Show Red China 'Our Readiness to Fight'—Ike

Lights Shine in Desert

MAIN STEM—Here is Las Vegas' main stem in all its night-time glory. In these gambling halls and clubs, millions of tourists pour out tens of millions of dollar each year, trying their luck at dice tables, roulette wheels, in card games and at bingo and slot machines.

Fabulous Las Vegas

Slot Machines Out-Draw Big Dam as Tourist Lure

By BOB CONSIDINE

LAS VEGAS (INS)—This place must be seen to be believed. Even then you wonder.

The area embraces one of man's greatest and one of his least important engineering achievements: Hoover Dam and the penny slot machine.

Human nature being what it is, the slot machine and its ilk attract more tourists than the world's highest dam which has created the world's largest man-made lake and zips power to 8,000,000 people in three huge states.

The blazing city of Las Vegas and its adjacent "Strip" along Route 91 combine to be an excellent customer for the power brewed in the dam's 18 huge generators.

A tourist approaching Las Vegas at night needs no road map. From 50 miles away it glows like the nose of the late Charles "Cherry Nose" Gioe, Chicago Capone gangster who helped transmute this little desert town and its road approaches into a gambling mecca that makes Monte Carlo look like a bingo game in a mortuary.

Barring certain threats to its shaky and almost rootless existence amid the forlorn sagebrush and cactus, Las Vegas may attract 10,000,000 visitors in 1955.

They'll spend better than $50,000,000 on food, rooms and shopping services alone.

Whatever the activity of the swarms of transients, vacationers, ever-growing list of residents, and the matrimonially disenchanted who are sweating out 6-week "residence," few will be bored. The only counterpart to Las Vegas in the average person's knowledge is a western movie in Technicolor.

And characters? Forgetting the re-treaded mobsters for a moment, what about Rex Bell, the old horse opera star who married Clara Bow? He wound up lieutenant governor of the state. And Nicholas Andrea Dandolos, the world's dullest gambler through whose hands have passed an estimated half a billion dollars? (Nick the Greek is a graduate from the Greek Evangelical College with an A.B. in philosophy.)

And Joe W. Brown who owns the huge Horseshoe Club downtown? Brown, whose oil and gas holdings in Texas bring him $40,000 a month, looks and talks like Army Secretary Stevens in the confident early rounds of his fight with Sen. McCarthy.

He has $1,000,000 framed in two layers of plate glass at the entrance of his air-conditioned gambling hell. One hundred $10,000 bills.

Abe Schiller of the Flamingo Hotel, an unofficial Grover Whalen for the "strip" since his life was spared by Bugsy Siegel, asked Brown to lend the million to him to place on a Las Vegas Chamber of Commerec float in the Rose Bowl parade.

"I kind of hate to let it out of the place for a few days," Brown said. "It's a nice attraction." (The display costs him a small fortune in lost interest and protective insurance.) Then he had a thought: "Tell you what I'll do, though. I'll get you another million."

But, as it turned out, the United States government couldn't raise that many $10,000 bills on such short notice. Brown snapped impatiently, "Well, then how about ten $100,000 bills. . .the one with Woodrow Wilson's picture?" But

Awaits Reports on Siren Test

City Manager Terms Saturday Trial Run 'Rather Successful'

The first test of Pontiac's new air raid warning siren Saturday was termed "rather successful" by City Manager Walter K. Willman today.

Willman, who is also civil defense head for the city, said he would await a full report from police officers stationed in outlying sections before completely evaluating the test results, but said:

"Based on telephone reports, I think the test will probably indicate that in certain outlying districts and under heavy traffic conditions the siren wasn't heard too well.

"But this was more or less expected. It is likely that we will have to supplement the single, large 'mother' siren with two others on the outer edges of town."

Willman said a Troy Township woman called to say she heard the siren. She lives nine miles from the siren, which is located atop the Pontiac State Bank Building.

Prisoners' Kin Get Trip Offer From Company

New York Firm Also Ready to Collect Fund for China Passages

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A movement developed today to raise funds by popular subscription to enable relatives to visit Americans jailed in Red China.

This was spearheaded by George W. Scrimshaw, of New York, president of the Krafco Container Corp. He was a World War II bomber pilot.

Scrimshaw said his company will pay the way for relatives of two of the prisoners — Capt. Elmer F. Llewellyn, of Missoula, Mont., and Steve Kiba Jr., of Akron, Ohio.

Additionally, he said, his company is ready to handle contributions at its Kansas City, Kan., and New York City offices for a fund to pay the way for relatives of the other men.

Scrimshaw said he did not know either the Llewellyn or Kiba families but selected them because press reports indicated they were the first and most eager to accept the Red offer permitting the visits.

He said his company is sponsoring the trips to show the value Americans attach to each individual and the high regard they have for the family unit.

In Akron, the Kiba family said the imprisoned airman's brother, John, 41, an electronics engineer, and his sister, Irene, 16, a high school student, would go.

The Krafco people said they were willing to pay all expenses for two relatives but would confer further with the Kiba family as to whether a girl so young should make the trip or whether some other member of the family should take her place.

Both Llewellyn's wife, Marjorie, in Missoula, and his mother, Mrs. Henry Stiter, of Vista, Calif., have expressed eagerness to make the trip.

In New Britain, Conn., the schoo teacher mother of John Thomas Downey, another of the prisoners, said she will do "anything that will make his imprisonment more livable, or speed his release."

Mrs. Mary V. Downey said she would "like nothing better" than to see him but that she wanted to "consider carefully the possible effects of such a journey."

Her son, a cousin of singer Morton Downey, is a former Yale footbally player and wrestler.

Train Derailment Kills 17 in England

SUTTON COLDFIELD, England (INS)—The death toll was set at 17 today with 42 persons injured in the derailment of an express train at Sutton Coldfield station.

The speeding train jumped the tracks as it entered the tunnel and crashed into the station platform. Several passenger coaches were overturned and telescoped.

Railroad officials credited an unidentified heroine with preventing a second tragic crash. She ran along the tracks waving her arms and stopped a second train before it ploughed into the wreckage of the first.

Rescue teams worked under floodlights through the night, cutting into the twisted wreckage in a search for trapped passengers or additional bodies.

Sutton Coldfield is located seven miles northeast of Birmingham and 82 miles northwest of London.

Scores of rescue workers and 36 ambulances were rushed from Birmingham to the scene of the accident.

Don't Be Fooled; It Only Seemed Like Coldest Yet

It may have seemed like the coldest weather of the season last night and this morning, but yesterday's low of 14 degrees was 10 degrees above winter's previous low in Pontiac.

Dec. 20 was the coldest day so far this winter, when the temperature dropped to four degrees above zero. Several other days hit 10 and below.

The forecast is for more cold weather, with a low of 14 to 18 expected tonight and tomorrow night, with a high Tuesday of 23 to 26. Skies will be mostly cloudy with occasional snow flurries tomorrow and Wednesday.

In downtown Pontiac over the weekend, temperatures ranged from 18 to 34. Sunday's high was 23 degrees.

Today at 8 a.m., the mercury stood at 13 degrees, rising to 24 by 2 p.m.

It's Knee-Deep in Grand Rapids

Snow Still Falling Today Over 14-Inch Blanket; Many Other Areas Hit

By UNITED PRESS

Snow which has pelted the Grand Rapids area continuously since Friday morning forced many rural schools in the area to close their doors today.

The heavy snow which blanketed Grand Rapids was part of a wintry blast that hit many parts of the nation.

The midwest got some of its coldest weather of the season and snow moved as far south as usually sunny Florida.

The snow struck many areas of northern Michigan during the weekend. The Automobile Club of Michigan reported adverse road conditions north of a line from Mount Clemens to Muskegon.

The automobile club said the northwestern part of the state and the entire Upper Peninsula had slippery and snow-covered roads, while roads in the northeastern section of the state were slippery in spots.

Cadillac had six inches of fresh snow during the weekend, Traverse City three, and the Benton Harbor - St. Joseph area three inches. Pellston got five inches of fresh snow early today.

But the hardest hit area was Grand Rapids, where snow, described as "flurries", blowing in from Lake Michigan has been falling continuously since 8 a.m. Friday morning according to the weather bureau in Grand Rapids. It said Grand Rapids has had 14 inches since then.

Many automobiles became stuck in the snow on Grand Rapids' many hills yesterday. Buses were running, but Greyhound said some were 10 to 15 minutes late. The snow caused a delay of 12 to 18 hours in the arrival of some trail-

Order 7th Fleet to Make Ready for Evacuation

U. S. Navy May Cover Withdrawal of Chiang's Army From Tachens

TAIPEH (INS)—The U. S. 7th Fleet and Nationalist China's Navy and Air Force were ordered today to prepare for possible evacuation of 10,000 Nationalist troops on the invasion-menaced Tachen Islands.

Vice Adm. Alfred M. Pride indicated the 7th Fleet could be mobilized within two days if ordered to support an evacuation and said his powerful fleet could cope with "any future development arising in the Formosa area."

Despite official Nationalist opposition to the withdrawal, it was learned the Tachens would probably be abandoned if America would guarantee to support the defense of Quemoy and Matsu Islands just off the Chinese mainland.

The Nationalist Air Force and navy were alerted to be ready at a moment's notice while official Taipeh waited anxiously for President Eisenhower's request to Congress today for permission to use American forces along a new Formosan defense line.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his top military aides were expected to go along with the reported American plan to evacuate the Tachens if the new defense line would insure U. S. military support of positions on Quemoy and Matsu.

Pride emphasized his 7th Fleet could handle any job in the Formosa area and said "We always have the Tachen situation in mind."

He said the fleet now has four aircraft carriers, two to four cruisers and enough destroyers for an "adequate" defense of the western Pacific area.

He refused to estimate the Com-

315 Children Evacuated

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — The first civilian refugees from the beleaguered Tachen Islands — about 315 children including many orphans — are due to arrive in Keelung, Formosa, tomorrow.

The orphans are from a home operated by "Two Gun" Huang Pa mei, woman guerrilla leader.

The evacuation was arranged through Madame Chiang Kai-shek.

There was no report whether U.S. 7th Fleet units were involved in the evacuation.

Coffee Firms Cut Wholesale Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Wholesale coffee prices were reduced by major roasters of vacuum-packed brands today in an apparent move to meet competition of private brands sold under chain store labels.

General Foods Corp. trimmed three cents a pound from the wholesale price of its Maxwell House, Yuban, Kaffee Hag and Sanka coffees and cut the price of its Bliss coffee two cents a pound.

Over the weekend reductions of three cents a pound, also effective today, were announced by Standard Brands Inc., which distributes Chase & Sanborn coffee, and by Chock Full o' Nuts Coffee Corp., New York. No immediate change was expected in instant coffee prices.

A. and P. food stores recently cut the retail price of its privately-labeled coffee.

Paris Breathes Easier Today as Flood Waters Recede

PARIS (AP) — The swollen Seine, which flooded Paris cellars over the weekend in its highest rise in 31 years, began to fall today. The slight drop brought hope to nervous thousands in low-lying suburbs who had feared more water.

The mud-yellow river, which had been fed by melting Alpine snows, dropped a little more than an inch during the night.

At 8 a. m., it stood at 23 feet—the same level as 24 hours earlier.

Experts had predicted the river, which flows in a crooked "s" through Paris, would crest today at a point just short of the 24-foot level reached 31 years ago in a far more serious flood.

On the outskirts of the capital, thousands of acres of lowland farms and factory suburbs were still under water. Experts predicted it would be several days before the water recedes.

In eastern France, the Moselle River was still rising, partly flooding about 100 towns and villages. The Garonne in southwest France was also rising, inundating areas near Toulouse, one of France's leading industrial centers.

Despite six days of rising waters in the capital area, police have

Chou Accuses U. S. of War Provocation

TOKYO, Tuesday (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai of Red China today rejected any ceasefire in Formosa Strait and accused the United States of stepping up "military operations to make war provocations."

"The government of the people's republic of China absolutely cannot agree to a so-called ceasefire with the traitorous Chiang Kai-shek (Nationalist) clique repudiated by the Chinese people," he declared.

In a statement broadcast by Peiping radio, Chou asserted the United States had stepped up its military operations since the Communists seized Yikiangshan Island, about 200 miles north of Formosa, last week.

President Asks Congress to OK Formosa Policy

Expect Quick Approval in Both House, Senate for Get-Tough Move

From Our Wire Services

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower today asked Congress to declare "our readiness to fight" to keep Formosa out of Red hands and "to engage in whatever operations may be required to carry out that purpose."

In a special message, the President said "our purpose is peace" but that Red Chinese threats already pose a serious danger to this country's security "and indeed to the peace of the world."

A declaration from Congress, Eisenhower said, "will reduce the possibility that the Chinese Communists, misjudging our firm purpose and national unity, might be disposed to challenge the position of the United States, and precipitate a major crisis which even they would neither anticipate nor desire."

The President made it plain that defense of Formosa might require hitting the Red Chinese before they left their home ports.

He said this country must be prepared to:

1. Help the Chinese Nationalists redeploy and consolidate their forces now scattered over many smaller islands off Red China's shores, and

2. "Be alert to any concentration or employment of Chinese Communist forces obviously undertaken to facilitate attack upon Formosa, and be prepared to take appropriate military action."

Eisenhower said the United States and all free nations have a common interest that Formosa and the Pescadores Islands should not fall into Communist hands.

He did not say specifically which other islands the United States might defend, on the basis of need to hold them for the defense of Formosa and the Pescadores, but he called Quemoy island "one of the natural approaches to Formosa."

Quemoy is at the entrance to the vital mainland harbor city of Amoy and as far back as last September was brought under heavy Red artillery fire.

Speedy and overwhelming approval of Eisenhower's request for authority to use U. S. military forces to help defend Formosa against Red invasion was forecast today by congressional leaders.

A preliminary timetable calling for first action by the House, perhaps with a vote tomorrow, and Senate consideration by Wednesday appeared to be the program.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was called to explain the President's proposal in closed sessions this afternoon of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and House Foreign Affairs Committee.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) said present plans are to call the Formosa resolution up tomorrow and he predicted approval the same day.

Rayburn was asked whether he thought the action might lead to war. He replied that it was in effect "a fielder's choice — one

Pontiac-Built Products Commanding Top Attention at Dazzling GM Motorama

Random memories of General Motors' Motorama which still runs a few more days at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York:

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., and Harlow H. Curtice were luncheon hosts for several hundred men. A Waldorf official said that each year this event commands the most imposing list of corporate presidents and chairmen of any gathering held in America. The first time they invited the Duke of Windsor, GM officials phoned the British embassy to learn exactly how to handle his name. They explained their problem to a very, very British Voice of Authority which immediately advised:

"I sye, and his nyme should run first—at the very top of the whole list, y'know."

The GM spokesman regretted it would have to appear alphabetically, and a resigned Voice replied:

"Then it should be 'Windsor, H. R. H., The Duke." And so it appears near the bottom of the last page—in the "W's"—just below our own "Wilson, Thomas E." of GM Truck & Coach fame.

Pontiac will be very interested in the great reception accorded Phil Monaghan's "L'Universelle." It was in the South Lobby of the Waldorf, paired with the LaSalle, the dream car of all the dreamers. Yet the local product outdrew the LaSalle. Also, it was running first for total newspaper publicity in the New York journals. Various lookers saw it as a hearse, an ambulance, a sportsman's car, an ideal vehicle for extended motor trips, a carry-all for a big family, a station wagon and countless other uses.

They have an experimental TV set in the back seat of a Cadillac and several harrassed men folk suggested this may be the first perfect answer to silence the back seat driving menace.

The Kitchen of Tomorrow is a prime favorite. Everything is electric. Kitchen tools arise like magic and disappear mysteriously when you're through. A TV kitchen screen swings in all directions so the house wife can move about.

Also, if she wonders how junior is coming, she touches a button and a projector over his crib lets her see whether he's uncovered. When the door bell rings, she presses another button for a full view of the caller. A speaker lets her ask what he wants and if she's all out of enthusiasm for more brushes, she advises him accordingly and she hasn't left the kitchen.

The Nomad, a Chevrolet station wagon, was a right pert number that drew a lot of attention. The job's painted a very attractive blue and is a fine step in the modern station wagon development.

Buick has a bright yellow job parked in front of the Waldorf just short of 50th street. It stands there steadily and that must have taken "a spot of doing." I suspect R. Oliver had a hand. He's Buick's best non-resident fixer. I understand they've made him Out-of-Town Vice President

Infant's Death Termed Natural

Auburn Heights Child Found Dead Today by Parents

Probable bronchial pneumonia was listed as the cause of the death this morning of four-month-old Dianna Joy Knott, of Auburn Heights.

The infants' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Knott, of 3068 Eastwood, were mystified by her sudden death.

"She had a little cough a couple of weeks ago, but that had left," said Knott, a Detroit equipment company employe. "She'd been as normal as can be for the last week," he added.

"We figured she had pulled the covers over her head and smothered. But the coroner said the baby was too old to do that and I guess he knows."

Deputy Oakland County Coroner Isaac C. Prevette, who examined the body, said death was probably due to an upper respiratory infection.

Knott applied artificial respiration and Pontiac Township firemen used a resuscitator in an effort to revive the child.

The Knotts have two other children, Cheryl, 4½, and Michael, 2½.

Just so I can't be accused of cheering for everything, I dolefully set down that New York proclaimed the TV Show a flooperoo. Everyone that dared speak (including some that didn't), said it was a pretty drab and dreary incident. Also, it was the critics' consensus that Bob Hope was terrifically unfunny. He's one of my favorite comedians but apparently he laid one of the prize eggs of the year.

J. F. Wolfram, boss of Oldsmobile, was a smiling individual at the Wednesday preview. He headed the Olds exhibit with pride and enthusiasm. And well he may have. They had some gorgeous jobs. The Olds color schemes were unusually attractive and compelling.

At the Sloan-Curtice luncheon, just one guest was introduced. The British embassy might protest but Oakland county won't. It was one of our boys: Secretary of Defense, C. E. Wilson. He received a tremendous ovation from a great crowd that came to its feet and applauded vigorously.

Certainly one of the biggest hits in the entire show is the new Pontiac station wagon. This Safari simply drips class and eclat all over the place. It's a new step in the passenger car-station wagon evolution. And our Mr. Critchfield is doing a noble sales job himself. In fact he's pressing. He sold one to my mama.

Having exhausted every conventional method of showing cars on the floor, GM goes in for some hocus-pocus that recalls Blackstone and his disappearing pachyderm. Each company presents a model that grandly descends from concealment in the ceiling. After a long, graceful swoop and a few gyrations, it stops over a pool of water. This is automotive mumbo-jumbo at its best.

Famous Hikers Travel on Foot — to Parking Lot

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Two great hikers got together yesterday and one made the other take a walk.

One was former President Harry S. Truman, whose early morning strolls long have been part of his routine. The other was Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. Douglas walked 189 miles last March along the old C&O Canal and the Potomac River from Cumberland, Md., to Washington.

Both attended a luncheon at a downtown hotel yesterday and Douglas' hike figured in the conversation. Afterward Douglas and Truman got ready to leave the hotel in Truman's car.

But Truman declined to bring the car around to the hotel entrance from its parking place. He said he figured a hiker like Douglas could walk to it. And they did.

Democrat Opposes Higher Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (INS) — House Appropriations Committee Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) said today he is opposed to increasing the federal debt limit and called on the Eisenhower administration "to live within its income."

The head of the powerful House committee fired the opening gun in what may be a strong effort to block President Eisenhower's request to boost the debt limit permanently above its present 275 billion dollar limit.

It was raised temporarily last August from 275 to 281 billion dollars, but is scheduled to revert to the 275 billion ceiling next June 30.

The President said in his budget message that he would urge Congress to increase the national debt ceiling again and indicated he may ask for a new limitation of 283 or 284 billion dollars.

Inter-Church Fellowship Hears Dr. Victor R. Gold

The Rev. C. George Widdifield welcomed Inter-Church Fellowship to All Saints Episcopal Church at 5:45 Sunday evening.

After a 15 minute Hymn Sing, the Rev. Herbert C. Wolf, pastor of College Lutheran Church, East Lansing and faculty member at Michigan State College, gave the Bible Exposition using 1 Corinthians, Chapter 7 for the lesson.

"As we study the Bible, we must ask ourselves three questions," said the Rev. Mr. Wolf, "What does it say?" "What does it mean?" and "What does it say to me?"

He stated, that in this chapter Paul was writing to the church in Corinth answering questions that had been sent to him.

Following refreshments the Rev. George C. Garver introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Victor R. Gold, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church of Kalamazoo.

Dr. Gold chose for his text St. Luke 17: 7 . 10. But which of you, having a servant plowing or feeding cattle, will say unto him by and by when he is come from the field, Go and sit down to-meat?

And will not rather say unto him, Make ready where with I may sup, and gird thyself, and serve me, till I have eaten and drunken; and afterward thou shalt eat and drink?

Doth he thank that servant because he did the things that were commanded him? I trow not.

So likewise ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you, say, We are unprofitable servants; we have done that which was our duty to do.

Dr. Gold said "Faith without works is dead. Christians are kind and helpful to others not just because it is a duty but because they love God and are trying to pattern their lives after that of Jesus. A true Christian serves gladly without praise or public recognition."

"We must restore to our thinking," he added "how dependent we are upon God for all that we are or ever hope to be."

