JFK Asks Limits on Tax Deductions

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy asked Congress today to recapture about a fifth of his proposed $11-billion tax cut for individuals by clamping drastic limits on deductions.

His proposal would limit deductions for such things as home mortgage interest, contributions, medical expenses and local taxes.

Only that portion of the total amount which exceeds 5 per cent of the taxpayer's income could be deducted.

The sweeping nature of the plan was the surprise element in a 12,500-word message in which Kennedy spelled out his anxious request for a three-step reduction in personal and corporate tax rates.

The President urged Congress to cut taxes by $3.2 billion this year as the first step toward an eventual 18 per cent slash in the average American's tax bill. He asked that the 1963 cuts be made retroactive to Jan. 1.

However, the pocketbook effect on individuals would only come if and when a new tax law was enacted and employers began withholding less tax money from paychecks.

Kennedy assumes, perhaps optimistically, that this can be done by July 1.

Proposed tax savings, to be parceled out over a three-year period, would go as high as 39

Legislators OK Short Session

Agree With Romney; to Adjourn April 26

LANSING (AP) — The legislature has agreed it will hold a short, snappy, winter-spring session in line with the suggestion of Gov. George Romney.

A Senate-approved resolution calling for adjournment April 26 passed through the House on a voice vote yesterday without even an official whimper of protest from Democrats.

This will still mean calling a special session next fall to consider tax reform and any other controversial measures left over from the short session.

The Senate saw a heated round of debate on the issue before it was passed 21-10 on strict party lines. In contrast, all was peaceful and quiet — at least on the surface — in the House.

The House Rules and Resolutions Committee reported out the adjournment resolution favorably and the membership agreed to suspend rules to take immediate action. The resolution passed by (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Baby, You'll Freeze Out There—Stork

By DICK SAUNDERS

It was so cold last night that even the stork flew south. At least that's the opinion at Pontiac General Hospital.

As of 10:30 a.m. today, there hadn't been a baby born there since shortly before 1 p.m. Wednesday — an unusual lapse for a hospital that delivered more than 3,000 last year.

On the other hand, there haven't been any frostbite cases reported in the emergency department.

There were troubles, though. Some 20 cars of employees refused to start and remained in the hospital lot all night.

About 100 hospital employees couldn't get to work because of car trouble today.

Many Pontiac residents got nothing but a busy signal calling for taxi cabs this morning and ended up walking or just staying home.

Rock salt on icy streets was about as helpful as pebbles on a marble-top table.

Normally busy city streets were deserted almost before dark last night as residents hurried home to spend the night indoors.

It wasn't a very good business night for drive-in theaters, either.

And, you couldn't stand and look at posters in travel bureau windows, dreaming of a Florida vacation — the windows were all frosted over.

A record-breaking cold snap today closed schools in the Pontiac area, caused thousands of people to be late for work, and was responsible for a temporary shutdown of operations at a Pontiac plant.

The lowest temperature on record for this date, 15 degrees below zero was recorded downtown last night.

But the U.S. Weather Bureau predicts a "warming" trend is on its way.

Today's high should reach six degrees above zero, with a low of zero predicted for tonight.

JFK Plans to Meet Latin America VIPs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will meet with the presidents of the Central American republics and Panama in San Jose, Costa Rica on March 18, 19 and 20, the White House announced today.

The White House said the meeting is not a state visit but in the nature of a working conference.

The invitation to Kennedy to attend the meeting was extended several months ago.

The presidents of Costa Rica, Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Panama, as well as the president-elect of Nicaragua will attend the San Jose conference. Nicaragua will elect a new president Feb. 3. He will be inaugurated May 1.

New A-Plan Approved for Italians

ROME (UPI)—The government today gave its approval to a new atomic strategy believed to be the withdrawal of land-based U.S. Jupiter missiles from Italy and their replacement with Polaris missile submarines.

The decision was contained in a communique which said Premier Amintore Fanfani's government had approved "the proposed criteria for the modernization of the arms of the (NATO) alliance."

The communique was issued following a cabinet session. It did not go into further detail.

But it was clear it referred to the long-suspected withdrawal of U.S. Jupiter missiles from Italian soil and their replacement with the sea-based Polaris missiles.

Fanfani is expected to make an official announcement to this effect to Parliament sometime Saturday.

By that time, he is expected to have won a vote of approval over a Communist-submitted motion of no confidence.

Parliament is debating the issue now, with Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti calling on the chamber of deputies to overthrow Fanfani's badly split center-left coalition government.

The Reds are threatening mass demonstrations against the Polaris if it comes here.

Italy is the second NATO nation to announce the withdrawal of land-based missiles. Turkey yesterday announced the substitution of Polaris missiles for land-based Jupiters, although no confirmation has yet come from Washington.

'Frenchman Fights History'

Leader Gaulling U.S.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Worried U.S. officials claim that French President Charles de Gaulle is trying to turn back the clock of history with his plan to unify Western Europe under French leadership without close British and American ties.

The main thrust of U.S.

diplomacy within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in coming months, informants said, will be directed toward trying to prevent the new de Gaulle agreement with German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer from becoming the basis for a European system dominated by France.

President Kennedy faces the delicate problem at his news conference today of making clear the U.S. position on the allied situation without hardening the split in the alliance if he can avoid it.

At the same time it is understood that he wants to leave no doubt in the minds of European leaders opposed to De Gaulle's aims that they have full U.S. support in trying to create a different kind of Europe.

PRaises Frenchmen

While the State Department declined comment Wednesday on the Adenauer-De Gaulle treaty for French-German cooperation just concluded in Paris, Kennedy and Undersecretary of State George W. Ball welcomed the opportunity to pay tribute Wednesday night to another French leader, Jean Monnet. He has worked for many years for European unity set within a partnership with the United States.

Kennedy in a letter praised

Monnet as a man who was in fact uniting Europe through the force of a constructive idea.

Ball, who spoke at a dinner in New York where Monnet was honored, described the present as "a time of crisis" and clearly implied how the Washington government feels about De Gaulle's policies.

Ball said that Monnet has recognized that history is not static and that events must be directed toward meeting the needs "of an evolving new age."

"He has, therefore, never been tempted into the unhappy error—induced by a nostalgic longing for a world that never was—of seeking to recapture the past," Ball said.

U. S. BACKING

The United States for more than a decade has supported the efforts of Monnet and other European leaders, including Adenauer, to forge economic strength and political cooperation in Western Europe to a degree which the continent had never known in the past.

More recently the United States has thrown its strength and prestige behind the drive to get Britain into the European Common Market along with the countries on the continent, and to form a nuclear striking force under the North Atlantic alliance as a means of discouraging the development of national nuclear forces.

Within the past two weeks De Gaulle has undertaken to block British membership in the Common Market completely, though he said that Britain might enter the organization some years from now.

Orders Quiz on Build-Up in Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk will be the first witness tomorrow at the opening of a Senate investigation into reports of a New Soviet military build-up in Cuba.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse has ordered an immediate Senate investigation into reports of a new round-the-clock Soviet military build-up in Cuba. State Department officials will be the first to appear before the Oregon Democrat's Latin American Affairs subcommittee when the inquiry gets under way Saturday.

A massive Soviet arms buildup in Cuba last year precipitated a major East-West crisis. But following an agreement with President Kennedy, Soviet Premier Khrushchev ordered the removal of offensive missiles and jet bombers and tensions eased.

Since then the administration has maintained a reassuring attitude. Just two weeks ago Secretary of State Dean Rusk was quoted as having told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he was convinced all Soviet missiles and bombers classed as offensive had been removed.

By contrast, that very day Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., contended that Prime Minister Fidel Castro is "10 times better equipped" militarily than he was last spring.

The new flurry over Soviet arms in Cuba was capped Wednesday by a New York Times news service report that the Soviet Union is building "highly sophisticated ground and air defenses in Cuba."

French Insist Mart Talks End

Cabinet Wants No Part of Britain in League

PARIS (AP)—The French cabinet refused to budge today from its position that negotiations for Britain's entry into the Common Market should be ended. But the British government announced it will make every effort to keep the talks alive.

The talks are scheduled to resume in Brussels Monday, although France insisted in the Belgian capital last week that negotiations be halted.

After a cabinet meeting, Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte told reporters:

"France believes she has no reason to go back on her position taken at Brussels. We can't see at present how the negotiations can be resumed."

In London, Deputy Foreign Minister Edward Heath, Britain's chief Common Market negotiator, told the House of Commons "We shall do our best to see that the negotiations can be continued."

Heath stressed that the other five countries in the Common Market—West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—strongly maintained the view at Brussels "that negotiations should be continued, that progress had been made and that the negotiations could be concluded successfully."

Heath was careful to avoid castigating France. He drew from Jo Grimond, the Liberal party leader, the statement that Heath had given parliament "an account of the plot of Hamlet without mentioning the prince."

Heath also declared that Britain wished to take a full part in the round of negotiations envisaged by President Kennedy to link the United States and others to an enlarged Common Market.

President Charles de Gaulle rejected this concept of an enlarged Common Market last week at the same news conference at which he declared Britain is not ready to enter the prosperous trading bloc.

HOPES FOR ACCORD

Rep. Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, House Democratic leader, rose to say he hoped this meant there would be quick agreement on a "coalition program" between the governor's office and Democrats.

Kowalski was asked what he meant by coalition program—if there was some working agreement going.

The Democratic spokesman hastened to say there was no official agreement. What he meant, Kowalski said, was that philosophically the governor's office and Democrats were in agreement on such issues as the needs for a minimum wage, construction safety, mental health, senior citizens and unemployment compensation legislation.

Kowalski said he gathered this from reading the governor's various messages and speeches.

Collins Lambastes Romney Promises

MOUNT CLEMENS (U) — Democratic State Chairman Joe Collins says George Romney was elected because "the people just wanted to take a trial spin in an imported car."

"I am confident that by the time their two-year ride is over, they're going to be looking diligently for a more familiar model—one which won't be afraid to permit a look under the hood to see what makes it go," Collins declared in a speech last night to the Macomb County Democratic Convention.

The chairman added: "Chrome-plated promises of leadership are nice to look at, but, up to now, the Romney model has displayed a very slow zero-to-64 pickup."

Collins accused the Republican majority in the State Legislature of habitually postponing legislation needed immediately until next year.

"If all the legislation the Republican majority has promised to act on 'next year' were put in a pile and set afire," Collins observed, "nuclear fuel for peaceful purposes would be unnecessary for 20 years."

The people have been told, he said, to wait a little longer for "those Republican promissory notes" to come due.

Collins declared that Romney "will never be accused of fiddling while Michigan burns—he'll just get up and take a run around the block."

Running around the block, he said, is a term which is applied to lend dignity to what used to be called "chasing yourself."

On the proposed new constitution, Collins said the document is a lot worse than Michigan's present constitution.

The Democratic chairman said the constitutional convention, where Romney was a vice president, was a failure.

"Let me just remind you," he observed, "that had it not been for the support of the Democratic party, that convention would never have been called in the first place."

"But it would be a gross failure to recognize the truth if we were to support the con-con proposal on the strength of that. The convention simply failed."

Farm Bureau Gives Unionist Chance to Talk

LANSING (UPI) —The Michigan Farm Bureau said yesterday it would provide an opportunity for appearances before its board of directors of a state AFL-CIO official on the subject of the proposed constitution.

The bureau, which is on record strongly supporting the document, said Tom Daons, legal counsel for the state labor body, requested permission to appear before the board and discuss the "other side of the question."

The state AFL-CIO opposes the proposed constitution. Clarence Prentice, secretary-manager of the farm bureau, said the bureau would offer down the opportunity to appear before the board "in keeping with a long-held policy of the organization . . . as a matter of providing in-

Ready Addition to Romeo High

Will Be All Set for Students Monday

ROMEO—The new addition to Romeo Senior High School will be ready for student occupancy when the second semester starts Monday.

School Supt. T. C. Filppula said also that the Washington Elementary school addition, opened Jan. 1, will be completed at that time.

These two projects are included in the current school district expansion program made possible by voter approval of $650,000 bond issue in October 1961.

The major project, construction of a new two-story building on the south side of the junior high school, is due for completion March 7. Heat was turned on in the building yesterday.

The senior high school wing contains four classrooms, an audio-visual room, guidance counseling service area and boys' and girls' lavatories on the first level.

On the second level there is a large arts and crafts room on the north side and a similar-sized room on the south side, to be used for drafting and blueprint classes.

The other projects included in the building program were remodeling at the North Grade School and a new wing at the Croswell School, both of which were completed by the opening of school in September.

The new building on the junior high property contains a boiler room at the rear, four classrooms and lavatories on the ground level and a large science room and three classrooms on the floor above.

Now in his third term as clerk-register, Murphy also is a director of the Michigan State Association of Supervisors, chairman of the association's educational division board of control, secretary of the Michigan Association of County Clerks and a member of civic and club groups in Pontiac.

Hospital Receives $15,000 on Pledges

ROCHESTER — The receipt of $15,000 on pledges made by two area utility firms to the suburban unit of Crittendon General Hospital was announced today by hospital campaign officials.

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and Detroit Edison Co. each have made payments of $7,500 on their pledges to the hospital, to be built at Auburn and John R Roads in Avon Township.

To date over $1,075,000 has been pledged to the hospital fund, according to a campaign spokesman.

The first unit of the proposed hospital will have 205 beds and a basic core of services. The hospital expects to expand to 450 beds around 1970.

Gaitskell's Loss Upsets British Politics

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

Among British political opinion and London newspapers alike the reaction to the death of Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell seemed unanimous.

Said the conservative Sunday Telegraph:

"It is a measure of Mr. Gaitskell's stature that his death has reduced the NEWSOM whole future of British politics to speculation."

The Sunday Express said that never before in modern British political history had the loss of a single leader dealt such a blow to a major party.

For Gaitskell was not only the helmsman of the Labor party, he was also in many ways the designer of its present mould.

He had modified the party's program of nationalization for British industry, he had overcome left-wing demands for Ban-the-Bomb and Britain's unilateral disarmament and by sheer persistence led his party to the point where public opinion polls gave it 44.5 per cent of the vote and labelled him Britain's next prime minister.

He had described himself as a poor hater, yet he was able to take on the flamboyant Nye Bevan, a better hater than most, and defeat him in 1955 for the party leadership.

QUIET MAN

A quiet man, he could be goaded to anger.

Snapped Gaitskell:

"Go and see what it is like to deal with Soviet police and Soviet tanks like the Hungarian people."

Gaitskell came from a middle-class family, the son of a civil servant. He never walked in a picket line, yet early decided that "My future belongs to the working class."

He became a don at London University, and in the Labor landslide of 1945 began a meteoric rise in government. All of this without flash or color, but as an intellectual.

It is the image created by Gaitskell's success that now creates the greatest problems for those who must follow him.

The party platform was Gaitskell's own. Whether British voters will accept his successor as the creator's image or only as a poor carbon copy still must be determined.

Also to be determined is the real unity of the Labor party, whether it was a fragile thing depending entirely upon Gaitskell or whether Gaitskell was able to leave it with the binding necessary to political victory even though he is gone.

Among possible successors there are two immediately outstanding. One is deputy leader George Brown, a likeable trade unionist who took over in Gaitskell's illness. The other is Harold Wilson, a brilliant man distrusted by some for his ambition.

REPRIEVE FOR MAC?

It is not only over the Labor party that Gaitskell's figure still looms large. For the conservatives of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan a break in Labor unity could mean a reprieve.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Linda Darnell won a court order Wednesday preventing her husband from running up bills in her name.

Miss Darnell said in an affidavit that husband Merle R. Robertson had charged hundreds of dollars to her phone bills since they separated last July.

She also asked for $1,000 a month alimony but the hearing on that request is pending.

Robertson, an airline pilot, filed for divorce last August, charging cruelty and habitual intemperance.

Auto Makers Worry About 'Doubled' Warranties

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer
DETROIT (AP) — More than 85 per cent of the new American cars now being sold carry a written warranty against any major defects showing up in the first two years or 24,000 miles of operation.

This is exactly double the warranty on last year's cars and a number of auto dealers are worrying about the extension.

They are concerned that their particular factory, to meet or beat competition, may have rushed into the longer term without proper preparations.

The manufacturers admit the plan will cost them money, at least in its early stages. But they also feel they reimburse their dealers adequately for all expense involved at the retail level.

"It's too soon to tell how much that second year is going to cost us," Lee Iacocca said recently. Iacocca is general manager of Ford Division of Ford Motor Co.

"Sure, we've had 24 months on the Lincoln Continental since 1961 and we've got fleet data. But Ford owners don't always conform to these figures."

Although General Motors was first to announce the extended warranty, Iacocca is an enthusiastic booster of the plan. Ford, American Motors and Studebaker all switched to the "24-24" program in line with GM.

Chrysler chose a different route. It now warrants the power train-engine block, transmission except the clutch, differential and rear axle — for five years or 50,000 miles, provided certain maintenance schedules are observed.

The rest of the car carries the 12-month or 12,000-mile policy which had been the industry standard since Ford junked the old 90-day or 4,000-mile warranty with the 1961 models.

CHRYSLER CONFUSES
Iacocca says the Chrysler program has tended to confuse the warranty picture.

"We have customers who want to know why we don't guarantee our cars for five years. They won't read the fine print."

The Ford executive says the 24-month or 24,000-mile plan will save owners more money than the Chrysler plan. "Remember," he said, "80 per cent of their car is covered for only 12 months."

Chrysler says parts most costly to repair or replace are among those covered for five years.

Iacocca said problems might arise in the second year with such items as fuel pumps, water pumps, generators or electrical systems, all of which are covered under the 24-month warranty. Most of these are not covered in Chrysler's five-year warranty.

The Federal Trade Commission has kept a close watch on all automobile warranty advertising ever since the change to 12 months or 12,000 miles two years ago.

The aim has been to make sure the companies mean what they say. Parts of the car not covered by the warranty must be specified.

These include such things as ignition points, brake or clutch linings, filters and spark plugs.

These tend to wear out in normal use and are regarded as replacement items. Tires are covered under separate warranties by the tire manufacturers.

The auto companies have been careful to specify warranty, rather than guarantee, although dic-

Genghis Khan Back in Red China-Tito

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito accused the rulers of Red China Wednesday of following in the footsteps of Genghis Khan, the ruthless 12th century Mongol conqueror of central Asia.

"They would like to throw the entire world into an abyss," without concern that 300 million of their 700-million own people would die in a nuclear war, Tito asserted in a speech to 1,400 delegates at a Yugoslav youth congress.

Kenya Facing Big Problem

One Park Can Count
15,000 Elephants

WASHINGTON—Game authorities in Kenya unexpectedly face a jumbo problem: Too many elephants.

As a species, elephants face extinction in Africa. But a recent aerial count in and around Tsavo National Park tallied 15,000 elephants in an area that can adequately support only 10,000.

An elephant eats a fifth of a ton of vegetation each day. Unless the elephant population is kept in balance, some animals such as the rhinoceros could be eaten out of house and home.

An area in which elephants have been feeding for several weeks begins to resemble a battlefield. It may not recover for years.

Protected elephants from game parks in a few other parts of Africa are also reported making thundering nuisances of themselves, says National Geographic Society.

In Uganda, elephants have knocked down trees, trampled crops, and chased people on the road at night. They have damaged mahogany trees worth $750 apiece by rubbing against the bark.

ELEPHANTS TIPSY

The South African Information Service warned tourists visiting Kruger Park this year: "Beware of Drunken Elephants." The animals apparently got tipsy from eating fermented marula berries and attacked several cars.

Because of the generally precarious state of African wildlife, conservationists hope they can find an alternative to killing surplus elephants where they are too concentrated.

Outside the safety of reserves, poachers slaughter vast numbers each year for the ivory.

Largest and most powerful of all land animals, the elephant has inspired many legends which persist despite expert debunking.

Elephants do forget. They are not afraid of mice. They are not particularly long-lived, having an average life expectancy about that of man.

And there is no evidence that elephants have a common graveyard—the fabulously rich "Ivory Valley"—where they go to die.

Ike Made No Plan for Cuba Air Cover

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said in a television interview broadcast last night that no plan was drawn up during his administration for a U. S. air cover for a refugee invasion of Cuba.

Asked about the decision not to use U. S. air power in the disastrous Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961 after he was out of office, Eisenhower said of his own administration:

"There was no way. We

Tavern Profits Used to Pay Union Lawyers

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Profits of $50,000 from a bar operated by Local 12, United Auto Workers Union, are being used to pay legal expenses of a UAW vice president and others.

Walter Murphy, UAW assistant regional director, said the money was donated last month after the indictment of Richard T. Gosser, union vice president, and his administrative assistant, Donald Pincioti.

Gosser and Pincioti were indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to obtain confidential information from the files of the Internal Revenue Service.

The UAW International board declined to pay any expenses stemming from the charges since they did not involve union business.

Murphy said some 400 members of the 16,000-member union voted to set up the fund from profits of the bar operated in the Local 12 hall.

A Paying Proposition

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Kids who visit the observation balcony at Standiford Field to watch the big airliners slip in under the pay turnstile. Airport officials don't mind a bit. The children usually draw their parents after them and it's a dime for big people.

didn't even know at that time . . . whether these refugees would be sufficiently numerous and strong to do more than go into the . . . eastern part of the island, in the mountains, and start . . . a counterrevolution.

"We more or less were thinking of guerrilla type action until we could get enough forces to do more than that. We did hope to get there to find a man that was . . . acceptable to the Cuban people . . . That was our general feeling, but there was no specific strategic or tactical plan developed before I had left."

Eisenhower said, however, that he had "no kick with the plan" for air cover for the invaders.

"If that had been done," he added, "that might have made the difference, because once these forces were ashore, ready to take care of themselves, it might have been easy to get more reinforcements through from the island itself and, finally, to recognize a government there."

The United States decision not to supply air cover has been blamed widely for the failure of the Bay of Pigs invasion.

President Kennedy has said he bears personally the ultimate responsibility for this country's tactics in connection with the invasion.

Eisenhower's comments last night were in an interview with commentator Walter Cronkite on the "CBS Reports" program. The hour-long interview was taped last Monday at Palm Desert, Calif., where Eisenhower is vacationing.

Rainiest Spot in the World Is Claimed by the 50th State

HONOLULU (AP)—Legend has it that the rainiest spot in the world—the top of Hawaii's Mt. Waialeale (pronounced wya-lay-ay-lay)—once was dry.

