Cohn to Take Witness Chair at Army Row

Controversy Continues on Dropping of Charges Against Carr, Hensel

WASHINGTON (A.P.) — Roy M. Cohn, top aide to Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), takes the witness chair today in the McCarthy-Army hearings after two of the accused principals were dropped in a blaze of controversy yesterday.

Amid cries of "white-wash" raised by Sen. Symington (D-Mo) and over objections by the two other Democrats and the special Army counsel, Joseph N. Welch, the Senate Investigations subcommittee's Republican majority voted to dismiss the charges against McCarthy aide Francis P. Carr.

Coupled with this was dismissal of the charges filed by McCarthy against Asst. Secretary of Defense H. Struve Hensel. Neither McCarthy nor Welch objected to that but the Democrats did, arguing McCarthy had not had opportunity to present his case against Hensel.

Symington announced he plans to appeal to the full Senate from the 4-3 vote by which the charges against Carr and Hensel were thrown out. As things stand, he said, "I think this is a whitewash and I do not think we will get the truth."

Cohn was called as a witness as soon as the Army case had been completed yesterday afternoon but the debate over Carr and Hensel took so much time he didn't get a chance to testify.

As he was recalled on this 22nd day of the hearings, there was a possibility that he might be followed by only one witness—McCarthy—and that the hearings might end next week.

There was an advance understanding that Cohn may have to step aside quickly while the seven subcommittee members decide where or how to admit an evidence stenographic recording of monitored telephone calls they and the men they are investigating had made to the Pentagon on the case.

Cohn told newsmen he had no prepared statements, and would serve as his own counsel. He said he would give his testimony in question and answer exchanges with Ray H. Jenkins, the subcommittee's special counsel for the inquiry.

Jenkins plays a dual sort of role in the hearings—first as a counsel (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

British Champion Upsets Stranahan

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (U.P.) — Ernest Millward of England upset Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, 4 and 3, today in the sixth round of the British Amateur Golf Tournament.

Millward, 1953 English amateur champion, shot a 34, two under par, on the frontside of the 6,806-yard, par 72 Muirfield course to take a two-hole lead after nine holes.

Stranahan was not able to win a hole after the fifth. Putting spectacularly, the Englishman was four under par for the 15 holes played.

Third of State Will Use Voting Machines in '54

LANSING (A.P.) — Almost one-third of Michigan election precincts will use voting machines this year.

The state elections division said this should speed election returns and make them more accurate.

Robert M. Montgomery, elections director, reported that 1,504 precincts have reported they will use voting machines for the 1954 election year—compared to 1,018 in 1952.

Of the total additions, 366 are in Wayne County and 120 in out-state precincts.

Oakland County will have at least 130 voting machines for its 286 precincts by election day. Pontiac city and a few less populous townships still use paper ballots in this county.

In addition, local authorities have split up precincts so that Michigan will vote this year in about 4,742 precincts, instead of 1952's 4,468. Smaller precincts also speed election returns and voting, Montgomery said.

There are 3,217 precincts which still will use ballot boxes this year, Montgomery reported. The total is still subject to revisions, however. Ottawa and Bay are the only counties in the state listed as having voting machines in all precincts.

Vietminh Step Up Attacks to Crack Hanoi's Defenses

HANOI, Indochina (U.P.) — Communist rebels have launched their most violent attack yet on the Red River defense outpost of Yen Phu, key city in the southern defenses of Hanoi, the French High Command announced today.

The high command said the Communists brought up large concentrations of 57 mm recoilless cannon and were blasting the encircled fortress incessantly in a major effort to crack Hanoi's southern defense perimeter.

An estimated two Red divisions were hurled against Yen Phu while another Communist division slashed away at the major defense city of Phu Ly, seven miles north of Yen Phu, and 32 miles below this northern capital.

Camp Dearborn Boss Drowns

Body Found Floating in Lake Early Today by Employee

The 56-year-old superintendent of Camp Dearborn, near Milford, was found dead in one of the camp's artificial lakes early today. Accidental drowning was ruled the cause of death.

The body of Bernhard Urban, superintendent and manager of the 520-acre recreation area owned by the city of Dearborn, was sighted about 40 feet from the shore by James McDermut, a camp employee.

Urban was last seen alive by two other employees at 6:30 a.m. when he told them he was going down to check the level of the lake. Pumping operations have been under way to raise the lake's level.

Dr. Isaac C. Pevette, deputy Oakland County coroner, said that from all indications, Urban drowned.

Urban had been under treatment for a heart condition, and it was thought he either suffered an attack at the water's edge and toppled in or slipped and fell in.

Urban, who lived at 1700 General Motors Rd., is survived by his widow, and a son, Bernard, 17.

July Draft to Call 75 Men From County

LANSING (U.P.) — The largest draft call of the year was announced for July today by Col. Arthur A. Holmes, state selective service director. Michigan draft boards will be asked to furnish 1,287 men for induction into the armed forces during the month.

The call is an increase of 550 men over the June call of 737 and 150 more than the January call of 1,128, the year's previous high.

Oakland County's quota: Board 65, 15 men; 66, 35 men; 67, 25 men.

Survivor Tells of Pulling Bodies From Inferno

LOOKED IN ON DEATH — Aviation Electrician's Mate Francis Toth of Phoenixville, Pa., tells newsmen a grim story of death on the Aircraft Carrier Bennington during the fire that followed an explosion while the carrier was 75 miles at sea off Rhode Island yesterday. Toth said he was near the engine room on the fourth floor when he smelled smoke. When he entered the engine room, Toth said, "It looked like hell in there. I started pulling out bodies. Everyone I pulled out was dead." His face is blackened by oil and smoke after four hours of fire fighting.

Ten Atomic Bombers to Fly Over Nicaragua at Her Request

By UNITED PRESS

Three 16-engine American atomic bombers roared out of the darkness at Fort Worth, Tex., today on an unprecedented goodwill flight over Nicaragua, next-door neighbor of Communist-influenced Guatemala.

Brig. Gen. John D. Ryan, commander of the 19th air division, took off in the lead plane from Carswell Air Force Base at 1:15 a. m. (EST) and the other two superbombers followed at eight-minute intervals.

The non-stop trip was expected to last about 17½ hours, giving the B-36's at least 30 minutes in Nicaraguan skies. They will not land.

Defense Department spokesmen said officially the flight was a goodwill mission in observance of Nicaraguan Army Day, made at the request of the South American government. The United States never before had received such a request from a foreign government on the occasion of a state holiday.

The flight was ordered only a few days after the United States had airlifted a small amount of arms and ammunition to Nicaragua and Honduras after Guatemala received 2,000 tons of war-making material from European Communists.

READY-ROOM WRECKAGE — The littered ready-room of the Carrier Bennington is shown today, after the explosion and fire at sea in which more than 90 died and more than 200 were injured.