Dr. John W. Claxton of the Plymouth Congregational Church, Lansing will be guest speaker next Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church, West Huron at Wayne. The time program will be the same as the last three Sundays.

munist air and naval strength opposing the American force.

Meanwhile, the Communists maintained pressure on the jittery Tachens, 200 miles north of Formosa, and on Nationalist-held offshore islands farther south.

Long range guns blasted the Tachens from the Communist island of Toumen, 14 miles north. It was the first indication the Communists had guns on Toumen able to hit the Tachens, although a Nationalist communique said most of the shells in a 42-round barrage "fell into the sea."

A large Red invasion fleet was sighted near Wuchiu Island off the central coast of Fukien Province, but made no attempt to land. A communist force raided Wuchiu earlier in the bitter civil war.

Nationalist planes battered Yikiangshan Island just north of the Tachens in an attempt to slow troop buildups on the island the Reds captured just last week.

Nationalists claimed to have smashed a small scale invasion attempt on Kaotang near the key offshore island of Matsu Sunday afternoon.

The defense ministry said Nationalist big guns damaged five wooden junks in repulsing the attempt of Red raiders to land from a dozen junks.

Taipeh, meanwhile, was awaiting the arrival of the first shipment of civilian refugees from the Tachens. Some 200 women and children were due to arrive in the Nationalist capital Tuesday.

Ike's Manpower Plan Would Up Reserves

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—Carter Burgess, assistant secretary of defense, says President Eisenhower's new military reserve program, if approved, will increase the Detroit area's reserve military strength nearly 50 per cent.

Burgess told a press conference at nearby Selfridge Air Force Base yesterday "we're particularly anxious for Detroit to boost the strength of its reserve units quickly because of the city's importance in the national defense picture."

Burgess was at Selfridge on a five-day tour of reserve training posts across the country.

He leaves today for South Bend, Ind.

Mrs. Morrow Succumbs at 81

Lindy's Mother-in-Law Was Noted Educator and Writer

ENGLEWOOD, N.J. (AP)—Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, noted educator and writer, is dead at 81. She was the mother-in-law of Charles A. Lindbergh.

The widow of the former ambassador to Mexico and U.S. senator died at her home last night with members of her family at her bedside. She had been ill for two months, but the family declined to give the cause of death.

When her husband died in 1931, Mrs. Morrow was asked by both major political parties to try for his Senate seat. But she turned down these suggestions because she wanted to retire to private life.

The following year Mrs. Morrow was back in the public spotlight through the tragic kidnaping of her grandson, the Lindbergh baby. This experience led her to write the poignant poems "Saint of the Lost," "Hostage" and "Asphodel."

Born Elizabeth Cutter in Cleveland, Ohio, she was graduated from Smith College in 1896. She was made acting president of the college in 1939 — the first woman to hold such a post.

In 1903 she married Morrow, who then was a leading financier. Before that she was a teacher of English, history and French.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh and Mrs. Aubrey Neil Morgan; and a son, Dwight W. Morrow Jr.

Funeral services will be Wednesday at the First Presbyterian Church.

Post Office Will Serve All-Time Star Pitcher

WASHINGTON (INS)—Admirers of Cy Young, one of baseball's all-time great pitchers, were assured today that he will continue to get his fan mail.

The government, at the urging of Rep. Frank T. Bow (R-Ohio), has decided to keep a post office open at Peoli, Ohio, just for that purpose, instead of converting it to a place on a rural delivery route.

Young, whose baseball days as a major leaguer began in 1890 and ended 22 years later, is still ranked high on all-time all-star teams.

Said Bow, when informed of the post office decision:

"These are the kind of things that make America great."

The Day in Birmingham

Northeast Parking Area Is Topic for Lawmakers

BIRMINGHAM—Municipal Parking Lot No. 3 will be brought into the picture at tonight's City Commission meeting, with the announcement that a meeting has been held by city officials and representatives of Hamilton avenue property owners.

Since the original $400,000 revenue bond issue would not cover costs for all three lots, an amendment will be submitted raising the amount to $500,000.

Another amendment, this to broaden the building code ordinance that restricts the use of frame buildings for business purposes, is to be discussed.

A hearing will be held to consider any objections to construction of the Belmont Subdivision sewer.

Dr. M. H. Bank Speaker

138 Pontiac High Seniors Attend Baccalaureate Rite

Some 138 Pontiac High School graduates were urged to live by faith, philosophy, self-assurance and purpose at their baccalaureate service in the Central Methodist Church Sunday night.

Offering St. Paul as a model, the Rev. Milton H. Bank delivered the address before the January graduating class and their parents.

Invocation was given by the Rev. Lenworth R. Miner of the Macedonia Baptist Church and the scripture was read by Rev. Easton Hazard of the Wilson Avenue Methodist Church. Philippians 4:4-13 provided the lesson for the sermon.

Rev. Herbert E. Ryan of the United Evangelical Brethren Church gave the prayer.

Speaking on "The Joy of Living," Dr. Bank asked the seniors what kind of a life they would buy if they could step up to a bargain counter and request their choice.

"Would you select the automat life where everything is impersonal, mechanical and without a touch of individuality?" he asked.

He said they could have the choice of a kind of life where they could drift with the crowd, never say "no," hunt with the pack and they would find this the easiest.

Offering another classification as the kind where people never face up to facts, but are always running away from their responsibilities to themselves and society, Dr. Bank said there was another choice they could make which is not "rich in the coin of the realm, but its wealth is in satisfaction."

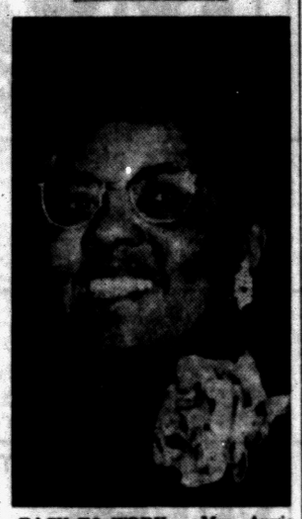

"This is the life where you will find the most happiness because it will represent service rendered, happiness given to others," he declared.

Stating that these are wonderful days in which to be living, he described the wonder of jet propulsion and then asked the seniors to look to the thousands fighting today for freedom.

Concluding, he said, "Give of your best. Seek the best in others. Above all this, trust in the God who put you here and find yourself a partnership with that God in some creative task, and you will, indeed, find your joy in living."

Music for baccalaureate service included an organ recital by Charles A. Wilson, minister of music of the First Congregational Church. He presented selections from Handel and Mozart.

The Pontiac Senior High School A Cappella Choir under the direction of George H. Putnam sang the anthem, "Oh Jesus Be Near," by Grieg and "O Lord God" by Paul Tschensokoff.

8 to 10 Million Americans Investing in U.S. Economy Through Stock Market

Editor's Note: Here, in the first of five articles, Relman Morin, one of the Associated Press' top reporters, tells the story of the stock market—present, past and what the experts think of the future.

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Between eight and nine million Americans, according to the best estimates, are "in" the stock market today.

Should you be among them? Or do you feel the market is no place for your money?

This question presented itself to a schoolteacher in upstate New York some years ago. The story of her experiences in the market is true. But it is not reported here in order to convince you either way.

It is simply one example of a big, dynamic, exciting, and supremely enigmatic situation in America at this moment—a condition that goes beyond Wall Street and Washington, right into your living room.

Miss X, the teacher, unexpectedly received $5,000 from the sale of a family farm in California. At that time, she was approaching retirement.

"I knew what my income would be from my pension and some insurance that was about to mature," she said. "And I had some savings in the bank. All told, I expected to be reasonably comfortable after I retired."

Now, the $5,000 windfall presented an opportunity to bolster this fixed income. She decided to put the money in stocks. Unfortunately, she took the advice of "a friend of a friend" and, some four years later, her portfolio showed a net loss of $1,100.

She then sought the advice of a broker. The branch manager in her town called personally and examined her stocks. Four of the seven she held, he said, were "very dubious — very speculative." She said she was interested in security, not speculation.

After an analysis, the broker returned with a recommended list of stocks. She accepted all but one, insisted, "I want to have some fun with the other." (P.S. She has done well with it.)

During the next four years, Miss X received some dividends and put them in the same stocks. She estimates today her holdings total nearly $20,000 at current prices. "I hope to begin taking out about $100 a month in dividends," she said.

This happens to be a success story. In a different market at another time, the ending might have been radically different.

But is illustrates a number of points:

1. Miss K is one of the thousands of new investors in the market. Some analysts estimate more than 500,000 people are coming in every year.

2. They are by no means all "big" investors. Many have annual incomes under $5,000.

3. Miss X had some savings. Americans are putting 20 billion dollars a year into savings today.

4. She has a pension and other sure income. Hence, she could look at the $5,000 as "surplus" money, a sum she could afford to risk.

One big attraction of the stock market today is the booming progress of American business. Corporations showed an estimated total profit of over 17 billion dollars in 1954—double what they earned in 1929.

Nevertheless, at year end, the stock market was beginning to worry a great many people. Was it too high? Was another wild orgy of speculation gathering momentum, to be followed by a crippling crash and a depression as in 1929.

Analysts pointed the sharp contrasts between 1954 and 1929. They said this is primarily an investment market, while 1929's was speculative. Still—

Indicators were aproaching the all-time highs, set in 1929. On Sept. 3 of that infamous year, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks hit 157.7. It has never been reached since, but it stood at 156.4 last Jan. 3.

And the Dow-Jones industrial average based on different components did zoom past the 1929 peak of 381.17. It went over 400 for the first time in history.

Suddenly, the Federal Reserve acted. Margin requirements were raised from 50 to 60 per cent. What did that mean? Well, formerly if you wanted to buy $100 in stocks "on margin," you put up only $50 and borrowed the other $50 from your broker. Now you have to put up $60. The Federal Reserve has sometimes put the rate up to 100 per cent—meaning, you can't borrow at all to buy stocks.

Then Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), new chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, announced the committee would hold an inquiry, probably beginning Feb. 21, to see what's going on in Wall Street.

Soon afterward, the market dropped, but it was still making news, the "biggest bull market in history."

Tomorrow: What is the stock market? Is it predictable?

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name *Preparation H. The price is only 98¢ a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied—your money will be refunded promptly. *Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Annual Auto Changes Reflect New Business Philosophy

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service
Economic Commentator

A striking contrast then and now in the attitude of leadership of the automobile industry toward the value of annual models changes gives a clue to shifts in the underlying philosophy of modern business.

A contemporary view was recently expressed by Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors Corp., who said that the annual model changes constituted the most important single factor for growth and progress.

He said that the custom stimulates technological advances, under which the automobile industry has grown and employment mounted. He added that the annual model change also made available sufficient good used cars to bring transportation to all income groups.

This appraisal brought to my mind a diametrically different opinion expressed to this writer at Dearborn, Mich., some 32 years ago by the original Henry Ford. Ford, in those Model T days, was resisiting the industry vogue of model changes, arguing that the added annual costs of new jigs, dies, and blueprints constituted economic waste. Evidently Ford's attitude was self-defeating, for by 1927 the static policy was hurting the relative position of Ford, while competitors were in the process of improving styling, color and design.

Faced with a rebuke from his master, the customer, Ford closed down his plants, designed a new and improved Model A, and after a few months resumed production. The reponse to the clamor for improvement saved the company, but the lag gave competition an opportunity in most subsequent years to wrest first place in sales from Ford.

Incidentally, the contemporary Ford management team, headed by Henry Ford II and Ernest R. Breech, executive vice president, who was trained by General Motors, is at the forefront of planned change, and in the past year made progress in getting back toward industry leadership.

This reference to differing approaches to opportunity on the American economic scene is not intended to reflect on the thinking of the original Ford, a great pioneer, to whom his industry and the national economy are so greatly indebted.

Ford made revolutionary contributions to economic concepts—the recognition that sales could be enhanced through the merchandising principle of giving the customer more for less through dealing with the cost sheet and achieving economies of quantity output.

. On top of this Ford added his thought that, instead of sweating workingmen, it would be prudent to show workers how to produce more and hence earn more, and thus convert them into potential customers for durable comfort goods, which previously had been beyond their financial means.

But it is significant that the contemporary leaders of the automobile industry don't take a static view, and limit their thinking to the precepts, laid down by the founder of the industry.

On this matter of annual model changes, Henry Ford was looking too narrowly at the cost sheet. He failed to appreciate the degree to which continuous improvement of product, through research and development, would accelerate obsolescence, and give new car buyers a motive for replacemnt long before the end of the physical life of an old car.

As Curtice has indicated, these frequent model changes tend to lessen the time span of ownership by new car buyers, and provide a flow of desirable used cars to those in income brackets which cannot afford new car purchases.

The annual model changes give a spur to competition along lines of technological progress and improvement, and pay their way, from the standpoint of the cost sheet of the national economy as a whole, through expanding volume of demand, and hence providing the economies of quantity production. Such accelerated obsolescence, in expanding the demand for new cars, avoids the economic waste of keeping manpower and tools unemployed, or employed at less than an optimum level.

Thursday she and her father attended funeral services for her mother, who died of cancer. Yesterday her father Morgan Hambrick, 52, jobless grocery clerk, died trapped in his burning house.

WHEN snow and ice cover the road, and fog descends, the mystery riders are abroad.

You know them by their signs . . . skidding . . . riding blind . . . colliding . . . suffering.

To the untrained eye they appear as you or I. But the mystery is there.

It is this. Why don't these otherwise sensible people learn the rules of winter driving? In other ways they adjust to survive the cold . . . in clothing, shelter, and living habits.

Think of the sorrow they could avoid—the accidents they could stop—if they would only grow up and learn the simple secrets of winter driving!

THE SIX RULES OF WINTER DRIVING

1. ACCEPT YOUR RESPONSIBILITY to do all in your power to drive without accident. Don't blame the weatherman for an accident.

2. GET THE "FEEL" OF THE ROAD.
Try brakes occasionally while driving slowly and away from traffic. Find out just how slippery the road is and adjust your speed to road and weather conditions.

3. KEEP THE WINDSHIELD CLEAR of snow and ice, fog and frost. Be sure headlights, windshield wiper blades and defrosters are in top condition.

4. USE TIRE CHAINS AND GOOD TIRES.
Don't rely on worn smooth tires. Use tire chains on snow and ice. They cut stopping distances about half, give 4 to 7 times more starting and climbing traction ability.
But even with the help of chains, slower than normal speeds are a "must" on snow and ice.

5. PUMP YOUR BRAKES
to slow down or stop. Jamming them on can rock the wheels and throw you into a dangerous skid. A little skidding can carry you a long way.

6. FOLLOW AT A SAFE DISTANCE.
Keep well back of the vehicle ahead—give yourself room to stop. Remember, without tire chains, it takes 3 to 12 times as far to stop on snow and ice as on dry concrete.

That Dog Problem Again

Our City Commission has done well to initiate plans for a meeting to discuss ways of combating the danger to school children from stray dogs.

The matter was brought up by Commissioners Carry and Patterson after three Webster School pupils had been bitten by a dog on the school premises. One child had a narrow escape from serious eye injury when bitten on the eyelid and cheek and is now taking Pasteur treatment.

Commissioner Carry suggested that school play yards might be fenced in to keep the dogs out or that dogs be leashed the year around. Pontiac's dog ordinance requires only that dogs be licensed and be confined to owners' premises between May 15 and September 30. There is no vaccination requirement.

Children are more important than dogs. For that reason we consider the idea of the meeting planned by the Commission an excellent one. It also is our conviction that everything within reason should be done to protect children from being bitten.

It seems to us that of Commissioner Carry's two suggestions, the more practical and less expensive is his proposal that dogs be leashed the year round.

We'd go farther and propose amendment of the ordinance to require that dogs be on leash or be confined to owners' premises at all times. We also believe they should be vaccinated against rabies for the additional protection of our children.

This is a difficult problem which can't be solved without fair-mindedness and co-operation. Let's act like an advanced community and solve it.

Protection for Lawmakers

The ease with which a woman invaded the House of Representatives to demand the right to speak, emphasizes the need for a better trained Capitol Police force with civil service status.

This intruder who got as far as Speaker Rayburn's desk, might have slipped by highly trained officers. But that doesn't alter the fact that Congressmen aren't getting the kind of protection they should have on the floor of the House. No one knows this better than the five lawmakers who were shot down by Puerto Rican fanatics last March.

Capitol Police themselves are aware of this inadequate protection. Last year Captain Broderick arranged to have his men attend the Metropolitan Police school. But the Senate failed to pass the House approved bill which would have given the force permanent status, and only a few officers completed the course.

As a result of the shift of political control, the patronage ridden force is rapidly falling apart. To keep these jobs in the category of political plums, Congress is risking its own safety.

The House would be justified in demanding prompt Senate approval of a bill to make this force efficient and put it on a career basis.

India Limits Our Planes

A recent decision by the government of India reducing to two each per week the number of flights U.S air lines can make to the sub-continent, is difficult for Americans to understand.

It is realized in this country that India has control of its own air and has a perfectly legal right to restrict arrivals of Trans World Airlines and Pan American World Airways planes.

But we are puzzled as to why the Nehru Government issued this order at a time when international amity probably is more important than at any other period in world history.

Certainly there never was a time when good U. S. - India relations were more vital. Essential to that, it seems to us, is unrestricted travel. That clearly seems called for at a time when India is trying to attract more American tourists.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Nehru will see the incongruity of this restriction and relax it.

Debt Consolation

There is more than one way of reducing the individual's share of a nation's debt, especially in a country like ours with a rapidly growing population.

That is one of the facts brought out in the President's budget message. On June 30 last the debt totaled $271.3 billion. Next June 30 it will be $274.3 billian and by mid 1956 it will have risen to $276 billion.

But in the same period the country's population will have increased from 162,414,000 to 168,000,000. On the basis of these figures the individual's share of the national debt last July 30 was $1,671.25. By mid 1956 it will have shrunk to $1,642.86, a per capita saving of $28.39.

"Space can't be defined," says a psysicist. Our definition is that it is a peculiar form of nothing which will contain something. If it weren't for this form of nothing, there wouldn't be anywhere to put anything, which would be an inconvenient situation.

Local Courts Are Making It Hard for Traffic Violators

Sheep: What you get the skin of when you graduate.

This column wishes to doff its hat to Oakland County courts for the manner in which they handle traffic violations. Outstanding are those Justices of the Peace in my own home town of Holly, both of whom impose fines of $100 or more, plus costs. And a jail sentence is added if it is drunk driving or other aggravated case.

Maxine Howe and Aubrey Butler,

And now Detroit comes to Oakland County for its most outstanding young man of the year. That honor recently went to at 6700 Orchard Lake Road, laid an egg that measures six inches round the small way.

Something new recently was sprung in a Pontiac divorce case, when one of the attorneys charged in court that, "The only thing they ever had in common is that they were married by the same justice."

"An inventor is just a screwball to most people," says

Charles F. Kettering,

GM's great research genius. "It is like weaving. The basic threads that run down through a fabric may be likened to basic natural laws. The threads that cross them and put the design into the fabric are the woof. It is the woof that the inventor supplies. He cuts across the natural laws, and ties them in together. He doesn't stick with any one law, or in any one field. So to most people he's a screwball."

It has been brought to my attention that three Pontiac area sisters,

Michigan Employment Office Tells Why Letter Writer Failed to Obtain Position

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

In your Voice of the People column last Thursday, Mr. F. E. Fleming criticized the failure of the Pontiac office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission to refer him to a job opening listed with us by a local concern.

Mr. Fleming had also registered with a private employment agency and states he was subsequently sent by them to the same concern for an interview.

Assuming that it is the same concern, Mr. Fleming was not considered because: (1) He did not meet the age specifications. (2) Mr. Fleming's salary on his last job, a job, by the way, procured through this agency, was far above that offered by the concern in question.

As to his questioning of this agency's rigid adherence to a policy of free community service, a loyal and hard working staff hopes that the above information will reassure Mr. Fleming.

J. W. Mesick Agrees With Ralph T. Keeling

I read the letter of Ralph T. Keeling in the Voice of the People and I heartily agree with what he wrote in regard to the fluoridation of water. I can say Amen to that. I also agree with what he writes about organic foods, refined sugar and robbing the soil of the essentials of the chemicals that build a healthy body.

I understand that the vitamins are in the outside of the kernel of grain. This we remove and feed to the stock and this helps to produce good meat.

If this is a government "of the people, by the people, for the people," they should have a right to decide whether they shall drink poison in their water or not and it should have been left to the vote of the people. It has been told me that the City of Seattle voted two to one against the fluoridation in their drinking water.

Social Security Welcome at Age 60 Says Reader

I agree with "Nearing 60." Social Security payments beginning at age 60 would be very welcome to some of us who have paid into the fund since its inception and having acquired a physical handicap along the way. I may not live to receive benefits at a later date.

Case Records of a Psychologist

YMCA Not a Competitor of Churches . . . It Fills Definite Need of Teenagers

Wallace Wade is an ingenious YMCA secretary who uses topnotch psychology to help teenagers enjoy themselves in a clean, moral environment. Instead of bemoaning delinquency, we should get behind the organizations in our community which prevent delinquency, such as the Y, Scouts, 4-H Clubs, Camp Fire Girls, etc.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case N-331: Wallace Wade, aged about 50, is the talented general secretary of the YMCA at Covington, Kentucky.