But the Menehunes—mythical Hawaiian pygmies—put up a stone idol dedicated to their rain god on the summit and then began the deluge.

Since the ancient Hawaiians built a sacred temple there, not more than a few dozen people have dared the hazardous climb to check the 471.68-inch dousing the mountain averages each year. The nearest inhabited area just 10 miles away has an average annual rainfall of slightly more than 20 inches.

Mt. Waialeale, which means "rippling water," is the core of the island of Kauai (pronounced cow-aye) at the northern end of the Hawaiian chain.

MASS OF CLOUDS
Its 5,000-foot summit is swept by constant winds and usually is veiled in a dense mass of water-soaked clouds.

The mountain had great spiritual significance to the ancient Hawaiians. Its summit was the site of the most sacred of a chain of seven heiaus—temples—leading from the shore of the island to the summit.

Yearly treks were made to the top by a U.S. Geological Survey team to measure the contents of a 900-inch rain gauge.

The federal agency discontinued the annual rainfall readings in 1959, when a typhoon destroyed the equipment.

Local officials, fearing Hawaii might lose her title by default, pressed for repairs to the equipment, and the first reading in four years should be made late this year.

50-YEAR TASK

The difficult job of measuring the rainfall and bringing data down from the swampy summit has been the task of the U.S. Geological Survey's water resources division for more than a half-century.

It involves a perilous climb, rough even for a trained outdoors man.

Forty to 52 feet of rain a year has created a spongy bog one to three miles wide on the summit and extending down the northwest slope for five miles.

The approach to the bog is through some of the thickest jungles in the islands.

The last part of the climb must be made through knee-deep swamp.

Eddie Taniguchi, a Kauai cowboy, acts as guide.

Taniguchi has been to the summit about 25 times. He recalls

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS

SPECIAL REPORT

he was there only once when it was clear.

Records in Honolulu show an even higher average rainfall for

Mt. Waialeale than is usually attributed to it.

From 1930 to 1951, the average was 510.91 inches with a high in 1948 of 624.10 and a low in 1951 of 335.45.

Measurements made from 1912 over 34 years indicates an average yearly rainfall of 476.34, about five inches more than the figure given in world almanacs.

Mt. Waialeale competes with Cherrapunji in the Upper Ganges Valley of India which has averaged rainfall of 450 inches a year over 74 years.

However, the Indians claim the highest rainfall in one rainy monsoon, 1,042 inches in 1880-81; the highest for one month, 366 inches in 1861; and the highest in one five-day period, 12.5 feet in 1841.

The local U.S. Geological Survey office feels it has determined to its own satisfaction that Mt. Waialeale is the world's rainiest spot.

Sno's No Handicap

He Fattens Up Lansing Birds

LANSING (AP)—The snow gets deeper every day, but about 250 to 300 Lansing pheasants have no trouble staying fat.

The pheasants—plus squirrels, owls, rabbits, hawks, cardinals, and bluejays—enjoy breakfast in Floyd Decker's back yard every morning.

Decker serves an attractive meal, including wheat, corn, peanuts and sunflower seeds.

Last year, said Decker, he spent about $200 to buy about 200 bushels of wheat and corn, 100 pounds of peanuts, and 400 pounds of sunflower seeds. He says the cost "is well worth it, just to watch them come to eat."

Decker's home is within the city, so the birds are protected from hunters in the fall. He's been feeding them since 1959.

Ethel Expects 8th Tot in July

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, wife of the attorney general and sister-in-law of the President, is expecting her eighth child in July, the Washington Post reported today.

The Kennedys now have six sons and a daughter, their ages ranging from 3 to 11.

Plan Medical Facility

LAKEVIEW (AP)—A new 50-bed convalescent medical facility employing some 30 persons is in the planning stage in this Montcalm County community. Spokesmen envision a $300,000 structure which would be taxable as a profit-making institution.

Viet Cong Nabs Priest, 3 Nuns

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Communist guerrillas kidnaped a Roman Catholic priest and three nuns as they drove from a leprosarium Wednesday about 20 miles northeast of Saigon, a government spokesman said.

The guerrillas later released the driver and car, but the fate of the four—three Vietnamese and one French nun—was not known.

The Viet Cong is apparently holding three American missionaries, including a woman doctor, who were captured in mid-1962 from a leper colony 170 miles northeast of Saigon.

President Ngo Dinh Diem began a three-day celebration of the Vietnamese new year with an appeal to Viet Cong fighters to drop their arms and rally to his government.

Diem made the appeal without the predicted offer of amnesty to the Communist guerrillas.

The Viet Cong command has declared a three-and-a-half day unilateral truce to mark the new year's observance. Diem's government has given no indication of joining in.

YOUNG MOTHER SOBS — Mrs. Joyce McMahon, 24, is comforted by her husband William (left) and brother-in-law William Dennis in Los Angeles yesterday after a coroner's jury returned a split decision in the death of her foster son, Richard Mojica, 3. She admitted at the inquest that she whipped the tot shortly before he died.

Issues No-Strike Pledge to World's Fair Chief

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York 1964-65 World's Fair has been assured it will be free of labor trouble.

David Sullivan, general president of the Building Service Employees' International Union, recently delivered a "no strike" pledge on behalf of the union and five of its New York area locals to Robert Moses, president of the Fair.

The world's highest temperature was recorded at El Azizia, Libya on Sept. 13, 1922. It was 136 degrees Fahrenheit.

Old West Blends With Modern

HOUSTON, Texas (UPI)—If your town's got a high-steeped church or a little red schoolhouse that it doesn't need, there's a place in Texas that's hankerin' to get 'em.

It's called Valley Lodge, a bit of suburbia gone backwards, about 35 miles west of Houston.

Valley Lodge is a reincarnation of the Old West and its mode of living—together with a few modern frills, of course, to avoid privation.

The development is built around a 160-acre Western town that belongs to everybody. It's sort of a communal "Tombstone, Ariz." With an Olympic swimming pool on the side.

People ride horses up and down its dusty streets past a saloon, a blacksmith shop, several frontier houses and a jail.

This is where the schoolhouse and the church come in. A. E. (Snake) Bailey, one of the masterminds of Valley Lodge, desperately wants these buildings to complete the town's atmosphere.

So far, he's left nothing stand in the way to give the town a look that would lead one to expect Wyatt Earp might come swaggering down the street any minute.

REASSEMBLED

The buildings have been brought from many parts of Texas. They were torn down, then reassembled in the town.

As Snake tells it in his slow Texas way that blends with the surroundings: "We brought that jail all the way from Sealy, Tex. The one they got there now ain't much better."

Valley Lodge's jail has two rooms with six-inch thick heavy wooden walls, and rusty steel bars on the windows that look like they were made to file through.

Asked if Valley Lodge has ever had to use the jail, Snake replied: "no," slowly—then added that one homeowner was asked to sell his property and get out for violating "a major code of the West."

"He got drunk and abused a lady," Snake said simply.

Valley Lodge has its own sheriff who rides around not on a white charger, but in a late model white sedan with a big red siren on top.

"We got him to keep out people who don't belong here," Snake said.

The town has an old frontier house, two rooms separated by a carriage stall, a rodeo arena, an Olympic swimming pool, a 50-acre lake and a $150,000 clubhouse with a Kodiak bear hanging on the wall in the banquet room.

Is the land around Valley Lodge any good for farming?

"The topsoil goes down 17 feet," Snake said. "It's the best anywhere this side of the Nile Valley."

Yawning Increases Oxygen Reserve

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY
Theoretically, yawning is an unconscious or involuntary effort to increase the oxygen reserve in tissues and cells and reduce the amount of carbon dioxide that accumulates in tissues (blood is a tissue) and cells, when breathing is too shallow.

Most Americans are shallow breathers, for two reasons. First, they lead a sedentary life, preferring to ride even when they might walk, or to sit and watch professionals play or perform, or to hire others to chore for them. Second, they don't know how to breathe.

Avowedly this is all theoretical, but it is consistent with our knowledge of physiology and pathology.

Brisk walking is the best general exercise one can take. It increases the absorption of oxygen and the excretion of carbon dioxide considerably more than just enough to maintain the status quo. It raises basal metabolism. That is why one feels better after a brisk walk.

It is difficult to say whether foul air, boredom or suggestion accounts for epidemic yawning. Perhaps all three factors are concerned. Babies and animals yawn merely to get more oxygen.

Any way immediate belly breathing is the quickest way to stop yawning. Getting up and opening a window or two, or going outdoors for some fresh air is another way to stop it.

WORKS EFFECTIVELY

A yawn itself is an effort to get more oxygen—and it is effective if not suppressed.

Suppressing a yawn or a sneeze may be good manners but is not good hygiene. It is better, I think, to open the mouth as widely as possible to yawn and to sneeze vigorously when you sneeze (of course, covering the sneeze to prevent spreading any infections to persons near you.)

A yawn is a deep inhalation with mouth wide open — the quickest way to get more air, more oxygen. A sneeze is a forceful exhalation—the quickest way to expel irritants from the upper respiratory tract.

I don't know, but it seems reasonable to think that a hearty sneeze may expel germs or viruses which would otherwise cause rhinitis, pharyngitis, sinusitis, otitis media (middle ear inflammation), mastoiditis, laryngitis or what not.

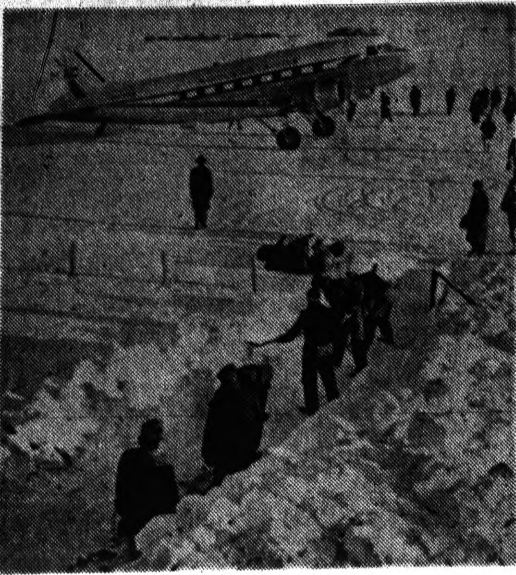

If you don't know how to breathe, you can learn how by studying Little Lesson No. 21, "How to Breathe," for which send me 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. It contains instructions, illustrations, for resuscitation by the mouth-to-mouth and by Schafer's prone-pressure.

If Little Lesson 21 is too steep, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the free No. 17 pamphlet, "Belly Breathing." Belly or bellows breathing is natural breathing, the way animals and savages breathe, the way a sleeping person breathes, the way one breathes under anesthesia. In other words, it is the efficient way.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. (Copyright, 1963)

Moscow Claims Soapy 'Lied'

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet newspaper yesterday charged U.S. Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs G. Mennen Williams with "lying and slanderous concoctions" in alleging Soviet interference in the Congo.

"Whitewashing in every way the American colonialists, Williams tried to lay the blame at the wrong door," the newspaper Trud said.

But lies have short legs. The whole world knows it is precisely the U.S. . . . that rudely intervenes in the domestic affairs of the Congo.

"The main culprits of the Congo tragedy are the monopolies of the U.S.A. and other Western countries," Trud said. "It was they who made the Congo an arena for the struggle of the imperialist monopolies."

Cubans Hasten to Meet Departure Rules

By GEORGE ARFELD
Havana (AP) — Hundreds of Cubans leaving for the United States aboard the American freighter Shirley Lykes hurried to comply today with the Castro regime's departure requirements. Under recent regulations they were required to forfeit their homes and automobiles to the state and to pay all utility bills before leaving. They were allowed to take no jewelry and were permitted only three changes of clothing. No sailing time was announced for the Shirley Lykes, originally expected to leave Wednesday night with 900 to 1,000 relatives of the recently released Bay of Pigs invaders aboard. The Red Cross in Miami said it hoped to announce a sailing date today. The 490-foot freighter is expected to take the Cubans to Port Everglades, Fla.

The ship reached Havana Friday with more than 7,000 tons of food and medicines as an installment on the ransom for the 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners freed last month.

FLY IN MEDICS

The American Red Cross, which sponsored the voyage, flew in a medical team Wednesday equipped with cots and blankets to aid the refugees on the 12- to 14-hour return trip.

Red Cross officials said the delay in departure was due to necessary clearances and internal transportation problems. A Red Cross spokesman said many prospective passengers had to travel to Havana from distant points.

The Pan American Airways plane which flew in the cots and blankets returned to Miami Wednesday, as expected, with 102 passengers. All were U.S. citizens of Cuban descent or their dependents born in Cuba.

The flight was the third in 10 days. On Jan. 13 some 89 Cuban-Americans and relatives were flown to Miami and five days later 90 more went. About 100 more U.S. citizens are expected to fly from Havana to Miami Saturday.

Cuban Communists continued to rally for an expansion of their cause in Latin America.

Red leader Blas Roca Wednesday night promised continued support for Venezuelans fighting President Romulo Betancourt's government. He told an audience observing the fifth anniversary of the overthrow of Venezuelan dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez: "We're sure the Venezuelan people will attain victory. When they achieve their full independence and make themselves owners of the great riches in oil, aluminum and everything their earth imprisons, then all of America shall burn."

"The whole of America shall liberate itself once and for all from the ominous Yankee imperialist yoke."

In Caracas, the Venezuelan capital, the anniversary brought clashes between police and extremist youths setting fire to automobiles and planting bombs. Unofficial sources said 24 persons were wounded.

Our Beautiful Pontiac Mall Store is Open Every Evening to 9 P.M.

Las Vegas—There's No Other Place Like It

By HAROLD A. FITZGERALD
Publisher, The Pontiac Press

There's nothing like it, anywhere.
Las Vegas, I mean.

Returning from a meeting of the Associated Press directors at Phoenix, I stopped long enough to absorb some of the surcharged atmosphere of that truly fabulous and breath-taking spa.

It's unique.

Monte Carlo is just a pale, anemic European has-been in comparison with this lavish and opulent setting of wine, women and song.

Las Vegas has the most magnificent array of gambling temples in the world. Every standard device for extracting another buck from a luckless tourist or a money mad gambler is there.

And those show girls! Whoopee!

When you walk into the lobby of the palatial Tropicana Hotel to register, you're confronted by a gambling casino with 200 slot machines, roulette wheels, blackjack games galore and numerous crap tables.

And this isn't a Tropicana exclusive. It's just par for a dizzy, incomprehensible money-mad course, that finds legal gambling on its "highest level" in America.

The one armed bandits greet you amicably at the airport, in all hotels, laundries, lunch counters, grocery stores, etc.

Don't think the participants are tramps or bums. The dozen biggest hotels are along "the Strip" and are filled with industrialists, merchants, butchers, bakers and I even glimpsed an occasional candlestick maker.

Downtown the losses hurt more. The Golden Nugget has about 300 one armed bandits and across the street the Horseshoe has 400, with all other accessories. By and large the amounts are smaller — but they hurt more.

My wife is completely foreign to the gambling urge and en route she admonished me repeatedly not to jeopardize the meager pittance on which we subsist.

After one whirl at the one armed bandits, it took the militia to get her away and she left town $75 ahead. But your impecunious scrivener contrived to leave a few bob through a patriotic desire to support local industries.

At one time the Missus had a plastic bag filled with quarters, halves and dollars and when we departed she still wore the contented smile of a feminine Croesus.

Personally, I departed very quietly.

The blackjack games in the bigger spots were about a dollar a crack and a few tables had $5 minimums.

But I saw disciples of 21 risking from $25 to $50 per deal. And those dealers are trained to keep the accelerator on the floor. They don't waste time, and are relieved after a 15 or 20 minute stint.

Really, the over-all "take" is a misely 5 per cent for the house; but that's what keeps the suckers coming.

It's all very scientific and mathematical. You win and win frequently, but that inexorable five never takes a vacation.

NIBBLED TO DEATH

In other words, you're never slain by a financial bludgeon — but rather you're neatly nibbled to death.

The gigantic volume does it.

And I mean gigantic.

It lets them live in ease and opulence.

The big emporiums run 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

I don't think there's a crooked thing in Las Vegas, unless it's some of the visitors. The local take is too magnificent and the slightest smidgeon of suspicion or deviation from the paths of moral rectitude would be fatal.

Why kill — or even irritate — the goose that l. i. g. eggs.

Gambling is the community's "automobile business." It's the basic industry of the community.

Waiters told me that by and large the "home folk" watch the suckers and keep their fingers in their pockets.

SPECTACULAR ENTERTAINMENT

The entertainment is as lavish and spectacular as the way of life. The Folies Bergere at the Tropicana and Lido at the Stardust are tremendous reviews with 50-75 girls plus simply gorgeous sets and a sprinkling of top hole jugglers, magicians and funny men generously interspersed.

More than a dozen of these beautiful (and beautifully constructed) girls wear considerably less than any laws allow in the other 49 states.

They're the unchallenged and undressed champions of the legitimate United States and they deserve the title.

Before the show, more than a thousand people jammed the Stardust lobby with several hundred slot machines whirling like mad. And the crap games ran rampant while the roulette wheels and blackjack games were so crowded you couldn't get in.

I walked around for 15 minutes to find a single seat at the six-place 21 tables and found every chair taken with a crowd standing behind for first crack at a vacancy.

I've no idea how much this saved me.

When the stage show went on, a thousand had filed in with advance reservations and four stunning girls descended from the ceiling on four bare platforms—and bare's the proper word — but the crowd in the lobby seemed undiminished.

It's fantastic.

The crap tables were so jammed you couldn't get up to watch; and if you'd wanted to play, it would have taken the full offensive line of the Green Bay Packers to clear the way.

One timid, looking gentleman was placing $500 on every roll. As I fought for a glimpse, I estimated he had $4,000 in chips in front of him.

Those reviews are the most costly in America. They're tops in the United States of their type. Reigning stars take part and the parade of undraped femininity even impressed the case hardened denizens of Broadway while the hicks and hams like your timid reporter sit with jaws ajar as disbelief pops from startled eyes.

Las Vegas pays the top notchers more than Broadway dares afford and more than Hollywood can match for the same time involved. In addition to these two big reviews we saw Debbie Reynolds and Connie Francis and their shows.

Here, Broadway "also ran" by the breadth of the continent.

All the big hotels have casinos right inside the front door and they're more accessible than the registration desks. They're well done and efficiently serviced. But these aren't particularly auspicious places for the uninitiated and the credulous to forgather. One of my pals in the newspaper business and one of the most honest men in this hemisphere, had been doing right well and his pockets bulged with chips at a crap table. As he drew back to roll, he paused and dropped his hand in his pocket to bring out some more chips.

ALERT GENDARMES

Like lightning two stout gendarmes grabbed an arm apiece.

One of America's most important publishers blushed, apologized and handed the dice to the house men who threw them out of the games. A crook could have changed the dice and Las Vegas will have none of that.

The head dick said:

"We know you're honest. But these other players don't. We're protecting them." And there's a gracious lesson in diplomacy you can cogitate upon.

One woman played the same slot machine for more than four hours without stopping and was still hammering her heart out when we left. She hit the jack pot many times, but I estimated she was behind. After all, the house doesn't demand more than it's small per cent.

The players are all ages and both sexes and they run the gamut from very wealthy spenders to poverty stricken people who hope desperately "to make a killing."

I understand if you really "go broke," they'll pay your hotel bill and buy a ticket home. Nice people.

P. S.

When we left, there were a dozen gates at the airport and you can guess the number of ours. It's the only airfield gate so designated in the world:
00 (double zero).

Troubleshooter and Instructor Shafer

Distributor Was Troublesome

Junior Mechanics Spot Trouble

Special To The Pontiac Press

Only the shop instructor knew what was wrong with the 1962 Falcon engine that sounded like the "Rifleman" shooting it out with a bank robber.

And the shop instructor, Gale Shafer of Lake Orion, wasn't telling.

He never tells the 16 vocational trainees in Camp Oakland's auto mechanics shop how he goes off the cars. He lets them find out the hard way.

At the Oxford camp, Shafer might pull a wire, disconnect a hose or loosen a few bolts. Then he watches as his pupils look for the trouble.

One such trouble shooter was 15-year-old Ken Rader.

Shafer had just finished some of his foul play on the Falcon engine while his pupils were out of the shop. The trainees returned and Shafer assigned Rader to the problem.

The Southfield youth stepped up to the engine, mounted on a movable platform for training purposes.

Rader turned the ignition key. The engine puffed a whoosh of blue smoke and died, after going off like a Colt 45.

URNS TO DISTRIBUTOR

Ken remained calm under fire. He turned immediately toward the engine's distributor where he guessed his trouble was.

He pulled the spark plug leads and reconnected them. Then he turned on the ignition and got more fireworks. The puzzled young man looked up.

"All right, Mr. Shafer," he said, "What did you do with it?"

A few more tries, and the slender youth went for a spark plug wrench. Ten minutes later, he turned the key and heard more explosions.

Said the trouble shooter under fire, "I'll blow it up in a minute, Mr. Shafer!"

The next time he tried to start the engine, it was popping better. Its Colt 45 had simmered down to a cap gun.

"It's still out of time," said Ken, looking at the distributor again.

A timing light showed Ken what he needed to know before resetting the timing.

Half an hour after he began. Rader heard the engine sputter like a Stanley steamer and catch.

He flashed a 300-horsepower grin. "What I did," explained his instructor, "was to lift the distributor off and replace it with-out timing the engine. To fix it, you would have to find out when the number one spark plug was firing and replace the distributor in the right tooth."

PRACTICAL METHOD

Putting the engine out of commission and letting his pupils repair it is Shafer's practical way of training mechanics.

When his trainees have completed their stay at Camp Oakland, Shafer and the camp officials plan to help them get jobs.

The auto mechanics shop opened last fall to provide free vocational training for youths under the jurisdiction of Probate Court.

Lansing Bill Would Cut Tax on Beer

LANSING (AP) — A bill to cut the tax on a 12-ounce bottle of beer from two cents to three-quarters of a cent a bottle has been introduced in the House.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Gail Handy, R-Eau Claire, would drop beer tax revenue to the state from $34-million to some $13 million a year, according to the Liquor Control Commission.

Handy told newsmen that tavern operators in areas bordering on other states have been hard hit by the increase in the beer tax last year. The boost was part of a $76-million "nuisance tax" package, and raised the tax from one-third of a cent to two cents.

Gov. George Romney indicated he felt the bill could well be a part of a tax reform program, but he said such matters should be considered this fall when he plans to call a special session of the legislature for that purpose.

