Racketeers Thrive on Money-at-Home Scheme for Suckers

(Editor's note: This is the first in a series of articles on different gyps and and dodges that hoodwink Americans of millions of dollars each year.)

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP)—Maybe you're a widow, shut-in, or just a housewife with a yen to make a little extra cash while at home.

There are ways to do it — some sensible, some just schemes dreamed up by sharpies for their own enrichment and not yours.

"There are hundreds of these earn - money - at - home schemes," reports the National Better Business Bureau. "Millions of people are swindled each year in schemes that take about 500 million dollars from people who can least afford it."

The bureau is quick to point out that there are legitimate operations which do provide work and income.

How can an innocent person tell the difference?

Miss Irene Clynes, the NBBB expert on such matters, says:

"Get suspicious of anything that promises rewards which are not spelled out. Don't fall for stunts which require you to buy material or equipment without understanding exactly how this will guarantee that you will earn money. In other words, before you invest, investigate."

How do some of these untrustworthy schemes work?

One claims $100 a month can be made by doing assembly work at home. The victim buys a kit for $2 to assemble identification neck chains and tags.

The work consists of attaching 24 inches of chain to a connector and running it through a hole in the tag.

The promoter doesn't buy the finished items — as he leads victims to believe. The victim is supposed to try to sell them for $1 each.

HOME WORK

Then there's the business of selling instructions or home work ideas for $1. For example, a course on renovating old neckties consists of instructions to cut out the soiled part and sew the two pieces together.

★ ★ ★

The schemes selling equipment — such as knitting machines — hold out the promise that earnings will more than take care of the purchase price.

The victim finds out too late that the promoter has an out when it comes to buying the finished product: The product must be "acceptable" or "up to our standards," and it rarely is.

The NBBB, investigating a post card addressing scheme, reports home workers would make an average of 45 cents a week.

Nailing down such unscrupulous operators on criminal charges is no easy task. They are clever in their promotions and operate within the framework of the law.

To prove fraud, for instance, it is necessary to prove intent. And that's often tough to do.

How can you protect yourself? You can get authoritative information on the subject by writing the Small Business Administration of the U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C.

Ask for business service bulletins Nos. 95 and 98. Public libraries have numerous books which have ideas, suggestions, and procedures for making money at home.

★ ★ ★

And when in doubt about a scheme, call the Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce in your town.

Tomorrow: The vending machine racket.

Charge Boy, 17, in Police Act

Hold Birmingham Youth in Jail After Illegal Ticket Attempt

A blinking red light in an unmarked car parked behind another car on Woodward avenue attracted the attention of Bloomfield Township patrolman Martin McLaughlin.

When he pulled behind the car the "policeman" standing near the car door of the first vehicle made a run for the "police car." He wasn't fast enough.

Three of the boys are being held today in the Oakland County jail. Another boy, a juvenile, was released to his parents.

The three being held are Richard B. Whitney, 17, 156 Linden St., Birmingham, charged with impersonating an officer; John E. Bennett, 18, of 715 Square Lake Rd., charged with using a vehicle for illegal purposes, and George R. Widger, 17, of 2719 Burnham Rd., Royal Oak, charged with being a disorderly person.

Bennett was also sentenced today for the malicious destruction of a phone booth last summer. He was sentenced to 60 days in jail and placed on two years probation by Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty.

Local Student, Date Assailed by Car Fumes

Found Slumped in Seat With Motor Running; Revived by Patrolmen

With only minutes to spare, two University of Michigan students, one a Bloomfield Township girl, were saved from possible death yesterday when police pulled them from their carbon monoxide gas-filled car on a lonely stretch of road.

The pair, Patricia Henny, 19, of 3218 Bradway Rd., Bloomfield Village and Noel Cook, 22, of Council Bluffs, Ia., were found near death early Sunday morning by Bloomfield Township police in a routine check of the neighborhood.

Patrolman Richard Reuther and auxiliary officer William Coy found the two slumped in the front seat of the car. The motor was running.

The auto was parked in a driveway of a house under construction on Tootmoor road near Telegraph and Lone Pine roads.

Police said that the side vent windows were open but because of the cold, damp weather the poison gas had been "locked inside the warm car."

The officers were able to open the doors by reaching through the vents.

Both Reuther and Coy gave artificial respiration until a township fire department truck arrived with oxygen.

Police said Miss Henny recovered quickly but 45 minutes and three tanks of oxygen were needed to revive Cook.

After both were conscious the students were treated for carbon monoxide poisoning at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

They were released from the hospital yesterday.

Cook, who was a weekend guest of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Henny, the girl's parents, returned to school yesterday.

Miss Henny was to return to the campus this afternoon.

"Another few minutes and they would have been gone," he remarked.

Police said the car apparently had a defective muffler.

SAVED BY BROTHER — Thankful to have her son, "Buddy" safe at home today, Mrs. Carl Worden of Bloomfield Township lovingly fluffs his pillow. The boy was saved from drowning by his older brother, "Skip," 14, yesterday in a skating mishap. Buddy, 12, was chasing a hockey puck over thinly-iced Middle Straits Lake when he fell through.

Boy, 14, Helps Pull Brother Out of Lake

Inches Over Ice With Length of Hose, Dad and Resident Aid

Heroic efforts of a 14-year-old boy saved his younger brother from death when he fell through the ice on Middle Straits Lake Sunday afternoon.

★ ★ ★

Buddy skated after the puck and fell through the ice into water well over his head. He was beyond a treacherous dropoff known to residents along the lake.

The boy clutched desperately at the edge of the ice, trying to scramble out of the water. But the thin coating kept breaking off under his fingers.

His cries for help brought Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Barnum from their shoreside home at 3962 Fieldview Dr. Barnum started over the ice to rescue the boy, but broke through after his first step.

WATCH IN HORROR

They watched in horror as Buddy's older brother Lawrence "Skip" started to inch his way toward the black hole in the ice. Mr. Barnum threw the plucky lad a garden hose from a neighbor's lawn next door.

★ ★ ★

Slowly, Skip crept farther out. After 15 minutes he reached his young brother with the end of the hose.

The boy grabbed on.

By then his father, Carl Worden of 3809 Sandcroft Rd., arrived at the scene. Together he and Barnum started hauling in the hose with the two brothers hanging onto the other end.

'REAL HERO'

The three trudged home, the boys wrapped in blankets.

By the time someone thought about calling the West Bloomfield Fire Department, the trio was home safe and sound.

★ ★ ★

Carl is staying home in bed today with a "slight cold," his mother said this morning. The courageous Skip is back at school today.

Lions Pick Two LSU Backs

From Our Wire Services

PHILADELPHIA — The Detroit Lions first picked halfback John Robinson and then quarterback Warren Rabb, both of Louisiana State, as their top two choices in the opening rounds of the National Football League drafts today.

Los Angeles got first pick, and they quickly selected All-America halfback Billy Cannon of LSU.

The Chicago Cardinals, who had the second pick, grabbed Notre Dame quarterback George Ize. The Lions were the 3rd team to make a selection in the rotation setup.

Naming Robinson came as a surprise since everyone expected the Lions to go after a quarterback immediately. Richie Lucas, the heralded quarterback from Penn State, was next to be chosen. He was grabbed by the Washington Redskins.

★ ★ ★

The Lions could have elected to draft Don Meredith of Southern Methodist, but the SMU quarterback reportedly has signed with Dallas of the American Football League.

He could have been drafted by the Lions anyway, but "at selection's risk," as it is referred to at the meeting.

No players from Michigan were chosen in either of the first two rounds.

Will Address Nation Thursday

Ike Plans Talk on Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will go on nationwide television and radio Thursday evening to discuss his goodwill mission abroad and such domestic problems as the steel strike.

The White House announced today that Eisenhower will speak over all major networks for 15 minutes starting at 7:15 p.m. EST.

Immediately after the talk, he will go to Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland and depart on a 22,000-mile tour to 11 nations in Europe, Asia and Africa.

THEME TO BE TWO-FOLD

The President's TV-radio theme will be two-fold, Press Secretary James C. Haggerty told newsmen.

Eisenhower will deal first with his Dec. 3-22 trip abroad. He will discuss "the strengthening of cooperation among those countries in pursuit of their own security and progress in the attainment of world peace with justice."

In addition, Eisenhower will discuss the domestic economy. Haggerty put it this way:

"The President will talk about the need for stronger cooperation among the several groups that make up the American economy so that the nation's progress toward peace may be insured and enhanced."

Announcement of the broadcast came after congressional leaders of both parties pledged unanimous backing to President Eisenhower on his forthcoming tour of free world nations.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Democratic leaders who breakfasted with the President all gave their approval to Eisenhower's forthcoming excursion in personal diplomacy.

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Scientists are preparing this nation's final 1959 space rocket for a mid-December shot described as one of the biggest yet undertaken by the United States.

If all goes as planned, the shot into deep space—to orbit Venus—will give President Eisenhower's European and Asian tour—which starts Thursday—the same kind of prestige that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev got from the Russian moonshot before his trip to the United States.

Fulbright said he suggested to Eisenhower that this is "a very propitious time to bring about a settlement of difficulties in India and Pakistan."

Eisenhower will visit both countries on his 11-nation tour.

Fulbright said Eisenhower replied he is hopeful he will be able to contribute toward settlement of free world differences.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said that Eisenhower "will take with him understanding, our prayers and our hopes for a successful journey."

"One thing all Americans are agreed on is that we want peace for ourselves and for all of the world," Johnson said.

Time to Yule Shop Now for Out-of-Town Mailing

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

It's about time to get a Christmas package off to the relatives who live out of town. Let's go shopping for the gifts right away.

Brother Frank is a golf enthusiast and we've found just the thing for him. It's a "kart kit" to fasten to his golf cart. On it are spaces for cigarettes, matches, pencil, golf tees, score card, two golf balls and a lighted cigarette! He'll be crazy about it.

Sister Gwen loves pretty clothes. One of the new nylon quilted dusters in a lovely pastel shade will put a happy glow on her face. She can curl up in it while she reads a good book.

Your older niece is in junior high school this year and avidly interested in clothes. Send her a teenage fashion model doll on which she can create her own fashions. If she sews herself, add a length of material for a new blouse.

Her younger sister will just love a new Dr. Seuss book and a box of the Dr. Suess animals to put together. Don't be surprised if the parents take a hand at creating a new species from the ridiculous plastic parts. They're fun for all ages.

Your nephew likes to work with his hands? Maybe he'd like a pair of electric paper scissors. They're safe, have no sharp points. Or perhaps he'd like a cardboard village to punch out and set up under the Christmas tree. Later, it can go with his model train set.

Great-aunt Susie who lives with your brother's family is a great traveler. She'd like a chapel-ette which is a small lace head covering to be worn in church. Very useful for gad-abouts, as it folds into a small envelope.

Take care of this out-of-town package now, then you can concentrate on your local gifts.

Love's Old Sweet Songs Return

Goodby Rock, 'n' Goodby Roll

BY UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Rock 'n' roll, the teen-age music craze of the last five years, is on the wane in the United States.

Disc jockeys, movie makers and record distributors agreed today rock 'n' roll began fading early this year.

Many disc jockeys felt the decline of rock 'n' roll was a natural trend, perhaps hastened by payola charges that swept industry.

"These things are trends," said Fred Diskey, a Washington, D.C., disc jockey. "They seem to last about four years, a teen-age generation, you might say, and each new group wants its own music form.

"Now there's a trend toward music that's better aesthetically than rock 'n' roll. Ballads were choked off, with a few exceptions, because rock 'n' roll had such tremendous impact. It just blasted everything out of the way."

In St. Louis, Gene Davis, a disc jockey at station KWK, said the rock 'n' roll will never die completely — it will be with us in one form or another."

An official of New York's WNEW-TV said rock 'n' roll is going the way the Charleston of the Roaring Twenties.

"Rock 'n' roll will be with us, of course, but only the way that the Charleston is with us," he said.

"Rock 'n' roll hit its peak around January of this year and started down after that. Its decline was sudden. It was on the decline anyway, before payola came along, but payola hastened it."

A Dallas disc jockey, Terry May, suggested that many teen agers were revolting against rock 'n' roll "goofing up" of old songs. "I'm thinking about 'Danny Boy' in particular," he said.

★ ★ ★

Fletcher Lippery, a Dallas music store owner, said rock 'n' roll is "being replaced by more instrumental things and smoother music. Look at 'Mack the Knife.' It's popular and what you'll call sensible music."

Red China Calls U.S. a Kidnaper

Who Snatched Whom? Nehru Is Pondering Cloak, Dagger Tales

NEW DELHI (AP)—Communist China and the United States each accused the other of a kidnaping in Bombay, and Prime Minister Nehru told the Indian Parliament today he could not say yet which one was telling the truth.

★ ★ ★

Nehru said the Chinese ambassador formally complained to the Indian government today that Americans kidnaped members of the staff of the Chinese consulate general in Bombay Friday.

★ ★ ★

The United States filed a protest Saturday accusing the Chinese of kidnaping and abusing Marine Sgt. Robert Armstrong of Los Angeles, who the United States said, was guarding a Chinese official who had asked for asylum.

"All this sounds more like some piece of fiction than fact," Nehru told the lower house.

The prime minister said Bombay police are investigating.

"Kidnaping of a foreign national is clearly outside the functions of a consulate general," he added.

The Bombay police also were investigating the report of an Indian employe at the American consulate there who claimed that during the weekend two unidentified Chinese tried to take from him a consulate message he was taking to the telegraph office. A spokesman at the consulate said U.S. officials could not verify the Indian's statement.

The Day in Birmingham

Asking Yule Hospitality for Foreign Folk Here

BIRMINGHAM — For students from a foreign land who have no place to go during the holidays, a dormitory can be a lonely place.

To help make these young people feel at home in America, the Northwestern Deanery International Committee of the Detroit Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, is finding friendly homes to offer hospitality to foreign students of all denominations who might otherwise be spending the holiday in their rooms.

Mrs. Donald Scriven, chairman of the group, said that while a special effort is being made to encourage student hospitality, there also are many professional people working in this area who have come from foreign lands and who would enjoy a visit in an American home whether for an evening's entertainment or a weekend.

Anyone interested in opening his home to foreign visitors during the holiday season may contact Mrs. Scriven, 1569 Buckingham Rd., Birmingham.

"Christmas From the Front Door to the Back Door" will be the theme of the talk by Jean Goldner of Goldner-Walsh Nurseries when she speaks to the Wayne State University Alumnae of Birmingham at Showcase, Inc. on Brownell street Thursday evening.

The program on decorations and ideas for the holiday season will begin at 8 p.m.

DJ Demands Quiz Immunity

Record Maker Tells of Smash Hit Deal With Dick Clark

NEW YORK (AP) — Rock 'n' roll disc jockey Alan Freed, key figure in a New York grand jury probe of payola, appeared for questioning today, but indicated he will testify fully only if given immunity.

Arriving at the Manhattan district attorney's office accompanied by his wife and a lawyer, he told newsmen his testimony before the investigators "all depends on whether I get immunity."

"Will you sign a waiver of immunity?" he was asked. (Such a waiver would mean that any information he gave could be used against him.)

"I will not," Freed replied.

In another sidelight on the pop-song business, a record manufacturer told today how he made a recording-selling deal with TV disc jockey Dick Clark, with profits divided between them.

However, the manufacturer, Sam C. Phillips, insisted that the arrangement was not payola, but a legitimate business promotion. Phillips is head of the Sun Record Co. of Memphis, Tenn.

The recording involved was "Breathless," sung by Jerry Lee Lewis. It was a big hit in 1958, with Clark boosting it on his show. Altogether, Phillips sold more than a million copies of the record.

Describing his deal with Clark, Phillips told the New York Post: "Dick was worried about getting a renewal of his contract with Beechnut Gum, one of the sponsors of his ABC-TV network show."

"He offered copies of the Lewis record to the kids for five gum wrappers and 50 cents each. More than 38,000 kids responded, and the sponsor was so impressed that Dick still holds a Beechnut contract."

The Post said Clark got the records for the promotion without cost, and was given half the profits from it, while he, in return, plugged the record heavily, increasing its general sales popularity.

Clarkston Driver Averts Tragedy for Boys on Sleds

A quick thinking Clarkston motorist averted possible tragedy Sunday when he ran his car off Kier road, in Springfield Township, to avoid three boys on sleds.

★ ★ ★

Taken to Goodrich Hospital and treated for minor back and leg injuries was Delbert H. Metzelburg, 11. The accident occurred in front of the boy's home at 9690 Kier Rd.

John H. Sexton, 44, of 9725 Ellis Rd., told deputies he was driving east at about 30 miles an hour when he came over a hill and there were three children on sleds in the road ahead.

Sexton swerved but struck the Metzelburg boy before running into an embankment. Deputies said the car passed over the boy but the wheels evidently missed his body.

★ ★ ★

Irons today appealed to parents to keep their children from sledding near roads. "A child on a sled is almost totally helpless in the path of an oncoming auto and is very hard for a driver to see," said Irons.

★ ★ ★

"Earlier this year a boy was killed in Farmington Township when sledding down a hill onto a road. We don't want to see that happen again."

Four-Car Collision on Baldwin Hurts 4

Four persons were injured Sunday afternoon in a four-car accident on Baldwin avenue south of Walton boulevard.

Donald K. Rosser, 23, of 3200 Giddings Rd., was in satisfactory condition today with a scalp laceration and leg bruises.

His car, traveling south on Baldwin, collided with one driven by Clyde E. Vineyard, 37, 3771 Coleport St., Orion Township. Three perons in Vineyard's car were treated for minor injuries at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

They were Susanne E. Koschke, 17, of 6 Green St., Pontiac Township; Betty Lou Vineyard, 29, and Dennis Vineyard, 10, both of 3771 Coleport St.

Police said Rosser's car apparently crossed the center line and hit the Vineyard car, then struck another car moving south on Baldwin driven by James Edward, 29, of 53 E. New York Ave.

A car driven by John W. Page, 27, 205 W. New York Ave., was also damaged when it hit the rear of the Vineyard auto which it was following.

Sir Winston in Top Form . . . 85th Year

The unannounced appearance of the doctor, Lord Moran, at Sir Winston's London house put gloomy expressions on reporters' faces until Lord Moran emerged smiling.

"Of course he didn't send for me," said the doctor in reply to questions. "I just called to offer my congratulations on his birthday."

Churchill's robust health — despite his age, two major strokes and two bouts of pneumonia — amazes everyone except some of his closest friends.

"People do not yet seem to realize that Winston is the greatest man to live in the world in the last 500 years," said Lord Ismay, a military adviser and one of Churchill's closest friends.

"He's a freak."

A spokesman at Churchill's home said the former prime minister would attend a birthday party — with a huge internationally flavored cake featured — for about 20 people at his home tonight.

The juke box then caught fire.

Icy winds swept Florida today. They damaged crops south of Miami and brought subfreezing temperatures to the northern counties.

Gusts up to 40 miles an hour blew down Christmas decorations in downtown Miami and toppled a concrete staircase at the Sea Breeze Hotel in Miami Beach. Debris crashed through a first-floor roof but no one was injured.

Tomato and bean vines were nipped in the south Dade County farmlands. County Agent John Campbell called the damage serious.

The cold snap came on the heels of record rains which dealt south Florida crops heavy blows earlier this month. Sunday's low of 44 and today's low of 43 set records for Nov. 29 and Nov. 30 at Miami.

Early this morning a frigid 25 was recorded at Tallahassee and 28 in Jacksonville. Readings of 33 were reported as far south as Tampa and Orlando.

Other temperatures included Daytona Beach 34, Vero Beach 38, West Palm Beach 41, Key West 50, Fort Myers 36, Cross City 26 and Pensacola 30.

New England also shivered today in the coldest weather of the season—yet the temperatures were welcomed by many.

Weather Bureau officials said freezing conditions checked a runoff of rivers and streams which threatened to flood after a heavy downpour Saturday.

In contrast, there was a warming trend from Texas northward into the Dakotas and through the upper Mississippi Valley. The rise ranged from 10 to 20 degrees.

Snow flurries fell from the Appalachians into western New York and in the western mountains. Fraser, Colo., reported a low of zero.

Water, Sewer Discussion Set

Waterford Board to Sift Special Reports on Future Projects

Information regarding possible water and sewer installations in Waterford Township will be the main topic for discussion at the weekly township board meeting, according to Supervisor Elmer R. Johnson.

At a special meeting of engineers, bonding attorneys, and township officials last week, data and statistics on the project were discussed. These reports will be presented to the Board tonight for further discussion.

In other business Fire Chief Elmer Fangboner will present a request for the adoption of a definite fire prevention code for the township.

At the present time fire inspections are made under state regulations only and a more specific set of rules are needed because of rapid population growth in the township, Fangboner said.

A request from R. J. Dennison, Leonard Rose, and L. D. Thorten of Detroit to operate a wholesale automobile auction on Dixie highway near Telegraph road will be considered.

The word geyser comes from the Icelandic "geysir," meaning gusher or rager.

Atlanta School Board Adopts 'Placement'

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta School Board today adopted a proposed pupil placement plan that would assign Atlanta's 116,000 public school pupils "without regard to race or color."

The plan was adopted on instructions to the board by a federal court to produce by tomorrow a means of obeying the court's July 1959 desegregation order.

The plan does not specifically order admission of any Negro student to a white school. Under Georgia law, any school that is integrated must be immediately closed. The Georgia Legislature would have to pass implementing statutes before the Atlanta plan could be put into effect.

