Noisy Style of Music Delighten Millions

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Band leader Spike Jones, 53, the zany musician who entertained millions with his offbeat arrangements, died in his sleep early today at his Bel-Air home.

Jones had been released from nearby Santa Monica Hospital three weeks ago following treatment for an asthma attack and subsequent respiratory complications.

Pete James, his agent, said the band leader had apparently recovered from his lengthy sickness until he suffered a slight relapse yesterday afternoon.

Also at home were Jones' wife, Helen Grayco, a former singer with his City Slickers band, and their three children.

Born Lindley Armstrong Jones at Long Beach, Calif., in 1911, Jones started his musical career as a drummer in swing bands of the early 1940s.

He said he got the idea for his noisy style of music when he attended a classical concert and heard the conductor's shoes squeak.

"I kept thinking how funny it would be to substitute an outrageous sound for a musical note," he said.

Cong Arsenal Seized During Coastal Hunt

Red Chinese Linked With Flamethrowers Found by Soldiers

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A big cache of captured Viet Cong arms included precision, lightweight flamethrowers, presumably furnished by Communist China, the Vietnamese army announced today.

Also discovered were East German heavy machine guns described as especially suited for use as anti-aircraft weapons. The announcement came as Saigon girded itself for possible trouble during the May 1 labor holiday.

For the first time in weeks, no air activity was reported today over North Viet Nam.

But planes were active in the south, with 49 missions flown in various parts of the country. U.S. jets flew 37 missions over Bin Dinh Province east of the town of An Khe, where guerrillas were reported massing.

Other military activity appeared to be light.

COASTAL SWAMPS
The arms cache was found yesterday during a three-day operation in coastal mangrove swamps about 60 miles south of the capital.

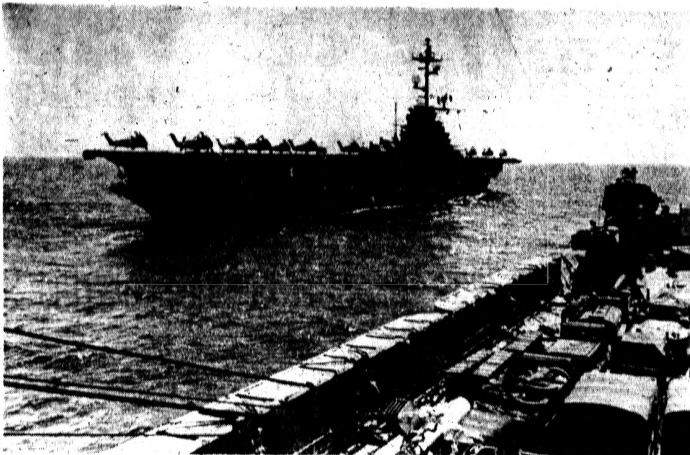

The government said 152 Viet Cong were killed during the action, including 52 at the site of the weapons cache. Another 35 Viet Cong were captured and 42 Communist suspects rounded up, the government said.

South Vietnamese casualties were given as three killed and eleven wounded.

WARNED CIVILIANS
Civilians in the area were warned of the air strikes by leaflets and loudspeakers and some 4,000 were said to have poured into government-controlled areas.

Flying squads of combat police headed off trouble between two dissident labor unions in Saigon today. There were no injuries or arrests.

ON CARIBBEAN MISSION — With a fleet of helicopters on its deck, the aircraft carrier U.S. Boxer stands in readiness off the southern coast of the Dominican Republic, where it has been stationed since early this week with several other U.S. vessels. The copters participated in the evacuation of American citizens and other nationals from the strife-torn nation and in the landing of U.S. Marines.

Factions Battle Despite Okay of Cease-Fire

Leatherneck Is Shot by Rebel Sniper on U.S. Embassy Ground

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—A third Marine was reported killed today by snipers as the Dominican civil war entered its seventh day without a sign of a lull. The fighting continued despite a cease-fire agreed to by the warring factions.

The Marine was shot by a rebel sniper on the U.S. Embassy grounds. Two Marines were killed yesterday. There was considerable firing in the vicinity of the embassy.

Intense rifle fire continued in various parts of the city in the predawn hours, slackened during the morning, then picked up again at noon.

Rebel leaders fighting for the return to power of exiled former President Juan D. Bosch admitted they did not have complete control of their men, who include armed civilians and dissident young military officers.

U.S. Defense Department spokesmen in Washington said 17 Marines and eight paratroopers have been wounded in clashes with the rebels. They were the first casualties among the U.S. forces landed to protect American civilians.

Fighting went on through the night in the eerie light of parachute flares.

INTO EFFECT
U.S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett announced the cease-fire went into effect at 5:30 p.m. yesterday but indicated to newsmen that foreign elements might have taken over the rebellious movement.

President Johnson said in a statement in Washington last night there were significant signs that people trained outside the Dominican Republic are seeking to gain control of the rebels.

Bennett said the rebels and the opposing military junta had agreed to submit the dispute to arbitration by an Organization of American States commission.

Orion Residents Die in Troy I-75 Collision

Two Lake Orion residents died this morning when the car in which they were riding rammed the rear of a truck on I-75 in Troy.

Dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital were William Beauchamp, 19, of 389 North Shore, the driver, and Wayne Elliott, 47, of 165 Schorn.

The driver of the dump truck, Wallace Richardson, 30558 Palmer, Madison Heights, was uninjured.

Troy police said the accident occurred about 6:45 a.m. on the southbound lane of I-75, just east of the Adams overpass. They said preliminary investigation has revealed that the car apparently smashed into the rear of the truck, then veered off the roadway.

Romney Tour Ends

LONDON (AP)—Gov. George Romney and his group of 50 Michigan businessmen left London for Detroit today at the conclusion of a 10-day tour of European Common Market countries.

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China called on foreign delegates in Peking for May Day celebrations to support the Red guerrillas in South Viet Nam and continue the struggle "against imperialism."

"Let us drink a toast to the victory of the Vietnamese people's patriotic struggle against U.S. aggression, to the victory of the struggle of the Asian, African and Latin American countries against imperialism," Communist Chinese Premier Chou en-lai told a reception in Peking.

His remarks were reported by the New China News Agency.

"All peace-loving nations and people throughout the world should unite to smash the criminal plan of U.S. imperialism to escalate the war in Indochina," Chou said.

He said that the U.S. "peace talks scheme" was aimed at "forcing the Vietnamese people to yield to capitulation."

Liu Ning-yi, president of the All-China Federation of Trade Unions, called for the launching of "an unprecedented powerful mass movement on a world-wide scale" to compel the United States to get out of Viet Nam and "all other places they have occupied."

Iron Workers Out on Strike

Could Stall Building in Eastern Michigan

DETROIT (AP)—Some 2,000 iron workers went on strike Saturday against construction contractors in some 30 counties in eastern Lower Michigan.

The walkout, which was called after a 16-hour bargaining session failed to produce agreement on a new labor contract yesterday, could tie up work on millions of dollars in construction projects.

Members of Local 25 of the Iron Workers Union were involved in the dispute. Their old contract expired Friday midnight.

Pending work affected by the strike included a $57 million project at the Ford Motor Company's Woodhaven stamping plant, $20 million at both the University of Michigan and Michigan State University, and $20 million at Chevrolet Motors in Saginaw.

A union spokesman said talks have broken off, with no resumption of negotiations scheduled at present.

A management spokesman said the union turned down an "overall" wage increase of 30 cents an hour for the first year of a two-year agreement and 35 cents for the second year.

He said the hourly pay rate is $4.58, plus fringe benefits, and that the union demanded an increase of 42 cents the first year and 50 cents the second year.

Bane to Burglars

Calls Can Catch 'Cats'

Even a cat burglar makes some noise.

Or he's bound to be seen by someone who thinks it's unusual for a man to be prowling around outside a home at 4 or 5 a.m.

It's on this premise that police are pinning their hopes of nabbing the men who have been looting Birmingham-Bloomfield area homes.

"We recommend very strongly that people call us immediately if they see any suspicious characters around their homes or hear any suspicious noises," Birmingham Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley said.

Oddly enough, the police haven't been receiving a lot of calls from nervous home owners.

"If they call us as soon as they hear something, we can have an adequate number of officers there in a few seconds," Moxley said.

The chief noted that burglars can be thwarted by the type of door lock which is separate from the knob.

A door with the lock in the knob can be opened by twisting the knob off," he said.

As safeguards against the burglars, Moxley suggested that home owners change to the separate locks and install bolts secured with large screws.

"A night chain would be added security," he said. "It also would be a good idea to leave on an outside porch light."

"But the main thing is to contact us if they hear someone fooling around on the premises."

Floodwaters Break Levee, Blanket Illinois Farmland

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — Mississippi River floodwaters crashed through a levee north of Hannibal and Quincy, Ill., today on the Illinois side of the river, inundating about 7,000 acres, most of it farmland.

The water already had covered 10,500 acres in the same area after it broke through an other levee April 17. The river won a long battle with flood workers who tried to save the second levee.

Most of the residents of the area already had been moved out. A few were evacuated today. As far as was known, there were no casualties from the new break.

The break was expected to take some flood pressure off Hannibal, where 15 city blocks have up to a foot of water in them.

NORTH OF QUINCY

The break was five miles north of Quincy, about 15 miles north of Hannibal.

A crest expected Sunday is expected to climax the floods that have run from Minnesota to Missouri.

Churning river water, which has claimed 12 lives in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois and caused almost $150 million in damage, is expected to flatten out in the wide river banks of the lower Mississippi.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the water would crest between 25 and 25.5 feet Sunday at Quincy, Ill., where the flood stage is 17 feet.

A crest between 24.6 and 25 feet will hit about midnight Sunday at Hannibal — a river town with no levees.

"About the only damage we expect at Hannibal — except for a little mud and silt — will be from tourists," a policeman said.

The officer said the streets were jammed Friday by persons "who were just driving down to gawk at the river."

Almost a foot of water covers 15 square blocks of the downtown area — but no one is worried. Only about 25 families have been evacuated because of water surrounding their homes.

RIVER BACKLASH

While businesses in Hannibal sandbagged their doors and built wooden bridges four feet above the water, the grim fight against the backlash of the river continued upstream.

Finish Poor 3rd in Fund Race—WSU

LANSING (AP) — Wayne State University claimed Friday that it runs a financial poor third to the University of Michigan and Michigan State University, and asked for $31 million in state operating help for the coming year.

The Senate Appropriations Committee advised Wayne of not keeping it adjoined on building plans but at the same time gave unofficial endorsement to Wayne's plans to expand its campus through purchase of urban renewal land in Detroit.

Wayne is operating on a $20 million appropriation this year but has asked for more than half again as much for 1965-66. George Romney recommended a hike to $25.5 million.

Retiring President Clarence Hilberry told the committee that Wayne was not helped in handling 1,700 unexpected students this year and that an additional 3,800 are due to enter next fall, pushing enrollment to 29,000.

TRIAL OTHERS

Wayne officials said the school trailed U-M and MSU in these respects:

Faculty salaries, $2,100 below U-M levels and $700 behind MSU.

Appropriations per student if Romney's recommendations are adopted, the average being $1,206 at Wayne, $1,568 at U-M and $1,262 at MSU.

Square feet of available building per student.

Per cent revenue from out-of-state students since only four per cent of Wayne's student body is non-Michigan, compared to about 20 per cent for the other schools.

The Wayne group told the committee it has begun to acquire 47 acres of urban renewal land west of the campus and that it wants another 45 acres to the south. Total cost of both parcels is $2,685,000.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Communist party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev reviewed today's parade but made no speeches.

MARKS SOLIDARITY

May Day is celebrated around the world as a festival marking solidarity among the laboring people.

North Viet Nam adopted a resolution last night calling on the South Vietnamese people to defeat U.S. troops and liberate South Viet Nam with a view to achieving Viet Nam's reunification." Radio Hanoi reported.

The resolution was adopted at a mass rally, attended by President Ho Chi Minh and other North Vietnamese leaders, the broadcast said.

Third Marine Killed in Santo Domingo

CRITICIZES U.S.

At the O.A.S. meeting in Washington, Venezuelan Ambassador Henrique Tejera Paris said the "unilateral intervention" of U.S. troops violated the OAS charter and has "been the cause of profound consternation in our countries."

The United States has insisted the Marines and airborne troops were landed solely to protect American lives.

The evacuation of Americans from Santo Domingo continued. By state department count, 1,142 Americans have arrived at San Juan, Puerto Rico; 1,711 others on their way out by ship.

300 remain at the Embajador Hotel, the refuge center on the outskirts of Santo Domingo, and 175 at La Romana, a short distance from the capital.

Johnson had urged the OAS to take responsibility for restoring peace and reestablishing constitutional government in the Dominican Republic.

The cease-fire pact, Bennett said in his announcement, guarantees the personal safety of combatants on both sides, including prisoners and those in asylum in foreign embassies.

Bennett emphasized that only a cease-fire had been discussed with the rebels and not a final settlement. Signing for the rebels were Hugo Conde and Col. Fausto Camacho, whose brother, Francisco, is described as the rebels' top military leader.

It was not immediately disclosed who signed the cease-fire agreement for the junta forces, headed by Brig. Gen. Elias Wessing Wessing, who rallied elements of the army and air force and the navy to oppose the pro-Bosch forces.

KEY ROLE

The papal nuncio in Santo Domingo, the Rt. Rev. Emmanuel Clarizio, played a key role in negotiating the cease-fire. He was in touch with the rebels and later met with the Wessing Junta at its headquarters at Jirido air base, 20 miles outside of Santo Domingo.

Latest estimates of the toll of the fighting, which started when pro-Bosch military officers forced the resignation of a civilian junta government headed by Donald Reid Cabral, were put at more than 500 killed with another 500 possibly killed.

The injured ran into the hundreds.

In a major battle yesterday with some 1,800 police loyal to the junta, rebel forces won the massive Ozama fortress, which commands a strategic position on the west side of the river of the same name in the capital.

HEAVY FIGHTING

Authenticated reports said the rebels, under Col. Francisco Caamaño, took the fortress after heavy fighting.

Survivors who swam the river said the rebels committed atrocities against the defenders and executed several police officers who had surrendered unarmed.

In all, the rebels were reported to control more than half of Santo Domingo.

The first U.S. casualties came as the Marines and paratroopers moved to the city from the east and west. The Marines moved into a nine-mile area designated earlier by the OAS as a haven for refugees from the fighting.

TOOK LIFE

The Marines wiped out with bazooka fire a machine gun nest that took the life of a feather-necked two blocks from the U.S. Embassy. The Marine column moved in from the west, led by tanks and amphibious vehicles.

Simultaneously, a contingent of Wessing's forces was fighting its way into the downtown area from the eastern part of the city.

In Washington, the State Department issued a special statement saying "the sole mission of U.S. troops in the Dominican Republic is to protect and evacuate U.S. and other foreign nationals from the strife-torn Dominican Republic, and not in any way take sides in the internal conflict."

The statement said "some news dispatches from Santo Domingo have tended to convey the impression that the United States is conducting joint or combined or concerted operations" with Wessing's forces.

ANOTHER CLASH

Aggrieved clash occurred as newly arrived paratroopers from the 82nd Airborne Division moved from the San Isidro air base where they landed and took up position at the strategic Duarte Bridge over the Ozama river at the eastern end of the city.

Their commander, Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, was named by President Johnson as commander of the U.S. task force in the Dominican Republic.

Seek Meeting About Dominican Landings

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Soviet Union pressed today for an urgent Saturday meeting of the U.N. Security Council on the landing of U.S. forces in the Dominican Republic.

Soviet chief delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko sent a letter to U.N. headquarters requesting the meeting be called by the council president for May, Malaysian delegate Radhakrishna Ramani.

On instructions from the Soviet government, Fedorenko asked the president to convene an urgent council meeting in connection with what he called "the armed intervention of the United States against the Dominican Republic."

An aide of Fedorenko told a reporter the Soviet delegation wanted the meeting "if possible today" and was consulting with other delegations on the time.

He said another letter would be sent over later to give the council a Soviet news agency statement on the U.S. landings already issued in Moscow.

