Film Censoring Unconstitutional

Supreme Court Bases Decision on Guarantee of Free Speech

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Supreme Court held in a surprise decision today that motion picture censorship boards operating under authority of six states and about 50 cities are unconstitutional.

The high court unanimously ruled that the "free speech" guarantee of the Constitution permits the movies to "publish" or show their product free of censorship, but at the risk of criminal penalties if they have violated the law.

The motion picture industry has based its argument on the fact that uncensored distribution of newspapers, magazines and radio and television programs is permitted, while only the movies were singled out for scrutiny in advance.

The six states having movie censorship laws are New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Ohio and Kansas. Ordinances requiring censorship have been passed by many of the leading cities in other states.

Today's decision came in an unusual form. A brief order was handed down reversing the judgments of lower courts that had upheld censorship.

Today's decision came in an un-hinged down reversing the judgment in the usual sense. Justice William O. Douglas filed an opinion which concurred with the court's views, and Justice Hugo Black noted that he agreed with the Douglas opinion.

Douglas said, "The argument of Ohio and New York that the government may establish censorship over motion pictures is one I cannot accept."

He continued: "Certainly a system, still in force in some nations, which required a newspaper to submit to a board its news items, editorials and cartoons before it published them could not be sustained."

Meetings Slated in West Berlin for First Week

Compromise Calls for Next Round of Talks in Eastern Sector

BERLIN (AP) — Experts for the Big Four set to work today to plan security and housekeeping details of the Berlin foreign ministers conference.

A compromise last night on sites for the session assured that the parley will open on schedule next Monday.

The American, British, French and Russian commanders of the divided city appointed deputies to meet late today to work out detailed arrangements for the conference on German unity and the Austrian peace treaty.

Orders from their home governments ended 10 days of wrangling over the conference site. The three Western military chiefs and Soviet Commandant — Sergei — Dengin agreed last night that the ministers will meet for one week — the second — in the Soviet Embassy in East Berlin, and for the first and third weeks in the building in the American sector formerly used by the Allied Control Council.

Thereafter, a communique, said, "the place of meetings will depend upon the course of the conference."

The Russians at first had demanded that half the meetings, including the opening session, be held in East Berlin. The West sought at first to hold only one fourth of the meetings in the East.

"Let the Russians have a tiny triumph if that is what they regard it to be," one Allied spokesman said. "We believe that the main point is to get around the table on Germany and Austria and see if some international agreement can be found."

The agreement dispelled fears that the Russians would monkey-wrench the conference before it even started unless they could secure the prestige of launching it in their own back yard.

The "Little Four" deputies now will determine the makeup of the conference secretariat, arrange for communications and security, and decide on policies for handling the 1,000 or so men and women of the international press corps about to descend on the city.

Clouds Threaten Pontiac's View of Moon Eclipse

Chances are that cloudy skies and freezing drizzle will block out Pontiac's view when the moon goes into a total eclipse tonight at 9:17.

But if the eclipse is visible, the best place to watch it is from your own front yard, according to William Schultz, associate in astronomical education at Bloomfield Institute.

Schultz said the celestial show will start at 8:40 when the moon moves into the earth's outer shadow, the penumbra.

One hour and 10 minutes later the moon will enter the core of the earth's shadow, the umbra, and the moon will turn a coppery red, reflecting light passing around the earth.

At 9:47, the moon will leave the umbra and by 12:47 the eclipse will be over.

HARRY A. MAURER

Ex-Clerk of City Dies at Age 86

Was Official in Pontiac for 26 Years; Service to Be Wednesday

Pontiac city clerk for over 26 years, previous to his retirement in 1947, Harry A. Maurer, 86, of 167 Cherokee Rd., died Sunday at Bloomfield Hospital.

His last illness covered a period of six weeks and he had been at the hospital the past month.

Born near Altoona, Pa., on Oct. 4, 1867, he was the son of George and Eliza McCartney Maurer, and his early years were spent on their farm. His education was secured in the rural and Altoona schools, and in a business college there.

He taught school for a couple of years and then spent 25 years in railroad, first in the motor power department of the Pennsylvania line for seven years and then in the accounting department of the Big Four line at Cincinnati for 18 years.

Mr. Maurer came to Pontiac in 1911 and for the next 10 years was secretary and general accountant for the Hess Pontiac Spring and Axle Co.

On Jan. 17, 1921 he was appointed city clerk, and retired from that position on May 15, 1947. He was the second man to be named clerk under the commission form of city government.

He served under 17 mayors, 49 commissioners and nine city managers. On his retirement he could give the names of all of them and in their consecutive order.

Holding this important city office through more than a quarter century of Pontiac's greatest development, Mr. Maurer always was regarded as a courteous and obliging public official.

He recalled 1930 as being his most exciting year as city clerk. At that time an attempt was made to recall four of the commissioners. It failed, but the usual serene and unflustered clerk had to battle with petitions which he said were often a foot high, and "everyone was hurling accusations at everyone else."

On June 18, 1894, Mr. Maurer was married to Elsie M. Gearhart at Altoona, Pa., who survives him. He also leaves two daughters, Mrs. Martha Covert and Mrs. Jeannette Harvey, both of Pontiac; a brother, L. W. Maurer of El Paso, Texas; three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian church. Fraternally he was a member of Pontiac Pythian Lodge, No. 19, and honorary member of Pontiac Masonic Lodge, No. 21.

Service will be held at the Grace Funeral Home at two o'clock Wednesday. The Rev. W. H. Marbach will officiate. With burial in Perry Mount Park Cemetery.

Mother, Twins Killed as Auto Skids in Snow

Crashes Into Oncoming Car on M59, Injuring 4 Other Persons

A 35-year-old mother and her twin sons were killed on M-59 Saturday night when their car skidded on the snow-covered pavement and crashed head-on into another car.

Dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital were Mrs. Edna June Sallada of 667 E. Grand Traverse, near Milford, and her 9-year-old sons, Jerry and Garry.

The car driven by her husband, Edward, 37, skidded out of control east of Hill road and slid sideways into the front of an auto driven by Charles E. Lowe, 21, of 2843 Midvale, Birmingham.

Lowe and his two passengers, Raymond E. Dibble, 50, of 3658 Samuel, Rochester, and Dibble's 21-year-old son, Phillip, were injured. They were returning from ice fishing at Duck Lake when the accident occurred.

The elder Dibble is reported in critical condition with leg, skull and arm fractures, and face cuts.

His son was admitted with multiple face cuts and severe back injuries, and Sallada, a Pontiac Motor Division employee, suffered possible internal injuries, and rib fractures.

He taught school for a couple of years and then spent 25 years in railroad, first in the motor power department of the Pennsylvania line for seven years and then in the accounting department of the Big Four line at Cincinnati for 18 years.

Boston Gets Insulted, Asks Army Apology

BOSTON (U)—The Pentagon has 24 hours to apologize to the residents of South Boston—or else an invitation for armed services troops to participate in the March 17 Evacuation Day parade will be withdrawn.

Chief Parade Marshal Patrick F. Sheehan demanded the apology last night after Army officials announced no troops would parade in South Boston unless all the liquor places in the district are closed.

Army officials said soldiers and sailors were the targets of eggs, vegetables and stones during the parade last year.

South Boston residents observe St. Patrick's Day and Evacuation Day in a joint celebration each March 17.

Benson Wants OK to Use Farm Surpluses Abroad

WASHINGTON (INS) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson said today President Eisenhower will ask Congress for authority to use one billion dollars worth of government-owned farm surpluses for strengthening "the economies of friendly countries."

Benson outlined the three-year plan before the Senate Agriculture Committee as he began his uphill fight on behalf of the President's flexible farm price support program submitted a week ago today.

The secretary said Eisenhower will make his request for permission to channel surplus food and fiber into foreign aid programs when he sends his budget message to Capitol Hill on Thursday.

Benson said 300 million dollars will be asked to launch the operation during the 1955 fiscal year beginning July 1.

The plan is similar to one now being carried out by the Foreign Operations Administration under which U. S. farm products are sold abroad for local currencies then utilized in various mutual security programs.

The Eisenhower plan, however, would limit the program to those farm products owned by the government's Commodity Credit Corp., which now has $5,000,000,000 tied up in the price support program.

Turning to the administration's controversial proposal for flexible price supports, Benson said: "Flexible supports will encourage better balanced production and consequently higher average farm income than the present system of fixed supports."

Only Wants Aid by Government, Not Socialized

Expansion of Program for Disabled Is Also Called Necessary

WASHINGTON (A P) — President Eisenhower proposed today that the government bolster private insurance plans as a step toward bettering the health of all Americans.

In a special message to Congress, Eisenhower asked for 25 million dollars to start a system of government re-insurance of private plans, to help take care of extraordinary expenses beyond those now covered.

The President also proposed a five-year plan for expansion of the program for rehabilitation of the disabled.

Under it a total of 660,000 disabled persons would be returned "to places of full responsibility as actively working citizens."

Eisenhower's plan "rejecting the socialization of medicine," also called for a continuation of present public health service programs, by a new, simplified formula for grants-in-aid to the states for health purposes, and a stepped up program of construction of medical care facilities.

The President told Congress the total private medical bill of the nation now exceeds nine billion dollars a year—an average of nearly $200 a family—and still is rising.

He said the emphasis in dealing with the problem must remain essentially on private care, but that the government can and must help. "Freedom, consent, and individual responsibility are fundamental to our system," he said.

"In the field of medical care this means that the traditional relationship of the physician and his patient, and the right of the individual to elect freely the manner of his care in illness, must be preserved."

"In adhering to this principle and rejecting the socialization of medicine, we can still confidently commit ourselves to certain national health goals."

"One such goal is that the means for achieving good health should be accessible to all. A person's location, occupation, age, race, creed or financial status should not harm him from enjoying this access."

Today's special message was the fourth Eisenhower has sent to Congress to fill in the details of the broad administration program which he outlined in his Jan. 7 state of the union report.

The President told the lawmakers:

"Even where the best in medical care is available, its costs are often a serious burden. Major, long-term illness can become a financial catastrophe for a normal American family."

He praised existing private hospitalization and medical care insurance plans, and said progress made in that field "indicate that these voluntary organizations can reach many more people and provide better and broader benefits."

Ike Would Bolster Health Insurance

Eisenhower said the government need not and should not go into the insurance business to furnish the protection which private and nonprofit organizations now provide.

"But the government," the President added, "can and should work with them to study and devise better insurance protection to meet the public need."

"I recommend the establishment of a limited federal re-insurance service to encourage private and nonprofit health insurance organizations to offer broader health protection to more families. This service would re-insure the special additional risks involved in such broader protection. It can be launched with a capital fund of 25 million dollars provided by the government, to be retired from re-insurance fees."

Although Eisenhower did not go into detail on what he meant by "re-insurance," he apparently had in mind something along the general idea of the system by which the government insures bank depositors against loss. The private health plans would pay a fee for the insurance against major losses, and these fees, it was contemplated would in time repay the 25 million dollars set up to start the system.

Most existing private plans cover only a specified number of days of treatment at a specified maximum cost. Presumably, more benefits might be allowed if the financing was more assured.

The House Commerce Committee has been holding hearings on a bill which would set up a program along the lines Eisenhower suggested.

In his message today, Eisenhower said there has been rapid progress in the United States toward better health.

"Yet, much remains to be done," he declared. "Approximately 224,000 of our people died of cancer last year. This means that cancer will claim the lives of 25 million of our 160 million people unless the present cancer mortality rate is lowered."

Calling for expanded construction of medical care facilities, the President urged:

1. Additional federal assistance in the construction of nonprofit hospitals for care of the chronically ill.

2. Assistance in the building of nonprofit medically supervised nursing and convalescent homes.

3. Aid in construction of non-profit rehabilitation facilities for the disabled.

4. Assistance in construction of nonprofit diagnostic or treatment centers for patients who are not confined to bed.

Benson Wants OK of Surplus Program that we are not suffering from overproduction nearly as much as we are from unbalanced production. Continuation of high incentive payments for certain commodities which are already in overabundant supply creates a false demand."

Referring to Eisenhower's call for a new parity formula based on prices and production costs over the past 10 years, instead of the 1910-14 period, Benson said this would mean a decline in parity levels of no more than 5 per cent a year.

He said: "I believe that all of these changes, taken together, will provide us with a farm program which will keep future production in better balance. It should prevent buildups in the huge surpluses of some commodities which we have accumulated."

Graduates of St. Joseph Nurse School Restore Association

Some 250 alumnae of St. Joseph Mercy School of Nursing voted Sunday to reactivate the alumnae association, map out aims and objectives and choose officers Jan. 26.

Sunday's program, an alumnae reunion that drew graduates from as far away as Chicago, Lansing, and Cheboygan, featured the Rev. Thomas W. Murphy of Detroit, Cardinal's representative for hospitals, as main speaker.

Father Murphy emphasized that the alumnae association is organized so nurses can serve the community, mankind and themselves.

"You helped create each other's personality in the school of nursing," he said. "Because of that you are of one mind, one with another. It is hoped you will continue these bonds and strengthen them; keep to your ideals and keep your lives up to the dignity of service."

Sunday's program opened with mass in the hospital chapel, Sisters of Mercy, hosts for the reunion, served a breakfast in the nurses' home.

The breakfast program included an invocation by the Rev. Thomas Currier, hospital chaplain; welcome from Sister Mary William, hospital administrator; and memorial Christine Zaffina. Alumnae notes were presented by Mrs. James C. Greene, Miss Dorothy Williams and Miss Barbara Coyle. Mrs. Orrin Huntton Jr. was toastmistress, with Miss Loyola Lane as a special guest.

Planning committees included Sister Mary Giles, chairman, with Mrs. Huntton, Mrs. Greene and Miss Marie Hickey, director of nurses, as co-chairmen. Committeesmen included: Sister Mary William, Mrs. William Bova, Miss Mary Shove and Miss Coyle. Several planning committees and Miss Mary Millenbach trimmed tables.

Helping the Sisters as assistant hostesses were Miss Marge LaValle, Miss Emilie Kaminsky, Mrs. Helen Nimmo, Miss Millenbach and Mrs. Patricia Okon, Mrs. Olive Krisher had charge of music.

Sister Mary Rosella, Miss Barbara Kemp, Miss Joan Bradley, Miss Shove and Miss Coyle handled registrations. Mrs. Thelma Chapman and Miss Patricia Steck checked coats.

Chairman of next Tuesday's meeting, scheduled for 7:30 p. m. at the hospital auditorium, will be Mrs. James Greene. Steering committee, which will present aims and objectives and nominate officers, includes Miss Hazel Pace, Miss Barbara Kemp, Mrs. Chapman Best, Mrs. Kevin Ritter and Mrs. August Boucher.

New Head for 4-H Fair

REED CITY (AP) — A. James Norman, Reed City newspaper man, has been elected president of the Osceola County 4-H FFA fair board, succeeding Francis Godbold, Reed City High School teacher, who has served for six years.

His first won international air prominence in 1935 when, with no advance fanfare, he wrestled the ground speed record from France, going 352 m.p.h.

Two years later he took the same ship across country for a transcontinental record of 7 hours and 28 minutes. It stood until late in World War II.

The Russian government offered him big money for the plane but Hughes refused. A friend explains: "Howard was still in Hollywood's most violent anti-Communist."

Hughes' greatest air feat was the 1938 round-the-world flight. He and his crew made the trip in 91 hours.

Howard Hughes a Genius With Mechanical Things, Uses Fortune Many Ways

(Editor's note: He's eccentric, he's controversial. He shuns the limelight, yet keeps making news. He's Howard Hughes, who has enough money to do what he wants and does it—with the Hughes Air. In five stories, of which this is the first, an AP writer goes behind the scenes to tell you what Hughes is really like.)

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Houston, Hollywood and Las Vegas are three fabulous places. And the most fabulous citizen of each may well be Howard Hughes.

All unwillingly, if you listen to the friends who paint him as the shy, retiring type. Yet he's always doing things that get him in the papers.

What kind of man is this phantom, who sometimes acts like a throwback to the rugged individualists of another century?

Is he genius? Or an overgrown boy who toys with movie studios, and oil wells and airplanes?

Let's try to smash through that small army of high paid public relations men and executives who run interference for him.

No executive in the country, including the President, is harder to get to than Hughes via normal channels. It's amazing how many in Hollywood, including some of his high priced help never have seen the man.

Yet once you get to talk with him, he's easy going, charming and courteous. And not too hard to find if you keep late hours.

Hughes, first of all, is a mechanical genius. It's not difficult to understand why. He is the son of a man who did almost as much as Henry Ford to roll America into the motor age.

Hughes' father invented the famous rock bit oil well drill with 166 cutting edges that chews through flint as easily as mud. With it, drillers all over the world first were able to strike the 16,000 feet depths that tapped unknown petroleum riches.

Howard was born in Houston but spent much of his childhood in Dallas. Serious, shy even then, his favorite toys were tools. Before he entered high school, he had invented a practical muffler for motorcycles, constructed his own hot rod of parts from automobile graveyards and monkeyed around with a steam automobile.

He was 19 when his father died in 1923. Hughes says that the government appraised the business at $650,000.

By 1949, when 75 per cent of the world's oil wells were drilled with Hughes equipment, it was worth better than 140 million. That's the price, according to the New York Times, that a Wall Street syndicate offered Hughes then. He didn't sell, for it's the fountain of income, estimated at better than 3 million yearly that justifies Hughes' other enterprises—such as Trans World Airline, a Texas brewery, RKO pictures, Hughes Aircraft and others.

Pilots and mechanics around early California airfields recall Hughes as a reticent, boyish figure who never laughed much. In the air, he was a hell-on-wheels daredevil.

