

Expect Area to Get Another 2 Inches of Snow

Storm Paralyzes Northeast

By The Associated Press
A damaging snowstorm hit the northeast today and winds of up to 70 miles per hour piled up drifts as high as 20 feet.

Hundreds of schools were shut down. Thousands of power users were without facilities when lines were snapped by snow and cold.

Highways were made impassable by drifts and stalled vehicles, creating traffic problems on secondary roads.

Public transportation slowed to a virtual standstill.

At least 15 deaths were attributed to the storm that struck devastating blows to upper New York state; Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, Michigan and Ohio.

Its impact also was felt on the fringes, in Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia.

Northeast Ohio was dealt its worst storm in a dozen years. Public transportation was delayed for hours. Many factories and hundreds of schools were closed.

In Georgia County, the snowfall measured 13 inches with drifts of up to 3 feet.

Winds of 30 to 35 m.p.h. piled up drifts of 5 feet in the Cleveland area, where the snowfall measured about 10 inches.

Some 30,000 customers of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. were without electric service, many since last night, when lines coated with snow and ice snapped in high winds.

Drifts of up to 20 feet piled up in the Flat Top Mountain section of West Virginia and up to 18 feet in the area around Blackwater Falls State Park.

Snow continued falling in West Virginia. The fall measured 14 inches at Elkins at midmorning, 7 inches at Charleston and Bluefield and 5 inches at Morgantown.

Sixteen inches of snow was reported in Garrett County, at the western edge of Maryland and powerful winds caused near-blizzard conditions.

At Bradford, Pa., 13 inches of snow lay on the ground and winds up to 60 m.p.h. piled up drifts everywhere.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike was closed between Bedford and Irwin, a distance of about 78 miles, because of drifting snow and high winds. Huge drifts were reported piling up throughout the Appalachians area.

Fierce Weather Claims Lives of 9 in State

7 Oakland Districts Close Schools; Roads Are Hazardous

A deadly Arctic snowstorm, which already has killed nine persons in the state, is expected to drop another two inches of snow on Oakland County today.

The county already is paralyzed in parts under a 10-inch total snow fall recorded since early yesterday.

The snowfall closed schools in seven Oakland County school districts. Drifts and icy spots made driving hazardous in the county and throughout Michigan.

One state traffic victim was an Orion Township woman, Mrs. Mattie Lubahn, 57, of 783 W. Clarkston Road. She was killed last night when a car in which she was riding rammed the rear of a snow plow near Bay City.

In neighboring Lapeer County all county schools were reported closed today.

The Oakland County schools closed today were Oxford, Orion, Brandon, Rochester, Walled Lake, Dublin, Clarkston, St. Patrick's of Union Lake, Our Lady of Refuge at Orchard Lake, Emmanuel Christian, Midwest Baptist, O. U. Lady of the Lakes, St. Andrews and the County School for Crippled Children.

West Bloomfield Township schools were open but had no buses running. Avondale schools had buses running on main roads only.

The only county high school basketball games postponed were Memphis at Armada and Holly at Clarkston.

The game to be played to night by Lake Orion at Waterford Kettering was in doubt.

THREE STRICKEN

Three Detroiters were reported stricken when they shoveled sidewalks in front of their homes yesterday. Three men and two women besides Mrs. Lubahn died in traffic accidents on state roads when their cars skidded out of control.

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicted today that it would be (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Bombers, Missiles Now Gone

Red Troops Next to Quit Cuba?

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. authorities expect the Soviet Union to withdraw thousands of troops from Cuba now that Red bombers and missiles have been pulled from the island.

American intelligence sources estimate there are 9,000 to 15,000 Soviet troops in Cuba. Many were assigned to install and man the offensive weapons.

The Pentagon said Thursday Navy patrol planes had counted 12 bombers aboard Soviet ships outboard from Cuba. This is the number of bombers the Soviets told U.S. officials they had in Cuba — somewhat more than American experts had estimated.

This apparently completes the removal of Soviet offensive weapons from Cuba.

Nearly a month ago, the U.S. Navy counted 42 Soviet missiles on their way out. U.S. authorities said they know of none remaining in Cuba.

TO URGE REMOVAL
They said U.S. negotiators will press in discussions with Soviet representatives in New York for removal of the Soviet troops. The Soviet Union, the authorities said, is expected to pull the men out.

It was understood Premier Khrushchev informed President Kennedy last month Soviet ground troops associated with the weapons would be withdrawn.

At his last news conference, Nov. 20, Kennedy said "a number of Soviet ground combat units" were in Cuba. "We are informed," he added, "that these and other Soviet units were associated with the protection of offensive weapons systems and will also be withdrawn in due course."

Some of the Soviet troops were said to have been used to protect the missile site positions and to man the estimated two dozen anti-aircraft missile installations that U.S. experts believe the Soviets set up to defend their offensive weapons complex.

The anti-aircraft installations feature 20- to 25-mile range surface-to-air missiles. Washington wants these dismantled, too, though there is no current report the Soviets are doing so.

So far, officials said, several hundred Soviet soldiers have been aboard ships leaving Cuba. A large-scale troop withdrawal, U.S. strategists believe, would not only weaken the Kremlin hold on Cuba, but lessen the chance of a U.S.-Soviet clash should the United States decide to move against Cuba in the future.

The Soviet bombers and missiles were the offensive weapons Kennedy demanded the Soviet Union remove from Cuba. At the Nov. 20 news conference Kennedy said Khrushchev had promised to get all the planes out of Cuba within 30 days. Thus, the Soviet leader would appear to be acting well ahead of his promised deadline.

Forty-four others working in another section of the pit walked out unhurt. Some returned to search for their colleagues who are 650 feet underground.

Those men are looking into the barrel of a shotgun," said one union official. "With those fires smoldering down there, it could cause another explosion."

SEARCH CONTINUES
But the search goes on. So do the hopes and prayers of wives, brothers, sisters and relatives keeping a vigil in a corrugated metal building adjacent to the mine shaft. Miners tried to comfort the grieving families.

The blast was the second in the mine.

Evans, who is directing the operations, blamed it on a combination of gas and coal dust. He described the blast as one of tremendous nature.

The mine, one of the world's largest soft coal operations, is about 50 miles southwest of Pittsburgh.

Murder Trial Begins Tuesday

3 From Pontiac Face First-Degree Charge

The first-degree murder trial of three Pontiac men accused in the slaying of Pontiac grocer Efthymios Vasiliou is scheduled to begin Tuesday before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Clark J. Adams.

Joseph Page, 26, of 249 Orchard Lake Ave., Benny L. Spells, 23, and R. G. Stroman, both of 235 S. Anderson St., are in the Oakland County jail waiting for the trial to start.

Page and Spells have admitted the robbery of Vasiliou (also known as James Williams) at the Boulevard Market, 309 Orchard Lake Ave., July 30. Page is accused of shooting Vasiliou during the holdup.

Stroman, accused of driving the robbery car and waiting outside while his partners entered the market, claims he had nothing to do with the crime and was framed by Rufus Wilson Jr., 29, of 44 Maple St. and the Pontiac police.

Page, Spells and Stroman were apprehended after Wilson told police they committed the robbery and killing.

The four were said by police to be part of the "stealing band" gang who pulled several holdups in Pontiac.

Stroman claims Wilson plotted to get a $2,000 reward offered for the arrest and conviction of Vasiliou's killers and accused Stroman because of an old grudge over a money dispute.

Stroman was on parole from Jackson Prison where he was sent after pleading guilty to a burglary charge. He says he let Page and Spells use his car the night of the killing, but didn't accompany them.

DIGGING OUT—The delights of winter were wasted on many snowbound city residents this morning when they took to the shovels. Workers shown here are clearing a path on the Wayne Street side of the First Presbyterian Church. This scene was repeated throughout the downtown area as shopkeepers and others prepared for business as usual—well, not quite as usual.

Check Range Safety After Polaris Scare

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Range safety procedures will be surveyed carefully as the result of a wrong-way runaway section of a Polaris missile which escaped destruction and landed in the Atlantic Ocean 150 miles east of Savannah, Ga.

"If that missile piece had headed inland instead of toward the wide open ocean," a source said, "the only thing we could have done would be to pray that it did not hit a populated area."

The Polaris began twisting wildly in the sky shortly after the second stage ignited during a test flight Thursday, and the range safety officer beamed a radio signal to destroy the missile.

However, a large section, still under power, escaped detonation and suddenly shifted from an intended southeast heading to a northeast direction.

After word of the wayward rocket leaked out, the Air Force admitted it landed in the sea 300 to 350 miles northeast of Cape Canaveral. There was no nuclear device aboard.

The range safety officer reported, without elaboration, that the command destruct system had worked properly.

Sources said that apparently the missile was not properly wired for complete detonation.

The solid-fuel Polaris has caused range safety problems in the past. On an early test flight in 1958, the safety officer destroyed a Polaris when it went off course, but a large part of the second stage survived and raced inland.

That flight resulted in placement of several dynamite duds throughout solid propellant missiles, instead of only in key areas, so that the vehicles could be blown to bits if necessary.

By-Products of the Storm

Florida Reservations Much in Demand

Even a storm has interesting side effects.

Winter gear, especially galoshes and snow tires, began selling like hot-cakes today as residents fought for traction in the snow.

Local travel bureaus reported a sudden upsurge in reservations for Florida and other temperate zones as many residents refused to fight the elements.

Others suddenly realized that Christmas really is just around the corner and headed out today to do their shopping.

Then there was the sheriff's deputy who spent the night on a lonely Rose Township Road when his patrol car was snowed in.

A County Road Commission snow plow was still trying to reach Deputy William Newman on Mungler Road this morning.

One motorist swerved into a traffic speed sign, but was unhurt until he got out to survey the damage. The sign sprung back up, administering a slight gash to his arm.

Even criminals were thoroughly snowed. There were no crimes reported to police authorities last night or this morning.

Population trends shot upward as most families adopted a new addition—the season's first snowman.

This caused old hats to disappear from closets. There also was a sudden run on buttons and carrots (for glamor touches).

Sleds were at a premium as youngsters escaped from closed county schools.

If you are planning to "escape" to Mexico or Hawaii, better hurry. Reservations are becoming hard to get.

No Word of 36 Men Since Blast

Crews Closer to Trapped Miners

CARMICHAELS, Pa. (AP)—Rescue workers dug to within some 4,000 feet today of 37 men trapped deep underground by a tremendous coal mine explosion.

U.S. Steel Corp., which operates the Robeson No. 3 mine, said a reck of its records showed a 37th man missing. A total of 36 men were believed trapped at first.

The men have not been heard from since the explosion at 1:15 p.m. Thursday.

Rescue crews had gone slightly more than half-way into the two-mile tunnel from the mine shaft after more than 22 hours of digging.

Lewis Evans, Pennsylvania secretary of mines, described the situation as "desperate," but held out hope the miners may be alive.

Sees Long Run for Hoffa Trial

Lawyer's Prediction Follows Recess

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A lawyer for James R. Hoffa predicts the Teamsters president's million-dollar conspiracy trial will run into early January.

William Bufalino's forecast followed U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller's unexpected decision Thursday to recess the trial until Monday.

Miller gave no explanation for either the weekend adjournment or his decision, announced simultaneously, to lock up the jury for the remainder of the trial, now through its seventh week.

Both announcements followed a secret, three-hour court session to which all spectators and newsmen were barred by armed marshals. Glass panels on the courtroom doors were covered.

No inking as to what took place leaked out. In asking for the secret session, U.S. Atty. James Neal said only that he wanted to take up a motion that had nothing to do with Wednesday's shooting incident.

Hoffa, 40, was not harmed by the pellets fired at him in open court by an ex-mental patient who said he had an urge to kill the labor leader. The man, Warren Swanson, 28, was ordered committed to a mental hospital for observation.

Hoffa is accused of accepting concealed payments from Commercial Carriers, Inc., a Detroit-based auto transport firm, in return for labor peace.

The government contends Commercial Carriers set up and operated Test Fleet Corp., a truck leasing firm chartered here in 1949, as a disguise for payments to Hoffa and the late Owen Brennan, a Teamsters vice president who died in 1950.

Stock in Test Fleet was listed in the maiden names of Mrs. Brennan and Mrs. Hoffa.

To Do Report on Cityhood

Waterford Township's incorporation study committee last night appointed John Donnelly, a political science instructor at Wayne State University, to prepare its final report on the feasibility of incorporation.

The report should be completed early in January, Charles Sayre, committee chairman, said.

Findings submitted by the various committees were reviewed by the study committee last night and then turned over to Donnelly.

JFK Welcomes Adlai Warmly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai Stevenson and President Kennedy, meeting in public for the first time since the tempest over the U.N. ambassador's role in the Cuban crisis, shook hands warmly Thursday night.

Stevenson, quick as ever with a quip, introduced Kennedy as "the author, producer, director and star of Mr. Khrushchev's new hit play in Moscow—A Funny Thing Happened to Me on My Way to Cuba."

Stevenson said he was "proud to be a member of the supporting cast."

The occasion of their meeting was the Kennedy Foundation awards dinner where the President handed checks to four foreign scientists for work against mental retardation.

In the background were echoes of the clamor set off this week by a magazine article co-authored by a close friend of the President—which portrayed Stevenson as having advocated a soft line in the Cuban crisis.

The article set off speculation that someone in the administration was "out to get Adlai." Apparently in an effort to still the

At that point there is a sloping tunnel without branches extending two miles to the working face. The tunnel drops gradually from 525 feet to 60 feet. That's the point where the men are trapped. There is only one exit to the surface.

Mine officials said air coming up from the mine shaft contains large amounts of carbon dioxide, indicates there is fire in the blast area.

The first indication of anything wrong was the reported failure of an electric exhaust fan. It blew out, but was repaired in 10 minutes. Five minutes later it conked out again.

James Girod, an assistant mine superintendent, said the first crews down the shaft detected dust coming from all directions, indicating an explosion or fire.

The major problem for the rescue teams was to pump bad air out and clean air in. Concrete ventilation shafts had buckled under the blast.

Varner Names Pair to Advisory Committee

LANSING (AP) — Durward B. Varner, chancellor of Michigan State University, Oakland and chairman of the Governor's Advisory Commission on Health Care, has appointed Wayne County Circuit Judge George Bowler vice chairman and Andrew Pattullo secretary of the advisory-giving body.

The commission was appointed Sept. 25 by Gov. Swainson and serves at the pleasure of the governor.

JFK Begins Defense Tour

To Spend Weekend at Missile, A-Sites

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — President Kennedy flew today to Offutt Air Force Base, headquarters of the nation's global Strategic Air Command, on the start of a swift weekend tour of atomic and missile installations.

It was reported Kennedy might take the opportunity on his visit to SAC to make an announcement that the Minuteman missile next week will become operational.

The President's Air Force jet carrying him from Andrews Air Force Base landed at Offutt at 10:32 a.m. (Ponatic time). It was a gray, murky day and a light snow was falling.

The halfless President walked between a double file of the SAC elite honor guard and shook hands with SAC Commander Gen. Thomas S. Power and with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, who had flown into Offutt a few minutes earlier.

The President departed from his prearranged script almost immediately.

He left the official welcoming group to stroll over to the SAC band and shook hands with the director. A few minutes later he stopped the open car carrying him to SAC headquarters, got out, and shook hands with members of the families of Air Force personnel.

Kennedy is to visit bases in New Mexico and Nevada before finishing up the weekend at the Palm Desert, Calif., home of singer Bing Crosby.

Washington sources said the President might announce that the first flight of 10 Minutemen, a new type of instant firing intercontinental ballistic missile, will be declared operational at Malmstrom Air Force Base, Great Falls, Mont.

Lt. Governor Post Won by Area Junior

A Waterford Township High School junior, Jan Appel, last night won the office of lieutenant governor at a mock legislative session held in Lansing by state Hi-Y Clubs.

Jan, 16, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Appel of 70 S. Avery St., Waterford Township.

His strongest opposition came from pretty Arne Hauser of Hastings, the only girl candidate for the office.

City Bowlers Rolling On

Pontiac's Monroe Moore and Mike Samardzja, bowling in the Professional Bowlers Association tournament at Atlanta were both among the top 34 after the first 12 games last night.

Moore led the field after six games with 1750 but faltered in the next block with 1145. Samardzja had blocks of 1213 and 1217 to go 30 pins over average.

After 12 games today the field is cut to 14 for the finals tomorrow.

Chairman Eyes '64 Vote

GOP to Push On in Dixie

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Chairman William E. Miller pledged today an all-out GOP campaign in 1964 for Southern electoral votes and congressional seats.

Miller made clear in a report prepared for the opening session of the two-day Republican National Committee meeting that he has no intention of soft-pedaling party efforts in Dixie.

Some Republicans have complained that the segregationist link of several GOP candidates in the South could threaten the Republican position in the big industrial states two years from now.

In reply, Miller said: "Do not be misled or dismayed by those who are trying to give Northern Republicans a tilt complex over our Southern brothers. Our successes in the South need no apology. They are the product of hard and intelligent effort on the part of people dedicated to the Republican principles of freedom and sound government."

Emphasizing a determination to broaden the GOP's "Operation Dixie," Miller said that so far as he is concerned there will be no uncommitted congressional races in the South two years from now. Democrats had no GOP opposition in 57 House races in the South last month.

"We plan to field a candidate against every Democrat, however well entrenched he may seem to be," Miller said.

He added that, as he views the situation, few of the South's 128 electoral votes can be taken for granted by the Democrats much longer.

Miller said the GOP push in the South has resulted in the election of 11 Republican House members.

Word on Bloomfield Twp. Rezoning Jan. 7

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Bloomfield Township Planning Commission will announce its decision Jan. 7 on a controversial request to rezone property here for a $1.8 million motel-restaurant.

The proposed facility, which would be located on Woodward Avenue south of Big Beaver Road, is opposed by members of the Rouge Manor Improvement Association and other residents in the area.

Two Detroit firms, Al Green Enterprises, Inc., and Hotel Management, Inc., are seeking to have the property rezoned from an office building classification to general business use.

Neighboring property owners who oppose the project say approval of the request would lead to more rezoning petitions of this type and "spot" zoning.

John Gilray, attorney for the developers, has told the planning commission that the township

ROADS BLOCKED

Within the county, state trunklines were reported open, some county primary roads blocked, and nearly all side roads impassable. Over 200 county road commission workers were sanding, salting and scraping.

In Pontiac, main trunk lines were slushy but in fair condition. DPW crews concentrated on clearing drifts and hauling away snow.

In a listing of state fatalities, the three snow shoveling victims in Detroit were identified as John Plesnick, 46; Richard Tomkin, 79; and Clarence Shaw, 54.

DENIED EARLIER Earlier this year, the planning commission denied the rezoning request and backers of the project appealed their case to the Township Board.

The Township Board informed them that they would have to resubmit their zoning application because of a mistake in architects' drawings.

In addition to the Woodward Avenue rezoning request, the planning commission also will decide on another change in an office building zone at its 8 p. m. meeting Jan. 7.

Frothy, Frosted New York Glows for Christmas

By PHYLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — New York City is nothing but the grandma's house. It is not the most wonderful place in the world to celebrate Christmas.

There usually is not enough snow, and, if there were, not clean enough to make vanilla-doused "ice cream." There is not enough snow for a snow machine to make a perfect Christmas.

There are not enough relatives, large kitchens, frosted panes, sleds or carols to make a perfect Christmas.

New York has no Santa Claus, but any other community on earth, but they all take in their chimneys by 6 p.m. Dec. 24th and head for the country or Brooklyn or a free turkey dinner at Salvation Army headquarters. Even the reindeer at the zoo take the day off.

No, New York City is far from the perfect place to spend a Christmas Day.

And yet, from this moment until dawn breaks on Jesus' birthday, there is no greater, more festive, more glistening and bustling and beautiful site on earth.

For the man, woman or child who has patience, defensive elbows, reverence, and love for man and dog—New York City at pre-Christmas time is pure enchantment.

You can't move in midtown, even now, faster than the lady ahead of you, a lady who moves with the gait of a delegate to a snail's convention.

And your cab cannot move faster than the car ahead of it, and the truck ahead of that, which is double-parked to unload goodies at a department store. But what of it?

The unaccustomed and enforced lethargy of traffic in pre-Christmas New York is a blessing, for the man patient enough to watch the wonders pass by without worrying where his next deal is coming from.

Look up: a 44-story skyscraper and, scattered across its face, dozens of great red-lighted wreaths, like a building flushed with excitement.

High above Fifth Avenue, and Park and Madison, giant Christmas trees shine, and gradiose glass icicles shimmer, and millions of glittering electric candles sparkle in the early dusk.

Look right: A hundred dolls and stuffed animals are in a single shop window. Next to it, Santa Claus bows and grins and quivers his electrical bowl of jelly as he shows off the latest luxury gift—a nink (or would you prefer chinchilla?) seat belt for your car.

Look ahead: The church on the corner has a softly-lighted manger scene arched with boughs of pine.

Every church in New York seems to have crèches, candles, crosses, the sound of organs and chimes. There is no hour for church-going now; church is for all the season.

Look left: The Central park carriages are ready for clomping, their horses adorned with holly at the mane. The buses aren't moving much either; they seem to be loaded down with their weight of ridiculously large packages attached to small people. A florist shop is brilliant with poinsettias, and

Look down: That poodle in the red parka is jawing a bunch of mistletoe. Rendezvous avec Persephone, isn't that?

If on the outside, all is brilliance—on the inside (of New York's stores) all is magic.

Your money magically disappears as you are caught up in the allurements of a store frothy with pink angels, or another store dazzling with silver frosted trees, and still another warm with that motif of memory, sugar plums and peppermint sticks.