FAA Help Rejected

DENVER (UPI)—The airports committee of the American Municipal Assn. yesterday rejected a propsal to ask the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) to clear urban approaches to airports. The rejected proposal would have asked the FAA to condemn property and tear down buildings for the sake of safety.

Seaman Dies in Las Vegas

Was Found Shot in Head Last Week Lying on California Desert

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A sailor shot and abandoned in the California desert last week died at a Las Vegas hospital.

Seaman Kenneth F. Rhoades, 24, of Lakewood, Ohio, had a bullet lodged in his skull above the right temple. He died about 5½ hours after leaving surgery at Southern Nevada Memorial Hospital.

Rhoades was found lying unconscious on an abandoned road off U.S. Highway 66 near Needles, Calif., last Friday. He was taken unconscious to a Needles hospital and later brought here. He never regained consciousness.

Rhoades was returning to his ship at Long Beach, Calif., in a newly purchased car. The auto was found at a gas station 90 miles west of Needles, a Colorado River town.

Sunken Ship May Date to Revolutionary War

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Skindivers say they have found timbers of a vessel they believe may be the remains of a British ship burned during the Revolutionary War.

The timbers were found Sunday in Brenton's Cove by a group headed by Jackson Jenks, director of the Marine Underwater Archaeological Society.

He said a layer of mud over the old timbers will be washed away this week.

Bell Plea for Rate Hike to Be Reviewed by PSC

LANSING (AP)—The State Public Service Commission starts a review this week of nine months of testimony on Michigan Bell Co.'s bid for a rate boost of up to 25 million dollars a year.

Briefs are to be submitted to the commission on Tuesday by its staff, the utility and the Michigan Ratepayers Assn.

Norman Berkowitz, PSC secretary, reported briefs are also expected to be filed by municipalities, possibly including Detroit and Grand Rapids.

In November 1956, Michigan Bell applied for a 12½ million dollar annual increase. The commission granted $2,835,000 in August 1957 and $2,300,000 more in July 1958 after a rehearing.

Last March 11, the utility filed its latest rate hike application.

At that time, President William M. Day said, "Our rates generally have increased only about a third as much as the price of most other things people buy. We are a victim of, rather than a contributor to, inflation."

A wave of protests subsequently rolled into the PSC. These included letters from subscribers, resolutions passed by governing bodies and a 20-foot long petition signed by 874 Port Huron residents. Many of the protests maintained that a rate increase would contribute to inflation.

Hearings began May 4 on the more than two million subscribers.

Witnesses for the utility testified an annual rate boost of up to 25 million dollars could be justified. They cited increased operating costs and promised improved and expanded services.

In September, a PSC economist, Tom Hancock, testified Bell should get a rate reduction rather than an increase. He said the utility's rate structure yields an annual excess of revenues of up to 4½ million dollars.

The commission is not bound to accept Hancock's or any other staff member's conclusions and takes no direct part in their formulation.

In making a decision on the case, the commission will be guided by a newly installed chairman, George E. Hill of Marquette.

Hill appears to be the key figure in the outcome since the other two members of the three-man agency reportedly are in disagreement over whether or not Bell merits a rate increase.

Falls 1 Minute Short of Record After 110 Miles

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Barbara Moore, 55, has marched the 110 miles from Birmingham to London again. But her time of 26 hours and 25 minutes Sunday was a minute behind the record set Saturday night by three army men.

Marching the 110 miles for a speed record has become Britain's latest craze, especially with serviceman.

Dr. Moore, a scientist, first did the distance a week before to prove that woman's physical endurance is the equal of man's. She made the distance in 27 hours 30 minutes, a record at the time, but was disqualified when she admitted she ran 38 miles to make up time. So she did it again, bettering her own time but not the new record.

Fans Don't Think So

Payola Wrong, Cries DJ

DETROIT (AP)—Fired disc jockey Tom Clay, who admitted taking payola, says he has received a tremendous vote of confidence from his teen-age fans.

But the outsted DeJay told his supporters he was wrong.

I have received thousands of letters from you kids and almost all of them say they don't think what I did was wrong," Clay, fired by Detroit radio station WJBK, told 3,000 teen-agers at a Saturday night dance.

"This is great for my ego, but its not good for you to think that payola is right. What I did was wrong.

Clay said he received about $6,000 to plug records in the last 18 months he was employed by WJBK.

"I knew I would lose my job if I admitted taking payola, but I had to tell the truth," Clay said, with tears in his eyes. "If I can impress even a small number of you that if you tell the truth things will come out all right, I won't feel so bad."

★ ★ ★

Treasury Quiz Gives Stripper 2-Day Reprieve

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Stripper Candy Barr, detained in Los Angeles for questioning by federal agents, today apparently postponed her plans to start serving a 15-year prison sentence in Texas for at least 48 hours.

She was expected to surrender in San Antonia today, but couldn't because federal treasury agents want to continue questioning her in Los Angeles.

Miss Barr was convicted in Dallas of possession of marijuana and sentenced to 15 years. The U.S. Supreme Court Friday refused for the second time to review her case.

Windshield Shatters on Macmillan's Car

LONDON (UPI)—A mysterious accident shattered the windshield of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's car yesterday while he was driving to his country home at Chequers.

Police suspected "glass fatigue" caused the windshield to crumble. The Prime Minister was taken home in a police car after the incident.

Cuban Catholics Hear Pope's Plea

HAVANA (UPI) — More than a million Roman Catholics, including Premier Fidel Castro, turned out in the rain yesterday to hear a message from Pope John XXIII urging Cuba to cling to its religious traditions.

★ ★ ★

The mass meeting in Civil Square, hailed by Havana newspapers as the most impressive demonstration of faith in Cuban history, opened a church congress here.

★ ★ ★

Castro had charged in advance that the meeting might be infiltrated by his enemies, but he attended the meeting along with several members of his family and a number of officials of his revolutionary regime.

Bride and Groom Say 'Shelter' Test Wasn't Too Bad

DOWNEY, Calif. (UPI) — A 19-year-old youth and the teen-age bride he married Nov. 14 start today their first full week of married life above ground.

They spent the first two weeks of marriage in an 8 by 8-foot underground atomic fallout shelter, in a civil defense test.

Brent and Renae Parker emerged from the shelter Saturday, blinking in the bright sunlight and a little paler, but apparently none the worse for their experience.

"It wasn't too bad," smiled Renae. "The only difficult thing was cooking." She had to prepare their meals on a hot plate, and she admitted, they had overeaten the stored groceries so that the last two days in the shelter they were without meat.

Mrs. Joseph Barnett

MRS. JOSEPH BARNETT, a pillar of the Jewish faith in Pontiac, who died recently, was a successful woman in all ways one can think.

★ ★ ★

She was a pioneer in Pontiac's early development and showed an intense interest in working for worthy causes. Early in her life she gave unselfishly of her time. No task was too great, even with the responsibilities of rearing a large family.

★ ★ ★

MRS. BARNETT'S main interest was her family and helping others by working on community projects. This kindly, soft spoken woman was a sort of Supreme Court for the highest ideals of the American home.

★ ★ ★

She will be missed, too, by all those who appreciated and knew her outstanding qualities. Her four sons that are in business in this area testify to the material strength from her guiding hand.

★ ★ ★

Her passing leaves us poorer, but her career is a permanent inspiration to all of us.

Russia Continues to Be Totalitarian Police State

GEORGE FEIFER, writing in Harper's magazine, points out that it was a shock not to find one person who would criticize the Sputnik program aloud. FEIFER continues, "It was party policy, it was national policy, it must be every Soviet citizen's policy."

What a change from our form of government where we all, at one time or another, lambaste government policies not to our liking. For a free democratic system this is as it should be.

★ ★ ★

Feifer writes: "The American image of the Soviet Union is not always a fair one, but when it is said here that the fate of that country is in the hands of a small, self-perpetuating group which decides not only what is to be done, but also what is to be published and read, this is an accurate description. Perhaps the press can serve as an example. There, every column is an advertisement for the Communist party and the Socialist system. Facts are valueless. Only that which is or can be distorted to appear as praise for the Party or the Great Soviet People is printed."

★ ★ ★

The high Russian potentates established this policy and we are afraid it is not likely to change. At least not for some little time and then only if some drastic change overcomes Soviet policy.

Canada Offers to Take Old or Sick Refugees

Thousands of refugees in camps in Western Europe are waiting for the United Nations to find homes for them. Many are "hard core" cases, that is old and sick who might prove to be a burden to any country which opened its doors to them. This is especially true of persons with tuberculosis.

★ ★ ★

Responding to a U. N. plea, Canada has offered to take a "substantial number" of tuberculosis refugees, beginning with 100, who with their families will possibly number 500. The cost of treatment at sanatoriums and of helping families unable to support themselves, will be shared by dominion and provincial governments.

★ ★ ★

Like the United States, Canada has admitted thousands of refugees since World War II. This latest offer was generously put when Foreign Minister HOWARD GREEN told the U.N. General Assembly that "Canada welcomes the occasion . . . to give a group of human beings whose plight is particularly tragic, an opportunity to rebuild their lives in dignity and happiness."

"OUR entire continent is drifting," says a scientist. As there's nothing you can do about this, you might as well relax and enjoy the ride.

The Man About Town

Eleventh Year

Our Downtown Streets Are Home Decorated

The evergreen Christmas festooning that you see twisting its way up the posts in Pontiac's downtown area again was made by a local firm, this being the eleventh year they'd had the job. They're a part of our city's diversified industry.

These decorations are turned out by

The House of Evergreens,

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph I. Hughes

of 444 Marian street.

They invented the machine that makes this festooning by the mile as the evergreen twigs are fed into it. They've sold a number of the machines to do the work outside of the Pontiac area.

The festooning now on our downtown posts required a strip from the home Hughes machine over one-half mile long. This is only a part of the decorative work done by the family.

Our football contest goes down to its final game, next Sunday. In the Army-Navy game Saturday only two entries who had picked Army to win were eliminated, as Navy won, 43-12. The five who had picked Navy divide their forecasts for Sunday: Detroit Lions, 2; Chicago Cards, 3.

Reminiscent of old days in Pontiac is a letter from now living in Chicago. He says he drove the horses on the Hodges House bus here that met all the trains 50 to 60 years ago. The horses were kept in a "flavorable and fragrant" stable in the rear of the hotel.

A Santa Claus letter with a Holly postmark comes from

on which she may have had some coaching. She wants a rocket machine for herself, a mink coat for Mom and a payola job for Dad.

That entertaining and fluent fanatic for figures,

The centerpiece on the Thanksgiving table of

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Tupperson

of Waterford was a bouquet of pansies. Many were two inches across and they were picked that morning at the base of their warm chimney.

This column has consistently refused to make items at the request of anybody who was scheduled to appear on television, because usually the appearance did not take place as promised. But now a request comes from of Birmingham that we NOT say anything about them in that situation.

Everything in the Ring but Their Hats

David Lawrence Says:

Bishop Stirs Up Population Issue

WASHINGTON—Did the Episcopal bishop of San Francisco, the Right Reverend James A. Pike, advance or retard the cause of tolerance in American politics when he publicly injected the Catholic - Protestant issue into the forthcoming presidential campaign?

LAWRENCE

He was quoted last week as demanding to know whether a pronouncement by the Catholic bishops of America opposing certain forms of birth control is "binding on Roman Catholic candidates for public office."

Sen. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Gov. Brown of California, who are Catholics, promptly responded with their views, and so did some of the non-Catholics who happen to be prominently mentioned for the presidential nomination in the Democratic Party.

The answers given by the candidates generally say they will be guided by what is best for America. But the topic itself, insofar as it relates to any governmental policy is largely irrelevant.

For the United States government is not trying to impose any view on other nations on the subject of birth control, and the issue of population congestion in the world isn't going to be settled by the action of any future president of the United States in the next decade or more.

ARTIFICIAL IS THE WORD

The real objection, moreover, isn't to birth control as such. What the Catholic bishops oppose emphatically is any form of "artificial" birth control, and they say plainly that there are other methods of control that are "morally permissible."

The Catholic bishops in their statement didn't ask candidates to declare themselves on the issue nor was any reference at all made to party politics.

"The perennial teaching of the Catholic Church has distinguished artificial birth prevention, which is a frustration of the marital act, from other forms of control of birth which are morally permissible. Method alone, however, is not the only question involved. Equally important is the sincere and objective examination of the motives and intentions of the couples involved, in view of the nature of the marriage contract itself. As long as due recognition is not given to these fundamental questions, there can be no genuine understanding of them . . .

"United States Catholics believe that the promotion of artificial birth prevention is a morally, humanly, psychologically and politically disastrous approach to the population problem. Not only is such an approach ineffective in its own aims but it spurns the basis of the real solution, sustained effort in a sense of human solidarity. Catholics are prepared to dedicate themselves to this effort, already so promisingly initiated in national and international circles. They will not, however, support any public assistance, either at home or abroad, to promote artificial birth prevention, abortion, or sterilization whether through direct aid or by means of international organizations."

Church bodies often express their views on public questions. Not long ago a national Protestant group urged that our government extend diplomatic recognition to Red China. No Catholic clergyman thereupon demanded to know whether the candidates being mentioned for the Republican or Democratic nomination felt bound as Protestants to support such a policy.

Actually, the statement of the Catholic bishops last week was prompted by recent discussions about the need for some kind of population control in India and other countries.

These discussions stemmed in part from the publication of a formal report to President Eisenhower last July by a committee.

The Country Parson

"Folks seem more convinced when you let them find out some things for themselves—like what an important person you are."

Dr. William Brady Says:

If Reader Had Arthritis, It Wasn't Cured by Iodin

An Alabama reader reported that he had painful "arthritis" in his hands (the quotation marks are mine) which continued unchanged by treatment . . . until he began taking an iodin ration. Then the pain and lameness steadily lessened and now there is no pain or disability.

DR. BRADY

All I know about the Alabama man's case is what he reported. So far as diagnosis of the pain and lameness he had was concerned, calling it "arthritis" didn't mean a thing.

The man didn't say how long his hands had been painful or lame, nor did he say whether the trouble developed insidiously or all in a day or two.

Whatever it may have been, I doubt that taking the iodin ration brought such immediate relief, although I recommend a daily ration of iodin, calcium, vitamin D and vitamin B complex for anyone who has the rheumatiz — that is, insidiously developing joint disability of more than a year's standing.

Since identification of the Alabama reader is impossible, I may say without offense that his letter somehow gave me the impression that the man might have had genuine arthritis, gonorrheal arthritis, for example. If so, I still say the iodin ration probably had nothing to do with the outcome.

Gonorrhea is not the only cause of genuine arthritis, joint inflammation. Other causes are Brucellosis (undulant fever), typhoid fever, scarlet fever, syphilis, pneumococcus infection as a complication or sequel of tonsillitis, etc.

All of these joint inflammations develop in hours or days, not insidiously, and are acute, not months or years in duration. Genuine arthritis, of whatever character, accounts for 1 in 50 cases of joint disability. The other 49 cases are not inflammation at all, but degeneration of joint tissues — what I call RHEUMATIZ.

When degeneration begins, children, the sooner you stop fooling around with wonder drugs and start correcting your faulty nutrition the happier you will be.

NOT CLEAR

From the bulletins or press releases issued by the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, which I have quoted here on numerous occasions, it should be evident that medical authorities have no clear conception of the nature of what they call "arthritis" and so they are as far from the discovery of an effective remedy for chronic joint disability as were the medical authorities a century ago, who called it chronic rheumatism.

However, if you are a victim of the "arthr-itis" hoax, don't despair. The latest, or one of the latest pronouncements of the foundation says that Dr. (name of a physician which we shall not mention here), calls Sec. Herter's chronic joint disability "a wear-and-tear phenomenon, not a disease." To this the foundation adds "osteoarthritis is joint degeneration which normally accompanies the aging process."

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Crane Outlines Rules for Athletes

All potential athletes, as well as you heart patients, should scrapbook this Case Record and the follow-up tomorrow. For herein you see the latest data from both psychology and medicine. You coaches might profitably assign these columns to all your teams, too.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE D - 413: David J., aged 28, is a high school coach.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "would you outline some medical and psychological ideas that would help my athletes?

CRANE

"Although I try to tell them the facts, they get so accustomed to what I say that they don't pay much attention anymore.

"So I'd like an outside authority to add extra emphasis."

SPORTS PSYCHOLOGY

Former Olympic pole vault champ, Rev. Bob Richards, was once asked to offer some secrets to help a high school track man.

"I practiced over 10,000 hours," replied Rev. Richards. "And if any athlete will put in that much time practicing his event, he is sure to win a letter."

However, it is wise to analyze your potential talent at the start, for sprint champs must be "born" with a high rate of speed.

Endurance events, like the mile run or 2-mile race in track, or the longer swimming events, permit a slower athlete to win by means of steady drill and those 10,000 hours of rigorous practice.

Mental attitude is likewise of great value, for people who think positively, actually are stronger than when they feel weak or defeated.

Previously I have cited the handgrip experiment in London where soldiers competed and averaged 101 lbs. per man. Then they were hypnotized and told they were weak, sickly, anemic, etc.

Now, when they competed, they averaged only 69 lbs. But before they were roused from the hypnotic trance, they were told they were strong, Samson-like, Herculean, etc.

Under this positive suggestion they averaged 140 lbs. per man!

★ ★ ★

While we do not reach the peak strength in the normal waking state which is possible during hypnosis, we do go in that direction if we have a confident, positive attitude.

TRAINING RULES

Your endurance for anything beyond a short dash event, also depends in part on the oxygen carrying power of your blood.

This, in turn, is partly dependent on the number of red blood corpuscles and the amount of iron (hemoglobin) they contain.

A man is supposed to have 5,000,000 red cells per cubic millimeter. If he has only 4,000,000, obviously he will not have as much "wind" or endurance.

Even if he has 5,000,000 but they are only 80 per cent full of hemoglobin, he still will be under par.

A study of winning race horses in Australia recently proved that a horse was sluggish and a sure loser in a race if its red blood cell count was 6,500,000.

It was due for a fast and usually winning race when the count was 10,000,000 to 12,000,000.

Humans in high altitudes run a higher red cell count, say 6,000,000 so if the Air Force boys at Colorado Springs were to come down to sea level, they should benefit in long races or grueling football contests.

Excess weight is also a handicap in most athletic events, though some surplus "blubber" may add buoyancy to swimmers and extra inertia to linemen in football.

But extra weight places a greater load on the heart, just to service that additional blubber, for your body must sprout 3 miles of extra blood vessels for each 5 lbs. of extra fat.

Thus, your heart must keep the blood flowing in those extra and unnecessary vessels at each beat.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

'Exactly Why Do We Need to Increase Our Taxes?'

In all the discussion of what new tax will be levied against the people of Michigan, I don't believe it's been made clear just exactly why any new tax is necessary. What, precisely, is the average citizen now receiving in return for his state tax dollar which he didn't receive 20 years ago?

When the sales tax was initiated, the politicians designated it as a "temporary measure." There are more people in Michigan than in 1940, true. But there are — or should be — more persons paying state taxes, too. Is it possible that some of the present state expenditures could be eliminated or reduced? Admittedly, this would be an extremely radical idea in political thinking. Yet it is exactly what the average individual family must do when expenses exceed income.

★ ★ ★

It is within the realm of possibility that certain outlays administered by the Governor's office itself could be cut drastically. This would most certainly be to the advantage of the vast majority of Michigan citizens.

'Men Aren't Only Tramps in World'

I see a woman advised all other women to beware of men and have nothing to do with them, as she drew two bum husbands. 'We Can't Afford to Plead Case'

Nov. 9 I got a ticket for failing to stop at a stop sign. That was wrong because I did stop. Nov. 11 I went to see about the ticket. The judge informed me the trial would be the 19th and they postponed it until the 27th.

★ ★ ★

I appeared again that day and was told a warrant had been issued for my arrest. I appeared each time it had been set up. I was found guilty of the charge and when I asked for an appeal, the judge said it would be $100 cash bond, which I couldn't raise. The ticket was $5 but after appealing my innocence, I was fined $15, so an innocent man doesn't have a chance.

★ ★ ★

The Lansing Court of Appeals says if you're not guilty you should fight to prove your innocence. With six children, it's pretty hard to do. I paid three times as much for the ticket by trying to prove my innocence. I think I got a pretty dirty deal.

Claim Railroads Hide the Truth

The railroads didn't tell about no paid holidays, no night premium, no overtime for seven-day week, reduction of workers to less than a million but still 16 thousand officials, 48 per cent increase in worker productivity but 94 per cent increase in profit per worker employed, net railroad profits increase of 37 per cent but railroad payroll increase of only 11.5 per cent.

Two magazines published stories regrading "featherbedding" but couldn't print the union's comeback. It's been said "featherbedding" costs the railroads $500 million yearly. That's quite a contrast to figures showing workers are underpaid $513 million yearly. Is it "featherbedding" to be on 24-hour call seven days a week?

Ike Changing His Itinerary

To Go Ashore at Tunis for Bourguiba Confab Instead of on Ship

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will go ashore at Tunis instead of conferring with Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba aboard a U.S. cruiser during his 11-nation tour next month.

The White House has announced this as one of several changes in Eisenhower's itinerary. It said also that the President will speak in public about 30 times during the journey.

★ ★ ★

It will be the longest trip ever undertaken by a U.S. president and the first time an American chief executive has visited Greece, Turkey, Pakistan, Afghanistan, India and Spain.

★ ★ ★

Another possible change is that Eisenhower probably will land at Casablanca instead of Rabat, Morocco, for a stop en route home on Dec. 22.