2nd Fire Breaks Out Alongside Carrier

QUONSET POINTS, R. I. (U.P.) — Fire broke out today on a pier alongside the Aircraft Carrier Bennington as a special naval board of inquiry prepared to investigate explosions and flames that killed 91 and injured 201 on the great ship Wednesday.

Today's fire, first reported as blazing the carrier, it proved to be a blaring rubbish on the dock. The fire was extinguished and the ship was not affected.

DELAWARE, Ohio (U.P.) — Robert Raabosky of Venice, Ohio, was due aboard the aircraft carrier Bennington Tuesday. But he didn't make it.

The 23-year-old naval airman was released yesterday from a Delaware, Ohio, jail where he was serving a three-day sentence for a traffic offense.

THOMSON, Ga. (U.P.) — For the second time in 13 months, two Thomson seamen wired their parents they had survived a blast aboard the Carrier Bennington.

The two, both former schoolmates at Thomson High School and new shipmates aboard the carrier, are Gunner's Mate J.C. Welton, T. Neal Jr., 22, and Seaman Charles Cameron Jr., 21.

Neal and Cameron also were aboard the Bennington in April 1953 when 11 crewmen were killed in a boiler explosion.

Hunts for Signs That Bennington Was Sabotaged

Explosion-Fire Toll Set at 91 Sailors Killed and 201 Injured

QUONSET POINT, R. I. (U.P.) — Survivors of the scarred aircraft carrier Bennington appear before a special naval board of inquiry today (12:30 p. m. EST) to describe the explosions and fire that ripped through the great ship Wednesday, killing 91 and injuring 201.

The board, headed by Read Adm. John M. (Peg Leg) Hoskins, will check particularly for any indications that sabotage might have been involved, although Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas said preliminary inspection showed no evidence of sabotage.

The Bennington's master, Capt. William F. Raborn of Oklahoma City, Okla., said he had no idea what caused the explosions and fire.

"It's a mystery to me," he told newsmen.

Other investigations were ordered by the Armed Services Committee of the House and Senate. Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.) suggested the possibility that Communists may have attempted to cripple the ship.

While the investigations shaped up, intelligence officers and engineers searched the blackened interior of the carrier for clues to the disaster.

Capt. Raborn brought the crippled ship to its moorings here from a point 70 miles at sea where the disaster occurred.

Raborn, given command of the 27,100-ton vessel only three weeks ago, was on the navigation bridge when the first explosion occurred as the members of his 2,800-man crew lined up for breakfast.

"I am damned proud to be the commanding officer of such a heroic and unselfish crew of American seamen," he said. "Their rescue effort was splendid."

Raborn ordered full speed ahead for Quonset while damage control parties and rescue workers fought their way into the choking smoke that billowed from the third deck in the forward port section.

Debris littered the passageways. Bulkheads and deck plates were twisted. But there was no visible damage on the ship's exterior.

Screams echoed in the compartments where men were trapped. The noise was compounded by clanging alarm bells and the shouts of half-naked sailors who battled to save their shipmates.

Even before the stricken vessel reached Quonset, seven helicopters had flown out to bring the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Rain Predicted Tonight, Friday

Warmer Temperatures to Accompany Showers in County

Drought-busting showers are expected to fall on parched Oakland County tonight and Friday. The U. S. Weather Bureau said ¼ of an inch of rain may fall, the heaviest amount this month. Slightly warmer weather is expected to accompany the scattered showers. A low of 54 to 56 tonight and a high of 68 to 72 Friday are forecast.

County agricultural authorities earlier said that sizable rains are needed to save crops perished by this month's lack of moisture.

If a quarter inch of rain falls, it will be the heaviest since May 8 when two-tenths of an inch was recorded. Light showers Monday night broke a 12-day drought, but were of little benefit to farmers.

A trace of rain was recorded Wednesday, along with a temperature range of from 28 to 67 degrees.

The mercury rose from 59 degrees at 8 a.m. today to 60 at 1 p.m. in downtown Pontiac.

Mobile Chest X-Ray Unit Is Visiting in Birmingham for First Time Since 1951

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — For the first time in over two years, Birmingham will be visited by a mobile chest X-ray unit, City Health Commissioner Arvey Gillette said today. So that high school students may take part, the student group at Birmingham High School, where the unit has been set up, is being tested today and tomorrow.

Mrs. Gillette said that residents may avail themselves of this service from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. next Tuesday through Thursday and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. the following Monday and Tuesday, when the unit will be in the lobby of the Municipal Building.

Offered at no charge to all persons over 15 years of age, the testing is sponsored by the Michigan Department of Health, the Oakland County Tuberculosis Assn. and all local health services.

A total of 1,578 films were taken when the unit was here in 1951. Mrs. Gillette added that the X-ray helps to discover other chest abnormalities besides lung diseases, such as heart conditions.

City Planning Director Robert Boatman has announced that the South Oakland Planning Council will meet here July 7 to discuss this city's land use plan for 1970.

Mrs. Nelson Miles will show pictures and speak on her recent Caribbean cruise when the Jennie Keyes Guild of the First Presbyterian Church meets at 8 tonight in the church youth room.

A white elephant sale will be held by the Sarah Hunter Guild when it meets at the same time in the Pine street residence of Mrs. William Barr.

Gamma Phi Beta alumnae in this area will hold their annual spring meeting tonight at 8, when Mrs. Norris A. Host opens her Beverly Hills home on Bedford road.

Following the meeting, President Mrs. Fred C. Gould will ask the women to wrap favors for the national convention to be held at Mackinac Island.

Edwin F. Kierbitz, local YMCA secretary, has announced that there are a limited number of openings at Y camps for boys and girls for the summer season. Camp Oblique near Millford has openings from June 28 through July 13 and Aug. 13 through Aug. 27.

The Bay City Y has invited Birmingham Y to enroll boys for two-week periods beginning July 26 and Aug. 9 at its Camp Sequoia, near East Tawas.

Kierbitz said excellent leadership and good facilities will be found at Clear Lake camp near Dowling, which will accept boys and girls from 8 to 11 years old for two-week periods. He added that a few openings remain at Camp Mah-Gotah-See.

Deciding that they like undertaking civic projects combined with a good time, the boys and girls of the Youth Council held last night's meeting at the local YMCA.

Besides looking over the facilities offered by the Y, the group took advantage of the piano.

Witnesses Dropped; Cohn to Take Stand

"friendly" to the witness testifying, then cross-examining him. Jenkins has declared he will be "just as rough" in cross-examining Cohn and McCarthy as he was in some hot exchanges with Army witnesses.

Some points remained in dispute as the subcommittee recessed over night. One is whether the subcommittee ever did put into its official records memoranda signed by Carr-making charges against Stevens and Adams.

