U.S. to Seek U.N. Support in Dues Row

Stevenson to Explain
Stand on Curtailment of Voting Rights

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States goes before the General Assembly today seeking support for its demand that voting rights be denied the Soviet Union and other U.N. members two years behind in their financial payments.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson was not expected to launch a major attack against the Soviet Union in his long-delayed policy statement.

Despite the U.S.-Soviet deadlock over dues, the United States insists it is fundamentally an issue between the United Nations and debtor nations and not a big power dispute.

Informed sources said Stevenson would devote most of his speech to spelling out why the United States believes Article 19 — the vote penalty clause in the U.N. Charter — should be applied against members 24 months in arrears because of their refusal to pay their share of the costs of U.N. peace-keeping operations.

The United States has informed other U.N. members that if the assembly lets the Soviets and other delinquents keep their assembly vote, Washington will review its own policy of pouring large sums into U.N. projects.

FACE-SAVING DEVICE

The United States has agreed to allow a face-saving device whereby the debtors could satisfy Article 19 by making voluntary contributions.

The Soviets have announced that they are willing to make a substantial contribution. They insist, however, that the assembly first set aside Article 19 for the current session. The United States has rejected this.

Secretary General U Thant, who has been trying to head off a showdown, appeared to have won a little more time for negotiations.

Assembly President Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana said he does not expect to call until next Monday for election of committee chairmen and assembly vice presidents. The election could bring the showdown.

Major Security Is Readied for Sir Winston's Funeral

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard launched a major security operation today along the route of Sir Winston Churchill's funeral procession to protect the scores of foreign statesmen paying homage to Britain's great wartime leader.

The Yard's Special Branch began a check on all buildings overlooking the route. Others will be assigned to protect visiting leaders around the clock.

Churchill's body will be taken tonight from his family home south of Hyde Park, where he died Sunday at the age of 90.

At Lady Churchill's request, the Archbishop of Canterbury will conduct the coffin to a catafalque in Westminster Hall, where the body will lie in state for three days.

The roll of muffled drums sounded through London streets before dawn in a somber rehearsal for Sir Winston Churchill's last journey.

A somber rehearsal today of the funeral march for Churchill's last journey created one of London's worst traffic jams in years.

The procession marched from Westminster Hall to St. Paul's. Women office cleaners and other early workers were the only spectators.

A Royal Air Force escort led the way. A naval officer, naked sword reversed, followed in the funeral march.

TO OPEN WESTMINSTER

At 11 a.m. tomorrow Westminster Hall will open to the public. It will close only for members of the Churchill family and official guests to pay private homage.

President Charles de Gaulle's office announced today that he would attend the funeral. President Johnson's doctors were trying to build up his strength after a cold so he could go to London. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will also attend the funeral, a spokesman for the general says.

Teen Drowns
in Bloomfield
Twp. Pond

A 15-year-old youth practicing hockey by himself was drowned yesterday in a small man-made lake near his Bloomfield Township home.

The body of Mark R. Cannefax was pulled from Jonathan Lake through a hole in a section of thin ice. Next to it were his hockey stick, puck and gloves.

Recovered by Bloomfield Township firemen Dan Miller and Robert Clement about 9:30 p.m., the body was in six to eight feet of water, about 20 feet from shore.

Mark, an only child, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cannefax, 3739 Quarton. He was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Jonathan Lake, on the west side of Lahser north of Quarton, is relatively isolated.

Mark last had been seen about 3:30 p.m. on his way toward the lake. He was reported missing by his father at 9:11 p.m.

Tired of the Rain?
Try Snow Awhile

Nature was in a disagreeable mood this morning, sending light rain to cover already slippery ice and snow.

Later today, she'll send temperatures tumbling and change the rain to snow. Two to 4 inches of new snow is expected.

The area will get a low of 12 to 18 tonight and a high tomorrow of 25 to 33.

Partly cloudy skies are expected tomorrow and Thursday.

LOW READING

The low mercury reading preceding 8 a.m. was 32. At 2 p.m. it stood at 44 in downtown Pontiac.

Flaming Death Occurs During Rally of 4,000

First Such Suicide
Since '63; Grenades
Blast U.S. Building

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Vietnamese schoolgirl committed suicide by fire at Nha Trang today in what was announced as a political protest against Premier Tran Van Huong's government.

Hoang Thi Yen Phu, 17, drenched herself with gasoline during an antigovernment demonstration by about 4,000 persons in that coastal city 200 miles northeast of Saigon, and burned to death.

Suicide, often by spectacular methods, has become frequent among Vietnamese Buddhists, whether in political protest or for personal reasons.

But the girl's was the first considered aimed at a Saigon administration since six monks and a nun immolated themselves by fire in 1963 in the Buddhist campaign that helped destroy the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem, a Roman Catholic.

In Saigon, two terrorist grenades were aimed at the American presence in South Viet Nam.

CEILING BLAST

They exploded from the ceiling of the headquarters of Maj. Gen. Frank A. Osmanski, chief of American logistics in this Communist-menaced nation. Osmanski escaped injury, but several persons working in the reception room suffered minor cuts.

The general ordered the compound evacuated for an inspection of the entire installation by bomb squad experts.

A crew of Vietnamese electricians had been running wires through the ceiling. Two of them were arrested immediately on suspicion that they might have planted the grenades for the Viet Cong.

Advices from Nha Trang said Hoang's fire suicide was almost duplicated by another schoolgirl.

The second girl also doused

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who has led the civil rights movement, left Selma this morning to return to Atlanta, Ga., but his followers showed no lessening of their campaign.

2nd Storm Rips North Illinois

Snow Clogs Chicago, Closes Three Airports

CHICAGO (AP) — Northern Illinois, still hacking its way out of a vicious weekend ice storm coating, was hammered by a snowstorm that swept across the Midwest today.

The new storm had stirred up blizzard conditions and blowing dust earlier in the southern plains.

The sudden snowstorm closed Chicago's O'Hare, Midway and Meigs airports temporarily as 6 inches of the white cover reduced visibility to zero to a quarter of a mile. Driving conditions in the area were extremely hazardous.

The snowfall ranged from northern Arkansas to Wisconsin.

Arlington Heights, northwest of Chicago, got 6 inches in a short time and Dubuque, Iowa, picked up 5 inches in six hours. Madison, Wis., reported 4 inches, with a total of 9 inches on the ground.

Conditions improved today in the southern plains, but the dust stirred up by yesterday's violent winds was carried east as far as Alabama and Indiana.

Overnight minimums ranged from 20 below zero in Glasgow, Mont., to 70 degrees above in Miami and Key West, Fla. Winston, N.D., got down to 17 below.

Killing Suspect
Is Bound Over

Foster Case Involves Recent Court Ruling

One of the state's first criminal cases to be significantly affected by a recent U. S. Supreme Court ruling concerning the use of a confession as evidence will be tried in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Carl Foster, 28, of 286 E. South Blvd. was today bound over to Circuit Court for arraignment Feb. 5 before Judge William J. Beer.

Foster has been accused of slaying 20-year-old Mrs. Maurice Creek, of 2401 S. Telegraph on Dec. 12. The dead woman's body was found the following day in a field on the east side of Pontiac.

The major point of contention in the Municipal Court examination which concluded today was whether Foster's alleged oral admission of the crime to police officers and an assistant prosecutor could be used as evidence.

Judge Cecil McCallum accepted the admission as evidence in the examination.

NOT VALID

Defense counsel J. Robert Sterling contended that the admission was not valid because he had been stopped from seeing his client, Foster, for nearly five hours.

During that period of time, the defendant allegedly admitted the slaying, according to police.

Sterling said that since the admission was made after he arrived on the scene, it should be considered invalid.

Assistant Prosecutor Walter D. Schmier told the court that Foster had been asked several times if he wanted an attorney and refused counsel.

PERMITS ADMISSION

Judge McCallum said it was Exile Leader Fidel Prisoner?

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Anti-Castro guerrilla leader Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo, who vanished from the Cuban exile colony here last spring followed by some of his fighters, is reported a prisoner of Fidel Castro in Cuba.

MENYO

The report of Menoyo's capture, given over Havana radio Monday night in excited tones, stunned anti-Castroites here. Many had pinned hopes on him to turn the tide against the Cuban dictator.

Before slipping out of Miami, Menoyo had said he planned to put into operation in Cuba a mysterious "Plan Omega" that he called "militarily impossible to defeat."

The Revolutionary Alliance, which Menoyo heads as military commander, said his capture, if true, is a setback but "the fight will go on."

A Cuban Armed Forces Ministry communique, read on a radio broadcast monitored in Miami, said Menoyo and three other "armed enemy agents" were captured by mountain militia-men and army troops.

It said the men had infiltrated the region of Baracoa in easternmost Oriente Province.

The communique said the captives were being interrogated to ascertain their point of departure and base of operation and "what governments might be implicated in these activities."

Meek-appearing, Menoyo, 30, has been a revolutionary since he was 17. His two brothers were killed in revolutions. His father fought against Francisco Franco in Spain.

Menoyo helped Castro oust dictator President Fulgencio Batista in 1959, then fled into exile in 1961.

Quiet to the point of shyness, soft-spoken and toothpick slender, Menoyo usually hides his brown eyes behind dark glasses. He is 5-foot-9 inches tall and weighs 125 — "no surplus to weigh down a boat."

When not plotting against Castro, Menoyo spent evenings at his Miami exile home with his petite wife, Tania, and their blonde, exile-born daughter Patricia, 2.

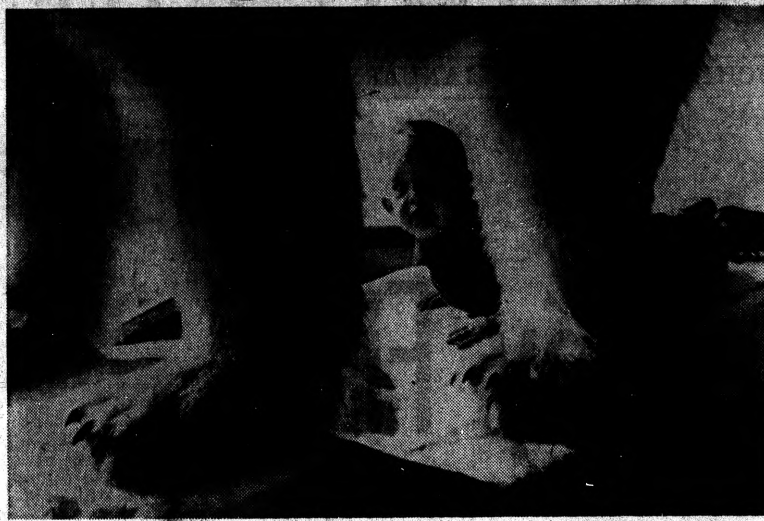

As commander of the "Second Front of Escambray" he held the vital Escambray Mountain area of central Cuba for Castro, who fought in the Sierra Maestra in the east.

Menoyo made headlines in 1962 and 1963 by leading daring hit-and-run raids against Cuba.

Plan Omega, he said, is called that since it signals Castro's end.

"They may kill me or other men in the operation but no one can extinguish the flames that will spread through the island," he declared.

Probe Continues

6 More Quit in AF Cheating Scandal

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — The superintendent of the U. S. Air Force Academy announced today that six additional cadets have resigned, bringing the total to 35 since the cheating scandal broke last week.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren issued a brief statement softening unconfirmed reports that there had been 40 additional withdrawals to keep from facing court martial.

However, the general said, not in his statement, that resignations of cadets were a slow, painstaking process. "The cadets must go through the hospital and complete many forms before his papers are brought to me," Warren said. "I make the final decision."

Sources in the information office, which declined to be identified, insisted that there had been mass resignations and that the academy was deciding to announce them piecemeal.

Warren said the investigation may not be completed before Feb. 10.

"The investigation is being conducted in a painstaking manner, appraising the cadets who are involved of their individual rights and offering them legal counsel during the investigation," the superintendent said.

The secretary of air, Eugene M. Zuckert, announced Saturday more than 100 cadets, including 30 football players, were involved in the scandal triggered by a third-year cadet who stole a key to a locker, took examination papers and attempted to sell them to fellow cadets.

Sources at the academy said resignations were continuing although announcements were being delayed.

Gen. Warren said the results of the investigation will be forwarded to Zuckert for his review and such further action as the secretary believes warranted.

The probe is being conducted in cloak and dagger secrecy at a hideout location of which even information officers say they do not know.

It is reported that more than 700 of the 2,567-member cadet wing will be interviewed before the investigation is completed. Not all of these are necessarily involved.

The investigative panel is said to be made up of eight men from outside bases. Their identities also have been withheld by the academy.

Details of how the plan started and operated leaked from other sources. Academy administrators remained silent.

Soviets Deny Ban Violation

Reply to U. S. Cites 'Radioactive Leak'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union says it did not violate the limited nuclear test-ban treaty earlier this month when an underground Soviet explosion blew some radioactive material into the atmosphere.

At the time of the Jan. 15 blast, the United States detected earth shock and later radioactive materials beyond the Soviet boundary over the Sea of Japan.

A week ago Secretary of State Dean Rusk asked Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin for an explanation. He got the reply from Dobrynin in a brief meeting at the State Department Monday.

The State Department said Monday night the Soviet government had reported that the nuclear explosion was carried out "deep underground on Jan. 15 and that some radioactive debris leaked into the atmosphere."

INSIGNIFICANT AMOUNT — However, the oral reply states that the amount is so insignificant that the Soviet government excludes the possibility of a violation of the limited test-ban treaty.

The Soviet report that the material "leaked" into the air was taken by officials here as confirmation of their estimate a week ago that the presence of radioactive debris in the air was a result of an accident. In other words, they did not think that Soviets had intended such a result.

The State Department declined to make any comment on the message from Moscow or say whether it was satisfactory so far as the issue of the treaty violation is concerned. Pending receipt of the reply, the United States had not formally charged a violation. But officials here had taken the position that any underground blast by any country which caused radioactive debris beyond its boundaries was in fact technical violation of the treaty.

The treaty prohibits any nuclear explosion on the part of a member country in the air, in outer space or under water. It also bans underground explosions if they cause "radioactive debris to be present outside the territorial limits of the state."

Birmingham Area News

City to Advertise Sale of Troy Water Source

BIRMINGHAM — The City of Birmingham this week will inform Troy that it intends to sell a well site now providing water to the neighboring community and wants to terminate the water agreement.

The property, while owned by Birmingham, is located in Troy on the north side of 15 Mile between Coolidge and Crooks.

Last night, Birmingham city commissioners directed John F. Saefke, administrative aide, to advertise the sale of the 70-acre parcel, but at the same time cooperate with Troy so that it suffers no hardship.

Under the agreement, either Birmingham or Troy can end the water contract as long as six months' notice is given.

The five-year agreement normally would not expire until Feb. 20, 1967 but the six-month notice would allow the property to be used for other purposes by July 31, of this year.

WAS INFORMED

Troy City Manager Paul York today said that he was informed that Birmingham was considering selling the property several months ago.

Since then, he said, the Troy Engineering Department has been studying the matter of how long it will need the water which serves only a small portion of the city.

"I really see no difficulty," said York. "I think Troy and Birmingham can work out some arrangement. Perhaps Birmingham can include a provision in the sale that the property cannot be used until Troy has another source of supply."

Saefke noted that the property could be sold immediately if the bids were accepted but the buyer would have to wait until the six months passed before he could convert the parcel to his own use.

ZONED INDUSTRIAL — The property is zoned industrial and has been appraised at $375,000, according to Saefke.

Once the property was sold, Troy would benefit from the taxes. Currently it derives no revenue from the land.

Birmingham purchased the site, known as the Walker Well in 1940. Last April city voters gave the city permission to sell it.

Birmingham does not use the well for any of its water supply and in the last several years has only used the site to burn tree trimmings.

Charles E. Lundy of 185 Wadsworth, Bloomfield Township, principal of Wylie E. Groves High School, has been installed as 1965 president of the Birmingham Kiwanis Club.

Other new officers are Joseph F. Ludack Jr., first vice president; J. Hector Nimme, second vice president; Thomas J. Everett, treasurer; and Robert W. Montgomery, secretary.

Injured Teen-Agers Said Improving

Two teen-agers, injured critically in a three-car collision Jan. 16 in Birmingham, both have shown improvement, a Beaumont Hospital spokesman said today.

Robin M. Adair, 16, of 1026 Puritan, Birmingham, who suffered a skull fracture, facial cuts and internal injuries in the crash which killed four persons, is reported in satisfactory condition.

Reported somewhat improved and off the critical list is Bruce Berridge, 17, of 577 Westwood, Birmingham. He suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries also as well as a broken leg.

herself with gasoline, but was seized and prevented from striking a match.

Witnesses reported from Nha Trang that about 4,000 persons had assembled before the waterfront home of the local provincial chief.

The girl, a student named Hoang Thi Yen Phu, moved apart from the crowd and, unnoticed by the other demonstrators, poured gasoline over herself.

Then she set herself afire and was dead before anyone could extinguish the flames.

Buddhist monks reportedly picked up the body and carried it at the head of a huge procession to the local Buddhist pagoda.

is the $240,000 needed to cover costs of salary adjustments for city employees under a new pay plan.

Increased contributions by the city to the police and fire pension funds will run an added $115,000 this year, while the hiring of the seven new firemen will cost $51,000 during 1965.

Other items that make up the $887,095 increase are:

- General employee pensions, up $18,000;
- Bus system rental, up $18,000;
- Street lighting, up $15,000;
- Operation of Hayes Jones Community Center, up $24,000;
- Job classification study, $5,100;
- Holiday pay — fire department, up $12,000;
- Holiday pay — police department, up $5,000;
- And major street projects (financed by gas and weight taxes), $348,000.

According to the city manager, this is where the increased revenue will be spent.

Where will the money come from?

Warren has a 14-point list. He estimates the city will net $72,000 more in sales tax revenue, $286,000 through gas and weight taxes for major streets and $80,000 return for local streets.

TAX BASE

Also, the expected increase in the tax base will give $10,000, while levying in excess of the tax roll (a process where figures can be rounded off to eliminate fractions) will bring in $103,000, according to Warren.

Other sources of added revenue include:

- Licenses and permits, up $6,000;
- Fines and penalties, up $11,000;
- Hanger rental at the airport, up $21,000;
- Equipment rental, $180,000;
- Library aid, up $12,000;
- Urban renewal payment for administrative services, $17,000;
- And parking, water and sewage utilities paying for general fund services, $89,000.

The latter two items adhere to Warren's policy that self-supporting departments and utilities should pay a portion of the cost of administrative overhead.

In the case of the parking fund, it is being charged for maintenance and collection services paid for by the general fund.

NOT FULLY BUDGETED

Some of the items that Warren lists in accounting for the $887,095 in "increased" revenue are not really increases over 1964, but under previous administrations were items not fully budgeted.

The monies still came in and were expended for the various services, but were not included in "estimated revenues."

The total budget for sanitation and waste collection, financed through a separate millage, runs $434,456 in 1965, up $11,933 over last year.

The reason? Increased cost of employe fringe benefits and the purchase of some equipment account for the hike, say city officials.

PROPERTY TAXES

The general fund, sanitation and waste collection, capital improvement fund and debt service are financed by property taxes.

Meantime, three other funds — parking, water and sewage utilities — are self-supporting through fees and charges made for their services.

Debt service payments in 1965 are projected at the same level as 1964. Annual bond requirements for the sewage treatment plant are listed at $240,000.

Pontiac General Hospital bonds will cost $168,000 in 1965, the same as in 1964.

COMPARABLE

The levy for capital improvements is comparable to that of 1964.

The earmarked funds ($551,300) from the 1.5-mill tax will go for projects already planned, said Warren.

Object to Rules on Assessing

Waterford Township Board members last night unanimously concurred with recent action by the Oakland County Township Supervisors Association opposing new requirements for assessing real property.

Object of the opposition are the new assessing schedules issued by the Michigan State Tax Commission.

These requirements make necessary to include in assessments built-in appliances such as refrigerators, ovens, ranges, dishwashers, disposals, rotisseries, hooded fans and incinerators.

The Township Supervisors Association went on record as being "bitterly opposed" to the new assessment requirements earlier this month.

Includes Beetlelike Satellites

Variety of Space Ventures on Horizon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two beetlelike satellites, a string of eight communications satellites, and a reactor-in-the-sky will be rocketed aloft by U.S. space scientists.

Plans for the projects were revealed in three separate announcements late Monday, indicating the variety of space ventures on the horizon.

The space beetles — with antennae extending almost a third of a mile — are designed to seek the source of mysterious celestial radio signals from our Milky Way galaxy, its planets and the stars.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says the first of the 280-pound spacecraft are to go into orbit some 3,700 miles above the earth sometime in 1967, at the earliest.

MEASURE SIGNALS

The two satellites will measure the intensity and frequency of the signals, the time of emission and, within limits, will seek to pinpoint the regions of space from which they stem.

The eight communications satellites will be launched simultaneously for use by the Defense Department.

They will be sent skyward in 1966 by the privately owned, government-regulated Communications Satellite Corp. — Comsat — using a launch vehicle provided by the Pentagon.