Instructions to call the meeting caught Fedorenko spending a Mayday weekend at the Soviet delegation's suburban estate at Glen Cove on Long Island.

SOME COMMUNISTS

In San Juan, Puerto Rico, Bosch told newsmen that there are "probably a few Communists" fighting, with the forces trying to restore him as president.

Bosch, the first freely elected president after 32 years of Trujillo dictatorship, was ousted in 1963 by a military junta that then gave way to a civilian junta with Reid as its chief.

"It is impossible," Bosch said, that a regime similar to the one in Cuba could be established in the Dominican Republic. "He added that he is 'absolutely sure of victory.'"

Seemed Worse Than It Was

It was a long cold winter, and April didn't do anything to make it shorter or help the situation.

Below - normal temperatures, two tornado warnings, and more than three and a half inches of snow made the month seem worse than it was, however.

There were 14 sunny days in the month compared with 17 a year ago. We had less snow than last year's, four inches. April showers produced less than 1 1/2 inches of rain.

The bulk of the month's snow fell on the first of the month. Last year, it snowed on April 2.

Low for the month was 19 degrees. It got down to that figure April 3 to match last April's low. High for the month was 72 degrees compared with 83 degrees a year ago. Rainfall a year ago was more than 5 inches.

High and low pressure areas jumped around across the lakes, much to the confusion of the weatherman, who had trouble predicting what would happen in the next hour or two.

Average high temperature was 53 degrees; average low 34 1/2 degrees, and the mean was 43.7 degrees.

Baldwin Public Library Lists Statistics on Service

BIRMINGHAM — National Library Week being an appropriate time for appraisal, Baldwin Public Library has come up with some impressive statistics on the service it provides for the community.

At the conclusion of the observance this week, director Jeanne Lloyd and her staff listed achievements since the 1964 National Library Week.

Each hour the library has been opened, it has circulated some 145 books, magazines and pamphlets, averaging about 37,000 a month.

Some 84,000 questions have been answered at the various service desks.

During the year, the library added about 6,500 books — 4,100 of them new titles — making a total book collection of almost 82,000 volumes.

MAGAZINES

Magazine holdings were considerably enriched because of a grant issued under the Federal Library Services and Construction Act through the Michigan State Board for Libraries.

All magazines indexed in the "Reader's Guide to Periodicals" now are available at the library.

Increasing its holdings by 37 new titles, the library now subscribes to 189 different magazines.

In the area of nonbook material, recordings now total about 1,300 titles and framed

The facility's picture file grew to a total of over 36,000.

In the past, the library had depended entirely on its contract with the Detroit Public Library for making films available to patrons.

However, this year Baldwin made arrangements with the Canadian Travel Film Library to use a collection which revolves in the metropolitan area.

Last fall the Birmingham facility was united with a new Bloomfield Township Library and prepared 6,100 books for the unit.

The centralized ordering and processing possible through the cooperative effort saves money, time and effort and makes borrowing privileges reciprocal at both libraries.

Baldwin also has contracts for service with Beverly Hills, Bingham Farms and Bloomfield Hills, serving an estimated 26,500 area residents.

Texas Editor Shot to Death

'Diabolical' Device Kills Newspaperman

HOUSTON (AP) — Melvin I. Steakley, 37-year-old religious editor of the Houston Chronicle and a father of five, was killed today by what a police lieutenant called "one of the most diabolical mechanisms for death I have ever seen."

Steakley, a mild-mannered man with no known enemies, was shot to death about 1 a m. when he stepped on the clutch of his small foreign car, touching off a booby trap device strapped to the steering column.

Police said they found the pistol, either a .32- or .38-caliber, wired and taped to the steering column and wired to a triggering device placed on the clutch pedal.

They said the steering wheel evidently had been carefully turned so that none of the spokes would intersect the line of fire from the weapon.

Steakley was struck in the heart by the one bullet, but managed to climb out of the car, parked two blocks away from the Chronicle Building in Downtown Houston, and scream for help before collapsing in death 49 feet from the car.

FOUR CRIES

No one heard the shot, but a chemical engineer, George G. Guy, 56, said he heard four cries for help as he stood on a corner waiting for a bus. He went around the corner, he said, and saw the man's body lying on the sidewalk.

A couple drove by in a car and also saw the body, but before they could notify police, a squad car happened on the scene.

Police said the underside of the dashboard, the gun and even the bullets in it had apparently been wiped clean of fingerprints.

Gardens Will Open Sunday

Following tradition despite the lack of blooming flowers, the gardens of Cranbrook House in Bloomfield Hills will open tomorrow.

Recent bad weather, has stilled the growth of the garden's flowers, but nevertheless the 40 acres will be open to guests on the first Sunday of May.

Cranbrook spokesmen note there are other things to behold, the pine walks, cascades and the Greek Theater.

The gardens surround the home of Cranbrook's founders, the late Mr. and Mrs. George G. Booth.

They will be open through October. Hours are 2-5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Hurled Into 4 BuildingsINDIANOLA, Miss. (AP) — A civil rights worker said fire bombs, bottles filled with gasoline, were hurled into three Negro homes and a "freedom house" in this Mississippi Delta town early today.
"They were on fire. That's about all I can tell you," In-dianola night police officer Jim Green said.In Jackson, the FBI said it had received a report of the fires from the Mississippi Highway Patrol and agents were enroute to Indianola to investigate.Fred Winn of Sausalito, Calif., a Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee worker, said two homes were destroyed by fire.

HAD FALLEN ASLEEP

Winn said he had fallen asleep in the living room of Irene Magruder's home when one of the fire bombs was hurled into the bedroom where he normally sleeps."Mrs. Magruder was the first Negro to open her doors to civil rights workers here," said Winn. "Her home, and the Dudley Wilder home nearby, burned to the ground."Winn said two civil rights workers sleeping in the freedom house, which is used as headquarters for the civil rights movement here, told him they saw two white men dressed in khaki pants and blue shirts running away after a fire bomb was thrown into the building.
The two, John Robinson of Los Angeles and James Harris of Indianola, quickly put out the fire, Winn said.He said a fourth fire bomb was thrown into the combination store-house of Oscar Giles.
Winn said Giles and Wilder had both been active in civil rights work in Indianola.Civil rights forces have been active in Indianola and Sunflower County, where a federal judge last month ordered officials to ease requirements for Negro voter registrants.

Claim Jeweler
Plotted Heist

Detectives Stymie
Scheduled Robbery

NEW YORK (AP) — A Manhattan jeweler, victim of a $100,000 holdup less than three years ago, plotted a half million dollar gem heist himself, according to authorities.

The district attorney's office said the caper, painstakingly planned and rehearsed, was to include a diversionary smoke bomb and a tear gas getaway.

The jeweler, Henri Teichler, was held in $4,500 bail on charges of conspiracy and attempted robbery.

Teichler's out of town confederates turned out to be detectives of the district attorney's office.

The intended victim was Ben Mellen, who operates a jewelry business at 36 West 47th St., a few doors from Teichler's firm in the city's diamond center, the district attorney's office said Friday.

It said an informant reported that Teichler was trying to contact experienced holdup men.

Detectives Anthony J. Bernhardt and Peter Favaro posed as West Coasters interested in Teichler's deal, which was said to be a flat payment of $10,000 plus half the proceeds of the robbery.

Another detective, Joseph Freely, was brought in to serve as getaway driver.

The holdup plan was rehearsed almost daily, beginning April 20, the district attorney's office said, and the detectives said they had the routine down to 90 seconds.

The holdup was set for Thursday and Teichler, authorities said, waited for his henchmen in a midtown hotel room.

There he was seized by six detectives, who subsequently staged a phony ambush of detectives Bernhardt and Favaro when they arrived with an empty suitcase.

Ford Raps Students, Profs Who Oppose Viet Policy

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House Republican leader, Friday denounced university students and professors who oppose the administration's Viet Nam policy.

"I consider it incredible that a source of such irresponsible madness, know-nothing dissent, based on emotional disregard for the morality and facts of the case, should spring from a few of our university campuses," Ford told a Yale Law Day alumni dinner.

"And I consider it appalling that much of the leadership for picketing with anti-American slogans, in what at times amounts to irresponsible mob action, comes from a small minority of university professors purporting to carry forward the banner of free academic inquiry."

Ford said the overwhelming majority of Republicans in Congress support President Johnson's stand against aggression in Viet Nam.

In fact, it is worth comment ing that President Johnson might wish for an equal amount of support for his Viet Nam stand from members of his own Democratic Party, he added.

Ford said a student-led Peace March in Washington on the Easter weekend was reminiscent of peace demonstrations during the years of Nazi aggression leading to World War II.

"Today," he said, "our so-called teachers and peace demonstrators cry for peace at any price while the seeds of Communist atrocity take root. And yet the appeasers speak of morality."

Others are concerned with the physical, uncleanliness of these irresponsible protesters. I am not so much concerned with their personal hygiene as with their moral sterility."

Ford said there must always be a place for responsible dissent and free inquiry in the universities, adding, "But, there is no place for irresponsible dis-

College Activities to Bring Protest

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Students at Antioch College, noted for demonstrations, find the tables turned on them today.

A citizens' group led by a Bellbrook restaurant owner said they would march nine miles from Xenia to Yellow Springs to protest "alleged Communist activities" at the college.

Melvin McCoy, the restaurant operator, identified himself as chairman of a "Greene County Committee for Patriotism." He predicted more than 2,000 persons would take part in the march along U.S. 68.

Fire severely damaged a house in Dryden Township late yesterday morning after a clothes dryer caught fire.

Dryden and Addison Township firemen found the blaze well advanced when they arrived at 5717 Lake George, at about 10:30 a.m.

The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meagher, were not home at the time. The fire was reported by Mrs. Allen Vanduren, who was working at the house.

Two rooms were gutted and heavy smoke and water damage done to the rest of the house. A dog trapped in the house died in the flames.

Today Nation Observes the Law of the Land

About 4,000 years ago, the Babylonian king HAMMURABI commanded that all the laws of his kingdom be written down so that all men might know them. The 228 laws that he ordained were fully inscribed on a stone slate eight feet high.

Today, whole buildings are needed to contain the laws that govern every aspect of our lives. There are in the United States, according to one estimate, no less than two million of them.

But new laws are constantly being added to this vast total. The Second Session of the 88th Congress passed 406 Public Laws in 1964 (out of 1,097 introduced). This is far exceeded by the output of the states, which the American Bar Association estimates at 35,000 a year.

While ignorance of the law is still no excuse in the eyes of the law, no one can possibly know them all. According to a United Press International survey of 25 states a couple of years ago, only one state—Florida—could report the exact number of laws on its books.

Here, as in other fields of knowledge, electronics may come to the rescue, so that someday law students may need to be as familiar with computer operations as with Blackstone's Commentaries.

All of this is by way of noting that today is Law Day—a day, set aside to honor not laws but Law.

Law with a capital L partakes of the stratospheric realms of philosophy and "Natural Law" and the "higher laws" of religion. But in its earthly applications, it is, as SAMUEL JOHNSON said, "The last result of human wisdom acting upon experience for the benefit of the public."

Police Dog Is Nipped in Break for Freedom

The East German police, it seems, use German shepherd dogs to collar would-be escapees—and to keep the animals hungry and hustling, feed them only once every 48 hours.

But last week, one of the canine constabulary gave a "man bites dog" twist to the usual routine and itself attempted escape.

Presumably a victim of the old saw that the bone looks meatier on the other side of the fence, the dog was shot while high-tailing it for West Berlin and a hoped-for higher standard of living. At least three other dogs, during the past year, have become fed up with their duty diet and gone West.

Since the erection of the Berlin Wall in 1961, the luckless one became the 58th victim—and the first dog—to die while trying to escape from the Communist paradise called East Germany.

Driver Licenses Face a Negative Approach

Following the lead of a half dozen other states, Michigan will begin processing photos on motorists' driving licenses after June 1. Not only that, but they will be in living color yet—a feature putting the State in the innovator class.

Advance commendation for the new look in licenses has come from law enforcement agencies and commercial establishments that rely on driver-license identification of customers.

The Legislature authorized the change to photo-licensing

way back in 1949, but failed to appropriate funds to implement it. During the 1964 session, however, the lawmakers earmarked $500,000 to put the state in the photographic business.

Special cameras will photograph license applications at points of origin, but development will be processed in a central laboratory in Lansing.

In exposing the plan, a department of state spokesman said that it will take three years after the changeover before the State's present 45 million drivers are progressively issued the new-style licenses. When the program is fully operative, an average of 8,000 licenses will be processed daily.

On the face of it, there would seem to be much to recommend the more definitive identification afforded by the driver's face on his license. It might even contribute to a bit of conversational face-saving with the law when motorists find themselves in traffic-violation tete-a-tetes.

South Gains Posts, Not Power

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—Southerners in Congress hold more power positions today than in President Truman's time. 15 years ago. But their actual power has been denied and, on civil rights, broken.

The two main reasons are the Supreme Court decision of 1954 and a new conservatism's smashing defeat in the 1964 election.

This shows the irony in the Southerners' predicament.

In 1950 South MARLOW Democrats held only 40 per cent of the prized Senate committee chairmanships, or 6 out of 16. Today they have 62 per cent, or 10 out of 16. It's similar in the House.

Yet, in the Truman years, when their power position was smaller, they could stop him and Congress dead on any attempt to put through a civil rights bill. They had one big weapon, the filibuster, and one priceless ally.

This was the much more conservative attitude of the Congress of those days, which meant lack of enthusiasm, or perhaps even interest in, civil rights or anything of the Southerners.

COURT DECISION
At the same time the old Supreme Court decision of 1896—saying it was constitutional to segregate Negroes—still stood and thus put a respectable constitutional cloak over those in both parties not fighting for civil rights.

The great change began with the court's 1954 ruling which overturned that of 1896 by declaring the very principle of segregation unconstitutional.

It broke Southern resistance, although it took many defiant Southerners a time to realize it.

Within three years, in 1957, the first civil rights bill of this century was passed. Southern resistance in Congress couldn't stop it, and it has been growing weaker since.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOOD IISHMALL

The parents of William Wordsworth, one of England's greatest poets, planned for him to be a minister. But while in Cambridge University his love of poetry won out over the clergy. Yet, through his poems Wordsworth has served God and man better and for longer than had taken the other course. This love of people and understanding of their needs is expressed throughout his works. With the simplest words he gives us the beautiful prayer poem, Father! Take My Hand.

The way is dark, my Father! Cloud on cloud
Is gathering thickly over my head, and loud
The thunders roar above me. See I stand!
Like one bewildered! Father, take my hand
And through the gloom
Lead safely home
Thy child!

More Trouble Over Viet Tactics?

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Relations between American and South Vietnamese policy makers—never entirely harmonious—may be in for more rough sledding.

Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, commander of the Vietnamese air force, holds that the bombing of North Vietnamese targets is not having the desired effect against the Viet Cong.

The war will only really begin to pay off when a ground offensive against North Viet Nam is begun, he feels.

Ky was the first Vietnamese general to express this idea for the record. But the rest of the Vietnamese general staff, often at loggerheads on other issues, likely agrees with Ky on this.

The United States still is approaching the subject cautiously.

MUST BE TESTED
U.S. officials believe each higher degree of fighting must be tested before going on to a wider phase.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said this week in effect that the air raids are paying off.

Probably bombing of North Viet Nam will be intensified. So far, only military camps and installations in the southern part of North Viet Nam have been announced as the objects of attack.

Soon, raids may be striking farther North.

AGAINST INDUSTRY
There even is talk that raids might begin next month against the North Vietnamese industrial complex in the Red River delta between Hanoi and Haiphong.

Some analysts reason that rather than lose its small but budding industry, Hanoi would be willing to call off the war.

According to the best available information, the Vietnamese generally, by and large, don't think the plan will work.

Several say privately they think nothing will work short of an all-out land invasion by the South Vietnamese, with as few Americans involved as possible.

INCREASINGLY EDGY
As increasing numbers of Americans arrive in South Viet Nam, the Vietnamese commanders are increasingly edgy.

One general, who asked his name be withheld, said last week he felt the U.S. Marines operating in the Da Nang area would do more harm than good.

