Korean Peace Talks Proposed by Chou En-lai

Offers 3-Point Proposal in Peiping Broadcast, Blasts U. S.

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Communist China's Premier Chou En-lai today called for speedy convening of the Korean peace conference and offered three proposals to get the long delayed talks started.

Chou suggested in a Peiping radio broadcast heard in Tokyo:

1. Resumption of the ruptured preliminary negotiations aimed at setting up the conference, using as a starting point Red demands that Russia attend the full-scale talks as a neutral. This proposal was turned down by U.S. Envoy Arthur Dean before he broke off the negotiations last month.

2. That the U.N. General Assembly consider the problem but Chou attached a string: that Red China and North Korea—both non-U.N. members—be "entitled" to send delegates.

3. That the forthcoming Big Four conference in Berlin "lead to a conference of the five great powers . . . to promote the settlement of pressing international problems." The fifth power would be Red China.

The broadcast, billed as a statement on Korean issues by Chou, did not touch on North Korea's denial a few hours earlier of an official U.S. announcement that it is negotiating informally to reopen the stalled preliminary talks.

Much of Chou's long statement repeated blasts that the United States was "oppressing" the Korean people.

Sleeping Children Die in Maine Fire

MEDWAY, Maine (U) — Flames that broke out while their parents were away turned a one-room home into a blazing death trap for three sleeping children last night, raising to 11 the tragic five-day child fatality toll in Maine fires.

The latest victims were Connie, 2, Michele, 3, and Maurice Gordon, 5, children of Mrs. George Pinkham by a previous marriage.

Paul H. Farrington, constable of this small village 60 miles north of Bangor, quoted Mrs. Pinkham's husband as saying he was in the house while his wife was visiting a neighbor. When Maurice became uncomfortable in his bed, Pinkham added, he left to get his wife.

When the couple returned five minutes later, the wooden building was a mass of flames.

The cause of the blaze was not determined.

Army Trims $140 Million From Orders for Vehicles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army plans to trim 140 million dollars off vehicle spending in 1954.

Army procurement headquarters announced here yesterday that it is cutting in half the number of trucks remaining to be delivered. It also plans a one-third reduction in outstanding trailer orders.

Under the cut-back program, General Motors Corp., at Pontiac, Mich., and Reo Motors Corp., Lansing, will close down military truck production near the middle of this year.

Both companies were formerly scheduled to continue production of Army 2½-ton trucks until March, 1955. Willys Motors, Inc., Toledo, and the Dodge Division of the Chrysler Corp., both originally scheduled to continue vehicle production until March of next year will also close down Army production.

Willys had a contract for jeeps while Dodge was working on production of ¾ ton trucks for the army.

The Army said that trailer production will end about the middle of this year.

GMC Truck & Coach Division officials said they had no idea of the cut-back in military production on local operations could not be predicted until official notice of the action had been received and studied. To date this notice has not been received from Washington.

New Army Goal: One Man Behind Every Fighter

WASHINGTON (U)—Secretary of Defense Wilson has a goal for the Army—only one man behind the lines for each man with a gun.

The current drive for reducing defense spending is a prod in that direction. Wilson told a news conference yesterday it may be possible to cut a billion dollars from the 43 billion defense estimate for the current fiscal year.

And, estimating the Army now has about nine men in support for every six in combat units, he said it would be "a great accomplishment" to level off at one for one.

Manpower Plan Backed by Ike

Asks Reserve of Men Ready for Active Duty; Sidetracks UMT

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower directed the Defense Department today to have ready by April 1 a plan for a greatly expanded military reserve composed of men who could be called to active duty at once.

He also temporarily sidetracked recent proposals by the National Security Training Commission that Congress enact legislation to put into effect the universal military training program by next Jan. 1.

The president supported military manpower recommendations presented to him by Defense Mobilizer Arthur S. Flemming. He directed Flemming to go ahead with the preparation of a manpower program to be laid before the National Security Council by April 1.

The Flemming proposals dovetail with the scheduled reductions in active military personnel under way in the Defense Department. They call for a 400,000-man cut in the military forces by June 30, 1955.

The defense mobilizer told a news conference that his plan conforms to the "new look" in the armed services. He emphasized that present reserve forces are wholly inadequate for an emergency.

He declared that if his plan is adopted, it will be the first time in history that the U.S. has made basic decisions on a program of military reserves.

Flemming said it would not mean a "labor draft," although he admitted this is under consideration in the event of full mobilization for all-out war.

Army Food Too Delicate for Spike-Eating GI

TOKYO (U)—A GI is mad at Army doctors because they won't let him eat his "favorite food"—spikes and razor blades.

Pvt. Clarence Brown, an ex-carnival performer from Fort Worth, Tex., is in Tokyo Army Hospital while doctors ponder how to remove eight 10-penny spikes that have lodged in his digestive tract.

Brown complained: "I've been doing it for years—they fill me up like meat and potatoes."

U. S. May Test H-Bomb Soon in Mid-Pacific

AEC Reveals Forces Are Going to Marshall Isles This Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may be about to rock the peaceful mid-Pacific with the most thunderous man-made explosion in world history.

An Atomic Energy Commission announcement last night roused speculation that government scientists may be planning to detonate a hydrogen bomb with a blast power mightier than the combined force of all the conventional bombs dropped by U.S. war planes in World War II.

The AEC said men and equipment will begin moving this month to its Pacific proving grounds in the Marshall Islands for "a further phase of a continuing series of weapons tests."

The three-paragraph announcement characteristically made no mention of specific types to be tested, but a reference to "all categories" of weapons touched off the H-bomb speculation.

It has been estimated that the American Air Force in World War II unloaded the bomb equivalent of slightly more than two million tons of TNT.

A super-atomic bomb dropped over the Nevada desert last June was a pogon by comparison. It was believed to contain a power equivalent of 50,000 tons of TNT and its flash could be seen 500 miles away.

This bomb, in turn, was about 2½ times as powerful as the one that all but wiped out the Japanese city of Hiroshima.

There was one other significant fact about the bomb.

AFL Threatens to Close Port

Wants Rival ILA Union Driven Off Waterfront at New York

NEW YORK (U)—Threats by rival unions today confronted the huge Port of New York with the possibility of a complete shutdown until one or the other union is driven from the waterfront.

Police details along the docks were strengthened to be ready for trouble.

The seething harbor situation was brought a degree nearer the boiling point yesterday with the announcement by the AFL International Longshoremen's Assn. that it would close the port if its rival, the old ILA, now independent, strikes.

Posting the threat, AFL-ILA Executive Director Aco M. Keeney indicated his union was ready to seal the port, in such an event, until the ILA is forever driven from the docks.

Keeney said the AFL-ILA "will lead the longshoremen in action that will end only when the gangster rule of this port is completely and utterly destroyed."

The old ILA, which has threatened an all-out dock strike if the National Labor Relations Board acts against it in a bargaining election between it and the AFL-ILA, was kicked out of the AFL for failing to purge itself of racketeering elements.

A lead of 1,492 votes is held by the old ILA in the election which was held just before Christmas. However, 4,397 challenged ballots are still under examination; and the outcome is in doubt. In addition, the AFL-ILA has petitioned the NLRB to invalidate the election and hold a new one on the ground of coercion and intimidation by the ILA.

Yesterday the ILA filed its own complaint with the NLRB, charging unfair labor practices against Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and AFL President George Meany.

The AFL-ILA said it was in a "superior" to the Russian MIGIS.

Mr. Asama Erupts

TOKYO (U)—Mt. Asama, one of Japan's few active inland volcanoes, erupted four times in three hours today, spewing ashes and smoke. There were no reports of casualties. The volcano is 75 miles northwest of Tokyo.

Sunday Is Third Anniversary of County Quads

4 County Men Listed as Dead

Include Those Missing for More Than Year and Presumed Killed

The Defense Department today released the names of three Oakland County soldiers and one Marine missing for more than a year in the Korean fighting and "presumed dead."

They are Cpl. Raymond Myers Jr., 23, stepson of Mrs. Abbie Myers of 3310

Elizabeth Lake Rd.; Sgt. Harold F. Murdock, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Murdock of 1905

Duck Lake Rd., Milford; Sgt. Albert S. Dreon Jr., 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Dreon of 31

Walper Ave., Clawson; and Pfc. Charles H. Hill, 30, son of Major Hill of Detroit and Mrs. Nettie Hill of 1613 E. Goulson St., Hazel Park.

Cpl. Myers, a 1949 graduate of Pontiac High School, joined the service in Oct. 1951, and was sent to Japan in May, 1952.

After a two months stay there he was shipped to Korea and served with the 32nd Infantry Division. He was reported missing in action Oct. 24, 1952.

Cpl. Myers was told of his father's death in July, 1952, but was unable to return home. He wrote his mother a week before his disappearance saying he hoped to be shipped home in April and that he'd be gone about three weeks on a mission.

"We haven't gotten any word since, Mrs. Myers said, but I'm still hoping he'll return. It does not seem possible that he's really gone."

Surviving are a brother, Donald Myers, 21, at home and two stepbrothers, Robert, 6, and Craig, 4.

Sgt. Murdock enlisted on Sept. 14, 1950 and was sent overseas one year later. He arrived in Korea in May, 1951.

Hard fighting continued for a second day and into the night in the jungle between French Union and Vietnamese troops north of Dong Hene, 25 miles northeast of Seno. Earlier today the French disclosed that new Red rebel forces had been sent into this area of central Laos to bolster the Vietnamese troops who recently cut Indochina across its narrow waist.

In fighting north of Dong Hene the French spokesman said Vietnamese troops had launched several attacks on the French positions, but they were repulsed.

The spokesman described the counterattack from Seno as aimed at hindering the regrouping of Vietnamese units preparing another assault.

The Vietnam buildup is regarded as a threat to Vietnamese, governmental seat of Laos, one of the three Indochinese states associated with France in the French Union.

Have Birthday Tomorrow

Rosebush Quads, at Age 3, Are Full of Personality

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

The world is so full of a number of things for the Rosebush quads who will celebrate their third birthday Sunday that they can hardly take time to mark this important anniversary.

Born three years ago on Jan. 10 in Pontiac's St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Keith, Kenneth, Krystal and Kristine, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rosebush of Oakwood, are hale and hearty three-year-olds.

Abundantly blessed with good health, good looks, good nature and alert young minds, every day is one more big adventure in mischief and learning for the four who stick together in everything they do.

Differences in personality have begun to be evident, said Mrs. Rosebush.

Leader of the group is Keith. He is followed closely by Kenny and between the two they have decided it's a man's world when it comes to making decisions.

Take the recent accident when the Rosebush home was almost flooded out. By some strange coincidence all water taps were suddenly turned wide open. Keith admitted to being the brains behind the plot, but three other accomplices were also named.

It was 30 degrees in Paris. An earthquake also shook the Sierrita Valley near Perugia, Italy, and hundreds of villagers fled from their homes into snowdrifts where aged persons suffered from exposure.

The weather death toll since winter's belated assault began six days ago climbed to 58. Italy alone had 23 dead. There were 20 killed in Britain and 16 in France.

Temperatures as low as nine degrees below zero were recorded on the peak of the Zugspitze, tallest mountain in West Germany. All Italy's northern cities reported freezing temperatures.

Tito Denounces Red Agreement

Calls 'Freeman' Article Propaganda to Put His Country in Bad

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (U) — President Tito firmly denied and denounced today claims that Yugoslavia has entered into a "secret agreement" with Russia.

He said such charges were designed to split this country from the West. His views were expressed in a written statement from his winter villa at Brdo, in northern Slovenia; concerning an article published in the U. S. magazine, the Freeman, this month.

"The slanderous writing about an alleged secret agreement and understanding between Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union," he said, began first in Italy and then was spread into other countries, Germany, the United States, etc.

"The aim of these writings is clear. The aim is not only to demolish the reputation of Yugoslavia in the international field but it is also an attempt to frustrate future cooperation with the Western countries, to destroy the trust of these countries in us, to prevent further receiving of aid from the U.S.A., Great Britain and France and to settle the Trieste issue to our disadvantage."

Tito was thrown out of the Cominform, the Communist international organization, in 1948 for the heresy of doubting that the Kremlin line was best for Yugoslavia.

Since then the country has leaned toward the West, but has remained Communist.

The Freeman article upon which Tito commented was written by Bogdan Raditsa, former chief of the foreign press section of the Yugoslav Information Department. He broke with the government in 1946 and now lives in the United States.

O'Brien Says He Escapes Police, Flees to Canada

Prosecutor May Have to Drop Charges Against 4 Suspects

DETROIT (AP) — The missing witness in the Reuther shooting case was identified today by Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien as Don Ritchie, 33, recently released from the Essex county jail in Windsor, Ont.

(From AP and INS Wires)

DETROIT — Authorities today disclosed the flight to Canada of the key witness to the 1948 shooting of Walter Reuther and said the escape threatens to collapse the entire case against the alleged would-be assassins.

Wayne County (Detroit) Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien said the witness, whom he flatly refused to identify, eluded guards in a downtown hotel suite, where he was taken for safekeeping, about 10:45 a.m. yesterday.

An attorney telephoned O'Brien later yesterday, that the informant was in Canada but that some word might be expected of his whereabouts today.

O'Brien declared: "Without this witness, we have no case against the four men we accused of shooting Walter Reuther."

"If he does not return to testify, our only course is to dismiss the present defendants and extradite our witness, if we can find him, and try him as a conspirator."

Detroit Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard said guards protecting the witness "undoubtedly would be suspended for neglect of duty."

"This is important!" he said. "There may be killings if this man is not found soon."

Leonard identified one of the guards as Det. Wayne Gilsman.

O'Brien labeled the missing informant the central figure in cracking the shot-gun assassination attempt against Reuther, then newly-re-elected president of the CIO-United Auto Workers Union.