A new departure time from Washington also was announced. Eisenhower will leave nearby Andrews Air Force Base around 8 p.m. instead of 10:30 p.m.

His plane will refuel at Goose Bay Air Force Base, Labrador, instead of Gander, Nfld., as first announced, after a trip of 2 hours 45 minutes.

The President's plane is due in Rome around 1 p.m. Dec. 4, leave there at 11:20 a.m. Dec. 6 and arrive the same day about 3 p.m. at Esenboga Airport in Ankara, Turkey.

Abraham Lincoln delivered his Gettysburg Address on Nov. 19, 1863, more than four months after the battle.

Violent Crimes Increase

★ ★ ★

Hoover said there was an "almost insignificant" drop of about 1 per cent in the over-all crime rate for the period.

His report was based on preliminary crime data received from police departments in 554 cities of more than 25,000 population.

★ ★ ★

For January - September 1959 the reports reflected a 4 per cent increase in murder, 5 per cent increase in forcible rapes, a 7 per cent hike in aggravated assaults and a 1 per cent jump in larcenies involving more than $50.

★ ★ ★

These increases were offset by a 7 per cent decline in reported robberies, a 2 per cent drop in burglaries and 1 per cent fewer auto thefts.

N. Y. Mayor Out to Avert Bus Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner called meetings today in a last-ditch stand to avert a strike by 8,000 bus drivers and mechanics against private lines that serve two million riders daily.

★ ★ ★

An estimated 3,000 members of the Transport Workers Union at Manhattan Center Sunday shouted unanimous approval of a strike for midnight tonight.

They want a 15 per cent increase. They now average from $2.24 to $2.35 an hour.

The bus lines have said they can not talk wages with the TWU until the city grants some tax relief. Wagner made no promises.

Britain, UAR May Resume Relations

LONDON (AP)—Britain and the United Arab Republic have agreed to resume diplomatic relations broken off in 1956 during the Suez crisis, responsible sources say.

★ ★ ★

A joint announcement on the exchange of diplomatic missions headed by a charge d'affaires will be made Tuesday, an official U.A.R. source said in Cairo. Ambassadors will be named later.

★ ★ ★

U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser and the British already have reached a settlement of financial claims and counter claims arising out of his nationalization of the Suez Canal and the British-French invasion of Egypt.

Lillian Edwards' Rites Will Be Held Tuesday

Conductor on Japan Bus Lacks Only a Cup of Tea

She Bows Low With Politeness Load

TOKYO (AP) — The voice of the conductress sang out in the jam-packed bus:

"We are about to make a left turn. Please watch your balance. Next stop, Roppongi. We are sorry you have had an uncomfortable ride. Thank you very much for your patronage."

This sort of perpetual patter is standard procedure among Japanese conductresses. By virtue of a seemingly unlimited capacity for patience, stamina and courtesy, they engage in one of Japan's most exhausting female occupations. And they put on one of the best theatrical performances in town.

Every alighting passenger gets a polite "Thank you."

When tempers spoil as others push and shove their way into an already over-crowded bus, the conductress apologetically appeals:

"We are extremely sorry you should be subjected to such discomfort, but will you please make your way further to the rear."

Then "Aw-rai," she shouts to the driver. This is a Japanese version of "all right," used to signify the bus may proceed.

It's the conductress's job to know the bumps on the road along her route, for she must warn passengers "Please hang on, the road is rough ahead."

These women range in age from 15 to around 23. They work an eight-hour day, six days week and get paid $22 a month.

★ ★ ★

In Tokyo, which has 4,400 buses, applicants spend a month to six weeks training.

The Japanese bus rider has long since become oblivious to the conductress's talk.

U.S. Senators Reveal Pay of Staffs Today

For the first time in more than a decade, the salaries paid by senators to their employes are to be published by the Senate.

A resolution adopted by the Senate last summer requires the secretary of the Senate to compile the information and to make it public every three months. Along with data on employes of individual senators, the list carries information on employes of the Senate itself and of Senate committees.

New Device May Shine Light on Auto Oil Change Muddle

By JACK VANDENBERG
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT — New electronic devices may soon lead baffled motorists out of the confusion over when to change oil in a car.

The auto and oil industries have engaged in a bitter feud over the question of when to change oil in recent years.

The result has been that the motorist doesn't know what to believe.

The auto companies claim their cars can go without an oil change for up to 4,000 miles. But when the motorist stops in at a filling station after driving only about 1,000 miles, the attendant tells him he should have his oil changed.

The confusion results because the wrong standard has been used to determine when oil should be changed.

The number of miles you have driven since you last changed oil really has no direct bearing on whether the oil should be changed again.

The oil in a car has to be changed because it collects foreign particles which normally would wear away the metal walls inside the engine. As it is used it becomes contaminated and loses its power to collect these foreign particles — such as dust or small particles of metal.

It also mixes with condensed moisture in the engine and forms an acid which eats away the metal walls of the engine.

For these reasons fresh, clean oil should be substituted periodically for the oil that has already done its work.

But this has no direct relationship to how many miles the car has been driven. For example, an engine which has been operated in a test laboratory, never moves but it still has to be changed periodically.

This engine probably would have few contaminants such as dust in its oil but it will still develop acid in the oil.

But the motorist needed some guide to tell him when he should change oil. Engineers decided upon the simplest one—the number of miles he has driven.

They figured all motorists drove at about the same rate of speed and on the same type of roads, so after a given number of miles you could pretty well figure the oil would be contaminated.

This may have been true once, but it isn't anymore. A motorist, for example, who does a lot of stop and go driving, gets his engine hot and then lets it cool only to get hot again. This speeds up the formation of acids. The motorist who does a lot of driving on country roads which are not paved is apt to get more dust in his oil.

This means the oil in one car may need a change after 1,000 miles while another car would not need it until about 4,000 miles.

The oil industry, seeking to sell more of its products, urges frequent changes. The auto companies, seeking to show superiority of their products, recommend less frequent changes up to the maximum.

★ ★ ★

What is needed is a device to measure the contamination of the oil in each car individually.

In effect, it is a light source and a rheostat, or device for measuring light. A couple of drops of oil are placed in a test-tube like container and the light is directed through the oil. The amount of light that comes out the other side is then measured by the rheostat.

If the oil is clean, a greater amount of light will pass through it. If it is very dirty it will stop passage of all light.

A dial on the device is calibrated to show the motorist at a glance if his oil is dirty enough to warrant changing.

If the auto and oil industries can agree on how dirty oil can get before it has to be changed, the device could take the confusion out of the question of when to change oil.

A walled "city within a city" was founded 450 years ago in Augsburg, Germany, by a banker named Jakob Fugger. The "Fuggerei," as it is called, is known as the "world's oldest social settlement." An apartment there still rents for about 41 cents a year.

To Commission Missile Vessel

First of Its Class, It's Named for Dewey Who Destroyed Spanish Fleet

BOSTON (UPI) — The first of a new class of guided missile destroyer-leaders, the USS Dewey, officially joins the U.S. Navy fleet Dec. 7 in commissioning ceremonies, at the Boston Navy Yard.

The ship is named for Admiral of the Navy George Dewey, the Vermont native whose mildly phrased order, "you may fire when ready, Gridley," brought destruction within a few hours to the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay.

The New ship, 512 feet long, a 5,600 ton prototype of the largest destroyers ever built, is 50 feet longer and nearly double the tonnage of the largest World War II destroyers.

Much of her armament was dreamed of in that conflict.

In addition to conventional guns, the ship has tubes for anti-submarine torpedoes, and guided missile ASROC (anti-submarine rockets) and the Terrier III Rocket, Designed to repel air attacks.

Reynolds Man Predicts Over Billion Pounds in Year 1965

DETROIT (AP)—An executive of a major aluminum company today predicted the increased use of aluminum engines in American automobiles with every major manufacturer offering at least one line within three years.

J. Donald Shircliff, regional automotive sales manager for Reynolds Metals Co., also predicted the auto industry will use 460,000,000 pounds of aluminum in the current model year. In 1954 the industry's total usage was 132,000,000 pounds.

"There is every reason to believe that the 600,000,000 pounds of aluminum that we expect the auto industry to use in 1961 will reach at least 1,300,000,000 pounds by 1965," Shircliff added.

He said Reynolds optimism is based in part on the success of the aluminum engine in the new Chevrolet Corvair. Three smaller cars by Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac are expected to include aluminum engines when they are introduced sometime next year. Chrysler, too, has indicated great interest in aluminum engines. Less has been said at Ford.

Dec. 1, 1958: Death for 95

This School Should Last

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

CHICAGO (AP) — "If there ever was a fireproof building, this is it."

A workman made that comment to a reporter as they stood near a construction site at the northeast corner of Avers avenue and Iowa street.

They looked at a sturdy steel and concrete skeleton that is rising, like a big-boned Phoenix, from the ashes and charred bricks of the old Our Lady of the Angels School.

The only wood in the new one million dollar, three-story building will be in the doors.

A new fire alarm box already stands like a sentry on the sidewalk of the Iowa street side. It symbolizes the determination that there shall be no repetition of the blaze that swept up an open stairwell of the old school Dec. 1, 1958.

That fire cost the lives of 92 children and 3 nuns.

Our Lady of the Angels pupils attend classes elsewhere while workmen labor on the new structure in a silence broken only by the tap of hammers and the occasional whine of a power saw.

A newsman who revisited the scene recalled the heavy, eerie silence that shrouded the area that short, dark, cold day almost a year ago.

Spectators had gathered behind fire lines and they just stood and stared at the ruined building. Parishioners trickled soundlessly into the nearby church through the late afternoon and evening to offer silent prayers.

That was a silence of mass shock. It has been replaced by a mum reluctance to talk about the tragedy.

"I'd rather not talk about it," Mrs. Joseph Modica told a reporter who called at her home.

Her son, Joseph Jr., 9, had started work last fall on a Christmas gift for her. He took letters of the alphabet that were made of cereal and glued them on sticks to spell out a vow:

"I, Joseph, promise to do my best to do my duty to God and to my country, to be square and to . . ."

He never finished his little project. He died in the fire.

At another neat brick home in the neighborhood, Mrs. Joseph Makowski let the reporter in through an entry hall where a statue of the mother of Christ was enshrined on a wall. She lost a son, Raymond, in the fire.

She didn't want to talk, either. But she did memtion one detail of her sorrow.

"He was going to be 13 that Christmas Eve," she said.

In these homes and elsewhere there was no support for rumors of a lot of bitterness in the parish. The rectory denied rumors of physical or mental breakdowns among nuns.

America Ignores Lad, but Nikita Helps Him

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A 14-year-old boy whose space research got the brushoff in his own country drew quick results when he turned to the Soviet Union for help.

★ ★ ★

Robert Graham, who has his own laboratory and works hard in it, got what he asked for when he wrote to Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the Soviet Academy of Science.

The academy shipped him a box loaded with soil samples from the Ukraine, the central Siberian uplands and the tundra. In these areas winters are bitter cold.

Robert had been after soil samples from cold weather areas since deciding to set up a laboratory environment similar to that on the planet Mars and see whether bacteria can live in it.

Robert's other letters brought these results:

An assistant to Gov. William Egan of Alaska said it would be impractical to send Alaskan soil.

The Mt. Palomar Observatory in California, asked for an analysis of Martian atmosphere, sent data on another subject.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow said its personnel was unable to collect such things.

Then Robert wrote to Khrushchev — and hit pay dirt.

He Needs More Than Just a Belly Laugh

Today's Santa Turns Modern

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. But he's a changed character from the good old days. He has to be, to keep up with today's children.

Santa leaves his "Ho ho ho" at home, and reports to work with a batch of stories, a ready wit, and the knack of ad-lib.

I glean all this from a talk with Miss Beatrice Hendricks, who works for Actors Equity Assn. and has made it her job for the last six years to find Santa Claus and other holiday roles (as extra sales help or toy demonstrators) for unemployed actors.

★ ★ ★

Miss Henricks said an actor makes a perfect St. Nick for one reason — he can act. She said the old days when Santa had a wee drop to keep warm were gone; also gone were the days when Santa could get by with a beard and a belly laugh.

★ ★ ★

Today's children expect a Santa convincing enough to carry them to Fantasy Land; someone with more lines than "Whadda you want for Christmas, Sonny?"

Today's Santa is apt to be soft-spoken, must love children and have enough gentleness to handle the timid.

★ ★ ★

Even so, an actor occasionally loses out to his small audience. Miss Hendricks told of one department store Santa last year who pulled a small boy onto his knee. The child promptly landed a right to St. Nick's jaw.

JUST KID STUFF

"The actor said the only thing he could figure was that the child thought the whole thing kid-stuff; he wanted no part of Santa, but his mother was standing there behind him, pushing."

"Parents shouldn't force a child to talk to a Santa," Miss Hendricks said. "If a child is timid, let him watch; he may then decide to join the other children.

★ ★ ★

"And don't make Santa into a bugaboo. I hate to hear parents saying, 'I'll tell Santa Claus on you' or, 'If you don't eat your cereal, Santa won't come.' "

Each year, Miss Hendricks, a former actress, books approximately 100 Santas into department stores, shopping centers and banks in the metropolitan area.

Some actors still consider the role of Santa beneath them. But Miss Hendricks said these are increasingly in the minority as wages get better,' as they learn that they are treated with respect, and realize the job does call for talent.

Weekly salaries range from $85 on up to $250 depending on the hours and the employer.

Santa's helper, a handsome, graying woman of 50-plus years, played featured roles on Broadway in the 1930s and then moved to Hollywood to do films and coach others. When her marriage to an actor ended in divorce, she returned East and joined Equity as a receptionist.

"I hope I never get too old to enjoy the holiday spirit," Miss Hendricks said. "I'm still enough of a believer in Santa Claus to want to find something under the tree for me Christmas morning."

Bright red is the color of this smart and practical coat of dyed sheared rabbit. The slender boyish straightness of the cut is gracefully eased by a little width in the turned-up sleeves.

Northern PTSA Guest to Treat Field Service

Mrs. Frank Wickham, regional representative, will explain the program of the American Field Service when she speaks at the Pontiac Northern PTSA meeting at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Robert Lake, chairman of the program committee, will introduce the speakers. Refreshments and a social period will follow.

Church Women to Pick Officers

Officers will be elected for the year and a tentative set of bylaws reviewed when the Fellowship of Church Women of Waterford Township Area meet at St. Andrew Episcopal Church on Hatchery road Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.

★ ★ ★

The program will include devotions, special music and refreshments.

Abby Advises:

Suggest Helping Her Cope With Entertaining Problems

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: How can you tell your sister-in-law it is time she and her husband gave a party? When they moved to our town three years ago, they didn't know a soul. We introduced them to all of our friends and now our friends are their friends.

ABBY

They never refuse an invitation to go anywhere but they never invited any of these people back. They moved into a new home almost two years ago and all my friends keep asking me, "Is your sister-in-law settled yet?" I am so embarrased I don't know what to say.

My brother is a doll. I don't know how he ever married a pill like her. If you were I, how would you handle this? I can hardly hold my head up.

SISTER-IN-LAW

DEAR SIS: You don't have to stick your neck out in order to "hold your head up." Perhaps your sister-in-law hesitates to entertain because she's afraid she won't do it properly and would be criticized for her efforts. Offer to "help" her with any entertaining she might care to do. If you suggest it in a friendly way, she can't be offended.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know anything about Japanese women, but I know plenty about American women and in this country it's the MAN who is the slave, not the woman.

I am a real estate salesman and I can testify that in almost every case what the wife says goes. When I try to sell a home to a married couple (young or old) the poor boob of a husband says, "Yes, Dear, Yes, Dear, Yes, Dear." And he is the one who is paying for it. If she says NO, believe me, he puts his tail between his legs and walks out behind her and says, "Where to now, Mamma, Darling?"

FREEDOM LOVER

DEAR ABBY: My husband left me five months ago for another woman. I have two daughters. One 14 and one 18. My eldest daughter is getting married soon. If her father is not back by that time, we do not intend to invite him to the wedding. My girls and myself are very bitter towards him for what he has done.

I want to know if it would be proper to have my older brother give my daughter away? Another thing—when I make up the invitations, do they have to read that "Mr. and Mrs. So and So" are marrying off a daughter? Or can I just have "Mrs. So and So"? I would rather leave his name off the invitation.

MRS. SO AND SO

DEAR MRS. SO AND SO: You had better ask your clergyman his opinion of dropping "Mr. So and So's" name from your wedding invitations. I'd say that unless your separation is permanent, his name belongs with yours. Under the present circumstances, it would be proper to have your brother give your daughter away.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I saw that pitiful letter from the little girl who had been begging her mother in vain for an eye examination. Perhaps you did not know that "sight conservation" is a project that is close to the heart of every Lion.

If you will have this little girl get in touch with her local Lions Club (or the one nearest her city, if she lives in the country) we will arrange for an eye examination (and glasses, if necessary) if her parents cannot afford it. Yours truly.

B. M. B. (Lions Club, Chillum, Maryland)

DEAR B. M. B.: The warm letter from Chillum (you ought to rename that town!), was very much appreciated. Yours was one of hundreds of letters I received from lion-hearted Lions all over the country. Bless you, Lions!

Taking Trip With President and His Son John

Nations to Focus Spotlight on Charming Barbara

WASHINGTON — The spotlight of eleven nations is about to be focused on a tall, attractive, 33-year-old charmer who jet-flies to Rome next Thursday for the first leg of a historic journey with President Eisenhower.

The slim brunette is Barbara Eisenhower, mother of the First Family's four grandchildren and wife of their only living son, John.

Since Mamie Eisenhower—always in delicate health — has elected not to make the grueling trek to Asia, the Middle East and Europe, Barbara for the next three weeks will undoubtedly become the most photographed woman in the Old World.

What manner of person is this fortunate young matron who will be dining with presidents and potentates from India to Turkey, and from Iran to Morocco?

MOVED TO COUNTRY

Born on an Army post at Fort Knox, Ky., she is so determined that her children have a normal upbringing she recently moved the family to a Gettysburg farmhouse to avoid the Washington limelight. Her husband commutes on weekends from his White House assignment.

The three older youngsters — Dwight David, 11; Barbara Anne, 10; and Susan Elaine, 7 — attend public schools in Gettysburg, riding back and forth on a bus under the watchful eye of a Secret Service agent who is required by law to protect them.

Four-year-old Mary Jean stays at home in the converted school house on the President's Gettysburg farm, and occasionally rates a baby sitter when her mother dashes into Washington to do her volunteer hospital stint as a provisional member of the Junior League.

That socialite organization is still chuckling about the day earlier this year when Barbara, having worked all afternoon at the Junior League charity bazaar, finally approached her supervisor and asked timidly:

"Do you think it's all right if I go now? I've put in my hours, and they're waiting dinner for me at the White House."

Barbara likes to call Lafayette, Ind. "home," because as an "Army brat" she spent four years there from 1936 to 1940 while her father, Col. Percy Thompson, was teaching ROTC at Purdue University. She herself attended three semesters at Purdue before her dad was transferred to Vienna, Austria.

She's glad now that she chucked college to go along. While working as a government typist in Vienna she met 2nd Lieut. John Eisenhower on a blind date, and became engaged a few months later in February of 1947.

"Daddy's time was up soon after that, and so was Johnny's," she reminisced, "so we were married that June at Ft. Monroe."

The young Eisenhowers were stationed at Fort Knox when Major John received orders to go to Korea. Barbara moved the children to a rented bungalow near Highland Falls, N. Y. and prepared to wait out the war. She was living there when the man she calls "Dad" was elected president of the United States.

★ ★ ★

After the war, she moved the family to another rented house in unfashionable Arlington, Va., while John served a tour of duty at the nearby Pentagon. During those years, they and their children were frequently in and out of the White House, until they decided that the spotlight might turn young heads.

DOES HER COOKING

Barbara now does all of her own housework and cooking in the six-bedroom farmhouse near the President's dreamhouse."

Asked to compare farm and suburban life, she laughed: "The pace may be a little slower in the country, but a day spent with four lively children doesn't vary much, regardless of the place."

She drives herself on her errands, does her own shopping and marketing. She and John attend some of the glittering White House dinners for visiting heads of state, but by no means all of them.

Their life largely centers around their children's activities, and although the youngsters at first wanted to accompany them on the fabulous journey abroad, they lost interest upon learning about the inoculation shots required of the travelers.

"You can have it," David poohed expansively.

"A "baby sitter" will look after the four moppets while their parents delve into old-world enchantments, but a Christmas tree will be ready for lighting when John and Barbara swoop back to the farm house two nights before Santa Claus.

Sister Was Doing Job Thoroughly

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I would like your opinion on the following matter: When my husband's mother died, he sent a very beautiful floral piece to the funeral. Soon after the funeral, his sister who took care of acknowledging the flowers, sent my husband a thank-you note for the flowers he sent.

"I thought this very strange seeing as he is himself a member of the family, and in my opinion this acknowledgment made him seem an 'outsider.' Are members of the family sent thank-you notes?"

Answer: No, thank-you notes are not usually sent to members of the immediate family, but because your sister-in-law was over-punctilious in writing to everyone who sent flowers does not mean she considers her brother an "outsider."

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently at a dance a young man cut in who was a stranger. I didn't know whether I had to go on dancing or whether it would have been permissible for me to refuse."

Answer: At a very small informal private dance, given either by an individual host or hostess or by a fraternity or sorority, the friendly roof of your host is considered an introduction. But at any public, or large formal dance, a man may not in on a girl to whom he has not been introduced.

