choir will sing and Gerald Augsburger will present a solo, "How About Your Heart" by Triplett.

Methodist Youth Fellowship will hold the first fall meeting at 6:15 p.m. Sunday.

The commission on education will sponsor a workers' conference at 7:30 Tuesday evening. The meeting is planned for church school teachers, officers, class presidents, youth counselors and helpers.

Mrs. Ethel Proffitt will conduct the worship service with the theme, "A New Creature in Christ." Divisional meetings will follow with refreshments served by the Aurora class.

Dr. Chester McPheeters will conduct the quarterly conference in the church parlors at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Radio Missionaries Come to 1st Baptist

The Rev. Don Luttrell, founder and director of missionary radio station WIVV constructed in 1956 in Puerto Rico and David Porritt and Ray Nobles will be at the First Baptist Church for the 10:45 morning worship service.

The three will speak of their experiences among the islands of the West Indies and provide special trumpet selections as well as sing gospel music.

In the last three years 40,000 individuals have professed acceptance of Christ in rallies held by missionary Luttrell with team members and approximately 50,000 have receiced Bible correspondence lessons, First Baptist Church reported.

The speakers have just returned from a tour of all 11 islands where they held rallies in 93 cities and villages.

Confident Living

Emphasizes Religion in Varied Conversation

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Some people collect stamps, others coins, some autographs. As for me, my hobby is meeting and talking with people—people of all kinds and conditions. I am a collector of experiences with interesting people. My latest find in the pursuit of this hobby is David Ben Gurion, premier of Israel.

PEALE

He graciously invited me to his office for a chat when I visited his country several weeks ago. I was accompanied by Mrs. Peale, by my friend Rabbi Morris Kertzer of New York and by my host, Ambassador Tuvia Arazi.

The Israeli premier, now in his 70s, is a man of impressively vigorous appearance. Two big shocks of white hair project from the sides of his head. His face is extremely mobile.

Though he was in the midst of an enormously busy day, what with the appointment of a new cabinet minister and crisis problems to attend to, he seemed completely relaxed. I found him quick on the uptake, kindly in his attitudes and full of good humor.

TALKED 40 MINUTES

He talked with me for 40 minutes. Of politics? Not at all. He led me into a discussion ranging from Zen philosophy to Emerson and William James, but with special emphasis upon religion.

He then remarked that in any Jewish anthology he would recommend inclusion of the 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians. Rabbi Kertzer wondered what orthodox rabbis would think of this, but the Israeli premier said, "It's a free country."

He referred to St. Paul's immortal words in that chapter as descriptive of the meaning of life. With obvious feeling he quoted the verse, "So faith, hope, love abide, these three; but the greatest of these is love."

He also voiced a special admiration for one of the great precepts in Leviticus. Often quoted by Jewish people as indicating the essence of morality are the words:

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself" from Leviticus 19:18 or the passage from Micah 6:8 reading "What does the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

Ben Gurion, wholeheartedly approving of these sentiments, seemed to feel that even "greater moral grandeur" is expressed in Leviticus 19:34:

"The stranger that dwelleth with you shall be unto you as one born among you, and thou shalt love him as thyself."

So much was I impressed by Ben Gurion's unflagging zest throughout my talk with him that I asked him, "With all the stresses and strains you are exposed to, how, may I ask, do you maintain your buoyant enthusiasm?"

His response was a simple one. He reached forward and placed his hand reverently on a copy of the Hebrew Scriptures lying on his desk.

"It's all from here," he said. And I am sure he is right, for, "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength."

Trouble Can Be Trying Blessing, Doctor Points Out

Trouble can be a blessing, points out Dr. Roy L. Smith in the October issue of Methodism's family magazine, TOGETHER.

The teacher who assigns a difficult lesson to a bright pupil is actually blessing him by making it necessary for him to grow in order to overcome.

The sales manager who assigns the young salesman to a difficult territory is really doing him a great favor. The preacher who is assigned to an exacting pastorate has his chance to become great.

"If comfort, ease, and quick success are our ideas of achievement," writes Dr. Smith, "then many of the great blessings of life may prove burdensome.

"But if rugged strength, persistent patience, and enduring satisfactions are our goals, then let us give thanks for the blessings that come wrapped up in difficulties."

Pastor to Speak on 'I Believe'

Crusader, Choraler Chapel, Chancel Choirs Begin Rehearsals

The Rev. Edward D. Auchard will return Sunday to the pulpit of Orchard Lake Community Church, Presbyterian preaching on the subject, "I Believe in God." The Chancel Choir will sing.

This is the first in a series of eight sermons on "I Believe." A study guide has been prepared for use by members of the congregation during the series. This is an experiment in relating preaching to an educational experience among members of the church.

Children of the Crusader and Choralers Choirs under the direction of Mrs. Alice Smith will enroll at 4 p. m. Wednesday.

A new musical group called the Chapel Choir for junior high age young people will rehearse for the first time at 7 p. m. Thursday. Ronald Thorburn is director.

Robert Newton will preside at the meeting of trustees Monday evening. The session will convene Tuesday.

Pastor Auchard will present the Bible study at 11:15 a. m. Wednesday at the Women's Association. The executive board will meet following lunch with Mrs. Rudolph Schafrick in charge.

At 6:30 p. m. Wednesday a dinner for the church school staff is scheduled. Plans are being made by Christian Koch.

Church School Classes Start at St. Mary's

Classes from nursery through junior high age will register at 11 a.m. Sunday at St. Mary's-in-the-Hills Episcopal Church. Daniel McGeen is superintendent; and Thomas Culbert, principal.

All classes will meet in the undercroft and have their own worship service and music. During the past year the enrollment has increased from 25 small children to nearly 70 children and young people.

New dividers added this summer make it possible for each class to have its own meeting place. A new curriculum called the "Church Teaching Series" was initiated during the year at a substantial cost which was born by the women of the church.

The Rev. Wilbur R. Schultze, rector, will preach on "Anxiety" at the 9 and 11 a.m. services tomorrow. Assisting will be Edwin Knapp, lay reader.

Vesper Hour at Trinity

The Vesper Hour at Trinity Baptist will be held at 7:30 under the auspices of the Couples' Club. The Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson will present the program.

Assistant pastor of New Bethel Baptist Church, the Rev. Mr. Johnson will preach and Mrs. Johnson will offer vocal selections.

"THE SEAT OF CORRUPTION"

This article marks the final in this series on "THE SEAT OF CORRUPTION." I have emphasized with great consistency that the heart is the place where desire and purpose ARE FORMED and consequently is responsible for our action.

Spurgeon says, "Last summer I noticed hornets continually flying from a number of decayed logs in my garden. I saw them constantly flying in and out, and I did not think myself at all unreasonable in concluding that there was a hornet's nest there: and so, if we see the hornets of sin flying out of a man, we suppose at once there is sin within him." Evil, unrighteous, ungodly action indicates the same type mind and it is for this reason we are told, "Keep thy heart with all diligence."

I have been reasoning with you from Matt. 15:19 where Jesus numerates a number of things which He says defile a man and proceed forth from the heart. Having previously discussed with you:
1. Evil Thoughts
2. Murders
3. Adulteries and fornication
4. Thefts
5. False Witnesses
it is Blasphemies that I wish to here discuss!

BLASPHEMIES

The word, Blasphemy as used in this verse, means slander, detraction, speech injurious to another's good name (J.H. Thayer, D.D., page 102) or to speak "impiously or reproachfully" of another. Certainly the world today needs to attain heights which would constrain them to refrain from smearing another's reputation and spoiling another's good name. Some people today seem to delight in slander, but too late have many learned that subversiveness is like a good true boomerang, it always COMES BACK TO YOU. Someone has said, "It is better to say a good thing about a bad fellow than to say a bad thing about a good fellow."

How many people do you know whose: 1. Influence has been killed, 2. Reputation has been ruined, 3. Honesty has been questioned, 4. Position has been taken, 5. Home has been threatened, and 6. Life has been lessened, because someone was too quick with the tongue, loose with the words before he gave time to "Considering Thyself" Gal. 6:1, and his fellow man.

Blasphemy in any form regardless of the cloak it hides under, complying with the definition given, is sin and Jesus says it defiles a man. Therefore, men should refrain from indulging in it, whether the blasphemy be against man, or God, or Christ, or the Holy Spirit for all blasphemy unrepented of and unforgiven will cause man to be turned away from God and the Holy City, when before the Bar they stand. Do you Dear Friend, need to flee from sin and come to Christ? If so, why delay today, you can come by Faith—Heb. 11:6, Repentance — Acts 17:30, Confession — Rom. 10:10, Baptism — Acts 2:38, and you will be free. Rom. 6:17.

Churchmanship Classes to Start

Courses to Help People Read, Study the Bible, to Assist Teachers

"How to Study the Bible" will be one of several courses offered at the Pontiac School of Churchmanship sponsored by area Methodist Churches. Classes will be held in First Methodist Church for six consecutive weeks beginning Sept. 19 at 7:30 p.m.

Dean of the school is the Rev. John D. Mulder of Walled Lake. Courses will be presented for all area Methodist Churches to help teachers in the church school, and help people to develop good habits of Bible reading.

The Rev. Harry J. Lord, a retired minister, will be an instructor.

After serving several Methodist Churches in the state, including Oakland Park and First Methodist of Pontiac, he was appointed director of Christian education for the Michigan Council of Churches. He held this position until retirement.

"Dramatics in Christian Education" will be another special course offered.

The study will deal with the value of drama in the total program of Christian education; standards of religious drama; techniques and skills in dramatic production; and sources of good religious drama.

The instructor for this course will be Mrs. Philip H. Townley of Warren.

In addition to her educational background, she has participated in four religious drama workshops sponsored by the National Council of Churches.

She is a member of the continuing committee which plans workshops.

Church Women Hold Institute

"Into All the World Together" will be the theme of the foreign mission study when the Pontiac Council of United Church Women holds the annual Mission Institute Monday at the Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

In charge of the study will be chairman Mrs. Fred Bohlman of the Joslyn Church.

Co-chairman Mrs. Clarence W. Myers of Bethany Baptist Church will present "Heritage and Horizons in Home Missions."

Assisting with the program will be Mrs. Eugene Hoisington and Mrs. Fred Giddings.

Registration is scheduled from 9:30 to 10 a.m. followed by mission study, music, luncheon and devotions. The institute will close at 2 p.m.

Participating in devotions will be Mrs. Edmond Watkins whose husband is pastor of the host church, Mrs. Grace Stevens and Mrs. L. R. Miner, wife of the pastor of Macedonia Baptist Church.

Soloist Mrs. Larry Hettinger will be accompanied by Mrs. Catherine Flood.

Mrs. Brady B. Adams will make a presentation of "The Bible in Many Lands."

The purpose of the institute is to present study materials which various churches will be using throughout the winter. It is hoped the study will educate and inspire church women to the needs, opportunities and obligations which face Christians today, Mrs. Bohlman said.

Members are asked to bring sack lunches. Women of the Joslyn Avenue Church will provide beverages.

Martin Luther Opens Way for Congregation to Sing

Church-goers owe the privilege of opening their hearts in hymn singing to Martin Luther.

Until Luther's time, writes Henry Koestline in the October issue of Methodism's family magazine, "Together," no one except certain clerics had been allowed to sing in church since 364 A.D.

Choral music was entirely in Latin and usually was sung in unison by priests.

But Luther had other ideas. "Our dear Lord speaks to us through His word, and we speak to Him in prayer and song," he argued. To friends, he expressed his wish that he could find German poets and musicians to compose "Christian and spiritual songs" for people to sing at services.

In 1528 he wrote a letter in which he announced his decision to follow "the example of the prophets and the early Fathers" and "write for the people some German songs, that by the help of song, the word of God may abide among them."

It was under this stimulus that his great hymn, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," was born.

On his urging, Johann Walther edited a hymnal that consisted of 38 hymns in German and only five in Latin, the latter included for the benefit of Protestant students.

Luther was also responsible for a second change in the church's musical customs. He instituted our present-day custom of singing in harmony, discarding the then-prevailing method of singing in unison.

Duffy Daugherty's Wife Writes:

Here's Grid Coach's Diet

EAST LANSING (AP)—Football coaches are eager eaters—but they are fussy ones too, according to Francie Daugherty. .

"You just can't feed your husband hot dogs when he comes off the banquet circuit," explained the wife of Michigan State football boss Duffy Daugherty.

"They all make a point of visiting the best eating places where ever they go."

AP Photofax

Cookbook author as well as pretty wife to Michigan State football coach Duffy Daugherty is Francie Daugherty. Her book contains recipes gathered from the wives of the nation's top football coaches.

Duffy's wife became fascinated with the subject and developed the idea of a cook book made up of favorite recipes of the wives of prominent football coaches across the country.

The result is "Gridiron Cookery," to be issued Sept. 19 by David McKay Co., of New York publishers.

"I started from scratch and wrote letters to each wife," said Francie. "I thought it might be a little paper-bound book. But the response was overwhelming. We have 179 contributors."

FIRST LAUGHED

"Duffy kind of laughed at first," she admitted. "But he knew I had a good thing when I started kitchen-testing the recipes on him and the children. We've had some wonderful eating from those recipes during the last two years."

Daugherty, his wife said, was mostly a steak and salad man, but she's encouraged him into adventurous eating with the cook book.

Francie, dark-haired and petite, met and married her husband when he stopped off in San Francisco on his way to a Pacific World War II assignment.

They have a son, Danny, 14, and a daughter, Dree Elizabeth, 6.

"I've always been interested in cookery," Francie said. "I love to try and make unusual dishes. Perhaps this comes from my Italian background. As a child, I learned to eat delicious Italian foods and spent hours watching my mother prepare them."

One of her favorite recipes is for Italian asparagus—included in the book.

Allieen Brothers, a former Michigan State University press staff member, is the co-author of the book.

Any proceeds, Mrs. Daugherty said, will be set aside to establish college scholarships for orphans.

"They won't have to be football players either," she added. "It will be for anyone who is worthy."

Pontiac Chapter No. 228, Order of the Eastern Star, began fall activities with a friendship brunch at the Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building Thursday.

★ ★ ★ ★

The 150 members and guests witnessed a ceremony in which Chapter 228 conductress Mrs. Joseph Minton honored 23 conductresses of Oakland County chapters.

Featured on the program were Margaret Lunsford, invocation; Ann Latoza, greeting; Mrs. Minton, welcome; and Myrtle Boutell, response.

Ruby Fobilman sang a solo, Patricia Dell danced, Ann Latoza gave readings and Nelle Killen played the piano.

Special guests were Dorris Waldo, grand conductress of the Grand Chapter of Michigan, OES, Janet Russell, president of Oakland County Macon Club; Wilma Bendle, president of Oakland County Association, OES, and Mrs. Lloyd Sibley, parliamentarian, Oakland County Ma-con Club, OES.

Committee chairmen were Catherine McCrindle, dining room, and Frances Latoza and Miss McCrindle, program and decorations.

Wed in Late Afternoon

Reception and dinner in the Orchard Lake Country Club followed late afternoon nuptials of Jean Louise Florez and Thomas B. Day of Saginaw, Friday, in Christ Church Cranbrook. The Rev. Robert DeWitt officiated at the single-ring candlelight ceremony.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Genaro A. Florez of Birmingham and Phoenix, Ariz., the bride appeared in a classic gown of ivory silk mist taffeta. Re-embroidered Alencon lace enhanced the molded bodice and long narrow sleeves.

A cap of matching lace held fingertip veiling of pure silk illusion. Her bouquet included a cascade of ivory cymbidium orchids and ivy foliage.

Mrs. Richard Catron of Denver, Colo., attended her cousin as honor matron. Bridesmaids were Mrs. William Hoglund of Prairie Village, Kan., Mrs. George Schatz of Wayne, Mrs. Robert Stahl of Midland and Mrs. Kent Black of Detroit.

Their gowns of café au lait mousseline de soie were designed with scoop necklines and flared angel sleeves. Below self-sashed waistlines, their bouffant skirts belled in wide tiers to demi length. Matching shoes and bow bandeaux were worn.

Brown wood roses and tangerine carnations comprised their cascade bouquets.

Albert Davis of Saginaw served the bridegroom as best man. Ushering were Jack Stroebel of Midland and Kent Black of Detroit with Gerard Florez of New York and John Florez of Birmingham, brothers of the bride.

A lace yoke encrusted with seed pearls and multi-colored brilliants distinguished Mrs. Florez' sheath dress of champagne silk peau de soie. Mother of the bridegroom chose brocaded aqua Milanese silk with basque bodice and Moyenage neckline. Both wore purse corsages of brown cymbidium orchids.

Leaving for a Northern Michigan honeymoon the bride wore a black silk suit with white accessories. The couple will be at home in Dearborn after Sept. 15.

Jean Louise Florez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Genaro A. Florez of Birmingham and Phoenix, spoke vows with Thomas B. Day, son of the John Edward Days of Saginaw Friday in Christ Church Cranbrook.

Jacqueline's Hair Gets Beer Rinse for Body

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — There emerged today some pertinent facts about the care given to the hair of Sen. John F. Kennedy's wife.

Some people say that if her husband is elected president in November his young wife Jacqueline will take to the White House one of the most extreme hairdos ever to grace a First Lady.

Nancy Lowe Gray, writing in the Worcester Evening Gazette, tells of an interview with Mrs. Kennedy's hairdresser at Hyannis on Cape Cod, during which these points were brought out:

1. Mrs. Kennedy's hair is rinsed with beer.

2. Her hair style is known as a modified swan, and it's Mrs. Kennedy's own creation.

3. She doesn't talk about her husband's campaign as she sits under the dryer.

Some more data obtained by Miss Gray in talking to Madame Madeleine Simoneau, co-owner with her husband of Alfred's Beauty Salon: The swan haircut measures about eight inches from the crown of the head and falls like drooped wings on either side. It is slightly shorter on top. But Mrs. Kennedy's style has other features. Her naturally wavy hair, which needs no permanent, is worn in several other bouffant styles. (Bouffant means very loose, very full, very puffed out.)

'I use very large rollers to create the high illusion," explains Mme. Simoneau. "Also, I rinse it with beer to give it more body."

But Mme. Simoneau does not claim credit for the style. "Mrs. Kennedy's hair style is not my own. It is her creation. I do it as she wishes."

The senator's young wife, dropping in at the shop several times a week, is given as much privacy as possible. "I have been her hairdresser for two years; the entire Kennedy family comes here," adds Mme. Simoneau.

"She acts like any other housewife . . . She doesn't expect any extra attention. She never speaks of her husband's campaign. I ask about her little girl, or we might talk about marketing. She is very reserved."

Will Mrs. Kennedy's hairdo be the same a few months from now? Mme. Simoneau gives a hint — that Mrs. K's tresses may soon be shorter.

Couple to Honeymoon in Northern Michigan

Delores Melnychenko of Detroit exchanged wedding vows with Seaman James E. Schellenberg before the Rev. John Berry this morning in Our Lady of Loretto Church, Detroit.

The Steve Melnychenkos of Detroit are parents of the bride and her husband is the son of Mrs. George H. Schellenberg of Maplewood Avenue, Sylvan Lake, and the late Mr. Schellenberg.

MRS J. E. SCHELLENBERG

Applique of Alencon lace enriched the bridal gown of white peau de soie designed with butterfly bustle and chapel train. A caplet of Chantilly lace held the fingertip veiling.

Resting on the bride's prayer book was a cascade of baby chrysanthemums and stephanotis.

Joyce Melnychenko, her sister's maid of honor, appeared in Copenhagen blue organza over taffeta, as did Carol Sue Ellwood, who served as bridesmaid. Both carried cascades of white baby chrysanthemums.

The bride's sister Kimberly was flower girl and a cousin, Mark Pentowski of Detroit, was ringbearer.

Thomas G. Schellenberg stood as best man for his brother. Robert Melnychenko of Detroit, cousin of the bride, seated guests with Kenneth Meredith of Sylvan Lake.

On returning from a honeymoon in Northern Michigan, the couple will live in Philadelphia where the bridegroom is stationed with the U.S. Navy.

Abby Says: And You Can't Stop 'Em

Some Mothers Enjoy Being Martyrs

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My wife is my problem. She lets our spoiled daughter make a doormat out of her. "Spoiled daughter" gave her mother a hard time while she was growing up (I could write a book on that subject).

ABBY

My wife used to put cardboard in the bottoms of her own shoes and spend all her money on dress-up clothes for Spoiled Daughter.

Spoiled Daughter is now married and has two children. She'll call her mother to baby-sit, morning, noon and night. Mother runs like a puppydog.

Spoiled Daughter drives a car, but tells Mother to "take a bus over." Some evenings are so long, my wife sleeps there all night and I sleep alone.

Spoiled Daughter never gave her mother a dime, a gift, or even said thank you. How can I make my wife stop being such a darned fool?

DISGUSTED HUSBAND

DEAR DISGUSTED: Do you know what a "martyr" is? Well, you are married to one. Mother enjoys the abuse. And as long as she enjoys playing the doormat neither you nor anybody else will stop her.

DEAR ABBY: The other day while visiting in the home of some friends, the man of the house used some very profane language in the presence of his own children and mine.

His wife told him to stop it, then my 12-year-old daughter spoke up and said, "Oh, that's all right. I hear that all the time at home!"

I was so mad I clapped her across the mouth and made her say we didn't use that language at home. Well, Abby, my wife isn't speaking to me any more for what I did. Do you think I was wrong or not?

PROVOKED FATHER

DEAR PROVOKED: You were justified in asking your daughter to correct her statement. But shame on you for slapping her across the mouth. In your efforts to show up your host, you revealed yourself to be no better.

DEAR ABBY: Our little six-year-old son is left-handed. My sister-in-law said that this is a sign of inferior intelligence. Is this true?

WORRIED MOM

DEAR MOM: Yes — in your sister-in-law.

Zonta Group Tours, Dines

Zonta International members toured Green Lake Rest Haven's buildings and grounds at a dinner and business meeting Thursday. The group was informed of the home's program for its seventy-five residents.

Committee reports were submitted at a business meeting following the tour and dinner.

Plans were outlined in detail for the annual Zonta International Fair Nov. 3 at Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building.

Mrs. Dusenbury and Mrs. Quinn are membership chairmen for the Pontiac PTA Council.

Wedding Graced by Gladioli

Myrtle Trammell Says Vows With Donald E. Carlson

Tiffany baskets of white gladioli graced the chancel of the St. John Lutheran Church for the marriage of Myrtle Louise Trammell to Donald E. Carlson.

Vows and rings were exchanged before the Rev. Charles A. Colberg in a candlelight service Sept. 3.

Parents of the newlyweds are the Orlin Trammells of Thorpe Street and the Edwin C. Carlsons of Woodlow Street, Waterford Township.

A shoulder-length cloud veil of nylon illusion held by a seed pearl tiara complemented the bridal gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta.

The double skirt of lace was worn over a pleated starched silk underskirt. The fitted bodice was styled with bateau neckline.

Wearing the bridegroom's gift necklace of pearls, the bride carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

Oriene Marie Trammell, in pale yellow chiffon, attended her sister. Her caplet of nylon leaves held a rose veil.

Bridesmaids Mrs. Ralph Jiminez and Mary Margaret Rucker wore camellia pink chiffon with matching headpieces. All attendants carried small baskets of carnations and roses to match their dresses.

The bridegroom had Earl Brown for best man. Seating guests were Gerald F. Kolbuss and the bridegroom's brother David.

At the church reception Mrs. Trammell was attired in a slate gray and white lace dress. Mrs. Carlson chose pink eyelet over taffeta with a floral hat shading from pink to deep rose. Her gloves were pink.

