100 Red Planes Raid Islands

Launch Biggest Attack on Vital Taipeh Outpost

300 Bombs Dropped on Tachens in 100 Sorties; 2 Craft Shot Down

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — One hundred Chinese Communist warplanes bombed the strategic Tachen Islands today in the Reds' biggest air raid against Chinese Nationalist territory and the Defense Ministry said two of the Russian-built aircraft were shot down.

The Ministry said more than 300 bombs were dropped by the raiders—38 LA11 fighter-bombers and 24 TU2 light bombers escorted by four MIG swept-wing jet fighters. Most of the bombs fell into the sea, the Ministry added.

In addition to two planes shot down, the Ministry said two others were heavily damaged by anti-aircraft fire from the islands, 200 miles north of Formosa.

The Reds flew more than 100 sorties, with the first attacks coming in four waves. The Ministry made no mention of Nationalist fighter opposition.

A considerable number of civilian casualties was reported. The Ministry said more than 10 houses were destroyed.

The Tachens were first raided by the Chinese Communist air force Nov. 1. Less than 20 planes took part in that attack and about 40 bombs were reported dropped. That was the Red's first air raid against Nationalist territory.

Today's attack fulfilled expectations in Taipeh that the Chinese Reds would keep alive the "vest pocket" war and possibly expand it in 1955.

The raid might or might not be one of a series intended to soften the Tachens for Red invasion, or it might have been planned to test possible American reaction.

American policy has been to keep the Reds guessing whether the U.S. 7th fleet, committed by treaty to defend Formosa and the Pescadores, will interevne if the Reds pose any major threat to the island outposts the Nationalists hold off the Red China coast.

The official Central News Agency quoted a Nationalist military spokesman, not named, as saying the Communists had been carrying on exercises lately that suggested the probability of an offensive. "It is quite apparent," he said, "that the Communists are preparing for an invasion of the Tachens."

Make Progress for Overpass

Woodward, Eight Mile Project 15 Per Cent Complete to Date

Work on the Woodward Ave.-Eight Mile Rd. overpass is more than 15 per cent complete, the Michigan State Highway Dept. said in a report to the Oakland County Citizens League.

The $3,386,000 project is on schedule, and the Woodward overpass is expected to be ready for use by June 15. Work began last Sept. 2.

The entire grade separation is expected to be opened for use by December of this year, the spokesmen said.

Work on the project is being performed in stages during which traffic is carried on temporary roads which are shifted as work progresses, the report states.

Much of the work to date is below ground. The relocation of a 54-inch water main and a 72-inch sewer on Eight Mile plus relocation of other sewer and water mains, had to be accomplished before the main operations could begin.

Decision to construct the separation was made after traffic counts revealed as many as 65,000 vehicles passed the site daily.

Shackled Sheppard Sees His Mother Buried Today

CLEVELAND (AP) — Proud, handsome Mrs. Ethel Sheppard, who died by her own hand, will be buried today.

Near her bier, shackled to two deputies, will stand her youngest son, Dr. Samuel Sheppard, once-prosperous Bay Village osteopath sentenced to life imprisonment after conviction as a wife slayer.

Only 15 persons—the rites are private—will gather under cloudy winter skies at Sunset Memorial Park, after service from a Lakewood funeral home, to bury the mother of three osteopaths and wife of another.

Her husband Dr. Richard A. Sheppard could not attend the service. Seriously ill with pluerisy and shocked at his wife's suicide, he is confined at the Bay View Osteopathic Hospital he heads.

Mrs. Sheppard put a snub-nosed .38-caliber pistol to her head Friday after leaving a note that said, "I can't manage alone without father."

The eldest of the Sheppard brothers, Dr. Richard N. Sheppard, said his 64-year-old mother was despondent as a result of her youngest son's second-degree murder conviction Dec. 21.

Richard Sheppard called her a "proud woman" and said "she believed in Dr. Sam as the rest of us do. She was too burdened."

Ailing in later years, and the victim of a stroke during the trial, she never visited her jailed son, but spoke to him often by telephone and sent him religious literature.

Directors of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce today elected Ralph T. Norvell president for the ensuing year. He succeeds Milo J. Cross. Other officers named are Dr. George M. Petroff and Howard O. Powers, vice presidents; Irving Steinman, secretary; and H. Wayne Gabert, treasurer. New officers will be installed at the annual banquet Jan. 25.

Diaper Shortage Threatens Return Flight With Baby

The Navy transport plane aboard which the lieutenant and Roni Marie, the 17-month-old Greek orphan baby girl he and his wife adopted are passengers, was forced by bad weather to make an unscheduled landing at Port Lyautey, North Africa.

Officials at the Patuxent Naval Air Base said the plane, which is racing against time due to Donahoe's fast-dwindling supply of diapers, is expected to reach the Maryland field "sometime after midnight."

The lieutenant's wife, Mrs. Helen Manos Donahoe, is waiting at her sister's home in Brooklyn, where Roni Marie will be welcomed to America with a party.

Donahoe, who is stationed at Corpus Christi, Texas, set out for Greece after his sister-in-law, Mrs. Grace Carayiannis, learned from friends that a baby was available for adoption there.

Arranging a 30-day leave, he hitch-hiked to Greece by air and arranged the adoption without trouble. But he was faced with a dwindling supply of time and diapers.

Donahoe solved the time problem by getting a 10-day extension of his leave. He met the diaper problem, temporarily, by buying a huge stock of disposable diapers.

When he left Naples yesterday, however, the lieutenant was not certain that he could beat the supply-and-demand problem before his reunion with Mrs. Donahoe.

Hammarskjold, Chou End Talks With Statement

Express Hope to Keep Contact; Omit Mention of Imprisoned Airmen

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and Premier Chou En-lai ended their Peiping conferences today with an expressed hope "to continue contact." Their communique made no mention of the fate of the 11 U. S. airmen imprisoned in Red China.

"We feel that these talks have been useful and we hope to be able to continue the contact established in these meetings," they said.

The U.N. secretary general had been assigned by the U.N. General Assembly to seek release of the fliers and other U.N. personnel held in China. He flew to Peiping and had talked an aggregate of 13½ hours with Chou. Today's fourth and final meeting took up an hour 15 minutes.

A joint communique from the U.N. chief and the Chinese Communist leader was released simultaneously at U.N. headquarters here and in Peiping. The full text:

"As a result of the suggestion for a personal discussion made by the secretary general of the U.N. in his cable of 10 December 1954 and the cable of welcome sent by the premier of the state council and foreign minister of the People's Republic of China on 17 December 1954, we had talks in Peking (Peiping) on 6, 7, 8 and 10 January 1955.

"In these talks reference was made at the same time to questions pertinent to the relaxation of world tension.

"We feel that the talks have been useful and we hope to be able to continue the contact established in these meetings."

The communique was cabled to U.N. headquarters here by Per Lind, assistant to the secretary general and one of his party of six in the Chinese capital.

Hammarskjold plans to leave Peiping tomorrow at 7 a.m., presumably by Chinese aircraft for Hong Kong. From there he will fly to Tokyo and on to San Francisco.

McCarthy Trip Delays Inquiry

Cancels Peress Probe Before Leaving Capital Unexpectedly

WASHINGTON (AP)—An unexpected trip by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has put off at least until Wednesday—and probably until Democrats take control of the subcommittee he has headed—any further investigation of Irving Peress' discharge from the Army.

McCarthy had called a special meeting of the Senate investigations subcommittee for this morning saying he would demand further testimony from Army officials about who was responsible for the promotion to major and honorable discharge of Peress, a New York dentist he has called a Fifth Amendment Communist.

But he left Washington last night saying nothing about where or why he was going. He told an associate he was leaving town unexpectedly and would be back probably on Wednesday.

Senate sources have indicated that new committee lists for the Democratic-controlled Congress probably will be completed by Tuesday or Wednesday. When that happens, and the Senate approves them, Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) will take over McCarthy's position as subcommittee chairman.

Before the specially called meeting was postponed, McClellan has told newsmen he hoped to attend it, but might be prevented by two appointments previously made. He said that if he were unable to be present, it

Predict Light Snow Tonight, Tomorrow

Pontiac will get light snow and snow flurries tonight and tomorrow but there will be little change in temperature, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Mostly cloudy skies with low tonight of 26 to 30 and high tomorrow of 31 to 35 is the outlook for this area. Tuesday night the mercury will hit a low of 24 to 28, with little change expected for Wednesday.

Saturday in downtown Pontiac temperatures ranged from 26 to 42 with Sunday's reading from 32 to 36.

Today at 8 a.m. the thermometer registered 30 degrees, and hit that point again at 2 p.m.

All Escape Safe in Plane Crash

Calm Stewardess Gets Passengers Out as Ship Flops, Burns on Takeoff

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—A National Air Lines plane bound for Miami crashed and burned on takeoff here today. A stewardess calmly shepherded the 10 passengers off the plane and no one was hurt.

Airline officials described the stewardess, Sarah Reeves of Dania, Fla., as the "heroine" of the crash. She opened the cabin door and calmed the passengers as they stepped from the plane.

The twin-engine Lockheed Lodestar was taking off from Pinellas International Airport for Sarasota, Fort Myers and West Palm Beach before reaching Miami.

When nearing the end of the runway, the plane's landing gear apparently collapsed and the wing scraped ground. The right engine then caught fire and flames spread to the rest of the plane.

There was no panic among the passengers, who lost all their personal belongings carried as luggage.

The plane was piloted by Capt. Marshal Hope, 46, Miami. The co-pilot was George Graham, 26, Hastings-On-Hudson, N. Y. Both are based at Miami.

Tony Rizzo, 46, Buffalo, N.Y.
Jesse Thompson, 53, St. Petersburg.
Dr. John Vernon Adlin, 58, Palm Beach, Fla.
Mrs. Helen Sullivan, 53, Tarrytown, N.Y.
Joe Cohan, 57, Wooster, Ohio.
Joe Follette, 56, Palm Beach.
E. F. Smith, 33, Sarasota, Fla.
Forrest W. Chapman Jr., 25, Sarasota.
Donald Flannen, 35, New York, N.Y.
Mrs. A. T. Fox, Akron, Ohio.

Puzzled Scribe Gets Offer From Car-Assembly Expert

In the Pontiac Press one day recently, United Press Washington correspondent Harmon W. Nichols told of his difficulty in constructing plastic models of old-time autos.

Eddie Johnson, 12, of 593 Raskob St., read the story and being an expert at constructing the miniatures, wrote Nichols that there was really nothing to it.

Said Eddie: "I read your story in the newspaper and I think you could put them together.

"I am a boy 12 and I've put such cars together as the 1904 Rambler, 1911 Rolls Royce, 1904 Oldsmobile, 1910 Pierce Arrow, 1907 Renault limousine, 1910 Studebaker, 1915 Electric, several Model T Fords, the Stanley Steamer, a 1910 Cadillac limousine, 1913 Mercedes Torpedo, 1908 Buick, the Queen Elizabeth royal coach."

Eddie told Nichols his latest creations are models of the 1955 Allard, the 1955 Jaguar and the new M. G.

"There are a lot more models," the young craftsman said. "And I'm going to get them all, including that one of the 1903 Cadillac, the 1903 Ford, and a lot more."

Eddie said if Nichols would pick up the pieces he would be glad to put them together for him. "I can handle the job," he assured the writer.

Detroit Man, Soldier Released by Reds Now in Berlin Hospital

BERLIN (UP)—Two Americans released Saturday after spending six to 10 years in Russian prisons were questioned today by U. S. intelligence officers.

Officials believe John H. Noble, 31, of Detroit, and Pvt. William T. Marchuk, 38, of Brackenridge, Pa., may be able to supply new details of Russia's arctic slave labor camps and of other Americans held there.

The two men were questioned at an Army hospital, where they are undergoing comprehensive physical examinations.

Noble will leave the hospital as soon as his physical examination is completed — perhaps

GOP Protectionist Bloc Only Barrier Expected Before Approval

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower asked Congress today for power to reduce tariffs to strengthen the free world's economic bulwarks against the threat of Communist aggression.

Eisenhower renewed his request of last year for a three-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act with authority to cut tariffs as much as 15 per cent.

His recommendations, outlined in a special message to Capitol Hill, are expected to touch off the first major hassle of the new Congress, where battle lines already are drawn over the tariff issue.

Strongest opposition to the President's plan comes from the protectionist bloc of the Republican party, which succeeded in postponing the overhauling of the tariff act during the last session of Congress.

Most Democrats are expected to support the President's tariff proposal, which carries forward the reciprocal trade program launched by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In his message, Eisenhower also asked for new legislation giving special tax advantages to American firms investing abroad to stimulate the flow of private capital to other free world nations.

He proposed that business income from foreign investments be taxed at a rate 14 per cent lower than the corporate rate on domestic income.

The special message, the first of seven the President will send to Congress this month following up his State of the Union address, also recommended customs simplification and continuation of this country's technical assistance programs.

The President asked Congress to approve U. S. membership in the proposed International Finance Corporation, which would increase private investment in underdeveloped countries through loan activities.

The message dealt with the general field of foreign economic policy, with the accent on the foreign trade program. The foreign aid recommendations will be outlined in the budget.

Such a program, he said, "can add immeasurably to the security and well-being of the United States and the rest of the free world."

The President said that greater economic strength among the free nations will both lessen the threat of Communist aggression and help

7 Die on Roads Over Weekend

Below-Average Death Toll on State Highways Recorded Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New Year's second weekend, like the first, brought death to fewer than usual on Michigan's highways and streets.

Seven were counted dead in traffic from 6 p.m. Friday to Sunday midnight. A week ago in the same period only four were killed similarly. By comparison, 18 died in Christmas weekend traffic and weekend tolls of 15 or more were common in 1954.

Decimo Arcangeli, of Swan Creek Township, was killed Saturday near his Saginaw County home when his car and another collided on Swann Creek road, a mile west of its junction with M-47. Three were hurt in the smashup.

Raymond L. Salois, 38, and Alex Orsette, 56, both of Dearborn, were killed Sunday when Salois' car collided with a Chesapeake and Ohio train in Romulus Township, near Detroit. A second passenger in the car, Charles E. Munyon, 64, of Inkster, was taken in critical condition to Wayne County General Hospital.

Mrs. Dolores L. Smith, 29, of Fenton was killed Saturday night

What's Doing in Washington This Week:

Harmony Between Ike and Congress Faces Acid Test on Legislative Requests

WASHINGTON (INS)—The harmony which President Eisenhower has said he hopes will mark his relations with the Democratic-controlled Congress faces a series of tests this week.

Ike starts bombarding the lawmakers with special messages spelling out his legislative proposals, some of which are certain to create controversy.

It should soon be evident whether partisan reaction will mean merely normal explosions of political oratory or the "paralyzing indecision" which, the President said in his State of the Union message, has occurred in the past when governmental responsibility was divided as it now is.

In one of the few blunt statements he made to Congress last week, the chief executive declared that the division of power "places both parties on trial before the American people."

Thus the solons are on the spot. But some legislators argue that the two major parties are always on trial, anyway, and those who oppose Ike's plans won't hesitate to say so.

The President sent to Capitol Hill today his specific recommendations for legislation to implement his foreign trade policy.

He wants a number of tariff barriers lowered. This is opposed by some senators and congressmen who are convinced that high tariffs are necessary to protect home-grown businesses.

Last year, Ike asked a three-year extension of a liberalized reciprocal trade agreements act, but the best he could get from the GOP-controlled 83rd Congress was a one-year retention.

Tomorrow, the President presents his program for a pay boost for federal workers. Ike will couple his proposal to raise the pay of postal employes with a plan to increase mail rates.

Last year, Congress voted a general pay hike for government employes, but declined to up postal rates, and the President vetoed the measure.

There is general agreement that Uncle Sam's hired hands deserve more pay, and the chances are that they'll get it, but that mail-rate problem is something else again.

On Thursday, Ike unveils the armed forces reserve program which is geared to a sharp reduction in the number of military personnel on active duty.

The administration wants a limited type of universal military training for young Americans. A bill, backed by the American Legion and calling for a somewhat more rigid UMT plan, already has been introduced in the Senate and the House.

The measure's sponsors include the two Georgia Democrats who head the Senate and House Armed Services committees, Sen. Richard B. Russell and Rep. Carl Vinson. They are expected to subject the President's proposals to the severest scrutiny.

Plans will shape up this week for public hearings into the causes and effects of the recent high-flying state of the stock market and the acute declines experienced last week after the Federal Reserve Board hoisted margin requirements from 50 per cent to 60 per cent. The market rallied strongly after a two-day slip.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) will handle the upcoming probe. He says his aim is to acquaint the public with the "forces" responsible for the climb of stock prices to their highest levels in 25 years, and to make sure that there is no danger of a disastrous collapse.

Ike and his fiscal experts will be busy as beavers this week putting the finishing touches on the budget, which goes to Congress next Monday.

The spending program laid on the line a year ago totaled about 67.6 billion dollars and it is expected to be about three billion dollars lower this time.

But even with cutbacks in defense spending and other economies, such items as federal pay increases, highway construction, health and housing programs and welfare projects make the cost of government a very formidable thing, as the President is expected to point out.

Two Die as Car Crashes Freight

22 Children Fatherless After Crossing Accident in Romulus Township

ROMULUS TOWNSHIP — (INS) —Two construction workers, one the father of 13 children, the other of 9, were killed instantly yesterday when their car struck a freight train in Romulus Township.

A third man was in critical condition in Wayne County General Hospital with multiple fractures of the skull, chest and legs. He is Charles Munyon, 64, of Inkster.

Killed instantly when the auto struck the locomotive of a Chesapeake & Ohio freight were Raymond Salois, 39, of Dearborn, the driver, and Alex Orsette, 56, of Dearborn Township.

The men were hurled from the car after it struck the side of the locomotive, which was traveling about 25 miles per hour.

The engineer, Wendall Kramer of Toledo, told State Police he sounded the train whistle before moving into the crossing.

Kramer said he did not see the car, but heard a crash and saw the auto pass by the engine.

Salois, a plumber whose small business recently went bankrupt, had gone to Romulus Township with his two friends to inspect the possible site of a new but smaller home.

Salois was the father of nine children, six boys and three girls.

Orsette was the father of seven girls and six boys, including two sets of twins.

McCarthy Calls Off Peress Investigation

would not be because of any intention of boycotting the session.

McCarthy's announcement of the closed committee session came as a quick follow-up to the release of a new 10,000-word Army report on its handling of Peress.

At his request, Peress was honorably discharged last Feb. 2—ahead of the March 31 deadline originally set by the Army—after he had appeared before McCarthy's subcommittee and refused to answer questions about Communist affiliations.

In a letter to the Army last Feb. 1, the day before Peress' discharge, McCarthy had requested that court-martial proceedings be brought against him.

The report released by the Army Friday night said the decision to let Peress receive his honorable discharge Feb. 2 was made by Lt. Gen. Walter L. Weible, deputy chief of staff for administration, and Army counselor John G. Adams after they discussed McCarthy's letter.

The Army said Weible and Adams decided there was no evidence "to support the inference contained in Sen. McCarthy's letter as to possible subversive activities by Peress at Camp Kilmer" and no basis for reconsidering the case.

Consequently they concluded, the report said, to support earlier staff recommendations to give Peress a discharge as the best and quickest way to get him out of the service.

In calling for a meeting of the investigations subcommittee, McCarthy said he would ask that subpoenas be issued for Secretary of the Army Stevens, Adams, Weible and Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, the commander at Camp Kilmer, N. J., when Peress received his discharge there. Zwicker is now in the Far East.

Invasion Feared by Costa Rica

Council of Republics Meets as Nicaragua Scoffs at Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Organization of American States called an emergency meeting today to hear Costa Rica's complaint that its neighbor, Nicaragua, is planning to invade Costa Rica.

Nicaragua in times past has ridiculed such charges by Costa Rica and today a spokesman at the Nicaraguan embassy said:

A session which had been called for yesterday was postponed because of the absence from Washington of Nicaragua's ambassador Guillermo Sevilla Sacasa.

President Figueres and President Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua have been hurling accusations at each other for months. Each charged the other with responsibility for an assassination attempt on Somoza last April, and an attempt to overthrow the government of Costa Rica in July. Both attempts failed.