Handy introduced another controversial bill in the House yesterday. It would require legislative approval before any rule issued by a state agency becomes effective.

Under the measure, "Rule 9," which forbids discrimination on the part of real estate dealers, would need the lawmakers' approval.

In the Senate, which met for 10 minutes, five bills were introduced and two were filed for introduction today.

One measure would allow any school district by a majority vote of registered school tax electors to borrow money and issue bonds for site development and improvement "or for the building or constructing and equipping of athletic fields, playgrounds and athletic stadiums, or other educational purposes."

Another bill calls upon the Department of Administration to establish and operate central data processing centers for state agencies, using electronic data processing equipment.

'Qualified' Through TV

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A woman was accepted Wednesday for jury duty in Police Court after saying she believed she was qualified because she watched the Defenders and the Perry Mason shows on television.

She told questioners her decisions would not be influenced by the fact that defendants in the Perry Mason series always seem to go free.

Russ Building Pipe Plant to Up Gas, Oil Output

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced yesterday it is building a big pipe manufacturing plant in the Ukraine to increase output for gas and oil lines by more than 100 per cent.

A Tass news agency announcement made no mention of recent pressure by the United States on Japan, West Germany and other countries to halt shipment of large diameter pipe to the Soviet Union.

WSU Prexy Tells Plans of Retirement

DETROIT (AP) — Dr. Clarence B. Hilberry said yesterday he plans to retire as president of Wayne State University within two years.

In a message to the faculty and board of governors, Hilberry said his retirement plans were based entirely on the prospects of the university in the next decade.

He said Wayne would be deluged with students in 1968 but that the peak year would be 1968. At that time, he said, four vice presidents will have left or will be about to leave the university.

"Any change in presidents just before or just after the pivotal year of 1968," Hilberry said, "is unwise, indeed would endanger the planned development of the university."

Hilberry, now 60, would not have to retire for 10 years.

Light Plane Fliers Form Organization

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A private, twin-engine airplane with nine persons aboard landed successfully at Kent County airport yesterday after calling ahead to report one of its engines dead in flight.

Emergency vehicles were alerted but dismissed as the plane, owned by John Ooster Manufacturing Co. of Milwaukee, Wis., completed its flight from across Lake Michigan.

Authorities said the pilot reported that his engine had been stopped for about 15 minutes during the Grand Rapids approach.

Winds Create Fire Hazard for Japanese

TOKYO (UPI) — High winds on the heels of 10 days of freezing Siberian cold created dangerous fire hazards today in the paper cities of Japan.

In Tokyo alone, a record 1,000 fires had been reported this month. Gas-main explosions and fires, apparently caused by the cold, had taken six lives. Temperatures as low as 31 below zero were reported in the shivering country.

In the fishing port of Yaizu, southeast of Tokyo, the harbor froze over for the first time in living memory and lobster boats were stuck in the ice.

Blizzards in other places piled snow as much as six feet deep in coastal areas. Railroads were blocked, telephone lines broke and in some places schools were forced to close.

She was fined 70 cents for driving while unaccompanied by a licensed driver.

Most Workers Would Refuse Leisure Life

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Eight of 10 workers would not accept a life of leisure if it were offered to them — although a majority would like to change jobs, University of Michigan Survey Research Center (SRC) says.

A recent nationwide survey indicates a nearly universal need for work, said Dr. Robert L. Kahn, SRC director. And it's not just a matter of money, he added.

Workers were asked whether they would continue to work even if they had enough money to satisfy all their needs, Kahn said.

"Eighty per cent of the men answered this question by saying they would continue to work. When we asked them about the reasons for their choice, their responses were primarily in terms of avoiding the emptiness of nonwork. Individuals want to keep occupied, to keep interested, to avoid being bored," he said.

But, the researcher added, this is not the same as liking one's job.

Two-thirds of the workers would like to change, and most would like a small business of their own, the survey showed.

About 50 per cent defined work as "something that you have to do, or something that you don't like," he said.

Another 20 per cent defined it in terms of something that is productive, or important, or has social value to others, Kahn said.

U.S. Measuring Is Out of Step

WASHINGTON — Americans are a country mile out of step with much of the world when it comes to measuring.

The United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand are the only nations still using Fahrenheit instead of the Centigrade or Celsius scale to gauge temperature. Britain changed to Centigrade in 1961.

Almost 90 per cent of the world's population uses the metric system of measures and weights, says the National Geographic Society.

The simple decimal system recognizes natural relationships. It measures length by centimeters, area by square centimeters, and volume by cubic centimeters.

85 WAYS
Americans, in practice, use the metric scale in such fields as research science and the pharmaceutical industry. Camera film comes in millimeters—8, 16 and 35.

The United States Army will convert all its weapons measurements to meters by 1966.

In daily life, however, Americans employ at least 85 different weights and measures. Length comes by the inch, foot, yard, chain, rod, furlong, league and mile.

Area may be in square miles or acres. Volumes and weights are stated in teaspoons, quarts, pecks, gallons, barrels, bushels, drams, gills, and cords.

There are three different tons, two pounds, three ounces, three quarts, and three miles. The United States inch differed from that of Canada until 1959.

The rapid growth of international trade has spurred the adoption of the metric system. India, Japan and Korea have abandoned their confusing multiple methods of computing in the last four years.

Previously, Indian traders had to contend with 143 different weights and measures. One of the more picturesque systems for measuring land distances was regularly used by the Gonds, primitive Hindu tribesmen.

They placed a wet jamun tree leaf in their headcloth and walked until it dried. The distance paced was called a kos—about two miles.

Bright Flares Rocketed Out Into Space

TONOPAH, Nev. (AP) — Six flares burst with the brightness of six million candlepower 56 miles over the Nevada desert Wednesday night, but a scientist said: "If you didn't know where to look, you wouldn't have seen them."

Two Beacon-Arrow rockets, carrying three flares each in their nose cones, were launched from the Tonopah Test Range. "They looked like tiny red stars," said Bob Statler, test range manager for the Sandia Corp., which conducted the tests for the Atomic Energy Commission.

Statler said it was almost two hours after launch before the first bursts were confirmed.

He said the purpose of the tests was to develop techniques for tracking space ships during their re-entry into the atmosphere.

Wind Makes Difference in Cold Weather

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If you think it is cold when the air is still, just think what it is like when the wind is blowing.

Texas City Reveals

Error Made on Name

ALVIN, Tex. (UPI) — Citizens no longer have to wonder why their water bills were payable to "the City of Alvin Dr."

The city revealed yesterday that "Dr." was a printing error perpetuated for years under the assumption that it had a meaning.

Or if the wind is blowing, think how much colder it is when the wind is blowing harder.

The Army has a "chill chart" from which these matters can be determined exactly.

For example, if the temperature is 20 degrees and the wind is blowing at only one mile an hour, the effect on the exposed skin is the same as 11 degrees below zero in still air (hard to believe, isn't it?)

If the temperature is 20 and the wind is five miles an hour, that's much colder it is," the Army said.

wind is 10 miles an hour, it is equivalent to 38 below.

In a 45-mile an hour wind, a temperature of 30 degrees, just below freezing, has the same effect on exposed skin as 40 below zero in still air, according to the chart.

Forty below was described by the Army as "the same as being in a deep freeze." It is the lowest temperature given on the chart. "Everyone knows that it feels colder when the wind blows, but most people don't realize how much colder it is," the Army said.

Blind Paper Dealers Hold Heads Up, Shun Charity

NEW YORK (AP)—Until early this month Victor Kakis left his apartment at 10:30 a.m. every day, eased himself down five flights of stairs, and tapped his way along seven congested blocks.

There, on a bleak corner in the Washington Heights section, Kakis, blind and 61, opened up his newsstand and began a workday that lasted until midnight.

In the bitter cold of winter and blistering heat of summer, it was a life that was almost cruelly hard. His earnings rarely surpassed $40 a week. But Kakis felt useful, and he held his head up.

Today Kakis and his wife, Margaret, sit in their small apartment and worry about how they can continue to live without going on relief.

FORCED TO CLOSE

Like most of the other 200 blind news dealers in the city, Kakis has been forced to close his stand because of the newspaper strike.

The blind dealers, who averaged $40 to $60 a week, have no union to turn to for benefits. They cannot collect unemployment compensation because they are self-employed.

But although they have been without income for seven weeks, only 12 per cent have gone on relief. They regard this as charity and despise the word relief.

"I don't want any help," said slender, grey-haired Kakis. "I just want to make a living like everyone else. I don't want to be a dead weight to anyone."

"I only want my papers back, and I'll be happy. I don't care how long I have to work. All the blind dealers will tell you the same. They only want to start selling papers again."

His wife, an attractive woman who is not blind, said, "Our son (he is 33) paid the $50 apartment rent last month, and our relatives have helped."

'BILLS COME FIRST'

"But I will not go on welfare," she declared. "I will give up my apartment (where they have lived for 22 years) before I will go on welfare. We could get by if we just have $30 a week. We could pay our bills and live. My bills always come first with me."

Kakis was captain of waiters at such hotels as the Piccadilly and Lincoln until his sight began to fail and he began bumping into tables.

He was reduced to washing dishes and cleaning out garbage cans in the kitchen before he finally became completely blind seven years ago.

Then the state and the Light-house of the New York State Association for the Blind helped him get his newsstand. He still finds it hard to believe he is permanently blind.

Another dealer in the same situation is Robert Irving, 41, a Negro who lost his sight in 1949 and has had a stand in Harlem for eight years.

Irving had $500 in savings when the strike started, but this is almost exhausted, and he doesn't want to go on relief. Irving and his wife, Sadie, also blind, worry much of the time.

EVICTED

"Some years ago," he said, "I got evicted because the welfare held up my check. I wouldn't want that to happen again. It frightens me."

Irving got up at 2 a.m. and made his way alone to his newsstand two miles from his apartment. He worked until 4 p.m. when another blind man relieved him.

He made $65 to $70 a week. He pays $68 a month rent. He is not on relief.

"A few of the other blind dealers are so discouraged they say they might just as well give up and go on relief all the time," he said. "They wouldn't make as much, but they wouldn't have to worry about strikes. I don't want to ever have to do that. I want to be independent."

'Vets Outbuild MDs in Medical Schools'

EAST LANSING (AP)—Veterinarians are moving faster than their colleagues in the field of human medicine in providing additional medical schools, a spokesman for the profession has declared.

Thomas Milerick, Saginaw veterinarian and president of the Michigan Veterinary Society, made the claim at the association's annual convention at Michigan State University.

"The veterinary medicine profession has provided 10 new medical schools since the war, while only one has been provided for the study of human medicine," Milerick said.

To House State Libraries in a Lansing Building

LANSING (AP)—The State Administrative Board has approved a five year lease of a four-story building in downtown Lansing to house the State Library and the State Library for the Blind, presently located in Saginaw.

The state library has been scattered in several locations in Lansing since it was burned out in 1951.

About one-third of the population of Manitoba province in Canada lives within the city of Winnipeg.

In 1893 the Durand Line, named for Sir Mortimer Durand, was established to define the border between Afghanistan and India.

Salinger Back From News Talks

JFK to Get NY Strike Report

NEW YORK (AP)—The White House press secretary, Pierre Salinger, says he will discuss informally with President Kennedy today what he learned in talks with striking printers and publishers of some of this city's major newspapers, blacked out for 48 days.

Salinger came to New York Wednesday and conferred separately with representatives of both sides. He told newsmen he did not come as an emissary of the President.

"Though of course I would not be here without his knowledge and consent," he said.

Salinger's arrival coincided with renewal—for the first time in a week—of joint negotiations in the dispute. No progress was reported in the talks, which were recalled until today.

TIED TO SPEECH

Salinger's visit was described as an outgrowth of a speech he made in Philadelphia last week in which he called newspaper strikes in New York and Cleveland intolerable.

In Cleveland's 56-day-old strike, an attorney for Teamsters Local 473 said publishers of that city's two struck newspapers, the Plain Dealer and the Press & News, had offered the union a two-year contract proposal covering all items but basic wages. The Teamsters and publishers met for two hours Wednesday.

The other striking union, the Cleveland Newspaper Guild, was scheduled to meet with management today.

Key issues in the walkout are working conditions, higher pay and union security.

Returning to Washington from New York Wednesday night with Salinger was Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz.

Wirtz described Salinger's talks as supplementary to formal negotiations.

Invited to today's bargaining sessions were members of the unity committee of 10 newspaper unions who had urged that both sides take part in continuous negotiations.

Meredith Relaxes, Stays Mum on Plans

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—With federal marshals nowhere in sight, James H. Meredith relaxed today and remained silent on his future college plans.

The 29-year-old Negro, vacationing here while deciding whether to return to the University of Mississippi for the second semester, plans to joll about his new apartment for the next week.

Meredith baby-sits for his 3-year-old son during the day while his wife attends college at nearby Jackson State College.

The 15 U.S. marshals who had been with Meredith at the university have disappeared. They followed him to Jackson early yesterday but have not been seen since.

Ex-Swainson Aide Appointed to Post

LANSING (AP)—Boyd Benedict of East Lansing, former administrative aide to ex-Gov. John Swainson yesterday was appointed executive secretary of the Municipal Finance commission.

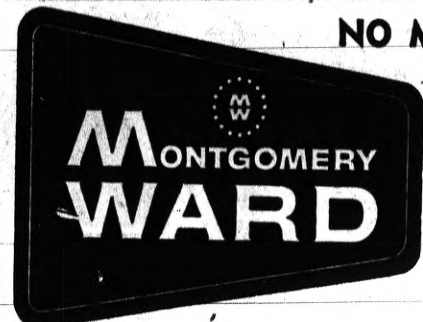

Benedict will replace Rod Beaulieu, who resigned.

The finance commission is composed of the attorney general, state treasurer, auditor general and superintendent of public instruction.

Benedict, 37, was city manager of Durand before joining Swainson's staff.

Highlights of JFK's Tax Cut Plea

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here are textual highlights of President Kennedy's special message today on tax reduction and reform: Originally designed to hold back war and postwar inflation, our present income tax rate structure now holds back consumer demand, initiative, and investment. Our economy is checkmated today by a war-born tax system at a time when it is far more in need of the spur than the bit. The tax program I am recommending for enactment in 1963 would become fully effective by Jan. 1, 1965. The rate reductions provide a cut in tax liabilities of $13.6 billion — $11 billion for individuals and $2.6 billion for corporations. Other adjustments, some of which lose and some of which gain revenue, would, on balance, produce a revenue gain of $3.4 billion, leaving a net reduction of $10.2 billion.

OUR CHOICE

As I have repeatedly emphasized, our choice today is not between a tax cut and a balanced budget. Our choice is between chronic deficits resulting from chronic slack, on the one hand, and transitional deficits temporarily enlarged by tax revision designed to promote full employment and thus make possible an ultimately balanced budget.

If the tax brake on our economy is not released, the slack will remain, federal revenues will lag and budget deficits will persist.

It would be a grave mistake to require that any tax reduction today be offset by a corresponding cut in expenditures. In my judgment, I have proposed a minimum level of federal expenditures needed for the security of the nation, for meeting the challenge facing us in space, and for the well-being of our people.

INCREASE WEALTH

In short, this tax program will increase our wealth far more than it increases our public debt. The actual burden of that debt—as measured in relation to our total output—will decline.

Tax reduction is urgently needed to spur the growth of our economy—but both the fruits of growth and the burdens of the resulting new tax structure should be fairly shared by all. For the present patchwork of special provisions lightens the load on some by placing a heavier burden on others.

$300 Credit Recommended

Retiree Returns Would Change

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy today proposed eliminating retirement income credit and the extra $600 income tax exemption for elderly persons. He recommended giving them a flat $300 tax credit instead.

Kennedy said his plan would mean that persons 65 and over would not have to pay taxes unless their income exceeded $2,000, or $5,000 for married couples. They now must pay taxes if their income is more than $1,333, or $2,667 for married couples.

Kennedy said his proposals would eliminate unfairness to those elderly persons who still work, share the tax burden more evenly among them, simplify their returns and cut down on the number who must file returns.

The cost to the government, he said, would be $320 million a year.

The President said the special problems of older persons are not always given consistent treatment by current tax laws. Furthermore, he said, the tax burdens on older persons are unevenly distributed, with greater benefits going to those who make more money.

He gave as an example a single taxpayer aged 65, who still works and makes $5,000 a year. He has to pay an income tax of $686. But if he were retired and made $5,000 from dividends, his income tax would only be $329.

NEW METHOD

Kennedy recommended that "all people aged 65 or over, regardless of the source of their income, be allowed a credit of $300 against taxes . . . this credit would replace both the extra exemption allowed to older people and the retirement income credit."

Under present law, individuals over 65 get the normal $600 personal exemption, plus another $600 exemption — a total $1,200 exemption per person. Kennedy's proposal would allow them only the normal $600 exemption.

The retirement income tax credit Kennedy wants to eliminate is one of the most complex provisions in the income tax statutes.

Under it, money earned by persons over 65 from taxable pensions, dividends, interest or rents, is called retirement income.

They may receive a credit against their tax of up to $1,524 of such income multiplied by 20 per cent.

Thus the biggest tax credit that can be had through retirement income credit is $304.80.

But there are a number of limiting factors. The biggest is social security, railroad retirement benefits, or any other tax-exempt pension. The maximum $1,524 credit must be reduced dollar-for-dollar by any such tax-exempt pensions.

Under Kennedy's proposals, the flat $300 credit would also be subject to reduction by social security and railroad retirement benefits.

There are 16.5 million persons over 65 in the United States. Only 6.5 million of these have to file returns now. And of those, only about 3.3 million pay taxes.

The overwhelming majority of those who do pay taxes are in the lowest income bracket.

Message at a Glance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy's tax program at a glance:

DEDUCTIONS — A taxpayer would have to subtract an amount equal to 5 per cent of his income from the total deductions itemized on his income tax return form. (This particular change would have no effect on the standard $600 exemption allowed for a taxpayer and his dependents.) The deduction drop would recapture $2.9 billion of the proposed $11 billion cut in individual income taxes.

RATES — Cut individual income tax rates from present 20-to-91 per cent range to 14 to 65 per cent over three years; cut corporate rates from present 52 to 47 per cent over two years.

GROUPS — New tax advantages for persons over 65, working mothers, professional athletes and others; tougher treatment for oil-gas industry, stock options and stock dividends.

OUTLOOK — Chances are Congress will approve a major tax cut this year, but without some of revenue-producing "reforms" Kennedy wants.

'Spending Cut Would Be Bad'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy told his congressional critics today that it would be "a grave mistake" to offset his tax reduction program by a corresponding cut in federal spending.

He said in his tax message that

Fair Approach to Fluctuating Pays Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy today proposed "fairer tax treatment" for athletes, actors, authors, artists and others whose income fluctuates widely from year to year.

The President said he had instructed Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon to present to Congress as part of his tax program an "income averaging provision."

"It will provide fairer tax treatment for those who receive in a single taxable year unusually large amounts of income as compared to their average income for preceding years," he said.

he had proposed "the minimum level of federal expenditures needed for the security of the nation, for meeting the challenge facing us in space, and for the well-being of our people."

The President said a spending cut would more than offset the gains from a tax slash because "total jobs and output would shrink as government contracts were cut back, workers were laid off and projects were ended."

Kennedy responded to lawmakers who have contended his $96.8 billion budget for fiscal 1964, with its $11.9 billion deficit, should be slashed before there is a tax reduction. He said, "our choice today is not between a tax cut and a balanced budget."

Instead, he said, the choice is between chronic budget deficits temporarily enlarged by tax revisions designed to promote full employment.

"As the economy climbs toward full employment," the President said, "a substantial part of the increased revenue thereby generated will be applied toward a reduction in the federal deficit."

FEARS RECESSION

Kennedy said that even without his proposed tax cuts, the federal deficit for the year starting next July 1 would be $9.2 billion.

"The issue now is whether economy which will result from the tax program is worth an addition of $2.7 billion to the 1964 deficit," he said.

"If the tax brake on our economy is not released, the slack will remain, federal revenues will lag and budget deficits will persist.

In fact, another recession would produce a record peacetime deficit that would far exceed $11.9 billion, and without the positive effects of tax reduction."

"In short," Kennedy said, "this tax program will increase our wealth far more than it increases our public debt."

Airline Defends Merger Plans

American Tells CAB 'Move to Aid Patrons'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American Airlines yesterday defended its proposed merger with Eastern Air Lines as a move that will strengthen the air transportation industry for the benefit of present and future passengers.

American, in a brief filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB), said the merger represents "a major step toward solving the problems of the nation's major airlines."

It asked the CAB to reverse the recommendation of examiner Ralph L. Wiser that the consolidation be disapproved.

The brief denied arguments by opponents that the merger would create a monopolistic giant. American said size disparity has never injured any airline.

It added that even if the anti-trust issues raised by other airlines were real, "they do not apply to a regulated industry like the airlines because the CAB alone holds power over airline prices and the routes an airline may serve."

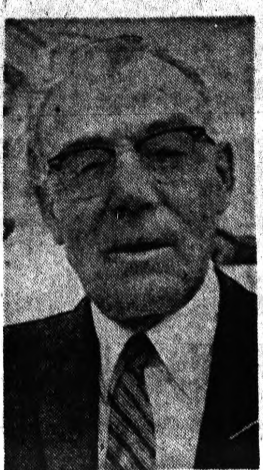

"The opponents called, in effect, for a preservation of the status quo and a bar to progress," American said. "They expressed no concern about the service the public should receive or the fares it should pay."

The brief said the merger would allow American and Eastern to improve their financial condition through large savings. In doing so, it continued, it would improve the financial condition of the entire industry and would "reverse the prevailing trend toward rising fares."

Dog Knows Easy Way to Get Back Home

LAKEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—A lost female boxer dog yesterday found the most direct way back to her owners.

The boxer jumped into a patrol car and refused to budge until officers drove her to a police substation for the reunion.

Governor Jogs Down Street Before Dawn

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney has not given up his early morning constitutional — despite subzero weather and a tight working schedule.

The governor told newsmen he was out before dawn yesterday at his East Lansing home. He shoveled snow from the walk, then jogged up and down the street for about a half-mile.

The temperature was 6 degrees below zero at the time. Romney said he finds less time these days for his early-morning trots but gets out for one whenever he can.

The governor said he thinks anyone can enjoy any kind of weather "just as long as they get out in it."