Recently I was invited down there to address the annual banquet session of the Y.

At everybody's place along the many banquet tables that night, was a scroll tied with ribbon and resembling a diploma. When I looked inside, I found that it was really a fancy stock certificate, but bore the following printed inscription:

"This certifies that the bearer is the owner of One Share of the Uncommon Stock of the Covington, Kentucky, Y. M. C. A. and is therefore entitled to a Full Dividend of Personal Satisfaction for having loyally supported the organization's work in this community."

Then it was signed by Wallace Wade and James H. Burton, president.

"How can we combat juvenile delinquency," hundreds of adults have asked me.

Well, the YMCA, the YWCA, the Camp Fire Girls, the 4-H, the CYO, plus the Boy and Girl Scout organizations, are ideal machinery to do the job.

So never go around bemoaning the fact that modern youth are going to the dogs. They aren't.

But if you wish to stop the number of delinquencies, then contribute of your time or money to help these wonderful youth organizations in their constructive efforts.

Encourage more Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y groups in your high schools. Thus, you channel the normal exuberance of youthful spirits into competitive athletic events, such as basketball or softball and swimming contests.

The YMCA is really the affiliated laboratory for every church in its area.

It offers a gymnasium, plus a swimming pool, for every church in the community. And it furnishes trained leaders who are specialists in youth work.

I mention these facts because an occasional old - fashioned church person will look askance at the Y and even feel that it is in open competition with the churches.

The reverse is actually true, for the Y secretaries are like assistant pastors for every local church. And the athletic program of the Y makes it possible for even a tiny neighborhood chapel to have a swimming pool and gymnasium for its youth.

Moreover, the Y is an interdenominational moral organization which takes teenagers after they have usually dropped out of Scout troops by the age of 16, and harnesses their interests in Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y activities in the high schools.

Since no single church can meet this need, the Y steps in and serves the youth of all the churches on an equal basis.

The Y at Covington, Kentucky, has a dandy location in the center of the city and not half a block off the main street. It has a large soda fountain and dining room with an adjacent ballroom that will accomodate 500 teenagers on Friday and Saturday nights.

After the school ball games, these youth can congregate at the Y for wholesome recreation, instead of being forced to patronize taverns.

Even if you have no Y in your smaller towns, why not utilize your local school gymnasium or swimming pool and let your churches or the Kiwanis, Rotary and other men's clubs furnish the chaperones to give your youth a meeting place for Friday and Saturday nights?

Thus, your expensive school buildings will pay back richer dividends to the taxpayers.

David Lawrence Says:

Ike's Formosa War Stand to Test Unity of Congress

WASHINGTON — The American people will learn this week whether they have a divided or a united government in Washington and likewise whether the free world is behind the United States in its forthwith stand against Communist aggression.

For the President, in sending a message to Congress which requests authority to use American armed forces to protect the American defense line in the Far East, has taken a decisive step. It calls for support by the Democratic as well as the Republican parties in both houses. It calls also for support of the principle by Great Britain, France, Italy and the other countries of the free world to whom the United States already has given similar commitment in the congressional authorizations related to the North Atlantic Treaty. For in that area a future attack on any one of the member countries is to be construed as an attack on the defense line of our own armed forces.

Occasions in American history when a President of the United States has asked for the passage of a joint resolution authorizing the use of the armed forces of this country are rare. Usually they arise when American military intervention already has occurred in an emergency and Congress is requested to ratify the step or else when authority is requested to ratify a state of war already begun by some other country.

This time the President is asking for a contingent authority—the right to use the armed forces if and when an act of invasion of the Formosa area—defined as within our defense or security orbit—is committed by a hostile power.

Actually the United States for all practical purposes now is in a state of war with the government of Red China which has 1,000,000 troops poised against the American and Allied forces in Korea. An armistice is not a treaty of peace and hence a state of war continues in Korea.

Pursuing this realistic fact, the President now is really asking for authority to protect the troops in Korea. For if by any neglect of the Formosa area, the Communist Chinese are able to conquer the armies of the Nationalists, the way is open for the Red Chinese to transfer their big army on the mainland to Manchuria and the vicinity of the Yalu River. To ignore this factor of the military situation is to put in jeopardy the American divisions now stationed in Korea.

Hence the President's message is in line with the traditional policy of the United States to protect its armed forces wherever they are. While American troops were sent to Korea to fulfill a mission directed by the United Nations, once they are stationed abroad their protection as an army does not cease to be the military obligation of the United States government.

The defense line of the United States at present extends from Korea southward to Okinawa, Formosa and The Philippines. Under the Truman Administration, the "defense perimeter' 'did not include Korea but it did run southward from Japan to Okinawa to Formosa and to The Philippines. So the Democrats are committed to the adoption of military measures to protect that line—in fact, it was this thesis which the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff upheld when Gen. Eisenhower was chief of staff of the Army prior to the outbreak of the war in Korea.

The defense of an American line in the Far East however is not solely a military matter that is confined to American forces. It goes to the obligations that are implicit in the treaties of mutual defense which have been drawn up with the Republic of Korea, the government of Formosa, The Philippines, Australia and New Zealand. In fact, the protection of all Southeast Asia is directly related to the joint resolution which the President now is requesting from Congress. For it means that the United States intends to make good on its pledges contained in those mutual defense pacts.

This is a concrete exhibition of American good faith. For a threat to the peace of the Far East indeed has arisen through the warfare by the Communists close to Formosa.

The moral impact of the step must inevitably be felt throughout the world and especially in Europe. It puts the United States on record as willing to do its share in the defense not only of the free countries in Europe but those of Asia as well. It is notice to the Communists that all the by-play about sentencing American prisoners as "spies" and seeking by propaganda methods to capitalize on the incident is irrelevant and that when the chips are down—as they appear to be in and around Formosa—the United States will employ its armed forces.

This means naval power and air power and the use of atomic power too. For today the dropping of atomic shells can be confined to military installations. The Communists now must understand that the United States means business and that "peaceful coexistence" must mean peaceful behavior on the part of the Communists, too, if the use of American armed force is not to be compelled.

Climbing up a wrapped box on a shelf, an ant saw a friend scurrying along the opposite edge at a great speed.

"Where on earth are you hurrying to?" inquired the first ant.

"Don't you see?" panted the other, indicating ahead of him. "It says: Tear along dotted line."

Answered

There was a pile of stones in the road and a lamp on the top of it. An old fellow was in charge.

"What's the lamp for?" he was asked.

"To warn motorists of the pile of stones."

"But what's the pile of stones for?"

To put the lamp on, of course."

Dr. Brady Has Not Seen Single Case of Gout, Rabies . . . Only One of Malaria

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Speaking of the use of meadow saffron (colchicum) as a remedy for what some physicians still call "gout," I said here recently that this medicine, in the form of the Wine of Colchicum (made from the corm and seeds of the plant; or in the form of the alkaloid or active principle, colchicine, "is considered specific in the treatment of gouty arthritis, especially in the acute stage" (quoting L. Maxwell Lockie, Ph. G., B.S., M. D., Cyclopedia of Medicine, Surgery and Specialties, Vol. VI, '43).

A specific is a remedy which prevents or cures disease by a peculiar property or influence. Quinine for malaria, for instance. I pointed out that no medical authority has conceived a rational explanation for the alleged curative effect of colchicine on gout or gouty arthritis. But then, no medical authority has explained how quinine prevents or cures malaria.

But who am I to question the soundness of these solidly established medical principles, beliefs or opinions?

I never saw a case of gout in hospital or private practice, and I saw just one case of malaria when I was an intern and one case when I was in practice in Penn Yan. Oh, yes, I saw numerous cases in hospital and private practice, in which some doctor had diagnosed malaria without even trying to find the plasmodia in the blood. These all proved to be some other disease.

The hospital case was a dandy, tertian malaria (chill every third day, in a laborer who had come from a southern district where malaria was endemic to work on a construction job in Buffalo where there was no malaria and probably is none today. We demonstrated the plasmodia in the red blood corpuscles in a drop of blood taken from the patient in a chill, for classes of medical students.

In order to preserve the status quo the professor asked us to give the patient only inert capsules (of Rochelle salts) instead of quinine, for a few days, so he could have all his students see the malarial organisms under the microscope at the bedside.

At the time I felt guilty about it. I debated with my conscience whether we were justified in withholding quinine, the specific for malaria, for even a few days. But I went along with the professor's wish—and did the patient come to disaster? Huh. In the course of ten days, although the patient received little or no quinine, the chills ceased, the fever disappeared, the patient felt so well we couldn't persuade him to stay any longer, and the malarial plasmodia disappeared from his blood.

Quinine a specific for malaria? Had we given that patient all the quinine we thought he needed the cure could not have been more spectacular.

Many, many times I have wished I never saw a case of malaria.

Anyway, I am consoled with the certainty that I have never seen a case of rabies in man—and 200,000 real doctors say the same thing—and I have never seen a case of gout either.

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

U. N. to Discuss Formosa War

Security Council May Meet Soon to Request Cease-Fire

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—New Zealand Prime Minister Sidney Holland and U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold were slated to discuss the Formosa Strait fighting here today.

Indications grew, meanwhile, that the U. N. Security Council might meet soon to consider a possible cease-fire request.

The organ of the Chinese Communist party, the Peiping People's Daily, in effect rejected any U.N. intrvention in Formosa, however. As quoted by a Peiping radio broadcast today, the paper said, "To liberate Taiwan (Formosa) and the Penghu (Pescadores) Islands is entirely China's domestic affair."

In London the pro-Labor Sunday Pictorial, without giving the source of its information, said British Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden had a plan to make Formosa an independent state under U. N. trusteeship, with Chiang Kai-shek's government "remaining as a sort of custodian for the U.N."

Associated Press Correspondent Richard Kasischke reported from Moscow that many Russians apparently are frightened that the Formosan question may blow up into a new world war, beginning with a clash between the United States and Red China.

The Peiping broadcast said a U. N. cease-fire request would "in effect mean asking the Chinese people to recognize the 'legality' of the United States occupation of Chinese territory, Taiwan."

It asserted that the only way to ease tension in the area was to withdraw the U. S. 7th Fleet from Formosa's waters.

Ex-Marine Quizzed in Vegas Gun Death

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A young ex-Marine, who claims to be the son of a former state senator in Maine, has been booked here for investigation of murder in the desert slaying of an Air Force sergeant.

Leland B. Currier Jr., 22, was arrested at Bakersfield, Calif., Saturday. California highway patrolmen said he was driving a bloodstained car belonging to M. Sgt. Hollie Prestage, 34 whose bullet-riddled body was found on the desert near Las Vegas Saturday morning.

Currier gave his home as Litchfield, Maine, and said his father had served a term in the State Senate of Maine. In Brunswick, Maine, Mrs. Dorothy Currier, 24, said yesterday that she has a stepson by the name Leland B. Currier Jr. and that his father, the former state legislator, died last Nov. 3. She said Leland Jr. joined the Marines in 1953.

Pack 6-Shooters to Lick Commies, Gun Fans Told

DETROIT (AP) — A pistol-packing, straight-shooting citizenry would prove a powerful deterrent to Soviet Russian aggression, says an Ohio firearms expert.

Miller Bedford of New London, Ohio, told the Michigan gun collectors Assn. in Detroit yesterday that "the best way to beat the Commies is for every real man to wear a six-shooter in his belt."

"The Reds don't want to face an American well-armed on the home front," Bedford said.

He added:

"Every time someone tries to pass an antifirearms law, the Reds are right back of it. If they can limit the carrying of weapons to cops, they've got us over a barrel."

Bedford said, however, he would limit his gun-toting plan to "responsible citizens."

Navajos Push Water Project

Tribe Plans to Stage Historic War Dances for Colorado River Job

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP)—Some 2,000 Navajos will dramatize the battle for the upper Colorado River water storage project with sacred war dances last performed 87 years ago when the Indians signed their treaty of peace with the United States.

From the vast stretches of their 15-million-acre reservation, the Navajos came to this tribal seat for the performance, primarily aimed at attracting national attention to the plight of the tribe, largest in America.

The Upper Colorado River Commission and the Navajo Tribal Council scheduled a meeting before the dances.

"We are fighting for what rightfully is ours," said Sam Ahkeah, Navajo council chairman. "Some elements are trying to stop the upper Colorado River project. That is not right. They are taking our water, which is our life.

"We are determined that the American people know this. This project will make our land green."

The 1½-billion-dollar first phase of the project was reintroduced in Congress last week by Sen. Anderson (D-NM) and Rep. Dawson (R-Utah). It failed to get through during the last session.

The project calls for six major dams in the four Upper Basin states — New Mexico, Wyoming, Colorado and Utah — and many smaller projects.

Major opposition has come from California. It fears its water allotment guaranteed under the Colorado River Compact of 1922 could be cut.

Philadelphian Fights Fireball

Call It Whatever You Like, but It Sure Was Plenty Hot

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Whatever it was, William C. Cunningham, 52, will tell you it was mighty hot.

He was standing in his bedroom in suburban Darby Township yesterday when he heard a crash of glass, turned and saw a fireball, about the size of a grapefruit, bounce off an oil heater to the floor. Then it exploded.

His first thought was to throw the object out the window. He said: "It was hot and heavy and as I threw it, it blazed up and seemed to disintegrate. Some of it landed on the bed and exploded again."

Cunningham's right hand was burned almost to the bone.

Fire Marshal Francis X. Joseph of Delaware County said it might have been a meteorite. He tested it with a 1,700-degree flame from a propane torch but the object only glowed. He got no reaction with a magnet.

However, Dr. C. P. Oliver, emeritus professor of astronomy at the University of Pennsylvania, and Dr. I. M. Levitt, director of Fels Planetarium, both expressed doubt that it was a meteorite.

Dr. Oliver said:

"From everything that I have been told by the firemen and the fact that the object came through the window at an angle instead of through the roof, I believe it may have been a homemade bomb."

Dr. Levitt said most meteorites burned themselves out before they hit the ground and exploded when they were about 10 to 35 miles away from earth.

Bob Considine Says:

General MacArthur Is Only American Who Truly Knows Nations of Far East

NEW YORK (INS) — A mothballed public servant of the United States named Douglas MacArthur will be 75 years old this week. He's going to make one of his rare speeches and public appearances in Los Angeles, where there's a park named for him. He could with justification paraphrase Lincoln and say, as his preface, "Washington will little note nor long remember what we say here, but . . ."

MacArthur is in electric razors now, plus typewriters and Univac, which is Remington Rand's ultimate calculator that does everything but give milk and costs better than $1,000,000.

Members of Congress drop in to see him from time to time, to ask what is the score of the crazy ball game we're all engaged in or are watching. But the Eisenhower administration plainly took him at his word. In the eyes of the administration he indeed faded away, especially after it became obvious he was for Taft.

MacArthur is happy with his new work, and strives at improving his business knowledge with the zeal of a junior salesman bucking for a bonus. He goes to the office in Connecticut two or three times a week, sees prospective customers (Univac-type) at his apartment in the Waldorf on other days, and spends some time at his downtown military office, which handles the bulk of his impressive mail.

But his forced inactivity in defense matters and other fields vital to the welfare of the U. S. constitutes one of the more appalling wastes of our natural resources on record. Over half a century he has been our brightest military mind.

Born in the Army, raised in the Army, he set unparalleled marks for valor and achievement in two world wars, in Korea and skirmishes as separated as the trouble with Mexico in 1914, the Philippine insurrection of a decade and more before, and the Russian-Japanese War in which he was Theodore Roosevelt's observer. He was chief of staff under both Hoover and F. D. R., and an unexcelled prophet of things to come and mentor and hero of hosts of men who gained fame as generals—including Eisenhower.

But President Truman fired him like a flunky and President Eisenhower is advised not to seek his advice or counsel on military matters.

For about 15 years this country has been deeply involved in the Far East. First there were negotiations of a sort with Japan, then in a costly war against that nation, which included fantastically contrived aid to China. There followed the democratization of defeated Japan, the restoration of that nation and of the Philippines, the defense of Korea, and the wrangling with Red China—which may continue for a long time to come. Maybe forever.

It can be pretty safely said that only one American truly knows all those countries' military, economic, social and traditional sides — MacArthur. He has mingled with Japanese and Filipinos since his first assignments as a young shavetail just out of West Point at the turn of the century. He kept Chiang Kai-Shek in the war against Japan, was in the field against the force which replaced Chiang.

He brilliantly avenged Bataan, Corregidor, Manila and Pearl Harbor. His work as a pro-consul in the rehabilitation of Japan, he feels, will be remembered long after he has been forgotten as its conqueror.

But nobody in the administration asks him what to do in our difficult hit-or-miss dealings with that part of the world.

Congress is considering granting MacArthur the only military position he has not had, the rare title of "general of the armies"—a sort of sixth star which would put him with Pershing in the annals of American arms. It would be a nice gesture and he'd accept it warmly, if it is offered.

But it would be nice, too, if Washington gave a damn that he is alive, rugged, has all his marbles, and would go to work tomorrow as a buck private if called upon.

In its outlook on elders, this country has failed pitifully to keep pace with the extension of life expectancy. The wonder drugs, sports, better living conditions and diets have boosted the life expectancy more than 20 years since 1900. But we still turn people out of their jobs at 65 or less.

Employers still balk at hiring workers after 45. Age, somebody decided, is to be classed with leprosy but is not to be as sympathetically treated.

MacArthur at 75 is mentally younger than many men a third his age. He is spry, alert, surprisingly free of bitterness, supremely self-possessed in a time of epidemic uncertainty, and willing.

He is a burning oilwell, an abandoned mansion, a neglected book, an untapped reservoir in a drought area. Ah, it's a great pity.

But, at least, we can wish him a happy birthday.

And many, many more.

Sons of Artists Missing 9 Days Reported Okay

HAVERFORD, Pa. (AP)—The sons of commercial artists Norman Rockwell and Courtland Hoppin have disappeared from their Haverford College dormitories but Rockwell says he has no fears for their well-being.

The boys, Peter Rockwell, of Stockbridge, Mass., and Nicholas Hoppin, of New York City, both 18-year-old freshmen, left nine days ago without notifying or getting permission of college officials, Dean William Cadbury said yesterday.

Rockwell, contacted at his home, said that his son had telephoned him Saturday and that he was "all right." Rockwell did not say where the boys were.

Classmates said the two planned to go to Mexico "in search of adventure." Rockwell said that his son told him that Hoppin and he planned "to make their own way."

Said the elder Rockwell: "He'll be all right wherever he is. I have a hunch he'll return to school next fall, however."

Hints New Line in Red Probes

McClellan Calls Senate Group Into Session for Reorganization

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) called the Senate Investigations subcommittee into session today to organize under his chairmanship and he said it may open up some new lines of inquiry.

He declined to give any details.

Also to be considered by the subcommittee, which was headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) in the last Congress, is various "unfinished business." In this category, McClellan said, is the Army's handling of the case of Irving Peress, the New York dentist who was promoted to major and then honorably discharged after he had refused to answer questions about communism.

McClellan added, however, that there still is some staff work to be done before the subcommittee can reopen hearings on the Peress case.

One of the principal purposes of today's meeting was to agree on a budget, which McClellan expects to be somewhat less than $200,000. McCarthy got $214,000 for the subcommittee's work last year.

McClellan said the subcommittee also may name a new chief counsel.

Robert F. Kennedy, brother of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), reportedly was slated for the job. The post has been vacant since Roy M. Cohn, one of the principals in the McCarthy-Army hearings, resigned last summer.

Supreme Soviet Called to Meeting in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's parliament, the Supreme Soviet, was summoned today to meet in Moscow Feb. 3. The decree calling the session was signed by Klementi Y. Voroshilov, chairman of the Supreme Soviet's Presidium.

The session will be the second held by the present Soviet, which was elected last year. Its chief business is expected to be approved of the government's annual budget.

Some aspects of modern Christmas celebrations, including the exchange of gifts and decoration with evergreens were used in the Roman Saturnalia long before the Christian era.

Hal Boyle Says:

Caracas' Wealth Flows Freely in Gigantic Boom

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—There is so much wealth flowing around that even tourists get a break. If you kick a diamond out of a rock here, the government lets you keep it tax free unless it is worth more than $1,700. You can also go pearl diving and keep any pearls you find.

The visitor has a dazed sensation he is caught in a mid-Century Klondike gold rush. The atmosphere of quick money is overwhelming, and tales of riches made overnight are a Bolivar a dozen.

Venezuela is bigger than Texas and Oklahoma combined and larger than any European country except Germany. Its chief income is from oil—no land except the United States produces more—but it also has iron ore deposits rivaling the famed Minnesota Mesabi range. It also has cowboys and Indians, 16,000-foot tall mountains, jungles, beach resorts, and the world's highest waterfalls.

Although the nation has a population of only 5½ million, the government spent half a billion dollars in 1954 on vast public works projects and still ended up with 80 million dollars left in the till. Its huge modernization program calls for the future expenditure of 800 million dollars alone for a new 2,640-mile railway network to open inland mineral and agricultural areas for further development.

Foreign investors from the United States and Europe are pouring untold more millions into the industralization of the country. It has taken in more than 100,000 immigrants from Europe the last 10 years.

Caracas, the 388-year-old capital, is now one of the world's greatest boom cities. Five years ago milkmen herded cows through its ancient streets. Today they are jammed by thousands of new high-priced motor cars.