Costa Rica's appeal to the OAS included a charge that seven military transport planes of the Venezuelan air force arrived in Managua, Nicaragua, last Friday. Nicaragua reported the planes were manned by air force cadets on a good will and training mission, and returned to Venezuela the next day.

Convicted Killer Seeking Retrial

Robert Hearn's Petition Claims 8 Court Errors in Sentencing Here

A petition has been filed in Oakland County Circuit Court for a retrial of a 19-year-old Detroiter convicted with three others of the March 21, 1952 slaying of a Ferndale gas station attendant.

The retrial is sought for Robert Hearn, 19. Hearn was convicted by a jury and sentenced to life in Jackson State Prison with Frank O. Baker, 25, Basil Dupuis, 24, and Peter Imbimbo, 25, according to Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor.

Detroit attorney Edward N. Barnard is seeking the retrial claiming the court erred on eight points while instructing the jury, said Taylor.

The four were found guilty of stabbing to death Alfred Jones, 27, during a night of alleged wild drinking and marijuana smoking. Hearn was tabbed as the actual knife wielder.

The trial, which generated widespread interest, lasted ten days, said Taylor. "It was one of the few instances in U. S. judicial history where more than three persons were convicted of first degree murder in the same slaying," he stated.

Judge Frank L. Doty, who presided over the original trial, will rule on the retrial petition, Taylor added.

Army Quizzing Pair Released by Reds

Wednesday. Marchuk also will be discharged then unless the Army files court martial charges against him.

The soldier-prisoner has been officially listed as "absent without leave" since he disappeared here Feb. 11, 1949. Army authorities want to know whether he was kidnaped by the Russians or seized by them in Soviet-held territory after voluntarily crossing the Iron Curtain border.

Noble and his father were seized by the Russians in the German city of Dresden in the last days of World War II. The elder Noble, who was released some time ago, operated a camera shop in Dresden.

In Detroit, Noble's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Noble, his brother, George T. Noble, his sister-in-law and his two nephews, talked to the former prisoner by transatlantic telephone yesterday.

"We spent only a few minutes —maybe three or four—talking to him and none of us had time to say much more than 'hello.'" Noble's 62-year-old father said. "But it brought him much closer to home for us."

Noble told his parents he couldn't be sure how soon he would be able to return to the United States.

"He told us he didn't know when he would be able to come home and said that would depend on the authorities who are questioning him," his father said. "But we hope it will be just a matter of days."

Starts 1st Test of Commie Law

U. S. Prosecuting Red on the Grounds of Party Membership

CHICAGO (UP) — Communist leader Claude Lightfoot went on trial today in the U. S. government's first court attempt to prove that mere membership in the Communist Party is a crime.

The trial of the 44-year-old executive secretary of the Illinois Communist Party was the first court test of a Smith Act clause which makes it a crime "to become a member of, or affiliate with" any group which teaches, advocates or encourages the violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

Lightfoot was also the first Red leader to face trial alone.

The 81 persons previously convicted under the Smith Act were tried for conspiracy to organize groups working for the government's overthrow—not for merely being a member of such a group.

If convicted, Lightfoot could be sentenced to 10 years in prison and a maximum fine of $10,000.

Such a conviction could also set the stage for the arrest and imprisonment of thousands of other American Communists.

The trial before Federal district Judge Phillip L. Sullivan is expected to last six to eight weeks. U. S. attorneys said. It began today with selection of the jurors.

Whatever the decision here, the issue of whether membership in the Communist Party is a crime was expected to end up before the U. S. Supreme Court.

Floor-Space Ratio Plan Up for Hearing Tonight

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — Probably the biggest piece of business confronting the City Commission at tonight's meeting is a public hearing to once again consider adoption of an off-street parking ordinance which would require new and expanding businesses to provide such facilities on a floor space ratio basis.

A verbal report is expected on plans calling for moving Shain Park one block south of its present location and using the present park as a parking area.

Some discussion will center on Municipal Parking Lot No. 1, now a reality, and plans will be taken up for improving the Worth street right-of-way.

Woman Writer to Speak Here

Lecture Series Fans Will Hear Columnist Tuesday Evening

A woman who has gained renown as a reporter and commentator, Dorothy Thompson will speak on "The Crisis of the West," Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Kiwanis lecture series at Pontiac High School.

The widely-traveled Miss Thompson makes an annual journey to Europe and the Middle East. Her reputation as a political commentator is based on long years of observation of the international scene.

Her syndicated columns have appeared since 1937 and her interpretative articles have been a monthly feature of the Ladies' Home Journal for nearly as long.

Miss Thompson, in her lecture, graphically describes the factors that have led to the shrinkage of Western power since the end of World War I. Although she concludes that the West is unlikely ever to recover the almost complete monopoly of world power that it held prior to World War I, she has faith in the survival and even renaissance of the West, if it holds to its own deepest traditions and experience.

U. S. Said Pressing for Freedom of GI

WASHINGTON — UP — Diplomatic officials said today that the United States will continue to press for the freedom of Pvt. William A. Verdine, 28, of Starks, La., who was reported arrested by the Russians in 1949 and held in jail ever since.

The State Department also is giving some consideration to a request that Moscow be contacted about the detention of Mrs. Erika Glaser Wallach, wife of an American citizen, in a Siberian prison camp.

Verdine is being held in the same Russian prison camp where two other Americans, freed Saturday by the Soviets, were held. They are John H. Noble, 31, of Detroit, and Pvt. William T. Marchuk, 38, of Brackenridge, Pa.

The State Department is reluctant to take any swift action in Mrs. Wallach's case. Although she is married to an American citizen, she is regarded as "stateless." Her husband, Robert Wallach, and their two children are living in the Washington area while waiting hopefully for her to be freed.

Shotgun Pellets Mar Prophet's Custom Cadillac

DETROIT (INS)—A shiny, custom-built Cadillac belonging to Prophet Jones was peppered with shotgun pellets early today while the prophet was delivering a sermon at all-night services in his church.

The prophet, who calls himself the Rt. Rev. Dr. James F. Jones, had left his Cadillac in a no parking zone just outside the church. At approximately 4:35 a.m. shotgun blasts sprayed both doors on the driver's side.

Being held by police for investigation of malicious destruction of property is 28-year-old James W. Halsey. A witness said Halsey fired the blast in anger because the prophet's followers had taken all available parking places outside the apartment building where Halsey lives.

The prophet, dressed in a $12,900 mink coat, said:

"Police at Petoskey Station gave me special permission to park outside the side door to my church and even put up no parking signs so no one else could park there. You see, I can't walk very far in my heavy robes and the police were just being cooperative."

Police at Petoskey precinct denied giving the prophet permission to park in the no parking zone. However, they said it was against police policy to ticket cars owned by persons attending church services.

The shotgun pellets did little more than deface Jones' coat of arms and chip paint from surrounding areas on the doors of the cream and tan Cadillac.

Asks Congress to OK Tariff-Cutting Power

insure increasing standards of living in this country.

The recommended program would give the President authority to reduce tariffs on selected commodities by five per cent a year during the three-year period.

It also would permit reduction of any tariff rates now greater than 50 per cent to that level.

Eisenhower also proposed an increase in the present duty-free purchase allowance for American tourists traveling abroad from the present $500 to $1,000. He noted that travel abroad by Americans is an important source of dollars for many countries.

He said he will ask Congress for funds to continue the international trade fair program.

The trade program will be considered first by the House, where only some noisy sniping appeared to be in the way of approval.

In the vanguard of the group supporting the foreign trade proposals — which were withdrawn by the administration last year in favor of a single-year extension of current laws—were nearly all House Democrats and most Republicans.

Sources on the Ways and Means Committee, which will receive the legislative proposals, said hearings would probably start on Jan. 17 —next Monday — and would take only two or three weeks.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex), has promised that the trade program will be the first major legislative item to be considered.

Ways and Means Committee Chairman Jere Cooper (D-Tenn) introduced legislation embodying the President's previous proposals on the first day of Congress last week, and they were given the designation of House Bill No. One.

Cooper's bill would extend for three years the President's power to lower U. S. tariffs on foreign-produced items in exchange for other nations' lowering barriers on this country's goods. This authority expires next June.

In addition it would give the President power to lower tariffs that already are down to the limit allowed by present law.

For most imported goods, this authority would be limited to an additional five per cent reduction during each of the three years beginning July 1, 1955.

Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-NY), ranking GOP member on the Ways and Means group and leader of the protective tariff group, is not expected to fight the proposals, except to speak in opposition to them during debate.

Another leader in the protective tariff group, Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa), is considering introduction of alternative measures that would restrict, rather than promote, trade with nations abroad. However, he said no final decision has been made.

Main opposition to the President's program comes from mining and certain specialized industries which face heavy competition from similar industries abroad who do business in the U. S.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

IRONING THE CLOTHES

1. With water colors or crayons, color her clothes and those on ironing board, and basket as you wish.

2. Paste the picture on this cardboard. Cut out the three parts. Cut through the dotted line on Sally's right sleeve. Punch a hole through the dark circle on the apron strap and through the circle on the separate arm. Slip the arm through the sleeve slit as far as the dotted line. Hold the two together with a small brass paper fastener. Paste the tab on the end of the clothes rack behind the right edge of the picture near the wall plug. Fold this back, and fold back the clothes basket end along the dotted line.

3. Help Sally iron the clothes by moving the end of the arm handle from behind.

Bob Considine Says:

Suicide of Mrs. Sheppard New Chapter in Tragedy

NEW YORK (INS)—The suicide of Dr. Sam Sheppard's mother adds a melancholy chapter to what already was a saga of tragedy. One has the depressing conviction that this is not the end of the story.

During the testimony-taking side of the trial it became obvious, though never in print, that tension had developed between the closely-knit sons in the family on the one hand, and their father on the other

The father of the defendant became conspicuous by his absence from the courthouse. He was not called to join the list of much more casual acquaintances who appeared as Dr. Sam's character witnesses. The sons never called him "Dad" or "Pop." Just "Dr. Sheppard senior."

The distracted mother's suicide note, stating that she could not go on without the father, who had entered the family hospital with a pleurisy attack, could very well have been induced by her own sickness. Or by the decision of her son's lawyers not to seek a new trial on the basis of new evidence, which the lawyers firmly claimed last week.

Whatever, the suicide operates violently against the son's chances in his expected appeal to a higher court for a reversal on grounds already pretty well thrashed out by defense attorney Bill Corrigan. This is assuming, of course, that Sam himself didn't completely cool off his chances of a reversal by stating—over the head of his defense staff—that his wife might have been murdered by a woman.

For months, the muscular, athletic doctor had based his whole defense on the proposition that the murder was a powerful bushy-haired man who twice knocked him cold. Then, to Corrigan's horror, he said "Woman."

As I wrote during the trial, I keep thinking about that little boy Chip. Twice now he has been in homes marked by terrifying violence.

Where will it end.

There will be only a modest amount of pilot training, indeed, flying in general, at the U.S. Air Force Academy when it opens, it was pointed out by Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott and Lt. Gen. H. R. Harmon, the superintendent. They spoke in an easy-going seminar at Columbia University the other day.

The academy will train air generals, not second lieutenants with a specialized knack for steering flying machines, Gen. Harmon said. The long range and rounded view. It will be a four year college course leading to a baccalaureate degree, with as much air training as can be squeezed in. Graduates will be eligible for navigators' and observers' wings. The pilots will get their training later at places like Randolph Air Force Base.

For the first couple of years the limited number of air cadets will be skimmed off the upper cream competitive examination lists. After that, it will be by congressional and other appointment—a la West Point and Annapolis. Hazing of freshmen will be replaced by "a stern but civil" relationship with the youngsters.

Every other big institution of learning in this country just growed, like Topsy U. The Air Force Academy will commence at a point where it took some others a century to reach. Ivy, in effect, will be imported to the 15,000-acre tract near Colorado Springs. Patriotism, integrity, leadership, loyalty—these will be stressed at the academy, not how to steer.

The discussion about the breath-taking future of the Air Force, with intercontinental guided missiles and such, was delayed half an hour by an event that pulled everyone back to the mundane present and the primitive past. Secretary Talbott had broken a tooth on his breakfast toast.

from Arthritis or Rheumatism in hands, arms, neck, back, legs

A famous medical authority, one of the nation's leading research specialists, holds out new hope for sufferers from all types of muscular aches and pains in hands, arms, neck, back, legs, feet.

This new approach is so sound, so logical that it is bound to appeal to you as the one safe, sure way to obtain pain relief leading to a better, more enjoyable, more active and more comfortable life.

Hope lies in doing the following things: Relieving the muscular aches and pains, because pain acts in a vicious cycle. It prolongs the spasm of the muscles around the joints and this spasm causes the sufferer to refrain from movement of the joint. This voluntary immobilization may cause the muscle to atrophy or waste away. Result is this vicious cycle. The joint may be on its way to deformity. Relieve the pain to break the vicious cycle and you take a very important step.

First . . . to break the vicious cycle of muscular pain a safe, harmless, fast-acting medication is indicated. This effective medication is contained in PRUVO Tablets.

Yes, it is a fact that tens of thousands of sufferers have found their best answer in PRUVO — quickest, longest lasting, non-narcotic relief — at a low cost made possible by wide-spread use and demand for PRUVO Tablets. Think of it — for only $1.50 you can get the trial size PRUVO — and the famous PRUVO guarantee of pain relief or your money back from Pruvo Pharmacal Co., if you are not satisfied after you have used one-half of your first trial-size bottle.

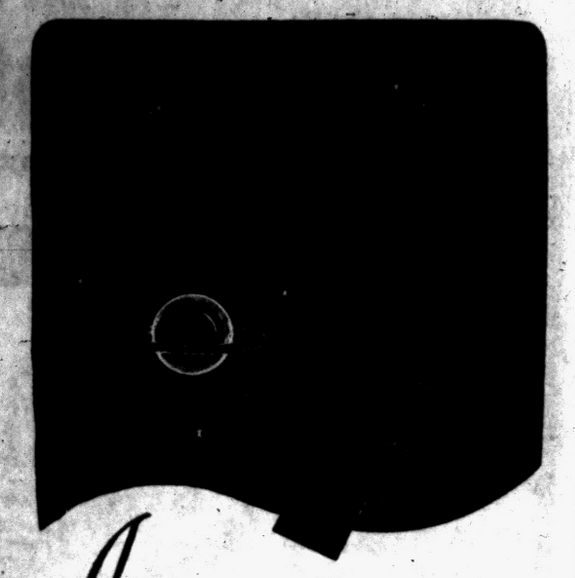

Get genuine PRUVO today from your druggist — start on the road back by first getting relief from pain. And then be sure to work with nature to insure the best ultimate results. As pain is relieved, become gently active at first — easily, comfortably. Stimulate circulation by action. When you realize that with PRUVO you move about with more comfort — your biggest worry is past — and just forget other worries — concentrate on living a more normal life — you help break the bonds of pain while taking PRUVO.

Then a well-balanced diet — avoid overweight or underweight—secure plenty of rest—avoid worry. That is the scientifically developed, newest therapy — using safe medication to obtain relief from pain when it occurs, and nature's laws to give you a new, more comfortable, more active and healthful life.

The most reliable drug stores feature PRUVO Tablets — no prescription needed. They can supply you with the $1.50 trial size, also the Economy Home size, $4.00, and the Hospital-Clinic size, $7.50.

Get PRUVO Today — for fastest, longest lasting arthritic and rheumatic pain relief you have ever known. Follow this newest program that promises a better future for the victim of arthritic and rheumatic pain.

April 15 Deadline on Tax Ruins a Delightful Month

By MARGARET LATROBE

I have plunged headlong into the post-holiday melancholia. New Year resolutions carefully made and filed away for next year. Letters written to Santa Claus about a slight mix-up. I mean, he is busy, but how can you confuse a white mink scarf with milk white yarn — and a pair of knitting needles to go with it?

Normally, January, February and through the Ides of March are reserved for worrying about the income tax. Will the collectors take a kindly view of the deduction for the church bazaar contribution of one large casserole of okra—or won't they? Things like that.

This year the Bureau of Internal Revenue is sending out striped mail which some say will separate the glossy income earners from the ribbon clerks. Stripes do not upset me at all. In my bracket, just the plain punch card will do fine.

But for any interested neighbors, I hope Aunt Martha will write us soon on the nice yellow-banded stationery we sent her. I am told the yellowish stripes denote important discussions with the Tax Bureau.

The reason for my excessive depression is that Uncle Sam has lengthened the worry period from March 15 clear up to April 15, and of all the inconsiderate acts this gets the loving cup! April is for showers, umbrellas, and recuperating from what used to happen in March.

April is for wondering if the field mice ate up every single tulip bulb before it had its chance to live and bloom in the warm Spring sunlight. April is for painting garden tools so they can be identified after the children have scattered them up the block. April is for letting out hems on last year's summer dresses, and deciding that the baby isn't a baby any more.

April is the month of hoping the ivy and the chrysanthemums weren't winter-killed. Of wondering if next month is going to be the good dogwood year—or was it last year?

It's a warm, friendly month which is supposed to make the heart cry out with gladness that snow suits and galoshes are of the past, that halter necks and bikini bathing suits are just ahead.

So what happens? The government has just got us used to the confusion of changing Thanksgiving, changing the time of day for summer and winter. And now changing even the tax-time, yet.

Well, spring will be a little late this year, I reckon. And so will the installments, April or whenever.

Alarm System OK, Watchman Finds Out

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Francis R. Applegate, owner of a sporting goods store, had an intercommunication system rigged up as a burglar alarm, and it worked—partly.

His father-in-law C. R. Perry, 72, lives in an apartment over the store. At 3 a.m. yesterday he was awakened by voices coming over the intercom. He went downstairs, looked in the store but didn't see anyone and went back to bed.

In the morning Applegate discovered $1,657 worth of shotguns and rifles missing and a 400-pound safe lying in the back yard. The thieves had rolled the safe out the back door and left it there.

Last Steam Locomotive Gone From Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The age of steam has ended for the nation's third largest railroad terminal.

A diesel locomotive yesterday replaced the old steam engine on the Union Pacific's City of Salina, a local train operating between Kansas City and Salina, Kan. It was the last steam-propelled train on all railroads using the Kansas City terminal.

Faces Second Kidnap Hearing

Woman Charged With Abduction in '53 Found With Missing Boy

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A carnival dancer who was arrested in 1953 for the abduction of two children today faces arraignment on a federal charge in the kidnaping of a third child.

Mrs. Barbara Lee Collins, 27, was arrested by the FBI at a suburban trailer park Saturday night. With her was Dexel Waymond Brock, 3½, who had been missing from his Live Oak, Fla., home for nearly two months.

* * *

Mrs. Collins, also known as Barbara Lee Grimm, was scheduled to be arraigned before a U.S. Commissioner today on a kidnaping charge.

The Brock boy was taken to the county's juvenile hall to be cared for. Officials said he appeared to be in good health, although suffering with a cold.

Asked about the abduction of the Brock boy and the two children she took in 1953, Mrs. Collins said: "I thought I could take care of the children better than the parents themselves."

* * *

The boy found here Saturday is the son by a former marriage of Mrs. Selden Gill, of Live Oak, Fla. Mrs. Gill said yesterday that she isn't "exactly mad" at the carnival dancer but is anxious for the return of her son.

On Oct. 13, 1953, Mrs. Collins was sentenced in New York City to one year imprisonment for the abduction five months before of two children from their Washington, D.C., home. At that time she told authorities she had met Clifton Bradford in a Washington bar and that he had taken her to his home to baby-sit with his children, Clifton Jr., 2, and Diane, 1. Later she was found with the children in New York.

The FBI said Mrs. Collins has a husband, John L. Collins, who lives in San Diego, Calif., and that she visited him there New Year's Eve.

Orphans Arrive in U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Five little war orphans — children of American fathers and Japanese mothers —arrived yesterday on their way to foster homes. Three boys and two girls, 6 to 8, were greeted by new families and friends — and newsreel, television and newspaper cameramen. They were the first to arrive from Japan under the Refugee Act of 1953.

Zionist Leader Raps Arab Arms Shipping

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—An official of the Zionist Organization of America accuses the U.S. State Department of "heedlessly tossing a lighted match into the powder keg of the Middle East" by allowing arms shipments to Arab nations.