Jackson and McClellan contended that the memoranda are "the very basis" of the McCarthy camp's charges, and that Carr should be questioned under oath about their accuracy.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said Stevens has sworn that every one of the charges is "false." Thus, Jackson said, the subcommittee has released Carr from testifying after he is "accused of lying" against the Secretary of the Army.

Weich protested vigorously against dropping charges against Carr. "Let us not forget that Mr. Carr made charges against Mr. Stevens and Adams," Weich said.

Pvt. G. David Schine, former staff member of the Senate investigating subcommittee and central figure in the Army-McCarthy row, has been relieved from temporary duty at nearby Ft. Myer and assigned to duty with the committee.

In disclosing this today, the Army said the shift was made at the request of Ray Jenkins, counsel for the committee.

A covering memorandum with the order shows the action, "temporarily removes Pvt. Schine from military control."

The order was effective yesterday "for the duration" of the hearings. Upon completion of the hearings, Schine will return to control of Ft. Myer and then be sent back to Camp Gordon, Ga., where he previously was stationed.

Woman Scares Off Burglar Wednesday

BLOOMFIELD TOWNHIP — Mrs. Albert A. Clark, of 3652 N. Adams Rd., apparently surprised a burglar in her home yesterday afternoon, Police Chief Clark Green said today.

Mrs. Clark told police the house had been ransacked, and the intruder dropped a portable radio in racing out the front door as she came in the back entrance. Nothing was missing.

An attempted break-in at the Arthur Powley home, 3665 N. Adams, was also reported yesterday, Green added.

Postmaster Reports Denial of Appeal

BIRMINGHAM — Postmaster Bernard E. Fowler said today he received word yesterday afternoon that his "appeal of dismissal had been considered by Civil Service Commissioners in Washington, D. C., and has been denied."

He said he still has not been told his actual dismissal date.

Neither has Roland W. Reese been notified as to when he will take on his new duties. Reese last month was named acting postmaster.

Postmaster since 1948, Fowler was notified of his removal last October, for "operational irregularities."

His first appeal to the Civil Service regional office in Chicago was turned down in March.

Southfield Resident Identified as Commie

A Southfield Township resident was identified as a Communist yesterday during his deportation hearing in Detroit for failing to disclose his alleged connection with the party.

Avowed ex-Communist Leo Syrakas said that Christ Nicholson, 53, of 28875 Franklin Rd. tried to read him out of the Communist Party as a deviationist in 1935.

Nicholson testified he helped organize "a food workers union" and joined the Communist Party during a strike in the depression years, when, he said, he was "unemployed and hungry."

He claimed he was being persecuted "because of my activities and the organizations I joined in the depression years." Federal Judge Arthur A. Kiscinski reserved his decision in the case.

The "good will" flight and the exiles' report on the mystery ship occurred amid these developments: U. S. Customs officers detained the French line's S.S. Wyoming at the Panama Canal while authorities searched the ship for arms believed bound for Guatemala.

An unidentified plane flew over Guatemala city at twilight Wednesday and dropped anti-Communist leaflets urging the people to revolt against the present regime.

When the carrier reached port, the dock was piled high with coffins. A corps of medical airmen waited to receive the ship's grim cargo.

Since Quonset is the home port of the Bennington, scores of wives, mothers and sweethearts were at the base, waiting anxiously to learn the fate of their loved ones.

The grisly task of identifying the dead lasted into the night. Some bodies were charred so badly fingerprints were indistinguishable. Dental charts were used as a last resort.

Now Has Equalized Valuation

Tax Allocation Board Set to Fix School, County Rates

Oakland County Tax Allocation Board, armed with the equalized valuation of $986,608,754 passed by county supervisors Wednesday is preparing to set county and school tax rates.

The tax board has been waiting since early May for supervisors to set cash values on property in each city and township for tax purposes.

The tax board will take townships, school districts and the county's budget requests, figure them against the value of property, and come up with tax rates.

The supervisors' action Wednesday set a cash value on the county $121,000,000 higher than last year. This means for every mill of taxes ($1 on each $1,000 worth of property) the county levies, it will get $121,000 more than last year.

Actually, the report adopted Wednesday was almost the same report supervisors turned down and sent back to committee last week.

Several supervisors objected then that the county equalization staff had sampled only 1,500 of the county's 250,000-odd homes, farms, lots, and businesses — and that this wasn't a big enough sampling to show assessment rates in the various areas.

The equalization committee checked its figures, found mistakes that cut Groveland's and Lathrup Village's figures a bit, and brought back almost the same report.

Lloyd Anderson, Waterford Township supervisor, and several others tried to get a substitute report of their own passed Wednesday. Their report was based partly on last year's figures and partly on this year's. The board voted it down.

The equalized valuations actually show what a share of the total county tax burden (about $5,000,000 this year) that each township and city will pay.

Townships are carrying a heavier load this year. They'll pay about 39 per cent — almost three per cent more than last year. Cities are paying less.

This is the first year that the county staff has done its own sampling of property. Men looked over lots, set a sale value on them, then checked local assessment rolls to find out what each local assessor was valuing his property—generally.

For the past few years, the county had been using samples taken by Michigan State tax men in 1950.

Shown here are the "valuations" set on each township and city this year, the share of the total county tax burden each one will pay this year and the share it paid in 1953.

Enlistment quotas have been raised for the program through June. The outfit will leave Detroit July 15 aboard a special train for the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at Parris Island, S. C., where it will train as a unit.

All men will be enlisted for either three or four years. They must be between 17 and 28, in good physical condition and able to meet mental requirements. Details are available at the recruiting station in the Post Office Building here.

Russia Trained Mao's Heir

Next Boss of Red China Picked Up Communism in Moscow

HONGKONG (UP)—A Moscow-trained jack-of-all-trades Communist looms as the best bet to succeed Mao Tse-tung as Boss of Red China's half million population.

Forty-eight-year-old Liu Shaochi has shied from publicity most of his life as a leader of communism in China, but of late he has been occupying the spotlight vacated, at least temporarily, by Mao.

The fact that Liu delivered the Communist Party's report at February's Fourth Plenary Congress in Mao's absence, strengthens the belief that Liu is his heir apparent. He may not have a chance to rise to power for some time, though, unless Mao is more seriously ill than it has been possible to determine so far.

Liu, unlike the majority of China's top leaders, has done just about everything in communism's drive for control of China. He started in as a labor leader, then was chief architect of the party's constitution in 1945.

Besides his position as one of six vice-chairmen of the Central People's Government today, he is a vice-chairman of the military affairs committee, giving him a military background as well. He has, thus, had his finger in just about every pie the Communist regime has on display.

Far more pro-Russian than Premier-Foreign Minister Chou Enlai, Liu likely would go even beyond Mao in riveting the ties between China and the Soviet Union. Mao and Chou lean toward China first in their writings and pronouncements, although always declaring the unbreakable friendship with Russia.