On all sides you are hypnotized with commercialism, but in New York it is so beautifully done that you can't help loving, rather than loathing it.

And then finally, as you prepare to leave from Grand Central Station, where children's choruses sing farewell carols, or from Idlewild Airport where a huge white cross reminds you again that New York has a heart, you probably are glad that you're getting away to grandma's house—or your own—for Christmas Day.

But you surely have to admit that, in this pre-holiday day time, no place on earth is more extravagantly wonderful!

Early automobiles were steered with a lever and were usually designed for only two passengers.

Hope Talk Ends N-Ship Strike

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Owners of the nuclear-powered merchant ship Savannah, idled here by a walkout of engineers, hope a meeting in New York today will solve the dispute.

The engineers, through the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, explained the problem: An arbitrator in New York handed down a ruling that tied wages of masters and mates, members of another union, to those of nuclear engineers on the Savannah.

The Savannah engineers didn't want to negotiate a new contract that would drag the masters and mates along on their coattails. So they resigned.

Owners of the Savannah, world's only nuclear-powered merchant ship, plan to ask the arbitrator today to reconsider his ruling.

License Tab Sales Lagging Way Behind

As of the first of the month, the Pontiac office of the secretary of state's office was lagging an estimated 2,000 behind last year's auto license sales.

Total sales this year were 3,500 compared to last year's 5,500, said Willis Brewer, manager of the Pontiac bureau.

The bureau is located at 96 E. Huron St.

Brewer urged citizens to avoid the last-minute rush and get their tabs as soon as possible. He also reminded motorists to bring their car titles to the office.

The new tab lettering is green on a white background.

The tabs for 1963 are the first of two issues, another one to follow for 1964. New plates probably will be issued for 1965.

$1-Billion Goof by Con-Con?

LANSING (AP)—State Rep. E. D. O'Brien of Detroit claims the proposed new state constitution contains a $1-billion mistake. Experts in the field of finances say it is not so.

O'Brien, a Democrat, said a section in the proposed constitution authorizing the continuation of all state and municipal retirement plans contains a provision that he calls "impossible."

It says:

Manufacturers Discuss Problems of Industry

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy was criticized for the second successive day yesterday as members of the National Association of Manufacturers discussed problems of American industry.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, also received criticism. Charles R. Sligh Jr., vice chairman of the association's board of directors and a former president of the organization, said statements of Kennedy and Meany were "symptomatic of the great lack of economic understanding which besets this country in places high as well as low."

Sligh, addressing the association's 67th Congress of American Industry, said Kennedy spoke last spring of "greed for profits" in "castigating steel companies for attempting to institute an obviously needed price increase."

He also quoted Meany as challenging the association last May to show the connection between business profits and more jobs.

Yesterday Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York questioned Kennedy's economic policies in addressing the association.

Sligh said it was "amazing that there should be such a tendency to ignore the nature and function of profit in an economic system . . . motivated by the hope of profit, which depends upon profit-seeking for the creation of new business, the development of new products, the improvement of productive efficiency and providing employment opportunities for most of the population."

"It is amazing and it is appalling, and it serves to measure the great educational task which faces American business and industry, a task which has been too long neglected."

Finds Letter by Boccaccio

PERUGIA, Italy (AP)—A letter signed with the name of Giovanni Boccaccio, author of "The Decameron," has been found by Prof. Roberto Abbonanza, director of Perugia's state archives.

Abbonanza said it is the only known autograph and handwritten document by the 14th Century Italian writer. He said he found the letter in the binding of a 16th Century book in the archives.

The letter was written to Leonardo Certaldo, an Italian money-changer who had gone to Avignon, France, where the papacy had been transferred temporarily.

account of service rendered in the fiscal year shall be funded during that year and such funding shall not be used for financing unfunded accrued liabilities."

Under the language, O'Brien claimed, it becomes mandatory for the state and local governments to put in 100 per cent cash to take care of retirement systems.

This would mean they would fully guarantee with cash the money for such pension systems as those for teachers, state police and other state employees.

"CAN'T AFFORD IT" "The point is," O'Brien said, "that 100 per cent of reserved funding isn't necessary and that state and local governments can't afford it."

The annual cost to the state, O'Brien estimated would be more than $50 million a year above the present bill for the state-supported retirement systems.

Accumulated past credits for the state amount to $800 million, he said, and the past credits of municipal systems could double this figure. Added up, he said, this would top $1 billion.

"To abide by the language would mean that we (the legislature) would have to appropriate twice as much money just to cover annual needs plus additional funds to cover past obligations."

D. Hale Brake, chairman of the con-con finance committee that drew up the resolution, said O'Brien was wrong in worrying about past obligations.

As Brake explained it, all the language means is that future retirement financing must be soundly financed. Other state officials in the retirement field agreed with Brake.

"The legislature has the final say anyway," commented a head of one retirement system. "And then there is the Supreme Court. He (O'Brien) is trying to pick holes and cause a panic."

Salinger Alibis Policy on News Suppression

Speaking at a Pittsburgh journalism awards banquet in Pittsburgh last Tuesday evening, Presidential Press Secretary PIERRE SALINGER gave substance to the charges of communications media that official news related to the Cuban crisis was restricted if not actually falsified.

Salinger defended this Administration policy on the grounds that it was designed to permit the Government the freest hand in dealing with the Caribbean missile menace and to give the United States the strategy of the element of surprise.

A second consideration was concealment of the movement of troops and war equipment.

The press secretary added that remarks by ARTHUR SYLVESTER, assistant secretary of defense in charge of public affairs, had been misinterpreted. The statement which blew up the storm was in part that "news flowing from actions taken by the government is part of the weaponry . . . and action by government becomes one weapon in a strained situation. The results . . . justify the methods used."

We thoroughly disagree with this cavalier attitude toward the dissemination of vital news to which the citizenry is entitled, and find it difficult to misinterpret the remarks attributed to Sylvester.

America went through World War II with nothing more than a voluntary censorship, which proved most workable and efficacious.

No responsible information agency has ever given evidence of publishing news inimical to the national interest once the need for deferred publication or observance of absolute secrecy was made clear.

To recognize the prerogative of government to decide what news is to be given its citizens or to "doctor" what news is released is a dangerous first step toward negating the freedom of the press. It is a cliché to say that traditionally such governmental authority has been a first step down the road to dictatorship—but it is also a truism.

Tax Shift Suggested to Finance Highways

In considering a proposed 20-year $11.4 billion highway program for Michigan, a study committee recommends it be financed by higher vehicular taxes and a shifting of the burden to the "Non-Highway User."

Composed of experts from the three major state universities, the committee defines this category as "those who benefit from a highway not directly related to their use of it."

This includes those whose property is adjacent to a road with advantages of access, and thereby made more valuable. It also affects persons not owning cars but find the highway a convenience, nevertheless.

The program would raise the share of road cost of these beneficiaries from the present 13 per cent to 30 per cent.

There is marked contrast between the summation of the present 286-page report and a Highway Needs study released last year.

That investigation saw a gap of $3 billion between the cost of the highway program and the amount current revenue sources will provide. The latest study, with its proposed changes, reduces the deficiency to $637 million—to be made up by borrowing.

It further advocates the integration of mileage taxes, fuel taxes and registration fees on a broad basis, placing a greater burden on "for hire" as compared to private vehicles, and on heavy as compared to lighter transport.

Other steps advocated are:

- Increase of annual vehicular registration fees.
- Upping mileage rates on Truck-Tractors.
- Raising the tax on diesel fuel.
- Elimination of certain subsidies now enjoyed by publicly owned vehicles, transit and school buses and offsetting the loss with appropriations from the General Fund.
- Change in the distribution formula for the existing gas and weight tax from the present 47-35-18 to 50-7, 30-6 and 19-3 per cent respectively for the highway department, the counties and cities.

The committee is to be commended for its thorough and comprehensive survey. But because of the magnitude of the road program and in some aspects the drastic tax revision advocated, we believe that the subject should have utmost consideration and evaluation before official approval is given.

The Man About Town

Apples Are the Core of 130 Fruitful Years

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND
During times when the trend is toward corporate control and multi-unit operation of American business — from steel making to fish-worm merchandising — it is interesting and refreshing to find an individual and family-owned enterprise still carrying on and flourishing.

Such a one is the Green Orchards, a part of it decided to the family in 1922 by President Andrew Jackson under the Homestead Act.

The third generation operation is now in the hands of two brothers, Alden and Arthur Wendell Green. It comprises four orchards totaling 50 acres, and another 20 acres devoted to peaches.

Annual apple yield (with some nine varieties—early and late) runs between 20-25 thousand bushels—with cold storage facilities for 6,000 bushels—likelihood of early in-season business in this capacity.

Marketing of the product, like all other businesses has undergone great change. Where three years ago, 90 per cent of the yield was sold "off the tail gate of trucks" in Detroit's Eastern Market, that proportion is now down to 10 per cent.

But through other Detroit outlets, direct contact with chain store combinations and association affiliation, the huge crop is still completely marketed.

Today 40 per cent of the product goes out of state, with 10-15 per cent disposed of at the farm's retail store on 14 Mile Road, west of Northwestern Highway.

During the height of the picking season, 15 pickers are employed. They average about 75 bushels per day—though some have gone as high as 115 . . . Piece-or, apple-work, you know.

Since every business piece should include a statistic or two—here's a closer. At an average of 140 apples per bushel, a year's crop would run to 3.5 million apples. Holy Toledo . . . Think of how many doctors that would keep away!

An anonymous observation by our Managing Editor whose initials are H.J.R. divulges that at the "Chief Pontiac" reception a few evenings ago, pipe smokers of 22 Miami Road, and of 98 E. Iroquois Road were in heated competition. Both were quite puffed up about their respective pipe and tobacco preferences . . . made the ME wonder whether there would be local support for a pipe smoking contest similar to Flint's annual classic.

Another suggestion was that the wives of pipe smokers could form sort of women's auxiliary and have a contest of their own. See how long they could stay on their feet under the thickening clouds of nicotine.

David Lawrence Agrees:

'Backed Off on Cuba Too Soon'

WASHINGTON — Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia is an important and influential member of Congress. He is a Democrat and chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, one of the most important posts in Washington.

But when he made a public comment criticizing President Kennedy's policy in Cuba, it didn't get printed even in the late editions of the leading morning news papers of the country.

It was published in Washington, however, where it doubtless was read by the Administration.

Excerpts were taken from an interview earlier that evening over station WSB-TV in Atlanta with Lloyd Russell — no relation to the senator. The transcript, which has since become available, shows that Sen. Russell said:

"We have temporized. We have even lifted the quarantine. Frankly, I think that we should lift the quarantine, or make any guarantee as to Cuba, until we had had the right of on-site inspection throughout Cuba."

This sums up also the opinion of many Americans — regardless of party. For it is felt that the United States gave away its trump card when it withdrew its "quarantine" or blockade and demobilized the troops which had been assembled in the southeastern part of this country.

Whether this step was taken as a "trade" or "concession" to the Soviet Union has never been revealed. U. Thant, secretary general of the United Nations, spoke the other day of the "compromise" on Cuba and of the "principle of give and take."

But Sen. Russell now accuses the Administration of having made a blunder in withdrawing the blockade before on-site inspection was assured.

He deplores the policy, no matter whether it was adopted to conciliate the Soviets or to assist Castro. Sen. Russell added:

"We will have to eventually rid this hemisphere of Castro and all that he stands for. . . I would be in favor of doing it now if we could make a joint effort with the other Latin American states."

"But since Russia claims that they have moved the missiles, and since our government has accepted their word about it—and why on earth we should have accepted their word I don't know."

The chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee went on to declare that he hoped the United States would make no further "concessions" because, as it is, "we have not been able to hold the initial gain we made in Cuba when Khrushchev promised to remove the missiles." He continued:

"BABY-SITTING FOR CASTRO?"
"Here three months ago we were pledged to see that Castroism in this hemisphere was destroyed. We have now been euchred into the position of baby-sitting for Castro and guaranteeing the integrity of the Communist regime in Cuba, and we don't know for a positive fact that the missiles and the bombers have been removed.

"I assume that they have, but all we have seen is a box that they said contained the bomber, and a long metal container that they said contained the missile."

"I certainly hope that we will not make any further concessions until we at least have the right to send the United Nations team in there to see that there are no missiles hidden in the caves or other strategic places in Cuba, and we have the right to test to see whether there are any atomic nuclear warheads there.

"That is a test that can be carried on through instrumentation and is reasonably accurate."

These are strong comments by a member of the President's own party in the Senate. If a Republican had made them, they would have been characterized as just an anti-administration or anti-Kennedy view.

That its guests will be spared the ordeal of drying themselves with tepid towels.

If it had been a lesser story, I might have kept the lid on. But when civilization is taking a giant step forward, I think the public has a right to know.

WEST

This is a brochure, handsomely printed on expensive vellum, which extols the merits of a new hotel that is opening here next month.

Ordinarily, the merits of a hotel are not something that the management tries to keep quiet. This brochure, however, takes the form of a "personal and confidential" message to the hotel staff.

It might be argued that the hotel compromised its right to privacy by mailing copies of the brochure to a thousand or so newsmen. It might even be suspected that the hotel was hoping we would make the contents public.

FIGHTS CONSCIENCE
I, however, have never been one to violate a confidence. If a hotel circulates literature that is marked "confidential," my impulse is to keep it that way.

But after wrestling with my conscience, which finally pinned me with a double hammerlock, I decided I could ethically paraphrase the brochure if I refrained from mentioning the name of the hotel.

I think that even the hotel's publicity office will have to concede that this is a fair approach. Therefore, having satisfied that question to my own satisfaction, I feel at liberty to report that all the bathrooms in the new hotel will be equipped with heated towel racks.

This means, in case you haven't already grasped the significance,

Youth Offered Assistance During Time of Distress

There is not enough said about the truly fine young men who are members of this great country. Last Saturday I ran out of gasoline. I raised the hood and sat for over 1/2 hour and not even a scout car came by. Finally, a young man going in the opposite direction noticed my distress. He went for gas and then waited until I started my car and drove on. He refused to take anything for his trouble.

I hope he will see this and know he has my everlasting gratitude.

Feels Free Parking Worsens Condition

It would be easier finding a parking space during Christmas shopping rush if the Downtown Businessmen's Association didn't put those bags over the meters. By 9:30 a.m. the "free" parking is all taken up by Pontiac store employees. Without the bags the spaces would be vacated during the day.

The average shopper doesn't object to the meters. We're more interested in finding a space.

Voices Objection to Bar Near School

Some Troy residents were protesting the issuance of a liquor license near Baker Junior High School. Police Chief David E. Grattop said that "the operation and conduct of patrons in bars presents no great problem to the police."

Maybe they present no problem in the bar, but the minute drinkers step out each one driving is "operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol." Please ask the chief how he avoids these problems.

Medicare

The Chicago Sun-Times

Meeting in Los Angeles the American Medical Society again affirmed its strong stand against medical care for the aged financed by the Social Security System. The AMA recognizes, very well, that again it faces a bitter fight.

The Kennedy administration firmly believed, even after Medicare was defeated in the Senate, that the issue would be of foremost interest in the elections. The truth of the matter is that Medicare was not the prime issue.

Early in 1961, the Gallup Poll revealed that 67 per cent of the people were in favor of medical care for the aged under social security. The AMA embarked on a program to show what the administration did not tell; that the King-Anderson bill provided only 25 per cent of medical care; no drugs, no doctor bills, 4,000,000 of the aged would be arbitrarily excluded.

As this program got home the polls began to show a steady drop until in August only 44 per cent favored the government plan.

insurance for the aged has now an increase. There is little doubt that the administration will wage a fierce fight to enact a medical care bill via social security. The AMA will fight just as hard from their position that this is bad for the patient, bad for the taxpayer and not acceptable to the medical profession.

Let us hope that the administration will realize that it is on the wrong course.

Tax Reduction

The New York World Telegram

Presidential adviser Walter Heller says the administration's proposed tax cut isn't aimed at recession but at a fundamental weakness in the economy.

He says the principal targets are persistent unemployment and excessive productive capacity. These are the fundamental weaknesses he has in mind.

But he's conspicuously silent with regard to the ever-rising federal spending which was responsible in the first place for unmanageable tax rates. He favors lower tax rates but doesn't mention any corresponding reduction in federal spending rates. This is the fundamental weakness of his position.

Disagree on Wisdom of Greyhound Track at Ironwood

YANSING (P)—Let the dogs run at Ironwood and they will bring in the bucks to give the entire Upper Peninsula's economy a big boost. This is the claim, questioned by some realists.

Said a confidential report by Williams & Works, consultants, to the Gogebic County Planning Commission and the City of Ironwood:

"Michigan has an opportunity to add to its tax base, to create a major travel attraction, and to assist a chronically distressed area by legalizing greyhound racing in the Upper Peninsula.

Realists, such as Edgar Hayes, chairman of the State Racing Commission and aides of incoming Gov. George Romney say the dream of a big money race track at Ironwood is just a dream — impossible of accomplishment.

Rep. Joseph S. Mack, D-Ironwood, introduced a bill last year to legalize greyhound racing in the Upper Peninsula. It was quietly killed in committee because of lack of support and the opposition of lobbyists for Detroit area horse racing interests.

Mack and his supporters say they are coming in to the legislature again next year, armed with the promise of $1 million to build the track and the facts given in the favorable report by the consulting firm.

Proponents said several speculators had indicated they would put up the money, but none was identified by name.

The report says, for instance:

"Ironwood is favorable situated to draw upon the active northern Wisconsin resort area. It is estimated that there are 1.5 million people within 90 miles of Ironwood during the summer season.

"Within a half day's drive of Ironwood, there are another two million people in and around the Minneapolis-St. Paul and Duluth-Superior metropolitan areas, and, of course, Milwaukee and Chicago are within a day's drive or a couple of hours flying time from the proposed greyhound track."

DOUBTS SUCCESS

Said Racing Commissioner Hayes: "My job is to enforce rules on racing set up by the legislature and approved by the governor. But I can say this: promoters think they can set up a race track and people will come running in to lose their money. It doesn't work out."

Gov.-elect Romney, who doesn't smoke or drink, also would be inclined against any proposal for a dog track with betting involved, his top aides say.

Only strong and unanimous local support might sway him to approval, they advise. Romney was asked about the racing question by the Michigan Temperance Foundation and answered:

"Establishment of new tracks, either horse or dog, should be based entirely in the basis of approval of the local units involved."

The city and county voters, approving of new income, are sure to vote for the track, say area supporters. But the supposed gold mine could turn into a liability, claims Hayes.

Hayes said speculators recently poured in $5 million to promote a race track in the Finger Lakes region of upper New York State. The government is now taking it over for unpaid taxes, he said.

The only successful, money-making race track in a resort area, Hayes said, is Monticello, in the lower New York State area, where rich New Yorkers come to spend their money.

"I seriously doubt the projection made in the report that a dog track at Ironwood could make money," concluded Hayes.

The report said there was $1 million or more available from private promoters to establish a track at the Ironwood fairgrounds that would include a new grandstand and a clubhouse valued at approximately $350,000 kennels for 500 to 700 greyhounds, paved parking lot for some 5,000 cars and new approach roads.

The report stated further: "It is reasonable to assume that a top quality greyhound track will draw an average of 4,000 patrons a day to Ironwood during the 90-day racing season."

"If the average wager is $40 per person (the average at Michigan's horse tracks in 1961 was $2.83) the total parimutuel handle would be about $14.4 million.

Total revenue to the state, the report figured, would be $1,025,000 with $205,000 returned to the county.

If every racing customer spent another $10 a day for meals, drinks and gas and other purchases, it would mean another $3.6 million placed in circulation in the county, the report estimated.

"The track also would mean between 150 and 200 new jobs created plus twice that many to serve the racing crowd, said the report.

"The sport has great customer appeal to both sexes," said the report.

"The fact that it is conducted in the evening under lights, in comfortable and commodious surroundings, is especially appealing to vacationists."

As for the moralists, the report said: "It cannot be said that betting on dogs is more damaging than betting on horses, or on cards, or real estate or the stock market. It is certainly more humane to entice a dog to chase an electric rabbit than to spur, whip and castrate a horse to run more swiftly. Any opposition to dog racing is obviously to protect a small, special interest group."

A scholarship in art and sculpture went to Dawn Martin of 1228 E. Maple Road, Birmingham.

Creative writing winners were Patricia Keough of 124 S. Williamsbury Road, Bloomfield Township and Susan Reese of 124 S. Minerva St., Royal Oak.

An area winner in music composition was Carol M. Johnson of 17178 Kirkshire Road, Birmingham.

Amounts of the awards vary. The aid ranges from $50 to $1,000 in any combination of scholarship, campus job or loan.

Solon Picked Bad Place to Talk Segregation--Africa

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — Americans sometimes wonder why the dozens of new nations emerging since World War II fail to adopt our own system of government, with its three coequal branches. . . . the principle of coequal branches sometimes has its drawbacks, as the current row. Montgomery ings of Dixie Sen. Allen J. Ellender are dramatically proving. While the executive branch, which is charged with the conduct of foreign policy, rings its collective hands in anguish, a powerful member of the legislative branch is merrily wrecking the good will that we have painstakingly built up in Africa.

Thanks to our system of checks and balances, there is little that the President or the State Department can do about it, either, except sadly to pick up the pieces.

Sen. Ellender, a fiery segregationist who hails from Houma, La., set out in mid-October to visit every nation in Africa at public expense.

The Defense Department provided the C47 planes in which he travels. The State Department is furnishing free hospitality at our embassies, and counterpart funds to keep him in pocket money. The Senate Appropriations Committee will pick up the rest of the tab.