Hughes' passion for speed led to the founding of Hughes Aircraft in 1931, so he could design and fly his own ships. Longtime friends estimate he has made 30,000 take-offs and landings in every describable type of craft. His design included the first twin boom fighter, later known as the deadly Lockheed Lightning, and the big Constellation.

He first won international air prominence in 1935 when, with no advance fanfare, he wrestled the ground speed record from France, going 352 m.p.h.

Two years later he took the same ship across country for a transcontinental record of 7 hours and 28 minutes. It stood until late in World War II.

The Russian government offered him big money for the plane but Hughes refused. A friend explains: "Howard was still in Hollywood's most violent anti-Communist."

Hughes' greatest air feat was the 1938 round-the-world flight. He and his crew made the trip in 91 hours.

His chest and left lung crushed, skull fractured, nine ribs broken, burned, bruised, shocked, his doctor announced he had little chance to live.

The next day he summoned two aides to the hospital and wanted to conduct business as usual. A horrified doctor stationed a deputy sheriff outside his door with orders to admit no one but doctors and nurses.

Hovering between life and death, Hughes asked the doctor to deliver a message to the military that the propeller caused the crash.

"Tell them to study it," Hughes gasped. "I don't want this to happen to anyone else."

Soon he improved enough to find fault with his hospital bed and design a new one, ordering his engineers to build it immediately.

"We were amazed," said one hospital official. "If he had flown that bed out of the hospital, I wouldn't have been surprised."

Among his get-well messages was one from President Truman. Enclosed was the medal awarded Hughes five years earlier for his round-the-world flight. He never had bothered to pick it up.

bettering by half the record of the late Wiley Post.

It was a typical Hughes operation, without fanfare.

His scientific devotion almost killed him in 1946 on the first flight of his XF11, a highly experimental plane reputed at that time to be the fastest long-range craft built.

He knew for 25 minutes ahead of time that the ship was going to crash but with a designer's curiosity he loosened his safety belt, inspected the plane and convinced himself that the right propeller was causing the trouble. Then he tried to pancake it on a golf course.

Instead, he hit three homes and a garage.

Sen. Potter Is Searching for Lead on Americans Reported in Russia

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Charles E. Potter says he may hold hearings in Japan in an effort to find some lead as to the fate of thousands of Americans who vanished in the Korean War.

The Michigan Republican, functioning as a one-man task force of the Senate permanent investigating subcommittee, said in a weekend interview that he is looking into reports by returned Japanese prisoners of war that "some Americans" are held in Russian POW camps. He said he may hold the hearing if U. S. intelligence officers have not questioned the repatriated Japanese adequately.

Only about one-fourth of the 13,239 Americans listed as captured or missing in action have been returned by the Communists, Potter said. He admitted that many of them were killed and their bodies never found but said that the "possibility of them (Russians) having some of our prisoners is very great."

Potter said he believed such hearings would be "worthwhile," although he stressed he did "not want to stir up false hopes" in the families of missing American servicemen.

Ford Gets an Award, Talks on Commie Hunt

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Henry Ford II believes the best way to fight subversion at home is in a quiet, systematic manner without "all the public tumult of a four-alarm fire."

The Ford Motor Co. president said in a Saturday night speech here that foreign countries look upon the United States search for Communists in government as a "great giant peering nervously under his bed—and occasionally bashing with a huge cudgel, a small and frightened mouse."

Ford, a member of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations, spoke at the annual dinner of the Poor Richard Club at which he received the Poor Richard Award.

Let Letters to GI Be Cheery, Plentiful

DALLAS (UP) — Write cheerful letters to servicemen overseas, says Methodist Bishop William C. Martin.

And above all, write more often, the bishop told his audience at First Methodist Church here last night.

Martin, of Dallas, is president of the National Council of Churches. He returned Wednesday from almost a month in Korea and Japan.

"Mail call is a big event in a soldier's daily routine," he said. "Write cheerful letters, not the kind that disturb a man's mind about things he cannot control, nor the kind that cause him to feel that he is wasting his time."

JACKSON (UP) — Worshipers at two Jackson churches reported that thieves had stolen 15 women's purses, containing more than $200, during services Sunday morning.

Reports from both churches, the First Baptist and the First Congregational, said that the thefts were made from the cloakroom.

Dear Friends:

Patrons tell us the feature of our service they like most is the personal interest we take in their problems and the effort made to solve them.

In our opinion, funeral service is largely personal attention and helpfulness, and every phase of it must be handled with the greatest care and thoroughness.

Hal Boyle Says:

U.S. Senators' Baths Lack Luster of Those of Rome

WASHINGTON (NS)—Senators in the days of the old Romans used to talk over problems of state in their marble baths.

It was a privilege of office and a luxury that set them apart from their constituents, perhaps leading the Roman man in the street to mutter enviously:

"Why should Sen. J. Quintus and his pals get steam-cleaned at the taxpayer's expense when I have to patronize a public bath with the riffraff?"

This may be the origin of the saying that "a politician is always in hot water."

Be that as it may, the senators of practically every country since Rome have managed to have their private baths where they can quietly discuss public issues while their tissues are being pummeled by attendants. Senators are a traditional breed, linked by a brotherhood of dignity and position that defies differences of tie, language, and politics.

They still do as the Roman senators did, who set the pattern long ago. The U. S. Senate has its private marble baths, too. But it doesn't brag about it. Indeed the senators are downright bashful about mentioning this special plumbing privilege—and the fact they have their own swimming pool.

I discovered the existence of this marble-walled senatorial retreat when I asked how the elder statesmen managed to keep physically fit for their exhausting tasks. Talking over a hot desk all day can be pretty wearing.

"They go to the baths and relax," said a veteran correspondent here. When I expressed an interest in seeing them, he looked shocked and replied:

"Why, you couldn't get in there. That is one place where senators want to be alone, and they are very jealous of this privilege."

Well, that piqued me as a taxpayer. If Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower permit people to wander through the White House, why couldn't I at least take a peek at the senatorial baths, particularly if I promised to bring my own soap and not leave the hot water tap dripping?

Easier said than done. But I finally made it after going through four channels, three roadblocks and piercing two iron curtains of verbal objection. I pushed open a swinging door in the Senate office building that said "For Senators Only" and stood at last within the sanctum sanctorum.

Frankly, I was disappointed. The mysterious baths consisted only of some old-fashioned marble-walled bathing chambers, a small steam room, a tiny gym with a rowing machine and a mechanical horse.

There also was a handball court and a swimming pool hardly big enough to accommodate a pair of medium sized great dane dogs.

Two unadorned senators were idly toweling themselves dry. I didn't recognize them. Senators without their spectacles on look pretty much alike.

I started to ask an attendant what kind of exercises the senators favored, but he was reluctant to talk. I couldn't even find out whether they had a special ladies' day for Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

Later an old hand around the capital told me:

"The reason for all the secrecy is that the senators are touchy about letting the voters even know they have free baths. Actually, in recent years, most senators haven't bothered to use the place much. But a few old retired senators show up regularly to talk over the mistakes McKinley and Woodrow Wilson made."

My reaction after seeing—the baths was that a Roman senator would be ashamed of them, and that we are lucky to have as clean a bunch of senators as we have. I doubt if an aroused citizenry will ever march on Washington to destroy the baths.

But if I were a senator one of the first things I'd do is introduce a bill to tear out all that antique plumbing and put in a gym at least as good as the one you find in the average public high school.

Barber Confesses

Ransom Tale False

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (NS)—The barber who claimed he saw a man take a suitcase from a police car at the time of the Greenlease kidnapping in St. Louis admitted to the FBI Saturday that his story was a hoax.

Frank Beninato, held here on a worthless check charge, now claim he was appearing in a Tampa, Fla., night club that night, and only told the story to get even with his wife and a former St. Louis police officer, Louis Shoulders, who were, in Beninato's word "mean to me," the FBI reported.

Shoulders and Patrolman Elmer Dolan, who arrested kidnap-murderer Carl Austin Hall, have been indicted for perjury by a federal grand jury in connection with their testimony concerning their handling of two suitcases in which Hall said he carried the ransom money, of which more than $300,000 is still missing.

Name of Tipster

Kept Out of Print

JACKSON (NS)—They stopped the presses at Southern Michigan prison's newspaper—the Spectator.

The paper in a front page story named the informant who had tipped a Detroit newspaperman and police, leading to the capture of three of 13 convicts who broke out of the prison.

Prison officials saw the item after about 800 copies of the paper had come off the presses. They quickly stopped the operation, re-made the front page—without the story, and destroyed the printed papers.

Freedom of the press or not, they decided it wasn't wise to print the name of the tipster, at least not in the prison newspaper.

Patrolman Gets Order Granted

Christianberry Claims Officials Not Qualified in Suspension Act

A show cause order against Royal Oak Township officials and an injunction barring the township civil service commission from acting Friday night on a policeman's suspension was filed in Oakland County Circuit Court.

The court order was asked by Patrolman Dolphus Christianberry who contends board members and Commissioner of Public Safety James Johnson were not appointed in accordance with a Michigan statute, and thus were not qualified to act in his suspension.

Judge George B. Hartwick, who set the hearing for Feb. 15 at 9:30 a.m., granted the order and injunction.

Christianberry, suspended 10 days recently by Johnson for allegedly allowing loitering and posting of cartoons in the police station, asked for the appeal scheduled for last night.

The bill states that township police did not approve the appointment of Robert Sheppard as a commissioner and that Hector Collis and Wilfred Coles were not reappointed since the "township" became subject to the civil service act.

Johnson, the complaint says, was appointed without competitive examination as required by civil service act.

Heard in a Pontiac Church Sunday

God Continues to Carry On by 'Operation Redemption'

The following is from the sermon preached by the Rev. Howard C. Artz, pastor of Lafayette Street Free Methodist Church Sunday. The church society was organized in 1881 and the church built in 1911 and 1912. The Rev. Mr. Artz came as pastor in 1951.

Text ... "When they were awake they saw His glory." Luke 9:32.
Topic ... Divine Steps Toward Restoration.

What would happen if every person in the world who is religious should suddenly become irreligious, and turn his back upon God?

It would be pretty dark in this old world ... much darker than it is. However, this actually took place at one period in human history.

Adam and Eve, the only known living human beings, beings that God had created in His own image, chose to doubt the veracity of God, and as a result were plunged into moral and spiritual darkness. The light had gone out.

Moreover the sentence for disobedience was death ... still God had created man for something other than this. God created man for life and not for death.

What was God to do? His purpose concerning man was unchanged. He would produce a race of holy sons and daughters, with character and intelligence of an order sufficiently high to have fellowship and communion with their Creator. God must find a way to carry forward His purpose.

Let us illustrate it like this: The Bell Telephone Co. has set out to provide a system of communication for the nation, but one day a great storm breaks across the landscape demolishing installations and disrupting communications ... Does the Bell Company fold up and say, what's the use? Indeed not, they set about to repair the damage and reestablish communications.

So with God. He didn't go out of business. He was not frustrated nor confused. He set about to repair the damage.

Omnipotence could easily have annihilated the race and started over again, but Love restrained omnipotence and set in motion, "Operation Redemption."

And what a redemption! Praise God for a redemption so complete and thorough-going that in the words of the great Apostle Paul, "If any man be in Christ he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold all things are become new." II Cor. 5:17.

Paul in the 15th chapter of I Corinthians indicates that this restoration comprehends not only the soul of man but will ultimately, through the resurrection, bring restoration to the body as well.

From the writings of the Apostle we further glean that this restoration will touch not only mankind but also be extended to all of God's creation which was affected by sin.

St. John in the 21st chapter of Revelation bears out the same idea when he wrote, "And I saw a new heaven and a new earth."

St. John continues by saying, "God shall wipe away all tears; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain; for the former things are passed away."

This whole theme is beautifully couched in the story of the transfiguration from which story our text is taken. If Christ, who was the last Adam, was to bring restoration he must begin where the first Adam failed. This he did; overcoming temptation, conquering death, promising eternal life.

At the instant, sleepy disciples awakening beheld His glory. This same light is shining for our generation ... let us, too, behold His glory.

U. S. Saves on Car Pool

Even though the word billion has become commonly used in Government circles, an annual saving of two million dollars in operating costs is well worth mentioning.

Besides reducing the Government's total civilian payroll by 183,000 employees, EISENHOWER Administration officials have discovered they can cut automobile transport costs. This will be done by reducing the number of Government operated vehicles by more than 7,000, leaving a worldwide fleet of 55,000 units.

The best part of the story is that this cut does not mean Federal employees will have to walk. In some cases taxis will be used and in others employees will be reimbursed for driving their own cars.

Including the expense for these two items, the total savings made possible by reducing the size of the car pool is estimated at $2,000,000 a year.

Blood Serum Center

Rare blood serum flown 4,500 miles from Lansing did more than an inspiring job of saving an eight year old boy's life in Innsbruck, Austria.

It brought to the attention of Michigan residents the fact that their State Health Department leads the world in the production of blood derivatives by fractionation.

The boy is a victim of hemophilia. He was bleeding to death following a tooth extraction and the one means of saving his life was a blood coagulant available only in Lansing.

Harvard scientists six years ago developed the formula for the coagulant. It has been brought to the production stage by the State Health Department's Lansing laboratory.

Work on the production of blood derivatives was started there in 1943. Since then, says the Lansing State Journal, the work has progressed to the point where Michigan has the "world's most complete blood derivative program."

It is reassuring to know that our State Health Department has achieved this leadership and it reflects credit on all those who had a part in the work.

Eisenhower's Wool Plan

One phase of the EISENHOWER farm program certain to face scrutiny is that which aims to stimulate domestic production and consumption of wool.

Conditions currently are far from ideal in the wool market with the price per pound about six cents below the legal 90 per cent of parity. At the same time the Government has a lot of wool on hand, nearly 100,000,000 pounds. The President proposes that:

1. Wool prices be allowed to seek their natural level.
2. Direct payments be made to producers to raise the average return per pound to 90 per cent of parity.
3. These payments be made from unobligated wool tariff receipts.

This is like a Brannan Plan for wool. What Congress will do with it is anybody's guess. In 1949 the lawmakers unanimously rejected the Brannan Plan, refused to permit a trial run of it and wiped out authority for making payments for wool.

A safe guess is that close attention will be paid to the cost of the plan. The fact that no one could estimate the expense involved in the 1949 proposal was a major cause of its rejection.

Why We Have Imports

A frequently forgotten but important fact is that the United States isn't self sufficient in raw materials needed for industry and defense.

That is why our Government is building a stockpile of critical materials. A better idea of how dependent we are on other nations can be had from the list of materials and percentages imported to produce a single M-47 tank.

As reported by the Marine Corps Gazette they are: 1,915 pounds of chromium, 100 per cent imported; 950 pounds of manganese, 93 per cent; 520 pounds of nickel, 99 per cent; 100 pounds of tin, 100 per cent; 6,512 pounds of bauxite (aluminum ore) 65 per cent and 1,418 pounds of copper, 42 per cent.

Our stockpile is being increased through direct purchases overseas made with funds provided by foreign nations under the Mutual Security program.

Even though money may not buy happiness, it will at least pay one's car fare while one rides around looking for it.

If DOLLS become much more lifelike, people will be hiring baby sitters for them.

Mrs. Mary Jones Says Parents Should Take Interest in Training Their Young

I recently read an article in this column that disgusted me. It praised teachers for their ability to do more with children than the parents themselves.

My praise also goes to these teachers, but my disgust lies with the parents.

Children of school age soon learn that their teacher is always ready to help and train them toward the things that are right. Thus, the child learns to appreciate and respect them.

The parents who spend too much of their time entertaining themselves and ignoring or casting aside the problems of their children will easily lose the respect of their youngsters.

This type of parent would find more pride and satisfaction in their children by treating them as individuals, instead of waiting for them to grow into adulthood and out of their so-called childish problems.

Ignoring a child in early years will be the reason why men turn into delinquents and later criminals. Remember, the proper time to train future adults is while they are young and their brains are developing.

Your actions now shadow a great reflection on their future characters.

He Says It's Lucky We Still Have a Democracy

In answering Mr. Coleman's denunciation of our democratic way of life and his substitution of socialism as a cure all, I would like to remind him that the simplest and most effective remedy for all our social ills is still to be found in religion, viz—the twin virtues of loving God and loving one's neighbor, without which no nation or empire can long endure.

When you think of the millions of un-Americans in our midst, composed of reds, pinks, socialists and non-voters, it's somewhat providential that we still have a democracy.

With psychiatry substituting for religion; education for intelligence; intolerance for charity; drunkenness for temperance; sex for love and other kindred evils of our day, no wonder the foundations of our civilization are weakened.

Cure these diabolical trends and then you have a strong and vibrant America and a very small percentage of the effort used in promoting these Godless ideologies would make this country the great nation Washington and Lincoln dreamed of.

The three Allies can't play off Molotov against anyone, unless it is world opinion, of which Moscow is aware but to which it never makes basic concessions.

Since Western Germany — re-armed or unarmed — is the key to any settlement in Europe, the Berlin conference seems doomed not to open the innermost door to peace.

Russia wants Germany to remain unarmed, Dulles said only last week's re-armed Western Germany must be the foundation tone of Allied strength in Europe.

There are other points on which Russia and the United States do not agree at Berlin, but the disagreement on Germany is enough for a starter.

At Berlin, if Molotov continues these tactics, as he undoubtedly will, by playing off the United States, Britain and France against one another, weakening their alliance, his mission in Russian eyes will be a great success.

For that matter, there's no sign the West will yield any inches either at Berlin.

What Russia apparently fears most in Western Europe is a single European army, including France and a re-armed West Germany, and backed by the United States and Britain.

