'I've Never Been So Cold in All My Life . . .'

CHARLEVOIX (AP)—". . . I've never been so cold in my life. The ice was forming on my jacket and in my hair . . ."

From his hospital bed last night First Mate Elmer Fleming told how he lived through Tuesday night's sinking of the freighter Carl D. Bradley in Lake Michigan.

The Bradley carried a crew of 35 but only Fleming and another seaman were rescued alive.

From a bed beside Fleming, the only other known survivor Frank Mays, a seaman, said he "never stopped praying."

Fleming, 43, and Mays, 26, spoke in firm, strong voices. They had had a few hours to rest and recuperate from 14½ hours on a raft.

But Fleming and Mays, both of Rogers City, are strong men. Doctors marveled at their condition.

Three times their raft flipped over in the mountainous waves lashed up by the storm that sent their ship to the bottom. Two other men were lost from the raft.

At the hospital the men's wives, Mary Fleming and Marlys Mays, embraced their husbands. Their smiles sparkled from photographers' pictures.

Fleming said the first warning to the men of the Bradley was a heavy thud.

"Then we heard the alarm bells and we looked around and saw the stern sagging. We knew then we were in trouble."

Fleming was in the Bradley's pilot house at the time.

"I knew we were going to sink. While I was watching, about 250 feet of the stern section went right straight down—fast."

On the radiotelephone he sent out a call for help. An instant later the ship rolled and he was flung into the sea.

★ ★ ★

Neither Fleming nor Mays could tell how they came to get on the raft.

"It's strange and funny," Fleming said.

"We were awash. I stepped over the handrail. The heavy superstructure started to turn the ship sideways. When she started to turn, she really went. I was thrown into the water and the raft came up behind me."

Mays recalled he was in the conveyor room when the ship began to break up.

"I'm not sure how I ended up on the raft; all I know is that I did," he said.

Two other sailors made it to the raft. Fleming and Mays called to them and they swam to it. But during the perilous night both were lost.

Mays said he was confident all night they would be rescued at daylight if they could hang on. They lay face down on the raft, clinging to it until a Coast Guard cutter plucked them from the water.

"But I never stopped praying," Mays said.

"Frank will be 27 Monday and we're going to have a big birthday, Thanksgiving and Christmas party all rolled into one," said his wife.

Making plans for the big combination party was Frank's wife, Marlys, 23, who cried, "I'm happy, I'm happy, but I'm sorry so many other wives are so sad" when she learned of her husband's rescue.

Fleming's wife, Mary, 34, could only say "Oh, God" when told of her husband's rescue.

Mrs. Mays is the mother of three children, Michael, 4, Mark 2, and Frank Jr., one month. She is a native of Waterloo, Iowa, and her mother, Mrs. Earl Bush, of Waterloo, was waiting with her when the news of Frank's rescue came.

"I never want him to go back," Mrs. Mays said. "I'll die if he does."

But Mrs. Fleming, whose only child is Douglas, 15, said it was up to her husband to decide whether to return to sea. "It's his life," she said. "His heart is in it. I'll do whatever he wants."

In all, the Bradley's crewmen were fathers of 52 children.

Yesterday wives and children had hope. Today they had none.

None could have survived in

Berlin Tense as Red Envoy Outlines Plans to Adenauer

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

BONN, Germany — Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov told Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today what the Soviet Union intends to do "to realize the liquidation of the occupation status of Berlin."

Neither Smirnov nor the Bonn government disclosed what was said.

Soviet sources in Berlin said East Germany's Communist regime will control the West's land, air and rail routes to the isolated old capital.

In West Berlin, Mayor Willy Brandt told the city's Parliament the Western Allies have promised without reservation to defend the Communist-threatened city. He called on West Berliners to stand fast.

There was no inkling when the Soviet Union might make its move.

The crisis was set boiling 10 days ago by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in a Moscow declaration saying the Soviet Union intended to end the four-power occupation of Berlin.

Smirnov's visit to Adenauer came as a surprise. Some Western diplomats said they thought the move rather weakened the Soviet argument that all Berlin properly belongs to their puppet east German government.

Western officials here had been expecting some kind of formal notice to the Americans, British and French who with the Soviet Union have been occupying Berlin for 13 years.

"The fact that they have gone to the West Germans would seem to weaken their position from a juridical standpoint," one Western diplomat said.

"They seem to be admitting the West Germans have some rights in Berlin."

He pointed out that Khrushchev had said all of Berlin properly belongs to the East Germans.

Bonn and its Western Allies have

NLRB Reopens Kohler Case

Votes 3-2 for Further Hearings on Unfair Labor Practices

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Labor Relations board today reopened the unfair labor practice case involving the Kohler Co. and the United Auto Workers Union.

The NLRB split 3-2 in deciding more evidence should be taken.

First the union and then the company had requested further hearings on the basis of testimony on the Kohler-UAW labor troubles given to the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee last February and March.

Chairman Boyd Leedom and member Stephen Bean dissented from the ruling reopening the case. They said: "This protracted litigation should not be further extended."

But a three-member board majority voted to have NLRB trial examiner George A. Downing hold further hearings in the five-year-old Wisconsin labor dispute. The date will be fixed by the NLRB's Chicago regional office.

★ ★ ★

The majority said the new hearings should be held for introduction of new evidence relative to the issues and to anything developed in the Senate investigation.

The case is one of the longest and most voluminous in NLRB history. There are several rail carloads of exhibits and recorded testimony.

The earlier NLRB hearings lasted more than a year. Downing recommended in October 1957 that the NLRB find the Kohler Co., a plumbing fixture manufacturing firm, guilty of unfair labor practices and require the firm to hire back several score discharged workers.

In the Senate hearings there was testimony the union had engaged in shooting, vandalism and coercion at the plant in Kohler, Wis., near Sheboygan, and the company had spent large sums to check on union officials and on one of the NLRB's own attorneys.

The UAW still is technically on strike against Kohler. But the firm has maintained production with new employes.

Concentrate Hunt on Island

SEARCH POINT—Gull Island is the focal point of the search in northern Lake Michigan for the bodies of seamen drowned in the foundering of the Carl D. Bradley.

Continue Search of Area Where Freighter Sank

18 Bodies Recovered, 15 Other Crewmen Presumed Dead

CHARLEVOIX (AP)—With but the faintest flicker of hope, grim sailors searched in still angry waters among tiny islands at the top of Lake Michigan today for 15 men still missing from a big ship which a howling storm sent to the bottom Tuesday night.

Only two survivors, who rode out a near-freezing 14 hours on a tiny raft, have been found.

They said two who made the raft with them disappeared as mountainous waves flung it topsy turvy at least three times.

Eighteen bodies have been recovered.

The 615-foot Carl D. Bradley, which carried a crew of 35, broke in two and went down off Gull Island, some 45 miles northwest of this Michigan resort.

Some half a dozen uninhabited islands are scattered to the north and east of the scene. Nearby inhabited Beaver Island, largest in Lake Michigan, has found no trace of any shipwreck victims, dead or alive.

The 180-foot coast guard cutters Sundew and Hollyhock bucked 40-mile winds today in pushing to the islands. Three helicopters and two amphibians also were buffeted as they searched from aloft.