If the launch is successful, the Defense Department would pay only for communications services. If the launch fails, Comsat would be responsible.

INTENT TO PURCHASE

Three such launchings are planned, Comsat revealed as it filed with the Federal Communications Commission a notice of intent to purchase 24 of the satellites from the Hughes Aircraft Co. Aerospace Group, Culver City, Calif.

The project is separate from Comsat's efforts to develop an international commercial communications system.

The reactor, a small chain-reacting nuclear device fueled by Uranium 235, is scheduled for a spring launch, according to the Atomic Energy Commission. It reported that a land-based version of the reactor had begun to produce electricity last Friday in tests by Atomics International, Canoga Park, Calif.

Called the SNAP 10A reactor, it will be fired aloft by an Atlas-Agena rocket and is designed to furnish auxiliary power for a satellite, including power for radio transmissions.

If the launch is successful, it would be the first known nuclear reactor of any kind carried aboard an earth satellite.

Preparations Begun on 1971 Trip to Mars

HOUSTON (UPI) — The ticket is expensive — $1.25 billion — and it's a one-way affair.

The trip will be to the planet Mars, and although it will not come before 1971, scientists are already working on its initial stages.

The flight to Mars, dubbed Operation Voyager, was officially launched yesterday when President Johnson in-funds for the project in his new budget. It is the only new major space program to be started in the next fiscal year.

The U.S. space agency is already lining up the nation's industrial talent to prepare for the trip.

In exchange for the heavy price tag, scientists will get a look at whatever life might exist amid the mysterious "canals" and polar caps of the Red Planet.

FIRST STEP

It also may become the first step in a superproject that will someday send man stepping gingerly on to earth's galactic neighbor.

Joining in the project are the Office of Space Science and Applications and the Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) of Pasadena, Calif.

These two agencies teamed last year on the Ranger-7 rocket that flashed 4,316 close-up pictures of the moon back to earth. They also launched the Mariner-4 Mars probe that is expected to fly by within 5,400 miles of the Red Planet next July 14.

First plans for the unmanned Voyager mission will be turned over to the space agency by Feb. 23. The probe could weigh as much as 10 times more than the package now traveling toward Mars.

Mars next comes within favorable firing range in 1966, but that is too early for scientists. They hope to have an early model of the Voyager ready for a 1969 shot at Mars. That effort would be a fly-by mission like Mariner-4 and would send pictures back to earth.

For the 1969 flight, an Atlas rocket might be used with a high-energy Centaur second stage. But the much more powerful Saturn-1B with a Centaur upper stage would probably be called on for the 1971 effort in which scientists hope to land the Voyager package on the planet.

The project shapes up as a monumental one. Scientists envision Voyager as a "bus" weighing 1,500-2,000 pounds, a reverse propulsion system of 2,000-3,000 pounds and a landing capsule of up to 6,000 pounds.

Other experts have suggested that, by that time, such exotic items as laser beams for communication and electric propulsion for guidance and navigation may be ready for a Voyager-type mission.

But "the most exciting scientific objective of a Voyager mission," he said, "would be landing life detection experiments on the surface of Mars."

Band director is Richard Goldsworthy.

Development Barrier Is Cleared

ROCHESTER — The last obstacle to the opening of the Mill Pond area to development has apparently been surmounted.

Village Manager Richard Don last night told the council that initial approval of the New York Central Railroad (NYC) and the Public Service Commission (PSC) had been obtained for the extension of East University to Elizabeth.

The extension, which involved a grade crossing at the NYC tracks where East University now ends, would open the area to two planned projects.

The grade crossing will allow continuation of the street in a straight line, rather than a curve.

Don reported on his meeting Friday with NYC and PSC representatives in his office, at which time the proposed grade crossing was discussed.

GO-AHEAD GIVEN

Although official approval from the PSC for the grade crossing will actually take weeks to obtain, the go-ahead was given for proceeding with development.

Codevelopers Robert Smitha and Ted Obal of Avon Development Co. have an option on a 20-acre parcel in the Mill Pond area which expires Sunday.

This time factor requires fast action on the part of the village, and a special council meeting was set last night for Friday evening at 7:30 to take final action on Rochester's contract with the developers.

Among contract specifications demanded by councilmen and generally agreed to by Smitha and Obal are a performance bond and other guarantees set up to ensure continuation of the development even if the developers should elect to bow out at some point.

APARTMENT UNITS

Although final plans are not yet made, the developers plan 288 apartment units on the parcel, plus some commercial development.

Another tract of seven acres, the former Higbie Manufacturing Co. property in the southern part of the Mill Pond area, is earmarked for a new Elks Lodge Hall.

Under terms agreed to so far, the developers will put seven per cent of the estimated cost of a 48-foot roadway (the University extension) and a bridge over Paint Creek in escrow until the project commences.

There is also a possibility that the developers may pay any excess costs over the final estimates on the railroad crossing and bridge.

HIGHER COST

According to Don, the total cost of the project is now somewhat higher than was originally anticipated.

He estimated the cost of purchasing the NYC parcel for a right-of-way at $2,000-$2,500, based on a 1959 estimate.

To this he added estimates of a crossing signal, $14,800; grade crossing, $9,000; and the Paint Creek bridge, $40,000-$50,000.

This totals more than $76,000, at the highest, which would be financed through borrowing against state weights and measures tax revenues.

EXPENSIVE CROSSING

The crossing signal was one of the unexpectedly expensive items. Railroad and PSC examination of the crossing site Friday resulted in recommendations for a "cantilevered arm with flashing lights."

Village officials had had a less expensive signal in mind, according to Don.

The manager said the financing would be handled through bonding for a period ranging from a minimum of three years to a maximum of 15 years.

He recommended five years, to save interest costs that would be incurred if the bonding period were longer.

ROAD EXPENSES

The village presently receives an average of $41,000 per year in weights and measures tax revenue, and that all of it is spent on road projects, according to Don.

Councilman James McCarthy asked what bonding over a five-year period would do to the street program, and Don replied that "it would set it back definitely, by close to 30 per cent."

Village President John O'Donnell pointed out that the village can borrow a maximum of $80,000 against weights and measures revenue under State Finance Commission regulations.

The council then asked Village Attorney Arthur Cox to finish drafting the contract with the developers for study and final action at Friday's meeting.

FINAL APPROVAL

The contract will be contingent upon final approval of the grade crossing and sale of the NYC parcel by both the NYC and the PSC.

Offer New Math for Adults at Walled Lake Classes

WALLED LAKE — Do the terms "language of sets," "rational numbers" and "negative integers" leave you cold — literally without a frame of reference?

The words will be explained and the concepts behind them explored in one of two new classes offered in the Walled Lake Schools' adult education program.

New math as being taught to fourth through sixth graders in the system will be the subject of a course under Margaret Johnson, math resource instructor.

Two classes in the subject have been scheduled, meeting from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday respectively. Class size is limited, but a third one will be scheduled if demand warrants it.

The other new course for the winter term will be parent and family life, scheduled for 8 to 10 p.m. Wednesday.

GROWING CHILDREN

The sessions, led by Mr. and Mrs. Ole Sarto, will concern children's developing personalities, their feelings as they affect learning, the building of responsibility, modern thought on discipline, communication, sources of help to the parent and the roles of the family and school in sex education.

The Sartos, who have a background of youth work in church, school and community life, will draw on resource people ranging from clergymen through public health and child guidance workers to special education leaders.

The 31 winter term courses will begin the week of Feb. 8. Advance registration is required. Enrollments will be taken from 7 to 9 p.m. Feb. 2 at the high school, 2978 S. Commerce, Wolverine Lake. Classes will meet weekly — some at the senior high and others at Walled Lake and Clifford H. Smart junior high schools.

The majority of classes are self-supporting through registration fees. The three free courses are new math, parent and family life and a great books discussion group.

Industrial and commercial courses offered include welding, a refresher course in shorthand, bookkeeping, office machines and beginning typing.

Among homemaking courses scheduled are beginning, intermediate and advanced knitting; upholstery; beginning and advanced sewing; and cake decorating.

RECREATION CLASSES

Recreational courses will be beginning and advanced ballroom dancing, men's gym, women's gym and beginning bridge.

Others are oil painting, dog obedience and driver education.

Credit courses toward a high school diploma will be offered in English and math. The two classes will meet twice a week for 15 weeks.

To participate in the adult education program, persons must be 16 years of age or older and not presently enrolled in high school. Registrants for driver education must be 18 or older and not in high school.

Further information can be obtained from the program's director, Berle D. Dean, principal of Keith Elementary School.

Blaze Guts Motel Unit

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — A fire at the R and K Motel this morning was extinguished by firemen in less than 10 minutes — but not before it had gutted one of the units.

Mr. and Mrs. William Curley made their home in the unit, one of 10 in the motel at 9470 Pontiac Lake owned by Charles Korolden.

White Lake Township firemen, who noted the blaze apparently was caused by a faulty gas heater, said it was reported by Mrs. Curley at 7:20 a.m.

Damage, confined to the one cement-block unit, was estimated at $1,000 on the building and $1,500 on its contents.

Band to Hold First Meeting

County 4-H Members to Gather in Pontiac

The first meeting of the Oakland County 4-H Band will take place tomorrow, with instrumentalists from all over the county gathering to participate.

The 8 p.m. meeting will be held in the 4th floor auditorium of the Cooperative Extension Service office building at 155 N. Saginaw, Pontiac.

Wendell Honsinger, band director of Oxford High School, will direct the group.

4-H members already listed to participate, and their clubs, are:

Lynn Race, Pam Gillis and Marsha Perkins, Clarkston Wranglers; Bradley Scott and Cindy Flowers, Straw Hats; Bruce Montney, Drayton Plains 4-Hers; and Dick Theriot and Diana Krantz, Oakhill.

OTHER MEMBERS

Paul and Chris Schafer, Skill 'N Craft, Sandy Randall, Avon Stitch 'N Sew; Karen and Richard Cotter, Rip 'N Tear; Mark Maddox, David Roerink and Linda Armstrong, Galloway Lake; Allen Bess, Ortonville; and Janis McLachlan, East Orion.

Some Rochester High School band members will also participate.

Others who would like to take part can call the extension office.

As Dem Area Whip

O'Hara Retains Post

UTICA — Congressman James G. O'Hara of Utica has been reelected Democratic whip for the states of Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota in the U.S. House of Representatives.

As zone whip O'Hara is one of 18 Democrats who make up the leadership directly responsible to the speaker of the House, majority leader, and whip in the House.

This group has the job of mustering support for the legislative program of the Democratic party.

As the three-state delegation's whip, O'Hara represents 21 Democrats.

This is an increase of five over the lineup in the last Congress.

Detroit Bishop to Preside at Area Church Dedication

CLARKSTON — Most Rev. Henry E. Donnelly, auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese of Detroit, will preside at ceremonies dedicating St. Daniel's Church Saturday at 10 a.m.

Following the blessing of the building, Bishop Donnelly will offer Mass in the new church which is a mission of Our Lady of the Lakes Church, Waterford Township.

Serving as chaplains for Bishop Donnelly will be Father Frederick J. Delaney, pastor of Our Lady of the Lakes, and Father Thomas Kerwin, professor at Sacred Heart Seminary, Detroit.

Father Lawrence Kaiser, assistant pastor at Our Lady of the Lakes, will deliver the sermon.

Catholic residents as well as Clarkston area Protestant ministers are invited to the dedication.

MASS SCHEDULE

Beginning Sunday, masses will be offered at the new building each Sunday at 8:30 and 10:30 a.m.

Topic in Avondale Is 'Study Habits'

"Study Habits" will be the topic of a talk to be given at a combined meeting of the Avondale Junior High PTA and Senior High PTSA Thursday evening at the senior high school. Speaker at the 8 p.m. session will be Peter Everetts, assistant to the director of the teacher education program at Oakland University.

PTA and PTSA officials said the subject should prove interesting to students who wish to improve their study habits and helpful to parents and teachers who are guiding young people with their educations.

Plans Pancake Supper

ROCHESTER — The Methodist Men of St. Paul's Methodist Church will serve a family style pancake and sausage supper Thursday evening.

Serving time will be 5:30 to 7 p.m. at the church, 620 Romeo. Both adult and child-size portions will be available.

Library Tax at Stake in Area Vote

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — The fate of two propositions in a special election Thursday will determine whether Oxford Township's Christian Slayton Free Public Library will have tax support for the next 20 years.

A 1-mill tax is being asked to cover operation of the library and some capital improvement.

One proposition will ask that the current 15-mill tax limitation be increased by 1 mill for a 20-year period, making room for the library tax.

The other seeks approval for the tax itself to be levied. Both must pass to insure the financial backing sought by the library board.

The library now operates on money provided by the Township Board from the township's general fund.

NEW BUILDING

While a new library building is being planned with financing from other sources, passage of the two proposals would mean expansion of hours and services at the present building, at 3 Mechanic.

According to an opinion from State Elections Director George Montgomery, only qualified voters who own property in the township or their spouses, can cast ballots Thursday.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Milford Legion Post

Site of Annual Dance

MILFORD — The annual dance for former residents of the Manistique area will be held Saturday at the Milford American Legion Post Home.

Further information on the 9 p.m. event can be obtained from Frank Wilcock, 1093 W. Wattle, Troy, or Don Hughson, 5381 Heith, Independence Township.

Only One Tax Proposal to Appear on Troy Ballot

TROY — Voters here will cast ballots on just one tax proposal April 5, as a result of City Commission action last night.

After considering the possibility of putting as many as three tax proposals on the ballot, the commission has decided to simply ask for one.

It would eliminate present city charter restrictions on the amount of tax money that can be spent on either capital improvement or operation.

The charter now allows half of the total 10-mill tax levy for each category, which has created problems for a city faced with the need for more operating funds.

While using all of the 5-mill allowance for operation, Troy is not levying the maximum tax for capital improvement as yet, but cannot transfer the unused millage to operational use.

NO INCREASE

The proposal will not increase the 10-mill total, but will just give the commission the authority to determine how it spends tax revenues.

Three other proposals had been under consideration by the commission. One would have raised the over-all tax limitation and the other two would have given 1/2-mill each to the library and the parks and recreation department.

Some commissioners, aware that capital improvement needs are beginning to escalate as Troy experiences explosive growth, said they thought it wise to increase the over-all tax limit.

But others warned that putting three tax proposals on the ballot in addition to three other proposals already on could result in the defeat of all of them through adverse voter reaction.

MANAGER EXPLAINS

City Manager Paul York summed up the action taken last night by explaining that "the consensus of opinion was that we should attempt to remove this restriction in the use of the 10-mill tax before we looked for a higher total."

The other three proposals on the ballot deal with loosening restrictions on city purchases by eliminating certain steps in special cases.

Will Be Sentenced on Assault Charge

DETROIT (AP) — Raymond Wyngaard, a 27-year-old alumnus of the FBI's "10 Most Wanted" list, will be sentenced Feb. 8 on a charge of assault with intent to rob while armed.

Wyngaard pleaded guilty to the charge Monday before Recorder's Court Judge John P. Scallen.

Wyngaard escaped last July while about to be arraigned on a holdup charge. He and a companion allegedly staged a crime spree in the Detroit area. Wyngaard then fled the state. He was captured Nov. 28 in Madison, Wis.

Other charges pending against Wyngaard include another holdup and the shooting and wounding of a police officer.

Dem Wins Recount

Legislature Returning to Work

LANSING (AP) — The State Legislature returns to business today and tonight after 11 days of post-opening day recess.

The Republicans will reconvene with one less legislator than they started with.

The House recounting committee declared Democrat challenger Claude Burton of Bellevue victor in the 56th District over incumbent Carroll Newton of Charlotte. His margin was 15 votes.

One of the chief topics still pending before the House is the Daniel West probe. However, as of last night, it was not certain whether the committee report would come to the House floor today.

BRIEF SESSION

The House was to meet at 3 p.m. for a brief session. The Senate didn't plan to start until 8 p.m.

By Monday night, no major bills were scheduled for introduction today.

The West committee was investigating whether or not the House should seat the Detroit Democrat, who won a second term in November. He faces numerous income tax charges and has been accused of impersonating a dead lawyer who had a similar name.

The committee reportedly planned to recommend against seating West solely on the basis of "gross deception" involved in West's asserted claiming of the educational background the dead lawyer possessed.

House Speaker Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, said the House would get on with its business whether or not either committee reported. "We've got work to do," he said.

Congress Begins Work on LBJ's Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has performed its annual rite of pledging spending cuts and is moving toward action on a program many members think will cost more than President Johnson's record $99.7-billion price tag.

Johnson banked heavily on continued prosperity in telling Congress in his budget message Monday he expects to hold expenditures for the year beginning July 1 below the $100-billion mark.

He is scheduled to spell out in a message Thursday the economic prospects on which he based a revenue estimate of $94.4 billion. Republicans were quick to point out this estimate called for $5.2 billion in red ink spending and would boost the national debt to a record $322 billion.

On the other hand, GOP members lined up to support — and possibly to increase — a $1.75-billion cut in excise taxes proposed by Johnson.

PREDICT SLASHES

Democrats joined with Republicans in predictions that there will be slashes in the President's budget. But the fact remained that while Congress might reduce the Johnson appropriation requests, this would have little effect on the rate of spending in the new fiscal year unless it dumps some of his programs.

Even Republicans were conceding privately that Johnson will get from Congress nearly all of the authority he is asking to put the "Great Society" into operation.

Nevertheless, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield predicted some budget cuts will be made. He was joined in this by Sens. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, John L. McClellan, D-Ark., Allen J. Ellender, D-La., George D. Aiken, R-Vt., and Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D.

Despite these efforts, McClellan, Hickenlooper, Ellender and Aiken said they think expenditures will top the $100-billion mark.

EXAMINE CUTS

Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Senate Armed Services Committee said there will be a thorough examination of Johnson's action in cutting defense spending by $300 million to a $49-billion figure.

"The Congress and the American people will want to be assured that the budget includes adequate funds to guarantee America's continued military superiority, which is the foundation of world peace," Russell said.

Mansfield called Democratic senators into a conference to get reports from committee chairmen on their plans for speeding action on Johnson's proposals.

House GOP Leaders Attack Estimates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., the new Republican leader of the House, and Rep. John Byrnes, R-Wis., senior GOP member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, had some harsh words for President's Johnson's new budget.

Ford, Byrnes and others of their party suggested Monday that Johnson was "overestimating revenues and underestimating expenses" in reporting his budget would be less than $100 billion.

But both Ford and Byrnes said that the President could count on their support if he moves to abolish retail excise taxes, such as on automobiles.

The Big Three—Ford, General Motors and Chrysler—are headquartered in Ford's Michigan. American Motors Corp., has Detroit headquarters, but all its automaking is concentrated in Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis.

EXCEEDS MARK

Ford and several other Republicans, including minority-ranking Frank T. Bow of the House Ways and Means Committee, contend that Johnson's budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 actually exceeds the $100-billion mark by more than $6 billion.

The Republicans say the difference occurs in the actual

Senator Backs Law for Safe-Car Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government could save thousands of lives every year by establishing minimum safety standards for all automobiles, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said Monday.

He has introduced a bill to set minimum safety standards for automobile tires and has announced he is working on legislation to establish automobile safety standards.

Nelson said he was delighted with the Commerce Department's newly published standards which must be met by automobiles bought by the federal government. The federal government buys more than 60,000 cars a year.

Winston Churchill

Sir WINSTON CHURCHILL, at 90, has lived out his allotted years and answered the call that mankind inevitably hears.

With his passing, few would question that Great Britain and the world loses the preeminent personage of the century.

As a soldier, writer, artist and statesman, CHURCHILL encompassed enough attributes and skills to endow many human beings. That destiny chose to embody such versatility in a single form could have been no accident.

CHURCHILL

Churchill's finest hour, of course, was his lion-hearted defiance of Adolf Hitler and his victory-flushed Nazi armies poised across the English Channel for an invasion of virtually prostrate Britain.

The fighting Briton's rallying cry to his countrymen epitomized by his solemn "blood, sweat and tears" pre-emption will stand as one of all history's greatest inspirational challenges.

By no means a well-educated man, in the common acceptance of the term, CHURCHILL early acquired an unmatched mastery of the English language and near-omniscience in foreseeing the nature and significance of impending events and currents around the world.

Like all figures who have wielded vast power at home and abroad, he had his political ups and downs. His prestige and position were high at conclusion of World War I, only to wane during the years following.

But his presence never suffered eclipse nor was his voice stilled as he saw the ominous cloud of Nazism darken the Continent, with its threat to freedom and democracy.

CHURCHILL's presentiments, however, like many an oracle's before him, fell largely on deaf ears—until disaster was at hand and his compatriots turned to him for deliverance and leadership of the United Kingdom.

One of his characteristic quotes was uttered on the observance of his 75th birthday: "I'm prepared to meet my Maker. The only question is, is my Maker prepared for the ordeal of meeting me."

We think that the Heavenly Father will find it no ordeal to receive into His Divine Kingdom the immortal soul of Winston Churchill—there to reap the spiritual rewards that most assuredly await.

A Worthy Organization Spans Half a Century

This month Kiwanis International celebrated its Golden Anniversary.