Rabbi I. Usher Kirshblum, national vice president and membership chairman of ZOA, told a district meeting yesterday:

"The security of the state of Israel has been threatened by the shipment of arms to the Arab states in spite of the latter's publicly announced intention of launching a second round of warfare against the young Israel republic."

Congressional Committees

Despite pre-session caucuses, it may be several days or even weeks before all members have been appointed to the various standing committees of Congress.

As a matter of practice, each House automatically accepts the committee lists submitted by the two parties. Senate committee posts for Democrats are assigned by the majority party's steering committee. That committee is named by the floor leader elected by the caucus, in this case, Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Senate Republican assignments are made by a GOP committee on committees. This committee is appointed by the chairman of the Republican conference, Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, successor to Homer Ferguson, as chairman of the GOP Policy Committee. Sen. Knowland remains Republican floor leader.

House Democrats in the party caucus, first elect the Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee. These in turn assign other Democrats to the House committees.

House Republican committee assignments are made by a conference committee on committees. This is made up of one member from each state having at least one Republican Representative. Each member of the committee, chosen by his state delegation, has as many votes in the committee as his state has Republican Representatives.

In the Senate no change was expected in the formula used by the last Congress. This provided that the majority party would have one more seat on committees than the minority party. There was talk in the House that the Democrats would seek a wider margin, but so far nothing has come of it.

U.S. Limits Reds' Travel

There's more than mere diplomatic retaliation in our State Department's order declaring parts of 41 states off limits for Russian nationals.

Altogether about 1,000 counties, 20 of them in Michigan (including Oakland) are off limits. These comprise about 27 per cent of our total land area. Actually this order expands previous restrictions imposed on Russians.

It is also a belated retaliation for much more severe restrictions Russia imposes on our diplomatic representatives and other foreigners. These have the effect of closing some 30 per cent of the USSR land area involving 75 per cent of its inhabited regions.

Though this action runs counter to our national traditions, there have been no serious complaints about it. Some even have asked why the entire country isn't ruled off limits to Reds, while a few have questioned its effectiveness.

Perhaps one reason is our Government's serious effort to persuade the Kremlin to relax the humiliating restrictions in force against Americans.

In fact the order specifically offers to reconsider our own security requirements and abolish restrictions if the Russians do likewise. We can't see anything wrong about showing the Kremlin we won't take these diplomatic slaps lying down.

"Coeducation is now forbidden in Spain."—Press report. Spain must want to grow a large crop of old maids.

Why Not Stop All of It?

A writer to our Voice of the People column has asked a pertinent question which deserves an official answer.

Noting that Postmaster General Summerfield has ordered junk mail service in towns and cities stopped March 31, the writer, Rural Route Victim, asks why all of it isn't stopped now.

This question no doubt is based on the fact that simplified address mail has been going to rural routes and boxholders since 1934 and is to be continued. If this latest experiment has increased the postal deficit as reported, it is reasonable to believe the boxholder and rural route service also is being provided at a loss.

Though this point wasn't raised by the letter, there is the question of whether junk mail doesn't clog the postal service to an extent that impairs the department's efficiency.

Early in the period marked by the flood tide of protest against this nuisance, it was reported that in the first year 363,700,000 pieces of such mail was handled.

Also, a test conducted in Milwaukee showed that an air mail letter was five days en route from New York to a Milwaukee post office box. A magazine, handled as second class matter, took 15 days for the same trip.

Like the writer of that letter, we can't see why families on rural mail routes and boxholders aren't entitled to the same relief our Postmaster General has promised city and town folk.

Oakland County Park Has Largest 1954 Attendance

Psychiatrist: He who finds many people are crazy about something, too many about themselves.

Again an Oakland County park has topped the attendance records among 60 odd inland state parks in Michigan. It is Cass Lake, with a total 1954 attendance of 1,063,975. The only state parks to exceed it were Holland, with 1,261,000, and Grand Haven, with 1,232,000, both located on Great Lakes waters. According to

Manager Paul H. Rearick,

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

I know, O Lord, that thy judgments are right, and that thou in faithfulness hast afflicted me.—Psalms 119:75.

High School Diploma Worth $10,000 in Greater Earnings During Lifetime

Harry is like biblical Esau who sold out his future for an immediate attraction. Don't be so short-sighted. A high school diploma is worth at least $10,000 in greater earnings the rest of your life so be sure you graduate. And get at least one year of college, for it will be worth another $10,000 to you in higher pay checks.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, wages are high right now and I have a chance to get a good job," he informed me.

"Why, I can make $50 a week just to start with. So I figure it is smart to quit school and get all this dough while I can.

"But my mother wants me to graduate. However, I can buy her a lot of nice things which she deserves by taking this job.

"So what would you advise? She insisted I get your opinion."

There is a popular remark concerning the British which was circulated widely during the last war. It ran:

"England may lose a lot of battles during the early part of a war, but she always wins the last battle."

While that wasn't true in our American Revolution, it is a fairly accurate description of England.

And you young people should likewise look far ahead to that last battle. A high school diploma helps you win it.

So don't be unduly tempted by big money today, for what is large now should not look so big to you 20 years hence, unless you drop out of school and never advance any further in your earning power.

Alas, figures show that over half of our high schoolers are dropping out before they get their diploma!

That is one of our greatest tragedies in America. For the tax payers are offering you teenagers free education through high school.

Later, if you go on to college, you will be forced to pay an average of $3 per day just as an admission or "ticket" charge to get into classrooms where you listen to the professors lecture.

Suppose your high school teachers met you at the door each school day and demanded: "You must pay us $3 admission charge each day."

Many of you would be shocked, for you fail to realize that college tuition of $600 per year nowadays breaks down to $3 per school day.

And you aren't asked to pay a single penny of that admission charge all throughout high school, so please be Scotch enough to get your money's worth!

Don't quit high school till you graduate. And even then, please go on to college or take night courses in your local university till you have at least a semester or more of college.

And here's why: When you apply for a job, you may be one of 100 who want work when maybe only 10 jobs are open.

How do you suppose the personnel directors of modern factories, stores and other great businesses weed out the 90 from those 100 applicants in trying to select the 10 best qualified.

"How many of you are high school graduates?" is the first quick method.

If 35 are not graduates, they are politely told: "Sorry, we haven't anything available for you now but we'll keep your names on record and if anything opens up later on, we'll contact you."

They will never contact you! That's polite run-around or deft way of ushering you out.

And of the 65 who may have high school diplomas, the next question asked is this: "How many of you are college men or women?"

They don't demand 4-years of college but they want to know how many had enough ambition and I. Q. to carry even a semester or two of college.

If 30 of the 65 can truthfully claim some college, then they are given special aptitude and achievements tests, plus personal interviews, until the 10 best applicants are obtained.

So send for my "Vocational Guidance Kit," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus a dime. And get your diploma, just as "job insurance."

David Lawrence Says:

Army Report on Peress Clears Sen. McCarthy

WASHINGTON — "Better late than never" may still be a wise maxim for the guidance of those in government who try to cover up their mistakes and then find themselves confronted after all with the necessity of making a clean breast of their errors—but in public controversies it is better to come clean at the outset.

Thus the office of Secretary of the Army in making public a comprehensive report of exactly how the case of Maj. Peress, alleged Communist who got an "honorable discharge," was handled clears up many a mystery and at the same time unwittingly vindicates Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin.

For the Wisconsin senator had insisted that the information sought by the Senate subcommittee on governmental operations was not "classified" and did not involve "security" but concerned the administrative failures of an executive agency which are a proper subject for inquiry by Congress.

It turns out now—as the new report reveals—that the derogatory information about Maj. Peress was known inside the Pentagon at least a year before the McCarthy committee took up the issue. It develops also that Gen. Zwicker knew all the facts and evidently the Wisconsin senator knew that he knew them.

Hence the refusal of Gen. Zwicker to testify frankly before the Senate subcommittee appears now to have been either because he was ordered to cover up for his superiors or because he was gagged by his superiors who knew that if he told all the facts it would corroborate Sen. McCarthy's line of inquiry.

If Joe McCarthy had not yielded to his exasperation that day to make a denunciatory comment about Gen. Zwicker—or, if he had later withdrawn it but insisted that there was a cover-up for which the general was not to blame—the Wisconsin senator would have been on sounder ground. For the facts he sought so desperately were bound to justify his side—if he could have been patient.

Likewise if the Department of the Army had told all the facts last January that it now tells the public there would have been no "McCarthy-Army" row as the headlines called it nor any sensational hearings on the television which cost the Eisenhower Administration so many votes in various election contests last autumn.

Sen. McCarthy's idea all along was that it was better for a Republican senator to expose weaknesses in a Republican administration than to let the Democrats have a field day—which is what may happen now.

For the Democrats are still resentful that they lost votes in the 1952 election because of the charge that they had been "soft" on Communists in government and now the Democrats will point to the handling of the Peress case as an example of how careless, if not "soft," the Eisenhower Administration has been in handling a Communist issue.

What is most difficult to understand is why somebody in the "red tape" list of 61 officers in the Army—now disclosed to have had some part in handling the Peress case—didn't raise cain when he saw a notation on the application of Dr. Peress declaring that he refused to answer questions about membership in subversive organizations.

The new Army report shows that on April 28, 1953, Lt. Col. Ronald F. Thomas, chief of the counterintelligence division, reported that there was adverse data on Peress and a letter about it was sent to the surgeon general of the Army and to the chief of the intelligence division of the Army general staff.

This letter said that there was "sufficient evidence of disloyal and subversive tendencies to warrant removal of Peress from the service." It took several months for that letter to be acted upon and the delay is, of course, indefensible. Even when Gen. Zwicker on Oct. 21, 1953, wrote to the commander of the 1st Army that the retention of Dr. Peress was "clearly not consistent with the interest of national security" nothing was done for several months. Sen. McCarthy got into the fray in January, 1954, and demanded that Maj. Peress be court-martialed and his "honorable discharge" held up.

It now is revealed that a decision to ignore the Senate committee's request and give an "honorable discharge" to Maj. Peress was made by John G. Adams, counsellor of the Army, and Lt. Gen. Walter L. Weible, deputy chief of staff for operations and administration. This was an action "contemptuous" of the Senate.

It is perhaps the most flagrant case of disregard of a legislative committee by an executive official that has been recorded in a long time. One wonders what the Senate will do now to "vindicate its honor"—for it is plain that one of its committees was given the "runaround."

Chilblain Actually 1st Degree Frostbite, Reddens Skin, but Doesn't Destroy It

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Chilblain is first degree frostbite, comparable with first degree burn, which means a burn that reddens the skin and causes some irritation but does not destroy the skin or other tissues, or raise blisters.

A reader says the more he dressed for warmth the more he suffered from chilblains, so he began wearing perforated shoes (whatever that means) and light weight overshoes, which kept his feet just as warm but eliminated excessive sweating.

While he can't go out in cold weather and stand around and keep warm in summer footwear his feet no longer get cold when he is walking and he hasn't had chilblains now for a number of years.

Dampness, from sweating, is the chief factor of chilblains. Dampness from getting the feet wet in slush or water has the same effect. Dampness in the foot coverings impairs insulation, makes the foot coverings better heat conductors so the feet get cold enough to become swollen and inflamed (blain).

A great many misguided people make the same mistake the reader made—They wear excessive foot covering, just as they wear too much clothing in the winter because it is winter, not because they need it for comfort. Don't cluck at me, you old mollycoddle—but never mind now, I'll tell you more about that another day.

If you have cold feet, and especially if you are subject to chilblain you should wear loose, coarsely or loosely knitted wool or anyway such stocking feet: thick cork insoles; and shoes a half size or a full size larger than you have been wearing to permit movement of the toes.

Avoid tight socks, shoes or garters around the leg.

Several times a day lie on the back with legs lifted to vertical and ride an imaginary bicycle upside down for a minute.

If feet are damp in the middle of the day, change to dry footwear.

To control excessive sweating of the feet treat the shoes with a formaldehyde bath once in two weeks—that is, pour into each shoe enough formaldehyde solution to wet the entire insole, and immediately pour the solution from the first shoe into the second for the same treatment, and so on till you have treated all of your shoes except the shoes you must wear today or tomorrow.

After the bath set the shoes to dry for 48 hours or more, preferably out in the sunlight.

To prepare the formaldehyde solution for this purpose put about a fluidounce (2 tablespoonfuls) of standard 37½ per cent Liquor Formaldehyde, U. S. P. (strong stuff, keep it off your hands) in a half pint (8 oz.) bottle and fill the bottle up with water.

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Nab Camp Cook in Kidnap Try

Boy, 16, Makes Escape, Tells Police After Being Held Overnight

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — State police nabbed a former summer camp worker in a hotel room yesterday on a charge of kidnaping a 16-year-old Yonkers, N.Y., boy in hope of collecting $100,000 ransom.

The arrest of Anthony Staikos, 31, of Matawan Township, followed an intensive hunt by police after the youth, Joel Robert Katz, broke his bonds and fled.

Authorities said Staikos signed a statement admitting he kidnaped the youth Friday evening.

* * *

Staikos, handsome and well dressed, was quoted as saying that "God has forsaken me for the past 31 years." He was scheduled for arraignment today under the New Jersey kidnap law.

Monmouth County Prosecutor J. Victor Carton said last night the FBI has stepped out of the case and that no federal charges would be filed against Staikos.

A top penalty of 30 years to life in prison is provided under the state law in cases of kidnaping where no ransom is involved. Carton said a convicted kidnaper may be sentenced to death if ransom is asked, unless a jury recommends life.

* * *

Young Katz, who was not hurt during his overnight captivity in Matawan Township, is the son of a realtor of average means. one at Staikos' order demanding $100,000 ransome and the other to reassure his parents.

After the boy escaped, Staikos tore up the notes and threw the pieces out of his car, Carton said. The prosecutor said Staikos made two telephone calls Friday night to the boy's parents Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Katz but didn't demand any money.

Says Detroit Offers All More Opportunity

DETROIT (UP) — There are greater opportunities for economic advancement among all races in Detroit than in any other large city in the nation, Circuit Judge George Edwards said yesterday.

Edwards was the principal speaker at the annual installation of officers of the Detroit branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He said Detroit has made "significant gains" in race relations in the areas of education, voting, housing and economic opportunity.

However, he said there was increasing racial tension among the Motor City's teenagers and widespread discrimination in places of "public accommodation."

Edward M. Turner was installed as new president of the branch.

Asks Legislature Probe of Aeronautics Board

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Sen. Perry W. Greene (R-Grand Rapids) says he will ask the State Legislature to investigate the Michigan Aeronautics Commission.

Greene said yesterday that the commission is "politically minded." He said the commission, as it now exists, should be abolished.

Greene's statement followed a controversy that broke out over the commission's recommendation that $100,000 be cut from the originally proposed $190,000 federal allocation to the Grand Rapids airport.

Visiting Pastors Address Inter-Church Fellowship

First Congregational Church was host Sunday evening to the first Inter-Church Fellowship meeting of the year. A representative group from the five cooperating churches filled the sanctuary for the two services.

The Rev. Herbert C. Wolfe from College Lutheran Church in East Lansing gave the first of five lectures on "How to Read the Bible." This service at 5:45 was followed by a social period and refreshments served by the women of the church.

Guest speaker at the evening worship was Dr. Everett K. Seymour of St. Mark Methodist Church in Detroit. His topic was "Practicing the Presence."

"He who would save his life must lose it," (Matt. 16:25) was his text.

"The world today is crying for people who will practice the presence that faith may be renewed," he said.

"If you are willing to be counted, set your compass toward the Christian way of living and live that life regardless.

"Those who do see life as a whole and are not too concerned with small happenings. Many today have lost their faith and feel that nobody cares," he said.

"In fact," he observed, "sometimes it seems that there is a planned conspiracy against the Christian way of life. Those who plan to follow this life must not look in one direction and move in another."

Participating in the service were Dr. William H. Marbach of First Presbyterian Church, Dr. Milton H. Bank of Central Methodist Church, the Revs. C. George Widdifield of All Saints Episcopal Church, George Garver of Ascension Lutheran Church and Malcolm K. Burton of the host church.

Next Sunday the service will be held in the Ascension Lutheran Church on Williams Street with Dr. Harold Paul Sloane of Drayton Avenue Presbyterian Church of Ferndale as guest speaker.

Mixed Blessing in Texas Snow

Moisture Helps Cattle, Crops; Gives Pneumonia to Deer in Hills

BIG SPRING, Tex. (AP)—The best snows of the new year spread cheer among Texas cattlemen today but in the colorful "hill country" drought-weakened deer were taking it hard.

Snow ranging up to 8 inches in this west Texas area closed a number of schools today, covered highways with a treacherous ice film, but laid a welcome blanket of moisture over crop and range land.

In east and south Texas, also plagued by long drought, rain fell.

At Centerville in east Texas, W. F. Davidson, 31, crashed to his death in a light plane after taking off into rainy skies against the advice of airport authorities.

"Half the deer in this hill country won't survive this weather," declared Mark Moss, who ranches thousands of acres south of Llano. "The cattle can stand it. I've been importing feed, keeping the cattle in good shape. I've tried to feed som of the deer too.

"But most of the deer are out in the hills with nothing to eat. This cold, wet weather gives them pneumonia when they are weak."

In the cotton, wheat and sheep country of west Texas, the snow held out the promise of some winter grass. It also was expected to help put the soil in shape for sprin planting—if more moisture comes.

Explosion at Plymouth Claims 3rd Victim's Life

Two other plant employes were injured fatally in the accident.

Retrial Sought for Local Youth

Statement Reportedly Clears Robert Smith of April 20 Holdup

A retrial is being sought for an imprisoned Pontiac youth on the strength of a signed statement from another prison inmate convicted of the same crime.

Aubrey Smith, of 1420 S. Hospital Rd., asserts the statement exonerates his son, Robert K., 19, who was sentenced last June 21 to ten to 20 years in Jackson State Prison for robbery armed.

The elder Smith said he has obtained a confession from Lee Bates, 20, formerly of 80 Omar St., in which Bates purportedly admitted wrongly accusing three other men and giving false testimony against them.

According to Smith, Bates stated three others took no part in robbing the Walton Dairy Bar, at 228 W. Walton Blvd., last April 20. Besides Robert Smith, they are Arthur Hewitt, 19, formerly of 1654 Giddings Rd. and Richard Parks, 17, formerly of 22 McNeil St. Parks received five to 10 years imprisonment and Hewitt, 10 to 20.

On the night of the robbery, Bates says in the statement he signed after going to prison, he borrowed a car from Robert Smith and Parks, then picked up four other men.

They held up the dairy bar and told Bates to implicate three others, the statement asserts.

"My wrong accusations and false testimony was due to fear as to what might happen to my family if I should not follow a prearranged plan and accuse the aforementioned men," the statement says.

The older Smith stated he would engage an attorney and ask a new trial for his son in Oakland County Circuit Court.

5 Detroiters Hurt in 2-Car Crash

One of the passengers, Mrs. Fanny Warren, 59, of 2220 Antwine, is reported in satisfactory condition today at Pontiac General Hospital with forehead and facial cuts and bruises.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Thomas McOwin, 45, of 1358 Alfred, which turned into the path of an auto driven by Leslie Gibson, 27, of 21301 Telegraph Rd., according to Michigan State Police of the Pontiac Post.

McOwin was treated for face and knee cuts and bruises and his mother, Clara, 66, suffered head cuts. Gibson received head cuts and bruises, and Mrs. Luerinzer Walton, 43, of 1741 Anglin, a passenger with McOlin, was treated for shoulder injury.

Bishop Oxnam Suggests Probe of Investigators

ANN ARBOR (UP)—Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam said last night the nation was so "fed up" with congressional investigations that the only kind of probe it might welcome would be "an investigation of the investigating committees."

The Washington Methodist, who spoke at the First Methodist Church here, referred specifically to House Un-American Activities Committee members.

"They seek to undermine the agencies of religion and the institutions of education," he said. "The committee seeks to be above its own rules and even the dead may be brought into disrepute. The committee is inexcusable. It is un-American."

Strike Vote Ok'd by Pontiac Local

Workers Give Union Go-Ahead for Walkout Ballot in Plant

Members of Pontiac Motor Local 653 (UAW-CIO) yesterday authorized a strike vote if necessary to settle alleged speed-up and other grievances.

Local President Charles S. Curry said an overflow crowd of 700 members gathered at the union hall to authorize the executive board and shop committee to call a walkout ballot.