Liu was born in 1905 in Hunan province of a prosperous farmer's family. He got his first taste of communism while attending Changsha First Normal School, which also has Mao for an alumnus. After teaching school for several years, Liu pitched in full time as a revolutionary, taking charge of a labor movement in coal mines in Kiangsi Province. He did well, from the standpoint of the Reds.

He later spent four years in Moscow, returned to China in the early 1930's and assumed command of the All-China Labor Federation. His activities dropped from public notice in 1934 when the Nationalists forced the Reds to retreat into remote mountainous regions.

Liu was raised to the secretariat of the central committee, top council of the Communist Party, in 1943. Two years later, he was chief designer of the party's constitution.

Should the opportunity for advancement to Mao's job come for Liu, it is believed likely he would receive whatever support Russia could give to any effective degree. But at the same time, his pro-Russian tendencies might be just the thing required to block his rise.

Development of America's great plains was delayed for years by the mistaken idea that land which would not have trees on it would also be worthless for the growing of crops.

Battle for Asia

Anti-American Sentiment Rising Very Fast in India

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
GENEVA — "The Devil I know," said an Indian leader, "is worse than the Devil I don't know."

He was trying to explain why anti-American sentiment is rising in India, why Indians profess not to fear any threat of communism from abroad.

"America is capitalist," he said. "Indians relate capitalism to imperialism, and imperialism to colonialism. Colonialism is the Devil we know."

This came from an Indian leader who is pro-American, and thus is testimony to the strength of Moscow-Peking propaganda in Asia. Communist efforts have been concentrated upon identifying the United States with colonialism and imperialism.

The Communist party in India professes to give all-out support to the foreign policy of Prime Minister Nehru and his Congress party, itself carrying on a grim struggle with the domestic Communists.

The Red objective seems to be to drive Nehru into toeing the Communist Chinese line. Nehru does not appear willing to be lured all the way, but apparently he is becoming openly more and more anti-American. He declined an interview, but his supporters say he has these reasons:

1. U.S. military aid to Pakistan. Nothing has so stirred anti-American sentiment. One Indian leader told me this amounted to arming "India's enemy," since there has been no solution to the Indian-Pakistan dispute over Kashmir state.

2. Suggestions in Washington that the war in Indochina might be internationalized. Indian leaders picture the Indochina war as purely one against colonialism.

3. Statements by Americans about the use of atomic weapons and the prospect of "massive retaliation." Indian leaders portray such statements as heralding a futile attempt to blast communism out of existence rather than trying to outflank communism with better ideas and ideals.

4. Failure to appreciate India's special position. This is the crux of the matter, Indian leaders apparently consider themselves misused by American misunderstanding, consider that they are required to walk an international tightrope because of their geographical position.

Nehru has been facing rising criticism throughout India — particularly in west Bengal and Communist-infested Calcutta — in sharp contrast to his almost unassailable position of a few years ago. There has been talk about his Congress party is getting soft and tired, that it must produce definite economic results by the next elections in 1957 or prepare to get out of power. Now, apparently, the Congress party is attempting to step up its efforts in that direction.

In foreign policy the Congress party's worries bring about a sort of solemn masquerade, such as the "National Convention Against United States Military Aid to Pakistan," which I attended in New Delhi.

The convention was unofficial, but obviously had Congress blessing. Speakers criticized the United States in a tired sort of way, as if required to do so. It looked almost as if such things might be staged primarily to steel Communist thunder on such issues. But, in attempting to pull the rug from under the Communist drives, the Indian politicians themselves gave impetus to anti-American sentiment.

Everything the United States does or offers to do in India is subject to suspicious scrutiny. The United States receives a generally bad press. Anti-Americanism is fanned by professional Communists and opportunists who twist Nehru's statements on international affairs to suit their own purposes.

To retain its dominant position, the Congress party wants to appear completely independent of the United States and the taint, advertised by the Communists, of "imperialism." Thus Nehru's biggest problem seems to be an attempt to satisfy all shades of opinion, including those within his own party.

For some time to come world communism likely will be satisfied with a neutral India. There is much to digest meanwhile. But the Communists in India are far from idle. They have infiltrated deeply into the Indian press. They have kept up unceasing efforts to dominate India's students, source of tomorrow's leadership. They are active in the trade union movement.

Communism's ultimate aim is a coalition of all opposition parties against the Congress party. Already in some areas the Congress party owes its dominance only to the fact that the opposition has been split. Should the coalition succeed, the Communists then could operate in the usual pattern — lopping off their temporary allies one by one.

Neglect Is Biggest Tooth Health Hazard

CHICAGO (UP) — Complacency is the biggest hazard to dental health.

An authority, Dr. Leslie M. Fitzgerald, who is president of the American Dental Association, says "the biggest obstacle to sound dental health is complacency. The fact must be learned and accepted that dental disease is not inevitable, that teeth do not necessarily have to become decayed and lost, and that gum diseases are preventable."

His suggested weapons against tooth problems: a moderation in consumption of sweets, proper use of early dental examination to prevent more serious defects later, and fluoridation of public water supplies, which he says reduces tooth decay among children as much as 65 per cent.

Use Safety Guards on Home Machines

BOSTON (UP)—Warning to do-it-yourself enthusiasts: Respect the safety guards on your power saw.

Arthur S. Johnson, director of American Mutual's Institute for safer living, says that more than 180,000 home accidents in the last year resulted from the use of power tools, a large number of them power saws or combination units with saw attachments. Johnson said that most manufacturers provide safeguards for their tools, but added "no amount of caution can prevent the user from losing a finger or hand if he removes the guard or uses the tool in a manner for which it is not intended."

Dominant Men Like Long Hair

DALLAS, Tex. (INS)—A noted hair designer believes there's a clue to your man's personality in his attitude toward your tresses.

York said the man who refuses to let his wife try a short haircut is the domineering type.

"Long hair on his lady-love makes him feel stronger," she said, deploring the style-conscious male who won't look beyond the feminine angle.

In Dallas as a guest artist at a Texas beauty show, Mme. Buck admitted there are men "who don't care about inches as long as hair is becoming."

And she added that she hoped "hair education" would put more of them in that class.

Make Baby Aware of Spoon Quite Early

Most mothers have trouble teaching their infants to eat from a spoon. One way to make this easier is occasionally to feed baby water on a spoon when he is only a few weeks old.

Children's Home Discussed

WCTU Hears Speaker

Mrs. J. H. Moon opened the Tuesday meeting of the Pontiac WCTU held in First Presbyterian Church where William Moulton Jr., superintendent of the Oakland County Children's Home, appeared as guest speaker.

He said that there are three groups of children sent to the children's home: The neglected, the dependent and the delinquent. It is the aim of the home to help these children to live as normal a life as possible, said Mr. Moulton.