Africa might peacefully have survived its visitation by the intrepid traveler, if he had held his fire until he returned to the Louisiana bayou for Christmas.

Instead, at a press conference in Southern Rhodesia the southern solon drawled that he had not seen any place in Africa where Africans were capable of governing themselves, or of making progress without white assistance.

He even threatened to use his influence in the appropriations committee to stop aid to Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland, if they break away from the white-controlled federation of which they are now a part.

While a storm of African protests inundated our State Department, Ellender perpetually resumed his travels, only to discover that his entry permits had been removed in such all-recipient nations as Tanganyika and Uganda.

Powerless to silence or chastise Ellender, the State Department could only issue a statement stressing that the senator's opinions were his own, and not those of the U.S. government.

This could scarcely mollify sensitive African natives, who know little about coequal branches, but are able to observe that American ambassadors shamelessly meet Ellender's official government plane at every stop.

To be perfectly honest about it, the senator has the executive branch over a barrel. The State Department dares utter no word of criticism, because he sits on the committee that controls its departmental appropriations, as well as foreign aid.

The Air Force cannot withdraw his plane, because it is in a similar bind, and even President Kennedy has been backed into a legislative corner.

After all, Ellender is chairman of the Agriculture Committee, and JFK will require his help to pass a farm bill with a new cotton program next session.

Further, he sits in mighty judgment on PL480, the surplus food program that dispenses many millions of dollars worth of agricultural products to underdeveloped countries.

Prime Minister Milton Obote, who personally banned Ellender from Uganda, said of the outspoke segregationist: "That man is a bad man." This is not true. Ellender is in fact a likable, hard-working senator whose views on segregation unfortunately coincide with those of his deep-South constituency.

He is a honey sort of a man, and an excellent host who loves to cook creole dinners in his Senate hideaway for legislative colleagues and the press.

He is a widower, with one son and twelve grandchildren. He is want a good man by deep South standards. He is not good for America, however, when he chooses an African platform to air his prejudiced, myopic views about newly freed peoples of another race.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Search Goes On for Better Antibiotics

In 1513 Ponce de Leon, a Spanish soldier, led an expedition into Florida to discover the mythical Fountain of Youth. In that day such quests were common but they were doomed to failure.

Our present day explorers search for many things. One of the more fruitful lines of BRANDSTADT exploration in recent years has been the search for antibiotics.

Who shall deny that the results have exceeded the hopes of even those earlier explorers?

Since penicillin, at least a dozen modified penicillins have been developed commercially.

This is part of the constant battle to outwit the lowly disease germs that keep fighting back by developing resistance to penicillin and most of the other antibiotics.

This resistance is built up most rapidly when the amount of the antibiotic given is too small to knock the germs out quickly.

Often the amount is too small because a larger dose would produce severe side effects in the patient.

Furthermore, the wider the use of any antibiotic the greater the danger of developing antibiotic-resistant strains of the germs.

Although the penicillins are still the best treatment for diseases caused by the pus-forming organisms such as staphylococcus and streptococcus, they cannot be taken by everyone.

If a person is allergic to penicillin or is infected with an antibiotic-resistant strain, he must be treated with some other drug.

One of the newer antibiotics, cycloserine, has been found to be especially effective against some types of infection in the urinary bladder.

Other new drugs such as kanamycin, ristocin, clindamycin, and novobiocin may be life-saving if reserved for serious infections that have not responded to other antibiotics.

PROMISING ANTIBIOTIC

One of the most promising of the newer antibiotics for use against the pus-formers is vancomycin.

TOO SMALL

It has the advantage that little, if any, resistance to it is developed by the germs and that it is better tolerated by the person treated than most of the others.

It has the disadvantage that it cannot be given by mouth or injected into the hip muscles but must be given in the vein.

Where the skill of the doctor comes in is in deciding which person needs this drug rather than one of the older antibiotics and in determining the right dosage.

New antibiotics have also been found that act against an entirely different group of germs.

Amphotericin B is effective against some of the fungus diseases such as histoplasmosis, a disease that resembles tuberculosis, and blastomycosis, a form of serious and often fatal skin disease.

These infections are not very common but in the past they have been extremely hard to treat.

Fumagillin has been found to kill the germs that cause amebic dysentery.

Viomycin, like the older streptomycin, is an antituberculous agent and causes some of the same undesirable side effects.

Industrialist Dies in Hospital at 77

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Industrialist John Airey, 77, died yesterday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital here.

Airey, a former University of Michigan professor of engineering, was chairman of the board of the King-Seely Corp., an Ann Arbor firm, from 1947 to 1952. He retired from the board in 1959.

Airey, born in Leeds, England, joined the firm in 1922, a few years after its founding. He was a member of the advisory committee of the Council of Economic Advisers to the President of the United States.

Airey is survived by two daughters and two sons. His wife Ethel Mary Nunn died last year.

Third Crosby Boy Has Marital Trouble

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Dennis Crosby, third of crooner Bing's boys to encounter marital problems, reportedly has embarked on a trial separation from ex-showgirl Pat Sheehan.

She told a newsmag: "It happened about a week and a half ago, but I am sure it's not serious and we will get back together."

"I don't know where Dennis is staying at the moment," Dennis' twin, Phillip, reportedly lives at home with wife Sandy only part time. Younger brother Lindsay has been sued for divorce by wife Barbara.

Elder brother Gary and his wife are reportedly very happy.

Swiss Envoy in Algiers ALGIERS (UPI)—Sigmund Marcuard, first Swiss ambassador to the Algerian Republic, arrived here yesterday to assume his post.

DOVER, Del. (AP)—A 19-year-old was convicted of violating probation. The sentence included 20 lashes with a cat-o-nine-tails "inflicted publicly by strokes on the bare back well laid on."

The scene took place here Nov. 13, 1962. The sentence was legal. It was also feasible, since there are two public whipping posts in Delaware.

No date for the whipping of Franklin W. Cannon Jr. has been set, but barring legal moves that may reach the U.S. Supreme Court—the date will be set and the sentence carried out.

The case has stirred a controversy in state and nation. Civil liberties groups branded the punishment as barbaric. Sociologists called it archaic. Penologists expressed the opinion that whipping is useless in halting crime.

The controversy revolves around two questions: is whipping a brutal punishment, and does it help to deter crime?

One of the questions is as old as the United States, whose constitution—along with the constitution of Delaware—prohibits "cruel and unusual punishments."

ACCEPT MEANS

Our grandfathers would have been surprised at the controversy. Until recent times, whipping was an accepted means of punishing criminals in nearly every country. In many nations, it still is. England abolished corporal punishment in 1948. Canada still has it, and criminals there are regularly sentenced to the lash for a variety of offenses, from rape to armed burglary.

Even where whipping is legal, its use has diminished over the past 50 years. If Cannon is flogged, it will be the first such sentence carried out in Delaware in more than a decade.

Many believe the punishment will never be carried out. Cannon's attorneys have said they will fight the sentence to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary, arguing that flogging is cruel and inhuman.

Delaware's Gov. Elbert N. Carvel says recent publicity about the whipping post has been "damaging."

Eye Peace Groups for 'Red Influence'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities will hold hearings next week aimed at determining whether the Communist party is influencing groups organized to seek world peace.

The hearings will begin Tuesday and last three days.

Chairman Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., announcing the hearings yesterday, said they will deal specifically with a group known as Women Strike for Peace.

ing to Delaware and to the whole United States." Said one of Cannon's lawyers: "The whole idea is barbaric and inhuman. Labor Party's Optimistic in Britain

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

LONDON — Britain's Labor party is gaining confidence that it will take over the government after the next general elections and that the 11-year rule of the Conservatives is near its end.

They base their optimism on three main points: — British — elections which have increased Labor's strength in the House of Commons, although not even coming close to endangering the Conservative majority.

— Public opinion polls that show mounting evidence of either indifference or satisfaction or boredom with the present government.

— A belief that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will retire within the next couple of years regardless of the outcome of any future elections.

On the latter point, the Conservative Daily Mail this week went a step further.

It predicted Macmillan may step down within the next three months.

"STATURE LOW" — His stature among Tory (Conservative) members of Parliament is near its lowest ebb, the newspaper said.

The recent flurry of speculation springs from five recent by-elections in which the Conservatives lost nearly 7 per cent of the vote, a percentage which if continued in a general election would be enough to put the Laborites of Hugh Gaitskell into office with a comfortable majority.

General elections in Britain need not be held until October 1964, but the confident Laborites believe that political necessities will force Macmillan or his successor to call them at least by April or May 1964.

Harold Wilson, a member of Gaitskell's "shadow cabinet" in the opposition, explained the reasoning to this correspondent over coffee one evening in the House of Parliament Restaurant.

"The chief reason," he explained, "is that no party in power wants to wait until the last minute for general elections.

The closer the deadline, the less chance the government has for maneuver against an emergency which might have an adverse effect at the polls."

ONE POSSIBILITY

Wilson, a former chancellor of the exchequer, noted as one possibility any adverse development in Britain's balance of payments which would force the government into a new austerity program.

For the government involved, the effect of the voters would be equally adverse.

Wilson rejected the idea that the Laborites would campaign on a program of opposition to British membership in the European Common Market.

"We would want to cover the whole spectrum," he said, "housing, education, pensions and the like."

They would also hit at British unemployment which now is over the 500,000 mark.

As for Macmillan, he has based both his domestic and foreign policies on eventual British success in entering the Common Market. The Laborites contend he has given away his bargaining cards, and it is a fact that even should this goal be attained, it appears now that it might come too late to help Macmillan at the polls.

His Honor Proves Car Can't Speed

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A motorist, accused of speeding up a hill on U. S. 285, contended his car wouldn't go more than 65 miles an hour up that hill in high gear.

So Municipal Judge Charles Snell took the car out to see for himself.

On his first run up the hilly stretch of highway leading north out of Mission Valley, the judge couldn't get the car over 65 m.p.h., the California speed limit. "I'll try it again," he said, and he ordered a police car to run interference for him.

This time Judge Snell got the car up to 80 m.p.h. But the motorist, George K. Huff, 55, a former Navy pilot and now a Conair technician, objected. The car had gone into overdrive, Huff said, as the judge was picking up speed before starting up the grade.

Huff said he had argued only that the car wouldn't attain illegal speed on the hill in high gear — the gear he said he was using when cited.

"That's right," said the judge. "Case dismissed."

Doctors Becoming 'Traffic Directors'

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The role of the physician is changing from that of a worker to that of a manager, says Dr. William N. Hubbard Jr., dean of the University of Michigan Medical School.

Physicians more and more are calling upon, and directing their patients to, specialized medical personnel — such as physical therapists, medical technicians, clinical psychologists — Hubbard said in an interview.

This already has changed the day-to-day operations of the physician, who now can see twice as many patients in one day than he could less than a generation ago, the Dean said.

The trend will create a new kind of physician — "one whose responsibility is not as much to serve his patients, but who must see that this service is delivered by others," he said.

This change will have brought the physician through a complete cycle — from concern about the whole man to concentration on parts of the human mechanism or specific duties, back to the whole man.

Earlier concern for the whole man — in a medical sense — was forced by the fact that a physician's knowledge of the interior workings of the human being was almost nil.

Now it is due to the fact that there's more to know about the parts of the human mechanism than one man could hope to know comprehensively.

There is now a need for someone who can act as "synthesizer and integrator of these services and facts," he added.

Specialists can help stretch the talents of the doctor over a wider range, answering, in part, the need for "a greater volume of medical service than has ever been given in the history of human civilization."

"The need of medicine today is to adapt this modern scientific development without losing its historic compassion and its awareness of the importance of human individuality," he said.

The modern physician "must be a competent scientist and, for the future a competent manager; it is the responsibility of medical education to meet this challenge," Hubbard said.

TIGHT FIT — Danny Ryder, 2, lies wedged between the wall of a used car lot office and an adjoining building in San Antonio, Tex., as his father, Dan Ryder, helplessly views him from the other end. The boy crawled into his predicament but was freed by firemen none the worse for wear.

Asks Veterans to Call First on Pensions

The Oakland County veterans affairs office is being swamped unnecessarily with veterans pension applicants who are seeking assistance in filling out annual income questionnaires.

County VA Director Floyd Cremer has asked that all further applicants make an appointment with his office by telephone.

"This will save a lot of waiting around when they get here," he said.

The federal government made the forms available a month earlier this year, doubling the time available for completing them by Jan. 31.

50 Kettering Students to See Musical 'Oliver'

BY BARBARA SECAN
A treat is in store for about 50 Kettering students, who are planning to take a trip to the Fisher Theater in Detroit tomorrow.

The group will have the opportunity to see the pre-Broadway production of "Oliver."

It is a musical adaptation from Charles Dickens' "Oliver Twist."

Students will travel to Detroit on a chartered bus. Arrangements for the trip have been made by the Stagersmaster headed by Ray Stecher, president, and Miss Patty Looman, sponsor. Around school, this project has been enthusiastically endorsed.

General first aid was the topic of instruction Wednesday night at the newly formed first aid classes.

A volunteer from the American Red Cross teaches the two-hour class weekly. Practical training will be covered thoroughly in future sessions.

Joanna Lovett, who helped initiate this program, announced recently that the classes will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on Wednesdays. A fee of $1.10 will be required for a handbook and cost of bandages. Anyone who is interested is welcome to join.

Free optical examinations have been given throughout the week to freshmen and juniors by the Oakland County Health Department. Students are not required to take the test.

After 44 years of faithful service Mrs. Beulah Smith recently retired from the teaching profession. As a teacher of sophomore English she was popular among her students.

The Betty Crocker Scholarship Test was given to 18 girls Tuesday morning.

The national contest offers scholarships to winners to the college of their choice.

Participants in the hour - long event were: Gail Bingsi, Sharon Cleveland, Carol Dunaj, Sandy Fausbire, Sally Gulewich, Judy Haley, Gay Hammond, Jenny Henry, Dru Hotchkiss, Joyce Kuenzer, Joanna Lovett, Debbie Peterson, Gayle Russell, Carol Snapp, Kristi Talbot, Bente Volkquartz, Merrily Webber and Susan Zugras.

DANCE PREVIEW — This was the scene earlier this week as students at Waterford Township High School prepared decorations for tonight's dance. Keeping reflection from a silver-foil

Clarkston Sets Ball A'Rolling

By JANET TISCH

Clarkston Senior High School has begun a new season of athletics, and a new season of social activities as well.

Starting off both will be a dance tonight after the basketball game with Holly.

Sponsored by the sophomore class, the dance will last from the end of the game until 11:30 p.m.

Called "Sentimental Journey," it will feature records of the past. Admission is 35 cents per person or 50 cents a couple.

The CHS Y-Teens, under the guidance of new sponsor Miss Laura Terry, held a meeting Dec. 1 to plan a variety of activities for the coming months.

It was decided at the meeting that a pajama party will be held Dec. 14. All girls are to meet at the YMCA in Pontiac no later than 11:30 p.m.

WTHS Slates Winter-Theme Dance

By LIZ VENIE

Winter made its official white appearance yesterday, and Waterford Township High School has concocted a similar scene of winter inside the gym for its "Glistening Shadows" dance tonight.

The dance starts at 8 and will end at 11. Tickets will be sold for 50 cents at the door to students and their guests.

Featured will be WXYZ disc jockey Joel Sebastian. The snow and winter theme of the dance will feature snowflakes, aluminum snowflakes, and aluminum trees. A touch of Christmas atmosphere is planned by the decorations committee for the stage, where a living room on Christmas Eve will be portrayed.

Gaily wrapped packages will be arranged under a tree, decorated with lights and ornaments. Potato chips, pop and candy bars will be sold in the cafeteria.

Special guest entertainment will include the Monuments, "Popcorn" Wiley and the Squires. With this dance, the school is adopting a new guest policy. Each WTHS student may bring a guest to the dance if he has a guest card, which can be picked up in the principal's office.

Wrote Play When He Quit Horsin' Around

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—An inability to draw horses led cartoonist Herb Gardner to seek fame as a playwright—and he won on his very first try.

"I've always associated horses with the unemployment problem," said Herb, author of the current Broadway comedy hit, "A Thousand Clowns."

"Most of the times I left jobs it was because sooner or later the boss would ask me to draw a horse, and I couldn't. When I drew a horse it looked like a cross between a dog and radio city."

At 27, tall and curly-haired, Gardner himself looks like a cross between Thomas Wolfe and Orson Welles when they were that age. Herb started yearning to be a writer at 13. He learned the rudiments of stagecraft in his youth by working as an orange juice salesman and hat checker in Times Square theaters, and recalls seeing one play 140 times.

4 Murderers' Terms Ended

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Swainson yesterday commuted the life sentences of four men convicted of murder, making them eligible for immediate parole.

Sentences commuted were those of Claude Dorris, 62, Albert G. White, 52, Bernard McCann, 50, and August Karhu, 60.

Dorris has served 35 years for a slaying that occurred during a drunken argument in Wayne County. He will live with relatives in Inkster.

White, convicted in Mount Pleasant for killing his wife in 1945, will live in Flint.

McCann will be deported to his native Canada. He was convicted 25 years ago of a murder during a holdup of the Vernal Hotel in Fair Haven, St. Clair County.

Karhu, who has served 40 years for a killing that resulted from a feud in Ontonagon County, will return to the Upper Peninsula to live.

There followed several frustrating years as a commercial artist, or drew endless panels in animated film cartoons.

Gardner was making a good living as creator of the Nebbish comic strip when he decided to chuck it all and gamble on his writing skill. Working in a cheap unheated West Side apartment, he turned out "A Thousand Clowns" in 2½ years. If rang an immediate bell.

His experience has made Herb something of an apostle for the philosophy of chance-taking.

"Too many people are working merely to buy time," he said.

"They work just to have Saturday and Sunday off."

"I didn't want to go on buying time, because I was afraid I might find the time I bought I was merely using to buy more time."

"There is too much living for the time being. People should do now all the things they'll wish years from now they'd done."

With the royalty money rolling in, Herb and Rita, his actress wife, are now busy furnishing an expensive six-room apartment on the East Side. But the acclaim that greeted his first play has gone to his head.

"Success is so much better than failure," Herb said, smiling. "It's pleasant to find yourself being taken seriously after working for years in jobs where nobody asked what you had in mind."

"But it isn't the money. The process of putting on a play is personally fulfilling. It's as if everybody were playing a game, a game in which you have all the secret rules."

Writing with an artist's lettering pen, Gardner now works daily in his old tenement apartment—the rent has gone up to $21 a month from $18—on his second play.

"I start at 7:30 in the morning," he said. "I figure that even if I haven't written a line by noon—well, the older playwrights are probably still asleep."

Gardner has a dislike of large corporations.

"They're inhabited by the 'We people'—people who tell you, 'We feel this,' or 'We feel that,'" he said.

"The minute you start talking to them they have you outnumbered. But there's nobody to blame. All you can do is go outside and kick the building."

Ceremonies Missing as Navy Turns to Sports

'Day of Infamy' Marked at Pearl Harbor

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — The "Day of Infamy" was marked quietly and without ceremony today while the Navy at Pearl Harbor turned its attention to sports.

On Ford Island, less than a mile from the black-scarred coast where the Japanese attack of Dec. 7, 1941, was centered, a nine-hole golf course was dedicated. A boxing program at Black Gymnasium, across the water from the sunken hulk of the USS Arizona, featured five amateur Japanese fighters.

There was no official recognition of the 21st anniversary of the darkest moment in U.S. naval history.

A small boat shuttled between the shore and the memorial, as still in commission by the Navy. It has done daily since last Memorial Day when the shrine was completed. A Navy official said larger-than-usual crowds were expected to make the trip. Otherwise activity in the busy harbor was normal.

TO HONOR 1,102

Veterans groups, other patriotic organizations and individuals planned to take flowers to honor the 1,102 men entombed in the Arizona.

Although it has done so in other years, the Navy scheduled no speeches or ceremonies above the battleship. A new policy of the Navy department specifies that tributes to the dead of battle may be held only on Memorial Day.

The American flag was raised over the Arizona at dawn—a daily ritual. The Arizona is considered still in commission by the Navy because her crew is aboard. Gi-marines and other modern warships pipe a salute as they move by her "berth."

The carrier Constellation—larger than the Arizona—4,000 members of her crew lined the deck to pay homage to the fallen warship.

The Arizona Memorial honors all dead of the Japanese attack. A total of 2,403 men perished in the terrible moments of a Sunday morning that marked America's entry into World War II. The Arizona died eight minutes after taking a bomb down her stack.

RETURNED TO FIGHT

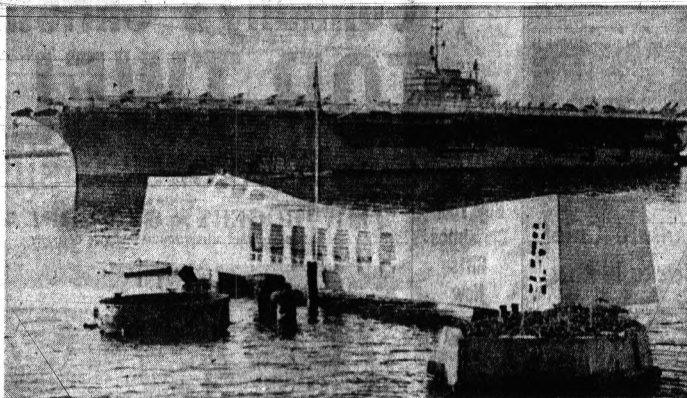

Four battleships were sunk, one was heavily damaged and three sustained light damage. Six—California, Maryland, Nevada, Tennessee, Pennsylvania and West Virginia—returned to carry the war to Japan. Only the Arizona and the Oklahoma, which sank while being towed to the West Coast, ended their battles at Pearl Harbor.