"You Americans don't take the Communist anticommunist propaganda seriously, because you're not a colonial power, and you don't really understand what colonialism means to Vietnamese," he observed.

"We are no doubt overly sensitive about the influence of foreigners on our country. But that sensitivity can't just be wished away, unfortunately."

PASSIVE ROLE

He said many Vietnamese in top positions would prefer to see America in a more passive role—giving unlimited material and arms support, but staying out of the war.

One military faction which was involved in two recent coup attempts against the government feels relations with the Americans are the key factor.

A leader of this influential faction said this week:
"We think Prime Minister Phan Huy Quat is a good man, and we are willing for the time being to support him; but the one thing that worries us is that we feel he is not tough enough with the Americans."

Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Saturday, May 1, the 121st day of 1965 with 244 to follow.
The moon is new.

The morning stars are Saturn and Mars.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

Portrait painter George Inness was born on this day in 1857.

On this day in history:
In 1883, William Cody, better known as Buffalo Bill, staged his first "Wild West" show.

In 1884, construction crews in Chicago started work on a 10-story office building to be called a "skyscraper."

In 1931, the Empire State Building, the world's tallest skyscraper with 102 floors, was dedicated by former Gov. Alfred Smith in New York City.

A particular sore point with Vietnamese commanders is talk about the creation of a joint Vietnamese-American command.

LESS DIPLOMATIC

In diplomatic phrasing, Ky said this week he did not favor such a command, adding that there already was complete co-operation between the two sides.

Other generals have been less diplomatic.

No Votes for 'Barry Goldfinger'

By WASHINGTON STAFF
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Walking out of the spy movie "Goldfinger" the other night, Washington newsman Don MacLean overheard a lady saying to a companion:

"NOW aren't you glad you didn't vote for him!"

Introducing Vice President Hubert Humphrey at an annual employee awards ceremony the other day, Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman said:

"My good friend, the vice president, commented recently that we are living in such a challenging period that he could think of no time in history when it was more exciting to be alive."

"I heartily agree with the vice president's premise!"

To emphasize that point, Freeman gave the audience a hearty bang with his fist, dislodging a large replica of the vice presidential seal which crashed to the floor.

Whispered an observer:

"The secretary's conclusions do not seem to agree with the premises."

Voice of the People:

'Language of Educator in Shocking Bad Taste'

The other morning on the radio I heard Glenn F. Hartman, president of the Pontiac Education Association, use the word "hell" purely as a word of emphasis. I think it's shockingly bad taste to hear a professional teacher swear like this. What sort of example can this be to our pupils?

Do we want our impressionable children in the hands of teachers who talk like this? Do the teachers themselves want men like this as the titular head of their association? The sentence in question declared "teachers are worth a—of a lot more than they get."

This kind of language makes you wonder if the reverse isn't true in some cases that the "teachers" badly overpaid.

Trip Cancellation Disappoints Students

Waterford Kettering students have always been proud of our school, but we have had a great disappointment. We have been told that the coming graduating class will be unable to look forward to a traditional and long-awaited senior trip.

We can't understand why, with 60 per cent of our students actually going this year and the many juniors who are anxious to go next year, we should be deprived of our trip because of the lack of interest from another school.

Comments on Cancellation of Meeting

An article in The Pontiac Press quoted the Rochester Human Relations Council as urging all residents who "have a stake in Rochester's future under new legislation affecting integration" to attend their meeting on April 22.

Strangely enough, the council canceled the meeting "because their key speaker could not make it." The speaker, George W. Crockett Jr. was billed as an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union and an expert on civil liberties and civil rights. Is this the same George Crockett Jr. who is a member of the National Lawyers' Guild, a Communist front organization (its Senate Judiciary) who gained national attention in defending Carl Winter, Chairman of the Michigan Communist Party during the New York Smith Act trial in 1949, during which Crockett was cited for contempt of Court?

Perhaps Mr. Eklund and the Rochester Human Relations Council will do a better researching job before they unwittingly urge citizens to attend such an approach to "new legislation affecting integration."

BURKE CUENY

'We Must Protect Right to Bear Arms'

Regarding the article on Senator Dodd's firearms control bill, most states have laws governing the sale of firearms to minors. Why then the necessity for a federal law to do the same? Increasing fees and taxes would make firearms ownership prohibitively expensive for the average citizen.

The proposal would offer little restriction to the criminal who by his very nature will not obey this or any other law. For example, the law restricts the purchase and ownership of machine guns, yet the criminal element seems able to obtain such weapons whenever they so desire.

I do not object to the control of such weapons as machine guns, cannons, bazookas, etc., since very few people need such weapons. But I think we should do everything possible to insure that law-abiding citizens are not hampered or prevented from purchasing pistols, rifles and shotguns for hunting or self defense. We must protect our right to keep and bear arms for legitimate purposes.

No Votes for 'Barry Goldfinger'

One of the biggest surprises last Nov. 3 was Iowa—where a pre-election congressional delegation of six Republicans and one Democrat was flipped to its present arrangement by six Democrats and one Republican.

The only GOP holdover was Rep. H. R. Gross, who trailed his opponent until a flux of absentee ballots gave him the victory.

"Speaking in Gross' district at Mason City recently, Postmaster General John Gronouski said:

"When I left Washington, I was warned that I might be coming into enemy territory and that I should be on my guard. But I waved the suggestion aside as a gross exaggeration—like some other gross exaggerations I've been hearing lately about the quality of our postal service."

"After all, I didn't hear any complaints from here last November about our delivery of absentee ballots."

In an Armed Services Committee hearing, Rep. Edward Hebert, D-La., a former newsman, complained to Pentagon information boss Arthur Sylvester also a former newsman, that Congress was generally the last to be informed of new developments in Viet Nam.

Accusing the Defense Department of deliberately leaking possible policy shifts to newspapers, Hebert said:

torial and ill-suited to governing all seem to fail.

Says one Democrat: "No matter what we do or say, he goes right on, talking in beatitudes and winning support."

State Attacks Attorney in Guard Probe

LANSING (AP) — The state charged one defense attorney in Gov. George Romney's National Guard suspension hearing Friday with posing "threats of political retaliation" and making an "incorrect statement of facts."

Assistant Atty. Gen. James Ramsey and Russell Searl made the charge against Thomas McAllister, attorney for suspended Adjutant Gen. Ronald McDonald, a major general.

Ramsey and Searl said in final briefs that McAllister made an "incorrect statement of facts appearing in the record" in his brief and also made "suggestions which seem to be thinly veiled threats of political retaliation."

The state attorneys did not file a formal answer to the brief of Russell Noble, attorney for suspended Quartermaster Gen. Carson Neifert, a brigadier general. They said Noble's brief made no challenge of facts stated in a state brief.

MUST DECIDE

Romney now must decide the fate of the generals, relieved last October as a result of an auditor general's report on alleged Guard irregularities.

Friday's brief was a rebuttal to the 32-page summation filed by McAllister, and the 11-page brief by Noble.

Searl and Ramsey filed a 27-page summation immediately after Romney concluded a 93-hour hearing for the generals on April 13.

Pick Lawyer for Belcher Appeal Case

Ferndale attorney John McIntosh was appointed yesterday by Circuit Judge Philip Pratt to prepare an appeal for convicted murderer Harry M. Belcher.

McIntosh had been retained by Belcher during his eight-day trial. It ended April 9 with Belcher being found guilty of setting a fire that killed his wife and six children.

The 32-year-old tool and supply shop manager was sentenced to live in the state prison at Jackson last Wednesday for first degree murder in the death of his wife, Catherine.

Pratt named McIntosh after Belcher filed an affidavit stating that he was unable to pay an attorney to pursue the case.

McIntosh will be paid by the county for his services, and will be furnished with the necessary portions of the transcript if he will need to prepare postconviction motions.

Belcher's family died Jan. 25 when fire swept their home at 446½ N. Hazelhurst, Ferndale.

State Pilot Unhurt

Pentagon Rapped for Delay on N-Ship

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee has sharply criticized the Pentagon for dragging its anchor on nuclear ship construction.

It reported to Congress Friday that "the committee feels, and has felt for all too long, that the Department of Defense has both procrastinated and vacillated in its approach to nuclear-powered surface ships."

The committee stepped in and added $150.5 million for a nuclear-powered guided missile frigate to the list of purchases and projects the Pentagon asked authorization for.

It also declared it would authorize a nuclear aircraft carrier next year "whether requested by the Department of Defense or not."

FACES HURDLES

The armed services committee's authorization of $5,365,400,000 for missiles, ships, planes and research and development still must be approved by the House. The actual funds have to be acted on by the appropriations committee. Even if the additional funds for the nuclear frigate pass congressional muster, Secretary of Defense Robert

S. McNamara is not bound to spend them.

However, said the committee chairman, Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D.S.C.: "It is my hope and the hope of the committee that we are giving a strong indication that nuclear power be used for 'surface ships on a much broader basis than has been the practice so far.'"

The committee noted in its report that only four surface ships with nuclear propulsion have been built "notwithstanding the constant urging of the Congress that more vigorous action be taken in this area."

The four ships are the carrier Enterprise, the frigates Bainbridge and Truxtun, which is still under construction, and the missile cruiser Long Beach.

The report, which accompanies the authorization bill, said the committee was encouraged by McNamara's statement that the odds favored the department recommending a nuclear carrier next year.

McNamara canceled plans to construct a second nuclear carrier two years ago, mainly because of the high cost.

A Little Boy's Question Is Answered by Faith

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: I am a Sunday School teacher. One of my pupils' mothers told me that a few years ago you had something in your column in reply to a child who had lost his baby brother.

She said your answer explained death beautifully on a child's level. If you recall such a letter, I would appreciate your printing it again. Thanking you in advance, I am,

Sincerely yours,
LOVES CHILDREN
DEAR LOVES CHILDREN: I do recall such a letter because of the many requests I had from clergymen requesting permission to reprint it in their church bulletins. And here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: My Sunday School teacher says that God is everywhere. Please put this letter in the paper and maybe He will see it."

"Dear God: Why did you let my brother die? When he was hit by the car my mother prayed to you to let him live but you wouldn't."

My little brother was only two years old and he couldn't have sinned so bad that you had to punish him that way. Everyone says you are good and can do anything you want to do. You could have saved my little brother but you let him die.

You broke my mother's heart. How can I love you?"

PETER: DEAR PETER: Your question is one that has troubled religious men for thousands of years.

One great thinker wrote a book about it. It is called "JOB" and is part of the Bible. It says that the suffering of innocent people is something we cannot understand. But this much is sure: Death is not a punishment. It is one of life's mysteries.

Speak to your minister, Peter. Communicate with God by praying, and He will help CAMOUFLAGE MORTAR — A Marine unit is in the process of camouflaging a mortar against aerial attackers while consolidating the emplacement, located on the outskirts of Santo Domingo.

Landing Teams of Marines Like Self-Contained Units

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine battalion landing teams, like the one that went ashore in the Dominican Republic, are much like small self-contained armies. They have their own tanks and artillery, motor transport, medical detachment, engineers, supply and other elements.

They have 30 days of supplies available aboard the Navy amphibious ships that are their homes while afloat with the fleet.

Among other things, these supplies include from 700 to 1,000 tons of ammunition for everything from pistols to howitzers.

A battalion landing team is built around a 1,200-man infantry battalion.

CAN BE STRENGTHENED

It can be strengthened to as many as 2,000 men, depending on the different kinds of units attached to it, and this in turn depends on the mission, the terrain and the likely enemy.

The battalion involved in the Dominican Republic was part of an amphibious group including a helicopter carrier, three transports and two landing ships carrying heavy gear.

Expects State to Win in Hassle With U-M

SAGINAW (AP) — The president of the State Board of Education expects the board to win its fight against the University of Michigan's continuing and expanding the U-M Flint branch into a four-year institution.

"If we don't win, we might just as well fold up our tents and go home," said Thomas J. Brennan, state board chairman. Brennan was guest of honor Friday at a Delta College function.

The state board has recommended that Michigan phase out its branch operation in Flint and make way for an independent state-supported four-year college there.

The university has replied with plans to go ahead with freshman, sophomore and junior classes there this fall and to add seniors next year. It says it does not intend to phase out the branch.

It's Not Burglarproof

WYOMING, Pa. (AP) — J. Henry Pool, a local real estate dealer, says a burglar has stolen his 800-pound aluminum fall out shelter.

Pool told police Friday the shelter, valued at $400, is the type that is constructed above ground. He said it could have been dismantled easily with a screwdriver and carted away in a vehicle.

state board influence in planning for higher education in Michigan is at stake in the Flint situation.

In advocating a U-M phase-out, Brennan said he was not setting a time for its completion but believed this should coincide with establishment of an autonomous four-year college there.

"That may take four to six years," he added.

Asked about the state board's position on a four-year college recommended for the Saginaw, Bay and Midland County area by a governor's committee, Brennan said a date had not yet been set for a hearing requested by Saginaw Valley College's directors.

Saginaw Valley College is a private chartered college which hopes to obtain state support.

A 'Tower of Power' Tops GMTC Exhibit

A pyramid of trucks towering three stories into the sky and a new experimental turbine-powered bus highlights GMC Truck & Coach Division's all-new exhibit at this year's New York World's Fair.

The display outside the General Motors Futurama Building also includes three sleek camper vehicles, a huge highway tractor-trailer combination, a new passenger carrier and an exhibit depicting 50 years of progress in milk hauling.

GMC Truck's colorful "Tower of Power" consists of a stock of four light-medium and heavy-tonnage trucks, dramatizing the complete model coverage offered by the division.

The bottom vehicle is a large diesel highway tractor with flat-bed trailer.

Riding "piggyback" on it is a heavy-duty platform truck. This vehicle in turn supports a medium-duty tilt-cab model.

TOP UNIT
The top unit is a light GMC Handi-Bus cargo carrier.

The show trucks and their tie-downs weigh 30 tons and are supported by three 18-inch reinforced concrete slabs.

Near the "Tower of Power" is another new GMC display, "Turbo-Cruiser II."

This "laboratory on wheels" was developed recently by GMC Truck & Coach Division in conjunction with GM Research Laboratories. It represents one of the latest advances in bus rapid transit research.

UNIQUE FEATURE
While Turbo-Cruiser II has many design innovations, its most distinctive feature is a 200-horsepower, regenerative gas turbine power plant that has outstanding combustion characteristics and an extremely desirable power-to-weight ratio.

The engine may be seen through a clear plastic housing.

A half-century of progress in milk hauling is dramatized in another new GMC Truck exhibit. It features a 1915 GMC milk truck displayed beside a 1965 Toro-Flow diesel tank truck.

Descriptive posters report that GMC milk truck capacities have risen from 500 to 3400 gallons in the past 50 years. Horsepower is up from 40 to 170, and road speeds have increased from 14 miles per hour to legal express-way maximums.

FOR OUTDOORS
Of special interest to outdoor enthusiasts are three separate camper-truck displays.

These include a light GMC Handi-Bus Camper complete with bunks and cabinets, a pickup truck with removable camper body, and a larger permanent camper body mounted on a one-ton GMC truck chassis.

Camper bodies include many luxurious features, such as carpeting, intercom, and full-length mirrors.

Another vehicle, the GMC Handi-Bus, will be displayed near the campers.

This vehicle is an attractively appointed station wagon-type unit built on a rugged truck chassis for dependable town and country performance.

Supplementing the vehicle displays are several engine exhibits.

Show engines include a famous GMC Ford-Flow diesel, a V8 gas engine and a 6V71N heavy-duty diesel engine.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren has said that the added revenue will definitely not solve the city's financial woes. He describes it as "keep pace" money.

Roughly $200,000 will go to the city's $6.7 million general fund. The general fund is at its charter limit of 10 mills.

CAPITAL FUND
The balance of the added revenue — about $22,000 — will go into the capital improvement fund. This fund is supported from an earmarked 15 mills.

Some city accounts, such as the Department of Public Works and the maintenance of local streets, are already overdrawn, said Warren.

According to the city manager, these problems will have to be cleared up first with the added moneys.

In addition, a reclassification study is being made of all city jobs by the Michigan Municipal League Implementation of the study, which is to be completed in June, will cost money.

