

Cigarettes Back in Vogue, Sales Show

NEW YORK (AP) — "Most smokers seem to be getting over the cancer scare. After all, most people don't worry about the atom bomb" — a Denver distributor of tobacco products.

"I guess everyone figures he won't be the one to get cancer" — an Atlanta druggist.

"I ask customers about cancer and they say it's for the younger ones to stop smoking. The older generation is a gone anyway" — a Hollywood salesgirl.

Cigarette smoking is back in vogue and these are some of the reasons smokers are giving.

The turnaround began last month and continued through April, a bare three months since a U.S. government report linked cigarette smoking to cancer.

BOOSTED STOCKS

The change has boosted the price of cigarette company stocks, and brightened the sales outlook for manufacturers, whose revenue lagged in the first quarter.

The report also has brought new emphasis on charcoal-filtered brands and what promises to be an entirely new approach to cigarette advertising.

Most experts had expected the report would fail to knockout cigarette smoking since past health scares have had only temporary effects.

But few expected so many smokers to abandon so quickly their intentions to quit or cut down smoking.

A Louisville tobacco retailer, quoting customers, came up with another reason why many regulars resumed smoking so quickly: "We were gaining too much weight."

On Jan. 11 an advisory committee to the surgeon general of the United States branded cigarette smoking as the major cause of lung cancer and a contributing factor to other serious diseases.

The committee recommended appropriate remedial action without elaborating.

A nationwide survey by The Associated Press determined that cigarette sales are back to normal or near normal in most major cities.

Retail and wholesale sales equaling or approaching pre-Jan. 11 levels were reported in Minneapolis, Detroit, Chicago, Albany, San Francisco, Seattle, Dallas, Los Angeles, Raleigh, Atlanta, Boston, Columbia, S.C., Charlotte and Durham, N.C.

$100,000 Blaze Hits Area Firm

Employee Hurt as Fire Rages Over 2 Hours

Several Departments Battle Flames Started by Fumes, Heater

By ROGER SRIGLEY
and PAT McCARTY
Firemen from more than a dozen area departments this morning battled a flash fire which caused over $100,000 damage to a Commerce Township industry.

The blaze also severely burned Cynthia Carr, an employee of Walled Lake Wholesale and Manufacturing Co., where the fire occurred. She was working in the shipping area when the fire started.

The fire was believed to have started when a janitor, Jesse Keels, 445 S. Paddock, accidentally knocked over a can of gasoline and the fumes were ignited by a space heater, according to state police.

Keels was using the gasoline to run a pump, which he was operating to empty a loading dock truck well filled with water.

The flames roared through almost half of the 35,000 square foot building for more than two hours before they were brought under control.

FIREMEN PRAISED
Commerce Township Fire Chief Clarence Kuttikhin praised the estimated 75 men who confined the blaze.

"A water shortage in the beginning was our biggest obstacle," Kuttikhin said. Glass, solvents and paints in the building also hindered the firemen, he noted.

Until sufficient trucks arrived, water was pumped from a nearby swamp by portable pumps.

The firm at 2700 W. Maple, just west of Haggerty, is Reynolds Aluminum distributor for the state.

DAMAGE ESTIMATE
Kuttikhin estimated the damage to the rear of the structure would exceed $100,000.

Cowmer Donald Hoffman said it was fully insured. His partners are Donald Nanny and Joseph A. Hoffman.

Miss Carr, 23, of 6060 Franklin, Bloomfield Township, reportedly was the only person injured in the blaze. Witnesses said she was temporarily trapped in the shipping department office.

Home-State Elections
One-Sidedly Favor 2
GOP Noncandidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, a Massachusetts man, rolled up one-sided victories in home-state preferential primary elections yesterday.

The two men, who have said they will not be candidates for the Republican presidential nomination but would accept it, said they were gratified. In addition, Scranton said he was "astounded."

Lodge, besides holding a write-in vote edge of more than 7 to 1 against his closest competitor in the Massachusetts primary, showed surprising strength in the Pennsylvania primary.

Scranton, in winning the Pennsylvania primary, set a record for write-in votes in the Keystone State. But he fell short of the vote his supporters had hoped for.

In Massachusetts, the unofficial Republican presidential tabulation of 1,375 of 1,678 precincts gave Goldwater 4,623; Lodge 4,490; former Vice President Richard M. Nixon 3,883; Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York 1,642 and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine 300.

The unofficial tally of the Democratic preference poll gave: Johnson 38,099; Kennedy 8,876; Lodge 1,908.

Rights Bill Will Pass—LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told religious leaders who are supporting the civil rights bill that it will be enacted into law "because justice and morality demand it."

"It is your job — as men of God — to awaken the conscience of America," Johnson said as he met with the churchmen today in the east room of the White House.

Present were leaders of the protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish faiths who sponsored at Georgetown University last night a gathering of more than 6,000 people supporting a moral crusade for racial equality.

Johnson said today it is the human dignity," said the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Roman Catholic archbishop of Washington.

Five church leaders dedicated themselves to the crusade at the National Interreligious Convocation on Civil Rights.

WORSHIP SERVICES
On Capitol Hill, Protestant leaders scheduled the first in a series of worship services underscoring their concern about civil rights.

The services will be held daily at the Lutheran Church of the Reformation while the Senate is considering Johnson's broad civil rights bill.

"We feel that this is an issue where moral and spiritual factors should dominate the political process," Rabbi Uri Miller of Baltimore, president of the Synagogue Council of America, told the convocation.

Only a handful of the congressmen the churchmen hope to convince were at the gathering. Among them were the floor managers of the Johnson bill, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Sen. Thomas Kuchel R-Calif.

Rains to Fall; Mercury Up

Occasional light rain will dampen the Pontiac area through tonight. Skies will be partly overcast tomorrow.

Temperatures for the next five days will average about four degrees above the normal high of 64 and normal low of 45.

Rainfall will total one to two-tenths of an inch in showers tonight, and again about Monday.

Viet Troops Seize Cong Arms Factory
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Vietnamese troops overran a Communist arms factory today in their offensive against a sprawling Viet Cong base in the mountains near Do Xa, 300 miles north of Saigon.

A U.S. military spokesman called it a major success.

Rangers closed in on the factory and scared off the guards without firing a shot, the spokesman said. He reported they made a huge haul of arms, mines, ammunition and five tons of rice.

WATER PROJECT STARTS — Waterford Township's $1.5-million water project to interconnect the existing 10 sewer systems got under way yesterday. Township Supervisor James E. Seeler (left) and Kenneth Squiers, water department superintendent, were on hand as main-laying began on M59 at Crescent Lake Road. A total of 135 miles of water mains will be laid.

Freak Mishap Kills Pastor

A Waterford Township minister was killed yesterday when a small piece of steel knifed through his car windshield and penetrated his skull as he was passing a truck on M59 in White Lake Township.

Dead is Rev. Alex H. Kasten, 50, of 3410 Airport, pastor of the Faith Baptist Church in Drayton Plains.

White Lake Township police said Kasten, eastbound on M59 at 12:30 a.m., was overtaking a tractor-trailer when the metal apparently was thrown up from the road by the wheels of the truck.

Commission Okays Freeway Financing

After three years of ups and downs, the proposed $3.9-million M59 freeway extension in Pontiac ended on the "upside" last night.

City commissioners unanimously approved a final agreement between the city and State Highway Department for financing construction of the freeway which will link the perimeter road and I-75 to the east.

Construction is expected to get under way sometime this summer, according to City Engineer Joseph E. Neippling.

Bids will probably be opened late in May on a portion of the freeway from I-75 to the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks near Pontiac's sewage treatment plant.

Bids on the portion from the railroad tracks to the perimeter road are currently scheduled to be opened in August.

The city committed $336,250 from local gas and weight tax revenues to pay the local share of the total project cost.

COST DIVIDED

The state's share is $1,618,750 and the remaining $1,755,000 will be paid from federal funds.

Local officials began crying the freeway project in 1961 and the state, then, scheduled it to coincide with perimeter road construction.

In January 1962 the state said it would be delayed until after 1967 due to a lack of funds.

Following a series of local appeals, the state announced in May 1963 that the freeway would be scheduled to start in the summer of 1965.

Then, commissioners decided to delay improvements on the Clinton River east of Union due to excessive costs. The work involved freeway crossings over the river and some relocation of the channel.

Thus, the freeway was put off another year.

The project involves extending East Huron as a one-way eastbound leg and the use of Mt. Clemens as one-way westbound between Paddock and the perimeter road.

The two would meet at Paddock and become a four-lane, divided, limited access freeway east to I-75.

LBJ Considers Western Tour

'Nonpolitical' Junket
Could Include Hawaii

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, who has a fondness for grasping voters' hands, is being urged to make a Western inspection tour in May or June that could take him as far as Hawaii.

For a president who wishes to preserve as long as possible the pleasant fiction that he isn't campaigning, tours of this kind offer a chance to get out and meet the people where they live. Johnson has said he wants to hold down political activity until after the party nominating conventions.

These trips are always billed as nonpolitical expeditions, on which the country's head man is seeing for himself how matters are progressing at the grass roots.

This usually results in futile outcries from the opposition that the chief executive is politicking at the taxpayers' expense. But such complaints are mostly for the record and even their authors expect little public reaction to them.

Irene Weds Her Prince

ROME (AP)—Princess Irene of the Netherlands and Prince Carlos of Bourbon-Parma were married today in a wedding boycotted by the Dutch royal family, opposed by the Dutch government and ignored by Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Spanish regime.

The headstrong Dutch princess and the Carlist pretender to the Spanish throne exchanged vows in the Burgheese chapel of Rome's Basilica of St. Mary Major before Paolo Cardinal to the Netherlands.

The chapel was filled with titled nobility, supporters of the Carlist cause and Dutch visitors to Rome. But no ruling member of a royal house was present, and Franco sent no representative.

Irene's parents, Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard, and her three sisters remained in Holland because the Dutch government did not want the royal family involved in the contest for the Spanish throne.

NOT ESTRANGED
But the queen was not estranged from her second daughter. Three hours before the ceremony, she received a telephone call from Irene and talked to her for nine minutes.

Irene's wedding dress of white silk, trimmed with Dutch lace, has been a Dutch royal heirloom for generations, reportedly was a gift from Juliana.

Despite the furor caused in the Netherlands by Irene's public espousal of the Carlist cause and her conversion to Roman Catholicism, editorialists in Dutch papers wished her luck.

Premier Vic Marjinen told the Dutch Senate his government would support the "birds of warm love between the prince and her parents will be restored" and that "the marriage will give her what she is expecting from it."

But Marjinen said that because of the wedding, "the constitutional position of the Princess Irene in our midst has now come to an end." The princess renounced her right of succession to the throne to marry Carlos.

WALKS WITH GROOM
Irene walked down the long central aisle of the church with her bridegroom.

They were followed by his parents, Prince Xavier and Princess Magdalena of Bourbon-Parma; the Portuguese pretender, the Duke of Braganza; Prince and Princess Edouard of Lohkowsky of Austria; Princesses Maria Teresa, and

Maria de las Nieves, his sisters; Prince Luis of Bourbon-Parma, Don Carlos' uncle; Count Jaime de Bourbon-Russe; the Countess of Gontaut-Biron; Count Robert de Montebello; Miss Quilley Lamart Trip, a Dutch friend of the bride; Prince Heinrich Stahmer of Austria and Princess Chantal de Bourbon.

The organ boomed out the Wilhelmus, the Dutch national anthem. Scores of Dutch priests and many tourists from Holland cried out "Long Live Princess Irene!"

Appeals Court Bill Starts New Districting Dispute

LANSING (AP)—A bill calling for a State Appeals Court of nine single-judge districts and election of the Michigan Supreme Court by districts today plunged the legislature into a new apportionment squabble.

In a surprise move, the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday reported out the drastically-amended version of an appeals court bill which had passed the Senate.

By providing for nine separate districts, the bill was in clear defiance of a Michigan Supreme Court edict that the appeals court, created by the new constitution, must be comprised of three districts of three judges each.

Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Oakland County, this morning fastidiously termed the House bill "obviously unconstitutional."

He predicted the bill would head for the House Apportionment Committee where "it will be cleaned up and put back into its original form."

INTRODUCED BILL
Roberts introduced the bill passed by the Senate for three 3-judge districts, in line with a State Supreme Court opinion.

The Senate version had complied with the guideline, which was expressed earlier this year in an unusual "letter to the legislature" from the high court.

Disagreement over the structure of the appeals court could revive the House-Senate battle that resulted in death of a court bill in the second special session of 1963.

But at the same time there was no immediate indication of how seriously lawmakers might take the amendments, which were sponsored by Rep. Carroll Newton, R-Detroit.

FLOOR LEADER
House Republican floor leader Robert Walton said he did not expect the bill to be approved as amended.

"I think it really is an expression of dissatisfaction with the rule that the Supreme Court has been playing in legislative affairs," said Walton.

LI. Gov. T. John Lesinski termed the House proposal an attempt to "intimidate" the Supreme Court by defying its edict.

Earlier, House Speaker Allison Green had expressed hope that the court of appeals bill could be used as material for bargaining with the Senate on other key legislation, over which the House has sought to maintain control.

DEFEND AMENDMENTS
Newton, however, insisted he was serious about his amendments and said he was prepared to defend their logic on the floor of the House.

"I do not regard the Supreme Court's letter to the legislature as an official opinion or order which we must follow in setting up the appeals court," he said.

Newton said he believes his proposal has "a great deal more logic" than the Senate bill, which had one district of 66 counties stretching from the Indiana border to the Upper Peninsula.

"I could not vote for a bill with a district like that," he said.

NO PROVISION
Under the new constitution, the State Supreme Court is reduced from eight to seven members but there is no provision on whether they should be elected at-large or by districts.

The constitution indicates

Valuation Set at $2.3 Billion

State Tax Unit Gets
County Board Figure

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday raised the county's equalized valuation nearly $112 million to $2.3 billion.

If approved by the State Tax Commission, the new valuation on property will produce $34.7 million at a 15-mill statutory tax rate for county, township and school districts budgets.

This would mean about $2 million more in taxes, due mainly to new construction in the area.

The tax commission in Lansing is expected to approve the new equalized valuation if convinced that it represents 99 per cent of fair market value on all taxable property in the county.

CAREFUL EXAMINATION
The committee reported that it "has carefully examined properties and compared assessment rolls" of all townships and cities in the county.

The statement was challenged by board chairman Delos Hamlin, supervisor from Farmington; West Bloomfield Township Supervisor John Richard and Avon Township Supervisor Cyril Miller.

Examined properties are samples in each township and city surveyed by the County Equalization Department and compared by the committee with a previous survey to determine if property values have gone up or down in the past year.

The equalization committee then adds or deducts from each unit's total assessed valuation an amount which in the committee's judgment will produce an equal and uniform valuation of all taxable property in the county.

SAME SAMPLES
Hamlin said that in using the same samples, the committee failed to take into consideration what has happened elsewhere in the governmental unit.

Rehder berated the equalization committee for not giving the cities and townships adequate time to question the proceedings "before it is too late to do anything about it."

He said his township was led to expect a reduction in its equalized valuation this year. It was raised instead.

He said the same thing happened last year despite assurance of closer cooperation between the committee and township officials.

BROADEN SURVEY
Committee chairman Roy Goodspeed, Supervisor from Farmington, said the committee would have the equalization department broaden its survey for next year by taking more samples.

He wasn't reappointed chairman by Hamlin.

Students Rally for Area Girl's Reinstatement

OXFORD, England (AP)—Josephine Dudek, a 16-year-old Bloomfield Township girl expelled from Oxford University, said today she has no great faith in a student campaign for her reinstatement but is happy to give it a try.

A motion protesting her expulsion is to be introduced Thursday night at a meeting of the Oxford Union, the student debating society.

The 5-foot American student says, "General feeling among the students is behind me. But whether I get back into the university depends on how far people are prepared to act."

"If the students do stand up against the governing body, it will be very rare. And even if they did, there's no guarantee this will influence the university."

Josephine has been reading philosophy, politics and economics at Oxford. She was expelled two days ago from Somerville College after flunking her first-year exams. Normally students are given a second chance but the college asserted her conduct had been "thoroughly unsatisfactory over a long period."

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Dudek of 3030 Brookdale.

State Budget Cut $8 Million

House, Senate Units Trim Romney Figures

LANSING (UPI)—The House and Senate appropriating committees finished polishing up Gov. George Romney's general fund budget requests early today by chipping away $8 million from the record $633 million asked.

The House Ways and Means Committee proved to be the biggest cost cutter, trimming the budget for higher education by $7.1 million and lopping $1.9 million off the capital outlay request.

The cuts brought the higher education figure down to $146.5 million and dropped capital outlay to $56.2 million.

Despite the recommended cutbacks, enactment of the budget bills sent down from the committees would still raise Michigan's general fund expenditures in the fiscal year beginning July 1 approximately $90 million over the current year's spending.

A total of $550 million was appropriated last year, but no more than $55 million is expected to be spent from the general fund.

Operating expenses in fiscal 1964-65 would total $474.8 million, capital outlay $66.2 million and the elementary and secondary school aid fund $94.4 million, according to the total figure of $635.5 million.

Michigan State and the University of Michigan referred the biggest slashes among the state's tax supported schools in the higher education cutback.

U. of M. lost $2.2 million from its $44.1 million operating budget and MSU lost $2.2 million from its budget of $39.6 million.

He has served on the county Board of Supervisors, as chairman of the Drain Committee, the Inter-County Committee and secretary to the Department of Public Works Board.

Now 54, Calhoun was Republican candidate for state treasurer in 1960.

The same year he established the firm Dave Calhoun and Associates, Manufacturers Agents, continuing in a field he has been active in since 1944.

The new City Commission at its first regular business meeting last night firmly tabbed the hiring of a full-time, professional city manager as its No. 1 problem.

Commissioners will look to former manager Walter K. Willman for aid in selecting a "qualified" chief administrator.