A former battleship, the target vessel Utah, was sent to the bottom in the attack. The Utah's rusting hulk still rests in the mud, a tomb for 54 men.

One man who "died" in the attack on adjacent Hickam Field yesterday took a few minutes to realize "it was the real thing. Most of us thought the Navy was doing some target practice..."

Chief M. Sgt. James I. Wells Jr. was a maintenance man at Hickam. He was listed as killed in action and memorial services were held in his home towns of Browder and Crofton, Ky. Wells, who lists his home as Jefferson-

Seven Convicts Use Sentences Preparing to Save Lives

IONIA — They took a life in a moment of anger, fear or passion. Now they are serving life terms for murder.

They are patiently training and drilling meanwhile, hoping perhaps some day to save a life to help pay off their debt to society.

One of the most capable civil defense rescue teams in Michigan has its headquarters behind the grim brick walls of the Ionia State Reformatory.

Six of the seven members of the team are serving life terms for murder.

"These are our inmate leaders," said Warden George A. Kropp in introducing them. "They all hold responsible jobs in the prison."

All but one are on trusty status, allowed outside the walls on prison work details. All of the six serving terms for murder have hopes of eventual release under Michigan's so-called "life law."

They are older than most inmates at Ionia, where the average is under 22 years. But they still are youthful looking.

Hardened older prisoners go to the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson or the Marquette branch prison.

Wearing business suits, all would fit in at a meeting of any Junior Chamber of Commerce.

They make a snappy appearance that is almost military when dressed in their rescue uniforms of white duck pants, white shirts, work shoes and helmets with the Civil Defense emblem.

"Each one of these fellows is a group leader capable of taking out his own 26-man team," the warden explained.

"We follow the Civil Defense manual to the letter in our training procedures. That way, the teams can interchange men and be sure of working well together."

The teams are trained for light rescue work such as emergency first aid and removing disaster victims from buildings.

All have taken a 16-hour Red Cross first aid course and have constant refresher lessons. More than 300 inmates took the Red Cross course last year.

"We have a lot of husky young fellows we could call on to help in the event of any disaster or emergency," Kropp said.

"We have a constant turnover of inmates and we keep training the new ones. These fellows provide the hard core of leadership."

The rescue team frequently goes outside the walls to stage demonstrations at county fairs, on the University of Michigan campus and wherever they get the call. Most of the time, only one prison official goes along.

Floyd Bennett, supervisor of vocational programs, and Capt. Mike Litschewski of the custodial force work with the team along with Stan Edwards, prison electrician and team director.

The group recently put on a snappy drill for an audience that included Charles Kilgore, Ionia County Civil Defense director; Sgt. John Amthor, commander of the Ionia State Police Post, and Chief Clarence Aldrich of the Ionia Police Department.

All agreed they wouldn't hesitate to call on the prison marshall power in the event of an emergency.

The team worked swiftly and efficiently, showing various techniques of rescuing victims from buildings of varying heights.

One team member played the part of the victim and was slid and carried down a ladder with and without the aid of a stretcher.

Many of the group have worked together for several years—the program was started four years ago—and their teamwork showed.

The group has yet to be called upon in an actual disaster. They listen to radio news reports anxiously during Michigan's tornado warning season, wondering if they would be called out if a tornado struck.

"We want to show we can work along with other people," said Bill Joles, leader and spokesman for the team. "We want to make some good use of this rescue work we've learned."

Joles, sentenced to life for first degree murder in 1955, is head inmate radio-TV repairman at the prison. His brother, Danny, also a member of the group, is serving a similar term for second degree murder.

Senior member of the life group—they call him "the old man"—is Bill Buckingham, sentenced to life in 1945 for first degree murder.

Buckingham is head inmate nurse at the hospital. His case is coming up for review soon.

"I think I could do some good with all my hospital training and experience," said Buckingham, an earnest, still-youthful man. Other liars in the group are Ed Warrachalt, sentenced in 1948 for first degree murder; Phil Caldwell, sentenced in 1955 for second degree murder; and Dick Kline, sentenced in 1957 for second degree murder.

Only non-liar on the team is Harry Shepard, sentenced in 1959 for assault with intent to commit armed robbery.

This volunteer assignment they have taken will be considered when their cases come up for review and consideration for eventual release.

Prison officials who work most closely with the team, however, are convinced they sincerely want to make amends for the past.

Increase in County

Students Up 7,587

If Oakland County schools are looking a little crowded this fall, there's a reason. The number of public school children has jumped by 7,587 since last fall.

The official count released this week showed a grand total of 182,474 children in public schools. The total for 1961 was 175,169.

Robert Morgan, child accounting auditor for the Oakland County Board of Education, said the increase amounted to 270 classes of children.

ONLY 2 HAD LESS

Only two school districts had fewer children in school this year than last. Hazel Park schools counted 7,874 children, down 41 from last year, while North Oxford, Oakland County's sole remaining one-room school district, had 17 students against 20 of last year.

Teachers of high school sophomores found themselves confronted with 3,400 more students this year than last. This was the largest increase at any grade level.

The second largest increase was in the 11th grade with 1,648 more high school juniors on the rolls.

There are 134 fewer children in the fourth grades and 107 fewer in the eighth grades this year than last.

At all other levels, the count of children increased.

The smallest increase was in the kindergarten with a gain of only 94 children over last year. The second smallest increase was in the ninth grade with 192 more

Culture Chief Backs Nikita

MOSCOW (AP) — Minister of Culture Ekaterina Furtseva has endorsed Premier Khrushchev's indictment of abstract art in the Soviet Union.

She told newsmen who attended a reception at the Finnish embassy Thursday night there will be no exposition of abstract art in this country.

Khrushchev attended an exhibit of modern art last week, called it the work of sick people and said it has no place in Soviet life.

B52-Launched Skybolt May Be Headed for Scrap Heap

WASHINGTON (AP)—The troubled Skybolt, an air-launched missile that gave the manned bomber hope for longer 1,000-mile-range missile life, may be headed for the scrap heap.

A final decision has not been made. But informed sources say five test flights in a row.

It was reported the Skybolt has not lost favor with top Pentagon officials. They were said to have come around to the view that by the time it is ready in any numbers the pre-eminent role in U.S. nuclear striking power will have been assumed by the Polaris submarine-launched missiles and in- to get the Skybolt combat-ready by October 1964. But the dismal The Air Force has been aiming test, record so far may have pushed the operational date farther down the road.

About $60 million has been spent or allocated for the Skybolt, which the Douglas Aircraft Co. has been developing for the Air Force since 1959.

The concept calls for about 300 advance model B52 jet bombers to carry two nuclear-tipped Skybolts under each wing.

Instead of having to go in over their targets, the B52s would be able to stand off about 1,000 miles and strike at an enemy with Skybolts.

The B52s would not be vulnerable to increasingly accurate anti-aircraft missiles and super-fast interceptor planes, the Skybolt's backers reason, and this "standoff" ability would add years to the bomber's effective life.

The British have an even bigger stake in the Skybolt. They abandoned their own expensive effort to develop land-based strategic missiles some time ago and decided to bank on the Skybolt for their Vulcan bombers.

These "V" bombers, smaller than B52s, would carry two Skybolts—one under each wing.

B52s are armed with a 500-mile-range missile called the Hound Dog. While the Skybolt is a solid fuel ballistic missile—sometimes likened to an airborne Polaris—the Hound Dog is a winged, air-breathing "bird."

Experts said they doubt the Hound Dog could be adapted to the RAF Vulcans.

Scrapping of the Skybolt could put British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in a difficult political position at home. There was speculation he might take up the Skybolt question with President Kennedy when the two leaders meet in the Bahamas late this month.

The Air Force insists the Skybolt is a promising weapon, worth the investment.

Earlier this week, it said development of the Skybolt is on schedule, despite test failures. It contended such setbacks are to be expected during work on new missile systems.

$5,000 Adcraft Grant Expected This Evening

Detroit (AP)—The announcement of a $5,000 grant to the Adcraft Foundation is expected to highlight the Adcraft Club's 57th anniversary dinner tonight at the Statler-Hilton Hotel.

The grant will be made in memory of the late Detroit advertising executive, Henry Ewald. The Adcraft Foundation is the club's subsidiary administering its grants to education in advertising.

Give Your Wife a Belt for Christmas

LANSING (AP)—The Michigan Department of Health yesterday suggested that husbands should give their wives a belt for Christmas.

A seat belt, that is.

The department said seat belts installed in cars would make "practical, inexpensive and valuable Christmas gifts."

Warren J. Coon, accident prevention consultant for the department, said more than 5,000 lives would have been saved in the U.S. in 1962 if cars involved in accidents had seat belts that were in use.

He said belt buyers should be sure the product they purchase meets minimum standards.

Are Vopos Really Bad Shots or Do They Shoot to Miss?

BERLIN (UP) — When refugees scramble over the Berlin wall do the East German border guards shoot to miss? Western officials say yes.

Heinrich Albertz, head of the West Berlin interior department, in a report to the city assembly said many refugees who reached the West would not have made it if "their flight had not been actively supported or tolerated by members of the National Peoples army."

"As a rule, they shoot past refugees," he added.

More than 13,000 refugees have fled to the West since the wall went up. Although the escape route is hazardous and guarded, only 41 deaths have been recorded.

Colonel Gets Court-Martial

Waits for Review of 5-Year Sentence by AF

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Col. John A. Herrington, sentenced to five years at hard labor and dismissal from the Air Force for killing his wife and wounding a son, started a long but hopeful wait today for a review of his case.

Herrington, 46, a career officer once high in U.S. nuclear planning circles, shot his wife to death and wounded a son, Joseph, 19, on Aug. 9.

A military court at Kelly Air Force Base found him guilty Thursday of voluntary manslaughter and attempted manslaughter and set the sentence. The defense had argued that Herrington was temporarily insane at the time of the shooting.

CASE TO SUPERIOR
His case goes to Maj. Gen. W. T. Hudnell, commander of the San Antonio Air Material Area and Herrington's superior, for review.

Hudnell can reduce the sentence or dismiss it. He cannot increase the sentence.

It probably will be at least five weeks before Hudnell gets the case. The transcript of the nine-day trial must be typed and checked.

The transcript will be in two parts, classified and unclassified, because part of the testimony dealt with top-secret defense matters.

Herrington's dismissal from the service does not take effect until Hudnell rules on the case.

As a flying colonel with 24 years of service, Herrington draws $1,339.68 a month.

ST. POELTEN, Austria (UPI)—The Cathedral of St. Poelten, which dates back to 1150 and is one of the finest Baroque style structures in Austria, was damaged yesterday by a fire that broke out in the roof above the nave.

Find 180 Gold Coins

LE MANS, France (UPI)—Workmen excavating a cellar at nearby La Fleche yesterday found a metal tube containing 180 gold coins worth $1,900 and bearing the heads of Queen Victoria and King Edward VII.

He reported the belief is widespread among soldiers that in case of war the Russians would use East Germans as front line cannon fodder.

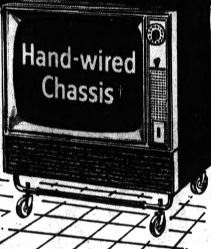

Some border guards have had adventurous flights. One fought a tommy gun duel with another border guard to make good his escape. No one was hit.

Another was stationed as a lookout in the third story of a border house. He let himself down to the ground with a rope and swam a canal to the American sector of Berlin.

Little Miss Terri Lynn Gohl, who's just 15 months old, is interested in her mirrored reflection. The Holly Branch of Woman's National Farm and Garden Association sold gaily decorated mirrors in their booth at the annual Greens Market held Thursday at Waterford Community Center. Ten branches participated. Mrs. Carl Smeltok of Holly holds the mirror for Terri.

In wide-eyed wonder, 3-year-old Pam Johnson gazes through one of the wreaths for sale at the Greens Market Thursday. She is the daughter of the Roy Johnsons, Lake Angelus Road. Wreaths, roping and door decorations were made and sold by the Waterford Branch of WNF&G.

"We Three Kings of Orient Are." Tall cardboard figures of the legendary wise men stood at one end of a blue-covered table. Gold braid and gold fronds accented the scene, along with gold and blue ornaments. At the other end of the table there were red napkins and tall red glasses. The Sylvan Lake Branch of WNF&G created this table arrangement for which they received a blue ribbon.

Through the years women have fastened mistletoe on kissing balls and hopefully hung them in doorways or under chandeliers. Valley Woods Branch of WNF&G used styrofoam balls studded with pine cones, plastic roses and tiny tree ornaments. Beriboned mistletoe hangs at the bottom. Displaying their creations are (from left) Mrs. Donald Young, Yarmouth Road; Mrs. John Meinhardt, Smallwood Drive; and Mrs. Wilson McClellan, West 14-Mile Road. The group also sold kits for these decorations.

Farm and Garden Units Display Handmade Gifts

BY JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Outside, the wind piled the season's first snow into drifts making driving hazardous. Inside the Waterford Community Center the Christmas spirit prevailed.

Ten branches of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association Thursday were holding their annual Greens Market and gift sale.

Members of the Waterford, Pontiac, Holly, Valley Woods Lake Angelus, Sylvan Lake, Holiday Farms, Lorraine Manor, Clarkson and Lake Orion groups displayed Christmas decorations and handmade gift items.

The Community Center Women's Club served a smorgasbord luncheon to 160 guests.

All the clubs were invited to arrange a table, using a Christmas carol as a theme. The tables were judged on merit and five of the six tables received either a blue or a red ribbon. This, the judges said, was unusual. In one corner of the large room was an exhibit of original paintings.

In the opposite corner members of the Waterford branch, hostess group, sold wreaths and do-it-yourself kits for Della Robbia wreaths.

Delicate beeswax candles in a variety of designs — hand decorated tallies — lint removers — fruit cake — gay mittens for children — felt vests that looked like European imports — miniature basket arrangements — suitable for hospital patients — and garden calendars were but some of the wares for sale.

The women had worked towards this event for many months, planning to use any profits to benefit their scholarship funds. Their only regret was that the bad weather cut the attendance.

Can Avoid Candy Gifts From Friend

By the Emily Post Institute

Q: I have a friend who always brings cake or candy whenever she comes to visit me. I have her to my house quite often as she has very few friends in this city and is very homesick.

A: I'm sure she means well and this is her way of showing appreciation, but my husband and I eat very few sweets and these things usually go to waste or I wind up giving them to my neighbor.

I don't want her to think me ungrateful, but I really wish she wouldn't do this. How can I tactfully get her to stop this practice without hurting her feelings?

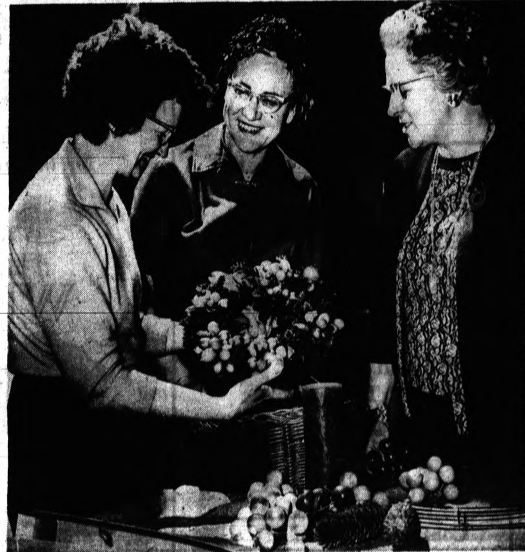

A: Tell her you find you are gaining weight and have decided to give up sweets (or that your doctor has ordered you to give them up) and ask her please not to make it harder for you by tempting you with delicious cakes or candy.

Q: I was the only one in the office to receive an invitation to the wedding of a fellow employee. I have contributed to the office collection for a wedding present for her and I am wondering if it is necessary to send her a separate gift, since I have been invited to the reception.

A: Having contributed to the office collection, this is sufficient. Of course, if the amount you contributed was trifling and you are very fond of the bride, you might give her a second, not necessarily expensive, present from you personally.

Q: Will you please tell me why the engagement ring is worn on the top of the wedding ring? This has always puzzled me because of the fact that the engagement ring is received before the wedding ring.

The reason is that the wedding ring is by many women never taken off; whereas the engagement ring is continually taken off for one reason or another.

Another do-it-yourself project was a Della Robbia wreath kit. Mrs. Gordon Parker, Meunard Street (left), of the Waterford Branch of WNF&G shows a completed wreath to Mrs. Frank H.

Williamson, Bielby Street; and Mrs. J. D. Boardman, Forest Avenue. About 300 brave individuals ignored Thursday's snow to attend the Greens Market at the Waterford Community Center.

Yule Meeting Held by Sarors of Alpha Beta

Cobhostesses were Mrs. Northon, Mrs. Harvey Bidstrup, Mrs. Charles Martin, Mrs. Emil Bruestle and Mrs. Irene Albright.

Who Ruined Cookies?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Are you being paid by the Post Office Department? What do you mean, "Packages properly wrapped will be delivered in good condition?"

Have you ever looked in the back room of a post office? Packages marked FRAGILE and HANDLE WITH CARE are piled like footballs through canvas chutes and then heavy boxes are thrown on top of them. It's the careless handling, not the "wrapping," that accounts for most damage.

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I am a post office employee who handles packages and I want to thank you for putting in a good word for us. If only more people would realize the importance of wrapping packages!

One woman raised the roof because she sent a shoe box filled with oatmeal cookies to her son in Korea. And he wrote her and asked what was supposed to have been in the box of "sawdust."

DISGUSTED MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: I am 26. I was married in church at 18. It lasted 3 months. I got a civil annulment. A year later I married a high school sweetheart. That lasted 10 months. I got a divorce. Then I married a man old enough to be my father and that didn't work either.

Now I am single again and have never been happier. I am not beautiful, and I don't run after men, but I don't have any trouble getting them.

Now I realize that I will never make a good wife. I just don't want any man for ever. My friends and family say it would be a mistake to turn down the man I am dating now but I think it would be unfair to marry him. Do you think I ought to have my head examined? Everyone else does.

"NO TIES" — AND HAPPY

Different Postal Opinions

DEAR NO: If you are content with your single life — and it is a useful and happy one, don't dabble with your noodle. A person who is not marriage material and knows it should stay single.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of two mature people — a couple in their twenties — smoothing away like mad in a subway train during the rush hour with everyone looking on?

NYC

DEAR NYC: A performance of this kind is in the poorest taste. Besides, it's risky. They could miss their stations.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MISS D.: See your doctor (to determine whether you are). See your boy friend (to give him the news). See your clergyman (in case you are) — to set the date.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, The Pontiac Press.

Program chairman, Mrs. Ervine Richards presented Patricia Parents as a "beatnik" Santa with entertainers Norma Klukos, Gale Hopper, Marie Richey, Betty Hunt, Mrs. Don Gerber, Mrs. Ted Nellis, Mrs. Ossie Gates, Julie O'Brien and Mrs. Carl Rehm of Chicago, member-at-large.

SERVING ON COMMITTEE Serving on the banquet committee were Mrs. G. Gerber, Mrs. Nellis and Miss Richey who made centerpieces of gilded reindeer and cones for the occasion. Mrs. Earl Atkinson of Rochester distributed gift calendars.

Marriage Vows Told in Area

The couple greeted some 200 guests at an evening reception in Veterans' Hall, Oxford, before leaving on a northern Michigan honeymoon. They plan to live in Pontiac.

A floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over satin for the daughter of the George S. Turners of Lake Orion was worn with silk illusion veil and crown of pearls and sequins.

American Beauty rosebuds centered her cascade of white carnations and Stephanotis.

Jean Trueman was maid of honor; Mrs. William Perry and Mrs. Ronald Smith attended her sister as bridesmaids. All are from Lake Orion and wore jade green taffeta, styled with overskirts. They held colonial bouquets of yellow and white carnations.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. David L. Youngquist of Elizabeth Lake Road and Marvin A. Kolodziejczak, serving with the U.S. Army in Germany, had his cousin, Robert Vandussen of Lake Orion for best man. Francis Soney of Harlan's Island and Ronald R. Smith, Lake Orion, ushered.

Some Are Out of Touch

Psych Profs Are Divided

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE N-485: Bill X., is an Ohio college student. "Dr. Crane," he began, "my psychology profs are divided about your daily column."

"Those who teach applied psychology think you are great. But the 'white rat' and 'academic' profs usually ridicule it as being too simple and superficial."

"They say a you degrade the dignity of scientific psychology by thus using two-syllable words."

"Most of us students enjoy your column for its practical help. But we dare not say so in class! We'd be flunked if we admitted to being your fans! And I'm not joking! "Why do some of the 'ivory tower' psychology profs grow so enraged at you?"

YOU BE THE JURY

Bill has indicated the two big divisions among psychology profs — those who can apply what they teach vs. the "braintrusts."

Among our great applied psychologists I need mention only such outstanding men as Dr. George Gallup of the political polls.

Or Dr. Frank Stanton, head of CBS. Or Dr. Thomas O. Burgess at Concordia who introduced the use of hypnotherapy into dental and medical practice.

Or Dr. Roy E. Hoke, at Charlotte, North Carolina, who pioneered efficiency engineering in the realm of business psychology.

But braintrust profs often resent my simple vocabulary and scold me for using two-syllable words.

Apparently, they are not very familiar with the Bible, for the average word therein has but two syllables!

And they are out of touch with reality, for modern newspaper editors do not believe in wasting space on "jawbreakers" or polysyllables when the same idea can be stated in two syllables.

But what about their charge that my column deals with superficial problems?

Herein I outline the dangerous symptoms of insanity and urge you parents to vacillate your children against this prevalent ailment.