Some city offices, like the engineering department, are still below 1963 personnel levels. City Engineer Joseph E. Neiplich has had eight resignations since 1963.

Only two vacancies have been filled.

Pontiac's windfall of a quarter of a million dollars will not solve all such problems and shortcomings in city services.

The added revenue is still far short of the $1 million annually the city would have netted from its income tax, defeated at the polls March 18.

The funds will, however, help city finances to stay in balance.

Warren said that the added moneys are not a great deal with which to tackle the city's financial problems.

"It's not a terrific amount of money like a new source of revenue," he concluded.

The city manager pointed out that amendment of the budget was a policy decision to be made by the City Commission.

He expects to present his recommendation to the commission at an informal meeting next week.

On the fourth Monday in May, the state will formally set the city's state equalized value. After that action, the city will know for sure the amount of added revenue to be available for fiscal 1965.

Reacting to county equalization figures, including a sur- prising one per cent hike in the equalizing factor, city administrators anticipate about $239,000 more revenue this year than last.

Had income fluctuated drastically, cutbacks might have been necessary before the year ended. Now, cutbacks seem unlikely.

Secondly, the budget carries only a $35,000 contingency fund to meet unexpected, emergency needs. Warren frequently has referred to this as "peanuts" in a budget that has a $6.7-million general fund.

On the fourth Monday in May, the state will formally set the city's state equalized value. After that action, the city will know for sure the amount of added revenue to be available for fiscal 1965.

Reacting to county equalization figures, including a sur- prising one per cent hike in the equalizing factor, city administrators anticipate about $239,000 more revenue this year than last.

Had income fluctuated drastically, cutbacks might have been necessary before the year ended. Now, cutbacks seem unlikely.

Secondly, the budget carries only a $35,000 contingency fund to meet unexpected, emergency needs. Warren frequently has referred to this as "peanuts" in a budget that has a $6.7-million general fund.

Some city accounts, such as the Department of Public Works and the maintenance of local streets, are already overdrawn, said Warren.

According to the city manager, these problems will have to be cleared up first with the added moneys.

In addition, a reclassification study is being made of all city jobs by the Michigan Municipal League Implementation of the study, which is to be completed in June, will cost money.

Some city offices, like the engineering department, are still below 1963 personnel levels. City Engineer Joseph E. Neiplich has had eight resignations since 1963.

Only two vacancies have been filled.

Pontiac's windfall of a quarter of a million dollars will not solve all such problems and shortcomings in city services.

The added revenue is still far short of the $1 million annually the city would have netted from its income tax, defeated at the polls March 18.

The funds will, however, help city finances to stay in balance.

Warren said that the added moneys are not a great deal with which to tackle the city's financial problems.

"It's not a terrific amount of money like a new source of revenue," he concluded.

The city manager pointed out that amendment of the budget was a policy decision to be made by the City Commission.

He expects to present his recommendation to the commission at an informal meeting next week.

Harry Belafonte Sits In on Talks

Two Rights Leaders Clear Air on Tactics

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and James Forman, key leaders in the nation's civil rights movement, have admitted differences but say they have agreed to cooperate in several projects.

At a news conference Friday King emphasized in a joint statement that differences have been exaggerated and that he and Forman are working together.

King is president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and Forman is executive secretary of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

The joint statement also revealed that singer Harry Belafonte had been called in to act as an objective observer in resolving issues at two meetings of the civil rights leaders.

BACK AT IT

Belafonte stood with King and Forman at the news conference in a downtown motor hotel and immediately afterward returned to a discussion of issues, projects and problems with them.

Forman, who made few remarks at the conference, said Belafonte was not a "mediator."

However, the soft-spoken Belafonte said: "It would be incorrect to say there were not some situations where there was a lack of clarity."

Belafonte said that in the heat of battle and "the war on nerves there comes a time when objectivity can leave you for a moment."

NO ISSUES

He said he was requested to meet with King and Forman and some of their colleagues. Belafonte and the two civil rights leaders said they discussed no issues at the first meeting in Atlanta on April 21.

Each group was declared "much in agreement with the other," Belafonte said, reporting the joint talks were meant to clear the air, patch up differences and avert inroads of division when King and Forman are in the field.

King said the discussion was "very fruitful. In general we are in agreement on strategy."

The joint statement said choice of tactics by SCLC and SNCC, was difficult and that they had agreed to foster cooperative efforts for enactment of the voting rights bill and the Alabama boycott and to challenge the seating of Mississippi congressmen.

It also said careful consideration had been given to recurring charges of Communist infiltration in the civil rights movement, concluding that the charges were designed to disrupt and divide the movement.

Board Schedules Tax Hearings

Preliminary budget hearings conducted by the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board will begin May 11 at the County Court House auditorium.

The board will establish a final tax rate for townships, school systems and Oakland County May 27 after determining how the 15-mill tax limitation will be split among the three.

Townships and villages are slated for the May 11 all-day hearings, school districts the next day and county government on May 13.

Purpose of the hearings is to give governmental and school officials the opportunity to be heard on any aspects of their tentative budgets that require further presentation.

The allocation board will set preliminary rates May 17.

Hearings on final rates are scheduled May 15 for townships and school districts and May 26 for county government.

To Home in Pontiac

Remodeling Adds Charms

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press Desiring the comforts of a new family room could have created a dilemma for Mr.

and Mrs. Robert Eldred.
But by having an addition built on to their lovely family room on West Iroquois, they discovered they could continue to enjoy both the city conveniences they were accustomed to and the relaxed suburban-type comfort they were seeking.

A step leads down from the original formal living room, done in subdued tones of blues, beige and white, to the warm welcoming atmosphere of the added family room.

The room's brilliant fireflyred carpeting complements oiled - walnut paneling and beams and the split-fieldstone fireplace wall.

To avoid the sometimes annoying and frustrating task of fire building, the Eldreds had a gas fireplace installed.

As the flames flicker over the permanent logs, one would assume that natural wood was burning. And, the ever-mesmerizing beauty of the fire doesn't have to be hidden by a screen for there is no danger of sparks.

An antique brass coal scuttle, imported from England, holds charcoal for the grill built into the fireplace wall.

Mounted on the fieldstone is a graying caught by Mr. Eldred when he was on an Alaskan trip.

Antique brass tables from Egypt are used in front of the beige down-cushioned sofa.

Completing the fireplace seating arrangement is a moss-green swivel rocker.

Double glass windows at the back of the family room, screened for air circulation, serve to integrate the landscaped back yard into the room.

DECEIVING FACADE—Don't be misled by those dormers and the over-all structural appearance of this elegant house. It's not a two-story Cape Cod, but a ranch with all the rooms on one floor. (P.S.—those are false dormers.)

FLOOR PLANS: A good traffic pattern here. Note, for example, how the family room can be entered from the living room-dining room combination, from the kitchen-dinette, from the side entrance and from the rear patio.

H-81 STATISTICS

Design H-81 has a living room, dining room, family room, foyer, kitchen, breakfast area, laundry room, four bedrooms, two baths, a laundry and a rear patio. The habitable area totals 2134 square feet. The plans include a full basement, with space under the bedroom wing for a two-car garage. Overall dimensions are 40' by 65'.

Right Flooring Vital to Home

What many homes need is sympathetic understanding. Floors, for example, are one area of the home that most often needs sympathetic understanding by the homeowner — and for good reason, since they bear the brunt of most wear and tear.

Flooring materials must meet two demands — the strength to withstand traffic and the esthetic ability to blend with the decor of a room.

Most common of the wood flooring materials are the hardwoods — oak, birch, walnut and maple. While this type of floor surface requires careful maintenance to preserve its beauty, it will give many years of serviceable wear.

In areas where hard usage and other special problems occur, the home owner may find that other types of surfacing material fill the bill.

PUNISHMENT
Floors of ramparts rooms, foyers, kitchens and baths require surfaces that will withstand punishment as well as the characteristics of being stainproof and waterproof.

In these key hard wear areas, durable flooring materials such as ceramic mosaic and quarry tile are gaining increasing use.

Ceramic mosaics fit both requirements for a floor surface: they can withstand the toughest usage and, at the same time, fit almost any room's decor. Quarry tile is an excellent surface for floors where exceptionally heavy traffic is expected, such as a foyer or hallway.

Choosing the right flooring material for the right area can prove a money-saver for the home owner.

Recreation Rooms

Attractively Designed

Most recreation and family rooms get rather hard use, but that doesn't mean such rooms cannot be attractively designed.

Your family recreation room can be game for anything and good looking, too. If the floors and walls are surfaced with a durable yet colorful material such as ceramic tile which can withstand all kinds of rough treatment and still retain its original beauty.

It's important to remember that small areas of color appear less intense than large areas of the same color.

Total Color Effect Hard to Visualize

Few paint buyers can visualize the total color effect on a large wall surface from this little sample. Therefore, the complaint is often made that the color chip is not a "true" color.

According to Ruth Johnston, who heads the consumer color research program for Pittsburgh Paints, women may find the color chip aesthetically appealing in its small size, yet fail to be able to envision it magnified a thousand-fold when painted on a wall.

Also, since pastels have been used so extensively in the past decade, most women find it difficult to picture the total effect of the muted or deeper shades currently being shown.

It's important to remember that small areas of color appear less intense than large areas of the same color.

Modern Ranch Has Cape Cod Exterior

The quaint charm of a Cape Cod has endured through the years.

While some changes in interior design have taken place in this style of house during the last decade, the exterior has remained basically the same since any radical alteration in its outward appearance would destroy its traditional appeal.

The latest House of the Week seems to be a typical Cape Cod.

A covered portico with graceful arches, small dormers, red cedar shingles and low, open fences are among the visible features which give it that look.

But it's not a Cape Cod at all. On the inside, it's actually a ranch house! Here's how this distinctive arrangement came about.

ONE FLOOR
Architect William B. Chigots was told by a husband and wife that they wanted to buy a Cape Cod house, but soon discovered that they couldn't find one with all the rooms on the first floor.

They wanted at least three and preferably four bedrooms, with a laundry area that could be entered from the side or rear.

Their plight sparked Chigots into the creation of Design H-81, a house with a ranch interior and a Cape Cod exterior.

Instead of a second floor, this house has a low attic of the kind that can be utilized for storage if necessary.

In that event, one of those disappearing stairways could easily be located in the bedroom hallway to the left of the foyer.

This would be optional, because the plans call for a full basement, suitable for all the storage any family might need.

Incidentally, a two-car underground garage is located next to the basement and would be entered either from the side or the rear of the house, depending on the size of the lot and personal preference.

EFFICIENT PLAN

All the conveniences of modern ranch design are included in a well laid-out floor plan. Entering beneath the covered portico into a large foyer, one moves straight ahead to the living room, to the left and the four-bedroom wing, or to the right and the kitchen. This distributes traffic effectively.

The living room has plenty of wall areas suited for varieties of furniture arrangements, but the feature is the fireplace wall.

It's made of floor-to-ceiling brick throughout its length, with an oversize, extended, flagstone hearth.

The back of the fireplace gives the dining room an interesting bricked projection.

Next to the dining room is a wood-paneled family room, with half-height sliding glass doors leading to a rear patio.

Headquarters for housekeeping is in front of the home in an efficient kitchen that includes a countertop range, a wall oven and a separate breakfast area.

The bay window in the dinette and the window over the sink provide natural light and air as well as a view.

SERVICE ENTRY

Also in this area is the service entry, with a mud-room closet, lavatory and laundry that contains a washer, dryer and storage cabinet facilities.

The kitchen is thus only a few steps from either the side or front entrance.

The four-bedroom, two-bath wing has a hall flaired out at the end to eliminate a feeling of congestion.

All bedrooms have an abundance of closet space, with three others in the hall.

The master bedroom has a full bath, including a stall shower, an oversize vanity with a full-length wall mirror and a ventilated, separated, water-closet compartment.

Ranch or Cape Cod, this is an interesting and a comfortable house.

Poor Lumber Can Be 'Expensive'

While several thousand feet of lumber are required for the framework of the typical home, the total lumber cost is usually less than 10 per cent of the total house.

Although the effect of its quality on cost is negligible, the impact on the ultimate worth of the dwelling is immense.

Framing lumber holds the house together and supports its surface parts. On its strength and endurance depends the security of the home, ability to withstand wear and the degree of required maintenance.

For such reasons, framing lumber of inadequate quality can be an expensive "bargain." Be sure to select an appropriate species and grade that's properly seasoned and "pre-shrunk" before being surfaced to final size.

With Dry Latex Concrete

Patching Simplified

Nothing has been discovered to prevent the ravages of winter's freezes, thaws and extreme temperature changes that cause breaks in concrete and other masonry. But a new product, Dry-Latex Concrete, has been developed to make patching easier and the results more durable.

All you need to do is add water, mix and apply directly to any clean, sound masonry. No time-consuming preparation of chipping or roughing, no priming and curing are necessary.

The product, the first dry latex concrete to be introduced on the market, is sold in 5, 10 and 40-lb. bags ready to use. It makes an immediate, perfect bond to any surface, and can be applied to damp or dry surfaces, either indoors or outdoors, since it is not affected by weather. In fact it is tougher than the concrete itself and won't dry out or crumble.

Uses include repairing rough, cracked and rain pitted or freeze-cracked sidewalks, driveways, foundations, floors, swimming pools and garden masonry. Sealtproof and resilient, it is also used for smoothing or repairing large floor and wall surfaces in industrial work.

Latex Concrete was first available in a powder form which required a special latex liquid for mixing. Now in its dry form, it is available at local building supply dealers, hardware and paint stores or lumber dealers.

New Design in Hydronics

The increased use of home hydronic (hot water) heating systems in recent years is attributed to new developments and product improvements.

One of the significant new advancements is the use of smaller pipe sizes, which has reduced installation costs substantially. Also, new designs in hydronic baseboards have enabled contractors to greatly speed up installation time.

Package boilers, zoning and highly sensitive controls are other new trends contributing to the "hydronic popularity boom" among homeowners.

Plumbing Industry Is Revolutionized

New methods and new ideas are rapidly revolutionizing the plumbing industry.

Some plumbing wholesalers, for instance, now make certain deliveries by helicopter; many plumbing contractors use trucks equipped with two-way radios to speed service; and it is now common for contractors to use radioactive isotopes and geiger counters to detect leaks in concealed piping.

Fair Model Has Solution

A solution to the problem of window walls, now being used to an increasing extent in new homes, is to be found in one of the model homes at the New York World's Fair.

The contemporary home, designed by noted architect Jack Pickens, Coble, utilizes vertical venetians in combination with light, sheer drapery fabrics as treatments for all of the extensive glass areas in the home.

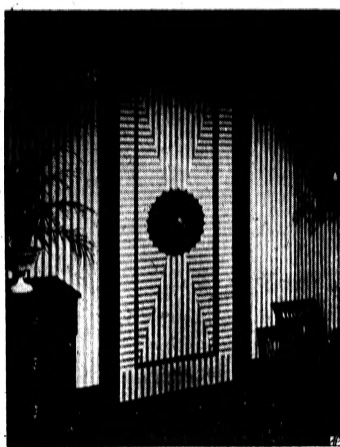

The Cable House, designed to bring the outdoors indoors, consists of a core surrounded by four wings. Each area of the house looks out on the outdoors including a pool, deck and terraces.

The verticals are adjusted to provide complete privacy when needed while admitting air and light. The diffused light filtering through the sheer drapery material adds to the airy appearance. When a full view of the outdoors is required, both verticals and drapes are drawn to the side.

In new homes, window walls are frequently used to divide an indoor playground and an outdoor patio. Without a window treatment like venetians, the magnifying effect of the large glass area when the sun shines on it makes the interior room uncomfortable and the glare prevents enjoyment of the outdoor prospect.

Sierra Nevada Slope Home of Pine Tree

The lofty sugar pine tree is found chiefly in the Sierra Nevada mountains of California. Some specimens reach 250 feet in height with diameters of nearly 12 feet.

ENTRANCE HALL. — The entrance door has been made striking by the use of wallpaper, pasted on with stripes running crosswise.

