

S. Korea Gives LBJ a Gigantic Welcome

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Johnson was welcomed to South Korea today by an estimated two million people who broke down metal fences, swarmed around police and clung to rooftops for their first glimpse of the man hailed in a typical banner as the "Great Texas Giant."

Seoul turned out the biggest and friendliest crowd of Johnson's seven-nation tour around the eastern rim of Communist China.

The President responded by popping out of his car half a dozen times to mix with the confetti-tossing, flag-waving throng.

Once he climbed down a roadside embankment to a muddy rice paddy to inspect newly harvested rice.

VOICES CONCERN

Facing massed crowds estimated by police at 350,000 in City Hall Square, the President voiced concern for the safety of those who pushed, shoved and trampled each other in an effort to get a better view.

He urged courtesy and caution "so we don't hurt anyone."

Children caught in the crush

were escorted weeping to the sidelines.

Harking back to the Korean War in which 54,246 Americans died, Johnson said he was standing on "hallowed ground."

'GENEROUS HELP'

"I have come to express our gratitude for the brave and generous help you are giving to our common ally, Viet Nam — both on the battlefield and in rebuilding the countryside.

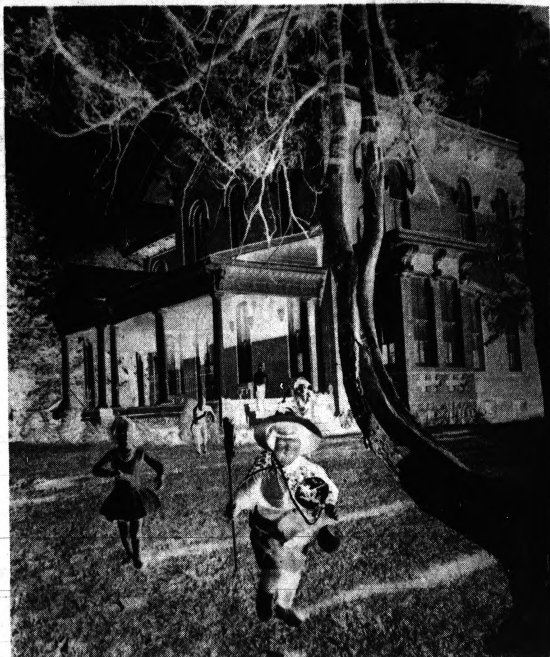

"This is the act of a nation that understands the nature of aggression and that knows what it means to have help in resisting that aggression."

There was a variety of home-made placards and banners — "Welcome to king of democracy," "You are sunlight of all free nations," "We love big shot of Free World," and "We love brave Johnny."

'WELCOME BLUEBIRD'

One banner, presumably for Mrs. Johnson, said "welcome Bluebird."

So much confetti and paper was tossed at the presidential limousine that Secret Service agents had to sweep it repeatedly to keep it from clogging the air-conditioning.

OTHER WORLD VISITORS — For one night, at least, the playful young folk of the Pontiac area become "spirits" of a different nature. Costumed and trailing the props of Halloween, they'll go from door to door tonight in quest of tasty treats. When the last taffy apple is handed out and the young goblins retire for the night, however, the Halloween magic is reversed. Tonight's terror will become the well-scrubbed innocent in school tomorrow morning, his sweet tooth temporarily satisfied. For more Halloween pictures, see page B-10.

20 Are Arrested in N. Y. Raids on Minutemen

Big Arsenals Seized, Alleged Plot to Blow
Up 3 Camps Broken

NEW YORK (AP) — Police say they have arrested 20 members of the super-secret, right-wing Minutemen organization, seizing tons of ammunition and weapons and breaking up what they called a plot to blow up three private camps in New York State, New Jersey and Connecticut.

In lightning predawn raids yesterday in Queens, Westchester County, on Long Island, and at Syracuse, more than a hundred state, county and local police went into action.

They said they confiscated arsenals that included mortars, bazookas, machine guns, semiautomatic rifles, homemade bombs, machetes, cross-bows, garroting nooses, and a million rounds of ammunition. The raids were announced by Queens Dist. Atty. Nat H. Hentel.

He would not disclose the identity of the target camps, but added that the Minutemen group is dedicated to destroying "Communist, left-wing and liberal" installations of any kind.

Hentel said the camps were slated for destruction yesterday, a few days after the start of the hunting season.

Officers said guns, ammunition and bombs were found in the car of one of them. Another man was arrested in his Katonah, Westchester County home.

MALL RALLY — Former Gov. G. Mennen Williams (center), a U.S. Senate candidate, makes a point during the Democratic rally Saturday at Pontiac Mall. Williams and other local Democratic candidates shared the platform with a visitor from New York, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (left), who

Bobby Boosts Dems; GOP Campaigns Hard

By I. GARY THORNE

Some of the Kennedy magic was lent local and state Democratic office seekers here Saturday, and it was powerful political medicine. Republicans, meanwhile, offered a different treatment.

An estimated 5,000 persons crowded into the Pontiac Mall Saturday afternoon for a glimpse of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy during his one-day visit to the state to stump for Democrats on next week's election ballots.

The bushy-haired visitor was greeted with "Hi, Bobby" and "Kennedy for President" banners.

Despite a 90-minute wait caused by large crowds elsewhere, few, if any, left before the New York senator's arrival.

Kennedy had nothing but superlatives for the crowd and state and local Democratic candidates.

He emphasized the importance of electing G. Mennen Williams to the U.S. Senate and reelecting incumbent Congressman Billie S. Farnum, D-19th District.

He credited Farnum with serving his district with "great distinction."

Republicans campaigned hard in the Pontiac area while Kennedy was speaking at the Mall. Sen. Robert F. Griffin attended a rally in Commerce Township and spent most of the day in a door-to-door handshaking tour of Pontiac.

A GOP spokesman said Saturday's effort was the first time

Griffin had campaigned door-to-door at the precinct level. A party spokesman said Griffin was "amazed" at the crowds gathered to meet him.

3,000 AT RALLY

An estimated 3,000 persons attended a GOP rally Saturday evening at the Mall. Posters heralding the Republican gathering appeared almost as soon as Kennedy left the stage.

Engines Crash; Yardman Hurt

A railroad yardman is reported in satisfactory condition at Pontiac General Hospital after two diesel engines collided, derailling five freight cars and crushing an observation tower Saturday.

James R. Walker, 52, of 18 Esther suffered a broken leg, according to Pontiac police, when he leaped from the tower in an attempt to avert the accident.

The tower just vacated by Walker was leveled as one of the Grand Trunk Western diesels fell sideways from the tracks and nearly tipped over.

Police said an engine from a spur track and the twin-engine team on the main line side-swiped at a switch.

The crossing on North Johnson remained closed to traffic today.

Firemen were called to the scene to flush out large quantities of diesel fuel oil dumped over the tracks and crossing by the accident.

SWITCHYORD COLLISION — A Grand Trunk Western Railroad yardman escaped with a broken leg when this diesel engine collided with another engine and fell on an observation tower. Five freight cars also went off the tracks in the Saturday afternoon accident near a crossing on North Johnson. The crossing was still closed to traffic today as railroad crews worked to clear the wreckage.

Morton Urges Europe Talks in Wake of Adverse Poll

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., citing a five-nation poll showing a sharp drop in U.S. prestige abroad, urged today that President Johnson convene a meeting of the European allies before January.

"No time should be lost before righting what is now a danger and could become a disaster," Morton told a news conference on the overseas poll he initiated.

The GOP senator said the polling in Britain, Germany, France, Belgium and Holland showed that 46 per cent of those questioned thought the world was farther from peace because of present U.S. foreign policy; 14 per cent thought world peace was nearer; 23 per cent saw no change and 17 per cent had no opinion.

A second question asked those polled to declare whether U.S. prestige was higher or lower since the Eisenhower, Kennedy or Johnson administrations.

The result was Kennedy, 74 per cent; Eisenhower, 11 per cent; Johnson, 2 per cent. Five per cent favored none of the three and 8 per cent were undecided.

Smashups Kill Area Youth, OU Student

Two men were killed in separate Pontiac area traffic accidents early yesterday, both when their cars went out of control at high speed and overturned.

Dead are Gordon D. Knickerbocker, 20, of 3959 Baldwin, Pontiac Township; and David R. Silver, 21, an Oakland University student from Shaker Heights, Ohio.

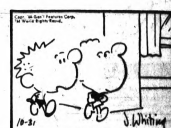

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said Knickerbocker was pronounced dead at Pontiac General Hospital after his car spun out of control on Baldwin south of Clarkston Road in Orion Township about 2:10 a.m.

Witnesses said the car skidded and rolled about 300 feet before coming to a halt.

Deputies said three persons told them Silver's car was traveling in excess of 100 miles an hour when it fishtailed and rolled over about seven times on I-75.

Silver was dead on arrival at 2:30 a.m. at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, about 20 minutes after the accident.

Deputies said the mishap occurred on I-75 south of Auburn Avenue in Pontiac Township.

"Let's go out and play. I promised Mom I wouldn't help her with her housework."

Ike Favors Escalation of Viet War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Eisenhower said today he favors throwing greater U.S. military force into South Viet Nam to get the war "over with as soon as possible."

"I do not believe in 'gradualism' in fighting a war," Eisenhower declared in a News & World Report. "I believe in putting in the kind of military strength we need to win, and getting it over with as soon as possible."

The five-star general said he disagreed with the view the war could be fought while a "business as usual" approach was taken, to activities at home.

"The war should have first priority over everything else," he said.

"When we get to the stage that we are losing American lives, then we need to view the war as a far more serious problem than going to the moon, or any domestic welfare programs, or anything else."

A LONG WAR

"The war has been going on too long, and something has to be done about it."

Eisenhower had high praise for the U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam and for their commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland. He did not specify what form of increased military power he favored.

"No one can solve this problem (the war), except those who are living with it every day," he said.

He said he believed in the administration's explanation of America's purposes and objectives in Viet Nam.

"It is simply a matter of protecting freedom wherever it exists."

Eisenhower made these comments on other subjects:

There is too much of a trend toward a "one-party" political system in America — "a monopoly of political power."

Everyone is concerned for those with real needs, but there is a growing feeling "we are acting unwisely to the extent that we are actually using the federal treasury to encourage and reward laziness and malingering."

Birmingham Area News

Eye Change on Cycle Rentals

BIRMINGHAM — The City Commission to night will be asked to consider amending the zoning ordinance to include a restriction regulating the location of motorcycle rental agencies.

If the restriction is incorporated into the zoning ordinance, as recommended by the planning director, it would be removed from the licensing ordinance.

The restriction, which prohibits such agencies from being located within a distance of 500 feet from property zoned residential, would not be retroactive if removed from the licensing ordinance and placed in the zoning ordinance, according to City Manager R. S. Kenning. He said existing businesses could remain in a nonconforming status.

Kenning will recommend that a hearing date be set to amend the zoning code.

The commission will also be asked to consider joining the Voluntary Council of Local Governments as proposed by the Committee of One Hundred, an organization of local government leaders from southeastern Michigan.

COMMON PLANNING

The council would provide an opportunity for local governments to resolve problems and develop policies and plans that are common and regional in nature.

Tonight's meeting will start at 9 instead of 8 because of the Halloween parade.

Roland Reester, Birmingham postmaster, announced today that there are still a limited number of carrier vacancies in the post office, both on full-time year-round and 60-day appointments.

Applicants for the full-time employment may be appointed without taking a Civil Service examination, but are required to pass this examination while in the employ of the post office.

The 60-day appointments do not require an examination.

The minimum age is 18 and applicants must possess a Michigan operator's license. Further details may be obtained by calling the personnel assistant at the post office.

Oakland Citizens League Issues Candidate Ratings

The Oakland Citizens League today announced its ratings of candidates for the Nov. 8 election.

The ratings, compiled on a mathematical basis by the league's investigation committee, are intended to give voters help in choosing the most qualified candidates, according to the nonpartisan organization.

The maximum rating is 100, with 10 points for education, 15 points for experience (business, political, civic and other activities) and 75 points for the interview meeting where questions are asked relative to the office sought and important current questions.

A preferred rating is given to the candidates receiving the highest number of points. Point ratings only are given for Probate and Circuit Court candidates.

"No preference" rating is given when there are no more than three points separating the candidates.

NO RATING

No rating is given to those who did not attend the interview sessions for personal or other reasons.

In the 18th Congressional District, incumbent William S. Brownfield did not receive a rating because he was unable to appear before the committee because Congress was in session when he was scheduled for an interview.

His Democratic opponent, William H. Merrill, was rated at 80.

Democratic incumbent Congressman Charles S. McClellan, 12th District received the preferred rating over his opponent, Jack H. McDonald.

STATE SENATE RACES

In State Senate races, Republican George W. Kuhn was preferred over Democrat Paul Livingston in the 14th District; Republican incumbent Robert J. Huber was preferred over Edward A. Kavanagh in the 16th District; and in the 17th District, the incumbent Democrat, Carl W. O'Brien, received no rating. His opponent, L. Harvey Lodge, received 91 points.

The ratings for state representatives are as follows:

India Appeal on China Test Likely at U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — India was expected to react to Communist China's latest atomic weapon test with a speech at the U.N. today urging all the nuclear powers to sign a treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

The Chinese presumably will reject the appeal if they don't ignore it.

V.C. Trivedi, the Indian representative on the Geneva disarmament committee, was scheduled to explain his government's position in the U.N. General Assembly's main political committee.

The basic Indian position has been that there should be a treaty against the spread of nuclear weapons; that it should involve a balance of obligations between nuclear and non-nuclear countries; that all nuclear powers should adhere to it, and that it should be linked with a freeze on stocks of weapons.

India, neighbor of Red China and the object of a Chinese border war in 1962, is one of the eight nonaligned nations at the Geneva disarmament negotiations. The eight are among sponsors of two resolutions before the assembly.

One of the resolutions, which the United Nations and the United States are pushing, appeals to all countries to take all necessary steps to conclude a non-proliferation treaty at the earliest possible time and "to refrain from any actions conducive to proliferation of nuclear weapons."

Tomb Honors Viet Soldiers

THU DUC, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese leaders today dedicated a tomb to unknown soldiers in a big new cemetery for this country's war dead.

Artillery boomed in the background as Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu lit an eternal flame before the hilltop memorial 12 miles from Saigon.

Viet Cong are active around Thu Duc. Important military and diplomatic guests arrived from the capital by helicopter. Terror raids have been made on a motor pool and a police station near here in recent weeks.

Court Hopeful Blasts Foe's 'False Image'

Probate Court candidate Burton R. Shifman today filed a complaint with the Michigan Fair Election Practices Commission charging his opponent with "falsely" portraying himself as "Lawyers' Choice."

"I was rated First Choice of Lawyers by the Oakland County Bar Association," said Shifman, who is municipal judge in Oak Park.

"I've asked the commission to take whatever action is appropriate to clear up the matter," Shifman said.

Shifman said he had forwarded to the commission literature that his opponent, Eugene A. Moore, was circulating, depicting him as the "choice of lawyers."

During the campaign, Shifman has stressed that Moore is a "name candidate" running on the reputation of his father, who was a probate judge for 20 years and is now a Circuit Court judge.

"He's been coy," said Shifman, "in disguising the fact that he, not his father, is running for probate judge."

"In the brochures I submitted to the commission he chose to omit the pictures for reasons that should be obvious to voters," said Shifman. "He doesn't want to be recognized as the son and not his father."

Moore said that he had nothing to do with the printing or distribution of the brochures questioned by Shifman.

"I have had one circular printed and nowhere on it does it say I'm the lawyers' choice," said Moore. "However, within the next couple of days 175 at torneys, about half those in the county, plan to endorse me."

School Districts Get State Aid

Oakland County Treasurer James E. Seeterlin has released $94,000 in state aid funds for distribution to Oakland County School districts.

State aid is apportioned to the school districts six times each year through the treasurer's office.

The largest share of the appropriation, $32,500, was earmarked for Royal Oak Schools while the Pontiac School System received $920,000.

Waterford Schools received $843,000. The next highest apportionment, $671,180, went to Farmington.

Birmingham, with a share of $567,000, was the only other school system to exceed the half-million-dollar mark.

Oakland Schools, the intermediate school district, was granted $25,400.

'Waiting Wives' Find Base to Liking

WASHINGTON (AP) — The women have formed a "waiting wives" club while the men are away. They take turns baby sitting for one another. Town and a hairdresser are nearby. Elementary school is just around the corner.

A cozy suburb? Almost. Actually, it's the military experiment that could lead to the conversion of some deactivated bases into bustling communities of wives and children.

The name is Schilling Manor. Population: 3,100, including 2,500 children. It's on a portion of Schilling Air Force Base, Kan., shut down last December as a part of Pentagon economy moves.

Now, use of the base's housing is getting a favorable once-over as a new approach to assuring living quarters for families of servicemen ordered to such isolated duty areas as Viet Nam.

ENTIRE PERIOD

At Schilling Manor, servicemen's families are guaranteed housing the entire period their "sponsors" — the menfolk — are serving out one-year overseas.

"This housing is especially for what we call 'short-tube' guys who have to go pretty fast with out much time to arrange something for their wives," a spokesman said.

The military services routinely accommodate such families wanting or needing government quarters by assigning them excess housing on a what's-available basis at various installations. But people assigned to those bases naturally get first choice.

After 10 months, Schilling Manor's success seems assured. The project will be continued at least through 1968, a spokesman said.

UNDER CONSIDERATION

Whether to open other housing at deactivated bases is being considered. Army studies are under way to determine what future housing needs will be.