Winds ranged up to 70 miles when the Bradley broke up. It was 40 degrees that night; just as cold last night. One survivor said spray snatched violently from wave tops froze in his hair and on his jacket.

Frank Mays and Elmer Fleming were thrown from their small raft three times in the night by the violent waters of northern Lake Michigan and three times they managed to find the raft in the dark, climb aboard and hang on for their lives.

Mays and Fleming, the only known survivors of the giant cargo ship told their stories from their hospital beds here.

CITY HALL IS MORGUE

The two were plucked from the swirling waters by a Coast Guard cutter that recovered eight floating bodies.

The job of trying to identify the bodies went on through the night in this town's little one-story city hall which has been turned into a temporary morgue.

The Bradley carried one raft and two lifeboats. Although there were scattered reports of debris, the two lifeboats were not found in the first day of the search.

There were reports that the 615-foot Bradley split in two after an explosion.

Fleming said he believed there was a slight explosion just as the stern sank.

Norman Hoeft, manager of the Bradley Transportation Lines, said there was nothing on the ship that could cause an explosion big enough to sink it.

The Bradley was carrying about 9,000 tons of water ballast—about two-thirds its payload tonnage capacity enroute to Rogers City, Mich., the home of Mays and Fleming and most crew members, after delivering a load of limestone at Gary, Ind.

Study Group to Seek Supervisors OK

County Home Rule Urged

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

County home-rule government will be recommended to the Oakland County Board of Supervisors next month.

A special committee studying steps to modernize Oakland government today celebrated its first anniversary by voting to recommend to the 82 county supervisors that they "declare its endorsement and support of home rule in principle."

If this approval is given, it will mean that the two largest counties in Michigan — Oakland and Wayne — have gone on record as favoring streamlining county government.

Oakland's government is currently operating under provisions of the original Michigan Constitution of 1908, with many admendments and year-by-year statute changes.

REJECTED 4 TIMES

Voters in Michigan have four times before (1932-36-42-44) rejected the idea of giving counties the same type of home-rule powers which would enable them to establish flexible government structures based on their own county needs. Cities have such home-rule powers.

★ ★ ★

In order to map a joint "we desire home rule for counties" drive in the state, the Oakland Supervisors' Special County Government Study Committee seeks what its Wayne County counterpart gained last week—Wayne supervisors unanimously favored home rule.

The Oakland committee of nine, consisting of four supervisors, two county officials and three citizens-at-large, hopes to aid its campaign by sending copies of a resolution passed today to outstate counties.

The committee resolved to recommend to the Board of Supervisors "endorsement and support of the principle of home rule for counties, to the end that electors of Oakland County may enjoy rights similar to those granted to villages and cities to establish the governmental structure best suited to their needs."

County Man Survives Bout With Giant Bear

Farmington Township machinist Glen Cowell is still shaking today after his close escape from death in the crushing grip of a giant bear on Neebish Island, 20 miles southeast of Sault Ste. Marie.

Cowel, of 28930 Greening, was hunting on the north-end of the island when he saw a growling bear on its hind legs, its teeth bared, not 60 feet away. It was a giant.

★ ★ ★

The bear started for Cowell. He fired, but it kept coming.

He fired again, but still it came on. When he pulled his high-powered rifle's trigger a third time, Cowell said the bear was so close he felt the air fanned as it swung with a paw.

Quickly, Cowell pushed his rifle into the upright bear's ribs and fired again.

It wheeled and came around again. Cowell fired at its head his time. The bullet broke the bear's spine and it fell. He then put a fatal bullet in its head.

★ ★ ★

His battle won, Cowell looked up to see a female bear and a smaller one close by. He'd had enough bear. He took off for camp — fast.

But later the 5-foot-8 Cowell returned to claim the 8-foot bear to which he stood only shoulder high. The animal weighed more than 500 pounds.

Jury to Debate Verdict on Caril

Must Decide if Girl, 15, Shares Starkweather's Guilt in Killing Spree

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The murder trial of killer Charles Starkweather's ex-sweetheart, Caril Ann Fugate, was scheduled to go to a jury today after the court's final instructions.

Seven men and five women will decide whether the 15-year-old brunette shares the guilt which already has brought Starkweather a death sentence.

Caril is charged with aiding and abetting Starkweather, 19, in one of his 11 admitted killings.

County Atty. Elmer Scheele asked a first degree conviction.

"I'm perfectly satisfied to leave the question of the penalty up to you," he declared in his final argument.

Nebraska law prescribes life imprisonment or death in the electric chair for first degree murder. The jury sets the penalty.

"Even a 15-year-old teenager must be made to realize that you can't go on an eight-day murder spree without getting caught and without paying the price," Scheel told jurors.

★ ★ ★

But defense lawyer John A. McArthur contended the state seeks to convict "this little girl" on the unreliable testimony of a maniac.

Starkweather was a principal witness against the girl.

Her Life—a Miracle of Courage

By PETE LOCHBILER

Eleven years ago doctors sadly sent little Janet Peasley, 6, home from Pontiac General Hospital saying it would be a miracle if she lived.

She did.

Today Janet is going home from the same hospital, again, this time after the miracle of motherhood.

Now Mrs. Harold Hancock Jr., 18, Janet was once the sickly child whose inner strength and determination won the hearts and sympathy of thousands.

As she holds four-day-old Julie Ann Hancock in her arms, the pretty blonde mother has accomplished her two biggest ambitions.

★ ★ ★

One was to keep her slim grasp on life. The other was to become a mother. The two ambitions went together.

Cuddling her young daughter, Mrs. Hancock said, "It's the most wonderful thing that ever happened to me — this is what I've always wanted."

Of her childhood bout with near-fatal illness, she said today, "It seems like a long, long time ago. It doesn't seem possible that all that could have happened to me."

The doctors said now Mrs. Hancock was in perfect health to have more babies, and she said she hoped to have three more youngsters in her family.

"Janet was always a determined girl. I guess it was her determination and prayers that pulled her through after doctors had given

Straley 'Status' Report Ordered

Civil Service Group Tells Eastman to Give Details on Police Chief

The Civil Service Commission last night ordered Public Safety Director George D. Eastman to submit a report on the "status" of Police Chief Herbert W. Straley, who was relieved as acting commander of the city police department.

The action followed a short exchange between Straley and Commissioner Theodore Carlson.

Carlson observed that "Eastman's action in stripping the chief of his powers might be considered a demotion."

"I have not been stripped of my powers," the chief said. "I have plenty of duties."

"As chief of police?" Carlson asked.

"Yes," Straley replied.

The chief was relieved of "command and supervisory responsibility" by Eastman Nov. 12 and placed on "special assignment" in the safety director's office.

Eastman has not yet spelled out the precise duties of the chief under the new setup.

Carlson said that in his opinion any transfer involving a major change of duties is a violation of the Civil Service Act unless given prior approval by the Commission.

Eastman, who is currently running the police force, did not attend the meeting. He is appearing as a witness in a New York traffic case.

In other business, the Commission denied the request of former patrolman Gene Felker for reinstatement to the police force.

Cafe Loot Disappoints Burglar in Waterford

A thief breaking and entering a Waterford Township business establishment last night received little compensation for his efforts, according to John Kent, of 65 Linabury St., Pontiac, owner of the building.

