Zero Cold Wave Follows Storms Across Plains

By UNITED PRESS

A zero cold wave threatening new blizzard swept today toward storm-battered mountain and Great Plains states.

Yukon air from Canada was expected to drop temperatures to 10 degrees below zero in much of Montana, Wyoming and Colorado today and tomorrow.

In addition, a storm of blizzard intensity was expected to be raking eastern Montana by dawn today.

The cold wave was expected to sweep eastward in the path of a devastating weekend blizzard which piled drifts 20 feet high and left 43 persons dead and another missing and feared dead.

Warnings of zero temperatures, plus snow and whipping winds, were issued for parts of the Dakotas and Nebraska.

Meanwhile, the eastern and southern parts of the nation also got a taste of winter's lash.

Heavy rains pelted the Southland, dumping 2.06 inches of moisture on Jackson, Miss., and 1.91 inches on Nashville, Tenn., over a 24-hour period.

Thick fog shrouded Pittsburgh, Pa., an inch of snow hit Indianapolis, Ind., and Findlay, Ohio, and freezing rain mixed with sleet was predicted for much of Ohio and Kentucky.

The western cold wave threatened to make the job of digging out from last weekend's blizzard all the tougher in the Great Plains and Midwest.

Income Tax Cut Near Vote Despite Protests

increase in the unbalance, plus the fact that we haven't got an imminent threat of unemployment now.

George and others sponsored the proposal last year as a spur to spending at a time when the country was in a minor economic recession.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), Finance Committee chairman, is opposed to any tax cut while the budget is unbalanced. The administration estimates the deficit for the 1956 fiscal year which begins July 1 will total 2.4 billion dollars.

Humphrey spent three hours with the committee behind closed doors and vigorously opposed the proposal while urging continuation of the excise and corporation taxes.

After leaving the committee, he denounced the proposed income tax cut as "completely contrary to the public interest."

Sen. Daniel A. Reed of New York, the committee's top-ranking Republican member, said the action "by the Democratic members of the committee clearly demonstrates that they place politics above the nation's security."

Conant Tells Adenauer About Talks in U.S.

BONN, Germany (UP)—U.S. High Commissioner James B. Conant called on West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today to report on his two-week visit to the United States.

Conant arrived back in Germany Sunday. While in the United States he conferred with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles about the political situation in Germany.

Bill Introduced to Amend Veterans' Homestead Act

A bill aimed at making one-year tax exemptions on homes available to about 25,000 more Michigan veterans was introduced at Lansing today by Pontiac's State Representative Leslie H. Hudson (D).

The measure would amend the Veterans Homestead Act which now provides tax exemptions on war veterans' homes while they are in service and for one year after their honorable discharge.

"The catch is they have to apply with their local assessing officer for that additional one year within 12 months after discharge," said Hudson.

"My amendment would give a five-year period to claim the one-year, post-discharge exemption."

"It would allow many veterans to come under the law who are now knocked out because they didn't know about it, weren't able to build or buy a home within a year, or weren't married at discharge and had no reason to own a home."

"If boys are granted the exemption who had a home while in service, those who didn't should be allowed time to benefit from the provision."

Williams' Men Win in Detroit

Two Court Appointees Lead Voting; Hubbard Also Nominated

DETROIT (UP)—Two Wayne County Circuit Court appointees named by Gov. Williams were given a resounding vote of confidence yesterday as voters went to the polls to pick candidates for the April election.

Two judges will be elected from the four candidates selected from an eight-man field in Monday's light primary voting. Stormy Mayor Orville Hubbard of Dearborn was fourth on the slate, following the two Williams appointees and County Clerk Edgar M. Branigan.

In Grand Rapids, veteran politician George W. Welsh may be bowing out soon as city manager, with the election to the city commission of two men openly opposed to the colorful 71-year-old official.

And in Detroit, Wade H. McCree, the first Negro ever to sit on the Wayne bench, far outdistanced the rest of the field. With only 44 of the county's 1,956 precincts unreported he had amassed more than 72,000 votes.

Second was Theodore R. Bohn, a labor lawyer who like McCree was appointed to the bench recently by Gov. Williams.

In the nearly complete returns, Bohn had 43,203 votes, Branigan 36,326 and Hubbard 34,051. Hubbard's total was nearly 3,000 more than that of his closest rival, Harry J. Dingeman Jr. There appeared little likelihood of any change in the standings.