Reuther was to succeed the late Phil Murray as president of the CIO.

O'Brien said he might be forced to drop warrants issued earlier this week against Santo (Sam) Perrone, 56-year-old Detroit hoodlum and union-busting racketeer; Perrone's son-in-law, Carl Renda, 35, Peter Lombardo, 51, and Clarence Jacobs, 53, of Tecumseh, Ont.

O'Brien said the motive in the shooting was to remove Reuther as head of the CIO-Auto Workers in order to parcel out gambling concessions in Detroit plants.

The plotters also were said to be (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Missing Witness Account Tells of Reuther Shooting

DETROIT (UP)—Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien released today the following signed statement by the missing key witness in attempt on CIO President Walter P. Reuther's life:

"I was in the car the night Walter Reuther was shot. For about four or five years I had been working for Santo (Sam) Perrone. I made about $400 or $500 a week."

"In the occupation I was in—well, it just wasn't what people would call work."

"Clarence Jacobs approached me for this particular job."

"He told me I would get five grand ($5,000)."

"I was approached about five days before it happened and ask if I wanted to go."

"This conversation took place in Perrone's gas station where at Jefferson and Canton."

"Perrone asked me several days before the shooting if I was going on the job. I said I was. That was also in the gas station."

"I didn't ask a lot of questions. These people don't talk things over very much. They don't explain things."

"All I knew was that Perrone had once said: 'We'll have to get that guy out of the way.' Did he mean Reuther? Yeah."

"I was living around Detroit home where at Jefferson and Canton."

"The night of the shooting I was picked up in the gas station. The car was a red Mercury. I don't know who it belonged to."

"I sat in the back seat. Jacobs drove and Peter Lombardo was in the front seat with Jacobs."

"The shotgun was in the front seat between Jacobs and Lombardo."

The election has been called in the Third Legislative District to fill the seat of Rep. Howard Estes, who resigned last month to manage the Oakland County Infirmary.

Since four Republicans and three Democrats have filed petitions for the post, a special primary has been called for Jan. 21.

Miss Hanley stated she has asked the state attorney general's office for a ruling on whether residents who have registered since Dec. 22 are eligible to vote in the primary.

Dr. Dwight B. Ireland and Eugene L. Johnson, school superintendents for Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills, respectively, participated in the school administration meeting held at East Lansing today. Meeting with Jams Bell, developer, and Geer Associates, board members were told that when the area is fully developed it will contain at least 2,500 families with some 1,500 children.

The board will take under consideration possible study of the proper location and type of building that will be necessary in the future. The one-room Wing Lake School currently has 28 youngsters in the first four grades.

do. It was a Winchester pump gun, 12 gauge.

"I was there in case there was trouble. If anything happened, I was to drive the car away."

"Jacobs did the shooting."

"He was the only one who got out of the car."

"I don't know how long he was gone. It's hard to remember time. Maybe a minute or two, maybe longer."

"I heard the report of the gun. Then Jacobs got back in the car and said: 'Well, I knocked the—down.'"

"We took off in a hurry."

"We hadn't followed him (Reuther) home from the meeting he was at that night. I don't know how they knew he was in the house. They didn't tell me and I didn't ask."

"I don't know what they did with the car. I heard later it was demolished and junked."

"I haven't any idea what happened to the gun."

"I had some drinks at the bar and then went and saw Carl Renda. Why? I always went to see Renda. He said 'I have something for you.'"

"He got a bundle of cash and handed it to me."

"I went downtown and met a girl. I stayed with her until 4 in the morning. Then I took a taxi to Windsor."

"I didn't count the money until I got to Canada. It was exactly $3,000."

"I was in a kind of a business at the time. I was dealing in money exchange."

"I went to the bank the next day and made a deposit. I forget whether it was $4,500 or $5,500 I put in the bank. I don't remember now."

"I didn't have anything to do with the shooting of Victor Reuther. I was in a penitentiary up in Montreal at that time."

Chou En-lai Urges Korean Peace Talks

States had wrecked the explanation program and was to blame for the break-off in the preliminary talks.

The denial of a U. S. State Department announcement came amid these other developments on the Korean scene:

1. South Korea's foreign minister rebuffed a blunt U.N. Command warning and refused to retract threats this government might use armed force against Indian troops guarding anti-Communist prisoners in neutral zone compounds.

2. Four pro-Communist South Korean prisoners who refuse to return home turned themselves over to Indian guards and asked to be sent to Communist Poland or Czechoslovakia. The Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, of which Poland and Czechoslovakia are members, will act on the request.

3. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commander of the 8th Army, said his forces are fully prepared to handle 22,000 Korean and Chinese prisoners who are expected to be repatriated.

The 8th Army has made elaborate plans to move the anti-Red prisoners south from the neutral zone after 12:01 a.m. Jan. 23—a time the U.N. Command says they should be freed under armistice terms.

Panel at Temple Reviews FEPC

1st Year of Law Here One of Education for Board and Public

Progress of the FEPC law in Pontiac and housing conditions were reviewed at the panel discussion held Friday night in Temple Beth Jacob. The program took place at the coffee hour following the evening worship service.

On the panel which was moderated by the spiritual leader of the congregation Rabbi Sanford E. Saperstein was Ralph T. Norvell, Mrs. John D. Monroe and Everett C. Spurlock.

Norvell, who was chairman of the FEPC Board last year, pointed out that the first year of the operation of the FEPC law in Pontiac had been a year of education.

Of necessity, he said, progress had to be slow, for the board consisting of Fred R. Haggard, James F. Spence, A. James Cadieux, Leon Hubbard and himself had to educate themselves.

He stated that much time had been spent by them studying the law and that the only complaint coming to them this year has been handled.

Norvell also stated that the law has teeth; if an employer fails to comply with it there is a penalty. However, he felt that most business men would feel that the publicity would be of greater detriment to their business than the fine.

Criticism was advanced during the discussion that there had not been enough education of the public during the past year.

While Norvell focused his remarks on the progress that had been made in FEPC during the year, Mrs. John D. Monroe discussed the problem facing the city in the housing situation.

Mrs. Monroe, who is a director on the Urban League Board, told of the situation facing the city when the Federal Housing units of Parkview and Crystal Beach will be closed June 30 this year.

She said that many families that had moved there from garages and chicken coops, would have to return to their old places or be taken in by friends who already were living in crowded quarters.

Mrs. Monroe said that the only low income housing project available at the present time was Lakeside Homes, and that when it was opened some 1,300 applications were received. Of this number 600 were ineligible because of limited income but that 400 were certified.

She feels that a solution must be found as every man has a right to a decent or at least a sanitary place to live and rear his family.

"To tear down slums is a worthy project, but only to move a family out and not meet his need forces to go underground, so to speak," she said.

Mr. Spurlock discussed both issues in the light of his experience as director of the Urban League, stating that there were complaints to be made with regard to FEPC but that up to the present time, they were giving the board time to orient themselves and to educate the public.

A rather sharp criticism was expressed during the discussion of the fact that the City Commission did not accept the government's offer of Parkview and Crystal Beach, and that they did not follow through on another project for the purchase of land for low cost housing units.

The varied cultural or civic program with a coffee hour is held once a month at Temple Beth Jacob.

NATO to Link Jet Air Bases

$224 Million Project to Build Communication, Fuel Supply Systems

PARIS (AP)—Reliable informants said today that NATO, within sight of its goal of 160 jet airfields, will concentrate this year on laying a communications network to link the bases and a web of pipelines to supply them fuel.

The sources said the December ministerial meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization voted approximately 224 million dollars for its 1954 infrastructure program—the building of permanent installations needed to support NATO armed forces. The bulk of the sum will be used for the communications and fuel supply systems.

The airfields are almost all completed, and 120 are in operation.

The United States will chip in about 38 per cent of the total amount spent on NATO installations, according to a U.S. Defense Department report to Congress last May.

Details of the building program for 1954 have not yet been published but it authoritatively reported to include two big 10-inch fuel lines in France. One would start at the Mediterranean port of Marseille and follow the Rhone River valley about 350 miles north to the Dijon area, where it would serve a group of NATO airfields. The other would start at the Atlantic coast port of Le Havre. Its terminus has not been revealed.

NATO said last September that it was starting then to build 1,875 miles of pipeline over nine Western Allied nations. The system would be for the use of all 14 NATO members.

This network would be linked to the 400-mile line the United States plans to build across France to West Germany.

The North Atlantic nations decided upon the pipeline project in hopes of saving millions of dollars that otherwise would have to be spent in transporting oil, gasoline and lubricants by rail and road.

The lines will not serve individual airfields. Instead, they will feed big storage areas close to clusters of airfields. From these points the fuel will be moved by truck.

Mayor Tries to End Pittsburgh Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Mayor David L. Lawrence called representatives of 11 AFL unions and management into a meeting today in an attempt to end Pittsburgh's 43-day-old department store strike.

The mayor stepped into the lengthy dispute yesterday after receiving a telegram of authorization from the union heads. Bargaining agents for the five struck stores agreed to "discuss the situation."

The stores have remained open during the strike which has idled some 3,250 of more than 11,000 employees. Shoppers must carry their packages home. The dispute reportedly involves wages and working conditions.

Many Lung Cancer Deaths in Highly Industrial Areas; Smoking Proof Uncertain

(Editor's Note: Great columns of figures and statistics have been offered as "evidence" in the controversy over possible links between cigarettes and lung cancer. But the meaning of statistics depends on their interpretation—and that varies widely. The following article, last of three, points out the difference between figures and facts—and explains what you—whether you smoke or not—can do about your own lung cancer chances.)

By JOHN GEIGER
NEW YORK (INS)—The first good answer to the mystery of the causes of lung cancer may lie in the lives — and deaths — of 204,000 American men.

The answer may come in two more years.

These 50 to 69-year-old men — in cities, towns and farms all across the U. S. — are being checked by American Cancer Society volunteers in one of the greatest statistical studies ever undertaken.

None had lung cancer when the study began. The volunteers have collected all kinds of information on each man — his health, his job, his residence, his food, the purity of the air he breathes, and his smoking habits.

And the volunteers are collecting death certificates, too, as the subjects grow older and die. When ever lung cancer is listed as a cause of death, that file is set aside.

Eventually, the lives and habits of the lung cancer victims will be checked against those of men who died of other diseases. The goal: To see if there is anything unique in the histories of the cancer victims.

Is it smoking habits? Or is it something else? Whatever it is — if anything is found at all — it will be a prime suspect as a cause of the lung tumors.

Dr. E. Caylor Hammond, the director of the ACS study, believes enough evidence may be in by 1955 to provide at least a tentative answer to the debate over whether there is a link between cigarette smoking and the upward-racing incidence of lung cancer.

This is what earlier reports said:

A great majority of men who get lung cancer are smokers; only a small minority are non-smokers. True, the average man smokes. But the percentage of smokers among lung-cancer victims is higher than it is in the general population.

The researchers took patients who already had lung cancer and then checked back into their lives — about certain things, including smoking — for clues.

The results showed a preponderance of cigarette smoking, true; but if the researchers had looked, they might have found that most of the victims had some other common habit — wearing light clothing, for example — that could conceivably be equally responsible for the disease.

The trouble was, critics say, that these researchers were so intent on tobacco as the possible cause that they didn't look for anything else.

Finally — and perhaps most important — scientists like Drs. Harold Stewart and W. C. Hueper of the National Cancer Institute point out that the smoking statistics cannot explain some of the important characteristics of the lung cancer pattern.

Dr. Stewart noted recently that there are major differences in the relative incidence of lung cancer — compared with other types of cancer — in England, the U. S., Italy, Japan and other nations.

In England, for instance, lung tumors account for 17 per cent of all cancers; in Italy, for only one-half of one per cent. Yet there are no apparent differences in smoking habits, types of tobacco, or cigarette manufacture to explain the variation.

Dr. Hueper and others have pointed out that by far the highest lung cancer death rates in the U. S. are found in cities — especially in the highly industrialized states extending from New England to the midwest — while the lowest rates are in rural states.

Is polluted air involved, rather than cigarettes? Dr. Hueper found that the lung cancer death rate in Deer Lodge County, Montana — a copper smelting industrial area — was 145.7 per 100,000 males. In the next county, a rural area, it was 5.2 per 100,000 — 27 times lower.

And Dr. Paul Kotin of Los Angeles recently told the American Cancer Society he has identified a known and powerful cancer-causing chemical in the exhaust gases from autos, trucks, buses and Diesel engines. No known cancer-causer has been found in cigarette.

Similar chemicals have been found in coal soot, asphalt dust, rubber tires and petroleum refinery products. In England, lung cancer rates rise in direct ratio to the number of chimneys pouring out the smoke from soft-coal fires.

The upward-swinging lung cancer curve parallels the curve for increased cigarette use — and also for increased industrialization.

Meanwhile — until the answers are clear — what can smokers and non-smokers alike do about lung cancer?

There are only two even moderately effective treatments — X rays and surgery. Neither offers much hope unless the cancer is caught early.

But lung cancer is called the "silent shadow" because it gives so few early signs. As a result, 95 of 100 victims die.

One immediate answer, the American Cancer Society says, is better detection — and that means an annual or even semi-annual chest X ray for every man over 45.

Miniature Car Kits Grow to $5,000,000 Business

NEW YORK (AP)—While the rest of America's mighty motor car industry was pondering how to make autos out of plastic, young Lew Glaser did something about it. He built them.

It is true they were only small plastic models of old style cars, but a fellow has to begin somewhere, doesn't he? And today, a tycoon of the toy industry at 36, Glaser turns out more cars than General Motors and the second Henry Ford put together—and he's stepping up production for 1954.