Russia has psychological as well as military reasons. So long as Western Europe has not decided to set up the army, its people can go on hoping they won't have to make that decision, with the sacrifices it implies. They remain divided as to whether they should, and open to promises dangled by Moscow if they don't.

And, the longer Western Europe is divided on the single army idea, its old enmities and rivalries stay alive, the better the chance for the local Communist parties to make hay from within.

Further, Western Europe, fully armed and realizing its strength, would be in a position to pressure Russia for concessions which the Soviets seem determined never to yield by reason or peaceful persuasion.

So far, by its tactics and propaganda, Russia has done extremely well in helping Western Europe stay divided. The hope of a single army looks more forlorn daily.

Delivery Truck Drivers Lift Standard of Living

Hank belongs to a fine group of Applied Psychologists. They are Santa's helpers all 62 weeks in the year. They lift our American standard of living and bring shouts of joy to the children whenever they ring the doorbells in your city.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case K-301: Hank T., aged 32, is a driver of a delivery truck for a large department store.

"Dr. Crane, I can always tell when Hank has had a quarrel at home," his boss informed me.

"Normally, he has a good disposition. But if he comes in looking grim, I know he'll soon begin to grumble.

"Within 10 minutes he'll grumble, 'This route is too big for one man to handle. I need a helper,' and that's my cue to say, 'What's wrong, Hank? Aren't you and the Missus hitting it off well?'"

"Then Hank will usually inform me of a family row that has just occurred. So I try to help him adjust his home problems more efficiently. Soon he is happy and a fine worker once more."

It has been my pleasure to speak under the personnel department's direction for many industrial firms, as well as large department stores.

And I always relish doing so. That is doubly true when I get a chance to talk to the drivers who actually contact the store's homes.

"Dr. Crane, we see the women customers when they aren't dolled up and dressed in their party clothes," a driver recently told me.

"So we really have our fingers on the pulse of our big store. We get so well acquainted with the customers they ask us to help them locate their straying children, or bring back their wandering dogs or cats.

From time to time I have received letters from medical colleagues of recognized standing expressing their approval of this or that piece in this column.

But, frankly, these pats on the back are few and far between. The trick specialists and kil-nick racketeers, who now constitute an influential portion of the medical profession, hate me and all my works and I don't blame them.

Please notice this driver's final remark above where he mentions the fact that the children shout with joy when he rings the doorbell.

For that is one of the things that will serve as tonic to the soul of a worker after he retires in old age. He helps make children happy.

It isn't just the money a man earns which is the chief reward for a lifetime of hard work. No, that's essential, but a man also likes to look back upon a useful life.

Jesus said that he came in order that we might enjoy the more abundant life. That means we should have a greater abundance of all good things, such as health and food, as well as clothing, fun and happiness.

The delivery men for department stores bring joy to the children wherever they go.

And they deliver parcels which also improve the living standards within those homes.

Maybe it is a bucket of paint which a housewife will use to brighten the dingy walls of the kitchen or bathroom.

Or it may be new curtains or drapes or rugs or furniture, etc. But in any event it brightens and beautifies the homes for American children.

Suppose, however, you had spent your life delivering whisky or other injurious merchandise. Suppose you thus caused fathers to get so drunk their children covered in terror.

Suppose you produced almost half of the 37,000 auto deaths on the highways each year, and some 500,000 injuries there annually due to drinking drivers.

Your higher wages would never erase from your soul the memory of the divorces and terrorized children or the deaths and injuries which you had helped produce.

So pick jobs which ennoble human beings and make joyous children.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3 cent stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts. (Copyright, Hopkins Syndicate Inc.)

few physicians or dentists dare to offer the public any advice, against chicanery.

When a dentist or a physician jumps into print, other dentists or physicians in the community raise their eyebrows, and well they may, for aside from the point at issue, the printing of the letter to the editor in everybody's column is good advertising for them.

Groups or societies of physicians and dentists have tried for many years to enlighten the public without arousing such suspicion of motives.

Sometimes they have launched imposing campaigns in the name of the medical or dental society. Again they have undertaken to supply editors with a regular column sponsored by the society but without identifying the author or authors.

These schemes have invariably petered out perhaps for the same reason that an anonymous letter

54 Oldsmobiles Due Wednesday

Low-Slung Models Have Increased Horsepower; '53 Price Levels Hold

LANSING (AP)—The 1954 Oldsmobiles, to be introduced Jan. 20 will be entirely new.

The cars are lower and longer, have new body, wide panoramic windshields, new sweep-cut fender and door design and increased horsepower in the V-8 engines.

List prices of the '54 Olds will remain the same as in 1953, according to J. F. Wolfram, general manager of the division.

The new Holiday coupe in the "88" series will have a list price of $2,230, which compares to the Super "88" Holiday coupe list price of $2,448.39.

In the luxury "98" series, Oldsmobile is adding a Holiday coupe model with a list price tag of $2,570. Oldsmobile's "98" deluxe Holiday coupe will be continued at a list price of $2,770.75.

Engine output in the Super "88" and "98" models has been increased from 165 to 185 horsepower. In the "88" models it is increased from 150 to 170. Compression ratio is increased from 8 to 1 to 8.25 to 1.

The 1954 models have been made three inches lower without sacrificing road clearance. Their wheelbase has been increased two inches. Front and rear fenders are almost level with the hood in front and with the rear deck in back. A new cowl ventilator extends the width of the hood.

Interior refinements include new fabrics, new colors and combinations, including leather and cloth and a redesigned instrument panel. Four-way power seats, movable up and down as well as back and forward, have been added.

Oldsmobile's safety-padded instrument panel is now standard on all "98" series cars.

Advances also are reported in the power system, power steering, air conditioning and Olds' automatic headlight dimmer, all optional features. In the braking system, an extra reserve has been provided for several power stops even when the engine is not running.

The 1954 model Oldsmobiles will be presented in 11 body styles. A new style added to the "88" series is the Holiday hard-top coupe. The "98" series will include a deluxe Holiday coupe, and the Starfire, a special, extra glamorous convertible coupe.

The "98" while being announced along with the "88" and the Super "88" will not be available until early February.

Widow, 50, Builds New Bungalow With Own Hands

SIX LAKES (AP)—Mrs. Bertha Bennett, 50-year-old Montcalm County widow, decided in July of 1952 she needed a new home on her farm. She cut in half her old home, walled up the side of one section for temporary living quarters, and set to work to build a new one.

The attractive bungalow, with simulated log siding and a stone fire place, is far enough along now so that she can move. From the plans, which she drew herself, to the roofing and interior finish, the house represents the work of her own two hands.

Savings Bond Sales Set 7-Year Record

The American public socked away $4,368,000,000 in government savings bonds in 1953 to set a seven-year record, according to Earl O. Shreve, national director of the Treasury's savings bonds division in Washington.

The sale of series E and H bonds represents a 22 per cent increase over the previous year.

"Not since 1946, when bond sales amounted to nearly $4,500,000,000, have the American people put so much money into savings bonds," said Shreve.

Bond buyers are hanging on to their bonds longer, too, according to Shreve. In 1952 $3,139,000,000 worth of bonds were cashed in, while only $2,631,000,000 worth were redeemed last year. Approximately 10 billion dollars have matured in bonds since May of 1951. Seventy-five per cent of this amount is being retained by bond owners under the 10-year automatic extension plan.

Wife of Governor Resting in Hospital

LANSING (AP)—Mrs. Nancy Williams, wife of the governor, was ordered to remain in the hospital "for several more" days to recover from an accident in which she gashed her wrist severely.

Dr. Kenneth Williams, who had promised to release Mrs. Williams from the hospital Sunday, said she probably would stay until Tuesday. He said he believed she could rest better away from household cares, but that her condition was "good."

Mrs. Williams severed an artery, two tendons and several nerves in her right wrist late Friday afternoon. She fell carrying some glass bottles in her kitchen.

AZUSA, Calif. (U)—Seven persons were killed and three critically injured yesterday when a car carrying six young people collided with an oncoming car on U. S. Highway 66 just east of here.

ARTHUR TREACHER

"A little of This, Something of That."

That is the topic of the third program of the Pontiac Kiwanis Club entertainment series Tuesday at 8 p.m. when Arthur Treacher, screen and television personality, will offer some of his comic genius in the auditorium of Pontiac High School.

Treacher, who achieved fame as "The perfect English butler," built a career by trying to avoid being stereotyped only to succeed in becoming entrenched in the public mind as the world's most polished servant.

The dour-faced English comic with a gleeful chuckle says, "I'm going to prove to that vast group of movie-goers that I can do something besides play the suave gentleman's gentleman."

400 Chinese Nationalist Guerrillas Bolt to Reds

Reportedly both regimental commanders, Colonels Yu Min and Su led the switch early this month to Peiping's forces in Yunnan province.

East's Pipeline System Expands, Helps Homes

Nuclear Power Seen for Britain

Atom May Completely Replace Coal as Fuel, Report Says

LONDON (U)—A British government report says that within 20 years nuclear energy may provide about a fourth of Britain's estimated power needs.

The 100-page report, entitled "Britain's Atom Factories" was made public yesterday. It was written by Kenneth Jay, 44, principal scientific officer at the big Harwell atom research plant.

Jay said nuclear fuel might be developed in the next two decades to produce as much electricity as 20 million tons of coal. This is the amount by which Britain's coal production is expected then to fall short of the country's needs.

If certain assumptions turn out to be valid, Jay added, "it might ultimately be possible completely to replace coal by nuclear fuel for the generation of electrical power in the United Kingdom."

British Supply Minister Duncan Sandys said in a foreword to Jay's report that Britain had moved in the past year from the purely research stage into regular atomic energy production.

New Home Will Be Lightly Furnished

VAN NUYS, Calif. (U)—Little Mickie Pierson's daddy built her a desk for her 11th birthday yesterday, the day they were going to move into their new house. But it wasn't there when she came to see it.

Neither was the family range, refrigerator, deep freeze, automatic washer and drier, radio-phonograph, living room suite, bedroom suite, rugs or their trunk.

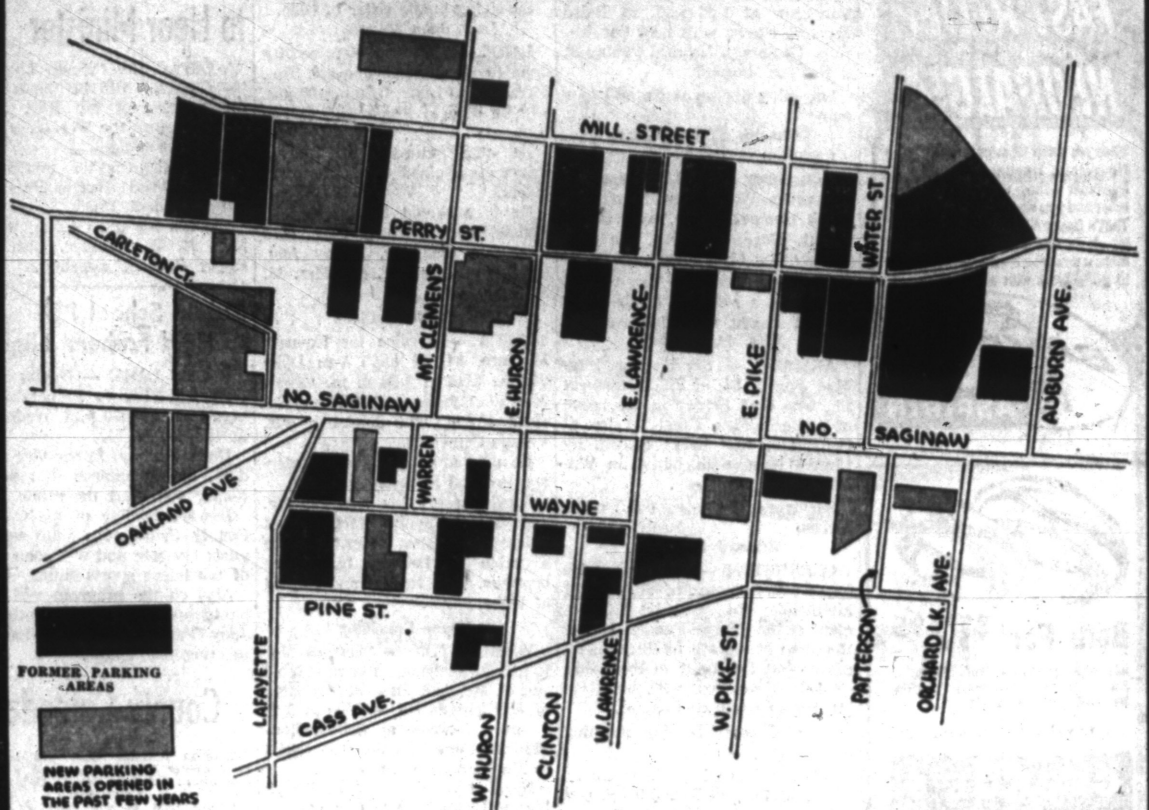

Thieves evidently backed up a moving van the night before the Piersons were going to move their furniture from the locked garage into their new house, and cleaned them out.

Mickie, her father George, 33, her mother Marian, and her brother Tom, 12, sat on packed cartons and stared at the one piece of furniture left, Mrs. Pierson's sewing machine.

Pierson, an aviation research engineer, said he had paid $765 to have the furniture moved to Los Angeles from Detroit last August.

Legislators Go to Work Tonight

Determined to Meet the Adjournment Deadline of April 9

LANSING (U)—Michigan's Legislature will begin to turn its wheels over slowly tonight, but faster than is usual.

The lawmakers will return at 8 p. m. after a long weekend recess.

Normally, the House and Senate would not reconvene until Tuesday afternoon, this early in a session, but leaders and members alike appear determined to meet the proposed April 9 adjournment deadline.

Already more than 100 bills have been introduced and sent to committee, so that the committees have something to chew on at the start.

Appropriation Committees consultants were hurrying their analyses of Gov. Williams' $365 million budget for next year. Chairmen of the two committees said they were mindful of the need for speed in fiscal decisions if the adjournment is to be met on time.

The Appropriation Committees indicated they would first scrutinize Williams' estimate that revenues will hit $365 million next year, thus permitting a balanced budget.

House and Senate finance men are skeptical of that prediction, indicating fears that the state's economy may decline sufficiently to reduce the chances of a $365 million take from the taxpayers.

But already, they were talking in terms of an operating budget of about $355 million, plus nearly $10 million for institutional construction.

Members said that if they duplicated this year's $330 million budget, allowed a few million dollars for expected pay raises and met the mandatory $11 million increase in state school aid, they would be reaching up close to the governor's figure.

Children Adore Clarabell Clown

Marionette Is Welcome in Five-Million Homes 5 Times a Week

NEW YORK — Howdy Doody marked his 1,500th show on the air recently.

The show was a highlight of the beloved marionette's two-week visit to the West Coast which started a week ago today and will continue through Friday Jan. 22, originating in Burbank, Calif.

In its more than six years on the air — this top-rated show has been an outstanding favorite among the nation's children.

With its "live" personalities Buffalo Bob Smith and Clarabell, the clown — guiding its destiny, it has won consistent praise and prizes for "constructiveness and educational merit."

Rated the most popular five-times-a-week (Monday through Friday) daytime show on television, Howdy Doody is welcomed into more than 5,000,000 homes daily to charm and divert the young televisioner.

Since the program made its debut as a Christmas gift to the nation's children in December 1947, it has received the Peabody Award, awards from TV Forecast and Radio TV Mirror, and has been selected as the "favorite program for children" in several polls.

Magazines here and abroad have been high in their praise of the puppet and his friends. Life called show "an American institution."

Look Magazine commented that "not since the days of Mickey Mouse has there been such an influence on the juvenile world." Time Magazine found it a "children's special delight."

Temas (Topics), a Spanish language family magazine circulated in many countries of South and Central America (in several of which a Latin-American Howdy is seen), referred to Howdy and his home and friends in the following terms: "Doodyville represents the only paradise never lost: the children's paradise."

"Like in a Franciscan Eden, in Doodyville brother man, brother animal, and even brother puppet live together harmoniously."

"Howdy has become as famous as Pinocchio or as any of the fiction characters who inhabit the golden world of children."

Arty Calendars in Demand Now

But Salesmen Believe Public May Someday Want Pinups Again

DALLAS, Tex. (INS)—The United States is in a pious, arty mood. The picture calendar men have proof of it.

They know because the public is demanding Boy Scouts and fine arts reproductions on its calendars.

But there'll come a day, the calendar men say, when world tensions will ease and the demand will once again be for scantily-clad, curvaceous cuties atop the monthly log.

Pearson W. Atkinson, vice president of Brown & Bigelow Co., one of the country's leading calendar manufacturing firms, told picture-calendar salesmen during a two-day session in Dallas:

"Serious subjects like Scouts and fine arts are much more popular today than 'hot-chai' women." And he added:

"This is a definite national attitude — make no mistake about it."

It's Atkinson's theory that one can trace the temper of the people through their changing desires in calendar art.

During the 1920's calendars couldn't have girls "bad enough," he said, but now it has gotten to the point where the calendar makers "have an agreement with the national academy of fine arts in New York to reprint their old masters."

County Planners Re-elect Officers

J. Robert F. Swanson and Edmond W. Alchin Renamed to Posts

J. Robert F. Swanson, Bloomfield Hills, was re-elected chairman of the Oakland County Planning Commission for his third term at the first meeting of the year.

Renamed secretary was Edmond W. Alchin, Oakland County agricultural agent from Pontiac.

Concern over a proposed water survey in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb Counties prompted the naming of three commission members to work with the Detroit Regional Planning Commission's water resources committee. Those named were Richard Ware and Roy Goodspeed, both of Ferndale, and Russell Main of Birmingham.