Commissioner John A. Dugan offered a resolution directing Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. to contact Willman "to assist this commission in obtaining the names of qualified managers who would submit applications and qualifications for review by the City Commission."

The resolution was approved unanimously.

"This is in no way a reflection on the present manager, John F. Reineck," Dugan said. "He is a fine man and has done an outstanding job."

DOESN'T WANT JOB
Reineck has stated repeatedly that he doesn't want the job. He was hired in March 1963 as an administrative assistant.

Dugan, speaking for himself, said, "I don't feel qualified to select a city manager without some professional advice."

He would take a big load off our shoulders," he said.

Taylor explained that "this is in no way an attempt to bring Mr. Willman back into the city administration. We would merely seek his advice on the matter."

Willman had formerly indicated he would assist the city in the advisory capacity of a private consultant. He will be leaving for a European tour next month.

Dugan also commented on the Police Department, saying he felt the commission must name a fulltime chief soon. "I hope we can do this and then let the chief run the police department and keep our noses out of it," he said.

Says Negro Methodist Leader

'Dissolution of Unit Won't End Bias'

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The problem of racial segregation within the Methodist Church, long a thorn to lay and clergy leaders, cannot be solved merely by dissolving the Central Jurisdiction, said the first Negro ever elected president — designate of the church.

"The mere dissolution of a racial jurisdiction would not in itself eliminate segregation," said Bishop Prince A. Taylor Jr. in an interview.

"It is entirely possible to still have a segregated church."

The Central Jurisdiction is a geographic division of the church whose 375,000 members are all Negroes.

There has been a great deal of agitation for abolishing this jurisdiction during the general conference of the Methodist Church being held here.

JUSTICE FOR ALL

"The question of abolishing the central jurisdiction," said the 57-year-old bishop, "is a fine one. It is really a question of equality, dignity and justice for all people, which would include the Negro. It would depend on how it (abolition) would be done."

"(But) my own confidence is that I have faith in the positive movement of the church and believe there are enough men and women of good will and Christian understanding to help reform our church from racism and to make it the inclusive church of Christ."

However, said the bishop, this would not be an overnight development. He declined to speculate on how long the transition would take.

Bishop Taylor, a native of Hennessey, Okla., has been living in Monrovia, Liberia, for the past eight years as head of the Monrovia area of the Methodist Church.

FRUITFUL YEARS
"They have been some of the most fruitful years of my life," he reminisced.

"I've had the opportunity to watch the development of the church in Liberia, to meet the great leaders of the continent, to know the president of Liberia and work with him as a chairman."

"I've watched the changing continent and seen the hopes and fears of the people, shared in their aspirations and been identified with their agonies."

Bishop Taylor holds a doctorate in education and honorary degrees from a number of universities.

But one of his greatest personal moments came when he received Liberia's highest award, the Venerable Knighthood of the Pioneer with the rank of grand cordo. This honor usually is reserved for heads of state.

The erudite Bishop Taylor, bespectacled and greying at the temples, has no "specific feeling" over being the first Negro to gain the conference's highest office.

"It doesn't stir me emotionally," said he. "The church's attitude has changed, but we are in a world revolution."

"In Africa there is a terrific struggle against colonialism. In America it's the race problem. FAR BACK

"It didn't begin yesterday or 10 years ago. It goes as far back as the French Revolution, the American Revolution . . .

Unique System Born in '30s

Flint Schools Involve Entire Community

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

The little red schoolhouse in Flint has evolved into the heart of an enlightened and significant socio-educational concept. It is something to write home about. And more than 5,000 visitors a year, representing cities, schools, educational organizations, not only go home and write about it — they also take a little of it with them. And many do something about it.

Heldenbrand

"It" is a program that had its inception as a pilot venture in the depression-riddled days of the 1930s when Charles S. Mott, great American and philanthropist that he is, became concerned about Flint's idled youth.

The rate of school dropouts was rising ominously and juvenile delinquency assuming dangerous proportions.

In a casual conversation with Frank J. Manley, then director of physical education for the Flint Public Schools, the humanitarian asked the opinion of the youth leader about Boys' Clubs as an influence in combating the antisocial drift of a widening segment of the city's youth.

ALREADY HAVE

"Fine," said the young physical director, "but why not use the 35 we already have — the schools?"

That was the beginning.

The Mott Foundation granted $6,000, and, with it and a little more, Manley and his fledgling staff improvised space in five school buildings as community education centers.

Originally planned for recreational activities that fall of 1935, the initiatory program took on future significance with a search for the people's wants. The following year, the program was expanded to 15 public schools.

Now 28 years and 35 schools later, Flint this year channels $2.5 million from the Mott Foundation through its $25-million educational budget in support of its Community School Program.

INHERENT PART

During this period, space for the programs in existing schools was obtained by adaptation of areas once otherwise utilized, but with new buildings, program facilities were an inherent part of design.

The essence of the concept is that in the highly complex social framework in which mankind today lives, it is impossible to isolate single factors contributing to both juvenile and adult antisocial attitudes, decline of self-reliance, poverty and lawlessness.

All such regression is generally the outgrowth of interwoven elements, and to a great extent is rooted in inadequate education.

Education here does not mean the traditional 3-R brand. It does mean basic, interrelated social education that links parents and children, is concerned with domestic habits and problems, health and employment—all the phases of living that motivates mental and physical activities.

Obviously, conventional educational systems with their necessarily formalized approach to the projection of learning have neither the resources nor the flexibility to undertake such broadened community influence.

This is where the Flint format takes over.

Flash Fire in Ship Traps, Kills 5 Men

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—Investigators today searched for the cause of a flash fire on an aircraft ferry that asphyxiated five shipyard workers before they could escape.

The Croatan, with a cargo of helicopters and single-engine planes bound for Europe, was undergoing routine maintenance when the fire broke out yesterday.

It raged out of control for three hours in a small area. Only a few of the ship's 75 men and officers were aboard, and none was in danger.

But five shipyard workers in the bow of the ship were killed. Deputy fire chief Douglas Melton said it appeared the flames sprang up so quickly the oxygen was gone before the men could get away.

ESCAPE TRY

From the positions of their bodies, he said, "they had desperately tried to escape."

The Croatan, a 480-foot long vessel, commissioned April 23, 1943—21 years ago yesterday, the day of the fire—was having final maintenance before sailing Friday.

The Croatan, which weighs 10,418 tons, is operated by a civilian crew of Military Sea Transport Service, New Orleans. It was converted from a warship to a cargo carrier.

Alabama Drydock and Shipbuilding Co. President J. R. Maunee said, "In behalf of the company we regret this loss of life and extend our sincere sympathy to their families."

CONTINUE PROBE

"We will continue our full investigation of the fire and its cause," the Croatan was at the Alabama drydock.

United Fund Leader Has Served Area Well

Pontiac loses a conscientious civic functionary in the departure of KARL W. BRADLEY as executive director of the Pontiac Area United Fund. He leaves May 1 to fill a similar position in Gary, Ind.

BRADLEY

Identified with the local Fund since 1954, the 42-year-old executive saw substantial expansion in the organization he directed. As a result of growth of the 54 agencies comprising it, annual budgets have increased from $532,000 in 1955 to $855,000 for the current year.

Attesting to Mr. Bradley's efficient administration is the fact that this expansion has been effected with the addition of but two additional staff members. Noteworthy, too, was the 13 per cent pledge-total gain in 1963 over the previous year, the largest such increase in the State.

During his tenure, a new centrally-located building was constructed, providing headquarters for nine civic welfare organizations. Significantly, the building concept was brought to reality on a self-liquidating basis, established rentals of the various occupying units serving to amortize the investment.

In bidding Pontiac adieu, Mr. Bradley leaves behind a large number of friends and takes with him their best wishes for good fortune in his new environment.

Letters Often Slighted as Aid to Business

With more and more functions of business falling to mechanical hands and brains, it's not unlikely that correspondence will one day be robotized.

In fact, judging by the absence of warmth and appeal that characterizes most business letters we see, you might conclude that the transition has already taken place.

Not only does the preponderance of commercial billets-doux lack empathy, but a recent survey indicates that 5 per cent of all business letters are written to correct errors and omissions in previous correspondence.

Large and small business is alive as never before to market good will. You wonder then why the creation of written contact in this area isn't more often considered a significant one and given organization status and expert application equal to other public relations concepts. It is not so long ago that businessmen thought so little of the impact made by their letters that many bore a stamped disclaimer, "Dictated But Not Read." You don't see that nowadays, but there is often an implication of "Indicated But Not Said."

Secret of Long Life Well Kept by Women

If you have a yen to live to be a hundred, the first step is to be a woman.

Because the women are far out in front of the men in the business of staying alive.

Here are a couple of longevity facts you might put in your pipe and smoke—now that you've given up cigarettes.

• There are now 12,000

Americans 100 years old or older.

• In the 95 to 99 bracket, there are twice as many women as men — 26,000 to 13,000.

How do the women do it?

Well, White House physician, Dr. JANET TRAVELL, thinks women live longer "because they never retire. They keep on doing the things they've been accustomed to doing all their lives."

The ever-present chores of housekeeping, the dusting and the cleaning up may be what's behind the longevity of the girls. In the older age groups, sums up the lady Doc, women keep much more active than men.

So, fellows, there you have it. Let's not have any more of this jes'-a-settin' 'round watching your wives work themselves into long lives and happiness.

Johnson Speech Was Masterful

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — President Johnson, sailing high with increasing confidence in himself and his campaign to be all things to all people, has just given a masterful performance and a great insight into how he is going about it.

In his speech to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Monday he pulled out all the stops, touching each listener, and each reader later, with appeals to the various motivations of a man in the American society today.

MARLOW

There was something in it for the rich, the poor, for conservatives, for liberals, for the sick, the old, the unborn, and the young ambitious.

What he said Monday and how he said it—since he is going to run for election in November—can be taken as the key to his direction, his political campaign will take, and how he'll handle it.

While this was a speech to businessmen it was also a tremendous political speech.

DESIRE FOR FRUGALITY

He appealed to his listeners' desire for frugality in government and their own desire to make money; to their desire for peace and at the same time for military security; to their humanity, their compassion, and their patriotism.

It was all there but he was careful, although you might not notice the various transitions, to humanize himself in the process by shifting from soaring sentences to homey phrases and homely images, like the old house where he was born. He says he keeps a picture of it in his bedroom.

The implication he got across was that what he could do any American could do in his rise from humble beginnings to the White House—if he had the chance. And he was asking everyone to pitch in to help everyone get the chance.

Thus the picture of Lyndon Johnson which emerged from all he said—modestly, as if in passing, but certainly intentionally—was that of a American epic which didn't have to be unique.

In short, he made the widest kind of appeal to the greatest number of people for and knew far more people would be reading later what he said than could be jammed together to hear him Monday.

He started out with a fairly short, prepared speech which might have taken 15 minutes to deliver. By the time he got through adding to it, sometimes in a rambling but humorous way, he had talked an hour.

The chamber members and their wives at the end gave him such a prolonged, standing ovation that he had to take what amounted to two curtain calls. Twice he had to return to wave thanks.

As indications of his efforts and good times ahead he pointed to the rail dispute he helped settle; the tax cut he got through Congress; figures on a rising economy; military strength; shutdown of needless military installations.

He didn't quite follow the advice he quoted from George Washington: "Let your discourse with men of business be short and comprehensive." Johnson's speech wasn't short but it was comprehensive.

Now Who'd Like To Play?

David Lawrence Says:

Bobby Kennedy Is a Political 'If'

WASHINGTON — The biggest question in national politics today is not merely who will become the Republican presidential nominee but whether Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy will be the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

It is easy enough to say that the dilemma is more theoreti- cal than real and that President Johnson will pick his own running mate.

But the problem is not so simple.

So far as the friends of Bobby Kennedy are concerned, the fight has hardly begun.

They are very influential inside the party in the big cities of the populous states which have large electoral votes.

These individuals are active politicians who worked under Bobby Kennedy when he was running his brother's campaign before and after the convention of 1960.

KENNEDY NAME

They are persons who feel there is a sentiment for the Kennedy name inside and outside the party which amounts to a real emotion.

It is all very well to say by way of rebuttal that the present attorney general has antagonized the South politically by his dramatic moves in enforcement of court orders in civil rights cases.

But for every electoral vote that could be lost in the South, it is contended that there are far more electoral votes at stake in the North that could be lost if key men and women in the party organizations were disappointed and became apathetic because the attorney general had been turned down.

There are those, on the other hand, who say that Mr. Johnson had better let well enough alone—that the civil rights controversy may cost him votes in the North and South anyway, and that he shouldn't complicate the situation by making it theoretically possible for Bobby Kennedy to be president some day.

Last Sunday night in an interview, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy unequivocally set forth his brother's qualifications for the vice presidential nomination. The Massachusetts senator said:

"I would say that the attorney general has built up a significant national following, has established a reputation of his own before even the time he was appointed to the attorney generalship.

"He'd made, I believe, an outstanding record in the Senate Rackets Committee.

"I think, personally, any fair evaluation would suggest that he's done a capable job as attorney general.

FOREIGN POLICY

"He's been involved in the crucial questions of Cuba and Southeast Asia. He's been involved in foreign policy.

"But I think when you talk about the question of the vice presidency you have to keep in mind that this decision will be made, as it should be made, by President Johnson."

Were it not for the civil rights controversy—which some folks in the inner circle here think might make the attorney general a liability to the Democratic ticket—there wouldn't be the slightest hesitancy on the part of some highly placed Democrats in urging President Johnson to choose the attorney general for the vice-presidential nomination.

The argument wouldn't be an obstacle, especially since the political strength of the late President Kennedy himself was to no small extent due to the image of youth presented to the young voters of the country, whose number is considerable.

Negro Reader Explains Reasons for Fair Stall-In

NEW YORK — Of many things...

"Do you know what it is to go for a job, and to fill out an application, to know that you are qualified for the job, and then hear the man say 'Sorry, that position was just filled — call back tomorrow!'" asked a Negro reader, Frank Alexander.

"Then see the next three CONSIDINE white fellows who were sitting there waiting with you go in, one by one, and get hired?"

"Do you know what it is to live in a poverty-stricken area where landlords charge terrible rent for old broken-down tenements infested with rats, broken ceilings, leaking plumbing, poor lighting?"

"Did your child ever have to go to school where for seven out of 10 years, she never had the same teacher through a full season?"

"Twenty-five years ago I went to see another New York World's Fair."

"The world has progressed in many ways, but the Negro people and other minorities have advanced very little."

The picture book's text is taken from phrases used in that magazine's appraisal of JFK after his death.

One excerpt (accompanying a rare photograph of the late president at the finish of a perfect golf swing) read:

"John Kennedy had a Walter Mitty streak in him, as wide as his smile."

"On the golf course he reminded himself most of Arnold Palmer in raw power, or Julius Boros in finesse."

Aid for Appalachia

The New York Times

Human deprivation is nowhere more oppressively widespread than in Appalachia, that ribbon of social neglect stretching from Pennsylvania to Alabama.

The program President Johnson sent to Congress to combat the region's chronic depression represents the first installment in mobilizing the combined energies of federal, state and local agencies for one of the most crucial campaigns in the war against poverty.

The record of the Area Redevelopment Administration indicates that no miraculous transformation is in store for Appalachia. The economic and social factors that cause an area to run downhill cannot be reversed in a year or two.

And nowhere is that more likely to prove true than in this mountain region so backward in education, facilities and industrial potential.

The important thing, as the President stressed, is to make

'Litter in Mail Drop Box'— Asks What's Wrong

I saw a lady mail carrier stop for "pick up" at a local drop box. In with many letters were a broken glass and dirty candy papers. Have we lost all the things we should be proud of? Littering is for small-thinking people.

I was also surprised to find so little entertainment in Pontiac. I asked about a bingo game or a good show and was told "the City has nothing for out-of-towners, but bars—but if I had a car I could find a bingo game every day of the week outside the city."

More Discuss Write-In Vote, Ex-Mayor

I'm still wondering how people could take the representation from the people most involved. This write-in vote is most destructive to a district. A man can lose in a district where he doesn't want, yet be thrown back to the people who don't want him. I wonder if he could really give his best to the people who cast him aside.

(Editor's Note: Don't all commissioners owe their best to the whole city and not to one district?)

April 20 was an important day in Pontiac because of the election but somehow most of us forgot to think in terms of the good job and the real truth stand that Mayor Landry had given to Pontiac. How could we forget so soon? Something went wrong. Let your conscience be your guide.

From One Who Cares

I'm a citizen of Pontiac and it's very hard to understand the courtesy shown to the voters, especially regarding the write-ins. You would think the write-ins were the only voting procedure.

Ex-Mayor Landry is still at it. He has disregarded the wishes of the people for so long that he can't break the habit. Voters have made it clear that they don't want him. What difference does it make who they spell Mr. Wellbaum's name as long as it wasn't L-A-N-D-R-Y?

If the election workers had instructed everyone in the use of the write-in slots as Landry alleges, he would have been completely swamped, for then all the votes for Wellbaum which were written on the metal covers could have been counted. Voters not instructed have a more legitimate complaint than Landry.

Mr. Landry, for once you don't you bow to the desires of the electorate and accept defeat like a man? Or is that expecting too much?

Completely Disgusted

Please, Mr. Landry, take a nice bow and leave the City Commission. It is very plain to see that those who voted for Mr. Wellbaum would have voted for Mr. Webb had there not been a write-in. You are not exactly the people's choice.

M. N.

After reading the article in the April 24 edition of The Pontiac Press, I was wondering if Mr. Landry thinks he runs the City of Pontiac. It's run by the taxpayers.

'Need Watch Dog to Protect Parked Car'

Someone help me in locating a good watch dog. I could take him shopping. Some irresponsible people park next to a car, open up their doors, and plop them so nonchalantly into the one parked next to them. They then, close their door and walk off as if nothing ever happened. This dog could hold this person until I returned from doing my shopping.

I would like to make a plea to all responsible car owners. When you see any irresponsible person do any damage to any car, write their license number down and make sure it is given to this car owner.