Studebaker Gains Company in Italy

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Studebaker Corp. said yesterday it has purchased Domowatt SPA, a manufacturer of home refrigerators and washers at Leini, Italy, near Turin.

Sherwood Egbert, Studebaker president, said the Franklin Home Appliance Division of Studebaker will supervise the new acquisition and that Kenneth Dawkins of Minneapolis, formerly with Franklin, will become managing director of Domowatt.

Gravediggers Get Drill

U.S. Likely to Pull 'Antique' Missiles From Turkey, Italy

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — American-made Jupiter missiles seem destined to be pulled out of Turkey and Italy because in only four years they have become antiques of the rocket age.

Behind the scenes negotiations point toward withdrawal of 30 Jupiters from Italy and 15 from Turkey.

When they are dismantled, and 60 somewhat similar Thor missiles are finally removed from Britain, there will be no more deep-striking land-based ballistic missiles implied in North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries and aimed at targets in the Soviet Union.

Instead, the NATO alliance will rely on a multinational force of Polaris submarines mounting missiles that can be fired at Soviet targets from below the surface of the sea.

ENOUGH POWER

Such a multinational force may not be a reality until close to 1970.

but in the meantime the United States has more than enough long-range missile power to shield the alliance.

In Ankara Wednesday, Defense Minister Ihami Sancar told the National Assembly "favorable progress is being made at current negotiations between Turkey and the United States concerning replacement of Jupiter rockets in Turkey with Polaris missile systems to provide NATO with a more effective nuclear deterrent. "An offer shall be submitted to the NATO council as soon as negotiations are over."

In Washington, Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said: "We are discussing the modernization of weapons systems with a number of countries, including Turkey." He added that he was "not prepared to say more at this point."

The Army-built Jupiter was one of the first U.S. missiles to become combat ready, back in January 1959. The Air Force's intermediate range Thor was declared operational somewhat earlier. Neither 1,500-mile range rocket figured for long in U.S. military plans.

Both were overtaken by the first U.S. intercontinental ballistic missile, the 300-mile range Atlas. U.S. planners decided to concentrate on the Atlas and later generation ICBMs which can reach the Soviet Union or Red China from inside the United States and need no foreign bases.

The trend toward removal of these obsolescent IRBMs from Europe began last summer when the British announced plans to close their Thor bases.

Britain now is putting its nuclear bets on Polaris submarines it will build in its own yards and arm with U.S. missiles. A British lawmaker told reporters recently Britain plans four of these boats, but the total may go higher.

Under an agreement with the United States, Britain will assign her Polaris subs to NATO. It has not been disclosed yet how other NATO powers will take part in a multinational Polaris force. Possibly, some of the craft may be manned by crews from several nations.

Targets formerly assigned to the Polaris subs in the Atlantic and Turkish Jupiters are aimed at subs roaming the Mediterranean.

But, What She Did to the One She Hated!!

You Always Hurt the One You Love

LONDON (AP) — William Yates, 58, itched and scratched for two nights from itching powder his wife put in his bed.

When the itching powder did not drive her husband out, Mrs. Isabel Yates emptied his bedroom of furniture and put sand, bricks, cement and an old fender in the room.

She tried to attack him with a broken bottle, dragged the washing he had laundered into the mud, threw his dinner in the garden, emptied his hot water bottle in the bed, shouted insults at him in the local railway station and accused him of having an affair with another woman.

They married in 1948 and parted 13 years later.

Mrs. Yates didn't do all the attacking, Judge Charles William Rees said in divorce court yesterday. Yates was extremely jealous and accused his wife of having affairs with tradesmen who called at the house.

The wife claimed that he also threw their television set out on the lawn, loosened the stair carpet to make her fall and beat her with a part of the vacuum cleaner.

The judge granted divorce decrees to both husband and wife on the grounds of cruelty.

Workers Beat Iran Students

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — About 2,000 young workers invaded Tehran University with sticks and tree branches today and beat up students posting placards denouncing the government referendum this weekend.

An unknown number of students were injured.

Before security forces arrived, the workers had driven most of the students from the campus.

The workers pulled down the placards and tore them up.

The student placards, charged that the referendum scheduled by the shah for Saturday is illegal. The ruler called the nationwide vote to get popular endorsement of reform programs he has started or is starting. The Iranian parliament has been dissolved since May 1961.

The reform programs include the distribution among the peasants of large land holdings, rental to the peasants of most shrine lands owned by Moslem religious groups, distribution to the workers of 20 per cent of the net profits from factories.

Much of the opposition to the reforms stems from large landholders and religious leaders who will lose property and income.

Can't Lure Dog From Bed of Dead 4-Year-Old

SUN VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Authorities have given up attempts to lure Tippy, a mongrel dog, from the bed of his dead 4-year-old master.

The dog was the only survivor Wednesday of a fire which killed his owner, Hayes Eaton Jr., and the boy's mother, Barbara Eaton, 35. Both suffocated.

Mrs. Eaton's husband, Hayes, a bartender, was at work when the fire broke out in their two-bedroom home.

After the fire, Tippy, jumped up on the boy's bed. He was lured away once but he came back. Repeated efforts by firemen and neighbors to keep him away failed.

Junior Editors Quiz on PAPER

QUESTION: How and of what is paper made?

ANSWER: Paper is made out of cellulose, a substance found in plants. Cotton rags are generally used to manufacture high grade paper, but most paper comes from wood pulp. For the latter, forest trees are cut into short logs and the bark removed in a revolving drum (A).

The logs are chipped (B), digested (C) and made into pulp in a set of steps (D, E, F). The pulp is then spread onto wire cloth (G) and goes through different sets of rollers (H) which flatten and dry it. Emerging as paper, it is wound on a roll (I).

Special processes and chemicals are used to make different kinds of paper. That used in newspaper, for example, is made by blending sulfite pulp with ground up wood.

To give a smoother surface, glue and starch are sometimes added. For the very fine surface needed in books and magazines, clay and other fine materials are applied to the surface with brushes or rollers.

Enormous amounts of discarded newspapers, cartons, etc.—up to 8,500,000 tons a year—are used to make "paperboard," from which come new cartons and containers.

FOR YOU TO DO: Roll newspaper sheets tightly and tie to make animal form (1). Soak newspaper scraps overnight in water (2). Strain (3) and mash up adding flour paste (flour and water) and you have papier mache (4). Build this around foundation and decorate with poster paints (5).

Feather In His Hat

They'll Sing of Macaroni

WASHINGTON (P)—Caroline Kennedy's favorite pony has been put in music.

"My pony, Macaroni," a novelty composition written in honor of the President's 5-year-old daughter, will be premiered Friday night by the Navy band in a free public concert.

The melody features, in the words of band leader Lt. Anthony A. Matchell, "hoof sounds clip-clipping," and the "sounds of a protesting little pony being led around."

It was composed by Bill Snyder, pianist and orchestra leader.

Okay Budget for Hospital

The City Commission Tuesday gave its formal okay to Pontiac General Hospital's record $6,314,250 operating budget for 1963.

Commission approval of the budget is normally automatic after it is adopted by the hospital's board of trustees.

The budget, adopted by trustees last month, is $306,550 above the 1962 operating budget. The largest single increase is $85,800 for employee wage hikes.

Hospital administrators estimate income from patient billings will reach $6,109,950 and from other sources, $144,300.

Some $4,034,200 has been appropriated for salaries and wages.

Ruling Due on Parking
Site Issue

Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondero is expected to rule within a few days on the legality of the county's leasing its old courthouse site in downtown Pontiac as a free parking lot.

Judge Dondero Tuesday heard Outdoor Parking Co., which seeks to have the lease nullified.

Attorneys for the county and the Downtown Pontiac Business Association (DPBA) are expected to file their briefs by Friday.

The parking firm asserts the lease between the county and DPBA at a rental of $1 for a six-month period is illegal because it benefits private businesses rather than the public.

A temporary injunction preventing the Nov. 19 lease from going into effect was lifted Dec. 17 in time for the site to be used by Christmas shoppers.

Outdoor Parking Co., owned by Sam L. Stolorow of 422 Shore View Drive, offered to lease the property from the county at $1,000 a month for six months, the suit contends.

GEORGE'S ONCE-A-YEAR 1/2 PRICE STOCK DISPOSAL SALE!

THE REASON FOR THIS BIG SALE!

Our Policy is not to carry goods over from one year to the next. Like all businessmen we are optimistic. We must buy goods in anticipation of all your needs. This fall, Christmas and winter we bought the finest nationally advertised goods for you. But, unfortunately, record warm weather in September, October, November and December did not allow us to move sufficient amounts of warm, winter clothing. This created an overloading of seasonable merchandise. And then the snow and bitter cold weather in December actually kept buyers away from our store. Since our policy is not to carry goods over from one season to the next, we must clear out our heavy inventory in the next 15 days.

CRANBERRY DESSERT — Here's a novel "sweet choice" to serve when you've asked folks to come for dessert and coffee. Or make this the grand finale for your family dinner.

They're tart-sweet Cranberry Crunch Squares. Serve them warm from the oven if you like or serve chilled.

Cranberries Fill Crunchy Dessert

You're sure to describe this dessert as fun—fun to make and even more fun to serve. It's Cranberry Crunch Squares. Dessert fancies have so many spots in our dinner and entertaining plans that you'll want to try this recipe soon.

To give you more description of these Cranberry Crunch Squares, they have a crumb base and topping made with quick cooking oats, brown sugar, enriched flour, shredded coconut and salt. To this mixture 1-3 cup of lard is added.

The filling for the squares is a tart-sweet combination made up of canned cranberry sauce, orange juice and orange rind.

Perhaps you've forgotten all the many uses for lard. Of course it was used in your grandmother's day for the finest of baked products. Today it is still used for making fine pie crusts, rolls, cookies, cakes and biscuits.

Even when used immediately after taking it from the refrigerator, lard is easily worked through the flour and other dry ingredients as you will see when you prepare this recipe.

Cranberry Crunch Squares
1 cup quick cooking oats
2-3 cup brown sugar, packed
½ cup sifted enriched flour
½ cup shredded coconut
¼ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup lard
1 can (16 ounces) whole cranberry sauce
1 tablespoon orange juice
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
Grease an 8½x2-inch baking

Peanut Butter Frosting

Combine ½ cup brown sugar with 4 tablespoons softened butter, 4 tablespoons cream and 4 tablespoons peanut butter; stir in 1 cup chopped peanuts. Spread on cold cake, place under broiler until topping bubbles and browns.

pan. Mix oats, sugar, flour, coconut and salt together. Cut lard into dry ingredients.

Place half the crumb mixture in baking pan. Combine cranberry sauce, orange juice and rind. Spread evenly over crumb mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 to 35 minutes or until done.

Cut, while warm, into 9 squares. Serve with whipped cream or ice cream, if desired. 9 servings.

Were Often Served in Olden Times

Do you know how good a simple dish such as creamed onions tastes with rich roast duck?

Creamed Onions

1½ pounds small white onions
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
1 cup milk

Peel onions; cover with boiling lightly salted water and boil until tender — about 20 minutes. In a clean dry saucepan melt the butter over low heat; stir in until smooth the cornstarch, salt and pepper. Remove from heat; gradually add the milk, stirring until smooth after each addition.

Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until sauce thickens and comes to a boil. Still stirring constantly, boil 1 or 2 minutes. Drain cooked onions and add; reheat. Makes 6 servings.

Cream Gravy Is Good With Liver

Liver With Cream Gravy
1 pound baby beef liver (sliced about ½-inch thick)
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 scallions (sliced thin with green tops included)
½ cup light cream
Seasoning salt and paprika

Cut liver into about 1½-inch pieces removing any membrane and tubes. Roll in mixture of flour, salt and pepper. Brown liver in butter in a heavy skillet, cooking just until it loses its red color inside; remove from skillet and keep warm.

Add scallions to drippings and brown lightly; add cream, cooking gently to reduce and adding seasoning salt and paprika to taste. Surround liver with sauce; serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

CREAMY SPREAD — Here's a new idea for after-dinner coffee. Serve shiny red apples and a new cream cheese-peanut spread. Your guests cover the cut surface of the apple with the crunchy spread. Serve crackers too if you wish.

Here's an Idea for Dessert

It's a new peanut and cheese spread, delicious to eat on crackers or as a sandwich filling, but especially good when you spread it on a cut apple. Just right to serve with after-dinner coffee. Just right, too, for the drop-in guest who lingers in the kitchen, samples your good coffee, and wants to talk. Try it tonight:

Creamy Peanut Spread
1 package (8-ounce) cream cheese
¼ cup creamy peanut butter
½ cup chopped peanuts
¼ cup chopped chutney with syrup
Tart, red eating apples

Whip cheese until soft; beat in peanut butter. Stir in peanuts and chutney. Use as a spread for crisp apple slices for dessert. Makes about 1½ cups.

Can Have 'Cream' in Coffee

EAST LANSING — Science is helping the dieter who doesn't like black coffee. New cream replacements are being tested at Michigan State University and will soon be tried on consumers. The new substitutes contain less than 10 calories per serving.

T. I. Hedrick, MSU food scientist, says the mixtures are made from skim milk and contain less than one-tenth of one per cent fat when dispersed in coffee. Most creaming powders have anywhere from 12 to 25 per cent fat.

And here's more good news; the new mixtures will cost about the same as non-fat dry milk and much less than regular cream substitutes.

Processing companies will now try to find out if there is a market for the new product. Hedrick says MSU tests show the mixtures work well, but he can't guess how consumers will react to the new cream replacement.

"The new mixtures make coffee taste like powdered skim milk has been added to it, but the coffee is not diluted out and any bitterness is counteracted," explains Hedrick. "We next want to find out if the lack of fat flavor in these new mixtures will get consumer acceptance."

When their processing was altered and dispersing agents were added, the mixtures increase color and cut down on the bitterness of coffee.

"We worked with skim milk that had various amounts of fat and found that the mixtures dispersed equally well in coffee," Hedrick says. "Powdered skim milk alone will 'ball-up' when added to hot coffee."

Browned Peach Cups

When ham is the dinner entree, ring it with juicy canned cling peach cups filled with a combination of chopped candied ginger and tiny marshmallows. Pop the peaches under the broiler just before serving time to heat them thoroughly and melt the marshmallows to a golden-brown delight.

Dice Turkey Coarsely to Make Fluffy Loaf

Does that church-supper favorite, Turkey Loaf, appeal to you? If so, you might like to consider this recipe for such a loaf, calling for two cups of cooked turkey meat; creamed frozen fresh peas are teamed with it as a vegetable sauce.

Put the loaf into the oven three-quarters of an hour before you want to serve it, get the peas ready to reheat, then sit down and enjoy a relaxed before-dinner time with your family or guests. Because this loaf is on the soft fluffy side, a crisp green salad is a perfect accompaniment. For a bread, choose a French or Italian loaf that is hard and crusty rather than soft rolls or biscuit. If your family likes these crusty loaves made into garlic bread, you'll find this flavor will go well with the turkey loaf and green peas.

Turkey Loaf
2 cups finely diced cooked turkey meat
1½ cups crumbled crackers (unsalted tops)
2 tablespoons minced onion
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon celery salt
3 tablespoons diced pimiento
3 tablespoons butter or margarine (melted)
2 eggs
¾ cup turkey broth or milk
Creamed Green Peas.

Mix the turkey, cracker crumbs, onion, salt, pepper, celery salt, pimiento and melted butter. Beat eggs enough to combine yolks and whites; add broth. Stir lightly into turkey mixture until crumbs are absorbed. Spoon into greased pan (about 8 by 4 by 3 inches) or a greased 5-cup shallow casserole.

Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 45 minutes or until lightly browned and firm. Turn out or cut in pan; top with Creamed Green Peas. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Dicing the turkey meat on cutting board (rather than putting through grinder), and crumbling crackers with light pressure of rolling pin so crumbs are on the coarse side, make for a light-textured Turkey Loaf.

Creamed Green Peas
1 package (10 ounces) frozen green peas
½ cup turkey broth
Milk

2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
White pepper

Cook peas according to package directions; drain, reserving liquid. Add liquid to turkey broth; add enough milk to make 1½ cups. Melt butter in a saucepan; stir in flour and salt. Add milk mixture; cook and stir constantly over low heat until thick.

Rich Maple Pralines
Made With Canned Milk

Take along homemade melt-in-your-mouth Maple Pralines next time you go a-visiting. Combine 1 cup maple syrup, 2 cups confectioner's sugar, ½ cup evaporated milk and 1 tablespoon butter in a saucepan. Cook, stirring occasionally to the softball stage (236 degrees).

Remove; add 1½ cups broken pecans and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat until creamy; drop by tablespoonfuls onto waxed paper. Makes 10-12 large pralines.

Cook Cauliflower Before Marinating

Ever serve cauliflower in a salad marinated? Worthwhile!

Cauliflower Salad
1 large head (3½ to 3¾ pounds) cauliflower
1½ cups boiling water
¼ cup salad oil
½ cup wine vinegar
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 clove garlic

Separate cauliflower into large flowerets and wash well in cold water. In a 12-inch skillet cook cauliflower, covered, in boiling water just until tender; drain. In a wide shallow container, mix the oil, vinegar, salt and pepper; add garlic cut in half and inserted on a toothpick. Cut cooked cauliflower into halves and add to marinade, turning to coat.

Cover and refrigerate several hours or overnight, turning cauliflower in marinade a few times. Remove garlic. Cauliflower may be served on salad greens if you wish and sprinkled with paprika for color. Makes 8 servings.

Allow a baked pastry shell to cool thoroughly before adding a filling.

Cook Apples Add to Beans, Serve Hot

An unusual vegetable and fruit dish adapted from the Norwegian cuisine.

Snap Beans with Apples

1 pound snap beans
2-3 cups boiling water
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1½ cups (4 medium-size) cubed, pared McIntosh apples

1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Cut tips from beans; scrub in cold water; cut julienne - style. Cook beans in saucepan with boiling water and salt, covered, just until tender; drain, reserving 1½ cups of the cooking liquid.

Melt butter in clean saucepan over low heat; stir in flour; add the 1½ cups reserved bean cooking liquid; cook and stir constantly until slightly thickened. Add the apples and cook until they are mushy. Stir in the sugar and lemon juice.

Add the drained cooked beans and reheat. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Sugar Helps Brown Onions for Soup

Preparing French onion soup? Add a pinch of sugar as you simmer the thinly sliced onions in butter. When the onions are golden brown, add bouillon.

Serve with slices of French bread that have been toasted, buttered, sprinkled with Parmesan cheese and then broiled.

Less Thickening

Sometimes flour is browned before use in the gravy for a stew if you follow this method remember that during the browning process the flour will lose about half its thickening power.

CRULLERS — Warming as a fire on the hearth is this inviting kaffeeklatsch. With the oversize cup of steaming coffee goes a batch of delicious French Crullers — meant, of course, to be shared with a group of neighborhood friends.

Form Crullers With a Press

Let the winter winds blow and the snow fall. There is always a big, fragrant potful of coffee to help us forget the cold. All the better if a few friends are on hand for some local gossip.

Coffee alone is warm refreshment of course, but no one will deny the merits of a batch of crullers to go with it. These delectable French Crullers have just come from the fryer, still warm and wonderfully light.

French Crullers
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup water
½ cup butter or margarine
4 eggs
Mix and sift flour, salt and sugar. Combine water and butter in saucepan. Stir until butter melts; bring to a boil. Add flour mixture. Cook and stir until batter leaves the sides of the pan and forms a ball around the spoon. Remove from heat.

Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Chill. Put through pastry tube or cookie press using largest serrated tip, to form circles. Form each circle on greased pancake turner and slip into deep fat heated to 370 degrees. Fry until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Makes about 18.

Easy Baked Alaska

Ever use the individual indented sponge cakes, widely available and inexpensive, for Baked Alaska? A scoop of ice cream goes into the indentation, then cake and ice cream are covered with a stiff meringue (2 tablespoons sugar to 1 egg white) and the combination is baked in a very hot oven (500 degrees) for 3 to 5 minutes.

Severe Winter Increases Produce Prices

CHICAGO (UPI) — Prices of some fruits and vegetables are climbing sharply in the wake of recent freezes in the nation's major winter growing areas.

Housewives are finding such items as oranges, grapefruits, tangerines, cucumbers, tomatoes and green peppers selling for nearly twice as much as a year ago in some sections of the country.

Wholesale prices for citrus fruit concentrates have doubled in the past month as a result of mid-December freezing weather in Florida, a United Press International survey showed. Freezes have followed in the Texas and southern California citrus fields.

"There's no way to tell yet what the total damage will be," a spokesman for Libby McNeill & Libby said. "It will take several months to assess, but I can tell you the effects will be felt for a long time. Some citrus trees may not recover for a year or more."

Effects of the staggering blows are already turning up on the nation's grocery shelves in the form of startling price markups.

Many stores said quality had deteriorated in much of the fruit which survived the freeze. Oranges were less juicy in many cases, they said. Fancy items were scarce and hotels were buying smaller grapefruits than they normally would, it was reported.

"It's as though the juice was pulled right back into the tree," a buyer said. "I've never seen a worse situation, and I've been buying in this market for 30 years."

A trade source in Chicago said wholesale prices of concentrated orange juice had climbed 80 per cent or more since the freeze in Florida, where most of this commodity comes from. A 6-ounce can retailed for 23 cents last week, up from 16 cents in November.

VEGETABLES

While the situation "undoubtedly ly" will boost some canned fruit and juice prices, most canned vegetables will not be affected since they are mainly grown in the Midwest, a Libby spokesman said. Those damaged in the South will recover in a few months, he said.

Despite rising prices, many grocery men insisted profits were down because they were not charging as much as they could under the circumstances.

Despairing of domestic prospects, some buyers have turned to central American and overseas markets for produce. But frigid weather has also hit crops in parts of Mexico, Spain and along the Mediterranean.

The Longshoremen's strike also hampered imports of many food items. Stores in St. Paul, Minn., said banana prices had jumped 30 per cent since the strike began.

If you want your baking powder biscuits to be high and have soft insides, roll the dough to ¼-inch thickness.

Sweeten Winter Fruit With Bit of Honey

Honey makes a delicious sweetener for a winter fruit cup: oranges, bananas, apples, pears. The oranges may be prepared ahead, but cut in the other three fruits just before serving. The apples may be left with their pretty red skin, but the pears should be pared.