You reach the city from the nearby port along recently completed 11-mile highway that cost 71 million dollars, which Caraquenos proudly boast is, mile for mile, the most expensive ever built.

Nearly a million people live in the metropolitan area, and so many new buildings are going up construction workers have no time even to take Sundays off to go to the bull fights.

Dominating the heart of the city is Centro Bolivar, Venezuela's "Rockefeller Center," which will cost 300 million dollars. Its twin 300 - foot towers, housing government offices, have four traffic levels beneath them.

Caracas also has a baseball park the size of Yankee Stadium, the new 8-million-dollar Hotel Tamanaco, a technicolored 30-million-dollar polyclinic hospital, and a university as modern as any in the world.

But the city has abysmal poverty as well as tremendous wealth. The shanties of the poor still crowd many of the raw red hills that stud Caracas. The government has torn down thousands of these eyesores and replaces them with forty 15-story apartment buildings at a cost of 24 million dollars. Workmen can rent the apartments for $6 to $30 a month, own them after a period of 20 years.

In 1955 the government plans to tear down 6,500 more shacks, spend 24 million dollars more on apartment projects for low income workers.

Oddly, many uprooted workmen's families are unhappy in their fine new apartments.

"The old shacks had a small yard in which the families could raise a pig and a few chickens," explained our guide. "It is all but impossible, of course, to raise a pig in an apartment, and many of the old people in particular get lonesome for their old way of life. They don't feel as free as they did."

Progress always has its price, and to some the price doesn't seem worth it.

The longest railroad bridge in the world is the 12-mile trestle over the Great Salt lake in Utah.

Pope's Doctor Leading Italian National Party

ROME (AP)—One of Pope Pius' consulting physicians, Sen. Raffaele Paolucci de Valmaggiore, is the new president of the National Monarchist party.

Paolucci, a leading surgeon, was elected by the party Saturday night. He pledged to work for a reconciliation with the Popular Monarchist party led by Achille Lauro, shipping millionaire and long-time mayor of Naples. Lauro split the old Monarchist party last June because of personal differences with the party directorate.

Fire Victim Succumbs

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Paul M. Henney, 67, of Battle Creek, died Friday of burns suffered Dec. 5, in an apartment fire. He was the second death resulting from the fire. Thomas Cliskey, 55, a roommate, suffered a fatal heart attack attempting to help Henney whose clothing caught fire while he was asleep.

Mae VanderHoek Wears Lace for Wedding Rite

MRS. H. THOMAS RILEY

Baskets of gladioli, chrysanthemums and carnations banked the altar of First Congregational Church as Mae VanderHoek approached the altar to become the bride of H. Thomas Riley.

The ceremony was held Saturday evening on the 25th wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter VanderHoek of East Beverly avenue. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cratus T. Riley also of East Beverly avenue.

The Rev. Malcolm Burton performed the seven o'clock ceremony before 250 guests.

A gown of white Chantilly lace over satin and a skirt fashioned with tiers of nylon net was worn by the bride. Her fingertip veil of illusion was secured by a headpiece of lace and pearls, and she carried a white Bible with an arrangement of stephanotis, centered with an orchid.

Mrs. William Foster attended the bride as matron of honor wearing a pink floor length gown fashioned with bolero jacket of lace. Wearing identical gowns of cotillion blue were Joan VanBelle of Keego Harbor, Shirley Riley, sister of the bridegroom, and Rose Siebert. They carried cascade arrangements of pink carnations.

Paul Henderson of Royal Oak served as best man and seating the guests were Lane VanderHoek, brother of the bride; Herbert Pinner and Mr. Foster.

Mrs. VanderHoek greeted her guests at a reception held in the church parlors wearing a pink dress with navy accessories. Mrs. Riley chose a navy dress with pink accessories. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

The new Mrs. Riley changed to a charcoal dress with black and light blue accessories for a wedding trip to Washington, D. C. She wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Upon their return they will reside in Pontiac. The bridegroom is attending the University of Detroit.

The Clarence H. Stolpes of Starr avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Suzanne, to Charles William Wixom, son of the Charles S. Wixoms of Lakeland avenue. She is a graduate of the University of Michigan School of Nursing. He attends the University and is a member of Sigma Chi. A Sept. 10 wedding is planned.

'Hard Times' Party Held Saturday

Although 'Hard Times" was the theme of the Hoedowners Square Dance at Owen School Saturday evening, a "swell time" was the impression of the 40 sashaying couples who attended the event.

Callers for the evening introduced by Ben D'Arcy, master of ceremonies, were Roy Burch, Walt Ashley, Dewitt Hart, Ralph Monroe, Marvey Gilchrist, Robert Grosjean and Cecil Elsholtz.

Guests of the club included the Ralph Dodges, the Ralph Wiers, the Stanley Ladds, the James Kelchners, the Fred Hubers and the Francis Kings.

Ralph Monroe, president, welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Owen Rindfusz, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Palladino and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mora as new members.

A Valentine dance and box social will be held Feb. 5. Persons interested in joining a square dance club should contact the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department.

Anniversary Plans Are Slated Feb. 3

The Women's Society of Redeemer Lutheran Church will celebrate its 30th anniversary Feb. 3 at one o'clock in the church parlors.

Highlighting the event will be a historical sketch of the activities of the past years. Following the program tea will be served by Mrs. M. Craig Miller, Mrs. Harry Anderson, Mrs. A. B. Ardussi, Mrs. Lee Mohr, Mrs. W. R. Rapp and Mrs. Louis Vardon.

Birth Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Morris (nee Helen Kern) of Lancaster road are announcing the birth of a daughter, Mary Angela, on Jan. 21 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. Mrs. Gus Morris of San Diego, Calif., is the infant's paternal grandmother.

The ceremony was performed Saturday morning at nine o'clock in St. Michael Church. The bride, who was given in marriage by Lynn Poole, wore a gown of white satin and Chantilly lace. She carried an arrangement of white roses on a white Bible.

Alice Myre was maid of honor wearing a ballerina length gown of teal blue. The bride's sister, Mrs. Donald Sivrais, was another attendant wearing a gown of pink. They carried bouquets of carnations and roses.

Good Design Knowledge Aids Do-It-Yourself Fans

NEW YORK (NEA) — As the high tide of do-it-yourself washes over the country, it tosses up on the beach here and there a few hobbyists who are potential professional craftsmen.

To take the giant step from amateur to professional involves a knowledge of good design. It isn't enough to master the technique of weaving, woodworking or pottery-making without an understanding of design.

If you, as a hobbyist, are ambitious and want to study design, a museum is a fine place to start. Actually, there is guidance nearly everywhere if it's recognized as such. Fine shops provide the means for design study, and at no cost.

Less than 20 years ago, an exhibition of the work of contemporary craftsmen by a museum was unknown. But today, museums all over the country are recognizing the zooming hand arts as being a part of the general art field.

Some of the outstanding exhibits include the Designer-Craftsman Show, which originally opened at the Brooklyn Museum; the annual May Show at the Cleveland Museum; the yearly annual craft exhibit at the Detroit Art Institute; the annual textile show at the De Young Museum of San Francisco; the craft show at the Wichita Art Association; the national ceramics exhibit at the Syracuse Museum and the Worcester Museum's exhibit of the work of Massachusetts craftsmen.

The only national organization devoted to the interests of craftsmen in this country is the American Craftsmen's Educational Council, Inc., a pioneer in the field of offering help and advice to craft workers.

Its aim is the improvement of standards in the craft fields. It sponsors eight crafts exhibits annually in its gallery in New York. Its summer exhibits display the work of craftsmen under the age of 30, stressing new crafts trends and ideas. In addition, there are traveling exhibits shown in schools and museums throughout the country.

The Council also maintains America House in New York. This is the best known outlet in this country for the work of American craftsmen. It is owned by the Council, and any profits from it are used for the further benefits of craftsmen.

Home Owners Can Prevent Winter Fires

ITHACA, N. Y. (UP) — Home owners can do much to prevent fires this winter, Cornell University researchers say.

Fires due to bad chimneys, faulty stoves and stove pipes, careless and improper storage of combustible materials can be avoided in any home, they point out, if proper precautions are taken. Here are some suggestions:

Check the heating system thoroughly, Gas and heat leaks, especially in sectional furnaces, should be calked with iron cement. Chimneys should be cleaned and inspeced for loose bricks and mortar.

Clean and tighten all stove pipes. They should be located a safe distance from combustible materials and protected by collars or metal shields; this is particularly true where the pipes pass through a partition or floor.

Clean stoves and furnaces, too. An eighth of an inch of soot cuts down the efficiency of heat transfer by 10 per cent.

Finally, get rid of all rubbish and provide safe storage facilities for combustible materials, such as paper, rags, gasoline and paint supplies.

Garment Trimming Must Be Washable

Check the trimmings before you buy a washable wool garment. The fewer trimmings the better, and be sure even those few are washable. A velvet trim you will want to be of washable nylon velvet.

If contrasting color piping or banding is used, check for colorfastness lest one color bleed onto the other.

Hills Couple Speak Vows

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — At two o'clock Sunday afternoon in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Morgan Richards on Lone Pine road, Karlan Lafont Richards was married to Harold Richard Styler.

The bride's uncle George W. Romney read the Latter Day Saints service and only the families were present.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Styler of Nurnberg, Germany and is an exchange student now at Fort Riley, Kan.

The bride wore a full skirted waltz length dress of Nile green pure silk and carried a small portrait bouquet of green cymbidium orchids. She was attended by her sister Mrs. Paul Erekson of Provo, Utah and a school friend, Ann Hinckley of Boston.

Mrs. Romney with Scott, Jane and Mitt Romney, the bride's brothers, Morgan and Robert Richards, Mrs. Ruth Colby and her children Kristen and Steve and Mrs. Erekson's small son Jon were present.

A large reception was given for friends from three until five Sunday afternoon.

The bride has been attending Wayne University but will transfer to Kansas State College. Both young people plan to study for their masters degree in Germany.

High Heels Not Good All the Time

When a leading woman in the world of Paris fashion made a trip to the United States, she told the somewhat startled reporters that she had about 40 pairs of shoes—all cut from the same last.

For a woman confident of her taste, this is a wonderful idea, but one sincerely hopes, for the sake of the health of her legs and feet, that this woman was leaving some of the story untold.

For her chosen shoe was a handsome calf pump with the slimmest and highest of heels.

Women who, by virtue of their work or position, must wear pumps most of the time should most definitely have a firm, comfortable pair of flat heels for wear on the q.t.

For, if you wear high heels as your only shoes, you will find that the muscles of the legs take up to conform to the position of your foot.

And pretty soon you find that the calves of your legs are very uncomfortable when you're out of your pumps. To avoid the discomfort, you find yourself doing laundry or washing dishes in your heels. And so on.

The circle needs to be broken some time during the day by wearing flat heels, low heels or going barefoot. The shortening of the muscle is less drastic, but the general idea is close to the ancient practice of binding feet. Our fine, well-designed bodies are made to conform to some idea of beauty that wrecks the design.

Mrs. Quinn Gets Weekly Trophy

Mrs. Nick Kerchoff was appointed as hostess of the Fashion Your Figure Club when the group met recently at Pontiac Senior High School. The weekly trophy for losing the most weight was awarded to Mrs. Robert Quinn.

Leonard Buss, of the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, gave a talk and showed slides on the various activities covered by the parks and recreation department.

Members will wear basic dresses to the next meeting and will learn how accessories can be added to make different ensembles.

Engagement Told

Mr. and Mrs. James Smith of Graves street are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to Roy L. Luckes. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Luckes of Oxbow Lake. A March 5 wedding is bing planned by the couple.

Sheer Seamless Hosiery Gives Wardrobe Boost

There's something about some women's legs that makes stocking seams a constant blight. These distressed creatures spend a major part of their day popping around the corner to straighten a seam or worrying about it.

Seamless stockings seemed the answer to these women, but they regretted that they could find only the kind of not-too-fancy seamless hose.

So they had their choice of struggling with seams on dressy stockings or being comfortable in something they felt was inadequately sheer.

Happily, those days are gone. Seamless stocking manufacturers are now making seamless hose in such variety that the antiseam faction can have a whole wardrobe of their favorites.

For the very bare shoes of the mule design, there are sheer sandal foots in the seamless models. For everyday wear, there are demi-toe designs.

For wear with closed pumps, there are seamless styles with reinforced heels and toes. These are designed so that none of the reinforcing shows above the shoe.

For gals whose work means stocking runs every day, there's a seamless micromesh. Some have a lockstitch that looks sheerer, yet still wears well.

For those who like kneehighs, there are seamless styles here, too. And for those who yearn for real durability, seamless in service weight are available.

With all the variety, the seamless fan need no longer lack a full stocking wardrobe.

Sit Down Right

When you go to sit down, approach chair from side. Turn slightly, ease yourself down with thigh muscles. You should end up with your ankles gracefully crossed, if you start with your feet one in front, one next to chair in back.

You Can Make Wrap

You could make it yourself—a beach or after-bath wrap-up of terry. But with a difference, for the wide lurid stripes go crosswise rather than up and down.

Unfairness in Past Life Often Alienates Parents from Their Children

Be Suspicious of Great Anger at Child

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Outside the juvenile court, it was a cold day. Inside it, it could have been even colder. For one of the people who stood before the judge was a child. The other was a mother—and what she was doing was to itemize grievances that would commit the child to a reformatory.

It could have chilled me to listen, so bitter was her voice.

The girl cared for nothing but fun, said her mother. She was useless around the house. School was a laugh; she went if she felt like it—if she didn't, she didn't. Now she'd taken up with this good-for-nothing man. . .

Would she listen when you warned her that all he wanted was a good time? Would she ask herself what a 28-year-old loafer wanted with a kid of 15? No, she wouldn't. She didn't care about anything. She was bad.

And, "Your Honor," the mother concluded, "I want her sent away where I won't have to see her any more."

As I said, I might have shivered. I didn't. I had knowledge that kept me from shivering. The woman who wanted her child put away where she wouldn't see her any more had been given a very, very bad time by a good-for-nothing person herself.

So, instead of shivering, I said to myself, "I see. One very, very bad time with a good-for-nothing is enough for one human life. She's not bitter at her child. She's just afraid of another bruise on an old bruised place."

What release it would have been if she'd known it! Instead she had to stand there, hard-faced beside the lost child, hate putting a million miles between them because she couldn't place it on the person it belonged to.

For our own sakes, let's always try to remember to be very suspicious of intense anger at a child.

Hardly ever does the intensity belong to him. Nearly always, what he's done is to hit an old bruise.

We explode at Beth's carelessly-washed dinner dishes, not knowing that we're exploding at the little sister who used to get away with carelessly-done chores that we had to do perfectly. We weep over her criticism because we were slapped across the mouth for criticizing.

We hear a small son tattling on us to his father—and never suspect that our hurtful sense of injustice is the pain of some old betrayal we think we have forgotten.

It's the old bruises that alienate us from children. The angrier we are, the sharper we should look for them. For when we locate them, love for the child is restored to us. We can see the hurt he has given us disconnected from the hurts he hasn't given us.

Try It

Play Chain Tug-O-War

Here is a game that is fun and all you need is people! Try this game at your next group get-together.

Have you ever played Tug O'War with a rope? This game is different in that no rope is needed. Divide the players up into an equal number for each Tug team. Mark or tape a line on the floor and ask the leader of each group to stand with their feet touching the line.

Now, each player puts his arms around the person in front of him and grasps his own left wrist with his right hand. The two leaders grasp each other's wrists. At the word Go the teams see who can pull two men over the line. Two out of three tries makes a winner.

This game is fun for three or more players on each team, or it can have up to 20 or 30.

Take Care of Enamel Fixtures

By HUBBARD COBB

As you probably all know, most of the fixtures in your bathroom and kitchen are steel or cast iron with a nice smooth and bright coating of enamel as a finish.

Now this enamel coating is pretty tough but it isn't as tough as some people think and once it's damaged it will never look quite the same again in spite of patching.

One of the things that can harm enamel is a sudden change in temperature. What happens when this occurs is that there is a difference in the rate of expansion or contraction between the enamel and the base and the result is that the enamel chips off.

For example, if you wipe down a kitchen range that is good and hot with a cloth soaked in cold water you may find when you are finished that some of the enamel has chipped or cracked.

The same thing often occurs in homes where the hot water is too hot. Someone turns on a hot water tap for a bath and the next thing you know the enamel around the drain of the tub has chipped.

There is just one way to avoid this sort of trouble and that is to be careful. Never wipe off a hot range with any sort of damp cloth until the range has had a chance to cool down a bit.

A cloth dampened in warm water is superior to one diped in cold water. Never open a hot water tap wide open on a cold fixture. Mix in a little cool water until the fixture has had time to adjust.

As long as the heat is applied gradually, the enamel can stand plenty but it must be applied gradually.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

"People aren't as friendly here as they are back home," said the newcomer to the old-timer. And what's more they aren't likely to be—if the newcomer hangs onto that superior attitude.

Organize Whole Family Along With Home Work

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"I have some advice for your readers who want to start a business at home," a young woman writes, "and it has to do with the personal part, the effect on the rest of the household. I learned it the hard way, and would like to warn other women of the dangers."

She explains that she is married, with two small children, and her mother lives with them.

"My husband wouldn't hear of my going out to work and letting my Mother take care of the children," she says.

"Yet, with the two of them needing just about everything in the world, with Mother to take care of financially, and with John in a good job with a good future but not such a good pay check now, we did really need extra money.

"I considered about everything you could think of, and finally decided to do simple dressmaking and alterations. I am very good at it, especially alterations, and had always done it for my friends.

"I got John's permission to do it at home—if I could get any takers. So I advertised in the newspaper, and pretty soon I began to get quite a few people who wanted dresses taken in, or hems changed, or even some pretty major alterations.

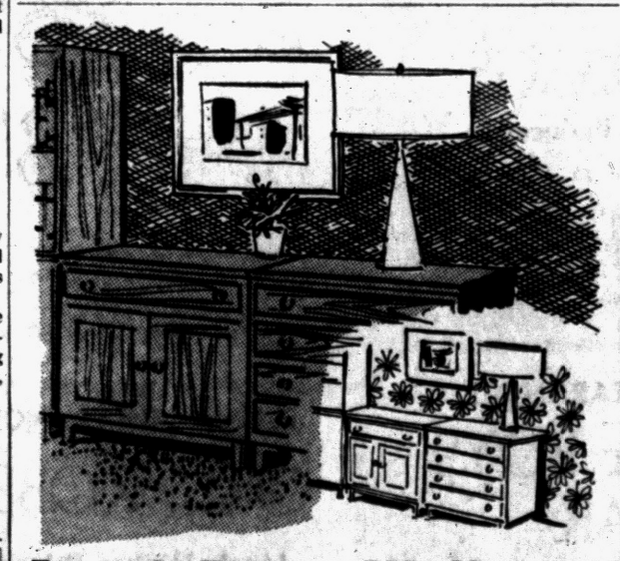

At first it was fine; just a few customers, and they didn't mind coming to the house, and things were smooth.

"But after a while, the trouble began. I got a good many customers, and they were always coming and going, and the living room, half the time, was a mess.

The children got jealous, I guess, and began to throw fits of badness whenever I had a customer, and Mother began to carry on about running our home, and when I was out marketing, if a customer telephoned, Mother didn't bother to get the messages straight. I began to lose business, and became a nervous wreck.

"Finally, I decided something had to be done, and I called the whole family together. I told them I loved this work; it was dignified and pleasant and brought in a lot of money that we could well use. I told the children it would mean more toys and nicer presents, and I insisted on a few things which any young mother doing business at home should insist on.

Here they are, for the record: 1. A room all my own, to do business in, into which nobody could come except myself and customers. (We used the basement room and fixed it up inexpensively and attractively.) 2. Regular hours for business—mine are one to six. 3. Co-operation of the family in taking phone calls accurately."