Incumbents led the fields in races for common pleas court, Wayne County auditor and Detroit Board of Education.

In East Grand Rapids, John A. Collins, mayor for 22 years, was replaced by Donald W. O'Keefe, a city commissioner. Collins long has been a power on the Kent County Board of Supervisors.

Diamond Hearing Set for March 2

A hearing on a petition which asked the juvenile waiver of confessed killer Floyd Diamond, 16, of Farmington Township, has been set for March 2 before Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore.

James W. Hunt, director of the state's juvenile services, told the Press today that mental tests of the youth and a complete investigation into his past would be completed by the hearing date.

Meanwhile, with statements from five persons yesterday, Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem began preparing his case on the petition in an attempt to have young Diamond tried as an adult. Ziem said additional statements are scheduled to be made by four others before the hearing.

Tigers Sign On Porter, Bringing Team Up to 40

DETROIT (UP)—The Detroit Tigers announced today signing of outfielder-catcher J. W. Porter, a rookie returning from the armed services for whom they recently refused a $100,000 offer by the Chicago White Sox.

Signing of Porter today and pitcher Frank Lary yesterday brought to 40 the number signed by the Tigers. Only five others scheduled to train with Detroit are outside the fold, and only pitcher Billy Hoelt among them is a regular.

Solon Hints Matusow Story May Be Communist Plot

WASHINGTON (UP)—Harvey Matusow, terming himself a reformed "perpetual and habitual liar," faces more questioning today by senators probing his story that he had falsely branded hundreds of persons as Communists or pro-Reds.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee heard three hours of testimony by Matusow yesterday. Chairman Eastland (D-Miss.) later told reporters he thinks the subcommittee is tackling something "deeper seated than just this witness."

"I think he's part of a plan—a part of a shrewd scheme to get some folks who have been convicted out of trouble," Eastland said. He said that "of course" he meant 13 second-rank Communist leaders convicted of conspiracy.

Two Cousins, 11, Nabbed in Deraiment Attempts

DETROIT (UP)—Police today held two 11-year-old cousins who they said were caught trying to derail New York Central passenger trains "just for the thrill of it."

The boys were caught yesterday by railroad detectives and sheriff's deputies who said they watched them place steel tie plates, spikes and connecting plates on tracks a mile west of Wayne County General Hospital.

NYC police said engine crews had reported hitting objects on the tracks in the area in the last two weeks.

Fourth R—Returns

NEW YORK (UP)—The three school R's are moving over to make room for another one—"returns." As though it won't come soon enough anyway, the Internal Revenue Service has developed courses for the city's high schools to teach students how to file income tax returns.

Local units are reimbursed for tax exemptions granted by the state, he added.

Veterans qualifying under the proposed amendment would still receive only the one year's tax exemption. They could not receive further exemptions for the time spent in service when they did not own a home.

Wildcat Strike Ends

Patterson Murder Trial Awaits Judge's Word on New Testimony

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—State attorneys waited for a trial judge to decide today whether they can produce new testimony to bolster a witness' story that Albert Fuller fled the scene of A. L. Patterson's murder.

Circuit Judge J. Russell McElroy promised a decision today, the seventh day of Fuller's trial for killing the Alabama attorney general nominee.

The prosecution sought to show that the state's key witness, cab driver James R. Taylor, of Columbus, Ga., didn't wait until a $10,000 reward had been posted before volunteering his story.

Taylor said he saw Fuller speed away in a waiting car shortly after Patterson was slain at Phenix City last June 18.

Rather, the state promised to prove, if given a chance, that Taylor radioed his cab company office a short time after the shooting that "Albert Fuller did it."

Defense attorneys tried to bring out that the witness said nothing until after the reward had been offered by the state. They said testimony about the radio message to the cab company was inadmissible as evidence.

Fuller, former chief deputy sheriff at Phenix City, is one of three defendants charged with Patterson's murder.

Asks Congress to OK Highway Program

gram by special bond issues. . . rather than by an increase in general revenue obligations."

He said he thought these bonds should be paid off through "increasing revenues from present gas and diesel oil taxes, augmented in limited instances with tolls."

That was the President's only reference to toll roads.