Mrs. Henrietta MacDougall of Thessalon, Ont., wearing a turquoise silk suit and orchid corsage, assisted at her grandson's reception.

Given in Marriage by Uncle

Crystal white coronation taffeta was chosen by Marie Mackowski of Detroit for her marriage to Donald N. Daniel this morning in St. Bartholomew Church, Detroit.

The Rev. Fabian Slominski performed the double-ring ceremony at a nuptial high Mass before some 150 guests.

Daughter of Mrs. Frank Mackowski of Detroit and the late Mr. Mackowski, the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Andrew Wrobel.

Medallions of Alencon lace, re-embroidered with seed pearls and opalescents, enhanced the molded bodice, and traditional long tapered sleeves. The full-length bouffant skirt belled beneath the pointed basque waistline into a shirred bustle effect.

Fingertip veiling of French silk illusion and a white prayer book topped with cymbidium orchids and stephanotis completed the bride's ensemble.

Ann Mackowski attended her sister as honor maid, with bridesmaids Shirley Ann Sheldock of Detroit and the bride's niece, Cheryl Ochalek of Madison Heights.

MRS. DONALD N. DANIEL

Hand-cascades of white Fuji chrysanthemums contrasted with their ballerina-length dresses of Royal blue peau de soie styled with scoop necklines and cap sleeves. They wore matching Dior head bows.

Deborah Daniel, niece of the bridegroom, in bouffant white nylon and royal blue velveteen bodice, carried a basket of Fuji chrysanthemums.

Son of Mrs. E. L. Daniel of Parkdale Avenue and the late Mr. Daniel, the bridegroom had William Tuttle for his best man. Seating guests were his brothers Henry A. Daniel of Bloomfield Hills, Louie L. Daniel of Pontiac Township and Eugene L. Daniel of Drayton Plains.

After a wedding breakfast and reception in Jerl's Restaurant, Detroit, the couple left for a honeymoon in Northern Michigan. They will be at home in Pontiac after Sept. 24.

Russian Women Better?

Defectors Say Yes but Married Life No Utopia There

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Do Soviet women really make better wives than American girls?

Two defecting U.S. code clerks, bachelors William Martin and Bernon Mitchell, were pretty emphatic about it at their press conference in Moscow the other day.

The lefthanded swipe at their countrywomen went this way: Women's talents are more encouraged in Russia, they said, and this "makes Soviet women more desirable as mates."

Well now, nobody denies Soviet women are emancipated.

Westerners in the Soviet Union sometimes think privately that equality between the sexes can be carried too far. That's when they see girls laying bricks, paving streets, operating earthmoving machinery and doing other heavy manual tasks. But then, they do get the same pay as men.

It is perhaps unlikely the two defectors have a personal interest in finding mates behind the Iron Curtain. But if they're going to harp on the greater desirability of Muscovite matrons, they first should take a good look around to see if married life there is really their idea of uxorial Utopia.

Not only is the average family crowded into one room, but frequently couples work at th same plant.

In many cases, the wife is the boss at the job; sometimes she outranks her husband. If he protests, she can always point proudly to Ekaterina Furtseva, who's a prominent member while her husband, Nikolai Firyubin, is a mere diplomat with rank of ambassador.

Unromantic though it sounds, the nuptial vows make very little change in the normal scheme of things: work is still paramount. Almost all wives work, even after they're mothers.

Youngsters are cared for either in state-run day nurseries or by an elderly relative.

Working mothers who hold well-paying jobs hire maids. It's a good guess there are more maids in Communist Russia than in capitalist America.

If women wage earners don't spend every ruble they make, it's perhaps not so much thrift as the fact they can't find anything to buy. Quality consumer goods is in meager supply.

While Soviet women may not seem fashion-conscious, they're eager to buy foreign clothes because domestic apparel is all alike. It makes for pretty dull gossip around the samovar when everybody not only knows what everybody else has, but wears the same clothes herself.

No Harm in Stating Preference

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I were invited to dinner at the house of one of his business associates. The main course was roast beef which was served quite rare. The host carved and put a large slice of beef on my plate.

Much as I like roast beef I could not bring myself to eat it so I asked the host if I might have another piece that was less rare.

My husband criticized me later for having done this and said that I showed very bad manners. Will you please tell me if I was wrong?

Answer: Usually a host serving roast beef asks each of his guests whether he (or she) would prefer a well done or rare slice. Not having been asked, it was entirely proper to say to the host as soon as you saw the slice that was being given to you, "Oh, if that's for me, could I have a piece that's a little better done?"

Dear Mrs. Post: Does one have to buy an item that typifies a particular wedding anniversary — such as something in silver for a 25th wedding anniversary or gold for a 50th anniversary? Don't you think it would make more sense to buy something you know for sure would be more acceptable, regardless of what year they are celebrating?

Answer: I certainly agree that it makes far more sense to buy something you know the anniversary couple will like rather than something they would not like just because it typifies the particular anniversary.

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently my fiancee broke our two-year-old engagement. During this period of time my parents gave her a number of rather expensive things for her hope chest, such as an electric fry pan, a set of silverware, glasses, etc. Shouldn't these things be returned to my parents?

Answer: Yes, the things that were given to her for use in your future home should be returned.

Weakness Not 'Growing Pains'

Check Child's Footwork

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It is a very good idea to have your child's feet checked this fall. Carefree vacation time, when young folks are at camp or playing strenuously in city playgrounds, may make many changes in young, growing feet.

The bones in a child's foot are so flexible that they can be twisted and damaged without having the child aware of it, except for some momentary discomfort. In the excitement and eagerness of children's play, such discomforts probably will go unreported.

CAN BE AVOIDED

Foot specialists warn that many uncomfortable maladjustments in later life can be avoided if detected and arrested in childhood. A few simple precautions may keep your son or daughter from joining the army of adults who hobble about on aching feet all of their lives, loaded down with ointments, corn plasters, arch supports and other paraphernalia.

Not only are foot troubles a misery but they set up a chain reaction such as pain in the legs and back and chronic fatigue.

Let me suggest a few preventative measures today. First, have your child's feet examined after the hard play of summer vacation.

Next, be certain that your youngster's shoes are properly fitted, (Go to a store which is experienced in fitting young feet. Remember, too, that children outgrow their shoes rapidly. It is not economy to let your child wear shoes which still can be used but which actually are too small.

The construction of a shoe and the materials of which it is made are of the utmost importance. For specialists recommend leather shoes because the give of the leather permits the correctly fitted shoe to "mold" to the wearer's feet within a day or so. Also, the microscopic "pores" in leather permit the air to circulate around the feet, keeping them dry and comfortable. Perspiration is not trapped, therefore you have no irritation and chafing.

It is also a good idea to remember that pains caused by foot weakness which are reflected in the legs often are mistaken for "growing pains."

A little thought and care of your child's feet may save him untold discomfort later on.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Diets for Youth and Health", send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 43. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this paper.

Be certain your youngster's shoes are properly fitted. Go to a store which is experienced in fitting young feet.

Leadership Needed to Keep Gang Knit

By RUTH MILLETT

"Our crowd hasn't gotten together in a month. Susan is out of town and when she isn't around to stir things up nobody makes any plans. Susan's the one who makes the effort to keep us together," I recently heard a woman remark.

In any crowd that stays close over a period of time there is always a Susan who takes on the responsibility of keeping the group in touch, making party plans, suggesting spur-of-the-moment get-togethers, and so on.

So if a group you used to enjoy a great deal seems to have scattered, it's probably because there is no longer anyone to head it up.

Instead of saying vaguely when you run into members of the group, "We really should get together like we used to," why not take on the job of leader yourself?

IDEAL FOR FUTURE

Get on the telephone and organize a get-together of the old crowd. And when you are together have some idea for a future party to promote.

Take it upon yourself to keep the crowd in touch by telephoning one member of the group and then another, passing along news of one to the others.

Without someone to keep them close, groups of congenial persons have a way of quietly but surely drifting apart.

Yet anyone who is willing to take the trouble can hold such a group together. It just takes a little time, a little initiative and a bit of imagination.

Anyone willing to give that much can be the center of a group of friends — the person all the others depend on to keep the crowd together and having fun.

The reason why so many social groups break up is that nobody is willing to take the responsibility for seeing that they keep in touch.

Westinghouse Air Brake Purchases Alpena Firm

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Westinghouse Air Brake Co. has announced the purchase of Petch Mfg. Co. and Petch Industries, Inc. of Alpena, Mich.

A Westinghouse spokesman said Petch will continue operations in Alpena and will be operated by the Industrial Products Division of Westinghouse.

Petch manufacturers machine tool quality pneumatic and hydraulic cylinders, fluid power control panels and aircraft flight control units.

The purchase price was not announced.

THE FALL — In the climactic demise of the Usher family, Madeline Usher (Myrna Fahey) chokes her brother Roderick (Vincent Price) in this scene from the "House of Usher," currently showing in the area.

Vincent Plays Roderick

Price Hit in 'House of Usher'

Vincent Price stars as Roderick Usher in American International's "House of Usher," film version of the famous Edgar Allan Poe suspense tale of terror and turbulence, currently showing in the area.

Price, who was born in St. Louis, Missouri, started out to be an artist, decided he did not have talent in that direction—not enough at any rate—and set out to be a professor of art, or an art collector. He did not become a professor, although for five years he was President of the UCLA Art Council, and is at present a member of the board there. But he is an avid art collector and well known for his lectures on art and artists.

Like his father and other male members of the Price family, Vincent graduated from Yale where he got an A.B. degree and went to the University of London to study for his master's degree in the history of art.

But a simple dare changed all his plans. He took a friend's dare, auditioned for a stage role in "Chicago" which was then being produced at the Gate Theater and when he won the part—that of an American policeman—he then and there knew he would become an actor.

Later he tried out for Shakespeare's "Richard II" and "Victoria Regina" and won the role of the tall, dashing Prince Albert in the latter play to Pamela Stanley's Queen Victoria when it played in London. Shortly afterward, he made his Broadway debut in the same role with Helen Hayes and became a star overnight.

Two years later he made his film debut in a picture titled "Service Deluxe" opposite Constance Bennett. He has made a number of motion pictures, returns to the stage periodically, and has appeared in a great number of radio and television shows. In addition, he keeps up his interest in art, not only lecturing, but as a collector and "discoverer" of fresh talent.

His lectures on art and literature are popular across the country and he has become one of the highest paid lecturers in the nation.

FAMOUS FLAG-RAISING—This is the movie version of the famed Iwo Jima flag-raising. It serves to set the theme for a forthcoming film entitled "The Sixth Man." It is the story of Ira Hayes, a Pima Indian who was the last, or sixth, man in the group in the photo. The bulk of the movie deals with the tragic consequences of Hayes' inability to cope with the fame that followed the shot. Tony Curtis plays the Indian.

Film Follows Tragedy

Iwo Fame Beginning of the End

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They raised the flag at Iwo Jima again.

Universal-International is filming the saga of Ira Hayes as "The Sixth Man." He was the sixth man from the flagstaff in Joe Rosenthal's classic Associated Press photo, a Pima Indian whose life followed a tragic course after his sudden rise to fame.

Iwo Jima was transplanted to the western reaches of the San Fernando Valley, where the housing tracts are springing up like sagebrush. As yet untouched by the bulldozers is a vast acreage of the Janss Ranch; it can simulate the wildness of almost any country. At present, a rocky hill is doubling for Mt. Suribachi.

HILLS SWARMING

It took six men to raise the flag the first time. The movie version required two hundred. The hillside was swarming with technicians and actors, many of them UCLA and USC football players picking up summer cash.

Hardly recognizable was Tony Curtis, who plays Ira Hayes. Stretched out in the dirt between shots, he wore dark make-up and a built-up nose to give him an Indian look.

Overlooking the scene with a careful eye was Sy Bartlett, who is producing the picture. If he seems more cautious than most producers, it's understandable.

OK HARD TO GET

"The Ira Hayes story kicked around Hollywood for a long time," he said. "Paramount had it for a while, and I understand Elia Kazan wanted to do it with Brando. But the Defense Department wouldn't give any of them an okay."

Bartlett has had experience with the military in such films as "12 O'Clock High" and "Pork Chop Hill." He convinced the brass that the Hayes story would be treated with dignity and respect. He also convinced the two surviving members of the flag-raising squad, Rene Gagnon of Manchester, N. H., and John Bradley of Antigo, Wis.

"There have been a lot of misconceptions about the flag-raising," Bartlett remarked, "We're going to set the record straight. We'll show it exactly as it happened."

The Iwo Jima section of Hayes' life plays only a small part in the picture. The rest of the film shows the results of his fame and his inability to adjust to life.

Although known for centuries as a country that stayed out of the many wars that swirled around it Switzerland nevertheless maintains a reserve army of 600,000 trained men who can be mobilized within a few hours. They are permitted to keep their guns and other army equipment within their homes so they can respond ready for immediate action.

Victor Borge Does Act a Week with Pneumonia

TORONTO (AP) — Pianist-comedian Victor Borge, star of the current Canadian National Exhibition grandstand show, disclosed Friday that he has been suffering for a week with pneumonia of the lower left lung. He is better now.

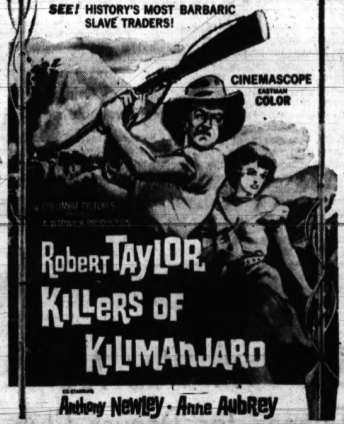

He has been sleeping up to 20 hours a day, taking pills and antibiotics, his wife, Sanna said. The illness, which doctors discovered Monday, kept him from many social engagements, but he continued playing to capacity crowds.

U.S. Athletes Make Bids for Last Olympic Gold Medals Today

American Hopes Ride on Lifters, Cagers, Kelley

Only Unbeaten Hoop Team Seems a Cinch in Game With Brazil

ROME (AP) — Wiry Johnny Kelley, the Groton, Conn., schoolteacher, a pair of hulking weightlifters and the highest-powered Olympic basketball team ever make America's last gold medal bids today in the last full program of the 1960 games

Only the basketball team, triggered by Oscar Robertson, Jerry West and Jerry Lucas, seems a certainty to carry it off.

Kelley, America's top marathon runner in the last four or five years, is not among the prime favorites for the gruelling 26-mile plus run through Rome that begins at 11:30 a.m., EST. But, the national AAU champion for five years, he leads an American trio that also includes Gordon MacKenzie of New York and Alex Breckenridge of Quantico, Va.

Winner of only one of six classes in weightlifting competition it used to dominate, the U. S. tries for the heavyweight title with a double entry of 31-year-old Jim Bradford of Washington, D. C., the 1952 Olympic runner-up, and Norb Schemansky of Dearborn, Mich. the 1952 champion.

In basketball, the U. S. goes after a gold medal it has never failed to win in a game with Brazil (4:30 p.m., EST). The American All-Stars, coached by California's Pete Newell, have won seven straight games — keeping intact the U. S. record of never having lost an Olympic basketball game.

The Olympic juggernaut, set in motion August 25, was running down as Sunday's closing ceremonies got closer and closer and the greatest assemblage ever—some 5,800 athletes from 85 countries—had now settled all the issues except the marathon, scattered fencing, shooting, gymnastic, equestrian and weightlifting sports, plus a basketball final.

Russia had collected 38 gold medals, 25 silver and 29 bronze to be the unofficial team champion with 720 points and more yet to come in the closing events.

The United States had acquired 33 gold, 18 silver and 15 bronze, and 529½ points.

Germany was a good, and surprising, third with 10 golds, 19 silvers and 11 bronze, and 299¼ points.

The closing equestrian competition provided an unexpected spark when the rigors of the jumping course shook up both man and beast.

Four horses from each of 18 nations started the cross-country run over 34.5 kilometers (about 21½ miles). Three horsemen were rushed to hospital. Two horses had to be destroyed. Sixty per cent of those which finished the grind were hurt in some way.

The riders were bruised and skinned.

Tom Gayford, one of the Canadian riders who was eliminated described the course as "a real killer." Duncan Galbraith, Scottish-born groom now living in Toronto, said:

"I've seen the English Grand National many times. Well, compared with this course, the Grand National is a sissy."

Going into Saturday's final jumping, three Australians were in the lead for both team and individual honors and topping them all was Australia's Lawrence Morgan, riding "Salad Days" to 37.94 points for dressage and endurance ahead of a field of 41 survivors out of the original 73 starters.

The U. S. was eliminated, when David Lurie of Clayton, Mo. on Sea Tiger, failed to get his mount over the 33rd hurdle after four fruitless tries, and Walter Staley, Mexico, Mo. lost out on Fleet Captain.

Staley popped his shoulder out of joint when Fleet Captain fell, then popped it back into place on a second fall. After that the horse refused to go on.

To remain in the running, a nation must qualify three of its four entries.

AP Photofax

U. S. MEDAL — Charles Vinci Jr., center, 27-year-old crane operator from Cleveland, is congratulated on the podium after he was awarded the Olympic gold medal for victory in bantamweight weightlifting. Yoshinobu Miyake of Japan, left, was second and Iran's Ismail Elm Khan, right, got third place.

Owens Defends Yankee Athletes

ROME (AP)—Jesse Owens took sharp issue today with Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, on the latter's claim that soft-living threatens to reduce America to a second-rate athletic power.

The hero of the 1936 Games at Berlin also took exception to Brundage's statement that the United States might have fallen to such a state already were it not, for the Negro athletes.

"We have the greatest number of good athletes in the world," said the great Negro star, who saw the last of his many records fall in the current Games. "Our colleges and schools are doing a wonderful job.

"I don't see any reason to get mad or suddenly go panicky just because we lost a couple of races. Our boys and girls did a terrific job in these Olympics. In track and field, 29 Olympic records were smashed, and we had a lion's share."

Owens said we must brace ourselves to one hard, cold fact: The whole world is getting better and gone are the days when big nations such as the United States and Russia can dominate any Olympics.

"We can't overlook that God has given every individual two arms, two legs, one heart and so much blood," Jesse added. "He hasn't played favorites because of geographical boundaries, color or race.

"In America, we can't single out the Negroes. They are Americans. We can no longer look upon the Germans, French and Italians as secondary sports nations. Time has become the great equalizer."

For this reason, Owens said, Americans must intensify their physical fitness program to meet the growing challenge.

"We should keep the government out of it," he added. "We don't want the Russian system. But our Amateur Athletic Union can be the giant sports father. It should be able to make a survey of the broad picture and put emphasis where it is needed."

The 47-year-old former Ohio State athlete, who 25 years ago set four world records in one afternoon and later captured four gold medals in the Olympic Games, acknowledged that he saw the last of his Olympic marks fall with mixed joy and sadness.

Armin Hary of Germany wiped out Owens' 100 meter mark with a 10.2 seconds clocking in the 100 meter dash. Ralph Boston of Laurel, Miss., soared over Jesse's broad jump record of 26 feet, 5¼ inches.

"It's the march of progress," Owens said resignedly. "Sputniks are zooming around the outer space. Wars are fought with atomic bombs. Pictures are flashed around the world in seconds.

"What is to keep the athlete from progressing similarly. Food is better. Men and women are bigger and stronger. Coaching techniques are improved. Man's knowledge of the human body is greater. There should be no tears over past glories."

Wallop Highly - Rated Menominee as U.P. Play Begins

By United Press International

Marquette Graveraet served notice last night that it intends to be a major power among Upper Peninsula schools by whipping Menominee 19-7.

Menominee, highly touted in pre-season ratings, was no match for the Marquette eleven.

Manistique, the number one team in the Upper Peninsula last year with an undefeated record, was defeated by Munising 18-7, and Sault Ste. Marie ground out a 43-20 victory over Negaunee.

In other games last night, Kingsford beat Stephenson 12-0, Crystal Falls whipped Escanaba Holy Name 19-6, L'Anse blanked Ontonagon 39-0, and Iron Rive recored a 19-0 win over Calumet.

National Bike Test Tomorrow at OCSC

Outstanding bicycle riders from all over the United States will invade the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club in Waterford Sunday to compete in the national championship bike races.

The feature event over the Sports Course at OCSC will be the 100-mile championship run. Among the leading entries are Clair Young of Birmingham, 10-time Michigan bicycle racing champion, and Vince Muzzin of Detroit.

Races also are scheduled for women and junior boys. This is an amateur event and the public is invited to attend without charge and watch these talented cyclists in action.

Starting time tomorrow is 12 o'clock noon.

There are openings for two teams in the men's Nine O'clock Bowling League Monday nights at Land-O-Lakes alleys. Openings also are available for men keglers on other teams at Land-O-Lakes on the same night. League play begins next Monday. For further information, call OR 3-7340.

Tigers Only Have 22 Days to Suffer

Lose 4-1 Verdict to New York's Young Stafford

Cash Hits 17th Homer in Defeat; Boston Loss Keeps Detroit 6th

DETROIT (AP) — At this stage of a stumbling, bungling campaign, people have run out of questions about the Detroit Tigers. And Joe Gordon is glad of it.

The Tiger manager knows now just how wrong he was when he said the Tigers were better than a .500 team. He, too, has ceased to be surprised by their ineptness.

After last night's 4-1 loss to the pennant-hungry New York Yankees, Gordon made a quiet exit to his club house office.

"I trust you fellows don't have any questions," he said to approaching newsmen. "It's a cinch I don't have any answers."

It is amazing that the troubled manager can muster even a small joke about a team that is in danger of tumbling into seventh place. The Tigers would have dropped there last night except that Kansas City managed to defeat seventh place Boston.

The Tigers were never in contention against the Yankees, who took advantage of Baltimore's loss to slip one half game behind the pace-setting Orioles.

A walk and two singles, the last one a run-producer by rookie pitcher Bill Stafford, put the Yanks one up in the second. Hector Lopez and Roger Maris slapped back-to-back home runs in the third. The Yanks added a final run in the fifth on a walk, Mickey Mantel's single and a force play.

All the runs came off Bob Bruce, who yielded all six New York hits in the five innings he lasted. Reliefers Dave Sisler and Hank Aguirre pitched hitless ball but Stafford — a young right hander recently called up from Richmond — didn't let matters get out of hand.

He spaced six hits for his third win in four decisions. His bid for a second shutout in five starts was erased in the eighth when Norm Cash hit his 17th home run. Al Kaline doubled later in the inning but Stafford swept through the last five batters.

The Tigers have dropped five in a row and 15 of their last 19 games. The only bright spot in the entire season is that it will be over in 22 days.

NEW MARK POSTED — Mickey Thompson, 31, who became the world's fastest man on wheels today with 406.6 mile per hour run in his Challenger I, promptly posted the new mark on the sign at famed Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah. He changed old figures of 403.1 made in 1947 by Sir John Cobb. Mechanical trouble stopped Thompson's second run.

Cardinals and Rams Victors at Home

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals made a successful debut in their new home town Friday night, coming from behind to dump the Philadelphia Eagles 34-13 in a National Football League exhibition game before 23,666.

The Cards spotted the Eagles a 6-0 lead on field goals of 26 and 42 yards by Bobby Walston before finding the touchdown range.

Quarterback King Hill pitched touchdown passes of 33 and 13 yards to Sonny Randle in the second quarter to stake the Cards to a lead they never relinquished.

Fleet Willie West sped 10 yards on a sweep in the third quarter and gave the Cardinals a 21-6 bulge.

The Eagles' Sonny Jurgensen, subbing for Norm Van Brocklin, who suffered a cut finger this week, passed 24 yards to Tommy McDonald for a touchdown as the fourth quarter got under way.