"I look for it to be a better year than 1953," said Glaser, who pyramided a $750 investment into a $5,000,000 annual business in only 12 years.

Here's how Lew, a Brooklyn-born boy who took Horace Greeley's advice to go west while he was still in rompers, did it:

"I had a radio repair store in Los Angeles when the war came on, and I decided I'd better get into a different field. But what? I picked plastics because nobody seemed to know anything much about it, and I felt my ignorance wouldn't be too much of a handicap."

For $750 he bought the equipment of a plastic novelties manufacturer who had become disillusioned. Glaser set out to get government contracts for airplane and radio parts, and also made compact, picture frames and cigarette cases from plastic scraps.

His volume mushroomed from $32,000 the first year to more than a million dollars, then collapsed with the end of the war. He had to find something new to survive—so he turned to toys. His first gadget, a toy plastic washing machine that really worked, saved his business.

"But the trouble with most toy novelties," he said, "is that they will go over big one year—and the next year they go blowie. It's a fleeting business. You live on the edge of a cliff."

Three years ago he began turning out his "highway pioneers," a series of put-them-together-yourself kits that enabled normal children and bright adults to assemble and paint models of famous old American cars. They were an instant hit. Customers began to demand more and more kits so they could assemble a collection of the models.

"It was a jackpot idea, and I'd like to be able to say we realized it," ruefully admitted Glaser. "But the truth is we thought we had only a one-year toy when we started."

"It took us a little time to understand what we had—an inexpensive way for people to build something with their hands they could be proud of. It seems to satisfy a big need in people today."

"The market was always there, but nobody had stumbled on it. We did."

Glaser has found half the model kits are bought by children between the ages of 7 and 14, half by grownups over 21. To his model car series he now has added a series of famous fighter planes and naval vessels. He sold 10 million kits last year, hopes to market 15 million this year, plans to add a line of plastic models that will appeal specifically to girls.

Rhee, Reds Won't Renew Korean War, Says Dean

NEW YORK (AP)—Special Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, U.S. delegate at the now-suspended preliminary peace talks at Panmunjom, says up to 10 million civilians would be killed if United Nations forces used atomic bombs against forces in North Korea.

However, he said yesterday he was certain hostilities would not be resumed there "either by us or the Russians or by President (Syngman) Rhee" of South Korea. He said dropping an atom bomb is not an easy solution to the Korean problem.

Woman Burns Money to Clear Self of Forgery

DETROIT (AP)—Miss Dolores Martin, 21, told Recorder's Judge John P. O'Hara she was innocent of forgery because "I burned the money."

She admitted forging and cashing a $27 check but can't understand why she was placed on $500 bond to appear for examination Jan. 18. She faces charges of uttering and publishing.

"I knew I did something wrong, your honor," she said, "but I'm not guilty any more. I burned the money."

Reflections

"BE NOT BLIND"

by J. Lee Voorhees

"Be not blind to love, beauty and truth" is the admonition of Tennyson.

A musty old saying, "Love is blind" is cleaned and purified when a young bride introduces her husband to friends. Love is a shining light when a man brings his boss home for dinner and hears him compliment his wife's culinary skill. I think one of the most beautiful scenes on earth is not a sunset, cheese cake nor a rose but a young mother with her first baby. To watch two elderly people who have lived as man and wife for many years defer to each other is to see and hear the epitome of truth.

We, in Pontiac, are close to God's greatest ambassador — nature; our love is strong and enduring, our appreciation of beauty is keen and truth is paramount because our church is vigorous.

Good City Management

We commend to all taxpayers a careful reading of City Manager WILLMAN'S report to the City Commission on municipal operations in the fiscal year ending December 31.

This revealed, among other things, that the new City Hall is over one-third complete and the expanded sewage plant is in operation. Other 1953 accomplishments include completion of the year's paving program. Work on sewer extension is continuing through the winter months.

But by far the most important to taxpayers is the City's excellent financial health. As was the case 12 months ago, the City has an operating budget surplus of about $200,000. This is due in part to the fact that sales, gasoline and weight tax returns were substantially greater than in 1952.

But we believe it is due in far larger measure to City Manager WILLMAN'S sound budgeting and advance planning. Another helpful factor is the watchful day to day administrative control of all operations.

The City is fortunate in having that kind of municipal planning and a Commission with the wisdom to implement it.

Idaho Bans Slot Machines

The people and Legislature of Idaho deserve credit for correcting a mistake made seven years ago.

As a result slot machines ceased to be legal in the cities, towns and villages of that North-western potato state on January 1.

It was in 1947 that the Legislature in Boise legalized these one armed bandits, on a local option basis, as a source of municipal revenue. The results were just about what could have been expected.

Several villages were incorporated for the sole purpose of reaping the profits of legalized gambling. Some communities were able to operate without any other taxes.

Boise, the State capital, never fell for the gambling lure. But according to an official of Idaho's Municipal League, most communities which did had to agree that gambling not only attracted undesirable elements but failed to produce any solid economic benefit.

Legislative repeal of the local option plan was contested but was upheld by the State Supreme Court. We believe that decision and the repeal act it confirmed, assure Idaho's slot machine communities better municipal government than they have had for the last few years.

Message to Congress

Immediate reaction to President EISENHOWER'S State of the Union message was just about what could be expected in an evenly divided Congress at the start of an election year.

Republicans generally applauded the President as he unfolded the broad outlines of a bold and forward looking program. Democrats gave the message a cool reception.

The President left many of the details of his program to be supplied in several separate messages. Among issues to be dealt with in greater detail are the budget, taxes, Social Security, housing, health, farm price support and TART-HARTLEY revision.

Highlights of the message included announcement that the budget for the next fiscal year would total $66.6 billion. This is more than $12 billion below the original Truman budget for the current fiscal year. Another encouraging feature was the President's promise that tax reduction, having begun, would be extended as rapidly as conditions warrant.

As for the State of the Union, he reported it excellent with the country having finished the most prosperous year in its history and the Administration determined to safeguard that prosperity.

The loudest applause greeted the President's request for legislation to strip citizenship from Communists convicted of conspiring to overthrow our Government by force.

Naturally in such a comprehensive program there are bound to be proposals which will stir controversy.

Obviously there will be formidable opposition to the President's proposals on the St. Lawrence Waterway, free trade and postponement of the expiration date on certain excise taxes.

Perhaps outstanding of all issues will be his recommendation for a more flexible farm price support program with both parties committed to rigid supports at 90 per cent of parity.

Yet we believe with the President that it deserves the support of every member of Congress, regardless of party, who wants to help build a happier and stronger America.

In many a home that has television there are more roaches in the living room than in the kitchen.

The People's Business:

90 Days in Capitol
GOP Seeks Short, Sweet
Session of Legislature

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING—Michigan's Legislature faces a quiet, and probably short, session when it meets next week—and that's news.

There are some sour souls who are predicting a wide-open Donnybrook since 1954 is a campaign year. And others of a cynical cast of mind are sighting a long session.

They may be right, but the signs now don't point that way.

For one thing the big issue—taxes—is pretty well settled for the time being. The state is running in the black for the moment and the Legislature should be able to balance the budget without cutting anything too drastically.

That always makes for more even tempers. Undoubtedly there will be some hot words passed between Gov. Williams and the GOP legislative leaders. Neither side is going to pin any medals on its opposition with the 1954 elections coming up.

Unquestionably, some of the mouthier members will pop off from time to time so that the newspaper readers back home will get the idea that they ought to keep that there statesman in Lansing another term.

But the Republican leadership seems to have accepted the idea, long offered to it by kind friends, that the longer the Legislature stays in Lansing the more hay Williams makes.

The pressure this year probably will be, on the Republican side, to pass a few politically pleasant bills for the record, balance the budget, pass appropriation bills and get the heck out of town before somebody pulls a boner and gives Williams a campaign talking point.

That seems to make sense, too. The GOP has prepared for this session better than for any in recent years, it would seem. Its policy committee has come up with a reasonable program to counter the big bag of campaign promises which Williams obviously is packing.

The GOP, to date, is rather evasive on some subjects and sketchy on others, but the voters should remember that its program has to pass muster with more than 100 members in caucus. It can't be completely specific at this point.

When they talk of a short session, they mean 90 days.

When politicians first saw the schedule aimed at an April 9 adjournment, they said "phooey!" But on second thought they realize that the Legislature achieved a 90-day session two years ago and think now that it can be repeated if the boys will be good and get to work.

For the first time in history, nearly 100 bills have been filed in the House and Senate already and several hundred more are all drafted and ready to go.

Legislative leaders have tentatively set a Feb. 10 deadline for the printing of bills, a virtual deadline for new measures.

The appropriating committees have gotten a lot of road work out of the way already. Members say there has not been any great change in economic conditions which should necessitate any major revision of departmental budgets.

Therefore, they think they can come close to making a copy of this year's budget and let it go at that. Williams has already fed the lawmakers a few controversial matters to keep their tempers tight but there is no indication yet that the GOP legislators intend to get very mad about it. If they do they will be playing Williams' game.

Thus, the picture now looks as a short, quiet and reasonable session.

The GOP has a program. It is under no fiscal pressure. There is no statewide issue to tear the Legislature apart. There is every reason to avoid a public row. There is enough money in the bank to pay the bills—but not so much to encourage pork-barreling.

If, with all these favorable factors the Legislature can't get it over within 90 days, the members ought to go home and send their wives in their stead.

Snow Into Street Create Traffic Hazard

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

The man behind the snow shovel deserves a big hand from the people who walk on the sidewalks, when he gets out before daybreak and cleans his walks, but why just move the barricade from the sidewalk into the street and make it more hazardous for more people.

I would like to suggest we use these beautiful white aqueous crystals to help provide moisture for our lawns and shrubs by shoveling it back on our own property and let it serve its natural purpose rather than become an obstacle and menace to the traveling public.

I'm just a woman driver who depends entirely on her car to get around and finds it very hard to plow through the snowbanks in the streets made by man.

Farmers in Parts of England, Scotland
Will Celebrate 'Plow Monday' Jan. 11

By REV. HOWARD V. HARPER

Jan. 11 is called "Plow Monday." The day itself has little or no connection with religion, but it is associated with and dependent upon two other days of definitely religious character: Epiphany and Plow Sunday.

In last week's column it was stated that medieval women went back to their spinning on Jan. 7, after the Christmas holidays had ended on Epiphany, Jan. 6.

The men, however, managed to stall a little longer—until the Monday after Epiphany. This was the day on which they were supposed to get on with their plowing.

The preceding day was called Plow Sunday because all the churches on this Sunday held a colorful ceremony of blessing the plows that were to be put into operation next day.

But the men found a way of putting their work off one more day—they made a big holiday of Plow Monday. Dragging a be-ribboned plow, they went in large groups about the countryside, playing a game much like the "tricks or treats" of Halloween.

Stopping at a farmhouse they would shout "God speed the plow," which was the householder's cue to come out and put some money in a box carried by the plowmen. If they did not get a contribution, they plowed up the farmer's front yard.

When the money box was full enough, the procession ended at the nearest tavern.

Plow Monday is still celebrated in some parts of England and

Asks Some Protection
at Dangerous Crossing

Through some slip when my letter was published recently urging protection for motorists at the East Howard St. crossing of the Grand Trunk, the name of the street was left out. That spoiled the meaning of the letter.

I was nearly hit by an engine on the East Howard St. crossing recently, but, knowing the danger there, I was watching. The car behind me barely stopped in time.

I hope Ben Gates wins out in his effort to force the railroad to furnish adequate protection at that crossing.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Don't Load Boy Babies
With Any Sissy Names

There's a lot in a name, so think carefully when you christen your children. And that is doubly necessary for boy babies. Don't load them with sissy names. And avoid giving your daughters names which are masculine, at least in their nickname form.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
 Case J-390: Martha L., aged 26, has a new baby son.

"Dr. Crane, my husband and I are arguing about his name," she began.

"I'd like to call him Percy, after my father, but my husband prefers Daniel."

"So we have come to you to see which one you'd suggest?"

Percy is a very fine name, but in modern America a boy of that name often undergoes a lot of teasing and ridicule. For that name is popularly regarded as indicating a sissy or Mamma's boy.

There is no need to go into details about how that connotation has developed. Suffice it that a boy named Percy has one strike against him. Daniel, on the other hand, is a strong name with a great Biblical background. And many notable Americans likewise have borne it, such as Daniel Webster and Daniel Boone.

Besides, it can be shortened to Dan or Danny, both of which are good nicknames. In christening a child, especially a boy, try to think ahead and visualize how his name will be received by his classmates at school.

Many mothers fail to look ahead, so they saddle their young sons with names that provoke an unfair amount of ridicule from other boys.

Furthermore, it often helps a child's morale if he knows he bears the name of some illustrious person of the past.

Since we have kept the name "George Washington" going for almost 120 years in our family, I have become interested in the historical names of many other people whom I have met.

When I write to the editor of the Bloomington, Illinois paper I address my letter to Henry Clay (Tate) and he reciprocates. The publisher of the Ogden Standard Examiner is Abraham Lincoln (Glassmann.)

When I correspond with the Personnel Director of Rike's big department store in Dayton, I address him as Daniel Webster (Coughnour).

Last summer I gave the commencement address for the graduating nurses at Lakeview Hospital in Danville, Illinois. The chief backer of that fine hospital, is Thomas Jefferson (Cossey).

Lack of space will preclude my dwelling further on this hobby, but I remember a classical case to show the character value of a great name.

We called our firstborn George Washington Crane, IV. And when he was ready for school, he told his mother:

"I'm never going to tell a fib, mother, for I am named after George Washington."

Such brief glimpses into the thinking of youngsters thus show at least a helpful effect of christening them with names that are associated with virtue and goodness, bravery and leadership.

"Act the way you like to be," runs an axiom of psychology, "and soon you'll be the way you act."