Among reasons for juvenile delinquency, he listed broken homes, uninteresting home life, poor supervision, lack of respect for parents, lack of security and associations with other delinquents.

Bertha Locke gave the opening prayer for the Tuesday meeting and Mrs. LeRoy Shafer gave devotions on "How Do We Spend Our Time?"

Following their April 1 marriage in the First Baptist Church of Middleboro, Ky., the newlyweds are residing in Monroe.

Avoid Short Nylons

You'll get better wear from your sheer nylon stockings if you buy them long enough in both the foot and the leg. Select a foot size that is one half inch longer than your foot. And, in selecting the leg length, consider whether your legs are thin or heavy.

Check Glove Length

When buying gloves, be sure that the length of the middle finger of the glove measures exactly the same as your middle finger. Place the top of the glove's finger at the base of your finger to judge.

Poor Eyesight Makes Junior A Dud at Sports

If junior is strike-out champ of the neighborhood baseball team, the trouble may be in the eyes instead of the muscles.

Faulty vision makes poor athletes. No youngster can hope to be another Babe Ruth or Ted Williams unless his sight as well as his coordination are right.

Persistent blunders on the playing field often indicate the need for eye examination and glasses. But the youngster need no longer fear that eyewear and sports don't mix. Today glasses are rugged enough to withstand the rigors of children's play, while aiding vision, too.

Besides being a handicap in sports, poor vision may also lead to faulty grades in school; personality problems due to feelings of frustration and inadequacy; and physical ills such as headaches, eyestrain and nervous disorders. No child can work or play well with eyes that need correction.

Parent's visual defects may also be more noticeable when the baseball season rolls around.

If dad squints at the TV set and disagrees with the umpire's decisions frequently, faulty sight can be the reason.

Ball parks are crowded with nearsighted, farsighted and astigmatic fans, all shouting that the umpire is "blind." More frequent eye checkups would add greatly to their enjoyment of the game.

Wash Paint Roller

Prewash a new paint roller in warm soapsuds and rinses. This removes loose lint and thus produces a smoother paint job.

Cranbrook Students Show Artwork

By MAUDE H. DONAHUE
Friends and guests of Cranbrook Art Academy Wednesday evening viewed an outstanding exhibition of student work at Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum.

The show integrated a comprehensive collection of work done by the students during the year, including painting, sculpture, architecture, ceramic metalwork, weaving, graphics and design.

The overall Mrs. Donahue plan presented a unity of feeling which encompassed individual items in a harmonious display.

One eye-catching feature was a space frame for living by Ken Isaacs. This structure of lemon yellow and black plywood, metal and rubber is to be placed within an enclosed area of the home to provide facilities for sitting, guests, study, storage, sleeping and clothing storage.

The structure is fashioned in a Mondrian effect, and the primary pieces are a desk, steps and various levels of platforms with cushions of different sizes for relaxing.

A cylindrical fireplace placed at hip level, a phonograph, several steel chairs and a magazine rack complete the area, which was strikingly displayed on a tile-like floor of black and white.

Creating a room within a room, the structure breaks up space into interesting areas in a form of life-sized sculpture, thus creating a new concept of living.

Outstanding in the same gallery were two pieces of sculpture by R. W. Creman. Both emphasizing a horizontal approach, the figures "Lazarus" and "Reclining" show two different aspects of a horizontal-but-tense feeling. They express something complex in form and idea not usually found in figure sculpture.

The architectural display tied in with an area planning project done at the request of Marietta, an Ohio city. All aspects of the program are shown, from regional surveys to plans for individual homes.

Solutions of product and graphic design were exhibited in the back gallery, rounding out a show of contemporary art with the most recent aspect.

In this group, students have tackled everything from automobile design featuring a motorcycle engine to a complete redesigning of a cake of soap and its wrapper for cheaper production and easier handling. This phase of the exhibit shows the versatility of the designer viewpoint.

Other notables in an exhibit abundant with new ideas and fine workmanship were several paintings by Don Smith and a brass bowl and ladel by Maurice Bernson.

The exhibit was a successful attempt on the part of the students to intrigue the viewer into a sincere interest in what is being done and thought by academy students in the field of art today.

Artist Convinces Her Husband That Career and Marriage Do Mix

Only Rare Type Can Wear Many Bracelets at Once

For a few years now there has been quite a vogue for the wearing of several bracelets on one arm. And many have come to think that the popularity of this fad indicates that anyone can adopt it.

Actually, very few women can do so successfully. First of all, unless a woman is tall and has long arms, she'll look lost in the metal adornment.

The woman of small stature should never succumb to the lure of this fad. And the tall girl should approach it with caution.

The only woman who can wear an armload of bracelets without looking as if she were in the midst of cleaning out her jewelry box is the very chick, the very dramatic, statuesque type.

This is the long-limbed girl who has a flair for looking stunning in a plain black sheath. The girl who can wear an unusual hairdo and look smart, not strange. The girl who looks terrific in slacks.

In other words, the girl who was born to be beautifully different. And let's face it. There aren't very many of these girls around.

Consider Silhouette for Toppers, Shrugs

There are more toppers and shrugs this season than ever. Should you decide to invest in one, keep in mind the silhouette you will pair it with.

Generally, the finger-tip length topper with flared back is most versatile.

For the cherished moment of your life, here are two gowns to make you look flower fresh. Left is an imported embroidered organdy with an apron effect cascading into panels behind. Right is an imported Chantilly-type lace over satin with paillette embroidery at the sweetheart neckline.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Modern Youth Will Miss Pleasures of Memorizing

A famous engineer who has been going through personal tragedy tells me that in his darkest moments he has found reading the 91st Psalm more effective than taking a sleeping pill.

This disturbed man has picked one favorite verse: "For he shall give his angels charge over thee to keep thee in all thy ways." As he says this over and over, his burdens lift and he falls asleep.

The educational experts tell me that children aren't required to memorize much any more, that learning by heart, as we used to call it, has almost gone out of fashion along with other outmoded pedagogical ideas.

If this is true, I think children are missing a lot of pleasure now and will miss more when they grow up without fine thoughts tucked away in their heads for use at need.

I still have the memorizing habit but it's not so easy to commit to memory as you get older, and the poems and sayings learned in childhood are still the ones that provide comfort today.

My favorite quotation is the whole of the 121st Psalm which I began to learn when I was 5. Nowhere is there more majesty and solace than in words like these: "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord which made heaven and earth. He will not suffer thy foot to be moved: He that keepeth thee will not slumber. . . . The Lord shall protect thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth and even for evermore."

If it's a pleasant picture I want in a bleak moment, I conjure up Wadsworth's crowd of daffodils by saying over to myself, "I wandered lonely as a cloud that floats on high o'er vales and hills. . . ."

For declaiming in the bathtub I like Sir Walter Scott's "Young Lochinvar is come out of the west," or maybe "The boy stood on a burning deck," or even "The curfew shall not ring tonight. . . ."