But the Cards, this time with John Roach at the controls, nullified it with a score of their own, Roach pitching a 29-yard touchdown pass to Perry Richards.

Bobby Joe Conrad then rattled off field goals of 16 and 17 yards as the Cards cashed in on fumbles by the Eagles' Jurgensen and Billy Barnes late in the fourth quarter.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Quarterback Billy Wade and a superb cast of runners and pass catchers defeated the San Francisco 49ers in a National Football League exhibition Friday night, 28-17, before 51,398 in Memorial Coliseum.

Quarterback Y. A. Tittle guided the 49ers in the second half to a field goal and a touchdown. It pulled the 49ers to within four points of the Rams but Los Angees drove 80 yards for the clinching touchdown in the last few minutes.

Thompson Zips Over Utah Salt Flats at 406.6 Pace

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — Dragster Mickey Thompson has set his eyes on a duel with Donald Campbell, son of a titled Englishman, to see which can crack one of the oldest speed records in the books.

"It's going to be a race anyway," said Thompson after he zoomed through a measured mile on these western Utah salt flats Friday at 406.6 miles per hour—to become the fastest man on wheels.

"That's the kind of man he is," Thompson said of Campbell. "He's willing to race and he offered me time to come back up."

Thompson, 31, a drag strip operator at El Monte, Calif., was prevented from breaking the world record of 394.196 m.p.h.—set by the late Sir John Cobb of England in 1947—when a drive line broke during his car's second run over the 11½-mile salt track.

But Thompson, who left for home Friday night vows he'll be back in a week, his car ready for more.

Rules require that two record runs must be made in opposite directions to be official. And the runs' average speed must exceed the old mark by one per cent for a record.

But Mickey couldn't describe how it feels to travel at 406 miles an hour.

"I haven't time to think of anything else, except what I have to do to drive the car," he said.

Sub Back Wins AFL Opener for Denver Club

first of the American Football League's star performers, brought victory to underdog Denver because a teammate was hurt.

The Broncos opened the regular AFL season Friday night by edging 16-point favorite Boston 13-10. Mingo, a 190-pounder who never played college ball, decided the contest on a great 79 yard punt return for a touchdown in the third period.

"Gene wouldn't have been in the regular offensive backfield but Bob McNamara was injured in the first period," smiling Denver Coach Frank Filchock explained afterward.

Mingo, a veteran of Marine service football in California, had been an assistant coach at his alma mater, South High in Akron, Ohio. Headed to the Baltimore Colts, Mingo was landed by a letter from the Broncos encouraging him to join the new AFL venture.

Mingo eluded one desperate clutching defender after another on his stirring runback of a Tommy Greene punt.

"We've got no complaints or alibis," Boston Coach Lou Saban said. "That one run beat us, it was the difference. And our boys had shots at him."

Commissioner Joe Foss was pleased with the league's kickoff and the reaction of the 21,597 paid customers.

"I'm happy with our start." Foss said. "It was a good, close game and the fans were enthusiastic."

It was the concensus of the players that while the caliber of play was not equal to that of the established National League, two or three seasons would see an equal or near-equal rating. Meanwhile, they felt the closeness of competition in the AFL would hold public interest.

Mingo had to share Denver honors with ex-Southern California and Green Bay Packer star Al Carmichael, quarterback Frank Tripucka and a stubborn defense which partially blunted the Patriots' vaunted air attack.

Carmichael took a short flat pass from Tripucka, got away from three defenders, cut back to the sideline and went 59 yards to score on the first play of the second period. Ken Adamson, a Notre Dame grad as is Tripucka, threw the key block.

The rest of the AFL teams get underway this weekend, too. League favorite Dallas is at Los Angeles tonight in a key encounter while Houston plays Oakland at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium and Buffalo is at New York Sunday aternoon.

Yanks Clip More Oriole 'Feathers'

By The Associated Press

Baltimore's youthful Birds still lead the American League today, but their edge over the menacing New York Yankees has been reduced to one slim percentage point.

Their defeat in Chicago Friday night coupled with the Yankees' victory at Detroit really tightened the exciting flag chase.

The Orioles, who have won two more than New York, dropped a game behind in the "lost" column with a 5-2 defeat by Chicago's third place White Sox. The defending champs trail by 3½ games.

Washington continued a bid for its first finish in the first division since 1946 by beating fifth place Cleveland 8-2. Kansas City defeated Boston 3-2.

The White Sox beat Oriole ace Chuck Estrada (16-9) with a second-inning run on successive doubles by Al Smith and Ted Kluszewski, after Minnie Minoso had singled home two runs in the first. Bob Shaw (13-12) was the winning pitcher, shutting out the Orioles on three hits until the eighth, when Jackie Brandt lined a two-run single. Southpaw Frank Baumann ended the rally, getting Gene Woodling to hit into a force-out and retiring Brooks Robinson on a fly, and then struck out the side in the ninth.

Three home runs, two by Jim Lemon and the other by Harmon Killebrew, scored the Senators' first seven runs as they beat Mudcat Grant (9-8) for only the second time in 18 decisions. Lemon drove in five runs with his pair, which gave him a share of the AL home run lead with Maris at 37. Pedro Ramos (11-15) was the winner, blanking the Indians until Vic Power homered in the ninth.

Southpaw Bud Daley (14-14), who had lost five in a row and 10 of 11 since the All-Star break, beat Boston and reliever Chet Nichols (0-1) with a three-hitter.

60th National Golf Tourney Starts Monday

Andonian and Draper Lead Michigan Group in Match Play Classic

From Our News Wires

ST. LOUIS — Seven Michigan golfers battle a tough course and an even tougher field here Monday when the 60th U.S. Amateur Golf Championship begins its six-day run at St. Louis Country Club.

It will be "dog eat dog" right from the start for the state's hopefuls and everyone else in the star-studded field as they wade into match play competition.

Michigan's representatives in the National Amateur include:

Mike Andonian of Pontiac, Pete Green of Franklin, Mike Conroy of Birmingham, Tom Draper of Birmingham, Ty Caplin of Plymouth, Fred Kammer Jr. of Detroit, and Gene Woodard of St. Clair Shores.

Draper would seem to be the one capable of making the most progress in this grueling tournament where luck and stamina must accompany golfing skill in any march to the title.

Draper, the Red Run veteran, is making his 13th appearance in the Amateur and his long experience should be invaluable. Big Tom advanced to the 5th round of last year's tourney and is a fierce competitor.

Andonian, Green, Caplin and Conroy are making their first appearances in this event. Kammer and Woodard have qualified before, but their stay in the tourney has been short-lived.

Andonian and Caplin are public links players and qualified this year on their first attempts after becoming eligible for the trials through their semifinal and final advances in the National Publinx tournament at Honolulu.

Eight strenuous rounds of match play are scheduled over the tricky St. Louis C.C. layout which measures a somewhat short 6,616 yards and has a par of 36-35—71.

Six 18-hole matches are slated Monday through Thursday. Friday's semifinals and Saturday's finals are set for the 36-hole distance.

The defending champion and tournament favorite is husky Jack Nicklaus, the long-hitting Ohio State junior who will try to become the 4th player in history to repeat as U.S. Amateur king.

The only golfers to win two straight National Amateur titles thus far are Bobby Jones (1927-28), Lawson Little (1934-35), and Harvie Ward (1955-56).

Among the standouts in the talented 200-man field are Deane Beman, 1959 British Amateur champ; Gene Andrews and H. Dudley Wysong Jr., 1959 Amateur semifinalists; Billy Joe Patton; Phil Rodgers; Jim English and, last but not least, two-time champion Charlie Coe.

The 20-year-old Nicklaus may find their is no great advantage in getting distance off the tee in this edition of the Amateur.

Accuracy and position will be more important than distance betting.

St. Louis C.C. is not too well known to any of the leading amateurs. It was the scene of the 1947 National Open and the 1921 U.S. Amateur.

Two prominent amateurs missing from the field are Bob Cochran, British and Western Amateur finalist this year who is plagued by a chronic back injury, and North and South Amateur champ Charley Smith, who failed to qualify.

Anglers Fish for Name Sake in Northwest

Seventeen Grayling businessmen, all dyed-in-the-wool fishermen, departed Friday morning, Sept. 9, for Northern Saskatchewan where they will fish for GRAYLING, the now extinct Michigan fish for which their fathers once fished in Michigan, and for which the village of Grayling received its name.

The party will leave the Grayling airport at 6 a.m. and arrive in Camp Grayling, near the border of the Northwest Territory eight hours later. By early evening they will be testing their tackle on grayling.

Michigan Outdoors cameraman Howard Shelley of Pontiac accompanied the party to film the entire adventure. The group is scheduled to return to Michigan on Sept. 16.

Boswell on His Way to International Honors

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (AP)—Charlie Boswell, amazing blind shotmaker from Birmingham, Ala., was well on his way to a sixth straight International Blind Golfing Championship here at the lengthy Niagara Parks commission course Friday.

Boswell covered the 6,700-yard layout in a deluge of rain for an 18-hole score of 94.

Boswell, former Alabama football star who lost his sight in the second world war, took a seven-stroke lead over his closest pursuer, Canadian titleholder Harold Mitchell.

Redskins Return Ross; Detroit Goes Against Giants Sunday

The Detroit Lions have sent former Michigan Stater Walt Kowalczyk to the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

The six-foot, 205-pound running back was on the spot last Saturday in the Lions' 40-10 exhibition game loss to the Philadelphia Eagles.

Kowalczyk, a stocky fullback, had seen little action with the Lions during the preseason games. It was to have been Kowalczyk's chance to show coach George Wilson what he "can do as a runner and blocker."

Kowalczyk had carried the ball eight times this summer. He missed the game against the Steelers at Detroit. Wilson said then that "there is still some question about Kowalczyk."

He indicated that Kowalczyk would be given an opportunity to "play a lot" before the season started. Evidently, Kowalczyk flunked his test Saturday night.

At any rate, when the Lions said the new Dallas club was entitled to a player from the Detroit roster, Kowalczyk's name was selected from a group listed as available by the Lions.

The Lions also announced the return of end Dave Ross. He was traded to the Washington Redskins last week, but the Redskins returned him yesterday.

Wilson hasn't said whether Ross will start in Sunday's game against the New York Giants at New Haven, Conn.

WELCOME BACK — A very welcome sight at Avondale this year was Dennis Shaw shown being greeted by head coach Frank Crowell. Shaw was a good runner for the Yellowjackets two years ago but moved away before the 1959 season. He is back again now raring to go.

Schofield Paces Pirate Win

Associated Press Sports Writer

Somebody say Dick Schofield was "a good-field, no-hit shortstop" when he broke into Pittsburgh's line-up as a replacement for the injured Dick Groat?

In three games since Groat was sidelined for the rest of the season with a broken wrist, Schofield has batted .556. And his first extra-base hit of the year, a two-run triple, gave the Pirates a 4-3 decision over the Chicago Cubs Friday night that retained their six-game bulge in the National League race.

The second place St. Louis Cardinals kept their slim hopes alive with a 4-1 victory at Philadelphia in a game held to five innings by rain. But third place Milwaukee slipped seven games back with a 5-3 loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers, who whipped one-time nemesis Bob Buhl for the fifth time this season.

San Francisco and Cincinnati split a twi-night pair, the Giants winning the opener 4-2 and the Reds taking the second game 3-2.

Schofield, 25, a one-time Cardinal bonus kid who had seven hits in 35 at-bats (.200) as a part-time performer for the Pirates this season, now is 5-for-9 in three games. His triple, off losing lefty Dick Ellsworth (6-12) in the sixth inning, gave the Pirates a 4-1 lead after they had come from behind with a pair of unearned runs in the second.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell (11-7) was the winner, but needed a one-pitch, saving relief job by Elroy Face after holding the Cubs to four hits until the ninth. Then Chicago scored twice with two out, on a pinch single by Nelson Mathews, a double by Richie Ashburn and a single by Don Zimmer and had the tying run on base when Face retired Ron Santo on a grounder.

Walt Moryn's 12th home run, a three-run shot in the fifth, won it for the Cards. Right-hander Larry Jackson allowed four hits, giving up the Phils' run on Bobby Del Greco's double and Ruben Amaro's single in the fifth, while winning his 16th—his top total in the majors. Robin Roberts (9-15) was the loser. Stan Musial had three of the Cards' eight hits, one a double that was the 1,271st extra-base hit of his career.

Frank Howard drove in three runs with three hits for the Dodgers, batting in the clincher with a two-run double in the sixth. Stan Williams (13-8) was the winning pitcher, with the help of two innings of perfect relief by Larry Sherry, who retired Ed Mathews, Hank Aaron and Al Dark after coming on with the bases loaded and none out in the eighth. Aaron drove in all the Braves' runs, two with his 36th homer.

A ninth-inning home run by Willie McCovey won the first game for the Giants and reliever Johnny Antonelli (5-7). Willie Jones' ninth-inning single then broke a 2-2 tie in the nightcap for the Reds as Bob Purkey won his 17th with a three-hitter. Ed Bailey drove in four of the Reds' five runs in the doubleheader with a home run and four singles in seven trips.

Young Ralston Stealing Show at National Singles

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Denny Ralston, 18, eager and confident, has popped out of nowhere and today rated:

1. A threat for the National championship.

2. A candidate for a singles spot on the Davis Cup team that will try to wrest the coveted mug back from Australia in December.

Before he whipped Ron Holmberg and Bob Mark on successive days, Ralston's main claim to fame was his upset victory (with Rafael Osuna) for the Wimbledon doubles title.

So he came into the Nationals without much fanfare. But when he eliminated Holmberg in straight sets Thursday, then came back Friday to eliminate Australia's Mark, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2, the folks began to sit up and take notice.

He has his hands full, tackling defending champion Neale Fraser in one semifinal, while Earl (Butch) Buchholz of St. Louis, 19, met Australia's Rod Laver in the other.

Fraser, seeded No. 1, advanced with a 6-2, 6-4, 6-2 triumph over Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo. Laver, seeded No. 2, dropped Bobby Wilson of England, 9-7, 6-1, 6-3. Buchholz, No. 4 in the seedings, toppled Ham Richardson, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

"I've never played Fraser before," said the 6-foot-2, 165-pound Ralston. "He's tough, I know, but you always have to go out thinking you have a chance. After all, your opponent might break his leg."

That's the kind of a youngster he is . . . not cocky, and with a sense of humor.

"Everyone has always tabbed me as strictly a doubles player," he observed. "Everyone, that is, except me. Would I like to play singles in the Davis Cup? Well, I don't know. It would depend on who I was playing at the time. I can be pretty bad."

In the women's semifinals, top-seeded Maria Bueno of Brazil, the defending champion, met Christine Truman of England, seeded No. 3, and Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., seeded No. 4, tangled with Donna Floyd of Arlington, Va.

Miss Hard defeated Jan Lehane of Australia, 6-2, 6-1, and Miss Floyd upset Ann Haydon of England, seeded No. 2, 3-6, 6-2, 9-7, Friday. Miss Bueno and Miss Truman had gained their brackets Thursday.

Girl-Man Report Unconfirmed

Six Olympians Beat Paavo Nurmi's Mark

ROME (AP)—Things for which they gave no Olympic medals:

Most overlooked performance—Little Max Truex's time of 28:50.0 in the gruelling 10,000 meter race.

The great Paavo Nurmi's time for the same event was 30:10.0. At that rate, 128-pound Max would have lapped the flying Finn.

Trouble was Truex, who hails from Warsaw, Ind.—not Poland—finished sixth. Russia's Peter Bolotnikov was first in 28:32.2.

Toughest luck — 14-year-old Carolyn Wood, of Portland, Ore., who lost her nose plugs when she was leading the 100 meter butterfly swim. Gulped water, stopped—and burst into tears.

Goofiest performance — Russia's Leonid Koleshnikov who—when he found himself a hopeless last in the men's 400 meter free-style swim—began imitating a porpoise, spurting water, wallowing in the wake of his opponents and waving to the crowd.

Most complacent athlete — John Thomas, of Cambridge, Mass., the world's record holder for the high jump, who finished third behind two Soviets and asked to explain his performance was quoted as saying:

"I'm not disappointed. I'm very proud of what I did. There are not many people who can win a bronze medal in the Olympics."

Most determined lady athlete—Olga Fikotova Connolly, of Santa Monica, Calif., who refused to wear as they were made, the pants issued to her by the U.S. Olympic Committee.

Pretty Olga took them apart and stitched them up so they would give her "more freedom of action."

Most photographed girl—Britain's beautiful and articulate Mary Bignal.

Most unconfirmed report — a story by a British correspondent that two unnamed officials of a pair of unspecified European countries were going to protest that an unnamed British girl athlete was really a man.

Most unassuming athlete—Wilma Rudolph, the Games outstanding woman athlete—who refused to take any credit for herself.

Jay Hebert scored holes-in-one in two successive rounds of the 1959 El Paso Open. He aced the 201-yard 10th hole on the third round and the 170-yard third hole the following day on the fourth round.

Utah Open Par Taking Beating

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A player without an under-par opening round wasn't expected to have much chance today as the $20,000 Utah Open entered the second round.

In the first round of the four-day, 72-hole event, half the 119-man field either hit par or smashed it on the par-71 Salt Lake Country Club course.

Leading the assault on the 6,310-yard Canyon layout were Jay Hebert of Lafayette, La., Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., and Bill Collins of Crystal River, Fla., all with 64s.

Then came Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., the 1956 Utah Open winner and the PGA's No. 3 money winner, with a 65. Little known Huston LaClair Jr. of Birmingham, Ala., also carded a 65.

Observers felt it would take a sub-par 36-hole score to survive the cutoff for Sunday play. This situation has arisen only twice before this year, at San Diego and St. Paul, both par 72 courses.

Ski Jumpers at Cass Lake

The Cass Lake Ski Club is sponsoring a water ski tournament today and Sunday on Cass Lake at Bayside near Frenchie's Landing. The tourney is principally a jumping event and many outstanding water skiers are entered. Competition is scheduled throughout the afternoon hours each day. Bayside is located on Cass-Elizabeth Road.

Try Wiper... Oops, It's Parking Brake!

Car Controls Unanimously Ununanimous

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — A recurring complaint about one phase of automotive styling will be heard again this fall after the public examines the 1961 models — — nothing has been done to standardize the instrument panels.

If you drive only one car and keep it several years this gripe may seem trivial.

After all, it won't take you long to determine whether the parking brake is a pedal, a handle to the right of the steering column or a handle to the left of this column.

But the problem can become a real one for a man or woman in a two-car family or for someone who drives a company car as well as his own.

2 TYPES OF TRANSMISSIONS?

The parking brake location is only one example of the vast variety of arrangements which confronts a driver when he moves from one make of car to another.

Take the case of transmissions. Basically there are two types, automatic and manual (as one auto executive puts it, a manual transmission is provided for the man who wants to shift for himself.)

Automatic transmissions may operate, depending on the car, with push buttons to the left of the driver, push buttons to the right of the driver, push buttons in a vertical line, push buttons in a horizontal line or push buttons in a triangular cluster.

Or they may use a lever on the steering column or a lever on the dashboard.

The car may start with the automatic transmission in either neutral or parking gear, or only in parking gear, or in some cases only in neutral.

If you want to back up you'd better study the gear shift indicator carefully, assuming you've discovered whether this indicator is on the steering column or the dashboard.

Reverse may be to the far right, or near the left.

With a manual transmission you may find the gearshift lever on the steering column, or on the floor.

3 OFFER 4

And at least three American makes offer a four-forward speed manual transmission.

Fortunately, the shift pattern on these is etched into the knob of the gearshift.

Controls for the windshield wipers may push, pull or turn, but first you have to find the control which ranges from the driver's right all the way to the left hand front door.

And then there's the question of windshield washers, which Michigan and several other states require by law.

The washer control may be integrated with the wiper knob; it may be a separate lever, or it may be a pedal under the dash—oops, don't hit the parking brake or dimmer button reaching for it.

By now most makes use lights for oil pressure indicators and temperature gauges. But it isn't unanimous.

And there is always the tricky problem of gas gauges.

Some makes register empty with three to four gallons still in the tank. When some of the others say empty, they mean EMPTY.

These are just some of the variations on American makes. If you have a foreign car in your garage, too, that's your problem.

Reds in Congo Worry Africans

Harriman Sees Leaders on Fact - Finding Trip for Sen. Kennedy

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — W. Averell Harriman, here on a fact-finding tour for Sen. John F. Kennedy, said Friday he has found West African leaders "concerned about what the Russians are doing in the Congo."

"All have the very strong feeling that Africa should be developed by the Africans and they don't want outside interference in their political and social life," Harriman said at a news conference in the U.S. Embassy.

The former New York Governor and ambassador to Moscow said he did not discuss Soviet actions in the Congo with President Sekou Toure of Guinea when they talked several days ago.

He said Toure "spent an hour telling me he is not a Communist and didn't like to be called a Communist." The Guinea president, Harriman said, "wants to make contact with the West and have a double base to work from."

Harriman also has met leaders in Liberia, the Ivory Coast, Ghana, Nigeria and the French Congo. Most, he said, want to support the United Nations and are very anxious to avoid a civil war in the Congo.

Harriman said he was impressed by the way France and Great Britain had prepared African leaders for independence in their colonies — "a striking contrast to what one sees here, where there was no real preparation."

Detroit Expressway to Become Freeway

LANSING (UPI) — Conversion of the Detroit Industrial Expressway to a fully controlled access freeway will cost an estimated $1.1 million State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said Thursday.

Projects involved in the change called for construction of traffic interchanges and grade separation at several spots along the expressway in Western Wayne County, service drives and fences along the right of way lines.

The changes were proposed to make the expressway conform to federal laws governing interstate routes. It is part of Interstate 94 and also is designated U.S. 12.

COLONIAL RANCH — The Hickory Grove road home of the John Venemans is set with its side to the road. The exterior is red brick with white trim and black shutters. The Early American theme is carried out on the porch with a deacon's bench and an antique spinning wheel. William Pulte of Birmingham was the builder. He and the Venemans worked out the plan of the home which has been occupied about three months.

FAVORITE ROOM — This charming Early American family room is the favorite spot in the house. David and Debbie curl up on the loveseat to read. This winter the spot will be even more cozy with an open fire. At the right of the fireplace the wooden doors hide both a wood storage space and the hi-fi set.

PINE PANELING — In the entrance hall one wall and the stair railing are pine. Multi-colored slate is used for the floor. The documentary wallpaper is the same as in the family room.

Your Neighbor's House

Colonial Ranch Pleases Venemans

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Three months ago the John N. Venemans moved into their new home on Hickory Grove road. They're completely satisfied with it and wouldn't change a thing.

Built high above the road on an acre of land, the Colonial ranch home commands a sweeping view of meadow. Nearby Mrs. Veneman's parents live.

With their builder, William Pulte of Birmingham, the Venemans planned their new home. Originally Pontiac residents (both graduated from Pontiac Central), they have been living in Grand Rapids for the past few years. Now they've come home. The family includes David and Deborah.

This house has a large entrance hall. The floor is random colored slate. The railing around the stairs leading to the full basement is pine, as is the wall on that side. Other walls are papered in gold and white. A colonial clock hangs on the paneled wall. Louvered doors hide the coat closet and shut off the family room.

In the family room the windows which face south over the meadow have no draperies. Only a beige ruffle is used at the top. The carpeting is old-time rag rug in shades of brown. Chimney wall and high hearth are reclaimed red brick. There is a barbecue unit in the fireplace.

A simple board is used for the mantel. Over it is a Federal eagle decoration. At one side is a pine cupboard, part of which is used for a wood box, part for the hi-fi set.