She would therefore be right in refusing, if she is sure she has never met him—but she must be sure! Otherwise, to refuse to let any one who has been introduced to her cut in, is an unforgivable rudeness.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When a bridge game is in session and a visitor drops in unexpectedly, what is the hostess supposed to do? Should she give up her place at the bridge table to the uninvited guest and sit out herself, or just how does she handle this situation?"

Answer: A visitor seeing a bridge game in progress should leave promptly so as not to interrupt the game. However, if she does not leave and she plays bridge, then the hostess is more or less obliged to offer her place at the end of a rubber to the visitor.

Builds and Repairs

Protein Isn't Just for Kids

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Some years ago it was thought that middle-aged men and women should cut down on their protein intake. Today that idea has been completely reversed, except in special cases in which a physician's guidance is imperative.

Protein foods are important building blocks and are essential to growth in youth and to body repair and maintenance from maturity on. The protein foods are meat, milk, eggs, cheese, fowl, fish and seafoods. Dried peas and beans and lentils are splendid sources of vegetable protein.

These do not take the place of animal protein but they help increase your protein intake which is so important for best health. They also are inexpensive and sometimes can be substituted for animal protein.

FOOD BILLS CONCERN

With the cost of living still going up food bills are a real concern to the woman in the home. Good nutrition is so important to her family and yet many budgets do not allow luxurious items. The housewife too often thinks of meat as a luxury item.

It is true that thick, juicy steaks or chops are luxuries because they are costly. However, there are around 100 different cuts of meat. The inexpensive cuts are just as nourishing, they have the same food value as the more expensive ones.

These less expensive cuts can taste just as good, too, but they take much longer to cook and some imagination is needed in their preparation. Onions and garlic and herbs can give them zest.

Milk is food for adults as well as for children because of its vitamin and mineral value as well as the fine protein it provides. Many housewives cringe at the milk bills but this food is not expensive if you consider its health value.

Powdered milk is very inexpensive and once you become accustomed to it you may like it better than whole milk. At any rate you can use it in cooking, sauces and custards and cookies and such to build up your family's protein intake with little expense.

Eggs are equivalent to meat in protein value and cheese is a much neglected protein food. A cheese dish a couple of times a week is inexpensive and delightful to taste. Fish is not prohibitive in cost and is full of fine nutrition.

Don't think of the proteins as children's food. You need it also!

If you would like to have my leaflet "Vitamins on Your Budget" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 38 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Some Wives Never Satisfied With Mate

By RUTH MILLETT

From a husband comes this familiar complaint:

"I honestly think I am a better-than-average husband. I've certainly always tried to be.

"But there's one thing wrong with our marriage that I am powerless to do anything about. My wife is never satisfied with me as a provider.

"I own my own business and make a good living out of it. We the luxuries that so many women have a comfortable home and all the luxuries that so many women have come to regard as necessities.

"But I am constantly reminded that if I had done this or hadn't done that, how much better off we would be. I am also nagged about my 'lack of ambition,' though I have had enough ambition to become my own boss, to provide my wife and children with everything they need.

"But so long as there are men who have done better — my wife will never be satisfied. Instead of harping on what I haven't done and what I might have accomplished and how far I could have climbed, why can't she love me just as I am, and show a little appreciation now and then for what I HAVE accomplished, instead of trying to make me feel like a failure because I haven't accomplished more?

"We men don't really ask for a lot from our wives. Mainly we want to be loved as we are and to be made to feel, just occasionally, that our efforts to provide for our families are appreciated."

That letter is being published because, if my mail is any indication, there are a lot of wives today who are too ambitious for their husband's happiness.

It is one thing for a wife to try to help her husband reach the goal he sets for himself. It's quite another for a wife to set such impossible goals for him that he never comes up to her expectations.

It takes a "better-than-average husband" to stick to this over-demanding kind of wife.

Penny A. Hanson, daughter of the E. A. Tatros of West Rutgers avenue and Clarence C. Hanson of Los Angeles, married James L. Stoglin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Stoglin of Joslyn avenue, Saturday.

MRS. JAMES L. STOGLIN

Stoglin-Hanson Wedding Attended by 300 Guests

Wearing a taffeta gown with Venice lace trim and full chapel train, Penny Anne Hanson became the bride of James Leslie Stoglin at Grace Lutheran Church Saturday evening.

Penny is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Tatro of West Rutgers avenue and Clarence C. Hanson of Los Angeles. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Pat Stoglin of Joslyn avenue.

A Sabrina neckline and long fitted sleeves enhanced the bride's gown. The full skirt with bustle back was fashioned with bands of lace extending to a low bow. She wore a pill box hat of lace and seed pearls with veil of imported silk illusion and a necklace given by her father. She carried a white orchid with white roses extending in a cascade.

Pixie Smith, the bride's cousin from Birmingham, was maid of honor. Geraldine Frady of Pontiac was bridesmaid; Cheri Tatro, the bride's sister, junior bridesmaid; and Mary McGrath, flower girl.

The attendants' dresses were of beige silk with fitted bodice, satin waistband, full skirt and champagne accessories. A beige dress flecked with silver and bronze thread was worn by the flower girl. Her brown velvet hat band was trimmed with bronze rosettes and her slippers were bronze. Flowers were white carnations with tips of bronze, gold and beige with champagne satin streamers.

The bridegroom asked his brother, Malcolm E. Stoglin to be best man. Ushering was Richard Stoglin of Pontiac, the bridegroom's cousin, and Wallace Tatro of Royal Oak. Serving as ringbearer was a cousin of the bride, David McClusky of Pontiac.

A reception was held at the Dames of Malta Hall following the ceremony.

A powder blue crystalette sheath with lace jacket and matching accessories was chosen by the bride's mother for her daughter's wedding. An aqua lace sheath with matching accessories was the choice of Mrs. Stoglin. Both mothers wore white rose corsages.

For a trip to Washington, D.C., and New York City the bride wore a royal blue sheath with matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Her Siamese jewelry was a gift of the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoglin will make their home in Clarkston.

Police Find Reindeer Real-Gone Project

SEATTLE (AP)—A score or more Seattle policemen discovered this weekend how it is old Santa Claus manages to make his rounds the world over in one short night.

It's because his sled is loaded with reindeer power, a real-gone machine.

Two reindeer, in a pen at a supermarket in Seattle's fashionable Magnolia district, escaped after several juveniles loosened pins which held the animal's cage together.

★ ★ ★

The two animals, which were being shown as a sales booster, loped off through city streets and right on their hooves were a dozen or more patrol cars. One of the reindeer was captured in a school yard within minutes after the two animals broke away to freedom.

★ ★ ★

The other, a little faster afoot, kept John Law on the move for another two hours as he dodged through yards and down alleys and galloped down dark, empty streets.

WHAT'LL WE DO?

★ ★ ★

"He's southbound on Bertona."

"Anyone there to stop him?"

"Nope."

"Try singing a Christmas carol."

"Now he's on 34th."

★ ★ ★

"We're going to have some string or something to put on this critter if we ever catch up with him, he's pretty big."

"How about some red ribbon?"

"We've got a rope."

"Have you got him?"

"Yeah, we got him tied to a tree, but we don't know quite what to do with him. The sergeant's here, though."

Do Not Neglect Yourself, Dear

Planning Is the Secret; Get Permanent Ahead and Check Hems

Suddenly it's Christmas! If a housewife planned well, her cards will be mailed, present wrapped, holiday goodies baked, the house decorated.

But what about her? Will she be ready for gay holiday festivities?

Busy or not she can be poised, confident and well groomed. Planning is a secret beauty ingredient.

Beauty consultants warn housewives not to wait until the last minute to change a hair-do. You may not like it. Also remember that it takes about two weeks — plus a shampooing or so — for a new permanent to look really lovely.

★ ★ ★

Look over your wardrobe and make sure your clothes are in good shape. Don't wait 'til the night of the party to discover that the hem is ripped down on your favorite frock.

See what needs cleaning or pressing. Be sure that everything is free of perspiration odor. Replace missing buttons and snaps. Sew in clean dress shields.

Plan accessories, too, to have the right jewelry, shoes, gloves and hat for each outfit. And what about stockings? Do you have the right shades and are they in good condition?

Seek Council Approval Tonight

Planning Group OKs Southfield Xway Route

SOUTHFIELD—The City Planning Commission here has approved the first portion of the proposed east-west expressway from Inkster road to Telegraph road, it was learned today.

The City Council will be asked again to approve the route between 11½-Mile and 12-Mile roads when it meets tonight.

Southfield has continually withheld approval of this small section of the expressway, waiting for a decision by the Michigan State Highway Dept. on the route the flow of traffic will take beyond the proposed 12-Mile road termination.

A city highway committee set up by the City Council to study the situation recommended last month that the Council approve the proposed section.

At that time there were only five councilmen present, four of whom vote din favor of the proposal and one against it.

City Attorney James T. Allen recommended that their vote be held in abeyance until all members of the council were present. The matter then was turned over to the planning commission.

The State Highway Department has promised affected south Oakland cities that plans for the rest of the east-west expressway will get under way as soon as Southfield has approved this first portion.

Family Routed by Fire in Shelby

Friends Hurry Aid to Unlucky Victims Who Face Bleak Yuletide

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — "People are wonderful," says Mrs Jack Gensman of 47154 Van Dyke, whose family home was gutted by fire Friday night.

Her remark was prompted by the generosity of friends and neighbors who came to the family's aid with clothes, food and other necessities over the weekend.

The Gensman home caught fire when sparks from the television set ignited a nearby cot. The children, who were watching a mystery show, tried to put out the blaze while their older brother, Jack, 12, went to call the fire department.

Ten-year-old Nina guided her two little sisters and a brother to safety as the flames raced through the structure. The children's parents were Christmas shopping in Warren at the time.

Shelby Township firemen brought the blaze under control in about half an hour. They estimated the damage at $5,000.

★ ★ ★

Gensman, who installs aluminum siding on homes, hasn't been working because this is the off season.

They are facing additional expense for an operation their daughter, Ruth, 7, must undergo in January. She has a congenital heart disease.

The Metropolitan Club of America, Spirit 86, composed of township police, firemen and postal employes, is conducting the drive for clothes.

A friend of the Gensmans, Mrs Adria McClure of 46275 Van Dyke, has taken the family in until it can make other arrangements.

Last year's winner, Frank Ruggles, owner of Locust Breeze Farm near Milford, is to be toastmaster and Stuart J. Hutchins will present Black and White Show awards.

"The Dairyman of the Year" is selected by the four Dairy Herd Improvement Assns. in the county.

JUDGING POINTS

Among the factors upon which they base their choice are amount of milk and butterfat produced, improvements made in livestock housing, breeding, feeding and management practices.

Born and raised on a farm near Birmingham, Iowa, the 63-year-old Dr. Trout received both his bachelor and master of science degrees in dairy industry at Iowa State College. He gained his Ph.D. at Cornell University in 1936.

He was named to the dairy husbandry staff at West Virginia University in 1923, and left there in 1928 to go to the dairy department at MSU. He has been there ever since.

Dr. Trout was selected as "Distinguished Teacher" in MSU's college of agriculture in 1952 and again in 1954.

He was appointed official U. S. delegate to the World's Dairy Congress at Stockholm in 1949, at The Hague in 1953 and at Rome in 1956.

Dr. Trout also served as special advisor to the American delegation at the World Dairy Congress at London earlier this year.

The guest speaker has authored and coauthored over 100 papers, articles and bulletins as well as two books, all pertaining to dairy technology as the result of studying milk flavors, homogenization and frozen cream.

The annual meeting of the DHIA will be held after the banquet, and new officers will be elected.

Patriot John Adams, later second president of the United States, was defense attorney for the British soldiers involved in the Boston Massacre.

U.S. Plans to Buy Nonfat Dry Milk for Price Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department has announced plans to buy 28,366,320 pounds of nonfat dry milk.

The milk will be given away to school lunchrooms, needy people, and non-profit institutions in this country.

The department is buying the milk powder, packed in four-and-a-half pound cartons, because it has practically no supplies of this food in its price support stockpile.

The purchase does not indicate any move to resume donations of nonfat dry milk to the charitable agencies which distribute surplus foods to needy people abroad.

There have been reports, however, that the International cooperation Administration plans to purchase milk powder for those agencies.

Rochester CAP Open House Set

To Inaugurate Month's Observance of National Group's Founding

ROCHESTER — The Rochester Cadet Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol will hold an open house at the American Legion Hall here tomorrow evening. This inaugurates the month-long observance of the founding of the national CAP organization.

Members of the local squadron have planned a special program to start at 7:30 p.m. They will have displays and give illustrated talks about projects upon which they have been working.

Cadet Tim May's display will be based on the book, "Aircraft in Flight." Cadets Harry Tiffany and John Ulbrich are using the book, "Power of Aircraft," as their guide for material.

"Navigation and the Weather" is the book Rheata R. Kinzie will review in ther illustrated talk. Later she will speak on encampments, flight scholarships and related topics.

Apartment House at Lake Orion Gutted by Fire

LAKE ORION — An apartment house at the rear of Mrs. Lloyd F. Tubbs' property at 141 Elizabeth St. was destroyed by fire Saturday morning. No one was injured.

Lake Orion Fire Chief Jack Caylor said the fire apparently was caused by a defective coal-burning stove on the first floor of the two-story structure.

Flames spread rapidly through the building, and despite efforts of the Lake Orion and Oxford Fire Departments to control the blaze, the apartment house was gutted.

The fire fighters were on the scene about two and a half hours. Only the walls remained standing.

Home in Metamora Damaged by Fire

METAMORA—Fire which started in a bathroom closet did "considerable" damage to the Clifton Rohder home at 3950 Oak St. early Sunday morning, according to Metamora Fire Chief, Clarence Skellenger. No one was injured.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Rohder, who had just returned home, smelled smoke as they entered the house and traced it to the bathroom.

The Metamora and Hadley fire departments brought the blaze under control. The bathroom was burned, and the rest of the house was damaged by smoke and water.

Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Ike Hopes India Fair Will Be Peace Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower says he hopes the U. S. exhibit at the World Agricultural Fair in New Delhi, India, will serve the cause of world peace.

The President will help open the exhibit on Dec. 11. His message appears in an official guidebook which will be given to visitors at the fair.

Eisenhower said he hopes the exhibit "will serve to deepen our bonds of understanding and cooperation, and serve to strengthen our resolve to achieve mankind's greatest goal: a fruitful and flourishing world at peace."

The President said the U. S. exhibit is America's tribute to India's farmers and to the first World Agricultural Fair ever held.

The values and goals highlighted in the exhibit — food, family, friendship, and freedom — are shared by the United States and India, he said.

Dessert-Fashion Show in Rochester Thursday

ROCHESTER — The Town and Country Guild of the First Congregational Church here will stage its annual Dessert-Fashion Show and Bridge at 1 p. m. Thursday in the church parlors.

Fashions will be by Mitzelfel's Department Store.

Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Leonard Westerman, Mrs. Jack Upton or any member of the Guild.

Two Health Drives Aim at Dairymen

A drive by the Food and Drug Administration against penicillin in milk coincides with an appeal by Newaygo County Farm Agent Clare M. Musgrove for dairymen to step up their fight against mastitis in herds.

Penicillin is the drug in popular use for control of the udder disease which takes a heavy toll in dairy herds.

The FDA reportedly has started collecting milk samples in its drive to spot and seize any interstate milk shipments containing penicillin residues which can get into milk supplies if milk is used from cows within 72 hours after treatment.

The two campaigns coincide only by chance.

Musgrove timed his appeal to meet the barn season for cattle. Dairy cows now spend most of their time indoors where the udder irritations leading to mastitis are most likely to occur.

The comforts, Musgrove notes, should include a light, airy and pleasant stable and a clean bed on a base of moisture-absorbent material such as sawdust or ground corn cobs.

"A cow needs enough room to lay down comfortably, get the kinks out and chew her cud in peace," he adds.

Musgrove emphasizes that farmers should pay heed to sanitizing of cow udders and milking machines.

Those Good Cranberries!

Urges Pesticide Research

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department's research policy committee has urged immediate expansion of government research on pesticides.

The advisory group's recommendation came on the heels of the nationwide scare involving a chemical residue on cranberries. The Health, Education and Welfare Department had warned the public against all cranberries because a small portion of the crop contained residues from a weed killer, aminotriazole.

The research policy group, which met here this week, made no reference to the cranberry episode in its report. But it said there were major problems in the use of fertilizers, pesticides, hormones, antibiotics, feed additives, plant growth regulators and drugs.

The committee said modern farming needs these chemicals and without them, farmers couldn't supply consumers with enough food and fiber to maintain this country's high standard of living.

Agriculture Department scientists told the committee they're already at work on several new approaches to the problem of fighting animal and plant pests.

One of these new approaches is the possibility that insects can be eradicated by a chemical sterilization process. Others involve new chemicals which leave no residues or which offer no danger to warm-blooded animals.

Church Bazaar Slated in Oxford Wednesday

OXFORD — The Oxford Congregational Church will hold its annual bazaar Wednesday in the church hall at Dennison and Hovey streets.

Chop suey will be served at the luncheon starting at 11 a.m. and a ham dinner will be served from 5 p.m. on.

Walled Lake Schedules Natural Science Talks

WALLED LAKE — Four lectures beginning at 9:15 a.m. Wednesday will be given at Twin Beach School by Bill Hopkins, chief naturalist for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Park Authority.

The natural science topics will include "Mammals, Reptiles, Insects and Amphibians," "Plant and Animal Life," and "Birds."

Roseville Man Hurt in Freak Accident

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — A 26-year-old Roseville hunter was shot in the hand yesterday in a freak accident in Dean's gravel pit on Shelby road here.

Chester E. Baker leaned his gun against a drain pipe to flush out a rabbit that had run inside. His brother, Watson, 22, came to assist him and knocked the gun down. It fired and hit Chester in the hand.

The injured man was taken to Avon Center Hospital near Rochester where he is listed in satisfactory condition today, according to Romeo State Police, who handled the accident.

Church at Walled Lake Plans Dinner, Bazaar

WALLED LAKE — The annual roast beef dinner and bazaar sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Walled Lake Methodist Church will be held Thursday from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m.

A family-style dinner will be served from 5 p. m. to 8 p. m. at the church hall.

Some Strong Objections

Most Areas Like Curfews

(Editor's Note: The ancient curfew is still in widespread use as a modern weapon against juvenile mischief-making. Here's the report on a nationwide survey of how effective it is and some words of praise and blame from youth authorities.)

By FRANCIS STILLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Curfew rings tonight and every night for thousands of young people all over America.

In Watkins Glen, N.Y., the custodian on duty at the village hall takes hold of a bell rope at 10 p.m. and tugs away. The clanging of the bell is a reminder to youths under 17 to be off the streets—at home. The village board recently okayed funds for a new bell rope.

Some towns sound church bells, some toot whistles and others blow fire sirens. Still others do none of these but maintain a curfew just the same; it is the law and everyone knows it. The hours vary.

A curfew for young folk is a practice of long standing and wide use in the United States.

In some communities when juveniles are found meandering around streets late at night, they are merely picked up by officers and their parents notified.

Sometimes there is drastic punishment, parents included.

In other cases curfew regulations are strictly enforced only when and if it seems necessary.

FORGOTTEN AFTER WAR

Curfews were widely employed during World War II, but after the war many plans were either dropped outright or just forgotten.

However, in recent years they were revived or new legislation put them into effect to cope with growing juvenile delinquency troubles.

Generally, rules don't apply to children accompanied by parents or authorized persons, or in travel to and from legitimate events.

An Associated Press survey shows that about half the states use curfew laws of varying degrees of strictness. Primarily it is a matter of steps taken by individual communities rather than by state legislatures.

Another fourth have a mixed situation. The rest either have no curfew laws or never use them even though they are on the books.

Of the 50 per cent which do use curfew regulations, responsible officials in nearly all believe the restrictions are worthwhile—although there are some strong opposing arguments.

Main objections are that it is almost impossible to achieve 100 per cent compliance, that there are too many authorized functions which now keep children out late and that it is pointless to penalize the well behaved majority for the failure of the few.

Numerous authorities say, also, that other ordinances such as anti-loitering laws enable officers to handle the situation better than a curfew rule.

PLENTY OF PRAISE

On the other hand, the curfew comes in for high praise too.

Wheeling, W. Va., adopted the plan a little less than a year ago and now 30 sirens scattered around the city are touched off nightly at 10 o'clock. After that, youngsters under 16 have about 15 or 20 minutes to get off the streets. On football game nights the leeway is a little greater.

Police Chief Harry Wolf estimates that the curfew has reduced offenses by juveniles under 16 by 95 per cent.

He says enforcement has been no problem.

Wheeling has a population of 59,000 and the curfew was given a lot of advance publicity before it became official. Then police bore down hard a few days to let everyone know they meant business.

"We'd almost have to double the size of the police force in trying to enforce a night curfew. If we were to put one in, it would mean that to be worthwhile, neighboring cities and villages would have to do the same. Otherwise, ours would be a waste."

Pointing up the marked contrast in attitudes is the case of Chicago, where more than a million youngsters are affected by curfew regulations. All under 17 must be off the streets by 10:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday, and by 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Police Lt. Michael Delaney, head of the Youth Bureau, says the law is publicly accepted and that it has been beneficial in holding down youth crime. The law has the support of all agencies dealing with youth problems.