Give Tired, Old Room New Lease on Beauty

This is the year to give a tired old room a new and posh lining. The optimum look is back and one way to get it is to dress up the background of rooms, a trick that may be used by those who must watch pennies as well as those with fat pocketbooks.

A dramatic or ingenious treatment of walls may accomplish elegance with one simple stroke.

A little bit even of a good thing like a special wallpaper may give a 20-year-old sofa or chair a new lease on life. But whatever is chosen for the background should be special for one reason or another.

If the furniture is traditional, the wall pickup should match the period or at least be in harmony with it.

CONTEMPORARY

If the furnishings are contemporary, one should be especially aware of the wall treatment that will pull off the effect you seek.

Smash accents, long used by many interior designers for traditional rooms, include elegant backgrounds achieved with wallpaper panels.

A dramatic paper is inserted in an area defined with molding to create a panel.

Other designers prefer to paint walls in the hue of the pattern. Or pattern is combined with solid color papers that match the background.

Interior designer Elizabeth Matthews did two walls in a corner of a room in a beautiful large-scale red pattern on white, a traditional design taken from the house in which lived John

United States.

She set the handsome wall paper on panels on the walls, painting the molding white and using a dark red silk textured wallpaper to match the red in the design on the surrounding wall area.

LACK DETAILING

If rooms lack architectural detailing, and it is desirable, apply molding yourself. It can be bought at a lumber shop in the width desired.

If dimensions of the panel areas are supplied to lumber dealers, they will cut it to fit, and miter the molding so it may be put up to outline the panels.

One may wish to do an entire wall of panels. Or a closet door in a foyer or hall with the surrounding area papered or painted in a background color.

To achieve a striking entrance hall, Miss Matthews used a three-quarter inch gray and white striped paper on a door and walls around it, contrasting it with black trim and natural wood tones in furniture.

Baseboards, door frame and the edge of recessed panels were painted black. Inside the panel, long triangles with stripes going crosswise were fitted with points meeting in the exact center of the door.

Empty spaces were then filled with wallpaper triangles cut with stripes running vertically. The frame of the panel was covered with horizontal stripes on the sides, vertical stripes top and bottom.

To complete the picture, a large ornamental doorpull was placed where all stripes come together.

And that's a great out for anyone who isn't good at matching stripes.

A striking doorpull is one way to cover up where they should not cut.

Anyone who isn't adept at all the evening and wall not necessary to an effect of this sort, may prefer to do horizontal striped door and vertical striped walls, especially if the door is a flush door as found in many homes built in the '40s and '50s.

Game Room for Family

High on the most "wanted list" among the nation's homebuyers is a room that is known by many names. Some call it a "recreation room," others call it a "den," while still others call it a "family room."

By whatever name, this all-purpose room must have one quality in common: the ability to stand the rigors of family living.

That's why it's important to surface floors in these family areas with a rugged material such as ceramic mosaic or quarry tile that are "game" for everything.

More than 60,000 once wet and leaky basements have now been made bone-dry since a waterproof-sealant was introduced to and used by — home owners last year.

Controls Can Vary Heating Bill

If you're the type that likes to sleep with a window open, what does that do to your fuel bill? And how about the bedroom heat radiation in such a case — should it be turned off or left on?

Answers to these and other questions regarding the operation of hydronic (circulated hot water) heating systems have been provided by a research team at the University of Illinois.

University engineers found fuel consumption to be the same when bedroom windows are open and the thermostat setting reduced to 65 to 68 degrees as when windows are closed and the entire home maintained at 72 degrees at all times.

They also have discovered that by setting the thermostat back four to seven degrees at night and leaving windows closed, there is a daily fuel saving of approximately five per cent.

If you prefer sleeping with the window open, it's a good idea to put weather stripping around the bedroom door to keep cold air from the rest of the house.

MAXIMUM ECONOMY

For maximum fuel economy, the engineers advise leaving the windows closed, turning down the heat, and keeping window shades down, blinds and drapes shut.

As a general heating tip, always be sure the water in the hydronic boiler is clean and free of dirt or grease.

Hot water radiators, convectors and baseboards should be checked from time to time and vented, so that air collected in them will not retard free circulation.

For more specific information about fuel economy, contact a qualified heating contractor.

Top-Bottom Important

Don't forget — a room has six sides!

Some homemakers planning a remodeling project fail to consider the floor or ceiling when working out the color theme for the area.

Often the floor or ceiling can provide a needed color accent in the room. Recently two interesting patterns — Nugget and Gold Lace — were added to the line of a plastic-finished ceiling block.

This washable paneling is ideal for ceilings, even in bathrooms and kitchens, because of its resistance to heat, moisture and stains. Plastic-finished hardboard can be damp-wiped clean; never needs refinishing.

Home handy men can install the 16" square blocks right over the old ceiling. Wallboard adhesive is used to secure a strong bond.

Attention Owners; Check Private Wells

Homeowners using private wells are advised to check their pumps for adequate capacity. Many now in use need to be replaced with "higher-capacity" models.

With Help of Pastel PaintsSpring Freshness Invades Indoors

Golden daffodils, crocuses, iris, tulips and other delightful bulbs unfurling in gardens across the land signal the arrival of spring.

And what could be nicer or more economical than bringing spring freshness indoors by changing the decor of every room in your home with paint.

Pastels and light tints create a feeling of airiness in even the smallest room.

Lights tints or pastels will not increase the dimensions of a room, but they will reflect more light, making objects seem farther away and creating an illusion of bigness.

Even a low ceiling will look higher if it is painted white or in a light tint.

COLOR VARIETY

The variety of colors available is second only to the decorating magic of paint in adding new sparkle to every room in your home or apartment.

Latex or water-base paints dry rapidly, with little or no odor. They are easy to apply and give cleaner, brighter colors—especially in the pastels and light tints.

Alkyd or oil base paints have better hiding power and washability. They are ideally suited for woodworks and trim because of their abrasion resistance.

Why not combine the two—using latex paint for walls and alkyd paint for doors and woodwork.

They can be matched, coordinated or contrasted, depending on the effect desired. Matching wall color and trim in a light or pastel color will convey an even greater illusion of bigness.

Coordinating a pastel wall color with a slightly deeper hue in the same color family lends interest to a large room, highlights trim and woodwork.

For a striking contrast, try painting the walls a lovely light color and using a deep, rich or bright tone for painting shelving, a piece of furniture, a trash basket or similar item.

COLOR CONTRAST

Contrasting colors should be used with the same care as adding accessories.

Dark or bright colors make objects appear to come forward.

The decorating magic of paint is limited only by your ingenuity.

Your local reputable paint dealer or painting contractor can provide you with a large selection of color chips or books, plus helpful hints for brightening your home.

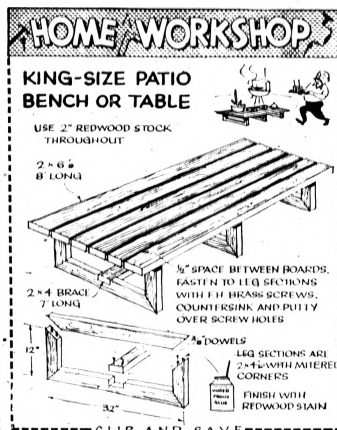

It's so easy and economical to bring spring indoors with paint.

Protective CoatingWithstands Pressure

A permanently guaranteed epoxide-type waterproof sealant and protective coating for household use, is so tough that it can withstand more than two tons of water pressure per square foot.

It saves wet basements, and protects garage floors, patios, gutters, workbenches, etc.

When combined with clean, dry sand, a new epoxide-type waterproof sealant provides a putty like mortar which seals cracks in basements, walls, foundations etc., and is guaranteed permanent against leaks.

Wins 7-0 on Three-Hitter

Twins' Grant Calls Tune in Blanking White Sox

By The Associated Press
Song-and-dance man Jim Grant went out to face the music and wound up calling the tune.

The Minnesota Twins' right-hander, who heads a musical combo during the off-season, took a rock and roll earned run average 18.92 — into Friday night's game at Chicago and came away with a 7-0 three-hit triumph over the White Sox.

Sam Mele, the Twins' manager, hinted before the start of the White Sox series that another boxing would knock Grant out of the club's starting corps. Jim responded by retiring the first 12 men he faced and allowing only one hit — an opposite-field bloop double by Pete War-over the first 5.23 innings. The Twins, meanwhile, clipped Chicago southpaw Gary Peters for three runs in the inning and won going away.

Cleveland trimmed Washington 5-2 on Ralph Terry's four-hitter. Los Angeles blanked Kansas City 4-0 behind Marcellino Lopez and Bob Lee and three home runs by Boog Powell and Curt Blefary led Baltimore more past New York 10-4 in other AL games.

PETERS POUNDED
The Twins treated 20-game winner Peters roughly in the first inning. Zoilo Versalles led off with a double; Tony Oliva singled him in and Bob Allison delivered another run with a single. All three drove in runs later in the game and Grant ignited a "three-run ninth-inning burst with a triple.

Terry, dealt to Cleveland by the Yankees after a 7-11 season in 1964, ran his record to 3-1 and struck out 11 Senators. He had a two-hit shutout until the ninth, when Woodie Held doubled and Bob Chance homered. Chuck Hinton, who had a solo homer, and Dick Howser each drove in two runs for the Indians.

BOMBERS BOMBED
Two singles, Powell's homer, two more singles and Blefary's homer — all in the third inning off Jim Bouton — sealed the Yankees' doom early. Winning pitcher Steve Barber tired in the sixth inning and Dick Hall finished up.

Lee mopped up with two hitless innings.

Jerry Adair, the Orioles' slick-fielding second baseman, set an American League record of 417 consecutive chances without an error and moved within one of the major league mark held by the late Ken Hubbs of the Chicago Cubs. Bobby Doerr of Boston had the AL record of 414 chances. Adair also stretched his record string with an out to a bubble to 83 straight games.

SETTING FOR DERBY — The familiar twin steeples on the roof of the clubhouse at Churchill Downs enhance the impressive background as the horses round the first turn in the Kentucky Oaks race yesterday. The 91st Kentucky Derby will be run on the same track today. American won the Oaks race.

Stretch Runners Prosper in Derby

Silky Sullivan Was Exception

Co-Favorite in 1958
Came Home 12th

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — There have been few horses in Kentucky Derby history who have stolen the hearts of the public like a culprit from California named Silky Sullivan.

Those who saw the 1958 Derby will tell you that Silky Sullivan could have won any beauty contest for male horses. Unfortunately, that didn't necessary mean he could run.

Silky mistook the Derby for an afternoon stroll and, though sent off the co-favorite with Tim Tam, never ran a lick and finished 12th in a 14-horse field.

Silky was a horse who liked to come from far off the pace and the Kentucky Derby — at 1 1/4 miles — is made for a horse who can run like this. The distance definitely favors the stretch runners.

The last four winners in this racing classic have come from well off the pace to win it. Last year's winner, Northern Dancer and Chateaugay, who won in 1963, were no better than sixth for the first 3/4 mile.

The 1962 winner, Decidedly, dropped way off the pace and was fifth at the mile pole.

CARRIED THROUGH
Carry Back pulled the same trick in 1961, breaking from the gate 14th in a 15-horse field. He was sixth at the end of a mile.

There was a horse going postward in today's 91st running of the Derby who could well carry on the tradition of the past four winners. He's a big, strong colt named Hall To All.

The son of Hall To Reason was foaled at the same Florida breeding farm that produced Carry Back. His trainer also planned for him to run in today's race just like Carry Back did it.

In 18 races, Hall To All has been out of the money only twice. He has never been out of the money this year and has run three straight seconds.

The oddsmaker at Churchill Downs installed Bold Lad as the 4-5 favorite for the classic when entries were drawn last Friday.

But in money bet Friday, Bold Lad had gone up to 5-2, while Hall To All, who opened at 10-1, had dropped to 3-1 and was the early second choice.

Draper Eyes 'Lucky 13' Title in Amateur Golf Tournament

From Our News Wires

PINEHURST, N. C. — Tom Draper faced a youthful challenge here today in a quest to make "13" his lucky number.

The 50-year-old Birmingham, Mich., chemical salesman met Don Allen, 26, in the 36-hole finals of the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament.

Draper cut down 34-year-old Maurice (Moss) Becroft of Newport News, Va., yesterday, 5 and 3, in the 18-hole semifinals. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., reached the final round with 3 and 2 decision over David Boyd of Atlanta, Ga.

This is Draper's 13th appearance in the tournament. He was a first round loser five times in previous tries.

Draper continued his week-long habit of avoiding mistakes over the 7,000-yard Pinehurst Country Club course against Becroft.

He hit accurate fairway wood shots to the green and putted steadily. He missed only two fairways and seven greens, several by a few inches.

Draper took the lead for good with a par 3 on the sixth as Becroft hit into a trap and overshot the green to take a double bogey five.

Becroft sealed his doom by hitting into a trap on the short 15th, losing the hole to a par and with it the match.

Allen started shakily against Boyd, a 23-year-old insurance man. They halved the first three holes. Allen three-putted the third green.

Betsy Rawls in Golf Lead

SPARTANBURG, S. C. (UPI) — Betsy Rawls, trying for her first hometown win since 1957, held a one-stroke lead today going into the second round of the 13th Peach Blossom Invitational golf tournament.

The blonde Spartan had a 2-under-par 70 in her opening round to take a one-stroke lead over Judy Torlumake, a 20-year-old pro who got the only eagle of the day — on the 505-yard 17th.

Shot Put Mark Falls to Matson

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Texas A&M's Handy Matson, unchanged king of the shot put, makes you wonder what he could do if he was feeling good. Friday, with a sore knee and feeling tired, Matson lifted the 16-pound iron ball 60 feet 3 1/2 inches, more than a foot farther than his pending world record.

With a grunt which he heard several hundred yards away, Matson uncoiled his mighty heave on his second throw in the preliminaries of a three-day Southwest Conference meet between Texas A&M, Texas and Rice.

The throw demolished Matson's pending record of 67-11 1/2 and the official world mark of 67-10, set in 1964 by Dallas Long of Southern California.

TAPERED OFF
Matson also had a good loss on his first try, 67.9, but fell off after the 60-footer, dropping to 66-7 1/2, scratching twice in the finals and finishing up with 33-10 1/2, jumpy for the 66, 260-pound sophomore.

Matson came back with a fine dress throw, but it was anticlimactic after his performance in the shot put. His best in the discus was 195-10 1/2, surpassing the collegiate record of 194-3 set by Bill Neville of Occidental in 1964, but below Matson's pending mark of 201-5 1/2, set earlier this spring.

RECORD HEAVE — Husky Randy Matson of Texas A&M tiring the shot loose on a toss that traveled 60 feet 3 1/2 inches, surpassing his pending world record by more than a foot and approaching the elusive 70-foot barrier. Matson's throw came in the preliminaries of a three-way meet with Texas, Texas A&M and Rice competing at Austin, Tex. The long toss still needs approval by worldwide athletic officials before it can be added to the record books.

QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—George town's Hoyas successfully delayed their distance medley relay championship in the Quantico Relays Friday.

But the Hoyas got no better than a share of the spotlight with a record-breaking four-mile relay team from the host Marine Corps School, a record-setting 40-year relay team from North Carolina College and Olympic hurdler Jay Luck, a record-setter in the 400-meter.

Quantico's foursome of Bob Broutlet, Tom Bache, Keith Forman and Dave Farley took more than six seconds off the meet record with a 17-11.4 effort in the four-mile relay as they demolished favored Villanova and co-favored Georgetown.

400 MARK — Ed Roberts and Norm Tate were the standouts set in the Carolina College's Eagles equaled their own 5-year-old record of 41.7 in the 400-yard relay trials.

Luck, the former Yale captain making his first competitive start since a fifth-place finish in the Olympics, won the 400-yard intermediate hurdles in 51.3, clipping two-tenths of a second off the record he set last year.

The Class A and 'B' teams are competing today at CMU. Eleven schools have entered squads in the OLSM Relays. This is the largest field for the event.

St. Anthony and OLSM are undefeated in dual meet competition. Mt. Clemens St. Mary, Redwood and St. Mary's are 1-1.