The ceiling is beamed. Walls are papered in documentary print in shades of brown.

FUNCTIONAL

The wall between family room and kitchen has an open section. On the family side there is a book shelf and a small desk. The typewriter is mounted on a regular pull-up unit. Above are open shelves which hide the stove ventilator.

Brown mottled linoleum and beige linen formica counter tops in the kitchen carry out the color scheme started in the family room. The same paper is used on the soffit with trivets mounted for further decoration. Windows above the sink are leaded.

All cupboards are pine with black hardware. At the small drop leaf table there are chairs with black backs and natural wood seats.

Down the corridor from the kitchen to the garage is the utility room. Doors here are the swinging type. One side of the room is devoted to laundry equipment; the other holds Mrs. Veneman's sewing machine and storage space for sewing materials.

Two sides of the back porch are screened. There are sliding doors to the dining room plus a regular door to the kitchen.

The Venemans eat out here in warm weather, using a round walnut table and captain's chairs. They have placed a number of their antiques out here, including a chest, small table and cherry day bed. Comfortable lawn chairs provide space for relaxing and gazing out toward a wooded area at the north.

Living room and dining room are an L-shaped space. There is a beamed cathedral ceiling in the living room with small paned windows on either side. Natural color linen draperies have stripes of a deeper tone.

Warm beige carpeting covers the floor. Walls are cream color. A desk acts as a divider between living and dining room.

Dining room furniture is Provincial mahogany finished in a beautiful pine shade. Around the drop leaf table are chairs with sandalwood upholstery.

Above the table is a brass drop fixture with yellow globes. There are pieces of colored glassware in the windows.

In the living room the fireplace wall is painted white with the interior of the fireplace black. On either side of the hearth is a rust platform rocker.

The tufted back sofa is upholstered in linen — rust and beige on gray. The design reminds one of a sampler. Near the window is a green leather armchair and hassock. At the opposite side there's a grand piano.

In front of the sofa is a drop leaf, lazy susan pine coffee table. The other chair in this room is a brown wing chair with a small round matching footstool. Lamps are white with brass trim.

A louvered door shuts off the bedroom wing from the rest of the house.

First is the children's bathroom. Everything is peach and beige. Over the yellow marbleized vanity is a long mirror. Tile is beige on the floor, peach on the walls. Paper is gold and peach on white. At the end of the vanity there's a planter.

His carpeting is random striped. There are shutters at the windows. One wall is devoted to louvered closets. Ship

CATHEDRAL CEILING — Following the line of the cathedral ceiling, the windows in the living room are high. Shorter windows at each corner give more picture views. Carpeting and draperies are beige. Tables are pine. That leather chair next to the window is green. The sofa upholstery has a touch of rust in it.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: In converting an ordinary door into a Dutch door, where do I make the cut to divide it into 2 pieces—exactly at the center?

ANSWER: The door should be sawed at a point about 3 inches higher than the doorknob . . . so that, when the cut is completed, the doorknob remains on the lower part.

QUESTION: I plan to paint the inside masonry walls of our garage with rubber-base paint. I have used a spray gun successfully in the past, but never with this kind of paint. Will it work?

ANSWER: Rubber-base paint is a bit too heavy for most kinds of home-type spray guns, although it can be used in one of the heavier professional-type guns.

However, if you wish to take a crack at it, ask your dealer for the special thinner for rubber-base paints. Use about one pint of it to every gallon of paint. If the paint is used as is, it probably will clog the gun. No matter which method you use, be absolutely certain that the masonry is completely dry before painting it with rubber-base paint.

QUESTION: We never had any trouble with the shower in our house until recently. Now, when a cold water faucet is turned on in some other parts of the house, the water coming from the shower suddenly gets very hot. What is causing this?

ANSWER: I assume this occurs when both the hot and cold water shower handles are turned on. Then, when another cold water faucet is being used, the flow of cold water to the shower is reduced.

If this condition had existed all along, it might be caused by the fact that the piping used for the cold water was too small. But since it was all right until recently, it is likely that corrosion or scaling has formed somewhere inside the cold water piping system, bringing about the same effect as inadequately-sized piping.

Looks as though you'll have to call in a plumber, because only an on-the-spot examination by a professional can accurately determine the cause of the trouble.

Common edible vegetable oils appear to counteract radiation effects, Dr. James K. Ashikawa of the University of California reports.

Windows Add Beauty to Home

"Home buyers like bright interiors, pleasant outdoor views and attractive, accessible patios. Windows are the key to daylight and beauty in the home," says Practical Builder, a magazine for professional builders.

Since windows are a strategic part of the house, often forming a complete wall, they should be chosen with care. Practical Builder cites the following checkpoints for good window planning:

Will the windows be easy to clean? Easy to operate? Are they weathertight when closed and will they keep rain out when open? How about insulating qualities—do they need single or double panes? Should they be positioned high or low on the wall?

A helpful guide in choosing good windows is the seal of the American Wood Window Institute, which is accepted as proof that FHA standards are met. No window bearing the seal has ever been reported as failing in use. The seal can be found on stock windows of ponderosa pine at local building supply centers.

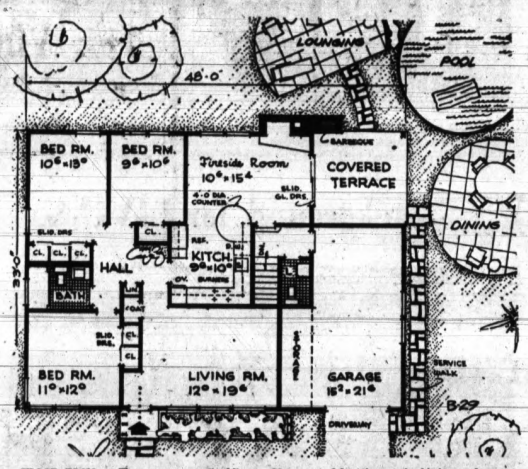

Windows of ponderosa pine are factory treated to be water-resistant and vermin, rot, and termite-proof. They keep construction costs down because they're ready to be installed when delivered.

Stock wood windows are available in many styles and sizes ranging from small units that can form ribbon strips set high for privacy, to complete walls of windows that make an attractive view part of indoor living.

ECONOMICAL STEP-SAVER — Modest size and a perfectly rectangular shape help hold the cost down on this three-bedroom ranch. On the inside, centrally located kitchen is the key to easy housekeeping.

FLOOR PLAN — There are no cost-adding extra corners or recesses in the exterior walls. Note central location of the kitchen and convenient positioning of basement stairs and lavatory.

Brighten Up Fireplace

If you have an old fireplace that looks dark and dreary, here's a tip for you. Remove the old wood mantel and level the brick surface of fireplace with portland cement. Then face the entire wall, up to the ceiling, with colorful ceramic mosaics. Use one or two colors, or an intricate pattern — the decorative possibilities using this versatile form of ceramic tile are practically limitless.

Convenience Keynotes Efficient Ranch Plan

By DAVID L. BOWEN

Kitchen convenience is the highlight of this economical three-bedroom ranch designed to make the payments easy on Dad and the housekeeping easy on Mother.

Economy is provided by the modest size — only 1,159 square feet of living space — and the perfect rectangular shape. There are no cost-adding extra corners or recesses in the exterior walls.

Housekeeping ease is advanced by:

1) A dead-end living room that keeps that formal area free of routine traffic.

2) A vestibule with cleanup lavatory between garage, basement and the "fireside" room.

3) An efficient kitchen located close to the exact center of the house, cutting the number of steps Mother must take to get to any other area of operations. To make her workaday routine more pleasant, the kitchen opens onto a pleasant room appropriate for both work and relaxation and equipped with a fireplace for crackling comfort in the winter and sliding glass doors for a refreshing outdoor feeling in the summer.

Architect Herman H. York, who designed B-29 in the House of the Week series, calls this a "fireside room." Less imaginative architects would simply designate it the family room. One of its unique features is a circular breakfast and lunch counter flowing out of the kitchen countertop.

Over-all dimensions of B-29 are 48 by 33 feet. There are six rooms, with covered terrace and attached single car garage.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

Front entrance arrangement in a house of this size is always a problem, since space for a foyer can seldom be spared. Yet few modern homemakers can abide a front door opening directly into the living room.

Architect York steered a compromise course between ideal and unacceptable by creating an entrance "nook" which doesn't consume space like a foyer but achieves somewhat the same effect.

A note of glamor is added to the efficient hall space at the center of the house by a low planter against one wall. All three bedrooms are of modest size to make available as large a percentage of total area as possible to the living and working sections of the house.

An ambitious private rear yard arrangement is shown on the floor plan. There's an individual terrace for lounging and another for dining, with a wading pool in between.

To reduce over-all cost, a minimum amount of masonry is used on the exterior. A brick or stone planter in front of the living room window helps give an appearance of luxury. Principal exterior material is vertical siding.

B-29 STATISTICS

This six-room ranch, with three bedrooms, fireplace and 1½ baths, covers only 1,159 sq. ft. There are eight closets in the house and ample additional storage in the garage and full basement.

Over-all dimensions are 48' in width by 33' depth.

Debbie has cream carpeting in her room which is furnished in antiques. Her four-poster bed is pine. Dust ruffle, tester and quilted spread are white. Next to the bed is an antique wash stand.

Shelves are mounted above the antique dresser to give room to display Debbie's collection of dolls. She has a parakeet.

The wallpaper and curtains have a matching blue and white design. The ceiling is painted white. Debbie has her own blue telephone.

Cream carpeting is also used in the master bedroom. Twin beds are low poster with white heirloom type spreads. The walls are the palest yellow.

In the pine dresser there is a louvered cupboard in one end. A smaller pine chest has three drawers. The curtains have an interesting design of 17th and 18th century signs.

In the attached bath there are white muslin curtains with fringe trim. Fixtures are peach. There is a glassed-in shower.

The wallpaper is a conversation piece. All types of bathers are cartooned with appropriate captions. Most amusing.

In addition to the people in the Veneman house there are Gretchen the dachshund and Lassie the collie. At the time we visited a second parakeet was in residence; but he was just a temporary boarder.

The exterior of the Veneman home is brick with white trim. They have their mail box hung from an old pump. This was a joint project for David and his father.

Various Plugs Provide Grip for Wall Screws

For just about any object you want to fasten to or hang on a wall there's an anchor. This is a device to provide a grip for screws that would otherwise pull out of plaster, brick or mortar.

They range from the very small plastic anchors for small wood screws to heavy lead shields that will take a good-size bolt.

FIBER PLUGS

One of the most versatile is the fiber plug with a lead lining. The plugs or anchors are made of twisted jute, come in sizes to accommodate both wood screws and larger lag screws. They can be used in plaster, drywall, masonry or concrete. Don't drill the hole larger than the plug. If it should be a loose fit, open the anchor by running the screw in a couple of turns.

The plastic anchors referred to above are sold wherever curtain rods and fixtures are sold, among other places. They're inexpensive and easy to use. They're attached by a common stem, usually six to a row. Just break one off and insert it in a hole drilled the same size as the shank of the anchor.

A lip on the outer surface will keep it from falling into the hole. It also dresses the edge of the hole. As the screw fills the anchor it causes it to split or spread, holding it tight inside the wall.

TOGGLE BOLT

A combination of bolts and anchors are available for plaster and dry wall fastening of heavier objects. The toggle bolt has a threaded nut in the form of folding wings. The wings spring open behind the wall once inserted and prevent the bolt from pulling through.

The wings will fall off if the bolt is removed, so it's necessary to place the bolt through the anchor before the entire assembly is installed. An oversized hole is necessary to get the wing through.

Another bolt and anchor is one with an expanding shield (Molly is the familiar trade name). The shield and bolt are pushed into the wall. As the bolt is tightened, the shield expands behind the wall. Get the right size for the wall thickness or it won't work.

For hollow core door there's a short threaded anchor and bolt available. The anchor has a lip on the outer surface. Prongs beneath the lip keep it from turning.

LEAD ANCHORS

For heavy loads on concrete or masonry walls (and sometimes plaster) use lead anchors. The anchor is inserted in a pre-drilled hole. The wood screw or lag screw cuts a thread in the anchor and forces it against the sides of the hole.

Machine bolt anchors have a nut threaded to fit the bolt is addition to the shield. As the bolt is tightened the nut is drawn back and expands the shield.

You can use a hand drill or electric drill for making the anchor holes in plaster. But use old drill bits because they dull quickly in plaster.

For masonry, get a star drill and a hammer. Give the drill a light tap and twist slightly after each tap. A special carbide drill used with an electric drill will cut the work way down. This can be important if there are a number of holes to drill.

Workshop Tools Must Fit Your Need

There are no "best" power tools for every individual, because your choice must be guided by the use you intend to make of them.

If you plan to do a lot of straight-line cutting, especially with heavy wood, then you will need a table or circular saw. For light sawing, especially involving irregular patterns, the jigsaw is excellent. The band saw, on the other hand, can be used for both curved and straight work, handling much heavier projects than the jigsaw but not as heavy as those of the table saw.

* * *

The drill press, jointer and lathe are other popular power tools in the stationary category. Each performs several functions but usually does one thing best. You should shop around, ask questions and read the booklets that are available before deciding on the power tools that will fit your needs as well as your budget.

Two other points: remember there are some good combination machines on the market — and, in the small, portable tool area, the biggest selling and most versatile is the electric drill.

FIXING CHAIRS — Repairs made when chairs begin to squeak insure that you'll be sitting pretty, longer, on your present furniture.

Broadway which loves generosity, when it's somebody else being generous, was telling about this certain boss who was so cheap, he put a lock on the water cooler . . It's the Texas influence again:

about the fisherman who thought the fish he caught was too small, so he hired two men to help him throw it back in. (Same guy who had wall-to-wall carpeting.)

Panel Doors Can Fit Any Era of Design

Doors are functional facets of the personality of a home. Carefully chosen, they can give a house the warm look of Colonial architecture or the cool air of contemporary design.

Interior and exterior panel doors of ponderosa pine come in designs to fit all periods of decor. For example, a door with six panels—two small and four large — is one of many authentic reproductions of Colonial doors. Another with three large horizontal panels suggests contemporary architecture.

Whatever the period of a house, panel doors to accent its character are available in stock from building material dealers.

Toy Box on Casters Rolls Under Bed for Storage

A box on casters that can be rolled under a bed can solve the toy storage problem in a youngster's room.

Sides, front and back of the box should be made of 1 by 8 or 10-inch lumber. The top and bottom are Masonite ⅛ inch Tempered Presdwood.

* * *

The top will keep dust and dirt out of the box. It should be hinged at the back so toys can be put in or taken out easily. Casters at the four corners of the bottom give the box easy mobility.

'Ghost Marks' Haunt Even Newest Homes

A house haunted by "ghost marks" is a house haunted by discomfort, especially in winter.

Ghost marks are wide, shadowy lines of dirt that cling to walls and ceilings between joist and stud spaces. They are caused by dust in warm air drawn to these areas in homes that are improperly insulated.

Mineral wool insulation, properly installed, not only eliminates "ghost marks," but cuts down on fuel bills and makes a house more comfortable by equalling interior temperatures.

Kitchen of the Future

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A futuristic kitchen has cold cabinets instead of a refrigerator-freezer, solid cooking surfaces, a dishwasher that uses sound waves, and a combination electric and high-speed electronic oven.

The experimental kitchen, developed by Westinghouse Electric Corp., gives the homemaker an idea of what tomorrow holds.

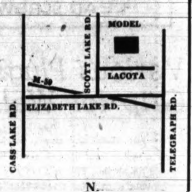

VACATION CABIN — This "different" vacation cabin, designed by an architect to provide generous natural lighting and ventilation, ample living and sleeping rooms, a U-shaped kitchen and a handy deck for sunning, rises to two-story height at front and back. Two huge triangles, sweeping down from the ridge pole, add to the distinctive appearance. Siding is durable, attractive Masonite Panelgroove. This cabin was built in Connecticut for under $5,000. For a detailed plan with numerous photographic and other illustrations, send 25 cents in coin to the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., and request plan No. AE-358.

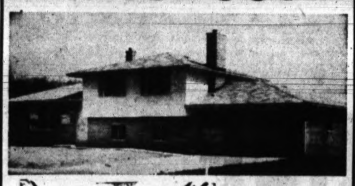

Housewives Have Need of Resilient Flooring

While American males do more riding than walking to work, the females walk three times as much as they used to. This inequity, of course, is the result of an increase in cars, on the one hand, and a shortage of domestic help on the other.

From housewives who are doing double duty as their own nursemaids and cooks, the Southern Pine Association looks for stepped up demand for the "raised platform floor"—a system which utilizes the resiliency of wood to lessen the strain on the legs.

Lawn Faucets Big Aid in Lawn Care

The importance of an adequate number of lawn faucets conveniently located around the house, yard, and garage is emphasized by the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau.

The location of lawn faucets should be given careful consideration in planning the plumbing system for a new house in cooperation with a plumbing contractor, the Bureau points out.

Many older houses have an inadequate number of yard faucets. This deficiency makes it necessary to drag long lengths of hose to various parts of the lawn and garden in hot summer weather. As a result, some areas do not get the water they require.

The Bureau suggests calling a plumbing contractor for an estimate on the installation of the additional lawn faucets that may be needed.

When lawn faucets are installed in colder climates, plumbing contractors will recommend that they be equipped with a stop and drain valve so that they can be shut off and drained when freezing weather arrives. Some of the newer types of lawn faucets are so constructed as to be non-freezing. With this type of a valve, no draining is necessary.

Follow Instructions for Spray Painting

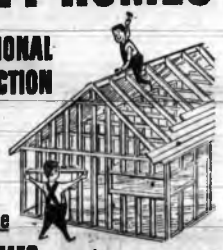

Using a sprayer — whether it's a pressure can, glass jar or heavy duty compressor — calls for skill and practice for even passable jobs. Check the manufacturer's instructions for proper thinning of the paint.

Hold the spray gun at right angles to the surface, about six to 10 inches away. Move the gun parallel to the surface.

Begin the stroke, then pull the trigger. Move in a straight line. Moving in an arc will cause an uneven application. If you hold the gun too close the paint will run, too far and the paint will be spotty.

RENOVATED ATTIC — With a little ingenuity, some free time on weekends and a minimum of material, this unused attic space was converted into a bright new living area. The do-it-yourselfer selected easy-to-install tile to cover the rough wooden attic floor. With some decorating ideas and assistance from his wife, the do-it-yourselfer created an attractive, quiet attic retreat.

Don't Fall for Phony Sales Talks

"Your home has been selected as a model in this neighborhood for an aluminum siding job." These words spoken by unscrupulous salesmen have cost Michigan residents hard-earned dollars yearly.

The application of siding stands out as one of the most fruitful sources of exorbitant profits by those who prey upon the desire of home owners to improve their property.

And the fraudulent gimmicks used keep pace with the huge profits to be made by the unprincipaled organizations using door-to-door salesmen in this business.

You may be told that your home has been selected as a neighborhood model to be photographed and advertised and you will be paid $100 for each new siding job acquired as a result of this advertising. Thus, your siding job will cost you next-to-nothing. Actually it will probably cost you twice as much as a legitimate businessman would charge. And don't depend on referral money. The chances are you will never get a penny.

Another gimmick is that your home is being considered by the board of directors for a siding job which, if you are picked, will be used as a model for national advertising. If you win the company will send you a check every month for a number of years to pay you for the cost of the siding. Don't worry! Next morning you will be informed that you have won.

Of course to be eligible for the job, you will be asked to sign a work order authorizing the work. What you are signing is a promissory note. If you refuse to pay, you will be threatened with court action. And don't wait on the checks from the company. They will never arrive.

Don't fall for these gimmicks. If you want a siding job, compare estimates from legitimate businessmen in your area.

The something-for-nothing you may think you are getting now will cost you headaches, heartaches and paychecks for many years to come.

Triangular Windows Not for Squares

Windows do not have to be square or rectangular, the Southern Pine Association says. With modern styling, it's effective to make them triangular — a particularly harmonious arrangement when an A-frame is used, as in many "second homes."

Diagonal placement of wood siding on either side of the windows further accentuates the "triangle" theme.

Child Playhouse Easy Object to Construct

If you have a back yard, you have room for a child's play house. And how the little ones love a place where they can play house.

A simple wood deck of one-inch lumber, laid on a frame of 2x8s set on two-foot centers, will provide an adequate floor. The rest of the play house can be simple or elaborate. A roof is a must for shelter from sun and rain and adds to the months the children can play outdoors. Again, a simple shed type of roof, framed with 2x4 rafters, will fill the bill.

Use inexpensive shiplap lumber for the roof, then cover with lightweight roofing paper. Douglas fir is ideal for both rafters and roof.

To add more comfort, you can install two or three simple board walls. You will probably want to leave one side open facing the house so you can keep an eye on the children at play. Leave windows on one or more sides.

Scale the play house to the size of the youngsters. You can paint the building with exciting bright colors which children love.

Canopy Improves Looks of Garage

Build a simple canopy over the side entrance of a garage to give the building a "certain something" it may lack in appearance and to protect you when you unlock it in the rain. It may be built in the home workshop of materials available in lumber yards, painted and attached.

Shaped like a shallow hotbed, the canopy may be 40" wide, 24" deep and 6" high at the garage, tapering to 2". The framework can be 1" pine, made a bit smaller than the overall device, or 38" wide and 23" deep, to allow for an overhang of the shingles. Include a two-inch strip of pine to divide the framework vertically.

For an attractive trim on the front and sides, cut some scallops in pieces of hardboard and nail them on with finishing nails. Use the same material, 3/16" or ¼" thick, as shingles. To give an effect of shingles, you could use four pieces 40" by 8", nailed in place with an overlap of 2".

Paint and attach it to garage framing with nuts and bolts.

Never Neglect Calking When Painting House

The improved calking compounds now on the market have made it a lot easier to keep moisture out of your house.

This is due not only to the increasing quality of the ingredients in the compounds, but to the wide variety of metal tubes in which the products are packaged. The fold-up or collapsible type of tube has made it especially convenient to spread exactly the right amount of compound into the desired areas.

Calking is necessary wherever there is any possibility that rain or moisture will intrude. This usually is where one structural part of the house joins another. It is necessary that all broken or loose compound be removed before the new application. An old chisel or screw driver will do the trick nicely, after which the dust can be brushed away.

The major asset of calking compound is that, although the surface hardens, the inside retains its elasticity for years. This enables it to "give" slightly when there is contracting and/or expanding.

Although most calking is done on the outside of the house, it occasionally is necessary on the inside. For instance, cracks around bathroom wall tiles and where the outer rim of the bathtub meets the wall must be calked to prevent water damage.

With a squeeze tube, a bead of compound can be placed around the tub. Where the filler cannot be shaped, use of those small wooden sticks used in ice cream confections does a nice job.

One of the worst mistakes you can make in painting the outside of a house is to proceed without first doing any necessary calking. No matter how good the quality of the paint or how carefully you work, the project can be spoiled in a matter of months if all openings are not calked. Rain and moisture enter these cracks, get behind the walls and cause the outside paint to peel, crack and blister.

Very often a small amount of calking compound would have prevented this condition. In fact, paint job or not, it's a good idea to conduct a periodic inspection of the outside of your house to see whether any openings have developed. It can save a lot of money in the long run.

With each breath, a man inhales about 40 thousand million billion atoms of argon and inert gas existing in the air. Argon does not combine with other elements and so is breathed out in its original form.

USE THAT WALL — There's no excuse for wasting a wall in the bedroom. Here, built-in vanity and wardrobe unit, only two feet in depth, was constructed along unused outer wall. Vanity was placed under existing window; wardrobes built on either side. Beautiful and space-saving unit like this is easily constructed of west coast hemlock lumber; should be given clear finish to retain hemlock's rich, champagne coloring. Draperies are shown drawn shut.