Meeting Held on Ferry Slash

Officials Oppose Cut in Northern Services

CHEBOYGAN (AP)—Cheboygan, birthplace of civic revolt against railroad plans to cut off northern Michigan freight and ferry service, was host today to federal and state officials in the battle.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and Senate Commerce Committee attorneys were on the guest list.

State Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley and four staff aides represented the Michigan Public Service Commission in opposing railroad plans.

Consumers Power Co. has assigned attorney John Morrison to coordinate with Kelley's office evidence compiled by the Committee for Rail and Ferry Retention (CRFR) formed at Cheboygan last January.

The officials today discussed possible federal and state steps to force the Mackinac Transportation Co. to keep its railroad car ferry, Chief Wawatam, operating at the Straits of Mackinac.

MAY 24 DEADLINE

The Coast Guard has set a May 24 deadline for the ferry to undergo necessary boiler repairs or quit its run. Kelley's staff hopes to obtain a federal court injunction forcing the ferry operators to make the repairs and remain a vital link between Michigan's peninsulas. Petitions have been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Pennsylvania, New York and Detroit & Mackinac Railroads to abandon 343 miles of track in northern Lower Michigan if the ferry quits. They claim they would suffer financial loss with the death of their Straits link.

Kelley charges, however, that the Pennsylvania, NYC and Soo Line, which jointly own the ferry firm, deliberately have put off repairing the Chief Wawatam to further their abandonment pleas.

His appearance caps a three-day tour of six cities to organize evidence showing that they face economic hardship without rail freight service.

Then There's the Rest of Us

Some Just 'Plane' Brave

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sociologists tell us it is a bad thing for one class of people to bear malice toward another class. In theory, I agree.

In practice, however, there is one class of people in this country that I simply can't stand.

No matter how hard I try, I cannot subdue the feeling of animosity that is aroused in me by "seasoned air travelers" otherwise known as the "tranquil class."

You will find a few of them on every airliner. They flop into their seats in an attitude of intense boredom and immediately fall off to sleep.

Or they open a briefcase and nonchalantly begin to pad an expense account.

That is one thing I dislike about the tranquil class. They are shirkers. They refuse to do their share of the worrying. They leave it to the other passengers to do all the work, such as looking out the window to make certain the wings are in place.

GOOD TASTE
I personally don't fly very often but when I do I at least have the good taste to be frightened by it.

The other day a member of the tranquil class with access to the public prints had the audacity to complain about those little messages that airline pilots occasionally deliver over the public address system.

He claimed the information contained in the reports was usually unimportant and accomplished nothing beyond disturbing his repose.

That is another thing I find infuriating about the tranquil class. They seek to impose their own peace of mind on other passengers.

I believe I represent the majority view when I say that the announcements coming from the crew compartment are highly informative.

It is always nice to know that there really is someone in the crew compartment.

Rather than abandon the practice, the airlines should encourage their pilots to communicate with the passengers more often. A bedtime story or two would help.

And when the air gets bumpy, the captain should do more than tell the passengers that the plane has encountered turbulence. He should invite them to come up to the cockpit and sit in his lap.

For us unseasoned air travelers, otherwise known as the coward class, that voice on the intercom is a security symbol and we'll never let it go. Never! Never! Never!

Junior Editors Quiz on OCEANS

QUESTION: Why do some parts of the sea look light and other parts dark?

ANSWER: If you put your head under water where the sea was deep and looked down, it would look dark, showing that sea water, when deep enough, really is dark.

But as we usually look at it, from a boat or the rocks (top picture) there will be brilliant patches of light; sometimes the whole ocean will seem like a glittering surface of silver. Why is this?

Remember that the surface of water is shiny, like a mirror, or any other smooth surface which reflects the light. The upper picture shows why the water surface Cathy and her brother are looking at seems light—it is reflecting light from the sky just as a mirror would do if it were in the same place and at the same angle.

Light bounces off it from the same angle (the angle of incidence) and bounces off it from the same angle on the opposite side (angle of reflection).

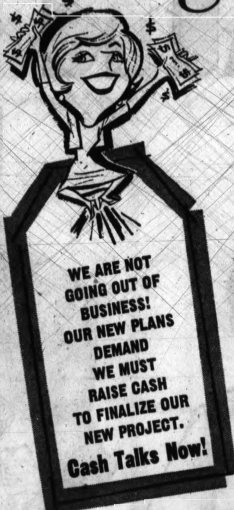

With the help of these angles and the water's mirror-like surface, the bright light of the sky is reaching Cathy's eye. But in the lower picture the water surface has tilted up; the sky reflection bounces off at too low an angle to reach Cathy.

As a result, she is looking directly into the water itself, which is why it looks dark.

FOR YOU TO DO: Take a small hand mirror outside, hold it face up in an open spot without trees. The mirror will reflect the sky and look light. Now slowly turn the mirror over. The light will die out; the angle of reflection is getting too low to reach your eye.

Issues Stir School District

ROCHESTER—Although many an additional penny is at stake, the pre-election fervor leading up to Monday's millage renewal and bond issue vote is getting more and more intense.

Battle lines are clearly drawn on the issues, proposals which in many districts bring few voters to the polls, much less attract the attention of the entire community.

On one side of the fence is Rochester Community School Board President James Ludwick.

Ludwick, standing for the board, the school administration and the citizens advisory committee, wants to see voters endorse renewal of a 2-mill levy which expired this year. He also wants citizen approval of a proposed $1.5 million bond issue.

Clamoring for attention to defeat the propositions is former board member John Patterson.

BALANCE ON HAND

Avowed to battle the proposals, Patterson objects to their passage on grounds the funds and facilities are not needed. In fact the former board member says there was a $14,000 balance on hand left over from the last fiscal year's operation.

Patterson also claims the board has ignored his pleas for frugality and his suggestions of money-saving methods. Schools Supt. Dr. William Early denies this.

The question advocates of the issues hope voters will ask themselves is this: Does the district need the items which will be provided as a result of passage of the two ballot questions?

If bond issue funds are made available, additions to the high school, West Junior High and four of the elementary schools are planned.

MORE CLASSROOMS

At the senior high facilities for music, fine arts, vocational education, speech and dramatics are scheduled, as well as more classrooms.

Twelve classrooms would be added to West Junior High.

Baldwin Elementary would gain six classrooms, a library. Two classrooms, a library and an activity room are expected at Brooklands Elementary.

Rounding out the proposed expansion package are erection of a six-classroom wing at McGregor Elementary and four classrooms and a storage area at Woodward Elementary.

The 2-mill renewal request? It means some $120,000 of the total $2,778,110 tentative budget. If passed, the levy will continue for five more years.

MORE TEACHERS

It will provide pay for six more teachers the board feels are necessary for efficient operation next year, due to an expected 300-student enrollment hike.

An intramural athletic program and shared payment hospitalization plan for all full-time employees is also contingent on success of the issue at the polls.

If voters turn thumbs down on both proposals, it means no expansion next year, as well as a curtailment of present services, school officials said.

Pamphlets, both pro and con, are currently being distributed by camps on the two sides.

BACKING REQUESTS

Twenty businessmen who favor endorsement of the requests have purchased newspaper advertisements. The same has been done by 343 residents who have banded together to promote the two requests. And the Rochester Junior Chamber of Commerce is pushing for okay of the proposals.

If successful, the issues will not force district residents to dig deeper into their pockets. Any increase in school taxes will be due to increased property valuation.

Proponents of the requests are hanging their hat on this fact, as well as the need for more facilities and funds.

Those objecting to the proposals argue that the district already has enough money to run efficiently, and presently has ample facilities.

Both sides are urging district residents to vote Monday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Donaldson, 9 Lincoln. Her full-length gown of white lace over taffeta featured a scalloped neckline with long pointed sleeves.

She carried a bouquet of miniature pink and white carnations.

Debra Kessler was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Joyce Arnold and Barbara Anspaugh.

The bridegroom, son of Orel Smalley of 55 S. Slater, Lake Orion, asked Harold Fisher of Lake Orion to be best man.

Ushers were Joseph Spencer of Pontiac and Patrick Widling of Holly.

A reception in the Methodist Fellowship Hall followed the doubling ceremony. The bridegroom will leave tomorrow for Fort Sill, Okla., where he is stationed in the U. S. Army.

Friday night's performance will be the first of five. Others are scheduled for this Saturday, and May 8, 9 and 10. Curtain time will be 8:30 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays and 7:30 p.m. May 10.

The Farmington Players' third major production for the year is being directed by Richard G. Pedicini of Southfield. Assisting him are Mrs. Paul Kazman and Mrs. Dayton McEllan of Farmington.

Tickets for the play can be purchased at the playhouse, at the Wellesley House of Music in Farmington or from ticket chairman George Muller, 24541 Westmoreland.

William Fleming, utility executive from Oxford Township, today was named Republican director of the eastern half of the First Legislative District by County Republican Chairman Charles L. Lyle.

Lyle, who announced the organizational splitting of the district last week, said Fleming will succeed Mrs. Charles Campbell.

Fleming, who lives at 1509 Coats, will be in charge of Oxford, Addison, Orion, Oakland and Pontiac townships. Leon Grogg previously was named director of the west district.

Fleming is directory sales manager for Michigan Bell Telephone Co. He was formerly area director for the old District One setup.

Mrs. Campbell was district director for two years. It had been planned she would head the east district unit prior to her new appointment.

Court Orders Reintegration

Decision Made After Fire Destroys School

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A federal court which warned that violence cannot frighten away integration, has ordered six Negroes put back in school at Natushka.

The high school of Natushka's three-building complex was destroyed by fire April 18, two months after Negro pupils broke the color barrier and initiated a mass boycott by white pupils.

But the adjoining white grammar school and auditorium escaped damage. The three-judge court Tuesday ordered facilities made available for the Negroes in one of those buildings no later than Thursday.

The court took judicial notice of newspaper stories which quoted the chief state fire marshal, Virgil Kitchens, as saying the fire apparently was started by arsonists.

EARLIER RULING
Based on those reports, Judge Richard T. Rives of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals and U.S. Dist. Judges Frank M. Johnson Jr. and H. Hobart Grooms, cited an earlier ruling by the 8th Circuit Court.

"The time has not yet come in these United States when an order of a federal court must be whittled away, watered down or shamefully withdrawn in the face of violent and unlawful acts by individual citizens in opposition thereto," that ruling said.

The court said the school fire was probably the result of criminal action intended to discourage the attendance of Negroes at Natushka school.

Even though the high school wing was left in ruins, the court said it appears there is adequate space available in the adjoining buildings, which space can be and must be used for the education of the six Negro children.

ALONE IN CLASSES
Despite the ruling, the Negro pupils still face the prospects of attending class alone except for white teachers.

The court decision brought no immediate reaction from the Macon County School Board.

Engle's Withdrawal Brings Shift in California Race

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Sen. Clair Engle's sickbed decision to give up his reelection brought a sudden regrouping of Democratic factions in California today.

Most of the shifting appeared to provide momentum to State Controller Alan Cranston's bid for the Democratic nomination to the Senate. He's competing against former White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger and nine other candidates.

Parents Are Warned on Child Molesters

Because child molesting increases sharply in warm weather months, parents are strongly urged by Michigan State Police to warn their children of the possible dangers in contacts with strangers.

Sgt. John Ambrose, commanding officer of the Pontiac post, advised parents to report all molesting incidents to police with as many details as possible. This helps officers take action necessary to apprehend offenders and to prevent a recurrence.

In 1963, the State Police investigated 359 sex offenses, which include child molestation, throughout the state.

As in other years complaints were most numerous in the summer. August was high with 64, July next with 62 and June third with 52.

Ambrose pointed out that the names of minors who are victims and their parents are not used by the press, radio and TV except in emergencies of abduction and murder.

TRUE TOTAL
"Reluctance in reporting these incidents thwarts police action and also hides the true total," he said.

Ambrose suggested parents to instruct their children to follow these rules:

Do not go for rides or walks with strangers and avoid being tempted by candy or money.

Have companions with you when playing outdoors and, when possible, to and from school. Avoid playing in isolated areas and vacant buildings.

Do not loiter in or near public rest rooms as these can be danger spots.
Ambrose said that children can help curb molestation incidents by remembering features about suspected or actual molesters.

In a separate development, Mayor Samuel W. Yorty of Los Angeles won a legal fight to challenge Gov. Edmund G. Brown for control of California's delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

REQUIRED SIGNATURES

Secretary of State Frank Jordan ruled that Yorty had the required number of signatures after all, and ordered his "new California delegation" placed on the June 2 primary ballot.

Both the Yorty and Brown 154-vote slates are uninstructed, but their chairmen have pledged to support President Johnson. Yorty, with a record as a maverick Democrat, backed Republican Richard M. Nixon in 1960.

Engle, yielding to his doctor's advice, announced in a telegram Tuesday that he would drop his campaign and serve out the remaining months of his term. Two brain operations forced him to end a 30-year career in public life.

The 53-year-old senator, formerly a vibrant, fast-talking political figure, remained neutral in the Senate race. His campaign chairman, assemblyman Tom Carrell of San Fernando, said he himself probably would vote for Cranston.

BILL INTRODUCED

Jordan confirmed it was too late to remove Engle from the ballot, but state Sen. Edwin J. Regan, D-Weaverville, introduced a bill in the legislature to permit Engle's name to be stricken, by his written request, at least 24 days before the primary.

Regan said he offered the measure on behalf of the Brown administration. The governor early in the campaign swung over to Cranston, saying Engle wasn't physically up to running.

While Sen. Burns endorsed Salinger, 11 other Democratic state senators lined up for Cranston. They included four who had sided with Engle.

Cranston, a lanky, balding contrast to the well-padded, dark-haired Salinger, is supported by the grass roots California Democratic Council and the California Federation of Labor. The 61-year-old Hollywood film executive is favored over two other candidates on the Republican ticket in the June election.

Air Force Consultant

Astronomer Probes 'Flying Object' Site

SOCORRO, N.M. (AP) — An astronomer from the Dearborn Observatory at Northwestern University was here today to examine the secluded hill where a Socorro policeman reported seeing a mysterious, egg-shaped flying object.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, special unidentified flying object consultant to the Air Force, was sent to New Mexico after a rash of reports of sightings of unidentified flying objects in the state.

Officer Lonnie Zamora said the object he saw last Friday was a brilliant white. He said there was a red marking on it like an upside down V with three lines across the top, through the middle and at the bottom. He said that from a distance there appeared to be two figures in white coveralls outside the object. It flew off with a roar when he approached.

Since Zamora's sighting, at least six reports have been made to authorities, including one from a youth who said he fired several shots at something about 100 feet in the air near Moriarty.

The paper, Express Wic-zorzy, said most of the victims were Jews dragged to the Sikra stadium in 1943 and shot in front of a wall.

Witnesses also said SS elite guards shot a group of 30 German soldiers and buried them at the stadium.

Find Mass Grave in Warsaw Stadium

WARSAW (AP) — A Polish paper says a mass grave containing an estimated 10,000 Nazi victims has been unearthed in a former sports stadium in Warsaw.

The paper, Express Wic-zorzy, said most of the victims were Jews dragged to the Sikra stadium in 1943 and shot in front of a wall.

Witnesses also said SS elite guards shot a group of 30 German soldiers and buried them at the stadium.

ola, where state police Capt. Martin Vigil said he found the ground still smoldering 20 hours after a reported sighting.

Authorities found scorched grass and four wedge-shaped indentations in the ground at the Socorro site and near Espanola.

Dr. Hynek said many common things are often responsible for such reports.

Meteors, flocks of birds, weather balloons, even the moon can lead to these reports.

Dr. Hynek said. "In such cases the reports often come from entirely honest people who see something that puzzles them."

Dr. Hynek said he had not been told whether his trip to New Mexico indicates that the Air Force had eliminated the possibility that the report by Zamora was caused by a U.S. aircraft.

In Washington, the Air Force said that its investigation of the reported sighting was routine.

April Showers Bring Out Wild Umbrellas

Pontiac Press Photos by Phil Weiss

Scouting through a tunnel of umbrellas is Kimberly Skibowski, 18 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Skibowski of Dixie Highway. The big umbrella is the man's familiar black accessory. The deflowered version to the right is a pagoda style woman's umbrella. Bringing up the rear is a red child's umbrella with a plastic handle.

Wild things happen in spring. One of them is this straw parasol trimmed with velvet and an artificial flower. Looking more like a 20 gallon bonnet, the parasol first appeared in a London show.

Looking like a child's party umbrella gone Texan, this garden-patio umbrella swirls into action this season. Holding this paper and wood giant is Doris Wolfe of Thors Street, an employee of the Pontiac branch of Sears, Roebuck Co.

Don't Stay With Him After Meal

By The Emily Post Institute
Q: I am single and in the mid-30s. Recently I met a bachelor who is five years my senior. He lives alone in a three-room apartment.

He has a woman come in every day to clean and also to cook and serve his meals. After dinner she washes the dishes and leaves.

He has asked me to have dinner with him in his apartment.

I know that ordinarily it is not proper for a woman to dine alone in a man's apartment, but would the fact that there will be a maid present to serve dinner, alter the situation?

A: If you leave immediately after dinner to go to the theater or elsewhere, the presence of the maid would make your dining with him perfectly acceptable. But to stay on with him alone after the maid goes would not be proper.

Q: My daughter is going to be married and her father, of course, will give her away. I plan to have my 20-year-old son escort me up the aisle.

He will also be seated in the first pew. (We are not having ushers.) When we reach the pew, do I enter first and then my son?

If this procedure is followed, it will place my husband (when he takes his seat after giving the bride away) next to my son.

My daughter thinks I should be seated beside my husband and my son next to me.

If this is true, it will necessitate my son entering the pew before me. What is correct?

A: When you reach the pew, you pause in the aisle for a second to let your son enter the pew before you so that you can take your proper place near the aisle.

His reason for entering the pew before you will be understood and not thought impolite.