NEBRASKAN STARTED IT

In the United States, a Col. Alexander Hogeland of Nebraska is credited as the "father of the curfew law."

Hogeland was said to have introduced the first ordinance in Omaha in 1880 to keep youngsters from hanging around steamboat landings, rail stations and low variety shows.

Varying rules date back more than 50 years in Cleveland, Ohio; Hot Springs, Ark.; Grand Island, Neb., and Salt Lake City, Utah. Numerous other communities have long-standing statutes.

Authorities point out that modern youth problems are much more difficult because now "the kids are on wheels." They go tearing about the countryside in cars—sometimes stolen ones.

The reference was to the young gangs of New York City, where 11 youthful slayings have occurred on the streets since the first of the year. New York has no curfew. There has been some talk of establishing one but the ruling fathers appear to favor tighter police surveillance of the streets instead.

★ ★ ★

Another new type of problem has been the congregation of youngsters around drive-in theaters and restaurants and resulting altercations. In Orlando, Fla., certain restaurants recently started hiring off-duty police to preserve order.

Hours and ages covered by curfews vary widely around the nation. But in general the hours of 9 and 10 p.m. are the most popular deadlines and the top age limit seldom exceeds 18.

In Oregon, all children under 18 are covered by a 1953 state law prescribing a midnight to 4 a.m. curfew period.

A Cleveland ordinance in effect since 1943 bans children under 12 from city streets between dark and dawn, and those under 16 from 11 p.m. to 6 p.m. The law is invoked only when special situations arise.

Penalties for curfew violations over the nation range from a bawling out for youngsters to severe measures affecting both child and parents.

Probably the stiffest is in Sacramento, Calif. Parents are subject to $50 fines and 10 days in jail for first offenses of their offspring, and as much as $500 and 90 days for third violations.

Baltimore has what is called the Battaglia plan, originated by Police Capt. Frank J. Battaglia. Around 10 p.m., police begin stopping young motorists to check their drivers' licenses and car registration.

Authorities say auto thefts now are down 33 per cent, that officers seldom run onto a carload of beer-swilling youngsters previously one of the department's biggest headaches, and that there has been a quicker solution of numerous crimes even up to murder.

But Greenwich, Conn., has no curfew and doesn't plan one. Police Chief David W. Robbins says:

"I think they are ineffective and difficult to enforce. Persons who would observe a curfew are not the ones you would have trouble with.

"Those with criminal intent and who reject authority would not observe them at any rate. A curfew works a hardship and is an unfair restriction on the majority of our youth, who are law abiding."

Hog-Corn Ratio Off; Could Drop Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department said the hog-corn ratio dropped again this week and may be an important factor in the level of hog prices next fall.

Many farmers are now making plans for the spring pig crop. A discouraging hog-corn ratio now could mean fewer pigs next spring. That, in turn, would mean less pork going to market next fall.

The hog-corn ratio is the number of bushels of corn which can be bought with 100 pounds of live hog. When the ratio is going up, hog production is more profitable. When its dropping, it's a sign that hog profits are in a squeeze.

One year ago this week, the ratio stood at 15.5. Last week it was down to 11.6 and this week it slipped again to 11.3.

TANGLE HORNS WITH WINTER — Presenting a rare sight in the Michigan rural scene, two large oxen, Fuzzy and Silver, scrape snow from drainage ditches along what will be the new M46 near Howard City. Highway officials at Lansing report Michigan is already experiencing its worst winter for road construction with an abundance of rain and early cold weather. Contractors on new roads and other similar projects have averaged only about 10 work days during November.

Ike to Try to Reassure 11 Troubled Countries

LONDON (UPI)—The 11-nation whirlwind tour which President Eisenhower sets out on this week will carry him into some of the most hotly contested areas of the cold war.

From giant India to tiny Morocco stretch the key zones of Afro-Asian neutralism, of Soviet political aspirations and of Allied defense strategy.

Nearly every one of the nations on the President's itinerary currently is faced with vital problems affecting their attitude toward cooperation with the West and the United States in particular.

Many look to the United States for economic aid for their internal development, for military aid to help them withstand pressure from communism, and for moral support in the fast-changing international scene.

These are questions Eisenhower has shown clearly he intends to answer, at least in part. It would be difficult to conceive of him entering Kabul, New Delhi, or other capitals now troubled by the lurking shadow of communism without any answers.

A country by country survey pinpoints the outstanding problems involved and suggests the steps the President may take to relieve them.

ITALY—When the President arrives in Rome Dec. 4 he will find a country disturbed by its "small nation" role in the Western alliance and determined to expand its influence in a more equal partnership with the U.S., Britain, France and West Germany. It also is a country with the biggest Communist Party outside the iron curtain. The government needs assurances of America's respect and full support, and Eisenhower is sure to give it.

TURKEY—The President's mission to Ankara will be one of presenting thanks and encouragement to a government which has absorbed the most violent Soviet threats without ever wavering from its ties to NATO. A subject that would come up is the recent controversy over trials of U.S. servicemen by Turkish courts, but the matter should be settled amicably. Turkey wants, and may get, more economic aid.

AFGHANISTAN—In Kabul, Eisenhower will be in the most leftward leaning capital of his entire itinerary, where a full 50 per cent of the nation's trade is with the Soviets. Here his mission will be to assure local leaders of American friendship and trust, and of a deep American concern for Afghanistani problems.

★ ★ ★

PAKISTAN—As in Ankara, the President will find stalwart Allies in Karachi. Despite strong ties to the West and the Cento Pact, the Pakistanis need reassurances in light of Communist China's border aggression against neighboring India, and the President will give them. Possibly he will also urge closer relations between Pakistan and India.

★ ★ ★

INDIA—In New Delhi the President meets perhaps the most difficult task of his entire tour, but also the best opportunity for winning a new link in the free world defense chain. India, the traditional seat of "neutralism" now faces a border menace from Communist China that can make such a policy no longer practical. Eisenhower's very presence is a symbol of full United States support any time India should want it.

★ ★ ★

IRAN—The President arrives in Tehran Dec. 17 ready to assure the government it has made no mistake in holding on to its Cento ties, and its loyalty to the West despite a vicious Communist propaganda campaign aimed at overthrowing the shah.

★ ★ ★

GREECE — The Athens government is worried about reports of a cut in U.S. aid and over certain differences as to its role in NATO. The President will try to allay these fears, and at the same time, may attempt to persuade the Greeks to accept U.S. missile bases.

★ ★ ★

TUNISIA—The President's meeting with Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba aboard the flagship USS Des Moines is certain to cover the explosive problem of Arab nationalism and its role in the East-West power conflict. Bourguiba needs economic and military aid, prefers to get it from the West, and Eisenhower must make sure the requirement is met.

★ ★ ★

FRANCE—The main purpose of the President's visit to Paris is the Western Big Four talks which will plot the course of future summit negotiations with Russia. There are still differences among Britain, France, West Germany and the United States as to how best to deal with the Russians, what to concede, what to demand, and Eisenhower more than any other leader is looked to for a settlement assuring a silod Western front.

★ ★ ★

SPAIN — Eisenhower assumes one of his most delicate diplomatic assignments in Madrid where he will deal with a man condemned by much of the Western public as a dictator. The accent on talks with Generalissimo Francisco Franco undoubtedly will be on the continued maintenance of U.S. military bases in Spain and perhaps a more active role for Spain in the Western Alliance.

★ ★ ★

MOROCCO — The United States already has shown its willingness to get along with the government in Rabat by agreeing without qualification to the abandonment of bases it established in Morocco at great cost. The President's main job in the last stop of his tour is to polish this gesture into a resounding diplomatic victory for the West in North Africa.

★ ★ ★

VATICAN CITY — In this tiny city-state the President is certain to find one of the most personally gratifying experiences of his entire tour. The good will meeting with Pope John XXIII, the second of its kind by a President in office in U.S. history, will serve as a reaffirmation of America's strong ties to moral and religious principle.

The name of jaialai, the Spanish game, mean "happy festival" in the Basque language.

Says Vatican Wouldn't Meddle With President

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—The apostolic delegate to the United States says it is ridiculous to think the Vatican would ever try to influence or interfere with the functions of an American president, Catholic or non-Catholic.

★ ★ ★

The Most Rev. Egidio Vagnozzi said in an interview Sunday that because the Catholic Church is entirely free in America it has no reason to try to exercise political influence on the White House.

More than one million tourists came to Great Britain this year by the month of August, the first time the million mark has been passed so early in the year.

To Start GOP Rolling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican arrangements committee will hold its first meeting in Chicago Dec. 10 to map plans for the 1960 convention. The GOP national committee also will meet in Chicago Dec. 11-12 and will receive a report on convention plans.

Electric lamp bases were standardized in 1900.

LSU Halfback, John Robinson, First Choice of Lions

(From Our Wire Services)

PHILADELPHIA — The 12 National Football League teams began their draft of 240 college players this morning with a couple surprises in the first round choices.

Each NFL club selects 20 players, with acting commissioner Austin Gunsel presiding over the first draft meeting.

The Detroit Lions, who supposedly went into the meeting in dire need of a quarterback and offensive linemen, pulled the big surprise of the first round.

Picking third, after the Los Angeles Rams drafted Billy Cannon of LSU and the Chicago Cards picked George Izo of Notre Dame, the Lions picked John Robinson, halfback from Louisiana State.

The Rams and the Cards, each with the same records in the NFL, flipped a coin to see who would pick first. The Rams won the coin toss and immediately grabbed Cannon, the triple threat All-America back of LSU. It was no surprise that Cannon would be picked first, but most quarters thought the Rams would go after one of the top linemen.

The Cards proceeded to pick and immediately sign Izo, the Notre Dame quarterback who had been hurt much of the 1959 season, but who is considered one of the longest passers in collegiate football.

With the need for a quarterback, everyone expected the Lions to pick Don Meredith of SMU or Richie Lucas of Penn State, but the big surprise was that Meredith was not picked by any team in the first round.

Robinson, whom the Lions picked, was considered by LSU coach Paul Dietzel as his "unsung hero" this year. Dietzel also rated Robinson as an excellent defensive back which may have indicated reasons for his selection by the Lions.

The Redskins followed the Lions and took Lucas, the Penn State quarterback. Green Bay selected Tom Moore, Vanderbilt halfback and the Steelers drafted Jack Spikes, TCU fullback.

Roger Davis, guard of Syracuse, was taken by the Bears and Ohio State end Jim Houston was grabbed by Cleveland. The Eagles selected Ron Burton, Northwestern halfback and Baltimore named Ron Mix, Southern Cal tackle. The 49ers took Monte Stickles, Notre Dame end and the New York Giants wound up the first round by picking Lew Cordieone, Clemson tackle.

The NFL, in its 40th year, is hopeful the security and prestige it offers will be enough to lure most of the players to its rosters in competition with the new American Football League which had its draft last week. Cannon was picked last week by Houston, Lucas by Buffalo and Meredith by Dallas in the AFL draft. Detroit's choice, Robinson, was picked by Dallas last week.

Yesterday's Victors Clash Saturday; Bears Romp

49ers, Colts Set Showdown

CLEVELAND (AP)—The San Francisco 49ers are back on the winning track again after a two-game losing spell—and the major credit goes to the defensive team for the 21-20 victory over the Cleveland Browns.

"Thank goodness for our defense," said Coach Red Hickey in an apt sumup.

"This wasn't our best game of the season, but we're getting back to the kind of football we played earlier."

Cleveland Coach Paul Brown, stung by the second straight 21-20 loss, said:

"That's about it. We've been snake-bit by those two close ones. You can't figure on New York losing to Washington in the final game, even if we take the Giants Sunday. I guess we've just about had it. We'll go to New York Sunday and do our best."

The 49ers, tied at 7-3 with Baltimore for the Western Conference lead in the National Football League, play host to the defending champion Colts at San Francisco Saturday.

Taking advantage of a Cleveland fumble and a pass interception, the 49ers struck swiftly yesterday for three touchdowns in a little more than six minutes during the second period. The Browns couldn't catch up and now seem sunk. The Giants, Eastern Conference leaders, have won eight of 10 games, while the Browns are 6-4 with two left.

★ ★ ★

Hickey pointed to a pass interception by linebacker Jerry Tubbs, which set up the third San Francisco touchdown, as the turning point of the game.

Rookie kicking specialist Tommy Davis of LSU did the bottling up job with eight punts that average 45 yards.

"They're all tough, no matter where you play them," he said yesterday after the Colts' 35-21 victory over the Los Angeles Rams. "But it makes no difference to us."

The stubby Baltimore coach thus attempted to dispell any notion that his defending National Football League champions are about to repeat their annual swoon on the Pacific shores.

They have never won a game in San Francisco, where they will meet the 49ers Saturday in a showdown rematch. And they have won only one out of seven in Los Angeles, where they take on the Rams again one week later in the regular season finale.

In their victory over the injury-riddled Rams, the Colts ran up a 21-0 lead in the first 16 minutes and hung on to keep the game just out of reach.

"Fumbles," moaned Ram Coach Sid Gilman, "the story of our life."

Fullback Alan Ameche made the first Colt touchdown on a 7-yard smash up the middle capping a 50-yard drive.

The next two Baltimore scores came after fumbles by Los Angeles halfback Jon Arnett on the Ram 33 and fullback Ollie Matson on the Baltimore 34. Halfback Mike Sommer swept right end for one TD, and quarterback John Unitas connected with end Raymond Berry on a 56-yard pass play for the other.

It marked the 35th consecutive game in which Unitas has thrown at least one scoring pass, extending his all-time record in that department.

CHICAGO (AP)—"Winning the city, county and state championship is all right but the important thing is we're still in the running," said George Halas after his Chicago Bears had swamped the Chicago Cardinals 31-7 yesterday.

Professional football's only intracity rivalry, a bitter affair, lacked its usual luster and turned out to be a drab contest in which the offensively weak Bears capitalized on Cardinal errors to achieve the victory.

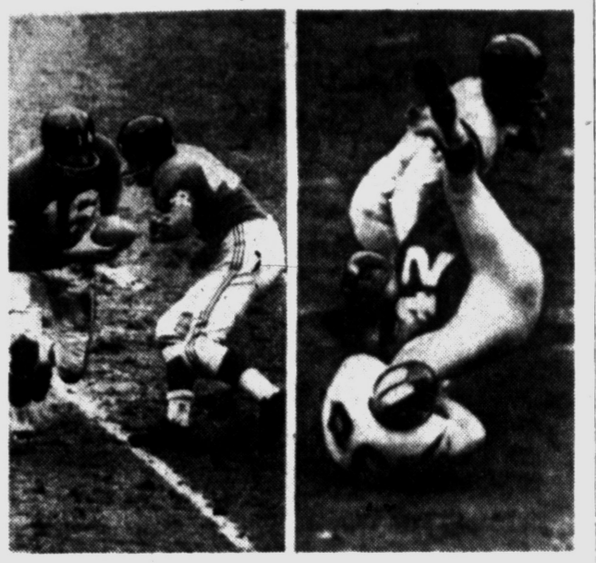

As for the Western Conference title, the Bears' chances are remote to say the least. To gain a tie, they must win their last two games against Pittsburgh and Detroit while Baltimore and San Francisco must split in their last two games.

It was the first play of the game which set the pattern of bad luck for the Cardinals.

Bear quarterback Ed Brown faded back and threw a long pass. Three Cardinals were in front of the ball, two of them touched it but it fell into the hands of end Willard Dewveall and he raced the rest of the way for a 76-yard gain and a touchdown.

NAILED — Charley Conerly of the New York Giants had a busy afternoon on and off the gridiron at Yankee Stadium yesterday. Conerly was honored by fans prior to the game and received many gifts. Here he fakes a handoff to Frank Gifford and then is nailed hard by a pair of Redskins. The Giants won, 45-14.

NO PLACE TO GO — Fullback Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns runs into a human wall of 49ers in the 4th quarter of their game yesterday. He gained only a yard, but picked up 114 in 28 carries for the day. San Francisco however won the game 21-20. Tackle Leo Nomellini is the player driving into Brown's right hip.

Red Wings Lose 3rd in Row

Toronto Skaters Defeat Skidding Detroiters, 4-1

Howe Makes Lone Goal as Redshirts Give Up 2nd Place at Olympia

DETROIT (AP) — Have the Detroit Red Wings hit a momentary skid, or is this the tumble to the bottom everyone predicted for the surprising Detroiters?

Coach Sid Abel, trying to snap his club out of a three-game losing streak, gave his players the day off today. They are idle until Saturday and Abel will have only routine workouts in the mid-week.

The Wings lost last night to Toronto, 4-1, and Abel said "we were just out-hustled."

It was about this time last season when the Wings were going pretty well, and they came up against the Montreal Canadiens in a pair of games. They lost both and started on the road to the bottom.

Now two of the last three losses have been at the hands of the league-leading Canadiens. Abel hopes that's where the comparison ends.

"We could say that we were tired from the road trip," Abel mentioned, "but other clubs have road trips, too. They travel just as much as we do. We just haven't been playing well, it's as simple as that."

Last night's loss cost the Wings second place, and now they are just four points ahead of the Boston Bruins.

★ ★ ★

The Wings had some good news, however. Doctors said they probably would release goalie Terry Sawchuk from the hospital today. He may be on skates by Tuesday and should be able to play in Saturday's matinee against Boston.

Sawchuk has showed remarkable improvement after an attack of neuritis, doctors explained.

Lapchick to Start Cage Series in Four Parts

JOE LAPCHICK
With NIT Trophy

Starting tomorrow on the sports pages in this newspaper, Joe Lapchick, one of basketball's most popular coaches, will describe in detail four basketball plays.

Each play will be illustrated.

Lapchick, who played pivot for the original Celtics, is in his 24th season as a coach. His St. John's University team last season became the first to win New York's Invitational tournament three times. His team won 20 of 26 games and also captured last year's Holiday Festival tournament in Madison Square Garden.

Lapchick coached the New York Knickerbockers nine years and under him the Knicks won three Eastern Division titles in the National Basketball Assn.

His series is called "PASS and DRIBBLE."

Giants Rout 'Skins, 45-14

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants are heading for another Eastern Conference title showdown with the Cleveland Browns here Sunday. But for once, it is the Browns who must win or wind up on the outside looking in for the second straight year.

The Giants clinched a tie for the Eastern crown yesterday with a 45-14 victory over the Washington Redskins while the second-place Browns and Philadelphia Eagles lost.

The victory came on "Conerly Day" at Yankee Stadium with 60,982 fans looking on. And it was a two-way proposition.

The fans honored 38-year-old quarterback Charley Conerly with over $25,000 in gifts. He then turned around and threw three touchdown passes, and led the Giants in flawless fashion en route to a 38-0 halftime lead.

Coach Jim Lee Howell lifted the 12-year pro veteran with a little over a minute to play in the half and let Don Heinrich run the club for the rest of the damp, chilly afternoon.

Howell was pleased with his team's offensive performance, but singled out Don Chandler, the team's punter who never got a chance to punt yesterday.

The Giants had a fourth down and 8 situation on their first sequence of plays when Chandler, a former Florida University halfback, went back to punt. Instead, he took off to the left and got the Giants a first down on the 'Skins 32 with a 24-yard run. Three plays later Alex Webster scored the first of his two touchdowns on a 10-yard run off tackle.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Coach Buddy Parker isn't sure who deserves the biggest pat on the back for the shutout victory his Pittsburgh Steelers scored over the Philadelphia Eagles yesterday. Looking back over the Steelers' 31-0 trouncing of the National Football League title contending Eagles, Parker observed:

"Layne was terrific — Tracy had his best day of the season —but you have to say a lot for that defense, too."

Quarterback Bobby Layne threw four touchdown passes, kicked a field goal and added the four extra points to figure in all of the scoring.

The defense kept the Eagle running attack bottled up, allowing a stingy 29 yards.

"Naturally, we were glad to win but it could be a costly victory," Parker said of the Steeler's third consecutive win—all over the top three teams in the league's Eastern Conference.

Middies Rout Army

Navy 'Risk' Pays Off

Navy scouts reported to Coach Wayne Hardin that Army's brilliant passing quarterback, Joe Caldwell, threw a very quick pass. Caldwell got the ball off in a hurry, Hardin was told.

Hardin decided to risk giving Caldwell a chance to flip his short swing pass in favor of blunting long passes. The Navy line charged fast and the secondary defense was instructed to play tight, blanketing receivers.

With his receivers covered quickly by the pressing defense, Caldwell couldn't get the ball off as fast as he likes to. Navy gambled that its line could keep the Army quarterback from getting off a long pass to anyone getting behind the tight secondary.

Those who saw the Middies win by the shocking count of 43-12, know the gamble worked. His receivers covered quickly and the Navy line roaring in almost unchecked, Caldwell had his worst afternoon of the season. He underthrew, overthrew and landed on his back all day.

As a result of this and other strategy, Navy salvaged what had been a disappointing season by battering its rival in the 60th game of the bitter service rivalry. The Middies, led by jolting Joe Bellino, ran up their biggest score in the history of the classic.

Bellino, a junior from Winchester, Mass., wrote his name into the Army-Navy record book with a three touchdown performance. The shifty, hard running Middie halfback joined Army's Felix (Doc) Blanchard (1945) and Pat Uebel (1953) as the only players ever to score three TDs in an Army-Navy game.

Bellino scored the first two Navy TDs, one on a 15 yard run and another 47 yards on a draw play. They shot the Middies to a 13-0 lead opening the gates for the one-sided triumph over the six point favored Cadets.