Space at Half Price Can Make Home Better

The biggest bargain in development homes isn't visible when you visit the model that meets your fancy.

It's the extra living space the builder adds to the plans to give you a home that is roomier than the model.

Sheldon Cady, a building materials specialist for Allied Chemical's Barrett Division, reports it costs only half as much per square foot to add space to a house provided the change in plans is made in advance of construction.

Cady points out that land, on the site improvements, builder's overhead and profits and basic heating and plumbing equipment today account for half of a house's cost. In a 1,000-square-foot house selling for $12,000 (or $12 a square foot), the structure itself cost only $6 a square foot. So, with labor and materials already on the scene, an additional bedroom, family room or larger dining room and kitchen may be built for what amounts to half price.

Although building costs may vary from $10 to $15 a square foot depending on the location and section of the country, the proportions will remain substantially the same, Cady says.

"Many development builders will agree to additions provided they can be incorporated into the home's basic design," Cady reports. "Such changes are relatively simple in most ranch homes offered for sale today."

In split-level homes, where additions may be more difficult, Cady recommends finishing basement areas with ready-to-nail gypsum board, fiberboard planks and sound reducing ceiling and wall tiles. Here too, this useful recreation room will cost much less when built at the same time as the rest of the house.

In two-story homes with expansion attics, it will pay to finish the attic immediately for greater savings and more enjoyable living.

Why should the prospective home buyer want to make his new home bigger right away? Cady cites four reasons:

1. Experiences of millions of homeowners who, surveys show, find they bought a smaller house than they needed. More privacy, more storage space, more room for entertaining, recreation or study become necessary as the family grows.

2. The savings in cost over calling in a contractor after a few months or a few years to make alterations and additions.

3. The increased value immediately built into the home.

4. The opportunity for individuality in a development where one home looks much like every other one.

Since '22 They've Been Prefabs

The first modern prefabricated sectional type of shower cabinet was designed and built in 1922. Prior to this time, shower cabinets were heavy copper walled affairs with soldered seams. They were difficult to install because they were shipped in one piece as a complete cabinet.

Since 1922, all manufacturers of shower cabinets have built sectional units which offer the advantages of easier shipping and easier installation. Watertight precast receptors and leakproof corner joints and the control valves is an important factor contributing to the enjoyment of the shower.

Plumbing contractors have found that the head and the control valves should never be placed on the back wall of the cabinet. In this position it is necessary to reach through the stream of water to adjust the water temperature and flow control.

The position of the showerhead make the modern shower a simple and low cost bathing facility.

The valve should always be on either side wall near the front within easy reach of the bather from the outside of the cabinet. The shower head should be directly over the valves, deflected to the back wall of the shower.

This arrangement provides convenient and easy control of both temperature and volume and eliminates any accidental splashing of water outside the shower cabinet.

Change Faucet Washer Fast

Changing the washer in a faucet is a relatively simple task and does not require any special tools. An adjustable wrench and a screwdriver usually are all the tools required.

The first step is to turn off the water, either at the main supply valve or a branch line. Next, loosen the cap or packing nut just under the faucet handle. Place a piece of tape or cloth between the jaws of the wrench and the sides of the nut to avoid marring the chrome or nickel finish. The nut is turned counter-clockwise to loosen.

When this has been done, turn the faucet handle as though you were turning on the water. Keep doing this until the spindle can be lifted up and out. At the end of the spindle, you will see a washer, held in place by a small brass screw. The leak in the faucet occurs when this washer gets chewed up or dislodged.

Remove the screw, throw away the old washer and put on a new one. Replace the screw and the spindle, tighten the packing nut and turn on the water. That's all there is to it—under ordinary conditions.

The trouble occurs, occasionally, when the screw at the end of the spindle will not turn or breaks off. In that case, you will need one other tool — pliers. Use the pliers to turn and remove the screw. Sometimes you have to cut away the old washer so that you can get a grip on the screw with the pliers.

When washers have to be replaced too frequently, it usually means that the faucet seat has become rough and needs smoothing. A small, inexpensive tool can be purchased at your hardware dealer for this purpose.

NO SCHOOL BELLS — Cecile Betit, Bennington, Vt., high school student, stands before "Old Bennington School," similar to ones being sold to families as residences. This building is used as a community center.

Discarded Schoolhouses Make Dandy Homes

BENNINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Vacation days are here but some young couples and their children are still at school in this Green Mountain village.

They feel right at home.

In fact, they are at home.

They are living in converted schoolbuses complete with blackboards but minus the school 'marms who often juggled a half dozen grades in a single room.

"Those big blackboards certainly keep the kids busy on a rainy day," says Mrs. Joseph Pello. She and her husband and two young children moved into the White Chapel school last summer.

Ten small schools have been put up for sale in Bennington area. Eight have been sold. Large modern centralized buildings are bringing an end to the many small schools whose bells tolled children to classes from nearby farms.

The Pello family moved into the White Chapel school last November. The last classes were held in the 100-year-old white frame building a year ago.

The Pellos paid $3,000 — the school board was asking $5,700. They got a home for a fraction of the price of a new building. The school had been kept in good repair and even had a modern kitchen.

Pello, a highway worker, put in partitions, now has a living room, two bedrooms and an ample hall.

All the wives agree that the children's big clothes lockers and the corner storage cupboards made modern homes seem skimpy.

"I always wanted an old brick house, but the prices always seemed too steep," says Mrs. Stanley Burnham. She and her husband, a carpenter, bought the 31-year-old Harwood High school for $4,000 and expect to spend that much again.

All the schools had modern plumbing and furnaces. Desks and other furniture were either moved to the new schools or sold to other communities.

Dick and Jane Jolivette were one of the first to buy a school. A young couple, they have been living in the Pleasant Valley school for a year.

They have no children and decided they would live in the school a while before deciding to put up partitions. Now it looks as though they might keep their ballroom-size living room for keeps. There are smaller cloak rooms and a teacher's room that have been converted into bedrooms.

"How do you like such a big living room?" Mrs. Jolivette is often asked by other wives.

"Well, you certainly see everything at a glance when you come in the front door," she laughs, "you can't hid a mess anywhere!"

BEAUTIFUL VIEW

As in most of the homes, one entire side of the room is window area looking out on beautiful Green Mountain scenery. Blackboards fill another wall.

The Jolivettes find their social life has perked up since they went back to school. Everybody has discovered their 35-35 foot living room is a wonderful place for a party.

"We had 24 couples here last New Year's Eve," sighs Jolivette.

Miniature Art Gains Popularity

An old decorating idea is being revived and revamped to conform with our modern-day decorating standards.

It's the "beauty in miniature" idea and is currently found in the use of small, treasured paintings, prints, photographs — and even jewelry and pieces of embroidery. These are beautifully framed and placed on tabletops, chests, and bookshelves.

These small objects d'art, according to the Picture and Frame Institute, are prone to get lost when hung on large walls. But when placed on end tables or chest tops they gain new stature by being displayed with other scaled-down accessories.

Putting a delicate, small painting in a beautifully designed wooden frame under a lamp gives it new life and luster. The easel on which it stands (purchased at most art shops) can be moved from place to place until exactly the right spot or angle is found.

A piece of old embroidery, or a bit of wedding lace framed with a silk mat and a delicate gold leaf frame, has a sparkle on a plate stand that it might not achieve on a large wall, suggests the Institute.

And a color print of a famous portrait in miniature can provide a striking focal point for a table or chest.

Mix and match the table top pictures, using, perhaps, several framed prints on a large table and one or two on a smaller area. They'll add real beauty to any setting. You'll see your frameable possessions with new eyes when you look at them in different positions under lamp light.

Burn-Resistant Finish Is Here

CHICAGO (UPI) — A new finish for hardwood furniture protects it against cigarette burns as well as scratches and stains.

Aluminum foil is the burn-resistant ingredient of the new finish. A thin layer of the foil, laminated beneath the veneered exterior, swiftly distributed the heat of a dropped cigarette to keep the wood from heating up enough to burn.

The Fine Hardwoods Association, which developed the foil trick, has teamed it with a transparent scratch-and stain-resistant surface for wood. The transparent surface gives the same kind of protection afforded by the plasticized finishes now widely used on table tops.

But the plasticized finishes are opaque and carry photographic reproductions of the wood, which actually makes them wood substitutes. The new kind of surface, on the other hand, protects wood, but reveals its actual grain, color and figure.

Unlike the old shiny, plasticized finishes, the new surface can be given anything from a dull, rubbed to a gleaming, high gloss. It's ideal for the fine, figured and inlaid surfaces of antique reproductions and traditional designs as well as for contemporary pieces.

In a child's room, the new surface makes it practical to furnish for permanence rather than as a temporary "gymnasium." In offices, hotels, restaurants and medical reception rooms, it should eliminate the need for glass tops on tables or desks.

All furniture manufacturers and designers have access to the new surface and its burn-resistant undercoating.

YARD CHAIR — Any man, woman or child can build the chair when he uses the full size pattern. All that's necessary is to trace the pattern on wood, then saw out the parts and finally put them together. The canvas upholstering material may be purchased at your local yardage store. Simple hand tools are all you need. The pattern lists the needed materials and gives easy-to-follow directions. To obtain the full size reclining chair pattern No. 111 pictured here, send 50 cents in coin to Steve Ellingson, Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., Van Nuys, Calif. Make checks payable to Steve Ellingson.

You're Sitting Pretty If Chairs Are in Repair

A loose chair is more than a source of embarrassment. It's a potential source of danger.

If you don't have time to do the job today, put the chair aside and repair it one of those gloomy winter evenings. The job isn't difficult, but it does require patience.

Chairs usually loosen first at the rungs. One loose rung, left unattended, will soon cause the others to become loose.

Remove the rung. Clean off all the old glue from the end of the rung and from inside the socket. Use sandpaper or a round file and take off only a little at a time. Don't remove any wood — the rung fits loosely enough as it is.

Before regluing, you'll have to enlarge the end of the rung so as to provide a tight fit. The easiest method, the one requiring the least skill, is to coat the end of the rung with glue, then wrap a layer of silk thread around it.

Another method: Notch the end of the rung; insert a wood wedge in the notch. Tap the wedge in place, after gluing. The wedge will spread the rung, assuring a tight fit.

Once a rung is prepared, coat the end with glue. Apply glue to the inside of the socket. Insert the rung, driving it carefully into place.

The newly glued joint must be held firmly for 24 hours. Lacking a clamp, tie the legs tightly with heavy string.

There may be times when you can't or don't wish to take a chair apart for regluing. The loose part, rung or back rest, can be pinned in place with a short dowel rod.

Drill a short hole in the leg at right angles to the loose rung, or in the edge of the seat at right angles to the loose back. The hole should be exactly the same size as the dowel.

Gauge drilling carefully, and drill only part way into the rung.

Coat the dowel with glue and drive it carefully into place. Sand or file the edge.

A wood screw can be used in place of a dowel, but it's not as neat. If you use a screw, be sure to countersink the head, fill over with wood plastic, and sand smooth.

Loose corners need reinforcement. Corner blocks are easily made. They're pieces of wood, triangular in shape. The right angle of the triangle fits in the corner along the leg and base of the chair. Secure with both glue and screws.

Drill the holes for the screws first. Screws should not be so long that they come out the other side.

Basement Is Raised to New Importance

A decade ago a new range or refrigerator was proudly shown off to visitors — and still is. But a tour of the basement was strictly taboo. Nobody could point with pride to a dark cellar dominated by an old furnace or boiler, a clutter of fuel bins or tanks and a battery of janitoring tools.

"Now basements are being transformed into family rooms. New gas furnaces or boilers are no bigger than office filing cabinets and virtually hide in a corner. The fuel is piped in and there is no longer a problem of storing fuel, tending fires, hauling ashes, watching water levels and cleaning chimneys."

Builders are aware of this trend and are raising basement levels to provide for more windows and more light. Husbands know its advantages, too because they no longer are expected to double as janitors. To the housewife it means cleaner heat and less housecleaning because gas combustion is complete and doesn't produce soot or fly-ash.

The compactness and modern design of most new gas heating equipment now makes it possible to plan work, play and general recreational areas in the basement as well as clean space for the laundry, freezer and indoor barbecue.

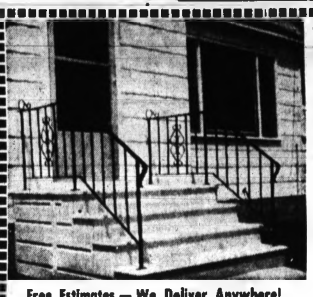

More than 71 per cent of the United States population now is protected by some form of health insurance compared with less than 10 per cent in 1935.

You Must Have a Pool to Be in the Swim

All over the country you can hear it.

The door slamming, the slap of naked feet against the ground, the whoop and holler—and the BIG SPLASH!

No matter where it occurs, chances are that door, feet, shout and splash all belong to truck driver Smith, salesman Jones, and factory worker Brown.

For the big thing this year, next year, and for years to come is the backyard swimming pool.

Americans this year are building an estimated 70,000 swimming pools, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. This brings the total number of pools in the country to well over 300,000. This compares with less than 11,000 only 10 years ago.

Even more astonishing is the fact that by far the great majority of pools are classified as residential. In 1948 there were only about 2,500 residential pools in the country.

The swimming pool has changed the family concept of vacations. Since the main reason for escaping to shore or mountain is to get away from the heat, the swimming pool answers the prime need of the majority of families.

Furthermore, the Bureau points out that the pool adds substantially to the net worth of a home owner's property.

It's much easier today to arrange to have a swimming pool constructed. Plumbing contractors will assume the responsibility for the entire job and also handle the financing so that you can pay as you swim.

Kentucky comes from an Iroquoian Indian word "Ken-tah-ten" meaning "land of tomorrow."

Announces New

BUDGET BUILDING PLAN

Q. What is the BUDGET BUILDING Plan Benson is offering?

A. Is is our new credit service—a new and easier plan for budget-minded people. It is used just like a charge account, but instead of paying the full amount, you pay only a pre-arranged credit limit each, month.

Q. Who determines what our credit limit will be?

A. You set the limit, based on what you can conveniently pay out of your income each month.

Q. If my credit limit is $100 and I owe only $80 how much do I pay?

A. Based on the credit limit, the payment is $10. That's what you pay each month. You pay less only when the total amount owed is less than the monthly payment.

Q. Must I wait until the full credit limit is paid out until I can make other purchases on credit?

A. Absolutely not. This is a continuous credit limit and you may continuously buy on credit the difference between what you owe and the limit.

Q. Is there a charge for this service?

A. Yes, a small service charge is added each month, based on the outstanding balance.

Q. Can we change our credit limit?

A. Certainly, if you can make larger monthly payments, simply make new arrangements with our credit office.

Q. Will you bill us each month?

A. Yes, you will receive a monthly bill, showing amount of each purchase, payment, credit and balance due.

Q. What happens if I pay the entire balance?

A. Your account remains in file waiting for your next purchase. During this time there is no service charge and naturally, you do not make any payments.

Q. If I can pay $10 monthly, what would my credit limit be?

A. Ten times the $10 of $100. See table below.

Payment Each Mo.	$ 5	10	15	20	25	30	35	40	45	50
Charge Up To	$50	100	130	160	180	200	225	250	275	300

Amounts over $300.00 subject to special arrangements or other financing plans.

Lumber Dealers Gang Up on Home Repair Gyps

One thousand lumber and building materials dealers, working through their national trade association, have developed a program to encourage homeowners to increase the value and "livability" of their homes, and at the same time guide them to reputable home improvement specialists.

It is the belief of the dealers that very homeowner has some project already in mind, whether it be kitchen remodeling, adding a room, finishing a basement or attic, or what not. Hence, the catchline for the program is "Project A."

EIGHTY PER CENT

"Of the fifty million homes in this country, forty million are in need of repair," according to Paul V. DeVille, president of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association. He pointed out that the huge business potential offered by the home improvement market has attracted a "horde of untrained, unskilled and unscrupulous gyp artists selling everything from furnaces to roof repairs to prey on unwary homeowners."

Mr. DeVille explained that the rash of publicity given to the swindles put over by the fly-by-night operators has had a marked effect on the home modernization business in many areas, and it has caused many homeowners to cancel or postpone planned projects.

The main purpose of the lumber and building materials dealers' program is to stimulate interest in remodeling by guiding homeowners to capable, reliable building materials showrooms where they can get everything they need in the way of advice, service and financing, as well as the actual materials to be used in the job.

The backbone of the program will be local newspaper advertising, but to give it national continuity, major consumer magazines will also be used. Additional material for local use is also being developed and will be made available through local lumber and building materials dealers.

Mr. DeVille explained that the "Project A" program is one of the most ambitious campaigns ever undertaken in the retail lumber industry, but he also pointed out that if the American homeowner is to get satisfactory modernization work at reasonable cost, he must be kept informed as to where he must go to get help.

The four fastest growing consumer product businesses in the past 12 years have been air-conditioning, television appliances, clothes drying appliances and boating industries.

Know Color Basics Before You Paint

Color plays an important part in everyday living, especially in the comfort and usability of our homes. The greatest single use of color in the home — the painted wall — can achieve wonders in a home large or small if you know a few basics about color BEFORE you begin to decorate.

Whatever colors you finally decide on, remember this important point, color in large areas becomes intensified. Therefore, your small paint samples and fabric swatches should be lighter than the final result you expect to achieve. Also, colors change under artificial light, so examine all samples in daylight and night light — both incandescent and fluorescent, if you have both.

Colors are relative and for best results should be seen together. Using a large sheet of paper as a background for your paint samples is helpful for studying the elect colors have on each other.

The ability of color to reflect light varies tremendously. White will reflect the most — about 85 per cent — but a room painted all in white is too hospital-like. Better — and easier to live with — are the light pastel tints which reflect a sufficient amount of light and are more interesting than white.

Light green, for instance, will reflect about 50 per cent of the light that hits it whereas a deep brown reflects only about 5 per cent. Ceilings are especially important from a reflection standpoint; they should be painted white or a pale tint of the wall color.

Although it isn't necessary to understand all the technical background of color, it is a big help to know the meanings of some of the common terms. HUE is used interchangeably with color although it actually refers to a family of colors — pink is a red hue, mauve is a purple hue.

The TINT of a color is created by adding white to make the color lighter. A SHADE is obtained by adding black to a color to make it darker. TONE is when both black and white — grey — is added to a color to make it more subtle or muted. When you speak of a value of a color, you mean its darkness or lightness. CHROMA relates to the amount of grayness, in other words the relative pureness of a hue.

Colors can be divided into three categories, warm, cool and neutral. These categories have been tested and proven to be valid by psychologists. Warm colors are the red and yellow hues and their relatives, such as yellow-green, yellow-orange and red-orange. Because these colors appear warm-looking to the eye they are best used in rooms that face east or north. Warm colors make rooms appear smaller but they also have a unifying quality which makes them necessary in some degree in every room.

Cool colors are the blue and purple family and the blue-greens. These are not only cool colors but colors that tend to increase the size of a room. Cool colors are best suited to rooms that face south or west. Pure greens and red-purples are considered neutral — neither cool nor warm.

A well-decorated room uses both warm and cool colors, both dark and light hues.

Colored Oak Floors Add Distinction

The style-conscious homemaker searching for something truly distinctive in room decoration now need look no further than her hardwood floors.

She can have floors of genuine oak or other hardwood in a choice of attractive decorator colors to harmonize or contrast with room furnishings.

A leading producer of floor finishing materials has developed a line of penetrating sealer stains which can be applied easily. Available in 13 colors, including various shades of blue, green, red and brown, the stain imparts striking color effects without obscuring the natural beauty of the wood grain.

For use on oak, the stain is first mixed with paste wood filler. It should be applied only to bare wood, never over existing finish. The material is brushed on and allowed to set for 10 to 12 minutes. Then the excess is wiped off with a soft cloth, and the floor is allowed to dry. Drying takes about six hours, after which a coat of clear sealer is put on. The floor then receives a final finish, such as varnish, shellac or other finish.

With its numerous tributaries, the Congo River drains an African area totaling 1,450,000 square miles.

Carver School Board Nearing Dissolution

Royal Oak Township's Carver School Board is expected Monday to formally submit written resignations to the Oakland County Board of Education.

But 40 ninth grade students at George Washington Carver school will continue their classes in one of the elementary school's vacant rooms until the county moves them.

Dr. William J. Emerson, Oakland County superintendent of schools, said Friday that he will call a special election as soon as he has the written resignations of all five board members.

Emerson said the five would meet with him in Pontiac Monday to hand in formal, written, binding resignations.

Piecemeal resignations, three at a Wednesday night meeting attended by Gov. Williams and two more Thursday, only added to confusion, Emerson said.

Mrs. Adelaide Long, Carver principal, said she had convinced the students they should abide by the law and continue their education at Carver until they were consolidated with another district.

In the event that an election is held and less than five qualified persons are elected to the board, Emerson said he would dissolve the district and merge it with a neighboring school system—probably either Oak Park or Ferndale.

Dr. Joseph Hudson, Carver superintendent, will continue to operate the system after the board resigns, Emerson said.

Dr. James N. Pepper, superintendent of the adjoining Oak Park School District, said his board has many legal and financial questions it wants the state to clear up before it would be prepared to accept all or part of the Carver district.

Burglars Net $806 in Sylvan

Bowling Alley Entered Through a Back Door Early This Morning

The latest in a rash of safe burglaries in the Pontiac area netted thieves $806 early today when they broke into the Sylvan Lanes bowling alley and bar at 2355 Orchard Lake Road, Sylvan Lake.

The theft was discovered at 7:45 a.m. when the bowling alley owner, Arthur Rosner, came to work. He notified Sylvan Lake police.

Pontiac state police have been called in to investigate as they are attempting to solve a series of recent safe burglaries in the area.

The bowling alley was entered sometime after 2 a.m. today when the place was closed. Entry was gained by forcing open a back door.

Thieves then jimmied the metal shell of the safe at one corner and broke the concrete lining with heavy tools. They took $337 in cash and $200 in checks.

An additional $200 in cash was missing from the desk in the main office and $68 was taken from the cash register in the bar adjacent to the alleys.

This was the fifth safe burglary staged within the past two weeks in the Pontiac area. Police are working on the theory that a ring of safe crackers is operating here.

Nixon at Home Until Monday

May Limp for Awhile but Is Starting 14-State Speaking Tour

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — Vice-President Richard M. Nixon is back home today after 11 days in a hospital for treatment of a knee infection. On Monday he'll start making up for lost time on the presidential campaign trail.

Helping him get a 14-state speaking tour off to a good start will be President Eisenhower and other top Republicans.

They'll breakfast with Nixon Monday at Baltimore's Friendship Airport before he takes off.

Nixon aides said he may walk with a slight limp for a time, and this may cramp his style of getting down among crowds and mixing with people.

In Beverly, Mass., Nixon's running mate Henry Cabot Lodge planned a day of rest at his home after a two-day series of receptions in three Massachusetts cities honoring his work as United Nations ambassador.

Lodge shook thousands of hands at the "welcome home" receptions given him in Worcester and Lowell Thursday and in Boston Friday. But a broad smile never left his face.

Lodge Friday said he had a new plan for winning the Cold War and hinted it was along the lines of military tactics used by Gen. Stonewall Jackson in the Civil War.

Jackson was an expert at faking an attack at one point, and hitting at another. Lodge refused to say exactly what his plan was.

John Roosevelt Opens Booth Boosting Nixon

NEW YORK (AP)—John Roosevelt, son of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Friday formally opened a Nixon-Lodge campaign booth in the Wall Street district.