"We have already notified the company that unless speed-ups stop and they would bargain in good faith that we will take this step," Curry said.

"Our hope and desire is that we can settle the grievances without a walkout. We are going to exert every effort to settle the issues without even taking a strike vote."

Fisher Body Local 596 three weeks ago took similar action. In a strike vote last Thursday the membership by a 93 per cent margin authorized a walkout 35 days hence.

Curry said if negotiations failed, a strike vote by his 14,000-member local would probably be taken in February.

AF Plane Missing Off Coast of Holland

LONDON (INS)—An American F-84 Thunderjet plane was reported missing today on a routine flight and was believed to have crashed into the North Sea off the Netherlands Coast.

A radio message picked up in the Netherlands said the reported crash was at a point 40 miles west of Schouwen in southern Holland.

FALMOUTH, Me. (UP)—Cora Hawkes was touching up a bookshelf in her home when the telephone rang. She left the open paint can unattended. Late Starting Dates Seen in Presidential Campaigns

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), saying six weeks is enough for any man to campaign actively for president, endorsed today a proposal to hold next year's Democratic nominating convention late in August.

There were indications that both of the major party conventions would be held later in the summer than at any time in this century.

Sparkman, who ran for vice president in 1952, said in an interview that because of the great physical strain involved in such a campaign he approves any action to shorten the stumping period.

* * *

Paul M. Butler, Democratic national chairman, has suggested an Aug. 27 date for the 1956 convention.

Republicans chairman Leonard W. Hall said the GOP National Committee will meet within a month or six weeks to pick a site. There were indications the GOP might delay its convention until early September. Only twice before, and never in this century, has the Republican convention followed the Democratic one.

Hall, who said he assumes President Eisenhower will be the Republican candidate two years from now, said he and other party leaders are in favor of a short campaign. He hinted that "whistle stop" campaigning by train may be almost abandoned in favor of air transportation for candidates.

* * *

Chicago, Philadelphia, and Atlantic City have bid for the GOP convention. Chicago also made an offer to the Democrats, and the other two cities are expected to do so.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said on an NBC TV program yesterday he doubted the GOP would draft Eisenhower if he does not want to run. "I doubt that he wants or the party wants a reluctant candidate for president . . . a reluctant candidate that has to be pressured into running," Knowland said.

* * *

Coincident with the talk of presidential nominating, some of the political good will evident on Capital Hill when Eisenhower delivered his State of the Union message last Thursday seemed to have evaporated in the wake of a Democratic National Committee analysis critical of some parts of the speech.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH), Rep. Arends (R-Ill) and Hall rapped the committee for issuing the critical analysis after, they said, Democratic lawmakers had generally praised the message.

A national increase in the number of families of 19 per cent during the 1940s showed wide variations frome state to state, with the increase in Mississippi, Arkansas and Oklahoma only 1 per cent, Arizona, California and Florida recording more than 50 per cent.

Only Woman Can Laugh Right in Face of Danger

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — Every now and then a man will look danger squarely in the eye. But it takes a woman to laugh in its face.

This instinct—doubtless handed down from Eve, the original trouble-shooter—indicates that women are either (1) braver or (2) crazier than men.

To find the answer you naturally call upon the most danger-defying dame around, who happens to be Miss Betty Skelton.

Betty has been flying airplanes since she was 12, and she particularly likes to fly them upside down. At a skimpy altitude of about 50 feet. She is always careful to see that her seat belt is fastened but, even so, it is risky.

You could describe her as the kind of a girl you don't just say "Drop in sometime" to, because she might.

"Well, how do you feel about it," you say to Betty. "You crazy or brave?"

"Gee," she responds, blushing. "I think you have me wrong. I'm not doing much of that upside-down flying anymore. I used to fly down five feet from the ground and pick up red ribbons with my wing tips, but I'm 28 years old now. I have settled down to more elderly activities."

"Like?"

"Auto racing and resting," she said. "Very staid, but I did set a world's speed record for women this fall, driving a Dodge Firearrow."

The speed was only 144.02 M.P.H. considerably smaller than the speeds to which Betty's accustomed; but unofficially, in a racing car at Indianapolis earlier this year, she hit 170, and she's now aiming to get officials to revise their laws forbidding women to enter the annual Speedway races.

Betty, deceivingly pretty and delicate with her peppery Irish face and shapely 95-pound figure, has made about as many records as Eddie Fisher. She was the first American to fly solo at age 12; the first woman to be issued a race driver's license by the AAA; the cutest little 18-year-old teacher of flying for the Civil Air Patrol durthe war.

In her high-flying days, she set two world's altitude records in Piper Cubs, and was international aerobatic champ among women in '48, '49 and '50.

Also, at the age of 21, Betty roared to a speed record for piston engine - powered aircraft, in a P-51, Mustang hitting 426.9 M.P.H. "But the record didn't count," she mourns, "because the engine blew up on the return run." (She made a dead-stick landing.)

Even in those days, the young lady doesn't think she was being either brave or crazy.

"I have a system—a formula—which says 'always be prepared,'" she explains. "Before I take a trip in a plane or an auto, I don't trust the mechanics to do everything. I check everything myself, to make sure there are no mechanical dangers.

"Then I check myself over. I study all the things that could go wrong, and make sure I have the answers ready for snap decisions. Nothing unforeseen can happen then, barring a quirk of fate—and fate can quirk at you just as easily in a hammock."

So maybe there's the difference between the daring man and the doubly-daring woman. she, with her instinctive longing for security, is prepared to claw back at danger.

Minor Fire Claims 5 Baltimore Children

BALTIMORE (AP)—Five brothers and sisters, all under 6, died of asphyxiation here last night in a one-alarm fire which was brought under control in just 30 minutes.

The fire was confined to a middle bedroom on the first floor of the row house. Smoke from mattresses on twin beds poured into the room where the children were asleep. None of the victims suffred burns.

Mrs. Katherine Harrington, 35-year-old Negro mother of the children, was visiting friends about a block away. The father was reported serving with the Army in Korea.

Dangerous Occupation

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) -- Nearly 4,000 taxi drivers here have gone on strike for more police protection. They say in the past few months at least four drivers have been killed by passengers and a score or more beaten and robbed.

When water freezes, the temperature does not change, but there is a considerable expansion in volume.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only 98¢ a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied—your money will be refunded promptly. ®Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

FOA to Be Part of Dulles' Office

Key Democrats Plan Transfer of Foreign Aid to State Department

WASHINGTON (AP)—Key Democrats said today Secretary of State Dulles probably is going to have to take over the administration of foreign aid after July 1 whether he likes it or not.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) said in an interview he believes a majority of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, of which he is a member, will insist on terminating the Foreign Operations Administration and turning its affairs over to the State Department.

"I know that Secretary Dulles has felt in the past that the State Department ought to be kept a purely policy-making agency," Sparkman said. "In theory that is all right, but for practical purposes the man who gives economic assistance to foreign countries is bound to be making policy at the same time."

* * *

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont), another member of the Foreign Relations group, said there are indications Dulles may be "coming around to our way of thinking."

The FOA is now a separate governmental agency over which the State Department exercises only policy control.

Sparkman and Mansfield said they would expect Stassen to continue to head the assistance program as either an undersecretary or an assistant secretary of state. Both said they felt that on the whole he had done a good job.

Victim of 'Stick-Up' Loses Bet, Window

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A passing motorist reported a service station was being robbed last night, and an off-duty officer, hearing the police broadcast rushed unarmed to the scene.

Seeing the attendant with his hands up, officer R. E. Albee hurled a brick through the window and ordered the bandit to surrender. Then came the surprise.

The unnamed attendant said there was no robbery taking place.

"This fellow bet me I couldn't hold my hands straight up for 15 minutes," he said. "I was just trying to win a bet."

Doing It the Hard Way

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Annie Wilkens, 63, aims to ride from coast to coast on horseback. She left her home near Lewiston, Maine, Nov. 7 and reached Lexington yesterday. Destination: Los Angeles.

"I never had a vacation before," she explained.

'Suspect' — Chapter 30

by Hugh Lawrence Nelson

On the top of a flat rock in the middle of the creek was his own revolver. Droplets of spray glittered in sunlight. Its muzzle pointed directly toward the hole through which the creek found its path of exit to the lake.

Jim waded in. The water was cold, but with the heated overflow from the swimming pool on the other side of the rock barrier, it did not have the deadly cramping chill as it swirled against his legs. He pushed past the flat rock, stumbling over water - rounded stones, and reached the cavern entrance.

The path he followed ended abruptly in cold, damp stone. He left his rock path, waded into this new pool, found the underwater opening which let water gush through. A large enough opening so the force of water was not too great for passage.

He filled his lungs and dove beneath the surface. He inched along the passage, clawing at any projection from the water-smoothed walls which would give scant handholds.

His ears were roaring, his lungs bursting with the spent oxygen burned in the effort of his progress. He kept his eyes open even against the pressure of moving water which sent an ache clear to the back of his head.

Was that light, shining through clear water?

He began raising his head carefully toward what he hoped would be the surface. The ache of his lungs increased the speed of that rise, the body's demand for air was greater than the mental command for caution.

There was no warning. There was nothing but a flash of shock.

There was a vague dream world of strange comfort and quick motion. There was another and more violent shock.

Jim found himself back in the blinding sunlight, pressed against the ledge from which he had fallen into the first pool. But that jolt and the shock of light had cleared his head enough so pain registered. Pain and determination.

He pulled himself into shallow water, splashed along the creek, fell full length on the bank near his jeep. He coughed, retched, managed at last to replace some water with life-giving air. He pulled himself to his knees, began crawling toward the jeep. His strength came back quickly, let him get erect, into the car. He started the motor, left the jeep in low gear and drove up the winding road. His panting breath seemed to keep time with the snarl of the motor.

Jim did not overestimate his ability. He knew he did not have the strength to try again against the current. But from the other side, with the current.

The idea of a possible passageway through the huge rock base of Lion's Head had occurred to him, of course. It had been something to be checked, just as the possibility of a ledge along the base of the cliff near the lake must be checked. Obviously such a possibility had occurred to Nancy.

He drove faster now, and he still hoped.

Perhaps Nancy, with her smaller but strong young body, would have been able to negotiate the passage. Perhaps she had been able to control herself, had not stood up so quickly as to knock herself silly against rock ceiling as he believed he had done. Perhaps he would find her, dripping and thrilled with the idea of her contribution, at the end of the creek near the heated swimming pool.

He would not let himself think of Nancy caught in some underwater crevice, fighting out the last of her life in a useless struggle against unfeeling rock and surging water.

He drove fast, but the minutes were ages long until he reached the swimming pool, deserted now, and left his jeep. This time at least he did have the forethought to take a flashlight along from the glove compartment.

At this end of the cavern, there was a well-worn path at the side for the first 50 feet. His light shone down into the translucent water, showed innumerable fish darting around in the glow. The path showed signs of many feet, but not of recent passing of wet feet. There was no evidence of water drops falling from soaking clothes. Not until he himself passed through the cave to the ending wall of rock.

His light showed an opening through which the water surged onward. A small-appearing opening, doubtless distorted by the water itself. It showed him three depressions on the path itself, and three lines through the dust where heavy objects had been rolled to the water. He wondered vaguely why rocks should have been rolled into the water.

A chill shook his whole body, and his mind was equally cold with loss of hope.

Time was a traitor. Elapsed time was a killer. Too much time had passed. Too much time!

Jim wedged the flashlight carefully on the bank, left it glowing. He edged cautiously into the water, swam toward the underwater opening. The light glinted from myriad bits of mica in the rock walls, brought a transparency to the water itself.

Jim detected movement first, then saw the pallor, the white flash of skin in the water's depth.

It was a hand. It was an arm.

He did not remember crossing the remaining distance, but he felt a stiffening of muscles as his hand clamped around a slender wrist, and then a dreadful relaxation.

New York Designers Reveal Fashions for Spring, 1955

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—New York designers revealed to the nation's fashion press today that women can look feminine and alluring even though their bosoms do not precede them into a room.

Previews of new spring fashions were a distinct relief to editors frightened by Paris reports of a flat-chested era. Although the new silhouette does not require falsies, plenty of curves are present. The bustline is naturally rounded and slightly lifted, the waistline is unnipped and emphasis falls to a slim, sheathed hipline.

* * *

The long torso silhouette, which forms the theme of practically every collection, gives a tubular, elongated look to the midriff, fits snugly about the hips, and may flare into pleats below the hipline.

Although the hip belt is much in evidence, it is not the hip belt of the flapper era. The bodice is carefully fitted above, so that a slim waist is still a vital necessity to glamor.

Bouffant petticoats may appear in cocktail and dinner dresses, but for daytime the path is straight and narrow. Many of the new H-line or long-torso styles have pleated skirts, but these too are slim in effect, often being stitched part way down, to preserve the tubular look.

* * *

Though bosoms are not exaggerated, as formerly, they are still present and accounted for, and no boyish figures will be necessary to fit into the new clothes. The long-torso silhouette requires a smooth, unbroken line from bust to hips, achieved best by an all-in-one foundation which molds and smooths the midriff.

Dresses look like suits this spring, and suits look like dresses. Both hug the figure to the hipline, which usually is accented by a belt or cuff—and woe to the lady who has acquired middle-aged spread below the belt.

* * *

The long-jacket suits have a new and fresh look, after several seasons of short curved jackets with nipped waistlines. Many are cut on riding jacket lines, others button from chin to hip line, but all are slim and meticulously fitted.

Skirts are slightly shorter, but only slightly. Fabrics are lightweight and handsome, with many silks that look like wools and wools that look like silks.

* * *

The dress-and-jacket costume still is a top favorite in practically all collections, done in all fabrics, made to look like a suit when the jacket is worn, emerge as a cocktail or dinner dress when the jacket is removed.

Navy is the big color, for suits, dresses and coats, often with a fresh bit of white frosting in the form of starched or lacy collars.

Although the Paris-inspired silhouette is the most important new theme, New York designers have adapted it to the American taste, so that nobody need be afraid to go Easter shopping this year.

Nettie Rosenstein shows this wheat-colored coat of Lesur's "polished" wool, collared and cuffed with black silk velvet for spring of 1955. The coat fastens with a black velvet loop under the collar, and is lined with wheat-colored silk shantung.

Caring for Children at Home Gives Young Mother Sense of Isolation

Feel Cut Off From Life? Letter Writing Can Help

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Many young mothers suffer from loneliness, and a sense of isolation, of being out of touch with the exciting things going on in the world.

"I'm at home all day with two small children," one of them writes me, "and I never get a chance to have grown-up conversations, or keep my mind alive.

When my husband comes home, he's tired, and doesn't feel like going out or having people over. I feel cut off from all the stimulating ideas I used to get when I went to a job."

And from another:

"We live in the country, and all day I have nobody to talk to but the children. My mind is always at the nursery level, and I wonder why I even bothered to finish high school. My mind gets no exercise these days, I'll tell you! What can I do to keep it from rusting away entirely?"

First of all, of course, such mothers should remember that these days will soon be over. The children will soon be in school, and they will find time for themselves.

Meantime, here is a suggestion from Mrs. Joseph Feder in Chatham, New Jersey. Mrs. Feder, you may recall, is a young mother of three who has a successful home secretarial service. She is buzzing with ideas, and the letter she wrote me recently says:

"For the woman who has little time, and who feels cut off from the real hustle-bustle of the everyday world, I suggest letter writing. Develop convictions, and when you do, be sure they are strong and well thought out. Then, whenever the occasion arises, sit down and write a letter.

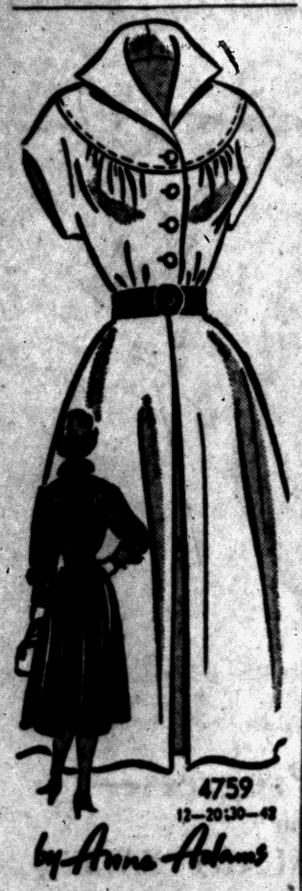

"Do you truly appreciate thoughtfulness in others? Have you ever written to the manager of a department store to commend a specially nice clerk? Has someone in the news had an experience similar to one you once had, and do you wish you could pass on the philosophy you gained? Write to him.

"Does some obscure person win sudden recognition for obeying an adventerous impulse and are you admiring, envious, and wishing you could strike up an acquaintance? Write to him!

When that letter goes off, it will leave you with a glow of anticipation that will last for weeks.

"Some of your letters will go unanswered, but some will result in a lifelong influence and friendship. But the important thing is that you are in touch with the world; you have a part in the unexpected."

Ignore Gift Until Guest Gives Hint

Other Writer Asks if He Must Drink His Coffee Black

Today's first letter tells me: "I am in a quandary as to what to do when a guest arrives at my house with a package that is supposedly for me but which is not handed directly to me but left on a table in the hall.

This has happened several times and I have always just let it stay where it was until the visitor had gone as I hesitated to call attention to it for fear that it was not intended for me after all. On the other hand, to ignore it completely seems very unappreciative on my part. I would like to know what would be the correct way to handle this situation."

You are quite right in leaving the package where it is until your guest is ready to leave, and then if he (or she) does not take it, you would say, "Oh, you have forgotten to take your package." Your guest would then either say it is for you or take it away. If it is for you, you open it and thank the giver.

Dear Mrs. Post: We were invited to spend Sunday evening with new acquaintances. During the course of the evening, the hostess served take and coffee.

The coffee was black and no cream or sugar was proffered with it. As I do not care for black coffee, I asked the hostess if I might have some cream and sugar. My wife seems to think I should have not done this. I see nothing wrong in what I did but would like your opinion in order to convince my wife.

You were certainly right in asking for sugar which should always be served even with black coffee, and to have added, "and if there is any cream, I would love to have some" was certainly not wrong.

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend of mine had a baby several months ago and at that time I sent the baby a very lovely present. This morning I received an invitation to the christening and I would like to know if it is necessary to bring a second present to the party?

Don't Overcook

When preparing vegetables or macaroni for the home freezer leave them slightly underdone. If cooked well done, they are likely to be too soft when reheated.

If the sun and wind have left their mark, a girl can cover up attractively with this charming hooded playsuit that zips up clear to the chin. The cotton signature fine art print is the design of artist Laura Jean Allen and is called "bees in the bonnet." The suit is a two-piece affair, the wide bloomers fastening at the waist with a bow.

Newcomer Threatens School Pals

But Her Problem Can Be Hard Too, Needs Analyzing

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

When a new girl with any sort of possibilities moves into school, she usually gets a big rush. She's new and different to the boys, she's a spark of new life and interest. After all, they know all the "old" gals only too well. The novelty of the gal is intriguing. Every boy around wants to set himself up as her guide and mentor. They all fall for her—at least it looks that way to all the other girls.

To them, this new face and personality (no matter how congenial to the girls) is a threat to their established relations. She's likely unwittingly to step in where angels fear to tread.

She can upset a conquest that some girl thinks she's just about to make. Because the "old" gals consider the new one dangerous, they can confront her with a solid wall of resentment and antagonism. Because they think she might make things tough for them, they can make life very rugged for a new comer.

A newcomer can be puzzled by all this. Particularly if she's a nice girl who just wants to get acquainted and find a little niche for herself in this new community. Here's a girl who finds being new tougher than being an old-timer.

"Dear Miss Woodward: Every time a new girl moves in the boys start liking her. I guess the girls who have always lived there think it's hard on them. But what of the new girl? I've just moved here, and at first I had quite a few dates with Dave.

Then Bill, asked me to go to a party with him and I went, and it made Dave really mad. But I wasn't really going steady with him. Now I've met Pat—and I'm afraid he can hear my heart beating every time I get near him.

He told a friend of mine he'd like to have a date with me, but usually Dave or Bill are around. I'm not going steady, but I'm told that Dave would give the world for me. And I'd love to go with Pat! Yet, I'm afraid the girls will think I'm giving all the boys a hard time. And I'm afraid the boys might get really disgusted with me. What should I do?"