Honored in Detroit, where the organization was born, was the only survivor of the original 15 charter members—an 83-year-old retired tailor.

The club originally had no vision of becoming a great worldwide service organization with current membership of 265,000, its concept that of merely a local mutual-help association of representative business and professional men.

But under the leadership of its originator, the idea caught on, and soon the fledgling club had 200 members—and in little more than a year the number of clubs had grown to 18.

Today there are 5,300 clubs in 15 nations. The original motive of self-interest has broadened to embrace all manner of community betterment projects and programs of assistance to the disadvantaged and handicapped.

The charter members named their group the Benevolent Order of Brothers, but dissatisfaction over the vagueness of the name soon was felt and a more definite one sought.

A famous historian was appealed to, and he came up with "Nun-Kee-Wan-Is," which any Indian could tell you means "to make a noise"—to advertise, so to speak.

This was shortened to Kee-Wan-Is, and under that name a state charter obtained in January, 1915. The first motto "We trade," which reflected the original idea, has metamorphosed into the more comprehensive "We build."

The Press salutes this fine organization on its well-merited growth and the significant place it has attained in the affairs of men.

Budget Baffles Mr. Taxpayer

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—This is the baffle season when the taxpayer, if he has interest and energy enough, can trudge through that wilderness called the President's budget.

This is the one area of government above all where the taxpayer, who has to foot the bill, can understand the least even though it's all laid out for him in a huge volume full of vast detail and dollar signs.

President Johnson presented his budget Monday—saying it will cost $99.7 billion to run the government another year—after working on it for months to keep expected spending down, particularly below $100 billion.

To show how much of an economizer he is, he said government departments and agencies asked for a bottom figure of $108.5 billion. But how are you going to tell whether the $99.7 billion he asked is too much or too little?

The politicians are no help. As was expected, they sound like a rerun of themselves from last year and the year before since their reactions are predictable, depending on the party of the one doing the talking.

The Republicans were customarily critical yesterday, particularly of what they called "bookkeeping manipulation," and they complained about the "same old sleight of hand."

DEMOCRATS KINDER

The Democrats were kinder, naturally, and to nobody's surprise, the House Democratic leader, Carl Albert of Oklahoma, said that by every realistic test the budget is fiscally sound beyond any doubt.

But this hardly came under the heading of news since Albert, as the Democrats' house captain, has to work hand-in-glove with Johnson all year.

In politics $100 billion is taking on the appearance of a dirty word and the Republicans' House leader, Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, said he had some suspicion that, to keep the spending total under $100 billion, "they are overestimating revenues and underestimating expenses."

In 1962 President John F. Kennedy's budget was $92.5 billion and it was $98.8 billion in 1963, highest in history up to that time.

JOHNSON AS ECONOMIZER

Then Johnson made quite a splash as an economizer when, after taking over, in 1964 he proposed a $97.9 billion budget, which was lower than Kennedy's of the year before.

This year his $99.7 billion became the highest budget ever. Skidding around just under the $100 billion lid can't go on since government costs keep climbing as its responsibilities increase.

David Lawrence Asks:

How Long Can U.S. Go in Red?

WASHINGTON—Perhaps in these days of the Great Society it is not inappropriate to propound the "great query."

It is this: How long can the federal government continue each year to spend far more than it collects in taxes or other receipts from the citizens?

For six consecutive years, the amount of money spent by the federal government will have been considerably in excess of the flow of tax funds to the U. S. Treasury during the same period.

No private business could keep going into the red every year and survive.

The government is supposed to be different. The American people are expected to believe that the U. S. Treasury's line of credit is unlimited and that confidence in the dollar will not diminish no matter what the figures show.

After describing the coming budget as a "plan of action," Mr. Johnson reiterates in the budget message submitted to Congress his assurances for a utopian era.

NOT SOLVENT?

He says: "The Great Society must be a bold society... the Great Society must be a compassionate society... the Great Society must be an efficient society."

But nowhere does Mr. Johnson say that the Great Society must be a solvent society. He takes it for granted it will always remain so.

The most perplexing aspect of the President's new budget for the fiscal year which begins July 1, 1965, is in the claim that the new budget is less than $100 billion. But is it?

For the fiscal year 1965, the outlook is that $121.4 billion will be spent and only $117.4 billion collected.

The indications are that for fiscal year 1966, which runs from July 1, 1965, to June 30, 1966, expenditures will be $127.4 billion and receipts will be $123.5 billion.

So the announced plan to keep the "budget" below $100 billion doesn't tell the whole story.

People generally have faith in the solvency of their own government. They think that, in the long run, the economy somehow will be given a stimulus and that tax receipts will grow in such volume as to offset expenditures. But, unfortunately, the trend may go the other way.

Rocking Chair Hasn't Got White House Physician

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON—That old rocking chair hasn't got her, but a white-thatched charmer named John William Gordon Powell has.

The moment that President Johnson accepted the resignation of Dr. Janet Travell, with flowery words of praise, Powell exclaimed happily: "I've got my wife back."

The White House physician who put two presidents in rocking chairs was equally delighted. She has spent four fascinating years taking the kinks out of presidential muscles and treating first family ailments, but she muses:

"I've neglected my family and four grandchildren, to say nothing of my beautiful riding horse, Retz."

The first woman to serve as White House physician was credited by President Kennedy with saving his life, after back operations brought him so near death that he was given the last rites of the Catholic church.

DISCOVERY

Then he "discovered" Dr. Travell in New York, and the marvelously adept muscle specialist soon had him walking again.

The charming 63-year-old physician has no intention of laying down her medical tools when she bows out of the executive mansion next month.

Her new-found leisure will be utilized to teach, write medical tomes and train young doctors in her technique of managing skeletal muscle pain.

This will also be the subject of a book which she has been trying to write for four years.

LITTLE TIME

President Kennedy, aware of her contract with MacMillan publishers, used to greet her teasingly with, "How's the book coming?"

No one knew better than he that her multitudinous duties left little time for authorship.

During the past year the Johnsons have come to share the Kennedy clan's admiration for her.

She has spent the past two months directing preparations for first aid, sanitation, meat inspection, nursing services, and hospital and civil defense alerts to cope with any emergency during the inaugural parade and festivities.

Now she is writing a report on the outcome which will go into the archives for permanent reference.

Few departing staffers will leave a more lasting mark on the White House than Dr. Travell.

The rocking chairs will stay, as will the specially designed typing chairs, the semicircular writing boards and footstools which bear her stamp of approval.

In fact, for years to come when visitors ask about a curious thudding noise emanating from pigeonhole offices and suites, a staffer will probably reply: "That's a presidential assistant running in place at his desk. Travell said it was good exercise, you know."

Voice of the People:

'Our Tax Dollars Would Entertain Red Visitors'

Administration wants Soviet leaders to visit U.S. so we can expand trade and cooperation with them. Our tax money will wine and dine them and hire protection for them.

It's no wonder that, with this kind of trade and moral support, the Russians are increasing their supplies to the rebels in the Congo, with more efficient ammunition to kill more missionaries and innocent Africans. For their part in these wholesale massacres we want to give these Communists the welcome mat.

MAY GOD HELP US.

'The Great Society Means Higher Taxes'

Many of the gullible voters who cast their ballots for Johnson have made the rude discovery that the tax cut was only election-year talk. Income taxes are higher than ever. They will find that for responsible, self-respecting citizens the Great Society means nothing more than higher taxes and less personal freedom.

According to Big Brother Lyndon, the federal government will take care of us from the womb to the tomb, and it will cost us only twice as much as if we took care of ourselves. What a bargain.

Naturally, those who do not want to be bothered with working for a living think it is great and are perfectly willing to take what the industrious have labored and sacrificed to earn.

GOLDWATER VOTER

'Charity Should Start With Our Oldsters'

I do not agree on the sterilization idea unless it includes mental cases. God does not approve it. We all get old so why feel burdened about chronically ill or incurables. There is a time to be born and a time to die.

If millions can be sent to foreign countries and foreigners can be brought in, we surely can take care of these unfortunate oldsters. Charity should start at home—on oldsters.

E. NEIL ROMEO

'Non-Workers and Rich Laugh With LBJ'

I've wondered why Johnson looked as though he couldn't keep from laughing when he talked about his Great Society. In the Medicare Bill a man earning $4,800 a year will pay just as much as a man earning a million. A lot of working men already have paid hospital and medical care after retirement, but they will also have to pay for medicare.

The tax cut should also make Johnson laugh. The working man's tax was cut four per cent but the rich man's tax was cut up to 30 per cent. I don't see how anyone earning over $3 thousand or under $50 thousand a year can think the Great Society is great. The only ones who can laugh with Johnson are the men that won't work and the rich men.

NOT LAUGHING

'Wait at Railroad Crossing Was Lengthy'

Schools Must Integrate for Funds

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It took 11 years for the Old South to desegregate 604 of its 2,220 school districts with mixed white and Negro residents. Most of the remaining 1,616 districts could begin desegregation plans in a matter of months.

That prospect measures the immense scope of the revolution that seems about to engulf the southern school system, while headlines go to last summer's civil rights murders and to fresh stirrings of the Negro voter registration front.

The lever that is lifting the South out of its embedded segregationist positions is Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. It simply says "no federal aid" for those areas which persist in practicing discrimination in activities where U.S. funds are a contributing support.

All kinds of school help are involved: money for libraries, for vocational training, for so-called impacted areas near defense and other government establishments.

More than just current money enters into calculation as southern officials and educators contemplate what to do. Some federal programs call for escalation of funds over a span of years. And President Johnson's new education bundle, coming to $1.5 billion, could provide new aid parcels for the states if enacted.

The new money is a lure. The old money has become a necessity. Enraged though they are at Title VI's revolutionary pressures, even the stoutest segregationists recognize in their calmer moments that loss of federal funds would be crippling.

Consequently, appraisers of the southern mood expect most school districts to sign the "letters of assurance" required within the next two months by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to indicate that discrimination is or will be ended.

A few figures will illustrate what a stunning change portends if compliance is as sweeping as now appears likely.

Arkansas, whose state education board has announced intent to comply with HEW regulations affecting the schools, today has just 24 desegregated districts out of 228 with mixed white and Negro population. Thus, virtually at a stroke, the other 204 could be freed from strict segregation.

South Carolina has just 16 of 108 mixed population districts on its desegregation roster. Full compliance would add 92 quickly.

In Alabama, the present figures are eight out of 118 districts, in Georgia, 11 of 180, in Texas, 291 of 862.

In absolute terms, Louisiana, with just three desegregated districts out of 67, and Mississippi, with four out of 190, are the toughest bastions to crack. Stubborn as some yielding will be, not all of the 1,616 still-segregated districts are waiting to be shoved.

As of Dec. 31, some 300 Old South school districts had advised the U.S. Office of Education of interest in getting financial and technical help in their plans to desegregate. A fund of $5 million is provided in the new law.

Negro leaders have complained for years that desegregation in the 11 Old South states has been merely token in character. If compliance with the demands of Title VI matches expectations, that charge may no longer apply fully. Desegregation judged by the number of districts involved, may run across the board.

Measured by the number of eligible Negro students affected, the story, of course, will be quite different. Yet even here, change could be accelerated rapidly.

Before the stern provisions of Title VI had a chance to take effect, Negro enrollment in previously all-white southern schools doubled in just one year. According to the Southern Education Reporting Service, it is now a bit above two per cent of total Negro area enrollment of some three million. In Texas it is more than seven per cent, in Tennessee and Virginia, more than five per cent.

Title VI, speaking with the sharp command of money, appears to have doomed segregation almost everywhere. It is breaching the thickest walls. And in so doing it may also be heralding the fairly early death of "tokenism."

A Mississippi observer summed up: "Some of these people appear to be acting and talking as if they still had a choice. They don't."

The 'Missile Gap'—One of the Strange Myths of Our Time

(EDITOR'S NOTE—In 1960 the "missile gap" played an important part in the presidential campaign and affected relations between the United States and Russia. In the first of three articles, Everett S. Allen of the New Bedford (Mass.) Standard-Times, details how the "missile gap" issue developed. The Standard-Times made the series available to the Associated Press.)

By EVERETT S. ALLEN
Standard-Times Staff Writer
WASHINGTON — Four years after its climax, the nonexistent "missile gap," born of unsubstantiated fear that the Russians were ahead of us, emerges as one of the most dramatically significant myths in American history.

Although official opinions on the subject vary greatly, this is the unmistakable conclusion to be found in examining views of present and former military and civilian leaders of the Eisenhower-Kennedy-Johnson administrations, which have been made available to me.

Initially, I asked Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner, former adviser of President John F. Kennedy and now dean of science of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, whether the Kennedy forces had knowingly exploited in the 1960 campaign a "missile gap" that did not exist.

Dr. Wiesner, who assisted the missile effort in major degree during both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations, denied this. In reply, he suggested this story be written, and arranged for some of the interviews, in the belief it would constitute a public service through verification of the historic events involved.

AUTHORIZED VIEWS
I have talked with, or been given the authorized views of more than a dozen persons whose positions offered them some first-hand knowledge of the events involved. As a result, I have concluded that, despite the fact there never was any such thing, the "missile gap" produced these results: Among others:

1. It stimulated a U.S.-USSR missile race, in which the United States maintains a 4-1 lead as the result of a $17-billion program initiated by President Dwight D. Eisenhower and accelerated by President Kennedy.

2. Caused both nations to approximately double their missile arsenals so that, as advocates of gradual disarmament are quick to point out, our relative positions remain the same, despite the expenditure of billions. By early 1965, the Soviet Union will have 200 intercontinental ballistic missiles, double the number of a year earlier. By the same time, the U.S. will have 925 ICBMs, compared with 475 a year earlier.

NATIONWIDE FEARS
3. Provoked nationwide fears that marred unjustly the records of both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations and provided one of the major issues that defeated Vice President Richard M. Nixon and elected Kennedy to the White House.

The Eisenhower administration was not delinquent in its preparedness program, as Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., a former Air Force secretary, and others charged (and some Republicans in government believed it, too).

The Kennedy team was not deceitful when it claimed that a missile gap threatened this country during the campaign months of 1960 and announced, after the election, that it did not exist. The shift was due to more and better intelligence, and to the fact that Kennedy, as a campaigning senator, was denied missile information possessed by the White House.

NEW DISCLOSURES
Two incidents in this historic drama, hitherto unpublished, illustrate poignantly the role of the psychological on both sides of the Iron Curtain in the development of the "missile gap" impact.

As Democratic candidate for president of the United States, Kennedy was barred in August 1960 from receiving a full-scale briefing on U.S.-USSR missile strength at Strategic Air Command headquarters in Omaha. The briefing had been promised to him by the Republican administration.

Former Sen. Pierre Salinger, D-Calif., previously President Kennedy's press secretary, related that "We (the Kennedy campaign entourage) went to SAC headquarters with the understanding that the senator was to be fully briefed."

"Apparently, the night before, there were orders from Washington that he was not to get a full briefing. The senator was damned mad about it."

ORDER CAME DOWN
Salinger said, "I can't say the orders (denying Kennedy a full briefing) came from President Eisenhower, but certainly from or via the secretary of defense (Thomas S. Gates Jr.)."

When I questioned Salinger, he replied, "I don't know why the Pentagon order was given."

Denied facts of the "missile gap" in possession of the Eisenhower administration, Kennedy was more inclined to listen to those advisers, including Symington, who felt it was a major issue. This stronger view of the gap was reflected in the Democratic platform of 1960, which charged that "before congressional committees (the GOP administration) has testified that the Communists will have a dangerous lead in ICBMs through 1963."

Two months after the visit to SAC headquarters and 5,000 miles away in Moscow, the full ramifications of the Omaha rebuke to the successful Democratic candidate were made clear to President Kennedy's advisers, Dr. Walt Rostow and Dr. Wiesner. Wiesner and Rostow, an MIT economics professor later appointed to government by Kennedy and now chairman of the State Department Policy Planning Council, were in Russia attending a Pugwash conference of East-West scientists.

OLD FRIENDS
Soviet Deputy Minister Vasilyevich Kuznetsov knew Dr. Wiesner on a first-name basis, an association dating from an international convention on safeguards against surprise attack in 1958.

Kuznetsov sent a staff member to contact Wiesner, asking if the latter would like to see him. Wiesner said he would and suggested Dr. Rostow come, too.

In his office in the Foreign Ministry, Kuznetsov commented that he had become aware, from U.S. news coverage of Kennedy's campaign speeches, that the President was being pressed to double the Eisenhower administration's missile program.

But he added, it was troubled by the militant nature of some of the Democratic campaign utterances.

COULD UNDERSTAND
Kuznetsov said he could understand, at least in part, the Kennedy campaign commitment to build a strong military force. But he pointed out that the Soviet government also faced pressures from its military leadership and assuredly would not be able to resist them if the United States persisted in increasing greatly its missile strength.

The visiting Americans attempted to reassure the Soviet minister. They emphasized that missiles were a more secure defense basis, since they did not embody most of the human-error fallibilities of a constantly alerted, manned-plane program. This, they suggested, ought to give the Soviets some comfort.

Kuznetsov, however, stood on his previous position. In conclusion, the minister reiterated that if there were a major U.S.

missile buildup, it would probably require his country to respond.

Thus the stage was set for a continuation of the highly competitive U.S.-USSR missile race.

LEADERS VIEWS

Other military and civilian leaders whose views have made possible the piecing together of this unique missile gap story from its beginnings include: Allen Dulles, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, who stated, "By '57, we began to get evidence of a rather major Soviet breakthrough. Intelligence, correctly, I think, indicated they were ahead; this was based in part on successful firings out of the total shots fired. Then intelligence, and I think properly, sounded the alarm. There was at least a threatening missile gap in 1957. There was real substance to the threat; it did not materialize as we thought, but I believe if intelligence had not reacted this way, a serious situation might have developed."

Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, Ret., former Army missile chief declared, "Our missile need involved a lag, not a gap, since the former represents a tardy effort and can be closed. I didn't know what Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was talking about when he referred to a 'gap.' I think the lag still is serious in the anti-ICBM field. Mr. Kennedy understood the problem, however, and began to move on it."

VARYING OPINION

A Johnson Defense Department official, who declined to be identified, said, "There is a variation of opinion as to who is ahead in deployment and research of antiballistic missiles. I've always felt ours are at least up to theirs, maybe ahead. 'I see no gap here.'"

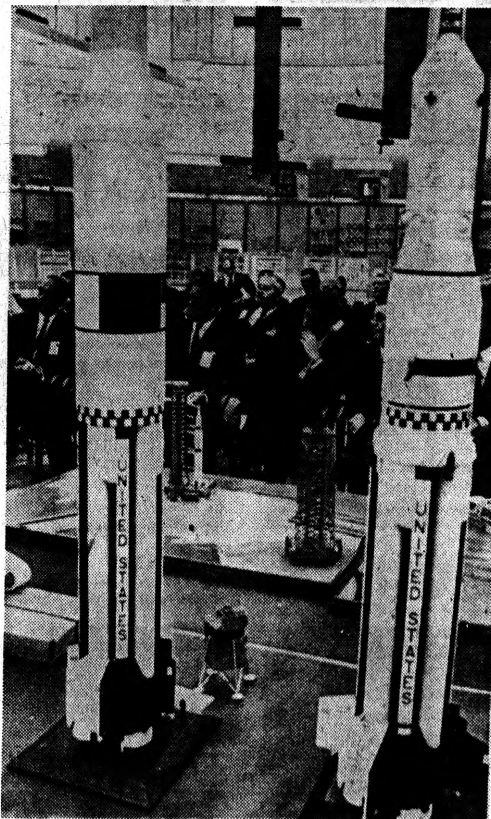

Asserted Gen. Bernard A. Shriver, commander, Air Force Systems Command and military "father" of the U.S. missile program: "Our present ICBM strength, as Secretary of Defense McNamara has revealed, is more than four times that of the Soviets. Even the most optimistic predictions fell short of the actual U.S. progress that has been made in the last 10 years."

A State Department official, incumbent, who declined to be identified, gave this view of the situation: "The Iron Curtain is not as iron as it was: intelligence is better than it used to be. We went astray on the gap, lacking hard facts. We made an estimate on what would be a rational decision and they didn't make this decision. It still is hard to figure why they didn't produce and deploy their first-generation missile."

Police Arrest Members of India Sect

MADRAS, India (AP) — Police arrested hundreds of persons today, including several Parliament members and the mayor of Madras, to prevent them from demonstrating publicly against introduction of Hindi as the official Indian language.

Those arrested were members of the Dravidians, the separatist organization of original inhabitants of Madras, which had refused a government request that they demonstrate later and not today, the 15th anniversary of the Indian republic.

Large numbers of students throughout Madras State demonstrated Monday. Tear gas was used on a mob in the temple town of Madurai and four students were injured. In Madras, Hindi language books were burned.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Malaysia accused Indonesia today of continuing its military buildup along the borders of the British-backed federation.

Defense Minister Tun Abdul Razak said Indonesia has moved several fresh brigades to the frontier in Borneo and has carried out a buildup in the portion of Sumatra that lies across the Strait of Malacca from the Malaysian mainland.

Razak said the situation is so serious that Malaysia has asked additional military assistance from her allies in the British Commonwealth.