Any influence, even though slight, which helps your child act good or noble, is just that much to the good.

So pick names that are strong, as well as musical, and that lend themselves to euphonious shortening, as in "Phil" for "Phillip."

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3 cent stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts. Copyright, Hopkins Syndicate Inc.

Langer to Fight Wire-Tap O k

Senator Will Oppose Brownell on Legalizing This Spy Weapon

WASHINGTON (INS) — Senate Judiciary committee chairman William Langer (R-ND), said today he will fight any attempt to legalize wire-tapping in spy cases.

He told an interviewer he is "constitutionally opposed to wire-tapping" in any kind of criminal investigation.

Attorney General Herbert Brownell is expected to ask for legislation legalizing it when he appears before Langer's committee Jan. 18.

Langer said Brownell will testify on "anything he wants to" but it was presumed he would be spelling out the administration's proposals for laws to strengthen its hand against subversives.

President Eisenhower told Congress in his State of the Union message that Brownell soon would "present his recommendations for needed additional weapons with which to combat subversion in our country."

One of these, Eisenhower said, would be a law to take citizenship from persons convicted of "conspiring to advocate the overthrow of this government by force and violence."

More than 200 Oakland County families will be interviewed this year in a continuing U.S. Census Bureau program aimed at checking labor force and population trends.

He said some of the households will be questioned as many as four times during the year and all information will be kept secret. They will be questioned on marital status, employment and increases or decreases in the family unit.

This information is used to keep tabs on shifts in employment and fluctuations in population. Mrs. Howell also will work in Macomb and Wayne Counties.

Trip to Moon No Longer a Joke; Scientists Work on Plan

NEW YORK — Now that man has flown 1,600 miles an hour — more than twice the speed of sound — taking a trip to the moon doesn't sound nearly as silly to most people as it used to.

Scientists haven't been joking about that for some time. They've been hard at work on the project.

The United States Air Force has a department of Space Medicine at Randolph Field, Tex. Much of its work is buried behind the veil of government security.

The moon undoubtedly will be the first place outside the earth to be visited by man, says Joseph M. Chamberlain, chief astronomer of the American Museum's Hayden Planetarium in New York.

"The conquest of space is as inevitable as the rising of the sun," says Dr. Werner von Braun, an eminently practical man. Von Braun is the co-designer of the German V2 rocket.

Von Braun has predicted that within 10 to 15 years the earth will have a man-made satellite — a second moon — circling it at an altitude of 1,075 miles and a speed of 15,800 miles an hour.

This satellite will have from 80 to 100 inhabitants, supplied from earth by huge three-stage rocket ships of about the weight of a light cruiser.

The first space explorers probably will make use of this satellite as an orbital refueling stop on their journey to the moon.

The moon, whose diameter is about one fourth that of the earth, is only 239,000 miles away. It has an area of 12 million square miles, almost exactly that of Africa.

Until this century, man's knowledge of the moon was based on observations made by eye. Since the invention of the telescope, more than 10 generations of astronomers have studied the moon and mapped characteristics they could see.

The moon's rotation and orbit is such that it always presents the same face to the earth; man has never seen the other side of the moon.

Temperature changes on the face of the moon can be recorded by sensitive thermocouples used in conjunction with larger telescopes. They show the moon's temperature ranges from about 200 degrees Fahrenheit during the day to 250 degrees below zero at night.

The greatest weather temperature ranges recorded on earth have been 136 degrees F. above zero and 94 degrees below.

The lunar day corresponds to our 28-day month. There are two weeks of daylight and two weeks of darkness.

Chamberlain says the moon has no appreciable atmosphere — no wind, no rain, no snow, no storms. The moon's gravity is one-sixth that of the earth. It would be six times easier to lift a sledge hammer on the moon but it would take just as much energy to swing it because inertia remains the same.

The moon's terrain is very rough. Some of its mountains rise to more than 30,000 feet — higher than any on earth.

Although the greater part of the moon's visible surface is extremely rugged, there are huge open areas (the so-called "seas") which appear to be reasonably flat.

Since the moon is virtually without atmosphere it means that there is no life there as we know it. However, there is some evidence to suggest that there may be some type of vegetation, able to endure the 400 degree temperature change.

What little man does know about the moon doesn't make it seem very attractive as a place to visit. However, the moon is scheduled to be the first target of man's interplanetary travel and that voyage, when it comes, will be even

GOODMAN'S

Park Development Work Carried on by City in 1953

Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department carried on an expanded program of park improvement, besides sponsoring sporting and social events and caring for city-owned trees and shrubbery during 1953.

David R. Ewalt, parks and recreation director, listed 1953 progress in a report compiled for City Manager Walter K. Willman. Some 544 trees were removed in 1953, compared with 483 during 1952.

"Most hazardous trees have been removed from city streets," said Ewalt. A survey made during 1953 showed that only 150 of the city's approximately 13,500 dangerous trees remain to be removed, he added.

Stumps removed in 1953 totaled 313, compared with 640 the year before. "We hope to have, all stumps removed within the next two years," said Ewalt.

The Clinton River clean-up project begun in 1952 continued, said Ewalt, with all hazardous trees, limbs and interfering brush removed from below the sewage disposal plant to the place where the river goes underground at S. Saginaw St.

A new weed control spraying rig enabled a crew to cover the entire city street system with at least one coat of spray, the parks director said.

New projects meeting success in 1953 included use of a new dust inhibitor oil to control dust on ball diamonds and painting all metal surfaces, such as playground equipment, with rust-preventative paints.

Other 1953 figures cited by Ewalt include 870 trees pruned and trimmed, 30 trees planted and 160 trees repaired.

Major problems listed by Ewalt were need for more tree trimmers to meet increased demand made by construction projects on streets, and need for a city nursery or improvement fund for tree and shrub replacement plus plantings in newly developed subdivisions.

"Additional park activities and attendance is creating a refuse disposal problem as well as a lack of facilities at all parks," said Ewalt.

Some 42 social, sporting and playground recreation programs were carried on, Ewalt stated, and seven special contest and parties conducted.

Included among 12 maintenance and building projects at Oakland Park was construction of a lighted and fenced area containing four shuffleboard and four horseshoe courts.

Among 13 improvements listed by Ewalt at Boudette Park was the cleaning of the banks and the bed of Dawson Mill Pond.

Among 13 projects at Murphy Park was completion of a parking lot at the new softball dike.

A parking lot was also included in five improvements completed at Oriole Field.

Other parks developed during the year, according to Ewalt, were Indian Village, Northside, Malkim, and Montcalm.

Baseball fields improved included Wisner, Columbia and Joslyn, Washington Junior and Bagley and Brush.

Choose Jury in Land Suit

City's Bid for Property at 11-49 Parke St. Will Be in Court Tuesday

An Oakland County Circuit Court jury will be chosen Tuesday for the city's suit seeking to condemn property at 11-49 Parke St. for a public parking lot.

The actual trial will probably get underway about Jan. 26, according to Circuit Judge George B. Hartwick who will preside at the hearing.

The petition for condemnation was filed by City Attorney William A. Ewalt in Oakland County Clerk's office last August.

Use of the property plus adjoining city-owned land for a 200-car parking lot was deemed a public necessity by Pontiac City Commission.

The land is bounded on the east by Parke street, west by the Clinton River, north by Slater apartments and the city-owned land to the south.

Urges Unified Crusade Against Red Persecution

By Religious News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A call to Protestants, Jews, and all others who believe in God to put aside their differences and join with Roman Catholics in a crusade of prayer and protest against Communist persecution of religion was issued here by Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle of Washington.

He suggested that all faiths join together to demand a formal investigation by the United Nations of "this diabolical attempt to exterminate all religion."

"Let us not be diverted in this crusade by the antagonisms and grievances which so often divide us," the prelate urged.

Plans Publicity on Marian Year

Indiana Catholic Group Prepares Billboards and Seals

By Religious News Service

KOKOMO, Ind.—Organizers of a local "Mary's Year" Committee here have prepared billboards and stamp-size colored seals to promote the aims of the 1954 Marian Year.

The materials, which have the "enthusiastic approval" of Bishop John G. Bennett of Lafayette-Indiana, are expected to be used all over the country.

The billboards provide space for sponsoring organizations, individuals and business firms to imprint their names and bear various Marian Year messages.

One declares, "1954 Is Mary's Year" and follows with the text of the Hail Mary. Another reads: "In this year of Our Lady: Return to Her Son, Jesus... Pray for Peace... Sacrifice for Sinners... Remember Those Behind the Iron Curtain... Respect the Dignity of Every Man."

The seals contain the simple message, "1954 Is Mary's Year." Organizers of the project, Catholic leaders of this area, are no novices at such a campaign.

In the past two years they have prepared and distributed millions of "Put Christ Back Into Christmas" seals in this country and Canada as well as many companion billboards and posters depicting the Nativity scene.

Life of St. Paul

Movie Will Be Released Jan. 18

HOLLYWOOD—A feature-length motion picture based on the life of St. Paul will be released Jan. 18 for showing in movie theatres over the country, it was announced here by Cathedral Films.

Production of the film, entitled "Magnificent Adventure," was supervised by the Rev. James K. Friedrich, Cathedral's president.

Mr. Friedrich noted that it is only the second picture in Cathedral's 15-year history to be produced primarily for release to regular movie houses. The bulk of the company's production is designed for showing churches, schools and on TV.

To Welcome Members

The January group of new members will be welcomed Sunday at Bethany Baptist Church. On Jan. 20, a candle-light service of baptism will be held. The Rev. Fred R. Tiffany is pastor.

Sunday Sermonette

THE HIGH-JUMPER

"It was just a lucky fluke. I'll never be able to do it again."

A young man was trying out for his college track-team, and on his first attempt at the high-jump had cleared the bar inches higher than any other candidate. Impressed, the coach had asked him to take another try, only to see the young man send the bar crashing down. The next two attempts were no more successful.

The candidate was discouraged. His first jump, he maintained, was one of those lucky things that happen once in a lifetime.

"You're wrong," said the coach. "You had it in you to jump that high once, and with training you'll be able to do it every time—and in competition."

The coach was exactly right. By careful training and regular practice, the man learned to make the most of his natural jumping ability, and in time went on to set an intercollegiate record.

This has a parallel in the life of the spirit. All men—at times—reach spiritual heights. The soul is overwhelmed by great beauty or great tragedy, and in that all-conquering experience there comes a vivid awareness of God's presence. But the person who undertakes the regular practice of prayer—that is, the spiritual athlete—finds he is strengthened and upheld by a sense of the divine nearness, not only occasionally, but continually.

Protestants Send Aid to Fire Victims

By Religious News Service

NEW YORK — An emergency shipment of more than 320,000 lbs. of food and clothing has been made available by Protestant churches in the United States through Church World Service for immediate use in aiding Chinese refugees made destitute in Hong Kong by a Christmas night fire there.

This was announced here by Dr. Wynn C. Fairfield, executive director of CWS, the overseas relief agency of the National Council of Churches.

The supplies are in excess of 140,000 pounds of foodstuffs and 70,000 pounds of clothing and 62,000 pounds of dried milk powder recently shipped to Hong Kong. Dr. Fairfield said that $10,000 in cash also had been forwarded by cable to Hong Kong to be used in the emergency.

The money represents the amount thus far contributed from year-end balances by denominational relief agencies of the Congregational Christian Churches, the Evangelical and Reformed Church, the Methodist Church, and the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. This amount, Dr. Fairfield said, will be increased as further contributions are received from other churches in response to the urgency.

Bleeding Image Sealed in Glass

French St. Anne Statue Reportedly Sheds Real Blood From Finger

By Religious News Service

PARIS—A carved wood statuette of St. Anne, which reportedly "bled" after a finger had been broken off, has been sealed behind a glass panel at the request of ecclesiastical authorities in Entrevaux, near Nice.

The order was given after a laboratory in Paris, to which the blood was sent for testing, reported that the liquid said to have dropped from the broken finger at intervals recently was human blood, however, the ecclesiastical authorities refused to comment on the "phenomenon."

Meanwhile, the cafe in Entrevaux where the statuette was found "bleeding" continues to be jammed with visitors from southeastern France and northern Italy. Many bring with them the deaf, the lame and the blind in hope of a cure.

The story is told that when a piece of cotton used by the parish doctor to wipe the end of the broken finger was given to a blind man a small terra cotta oil lamp burning before the statue flared to a ceiling for no known cause.

"The bleeding" St. Anne statue was reported in Dec. 28 by Jean Salvade, proprietor of the Entrevaux cafe. He said it has accidentally been knocked over the previous night while he and some friends were playing cards.

On the following morning, when he went to clean the cafe, M. Salvade said he found drops of blood directly under the statue, and blood on his hands when he handled the figure. Subsequently, it was reported, the statue bled several times.

Confident Living

Extroverts Often Plagued by Inferiority Complex

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

I once heard of a man who offered up each morning what seems to be a very strange prayer. Upon arising he would pray, "O Lord, help me to have a high opinion of myself."

You may think of some people who already have this exalted opinion of themselves without the necessity of praying for it. It does indeed seem so. We meet many people who are overly extroverted and even bumptious; they seem to have no lack of self-esteem or conceit.

But these people, who are so obvious, may blind us to the many who have a negative opinion of themselves. They doubt their own ability, are retreating and shy in personal relationships and have a strong sense of inadequacy. They suffer from what the psychologists term an "inferiority complex."

Haven't you, perhaps, said to yourself, "I haven't got it in me. I can't do it. I can't keep going." Many of us feel this way at times.

Recently a young wife came to me, literally in tears. "How is it possible," she asked me, "to go with a man for a year and think you know him, then to marry him and, after six months, realize that you don't know him at all?"

"Is that what happened to you?" I said.