The booth is located in an office building at 40 Wall Street, where Roosevelt has advertising offices. He has been a Republican since 1952.

Accompanying him as he arrived in the building was his brother, former Democratic Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., who said he was along "just for the ride" because he had business in the building.

He didn't tarry at the campaign booth.

Children's Aid Society Honored Sept. 11 to 17

Gov. Williams, in an official proclamation, has designated next week as Michigan Children's Aid Week in recognition of the Michigan Children's Aid Society's 68 years of service and "to honor the vital work it has performed."

"Through its adoption services, boarding care programs, work with unmarried mothers, protective family investigation services, and institutional care for all of Michigan's children, the society contributes significantly to assuring a prosperous future," the proclamation reads.

Gov. Williams noted the society, established in 1891, is the only statewide, nonsectarian agency in the state.

The society has branch offices in 13 cities.

The Pontiac office is supported with monies from the Pontiac Area United Fund.

Thieves Snatch Loot of $4,000

Same Ones Believed to Have Pulled 2 Jobs in Bloomfield Twp.

Thieves broke into two homes in Bloomfield Township last night and made off with $3,800 in cash and bonds from one and about $200 worth of liquor from the other.

The C. J. Collums of 6891 Oak Hills Road, believed they scared off the thieves when they arrived home at 11:30 p.m. In their haste to get away, the burglars dropped a mink coat on the living room floor.

They did, however, escape with $800 in cash, $3,000 in U.S. savings bonds, a woman's diamond-studded wrist watch and a bundle of blank checks, police said.

The burglars had entered by forcing a back door sometime after 7:30 p.m.

Although the thieves thoroughly ransacked the house, they overlooked $35 in a kitchen drawer.

Bloomfield Township police found fingerprints in the house and footprints in the backyard, believed left by the thieves.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Markarean of 6340 Franklin Road, told police they found their home had been ransacked, and 42 bottles of whiskey and gin and a man's gold wrist watch stolen when they arrived home from visiting friends at 1:25 a.m.

Thieves had entered by smashing a dining room window at the rear of the house.

Police suspect, from prints left at the scene, that the two breakins were committed by the same burglars.

Chase, Corner Would-Be Thief

Passers-By Nab Burglar

The burglary of an East Lawrence Street bicycle shop was averted this morning by two fast-thinking Pontiac men who scared off the would-be thief and finally cornered him at a nearby warehouse.

Alerted by broken glass in the front door of Scarlett's Bicycle and Hobby Shop, 20 E. Lawrence St., the two men, Fred M. Putman of 139 Lincoln St. and James McBroom of 115 Starr St., investigated.

Hearing a noise, Alvin Slusher, 24, of the Delmar Hotel, 93½ Sag-inaw St., on parole from Jackson, tiering, dived out the back window, leaving his loot behind, police said.

Giving chase, Putman and McBroom, who are brothers-in-law, tackled Slusher in a doorway at the Eames & Brown Co. warehouse, 55 E. Pike St.

Pontiac police officers Donald Brown and Fred Stormer, on their way to the station, saw the men wrestling and jumped out of their car to stop the fight.

On hearing Putman's story, they arrested Slusher for investigation of breaking and entering.

Rep. Edith Rogers Dies at Age 79

LOWELL, Mass. (UPI) — U.S. Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers, R-Mass., died today at a Boston hospital almost on the eve of an uncontested primary in which she was to be renominated for her 18th term in Congress.

* * *

Mrs. Rogers, 79 years old, was best known in her home district here and in Washington for her vigorous championing of veterans legislation.

* * *

Mrs. Rogers was first elected in 1925 to succeed her husband, Rep. John J. Rogers, who died in office.

When World War II cut off East Indian supplies of kapok, milkweed floss was used to give buoyancy to life jackets.

Lend It to Li'l Pals? That's Rich

$100 Find Is His, All His

Somebody who is out $100 is unknowingly helping to finance a new car and a college education quite a few years hence.

That's how the crisp $100 bill found by 8-year-old Leroy Pass last July 21 on a Pontiac street is going to be spent.

In the meantime, he's going to fight off the marriage offers by a few precocious little girls in his third grade class at LeBaron Elementary School and invest in a savings bond.

Son of Mrs. Willard Crosby of, 742 E. Mansfield Ave., Leroy found the bill in a gutter and immediately told his baby sitter, Mrs. Thomas A. Perry, 611 E. Mansfield Ave., that they should take it to the police station because it was the "right thing to do."

That's what they did.

Leroy patiently waited out the month for the rightful owner to claim his cash, and when nothing came of it the police notified Mrs. Crosby that her son was $100 richer. She picked him up at school and they claimed it together at the police department Thursday.

But it's not all peaches and cream.

"My friends at school keep asking for $50 loans," muttered Leroy.

The marriage offers get a little bothersome too. "None of that for me," he indignantly replies. "I'm buying a new car when I'm 16, and I'm saving $25 for college."

U. of M. Series Begins Monday

Extension Courses to Start

University of Michigan extension courses in the Pontiac area will get off to a flying start Monday night at Pontiac Northern High School.

The first of 18 courses offered this fall in the county will meet in room B1 at 7:30 p.m.

It is Cultural Geography of Asia, a geography course carrying two hours credit.

Borrows Cigarette, Then Murders Giver

DETROIT (AP) — An elderly bachelor was shot and killed today by a young man who had begged a cigarette from him.

Witnesses said that Joseph A. Kosa, 68, was standing at a bus stop when a man approached and asked for a cigarette.

They said that, given the cigarette, the man drew a gun and shot Kosa in the chest. Then he fled and disappeared.

Reflections

I LIVE HERE

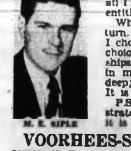

J. L. VOORHEES

Pontiac is the place where my home is found and where my vote is cast. It is where my children are educated, and where my neighbors are glad to see me, and I them. It is the spot I call Home. It has the right to claim my civic loyalty; it protects me and I support it. This place I call Home wants my citizenship, not my partisanship; my friendliness, not my dissension; my sympathy, not my criticism, that too is welcome if constructive, my intelligence, not my indifference. This place I call Home has some things that are better than others; the best of them I should seek to make better, the worst I should help to suppress. Take it all in all I'm proud to call it My Home Town. It is entitled to the best there is in me.

When I am away from it I am glad to return. It has attractions I helped to create. I chose it and every day has vindicated my choice. It is here I built a circle of friendships and each and all of them are jewels in my treasure chest. My roots have gone deep; they sustain me. I am proud of Pontiac. It is My Home Town.

P.S. My attachment for Pontiac is demonstrated in our relations with our families; it is sincere neighborliness.

Tibet Chinese Boot Russ, Too

Follow Peiping's Lead in Ousting Technicians and Advisers

RANIKHET, India (UPI)—Chinese Communist authorities in Tibet have followed Peiping and ordered Russian technicians and advisors to get out, traders reported Friday in this Northern India city.

The traders said about 300 Russians had left Tibet in recent weeks as result of unexpected orders from Peiping. A trickle of Russians left at first, they said, and then the remainder departed en masse.

Reports reaching London diplomatic circles several weeks ago told of a mass exodus of Russian technicians from China proper following an ideological dispute between Peiping and Moscow with each side striving for leadership of the Communist bloc.

Indian traders said Russian technicians were scattered from Sinkiang Province on the extreme western border to Tibet to the Burmese border.

CALLED TO RECONSTRUCT

They were called in by the Chinese to help "reconstruct" the Tibetans after last year's anti-Communist uprising.

Tibetan sources in this border area said the Russians were well-received because of their polite behavior toward the Tibetans and that the Chinese Communist apparently thought they were undermining Peiping's position.

Tibetan sources also reported some ideological differences arose between the Chinese and the Russians over the reconstruction program itself and that the Russians were withdrawn after Chinese in the Tibetan capital of Lhasa complained to Peiping.

Bodies of 5 Boys Found in Tunnel

SONYEA, N.Y. (UPI) — The bodies of five boys aged 13 to 15 who had been missing since Wednesday from a state epileptics' hospital were found Friday night in a heating tunnel on the hospital grounds.

* * *

It was suspected that they died from asphyxiation due to lack of oxygen and intense heat. The temperature in the narrow, darkened tunnel reached up to 140 or 150 degrees, a hospital spokesman said.

* * *

Dr. Vincent Bonafede, director of the Craig Colony and Hospital here, said the five boys apparently broke a window in a kitchen basement, made their way into a sub-cellar and then wandered into the "maze of tunnels" connecting the more than 100 buildings on the hospital grounds.

LONDON (AP) — Nine British doctors got mixed up last year between left and their right and nine patients woke up to find the wrong limb had been operated on.

"It is hardly necessary to say that cases of this sort are quite indefensible," wrote Dr. Philip Addison in the British Medical Journal today.

Dr. Addison is secretary of the Medical Defense Union which gives legal aid to doctors.

The council, he said, was perturbed by the number of patient's claims for compensation "after an operation was performed on the wrong limb or digit."

Often the mistakes are due to doctors confusing right with left, he added.

[Ike] Named Cabinet Men, Brother Delegates

Washington (UPI) — President Eisenhower today named three cabinet members and his brother Milton to the U.S. delegation which will attend the Mexican independence celebration from Sept. 12 through Sept. 17.

The President appointed Secretary of State Christian A. Herter to head the delegation. In the category of personal representatives with the rank of special ambassador, the President named Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates Jr., Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, and Robert C. Hill, the U.S. ambassador to Mexico.

In Memorium 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF William E. Humphrey who passed away September 8, 1957.
The shock was sudden, the pain severe,
Little we thought that death was so near.
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
Our eyes shed many tears,
God knows how much we miss you
As this ends three sad long years.
Sadly missed by mother, father, and brother.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF GEORGE C. Strickland who passed away September 10, 1957.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear.
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sadly missed by husband, daughter, son and grandchildren.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF GERald Harleigh Inman, who passed away Sept. 11, 1958.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep,
His memory we shall always keep.
Sadly missed by Mother and sisters, Delores and Linda.

WE'RE PROUD AS punch of this latest offering and want you to see it: Solid brick ledgerock trimmed, 2-car brick garage attached, 3 bedrooms, one 12.4 x 15.2! Petal pink ceramic bath. Ample table space in the lovely birch kitchen, stove hood and vent fan. Beneath the luscious all wool carpeting is thick foam rubber padding. 2 fireplaces. Yes, there is a fine basement, partitioned. The yard is a showplace — the back yard cyclone fenced. Sounds like $30,000 but it is only $18,000 for quick sale. You will need about $4600 down. Let's look.

BEEN LOOKING for a Cool Woodsy Spot with plenty of quiet and privacy? If so, you really must see this English Colonial 2 story. All lovely rooms with a formal dining room that's a beauty! Fireplace. Carpeting. Dandy basement. Screened porch. Hot water heat, 2 car garage. White sand beach privileges nearby. It's vacant and we have the key.

$1500 DOWN. 152' on the Canal leading into Cass Lake. A large 3 bedroom, plus family room, plus full basement, plus 2 car garage! Oak floors, plastered walls. Log burning, heatalator type fireplace. Beautiful shaded lot, under ground sprinkling system. Wall to wall carpeting in both the living room and dining room are included in the low low price of $15,950 and ONLY $100 per month. Immediate possession. We have the key.

SURE TO PLEASE a nice couple who want to own a real sweet bungalow situated on 2 beautiful lots. One shaded and landscaped, the second a good garden spot. Living room is 13.5 x 20. Plastered walls oak floors. Full basement which has a walk-out door to the lovely yard. Full price $9,250, $2,481 down and $65 per month.

NEAR JOSLYN: LeBaron, Madison and Northern High Schools. Its a neat 3 bedroom ranch type. The kitchen is a beauty, all birch cupboards, double sink, snack bar. Attractive tile bath, shower. Heavily insulated, both side walls and ceilings. Gas bill less than $75 last year! Young folks with about $1,000, here's your chance to own a nice home in a convenient city location.

CAN YOU SPEND $500 Toward a sharp 2 bedroom home, paneled breezeway and garage? Do you want a landscaped yard-carpeting, storms and screens? Then call for inspection of this one located near Loon Lake with privileges. Priced at $11,500. Bob Hope Signs 5-Year Contract for TV Shows

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bob Hope and NBC Friday signed a new five-year contract calling for the comedian to star in from six to eight hour long special TV shows yearly.

Hope also will be available to NBC for a two-hour show each year.

"The 1960-61 season which starts this contract marks Hope's 11th year on television," said NBC President Robert E. Kintner.

Hope began his association with NBC radio 25 years ago.

George Whistler, father of the famous artist, was a West Point graduate.

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Meller, D.V.M.

Q. We've been told that if we have a child, our three-month-old German Shepherd may become very jealous. Does this usually happen? John Kelemen, New Brunswick, N.J.

A. A dog sometimes resents a new member of the family as much as a child does. Jealousy is a strong emotion in dogs and makes them behave in strange ways.

Your German Shepherd's age is in your favor, for he can be taken to Obedience School when he's about six months old. It is essential that he be well trained and obey implicitly if you are to have confidence in his future behaviour.

The very size of your dog demands obedience, for even a playful push could be harmful to the small child. Your dog needs affection, but don't confuse it with spoiling.

After training, observe his reactions around children. When the happy event occurs in your home, be exceedingly slow and careful in introducing him to your child. Try to give the dog as much attention and affection as he has had.

Police Recover Kidnaped Child

Arrest Romulus Twp. Mother Who Once Was Mental Patient

DETROIT (AP) — Two-year-old Jacqueline Bergey was recovered unharmed Friday hours after she was kidnaped from a parked car in Romulus Township.

Police arrested Mrs. Delcia Svacha, 34, of Romulus Township, and held her without charge for questioning.

Detectives said they found Jacqueline in Mrs. Svachs's car when she drove up to her home. They said Mrs. Svacha had fed the girl lunch and taken her to the family doctor for a physical checkup and a series of health shots.

Mrs. Svacha also had in the car her younger son John, 5.

Police quoted neighbors as saying Mrs. Svacha, a former mental patient at a state hospital, told them she had many other children but police had taken them away from her.

Neighbors said she kept a playground at her home for children living in the area. They said: "She wouldn't hurt anyone."

Detective Harry Cummings of the Wayne County Road Patrol said Mrs. Svacha screamed when arrested: "If you are going to take this baby away from me now, why don't you go out and find my other children instead."

Jacqueline is the youngest of four daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Bergey of Romulus Township.

Internal Revenue Wins 1,079 Cases in Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncle Sam's tax sleuths investigated fewer cases in the last fiscal year than in the preceding 12 months but won more convictions, the Internal Revenue Service said Thursday. Its intelligence division made 3,561 full scale investigations, compared with 3,969 a year earlier, but won convictions of 1,079 individuals compared with 931 in the preceding fiscal year, the IRS said.

Killer Storm Whirling 80 Miles West of Miami

Grand Trunk Rail Stoppage Settled

Heading Toward Tampa Leaving Keys in Muddle

Expect Service to Start Monday for Commuters

Has Few Changes Hope to Begin Freight Runs Sunday; Contract

The nine-day Grand Trunk Western Railroad strike that closed some automobile plants and threatened to close many more ended last night.

And some 1,500 commuters between Pontiac and Detroit can resume their train rides Monday morning.

Railroad spokesmen said they hoped to restore some freight service by Sunday night and commuter service by Monday morning.

"This, however, is dependent upon our recalling crews and getting the tracks checked as a safety measure," said Francis A. Gaffney, vice president and general manager.

Gaffney said the items of settlement were "the same as those offered to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen before the strike with the addition of increased wage rates of approximately $2 per day to about 23 men."

MEDIATOR ON HAND

The settlement was reached by negotiators soon after Leverett Edwards, a member of the National Mediation Board, entered the negotiations.

The strike by the Brotherhood idled 6,400 railroad employes and was the first serious tie-up to hit Grand Trunk in more than 40 years.

The work stoppage, which began Sept. 1, had forced General Motors' Chevrolet Division to shut down its motor plant in Flint, idling 4,500 workers.

No further details of the settlement were revealed and there was no comment from the Union.

If the strike had continued eight more days, Mayor Louis Miriani of Detroit warned earlier this week, more than 100,000 Detroit area workers would have been idled.

Edwards got the union and railroad together for the bargaining session which brought about the settlement.

Earlier in the day, Edwards met with union representatives headed by Thomas W. Fletcher, General chairman, and Frank Collin, vice president of the Brotherhood.

After this meeting, Edwards conferred with Grand Trunk officials for another review of negotiations.

LADY DONNA IS NO LADY — High winds from Hurricane Donna whip the waters of Biscayne Bay at Miami, Fla., into a froth, tossing a huge wave high in the air. Palm trees on the shore bend before the fury of the storm. The open circle on the map indicates Donna as it passed over Cape Sable and headed north northwest off Florida's west coast today. Underlined is Tavernier where the hurricane claimed its first victim today. Also underlined is Sanibel Island where the Coast Guard sent helicopters to evacuate stranded persons. Highway U. S. 1, which links the Florida Keys with the mainland, was awash in many places.

From Our News Wires

MIAMI—Hurricane Donna shrieked into the Florida Keys and the marshy wilderness of the Everglades today with a fury that tossed fish from the sea and threw house trailers as far as a half-mile.

At least two dead were reported.

Miami was hit by winds of 80 miles an hour, just over the hurricane force. Although the huge metropolitan area missed the worst of the severe storm, damage to property appeared substantial.

Police refused to let anyone on the streets and many telephone lines were out.

The Miami Weather Bureau reported that there were "some known casualties" in the Florida Keys but a Red Cross official said reports of casualties at Tavernier were "grossly misrepresented."

The Miami bureau also reported in its 9 a.m. EST bulletin that:

TRAVELS WESTWARD

—The storm center was located 80 miles west of Miami and about 20 miles south-southwest of Everglades City.

—The hurricane was continuing on a course towards the northwest at about nine miles an hour and was expected to continue on that course during the ensuing six hours.

—Everglades City reported winds up to 120 miles an hour at 7 a.m., and Sombrero Light in the Keys reported one gust at 105 miles an hour.

—It still was unsafe to move about in Miami although winds were beginning to diminish.

A week's advance warning of the killer storm, which claimed more than 100 lives last weekend in the Antilles and Puerto Rico, enabled Florida residents to ride it out in relative safety.

The body of an unidentified man was found at Tavernier in the Keys, and a youth was killed in a car wreck on the mainland, but reports of heavy casualties were not substantiated.

BABY BORN

The city of Miami, hit by hurricane force winds at daybreak, was boarded up and ready. A baby was born in a storm shelter during the night, telephone and power lines were tangled and residents were barred from the streets under pain of arrest.

The coastal highway near Fort Lauderdale was littered with fish tossed ashore by the pounding tides. A highway patrolman at Tavernier reported bridges washed out and most of the house trailers in one trailer park blown a half-mile and their contents spewed on the ground.

The water pipeline to Key West from the mainland paralleling the Overseas Highway—was broken near Marathon, but residents had stockpiled drinking water before the storm hit.

Homestead Police Capt. Billy Wimberley reported his city "a terrible mess" with streets blocked with "trees and timber and junk."

Relief columns assembled at Homestead and Key West to move into the central Keys area were balked by bridge washouts. The (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Donna Late and Hours Pass Slowly

By BEN PHLEGAR

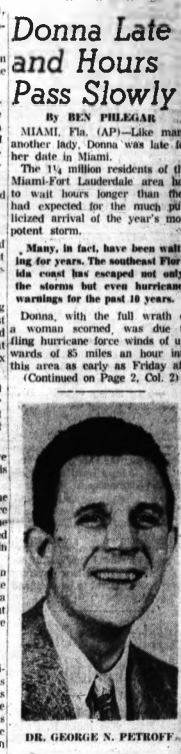

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Like many another lady, Donna was late for her date in Miami.

The 1½ million residents of the Miami-Fort Lauderdale area had to wait hours longer than they had expected for the much publicized arrival of the year's most potent storm.

Many, in fact, have been waiting for years. The southeast Florida coast has escaped not only the storms but even hurricane warnings for the past 10 years.

Donna, with the full wrath of a woman scorned, was due to bring hurricane force winds of upwards of 85 miles an hour into this area as early as Friday afternoon.

DR. GEORGE N. PETROFF

Civic Leader Dies at Home

Dr. George N. Petroff Won Honor From State, Local Jaycees

Dr. George N. Petroff, outstanding Pontiac civic leader, died suddenly this morning in his home at 219 Cherokee Rd. He was 42.

Honored by the Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce as Michigan's "Outstanding Young Man of 1952," Dr. Petroff in 1961 was chosen the outstanding Jaycee in Pontiac.

He headed the Junior Chamber of Commerce here in 1952 and in that year was voted the outstanding Jaycee president by 47 Michigan junior chambers.

The father of six children, Dr. Petroff served on the Pontiac General Hospital Building Committee, was active in Boy Scout and PTA work, and headed the Pontiac Area United Fund's professional solicitations.

Dr. Petroff served as athletic physician for Pontiac Central High School and St. Michael High.

He was on the staffs of Pontiac General and St. Joseph Mercy Hospitals, and served on several committees of the Oakland County Medical Society.

BORN IN PENNSYLVANIA

Born in Uniontown, Pa., Dr. Petroff moved to Pontiac in 1940.

He received his medical education at Wayne State University and served as an officer during World War II.

Dr. Petroff was a member of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Congolese Call a Cease Fire

U.N. Announces Orders Which Would End Bloody Kasai War

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The United Nations announced late today the Congolese army has issued cease fire orders to its troops throughout the Congo.

This order, if obeyed, would put an end to the bloody warfare in Kasai Province and end Patrice Lumumba's planned invasion of rebellious Katanga Province.

The announcement came a few hours after Premier Lumumba demanded that the United Nations stop Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and his aides from what he called their interference in the Congo's internal affairs.

A hands-off order would be in the interests of world peace, the premier declared in a klieg-lighted news conference at his luxurious villa.

Still fighting for his political life against the followers of President Joseph Kasavubu, Lumumba complained about Hammarskjold's statement in New York Friday night that the presidential decree firing the premier — since declared void by Parliament — was legal under the Congo's constitution.

Dems Play 'I've Got Secret,' Says Bagwell in Talk Here

Paul D. Bagwell today accused Michigan Democrats of playing "I've Got a Secret" when it comes to discussing what they are going to do about the state's "serious problems."

The Republican candidate for governor made the statement in a speech prepared for the GOP ox roast on the John F. Ivory estate in White Lake Township today.

Many of the estimated 2,000 persons attending the picnic formed a motorcade at 1 p.m. in front of the County Courthouse in Pontiac.

With cheers, horn blaring and placard waving, the long line of packed cars headed out West Huron Street for the picnic site on Cooley Lake Road.

Bagwell, U.S. Rep. Alvin M. Bentley, who is seeking election to the U.S. Senate, Huntington Woods Mayor David R. Calhoun, state treasurer candidate, and U.S. Rep. William Broomfield, R-Oakland, led the colorful parade.

'UPHILL BATTLE'

"We are fighting an uphill battle," Bagwell told GOP partisans assembled at the estate, "but we will win if we have the will to win.

"We know we are up against a well-disciplined political machine, but the best machine in the world can't hide the facts of the need for a change in the administration."

Democrats, Bagwell said, have no concrete program to offer the state.

"They are today playing loose with the welfare of the state, playing loose with the future of the 1,600,000 children in our school system, playing loose with the 1,200 children who have been committed to hospitals for the mentally retarded but can't get in because facilities are not available. This is the height of political irresponsibility.

"They are asking the people to buy a pig-in-the-poke program and my opponent refuses to outline any definite plan," Bagwell said.