But as a spokesman put it, "It is obvious that as more men go to Viet Nam, more families are going to be left behind with problems of finding homes."

The Southeast Asian conflict alone has left about 100,000 wives behind, the Pentagon estimates, but there are other isolated duty areas such as Korea.

More than 600 wives from all over the country have chosen

Schilling Manor, near Salina, Kan., over "going home to mama," the defense spokesman said.

This was more practical anyhow, since the number of children per family in the project ranges as high as nine. The government contributes to moving costs.

TO BE FILLED

Officials expect the 730 homes — two, three and four-bedroom houses — to be filled by the end of the year.

Wives of corporals as well as captains live at Schilling. The ratio of officers' wives to enlisted men's wives is nearly one to three.

The project is open to families of all services but the Army is more or less in charge of the operation.

In addition to the residences, the Army has opened up the base chapel, commissary, theater, dispensary, post exchange and swimming pool. There is a kindergarten and elementary school, and buses carry teenagers to high school in Salina.

RENT RANGE

The rent ranges from $135 a month to $205, depending on a man's rank. It amounts to forfeiture of his separation pay and housing allowance.

"We're not losing money as far as we can tell," a spokesman said. "But the extras, the PX and the pool, for example, cost money to operate and we haven't determined what the financial figures are."

The Underachiever - I

Bad Students Can't Get Out of Rut by Themselves

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.
University of Southern California

Getting an underachiever to improve his scholarship and approach his potential more closely has long baffled not only parents but educators.

DR. NASON
Students themselves cannot prescribe for their own deficiencies since they cannot recognize their own troubles, much less determine the course of action to bring about improvement. The very fact that his own methods produce unsatisfactory results is an indication that the student cannot be his own doctor.

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first in a series of 12 articles on one of the most disconcerting problems of today's schools — the underachiever. The series is written by Dr. Leslie J. Nason, who contributes a regular column to The Press.)

It is, in fact, the most frustrating of all problems for parents concerned with their children in this complex, modern age. Unless someone helps him bring about a change he will probably continue working below his capacity year after year.

Furthermore, unless specific plans for change are worked out with the student and are accepted by him, there will be little chance of change. Over the years I have often been called on to help such students. What my methods were depended upon the problem of the individual.

Persons who want to help students must first clear their own minds of misconceptions regarding the improvement of scholarship.

It is NOT a matter of: Inspiring a student to work harder. He doesn't see any reason to expend more energy when his present efforts are not bringing satisfactory results. He doesn't know what else to try! The student being lazy. I know some students do appear lazy. However, their lack of action stems from lack of an appropriate plan rather than unwillingness to put forth effort.

• The student merely deciding to stop being a scatterbrain, stop being afraid, stop being uninterested, or stop procrastinating.

These behaviors have become habits with the student and someone else must show him how to break them and to substitute more satisfactory procedures. He needs to eliminate an unproductive habit such as careless reading or procrastination. It is, of course, essential to the success of any plan that the student be willing to work toward its accomplishment.

Before an underachiever sets out on a program of change: He needs a person to whom he can turn without being criticized.

He must feel that someone thinks he can succeed. He must feel that someone wants him to succeed.

• He must feel that someone is ready and willing to help him formulate new plans and take a continuing personal interest in him.

• He must feel that he can carry out the first steps suggested and that the results will benefit him. (Next: The three biggest problems.)

Been Polled Lately?
More Fun Than Voting!

By DICK WEST

United Press International

find that despite all the polls taken during an election campaign they themselves are never asked how they are going to vote.

They naturally feel hurt about this. Hurt and worried. In a democracy, one vote is supposed to be as good as another. But a voter who is continually ignored by the pollsters begins to suspect his vote may be inferior.

I know what it means to feel left out, and my heart bleeds for the great masses of unpolled voters. It was for their sake that I formed the Nosed Nellie Public Opinion Polling and Sampling Co.

Nosed Nellie's prelection poll is different. Its purpose is not to measure the strength of candidates but to ease the disappointment of voters who have not had a chance to participate in other polls.

This poll is open to everybody. Just check the answers that best express your opinion and drop it in the mailbox.

DON'T ZIP IT
Don't bother to address it. The way the postal service has been operating lately it probably wouldn't be delivered in time anyway.

1. What do you consider the chief issue in the campaign?—(women's suffrage) (U.S. membership in the League of Nations) (prohibition) (free silver) (the Missouri Compromise).

2. What nonpolitical event do you think will have the biggest impact on the election?—(President Johnson's visit to Pago Pago) (President Johnson's visit to New Zealand) (President Johnson's visit to Australia) (President Johnson's visit to the United States).

3. Congress passed a bill authorizing each taxpayer to channel $1 of his tax payment into political fund. What was your reaction?—(depends on who the candidates are) (may run for office myself) (would prefer a $1 refund) (it only hurts when I laugh).

4. Another poll not long ago showed that about 54 per cent of the voters did not know the name of their congressman. What is the political implication of that?—(should help congressmen who are running for reelection) (proves that 44 per cent of the voters are relatives of congressmen).

5. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon are not running for anything but all three have been vigorously campaigning. Why?—(they are doing it for the good of their respective parties) (who said they weren't running for anything?).

WEST
is supposed to be as good as another. But a voter who is continually ignored by the pollsters begins to suspect his vote may be inferior.

Proposed Tax on Churches Would Reduce Benevolence

A gal named MADALYN M. O'HAIR and a few bosom comrades of the same ilk are campaigning to have church property assessed like other real estate.
How low can you get?
Well, this low, apparently.

The Supreme Court stepped away from the preposterous proposition which has been submitted in all earnestness. This newspaper believes wholeheartedly in a separation of Church and State as our forefathers so wisely provided. But common sense still exists.
Think of the untold sums churches devote to charity, education and the betterment of mankind in general. These would all be slashed by the extent of the tax bite inflicted.

And one thing more.
This O'HAIR person is an atheist. Is her desire important?

One of the delights of a democracy is the great freedom of expression that we have and certain inherent liberties, including freedom of speech. However, there are justifiable limits on everything. This deluded gal has "the right" to suggest we stagger our churches with taxes, but the balance of humanity has an equal right to jeer and point the finger of derision.

The Itchy Finger!

David Lawrence Says:

China Test to Help U.S. in Asia

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Red China regime may have thought that its announcement of a missile test with a nuclear device would intimidate the other countries of Asia and weaken their ties with the United States. But the event will have exactly the opposite effect. It will strengthen the new alliance being formed by America with Asian countries.

President Johnson was quick to perceive the need for an immediate assurance to the friendly nations of Asia that they will have the nuclear strength of the United States behind them if any threats of nuclear warfare are made against them by Peking.

Mr. Johnson, in his speech in Malaysia, warned the Red Chinese that they were inviting danger to themselves and that America would make her nuclear power available to defend Asia.

This could be a deterrent against the employment of any nuclear weapons in that region just as it has been in Europe.

The military theory is that, by making known to all the world the intention to use nuclear power without limit if any nuclear bomb is dropped on American forces or the lives of its allies anywhere, a deterrent will have been interposed.

SAME STRATEGY

This is the strategy which it has been assumed for some time, would be used if any member state of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization were assaulted by nuclear weapons. The treaty itself declares that an attack on one member is the same as an attack on all members.

President Johnson evidently is beginning to intimate that the same principle may be invoked in Asia.

The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization does not require America to regard an attack on an Asian state as the same as a hostile move against the United States, but provision is made for cooperative military action to be taken "by constitutional processes."

In a nuclear age, however, it isn't always practical to wait for congressional action before taking defensive measures. Thus, in Korea, President Truman ordered American troops to repel invasion without waiting even for United Nations authorization — which came, however, a few days later.

MUCH BETTER

President Johnson is already pointing out that it would be much better if Red China concentrated her resources on economic development, and there is every reason to believe that the United States stands ready to aid the Chinese people to attain that end.

The new tests by Red China could turn out to be a salutary development. Instead of waiting five to 10 years for nuclear devices to be perfected by Red China, a worldwide crusade now may be inaugurated to divert the Peking government from present policies and persuade it to direct the same energy toward constructive and peaceful objectives.

Bob Considine Says:

Soft-Bombing by U.S. Dashing Red War Hopes

CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — One phase of the war that did not pause during President Johnson's visit to Viet Nam was our soft-bombing of the enemy. This is the showering of countless leaflets and safe conduct passes upon the enemy. The enemy has heard of the heads and hearts of the Viet Cong and their North Vietnamese allies.

It is a campaign that is playing almost as important a role in the deterioration of rebel hopes of victory as are the louder and more frightening manifestations of the winning side's buildup.

Gen. William Westmoreland told the writer not long ago that the leaflets and free passes will be the direct cause of perhaps 10,000 defections this year.

That's like wiping out an entire enemy division, something the outright and often bloody military action has not been able to achieve.

"We operate generally under the influence of an old Chinese military philosopher," Westmoreland remarked. "He said, 'Always leave one path open for your enemy to surrender to you. Surround him completely and he will fight like a tiger.'"

Like thousands of real paths that are the veins of guerrilla resistance in South Viet Nam today, that hypothetical path is soft-bombarded daily.

The enemy's strong points and hideouts lie under a blizzard that won't melt, won't go away like an exploding bomb, a casting of propaganda intended to persuade or terrify. The annals of war offer no parallel for it.

It is aimed as well at the enemy's civilian population, that vital group which shelters him, feeds him, hauls his arms and ammunition, submits to his cruelties, and pays him taxes.

Safe-conduct passes are now being printed in color, to make them easier to find and more compelling to read.

They are adorned with pictures of the flags of South Viet Nam, the United States, Republic of Korea (which now has 46,000 troops on the scene), Australia and New Zealand.

The enemy high command has devised no defense against this overpowering erosion.

Speeders Cause Worry Where Little Tots Play

I'm far from grouchy, but people seem to think this street is a race track. All day and night they speed up and down. There are many small children who play outside and may run out in the road. The mothers try to teach them not to go near the road, but if the cars went a little slower, it would give them a better chance. Can't someone cut this speeding?

I believe it is likely that the Roman Catholic Church will soon join the National Council, which in turn is part of the World Council of Churches. In a few localities, individual churches have had the courage to withdraw from this group but in most areas people haven't awakened yet.

Every church that belongs is contributing a percentage of offerings, yet many parishioners have no idea where their money ends up. I don't want this organization representing me, either.

If adding fluoride is so beneficial to teeth, why isn't it advocated to be added to milk and soft drinks? So little of the water supply is consumed.

Dr. Jokela, Health and Education chairman of Oakland County Dental Society, says adding fluoride to public water supply is the most beneficial, efficient and economical method for universal use. Vitamins with fluoride and fluoride tablets are available for use in areas with unfluoridated water.

Riots Red-Directed?

The House Un-American Activities Committee wasn't shunted off the main track by Communist sympathizers and other U.S. detractors in the matter of civil rights.

Many people suspect—and some have tangible evidence to offer—that the sneaky, snaky hand of the Reds played a big part in many of the riots our nation experienced this past summer.

Suspicion arose immediately. The Red imprint could be seen.

The committee has no intention of probing the civil rights movement as such. This isn't their prerogative and the members know it. They propose to dig into the origin and the development and see if the dirty, smutty Russian hand was stirring things up and fomenting greater disorders.

Rushing into the midst of all U.S. troubles has been an avowed Communist plan from the beginning.

More power to the Un-American Activities Committee.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

A few new ones have been added, but fringe area motels seem to be claiming the business.

A new musical in preparation may raise the ticket price to a startling $15. I remember when $3.30 bought the best seat in the house. . . . Autumn Favorites

The New York Times

Pumpkins and squash belong to the same family. Each has its special traits. But the countryman contends that a pumpkin pie has a certain flavor and texture that elevate it slightly above its cousin.

A pumpkin pie, correctly constructed with cream and the right amount of spices, is the epitome of autumn. Since pioneering times, discriminating solid citizens have known this fact. Both squash and pumpkins originated in Central and South America and the white men quickly learned the goodness of each from the Indians. Capt. John Smith found pumpkins in Virginia and wrote, "A fruit like unto a Muske Mellon, but lesse and worse."

We do not say that squash pie has no place. But when a Nantucket Pie, Illinois Beauty,

Golden Russet, Rhode Island Sweet or Boston Greek is fully ripe and a sensitive cook combines the yellow flesh with cream, nutmeg, cinnamon, allspice and just a whiff of cloves, there is no question of the superiority of the "pom-pom" over "askutasquash."

Pom-pom means, "cooked by the sun"; askutasquash means "eaten raw or uncooked." A pile of golden pumpkins ripening against the south side of the barn is a comforting picture to countrymen who know their pies.

Parental Pride

Successful Farming

A Hollywood youngster was very proud. He had the most parents at the PTA meeting.

Migrant 4-H Club

The Christian Science Monitor

Four-H Club work enrolls 2,500,000 boys and girls in the United States. But until recently, so far as we know, this vast movement did not include any groups of migrant farm children. It seemed impossible to establish clubs for children so much on the move.

We salute the people of little Milford, Ill. (pop. 1,600) for proving that it is not impossible. The Milford Texas 4-H Club, composed of dark-skinned youth of Texas-Mexican ancestry, is thriving.

It was formed six years ago when the Milford Migrants Council, a nondenominational group with representatives of many of the area's churches, teamed up with the county extension service to bring 4-H Club work to the child vegetable pickers.

It has taken some money to conduct this special activity, but not much as anti-poverty programs go. We wonder if there are not many other communities which could find ways to bring migrant children and those of other socially isolated families into the going organizations of youth?

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Fear of Doctors Symptom of Immaturity

Q—I am deathly afraid of nurses, doctors and hospitals. I want to take a job but I would have to have a medical examination and I'm afraid they would find something seriously wrong with me. What should I do?

A—it is surprising how many letters of this kind I get. I can assure you the doctor would find something seriously wrong with you—a whopping case of immaturity.

People who are afraid the doctor will find tuberculosis, heart disease or cancer do themselves much harm by doing an examination that would enable the doctor to treat these diseases early enough to do some good.

A century and a half ago it is true that a hospital was a place to go to die. The chances of coming out alive were slim.

British Firm's Trust Pays Off

DURHAM, England (UPI) — There is a new factory here which has no official lunch hour. It has no formal tea break either. But its workers are happy.

What they do have, in exchange, is the right to go out to eat or to drink tea whenever they want to. There is only one restriction—they must arrange their break so it does not interfere with production.

The management of Patons and Baldwins say they introduced this system, revolutionary in Britain, because they felt trust and teamwork could take the place of a schedule. So far it seems to be working.

"This is an experimental factory," said production manager Harold Binyon. "There is no clocking in or out. But when a man is late or absent our foreman will see his machine is vacant, which means the rest of the men will have to be reshuffled."

KEY WORD

"The key word in this factory is trust, you might say freedom. They take a break when the job allows."

"The men work as a team."

"When one wants to go out he says to one of his workmates 'look after my machine.' The aim of the scheme is maximum production allied with good quality."

"What in actual fact we have done is shift a lot of the responsibility onto the men. Up to the present it has proved very successful."

NO ABUSEES

"Absenteeism is low and no one seems to be abusing the system. This is not a slave camp. We are just asking the men for eight hours work for eight hours pay."

The factory, which employs 90 men, produces yarn used in the knitting trade. The workers are ex-miners who lost their jobs when collieries closed.

The man who developed the idea, production director Kenneth Thompson, plans to introduce similar schemes into Patons' other factories which are scattered throughout the country. He has also introduced a production bonus.

"It is time for new management techniques in this country," he said. "It is time for clock watching to end. Our factory here is an ideal application of these principles."

Accident Hurts 6 in Band From Ludington High

LUDINGTON (UPI) — Six members of the Ludington High School band were injured Saturday when their station wagon blew a tire and hit a ditch on US31, six miles east of here.

The students were en route to Ferris State College at Big Rapids to participate in a homecoming celebration.

Paulette Mitchell, 17, remained hospitalized yesterday. The other students, Robert Rowe, 17, Ray Hanson, 17, Ridd Daugherty, 15, Richard Tebb, 15, and Dennis Wright, 17, the driver, were treated and released.

and some of the old fear persists.

There is another group of persons, the chronic complainers, who are afraid to go to the doctor because they are afraid he won't find anything seriously wrong with them.

These persons are also immature. A mature person wants to know the truth and to face up to it.

I suspect that my reader is now afraid to open her newspaper for fear I may have answered her letter.

Q—Several times a year my husband is awakened with spells that sound like retching but are caused by a momentary inability to swallow. What is the cause of this?

A—Difficulty in swallowing may be due to an obstruction in or a spasm of the esophagus. There are several causes of severe prolonged spasms but the cause of momentary spasms is not known, largely because the condition is not serious and does not warrant a big government grant.

Another difficulty in studying such a case is that it would be hard for a doctor to be present at the time of the occurrence or to make any meaningful observations before the spasm relaxed.

Many persons have these spasms but more often while eating than during sleep.

I have had several letters pro and con following my column on animal research. Since I am a great lover of animals, I would like to make it clear that I heartily favor legislation to curb the theft of pet dogs engaged in by some unscrupulous persons. Such legislation should not, however, be used to hamper legitimate research. All reputable animal researchers get their animals from legally established sources and would not think of dealing with a dog-napper.

New Approach to Cancer Cause Studied

By Science Service
TOKYO — New approaches to the cause of cancer are possible because of the "excessive occurrence" of malignancy with other diseases, a National Cancer Institute scientist said here.

Dr. Robert W. Miller, one of 20 NCI staff members participating in the programs of the ninth International Cancer Congress here, linked congenital defects and leukemia.

Environmentally induced cancer and congenital defects were found together in Hiroshima.