"Yes," she replied. "My husband is a big, strapping fellow, over six feet tall, and handsome. You can see that I'm not very big and it seemed to me that a man like him would take care of me and protect me. I got a sense of security when I went out with him and I thought it would be that way all our lives. But now that I am married to him, I find that he's a shy, shrinking man who believes that he can never do what he's supposed to do. He always thinks he's going to fail. I have to be not only a wife to him, but apparently I have to mother him and take care of him as well.

"Do you know," she concluded, "sometimes I feel like taking him and shaking him and trying to make him see what a wonderful person he is if he only knew it."

Well, that is a trouble with many of us. We do not fully realize what we are. We are not aware of our unrealized possibilities; so we go through life being less effective than we need be. Situations defeat us when all the time, if we only know it, we have inner powers equal to any problem life brings us.

In a southwestern city I met a successful man who told me that he came to that city as a "bum—a hobo." Aimlessly he hitchhiked across country, sleeping in barns, haystacks, any place that would afford protection.

One day he asked for a hand-out at a back door. The kindly housewife with keen insight saw his inner worth. She gave him a book by this author. Stuffing it in his ragged pockets he read and re-read it. The message of God's help anyone can make something of himself. He believed that. He practices the principles of faith which it teaches, and today he is an upstanding and highly respected citizen of his community.

People are really wonderful.

Pastor to Finish Epiphany Ritual

Rev. Gouvelis Blesses Final Greek Orthodox Home Here Today

The Rev. Soterios D. Gouvelis, pastor of St. George Greek Orthodox Church, today will conclude his four-day task of blessing at least 250 Orthodox homes in Pontiac, Birmingham, Drayton Plains and Port Huron.

In this ritual starting with the Day of Epiphany, the Konstantion in each home, which is the sacred place where pictures of the patron saint of the home and other sacred relics are kept, is blessed.

The priest also goes from room to room with his blessing which also is received by each member in the home.

The patron saint in most of the Orthodox homes in Pontiac is St. George because it is the patron saint of the church here. Father Gouvelis pointed out, however, that in some instances, the father may have a name of another saint and in that case the home may hold that name sacred.

The Konstantion in the home is the altar before which prayers are said, Father Gouvelis pointed out.

Put Molding Where Wall, Ceiling Join

By HUBBARD COBB

If cracks or seams appear where walls join ceiling, install a strip of quarter round molding wide enough to do the job or even better, install standard dove or crown molding.

When fastening partitions to a basement floor, figure on installing an expansion bolt about every 3 feet.

In spite of their original cost, brush conditioners which can be purchased at paint and hardware stores will save you money not only because they keep your paint brushes in good condition but because they also save the paint solvents ordinarily required for cleaning brushes.

When sawing through old wood, be on the watch for nails. Before you hit one with the wood saw, change over to a hacksaw and remove a sufficient amount of the nail so that you can go back to the handsaw without fear of it being dulled by the metal.

If you aren't in the habit of pulling the main switch when you change fuses, at least be sure that you are standing on a dry surface and one that is a poor conductor of electricity—such as a rubber mat.

Floor wax applied to rods in clothes closets will permit hangers to slide back and forth readily.

From Germany come these beautiful Walt Disney figurines, created by the master (right) and "going to school" (left). craftsmen of the famous Hummel figurines.

Bride Pays if She Picks Costlier Gift

Assumes the Extra Expense Involved in Exchange

By EMILY POST

A reader tells me: "Recently, I bought a wedding present for a friend of mine and, as she received a duplicate, I suggested she change mine for something else, which she did. In its place she selected a much more expensive item. I would like to know if I must pay the difference?"

Answer: No, you cannot be expected to pay more than the cost of the present you gave her. If the one she selects to replace it is more expensive, she is responsible for the difference.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a widow about to remarry. I would like to be married in church and have my family and nearest friends present. I will wear a suit and my sister will be my only attendant.

Considering the type of wedding is to be, do we walk up the aisle to music and should someone give me away (my father is not living)? Or what is the correct procedure for this type of wedding?

Answer: If the church is a very large one and only a few first pews are to be occupied, it would be better for you and your bridegroom to enter together from the vestry.

If the church is small, you quite properly could walk up the aisle to music. You should have a near relative or dear friend give you away.

Dear Mrs. Post: At a buffet supper is it expected that the men wait until all the women have helped themselves first, before filling their own plates, or should the men take filled plates to the women?

Answer: At a buffet meal people usually all file around the table and help themselves to whatever they want. Should the men notice that some of the women have remained seated in the living room, they naturally go up to them and ask, "May I get you something to eat?"

Another Reader Offers Suggestions Such as Volunteer Public Gardening

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"I live in a small town," a reader writes me, "and there are not very many interesting or unusual volunteer jobs that need to be done."

"I have some time on my hands and am anxious to find a hobby that will also be of service to the community."

"I am extremely interested in the arts and crafts, and like to do gardening. What can you suggest?"

Here are several suggestions which I received from a very nice woman in New Jersey, who wrote telling me what is being done in her town (of which she is quite rightly proud). I shall call her Mrs. C. V.

"Our town's public buildings are now very attractive, thanks to a volunteer gardener and her committee. Perhaps some of your readers would be interested in such a project.

"The members of the committee each volunteer a certain number of hours a week, and do the planting, weeding, and so forth, all summer, plus any care needed during the winter."

"They each chip in gardening tools and bushes and plants from their own gardens. It makes all the difference in the world in the general appearance of the whole town."

"Right now," she continues, "we are trying to start another project. Our local library is starting hobby classes, particularly for retired members of our community."

"We feel that they need recreation and hobby interests, and there is no reason why the teachers shouldn't be volunteers from the community. We are already beginning to get a few."

"Also, we have excellent storytelling hours for children, and they are in the hands of volunteers. They go over big, and the women who conduct them do seem to get great pleasure out of it."

"I just thought I'd mention these," this nice woman concludes, "in case any of your readers might be in the market for ideas."

If you or your friends or your community is doing interesting things, do tell me about it and let the word get around.

Use Gifts Now to Please Giver

The tinsel and excitement of Christmas have gone—but the many remembrances which you received are still with you.

Are you getting the enjoyment from them that you should? Or are you—insulting the giver—by tucking away your gifts into the back of the closet or in the bureau drawer?

Many women save such things for "a special occasion," which often is so slow in coming around that by the time it arrives the gift has lost some of its beauty. The scarf or gloves or sweater you received at holiday time are meant to be worn. So too is the perfume which someone was thoughtful enough to give you.

The beauty of gift is in the wearing of it. It does no good to anyone when it is locked away.

Winter's Icy Blasts Make Young Set Frolicsomeness

Gay Season Under Way Down South

Races, Opera and Sunshine Are Big Florida Attractions

By ETHEL TOMBRINK
MIAMI — Whirling since before the holidays, Miami's season has gradually gathered momentum for the whiz-bang weekend ahead.

Hialeah Race Course opens its doors Jan. 16, always a sign that the height of the season has arrived. Opening will be especially interesting this year, with the debut of the beautiful new clubhouse.

After a day at the races, opera lovers will don formal attire for opening night of Miami's opera season, "Madame Butterfly" starring Lella Albanese, is the musical fare for the evening.

From then on, there'll be more opera, more races, huge parties — enough to keep heads spinning.

In the meantime balmy weather and sunny skies keep Florida colonists and vacationers on the beaches, or at their favorite fishing spots, or send them on cruises through the keys.

Michigan neighbors in the summer, Bal Harbour neighbors in the winter are aboard the George W. Walkers' boat, Cherokee, this weekend. It's a pleasure cruise to Key Largo for fishing and fun. Aboard with the Walkers are the Robert Olsons of Detroit and Bal Harbour, Mrs. Carl Unruh of Birmingham and Bal Harbour and Mrs. Peter Markey, Detroit and Bal Harbour.

The Walkers, who sold their Bal Harbour home, now have a lovely apartment in Waterway Manor — aptly named, for Mrs. Walker can sit in her living room and watch the fishing boats go by.

The Walkers' daughter, Mrs. John W. Smith of Bloomfield Village, is expected down in about 10 days for two or three weeks of sunshine.

It's back to wintry weather for Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Hubbard and children, Chuck and Ann. They left early this week and will be arriving back in Pontiac this weekend. They vacationed on the beach and spent their time in the water — after the weather warmed up from a cold spell.

Dr. Hubbard's parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Hubbard, have an apartment in Miami again and will remain through the winter.

Over in Cat Cay, a tiny resort island just 30 minutes by air from Miami, Michigan has been well-represented. Enjoying the leisurely life there were Birmingham residents, the Robert Fishers.

At the skeet field on opening day, Mr. Fisher beat Cat Cay's genial owner Louis Rice Wasey who's an avid skeet-shooting fan.

What Lies Ahead for '54 Fashions

Judith L. Clemence
Pontiac Press Writer
Reports From N. Y.

Women everywhere are wondering what lies ahead in fashion in 1954. What will happen to the hemline has caused a great deal of speculation.

Neither fashion experts nor even the designers are certain what the results will be nor what the American woman will accept.

An inkling of the many new ideas in fashion was given by Mollie Farnis who believes that fashion will be so flexible that a woman can be herself and wear her favorite silhouette.

The hemline, according to designer Norman Norell of Traina-Norell, will be raised. He also says mid-lady will have a choice of two silhouettes, one which will have a very full skirt, and the other rather straight and semi-fitted.

Jane Derby gives a warning to the fashion conscious woman, declaring that this is the year for change in silhouette. She believes that every line will be worn, and advises the distaff side to keep the figure trim enough to go along gracefully with the change.

Those who like all fluff and femininity will go along with Lilly Dache who claims that the emphasis will be on sparkle.

Women who are tired of the idea that they can wear the same suit four seasons of the year will back Sidney Blauner of Suzy Perette who believes in the return of the four seasons in fashion.

These designers and many others will be showing their collections for spring and summer in New York Jan. 11 through Jan. 17 for fashion editors from all over the country.

Judith Clemence, Pontiac Press Women's Editor, will cover these important showings so that Press readers may have prompt and full information in both word and picture. Watch for her day to day stories and pictures of the new trends and designs in the Pontiac Press.

Romeo to Act on School Expansion Tuesday

1st Steps to Be Taken at Meet

Additional Classrooms for Elementary, High Buildings Planned

ROME — Preliminary steps for the expansion of the Romeo Community School District will be taken at a Board of Education meeting at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the high school.

At a two-hour meeting Monday, 150 voters heard the findings of a survey by Dr. Gerald Bolcourt, education specialist from Wayne University.

Board President Lawrence W. Rickett presented the school board's view of the report.

The members agreed, he said, with Bolcourt's recommendations for two four-room additions to the elementary schools, but decided it would be "wiser and more economical" to construct the eight-room building he suggested on the same site as the South School.

In place of the two-room addition to the high school, the board recommended that a two-classroom, general shop and bus repair depot building be constructed in the vacant lot directly north of the high school.

The proposed plan would cost taxpayers an estimated $405,000, less possibly $7,500 which would have been required to purchase a new site in the northeast section of town.

This would mean an assessment of six mills for the bond issue and an additional six mills for operating expenses.

Rickett urged committee members of groups and organizations which submitted petitions endorsing the need for an expansion program to attend Tuesday night's meeting.

Firemen Average 1 Call a Month in '53

Estimated total loss to buildings was $11,804 and loss to contents was approximately $3,504.

Re-elected for the coming year are Russell Sharpe, chief; Harvey Miller, assistant chief; Frank Bulke, secretary, and Fred Hoeksema, treasurer.

Annual dinner for firemen and their wives will be held at the Hi-Spot Restaurant Jan. 18.

Seize 2 Youths in Breakins

Juveniles to Be Charged in Cottage Entries in Oxford Township

The apprehension of two Oxford Township juveniles yesterday apparently cleared up a series of cottage breakins in the township over the past two months, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

The youths, who said they were searching for a .22-caliber rifle, took a two-foot hatchet from one of eight cottages they entered, said Detective Delos Anderson and Leo Hazen.

"Glass was broken at the summer cottages and at one place they scattered flour and groceries around the floor," Anderson said.

The youths, now in the custody of their parents, will appear in Oakland County Juvenile Court Monday where the detectives will file a petition formally charging them with the breakins.

Cottages the boys are accused of entering are at 1929 and 1972 Lakeview; 961 Hillberg; and 505, 584, 585 and 590 Maloney.

Detectives Anderson and Hazen first suspected the youths, when they learned that the pair had been skipping school, Hazen said.

Hospital Auxiliary Hears Talk on Physiotherapy

MARLETTE — Mrs. Hubert Horton spoke on physiotherapy and its uses in alleviating aches and pains when the Marlette Community Hospital Auxiliary met Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Horton, a graduate of Mercy College of Nursing, Detroit, had a year of special study of physiotherapy at the Mayo Clinic and organized a physiotherapy department in Wisconsin, is now living here.

Also speaking at the meeting were Mrs. John McCrea, president of the Women's Medical Auxiliary of Sanilac County, and Mrs. Jo Diem, who reported on new methods at the hospital.

Mrs. John Atkins told the group of the hospital community calendar campaign slated to begin Jan. 25.

Increase Noted in Troy Building

Total Value of Permits Estimated $1,669,195 More Than in 1952

TROY TOWNSHIP — The issuance of building permits took an upward swing during the past year, and showed an estimated total value of $1,669,195 more than in 1952.