The County Planning Commission is considering a traffic survey and study for all of Oakland County.

"This," said Director George Skrubbs, "would bring us up to date on our highways. It would give us a picture of the major county road needs, and establish how the county road system could be tied into the proposed toll road plan. It would also pinpoint how we fit into the State Highway Department road plans."

A Detroit origin and destination traffic survey would, Skrubbs said, "be completed soon and its results, to do the most for Oakland County, should be tied in with a countywide study."

The hiring of a qualified and trained person to conduct this survey, and to become part of the County Road Commission personnel working with the Planning Commission, was proposed. This was considered better than hiring a consultant firm to perform the entire survey.

Girl Dreams Up New Mattress and Pillow

Pittsburgh (UP) — A boom for pillow-baters soon may come to market, thanks to a 25-year-old girl who's dreamed up a different type of mattress.

Pat Morell, daughter of Adm. Ben Morell, board chairman of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., likes the softness of a pillow, but not the heads-up effect. So, Pat invented a mattress with an indentation big enough to accommodate a regular pillow or a foam-rubber cushion, so that the head has a soft base but the body is perfectly horizontal.

Pat used two sales arguments in her calls on potential manufacturers.

Novelty—"People have been sleeping on the same shaped mattress for generations."

Health—"Better blood circulation is possible when the head rests level with the mattress, and loss of hair often has been attributed to poor circulation. Perhaps there would be less baldness with my new mattress."

Most manufacturers discouraged her but recently she convinced the Sealy Mattress Co. and the Firestone Rubber Co. the idea was sound. Now, they have promised to start production in single and double bed sizes.

Her luck makes prophets of her prep school classmates who stated in a yearbook: "She's usually busy dreaming up ideas."

Physician Found Dead in Auto

Plan Inquest for Ousted Science Board Head, Dr. Orin Madison

DETROIT (INS) — An inquest was planned today into the death of Dr. Orin E. Madison, ousted as chairman of the Michigan Basic Science Board in a dispute with the governor last year.

Mr. Madison, 63, was found slumped behind the wheel of his car in Detroit by two scout car patrolmen early yesterday. Relatives said he had been under a physician's care for a heart condition and apparently was stricken with an attack while driving home.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams replaced Dr. Madison as chairman of the board last November after the doctor was accused of blocking physicians who wished to move into Michigan from other states.

Dr. Madison insisted he was only enforcing the law in requiring incoming doctors to take Michigan's basic science test.

Reports Success in Treatment of Acute Asthma

BALTIMORE (U)—Relief for chronic asthma sufferers, which a specialist says has worked in 95 out of 100 cases — without hospitalization — was announced at a weekend medical meeting here.

Dr. Leslie N. Gay of the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine told a regional meeting of the American College of Physicians he had achieved success through injections of the hormone ACTH in a gelatin solution.

For the first time, said Gay, severe asthma can be treated without putting the patient in a hospital. Previously, he said, a crystalline form of ACTH had been used successfully but the hormone was absorbed so quickly by the body that only small amounts could be injected at the time. This required hospitalization.

Using it in gelatin, Gay said the body did not absorb it as fast and much larger doses could be given. The patient visited his office once daily, received an injection and went on about his business.

Gay said from four to eight injections, one each day, was required by the patients he treated.

Claims the Honor Worth Pay Slash

HARTFORD, Conn. (U)—Charles B. Keats, former Bridgeport newspaperman, took a $2,260 annual cut in pay when Governor John Lodge recently promoted him from deputy secretary of state to secretary.

Keats became secretary as successor to Mrs. Alice Leopold, who resigned to head the women's division of the federal labor department. Keats' salary as Mrs. Leopold's deputy, fixed by the state personnel department, was $10,260 a year. The secretary's salary, fixed by statute, is $8,000.

Keats called his promotion "a significant honor and opportunity which comes rarely to anybody," and said it was a situation where "momentary considerations are secondary."

Coldest weather ever recorded by a U. S. weather bureau was 66 degrees below zero at Riverview station located in Yellowstone national park in February 1933.

Irish Demonstrate Anti-British Tension

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (U)—New tension gripped Northern Ireland today over Irish nationalist demands that the British territory be incorporated into the Irish Republic.

The latest trouble started when extreme nationalists attacked a British soldier in a Belfast street Saturday. They stripped off his uniform and burned it, forcing him to watch.

The outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) admitted in a letter to two city newspapers that the underground organization was responsible for the incident. The letter explained: "We bear no ill will toward the soldier—only against the uniform he was wearing."

Newspapers reported that pro-British extremists later raided the homes of several IRA members in retaliation.

Kremlin Removes Red State Official

LONDON (U)—The Kremlin has fired Villan Zodelava, first deputy premier of Georgia, in what appears to be a continuance of the purge in that troublesome, nationalist-minded Soviet republic.

A routine announcement yesterday on a broadcast from the Georgian capital of Tbilisi (Tiflis) said only that Zodelava had been "relieved of his duties" in the Black Sea birthplace of Joseph Stalin and the executed Soviet police chief, Lavrenty P. Beria.

The broadcast said a leading member of the Georgian Communist party's Central Committee, M. I. Kuchava, had replaced Zodelava.

Arkansas Cracks Down on Evasion

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (U)—Arkansas who buy from liquor stores across the state line in Missouri, Louisiana or Tennessee may face searches by State Troopers.

State Beverage Department Director Eli Collins said he's had enough of folks dodging Arkansas taxes by buying in neighboring states.

"Much of it is being bought in case lots by what we call our best citizens," Collins said in announcing he is stationing agents at out of state loading points to the radio ahead to other agents waiting at the state line to catch the tax dodgers.

New Tax Relief Hope Is Seen

Base View on Lower Than Expected Outlays in Current Year

WASHINGTON (INS)—Republicans in Congress see new hope for additional tax relief today on the basis of an unofficial forecast of lower-than-expected spending during the current year.

House Appropriations Chairman John Taber (R-NY), declared that current Treasury Department figures indicate that federal expenditures for the government fiscal year ending next June 30 will total 70 billion dollars instead of 72 billions as previously estimated.

Taber, chief GOP economy advocate in the House, asserted in a radio interview Sunday night that if the five billion dollar spending cut predicted by President Eisenhower for the next fiscal year is made, the total will be 65 billions.

This, the New York Republican contended, will be in line with revenue.

The chief executive will send his budget message, with its official estimates of income and outgo for the next fiscal year beginning July 1 to Congress on Thursday. Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge will brief newsmen Wednesday on the government fiscal program.

Dolphins are a form of whale.

Jacko on Wagon Unless He Calls on His Friends

WASHINGTON (UP)—Jocko, Michigan's boozing bald eagle, will have to stay on the wagon as long as he's on government property.

Those were orders today from Dr. William M. Mann, director of National Zoological Park. He issued his edict in reply to a Washington whisky distributor who offered to keep Jocko supplied with his brand of firewater for life "so that he can more happily endure the closer contact with humans."

Jocko, who was found injured on the ice off Michigan's Upper Peninsula last month, won a good deal of national publicity when it became known he regained his health on a diet of whisky and rabbit feet.

However, Mann reminded the whisky distributor of the rule against the use of liquor on government property. "Even for a connoisseur like Jocko."

"The only possible solution," he said, "is for Jocko to cultivate friends who do not live on government property... then it might be arranged for him to drop in on these friends for an occasional convivial evening."

Knowland Sees OK of Seaway

Believes Bill Will Pass Senate; Aiken Predicts 10-Vote Margin

WASHINGTON (INS)—Senate Majority Leader William F. Knowland forecast today that the St. Lawrence Seaway bill will pass the Senate, perhaps by Thursday night.

The California GOP leader said that to date he sees "no evidence of an organized filibuster" against the 105-million dollar project.

Knowland's optimistic prediction on the outcome of the current Senate debate was borne out by another Republican's estimate that the legislation would be approved by a margin of at least 10 Senate votes.

Sen. George Aiken (R-Vt.), a leader in the fight for the seaway, told a reporter he was counting on between 50 and 55 votes for the bill with about 41 against it.

Knowland said: "I believe there are sufficient votes to pass it."

Support for the seaway from two widely separated points, the Rocky Mountain area and Massachusetts, gave its chances in the senate a big lift.

Sen. Edwin Johnson (D-Colo.) abandoned his opposition to the project and said he would vote for it, while Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), first member of his state's congressional delegation to reverse a traditional stand, came out for the project.

In Jail on Dope Charge

GRAND HAVEN (AP)—Anton Johnson, 39, of Detroit, was bound over to circuit court and remanded to jail when he failed to post $1,000 bond on a narcotics charge. State trooper David Verburg said that he found Johnson in a parked car with his sleeve rolled up and a belt around his arm in the act of taking a shot of heroin.

Neighborhood Scrap Brings Fatal Shot

DETROIT (AP)—Police investigated today the fatal shooting Saturday night of Thomas Michael, 22, after an apparent neighborhood argument.

Kenneth W. Adamson, 17, was held for investigation of murder. Police quoted Adamson's father, Clifton, 45, as saying Michael and his stepbrother, John F. Lane, 18, were arguing with Kenneth in front of the Adamson home. He said that he went down to settle the argument.

Michael and Lane then began to beat him up, he said, and Michael was on top of him when young Adamson fired the fatal shot from a deer rifle on the steps of the house.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. says...

FOR more than thirty years we have used research day in and day out learning about tobaccos and cigarettes in the public's interest.

Continuously we and our consultants have analyzed, experimented with and smoked all kinds of tobaccos... especially Southern Bright, Burley, Maryland and Turkish cigarette tobaccos.

Our own cigarettes and competitive brands have been submitted to the most exacting scientific scrutiny including thousands of analyses of millions of pounds of tobaccos.

From all these thousands of analyses, and other findings reported in the leading technical journals, our Research Department has found no reason to believe that the isolation and elimination of any element native to cigarette tobaccos today would improve smoking.

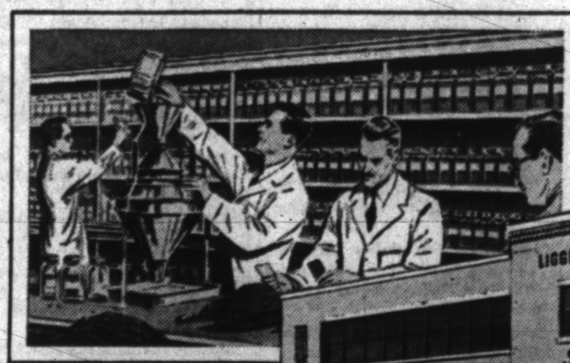

For four years we have maintained in the smoker's interest an intensified larger scale diversified research program. A half-million dollar 30-ton machine, the world's most powerful source of high voltage electrons, designed solely for our use has tested tens of thousands of cigarettes. This program has already given to us direct and significant information of benefit to the smoking public.

Our consultants include Arthur D. Little, Inc. of Cambridge, Massachusetts, "one of the largest and most reputable industrial research organizations in the country,"* and eminent scientists from leading universities.

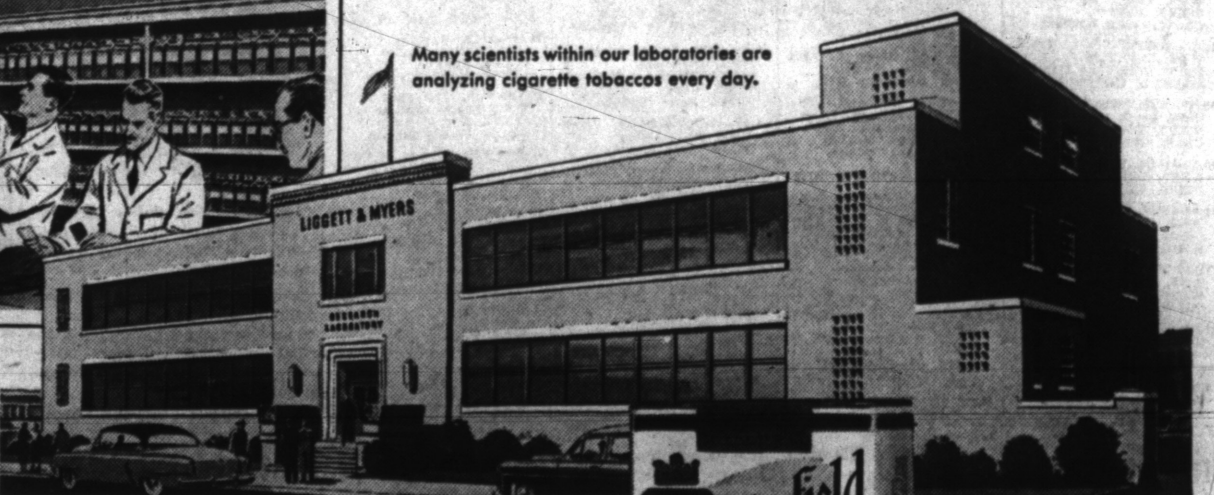

Today the public can confidently choose from a variety of brands—by far the best cigarettes ever made by the tobacco industry.

11 GM Experimental Cars to Highlight 1954 Motorama

U. S. SPORTS CAR—The Cutlass, one of 11 General Motors experimental cars which will go on display when GM's Motorama opens in New York City Thursday, is a two-passenger sports convertible, powered by an advanced 250-horsepower version of the "Rocket" engine. It is painted metallic gold, with the upholstery and steering wheel finished in pigskin. Oldsmobile is the manufacturer.

Sports Types Among Models

Draftsmen Were Given Free Hand to Pioneer, Curtice Says

Eleven new General Motors experimental cars, ranging in design from sports types to sedans, hardtops and a station wagon, will go on display Thursday when GM's Motorama opens in New York City. In addition, the company will show its experimental Firebird, the gas-turbine powered car announced Wednesday.

Harlow H. Curtice, GM president, said the models are entirely different from any production types now on the road.

Included is the Pontiac Bonneville Special, a sports car built on a 100-inch wheelbase with a Pontiac high performance straight-eight engine. Equipped with four carburetors, the car is 158.5 inches long and 68.5 inches high.

In commenting on the special automobiles, Curtice said:

"In these cars we have put into actual form the broadest range of advanced automotive thinking that the industry has ever publicly demonstrated. We have given our people a free hand to pioneer and the results are truly exciting. We believe the public will find our experiments stimulating."

All the cars were designed by the GM styling staff under the direction of Harley J. Earl, vice president.

Aside from the Bonneville Special, details of four of the 11 cars were released yesterday by the company.

They are the Cadillac El Camino hardtop coupe; Buick Wildcat II sports convertible; Oldsmobile Cutlass hardtop; and the Chevrolet Corvette Nomad station wagon.

Details of the other six cars will be released before the Motorama opens. The El Camino is a two-passenger hardtop, featuring what its designers call "aircraft styling." The car has a 115-inch wheelbase and a V-8 Cadillac 230 horsepower engine. Over-all length is 200.6 inches and the height is 51.5 inches.

The smallest Buick ever built, the Wildcat II is designed especially for the sports car fan. Just over 170 inches long and 48.2 inches high with the top up, the Wildcat has an open front fender treatment something like the old Stutz Bearcat. Fender hollows are lavishly chrome plated.

Built on a 110-inch wheelbase the Oldsmobile Cutlass features a radio-phonograph, a seat that pivots as well as tips forward and a tunnel for the Hydra-Matic gear selector lever. With a "fast back" design plus a short after deck, the Cutlass had high rear fins, stainless steel housing under the front fenders and 13-inch wheels.

Over-all length is 188½ inches; height, 51½ inches. Virtually wrapped in glass, the passenger compartment of the Chevrolet Corvette Nomad station wagon has two seats seating six persons. Equipped with a Chevrolet 150 horsepower six-cylinder engine, as used in Corvette production, the car has a 115-inch wheelbase, is 54 inches high and 191.1 inches long.

Claims America Is Under No Obligation to Unify Korea

By UPTON SINCLAIR

Some people say that we have lost a war for the first time in American history. That happens to be exactly what the Communists of both China and the Soviet Union are broadcasting to the world and, of course, it suits them very well to have Americans agreeing with them.

How did we get into this war? At the Potsdam Conference we agreed that the problem of Korea was to be settled on the basis that all the Japanese troops north of the 38th Parallel were to surrender to the Russians and all south of the 38th Parallel were to surrender to the Americans. That was in order to avoid any possibility of clash between the two allied armies. So it came about that the Russians held North Korea and we held South Korea.

McCarthy Investigating

Report Waste of Millions in Voice Engineering Unit

By EDWARD LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (UP) — Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis.) says his Senate investigations subcommittee is checking on how the Voice of America engineering division is operating under the Eisenhower administration.

A recommendation for such a check was made in a report yesterday by the investigative group that multimillion-dollar waste, "incompetence, stupidity or worse" was the rule and not the exception when the division was operating under Secretary of State Dean Acheson in former President Truman's administration.

McCarthy said in a statement the subcommittee has received information "of continuing waste and abuses of taxpayers' funds." He said it has directed that a new survey be made by engineers who will report within three weeks, after which the subcommittee will call witnesses.

The report the subcommittee filed yesterday with its parent, the Government Operations Committee dealt only with the technical operations division of the Voice, a cold war propaganda weapons which beams broadcasts to friendly and Iron Curtain countries.

The subcommittee said "Communist infiltration and left-wing slanting of and bias in programs" will be separately treated in another report.

The subcommittee has been an all-Republican group since its Democratic members walked out last summer in a row with McCarthy over his asserted sole right to hire and fire staff members.

Reviewing its hearings on the Voice's technical division, the subcommittee claimed credit for preventing the "squandering" of 13 million dollars for construction of two 10-million-dollar radio stations.