The Defense Ministry announced that Canada will give Malaysia $3.6 million worth of military aid, including four twin-engine transport planes.

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith has renewed his threats to lead Rhodesia out of the British Commonwealth in order to preserve the white minority's rule.

Smith told a banquet Monday night: "If the British government is not prepared to give us our just due as they have promised in the past, if they are not prepared to grant us this (independence) within the Commonwealth, then the only thing is to leave the Commonwealth."

Smith threatened last fall to declare independence unilaterally but backed down when Britain's Labor government said this would result in expulsion from the Commonwealth and economic isolation.

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German government says it has started making arrangements for a conference on German reunification to be attended by representatives of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany.

Karl Guenther von Hase, the West German press chief, told a news conference Monday that the other three allies all have agreed to attend.

HONG KONG (AP) — Red China is taking special security measures against anti-Communist saboteurs during the Chinese New Year visiting period.

Visitors from Communist China said today that special security forces have poured into the border town of Shumchun in the past few days.

The Chinese Communists allow Hong Kong Chinese to visit friends and relatives in China during the New Year holidays. At least 10,000 Chinese from Hong Kong are expected to go in the coming week.

Boston Starts Roundup as 18th Gang Victim Dies

BOSTON (AP) — Boston police have started a wholesale roundup of men for questioning in the area's murderous gang warfare. The number of deaths in the past 11 months reached 18 yesterday with the gunshot slaying of Joseph R. Francione, 35, in his Revere apartment.

He was the second man shot to death in three days in Greater Boston.

Detectives began the roundup last night and a total of 25 men were taken into custody.

The dragnet concentrated chiefly on Boston's Roxbury and Dorchester sections.

No charges were filed immediately.

Deputy Police Supt. Herbert Mallowney said the reason for the roundup was "due to reports resulting from increased surveillance of the criminal element in Boston, especially those involved in tailgating and receiving stolen property."

Detectives said they were also checking the possibility some of those rounded up are parole violators.

Earlier, postal inspectors said Francione had been among those under surveillance since the Plymouth mail truck robbery in August, 1962, which netted thieves $1,551,227.

SHOT IN HEAD

Francione, an ex-convict, was shot in the back of the head.

The slaying of Francione followed by hours an attempt to kill Henry W. Knight, 27. Knight was shot in the abdomen and shoulder by two unidentified men he said were going to take him "for a ride."

Police said Knight was an acquaintance of three of the previous murder victims. They were George Ash, 46, found shot and stabbed 50 times in Boston's South End in December, and Harold Hannon, 54, of Everett and William Delaney, 27, of Boston, whose bodies were found in Boston Harbor in August.

Francione became the 18th in the list of persons slain over the last 11 months in Greater Boston.

SHOTS HEARD

His body was found by a neighbor who told police he ran to Francione's apartment after hearing shots.

A half-hour before the shots were fired, Francione was seen shoveling his car out of a snow bank in front of the building.

U.S. Tributes to Winnie Go On

By The Associated Press

Tributes to Sir Winston Churchill continue throughout the United States by state legislatures, governors, in memorial church services and by just plain folks signing condolence books.

Nearly 1,000 persons filed through an 11th-floor room of the British Consulate in New York Monday to place their names in a book bordered by black velvet. The register will be given to the Churchill family.

"You gave me courage," "Love and respect," "Deepest regrets" and a simple "Thank you" were among the expressions written by laborers, office workers, students, doctors and diplomats.

"I feel as if I lost someone who was a world citizen," said one man as he signed the book.

MUSICAL TRIBUTE

Conductor Eugene Ormandy added Bach's "Come, sweet death" as the opening selection of Monday night's Philadelphia Orchestra concert in its home city as a tribute to the British leader who died Sunday in London at 90.

Episcopal Church services

were planned in Denver, Colo., Los Angeles, Tulsa, Okla., Houston, Tex. Albany, N.Y., San Francisco, Philadelphia, Chicago, New York and other cities.

Churches of the three major faiths scheduled memorial services in Houston — at Christ Church Cathedral Thursday, Congregation Beth Israel Friday night and a requiem Mass in Sacred Co-Cathedral Saturday.

The New Jersey Legislature stood in a moment of silent tribute and then passed resolutions praising Churchill as a "great man of the world." One legislator said: "There is no man in history who has done more for our way of life than did Sir Winston Churchill."

SILENT HOMAGE

The Washington State Senate also paid silent homage as a chaplain described Churchill as the "free world's foremost spokesman of courage." He was described as "one of the great men of our time" in a Pennsylvania legislative resolution.

In Michigan, Gov. George Romney ordered flags in that state to fly at halfstaff through Saturday and proclaimed the period as one of mourning. He also called on his state's citizens to pause Saturday "in solemn meditation and reverence during the funeral for this beloved man."

Mississippi's Gov. Paul Johnson said in a proclamation that Churchill was "the greatest Englishman of them all."

Idaho Gov. Robert E. Smylie asked his state's citizens "to pay a last tribute to that great and valiant defender of Western civilization."

FLAGS LOWERED

Gov. John H. Reed of Maine ordered all national and state flags lowered to half-staff and recommended that citizens display their flags similarly through Saturday.

In Washington, the House of Representatives approved a resolution of sympathy to Churchill's family, then adjourned after eulogies by House leaders. More speeches were on tap in the House today.

5 to Get Syria Death Penalty

Convicted of Plotting
to Topple Government

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — A special military court sentenced five men to death today on charges of plotting to overthrow Syria's Socialist government.

The sentences came as a merchants' strike against increased socialism entered its third day.

Damascus Radio, in a middle-of-the-night broadcast, announced the court action.

It said the five men had fostered a military plot to overthrow the Baath Socialist regime and had planned "political assassination and sabotage against the people and the national industries."

Twenty other persons tried on similar charges were cleared and released, the radio said.

RETIRED OFFICERS

The government previously had announced 23 striking merchants were on trial before the special military court. But the wording of the announcement of the death sentences indicated those sentenced were retired military officers and not merchants. Their names were not familiar.

Damascus Radio said some of them had been in touch with "Zionist" quarters.

In a new effort to break the merchants' strike, President Amin Hafez announced the government would take over ownership of all shops "found closed with no legal excuse."

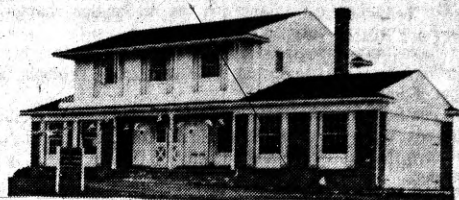

The government had confiscated the properties of the 23 businessmen arrested earlier, and at midmorning, employees of some of their shops and agencies opened for business.

TOO EARLY

It was too early to predict, however, whether the majority of the other striking merchants would heed the government's threats.

Says Princess Not Yet an Actress

Michelangelo Antonioni, a prize-winning director who directed one of three episodes in a new picture starring Princess Soraya of Iran, says the princess has done well but still has a lot to learn.

"Soraya must study acting and mimicry to become a good actress," Antonioni said today in an interview.

"She is very attractive on the screen and one does not get tired of looking at her," he said. "But she is still immature. She has not yet mastered the proper attitudes of an actress."

Antonioni's movie "The Red Desert" won the top award at the Venice Film Festival last summer. He directed Princess Soraya in "Three Faces of a Roman."

Bill to Repeal Law on Union

'Right-to-Work' Rule Rejected in Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A bill repealing Indiana's 1957 right-to-work law was ready today for Gov. Roger D. Branigin's signature.

The measure, eliminating the Republican written barrier against compulsory union membership as a condition of employment, was the first one adopted by the 1965 legislature, which opened Jan. 7.

The Indiana House passed the repealer 74-21 Monday and the Senate, which had approved it earlier, agreed to a punctuation change.

The Democratic governor, onetime president of the Chamber of Commerce in his hometown of Lafayette, had promised during the campaign to sign such a repeal. The overturn of the eight-year-old law became certain as soon as Democrats had captured overwhelming control of the state legislature last November.

30-MINUTE DEBATE — One Republican joined 73 Democrats in giving the repealer House approval after a 30-minute debate. Three GOP lawmakers sided with the Democrats in the 38-12 Senate approval nearly two weeks ago.

The 1957 law forbade union membership as a requirement for employment under union shop contracts. It had been crippled by a state court decision that the law did not prevent agency shop agreements in which nonmembers paid the union the equivalent of fees and assessments as compensation for bargaining services.

McNamara Still Opposed to AF Bomber

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON — The Air Force has failed to convince Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara that the country needs an expensive new manned bomber to replace the present B52s and B58s in the 1970s.

Since the Air Force has made exhaustive studies and presented its strongest arguments, it would appear that its chances of eventually winning over the Pentagon chief are slight.

"I don't see today any requirement for the expenditure of $10 billion for that purpose," one Defense official said of an Air Force proposal to develop and buy about 200 advanced strategic aircraft.

The two major factors working against the Air Force in this are the cost of a new bomber project and the reliance on a growing force of land-based and submarine-launched missiles.

ON ALERT

In discussing the bomber question, officials noted that 793 intercontinental ballistic missiles were on alert as of last Friday, together with 304 Polaris missiles in the tubes of submarines.

"That missile force is growing and will become larger next year and the years after," one top authority said.

PARTIAL ANSWER

"I think you can partially answer the question as to the requirement for a manned bomber when you ask yourself how would you use 200 manned bombers in the mid-1970s on top of a missile force" now planned to reach about 1,700.

The defense budget for the next fiscal year, sent to Congress Monday, contained about $70 million for development work on new engines, various kinds of special equipment, and a 100-mile-range air-to-surface missile which could be incorporated in a new manned-bomber system.

Defense officials contended that this limited program of development would lay the groundwork for such a new manned bomber, if a need for it should be shown.

If it develops that such a new and expensive system cannot be justified, these officials said, the various components so developed could be used in tactical bombers, possibly including a modified TFX.

The officials insisted that there is still time to make a decision on whether to go ahead with an advanced manned bomber before the B52s and B58s reach the ends of their useful lives.

There are at least 20,000 species of fish.

Mall to Hold Annual Art Show

Pontiac Mall's third annual art show will open Monday and continue through Feb. 13. All artists in Oakland county are eligible to exhibit their work. Last year, 700 individual works of art were on display, representing more than 250 local artists. Ribbons will be awarded in seven categories: oil, pastel, water color, graphics, sculpture, drawing and mixed media. This year a popular vote will be taken in addition to the official judging.

A "best show" selected by the judges will receive the William Finger annual award.

JUDGES

Judges include Dr. John Galloway, head of the art department at Oakland University; Edward Hissong, art graduate of Wayne University and Cranbrook Academy of Arts; and John Coppin, Bloomfield Hills artist, whose murals at the Detroit Public Library will be unveiled in March.

Cochairing the show is William N. Finger and Mrs. Sanford McLean.

Their committee consists of Mrs. Ivan J. Stretten; Mrs. Hazel Nauman; Jean Belknap; Mrs. Elinor Perrin; Mrs. John Meier; Wallace Bailey; Mrs. Maynard A. Cotcher and Mrs. Henry M. Rankin.

RULES

All artists wishing to exhibit should take their works to the Pontiac Mall on Sunday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Application blanks and rules are available at Finger's and Sherwin-Williams Paint Company at the Mall.

David Kidd, Hatchery Road, brings his pastel picture of a foundry worker to enter in the third annual Pontiac Mall Art show. Mrs. John Meier, Dwight Street, Waterford Township, stops to get a quick glance at the picture. She is on the planning committee. Show dates are Feb. 1-13.

Determine Your Tip on Food

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: Last night my husband and I and two other couples went to a supper club. There was a cover charge of $2 a person.

When the bill was presented (which was quite sizable) the question arose as to whether or not the tip for the waiter should be based on the total amount of the bill, including the cover charge and tax, or on just the food and drink that was ordered.

What is correct in this instance?

A: Cover charges and taxes are not included in determining the waiter's tip.

Q: My wedding party will consist of two bridesmaids, four ushers, a flower girl and maid of honor.

Some say the flower girl walks in front of the maid of honor and some say she walks directly in front of me. Which is her correct position?

A: The flower girl walks behind the maid of honor and directly in front of you and your father.

Q: A family friend who is a concert pianist, will be making his debut in this city soon. My husband and I will attend the first night performance.

Would it be proper to send him flowers or are flowers sent only to a woman?

A: You may quite properly send flowers to him backstage but they are rarely, if ever, presented to a man on stage.

The clothes of the bride's and groom's parents as well as those of the wedding guests are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "Correct Clothes for a Wedding Reception."

Mrs. Floyd Caldwell of Emerson Avenue and George Fox of Wayne announce the engagement of their daughter, Georgia Lee Fox to Everett Dwight King, son of the Harry E. Kings of Manhattan Avenue. An April 10 wedding date is set.

Dad's Funnies Delight Mama but Both Know the Punchline

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the wife who was embarrassed because her husband insisted on telling "old jokes" took me back many years.

My father, rest his soul, was a great one for repeating the same stories to his guests. They would all listen politely, giving no sign that they had heard the story before.

Daddy's eyes would twinkle as he talked, and when he got to the punch line he would laugh so hard himself he could hardly get through it.

Then everyone would laugh with him. Mama, bless her, always led the laughter.

I REMEMBER DADDY DEAR ABBY: Regarding the letter you published from the woman who complained because her husband told old jokes to his friends over and over again.

Cook Show Enjoyed by Crowd

The Pontiac Press sixth annual cooking school got off to a good start today, despite the inclement weather.

Weather during cooking school week is always bad. But area cooks ignore it and show up at Pontiac Central High School in capacity numbers.

They come to see Donna Punchochar, who is conducting the first two sessions this week show them the latest cookery ideas.

They come, hoping to carry home either a grand prize, or one of the many daily prizes.

Donna whose trade name is Susan Lowe will be on stage again tomorrow afternoon.

NIGHT SESSION

Wednesday evening, Consumers Power Company home economists, Barbara Zimmerman and Harriet Cannon will take over for the first evening session.

For the nighttime audiences, Wednesday and Thursday, there will be the same daily prizes and a grand prize each evening.

Thursday afternoon, Marlys Fox will replace Miss Punchochar and repeat the daytime recipes. She will conclude the school Friday afternoon.

Doors for the afternoon sessions open at 12:30 p.m. The program starts at 1:30. In the evening, doors open at 7 p.m. for the 7:30 program.

Any available seats after ticket holders are accommodated will be given to those still waiting.

I know how that woman must feel, because I used to be in the same situation. Every time my husband would start telling one of his old jokes, I'd wince with embarrassment.

After 40 years of marriage, he is gone. And now I would give anything if I could hear him tell one of his old jokes again.

A WIDOW

DEAR ABBY: I have something to say about "old" jokes. I have collected jokes for over 40 years and I have not heard a "new" one in many, many years.

But that doesn't detract from the enjoyment of listening to a joke, if it is told well. Sign me—

Mrs. Irons Is New President

Mrs. Frank Irons was installed as president of the Pontiac Women's Republican Club Monday at a meeting in the North Genesee Avenue home of Mrs. Paul Gorman.

Others taking office were Mrs. Richard Reiter, vice president; Mrs. Howard F. Shrons, secretary; and Mrs. Leonard Sundahl, treasurer.

Robert C. Irwin, City Commissioner of district 2 spoke to the group about the proposed Pontiac city income tax.

has ever heard Danny Thomas tell the one about the parrot will echo your sentiments.

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the old jokes prompts this question: When someone starts to tell a joke, and then stops and says, "Please stop me if you've heard this joke before," is it all right to stop him if you have?

JOKE TELLER

DEAR JOKE TELLER: I wouldn't recommend it. Problems? Write to ABBY, The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Judge Speaks Before Club

District Meeting Held

Six members of the Pontiac Business and Professional Women's Club attended the winter meeting of District 10, Michigan Federation of BPWs Sunday, in Detroit.

Some 165 women represented 19 clubs at the luncheon meeting in McGuire's Restaurant.

The Hon. Donald E. Adams, senior probate judge of Oakland County spoke concerning "Partnership With Youth" and the confusing and conflicting theories that arise.

Oakland County, in its operation of Camp Oakland Girls' Ranch and the Children's Village, now nearing completion, is assisting the program, he said.

Pine Hill Chosen for Wedding

The Pine Hill Congregational Church was the setting for the recent candlelight vows of Carol Lee Smrcina and Richard Quentin Sweet of Easy Street.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Smrcina of Lexington Street and the Quentin E. Sweets of South Avery Road.

An illusion bubble veil with orange blossom headpiece complemented the bride's gown and detachable train of white peau de soie.

LACE ACCENTS

Imported Alencon lace accented her fitted bodice and encircled the sheath skirt. A white cattleya orchid centered her bouquet of Snowdrift poms and ivy.

Janet Livingstone, who was maid of honor at the double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. Harry Clark, appeared in royal blue peau taffeta. She carried white chrysanthemums and Snowdrift poms.

Dennis F. Smrcina was best man and the ushers were Edward Marcum and John Cork.

ATTENDED MOTHER

Mrs. George Tallerday, organist for the wedding, attended the bride's mother as maid of honor at her wedding.

After a reception in Fortino's Steak House, the couple left for a Florida honeymoon.

Trip to Capital

Members of the National Council, Pontiac Area, of Senior Citizens will travel by bus to Lansing Wednesday for the legislative conference of senior citizens at the Lansing Civic Center.

'American Mother' Search On for State Candidate

Mrs. Charles F. Kuhn, of Lake Angelus, Michigan State chairman of the American Mother's Committee, Inc., has announced the launching of the search for the 1965 Mother of Michigan.

The primary objective of the American Mother's Committee, Inc., is to develop and strengthen the moral and spiritual foundations of the American home.

QUALIFICATIONS

To qualify for the American Mother, a woman must be a successful mother, as evidenced by the character and achievements of her individual children.

• She must be an active member of a religious body.

• She must embody those traits highly regarded in mothers such as courage, cheerfulness, patience, affection, kindness, understanding, and a homemaking ability.

• She must also exemplify in her life and conduct, the precepts of the Golden Rule.

• Further, she must possess a sense of responsibility in civic affairs and be active in service for public benefit.

REPRESENTS ALL

Also among her qualifications, she must be able to represent the mothers of America in all responsibilities attached to her role as the national mother.

Other qualifying conditions require that the youngest child should not be less than 15 years of age, and that no divorced mother may qualify.

The chosen state mother will be honored at a luncheon and later will be sent to New York by Northland Center to be considered with the mothers selected from all the other states.

Anyone may send in the name of a candidate if she has the recommendation by a recognized organization.

Nomination blanks are obtainable from Mrs. Charles F. Kuhn, Post Office Box 861, Pontiac, Michigan.

Nominations must be returned by March 1.

The LeRoy Mollers of Susin Lane, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Diane Marie to John Joseph Martin, son of the John P. Martins of North Saginaw Street. He holds a master's degree from the University of Detroit. The couple will wed on Aug. 7.

Violinist Known to Localites

When James Oliver Buswell IV comes to Pontiac to present a violin concert Friday evening, he will be greeted by a number of area residents who have known him since his birth.

Rev. Roy Lambert of Lake-Land United Presbyterian Church, a graduate of Wheaton (Illinois) College, sang in the college glee club with young Buswell's father. Prior to 1940, James Oliver Buswell II, young James' grandfather, was president of the college.

Just appointed to that post is Hudson Armerding, brother of Mrs. Robert F. Hermanson of Adams Road, Avon Township. Her husband also knew the violinist's father in college.

The Wheaton Club of Detroit will fet the concert artist with a reception in Pontiac Northern High School library after the program.

James Oliver Buswell IV is only 19 years old.

At the age of seven, he appeared with the New York Philharmonic and at eight, with the Chicago and Fort Wayne Symphonies.

He has since played with a number of other symphonies and appeared as guest artist on television shows.

Buswell's concert is one of the Oakland University-Community Arts series. Program time is 8:15 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door.

Mrs. Robert F. Hermanson, Adams Road, Avon Township, and Rev. Roy Lambert, Williams Lake Road, have a personal interest in the forthcoming appearance of James Oliver Buswell IV, violinist.

They have known him since he was born. The Buswell concert, part of the Oakland University-Community Arts series, will be presented Friday evening at Pontiac Northern High School.

Reception in Center After Vows

A reception in Avondale Community Center followed the recent marriage of Linda Rose Lipka to Richard Lyle Millmine in St. Andrew's Catholic Church, Rochester. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John G. Lipka of Eastlawn Street, Avon Township, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barbe of South Anderson Street.

The bride chose a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over satin and short illusion veil. She held a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and roses while repeating vows to Rev. Thomas Sauter.

Marie Lipka, her sister's honor maid, was gowned in pink velvet and the bridesmaids Sharon Taylor, Karen and Geraldine McNeenley wore blue velvet.

They carried blue and pink chrysanthemums. Lorie Ann Crites and Keith Bruce were flower-girl and ring-bearer.

John Poet attended as best man. Guests were seated by Anthony Lauzon, Leonard Pickvet and Albert Rogers. The newlyweds will make their home in Pontiac after a brief northern honeymoon.