Navy (5-4-1) may have played itself into a bowl game with its convincing triumph Saturday. The Middies have been invited to meet Penn State (8-2) in the first edition of the Liberty Bowl game here Dec. 19.

MacKay Advances in Philippines Meet

MANILA (AP)—U. S. Davis Cupper Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio fought his way through a tight first set, then boomed decisively through the second to beat third-round opponent Willie Hernandez, 7-5, 6-2, in the Philippines' national tennis tournament today.

MacKay's fellow American, Myron Franks of Los Angeles lost his first set of the tournament in defeating another Filipino, Jessie Fernandez, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4.

MacKay and Franks, seeded No. 1 and 2 among Foreign players, then teamed up to score a 6-2, 6-0 doubles victory over Delfin Contreras and Felix Banaag, an unseeded tandem.

FIRST CHECK YOUR TIMING
By JACK AYDELOTTE

When your scores start to drop off, first check, or have someone else check, your timing.

If I do not do this, I find myself making changes in my natural delivery in an effort to get back on the beam. When this fails, I tense up and perhaps a relatively minor fault will become a major defect.

I've learned in times of a slump to practice and concentrate on the proper rhythm of the arm, swing and footwork so that I'm bringing the left foot and right arm to the foul line at the same time and in the same place for each delivery.

Are you starting the ball in motion on the pushaway at the same time that you take the first step? Are the arms and feet coordinating in a smooth and graceful delivery all the way through to the foul line? Are you guarding against throwing too fast a ball or exaggerating the backswing?

Practice these aspects of the approach and your timing is bound to improve.

Tigers Begin Shopping Today; Eye McMillan

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The Detroit Tigers' large delegation was on hand today for the opening of the Minor League baseball meetings, hoping to go on a shopping spree.

President Bill DeWitt said the Tigers came south to make some trades.

★ ★ ★

A shortstop, first baseman, relief pitcher and catcher are on the Tigers' shopping list. General Manager Rick Ferrell said the Tigers already have talked shop with the 15 other teams.

It also is understood that the Tigers have talked trade with the San Francisco Giants for a first baseman and a shortstop. The first baseman is understood to be in the Giants' minor league system. The shortstop could be either Eddie Bressoud or Andre Rodgers.

Canadiens Still Invincible

By The Associated Press

It's open to argument whether the current edition of the Montreal Canadiens is the greatest hockey aggregation ever put together. But at the current rate the National Hockey League leaders are traveling they'll smash all records for unbeaten string, most games won and total points.

The longest undefeated string is 23 games by Boston in 1940-41. The record for most games won by a team in a season is 45 by the 1955-56 Montreal club. And in 1950-51 Detroit piled up a record 101 points in a 70-game season.

The current Canadiens are less than one third through their 70-game schedule with a record of 17 victories, two defeats and four ties for 38 points. They haven't lost in their last 18 outings even with defenseman Bob Turner sidelined most of the time with a broken leg and top scoring ace Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion seeing only part-time action. Maurice Richard, their veteran star, also was injured last week.

Two victories over the weekend gave the Canadiens a string of eight straight triumphs. They shut out Detroit 1-0 Saturday and turned back the Boston Bruins 4-2 Sunday night to increase their pace-setting margin to 10 points over Toronto.

The decision over the Bruins was almost routine as Dickie Moore sent them out in front with a goal at 1:55 of the first period. Claude Provost added another in the same period and a second in the finale. In between Jean Beliveau also scored, Bronco Horvath, the league's leading scorer, got both Boston's goals to run his total to 20.

The Toronto Maple Leafs got their points in two games and moved into second place. The Leafs tied Boston 2-2 Saturday and last night took care of the Red Wings, 4-1.

Far back in a battle for fifth place, the Chicago Black Hawks came out on top in their two games with the New York Rangers. The Hawks won 6-2 Saturday and last night in New York they played to a 2-2 tie. The result left each with 12 points.

Stampers Open Tonight

Inter-League Trade Offers Begin

Other Clubs Suggest Deals as They Plan for Winter Confab

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — The Washington Senators, last for longer than they care to remember, took the first step toward breaking the Inter-League trading log today by offering Roy Sievers to the Los Angeles Dodgers for Charley Neal.

"We'd love to have a guy like Sievers, especially in our ball park," general manager Buzzy Bavasi of the Dodgers confessed frankly. "There's still a chance we can get together on a deal for him."

Chief stumbling block up to now is the Senators' insistence on Neal, whose timely slugging figured prominently in the Dodgers' world series victory over the White Sox last month.

"We can't afford to give up a player like Neal," Bavasi said, recoiling at the thought. "Now if they want to talk about some of the other players maybe we can do business."

The Senators might be willing to take infielders Maury Wills and Don Zimmer instead and if that proves to be the case, the Dodgers might be tempted.

In any case, the Senators made it plain they are in the market.

"We're speaking to several clubs and something could pop," pointed out Washington manager Cookie Lavagetto.

The Senators, for example, apparently are willing to give up right-hander Pedro Ramos to the Giants for outfielder Felipe Alou. They also have talked to the Orioles about southpaw Billy O'Dell, indicating they would give pitcher Tex Clevenger and an infielder for him.

The San Francisco Giants have been almost as busy as the Senators although they are in a much better position to stand pat if they feel like it.

San Francisco has offered St. Louis southpaw Johnny Antonelli and infielder Daryl Spencer for second baseman Don Blasingame and right-hander Larry Jackson, but the Cards said no soap on that one. Most of the inquiries the Cardinals are getting revolve around ex-Giant Bill White, but they're in no hurry to deal him, either.

Like the Senators, the Giants are interested in O'Dell. Not to the extent of giving up either Jackie Brandt or Alou for him, though. That's whom the Orioles asked for in return and negotiations hit a stalemate at that point.

For once, the Yankees come right out and say they're looking around for a deal. The reason, of course, is obvious.

What they're angling for chiefly is a left-handed long-ball hitter like Gus Bell. They talked to Cincinnati about him, then promptly lost interest when Gabe Paul said he wanted right-hander Bob Turley in exchange.

Manager Al Lopez of the White Sox said his club's needs were simple.

No Comment From Penn, Rutgers

Reports Say Stiegman Will Get Sebo's Job

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John Stiegman of Rutgers will get Steve Sebo's job as Penn football coach, despite Penn's first Ivy League title since 1952, a reliable source told The Associated Press.

This recommendation already has been forwarded by the faculty administrative committee to Dr. Gaylord P. Harnwell, Penn's president, the source said yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Harnwell said he normally follows the advice of his committee, but hasn't received the report and knows nothing of the matter.

Athletic Director Jerry Ford declined comment.

Stiegman said: "I think all such comment should come from Penn."

A source close to Stiegman said, however, the 35-year-old coach has accepted the Penn job.

Sebo said he knows nothing officially and won't resign.

Several coaches have admitted being interviewed in recent months for the job. The decision to oust Sebo reportedly was made last winter and the faculty committee has been screening candidates for the job ever since.

Sebo came to Penn from Michigan State in 1954 at a time when football was being de-emphasized in the Ivy League, although Penn was still playing major college teams.

He didn't win a game the first two years and his over-all record is 18-35-1. Several times the students hanged him in effigy. This season Penn's record was 7-1-1, the best in 12 years.

Sebo was given a new three-year contract in 1956, although his teams had won but four games that year.

Stiegman, in four seasons as Rutgers' head coach, has a 22-15 record. The 1958 team was his best, winning 8 and losing 1. This year Rutgers was 6-3.

★ ★ ★

Stiegman is a graduate of Williams College and was assistant coach at Princeton from 1946 until he went to Rutgers. He has just completed the first year of a two-year contract.

Big Buck Derby, State's Season Winds Up Today

Michigan's general deer-hunting season comes to an end today. This day also marks the conclusion of The Pontiac Press annual "big buck derby."

Topping one of the heaviest "derby" lists in years, of better-than-200-pounders is a 263-pound entry, downed near Rudyard in the Upper Peninsula by James F. Davis of Pontiac.

All entries must be accompanied by a certified weight slip signed by the weigher, an uninterested witness, and the hunter.

Grab-Bag for Minor Leaguers Starts

Don Lee Expected to Be Nat Draft Pick

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) —Don Lee, 25-year-old pitcher who failed in three trials with the Detroit Tigers, was expected to be the Washington Senators' first draft pick today in the annual grab-bag of minor league talent.

The draft session was the first matter on the agenda of baseball men gathered here for the start of the Minor League meetings. The Major League's annual Winter Confab will be held next week at Miami Beach.

The Senators, whose roster is three men short of the 40-man limit, and the San Francisco Giants, with four vacancies, were expected to be the most active teams in the draft.

Among the Minor Leaguers available for the $25,000 draft price were: catcher Joe Lonnett and pitcher Warren Hacker of Buffalo; first baseman Norm Zauchin and infielder Foster Castleman of Miami, catcher Darrell Johnson of Richmond, and pitchers Hank Aguirre of Charleston, Jack Spring of Dallas, Bob Keegan of Rochester, and Ed Palmquist and Jim Golden of St. Paul.

Following this draft of "veterans" players, there was another selection session in which for the first time the majors could for $15,000 purchase first-year youngsters who were signed to fancy bonuses since last November but who were not promoted to Major League rosters.

Each team could draft until its 40-man roster were completed for 1960. Three clubs — the Los Angeles Dodgers, Milwaukee Braves and Chicago Cubs said their rosters were filled and they were not interested in drafting.

The Philadelphia Phillies sold outfielders Bob Bowman and Solly Drake to Buffalo on the eve of the draft so that they might grab two bargain basement players from the minors.

Lee, son of former Chicago White Sox left-hander Thornton Lee, won 14 games and lost nine for Charleston last season. He struck out 115 batters, walked only 59 and had an earned run average of 3.56.

★ ★ ★

The strapping six-foot-four right-hander came up with the Tigers in 1957 when he compiled a 1-3 record. He was 0-0 with the Tigers in 1958 and last season was optioned to the minors during spring training and never recalled by the parent club.

Palmer Wins on 4th Extra Hole

Putters Fail Cooper, Brewer in Three-Way W. Palm Beach Finale

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Arnold Palmer had to play four extra holes with the defending champion and another hot contender to win the $15,000 West Palm Beach open.

Palmer turned the trick when his putter stayed steady on the 76th hole. The difference meant $2,000 for the Ligonier, Pa., pro and $1,350 each for his rivals, Pete Cooper of Lakeland and Gay Brewer Jr. of Crystal River.

★ ★ ★

Cooper won the West Palm in a playoff last year. This time on the payoff hole, he overshot the green and then missed a five-foot putt. Brewer fell short of the green and tapped his putt too hard, rimming the cup.

Prep Cage Season Opens Tuesday With Light Schedule

Pontiac Central and Edsel Ford Collide at PCH

Avon Visits Rochester, Ortonville Plays Host to Clarkston

By BILL CORNWELL

The 1959-60 high school basketball season in Oakland County officially gets under way Tuesday night with a light nine-game schedule.

The Chiefs, pre-season favorites to repeat as Valley champs, will undergo a severe initiation when they collide with an experienced Dearborn Edsel Ford quintet in the PCH gymnasium in a non-league contest.

Avondale, picked to win the Oakland B crown this season, also has a difficult assignment. The Yellow Jackets clash with Rochester in the Rochester gym in another non-conference game.

Clarkston, a big title choice this season in the Wayne-Oakland circuit, goes to Ortonville for an outside engagement and Bloomfield Hills plays host to Oak Park in other leading attractions.

Completing Tuesday's program will be Howell at Brighton, South Lyon at Fowlerville, Croswell-Lexington at Brown City, Kingston at North Branch and Utica St. Lawrence at Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows.

Coach Art Van Ryzin's cagers are commencing with Edsel Ford for the 2nd straight year. They scored a 69-60 victory over the Thunderbirds last year at Dearborn after trailing at the half, 33-31.

Just like a year ago, the Edsel Ford cagers will have one game under their belts when the two team tip off at 8 p. m. The Thunderbirds handed Redford Union a 58-38 trouncing last Wednesday in their season opener.

Van Ryzin is expected to start Bill Hayward and George Fed at forwards, Bradell Pritchett at center and Phil Rabaja at one guard spot, along with either Vern Ellis or Booker Hurner.

The Chiefs meet city rival Pontiac Northern on Friday night in the season opener for the Huskies. It will be the 2nd meeting between the two foes with PCH an easy 78-40 winner in the inaugural game.

Pontiac Press Photo

CONTENTED COACH — Art Van Ryzin, "Prep Coach of the Year," last season when Pontiac Central finished the regular season as the number one team in Michigan, gets that contented lift from his team members prior to the opening of the 1959-60 campaign. The cage pressure will replace some of the contentment as the Chiefs start the season Tuesday night playing host to Edsel Ford. Giving their coach a lift are (left to right) Vern Ellis, Booker Hurner, Bill Hayward, George Fed, Bradell Pritchett and Phil Rabaja. Henry Robertson, who would have been a starter, is out for several weeks recuperating from a broken wrist sustained in pre-season drills. Friday night, PCH is home to city rival Pontiac Northern.

Pairings for Major Bowls Complete

By The Associated Press

Navy has sent Army's Black Knights home on their shields and it's a LSU-Mississippi rematch for the Sugar Bowl. But there still are a few things to be setted in college football, a few odds and ends like:

That one game, with UCLA, standing between Syracuse and an unbeaten, untied record for the national championship.

A yes or no from Navy on an invitation to play Penn State in the Dec. 19 Liberty Bowl, the only major bowl berth open.

Syracuse (9-0) plays UCLA (5-3-1) in Memorial Coliseum at Los Angeles this Saturday (NBC-TV, 4:15 p.m. EST) in the Orange's final bid for the national title, decided by The Associated Press poll. The nation's sportswriters and broadcasters, who have made Syracuse the No. 1 team for the past three weeks, cast their ballots in the decisive voting after this weekend's game, in total offense, rushing offense,

★ ★ ★

The boys from Syracuse, No. 1 in total offense, rushing offense, scoring, total defense and rushing defense, haven't played since Nov. 21, when they walloped Boston U. 46-0. They have scored 117 points in their last two games, both shutouts, and have been unscored on in four of their last five games behind the Sizeable Seven.

UCLA, the team that upset Southern California 10-3 and left Syracuse the only undefeated, untied team in major college play, made it four in a row last Saturday by defeating Utah 21-6.

Navy should have an answer on the Liberty Bowl bid today. The Middies, jolting the Cadets with the top point total ever in the 60-year-old service series for a 43-12 rout, have a 5-4-1 record. Penn State is 8-2.

Alabama (7-1-2), which turned down a Bluegrass Bowl bid after defeating Auburn 10-0, could get the Liberty bid if Navy says no. Pitt (6-4), paired with Syracuse as the only teams to beat Penn State, could be a third choice.

The other major bowls were filled Saturday, and the pairings look like this:

DEC. 19

Bluebonnet, at Houston—Texas Christian (8-2) vs. Clemson (8-2).

JAN. 1

JAN. ?

Gator, at Jacksonville, Fla. — Arkansas (8-2) vs. Georgia Tech (6-4).

Texas received the Southwest Conference nod for the host role in the Cotton Bowl although finishing in a three-way title tie with TCU and Arkansas. Texas did it by beating Texas A&M 20-17 Thanksgiving Day, and TCU made it with a 19-0 job on Southern Methodist Saturday. Arkansas finished the season a week earlier.

Clemson, the Atlantic Coast Conference champ, drew a bid to the inaugural Bluebonnet by ripping Furman 56-3. Mississippi, beaten only by LSU, 7-3, got a second crack at the Tigers in the Sugar Bowl after smearing Mississippi State 42-0. Georgia, the Southeastern Conference champion, accepted the Orange Bowl trip after a 21-14 victory over Georgia Tech, which got the Gator Bowl bid anyhow.

State Quints Start Play

By United Press International

Basketball and December arrive on the Michigan sports scene at about the same time this week as college quintets throughout the state begin their seasons against their foes.

Among the major colleges, Michigan opens at Pittsburgh Wednesday while defending Big Ten champion Michigan State entertains Bowling Green Thursday.

University of Detroit meets Assumption Tuesday, and takes on Brandeis Saturday. Drake will be at Michigan and Notre Dame at MSU for Saturday games.

First tentative steps in the infant Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Assn. season find Ferris at Adrian on Wednesday and Albion at Adrian Saturday.

In other games, Calvin meets Ferris tonight; Alma goes to Central Michigan tomorrow, and Western Michigan travels to Northwestern, Lawrence Tech meets Kalamazoo and Wayne State travels to Loyola also on Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

On Friday, Alma meets Wooster and Detroit Tech takes on Findlay, Ohio.

As for prospects, MSU coach Forddy Anderson said his team has "no height and no depth" with which to defend its conference crown, but "we will move well and cause a lot of people trouble."

The University of Detroit has one of the most exciting teams in the state for its schedule.

Dave DeBusschere, a sought-after prep star at Detroit Austin, will make his varsity debut with the Titans and a strong all-around squad could make Detroit a contender for national honors.

Woolpert's Aide Becomes Head Coach of Dons

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ross Giudice somewhat reluctantly took over as basketball coach at the University of San Francisco just four days before the season opened.

Giudice was named Friday to succeed Phil Woolpert, who decided to take a one-year leave of absence as the Dons' head coach. Giudice, 35, has been Woolpert's chief assistant and frosh coach at USF for nine years.

"I was kind of stunned by the news," Giudice said. "Believe it or not, I was happy as an assistant coach at USF.

"I know most coaches dream of someday becoming top man but I was satisfied. I have a furniture business on the side, that takes time and I really wasn't looking for a bigger job."

Titans' Record 5th Best of Grid Independents

DETROIT (AP)—The University of Detroit finished in a tie for fifth place in the 1959 standings of the major football independents with a 6-4 record.

Reviving New York Splits Two Games With Warriors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Knickerbockers, although still entrenched in the Eastern division basement, are showing signs of waking up in the National Basketball Assn.

Facing Philadelphia in a home-and-home weekend series after the Warriors had tripped pace-setting Boston twice in succession, New York managed to get an even break. The Knicks lost to the Warriors 109-108 in Madison Square Garden Saturday night, then bounced back to win 127-126 in Philadelphia yesterday on Kenny Sears' basket at the final buzzer.

In yesterday's only other game, Boston increased its Eastern division lead over Philadelphia to two games by beating Minneapolis 109-93.

Both Knick - Warriors games were thrillers. Saturday night, New York led almost throughout only to have Wilt Chamberlain, the Philadelphia giant, tip in Guy Rodgers' set shot for the winning bucket with 50 seconds remaining.

Yesterday, the Warriors came from 17 points behind late in the final period to take the lead on a tap-in by Chamberlain with five seconds remaining. Then Carl Braun passed to Jack George who drove over the midcourt line and handed off to Sears for his winning shot. Chamberlain, who had 28 points Saturday, led all scorers yesterday with 33. Willie Naulls tossed in 30 for New York.

Bill Sharman hit eight of nine field goal attempts over one stretch in the second period to steer the Celtics to their triumph over Minneapolis. Sharman wound up with 29 points. Elgin Baylor, the Lakers' big gun, returned to action after a bout with the flu. He played only 10 minutes, however, and scored two points.

In other Saturday games, St. Louis defeated Minneapolis 102-91, Syracuse beat Cincinnati 111-105 and Boston trounced Detroit 136-110.

Living Room Goes to Sea; Lawn Too

ATLANTIC BEACH, N.Y. (AP) —A strange noise awakened Nat Wynn Sunday. He yawned, slipped on his slippers, trotted downstairs, and found his living room had vanished.

Where the living room used to be there now was wall-to-wall ocean water.

★ ★ ★

Wynn trotted back upstairs, told his wife, Edith, that the living room was gone. She yawned and asked where he thought it might have gone. He said he didn't know. So he called police to report a missing living room.

★ ★ ★

While Mrs. Wynn and their daughter, Marjorie, huddled in the upstairs front of the stucco house, Wynn and police investigated. Also vanished: a 60-foot strip of the Wynn lawn, the den, a dock and cabana.

Wynn and the police spotted a huge dredge busy deepening and widening the channel about 200 feet out. The dredged sand was being pumped around to an eroded beach on the Atlantic Ocean side of the island.

Apparently suction from the dredging removed earlier from under a sea wall that separated the rear of Wynn's house from the channel pulled Wynn's living room floor, the furniture and the rest into the channel. There was no trace of any of it.

Urges Lower Industry Taxes

Break on Depreciation Would Aid U.S., Firms —Accounting Executive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was told today it could give business a better break on tax deductions for depreciation—and still get more revenue in the long run.

Every $100 spent on machinery and equipment generates $25.953 in taxes, Maurice E. Peloubet said in testimony prepared for the House Ways and Means Committee.

Peloubet, partner in a New York accounting firm, said one-third of the productive plant in the United States is absolete. Under present tax policies, he said, industries which would like to replace it are being "progressively penalized and starved."

He said more generous depreciation allowances would not require raising rates because the additional income created by renewal and modernization will offset the additional depreciation allowances in the first years and increase revenues thereafter.

★ ★ ★

William A. Paton, professor at the University of Michigan said present law penalizes businesses by requiring them to use past prices in computing depreciation. He said the old prices are no longer realistic in terms of present day dollars.

Will Set Trade Tone for 1st Half of 1960

Next Month Economically Crucial

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower's visit in Europe, Asia and Africa will be stealing the headlines. But don't forget he can — and probably will — talk trade on that trip as well as international politics and alignments.