Eisenhower also said: "A sound federal highway program, I believe, can and should stand on its own feet, with highway users providing the total dollars necessary for improvement and new construction."

Under the Eisenhower program, the federal government would pay about 31 1/4 billion dollars of the contemplated 101 billion of expenditures.

Eisenhower said he was forwarding to Congress the Clay report and that he would send along shortly a survey of highway needs now being completed by the bureau of public roads. These reports, he said, "provide a solid foundation for a sound program."

On the other hand, the President said, "inexplicably the vastness of the highway enterprise fosters varieties of proposals which must be resolved into a national highway pattern."

Eisenhower listed "the preliminary 10 year totals of needs" as the following:

Interstate networks, joining 90 per cent of all cities over 50,000 population—23 billion dollars.

Primary system, connecting all principal cities and manufacturing areas—30 billion dollars.

Secondary system, including farm-to-market roads—15 billion dollars.

Other streets and roads including urban feeder streets—33 billion dollars.

Of this sum, the federal government would put up 25 billion for the interstate system, 5 1/4 billion for primary and secondary roads, 750 million for urban streets and 225 million for national forest highways.

The apparent discrepancy between the proposed federal government's 25 billion expenditure for the interstate network and the figure of 23 billion for work cost is a bookkeeping matter.

Part of the federal money would go into urban access roads. With state money, the actual total, including the access roads, for the interstate network would be 27 billion dollars.

The President's message said the interstate system should "be given top priority in construction planning."

Eisenhower noted that the Clay committee had recommended that the federal government continue giving aid to primary and secondary road systems on a 50-50 matching basis with the states at the level called for in highway legislation enacted by Congress last year.

Sen. Chavez (D-NM) left the meeting saying the administration program was "so full of holes it might sink in Congress." Chavez heads the Senate Public Works Committee which handles highway legislation.

Figueres added, however, that he would send his foreign minister to any meeting arranged "because that would be impersonal."

He voiced his stand to newsmen last night a few hours after Nixon arrived here from Nicaragua on his Caribbean good tour.

The vice president told correspondents aboard his plane en route he had obtained Somoza's solemn assurance that he would work for peace with Costa Rica.

The two presidents have long been at odds. Costa Rica recently crushed a rebellion which a peace commission for the Organization of American States said received men and arms from Nicaragua. Somoza denied supporting the revolt. In turn, he charged Costa Rica with sparking an attempt last year to assassinate him. Figueres denied that.

them kept in jail until the celebration is over. He issued a pickup order for those who were released on bond before the decision to keep them in jail was made.

At one time members of the mob hurled burning, balled-up newspapers into passing cars and buses. The dangerous practice only came to a stop when the pranksters were warned that the game could set fire to the famed historic quarters.

The main trouble began when a crowd of celebrators protested the arrest of a student accused of being a car thief.

Five youths had grabbed Lawrence Morrison, 18, of Arlington, Va., and accused him of trying to break into their car.

Patrolman Roger Leoncavella took Morrison into custody and called a patrol wagon. Then Morrison began to scream his innocence.

A crowd quickly jammed the scene on St. Peter street, between Royal and Bourbon streets.

Leoncavella put out a riot call, but by the time reinforcements arrived, fights were springing up everywhere.

Police, trying to quell the rioters, were bombarded with assorted missiles, one was bitten, and another kicked in the groin.

Police said they would have more men on duty today and that they would seek jail sentences for arrested rioters as deterrents against further wild disturbances.

Today the Mardi Gras will be highlighted by a series of parades beginning at 9 a.m. (CST), and will end at midnight with spectacular Mardi Gras balls.

Lincoln Park Man Struck by Car Dies

BIRMINGHAM—The city's first fatal accident of the year and the first pedestrian fatality since August, 1951 occurred this morning when Leo Jolley, of 23175 W. 14 Mile Rd., was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

Jolley, about 65, was struck by a car driven by James H. Hamilton, 37, of Lincoln Park, while crossing Woodward avenue at Chapin. Hamilton, who told police Jolley stepped in front of his auto, was released pending further investigation.

Balloting Light as Townships, Cities Hold Primaries

Dorcas Tibbals Unseats Helen H. Reese in Waterford; Anderson Retains Place

Balloting was generally light yesterday as voters in 13 townships, two villages and four cities of Oakland County went to the polls to select candidates for the April 4 election.