Swedish Consul Will Speak to Women

The Honorable Edward Johansson, Consul of Sweden for Michigan, will be guest speaker for the annual Extension Day meeting next Wednesday in Central Methodist Church.

His topic will be "Life in Sweden Today," culminating a program with many international facts. The Consul and Mrs. Johansson, who will accompany him, reside at the Royal Swedish Consul in Birmingham.

Featured in a luncheon program will be a panel discussion by foreign exchange students who have been living with extension families in Oakland County. Subject will be "School, Family and Food."

HON. E. JOHANSSON

Participants will include Norman Liernann of Germany, residing with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hoffman of Union Lake; Stefan Morch of Sweden, who has been with Mr. and Mrs. H. Delos Nichol of Lake Angelus; and Pentti Rantanen of Finland, living with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Trost of Troy.

Moderating the discussion group will be Mrs. Mary Jane Van Meter, county extension agent, home economics.

Mrs. Trost, president of the Oakland County home economics extension council, will preside for the meeting which will honor 25-year extension service members and recognize new study groups in the county.

Don't Double Failure

Avoid Rush Remarriage

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am 20 years old and have three kids. My oldest will be 3 in February.

My husband and I are separated and we are getting a divorce. I met this other man, Abby. He lives across the street from me and we have been seeing each other. He is a good man, and I love him. My problem is that he loves me and my two children, but he can't stand my oldest son.

He says if I give this boy to his father, he will marry me as soon as my divorce comes through. I just can't see myself giving away any of my children. I asked my mother, and she agreed with him.

Now I am turning to you. YOUNG MOTHER

DEAR YOUNG: A "good" man would not ask a mother to give away one of her children.

Nor would a "good" man find a 3-year-old too much to "stand."

Don't rush into a second marriage with this man, or any other, or you will find yourself 21 years old with TWO failures.

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago a very dear friend of mine passed away. Shortly afterwards, her daughter brought me a large box of her mother's clothes, as we were about the same size.

Abby, my friend had lots of lovely clothes and I could surely use them as we have a large family and my husband hasn't worked steady for a long time due to illness.

But I keep thinking, what if I should meet the poor husband or one of the children on the street, and they saw me wearing their dear mother's clothes.

Would it not give them a heartache? I wouldn't hurt them if I had to go around in rags.

Do you think I really ought to wear these things?

DEAR FRIEND: The daughter, I am sure, expressed the feelings of the entire family when she brought the clothes to you.

Wear them with the assurance that you are doing the right thing.

DEAR ABBY: You should quit telling your readers at the foot of your column to "Get it off your chest."

Detroit Guests Honored by OES Chapter

Two degrees were received as Pontiac Chapter No. 228, Order of the Eastern Star, hosted Kindness Chapter of Detroit Monday in the masonic Temple on Lawrence Street.

Receiving their degrees were Juanita Beltz and George McDonald.

Welcomed as guests were Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Banks, worthy matron and worthy patron of Kindness Chapter and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gray, worthy matron and worthy patron of Riverside Chapter.

Other guests were present from Minnesota, Missouri, Farmington, Dearborn, and East Detroit.

Mrs. Arthur Mac Adams was in charge of the refreshment committee.

A May 2 reception at 6:30 in the Lawrence Street Temple will honor Mrs. Mary Erickson.

Music Guild Elects Officers

New officers were elected at a Tuesday meeting of the Pontiac Music Guild. Leading the group in the coming year will be Wendell Ecker.

Assisting him will be Mrs. Don Derragon, vice president; Mrs. Lester Snell, secretary; Edna Sutter, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Phillip Schurr, treasurer.

Charles Wilson, current president, announced a student recital slated for May 26 at the First Congregational Church.

Included in the program were recordings of "The Definitive Piano," famous composers playing their own music, a reproduction of original piano rolls.

New Babies Vie for Interest With Special Horse Shows

Tony Torgerson, six years old, and his three-year-old brother, Richard, are rejoicing over their little sister, Nancy Ann, who arrived April 26 at Beaumont Hospital.

She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Torgerson of Burning Bush Road. Her grandparents are Mrs. M. M. Burgess of Bloomfield Hills and Mrs. T. E. Torgerson of Birmingham.

On April 23 Kathryn Lysanne arrived at Ford hospital, first child of Dr. and Mrs. Roy T. Hawkson of Southfield Road.

GALA AFFAIR
Following the festivities at Bloomfield Open Hunt Club Saturday evening when the popular Black Horse Troop of Culver Military Academy made its appearance, a group of about twenty young people continued their fun at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard R. Andrae.

The Andraes also entertained Col. and Mrs. William R. Robinson, Col. Edward Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hartman and Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Maedel.

Among the young people were Janie Jones, Sue Judd, Maryann Hartman, Marilyn Flint, Lynn Maedel, Alice Colombo, Bill Hartman and a group of the cadets.

Members of Bloomfield Open Hunt Club are looking forward to Vienna's famed Lipizzaner White Stallions Show at Olympia Stadium on May 6.

Supper will be served at the club and a bus will take care of transportation.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Powers will be joint hosts at a dinner party for forty at the Detroit Club prior to the performance.

Robert T. Sheppard with daughter Karen who is an ardent rider and son David will be among those in the audience.

Mrs. Sheppard and Mrs. William Deane will be enjoying ten days in New York viewing the World's Fair and shows.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester A. Colman are back home after a visit with Mr. Colman's mother, Mrs. Frederick Colman in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The senior Mrs. Colman recently celebrated her 65th birthday.

Snub nosed and aquiline umbrella handles crane their necks to see if the sun is shining. These umbrellas in Waite's Department Store had handles made of everything from twisted wire and rhinestones to bamboo. All stand ready to swing jauntily or stand firmly against wetness.

Choose Washable Stretch Fabrics

When assembling materials for making "stretch" clothing, it is desirable to choose washable stretch yardage.

If lining is required, be sure this is also a washable stretch—such as stretchy tricort or lightweight jersey.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice:

"Are there any special precautions necessary in making machine buttonholes in a hand-knit sweater?" Miss J. E.

Dear Miss J. E.:

It is preferable to attach grosgrain ribbon to the wrong side of your sweater before making the buttonholes. The purpose of the ribbon is to prevent sagging or stretching of the sweater fronts, as well as adding a backing for a more even buttonhole. (Often the grosgrain ribbon is placed on the right side of the sweater for decorative purposes.)

Mrs. F. says: When your overblouse has a back zipper which opens on both ends, turn your blouse around, back in the front, and close zipper about 3 inches. Next, shift the blouse around and slip your arms in and continue to close the zipper the rest of the way. (It saves your patience and keeps you from standing on your head.)

LONGER WEAR

Winner of today's Tailor Tix award is Mrs. Paul J. Homme, Madison, Wis., with this suggestion:

"Dresses for growing girls will take much more wear and tear if you make an inverted or box pleat at the center back of the bodice. This gives the 'action' room necessary for active play."

"Dear Eunice:

"Most patterns are much too long-waisted for me. I am wondering where to change the skirt for this problem?" Mrs. C. N.

Dear Mrs. C. N.:

The fact that you are short waisted affects the bodice only, and NOT the skirt. When you have marked the correct place for the waistline seam (by tying a string around your waist tightly and marking just below the string), you may attach the skirt. The darts in the skirt should not have to be changed.

If your skirt pushes up in a fold just under the waistband, it is not cut large enough for you. The top of the skirt must always be slightly larger than your actual waist-measurement and EASED to the waistband.

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"I need some help in disguising some frayed sleeve edges at the wrist. (If I have to buy a new suit, I can't have a vacation). The jacket was a tweed and I also have a plain colored skirt to wear with the jacket. I also have a 'botched' buttonhole to try to hide."

Mrs. A. C. H.

Dear Mrs. A. C. H.:

A perfect disguise for the frayed sleeves would be to use a wool braid that matches the plain colored skirt you wear with your tweed jacket. This could be applied to the collar and front edges as well, for continuity.

One solution for the buttonhole is to whip it closed, sew on a large button to cover the buttonhole and close your jacket with a covered snap. If you are clever, you can also apply the braid around the buttonhole which would give it a military appearance. (Necessity makes designers out of all of us).

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY:

Slip stitch. This is a term that is used for an invisible stitch to attach appliques to your fabric. Take a small stitch in your fabric, then slide your needle through the fold of the applique, again a small stitch in the fabric and repeat. The stitch should not be tight and it will be invisible.

Summer will soon be here. Let's have your ideas on making over summer clothes to extend the wear another season, or any ideas we can share on new fun things to make.

Please send your suggestions and questions to Sew Simple, in care of the Pontiac Press.

Recent Vows Spoken Here

Clyde B. Fairchild of Elizabeth Lake Road and Mrs. Henrietta Leach of Lincoln Street repeated marriage vows recently before the Rev. Milton H. Bank in Central Methodist Church.

For the noon ceremony the bride chose a blue lace street length dress and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Matron of honor was Mrs. Wilbur Fairchild.

Mr. Fairchild attended his father as best man.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I have had the most wonderful time reading the letters which have come since I asked women to write to me and tell me what they find attractive and unattractive in men.

I want to share this fun and inspiration with you, and the women who read "Why Grow Old?" might also listen in. Here are some quotes from these letters.

"I am only 17 years old, but I seem to have an opinion on almost everything that comes along, so here goes.

"I like for boys and men to be themselves, the BEST of themselves. If a girl is going to like you, it's better for her to like you for what you are than for what you pretend to be or what she wants to think you are.

"One thing that really irritates me is for boys to get together and talk about 'that girl who is always spreading gossip.' If that girl wants to do this, she is only hurting herself, and they can't help her by doing the same thing she is doing."

MISS OPINION
I think that Miss Opinion has her feet right on the ground!

Another quote starts: "My friend says that her husband says she spends money like it's going out of style tomorrow, and when she offers to go to work he says, 'Over my dead body.'"

Another: "When out visiting anywhere and snacks are free, my husband eats like there is no tomorrow. He wouldn't think of tipping a faithful paper boy like he does a hat check girl."

"I have a dandy man myself. He is so smart he cannot fix anything. He doesn't know how. Our oldest daughter has fixed the toaster, the washing machine and the iron."

Maybe your husband is smarter than you think, especially when he has a daughter who can fix things. It's lucky for you, too, that she can!

Kuceras Go to NY Fair After Rites

Off to the World's Fair in New York City are the newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dean Kucera (Judith Ann Marentette) who were wed recently in Our Lady of Refuge Church, Orchard Lake.

A reception in the Northwestern Sportsmen's Club, Southfield, followed the noon ceremony performed by Msgr. Thomas A. Jobs.

Daughter of the Alfred R. Marentettes of Walce Drive, the bride appeared in a courtier design gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta.

Her elbow-length veil of silk illusion was attached to a pearl tiara. She carried a spray bouquet of white roses.

FOUR ATTENDANTS

With Elaine Marentette, her sister's honor maid, were bridesmaids Mrs. Dean Kleino, Mrs. Gerald Steinhelper, and Mary Euth, junior attendant.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Kucera of Oliver Street are parents of the bridegroom who had Robert Gorman for his best man.

Seating guests were James Glynn, the bride's brother Thomas A. Marentette of Detroit, her nephew James Marentette, Detroit, and the bridegroom's brothers Frederick and Richard Kucera.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Ferris State College.

Don't Expect Boy to Love New 'Daddy'

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE.
Dear Mrs. Lawrence: I am the widowed mother of an 11-year-old boy. Recently I have been offered a chance at the happiness my husband never gave me.
He was an alcoholic and the last years with him were a nightmare. The man who wants to marry me give us a real home is all I ever hoped for in a husband.
But my son hates him and acts as if my caring for him is a betrayal of his father. Yet God knows I did all any woman mother's failure to relieve him of pain—the anguish of self-blame from which your son is suffering.

We forget that the child of an alcoholic is constantly torn between pity for the wretchedness of his drunken parents and rage at his own helplessness to end it. As the wretchedness increases, so will his self-blame.
INVISIBLE PAIN.
Because his pain is invisible, because he doesn't tell us how it hurts him, we may not realize that he feels it.

And so may not be able to relieve it by discussing it with him, by finding him trustworthy assurances that there is nothing any of us can do to end an alcoholic's drinking until he wants to end it himself.

If, as in your boy's case, the alcoholic parent dies, his unsuspected and unrelieved sense of guilt can become intolerable.
Under such circumstances we could hardly expect him to welcome his mother's remarriage.
NOT EXPECTED
In desperate need of her comfort for his pain, we can no more expect a feverish child to admire our new dress.

I don't know whether you can give your son the comfort and relief I feel he needs. As I don't know him, my feeling could be completely unfounded.
But you do know him. You are the one who knows whether this child who shared with you those last "nightmare" years with his drunken father has emerged from them whole and unharmed—or crushed by the experience of his helplessness.

Meringue Nut Pie

No one will believe you when you say the delicious dessert they are eating has crackers in it. It's a dessert you can make early in the day, ready to add the whipped cream at serving time.

Mrs. Julian Frey, of Birmingham is our cook today. She is an efficient homemaker, the mother of six lively youngsters. She enjoys all kinds of handicraft.

ANGEL PECAN PIE
By Mrs. Julian Frey
3 egg whites
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup butter cracker crumbs
1 1/2 cups chopped pecans
1 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon almond extract

Beat egg whites until foamy. Add the one cup of sugar, a little at a time, beating after each addition. Add one teaspoon vanilla. Continue beating until mixture holds soft peaks.

Mix cracker crumbs and one cup nuts. Fold into meringue mixture. Spoon into 8-inch pie pan to make a shell. Pull mixture into peaks around edge of pan with back of spoon. Spread evenly.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool thoroughly. Mix cream, remaining sugar, vanilla and almond flavoring and whip until thick. Spread over cold pie shell. Sprinkle remaining nuts around edge of cream.

To serve, cut like pie with a sharp knife. Makes 6-8 servings.

A Cigarette's Advantages

NEW YORK (U) — A lot of women manage to live quite happily without groping for a cigarette the first thing every morning.

Often as not, scruples of morality and health have nothing to do with it. These women simply don't like to smoke.

But fastidious, clean-living girls though they are, once in a while they get a twinge of wistfulness because they've run into a situation where a cigarette would help things immeasurably.

Random research among some feminine non-smokers have turned up these points:

• When you smoke you often eat less, say women who use it as an appetite-depressant. It could be, of course, that your taste buds curl up in disgust and refuse to be tempted by goodies.

• You drink less at a party if you're smoking, some girls insist.

Polly's Pointers

Handy Lint Remover

By POLLY CHAMER

DEAR POLLY — I carry a brush hair roller in my purse to use as a miniature lint brush for clothes.

Anytime I get hair or lint on my clothes, I take out this brush roller, intended for putting up the hair, and brush off my coat or dress. — BONNIE

DEAR POLLY — I always liked the added color that bright place mats bring to a table and have assembled quite a collection of them.

Some have weave and waffle-like patterns that hold spills and spots and thus need cleaning every time they are used.

I simply dip the mats in my clean dishwasher just before doing the dishes, rinse with warm water and roll each mat in a small turkish hand towel.

Later, unroll and they are clean, dry and ready to use again or to put away in a drawer — MRS. M.K.

DEAR POLLY — We use side-saddle bicycle baskets for convenient, out of the way storage of long playing photograph records.

We spray them to match the room's decor and hang on the wall in an attractive grouping.

An unusual record cover is placed on the front of each basket so these are attractive and unique as well as handy decorations.

I also keep an extra bicycle basket in my kitchen cupboard as a place to store pot lids and cookie sheets. Mine sits right on the cupboard floor but could be hung on the wall.

In making clothes for my small son, I find children's coloring books are an excellent source for applique patterns — MRS. K. R. E.

LBJ in Doghouse Over Ear-Pulling but Gets Some Backing

NEW YORK (AP)—A few defenders have joined the dog fight over President Johnson's handling of his beagles. The President still is in the doghouse with many persons for lifting the dogs by their ears. As the President's ears were boxed by dog lovers, who set up a chorus of yelps about his handling of the beagles, him and

Her, on Monday, a dog expert overseas came to his defense.

Bernard Workman of London, chairman of the canine defense league, said today, "I don't believe that a beagle comes to any harm by picking it up by the ears. Their ears are particularly strong."

Workman added: "Most people know how to handle their own dogs best."

NOTES UPROAR
The President took note of the uproar Tuesday. He said he had picked up the dogs by the ears so an Associated Press photographer could take a picture. Then he smiled and added that an AP reporter "wrote a story about my being inhuman." The story included some adverse comment by dog lovers.

The AP photographer said he had made no request for such a picture.

Press secretary George Reed, asked whether there was any White House reaction to the complaints by dog lovers, said: "I haven't heard from them as yet. I've heard nothing about it other than a few stories I've read in the papers."

Critics of Johnson included veterinarians, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and officials of the American Kennel Club and the National Beagle Club.

JUST GO PROPAGANDA

A defender of the President was Melvin Schlesinger, president of a Kansas City kennel club, who said all the barking was just "Republican propaganda."

He added: "He's just playing with the dog. The dog in the picture is still standing on its hind legs. You often pick up a beagle that way by its ears to see how it looks. That can't hurt it."

But Louise Ruck of Oklahoma City, president of the National Association of Dog Writers, said picking up a long-eared dog by the ears is painful to the dog and humiliating.

After Johnson released the dogs' ears, he was asked why he did it.

LIKES TO HEAR YELPS
"To make him bark," Johnson said. "It's good for him. And if you've ever followed dogs, you like to hear them yelp."

London newspapers turned out big headlines to accompany pictures of the incident.

"A Big Yelp — 'President Cruel' Rumpus," said the Daily Mirror.

"LBJ Shocks Doglovers," cried the Daily Mail.

The New York Herald Tribune commented in jest editorially:

"The inside story of President Johnson's much-publicized handling of his pet beagles is that he didn't really intend any cruelty to dumb animals. He'd simply forgotten what they were. He thought they were a couple of senators."