Waterford Township police on routine duty discovered a smashed window in the back of Kent's Drive Inn Restaurant, 3590 Elizabeth Lake Rd., at 2 a.m. today.

Checking, they found that several vending machines had been smashed. However, Kent had removed all coins with the exception of three dollars' worth yesterday morning.

Weather Outlook Fairly Cool, Dry Across Nation

By The Associated Press

Fairly cool and dry weather was the outlook for the major part of the nation today.

The precipitation belt was confined mainly to the Pacific Northwest and northern sections.

Much cooler weather swept into the eastern part of the country. Strong winds and showers preceded the cooler air into the Northeast Wednesday but skies cleared and winds diminished during the night. Winds were clocked at 60 m.p.h. at Rochester, N.Y.

★ ★ ★

Florida escaped the cool air and temperatures during the night were in the 60s and 70s. But they were from 10 to 25 degrees lower than Wednesday morning from Georgia and Alabama northward through the Virginias to the lower Great Lakes region and New England. Snow flurries were forecast near Lake Superior and northern Lake Huron.

★ ★ ★

Temperatures climbed into the 80s in parts of the Southeast and far Southwest Wednesday. The 83 degree mark at Wilmington, N.C., was a record for the date.

LIFESAVING RAFT — The raft that carried the two survivors of the Carl D. Bradley to safety is hoisted over the side of the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew.

Route Traffic Tickets to Offense Area JPs

In a "gentlemen's agreement" reached last night, members of the Oakland County Judicial Assn. unanimously agreed to send all traffic tickets to the township justice of the peace where the offense occurred.

The action was taken by the magistrates to prevent law enforcement officials from taking offenders to "favored justices" and to halt "inconveniencing of the public," said James L. Renfrew, Huntington Woods JP and president of the association.

"From now on, we won't handle cases originating in the bailiwicks of other justices," Renfrew said. "And we shall notify the law enforcement agencies of our intentions."

Renfrew admitted that the new plan of the magistrates still has many wrinkles, but he believes they can be worked out.

"It might be inconvenient for the defendant to go where the offense was," he noted.

The agreement on traffic tickets reached by the JPs was one of a set of rules on criminal proceedings adopted by the group.

CIVIL CASE RULES

The magistrates also adopted a set of rules and procedures for civil cases.

The adoption of a uniform set of rules by the county justices marks the first time that such action has been taken by such an organization, according to Renfrew.

He will appoint a committee of three justices to meet with circuit court judges in the near future to review and, if necessary, revise the rules.

The association hopes to have the Oakland circuit bench, exercising supervisory powers over the JPs, make the carrying out of the rules mandatory.

In other business, Renfrew told the magistrates their plan for justice court coordinators in each judicial circuit received a cold shoulder at a recent Executive Board meeting of the Michigan Justices of the Peace Assn.

The board went on record in favor of extending the duties of the office of the state court coordinator to cover justice courts, Renfrew said.

PUSH ADOPTION OF BILL

The state group will push adoption of the bill at the next session of the state legislature.

"They openly said their plan doesn't amount to a hill of beans," Renfrew reported. "It's window-dressing, a bone tossed to appease the public, a fake."

Renfrew said that the Oakland justices will fight for passage of a bill providing for JP coordinators at the circuit court level.

Two Enter Race for Judgeships

Hats Thrown in Ring by Judge Finnegan and James C. Allen

Two more county residents have thrown their hats in the ring for judge positions in the April election.

Latest to circulate petitions are James C. Allen, Southfield city attorney and former mayor of Birmingham, and Maurice E. Finnegan, Pontiac Municipal judge.

Allen, 40, of 1108 Maple Rd., Birmingham, started in 1951 with the Michigan Corporation and Securities Commission and was named commissioner in 1953. He resigned in 1955 to resume his law practice and one year later was elected mayor of Birmingham.

He is a partner in a Detroit law firm and has been a lifelong resident of Oakland County.

The candidate in the April 6 non-partisan judicial election was raised in Birmingham where his father and grandfather served as president or mayor. Allen graduated from the University of Michigan in 1940 and received his law degree from there in 1943. He is married and has two sons and two daughters.

Finnegan said he is currently circulating nominating petitions in a bid to win the recently created fifth circuit judgeship in the county. This position will be voted on in the April 6 election.

A lifelong Pontiac resident, Finnegan, 53, of 38 Delaware Dr., has occupied one of the two municipal judges posts in the city for 15 years.

His term was interrupted during World War II when he served two years in the Army.

The candidate for the non-partisan judgeship served previously as court clerk for four circuit judges in the county, was deputy county clerk, 1932-38, deputy probate register, 1938-40.

He is married and the father of four children.

Smoker-Drinker Carouser Gets 5 Replies to Ad

TOKYO (AP) — This advertisement appeared in the English language newspaper Mainichi:

"Smoking, drinking, carousing, Japanese-speaking Caucasian gentleman wishes to meet smoking, drinking, carousing, Japanese-speaking lady. Object: smoking drinking, carousing."

The advertiser asked anyone interested to send her photo to a box at the paper.

"I would have replied myself but I don't have the necessary qualifications," she added.

Sullenberger Returns to Operating Room

Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger was back in an operating room today, for the first time in more than 10 months.

The Pontiac heart surgeon, suspended from the staffs of Pontiac General and St. Joseph Mercy Hospitals, said he had accepted an invitation to practice surgery at a 50-bed Wayne County hospital.

Dr. Sullenberger, 42, asked that the name of the hospital be withheld. The doctor said he performed two minor operations there today and expects to perform major surgery in the near future.

Suspended from Pontiac General this summer for personal misconduct, Dr. Sullenberger has opened his own clinic at 494 W. Huron St.

Man Escapes Injury When Car Rolls Over

Donald E. Taylor, 29, of 3820 Shoals St., Waterford Township, escaped serious injury last night when his car rolled over at a curve on Hatcher road near Harriet street.

Taylor was taken to St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. He told Waterford Township Police he lost control of his auto at the curve. He was treated for shock and then released.

The Day in Birmingham

Take Steps to Organize Adult Skiing Club Here

BIRMINGHAM — The first step in the formation of a ski club in Birmingham was taken last night at a meeting of a group of local skiers at the Community House.

Robert Girardin, director of the city Board of Recreation, and Henry Gleisner of the Alpine Ski Shop and a professional ski instructor, outlined plans for the group.

Since a 250-member club already has been formed at Birmingham High School, the group being sponsored by the Recreation Board will be made up largely of adults.

According to Girardin, plans include preseason exercises, skiing instruction and trips. These will center around evening runs to nearby slopes and weekend excursions to some of the leading ski centers in the state.

The community slope on Cranbrook road will be used mainly for the youngsters and beginners.

Training and the proper use of equipment for pleasure and safety will be stressed by the club, Girardin said.

The second meeting is scheduled for Dec. 3 at 8 p.m. in the Community House. It is open to all skiers residing in the Birmingham School District.

A sudden wave of malicious destruction of property has Birmingham Police alerted, especially patrolmen on night tours.

Five auto owners reported smashed windows Tuesday night. The vandalism, which has been occurring in parking lots and residential areas, included the slashing of a convertible top last night.