Avoid Bossy Wallpaper to Get Textured Look

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

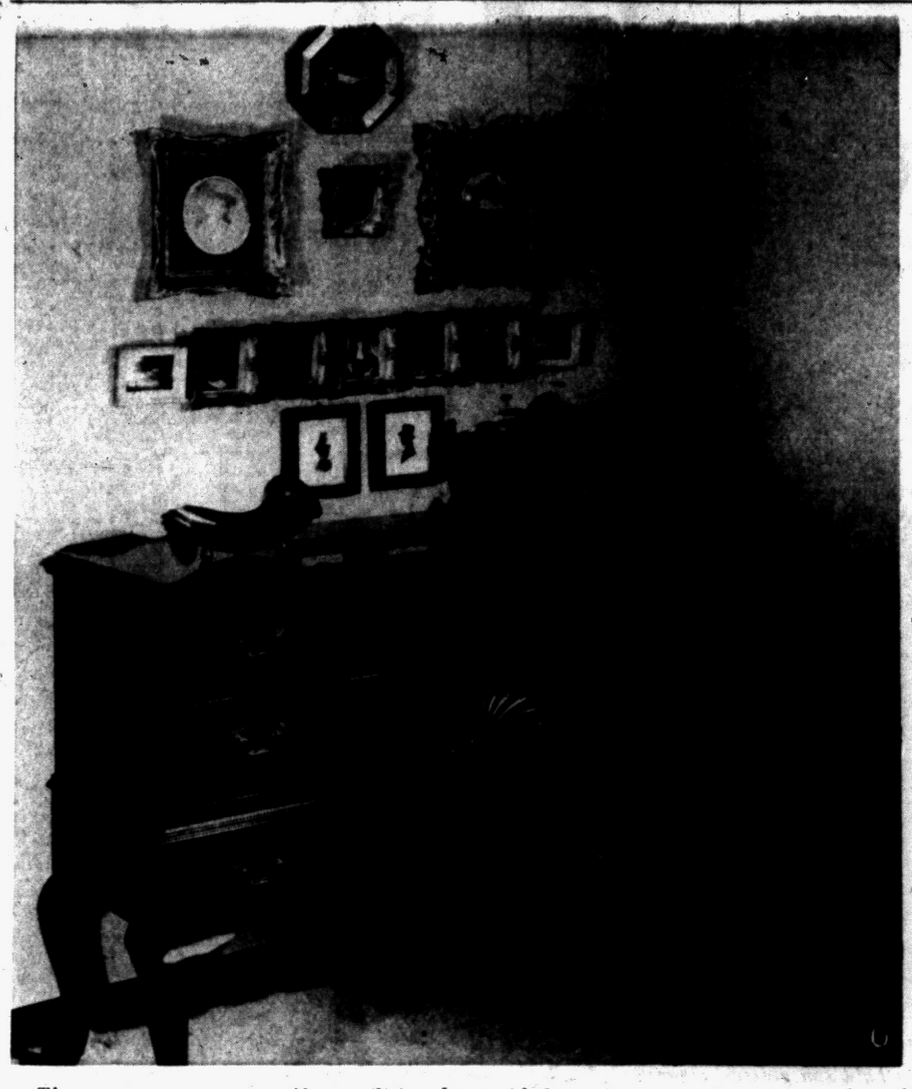

It's so easy today to avoid bossy wallpaper. There's no reason at all why papered walls should take over the room and make the choosing of everything else difficult—not when there are so many of the new small, all-over patterns to choose from.

These make walls interesting in a quiet way so they remain in the background and really have an effect of texture rather than of pattern.

They're wonderful problem-solvers for the room that needs quieting, because drapery and upholstery fabrics speak up boldly—for the small, low ceilinged room that grows smaller as pattern on the walls grows larger—for the room that calls for a smartly simple setting for smartly simple furniture.

Sometimes only two colors are used, and these may be as closely related as two shades of the same color—two shades of gray for example—or they may be soft colors that contrast very little with each other, such as gray and white. For a one-stroke quick change that will make a complete change of style for the room, trade a bossy big pattern for one that is quiet and new.

McBride Suggests

Try Whipping Those Speed Demons

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

My solution to the traffic problem, if only somebody in authority were interested, includes two brief items.

1. Bring back the public whipping post and sentence rude, careless and incautious drivers to a specified number of lashes.

2. If we get them, use at least part of the 101-billion dollars of federal funds suggested for new roadbuilding to put potholes, corduroy surfaces, sharp turns and other hazards into the existing super-speed highways.

At the approach of every holiday, newspapers, television and radio feverishly exhort drivers, picturing vividly the fatal results of recklessness. And after every holiday, the mortality statistics exceed the most pessimistic predictions.

As long as we have highway engineers, they will dream up superhighways. As long as we have automotive engineers, they will keep on building greater speed and more power into machines. And as long as people are as they are, some of them will take desperate chances—that is, unless humans can be improved like highways and automobiles until they are emotionally, mentally and physically up to the job of negotiating traffic without endangering themselves and others.

Twenty years ago I interviewed a highway engineer who said that by 1960 the United States would have the safest super-highways in the world. He talked about an infra-red light to be built into each car that would flash as soon as the driver applied the brake. In the car following, a photo-electric cell would react to the infra-red light ahead and automatically apply that brake, making collisions impossible.

A U. S. Senator, at about the same time, was predicting for 1960 15,000 miles of elevated speedways, each with 12 traffic lanes and cables strung under the surface of the road to govern car speed (you'd be doing 60, say, the cable would raise you to 80 without your making a move.)

The cable would also control your steering wheel so that you couldn't, even if you had a notion to, change from one lane to another until all was safe. By 1960, the Senator was sure, cars would be crash-proof and with so many safety devices that speeds of around 100 miles an hour would be completely practical.

These super-highways won't have signs or need them, the planners contended. Going 100 miles an hour you couldn't read the signs anyway so you'll have a television set in your car and as you come to the junction you'll tune in on the highway patrol, throw a switch and get the information you want.

1960 is only five years off so we'll have to go some if all this is to happen by then. I'll be satisfied if only we can find some way to save more lives, especially those of innocents who happen to be in the road when criminal carelessness is abroad.

Since fines and rebuking licenses have had so little effect, it occurred to me that a graduated scale of lashings to be administered publicly might be a good way to get men and women to think seriously about their driving habits. For habitual offenders, the whippings could be combined with jail sentences. And turning good roads into bads ones might have the beneficent effect, not only of slowing down speedsters but getting a lot of unncessary traffic off the roads.

Suggestion to Hostess Not Wrong

Close Friendship Shouldn't Suffer by Remark

By EMILY POST

Today's first letter tells me: "A friend of mine was recently married and my husband and I were invited to see their apartment the other evening.

It was a lovely apartment and furnished in very good taste. However, there was one chair which I thought looked out of place where it was standing. When she asked me how I liked her apartment I said it was lovely but that I thought that one chair would look much better in another part of the room.

When we left my husband told me that my remark was uncalled for and in bad taste. I can see nothing wrong in what I said but it has caused quiet an argument between my husband and me and I would therefore like your opinion as to whether of not my comment was in bad taste."

I don't think your remark was really criticism but merely a suggestion. And if this friend is a close one I can't see that there was anything wrong in what you said.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am secretary to the manager of a large company and am frequently introduced to representatives from the field. I usually say, "Please to meet you Mr. . .," or 'It's nice to meet you Mr. . ." Is this correct, and also should I extend my hand when saying this?

"Pleased to meet you" is a social tabu. "I'm glad to meet you" is in much better taste. Whether you hold out your hand depends upon the friendliness of your office. If friendly, you would shake hands; otherwise not.

Dear Mrs. Post: I always get tongue-tied when concluding a visit and saying good-bye to the hostess and she asks me to come back again soon. What should one say in response to this?

Say "I would love to" or "Yes, I will soon." Or if there is no reason why she shouldn't go to see you instead of your going to see her, you might say, "I hope you'll come soon to see me."

Smile Back, Boy Needs Some Help

Show Friendliness, He'll Soon Realize You're Interested

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

A girl can't take too much initiative too often with a boy without appearing to chase him. But remaining cool, distant, silent and aloof won't get her anywhere either. A girl just has to show that she'd like to be friendly in order to encourage a boy to take the initiative with her.

And showing that she wants to be friendly is so easy to do, and a girl can be so graceful about it.

Take this girl, for instance, who's wondering whether she should make a sign, or wait until he makes one. She writes:

"Dear Miss Woodward: I like him, but I'm not sure he likes me. He hasn't made any outward signs, he just sits and stares at me constantly whenever I'm around where he is.

He's a popular figure in school life, especially with the girls. Do you think I should make my feelings toward him known now, or wait until he gives me some definite sign that he returns my interest? I'm afraid if I wait, some other girl will move in!"

You can turn his awareness of you into more than a contented stare if you'll respond actively to his apparent interest in you. Let him know that you feel his eyes on you.

Turn your head and smile at him, sometimes a full-face open-hearted grin, other times a sly out-of-the-corners of your eyes smile. Never miss an opportunity to speak to him, calling him by name. And if you're close enough so only he can hear, call him by a different nickname each time.

Let him catch you staring at him some time, and when his eyes meet yours, snap into reality visibly. Take to shaking hands with him every time you're close enough. But stop when he gets so used to it he puts out his hand first. Have something to say about him or a question to ask about him every time you have a chance to chat.

He'll sooner or later realize that you're very conscious of him and would respond to a bit of his encouragement — and you won't have said one single world about liking him!

"Dear Miss Woodward: Near the end of the summer I met a very nice fellow but I never had a chance to go out with him. A few weeks ago I heard from him, and very unexpectedly he dropped in at the house. I had just washed my hair and frankly I looked a mess!

He promised to write, but I've never head from him since, and I have a mad crush on him. What can I do besides forget him?"

If you know his address, write him a note and tell him how nice it was of him to drop in like that even though his visit caught you being very much "at home."

Under the circumstances your hospitality wasn't up to snuff, and you're looking forward to another chance to offer him a grade A kind. If there's something special going on soon, nvite him to go with you. A note and an invitation from you will encourage him to write and come again.

Rich, Nutty Treat Also Has Jam

Mrs. Utley Makes Hungarian Pastry to Serve With Tea

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Here's the answer to what you should serve the next time you want a simple, but rich treat with afternoon coffee or tea. Mrs. David Utley shares one of her pet recipes with us and waxes enthusiastically about how good it it.

With a daughter getting married in June, Mrs. Utley is about to be very busy. Her other child, a son, goes to junior high school. Mrs. Utley belongs to the Jewish Sisterhood and is president of Hadassah. She likes to sketch, to make over old hats (never wears them afterwards!) and collects recipes.

HUNGARIAN PASTRY
By Mrs. David Utley

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs, separated
1½ cups sifted flour
⅛ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon baging powder
1 cup broken nutmeats
Thick jam or jelly
2 teaspoons sugar

Cream butter, add sugar, vanilla, egg yolks and cream well until smooth and light. Add flour sifted with dry ingredients. Press into an eight or nine-inch square pan, making a smooth, even layer. Spread a thick layer of jam or jelly over this dough. Sprinkle with ½ cup chopped nuts.

Make a meringue of the egg whites and the 2 teaspoons of sugar. Spread over the nut-jam mixture and sprinkle with the remaining nuts. Bake in a 325-degree oven 30-35 minutes. Cut into squares when cool.

Education Consultant Speaks to Central PTA

ROBERT MARTIN

Robert Martin, curriculum consultant from the State Department of Education in Lansing, was guest speaker at a meeting of Central School PTA.

Mr. Martin used as his topic, "What Kind of Education I Want for My Children." He pointed out that above all he wants his children to go to school willingly and come home happy. He said he didn't want his children to be pushed into reading or any other subject if they were not ready for it.

Mr. Martin also spoke about the wide range of abilities in children, and that all children do not advance at the same speed. He said that making children feel important can be a contributing factor as to whether or not they like school.

He pointed out that every child can do something well and that failure makes children ashamed. In closing he said parents and teachers must work closer together to make a good school.

Richard Kuhns, father vice presidnet, presided at the meeting and Mrs. Sam Hale was program chairman. She introduced Dale LeClair, who sang two solos accompanied by Mrs. Stuart Galbraith.

Linda Libby accompanied Judy Gage, who also sang a solo. Mary Ann Shay closed the musical program by playing two accordion selections.

Mrs. Dale Rolfe was installed as president of the PTA at the recent gathering. A coffee hour concluded the program with Mrs. Robert Holderman and Mrs. Rolfe presiding at the refresment table.

Canvas Baby Chair Needs Bath Often

Baby's canvas chair, or jumper seat, needs a good bath often. Soap and scrub the canvas seat thoroughly, then set the chair under the shower.

After rinsing, the covering will dry to shape right on the frame.

Three Lengths of Play Pants Resort Musts

NEW YORK (NEA) — No collection of resort sun fashions is complete without play pants. Usually, they're shown in three lengths: Very short, Bermuda-length and calf-length.

These three lengths allow a sufficiently wide choice for any woman, figure problems or not. The very short shorts are obviously best for the very youthful or slim figure; the Bermuda shorts are ideal for the girl with leg or thigh problem and the calf-length pants look well on nearly any girl with a flat derriere.

Tops for those pants vary as much as the pants styles themselves. The short shorts obviously call for the wide, loose top that nearly covers the pants. Bermuda shorts take beautifully to tailored shirts and elegant cuff links. The calf-length pants also should be paired with a neat top.

Colors are bold. Pink goes with brown, pumpkin with black, black with white and cocoa with black. White is striped with tangerine, navy is paired with persimmon.

Pockets Welcomed by Shower Addicts

Shower addicts will welcome a gadget described as a bath caddie —an elongated strip of transparent plastic equipped with several deep pockets.

This can be hung from the shower rod to hold brushes, sponges, dusting powder, and other bathing supplies right at hand.

Trivet Electrified

Inexpensive aid for buffet entertaining—an electrified trivet. Made on old-fashioned lines, it has a shiny heat-up plate in the center. Look for the Underwriter's tag before you buy.

Plastic Zip Bag Laughs at Rain

In bad weather, you can protect your purse, books, magazines, and small packages from rain and muddy splashes by tucking them into a zippered plastic vegetable bag.

This will keep everything dry and clean, and when the shower is over, you can just fold the bag and tuck it into your purse. But when you get home, the muddy streaks and dirt should be washed off the plastic with a soapy sponge, or by dunking the bag right into warm soapsuds.

Then rinse it, fasten it to a line with clothespins, and let it drip dry.

Sewing Circle Holds Election of Officers

Mrs. John Nunly was elected president of the sewing circle of Welcome Rebekah Lodge 246 at the Thursday meeting held in the Henderson street home of Mrs. Orley Bruff.

Others elected were Mrs. Raymond Brown, vice president, and Mrs. Vera Hetzer, secretary-treasurer.

Chinese Greeting New Year With Unscrubbed Face

SINGAPORE (AP) — The nearly three million Chinese in Singapore and Malaya riotiously celebrated the start of their new "Year of the Ram" today with soiled faces, unswept floors, gambling, firecracker explosions and parties.

Faces remained dirty because soap and water would wash away the good luck. Sweeping would have the same effect. And gambling was the vogue because tradition says fortunes will be made this year by taking chances.

Similar excitement prevailed in the other settlements of Chinese scattered throughout the Far East, and in the Chinatowns of New York and San Francisco.

Singapore and the towns and villages of Malaya were masses of color. Every Chinese home was bedecked with red banners, joss paper and red scrolls with white-lettered Chinese maxims.

FAIRPORT, N. Y. (AP)—The Rev. Howard V. Moses, 50, suffered a fatal heart attack yesterday a few moments before the start of consecration services for the new church he helped to build.

The Methodist minister was chatting with Bishop Earl Ledden, of Syracuse, in the church when he collapsed. He died in Genesee Hospital, Rochester, about an hour later.

Bishop Ledden conducted the consecration service which was held as scheduled.

'Natural Childbirth' Called Plain Ordinary Nonsense

By MARGARET LATROBE

There has been much interest lately in "natural childbirth." This method advocates pre-natal courses in exercises, a minimum of anaesthetic at the proper moment, presence of the nervous father during labor and delivery, and a rooming in arrangement whereby the little newcomer can yelp his lungs out within mamma's earshot.

The gentlemen favoring this procedure (who, so far as I know, have not yet had any first-hand experience in the delivery room as Party of the First Part) feel pretty well-qualified to speak. And they have enlisted a good many expectant mothers to their way of thinking.

Usually those having their first child, and as such, are in no position to compare notes. With or without sedatives, that is.

My personal theory is that these self-same medical gentlemen, could they be allowed the supreme experience of giving birth (and I have dibs on the ticket-selling concession when it happens) wouldn't be able to find enough ether for the occasion. There wouldn't be enough doctors, nurses, and exercises to make them want to hear of "natural childbirth" again.

For what is natural about pain? The theory that pain is caused by fear is just plain nonsense. The pain comes from a very real reason, and hasn't one earthly thing to do with fear. Otherwise, why not set broken legs without anaesthetic? Why not operate for gallstones, with the patient blissfully conscious, watching the surgical technique on a mirrored ceiling. As for wanting to see one's own child born—! Folks, I'll take the word of the hospital staff!

As for insisting that the proud father hover around during the session not yet defined as a picnic—why? He won't be very useful. And it strikes me as a little sadistic to see that he "shares the suffering." Better for him to be walking the corridor rug to ribbons.

But the final howl of this back-to-nature technique is the baby's. Little fellows just arrived aren't too careful about the noise they make, and are apt to yell their heads off at this "rooming-in arrangement." When you are beginning 20 years of child care, why insist on an extra few days of it?

You may take the natural method of childbirth if you wish—just take it far from here, that's all. I'll have mine with a maskful of nitrous oxide, thanks.

BLACKJACK TABLE — From all over the country and many parts of the world, men and women with a yen to gamble trek to Las Vegas for a fling at cards, roulette, dice or slot machines. The players range from curious tourists with a few dollars to risk to bigtime plungers who bet thousands. Here is a typical scene at the blackjack or 21 table at Las Vegas' swank Desert Inn.

Las Vegas Lures Tourist Crowds

Slot Machines Out-draw Giant Hoover Dam in Appeal to Visitors

these are gold-backs and not permitted to be owned by individuals.

It sometimes seems hard to believe but there are occasionally other activities in Las Vegas, aside from gambling. Sun worshippers pour in, fleeing the smog and fogs to the west and the arctic blasts to the east.

Couples come to be married. (Hotel Last Frontier has a wedding bureau where a couple can buy a $25 service at the neon - lighted "Little Church of the West" on the hotel grounds — includes minister, organist, society-page notes for the hometown papers and a ride around the block in a stagecoach. Photograph, $5 extra.) There are about three times as many marriages in Las Vegas as divorces.

Some people come to Las Vegas to die or break a few of their tax chains. Nevada has no income, inheritance, death transfer, sales or gift taxes.

This year will see the opening of eight new lush hotels and casinos, representing an investment of somewhere between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

They are Tony Cornero's Stardust Hotel, Frank Fishman's Royal Nevada, Alfred Gottesman's Dunes, Louis Rubin's and Alexander Bisno's Moulin Rouge, Ed Levinson's Fremont Hotel downtown (Las Vegas' first "skyscraper"), the Riviera, the "Strip's" first tall one, being built by Dave and Lou Gensburg and Murray Saul, Fred J. Trevillian's Desert Spa, and the big alabaster Continental, with widespread ownership.

None of these places could exist without gambling. They could not hope to afford to pay the stunning night-club act fees that have made Las Vegas the capital of the entertainment world.

They could not afford to follow the common practice of barely breaking even or losing on food and rooms — a "come-on" that has hammered such prices down below the level of second rate hotels in the big cities.

Hidden ownership is the bane of the life of the Nevada state tax commission, in charge of issuing licenses. There are differences of opinion as to the seriousness or thoroughness with which the commission polices such matters.

There is no question, though, that the commissioners—who serve without pay and have generally distinguished records as public servants—are a strong deterrent to further inroads by toughs and extoughs on the Las Vegas scene.

The retired or deodorized bootleggers, bookies, murder suspects, goons and thugs who have found security and a measure of respectability in Las Vegas don't want anything to upset the apple cart. They want to be left alone.

They, in truth, are the police of the gambling business in Nevada. They keep it as clean as they know how, knowing that once the public confidence is shaken in it, their whole costly investment would rot away under the baleful sun and stinging sand.

The man who gives Las Vegas more ulcers than any other person is Virgil W. Peterson, operating director of the Chicago Crime Commission. Peterson's direct and guilt-by-association charges relate usually to hidden ownership of the gambling palaces.

Big and little operators in Las Vegas fear that Peterson, and others who floodlight the hoodlum quicksands on which much of the edifice of Las Vegas was built, will hurt the state's tourist business, or prompt other states to legalize gambling in an effort to pull that business away, or, worse inspire a tax-hungry Congress to clamp a 10 per cent federal tax on Nevada gambling.

In the mind of most of those I talked to such a tax would turn Las Vegas into the plushiest ghost town in history.

Peterson told the public prosecutors' institute in Berkley, Calif., last month that the old Capone mob has taken over control of many places in Vegas and Reno. Though he did not support his statement, the National Association of County and Prosecuting Attorneys immediately canceled its scheduled convention here for next month..

There is obvious concern, however, over what the future holds.

And they worry over what Washington will do, now that Nevada gambling's great good friend and spokesman on Capitol Hill, Sen. Pat McCarran, has gone to his reward.

They know their own legislature is "safe." In fact, they contributed a lot of money toward the election campaigns of candidates calculated to support continued gambling and balk at taxing the gambling grosses more than the two per cent now in the tax law.

The casual visitor to Las Vegas cares little about these deep worries. He rides along a "Strip" which might be featuring the floor shows of the aforementioned Lewis, Lena Horne, Jimmy Durante, Sophie Tucker, Tony Martin, Frank Sinatra, Marlene Dietrich, Polly Bergen, Mae West, Xavier Cugat and/or Exio Pinza.

He walks through garish downtown Las Vegas wanting to adopt a rolling gait and pack a pistol. He forgets home, family and the city's many bell-pealing churches as he sweats over a cold pair of dice.

And as he leaves, poorer but wiser, he makes a note that one day he'll return—and get even.

One thing certain: He never forgets the place, any more than an ancient traveler would have forgotten Babylon or, more appropriately, Pompeii.

If the old and some of the newer characters along the "Strip" dared, they'd erect a statue to Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, member of the board of directors of Murder, Inc., self-styled killer of 12 men, spectacular shake-down artist, "playmate" of playgirl Virginia Hill, pet of the late Countess Dorothy Difrasso, and other society personalities.

He remains the patron devil of the hardest-playing stetch of land on earth.