Freeze Peppers

Freeze leftover red or green peppers to use later in salads. To prepare, slice peppers in narrow strips and wrap amounts suitable for one or two meals in aluminum foil.

Bean Salad Is Ever Popular

Here's a hearty make-ahead salad for buffet entertaining. It's an easy, mixed vegetable medley.

Combine slender, canned whole blue lake green beans, red kidney beans, baby limas, diced celery and coarsely grated carrot in large salad bowl. Season mayonnaise with dash lemon juice, prepared mustard and instant minced onion. Mix with vegetables.

At serving time, garnish with greens and top generously with crisp crumbled bacon.

Congolese Con Men Cut Familiar Cowboy Capers

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The city slickers take the country boys in the Congo just as they did in the old West.

Just as they did in Cheyenne, Wyo., or Tombstone, Ariz., or Butte, Mont., the country boys eat it up and ask for more.

It's hard to believe you could find a three-card monte game in the heart of Africa but it's easy as walking across a country road.

In a streetside market in downtown Leopoldville, a wiry little Congolese squatted on the pavement conning the bystanders. He had three cards on the pavement.

As in three-card monte of Wild Bill Hickock's time, two of the cards were face cards, one an ace.

The Congolese pitchman was as canny as any Western gambler.

"Come on," he said in the rapid Lingala dialect. "Beat me. It's easy. Try your luck."

Clumsily—for this is part of the pitch—he moved the cards around face down, but it was easy to see where the ace had been moved.

It was to the right, and a young Congolese nudged a companion and grinned broadly.

He said something to his friend, and it simply had to be: "This guy is nuts. You can see where the ace goes. He must be giving his money away." His friend nodded.

He sized the youth up swiftly, and then tossed out the equivalent of about $5. The young Congolese conferred briefly with his friend.

"Shall I call this guy? It's pretty near a cinch as I see it, but after all it'll mean my bankroll."

"Go ahead, you beat him the first time out. He's clumsy." He plunked down his roll.

translation. It was all going according to pattern.

The young Congolese hesitated, then reached into his pocket, pulled out a few bills and squatted down. The pitchman put down a couple of hundred francs—a little over a dollar.

He switched the cards back and forth and the young Congolese pointed. It was the right one. He laughed in delight and picked up the money. The pitchman looked worried and his forehead crinkled.

He pointed to the center card. The pitchman turned it over. The two young Congolese stared at the queen which mysteriously was where the ace should have been. The pitchman scooped up the money, then the cards.

"Come on, come on, come on, beat me. It's easy as falling off a log."

The Red guards were taken to a hospital.

West Berlin police said the guards jumped from the roof of a house on the northern end of the Communist wall dividing the city.

Another escape attempt during the night failed. Western police saw a Communist search party of 10 guards with dogs track down a man near the wall. He was taken away.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negotiators representing the Soviet Union, Great Britain and the United States meet again late today for a third session aimed at working out a nuclear test ban agreement.

Wednesday's meeting lasted 3½ hours. Officials would not comment on whether any progress had been made.

New Zealand is the remnant of a continent that sank into the sea millions of years ago, and today it abounds with biological curiosities.

A joint U. S. - Commonwealth military mission is due here next Wednesday to begin a three- or four-week study of air fields, radar installations and communications equipment.

Australian and Canadian airmen will participate in the study but there was no indication yet whether their air forces also would fly in defense of India.

The sources said India has agreed to make improvements where needed for foreign air operations. The Americans and Commonwealth nations will provide planes, pilots and possibly some needed radar equipment and operators.

The sources emphasized that foreign airmen would play strictly a defensive role as interceptor forces within India's borders.

India's present air force would take over the job of supporting front line troops with bombing and ground support missions.

At the moment the border war between India and Red China is in a state of suspension with six neutral Afro-Asian nations trying to get them to a conference table.

Neither Peking nor New Delhi has agreed to the other's condition for such talks and India is not overlooking the possibility that Red China would try to start the shooting again.

School Lunch Managers Weigh Items Carefully

Mrs. Mary Slater Kern, Oakland County school lunch consultant, asks for a vote on the pan of fruit cocktail she is holding. In the tasting line (from left) are Mrs. Bernice Petty of Lake Orion; Mrs. Millicent

Mathis of Clarenceville; Peggy Johnson of Pontiac; Mrs. Bernice Birch of Clawson and Mrs. Edna Cook of Bloomfield Hills.

Mrs. Frances Price (left) holds a stop watch as five other school lunch managers empty cans of fruit into large strainers. From the rear are Mrs. William Stranahan, Rochester; Mrs. Millicent Mathis, Clarence-villes; Mrs. Bernice Petty, Lake Orion; Madeline Longpre, Macomb County school lunch consultant; and Mrs. Lola Hitt, Troy.

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Haven't you often wished that you could see inside cans of food and compare one or two before buying them? There is a group of women in Oakland county who do just that three times a year.

School lunch managers throughout the county have found that they save money — as much as 20 per cent — by ordering their canned goods through a cooperative purchasing plan.

Orders go in every three months so that the school lunchrooms can benefit by any change in marketing conditions.

Three times a year a score or more of lunchroom managers get together with Mrs. Mary Slater Kern, Oakland County school lunch consultant, and have a can-cutting session.

They meet at the Oakland County Board of Education on North Telegraph Road.

Pontiac Press photographer Edward R. Noble and I went to this can-cutting session the other day. We both received an education.

HOW IT'S DONE

All the food to be tested comes in No. 10 cans supplied by the distributors in response to requests for bids. Labels are stripped and the cans identified only by a code.

First the food is drained into large shallow containers for exactly two minutes. Then each pan of food is weighed and the drained weight noted.

A tasting session follows. Ed and I took part in a couple of these. Sometimes we agreed with the final choice of the group; other times we were all alone in our choice.

The lunchroom managers, knowing what use they will make of the food (served as is, or baked in a pie or other dish) carefully taste and scrutinize the food.

In the case of sliced apples, one sample was completely rejected because it looked too mushy.

After tasting and retasting, the women vote. They know the cost of each item and consider that, too. Sometimes the choice is unanimous (it was with tart red cherries). Sometimes there is a tie (applesauce) and they vote again.

Your children would be interested to know that the maraschino cherries in the fruit cocktail are carefully counted and the number included makes a difference to the managers.

They also look for a good quantity of pears and pineapple in the cocktail, these fruits being the more expensive ones.

TAKES ALL DAY

We stayed about an hour and a half. The managers still had the rest of the day ahead of them. By the time they went home they would have tasted about 30 products.

One manager told us the worst testing they ever did was with gravy mixes. Because there is not enough space to heat all the samples they had to be tasted cold! Black coffee is on hand all day for clearing the palate.

After voting, results are tabulated on a machine and orders for 100 case lots sent out. Mrs. Kern thinks that the 22 participating districts have benefitted greatly by this procedure.

An observer at this latest can-cutting session was John Carter, director of food services in the Detroit public schools.

What happens to all the food after the testing session? It is sent to the Oakland County Medical Care Facility across Telegraph Road.

Mrs. Virginia Elkins of Ferndale carefully weighs a pan of drained fruit cocktail. There is sometimes as much as a pound's difference in weight in two cans of the same size after the liquid is removed.

Lifesaving Technique Is Shown

Mrs. Richard Benham of South Avery Road was hostess to members of Xi Alpha Nu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Tuesday evening.

James DeFlorio and Guzman A. Ruiz of the Pontiac Firefighters Association demonstrated mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and traced its century-old use, its revival in Norway and its widespread use in this country.

Plans were completed for the Beta Sigma Phi card party March 20 in the 300 Lounge.

Guests were Mrs. Jay Sandow, Mrs. Harvey Kerr, Mrs. Arthur Ellis, Mrs. Edward Markham, Mrs. Richard Ferris, Mrs. Laurence Robertson, Mrs. Douglas Menzel, Mrs. Robert Pritchett, Mrs. Elwyn Hall, Marcelle Kitson and Mrs. William Cheal.

Epsilon Rho chapter will be guests at the Feb. 5 meeting.

Sponsored by Town Hall

Gayelord Hauser Speaks

By MADELINE DOEREN

A capacity audience accepted Gayelord Hauser's "Invitation to Beauty" and attended his lecture sponsored by Pontiac - Oakland Town Hall Wednesday at the Huron Theater.

A world-famous authority on health and beauty, Mr. Hauser returned to the United States this fall from a visit to his offices in Paris and London.

He also stayed in Sicily, where he maintains a home. His new book "Treasury of Secrets" is scheduled for spring publication.

The author of "Mirror, Mirror on the Wall" now published in 14 languages and numerous past best-sellers, says "Beauty is really a do-it-yourself job. As a minister of disturbance, I intend to jog my audiences out of complacency and routine."

Urging a dietetic regime, he suggests "five...wonder foods" brewer's yeast, powdered skim milk, yogurt, wheat germ and blackstrap molasses for daily use.

"BREAKFAST IMPORTANT"

A trim, 6-foot-3 bachelor, the picture of health, with debonair charm and youthful good looks: he is his best advertisement for the way of life he advocates for others.

"Tank up with a good breakfast" he says. "Chipped beef simmered in milk or two soft boiled eggs, whole wheat toast, orange juice or grapefruit half and coffee, preferably half milk. Blood sugar, usually 120 at bedtime drops to 90 or 100 by 8 a.m."

"You're mean; you're groggy until your blood sugar level is brought up."

"Cosmetics are psychologically necessary and do help protect the skin. But, if you paint your lashes dark and your lips too red, your face looks like none nature has ever produced."

Food, nutrition and fresh air, according to Mr. Hauser, are the biological resources of beauty. He disagrees with the theory that the body changes every seven years. Instead, every cell changes every eight to 10 months.

TENSION TELLS

Psychocostmetics, or the effect of emotions on beauty, involve some 55 facial muscles, leaving the story of life and thoughts written on the face. Unhappy, critical, gossipy, negative faces droop.

"Relax the eyes, jewels of the face, by looking into the distance after reading or doing close work, or by covering closed eyes with tightly cupped hands" he suggested.

"If your tooth or teeth have connections, hang on to them" Mr. Hauser advised. "Try a quarter-teaspoonful of bone flour (available in diet stores) in your morning orange-juice. The vitamin C in the juice also helps bleeding gums."

"Diets of some of the healthiest people in the world feature cheese, black bread and earthy food, not the sophisticated, denatured foods served in America."

Deploping inadequate protein intake as slow starvation, he suggests a minimum of 60 grams of protein every day, achieved by the breakfast menu suggested, plus cottage cheese for luncheon, lean meats, a bi-weekly baked potato and green salad for dinner.

To the women with a weight problem his advice is "Eat slowly, masticate the food well, savor every bite. You will only eat half as much as when food is eaten rapidly. Cook with safflower, sunflower, sesame, peanut or corn oils."

Smoking, except for two-day after meals, is tabu in most beauty farms according to Mr. Hauser although some patrons insist on "smoking behind the barn." Smoking destroys vitamin C in the body just as alcohol destroys vitamin B. High-protein diets help where there is an alcohol problem.

His closing remarks at the celebrity luncheon in Devon Gables reflected Albert Schweitzer's motto: "Don't grow old; grow up. Never stop working and give the greatest part of your life to others."

Red Cross Gray Ladies Will Receive Awards

Fifteen new American Red Cross Gray Ladies will be awarded their caps, pins and certificates Sunday afternoon in the auditorium of McAuley Nurses Home of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital at 2 p.m.

Oakland County Chairman of Gray Lady Service, Mrs. William C. Sproull, and Mrs. James M. Hannan, Gray Lady chairman for the hospital, will present the awards. Rev. Edwin Schroeder, the hospital's chaplain will address the group.

FORMAL CEREMONY

ing volunteers from Pontiac: Mrs. Martin Bulkema, Mrs. William Cashion, Mrs. James Hudson Jr., Mrs. Max Richardson, Mrs. Charlotte Scott and Joanne Zimmerman.

From Birmingham are Mrs. Donald Davidson, Mrs. Thomas King, Mrs. Frederic Lines, Mrs. Robert Walls and Mrs. Oliver White.

Others from the area are Mrs. Charles Grant of Bloomfield Hills, Mrs. Richard E. Jacobs of Orchard Lake, Mrs. Donald Alway of Rochester and Mrs. Vern Whims of Lake Orion.

Servicemen, Those at Home Should Write More Often

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a commanding officer on active duty, but please don't mention which branch or where this letter comes from. I just want to say that if you could see some of the letters my husband gets from wives, sweethearts and even mothers asking if a certain boy in his company is living or dead, it would bring tears to your eyes.

Why are some boys so thoughtless? Your column reaches more servicemen than any other, Abby, so please print this with your comments.

C. O.'s WIFE
DEAR WIFE: There are thoughtless, lazy, self-centered people everywhere. The boys in the service write to me and ask if their loved ones at home are dead, dying or have just plain forgotten them. Maybe this will help to perk up mail call: Uncle Sam could use the money.

DEAR ABBY: I thought I'd be the last person in the world who would ever write a DEAR ABBY letter, but here I am. I am 40 and my husband is 49. We've been married 20 years and have three wonderful children.

Suddenly my husband has decided that I am the most beautiful and wonderful woman in the world. He's always been considerate, generous and helpful. But lately I feel like a prisoner. He doesn't let me out of his sight.

I went to a shower last Saturday (for ladies only) and he insisted on driving me there (I drive, too) and he sat out in front and WAITED for me!

He claims I am more attractive today than I was 20 years ago and that every man who sees me falls for me. (This is not true.) What is wrong with him? I can't figure it out.

SMOTHERED

DEAR SMOTHERED: Men go through a period of glandular and chemical changes just as women do, you know. That could be his trouble. He sounds insecure and unsure of himself. Get him to a doctor. Your 49er is due for a check-up.

DEAR ABBY: My 15-year-old son has hair that is so long it looks like a girl's. He refuses to have it cut and it just lays in waves all over his head. He puts it up in large rollers. Do you think he is normal?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: I've heard of young men "rolling their own" — but this is ridiculous. If you want to find out if he is normal, get him an appointment with a psychiatrist.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MR. R."

Yes, I know a good employee is hard to find. But a good wife is harder to find. Next time that "valued employee" comes to you with her marital problems, don't offer yourself as a wailing wall.

Give her the name of a good marriage counselor. You can help save her marriage without endangering your own.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to ABBY, in care of The Pontiac Press for Abby's new booklet, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Goodby Due if Friends Are Leaving

By The Emily Post Institute

Q. My daughter's parents-in-law came here to visit her from the West Coast. The night they arrived I called them up and had a nice long chat with them.

Several days later I called again and invited them to dinner. The evening they were at my house I learned that they are leaving for home in two days.

I expected they would call me to say goodbye before they left, but they did not. Now my daughter tells me I was rude not to have called them the day they were leaving to say goodbye.

Was I wrong, or should they have called me?

A: Ordinarily, the persons leaving telephone to say goodbye to their friends who may not know the date of their departure, but as you knew they were leaving, it would have been polite of you to have telephoned them to say goodbye and wish them a safe journey home.

Q: Aren't sympathy cards which people sometimes send to the bereaved, supposed to be acknowledged? My mother thinks it necessary only to thank for flowers, spiritual bouquets and handwritten notes. She thinks sympathy cards rank with get-well cards and other greeting cards which require no special handwritten acknowledgment.

A: Printed sympathy cards, unlike handwritten notes, need not be acknowledged.

Q: When going to a hotel or restaurant where one's car is parked by an attendant and also brought back again when ready to leave, is it necessary that he be given a tip or is this service included in the price of parking the car? If a tip is necessary, what is the correct amount to give?

A: A tip is customary. Fifty cents is the usual amount.

Q: I have been asked to be the best man at a friend's wedding and I would appreciate your telling me just what expenses I will have. Am I supposed to buy the maid of honor's flowers?

I have had so many different opinions that I am now completely confused.

A: Further than providing your own wedding clothes and giving the bride and groom a wedding present, you incur no expenses.

The flowers carried by the maid of honor as well as the bridesmaids are paid for by the bride's family.

Do you find it difficult to eat spaghetti? The new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Table Rules of Importance," describes how to eat spaghetti as well as other difficult foods.

To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Daughters of Isabella Sets Annual Card Party

Our Lady of the Lake Circle No. 479 of Daughters of Isabella will sponsor its annual card party 8 p.m. Monday evening in the Knights of Columbus Hall on South Saginaw Street.

Easier Way to Do Basting

When roasting chickens or turkeys, a simple way to keep them basted with no bother is to grease an ordinary brown paper bag, insert the fowl, clip the bag shut with paper clips and place in the oven on a pan of some sort. The steam from the fowl melts the grease on the bag enough to keep the meat moist and tender.

Use Powder to Ease on Gloves

Sprinkling the hands with talcum powder will enable one to don rubber gloves more easily.

Mrs. John Denihan of Judson Street is general chairman for the event. Committee chairmen assisting her will be Mrs. Paul Miller, Mrs. Edward J. Duffy and Mrs. Albert F. Schoenemann.

Other committee chairmen assisting will include Mrs. Frank Schmidt, Ann Zdunic, Mrs. Lawrence J. Sevegney, and Mrs. John Sevegney.

Hostesses for the evening are Mrs. Susan Carry, Mrs. George Winters, Mrs. Nora Ashton, Mrs. Rudy Stingle, Mrs. David Polnear and Rose Griffin.

Square Dance Set

Cuckoo Squares Square Dance Club will hold their regular dance Saturday at the Waterford Community Center. Wayne Wilcox will do the calling. All western square dancers are welcome.

There are 1,466 life insurance companies in the United States.

Wrapping prizes for Our Lady of the Lake Circle No. 479 of Daughters of Isabella annual card party are (from left) Mrs. Frank A. Schmidt of East Fairmount Street; Mrs. John J. Sevegne of Auburn Heights and Mrs. Albert F. Schoenemann of Delaware Drive. The party will be 8 p.m. Monday evening at the Knights of Columbus hall.

Polly's Pointers

Shoe-Saving 'Socker'

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I am almost 9 years old and I have an idea for your young readers or their mothers. In cold weather, I slip my worn-out cotton hobby socks over my black nylon shoes before putting my boots on. This keeps my feet warm and dry and my shoes clean.

JACKIE

DEAR POLLY—When making or buying unfinished picture frames, an easy way to stain them is with paste shoe polish. Just rub it on evenly. Let dry and shine with a rag.

J. B.

DEAR POLLY—My husband has a tendency to drive too fast on occasions.

I took a picture of our children and taped it above the 60-65 miles per hour on the speedometer on our car.

This reminds him that the children are depending on him. He says the sight of children automatically slows him down.

PAT

DEAR POLLY—Before winding thread on a sewing machine bobbin, draw several inches of the thread through a red crayon. When the red thread appears, you will know it is time to rewind the bobbin.

To save time in drying rubber gloves, hang the wrist openings over soft drink bottles. The gloves dry faster and do not lose their shape.

MRS. M. J. B.

DEAR POLLY—I have just discovered a wonderful way to make disposable salt shakers for packing in lunches. Just cut a soda straw in half or thirds, twist one end, fill with salt and twist the other end.

MRS. R. R. D.

Share your favorite homemaking ideas . . . send them to Polly in care of The Pontiac Press. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

London Couturiers Keep Lines Clean

LONDON (AP)—London's top fashion designers go in for the cool, clean, uncluttered look in their 1963 spring collections. Waists rise a little higher this year.

The British designers showed their new lines yesterday.

Matti's suits were simple, following the line of the body, with a slightly longer jacket.

He and Hardy Amies, one of Queen Elizabeth's couturiers, showed slim, collarless, high-seamed princess-line dresses that looked deliberately naive.

Amies' suits had a streamlined look, high-waisted, fitting closely in front but easier at the back.

SHORTER JACKETS

John Cavanagh showed shorter jackets and focused attention on a sleeve line looser and reaching just below the elbow. Suits and coats followed the streamline trend, flowing slimly down from small, high-buttoned collars.

Cavanagh has been chosen to design Princess Alexandra's bridal gown and he produced one for the showing as well.

It was simple, in white silk organdie, with a roll collar, wide bell sleeves and long train flowing from a satin band on a tiny-flowered head-dress.

Stiebel showed suits with long jackets gently fitted to the body and shoulders and buttoned high to emphasize the bust. Skirts, reaching the knee, were mainly straight.

See Humor in Own Experience

Laugh It Up to Stay Young

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
Perhaps the severest test of a sense of humor is the ability to laugh at oneself. Those who truly have a sense of the ridiculous and a whimsical outlook discover humor in their own experiences and reactions as well as in those of others.

It seems that some folks laugh less the older they get, while the wit of others seems to sharpen.

I suppose the former is due to the fact that there are more responsibilities and worries from middle age on and youthful humor is buried under them. Yet nothing smooths the discomforts of daily living like a sense of humor.

National Laugh Enterprises was founded in 1945. George Q. Lewis, one of the greats among gagwriters, is its national director. Not long ago the Gagwriters' Comedy Workshop in New York City had a special night for senior citizens 65 and over.

The Gagwriters - Comedy Workshop is the home of the future funnyman of America. Its most recent graduate is Vaughn Meader whose "First Family" record is such a hit. The Senior Citizens night was designed as an exchange between the elder and the younger laughmakers. The consensus of opinion was that laughter has no age limit and that the mind is ever alert to the therapy which laughter offers.

There are many golden age comics in America. Think of Jimmy Durante, Ed Wynn, Bert Wheeler, Sophie Tucker, George Jessel, Groucho Marx, Jack Benny and Harry Hershfield. These are just a few who are still active in the laugh-making profession after more than 50 years or so.

AUDIENCE PARTICIPATION
George Q. Lewis himself says, "Laugh making is not confined to the professional comedian. It is an activity that belongs to the audience as well. This is the point that the comedy workshop makes. The audience should participate."

In New York City, the Gagwriters-Comedy Workshop holds open house every Tuesday and Thursday from 8 to 10 p.m. George Q. Lewis says, "people do grow older but while they grow older they can keep happy."

I think that all of us could profit by bringing more laughter to our everyday lives. You might even form your own comedy workshop in your home town, or have an evening in your own home when all serious talk would be prohibited. It would be a rare time without any mention of war, politics, religion, taxes or operations!

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Honest Mort, the soft-hearted Mt. Holly entrepreneur who refuses to admit to sentimentality, had to concede that an eight year old boy shattered that all-business heart of his.

Most everything is business for Graddis, who pioneered skiing and most of its new innovations in Southeastern Michigan. Even a friendly hello or compliment to some pretty young ski enthusiast means business.