At its weekly meeting tomorrow in the Community House, the Birmingham Senior Men's Club will hear a talk on Thanksgiving by the Rev. Robert W. Gibson, youth minister at the First Presbyterian Church.

F. E. McCleary will monitor a panel discussion on the economic aspects of the United States guided missile program.

Mrs. William E. Beresford

Service for Mrs. William E. (Martha McFarland) Beresford, 79, mother of James A. Beresford who is vice president of Booth Newspapers, Inc., will be at 2 p.m. Friday from her Bloomfield Hills home, 460 Goodhue Rd. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery, Birmingham.

Her body is at the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co., Birmingham.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Beresford leaves another son, Edwin M. of Bloomfield Township; seven grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren.

Janet Wins Again; 'Miracle' Is a Girl

FOUR ILLNESSES

Janet was an only child when she was taken to Pontiac General in February 1947. Doctors said she had an overwhelming combination of illnesses: rheumatic fever, double pneumonia, Bright's disease (kidney infection) and dropsy.

★ ★ ★

The child lay in a hospital bed nine weeks, eight of them in an oxygen tent. During the course of treatment, her heart faltered three times, but physicians were able to keep it going with medication.

"Then the doctors gave up hope," Mrs. Peasley recalled. "They let her come home to die, giving her only six months to live."

The major trouble was that the rheumatic fever had seriously damaged Janet's heart.

When she had entered the hospital, the little girl weighed 42 pounds. By the time she came home, illness had so worn her away that she weighed only 17 pounds, her mother said.

"She was literally skin and bones. You could almost see through her hands."

STORY PUBLICIZED

At this point, news stories had called Janet's plight to national attention. The frail girl and her family received thousands of letters from sympathizers all over the country, Canada and as far away as Great Britain.

Then Janet's will to live began to take hold.

In August of 1947, a little sister was born and Janet took a great interest in her. Too weak to get out of bed, Janet helped name the baby Suzanne, her mother said, and played with the infant on her bed.

Janet spent the next two years in bed, gaining strength. She recuperated from her other illnesses, but her heart condition was permanent.

When she was eight, Janet was strong enough to go back to school, entering the first grade at Beaumont School in Duck Lake Township.

She was able to attend school as regularly as any other normal child, missing classes only because of the usual childhood illnesses, her mother said.

It was at about the age of 13 that Janet formed her second great ambition.

"She made up her mind that, weak heart or no, she was going to get married and become a mother. And when Janet made her mind up, there was no stopping her," Mrs. Peasley observed.

And so it turned out that Janet met her future husband, another Milford High School pupil, on a blind date two summers ago and they were married early this year.

Hancock, an apprentice printer in Royal Oak, knew of his wife's heart condition when he rented a one-story bungalow at 4025 Woodland Dr., Highland Township.

"Janet shouldn't walk up more than a few stairs at a time," her mother explained. "She also has to keep away from hills, and should avoid such things as fast dancing and fast swimming."

Otherwise, the little girl whom nobody expected to live leads a normal life now. She'll be back home with the daughter that nobody would have predicted 11 years ago.

'Slapper' on Probation

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Beatrice Hill was placed on four months probation Wednesday after being convicted in Recorder's (Criminal) Court of slapping the principal of an elementary school which her daughter attended.

Quits Police Force; Better Things to Do

NEW YORK (AP) — John B. Gaul, who inherited a 2½ million dollar fortune, has decided for the second time to doff his patrolman's uniform.

Gaul, 39, resigned from the police force last February to administer the estate of his late uncle, Dr. Julian A. Gaul, of Roxbury, N.Y. The uncle had made Gaul, married and father of two sons, his chief beneficiary.

Later, Gaul applied for reinstatement because litigation over the will had developed. When the will contest was settled last October, Gaul said he was going to stay on the force.

★ ★ ★

However, Gaul disclosed Wednesday he had resigned again, with no plans other than "to live out of town and continue my education."

Wallet and $100 Return After 3 Months in Water

WOONSOCKET, R.I. (AP) — Thomas C. Mee Jr. lost a wallet with $100 from a boat in 40 feet of water off Watch Hill last Aug. 1. Last Sunday, Arthur H. Desureault of Norwich, Conn., was clamming off Barn Island near Stonington, Conn., and found the wallet with the money still intact.

★ ★ ★

Mee said he got his money and wallet back, thanks to Des Sureault.

Bank Robbers' Error Thwarts Holdup Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two men who robbed the Provident Loan Assn. of $500 here made one mistake.

They made Ben. W. Elliott, the appraiser on duty, lie on the floor —right beside an alarm bell.

Elliott nudged it. Two minutes later the robbers, armed with toy pistols, were stopped by a motorcycle policeman.

Albert Prowse, 31, and William O'Malley, 48, were charged with armed robbery.

Election Victors Finance Losers

GOP's Bills Paid, but Dems Over $700,000 in Debt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Party is flush with victory, but in debt to the tune of more than $700,000. Republicans, down in the mouth over their Nov. 4 election drubbings, had all bills paid as of Nov. 1.

At first glance this might indicate that it takes a great deal more money to finance a victorious campaign than a losing one. But the fact is that $600,000 of the Democrats' deficit is a hangover from the 1956 presidential campaign they lost.

The rest is made up of bills incurred since then. One party official said today the national committee still owes sizable printing bills.

What's going to be done about this big debt? For one thing the Democrats may soon be looking for 700 of their better heeled partisans to donate $1,000 each to erase the red ink marks in one big swipe.

Kenneth M. Birkhead, finance director of the Democratic National Committee, told a reporter the idea of a "700 club" probably will be put up to the national committee for approval at its Dec. 6 meeting.

Here's how it would work:

A nationwide committee would be set up probably under the direction of Roger Stevens, New York businessman who is now chairman of the national committee's executive finance committee.

★ ★ ★

State leaders would be appointed to get in touch with the prospective $1,000 contributors in their states. The emphasis probably would be made on those states where the party made its biggest gains in the recent election.

Bible Notes Trade Fair Which Lasted 180 Days

WASHINGTON — Trade fairs, now enjoying huge popularity throughout the world, hark back to ancient days.

There is a Biblical reference in the Book of Esther to a fair lasting 180 days that was conducted in 500 B.C. by Xerxes, King of the Persians, to display the "riches of his kingdom."

Reds Continue Drive to Smear Bulganin

LONDON (AP)—Nikolia Bulganin got another shoving around in Moscow's Pravda today as an alleged member of the "antiparty" group that Soviet Premier Khrushchev ditched from high office last year.

★ ★ ★

Continuing the campaign against Bulganin, a Pravda article broadcast by Moscow radio said the former Soviet premier had attempted to "put the brakes" on Soviet progress.

★ ★ ★

Sources in Moscow reported Wednesday that Bulganin had been dropped from membership in the Communist party's Central Committee, his last important post and from his minor job as head of the regional economic council at Stavropol.

Thief's Jail Sentence Totals More Than Loot

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Roy Jackson, 55, gets more days in jail than he does pennies in his thefts.

He was sentenced to 10 days in the workhouse Wednesday for theft of a 10-cent candy bar.

Last March he drew a 30-day sentence for stealing 20 cents from a news vendor's change box.