He made a Technicolor dream come true, using blood-stained and racket-gained bankrolls.

From Seigel's dreaming and daring grew the "Strip" as it is today. Those dreams and that daring were incidental causes of his slaying, but they gave inspiration to lesser figures in gangland, and to banking interests as respected as those of the Moody family in Galveston.

Tens of millions of dollars have sprung directly from Bugsy Siegel's exploitation of the "Strip." That limited section of the state of Nevada which is actually under state control (federal lands comprise most of the area; has come to depend heavily on the "Strip" and neighboring Las Vegas for tax money with which to build roads, schools, and maintain them.

But Bugsy couldn't stay around to see the burgeoning of the "Strip," and its impressive role in the state's economic picture. He broke a rule, and the supreme court of the underworld handed down the verdict of guilty. There was no recommendation of mercy. Or hope of appeal.

An event in Los Angeles was chiefly responsible for the creation of the city of Las Vegas as it is known to millions today. In 1938, at which time Las Vegas had a population of 3,000, a recall election put Fletcher Bowron in city hall in Los Angeles and its underworld sensed he was too tough to handle.

The gambling fraternity in Los Angeles packed up, lock, stock and barreling dice, and descended upon Las Vegas.

It was a live-and-let-live group whose philosophy was perhaps best expressed recently by McAfee when he said, "Gamblers have too much invested to gamble with trouble. We'd be knocked right out of the box."

Gamblers and motel operators moved timidly out along the highway leading to Los Angeles. Land, now fabulously costly, was cheaper than dirt.

Pearl Harbor struck terror in Las Vegas. With gas rationing in effect, it was feared that no suckers would be swarming through town.

But the Las Vegas story was only beginning. Workers began pouring through, en route to the shipyards and plane plants of Southern California. The defense plant corporation built the $140,000,000 basic Magnesium, Inc. plant at Henderson, 12 miles to the southeast, and shipped in thousands more customers.

Enter Bugsy Siegel.

There, by seizing control over movie extras, via a phony union, he was able to shake down stars and studios by threatening to pull his people off production lots. It was said that in a single year he grossed $400,000 at this racket.

Bugsy isolated his uncomplaining wife and their two daughters in a handsome home and proceeded to out-dazzle the tinseled culture of the movie world. He dressed better than the stars, talked faster, and was infinitely feared.

Siegel's real objective, aside from shaking gold dust from the stars, was to gain for the "syndicate" undisputed control of the roce-wire service on the coast. Before Sen. Estes Kefauver's racket-busting committee destroyed it, the importance of the race-wire was spoken of by the California Special Crime Study Commission in these terms:

"Control of the so-called 'wire service,' through which up-to-the-minute racing results from tracks all over the nation and even Cuba and Mexico are brought directly to individual bookmakers through distribution points for a price, has long been the cause of murderous underworld struggles.

"The largest of the wire services is known as the Continental Press Service, formerly controlled by the late James R. Ragan Sr. Strenuous efforts were made by those who inherited the Al Capone empire in Chicago and by Frank Costello to gain control of or destroy Continental Press Service.

"West of Chicago the Capone group first attacked the Continental monopoly by setting up a competing service known as Trans-America Wire Service. Subsequently in the Arizona-Nevada-California territory, the Capone syndicate 'cpatured' Continental.

"... With the appearance in Las Vegas of Moe Sedway, unrestricted access to the wire service for anyone willing to pay for it was suddenly cut off early in 1942 except for two or three establishments whose proprietors discovered that by giving Sedway an interest in their business, they could continue to receive racing results without disturbance.

"Originally from New York and a friend of Siegel's since boyhood, Sedway's mysterious control over the wire service paved the way for Siegel himself. . . . Within a year or two of Sedway's pioneering, Siegel appeared personally on the scene in Las Vegas and let it be known that wire service could be obtained in the casinos upon the condition that Siegel would receive in some cases all, and in other cases as much as two-thirds of the income from the favored casinos' bookmaking operations.

"The terms were hard, but the reasons for accepting were compelling. As one of the partners in a Las Vegas gambling house testified, 'A book is an asset to a gambling house. It brings the people in in the daytime, and if your competitors have it, you almost have to have a book to compete.

"By these means, Siegel secured a regular income from Las Vegas alone of at least $25,000 a month."

County Acts to Remedy Incorporation Law Hitches

Supervisors List Changes

Board Recommendation Will Be Submitted to State Legislature

The steady stream of Oakland County areas petitioning to incorporate as cities has revealed inadequacies in Michigan's incorporation laws to local government officials.

In an attempt to remedy this, the Board of Supervisors yesterday passed recommended changes in the incorporation statute for consideration by the Michigan Legislature.

Under the present setup, the petition must be filed at least 30 days before one of the three regular meetings of the supervisors.

If the petition is found valid, the supervisors must set the incorporation vote at the next general election during that period. Failing a general election within the allotted span, a special election may be set.

But if a census of the area to be incorporated is required to discover what class city the area will be incorporated as, it is impossible to set an election until the census is completed.

The supervisor's recommendation would allow a vote before the census is completed.

The statute now says the area becomes a city when the canvassing board certifies the election results as valid.

But Chairman of the Legislation Committee William F. Nern said a charter describing how the new city is to be run may not be adopted for long periods of time or not at all. If none is passed, the area reverts to its former status.

In the period between incorporation and adoption of a charter residents of the area are left in the air, he stated, with little machinery of local government.

The recommednation proposes that the area not become a city until the charter is filed with the county clerk and secretary of state, thus retaining certain governmental services which otherwise would be lost.

The supervisors also ask a provision to prevent the county from getting stuck with incorporation-vote expenses should the incorporation fail.

Claims New Glands Rejuvenate Animals

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said today a Soviet surgeon, Vladimir Demikov, has found a way of restoring youth to aged animals.

The broadcast said Demikov in 1952 tran planted new adrenal glands into a "very ol, decrepit og" and ae:

"The animal virtually became young again. Three years have now elapse, but the dog has not yet lost its second youth."

The adrenal glands secrete adrenalin, a powerful body stimulant, especially at times of strong fear or rage.

Labor, Business Spokesmen Join Forces in Support of Reciprocal Trade Plan

WASHINGTON (INS) — Spokesmen for business and labor joined today in support of President Eisenhower's proposals to increase trade with nations abroad.

Richard G. Gettell, spokesman for the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, siad the trade program is in the nation's national interest and called the reciprocal trade principle the answer to costly trade wars.

CIO Secretary-Treasurer James B. Carey declared the government must gradually reduce its barriers to international trade if it is to continue to get the essential raw materials on which production and employment depend.

The statements were prepared for delivery before the House Ways and Means Committee which begins its second week of hearings today on President Eisenhower's trade program.

The program calls for a three-year extension of his power to make trade agreements with other nations plus permission to lower tariffs as much as 15 per cent below their present minimum limits.

The U.S. Chamber spokesman said the trade agreements program means more goods at lower prices. This, he added, is "the very heart of the American competitive enterprise system."

Gettell said other nations need assurance that the U. S. will continue on its path toward freer trade before they can afford to remove their own restrictions on commerce with this country.

He said the President's proposal is essential to this end, and called it "the gradual and cautious approach."

The CIO official agreed and said economic well-being in this country and improved international trade relations go hand in hand. Carey said, however, that reduction of trade barriers is no panacea but will only help the move for more commerce.

The labor official urged approval of other legislation, not requested by President Eisenhower, to provide government help in rehabilitating U.S. communities injured by increased trade competition.

Carey said trade relations in the long run will deteriorate unless Congress gives this problem equal consideration with the tariff-cutting act.

Charles H. Percy, president of the Bell and Howell Photographic Equipment Company, departed from the traditional protectionist stand of his industry to urge a gradual reduction of tariff restrictions.

He said the industry is now sheltered from foreign competition by a tariff of 20 per cent on cameras, 25 per cent on camera lenses and up to 45 per cent on other photographic items.

Percy said: "No one desires more than I the health and vigor of the photographic industry. But I do not believe we must gain these things through artificial trade barriers. I think we can, and we will, win them for ourselves in a freer. . more competitive market."

The businessman noted objection of some manufacturers to the threat of "cheap foreign labor" and said the greater productivity of low foreign wages.

Percy said his own company has been able to manufacture a new lens at a cost below bids of several foreign firms even with the tariffs excluded.

He said his firm's average labor rate is more than two dollars an hour compared with foreign rates of 27 to 37 cents an hour for skilled workers.

Cutter on Way to Free Three Icebound Boats

ALGONAC (AP) — A Coast Guard cutter from Toledo was to begin operations today to free two tugs and a barge ice-bound at the mouth of the St. Clair River off Harsen's Island near Algonac.

The cutter reached the stricken vessels last night but rescue operations had to be delayed until daybreak.

The ice-locked vessels are the tugs B. H. Becker and G. F. Becker and the barge Peerless, all owned by the Frank Becker Towing Co. of Detroit.

Seven men were stranded aboard the ships.

The B. H. Becker ran into trouble Saturday morning while towing the barge and radioed for help. The G. F. Becker was sent to help but was unable to free the tug and barge.

Burns asked for 15 volunteers—he got 1,500.

Religious Groups Gather to Melt Prejudice Problem

CHICAGO (AP) — They're using man-made "January thaws" in Oak Park in a move to melt prejudice.

A series of eight gatherings — called "thaws — is being held this month in homes in the suburb known as the nation's largest village.

During the weekend a newsman attended one of the parties. Two dozen men and women — 15 Protestants, 5 Jews, 4 Catholics — sat in an oval of chairs in the spacious living room of a physician's house.

Oak Park once was almost 100 per cent Protestant," a Jewish engineer said. "Now it's about 55 per cent Protestant, 40 per cent Catholic and 5 per cent Jewish. Change creates problems we want to discuss."

A protestant said he knew of some bias against two Catholics who had sought minor political offices. Maybe, another Protestant commented, "it was because they are Democrats too."

A Jewish man said the parents of a Catholic girl had ordered her not to attend a social affair at a Protestant church.

A Catholic woman schoolteacher stated that, as she understood it, Catholics were forbidden to worship at other churches.

A protestant woman reported she once had gone to mass with Catholic friends.

"They told me to quit hopping up and down," she recalled, "because I was doing it all wrong."

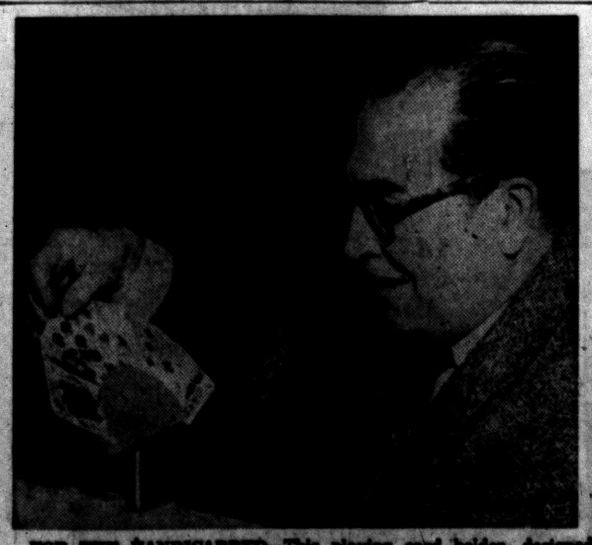

Everybody laughed, and the ice of reserve was broken.

The series of "thaws" is sponsored by the Oak River-River Forest chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The discussion leader of the weekend was Mrs. Anna Julian, wife of Dr. Percy Julian, nationally known Negro chemist.

The Julians' move to Oak Park, a quiet, wide-lawned community of about 65,000 population, touched off some unpleasant incidents — an unsuccessful attempt to burn their house in 1950 and a bomb tossed into their yard in 1951.

"We hope to develop a mosaic of all groups," Mrs. Julian said. All would retain certain differences, she said, but she hoped all would fit into a harmonious, overall pattern.

Trial Opens for Two Yugoslav Officials

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavia's Communist government began a secret trial of former Vice President Milovan Djilas and biographer Vladimar Dedijer today on charges they tried to undermine President Marshal Tito's regime through the writings of foreign newsmen.

In an atmosphere of tension, a crowd of 100 booed and hissed the two defendants and shouted epithets at foreign correspondents waiting outside the courtroom. It was reported the indictments against the defendants were based on interviews given foreign newsmen.

The foreign press was barred from the trial from the start. Soon after it opened representatives of Yugoslavia's official press and about 100 other spectators were ejected at the request of the state prosecutor, apparently in an effort to prevent the proceedings from leaking out to the foreign newsmen.

Conviction could bring Djilas and Dedijer, both Tito's wartime comrades in arms, sentences ranging from six months to 20 years at hard labor.

In barring the foreign journalists from the court, the government charged they had carried on a campaign to discredit Tito's regime in connection with the case and would not "faithfully report the trial." The regime objected to the wide publicity given the case abroad and to foreign speculation that it indicated a split in the ruling Communist ranks.

In asking for removal of the Yugoslav audience, the prosecutor said the case involved foreign relations. He said also that reports abroad of the proceedings might create an atmosphere harmful to Yugoslavia's interests.

The president of the five-man circuit court hearing the case refused to disclose to foreign newsmen the contents of the indictments. It was reported, however, they were based on interviews Djilas and Dedijer had given foreign correspondents and subsequent articles which appeared in publications abroad.

There also was no official word on how Djilas and Dedijer pleaded.

The case stemmed from Djilas' criticism in the Yugoslav Communist party newspaper Borba that the party and the government should allow greater freedom for political thinking. Djilas, 43 and one of the top four men in the regime, was fired from the party Central Committee a year ago and stripped of his vice presidency.

Dedijer, 41-year-old biographer of Tito and a member of Parliament, supported Djilas before the Central Committee. He was removed from the chairmanship of Parliament's important Foreign Policy Committee. Last month Parliament lifted his immunity as a deputy and ordered his trial with Djilas on criminal charges.

POW's Trial Starts Today

Major Charged With Collaborating During Captivity in Korea

FT. SILL, Okla. (INS) — A career soldier, Maj. Ambrose H. Nugent, goes before an Army court martial at Ft. Sill today on charges he collaborated with the enemy while a prisoner of the Communists in Korea.

Nugent, 44, of Merrill, Wis., is the third Army man to face a court martial on such charges. Cpl. Claude Batchelor was sentenced to life imprisonment with the term later reduced to 20 years and Cpl. Edward Dickenson drew 10 years at hard labor.

The other, Lt. Col. Harry Fleming of Racine, Wis., was found guilty several months ago by a court martial in Ft. Sheridan, Ill. A board of 11 officers ordered the 46-year-old defendant dismissed from the Army with forfeiture of pay and all allowances. Fleming has appealed the verdict.

The Army charges Nugent with 13 violations of the 96th Article of War and the Uniform Code of Military Justice, including the offering of intelligence to the enemy, permitting his photo and signature on surrender leaflets, broadcasting surrender appeals and impeding the escape of fellow prisoners.

He was a prisoner from July 5, 1950, until Sept. 1, 1953, being captured on the first day American forces saw action in Korea.

Ten Army colonels will sit as the court martial board. Seven of them must agree before Nugent can be found guilty. The maximum sentence in such an event would be life imprisonment since it is regarded as a "non-capital" case.

Nugent, stationed at Ft. Sill since his release from a Communist war prison, claims he made the broadcasts and signed the surrender leaflets to save lives of his fellow prisoners.

The law officer at the court martial, whose duties correspond to those of a federal district judge, will be Lt. Col. Donald L. Manes Jr., who served in a similar capacity in the Batchelor trial.

Rebels Won't Leave Demilitarized Zone

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UP)—Armed rebel "squatters" refused today to withdraw from an internationally-administered safety zone where they sought sanctuary in an abortive revolt against the Costa Rican government.

The presence of some 200 rebels in the small zone between Nicaragua and Costa Rica created new military and diplomatic problems that prevented a cleancut end to the revolt.

Members of a commission sent to Central America by the Organization of American States announced they would discuss the problems during the day with Nicaraguan President Anasasio Somoza in Managua.

The commission members decided to leave for Managua at dawn after Costa Rican President Jose Figueres bitterly protested against the presence of the rebels in the buffer zone.

Tells of Money 'Spirited' Away

UM Professor's Wife Says 'Radar Machine' Failed to Locate Oil

DETROIT (UP)—Mrs. Vera Hyma, wife of a University of Michigan history professor, testified today that what she called "a radar machine with agitated needles" failed to produce an oil well where "the spirits" said it would.

Mrs. Hyma testified in the suit of her husband, Albert, against Mrs. Lillian Lee, pastor of a Detroit interdenominational church.

The professor claims he lost $16,000 on three deals he was advised to enter by "the spirits" raised by Mrs. Lee at seances.

Mrs. Hyma testified:

"The spirits told us there was a very large pool of oil beneath some land we owned near Grand Rapids. They told us to take along a radar machine and to drill for oil at the spot where the needles agitated most strongly. But there was no oil."

Mrs. Hyma said that at the advice of the same spirits she and her husband invested in an Ann Arbor paint remover concern which later went bankrupt.

She also testified that they later lost $8,500 on the advice of spirits in a deal involving a supposed prisoner in Mexico.

"We received a letter from a man who said he was a banker down in Mexico," Mrs. Hyma testified. "The letter said we could make a lot of money if we would pay for the release of a man held in prison in Mexico.

"We went to Mrs. Lee, showed her the letter and asked for advice," Mrs. Hyma said. "We had a seance at which the spirit of Thomas Carlyle (Scottish historian who died in 1881) advised us to go ahead with the Mexican deal."

Mrs. Lee testified last week that she advised Hyma to avoid the Mexican prisoner deal, but that Hyma preferred to listen to the advice of the spirits, especially Carlyle, who was "his spirit world control."

NAACP Raps Cancer Society

Charges Negro Doctors Barred From Meeting of Georgia Unit

ATLANTA (AP)— The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People charges that Negro doctors were discriminated against at an American Cancer Society state meeting here last Friday.

Officials of the society's Georgia Division have denied the assertion, saying the complaint was brought about by an error in addressing invitations to the meeting.

Dr. Enoch Calloway of Lagrange, chairman of the state group's Professional Education Committee, said the committee intended to invite Negro doctors to only the scientific sessions. White doctors were invited to a dinner and luncheon in addition to the scientific sessions.

"Through an error," invitations urging "every white doctor in Georgia" to make reservations for both functions were mailed to both white and Negro physicians, he reported.

The NAACP said in a statement that the Negro doctors did not attend any of the sessions because of what they considered an insult in being barred from the luncheon and dinner.

C. L. Harper, president of the Atlanta NAACP branch, and Dr. F. Earl McLendon, president of the Georgia State Medical Assn. (Negro), contended the luncheon meeting featured speakers who gave information about cancer that should be available to all physicians.

Even Music Suffering in Communist Poland

VIENNA (INS)—Discord in Communist Poland's state-run music industry is reported ina copy of the szawy reaching Vienna.

The newspaper complains that one factory produced three thousand violins and ten thousand bows which were unfit for use while another turned out a thousand accordians which didn't work at all.

This isn't surprising, the newspaper adds, since the new chief engineer of the music industry was until recently the manager of a sliper factory.

Reveal Atomic Shell for Antiaircraft Use

WASHINGTON (INS) — U. S. scientists were disclosed today to have completed an atomic anti-aircraft shell for the Nike guided missile—casting the atom for the first time in a purely defensive role.

A public announcement of this major military development, International News Service learned, has been held up pending a determination of the circumstances under which the anti-bomber weapon could be used.

The shell, capable of destroying with one blast all planes in a path a half mile or more wide, promises the first revolutionary advance in the air defense or cities since the invention of radar.

As a "Sunday punch," to be used rarely, nuclear antiaircraft weapons could have the important advantage of preventing bomber attacks in formations or in squadrons, because of the chance that an entire squadron might be wiped out in one explosion.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

THE SOAP BOAT SAILOR

Here is a little sailor ready for a voyage on a cake of floating soap in your bathtub.

1. With crayons you can color his suit and cap blue, if you like, leaving the braid around the collar and cuffs white.

2. Use white library paste to mount the sailor and the separate leg on cardboard. Cut them out and paste the sailor's left leg behind him, down to the dotted line. To make him stand up, cut along the heavy black lines at the toes and heels of his shoes. Fold the flaps along the lines at the bottom of the shoes so that they form a base on which the sailor can stand.

3. To make a sail, cut a triangle of colored paper as seen in the sketch. Cut slits along one side of the sail as in the drawing. Run a thin stick through these slits and push it firmly into one end of a cake of soap, like a mast. Tie a string to the top of the mast.

4. Set the sailor on the soap boat in front of the sail. Take the string from the mast, and run it through a hole which you should punch in the sailor's raised hand, then into a hole above his other hand and out of a hole under that hand. Now the sailor holds the string and is all ready for his voyage.

Ford to Bargain on UAW Pattern

Company Official Says Union Will Set Theme for Contract Talks

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UP)—Negotiations between Ford Motor Co. and the CIO United Auto Workers union will follow a pattern set by the union, a Ford official indicated Saturday night.

Ford vice president in charge of industrial relations John Bugas said the company would make no decisions on the guaranteed annual wage or other matters to be negotiated until the contract talks have started.

Bugas made the statement at the 56th annual winter meeting of the Wyoming Press Assn.