Merchants Offer Free Meals

You'll Really Eat This Up

Thanks to a huge aluminum frying pan that can handle 250 scrambled eggs at one time, the Downtown Merchants Association, is planning to offer free breakfast to 1,000 persons a day as a kickoff feature every morning of the Downtown Fall Festival next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Eggs, pancakes and coffee will be the menu at the breakfast site on West Huron Street, a block west of Saginaw.

Picnic tables for 240 persons will be moved into the site Wednesday night in time for the first breakfast at 9 a.m. Thursday morning. Breakfast will last from 9 to 10:30 a.m. each day of the three-day sales event.

The location will be the parking lot of the Oakland County Prosecutor's office at the southeast corner of West Huron and Wayne streets.

The frying pan has been lent to the festival by the Michigan State University Agricultural Department. It is six feet square, and with it goes a chrome-plated hoe for stirring.

The West Side Civic Club is to provide cooks. The breakfast will (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The United States notified the Soviet Union today Premier Nikita Khrushchev during his visit to New York must not travel off Manhattan Island.

In a memorandum delivered to the Soviet U.N. delegation, the United States requested that arrangements be made for the Soviet leader to reside as near as possible to U.N. headquarters and to limit his movements to those required by his official mission as head of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

U. S. sources said similar restrictions were being placed on Hungarian Communist party chief Janos Kadar and Mehmet Shehu, premier of Albania.

The U. S. memorandum said the restrictions were being imposed in order to provide adequate security for the Communist leaders.

U.A.R. Building Blasted

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—An explosion shattered the waiting room of the United Arab Republic Consulate here today, injuring at least one person. The blast was apparently caused by a small bomb.

It'll Be a Little Warmer Tomorrow

Temperatures will be a little warmer tomorrow, with the high about 78. Low tonight will be 55, the weatherman says.

Monday and Tuesday will be partly cloudy and cooler. Precipitation totaling about one-quarter of an inch will occur about Monday or Tuesday.

Northeasterly morning winds at 3 m.p.h. will become northwest increasing to 8 to 14 m.p.h., diminish and become light and variable tonight.

Fifty-two was the lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The reading at 1 p.m. was 69.

Sum of the People

Unionists Are Influenced by Many Election Issues

By JOHN KRAFT
(Special to The Pontiac Press)

"An overwhelming majority of the AFL-CIO membership will vote for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket." So said Joseph Beirne, president of the Communications Workers of America on a television program last week.

The possibility that union members will decide to favor the Democratic ticket rather than Nixon and Lodge hardly comes as a new notion. But does it mean that there is some deep identification of union members' interests and the Democratic party?

According to a steelworker in McKeesport, Pa., it does. He told a Kraft interviewer recently:

"Look. The Republicans gave us the Taft-Hartley law, right? So where's the percentage in voting for the Republicans? They don't care about unions, in fact they're against them, right? I'm for Kennedy and Johnson."

In different language, the same sentiment was expressed by a pullman porter in Detroit:

"Maybe the head of our union doesn't see much difference between Nixon and Kennedy, but I do. Kennedy tried to get some good legislation through last year and it was the Republicans who messed him up. What the Republicans call right-to-work means no unions. They don't care about unions and the working man, and that's the main reason to vote against them."

Remarks like these are apparently confirmed by the figures showing how union members and their families felt late in August about the coming election.

And here it can be seen that a clear majority of union members and their families do indeed plan to vote for the Democratic ticket. But is it "overwhelming"? A full 14 per cent still have not made up their minds.

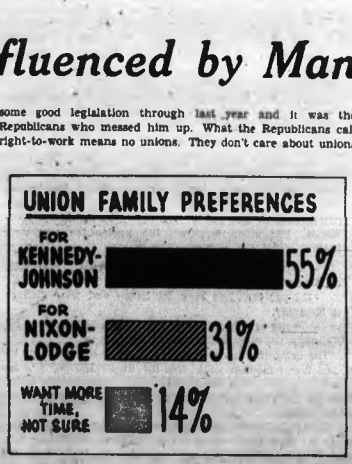

Close to one out of three seem to have rejected the arguments of the pullman porter and the steelworker quoted above. And when comments of all union members are listened to carefully it turns out they are liberally sprinkled with quite different reasons.

CITES EXPERIENCE

A member of the UAW in Milwaukee spoke this way:

"I think I'm going to switch this year, to be perfectly honest. Why? Well I got nothing against the Democrats at all, but when you consider that Lodge has had all that experience with the United Nations and dealing with the Russians and Nixon's been no slouch either, then you have to have men with experience in there. I'm not saying that getting along

West Retaliates With Stiff Restrictions on East Germans

From Our News Wires

LONDON — The Western allies struck back at Communist East Germany today and imposed severe counter-restrictions on East Germans wishing to travel to the West, authoritative sources reported in London.

The sources said the West had stopped granting transit visas for East Germans who want to travel outside the Iron Curtain.

The measure was in direct retaliation against the East German regime's latest restrictions on access to West Berlin.

Today's development was foreshadowed by the allies yesterday when they warned the Soviet Union they would take all steps necessary to end the regulations imposed by East Germany in violation of four-power agreements on Berlin.

POLICE SLOW TRAFFIC

The counter-restrictions, effective today, came as East German border police began slowing truck traffic to Berlin by making some truck drivers stop and unload their trucks for inspection.

The Communists said they were looking for "propaganda material."

Authoritative diplomatic sources in London said no new travel documents have been issued to East Germans as of today. New restrictions were expected but nothing was announced.

It was clear the West was reserving the right to further action to met the new Communist challenge in the divided city, a western outpost 110 miles inside Communist East Germany.

At the same time, Acting Chancellor Ludwig Erhard appealed to West German businessmen for a voluntary boycott on trade with Communist East Germany.

He said the Communist regime of East Germany was trying to drive a wedge between West German businessmen and their government by pretending that whatever happened politically, trade could go on. He appealed for moral resistance to this effort.

U.S. REACTS

In Washington the new Communist squeeze tactics in Berlin were viewed by well informed officials as part of a psychological buildup for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's promised disarmament pitch at the United Nations this month.

U. S. officials said the Reds apparently are focusing renewed attention on Berlin in preparation for Khrushchev's presentation of sweeping new proposals calling for German disarmament and a peace treaty on Russia's terms.

American authorities did not discount the possibility of a new crisis over the former German capital

OWEN J. CLEARY

Former State Official Dies

Kidney Ailment Fatal to Republican Leader Owen J. Cleary

YPSILANTI (UPI) — Former Michigan Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary, 60, died today at Beyer Memorial Hospital.

Cleary collapsed at opening ceremonies of a Republican headquarters here Friday and was rushed to the hospital.

Dr. Marvin L. Potter said the former state GOP chairman and son of the founder of Cleary College here was suffering from a chronic kidney disease. Dr. Potter said Cleary died at 6:15 a.m.

Cleary was talking with Rep. Alvin M. Bentley, the Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, and State Rep. James Warner of Ypsilanti when he collapsed.

He was taken to the hospital and given a blood transfusion and round-the-clock nurses were assigned to him.

Cleary's big dream was to see the business school founded by his father move into its new quarters which are expected to be occupied by Nov. 1.

be sponsored by Community National Bank with Philip R. Sauer and Monroe M. Osmun as cochairmen for the merchants group.

The bank plans to sponsor free bus rides for any rider of the Pontiac Transit Corp. who wants to enjoy the breakfast. There'll be no charge for a ride on any downtown-bound bus 8:30 to 9:30 a. m. each day of the sale.

Norman L. Pattison, general chairman of Downtown Festival Days, said many other special events are planned to make this the biggest, busiest festival yet.

Carnival rides, free parking in downtown lots, parades, street events and special displays have been lined up this year, he said.

Besides the traditional shopping values, merchants will be offering goods for sale from sidewalk displays and bazaars.

Continuous activities will be accented throughout the sale, Pattison said.

Coast Guard assembled planes and helicopters for an air effort.

Hurricane warnings were flying along both Florida coasts for more than 300 miles as Donna headed relentlessly northwestward.

NEAR TAMPA SUNDAY

The center is due to pass near Tampa Bay early Sunday. Lowland residents on both coasts were urged to evacuate immediately.

Wind-driven sand was piled along Miami Beach streets. A newsman, Dick Lobe of Miami TV Station WCKT, said the scene reminded him of a dune-filled desert.

The winds whined through storm shutters and tossing palm fronds. The black Miami night was filled with eerie flashes as power transformers popped on their high poles.

The residential sections, many of which lost their power early in the storm, were dark as pitch except for candles flickering here and there through unshielded windows.

In Havana, one cloudburst, brisk winds and high seas were the only evidence of Donna as the storm veered away from the Cuban capital on its way to Florida.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro surveyed the seafront Friday night. His inspection trip drew a large crowd.

$100 Find Is His, All His

Somebody who is out $100 is unknowingly helping to finance a new car and a college education quite a few years hence.

That's how the crisp $100 bill found by 8-year-old Leroy Pass last July 21 on a Pontiac street is going to be spent.

In the meantime, he's going to fight off the marriage offers by a few precocious little girls in his third grade class at LeBaron Elementary School and invest in a savings band.

Son of Mrs. Willard Crosby of 742 E. Mansfield Ave., Leroy found the bill in a gutter and immediately told his baby sitter, Mrs. Thomas A. Perry, 611 E. Mansfield Ave., that they should take it to the police station because it was the "right thing to do."

That's what they did.

Leroy patiently waited out the month for the rightful owner to claim his cash, and when nothing came of it the police notified Mrs. Crosby that her son was $100 richer. She picked him up at school and they claimed it together at the police department Thursday.

But it's not all peaches and cream.

"My friends at school keep asking for $50 loans," muttered Leroy.

The marriage offers get a little bothersome too. "None of that for me," he indignantly replies. "I'm buying a new car when I'm 16 and I'm saving $25 for college."

Harrelson Again Sought by Police

Find Car, but Not Him; He Faces a Charge of Assault and Battery

Area police again are looking for Leaun W. Harrelson, 24-year-old son of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614 President Leaun Harrelson.

This time they want to arrest young Harrelson on an assault and battery charge.

Pontiac police, at the request of Bloomfield Township police, went to the home of the elder Harrelson at 344 East Boulevard Thursday night in search for his son.

They found his car parked in front of the house but couldn't find young Harrelson.

He was in Municipal Court Aug. 31 when he pleaded guilty to forging some 60 names on nominating petitions for the August primary election.

That was only after the court had issued a warrant for his arrest when he failed to appear on an earlier trial date.

OTHER CHARGE DROPPED

Young Harrelson was accused by his neighbor of another assault and battery at the same time, but charges later were dropped.

Municipal Court Judge Maurice Finnegan sentenced him to 90 days probation for the election misdemeanor and ordered him to pay $100 court costs.

The judge set Harrelson's probation term to begin Sept. 30 County Probation officer Conrad Konczal said this is highly irregular. The judge did not order Harrelson to report first to the County Probation Office before stating that he was free to go to Chicago, Konczal said. Harrelson said he has a new job waiting there for him.

Judge Finnegan instructed Harrelson to write his probation officer to keep him informed of his whereabouts.

"The judge, however, failed to notify us where Harrelson would be in Chicago," said Konczal.

Asked yesterday why Harrelson's probation term had been scheduled to start only Sept. 30 instead of immediately, Judge Finnegan said:

"I don't want to talk about it."

He refused to make any further comment on the Harrelson case.

The latest assault and battery charge stems from a fracas in the Town and Country bar in Bloomfield Township where young Harrelson allegedly tore the dress off Mrs. Jerry Dodd of 57, Mark St. Aug. 2. She has pressed charges.

Hours Pass Slowly as Donna Is Late

ernoon. Instead it was well after midnight.

WAIT AND WAIT

The hours between passed painfully low as the natives, tourists and refugees from the Keys south of here waited for the big blow.

Stores, banks, offices and restaurants began closing at noon Friday. Buses quit. Streets were deserted. Some bars closed and even the postoffice, despite its famous motto, sharply curtailed activities.

Branch post offices were shut. Postal employes were advised to remain at home unless they could get to their jobs in absolute safety. The public was asked to avoid using corner letter boxes which could flood.

Two of the main downtown bridges over the Miami River—Flagler Street and Miami Avenue—were closed to traffic. The River wends its way through the heart of the business district and the bridges, which open frequently to permit boats to pass, long have borne the brunt of criticism for snarled traffic. The river, running bank full, was churned to a white lather by the storm.

Reporters attempting to view conditions in the Keys first hand were turned back by state patrolmen at Homestead near the tip of the Florida mainland. Highway U. S. 1, which links the Florida Keys with the mainland, was awash in many spots.

LOOTING PREVENTED

In the residential district of fashionable Key Biscayne off Miami only one home showed lights Friday night. Residents had been urged to leave the low, exposed key and almost all complied. Cars returning from the Key Friday night were searched as police sought to forestall possible looting.

Miami Beach hotels had impromptu hurricane parties. One hotel manager said he had told his guests to remain inside for their own safety and that if they didn't like the rule they could check out.

Borrows Cigarette, Then Murders Giver

DETROIT (AP) — An elderly bachelor was shot and killed today by a young man who had begged a cigarette from him.

Witnesses said that Joseph A. Koss, 68, was standing at a bus stop when a man approached and asked for a cigarette.

They said that, given the cigarette, the man drew a gun and shot Koss in the chest. Then he fled and disappeared.

Unionists Split on Parties

with the rest of the world is the only problem we have, but you tell me: what's more important?"

Out in Seattle a setup man on a saw at Boeing, an enthusiastic member of the IAM, developed the same line of thinking a little further:

"Talk about problems in this election! You have to think about the cost of living, and giving the worker a break, and this whole segregation mess in the South with the sit-ins. My own feeling is that the Democrats could handle problems like that better than the Republicans. Certainly on giving the working man a break they would.

"But then I get to thinking about all those Sputniks flying around up there and how we're doing so badly at the Olympics and you know what I figure? To heck with what Meany and Reuther and Hayes say. We need somebody, like Nixon and Lodge, who know what to do with the Russians. And Eisenhower gave Nixon all the experience. You can't deny it."

In remarks like these, it can be seen that union members do not think exclusively in terms of which party is strongest on labor issues. Often other issues predominate, even to the exclusion of so-called "labor issues."

An earlier survey, conducted shortly after the Republican convention, also pointed to the fact that there was little that was permanent about the "union vote." That survey showed that over a three month period roughly one out of five voters had changed their minds. For union members the percentage was even higher.

—8 per cent had been for Kennedy and were drifting away.

—11 per cent had been for Nixon and were drifting to Kennedy.

— 6 per cent hadn't been sure, but half were now for Kennedy, the other half for Nixon.

The net gain was in Kennedy's favor—a total of 3 per cent of the union member vote. But the important point to bear in mind is that a full one-in-four union votes appear to have been up for grabs and subject to pressures to shift one way or the other.

Like the "Negro vote" analyzed last week, there appear to be no "one issue" characteristics about the "union vote." And it is a volatile, shifting vote the canddates must not overlook.

ASKS INTERVENTION

He announced he has written Hammarskjold and U. N. members a call for intervention of "all nations."

"This is a solemn and pathetic appeal to all nations to intervene to prevent the Congo from becoming a battlefield of World War III," Lumumba said.

At the United Nations, Hammarskjold defended before the Security Council early today the seizure of Congo airports and Leopoldville Radio by U. N. forces.

Under fire from the Communist bloc, he put the issue squarely up to the 11-nation council for "its consideration and instruction."

The Day in Birmingham

Three Teen-Agers Fined for Theft or Destruction

BIRMINGHAM — Three teenagers in Municipal Court yesterday —two for stealing tires, the other for malicious destruction of property—were sentenced and fined by Judge John Emery.

Placed on probation for one year for the theft of automobile tires from North Chevrolet Co., 1000 Woodward Ave., were Douglas Ward, 17, of 1684 W. Lincoln Road, and Lance Scripter, 17, of 6956 Valley Springs Drive, Bloomfield Township.

Judge Emery, in placing the two boys on probation, also stipulated they must be home by 9 p. m. each evening and that no driving be allowed.

In addition, Ward was fined $50 and Scripter, $5 with orders to make $70 restitution.

Fined $25 and put on probation until July for damaging property at Seaholm High School was Ralph Costa, 18, of 3825 Lincoln Drive, Bloomfield Township.

Costa pleaded guilty to painting with black paint a wooden building used by a parking lot attendant.

He was caught in the act by school custodians, police said.

Registration for adult evening classes at Seaholm High School will start Monday at the Birmingham Board of Education office, it was announced today.

Classes will start Sept. 26, according to Howard L. Malwitz, coordinator of adult education.

Courses offered this year include American history, cake decorating, contract bridge, French, fundamental drawing, investment guidance, oil painting and Russian.

Other classes are sewing, shorthand, Spanish, typing and square and round dancing.

A fee of $6 will be charged for each course with the exception of investment guidance, $5; sewing, $4, and dancing, $10.

An historical marker relating the early history of Franklin Village was dedicated at noon ceremonies today on the Village Green.

The dedication of the marker, a gift of the Michigan State Historical Commission, coincided with the village's annual round-up and barbecue.

The marker tells of the founding of the village in 1824-25, its naming in 1828, and how even today, it retains the air of an early Michigan community.

Village historian Burt Wood and Mrs. Donald Adams of Drayton Plains, a member of the Historical Commission, were on hand for the dedication.

The Child Study Club of the Congregational Church of Birmingham will resume its monthly luncheon meetings Thursday at 12:45 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Howard Rieman, 16124 Locherbie Road.

Mrs. Rogers was first elected in 1925 to succeed her husband, Rep. John J. Rogers, who died in office.

Eyes Miss America Title

Our Nancy Is Gal to Beat

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—A new Miss America will be crowned tonight, and, as far as the 53 other contestants are concerned, Miss Michigan literally shaped up as the girl to beat.

Nancy Anne Fleming, 18-year-old brown haired beauty from Montague, Mich., became the only dual trophy winner of this year's pageant last night, with her victory in the third and final swim suit judging.

Miss Fleming is 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighs 116 pounds and her measurements are 35-22-35.

Earlier this week, she won a talent competition with a fast-paced description of ways to use clothing which she designed.

As the only known winner of two judging events, Miss Michigan was the visible leader in the race to become one of the 10 finalists named on stage tonight and to succeed Mississippi's Lynda Lee Mead when the winner is announced about midnight.

But the crown of Miss America 1961 is still within the grasp of any of the 53 other contestants from all the states, Canada, New York City, Chicago and Washington, D. C.

Carillon Recital at Cranbrook

Christ Church Children to Start Fall Term of Classes Sunday

The annual fall carillon concerts at Christ Church Cranbrook will begin tomorrow. A recital will be given each Sunday at 4 p.m. through Oct. 30.

Frederick Marriott, director of music at Central Methodist Church, Detroit, will present the opening concert.

Other carillonneurs for the month include Mrs. Richard Buchanan of Birmingham, Sept. 18, and Sidney Giles, assistant carillonneur at the University of Michigan, Sept. 25.

October recitalists have not been announced.

Christ Church Cranbrook sponsors the series of concerts on the 62-bell carillon each spring and fall. The programs are open to the public, free of charge. Those attending may find ample parking space in the church lot. Persons may sit on the lawn or in the sanctuary to hear the music.

The fall term of the church school will begin Sunday, with services at 9:30 and 11:15 a.m.

The nursery for children under three years of age will move back to Cranbrook House on the Booth Estate.

Parents may bring children three, four and five years of age to their classrooms on the first floor before the church service begins. Registration cards for new children will be made at this time.

Children from the first grade through the 10th will attend church with their families tomorrow for the entire service. On Sept. 18 they will leave for classes as usual before the sermon.

Parents of all new children may register them after either family service in the room just off the dining where the coffee hour is held.

The Episcopal Churchwomen of Christ Church will hold the first fall meeting at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The day will begin with Holy Communion at 10 a.m. followed by the meeting and program at 10:30. Russell Barnes, foreign news analyst for the Detroit News, will speak at the luncheon at 12:15 p.m.

Unity Church Slates Classes Next Week

Students of Unity in Pontiac will join thousands throughout the world in the study of the fundamental Unity textbook, "Lessons in Truth," by Emilie Cady. Each year the second week in September is planned for devoted study and application of teachings.

Classes will be held next week Monday through Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Unity Church of Oakland County, 70 Chamberlain St. The course is open to anyone.

The minister, Diane Seaman, will speak on "Practical Christianity" at the 11 a.m. service tomorrow. Sunday School is scheduled for 9:30 a.m.

Churches of God to Hold Minister's Conference

The annual Ministers' Conference of the Churches of God in the state of Michigan will convene at the local church at East Pike and Anderson Streets Wednesday and Thursday.

The Rev. Floyd Tunnerman of 222 Ottawa Dr., State Overseer for the denomination, will moderate the conference, which includes 18 churches with 125 ministers.

The Rev. John E. Lemons who came to Pontiac this week from Radford, Va. will be introduced as the new youth director of the state.

During the business sessions a council of seven men will be chosen to assist the Rev. Mr. Tunnerman.

Suggestions will be presented to assist ministers in the annual Missions and Home for Children program. The date will also be set for the annual camp meeting to be held on the Bizarre grounds located near Fenton.

The conference will close Thursday evening with guest speaker the Rev. C. R. Spain, field representative for the church mission department which reaches into 56 countries. The speaker has traveled extensively through out the mission territory.

All services will be for ministers except the closing one. The public is invited, said the Rev. Moore host pastor.

Duffy Daugherty's Wife Writes:

Here's Grid Coach's Diet

EAST LANSING (AP)—Football coaches are eager eaters—but they are fussy ones too, according to Francie Daugherty.

"You just can't feed your husband hot dogs when he comes off the banquet circuit," explained the wife of Michigan State football boss Duffy Daugherty.

"They all make a point of visiting the best eating places where ever they go."

AP Photofax

Cookbook author as well as pretty wife to Michigan State football coach Duffy Daugherty is Francie Daugherty. Her book contains recipes gathered from the wives of the nation's top football coaches.

Duffy's wife became fascinated with the subject and developed the idea of a cook book made up of favorite recipes of the wives of prominent football coaches across the country.

The result is "Gridiron Cookery," to be issued Sept. 19 by David McKay Co., of New York, publishers.

"I started from scratch and wrote letters to each wife," said Francie. "I thought it might be a little paper-bound book. But the response was overwhelming. We have 179 contributors."

FIRST LAUGHED

"Duffy kind of laughed at first," she admitted. "But he knew I had a good thing when I started kitchen-testing the recipes on him and the children. We've had some wonderful eating from those recipes during the last two years."

Daugherty, his wife said, was mostly a steak and salad man, but she's encouraged him into adventurous eating with the cook book.

Francie, dark-haired and petite, met and married her husband when he stopped off in San Francisco on his way to a Pacific World War II assignment.

They have a son, Danny, 14, and a daughter, Dree Elizabeth, 6.

"I've always been interested in cookery," Francie said. "I love to try and make unusual dishes. Perhaps this comes from my Italian background. As a child, I learned to eat delicious Italian foods and spent hours watching my mother prepare them."

One of her favorite recipes is for Italian asparagus—included in the book.

Aileen Brothers, a former Michigan State University press staff member, is the co-author of the book.

Any proceeds, Mrs. Daugherty said, will be set aside to establish college scholarships for orphans.

"They won't have to be football players either," she added. "It will be for anyone who is worthy."

OES Chapter Begins Season With Brunch

Pontiac Chapter No. 228, Order of the Eastern Star, began fall activities with a friendship brunch at the Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building Thursday.