A new girl has to look around before she can land on her dating feet. And the best way to get a close look is to date one boy after another. Even the "old" girls ought to realize that she's not prowling around for permanent acquisitions right off the bat. She's prospecting for the right boy. And she can't tell at a distance if she has found him!

Dave's devotion is nice, so don't hurt it by rejecting him entirely. Bill's friendship is valuable too. Let the word get around that you aren't going steady yet. And then get to work on Pat. Even Pat might not pan out as solid gold. So don't steady with him for a while either. Hang on to the new girl's right to prospect until you're dead sure you've struck it rich!

Apples Take Brown and White Sugar

Mrs. Singles Adds Original Touch to Son's Favorite Pie

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

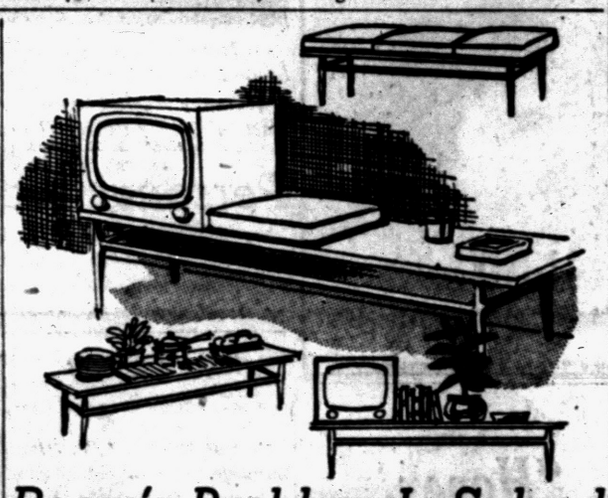

When a serviceman comes home after 18 months away, his mother wants to fix all his favorite foods. Mrs. Paul Singles is going to be in that happy position within the next week or so. Her son is coming home, and he'll want some of his mother's apple pie. The original touch Mrs. Singles gives to her apple pie is to use both white and brown sugar.

Quiet activities such as reading, record playing and playing the piano are Mrs. Singles' favorite diversions. She is also active in the Daughters of Isabella and the Altar Society.

APPLE PIE
By Mrs. Paul Singles

1 quart prepared apples
White sugar
Brown sugar
Cinnamon and nutmeg, about ¼ teaspoon each
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon lemon juice (if apples are not tart)

Slice apples and place in unbaked pie shell. Add sugar to taste, lemon juice if desired, and spices. Dot with butter and cover with top crust. Make 2 or 3 gashes in the top to allow for escape of steam. Bake at 450 degrees for the first 10 minutes, then reduce to 350 degrees and continue baking about 40 minutes, or until apples are tender.

Room's Problem Is Solved Many Times With Bench

Perhaps just one more piece of furniture in the room would solve half a dozen problems. A bench, for example, in the bench-table style that's so popular today.

Cushion it all the way, and it adds extra seating comfort to the room, so much of it for so little furniture bulk. This is quite a point if larger furniture would crowd the room, or if a view from a wide window must be uninterrupted.

Or the bench might settle the question of where to put the television set. Even with the TV set there's room to spare, for a cushion in the center and table space on one end, or for books and plants and accessories, to decorate a short wall.

The bench can always be a coffee table all the way, and it's wide enough to set up a buffet supper. The plus talent of a bench is that it can serve so well, first one way and then another. It falls in line at any time with changing arrangements.

This Is for Those Who Pay Child for His Chores

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Late one rainy night, a friend and I were waiting for a cab outside a big-city railroad terminal. Ahead of us was an elderly woman laden with luggage. As a cab swerved in to her signal, a boy of about ten, his shoes torn and shabby coat wet with rain, thrust ahead of her. He opened her cab door with a flourish. Then, closing it after her, he stood, his hand stretched out waiting to be paid.

He got none. In a flash his look of eager helpfulness turned to rage. He began to shout curses after the moving cab.

My friend took a dollar from his pocket. Giving it to the boy, he said, "Why do you pretend to be earning money? You are a child. Then be one. Go home. Take off your wet shoes. It is time you were in bed.

We both knew that the child would not go home. He had found it too profitable to exploit his personal needs for unreal commercial transaction. He has a hard adjustment ahead. In the real commercial world, he will not be paid for the appeal of his youth, torn shoes or a wet coat. He will be paid only for the value of the work he performs.

This point is made for parents who pay children for doing chores.

Fathers are especially prone to imagine that paying Jimmy 50 cents for cleaning the garage prepares him for the commercial world. It does not, of course. In the commercial world, real employers are not interested in our needs to be prepared for any future experience.

They don't hire us because we need a new baseball glove or money to contribute to a teacher's birthday present. They don't hire us to teach us how to manage money. They are not moved by any of the interests that motivate a parent's employment of Jimmy. They employ us only for the proficiency of our work.

Jimmy's self-respect is a moral thing. It is developed, not by financial gain, but moral gain—our appreciation of his usefulness as a garage cleaner. If we make a habit of substituting coins for this moral gain, Jimmy's respect for his usefulness, like the boy's at the railroad station, is lost in respect for coins. In the adult money world, money respect gets us nowhere. This is the world where we must so respect our usefulness to it that we can demand it put proper value on it.

We pay Jimmy for usefulness because we forget that he's a child. Just as we rush him prematurely into long pants, we rush him into price-tagging his value before he knows his value.

She Tells How to Make People Talk

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

Helen R. Mullery of New York City, lecturer on social poise, writes to ask how I would interrupt a long drawn-out monologue without giving offense.

The answer is, Miss Mullery, that I probably wouldn't—wouldn't manage not to give offense, I mean. If a person is rude enough and silly enough to go on talking after he's lost his audience, then there are only two alternatives.

One, you lapse into a coma, smile feebly and nod or shake your head at intervals until rescued. Two, you interrupt as politely as you can and if it gives offense, then it does and you probably won't care much anyway.

Miss Mullery, who has observed that a problem of many women is the dread of not being able to carry on a conversation, asks two other questions.

1. Do you have a special technique for talking to people you meet for the first time?

The only technique that I know for making people talk, Helen, is genuine interest in what they are saying. Pretending won't do. You must listen—really listen—and the chances are that you will get interested. In that case you will ask the right questions to keep the talk going. It is trite but true that everybody likes to talk about himself and his own interests—and it's also true that almost everybody is interesting when he is interested.

2. Have you ever in your youth suffered from a feeling of inadequacy in social conversation, and if so was there any special idea or attitude that helped you overcome it?

That's a tough one, for to this day I dread going into a roomful of people and must always take the plunge exactly as if I were diving into icy water. Once in, the waters close arround me and I feel hidden, if chilly. Only, of course, there is still the need to make talk. I used to think up startling remarks before literary teas, but after I had produced sensational effects with statements meant as colossal jokes that were taken literally, I gave that up.

There are three or four standard gambits that often painlessly launch the timid soul into conversation. One is the current events device ("Well, what do you think of the Russians now?") especially if you have been able to get hold of the latest edition of your favorite newspaper and snatch a question off a damp headline.

The gossip gambit is a good attention-getter if combined with name-dropping: "Weren't you surprised at what Ava said to Marilyn?" is a fine beginning if you are prepared to follow up with something specific—and the principals don't turn out to be Ava Finch, your old school chum from Upper Tupper, and Marilyn Smiley, coat buyer at Turnblad and Sons, Inc.

Another idea is the comment on a fellow guest. Always make this pleasant, though, because if you use "Whoever is that strange-looking woman in the funny hat?" it invariably turns out (and not only in the comics) to be her husband you are querying.

If anybody who reads this has some bright ideas on coping with these problems, please speed them to me. I'll profit by them before forwarding to Miss Mullery.

YW Becomes National Organization

This is the last of three articles outlining the history of YWCA. The organization's Centennial Celebration is being held this week.

Early in the history of YWCA the organization became national in scope.

Activities and interests increased in YWCAs of the United States and it was consistent with the aims of the organization that the work should spread in ever widening circles to all the world.

The first American YWCA foreign staff member, Agnes Hill, was sent to India in 1894. Although the original function of overseas work was that of a missionary enterprise, it was soon realized that practical as well as spiritual support was needed by women in foreign countries.

Today the Foreign Division serves as a stimulus for the development of democracy in many places in the world. Potential YWCA leaders come to the United States for periods of practical training.

The International Training Project enables a number of selected leaders to come together as a group in the United States to learn ways to improve conditions in their own countries and to build YWCAs there.

Budget grants are made toward the development of the program in 22 foreign countries. Fifteen American secretaries are working in 12 of these countries to which the YWCA of the United States contributes both financial and material support.

The YWCA has organized a school of Social Work in Delhi, India, which is now a part of the University of Dehli; a school for training social workers in Greece and a school in Montevideo, Uruguay where leaders are trained for YWCA work in Latin American countries. In 1947 a fund of more than $2,000,000 was raised for YWCA reconstruction work overseas.

YWCA was the first women's organization to urge the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations. YWCA also urged that the United States participate in the Permament Court of Justice at The Hague at a time when opposition to this move was strong.

YWCA gives vigorous support to the United Nations and its specialized agencies in its search for collective security and it supports a long-range and expanding Point Four program designed to raise the standards of living of people in underdeveloped areas.

Once a year, World Fellowship Week takes place. This week, which is celebrated by associations all over the world is dedicated to prayers for peace and better understanding among all peoples.

World Fellowship Week gives all participants the opportunity to learn about the problems of women in other countries as well as in their own.

In times of crisis the YWCA has been quick to offer its service. During World War I an extensive program was carried for armed service personnel.

This was the forerunner of the USO of World War II. In 1940 the World Emergency Committee was formed for relief work overseas and shortly thereafter, the National YWCA helped to organize the USO.

Concern for the spiritual welfare of women and girls has been a driving force of YWCA leaders since the beginning of the organization. The religious revival in Eastern United States during the late 1850s stimulated Christian fervor and the impulse to do good deeds, contributes much to the forming of a national Christian organization on a nondenominational basis.

The purpose of the association, formally expressed in the constitution is: To build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing in our common life, those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians.

In this endeavor we seek to understand Jesus, to share his love for all people and to grow in the knowledge and love of God.

20th Century Paradox

Older Workers Swell Ranks of Jobless; Few Positions Open to Persons Over 45

(Editor's Note: Paradox of the fast-paced 20th Century is that medical science has increased man's life expectancy to nearly 70 years while at the same time men of 45 are being denied jobs because they are "too old." The 45-and-over age group has been described as the "hard core" of unemployment. This is the first in a series of three dispatches on the special employment problem facing older workers and what is being done about it.)

NEW YORK (UP)—Industry, labor and the government are being drawn into a new effort to solve an old problem—what to do about the man past 45 who can't find a job.

Behind this awakening of conern for the senior citizen is the fact that Americans are living longer but society so glorifies youth that reaching middle age can mean economic and psychological disaster.

Every day thousands of men and women are turned away from jobs they could fill competently if given a chance. They have lots of experience. They are perfectly healthy, emotionally stable and eager.

But they are "too old."

The New York State Employment Service reports that almost half the persons receiving unemployment insurance in New York are 45 years old or over. Yet, only one-fourth of the jobs filled by the employment service go to persons in the 45-plus bracket.

Unemployment statistics also indicate the length of time a man must spend hunting a new job grows longer as he grows older.

How old is "too old?" For men the age barrier in employment begins to rise at around 45, but for women sooner. In many hiring offices a woman can't get past the reception desk if she admits being over 35.

The U. S. Bureau of Employment Security surveyed public employment offices in five states and reported that every office was experiencing widespread application of age restrictions to filling jobs.

In Columbus, Ohio, at the time of the survey 80 per cent of the jobs listed called for workers under 45, and 40 per cent were restricted to applicants under 35.

America's epanding economy has credited thousands of new jobs since the end of World War II. But the greatest number of new jobs are in the fields of semi-skilled operatives and clerical workers, and both these fields particularly cater to younger workers.

The government survey showed that in Houston, Tex., more than one-third of the job-seeking women past 45 were experienced in clerical and sales work. At the same time, well over half the clerical and sales jobs open were limited to women under 35.

Even when a company denies it has any policy of "age discrimination" job-hunters report a tendency on the part of personnel interviewers to give the nod to a younger man if two applicants of equal qualifications are considered for employment.

The irony of this situation, as sociologists see it, is that an inestimable amount of skill, experience and mature wisdom and judgment is going to waste in our society. Age should be an asset instead of a liability.

Economists point out that if older people have trouble finding jobs now, the trouble will be far more acute in 20 years. America's population is growing heavy at the top. Life expectancy is increasing. The average age in America goes up every year.

Today there are 43,000,000 persons in America over 45. In 1975 there will be 63,000,000 over 45 and they will make up nearly half of all persons past 20.

"Unless something is done to give them job opportunities," Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said recently, "an estimated half of our adult population will be condemned to a life of economic uselessness."

74-Year-Old Dies With His Boots On Dueling Critic, 56

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A 74-year-old pensioner was stabbed to death in a downtown hotel lobby last night in what police said was a fight over criticism of this cowboy boots.

The victim was Andrew Jackson (Bugs) Staggs, a resident of the hotel. Officers arrested another hotel occupant, Oren Nettles, 56.

A witness said the fight developed when Staggs pulled a knife and challenged Nettles. Officers said Nettles then drew a pocket knife and handed it to the older man.

"It's hard to open," he said. "You open it for me so I can have an equal chance."

Staggs opened the knife, returned it to Nettles and the stabbing followed, police said. Nettles was not hurt.

Committee Says Reds Have Infiltrated Defense Plants

U.S. Opens Drive for Atom Power Plants

WASHINGTON (INS) — The U. S. launched a double-barreled drive today to encourage construction of private nuclear power plants in the race with Russia to apply the atom to peace-time purposes.

One program offers to put government cash into private atomic ventures if the builders can show that these will have "demonstration" value in speeding the arrival of the atomic electrical power era.

Another provides industrialists with secret cost data, including the fees they would have to pay for the use of atoms and the prices they would get for atomic explosives or other materials that may be by-products of power.

An Atomic Energy Commission source, describing the effort as urgent, said there have been no offers to build private atomic plants under the law authorizing these which passed last August. Russia has since announced that it has a 5,000-kilowatt nuclear generating station in operation.

A carefully-worded section of the new atomic energy law permits the AEC to put money into projects for "the generation of usable energy, and the demonstration of its practical value for industrial and commercial purposes."

The AEC said the government may accept "one or several, or none" of the offers being invited under the new program, which expires April 1. Similar programs may be launched later if the first one is successful.

Other features of two AEC announcements issued Sunday included these:

1. If the government puts money into a "demonstration" plant, the information it develops must be made available to the rest of industry.

2. Although the prices to be paid for by-products materials are secret, they apparently contain a concession to industry in allowing for the military as well as the economic value of the materials. The AEC said the prices, guaranteed for seven years, are scaled to the "intended use" of the materials.

3. A company might still have difficulty in approving an offer, since cost figures could not be made available, even to a board of directors, unless all members of the board had been cleared for security.

The figures include the amounts the government would pay for fissionable uranium and plutonium, expected to be produced in power reactors.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee, said he thought the security hurdle would not be difficult at first, because of the small number of companies interested in building multi-million-dollar atomic plants.

The AEC has a plan for granting "limited" security clearances which apparently, will be sufficient later to permit examination of industrial figures.

Balanced Policy Committee Promised by Republicans

WASHINGTON (INS) — A "balanced" Senate GOP Policy Committee giving "progressive" Republicans good representation was promised today as the 84th Congress began its second week.

Sen. Eugene Millikin (R-Colo.) chairman of the GOP conference which meets tomorrow afternoon to ratify committee assignments, said there won't be any complaints" and that he expects to submit a "fair list" of nominations.

Millikin has been urged by pro-Eisenhower Republicans to make certain that there is stronger representation of that wing of the party on the important Policy Committee. Most of the GOP leaders who serve on that committee as ex-officio members are conservatives. Millikin must nominate six other Republicans for approval of the full conference of GOP senators.

Republican leaders have been called to the White House for a Tuesday morning Legislative meeting with President Eisenhower. For this reason, the GOP conference has been set back to Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday morning.

At that time the Republican senators also will approve a slate of assignments to Legislative committee and act on Millikin's selection of a new campaign chairman. Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz), was said to be favored for this job, although Sens. William E. Jenner (R-Ind) and Karl Mundt (R-SD) also are under consideration.

In the House, Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) and GOP leader Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass) failed to reach agreement late Saturday on how many seats each party should have on House subcommittees. Size of the House majority usually determines the ratio of Democrats and Republicans.

Until committees are organized in both houses, none of Mr. Eisenhower's legislative proposals — most of which are still to be presented in detail — can be considered.

The President today was to send Congress his special message on foreign economic policy. Others follow this week on civil service and postal pay increases and on military manpower and pay programs. Still others come later this month and next.

French Camera to Study Stars

Electronic Device Said to Peer Into Universe 10 Times Farther

PARIS (AP)—Two French scientists have developed an electronic camera which they say should enable them to "see" 10 times farther into the universe than man has ever before.

Andre Lallemand, an astronomer at the Paris Observatory, and Maurice Duchesne, an electronics expert at the National Center for Scientific Research, have been working on the device for 11 years.

Duchesne will soon take the odd-shaped contraption of glass and metal tubes to the observatory at Saint-Michel-de-Provence in southern France, where skies are generally very clear.

He will attach to it a 47-inch telescope which, say the inventors, thus will become considerably more powerful than the 200-inch giant at Mt. Palomar, Calif.

Little serious star gazing is done these days by peering directly through a lens. Astronomers work mostly from photographs, which show nothing to the layman but little dots or streaks of light. This one, the inventors claim, will be able to take the same pictures in four minutes that now require six to eight hours of exposure

"It should give astronomers enough new observations to work on for 50 years," Lallemand said.

In the new camera the feeble flecks of starlight—called photons—will first hit a thin glass plate covered with a layer of antimony and cesium, one of the rarer elements. This layer transforms the photons into electrons, which then pass through high-tension electrodes that step up their strength from 2 electron-volts to 40,000 or 50,000. The electrons are what hit a photographic plate less than an inch in diameter.

Scientists Dominate Jaycees Selection of 10 Top Men

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 8 (AP)—Scientists dominated America's 10 outstanding young men of 1954, named today by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The men, between the ages of 21 and 36, were chosen by a nationally prominent board of judges and will be honored at a banquet January 22 in Louisville, Ky. The Jaycees have sponsored the selections 16 years.

The ten:

Dr. Wendell Phillips, 33, Concord, Calif.; Archaeologist and explorer, named for pioneer work in remote areas of the world.

Maj. Charles E. Yeager, 32, Hamlin, W.Va.; Air Force test pilot, for flying ability, technical skill and devotion to duty.

Hamilton F. Richardson, 21, Baton Rouge, La.; Davis Cup tennis player, for his contribution to tennis—playing despite a diabetic condition.

Dr. William A. Spencer, 32, Houston, Tex.; director of the Southwestern Poliomyelitis Respiratory Center, for treatment, rehabilitation and counseling of polio victims and research in the disease.

J. Herbert Holloman, 35, Schenectady, N.Y., for leadership and research in the field of metallurgy.

Arthur M. Kraft, 33, Kansas City, Mo., for his contribution to painting and sculpturing.

* * *

Terence P. Brennan, 26, South Bend, Ind.; head football coach at Notre Dame, for athletic leadership.

Ernest F. Hollins, 32, Charleston, S.C.; lieutenant governor of South Carolina, for legislative work and public service.

Aeronautical data was obtained by test pilot Yeager, the first person to fly faster than the speed of sound, that could not have been learned by any other known method, the Jaycees said.

Kennedy is credited with a major role in getting pledges from 327 ship owners not to trade with Red China.

Richardson, presently a law student at Tulane University, played top-flight tennis despite his diabetic handicap. In 1953 he was ranked the nation's 6th best player and has been among the first 10 since he was 17. He is the present intercollegiate champion.

Holloman's studies of the treatment of metals and alloys have won him the Nobel prize, the United States' Legion of Merit, the R. W. Raymond award, the second annual Scroll of the American Chemical Society and Fortune magazine named him among the nation's top 10 scientists.