Chantilly Lace Gowns Sharon June Frisch

A reception in the Italian-American Club followed the recent vows of Sharon June Frisch to Gary Nelson Hull in the Community United Presbyterian Church.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Frisch of Paulsen Street, the bride appeared in a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over satin.

BOUFFANT VEIL

A bouffant illusion veil with forward headpiece of jeweled lace and a bouquet of white and red roses completed her ensemble.

Linda Lee Frisch attended her sister as maid of honor at the ceremony performed by Rev. W. J. Teeuwissen Jr. Ann Hull and Cynthia Craig were bridesmaids. Kimberly Garland was flower-girl.

Wayne Hull stood as best man for his brother. They are the sons of the Jack E. Hulls of Maceday Drive.

David Marcum, Joseph Morse and Michael Hull ushered and Michael Frisch carried the rings.

After a northern honeymoon the couple will reside on West Walton Boulevard.

More Graduates in Last Decade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The year's total enrollment of 42.8 million students in public elementary and secondary schools represents an increase of 43 per cent since 1954-55, the National Education Association reports.

"Even more noteworthy than the 43 per cent rise in enrollment is the fact that the number of high school graduates has increased 93 per cent over the decade," reported the association executive secretary, Dr. William G. Carr.

Lakosky-Young Rites Spoken at St. Michael's

St. Michael's Catholic Church was the setting for the recent marriage of Phyllis Sharon Young to Richard Jerome Lakosky of Manistique.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Jewell O. Young of West Pike Street and Everett F. Young of North Lynn Street, chose a gown and train of white chiffon velvet.

Her shoulder-length veil was fitted to a pearl-trimmed velvet circlet. Wedding bands entwined in velvet streamers accented the bridal bouquet of white roses.

Attending their sister were honor matron Mrs. Loren Wilcox of Milwaukee, and Gail Young, bridesmaid, who wore floor-length gowns of pink taffeta with red velvet bodices.

A single pink rose rested on their red velvet muffs. From Manistique were best man Terry Lee DesJardens also the ushers James and Kenneth Lakosky and Allen DesJardens.

A reception in the G. B. U. Hall followed the ceremony performed by Rev. Herbert Mansfield.

The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George O. Lakosky will honor the newlyweds at a home reception, Saturday, in Manistique.

Needlework Kit

Try Kitchen Sampler

This brand new kitchen sampler, especially designed for our readers, has a nostalgic old-fashioned charm that will delight everyone who makes it — or receives it as a gift.

Bread, the staff of life, is the main theme of the design with some of the implements that go into its making to add colorful interest.

The original verse has in it more than a touch of truth.

The stamped linen background is creamy white and the warm tawny tones in bread varieties are accented in soft Meissen blues touched with red.

The embroidery is very simple, mostly cross-stitch with a few accent stitches to make the rounded forms.

You will enjoy making this for your own kitchen or breakfast room, or for a special friend or relative.

When it is completed frame it in any frame that is about 14x18 inches. This is a standard size available almost anywhere.

Try painting the frame bright red or a soft Meissen blue to match the embroidery.

Kit 41A is priced at $2.00 each. To obtain it, fill out coupon below and send it with a $2.00 check or money order for each kit desired to Needlework Kit Service at address given.

Advices Young Actors to Get an Education

Top-Ranking Comic Holds Two Harvard Degrees

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Harvard isn't widely regarded as leading wellspring of American humor. Any chortles it gets are usually incidental to other purposes.

But one of its graduates has become America's second ranking film star at the box office, largely because of his ability to make the nation laugh. He is John Uhler Lemmon III, a son of Boston's Bay Bay and holder of two Harvard degrees — B.A. and B.S.

"Offhand, I don't know of any other Harvard men who are acting," said Jack, who will turn 40 next month. "Several have become producers, writers or directors — but I can't recall any who stuck to acting as a career."

"Many young actors think getting stage experience at the start is more important than getting an education. But I think they'll do better sitting in college than in a coldwater flat in Greenwich Village waiting for the phone to ring," he said.

NEED EDUCATION

"An education gives you a broad understanding of the world we live in, and the people we live with. That can only make you a better actor."

Jack has been stagestruck since childhood. At the age of 4 he appeared in something called "Gold in Them Thar Hills" with his father, a theater buff.

Up to his armpits now in gold as the result of a series of hit film comedies, Lemmon is somewhat bewildered by people who think success came to him overnight.

NOT JUST A COMIC

Bright, breezy, sensitive, and as energetic as an automatic yo-yo, Jack worries less about what he'll do with success than what success may do to him. He doesn't want to be regarded simply as a comic, but as an all-around actor.

"To be a star isn't my chief motivation. I was never so motivated. All I ever wanted was to be the best actor I could become," he said.

"A little bulb in the back of my head tells me that as long as that is my first worry, I'll be all right."

Jack feels that too many people, young and old, waste their lives trying to achieve "success" in everybody else's opinion rather than their own.

NOT AT 21

"At 21 you shouldn't be looking for security and status. You should be willing to starve for at least three years for a chance to do something you really want to do," he said.

"I remember what my father, who was in the baking industry, once told me: 'The day I don't find romance in a loaf of bread, then I'm going to quit.'"

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Harry A. Stuhldreher, quarterback of the fabled Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, died today in the West Penn Hospital.

Stuhldreher, 63, entered the hospital Dec. 29 and underwent major surgery on Jan. 14.

He died at 6:50 a.m. EST, the first of the Four Horsemen to pass away.

Known throughout the world as "Mr. Football," Stuhldreher was an assistant vice president-marketing for the U.S. Steel Corp.

He was born in Massillon, Ohio, and played football at Massillon High for three years, beginning in 1917. During the next two years he played at Kiski Prep near Saltsburg, Pa.

ENTERS NOTRE DAME.

Stuhldreher entered Notre Dame in 1922. There he met Elmer Layden, Don Miller and Jim Crowley, the other three members of the Four Horsemen.

Under coaching of the renowned Knute Rockne, the Four Horsemen gained unbelievable fame.

Combined with Notre Dame's formidable seven Mules, the Irish battered their opponents unmercifully during the 1922 and 1923 seasons.

In 1924 the team was declared the national champion after it had gone undefeated. It culminated the season with a 27-0 victory over Stanford in the Rose Bowl Jan. 1, 1925.

Stuhldreher, in addition to being named to everyone's All-American teams, was enshrined in the National Football Hall of Fame and the Helms Foundation Hall of Fame.

Following his graduation from Notre Dame, Stuhldreher became head football coach of Villanova University.

Stuhldreher ended an 11-year tenure with Villanova in 1936 and was named director of athletics and football coach at the University of Wisconsin. He resigned from Wisconsin in 1950 and joined U.S. Steel.

Texas Cow Girls Five

Coaching the All-Star team that will duel the girls are Duke Maas, former Detroit Tiger pitcher, and Barney Swinehart, former athletic director at Utica.

It Pays Better to Lose in NFL

NEW YORK (AP) — If you had to be a loser last year, you were better off losing as a member of the Baltimore Colts than as a New York Yankee.

The Colts and Yanks both lost in championship showdowns last season—Baltimore to Cleveland in the National Football League's title game and New York to St. Louis in baseball's World Series.

Figures released by the NFL Monday showed that each Colt got $5,571.40 for losing to Cleveland. That was $262.11 more than the $5,309.29 each Yankee got after losing the Series to St. Louis.

NFL President Pete Rozelle released the figures and mailed checks to the players Monday. The game, won by Cleveland 27-0, was played before 79,544 fans at Cleveland Stadium and grossed $2,484,384—the first football game ever to gross over $2 million.

Each winning share for the Browns was worth $8,052.82—comparable to the $8,622.19 taken down by each Cardinal after winning the World Series.

Winning and losing shares both eclipsed former NFL records. The old marks were set in Chicago's Wrigley Field in 1963 when 45,801 watched the Bears whip the New York Giants 14-10. Each winning Bear that year got $5,899.77 and each losing Giant $4,218.15.

Rozelle said the Browns had split their playoff pie into 50 full shares while the Colts voted 48 shares. The names of the individuals receiving full shares were not released.

Second and third place teams also shared in the player pool, which included about $500,000 from television rights. The player pool in baseball's World Series does not include any TV money.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who finished second to Cleveland in the Eastern Conference, got $1,020.40 each.

Old-Timers, Red Wings Tie

Ex-Lion Boss Now Aide at Same Pay

DETROIT (AP) — George Wilson's engagement by the Washington Redskins as a coaching aide may mean a savings of $20,000 or so for his former Detroit Lions bosses.

The Redskins' signing of Wilson, announced Monday in Washington, also reduced to three the number of job-hunting ex-Lion coaches whose Detroit relations were severed last Christmas time.

Wilson quit the Lions after all his five aides were fired in the big holiday shakeup that eventually resulted in ex-Alabamian Harry Gilmer's hiring as head coach.

NOT DISCLOSED

Wilson's salary as top offensive aide to Coach Bill McPeak at Washington was not disclosed.

The grapevine says it should be $20,000, or thereabouts. Wilson left the Lions on the reputed understanding the club would pay him off on the year's remainder of his $35,000 a year contract, minus the pay he would get on any coaching job he might land in the interim.

With fringes, Wilson made a reported $47,000 a year with the Lions.

McPeak indicated at Washington he was high on Wilson, the Detroit coach for seven years until his resignation in a huff over front office policy and after his five aides' firings.

Wilson is expected to have over-all direction of the Redskins offense.

Still available to openings are ex-Lion aides Bob Nussbaumer, Les Bingaman and Sonny Grandelius.

The other two, Aldo Forte and Don Doll, have landed jobs. New coach Gilmer hired Forte back to the Lions. Doll caught on with the Los Angeles Rams.

McPeak emphasized that Wilson was an addition to the coaching staff, not a replacement for either of the present offensive aides—line Coach Abe Gibrion and backfield Coach Ted Marchibroda.

As the Lions' coach, Wilson compiled a 56-45-6 record in eight seasons, winning the NFL championship in 1957—his first year at the helm.

Maple Swim Club AAU Meet Winner

Maple Swim Club of Birmingham scored an impressive 218 points in besting 10 other swim teams in the annual swimming meet at Seaholm last Saturday. Over 300 swimmers participated in age-group A.A.U. sanctioned events.

Five state records fell with Rick Phillips of the Maples setting a new Boys 10 and under 50-yd. freestyle time of 28.4 and a time of 2:43:1 in the 200-yd. individual medley.

Sue Smith of Bloomfield Hills set a new state standard of 1:06:7 in the women's open 100-yd. backstroke.

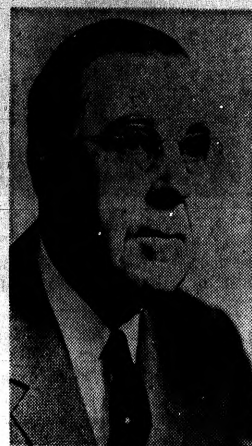

RESULTS AAU MEET

Mexico City Behind Schedule

Detroit Olympic Group Ready If . . .

FRED MATTHAEI

DETROIT (UPI)—Avery Brundage, President of the International Olympic Committee, received from Frederick C. Matthaei, chairman of the Detroit Olympic Committee, assurance that Detroit will help stage the 1968 Olympic Games if Mexico City defaults.

Olympic officials have been concerned over Mexico City's failure to build an Olympic Village complex as quickly as anticipated.

However, that's the lone primary building the Mexicans don't have, as stadiums are available.

Matthaei wrote Brundage:

"I want you to know that the Detroit Olympic Committee stands ready at this moment to support the International Olympic Committee in staging the 1968 Olympic Games."

"Many Detroit business and civic leaders today have told me of their desire to support you and the IOC in any way we can."

"If, as reported, you and the IOC are considering moving the games from Mexico, Detroit—longer in line than any city—is ready to handle the job."

Mexico City won the bid last year in the IOC meeting at Baden Baden, Germany. The site was selected over the Motor City, which had been trying to get the games for the past 32 years.

Soccer Stars Facing Lifetime Suspensions

NOTTINGHAM, England, (UPI)—Ten soccer players, including English international Peter Swan and Tony Kay, faced possible sentences of life suspension today for conspiring to defraud in league games.

Swan and Kay, who had pleaded innocent, were found guilty Monday after 50 minutes of deliberation by a jury. They had been charged with assuring a Sheffield Wednesday loss to Ipswich Town on Dec. 1, 1962, for which they were to receive $280.

ENTERS NATIONAL — Tim Wood of Bloomfield Hills will compete in the National Figure Skating Championships Feb. 10-13 at Lake Placid, N.Y. A junior at Bloomfield Hills High School, Tim won the National Junior Men's title in 1964. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Wood, 4833 Mayflower. Winners will qualify for the North American and World Championships.

Ex-West Pointer Speaks

Sympathizes With Air Force Cadets

DENVER (AP)—Ray Malavasi, assistant coach of the Denver Broncos of the American Football League, said Monday he sympathizes with cadets resigning from the Air Force Academy in a cheating investigation.

Malavasi was one of 90 cadets who left the U.S. Military Academy at West Point in a cribbing scandal in 1951. He was a first string guard on the Army football team the previous fall.

Malavasi said he was convinced there were a great many more honor code violators at West Point than the 90 who resigned—"maybe as high as 500."

"Many of the guys involved swore they were not and remained at the academy," he said. "So it's difficult to tell who really was wrong."

"It was so much easier for athletes to become involved," Malavasi said, "because we were all lumped together at the training table, rather than sitting with our own company."

"Some of the guys would take an exam one day, with the rest due to take it the next. It was natural they would talk about it."

TOLD TRUTH

"The reason so many football players (43 of the 90) resigned was because we told the truth."

The honor code at the Air Academy is very similar to that in effect at West Point for more than 100 years.

"This kind of thing was going on at West Point long before I got there and I'll bet it's still going on," Malavasi said in the Denver Post story.

"And I'll bet it's been going on at the Air Force since it started, too."

Malavasi never again played college football, he said. He obtained an engineering degree at Mississippi State and an ROTC Army commission. He now is a captain in the Army Reserve.

OLSM Quintet Hosts St. Fred; Saginaw Plays

Orchard Lake St. Mary can move to within one victory of tying for the Northwest Catholic League basketball championship by defeating St. Frederick tonight.

The Eaglets are heavily favored to decision the visiting Rams and are expected to down Waterford OLL Friday to wrap up a share of the title.

Farmington OLS is the only team with a chance to catch the Eaglets. The showdown will be Feb. 5 at Sorrow.

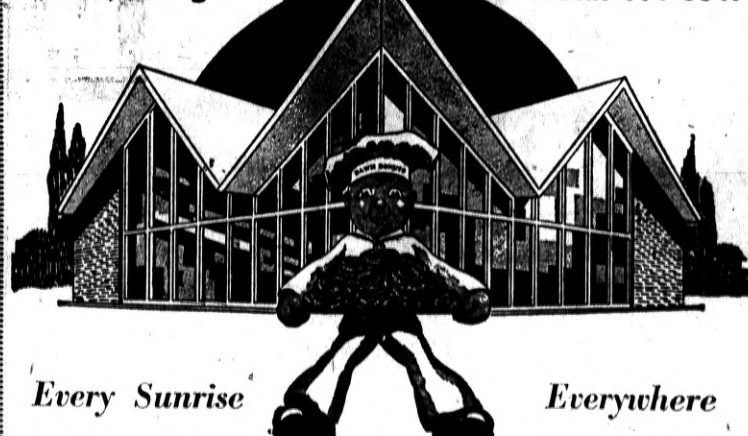

Plint Southwestern's trip to Saginaw High will be closely watched by Pontiac Central players and fans. A victory for Saginaw would tie the Trojans with PCH for the Valley lead. PCH is idle until Friday when the Chiefs play at Southwestern. Lansing Boys Training School invades the Emmanuel Christian gym.

Hazel Park Develops Indoor Training Area

Hazel Park (AP) — Some of Michigan's thoroughbred race horses will get a head start this season — and it's perfectly legal. A new $500,000 indoor training facility is being used for the first time this season at the Hazel Park Race Track here. The training area, believed to be the only one of its kind in the country, will let Michigan horses train indoors and get ready for the racing season several weeks earlier than usual.

The facility includes a 127-stall barn, an indoor 660-yard track, and a glass-enclosed restaurant and observation room facing the track. The new barn has 38 heated tack rooms on the second floor. "We tried our best to build the finest indoor facility of its kind, and we think we've got a good one," said Richard Connell, track president. "This certainly ought to lift the quality of racing here, especially in the early weeks of the season."

He added that horses usually need 60 to 90 days of pre-season preparation. This year's 144-day thoroughbred racing season opens April 26.

Ex-Ring Champions Backing Canadian

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — Barney Ross has joined Joe Louis in picking Canada's George Chuvalo over ex-heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in their Feb. 1 fight.

Ross, former welter and lightweight, king, watched Chuvalo's 12-round drill at a resort hotel Monday and predicted the Toronto puncher would stop Patterson within three rounds of the scheduled 12-rounder at Madison Square Garden. "Chuvalo has an excellent jab and is very strong," Ross said. "Best of all, he stalks his man." Louis, who attended the marathon workout, has picked Chuvalo to win by a knockout.

Fatten Golf Open Fund

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The executive committee of the Texas Open Golf Tournament has increased the prize money for the 1965 event from $40,000 to $50,000 in an effort to attract more of the nation's top golfers. This year's tournament will be held April 22-25 at the Oak Hills Country Club.

Star Fails to Pass

'Biology' Bugs Cager

By The Associated Press
North Carolina State's Press Maravich has to be the unhappiest winning basketball coach in the land today. And you can blame it on biology. State, unbeaten in 11 games since Maravich replaced ailing Everett Case as head coach early last month, has lost scoring leader Larry Lakin for the remainder of the season. Lakin, who was averaging 18.1 points per game, flunked a biology exam last week and was ruled ineligible Monday. The Wolfpack got by little Centenary College 79-62 Monday night at Raleigh, N.C., without Lakin.

Hull Lets Up on NHL Goalies

MONTREAL (AP) — Bobby Hull, after a blistering 3½ months, has let up on National Hockey League goalies. Chicago's Blond bombshell, who had 28 goals in 28 games, has scored only twice in the last two weeks. He continues to pace the NHL scorers with 37 goals and 26 assists in 43 games according to figures released by the league today.

Oakland Tankers Post 3rd Win; Krogsrud Stars

Oakland University's swimming team posted its third win in four tries with a 48-45 decision last weekend at Livonia's Schoolcraft college. Ex-Birmingham Groves tanker Rick Krogsrud was a triple winner for Oakland, including a 2:39.6 timing for a school and pool record in the 200-yard breaststroke.

This victory, coupled with teammate Pat Gignson's second-place finish clinched the meet verdict. Krogsrud also won the 200-yard individual medley and backstroke events.

Leon Mellen from Pontiac Central (butlerfly), Terry Koehler (50-yard freestyle) and the 400-yard medley relay team were other Oakland first place finishers.

Passer Passes Knee Surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Jets have good news today about their $400,000 investment. Joe Namath, the American Football League club's high-priced rookie quarterback, should be better than ever following a knee operation, Dr. James A. Nicholas said Monday.

Dr. Nicholas, the Jets' orthopedic consultant, removed torn cartilage from the Alabama passing star's right knee at Lenox Hill Hospital. He said Namath should be in excellent condition when the Jets begin training next summer. Namath will stay in the hospital for 10 to 14 days and rest for 8 to 12 weeks before starting a series of weight-lifting exercises to strengthen the knee.

River Rouge's claim as the state's top Class B high school team was a bit shaky, but the Panthers continued as the No. 1 team in this week's prep basketball poll of The Associated Press.

Benton Harbor continues as the kingpin in Class A by a wide margin, while Portland holds a commanding lead in Class C. Barryton leads in Class D by a single poll point over Negaunee St. Paul.

There was quite a shakeup below Benton Harbor in Class A following a week of play in which Ferndale dumped East Detroit in a battle of rated teams and Pontiac Central and Grand Rapids South each suffered setbacks.

Hamtramck took over second place with Lansing Sexton placing third and Detroit Northwestern fourth. Ferndale is solidly entrenched as the No. 5 team.

RUDY RANSOM
Ferris State Cage Star

Pontiac Cager Is Key Member of Ferris Team
BIG RAPIDS — Strong rebounding and accurate shooting has made Rudy Ransom of Pontiac a key player in the 1964-65 Ferris State College basketball attack. Now in his second year on the varsity, the 6-1 sophomore is averaging better than 15 points per contest, with a 29-point showing against Hillsdale his highest game so far this season.

After playing his freshman season at forward, Ransom has now been moved to the guard position to take advantage of his accurate outcourt jump shot which he shoots with either hand. Ransom still finds his way under the basket and is in the No. 2 slot in the rebounding standings. A sophomore in the school of commerce, Ransom is the son of Mrs. Esther Williams, 266 Earlmoor.

Set Driver's Service
TRINITY, N.C. (AP) — Funeral service for Larry Lee Thomas, one of the nation's top stock car racers, will be Wednesday afternoon at the Tabernacle Methodist Church in Randolph County. Thomas, 28, of Trinity, was killed Monday in a traffic accident near Tifton, Ga.