Helicopter Crash Kills 6 in Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Military authorities identified early today the three crewmen of an Army helicopter that crashed in stormy weather on Portage Glacier near Whittier yesterday killing the five soldiers and a civilian aboard.

The dead include Lt. Robert J. Gilbert, pilot; CWO Robert L. Maynard, copilot; and Sp. 6 Mason A. Wilson, the crew chief. All were married and lived with their families at Ft. Richardson here.

The wreckage was found by another helicopter that began a search in midafternoon when the first craft became overdue on a flight from the port of Whittier 50 miles southeast of here.

The search helicopter was forced by the weather to leave the scene quickly, but the pilot reported there were no survivors.

IDENTIFY LATER
A Ft. Richardson spokesman said the other three victims would be identified later today. He said the other soldiers were of the 33rd Signal Detachment based temporarily at Whittier since Alaska's earthquake March 27.

The civilian probably was one of many Alaskans who are being ferried on military aircraft during the quake-caused emergency.

Negro Woman to Run in Arkansas District

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Florence Clay, a Negro, has filed for Democratic nomination to Congress in Arkansas' heavily segregationist Mississippi River delta.

Mrs. Clay, a widow who operates a funeral home in Forrest City, will oppose Rep. E. G. Gathings of the 1st District in the July 28 primary. She is the first Negro candidate for a major office in the delta.

Illegal Gambling Brings In Biggest Take for Syndicate

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second article in a four-part series on organized crime in Michigan written by Associated Press newsmen Gene Schroeder.)

By GENE SCHROEDER
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT—The wheel of fortune—in all forms of gambling—is spinning a web of crime, corruption and callous disregard for law in Michigan that spells nothing but headaches for law enforcement authorities.

Illegal gambling, traditionally the treasure chest of the underworld, has brought millions of dollars of profit to criminal syndicates in the state in recent years.

This money, along with illicit millions from narcotics, extortion, skylocking, labor racketeering, prostitution and other forms of vice, is being poured into legitimate business enterprises to an extent that is causing concern among federal, state and local officials.

In addition, there are indications that a substantial portion of organized crime's ill-gotten gains works its way into politics—sometimes in the form of outright bribery but more often in campaign contributions to needy or greedy candidates, who later can repay the favor.

PERENNIAL PROBLEM
While conceding that illegal gambling is a perennial problem which—like the common cold—may never be stamped out completely, law enforcement experts feel that some headway is being made in Michigan.

The major form of gambling plaguing Michigan's largest cities is the numbers racket, most authorities agree. Horse race bookmaking runs a close second.

Some 25,000 persons in the greater Detroit area alone gain either all or part of their income from the numbers racket, according to U.S. District Attorney Lawrence Gubow. They operate in the counties of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Monroe.

Other forms of gambling include dice games, football and other sports pools and card games.

NATIONALITY MAKEUP

According to crime specialists, the nationality makeup of a community generally determines the type of gambling which prevails. The numbers racket, for example, usually flourishes where there is a large Negro population.

Largely because of pressure from federal agencies, working in conjunction with local police, Michigan's branch of the Mafia pulled out of numbers last October 25, it was learned.

"There was a definite drop-off in numbers betting for a while—but the vacuum was filled within a few days by other operators," says John Olaszewski, Intelligence Division chief of the Internal Revenue Service in Detroit.

Olaszewski's immediate superior, Raphael Nixon, IRS district director—points out that while some forms of gambling can be handled on a limited scale by small-time individual operators, the numbers racket generally is highly organized.

SMALL OPERATIONS

"The small operations don't last too long," Nixon explained, "because they either get a big hit by a winner, which on payoffs or are swallowed up by larger operators." Bookies in Michigan, as elsewhere, have three basic requirements in the business of taking bets on the horses: the line, layoffs and results.

The morning line of odds is needed to quote expectable payoff prices to customers, and the payoff outlet is required to spread the risk of heavy wagering on a particular horse.

As for getting the results, Michigan bookies are more fortunate than their brethren in other localities not so close to the Canadian border.

WINDSOR STATION

Until recently, according to investigators, many simply tuned in to a Windsor radio station to get the results from major tracks. But since the station recently discontinued such broadcasts, the bookies now listen to another nearby Canadian station.

Whether they are in Detroit, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Battle Creek or any other major Michigan city, those who do not monitor radio results tend to subscribe to a service traditionally provided by the Mafia or some other syndicate.

ONE IN EVERY TOWN

Does Michigan have bookies in every town of more than 10,000 population, as a crime investigating commission reported in the case in New York state?

"No," says Olaszewski, whose assignment with the Internal Revenue Service embraces enforcement of special laws applying to gambling operators.

"We find that county fairs which feature horse racing among their attractions frequently draw small-time bookies, however," Olaszewski disclosed.

Michigan's bookmaking activities differ from those in many other states, says Olaszewski, thanks mainly to effective enforcement efforts by state and local police. Much of the action is limited to the curbstone bookies who make the rounds of barber shops, pool halls and bars.

CIGAR STAND

"There are no walk-in bookmaking establishments where a customer can sit down and relax all day, although you may occasionally find a cigar stand or similar establishment taking bets," he explained, adding:

"Effective enforcement has driven the bookies underground in Michigan. This is especially true in Detroit, Grand Rapids, Flint and Kalamazoo, all of which have had fine results in gambling detection."

Olaszewski also feels that Michigan is more fortunate than other states such as Ohio, because state police here are empowered to investigate gambling in cities and towns.

In many states this power is bestowed exclusively on local forces, which frequently are neither trained nor manned to handle the problem of organized gambling effectively.

PUBLIC TOLERANCE

Virtually every law enforcement official interviewed by the Associated Press voiced concern over the public attitude of tolerance toward illegal gambling activities.

"If the public was only aware of what it is doing to itself, we might have better cooperation in collecting taxes," says Olaszewski.

The general feeling seems to be one of "Who cares if I want to take a chance with my own money?"

What this adds up to, however, is a tremendous economic power in the hands of the kingpins of the underworld.

Mafia FIGURES

It enables Mafia figures to live in luxurious mansions, to make large donations—directly or indirectly—to political campaigns and to infiltrate, influence or take over legitimate businesses.

These hoodlums in grey flannel suits, sporting Ivy League haircuts and memberships in some of the best yacht and country clubs, are constantly being shielded and protected by public apathy.

Some businessmen who have placed large bets and wound up owing money to gamblers, sometimes are forced to turn over an interest in the business to the underworld.

Or they may turn to shylocks, who lend money at exorbitant rates of interest, to get the cash to pay off the gambling debts. This can wind up with the shylocks themselves gaining control of the business.

DIRECTLY INVOLVED

The Internal Revenue Service is directly involved in the policing of gambling operators because of a law that was passed after the Kefauver Crime Committee investigations a decade ago.

The law requires the annual purchase of a $50 gambling tax stamp and the payment by gambling principals of a 10 per cent tax of profits. Penalties for perjury or failure to file a return range up to five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

The law applies mainly to bookies and numbers racket operators.

Authorities generally concede that most of the numbers business is concentrated in large manufacturing plants, which are difficult to police.

RELUCTANCE

Spokesmen for the Big Three auto manufacturers indicate a reluctance to discuss the subject, especially where statistics on disciplinary actions are concerned.

"We'd rather not reveal or discuss such figures," said a Chrysler spokesman, who did disclose that a company rule against gambling is part of a "Guide to Good Conduct" for employees.

Violation of the rule—and a similar regulation at General Motors—can lead to disciplinary action ranging from reprimand to discharge.

In testimony before the Kefauver Committee, Gordon Walker, manager of the Securities and Communications Department for the Ford Motor Company, said there were 456 disciplinary actions for gambling at the mammoth River Rouge plant in the years 1948, 1949 and 1950.

154 PROSECUTIONS

Prosecutions during this period totaled 154, of which 151 resulted in convictions.

"Unfortunately," said Walker, "statistics do not give any indication of the total number of employees or dollar volume involved."

Senate investigators said there was no reason to believe that there was more gambling per capita at the Rouge plant than elsewhere in the automotive industry.

Detroit police inspector John O'Neill, former head of the vice squad, estimates that $100 million is bet on the numbers annually in the Detroit area alone, plus another $144 million a year with the bookies on horses.

UNHAPPY WITH FIRMS

O'Neill is unhappy with many of the Motor City's industrialists.

"In factories, numbers and handbook operations flourish unabated," he says. "This is a sad commentary on management. We have no way of entering plants unless invited, and the managements seldom invite us."

But not all law enforcement officials are so harsh on management.

One investigator explained that both management and the labor unions sometimes are handicapped when it comes to cooperation.

UNDERCOVER AGENT

"The chief stumbling block in trying to put an undercover agent into a plant is the provision written into most contracts respecting seniority in the rehiring of workers."

"If an agent—a new face—suddenly shows up on the assembly line, the workers and shop stewards want to know why he was hired ahead of those on the seniority list."

"But if you have to explain the situation to the stewards, then too many people know about the investigation—and your undercover man might as well wear a big sign announcing why he's there."

Walker, who testified that investigative findings at the Ford Rouge plant are made available promptly to interested police departments, declined to estimate the dollar volume of gambling there.

But an insight into the extent of the operation was gained with the testimony of the Dearborn police chief that he had been offered a bribe of up to $5,000 a month to 'lay off the numbers operators."

Bribery of police and other officials for protection of gamblers often is regarded as a normal operating expense by the syndicates. Authorities in small suburban cities are the ones most frequently approached today, but that has not always been the case.

As the result of grand jury findings some years ago, a former Lansing police chief and the retired head of the uniformed division of the state police pleaded guilty to an indictment charging them with accepting bribes to protect slot machine operations in the state capital.

And Detroit itself has not always been as clean as federal sources say it is today.

At one time, Detroit citizens were shocked by wholesale indictments which sent to jail a former mayor, the former prosecuting attorney, the former sheriff, the former superintendent of police and some 250 police officers for accepting graft from a gambling syndicate.

Navy Plan Permits Missile Recovery From Ocean Floor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States could acquire the means for snagging both Soviet and American test missile warheads from the ocean floor under a broad new plan for improving U.S. ability to work deep undersea. This would be a by-product of a potentially invaluable by-product of the program just proposed by a Navy group.

The study was prompted by the loss of the nuclear submarine Thresher more than a year ago and the frustrating effort to locate its ruptured hull about 8,400 feet deep in the Atlantic off Cape Cod.

Publication of the group's summary report Tuesday disclosed that the panel of Navy and Air Force experts and American scientists had gone well beyond finding better means to rescue submariners in distress and to reach sunken well below the relatively shallow levels in which such operations are now practicable.

MAXIMUM DEPTH

One goal spelled out in the report calls for "efficient search, investigation and recovery of aerospace hardware down to 20,000 feet." That is the maximum depth in over 98 per cent of the world's oceans.

Navy Captain John H. Dolan, who heads the study group, said the Air Force is greatly interested in this program because it might permit more accurate and swifter analysis of what went wrong with a missile or space rocket in an unsuccessful test.

The way things are now, a missile test warhead and its carrier rocket casing are generally lost once they land in deep water.

Officials refused to talk about the possible use of deep submergence "working submarines" and other equipment to salvage Soviet warheads fired into the Pacific or other ocean areas in missile tests.

Such Soviet tests, even if unannounced, are watched on U.S. radar. American patrol planes and ships have noted the splash of Soviet test warheads in past tests into the Pacific, according to reliable reports.

The armed forces operate about 5,000 helicopters. Another 1,500 are owned by civilians.

President Sees Further Tax Cuts 'Few Years Down the Road'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Less than two months after an $11.5-billion income tax reduction went on the books, President Johnson has held out the prospect of trimming taxes still further—but not for a few years.

“It is still too early to make firm promises on further tax cuts,” Johnson said in remarks prepared for a dinner attended by many of the nation’s business leaders Tuesday night.

“But if this one is a success—as I have every reason to believe it will be—in building production, creating jobs, raising profits, and generating revenues to balance the budget, then I see, another tax cut a few years down the road,” the President continued.

But he cautioned: “We can move to this second round of tax reduction only if we behave ourselves this year.”

On the heels of his warm reception Monday from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce convention, Johnson invited more than 50 corporation presidents and board chairmen and their wives to the private White House dinner.

“For as long as I am president,” he told them, “the leaders of industry and finance are going to be welcome in this house.”

He said that “to sit down and exchange views with you from time to time is vital to the health of our free enterprise economy.”

The President has announced plans for a similar dinner early next month with top labor union officials.

The President said it was up to business and labor to prevent costs and prices from creeping upward.

Urging the business leaders to keep a tight rein on prices, he said that when he dines with labor leaders, “I will tell them that I know they don’t want to push so hard for wage increases this year that they would hurt a lot of people and start a spiral going from their side.”

Johnson said he hopes business and labor can “emulate the railroad people” who last week settled their five-year-old dispute and prevented a nationwide rail strike.

Noting that the recent tax cut reduced corporation levies by one-fifth, Johnson said “we have done this in an administration some people have called ‘antibusiness.’”

Hopeful Trout Anglers Discover Fenton Ponds 'Dry'

There's nothing more frustrating than fishing a pond or stream knowing that it should be bulging with trout eager to grab any lure and catching nothing.

That's what happened to over a hundred fishermen who opened the trout season Saturday at three Oakland County locations.

Hopeful at the beginning, disillusioned and downhearted by midmorning, these unlucky anglers didn't know that they never stood a chance of catching a trout. Some probably still don't know why.

The Fenton trout ponds, where a majority of the unfortunate beat the waters to a foam with their imitation flies and streamers, didn't contain a fish until late Monday.

There may have been a few carryover trout from last year in Trout and Spring Creeks near Lake Orion, but the fishermen didn't prove it.

Rainbows, brown and brook trout that were supposed to have been stocked, said conserva-before opening day were still at the state hatcheries. Fenton ponds was the big disaster area.

Fishermen didn't find out until the middle of the morning that they would have caught just as many fish if they had been delicately dropping their flies on a concrete road instead of the water.

The two ponds had been poisoned last fall. Plans called for replanting the ponds.

ON THE LIST

"I assumed the ponds had been stocked," said conservation officer Harold Stoll of Fenton. "They were on the list I received showing planted lakes and streams."

"I realized something might have been wrong when I talked with fishermen at Davisburg pond who said they'd been at Fenton all morning and no one had a strike."

Stoll said he drove to the ponds, found that no one had seen a fish caught or had any indication fish were around.

"I called in and found out that no trout had been planted."

No signs were posted informing anglers there were no fish. They just fished on, hoping the "trout" would bite.

Stoll said the ponds were stocked Monday and fishermen were taking good catches yesterday morning.

As for the two streams near Lake Orion:

"They are on the list to receive trout," said conservation officer Cyril Adams of Lake Orion. "But the fish boys have been behind schedule."

"Fishing was slow at Bald Mountain pond because the spring plant wasn't done. Trout were put in last fall after the pond was poisoned and those are the fish people were catching."

Adams said pressure on the Bald Mountain pond was "extremely heavy."

A few browns were caught at Paint Creek, but here again only a minimum plant was made.

Fishermen trying Graham Lakes had to be content with rainbows stocked last year. Chamberlain Lakes, scheduled to be stocked are without trout. Neighboring Shoe Lake, however, was planted with rainbows.

The situation was much better in other parts of the county. Good catches of browns and rainbows were made from the Huron River in the Proud Lake recreation area.

BROWNS STOCKED

Several browns, 18-21 inches, were stocked and a few turned up in creeks opening weekend.

The Clinton River just above Cass Lake was another good location.

Lake fishing was not as productive although several limits of rainbows were taken at Union, Elizabeth, Square and Deer. Davisburg pond was yielding rainbows up to 14 inches.

"It was a case of those who knew where to fish caught the trout," reported conservation officer Warren Kendall of Rochester. "The one day boys didn't do well."

Only two good catches were reported at Pine Lake where anglers are still trying to figure out the best locations. Rainbows were stocked in Pine for the first time this spring.

Little Alge Lake off Groveland Road was another opening weekend hotspot for rainbows.

Pike season also opened Saturday, but activity was slow.

Several nice northerners were boated at Lakeville Lake. Bluegills are hitting on the Fenton mill pond and at Penomah Lake. Lobdell and Silver Lakes near Linden have been yielding a few muskies.

Conservation officers said that Kent, Judah and Pontiac Lakes are closed to black bass fishing until June 1. Pike are legal on Pontiac.

The latter lake has been classified as experimental the last few years, but was taken off this list April 24.

Trout fishermen who want north for the opener had good and bad luck — depending when and where they fished.

EARLY ANGLER

Harley Hopp Jr., 467 Marion, was one of the early anglers who scored heavily — with one fish.

He netted a 3½-pound brown on the Au Sable between Mio and McKinley. It was the first time he had fished the river. A spinner and nightcrawler fished the 2½-inch fish.

It took 15 minutes to land the brown and when it was cleaned, Hopp found a partially digested legal trout inside the stomach of the old warrior. Conservation biologists estimated the brown's age to be seven or eight years.

Lee Peters of Pontiac, fishing with Hopp, took a 19-inch brown in the same stretch of water. Jim McIntosh and Bruce Bergstrom of Pontiac were along on the trip.

Edward A. Reitmeyer, 74½ Newberry, caught a 3-pound, 19-inch rainbow opening day on the Jordan River.

Spring Horse Show

First Competition of '64 at BOH

Local aficionados of horse shows will have their first competition of the 1964 season at the Bloomfield Open Hunt this weekend.

The official state Horse Show Association circuit, actually started April 18-19 at Grosse Pointe Hunt Club's Spring Horse Show.

Two out-of-state judges will preside. Alex Forman of Mendham, N. J., and Shirley Hugo-Bidal, Stamford, Conn., have agreed to work the show.

Mrs. Hugo-Bidal will do the equitation and dressage events. BOH riders are again expected to score well along with their mounts. Robert M. Lambert Jr. was the show champion in equitation events upon Drag-net at the Grosse Pointe show.

MOVES UP

Alison's brother Rick has graduated into the men's competition this year and may be hard pressed to match his success as a junior rider.