Following the explosion of the atom bomb, he said, there was an excess of microcephaly (small head) and mental retardation among those being carried in the womb at the time of the bomb, and an excess of leukemia among those exposed at any age.

only atom bombs ever used as weapons fell, scientists from all over the world are exchanging "geographic pathology" of all findings gathered, since they observed along with work on animals experimentally support the assumption that the cause of cancer in each segment of the tract may be different.

Junior Editors Quiz on "BUCKEYE STATE"

QUESTION: How did the state of Ohio get its name?

ANSWER: Think of the Indians in our picture as members of the Iroquois group, living in the days before there was a United States. They have come to the banks of a majestic river, the size of which impresses them so much that they are repeating the Iroquois word ohio, which meant something big.

This is the river which winds across the southern boundary of the state of Ohio (see map). Explorers and settlers used the Indian word.

Ohio really is something big, in a lot of different ways. Its rich soil makes it one of our most important states in dairying, raising hogs and beef cattle as well as poultry and sheep; field crops and fruits and vegetables are also extensively grown.

In industry too, Ohio is really outstanding. The state produces much iron and steel, and is a leader in many kinds of manufacturing—as an example, Akron, Ohio, produces about half of all automobile tires used in the United States.

FOR YOU TO DO: Check a map to see where the Ohio River comes from, and where it goes.

R. W. Emerick Jr. Weds in Atlanta

The Cathedral of Saint Philip in Atlanta, Ga. was the setting for the Saturday nuptials of Judith Caroline Van Winkle and Robert William Emerick Jr.

After the candlelight evening rite and reception in the Capital City Country Club, the couple left for a honeymoon in the Bahamas.

The Lester Van Winkles of Atlanta are the bride's parents and her husband is the son of Robert W. Emerick of Bloomfield Village and the late Virginia Lehman Emerick.

IVORY GOWN

Stephanotis and an orchid rested on a white satin missal held by the bride who chose ivory peau de soie with highrize waistline and bodice of Alencon lace.

Matching lace trimmed her chapel train and the silk pillowbox for her illusion veil.

With Mrs. T. Elder Pearce of Atlanta, her sister's matron of honor, were bridesmaids Winn

Lyon, Birmingham; Barbara Richards, Atlanta; Mrs. Max Brugh, Athens, Ga. and Mrs. Marrie R. Hook of Biloxi, Miss.

Susan Lyon and Tilman E. Pearce III were junior attendants. Elizabeth Pearce was flower girl.

Richard L. Emerick was his brother's best man.

Ushers were William J. Denler II, St. Clair Shores; G. Albert Lyon III and K. Peter Knudsen, both of Birmingham; Kendrick J. deKoning, Ann Arbor; Dr. T. Elder Pearce; T. B. Greensall III, Jacksonville, Fla. and R. Kent Shackelford Jr. of Jacksonville, Ga.

The newlyweds will live in Jacksonville, Fla.

Judith Caroline Van Winkle, daughter of the Lester Van Winkles of Atlanta, Ga. and Robert William Emerick Jr., son of Robert W. Emerick, Bloomfield Village, and the late Virginia Lehman Emerick were wed Saturday in the Cathedral of Saint Philip, Atlanta.

On Bigotry Issue

Abby Stands Corrected

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: Owing to the overwhelming number of letters I have received lambasting me for my reply, I repeat the item together with a sampling of the mail that followed:

DEAR ABBY: My mother was Jewish, my father was not.

ABBY I married a gentle and I suppose there are many people who do not know my background, although I've never tried to hide it.

To get to the point: Recently I was a guest at a cocktail party in the home of some prominent and respected gentle people. Another guest started making small talk with me, and in casual conversation he made some very degrading remarks about "the Jews."

I remained silent, but was deeply hurt. Now I'm wondering if perhaps I should have said something. And if so, what?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Bigotry and bad manners are boorish, whether perpetrated on one who is half-Jewish, or 99.44 per cent Chippewa. Unless one would reveal his own insecurity, the best response is sincere (and silent) pity rather than uttered (and futile) censure.

DEAR ABBY: You cannot hope to educate a bigot with one short lecture at a cocktail party.

DEAR ABBY: Revealing one's insecurity notwithstanding, how can anyone recommend "silence" in response to anti-Semitic, anti-Catholic, anti-Negro, or anti-anything so obviously based on prejudice and bigotry? Silence can only imply apathy, cowardice or agreement.

CLAYTON, MO.

DEAR ABBY: A wise man was asked, "When will intolerance be abolished?" He replied, "Not until the person who was NOT maligned reacts as though he were the person who were." I cannot condone your answer with my silence — and I would have written this letter had the issue been Puerto Rican.

PERU, IND.

Princess Margretha of Sweden beams as she carries her baby son, Charles Edward, after he was christened Sunday in the village church at Winslow in Buckinghamshire, England. Her husband, British businessman, John Ambler, holds their first born, Sybilla Louise, at left. Behind Margretha is her father, King Gustav of Sweden, who was godfather.

Miss Fitz Begins at the Start

HAYWARD, Calif. (UPI)—Miss Val Fitz, 59, knows what she's talking about when the conversation concerns telephones. She started as an operator at age seven.

In 1911, her mother took over the Round Lake, Ill., phone agency, an old-type magnet board with 20 customers. Miss Fitz was fascinated by the operation and watched her mother until she learned the job.

Then one day Mrs. Fitz let her daughter take a turn at the board and Val began her career, on a temporary "child operator" basis. She became bookkeeper for her mother's agency at age 12 and went on the Bell System payroll three years later as an operator. Eventually Miss Fitz came to California and transferred to the Hayward office in 1946. She now serves primarily as a training supervisor for new operators.

Kicking the Can Is Worthwhile

IONIA, Kan. (AP)—Two 12-year-old girls found the old-fashioned game of "kick the can" profitable. While playing in the city dump, they kicked a can out of the scrap heap only to find it contained $100 in paper money.

Charles Murray, Jewell County sheriff, held the money for a time to give the owner a chance to claim it. When no one was heard from, the money went to Connie Tusker and Jo Ann Schmidt, two Ionia school girls.

Will Make Equipment

Physical therapy equipment will be made by members of the afternoon group of South Oakland County Alumnae Association, Kappa Delta sorority, following a Nov. 8 luncheon.

Mrs. John S. Hamilton of Eastover Drive will host the meeting where cohostesses will be Mrs. R. Brooks Brown, Mrs. Donald W. Neal and Mrs. Wayne Stettbacher.

The handmade equipment will be donated to the Oakland County Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

The evening group of the association will meet the same day at 8 p.m. in the Emmanuel Christensen home, Southfield. Mrs. Leonard Berry, antique dealer, will speak about home decoration.

Mrs. Jerald D. Stone and Mrs. Thomas Wear will assist the hostess.

Case No. A-561

Should Teens Marry?

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE A-561: Luella G., aged 17, is a high school senior. "Dr. Crane," she asked, "are teen-age marriages unwise?"

"Do they lead to a higher divorce rate?"

"If so, why is that true? And what makes teen-agers want to get married early?"

CUPID'S HYPNOSIS

During grade school, many children develop a crush on some classmate of the other sex. At this time, the infatuation is more of the romantic and poetical sort.

The boy idealizes the girl and sends her a Valentine with sentimental verses thereon.

This type of sexual attraction is an ethereal and non-physical love affair.

Then for several years the young people are in a non-romantic phase.

But when they reach the later years of senior high school, they may suddenly combine their grade school romanticism with the further excitement of physical magnetism.

This is the time when they enter into what we call "Cupid's Hypnosis."

They are then resistant to the logical arguments of their parents.

And they imagine that they will never be in love again if they lose this current sweetheart.

For this first exposure to kissing and petting sweeps them into an emotional whirlpool.

They go around in foggy circles.

Beware, for this is a very dangerous time!

If they now get married,

they are very likely to end in divorce.

For they are usually not in love but simply in a mutual sexual infatuation.

In both true love and physical infatuation, you get butterflies in your tummy and feel giddy, trembly and exhilarated at the sight, sound or touch of the other person.

But in true love, you look ahead and think of the best interests of your sweetheart. You want him to finish his schooling!

In sexual infatuation, however, you selfishly consider your own desire to enter a wedding ceremony. You want him to quit school NOW and elope!

UNHAPPY TEENS

Children from unhappy or broken homes are more likely to rush into a teen-age wedding than those from a happy home where their parents love each other and show it!

Many lonely girls consider themselves unwanted and unloved by their parents so they develop a mania to have a male "all my own" who will give them attention and affection.

This selfish desire causes our divorce rate to zoom.

For sexual magnetism soon wanes, but true love zooms greater with the years!

And one of the gravest threats to teen-age marriages is the lack of a trade or profession by the teen-age husband.

Thus, he can't support his wife, so they must move in with their in-laws at the outset, and this hampers them till they soon start snarling.

So send for my "Tests for Husbands and Wives," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. Rate before you pick your mate! Then wait!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

MRS. GARY G. GOOD

Miss Lange, Gary Good Speak Vows

Newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Gary George Good (Margret Lange) left for Niagara Falls after Friday's vows in the Grace Lutheran Church and a luncheon at the Holiday Inn of Pontiac.

The Walter Langes of Sylvan Lake and the Marlin J. Goods of Edward Street are parents of the newlyweds.

Re-embroidered Alencon lace touched with seed pearls accented the bride's Empire gown and full chapel train of white silk, organza bodice.

Matching lace petals held her imported illusion veil and ivy accented her bouquet of white carnations and Stephanotis.

Attending the couple were Susan Green, maid of honor, and Ray Blankenship, best man.

Mrs. Good is a student at Oakland University.

Emotions Play Part in Family Finances

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

I am working and my salary is more than my husband's. And that's what's causing the trouble.

He has lost a feeling of responsibility about giving me the amount of money he used to give me before I started working.

He stops off every payday and buys expensive clothes for himself and gives me the change left over. I think this is very unfair.

I'm taking full responsibility for the rent, etc., and I feel cheated. We have seven children, ages 1 to 8. My take-home salary is $106 weekly, my husband's, $80 weekly.

Rent is $79 a month. The phone bill runs about $10, electric about $11, gas about $12. Life insurance premium is $7.50 a month.

We have no bills or credit buying now. Everything is paid in full. Will you set up a budget for me? And advise me how to handle this situation.

Mrs. J. M., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Dear Mrs. M.:

You've got double trouble, all right. Problem one is the attitude both you and your husband are taking toward the family income. I'm handing you a share of the blame, even though you must be doing a terrific job of managing under the circumstances.

But I suspect that when you started to work and took over the bill-paying, you also started wearing the pants in the family. You had the most money, so you had the last word.

But by taking on all the responsibility yourself, you cut your husband's ego down to ground-level. And now he's paying you back — consciously or not — by acting like a juvenile. He's saying, "Okay, you run the works."

The sad part is that you probably never wanted or intended to run the works all by yourself. It happens to many a working wife who brings in more income than her husband does. Before you can tackle a workable budget, with mutual responsibility, you'll have to recognize this emotional situation.

Try to talk it over with your husband. Both of you look at your combined incomes as one money pool. This is a good time to make a fresh start, since you have no bills or debts. Plan the week's or month's spending together. Establish a His and Hers area for bill-paying — with the emphasis on a balanced budget rather than on who put the most cash in the kitty.

For a start, look over this set-up and see how it could be adjusted to your weekly living. Figures are based on four weeks in a month — so that in those months where there are five weeks, you have an extra few dollars left over.

Combined income: $186 a week

Rent, $20; household operating costs (supplies plus utilities), $15; food, for nine, $54; clothing, $20; savings and insurance, $15; personal allowances for both of you, $15; miscellaneous including gifts, church, incidental needs for children, $10; medical costs, $7; recreation, vacation, $10. Total, $166.

No provision there for a car, you'll note. Also, I'm assuming you must have a built-in babysitter somewhere in the family connection — or that your working hours and those of your husband allow for care of the children without outside expense. Otherwise you could not have failed to mention such an all-important item.

In striving for a more mature kind of cooperation, establish a working agreement with your husband. He will handle, say, the rent and utility payments;

Job Skills Improve With Age

Too old for a good job? Can't compete with younger women? Don't believe it, no matter what you've heard. In most ways, middle-aged women are as competent and alert as the young; in some work they're even better.

These facts appear from a study of 585 women, conducted at Washington University, St. Louis, by Dr. Fred J. Thumin and Carol Boernke, psychologists. The women were job applicants, ranging in age from 17 to 57.

Five tests were given to each subject. In all five, it was found, performance was markedly affected by the matter of age. But variations in performance showed markedly different patterns.

Numerical ability, for instance, remained constant between ages 19 and 32, then increased until the early forties, later to drop off abruptly in the early fifties.

Clerical ability, however, stayed much the same from 19 years to 42, after which it steadily declined. Typing accuracy improved up to age 32, and afterward showed no decline.

The biggest surprise, though, were the findings for typing speed and verbal comprehension. These abilities not only improved with advancing age but never slackened off at all.

In fact the oldest group tested, average age 52, scored the highest of any in both tests.

Hairdo How-To: 13

Experiment With Rinses

By DOROTHEA ZACK HANLE
Editor, HairDo Magazine

The biggest hairdo problem a teen-ager has is her mother. Here are some of the complaints most often voiced:

"Mother won't let me use color."

"Mother says I use too much spray."

"Mother (or father) hates seeing me in rollers."

Well, there are problems today for daughters—problems mother and her mother never had at all. There's haircoloring, for instance.

The question is, how young should a girl be before she starts experimenting with color? The answer: in her teens

If the color change is neither radical nor permanent.

Overbleached and dried-out brassy blonde locks, harsh orange-reds and dull jet-black tresses are unsightly at any age, but even more so when worn with young, pretty faces.

Too many teens are ruining their hair when it's young and vigorous, simply because they are doing the unpardonable—cooking up home-brewed colorings or bleaches, or, worse yet, using the wrong products for their hair in the wild exhilaration of experimenting.

The results, after a short time, include such unhappy problems as split ends, broken hair shafts, frizziness, lifelessness, and a dry, strawy look over the whole head—not to mention the unattractive color that cannot be controlled.

YOUNG, HEALTHY

Young hair has a special quality with all the pluses of youth on its side. If it is well cared for and you are a normal, healthy teen, your hair shade is at its prettiest now. You say it's mossy? Well, don't experiment with permanent tints or lighteners.

The results cannot only be harmful and unattractive but costly to correct and to maintain.

If you enjoy experimenting with your locks—and what girl doesn't?—indulge in some harmless tricks. Get a magnifying glass, for instance, and hold a strand of hair under it. Study it carefully, separating the hairs. See how many colors there are in your hair, Mousy?

What's that little bit of red-gold or pale blonde or brown brown in there? Decide which you have the most of and which you'd like to have more of.

Then consult the chart of a temporary hair rinse—one which lasts only from shampoo to shampoo. Follow the instructions carefully and you'll find that there are new highlights—pretty ones that accentuate your natural color, won't change it basically and won't harm your hair.

AFTER SIXTEEN

After you're, say 16, you might try one of the semipermanent tints—one with a conditioner built in. Experiment here, too. Try a little on one strand near your face. Let it dry. Brush the strand wide and flat and study it against your skin tone, see how it looks with your eyes.

Look at it outdoors and indoors under artificial light. Like it? Then go the whole head, but not before you're absolutely sure that it suits you. The nice part of this kind of semipermanent tint is that you won't have to do it again for weeks and weeks, and when it grows out there won't be any contrary roots to bother you and give your secret away.

You've simply enhanced your natural color and made the most of it, and when the new growth appears, it will blend nicely.

If you've been a silly girl and bleached your head to straw and brass with sun, salt water, peroxide, and ammonia, this same color conditioning can help you back to hair beauty. You can tone down the brassiness and help restore the silkiness as you grow back to your natural color.

Pair United at Evening Ceremonies

Vows were taken by Inez Kathleen Wiscombe and James Douglas Hudson, Saturday evening, in the First Methodist Church.

The newlyweds' parents are the Samuel Wiscombes, west of Five Street and the Cordell Hudsons, Georgia Drive, Orion Township.

Over her sheath gown of re-embroidered lace, the bride wore a sleeveless chapel-length coat and train of white peau de seole.

LACE PETALS

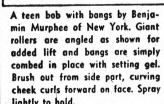

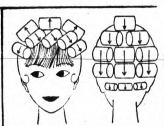

Lace petals held her illusion veil and a white orchid centered her bouquet of white daisy pompons and ivy.

Mrs. Stanley Taylor of Clarkston was honor matron with bridesmaids Dona J. Lifford, Mrs. Gary Bunce and Dianne Marceau. Flower girl and ring-bearer were Paige and Paul Wiscombe.

Best man was Edward Martin with ushers Michael Hudson, Samuel Wiscombe and Ronald Case.

After the reception in Bemis Olson Amvels Hall, the couple left for a trip to New York City and the east.

The only ones who will be really happy are those who will have sought and found how to serve.—Albert Schweitzer, philosopher, physician and humanitarian.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Novels of Rochester announce the engagement of their daughter, Jennifer Ann, to U.S.M.C. Lance Cpl. Robert Gregory Cruickshank of Santa Ana, Calif. His parents are Mrs. Marvin Dett of Ferndale and Robert Cruickshank of Armada. A Dec. 17 wedding is planned.

The Gerald Manions of Martell Street, Avon Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Jean, to George W. Bredon Jr., son of the senior Bredons of Third Avenue. He attended Lawrence Institute of Technology. A summer wedding is being planned.