"In our labor relations,' he said, "we have always adhered to the policy that no decision on any issue affecting upcoming contracts with the union would be reached before we at the company and the representatives of the union have had the opportunity to sit down and discuss the issues at the bargaining table.

In effect, his remarks were a rebuttal of a report circulated last week by a syndicated columnist that Ford was ready to offer the UAW an unprecedented guaranteed annual wage.

However, Bugas didnt refer to the report in his speech and a spokesman said the speech was written before the report was circulated.

The guaranteed annual wage is the key issue in demands drawn up by the union for the 1955 negotiations with Ford and other auto producers. The demands will be formally presented at negotiations this spring.

He said the "substance" of the negotiations "promises to be both interesting and highly complex—possibly raising questions significant to the whole American economy."

Prison Combed for Weapons

Two Knives, Hammers Found Hidden in Area Where Felons Revolted

BOSTON (AP) — Investigators today continued their search of the isolation section of the Massachusetts State Prison, where four convicts held five guards and six other prisoners as hostages for 80 hours last week.

What was described as a "fine tooth comb" search of the two-tier cellblock yesterday by state detectives uncovered two knives, two hammers, two saws and two pairs of pliers secreted in various spots.

The four long-term convicts gave up two guns and several rounds of ammunition when they surrendered Friday to a citizen's committee.

The men — bank robber Theodore (Teddy) Green, 39; gunman-robber Walter H. Balben, 38; cop killer Fritz Swenson, 31; and rapist Joseph A. Flaherty, 32 — are to be questioned today about how they obtained the guns used in the siege.

Atty. Gen. George Fingold said he will prosecute the four men for grabbing the hostages at gunpoint last Tuesday and added: "We want to know how the revolting prisoners obtained guns and ammunition and other weapons. They must have had outside help."

The possible charges against the rebel prisoners, Fingold said, are attempted escape, kidnaping and unlawful use of firearms.

Ex-Ford Engineer Dies in Big Rapids

BIG RAPIDS (AP)—Frank Johnson, former chief engineer for Ford Motor Co., Lincoln Division, died Saturday at his home here. He was 83.

Johnson, who has been credited with design of the original Ford V-8 engine, retired from Ford in 1947. He had served the company 25 years.

Johnson was a member of the board of trustees of Ferris Institute here.

A graduate of Ferris, Johnson was employed 23 years by the Cadillac Division of General Motors before joining Ford.

Worth Waiting For

Steve Nagy Catches Lubanski to Win All-Star Meet, Wene Dethrones Ladewig

CHICAGO (AP) — It took a long time but it was worth waiting for was the exclamation of Steve Nagy and Sylvia Wene today following their victories in the National All-Star Bowling tournament.

Nagy, 41, a bowling alley proprietor from Cleveland, had taken part in 13 tournaments before reaching his "ambition."

Nagy, who came from second place to overtake Ed Lubanski of Detroit, in the final round, came close in 1948 but finished third to Connie Schwoegler of Madison, Wis.

Miss Wene, 26, a saleslady from Philadelphia, finished second last year and in 1951.

"I only wish my mother (who died Oct. 3, 1954) was here to witness my triumph," she said. "It's the hapiest moment of my life."

Sylvia took the lead at the halfway mark and was never headed. She won by splitting two games with defending champion Mrs. Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., five-time winner who earlier announced her retirement.

Nagy said "I felt as if I had a chance after the first game." In the first game of the final round, Lubanski, leading through the final day, failed to negotiate a 4-7-10 split finishing with a 190 to 199 for Nagy.

The Clevelander then fired games of 244, 246 and 147 to win going away. Lubanski finished with games of 183, 180 and 217. Nagy's triumph netted him $2,000. Lubanski finished second, winning $1,200. Defending champion Don Carter finished third, good for $750.

Miss Wene's triumph earned her $600. Sylvia Fanta of Chicago finished second for $450 and Mrs. Ladewig took third place and $300.

Ironically enough, Nagy barely made the final qualification round and finished in a tie for 14th place but defeated Graz Castellano of New York in a special roll-off.

Nagy remained high in the field but his victory over Lubanski was the first time he reached the top in the tournament.

Bolt Takes Coast Test With Sub-Par 274

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The 1955 San Diego $15,000 Open Golf tournament will be officially registered as one captured by Tommy Bolt, with a 14-under par score of 274.

In San Diego, however, it will be remembered as the one Gene Littler lost, beaten back to seventh with a score of 279.

Sandwiched between Bolt and Littler, in the official records, will be the names of Johnny Palmer, the runner-up to Bolt; Ted Kroll and Freddie Haas Jr., and Bo Wininger and Jack Burke.

Bolt surged out in front with his first-round 64 and never let loose of the lead, with middle rounds of 67 and 72, and wound up Sunday with a neat and successful 71.

With likeable Gene, a pro just one year, things were different. He is the idol of golf bugs in this, his hometown. He won the recent rich Los Angeles Open, he won the San Diego event as an amateur in 1954 and he was the general favorite this year.

Littler looked strong with his opening 69-66, just four strokes behind Bolt at the midway point of the tournament.

Littler took a shot and the gallery cheered. Bolt took a shot and the silence was tremendous. No one was impolite. It was simply that San Diego was rooting for the young man of 24 who, most experts agree, is destined for great things in golf.

Then two days ago Littler, as any good golfer will do, had a bad day. He shot a 73. It shoved him well back.

Bolt had an unspectacular par 72, but it was still good enough to keep him three strokes in front of anyone else.

Sunday morning, Jack Burke, with 69-69-68—206, was the threat to Bolt.

Tommy threw a birdie and an eagle at him on the first three holes and Burke went on to post a quiet par 72.

Johnny Palmer came up with a 32 on the first nine, and he was the threat. At one stage good-looking Johnny was only two strokes behind Tommy.

Palmer's 276 was worth $1,800. Kroll and Haas, at 277, won $1,300 apiece. And Wininger and Burke got $900 each.

Bolt, of course picked up the big loot — $2,400. Littler settled for $700.

Next stop for Bolt and most of the name pros — the $15,000 Thunderbird Invitational at Palm Springs Thursday.

Big 10, MV in Cage Spotlight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The two-week examination lull in college basketball ends Saturday night when practically every major club in the country takes the court again. But, meanwhile, the Northwestern and Tulsa teams have things other than exams on their minds tonight.

Northwestern, the current leader of the up-and-down Big Ten race with a 3-1 mark, could take a commanding lead by defeating Minnesota tonight in Minneapolis. The Gophers are in a three-way tie for second place with Illinois and Iowa, all showing 3-2 records.

The Wildcats are the fourth outfit in the past three weeks to climb atop the league. They pulled ahead by upsetting Iowa 93-73 last Saturday, while Michigan State was dropping Minnesota 87-75. Still, Minnesota will be favored.

Tulsa is tied for the lead in the tough Missouri Valley Conference with St. Louis and faces a serious test tonight against Houston. Then, on Saturday, Coach Clarence IBA takes his club to Stillwater, Okla., to battle brother Hank IBA's Oklahoma A&M outfit.

One other league front-runner is slated to see action tonight. Colorado, the Big Seven pacesetter with three victories and no defeats, has a date with Iowa State in Boulder. This shouldn't be any problem for Colorado.

Here's how the other major conferences stand:

Ivy League—Cornell and Penn tied for first.

Skyline—Utah has just about wrapped up the title.

Southeastern — Georgia has showed unexpected strength, but will step into the fire Saturday when it plays Alabama, riding along in first place with an unblemished league record and rated the club most likely to give Kentucky a tussle for the title.

Southwest— Texas Christian is back in the No. 1 spot, but there will be a tie after Friday's Baylor-Southern Methodist game.

Rocky Mountain— Idaho State with five victories and no defeats, is well on its way toward its third straight league title.

Atlantic Coast—North Carolina is leading with 7-1, but Maryland is right behind with 8-2.

Southern—West Virginia is leading with 5-0, followed by Richmond with 6-1.

Pacific Coast—Oregon State has a commanding lead in the Northern Division after beating Oregon twice over the weekend for a 6-0 conference record, while UCLA and Stanford remained tied for the Southern Division lead with 3-1 records.

Wings Blank Maple Leafs After Losing NHL's Lead

DETROIT (AP) — It's all in the mind, said coach Jimmy Skinner after the Detroit Red Wings rebounded last night with a strong 4-0 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

"This team can win anytime it wants," said Skinner, noticeably irritated. "It just has to put its mind to it."

Obviously, Skinner was still peeved over Detroit's three straight losses on the road — a disastrous trip which cost the Red Wings 1st place in the National Hockey League.

"We didn't suffer a serious let down on the road," Skinner said. "We just became lax at times — usually the wrong times."

Red Wings lost consecutive games in New York, Boston and Toronto. It enabled the Montreal Canadiens to squeeze back into 1st place.

But the Detroiters were a different team when then returned to friendly Olympia stadium last night. They dominated play from start to finish and made goalie Terry Sawchuk's 10th shutout a simple matter.

Sawchuk was called on to make only 14 saves, a mere two in the final period. It was his 4th straight shutout at home.

Four Red Wings shared the scoring — Dutch Reibel, Marty Pavelich, Gordie Howe and Marcel Bonin.

Reibel clicked at 13:56 of the 1st period, deflecting Howe's blue line shot. Pavelich and Howe scored in 2nd period, with Howe caging his 21st of the season.

Bonin, fiery Frenchman, completed the rout with a wierd goal at the start of the final period. Bonin took a hefty swipe at the puck from the left of the cage — and missed. Then he flicked in a simple dribbler which somehow eluded goalie Harry Lumley.

Sawchuk's 10th shutout left him three short of the modern record set by Lumley last season.

'Cats, Gophers Collide Today for Big 10 Top

Saturday's Upsets by State, Northwestern Shift Standings

CHICAGO (AP)—One of the tightest Big Ten basketball races in two decades resumes tonight with Minnesota and Northwestern clashing for the league lead at Minneapolis.

Not since 1926 when four teams finished in a 1st-place tie with 8-4 records has conference competition been so keen.

Northwestern, 4th team to gain the lead in three weeks is on top with a 3-1 record by virtue of its 93-73 victory over Iowa in a nationally-televised game Saturday followed by Michigan State's 87-75 upset of Minnesota.

Minnesota, Iowa and Illinois are tied for second with 3-2 records.

Iowa will try to bounce back against Ohio State tonight at Columbus in the only other conference game. The Bucks dropped into the cellar Saturday after a 93-82 drubbing at Purdue.

Ohio State scoring star Robin Freeman was forced to leave the game early with a wrenched ankle to ruin the Buckeye chances of victory. Freeman scored 20 points before leaving.

Northwestern could remain ahead of the field by duplicating its earlier 74-72 victory over Minnesota. However, Northwestern's three victories have been at home and Minnesota figures to be tougher at Minneapolis.

Northwestern flashed speed, remarkable shooting and rebound control to run away from Iowa.

Minnesota's two losses have been to Northwestern and Michigan State—the two teams that Gopher coach Ozzie Cowles feared the most before the season began.

Zaharias Wins Tampa Tourney

Babe Edges Miss Suggs by Single Stroke for $1,000 Prize

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Babe Zaharias of Tampa tired badly at the end but held on to win the Tampa Open Golf tournament and $1,000 top money Sunday.

Mrs. Zaharias, who posted a 298 for the 72 holes, edged Louise Suggs, the Cincinnati pro, by one stroke. Miss Suggs got $700.

The tournament trophy, a silver service which is retired by any three-time winner, was also picked up by Mrs. Zaharias. She and Miss Suggs each had won the tournament twice in previous years.

Big 4, NFL to Make Further Try for Peace

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The leaders of the Canadian Rugby Union (Big Four) and the National Football League predict a further attempt will be made to end the player contract disputes.

The hassle concerns the signing of players already under contract or on option to a club in the other organization.

Ralph Cooper of Hamilton, Ont., president of the Rugby Union, and four other Canadian representatives met with NFL Commissioner Bert Bell Saturday in a 4-hour secret session.

Harris to Greet Training Camp Squad of 44 Players

DETROIT (UP)—Manager Stanley (Bucky) Harris, who will try to lift the Detroit Tigers into the American League 1st division this season for the 1st time since 1950, has invited 44 players to spring training camp opening March 1 at Lakeland, Fla.

The spring training roster includes 23 pitchers, 4 catchers, 8 infielders and 9 outfielders. Catcher-outfielder J. W. Porter was not included on the long list but his name will be added after he is discharged from the Army next month.

Harris wants to look at as many hurlers as he can because the Detroit pitching department has been weak in recent years.

He has eight pitchers back from last season and hopes to find a couple of starters and several good relief hurlers in a group of 15 returning servicemen and minor leaguers.

Pitchers back from last season include Steve Gromek, Ned Garver, Al Aber, Ray Herbert, Billy Hoeft, Dick Marlowe, Bob Miller and George Zuverink. Those hurlers figured in all but 15 of Detroit's wins and losses in 1954.

Bud Black, Leo Cristante, Van Fletcher, Bob Schultz and Bennett Flowers are conceded the best chance among newcomers of making the grade with the Tigers.

Boston Doge Is New Threat at Hialeah

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hialeah's big 3-year-old races, once figured as little more than a duel between Nashua and Summer Tan, now look more and more like three-way affairs.

The party of the third part is, of course, the sensational Boston Doge, who on Saturday whipped a good field in the $20,050 Hibiscus Stakes to record his seventh straight victory without a defeat.

Boston Doge won four races in succession but little attention last year while carrying owner Paul Andolino's silks on the New England circuit.

Swiss Bobsledder Sweeps Third Consecutive Crown

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP) — Flying Fritz Feierabend, a balding 47-year-old Swiss bobsledder who won his first world title 16 years ago, captured the two-man world championships for the third time Sunday.

The lanky veteran outraced 15 other bobsleds from nine nations on the icy, twisting, mile-long run.

He also holds the four-man world crown, which he first won in 1939.

Feierabend had his countryman, Harry Warbourton, as brakeman aboard. The team's winning time was 5 minutes, 33.28 seconds for 4 heats.

Austria's Paul Aste and Heinz Isser, who led going into Sunday's final two heats, finished second in 5:34.93. Frantz Kapus and Heinrich Angst of Switzerland placed third in 5:35.09.

The United States No. 1 sled was sixth with a total time of 5:36.90 and the No. 2 sled wound up 10th in 5:39.82.

The No. 1 sled was driven by Capt. Dick Severino of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and braked by Airman Bill Williams of Rockingham, N. C. Major Bruce Rowelett of Hutchinson, Kans., drove the No. 2 sled and his brakeman was Capt. Thomas Morgan of Bloomsfield, N. J.

Mishaps Galore!

Four Speedboat Pilots Injured in Rough Water

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Four speedboat pilots were slightly injured in Sunday's Miami winter outboard regatta on Biscayne Bay when high winds turned the tournament into frequent battles to stay afloat.

Don Baldaccini of Miami plowed his craft into a wave. Another boat smacked into it and it sunk. Later he borrowed a boat for the B stock hydro race and duplicated the mishap, suffering a bruised right arm.

Stu Gray of Miami was smashed in the teeth by his steering wheel and knocked into the water when his boat reared on a turn.

Ralph Dowling of Cleveland got a finger caught in a control cable and suffered a bad gash.

Shortly after the race ended the weather bureau ordered small craft warnings posted.

Race winners included:

Bug Wiget, Concord, Calif., both heats C-service runabout class; John Mueller, Springlake, Mich., B-stock second heat; John Harrison, Miami, C-racing opening heat; Charles Lovelace, Tampa, both heats A-stock hydro, and Skip Ritter, Hollywood, both heats B-stock hydro.

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Jockey Ray York, who booted Determine into the winner's circle in the Kentucky Derby and honors as the leading money winner of 1954 has been named for the George Woolf Memorial trophy.

The sixth annual award will be presented York, 22, a native of Gloucester, Mass., at Santa Anita Feb. 8. York was voted the honor Sunday by the Southern California turf writers and sports editors.

Big Sturgeon Taken From State Waters

CHEBOYGAN (AP)—A pair of prize catches were pulled from Mullet Lake over the weekend.

Herbert Charboneau, Cheboygan area farmer, speared a 180-pound, 6 foot 10 sturgeon Sunday. And Ward Spray of Cheboygan, hauled in a 175 pound, 7 foot 2 sturgeon Saturday.

Both fish were said to be the largest caught in an inland lake since the season was revised several years ago.

Catcher's Box Area Is Reduced by Rules Group

Triangular Backstop's Dimensions Altered to Narrow Rectangle

CHICAGO (AP) — The intentional pass may boomerang with a hit or a balk this season under a new baseball rule whacking the catcher's box from 16 feet of roaming room to only 43 inches.

That change and a "stopwatch" mandate for a pitcher to deliver within 20 seconds when the sacks are empty are the foremost of some 49 revisions this year by baseball's official Playing Rules Committee.

The changes were disclosed today by Jim Gallagher, business manager of the Chicago Cubs, who serves as chairman of the nine-man committee.

The catcher's box will be reduced to a rectangular area, 43 inches wide directly behind home plate, which is 17 inches wide. The former triangular catcher's box flared back to a 16-foot width.

A wild pitcher might thereby toss one that a long-limbed hitter like Ted Williams could smash for a hit.

If the catcher gets outside his 43-inch box before the ball leaves the pitcher's hand, a balk will be called.

The rule prodding pitchers to hurl within 20 seconds with the bases unoccupied long has been on the books, but now both the American and National leagues are being asked to enforce it by use of a stopwatch by the third base umpire.

The penalty is calling of a "ball" by the umpire. The rule is directed against "senseless and unnecessary delays."

Victory Over Gophers Boosts Spartan Stock

Ferrari, McCoy Pace 87-75 Triumph With 27 Points Each

EAST LANSING (AP)—The Big Ten certainly is ready to declare now that Michigan State has a right smart basketball team.

The big victory over the formidable Minnesota quint Saturday night is cause for that despite MSC's modest won-lost record for the season to date.

Forwards Al Ferrari and Julius McCoy, who hit for 27 points each, made the difference when Michigan State turned in its surprise 87-75 upset.

MSC cashed in 50 per cent of its field goal chances and beat the Gophers with a fast 2nd half attack.

A fast break and a full court press gave the Spartans control over Minnesota and Bill Simonovich, the huge 6 foot 10 Gopher center. Simonovich worked only about 10 minutes of each half and collected only nine points.

MSC took a 22-18 lead at the 10-minute mark of the 1st half, but Minnesota held a 39-38 edge at the intermission.

Spartans came back fast and well before the game was over held a 16-point margin although the Gophers crept to within a single point at one stage.

Minnesota forward Dick Garmaker netted 30 points to lead the night's scoring and was followed by Ferrari and McCoy.

Minnesota now has a 3-2 record and MSC stands at 3-3 in Big Ten play.

Nielsen, Santee Both Predict They Will Break Indoor Mile Record, Dane Is Winner Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gunnar Nielsen and Wes Santee each predicts he'll break the world indoor mile record this winter—and each will have plenty of chances in a protracted duel set up for the eastern boards.

With a victory apiece, they'll meet again in Boston Saturday.

Nielsen made Santee look bad in winning the Washington Evening Star games mile Saturday. The Dane beat the Kansas star by 15 feet, pulling away on the last lap as if Santee were standing still. The night before, in the Inquirer Games at Philadelphia, Santee came home eight yards ahead.

Nielsen said he was sure he'd lower the record of 4:05.3 before the next six weeks are over. That record is held by Gil Dodds, who set it in the Millrose Games at New York in 1948.

Santee called his Washington defeat "just one of those breaks" and complained that the pace was so slow he had to take the lead far too early.

It was the same complaint registered by Nielsen after his Philadelphia loss. The two races were of a pattern. Nielsen took the lead in Philadelphia and Santee passed him; in Washington, it was Santee who moved in front at the halfway mark only to be overcome by Nielsen.

Nielsen was clocked in the brilliant time of 4:09.5 over the slow flat track at the National Guard Armory here. That time lowered the meet record by nearly four seconds but Nielsen said he should have done a lot better. Like Santee, he complained about the slow early pace.

* * *

Bob McMillen, second-place finisher in the 1500 meters in the 1952 Olympics, made a comeback try in the Star Games but was no match for Nielsen or Santee. He was 15 yards behind Santee in third place.

Seixas, Trabert Move Into Quarter-Finals of Tourney

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, heroes of the United States' Davis Cup triumph last month, reached the quarter-finals of the Australian National Tennis championships today.

Seixas, U.S. national champion from Philadelphia, sailed through Malcolm Anderson, a young Australan, 6-2, 6-0, 6-2, but Trabert had to go all out to save his match with young Neale Fraser of Australia, 1-6, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

Two other Americans, both junior players who came here with the Davis Cup squad to gain experience, were eliminated by Aussie stars. Rex Hartwig dropped a set, but conquered Mike Green of Miami Beach, Fla., 6-1, 9-11, 6-0, 6-1, while Mervyn Rose whipped Gerry Moss, also of Miami Beach, 7-5, 6-2, 6-1.

Seixas, at the top of his game against the 19-year-old Queenslander, was never forced to try hard for points in the 45-minute match. Anderson damaged a leg muscle in upsetting Don Candy in the first round Saturday and was not able to run hard for points.

Trabert, on the other hand, had a hard time with Fraser, whose spin type of attack was perfectly suited for the blustery crosscourt wind which blew during their match.