With a $1 million dollar investment such as his which is so highly restrictive because so much depends on the weather, Graddis knows that a cheerful word or deed never tends to anger.

Just a few days ago, Mort couldn't get away with just a good word to smooth out the feelings of an irate group of youngsters.

It was a bus load of children from the Flint Youth Bureau who are given the opportunity each week to enjoy skiing under the sponsorship of the Big Brother group at the token fee of 35 cents per boy.

Most of the boys are orphaned and to them two hours of skiing and a 10 cent candy bar once a week is a big extravaganza.

So it happened that when the kids all gathered around the candy machine during a ski-break, the unanimous choice of the day was a tootsy-roll.

But, every time that went into the machine it brought forth a butterfinger instead. Complaints got to Graddis' from the tootsy-hungry boys, so he offered them all a 10-cent refund.

After putting the rejected butterfingers in the drawer of his desk, he noticed one lad intently watching the candy mixup.

He was the only one who hadn't gone to the machine or who had come back to the counter to get his 10-cents returned.

"Say, little fella, how would you like a butterfinger," Graddis asked him as the rest of the group returned back to the slopes.

The boy happily accepted the bar, but after five minutes hadn't even taken a bite.

"What's the matter, don't you like butterfingers," Graddis asked.

"Yes, but I'm gonna take it home to my sister," was the reply. Graddis learned the boy was eight years old and his sister was five. They were orphans.

"Those big brown eyes gave me a feeling that I had never imagined," said Graddis as he watched the boy go out to the slope guarding the candy bar in his jacket pocket.

When the two-hour ski day had ended, the boys returned to Flint all enjoying a butterfinger.

The little guy who forced Graddis to admit that he wasn't as hard-hearted as he thought himself to be, was also enjoying a butterfinger, still holding the one for his sister.

Plymouth once again proves all-around superiority against its competition. Handling, safety, performance, economy—all of these were measured in the second meeting of Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth early in December at the Riverside, Cal., test course. In a "Showdown" asked for by Plymouth, a 1963 Plymouth Fury V-8 whipped a comparably equipped Chevrolet Impala V-8 and Ford Galaxie "500" V-8 in eight out of ten official tests.

Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute bought the cars, hired the drivers, supplied the officials, made and enforced the rules. The chart at right leaves no question about the results. Plymouth excelled in all-around performance and economy. Add in Plymouth's good looks and 5-year/50,000-mile warranty*. See your dealer. Plymouth's on the move.

Keg Washout in Spotlight

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Pat Patterson, a washout in nine appearances in the All-Star Bowling Tournament, got a whiff of success Wednesday.

The veteran St. Louis pro took the lead in the fourth round of the finals with a Petersen point total of 82-12 on 11 victories, five losses and a total pinfall of 3,562.

Billy Welu, of St. Louis, the qualifying champion, trampled Patterson 878-804 in the first round and sent him reeling into 13th place. But in the second round, Patterson swept his four-game series with J. Wilbert Sims, outscoring the Chicago bowler 951-826. Patterson found his next foe, Terry Rey of Seattle, an easy prey and swept that series to claim third place.

Outscored by Ed Lubanski of Detroit in the fourth round, 954-935, Patterson managed to divide the match and build up enough points to take the lead.

In previous All-Star tournaments, Patterson had never moved past the semifinals.

Robbie Robinson of Wilmington, Del., held second place through the first four rounds with 81-33.

Under the Petersen point system, a bowler gets one point for every game won and one point for every 50 pins knocked down.

Don Carter, four-time former champion from St. Louis, held the lead briefly but dropped to fifth when he lost four straight games to Welu in the fourth round.

Defending champion Dick Weber of St. Louis was sixth.

Marion Ladewig, seven-time champion from Grand Rapids, Mich., led the women with 40-27 points.

Donna Zimmerman of Akron, Ohio, who led for the first three rounds, dropped to second place after splitting her fourth round duel with Nan Chianichiano, Saddle Brook, N.J.

Defending champion Shirley Garmes of Chicago was in last place.

STOPPED — A shot by New York Rangers Vic Hadfield, in the dark jersey, is blocked by Goalie Glenn Hall of Chicago Black Hawks in second period of a National Hockey League game in New York's Madison Square Garden last night.

In on the play are Chicago's Bobby Hull (7), Elmer Vasko, (left), and fallen teammate Pierre Pilote. The game ended in a 3-3 tie.

Hawks Expand Lead Despite Tie

By The Associated Press
Camille Henry and Gump Worsley look about as little like professional athletes as any you're likely to find.

Henry is a gaunt, almost frail-looking fellow. Worsley is a round little goalie with a Santa Claus stomach. Each makes his living with the New York Rangers.

Between them they brought the Rangers one of the most welcome ties in their National Hockey League history Wednesday night, a 3-3 affair with Chicago.

The tie represents the first point New York has picked up in 10 meetings with the league-leading Black Hawks, who had scored nine straight victories over the Rangers this season and appeared to be on their way to a sweep—something that hasn't been accomplished since the league went to a 70-game schedule.

Even with the tie, Chicago managed to expand its league leading margin to three points when second-place Montreal fell before Toronto 5-1 in the only other game scheduled Wednesday.

The muscular Black Hawks seemed to be well on their way to another rout of the Rangers going into the third period. They had peppered Worsley with 38 shots in the first two sessions and had a 3-1 lead before Henry popped in two last period goals and lifted the Rangers into the tie.

Only Worsley's spectacular efforts in the New York goal preserved it, however. He came up with a total of 52 saves, including stops on breakaways by Chico Maki and Bobby Hull. Worsley robbed Hull on three other occasions.

Stan Mikita assisted on Chicago's first two goals, scored by Ab McDonald and Len Lunde, and Elmer Vasko got a Hawk marker in the middle period.

Andy Bathgate scored New York's other goal and also had an assist in reclaiming the individual scoring lead from Boston's Johnny Bucyk. Bathgate now has 47 points, Bucyk 46.

Toronto scored four times in the first period and took it from there to defeat Montreal. The victory moved the third-place Leafs to within one point of Montreal.

Bobby Pulford rammed in two Toronto goals, while Red Kelly, Kent Douglas and Allan Stanley got the others. Dickie Moore scored Montreal's only goal.

Montreal is at Detroit and Toronto at Boston in games tonight.

Dribbling Obsolete in 'New' NBA Style

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
You might say the current NBA—the National Basketball Association—is becoming synonymous with the old NBA—the National Boxing Association.

Accounts of many recent NBA games are replete with such because terms as fight, punch and duck instead of the more customary basketball words as dribble, pass and shoot.

Wednesday, for the fourth consecutive night, there was a fistic explosion in an NBA game. This time it was at Chicago.

IN FIRST ROUND

Chicago's Woody Sauldsberry flogged Syracuse's Lee Shaffer with one punch in the first period, and there was more to come: although of a verbal rather than pugilistic nature.

Chicago went on to win 104-94 in a game that was finished under protest. In more prosaic NBA games Wednesday, Cincinnati beat Boston 138-133 and Los Angeles defeated Detroit 123-119.

The Chicago-Syracuse imbroglio started when Chicago's Walt Bellamy and Shaffer started elbowing each other at the foul circle. All of a sudden Sauldsberry started after Shaffer and flogged the Syracuse player with a right to the face. Referee Joe Gushie stepped in and quickly restored order. He threw Sauldsberry out of the game and permitted Shaffer to resume play after a brief rest.

There was another rumpus in the last quarter when umpire Sid Borgia ejected Syracuse Coach Alex Hannum and Syracuse player Al Bianchi for their violent protests against foul calls. When he was banished Hannum announced he would protest the game.

BOUNCES BACK

Shaffer bounced back after being knocked down and matched teammate Johnny Kerr's 21 points. Shaffer got 11 of his in the last 6 minutes of play. Bellamy's 35 points topped Chicago, which took the lead for good on Johnny Cox's two baskets that gave the Zephyrs a 51-48 lead at the half.

Oscar Robertson scored 43 points to spark Cincinnati to a come-from-behind victory over Boston. The Royals set a Cincinnati Gardens period scoring record with 49 points in the third period, erasing Boston's 65-55 half-time lead. Tom Heinsohn topped Boston with 25 points while Big Bill Russell added 21.

At Los Angeles, the Lakers, led by Elgin Baylor and Jerry West, shook off Detroit in the last 2 minutes and beat the Pistons for the seventh straight time this season.

The lead had changed hands 37 times and Detroit held a 116-114 lead when the Lakers ran off 7 straight points, four of them on sensational plays by Baylor. He finished with 42 points while West hit for 36.

Don Ohl turned in a brilliant 43-point performance in a losing cause for the Pistons.

Highly Rated Trojans Visit Central Gym

Chiefs Play Key Tilt in Chase for Crown of SVC

Saginaw High's Lovell Humes will find out Friday that one year can make a big difference.

He will be the center of attention when the Trojans clash with Pontiac Central in the Chiefs' gym at 8 p.m.

A year ago, the 5-10 forward went virtually unnoticed when Saginaw and PCH clashed in "the game of the year" on the Trojans' court.

The Chiefs concentrated on stopping Ernie Thompson and Brian Best. Humes found himself unguarded most of the game and gleefully stuffed in 24 points as the Trojans won.

Saginaw went on to win the Saginaw Valley and state Class A championships.

HAS 24.5 AVERAGE

Thompson and Best are gone, but Humes is still going strong. In fact, he is one of the top scorers in the state with a 24.5 average.

This will be a key game in any PCH hopes for the SVC championship.

A victory over Saginaw (4-1), coupled with a Flint Northern (3-2) triumph over Flint Central (4-1) Friday would move the Chiefs (4-2) into second place behind front-running Arthur Hill (6-0).

Arthur Hill, No. 2 ranked Class A team in the state, is idle. Midland plays at Bay City Central and Bay City Handy is at Flint Southwestern in other SVC encounters Friday.

I-L Needs Spoiler to Stop PNH

Northern Five to Visit Bears Friday Night

Berkley Only Quintet Huskies Haven't Met on Cage Circuit

If any team in the Inter-Lakes Conference intends to give Pontiac Northern a battle for the championship, it shouldn't wait much longer before making a bid. The Huskies will travel to Berkley Friday for a meeting with the only I-L team they haven't opposed. The other four opponents in the league have been banished by a margin of at least 10 points.

The Bears stand only 2-2 in loop play but snapped a three-game losing streak by upsetting Farmington on the loser's own court, using a typical PNH device — balanced scoring.

Dick Ramsdell, Don McRae, Dick Kakkuri and Dan Kelly all were in the 11-17 points bracket for Berkley.

Since losing its opening game to Flint Southwestern, PNH has won six straight contests to rank 13th in the weekly AP state poll for Class A schools.

In most of those victories, at least three Huskie starters have been in double figures led by the scoring prowess of the Hayward brothers, Gary and Roger.

THREE STRAIGHT

The chief threat to the PNH title hopes at present is Walled Lake. The Vikings have won three consecutive I-L starts since losing a 12-point decision to Northern on their home floor.

They will journey to Farmington Friday needing a triumph to stay in contention. The Walled Lake squad has been improving rapidly but cannot afford to slip against the tall Falcons.

The other loop contest will find Bob Readler and his Waterford High School teammates invading winless Southfield. The Skippers (1-3) have been skidding since defeating Berkley in their second league game but should take a step forward against the Blue Jays.

Lake Forest Wins Tilt

Class 'D' Quintet Tallies 105

Jo-Jo's, the scourge of the city's Class D recreation basketball league, finally reached the century mark last night.

The unbeaten leaders ran up their fourth consecutive regular season win last night, 105-60, over winless New Hope. The high-scoring quintet hit 100 points in the pre-season tournament, but had been stopped at 99 until last night in the regular season play.

Willie Harsten again paced the victors with 28 points, while teammate Milford Hillie was close behind, as usual, with 20. Cliff Armstrong had 19, Frank Kettonen 12 and Ronald Lewis 10.

The losers, also, had four in twin figures. Ronnie Broadnax showed the way with 20, Jerome Chaumley scored 14, Jim Jones had 12 and Robert Seay added 10. Jo-Jo's big scoring burst was the third period when it hit 46 points on 23 field goals.

Other Class D action saw Victor Paint tally 47 points to only 28 for The Chiefs. Dave Drake hit 13 and Mike Grulke added 10. UAW No. 594 joined Columbia Avenue Baptist atop the Class C league when the former edged past Michigan Bell, 54-50. William Campbell's 20 points led the winners while Bob Becker had 19 for the telephone team. The game was tied 48-48 at the end of regulation time but Sammy Cole's four points pulled it out for the union in the overtime.

The Pontiac Police handed Town & Country Lounge another defeat, this time by a slim margin of three points, 47-44. A previous game between the two had ended with a 14-point victory for the Policemen.

Roger Reynolds' 26 markers were not enough for T&C to offset the balanced efforts of the winners, who withstood a furious fourth-quarter rally by the losers.

Tonight, UAW No. 594 will seek sole possession of first place when it meets the Pontiac Police at seven o'clock in the Madison JHS gym. Following that game there will be a big clash between the top Class A squads, Westside Recreation and the Southwest Community Club.

Table Tennis Grows

Little Ball Offers Big Challenge

By DICK POINTON

Where would most sports be without the ball? There are countless numbers of balls, baseballs, footballs, basketballs, bowling balls, golf balls, handballs, tennis balls, and billiard balls to name a few.

Each has its own specific size, weight, shape and use. None compares in size or weight to the little table tennis ball.

One known exclusively as "ping-pong," table tennis is enjoying its greatest popularity since a sports equipment manufacturer developed a game called "Indoor Tennis" in the 1890s.

What challenge is there in battling the little hollow sphere of celluloid around?

At times the challenge is as demanding as tennis physically and always requires high technique and quick thinking.

EQUAL TERMS

Women and men can compete on equal terms and according to Perc Secord, current president and one of the founders of the Pontiac Table Tennis Association, and if a member of the weaker sex happens to overplay her hand things can get embarrassing.

"Awhile back," reveals Secord,

"my sister-in-law beat the pants off me in my first table tennis match. I thought I'd never live it down and practiced almost day and night so that I could give my hurt pride a little boost."

He went on to explain how he finally did get his revenge and in the process of learning the sport discovered he had found a "great game."

The idea then formed in his mind of sharing this new and exciting sport with others and he formed the first league in Pontiac in 1936.

Since then Secord has been the city champ 14 times and has saw his idea grow from one table and four teams that rented the basement of the old Masonic Temple to seven tables and over a hundred players.

Presently there are 12 teams sponsored by local business concerns and they use Pontiac Central girl's gym to compete.

In conjunction with the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, the Pontiac Table Tennis Association (PTTA) is anticipating the addition of four new teams next year and two new tables.

One of the outstanding products of the PTTA is Carol Wolverton, currently a history and physical education teacher at Pierce Junior High in Waterford, who has won the most individual women's State championships starting in 1955 and defending her title consecutively until 1958. In '59 and '60 she took runnerup honors and plans on another try for the top spot this year.

Another accomplished player is Sidney Britton who is currently the city champ. Teamed with Mrs. Wolverton the pair present a formidable doubles team.

A unique handicap system is employed however and serves as an effective equalizer. Already utilized in golf and bowling the handicap is based on the individual win-loss record of each player and makes what would be otherwise a lopsided affair into a close match.

Highlighting the team rivalry is the weekly battle between the Capital Barbor Shop and Dorris & Sons Realty. The two teams are neck and neck entering the halfway point of the season clashing tonight for the second time this season.

Ortonville High in New League

The Blackhawks of Ortonville, former charter member of the South Central League, are riding high in the Flint Suburban League. The Hawks will have twin incentives in their favor Friday when they invade Goodrich.

Both arch rivals are knotted with Linden atop the Class C loop, all three having 3-1 marks. Other schools in the conference are Lake Fenton (2-2), Hamady (1-3) and Genesee (0-4).

Ortonville wants a win Friday for two reasons: the Martians are the top opponents on the Blackhawks' schedule, and a victory over them plus a win at home next week against Linden would put Coach Harvey Fletcher and the Brandon School quintet alone atop the FSL. Leading the Blackhawks' offensive maneuverings will be scoring ace John Myers. The six-foot senior boosted his season's average over the 17 points per game mark with a 31-point outburst at Morrice Tuesday night although Ortonville lost the game 73-63.

Myers is hitting at 43 per cent clip from the floor and has pulled in 114 rebounds in the team's 10 games. Center Gary Sutton is shooting a 45 per cent rate and has tallied 99 points in 10 starts.

Bob Kilbourn, 6-1 forward, is scoring at better than nine markers per contest. The defensive guard position has been shared by Jerry Cleveland and Larry Richardson. The latter will start Friday.

In dividing its 10 cage contests this season, Ortonville has hit at an average of 56 points per game and has surrendered an average of 55 markers a contest.

Coach Fletcher expects hard battle at Goodrich with the Martians featuring a tall aggregation and a rapid-fire offense.

Tonight at Cray Junior High School, A&W Root Beer will tangle with Reeves Service at 7:15 o'clock; and Nichol Insurance Agency's team will play Tim's Barber Shop in the nightcap.

In another contest, Hoyt Realty handed winless Woodcreek Drill another defeat, 65-43, as three players had twin markers. Manager Chuck Goff's 15 counters were one above the figures posted by brother Dave Goff and Mickey Dean.

Tonight at Cray Junior High School, A&W Root Beer will tangle with Reeves Service at 7:15 o'clock; and Nichol Insurance Agency's team will play Tim's Barber Shop in the nightcap.

Blooper Ball Saturday

Members of the Pontiac Motor's UAW union and employees of the Fisher Body Company are invited to play ball in the snow Saturday.

A blooper ball contest is scheduled for noon at Jaycee Park No. 2. All those interested in participating are urged to call Thomas Mansee at FE 2-2427.

3 Questions Most Asked on State Law

LANSING (AP)—You can marry in Michigan after living in the state for only three days, but you can't vote until after six months residence and can't file for a divorce until after living in the state for a year.

These provisions of Michigan residence requirements are some of the commonest questions asked his office, reports Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley.

Elaborating on these, Kelley said, the provisions include:

Voting—a requirement of six months residence in the state and at least 30 days in the city or township.

Marriage—qualified persons can obtain a license after three days. This is a waiting period only and not a residence requirement as such.

Divorce—the party seeking the divorce must have lived in Michigan for a year, or since the marriage was performed in Michigan.

There also is a 10-day residence requirement in the county where the divorce is filed.

Mexican Mutual Picks New Slate of Officers

Jesse Villereal of 113 S. Merriam St., has been elected president of the Mexican Mutual Society.

Also elected were Juan Nabarette, 194 W. Wilson Ave., vice president; Jose Ray Elizondo, 31 O'Riley St., secretary; and Salvador Chavez, 39 Osmon St., treasurer.

Solon's Measure Stresses (K)need for Leg-islation

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—A bill outlawing the display of feminine legs more than one inch above the knee was filed in the legislature Tuesday.

Franklin, a 75-year-old grandfather, said he filed the measure because he has "long been disgusted seeing women, some even expectant mothers, cluttering shopping centers in shorts."

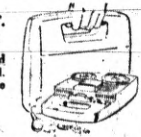

Charland said his bill would not apply to persons "properly attired" for bathing or athletics, but "if a woman hasn't got modesty enough to look decent in public, then we should put her in a cage with the other animals."

House to Vote Today on Seating of Rep.-Elect Walton

LANSING (AP)—The one missing name will be added to the roll call board in the House of Representatives today if the membership goes along with recommendations of a special investigating committee.

Rep.-Elect Leonard Walton, D-Detroit, is expected to get his seat plus a slap on the wrist in form of a public censure "for misleading campaign practices."

Republicans held up seating Walton because they said he illegally allowed the word "re-elect" on his campaign literature although he never had held office in the House.

Rep. Henry Hogan Jr., R-Birmingham, chairman of a five-man investigating committee of three Republicans and two Democrats, said the committee was unanimous in agreeing Walton should be seated with censure.

The House (meeting at 2 p.m.) first must vote on acceptance of the report and then vote on whether or not to seat Walton.

Hogan said he expected the House to go along with the recommendations since the report was unanimous.

Walton, 37, still faces trial next

Wins 3rd Term as Head of Local Credit Union

Rudolph J. Nosek of 565 E. Pike, 1262 Albi St., Waterford St. has been re-elected to a third Township, vice president; Andrew term as president of the Pontiac-Hoehn, 247 S. Sanford St., secretary; and Donald Farrell, 216 Columbus Federal Credit Union. Also elected were Louis Shovmonth on the use of the word "re-elect."

Hogan said he planned no formal resolution of censure. Acceptance and publication of the report would be sufficient to make it a matter of public record, he said.

The specific recommendation is that Walton be seated "but that he and his campaign committee be publicly censured for misleading campaign practices."

MISDEMEANORS

The committee held three public hearings in Detroit and three meetings in Lansing before coming to the decision.

Hogan said witnesses before the committee alleged that Walton violated five election laws, all of which were misdemeanors, and that the committee believes that Walton or his campaign committee were guilty of some of the charges.

"However," his report stated, "since all the alleged election law violations were only misdemeanors and the penalties set forth by the legislature were minor in nature, the committee does not feel these many violations taken together would be enough to recommend the unseating."

Hogan said the committee did uncover a number of misleading election practices followed throughout the state, particularly in Wayne County.

The committee is recommending that legislation be enacted to curtail misleading advertising in campaign literature with a tendency to deceive the public into thinking a candidate is an officer when he is not.

the law more clearly define what must appear in a candidate's expense and receipt statements—only funds which actually pass through a candidate's hands or those he has authorized.

Tony Curtis Defends Actors Taking Refuge in Producing

BY JAMES BACON
AP Movie/Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — "Who's more qualified to run an asylum than the nuts in it? Who knows an asylum's problems better than a nut?"

That's Tony Curtis, actor turned production boss, talking.

The occasion was a news conference at Harrah's Club, a Nevada gambling casino on Lake Tahoe's south shore. The clink of the slot machines and the laments of the dice players could be heard in the background.

Reason for the unusual setting was the premier of Curtis Enterprises' first movie "40 Pounds of Trouble," much of which was shot around Harrah's. Tony plays a casino boss in the movie.

CHANGES HAT

Tony sounded like a producer for much of the conference until a newsman recalled the lament of a studio tycoon was said actors taking over production chores is like "the inmates taking over the asylum."

After that Tony talked like an actor.