Travelers Back Home After European Trip

By SIGNE KARLSTROM

Returning home recently after three weeks of traveling with the Archives of American Art—European air lift to East and West Germany, Austria and Yugoslavia—were Mesdames: Henry C. Johnson, Albert de Salle, Hooper Truettner, John Adderly, Theodore O. Yntema and Alan Gornick.

They visited museums and outstanding private collections in homes—all a great experience.

During the tour Mrs. De Salle took off for a few days in Paris and Mrs. Johnson went to Venice for a reunion with her friend, Countess Mary Dobzensky.

Mrs. Johnson came home just in time to greet long-time family friends, Prof. and Mrs. Fred Black of Sadona, Ariz. who were the Johnson's house guests last week.

SURPRISE

Mrs. Charles Grissom entertained for luncheon last week a group of friends whom she invited to a "surprise party."

Everyone wondered what the "surprise" might be and since a campaign is presently going on guests came prepared for a political discussion.

However, this was not what the hostess had in mind—she was thinking of the youngsters at the Children's home who needed warm mittens. It was also her Junior League placement for the year.

Not until the luncheon was over and Mrs. Grissom presented each guest with proper equipment to begin knitting the annual mitten puppet for the girls in the home, did the guests learn of the "surprise."

Present were Mesdames: Arnold Boyak, Charles Conrad, Richard Foss, Robert Norman, James Grissom, Herbert Sott, Douglas Fritz, Marvin Gielow, Richard Schmid and a newcomer to the community, Mrs. Hans Pirquet.

Mrs. Yoshikazu Morita, celebrated teacher, demonstrated her work to the Trowel Garden Club at a luncheon meeting at the home of Mrs. Ivan Ludington Jr.

From this community were Mesdames: James L. Frey, Sinclair Harens, M. A. Darling and Raymond C. Husband. In November, Mrs. Morita will be guest speaker at a meeting in the senior Mrs. Ivan Ludington's Detroit home.

SCENE OF ART THEFT — Chicago and FBI investigators search for clues at the Chicago Art Institute yesterday following the theft of a $500,000 painting, "Madonna and Child with St. John." Later an anonymous

Stolen Painting Is Recovered

CHICAGO (AP) — An anonymous telephone caller with the voice of a frightened teen-ager directed police Sunday night to a trash basket containing a stolen $500,000 painting. The caller said the theft of the renaissance painting, "Madonna and Child with St. John" by Correggio, was a prank that got out of hand.

The painting was found in a trash basket in Lakefront Grant Park, about a quarter of a mile down Michigan Avenue from the Art Institute of Chicago.

The richly colored work, on a wooden panel, was taken from the Art Institute early Sunday morning.

Charles C. Cunningham, director of the institute, said the 16th-century Italian masterpiece suffered moderate, but repairable, damage. After it was purchased last year it was described as the institute's most important acquisition in more than 60 years.

The break in the case came shortly before 6 p.m. when the anonymous caller told both the police and art institute personnel where to find the painting.

telephone caller directed police to trash basket near the institute where they found the masterpiece only slightly damaged. The caller said the theft started out as a prank but got out of hand.

Will Accept Troops When Needed—Ho

TOKYO (UPI) — North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh today said he would not hesitate to accept volunteer troop reinforcements from Communist China and North Korea "when necessary."

He told a French journalist "hundreds of thousands of volunteers from Socialist countries and other countries have declared their readiness to fight the U.S. imperialists by our side."

"We warmly thank them for their militant solidarity with us. When necessary, we will appeal to them."

The Communist leader's statement was the first public declaration of official North Vietnamese attitude toward the offers of Communist China and Communist North Korea to send thousands of "volunteers" to Viet Nam to help fight American and allied troops.

Ho's comments came in an interview with French journalist Emmanuel Destier de la Vigerie. The text of the interview was broadcast by the official Hanoi news agency, VNA, and monitored here.

He also repeated the official Hanoi stand that the war can be settled only by following the four-point Hanoi plan and the five-point Viet Cong edict.

Both programs call for settlement. Both have been rejected by the United States.

The Hanoi leader said U.S. troops "are neck-deep bogged down" in Viet Nam. "Our people are ready to cope with them. They are determined to continue the fight even if it will last five, 10 years or longer."

He called the anti-Viet Nam war movement in the United States "active support for our cause."

He said, "Despite the (U.S.) government's persecution, this movement has not ceased to develop."

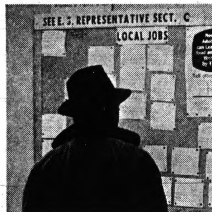

He also claimed North Viet Nam was continuing to grow when he pointed it at Brumfield and expanded economically despite the pressure of daily American bombing raids.

Killed Hunting

WOODHAVEN (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Robert Brumfield of Woodhaven was shot and killed Sunday while hunting pheasants with a companion.

Woodhaven police quoted Timothy Salter, 14 of Woodhaven as saying he thought his .410 gauge shotgun was unloaded when he pointed it at Brumfield and pulled the trigger while "fooling around."

How Much will George Romney's veto Take From Your Pocket?

In this session of the Michigan legislature, George Romney said "No" to at least 40 pieces of good social legislation which a Democratic majority in the state legislature passed.

One of them was the bill which would have abolished the one-week waiting period that now stands between the unemployed worker and his unemployment insurance check.

That "No" of George Romney cost Michigan workers over $8.5 million this year.

What did this veto of George Romney take out of your pocket if you were laid off this year? Anywhere between $43 and $72!

Romney's action has already cost General Motors workers in Flint a total of $2,244,000. In Lansing it cost $714,000, Saginaw $1,080,000 and in Pontiac over $900,000. And in Detroit it cost Cadillac workers over $400,000, Ford workers $335,000 and Chrysler workers $220,700.

How much will it cost you if you're laid off?

Zolton Ferency, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Michigan, says Romney's veto is unfair to the people of Michigan. It is unfair to everybody who depends on purchasing power in the hands of the people to keep our economy going. It violates the sound principles of unemployment insurance and it imposes a cruel and needless burden on the laid-off worker and his family.

As Democratic candidate for Governor, Ferency is pledged to abolish the one week delay between the last pay check and the first unemployment compensation check. He doesn't believe an unemployed worker and his family should be forced to wait seven days before they have money to buy groceries.

We believe the best interests of all the people of Michigan will best be served by electing Ferency governor.

Mystery Surrounds the Slaying of Teen-Age Go-Go Girl in Ohio

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP) — Pretty Linda Marie Kohlmeier, a small-town girl from a big family, left home to become a secretary — then a go-go girl. She lost touch with her family about a month ago. They found her Sunday when her father identified her body at a morgue in Columbus. The body, clad in a dancing costume and a jacket, was found on a rural road near here at about dawn.

The girl was killed by a blow on the back of the head, according to a preliminary autopsy report. Other than that, authorities said, the death is a mystery.

Hospital Trustee
DETROIT (AP) — Frederick K. Cody, a vice president of Cowles Communications, Inc., has been appointed to the Board of Trustees of St. John Hospital.

She was reported missing a month ago by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kohlmeier of Beach City, Ohio, a town of just over 1,000 population about 15 miles southwest of Canton in Stark County.

KNOW FAMILY
Lt. Louis Napier, a Stark County sheriff's department detective, who had been working on the search for Linda, 19, said Saturday, "I knew the family well. She was one of the finest kids I've ever known."

There were 11 children in the family, including one born last week. Linda was the oldest.

DOG'S BEST FRIENDS — These three Muncie, Ind., boys spent their savings on Clyde, a mongrel pooch they found with a badly cut leg. The boys had saved soft-drink bottles to collect the money. For their good deed, brothers Doyle and Danny Coffee and neighbor Charlie King were given a party by their parents.

Venezuela Coup Try Fails

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — Venezuelan police today rounded up suspects in yesterday's abortive bid by military officers to reinstate former dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez. The plot to oust President Raul Leoni was shattered when loyal troops gunned down its mastermind.

A defense ministry statement said Lt. Col. Clemente Pacheco Ochoa, leader of the coup attempt, was killed. Maj. Antonio Hernandez, an alleged principal participant, was arrested.

The first reported military attempt against Leoni, who took office in March 1964, occurred at the resort area of Los Teques about 20 miles east of Caracas.

Pacheco Ochoa reportedly tried to start a rebellion with national guard troops at an officer training school there but was opposed by other officers loyal to Leoni. A gunfight erupted, and Pacheco Ochoa was slain.

Caracas remained calm after the coup attempt was announced but police moved swiftly to apprehend persons suspected of involvement in the plot. The government said an "exhaustive investigation" was planned.

ARREST ORDERED

An order was immediately issued for the arrest of Edwing Retary of the ex-dictator. The Burgeurs, former private secretary of the late president, were charged with the rightist Nationalist Civic Crusade party.

Perez Jimenez is currently in jail here on charges of plundering the public treasury while in power from 1952 to 1957. He was extradited from the United States in 1964.

He assumed power in December 1952, upon the resignation of the military junta which engineered the downfall in November 1948, of then-President Romulo Gallegos.

Perez Jimenez and Col. Delgado Chalbaud led the 1948 revolt, which was considered a reaction by the army against government policies of rapid social change and of favoring organized labor groups.

RURAL REACTION
It was also seen as a rural reaction against government by Caracas intellectuals.

AFTER THE CONG — Members of the 1st Battalion, 27th Infantry, 25th Division, struggle through a swamp west of Saigon in South Viet Nam during a raid on a Cong-dominated village near the Oriental River last week. American troops are expected to operate in the Mekong River Delta area soon.

10 Senatorial Seats Are Now Rated as Cliff-Hangers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Political strategists are classing 10 Senate races, involving six Democratic and four Republican seats, as cliff-hangers as the final full week of active campaigning starts.

Although other close contests might provide election upsets, leaders of both parties now are concentrating their attention on Idaho, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Oregon, Tennessee and Texas.

Republicans talk guardedly of possible breakthroughs in Alabama, Minnesota, the Democratic seat at stake in one of two races in South Carolina and two contests in Virginia.

Democrats voice hope — but not much more than that — of winning GOP seats in Colorado, Delaware, Iowa, Kansas and Wyoming.

LOCAL SITUATIONS

But the consensus of party workers who have followed the campaigns closely is that there is no predictable sweep for either party and that most races will be settled primarily on personalities and local situations.

The 10 races regarded as down-to-the-wire affairs illustrate the seeming lack of an overriding issue that reaches across the nation.

In New England, for example, there is a sharp contrast between the campaigns in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

In Massachusetts, the Republican are running Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke, a Negro, against former Gov. Endicott Peabody for the seat being vacated by GOP Sen. Leverett Saltonstall. Some Republicans fear a white backlash against Brooke but even that issue is blunted by Peabody's strong civil rights stand.

In New Hampshire, Republican nominee Harrison Thyng, a retired Air Force general, is trying to combine an outstanding World War II and Korean record with proposals to step up the Viet Nam fighting into a defeat of Democratic Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre. McIntyre generally has supported President Johnson's policies.

TOP CONTESTS

The Middle West provides two top contests in Illinois and Michigan and a race in Nebraska where the Democrats think they have a chance of knocking off GOP Sen. Carl F. Curtis with Gov. Frank B. Morrison. This is largely a test between Curtis' conservative views and Morrison's support of the Johnson "Great Society" program.

In Illinois, the white backlash, Viet Nam and a potential sympathy vote for Republican Charles H. Percy, whose daughter was murdered, figure in his contest with Democratic Sen. George Romney, seeking reelection, will be able to pull his senatorial appointee, Robert P. Griffin, with him into the win column. Griffin faces former Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

RFK Blasts Arms Sales to Latin Nations

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy said yesterday the United States should stop the sale of arms to undeveloped Latin American nations.

The New York Democrat, on a tour of New England, criticized the sale of arms as a "wasteful and dangerous luxury."

He told a wildly cheering audience here that if undeveloped nations look elsewhere for arms, "then we should take account of this waste in determining the amount of our economic aid to them."

The former attorney general also made stops in New Hampshire and Connecticut.

"It now appears the United States may sell Peru 25 jet fighter planes, a wasteful and dangerous luxury for a nation struggling with the problems of development, which is the only answer to internal strife and division," Kennedy said.

FEAR FOR SAFETY

The planes were to be sold to Peru because Chile had purchased a like number from Great Britain to counter U.S. sales to Argentina, he said.

TV Satellite Is off Course

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists tried today to determine the new flight pattern of the Intelsat 2 communications satellite after an unsuccessful attempt Sunday to propel it into its permanent orbit.

Spokesmen for the Communications Satellite Corp. did not indicate when they would try again to put the drum-shaped satellite into a synchronous orbit which would cause it to hover over the equator at the international dateline, 22,300 miles above the Gilbert Islands.

Comsat released this terse statement after Sunday's firing of the kick motor above the satellite, nicknamed "Land Bird." "We do not know the precise orbit of the satellite at this time, but we are accumulating data in an effort to determine the orbit and what took place. The satellite itself is functioning normally."

The 192-pound spacecraft, designed to relay television pictures and other communications over the Pacific, had been in an orbit ranging from 200 miles above earth to about 23,690 miles.

Halloween Spectacular by Kids

Show of the Year at Your Door

STORY AND PHOTOS
By PAT McCARTY

Stay home tonight—or you'll miss the biggest show of the year.

It will be spooky, to be sure. But it also will be heart-warming and filled with fun.

As the little beggars parade to your door, each will be trying to outdo the other in eye-catching costumes.

There'll be some of the traditional—ghosts, witches and various goblins—and much that is modern if not futuristic—like astronauts, go-go girls and scads of spies.

Almost every youngster already has tried out the effectiveness of his outfit at an elementary school party—events that have become nearly as much a part of Halloween as the trick-or-treating itself.

Released from their normal routines, the youngsters parade through corridors and around gymnasiums and playgrounds—laughing and screaming at their weird-looking classmates.

Then they return to their rooms for the first treat of the season, snacks prepared by mothers and teachers.

Of course, there's more to Halloween than just the costumes. There are stories to be told and decorations to be made. Jack-o-lanterns abound.

The accompanying pictures were taken as children prepared for Halloween at four Pontiac School District elementary schools—Alcott, Central, Frost and Whitfield.

They give you a small preview of what's in store for tonight.

So stay home—and keep your porch light on.

CLASS FOR DROP-OUTS—A street academy class is shown in session in the corner of a grubby store in Harlem. A volunteer worker for the New York Urban League's school for dropouts checks literature notes with eager pupil.

School for Dropouts

New Hope Comes to Harlem

By BOB COCHNAR
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA)—There never was much doubt about Spivey.

The cops would call him a first-class punk. A judge would declare him incorrigible. To the social worker, he would be a "disadvantaged child."

Spivey, everybody agreed, was heading for a long vacation at Sing Sing or a slab in the city morgue. He had the qualifications.

For openers, Spivey had been out of work since he quit high school at 16.

He had fathered two illegitimate children. He had no family. He was a confirmed dope addict. He was one of the toughest Negro kids in Harlem.

'CHANGES'
But Spivey was in Harlem street talk, "put through the changes." He is now, at 22, a high-ranking, serious student at Marquette University.

Now Spivey didn't wake up one morning and say to himself, "This is all wrong."

Metamorphosis doesn't happen overnight when you are a child of the ghetto. The light of revelation burns dimly in Harlem.

"We're not miracle workers here," Gene Callender was saying as he gazed down at a scruffy Harlem street from his office in the rundown building which serves as command post for the Urban League of Greater New York.

NOT ALONE
"But Spivey isn't an isolated case," he continued.

"We . . . are reaching those tough kids nobody else seems to give a damn about. We are reaching the kids who 'couldn't learn' — and they are learning."

Dr. Callender, a minister, is executive director of New York Urban League and in charge of a unique project aimed at Harlem's educational failures and the high school dropouts.

The objective is not merely to give these youngsters enough rudimentary education so that they can learn a trade or become an unskilled worker but to get them into college, preferably on scholarships.

MORE OPPORTUNITY
An impossible task? Perhaps not. As Harv Oostdyke, a volunteer street worker and one of the program's guiding lights put it:

"There is more opportunity in Harlem for leadership potential than any place else in the country. There is no competition for the future of these teen-agers, so the road is up hill all the way."

The statistics of the ghetto are grim. Callender points out that 80 per cent of Harlem secondary and grade school students are three to five years behind the national average in reading levels.

At least 51 per cent of the youngsters — "in some areas 69 per cent" — live with one parent. The dropout rate is incredibly high.

STARTED SLOWLY
The Urban League's small budget school for dropouts began slowly a couple of years ago with a distinct we've-got-nothing-to-lose attitude.

Harv Oostdyke, who had spent five years as a youth worker on New York's lower East Side, was able, somehow, to gain the trust of a half-dozen young gang chieftains. Harv's version of opinion leaders.

"These kids knew the score," he said, "and they were bitter. But they weren't stupid. They had the capacity to grow. All I did, I think, was to give them some hope — and they took it from there."

Gradually, the pilot group enlarged to 23 young men and an academy of transition was organized in an old tenement.

There the students were put through an intensive remedial course. "These kids studied 10 hours a day," Oostdyke recalled. "They really wanted to make it."

All of the reformed dropouts, as result of the academy, had sufficient academic skills to qualify them for a good preparatory school in nearby Newark, N.J.

"Today," Dr. Eugene Callender, Urban League director, says, "17 of them are in college and the rest are in junior college."

"Please remember that these guys are products of the Harlem streets. And they are now mature and serious and are exerting a tremendous influence on the dropouts they've left behind."

With this success, it wasn't difficult to expand the program. Fifty former dropouts are in prep school now. Several dozen are doing superior work in college.