The number of residents who turned out to cast ballots was a small percentage of the eligible registered voters, except in areas with close races for party positions on the ballot.

Contests were held on both the Democratic and Republican slates in Waterford, Springfield, Pontiac, Novi, White Lake, Avon and Troy Townships.

Waterford Township
In perhaps the biggest upset in the county, incumbent Republican Waterford Township Treasurer Mrs. Helen H. Reese lost her party's place on the ballot to a political newcomer, Mrs. Dorcas Tibbals, 672-654.

Mrs. Reese was completing her eighth year in office, serving her fourth term. Mrs. Dorcas Tibbals worked in the supervisor's office on the tax roll until her resignation Dec. 1. Previously she worked for the county treasurer's office.

Carter, 381; Howard Sumnerville, 360; Clayton Sencrante, 374, and Harlan Thayer, 368.

Avon Township
In Republican voting, Elmer LeBlond and Earl W. Dean won the two trustee nominations with 260 and 238, over Leslie A. Hopkins, 133 and E. E. Ludwig, 177 in the only contested race.

Incumbent Supervisor Cyril E. Miller polled 374 votes; Clerk Frances O. Covert, 377; Treasurer Helen V. Allen, 372; board of review member Harold E. Weaver, 324; Justice of the Peace Luther C. In Democratic party voting Roy L. Duncan took the supervisor's nomination from William G. Lampros, 404 to 150, while Harold M. Brown secured the clerk's ballot place by polling 219 votes to defeat Marvin W. Kuschnick, 137; Ester Griffin, 33, Frances Jo Curtis, 160.

Seeking the post of trustee, William Stachiw with 281 was the low man of five seeking nomination. Assured of places on the spring ballot were Henry O. Biroth, 307; Leonard M. Fandale, 377; William R. Jenkins, 437, and Gerald L. Scodfield, 387.

In the constable race, Robert D. Harley, 380, Barbara Nightmyer, 348, Victor E. Schade Sr., 341, and Thomas H. Tucker, 436, won, and Robert Selsowicz was out with 63 votes.

Rundell, 175 and Edmund Horton, 169, took the trustee posts, leaving Gerald L. Mereneas behind with 111, and Howard F. Chanter defeated Ralph E. Five Bay City Students Visiting Waterford High WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—Five students from Bay City's rural Handy High School are attending school this week at Waterford Township High School as part of a student exchange program.

Visiting here are Linda Coons, senior, and Robert Freed, June Adair, Ross Roeder and Barbara Finner, juniors.

They are the house guests of the five local students who visit them two weeks ago—Gail Bennett, Janet Hudson, Judith Koch, Robert Hope, and James Faxon.

The five arrived Sunday afternoon and were lected at a reception that evening at the Drayton Woods home of Gail Bennett. They were honored at a second reception Monday in the teachers' lounge, immediately after school.

The week's extra-curricular activities include a basketball game at Milford tonight, a student council affairs committee meeting tomorrow, Youth Night at the C&I building Thursday, and several individual events.

Unlike the Waterford exchanges, who were nominated by their home-room classmates and then screened by the student council and faculty advisers, the visiting delegates volunteered and were then selected by their student council on the basis of scholarship, personality and character.

Handy High School has much the same enrollment as Waterford and most of its students are transported by bus so the students have many things in common.

The exchange project here was fostered by the student council with Howard Bennetts as faculty adviser.

Plan Highway for Avon Area

Two Proposals Outlined at Rochester Meeting; Revisions to Be Drafted

ROCHESTER—The Oakland-Avon-Rochester Planning Commission and the Oakland County Area Planning Commission will work closely together in perfecting a plan for a proposed thoroughfare in Avon Township, Robert A. Slone, Rochester village manager and member of the Avon-Rochester commission said today.

Two plans for a highway were discussed at a meeting of the Avon-Rochester group last week. David Geer, consultant for the group, presented a revised plan allowing an alternate route to bypass Rochester village.

George Skrubbs and Robert Larson of the Oakland County commission also presented a plan for the highway, along much the same lines as Geer's. Larson reviewed the present traffic flow on major highways in the area and the projected flow for 1975, illustrating his analysis with maps and statistics.

The two planning commissions will work together in the future, Slone said, to produce the best possible plan for regulating traffic through the whole area.