"Whenever you read that an actor like Marlon Brando is balking on a picture, you can bet either one of two things has happened—either there is no script or the script that is being used for shooting is nothing like the script that the actor signed to do."

"Look at Marlon. He took the rap for what were strictly studio boo-boos. MGM sent all those people to Tahiti in the height of the rainy season for 'Mutiny on the Bounty' and there was no script."

Curtis told of his problems with the same studio over the script "The Lady L" which he was to have made with Gina Lollobrigida.

"I was given a first script and signed to do the movie. The script then was rewritten 12 times—the final script nowhere as good as the first and entirely different in concept than the part I had signed to do."

I never was consulted on the changes and when shooting was scheduled, I was handed a script I didn't want to do. I balked and even had my lawyer tell the studio that we would sue. Some 20 minutes after we threatened suit, the studio settled with me. The script was a disaster and hasn't been done yet."

Tony gives a more bread-and-butter reason for actors turning producers.

Red Pony Cart Driven Loaded Through Light

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Arthur Longman has been ordered to appear in Municipal Court next Wednesday on a charge of drunken driving—in a red cart hitched to a team of ponies.

Police arrested Longman, 52, Tuesday night. They said the ponies galloped through a red light and hit a passing car.

Neither Longman nor his passenger, Viede M. Tolle, 38, was hurt.

But one pony was knocked unconscious. Longman is a livery stable hand.

Red is the most common color of poinsettias, but there are also white, yellow and pink varieties.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Operators of scheduled air service in light airplanes banded together yesterday in a new organization, the National Association of Third Level Airlines.

The plan to work for the formal establishment of a new level of air service below those of the 11 trunk airlines and 20 local service airlines—a system to feed traffic to and from small towns and airports that cannot qualify for scheduled service under current rules.

Serving on the board of directors is Ross E. Miller, Tag Airlines, Detroit.

Heart, circulatory diseases, cancer and accidents, in that order, account for four out of five deaths of Americans.

Trench Coat Romance's Thing of the Past

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (AP)—As anyone who watches old movies on television can tell you, the badge of the newspaper business is a trench coat.
Not just any trench coat, of course. It needs to be a dirty old trench coat with a few holes in it, preferably bullet holes.
A trench coat is not really broken in until its wearer has covered a couple of revolutions, exposed a spy ring under the very nose of the FBI and solved an old kidnap case, thus freeing an innocent man from prison.
The coat must have a collar that can be turned up while a reporter is waiting on a fog-shrouded bridge for a rendezvous with a mysterious lady in black.

And it must have a belt that he can use to lower himself from a balcony when he is foiling an assassination plot against the prime minister of a small but strategic country in the Balkans.
Some women do not understand this. My wife, for instance, noting that my trench coat was looking a bit runchy, sprang to the conclusion that it was merely worn out.
She did not realize that a trench coat, like wine and cheese, mellow with age, gradually acquiring a sort of patina, or crust, that gives it a distinctive color and aroma.
It was her lack of appreciation on this point that drew my attention to an alarming situation. The trench coat, like the bison and the whooping crane, is in danger of becoming extinct.

I learned of this recently when my wife revealed that she had intended to buy me a new trench coat for Christmas but had been unable to find one at any of the stores in our community.
At first, I thought nothing of it, putting it down as merely additional evidence of the provincialism of suburban merchants. But I was unable to dismiss it entirely from my mind.
Finally, I made a tour of some of the downtown stores to investigate the matter first hand. It tended to confirm my fears. Trench coats have virtually disappeared from the racks.
"I haven't seen a coat like that in 12 years," one clothier told me when I described the garment I was seeking.
What the stores now mainly stock are single-breasted coats with narrow collars and lapels, sans belts and epaulets. I tried one on and it changed my image completely. Made me look like a second echelon bureaucrat, for Pete's sake.

Unless something is done to preserve our identities, we newspapermen may have to go back to wearing press cards in our hats.

Workers Quit Due to Height

BOSTON (AP)—Carpenters in Boston reportedly are turning down work on the 52-story Prudential Tower which is under construction — because of its height.
Ira W. Martin, executive member of the Massachusetts State Labor Council said Wednesday carpenters in Greater Boston haven't had much recent experience in high building work.
A spokesman for Perini-Walsh, prime contractor for the 52-story building, said 15 carpenters have been imported from Canada who don't mind the height.

By OSWALD JACOBY
The late P. Hal Sims claimed spades was his lucky suit.
This was a sensible superstition. Spades should be everyone's lucky suit.
Hal had a definite allergy about being shut out of bidding his spade suits, but at the same time he was one of the first ridge players to realize that you should not open the bidding with a four card spade suit any time you could start proceedings with a minor.
On the other hand, Hal was not afraid to bid a four card spade suit at a high level if it seemed that his partner was likely to have spades with him.

Hal held the South hand in a rubber bridge game and I was his fortunate partner. Obviously, East's jump to four hearts would not shut that fine South hand out of the bidding, but I rather fear that most players would make the apparently proper bid of five clubs. Not Hal!

He bid four spades! East surely was short in spades. Maybe West would also. In that case North would hold enough spades to make Hal's venture a success.
Of course, if West had doubled four spades the chances are that Hal would have run to his club suit, but West elected to pass and open the king of diamonds.
Hal had to lose the ace of spades and one trick in each red suit, but that left enough tricks for game and rubber.

Actress Is Starry-Eyed; Had Dinner With JFKs

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Carol Channing and George Burns may have simmered down by now—but they were up in the clouds for days—they had an intimate dinner with President Kennedy and Jackie in the little family dining room on the second floor of the White House to which very few get invited.

WILSON

"It was very funny," Carol will tell you breathlessly. "My husband"—Charles Lowe—"and I were already having dinner at 6:30 Saturday night at our hotel with a Washington friend when we got the invitation by phone.

"We were asked to come at a quarter of 8. Our Washington friend said 'This is a command! Forget this dinner. Drop everything and go!'

"I had to press my own dress . . . the valet shop was closed. When George Burns heard about it, he said 'Shall we go?' He was scared, too. I haven't been so scared since my first day of school!

"There just the two of them . . . the President was sitting in his rocking chair when we came in . . .

There was steak with "delicious Bernaise sauce" and mashed potatoes—"and we dipped our fingers in the finger bowls"—and the Kennedys were talking to them about show business. And about the big fund-raising show they'd done the night before.

"Jackie's eyes just danced when we talked about show business!" Carol says.

Carol and her husband flew back to NY after the dinner but Carol hardly needed a plane.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Maurice Chevalier, here for his one-man show starting Monday informed us he pronounces it "Morris"—not "Mo-reece" . . . Embarrassing Moments: I said "Hello, Julia," to the pretty commercialist of the Ed Sullivan show, thinking it was Julia Meade, and the gal said: "I'm not Julia—I'm Barbara Britton—but you're forgiven. Everybody is confused about us!" . . . Dinah Shore keeps contending that the friendship with Palm Springs tennis pro Morris Smith isn't headin' for a wedding . . . A cab driver asked "Do you know the Kim Sisters?" (the Korean talents at the Latin Quarter) "What beautiful legs! I stared so hard when they got out of the cab, I almost forgot to ask for a fare."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: An Irish colleen was dancing with the local flatterer who whispered, "I could dance like this forever." She sweetly replied, "Oh, don't be so pessimistic. You would be sure to improve!"

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "It was as illegible as a doctor's prescription written with a post office pen in the rumble seat of a second-hand car."

EARL'S PEARLS: "Bigamy," says Hank Grant, "is proof that two rites can make a wrong." Cornelius Ryan, author of "The Longest Day," has said: "My first novel sold only 900 copies. That was the number of friends my mother had." . . . That's earl, brother.

Helicopter Has Big Future Ahead For It

WASHINGTON—A slowpoke in the field of aviation, the helicopter may yet become a magic carpet for commoners as well as kings.

Though the improbable machine performs tasks its inventors never dreamed of, it wobbled through infancy and did not come into its own until after World War II.

Only 10,000 or so helicopters have been built in this country.

Regularly scheduled passenger service is available in merely four cities—New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Only San Francisco's helicopter line operates without a government subsidy.

The problem is a familiar one—money. Helicopters are complex mechanisms, expensive to run and maintain. An experimental giant designed to lift a 15-ton payload cost its builder four million dollars.

Hopefully, however, the helicopter industry foresees an economic breakthrough with turboprops which are now in production. Less complicated than their piston-engine predecessors, the Turbo-jets are expected to cut operational costs in half.

They may revive an abandoned postwar prophecy: "A helicopter in every back yard."

Despite its relatively short span of success, the helicopter has a long history. Leonardo da Vinci dreamed of building one in the 15th century. Many designers owed their lives to the fact that their contraptions never budged from the ground.

Both Alexander Graham Bell and Thomas Edison experimented with rotary-wing flight.

It was Igor Sikorsky, however, who had the notion that he could build a craft able to fly straight sideways, or hover stock-still.

Finally, in 1939, Sikorsky demonstrated the first truly practical helicopter in the United States. Exclaimed a wide-eyed mechanic: "It's the biggest darn lie I ever saw!"

The first Sikorsky whirlybird destined for useful work rose from Bridgeport, Conn., in 1942 for delivery to the Army Air Corps. Coast Guardsmen carried out the first of innumerable mercy missions in 1944. The Navy received its first production-line helicopter in 1946, and the first commercial helicopter license was issued the same year.

WAR SPURS TESTING

The Korean War spurred the testing and development of helicopters. Marine craft airlifted 60,000 men and 7½ million tons of cargo over rugged terrain.

The machine's reliability and versatility wrote a new chapter in military history. American pilots did everything but turn their 'copters upside down and use the blades against enemy ground troops.

Meanwhile, the helicopter was proving a jack-of-all-peacetime-trades. An obvious rescue and

State Funeral Today for Top Pakistani

DACCA, Pakistan (AP) — A state funeral was planned today for Mohammed Ali, pro-Western foreign minister of Pakistan, with burial following at Bogra, his home town.

Ali died unexpectedly yesterday of a coronary thrombosis, clotting of the arteries from the heart. He was 53. His two wives, three sons and one daughter were at his bedside when he died.

Too Poor to Pay Taxes

Refuse to Indict 2 From North in Dixie

CLARKSDALE, Miss. (AP) — The Cahoma County grand jury refused Tuesday to indict two former Michigan State University students charged with violation of the state narcotics act.

Ivanhoe Donaldson, 21, of New York and Benjamin Taylor, 21, of Camden, N.Y., were arrested shortly after Christmas while bringing clothes and foodstuffs to destitute Delta Negroes.

City police, who found the two sleeping in a station wagon in front of a drug store owned by state NAACP President Aaron Henry, said barbiturates were included in the shipment.

County Atty. T. H. (Babe) Pearson said "The case was presented to the jury and they returned a no-trial bill. That's all there is to it."

Gives Birth to Quints but All 5 Infants Die

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A Greek Moslem woman gave birth to quintuplets, but the infants — three boys and two girls — died soon after, police in the northern Greek town of Komotini said today.

Aise Askisoglu Sali, 28, gave birth to the first four at home two days ago with the assistance of a midwife, the police said. The fifth child was born after the woman was transferred to a hospital in Komotini.

Area Attorney Named Counsel Gets Legal Position With Senate Group

LANSING — Dale Winnie, 37, of 135 Chewton St., Bloomfield Township, Tuesday, was named legal counsel for the Senate Judiciary Committee headed by Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Oakland County.

Winnie's appointment was confirmed by the Senate after his nomination by the committee.

Campaign manager for both Roberts and Rep. Henry M. Hogan Jr., R-Bloomfield Township last fall, Winnie is an attorney with offices in Birmingham.

Winnie is a member of the executive committee of the Oakland County Republican party. Winnie has been mentioned as a possible candidate for Hogan's 3rd District House seat if Hogan decides to try for the Senate.

Hogan is said to be interested in Roberts' Senate post if Roberts should decide to seek election to the U.S. Congress in a new 19th Congressional district. Such a district might be established this year in the county.

Republican County Clerk-Register Daniel T. Murphy also has been mentioned as a potential candidate for the new Congressional seat.

Clampdown on Deductions Surprise of Tax Message

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy asked Congress today to recapture about a fifth of his proposed $11-billion tax cut for individuals by clamping drastic limits on deductions.

His proposal would limit deductions for such things as home mortgage interest, contributions, medical expenses and local taxes.

Only that portion of the total amount which exceeds 5 per cent of the taxpayer's income could be deducted.

The sweeping nature of the plan was the surprise element in a 12,500-word message in which Kennedy spelled out his anxiously awaited request for a three-step reduction in personal and corporate tax rates.

The President urged Congress to cut taxes by $3.2 billion this year as the first step toward an eventual 18 per cent slash in the average American's tax bill.

He asked that the 1963 cuts be made retroactive to Jan. 1.

However, the pocketbook effect on individuals would only come if and when a new tax law was enacted and employers began withholding less tax money from paychecks.

Kennedy assumes, perhaps optimistically, that this can be done by July 1.

Proposed tax savings, to be parceled out over a three-year period, would go as high as 39

County Dems Blast Con-Con Supporters

Oakland County Democrats last night threatened to expose as "mere shams" the programs of groups promoting passage of the proposed new state constitution "under the guise of nonpartisanship."

More than 200 party faithful went on record against the document at their county convention in Pontiac.

They elected 184 delegates to the Feb. 2 state convention.

They also approved a resolution questioning the motives behind reported plans to add three new judgeships in the county.

Their resolution against the new constitution listed eight specific objections as "but a few of its many faults." The action followed criticism of the document by Secretary of State James M. Hare in his keynote address.

Hare blasted Republicans for saying the new constitution should be passed despite its failure to provide for fair apportionment of the State Senate.

"That's like saying the patient has cancer but all his minor diseases have been cured," Hare said.

"MUST DEFEAT IT" "The bad things so outweigh the good that we must do all we can to defeat it," he said.

Concerning possible new judgeships for the county, the Democrats asked that the matter be given a thorough study.

They said the needs of the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Legislators OK Short Session

Agree With Romney;
to Adjourn April 26

LANSING (AP) — The legislature has agreed it will hold a short, snappy, winter - spring session in line with the suggestion of Gov. George Romney.

A Senate - approved resolution calling for adjournment April 26 passed through the House on a voice vote yesterday without even an official whimper of protest from Democrats.

This will still mean calling a special session next fall to consider tax reform and any other controversial measures left over from the short session.

The Senate saw a heated round of debate on the issue before it was passed 21-10 on strict party lines. In contrast, all was peaceful and quiet — at least on the surface — in the House.

The House Rules and Resolutions Committee reported out the adjournment resolution favorably and the membership agreed to suspend rules to take immediate action. The resolution passed by voice vote without a single dissenter.

HOPES FOR ACCORD

Rep. Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, House Democratic leader, rose to say he hoped this meant there would be quick agreement on a "coalition program" between the governor's office and Democrats.

Kowalski was asked what he meant by coalition program — if there was some working agreement going.

Couple of Sports Get an Icy Dunking

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — "Maybe we shouldn't have been skidding on the ice . . . but I've done it before," said Harold Neylund. "I just didn't know the crack was there."

Deputies said Harold and his brother Homer got an icy dunking yesterday when their station wagon broke through the ice on Liberty Lake and sank in 20 feet of water.

"When the car started sinking," said Homer, "I opened the door and crawled out and helped Harold. I left on the car lights so I could find it later. After all, I paid $800 for the car last week."

Deputies said the two had been spinning the car around on the ice.

Homer is 61. Harold is 62.

per cent for nearly 10 million low-income house-holders. At the upper end of the incomescale, the average cut would be 9 per cent.

'SHOOT IN THE ARM'

The Kennedy program, aimed at squirting fiscal adrenalin into the economic bloodstream, would combine $13.6 billion of individual and corporate rate cuts with $3.4 billion of revenue-raising changes in time-honored special tax benefits. The net tax reduction thus would be $10.2 billion.

And Kennedy cautioned that if any of the revenue-raising changes were rejected or watered down by Congress, there should be corresponding adjustments in the rate cuts so that this net reduction would not be exceeded.

In seeking revision of benefit provisions, Kennedy called for the most sweeping overhaul of the basic tax law in more than 20 years.

His proposals would affect itemized deductions, oil depletion allowances, capital gains taxes, sick pay benefits and a variety of other entrenched items claiming strong support.

Plugging for early action on this, has top priority legislation for the year, Kennedy said.

"Our economy is checkreined today by a war-born tax system at a time when it is far more in need of the spur than the bit."

And he said his program represents the very spur needed to boost employment, put more money into circulation and, eventually, put enough revenue into the federal Treasury to balance the soaring budget.

Orders Quiz on Build-Up in Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse has ordered an immediate Senate investigation into reports of a new round-the-clock Soviet military build-up in Cuba. State Department officials will be the first to appear before the Oregon Democrat's Latin-American Affairs subcommittee when the inquiry gets under way Saturday.

A massive Soviet arms buildup in Cuba last year precipitated a major East-West crisis. But following an agreement with President Kennedy, Soviet Premier Khrushchev ordered the removal of offensive missiles and jet bombers and tensions eased.

Since then the administration has maintained a reassuring attitude. Just two weeks ago Secretary of State Dean Rusk was quoted as having told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he was convinced all Soviet missiles and bombers classed as offensive had been removed.

Baby, You'll Freeze Out There—Stork

By DICK SAUNDERS

It was so cold last night that even the stork flew south. At least that's the opinion of Pontiac General Hospital.

As of 11 a.m. today, there hadn't been a baby born there since shortly before 1 p.m. Wednesday — an unusual lapse for a hospital that delivered more than 3,000 last year.

On the other hand, there haven't been any frostbite cases reported in the emergency department.

There were troubles, though. Some 20 cars of employees refused to start and remained in the hospital lot all night.

About 100 hospital employees couldn't get to work because of car trouble today.

Many Pontiac residents got nothing but a busy signal calling for taxi cabs this morning and ended up walking or just staying home.

Rock salt on icy streets was about as helpful as pebbles on a marble-top table.

Normally busy city streets were deserted almost before dark last night as residents scurried home to spend the night indoors.

It wasn't a very good business night for drive-in theaters, either.

Cold Doesn't Daunt Woman Camper

CLARE (UPI) — Snow and 30-below-zero temperatures have failed to dishearten Mrs. Lavina Radabaugh, the Wayne housewife who is camping out for eight days to win a $150 bet.

Mrs. Radabaugh left her cedar swamp encampment northeast of here for a brief time yesterday to catch some trout from a nearby lake.

The spunky 47-year-old woman has been padding out her meat ration of four steaks and one pound of bacon with fish since she entered the woods last Friday afternoon.

A record-breaking cold snap today closed schools in the Pontiac area, caused thousands of people to be late for work, and was responsible for a temporary shut-down of operations at a Pontiac plant.

The lowest temperature on record for this date, 15 degrees below zero was recorded downtown last night. But the U.S. Weather Bureau predicts a "warming" trend is on its way.

Today's high should reach six degrees above zero, with a low of 4 above predicted for tonight.

The "heat wave" should be in full swing Friday with a high of 15 predicted under mostly cloudy skies, accompanied by some light snow.

The Automobile Club of Michigan office in Pontiac reported the worst rash of calls for road service in its history.

As of noon, the AAA was running as much as eight hours behind on service calls, with most stations at least three to five hours behind.

At 4 a.m. today the Pontiac Press weather station recorded a low of 15 below zero.

The lowest previous temperature recorded by the Weather Bureau for this date was 7 below in 1897.

This followed a record-shattering low of 14 below recorded by The Press just before midnight. The lowest previous temperature recorded for Jan. 23 in the Detroit area since 1872 was 6 below in 1930.

Coldest reading reported today in the county was 21 below at 6 a.m. at the Commerce Township Fire Station. Other county readings ranged from 15 to 20 below.

PLANT SHUTS DOWN

Absenteeism caused Fisher Body Plant to shut down its Tempest body system on the first shift this morning.

Many of the workers on the Tempest system were used to fill gaps in manpower on the Pontiac body system, with the surplus sent home. Operations were expected to return to normal on the second shift.

Pontiac Motor Division reported absenteeism ranged from 8 to 10 per cent above normal early today. Absentees were eight per cent over normal at GMC Truck & Coach Division.

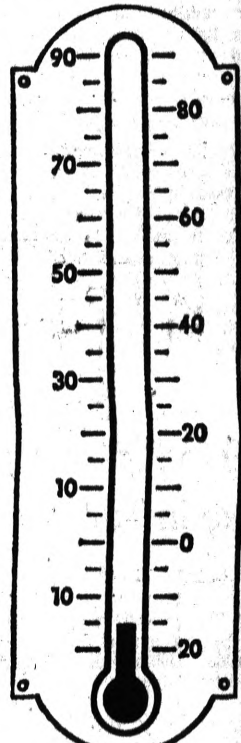

18 AT AIRPORT

At 7:50 a.m. a spokesman at the Pontiac Municipal Airport control tower reported an official reading of 18 below.

There was a traffic tie-up on South Saginaw Street at 8 a.m. when a Grand Trunk Western Railroad freight train was stranded on a crossing for nearly 30 minutes.

The rear section of the train remained across the street causing traffic to be rerouted because a coupling on one of the cars broke.

Officials attributed the break to the cold.

Worst Chill of Century Moves South

From Our News Wires

The century's worst cold wave smashed South today, shattering temperature records, closing schools and resulting in the deaths of more than 140 persons.

Low temperature records that have stood since before the turn of the century were shattered.

Damage to grazing crops across the southland ran into thousands of dollars and Florida citrus growers girdled for another cold siege.

Louisville, Ky., reported 19.8 degrees below zero at 6:31 a.m., the lowest temperature ever recorded there. The previous mark was 19.5 below in 1884.

Atlanta thermometers plunged to -3 degrees shortly before dawn — the first time this southern city has suffered subzero temperatures since Feb. 13, 1899, when the mercury dropped to 6.5 below. A zero reading was recorded Jan. 6, 1924.

Lack of Fuel Is Critical in Europe

From Our News Wires

LONDON — Critical fuel shortages were reported today all over western Europe, refrigerated since Christmas by a cold wave which in some places was one of the worst in nearly 300 years.

Communist-held eastern Europe also had its difficulties. Snow-smothered Bulgaria proclaimed a state of emergency. East Germany closed nonessential factories and drafted employees for emergency service as miners, truck drivers and power workers.

Southern Europe's worst winter in a decade continued full force, leaving nearly 50 persons dead in Italy, Yugoslavia and Greece.