Summaries in the 25th annual Michigan High School Relays:

Two-mile relay—1. Traverse City (C) 12:00.2, 2. St. Anthony (C) 12:00.2, 3. St. Mary's (C) 12:00.2, 4. St. Anthony (C) 12:00.2, 5. St. Anthony (C) 12:00.2.

In a golf match, Walled Lake, led by Jim Groux (35), Russ Streeter (36), and Russ Hutton (37), jumped Southfield, 190-27, Don Osterberg posted 20 for the losers.

BEAUTY

One of the most beautiful sights I've ever seen was a sunset on a desert; undulating piles of sand and over the horizon is a display of color as vibrant as a sunset. At night in full moon is another picture; you have palm trees, rise of sand hills in silhouette — there is unmatched beauty.

Buttes in New Mexico afford masterful patterns, rugged cholla cacti turn pink, dust to the rim of the buttes, dissolve into shapes that fit our imagination; a sunset staggers the imagination. Outlines of a shroud that at any other time would be ugly is now a thing of beauty, a ruin filled with sunshine is entirely different from a few minutes ago; it is now a black outline. A horse, sheep, or hawk change from minute to minute. Clouds bill up from a lava's lamp; turn red, fade to black; it is fantastic and all is done with an angle of light, and our imagination.

This earth is a beautiful place; let's keep it that way.

Quake Damage at $12.5 Million

Western Washington Took Main Pounding

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Officially have added up a $12.5 million damage total for this week's Pacific Northwest earthquake.

Almost all the damage, like the seven deaths attributed directly or indirectly to the Thursday temblor, is centered in western Washington.

The federal Small Business Administration declared disaster areas for all sections of the state which suffered earthquake damage.

NOTE DAMAGE — The state Civil Defense Department and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers estimated damage at $8.2 million to private property and $4.2 million to public facilities.

The Boeing Co., the state's largest employer, was the biggest loser. The Civil Defense Department estimated $3.5 million damages to the aerospace firm's Seattle facilities.

One of the several persons injured by falling rubble remained in critical condition in hospitals. A fourth woman who suffered a heart attack during the earthquake died Friday.

To Eye Change in Carnival Law

Proposed amendments to two township ordinances will be considered Monday night by the Waterford Township Board.

The first proposal would update an old ordinance pertaining to carnivals to specify mechanical inspection of rides before their operation is permitted.

Also proposed will be amendment to the dog ordinance to prohibit penning of pets within 15 feet of a neighbors property line.

In other business, the board will hear a report on the progress of Oakland Community College by Lloyd Van Buren, director of campus development.

Also slated for board attention is a request from the Pontiac Mail for a fireworks permit for July 3 at 9:30 p.m.

The board will act on a request to change the designation of an SSM license now in the name of Frank Tenuta to Tenuta's Foodland Inc.

Parke, Davis Settles With 1 of 2 Unions

DETROIT (AP)—One of two unions facing a midnight strike deadline in contract talks with Parke, Davis & Co., reached agreement late Friday, while negotiations between the firm and another union broke off.

Agreement on a new three-year contract was reached one hour before the deadline before the drug firm and Lodge 1386 of the International Association of Machinists (IAM). Terms of the new contract were not announced pending membership ratification at a special meeting Sunday. The local has 267 members.

State mediator Walter Quillen and federal mediator Stewart Kelly said negotiations "appeared to have broken off" when Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union representatives left the bargaining table.

Local 1776 of the OCAW represents 1,471 workers. No new meetings are scheduled between the drug firm and the local.

Cambodia Says 3 Conditions Must Be Fulfilled Before It Okays International Confab

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia, (AP) — Cambodia said today three conditions must be fulfilled before it agrees to an international conference to guarantee Cambodia's neutrality and internal security.

1. The conference must be of a sort convened in Geneva in 1954 to end the Indochinese war and not like the 1964 conference of Laos.

2. The "pretended government" in Saigon, South Viet Nam, must not attend.

3. The questions of Viet Nam

NO ELABORATION

A government statement announcing the conditions did not elaborate on the first point.

The 1962 Laos conference set up a coalition government among neutralist, rightist and leftist factions in that country, which like Cambodia and North and South Viet Nam, is a former part of French Indochina.

The statement said the Soviet Union agrees with Cambodia's conditions for a conference, particularly on the refusal to let the South Vietnamese government send a representative.

A Soviet source said in London that the Soviet Union still wants a Cambodian conference despite resistance from Communist China.

He told a newsmen Moscow it unlikely, however, to enter into any peace moves while American air attacks on North Viet Nam continue.

Britain, a cochairman with the Soviet Union of the 1964 Indochina peace conference, has advised the Russians she is ready for joint action to convene a nine-nation meeting on Cambodia.

The United States has announced it is prepared to participate in such a conference. Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia has said publicly he does not want the American and South Vietnamese, and Viet Nam should not be part of the conference discussion.

Sixteen million of the 35 million persons classified by federal authorities as poverty cases live in rural areas.

Explosion Rips U.S. Consulate

MONTREAL (UPI)—A time-bomb ripped the U.S. Consulate here today, smashing windows and doors in the most serious attack on official American quarters in this country's recent history. No one was injured.

Police speculated the blast, preceding by a few hours the first May Day demonstration to be held here in some 20 years, was the work of leftist sympathizers. They admitted they had "no real leads."

A painstaking six-hour search failed to uncover any further explosive charges in the consulate. Police guard was posted immediately.

The explosion, at 1:30 a.m., shattered 28 windows, blew six barred doors off their hinges, and buckled the basement ceiling of the two-building complex along Montreal's so-called "Embassy Row."

No one was in the building at the time since the consulate was closed for the weekend.

Police said the explosion was caused by an "oversized" charge of "heavy explosives."

BENEATH DOOR

It had been buried beneath the rear door of a breezeway linking the handsome two gray-stone buildings in an exclusive residential part of downtown Montreal.

Consul-General Richard H. Hawkins of Pittsburgh, Pa., said he had formally notified the U.S. Embassy in Ottawa, who in turn informed State Department officials in Washington.

U.S. officials in both Ottawa and Washington declined comment, at least until the full extent of damages was determined.

As daybreak came, the U.S. flag was raised over the building in normal custom. But police grimly patrolled the surrounding grounds.

Pete James, his agent, said the band leader had apparently recovered from his lengthy sickness until he suffered a slight relapse yesterday afternoon.

His personal physician was called and remained with him until he died, James said.

Also at home were Jones' wife, Helen Grayco, a former singer with his City Slickers band, and their three children.

Born Lindley Armstrong Jones at Long Beach, Calif., in 1911, Jones started his musical career as a drummer in swing bands of the early 1940s.

He said he got the idea for his noisy style of music when he attended a classical concert and heard the conductor's shoes squeak.

"I kept thinking how funny it would be to substitute an outrageous sound for a musical note," he said.

But it may all fade tomorrow when the Democratic State Central Committee chooses a national committee-man.

The committeemen contest apparently matches Neil Staebler against Stuart Hertzberg, with at least three other names in the ring as long shots.

The winner will replace former Gov. John Swainson in the party's national committee. Swainson had to resign when he became a Wayne County circuit judge last month.

FIRST-BALLOT EDGE

Staebler, a former state chairman, ex-committeeman, one-term congressman and losing gubernatorial candidate, is expected to have the first-ballot edge over Hertzberg, the state party's finance chairman.

But if the 82 voters don't pick a winner on the first ballot, the supporters of long shots Sanford Brown, state treasurer; Gordon Traye, deputy secretary of state; and Richard Stout, party worker, could play key roles.

Defeat could mean the end of the political road for Staebler, a major power during the reign of Gov. G. Mennen Williams in the 1950s.

Major speaker at tonight's dinner is Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz. Democrats hope to attract more than 2,500 diners and raise more than $30,000 to apply against party debt.

Cong Arsenal Seized During Coastal Hunt

Red Chinese Linked With Flamethrowers Found by Soldiers

SAIGON (AP)—A big cache of captured Viet Cong arms included precision, lightweight flamethrowers, presumably furnished by Communist China, the Vietnamese army announced today.

For the first time in weeks, no air activity was reported today over North Viet Nam.

But planes were active in the south, with 49 missions flown in various parts of the country. U.S. jets flew 37 missions over Bin Dinh Province east of the town of An Khe, where guerrillas were reported massing.

Other military activity appeared to be light.

COASTAL SWAMPS

The arms cache was found yesterday during a three-day operation in coastal mangrove swamps about 60 miles south of the capital.

The government said 152 Viet Cong were killed during the action, including 32 at the site of the weapons cache.

Another 35 Viet Cong were captured and 42 Communist suspects rounded up, the government said.

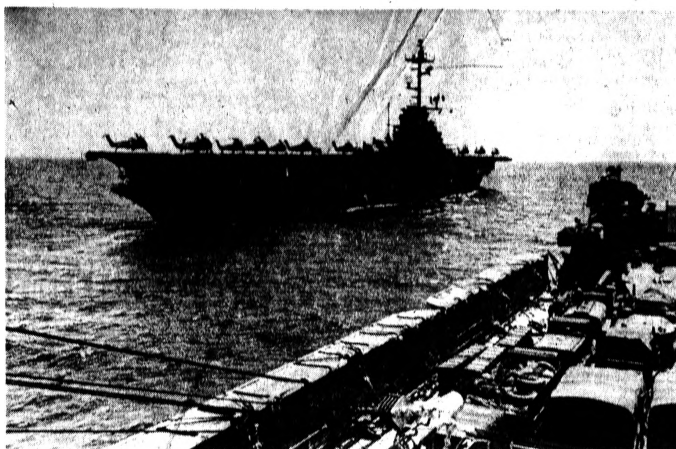

South Vietnamese casualties were given as three killed and eleven wounded.

WARNED CIVILIANS

Civilians in the area were warned of the air strikes by leaflets and loudspeakers and some 4,000 were said to have poured into government-controlled areas.

Flying squads of combat police headed off trouble between two dissident labor unions in Saigon today. There were no injuries or arrests.

ON CARIBBEAN MISSION — With a fleet of helicopters on its deck, the aircraft carrier U.S. Boxer stands in readiness off the southern coast of the Dominican Republic, where it has been stationed since early this week with several other U.S. vessels. The copters participated in the evacuation of American citizens and other nationals from the strife-torn nation and in the landing of U.S. Marines.

Cease-Fire OK Doesn't Stop Capital Battle

Rebels Aren't Fully Controlled by Chiefs; 2 U.S. Marines Killed

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Heavy firing continued in this rebellion-torn capital today despite an agreed cease-fire in the Dominican Republic's week-old civil war.

Rebel leaders fighting for the return to power of exiled former President Juan D. Bosch admitted they did not have complete control of their men, who include armed civilians and dissident young military officers.

Much of the firing was in the vicinity of the U.S. Embassy where two U.S. Marines were killed yesterday.

U.S. Defense Department spokesmen in Washington said 17 Marines and eight paratroopers have been wounded in clashes with the rebels. They were the first casualties among the U.S. forces landed to protect American civilians.

Fighting went on through the night in the eerie light of parachute flares.

INTO EFFECT

U.S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett announced the cease-fire went into effect at 5:30 p.m. yesterday but indicated to newsmen that foreign elements might have taken over the rebellious movement.

President Johnson said in a statement in Washington last night there were significant signs that people trained outside the Dominican Republic are seeking to gain control of the rebels.

Bennett said the rebels and the opposing military junta had agreed to submit the dispute to arbitration by an Organization of American States commission.

A special OAS foreign ministers meeting was called in Washington, and an OAS peace team planned to fly here tonight.

Orion Residents Die in Troy I-75 Collision

Two Lake Orion residents died this morning when the car in which they were riding rammed the rear of a truck on I-75 in Troy.

Dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital were William Beauchamp, 19, of 389 North Shore, the driver, and Wayne Elliott, 47, of 165 Schorn.

The driver of the dump truck, Wallace Richardson, of 36559 Palmer, Madison Heights, was uninjured.

Troy police said the accident occurred about 6:45 a.m. on the southbound lane of I-75, just east of the Adams overpass.

They said preliminary investigation has revealed that the car apparently smashed into the rear of the truck, then veered off the roadway.

Romney Tour Ends

LONDON (AP)—Gov. George Romney and his group of 50 Michigan businessmen left London for Detroit today at the conclusion of a 10-day tour of European Common Market countries.

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China called on foreign delegates in Peking for May Day celebrations to support the Red guerrillas in South Viet Nam and continue the struggle "against imperialism."

"Let us drink a toast to the victory of the Vietnamese people's patriotic struggle against U.S. aggression, to the victory of the struggle of the Asian, African and Latin-American countries against imperialism," Communist Chinese Premier Chou en-lai told a reception in Peking.

His remarks were reported by the New China News Agency.

"All peace-loving nations and people throughout the world should unite to smash the criminal plan of U.S. imperialism to escalate the war in Indochina," Chou said.

He said that the U.S. "peace talks scheme" was aimed at "forcing the Vietnamese people to yield to capitulation."

Liu Ning-yi, president of the All-China Federation of Trade Unions, called for the launching of "an unprecedented powerful mass movement on a world-wide scale" to compel the United States to get out of Viet Nam and "all other places they have occupied."

U.S. Accused of Aggression

Russia Demands U.N. Meet on Intervention

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union accused the United States today of armed aggression in the Dominican Republic and demanded an emergency meeting of the United Nations Security Council.

"It is completely obvious that the landing of U.S. Marines in the Dominican Republic is nothing but an act of direct aggression against the people of this small country," said the Soviet news agency Tass.

Tass said the Marine landing is "yet another attempt to keep in power a reactionary, antipopular dictatorship regime, which suits the U.S.A., and to suppress the strivings of the people for freedom and independence."

"The U.S. intervention is being carried out," Tass added, "as the colonialists have always done in the past, under the hackneyed pretext of 'defending the safety of U.S. citizens.'"

The Tass dispatch said "the attempt of the government of the United States to assume the role of the ruler of the destinies of peoples, to dictate its will upon them, to crush national liberation movements, evoke just worldwide indignation and protests."

Tass said the Soviet Union "has instructed its representatives at the United Nations to demand an urgent meeting of the Security Council to examine the question of the U.S.A.'s armed intervention."

SPIKE JONES

Death Claims Band Leader

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Band leader Spike Jones, 53, the zany musician who entertained millions with his offbeat arrangements, died in his sleep early today at his Bel-Air home.

Jones had been released from nearby Santa Monica Hospital three weeks ago following treatment for an asthma attack and subsequent respiratory complications.

Pete James, his agent, said the band leader had apparently recovered from his lengthy sickness until he suffered a slight relapse yesterday afternoon.

His personal physician was called and remained with him until he died, James said.

Also at home were Jones' wife, Helen Grayco, a former singer with his City Slickers band, and their three children.

"I kept thinking how funny it would be to substitute an outrageous sound for a musical note," he said.

Appointment May Test Dems' Unity

DETROIT (AP)—Democrats meet in Detroit this weekend for fund-raising and in-fighting.

All is expected to be sweet and light tonight at a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Cobo Hall.

But it may all fade tomorrow when the Democratic State Central Committee chooses a national committee-man.

Floodwaters Break Levee, Blanket Illinois Farmland

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — Mississippi River floodwaters crashed through a levee north of Hannibal and Quincy, Ill., today on the Illinois side of the river, inundating about 7,200 acres, most of it farmland.

The water already had covered 10,000 acres in the same area after it broke through an other levee April 17. The river won a long battle with flood waters who tried to save the second levee.

Most of the residents of the area already had been moved out. A few were evacuated today. As far as was known, there were no casualties from the new break.

The break was expected to take some flood pressure off Hannibal, where 15 city blocks have up to a foot of water in them.

Finish Poor 3rd in Fund Race--WSU

LANSING (AP) — Wayne State University claimed Friday that it runs a financial poor third to the University of Michigan and Michigan State University, and asked for $11 million in state operating help for the coming year.

The Senate Appropriations Committee accused Wayne of not keeping it advised on building plans but at the same time gave unofficial endorsement to Wayne's plans to expand its campus through purchase of urban renewal land in Detroit.

Wayne is operating on a $20 million appropriation this year but has asked for more than half again as much for 1965-66. Gov. George Romney recommended a hike to $25.5 million.