And at home the next four or five weeks will have a lot to do with setting the course of trade, industry, finance, stock prices — and therefore jobs and incomes — in the first half of 1960.

What happens along these lines also will have a bearing on the success of the President's trip. The economic status of the United States — along with the strength of the American dollar — has much to do with the tone of thinking and planning in other lands. It is a powerful factor in determining decisions in politics as well as trade.

If you own stocks, or would like to, you'll be watching along with the experts to see if the traditional year-end rally develops in security markets. Although seasonal factors influence it, such a rally usually is interpreted as reflecting confidence in business in general for the months just ahead.

Management and labor — and everyone else — will be watching closely for any break in the deadlock in thinking on such things as featherbedding, factory rules, just how much of a wage increase would it take to set off another inflationary price spiral. This deadlock is one of today's great uncertainties.

Manufacturers hope to know better in December how fast the steel industry can get finished products into their hands, how much rebuilding of inventory and when it can be expected.

TO WATCH RACE

And as the auto companies approach full output again, everyone in and out of the industry will be watching for the postponed race between the new compact cars, and between American and foreign autos. A big sales year for Detroit would give the economy a decisive boost.

★ ★ ★

How consumers feel in general about spending — and that's the really big item in the economy that sets good times or bad — may show clearly in the next four weeks. If they have confidence in the business outlook, and especially in their own income prospects, and spend freely between now and Christmas, both merchants and manufacturers will look for a good first half of the year.

BUDGET DUE

In the next few days the federal budget will take final shape. Soon we will know how much the government wants to spend in the next fiscal year, how much of a needle that will be for business. And we will know if the government thinks it can make such expenditures within its anticipated tax collections.

If not, there'll be the threat of higher taxes. Or there will be the threat of more inflationary pressure to keep prices on the climb.

The home building industry already thinks it knows what it is in for if the tight money policy continues. It thinks building will fall off unless it gets some relief and can find mortgage money at interest rates people can pay.

But a test of tight money is coming up, too. If businessmen decide a boom will come soon the demand for borrowed funds will rise, making money tighter. If the Treasury finds it can live within its income, it won't be out competing for lendable money, and that will help ease conditions.

UNUSUAL but useful gift for women — a rechargeable flashlight in pink. It can be carried in pocketbook and recharged by plugging into wall socket.

Industrialist Critical After Suicide Try

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Joseph Hunter, 51, millionaire industrialist and inventor, apparently tried to take his own life by shooting himself in the head because of "family problems," police reported today.

Hunter, a well-known philantropist, remained today in critical condition at Riverside Community Hospital where he was taken yesterday with a gunshot wound from a .45-caliber automatic.

Police Lt. J. H. Smith said "there had been family trouble," but refused to elaborate beyond saying the wealthy industrialist had been divorced three months ago.

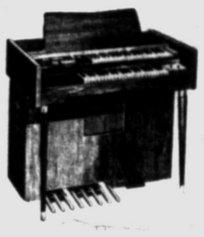

Angry Hungarians Picket Russian U.N. Delegation

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nearly 150 angry Hungarians picketed the New York headquarters of the Russian delegation to the United Nations yesterday in connection with the suicide of former Danish diplomat Povl Bang-Jensen.

Bang-Jensen was fired from his U.N. job for refusing to turn over to U.N. officials a list of Hungarian refugees he felt might fall into Communist hands and endanger the refugees' relatives in Hungary.

Hollywood Headlines:

Soviet Joins With U. S. Premiering War Film

By RICK DU BROW
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Moscow will take part Dec. 17 in joint, worldwide premieres of the American film "On the Beach," which deals with a handful of survivors of a nuclear war who are awaiting death from radiation.

★ ★ ★

Announcement of the Soviet participation was made yesterday by the film's producer and director, Stanley Kramer, who added that Moscow was the 18th major city to participate.

★ ★ ★

Kramer said Russian agreement to show the movie came in a cable from Alexandre Davydov, director of Sovexport Films, to Arnold M. Picker, vice president in charge of foreign sales for United Artists, which is releasing the picture.

The cable stated: "We agree to your suggestion that we premiere 'On the Beach' in Moscow Dec. 17. We ask that you rush to us a print of the film with its Russian subtitles. Greetings. Davydov."

Kramer told a news conference he assumed Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had seen the film or read the script "because of the deep implications."

LEADS TO A HOPE

"I take it with a great deal of optimism," Kramer said, "that this move by the Russians may represent some reply to all the overtures being made in the United Nations and elsewhere about disarmament.

"Soviet willingness to exhibit the picture before its people leads to the hope it may point to the end of the Cold War."

Kramer said, however, he did not yet know whether the film would be shown to the Russian public-at-large — or just be premiered for Soviet big shots on Dec. 17.

"I would suspect," he said, "that the film be released for the people to see."

Kramer said this was the first time Russia ever agreed to participate jointly with the U.S. in the premiere of a new American movie.

On Nov. 10, "Marty" was shown to a Moscow audience and Russia's "The Cranes Are Flying" was previewed in Washington, D.C. as the start of U.S.-Soviet film exchange under a cultural agreement.

"On the Beach," which stars Fred Astaire, Gregory Peck, Ava Gardner and Anthony Perkins, was screened for top-ranking Soviet officials last week in Moscow by Arthur B. Krim, president of United Artists.

The film is not part of the official cultural exchange. It was sold to the Russians with State Department approval, Kramer said, adding that the subtitles were prepared in New York City and that the movie would not be subject to "editing" by the Soviets.

Actor Peck will represent the makers of "On the Beach" at the Moscow premiere, Kramer said. When "Marty" had its premiere in Moscow, the U.S. was represented by Gary Cooper and Edward G. Robinson.

Peck told the news conference: "This whole thing — the Russian acceptance — is as startling a piece of news to me as to you. Needless to say, I'm extremely proud to be representing the film in Moscow."

Did he think his involvement and stumping for such a controversial film would hurt his popularity?

"The fact that we were heading for a certain amount of controversy made it more exciting," he said. "I remember when I made 'Gentlemen's Agreement,' a movie about anti-semitism, some years ago — and people told me it would ruin me."

★ ★ ★

Fire Sounds Own Alarm, Saves Sleeping Family

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Firemen credited a short circuit with saving the lives of the William Schwarting family early Sunday.

Schwarting, awakened by a door bell, saw flames leaping from the ceiling of his bedroom. He and his family fled the house. Firemen said flames probably short circuited the door bell.

Hunter Toll Is 37; Season's Last Day

By The Associated Press

Michigan's deer hunters stow away their rifles for another year at nightfall today with the end of the 16-day season.

★ ★ ★

At least 37 hunters have died since the deer-hunting season began Nov. 15. Eight hunters died of gunshot wounds, 23 of heart attacks and five of asphyxiation. One death was from undetermined causes.

Five Die in Mansion Flames

Seek Fatal Fire Cause

BRISTOL, R.I. (AP) — Authorities today sought the cause of a fire which claimed the lives of a father and four children in their 20-room mansion overlooking Narragansett Bay.

Three other occupants, including the children's mother escaped the flames Sunday.

The victims were Barnes Newberry Jr., 38, Eleanor Newberry, 5, her brother Rockwell, 3, and Newberry's stepchildren, Evan, 11, and Stephanie, 8.

'It's Only Your Custom'

Plays Irate Lover Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I think I acted the same as any American boy would," the 17-year-old Iranian said after slapping his girl friend and firing two blanks from a pistol.

"I've been in this country for almost six years," said Farhad Adjoodani, "and I'm quite familiar with your customs."

★ ★ ★

Farhad faces no possibility of police action. The son of Mahmoud Adjoodani, director of foreign exchange students at the Iranian Embassy, he has diplomatic immunity.

Farhad said he lost his temper Saturday night because his girl friend, Sandra Boliek, 16, had been going out with other boys while he was at college in Youngstown, Ohio.

★ ★ ★

Detective Howard E. Campbell of the city police said the boy had slapped Sandra at the Adjoodani home while his parents were away. His 11-year-old sister was in the house.

Campbell said the boy then took a pistol from a trunk and threatened to shoot himself. He ran into another room, and a shot was heard. It was a blank.

Then he drove the girl home. En route, Campbell said, the boy held the pistol outside the car window and fired a second blank.

Police were summoned. They said a simple assault charge could have been filed if the boy did not have immunity.

Near Half World's Population Can't Read?

Despite the march of science, there is still an appalling amount of ignorance in the world. A United Nations agency estimates that 44 per cent of the earth's population over the age of 14 can neither read nor write.

BOYLE

We are becoming a nation of home owners. The number of American families owning their own homes rose from 20 milion to 29 million in the last decade. The rate of ownership in nonfarm families is now 58 per cent, the highest in history.

You've got mighty good eyesight if you can tell the number of steps in the pyramid on the back of a dollar bill. The answer: 13.

Nature study note: A doe can run 48 miles an hour; a buck 49 miles an hour. This explains why the deer population is increasing rapidly.

BOREDOM IS CAUSE

Boredom is one of civilized man's greatest enemies. A study of 300 men and women who complained of chronic tiredness disclosed only 20 per cent had any organic ailment. In most of the others fatigue was the result of simple boredom.

Here's a health tip for barflies. A teacher of orthopedic surgery at Northwestern University reports that "hooking your foot on the rail when you stand at a bar straightens your spine and reduces strain, thus making you more comfortable."

Do you think of coffee as a medicine? Few do, but when this brew was first introduced in France in 1660 it was dispensed as a drug.

Woman at the wheel: Although only 30 million of America's 80 million licensed drivers are women, in one-car families they do between 75 and 90 per cent of the driving. So there is some justification for the complaint among suburban housewives that they are being turned into chauffeurs for their husbands and children.

BACKBONE GONE?

Do you feel you are losing backbone as you grow older? Well, in a way you are. You are born with 33 vertebrae, but fusion reduces them later in life to 26.

A pleasant custom: In Scandinavia, members of a family line up their shoes in a row before going to bed on Christmas Eve. This signifies their equal love for one another and their desire to live in peace together in the coming year.

Boycott Leader King Will Press Fight in Atlanta

"The time has come for a bold advance of the southern campaign for equality," said King, in disclosing he will leave the city where he led a successful Negro boycott against segregated buses.

The Negro integrationist said he will go to Atlanta Feb. 1 to become copastor with his father at the 4,000-member Ebenezer Baptist Church.

Wheat and Corn Steady to Firm

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat and corn futures moved into a steady to firm range today but other grains and soybeans scarcely stirred from previous closes in early transactions today on the Board of Trade.

Word that the United Arab Republic had bought about 2½ million bushels of wheat and 30,000 tons of flour over the weekend caused some buying of wheat.

Dealers appeared to have accepted as final the loss of about three million bushels of wheat business with Brazil. That nation has refused U.S. offers and apparently will obtain the supplies from Argentina.

Wheat was ¼ to ½ cent a bushel higher near the end of the first hour. December $1.98¾; corn unchanged to ⅜ higher, December $1.10⅜; oats ¼ lowes to ⅛ higher, December 76½; rye ¼ higher to ¼ lower, December $1.32¾; soybeans unchanged to ⅜ higher, January $2.18½.

No Charge Filed in Case of Raided Icebox

David A. Prasil, 20, was released Saturday after Mrs. Barbara A. Drake, 20, of 50 Longfellow St., refused to sign a complaint.

She had reported to Pontiac Police that someone had entered her home and taken remnants of her Thanksgiving turkey and beer from the icebox early Friday morning.

Prasil does not live at 20 N. Anderson St., the address he gave Pontiac Police. The home at that address is occupied by Mrs. Ben D'Arcy.

Electronics Up 6 and 7 Points

Gains of as much as 6 and 7 points were common in the science group, while the balance of the list saw gains of fractions to a point or so. Trading continued at a heavy pace after the ticker tape ran late for an eight-minute period just after the opening.

Motorola and Texas Instruments, two of 1959s top gainers, again forged ahead. An accumulation of "buy" orders delayed the opening of Motorola for over an hour while specialists attempted to match orders. The first block of 1,700 shares was up 6. Later prices were around this area. Texas Instruments was up more than 7 at one point.

Weekend business news generally was favorable, including word that machine tool orders in October were the largest since March 1957 and a continuing increase in department store sales over year-ago levels.

Is Tax Answer Coming in '59?

Legislators May Vote for Payroll Levy but, Again, They May Not

LANSING (AP)—December will be only hours away when Michigan lawmakers return tonight for what might be the 1959 Legislature's last bout with taxes.

For two weeks, there have been whispers in the capitol about putting off a decision until the 1960 Legislature meets Jan. 13.

If the payroll tax answer flops this week as others have before it, what has been a minority sentiment conceivably could gain majority backing in a hurry.

The next two or three days should tell whether the payroll levy—a form of gross income tax similar to Indiana's—is going anywhere.

A blast against the payroll tax was unloosed today by Sen. Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo), chief architect of the Republican use tax strategy earlier in the session.

"I am firmly resolved to oppose the imposition of any tax that stinks of, reeks of, smells of or has the least odor of an income tax. The payroll tax stinks of an income tax," Morris said.

Leaders of the latest House tax compromise effort view it as the only alternative to the Republican Senate nuisance tax package, ruling out flat-rate income and corporations profit tax possibilities.

"I feel it's got to be one way or the other," said Rep. Farrell E. Roberts (R-Pontiac). By the other, he meant the 73½ million dollar nuisance tax program that has badly split the GOP Senate caucus.

The eight-member compromise group headed by Roberts and Rep. James T. Bowman (D-Roseville) was to meet at 2 p.m. today.

Some leaders hopefully predicted that a tax solution might be achieved by Dec. 15. Generally, they were the same lawmakers who a month ago foresaw a Nov. 15 windup.

Rock 'n' Roll, Jazz? Cows Aren't in Moo-d

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The barn is no place for rock 'n' roll or jazz music. Cows don't like it, says a dairy industry representative.

★ ★ ★

"That music tightens the cow's glandular system and deters milking," says Will A. Foster of the American Dairy Assn. Chicago. "Waltz music produces much better milking conditions," he told Utah dairy farmers.

Bandit Takes 'Reward' for Solving Problem

An area man who had a moving problem last week reported to Oakland County sheriff's deputies yesterday that someone had solved the problem for him — illegally.

John Dementry told deputies he moved from a house at 2610 Oakley Park Rd., Commerce Township, to his new home at 114 Dresden St., Pontiac, last week.

Sunday he returned and unhappily found his problem solved. "The freezer was gone," he exclaimed. It is valued at nearly $900.

Withdraw Canal Border Guards

All Quiet After Panama Arrests Agitators in Stoning of Soldiers

PANAMA (AP)—U. S. troops were withdrawn today from guard duty along the Panama Canal Zone boundary where some soldiers were stoned in an anti-American demonstration Saturday night.

Panama authorities jailed 30 to 50 nationalists in a roundup of agitators in the wake of the demonstration, in which 31 persons were injured.

The situation was so quiet today the troops were withdrawn to their base, leaving patrol duties along the boundary to Canal Zone police. Gov. William E. Potter of the Canal Zone left on a trip to Washington which had been delayed for nearly a month because of tension.

Twelve U.S. soldiers and 19 Panamanians were injured in the fight.

The riot was another manifestation of recent nationalist agitation to establish Panamanian sovereignty over the Canal Zone, taken over by the United States under permanent lease in 1903.

Kilauea Iki Lava Shoots Way Up, Stops Suddenly

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — Kilauea Iki volcano shot a tremendous fountain of golden lava to a record height of 1,700 feet Sunday night and then stopped erupting, for the third time since Nov. 14.

The lava flow, reported by seismologists at close to 50 million cubic yards, has formed a lake of molten rock to a depth of 355 feet on the floor of fiery Kilauea Iki crater.

Independence Twp. Crash Injures Two

Two women were injured in a two-car head-on collision Sunday on Waterford road south of Pelton road, Independence Township, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

One of the drivers, Karen F. Herron, 21, of 5936 Mary Sue Dr., Clarkston, and Mrs. Norma Rolfe, 49, of Flint were treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released.

Mrs. Rolfe was riding in the car driven by her husband, Orin, 55. Deputies said the Herron car went out of control on an icy curve and skidded across the center line into Rolfe's auto.

Local Man in Hospital

Theodore Johnson, 20, of 145 Edison St., was in satisfactory condition at Pontiac General Hospital after being burned Saturday afternoon.

Johnson suffered second and third degree burns to his hands and body while washing auto parts in a pan of gasoline at his home.

Bigger Aid Plan Stresses Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — A four-billion-dollar foreign aid program with increased emphasis on military assistance is being prepared for Congress.

$2 BILLION FOR MILITARY

Administration officials said President Eisenhower has decided to ask Congress for about $4,100,000,000 for the year starting next July 1. About half the total would be for military aid, and the other half for various forms of economic loans and grants.

The two-billion-dollar figure indicated for miliary assistance is the amount recommended last year by a White House study group headed by William H. Draper Jr., investment banker. Eisenhower asked $1,600,000,000 for military aid last year, but Congress cut it to $1,300,000,000.

In all, Congress cut about 700 million dollars from the $3,900,000,000 Eisenhower asked last year for foreign aid.

The President's decision to go for an even higher amount next year represented a victory within the administration for foreign aid backers over Treasury and Budget Bureau officials who have been fighting to hold down various kinds governmental costs to improve chances of a balanced budget.

Although far more than Congress voed this year, the projected program's cost is still less than the actual amount given and lent in the year which ended last June 30.

The Commerce Department reported that figure Sunday at $4,571,000,000 and said it included $2,162,000,000 in military aid. Much foreign aid spending comes from appropriations made in earlier years.

Rumor AMC Split of Stock

Auto Firm Directors Meet to OK Statement, Act on Dividends

DETROIT (AP)—American Motors directors met today to approve the corporation's annual financial statement, take dividend action and elect two board members.

A company spokesman had no comment on the report. He said he was aware such speculation has been going on recently in financial circles.

American Motors' stock has boomed on the New York Stock Exchange this year, rising from a low of $25.50 per share to a high of $96.87. It closed last Friday at $89.25.

Earnings for the fiscal year which ended Sept. 30 are expected to be about 60 million dollars after provision for about 52 million dollars for taxes. This will bring 1959 per share earnings to about $10 against $4.65 for the previous year.

Flint Northern Diver Injured at Pool Here

He was taken to Pontiac General Hospital after suffering bruises to his nose, body and legs. He was treated and released.

Authorities said Beck lived alone in the house. The cause of the early morning blaze still was not determined today, authorities said.

Tells of Scheme to Capture FDR

Vanderbilt Charges in Book That Many Rich Americans in Plot

NEW YORK (AP)—Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. says some wealthy Americans plotted to make a captive of Franklin D. Roosevelt at the time of his third-term election.

In an autobiography to be published Monday, Vanderbilt says that rich industrialists and others, who met around fashionable dinner tables in New York, Newport and Washington conspired to get by force.

"I use the word conspiracy," Vanderbilt writes. "I really am talking of a plot — a serious, long-discussed plan to — shall I say — capture the President."

Vanderbilt, a writer, an associate of Roosevelt, and himstlf a member of a wealthy society family, says he was privy to discussions among the anti-FDR financial group that "really meant business."

"I heard here and there, and bit by bit, pieces that fitted together," he says, and finally concluded "a real consiracy" was afoot. He said some of the group once met at his mother's home.

But he says they never went through with the scheme, after he was allowed to tip them off that Roosevelt and the FBI knew about it.

The FBI had no comment to make when informed of the story in Vanderbilt's book.

But U.E. Baughman, chief of the secret service which guards presidents said he had never heard of such a plot.

★ ★ ★

The Secret Service chief at the time Vanderbilt says the plot was hatched, Frank J. Wilson, now retired, also said he had no recollection of such a scheme.

U.N. Debating Algeria Today

France Cold Shoulders Talks, Saying It's Her Own Internal Problem

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U.N. opens debate on Algeria today amid efforts to set up Algerian-French talks on how to end the five-year-old rebellion in North Africa.

★ ★ ★

Tunisian delegate Mongi Slim was to be the first speaker in the debate in the General Assembly's Political Committee.

The French served notice they would boycott the debate, contending that Algeria is an internal French problem and the U.N. is forbidden to intervene in domestic matters.

The Algerian rebel representatives planned to attend the debate on guest passes provided by the Tunisian delegation. They said hoped the discussion would prompt France to give a clear answer to their latest bid for talks on Algeria's political future, instead of discussions of a military cease-fire only that has been offered.

Sewage Plan Deadline No Cause for Concern

Tomorrow is theoretically the last day for this city to win approval of its plans for expanding sewage treatment facilities under the schedule set by the state board earlier this year in a move to end pollution to the Clinton River.

Actually, the approval which the State Health Department gave to city plans for expansion last spring still stands, said City Manager Walter K. Willman.

That approval came just prior to the April election in which the city unsuccessfully sought voter acceptance of a $3,300,000 general obligation bond issue to finance more facilities.

If there are any additions to the $3,300,000 plan between now and the time construction begins, they will probably be only minor, said Willman.

This fall, the health department indicated that the $3,300,000 plan might not be ambitious enough to adequately curb pollution, which Albert E. Heustis, State Health Commission, described as "apparently worse than anyone suspected."

Since then, the city has been able to persuade the health department that the plans are adequate, said Willman.

Under the Water Resources Commission timetable the city has two other deadlines to meet—letting of contracts by July 1 of next year and completion of construction by Dec. 31 of 1961.

The city expects to default on the July 1 deadline through lack of voter approval of financing arrangements. If the state then wins a court order forcing the city to proceed, general obligation bonds can be legally issued without voter approval.