But is insanity a superficial matter? Also, I show you the definite ways to prevent divorce. Is the salvaging of marriages a superficial problem?

Moreover, I show high schoolers the dangers of illicit affairs. Is immorality a trivial matter?

Analyze the contents of this column for just one month and you will find the major human problems outlined repeatedly — and in words even teen-agers can understand!

Do you think these "ivory tower" critics of this column might be jealous because students glean more practical aid from this newspaper than from many of their psychology classes?

Or could it be jealousy by Ph.D. profs of the fact I hold not only a Ph.D. in psychology but also an M.D., and thus am better qualified for discussing problems of BOTH the mind and the body.

"A little learning is a dangerous thing," runs an old adage.

Sometimes profs throw their weight around after winning a Ph.D. degree and thus try to overly impress people with five-syllable words.

If they'd follow my example and add the M.D. to their Ph.D., they might then realize that the true art of education is to communicate in language people can understand readily.

Plans Told by Beta Mu at Meeting

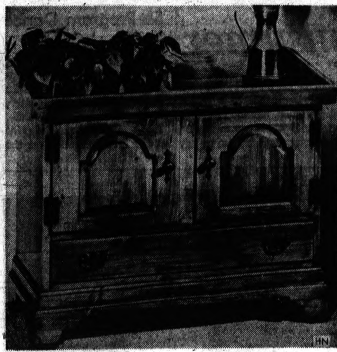

Beta Mu Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority met Wednesday evening at Westside Recreation. Plans were made to attend the fair at the Oakland County Children's Home Wednesday. This is the chapter project for the year.

Final arrangements were made for the Christmas dinner which will be held at Kingsley Inn Dec. 19. New pledges will receive their pins at this time.

Mrs. Vernon Love, president, reported on the recent meeting of the three local chapters. Plans for a city council have been made, and voting was held to determine the officers.

Closing the meeting were Clayton DeHaven and Charles Tike, Pontiac firemen, who showed a film of the Chicago school fire. During the discussion period which followed, school and home fire safety were stressed.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Lawrence Hartman and Donna Burling.

The nicest surprise in Santa's pack is a useful and attractive gift for the home. This authentic dry sink, reminiscent of Early American dough boxes, is just the thing. The solid knotty pine wood is made even more lovely by a beautifully distressed antique finish and burnished brass hardware. A copper liner is available for the finishing touch. From the Cumberland Pine Collection by Continental Furniture Co.

Outline Dates for Meetings

The following organizations of the Lakeland United Presbyterian Church will hold meetings in the near future. The Esther Circle will meet Monday at 8 p.m. at the home of Altha Riggs. The Bible study will be presented by Nancy Lambert.

The Leah Circle will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Richard Cardona, who will also present the program.

The Dorcas Circle will meet Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Vern Terry. Mrs. Ralph Eaton will present the program.

Maybe Mom to Blame, Not 7-Year-Old

BY MURIEL LAWRENCE

'Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My 7-year-old boy is a child who blames other people for the wrong things he does.

Yesterday I saw him knock his little brother down, but he wouldn't admit doing it even after I had punished him. He always comes up with some excuse to avoid taking the blame.

Answer: Had his little brother been pestering him? Had he, by any chance, complained of the pestering to you? If so, did you ignore his appeal for help?

A child resists blame for his mistakes for only one reason: He has been burdened with too much blame for them.

We contribute, you know, to youngsters' misbehavior.

The child who is rude to Aunt Clara is usually the one who has overheard us criticizing her. The one who knocks his little brother down is apt to be the one who despairs of any help in ridding himself of the little brother's pestiness.

METHOD IMPORTANT

Although we are certainly entitled to correct his misbehavior, we are not entitled to correct it with the angry self-righteousness of the person who never makes any mistakes. Our child begins to ignore our reproaches as the meaningless fustling of an unjust, chronically fault-finding person.

My advice is that you begin to listen to these "excuses" of your son's for his misbehavior. They may contain, not only explanations of his actions but important protests against yours. I have the feeling that you need to listen to them more carefully so that you get to know what it is that disturbs him about your attitude toward him.

If this strikes you as impractical advice, then I can only conclude that you are afraid of blame yourself. If you are, that is the real core of your problem.

If parents cannot tolerate the idea that they have shortcomings, then anything that goes wrong between them and a child becomes the sole fault of the child.

They want him to go all the "admitting" of blame. When he refuses to do it, then they secretly begin to think of him as weak and "irresponsible." They forget that we can only teach children to face up to their mistakes by presenting them with an example of honest concern with our own. They won't see that their own fear of doing "wrong" things has driven the child to claim perfection for himself, too.

Polly's Pointers

Protect That Bouffant

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—When I read in our newspaper that the bouffant hair style is still "dominating the scene," I thought I should send in a prize tip for gals who favor this popular fashion.

Seath your bouffant in a pair of nylon panties when you are sleeping. They seem to keep the puff in the hair better than boudoir caps or tissue paper. A party-cap can take a lot of tossing and turning so that with just a minimum of going-over, your hair will last quite a while.

MRS. H. L. T.

DEAR POLLY—An interesting and different gift for a "shut-in," especially a child in the hospital, is a money tree. Cut off a small branchy part of a tree or bush, paint it with liquid shoe polish and anchor this in a small can with plaster of paris. Tape new pennies or dimes to hang from the branches. An artificial bird helps decorate, too.

MRS. H.

DEAR POLLY—Since concrete floors tend to be damp, avoid the possibility of shock when removing or changing a fuse by placing a rubber mat on the floor in front of your fuse box. Always stand on the rubber mat.

MRS. H. S.

DEAR POLLY—For a newly opened catsup bottle, try inserting a drinking straw. This carries air to the bottom and permits free flowing without pounding and spurs.

J. M. P.

DEAR POLLY—When broiling steak, I always place several pieces of bread between the rack and the pan. The bread absorbs the grease and eliminates the chance of a grease fire.

Find Average Consumer

CHICAGO—Mrs. Average Consumer has been found through nationwide studies on: What does she think? What does she like? How does she spend her time and money?

She speaks for herself in "National Live Stock Producer," a leading farm magazine.

"I am 5 feet 4 and weigh 132 pounds. I am most active from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Normally, I'm up at 6:30 a.m., except Sunday. I go to bed at 10 p.m., except Saturday."

"I breakfast at 7 a.m., lunch at noon, and dine at 6 p.m. I take in 3,200 calories a day and would like to reduce—but probably won't."

"Each year I eat 160 pounds of meat, 53 eggs, 91 pounds of sugar, 7 pounds of cheese, 100 pounds of potatoes, 100 pounds of fresh fruit, 100 pounds of bread, 5 pounds of rice, 21 pounds of coffee, tea and cocoa, 244 quarts of milk, 25,000 inches of spaghetti, 42 hot dogs, 191 bottles of pop. I also smoke 146 packs of cigarettes and drink 183 ounces of whiskey and I dump 400 pounds of edible food in the garbage can."

"I am sick from 7 to 19 days a year and it costs $105 to recover. By the time I am 40, I will have lost half of my teeth. I speak 4,800 words a day, and forget 90 per cent of what I learn."

"I spend one year of my life on the telephone. My TV set is on 5 hours daily. Our family car is 3 year old and we drive it 10,000 miles a year. Our family income is $4,871 per year or $3,957 if I work, too."

"I spend half again as much as my husband on clothes (and still don't have a thing to wear)."

"When shopping, I walk 8 miles a day; buy 5 pairs of shoes a year. I spend $35 a month at the department store and charge about 13 per cent of my purchases—return 13 per cent of the clothes I buy."

"It takes me 16 minutes to dress and $50 a year to keep me powdered, perfumed and rouged. I wear a nightgown to bed and have trouble sleeping, but 40 per cent of my worries never happen."

"I pray, believe in God, but seldom go to church."

"My husband proposed to me in a car and gave me a quarter carat diamond. I'm inclined to be more critical of my husband than he is of me. There is a 50-50 chance that I either have no children or two children."

"If I work, my income peak will be reached at age 35 to 45; will spend 2 weeks a year on coffee breaks on the job."

"Specialists in psychology, sociology, economics and marketing probe my mind, bombard me with advertising and promotion. They take advantage of my ignorance."

"Mislead, trick and bamboozle me into buying things I don't need or want. Because of these tricks, I eat too much, buy too much too often, and I waste my money on installment credit trying to pay for it."

Answers Teen-Agers

Clean Face Aid to Skin

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "I am a girl of 15 and like most teen-agers I have quite a few pimples on my face. I wash my face and keep it very clean. I use a little bit of liquid make-up. Do you think that has anything to do with my trouble?"

Household articles plus a styrofoam ball are all that's needed to make this charming aqua blue angel for table decoration or a little gift. After the holiday, the fabric softener and the pot cleaner are still usable.

Fabric Softener Bottle Becomes Angelic

Except for the three-inch styrofoam ball, you can make a charming angel from typical household articles. A choir of them becomes a really unusual table or mantel decoration. Singly they make nice little "extra" gifts. And, they don't take artistic skill; the shapes are actually built-in.

Start with a quart of pretty aqua blue fabric softener and soak the labels off, also a foam ball (generally available in variety stores before the holidays), a sturdy brass pot cleaner, a few sequins or extra beads and some silver paper doilies and table mats.

With a knife or apple corer gouge out a hole in the ball to fit over the bottle cap. Work gently in order not to split the ball. Arrange the pot cleaner as hair. Use straight pins to place sequin eyes and mouth. Pin a small doily on top for the halo, silver side front.

Cut a table mat in the shape of a pair of wings—some designs have a solid center section with the proper curved outline but a little experimentation will make any pattern do. Attach wing piece white side front with double-stick cellophane tape. Use short pieces of the border for arms and finish with a small band around the neck.

After Christmas, of course you'll use the fabric softener as usual, a bottle capful to a washer load, to soften and fluff up all sorts of washables such as sweaters, towels and blue jeans.

I also try to stay away from sweets. I am five feet, two inches tall, and weigh 114 pounds. My bust measures 34 inches, waist 24 inches and hips 34 inches. Are my measurements suitable?"

A. You are not overweight, but if anything, a few pounds underweight. Your measurements are perfect. Yes, many teen-agers do have complexion problems. You should wash your face several times a day. Be sure to rinse well afterward.

There are some soaps which are more effective than others. If you would like to have the names of types of soap skin specialists recommend, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

You are wise to cut down on very rich items in your diet. Remember that greasy, fatty foods are also sometimes to blame for skin blemishes.

It is best, of course, to leave off all make-up until you gain control over your complexion. However, I think you can use light make-up if you will be sure to remove it completely before going to sleep at night and several times during the day.

Q. "Can you tell me what causes water to accumulate in the body and how it can be eliminated?"

A. If we eliminated all water from our body there wouldn't be much left of us. However, I am sure you mean an abnormal accumulation of water in the body. Many conditions, such as heart trouble can cause this.

Also, hormones play a part in water distribution in the body. An excessive intake of salt may cause storing of liquid. At any rate, this is a medical question and if you have this condition I strongly advise you to see your physician.

Q. "Will wearing my hair in a ponytail cause it to fall out?"

A. Some experts feel that this might lead to thinning because of the constant pull on the hair.

Group Plans Dinner, Gift Presentation

Oakland County Chapter No. 34, Gold Star Mothers, will hold its Christmas dinner Dec. 20 at Greenfield's Restaurant in Birmingham.

Mrs. Eva Welch of North Hilldale Drive will open her home following the dinner.

President Mrs. Clarence Sutton appointed the following committees for the year during Wednesday's meeting at the Bemis-Olsen Annex: Post: ways and means, Mrs. Welch; social chairman, Mrs. Edward McDonald; publicity, Mrs. Olive Burgess; sunshine, Mrs. Cecil Briggs; historian, Mrs. Carl Rutherford.

Yule Party Slated

Niblick Golf Club members will stage their Christmas party Dec. 18 at the Elks Temple with the Niblick bowling group. The club decided to give Christmas donations to charity during Tuesday's luncheon meeting at the Elks.

Have Tape of Talk
by Sen. Ellender

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (U)—The South African Press Association, the principal news agency operating in this section of Africa, says a tape recording confirms that Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., made the disputed remarks attributed to him at news conferences here last Saturday.

One of the statements was: "I have yet to see any part of Africa where Africans are ready for self-government."

This brought sharp protests from African nationalists and resulted in the banning of Ellender from Uganda, Tanganyika and Ethiopia.

Play Management Game

MSUO Uses Computer

A computer may one day sit in a company president's chair. So say instructors at Michigan State University Oakland who are playing an electronic-age version of the old-time game of monopoly. They are using an IBM 1620 computer to make top management decisions.

or later but it will cost more to make.

Should a firm boost salesmen's commissions, add a second shift, or trim inventories in anticipation of a recession?

LOTS OF STUDY

Hildum, Maher and Simons all put in long hours studying their own firms' and their rivals' positions.

Every Tuesday morning, the quarter-million-dollar computer in the MSUO Science Building takes their decisions for evaluation.

Using a mass of facts it has been previously fed on the firms' histories and national economic trends, the computer calculates in a few minutes the answers it would take a score of mathematicians and economists days to work out.

But the game is not just a faculty plaything. MSUO students are playing it as part of their course work.

The game demands that they know something about economics. place the school which houses it also teaches them to use their heads, and gives them an appreciation of the value of the theory they learn in class.

It is considered so valuable that there is going to be competition between student and faculty teams.

The game is the creation of Dr. John Van Tassel, Boston College economics professor, who compiled the ground rules and laid out the detailed programming instructions for the computer.

LUDINGTON (U)—Lakeview Elementary School, after flunking country and state sanitary and safety inspections last March but still in use, has been designated by the civil defense office as a fallout shelter for 50 persons.

The building was constructed in 1872. Ludington voters, however, have approved a bond issue to rework the school which houses it about 200 pupils.

HAS TROUBLE

The two economists are giving the psychologist trouble. Agitator is training 22 new salesmen, has cut prices, upped research and development outlays, and is floating a $2-million bond issue for plant expansion.

Motivation Limited is erecting a plant in a new carriage-trade territory which all three firms are trying to exploit.

The firm that gets the upper hand in this area may dominate the buggy whip industry.

Should a competing firm spend more money on research? A new model is bound to come out sooner

'No Real Threat to New Laws'

Lack of 'Adjournment' Won't Hurt—Kelley

LANSING (AP)—Laws passed during the 1962 legislative session are in no real jeopardy without a formal adjournment, but lawsuits might postpone their becoming effective on schedule.

This opinion was offered yesterday by Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley after some legislators expressed concern that, without a formal adjournment, laws slated to go into effect 90 days after the end of the session might not be valid.

Kelley said he believes the legislature has "a responsibility to adjourn formally" and avoid the possibility of court action aimed at challenging the validity of some new legislation on grounds there was no proper adjournment.

"If the legislature did nothing," he said, "the presumption is that a future court analyzing the constitutional requirements for enacting the laws had been fulfilled."

Michigan's constitution provides that legislation will become valid 90 days "after the legislative session ends," but makes no distinction regarding formal adjournment.

If the legislature, in recess since late July, does not follow through on plans to reconvene Dec. 27 to tie up loose ends and then adjourn, it will automatically go out of existence at midnight Dec. 31.

Four legislators are empowered to recall the lawmaking body, and some agitation has been brought to have them summon a quorum before Christmas.

This is based on concern that a quorum might be hard to find during the week between Christmas and New Year's.

Two of the four, House Speaker Don R. Peary, R-Buchanan, and Sen. Lynn O. Francis, R-Midland, have indicated a willingness to recall lawmakers before Christmas. Francis also holds the proxy of Sen. Perry Greene, R-Grand Rapids, who is in Florida.

Rep. Wilfred G. Bassett, R-Jackson, speaker pro tem of the house and the only one of the four returning in 1963, says he is not willing to issue a pre-Christmas call.

Swainson Sets 1-96 Day to Mark Its Completion

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Swainson has proclaimed Dec. 12 "Interstate-96 Day" to mark the opening of the last part of the Detroit-to-Muskegon Freeway.

The last 5½-mile link of the I-96 Freeway, between Lake Chemung, near Brighton, and Lansing will open to traffic on that day.

Sen. Patrick V. McNamara, D-Mich., State Highway Commissioner John Mackie and a corps of other officials will take part in the ceremonies.

On Monday, state highway workers will begin taking down the U.S. 16 route signs on Grand River between Detroit and Lansing.

The U.S. 16 designation has existed since highways in Michigan were first numbered in 1920. The number will be permanently retired.

Seaway Ends Its 4th Season

MONTREAL (AP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway closed its fourth and busiest season early today when the last two ocean-going ships left the inland waterway.

An official at the nearby St. Lambert Lock, the seaway's eastern end, said the last downward-bound ship, the U.S.-registered Easthampton, cleared the lock shortly after 7 a.m.

Another U.S. vessel, the Bridgehampton, passed through the St. Lambert Lock at 5 a.m.

The two ships had been held overnight at the Cote Ste. Catherine Lock, several miles downstream, by high winds and driving sleet.

Two other ships—the Canadian bulk carrier Belvoir and the Norwegian freighter Makefell—passed through the seaway last night before the storm struck.

Upstream traffic was closed at midnight Monday, but the last four downstream vessels, held up by heavy fog and the testing here of a floating crane, were more than six days later than the original downstream traffic deadline.

Princess Doing Well

LONDON (UPI)—Kensington Palace announced yesterday that Princess Alexandra is making "very good progress" following the removal of impacted wisdom teeth. She was operated on last Wednesday.

Space Budget Raised

PARIS (UPI)—France will spend nearly twice as much money on space research next year, according to government sources here.

Michigan Apple Crop at 12 Million Bushels

LANSING (AP)—Michigan's apple crop for the year is estimated at 12 million bushels by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service. This is 25 per cent below last year but 14 per cent above average.

The four major varieties, Jonathan, Red Delicious, McIntosh and Spys accounted for 8.4 million bushels of the crop, the service said.

Detroiters Will Vote

DETROIT (AP)—An increase of 2.5 to 3.5 mills over present rates to keep Detroit schools operating at today's level will be voted on this spring by Detroit taxpayers.

An extra 7.5 mills was approved four years ago for a five-year period; however millage must go on the ballot again this spring. Superintendent of Schools Samuel Brownell says current income is not enough to meet expenses.

Mr. Shnoo's Zoo

By LUCRECIE BEALE

CHAPTER FIVE

When Honeybun was a little bit of a cub in a faraway land, her mother had been killed by a hunter. When the hunter discovered the orphaned baby bear, he was sorry for what he had done. He carried the cub all the way back to his own land and gave her to Mr. Shnoo.

"She's a runt and she's sickly," said the hunter. "But maybe she'll have a chance with you."

Mr. Shnoo fell in love with the little brown bear. He called her Honeybun. He kept her in his room and gave her milk from a bottle every three hours.

He kept hot water bottles in her bed and gave her cod liver oil and vitamins. Most importantly, he gave her lots of TLC which is a prescription for Tender, Loving Care.

Honeybun thrived. She was always a runt but she was the liveliest runt anyone ever saw. After a few months she was so lively she was moved to the caves with the big bears.

Everyone loved her. She was such a show-off. She would stand on her hind legs and clap her paws and make funny faces.

Little children saved all their pennies to throw to Honeybun. The bear would stand there making faces and putting on a regular circus until the children had thrown in all their pennies.

She knew exactly when the bags were emptied and no more peanuts coming. Then she would sweep up all the nuts from the ground and have a feast. She never lost a nut no matter where it landed.

Once a little girl squeezed between the bars of the cage and ran up to Honeybun, waving a vanilla ice cream cone. Every one screamed and the keeper went leaping over the fence waving a stick.

They need not have become so excited. Honeybun simply licked the ice cream off the cone. Then she licked the little girl's mouth where some ice cream was sticking. Then she yawned and lay down for a nap.

After that, they sometimes let children lead Honeybun around the zoo on a chain. Sometimes little children even rode on her back.

"She'd never hurt a soul," declared Mr. Shnoo.

"She'd never hurt a soul," declared Mr. Shnoo.

But now someone had hurt Honeybun! She came tottering out of her cage holding her paws over her mouth and growling deep in her throat.

"Something's stuck in her mouth," said Mr. Shnoo. He climbed the fence and put his arm around Honeybun's neck. Honeybun dropped to all fours and stood shaking her head, moaning and rolling her eyes. Mr. Shnoo put his hands on her muzzle and gently opened her jaws.

All Honeybun's teeth were gone!

Santa followed Mr. Shnoo over the fence. He picked up something from the ground. "Look! A fire cracker!"

Now it was all clear. Someone had given Honeybun a firecracker instead of a peanut and the firecracker had gone off in the poor bear's mouth and blown out all her teeth.

Honeybun's roar of pain had been heard all over the zoo and attendants and office workers and the animal doctor gathered at the cave.

"Do something!" Mr. Shnoo begged the doctor. "She's in terrible pain."

The doctor examined Honeybun and shook his head. "Better put her to sleep," he said. "Without teeth she can never eat again. She'd starve by and by."

Santa stepped forward and said, "I think I can help her."

Crookshank was standing there with the rest and he said, "Whoever you are you'd better move on. You heard what the doctor said and he ought to know."

The others muttered among themselves saying, "Why not let him try?" And Mr. Shnoo took Santa's arm and said, "Please! Do what you can."

"Very well," said Santa. "But I can't do it here."

He tied a rope around Honeybun's neck and led her away. Mr. Shnoo watched until they had almost disappeared. Then he went running after them crying, "Wait for me! Wait for me!"

American Legion to Hunt Rabbits With Stick, Stone

HARMONY, N.C. (AP) — A Stone Age rabbit hunt, once legally opposed by lovers of the cottontail, will be held Dec. 15 under the sponsorship of the North Iredell County Post 113 of the American Legion.