Hare vs. Washington: Battle of Big Names

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is government, and registers and lobbyists to city charters and the first in a five-part series on the major statewide races in ranging from trade marks and the No. 8 election. It deals with the office of secretary of state.)

Michigan elections often have been name games — but there have been few to match this year's secretary of state race.

On the Democratic side, there's James M. Hare, whose name has been posted over license plate branch offices and whose signature has graced millions of driver licenses for the past dozen years. He has held office for a record six terms.

On the Republican side, there's George Washington. The secretary of state registers, licenses and regulates operation of motor vehicles and boats; establishes election rules; keeps the state seal and all records and archives of state

JAMES M. HARE

He maintains 250 branch offices around the state. He is a member of the Administrative Board and the Safety Commission, and is second in line to succeed the governor.

Washington is running for the highest partisan post ever sought by a Negro in Michigan. Some cynical Democratic party workers have called Washington's position on the Republican ballot "window dressing." The Republicans, they say, are using Washington as a token display of party integration.

AN ATTEMPT
Other considerations aside, Washington's nomination is an attempt to show Negroes they are welcome in the Republican party and a bid to win more Negro votes, Republicans say.

Republicans have made gains in the Michigan Negro community in the past few elections — most of them shown by Gov. George Romney.

Hare's staff made a display of being nervous over the race earlier this year — saying they feared the combination of the name Washington, Romney's coattails and the refusal of the Legislature to enact motor vehicle inspection and implied consent measures.

But political polls show Hare far ahead of Washington — a good bet to win his seventh consecutive term.

TOP VOTE-GETTER
Hare, who has led the Democratic ticket in total votes for several elections, started out as one of the least political politicians on the Michigan scene.

He was a Wayne State University humanities professor who was talked into running in 1954. He has turned out to be not only a leading vote-getter but a significant fund-raiser.

Hare estimates over the last 10 years, the appointed managers of his fee branch offices have contributed $600,000 to the Democratic party.

He is a soft-spoken campaigner with a relaxed manner. But he started hitting hard this fall when he felt external forces were at work to defeat him.

METHODS CHALLENGED
A case in point was a series of surveys by the Automobile Club of Michigan on the Memorial Day, Independence Day and Labor Day weekends. The AAA said the surveys showed the traffic violation point system was not working the way it should.

Hare challenged the Auto Club's research methods and said he was doing everything he was allowed to do under the law.

AAA spokesmen assured him later the surveys were not an attack on him or his administration — but on the faults of the system as designed by previous legislatures.

Hare is a former three-term manager of the Michigan State Fair — the first to turn the fair into a money-making operation.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

Washington, son of a Texas foundry worker who came to Michigan in 1938 to study law, is the state director of administration.

He was a state public service commissioner for three years before Romney named him one of the 19 major department heads last January. He dropped out of law and went into accounting when he "saw a lot of lawyers starving."

The 49-year-old graduate of Morehouse College is campaigning actively around the state — but primarily in Negro communities in the major metropolitan areas of Michigan.

He is campaigning as a member of the "Romney team," on the theme that giving the governor more support on the Administrative Board will benefit the state.

The state's mounting traffic death and accident toll also makes for a built-in campaign issue — although it is one both Washington and Hare can campaign against.

Race is not an issue, Washington says. "The political parties in Michigan have isolated that from debate now," he adds.

Jeweler Slain

DETROIT (AP) — Jeweler William Finn, 57, was shot and killed during a robbery of his store Saturday. Police said Finn apparently was forced to open a safe after he closed the store. An estimated $850 was missing.

HE'S NO DUMMY — Edgar Bergen's dummy, Charlie McCarthy, finds himself in the arms of actress Claudia Cardinale, certainly an enviable place to be. Charlie was on a Hollywood set for Bergen's return to film work after a 17-year absence.

Actors' Safety Involved

Fleming Death Stirs Protest

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — The recent drowning of Eric Fleming on a film location in Peru has prompted the Screen Actors Guild to express concern for the safety of its 17,000 members.

This month the Guild's board of directors called on industry leaders for "a full-scale investigation of the increasing number of production accidents involving actors."

THOMAS

While commending the industry's Labor-Management Safety Committee, the board stated: "A number of producers and directors and other management personnel are not carrying out their obligations to insure the safety of persons working before the camera in action shots. Failure to use an adequate number of doubles and stunt men and necessary equipment is responsible for far too many accidents involving motion picture players."

President Charlton Heston detailed the Guild's concern in an interview. He is an actor well-acquainted with the perils of action scenes, having survived everything from broadsword battles — "El Cid" — to chariot races — "Ben-Hur."

Heston cited Fleming's death as an example of how actors can be placed in jeopardy by inadequate protection. Fleming, onetime star of "Rawhide" on television, drowned in a boat upset in a Peruvian river while on location of "High Jungle."

The film was to be a two-hour feature made by MGM for the ABC network.

'NO PROTECTION'
"Our preliminary investigation indicates the accident took place during the filming of a scene," said Heston. "Apparently there was no rigging to prevent the boat from capsizing. There were no flotation devices in the boat for the actors, who had heavy boots on. There was no other boat in the river for a pickup, no ropes or poles on the shore."

Fleming was swept into the raging river when his canoe overturned Sept. 28; his body was recovered three days later 15 miles downstream. Another Hollywood actor, Nico Minardos, survived the accident.

"Most Hollywood producers take considerable pains to insure the safety of actors and other members of the company," Heston said. "But there are some marginal operators who work so close to the budget that they can't afford stunt men and action directors like Yakima Canutt, who knows how to shoot action safely."

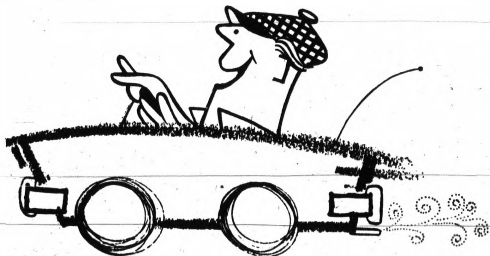

"Many times an actor, particularly in a television show, will come in for a one-day part that calls for action. Too often he lacks the time to prepare for a difficult stunt. Or he has to work with inexperienced stunt men because the producer can't afford good ones."

Packers Score 31-7 Rout

Defense Becomes Lions' Problem

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Suddenly the question for the Detroit Lions is — what's happened to that vaunted defense?

For the second straight time with rookie quarterback Earl Sweatman calling the signals, the Lions surpassed the 300-mark in total yardage and were beaten.

This time it was the powerful Green Bay Packers who tore the Lions' defense to shreds to hold the top spot in the Western division, 31-7.

Last week, the Lions amassed 314 yards and lost 27-24 in the final seconds. Yesterday the Lions picked up 317 yards including 271 yards passing by Sweetman.

Four times, however, when the Lions had a march going, these seneca mistakes—the penalty, the interception and two fumbles cost them the ball.

Green Bay took a 7-0 lead on the first play of the second quarter when Elijah Pitts went four yards to score. The series started late in the opening period when a pass intended for Pat Studstill bounced off the receiver and into the arms of Tom Brown who returned six yards to the Packers 45.

Ray Nitschke made a one-handed interception of a Sweetman pass to lead to Don Chandler's 40-yard field goal to make it 16-0.

The Lions then came back with a 74-yard march in five plays. The key play was a brilliant catch of a pass for 53 yards by Studstill on the Packers 21.

With two defenders, Herb Adderley and Willie Wood going up with him, observers agreed it was one of the most fantastic catches seen at Tiger Stadium since Gail Cogdill's touchdown against the Bears three years ago when he took the ball away from defender Dave Whitell.

Tom Nowatzke scored the TD from the two-yard line and Wayne Walker converted.

KICK WIDE

The drive ended when Walker's field goal try went wide.

Green Bay went the ensuing 80 yards in seven plays with Pitts taking a 24-yard pass from Bart Starr. Starr was trapped, got away from Tom Linen, and completed the TD strike for a 17-7 halftime lead.

The Lions had a chance in the closing minutes of the half, when they reached the Green Bay 26 on Sweetman passes. But a 15-yard holding penalty and two fumbles put the Lions back to their own 45 where they had to punt out.

To start the third quarter, the Lions again marched to the Green Bay 22 but at this point Amos Marsh fumbled and Green Bay then marched the 78 yards in nine plays to score.

Taylor went the last yard to make it 24-7 with Chandler's point.

Cahey intercepted another Sweetman pass on the Packers 46 to start the final scoring drive.

The Lions could have regained the ball when Mike Lucci dropped a possible interception. The Packers' pass continued their 54-yard march in nine plays with Pitts going the final three yards for his final touchdown.

Another Detroit march ended with 40 left to play when Sweetman passed to Studstill. He took the ball on the Detroit 26 but fumbled on the 35 and Green Bay recovered.

In the final minutes Sweetman threw five straight passes. One drove a sure touchdown dropped by rookie Bill Malinchak in the end zone.

Studstill, the leading pass-yardage receiver in the NFL added 164 yards in seven receptions to his total.

Red Wings Revel in Sweet Revenge

Bruins Given 8-1 Whipping on Detroit Ice

Rookies Each Get Pair of Goals; Howe Also Gets Tally

DETROIT (AP) — Ah, sweet revenge.

Detroit Red Wing Manager Coach Sid Abel revealed in it Sunday after his team smashed Boston 8-1 in the only National Hockey League action of the night.

"We were due to break out a little bit and I wanted to do it tonight, too," he said. "They gave it to us a little when they won up there in the opener (6-2)."

"At the opening game there were a lot of smart remarks and a kind of cockiness and I figured somewhere along the line we might catch them," he added.

NEWCOMERS

Rookie defenseman Bob Wall and center Ted Hampson, called up because of an injury, each scored two goals. Rookie forward Gil Marotte on a power play and lifting the puck over goalie Ed Johnston's shoulder.

Howe, in his 21st NHL year, grimed and shook his head when asked if the first goal of the young season meant anything special.

"Just to see us win," he said. Pit Martin scored for Boston in the first period, but Murray Hall tied it six minutes later.

In the second period Andy Bathgate, Wall and Dean Prentice each scored. The Red Wings poured in four goals in the final period. Hampson got his two, Howe scored and Wall got one.

The victory was the second straight for Detroit after four straight losses. The Wings climbed into a tie for third place with idle Toronto.

AT HOME

Tuesday Boston is at Chicago and Wednesday Montreal is at Toronto. Detroit plays Toronto at Detroit Thursday.

The Red Wings, who played listlessly at times in their first four losses, peppered Johnston with 45 shots.

Wing goalie Roger Crozier gave up just one goal and stopped 24 other Bruin shots. Montreal beat New York 3-0 and Boston and Toronto tied 3-3 in Saturday's games.

OU Harriers 2-1 in Weekend Duels

Oakland University's cross country team won two and lost one in a triple dual meet held Saturday at OU.

The harriers won over Ohio Northern 20-36 and beat Alma 19-40. They lost to Adrian 22-29.

Individually, OU took first and second with Don Colbits in 21:19 and Lou Putnam in 21:38. Gary Cobbs was sixth and Bruce Anderson 12th for OU.

Unitas Sets Mark in 17-3 Colt Win

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Johnny Unitas' lightning start the first time the brilliant Baltimore quarterback got his hands on the ball and the Colts steamed on Sunday to whip the Los Angeles Rams 17-3.

Unitas, en route to a National Football League career passing record, lofted a pass in the first three minutes, 18 seconds that traveled about 55 yards in the air to John Mackey, and his favorite receiver ran on for an 89-yard touchdown play.

That was enough to win before 57,898 in Memorial Coliseum, but Unitas hit Mackey again in the second quarter on a 17-yard scoring strike.

Lou Michaels kicked a 31-yard field goal late in the first period, and the 17-3 margin held up through the scoreless second half.

Unitas broke the NFL career passing yardage record of 28,333, and he wound up, the afternoon with 28,375.

Unitas' opening touchdown bomb came after the Rams had threatened to score following the Bruce had a march going.

Roman Gabriel had engineered the Rams to two first downs, and Dick Bass uncorked a 40-yard run down the sidelines on a pass from Gabriel.

But Bass was hit by Alvin Haymond, fumbled and his teammate Lenny Layles recovered on his own 11.

The Unitas-Mackey lightning stunned the Rams and their followers on the next play.

A field goal from 12 yards out by George Gossett in the second period was the lone Rams score.

LANSING — Tony Odneal, who will be going into the training camp of the Detroit Lions next summer, has become the jack-of-all trades for the Pontiac Arrows.

Odneal, moved from his role as a top pass receiver to running back, led the Arrows to their second straight Midwest Football League championship Saturday night when they defeated Lansing All-Stars, 30-13, at Lansing's Memorial field.

The victory, with one game left at River Rouge, puts Pontiac into the championship role of playing the champion of the Central States League, possible the Madison, Wis., and as host for the annual MFL All-Star game at Wisner, either Nov. 19 or Nov. 20.

Odneal scored the first three touchdowns for Pontiac, after the host team had taken a 7-0 lead on a pass from Sam Eyle to Dave Johnson covering 21 yards.

With Ron Bishop starting at quarterback, the Arrows finally got their offense moving in the second quarter after Lansing's kickoff following the initial TD.

LONG RETURN

Jesse Parrish helped the cause with a 51-yard return of the kickoff and from Lansing 46, the Arrows marched to pay dirt in five plays. Odneal broke four or five tackles in his 25-yard scoring jam.

With placekicker Ed McQueen with an injury, the Arrows tried five times to get the point, by kicking, running and passing without success.

On the next series of possession, the Arrows went 49 yards in five plays, and this time Odneal was trapped, several tackles and went 29 yards for the touchdown.

Mike Pryor's interception set up the final TD of the first half to the 30. Odneal picked up 15 yards and had daylight for the touchdown but was brought down when an opponent grabbed his face mask. The penalty moved the ball to the 20 and Odneal went over to make it 18-7.

An exchange of fumbles stopped drives for both teams in the third quarter, but in the final stanza with Bill Harrington at quarterback, Pontiac scored twice.

Bob Micheau went five yards for one and Bill Shupke went two yards for another. A 34-yard run by Denny Allen was the key play in the final score for Pontiac.

With Randy Powers calling the signals for Lansing, the Stars scored with 1:13 left. Two big pass plays took place in the final minutes.

In the other games, Flint's Blue Devils upset Dayton, 24-6, and Ypsilanti rolled past River Rouge, 30-0.

and the Captains were back later in the period on a 60-yard drive that ended with fullback Gene Brunner running up the middle for the final six yards.

With a 13-0 lead, the Captains seemed to relax and L'Anse seemed to dominate play after the first quarter but the visitors couldn't beat the bell.

Miceli, a standout on offense with 7 completions in 13 pass attempts for 97 yards, came up with a defensive play that produced the winning touchdown.

With L'Anse driving in the third quarter, Miceli, at a defensive halfback spot, picked off a pass by quarterback Mickey Thiry at the Kettering 30-yard line and raced down the right sideline for the touchdown.

Moments before Miceli's interception, the Lancers had caught the Kettering signal-caller in his own endzone for a safety to trim the lead to 12-2.

Thiry, hitting on 9 of 18 tosses for 132 yards, sneaked the final yard and bill Hosner ran the point early in the fourth to slice the Kettering lead to 19-9, and Thiry ended a 70-yard drive late in the period by sneaking the final two yards. Rick Saunders ran the point.

Kettering took the kickoff and moved to the L'Anse 40 before surrendering the ball on downs. With only 1:20 left in the game, Thiry moved the club to the Kettering 10-yard line before a penalty halted the drive.

Romeo picked off four passes and recovered five Oxford fumbles in a bruising defensive battle at Romeo.

Quarterback Dick Hanley hit on only two of eight passes but both went for touchdowns, a 21-yarder to Richard Chapman and a 14-yarder to Greg Danfield. The other Romeo score came on a 46-yard run by Brad Czajka.

Patriot Back Blazes Trail to 24-21 Win

Buffalo Defeats Jets to Tie for Second Behind Boston

By the Associated Press
Scalding water almost washed out Jim Nance's football career Sunday as he was four years old. Now he's leading a trail for Boston to the top of the American Football League's Eastern Division.

Like a bulldozer in a jungle, the 235-pound Nance knocked down just about everything in his way Sunday as the Patriots defeated the red-hot Oakland Raiders 24-21 for their third straight victory.

The triumph, coupled with Buffalo's 33-23 decision over New York, put the Patriots one-half game ahead of the Bills and the Jets in the East. Oakland, which had won three straight, dropped two games back in the West.

Nance, a second-year pro, rambed the 450-yarders on 18 carries in the first half and wound up with 208 yards on 38 tries for the game.

FAR AHEAD

The performance, the third best in AFL history, fired Nance far ahead of his closest contenders for the league rushing crown. The former Syracuse fullback has gained 753 yards this season, averaging 107 a game and 45 a carry.

In other AFL games San Diego defeated Denver 24-17 and Kansas City whipped Houston 49-23.

Nance scored two touchdowns from inside the three white Gino Cappelletti took care of the rest of Boston's scoring with a 24-yard touchdown pass from Babe Parilli, three extra points and a 15-yard field goal. Clem Daniels scored Oakland's three touchdowns.

The Jets, with Joe Namath throwing two touchdown passes, threatened Buffalo with a 20-point fourth quarter, but the Bills already had piled up too great a lead. Charles Warner's 85-yard touchdown run with the second-half kickoff plus four field goals by Booth Lustig sparked the Bills.

LONG BOMBS

Kansas City stayed on top of the Western Division, bombing Houston with long distance touchdowns. Johnny Robinson and Willie Mitchell teamed on a 78-yard run with an intercepted pass and a lateral. Mike Garrett raced 77 yards and Pete Beathard combined with Otis Taylor on a 77-yard pass play.