Two million had been spent, the report said, before the hearings brought out testimony that the projects were located in areas of atmospheric disturbance and could be replaced at a tenth the cost on more favorable sites.

The stations were known as Baker West, near Seattle, Wash., and Baker East, in North Carolina. The report said the terms of the Baker West contract awarded to J. G. Watts Construction Co. of Portland, Ore., were exorbitant. In February, it continued, the new administration ordered the project shut down.

But the subcommittee said that three weeks later it discovered the Watts contract was still in effect and the State Department "was continuing to pay $25,000 per month at the abandoned site."

The subcommittee said it then forced cancellation of the contract.

One of the Democratic former members of the subcommittee, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, said in a separate statement that since the subcommittee hearings a new report had been submitted to the State Department which would "seem to contradict testimony that the transmitters were mislocated."

McCarthy said a study was made by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in conjunction with the Radio Corp. of America and the Federal Communications Commission.

The subcommittee in its report said it had received evidence of "blunders" in planning the Baker East program, refusal of advice on how to save $300,000 on an antenna contract, waste of "at least a million dollars" in building a mobile transmitter on a ship, waste totaling $2,400,000 on various overseas antenna installations and employment of incompetent and unqualified engineer personnel.

Local Scouts Hear Job Talks

Specialists in Several Fields Give Information to Explorer Units

Twenty-five Explorer Scout units of Clinton Valley Council held a "Paycheck Stampede" on Saturday night in Lincoln Junior High School.

Specialists in several job fields gave vocational talks and answered the boys' questions. The specialists included Lt. Thomas Ryan of Selfridge Air Force Base, military and aviation; Mike Myers, Michigan Bell Telephone Co.; and Harold Gillen and Warren Kendall of West Bloomer State Park No. 2, conservation.

Others were Pontiac Police Chief Herbert W. Straley, law enforcement; Edward H. Leland, professional Scout executive; and John F. Blamy, Fred Voelker and William Killen, mechanics and engineering.

Following this program, the Pontiac Tumbling Club presented a variety show and Mason Case of Rochester exhibited colored slides of Philmont National Scout Ranch. Souvenir pennants were distributed to units which had participated in a "Northward Ho!" motorcade to Grayling. A convention of explorer unit delegates to plan the 1954 explorer program for the council was announced.

About 125 persons participated in the career-seeking activity.

Aide Tells Ike's 'Killing' Routine

Says No Day Goes By Without World Crisis for President to Settle

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J. (UP)—Bernard M. Shanley, special counsel to President Eisenhower, today painted a word picture of the "killing responsibility" of the President's job.

"He is aroused at all hours of the night and bothered at all hours of the day with crisis after crisis from Korea, East Germany, the Middle East," Shanley told Seton Hall University students in a prepared address.

"The President's main complaint is that we don't give him enough time to think, as he puts it," Shanley said. "Finally we had to set aside a half an hour in the morning and the same time in the afternoon, in order to give the President the time he requires."

"Just imagine the President with the problems he has on his mind having to beg for an hour's time in all during the day to think. This terrific schedule goes on until 6 o'clock at night with never a day without a crisis. No one will ever die of monotony."

Shanley, who is No. 2 man on the White House staff behind Chief Assistant Sherman Adams, said: "The day starts at 8 or before as the President arrives in his office about that time. It is heralded by a buzzer which is similar to reveille at West Point."

He said about 100 papers require the President's signature each day. A staff meeting is held at 8:30, he said, and the midday "mess" provides an invaluable chance for the staff to talk over the day's business and "put the pieces together."

After the morning meetings scheduled for each day of the week for the President are over, Shanley said, "there is a constant flow of visitors; meetings with congressmen, meetings with staff members, swearing in ceremonies, bill signing ceremonies, decorating heroes, meetings with associations and groups of every description. Then luncheons with staff members, potentates, ambassadors, advisors and congressmen," he said.

Evenings, he said, "are often taken up with formal dinners, and many nights are spent on the writing of speeches."

Michigan Serum Rushed to Italy to Save 2nd Life

PARMA, Italy (UP)—Another rush shipment of antihemophilic globulin from Michigan has probably saved the life of a second European child bleeding to death after losing a tooth.

The latest patient, 10-year-old Vincenzo Russo, was reported "remarkably improved" after his first injections of the serum yesterday. Doctors said his bleeding had stopped. And the pale little boy was able to sit up in bed, playing with a map of America and a toy airplane.

Similar injections last Monday saved 8-year-old Gottfried Eder in Innsbruck, Austria.

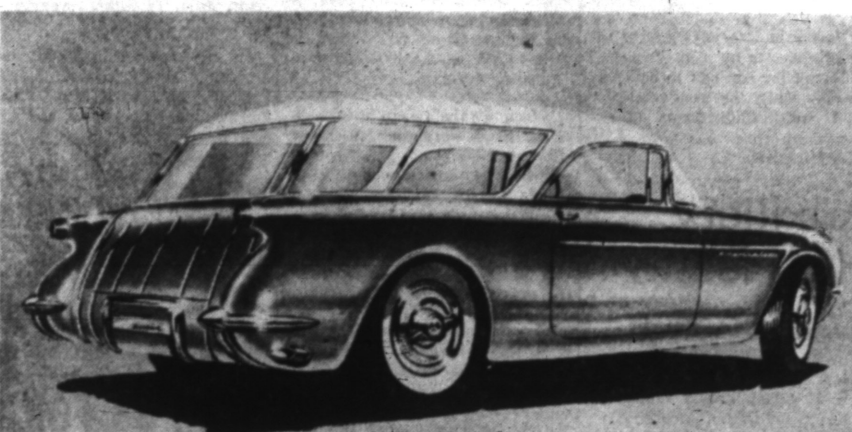

Both Vincenzo and Gottfried suffer from hemophilia, an hereditary condition which prevents blood from clotting.

Vincenzo had been bleeding for a week after losing a baby tooth. Gottfried's hemorrhage started with a tooth extraction.

In both cases the serum, unobtainable in Europe, was rushed from Michigan laboratories by U.S. military transport planes.

Psychiatrist Analyzes Own Tough Problem

By BILLY ROSE

There is a psychiatrist in this country who never listens to his patients. What's more, he has a very good reason for not listening—he's stone deaf.

His name is Dr. David J. Farber, and he lives at 450 Sutter St., San Francisco, Calif.

In case you've been cussing out your own bad luck lately, I'd like to tell you BILLY ROSE this man turned his affliction into an asset.

Shortly after World War II, psychiatrist David Farber, fresh out of the Army, noticed that sounds from close up were beginning to sound far away.

A specialist examined him and gave it to him straight — within a few years, his auditory nerves would be completely dead.

Such news, dismal though it is, wouldn't necessarily end the career of the average doctor. He can diagnose the ills of his patients with thermometers, fluoroscopes, X-rays, electrocardiographs, etc.

A psychiatrist, however, has no such tools. The only way he can come to grips with the ills of a mind is to have the owner of that mind talk to him, hour after hour, month after month.

However, unlike most of us who yell for crutches as soon as a shoe pinches, the young psychiatrist refused to be licked by his nervous system. I have no way of knowing, but it's my hunch that the analyst sat down and analyzed himself.

Why, he first asked himself was talk-talk between patient and psychiatrist so all-fired important? Because, obviously, there had to be an easy method of exchanging information.

Well, if the oral channel was clogged, why not try the written one — since it is communication that is important, not the means.

During the next couple of years, as his hearing was going, the affected man experimented with his new technique.

At first Farber's patients balked — they argued they could rattle away a mile a minute while speaking, but that their minds got tongue-tied when they tried to put their thoughts on paper.

Dr. Farber somehow managed to persuade most of his patients to give the new method a fair try. For those who could type, he supplied a typewriter. The others used a pencil or pen.

In each case, the analyst sat directly opposite the subject, observing him as he typed or wrote. The results were startling.

Dr. Farber does not claim that the written word says more than the spoken one. He does claim, however, that his method has certain advantages.

For instance, the underlinings, odd punctuation and misspellings of a patient frequently point the way to a line of inquiry which leads up strange mental back alleys to significant findings.

Also, the pressure with which a patient grips a pencil, the force or reticence with which he attacks the typewriter, the incidental finger tappings and foot rappings often tell him more about a person's mental state than the information contained in his words.

Now, I freely admit I don't know an id from an artichoke, and my opinion on any phase of psychotherapy isn't worth beans. Nevertheless, if my own id ever begins to turn haphazard, I won't hesitate to hit the leather of Dr. Farber's couch.

My reasoning may be amateurish, but to me it makes sense. If an analyst can start out by losing his hearing and wind up advancing the science of listening, he figures to be quite a fellow.

Besides, if you need a skull doctor to solve your problems, why not patronize one who has solved his own.

Stress Defense of the Continent

U. S. Will Spend Extra Billion for Interceptor Planes

WASHINGTON (UP) — When the United States spends an extra billion dollars next fiscal year on continental defense, it will be buying mostly fast interceptor planes intended to seek out and hit any attacking bombers.

Officials in a position to know said the interceptor program, which includes purchases of the new F102, a more than 700-mile-per-hour, almost automatic bomber hunter, would account for nearly all the increase.

The chain of radar warning installations along the northern perimeter of the continent, they said, is largely provided for by leftover funds of earlier years.

President Eisenhower mentioned the billion-dollar spending increase for continental defense in his State of the Union message Jan. 7 when he touched on his new look military program.

That program, leaning heavily on power to deliver a shattering counter-blow to any aggressor, apparently is winning strong Democratic support in Congress. There were reports that Democratic leaders are advising their colleagues to tone down criticism of foreign and military policies of the administration and that last year's Air Force appropriation cuts may fade as a partisan issue.

The Armed Services Committee held a hush-hush session Saturday with Secretary of Defense Wilson, Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Robert C. Sprague, Massachusetts Electronics Manufacturer who heads a committee making an independent survey of continental defense. No details of the discussions were made public.

For the 7 o'clock ceremony Mrs. Stahl selected an emerald green silk tulle dress with molded bodice and full skirt. She wore a white hat and a corsage of white camellias to complete her costume. Mrs. Martin wore pale gray lace over pink tulle with pink accessories and a corsage of pink camellias.

After a family reception at the home of the bride's parents, the new Mrs. Martin changed to a traveling costume of a white flannel sheath dress with a honey colored coat and mink scarf. Her white hat and gloves matched her corsage of white camellias.

After a two-week honeymoon in the Pocono mountains and New York City, the newlyweds will reside on Parkway drive.

The bride is a graduate of Rochester Institute of Technology and a member of Phi Upsilon Phi sorority. William attended Southern Illinois University.

Sun Season Under Way in Florida

Mrs. C. E. Wilson Enjoying Holiday in Southland

By ETHEL TOMBRINK
MIAMI — The season officially arrived this weekend with the opening of Hialeah. And more and more winter residents finally landed in the sunny South.

Big do's ahead will be parties honoring General Motors officials who'll be coming down for the 1954 Motorama here next month.

Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, wife of the United States secretary of defense, arrived Friday to open her Surf Club apartment. She will be joined shortly by Mr. Wilson.

Daughter Rosemary and her husband, J. Phil Hoyle, came down from their home in Delray Beach to welcome the Wilsons back to Florida. They'll be here with the Wilsons for a while.

Jessie Wilson could be considered for the "best-dressed" list among Cabinet wives. She wears lots of pastels which set off her silvery hair. And she's a vivacious person with brown eyes and a ready smile who thoroughly enjoys tripping the light fantastic at the Surf Club parties.

Other Michiganders back in the sunny South once again are George Trumbull. Again they'll winter in their penthouse apartment at the Vista Shores in Bal Harbour, just a moment's drive to the Surf Club where the Trumbulls spend a lot of time at their ocean-front cabana.

Indian Creek Country Club's first fashion show dinner - dance brought out a good crowd the other evening - and the men enjoyed the parade of styles just as much as the women. Don't let them tell you differently!

Among the spectators were the E. E. Potters, former Bloomfield Hills residents now living on La Gorce Island. They were with her mother, Mrs. Doran P. Potter of Detroit, who winters at the Sea View Hotel.

Designers' Agreement on Fashion Insures Milady's Spring Elegance

Backward Movement Is Stressed

Sheath Dress With Matching Coat Also Rates High

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE

Fashions would never be so elegant this spring were it not for the fact that designers have agreed on the proper look for milady.

Few top designers have overlooked the importance of the new backward movement in their collections — rather they stressed this new idea, using dramatic necklines, large sashes and jewels.

In review, the distaff side will have a choice of very slim skirts, all-around pleated skirts, or skirts which have fullness toward the hemline.

Dresses to choose from are feminine (not frilly), and they are frequently jewel studded. Not to be overlooked in making a spring selection is the costume which includes a matching coat and sheath dress. The coat is always lined, usually fitted, and the sheath is trimmed with the lining material.

Sheath dresses with bolero jackets also make excellent costumes. Some of these jackets will be very short, while others end at the hip socket. Either type will be flattering for Easter and spring wear. Not to be overlooked is the white pique trim which flatters many of these costumes.

Many afternoon dresses featuring the pique collars can be changed into striking cocktail and evening dresses by merely removing the collar.

Most sensational in the two-piece suit is the shifting in the length and styling of the sleeves. There'll be full but short sleeves, miniature sleeves and three-quarter sleeves, but rarely will you find the full-length sleeve this spring.

The scooped-out necklines and the scalloped neck styling make an ordinary suit a dressy suit. Little scarves, often referred to as "summer furs," adorn many of these suits to give the fullest measure of beauty to the fashion-conscious woman.

Although navy, gray and beige dominate the color scene for suits and daytime wear, the introduction of the bright new colors is most appealing.

In fact, milady will probably be the best dressed in years — what with the new mixed fabrics and the all-out effort of the designers to bring out the most in feminine beauty.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

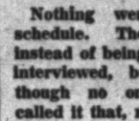

Nightgown Story Retold for Last Time—She Hopes

Looks as if I'll have to tell the nightgown story. Every mail brings requests and reader Virginia Davies of New York City says she'll perish of frustration if she's deprived any longer of this masterpiece.

I only hope I can get through the oft-told tale without anything untoward happening. The last time I attempted it by urgent request of a garden group in Montclair, N. J., I grew giddy in mid-story and had to sit down. I'm not a fainting type so I've always thought it was just that I was plain sick of a yarn on which I dined out just a few too many times.

It all happened in Hollywood where I'd been assigned by a magazine to interview 32 movie stars. I'd left New York in high spirits, carrying as a going-away present from a friend a "Hollywood nightgown," the flimsiest, most diaphanous garment I'd ever seen.

I'd also made a last-minute purchase of two dresses which needed minor alterations, to be done by a California representative of the firm I'd bought the garments from.

MISS MCBRIDE

Nothing went according to schedule. The movie stars, instead of being enchanted to be interviewed, balked. And, although no one in California called it that, rain fell and fell.

This particular afternoon I'd come in tired, discouraged and wet. All I wanted was to climb into a warm dry bed, read an escape novel and eat milk toast for supper. But the dressmaker was waiting for me. I reluctantly submitted as she turned me this way and that, stuck pins in me and chattered.

Finally she left, and with a luxurious sigh I arrayed myself in my new nightgown and dropped gratefully onto my bed. Then the telephone rang. It was the dressmaker. She'd left her rubbers outside my door, and would I please take them inside and keep them until she could stop by.

Rather irritably, just as I was (and you mustn't forget my—to put it mildly—Junoesque proportions in a nightgown that left nothing to the imagination) I threw wide the door, noted the rubbers had been kicked down the hall a piece, and glancing up and down the empty corridor, I started on my mission.

The door slammed behind me. Frantically I raced back and turned the knob. The door was locked.

I really think I went berserk. I beat on the door, crying pitiously. "Let me in!" Then I turned and put on the rubbers! They were open-toed but I felt better, more poised.

A narrow slit of light shining from under a door across the way caught my desperate eye. I ran over and rang the bell peal after peal, calling, "If you're a man, don't open this door!"

It opened instantly, and a middle-aged woman gazed at me in amazement. I stammered out my plight. She whooped with laughter and drew me inside where a friend also found me very funny.

The women had come from the Midwest to Hollywood for a look at the wild goings-on they'd read about—and I'm certain they thought they'd found some.

Office Men Criticize Gift of Lingerie

Personal Present for Sick Colleague From Whole Staff

By EMILY POST

A reader tells me: "One of our office co-workers—a married woman—recently underwent an operation. The office staff took up a collection to buy her a gift. The woman in charge of buying the present bought a very pretty nightgown and bed jacket to match. "Some of the men made quite a fuss when they found out what was sent and said that it was in very bad taste since the men in the office also contributed toward the present."

"The person who bought the present is very much upset over this and I promised I would write you for your opinion."

Answer: It is, perhaps, rather caviling to criticize since the present was bought by a woman and, in all probability, sent without being shown to the men. But, at the same time, to have chosen something a little less intimate would have been in better taste. Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter will receive her engagement ring very soon and the matter that is puzzling me is the proper thing to say to her fiancé expressing approval of him. I would be grateful for your help.

Answer: If you know him well, you would probably kiss him and say, "I couldn't choose a nicer son-in-law." If you do not know him very well, you could say, "The fact that Mary loves you makes me sure that her father and I will both share her opinion."

Dear Mrs. Post: When a tray with refreshments is passed to a room full of men and women, should all the women be served first and then the men?

Answer: Since it is very awkward to go around the room picking out the women and then make a second round, picking out the men, it is best to serve one or two women first, and then prefer the tray to the others as they happen to come.

Don't Douse All Blazes With Water

By HUBBARD COBB

If you are old enough you can probably remember when all one needed to put out a fire was some old-fashioned water.