Inaugurated as President of Transylvania College, Lexington, Ky., in 1950 at the age of 29, Rose developed a scholarship program that is said to pay 200 students' educational expenses yearly and which now has the backing of more than 200 corporations and 1,000 individuals.

Terry Brennan, who graduated from Notre Dame in 1949, became freshman football coach at his alma mater in 1953 and his "maturity and poise, both on and off the athletic field, earned the admiration and respect of his players and associates," said the Chamber. In his first year as coach of the Fighting Irish last season their record was 9 won and 1 lost.

Hollings was commended by the Jaycees for helping organize a South Carolina legislative program that led to an increase in teachers' salaries, more school construction, better school bus transportation and an improvement in state mental health facilities.

Ladejinsky Case Irks White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—White House officials were pictured today as irked over Secretary of Agriculture Benson's handling of the Wolf Ladejinsky case but convinced the administration's security program is basically sound.

An official thoroughly familiar with what he called the "rescue mission" of President Eisenhower's aides in the case said Benson violated "a very definite rule" of procedure and thus precipitated "a very embarrassing situation."

This source, who asked not to be named, said presidential assistants are satisfied that the security program covering government employes is essentially a good one in need of no drastic overhauling.

The official said Benson "probably could have averted this whole controversy if he had conferred first with Secretary of State Dulles" regarding Ladejinsky.

"He didn't," the official declared, "despite a very definite rule requiring him to do so."

The White House rule was described as calling for the heads of government departments, such as Benson and Dulles, to confer when there are differences of opinion about whether a man is a security risk, as there were in Ladejinsky's case.

Benson last month ousted Ladejinsky, Russian-born but a naturalized American, from his post as agricultural attache in Tokyo, on security and technical grounds.

Benson did so even though the State Department had given Ladejinsky security clearance before Congress transferred jurisdiction over such attaches from that department to the Agriculture Department.

The upshot of the controversy touched off by Benson's action was the hiring of Ladejinsky by the Foreign Operations Administration for a land reform job in Communist-threatened Southern Viet Nam. FOA reportedly acted on instructions from the White House in giving Ladejinsky the new assignment.

He got full security clearance from FOA after what an agency spokesman said was a full FBI investigation.

Benson has insisted that he had no alternative but to fire Ladejinsky under the Agriculture Department's interpretation of the administration's security order.

Eisenhower himself reportedly took no direct hand in the FOA decision to hire Ladejinsky. The President is understood to have left the matter almost entirely to two of his top aides—Chief Presidential Asst. Sherman Adams and Special Counsel Bernard M. Shanley.

They entered the case after the storm broke and are said to have felt the Presideint should not be bothered with the controversy.

Because Adams and Shanley followed that course, it is possible that Eisenhower may decide differently—if he makes a full study of the case—than his aides reportedly have with respect to any need for revision of the security program.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) said he would forward to the President today a letter saying the controversy over Ladejinsky is challenging the President's leadership and should be given a final presidential decision.

Benson told newsmen in Chicago Friday he would still fire Ladejinsky unless he heard new evidence, saying the public doesn't know all the facts.

Interrupt Play in Round-Up of Coast Counterfeit Ring

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Interruption of a stage production in Hollywood of the comedy "Charley's Aunt" climaxed the roundup by Secret Service agents of 12 persons wanted for the counterfeiting of $245,000 worth of $20 bills.

Agents descended on the Carousel Theater Friday night, arrested two of the actors in the play and ripped up backstage flooring during the performance to seize two bags of fake bills.

The final arrests in the three-state roundup were not announced until Saturday night, after the 12th person was arrested here.

Guy H. Spaman, Secret Service agent in charge here, described the show stopper raid. Agents, who went backstage, said they learned that actor George W. Lewis, one of the leading performers, had stuffed a couple of bags under the stage.

The agents ripped up stage flooring and found the bags which Spaman said contained $9,000 in fake bills. Lewis was arrested during the intermission after the first act and the show stopped. Another actor, John B. Roche, also was arrested.

* * *

Six of the 12 persons, including an unidentified 17-year-old striptease dancer, were arrested in Los Angeles. The other men arrested here were Glenard Elmer Schmidt, a printer; Roger Haizlip, 29, and Ralph E. Guffey, 25.

Spaman said 11 of those arrested have been charged with possessing and passing counterfeit $20 bills. Schmidt is charged with manufacturing counterfeit money. The bogus bills, Spaman said, bear the serial number 01137932A and a poor likeness of President Jackson. He said many may be in circulation.

Employment Ban Sought by Group

Communists in Plants Called Security Danger by Senators

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Senate Investigations Subcommittee said today that Communists have "successfully infiltrated" defense industries where they can get at "vital" military information.

In a report, the group headed by outgoing Chairman Joseph R. McCarthy (R) Wis., recommended legislation to bar Reds from working in defense plants.

McCarthy was "out of town" today on committee business. Last night he abruptly cancelled a subcommittee meeting scheduled for this morning at which he had planned to propose a full-scale renewal of the case of Dr. Irving Peress.

Peress is the ex-Army major who received an honorable discharge from the service after McCarthy had labeled him a "fifth amendment Communist" and demanded that he be held for possible court martial.

In today's report, the subcommittee said:

"The employment of Communists in defense facilities, even though they are not actually working on classified material, is a clear and present danger to our national security."

The subcommittee based its report on 1953-54-55 hearings at which 48 witnesses testified, 32 invoking the fifth amendment when asked questions about Communist party activity. Two others also were identified as Reds and flatly refused to affirm or deny the charges.

The subcommittee said: "As a result of the subcommittee's exposures, 34 employees in vital defense plants were discharged, suspended, or resigned."

The Senate group suggested re-introduction of the "Defense Facilities Protection Act" passed by the Senate last year but pigeonholed in the house. It would require removal of Reds from defense installations.

McCarthy's subcommittee said: "The necessity for the removal of Communists from defense facilities is of paramount importance to the security of the United States because of possible espionage and sible sabotage."

It recommended that the Defense Department "prepare adequate security regulations" to bar Reds from defense plants "regardless of whether the employment is in connection with classified work." Existing regulations apply only to classified positions.

The subcommittee said: "The Communist party has successfully infiltrated national-defense industries and is in a position to acquire vital information concerning our military secrets and our military effectiveness."

Nineteen of the discharged employes were in General Electric Co. plants. These included eight workers in Schenectady, N. Y.; eight in Lynn, Mass., and three in Fitchburg, Mass.

Other plants, and the number suspended or discharged, were: Bethlehem Steel Co., Bethlehem, Pa., four; Luria Engineering Co., Bethlehem, Pa., one; Lehigh Foundries, Inc., Easton, Pa., one; Westinghouse Electric Corp., Buffalo, N. Y., one; Westinghouse, Pittsburgh, five; Ingersoll-Rand Co., Phillipsburg, N. J., one.

Report Athletic Heart Probably Nonexistent

CHICAGO (UP) — The American Medical Association says the term "athletic heart" should be dropped because it is used with too many different meanings to describe a condition which "probably does not exist."

An editorial in the Journal of the AMA said reports on the effect of exercise on the heart lead to the conclusion that "infections are more important as a cause of cardiac disease than exercise."

The editorial also said that "exercise, even when strenuous, will not damage a normal heart," and that "persons with a heavy body build have a lower life expectancy than those with a lighter build regardless of the type or extent of their participation in sports."

But the Journal added that there can be "no doubt" that strenuous exercise may injure a heart already weakened, and young athletes should have close medical supervision.

Old Indian Scout Seeks Uniform

Apache, Now 100, Lives in Past With Memories of Historic Battles

ISLETA PUEBLO, N. M. (UP) — Pablo Apache keeps looking for his uniform and waiting for his pension check — for service as a scout in the Indian wars and the Philippine Insurrection. Sometimes late at night, frail Pablo rouses his battle scarred body for a vain search of the room where he rests —too old and too sick to take much interest in other things. He is an Apache Indian.

Mrs. Phillip Lucero, his daughter, says Pablo's life is dimming after more than 100 years. He doesn't know his exact age.

He used to tell of battles against leaders of his people who had revolted against the whites. "He used to say Victorio was a great warrior," Mrs. Lucero recalls. "Geronimo, on the other hand, was just a renegade outlaw."

"I believe he is entitled to an Army pension," says Mrs. Lucero, "but I don't know how to go about getting it. When he becomes restless in the night, sometimes I go in there and he tells me he is looking for his uniform. He seems to be living in the past."

Hold 3 Youths for Burglaries

Sheriff's Officers Say Trio Admits Entering Oil Company, Cottages

Oakland County Sheriff's detectives are holding three youths who, they said, have admitted breaking into the Commerce Oil Co. at 4387 S. Commerce Rd., Dec. 23, and two White Lake Township cottages.

One of the boys, a 16-year-old White Lake Township youth, is being held at the Oakland County Children's Home, and will be turned over to juvenile court authorities.

The other two, James F. Mersino, 25, of 544 Lakeview, Cedar Island Lake, and Donald G. Pongratz, 17, of 919 Mandon Rd., both of White Lake Township, are in Oakland County Jail.

Detectives Leo Hazen and Mahlon France arrested Mersino last Friday and Mersino implicated the other two youths.

All three are accused of breaking into cottages at 9534 Mandon Dr., and 754 Lakeview, owned by Horace Day and Arthur Ellerholtz, respectively. Police said the trio admitted the entries.

Pongratz, detectives said, was not involved in the oil company breakin in which $100 was taken.

From the cottages burglars took a bed, blankets, tools, silverware, musical instruments and sporting goods. Some of the stolen goods have been recovered.

Lilliard D. Maffett, 26, of 21391 Creston Lane, Royal Oak Township, is also being held for investigation of the same charge, Whitfield said, but has not been arraigned. Mrs. Johnson was released on $500 bond.

Lebanon Gets Power Project

Enough Electricity to Supply Nation Expected From Water Diversion

BEIRUT (UP) — A vast river project calculated to generate enough electric power for all Lebanon, as well as to supplement the meager food and forage supply through irrigation is under way here this winter.

Already known as the Switzerland of the Middle East for its somber mountains and tourist resorts, this ancient Phoenician country has been plagued for centuries by electrical and irrigation deficiencies.

In 1951, the Lebanese government asked the U. S. Operations Mission to Lebanon (Point Four) to launch a three-year study of the Litani River basin, to be followed by a development plan. The survey was completed recently at a cost of $830,000.

It specifies construction of a dam and reservoir on the Litani at Karaoun ,diversion of some Litani water through the Lebanon Mountains in the Bisri River basin, constructiton of a low dam on the river to regulate the flow from Karaoun and finally an additioinal dam on the lower Litani at Khardale to regulate the Karaoun reservoir release.

Both basins will be used for irrigation and power development, with hydroelectric power controlled through a transmission system linked with other power projects here.

Total estimated cost of the project is over $100,000,000.

The government has already negotiated with the International Bank of Reconstruction for a $35,000,000 loan. Additional funds will come from Lebanon's annual budget. A financial analysis indicated the entire amount could be repaid in 40 years with possibly some decrease in Beirut electricity rates.

Approximately 6226,000,000 kilowatt-hours of energy will be produced by the completed project in an average year, Snyder pointed out, a great boon to a country whose capital city is crippled by power cuts and whose villages still use gas lamps.

Dazed by the blow with a blunt instrument, Keehn said the thug took his wallet, containing $10 and personal papers. No Important Rules Changes Seen for Football

NEW YORK (AP)— The 10-man NCAA football rules committee began its three-day session today and indications were that no important changes would be made.

The coaches' rules committee last week recommended three relativly minor changes in the code and it was considered probable they would be accepted.

* * *

The coaches have asked that the substitution rule be relaxed somewhat. If their proposal is followed, the 4-minute segment at the end of each half when players who have been removed from the game are allowed to re-enter, will be eliminated.

* * *

Instead, a player who starts a quarter would be permitted to leave and re-enter once during that period. This would serve the dual purpose of permitting a player to get a breather or have an injury examined and permitting limited use of specialists such as conversion kickers.

* * *

However, a player who did not start the quarter would not be permitted to re-enter once he has been taken out.

"Otherwise I think we have a pretty good game now," said one member of the committee, "and I think the general idea is to leave the rules alone so that everybody has a chance to learn them."

The other two changes being considered by the committee are to put some stricter limitations on the movement of linemen to discourage the "sucker shift," and to permit the use of a 3-inch tee instead of the present 1-inch tee on kickoffs so that there won't be so many short kicks.

Last year, the NCAA committee declined to put teeth in the "sucker shift" rule, maintaining that the code which classed it as unsportsmanlike was enough. It was felt, however, that since the coaches feel so strongly on the subject to bring it up the NCAA would go along with them.

* * *

Actually, the committee was scheduled to devote more time to a discussion of safety measures than anything else. The committee has been alarmed over the rise in football fatalitis the past season.

* * *

Most of the deaths have been ascribed to faulty equipment, especially headgear, and a subcommittee has been making a continuing study of equipment and protective devices in conjunction with sporting goods manufacturers. The results of the study will be reviewed at length.

* * *

H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, athletic director of the University of Michigan, is chairman of the committee, with E. E. (Tad) Weiman of Denver as secretary. The other members are Lloyd Jordan of Harvard, Ellwood A. Geiges of Temple, Bob Neyland of Tennessee, Caroll Widdoes of Ohio University, Lawrence Mullins of Kansas State, L. R. Meyer of Texas Christian, Jack C. Curtice of Utah, Frank G. McCormick for the Pacific Coast Conference and Amos Alonzo Stagg a life member.

Only Stagg was expected to be absent.

South Wins Seniors' Game

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Coach Paul Brown said the South team "did the things they could do best—and they kept doing them" in outscoring his Northerners 12-6 after three lean Rebel years in the Senior Bowl.

Brown, coach of the Cleveland Browns, told sports writers "we did as well as we could."

* * *

His backs, led by quarterback Dave Leggett of Ohio State, pierced the powerful South line for an 80-yard touchdown drive in the second quarter of Saturday's game, with Leggett scoring from one foot out.

* * *

But the South, directed by long-time pro coach Steve Owen, charged back after the intermission and scored on a drive that followed the second half kickoff. Frank Eidom of Southern Methodist got the tying score on a 2-yard dive.

* * *

The other South touchdown came on a 10-yard power play by fullback Dick Bielski of Maryland in the fourth quarter. This followed a sustained drive of 63 yards.

Quarterback Bobby Freeman of Auburn, named outstanding player in the game, did a masterful job of directing the scoring drives and was leading total ground gainer.

His fine efforts during the season, in Auburn's 33-13 Gator Bowl victory over Baylor, and in the Senior Bowl earned him a contract to play with Winnipeg in the Canadian League.

* * *

He and teammate Jack Locklear, center, were signed by Al Sherman, Winnipeg coach who aided Owen in whipping the Southerners into a cohesive unit during their short week of practice.

* * *

"I guess you could call them bonus contracts," Freeman said. "at least, we're both well satisfied."

Each of the winning Rebels received $500 and expenses, and the North team members got $400 and expenses.

Seek Wyatt's Successor

Weaver and Broyles Are 'Possibles' at Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Texas Tech's DeWitt Weaver and Frank Broyles, Georgia Tech backfield coach, are among candidates for the head football coaching job at the University of Arkansas.

* * *

Those names were the only ones mentioned by Arkansas officials after they huddled more than two hours behind closed doors in a Little Rock hotel Sunday, mapping plans for the hunt for Bowden Wyatt's successor.

Wyatt, who lifted the Razorbacks from the depths of the Southwest Conference to the championship in two years, vacated the job Saturday to become head football coach and assistant athletic director at his alma mater, the University of Tennessee where Harvey Robinson was fired after a poor season.

* * *

Athletic director John Barnhill decided to comment after the meeting. But William Good, assistant to the university president, admitted that Weaver and Broyles are on the list of "six, eight or ten" men who are considered "real prospects."

* * *

Like Wyatt and Barnhill, Broyles and Weaver are graduates of the University of Tennessee.

At Detroit, where he is visiting friends, Weaver said he has been "thinking plenty" about Arkansas, "but I haven't made up my mind what I'll do if they offer me the job."

Broyles, backfield coach of the team that beat Arkansas 14-6 in the Cotton Bowl, also has been mentioned as a leading candidate for the job of head football coach at the University of Houston.

* * *

The search for a new football coach began Sunday. Barnhill said that until Saturday night he "spent about all of my time trying to keep Wyatt. It's hard to keep a coach and hire a new one at the same time."

Larson, Hardy Spark Victory in Hula Bowl

College All-Star '11' Downs Hawaiian Team, 33-13, Sunday

HONOLULU (AP) — Quarterback Paul Larson of California outpassed Cleveland's Otto Graham to lead the College All-Stars to a 33-13 victory over the Hawaii All Stars in the 9th Hula Bowl Sunday.

Displaying fine field generalship, Larson mixed his passes deftly with the sharp running of Colorado fullback Carroll Hardy for scores in every period, including two touchdowns in the second.

* * *

Larson connected with 9 of 15 passes for 200 yards. Graham, who led the Cleveland Browns to the National Football League professional championship, hit 17 of 31 for 190 yards and 2 touchdowns.

Hardy cracked the line for 138 yards in 13 tries and punted 4 times for an average of 47 yards. Sports writers and radio announcers selected him as the game's outstanding collegiate player.

The valuable player award for Hawaiians for the second straight year went to halfback Skippy Dyer, U.S. Marine private who formerly played with Los Angeles City College.

He's 72 Hours Late

DePaul Coach Faces Kentucky Tonight; Sees Two Interpretations to 'Cat Upset

He had the feeling his Demons might sneak up on the Wildcats and hand them their first loss at home after 129 victories.

* * *

But that upset, which shocked some 8,500 spectators Saturday night, was engineered by an underrated Georgia Tech team. A basket by Joe Helms in the last 11 seconds gave Tech a 59-58 decision in Memorial Coliseum, better known as "Carnage Canyon" or "Death Valley."

It was Kentucky's first home defeat since Jan. 2, 1943, when Ohio State pulled a surprise, and the first time since Jan. 21, 1939, that Kentucky lost on its own floor to a Southeastern Conference foe. Tennessee last did the deed by a 30-29 count.

Another record going into the discard was the Wildcats' string of 32 straight victories over two seasons. They lost last to St. John's of Brooklyn by 64-57 in the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. tournament March 22, 1952.

Looking ahead to tonight's game, Meyer said there are two ways to interpret the defeat of the nation's top-ranking team in The Associated Press poll.

"The Cats might fold up, true enough. Or they just might go out and beat the living devil out of people. As for me, I don't think they'll hang their heads. They'll just go out and massacre people.

* * *

"I wish I'd played Adolph (Rupp) Saturday night," he added. His Demons have won nine of 10 games, including a split with powerful Minnesota of the Big Ten.

* * *

As for Rupp, he had no explanation for his team's defeat—other than the obvious one that "Kentucky was over-confident, smug and just didn't sink baskets."

* * *

He said his Wildcats, now holding a 7-1 record, "made mistakes when it hurt. It only proved what I had said all along—that we were going to run into trouble before the year was over."

Unheralded Georgia Tech '5' Snaps Kentucky Cage String

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The almost unbelievable defeat of the Wildcats by a club that could not win a Southeastern Conference game last year was only a little more surprising than the defeat of mighty Duquesne by little St. Francis of Loretto, Pa. Kentucky's defeat, coupled with Cornell's victory over Dartmouth, left just one major unbeaten team in the country—Auburn.

1. The Wildcats had won 32 games in a row and 129 in a row on its home court.

2. Kentucky had not lost a Southeastern Conference game at home since 1939, running up a string of 70 victories.

3. Georgia Tech showed a less-than-mediocre 2-5 record this season.

"What is there to say but 'Wow'," enthused John (Whact) Ryder, Tech coach. "We worked three days getting ready for Kentucky, but it was no strategy we used. We were stronger than Kentucky throughout and our kids forced them on a lot of plays."

The Dukes' 82-72 defeat at the hands of St. Francis came from a team that had broken even in eight games this season and lost to Duquesne earlier in the season 71-58. Duquesne plays Dayton tonight.

* * *

Other notable weekend action included Cornell's 70-66 defeat of Dartmouth, and Furman's fantastic 154-67 victory over the Citadel to set a new college scoring record. Darrell Floyd, Fank Selvy's successor at Furman, dropped in 50 points although he sat out most of the second half.