Supervisor Norman Barnard gave the 1952 total as $2,228,600, with a total of $3,897,795 for 1953. There were 237 permits for residential building in 1952 and 315 last year. Respectively, the estimated values for these were $1,817,406 and $2,963,695.

management has become very important," he said. As he sees it, management is this:
"You've got to put the dollars where you are pretty sure you are going to get them back."
While Boyle is retiring from the local associations, he intends still to be active on his 365-acre farm near Buchanan operated by his son, Jesse Jr.
A graduate of Michigan State College in 1908, Boyle, now 70, is a former Purdue University horticulture professor, a former state representative from Berrien County from 1927 to 1933, former president of the Berrien County Farm Bureau for 12 years, and for 42 years president of the successful Buchanan Co-op board of directors, an organization he helped to found.

Successful results of an experiment whereby waste water from canning plants may be used to irrigate and even nourish farm crops are reported by Gerber Products Co. of Fremont.
Chemicals but with the solids removed, is simply sprayed over the ground. M. R. Dietz, Gerber researcher, said that while results varied with different crops, tests run on a farm a mile and a half from the Gerber plant generally were successful.
Probably the pioneer user of the spray irrigation system to dispose of water waste is Michigan Fruit Canners of Fennville.

Poor fellow, he's just got to dig it out by hand.
Strict grading regulations are credited with helping to boost the cash income of Michigan's cherry producers last year. "Because of strict adherence to requirements of federal standards for red, tart cherries, prices paid to the grower were 2 1/4 cents per pound higher than the year before," reports Miles A. Nelson, chief of the State Bureau of Marketing and Enforcement.
Nelson pointed out that this meant an increase of $3,250,000 in income to the producers of the 77,000-ton Michigan crop. The price was eight to nine cents a pound to producers in 1953.
Nelson said the stricter grading program was drawing favorable comment from markets as far as 1,600 miles away. A consensus from buyers went like this, he said:
"You now have the quality, hang on to that grading program."
Holstein cow owned by William "Bill" Longnecker of Tallmadge Township near Marne, was probably not surprised, but Longnecker and the veterinarian were when she gave birth to a 140-pound bull calf.
"Old Grandma" is Longnecker's biggest cow and his best milker. At birth weighs between 85 and an average size Holstein at birth weighs between 85 and 100 pounds.

Local Buyers Attending Two Markets

Furniture Has '54 Quality at '53 Prices

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

Pontiac furniture dealers have joined the thousands from other communities in the nation this week at the annual markets being held in Chicago and Grand Rapids through Jan. 15.

The tug-of-war between the two favorite design trends promises the local buyers quality furniture at moderate prices in any type of decor they wish to select for their home.

Those who have returned from Chicago claim it is the best market since the war with a wide variety of new colors, designs and materials at the same prices as last year.

The Michigan market, they said, proves that walnut, cherry and birch woods are in much wider use with mahogany and maple still popular. French Provincial is gaining in favor and there was a new trend toward the Italian influence with its simple elegance.

Chicago, they said, had one group of manufacturers and designers emphasizing fine gleaming woods, silky upholstery, muted colors and shiny glitter of brass and pewter.

The other school of design accentuated the dramatic with straight lines, lots of black and white and orange, red, yellow and blue, plastic and synthetic materials, and new untraditional shapes.

Local stores represented at the markets are Thomas Economy with Keith R. Johnston, Charles G. Ullman and William D. Thomas Jr., attending both Grand Rapids and Chicago showings.

George I. Richmond is buying for the Wiggs Old Colony Shop and Lawrence Barris is representing the Lewis Furniture Store. The Lewis Birmingham store sent Mrs. Helen Reid, interior decorator, to the Chicago market.

Stewart-Gleason Furniture store has Robert Glenn, A. K. Oakley, Merlin Sanderson and Jack Koyl at both Grand Rapids and Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Miller are on a buying trip for the Miller Furniture store and Wyman's sent George Wyman to do their furniture marketing.

From the Melin Furniture Co., manager J. Joseph is attending both showings and Herman Gentry, manager of the Drayton Home Furnishings, covered the Grand Rapids market.

Jack Bisset, manager of Wards Furniture, is at the Chicago market.

NEW FURNISHINGS INVITE CURVES—This formal sofa with slightly curved and buttoned back is news at this season's furniture market. Upholstered in one of the new nylon tapestries, it features the two-cushioned seat with a strictly tailored skirt reaching to the floor. It is built of foam rubber. Accompanying this curved sofa is a marble-topped walnut coffee table. The marble top is the soft pink Italian stone and the wood portion of this has been hand-rubbed to bring out the unusual grain of this wood so popular again in furniture.

CHAIR FOR RELAXATION—For the completely relaxing, sprawling type of occupant, this expansive over-sized chair extends an inviting reception. Strong, wide curving back assures comfort from any angle. Unusual arm design features a micarta inset on either side providing stain-proof serving surface. Foam rubber is used in the construction.

Screens Take Front Place in Home Decor

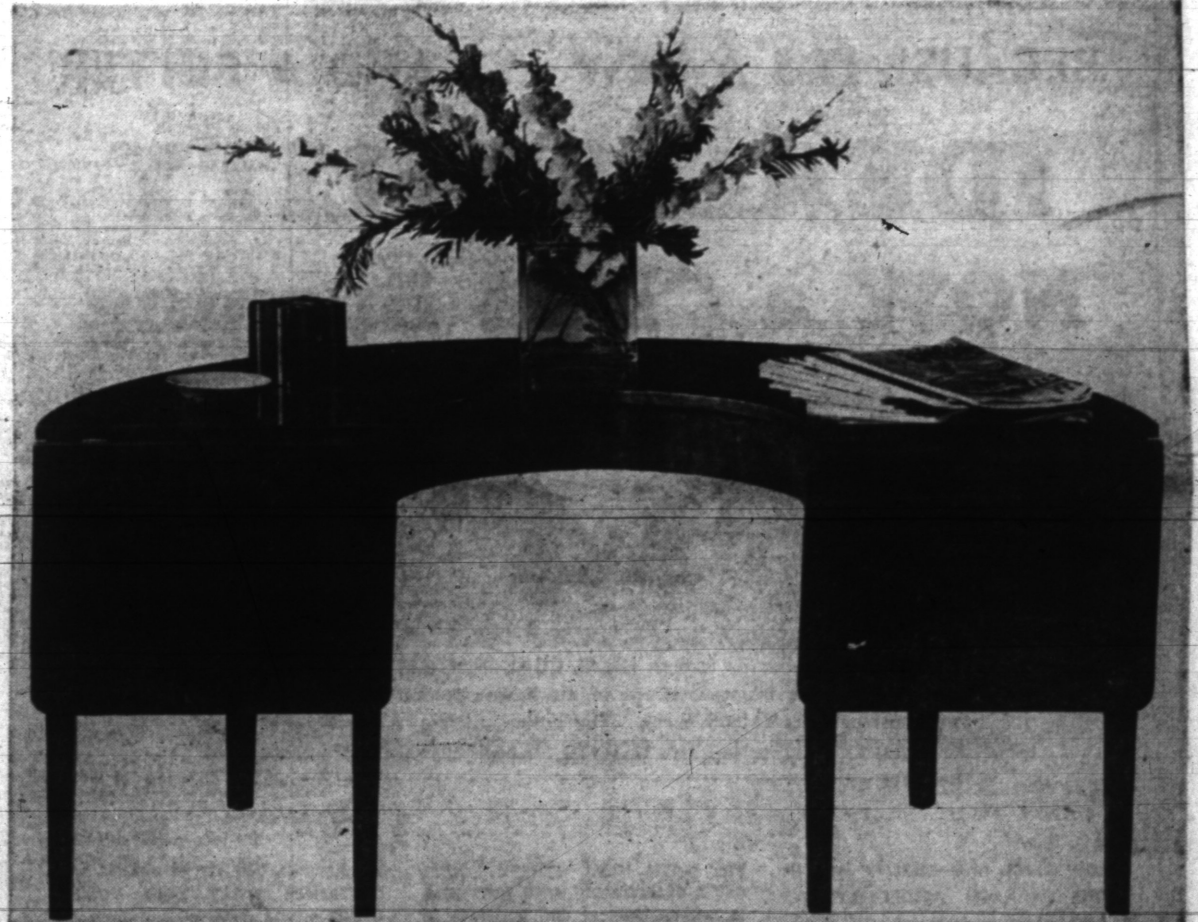

It may become stylish to hide the furniture—behind a screen.

Decorative screens have made a sudden reappearance as chic items for the 1954 home.

At the huge winter home-furnishings market in Chicago, screens in various materials, and with various price tags, showed up in display after display.

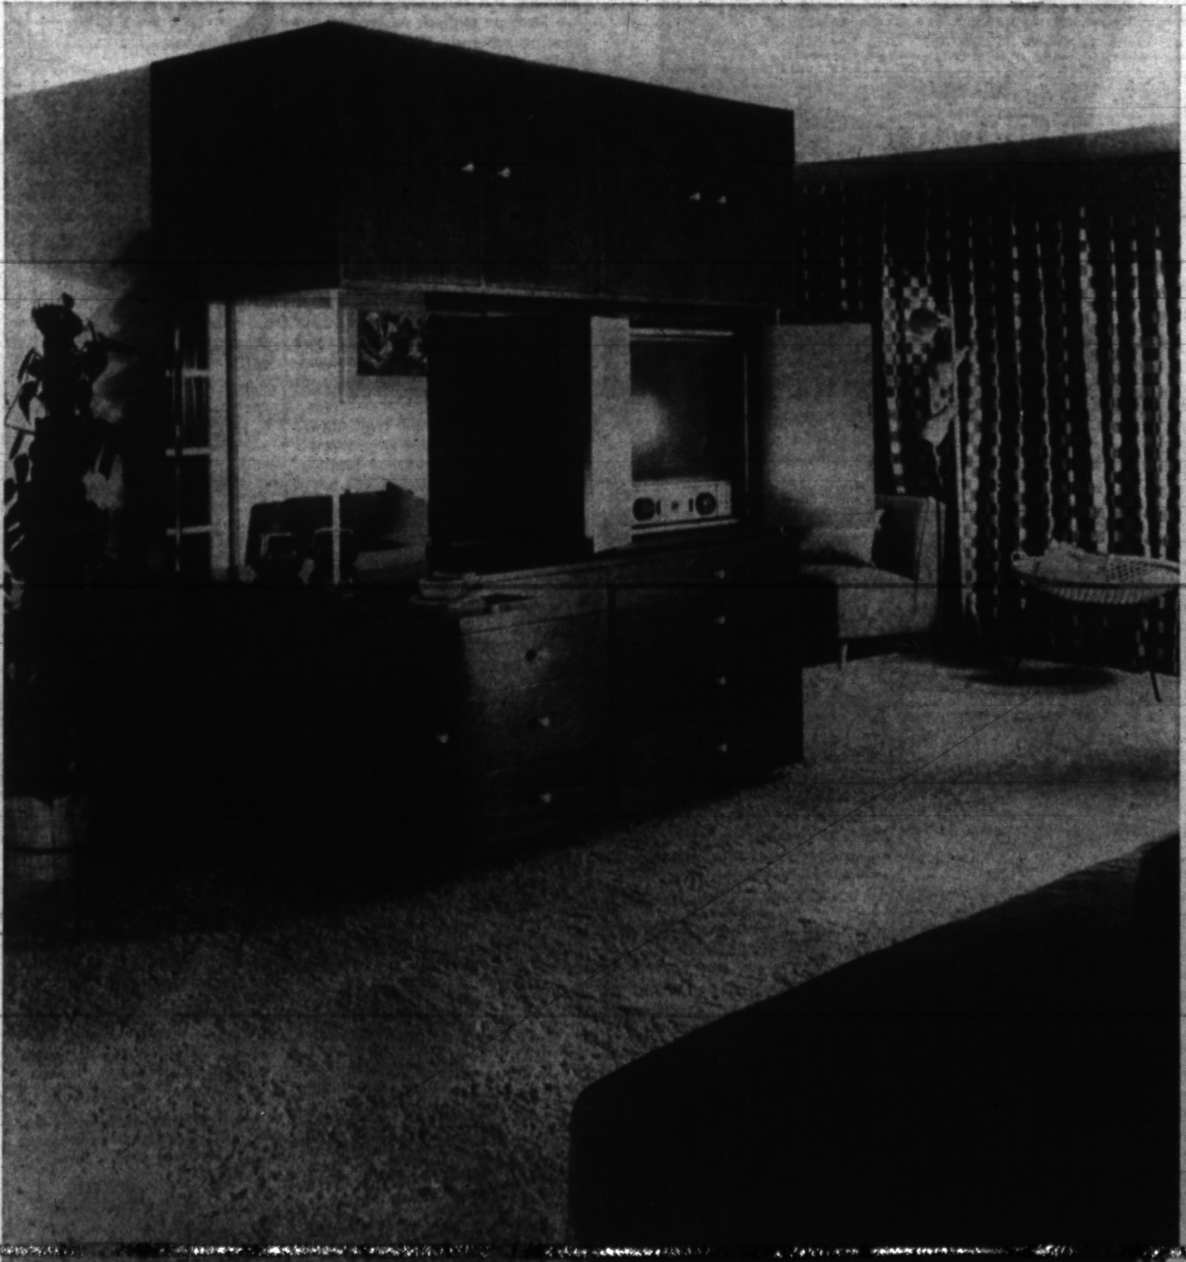

There were rattan peek-through screens, colored leather screens concealing cloth screens, fancy scrollwork screens of metal, casual plastic screens strung together with rope, and even screens of plain bamboo nailed cross-wise that look like big tic-tac-toe boards.

Some are open-work, some are closely-woven concealing items. These cost $10 or so, since they are imports from the Orient.