Now, of course, water can only be used on certain kinds of fires and as you are apt to run across the other non-water type fires in your home, we thought we'd tell you just what you will need.

When some grease in the kitchen catches fire or some oil begins to burn you'll need some carbon-dioxide gas to put things out.

Dry chemicals are also okay and so is a vaporizing liquid-type extinguisher. Don't use water on grease and oil fires and that includes soda and acid-type extinguishers.

Trouble with water on a grease or oil fire is that the water just spreads things around and makes matters worse.

Electrical fires are tough to deal with because if you use any liquid that conducts electricity it may conduct the electricity right into you, which is the one place where you don't want it.

You can use dry chemicals, carbon dioxide vaporizing liquid on this type fire—but the foam type is out.

Any fire that is content to burn away on wood, papers or trash can be put out with old-fashioned water, but you want to be sure that you have enough water to do the job.

The extinguishers used on grease, oil and electrical fires can also be used but as they come in relatively small containers for use at home they are best used on small fires.

Rugged Leather Flooring Goes With Modern Decor

A leather floor? Why not if leather can take it?

Leather has always added to the beauties of homes, and the new floor tiles in their natural golden tan leather color fall in step with today's ideas of emphasizing natural materials.

Certain types of leather have long proved their ruggedness in other uses, and the new floor tiles are made of pigskin, which is well known for friction-resistance.

Just to make sure, the manufacturer treats the leather with four finishes, the last one lacquer, with a resulting surface that can be cleaned and waxed in the usual ways.

The leather tiles go down with a special adhesive over wood or cement and their flexibility makes it easy to fit the floor.

They can also be applied to plaster and wallboard, and designer Everett Brown suggests them for walls, screens and furniture application as well as for the type of floor sketched.

Mrs. R. A. S. — "Will you please tell me what I should use as an accent color and how to use it in my living room? The walls are light gray, the sectional furniture and a chair are rose beige, the rug is green tone-on-tone and the draperies have shades of green, rose, wine and yellow on an off-white background."

Any shade of the drapery design can be picked up for accent color, and with the restrained gray and beige, two or three can be used. You might repeat two or three in pillows and use the green in larger areas than the others to repeat the rug as well as drapery color.

How and for what the accent colors are used depends on what you like and what the room needs—there are so many possibilities in all kinds of decorative accessories.

However, make sure the color counts in a few large enough spots rather than many small scattered ones, and bright touches of metal, perhaps brass, will do wonders for this room.

Mrs. A. G. — "Are tapestries for either dining or living room walls outdated?"

Really good examples of every art are timeless. However, commercial tapestries of the kind that were in vogue a number of years ago are seldom seen today, partly because they were too drab for the fresh new colors that came into favor and partly because so many were not of fine enough quality to be enjoyed for a long time.

Be Economical

If you have a flair for the dramatic, you can exaggerate your brow line successfully. But don't overdo it. If the line is extended too high and wide, it makes the eyes appear small.

Carry Sand in Car

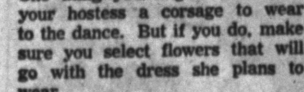

Fill a few cardboard milk containers with sand and keep them in the trunk of the family car. They'll come in mighty handy when the car gets stuck in some snow or ice, and they don't take up much room in the car trunk.

Blink, Blink, Blink

Blinking your eyes often throughout the day will help to keep them bright looking.

Manners

MAKE FRIENDS

A married couple invites you and your husband as their guests to a formal dance. What can you do to show your appreciation? One thing you might do is send your hostess a corsage to wear to the dance. But if you do, make sure you select flowers that will go with the dress she plans to wear.

Better no corsage than one that fights with an evening gown!

Book Gives Practical Help to Wives Who Want to Earn Money by Cooking

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Judging from my mail, every housewife alive would like to make a little extra money in her own home.

And since most housewives are at least reasonably good cooks, many of them turn to their kitchens in an effort to whip up some little delicacy they can sell.

Sometimes they are successful, but more often they are not.

When failure comes, it is due to one of many factors, among them: Bad planning, lack of originality, lack of a ready market, inconsistent quality of the product, guesswork in fixing prices, and sloppy, unattractive packaging or wrapping.

I have recently found a book which can help eliminate these causes of failure. It is called "Making Money in Your Kitchen," and shows you exactly how.

This book tells what contacts are needed, and how much capital (sometimes as little as $10!), it suggests ideas for variety, what can be made from entering food at fairs and contests, and gives businesslike methods of purchasing, record-keeping and pricing.

Of greatest interest are the case histories of women who have succeeded in making "kitchen money."

One of the most appealing

PETUNIA!

Whip a batch of biscuits up, which only takes a minute, and make a little hole in each and drop the jelly in it!

Or cheddar, Petunia—or marmalade. It's a fine biscuit variation for Sunday morning.

She Needs to Wake Up to Real Life

Trouble Caused by Youthful Promise of Future Glory

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Some time ago an attractive woman of 34 came to see me. First, she told me she feared the effects of her growing discontent on her little girl. Then she said: "I'm bored. Let's face it. After eight years of marriage, my husband bores me. Oh, he's kind enough. But if my future holds nothing but cooking food, clearing it up and watching my husband digest it while he reads the paper, I couldn't take it. Do you think that I need a psychologist?"

I said I didn't know. So she made up her own mind and got one. He is, I am sure, trying to release her from the cocoon spun about her by romantic claims on life.

How was it spun? By a thousand suggestions of future glory so gossamer light she never knew they had touched her. By childhood flatteries of her looks, brains and other assets she didn't have to work for, by too much pride in her social successes, by protection against Saturday morning housework.

By it all beginning to add up to the promise that special things were due her, until in adolescence the Daydream could take her over.

It was easy for the Daydream. All the past evasions of dirty jobs in mother's kitchen made it simple for the Daydream. And while she sat in theaters lost in movies about desert island passion and penthouse love, it tightened its deadly web.

So we mustn't be surprised that now, cleaning up in her own kitchen, she finds life boring. Why wouldn't it be? It can't possibly compete with the Daydream of two mortals living on eternal peaks of dramatic sensations.

In nightdreaming, the alarm clock wakes us up from our illusion that we are dancing in Cinderella's ball gown. But in the Daydream, no alarm clock wakes us up. Its visions of glory persist.

Get Out That Brush

If a cold has interfered with your shampooing schedule, give your hair extra brushing. Cover the bristles with gauze to catch dust and soot. You can also use witch hazel on cotton pads to freshen soiled locks.

For Marred Felt

If fingermarks have marred your felt hat, rub them very gently with fine sandpaper.

Fumes Kill Man Working on Car

Body Is Found Beneath Car in Closed Barn; Death Accidental

Jack Joyce, 29, of 707 Lakeview, Lake Orion, was killed accidentally Saturday afternoon by carbon monoxide fumes while making repairs on his car in a barn at 128 Hillcrest, Waterford Township.

Joyce, who was to be arraigned in Oakland County Circuit Court today on a bad check charge, was found lying under the car by Charles Chandler, 14 Rosshire Ct. Chandler told Oakland County sheriff's deputies that the car motor was running and the barn doors were closed.

Joyce was taken to Pontiac General Hospital by the Waterford Township Fire Department in an ambulance where he was pronounced dead by Dr. Leon Cobb, Oakland County deputy coroner. The death was ruled accidental.

Station Attendant Is Robbed of $390

A 17-year-old Waterford Township boy, lone attendant in a service station near his home, was robbed by a youthful bandit of $390 Saturday night, according to Michigan State Police of the Pontiac Post.

Jerry Saunders of 1836 Airport Rd., was working at a Speedway Service Station at 1504 Airport Rd. when a teen-aged bandit holding his hand in his coat said, "Hand over all the money in the place."

The attendant said the youth then fled to a dark colored 1946-48 Ford Coupe, climbed in the passenger side, and the auto sped north on Airport road.

The bandit was medium in build, Saunders said, with dark wavy hair, and wearing a dirty hip-length jacket. Walter Jacobs of 3819 Iris, Maceday Lake, owner of the station, was home at the time.

Driver in Hospital, Tots Hurt in Crash

Howard W. McAllister, 37, of 507 S. Paddock St., is in fair condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital where he is being treated for a skull fracture suffered in an accident Sunday at Auburn Ave. and Clifford St.

Also injured were Archie Davenport Jr., 5, and his brother John, 3, of 2695 Harrison St., Rochester. They were in their father's packed auto when the McAllister car struck it. Both were treated and released.

Pontiac Police, still investigating the accident, were unable to get a statement from McAllister. Davenport Sr., 41, said his auto was out Saturday.

Crash at Intersection Injures Keego Man

Ernest Joyce, 56, of 2968 Hensman, Keego Harbor, was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for cuts and bruises suffered in an auto accident while a passenger in a car driven by his son, William A. Joyce, 28, of 718 E. First St., Saturday.

Their auto was struck by one driven by William J. Meyers, 35, of 530 S. Jessie St., at Saginaw and Fairgrove Sts. Pontiac Police quoted Meyers as saying he made a left turn in front of the Joyce auto.

Stop May Yield to Yield in Stop Signs

CHICAGO (UP)—"Yield" signs may replace the traditional "Stop" signs in some communities, according to the American Municipal Association.

The association said Logan, Utah, has tested the new traffic signs for two years and found them an improvement.

The signs say "Yield the Right of Way." They are placed at intersections where the flow of cars in one direction is not heavy enough or constant enough to warrant ordering all cars to stop.

On approaching a "Yield" sign, the driver must slow down but may proceed without stopping if there are no other cars crossing the intersection.

At one Logan crossing, there had been 10 accidents during the year prior to installation of the "Yield" sign. Since the changeover, there have been only two accidents, the association said.

Logan city officials say that the "Yield" signs are not ignored as "Stop" signs frequently are.

Judge Hartrick to Try Leuan Harrelson Jr.

Oakland County Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick is scheduled to preside at the negligent homicide trial of Leuan W. Harrelson Jr. 18, starting tomorrow.

Harrelson, of 26 Delaware Dr., is charged with the death of Mrs. Veda N. Coon, 37, of 49 Dwight Ave. who was struck Oct. 9 by the youth's car on W. Huron St. and Dwight avenue.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor will represent the state in the case.

Detroit Pastor Preaches Here

Inter-Church Meeting Is Held at All Saints Episcopal Church

"Ye are of more value than many sparrows," Matt. 10, 31, was the text. Dr. Chester A. McPheeters chose Sunday evening for his sermon at All Saints Episcopal Church.

Dr. McPheeters, pastor of Metropolitan Methodist Church, Detroit, spoke on "The Glory of the Gospel" at the second in the series of Inter-church fellowship meetings of the year.

"To you this text does not bring a particular thrill, but to the folks to whom Jesus spoke, they were words of hope to a nation that was helpless. When Christ said to them, 'You are worth something, and God will do everything he can to redeem you,' it was a ray of light in a dark world," the speaker said.

He said the validity of one's religion is manifest in the kind of a God he has.

"When God made man in his own image, he also designed that every man should have a special identification and purpose for his life."

"Christianity teaches that human life has great value, that God gives to each a personality, an aptitude and that he made each different in uniqueness," he said.

Many do not know what they are worth and few live up to what they are worth, he suggested.

He quoted Luther Burbank as one saying, "A weed is a neglected plant. If weeds have a value, certainly human beings have."

"There are no insurmountable handicaps in a Christian land," he said and in this connection he spoke of Dr. George Washington Carver and Helen Keller. "Such opportunities do not come in pagan countries, but they do in countries that have heard the story of Christ," he suggested.

"The glory of the Christian Gospel is in that God knows your name and you have worth. This is the motivation of the revolutionary Gospel. This is the hope of the world. 'Ye are worth more than many sparrows,'" he closed by saying.

Dr. William P. Lemon gave the Bible exposition preceding the fellowship hour. "The New Testament at a single view," was his topic.

Two Risk Lives to Rescue Pilot

Naval Reservists Pull Protesting Flier From Flaming Cockpit

ATLANTA (UP)—A Navy pilot who steered his crippled Corsair fighter away from a residential area to a crash landing warned his would-be rescuers to stay clear of the flaming wreckage and shouted—"Tell my wife I died like a man."

But two daring Navy enlisted reservists reached into the cockpit of the F4U fighter Sunday to pull Lt. Comdr. J. B. Kiser of Memphis, Tenn., to safety.

Kiser, 39, a veteran of World War II and the Korean War, was reported in "good condition" at Veterans Hospital here today although he suffered a dislocated hip and burns on his body and one arm.

A Navy spokesman said C. C. Gassett, a chief in the Navy Reserve, and Clifford H. Ivey, also a reservist, risked their lives to rescue Kiser, smashing through the cockpit's cover and removing a steel beam pinning the pilot to his seat while flames licked at the fighter's gas tanks.

It took Gassett and Ivey about seven minutes to free the Navy officer. All the time he kept yelling: "Get out of here. Leave me here. This plane's going to blow up any minute."

And, finally, Kiser, in what he thought would be his last words, said, "Tell my wife I love her... tell her I died like a man."

3 Hurt in Accident on Mechanic Street

Three persons were treated at Pontiac General Hospital for minor injuries suffered in an auto accident Sunday on Mechanic street west of Paddock street.

Treated for cuts and bruises were Mrs. Ollie Evans, 36, of 282 S. Jessie St., driver, and her passenger, Miss Rachel Craig, 29, of 18 Michigan Ave., and Leroy W. Shafer, 65, of 67 N. Shirley St., driver of the second auto.

Pontiac Police quoted Shafer as saying that his auto went into the opposite lane after he was blinded by sun rays.

Dies of Pneumonia While Held in Jail

A Holly man being held on a disorderly charge at Oakland County Jail died Saturday morning of pneumonia, according to findings in a post mortem conducted Saturday at Pontiac General Hospital by Dr. John J. Marra, hospital pathologist.

Clifford Whitmore, 52, was jailed Friday night by Holly police, and was returned to his cell after he asked for a trial on the disorderly charge. He was unable to furnish $300 bond set by Orion Township Justice Helmer G. Stanback.

The prisoner was found lying on the floor of his cell about 11 a. m. by Turnkey Leonard Nelson who summoned Dr. Isaac C. Prevette, deputy Oakland County coroner. Prevette said Whitmore had died shortly before the doctor's arrival.

Baby Unlocks Door When Candy Calls

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UP)—How do you get a 2-year-old boy to open the bathroom door after he has locked himself in?

Mrs. Donald E. Martin, wife of the county attorney, and five of their seven children pleaded with little Donald B. Martin for half an hour Saturday.

"Huh," was Donald's only response as he splashed water on the floor.

Finally 8-year-old Mike had an idea. "Ops," exclaimed Mike. "I spilled my jelly beans."

The bathroom door flew open immediately.

Domestic Rift Is Lamented by Ida Lupino

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Looking back on the wreckage of her third marriage, Ida Lupino sighed: "I guess he just didn't want to be domesticated."

"There was no other reason," she said. "He just didn't want to be settled down. It's too bad. I feel sorry for him. He may feel that way now, but wait until he gets a little older. He'll feel awfully lonely. He'll wish he had someone to hold on to."

She was speaking about her estranged husband, Howard Duff, a long-time bachelor, he is the fellow who played Sam Spade on the radio. One day he walked out of the house and didn't return.

"After Christmas, he brought his mother by the house to see Bridget, our daughter," Ida said. "Other than that, I haven't seen him in the last 10 or 12 weeks."

Being an actress, writer, director and producer, Ida is an active woman. But she said she tried to make Duff a happy home. During the four months of their recent reconciliation, she stayed home and tended to the house, she said.

"But he just doesn't go for the domesticity bit," she said.

Ida's two previous husbands were actor Louis Hayward and producer Collier Young. I asked how come she always chose husbands from show business.

"Because show business people are the only ones I meet," she replied.

I hazarded the observation that most of the happy marriages in Hollywood consisted of one mate who was out of the picture business. Would that be a solution for her?

"Oh, no, ducky," she answered. "It really doesn't matter what business you're in. All it takes for a happy marriage is two people who will give and take with each other and who are emotionally mature. Need I say more?"

Duff was originally slated to be directed in "The Story of a Cop" by Ida, but you can bet that won't happen. In the first place, she is not going to direct the picture.

"I'm neither directing, producing or casting," she remarked. "If Howard is not in the picture, it is not because of me. The fact of the matter is that nobody has heard from him."

Duff was not available for comment.

Service Station Man Identifies Suspect

Stanley Hards, 3480 Shimmons Rd., Pontiac Township, an employee at Bouck Brothers service station, 2260 Pontiac Rd., has identified James Taylor, 45, as the man who robbed the station of $210 on Dec. 14.

Hards made the identification Friday at Sandusky after Taylor was arrested by Lapeer County authorities for armed robbery. He admitted robbing the Bouck's Service station and Dolan Drug Store, 164 Auburn Rd., on the same night.

Oakland County sheriff's detectives Loyal Wertz and Elmer McQuinn said no warrant will be issued for Taylor here since he and a companion, Gordon Turner, 30, are being tried for armed robbery in Lapeer County.

A 17-year-old Royal Oak youth who reportedly escaped from Boys Vocational School in Lansing Friday was turned over to authorities by Pontiac Police after he was involved in a hit-run injury accident Sunday at Huron and Saginaw Sts.

William Walkerdine Jr., 14, of 1876 Woodland Ave., Sylvan Lake, a passenger in Beebe's auto, was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for bruises.

Caston, police said, fled on foot after the accident. He later was apprehended by police while hitchhiking toward Royal Oak.