The freeze isolated hundreds of mountain communities in Italy and northern Greece and piled up unaccustomed snowdrifts in southern Italy as it spread along the Mediterranean to Turkey.

Italy counted 20 dead, Greece 3 and Yugoslavia 25 in the recent days of extreme cold. Hundreds of cattle and other livestock also have perished.

Won't Budge on Mart Stand

French Cabinet Still Wants Britain Out

PARIS (U)—The French cabinet refused to budge today from its position that negotiations with Britain for entry into the European Common Market should be ended—at least for now.

A statement by a cabinet spokesman after a meeting seemed to slam the door on continuation of the talks in Brussels, scheduled for resumption next Monday.

The spokesman, Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte, told newsmen after the cabinet meeting:

"France believes she has no reason to go back on her position taken at Brussels. We can't see at present how the negotiation can be resumed."

The minister was referring to last week's Common Market session in Brussels where France asked for an end to talks on British entry into the six-nation customs union.

Referring to the treaty of Rome establishing the common market the spokesman said:

"If Britain wants to sign this treaty with the desire to apply it, we would be very happy. But you know there are not only technical difficulties there are also political difficulties."

Thus he restated the tough position taken by President Charles de Gaulle last week.

De Gaulle said that because of commonwealth responsibilities, Britain was not ready to make the adjustments needed in its economy to join the common market. He suggested an associate membership.

Peyrefitte's statement noted that France sees no objections to a proposal by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to toss the knotty problem to the Common Market executive commission.

But France feels that this will not resolve the basic objections it sees to British entry.

Among them were the men identified as ring leaders of the plot: former Tunisian resistance hero Lazhar Chraïti, Maj. Abdel Sadok Ben Said and Hedi Gafsi.

'Frenchman Fights History'

Leader Gaulling U.S.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Worried U.S. officials claim that French President Charles de Gaulle is trying to turn back the clock of history with his plan to unify Western Europe under French leadership without close British and American ties.

The main thrust of U.S. diplomacy within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in coming months, informants said, will be directed toward trying to prevent the new de Gaulle agreement with German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer from becoming the basis for a European system dominated by France.

President Kennedy faces the delicate problem at his news conference late today of making clear the U.S. position on the allied situation without hardening the split in the alliance if he can avoid it.

Hearing for Milton Henry Is Switched to Tuesday

The Municipal Court examination of City Commissioner Milton Henry on charges of felonious assault and malicious destruction has been rescheduled for Tuesday.

Judge Cecil McCallum granted the postponement late yesterday afternoon when it became evident that very little testimony could be taken before the court adjourned for the day.

The delay was caused by two long preceding examinations that took the better part of the day.

The first was on a murder charge against Frank Griffin, 33, of 200 Raeburn St. The charge was dismissed for insufficient proof.

county rather than "political considerations" should be paramount in determining when the state legislature should create them.

Reported plans of Republican leaders to move quickly to create new judgeships so that Gov. George Romney "would be certain to be able to appoint the new judges" were declared "clearly contradictory" to the GOP's stand on the new constitution.

Under the new constitution, the governor would not have appointment power to fill court vacancies.

State Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Oakland County, said today he will introduce a bill calling for two new circuit judgeships in the county.

Chances for approval of one, however, are considered better than for two.

A new probate judgeship also has been mentioned, but indications are it will not be requested this year.

Hare described the Democratic party's role during the next two years as the "loyal opposition" voicing its disagreement with a Republican governor and legislature and making sure Republican actions "follow their words."

New A-Plan Approved for Italians

ROME (UPI)—The government today gave its approval to a new atomic strategy believed to be the withdrawal of land-based U.S. Jupiter missiles from Italy and their replacement with Polaris missile submarines.

The decision was contained in a communique which said Premier Amintore Fanfani's government had approved "the proposed criteria for the modernization of the arms of the (NATO) alliance."

The communique was issued following a cabinet session. It did not go into further detail.

But it was clear it referred to the long-suspected withdrawal of U.S. Jupiter missiles from Italian soil and their replacement with sea-based Polaris missiles.

Fanfani is expected to make an official announcement to this effect to Parliament sometime Saturday.

By that time, he is expected to have won a vote of approval over a Communist-submitted motion of no confidence.

Italy is debating the issue now, with Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti calling on the chamber of deputies to overthrow Fanfani's badly split center-left coalition government.

The Reds are threatening mass demonstrations against the Polaris if it comes here.

Italy is the second NATO nation to announce the withdrawal of land-based missiles. Turkey yesterday announced the substitution of Polaris missiles for land-based Jupiters, although no confirmation has yet come from Washington.

WASHINGTON (U)—President Kennedy will meet with the presidents of the Central American republics and Panama in San Jose, Costa Rica, on March 18, 19 and 20, the White House announced today.

At the same time it is understood that he wants to leave no doubt in the minds of European leaders opposed to De Gaulle's aims that they have full U.S. support in trying to create a different kind of Europe.

While the State Department declined comment Wednesday on the Adenauer-De Gaulle treaty for French-German cooperation just concluded in Paris, Kennedy and Undersecretary of State George W. Ball welcomed the opportunity to pay tribute Wednesday night to another French leader, Jean Monnet. He has worked for many years for European unity set within a partnership with the United States.

Kennedy in a letter praised Monnet as a man who was in fact uniting Europe through the force of a constructive idea.

Ball, who spoke at a dinner in New York where Monnet was honored, described the present as "a time of crisis" and clearly implied how the Washington government feels about De Gaulle's policies.

Ball said that Monnet has recognized that history is not static and that events must be directed toward meeting the needs "of an evolving new age."

"He has, therefore, never been tempted into the unhappy error—induced by a nostalgic longing for a world that never was—of seeking to recapture the past," Ball said.

The United States for more than a decade has supported the efforts of Monnet and other European leaders, including Adenauer, to forge economic strength and political cooperation in Western Europe to a degree which the continent had never known in the past.

More recently the United States has thrown its strength and prestige behind the drive to get Britain into the European Common Market along with the countries on the continent, and to form a nuclear striking force under the North Atlantic alliance as a means of discouraging the development of national nuclear forces.

Within the past two weeks De Gaulle has undertaken to block British membership in the Common Market completely, though he said that Britain might enter the organization some years from now.

Yale Woolen Mills, the only industry in this eastern Michigan community, has closed down, ending 300 jobs and an annual payroll of $1 million.

The announcement yesterday by the firm appeared to mean this community of 1,600 residents will return to what it was before the mills were founded here in 1881—a farming community.

"We did a lot of soul searching before deciding we simply had to close down," said Robert E. Andrae, secretary-treasurer of the firm.

"The bottom's been dropping out of the wool and textile industry for years."

The Kelleys gave some $4-million worth of water and sewer mains to Lathrup Village after it was incorporated as a city in 1953.

Mrs. Kelley lived with her husband at 27701 Southfield Road, Lathrup Village.

Allegan, Ottawa and Van Buren county road commissions last night urged rural residents to lay in supplies of food, medicine and fuel to last from two days to one week.

The warning was issued because road conditions made it impossible to continue normal traffic.

The commissions emphasized that rural residents should not become alarmed and that road crews would continue working around the clock battling drifts along the lakeshore areas.

Gaitskell's Loss Upsets British Politics

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

Among British political opinion and London newspapers alike the reaction to the death of Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell seemed unanimous.

Said the conservative Sunday Telegraph:

"It is a measure of Mr. Gaitskell's stature that his death has reduced the whole future of British politics to speculation."

The Sunday Express said that never before in modern British political history had the loss of a single leader dealt such a blow to a major party.

For Gaitskell was not only the helmsman of the Labor party, he was also in many ways the designer of its present mould.

He had modified the party's program of nationalization for British industry, he had overcome left-wing demands for Ban-the-Bomb and Britain's unilateral disarmament and by sheer persistence led his party to the point where public opinion polls gave it 44.5 per cent of the vote and labelled him Britain's next prime minister.

He had described himself as a poor hater, yet he was able to take on the flamboyant Nye Bevan, a better hater than most, and defeat him in 1955 for the party leadership.

'QUIET MAN'

A quiet man, he could be goaded to anger.

In Glasgow, followers of the Committee for Nuclear Disarmament attempted to disrupt a party rally which Gaitskell was addressing.

Snapped Gaitskell:

"Go and see what it is like to deal with Soviet police and Soviet tanks like the Hungarian people."

Gaitskell came from a middle-class family, the son of a civil servant. He never walked in a picket line, yet early decided that "My future belongs to the working class."

He became a don at London University, and in the Labor landslide of 1945 began a meteoric rise in government. All of this without flash or color, but as an intellectual.

It is the image created by Gaitskell's success that now creates the greatest problems for those who must follow him.

The party platform was Gaitskell's own. Whether British voters will accept his successor as the creator's image or only as a poor carbon copy still must be determined.

Also to be determined is the real unity of the Labor party, whether it was a fragile thing depending entirely upon Gaitskell or whether Gaitskell was able to leave it with the binding necessary to political victory even though he is gone.

Among possible successors there are two immediately outstanding. One is deputy leader George Brown, a likeable trade unionist who took over in Gaitskell's illness. The other is Harold Wilson, a brilliant man distrusted by some for his ambition.

REPRIEVE FOR MAC?

Ordered to Stop Charging Things to Linda Darnell

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Linda Darnell won a court order Wednesday preventing her husband from running up bills in her name.

Miss Darnell said in an affidavit that husband Merle R. Robertson had charged hundreds of dollars to her phone bills since they separated last July.

She also asked for $1,000 a month alimony but the hearing on that request is pending.

Robertson, an airline pilot, filed for divorce last August, charging cruelty and habitual intemperance.

DON'T WAIT

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer
DETROIT (U) — More than 85 per cent of the new American cars now being sold carry a written warranty against any major defects showing up in the first two years or 24,000 miles of operation.

This is exactly double the warranty on last year's cars and a number of auto dealers are worrying about the extension.

They are concerned that their particular factory, to meet or beat competition, may have rushed into the longer term without proper preparations.

The manufacturers admit the plan will cost them money, at least in its early stages. But they also feel they reimburse their dealers adequately for all expense involved at the retail level.

"It's too soon to tell how much that second year is going to cost us," Lee Iacocca said recently. Iacocca is general manager of Ford Division of Ford Motor Co.

"Sure, we've had 24 months on the Lincoln Continental since 1961 and we've got fleet data. But Ford owners don't always conform to these figures."

Although General Motors was first to announce the extended warranty, Iacocca is an enthusiastic booster of the plan. Ford, American Motors and Studebaker all switched to the "24-24" program in line with GM.

Chrysler chose a different route. It now warrants the power train-engine block, transmission except the clutch, differential and rear axle — for five years or 50,000 miles, provided certain maintenance schedules are observed.

The rest of the car carries the 12-month or 12,000-mile policy which had been the industry standard since Ford junked the old 90-day or 4,000-mile warranty with the 1961 models.

CHRYSLER CONFUSES

Iacocca says the Chrysler program has tended to confuse the warranty picture.

"We have customers who want to know why we don't guarantee our cars for five years. They won't read the fine print."

The Ford executive says the 24-month or 24,000-mile plan will save owners more money than the Chrysler plan. "Remember," he said, "80 per cent of their car is covered for only 12 months."

Chrysler says parts most costly to repair or replace are among those covered for five years.

Iacocca said problems might arise in the second year with such items as fuel pumps, water pumps, generators or electrical systems, all of which are covered under the 24-month warranty. Most of these are not covered in Chrysler's five-year warranty.

The Federal Trade Commission has kept a close watch on all automobile warranty advertising ever since the change to 12 months or 12,000 miles two years ago.

The aim has been to make sure the companies mean what they say. Parts of the car not covered by the warranty must be specified.

These include such things as ignition points, brake or clutch linings, filters and spark plugs.

These tend to wear out in normal use and are regarded as replacement items. Tires are covered under separate warranties by the tire manufacturers.

The auto companies have been careful to specify warranty, rather than guarantee, although dictionaries define the terms as virtually synonymous.

"Guarantee is taboo," Iacocca said, "and a warranty is only as good as the fine print. Actually, a warranty on a cheap watch may only warrant that it is a great watch made in Switzerland. A guarantee seems to imply everything."

Genghis Khan Back in Red China-Tito

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito accused the rulers of Red China Wednesday of following in the footsteps of Genghis Khan, the ruthless 12th century Mongol conqueror of central Asia.

"They would like to throw the entire world into an abyss," without concern that 300 million of their 700-million own people would die in a nuclear war, Tito asserted in a speech to 1,400 delegates at a Yugoslav youth congress.

Old West Blends With Modern

HOUSTON, Texas (UPI) — If your town's got a high-steeped church or a little red schoolhouse that it doesn't need, there's a place in Texas that's hankerin' to get 'em.

It's called Valley Lodge, a bit of suburbia gone backwards, about 35 miles west of Houston.

Valley Lodge is a reincarnation of the Old West and its mode of living—together with a few modern frills, of course, to avoid privation.

The development is built around a 160-acre Western town that belongs to everybody. It's sort of a communal "Tombstone, Ariz." with an Olympic swimming pool on the side.

People ride horses up and down its dusty streets past a saloon, a blacksmith shop, several frontier houses and a jail.

This is where the schoolhouse and the church come in. A. E. (Snake) Bailey, one of the masterminds of Valley Lodge, desperately wants these buildings to complete the town's atmosphere.

So far, he's left nothing stand in the way to give the town a look that would lead one to expect Wyatt Earp might come swaggering down the street any minute.

REASSEMBLED

The buildings have been brought from many parts of Texas. They were torn down, then reassembled in the town.

As Snake tells it in his slow Texas way that blends with the surroundings: "We brought that jail all the way from Sealy, Tex. The one they got there now ain't much better."

Valley Lodge's jail has two rooms with six-inch thick heavy wooden walls, and rusty steel bars on the windows that look like they were made to file through.

Asked if Valley Lodge has ever had to use the jail, Snake replied, "no," slowly—then added that one homeowner was asked to sell his property and get out for violating "a major code of the West."

"He got drunk and abused a lady," Snake said simply.

Valley Lodge has its own sheriff who rides around not on a white charger, but in a late model white sedan with a big red siren on top.

"We got him to keep out people who don't belong here," Snake said.

The town has an old frontier house, two rooms separated by a carriage stall, a rodeo arena, an Olympic swimming pool, a 50-acre lake and a $150,000 clubhouse with a Kodiak bear hanging on the wall in the banquet room.

Is the land around Valley Lodge any good for farming?

"The topsoil goes down 17 feet," Snake said. "It's the best anywhere this side of the Nile Valley."

Yawning Increases Oxygen Reserve

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY
Theoretically, yawning is an unconscious or involuntary effort to increase the oxygen reserve in tissues and cells and reduce the amount of carbon dioxide that accumulates in tissues (blood is a tissue) and cells, when breathing is too shallow.

Most Americans are shallow breathers, for two reasons. First, they lead a sedentary life, preferring to ride even when they might walk, or to sit and watch professionals play or perform, or to hire others to chore for them. Second, they don't know how to breathe.

Avowedly this is all theoretical, but it is consistent with our knowledge of physiology and pathology.

Brisk walking is the best general exercise one can take. It increases the absorption of oxygen and the excretion of carbon dioxide considerably more than just enough to maintain the status quo. It raises basal metabolism. That is why one feels better after a brisk walk.

It is difficult to say whether foul air, boredom or suggestion accounts for epidemic yawning. Perhaps all three factors are concerned. Babies and animals yawn merely to get more oxygen.

Anyway immediate belly breathing is the quickest way to stop yawning. Getting up and opening a window or two, or going outdoors for some fresh air is another way to stop it.

WORKS EFFECTIVELY

A yawn itself is an effort to get more oxygen—and it is effective if not suppressed.

Suppressing a yawn or a sneeze may be good manners but is not good hygiene. It is better, I think, to open the mouth as wide as possible to yawn and to sneeze vigorously when you sneeze (of course, covering the sneeze to prevent spreading any infections to persons near you.)

A yawn is a deep inhalation with mouth wide open—the quickest way to get more air, more oxygen. A sneeze is a forceful exhalation—the quickest way to expel irritants from the upper respiratory tract.

I don't know, but it seems reasonable to think that a hearty sneeze may expel germs or viruses which would otherwise cause rhinitis, pharyngitis, sinusitis, otitis media (middle ear inflammation), mastoiditis, laryngitis or what not.

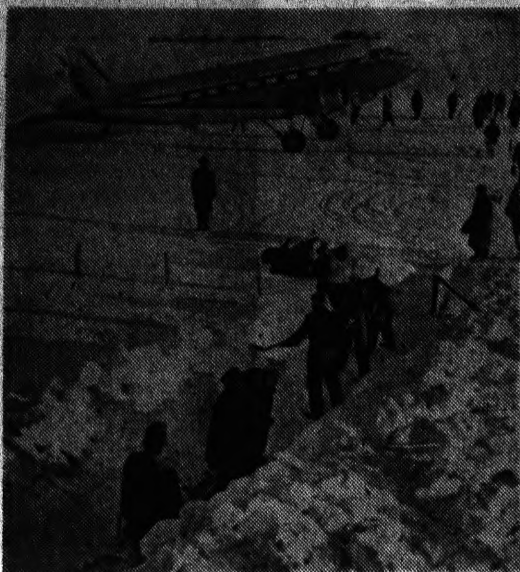

If you don't know how to breathe, you can learn how by studying Little Lesson No. 21, "How to Breathe," for which send me 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. It contains instructions, illustrations, for resuscitation by the mouth-to-mouth and by Schafer's prone-pressure.

If Little Lesson 21 is too steep, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the free No. 17 pamphlet, "Belly Breathing." Belly or bellows breathing is natural breathing, the way animals and savages breathe, the way a sleeping person breathes, the way one breathes under anesthesia. In other words, it is the efficient way.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. (Copyright, 1963)

Moscow Claims Soapy 'Lied'

MOSCOW (UPI)—A Soviet newspaper yesterday charged U.S. Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs G. Mennen Williams with "lying and slanderous concoctions" in alleging Soviet interference in the Congo.

"Whitewashing in every way the American colonialists, Williams tried to lay the blame at the wrong door," the newspaper Trud said.

But lies have short legs. The whole world knows it is precisely the U.S. . . . that rudely intervenes in the domestic affairs of the Congo.

"The main culprits of the Congo tragedy are the monopolies of the U.S.A. and other Western countries," Trud said. "It was they who made the Congo an arena for the struggle of the imperialist monopolies."

Airline Defends Merger Plans

American Tells CAB 'Move to Aid Patrons'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—American Airlines yesterday defended its proposed merger with Eastern Air Lines as a move that will strengthen the air transportation industry for the benefit of present and future passengers.

American, in a brief filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB), said the merger represents "a major step toward solving the problems of the nation's major airlines."

It asked the CAB to reverse the recommendation of examiner Ralph L. Wiser that the consolidation be disapproved.

The brief denied arguments by opponents that the merger would create a monopolistic giant. American said size disparity has never injured any airline.

It added that even if the anti-trust issues raised by other airlines were real, "they do not apply to a regulated industry like the airlines because the CAB alone holds power over airline prices and the routes an airline may serve."

"The opponents called, in effect, for a preservation of the status quo and a bar to progress," American said. "They expressed no concern about the service the public should receive or the fares it should pay."

The brief said the merger would allow American and Eastern to improve their financial condition through large savings. In doing so, it continued, it would improve the financial condition of the entire industry and would "reverse the prevailing trend toward rising fares."

Dog Knows Easy Way to Get Back Home

Governor Jogs Down Street Before Dawn

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney has not given up his early morning constitutional—despite subzero weather and a tight working schedule.

The governor told newsmen he was out before dawn yesterday at his East Lansing home. He shoveled snow from the walk, then jogged up and down the street for about a half-mile.

The temperature was 6 degrees below zero at the time. Romney said he finds less time these days for his early-morning trots but gets out for one whenever he can.

The governor said he thinks anyone can enjoy any kind of weather "just as long as they get out in it."

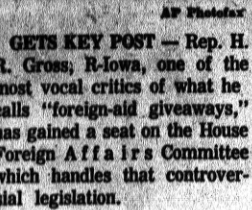

Studebaker Gains Company in Italy

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Studebaker Corp. said yesterday it has purchased Domowatt, S.p.A., a manufacturer of home refrigerators and washers at Leini, Italy, near Turin.

Sherwood Egbert, Studebaker president, said the Franklin Home Appliance Division of Studebaker will supervise the new acquisition and that Kenneth Dawkins of Minneapolis, formerly with Franklin, will become managing director of Domowatt.

Easier Way to Do Basting

When roasting chickens or turkeys, a simple way to keep them basted with no bother is to grease an ordinary brown paper bag, insert the fowl, clip the bag shut with paper clips and place in the oven on a pan of some sort. The steam from the fowl melts the grease on the bag enough to keep the meat moist and tender.

Use Powder to Ease on Gloves

chat with them.

Several days later I called again and invited them to dinner. The evening they were at my house I learned that they are leaving for home in two days.

I expected they would call me to say goodbye before they left, but they did not. Now my daughter tells me I was rude not to have called them the day they were leaving to say goodbye.

Was I wrong, or should they have called me?

A: Ordinarily, the persons leaving telephone to say goodbye to their friends who may not know the date of their departure, but as you knew they were leaving, it would have been polite of you to have telephoned them to say goodbye and wish them a safe journey home.

Q: Aren't sympathy cards which people sometimes send to the bereaved, supposed to be acknowledged? My mother thinks it necessary only to thank for flowers, spiritual bouquets and handwritten notes. She thinks sympathy cards rank with get-well cards and other greeting cards which require no special handwritten acknowledgement.

A: Printed sympathy cards, unlike handwritten notes, need not be acknowledged.

Q: When going to a hotel or restaurant where one's car is parked by an attendant and also brought back again when ready to leave, is it necessary that he be given a tip or is this service included in the price of parking the car? If a tip is necessary, what is the correct amount to give?

A: A tip is customary. Fifty cents is the usual amount.

Q: I have been asked to be the best man at a friend's wedding and I would appreciate your telling me just what expenses I will have. Am I supposed to buy the maid of honor's flowers?

I have had so many different opinions that I am now completely confused.

A: Further than providing your own wedding clothes and giving the bride and groom a wedding present, you incur no expenses.

The flowers carried by the maid of honor as well as the bridesmaids are paid for by the bride's family.