Wolverines Trip Ohio in Overtime

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Ohio State's Robin Freeman and his Buckeye mates took an unexpected overtime licking at the hands of Michigan's Wolverines, 88-81, Saturday night. The upset was engineered despite the Herculean efforts of Freeman, nation's top scorer. Robin accounted for 35 points, but was stymied in overtime after the count stood at 77-all in regulation time. He didn't get a point in the extra period.

Tom Jorgenson of Michigan was the game's hero. He whpiped in seven points during the overtime to nail UM's first Big Ten victory.

Top Weight Handed 'Tan' in Experimental

"So they assigned 128 pounds to Summer Tan and only 127 to Nashua?" the 80-year-old dean of horsemen asked. "I'd rate them the other way 'round. Why, Nashua beat him two out of three."

Kerbawy Says Erdelatz Will Take Rams' Position

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eddie Erdelatz, Navy football coach, will accept a long-term contract to coach the Los Angeles Rams at nearly double his Navy salary, the Washington Post and Times Herald said Monday.

Shirley Povich, sports columnist for the newspaper, quoted General Manager Nick Kerbawy of the Detroit Lions as saying "Erdelatz's shift to the Rams is in the works and will probably be announced before the week is out."

The newspaper said efforts to reach Erdelatz for comment were unavailing.

Erdelatz and President Dan Reeves of the Los Angeles entry in the National Football League conferred in New York last week during the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. meetings, Povich said Kerbawy reported.

* * *

Kerbawy was quoted as saying, "Erdelatz is the man Reeves wants and the salary has already been agreed on. Eddie is going to Los Angeles this week to talk about details."

Snead Wins $1,425 in MacNaughton Test

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Sam Snead, $1,425 richer for 18 holes of golf in the MacNaughton Pro-AM, says he hopes his back will continue to improve so he will be at his best for the Masters and the National Open this year.

Sam whipped a field of 50 pros by five strokes with a 7-under-par 65 and collected the $1,000 first prize. He also picked up another $425 for placing in the money with all three of his amateur partners in the two-ball best-ball competition.

Richards Plans to Remain Pilot

Manager of Orioles Won't Concentrate on Office Duties

DALLAS (AP)—Paul Richards, general and field manager of the Baltimore Orioles, says when he's through managing he'll be through with baseball.

'I'll be managing as long as I'm in baseball," Richards told the Dallas Times Herald in answer to reports he planned to turn over active management of the team to a younger man within a season or two—leaving himself free to concentrate on office duties.

'What I actually plan to do," Richards said, "is pass along the office duties to my lieutenants, and get right into the thick of the fight."

Richards said he felt the Orioles "have what it takes to become a contender for a first division berth," adding, "if some of the youngsters come through we could provide a real surprise.

Cubs' Rookie Boasts Record of 28 Victories

NEW YORK (AP)—The winningest pitcher in all baseball last season will be one of the 23 rookies to report to the Chicago Cubs' spring training camp at Mesa, Ariz. March 1.

Robert Thorpe is the name and this 19-year-old righthander has fired the imagination of everybody in the Cubs' front office. Pitching for Stockton of the California League, Thorpe reeled off 28 of his team's 80 victories and lost only four.

True, the California league is Class C but no one can make light of the lad's fantastic record which includes 32 complete games in 33 starts, 197 strikeouts and only 94 bases on balls in 300 innings and a 2.28 earned run average.

"I would not be surprised if he stayed in the big leagues in his 1st year," said Gene Handley, former major league infielder who managed Thorpe at Stockton.

Rudy Garcia Faces Bobby Bell Tonight

Halas Calls Pro Grid Draft List Poor This Year

CHICAGO (AP) — George Halas foresees slim pickin's at the annual National Football League player draft meeting in New York Jan. 27-30.

The astute owner-coach of the Chicago Bears thinks this year's college seniors make up the skimpiest pro football crop in years but he says it's hard to put a finger on the reason.

* * *

"There are a few players in the country who are considered very good pro prospects and these will be snapped up early in the draft," he said. "But outside of these men, the quality of available candidates levels off."

Halas refrains from naming the limited few of priority rating "because it wouldn't be good for the other boys to feel classified in a sub-standard group."

Eastern Loop in a Quandary

Schedule Set Despite Uncertainty of Number of Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—The Class-A Eastern League has ready for adoption a 140-game schedule but still doesn't know whether it is going to operate with eight or six clubs.

* * *

As the situation stands Monday, following Sunday's special meeting, the circuit has seven clubs ready to go. And Albany has been given until Jan. 29 to decide if it will field a team under a new owner.

* * *

If Isadore Tabachneck, supermarket operator, fails in the two weeks to gain the support of Albany fans, he'll not purchase it from Tom McCaffrey, Albany president, and the league will operate with six clubs with Wilkes Barre being dropped.

Supreme Court May Rule on Boxing Today

Decision to Be Made on Anti-Trust Suit Against IBC

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Supreme Court may decide today whether big time boxing can be regulated by the federal government.

The high court, meeting after a one-month recess, may hand down a ruling in the government's anti-trust suit against the International Boxing Clubs of New York and Chicago. Boxing czar James D. Norris, Arthur M. Wirtz, and the Madison Square Garden Corp. own 80 per cent of the two clubs.

The justice department alleged Norris, Wirtz and the Garden control completely all championship bouts and the radio and television rights connected with them.

The high court also may act on the appeal of 13 2nd-string Communist leaders who were convicted of conspiring to advocate the violent overthrow of the government.

The attempted government crackdown on boxing has been blocked in the lower courts. These courts held boxing must be viewed as similar to baseball. The Supreme Court already has exempted that sport from anti-trust prosecution.

The justice department claimed the two sports differ widely because of the importance of radio and television rights in boxing. IBC control of radio and TV rights puts club activities in interstate commerce and subject to government control, the justice department contended.

Boxing interests contended that each bout is a local affair out of reach of federal regulation.

Littler Wins LA Open

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ex-sailor Gene Littler, completing his first year as a professional, banked the $5,000 first prize in one of the game's most coveted events and heads back on the golfing trail Monday.

* * *

Refusing to be awed by the seasoned pros, the former U. S. amateur champion from San Diego, now playing out of Palm Springs, Calif., fired a two-under-par 69 Sunday to win the $32,500 Los Angeles Open with an eight-under-par 276 for the 72 holes.

* * *

The sandy-haired 24-year-old thrilled the gallery when he chipped in a 35-footer on the 15th hole that practically assured him the victory. And it followed a pattern he established the day before when he holed out chip shots of 35 and 60 feet on the last two holes.

"That's more than I chipped in all last year," said Littler.

* * *

The big check he banked was the largest he's won since turning pro last January. But his victory came as no great surprise. As an amateur he beat the pros in the 1954 San Diego Open and he was second in four PGA events, including the United States Open.

Littler, in the last threesome to finish, knew he had to beat the 278 posted earlier by the veteran Ted Kroll who drew down the $2,780 second money. It didn't phase the young golfer. After a putt rolled around the cup and dropped in for a par on 14 and he sank his great pitching wedge shot on 15, Littler came on in regulation figures to post his 69, matching Kroll's final round.

Heading now for this week's Bing Crosby extravaganza at Pebble Beach, Gene figures he has some work to do.

"I'm not satisfied with my irons," he admitted, "I'm going to be working on them."

* * *

Behind Kroll in the list of 102 pros and amateurs who survived the opening rounds came the veteran Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh with a 72 for 279 good for $2,100. At 280 were Wally Ulrich with a 67 for the final day, and Johnny Palmer, and Doug Ford, both with 70s. Each collected $1,300.

Purdue, Illini Meet With Big Ten Lead at Stake

CHICAGO (AP) — Purdue and Illinois, boasting the best records among Big Ten teams, clash tonight for conference leadership at Lafayette.

The Boilermakers won their conference opener Saturday and are in first place while eight other teams, including Illinois, are deadlocked for second place with 1-1 records.

Three other games are on tap tonight with Indiana at Minnesota, Michigan State at Iowa and Wisconsin at Michigan.

Purdue has won eight of its nine games this season including a 78-77 victory over Northwestern Saturday. The Boilermakers' only loss was suffered in the east when Penn edged Purdue by one point in the final seconds.

Illinois has two defeats in nine games. Loyola of the South beat the Illini before Wisconsin sprang a conference opening upset. However, Illinois bounced back Saturday to whip Indiana, 99-75.

So far the Big Ten race has been a matter of home-court victories. In the 10 games played only Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin have suffered home-floor losses.

Iowa was beaten at Iowa City Saturday by Minnesota 81-80. The burly Gophers are host to what appears to be Indiana's weakest team in years.

Birmingham Setter Best in GR Show

Wyatt Planning New Wrinkles

Vols' Single Wing Will Be Stepped Up Under Ex-Porker Coach

FAYETEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Bowden Wyatt, Tennessee's new football coach, promises some new wrinkles in the Volunteer's style of play—the power-packing single-wing formation taught by the old master at Knoxville, Gen. Bob Neyland.

"We will, of course, remain a single-wing team at Tennessee, but we'll open up the offense some if we can," the former Arkansas coach said here Sunday.

Wyatt, who came to Tennessee on a five-year contract at $15,000 annually, left Arkansas after two years. He succeeded Harvey Robinson, fired after Tennessee's worst football season in 30 years.

Detroiters Make 4 Shifts in Standings

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Detroit Strohs Beer bowlers accounted for four of five changes this weekend in the Central States bowling tournament.

In the other change, John Kenney and Olie Johnson of Ann Arbor, rolled 1298 to move into 5th place in the handicap doubles.

Dates Set for Major Golf Tests in State

DETROIT (UP) — Michigan PGA has announced dates for three major golf tournaments in the state this year.

The Michigan Open will be staged June 24-26 at Ann Arbor's Washtenaw Country Club, the Michigan PGA July 10 at Owosso Country Club and the Michigan Pro-Amateur Aug. 28 at Battle Creek Country Club.

Birmingham Country Club and Red Run Golf Club will host the qualifying for the National Open on June 6 and Meadowbrook Country Club will host qualifying for the National PGA May 23.

National PGA will be held at Meadowbrook in July.

Defending Champs Win in YMCA Loop Openers

Pontiac YMCA Basketball League play opened Saturday, with five games played in two divisions.

In the Senior High section, defending champion Pontiac Hi-Y Titlists were hard-pressed to edge Avondale Hi-Y, 33-30. First Baptist scraped past Central Methodist 25-23, in another close tilt, and Nonamakers swamped Pontiac Hi-Y Swishers, 49-16.

Scoring honors for the night went to Rex Futrell, who piled up 14 points for First Baptist. Frank Nonamaker and Lyle Lampert each had 12 for the Nonamakers.

Greek Orthodox Church and Eastern Junior Hi-Y, last year's champion and runnerup, respectively, in the junior high division, both took opening victories. Greek team dumped YMCA "A" team, 17-8, while Eastern downed YMCA "B" squad, 19-4.

Titans Defeat Oklahoma Aggies for 11th Victory

BY UNITED PRESS

University of Detroit's basketball team won its 11th victory in 12 starts Saturday night at Stillwater, Okla., defeating Oklahoma A & M, 62-59.

A field goal by sophomore Bill Ebben gave Detroit a 59-all deadlock with less than two minutes to play. Detroit went into a stall and when the Aggies started pressing, Ralph Goldstein hit one free throw and George Fefles two more for the victory.

Coast Club Rejects U. S. Amateur Event

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Country Club's board of directors has announced that it will not be the host club for the 1956 National Amateur golf championship.

The club's directors announced last summer they had accepted the United States Golf Assn. offer. Since then, it was disclosed, the new board has voted not to entertain the championship. No reason was given for the change of sentiment.

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY

CASE—The "Inside" Swing.

Turning the right shoulder back as the stance is taken, and facing approximately at the No. 6 pin, is the simple way to develop an effective "inside" swing.

As the sketch shows, the ball is swung back well inside the "straight" line. From that angle the delivery naturally is to the right of the head pin, as dotted line shows. Notice the position of the hand, with arrow indicating fingers on the right (outside) of ball.

The important thing, once this position is reached with coordinated footwork and arm-swing, is to complete the approach with a left-foot slide finish and a full, follow-through swing.

Should the ball have too much hook-break—and it will hook with this delivery, that is sure—practice a longer swing-through. Reach out more. That will reduce the hook for better control.

Harbert Only Michigan Money-Winner at LA

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UP) — Chick Harbert, the 1954 PGA champion, was the only Michigan golfer to share in the prize money in the $32,500 Los Angeles Open which ended here yesterday.

Harbert, of Northville, Mich., collected $145 for a 286 total. He finished 10 strokes behind former National Amateur champion Gene Littler of Palm Springs, Calif., who walked off with top prize money of $5,000.

Christening Goes Amiss as Bottle Fails to Break

TORONTO, Ont. (UP)—Mrs. Leslie Frost, wife of Ontario's premier, was selected to christen an aircraft yesterday in ceremonies inaugurating American Airlines' nonstop service in DC6s between Toronto and New York.

Six times she smacked a bottle containing water from Lake Ontario against the four - engine plane. Six times the bottle failed to break. Finally, officials took the bottle from her and declared the plane christened anyway.

Jack Webb Weds Today or Tomorrow

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Just when it was expected that Julie London Webb would marry Bobby Troup and beat her ex, Jack, to the license bureau, Jack and Dorothy Towne made it first. They'll be wed today or tomorrow in Chicago.

But Julie is not without news of her own. She has signed agent Henry Willson and is resuming the career she gave up six years ago when she married Sergeant Friday and had two children.

Henry has appointments for Julie at Both Columbia and Universal-International. She is so pretty I wouldn't be surprised if she's signed both places.

Her romance with Troup hasn't cooled, far from it. But she would like her career to start perking before she marries.

Although even her best friends believed that Vanessa Brown was so involved in making a divorce settlement with Dr. Robert Franklyn that she wasn't thinking of anything else—that isn't the case.

Vanessa has signed a two-picture deal with Jerry Wald at Columbia and she will report on the lot as soon as she is past the emotional upset of filing her divorce.

Last year was a bad one for Vanessa. She was ill for months following the breakup of her marriage. But 1955 already promises to be much brighter for her.

Poor Gloria Stewart has such a bad case of virus which she can't shake that her doctor says she can't go along with Jimmy when he leaves for the Far East on Jan. 12.

It's too bad because both had looked forward to the jaunt which is part vacation and part promotion for Jimmy's picture, "Strategic Air Command." I have an idea he'll just happen to mention the movie he's just finished for Bill Goetz, "The Man from Laramie," too.

Knowing Jimmy and how devoted he is to Gloria and the children, methinks the trip won't be as long as originally planned.

This seems to be the time for Marilyn Monroe to be discarding. First, Joe DiMaggio, and now Famous Artists and Charlie Feldman who stood by her through thick and thin. Is it these new friends who are responsible for her change of heart?

I have known Marilyn longer, perhaps, than most people in Hollywood. I met her first at Joseph Schenck's and for a long time she listened to his advice and to the advice of her friends who had only her interests at heart.

But I don't know what's happened. Whatever it is I don't like it, because this little girl has so many wonderful qualities.

Legislature Set for Stormy Term

Small GOP Majorities in House, Senate Face Williams Program

LANSING (UP)—The 68th Michigan Legislature will convene Wednesday in an atmosphere of strife and great political rivalry.

It will be the first Legislature in which the small Republican majority finds itself the party's last political bulwark. Democrats have captured virtually all state offices, elective and appointive.

It will also be the first Legislature under a new reapportionment, or redistricting, which increases the size of the House of Representatives from 100 to 110 members and the Senate from 32 to 34.

Republicans hold only 59 of the 110 seats compared to their 66 in last year's 100-member House. The Republicans control the Senate by 23 of the 34 seats, compared to last year's 24 of 32.

This set the stage for tight party discipline on both sides of the aisles—if it can be maintained—in the face of Gov. Williams' determination to make his fourth term his most productive yet from a legislative standpoint.

Williams will go before the combined House and Senate Thursday morning to read his message and lay down the course he hopes the Legislature will follow.

It is expected that Williams' message will be only the first of several dealing with major state problems.

But he already has made it clear that he will pitch his demands to better roads and better schools. Both of these subjects are politically popular, will be difficut for the Republicans to counter and will probably create demands for new taxes.

Speaker of the House Wade Van Valkenberg (R-Kalamazoo) is expected to be reelected to that post, but the selection of floor leader and speaker pro tempore are still undecided.

Judy Garland Better Get on TV Real Quick

By EARL WILSON

Hollywood—Peggy King, the pretty little Ravenna, O., gal singer on the George Gobel show looks and sings so much like Judy Garland that one studio official found himself calling her "Judy King."

"So that's what's happening to the public's mind about Peggy King!" he said, psycho-analyzing himself.

"With Peggy being seen by millions every week," he added, "and Judy only in occasional movies, Judy had better go on TV quick—or people will say 'Judy Garland sings like Peggy King.'"

"That's what they were sent over there to do," retorted Bogart.

Ask More Probation, Parole Use in State

DETROIT (UP)—The Michigan Corrections Commission today threw its weight behind a program urging much wider use of probation and parole in preference to the concrete and steel of new prisons.

It voted its support, at a meeting here yesterday, to recommendations contained in a caustic report from the National Probation and Parole Assn.

Said Fred C. Bates, state director of probation:

"We can estimate that 10 per cent of those in prison now could better have been given probation and be free men today."

Commission spokesmen said the Legislature will be asked Wednesday to initiate reforms which would require an additional 25 probation officers and 15 new parole officers.

Transfusions Fail to Save Bleeder

168 Injections Are Futile as Texas Man Dies of Mysterious Disease

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Hubert Harris, the 47-year-old manufacturer who had been kept alive by more than 168 blood transfusions, died early today.

Baylor Hospital reported Harris died about 6:00 a.m.

Only last night, surgeons had opened Harris' stomach in a meticulous exploration of his intestines. They hoped to find the bleeding points and then close them off.

* * *

Doctors said the more than 168 pints of blood Harris had received was more than anyone else had received consecutively.

Dr. John Emmert said the operation revealed "diffused type bleeding from multiple areas prohibiting a surgical method of correcting."

Huffman, an employe of the Richmond Lumber Co., accidentally spilled gasoline on his clothing as he was filling his truck. He climbed into the cab of the truck and his clothing caught when he lit his cigarette.

Gambling Houses Are Full of Many Interesting People

By SAUL PET

NEW YORK (AP)—You meet so many interesting people in a gambling house, and not all of them cost you money.

The most fascinating, I think, are the shills, those delightful Barrymores of dice, roulette, blackjack or whatever game happens to be dragging and needs a shot in the arm.

As you may know, shills are the genial fakers who are paid to drum up trade by playing with the house's money, to appear to be having the time of their lives in the hope that their thrills will prove contagious.

* * *

On a recent trip to Puerto Rico, where gambling is legal, I studied the shills. You understand, of course, that the only reason I went to the casinos was to gather material for a column.

Shills are easy to recognize. They open and close the joint. When they run out of chips, they retire to the men's room, smoke a cigarette, and somewhow always return with another (or maybe the same) $20 bill for fresh chips.

* * *

When they win, their eyes flash with triumph, and their chips are piled up prominently in front of them. When they lose, their eyes darken, but never into the blackness of real despair because, after all, real despair is contagious, too.

The kindly old banker always wore an understanding expression. As you paid for chips, his eyes seemed to wish you luck. When you lost, he looked sad but, still, encouraging. Always encouraging. When you won, he beamed. He couldn't have been more delighted that you were taking his dough.

* * *

Among the players, I noticed several types.

There was the young couple just off the cruise ship. She seemed taut and breathless. He tried his best to be casual, but his hand shook. She stood close to him. He rolled the dice, made two or three passes and you could see her tugging mentally at his elbow. But his sense of man-of-the-world-liness wouldn't let him leave. Not until he lost.

Then there was the middle-aged drinker, who appeared to be drunker than he was. When the dice came his way, he turned to a woman he didn't know and with great flourish invited her to shoot for him.

This, I guess, was supposed to indicate he didn't care what happened to his money. Anyway, the sight of a fresh woman rolling with somebody else's dough seemed to give the other players new hope. Many bet on her.

* * *

She won at first, and then lost. And as she lost, the drinker became less drunk, less flamboyant, less cavalier.