Firearms are forbidden. Hunters, armed with sticks and stones, roam farm fields, flush the rabbits, run them down and beat them to death.

Last year the Mecklenburg County Humane Society in Charlotte sought an injunction. The case went to the State Supreme Court which ruled hunting rabbits with sticks and stones is not inhumane.

4 Die in Air Crash Near Factories

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A two-engine plane, coming in for an instrument landing in dense fog, narrowly missed plants where hundreds of persons were working, then crashed and burned Thursday at International Airport.

Four businessmen aboard, all from Las Vegas, Nev., died.

Airport Supt. John Smith said the plane was being tracked on radar and "just disappeared." It missed the main runway and burst into flames on impact, about 75 yards from a hangar at the North American Aviation Co.

Flaming debris, flying from the wreckage, damaged two parked planes and burned two ground crewmen. One of the crewmen was hospitalized, the other treated and released.

Santa to Drop In on Milford

MILFORD — Santa Claus will arrive here tomorrow. And he'll have plenty of company.

A parade — featuring some 20 floats and marching units — will accompany the jolly old gentleman into town for his seasonal debut.

Starting at 10 a. m., the parade will begin at the intersection of South Main and Washington streets.

Milford's Junior Miss of 1962, Leslie Thomas, and the two members of her court, Diana Ludwig and Julie Reader, will add a touch of beauty to the parade.

Yuletide music will be provided by bands from Milford and Hartland Methodist Church, the Milford Junior Chamber of Commerce and Civil Air Patrol members from the Northville and Milford areas.

There'll be plenty of high-stepping horses, including a prize stallion ridden by Dr. Earl Book, others ridden by the Hickory Ridge Saddle Club and still more saddled by the Oakland County Sheriff's posse.

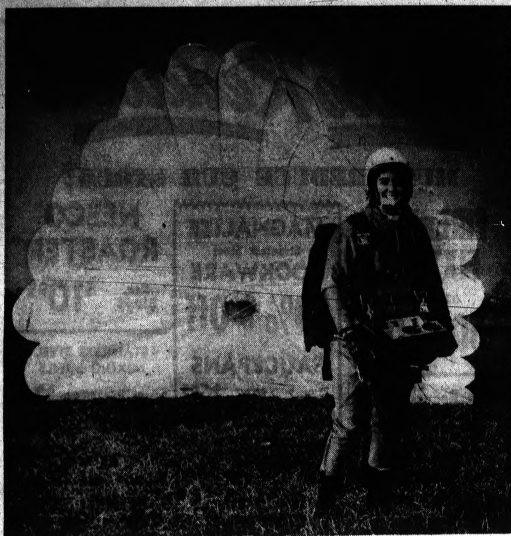

Among the marching units will be the Rac-Ven, an all-girl drill team, and the Thunderbirds, an all-male drill squad.

The Milford Boy Scouts will be represented with a color guard and floats will be provided by St. Mary's Catholic Church, Highland Methodist Church, the Milford Junior Chamber of Commerce and Civil Air Patrol members from the Northville and Milford areas.

The parade route will follow Main Street to Detroit street, east on Detroit to Union street, south on Union to Center street and then west on Center back to Main.

At the conclusion of the parade, Santa will take up residence in the First Federal Savings of Oakland Civic Room, 351 N. Main St.

Extra children's attractions for tomorrow include free movies at the Milford Theater, starting at 1:30 p.m.

HAPPY LANDING — Susie Neuman, 17, of Washington, grins happily after completing her fourth parachute jump at Romeo Airport. The box she wears fastened in front contains an altimeter (such as in a plane) and a stop watch she presses to show how many seconds she was falling.

Steer Brings $1.50 a Pound

Detroit Show Champ Bought by Caterer

DETROIT (AP) — George Good's grand champion steer of the Detroit Junior Livestock Show brought him $1.50 a pound or a total of $1,455 for the 970-pound Aberdeen Angus.

The 18-year-old East Lansing youth's steer was bought yesterday by George Roumel, a Detroit caterer, who announced plans to serve the prize beef at the Detroit Press Club.

The auction price was 50 per cent ahead of that brought by the 1961 grand champion steer.

The highest per-pound price was paid for the champion lamb, a 126-pound Hampshire, for which Carl's Chop House of Detroit bid $2.25 a pound, compared with $1.80 paid for last year's winner. The 1962 winning lamb brought $270.

The champion swine, a 230-pound Chester White, was bid for $1 a pound by Uncle John's Pancake House of Lansing. The 1961 winner brought only 65 cents a pound.

Nonchampions among the 800 animals exhibited generally were auctioned at prices one to two cents above those prevailing at Detroit stockyards yesterday.

The Lapeer County 4-H club is considerably richer today because of the swine auction and the gratitude of a one-time member, James Brown, now of Beaver Brook, Md. Brown bid in the reserve champion hog, paying 45 cents a pound, then requested it be re-auctioned and the proceeds donated to the Lapeer 4-H Club. On the second time around the hog brought 50 cents a pound — five cents more than originally — from a Detroit packer.

Then all she has to worry about is falling properly—without twisting and turning — and landing near the target area.

IT'S EASY

Sounds easy, and Susie says it is. Easy, that is, after the first couple of seconds when she loses sight of the plane and no longer realizes she is really falling earthward.

After she has made a minimum of five good jumps with her jump master's assistance, Susie will be on her own and pull her own ripcord.

Her instructor and all those who have watched Susie's progress say she is soon destined to be a competitor to be reckoned with, both in state and national parachute meets.

And if enthusiasm and aptitude have anything to do with it, there is no telling what heights the bubbly brunette teen-ager can reach in her chosen avocation.

Winners of two other categories have been chosen from works submitted to the St. Andrews' third Art Exhibition and Sale, which was staged this week in the church hall.

The religious award was given to Nicholas D'Immacenzo, 6041 Winkler Mill Road, Avon Township, for his cast iron statue of St. Sebastian.

Mrs. Carl J. Oxford Jr., 206 Wimblyer St., received the best entry award for her oil painting titled "Lichen." The painting was an abstract of molds.

Cash awards were given to each winner.

High Schools Feel Impact of Baby Boom

LANSING (AP) — The full impact of the bumper crop of babies born after World War II is just hitting Michigan's high schools.

Lynn M. Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, reports that fall enrollment figures for public and nonpublic high schools showed nearly double the increase of last year.

An increase of 42,171 students was counted, bringing total enrollments to a record 441,568. This compared with a total enrollment figure of 399,397 and a boost of 23,523 pupils the previous year.

The year before, the increase was only 2,376 pupils.

"The true picture emerges when you consider that Michigan has realized almost a 2,000-per-cent rate of increase in just three years," Bartlett said.

1,449 Killed in Traffic

EAST LANSING (AP) — A total of 1,449 persons have been killed in traffic accidents in Michigan this year, according to provisional figures compiled today by state police. The total on this date a year ago was 1,443.

Ponies to Tote St. Nick to Area

Wagon Is Due 11 A.M. Saturday in Union Lake

UNION LAKE — Snow fell just in time to provide the perfect setting for the annual visit by Santa Claus in Union Lake tomorrow.

All that white stuff shouldn't make a minute's difference in Santa's scheduled 11 a.m. time of arrival here.

Although he won't have his trusty sleigh and reindeer, St. Nick will have no trouble with skidding tires and a stalled motor.

He'll be towed into town on a wagon pulled by a team of John F. Ivory ponies.

To make sure he doesn't get stuck in a drift, volunteers from the White Lake Township Fire Department will accompany Santa in their antique, 1923 LaFrance fire truck.

Starting from Commerce Road, he will ride south on Union Lake Road to the center of town. He will accept letters, pose for pictures and present candy canes to children in the parking lot between Holmgren-Paschke Flower Shop and the Union Lake Drug Store.

Lodge at Davisburg Sets Installation Rite

Others to be installed include Robert R. Clark, senior warden; Woodrow W. Weaver, junior warden; Ray L. Cushman, P.M. treasurer; and Donald C. Kockenderfer, P.M., secretary.

Romeo High Girl Only 17

'Chutist Says 'It's Easy!'

By LEE WINBORN
Area News Editor

ROMEO — "It's just like lying on a feather bed."

That's how 17-year-old Susie Neuman, believed to be the youngest girl parachutist in the state, describes the sensation of falling through space.

Susie's desire to jump dates back more than a year when she first started to watch members of the local chapter of the Parachute Clubs of America take to the air at Romeo Airport.

First she was granted permission to pack chutes after she joined the club at the Romeo Sport Parachute Center, and she became one of the hardest workers.

She was stymied, however, in her eager attempt to join the group taking jump lessons, which she said looked like "so much fun."

She couldn't convince her parents, the Edgar T. Neumanns, 58410 Cathay St., Washington, that the sport was safe if learned from a qualified instructor. She had to have their consent because she was a minor.

Finally, just a few weeks ago, Susie was able to bring her family around to her way of thinking and both parents signed the waiver allowing her to jump.

TRAINING COURSE.

Before she could even put on a chute, the enthusiastic Romeo High School senior had to take a regular training course at the center.

She was taught how to fall, roll and take the landing shock. Also she learned how to manipulate the canopy (chute), how to exit the aircraft and how to operate her jump equipment.

Other phases of training included instruction in emergency procedures and the history of the sport.

Then on Nov. 18, the big moment arrived and Susie made her first jump. It drew warm praise from her jump master, Johnny Stephen of Romeo, who described his pupil as a "natural jumper."

Little wonder that the dimpled Susie made the grade.

She has always been a top athlete in school as well as an outstanding student. In addition, she is president of the student council.

Susie now has made four jumps on a "static line" from a small plane at 2,500 feet altitude. This means her ripcord is attached to the plane and after she jumps her weight pulls the pins releasing the chute.

Then all she has to worry about is falling properly—without twisting and turning — and landing near the target area.

Reroute Telegraph Traffic as Firemen Battle Blaze

SOUTHFIELD — Traffic was rerouted for six hours last night and early today on Telegraph Road while firemen battled a blaze in a paint company just south of 10 Mile Road.

No one was injured in the fire, which was reported at 9:30 p.m. by a passing motorist.

However, firemen already hampered by slippery conditions around the United Paint Co., were forced to extend a hose to a hydrant across Telegraph Road.

Police detoured traffic at Nine Mile and 10 Mile roads.

The front roof portion of the 50-by-150-foot concrete block building collapsed. The intense heat caused dozens of paint cans in the rear of the building to explode.

Southfield firemen, assisted by the Franklin Fire Department, managed to save most of the building. Major portions of the damage occurred in a front office and section.

Earlier yesterday, flames damaged the home of Robert Minko at 25975 Gleneyrie St. No one was home at the time of the blaze.

Firemen, called to the scene about 4:30 p.m., said the fire burned the basement and kitchen. They said the blaze apparently started in the basement furnace room.

No estimate of damage was available on either fire this morning.

Firemen were investigating the scenes of both blazes today to determine the causes.

Indiana Tankers Collegiate Best

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Losing two world record-holders from a team would cause most coaches to worry, but not Indiana University swimming boss Jim Doe Cunsillman.

He has half a dozen left. The six world titleholders will form the nucleus of a pool crew which has won 22 consecutive dual meets over a three-year period. Only a four-year NCAA ban on post-season competition has kept I.U. from bagging what many feel would be a certain national college swimming crown.

The holdovers are breaststroker Chet Jastremski, backstroke artist Tom Stuck, butterfly men, Larry Schulhof and Fred Schmidt, medley master Ted Stickle and distance man Alan Somers.

AAU TITLERS
 The six, swimming along with the rest of the Hoosier team in the summer under Indianapolis Athletic Club colors, were the mainstays of Cunsillman's contingent which won a sixth straight National Outdoor AAU championship in August. The Hoosiers begin their '63-64 Big Ten campaign Saturday at Iowa.

Jastremski, a senior from Toledo, Ohio, owns the 100-meter, 110-yard, and 200-meter world breaststroke standards. He also swam on the IAC's world record-setting 400-meter and 440-yard medley relay teams.

Stock, a junior from Aurora,

Schulhof, of Muncie, and Schmidt, of Wilmette, Ill., both have set world butterfly marks. Schulhof was on the 440-yard medley foursome, while Schmidt swam with the 400-meter team. Schmidt is just a sophomore.

RECORD HOLDER

Stickle, from Santa Clara, Calif., owns the world 400-meter and 440-yard individual medley records. He is recovering from an elbow operation, but more than that is expected to be needed to slow him down.

The sixth titlist, Somers, of Indianapolis, who set but also lost a free style standard in the 1960 Olympics, is recovering from a bout with mononucleosis. He will not see action until February.

Cunsillman, who is in his sixth year at Indiana, concedes his primary weakness is in the same place it has usually been the last five winters — in the free style sprints. But he says he has a couple of sophomores, Spike Fredricks and Tom Hayden, who may surprise everyone.

The diving team, often as weak as a springboard sawed halfway through, has found new mettle this year in a sophomore, Rick Gilbert of Lancaster, Pa. Last spring he became the first freshman in 25 years to win the indoor AAU 3-meter diving crown and scored the highest number of points ever given in the meet.

The two world title holders Cunsillman lost were freestyle Pete Sinitz, the anchor man on the medley teams, who graduated, and 1960 Olympic double gold medal-winner Mike Troy, who used up his eligibility.

Only Jastremski, Somers, and another breaststroker, Ken Nakasone, are seniors this year, and Cunsillman terms the current crop of freshmen even better than the first-year teams of the past which turned out his present world record-holders.

It's not the least bit unlikely Indiana will still be the nettle of college waters when the NCAA lets it back into the pool for the 1965 national college meet.

PACKERS PACKED IN FOG — The Green Bay Packers had a hazy workout on a fog-bound practice field in Palo Alto, Calif., yesterday. They were preparing for Sunday's game with the San Francisco 49ers. Quarterback Bart Starr could not see his pass receivers in the dense fog. Other Packers: Tom Moore (25), Fred Thurston (83), Ed Elaine (60) and Dan Currie (58).

OUT FOR SEASON — Bill Kilmer, San Francisco 49ers halfback, fractured his right leg in an auto accident. The former UCLA star doesn't know whether the injury will finish his pro football career.

Meanwhile, the Giants, who clinched the eastern division title last Sunday, play a de-presurized game against the Cleveland Browns in New York. The Giants are the pick by 7 points.

On Saturday, living-room lookers coast-to-coast get some pro football action in addition to the weekly college game. The Washington Redskins-Baltimore Colts game will be televised nationally by CBS (air time 1:30 p.m. EST) prior to the UCLA-Syracuse game from the west coast (4:30 p.m. EST) on the same network.

In Sunday's other NFL games, the Chicago Bears are favored by 12 points at home against the Los Angeles Rams; the Dallas Cowboys are picked by three over the Cardinals in St. Louis; and the Philadelphia Eagles are three at home over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The Colts are favored by nine points at home in the Saturday game against the Redskins.

LAST GAME

After the game with the 49ers, Green Bay winds up the season in Los Angeles. The Lions' season finale is in Chicago. If the western race ended in a tie, a playoff would be held in Detroit, Dec. 23.

The 49ers have won three straight road games to even their season record at 6-4. "Of course, we weren't playing the Packers," concedes coach Red Hickey of San Francisco, but we played good ball."

While Paul Hornung and linebacker Dan Currie should be available for full-scale duty with the Packers, the 49ers are in poor physical shape.

Halfback Bill Kilmer fractured a leg in an automobile accident Wednesday night. Defensive end Clark Miller also is out for the season and offensive tackle Bob St. Clair and defensive back Jim Riddon are doubtful starters.

The Giants-Browns game traditionally has been the eastern division's hottest rivalry, but the edge is off this season because report bookings are booming for the title contest.

New York no longer must win. Still, coach Al Sherman of the Giants insists "we must preserve that physical and emotional toughness right through the championship game" and wants no letup from his men.

The Browns' incentives are a better-than-500 season, a berth in the Playoff (runnerup) Bowl and satisfying coach Paul Brown's aversion for anything identified with New York.

But they have a problem. The network (CBS) which broadcasts the regular games does not handle the championship. And the network that does (NBC), does not have an outlet in Connecticut close by enough to be received on most regular sets.

The motels are scrambling to make arrangements to bring in the ultra high frequency outlet that will carry the game.

"If we don't have our sets connected by Dec. 30, we'd better leave town," one motel operator said. "We have a reservation for every one of our 160 rooms for the game."

Many other fans are expected to have urgent business in Philadelphia on Dec. 30, where tele-out regular season Giants' games, vision watching is no problem.

Leads 1st Pro Tourney

By THEODORE A. EDIGER

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — "I just stayed relaxed and hit the ball."

That's the way Al Kelley, playing his first PGA tournament, said he took the first round lead over 141 more seasoned pros and 10 amateurs in the 72-hole, $20,000 Coral Gables Open Golf Tournament.

The 27-year-old pro of seven weeks standing collected a 6-under-par 65.

Going into today's second round, Kelley, born in Akron, Ohio, and playing out of Coral Gables, held a one-stroke lead over Dave Ragan, with whom he grew up in Orlando, Fla.

"As an amateur, I'd been trying to hit the ball too hard," Kelley commented. "Too many ideas astray."

"I put together a lot of ideas, from pros and friends, and picked out some good ones. One of them was to relax."

Going into the tournament, the former Air Force flier discarded a new putter and went back to one he has used since 1959.

He liked it so much that he needed only 28 putts.

The 6 foot, 160-pound two-time Florida amateur champion scored seven birdies in his 32-33 effort. He bogeyed the 15th, when he bucked wind gusts.

Thirty-three pros outdid par 71 on the 6,563-yard Biltmore layout.

Coming in at 67, one stroke off the 33-33 card by Ragan, winner of last week's Palm Beach Open, were Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex., and Bill Collins, Miami.

Tied at 68 were Ed Furgol, Export, Pa., and Gay Brewer Jr., Crystal River, Fla.

BOWLING

Two-team races appear to be developing in the Huron Bowl Classic and in the Westside Classic.

Eamon Electric and Pontiac Window Cleaning have taken turns atop the Huron League and the second place window washers have a six-game bulge over West Side Mohl. After last Friday's action, the electric team rules the roost with a three-game margin.

Bob Belton was the big gun last week; he led 24 bowlers with 600-or-better series with a good 64 score. His high 237 game fell one pin short of the league high for last Friday which was rolled by Phil Laublie. Bob Frick had a 235.

Dale Cook Construction has a five-game lead on Colonial Lounge in the Westside loop; but the latter squad is closer to the top than it is to the third spot held by Prescription Department, Inc., which is 13 games off the pace-setting team. A total of 69 games of the 200 variety were rolled. A 252 went to Bob Gormong and 247 was accomplished by Al Pletz.

The dozen 600-or-better series were led by Bill Bull's 674. BUCKS AND DOGS

Lakewood Lanes' Bucks and Does League is led by the Favus after the young ones took four from the Antlers and broke a tie between the two teams. Leading the Favus' surge were Marv O'Neill (243-645) and Fran McCallum (201-538).

The winners field a team score of 2200, a new season mark for the league.

Oxford Septic Tank Company increased its lead from a half point to two and a half by winning four points Tuesday in that day's Afternoon Elks Ladies circuit. A four-point sweep boosted Mitchell Cleaners into second place.

Ruth Smith's 215-545 scores were good for second and third place on the season's-best list for the league.

The Airway Rockettes' best showing Tuesday night was a 267 series by Pauline Tinson. Pontiac Transmission Service leads the field with a comfortable 14-game bulge.

Also, Airway's Queens League had its first place dissolved when The Spires moved two games up on the All Stars Tuesday. Fran McCallum of the Missiles was sharp with a 236-578 combination. It was a happy night, too, for Tina Dahlin who hit a 220 game, her first time above the 200 mark.

Cooley Lanes reports a 205 game for Madeline Gannon in the Multi-Ladies Ladies League and a 2302 total series for Thompson's Country Inn.

There were 18 games on the 200 level in the 14-team Sylvan Lake Bowling loop last week at Sylvan Lanes.

The same house reports six games over 220 in the Senior House League.

Junior bowling last weekend produced scores of 205-555 for 13-year-old Bruce Mihalek at Airway Lanes and 510 and 501 for Mike Remley and Tom Keeley, respectively at Montclair.

Ski Film Tuesday

The third in a series of ski adventures will be held at Ford Auditorium next Tuesday, December 11th. John Jay film "Stars in the Snow" will be personally narrated.

League leading 300 Bowl will have an opportunity to regain its winning touch Sunday when it plays host to last place Wonderland Lanes in a 1 p.m. Pontiac Traveling Classic League match.

The pacesetters threatened a runaway when they posted six consecutive victories the first time around the circuit; but following a bye, they have dropped two straight contests.

Airway Lanes' 13-8 win over 300 Bowl last Sunday and West Side Lanes' triumph against Huron Bowl, 13-3, considerably tightened the title chase. Both winners are only one game out of the top spot.

Another contest last weekend saw Cooley move to within two games of first by defeating Howe's Lanes, 11-3. Other contests this weekend will be Airway at Cooley and Huron at Howe's, both 1 p.m. Sunday.

Significant individual scores last Sunday saw Karl Van De Mucho Dinero, Senores MEXICO CITY (AP)—An international field will tee off next Thursday in the $16,000 Mexican National Open golf tournament at La Hacienda golf club.

Bill Johns continues to have the most impressive credentials in the classic league with a 204 average after 10 games and he has won 18 of 19 points.

Pat Tinson's 27 points won is the highest total, although he has also winning 17 markers this season. Last 17 points in 16 games.