Put Aside Reds, Author Advises

Culbertson Claims U. S. Can Meet Soviet Threat Only With Power

NEW YORK (INS) — William S. Culbertson, prominent lawyer and ex-diplomat, is a firm believer in the thesis that "For us, the American people, the present is a supreme moment in history . . . our first task is to turn aside the Soviet menace."

His book "Liberation" (published by Tupper and Love, Atlanta) is based on the assumption that "The earth on which we live is divided into two worlds with irreconcilable standards in personal and political affairs."

"As a result," he says, "World conflict — even the possibility of atomic war — dominates and will continue to dominate for a generation, the life of all peoples, especially those of the U.S.A."

The former U. S. Ambassador to Rumania insists that the "Soviet threat to our life can be met . . . only by power." He professes a deep concern for the liberation of "captive nations" and devotes the major part of his book to "the various sources of power which give to the United States its leadership in the free world."

Culbertson points out that "in resolving the great issues of our day our individual responsibility is inseparable linked with the use of our impressive power which arises:

"From our geographical position.

"From our resources, manpower, industrial organization and our technological achievements.

"From our trade and trade policy.

"From our financial strength, governmental and private.

"From our conception of truth and our psychological approach in the world conflict.

"From the possession of the means of violence and our knowledge to destroy the enemy.

"From those deep-flowing currents of non-material power in our national life — irresistible and creative — which give purpose and meaning to our responsibility."

The author goes on to say that America must "take no chances" and must rely on its "own power." He adds:

"In stating the limitation of the United Nations I do not intend to repudiate the hopes for world co-operation which I earnestly share." But, he says: "Living in the present world is too serious an affair to permit the softening of our foreign policy under the illusion that security can come in our day from the United Nations as such. It must come in all cases, as it did in Korea, from our power and the power of our allies."

Culbertson asserts:

"We need to accept — reluctantly if that will make us feel better — that for the time being war is the business of the American people. It will so remain until our diplomacy and strategy, backed by our power, including Atomic and Hydrogen power, stops the threat of Soviet aggression."

To prove his thesis, Culbertson quotes the Bible, and a number of famous authors down the ages. Then, in his "epilogue", he warns churches and societies that "so much peace talk is superficial and immature."

"The tendencies in our life," he says, "running almost uncontrolled toward war, cannot be stopped by emotional appeals and wishful thinking."

15 Policemen Answer False Alarm at Bar

BALTIMORE (AP)—Police received a report last night that three men with pistols were holding up a Baltimore bar.

Eight officers invaded the front of the establishment. Seven others entered the back door. The 15 policemen met midway and discovered the report was a false alarm.

Driver Treats Strap-Hangers to Dinner, Show

DENVER (AP)—Homeward-bound passengers on John P. Leslie's tramway bus looked up in surprise the other night when the big vehicle pulled to the curb in the middle of the block.

Leslie, 37, turned to face them, grinning.

"I want you all to go with me to dinner and a show," he said. "I'm not kidding."

Ten of the passengers—nine of them women—accepted the invitation. The others were delivered to their doorsteps.

It was part of a "surprised desires" contest conducted by the Denver Post. Leslie was one of 10 winners, saying he wanted most to take to dinner and a show his passengers, "who have treated me swell."

The nine women passengers? Well, Mrs. Leslie also went along for the party.

Hunter Killed by Train on Railroad Trestle

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP)—Two men and a boy, on a hunting trip, were crossing a railroad trestle yesterday when a freight train bore down on them. They started to run.

Fred Limberg, 43, jumped to safety as he approached the end of the 80-foot-long trestle. His son Jack, 11, climbed over the side, clinging to a support and, after the train had passed, slid 25 feet to the ground.

The third hunter, Gene Callanan, 31, apparently tripped as he fled before the train. He was killed.

Congratulations on Blessed Event Come Too Soon

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Indignant inquiries from couples with new marriage licenses are being explained this way by the Marriage License Bureau:

The bureau has been enclosing with licenses it issues a Treasury Department letter urging each couple to buy savings bonds.

In a recent mixup, however, the bureau received a bundle of Treasury Department letters intended for new parents. These were enclosed with the licenses without being read.

They said in part: "Dear parents: Please accept our warmest congratulations on the birth of your child . . ."

Low Troop Morale in Alaska Is Denied

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Criticism of troop training in Alaska was answered here Sunday by Col. Carl E. Lundquist, 49, commander of the fourth regimental team there.

"All this talk about our troops suffering from a barracks mentality is pure bunk," said the colonel who is here to visit his father, Charles V. Lundquist of Grand Rapids.

"Half of the troops in my command are living in quonset huts but their morale is excellent," he said.

His unit goes out on at least three field maneuvers a month, camping in pup tents for days with the temperature as low as 50 degrees below zero, Col. Lundquist said.

Col. Lundquist said much of the criticism of Alaskan troops training is based on "misinformation."

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Thomas Evans Riddle, 107, one of the last five living Civil War veterans, lay critically ill today of pneumonia.

Riddle, a thin little man, became ill yesterday morning at the State Confederate Home for Men in Austin and his condition rapidly got worse.

Heads Tell Mute Tale of Fate of Zoo Pheasants

BALTIMORE (AP)—The chopped-off heads of three silver pheasants were found in a cage yesterday at the Baltimore Zoo.

The bodies of the birds were missing.

Now in Operation...70 more coke ovens to help make 4 million ingot tons of steel

This week, another installation in Great Lakes Steel's expansion goes to work. Seventy new coke ovens are going on the job to help us increase our service to the automotive and other industries which use flat-rolled steel.

From these ovens will come the additional coke required for fuel in the blast furnaces, a part of the integrated and balanced facilities which now give us a steel making capacity of 4 million ingot tons annually. This illustration gives a "behind the scenes" glimpse of what's necessary to maintain our full integration and provide the balance in facilities necessary to insure customer satisfaction.

Offices also in Chicago, Cleveland, Grand Rapids, Lansing, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Toledo

Because Great Lakes Steel is completely integrated and in balance, it is more than ever a dependable first source of flat-rolled steel. Starting with ore, we work it through our own blast furnaces, bessemer, open hearths, blooming mills, hot and cold rolling mills and merchant mills, right down to the finished forms.

And at our plant the steel-making and finishing capacities are geared to guarantee the kind of service a manufacturer can count on in the future, as well as the present. Great Lakes Steel Corporation, Detroit 29, Michigan.

Detroit Preps Face Night Ban

DETROIT (U)—Night-time prep school football and basketball faced a possible ban at Detroit's public schools today as a result of "teen-ager hoodlums" in which a boy was stabbed and badly hurt.

School superintendent Arthur Dondineau called a meeting of school principals at which he said he would demand a ban.

Five boys were held by police. They were among 15 who were arrested after what police called a "mob attack" on three players following a basketball game Friday night.

Ross DeBoskey 17, star center of the Mackenzie high team, was stabbed in the back with an ice pick. He and two teammates were attacked after their team had played a game with Central High.

Police said the five admitted they took part in the attack and said that it was planned beforehand. They denied the actual stabbing, however.

DeBoskey's companions, Jacques Berlin and Joe Davidson, both 17, were treated for head injuries.

Part of the ice-pick, five inches long, had broken off in DeBoskey's back. It was removed at Receiving Hospital. DeBoskey was taken off the hospital's critical list Sunday.

One lung was punctured. Fellow students gave DeBoskey blood transfusions.

Police Sgt. Harold Thurkow named three of the five youths who he said admitted their part in the attack. The other two were juveniles. Those he named were Alonzo Edwards, 18, Rex Durham, 17, and Leslie Wakefield, 17.

Warrants will not be sought until police determine who was responsible for the stabbing.

DeBoskey, Berlin, and Davidson left the dressing room at Central's gymnasium and started toward their car when they said they were jumped by a gang of "from 30 to 50 guys."

Edward Schulz, Mackenzie coach said:

"I walked out of the school a few minutes after them with other members of the team. The mob had broken up when I got there. First I knew about it was when DeBoskey came staggering toward me and leaned his head against the building."

Detroit's public schools have participated in night sports for many years. In recent years there has been trouble at games. Police say there has been no particular reason other than general rowdiness.

Harrison Grabs Crosby's Cash With 210 Card

Galleries of 20,000 at Final; Burkemo, O'Doul Tie for Team Honors

By RUSS NEWLAND
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (U)—Easy going E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, veteran trouper on golf's tournament trail, was $2,000 richer today and the champion of the 1954 Bing Crosby 54 hole.

"This is a swell way to start the New Year," Harrison drawled.

The old Arkansas Traveler of the fairways fronted his fellow professionals in the windup of the famed spar-with-par event with a three day total of 210. Harrison posted 71-69-71, cypressely on three courses, Cypress Point, Monterey Peninsula and Pebble Beach.

A crowd estimated at close to 20,000 saw the final round. Harrison led by two shots at the end of 36 holes. He three-putted the 18th green for a 7, two over par, yesterday but edged out Jimmy Demaret by a single stroke.

Demaret, veteran from Houston, shot 73-68-70 for 211 and $1250.

Third place, and $1000 went to Timmy Bolt of Houston with 71-70-71-212.

The pro-amateur competition ended in a four-team tie with best ball totals of 193.

They were Marvin (Bud) Ward, Great Falls, pro, and Harvie Ward, 1952 British Amateur champion now of San Francisco; Walter Burkemo, Detroit, and Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, manager of the San Diego Coast League baseball club; Art Wall Jr., Honesdale, Pa., and National Amateur champion Gene Little of San Diego, and Doug Ford, Yonkers, N. Y., playing with Monty Moncrief of Fort Worth, Tex.

Little was a ball of fire the first two days, carding 70 and a 69, while Wall shot a pair of 77s. But the National Amateur champ lagged Sunday and didn't post his medal score.

Defending tournament champion Lloyd Mangrum started as the favorite but could do no better than a 217 and earnings of $112.50.

Louise Suggs Wins Tourney

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (U)—After the 1st tournament of the 1954 women's golf circuit, little Louise Suggs of Atlanta today held the same spot among money winners that she held at the end of last season—at the top.

The 30-year-old Miss Suggs won top money of $975 with her steady, 77-77-77-231 play in the Sea Island Women's Open tournament which ended yesterday.

Bev Hanson of Pasadena, Calif., was short with a 14-foot putt that would have given her a birdie on the 18th hole and a 1st place tie. Her final round 78 placed her in a tie for 2nd, at 232, with Betty Hicks of Palm Springs, Calif., who also had a 78. They won $500 each.

Babe Didrickson finished out of the money with 83 for 246.

BU Honors Cochrane, Former Tiger Manager

BOSTON (U)—After a long absence, Mickey Cochrane, baseball's Hall of Fame catcher, will return to his Boston University alma mater on Jan. 29 to be honored by the varsity club.

Cochrane, one of BU's all-time athletes greats from 1920-23, became one of the Philadelphia Athletics' greatest catchers and later managed the Detroit Tigers.

Ed Olson on M-L Board

Among the new directors named at the recent meeting of Multi-Lakes Conservation association was Ed Olson of Commerce. Mr. Olson's name was inadvertently omitted from the list of officers published a few days ago.

FAMILY TEAMWORK—On their very first ice fishing expedition, Saturday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Campau, 410 East Avon road, Rochester, got a thrill out of landing a 33-inch-long, 8½ pound northern pike (above). The fish was speared on Van Norman Lake, Waterford. Mrs. Campau led the sleek fish into the hole through the ice where Campau drove home the spear. They were using a friend's shanty, and had been on the ice only 20 minutes when Mr. Pike came along.

Meets Rindone Saturday

Olson Plans 2 Tuneups Before Facing Gavilan

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (U)—Bobo Olson plans to take two fights before he defends his middleweight title against Kid Gavilan April 2 in Chicago.

The champion, idle since Oct. 21, when he won the title by battering Randy Turpin, boxes Joe Rindone of Roxbury, Mass., Saturday at San Francisco on the Saturday night fights (ABC-TV).

Although Olson will be a heavy favorite to win, Rindone holds 1933 victories over Pierre Langlois and Joey de John. In fact, he sent De John into retirement with a second round TKO Nov. 23 at Syracuse, N. Y.

Vince Martinez, of Paterson, N. J., and Rocky Castillo of Chicago, a pair of youngsters anxious to move up into the first 10 of the welter class, top the Friday show at Madison Square Garden (TV-NBC, radio-ABC).

Since losing to Chico Vejar and Danny Giovannelli early in '53, Martinez has won five in a row, including a decision over Vejar Nov. 20.

Hoosiers Eying Bucks as Sixth Big Ten Victim

Tonight's Contest at Bloomington Heads a 3-Game Program

CHICAGO (U)—Indiana's Hoosiers were well in front of the Big Ten basketball pack today and eyeing Ohio State as their sixth straight conference victim.

Game tonight at Bloomington, Ind., heads a three-game program. Iowa, knocked down to runnerup position by Minnesota Saturday, makes its 1st road appearance of the season, against Illinois, and Wisconsin is at Michigan.

Hoosiers almost stumbled in opening Big Ten games this season and twice narrowly escaped defeat—once by Michigan and once by Wisconsin.

But now Indiana's defending Big Ten and NCAA champs apparently are in full stride. Able to beat Wisconsin by only three points on their own court, Hoosiers traveled to Madison Saturday and walloped the Badgers 90-74 as Don Schlundt scored 33 points and Bob Leonard 23.

When Iowa, a three-time winner, dropped a 59-55 decision to Minnesota, it left the Hoosiers in sole possession of the Big Ten lead.

The young Hawkeyes battled the Gophers down to the wire but lost out in the closing moments. Ed Kalafat of Minnesota led scoring with 30 points.

Meantime, Illinois disposed of Ohio State 82-78 as the Illini's Johnny Kerr, Big Ten's leading scorer, outduelled the Buckeyes' Paul Ebert 23 points to 13; Michigan beat Michigan State 64-62, and Purdue won a Big Ten game for the 1st time this season by defeating Northwestern 78-63.

Snead Finally Ends DeVicenzo Jinx at Panama

PANAMA CITY, Panama (U)—Sammy Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., has finally ended the jinx that Roberto DeVicenzo of Argentina held over him in the Panama Open Golf Tournament.

Snead set a new course record of 271 in winning the $7,500 tournament yesterday by six strokes over DeVicenzo, who had beaten him the last two years and also held the former course record of 274.

This year, DeVicenzo finished with a 277 total, barely edging Pete Cooper of Tampa, who shot a 278. Skip Alexander of St. Petersburg, Fla., was fourth with 281.

Eaglets Host Bens in Prep Cage Feature

Rams, Shamrocks Both in Action; Milford Five Goes After No. 7

By JACK SAYLOR
The biggest share of Oakland County's high school basketball squads are taking Tuesday night off, but 18 games are slated including a full card in both Wayne-Oakland and Suburban Catholic Leagues.

Spotlight falls on a pair of undefeated Catholic League quintets as St. Benedict invades the nest of Orchard Lake St. Mary's Eaglets. First place in the SCL is at stake as well as unbeaten records.

Orchard Lakers have won five in a row, all league games, with their toughest game to date being last Friday's nine-point win over St. James St. Benedict, meanwhile, has won eight in a row (5 within the league).

Ravens haven't been pressed since beating St. Gregory, 36-30, in the season opener.

Game may turn into a scoring duel between Bens' Bill Longo and Gene Stasiolowicz of the Eaglets. Both Pontiac parochial fives see action with St. Fred's looking for their 1st win against St. Rita at home and St. Mike's traveling to St. James in Ferndale.

Milford, winner of six straight, is at home against Clarenceville. Trojans have lost all six games this season, but Milford should not take them lightly. Redskins need only look back to Farmington's experience last Friday.

Falcons came into Waterford top-heavy choice to hand the Skip-pers their 8th straight loss. But the Waterford quint out-played the Inter-Lakes leaders all the way to win a 57-44 upset.

With the 1st crucial point of his schedule passed successfully, Milford could extend its winning streak for at least several more games. Northville is at Clarkson and Brighton at Holly Tuesday in other Wayne-Oak contests.

A pair of inter-league games also provide interest. Lake Orion plays Avondale at Auburn Heights, and Romeo has a re-match with Utica on the latter's floor. Romeo won the 1st meeting, 55-49, then after losing to Rochester has run up four straight wins.

Barney Swinehart's Uticans started slowly with losses to Romeo and Rochester, then were nipped by Warren (still unbeaten) 40-39, before scoring easy victories over Center Line and Lakeview.

The schedule:

St. Rita at St. Fred's; St. Mike's at St. James; St. Benedict at O.S. St. Mary; Dearborn Lewney at Southfield; Lake Orion at Avondale; Romeo at Utica; Northville at Clarkson; Clarenceville at Milford; Brighton at Holly; Clawson at Warren; Lake Shore at Farmington; East Park at East Detroit; Utica at Mayville; South Lake at DUB; Kennedy at Cranbrook; Royal Oak at Ferndale; South Lyon at Lakeland; Shrine at Redford St. Mary.

Teams Register Easy Wins in 'Y' Cage Loop

Most games in Pontiac's YMCA Hi-Y basketball league Saturday resulted in easy victories for the winning teams.

Only close game was played in the Senior loop with Phalanx edging Waterford, 31-29, with Joe Walker taking high-point honors.

In other senior league games, Harold Richards paced Pontiac Hi-Y to a 32-20 decision over Pontiac Voal, Wilson Ave. Methodist downed Central Methodist, 27-15, with John Shurman leading the way, and First Baptist out-scored Elmwood Methodist, 34-23, with Dave Kives high.

In junior play, St. George drubbed Lincoln, 30-8 and Eastern

Casey Stengel Sees New York Yankees Well-Fixed for Shot at Sixth Consecutive American Loop Flag

By GRANTLAND RICE
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—Casey Stengel sits on top of one of his California hills, monarch of all he surveys. Waning January is moving into February and February is the month Casey moves into action again in search of his 6th successive pennant.