John Hadl flipped a pair of one-yard touchdown passes, helping keep San Diego one-half game behind Kansas City. Hadl over-all completed 19 of 36 passes. Bob Scarpitta faked a punt. St. Joseph Hospital in Mount and ran 63 yards for a Denver touchdown.

DRAGSTER HURT

DETROIT (AP)—Dick Jesse, 31, of Highland Park, was injured Sunday when his dragster rolled six times at 134 miles an hour. Jesse was racing at Mo-gone City Dragway when he lost control of the customized auto. Bob Scarpitta faked a punt. St. Joseph Hospital in Mount and ran 63 yards for a Denver touchdown.

Social Critic Elected President

Group to Aim for Sex Equality

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some fully equal partnership of the sexes, as part of the worldwide revolution of human rights.

In a statement of purpose, it urged women to work for equality "not in pleas for special privilege, nor in enmity toward men, who are also victims of the current half-equality between the sexes, but in self-respecting partnership with men."

The group, formed after a weekend organizational meeting, said it would work for "a Betty Friedan, social critic and author who wrote the best-selling book "The Feminine Mystique," was elected president. Named chairman of the board was Dr. Kathryn Clarenbach, University of Wisconsin director of continuing education and chairman of the Wisconsin governor's Commission on the Status of Women.

ALL WALKS OF LIFE

The 300 charter members include men and women representing all religious, ethnic and economic groups.

Richard Graham, director of the National Teacher Corps and former member of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, was elected vice president and four other men were named to the 20-member board of directors.

The group called on the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to enforce laws prohibiting discrimination on the basis of sex and urged wider use of women in industry and government.

"We do not accept the token appointment of a few women to high-level positions in government and industry as a substitute for a serious continuing effort to recruit and advance women according to their individual abilities," NOW's statement of purpose said.

'ASSUMPTIONS' REJECTED

"The statement also rejected 'the current assumptions that a man must carry the sole burden of supporting himself, his wife and family, and that a woman is automatically entitled to lifelong support by a man upon her marriage.'"

The group urged enforcement power for the President's Commission on the Status of Women and various state commissions. It noted most now have only the power to advise and not to carry out their recommendations.

Aileen Hernandez, who recently submitted her resignation as senior commissioner of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, is to be executive vice president, "subject to her consent," the group said.

SOCIALISTS SPLIT

The Socialists split over the Communist alliance in 1947. A group that opposed Nenni's links with the Reds broke away to become the Democratic Socialists under Giuseppe Saragat, now president of Italy.

The two Socialist groups decided to reunite to challenge the Christian Democrats for leadership and the Communists for the leftist vote.

Leaders of the united Socialists have said they would press for new social and economic reforms while remaining for the present in Moro's coalition government.

The merger ceremony was a scene of joy and high spirits with 16,000 delegates at a constituent assembly chanting "Nenni, Men-ni," whenever his name was mentioned.

But after 17 years of separation, the reunited Socialists contain well-entrenched factions with conflicting views that will remain after the enthusiasm of the Catholic, Christian, the weekend has worn off.

New Socialist Party in Italy

ROME (AP) — A new Socialist party has emerged in Italy, headed by the country's oldest major political leader.

The party was born in the merger Sunday of the Socialist and Democratic Socialist parties. There was never any doubt that the president would be Deputy Premier Pietro Nenni, the fiery and controversial giant of Italian socialism.

Nenni, 75, bespectacled and bald, has been for more than half a century one of the most colorful and dramatic figures of his nation's turbulent political life.

He was exiled for his beliefs by Mussolini, led a Socialist brigade in the Spanish civil war and was jailed by the Nazi Gestapo.

STALIN PRIZE

At one time he was so close to the Communists in a working alliance after World War II that Stalin gave him a peace prize. Nenni gave it back after the Soviet suppression of the Hungarian revolt in 1956.

Then he led his Socialist party out of the wilderness of chronic opposition and into Premier Aldo Moro's center-left coalition three years ago.

Nenni concluded that the years of Socialist opposition had helped the Catholic, Christian, the weekend has worn off.

Minor City Accident Leads to a Big haul

A Pontiac policeman investigating a minor accident Saturday night ended up recovering three stolen automobiles and chasing six suspects.

Patrolman Joseph W. Gallardo, 25, answered a call about 9 p.m. at 22 Chapman, where he found a 1967 sedan lodged against the front porch of the home.

No sooner had Gallardo checked and found the car to be stolen, when a second car coming toward him near Bagley Street screeched to a halt.

Three men leaped out and started running.

Gallardo chased the trio in his car for two blocks, when a third automobile braked to a stop as he approached the intersection of Bagley and Diston.

IGNORE SHOTS

Three men jumped from that car and also fled, Gallardo said, ignoring six warning shots from the policeman's service revolver.

All three cars involved had been taken in a break-in Saturday at Jerome Motor Sales, 675 S. Saginaw.

Two other cars are still missing.

Pickets Out at Area Store

By United Press International

Marching picketers continued their fight for lower food prices in Michigan during the weekend — but continued to have a little success in affecting food prices or deterring customers.

Mrs. Joseph Szerebet of 788 Otter, Keego Harbor, led a protest march at a new supermarket in Keego Harbor Saturday.

She told a state legislative investigating committee last week games conducted by supermarkets are a contributing factor in rising food prices.

Mrs. Szerebet said she considered "elimination of these food prices" and she added that the picketing would continue until "something is done to lower food prices."

She began her campaign three weeks ago.

ANOTHER PROTEST
Another group marched between food baskets in Windsor, Ont., on Saturday in a protest against rising food prices.

Neither protest seemed to have much effect on the stores' business at food prices.

The managers of both stores reported that the picketing wasn't hurting their business.

"It's helping a bit," said one manager. "We get loads of free publicity."

MORE OF SAME
And more of the same is scheduled to begin this week.

Mrs. Jennie Blanchard expects some 50 female shoppers to picket a new market in Wayne, a Detroit suburb.

"Most shoppers agree that prices are too high, but only some will picket," she said.

Open Door Policy Ends for Lavatories

Now they're up... now they're down... now they're up.

And the doors to lavatory rooms at Clarkson High School may be up for good.

In an experiment designed to give them better supervision of two first floor lavatories, school officials took the doors off last Friday.

However, over the weekend they decided to put the doors up again, according to Principal Milford Mason.

Protesting Friday's experiment, about a dozen students picketed outside the high school this morning until told by Mason that the doors were up.

Mason said school officials were trying to correct a smoking problem and felt that open doors would discourage students from smoking inside the lavatories.

Even with the doors off, retaining walls prevented anyone from seeing inside the lavatories, observed school officials.

Mailbag Tells Us Women Control the Policies

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

American women are going in for insurance in a big way. According to an industry estimate, they now own $10 billion in life insurance. The average woman executive last year bought a $10,000 policy, the policies bought by housewives averaged $3,900.

If people could digest grass and other plants as readily as do sheep and cows, by simply getting rid of the world's livestock the earth could support 4.5 billion more human beings than it now has.

A noisy home life can make you physically ill. Scientists have found that a noise level of 100 to 120 decibels can cause gastric ulcers and temporary deafness. And you can reach that level by simultaneously turning on a vent fan, the dishwasher, the garbage disposal unit and the radio or television set.

We like to think of ourselves as inveterate travelers, but some 60 million U.S. adults have never gone more than 200 miles from home. And three out of five have never spent a night in a motel or hotel. Only five per cent of motor trips are for more than 500 miles.

QUOTABLES

Quotable notables: "Keep your nose out of other people's business. If you follow this advice, you'll never have to alibi a black eye." — Jimmy Durante.

In 1939 only 14 per cent of persons of "college age" were actually taking college course.

Today an amazing 43 per cent are.

Tuberculosis, one of mankind's oldest diseases, is by no means conquered. It strikes some 50,000 Americans yearly, and 9,000 die of it.

Life is getting easier for women all the time. Modern gals complain their foundation garments are irksome, but the girdies they wore back about 1900 B.C. were made of heavy iron rings.

Minority Group Voting Is 'Especially Important'

By Whitney M. Young Jr.
Executive Director
National Urban League

As I travel around the country I meet a lot of people, and at this time of the year conversation naturally turns to the elections.

I am surprised at the number of people who say, "I'm not going to vote this year" or "Why bother voting, nothing will change anyway."

I tell them that they are all wrong; that it is important to vote on election day, especially to members of minority groups.

The reason for this is simple. It goes back to what we learned back in our civics classes. Politics is made up of coalitions of different groups who pool their interests and work together to elect candidates who are favorable to them.

Every group which has, in the past, tried to go it alone and neglected to join with others, has gone down to defeat.

The chances of each group in a coalition for achieving its goals are directly related to the strength of its vote. Every vote counts, and each one is essential to the success of a group's aims.

OTHER OFFICES

Even when candidates running for some offices are distasteful, there are still other offices to be filled and bond issues and referendums to be voted upon.

Citizenship carries with it responsibilities and one of the most important of these is to take part in the democratic process and vote.

This election will be especially historic because, denied the vote in the South for so long, Negro citizens will now be able to make their voices heard on election day.

The Voting Rights Act of 1965 provided for federal registrars to register Negro voters in those districts which were discriminating against them.

CREDIT DUE

Although there is reason to believe that these registrars should have been sent into many more districts, they still must be credited with raising the numbers of enrolled Negroes to a record high.

Credit also must go to the dedicated men and women, both white and Negro, who risked their safety and conducted voter registration campaigns in hostile areas of the Deep South.

Their dedication has paid off. In spite of intimidation and threats, Negro voters came out in full force in the primaries and will do so again in the general election.

The victories of segregationist candidates have been widely publicized, but the new Negro vote has had an impact.

FOR FIRST TIME

In many counties there will be Negro sheriffs and other local officers for the first time, many segregationist candidates have moderated their tone in deference to this new vote, and others lost their primaries.

The courage of Southern Negro voters is a lesson for Negroes in the North. In contrast to the high turnout of eligible Negro voters in the South, despite intimidation, Negroes in northern ghettos have poor voting records.

They should realize that only by voting for candidates who will further their interests in housing, education and employment can they break the bonds of the ghetto and pave the way to a better life.

A large vote in the ghetto will make politicians more responsive to the interests of people who live there.

HIS BUSINESS

If an official owes his job to the votes he got in one section, he will make it his business to listen to that section during his term of office.

But voters have a responsibility to study the issues and know where their real interests lie.

A political party should not be able to automatically count on ghetto votes. It must be kept on its toes by an intelligent electorate which votes for candidates and issues and is not bound to one party out of blind loyalty.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM Carbonated Beverages.

NEEDED: Two tall glasses, with a fresh soft drink in one and plain water in the other; a small cage made of screen wire, some insects, matches, covers (cardboard is good) for the glasses.

DO THIS: Lower the cage of insects into the glass above the water, and the insects are not affected. Lower the cage into the soft drink glass, keeping it above the surface of the liquid, and the insects will soon die. A lighted match will continue to burn above the plain water, but will be extinguished if lowered above the soft drink.

HERE'S WHY: "Carbonation" of a beverage means that it contains dissolved carbon dioxide gas. Some of the gas continually escapes, filling the space above the liquid and pushing out the air. The insects die, or the match goes out, for lack of oxygen of the air.

This does not mean that carbonation of a beverage makes it unhealthy. What we drink goes to the stomach; what we breathe goes to the lungs. Our lungs, not our stomachs, require oxygen.

Future Fatalities Anticipated

Space Is Death-Free—So Far

By TOM TIEDE
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla.
(NEA) — According to the available statistics, space travel has become the safest form of transportation in the universe — including walking.

In the 4½ years of manned United States rocket flights, astronauts have been propelled out of the world 14 times for more than 925 hours. They have taken some 600 trips around the earth, covering more than 30 million orbital miles — All without any meaningful injuries to the 19 passengers involved.

It's an enviable record to be sure.

But it can't last. Someday — and the chances grow fatter with each launching — one of the nation's manned missiles will abort tragically. A rocket will blow up on the pad; a wayward vehicle will veer towards land and have to be destroyed; a crew will be lost in an ocean or in space itself.

And thus will occur the country's first space death.

This realistic viewpoint prevails at America's space center. In fact, everybody here, from riveters to rocketeers, realizes that present knowledge makes it much easier to push men out into space safely than it is to pull them back safely.

It's not that safety isn't stressed. It goes to nit-picking lengths. Recentry parachutes, for example, are rejected if they fail to open twice in 10,000 testings.

Ground and ocean rescue methods employ whole armadas of men, machinery and materials. Carloads of cash are spent on rocket egress equipment and trouble-detection systems.

But still, fatal gaps exist. Orbital rescue, for one, is currently an impossibility. In the event of vehicle becomes inoperable during space flight, the inhabitants of earth will be helpless to do anything but wait for the crew to die.

STANDBY ROCKET

"An orbital rescue," says Beddingfield, "would necessitate having a standby rocket ready at every manned launching. As of now we have no such rescue ships."

Why?
"Money is one reason."
The lack of it?

"Exactly. And we feel that the appropriations that are available are better spent trying to prevent orbital mishaps, rather than trying to anticipate them."

Actually, Beddingfield explains, orbital rescue situations are improbable, anyway. Present and future spacecraft have dual control systems — manual as well as remote. Thus if ground aid fails, crews should be able to steer the ships home themselves.

But there are other potential orbital problems less easily dismissed. An obvious one could occur during the first trip to the moon. The exploration, which may come in 1969, requires three astronauts to orbit the moon in a Saturn V capsule, then descend to the lunar surface in a smaller, rumbleseat module.

EVIDENT DANGER

The perils of the maneuver are quite evident. If damage is done to either ship or module, the pilots could be captured in

Anemia Explained

By Science Service
NEW YORK — A new theory about the cause of the anemia accompanying chronic kidney disease is that it is a result of the kidney's failure to manufacture and secrete a blood-building hormone.

Dr. George C. Hoffman of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation reported that a damaged kidney often fails to manufacture erythropoietin, a chemical which stimulates the production of red blood cells.

Medical opinion has previously been that the anemia is caused by retention of waste products, which are toxic to the body.

The 'Pill' Makes Women Leaner

By Science Service
BOSTON — Use of oral contraceptives was associated with a loss of body fat and a gain in lean tissue in eight Texas women.

To study the reason for the frequent weight gain experienced by women taking "the pill," Air Force Lt. W. Julia Adams and her associates at the Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, administered either of two different progestin-based oral contraceptives to healthy young women.

Animal Census Set in Island Wilderness

By Science Service
NEW YORK — Abundant wildlife on Australia's Barrow Island will soon be living in the shadow of 200 oil wells, but before their natural sanctuary is invaded, a mammalogist will take a census of the island dwellers.

His study will ensure a collection of scientific data about the native animals before Barrow's environment is altered.

Wallabies, hill kangaroos, bandicoots and possums, as well as true water rats with webbed hind feet are among the creatures living on the island about 30 miles off the west coast of Australia.

Recent sighting of animals previously thought to be extinct make the prospect of a thorough census all the more interesting. A pigmy possum and a paradise parrot were found on the Australian mainland within the last few months.

The great proliferation of Barrow wildlife can be explained by the lack of predators, according to Harry Butler, a collector for the American Museum of Natural History, New York, and the Western Australian Museum in Perth.

Sea eagles and perenties, giant six-foot lizards, are the only major predatory animals on Barrow, he said.

Furthermore, because water is scarce on the island, it was uninhabited until 1963. Although the company has enforced rules concerning wildlife preservation, drilling and operating 200 wells will inevitably reduce the animal population.

These are the people who aren't satisfied with things the way they are — who want a little more out of life than they've been getting.

95 million of these people read the newspaper every day to find out what's new in the world and what's better.

If you've got something to sell that's a little better than it has to be, a little better than what your competition offers — turn to the people who read the daily newspaper. Brown, Reagan Assail Carmichael Draft Speech

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Both Gov. Edmund G. Brown and his Republican opponent, Ronald Reagan, have condemned Stokely Carmichael's "to hell with the draft" speech at the University of California.

The Democratic governor said yesterday the speech by Carmichael, a principal "black power" advocate, was part of a plot by ultra-liberal elements to defeat him in the coming state elections by fostering "white backlash."

Reagan said on the CBS "Face the Nation" television program that Carmichael's speech "demonstrated the need for government to turn to more responsible elements in the Negro community for leadership."

Carmichael, 25, leader of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee said at the Berkeley campus "black power" rally Saturday:

"The only way to stop the war in Viet Nam is for young Americans to 'say to hell with the draft.'"

"No one has the right to take a man for two years and train him as a killer."

Roaring approval, many of the mostly white audience of 14,000 students stood and gave Carmichael an ovation.

Halloween Held Early

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati's tiny spooks and goblins have had their treats and authorities hope they'll stay off the streets Halloween night.

A series of murders — especially five unsolved rape-strangings — have residents on edge and authorities asked parents to send their children trick-or-treating Sunday afternoon.

Police said the daytime trick-or-treating was successful. The main fear had been that some of the little spooks might be mistaken for prowlers.

Since 1946, 750,000 children born in Australia have had migrant parents.

Arteries, Bones Are Target

New Roles for Fluoride Seen

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard University researchers say a study indicates water with fluorides may help prevent severe hardening of the arteries.

Five doctors from Harvard's nutrition department conducted the study with two groups of people in North Dakota. Results were published Sunday in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Severe calcium deposits in the aorta — the major artery carrying blood from the heart to branch arteries in the body — were less in high fluoride areas, the scientists said.