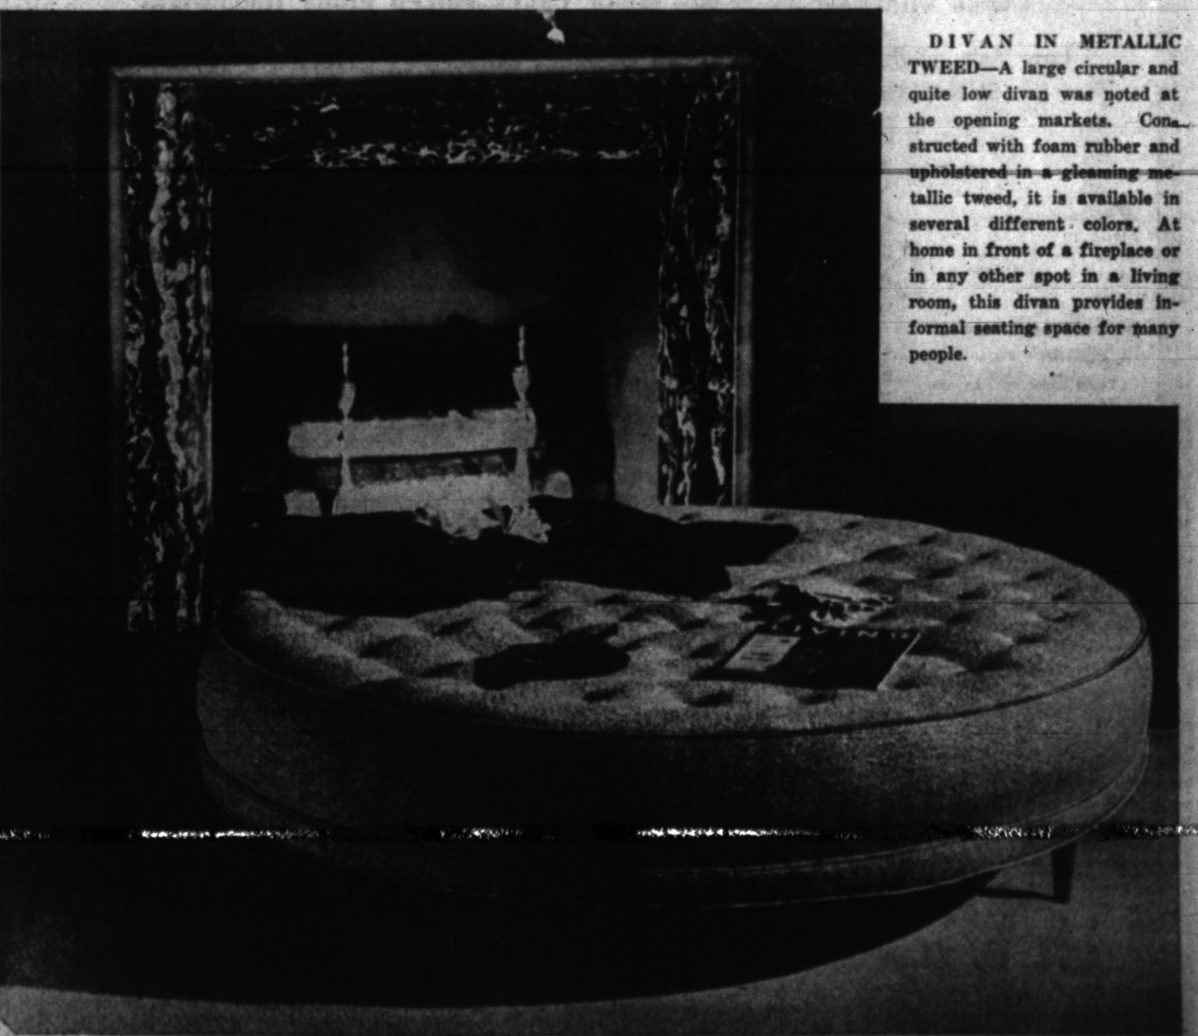

CENTURY HUNT TABLE—A revival of the popular Eighteenth Century Hunt tables is taking place this week at the Chicago and Grand Rapids Winter Home Furnishings Markets. The table that can lead a multitude of lives, the above model is built of mahogany. Because of its adaptability and simplicity, this style can be used with either contemporary or traditional settings.

Once a favorite for "after the hunt," the drop leaves when raised give an extensive buffet space. There is room for one person to stand in the very center and serve. It can also be used as a desk. When not in use it can be placed against a wall or it can serve as an occasional table.

READY-BUILT CUSTOM—Now available on the market will be this type of functional unit which was once strictly a custom built job. To be used as a divider for one-room living, or for any luxury living in a restricted area, this unit is composed of two sections that can be independent of each other or used together. One side is devoted to facilities for living-dining activity and the other for bedroom storage. Both sides share access to a revolving television set enclosed in a special cabinet section of the divider.

The lower section conceals a dining table which opens to seat two to seven people. Four drawers placed next to the table provide practical storage for linens and silver. The above unit is constructed of Gold Coast cherry, a wood new to American furniture. This wood is a native of British West Africa and is recognized for its strength and reliability. It is almost a natural auburn in color.

DIVAN IN METALLIC TWEED—A large circular and quite low divan was noted at the opening markets. Constructed with foam rubber and upholstered in a gleaming metallic tweed, it is available in several different colors. At home in front of a fireplace or in any other spot in a living room, this divan provides informal seating space for many people.

Shining Bare Floors Are High Fashion

The high-fashion look for modern interiors calls for gleaming bare floors in color.

Tile or sheet flooring is a good choice for any room. It is available in a wide range of both dark and light colors, which can be kept spotless by an occasional wiping with a damp mop.

Improve Lighting in 'Seeing' Room With Light Color

Modern lighting science has discovered that most comfortable lighting results are dependent not only on equipment but also on ability of walls and furnishings to reflect light.

That's why it's important to select lighter colors for rooms designed for family seeing activities.

This doesn't mean that colors need to be "washed-out." For most comfortable results, ask your dealer to help you select colors with 35 to 55 per cent reflectance for walls and still lighter ones for ceilings. Floor coverings too should reflect at least 10 per cent of the light.

Save your dark and dramatic decorating schemes for rooms in which no close visual work is ever done, say lighting specialists.

Kitchen Should Suit Taste of Individual Housewives

It's a well-known psychological theory that we work best, stay happier and healthier when we do our work in pleasant surroundings. But what's one woman's pleasure may be another woman's poison. Take the kitchen, for example, where the average housewife puts in the greater part of her working time.

Time was when every kitchen looked pretty much like every other kitchen. Every few years, our builders came up with a standard kitchen design that was the fashion until a new one came along. First we had grandmother's kitchen, a large square room full of windows and closets and dominated by a big black iron range.

Then came the dawn of the modern age with its first long-legged gas and electric ranges and the white sink.

Next was the "clinical" kitchen with its efficient compactness of white appliances and cabinets neatly packed into the least amount of space.

And now we've cut loose from all tradition in the mid-century "living" kitchen that combines the good features of all the old styles with some new twists that are strictly from today. We have the space and the downright livableness that Grandma enjoyed, we have wonderfully efficient appliances, conveniently placed but without the laboratory look, and we have an endless variety of decorating schemes. We have individuality. Colors and materials in today's kitchen need not conform to anyone's taste but our very own.

If you want pine paneling, copper accessories and a braided rug in the dining nook, have them. Or maybe you prefer pretty pastels and starched ruffled curtains; or ultra-modern wallpaper and wrought iron furniture.

Don't be afraid to indulge your own whims and decorate your kitchen in the way that pleases you best. If you enjoy your surroundings, you'll find your work is easier.

Today, you can get paints, wall coverings, flat surfacing materials and flooring in an almost limitless range of colors and patterns.

Do remember that the floor is one of the most important parts of the kitchen. It's conspicuous so it sets the theme for your entire decorating scheme. Because you'll spend so much time walking and standing on it, your floor should be as comfortable as possible, and it should be durable and easy to care for.

Rubber tile or sheet rubber flooring is a good choice — it's colorful and beautiful, and cushiony comfortable, thus making kitchen work less fatiguing.

Just remember, it's your kitchen — you spend more time there than anyone else, and the room should be created to please you.

Electric Wiring in Homes Is Inadequate Due Largely to Demand of New Gadgets

Most of us are paying for electricity we are not getting. The reason, experts say, is that our homes are inadequately wired. We are trying to get a firehose flow of electricity through a soda straw.

We have filled our homes with electrical gadgets and appliances which were not even invented when most of our houses were wired for electric lights. We plug all of these new conveniences into the same trickle of power and naturally the voltage or pressure, goes down.

The toaster dries out the bread instead of giving it a quick golden brown. The coffee maker slows down. Breakfast is late and we're late for work.

The problem is so universal that industry leaders are concerned. "Not one builder's house in 20 is adequately wired for electrical living," says a trade publication of the home building industry.

"In practically every home built before World War II, wiring is more than inadequate; it's obsolete," says a business magazine examining the "appliance boom that has led to a crisis."

The electrical load in the average home has increased 100 per cent since before the war, according to the power companies. But wiring has not kept pace.

If you doubt that all this is taking money out of your pocket, consider these examples complied by electrical engineers of the National Adequate Wiring Bureau:

1. A toaster plugged into a wiring system which has a voltage drop of 10 per cent—common in a majority of homes—takes 31.5 per cent more time to brown a piece of toast and consumes 28.6 per cent more current than when plugged into an adequately wired circuit.

2. An electric roaster takes 28 per cent more time to reach its required cooking temperature and wastes 19 per cent of the current.

3. A lamp loses 34 per cent of its brilliance where there is a voltage drop of 10 per cent on your house circuit.

What can be done about it? H. H. Watson, engineer in the construction materials division of the General Electric Co., sums it up this way:

"Existing inadequately wired homes should be rewired and new homes must be wired to adequate standards if the homemaker and her family are to enjoy the benefits of full electric living."

The cost of wiring a house amounts to about as much as painting a house. And an efficient wiring system lasts a lot longer than any paint job. Also, it costs far less to wire a house properly during construction than after a house is finished.

"In Los Angeles," reports a home magazine, "most home buyers find they cannot use an electric stove without first paying $94 for an electric outlet."

Home builders, the Federal Housing Administration, the Veterans Administration and local electrical codes have been blamed for the new houses with old-style wiring. In New York's vast Long Island suburban field, where more than 4,000 new homes have been sold in one week, only 60-ampere panel boards have been installed even in fairly large all-electric homes.

"No house should have less than a 100-ampere panel board," comments the publication, adding, "extra cost: $5."

"With so many more room coolers, electric blankets and other new appliances, all circuits (not just kitchen circuits) should be three-wire."

"With so many more room coolers, electric blankets and other new appliances, all circuits (not just kitchen circuits) should be three-wire."

An interesting sidelight on placing blame for overloads on house wiring was provided recently by a business weekly. A woman whose well-equipped home included all of the 56 common appliances, plugged in an electric coffeemaker while most of the other gadgets were working, and a fuse blew out. Whole fault was that? Should she blame the manufacturer of the coffeemaker, or the power company for inferior electricity? "As a public relations gesture," said the magazine, "the power company may send a service man around to change the fuse—although in most instances it's not the company's responsibility. Last year Consolidated Edison Co. of New York answered more than 200,000 calls on blown fuses at a cost of about one million dollars." Are such expenditures passed on in your power bills? Figure it out.

Should Put Wax on Vinyl Floors

Test Shows It Protects, Improves and Maintains the Gloss

The question of whether vinyl plastic floors should be waxed is of great importance to home owners and home builders who already are using this remarkably durable material or are planning to install it.

This type of flooring has become very popular in the past two years but there are conflicting claims as to how it should be maintained. Most manufacturers say their products should be waxed but some claim the opposite.

To help settle the issue, the Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Association asked one of the country's leading testing laboratories, Foster D. Snell, Inc. of New York, to conduct a two-part study of wax and vinyl plastic floors.

The results of the study—the first based on laboratory tests, the second on actual floor service tests—emphasized that vinyl flooring should be waxed for a great improvement in appearance, cleanliness and protection.

The latest Snell report, given Dec. 7 before the chemical group's annual meeting in Washington, stressed that the waxing of vinyl plastic floor tiles will:

(1) provide a great improvement in gloss; (2) aid in maintaining gloss; (3) help to preserve and protect the tile surface; and (4) reduce soiling and soil embedment in use.

"In failing to wax the vinyl tile floor," the report said, "the owner will fail to avail himself of a means of improving the appearance of his floor beyond its appearance when new and he will be neglecting a means of helping to protect and preserve the tile surface against scratching."

Control Humidity to Avoid Damage

Automatic humidifiers installed in heating plants or unvented gas-burning water heaters can create high humidity in your home.

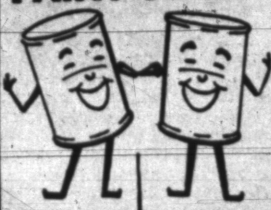

This may reveal itself by "sweating out" on cold water pipes or causing walls to mildew. Water may enter your basement through the floor from poorly drained soil.

The constant use of laundry equipment is another source of moisture vapor.

To avoid the costly damage that may result from too much moisture in your home, it's highly important to have adequate ventilation and humidity control.

Former Basic Wood, Pine, Now Used in Decorations

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

Pine began as the wood that was most often chosen for basic furnishings, because it was close at hand in most countries and is easy to work.

Today pine takes a special place that no other wood has. It makes accent pieces, conversation pieces, both accessories and furniture, that are as much decoration for a home as they are furnishings. Many are small, some are majestic breakfronts.

Pine has been and sometimes still is painted or used as a base for veneer for economy reasons. In the 18th Century much pine was painted, and when, after many years, the paint wore off, an interesting white patina was left on the wood. This was the original pickled pine, which became widely imitated.

But furniture and accessories in pine escaped the too-heavy finishes; over-decoration and contrived styling that has pushed items in other woods into disrepute. Pine has gone along all this time revealing the natural beauty of the wood, and in styling that is—excepting the breakfront—simple and light-scaled. Does this sound familiar? We hear today about the new importance of natural materials, particularly the revealing of wood grains about simple styling and lightness for furniture.