The Avon Rochester commission resolved to send a letter to Oakland County Planning Commission, signifying its agreement on the general proposal for the area highway, and expressing its desire to continue with the thoroughfare plan.

Voters to Settle Power Struggle

Chicago Democrats to Determine Who Wields Party Strength

CHICAGO (U)—A spirited struggle for Chicago's Democratic party leadership went to the voters today.

The balloting in the city's municipal primary will determine whether Mayor Martin H. Kennelly or the 50-member board of Democratic ward committeemen wields the real power of the party in Chicago.

The election will decide which candidates will represent both Democratic and Republican parties in the April 5 election for mayor, city clerk and city treasurer. It will also select most, and perhaps all, members of the 30-man City Council.

Spotlighted is the contest of Mayor Kennelly, Cook County Clerk

MSC, UM Eye Name Problem

Hannah, Hatcher Agree to Ask Joint Group to Study Proposal

LANSING (U)—Presidents of the University of Michigan and Michigan State College are considering a joint approach to MSC's desire to change its name.

President Harlan Hatcher of the University of Michigan and President John A. Hannah of MSC agreed to ask their boards of control to set up committees to study the proposal. The agreement followed a meeting of the Council of College Presidents.

Hatcher said he would ask the Board of Regents to consider setting up such a committee at its meeting this Friday.

"If a name can be found that doesn't conflict with the university's, I don't think the university will object," Hatcher said.

Hatcher said he couldn't speak for the board, but predicted members would be "very happy" to discuss the name change with the board of Agriculture, MSC governing body.

"But I think it's senseless to introduce this controversy in the midst of all the big problems we have in higher education," he added.

Rep. John J. McCune has proposed legislation to give MSC university status.

A similar bill was introduced last year, but withdrawn. The university contended the name "Michigan State University" would lead to confusion.

The council yesterday took no action on a proposal to change the names of the state normal colleges.

Five Oakland County men will take part in discussions of current problems during the fifth annual Detroit Metropolitan Regional Planning and Zoning Conference Thursday and Friday in the Veterans Memorial Bldg., Detroit.

Drain Commissioner Ralph A. Main will be a member of the panel discussing water, sewers and drainage. On the school problems panel will be Clifford H. Smart, superintendent of Walled Lake Consolidated Schools.

Hiland M. Thatcher, supervisor of West Bloomfield Township, will take part in discussions of traffic and parking.

Finds Rewards Are Too Costly

Small Dramatic Role Follows Jobs as Clerk, Hostess, Fund Solicitor

NEW YORK (UP)—Do you feel that you're a talented young actress and simply must come to New York to give big-time television the privilege of making a star of you?

"Don't do it," is the advice of Joan Chambers, a regular on TV's "Portia Faces Life" series. She speaks from experience.

This is not sour grapes in Joan's case. True, she isn't a star, but she has regular TV employment at a nice salary and, in addition, gets roles in TV plays quite frequently.

"But if I had it to do over again," said the blonde actress, "I wouldn't. And my advice to any girl with ideas of coming to New York for TV break is—stay home."

"I've done fairly well, but it isn't worth it."

Here's how Joan's saga runs:

She got the TV acting bug in her home town of Charlevoix, Pa., several years ago. With the blessing of her widowed mother, she set out by bus with $67. It sounds like a soap opera situation, but she actually landed here on a New Year's Eve, almost broke, and found that old friends she had expected to contact were no longer around.

The first necessity was to earn enough to buy food and lodging. She lasted three weeks in a department store as a mail order clerk. She had trouble keeping the figures straight. There followed a brief term as a restaurant waitress which did her figure no good because there was too much food available.

It looked like she was on the way to getting a start in acting when she had a chance to join a summer stock company in New York State to get some experience, but she director got too personal and she left after a week.

No television work came her way, so she took a $10-a-day job parading Fifth Avenue with a tin box collecting funds for Palestine. Next came a job as hostess in a restaurant where she found a kindred soul in Everett Chambers, a soda jerk, who also had the TV gleam in his eye. They tried to help each other get television jobs, and finally Joan got her first break.

A dramatic program needed a girl with long straight blond hair. There were a lot of blondes available, but Joan seemed to be the only one with the required length to her tresses. This length was necessary because she was to play a corpse on a living room rug, with her hair fanned out dramatically.