The research centered on 300 men and women living in southwestern North Dakota where water has a high fluoride content and on 715 persons whose homes are in a low fluoride area of northeastern North Dakota.

The study was not designed to look into hardening of the arteries but into the effect fluorides have on osteoporosis, a disease in which the bone becomes fragile, especially in older people.

The researchers reported that osteoporosis decreases in areas where people drink water with generous amounts of fluorides.

In the same issue, the AMA Journal commented editorially on the study, saying fluoride may help keep calcium deposits in the teeth and bones and out of the arteries. The editorial added: If these findings are confirmed "fluoride will indeed assume an important preventive role in two of the main diseases of aging — osteoporosis and hardening of the arteries."

Kids Will Beg UNICEF Funds

By the Associated Press
Hundreds of Detroit area youngsters will be begging for money, not candy, this Halloween night.

They'll be forsaking the traditional trick-and-treating of Halloween to collect donations to UNICEF, the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

Meanwhile, police throughout Michigan warned children to watch out for traffic. "Wear a mask that won't block your vision," one police official said, "or at least take off your mask when crossing streets."

PROTECTION
Reflector tape on costumes or light costumes also were deemed a protective measure for tiny beggars crossing dark streets. Some communities planned or organized Halloween activity to ensure more fun and safer fun for youngsters.

Detroit, for example, scheduled 30 carnival parties at centers around the city tonight. And Detroit police approved the closing of streets for about 200 block parties.

These are South's thoughts as he bids and plays today's hand. "This is a pretty good hand. Seventeen high card points and a good six-card heart suit. Wrong distribution for an opening no-trump so I'll bid a heart. West has bid a spade and my partner two clubs. Must make a strong rebid. Better try three hearts

... Now my partner bids five hearts. He wants me to go to six if I can take the second spade. Six hearts it is. "Here comes the opening lead. The jack of diamonds! West must be sitting back with the ace of spades over my king and I have to do something about my king-small of spades. I can discard one spade on a diamond and try to locate the queen of clubs. That is a 50 per cent chance.

"Of course I guess more often than I missguess but is there a better line of play? Sure, there is. I had better discard a club on dummy's third diamond and ruff out the queen of clubs. I had better win the diamond in my own hand and play a couple of trumps. I will leave the ten in dummy as a trump entry."

"West has discarded the nine of spades. As if I didn't know he held the ace! Can he hold four clubs? Not likely at all. If he has, he is going to beat me because I am not going to play against that possibility. I will play dummy's high diamond and discard a club. So far so good. Now for king and ace of clubs. "Everyone has followed on two rounds of clubs. The queen it is the only club left. I can ruff it out, get back to dummy with

State Cuts Bill for Jobless Tax

DETROIT (UPI)—The Michigan Employment Security Commission today voted to contribute $28.8 million to the state's federal unemployment tax bill this year. The commission decided to pay the U.S. Labor Department the money from the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Fund and thus reduce the federal unemployment excise tax from 85 per cent to 4 per cent on the payrolls of some 60,000 Michigan employers. The $28.8 million is an installment on federal loans to the commission to help pay extremely high unemployment benefits during the recession year of 1968. The federal tax is assessed in addition to the state unemployment compensation tax which averages 2.2 per cent on state payrolls.

Body Is Found

DEARBORN (AP)—A body, believed to be that of missing Ford Motor Co. worker Herbert Bates, 45, was found Sunday in a pickup truck under six feet of water at a Ford plant slag pit. The truck was the one assigned to Bates when he was reported missing last Friday.

A Weird Story for Halloween

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — One of the eeriest of Halloween happenings in the United States began here — in the nation's southernmost city — 35 years ago. The mystery lingers on.

It was a chilly end of October night when beautiful Elena Hoyos, 22, died of tuberculosis. The torture she had felt in life was gone, but even in death her body would not rest in peace.

As Elena died, a friend named Bienvenido Perez marched in a Halloween parade in a devil costume Elena had made for him.

Minutes later he was pounding at her door. "Something told me she was dying and I rushed to her house," Perez said. His suspicion was right.

DEEP ADMIRATION

One of the mourners at Elena's funeral was German-born Karl Von Cosel, a man in his 60s who was a technician at the Marine Hospital. He had a deep admiration for the girl.

He painted her name on the side of his airplane after the funeral. Perez visited Von Cosel a few days later.

Inside the plane, propped up in a chair, was Elena's body. Perez, ordered away by Von Cosel, raced to the home of Elena's sister, Florida Lachina Medina.

Mrs. Lachina Medina didn't believe Von Cosel had her sister's body. She told Perez it was only a wax replica.

QUIET AWHILE

The macabre events quieted for a while.

But eight years later Von Cosel had built a shack in the brush near 17th and Flager Ave. Perez, who had been elected constable, received word from undertaker Ben Lopez to take a look.

Inside, he said, he found Elena's body.

A young attorney, Enrique Esquinado Jr., became interested in the case. He said Mrs. Lachina Medina had seen him and spoke of a fear she felt every time she visited her sister's crypt.

'DON'T WORRY'

She had been to see Von Cosel's shack, "Don't worry," she said he told her. "Your sister is all right. I have her here with me."

Elena was lying in Von Cosel's shack on the same bed she died in. Esquinado took the news to the sheriff. But the sheriff said Von Cosel was innocent and liked to work with paper mache dolls.

Mrs. Lachina Medina still wanted Esquinado to do something. She had begged Von Cosel to take Elena's body back to the crypt. But he didn't.

Esquinado swore out a warrant for his arrest. Deputies strapped guns to their hips to nab him.

MORNING RAID

"It was a Sunday morning and it looked like an invasion," Esquinado said.

They found Elena in the shack. The body was wrapped in gauze, covered with plaster, dressed like a bride, and wearing a wedding band.

Von Cosel was freed under the statute of limitations. He tried to reclaim the body, but was denied. He died when he was 83 at Zephyr Hills, Fla., in 1962.

Perez said he buried Elena's remains secretly. Perez, 66, a night watchman at the Key West Airport, still won't tell where she is buried. He says he is the only one who knows.

Ruling Today in Dearborn

DEARBORN (UPI) — A federal court was to decide today whether to strike from next week's election ballot a question asking voters in this Detroit suburb their opinion on a cease-fire and withdrawal of U.S. troops from Viet Nam.

Former Detroit-area Congressman Harold M. Ryan filed suit against the city's flamboyant mayor, Orville Hubbard, and five city councilmen, objecting to an advisory vote on the war.

Hubbard, who has drawn nationwide attention for various antics over his 25-year robust career in city hall, called Ryan's suit a "lot of hokum."

"Congress has failed to exercise its duty—that is to declare war. I don't believe they have any idea how they, the people, feel," he added.

Ryan charged the advisory referendum "seriously harms and endangers the national security" and could "be used by the Hanoi regime as propaganda."

Hubbard calls the referendum "merely an expression the people can make in the secrecy of the voting booth."

"It will show how popular the war is," he added.

NOT A RESIDENT
Ryan, who is not a Dearborn resident, said, "There is no good or gain to be accomplished by this action."

Eight Dearborn youths have been killed in the war.

"I've been to nearly all the funerals of those boys and it makes you do some thinking," Hubbard said.

In a job at President Johnson and others, he said, "I don't see the President and congressmen going to many funerals."

IT'S WRONG
"I think it's wrong to send our boys over there in a war that's not ours. I can see how we can get pepped up about it," Hubbard, a former Marine Corps sergeant, added.

However, to send Dearborn youths that "at least some one cares." Hubbard has ordered his policemen to escort all new draftees from their home to the city's civic center for a going-away celebration upon their induction.

He also has ordered flags in the city town at half-staff when a local soldier has been killed in action.

Hubert, Ford Say LBJ Trip to Asia Won't Affect Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says President Johnson's Asian trip will not have any appreciable effect on the Nov. 8 election.

Republican House leader Gerald R. Ford doesn't think an expected campaign trip by the President later this week will help Democrats, either.

But they took different political paths to reach their conclusions Sunday.

"I do not believe that the President's journey was in any way politically motivated," said Humphrey on NBC's Meet the Press.

HAS A FEELING
He added: "I am sure the American people are pleased that the President went. I have a feeling that the attitude of the American public will be one of support for the President's efforts."

Ford said the expected campaign trip following Johnson's return Wednesday would not help Democrats because voters have kept their minds on basic issues, headed by inflation.

Ford said on ABC's Issues and Answers that Republican leaders had been apprehensive Johnson's trip would "divert public attention from the basic issues bothering the American people."

But now, he said, "I really don't feel the Manila conference has made the American people feel better than before it happened."

SOUTHERN SCENE
Both men delved into Southern politics.

Ford told a GOP fund-raising

New Jersey ranks first among the states in income per farm acre.

Humphrey refused to say if he would vote for George P. Mahoney, an opponent of open housing legislation who is the Democratic candidate for the Maryland governorship, if he lived in Maryland.

Rep. Howard H. Callaway is running for governor against segregationist Democrat Lester Maddox. Callaway, a conservative, was called by Ford "one of the most able, most qualified people I know in the House of Representatives."

Meanwhile, Maddox claimed Georgia was the No. 1 target of the national Republican party. He said the national party was spending $500,000 a week on the campaign with funds from Wall Street and Washington.

"The Democratic party has a platform that we ask our fellow Democrats to adhere to. The segregationists have not asked the President of the United States, Mr. Johnson, or the vice president of the United States, Mr. Humphrey, to campaign for them and we have no intention of doing so, and I think that speaks for itself," he said.

Late Try to Avert Westinghouse Strike

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — an improved "skill trades" formula; a changing of wording in the holiday and vacation clauses; and a full arbitration clause.

Without compromise or agreement, the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers could pull its members off the job at 46 plants on the expiration of its contract at midnight tonight.

Talks broke down Sunday and mediators hurriedly arranged a meeting of both sides this afternoon.

The IBEW contends Westinghouse is offering less than what it granted three other unions in settlements reached in the last 10 days. The union also said the offer was less than the recent General Electric settlement.

'SAME OFFER'
However, the IBEW said the offer was the same as the one accepted by the other three unions with respect to wages, vacations, holidays, pensions and cost-of-living provisions. The unions said the package was worth about 50 cents an hour in wages and fringe benefits over three years.

Under the old contracts, production employees averaged about $3 an hour.

but an IBEW spokesman said, "We have indications of support from other international unions."

After talks broke off, the IBEW said it would file unfair labor practices charges against Westinghouse, with the National Labor Relations Board. Similar charges were filed by the IBEW earlier in the negotiations.

A Frustrated Stage Find Bawls Her Way to Stardom

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — There's a new girl around, Judi West, with an old soul... but with a modern switch... one day this poor soul would-be dancer from Chicago went for an audition on Broadway, and since everything in the world had turned against her, all she did was bawl.

"I was very upset," Judi was telling me. "I wasn't getting any job. Nothing was opening up."

"My personal manager Si Maslow asked me, 'Do you want to read for something?' I said, 'What?' I had auditioned for 'Bijou' and I didn't get that."

"It was for the national company of 'After the Fall.' I was so depressed, it was this thing happening in my life. I'd start reading something and I'd start to bawl. Then they asked me what I'd done on the stage and I said 'Nothing,' and I started to cry again. It was this turmoil."

Arthur Miller, the playwright, must have been attracted by that cascade of tears.

Even though she was a brunette, he approved her for the Marilyn Monroe part but, curiously, never told her how to play it—in fact, when she undertook to wear a blonde wig, Miller disapproved.

"It made my head look too big, she says. Miller merely told her to follow her instincts."

"I was afraid the reviewers, especially in Los Angeles, would kill us. A lady screamed 'S.O.B., S.O.B.' I froze on the bed. But the reviewers were so good it was amazing."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Joan Rivers recalls that she met Queen Elizabeth last summer: "Knowing her only from stamps, my first impulse was to lick the back of her head."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Page Morton described the Los Angeles smog problem: "It's the only city that has windshield wipers on shopping carts."

EARL'S PEARLS: "The most effective device a woman can have at her fingertips is a husband."

Good Time to 'Shoot' Europe

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

VACATION TRIPS, usually camera fans' most concentrated and productive picture-taking periods, have become a matter of year-round planning in recent times.

It is both more comfortable and more economical to travel before or after the traditional peak summer season of July and August. A greater selection of rooms at resorts and hotels is available — usually at lower rates — and transportation is easier to arrange.

Photographically, rich pictorial rewards await the off-summer-season traveler. Every season has its special pictorial beauty.

But there are many advantages over the sometimes harsh glamor of summer sun with its deep shadows and squinty eyes in fall's rainbow colors, spring's budding beauty and winter's white blanket which transforms the terrain.

My wife and I have just returned from a month's trip to Europe. The first three weeks were spent with a congenial group of 40 Americans on a Gateway Holidays bus tour of Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

With five cameras — which often gave my wife the suspicion she was more pack-horse than wife — we shot the Scandinavian activities in color prints, color slides, movies and black-and-white.

The final week was spent at Photokina, World's Fair of Photography, which sprawled over 10 giant halls of the Messe, the fairgrounds alongside the Rhine River in Cologne, Germany.

Besides seeing the greatest collection of photographic products and exhibitions ever assembled for any one event, mine was an interesting experience of participating in a live television show.

studio with glass walls built in Hall 10 of Photokina. A spectator gallery outside could follow the activities in the WDR studio and see the results on handy TV monitors.

Other monitors were placed throughout the fairgrounds and a giant screen was suspended at the main entrance.

The 75-minute program featured L. Fritz Gruber, director and dynamo of Photokina since its inception in 1950, and the young photo prize winners whose pictures were displayed in one of the 16 exhibitions.

HansGerd Wiegand, a specialist in youth programs for the West German Radio and TV station, WDR, produced the show, "Jugend Photographiert" (Young People Taking Pictures), to focus on the type of pictures being taken today and to show how amateur photography has changed in style over the years.

Pictures today have freedom and feeling, movement and mood. They capture life in the living, the spontaneous moments of joy and sorrow, work, study and play, romance, frustration and the struggle to be understood.

Old photographic laws: rigid rules of composition, studied posing, sharp focus and maximum illumination, have given way to a general rule: Does the picture tell its story?

If it does, it doesn't matter if it's a mass of motion, a blur of colors or low key in lighting. The pictures today are of real people in believable situations and that's what counts.

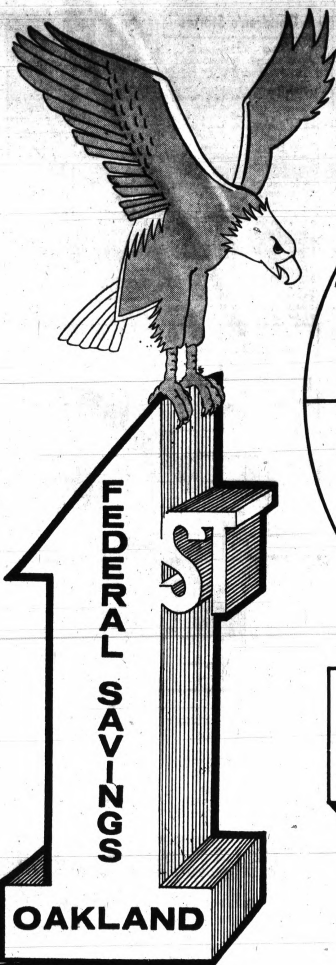

My part in the program was a segment of entertainment. Over the years in writing a camera column, my response to requests by camera clubs for a talk on photography is a show called "Photo Magic."

It's a marriage of my two favorite hobbies: photography and magic but the emphasis is on doing tricks with a photographic tie-in somewhere.

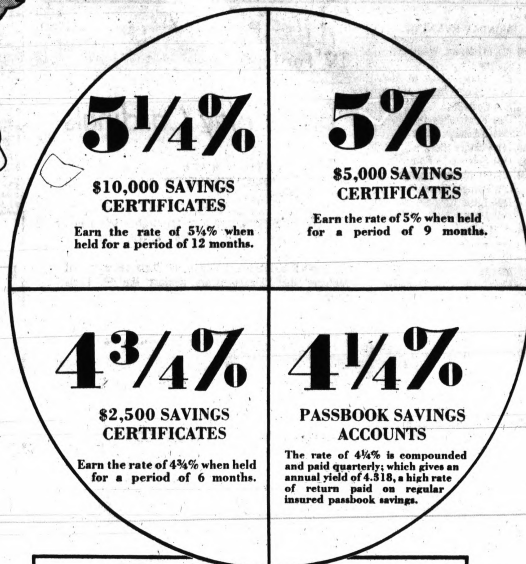

BACK HOME

Now that we're back from our trip abroad, I'll know very soon whether we had a good vacation ... when my color results are in.

When the pictures are good, we've had a wonderful vacation. From the black-and-white results seen thus far, I'd say this was one of our best trips yet.

South Koreans Hail 'Great Texas Giant'

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Johnson was welcomed to South Korea today by an estimated two million people who broke down metal fences, swarmed around police and clung to rooftops for their first glimpse of the man hailed in a typical banner as the "Great Texas Giant."

Seoul turned out the biggest and friendliest crowd of Johnson's seven-nation tour around the eastern rim of Communist China.

The President responded by popping out of his car half a dozen times to mix with the confetti-tossing, flag-waving throng.

Once he climbed down a roadside embankment to a muddy rice paddy to inspect newly harvested rice.

VOICES CONCERN

Facing massed crowds estimated by police at 350,000 in City Hall Square, the President voiced concern for the safety of those who pushed, shoved and trampled each other in an effort to get a better view.

He urged courtesy and caution "so we don't hurt anyone."

Children caught in the crush

were escorted weeping to the sidelines.