Moorell win six of seven points with 225-226 games for Airway and five points each for Jerry Harnack (228-205) of West Side and Cooley's Paul George.

On the deficit side, Joe Foster dropped his first three points after winning 17 markers this season. Last 17 points in 16 games.

Pairings for 2nd Qualifying Weekend Listed

Action in The Press Bowlerama will get heavier this week as 300 more bowlers take a crack at the finals to be held Dec. 23 at Airway Lanes.

The first squad will take the lanes at Westside at 11:00 a.m. and at Cooley the first squad will begin at 12:30 noon.

This brings a total of nearly 600 bowlers into the two weekend qualifying field with one more big weekend yet to go at 300 Bowl and North Hills.

Bowlers are reminded that they must register at their respective sites 15 minutes prior to the time they must bowl. If there is a delay in arrival they should call the alley at least one hour before their bowling time so that adjustment can be made in times.

Any bowler who fails to appear at his scheduled time will forfeit his entry unless he makes these provisions to notify the establishment of his lateness.

About 27 will qualify at Westside and another 12 at Cooley, depending on scores. All ties for the last position will qualify.

Those who fail to make the grade have the opportunity to re-enter at the establishment for next week. Next Wednesday midnight is the deadline for the final Sunday.

Widman who bowls in the Michigan Bell League in Detroit rolled a 300 game as a starter for a 716 series. A 159 bowler, Widman followed his classic first with 192 and 224 scores.

"After the seventh frame I guess I was so nervous I didn't feel anything," Widman admitted. Despite any growing nervousness, he said, "The last strike was the best one."

Writing Speed Is Often Matter of Habit

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.

A slow worker in school is not necessarily a backward child. Sometimes speed is a matter of habit. That's the problem that confronts this mother, who writes:

Dear Dr. Nason: I have a fourth grade daughter whose written work is never completed in class because of slow coordination in writing. The written work she does complete is usually correct, but her marks are held down because she seldom completes anything. The school psychologist says DR. NASON she is a 9-year-old with the intelligence of a 14-year-old. But her coordination is very slow in all respects. When asked a verbal question, she hesitates for quite awhile but usually answers correctly. Can you offer a suggestion to help her?

Mrs. H. B., San Jose, Calif. Have your daughter practice speeding up her handwriting through the following steps:

Have her write a short sentence. After rewriting the sentence three times, have her concentrate on improving her handwriting and holding the pencil correctly. About the 10th line down, have her increase her speed at the same time maintaining the quality. Ten minutes of practice per day will soon speed up her classwork.

Dear Dr. Nason: Our daughter is a bright fourth-grader who does beautifully in her school work.

Two years ago, as a second-grader, she was in a second-third combination class. Last year she was in a straight third grade. This year, she has been placed in a third-fourth combination. This seems to me like an unnecessarily large dose of third grade! To top it off, her third-grade sister, two years younger, is in this same third-fourth combination. What is your opinion?

Mrs. C. W., Virginia

Exposure to third grade material for three successive years must seem like punishment to your daughter. Either this or the presence of her younger sister in the same class justifies a request to the school administration for an immediate reassignment.

has a very large reading vocabulary. In other ways also I believe him to be above average.

What type of schooling would you suggest for him? Would he be bored in a public school? I am not anxious to push him into his social age group.

I. F., Levittown, Pa.

Your decision not to push him past his social age group at this time is wise. There are so many activities in a good public school kindergarten that your son should not be bored.

Children who are self-taught in reading have enough initiative to maintain their interest in school situations even though reading is not a part of the program.

Continue to furnish him with books and materials at home so that he can continue to develop his interest beyond those of the average group.

Dear Dr. Nason: Our 4-year-old son has been reading since just past his second birthday. Except for the first steps, such as the alphabet and numbers, he is completely self-taught and by now

(Dr. Nason will welcome your questions addressed to him in care of The Pontiac Press. Those of general interest will be answered in this column.)

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

When today's hand appeared in a rubber bridge game in Phoenix, Ariz., South threw away the rubber by overlooking the possibility that West might hold seven hearts for his opening preemptive bid.

As soon as dummy hit the table South pulled the ace of hearts from it. East ruffed and returned a trump. South fan a few trumps, went through a lot of useless thought, but still had to lose two diamonds and another heart to go down one.

Of course, it was bad luck that

East held no hearts and four diamonds, but a little thought at trick one would have let South make his contract in spite of the breaks.

South should have let West's king of hearts hold the first trick. West would continue with the queen and that should have been allowed to hold.

That would give the defense two tricks. The best play for West would be to play a third heart. Now South would play low from dummy, ruff, draw trumps, and eventually discard one of his four diamonds on the ace of hearts.

Q—The bidding has been:

W. German Truckers Defy Vopos With Laughter

BY RICHARD O'REGAN
HELMSTEDT, Germany (AP)—At the frontier to East Germany, a Communist border guard sat on a roll of barbed wire, his automatic rifle resting on his knees. "A ruddy West German truck driver pulled up on his way to Berlin, threw open his window and cracked: 'Hey, sonny, doesn't it tickle?'"

The East German policeman reddened. He stood up violently and thrust his rifle toward the West German driver. "Ach," said the truck driver without lowering his voice. "We've got to teach them first what humor is. They haven't got any."

The long-haul truck drivers between West Germany and West Berlin must stop at Communist controls to have their freight checked.

LONG PROCESS

It is often a long process. Every day hundreds of truckers have to undergo tiresome Communist examination of their papers and cars. They often assume them-then loudly: "Na ja, sister—pretty girls don't belong on customs ramps."

The girl ignored him, but a few minutes later she fled in anger. The truck driver's partner had awakened from his sleep, stepped to the ground and pinched her.

An irate Communist officer came out of the door through which the girl had disappeared. He wagged his finger in warning at the truckers.

"That sort of behavior is not allowed here in the People's Republic," he said.

"Ach," said the truck driver. "It's just like I said—nobody's got any humor here."

Some yards away, another group of West German truckers loitered around vehicles being inspected by the East German guards.

A young East German in glass was sounding off: "In a capitalist country like West Germany, the workers always suffer. Our workers are luckier than you."

"DON'T HAVE TO LISTEN!" He glared at one truck bringing chocolate to West Berlin.

"We don't need Western influence, propaganda and chocolate from you," he said.

Snapped one of the West German drivers: "Be quiet. We don't want to listen to you. We have to stand here all the time having our papers checked and we don't have to listen to your political nonsense too."

The driver of the chocolate truck shouted at the Communist:

"Do you know why my truck has to be unloaded? Because your damned colleague over there wants to win a medal. He probably expects Khrushchev to pin it on himself. What does he expect to find in the chocolate? Spies? You tell me."

VOPO FLUSHED
A third truck driver joined the attack on the young East German: "Your slogans about all you happy men—keep them for yourself. You tell me what you really think, and I'll see if I can't smuggle your back with us to the West." The agitator stared at them. He looked startled and flushed as if his secret thoughts had been tapped and brought out to the open.

"But comrades..." he began. The truckers laughed in his face, went to their cabs and turned on their motors.

"LUNAR LANDING" — The diagonal lines in this picture are not due to faulty equipment. They represent a unique composite method of mapping flight. Here a Bell X-14A vertical takeoff and landing craft simulates a landing on the moon. Pilots at Moffett Field, Calif., have been using the aircraft since it is the only one in this country that can approximate power and control requirements of a lunar landing.

Sightless Man Not Fooled by Bad Money

DETROIT (AP) — "Give me money, not paper," Sam Solomon said when a man asked him to break a $20 bill at Solomon's magazine stand in the Federal Building.

The man, Arthur Askew Jr., was startled when Solomon flung the bill back in his face. Solomon is blind.

"That guy could see better than I could," federal agents quoted Askew as saying after his arrest.

He and three codefendants, all Detroiters, pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of possession of counterfeit money and were freed on $2,500 bond to await sentencing. Solomon said the bill "felt too smooth." He said Secret Service men had taught him how to detect bad money without having to see it.

Fire Fighter Puts Out Well Blaze in Canada

MELBINE HAT, Alta. (AP) — A roaring natural gas well fire was snuffed out yesterday when Texas fire fighter Paul (Red) Adair exploded a 150-pound charge of explosives inches above the heart of the blaze.

Flames which had shot 100 feet into the prairie sky since last Friday were choked off in the vacuum created by the blast.

Santa Gets the Gate for Insubordination

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Harold Walker, 50, is through as Santa Claus.

The Volunteers of America told Walker to turn in his beard yesterday after police reported irate parents complained that Santa ignored little children, sat on the curb smoking fat cigars and whistled his whisks to munch a candy bar.

Report Cuba Is Fortifying

Underground, Airfield Construction Claimed

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet troops in Cuba are reported engaged in the construction of underground fortifications and additional airfields throughout the island, the New York Times said today.

A Washington dispatch by Tad Szulc said "A detailed report on these activities, dated Nov. 29, was received from Havana through anti-Castro intelligence channels," adding: "The report stressed that while some Soviet military camps had been closed, all indications were that many Soviet units and advisers remained in Cuba."

UP TO 10,000

Noting that President Kennedy said he had been informed by Moscow that Soviet combat troops in Cuba also would be removed, the Times said "The number of such troops is now believed to be between 5,000 and 10,000 men."

The newspaper said the report quotes "high officers" of the Cuban army as having said that "the majority of Soviet military technicians will not leave Cuba."

Dies From Injuries

DETROIT (AP) — Harold L. Vandervort, 64, of Garden City, injured when his car hit a Washburn Railway overpass pillar a week ago, died in Wayne County General Hospital yesterday.

Volunteers Aid on Ball Guest List

DETROIT (AP) — Volunteers at Gov. elect George Romney's Detroit headquarters are poring over thousands of names in selecting recipients of some 50,000 invitations to the Jan. 1 inaugural ball to be mailed tomorrow.

One veteran campaign volunteer compared the feverish activity to the last two months of the campaign as work on the invitation list went on completion. The Lansing office of Phil Pittenger, who is handling inauguration plans, was reported just as busy.

Cars, buses and trains are expected to converge on the State Capitol in Lansing on Jan. 1 as people flock to attend the official swearing in of the state's 44th chief executive. Many are expected to arrive a day early to beat the rush.

GALA FESTIVITIES

An inauguration day committee, headed by former Gov. Wilbur M. Bricker, promises many gala festivities for the thousands expected to attend, beginning with a parade up Michigan Avenue to the capitol and ending with the colorful inaugural ball in the Lansing Civic Center.

Highlighting the activities will be the oath of office, administered to Romney by Chief Justice Leland Carr at noon on the capitol steps.

Michigan Air National Guard jet planes will fly over during the ceremonies and the new governor will receive the traditional 19-gun salute following the oath.

The Michigan National Guard Band and several high school bands will lead a parade starting at 11 a.m. from the East Michigan Avenue train depot. There will be an official state luncheon at 1:30 p.m. at the Lansing Civic Center for members of Congress, Legislature, State Supreme Court and other state elected officials.

Following this Gov. Romney will hold a reception in his new capitol office and administrative board offices will be opened.

Teamster Can Retire With Pension at 57

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A Teamster Union pension fund, covering 200,000 employees in 23 states, has reduced normal retirement age from 60 to 57, it was announced today.

James Hoffa, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and a union trustee of the central states, southeast and southwest areas pension fund, said the change has been approved by the Internal Revenue Service.

The change, he said, was recommended by union and management trustees in September.

Hoffa said retirement at 57 is not mandatory. "However," he said, "this improvement has been made in order to encourage earlier retirement."

Duke Sells Granddad's 'Garter' for $10,640

LONDON (AP) — An Italian jeweler paid $10,640 to the Duke of Bedford yesterday for a diamond set replica of the order of the garter which was awarded to the duke's grandfather.

"It is very unlikely that I shall ever be made knight of the garter," the duke said. "I would rather turn the insignia into money and buy a cottage in the south of France."

Rail Track Wrecked

HONG KONG (AP) — Saboteurs wrecked a section of the railway line linking Hong Kong and Canton, in Communist China, arrivals from the Chinese provincial capital said today.

St. Pierre, Martinique, was decimated by eruption of 4,790-foot-high stroyed May 8, 1902, by the vol. Mt. Pelee.

Bridge Form Folds, Worker Is Killed

GRAND RAPIDS UP — A Spring Lake man was killed and two fellow workers suffered minor injury yesterday in the collapse of a large form at a bridge construction site on the Grand River in Grand Rapids.

Dead on arrival at Butterworth Hospital was Miles Daniel Prasy, Prasy to the ground.

Police said the two others were not immediately identified. The men were erecting a form of steel reinforcing rods for the crossbeam of a support for the bridge carrying I-96 across the river. A gust of wind collapsed a wooden support and it slammed against the northerly wind that was blowing that day.

Letter 'Flies' 47 Miles in Just Fifteen Days

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — A letter which blew away here 15 days ago turned up yesterday on the roof of a building in South Molton, 47 miles away. Post office officials are puzzled as to how the letter managed to cross a range of 2,000-foot hills against the northerly wind that was blowing that day.

Junior Editors Quiz on THE ALPHABET

QUESTION: How did the first writing change into our alphabet?

ANSWER: Before real writing, people used pictures of things, or "pictographs." But the Sumerians, an ancient people, who were developing civilization by raising crops and trading, needed something better to record business transactions.

To draw 35 pictures of cows for the record "I sold 35 cows" was too much work. So they invented simple signs, some to stand for words and some for syllables of their language.

A few signs could convey many meanings.

Beginning about 3100 B.C., this system was man's most important step toward writing. Soon the symbols were made by tools with wedge shaped points, which could be pressed into wet clay (1). Meanwhile the Egyptians developed a similar system called "hieroglyphic," at first carved in stone, then written on reed paper (2). Other nations borrowed and improved these systems.

Gradually the pictures dropped out and the symbols began to stand not for words or syllables but for letters. A to E shows how an Egyptian ox head symbol (A) became simplified (B, C) turned into the Greek letter "alpha" (D) and finally into the Roman A.

FOR YOU TO DO: You can write but can you make a pictograph? See if you can make a set of pictures which say "I found a dollar" and send it to a friend to see if he or she makes anything of it.

Two billion pounds of food; value, 1962 for the benefit of school used at $306 million, were distributed by the government in pie in institutions.

Culture Kick Encompasses Washington

Jackie Won't Tell if Shelter Planned for New Retreat

By HELEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many of President Kennedy's weekend neighbors in the Middleburg, Va., hunt country are building fallout shelters.

But the White House won't say if a shelter is included in the plans for the new Kennedy retreat on Rattlesnake Mountain where construction is now under way.

The First Lady's press secretary, Pamela Turnure, said: "this is a security matter which we would not get into."

"Obviously," she added, "the President will be looked after in time of need."

Some of the shelters being built in the Middleburg area are elaborate, in keeping with the plushness of the estates.

Washington is on a culture kick.

Several new modern art galleries have opened in the capital and the American Ballet Theater has moved its headquarters to Washington.

And President and Mrs. Kennedy are in the vanguard, trying to enhance the government seat as a cradle for creative artists.

Kennedy's inspired speech at the fund-raising dinner for the National Cultural Center last week got lost in the shuffle during an overly long, badly planned pot pourri entertainment program.

But his words are worth remembering in a political town suddenly invaded by the artists. He said:

"Behind the storm of daily conflict and crisis, the dramatic confrontations, the tumult of political struggle, the poet, the artists, the musician, continues the quiet work of centuries, building bridges of experience between peoples, reminding man of the universality of his feelings and desires and despair, and reminding him that the forces that unite are deeper than those that divide."

WON ACCLAIM

The Ballet Theater was the first such American group to tour Russia. It won much acclaim. Last June, it performed "Billy the Kid" at the White House.

Mrs. Kennedy will attend a performance of their Washington season Dec. 12. At her request, the troupe will substitute "The Consul," a dance she has not seen, for "Billy the Kid" which was originally on the program.

An alert tourist went through the White House the other day and made an interesting discovery — all of the clocks work.

The guides also like to point out that the fireplaces also are frequently used on winter days.

Incidentally, some of the tourists go through the White House with a proprietary air — a cross between "we pay taxes" and civic pride. One woman recently was heard to tell her husband as they walked through the formal rooms "remember this is our house."

The President would have been pleased to hear her say so. He is always reminding visitors that the historic mansion "belongs to the American people."

French Folies to Be in Fair

NEW YORK (AP)—A slightly censored edition of the Folies Bergere will be one of the attractions of the $10-million French exhibit at the 1964-65 New York World's Fair.

A spokesman for the fair's French Pavilion said Thursday the folies will be housed in an egg-shaped building seating 1,500. The 50 dancing girls, he said, will not be as "obscene" as New York's in the Parisian style.

Washington D. C.'s geologic re-formed bowls and abundant granite sources include soapstone quarries from which they chipped spear heads from which Indians once heads.

New Car Sales to Top 7 Million

Official Sets Tally Over Most Years

MISSOULA, Mont. (U.P.)—New car sales in the year which ends this month will exceed seven million vehicles, Virgil Boyd, general sales manager of Chrysler Corp., said today.

This figure is slightly higher than the most optimistic predictions of the other companies. The consensus has been slightly less than seven million.

General Motors, biggest of the bunch, is sticking with seven million.

Boyd's prediction was included in remarks prepared for the annual meeting of the Montana Automobile Dealers Association.

"When all the registrations are in and counted, we expect to find retail sales amounting to slightly over seven-million new cars, including in the neighborhood of 33,000 imports," Boyd said.

Only in 1955 has the auto industry sold as many as seven-million cars.

"October and November sales were the highest in the history of the industry and it looks as if a strong sales pace is going to be maintained in the months ahead," Boyd said.

Grain Futures Firm on Light Demands

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Grain futures prices showed further firmness today on additional light demand in early dealings on the board of trade.

Some contracts of wheat, oats and soybeans posted gains of major fractions during the first several minutes of trading which again included both commercial accounts and short covering.

Brokers said offerings continued to be light with no significant pressure anywhere. Hedging pressure had slackened considerably in the corn pit and tenders on December contracts remain relatively small.

U.S. Wonders if It's Being Taken on Tito Sleigh Ride

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

form or another has topped a billion dollars.

The United States proceeded on the theory that Tito's deviation from Stalinism permitted Yugoslavia to develop independently of the U.S.S.R. Last July Secretary of State Dean Rusk said it would be calamitous for U.S. policy if Congress should forbid further aid to Belgrade.

There have been a number of what the late secretary John Foster Dulles called agonizing reappraisals. The first came during the Soviet-Yugoslavia talks in 1955, when Khrushchev, newly installed as head of the Soviet party, made a pilgrimage to Belgrade to apologize for all the names Stalin called Tito.

The United States was worried then at the prospects of a reconciliation.

SURFACE COOLING OFF
On the surface, at least, these relations cooled in the wake of Hungary's abortive revolution against the Communists, which Khrushchev seemed to blame on Tito's example of independence.

However, heavy responsibility lay with Khrushchev's own relaxations under the de-Stalinization program, and the Chinese Communists were quick to point it out.

The hard feelings did not seem to last long. Tito continued going down the line for Soviet policy on all major international issues, with the notable exception of Khrushchev's demand for revision of the United Nations structure.

By now, however, Khrushchev himself seems quietly to have dropped that idea.

In September 1961, at a Belgrade meeting of neutralists, Tito once again went all-out for the Soviet policy line. Again the United States took a worried look, but it did not change its aid policy.

CALLED DESPICABLE
Today, Khrushchev himself has embraced some of Tito's own deviations from the notions of Communist expansion espoused by Stalin. For this, the Red Chinese call Khrushchev a member of "the despicable Titoist revisionist clique."

Perhaps, the Tito-Khrushchev meeting will deepen the breach with Peking and the United States might consider that all to the good.

But how permanent is that breach? The Moscow-Peking differences are not about ultimate goals but on how the goals should be achieved. Both Moscow and Peking leaders leave doors open.

Despite all the harsh words which have been traded, there has been no irreparable break. Today in Moscow, Tito is receiving honors seldom accorded a visitor, including quarters in the Kremlin itself. Khrushchev called Yugoslavia a "Socialist" nation, economic competition.

Tito still influences the so-called neutral nations, including those of emerging Africa. The current Moscow love-feast can be extremely helpful to the cause of Soviet communism, in picturing its leadership as one dedicated to nothing more dangerous than peaceful economic competition.

Soviets Make N-Check Offer

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union offered today to give international inspectors full access to unmanned, automatic seismographs watching for violations of a nuclear test ban.

Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told the 17-nation disarmament conference the seismographs — known as black boxes — could be installed in the three main earthquake-prone areas of the Soviet Union.

The international inspectors would have a guaranteed right of access to the boxes and could remove the sealed recordings without hindrance.

The black box proposal was first put forward at the Pugwash Scientific Conference at Cambridge, England, in September. The Western powers have agreed to discuss their use—but only as a supplement to an international control system based on compulsory on-site inspection of suspicious earth tremors.

Tsarapkin reiterated that on-site inspection is unacceptable to the Soviet Union in any form.

'Nikita, Tito Discuss Split of Two Parties'

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Yugoslav President Tito met again today amid indications they discussed the officially ruptured relations between the two Communist parties.

The list of officials present at their meeting in the Kremlin led to the surmise that party affairs were under consideration. Tass, the Soviet news agency, gave the party titles of the participants in addition to their government positions.

Yuri Andropov, the Communist party Central Committee's secretary in charge of relations with Communist and workers' parties of Socialist countries, was among those present.

ACCOMPANIED
Tito was accompanied by Vice President Alexander Rankovic, Serbian party leader Jovan Veselinov and Macedonian party chief Lubco Arsov.