The 150 members and guests witnessed a ceremony in which Chapter 228 conductress Mrs. Joseph Minton honored 23 conductresses of Oakland County chapters.

Featured on the program were Margaret Lunsford, invocation; Ann Latoza, greeting; Mrs. Minton, welcome; and Myrtle Boutell, response.

Ruby Pohlman sang a solo, Patricia Dell danced, Ann Latoza gave readings and Nelle Killen played the piano.

Special guests were Dorris Waldo, grand conductress of the Grand Chapter of Michigan, OES, Janet Russell, president of Oakland County Macon Club; Wilma Bendle, president of Oakland County Association, OES, and Mrs. Lloyd Sibley, parliamentarian, Oakland County Ma-con Club, OES.

Committee chairmen were Catherine McCrindle, dining room, and Frances Latoza and Miss McCrindle, program and decorations.

A card party followed luncheon, under chairmanship of Mrs. Earl Hoskins.

Wed in Late Afternoon

Jean Louise Florez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Genaro A. Florez of Birmingham and Phoenix, spoke vows with Thomas B. Day, son of the John Edward Days of Saginaw Friday in Christ Church Cranbrook.

MRS. THOMAS B. DAY

Reception and dinner in the Orchard Lake Country Club followed late afternoon nuptials of Jean Louise Florez and Thomas B. Day of Saginaw, Friday, in Christ Church Cranbrook. The Rev. Robert DeWitt officiated at the single-ring candlelight ceremony.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Genaro A. Florez of Birmingham and Phoenix, Ariz., the bride appeared in a classic gown of ivory silk mist taffeta. Re-embroidered Alencon lace enhanced the molded bodice and long narrow sleeves.

A cap of matching lace held fingertip veiling of pure silk illusion. Her bouquet included a cascade of ivory cymbidium orchids and ivy foliage.

Mrs. Richard Catron of Denver, Colo., attended her cousin as honor matron. Bridesmaids were Mrs. William Hoglund of Prairie Village, Kan., Mrs. George Schatz of Wayne, Mrs. Robert Stahl of Midland and Mrs. Kent Black of Detroit.

Their gowns of cafe au lait mousseline de soie were designed with scoop necklines and flared angel sleeves. Below self-sashed waistlines, their bouffant skirts belled in wide tiers to demi length. Matching shoes and bow bandeaux were worn.

Brown wood roses and tangerine carnations comprised their cascade bouquets.

Albert Davis of Saginaw served the bridegroom as best man. Ushering were Jack Stroebel of Midland and Kent Black of Detroit with Gerard Florez of New York and John Florez of Birmingham, brothers of the bride.

A lace yoke encrusted with seed pearls and multi-colored brilliants distinguished Mrs. Florez' sheath dress of champagne silk peau de soie. Mother of the bridegroom chose brocaded aqua Milanese silk with basque bodice and Moyenage neckline. Both wore purse corsages of brown cymbidium orchids.

Leaving for a Northern Michigan honeymoon the bride wore a black silk suit with white accessories. The couple will be at home in Dearborn after Sept. 15.

Jacqueline's Hair Gets Beer Rinse for Body

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — There emerged today some pertinent facts about the care given to the hair of Sen. John F. Kennedy's wife.

Some people say that if her husband is elected president in November his young wife Jacqueline will take to the White House one of the most extreme hairdos ever to grace a First Lady.

Nancy Lowe Gray, writing in the Worcester Evening Gazette, tells of an interview with Mrs. Kennedy's hairdresser at Hyannis on Cape Cod, during which these points were brought out:

1. Mrs. Kennedy's hair is rinsed with beer.

2. Her hair style is known as a modified swan, and it's Mrs. Kennedy's own creation.

3. She doesn't talk about her husband's campaign as she sits under the dryer.

Some more data obtained by Miss Gray in talking to Madame Madeleine Simoneau, co-owner with her husband of Alfred's Bee Salon: The swan haircut measures about eight inches from the crown of the head and falls like drooped wings on either side. It is slightly shorter on top. But Mrs. Kennedy's style has other features. Her naturally wavy hair, which needs no permanent, is worn in several other bouffant styles. (Bouffant means very loose, very full, very puffed out.)

"I use very large rollers to create the high illusion," explains Mme. Simoneau. "Also, I rinse it with beer to give it more body."

But Mme. Simoneau does not claim credit for the style. "Mrs. Kennedy's hair style is not my own. It is her creation. I do it as she wishes."

The senator's young wife, dropping in at the shop several times a week, is given as much privacy as possible. "I have been her hairdresser for two years; the entire Kennedy family comes here," adds Mme. Simoneau.

"She acts like any other housewife . . . She doesn't expect any extra attention. She never speaks of her husband's campaign. I ask about her little girl, or we might talk about marketing. She is very reserved."

Will Mrs. Kennedy's hairdo be the same a few months from now? Mme. Simoneau gives a hint — that Mrs. K's tresses may soon be shorter.

Serves 28 PTAers

Mrs. Lyle Duesenbury of Ellwood Avenue was hostess to 28 representatives of local Parent-Teacher Associations Friday morning. Cohostess was Mrs. Robert Quinn.

Mrs. Dusenbury and Mrs. Quinn are membership chairmen for the Pontiac-PTA Council.

Couple to Honeymoon in Northern Michigan

Delores Melnychenko of Detroit exchanged wedding vows with Seaman James E. Schellenberg before the Rev. John Berry this morning in Our Lady of Loretto Church, Detroit.

The Steve Melnychenkos of Detroit are parents of the bride and her husband is the son of Mrs. George H. Schellenberg of Maplewood Avenue, Sylvan Lake, and the late Mr. Schellenberg.

MRS J. E. SCHELLENBERG

Applique of Alencon lace enriched the bridal gown of white peau de soie designed with butterfly bustle and chapel train. A caplet of Chantilly lace held the fingertip veiling.

Resting on the bride's prayer book was a cascade of baby chrysanthemums and stephanotis.

Joyce Melnychenko, her sister's maid of honor, appeared in Copenhagen blue organza over taffeta, as did Carol Sue Ellwood, who served as bridesmaid. Both carried cascades of white baby chrysanthemums.

The bride's sister Kimberly was flower girl and a cousin, Mark Pentowski of Detroit, was ringbearer.

Thomas G. Schellenberg stood as best man for his brother. Robert Melnychenko of Detroit, cousin of the bride, seated guests with Kenneth Meredith of Sylvan Lake.

On returning from a honeymoon in Northern Michigan, the couple will live in Philadelphia where the bridegroom is stationed with the U.S. Navy.

Abby Says: And You Can't Stop 'Em

Some Mothers Enjoy Being Martyrs

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My wife is my problem. She lets our spoiled daughter make a doormat out of her. "Spoiled daughter" gave her mother a hard time while she was growing up (I could write a book on that subject).

ABBY

My wife used to put cardboard in the bottoms of her own shoes and spend all her money on dress-up clothes for Spoiled Daughter.

Spoiled Daughter is now married and has two children. She'll call her mother to babysit, morning, noon and night. Mother runs like a puppydog.

Spoiled Daughter drives a car, but tells Mother to "take a bus over." Some evenings are so long, my wife sleeps there all night and I sleep alone.

Spoiled Daughter never gave her mother a dime, a gift, or even said thank you. How can I make my wife stop being such a darned fool?

DISGUSTED HUSBAND

DEAR DISGUSTED: Do you know what a "martyr" is? Well, you are married to one. Mother enjoys the abuse. And as long as she enjoys playing the doormat neither you nor anybody else will stop her.

DEAR ABBY: The other day while visiting in the home of some friends, the man of the house used some very profane language in the presence of his own children and mine.

His wife told him to stop it, then my 12-year-old daughter spoke up and said, "Oh, that's all right. I hear that all the time at home!"

I was so mad I slapped her across the mouth and made her say we didn't use that language at home. Well, Abby, my wife isn't speaking to me any more for what I did. Do you think I was wrong or not?

PROVOKED FATHER

DEAR PROVOKED: You were justified in asking your daughter to correct her statement. But shame on you for slapping her across the mouth. In your efforts to show up your host, you revealed yourself to be no better.

DEAR ABBY: Our little six-year-old son is left-handed. My sister-in-law said that this is a sign of inferior intelligence. Is this true?

WORRIED MOM

DEAR MOM: Yes — in your sister-in-law.

Zonta Group Tours, Dines

Zonta International members toured Green Lake Rest Haven's buildings and grounds at a dinner and business meeting Thursday. The group was informed of the home's program for its seventy-five residents.

Committee reports were submitted at a business meeting following the tour and dinner.

Plans were outlined in detail for the annual Zonta International Fair Nov. 3 at Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building.

Beckoned by College

Due to arrive in Massachusetts Monday morning are Wellesley College freshmen Patricia Eakins of Half Moon Road, Bloomfield Village, and Sherry Fink of Quarton Road, Bloomfield Hills. Both prepared for college at Walnut Hill School in Natick, Mass., adjacent to the town of Wellesley.

Patricia Kelley of Henley Drive, Birmingham, and Lynn Norvell, recently of Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills, are also enrolled at the eastern school. Both are alumnae of Kingswood School, Cranbrook.

Leaving for Kalamazoo College this weekend are Judy K. Cantarella of Vinewood Avenue and D. Karen Kassner of Burleigh Street, West Bloomfield Township.

Newton College of the Sacred Heart, Newton, Mass., lists Judith M. Sullivan of Wooddale Road, Birmingham, for the new semester.

Returning to Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, as sophomores will be Kay Hamilton of Hilldale Drive; Gary Elwell of Riviera Street, Waterford Township; Frances Spencer of Loon Lake; Michael Penn of Coleman Street; and Donna Gravely of Spokane Drive;

Ann Hamilton of Hilldale Drive will be a junior, and Vickie Sue McLaughlin, a freshman.

Michael Metty of Lakeland Avenue will enter Wilmington College, Wilmington, Ohio, for his sophomore year.

Doug Roeser of Neome Drive is entering the University of Michigan as a freshman. His buddy, Central's "Chief Pontiac," Ken Shaw, is also entering as a freshman.

Wedding Graced by Gladioli

Myrtle Trammell Says Vows With Donald E. Carlson

Tiffany baskets of white gladioli graced the chancel of the St. John Lutheran Church for the marriage of Myrtle Louise Trammell to Donald E. Carlson.

Vows and rings were exchanged before the Rev. Charles A. Colberg in a candlelight service Sept. 3.

Parents of the newlyweds are the Orlin Trammells of Thorpe Street and the Edwin C. Carlsons of Woodlow Street, Waterford Township.

A shoulder-length cloud veil of nylon illusion held by a seed pearl tiara complemented the bridal gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta.

The double skirt of lace was worn over a pleated starched silk underskirt. The fitted bodice was styled with bateau neckline.

Wearing the bridegroom's gift necklace of pearls, the bride carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

Orlene Marie Trammell, in pale yellow chiffon, attended her sister. Her caplet of nylon leaves held a rose veil.

Bridesmaids Mrs. Ralph Jiminez and Mary Margaret Rucker wore camellia pink chiffon with matching headpieces. All attendants carried small baskets of carnations and roses to match their dresses.

The bridegroom had Earl Brown for best man. Seating guests were Gerald F. Kolbuss and the bridegroom's brother David.

At the church reception Mrs. Trammell was attired in a slate gray and white lace dress. Mrs. Carlson chose pink eyelet over taffeta with a floral hat shading from pink to deep rose. Her gloves were pink.

Mrs. Henrietta MacDougall of Thessalon, Ont., wearing a turquoise silk suit and orchid corsage, assisted at her grandson's reception.

Given in Marriage by Uncle

Crystal white coronation taffeta was chosen by Marie Mackowski of Detroit for her marriage to Donald N. Daniel this morning in St. Bartholomew Church, Detroit.

The Rev. Fabian Slominski performed the double-ring ceremony at a nuptial high Mass before some 150 guests.

Daughter of Mrs. Frank Mackowski of Detroit and the late Mr. Mackowski, the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Andrew Wrobel.

Medallions of Alencon lace, re-embroidered with seed pearls and opalescents, enhanced the molded bodice, and traditional long tapered sleeves. The full-length bouffant skirt belled beneath the pointed basque waistline into a shirred bustle effect.

Fingertip veiling of French silk illusion and a white prayer book topped with cymbidium orchids and stephanotis completed the bride's ensemble.

Ann Mackowski attended her sister as honor maid, with bridesmaids Shirley Ann Shedlock of Detroit and the bride's niece, Cheryl Ochalek of Madison Heights.

MRS. DONALD N. DANIEL

Hand-cascades of white Fuji chrysanthemums contrasted with their ballerina-length dresses of Royal blue peau de soie styled with scoop necklines and cap sleeves. They wore matching Dior head bows.

Deborah Daniel, niece of the bridegroom, in bouffant white nylon and royal blue velveteen bodice, carried a basket of Fuji chrysanthemums.

Son of Mrs. E. L. Daniel of Parkdale Avenue and the late Mr. Daniel, the bridegroom had William Tuttle for his best man. Seating guests were his brothers Henry A. Daniel of Bloomfield Hills, Louie L. Daniel of Pontiac Township and Eugene L. Daniel of Drayton Plains.

After a wedding breakfast and reception in Jeri's Restaurant, Detroit, the couple left for a honeymoon in Northern Michigan. They will be at home in Pontiac after Sept. 24.

FAMOUS FLAG-RAISING—This is the movie version of the famed Iwo Jima flag-raising. It serves to set the theme for a forthcoming film entitled "The Sixth Man." It is the story of Ira Hayes, a Pima Indian who was the last, or sixth, man in the group in the photo. The bulk of the movie deals with the tragic consequences of Hayes' inability to cope with the fame that followed the shot. Tony Curtis plays the Indian.

Film Follows Tragedy

Iwo Fame Beginning of the End

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They raised the flag at Iwo Jima again.

Universal-International is filming the saga of Ira Hayes as "The Sixth Man." He was the sixth man from the flagstaff in Joe Rosenthal's classic Associated Press photo, a Pima Indian whose life followed a tragic course after his sudden rise to fame.

HILLS SWARMING

It took six men to raise the flag the first time. The movie version required two hundred. The hillside was swarming with technicians and actors, many of them UCLA and USC football players picking up summer cash.

* * *

Hardly recognizable was Tony Curtis, who plays Ira Hayes. Stretched out in the dirt between shots, he wore dark make-up and a built-up nose to give him an Indian look.

Overlooking the scene with a careful eye was Sy Bartlett, who is producing the picture. If he seems more cautious than most producers, it's understandable.

OK HARD TO GET

"The Ira Hayes story kicked around Hollywood for a long time," he said. "Paramount had it for a while, and I understand Elia Kazan wanted to do it with Brando. But the Defense Department wouldn't give any of them an okay."

Bartlett has had experience with the military in such films as "12 O'Clock High" and "Pork Chop Hill." He convinced the brass that the Hayes story would be treated with dignity and respect. He also convinced the two surviving members of the flag-raising squad, Rene Gagnon of Manchester, N. H., and John Bradley of Antigo, Wis.

"There have been a lot of misconceptions about the flag-raising," Bartlett remarked, "We're going to set the record straight. We'll show it exactly as it happened."

The Iwo Jima section of Hayes' life plays only a small part in the picture. The rest of the film shows the results of his fame and his inability to adjust to life.

Although known for centuries as a country that stayed out of the many wars that swirled around it Switzerland nevertheless maintains a reserve army of 600,000 trained men who can be mobilized within a few hours. Carver School Board Nearing Dissolution

Royal Oak Township's Carver School Board is expected Monday to formally submit written resignations to the Oakland County Board of Education.

But 40 ninth grade students at George Washington Carver school will continue their classes in one of the elementary school's vacant rooms until the county moves them.

Dr. William J. Emerson, Oakland County superintendent of schools, said Friday that he will call a special election as soon as he has the written resignations of all five board members.

Emerson said the five would meet with him in Pontiac Monday to hand in formal, written, binding resignations.

Piecemeal resignations, three at a Wednesday night meeting attended by Gov. Williams and two more Thursday, only added to confusion, Emerson said.

Mrs. Adelaide Long, Carver principal, said she had convinced the students they should abide by the law and continue their education at Carver until they were consolidated with another district.

In the event that an election is held and less than five qualified persons are elected to the board, Emerson said he would dissolve the district and merge it with a neighboring school system—probably either Oak Park or Ferndale.

Dr. Joseph Hudson, Carver superintendent, will continue to operate the system after the board resigns, Emerson said.

Dr. James N. Pepper, superintendent of the adjoining Oak Park School District, said his board has many legal and financial questions it wants the state to clear up before it would be prepared to accept all or part of the Carver district.

Deaths Elsewhere

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, 79, widow of the former Pennsylvania Republican governor (1923-27, 1931-35), died Friday of a circulatory ailment. Besides being active in her husband's campaigns, she twice was an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in Pennsylvania's 13th District.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Hamilton C. Applegate, 81, owner of the 1914 Kentucky Derby winner Old Rosebud, named for a brand of whisky produced by the family distillery, died Friday. Applegate was treasurer and auditor of Churchill Downs for years.

It's a Fair Day for the Teachers —Attend Free

DETROIT (UPI) — Teachers were in the spotlight at the Michigan State Fair today as attendance at the 111th extravaganza climbed toward the 800,000 mark.

Fair manager Donald L. Swanson said chances were good that attendance would top 800,000 for the first time since 1958. The fair's best attendance record was 821,686 in 1956.

Teachers were being admitted to the fair today without charge.

Nixon at Home Until Monday

May Limp for Awhile but Is Starting 14-State Speaking Tour

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — Vice-President Richard M. Nixon is back home today after 11 days in a hospital for treatment of a knee infection. On Monday he'll start making up for lost time on the presidential campaign trail.

Helping him get a 14-state speaking tour off to a good start will be President Eisenhower and other top Republicans.

They'll breakfast with Nixon Monday at Baltimore's Friendship Airport before he takes off.

Nixon aides said he may walk with a slight limp for a time, and this may cramp his style of getting down among crowds and mixing with people.

In Beverly, Mass., Nixon's running mate Henry Cabot Lodge planned a day of rest at his home after a two-day series of receptions in three Massachusetts cities honoring his work as United Nations ambassador.

Lodge shook thousands of hands at the "welcome home" receptions given him in Worcester and Lowell Thursday and in Boston Friday. But a broad smile never left his face.

Lodge Friday said he had a new plan for winning the Cold War and hinted it was along the lines of military tactics used by Gen. Stonewall Jackson in the Civil War.

Jackson was an expert at faking an attack at one point, and hitting at another. Lodge refused to say exactly what his plan was.

In Pennsylvania Fire

20 Oil Tanks Explode

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lightning struck a fuel tank Friday night and started a fire that destroyed 19 other big tanks at Gulf Oil Corporation's big refinery here.

Several hundred firemen tried for five hours to prevent the flames from spreading.

There were no injuries.

Several hundred thousand gallons of fuel were destroyed. As the fire spread to each tank there was an explosion.

The tanks ranged in capacity from 15,000 to 40,000 barrels. They contained gasoline and heavy heating fuel. A few were empty.

The steel plate tanks had roofs weaker than their sides. In every case the roofs blew.

Explains Plan for Bond Swap

Treasury Protects Self After Democrat Cries of 'Highway Robbery'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury is going out of its way to counter Democratic criticism of its proposal to offer higher interest rates to people who agree to swap certain World War II bonds for new issues.

The department, in announcing the plan Friday, handed newsmen a detailed explanation. The explanation dealt at length, if only by implication, with "highway robbery" charges voiced recently by several House Democrats.

In addition, the Treasury announced plans for top debt management officials to visit the major financial centers—New York, Chicago and San Francisco—next Wednesday to explain the operation to investors and answer questions from newsmen.

IT'S A POSTPONEMENT

Furthermore, a printed "white paper" has been prepared to explain and defend the advance refunding idea. This was to be made public today.

The major aim of the bond swap—the first of its kind—is to postpone for several decades the refinancing in the open market wartime bonds which normally would come due between 1967 and 1972.

These bonds all carry 2½ per cent interest coupons. The new ones which the Treasury will issue will pay 3½ per cent.

Polio Cases Surge to 217 Weekly High

WASHINGTON (AP)—New polio cases surged last week to a 1960 weekly high of 217, including 118 paralytic cases.

Reporting this today, the Public Health Service said these figures compared with 148 cases, including 88 paralytic, in the preceding week.

However, the total still was far below those of last year. In the week ended Sept. 5, 1959, there were 323 cases, including 297 paralytic.

From Jan. 1 through Sept. 3 this year there were 1,601 polio cases, including 1,077 paralytic. Last year in the comparative 35 weeks there were 4,441 cases, including 2,824 paralytic. The comparative totals in 1958 were 2,505 and 1,396 and in 1957 there were 4,091 and 1,283.

No transcripts are necessary for enrollment and students can transfer credits readily.

All registration will be handled at the first class meeting of each course.

The first session can be attended at no obligation to the student, and the instructor will outline the course of study.

John Roosevelt Opens Booth Boosting Nixon

NEW YORK (AP)—John Roosevelt, son of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Friday formally opened a Nixon-Lodge campaign booth in the Wall Street district.

The booth is located in an office building at 40 Wall Street, where Roosevelt has advertising offices. He has been a Republican since 1952.

Accompanying him as he arrived in the building was his brother, former Democratic Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., who said he was along "just for the ride" because he had business in the building.

He didn't tarry at the campaign booth.

Off for Congo, U.N.

JAKARTA, Indochina (AP) —A battalion of Indonesian infantry and marines—about 450 men — will leave Tandjung Priok Harbor today aboard the U.S. Navy troop transport Bexar bound for the Congo to serve with United Nations forces.

Chrysler Wins by Percentage

Improved Output Over 1959 by 27.1 Because of Dodge Darts

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. recorded the largest percentage gain in the automotive industry during the 1960 run, Ward's Automotive Reports said today.

Chrysler's 27.1 per cent improvement over 1959 was primarily attributed to its Dodge Division, which posted its highest production count in 10 years. In turn, Dodge was aided by its compact entry, the Dodge Dart.

The Dodge compact comprised 87.8 per cent or 306,603 units of the total division output of 349,129 cars in the 1960 model year Chrysler Corp. as a whole built 894,149 cars in 1960 compared with 703,744 in 1959, Ward's said.

Overall, the auto industry turned out 6,004,688 1960-model autos—a three-year high topping 1959's 5,568,046 and 1958's 4,260,039.

The six compact cars accounted for 26.2 per cent of the 1960 industry total number of units with 1,574,468 produced, compared with 9.1 per cent (505,748) with the two U.S.-built compacts in 1959.

Even with the short Labor Day week, U.S. manufacturers built an estimated 55,119 cars last week, Ward's said, compared with 51,200 last week and 24,364 a year ago at this time.

Reflections

I LIVE HERE

Pontiac is the place where my home is found and where my vote is cast. It is where my children are educated, and where my neighbors are glad to see me, and I them. It is the spot I call Home. It has the right to claim my civic loyalty; it protects me and I support it. This place I call Home wants my citizenship, not my partisanship; my friendliness, not my dissension; my sympathy, not my criticism, that too is welcome if constructive; my intelligence, not my indifference. This place I call Home has some things that are better than others; the best of them I should seek to make better, the worst I should help to suppress. Take it all in all I'm proud to call it My Home Town. It is entitled to the best there is in me.

When I am away from it I am glad to return. It has attractions I helped to create. I chose it and every day has vindicated my choice. It is here I built a circle of friendships and each and all of them are jewels in my treasure chest. My roots have gone deep; they sustain me. I am proud of Pontiac. It is My Home Town.

P.S. My attachment for Pontiac is demonstrated in our relations with our families; it is sincere neighborliness.