Passer Passes Knee Surgery
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Jets have good news today about their $400,000 investment. Joe Namath, the American Football League club's high-priced rookie quarterback, should be better than ever following a knee operation, Dr. James A. Nicholas said Monday.

Fatten Golf Open Fund
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The executive committee of the Texas Open Golf Tournament has increased the prize money for the 1965 event from $40,000 to $50,000 in an effort to attract more of the nation's top golfers. This year's tournament will be held April 22-25 at the Oak Hills Country Club.

Ex-Ring Champions Backing Canadian
MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — Barney Ross has joined Joe Louis in picking Canada's George Chuvalo over ex-heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in their Feb. 1 fight.

Oakland Tankers Post 3rd Win; Krogsrud Stars
Oakland University's swimming team posted its third win in four tries with a 48-45 decision last weekend at Livonia's Schoolcraft college. Ex-Birmingham Groves tanker Rick Krogsrud was a triple winner for Oakland, including a 2:39.6 timing for a school and pool record in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Hull Lets Up on NHL Goalies
MONTREAL (AP) — Bobby Hull, after a blistering 3½ months, has let up on National Hockey League goalies. Chicago's Blond bombshell, who had 28 goals in 28 games, has scored only twice in the last two weeks. He continues to pace the NHL scorers with 37 goals and 26 assists in 43 games according to figures released by the league today.

Star Fails to Pass
North Carolina State's Press Maravich has to be the unhappiest winning basketball coach in the land today. And you can blame it on biology. State, unbeaten in 11 games since Maravich replaced ailing Everett Case as head coach early last month, has lost scoring leader Larry Lakin for the remainder of the season.

Michigan plays MSU in tonight's action. The Wolverines figure to, down Michigan State tonight at East Lansing, home teams will hold only an 11-9 edge over visiting teams. With the race gaining momentum, the haves will pour it on the havenots regardless of the playing site.

After the Michigan-Michigan State battle, Big Ten teams will be idle until the weekend. Surprising Iowa engages top-ranked UCLA in part of a Chicago Stadium doubleheader Friday and Illinois takes on Notre Dame in another Stadium doubleheader Saturday.

Baptist Five Tallies 105
Lake Orion Baptist rolled past Elizabeth Lake Church of Christ, 105-34, led by Jerry Olsen's 36 points last night in YMCA Church Basketball men's division action. St. Luke's Methodist stayed a game behind runner-up Avondale Baptist by whipping Pontiac Business Institute, 59-29, as Ron Toles equalled the losers' game total. Gerry Spangler had 31 in Avondale's 85-52 romp against First Church of the Brethren.

WELL SHOD — Ruth Jensen of Seattle, second place money winner in women's professional golf last season, cleans some of her 20 pairs of golf shoes during a recent vacation.

The shoes are part of a wardrobe that includes 50 blouses, 20 sweaters, 40 pairs of shorts, 20 cocktail dresses and 20 pairs of slacks which she packs into her car for the golf tour.

Shoes, Life Raft, Surgery Needed During Golf Tour

SEATTLE (AP) — Twenty pairs of expensive golf shoes and life raft took up only a small corner in the stuffed trunk of Ruth Jensen's big white sedan when the girl who had her throat cut for career's sake came home for the holidays.

Fifty blouses, 20 sweaters, 30 to 40 pairs of shorts, 20 cocktail dresses, four fishing rods, 20 pairs of slacks, three dozen golf gloves, four sets of golf clubs.

"And that's only mine," the chic blonde bomber of the fairways said Monday. "Peggy has just as much."

Peggy is Peggy Wilson, whose dark eyes are mischief-twinkled and whose voice is pure Mississippi.

The two are feminine nomads of the golf links, so accustomed to long treks they thought nothing of a midwinter drive from Florida to Seattle to spend the holidays with Ruth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jensen.

LONG DRIVE

Once last summer they drove from the East Coast to Michigan, caught a plane west to take a golf lesson from professional Chuck Congdon at Tacoma, Wash., then went right back to a tourney in Illinois.

"We had to get our games back in the groove," Ruthie said.

The game of Miss Jensen, whose golfing trademark is an unorthodox, spraddle-legged putting stance, was sufficiently in the groove to win five tournaments in 1964 and earn $23,431 in prize money.

This was second only to the $29,800 won by Mickey Wright, reigning queen of the Ladies Professional Golf Association.

It was the biggest year for Ruth since she turned pro in 1956, a blonde teen-ager who took to the tourney trail with stars in her brown eyes.

"I was fascinated by the glamour and excitement," she said. "I had to learn there was another side to it — hard work."

"In my first season or two I was dating all the time and dodging practice. Romance is possible on the tour but it isn't compatible with winning golf."

"The glamour still is there and I love every minute of it. I've been too busy to think much about the after-golf future. There are openings for club pros and business opportunities in allied industries. I have invested a bit in real estate. Peggy has a college degree and can retire to teaching."

"THROAT SLIT"
Success really began for Ruthie Jensen after — as she puts it — "I had my throat cut in 1963." A neck ailment was making each round of golf pure torture.

"The surgeon said he would have refused to operate had I been a housewife. But for me it was a choice between taking the risk or giving up golf."

Only a thin, nearly-vanished line shows where the knife opened Ruth's throat. The surgeon, going in from the front, removed a disc from the vertebrae and replaced it with a plug of live bone from Ruthie's hip.

The two-girl life raft and the fishing rods are considered a vital part of the baggage. When Ruth and Peggy see a likely stream or pond they stop the car, inflate the raft and test the water for trout or bass.

Township Rec Leader Wins; City Five Loses

Lakeland Pharmacy remained unbeaten in Waterford Township men's recreation basketball and Lloyd Motors lost its first in city action to highlight Monday's activity.

Lakeland topped Zilka Heating, 81-74; Lyons-Heaton ripped winless Dunstan's Floral, 94-39; and Ryeson's Market tasted its initial win by upsetting Gancia-Cote, 70-50, in township play.

In city recreation results, K. D. Television won its first, 74-68, over the Students, and West Bloomfield Heating upended Lloyd, 72-57.

In junior action New Hope Baptist whipped Auburn Heights Boys Club Hawks, 102-56, and the AH Boys Club Buzzards beat The Tams, 53-43.

Lakeland equalled its first half production with 27 third-quarter points to overcome Zilka, Bill Waun put in 14 of his 36 points during the rally. Paul Moran hit 22 and Bob Tuck 20 for the losers.

BALANCE

Tom Courtingly (34), Ray Heaton (20), Rod Lyons (17) and Tom Nieger (14) accounted for 85 of the 94 points for Lyons-Heaton.

Harry Savas and Gus Panteles both had 18 to pace Ryeson's first victory. Gancia-Cote lost its first despite Bob Smith's 25 points.

Defending city champion West Bloomfield Heating jumped to a 26-13 first-quarter lead against previously unbeaten Lloyd Motors. The well-balanced winner's attack offset the 22- and 19-point efforts of Bob Finley and Clarence Douglas for the losers.

K.D.'s initial triumph was paced by Walter Moore who had 12 of his 20 in the final quarter when the TV team clinched the close victory.

The Students had four players in twin figures led by Bob Quick's 14.

Pontiac Central, West Bloomfield Skiers Triumph

Pontiac Central and West Bloomfield swept the boys and girls team and individual race honors, respectively, yesterday in High School Ski competition at Mt. Holly.

Central's Dick Gorman and Jack Stragea finished one-two in the boys' two runs with combined times of 47.4 and 50.5.

Tom Carter's third-place finish led West Bloomfield to the team runner-up slot. Ron Edwards of Waterford Township paced the Skippers to third place by edging Southfield's Dave Brackett for sixth.

Kathy Stanker made her two runs in 47.4 to pace all the girls and lead the Lakers to first place. Township's Debbie McNair and Carolyn Rudloff came in two-three as the Skippers finished second.

Southfield's first finisher was Beverly Cobb who was sixth. PCH does not have a girls' team.

HAL OF FAME BOWLING TIPS

By JOE NORRIS
Written for NEA

Ned Day was a household word in bowling long before bowling became a common word in the household. He was voted into the Hall of Fame in 1952 to the surprise of absolutely no one.

In his prime, which spanned at least 20 years, Ned came as close to a "picture" bowler as we ever may see. His effortless style made him the logical choice as the "star" of several bowling movie short subjects and as the author of some of the best of the sport's instruction material.

He didn't attack the game; he approached and mastered it for what it is, a sport calling for smooth, flowing body motion. He practiced what he preached, that the co-ordination of unhurried footwork and arm-swing is the best guarantee for maximum scoring. And his emphasis was on practice.

Uncertain Golf Pro Qualifying Leader

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Texan who hasn't decided yet whether he'll remain in the play-for-pay golf ranks led the qualifying Monday for the San Francisco International Golf Tournament opening Wednesday.

Don Massengale of Jacksboro, Tex., turned in a 69 and became low man of 208 pros who competed on two courses for 41 openings on the tourney entry list.

Massengale is in the fifth year of a five-year make-good-or-else schedule he set for himself when he first turned pro.

Not Type to Die in Bed at 90

Churchill Death Is Contrast to His Life

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill dying in bed of old age!

Who would have believed that?

Not the doctor who delivered him when he was born prematurely in 1874.

Not the Indian and Afghan tribesmen who tried to kill him in 1897.

Not the dervishes who nearly cut him down — before he shot them down — in 1898.

Not the South African Boers who wanted to execute him in 1899.

Not the instructor who saw him crash a biplane on a solo flight in 1919.

Not the assassins who trailed him in Britain and the United States in the 1920s and 1930s.

Not the cab driver into whose taxi he disastrously jaywalked in New York City in 1931.

Not the officials who begged him to take shelter during the wartime air raids on London.

Bed was the most improbable place for the end of the great adventure story that was Churchill's life. It was not the final battleground he would have himself chosen.

He envied men who died in action — more and more as the years took away his hearing, his mobility, his vast enjoyment of the sheer act of living.

Though he wept when he heard of the death of his friend President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in 1945, he said:

"He died in harness and we may well say battle harness. What an enviable death was his!"

NO TRUMPETS

There were no trumpets blaring, no clash of sabres in Hyde Park Gate as life ebbed from the last survivor of the last classic cavalry charge in military history — the charge of the 21st Lancers in the Sudanese campaign of 1898.

Omdurman! The place is like a roll of drums in history. Now all of that gallant band of officers are gone. Churchill was the last.

Longevity was the ultimate boon conferred on Sir Winston by what must have been the hardest working guardian angel in the business — considering the chance he took in war and the perils he survived in peace — including the 14 major illnesses (starting at the age of seven) that might have killed lesser men long before 90.

But long life was a boon Sir Winston did not particularly want. Nearly five years ago as he found it difficult to hear even with a hearing aid, as he tottered even on a cane he suddenly tired of being a semi-invalid. He refused to leave his bed — often a fatal act with very old people.

An elaborate plot was laid then to trick him into regaining some of his zest.

Lady Clementine, his beloved wife since 1908, led the plotters who included the Greek shipping magnate, Aristotle Onassis. The first idea was to get Sir Winston interested in a cruise on the Onassis yacht.

It worked, but several times thereafter Lady Clementine had to marshal his old cronies, such as Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, connive with the chef, cajole and caress her husband out of the dark moods into which he fell when he brooded upon his infirmities.

The friends brought him news and played cards with him — on those days when he was able. For there were during his last years what his family preferred to call "good" days and "bad" days. The chef concocted delicacies for him.

Lady Clementine carrying her own 79 years strongly and bravely, thought of all sorts of stratagems to keep him interested — a constant strain that told on her own health.

Sometimes Churchill's old spirit would flash — to the delight of his devoted family. On one occasion Montgomery tried to get Sir Winston to sign the paintings he had given him. The louder he shouted the deader the old statesman pookishly pretended to be.

As the only "royal academician extraordinary" — a unique distinction he cherished, though not as much as his honorary citizenship of the United States — Sir Winston's paintings are of gifted quality and because of his name worth perhaps $10,000 each today. In time collectors may deem them of even more value.

Yet he never drew a line until he was fooling around with his children's paint box when he was ousted from the admiralty at the age of 40 in 1915 after the costly First World War Dardanelles failure. He actually thought at the time that his political career was finished — not the least of his mistakes.

To journalists he was not an easy man to cover. Once when he was asked for an interview he retorted: "Young man, I make my living writing. Why should I give it away?"

True enough. From the age of 21 onward he had to earn his own living. Parliament paid no salary in those earlier days.

When he laid down his pen more than 60 years later Sir Winston through his books, television and film sales had earned more money than any writer in history.

He did not, however, die a rich man. He set up trust funds for his children and grandchildren with most of his estate. There were times in recent years when his own exchequer was worryingly low since he ran his country and town houses on luxurious lines and believed in pampering himself — he always had his favorite chocolates, to say nothing of his famous cigars, flown or shipped to him.

RELIEVED

His financial advisers were considerably relieved when Churchill sold the film rights of his first autobiography, "My Early Life," and recordings of his wartime speeches, in 1964.

"My Early Life" is planned as a film epic. Producer Carl Foreman, one of the last people to discuss business with Sir Winston, said one of the statesman's few conditions was that his role be played by a British actor.

Wistfully, the old man expressed the wish to live long enough to see the film.

Even though Sir Winston was less than approachable to reporters there was always a certain fascination in being near an immortal, and those of us who covered him occasionally picked up nuggets from friends or members of the household. These helped fill out the picture.

As his favorite author, Shakespeare, said:

"He was a man, take him all in all
"I shall not look upon his like again."

(Tomorrow: Not Afraid to Die.)

We solve problems like these faster than anyone around.

(Naturally. We're just a few minutes away.)

Your husband has taken the car out of town. Now you can have a car of your own. Just drop in and see us. We're just a few minutes away, and we have brand-new Fords for rent!

Your car is laid up and you have calls to make. Just ring us up. We can have a brand-new '65 Ford ready for pickup in practically no time. And you can charge it, if you like!

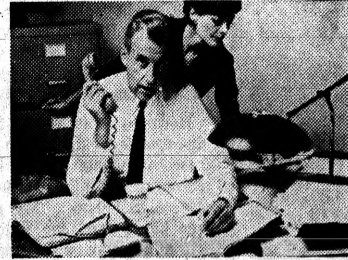

You have a wagonload but no wagon. No problem at all. Just come in and rent a brand-new '65 Ford wagon from us. You'll have plenty of room for the whole team. And insurance is included!

You're stuck in a motel and you need a car for sales calls. Just give us a call. We'll have just the car you want. Take your choice of brand-new Ford convertibles, hardtops, sedans, whatever you like.

You have three drivers but only two cars. Rent that extra driver a new Ford — from us. He'll have a factory-fresh car in top condition, serviced by the men who know Fords best.

Your business picks up and you're fresh out of cars. Just come in for a few extra Falcons, Fairlanes, Fords, Mustangs or Thunderbirds — for an hour, a day, a week, or as long as you need them.

Sea-to-Sky 'Talk' to Aid Weather Forecast

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer
NEW YORK—To speed up better predictions, the U.S. Weather Bureau is suggesting a new kind of conversation between the oceans and outer space.

Special weather buoys — perhaps 300 of them — would be anchored at sea to collect vital information. Automatically, they would broadcast their findings to one of three communications satellites "hanging" in the sky.

quickly relay the reports back to weather forecasters on earth.

This system could greatly help overcome a serious gap in weather forecasting, Dr. J. Gordon Vaeth told the American Meteorological Society today. He is manager of the Systems Engineering Division of the Weather Bureau's national weather satellite system.

LACK OF DATA

The gap is lack of quick basic weather data from ocean areas, which cover about 70 per cent of the globe, Vaeth described a plan for a network of disc-shaped buoys, seven feet across, each anchored in water up to two miles deep. They would automatically record information on air and water temperatures, wind direction and speed, even perhaps the height of waves.

These are facts which figure in tomorrow's or later weather on land or sea. This information would be radioed, on command, and within 15 seconds time by each buoy, to a satellite that seems to hang in the sky.

equipment on such a satellite could "talk" to 100 weather buoys beneath it, and relay the findings to ground stations in any or all of cooperating countries within its range, Vaeth explained.

This system, he said, would be superior to having satellites rapidly circling the earth, and collecting information from ground or sea transmitters, but then reporting back to some single ground station only once every hour and a half.

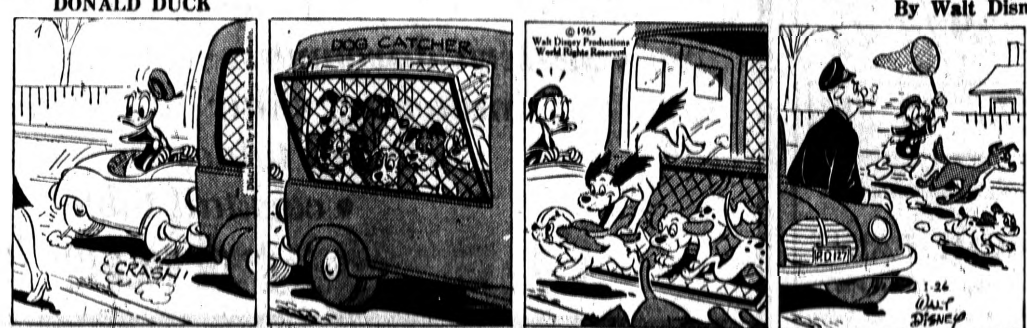

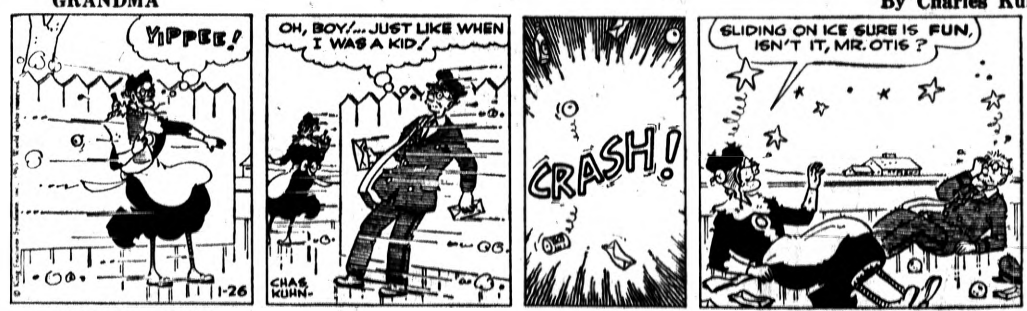

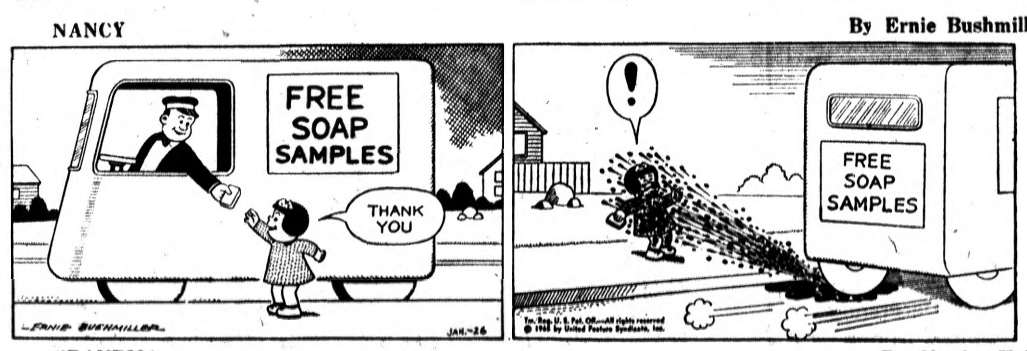

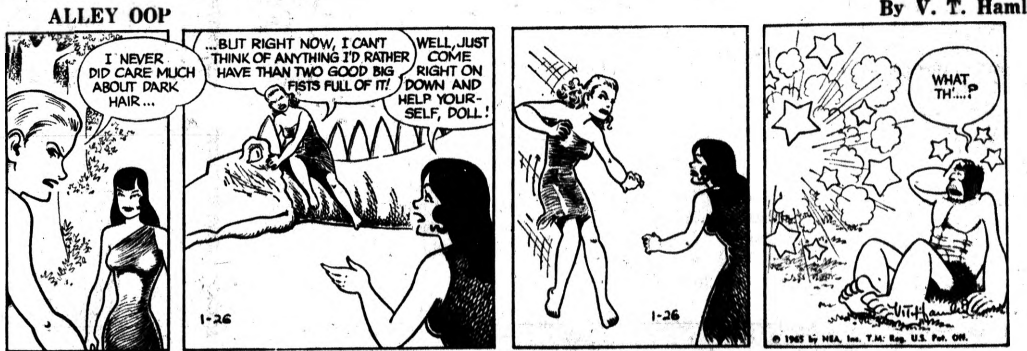

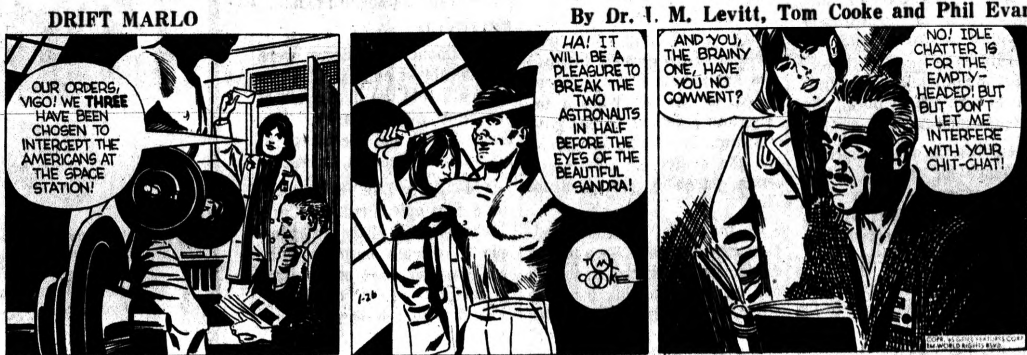

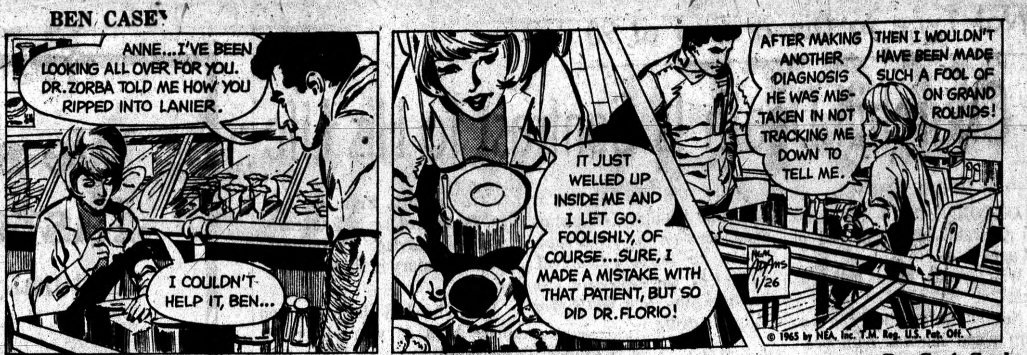

Vaeth said the Hughes Aircraft Co., cooperating with the Weather Bureau, has shown that weather reports can be transmitted this way. Last Nov. 16, the company sent a local weather report from Malibu Beach, Calif., up to Syncom 3 and received it back with no error.