After that other jobs began to come her way, and Chambers also got a break. Today he is casting director for "Mr. Peepers."

"When Everett says I've done a good job on a show, I feel that nothing else matters," Joan said. "I don't care much what anyone else says."

She hopes to make further progress as a television actress, but she's not aiming for the moon. Her marriage is more important to her.

"It's been an interesting experience," she concluded, "but if I had known what was in store for me, I'd never have had the courage to try it. As a general rule, the results aren't satisfactory payment for the struggle involved."

Senator Smith Praises Morale of Nationalists

MANILA (UP)—Sen. Smith (R-Maine) arrived from Taipei (R-Maine) today with praise for the morale of Chinese Nationalist troops on Formosa.

She will call on President Mag-saysay tomorrow, and leave for Bangkok that night.

Jeff Caffery Resigning

Dean of Diplomats Joined Corps in 1911 'for a Lark'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Jefferson Caffery joined America's career diplomatic service "for a lark" and stayed on for 44 years.

He is retiring on Feb. 28, after serving in most of the world's hot spots and coming close to death "only twice," as he puts it.

Today at 68, Caffery looks like only a slightly mellowed version of the adventure seeking youngster who quit Louisiana plantation life in 1911 to roam the globe.

Spare of build, he wears his clothes jauntily, combs his full iron-gray head of hair firmly back and speaks in the guarded tones of the diplomat. But a twinkle in his eyes seems to say he doesn't take himself too seriously.

"Why did I join the foreign service? I guess because I had nothing better to do. Looking back on it now, there's nothing better I could have done."

In these words he recalled the decision which led him on March 2, 1911, to forsake the riding-fishing-hunting existence of a plantation squire for service with the State Department. William Howard Taft was President then and Philander C. Knox was secretary of state.

Caffery's most recent post was as ambassador to Egypt. But his total service reads like a listing of U. S. missions around the globe. He is the dean of the U. S. corps and has held the rank of ambassador longer than any other—20 years.

Caffery, witty and courtly, has a reputation as a student of patient, old style diplomacy. But he has no ready definition for such diplomacy.

"Getting things done," he said in an interview. "That's about all it amounts to. How is it done? You just play it by ear."

He declined to discuss his latest diplomatic achievement—helping to settle the British-Egyptian dispute over the Suez Canal bases. He was permitted to stay on nearly three years beyond the retirement age in order to help reach that settlement.

"You know, it's hard to quit," he confessed. "But if you must, it's better to quit while you're winning."

He did consent to sketch in an account of his two brushes with death. Both of them are connected with the Roman Catholic religion which he follows with devotion.

"The first time was in Paris in 1918," he recollected. "It was Good Friday. I was going to church but when I got to the door I looked at my watch.

"I saw I would not have time to visit church because I had an appointment at the embassy. I turned away and, just as I got to the subway, I heard a terrific explosion. They told me later at the embassy that Big Bertha, the German cannon, had dropped a shell on the church."

Caffery said his other near miss was more personal. It happened in Havana, Cuba, in 1934 when Cuban politics were particularly uproarious.

"I had gotten threatening letters so I had a guard," he said. "It was Sunday morning and I came down to my car at the usual time to go to mass."

"But I discovered I had left my missal (a prayer book for following the mass) in my apartment. I went back and soon heard a lot of shooting."

"Downstairs, a black touring car had passed by and, Chicago style, had riddled my car with submachine gun bullets. They killed my guard."

Caffery was born Dec. 1, 1886, at Lafayette in the heart of Louisiana's Evangeline country. It is beautiful land, full of tall oaks, streaming wisps of Spanish moss. The riding, fishing and hunting are always good.

As the son of a wealthy and aristocratic family, Caffery could have lived out his days in well protected leisure. He tried it for a few years after he graduated from Tulane University at New Orleans in 1906.

By 1909 he had read enough law to pass an oral examination. Still unsatisfied, he went to Washington and into the foreign service in 1911.

He was married comparatively recently to the former Gertrude McCarthy, of Indiana. The date was Nov. 20, 1937.

Caffery said he plans to visit Indiana before going to his Lafayette home in April. He is not sure where he will live thereafter all his plans for the future are rather vague. He expects to write a book and, in fact, has three publishers after him now.