"What I'd like to do," Casey says (when translated, "is to set a record that will take seven years to beat."

"Seven years, after this next month, is so far off I won't bother about what happens. If I can make it six in a row, I won't have to bother about somebody beating the mark, even if it happens."

"What team do you fear, as Alonzo Stagg used to fear Purdue?" I asked Casey. "Indians, White Sox or Red Sox?"

I could see that Casey couldn't understand why the Red Sox, shy on good pitching, traded Maurice McDermott, an 18-game winner. That hurt their chances a lot in my estimation, a viewpoint also held by many others. Casey refused to be drawn into the controversy, however.

Woverines Trip MSC for First Time in 4 Years to Mark State Cage Play

A pair of close finishes and the extension of an undefeated streak provided high points in a battery of nine games played Saturday by Michigan college basketball teams.

The win boosted Michigan ahead of MSC in conference standings as Kerr not only holds the lead for games played in the Big Ten but also in statistics covering all games—both conference and non-conference.

For 12 games overall, he has scored 310 points for a 25.8 average. In five Big Ten games he has scored 141 for a 28.2 average.

Ebert, all-game leader last week, dropped to runnerup in this category this week, as Kerr held him to 13 points in Illinois' victory over Ohio State Saturday. Kerr scored 23.

Ebert now has a 24.4 average for all games and 24.5 for the conference. Schlundt's respective figures are 22.5 and 26.5.

Pontiac YMCA swimmers scored a double victory over Ann Arbor Saturday, setting several records in the process. Junior Division swimmers won, 60-4, while in the Prep class, Pontiac was a 37-18 victor.

Pontiac juniors completely out-classed their rivals, taking 1st and 2nd in every event. Pool records were set by Dennis Simonsen in the individual medley and breast stroke, and by Ronnie Salgeon in the 40 and 100-yard free style.

This pair also teamed with Dick Willard and Gordon Bray to break the mark in the free style relay.

Pontiac's two prep relay teams each broke records in their meet. Medley combine included Bob Newman, Bruce Norvell and John Friedly, while swimming on the free style relay were Newman, Alex Maudum, Mike Goodsell and Dennis Roberts.

East's Speed, Heft in Line Beat Parker Team

By JACK STEVENSON
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Coach Paul Brown, with his first victory over a Buddy Parker piloted outfit in eight tries, thanks a bunch of fast, burly linemen.

For it was the defensive giants of the Eastern All-Stars who crashed through the favored Western division of the National Football League to win 20-9 yesterday in the Fourth Annual Pro-Bowl game.

The individual standout was 230-pound line backer Chuck Bednarik of the Philadelphia Eagles. His contributions included calling of defensive signals, recovery of a fumble that led to the second field goal by Cleveland's Lou Groza and a 24-yard touchdown charge with an intercepted Bobby Layne pass.

Commented Brown who has piloted the squad in all four of the post-season charity games. "We apparently wanted to win it a little more than they did. Our boys just played a little harder. Especially up front."

He discounted a suggestion that perhaps money had something to do with it—the winning squadmen each getting $700 to $500 for the losers.

Going into the game the West was a touchdown favorite so the win must be some balm for the coach whose Cleveland club has lost to Parker's Detroit Lions twice in a row for the NFL championship.

Along with Bednarik, huge Arnie Weinmeister of the New York Giants, Ernie Stautner of Pittsburgh, and Gene Brito of Washington were standout line performers for the winners.

Parker explained it was difficult to utilize the services of three quarterbacks and Layne and Norm Van Brocklin knew his system better. Layne quarterbacks Detroit and Van Brocklin of Los Angeles played for Parker in last year's Pro-Bowl game.

3 Pontiac Glovers Survive Pt. Huron Fistic Openers

Three Pontiac Golden Glovers won bouts in the 1st round of the Blue Water Golden Gloves Club tournament in the Port Huron High School gymnasium Saturday night. Three others were defeated, including Jay Latham, who won the 160-pound open title a year ago.

Latham ran into a good right hand punch thrown by Sam Pillar of Sarnia and suffered a technical knockout in the 2nd round. Other Pontiac representatives all fought in the novice division.

Pat O'Neill, who played a lot of football for Waterford High School last fall, stopped Durrell Sweet of Port Huron on a TKO in the 2nd round of their 160-pound bout.

Larry Lamphere also was a TKO winner, halting Sarnia's Ken Rowe in the 2nd round of their 135-pound match. Pontiac's other winner was Bob McDonald at 135 pounds. He defeated Cecil Wynkoop of Port Huron.

In addition to Latham, Pontiac boxers losing decisions were Don Goyette, 140 pounds, to Gaston Breton of Port Huron, and Steve Ryerson, 128 pounds, to Melvin Beattie of Port Huron.

OCSC Riflemen Win Interclub Contest

Riflemen from the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club lost a meet Sunday to the Marksmen from Detroit Rifle and Pistol Club on the OCSC range at Waterford.

Detroit won, 922 to 937 with Harry Cleve's 193 the best round. Frank Brusha had 189 for OCSC. Oakland County clubbers won the handicap division, 1028-1002, with Elvin Henry and Bert Beam each firing 207.

Four Games Are Played in Boys Club Loops

Four games were played Saturday in the basketball leagues at the Pontiac Boys' Club. In the Junior division, Doormats defeated Warriors, 46-31, with Ken McClintock scoring 18 points, and the Hobos routed the Trojans, 39-7 with Charlie Barge hitting 16 points.

In the PeeWee league, Chiefs downed Vikings, 21-12, and Hot Shots topped Hot Rods, 37-23. Bob Holmquist had 14 points for the Hot Shots.

2nd Period Shot Gives Ranger 6 Win Over Wings

Hergesheimer Beats Sawchuk on the One Chance NY Had

DETROIT (AP)—New York Rangers fired only one shot at the Detroit Red Wings goal in the whole 2nd period last night, and since it scored they could have left the ice the rest of the time to their goalie Johnny Bower.

The single shot gave New York what turned out to be the winning goal in the National Hockey League game as a scoreless 3rd period left New York ahead and the victor 3-2.

Bower made 13 saves for New York in the 2nd period. He stopped 41 shots made by a stalling Detroit offense in all the game. He only let two get by him. Both were by Red Wing forward Gordie Howe.

Red Wing goalie Terry Sawchuk made 17 saves.

New York broke into the scoreboard in the 1st period when Edgar LaPrade fooled Sawchuk from 15 feet out with Aldo Guidolin feeding him from the wing.

For LaPrade it was a memorable occasion—his 1st goal since coming out of retirement last year. He has played nine games.

First of Howe's tallies came less than two minutes after LaPrade's scoring debut.

Dean Prentice passed to New York's Paul Ronty close in to make it 2-1 at the end of the 1st period. Pressure was on Bower plenty in the 2nd period as Detroit's line charged in on him. But again Howe was the only one who could crack through Bower's flying arms and legs.

New York, off balance from the Detroit attack, managed to get the puck close enough to shoot at the Detroit goal only once. Maybe it surprised Sawchuk, because it went right by.

With eight scoreless minutes gone Wally Hergesheimer whisked past Sawchuk. It remained 3-1 until Howe connected with his 2nd tally.

Detroit margin over challenging Montreal was unchanged as Red Wings stayed atop the National League standings. Boston beat Montreal 3-2 last night.

Four Teams Unbeaten

By BEN OLAN
NEW YORK (AP)—Kentucky, Duquesne, Western Kentucky and surprising Connecticut were the only major college basketball fives with unmarred slates today and the immediate offing holds little for the first three to worry about.

Kentucky, rolling in high gear with 11 straight, takes on none-too-formidable Tennessee Saturday night. Western Kentucky, unbeaten in 16 games, figures to add a pair of victims, Tennessee Tech and Memphis, to its skein this week, and the Ducks can rest on their 15-0 record until Jan. 27 when they meet Georgetown.

Only the high-scoring Connecticut quintet (14-0) can look to the future with some foreboding. Its next game, on Feb. 3, is against Fordham, another Eastern power.

Last weekend, Kentucky, the nation's No. 1 ranking team in the latest Associated Press poll, walloped Tulane 94-43 in a Southeastern Conference game. Duquesne, No. 2, deftly handled one of its toughest assignments by defeating Niagara 61-53. Western Kentucky, ranked fifth, thrashed Eastern Kentucky, its arch rival 122-78. Unranked Connecticut scored a convincing 106-81 win over Boston College.

Indiana's third-ranked Hoosiers continued to dominate play in the Big Ten Conference by whipping Wisconsin 90-74.

In the usual possession-minded struggle between the schools the Oklahoma Aggies, No. 4, edged Tulsa 46-40.

In the second 10, 17th-ranked Dayton bowed to La Salle 82-58. The Kansas Jayhawks won their third Big Seven game, defeating Kansas State 65-62, and Louisiana State, led by Bob Pettit's 37 points, downed Tennessee 75-62.

Bevo Francis and Rio Grande came in for their share of the weekend scoring spotlight. The much-heralded center dropped in 61 points as the Ohio school drubbed Alliance (Pa.) 107-77 Friday and then followed it with an 84-point performance the following night in Rio Grande's 133-70 triumph against the same college.

Vikings, Trojans Boost Standings in Valley Loop

No Worry for Northern This Week, But Indians Threaten Saginaw

Victories last week end for Flint Northern's Vikings and Saginaw's Trojans boosted these Valley Conference leaders status, with Northern holding the edge by one win. Neither is touched by defeat.

Biggest surprise of the week was the 55-46 licking Flint Central absorbed at Bay City Central. At the same time Northern dumped Arthur Hill 73-47 and Trojans licked Chiefs 60-50.

These activities left Northern on top, Saginaw next with Chiefs still 3rd. Other three clubs are knotted with 1-3 records. Pontiac has 1-2, Northern 4-0 and Saginaw 3-0.

Only two squads are in action Tuesday night. Central is at Midland and Vikings entertain Lansing Sexton. Indians also play Friday, hosts to Trojans, while Chiefs entertain the Wolves and Lumberjacks meet Midland there. Vikings are idle Friday night.

Current standings:
Flint Northern 4 0 0 126
Saginaw 3 0 0 143

Brundage May Visit Australia

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, may make a flying visit to Australia in the next two months to check on the organization of the 1956 Melbourne Games.

"I'm seriously considering it," the top Olympic executive said today. "If I go it will be before the IOC meeting in Athens in May. But I have invitations to visit Peru, Rome, Berlin and several other places I'd have to visit in it."

Last obstacle in Melbourne's fight to keep the games apparently was eliminated yesterday when the Olympic executive committee declined to take action on a proposal to move the event elsewhere.

Angelo Bolanaki, Greek member of the IOC general committee, had suggested a change in site because of Australian quarantine laws which makes it impossible to hold equestrian competition there.

Bolanaki sent out a circular pointing out that Olympic rules specify all events must be held at a single site.

Food and Drug Men Keep Watch

Magic Word 'Atom' Helps Phony Medical Racketeers

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A phony gadget racket is operating in this country today, despite the vigilance of the U. S. government.

Those guilty are doing more than just preying on the American pocketbook, the Food and Drug Administration points out.

The danger, it charges, is that people who are really sick, say with cancer, will turn to quack medical devices rather than to doctors. By the time they realize their mistake it may be too late.

True, the gadget come-on is ages old. But the magic words of the atomic age, declares FDA, has handed modern fakers a new advantage for cashing in on the gullibility of the public.

For some time the administration has been seizing devices that are claimed to give off atomic waves. One even claimed to radiate "a force unknown to science" and was said to be able to cure any disease afflicting mankind.

Today, FDA estimates that Americans spend a half-billion dollars annually on food additives, "medicines" and therapeutic contrivances they don't need.

FDA's last annual report, for the fiscal year 1952, declared that 25 device seizures had been made because of false and misleading claims.

These ranged from "cosmic ray" lockets which sold for $250 to $750 depending on size, to complicated colonic irrigators.

The $1,600 colonic irrigator was being sold to chiropractors, says FDA, with literature claiming usefulness for a number of diseases including asthma and diabetes.

Recently, the government seized something called an "Atomotrone." Light is rigged up to shine through colored glass onto a jug of water. What results was called "Thermal water" and "Electric water," explains FDA.

One was recommended for soft nails or even no nails. The other, the "Atomotrone" people claimed, was good for about 100 diseases and ailments, including nails again. This time, brittle ones.

An administration official says that he thinks women fall often for phony devices aimed at slenderness and beautifying while men are more apt to try to doctor themselves.

The inventor of the Zerret-Applicator, a plastic dumbbell-like contraption, was sentenced to jail in 1950.

To cure disease, said the directions, a patient had only to sit, without crossing his knees, holding the dumbbell, one knob in each hand, for 30 minutes at a time. This $50 "toy" was loaded with "Zerret Water" which was said to give forth "Z-Rays." The maker claimed his treatment would "expand all the atoms of one's being."

Chemists testified the water had the composition of tap water. Leading atomic scientists declared the device was not radio-active and brought a Geiger counter to the court room to prove it.

Another phony in FDA's "sucker collection" looks like a flashlight with a roller on the end. With its attachments the Electrafat was said to help heart attack, paralysis, or just dandruff. Following government action the manufacturer was fined $1,000.

Although the promoter of the Sinuothermic Device recommended it for advanced cases of arthritis deformans, he himself was so crippled by this disease he couldn't raise his arm to take the oath when he testified in court.

For this same reason he couldn't occupy the witness chair but made his statements from a wheel chair. The government finally won.

The government's hokus-pokus list also includes a "radio-active" pillow and a "sleep recording" by a hypnotist.

One explanation for all this human gullibility, FDA believes, is that despite advances in education and medical science there are millions who are no better informed about health fundamentals than if they had lived a hundred or a thousand years ago.

But it isn't true that only uneducated, backwoods people fall for gadget cures.

Wheat Higher in Quiet Market

CHICAGO (U) — Wheat inched its way higher in a quiet market at a steady opening on the Board of Trade today.

There wasn't any strong demand but offerings in all pits were very light. Soybeans moved higher with wheat but feed grains held around previous closing levels.

Brokers thought some buying in wheat could be attributed to news, available at the opening, that President Eisenhower would ask Congress to appropriate one billion dollars to export government-owned surplus farm products to friendly nations over the next three years.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was $\frac{1}{4}$ to one cent higher, March $\$2.11\frac{1}{2}$, corn unchanged to $\frac{1}{4}$ higher, March $\$1.52$, oats $\frac{1}{4}$ lower to $\frac{1}{2}$ higher, March $\$1.11$, soybeans $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ higher, January $\$1.37$ and hard seven to ten cents a hundred pounds higher, January $\$1.45$.

Wives Stir Up Capitol Storm

State Solons' Mates Resent Being Seated in Balcony

LANSING (UP) — The first "showdown" of the 1954 Legislature may come tonight in the House of Representatives and the issue has nothing to do with legislation.

It involves the wives of the lawmakers and whether they should be permitted to occupy seats in the House when the Legislature is in session or should sit in the balcony with other spectators.

In previous years, families, relatives and close friends of lawmakers have always been given seats in the rear of the House.

But this year there's a shortage of vacant chairs because the number of legislative desks has been increased from 100 to 110 under provisions of a reapportionment plan approved by voters in 1952.

The installation of 10 new House seats forced officials to remove several leather-covered davenport from the rear of the House.

An unofficial policy to have wives of all lawmakers sit in the balcony was set before the Legislature convened last Wednesday. But the wives protested and Norman E. Philoe, clerk of the House, gave in and let them take seats on the floor.

There were not enough chairs to go around so several wives sat in the 10 new legislative desks. Many spectators in the balcony thought they were voting members of the House.

Philoe's ruling, however, was good for only two days—last Wednesday and Thursday. Starting tonight, Philoe said, wives would be asked to sit in the balcony or with their husbands at his desk on the floor—but not in the rear of the House where they formed a regular "sewing circle" in previous sessions.

"BABY" KISSING POLITICIAN—Baby kissing has helped put many political candidates in office, and Temus Bright, of Baltimore, Md., has that as one plank in his platform as he plans his campaign for governor of Maryland. Here the wealthy car dealer demonstrates his vote-getting technique on "baby" Rose Monchena as he feeds her from a baby bottle. He announced he plans to kiss thousands of young ladies from 18 to 90, and if elected, to put more women into office in an attempt to lessen "corruption" in government.

New 'Visiondor' Prevents Bumps

NEW YORK (UP)—A new device for use on schoolroom doors is designed to provide greater safety and efficiency.

The 6x18-inch unit, which is placed in the door slightly above where a door knob would fit, allows a child to see through the door. It does away with the problem of pinching fingers and pushing a door into someone on the other side.

The "Visiondor" includes a thick glass panel — which doubles as "push plate" and viewer — and a Y-shaped, chrome-plated handle on the opposite side for pulling the door open.

A lock completes the unit, which is set in an aluminum frame and contains no exposed screws (Hardware Sales Co., Inc.).

The device is expected to be useful also in cafeterias, libraries, hospitals and laboratories.

Fiberglass Now Used to Interline Clothing

NEW YORK (UP)—Glass now is used to line clothing. The interlining, called the warmest for its weight ever developed for the clothing industry, consists of a thin layer of fiberglass with a fabric facing. The manufacturer says the interliner's ability to hold body heat lies in the millions of microscopic air pockets formed by the glass filaments, each of which is many times finer than a human hair. The liner can be washed, or dry cleaned, and is mothproof (Owens-Corning).

Usually quickly helps loosen and remove thick, strangling mucus. Thus allows coughing and promotes freer breathing and sounder sleep. Get MENDACO under money back guarantee at druggists.