A ground receiving station — under each satellite — could be as inexpensive as $15,000, Vaeth said. The buoys, on which industries are being asked on Thursday to suggest designs, could cost under $10,000 each, he added. The suggested design calls for a whiplike antenna as cheap as $13.95, Vaeth said.

The communications satellite Syncom 3 — which relayed television pictures of Olympic games in Tokyo to the United States — is a "stationary" satellite.

Orbiting the earth at a height of 22,300 miles, it travels at such a speed that it always seems to be at the same point in the sky, over the International Dateline. From that height, the radio or television or Teletype signals it receives can be rebroadcast to an area covering about one-third of the globe. Thus, three such satellites can cover the entire earth.

Here is a hand from the 1965 world championship trials that is a cinch to bid to a spade grand slam on any bidding system, provided you can see all the cards as a bit of help.

Lacking help, not one of the nine North-South pairs got to seven and only four reached six.

We were one of the unfortunate pairs who lost seven International Match Points when our opponents reached six spades.

The bidding in the box shows how our opponents got to six spades and it seems to me that they should have reached seven if only South had carried through after a fine start.

North opened the bidding and gave a jump raise in spades. Later, when South had cue bid diamonds, North gave a cue bid right back in hearts.

Then South bid a Blackwood four no-trump and North

Q—The bidding has been:

What do you do?
A—Double. Your partner does not have to leave this double in unless he has something in hearts. If he does leave it, you should collect a satisfactory penalty.

TODAY'S QUESTION

OUT OUR WAY

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR

For Wednesday
"The wise man controls his destiny. Astrology points the way."

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): May be necessary to check with expert. Includes one who is aware of your finances — also one aware of physical condition. Remember: you can't be everywhere at once.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Creative endeavors most likely to succeed. Today see project as a whole. Leave details to others. Perceive what people are thinking, feeling. Utilize natural intuition.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20): Those around you apt to be nervous, jumpy. Hammering away at specific theme causes irritation. Practice tact, diplomacy. Applies especially in dealing with mate or partner.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22): Key is being strong within. Good time to spend some time alone... gain much from introspection! Adhere to principles. Disregard threats. You are due to win new friends.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22): Stress CLEAR THINKING. No time to gamble or be extravagant. Key to maturity. Concentrate on developing talents. Relax in quiet manner with persons you admire.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Fine for completing tasks. Not so good for initiating action. Avoid the flimsy. Key is building solid foundation. Highlight quality, good taste. Then you succeed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Take direct approach. No time for beating around the bush. Say what you mean. There are destructive forces around you. You scatter them through adherence to truth.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Judgment correct. What you felt was right proves to be so. Have confidence. Be wary of money proposal by friends. Much wishful thinking, daydreaming prevails.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Be aware of current situation. Applies to standing in community, career. Watch personal appearance. Be ready to speak for personal cause. Stand tall!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Behind-scenes activity captures your attention. Check with sources at distance or correspond. Find out what's REALLY happening. Don't neglect details.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Friend or relative creates surprise. Could be in form of visit or request. Be courteous. But do not commit yourself. Permit COMMON SENSE to hold reins.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Don't depend on reports or rumors. You must do your own checking. Otherwise, there are repercussions. Be especially aware of fine print in leases, other documents.

IF WEDNESDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: you are much admired, capable of extending sympathy to understanding. Would make fine doctor, attorney, director of humanitarian project.

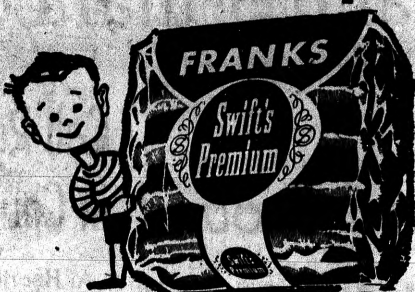

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Announcement indicated that contains worldwide significance in field of HEALTH.

Despite Scattered Losses

Mart Higher in Record Ground

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market churned ahead early this afternoon, inching further into record high ground despite scattered losses. Trading was active.

Gains and losses of leading issues ranged generally from fractions to about a point.

The market's latest invasion of historic levels was meeting some heavy resistance but the list continued to move ahead on balance.

While some blue chip chemicals faded, coppers gathered more strength.

MOTORS ADVANCE

All Big Three motors advanced. Some steels made moderate gains.

Airlines continued lower on balance. Aerospace issues recovered partially from recent selling and showed a mixed pattern.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .2 at 334.6 with industrials up .9, rails off .1 and utilities off .3.

ON AMERICAN

Prices were generally higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Rollins Broadcasting recovered about 2. Up a point or so were National Video "A" and Dennison.

Corporate bonds were mixed in light trading. U.S. Government bonds declined.

Call Romney in Court Case

At Hearing on Sanity of Office Intruder

MASON (AP) — With budget deadlines bearing down on him, Gov. George Romney left Lansing yesterday to testify in the case of Charles P. English, the man who barged into his office last May 1.

Three psychiatrists and three state police troopers were to testify today.

English was sent to the Kalamazoo State Hospital as mentally ill on the advice of two court-appointed psychiatrists after he tried to enter Romney's office with a gun in an attack case and a pocket knife on his person.

English was seized by State Police Trooper Jay Kennedy, who spent the entire day yesterday in the Ingham County Circuit Court hearing requested by English.

English, formerly of Miami, Fla., and Bogota, Colombia, had asked Romney in a letter to appear voluntarily at the hearing — which will end in a jury determination as to whether English should be freed or remain in the hospital.

ROMNEY SUBPENAED

The governor also was subpoenaed to appear at the hearing.

English, acting as his own counsel, objected that Leo Farhat, a special assistant prosecutor assigned to the case, had questioned Romney first.

He asked that Romney either come back today or wait until he presented his entire defense — a period of several hours.

It would be impossible, said Romney. He had canceled one appointment and an aide had called budget advisers to warn them he might be late for another.

Romney repeated what he had said earlier — that he was convinced English did not intend to harm him. English said earlier that he wanted to talk Romney into running on the Republican presidential slate with former Vice President Richard Nixon.

"I want to see the most just decision possible here," Romney said, "but I would like to testify for both sides at this time."

English was talked into giving a brief version of his testimony at that time — reserving the right to present the rest later — followed by Romney's testimony, which basically listed the chronological sequence of events.

Office Complex to Be Built in Bloomfield Twp.

A grouping of business offices is planned for construction on the south side of West Long Lake Road, just west of Telegraph in Bloomfield Township.

Designed by Begrow & Brown, architects, and developed by W. R. Walsh, the proposed offices are to be known as "Devon Village."

They will be on three levels clustered around a landscaped courtyard. The development will have 26,000 square feet of office space with two lobbies and parking space for 111 cars.

The building will be erected on the former site of the Red Barn Antique Shop which was destroyed by fire last summer.

News in Brief

Mrs. Clifford Jones, 5495 Williams Lake, Waterford Township, told police yesterday that bowling equipment valued at $74 was stolen from her car in the parking lot of Airway Lanes, 4825 M59, Waterford Township.

Thieves broke into the City Sign Co. Inc. during the weekend and stole tools valued at $415.

2 Budget Proposals

Businesses May Gain

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — New or increased spending and further tax cut proposals are the two items in President Johnson's budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 that affect businesses directly — and in the pocketbook. On both scores many businesses stand to gain.

The budget calls for $2.2 billion more spending than in the current fiscal year, and for a cut of $1.75 billion in excise taxes. Some businesses also hope for further income tax cuts later in the year.

Businessmen scanning the spending part of the budget — with a total of $99.7 billion — note increases for space research and technology, for new conservation and resource development, for federal aid to housing and community development, for education, and for health, labor and welfare.

The decreases are in defense, agriculture, commerce and transportation, and veterans benefits and services.

These spending cuts will hurt some individuals and communities, and play hob with some companies.

The more than offsetting rise in spending in other lines will offer opportunities for increased production for many existing companies, and even for the starting of some new business concerns.

And the costs, and the taxes, whether up or down, will affect almost everyone.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q "Can you please explain why American Telephone has been so static since the split last July? As this is a top notch stock I presume it will even off, but I notice that you do not suggest purchasing at present." M. G.

A) After the split, the public rushed in rather frenziedly to pick up the stock, with a million shares a day being traded. A rather unusual phenomenon. Well aware of this, the institutions (which are a major force in this market) disposed of some stock, considering it overvalued on a 2.70 per cent basis. When public buying became relatively exhausted, the shares settled back and probably will do so.

A) Dreyfus runs an excellent fund, but I believe strongly that anyone like yourself — operating in a fiduciary capacity — should not pay a mutual fund to shoulder his burden.

Instead I would buy in the Monthly Investment Plan strong growth stocks, like Jersey Standard and Procter Gamble and expect the economy 10 years hence to strongly enhance my capital.

Pontiac Tops in Acceleration

Pontiac took first and second best times in its class yesterday as the Pure Oil performance trials tested 59 passenger and sports compact cars for acceleration at Daytona Beach, Fla.

The cars were timed as they accelerated from 25 to 70 miles per hour in tests to measure a car's reserve power to emergency situations.

In taking the two top honors in Class 3 for medium V-8's, two Grand Prix models were clocked at 7.60 and 7.88 seconds.

Over the weekend, Pontiacs and Buicks dominated the field in the economy phase of the five day event.

Yesterday, Oldsmobile swept three of four V-8 classes. It also turned in the second best times in the three events it won.

Ford and Buick topped two other passenger car classes and a Comet Cyclone was first among sports compacts.

Philip Townley, pastor of First Methodist Church, Warren, will be the featured speaker at the Waterford Schools Employees Federal Credit Union dinner at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Community Activities Inc. building.

Some 500 persons, all employees of the Waterford school system, are expected to attend the annual dinner meeting.

M. Barrett Vorce, assistant superintendent of schools, will serve as master of ceremonies. Mrs. Iva O'Dell, credit union treasurer, will present the financial report.

Entertainment will be provided by the McDowell Chorus.

Ruhmann has been with the bank since 1961. He is currently president of the Lapeer Chamber of Commerce.

Edward I. Nicholas, 6860 White Pine, has been named manager of dealer representation and business management for Chrysler Corp.

Nicholas joined Chrysler in 1962 as assistant manager of dealer representation, the post he held until his present appointment.

STORM CENTER — This complex of heavy equipment used at the Pine Knob ski resort to make artificial snow has become the focal point in a lawsuit brought against the Independence Township sports center. A neighbor started the legal action last week, claiming that the machinery was a nuisance because it creates noise and vibration.

Court Delays
on Ski Resort

A Circuit Court hearing at which the Pine Knob ski resort must show why its snow making equipment should not be shut down was adjourned yesterday for two weeks.

The postponement was called to give Judge Arthur E. Moore, who is hearing the case, an opportunity to visit the Independence Township ski resort and then determine if there is cause for action.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Kluesner, who live across the road from the resort at 7350 Pine Knob, filed a suit against the resort last Tuesday claiming that the artificial snow equipment was a nuisance.

The couple say that the noise and vibration from the equipment makes it impossible for them to sleep, entertain or carry on other normal functions of home life.

They are seeking a temporary order restraining the resort from operating the equipment pending the outcome of the trial.

Plat Gets OK in Waterford*62-Lot Lake Oakland Shores Subdivision

The Waterford Township Board last night passed final approval on the 62-lot Lake Oakland Shores subdivision plat.

Located between Aquarina and Dill, the proposed development will have six lots fronting on Lake Oakland.

In other action the board opened seven bids for a station wagon for the township fire chief and referred the bids to the chief and clerk for review and a report next Monday.

Low bid of $2,300.55 was submitted by John McAuliffe Ford Inc. Bids ranged to a high of $2,758.71.

A first notice of proposed transfer of a beer and wine license was read. Action on the transfer will be taken next week.

PROPOSES TRANSFER

The notice proposes transfer of the SDM licensed business at 3714 Elizabeth Lake, owned by the Allen A. Olson estate to Perry Pharmacy.

In other action the board gave preliminary approval to the 21-lot plat of the proposed White Horse Lake Estates development located at M59 and Shar-on.

It also approved splitting Lot 6 of Supervisor's Plat 12 into four parcels. The lot is located on South Williams Lake north of Cooley Lake Road.

Retired Admiral Dies

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Retired Vice Adm. Sherwoode A. Taffinder, 80, a veteran of both world wars and former staff member of the Newport Naval War College, died Monday. He was born in Council Bluffs, Iowa, and graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1906.

Commission Will Receive Bids in Sale of Tax Notes

A tabulation of bids for the sale of $1.75 million in tax anticipation notes will be presented tonight to the Pontiac City Commission.

The city seeks to borrow monies to finance operating expenses for the first half of the 1965 fiscal year.

The borrowing is necessary because property tax receipts are not received until after mid-year.

In other business tonight, City Manager Joseph A. Warren is slated to report on the city's participation in a new State Youth Work-Training program.

L. CLARE UTLEY

for City Firm Owner

Service for L. Clare Utley, owner and president of National Industrial Supply Co. of Pontiac, will be at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at Sparks-Griffin Chapel.

Burial will follow in Bristol Cemetery, Flint.

Mr. Utley, 57, of 261 Ottawa died Saturday after a brief illness.

Brief Walkout at Fisher Body

A brief work stoppage occurred yesterday in the paint department of the Pontiac Fisher Body Plant when workers on the day shift walked out at noon in a dispute over wash-up and relief time.

Workers on the night shift reported for work and production was resumed with only a short interruption, according to A. V. Conner, director of industrial relations for the Pontiac Fisher Body Plant.

He said only one of the lines was closed down during the work stoppage.

Donald H. Johnson, president of the Local 596 UAW-CIO, said the matter had been referred to the International UAW-CIO two weeks ago and is now under negotiation at the national level.

Both Conner and Johnson agreed that it was an "unauthorized work stoppage."

2nd Fire in Week
Razes Home in Bloomfield Twp.

The D. L. Touhy home in Bloomfield Township, hit by an $80,000 fire a week ago, was destroyed by another blaze early this morning.

Bloomfield Township firemen said the blaze apparently was ignited by a portable heater being used to dry out the house at 1462 Inwoods.

By the time they were summoned to the scene, the fire was beyond control, they said.

Total damage to the home was not estimated immediately. The fire of undetermined origin last week gutted the central portion of the building.

The Touhys had moved from their home on Lower Long Lake while repairs were being made.

College in Oklahoma to Teach Cherokee

TAHLEQUAH, Okla. (AP) — A new language will be added to those now taught at Northeastern State College.

Authorization to teach the Cherokee Indian language on a noncredit basis was granted Monday by state regents for higher education. The regents' administrative assistant, T. G. Seton, said he knows of no other college that offers instruction in an Indian language.

$300,000 for Singing Trio

'Lettermen' Striking It Rich During College Tour

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD—There is gold on those college campuses. If you don't believe it, ask The Lettermen, who matriculated to the tune of $300,000 on the higher-learning circuit last year.

The Capitol Records singing group is composed of Tony Butala, Jim Pike and Bog Engemann, three full-voiced young men who never earned a college letter. They stayed in college only two years apiece, but they do own high school letters in baseball and basketball to lay legitimate claim to their billing.

The trio is now going to college on a steady basis, but they will earn their degrees only at the bank. For a greater part of the school year they travel from school to school, performing their 2½-hour show, to capacity audiences. The returns can be gratifying. Their record so far is a one-night stand before 11,000 at the University of Florida. The boys' take-home pay: $7,000.

Telegram Gives Cole Comfort

Singer Convalesces After Lung Removed

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Nat (King) Cole took comfort today in a well-worn telegram as he convalesced from an operation for removal of his left lung.

The hospital said surgery was necessitated by a malignancy.

The telegram was from actor John Wayne, who underwent surgery a few months ago for removal of a cancerous tumor from a lung.

Wayne's message read: "I licked it. So can you."

REMOVED LUNG

Surgeons removed Cole's lung Monday at St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica.

Cole's wife, Maria, said Wayne's telegram has encouraged her husband more than almost any of the thousands he has received since entering the hospital Dec. 9.

Doctors reported Cole's condition was satisfactory. But they would not speculate on when he would be able to leave the hospital, nor on the operation's effect on Cole's singing career.

Cole, 45, first hinted he was ill when he cut short a Las Vegas, Nev., night club engagement last November.

MORE APPARENT

The gravity of his ailment became more apparent when the singer canceled his appearance to star in the first popular music performance at the new Los Angeles Music Center Dec. 11.

Doctors at first merely said he was suffering from a respiratory ailment. Later, they said he was being given cobalt treatments — bombardment of his lung with powerful rays to stop the tumor's growth.

It was then the telegram came from Wayne, who at that time had not publicly revealed his own bout with cancer.

A few weeks later, Wayne disclosed to the public: "I licked the big C."

Jeanette MacDonald Is Placed in Crypt

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The body of singer Jeanette MacDonald now lies in a crypt at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in suburban Glendale.

A small group of family and intimate friends attended her final funeral service Monday.

Ex-GOP Governor of Maine Dies at 67

BATH, Maine (AP) — Sumner Sewall, 67, Republican governor of Maine from 1941 to 1945 and a pioneer in commercial aviation, died Monday. Later Sewall served as president of American Overseas Airlines and for a year as military governor of Wuertemberg-Baden, Germany.

night," explained Tony, blond spokesman for The Lettermen, "and we can play five or six nights a week. Most of the other acts that play colleges fly to their dates, but we go by our own bus. Thus we can plan our tours to take in all the colleges in an area, big or small."

The Lettermen, church goes all, say never on Sunday in their tour planning, even though there is a trend for colleges to plan entertainments on Sunday. That is the trio's day of rest.

If colleges are such a lush field, why don't more entertainers play them?
"Because you need to have a special appeal," Tony explained. "College kids will pay to see entertainers with whom they can identify. They aren't interested in a Sammy Davis Jr., great as he is."

WALKED OUT
"Rock 'n' roll performers can't make the grade because they can't put on an entertaining show. One of the singing groups had a couple of hit records and decided to pick up some quick money playing colleges. It was pitiful — students walked out after a couple of numbers."

"We have actually gone against the trend, which has been to folk music. But I think folk is on the wane now."

The Lettermen musical diet ranges from close-harmony songs to folk satires to Beatle imitations.

BUY RECORDS

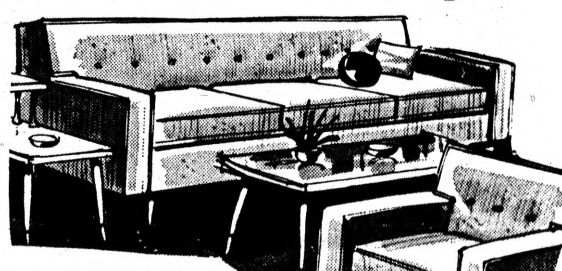

"Plus which, the people we meet will be buying our record albums. And they may be inviting us back to play their college again. Nothing wrong with that."

The first vacation Bible school for youngsters was opened in 1901 in New York City by Dr. Robert Boville of the Baptist City Mission.