Retiring President Clarence Hilberry told the committee that Wayne was not helped in handling 1,700 unexpected students this year and that an additional 3,800 are due to enter next fall, pushing enrollment to 29,000.

Wayne officials said the school trailed U-M and MSU in these respects.

Faculty salaries, $2,100 below U-M levels and $700 behind MSU.

Appropriations per student if Romney's recommendations are adopted, the average being $1,206 at Wayne, $1,568 at U-M and $1,262 at MSU.

Square feet of available building space per student.

Fee revenue from out-of-state students since only four per cent of Wayne's student body is non-Michigan, compared to about 20 per cent for the other schools.

The Wayne group told the committee it has begun to acquire 47 acres of urban renewal land west of the campus and that it wants another 45 acres to the south. Total cost of both parcels is $2,685,000.

Churning river water, which has claimed 12 lives in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois and caused almost $150 million in damage, is expected to flatten out in the wide river banks of the lower Mississippi.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the water would crest between 25 and 25.5 feet Sunday at Quincy, Ill., where the flood stage is 17 feet.

A crest between 24.6 and 25 feet is expected at midnight Sunday at Hannibal — a river town with no levees.

"About the only damage we expect at Hannibal — except for a little mud and silt — will be from tourists," a policeman said.

The officer said the streets were jammed Friday by persons "who were just driving down to gawk at the river."

Almost a foot of water covers 15 square blocks of the downtown area — but no one is worried. Only about 25 families have been evacuated because of water surrounding their homes.

While business in Hannibal sandbagged their doors and built wooden bridges four feet above the water, the grim fight against the backwash of the river continued upstream.

A critical spot is north of Quincy, Ill. where the northside of a levee at the Rock Creek drainage district is slowly being eaten away by the river.

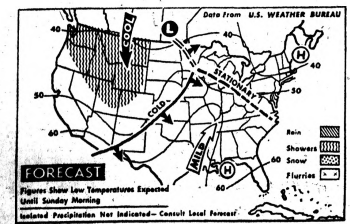

It is adjacent to a levee in the Indian Grave district which splintered earlier this week and sent the river rolling over about 10,000 acres of farmland.

The crest has subsided at levees at Dubuque, Clinton and Davenport, Iowa and Moline, East Moline and Rock Island, Ill. But the water still pushes at the sodden dikes.

The New China News Agency said delegations from 70 countries were in Peking for the celebrations.

They included Foreign Minister Kojin Botso of Ghana; Spiro Koleka, first vice-premier of Albania; and Hoang Van Hoan, vice chairman of the National Assembly of North Viet Nam. The Soviet Union was represented by a trade union delegation.

CIVILIAN PARADE

May Day was celebrated in Moscow with a civilian parade that featured a float showing Soviet support for Communist forces in Viet Nam.

The usual display of military equipment was missing and will be shown this year on May 9, when celebrations of the end of World War II were held.

Latest estimates of the toll of the fighting, which started when pro-Bolshevik military officers forced the resignation of a civilian junta government headed by Donald Reid Cabral, were put at more than 500 killed with another 500 possibly killed.

The injured ran into the hundreds.

In a major battle yesterday with some 1,800 police loyal to the junta, rebel forces won the massive Ozama fortress, which commands a strategic position on the west side of the river of the same name in the capital.

HEAVY FIGHTING

Authenticated reports said the rebels, under Col. Francisco Caamaño, took the fortress after heavy fighting.

Survivors who swam the river said the rebels committed atrocities against the defenders and executed several police officers who had surrendered unarmed.

In all, the rebels were reported to control more than half of Santo Domingo.

The first U.S. casualties came as the Marines and paratroopers moved to the city from the east and west. The Marines moved into a nine-mile area designated earlier by the OAS as a haven for refugees from the fighting.

TOOK LIFE

The Marines wiped out with bazooka fire a machine gun nest that took the life of a leatherneck two blocks from the U.S. Embassy. The Marine column moved in from the west, led by tanks and amphibious vehicles.

Simultaneously, a contingent of Weslin's forces was fighting its way into the downtown area from the eastern part of the city.

In Washington, the State Department issued a special statement saying "the sole mission of U.S. troops in the Dominican Republic is to protect and evacuate U.S. and other foreign nationals from the strife-torn Dominican Republic, and not in any way take sides in the internal conflict."

The statement said "some news dispatches from Santo Domingo have tended to convey the impression that the United States is conducting joint or combined or concerted operations" with Weslin's forces.

ANOTHER CLASH

Another clash occurred as newly arrived paratroopers from the 82nd Airborne Division moved from the San Isidro air base where they landed and took up positions at the strategic Duarte Bridge over the Ozama River at the eastern end of the city.

Their commander, Maj. Gen. Robert H. York, was named by President Johnson as commander of the U.S. task force in the Dominican Republic.

The rebels met the paratroopers with heavy fire.

During the day, U.S. Navy transports from Puerto Rico landed at San Isidro with tons of military material, including ammunition, bazookas, 50-caliber machine guns and barbed wire.

TAKEN ABOARD

Most of the American wounded were taken aboard the carrier Boxer in Santo Domingo harbor.

At the Embajador, a swank seaside hotel from which the Marines launched their drive into the city proper, U.S. Navy personnel were still processing Americans wanting to get out.

There were less than 2,000 American civilians still reported in the country, and many of these were leaving.

The Marines had set up defenses around the hotel to guard against any recurrence of scenes earlier in the week when Americans were terrorized by rebels.

SOME COMMUNISTS

In San Juan, Puerto Rico, Bosch told newsmen that there are "probably a few Communists" fighting with the forces trying to restore him as president.

Bosch, the first freely elected president after 32 years of Trujillo dictatorship, was ousted in 1963 by a military junta that then gave way to a civilian junta with Reid as its chief.

"It is impossible," Bosch said, "that a regime similar to the one in Cuba could be established in the Dominican Republic." He added that he is "absolutely sure of victory."

The Cuban regime of Fidel Castro, meanwhile, asked UN Secretary General U Thant in New York to prevent what he called moves toward a total U.S. occupation of the Dominican Republic.

"The military occupation which is being prepared cannot be ignored by the Security Council of the United Nations, or by its General Assembly," the Cubans told Thant.

Management said the union rejected an overall wage increase of 30 cents an hour for the first year of a two-year agreement and 35 cents for the second year. A spokesman said the hourly pay rate, exclusive of fringes, is $4.58 and that the union demanded an increase in this of 42 cents the first year and 50 cents the second year.

Iron Workers Vote to Strike

Could Tie Up Eastern Michigan Building

DETROIT (AP) — A strike which could tie up work on millions of dollars in construction in eastern Lower Michigan was voted by Iron Workers Union Local 25 Friday night.

The union representing 2,000 union workers, acted after a 16-hour bargaining session with contractors failed to produce agreement on a new contract. The old contract expired Friday midnight.

A contractors' spokesman said the pending work includes a $57 million project at the Ford Motor Co.'s Woodhaven stamping plant, $20 million at Chevrolet Motors in Saginaw, $20 million at both the University of Michigan and Michigan State University, and $4 million at Lansing Oldsmobile.

The union bargains with the Great Lakes Fabricators and Erectors Association, the Detroit and Michigan chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America, and the Michigan Conveyor Manufacturers Association.

Management said the union rejected an overall wage increase of 30 cents an hour for the first year of a two-year agreement and 35 cents for the second year. A spokesman said the hourly pay rate, exclusive of fringes, is $4.58 and that the union demanded an increase in this of 42 cents the first year and 50 cents the second year.

Low for the month was 19 degrees. It got down to the low 30s to mid 40s last week. High for the month was 72 degrees compared with 83 degrees a year ago. Rainfall a year ago was more than 5 inches.

High and low pressure areas jumped around across the lakes, much to the confusion of the weatherman, who had trouble predicting what would happen in the next hour or two.

Average high temperature was 53 degrees, average low 34.7 degrees, and the mean was 43.7 degrees.

Seemed Worse Than It Was

Below - normal temperatures, two tornado warnings, and more than three and a half inches of snow made the month seem worse than it was, however.

There were 14 sunny days in the month compared with 17 a year ago. We had less snow than last year's four inches. April showers produced less than 1 1/2 inches of rain.

The bulk of the month's snow fell on the first of the month. Last year, it snowed on April 2.

Baldwin Public Library Lists Statistics on Service

BIRMINGHAM — National Library Week being an appropriate time for appraisal, Baldwin Public Library has come up with some impressive statistics on the service it provides for the community.

At the conclusion of the observation week, director Jeanne Lloyd and her staff listed achievements since the 1964 National Library Week.

Each hour the library has been open, it has circulated 14 books, magazines and pamphlets, averaging about 37,000 a month.

Some 84,000 questions have been answered at the various service desks.

MAGAZINES

Magazine holdings were considerably enriched because of a grant issued under the Federal Library Services and Construction Act through the Michigan State Board for Libraries.

All magazines indexed in the "Reader's Guide to Periodicals" now are available at the library.

Increasing its holdings by 37 new titles, the library now subscribes to 189 different magazines.

The facility's picture file grew to a total of over 36,000.

In the past, the library had depended entirely on its contract with the Detroit Public Library for making films available to patrons.

However, this year Baldwin made arrangements with the Canadian Travel Film Library to use a collection which revolves in the metropolitan area.

Last fall the Birmingham facility was united with the new Bloomfield Township Library, and prepared 6,100 books for the unit.

Texas Editor Shot to Death

'Diabolical' Device Kills Newspaperman

HOUSTON (UPI) — Melvin L. Steakley, 37-year-old religious editor of the Houston Chronicle and a father of five, was killed today by what a police lieutenant called "one of the most diabolical mechanisms for death I have ever seen."

Steakley, a mild-mannered man with no known enemies, was shot to death about 1 a.m. when he stepped on the clutch of his small foreign car, touching off a booby trap device strapped to the steering column.

Police said they found the pistol, either a .32 or .38-caliber, wired and taped to the steering column and wired to a triggering device placed on the clutch pedal.

They said the steering wheel evidently had been carefully turned so that none of the spokes would intersect the line of fire from the weapon.

Steakley was struck in the heart by the one bullet, but managed to climb out of the car, parked two blocks away from the Chronicle Building in Downtown Houston, and scream for help before collapsing in death 49 feet from the car.

'Princess' Becomes a Peers

LONDON (AP) — A belly-dancer heard Friday that she had become a peeress.

She is Malayan-born Shirin Berry, 26, who under the stage name of Princess Anna has done her belly-dance in nightclubs and cabarets in nearly 50 countries.

She is married to bongo drummer Tony Moynihan, 22, who became the third Baron Moynihan on the death of his father. They met when he played the bongo drums for her nightclub act.

Their marriage, in 1958, caused a society sensation. Tony said at the time: "So-called friends who are supposed to represent the establishment in this country have gone out of their way to be utterly offensive. They think I have let down the British aristocracy."

ELDEST SON

Tony, the eldest son of the baron's first marriage, used to be the delight of London's debutantes. His rock 'n' roll parties became famous. But in 1956 his father packed him off to work on an Australian sheep farm.

Before leaving Tony admitted he had secretly married actress Ann Herbert, the year before. Their marriage was dissolved in November, 1958, and a month later he married Shirin.

First went through a Moslem ceremony in North Africa and later married in a civil ceremony in London.

They have a daughter, Miranda, who accompanied them on their last variety tour which took in Sydney, Tokyo, Hong Kong, Kuala Lumpur and Singapore during the last two years.

Police said the underside of the dashboard, the gun and even the bullets in it had apparently been wiped clean of fingerprints.

Gardens Will Open Sunday

Following tradition despite the lack of blooming flowers, the gardens of Cranbrook House in Bloomfield Hills will open tomorrow.

Recent bad weather has stalled the growth of the garden's flowers, but nevertheless the 40 acres will be open to guests on the first Sunday of May.

Cranbrook spokesmen note there are other things to hold the public's attention — sculpture, pine walks, cascades and the Greek Theater.

The gardens surround the home of Cranbrook's founders, the late Mr. and Mrs. George G. Booth.

They will be open through October. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Claim Jeweler Plotted Heist

Detectives Stymie Scheduled Robbery

NEW YORK (AP)—A Manhattan jeweler, victim of a $100,000 holdup less than three years ago, plotted a half-million dollar gem heist himself, according to authorities.

The district attorney's office said the caper, painstakingly planned and rehearsed, was to include a diversionary smoke bomb and a tear gas getaway.

The jeweler, Henri Teichler, was held in $4,500 bail on charges of conspiracy and attempted robbery.

Teichler's out-of-town contacts turned out to be detectives of the district attorney's office.

The intended victim was Ben Mellen, who operates a jewelry business at 36 West 47th St., a few doors from Teichler's firm in the city's diamond center, the district attorney's office said Friday.

It said an informant reported that Teichler was trying to contact experienced holdup men.

Detectives Anthony J. Bernhard and Peter Favaro posed as West Coasters interested in Teichler's deal, which was said to be a flat payment of $100,000 plus half the proceeds of the robbery.

Another detective, Joseph Feeley, was brought in to serve as getaway driver.

The holdup plan was rehearsed almost daily, beginning April 20, the district attorney's office said, and the detectives said they had the routine down to 90 seconds.

The holdup was set for Thursday and Teichler, authorities said, waited for his hirelings in a midtown hotel room.

There he was seized by six detectives, who subsequently staged a phony ambush of detectives Bernhard and Favaro when they arrived with an empty suitcase.

Ford Raps Students, Profs Who Oppose Viet Policy

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, Friday denounced university students and professors who oppose the administration's Viet Nam policy.

"I consider it incredible that a source of such irresponsible modern-day, know-nothing dissent, based on emotional disregard for the morality and facts of the case, should spring from a few of our university campuses," Ford told a Yale Law Day alumni dinner.

"And I consider it appalling that much of the leadership for picketing with anti-American slogans, in what at times amounts to irresponsible mob action, comes from a small minority of university professors purporting to carry forward the banner of free academic inquiry."

Ford said the overwhelming majority of Republicans in Congress support President Johnson's stand against aggression in Viet Nam.

"In fact, it is worth comment ing that President Johnson might wish for an equal amount of support for his Viet Nam stand from members of his own Democratic Party," he added.

Ford said a student-led Peace March in Washington on the Easter weekend was reminiscent of peace demonstrations during the years of Nazi aggression leading to World War II.

"Today," he said, "our so-called teach-ins and peace demonstrations cry for peace at any price while the seeds of Communist atrocity take root. And yet the appeasers speak of morality."

"Others are concerned with the physical uncleanness of these irresponsible protesters. I am not so much concerned with their personal hygiene as with their moral sterility."

Ford said there must always be a place for responsible dissent and free inquiry in the universities, adding: "But there is no place for irresponsible disruption of academic pursuits on behalf of forces opposed to our system."

Woman Electrocuted

DEARBORN HEIGHTS (AP)—Mrs. Marilyn Parsons, 24, died of electric shock in the metal bathtub of her trailer home Thursday night, an autopsy disclosed Friday. A police electrician said a transformer to the refrigerator was defective and a power line connection to the trailer was frayed.

College Activities to Bring Protest

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Students at Antioch College, noted for demonstrations, find the tables turned on them today.

A citizens' group led by a Bellbrook restaurant owner said they would march nine miles from Xenia to Yellow Springs to protest "alleged Communist activities" at the college.

Melvin McCoy, the restaurant operator, identified himself as chairman of a "Greene County Committee of Patriotism." He predicted more than 2,000 persons would take part in the march along U.S. 68.

Today Nation Observes the Law of the Land

About 4,000 years ago, the Babylonian king HAMMURABI commanded that all the laws of his kingdom be written down so that all men might know them. The 228 laws that he ordained were fully inscribed on a stone stela eight feet high.

Today, whole buildings are needed to contain the laws that govern every aspect of our lives. There are in the United States, according to one estimate, no less than two million of them.

But new laws are constantly being added to this vast total. The Second Session of the 88th Congress passed 406 Public Laws in 1964 out of 4,097 introduced. This is far exceeded by the output of the states, which the American Bar Association estimates at 35,000 a year.