Jackson, no home, no occupation, told Judge Louis Comerford he stole the candy because he was hungry.

About three of four American farm homes have radios and sewing machines, according to 1950 census figures.

'The Squeeze Is On' in Packaging Foods

NEW YORK (UPI) — The makers of fold-up metal tubes see the day when they'll be packaging almost every product imaginable, including meat and cheese spreads, butter and sour cream, as well as such standbys as toothpaste.

And, according to the Collapsible Tube Manufacturers Council, the woman of tomorrow will find shopping "easier because vending machines will sell her merchandise in unbreakable tubes at the drop of a coin."

For a picnic, the Council added, you'll be able to pack "a variety of tubed food spreads and some bread and crackers. Fix your snacks as you go along — or, better still, let the kids 'do-it-themselves.'"

A normal dairy calf such as a Holstein, develops from a birth weight of about 91 pounds to an average weight of 1,075 pounds in two years.

Suggestions Still Pay for Kodak Workers

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI) — Back in 1898 a 19-year-old employe was awarded two dollars by the Eastman Kodak Co. for his suggestion about window washing.

In the 60 years since then, the company has adopted nearly a quarter-million employe suggestions.

Award have averaged better than $20 per accepted suggestion and have ranged up to $33,695, one of the largest ever awarded in American industry.

Kodak's suggestion system was one of the first established in the U. S.

An important part of the company's industrial relations program, Kodak officials believe it does much to promote an atmosphere of understanding among the firm's personnel.

Boy, 10, Plays Organ for Catholic Church

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — The substitute organist at St. Matthew's Catholic Church this summer was a bit out of the ordinary. He was 10-year-old Eric Kurzdorfer, who played for three Masses a day, plus novena services, weddings and funerals.

Eric, also a competent classical pianist, got an early start in music. He began taking piano lessons at the age of two and a half under the guidance of his father, himself a church organist.

Rockefeller Nomination as President Doubtful

Some of the political soothsayers are now wondering whether NELSON ROCKEFELLER may not deliberately duck the possibility of becoming GOP presidential nominee in 1960.

★ ★ ★

There are several lines of thought that might substantiate this position. First, Richard Nixon has definitely earned the right to run. He has devoted years and years of service to his party. Rockefeller's record is singularly bare in this respect, mainly because he has never taken any particular interest in politics until of late.

★ ★ ★

Next, ROCKEFELLER would have a much greater background and knowledge of national affairs by 1964 and would be a much better equipped candidate. Further, if the wave of Democratic supremacy of 1958 carries over two years, 1960 may not be such a hot spot for a Republican nominee.

★ ★ ★

This is all idle speculation, but idle speculation eventually crystallizes into definite action.

Here are the thoughts up to now.

Troubles in Argentina Causing Worry Here

In an attempted rescue of his country from insolvency, President FRONDIZI of Argentina negotiated over a period of four months a series of oil contracts with U.S. oil companies. Soviet Russia offered to lend $100 million and $500 million was pledged by Western European businessmen.

★ ★ ★

Last week, however, PERONISTS joined by Communists, who have vested interests in any confusion, caused so much agitation that the President was forced to declare a state of siege and modified martial law. It was reported at the time that Vice President GOMEZ was plotting to take over the government. He has campaigned against private foreign capital being used to develop the country's oil resources.

★ ★ ★

Argentina spends $300 million a year for fuel imports, the government producing less than half what the nation uses. With the promised aid Mr. FRONDIZI hopes to expand the oil industry to a point where Argentina would be self-sufficient in oil and save $300 million, the amount of the country's trade deficit. Under contracts with U.S. industries, American companies would have been permitted to drill for and produce oil which would then be sold to Argentina's government monopoly.

★ ★ ★

The whole trouble started with Mr. Frondizi's intelligent attempts to bring in private capital to build up his country's economy. The opposition charged that the proposed U. S. investment of one billion dollars in the oil industry was an invasion of sovereignty and a giveaway of national resources. The old cries of sellout to Wall Street and Yankee imperialists were used to stir up opposition.

President FRONDIZI wisely has taken a firm stand in this crisis. He has the support of the army and moderate elements. While he has postponed signing of one major oil contract for 30 days, there is no indication that he has voided any contracts or that the U.S. offers have been withdrawn.

Oakland County Enjoys Pleasant Fall Weather

Until the current storm swept the nation, Oakland County has experienced one of the most delightful falls in the memory of man. The weather has been mild and pleasant, plus an exceptionally large number of fine days with a crisp tang in the bright, clear air.

★ ★ ★

Residents have not been slow in taking advantage of the outdoor conditions, either. The countryside has bustled with all manner of activities.

Our summer has ranged slightly below an average year for pleasant days, but the fall has "made up" for any loss. December is rarely a very cold month and we look for many more beautiful days.

We do happen to be shy of rain.

This condition is fairly general in the middle west and our water tables are in need of considerable moisture. The current storm is probably no more than a passing warning that winter lies ahead. We must expect occasional outbursts like this. They aren't important. Rather, rejoice in the splendid season we have been given.

Better Facilities

Working Out to Make This a Top Winter Sports Area

Camera: What some good sports think is a better weapon than a gun.

With the coming of cold weather, the Oakland County ski resort that last winter drew the largest crowds in Michigan is being put in shape to get its snow making machines in operation when the mercury is agreeable.

Improvements at Mount Holly, 17 miles up the Dixie Highway from Pontiac, according to who pioneered its development, include longer slides, better tow facilities and other attractions to please the devotees of this most exhilarating of all winter outdoor sports.

Mort Graddis,

Other ski locations in this area also are making every effort to make our county one of the nation's leaders in this activity.

David Lawrence Says:

Norfolk Vote Will Be Condemned

WASHINGTON — The people of Norfolk, Va., went to the polls this week—and voted overwhelmingly against a petition to reopen the city's high schools on an "integrated" basis.

LAWRENCE

Nearly 60 per cent of those who voted preferred to have the schools stay closed rather than see "integration" introduced.

This was the expression of the people of a supposedly sovereign state. But, unfortunately, what the people in a local community may wish to do about the management of their public schools is no longer their sovereign right.

This has been taken away from them by a decision of the Supreme Court which declares that the states have no right to control their own public schools if the federal courts at any time wish to rule on what is or is not a proper basis for the admission of pupils.

The people of Norfolk are in for some severe condemnation now. They will be called exponents of a "treasonous" spirit—to quote Secretary of Labor Mitchell. They will be called "disciples" of Orval Faubus, though, of course, he is not governor of Virginia but of a state hundreds of miles away.

Time and again it has been said that in America the people may speak freely and that their spokesmen in public office shall not be deprived of the right to express any viewpoint whatsoever. But the secretary of labor said in a public speech on Tuesday of this week:

"I think every man has a right to his own prejudices—certainly we all have them about one thing or another—but no man, in any office or position but especially in an influential position, has a right to inflict his prejudices upon the people at large.

"And to make political capital out of prejudice is to insult the American people. As I have said before, to seek personal gain from other men's distress is treasonous to the spirit in which America was founded.

"But while such men often have the headlines, the others have the history books. In a world that is two-thirds non-white, that is, for the most part, illiterate, hungry and yearning for spiritual sustenance, we can no longer hide our Faubuses."