We now appreciate one trait of pine that was once overlooked. Knotty pine was originally used only for furniture that was to be painted—unpainted furniture was always knot-free.

When the old furniture lost its paint, the knots showed, so when reproductions of the old pieces were made much later, they had knots that were plain to see. Thus with the reproductions came the first interest in knotty pine. Now of course, knotty pine is the favorite for its decorative effect.

Nearly everything that is made for the home in pine is beautiful in design and in the natural mellowness of the wood. And decorative accessories are found in pine that are seldom made of anything else—wall shelves and hanging consoles, cabinets of tiny drawers and mirror cabinets, wall curio cabinets, candle brackets. And there are delightful decorating ideas in the many handsome pine base lamps and picture frames, entrance hall groupings of mirror and drawer shelves, and small decorative tables.

Among the items sketched is an unusual and wonderfully useful low table chest in pine. All have a handsome antique finish, and are often decorated with brass hardware—even the plant bracket has a little brass pull like those on the miniature chest at upper right. The table top pattern is a printed chintz which is set onto the wood and given a translucent furniture finish.

Make Snapshot Album at Home

Masonite Leatherwood Is One of Materials for Handy Book

A durable, convenient snapshot album may be made in the home workshop at negligible cost. It may be any size, but because the filler covers come in standard dimensions, the covers should conform to one of these sizes.

Besides the paper the materials needed are: A panel of Masonite Leatherwood, a hardboard one-eighth inch thick and having an embossed surface resembling Spanish grain leather; two binder posts and some binding tape, obtainable at a stationery store.

Saw the panel to form the back and front covers of the size desired. Then cut a one-inch-wide strip of the Leatherwood from the front cover. Round all corners slightly and bevel the embossed edges with a file or sandblock. Into the narrow strip of hardboard and the back cover drill holes to coincide with the holes in the paper. One binder post will be used at each end of the strip to hold the covers and paper together.

The strip and the cover are fastened together with the binding tape. In doing this, sand the Leatherwood lightly at the points of contact and apply any good quality glue to the hardboard. Leave a small gap adjacent to the joint.

The album may be left in its natural dark brown color, or painted. For an unusual, tone-on-tone effect, apply a sealer, following with a color that is permitted to dry. Finally, apply a contrasting color, promptly wiping it off.

Convactor Heaters Fit in Bathroom

Special convactor heating units have been designed expressly for installation in bathrooms where space is at a premium.

In some cases the units are the wall-hung type which fits on the wall, out of the way, beneath any average lavatory fixture.

Small floor-standing units also are made for this purpose.

Provide Ventilation

If you dry clothes indoors, be sure ample ventilation is provided in the drying area to carry outdoors the moisture given off by the clothes. If the moisture is allowed to stay indoors, serious damage to furniture, such as warping, can result.

This is the consensus of top industry and government experts as the nation winds up the third best housing year in history with all signs pointing to near-record output in 1954.

Most housing economists are looking for a slight decline in output in the new year but many believe the extent of the drop will depend on the industry's effort to step up its own sales campaigns.

Another major factor will be the lower outlines soon in a message to Congress. The chief executive is expected to map a program based on a minimum construction rate of one million dwellings a year.

In 1953, the housing industry turned out about 1,100,000 new homes, as compared with the 1,127,000 started in 1952 and the record-breaking 1,396,000 registered in 1950.

Some economists believe output in the new year will drop about 50,000 units to a level just above the one million mark.

But there are other estimates varying from the 950,000 dwellings predicted by the National Savings and Loan League to the 1,100,000 forecast by the National Association of Home Builders.

The saving league says it expects slight declines in the cost of construction materials and warns that "increasing competition among builders may cut profit margins," meaning lower prices.

For these reasons, the league says the potential home buyer this year will find the market "more attractive" and will get to house automobiles—but how about screens, storm windows, flowerpots, garden implements and other seasonal items that "clutter" the garage area? Why didn't builders assign room for them?

In reality, they did! Almost every garage has ample overhead storage space, and it's a simple task to convert this waste space for extra storage needs. You can do it yourself with hammer, saw, level and some basic building materials. Cost for the entire project should run less than $50.

To take advantage of this potential "storage center," you should floor in the area, prepare an access to it and, if desired, provide illumination. Procedures necessary to develop this are simple...

The flooring for your loft is the first item to consider... $20 worth of ship lap should enable you to deck a large area in the loft. Apply diagonally to add strength to the garage.

Check the roof for any protruding nails—clip them, or burnish them into the wood. Do likewise for splinters.

Access to this new storage center is not the problem you may believe it is. Of course a permanent stairway cannot be used because of space requirements—a stepladder offers some advantages, but it's a little shaky to mount with heavy storm windows and is frequently not handy. An effective solution is a disappearing ladder. When not in use, it folds entirely within the loft and is easily retracted with a dowel operating rod. The unit will fit any floor-to-floor height up to 9'2" and is rigid and strong enough to support a very heavy load.

FIRST OF NEW DEVELOPMENT—A new housing development at Ypsilanti and Sheffield is being handled by the Ray O'Neil Realty of Pontiac. Twenty houses are now completed with the ultimate development to be 85 in number. Four-room homes with bath, they have utility rooms and feature oil heat. Plastered walls are used throughout with full oak floors. Exterior siding is asbestos. Built on lots that measure 40 by 120 feet, the living area of the houses gives 720 square feet. Now open for inspection, the houses have been constructed by Vashbinder, Incorporated, of Pontiac. This area is located near Baldwin.

Predict 1954 Home Values to Be Greatest in Decade

WASHINGTON (INS)—Home builders will produce about one million new houses and apartments in 1954, a year in which the industry is expected to offer the best housing values in more than a decade.

This is the consensus of top industry and government experts as the nation winds up the third best housing year in history with all signs pointing to near-record output in 1954.

The saving league says it expects slight declines in the cost of construction materials and warns that "increasing competition among builders may cut profit margins," meaning lower prices.

For these reasons, the league says the potential home buyer this year will find the market "more attractive" and will get to house automobiles—but how about screens, storm windows, flowerpots, garden implements and other seasonal items that "clutter" the garage area? Why didn't builders assign room for them?

In reality, they did! Almost every garage has ample overhead storage space, and it's a simple task to convert this waste space for extra storage needs. You can do it yourself with hammer, saw, level and some basic building materials. Cost for the entire project should run less than $50.

To take advantage of this potential "storage center," you should floor in the area, prepare an access to it and, if desired, provide illumination. Procedures necessary to develop this are simple...

The flooring for your loft is the first item to consider... $20 worth of ship lap should enable you to deck a large area in the loft. Apply diagonally to add strength to the garage.

Check the roof for any protruding nails—clip them, or burnish them into the wood. Do likewise for splinters.

Access to this new storage center is not the problem you may believe it is. Of course a permanent stairway cannot be used because of space requirements—a stepladder offers some advantages, but it's a little shaky to mount with heavy storm windows and is frequently not handy. An effective solution is a disappearing ladder. When not in use, it folds entirely within the loft and is easily retracted with a dowel operating rod. The unit will fit any floor-to-floor height up to 9'2" and is rigid and strong enough to support a very heavy load.

WASHINGTON (INS)—Home builders will produce about one million new houses and apartments in 1954, a year in which the industry is expected to offer the best housing values in more than a decade.

This is the consensus of top industry and government experts as the nation winds up the third best housing year in history with all signs pointing to near-record output in 1954.

Most housing economists are looking for a slight decline in output in the new year but many believe the extent of the drop will depend on the industry's effort to step up its own sales campaigns.

Another major factor will be the lower outlines soon in a message to Congress. The chief executive is expected to map a program based on a minimum construction rate of one million dwellings a year.

In 1953, the housing industry turned out about 1,100,000 new homes, as compared with the 1,127,000 started in 1952 and the record-breaking 1,396,000 registered in 1950.

Some economists believe output in the new year will drop about 50,000 units to a level just above the one million mark.

But there are other estimates varying from the 950,000 dwellings predicted by the National Savings and Loan League to the 1,100,000 forecast by the National Association of Home Builders.

The saving league says it expects slight declines in the cost of construction materials and warns that "increasing competition among builders may cut profit margins," meaning lower prices.

Yule Lights Make Valentine Decoration

Those tree lights can help make your party table pretty as a Valentine this February 14. An appropriate lighted centerpiece can be fashioned quickly from a heart-shaped cake pan and a string of Christmas tree bulbs.

Make eight holes around the inside of the pan and insert the sockets of a series string of lights. Make only seven holes if you have multiple lights—(the kind that continue to burn even after one burns out).

Now, place red bulbs in the sockets and fill with frills of white flame-proof crepe paper. Edge with "lace," also made from crepe paper. (Fold paper and cut small squares, circles and diamonds on the folds. Lacy pattern will appear as paper is unfolded.)

Use electrical tape to hold wires firmly to bottom of pan and to line edges of holes.

Modern Brass Bed

High fashion news is the modern brass bed which combines brass with plexiglass and leather. Headboard is made of horizontal brass tubing in hexagon design and vertical rods of clear plexiglass which light up at the flick of an electric switch. The base of the headboard is covered with squares of plexiglass.

Hospital Ejects Paralyzed Vets

2 Veterans Turned Out Were AWOL From Another Institution

MEMPHIS (U)—Two veterans, both paralyzed from the waist down, have been ejected from a veterans hospital here and must shift for themselves for 90 days.

Dr. Hugh Frather, Kennedy Veterans Hospital manager, said the paraplegic vets were turned out yesterday because they left the veterans hospital in Cleveland, Ohio, earlier this week without permission.

The 90-day exile from veterans hospitals is the regulation punishment for such action, he said, although the men may visit the hospital for treatment and will be re-admitted should they become emergency cases.

Charles Somerville, 21, Point Pleasant, W. Va., and John Mershon, 23, Otway, Ohio, said they "went AWOL" to come here because they were dissatisfied with the treatment at the Cleveland hospital.

Somerville served in the Navy. Mershon spent 14 months in Korea while in the Army. Both were injured in auto accidents in the United States while still in service.

They entered Kennedy last Tuesday as "boarders" and were sent packing when Kennedy officials were notified they had broken regulations.

City Hospital refused to admit them, since they were not emergency cases. They entered a nursing home and planned to spend their exile as "out-patients" at Kennedy.

"Frankly," said Somerville, "we didn't know there would be this much trouble about it."

Rifle, Shells Stolen From Local Hardware

A .30 caliber carbine and about 12 boxes of assorted shells were stolen from the Keego Hardware Co., 822 Baldwin Ave., Thursday night, according to Pontiac Police.

Owner of the company, Galen L. Dawson, of 38 Augusta St., told police that several hunting knives were taken. Police said the thieves entered the building by breaking a lock on the rear door.

Balance Sheet for Week

French Avert New Crisis, Politics Blow Up in Italy

By PHIL NEWSON

United Press Foreign News Editor
The week's balance sheet between the good and bad news in the hot and cold wars:

The Good
1. The Soviet government announced it is ready to begin atomic talks with the United States in Washington. Early meetings will be procedural only, to set up time, place and schedule for brass-tacks talks to come later.

The Soviet announcement was a further reply to President Eisenhower's Dec. 8 call for a world pool of fissionable materials and know-how to develop atomic energy for agriculture and medicine and other peaceful uses.

2. French Premier Joseph Laniel won a vote of confidence in the French Assembly which at least temporarily averted a new French political crisis and will continue Laniel's "caretaker" government through the scheduled Jan. 25 meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers in Berlin.

The French position in Berlin will be weak but she is reported hoping at least to be able to play a moderating role between the United States and Russia. The French vote put off any foreign policy debate until after the big-Four meeting.

3. The Communists still bitterly opposed the Jan. 23 release of some 25,000 Korean war prisoners. However, the United Nations Command was equally firm in its insistence that the prisoners shall be released, and the Indian caretakers of the prisoners seemed reluctantly swinging to the UN side.

In New Delhi, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru still favored turning the question back to the United Nations General Assembly, but apparently was of the opinion that India could do nothing about it, if the U. N. Command insisted on turning the prisoners free.

The Bad
1. A long-smoldering Italian political crisis suddenly exploded to the surface with the resignation of Premier Giuseppe Pella whose government had depended on cooperation with the right-wing Monarchists.

A revolt within his own Christian Democratic party a strong faction of which favors cooperation with left-wing Socialists, led this week to Pella's downfall.

With crises both at home and abroad, Italy stood a good chance of taking France's place as the sick man of Europe.

2. The unpredictable South Koreans brought on themselves this week the sharpest rebuke yet issued to them by an American commander. Gen. Maxwell Taylor answered Korean threats to upset the war prisoner program with the announcement that he would turn his Eighth Army against any South Korean troops who might attempt to release the prisoners by force.

It was unfortunate that Taylor had to make his public announcement but there were many who felt it was overdue.

3. Indian opposition to any military pact between its neighbor Pakistan and the United States mounted during the week, both because India fears Pakistan ambitions and because it fears such a pact would have a serious effect on South Asian neutrality between East and West.

India is believed working quietly behind the scenes to set up a neutral bloc and this week was joined by powerful opinion in Ceylon.

Record Low Rate in Injury-Frequency

Injury-frequency rates for manufacturing remained at a record low during 1953 as compared to figures for the previous year.

According to reports compiled by the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics an average of 14.1 work injuries occurred per million man-hours worked during the second quarter of 1953. This was four per cent lower than the corresponding period for 1952.

The average of 14 per cent for the first six months of 1953 was 4 per cent below the corresponding rate for 1952 and equaled the previous low recorded in 1950.