Katy Monahan and Blyth Davis both took high honors on the horses in the 13-and-under junior working hunter events.

Miss Monahan rode Tina and Milltown in different divisions of the class while Miss Davis was aboard How Best That.

Falcon Golfers Trim Kettering

Rochester's golf team handed Kettering a 158-169 trimming over the Pontiac Country Club course yesterday as John Christianson took medalist honors with a 37.

Tom Dunselt of the winners had a 36, equalling Kettering's low by Kinner.

Bloomfield Hills, a team with out practice facilities, found the Highland Hills course to its liking and knocked off Milford's talented team, 202-208.

The Barons currently are searching for a course to practice on, but Ron Holden and Bob Walter did not appear off their game yesterday.

They fired 36s on the par 37 course to lead the winners to their fifth straight win this season. Tim Barnes and John Choate had 39s for Milford.

MUCC Facility at Hamlin Lake

Conservation Camp Preparing to Open

LUDDINGTON — The boy who learns to shoot a bow and arrow never will hold up a gas station with a gun.

The youngster who learns how to steal up to and catch the wary trout will never steal a hubcap.

That is the philosophy behind the outdoor camp for youngsters sponsored by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

The camp is located at Hamlin Lake in Ludington State Park.

Activities include swimming, fishing, boating, volleyball, archery, riflery and every sport available to a group of youngsters. There are classes in fly-fishing, map and compass reading, hunter safety, soil conservation and fish, game and forest management.

The emphasis always is on safety and sportsmanship in all classes of life.

County Shooters on All-America

Florence Schmidt of Royal Oak and Robert Brengle of South Lyon have been named to All-America skeet teams by Sports Affair magazine.

Bob Thielefs of Pontiac and Birmingham's Larry Smith are on the men's second team.

Mrs. Schmidt, the state A10 and 28-gauge champion is on the women's first team. Brengle is on the junior squad. Thielefs is the state all-around champion.

Howard Conder of Detroit and Ken Sedelky of Baldwin made the 12-man first team.

The boys attending are selected by groups interested in the causes of youth and conservation. They select and sponsor a deserving youngster on the basis of his real interest in the out-of-doors.

FUTURE LEADERS

The youngsters who attend

this camp are the type that will become the future leaders in outdoor and conservation work.

It has been described as the finest of its kind in the nation.

Many of the youngsters, after one experience at camp, work all the next year to save money for a return trip.

Wilderness Legislation Moves Ahead in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sponsor of compromise wilderness legislation said today it has a good chance to clear the House.

Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., testified at a House Interior Public Lands Subcommittee hearing on his and other bills which would set up a national wilderness preservation system.

The Dingell bill was introduced after months of negotiations between federal agency spokesmen, White House aides to the late President John F. Kennedy and Chairman Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., of the House Interior Committee.

It's a compromise between a Senate-passed bill, which calls for a large wilderness system with restrictions against commercial and other activities, and measures backed by western congressmen who favor a smaller system and continued mining, logging and other activities.

Face Threat of Cloture on Debate

Southern Senators in Secret Session on Civil Rights Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Faced with the first strong threat of a cloture move to choke off the marathon civil rights debate, Southern senators today hastily called a new secret strategy session.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., told a reporter of the meeting after announcing earlier there would be no further sessions of his forces this week.

He changed his mind after Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., served notice that the pressure for action on

Boy, 8, Dies of Burns

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Arthur Sheets Jr., 8, burned in a gasoline can explosion when he was playing with matches in his back yard April 9, died Tuesday in Bronson Hospital.

the bill from many senators was becoming intense.

Dirksen said he and Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., had agreed they would file a cloture petition next Monday to cut off debate on a pending compromise jury trial amendment unless the Southern senators agreed to a vote by Tuesday.

Dirksen made it clear he was confident the votes would be there to invoke cloture, although this never before has been done on a civil rights bill. It takes two-thirds of those voting to make this move successful. This would mean the support of 67 senators if all 100 were on hand.

Dirksen said he had talked with Russell and had told the Georgian he would like an answer today as to the prospects for a first test vote.

When Dirksen and Mansfield introduced their jury trial amendment last week—a proposal they felt went a long way toward meeting Dixie demands—they voiced confidence of a vote either Monday or today.

OPPOSED TO VOTE

Russell, in telling of today's new strategy meeting, said he remained strongly opposed to any vote this week.

The Georgia senator added there was some disagreement on the point among the 19 Dixie senators, with several feeling they should agree to a vote on the pending amendment. Dirksen said he had detected this split.

The Republican leader said he remained opposed to any move to try to obtain cloture now on the entire bill. He has several amendments of his own to two titles, public accommodations and equal employment opportunity, and he said he wants these given detailed consideration before any vote on debate shut-off.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., floor manager for the bill, told reporters his preference was for cloture on the entire bill. The Minnesota said it was now clear to him the only way to pass the measure was to impose cloture.

Dems Vow Urgent Action on LBJ Appalachian Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's $280-million program to develop the economy of the Appalachian region starts through Congress today and Democratic leaders promised to heed his call for urgent action. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he will press for early hearings so the legislation will be in shape when the Senate completes action on the civil rights bill.

His opposite number, Republican Everett M. Dirksen, declared, however, that he wants to take "a good, hard look" at the program "before reaching a final conclusion."

Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-Va., a senior member of the Public Works Committee, said he would formally introduce the legislation today. Its cosponsor will be Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.

10 STATES

Johnson, in letters to the Senate and House made public Tuesday, defined the Appalachia region as straddling a 10-state area of more than 165,000 square miles "with more than 15 million Americans in residence."

progress, Johnson said, "has passed Appalachia by" because of difficult and sometimes impossible access, inadequate control of water causing both floods and scarcity, and "a mineral base of coal, timber and agriculture sorely in need of creative attention."

"But behind the description of need of a region," he added,

"lies the desolation of a people. 'I have seen the despair and the hopelessness in the faces of these citizens. What exists in this area is a challenge to the ingenuity as well as the compassion of the Congress. There is a shortage not only of promise, but of hope.'

PROGRAM INCLUDES

His programs to help Appalachian citizens "so they can help themselves" are basic; he said, and include:

- A developmental highway system of 2,500 miles with the states sharing in the cost.
- An acceleration of water facilities construction.
- A pasture improvement program.
- An assistance program for timber management.
- Expanded programs for promoting new uses of coal, improved mining practices and land restoration.

- Stepped-up human resources programs.
- Establishment of a federal-state regional commission for comprehensive planning in the "attack on the economic distress in the region."

"This entire program—estimated at $228 million plus $34 million included in the anti-poverty program—was included in the contingency item of $500 million in my 1965 budget," Johnson said.

Ypsilanti Woman Dies

YPSILANTI (AP)—Mrs. Mildred Mary Wood, 78, of Ypsilanti died Tuesday in a Windsor, Ont., hospital of injuries suffered Monday when her car rammed the rear of a truck eight miles east of Windsor.

There was no indication how long the lull would last. U.N. observers reported relative quiet throughout the island.

The commander of the Greek Cypriot forces besieging St. Hilarion Castle said he had halted his drive to consolidate his position. Some of his forces were only 200 yards from the medieval fortress, a key to the Turkish-held Kyrenia Pass and the highway through it, which connects Nicosia with the north coast of Cyprus.

The Greek commander declared he could take the castle any time he wished with his 350 men. About 150 Turkish Cypriot fighters were believed in the castle and the area of the pass a mile to the west.

FEW SHOTS

In Nicosia, where sporadic shooting between the Greek and Turkish Cypriot quarters is routine, only four shots were heard during the night.

Indian Lt. Gen. Prem Singh (Gyani), the U.N. commander, declared the Greek offensive to gain control of the main Nicosia-Kyrenia highway had swept aside his proposals for a cease-fire on the island and had serious implications for the role of his month-old force.

Gyani said he had sent U.N. Secretary-General U Thant a full report on the offensive.

Gyani issued a general appeal for peace on Cyprus. He said he was assured by President Makarios, the Greek Cypriot leader, and Vice President Fazil Ku-chuk, head of the Turkish Cypriot community, that they want peace and normalcy restored.

Makarios' government said the Kyrenia operation had been launched to prevent further Turkish infiltration and restore normal conditions. A government statement charged Turkish positions along the Kyrenia Mountains were firing almost daily on Greek villages below and were endangering movement along the only alternate route between Nicosia and Kyrenia.

That was in Paris and was expected to discuss the situation with the U.N. mediator for Cyprus, Sakari Tuomioja of Finland, who arrived there Tuesday after conferences in Turkey and Greece.

The U.N. forces were prevented from military intervention to stop the fighting by detailed restrictions on their operations. The restrictions stem mostly from demands by nations contributing troops that their men not be put needlessly into positions where they would be shooting at Cypriots or being shot at by them.

Greeks Have Word—Good

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Next Sunday is the Greek Easter. That seems like reason enough to try a couple of Greek recipes.

At the recent dinner given by the Oakland County branch of Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, one of the special dishes was Moussaka. This eggplant casserole is a specialty of Mrs. Janet Hawley's of Bloomfield Hills.

As the main course for a buffet dinner, it should make a hit.

MOUSSAKA

1 eggplant, about 2 1/4 pounds
2 tablespoons cooking oil
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3-4 medium tomatoes
4 egg yolks
1 small onion chopped
3 pounds ground lamb or veal
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 pint yogurt
1/2 cup sifted flour

Peel and slice eggplant in 1/4-inch slices; salt slices on both sides and let stand one hour.
Meanwhile chop onion and saute in fat. Add meat, salt, paprika and pepper. Brown slightly. Pour off any excess fat into another frying pan.
Dip eggplant slices in flour and brown on both sides in hot fat drained from meat, adding more fat if necessary.

In 3-quart casserole arrange alternate layers of meat mixture and browned eggplant. Top with tomato slices.

Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Stir egg yolks and yogurt into the 1/2 cup flour and mix well. Pour over top of casserole and bake 15 more minutes, or until browned. Serves 10.

TRY COOKIES

Greek cooks make use of those delicate little seeds called sesame. Below is a cookie recipe which calls for them.

No need to confine your making of these cookies to the Greek Easter time. They're good all through the year.

GREEK TEA COOKIES

3/4 cups sifted flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks
3/3 cup sugar
1/2 cup corn oil
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup milk
2 egg whites
1 egg
2 tablespoons water
1/4 cup sesame seeds

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together; set aside.

Beat egg yolks in mixing bowl until thick and lemon colored. Gradually add sugar, beating until fluffy. Beat in corn oil alternately with orange juice. Add vanilla.

Mix in 1 1/2 cups sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, then fold into batter. Fold in remaining sifted dry ingredients.

Gently knead on lightly floured board about 2 minutes. Divide dough into four parts. Shape each part as directed below.

Beat egg and water together. Brush on cookies. Sprinkle cookies with sesame seeds. Place on ungreased cookie sheet.

Bake in 350 degrees F. (moderate) oven until browned about 15 minutes. Makes about 3 1/2 dozen medium cookies.

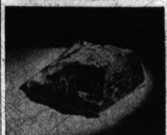

Boats: Pinch off rounded half teaspoonfuls of dough. Roll on lightly floured board with palms of hands to form ropes 2 1/4 inches long. Place three ropes side by side; pinch ends together.

Curliques: Pinch off rounded tablespoonfuls of dough. Roll on lightly floured board with palms of hands to form ropes 8 inches long. Curl ends of rope turning each end in an opposite direction until the curls meet in the center.

Zigzags: Pinch off rounded tablespoonfuls of dough. Roll on lightly floured board with palms of hand to form ropes 8 inches long. Turn each rope back and forth to form zigzag shape.

Braids: Pinch off rounded half teaspoonfuls of dough. Roll on lightly floured board with palms of hand to form ropes 8 inches long. Pinch 3 ropes together at one end. Braid, then pinch loose ends together.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Beef Outside (Bottom) Round Pot-Roast.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. It is a thick cut from the outside of the beef round. It is slightly irregular in shape.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By braising. As with other pot-roasts, first brown the meat in lard or drippings. Pour off the drippings, add a small amount of liquid and cover the cooking utensil tightly. The meat should cook slowly about 3 to 4 hours until tender.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Test Reveals True Rheumatoid Arthritis

Q—Please explain the importance of the rheumatoid factor in the diagnosis of rheumatoid arthritis. Do all people with this disease have a positive test?

A—Blood tests for the rheumatoid factor are positive in about 75 per cent of adults with rheumatoid arthritis.

The test does not become positive until the victim has had the disease for six months or more.

The more severe the disease—especially with complications in the blood vessels, spleen and nervous system—the more strongly positive the test.

If the test remains positive for a period of months, the disease is likely to grow progressively worse. It is rarely positive in children who have this disease.

Q—I'm a 26-year-old man. I was to be married but my blood test came back positive for syphilis. Does this mean I can never get married?

A—You should not consider marriage until you have had sufficient treatment so that your doctor can assure you that you are cured.

Otherwise, you could pass this infection on to your wife, she could pass it on to your children.

Q—My husband has polycythemia. What is it? Is it a form of cancer? Can a person with this disease be cured?

A—He has a red cell count in his blood that is much higher than normal. This is not a form of cancer.

The cause in many cases is unknown. It may, however, be associated with emphysema, silicosis and other diseases.

until a careful examination is made to determine the underlying cause. If the cause is not found and removed, the disease cannot be cured but it can be controlled.

The red cell count can be lowered by bleeding. It is sometimes necessary to remove a pint of blood once or twice a week at first.

Some doctors prefer to inject radio-active phosphorus into the vein. This works more slowly than bleeding.

If one treatment is not enough as determined by subsequent blood cell counts, it is repeated in about 12 weeks.

A MOTHER'S CARE — Dennis Burke (center), 8, gets motherly care from Mrs. Richard Burke moments after they were reunited early today in Memphis. At right is brother Ricky, 12. Here, mother is trying to zip up sweater. Dennis was released by the FBI, after being kidnapped four days ago and found safe in New Orleans.

Held 4 Days by Wanted Fugitive

Captive Boy Is Reunited With Parents

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A brave boy returned home today with his joyful parents after four days as the captive of a man the FBI called a dangerous psycho-path.

Dennis Burke, 8, was rescued by FBI agents in New Orleans, La., Tuesday and Joseph Francis Bryan Jr., one of the nation's "10 most wanted" fugitives was arrested.

The FBI flew the boy from New Orleans to Memphis, where he rejoined his parents and 12-year-old brother in an emotional reunion at the airport.

"There he is," gasped Mrs. Richard Burke when she spotted her son. She swept him into her arms. "There's my baby. Hi, honey. Hi, baby."

The chipper lad, clad in striped polo shirt, blue jeans and tennis shoes seemed more upset over being kissed in public than by his recent adventure.

Mrs. Burke had collapsed in tears earlier after getting word that her son, kidnapped from nearby Humboldt, Tenn., last Friday, was safe.

Dennis had been missing since he left his brother at a Humboldt snack bar to go home for a baseball. His bicycle was found near his house.

Police had been looking for Bryan in the area in connection with the kidnapping of a South Carolina boy, Dennis' disappearance intensified the hunt.

WHITE CADILLAC

The search was widened. Officers said Bryan was driving a white Cadillac stolen at the Keeneland, Ky., race track and it was spotted on the outskirts of New Orleans.

Bryan of Audubon Park, N.J. was arraigned before a federal commissioner in New Orleans. He was charged with kidnapping John D. Robinson, 10, of Mount Pleasant, S.C., last Feb. 27.

The boy's unclipped body was found near Hallandale, Fla., March 31.

"I don't understand what this kidnapping is," muttered Bryan in an almost inaudible voice. "I didn't kidnap nobody."

Bond was set at $100,000 on the kidnap charge, with another $50,000 on a charge of unlawful flight from South Carolina to avoid prosecution.

State Patrolmen Plan Open House for Next Month

For the eighth successive year, the Pontiac post of the Michigan State Police will open its doors to the public on May 19, Hospitality Day of Michigan Week.

Visitors will be escorted on tours of the post from noon to 9 p.m., said Sgt. John Amthor, commanding officer. Questions will be answered and information given on the services provided.

"Although visitors are always welcome," said Amthor, "the open house offers an opportunity to find out how a post operates."

The Pontiac post is at 1295 N. Telegraph near the County Service Center.

Red China Announces New Foreign Minister

TOKYO — Communist China announced today that its former ambassador to Moscow, Wang Ping-nan, has been named a vice minister of foreign affairs.

Wang was the Chinese representative in ambassadorial talks with the United States held since 1955, first in Geneva and then in Warsaw.

Cigarettes Back in Vogue, Sales Show

NEW YORK (AP) — "Most smokers seem to be getting over the cancer scare. After all, most people don't worry about the atom bomb!" — a Denver distributor of tobacco products.

"I guess everyone figures he won't be the one to get cancer" — an Atlanta druggist.

"I ask customers about cancer and they say it's for the younger ones to stop smoking. The older generation is a goner anyway" — a Hollywood salesgirl.

Cigarette smoking is back in vogue and these are some of the reasons smokers are giving. The turnaround began last month and continued through April, a bare three months since a U.S. government report linked cigarette smoking to cancer.

BOOSTED STOCKS

The change has boosted the price of cigarette company stocks, and brightened the sales outlook for manufacturers, whose revenue lagged in the first quarter.

The report also has brought new emphasis on charcoal-filtered brands and what promises to be an entirely new approach to cigarette advertising.

Most experts had expected the report would fail to knock out cigarette smoking since past health scares have had only temporary effects.

But few expected so many smokers to abandon so quickly their traditions to quit or cut down smoking.

A Louisville tobacco retailer, quoting customers, came up with another reason why many regulars resumed smoking so quickly: "We were gaining too much weight."

On Jan. 11 an advisory committee to the surgeon general of the United States branded cigarette smoking as the major cause of lung cancer and a contributing factor to other serious diseases.

The committee recommended appropriate remedial action without elaborating.

A nationwide survey by The Associated Press determined that cigarette sales are back to normal or near normal in most major cities.