It has become customary for many of the critics of "segregation" to blame it all on Governor Faubus. It's easier to do that than to face the fact that the people in a secret ballot have several times endorsed their governor's position.

Secretary Mitchell's speech leaves the inference that the people of Arkansas have no minds of their own and that their "prejudices" of today on segregation have been planted recently and solely by the governor. This is an indirect way of deprecating the intelligence of the Arkansas electorate. Perhaps the same now will be said of the Virginia city where, to be sure, the Arkansas governor did no campaigning.

The greatest of the liberals on the Supreme Court—the late Oliver Wendell Holmes—not so many years ago defined "freedom of speech as freedom for the thought we hate."

To say that no candidate or public official can make a speech that "inflicts his prejudices upon the people at large" isn't in accord with definitions of the First Amendment made heretofore.

Even the voicing of "prejudices" in favor of communism and the teaching of the doctrine of revolution by force were upheld recently by the Supreme Court of the United States. It could hardly be that there is one rule for Communists and quite another for the people of Arkansas and Virginia or their respective governors.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Hernia May Be Cured in Four Different Ways

A rupture, breach or hernia is not a tear or wound or puncture in the common sense, but just a bulge or protuberance at some point in the wall of a body cavity, where the normal muscle and fascial layers of the cavity will give enough under pressure from within to permit bulging.

DR. BRADY

In most instances hernia is inguinal, that is, in the groin. The bulging occurs through or close to the natural opening, called inguinal canal, through which the testical has descended, just before birth, from its normal situation before birth (deep in abdomen behind abdominal cavity near primitive kidney) into the scrotal sac.

In women the bulge occurs just below the groin on the thigh through the natural opening that gives passage to the great femoral artery, vein, nerve and lymphatic channels.

Hernia may occur in various other situations, and post-operative hernia occurs wherever the abdominal wall happens to be weakened by faulty repair of the surgical wound.

In all cases, of course, the bulging is covered by skin and the blanket of fatty tissue that lies under the skin, and by more or less fascia or tough fibrous supporting tissue layers, depending on the type of hernia.

Just as post-operative hernia may occur weeks or months after abdominal operation, so traumatic or accidental hernia may occur in any one as a consequence of injury or some sudden violent strain. But in the great majority of cases hernia, whether it first appears in infancy, childhood, youth or adult life, is congenital, that is to say, the individual is born with it or with the type of construction that permits it to occur.

Hernia may be cured in any of four ways.

First, spontaneous cure. This happens in a good many cases in the first months or years of infancy; in only an occasional case in youth or adult life.

Second, cure by proper support—by wearing a truss selected, fitted and periodically adjusted by the physician, not by a salesman, inventor, mechanic or self-styled specialist. This is important, if not essential, for spontaneous cure.

Third, by plastic or reconstructive surgery.

Fourth, by office ambulant injection treatment.

Hum-m-m. Now why did I omit mention of exercise? Well, we'll discuss exercise another day.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Older Women Don't Get Fair Opportunity for Job'

My mother tells me that women over 35 have very little hope of getting substantially paying jobs.

What do they expect women who are widows trying to support a family, feeding, home, schools, clothes, etc., to do? Most of these women aren't really old. In fact, they're probably better workers because they have to work than some young people might be.

Also, what about these women whose husbands work and they don't really need to work but do. Can you honestly say it's fair for someone who really needs to work to suffer?

Junior High Boy Wants to Advance

I know some of my friends here in junior high would like to go to Central High one hour every day to learn auto mechanics. They're very much interested in the work.

Both my friends and I think the school system in Pontiac should let, those who have this ability go and take auto mechanics. These ninth graders should have the opportunity to learn now, and when they get to the 10th grade they can still learn more.

I think these ninth graders in Pontiac junior high schools should have the chance.

We'll 'Glide' to Moscow in Less Than Two Hours

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The whine and roar of the rocket is enormous.

An invisible force presses you back into your seat and you feel your weight has suddenly doubled or tripled.

You are riding a rocket plane that will power you and perhaps 35 other passengers more than 5,000 miles to Moscow in less than two hours.

★ ★ ★

This picture of flight along the fringes of space was reported by Dr. Robert Cornog of Space Technology Laboratories to the meeting of the American Rocket Society.

For five full minutes the battle between rocket and gravity will push you back with an acceleration faster than you've ever felt before.

At the end of five minutes, you'll be hurtling along at about 8,000 miles an hour some 30 miles over the world. The rocket plane has already covered 500 to 1,000 miles.

★ ★ ★

Suddenly the noise is gone, the acceleration slackens. The rocket plane booster breaks away and returns to its base—and now you and your fellow passengers are gliding toward your destination.

The inside of the passenger compartment is less luxurious than the big jet planes that span the globe—but the time you spend flying is small.

Cornog said that such a plane could be commercially in operation in 10 years or so. The passenger fare would be half as much as comparable trips by jet—and would be faster too, he said.

★ ★ ★

In fact, jet passenger planes will be stuck at speeds less than the speed of sound for at least the next 10 years, Cornog said.

The military will probably have passenger and freight type rocket gliders, as well as bombers long before they are commercially practical, he added.

The Air Force has had a program called Dyna-Soar under way for some time. It intends to develop a rocket-propelled ship capable of gliding around the earth.

Because of the stresses of this type of travel, passengers may have to undergo physical examinations to make certain they have no serious heart ailments or other medical problems.

Cornog said the passenger glider would use a rocket engine of less than 50,000 pounds thrust—about a third as powerful as either the Jupiter or Thor 1,500-mile range ballistic missiles.

The passenger ship would be practical only on trips between 3,000 and 6,000 miles, he said. It might cost up to 10 million dollars to develop a flying prototype.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Children Need Diversion on Trips

Going on an auto trip with your children? Then plan your strategy carefully. For war will break out in the back seat after about an hour of steady driving, since kids get restless and pick on each other just as an outlet for excess energy. Use the methods below to keep your war at the "cold" instead of "hot" stage.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE Z-376: Emily T., aged 35, is the mother of four youngsters.

"Dr. Crane, I dread automobile trips," she began, "for the children soon drive their Daddy almost crazy.

DR. CRANE

"They sit in the back seat. And for the first half hour or more they are pretty good. Then they grow jittery. Soon they pick at each other until they are often engaged in open warfare.

"Their father is usually tired, since we seldom make our auto trip till Friday afternoon after the older children are home from school.

★ ★ ★

"And it is 150 miles to their grandparents, so that means several hours on the road.

"What can I do to help keep the youngsters calm?"

AUTO PSYCHOLOGY

Emily, I can certainly sympathize with you and especially with your husband, for I used to drive with five wrangling kids in the back seat.

And despite all the psychology in the world, you can't always stop the feudin' and fightin' that youngsters will develop.

But here are some of the methods by which to distract their attention and also help drain off that surplus energy which I mentioned yesterday.

(1) Keep plenty of chewing gum on hand, for the act of chewing helps dissipate their energy and thus exerts a mild soothing effect, much like that which cigarette smokers obtain. And have sandwiches in the car, too.

(2) Divert their attention by various "detective" games. Divide them into teams. Assign one side of the road to one team and the other to the rival group.