Businessmen See 1960-61 Boom

—WASHINGTON (UPI)—Business leaders are confident that the economy will shake off the effects of the steel strike and rise to record heights next year and in 1961.

This is the conclusion of "Nation's Business," a monthly publication of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which polled more than 300 business and industrial leaders.

The publication said "the unsettled situation in the steel industry apparently has not dimmed the optimism with which most business leaders view prospects for the coming year."

Of the executives polled, it said, 82 per cent forecast higher sales next year for their companies and 50 per cent said they planned to hire more employes.

STABILITY SEEN

The magazine said its poll showed that 75 per cent of the businessmen surveyed believe their prices would not go up next year, despite the possibility of a steel price boost as a result of the contract dispute.

Only 31 per cent of the businessmen looked for higher prices, while 4 per cent looked for a price decrease.

The magazine called it surprising that 63 per cent of the businessmen expected production would be higher in 1961 than in 1960. It said many economists forecast another business recession in 1961.

★ ★ ★

The survey also showed that most firms anticipate rising or stable profits in 1960, higher labor costs, heavy company spending for product improvement and plant expansion and introduction of new products and services.

El Trains Crash; 41 in Hospitals

CHICAGO (AP)—At least 41 persons were taken to hospitals today after a crash of elevated trains on the North Side. Police said none of the injured appeared severely hurt.

The accident occurred at Leland avenue and Broadway, about a block north of the Wilson avenue station where 7 were killed and 150 hurt three years ago in a similar collision.

An eight-car Howard street train carrying passengers northward hit the rear of an empty four-car train which was standing, awaiting a switch signal.

Consensus: Offer Aid If Asked

Give Birth Control Views

WASHINGTON (AP)—Five possible contenders for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination agree that the United States should not try to force birth control programs on underdeveloped nations.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a potential Republican presidential aspirant, shares the same view.

Rockefeller and several of the Democrats said in statements during the weekend that they would provide birth control information to any requesting nation. But they said it would not be a requisite to receiving U.S. foreign aid money.

★ ★ ★

The whole birth control-foreign aid issue was summed up as "an academic discussion" by Alonzo Smith, press spokesman for the International Cooperation Administration which handles the foreign aid program.

"Not one penny of foreign aid funds ever has been used for dissemination of birth control information and there are no plans to do so," Smith said.

In reply to questions from newsmen, several possible candidates for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination expressed their views on a recent Catholic bishop's statement. Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the other leading Republican contender, was not reached for comment.

★ ★ ★

Sen. John F. Kennedy, (D-Mass) a Roman Catholic, said he opposed use of federal funds for any sort of birth control measures in other countries. He said his views were not the result of the bishops' statement.

★ ★ ★

"It is up to the countries themselves" to decide whether they want birth control, Kennedy said.

Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California, also a Roman Catholic and a Democrat, said "I certainly don't believe this country has the right to impose upon any other country any particular ideas it may have, nor interfere with the religious practices of other countries."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn), a member of the Congregational Church, said the issue is not one "on which our government should set policy for other nations and people. Nor should any policy be adopted to deny information and assistance if such nations determine that it is essential to their national welfare. American foreign aid should not be denied on the basis of any country's policy relating to birth control."

Adlai E. Stevenson, a Unitarian, said "the United States should not impose birth control programs on foreign countries. But the United States should not hesitate to consider requests for aid to birth control programs in foreign countries where population growth is inimical to economic well-being."

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, a Democrat, said he agreed with Kennedy that any use of federal funds to support birth control measures abroad would be objectionable. Williams, an Episcopalian, said the problem is a matter of self-determination in each country.

APPROVES

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), an Episcopalian, said "I approve the government's furnishing of planned parenthood information abroad where it believes the action is to the interest of our country."

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) declined comment.

Rockefeller, a Baptist, told newsmen Sunday night in New York that any program such as one relating to birth control would not be undertaken if it was offensive to the people of the country involved.

In Memoriam 2

IN MEMORY OF OUR LOVING son Gary L. Wiles who passed away Nov. 30, 1958.
He is gone but not forgotten,
Never will his memory fade;
Loving thoughts will ever linger
To the spot where he is laid.
They say time heals all sorrow,
And helps us to forget,
But time has only proven,
God gave us strength to face it;
But what it meant to lose him,
No one will ever know

Bobby Darin Takes Two Top Grammies

In a nationally televised program Sunday night, the young singer was named best new artist of the year. His version of "Mack the Knife" was selected as the best record of 1959.

Multiple awards were voted also for Frank Sinatra, Ella Fitzgerald, Duke Ellington and Artur Rubinstein.

★ ★ ★

Miss Fitzgerald paced all female recording artists. Her single record of "But Not For Me" was selected as the best vocal performance by a woman. Her album, "Ella Swings Lightly," was named best solo jazz work of the year.

★ ★ ★

Honors for song of the year went to Jimmy Driftwood, composer of "Battle of New Orleans."

Ellington's album, "Anatomy of a Murder," took triple honors — best performance by a dance band; best composition longer than five minutes; best background score from a movie or TV.

★ ★ ★

"The Battle Hymn of the Republic" as performed by the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, was voted the best work by a choral group.

Among classical artists, Rubinstein took two Grammies for his piano rendition of Beethoven sonatas and Van Cliburn was cited for his recording of Rachmaninoff's piano Concerto No. 3.

Justice Black Still Debates Quitting Court

LANSING (UPI) — Speculation that a second Michigan Supreme Court justice might resign was fanned today when Justice Eugene F. Black said he was "reappraising" his position on the court.

★ ★ ★

Black, contacted at his Port Huron office, indicated there was justification for speculation that Justice John D. Voelker's resignation might be followed by his own.

"When a fellow with whom you can work in perfect harmony leaves, naturally it causes you to reappraise your situation," Black said.

★ ★ ★

Voelker, author of the best-selling "Anatomy of a Murder," said he would quit to devote more time to writing.

Defends Self in Vain

NEW YORK (AP) — A bandit entered Victor Comacho's grocery store Sunday night and drew a gun. Comacho whipped out his own gun, fired, and the bandit fell. Police identified the dead bandit as Raymond Brugueras, 28, who has been arrested before on narcotics charges. Comacho was charged with homicide and violation of the weapons law. Police said he did not have a permit for his weapon.

Helicopter Rescues Man in Icy River 3 Hours

Crutchley was rescued Sunday morning by a U. S. Navy helicopter some nine hours after he was plunged into the icy waters of the Detroit River by a collision between his 40-foot boat and a barge owned by Wikstrom Construction Co.

The veteran of 14 years in the Royal Navy, who spent part of the time as a diver in the Middle East and the Pacific, set out Saturday midnight for Fighting Island, a marshy islet in the river near LaSalle, where Wikstrom is building a water pipeline to Detroit.

The collision occurred as he approached the uninhabited island. From his bed in Windsor's Grace Hospital last night he gave reporters the following account of his experience:

★ ★ ★

"I managed to hang onto the side of the boat, but my legs immediately became numb. (The temperature at the water's surface was 25 degrees). My clothes were water-logged and I couldn't pull myself up.

HAD NO STRENGTH

"I struggled nearly three hours . . . just then the boat floated to the island and I was able to drag myself ashore. I knew there was a shed on the island and I tried to get to it. I didn't have strength.

"Every time I stood up I fell flat on my face. I kept moving to keep my circulation going and stay awake. I kept thinking if I fell asleep I could never wake up. A couple of times I thought I would give it up, but I hung on.

"After daybreak I saw a boat and moved to attract attention. I couldn't stand up but it seemed they saw me."

The boat was a Wayne County Roads Commission craft. Occupants saw Crutchley, but were unable to reach him because of the shallow water in the area. However, they radioed the U.S. Naval Air Station at Grosse Ile and a helicopter was on the scene within 30 minutes.

"I saw the 'copter," Crutchley continued, "and again I moved to let them know I was alive. After that I must have passed out. The next thing a remember was the pilot leaning over me.

"They told me later they had to chop ice off my face. They were all just wonderful to me when I came to at the Grosse Ile Dispensary."

School Principals in Detroit Dec. 2-3

Pontiac will send seven delegates to the annual meeting of the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals.

They will be among 600 educators to gather for the Dec. 2-3 session in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Secondary school principals in Pontiac are Francis W. Staley, Central; Philip J. Wargelin, Northern; George Yansen, Madison; William J. Lacy, Washington; Theodore E. Wiersema, Eastern; Conklin B. Bray, Jefferson; and Norman H. Kuijala of Lincoln.

Freed Gives His Story About Network Firing

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Fired Alan Freed airily asked this columnist, "Got a job for me"—and then told his own story of the payola probe that has left rock 'n' roll . . . and him . . . all shook up.

★ ★ ★

WILSON

FREED: Got a job for me, or something? If you need a good copy boy, I'm available.

E.W.: Now that ABC radio has fired you without giving a reason, don't you think the public will conclude that you did receive payola gifts?

FREED: I am no better or worse than any of my fellow disc jockeys. I've never taken a bribe. I would throw anybody down the steps who suggested it. Somebody said to me once, 'If somebody sent you a Cadillac, would you send it back?' I said, 'It depends on the color.'

FREED: I mean I wouldn't take it for playing a record, but if I did somebody a hell of a turn inadvertently, helping a company by playing a record for it, wouldn't I look like an idiot rejecting it? There is no law against this. What they call payola in the disc jockey business, they call lobbying in Washington.

★ ★ ★

FREED: I would say I do not deny following the common practice of not sending back gifts. But I do most vigorously deny ever soliciting or accepting a cash bribe.

FREED: A bribe is when somebody says, 'Here is a $100 bill. Lay on our record.' But if I by myself, based on my 19 years of experience, decide a record should be a hit, and if I help it, am I going to turn down a gift of a bottle of whisky or something?

E.W.: You have, of course, heard the vague references to your house in Stamford, Conn.?

FREED: (angrily): Yeah! Like somebody gave it to me! Nineteen years of sweat, that's what gave it to me! And a few mortgages. And a government lien, by the way, for back taxes.

E.W.: Exactly how did ABC radio fire you?

FREED: They gave me till 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon to sign that paper which I thought was an insult to my integrity. I refused.

E.W.: Precisely why did you refuse?

FREED: I've never been able to accept a station manager telling me, 'You've GOT to do something.' Besides, ABC is not a Congressional committee. To feel them out, I called them back and said, 'What happens if I do sign?' They said, 'We-l-l-l, that wouldn't make any difference.' Isn't THAT something?

E.W.: What was your interpretation?

FREED: They figured out a long time ago they were going to flush me down the drain.

★ ★ ★

E.W.: What do you see as your immediate future?

FREED: Defending myself against being dismissed without justification. Some very serious implications have been made. I'll wind up on the white horse before this thing is over.

E.W.: We hear you plan to blow the whistle on a lot of network and local station practices?

FREED (laughing): Leave me some ammunition for Washington and the District Attorney, will you?

'Soviet Troops to Stay'—Kadar

Tells Hungarian Red Party Congress Mutual Withdrawal Advocated

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Janos Kadar told the opening session of his Communist party congress today that Soviet troops will remain in Hungary "as long as this is required by the international situation."

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was an interested listener. Western sources here had speculated Khrushchev might use this visit to announce withdrawal of all or part of the 50,000 to 80,000 Soviet soldiers still in Hungary. He is expected to address the congress Tuesday.

Kadar, Hungarian party chief, declared Soviet troops remain in Hungary because of the world's failure to settle international issues. He said the government advocates mutual withdrawal of foreign troops—an obvious reference to U.S. forces in Europe.

Kadar accused the United States of spending huge sums for agitation against Hungary and conducting a campaign of slander by renewing debate in the United Nations on the Hungarian issue. He also asserted the United States had drafted into the army 5,000 Hungarians who took refuge in America after Soviet tanks crushed the uprising of 1956.

★ ★ ★

Nevertheless, Hungary wishes to resume normal relations with the United States and is ready to go to any lengths in that direction, Kadar said.

Only Two Highway Deaths Reported Over Weekend

From Our News Wires

Cold weather and scattered snow apparently combined to hold Michigan's traffic death toll at two victims for the weekend, one of the lowest figures in recent months.

One drowning was also reported in the state.

The first traffic victim of the weekend was six-month-old Vickie Trapp of Jackson. She died in Mason General Hospital late Friday shortly after a car in which she was riding crashed into the rear of another auto and rolled over.

Richard Bateman, 23, of the Hastings area, was killed Saturday when his car collided with a pickup truck on a snow-slicked stretch of M37 south of Hastings. His wife, Katherine, 25, was injured.

A three-year-old Livonia boy, Lawrence St. Pierre, was found drowned in a back yard swimming pool Saturday five hours after his parents had reported him missing. Police said he apparently climbed a five-foot fence surrounding the pool, which was three blocks from his home.

Other traffic victims were: Juliane S. Smith, 22, of Okemos, killed Friday when her car and a train collided at an East Lansing railroad intersection.

Earl Tibbs, 57, of the Muskegon area, his wife, Maggil, 52, Walter A. Christiansen, 72, of Spring Lake, and James Christiansen, 49, also of Spring Lake, killed Thursday in a two-car collision at a rural Muskegon intersection.

Jeanne E. Pauschert, 22, a Michigan State University coed from Detroit, her fiancee, Michael C. Plumstead, 24, of Birmingham, and Bernard L. Graham, 58, of Webberville, were killed in a two-car, head-on collision Thursday in Livingston County.

Joseph Magdowski, 52, of Detroit, was struck and killed by a car while walking in Detroit Wednesday night.

WARSAW, Ind. (AP)—A Michigan brother and sister were killed and their parents seriously injured yesterday when their car clipped another and smashed into a tree on Ind. 15, about 10 miles north of Warsaw.

Even Tape Can't Overcome Classic Grammy Boo-Boo

BY FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—Remember Alan Handley?

He's the fellow who ran the Academy Awards fiasco last spring. Well, he tried to make up for it as producer-director of another awards show last night on NBC-TV's Sunday Showcase.

★ ★ ★

While Handley's one-hour color-cast ended on schedule—I suspect the use of tape helped—it still couldn't avoid a major boo-boo. This came when Van Cliburn made a shambles of the classical music awards by reading from the wrong cards.

Most of the numbers were below the production and excitement levels of Dick Clark's Saturday night rock-n-roll salvo on ABC-TV, although three of the 10 numbers were staged with unusual imagination.

DIALING AND FILING:

CBS-TV's filmed Small World show has the happy habit of leaving in remarks that poke fun at its format. Confronted by a middle commercial, Field Marshal Montgomery protested with: "We don't want any commercial stuff in this. I think it's much too good."

As Ed Murrow laughed, Monty added, "I think it's the cat's whiskers." But even Monty and his fellow soldiers — Generals Mark Clark and Fridolin von Sneger—couldn't halt that commercial blitz.

The rest of the show was mostly sterile and trite . . . poor Army. First came Saturday's 43-12 loss to Navy on NBC-TV and on Sunday, four West Pointers lost to four Annapolis men on CBS-TV's G.E. College Bowl, 270-65.

Of the two setbacks, I'll bet the quiz show trouncing was the more humiliating . . . NBC-TV's syrupy, stodgy Friday night special, "The Miracle on 34th Street" was filled with yuletide good will to all but psychologists.

★ ★ ★

Ed Wynn's portrayal of Santa Claus contained too much Ed Wynn . . . Jack Benny and his guest, Jack Paar, missed a fine opportunity for high comedy last night on the CBS-TV half-hour. Routine stuff.

FCC Warning All TV Stations

Says Owners Knowing of Payola Are in Danger of Losing Licenses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Federal Communications commissioner says radio and TV station owners who have condoned payola payments to disc jockeys are in "serious jeopardy" of losing their licenses.

★ ★ ★

Robert E. Lee said yesterday that under-the-table payments to disc jockeys for playing certain records or giving "sneak" commercials are in direct violation of FCC regulations.

Ignorance of these rules, he said, would not be accepted as an excuse from station owners in efforts to save their licenses.

In discussing payola, Lee said: "I consider this a direct violation of the communications act . . . which requires that sponsorship be announced and this would put the stations involved in serious jeopardy."

The commissioner said however, that various factors will be considered by the FCC in imposing penalties, including "the reasonableness of management in trying to avoid these abuses."

Lee noted the FCC has jurisdiction only over the station owner, but added: "We do, however, require that he know what's going on."

Probe Family Deaths by Shotgun Blasts

MENOMONIE, Wis. (UUPI) — An inquest was scheduled today into the shotgun deaths of a family of four, called a triple murder and suicide.

Police Chief Roy Schultz said it appeared the deaths of Mrs. Frank and the children were murder and the fourth a suicide.

Two Rise 81,000 Feet in Balloon for Photos

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — "Anyone could do it," say aerialists Malcolm Ross and Charles B. Moore of their 15-mile weekend jaunt into the stratosphere.

Ross, a commander in the Navy and Dr. Moore, a scientist, rode in an instrument-filled gondola under a huge plastic balloon to 81,000 feet where they took photographs of the planet Venus through a 16-inch telescope.

'WONDERFULLY PLEASANT'

It is "wonderfully pleasant" up there, they said.

The men ascended from Rapid City, S.D., at 11:16 a. m. Saturday and landed at 3:30 p. m. Sunday in a pasture about 30 miles northeast of Manhattan.

Ross, who had made six previous trips into the stratosphere—once to 86,000 feet—said the landing was ideal until surface wind filled their emergency parachute.

They jettisoned the balloon as the gondola touched ground, but the parachute dragged their seven foot aluminum sphere a quarter-mile across a rough pasture.

ROSS SHAKEN UP

Moore wasn't hurt but Ross was shaken up. Helicopters whisked them about 80 miles to the Schilling Air Force Base hospital at Salina, Kan., for an overnight rest.

They went up to 81,000 feet to photograph Venus because at that altitude the atmosphere is free of dust particles that cause the stars to twinkle.

"It was the most exciting view of the stars I ever had," Moore said.

"The outstanding sight of all was at sunset Saturday," Ross said. "We could see it getting dark on earth and all the lights were coming on in the little towns and it was still daylight where we were.

Works Long Hours, Pushes Aides

Rothman Tough in Labor Cases

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Stuart Rothman, enforcement chief of the nation's newly stiffened labor-management relations laws, figures he's not doing his job unless he puts in a 12-hour day.

A somewhat shy and deceptively quiet "lawyer's lawyer," Rothman at 45 actually is a bundle of energy driving himself and a large staff to beat back the flood of labor dispute cases deluging Washington.

His typical day is 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. but his arrival at the office sometimes tops off a couple of miles walk to work, and his nightly departure just as well could be midnight. Saturdays, even Sundays, are often workdays.

This Spartan regime, enforced on occasionally unwilling coworkers, caused a bit of eyebrow lifting around the capital a few years ago. Rothman then was in charge of policing the overtime penalty provisions of the wage-hour act.

But Stu, as he is known to friends, is a man in a hurry without, apparently, any time to waste.

STUART ROTHMAN

As general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, Rothman is a virtual czar in administering the federal labor-management relations laws. Few government officials have such absolute power.

★ ★ ★

Rothman was appointed to the key NLRB post only a few months ago by President Eisenhower over some stiff employer objections. He has complete say-so on prosecuting unfair labor practice complaints brought by either employers or labor unions.

Neither the NLRB itself nor the courts can overrule Rothman's decisions on going ahead or dropping such complaints. It's a power often questioned but one Rothman says he has assumed humbly. He says:

He has issued instructions that each case shall be investigated thoroughly and "each determination and disposition shall be based upon merit, uninfluenced by outside pressures and extraneous factors."

Rothman is administering not only the Taft-Hartley Law provisions but the labor-management revisions contained in the new labor law just passed by Congress. These include tougher anti picketing and boycott bans.

Born April 14, 1914 in St. Paul, Minn., Rothman was graduated at the head of his law class at the University of Minnesota. He later received his master's degree in law at Harvard and studied public administration. He was Minnesota's housing director and then served nearly a decade in various federal housing agencies.

He became solicitor, or chief attorney, in the labor department early in Eisenhower's administration, and headed the wage-hour administration simultaneously for a short period.

It was in his labor department jobs that Rothman irked some management representatives. He began enforcing various federal labor laws like they'd never been enforced before.

"Too much inertia around here," Rothman said, and since then he has got his 1,242-man staff jumping. It used to take 120 days to process an unfair labor practice complaint. Rothman's rule is 45 days — or less.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A record of 44,370,000 Americans were enrolled in schools and colleges in October, the Census Bureau said yesterday. This year's enrollment compared with one of 42,900,000 last year and showed increases in all grades from kindergarten through college.

Williams Raps National GOP

Says Republicans Fail in Lack of Direction and Publicizing America

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams said Sunday the Republican administration "has given neither the world nor the American people a clear image of America, its great goals and purposes."

"The national administration does us a great disservice by not articulating the aspirations of our democracy," the Democratic chief executive said in remarks at the Citizenships Awards dinner.

Never before, Williams said, "could lack of direction prove so disastrous as today" when the big powers move toward a summit conference.

"The noise of Khrushchev's challenge has been heard around the world," he added. "We can't afford to answer that challenge with a shattering silence — also heard around the world."

Williams said it was imperative to proceed with a sense of purpose and a national direction without which "we are out of step with our own heritage and out of step with today's world."

He called on summit conferees to negotiate for conditions which promote the probability that each nation will choose the system under which it wants to live.

Williams added:

"I am willing to live with Khrushchev—but not on his terms. Nor do I demand that he live on my terms."