I envy professional memorizers, actors and actresses whose words come tripping off the tongue so effortlessly.

The other day, in the course of an ordinary conversation with me, Shirley Booth, who has been declared by many discerning critics the finest actress in the world and now is a hit in Broadway's "By the Beautiful Sea," said suddenly, "Would you like to hear my creed?" and then recited in full the old Pilgrim's Grace inscribed in Chester Cathedral, England:

"Give me a healthy mind, oh Lord, and also something to digest. Give me a healthy body, Lord, with sense to keep it at its best."

"Give me a healthy mind, oh Lord to keep the good and pure in sight."

"Which seeing sin is not appalled, but finds a way to set it right."

"Give me a mind that is not bound, that does not whimper, whine or sigh."

"Don't let me worry overmuch about the fussy thing called I."

"Give me a sense of humor, Lord, give me the grace to see a joke."

"To get some happiness from life and pass it on to other folk."

If I were either a child or an actress, I'd immediately memorize Shirley's creed. Anyway, I intend to keep it around for ready reference.

Flour Bags Make Outfit for Baby

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (INS) — Putting baby in the "sack" has come to mean more than slang for tucking Junior in bed.

He literally is put in a sack — a cotton flannel sack, the newest twist in flour packaging.

The National Cotton Council in Memphis reported that for the first time housewives can buy 25 pounds of flour in a high quality cotton flannel container.

Each bag provides a piece of fabric 27 inches square, suitable for making children's pajamas, bed jackets, baby gowns and other sleepwear.

The sacks are available in five print patterns, each in a combination of two different colors.

The prints include a gray, red and tan wild west print, a toy animal design in pastel hues and three dainty floral designs.

Use Shelf Paper to Wrap Gifts

ITHACA, N. Y. (INS)—Elegant and original gift wrapping shows thought—and it can be done cheaply.

Shelf paper, 18 inches wide, is inexpensive. You can buy it at the dime store in solid colors, white and even gray plaids. It's strong, has a shiny surface and you'll be able to cover many packages at a small cost.

White pipe cleaners and some colored sequins are good "makings" for attractive packages. You can fashion pipe cleaners into almost any shape you want. Sequins go on most any wrapping to add dash and personality.

You'll find that lace-paper dollies come in handy too. They make fine trimmings to scatter over a package. For extra glitter, add a sequin here and there.

Yes indeed, Petunia! A flashlight bound to your wrist makes dark corners easier to work in.

With Matching Background Blend Paper, Woodwork

By ELIZABETH HILLIER

Bright-colored, definite pattern can be very successful in a room that has more than its share of woodwork, but it's an especially good idea to match the woodwork with the background of the paper. Walls look less cut up that way.

For example, in the room Mrs. W. W. asks about: "This room has built-in shelves and cabinets and wainscoting as well as window and door frames, all painted white."

"There really isn't too much wall to be papered, but I'm afraid the colorful paper I like will make the walls seem to be cut up even more. Must I skip pattern and settle for a plain colored paper?"

Any plain color—except white—will separate the papered areas from the rest of the wall features with definite straight lines. Mrs. W. W., just as pattern with contrasting background will.

Since there is little wall to be papered, it can well be used to bring color and pattern interest into the room if you want it to. But choose the paper with a woodwork, so there will be continuity of color from one area to white background to match the other.

Mrs. G. D. D. "What kind of curtains can I use on the window walls of a sleeping porch to make it look like a bedroom for my small daughters? The room gets too hot in the summer and I would like to shut out the light completely."

"Also, what color should the curtains and bedspreads be? The other two walls are knotty pine. I like bright colors."

Tier curtains in a medium-weight cotton shut out enough light, look the color has faded and worn thin?"

Yes, there is a special flexible coating for this purpose which comes in many colors. The plastic, of course, should not be cracked or rough.

Belts on washable dresses must have washable interlinings — avoid leather backings that will bleed or crack during sudsing.

Traffic Expert Gives Men a Bad Mark

ATLANTA (INS)—The men who bellow loudest about the failings of women drivers probably are responsible for their own sex having the worst safety record.

That is indicated in so-called "driving patterns" that are as significant to one female traffic expert as behavior patterns are to a psychiatrist.

Dorothy Mignault, Kennebunkport, Maine, businesswoman who is making a coast-to-coast check of the driving habits of American motorists, said:

"Men are in the majority when it comes to traffic law violations. About seven male drivers violate traffic laws for every three females."

Allowing for the fact there are more men than women drivers, Miss Mignault continued, men still have more accidents in proportion.

She pointed to distinct differences in "driving patterns" to account for these and other facts accumulated during nine months on the nation's highways.

(Although Miss Mignault has driven 20,000 miles, she has never seen an accident.)

"Men are in more of a hurry than women," she explained. "And at least 90 per cent of drivers violate speed limits."

Other chiefly male driver faults noted were recklessness, cutting in between other cars too closely, and jumping or sneaking through traffic lights.

These are traits of an aggressive personality, normal though not justified in a man, the expert reasoned. But such behavior indicated something else to Miss Mignault. She explained:

"General nervousness is a sign of our times. That emotional state is reflected in today's driving patterns."

"For instance, a man who is angry at his boss will drive faster than he should. The feeling of power he gets at the wheel makes him bully the car."

The critic of male drivers did not attempt to whitewash members of her sex, however. She admitted:

"Women ride the center line down the highway, take too long starting up at traffic lights and give indefinite hand signals."

Here again it's mostly a matter of temperament.

"Some of us are overly cautious," said Miss Mignault.

"We ride the center line because we fear the shoulder of the road. Women are shy and less confident than men."

The deeply tanned traveler who favors uniform traffic laws throughout the country had no solution for the emotional side of the problem that pits men against women drivers.

She strongly advised, however, against husbands teaching wives to drive:

"The student is apt to adopt the mannerisms of the teacher."

4 cups tomato juice
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
2 teaspoons minced onion
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
3 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup water
3 pounds fresh asparagus

Measure 4 cups tomato juice, add lemon juice, onion, salt and pepper. Soften gelatin in water in a custard cup. Place in hot water (not boiling) to dissolve and add to tomato juice. Rinse a 5-cup ring mold in cold water. Fill with tomato juice mixture. Chill until ready to serve.

Turn out on serving plate. Fill center with mayonnaise. Arrange cold, cooked fresh asparagus around the mold. Garnish with strips of pimiento. Yields 6 to 8 servings.

Coffee Bavarian

1/2 cup milk
2 cups cooked white rice
1/2 cup cold water
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons instant coffee
1/2 cup beet or cane sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup whipping cream

Add the milk to the rice and cook over a low heat until milk is absorbed, about 8 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Pour the cold water into a saucepan and sprinkle the gelatin over the water. Allow to stand 5 minutes. Slowly add the coffee and stir until the coffee dissolves. Add the sugar and salt. Place the saucepan over a low heat and stir until the sugar dissolves. Add the rice and mix well. Cool.