While ignorance of the law is still no excuse in the eyes of the law, no one can possibly know them all. According to a United Press International survey of 25 states a couple of years ago, only one state—Florida—could report the exact number of laws in its books.

Here, as in other fields of knowledge, electronics may come to the rescue, so that someday law students may need to be as familiar with computer operations as with Blackstone's Commentaries.

All of this is by way of noting that today is Law Day—a day set aside to honor not laws but Law.

Law with a capital L partakes of the stratospheic realms of philosophy and "Natural Law" and the "higher laws" of religion. But in its earthly applications, it is, as SAMUEL JOHNSON said, "The last result of human wisdom acting upon experience for the benefit of the public."

Police Dog Is Nipped in Break for Freedom

The East German police, it seems, use German shepherd dogs to collar would-be escapees—and to keep the animals hungry and hustling, feed them only once every 48 hours.

But last week, one of the canine constabulary gave a "man bites dog" twist to the usual routine and itself attempted escape.

Presumably a victim of the old saw that the bone looks meatier on the other side of the fence, the dog was shot while high-tailing it for West Berlin and a hoped-for higher standard of living. At least three other dogs, during the past year, have become fed up with their duty diet and gone West.

Since the erection of the Berlin Wall in 1961, the luckless one became the 58th victim—and the first dog—to die while trying to escape from the Communist paradise called East Germany.

Driver Licenses Face a Negative Approach

Following the lead of a half dozen other states, Michigan will begin processing photos on motorists' driving licenses after June 1. Not only that, but they will be in living color yet—a feature putting the State in the innovator class.

Advance commendation for the new look in licenses has come from law enforcement agencies and commercial establishments that rely on driver-license identification of customers.

The Legislature authorized the change to photo-licensing

way back in 1949, but failed to appropriate funds to implement it. During the 1964 session, however, the lawmakers earmarked $500,000 to put the state in the photographic business.

Special cameras will photograph license applications at points of origin, but development will be processed in a central laboratory in Lansing.

In exposing the plan, a department of state spokesman said that it will take three years after the changeover before the State's present 4.5 million drivers are progressively issued the new-style licenses. When the program is fully operative, an average of 8,000 licenses will be processed daily.

On the face of it, there would seem to be much to recommend the more definitive identification afforded by the driver's face on his license. It might even contribute to a bit of conversational face-saving with the law when motorists find themselves in traffic-violation tete-a-tetes.

South Gains Posts, Not Power

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—Southerners in Congress hold more power positions today than in President Truman's time, 15 years ago. But their actual power has been denied and, on civil rights, broken.

The two main reasons are the Supreme Court decision of 1954 and a conservative's smashing defeat in the 1964 election.

This shows the irony in the Southerners' predicament:

In 1950 Southern Democrats held only 40 per cent of the prized Senate committee chairmanships, 4 out of 16. Today they have 62 per cent, or 10 out of 16. It's similar in the House.

Yet, in the Truman years, when their power position was smaller, they could stop him and Congress dead on any attempt to put through a civil rights bill. They had one big weapon, the filibuster, and one priceless ally.

This was the much more conservative attitude of the Congress of those days, which meant lack of enthusiasm, or perhaps even interest in, civil rights or choking off the Southerners.

COURT DECISION
At the same time the old Supreme Court decision of 1896—saying it was constitutional to segregate Negroes—still stood and thus put a respectable constitutional cloak over those in both parties not fighting for civil rights.

The great change began with the court's 1954 ruling which overturned that of 1896 by declaring the very principle of segregation unconstitutional.

It broke Southern resistance, although it took many defiant Southerners a time to realize it.

Within three years, in 1957, the first civil rights bill of this century was passed. Southern resistance in Congress couldn't stop it, and it has been growing weaker since.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

The parents of William Wordsworth, one of England's greatest poets, planned for him to be a minister. But while in Cambridge University his love of poetry won out over the clergy. Yet, through his poems Wordsworth has served God and man better and for longer than had he taken the other course. His love of people and understanding of their needs is expressed throughout his works. With the simplest words he gives us the beautiful prayer poem, Father! Take My Hand.

The way is dark, my Father! Cloud on cloud
Is gathering thickly o'er my head, and lood
The thunder roar above me. See I stand
Like one bewildered! Father, take my hand
And through the gloom
Lead safely home
Thy child!

More Trouble Over Viet Tactics?

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Relations between American and South Vietnamese policy makers—never entirely harmonious—may be in for more rough sledding.

Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, commander of the Vietnamese air force, holds that the bombing of North Vietnamese targets is not having the desired effect against the Viet Cong.

The war will only really begin to pay off when a ground offensive against North Viet Nam is begun, he feels.

Ky was the first Vietnamese general to express this idea for the record. But the rest of the Vietnamese general staff, often at loggerheads on other issues, likely agrees with Ky on this.

The United States still is approaching the subject cautiously.

MUST BE TESTED
U.S. officials believe each higher degree of fighting must be tested before going on to a wider phase.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said this week in effect that the air raids are paying off.

Probably bombing of North Viet Nam will be intensified. So far, only military camps and large installations in the southern part of North Viet Nam have been announced as the objects of attack.

Soon, raids may be striking farther North.

AGAINST INDUSTRY
There even is talk that raids might begin next month against the North Vietnamese industrial complex in the Red River delta between Hanoi and Haiphong.

Some analysts reason that rather than lose its small but budding industry, Hanoi would be willing to call off the war.

According to the best available information, the Vietnamese don't think the plan will work.

Several say privately they think nothing will work short of an all-out land invasion by the South Vietnamese, with as few Americans involved as possible.

INCREASINGLY EDGY
As increasing numbers of Americans arrive in South Viet Nam, the Vietnamese commanders are increasingly edgy.

One general, who asked his name be withheld, said last week he felt the U.S. Marines operating in the Da Nang area would do more harm than good.

"You Americans don't take the Communist anticolonialist propaganda seriously, because you're not a colonial power, and you don't really understand what colonialism means to Vietnamese," he observed.

PASSIVE ROLE

He said many Vietnamese in top positions would prefer to see America in a more passive role—giving unlimited material and arms support, but staying out of the war.

One military faction which was involved in two recent coup attempts against the government feels relations with the Americans are the key factor.

A leader of this influential faction said this week:

"We think Prime Minister Phan Huy Quat is a good man, and we are willing for the time being to support him, but the one thing that worries us is that we feel he is not tough enough with the Americans."

Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Saturday, May 1, the 121st day of 1965 with 244 to follow.

The moon is new.

The morning stars are Saturn and Mars.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

Portrait painter George Inness was born on this day in 1863.

Of this day in history:
In 1883, William M. Cody, better known as Buffalo Bill, staged his first "Wild West" show.

In 1884, construction crews in Chicago started work on a 10-story office building to be called a "skyscraper."

In 1931, the Empire State Building, the world's tallest skyscraper with 102 floors, was dedicated by former Gov. Alfred Smith in New York City.

LESS DIPLOMATIC

In diplomatic phrasing, Ky said this week he did not favor such a command, adding that there already was complete cooperation between the two sides.

Other generals have been less diplomatic.

No Votes for 'Barry Goldfinger'

By WASHINGTON STAFF
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Walking out of the spy movie "Goldfinger" the other night, Washington newsman Don MacLean overheard a lady saying to a companion:
"Now aren't you glad you didn't vote for him!"

Introducing Vice President Hubert Humphrey at an annual employee awards ceremony the other day, Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman said:

"I heartily agree with the vice president's premise!" To emphasize that point, Freeman gave the lecture a hearty bang with his fist, dislodging a large replica of the vice presidential seal which crashed to the floor.

Whispered an observer:
"The secretary's conclusions do not seem to agree with the premises."

Voice of the People:

'Language of Educator in Shocking Bad Taste'

The other morning on the radio I heard Glenn F. Hartman, president of the Pontiac Education Association, use the word "hell" purely as a word of emphasis. I think it's shockingly bad taste to hear a professional teacher swear like this. What sort of example can this be to our pupils?

Do we want our impressionable children in the hands of teachers who talk like this? Do the teachers themselves want men like this as the titular head of their association? The sentence in question declared "teachers are worth a—of a lot more than they get."

This kind of language makes you wonder if the reverse isn't true in some cases with the "teachers" badly overpaid.

Trip Cancellation Disappoints Students

Waterford Kettering students have always been proud of our school, but we have had a great disappointment. We have been told that the coming graduation class will be unable to look forward to a traditional and long-awaited senior trip.

We can't understand why, with 60 per cent of our students actually going this year and the many juniors who are anxious to go next year, we should be deprived of our trip because of the lack of interest from another school.

Comments on Cancellation of Meeting

An article in The Pontiac Press quoted the Rochester Human Relations Council as urging all residents who "have a stake in Rochester's future under new legislation affecting integration" to attend their meeting on April 22.

Strangely enough, the council canceled the meeting "because their key speaker could not make it." The speaker, George W. Crockett Jr. was billed as an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union and an expert on civil liberties and civil rights. Is this the same George Crockett Jr. who is a member of the National Lawyers' Guild, a Communist front organization (the Senate Judiciary Committee is investigating) in defending Carl Winter, Chairman of the Michigan Communist Party during the New York Smith Act trial in 1949, during which Crockett was cited for contempt of court?

Perhaps Mr. Ekelund and the Rochester Human Relations Council will do a better researching job before they unwittingly urge citizens to attend such an approach to "new legislation affecting integration."

'We Must Protect Right to Bear Arm's'

Regarding the article on Senator Dodd's firearms control bill, most states have laws governing the sale of firearms to minors. Why then the necessity for a federal law to do the same? Increasing fees and taxes would make firearms ownership prohibitively expensive for the average citizen.

The proposal would offer little restriction to the criminal who by his very nature will not obey this or any other law. For example, the law restricts the purchase and ownership of machine guns, yet the criminal element seem able to obtain such weapons whenever they so desire.

I do not object to the control of such weapons as machine guns, cannons, bazookas, etc., since very few people need such weapons. But I think we should do everything possible to insure that law-abiding citizens are not hampered or prevented from purchasing pistols, rifles and shotguns for hunting or self defense. We must protect our right to keep and bear arms for legitimate purposes.

"You people try your cases in the newspapers before presenting them to Congress. But I guess that's your former newspaper training at work, Arthur. After all, you might have to go back to newspapers some day."

Sylvester, who has been under constant fire from reporters for his information policy, answered quickly:

"They wouldn't take me back."

Michigan Gov. George Romney's Democratic adversaries are constantly frustrated at his undimmed image of "goodness." Their efforts to portray him as bad-tempered, dictatorial and ill-suited to governing all seem to fail.

Says one Democrat: "No matter what we do or say, he goes right on, talking in balutudes and winning support."

In an Armed Services Committee hearing, Rep. Edward

Herbert, D-La., a former newsman, complained to Pentagon information boss Arthur Sylvester, also a former newsman, that Congress was generally the last to be informed of new developments in Viet Nam.

Accusing the Defense Department of deliberately leaking possible policy shifts to newspapers, Herbert said:

Fair Model Has Solution

A solution to the problem of window walls, now being used to an increasing extent in new homes, is to be found in one of the model homes at the New York World's Fair.

The contemporary home, designed by noted architect Jack Pickens Cable, utilizes vertical venetians in combination with light, sheer drapery fabrics as treatments for all of the extensive glass areas in the home.

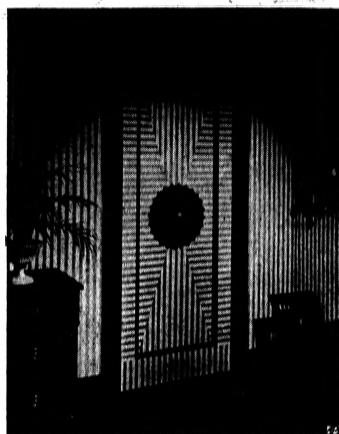

The Cable House, designed to bring the outdoors indoors, consists of a core surrounded by four wings. Each area of the house looks out on the outdoors including a pool, deck and terraces.

The verticals are adjusted to provide complete privacy when needed while admitting air and light. The diffused light filtering through the sheer drapery material adds to the airy appearance. When a full view of the outdoors is required, both verticals and drapes are drawn to the side.

In new homes, window walls are frequently used to divide an indoor playground and an outdoor patio. Without a window treatment like venetians, the magnifying effect of the large glass area when the sun shines on it makes the interior room uncomfortable and the glare prevents enjoyment of the outdoor prospect.

Sierra Nevada Slope Home of Pine Tree

The lofty sugar pine tree is found chiefly in the Sierra Nevada mountains of California. Some specimens reach 250 feet in height with diameters of nearly 12 feet.

ENTRANCE HALL. — The entrance door has been made striking by the use of wallpaper, pasted on with stripes running crosswise.

Give Tired, Old Room New Lease on Beauty

This is the year to give a tired old room a new and posh lining. The upstart look is back and one way to get it is to dress up the background of rooms, a trick that may be used by those who must watch pennies as well as those with fat pocketbooks.

A dramatic or ingenious treatment of walls may accomplish elegance with one simple stroke.

A little bit even of a good thing like a special wallpaper may give a 20-year-old sofa or chair a new lease on life. But whatever is chosen for the background should be special for one reason or another.

If the furniture is traditional, the wall pickup should match the period or at least be in harmony with it.

CONTEMPORARY

If the furnishings are contemporary, one should be especially aware of the wall treatment that will pull off the effect you seek.

Smash accents, long used by many interior designers for traditional rooms, include elegant backgrounds achieved with wallpaper panels.

A dramatic paper is inserted in an area defined with molding to create a panel.

Some interior designers paint molding and wall surfaces the same color as the background of the paper.

Other designers prefer to paint walls in the hue of the pattern. Or pattern is combined with solid color papers that match the background.

Interior designer Elizabeth Matthews did two walls in a corner of a room in a beautiful large-scale red pattern on white, a traditional design taken from the house in which lived John F. Kennedy, the first chief of the United States.

She set the handsome wall paper into panels on the walls, painting the molding white and using a dark red silk textured wallpaper to match the red in the design on the surrounding wall area.

LACK DETAILING

If rooms lack architectural detailing, and it is desirable, apply molding yourself. It can be bought at a lumber shop in the width desired.

If dimensions of the panel areas are supplied to lumber dealers, they will cut it to fit, and miter the molding so it may be put up to outline the panels.

Controls Can Vary Heating Bill

If you're the type that likes to sleep with a window open, what does that do to your fuel bill? And how about the bedroom heat radiation in such a case—should it be turned off or left on?

Answers to these and other questions regarding the operation of hydronic (circulated hot water) heating systems have been provided by a research team at the University of Illinois.

University engineers found fuel consumption to be the same when bedroom windows are open and the thermostat setting reduced to 65 to 68 degrees as when windows are closed and the entire home maintained at 72 degrees at all times.

They also have discovered that by setting the thermostat back four to seven degrees at night and leaving windows closed, there is a daily fuel saving of approximately five per cent.

If you prefer sleeping with the window open, it's a good idea to put weather stripping around the bedroom door to keep cold air from the rest of the house.

MAXIMUM ECONOMY

For maximum fuel economy, the engineers advise leaving the windows closed, turning down the heat, and keeping window shades down, blinds and drapes shut.

These latter measures will provide additional insulation and prevent heat loss through windows.

As a general heating tip, always be sure the water in the hydronic boiler is clean and free of dirt or grease.

Hot water radiators, convectors and baseboards should be checked from time to time and vented, so that air collected in them will not retard free circulation.

For more specific information about fuel economy, contact a qualified heating contractor.

Top-Bottom Important

Don't forget — a room has six sides!

Some homemakers planning a remodeling project fail to consider the floor or ceiling when working out the color theme for the area.

Often the floor or ceiling can provide a needed color accent in the room. Recently two interesting patterns — Nugget and Gold Lace — were added to the line of a plastic-finished ceiling block.

This washable paneling is ideal for ceilings, even in bathrooms and kitchens, because of its resistance to heat, moisture and stains. Plastic-finished hardboard can be damp-wiped clean; never needs refinishing.

Home handy men can install the 16" square blocks right over the old ceiling. Wallboard adhesive is used to secure a strong bond.

Attention Owners;

Check Private Wells