Then have them see which group can observe the most cows or horses, dogs or cats, during a 15 or 20 mile fixed distance. Let Daddy give the signal to start and then call "Stop" after the speedometer indicates the end of the game.

Don't expect kids to stick with any game like this very long. So make frequent shifts.

(3) Stop at least every 75 miles. Let the kids pile out. If they crave a bottle of pop, O.K., but before they drink it, have them engage in some racing.

★ ★ ★

Let them run around the block before they get back in the car, for the act of running drains off more energy than anything else you can prescribe for such a short interval. It's like recess at school.

(4) When they get back in the car, play the "alphabet" game. Let them observe roadside signs and see if they can find all 26 letters to fulfill the alphabet, starting with "a" and then advancing through "b" and "c" till they locate a "z." The "x" and "q" and "z" are often hard to find.

(5) Sing songs aloud. This also drains off energy and helps parents teach their children religious hymns as well as popular tunes like "Little Sandy Sleighfoot."

(6) Keep a supply of good comic books on hand. But ration them! And hold them up till you have exhausted most of your other "ammunition." Then try to get one of the youngsters to read aloud to the younger kids.

(7) Be sure your radio is in good condition and you know where to dial for some thriller diller programs which will keep the youngsters in suspense.

You can originate or adapt many other games for short intervals, such as the "corn" game. Give each child 10 grains. Let him hold from one to five kernels in his closed fist.

★ ★ ★

The others try to guess its contents. The winner gets them. The others pay him the difference.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

YOU NAME IT — Passing pedestrians can exercise their imagination when viewing this steel sculpture in West Berlin. The artist could not think of a name for it.

Midland Artist Hard at Work

'Grandpa Moses' Painting Mural on Garage Doors

MIDLAND (UP)—Harry E. Carter, known to many as "Grandpa Moses" hopes to complete a major landscape here before he takes his talented art to Florida for the winter.

Carter, 74, is painting two huge scenes, one depicting a rural Michigan winter scene, and the other a Florida scene, on the double garage doors at the home of his daughter.

Carter first decided to pursue painting as a hobby four years ago after a visit to New Orleans. There he saw men on the street painting pictures and selling them.

To date, Carter has given four one-man shows in Florida—he and his wife spend their winters there—and won second prize at the Midland County Fair for the first canvas he completed.

Carter tried a commercial art course, but dropped it after deciding he could do better without formal training.

During the first year of his hobby, Carter painted 26 pictures. He now has 100 on display at his home.

A resident of Midland since 1941, Carter is a piano tuner and repairman.

He says he gets a lot of his ideas from Christmas cards, but is quick to add that he never copies what he sees. He generally selects an object from a card and creates a new scene for the surroundings.

"It's never too late for anyone to develop a hobby," says the spry Carter." Anyone can do anything they want to if they really make up their minds. And work at it."

Mideast Oil Output Up

CAIRO — Total crude-oil production in the Middle East amounted to 176,800,000 metric tons in 1957, a 2½ per cent increase over 1956. With the exception of Iraq, whose output was off 30.6 per cent, all Mideastern countries showed a rise in output last year. Iran, with a 36.6 per cent jump, replaced Iraq as the third largest producer in the group.

Hal Boyle Says:

Santa Claus Precipitates Home Crisis

NEW YORK (AP)—We have just survived one of those storms of doubt that shake family life to the roots.

It was a new crisis in an old belief—a crisis for which I was quite unprepared.

I was nodding over one of those inspirational wake-up-and-live books that are so popular nowadays.

★ ★ ★

Without any warning my daughter, Tracy, who is nearly half-past five, looked up from the floor, and asked: "Daddy, do you think there's a Santa Claus?"

"Well, if there isn't," I replied absent-mindedly, "I don't know what the Democrats will do in 1960."

"Well, you know what I hear? I hear there ain't really any Santa Claus at all. It's just your father and mother all the time."

"Where did you hear that?"

"Never mind," said Tracy, leering up craftily. "But the word's going around. All the kids are talking about it."

There was a lengthy silence as my mind churned frantically. Long ago I had clipped out that fine old newspaper editorial, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus," foreseeing that some day it would come handy in just such an emergency. But I couldn't remember where I'd put it.

★ ★ ★

"Well, Daddy, what do you think about Santa Claus?" prodded Tracy. "Tell me truly."

"When I was a little boy we used to hang up our stocking every Christmas eve," I replied evasively. "And we always tried to get the biggest stocking we could find. We hoped Santa Claus would fill it up.

"The next morning, sure enough, it was full of nuts and candy—and right at the bottom of the sock was a great big orange, the best gift of all. People didn't have an orange every day then. What do you think of that?"

"It sounds to me like Santa Claus was pretty hard up in those days," said Tracy in one of the classic understatements of the 20th century.

But she dropped the subject.

The other night whe I came home she climbed up next to me on the sofa. She held a pencil and paper.

★ ★ ★

"Daddy, there are an awful lot of liars in this neighborhood," she said, smoothing out her dress.

"I mean about Santa Claus. They been saying it's just your father and mother. But I went to the department store with Mommy this afternoon. And guess who I saw.

★ ★ ★

"Santa Claus himself! He's even fatter this year. He's even fatter than"—words failed her for a moment—"He's even fatter than you.

I mulled over this insult. Tracy handed me the paper and pencil.

"I want you to help me write a letter to Santa Claus and tell him what I want him to bring me for Christmas."

"Why," I suggested, "don't you go back to the department store, climb up in old Santa's lap, give him a big kiss, and tell him yourself?"

"I'm scared to—after the things I've been saying about him the last two weeks," said Tracy. "I think we'd better deal with him by mail."

Cool Customer's Slick Ways Rob Clerk of $20

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The man flashed a $20 bill and ordered cigars.

Mary Noel, drugstore clerk, gave him the cigars and change. Then he asked for a $10 bill for 10 ones. She gave it to him, but noticed she got only eight singles in return. The man gave her two more $1 bills. Then she handed him another $10.

★ ★ ★

The customer returned the second $10 bill and said he wanted a $20 instead. She hesitated.

"Well," he said, "you have the 10 ones and the $10 bill. I would like a $20 bill for it all."

★ ★ ★

She handed over the $20 bill, she told officers, but "it didn't seem right to me." It wasn't.

She checked the cash register and learned she was out $20.

Not Hard to Take

ITHACA, N. Y. (UPI) — Dairy scientists working on a new maple-flavored ice cream are striving to please everybody. Visitors to the Cornell University laboratory are asked to sample the new ice cream to tell what they think of it.

Lightning takes up to 500 lives a year in the U.S. and destroys property valued at more than $20 million, mostly as a result of fire.

Abundant Oil Shale Located in Colorado

DENVER (UPI) — The U.S. Geological Survey estimates there are one and a half trillion barrels of oil shale in the rocks of a 16,000-square-mile area of northwestern Colorado and adjoining Utah and Wyoming.

Shale is converted into oil suitable for refining into gasoline, heating oil and similar products through a process which involves crushing the rock and tumbling it into a revolving "fireless cooker."

The process is owned by the Oil Shale Corp. and was studied and improved by the University of Denver's Research Institute.