When the mixture begins to thicken, whip the cream and then add the rice mixture to the whipped cream and gently mix. Turn into a greased mold or into greased individual molds, or into compotes. Chill until ready to serve. Serve within 24 hours. If the dessert is molded, chill until firm. Then dip the mold into hot water. Remove and place a serving plate over the mold. Invert mold and plate together and lift mold from the plate.

Chopped Sweet Pickles Fine in Turkey Casserole

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Pickles inspired Thomas Jefferson to write: "On a hot day in Virginia, I know of nothing more comforting than a fine spiced pickle, brought up trout-like from the sparkling depths of that aromatic jar below stairs in Aunt Sally's cellar."

This is National Pickle Week, as you may have discovered from billboard signs and other advertising. That's a good excuse to talk about pickles.

Pickles are an old, old food. Early American settlers, who by no means originated pickles, regarded them highly since they were the only juicy, green food available for many months of the year.

Pickles have become so important that several professors at Michigan State College devoted three years to studying the little green things.

They found that our fondness for pickles represents a natural craving of the human body for certain vital nutritive elements which pickles contain in generous amounts. High in vitamins A, B and C, pickles also contain valuable minerals.

Any food shopper is bound to be confused by the number of different style pickles on grocers' shelves. There are actually only four basic kinds: Dill pickles, sour pickles, sweet pickles and fresh packed pickles or quickies.

Dill pickles describe themselves. Chow Chow is a form of sour pickles.

Sweet pickles are sour pickles from which the vinegar has been drained before finishing in sweet, spicy liquors.

Quickies may be one of three kinds—"bread and butter" pickles, Polish style dills and vegetable relish.

One of the nice things about pickles is that they may be served as an accompaniment to other foods, as an important ingredient in prepared dishes or as a food standing by themselves.

Furthermore, they are convenient to use; you don't have to bake, broil, stew, or fry them to get them ready for use; you just eat 'em!

Try this recipe for a casserole dish that includes pickles among its ingredients. While it calls for turkey, there is no reason why you cannot substitute chicken with equally good results.

Southern Turkey Pickle Casserole
2 eggs
1 cup turkey or chicken broth
1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 cups bread crumbs
1 tablespoon melted butter
2 cups chopped cooked turkey or chicken
1/2 cup chopped pimientos
1/2 cup chopped sweet fresh cucumber
1 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper

In a bowl, beat eggs slightly. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Pour into 1-quart baking dish. Bake in 350 oven 45-50 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Ever serve orange or grapefruit sections with stewed raisins? This combination tastes good as a breakfast fruit or as dessert at lunch or dinner.

Cooked Rice Pudding
Rice pudding now comes in a can, without the need of cooking and fussing. The product is supposed to be the first successfully canned, condensed and ready-to-serve rice pudding. Water, milk or cream are added to taste, and raisins or custard may be added while the pudding is being mixed to smoothing.

London Bridge Not Falling

Present, Former Spans Survived Crashes, Fire; New One Dates to 1823

WASHINGTON — From the Thames recently came the echo of a famous nursery song: "London Bridge Is Falling Down."

A 7,700-ton freighter, just loaded at a near-by wharf, had been flung by the tide against the arches of the historic span. Road traffic was suspended; shipping lanes jammed.

As it turned out, the incident caused little damage. A covey of tugs quickly stretched lines to the stranded ship and eased the strain. London Bridge, the old one at least, saw far worse troubles in its time, the National Geographic Society says. Fire, flood, and ice blocks in the frozen river often ravaged Old London Bridge and took heavy toll of human life.

A fantastic scene was described there in the 13th century when "a monster of prodigious size" (a whale) slipped through the bridge supports. Sailors caught the creature upstream and killed it with bows and slings.

Although earlier spans stood at the site, the London Bridge of history and romance was begun in 1176. Completed in 1209, it was a massive stone structure, 900 feet long and 20 feet wide. Architecturally it was a hodgepodge, with 18 arches and piers that ranged in thickness from 25 to 34 feet. Buildings lined the bridge until a law banished them in the mid-1700's. Perched crazily above the river along the dark and crowded thoroughfare, they included homes, shops of all sorts, and a Gothic chapel.

Fire struck frequently. One catastrophe in 1633 destroyed a third of the bridge buildings. The Great Fire of 1666 spread to London Bridge.

As early as 1281 five of London Bridge's arches gave way in ice packs. Some say the song to "my fair lady," had its origin then. The bridge was widened and often repaired during its long lifetime. In the 18th century criticism mounted against its expense, unsightliness, and danger to shipping.

Yet it was not until 1823 that construction was authorized for another span. Eight years later King William IV and Queen Adelaide opened the new bridge 50 yards upstream, and the condemned one finally was torn down the following year.

In the shadow of its famous predecessor, the present bridge is still New London Bridge, having aged a mere 123 years.

More than one-half the population of the state of Delaware lives in the Wilmington area.

Playing According to Rules Best Way to Settle Scraps

By OSWALD JACOBY
The average person who plays a card game doesn't understand why rules are usually very strict on such things as cutting, turning a card, and so on.

The chief reason is that a strict rule is the simplest device for settling an argument.

For example, consider the question sent in by a Kansas reader: "May a player of Samba rearrange his cards if he has put them down on the table but has not yet discarded?"

The other evening one of my opponents put down some cards that could have been played on a samba, and before he discarded his partner called his attention to that fact.

"The player quickly moved one card to the samba and rearranged his other two cards in that meld. He claimed that he had the right to do so because he had not yet completed his play by discarding. Was this right?"

The answer is easy, but it's difficult to enforce a rule unless the players understand the reason for it. The rearrangement is illegal.

As soon as cards are put down on the table in a legal meld, they must stay down in exactly that form. And now let's see why this is a just and necessary rule.

To begin with, your partner isn't allowed to consult with you on the proper way of melding. You make your own plays, unaided by his advice.

The only permissible consultation is an answer to the question "May I go out?"

"Now, suppose you put your cards down as a meld, and your partner merely looks startled or displeased. He hasn't said a word, and he hasn't intended to consult with you; but he had certainly indicated that something is amiss with your meld.

You take a second look at your meld and see that there is a better way of arranging the cards. If you were allowed to do so, the effect is that your partner has advised you.

You can just imagine what happens in a lax game. The players get into a fierce argument.

The melder says that he didn't see his partner's face. The partner says that he didn't move a muscle or even raise an eyebrow. Then somebody asks if anybody is questioning his truthfulness.

From this point on nobody can back down, and nobody will be satisfied.

All of this is avoided if the rules are strictly enforced. The player isn't allowed to rearrange his melds, and nobody has to wonder whether his partner batted an eyelash.