U.S. Officer Recalls WW II Death March on 20th Anniversary

(EDITOR'S NOTE—20 years ago today, Nazi soldiers were pushing 1,800 American and British prisoners along a 100-mile forced march in a blizzard from Poland to Germany. Starved and in rags, only 1,100 survived. Here is how one American officer remembers the "Sagan death march.")

By JOHN D. MCCLAIN

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A blizzard swept through Upper Silesia in what was Poland 20 years ago this week as 1,800 American and British airmen began the "Sagan death march."

Starved and in rags, their breath steaming from their nostrils in minus 20-degree temperature, 1,200 of them reached an abandoned railroad 100 miles northwest of Stalag Luft 3 — Air Camp No. 3 — in Sagan.

Another 100 men died before they were liberated April 29, 1945. One of the survivors was Emanuel Cassimatis, 49, now a lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Air Force Reserve and owner of a restaurant in St. Louis.

"It was 3 a.m. when the Nazis marched us outside our shacks," he recalled. "We grabbed any clothing we could find, but most of us were dressed in rags. I was wearing a tattered French army coat, its lining stuffed with straw and paper."

MARCH BEGAN

Lt. Cassimatis was a navigator when he was shot down Sept. 6, 1943, over Stuttgart, Germany, on his 17th bombing mission. Eventually, he arrived in Sagan, where the march began as the Russian army approached. "We were herded into a little church after the first day's march," he said. "They stacked us like firewood into a building meant for no more than 200 persons."

"The next day we stumbled another 20 miles or so, until we came to a sort of collective farm where we put up in barns for the night. Another night or two, we were forced to sleep outside like animals."

"Finally, we came to Muskau, Germany, the site of a big pottery factory using Polish women as slave labor. But at least we were able to go in and lie down by the big baking ovens to thaw out and dry our clothing. It was the first day that we really had been warm."

HORSE MEAT STEW

"On Jan. 30, we arrived at this railroad where we were fed horse meat stew—the first food we'd had in five days. By then, we'd dwindled to 1,200 men."

Cassimatis said the group then was loaded into railroad cattle cars. The train arrived

Feb. 5 at Moosburg, 30 miles northeast of Munich, where the prisoners were placed in Camp No. 7-A; Cassimatis said, along with about 100,000 other prisoners of war in a camp intended for no more than 10,000 persons.

"Gen. George Patton learned in April of our whereabouts and ordered the 14th Armored Division to liberate us," he said. "It did, but not without a fight. There were 1,100 wet pairs of eyes when the United States flag finally went up. And, there was no shame in those tears of gladness."

Cassimatis, who normally weighed around 190 pounds, tipped the scales at only 100 when he was liberated.

Son Recuperating — Carlson Widow

CHICAGO (AP)— The widow of slain Congo missionary Paul Carlson says her 9-year-old son, Wayne, is responding well to treatment for hepatitis, a liver infection, and should be released from a hospital in about a week.

"He's in good shape now, but he needs mainly rest and is also getting routine tests," she said.

Mrs. Carlson, who arrived in Chicago from the Congo with their two children Thursday, is living temporarily at the suburban Evanston apartment of her sister, Sharon Lindblom, 22, a nurse.

Junior Editors Quiz on MARS

QUESTION: Do you think there could be life on Mars?

ANSWER: From what the astronomers and scientists say, it seems there could be life on Mars. Mars is known to have an atmosphere, although it has less oxygen and water than our own.

However, Mars does seem to have some water, for the white polar caps which grow larger in winter and smaller in summer are regarded as being ice or snow.

There are blue green spaces on the planet which grow stronger with one season and lighter with another.

This is the way plants act, so many experts think there is some kind of plant life on Mars, even though it may be only humble vegetation such as moss.

The strange straight lines on this planet's surface have been thought by many to be man-made canals, but most scientists seem to doubt this, considering them to be some kind of natural feature, perhaps rivers.

Earth's atmosphere is thick enough to protect from too much sun and also to hold some warmth during the night.

The thin Martian atmosphere can not do this. The nights would be so extremely cold that men could probably not exist, even if some simple plants might be able to live.

FOR YOU TO DO: Even if the scientists say "no" about human life on Mars, many people keep thinking "perhaps..."

At any rate, it's fun to dream up strange Martian little people. Don't take our artist's funny little people seriously, but do have fun trying to draw some of your own.

Vast Security Set for Funeral

LONDON (AP)—Scotland Yard launched a major security operation today along the route of Sir Winston Churchill's funeral procession to protect the scores of foreign statesmen paying homage to Britain's great wartime leader.

The Yard's Special Branch began a check on all buildings overlooking the route. Others will be assigned to protect visiting leaders around the clock.

Churchill's body will be taken tonight from his family home south of Hyde Park, where he died Sunday at the age of 90.

At Lady Churchill's request, the Archbishop of Canterbury will conduct the coffin to a catafalque in Westminster Hall, where the body will lie in state for three days.

The roll of muffled drums sounded through London streets before dawn in somber rehearsal for Sir Winston Churchill's last journey.

ALL TRAFFIC STOPPED

All traffic stopped in the heart of the mourning capital as the gun carriage which will carry his body in Saturday's funeral rolled through the darkened streets to St. Paul's Cathedral.

The procession marched from Westminster Hall to St. Paul's. Women office cleaners and other early workers were the only spectators.

A Royal Air Force escort led the way. A naval officer, naked sword reversed, followed in the funeral march.

TO OPEN WESTMINSTER

At 11 a.m. tomorrow Westminster Hall will open to the public. It will close only for members of the Churchill family and official guests to pay private homage.

City Operating Cost Put at $8 Million in Budget

By L. GARY THORNE

It will cost more than $8 million to keep Pontiac's municipal machine intact and operating during 1965, according to current estimates by city officials.

This public mechanism called government will be greased mostly from funds contributed by local taxpayers.

Youth Drowns in Bloomfield Township Pond

A 15-year-old youth practicing hockey by himself was drowned yesterday in a small man-made lake near his Bloomfield Township home.

The body of Mark R. Cane-fax was pulled from Jonathan Lake through a hole in a section of this ice.

Next to it was his hockey stick, puck and gloves. Recovered by Bloomfield Township firemen Dan Miller and Robert Clement about 9:30 p.m., the body was in six to eight feet of water, about 20 feet from shore.

Mark, an only child, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cane-fax, 3739 Quarten. He was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Jonathan Lake, on the west side of Lathrup north of Quarten, is relatively isolated.

Mark last had been seen about 3:30 p.m. on his way toward the lake. He was reported missing by his father at 9:11 p.m.

U. S. to Seek U. N. Support in Dues Row

Stevenson to Explain Stand on Curtailment of Voting Rights

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States goes before the General Assembly today seeking support for its demand that voting rights be denied the Soviet Union and other U.N. members two years behind in their financial payments.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson was not expected to launch a major attack against the Soviet Union in his long-delayed policy statement.

Despite the U.S.-Soviet deadlock over dues, the United States insists it is fundamentally an issue between the United Nations and debtor nations and not a big power dispute.

Informed sources said Stevenson would devote most of his speech to spelling out why the United States believes Article 19 — the vote penalty clause in the U.N. Charter — should be applied against members 24 months in arrears because of their refusal to pay their share of the costs of U.N. peace-keeping operations.

The United States has informed other U.N. members that if the assembly lets the Soviets and other delinquents keep their assembly vote, Washington will review its own policy of pouring large sums into U.N. projects.

FACE-SAVING DEVICE

The United States has agreed to allow a face-saving device whereby the debtors could satisfy Article 19 by making voluntary contributions.

The Soviets have announced that they are willing to make a substantial contribution. They insist, however, that the assembly first set aside Article 19 for the current session. The United States has rejected this.

Secretary General U Thant, who has been trying to head off a showdown, appeared to have won a little more time for negotiations.

Assembly President Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana said he does not expect to call until next Monday for election of committee chairmen and assembly vice presidents. The election could bring the show down.

AT FUNERAL

Quaison-Sackey leaves for London Thursday to represent the United Nations at Sir Winston Churchill's funeral. He plans to return Sunday.

The assembly will devote its morning session tomorrow to formal tributes to Churchill.

Thant is awaiting replies from the United States and the Soviet Union to the latest compromise proposal for a settlement.

Political Protest

Viet Girl in Fire Death

Teen Turns Self Into Torch at Rally of 4,000

First Such Incident Since '63; Buddhists Take Body to Pagoda

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A 17-year-old Vietnamese girl drenched herself with gasoline and burned herself to death as a political protest against the government of Premier Tran Van Huong.

It was the first such protest suicide since 1963, when immolations by Buddhists helped bring down the late President Ngo Dinh Diem.

The suicide today took place at Nha Trang, a coastal city 200 miles north of Saigon where an antigovernment demonstration was under way.

A second schoolgirl in Nha Trang also doused herself with gasoline, but the mob grabbed her and prevented her burning herself.

MOVED APART
The girl, a student named Hoang Thi Van Phai, moved apart from the crowd and, unnoticed by the other demonstrators, poured gasoline over herself.

Then she set herself afire and was dead before anyone could extinguish the flames.

Buddhist monks reportedly picked up the body and carried it at the head of a huge procession to the local Buddhist pagoda.

In 1963, Buddhist monks and one nun burned themselves to death in protest against the Diem government. There have been no burnings of monks or nuns since, but about 50 Vietnamese have committed suicide by burning since then for non-political reasons.

SAIGON SUBURBS
Buddhist demonstrations against the government broke out today in suburbs of Saigon, but calm was reported in the northern city of Hue, where rioting, arson and pillaging occurred yesterday.

Government paratroopers arrested about 70 monks and nearly 100 of their followers in this clash after the Buddhists demonstrated outside the headquarters of the provincial chief.

In another suburb, police and soldiers stopped some 800 stu-

To Tell More Details Judge Rules in Cheating Scandal

Accepts Admission as Trial Evidence

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — The superintendent of the U.S. Air Force Academy promised to add new light today to the cheating scandal which has been shrouded in rumor, speculation and unofficial reports.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren said he would reveal details of the "exams for sale" scheme which has involved more than 100 cadets, including 30 football players.

Tired of the Rain? Try Snow Awhile

Nature was in a disagreeable mood this morning, sending light rain to cover already slippery ice and snow.

Later today, she'll send temperatures tumbling and change the rain to snow flurries.

The area will get a low of 10 to 20 tonight and a high tomorrow of 27 to 33.

Partly cloudy skies are expected tomorrow and Thursday.

LOW READING
The low mercury reading preceding 8 a.m. was 22. At 1 p.m. it stood at 29 in downtown Pontiac.

Details of how the plan started and operated leaked from other sources. Academy administrators remained silent.

SPECIAL BOARD

A special investigative board of officers from other bases continued to interview cadets at a secret hideout. It was reported the number questioned might exceed 700, still only a fraction of the 2,587-man cadet wing.

Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum today ruled that the alleged admission by Carl Foster in connection with the Dec. 12 slaying of Mrs. Maurice Crook is admissible as evidence.

The ruling came as Foster's preliminary examination resumed this morning.

McCallum had received written briefs of the attorneys late yesterday and based his ruling on a study of the briefs last night.

Foster, 28, of 286 S. East Blvd. was arrested by Pontiac Police and accused of the slaying after nearly 24 hours of questioning.

Mrs. Crook, 30, of 3401 S. Telegraph, Bloomfield Township, was found strangled and beaten Dec. 13, in a field on the city's northeast side.

COUNSEL TAKES STAND

Defense Counsel J. Robert Sterling took the stand himself during yesterday's opening testimony and put asking Police William Hanger, Detective J. Charles Gale and former assistant prosecutor Jerome Barry in the witness chair.

Sterling testified that he was not allowed to see Foster for nearly five hours after he ar-

FREDAWN REHEARSAL—A flag-draped casket is placed on gun carriage outside St. Paul's Cathedral in London before dawn this morning in a rehearsal for Sir Winston Churchill's funeral this Saturday. The Royal Navy gun carriage is the one that will carry Churchill's casket. Another rehearsal for the state funeral will be held on Friday morning.

MAKE OVER PAGES Exile Leader Fidel Prisoner?

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Anti-Castro guerrilla leader Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo, who vanished here last spring followed by some of his fighters, is reported a prisoner of Fidel Castro in Cuba.

Before slipping out of Miami, Menoyo had said he planned to put into operation in Cuba a mysterious "Plan Omega" that he called "militarily impossible to defeat."

Object to Rules on Assessing

Waterford Township Board members last night unanimously concurred with recent action by the Oakland County Township Supervisors Association opposing new requirements for assessing real property.

These requirements make it necessary to include in assessments built in experience such as depreciation, obsolescence, disrepair, etc., and to include in the new assessment requirements.

Boston Slain as 18th Gang Victim Dies

BOSTON (AP) — Boston police have started a wholesale round-up of men for questioning in the area's murderous gang warfare. The number of deaths in the past 11 months reached 18 yesterday with the gunshot slaying of Joseph R. Francione, 35, in his Revere apartment.

He was the second man shot to death in three days in Greater Boston.

Detectives began the roundup last night and a total of 25 men were taken into custody.

The dragnet concentrated chiefly on Boston's Roxbury and Dorchester sections.

No charges were filed immediately.

Deputy Police Supt. Herbert Mallowney said the reason for the roundup was "due to reports resulting from increased surveillance of the criminal element in Boston, especially those involved in initiating and receiving stolen property."

Detectives said they were also checking the possibility some of those rounded up are parole violators.

Earlier, postal inspectors said Francione had been among those under surveillance since the Plymouth mail truck robbery in August, 1962, which netted thieves $1,551,227.

SHOT IN HEAD

Francione, an ex-convict, was shot in the back of the head.

The slaying of Francione followed by hours an attempt to kill Henry W. Knight, 27. Knight was shot in the abdomen and shoulder by two unidentified men he said were going to take him "for a ride."

Police said Knight was an acquaintance of three of the previous murder victims. They were George Ash, 46, found shot and stabbed 50 times in Boston's South End in December; and Harold Hannon, 54, of Everett and William Delaney, 27, of Boston, whose bodies were found in Boston Harbor in August.

Francione became the 18th in the list of persons slain over the last 11 months in Greater Boston.

SHOTS HEARD

His body was found by a neighbor who told police he ran to Francione's apartment after hearing shots.

A half hour before the shots were fired, Francione was seen shoveling his car out of a snow bank in front of the building.

Former Oil Exec Dies

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Harry T. Klein, 79, former president of Texaco, Inc., died Sunday. Klein joined the oil firm in 1921 as assistant general counsel and served as president from 1944 until his retirement in 1953. He was born in Bellevue, Ky.

Attacks were made on discrimination, government at all levels, farm labor policies, welfare programs and politicians.

ATTACKS BIGOTS

Anita Alfre, a Mexican-American citizen from Denver, Colo., gave one of the most dramatic pleas she said that any new programs should not be administered by the "bigots" she claimed ran previous ones.

Two Indian witnesses indicated their people are not willing to sacrifice their traditions in order to have progress.

John Rainer, a Pueblo Indian from Taos, N.M., told the conference: "It is not that our people are lacking in intelligence and ability."

Although the Indians are near the bottom of the economic ladder, Rainer said: "We are rich in human dignity, pride and spirit."

ASKS COUNSELING

Rachel Ashley of Denver, another Indian, said most reservation Indians are not aware of the conditions and the high costs they will run into in the outside world. She called for better counseling.

But, he also is reported to have said that the Indians are not willing to sacrifice their traditions in order to have progress.

Although the Indians are near the bottom of the economic ladder, Rainer said: "We are rich in human dignity, pride and spirit."

Massed Flags At The Washington Monument Dip In Mourning

U.S. Tributes to Winnie Go On

By The Associated Press

Tributes to Sir Winston Churchill continue throughout the United States by state legislatures, governors, in memorial church services and by just plain folks signing condolence books.

Nearly 1,000 persons filed through an 11th-floor room of the British Consulate in New York Monday to place their names in a book bordered by black velvet. The register will be given to the Churchill family.

"You gave me courage," "Love and respect," "Deepest regrets," and a simple "Thank you" were among the expressions written by laborers, office workers, students, doctors and diplomats.

"I feel as if I lost someone who was a world citizen," said one man as he signed the book.

MUSICAL TRIBUTE

Conductor Eugene Ormandy added Bach's "Come, sweet death" as the opening selection of Monday night's Philadelphia Orchestra concert in its home city as a tribute to the British leader who died Sunday in London at 90.

Episcopal Church services

were planned in Denver, Colo., Los Angeles, Tulsa, Okla., Houston, Tex., Albany, N.Y., San Francisco, Philadelphia, Chicago, New York and other cities.

Churches of the three major faiths scheduled memorial services in Houston — at Christ Church Cathedral Thursday, Congregation Beth Israel Friday night and a requiem Mass in Sacred Co-Cathedral Saturday.

The New Jersey Legislature stood in a moment of silent tribute and then passed resolutions praising Churchill as a "great man of the world." One legislator said: "There is no man in history who has done more for our way of life than did Sir Winston Churchill."

SILENT HOMAGE

The Washington State Senate also paid silent homage as a chaplain described Churchill as the "free world's foremost spokesman of courage." He was described as "one of the great men of our time" in a Pennsylvania legislative resolution.

In Michigan, Gov. George Romney ordered flags in that state to fly at half-staff through Saturday and proclaimed the period as one of mourning. He also called on his state's citizens to pause Saturday "in solemn meditation and reverence during the funeral for this beloved man."

Mississippi's Gov. Paul Johnson said in a proclamation that Churchill was "the greatest Englishman of them all." Idaho Gov. Robert E. Smylie asked his state's citizens "to pay a last tribute to that great and valiant defender of Western civilization."

FLAGS LOWERED

Gov. John H. Reed of Maine ordered all national and state flags lowered to half-staff and recommended that citizens display their flags similarly through Saturday.

In Washington, the House of Representatives approved a resolution of sympathy to Churchill's family, then adjourned after eulogies by House leaders. More speeches were on tap in the House today.

Death Penalty

to Topple Government

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — A special military court sentenced five men to death today on charges of plotting to overthrow Syria's Socialist government.

The sentences came as a merchants' strike against increased socialism entered its third day.

Damascus Radio, in a middle-of-the-night broadcast, announced the court action.

It said the five men had fostered a military plot to overthrow the Baath Socialist regime and had planned "political assassination and sabotage against the people and the national industries."

Twenty other persons tried on similar charges were cleared and released, the radio said.

RETIRED OFFICERS

The government previously had announced 23 striking merchants were on trial before the special military court. But the wording of the announcement of the death sentences indicated those sentenced were retired military officers and not merchants. Their names were not familiar.

Damascus Radio said some of them had been in touch with "Zionist" quarters.

In a new effort to break the merchants' strike, President Amin Hafez announced the government would take over ownership of all shops "found closed with no legal excuse."

The government had confiscated the properties of the 23 businessmen arrested earlier, and at mid-morning, employees of some of their shops and agencies opened for business.

TOO EARLY

It was too early to predict, however, whether the majority of the other striking merchants would heed the government's threats.

Dearborn C Ruling Is Due

Rights Unit Likely to Curb City Officials

DEARBORN (UPI) — The Michigan Civil Rights Commission was expected to hand down an order today banning Dearborn Mayor Orville Hubbard or any of his aides from posting no called derogatory newspaper and magazine clippings concerning Negroes on public bulletin boards.

The order would be the first "cease and desist" order issued by the new state civil rights commission. A panel of three commissioners recommended the "cease and desist" order after a hearing Jan. 4.

The Dearborn Community Council, a citizens group, protested to the commission that Hubbard and James Dick, public works director, were responsible for placing articles on the bulletin boards that "hold up to public ridicule and contempt the Negro race."

Ralph B. Guy Jr., Dearborn city attorney, said at the time of the commission hearing the case no longer was applicable because the clippings had been removed shortly before the hearing.

However, Damon Keith, co-chairman of the civil rights commission, reported last week that new clippings about Negroes had been posted.

CLIPPINGS FOUND

A check by United Press International Monday showed such clippings as "Negro vs. Police," "White Pastor Takes a Negro Wife," and one relating to the first Negro police precinct commander in Detroit's police history.

The word Dearborn, clipped from a local newspaper, was pasted in place over the word Detroit in the headline.

Of the more than 100,000 persons living in the Detroit suburb, 15 allegedly are Negro.

Hubbard and Dick were accused of posting clippings about inter-racial marriage, Negro demonstrations in the South and crimes by Negroes on the City Hall bulletin board across from Hubbard's office, at the youth center, police headquarters and a library annex.

Windsor Strike Off--for Now

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI) — Chrysler of Canada workers ended a three-day wildcat strike here yesterday but threatened to make the strike official Thursday.

About 6,000 workers returned to their jobs with the knowledge they could make the strike official Thursday with a formal vote.

George Burt, regional United Auto Workers director said a strike deadline could be established 72 hours after the men returned to their jobs.

The workers were protesting a new contract agreement by the union and Chrysler.

Ford workers returned to work yesterday after ratifying a three-year contract. The Ford agreement, applying to about 10,000 workers, came after a 10-day strike and was based on a 65-cent-an-hour increase in wages and fringe benefits.