Then there was the timid, guilt-ridden amateur. When he won, he looked apologetic, as if he were stealing the money. When he won a real pipe, he looked apprehensive, as though three Chicago gunmen were waiting outside for him. When he lost, he seemed to be looking over his shoulder, as though he were playing with his boss' money.

* * *

There was the tight-lipped, belligerent skeptic. Every time his trun came, he growled for fresh dice. I doubt he would know loaded dice from kippered herring. Anyway, fresh dice didn't seem to help, either.

Finally there was the student. For one entire night, he stood by without playing. Just made notes. This was the system player, bubbling with conspiracy. He played the next night. The advantage of a system, as I observed during considerable research, is that with a system it may take you longer to lose, but you lose.

Predicts Americans Will Live 100 Years

DALLAS (AP)—A New Jersey specialist in problems of old age envisions a normal life expectancy of 100 years for Americans as the result of research.

Dr. Edward Henderson, of Montclair, editor in chief of the Journal of the American Geriatrics Society, addressed the Texas Geriatric Society yesterday. Geriatrics is a branch of medicine dealing with old age and its diseases.

"We aren't groping in the dark," he said. "It is not as hopeless as some believe. You don't die just because you're old."

He said between 1850 and 1950 the American's life expectancy increased from 38 to 68.

Olds Strike Vote Reported Heavy

LANSING (AP)—Union officials reported a "very heavy" vote today by Oldsmobile workers casting their ballots on a proposed strike at the company's main and jet plants.

Balloting by the 10,000 workers eligible to vote started at 10 a.m. Sunday, and ended at 1 p.m. today.

The employes, members of Local 62, United Auto Workers (CIO), agreed on the strike vote after the break-down of negotiations for a new contract.

The union says seven issues are holding up agreement. Three of the issues involve seniority rights.

"The union stands ready, night or day, to attend further negotiation sessions if management will grant them," said LeRoy Reist, president of the local.

Reist said workers are complaining of an assembly line speedup. The strike vote was approved by international headquarters of the UAW-CIO.

2,000 View Furniture

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Registrations for the current Grand Rapids Winter Furniture Market were expected to reach the 2,000 mark Monday as the exposition entered its final week. Officials said the figure is about equal with registrations for the similar period in the winter market last year. They said buying and attendance is better than at a comparable stage of the 1954 summer furniture show.

Market Rolling Briskly Ahead

Prices in the early afternoon were up between 4 and 5 points at the outside. There were no depressed spots.

Railroads again were featured leaders of the rally as they were on Friday. They had good backing today from the steels, a field in which business is expanding.

Trading was exceedingly heavy with the tape falling behind as much as four minutes throughout the first hour in reporting dealings on the floor of the Stock Exchange. That type of lag has been a common-place in recent sessions.

Canada Chrysler Strike Vote Delayed by Union

WINDSOR, Ont. (INS) — Members of Local 195 of the CIO - United Auto Workers yesterday postponed a vote on a possible strike against the Chrysler Corp. of Canada.

The vote was put off when union leaders pointed out that the 92-day-old walkout against Ford of Canada was still in progress and that it was against union policy to strike two major companies at the same time.

Voters May Get Gas Tax Issue

Increase Seen as Only Way to Finance State's $500 Million Road Bond

LANSING (UP)—An increase of at least one cent in Michigan's gasoline tax appeared almost certain today—if the man behind the wheel wants it.

"The method of financing the proposed $500,000,000 highway bond issue should be on the spring ballot along with the bond issue itself," Sen. Haskell L. Nichols (R-Jackson) chairman of the Senate Highway Committee, said.

Nichols said the method of financing the controversial bond issue is "still under study,"—but other key lawmakers admitted an increase in Michigan's 4.5-cent gas tax "is our only hope."

Some politicians are expected to make token objections to the increase.

Two big questions remain unanswered: How big an increase and will the voters approve it?

Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler said a two-cent increase would be needed, but a one-cent hike appears more likely.

This would keep Michigan below the 48-state average of a little more than six cents and would bring in an extra $20,000,000 a year for a total of $125,000,000.

Seven states have a tax of seven cents, and three states have a 6.5-cent tax.

Gov. Williams Fans Democratic Hopes

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UP) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for President in 1956, said Saturday his party could win the White House if it offers a "dynamic, forward-looking, progressive program."

Speaking at a Jackson Day dinner in the home state of ex-President Harry S. Truman, Williams said "from my experience in Michigan, where 80 of 83 county governments were controlled by Republicans when I first became governor (in 1948), I can tell you that hard work and faith in the Democratic creed can work miracles."

2-Car Collision Hurts Pontiac Woman Sunday

Mrs. Edith Carroll, 30, of 104½ S. Saginaw St., a passenger in an auto driven by her husband, William C., 30, suffered slight injury Sunday in a two-car accident at Huron St. and Osceola Dr.

Pontiac Police quoted witnesses as saying a car driven by Robert J. Graham, 23, of 503 Omar St., made a left turn in front of the Carroll auto. Both motorists said their views were obstructed by parked autos.

To Probe Rise in Stock Market

Sparkman, Flanders Plan Study of Curbs on Speculation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two senators said today the steep upward spiral in the nation's stock markets will be investigated by the Senate-House Economic Committee.

Sens. Sparkman (D-Ala) and Flanders (R-Vt) said in separate interviews that the boom in security prices calls for a study to determine if government fiscal policies and legislation are adequate.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) has already said he will ask the Senate Banking Committee to conduct a study of the market boom. Fulbright, who will head the committee, said the actual start will await the time when Democrats take formal control of committee machinery, probably in a few days.

Sparkman, who is slated to head the Senate-House Economic Committee, said that group probably could not get around to investigating the stock market climb until late in February or in March.

The 15-month market surge broke last week after the government increased from 50 to 60 per cent the required cash payment in stock transactions.

"I hope Sen. Fulbright goes ahead first with the Banking Committee Study," said Sparkman, also a member of that group.

"The sharp market increase is not necessarily a boom and bust proposition but it may be a dangerous trend that could be a warning."

Both Sparkman and Flanders said they saw little danger of a major market crash, such as occurred in 1929. They said federal margin requirements and supervision of securities, which were not in effect in 1929, should help prevent any crash.

Egypt Confers Honor on Wife of U. S. Envoy

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser presented Egypt's highest award for women last night to Mrs. Jefferson Caffery, wife of the retiring U.S. ambassador to Egypt.

Because U.S. law prohibits American envoys from receiving foreign decorations without special permission, the order of Al Kamal (perfection) first class was conferred on Caffery's wife as a token of appreciation of the ambassador's service in Egypt.

The 68-year-old ambassador is retiring after 44 years in the diplomatic service during which he served in 14 capitals in the Far East, Europe and Latin America.

Caffery played an important part in the settlement of the British-Eygptian disputes over the Anglo Egyptian Sudan and the Suez Canal Zone.

Detroiter Pays Fine on Destruction Count

Irving Berlin Going Stronger at 66 Then He Did When He Was Only 50

By EDDIE CANTOR

Most men at 65, either retire or slow down. Irving Berlin, who will be 67 on his next birthday, is going stronger than he did at 50.

Not satisfied merely with writing the lyrics and music for the film, "White Christmas," one of the big hits of this, or any, year—he is responsible for the smash musical hit, "There's No Business Like Show Business," which stars Dan Dailey, Johnny Ray, Ethel Merman, Donald O'Connor and Mitzie Gaynor.

Irving started out in life as Izzy Baline. In 1892, his parents brought him from Russia to the east side of New York. That part of town was a kindergarten for such people as Al Smith, Jimmy Durante, Joe E. Lewis, and Eddie Cantor.

In our neighborhood, if a kid didn't have all his teeth knocked out by the time he was 13, he was considered a sissy. In school, if a boy raised his hand, you didn't know if he wanted to leave the room, or had a gun in his back.

Irving went to school long enough to learn how to rhyme "moon" and "June" and, in 1904, was a singing waiter at a place known as "Mike's." He got tired of singing someone else's songs and started to write his own. He's written more hits than any songwriter in America.

Irving has a thin, plaintive voice. As a matter of fact, it's so weak that Joe Frisco once said, "You go to h-h-hug me to h-h-hear him." And when Warner Brothers were filming the picture, "This Is the Army," Irving was singing "Oh, How I Hate To Get Up in the Morning" and an electrician standing by said, "If the guy who wrote that song could ever hear this mug, he'd turn over in his grave!"

Berlin gave me one of my biggest song hits, "You'd Be Surprised" in the "Follies of 1919" when we opened the show in Atlantic City. Irving and I spent a lot of time on the beach and, in a bathing suit, he looks like one of those ads: "Send This Boy to Camp." But don't let his appearance fool you. In that slim body, there's a big talent and a heart to match. His songs are loaded with life, and hug the hearts of the people.

'Oh, My Otomi-San'

Japanese 'Mairsy-Doats' Making Everybody Rich

TOKYO (AP)—The critics deplore it, the author abhors it and the singer thinks it stinks. But the song, "Oh, My Otomi-San" is sweeping Japan.

The despised tune has made rich everyone connected with it.

The record of "Oh, My Otomi-San" has sold 441,000 copies in just four months, by far a record for Japan.

* * *

"Oh, My Otomi-San" is a nonsense song set to a brisk melody with the tempo of a drinking song. It is the Japanese equivalent of those freakish American hits which once or twice every generation sweep the United States — like 'Come On-a My House," or the war-time "Mairsy-Doats"—or, for the older set—"Yes, We Have No Bananas."

* * *

Otomi-San, the girl in the song, is the glamor element in a long-forgotten Kabuki drama. Neither the singer, the composer nor the author ever saw the play.

The crooner who introduced the song, Hachiro Kasuga, 30, has rocketed from cheap cabaret jobs to expensive theater bookings as the nation's favorite singer.

The composer, Masanobu Takuchi, of Okinawa, is swamped with orders for new songs and is rolling in royalties. Like Kasuga, he had been scratching out a precarious musical living since the war.

* * *

"They turned my fine original work into this miserable thing," Tadashi Yamazaki says.

"But," he concedes, "the miserable thing has made me rich."

Panama Cabinet to Be Kept Intact

New President Retains Old Advisers as Search for Assassins Goes On

PANAMA (AP) — Informants said today President Jose Ramon Guizado has decided to keep intact the Cabinet he inherited from his murdered predecessor Jose Antonio Remon. But tension remained high in the five-party ruling coalition.

A Cabinet reshuffle was foreseen Saturday when Catalino Arrocha Gaell stepped down from his ranking Cabinet seat so Alejandro Remon, congressman brother of the slain President, could take over and direct the search for the killers.

* * *

Last night, however, sources close to the government said Remon had told Guizado that under present circumstances it would be best to keep the same Cabinet. Guizado declined to accept Arrocha Gaell's resignation.

* * *

Meanwhile, there was no official word of results in the continuing investigation into the assassination eight days ago of the President.

A spokesman for the national guard commander, Col. Bolivar Vallarino, who is directing the search, said investigators from the United States and several Latin-American nations were assisting Panamanian authorities.

About half the 70 suspects rounded up after Remon's murder have been released.

U. N. Chief Asked to Help Free German Captives

BONN, Germany (AP)—The West German Returned Prisoners Assn. appealed to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold today to intervene personally on behalf of all Germans still held captive behind the Iron Curtain and in the West.

More than 300 Germans are serving war crimes sentences in Western Allied jails while the German Red Cross claims to have proof that more than 100,000 are still held in Russia.

They All Adopt Gobel Dialogue

Crawford Celebrates Himself Out of a Job; Jack Barry Gets More

NEW YORK (INS)—Jack Webb peddles a noble brand of sincerity on his "Dragnet" but in personal relations things don't go quite that simply . . . many months ago he told us — personally — he would marry Dorothy Towne right after his divorce from Julie London was official . . .

When our story broke all over the country and his advisers shrieked that Julie might get mad at the statement and try to cadge further financial benefits, Webb very quickly and simply denied he said anything of the sort. . . . We swore to our facts, ma'am.

Webb's announcement today of a quickly imminent wedding to Dorothy Towne very simply supports the credibility of this pillar, which has never carried anything except what we know or believe to be the facts, ma'am, and nothing but the facts.

Man in W. Gray, Me., attained "perfect" TV reception, he reports, with an antenna consisting of a metal rod attached to three coat hangers and a wire-mesh bicycle basket which he simply hung out a ground-floor window.

NBC hoped to cut some fiscal corners by recording most of the music for their week of Miami Beach-based Steve Allen shows starting Monday and "lip-synchronize" the songs with the performers . . . But the musicians' union put down its loud-pedal and now they're probably stuck with an expensive set of taped tunes. . . . Instead, they'll take one drummer and a baton and build a Miami band around them. . . .

Brod Crawford celebrated himself into such a bad case of laryngitis that he had to quit Monday's "Yellow Jack" cast: Lorne Greene subs. . . . Jack Barry isn't satisfied being the only TV star with three shows in a single day (Winky Dink, Juve Jury, Life Begins at 80). He's building a variety show and taking song-and-dance tutoring and otherwise spreading out his already bright career. . . .

TV pioneer Dr. Allen B. Du Mont insists 1955 will still be primarily a black-and-white year. . . .

Bombs, Bullets Turn Movie Into Slaughter

ANCONA, Italy, (AP)—Police held 40 persons for questioning today after a bombing and shooting rampage in a movie house killed two spectators and wounded 41.

While the cinema drama — "Bread, Love and Jealousy," starring Gina Lollobrigida — unfolded on the screen last night, an unknown person or persons threw four World War II hand grenades into the darkened gallery of the Metropolitan Theater, turning it into a scene of bloodshed and panic.

Police speculated it might have been the work of a madman or terrorist.

Stokowski Due Back in New York Today

NEW YORK (INS)—Leopold Stokowski, 67-year-old husband of heiress Gloria Vanderbilt, is expected to arrive in New York today and may discuss divorce arrangements with the socialite actress' attorney.

Stokowski, who conducted two weekend concerts in St. Louis, has refused comment on his marital break-up. His frequent absences from home have been given as a reason for his wife's estrangement.

Gloria has let it be known through her lawyer, Arnold Krakower, that she expects and wants custody of the children, Stan, 4, and Chris, 3.

Krakower said Gloria was prepared to offer "generous" visitation rights and summer custody of the boys to the maestro.

The couple broke up their nine years of marriage two days after Christmas, when Gloria took the two boys from their apartment and moved into a hotel suite.

Nehru Sheds Defense Title, Picks Successor

Nehru already had resigned as president of India's governing Congress party. In addition to being prime minister, he still holds the posts of foreign minister, chairman of the Planning Commission and chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Seeks Santa Maria Under Coral Reef

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — A Binghamton industrialist is preparing an expedition to Haito to seek the remains of the flagship of the tiny fleet with which Christopher Columbus reached America in 1492.

Edwin A. Link has invented a "magnetic wand" with which he plans to search for bits of metal from the Santa Maria under coral growth in Lemonade Reef off the north coast of Haiti. The Santa Maria is believed to have run up there in December, 1492.

Link, chairman of the board of Link Aviation Inc., expects to put out from Miami with his wife in their converted shrimp boat next April. Both are accomplished divers.

Yugoslavs, Red China to Exchange Envoys

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Communist Yugoslavia and Communist China have established full diplomatic relations and agreed to exchange ambassadors, the Yugoslav Foreign Ministry announced today.

Red China apparently took the initiative in arranging the talks, although Yugoslavia, as long ago as 1949, had offered to set up "normal" diplomatic relations with the Peiping government. The Chinese ignored that first overture.

First Charleston Fan in Europe Succumbs

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP) — Annette Mills, generally credited with introducing the "Charleston" dance to Europe in 1925, died today after a long illness.

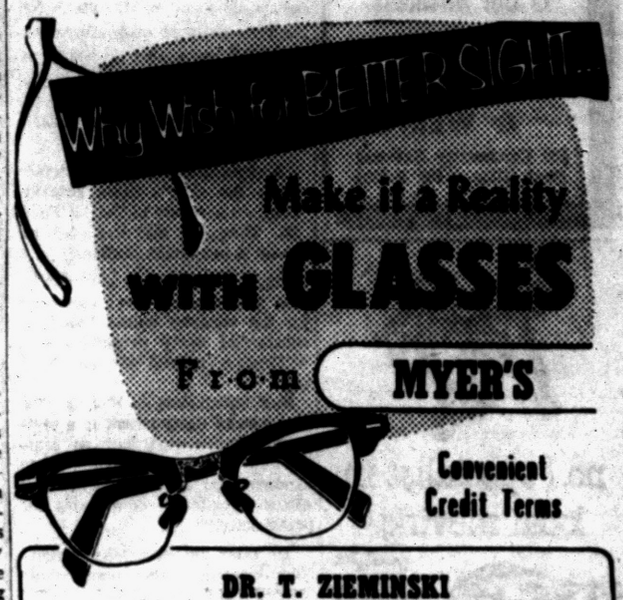

Miss Mills, middle-aged sister of British actor John Mills, had a long career as a dancer and composer.

TOKYO (AP)—Postal and telegraph communications were established between Red China and Communist North Viet Nam Jan. 1, Peiping radio said today.

Rumor Higgins Eyed for Post

Ex-Solon Reportedly in Line for State GOP National Committeeman

Former Oakland County State Senator George N. Higgins (R-Ferndale) is reportedly being considered to succeed David W. Kendall, of Jackson, as Michigan's Republican national committeeman.

A replacement will be selected when the GOP's State Central Committee meets in Detroit Feb. 19. They are also expected to name a new state chairman.

Higgins, a Ferndale auto dealer, said Saturday he won't campaign for the vacancy unless "there is substantial party demand and a willingness to end internal feuding."

Now vacationing in Florida, Higgins served three terms as a state representative and four as senator. He withdrew as a Republican candidate for governor before last August's primary in a move for party unity.

While in the Senate, Higgins authored the Business Receipts Tax which erased the state deficit. There are no announced candidates for the national committee post.

Michigan Skiing Lauded by Girl From Argentina

BOYNE FALLS (UP) — Terry Arizu, pretty daughter of a wealthy South American winery tycoon, probably came farther than anyone to ski in Michigan this year.

Miss Arizu came from Mendosza, Argentina, 6,000 miles from Boyne Falls, to see what Michigan skiing is like.

She thinks Michigan "has a lot to offer" for skiers and predicted "more South Americans will come here when they find out what it's like."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Symbols of learning will provide the central design of the forthcoming three-cent stamp honoring the centennials of the nation's first land grant colleges—Michigan State College and Pennsylvania State University.

The Post Office Department will put the stamp on sale for the first time at East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 12.

The stamp, printed in green, is of special delivery size. It is centered by an open book with superimposed symbols for agriculture, mining, chemistry and engineering. The names of the institutions celebrating their 100th anniversaries flank the central design beneath a panel inscription: "First of the land grant colleges.". The dates "1855 and "1955" appear in the upper part of the stamp.

Insult, Injury Heaped on Luckless Warden

LYON, France (AP)—A burglar escaped from his cell in the prison of Bourg, took the warden's gun, snatched the prison's cash and locked the warden in a cell.

The warden's troubles didn't end there. Penitentiary service officials after an investigation decided to suspend him from his post.

Up-to-Date Convicts

BOSTON (AP)—Officials at state prison disclosed last night they confiscated more than a dozen small receiving and transmitting sets which the inmates were using to communicate with each other. The sets were built with radio and electrical equipment which inmates are permitted to keep in their cells, authorities said.

Dems Planning Battle for Education Post

LANSING (UP) — Michigan Democrats served notice Sunday they will fight to elect a state superintendent of public instruction at the April 4 elections.

The Democratic State Central Committee approved a plan Sunday to hit education hard in the party's spring election platform to be adopted at the state convention Feb. 26 in Grand Rapids.

The convention will be asked to merely re-adopt the party's fall platform on other issues, with minor changes where necessary, leaving delegates free to hammer out a strong education program.

Japan Draws Up Plans for Bigger Armed Force

TOKYO (AP)—Japan plans a 162,160-man army, a 21,348-man navy and a 13,276-man air force in the fiscal year starting April 1. "If the Diet Parliament approved the necessary budget," the National Defense Board announced today.

Present strength of the three forces was given as: army 130,000, navy 15,000 and air force 6,700.