Harking back to the Korean War in which 54,246 Americans died, Johnson said he was standing on "hallowed ground."

'GENEROUS HELP'

"I have come to express our gratitude for the brave and generous help you are giving to our common ally, Viet Nam — both on the battlefield and in rebuilding the countryside.

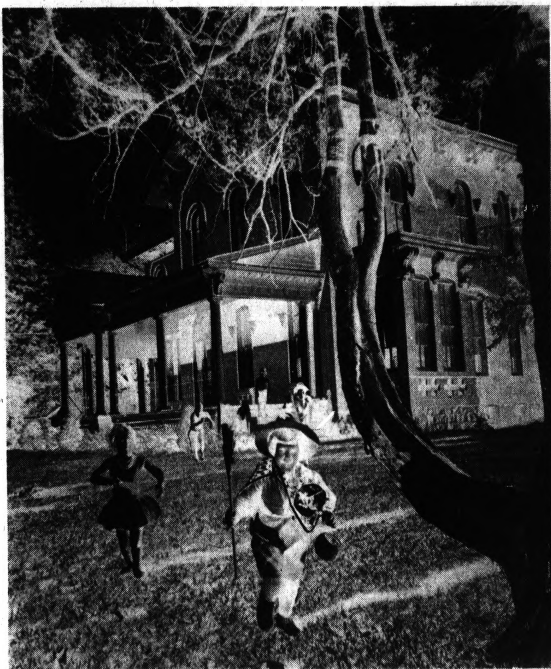

"This is the act of a nation that understands the nature of aggression and that knows what it means to have help in resisting that aggression."

There was a variety of home-made placards and banners — "Welcome to king of democracy," "You are sunlight of all free nations," "We love big shot of Free World," and "We love brave Johnny."

'WELCOME BLUEBIRD'

One banner, presumably for Mrs. Johnson, said "welcome Bluebird."

So much confetti and paper was tossed at the presidential limousine that Secret Service agents had to sweep it repeatedly to keep it from clogging the air-conditioning.

OTHER WORLD VISITORS — For one night, at least, the playful young folk of the Pontiac area become "spirits" of a different nature. Costumed and trailing the props of Halloween, they'll go from door to door tonight in quest of tasty treats. When the last taffy apple is handed out and the young goblins retire for the night, however, the Halloween magic is reversed. Tonight's terror will become the well-scrubbed innocent in school tomorrow morning, his sweet tooth temporarily satisfied. For more Halloween pictures, see page B-10.

20 Are Arrested in N. Y. Raids on Minutemen

Big Arsenals Seized, Alleged Plot to Blow Up 3 Camps Broken

NEW YORK (AP)—Police say they have arrested 20 members of the supersecret, right-wing Minutemen organization, seizing tons of ammunition and weapons and breaking up what they called a plot to blow up three private camps in New Jersey and Connecticut.

In lightning pre-dawn raids yesterday in Queens, Westchester County, on Long Island, and at Syracuse, more than a hundred state, county and local police went into action.

They said they confiscated arsenals that included mortars, bazookas, machine guns, semiautomatic rifles, homemade bombs, machetes, cross-bows, gassing nooses, and a million rounds of ammunition.

The raids were announced by Queens Dist. Atty. Nat H. Hentel.

He would not disclose the identity of the target camps, but added that the Minutemen group is dedicated to destroying "Communist, left-wing and liberal" installations of any kind.

Hentel said the camps were slated for destruction yesterday, a few days after the start of the hunting season.

Officers said guns, ammunition and bombs were found in the car of one of them. Another man was arrested in his Katonah, Westchester County home.

It's Begging and Mystery Treat Time

Tonight's the night all sensible people stay home to pass out candy and apples to begging youngsters who will be out en masse enjoying another Halloween.

Trick-or-treat hours in both Pontiac and Waterford Township will be from 6 to 7 p.m.

In Pontiac, the "Mystery Treat" contest again will be held.

Sponsored by the city's department of parks and recreation, board of education and Pontiac Jaycees, the program was launched in 1948 to get school-age children home early on Halloween night.

Prizes will be awarded to Pontiac students who are home tonight when the "Mystery Treat" telephone numbers are dialed.

CALO HOURS

Calls to elementary pupils will begin at 9 p.m. with junior and senior high calls to follow at 10:30 and 11 p.m., respectively.

In Waterford Township, parties will be held for children in grades three through six from 7 to 8:15 p.m. at Burt, Riverside, Pontiac Lake, Leggett, Manley and Williams Lake schools.

Red Desertions Up Sharply in October, Viets Announce

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Vietnamese officials today announced a sharp rise in Viet Cong desertions to the South Vietnamese side. They reported 2,062 defectors from the Communist cause in October, the third highest month this year.

The announcement came on the eve of South Viet Nam's National Day which will be celebrated with a big parade that will include 500 former Viet Cong in the line of march.

The war itself lapsed back into a lull after sharp weekend clashes.

Only small ground actions were reported and monsoon rains again reduced U.S. air raids over North Viet Nam.

Viet Cong guerrillas shot down a U.S. C-130 cargo plane today in the dense jungles of the "iron triangle" 23 miles northwest of Saigon.

CREW RESCUED

The plane's three-man crew was rescued unhurt by Air Force helicopters.

BS2 bombers from Guam made two raids last night over South Viet Nam.

One wave of the bombers struck for the second straight day in the central highlands near the Cambodian border.

Smashups Kill Area Youth, OU Student

Two men were killed in separate Pontiac area traffic accidents early yesterday, both when their cars went out of control at high speed and overturned.

Dead are Gordon D. Knickerbocker, 20, of 3959 Baldwin, Pontiac Township; and David R. Silver, 21, an Oakland University student from Shaker Heights, Ohio.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said Knickerbocker was pronounced dead at Pontiac General Hospital after his car spun out of control on

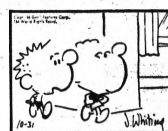

State Traffic Toll, Page A-4

Baldwin south of Clarkson Road in Orion Township about 2:10 a.m.

Witnesses said the car skidded and rolled about 300 feet before coming to a halt.

Deputies said three persons told them Silver's car was traveling in excess of 100 miles an hour when it fishtailed and rolled over about seven times on 1-75.

Silver was dead on arrival at 2:30 a.m. at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, about 20 minutes after the accident.

"Let's go out and play. I promised Mom I wouldn't help her with her housework."

Bobby Boosts Dems; GOP Campaigns Hard

By L. GARY THORNE

Some of the Kennedy magic was lent local and state Democratic office seekers here Saturday, and it was powerful political medicine. Republicans, meanwhile, offered a different treatment.

An estimated 5,000 persons crowded into the Pontiac Mall Saturday afternoon for a glimpse of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy during his one-day visit to the state to stump for Democrats on next week's election ballots.

The bushy-haired visitor was greeted with "Hi, Bobby" and "Kennedy for President" banners.

Despite a 90-minute wait caused by large crowds elsewhere, few, if any, left before the New York senator's arrival.

Kennedy had nothing but superlatives for the crowd and state and local Democratic candidates.

He emphasized the importance of electing G. Mennen Williams to the U.S. Senate and reelecting incumbent Congressman Billie S. Farum, D-19th District.

He credited Farum with serving his district with "great distinction."

Republicans campaigned hard in the Pontiac area while Kennedy was speaking at the Mall. Sen. Robert P. Griffin attended a rally in Commerce Township and spent most of the day in a door-to-door handshaking tour of Pontiac.

A GOP spokesman said Saturday's effort was the first time

Griffin had campaigned door-to-door at the precinct level. A party spokesman said Griffin was "amazed" at the crowds gathered to meet him.

3,000 AT RALLY

An estimated 3,000 persons attended a GOP rally Saturday evening at the Mall. Posters heralding the Republican gathering appeared almost as soon as Kennedy left the stage.

Engines Crash; Yardman Hurt

A railroad yardman is reported in satisfactory condition at Pontiac General Hospital after two diesel engines collided, derailing five freight cars and crushing an observation tower Saturday.

James R. Walker, 52, of 18 Esther suffered a broken leg, according to Pontiac police, when he leaped from the tower in an attempt to avert the accident.

The tower just vacated by Walker was leveled as one of the diesels fell sideways from the tracks and nearly tipped over.

Police said an engine from a spur track and the twin-engine team on the main line side-swiped at a switch.

The crossing on North Johnson remained closed to traffic today.

Firemen were called to the scene to flush out large quantities of diesel fuel oil dumped over the tracks and crossing by the accident.

SWITCHYARD COLLISION—A Grand Trunk & Western Railroad yardman escaped with a broken leg when this diesel engine collided with another engine and fell on an observation tower. Five freight cars also went off the tracks in the Saturday afternoon accident near a crossing on North Johnson. The crossing was still closed to traffic today as railroad crews worked to clear the wreckage.

Like Favors Escalation of Viet War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Eisenhower said today he favors throwing today U.S. military force into South Vietnam to get the war "over with as soon as possible."

"I do not believe in 'gradualism' in fighting a war," Eisenhower declared in a News & World Report. "I believe in putting in the kind of military strength we need to win, and getting it over with as soon as possible."

India Appeal on China Test Likely at U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — India was expected to react to Communist China's latest atomic weapon test with a speech at the U.N. today urging all the nuclear powers to sign a treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons. The Chinese presumably will reject the appeal if they don't ignore it.

V.C. Trivedi, the Indian representative on the Geneva disarmament committee, was scheduled to explain his government's position in the U.N. General Assembly's main political committee.

The basic Indian position has been that there should be a treaty against the spread of nuclear weapons; that it should involve a balance of obligations between nuclear and non-nuclear countries; that all nuclear powers should adhere to it, and that it should be linked with a freeze on stocks of weapons.

India, neighbor of Red China and the object of a Chinese border war in 1962, is one of the eight nonaligned nations at the Geneva disarmament negotiations. The eight are among sponsors of two resolutions before the assembly.

One of the resolutions, which the Soviet Union and the United States are pushing, appeals to all countries to take all necessary steps to conclude a nonproliferation treaty at the earliest possible time and "to refrain from any actions conducive to proliferation of nuclear weapons."

Emotions Play Part in Family Finances

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:
I am working and my salary is more than my husband's. And that's what's causing the trouble.

He has lost a feeling of responsibility about giving me the amount of money he used to give me before I started working.

He stops off MARY every payday FEELEY and buys expensive clothes for himself and gives me the change left over. I think this is very unfair.

I'm taking full responsibility for the rent, etc., and I feel cheated. We have seven children, ages 1 to 8. My take-home salary is $106 weekly, my husband's, $89 weekly.

Rent is $79 a month. The phone bill runs about $10, electric about $11, gas about $12. Life insurance premium is $7.50 a month.

We have no bills or credit buying now. Everything is paid in full. Will you set up a budget for me? And advise me how to handle this situation.

Mrs. J. M., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Dear Mrs. M.:
You've got double trouble, all right. Problem one is the attitude both you and your husband are taking toward the family income. I'm handing you a share of the blame, even though you must be doing a terrific job of managing under the circumstances.

But I suspect that when you started to work and took over the bill-paying, you also started wearing the pants in the family. You had the most money, so you had the last word.

But by taking on all the responsibility yourself, you cut your husband's ego down to ground-level. And now he's paying you back—consciously or not—by acting like a juvenile. He's saying "Okay, you run the works."

The sad part is that you probably never wanted or intended to run the works all by yourself. It happens to many a working wife who brings in more income than her husband does. Before you can tackle a workable budget, with mutual responsibility, you'll have to recognize this emotional situation.

Try to talk it over with your husband. Both of you look at your combined incomes as one money pool. This is a good time to make a fresh start, since you have no bills or debts. Plan the week's or month's spending together. Establish a His and Hers area for bill-paying—with the emphasis on a balanced budget rather than on who put the most cash in the kitty.

For a start, look over this set-up and see how it could be adjusted to your weekly living. Figures are based on four weeks in a month—so that in those months where there are five weeks, you have an extra few dollars left over.

Combined income: $106 a week.

Rent, $79; household operating costs (supplies plus utilities), $15; food, for nine, $54; clothing, $20; savings and insurance, $15; personal allowances for both of you, $15; miscellaneous including gifts, church, incidental needs for children, $10; medical costs, $7; recreation, vacation, $10. Total, $166.

No provision there for a car, you'll note. Also, I'm assuming you must have a built-in babysitter somewhere in the family connection—or that your working hours and those of your husband allow for care of the children without outside expense. Otherwise you could not have failed to mention such an all-important item.

In striving for a more mature kind of cooperation, establish a working agreement with your husband. He will handle, say, the rent and utility payments;

Job Skills Improve With Age

Too old for a good job? Can't compete with younger women? Don't believe it, no matter what you've heard. In most ways, middle-aged women are as competent and alert as the young; in some work they're even better.

These facts appear from a study of 585 women, conducted at Washington University, St. Louis, by Dr. Fred J. Thurman and Carol Boernke, psychologists. The women were job applicants, ranging in age from 17 to 57.

Five tests were given to each subject. In all five, it was found, performance was apparently affected by the matter of age. But variations in performance showed markedly different patterns.

Numerical ability, for instance, remained constant between ages 19 and 32, then increased until the early forties, later to drop off abruptly in the early fifties.

Clerical ability, however, stayed much the same from 19 years to 42, after which it steadily declined. Typing accuracy improved up to age 32, and afterward showed no decline.

The biggest surprise, though, were the findings for typing speed and verbal comprehension. These abilities not only improved with advancing age but never slackened off at all.

In fact the oldest group tested, average age 52, scored the highest of any in both tests.

Minor City Accident Leads to a Big Howl

A Pontiac policeman investigating a minor accident Saturday night ended up recovering three stolen automobiles and chasing six suspects.

Patrolman Joseph W. Gallardo, 25, answered a call about 9 p.m. at 22 Chapman, where he found a 1967 sedan lodged against the front porch of the home.

No sooner had Gallardo checked and found the car to be stolen, when a second car coming toward him near Bagley Street screeched to a halt.

Three men leaped out and started running.

Gallardo chased the trio in his car for two blocks, when a third automobile braked to a stop as he approached the intersection of Bagley and Diston.

IGNORE SHOTS

Three men jumped from that car and also fled, Gallardo said, ignoring six warning shots from the policeman's service revolver.

All three cars involved had been taken in a break-in Sunday at Jerome Motor Sales, 675 S. Saginaw.

Two other cars are still missing.

'Gimmicks' Blasted

Pickets Out at Area Store

By United Press International

Marching picketers continued their fight for lower food prices in Michigan during the weekend — but continued to have little success in affecting food prices for deterring customers.

Mrs. Joseph Szereemet of 758 Otter, Keego Harbor, led a protest march at a new supermarket in Keego Harbor Saturday.

She told a state legislative investigating committee last week games conducted by supermarkets are contributing factors in rising food prices.

Mrs. Szereemet said she considered "elimination of these gimmicks a necessity to lower food prices." And she added that the picketing would continue until "something is done to lower food prices."

She began her campaign three weeks ago.

ANOTHER PROTEST

Another group marched between food baskets in Windsor, Ont., on Saturday in a protest against rising food prices.

Neither protest seemed to have much effect on the stores' business or food prices.

The managers of both stores reported that the picketing wasn't hurting their business.

"It's helping a bit," said one manager. "We get loads of free publicity."

MORE OF SAME

And more of the same is scheduled to begin this week.

Mrs. Jennie Blanchard expects some 50 female shoppers to picket a new market in Wayne, a Detroit suburb.

"Most shoppers agree that prices are too high, but only some will picket," she said.

'Open Door'

Policy Ends
for Lavatories

Now they're up, now they're down — now they're up.

And the doors to lavatory rooms at Clarkson High School may be up for good.

In an experiment designed to give them better supervision of two first floor lavatories, school officials took the doors off last Friday.

However, over the weekend they decided to put the doors up again, according to Principal Milford Mason.

Protesting Friday's experiment, about a dozen students picketed outside the high school this morning until told by Mason that the doors were up.

Mason said school officials were trying to correct a smoking problem and felt that open doors would discourage students from smoking inside the lavatories.

Even with the doors off, retaining walls prevented anyone from seeing inside the lavatories, observed school officials.

City Man Hurt

Bawls Her Way to Stardom

Bawls Her Way to Freedom

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — There's a new girl around, Judi West, with an old story... but with a modern switch... this poor soul would dance from Chicago went for an audition on Broadway, and since everything in the world had turned against her, all she did was bawl.

"I was very upset," Judi was telling me. "I wasn't getting any job. Nothing was opening up."

"My personal manager Si Maslow asked me, 'Do you want to read for something?' I said, 'What?' I had auditioned for 'Bijou' and I didn't get that."

"It was for the national company of 'After the Fall.' I was so depressed, it was this thing happening in my life, I'd start reading something and I'd start to bawl. Then they asked me what I'd done on the stage and I said 'Nothing,' and I started to cry again. It was this turmoil."

Arthur Miller, the playwright, must have been attracted by that cascade of tears.

Even though she was a brunette, he approved her for the Marilyn Monroe part but, curiously, never told her how to play it—in fact, when she undertook to wear a blonde wig, Miller disapproved.

"I made my head look too big, she says. Miller merely told her to follow her instincts.

"I was afraid the reviewers, especially in Los Angeles, would kill us. A lady screamed 'S.O.B., S.O.B.' I froze on the bed. But the reviewers were so good it was amazing."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Joan Rivers recalls that she met Queen Elizabeth last summer. "Knowing her only from stamps, my first impulse was to lick the back of her head."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Page Morton described the Los Angeles smog problem: "It's the only city that has windshield wipers on shopping carts."