But he pulled his game together by the time the third set started and won the first game handily. With his confidence back, Tony broke Fraser's service and raced off to a 4-1 lead.

Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall, Aussies' cup players, also reached the quarter-finals.

Clarkston, Milford Clash In Spotlight

Two of the top-flight prep basketball teams in Oakland County come to grips Tuesday night in Clarkston High School gym as the host Wolves bump into high scoring Milford.

Dom Mauti's Clarkstonians will be defending a 7-game winning streak and the lead of the Wayne-Oakland League. The teams have identical 7-1 season records, but despite Clarkston's perfect league mark, the Wolves should enter the game as slight underdogs.

Milford has a decided height advantage and is scoring at a 20-point per game better clip than Clarkston. Jack Minzey's Redskins are hitting at a torrid 77-point mark. Clarkston's mark is a very respectable 57.

Defensively, the teams have similar averages, with Milford yielding 47 points per game to 44 for Clarkston. All but one game for each team has been played against the same opposition.

Comparative records lean heavily to Milford, with one glaring exception. The Redskins' lone loss was to Keego Harbor, 52-51, a team Clarkston defeated easier than the 66-64 score might indicate.

On the other side, however, Milford whipped Waterford by 28 points, Clarkston did it by 5. Oxford gave Clarkston its only defeat, 40-39, in the season opener. Milford drubbed the Wildcats, 77-50, last Friday night.

Holly, Brighton, Northville and Clarenceville all fell to both teams, but in each case, Milford's victory margin was much larger. Both teams are sure to be keyed very high for the game, which could be one of the season's best.

The biggest job for Mauti's quintet rests on the boards for Dick Johnston (6-1) and Bob Yahnke are the only regulars hitting six-feet. Lanny Leak (5-11), and tiny mites Pat Thompson and George Lang round out the starters.

Milford counters with a range forward line of Jim Davidson (6-3), Don Perkuchin (6-1) and Tom Gould (6-2), with six-footer Fred Baker and Joe Davis (5-7) in backcourt. Sub forwards John Sherwood, who had 21 points Friday night, and Jim Green also are six-footers.

Other leading games Tuesday night send Oxford to Troy, Lake Orion to Avondale, Walled Lake to Redford Union and Fenton to Holly. Another key league game is set in the Bi-County as undefeated Utica plays at South Lake in a first-place duel.

Oxford may be jumping from the frying pan into the fire. Its 4-game winning string snapped Friday at Milford, Jean Harkness' team now meets a Troy club that tallied 83 points Friday, including a 37-point binge by Jack Acton. Troy's victim, however, was Clawson, which has been taken badly 10 straight times.

The schedule:

Milford at Clarkston; Oxford at Troy; Lake Orion at Avondale; Keego Harbor at Northville; Fenton at Holly; Walled Lake at Redford Union; St. Freds at RO St. Mary; St. Mikes at OL St. Mary; South Lyon at Brighton; Ortonville at Goodrich; Utica at South Lake; Lake Shore at Center Line; Eastland at Lakeview; Roseville at Lutheran; North Branch at Flint St. Agnes; Lapeer at Davison; St. Thomas at Shrine; New Haven at Brown City; St. Benedict at St. James.

IN SHOWDOWN BATTLE — Taking aim on Clarkston's 7-game winning streak Tuesday night in the Clarkston High gym is Milford, boasting a 4-game skein of its own, but trailing the Wolves by a game in the Wayne-Oakland County League race. Here are the usual starters for the Redskins, who have an average of 77 points per game. From the left are Jim Davidson, Tom Gould, Fred Baker, Don Perkuchin and Joe Davis. The teams enter the game with identical 7-1 records.

Texas Becomes New Broadway Gag Target

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Seven or eight years ago, all the radio comedians used Brooklyn as a "gag town"—but now it's Texas . . . and even the sophisticated Broadway playwrights are dragging Texas in.

Luba Malina stole the opening of "Festival" (by Sam and Bella Spewack) the other night because of Texas . . . and she's a Rawshun.

Playing a cellist who wants to appear in Boston, Luba's enraged because her manager wants her to play Texas instead.

"Do you know Texas—the Siberia of America?" storms Luba to a "frand." She adds :"They look at my cello and they say say 'Can you play that thing side-saddle?' "

It's getting to be like it was with Brooklyn—you don't have to have a joke about Texas . . . you just say "Texas"—and people roar.

Criminologist Probes Sheppard Murder

CLEVELAND (INS) — California criminologist Dr. Paul Kirk—still undecided whether to talk to convicted wife-killer Dr. Sam Sheppard—forged ahead today in his one-man probe of the Marilyn Sheppard murder case.

The University of Californiai professor said last night he has not yet made up his mind whether he wants to talk with the convicted osteopath, who is in county jail in Cleveland pending outcome of his appeal of a second degree murder conviction and life sentence.

Dr. Kirk, hired by Sheppard's attorneys, spent more than five hours yesterday in the Bay Village home where Marilyn Sheppard was bludgeoned to death before dawn on July 4.

After talking with Dr. Sam's two brothers—Drs. Richard and Stephen Sheppard — the noted biochemist spent several hours looking around the home on the shores of Lake Erie.

Potter to Seek Probe on Aged

To Ask Federal Study Into Problems Affecting Elderly People

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich) said he would introduce a bill today to set up a 10-member commission to recommend action on the problems of the aged and those who are rapidly heading into that bracket.

Potter, who is 38 and a former social worker, said the number of Americans 65 and older is increasing twice as fast as the general population—more people are living longer. But their problems are multiplying even more rapidly.

The Michigan Republican's bill particularly lists the problems of employment, maintenance of income, health and physical care, housing, and effective use of leisure time.

The 10-member commission created by the bill would make a preliminary report by Dec. 31 and a final report by May 31, 1956.

Potter, a legless veteran of World War II, said 8 per cent of the population is now over 65 years old and the figure will be 12 per cent by 1970. He said 1,000 more persons enter the aged group every day as 3,000 persons reach the age of 65 while only 2,000 over that age die. Life exceptancy is now 68.4 years and going up.

Despite the influx into the aged group, more aged persons are retiring at the age of 65, often on greatly reduced incomes, because of pension and insurance plans. Many are not able to work, Poter said, but more effort should be made to find jobs for those who can.

Dog Trapped Under Ice Back Home After 3 Days

NEW YORK (UP)—Last Thursday, Lennie Goldfaden, 12, saw his pet German Shepherd get trapped beneath a layer of ice after the dog bounded onto a frozen lake which gave way.

Yesterday, Lennie found his pet back in his dog house, shivering and hungry but apparently none the worse from his ordeal.

Julie Haydon, 44, Stopped Growing Old at Age of 20

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—It is opening night on Broadway—any opening night—and the theater is groggy with suspense and noise, bare shoulders and stiff shirts, and the clashing scents of Arpege vs. martinis.

In the center of it all, softer than the minks around her, sits Julie Haydon.

If you're a regular first-nighter, with any sense of mystery in your head, you look for Julie first, even before your ticket stub. Watch for the pale silky hair, skimmed back like a schoolgirl's and dropping over the shoulders; see the incredibly high cheekbones and the far-off eyes.

Here you have, ladies and gentlemen, the wonder of the century—the fairy princess who never grows old.

It was nearly two decades ago that Julie was more dazzling a star on Broadway and in Hollywood than any she might hope to see tonight as she waits, in her usual seat (second in from the right aisle, sixth row), for the curtain to rise on another show.

One movie called "The Scoundrel" and a play called "Shadow and Substance" made her what they call an overnight star. Which means that after many years of trying to peddle her talents, she was suddenly appreciated.

But almost as abruptly as she found appreciation, Julie backed off. It was as if she had achieved what she had to achieve, then put an end to it. Gracefully she retired and kept that half-smile of hers wistful by going to work in a florist shop.

I was at the age where every girl wants to be an actress, when it happened. Julie Haydon was my ideal, and on my fanciest pink stationery I wrote her a letter of protest. Gee, I wrote, no more movies: No more plays? Why?

The letter came back in a plain envelope. At the bottom of it, in pretty, fragile script, she had written no explanation—just: "To your dreams! Julie Haydon." I was sad for awhile, but when you are young, you bounce back.

It wasn't till two years ago, when I started attending first nights on Broadway, that I saw her again. "Do you remember, an actress named Julie Haydon?" said the man on my left. "Well, there she is—the girl who never grows older."

There she was, more ethereal than you remembered, wearing a demure high-necked dress that accentuates her youthful slimness. And there were those same wistful eyes that surely could never have focused on anything more earthy than peppermint sticks and lilacs. She is 44, the record shows, but she stopped growing old at 20.

They say Julie has made a couple of rare dramatic appearances on stage and TV, but most of her contact with ordinary laughing, crying, mortal people comes on opening nights. She attends nearly all of them, on the arm of drama critic George Jean Nathan, her 72-year-old first-night companion for the past 17 years.

Three months ago, they shocked Broadway by announcing they will be married. Most of them were shocked because Nathan had once written a book on the joys of bachelorhood in which he strongly derided marriage as "an institution for the benefit of cowards . . . the result of individual and joint defeat."

But I was shocked because I'd never thought of the simple reason why Julie Haydon stayed young. After 17 years of affection for a man, she could still proclaim—at the thought of marrying him—"I'm in Heaven."

Obviously it's a great selling point for faith, hope, trust, long engagements and love.

MUSKEGON, Mich. (UP)—Fire engines in many cities go through red lights when racing to a fire but not in Muskegon. Fire Chief Wallace G. Cannon ordered all fire trucks to stop at red lights and stop signs when going to a fire after fire trucks were involved in a series of accidents while going through red lights.

Formosa War Boosts Grains

CHICAGO, Jan. 24 (AP) — Grains advanced in quite active dealings on the Board of Trade today and brokers attributed the upturn almost entirely to developments regarding Formosa.

Gains were posted in all pits with soybeans and wheat attracting the most demand. The advance in soybeans came despite the fact cash bean receipts were unusually large at 290 cars. At the most, the gains ran to around 2½ cents.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ¾ to 1¼ higher, March $2.31¾; corn ⅛ to ½ higher, March $1.54⅞; oats ⅜ to ⅞ higher, March 77⅛; rye ½ to 1 cent higher, March $1.22½; soybeans ½ to 2 cents higher, March $2.75¾; and lard 15 to 20 cents a hundred pounds higher, March $12.75.

Other speakers included J. D. Atkinson, parts warehousing and distribution manager; C. W. Hall, parts and accessories merchandising manager; and H. J. Havermale, assistant parts and warehouse distribution manager.

Wilson told the 29 managers attending the meeting at GMC's home office that 1954 was a good year in parts sales and all indications are that 1955 will be even better.

Objective of the meeting is to acquaint managers with future warehouse and distribution aims in the face of recent revisions of factory routine.

Sharks Bumped Bottom

Fliers Tell of 56 Hours Aboard Life Raft in Pacific

PEARL HARBOR, T.H. (UP) — Seven men who survived a Navy seaplane crash in the Pacific told today how they crowded aboard a leaking life raft and kept it afloat for 56 hours by plugging leaks with fingers and corks.

The survivors said they could feel sharks bumping against the bottom of their life raft during the entire time they spent on the waters.

Finally, one of 40 planes searching for the men spotted them Friday and the military sea transport service ship Gen. Ainsworth rescued them the following day. They were all in good condition.

The survivors included Jerome J. Warras of Detroit.

Their twin-engined Navy amphibian developed engine trouble last Wednesday on a flight from Johnston Island to Kwajalein. They ditched the plane after sending a distress message.

After the crash-landing one of the rafts blew away before they could inflate it and the seven men piled into the remaining raft. The plane sank soon after.

"Swells ranged from eight to 20 feet," they said. "The water was choppy and rain squalls came every 40 minutes. The kite for the radio wouldn't fly, so we inflated a balloon, which floated for an hour. Then the wind broke the antenna.

"Friction caused by a CO2 bottle punctured a hole in the bottom of the raft. . .there being no repair kit, fingers and wooden corks from oar handles were used to plug holes for 56 hours. A pump was used continuously. Sharks were bumping the bottom of the raft and five of us were seasick."

On Thursday, the men watched despairingly as two seach planes few overhead but failed to spot the raft. However, on Friday, they saw a PBY, a four-engined liberator-type bomber, pass overhead.

"We started shotting flares, smoke bombs and all. The 21st of January became the Fourth of July for us. The plane sighted us after seeing the flares."

A few moments later, other search planes arrived on the scene and one dropped a 30-foot boat with food, water and medical supplies.

"Three minutes later, we were all aboard that boat. A welcome sight was the dry clothing aboard.

We rode this boat until we were picked up by the Ainsworth.'

Mom, Children Hurt as Car Leaves Road

A Rochester mother was seriously injured and three of her five children were hurt yesterday morning when their car left the road, careened off a mailbox, scraped a tree and finally came to rest against a garage 200 feet away.

Mrs. Clare Schuman, 32, of 100 Rochester Rd., was reported in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital today with a fractured jaw and other injuries.

Mrs. Schuman told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies she turned around to tend one of the youngsters when the car left the pavement at John R and Avon Rds., Avon Township.

The two youngest children, Pennie, 7 months, and Lou Ann, 20 months, escaped without injury. Treated for bruises were Carol Ann, 11; Linda, 9, and James E., 8.

Bedroom Window Shattered by Bullet

Pontiac Police today were investigating a mysterious shot apparently fired Saturday night after a 61-year-old woman reported that her bedroom window had been smashed by a .38 calibre bullet.

Mrs. Leona Hunter, of 137 Wayne St., told detectives that she was awakened about 10 p. m. when she heard the loud crash in her upstairs bedroom. Her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Padar, in the downstairs living room, also reported hearing the window break.

However, none heard the report of a weapon, police said. Detective Fred Wirth said the bullet may have been fired from a long distance since it failed to pierce the window shade The slug was found laying on the window sill.

Police said a check with the nearby Oakland County Sheriff's Dept. showed that no one in the building heard any shots fired in the vicinity.

Hearn Retrial Motion Postponed Until Feb. 7

A hearing was postponed for the third time today on a petition for a retrial of Robert Hearn, 19, sentenced to life imprisonment in Oakland County Circuit Court with three others in December 1952.

Illness of the attorney representing Hearn caused Judge Frank L. Doty ton adjourn the hearing to Feb. 7. The quartet, all of Detroit, were convicted of the March 21, 1952 fatal stabbing of Alfred Jones, 27, a Ferndale gas station attendant.

All but 13 Back on Job at Michigan Seamless

Woman Embezzler Gets Three Years Probation

University TV Operates On a $10 Budget

TRAVELING COMPANIONS—Mr. Peepers, sailing for England to collect an inheritance, meets a debonair international adventurer (Cyril Ritchard) who takes him in tow. Here Peepers and his new friend are waving goodbye to friends on shore.

Rutgers Profs Conduct Classes

Weekly Expense Goes for Transportation and Cost of Material Only

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—Educational television on a budget of $10 a week is being operated by Rutgers University, with a big assist from Station WATV.

Nathan Shoehalter, coordinator of radio-TV at the New Brunswick, N. J., college and producer of the show, accounts for the outlay this way:

"Six and a half dollars goes to a professor and myself for transportation to and from the WATV studios in Newark and about $3.50 goes for materials used on the program every Monday night."

The station, an independent telecasting from the same Empire State Building tower used by key network stations here, donates its facilities and the air time for the program as a public service feature.

Wallace S. Moreland, Rutgers public relations director, cites the program as a demonstration that lack of funds for a fulltime educational station need not prevent a university from entering educational TV. A number of other colleges and universities around the country produce educational programs over regular commercial stations, although it's doubtful that any can match Rutgers' low budget.

Moreland explains that while the professors receive no pay for doing a 13-week series on the program, entitled Report from Rutgers, their regular duties on campus are lightened for the duration of their telecasting. Shoewalter does the program as part of his duties in directing radio-TV activities at the university.

He says frankly that Rutgers has no delusions that it will cut deeply into the audiences in this area for Burns & Allen and Sid Caesar, on at the same hour, and estimates the program has 125,000 to 150,000 viewers each week. While that's small compared with a top TV entertainment show, he says it's a huge audience for a college course.

The aim of the programs, now on the air 14 months, is not to educate people in the classroom sense of the word but rather to go backstage and explore the methods and philosophies of college teachers and the benefits of the subjects they teach.

Report from Rutgers now is completing a 13-week series on Italy, conducted by Prof. Remigio U. Pane, chairman of the Romance Language Department in the men's colleges. Starting Jan. 31 will be a series on Labor-Management relations by Dr. Monroe Kerkowitz, assistant professor of economics.

Burns, Allen Get Gala Testimonial at Friars Banquet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedians George Burns and Gracie Allen were given a testimonial last night at a gala show business banquet.

It was the Friars Club All-Charities Dinner and the club's first "Mr. and Mrs." affair.

A spokesman said approximately 1,000 attending subscribed an average of $100, or a total of about $100,000, to be given to their favorite charities for the privilege of attending.

Toastmaster George Jessel presented Mr. and Mrs. Burns with a silver chalice and a plaque recognizing their services to the City of Hope Medical Center.

"I'm so nervous I don't know what to do," said Gracie.

"I think I'll sing," said George, but he didn't.

Among those present were Jack Benny, Danny Thomas, Sam Goldwyn, Frankie Laine, Liberace, James Cagney, Dore Schary and CBS executive William S. Paley.

Pope Getting Transfusions, New Foods to Calm Ulcer

VATICAN CITY (INS)—The lingering illness of Pope Pius XII continues to worry his physicians who are aware that the Pontiff definitely is suffering from a bleeding stomach ulcer.

Two "large" blood and plasma transfusions each week have been necessary to prevent new sinking spells in recent weeks.

Earlier, the medical team definitely had established the existence of an esophageal diverticulum (gullet pocket) which was believed to be provoking the Pope's recurrent hiccoughing. But even in the earlier diagnosis the phsycians had noted "traces" of blood.

Prof. Antonio Gasbarrini, professor of clinical medicine at the University of Bologna medical school, who is recognized as Italy's No. 1 clinician, was revealed today to have stopped the treatment administered by the Swiss specialist Paul Niehans.

This treatment still is a secret, but papal physicians say it is based on a theory developed originally by Alexias Carrel and is supposed to fight the wear and tear of age.

Prof. Gasbarrini, in agreement with the Pope's physician, Dr. Ricardo Galeazzi-Lisi, prescribed daily walks in the open air which have proved very beneficial, plus feeding with "easily absorbed" substances.

One of the products used is known as "nutramine" and is a compound of amino-acids (derived from milk casein). It is administered by intravenous injection daily.

The other product is barely out of the experimental stage and still has no trade name.

It was developed by Dr. Tobias Soncini who, for the past year or so, has been working closely with Dr. Galeazzi-Lisi as his chief medical assistant.

Dr. Soncini, questioned by International News Service, was reluctant to divulge any information about this very "special biological preparation." He said only that it "was completed with the very valuable professional participation of the Pontiff's own physician, Dr. Galeazzi-Lisi."

He added that "it is correct to say that the Pope lived practically on this preparation alone for two weeks when he had his crisis last fall."

Detroit Navy Air Unit on Way to Atlantic Fleet

DETROIT (UP) — A Navy air squadron of 53 men, headed by Lt. Comm. A. W. Talton of Lansing left for duty with the Atlantic Fleet yesterday to aid the fleet while its Constellations are grounded for inspection.

The Constellations were grounded after one of them crashed in the Atlantic off Newfoundland a week ago.

There was no indication how long the squadron would remain on active duty.

Mile Ends at Furlong

SALISBURY, Md. (UP)—The Junior Chamber of Commerce effort to collect a mile of dimes Saturday for the March of Dimes was short by 77,280 dimes. Chairman Charles R. Bashiell said 12,480 dimes — $1,248— were collected. At 17 dimes to a foot that's 734 feet or roughly one eighth of a mile.

Philly Paper Offers Free Ads to Youths

PHILADELPHIA (INS) — The Philadelphia Inquirer launched a unique educational advertising program today in which boys and girls 16 years of age and under can place want ads in the classified section free of charge.

Joseph H. Hopkins, classified advertising manager, said the first boys' and girls' want ads section —a special feature designed exclusively for the younger set— would make its first appearance Monday, Feb. 14.

The free offer is open to youngsters living anywhere in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware or Maryland.

Hopkins explained they may place a free want ad to sell or trade any article of some value which they feel another child might want, such as sporting equipment, toys and pets. Or, he added, they may offer their services for after-school jobs. The ads have a 15-word limit.

High School Girl, 15, Drowns in St. Clair

ST. CLAIR SHORES (INS) — A 15-year-old St. Clair Shores girl drowned yesterday but her girl friend was heroically rescued after they fell through the ice in Lake St. Clair.

The victim, Carole Giacobazzi, a student at Lakeview High School, drowned after she followed her friend, 15-year-old Sandra Shern, also of St. Clair Shores, through an opening in the ice about 800 feet from shore.

Carole had been trying her new ice skates for the second time since Christmas.

Gerald Miller, 19, crawled along the thin ice seconds after the pair had fallen but saw only Sandra thrashing about in 15 feet of water.

Dies of Car Injuries

DETROIT (UP) — Valoris Baxter, 77, of Detroit died in a convalescent home after being hit by an automobile Jan. 7 while crossing a Detroit street.