Retail and wholesale sales equaling or approaching pre-Jan. 11 levels were reported in Minneapolis, Detroit, Chicago, Albany, San Francisco, Seattle, Dallas, Los Angeles, Raleigh, Atlanta, Boston, Columbia, S.C., Charlotte and Durham, N.C.

Commission Okays Plan for Financing of Freeway

After three years of ups and downs, the proposed $3.9-million M59 freeway extension in Pontiac ended on the "upside" last night.

City commissioners unanimously approved a final agreement between the city and State Highway Department for financing construction of the freeway which will link the perimeter road and I-75 to the east.

Construction is expected to get under way sometime this summer, according to City Engineer Joseph E. Neippling.

Bids will probably be opened late in May on a portion of the freeway from I-75 to the Grand Truck Western Railroad tracks near Pontiac's sewage treatment plant.

Bids on the portion from the railroad tracks to the Perimeter Road are currently scheduled to be opened Aug. 9.

The city committed $336,250 from local gas and weight tax revenues to pay the local share of the total project cost.

COST DIVIDED

The state's share is $1,618,750 and the remaining $1,750,000 will be paid from federal funds.

Local officials began eyeing the freeway project in 1961 and the state, then, scheduled it to coincide with Perimeter Road construction.

In January 1962 the state said it would be delayed until, after 1967 due to a lack of funds.

Following a series of local appeals, the state announced in May 1963 that the freeway would be scheduled to start in the summer of 1963.

Then, commissioners decided to delay improvements on the Clinton River east of Union due to excessive costs. The work involved freeway crossings over the river and some relocation of the channel.

Thus, the freeway was put off another year.

The project involves extending East Huron as a one-way eastbound leg and the use of Mt. Clemens as one-way westbound between Paddock and the Perimeter Road.

The two would meet at Paddock and become a four-lane, divided, limited access freeway east to I-75.

New Court Bill Creates Fight

LANSING (AP) — A bill calling for a State Appeals Court of nine single-judge districts, and election of the Michigan Supreme Court by districts today plunged the legislature into a new apportionment squabble.

Church Chiefs Back Rights

Carry Message to Johnson, Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish faiths — pledged to a moral crusade for racial equality — carry their message today to President Johnson and to Capitol Hill.

They proclaimed it last night before more than 6,000 people at Georgetown University, declaring that enactment of a strong civil rights bill is the business of America's churches.

"We are embarked on a crusade that will not be ended until every American is given equal right, equal opportunities and full recognition of his human dignity," said the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Roman Catholic archbishop of Washington.

Five church leaders dedicated themselves to the crusade at the National Interreligious Convocation on Civil Rights.

Today 150 churchmen of all faiths carry it to the White House for an appointment with President Johnson. The President sent to the convocation a message of praise for "those who are working for a country in which there shall be no discrimination."

WORSHIP SERVICES

On Capitol Hill, Protestant leaders scheduled the first in a series of worship services underscoring their concern about civil rights.

The services will be held daily at the Lutheran Church of the Reformation while the Senate is considering Johnson's broad civil rights bill.

"We feel that this is an issue where moral and spiritual factors should dominate the political process," Rabbi Uri Miller of Baltimore, president of the Synagogue Council of America, told the convocation.

Only a handful of the congressmen the churchmen hope to convince were at the gathering. Among them were the floor managers of the Johnson bill, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Sen. Thomas Kuchel, R-Calif.

"Just as our leaders advised against stall-ins at the World's Fair," said Bishop E. Julian Smith of Chicago, "we in the name of our common Father advise against stall-ins by the United States Senate against civil rights legislation."

yesterday reported out the drastically-amended version of an appeals court bill which had passed the Senate.

By providing for nine separate districts, the bill was in clear defiance of a Michigan Supreme Court edict that the appeals court, created by the new constitution, must be comprised of three districts of three judges each.

Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Oakland County, this morning flatly termed the House bill "obviously unconstitutional."

He predicted the bill would head for the House Apportionment Committee where "it will be cleaned up and put back into its original form."

INTRODUCED BILL

Roberts introduced the bill passed by the Senate for three 3-judge districts, in line with a State Supreme Court opinion.

The Senate version had complied with the guideline, which was expressed earlier this year in an unusual "letter to the legislature" from the high court.

Disagreement over the structure of the appeals court could revive the House-Senate battle that resulted in death of a court bill in the second special session of 1963.

But at the same time there was no immediate indication of how seriously lawmakers might take the amendments, which were sponsored by Rep. Carroll Newton, R-Dalton.

Gov. William W. Scranton easily swept Pennsylvania's Republican presidential preference primary yesterday, establishing a state record for write-ins and rolling up more than 60 per cent of the total GOP vote for president.

But it seemed open to interpretation whether this showing would be regarded by the 46-year-old, first-term governor as a popular clamor from his home state to become a presidential candidate, as state leaders hope.

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, was an impressive second, with more than 20 per cent.

None of the leading presidential possibilities campaigned in the state and no names were on the ballot.

Governor Sets New Record for Write-Ins

Wins 60 Per Cent of Pennsylvania GOP; Bdrly Is Poor Third

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —

Gov. William W. Scranton easily swept Pennsylvania's Republican presidential preference primary yesterday, establishing a state record for write-ins and rolling up more than 60 per cent of the total GOP vote for president.

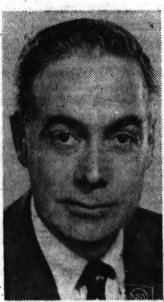

But it seemed open to interpretation whether this showing would be regarded by the 46-year-old, first-term governor as a popular clamor from his home state to become a presidential candidate, as state leaders hope.

Area Firm Burns; 1 Employee Critical

Fire crews from more than 12 area communities this morning fought flames which razed almost half of the Walled Lake Wholesale and Manufacturing Co. in Commerce Township.

The blaze also severely burned Cynthia Carr, an employee who worked in the rear shipping area where the fire started shortly before 10 a.m. She is reported in critical condition at William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak.

The 35,000-square-foot building is located at 2700 W. Maple just west of Haggerty.

The firm is Reynolds Aluminum distributor for the state. Cowowner Donald Hoffman said aluminum products, along with paint and solvents, were in the rear half of the building. He noted they were fully insured.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Traffic was detoured off Maple to allow fire trucks access to the four-section building. Hoffman estimated almost half the cement-block structure had been gutted by 11:30 a.m.

State Budget Cut $8 Million

LANSING (UPI) — The House and Senate appropriating committees finished polishing up Gov. George Romney's general fund budget requests early today by chipping away $8 million from the record $633 million asked.

The House Ways and Means Committee proved to be the biggest cost cutter, trimming the budget for higher education by $7.1 million and lopping $1.9 million off the capital outlay request.

The cuts brought the higher education figure down to $140.9 million and dropped capital outlay to $56.2 million.

Despite the recommended cutbacks, enactment of the budget bills sent down from the committees would still raise Michigan's general fund expenditures in the fiscal year beginning July 1 approximately $90 million over the current year's spending.

A total of $550 million was appropriated last year, but no more than $535 million is expected to be spent from the general fund.

Operating expenses in fiscal 1964-65 would total $474.8 million, capital outlay $56.2 million and the elementary and secondary school aid fund $94.4 million to account for the total figure of $625.6 million.

Traffic Death

A Waterford Township minister was killed yesterday when a small piece of steel knifed through his car windshield and penetrated his skull as he was passing a truck on M59 in White Lake Township.

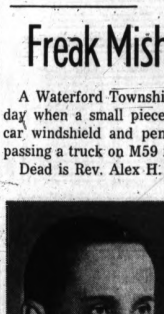

Dead is Rev. Alex H. Kasten, 50, of 3410 Airport, pastor of the Faith Baptist Church in Drayton Plains.

White Lake Township police said Kasten, eastbound on M59 at 12:30 p.m. was overtaking a tractor-trailer when the metal apparently was thrown up from the road by the wheels of the truck.

Unaware of what happened, the truck driver, Dallas Hart of Lansing, continued on. Later, the truck and tractor, owned by U.S. Truck of Detroit, were located at Pontiac Motor and examined for any defects. None were found.

Returns Are Slow as Clerks Untangle Huge Massachusetts Ballot

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts Republicans gave their favorite son, Henry Cabot Lodge, a resounding endorsement for the GOP nomination for president in yesterday's primary.

Lodge topped Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona in the write-in vote in the preference column by a margin of better than 7 to 1 in incomplete returns.

President Johnson topped the write-ins on the Democratic ballot.

In Saigon, South Viet Nam, where he is U.S. ambassador, Lodge said, "It means much to me that my fellow citizens of Massachusetts have shown this confidence in me."

He declined further comment.

RETURNS SLOW

Ten delegates at large who favor Lodge were elected, but results in the district delegate races were determined slowly.

Many communities stopped counting in late evening and resumed today.

In New Bedford, counting is not scheduled to resume until tomorrow.

Clerks complained about the long, unwieldy ballots for both parties.

29,000 NAMES

LBJ Considers Western Tour

'Nonpolitical' Junket
Could Include Hawaii

By JACK BELL.
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, who has a fondness for grasping voters' hands, is being urged to make a Western inspection tour in May or June that could take him as far as Hawaii.

For a president who wishes to preserve as long as possible the pleasant fiction that he isn't campaigning, tours of this kind offer a chance to get out and meet the people where they live. Johnson has said he wants to hold down political activity until after the party nominating conventions.

These trips are always billed as nonpolitical expeditions on which the country's head man is seeking for himself how matters are progressing at the grass roots.

This usually results in futile outcries from the opposition that the chief executive is politicking at the taxpayers' expense. But such complaints are mostly for the record and even their authors expect little public reaction to them.

INVITATIONS PILE UP
Johnson's desk is loaded with all kinds of invitations for him to dedicate dams, inspect new atomic complexes, cut ribbons on highways and view conservation projects.

The president has a bipartisan invitation to visit Hawaii, which is about as far as he can go from the mainland under his self-imposed rule not to leave the country so long as there is no vice president.

Sens. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, and Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii, called on the President recently and asked him to dedicate some new battle monuments being erected in the National Cemetery of the Pacific. Johnson, who sometimes gives the appearance of being reticent at White House confinement, is reported sympathetic to the idea of making a Western tour. He has always been politically popular in the Plains and Rocky Mountain area.

Irene Weds Her Prince

ROME (AP)—Princess Irene of the Netherlands and Prince Carlos of Bourbon-Parma were married today in a wedding boycotted by the Dutch government and ignored by Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Spanish regime.

The headstrong Dutch princess and the Carlist pretender to the Spanish throne exchanged vows in the Borghese chapel of Rome's Basilica of St. Mary Major before Paolo Gradinali to the Netherlands.

The chapel was filled with titled nobility, supporters of the Carlist cause and Dutch visitors to Rome. But no ruling member of a royal house was present, and Franco sent no representative.

Irene's parents, Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard, and her three sisters remained in Holland because the Dutch government did not want the royal family involved in the contest for the Spanish throne.

NOT ESTRANGED
But the queen was not estranged from her second daughter. Three hours before the ceremony, she received a telephone call from Irene and talked to her for nine minutes. Irene's wedding dress of white silk, trimmed with Bugles lace that has been a Dutch royal heirloom for generations, reportedly was a gift from Juliana.

Despite the furor caused in the Netherlands by Irene's public espousal of the Carlist cause and her conversion to Roman Catholicism, editorials in Dutch papers wished her luck.

Premier Pieter Marijnissen told the Dutch Senate his government hopes the "bonds of warm love between the princess and her parents will be restored" and that "the marriage will give her what she is expecting from it."

But Marijnissen said that because of the wedding, "the constitutional position of the Princess Irene in our midst has now come to an end." The princess renounced her right of succession to the throne to marry Carlos.

WALKS WITH GROOM
Irene walked down the long central aisle of the church with her bridegroom.

They were followed by his parents, Prince Xavier and Princess Magdalena of Bourbon-Parma; the Portuguese pretender, the Duke of Braganca; Prince and Princess Edouard of Lohkowitz of Austria; Princesses Maria Teresa, and

Maria de las Nieves, his sisters; Prince Luis of Bourbon-Parma, Don Carlos' uncle; Count Jaime de Bourbon-Busset; the Countess of Gontaut-Riron; Miss Quirina Lamart Trip, a Dutch friend of the bride; Prince Heinrich Stahmer of Austria and Princess Chantal de Bourbon.

The organ boomed out the Wilhelmus, the Dutch national anthem. Scores of Dutch priests and many tourists from Holland cried out "Long Live Princess Irene!"

Court Plan Creates Fight on whether they should be elected at-large or by districts.

"The constitution indicates clearly that we can establish districts for the Supreme Court," said Newton, "and I should think they'd much rather run from districts than at-large."

The new constitution calls for the appeals court to have nine judges and be districted on a population basis. It does not specify how many districts, but specifies that they cannot cross county lines.

On this basis, the Senate called for three districts — the large 46-county district, a second composed of 16 counties in southeastern Michigan, and a third in Wayne County alone.

Newton's plan would provide for Wayne County to be cut up into three districts itself, with the other six outside.

This approach was advocated by some lawmakers during the dispute over the appeals court last year, but opposed by others on grounds it would violate the constitutional prohibition against cutting county lines.

Bill Joins Oakland, 2 Others

Oakland County would be linked with Livingston and Shiawassee counties under the court of appeals districting bill reported out by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The bill would chop into smaller pieces an appeals court bill already passed by the Senate, with the backing of the Supreme Court, for three 3-judge districts. This would have put the county into a district with 16 or 17 Southwest Michigan counties.

Governor Sets Vote Record
The bill also provides for election of Supreme Court justices from seven districts.

Under this provision, Oakland County would be in a district unit along with the 17th Congressional District.

There was no organized Democratic write-in campaign as the Republicans had for Scranton.

WOULD ACCEPT DRAFT
Scranton had said he does not want the presidential nomination, but would accept a "sincere and honest draft" — something he said he feels is not likely at national conventions in this day and age.

The Scranton for President group in the state-headed by Craig Truax, state GOP chairman, and Congressman Richard Schweiker — had hoped for, and organized for, such a tremendous outpouring of write-ins that Scranton would change his stand and actively go after the nomination.

They said they thought they got the previous writing record was 18,072 for the late John F. Kennedy for president in 1960.

Valuation Set at $2.3 Billion

State Tax Unit Gets
County Board Figure

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday raised the county's equalized valuation nearly $112 million to $2.3 billion.

If approved by the State Tax Commission, the new valuation on property will produce $34.7 million at a 15-mill statutory tax rate for county, township and school districts budgets.

This would mean about $2 million more in taxes, due mainly to new construction, in the area.

The tax commission in Lansing is expected to approve the new equalized valuation if convinced that it represents 50 percent of fair market value on all taxable property in the county.

In setting the new figure, the board of supervisors accepted a recommendation by its equalization committee, but not without some objections.

CAREFUL EXAMINATION
The committee reported that it "has carefully examined properties and compared assessment rolls" of all townships and cities in the county.

The statement was challenged by board chairman Delos Hamlin, supervisor from Farmington; West Bloomfield Township Supervisor John Rehard and Avon Township Supervisor Cyril Miller.

Examined properties are samples in each township and city surveyed by the County Equalization Department and compared by the committee with a previous survey to determine if property values have gone up or down in the past year.

The equalization committee then adds or deducts from each unit's total assessed valuation an amount which in the committee's judgment will produce an equal and uniform valuation of all taxable property in the county.

SAME SAMPLES
Hamlin said that in using the same samples, the committee failed to take into consideration what has happened elsewhere in the government unit.

Rehard berated the equalization committee for not giving the cities and townships a vote in the first question the proceedings, "before it is too late to do anything about it."

He said his township was led to expect a reduction in its equalized valuation this year. It was raised instead.

He said the same thing happened last year despite assurance of closer cooperation between the committee and township officials.

BROADEN SURVEY
Committee chairman Roy Goodspeed, Supervisor from Farmdale, said the committee would have the equalization department broaden its survey for next year by taking more samples.

He wasn't disappointed chairman by Hamlin.

Bloomfield Hills Fills Mayor, Pro Tem Posts

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Louis J. Colombo Jr., acting mayor for three months, last night was elected to the post top by his fellow city commissioners.

David W. Lee will serve as mayor pro tem. Both received unanimous votes.

Colombo, as mayor pro tem, became mayor upon the death of Lyman J. Craig Jan. 26.

The Detroit attorney lives at 3635 Lahser. He and Lee, 1100 Pembroke, were elected to the City Commission last year.

A Ford Motor Co. employee, Lee also is a member of the Bloomfield Hills Board of Education.

RECOUNT RESULT
James A. Beresford and John W. Blanchard retained their seats in a County Board of Canvassers recount of the April 8 election returns.

Beresford has been a commissioner for more than 15 years while Blanchard was appointed to fill the seat vacated with the death of Craig.

Joining them is Robert Frye. He and Beresford were elected to two-year terms and Blanchard for one year.

The Birmingham PTA Council has agreed to work for adoption of a $3.5-million building program and the 5-mill increase in operating funds being sought.

Students Rally for Area Girl's Reinstatement
OXFORD, England (AP) — Josephine Dudeck, a 19-year-old Bloomfield Township girl expelled from Oxford University, said today she has no great faith in a student campaign for her reinstatement but is happy to give it a try.

A motion protesting her expulsion is to be introduced Thursday night at a meeting of the Oxford Union, the student debating society.

The 5-foot American student says, "General feeling among the students is behind me. But whether I get back into the university depends on how far people are prepared to act."

"If the students do stand up against the governing body, it will be very rare. And even if they do, there's no guarantee this will influence the university."

Josephine has been reading philosophy, politics and economics at Oxford. She was expelled two days ago from Somerville College after flunking her first-year exams. Normally students are given a second chance but the college asserted her conduct had been "thoroughly unsatisfactory over a long period."

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Dudeck of 5030 Brookdale.