Discussion of party affairs would tend to confirm the general belief that Tito's visit to Khrushchev—officially called a vacation—also is connected with the growing split between themselves and the leaders of Red China and Albania.

In the drumfire of argument between the two camps, Peking has attacked Tito—and Khrushchev in directly—as a revisionist and traitor to world communism. The Peking Communists have been attacked indirectly as dogmatists and Stalinists.

Woman Faces Term for Informing Red

LONDON (AP) — Barbara Fell, 54-year-old government information officer, was sentenced to two years in prison today for handing over confidential documents to her Yugoslav lover.

Dressed in an olive green suit, she pleaded guilty at the Old Bailey to charges of passing foreign office papers to Smiljan Pecjak, former press officer at the Yugoslav embassy. She admitted she was his mistress.

Miss Fell, acting controller of the central information office, was calm and cool throughout the brief trial. After she was sentenced she turned silently and walked alone down the steps from the prisoner's box to the cells.

Expect More Snow to Strike County

Most of Midwest, East Hit

By The Associated Press

The season's first major snowstorm left a blanket more than a foot deep across broad areas from the Great Lakes into New York and southward into Tennessee today.

Cold weather added to the wintry picture. Temperatures tumbled sharply as gusty winds fanned the snow and cold air in a wide sweep across the Ohio Valley to the Southern Appalachians and Mid-Atlantic Coast. Freezing weather chilled northern Florida.

The late autumn storm was blamed for at least 14 deaths, most of them in traffic accidents on snow-covered highways. Five persons died while shoveling snow—three in Michigan and two in the Cleveland area.

The storm forced the closing of schools in Cleveland and several other northeastern Ohio counties. Cleveland's Hopkins airport was closed last night.

HAZARDOUS DRIVING

The heavy snow belt extended over Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York state, West Virginia and Maryland, with smaller amounts in Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Hazardous driving conditions were reported in many parts of the snow belt.

The storm dumped 14 inches of snow in Olean, in western New York, where falls ranged from about a foot to five inches.

In Ohio, the heaviest fall also was 14 inches, in Geauga County. Amounts ranged from 5 to 12 inches in Youngstown.

About 1,600 homes in Cleveland were without power for a time as snow toppled feeder lines. Highway crews worked through the night to clear snow-clogged roads.

In Tennessee, snow measured 10 inches at Newfound Gap in the Smokies and was 4 to 5 inches deep in other mountain areas.

Elkins, W.Va., reported 13 inches on the ground. Falls ranged up to eight inches in Michigan and Indiana.

Snow continued in most of Pennsylvania after the storm left from a foot in Bradford to from 4 to 8 inches in other western sections of the state and 1 to 3 inches in Lancaster and south central areas.

Rain which drenched Philadelphia turned to snow during the night but it was not heavy.

Heavy Storm Has Killed Nine in Michigan

Oakland Is Paralyzed in Parts Under Record 10-Inch Fall

A deadly, Arctic snow storm, which already has killed nine persons in the state, is expected to drop another two inches of snow on Oakland County today.

The county already is paralyzed in parts under a 10-inch total snow fall recorded since early yesterday.

Driving conditions are hazardous throughout Michigan.

The latest state traffic victim was a Lake Orion woman, Mrs. Mattie Lubahn, 57, of 763 W. Clarkson Road. She was killed last night when a car in which she was riding rammed the rear of a snow plow near Bay City.

THREE STRICKEN

Three Detroiters were reported stricken when they shoveled sidewalks in front of their homes yesterday. Two men and two women died in traffic accidents on state roads when their cars skidded out of control.

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicted today that it would be cold and windy with snow diminishing to flurries tonight and continuing through Monday in this area.

Temperatures hovering around a high of 33 today and a low of 25 tonight were expected to create icy spots on roads.

Saturday is to be cloudy with occasional snow flurries and a high of 30. Northwesterly winds, 15 to 30 miles an hour, are expected to diminish tonight.

The thermometer registered 31 at 1 p.m.

In Oakland County, a rash of minor accidents was reported to police departments and the sheriff's department.

ROADS BLOCKED

Within the county, state trunklines were reported open, some county primary roads blocked, and nearly all side roads impassable. Over 200 county road commission workers were sanding, salting and scraping.

In Pontiac, main trunk lines were shut by in fair condition (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Murder Trial Begins Tuesday

3 From Pontiac Face First-Degree Charge

The first-degree murder trial of three Pontiac men accused in the slaying of Pontiac grocer Efthimis Vasilou is scheduled to begin Tuesday before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Clark J. Adams.

Joseph Page, 26, of 249 Orchard Lake Ave., Benny L. Spells, 23, and R. G. Stroman, both of 235 S. Anderson St., are in the Oakland County jail waiting for the trial to start.

Page and Spells have admitted the holding of Vasilou (also known as James Williams) at the Boulevard Market, 200 Orchard Lake Ave., July 30. Page is accused of shooting Vasilou during the holdup.

Stroman, accused of driving the robbery car and waiting outside while his partners entered the market, claims he had nothing to do with the crime and was framed by Rufus Wilson Jr., 29, of 44 Maple St. and the Pontiac police.

Page, Spells and Stroman were apprehended after Wilson told police they committed the robbery and killing.

The four were said by police to be part of the "stocking bandit" gang who pulled several holdups in Pontiac.

Stroman claims Wilson plotted to get a $2,000 reward offered for the arrest and conviction of Vasilou's killers and accused Stroman because of an old grudge over a money dispute.

Stroman was on parole from a Jackson Prison where he was sent after pleading guilty to a burglary charge. He says he let Page and Spells use his car the night of the killing, but didn't accompany them.

DIGGING OUT—The delights of winter were wasted on many snowbound city residents this morning when they took to the shovels. Check Range Safety After Polaris Scare

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Range safety procedures will be surveyed carefully as the result of a wrong-way runaway section of a Polaris missile which escaped destruction and landed in the Atlantic Ocean 150 miles east of Savannah, Ga.

"If that missile piece had headed inland instead of toward the wide open ocean," a source said, "the only thing we could have done would be to pray that it did not hit a populated area."

The Polaris began twisting wildly in the sky shortly after the second stage ignited during a test flight Thursday, and the range safety officer beamed a radio signal to destroy the missile.

However, a large section, still under power, escaped detonation and suddenly shifted from an intended southeast heading to a northeast direction.

After word of the wayward rocket leaked out, the Air Force admitted it landed in the sea 300 to 350 miles northeast of Cape Canaveral. There was no nuclear device aboard.

The range safety officer reported, without elaboration, that the command destruction system had worked properly.

Sources said that apparently the missile was not properly wired for complete detonation.

The solid-fuel Polaris has been in the past. On an early test flight in 1958, the safety officer destroyed a Polaris when it went off course, but a large part of the second stage survived and raced inland.

That flight resulted in placement of several dynamic destruct packages throughout solid propellant missiles, instead of only in key areas, so that the vehicles could be blown to bits if necessary.

Smog Loosens Grip on London

LONDON (AP) — The worst smog in a decade loosened its lethal four-day grip on London today, leaving 106 known dead and more than 1,000 in hospitals.

Dense patches persisted in parts of the British capital, but in most places the sun finally seeped wanly through a thin haze in mid-morning.

"London is like an oasis, completely ringed by a slowly clearing fog belt," said a spokesman for the British Automobile Association.

Visibility rose to 150 yards at London Airport, and weathermen said it should increase to an operational 2,000 yards later. At midday, not one civil aircraft had been able to get in or out of the airport in 96 hours.

THAMES FOGBOUND

Still fogbound in the Thames Estuary, downriver from London, were more than 170 ships, many carrying Christmas foodstuffs badly needed in the nation's shops. Main line trains on longer hauls ran up to 3 1/2 hours behind schedule.

JFK Welcomes Adlai Warmly

Their First Meeting Since Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai Stevenson and President Kennedy, meeting in public for the first time since the tempest over the U.N. ambassador's role in the Cuban crisis, shook hands warmly Thursday night.

Stevenson, quick as ever with a quip, introduced Kennedy as "the author, producer, director and star of Mr. Khrushchev's new hit play in Moscow—'A Funny Thing Happened to Me on My Way to Cuba.'"

Stevenson said he was "proud to be a member of the supporting cast."

The occasion of their meeting was the Kennedy Foundation awards dinner where the President handed checks to four foreign scientists for work against mental retardation.

In the background were echoes of the clamor set off this week by a magazine article—co-authored by a close friend of the President—which portrayed Stevenson as having advocated a soft line in the Cuban crisis.

The article set off speculation that someone in the administration was "out to get Adlai." Apparently in an effort to still the talk, the President made public a letter Wednesday expressing his "fullest confidence" in Stevenson.

Thursday night, presiding at the dinner, Stevenson received a standing ovation.

No Word of 36 Men Since Blast

Crews Closer to Trapped Miners

CARMICHAELS, Pa. (AP) — Rescue crews were within 4,000 feet today of 36 men trapped deep underground by a mine blast.

There has been no contact with them since the explosion at 1:15 p.m. Thursday in the Robena No. 1 mine of U.S. Steel Corp.

Lewis Evans, Pennsylvania secretary of mines, described the situation as "desperate," but held out hope the miners may be alive.

"We hope the men built barricades to stop the flow of gas," he said.

Forty-four others working in an adjoining pit walked out crews proceeded cautiously in the other section of the pit.

Some returned to search tunnel—its concrete walls buckled by the blast.

SEARCH CONTINUES

But the search goes on. So do the hopes and prayers of wives, brothers, sisters and relatives keeping a vigil in a corrugated metal building adjacent to the mine shaft. Ministers tried to comfort the grieving families.

The blast was the second in the mine.

Evans, who is directing the operations, blamed it on a combination of gas and coal dust. He described the blast as one of tremendous nature.

The mine, one of the world's largest soft coal operations, is about 50 miles southwest of Pittsburgh. It produces coal for U.S. Steel's Clairton, Pa., Works.

The mine shaft drops straight down 525 feet to the surface. At that point there is a sloping tunnel without branches extending two miles to the working face. The tunnel drops gradually from 525 feet to 650 feet. That's the

Sees Long Run for Hoffa Trial

Lawyer's Prediction Follows Recess

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A lawyer for James R. Hoffa predicts the Teamsters president's million-dollar conspiracy trial will run into early January.

William Bufalino's forecast followed U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller's unexpected decision Thursday to recess the trial until Monday.

Miller gave no explanation for either the weekend adjournment or his decision, announced simultaneously, to lock up the jury for the remainder of the trial, now through its seventh week.

Both announcements followed a second, three-hour court session to which all spectators and newsmen were barred by armed marshals. Glass panels on the courtroom doors were covered.

No inkling as to what took place leaked out. In asking for the recess, U.S. Atty. James Nease said only that he wanted to take up a motion that had nothing to do with Wednesday's shooting incident.

Hoffa, 49, was not harmed by the pellets fired at him in open court by an ex-mental patient who said he had an urge to kill the labor leader. The man, Warren Swanson, 28, was ordered committed to a mental hospital for observation.

Hoffa is accused of accepting concealed payoffs from Commercial Carriers, Inc., a Detroit-based auto transport firm, in return for labor peace.

The government contends Commercial Carriers set up and operated Test Fleet Corp., a truck leasing firm chartered here in 1949, as a disguise for payments to Hoffa and the late Owen Brennan, a Teamsters vice president who died in 1960.

Stock in Test Fleet was listed in the maiden names of Mrs. Brennan and Mrs. Hoffa.

Bufalino, a Wilkes-Barre, Pa., lawyer, said the defense, which began presenting its case only this week, will need at least another two weeks. After that would come closing arguments and the judge's charge, all of which could carry the trial into January, he said.

Fluoridation Is Opposed

DETROIT (U-P) — The Detroit chapter of the National Health Federation filed suit in Wayne County Circuit Court yesterday in an effort to stop proposed fluoridation of Detroit's water supply.

The suit contended that a Nov. 27 vote by the Detroit City Council approving a fluoridation ordinance was "an arrogant attempt" to amend the city charter without a vote of the citizens.

Santa to Drop In on Milford

MILFORD — Santa Claus will arrive here tomorrow. And he'll have plenty of company.

A parade — featuring some 20 floats and marching units — will accompany the jolly old gentleman into town for his seasonal debut.

Starting at 10 a. m., the parade will begin at the intersection of South Main and Washington streets.

Milford's Junior Miss of 1962, Leslie Thomas, and the two members of her court, Diana Ludwig and Julie Reader, will add a touch of beauty to the parade.

Yuletide music will be provided by bands from Milford and Highland high schools.

Leading the procession will be officials of the village and the Milford Chamber of Commerce.

There'll be plenty of high-stepping horses, including a prize stallion ridden by Dr. Earl Book, others ridden by the Hickory Ridge Saddle Club and still more saddled by the Oakland County Sheriff's posse.

Among the marching units will be the Rac-Vens, an all-girl drill team, and the Thunderbirds, an all-male drill squad.

The Milford Boy Scouts will be represented with a color guard.

Flats will be provided by St. Mary's Catholic Church, Highland Methodist Church, the Milford Junior Chamber of Commerce and Civil Air Patrol members from the Northville and Milford areas.

TO FOLLOW MAIN

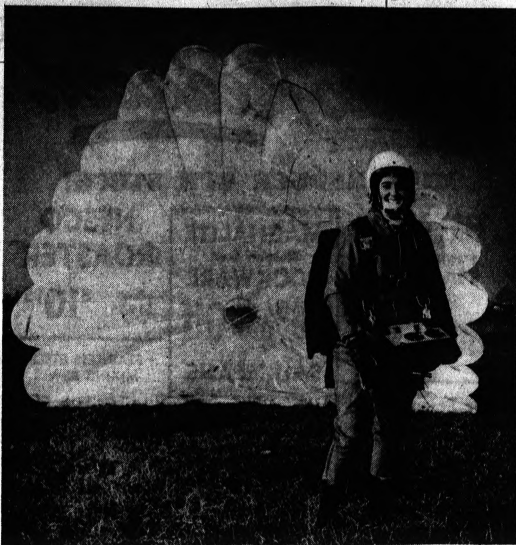

Other units will be supplied by the John F. Ivory Farm, General Telephone Co., Michigan Conservation Department, Highland Girl Scouts, General Motors Corp. Proving Grounds, Milford Fire Department and local auto dealers.

The parade route will follow Main Street to Detroit street, east on Detroit to Union street, south on Union to Center street and then west on Center back to Main.

At the conclusion of the parade, Santa will take up residence in the Milford Toyland located in the First Federal Savings of Oakland Civic Room, 351 N. Main St.

Extra children's attractions for tomorrow include free movies at the Milford Theater, starting at 1:30 p.m.

HAPPY LANDING — Susie Neupman, 17, of Washington, grins happily after completing her fourth parachute jump at Romeo Airfield. The box she wears fastened in front contains an altimeter (such as in a plane) and a stop watch she presses to show how many seconds she was falling.

Romeo High Girl Only 17

'Chutist Says 'It's Easy!'

By LEE WINBORN
Area News Editor

ROMEO — "It's just like lying on a feather bed."

That's how 17-year-old Susie Neupman, believed to be the youngest girl parachutist in the state, describes the sensation of falling through space.

Susie's desire to jump dates back more than a year when she first started to watch members of the local chapter of the Parachute Clubs of America take to the air at Romeo Airfield.

First she was granted permission to pack chutes after she joined the club at the Romeo Sport Parachute Center, and she became one of the hardest workers.

She was stymied, however, in her eager attempt to join the group taking jump lessons, which she said looked like "so much fun."

She couldn't convince her parents, the Edgar T. Neumans, 58410 Cathay St., Washington, that the sport was safe if learned from a qualified instructor. She had to have their consent because she was a minor.

Finally, just a few weeks ago, Susie was able to bring her family around to her way of thinking and both parents signed the waiver allowing her to jump.

TRAINING COURSE

Before she could even put on a chute, the enthusiastic Romeo High School senior had to take a regular training course at the center.

She was taught how to fall, roll and take the landing shock. Also she learned how to man-ulate the canopy (chute), how to exit the aircraft and how to operate her jump equipment.

Other phases of training included instruction in emergency procedures and the history of the sport.

Then on Nov. 18, the big moment arrived and Susie made her first jump. It drew warm praise from her jump master, Johnny Stephen of Romeo, who described his pupil as a "natural jumper."

Little wonder that the dimpled Susie made the grade.

She has always been a top athlete in school as well as an outstanding student. In addition, she is president of the student council.

Susie now has made four jumps on a "static line" from a small plane at 2,500 feet altitude. This means her ripcord is attached to the plane and after she jumps her weight pulls the pins releasing the chute.

Then all she has to worry about is falling properly—without twisting and turning — and landing near the target area.

IT'S EASY

Sounds easy, and Susie says it is. Easy, that is, after the first couple of seconds when she loses sight of the plane and no longer realizes she is really falling earthward.

After she has made a minimum of five good jumps with her jump master's assistance, Susie will be on her own and pull her own ripcord.

Her instructor and all those who have watched Susie's progress say she is soon destined to be a competitor to be reckoned with, both in state and national parachute meets.

And if enthusiasm and aptitude have anything to do with it, there is no telling what heights the bubbly brunette teen-ager can reach in her chosen avocation.

Steer Brings $1.50 a Pound

Detroit Show Champ Bought by Caterer

DETROIT — George Good's grand champion steer of the Detroit Junior Livestock Show brought him $1.50 a pound or a total of $1,455 for the 970-pound Aberdeen Angus.

The 18-year-old East Lansing youth's steer was bought yesterday by George Roumell, a Detroit caterer, who announced plans to serve the prize beef at the Detroit Press Club.

The auction price was 50 percent ahead of that brought by the 1961 grand champion steer.

The highest per-pound price was paid for the champion lamb, a 120-pound Hampshire, for which Carl's Chop House of Detroit bid $2.25 a pound, compared with $1.40 paid for last year's winner. The 1962 winning lamb brought $270.

The champion swine, a 230-pound Chester White, was bid in for $1 a pound by Uncle John's Pancake House of Lansing. The 1961 winner brought only 65 cents a pound.

Nonchampions among the 800 animals exhibited generally were auctioned at prices one to two cents above those prevailing at Detroit stockyards yesterday.

The Lapeer County 4-H club is considerably richer today because of the swine auction and the grateful of a one-time member, James Brown, now of Beaver Brook, Mich. Brown bid in the reserve champion hog, paying 45 cents a pound then requested it be auctioned and the proceeds donated to the Lapeer 4-H Club. On the second time around the hog brought 50 cents a pound — five cents more than originally — from a Detroit packer.

Painting Voted Most Popular

ROCHESTER — Visitors to St. Andrews' annual art show have chosen Helen Cartmell's oil painting "The Child" to receive the popularity award, it was announced today.

This is the second award her painting has won in the area this year.

The St. Clair Shores woman received a sterling silver peach bowl for the painting when it was judged most outstanding work in the art exhibit held in conjunction with Romeo's Peach Festival activities in September.

Winners of two other categories have been chosen from works submitted to the St. Andrews' third Art Exhibition and Show, which was staged this week in the church hall.

The religious award was given to Nicholas D'Innocenzo, 6041 Winkler Mill Road, Avon Township, for his cast iron statue of St. Sebastian.

Mrs. Carl J. Oxford Jr., 266 Wimbly St., received the best entry award for her oil painting titled "Lichen." The painting was an abstract of molds.

Cash awards were given to each winner.

Goodfellows to Sell Press to Get Yule Gifts for Needy

Goodfellows of four Oakland County municipalities will step in to the role of newboys this week and end when they sell The Pontiac Press to provide Christmas gifts for the needy.

Members of the Troy fire and police departments will be stationed at junctions throughout the city at 1 p. m. today selling newspapers to drivers and pedestrians alike.

Proceeds will be used to provide Christmas baskets for 150 needy families in the area and to sponsor a children's party at Baker Junior High School Dec. 22.

Members of the Avondale Goodfellows Club are selling the Press today and tomorrow throughout the southwest section of Avon Township.

Made up of the local fire fighters and volunteers, the club will attempt to raise enough funds to provide 54 Christmas baskets and sponsor a Christmas party for underprivileged children Dec. 21.

In Gingerville, members of the Goodfellows Club were to sell papers today in area stores. Last year they profited enough to furnish 16 Christmas baskets to needy families.

They have set the same goal for this year.

No charges have been made against Estes yet, according to Township Clerk Mrs. Artie Gray. However, she said the board has been dissatisfied for some time with the way he has been handling the urban renewal program.

Estes' dismissal is effective today. Jeffrey Teammer, 43, was selected by the board to fill the vacancy created by the ouster. Teammer has served as assistant housing director for the past three months.

Reroute Telegraph Traffic as Firemen Battle Blaze

SOUTHFIELD — Traffic was rerouted for six hours last night and early today on Telegraph Road while firemen battled a blaze in a paint company just south of 10 Mile Road.

No one was injured in the fire, which was reported at 9:20 p. m. by a passing motorist.

However, firemen already hampered by slippery conditions around the United Paint Co., were forced to extend a hose to a hydrant across Telegraph Road.

Police detoured traffic at Nine Mile and 10 Mile roads.

The front roof portion of the $6,000 150-foot concrete block building collapsed. The intense heat caused dozens of paint cans in the rear of the building to explode.

Southfield firemen, assisted by the Franklin Fire Department, managed to save most of the building. Major portions of the damage occurred in a front office section.

Earlier yesterday, flames damaged the home of Robert Minko at 25979 Gleneyrie St. No one was home at the time of the blaze.

Firemen, called to the scene at 4:30 p. m., said the fire burned the basement and kitchen. They said the blaze apparently started in the basement furnace room.

No estimate of damage was available on either fire this morning.

Firemen were investigating the scenes of both blazes today to determine the causes.