All of the players eventually learn to think about the meld before they put their cards down, and no feelings are hurt.

Expert Picks One

WOODBIDGE, Conn., 19 — A wrecked automobile was found at the foot of a 250-foot cliff. Police from Woodbridge, New Haven and Hamden agreed that someone had pushed the car off the cliff. But an expert had to tell them whose job it was to investigate because the boundary lines of the three communities converge at the cliff bottom. He ruled that the car rested on Woodbridge land.

500 Racers Shun Turbines

INDIANAPOLIS (U)—Gas turbines, high speed supercharged engines and similar experimental auto power plants will be left in the garages when the 33-car field lines up for the 38th annual 500-mile race Monday.

Every car that survived two weekends of time trials was powered by a four-cylinder, unsupercharged Offenhauser engine manufactured by Meyer & Drake of Los Angeles.

Miller engine of the 1920s, refined by Fred Offenhauser and successors Lou Meyer, three-time Indianapolis winner, and Dale Drake. The Noisy Offy has about 270 cubic inches of piston displacement compared with 241.6 on the Dodge which will pace the first, uncounted laps of the race.

The Indianapolis Motor Speedway last year relaxed its rules to permit gas turbines to compete, but nobody has taken advantage of the chance. A gas turbine racer was reported under construction in deep secrecy on the West Coast but it wasn't completed for this year's race.

The most radical car entered in the 500 will be driven by newcomer Bill Homeier of Pacoima, Calif., but its experimental power plant blew out a valve in practice and was replaced with a conventional Offy.

With the equipment pretty well standardized, the race's principal contributions to the auto industry in recent years have been in sturdier "stickier" tires and fuel injection. Fuel injection, which has replaced carburetors in all the starting cars, is being used in a German Mercedes production car this year but has not been adopted by any American pleasure car builders.

My Greatest Shot

By JUG McSPADEN

The shot I always think of when I look back is an eagle I made on the seventh hole during the 1938 Greater Greensboro, N. C. Open.

The shot was made during the first round—and that's no surprise, for in that first round, I shot a 66, a new course record at the time, for the par 71 layout.

The entire round gave me a kick, but I guess I'll always remember that shot on the seventh. It was a 600-yard par 5 and, like the rest of the course that day, a severe test. Several holes were wooded and fairways of packed clay forced us to keep our shots straight or we'd see the ball rolling into the woods.

An iron shot following my drive on the seventh left me 26 feet from the pin and I holed out.

A tee shot on the last hole of the Sacramento Open of 1934 gave me an earlier big moment. It brought me my second victory of that particular tour.

The 18th hole of the municipal course in Sacramento was a short par 3, 155 yards long. With a 5 iron, I put my tee shot six feet from the cup and rammed the putt down for a birdie 2, giving me a 71 for the final 18 and a 72-hole total of 284.

Skippers Trip Cranbrook, 6-5

Gard's Single in 7th Breaks Up Tie as WHS Wins 8th, Start

Bill Gard's single with two out in the home half of the final inning Wednesday gave Waterford High School a 6-5 baseball victory over Cranbrook. It was the Skipper's 8th win of the year and avenged an earlier loss to the Cranes.

Waterford outlived Cranbrook's 5-6 lead in the 5th on a walk, an error and Dave Larkin's double, then won the contest in the 7th on a walk. Larkin's sacrifice and Gard's two-down hit.

Skipper outfielder Loren Bray made a game saving catch with two runners on in the 6th when he speared Joe Prendergast's drive to deep left center. Jerry Kruskie vent the route for Waterford's win.

Planted Fish Get Away, Spoil Year's Experiment

HELENA, Mont. (U)—Montana's Fish and Game Department had been experimenting one year to see how many trout would survive after a state hatchery planted them in a lake.

A few days before Montana's fishing season opened vandals released the fish—25,000 cutthroat trout—into streams around northwestern Smith Lake. The year spent experimenting was a loss.

They Steal Bases, Too?

Injured Arm Keeps Martin Out of Lineup

Ex-Yankee Is Member of 200th Infantry Nine in Colorado

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (U)—Pvt. Billy Martin is just another ballplayer on the 200th Infantry regiment's baseball team at Camp Carson.

The former Yankee second baseman and 1953 World Series batting star has appeared in two games for the 200th team, neither in a starting role.

Martin joined the 200th last week after the club had played 10 games and was in second place in the Carson Regimental League.

But now the 200th has dropped its last two games, and on top of that Martin is plagued with a sore arm.

Martin threw out his arm attempting to complete a long relay from the outfield into the plate. He hasn't played any organized ball since last fall when he toured the country with Ed Lopat's All-Stars.

British Girl Sets Women's Mile Mark

27 (U)—Tall, slip Diane Leather 26 (U)—Tall, slim Diane Leather ran the fastest mile ever recorded by a woman Wednesday. Her time was 5:00.2.

The previous fastest mile by a woman was a 5:00.3 set by Romania's Edith Treybel last year. There is no official record since the mile for women is not recognized by the International Amateur Athletic Assn.

Lou Fagol piloted the speedboat Slo-Mo-Shun IV 108.663 miles per hour during a 3-mile lap in the Gold Cup races at Seattle in 1951.

Preacher Roe, Dodger southpaw pitcher, admits to 38 years. Record books have Preach as only 36.

Southern Fans Laud Barons' Big Catcher

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (U)—Baseball fans here are raving about Lou Berberet, classy catcher for the Birmingham Barons in the Southern Assn.

One of his biggest boosters is Baron General manager Eddie Glennon. Says Glennon: "Lou's big and smart. He's a real glove artist. He has a rifle arm, knows how to put the lid on pop flies and has that natural born knack for handling pitchers."

Berberet isn't a high average hitter, but gets a base hit or the long ball when it counts.

The 22-year old receiver is 5 feet 11 and weighs 200 pounds.

Berberet is the property of the New York Yankees.

Kaz Enlists in Navy

BOSTON (U)—Former All-American back Dick Kazmaier has enlisted for a hitch in the Navy and will report to officer candidate school at Newport, R.I., Aug. 16.

The versatile Kazmaier was a brilliant tailback on Princeton's

Lambert Trophy winning teams of 1950 and 1951. He currently is taking graduate work at the Harvard business school.

Andy Seminick of Cincinnati batted 2.79 and hit 14 home runs against southpaw pitching in 1953.

Ladies Have Their Day

WILMINGTON, Del. (U)—Delaware Park's $100,000 added New Castle Handicap, world's richest race for fillies and mares, was a big occasion for the ladies last year.

The first three thoroughbreds under the wire were owned by ladies.

Grecian Queen won for Mrs. B. F. Whitaker. Devilkin was second for Mrs. John W. Hanes. My Celeste took third money for Miss Constance Morabito.

This year's race will be July 5.