Renovation to Cover Nurse, Med Facilities
Spending of $585,000 for renovations to the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium, the County Medical Care Facility, was approved yesterday by the County Board of Supervisors.

The renovations are to include conversion of two floors at the sanatorium for non-TB medical care patients.

While the number of TB patients at the three-story sanatorium at Union Lake has fallen steadily due to modern methods of treatment, the medical care facility has become overcrowded with chronic disease patients.

Much of the work proposed to accomplish a shift in patient loads has been required by the state fire marshal and the State Health Department.

Noncompliance could cost the county matching state aid now being received for county care of these patients.

Many of the county's medical care patients, mostly elderly persons, are in private convalescent homes and general hospitals for lack of space in the county facilities.

County auditors estimated that the county can save $250,000 annually by making beds available at the sanatorium for these patients.

Acting County Health Director Bernard Berman has assured that the type of patients can be handled safely at the sanatorium.

Amblulatory TB patients will be moved into the now-vacant nurses' home once renovations have been completed.

The work is expected to start by July 1 and be completed before end of this year.

DAVID R. CALHOUN

Clerk-Register Candidate in Fall Primary

David R. Calhoun, Oakland County Clerk-Register appointed in January, today said he will be a Republican candidate for the office in the fall primary.

Calhoun was mayor of Huntington Woods for 13 years, until last year. He was appointed to the county post to replace Daniel T. Murphy, now chairman of the Board of Auditors.

He has served on the county Board of Supervisors, as chairman of the Drain Committee, the Inter-County Committee and secretary to the Department of Public Works Board.

Now 54, Calhoun was Republican candidate for state treasurer in 1960.

The same year he established the firm David Calhoun and Associates, Manufacturers Agents, continuing in a field he has been active in since 1944.

Voice of the People: 'Litter in Mail Drop Box' - Asks What's Wrong

I saw a lady mail carrier stop for "pick up" at a local drop box. In with many letters were a broken glass and dirty candy papers. Have we lost all the things we should be proud of? Littering is for small-thinking people.

I was also surprised to find so little entertainment in Pontiac. I asked about a bingo game or a good show and was told "the City has nothing for out-of-towners, but bars—-but if I had a car I could find a bingo game every day of the week outside the city."

What's wrong?

More Discuss Write-In Vote, Ex-Mayor

I'm still wondering how people could take the representation from the people most involved. This write-in vote is most destructive to a district. A man can lose in a district where he isn't wanted, yet be thrown back to the people who don't want him. I wonder if he could really give his best to the people who cast him aside.

(Editor's Note: Don't all commissioners owe their best to the whole city and not to one district?)

April 29 was an important day in Pontiac because of the election but somehow most of us forgot to think in terms of the good job and the real true stand that Mayor Landry had given to Pontiac. How could we forget so soon? Something went wrong. Let your conscience be your guide.

From One Who Cares

I'm a citizen of Pontiac and it's very hard to understand the courtesy shown to the voters, especially regarding the write-ins. You would think the write-ins were the only voting procedure.

Mixed Up

Ex-Mayor Landry is still at it. He has disregarded the wishes of the people for so long that he can't break the habit. Voters have made it clear that they don't want him. What difference does it make how they spelled Mr. Wellbaum's name as long as it wasn't L-a-n-d-r-y?

If the election workers had instructed everyone in the use of the write-in slots as Landry alleges, he would have been completely swamped, for then all the votes for Wellbaum which were written on the metal covers could have been counted. Voters not instructed have a more legitimate complaint than Landry.

Mr. Landry, for once you don't bow to the desires of the electorate and accept defeat like a man? Or is that expecting too much?

Completely Disgusted

Please, Mr. Landry, take a nice bow and leave the City Commission. It is very plain to see that those who voted for Mr. Wellbaum would have voted for Mr. Webb had there not been a write-in. You are not exactly the people's choice.

M. N.

After reading the article in the April 24 edition of The Pontiac Press, I was wondering if Mr. Landry thinks he runs the City of Pontiac. It's run by the taxpayers.

Someone help me in locating a good watch dog. I could take him shopping. Some irresponsible people park next to a car, open up their doors, and plop them so nonchalantly into the car parked next to them. They then, close their doors and walk off as if nothing ever happened. This dog could hold this person until I returned from doing my shopping.

I would like to make a plea to all responsible car owners. When you see any irresponsible person do any damage to any car, write their license number down and make sure it is given to this car owner.

United Fund Leader Has Served Area Well

Pontiac loses a conscientious civic functionary in the departure of KARL W. BRADLEY as executive director of the Pontiac Area United Fund. He leaves May 1 to fill a similar position in Gary, Ind.

BRADLEY

Identified with the local Fund since 1954, the 42-year-old executive saw substantial expansion in the organization he directed. As a result of growth of the 54 agencies comprising it, annual budgets have increased from $532,000 in 1955 to $855,000 for the current year.

Attesting to Mr. Bradley's efficient administration is the fact that this expansion has been effected with the addition of but two additional staff members. Noteworthy, too, was the 13 per cent pledge-total gain in 1963 over the previous year, the largest such increase in the State.

During his tenure, a new centrally-located building was constructed, providing headquarters for nine civic welfare organizations. Significantly, the building concept was brought to reality on a self-liquidating basis, established rentals of the various occupying units serving to amortize the investment.

In bidding Pontiac adieu, Mr. Bradley leaves behind a large number of friends and takes with him their best wishes for good fortune in his new environment.

Letters Often Slighted as Aid to Business

With more and more functions of business falling to mechanical hands and brains, it's not unlikely that correspondence will one day be robotized.

In fact, judging by the absence of warmth and appeal that characterizes most business letters we see, you might conclude that the transition has already taken place.

Not only does the preponderance of commercial billets-doux lack empathy, but a recent survey indicates that 5 per cent of all business letters are written to correct errors and omissions in previous correspondence.

Large and small business is alive as never before to market good will. You wonder then why the creation of written contact in this area isn't more often considered a significant one and given organization status and expert application equal to other public relations concepts.

It is not so long ago that businessmen thought so little of the impact made by their letters that many bore a stamped disclaimer, "Dictated But Not Read." You don't see that nowadays, but there is often an implication of "Indicated But Not Said."

Secret of Long Life Well Kept by Women

If you have a yen to live to be a hundred, the first step is to be a woman. Because the women are far out in front of the men in the business of staying alive.

There are now 12,000

Americans 100 years old or older.

● In the 95 to 99 bracket, there are twice as many women as men — 26,000 to 13,000.

How do the women do it?

Well, White House physician, Dr. JANET TRAVELL, thinks women live longer "because they never retire. They keep on doing the things they've been accustomed to doing all their lives."

The ever-present chores of housekeeping, the dusting and the cleaning up may be what's behind the longevity of the girls. In the older age groups, sums up the lady Doc, women keep much more active than men.

So, fellas, there you have it. Let's not have any more of this jes'-a-settin' round watching your wives work themselves into long lives and happiness.

Johnson Speech Was Masterful

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — President Johnson, sailing high with increasing confidence in himself and his campaign to be all things to all people, has just given a masterful performance and a great insight into how he is going about it.

In his speech to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Monday he pulled out all the stops, touching each listener, and each reader later, with appeals to the various motivations of a man in the American society today.

There was something in it for the rich, the poor, for conservatives, for liberals, for the sick, the old, the unborn, and the young ambitious.

What he said Monday and how he said it—since he is going to run for election in November—can be taken as the key to the direction his political campaign will take, and how he'll handle it.

While this was a speech to businessmen it was also a tremendous political speech.

He appealed to his listeners' desire for frugality in government and their own desire to make money; to their desire for peace and at the same time for military security; to their humanity, their compassion, and their patriotism.

It was all there but he was careful, although you might not notice the various transitions, to humanize himself in the process by shifting from soaring sentences to honey phrases and homely images, like the old house where he was born. He says he keeps a picture of it in his bedroom.

The implication he got across was that what he could do as an American could do in his rise from humble beginnings to the White House — if he had the chance. And he was asking everyone to pitch in to help everyone get the chance.

Thus the picture of Lyndon Johnson which emerged from all he said—modestly as it is passing, but certainly intentionally—was that of a American epic which didn't have to be unique.

In short, he made the widest kind of appeal to the greatest number of people for he knew far more people would be reading later what he said than could be jammed together to hear him Monday.

He started out with a fairly short, prepared speech which might have taken 15 minutes to deliver. By the time he got through adding to it, sometimes in a rambling but humorous way, he had talked an hour.

The chamber members and their wives at the end gave him such a prolonged, standing ovation that he had to take what amounted to two curtain calls. Twice he had to return to wave thanks.

As indications of his efforts and good times ahead he pointed to the rail dispute he helped settle, the tax cut he got through Congress, figures on a rising economy, military strength, shutdown of needless military installations.

He didn't quite follow the advice he quoted from George Washington: "Let your discourse with men of business be short and comprehensive." Johnson's speech wasn't short but it was comprehensive.

David Lawrence Says:

Bobby Kennedy Is a Political 'If'

WASHINGTON —The biggest question in national politics today is not merely who will become the Republican presidential nominee but whether Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy will be the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

It is easy enough to say that the dilemma is more theoreti- cal than real and that President Johnson will pick his own running mate.

But the problem is not so simple. So far as the friends of Bobby Kennedy are concerned, the fight has hardly begun.

They are very influential inside the party in the big cities of the populous states which have large electoral votes.

These individuals are active politicians who worked under Bobby Kennedy when he was running his brother's campaign before and after the convention of 1960.

KENNEDY NAME They are persons who feel there is a sentiment for the Kennedy name inside and outside the party which amounts to a real emotion.

It is all very well to say by way of rebuttal that the present attorney general has antagonized the South politically by his dramatic moves in enforcement of court orders in civil rights cases.

But for every electoral vote that could be lost in the South, it is contended that there are far more electoral votes at stake in the North that could be lost to key men and women in the party organizations were disappointed and became apathetic because the attorney general had been turned down.

There are those, on the other hand, who say that Mr. Johnson had better let well enough alone—that the civil rights controversy may cost him votes in the North and South anyway, and that he shouldn't complicate the situation by making it theoretically possible for Bobby Kennedy to be president some day.

Last Sunday night in an interview, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy unequivocally set forth his brother's qualifications for the vice-presidential nomination. The Massachusetts senator said:

"I would say that the attorney general has built up a significant national following, has established a reputation of his own before even the time he was appointed to the attorney generalship."

"He's made, I believe, an outstanding record in the Senate Rackets Committee."

"I think personally any fair evaluation would suggest that he's done a capable job as attorney general."

FOREIGN POLICY

"He's been involved in the crucial questions of China and Southeast Asia. He's been involved in foreign policy."

"But I think when you talk about the question of the vice presidency you have to keep in mind that this decision will be made, as it should be made, by President Johnson."

Were it not for the civil rights controversy—which some folks in the inner circle here think might make the attorney general a liability to the Democratic ticket — there wouldn't be the slightest hesitancy on the part of some highly placed Democrats in urging President Johnson to choose the attorney general for the vice-presidential nomination.

The new argument wouldn't be an obstacle, especially since the political strength of the late President Kennedy himself was to no small extent due to the change of youth presented to the young voters of the country, whose number is considerable.

Negro Reader Explains Reasons for Fair Stall-In

NEW YORK — Of many Newsweek's Washington Bureau.

The picture book's text is taken from phrases used in that magazine's appraisal of JFK after his death.

One excerpt (accompanying a rare photograph of the late president at the finish of a perfect golf swing) read:

"John Kennedy had a Walter Mitty streak in him, as wide as his smile."

"On the golf course he reminded himself most of Arnold Palmer in raw power, or Julius Boros in finesse."

"Do you know what it is to live in a poverty-stricken area where landlords charge terrible rent for old broken-down tenements infested with rats, broken ceilings, leaking plumbing, poor lighting?"

"Did your child ever have to go to school where for seven out of 10 years, she never had the same teacher through a full semester?"

"Twenty-five years ago I went to see another New York World's Fair."

"The world has progressed in many ways, but the Negro people and other minorities have advanced very little."

LITTLE INCONVENIENCE "The little inconvenience that a few civil rights marchers caused is small compared to the hardships that have been imposed on them for the last 30 years. Their little demonstration lasted hardly six hours."

"I can't help wondering how many of the wonders on exhibit at the World's Fair will make our future any brighter, or how many of us will be allowed to be a part of and help in the development of them."

Those who loved and admired John Fitzgerald Kennedy will want to add to their knowledge of the man the contents of a slim new book by his friend Benjamin Bradlee. It is called "That Special Grace."

Lippincott is the publisher and the price is $1.50.

"That Special Grace" has that special grace which JFK possessed to the Nth degree. Bradlee, a Georgetown neighbor of the Kennedys before the White House days, is chief of year from the request from owners of the Trojan Lagoon, for several months on the same request from owners of the C. Trinidad, 16 E. Pike, which came up again last night.

Commissioner Emmett Wellbaum said he felt "I should step up and face this issue and decide it once and for all," but that he wanted some time to study the matter.

"BEAR WITH US"
"Bear with us for awhile as we'll come up with a final decision," Commissioner Leslie A. Dugas said he too was "bear with us" as the city of Hudson asked the owners.

Commissioner Wesley Wood commented, "I never will vote for upgrading land licenses." Commissioner John A. Dugas said he too was against such a move.

Mayor William H. Taylor said, "I think everyone knows I stand, so I don't want to inject myself into this. Let the other commissioners make up their own minds."

Taylor has voted against upgrading in the past. He said the commissioners would study the matter three or four weeks and then make a final decision.

Urges Plan to Switch Teachers
A teacher-exchange program to help solve problems of "acting segregation" in 10 city classrooms will be presented tomorrow night to the Pontiac School Board.

The plan is to be presented to the Human Relations Committee of the Pontiac Federation of Teachers, a teachers union.

Subject to a board-approval plan adopted last month, the PPT program calls for the voluntary exchange of teachers between schools with mostly white and Negro enrollment.

Exchanges would be on a temporary basis and would be made with the approved purpose of "eliminating about a racial balance on the instructional staffs of each school."

The PPT plan sets no time limit on the exchanges, which the board set a minimum of one year and a limit of three years.

ARRANGE MEETINGS
The teachers union suggests that in-service meeting days be set up. Ten half days would be provided for such meetings.

Object of the in-service meetings would be to discuss the total purpose of the exchange idea, according to the PPT proposal.

Other business on tomorrow night's agenda includes an ordinance of plans for summer school adoption of a 1964-65 school calendar and the adding of two senior high school counselors.

Also slated to be voted up is a boundary adjustment between Whittier and Franklin Elementary Schools.

Chemical Firm Profits
WYANDOTTE (AP) — Wyandotte Chemical Corp. reported first-quarter profits of $1,378,000, or 96 cents a share, compared with $508,000, or 32 cents a share, for the same three months of 1963. Sales were $28.8 million and $24.5 million respectively.

secretly guarded "teamsters' assets," but reliable estimates range into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

In addition to expenses of his current Chicago fraud conspiracy trial, Hoffa also faces heavy lawyers' bills in appealing his March 4 jury-tampering conviction in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Williams' legal advice against continued union payment of the expenses was viewed as another blow to the beleaguered Hoffa's efforts to hold control of his 1.7-million member union while trying to fight off persistent government efforts to put him in jail.

STAGGERING DRAIN

If Williams' opinion were subsequently borne out by the courts, it could mean a staggering drain on the personal pocketbooks of Hoffa and the other 14 members of the Teamsters' executive board.

The tax court precedent on the income tax aspect, ironically, involved a minor Teamsters' official in California who finally had to pay taxes in similar circumstances.

A further potential legal pitfall faced the Teamsters after the government said yesterday it might step in under federal labor law and demand a public accounting of union funds spent to defend Hoffa.

"We are giving the matter active and serious consideration," said a spokesman for Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

Irwin, the new District commissioner, resigned his job as a citizen-member since time to the City Commission makes him ineligible for post.

However, the charter provides that the mayor and commissioner be members of the planning commission along with the seven other appointees. Irwin was originally appointed 1½ year ago.

Upon resigning, Leslie Hudson nominated Irwin to the commission - member on planning board. Hudson motion was unanimously provided.

Irwin succeeds former commissioner Loy L. Ledford in the planning commission.

The term of Mayor William Taylor Jr. as a member of General City Employees Retirement Board expired, Emmett S. Wellbaum was unanimously appointed to succeed him on the board in either move.

District 1 Commissioner Warren Fowler resigned the Police Trial Board from his election to the committee. He had been a board member since 1955.

Four appointments by the Board to the Oakland County Supervisors were deferred one week so the new commission could submit nominees.

Successful Investing

Q. "I am an employee of the Bell System, about to retire on pension. During my long service, I have accumulated 28 shares of American Telephone (after the proposed split). I have savings, insurance and my own home. I am told that as far as stocks are concerned, all my eggs are in one basket. Do you think I should hold all my Telephone after retirement or switch some into other stocks?"

A. It is always a pleasure to encounter a man facing retirement free from financial worry.

Much as I like Telephone, I believe you should diversify additionally.

I say "additionally" because Telephone itself is pretty well diversified through 99.8 per cent ownership of Western Electric — a great manufacturing complex — which in turn owns 100 per cent of Bell Telephone Laboratories, known as the "mother" of electronics.

I believe you might switch half your holdings into other strong issues, such as Sears, Roebuck; Procter & Gamble and Jersey Standard.

Q. "I am a teen-ager owning 10 shares of Safeway stores. I have heard rumors that they will split these shares. Could you clarify what a 3-for-1 split means? Do market prices change? How many shares would I get for my ten?" P.S.

A. I like to help any ambitious teen-ager, though at present I know of no plan to split Safeway Stores. They did split their shares 3-for-1 1957, which indicates that if the stock continues to move up, similar action may again be taken.

If a split occurs, you would get 20 additional shares, but would have no greater proportionate interest in the company than you now hold. After the split is approved, the stock "when issued" would trade at about one-third its present value. Normally, however, the price of the new shares, brought into the market, would be above one-third of pre-split worth.