Their Motto: Be Prepared

DALLAS, S. D. (UPI)—Residents here knew winter was on the way when burglars stole two gallons of anti-freeze from a local repair shop.

Within the past 10 years it is estimated that at least 25 per cent of all fires in the U.S. were started by smokers and careless use of matches.

long maintained that West Berlin, although surrounded by East German territory, is within the Western orbit and will remain so until all Germany is reunified through free elections.

* * *

A Western diplomat suggested the Soviet Union was "trying to get the wind up" in this capital. He said the only proper way to respond was with calmness and firmness.

"We will not get out of West Berlin," he said. "The Russians know that."

He said Moscow's tactics about Berlin were similar to those displayed during the Middle East and Far East crisis.

"They try to get everybody excited," he said. "What they would like to hear is a lot of talk about Berlin not being important enough to go to war about."

But, he asserted, the Western powers and West Germany are determined to stand fast and not panic.

The word "blockade" produces great fear in this city of Berlin 110 miles deep in Communist territory, but the greater fear is that the United States might abandon the city.

"We can go through another blockade, but the Americans must not leave," one woman said. "Then we will be swallowed up by the Russians. Then we will all have to flee."

To the average West Berliner the issue comes down to that—Americans or Russians.

There is talk about four-power agreements and their abrogation, the meaning of Potsdam, the rights of occupation, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's speech on Berlin.

All this is summed up by frightened but determined people in two questions: What are the Russians going to do? Will the Americans stand by the city as they promise?

There is no doubt here the Russians are going to do something. There is little doubt of this in the Western capitals. In Washington the only question is how far will Russia go toward the brink of war.

The U.S. top level Security Council was meeting today in Washington to study the situation. The United States, Britain and France were holding consultations in the various western capitals.

They are bound by a NATO resolution of October, 1954, to fight a war if necessary to hold Berlin. Their major worry is that Russian harassment of the city could touch off a war accidentally.

West Berliners feel the pressure against the city is more than a Soviet propaganda campaign and more than a war of nerves. Russia needs West Berlin to further the cause of communism. The West needs the city to block Soviet aims.

Each day there are new threats. Yesterday an East German legal expert raised the threat of East German control of the airlanes used by the Allies to beat the deadly 1948-49 blockade.

Last night East Germany's deputy defense minister warned in a belligerent statement that the West must take no aggressive action against East Germany.

Twice in a television speech he repeated Khrushchev's statement that "if West Germany attacks the German democratic republic, West Germany will not survive the day."

West Berliners are taking the Communist statements at face value. They believe that any day East German police will appear at border highway and rail checkpoints in place of Soviet soldiers and then the showdown will begin.

The East Germans also might appear at Berlin's four-power air safety center to replace Soviet representatives. The center regulates flights into Berlin.

Will the western powers accept the switch? Will they allow East Germans to control Western Allied traffic? The West does not recognize the eastern Communist regime but might deal with the East Germans as "agents" of the Soviet Union. It is doubtful if the East Germans would accept this.

Soon, it is believed here, the Russians again are going to try to drive the western powers out, probably with a blockade. If the West does not back down it could mean war.

Never Been So Cold, Says Ship Survivor

the cold lake this long. Grizzled sea veterans marveled that Elmer Fleming and Frank Mays lasted 14 hours, even if they were luckier than the others and managed to get aboard a raft.

* * *

Residents of Rogers City were numb with grief today when their worst fears were realized — only two of their 25 crewmen were known to have survived the sinking of the Bradley.

* * *

For Rogers City, the sinking of the Bradley was not an individual tragedy, but a community-wide disaster which struck close to home in the heart of everyone in the city.

* * *

Many wives whose husbands were aboard other ships and not in danger comforted those women whose husbands were crewmen on the Bradley.

Farmer Halts Chores to Note 100th Birthday

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Farmer Herschel Sonner has been pretty busy—removing old fruit trees from his orchard and clearing weeds from the sheep pasture.

But he had to take a day off Wednesday to chin with some 30 relatives. It was his 100th birthday, and the family wanted to have a nice party for him. He planned to get right back to his chores.

Limited Capital Service Will Resume Sunday

DETROIT (AP) — Capital Airlines is resuming service out of Detroit Sunday on a reduced basis pending final settlement of its national strike.

The company said it plans to send out 21 of its normal 104 outbound Sunday flights. The schedule is to be increased gradually thereafter.

Study Group to Ask Oakland Home Rule

studying home rule, headed by Frank Andrews (R-Hillman).

Another incentive for its action this morning was a 13-page report prepared for the committee by the Civic Research Inc. of Pontiac. The report urged the group "give serious consideration" to the establishment of home rule government.

Today's unanimously approved resolution was offered by William F. Kalwitz, president of the research corporation and a member of the Oakland study committee from Pontiac.

In an attempt to avoid those pitfalls which defeated the past four tries for home rule legislation, the committee accepted an offer of James Sherry, research associate for the firm, to study the unsuccessful amendments.

One of these weaknesses, the committee agreed, is sure to be the age-old question from voters, "What's wrong with our present government?"

John L. Carey, Springfield Township supervisor and chairman, urged an intensive educational program to answer this question.

He stressed that home rule government "doesn't cost the people any more money."

"It is the answer to every legal problem which confronts us as we have strived to streamline government," he said.

His committee has already brought about the merger of the county clerk and register of deeds office, without any needed change in legislation, and awaits law changes next year to consolidate the Drain Commission office with the Department of Public Works.

The big question, according to Mrs. Hope F. Lewis, committee member from Birmingham, is whether it is easier to provide a more efficent operating county government under the present set-up, or start with a clean slate by creating home rule.

The committee felt Mrs. Lewis' second proposal was the best, and decided to push in this direction as it closed out its eighth meeting since it was formed.

Never before has Oakland County, as a governmental unit, campaigned for home rule.

Members of the committee besides Kalwitz, Carey, and Mrs. Lewis are: Mrs. Ann Rumsey, of Franklin; James Clarkson, of Pontiac; John C. Austin; vice chairman of the Board of Auditors; Elmer Kephart, Bloomfield Hills supervisor; Frank Webber, Addison Township supervisor; and Norman R. Barnard, newly-appointed corporation counsel. Kephart was absent from today's meeting.

The committee voted to make Austin and Barnard advisory and non-voting members because planned re-organization steps might effect their positions.

It's a Cruel World

IPSWICH, England (UPI) — City officials yesterday rejected William Morley's hula age application for a cut in tax rates. Morley complained his home no longer is the "nice and quiet" place it once was because a horde of boys and girls daily hula-hooped it up outside.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) says he's "not a candidate" for the presidential nomination in 1960.

Ionia Father Accused of Mistreating Son

IONIA (AP) — A father is charged with cruelty to his baby son and the mother is to face a similar charge after she has had her new baby.

Dean Clayton, 27, is accused in the alleged mistreatment of baby David, 17 months. State police say the mother, Shirley, 23, who expects another child, will be charged similarly after she has borne the new baby.

Doctors at Ionia Hospital, where David was taken Monday night, said the infant required plastic surgery for facial injuries.

State Police Detective Thomas Krusniak said the Claytons apparently had beaten David numerous times. The mother said David was hurt in a fall from a davenport.

Scientists Give Evidence at Meeting

Cancer Linked to Air Pollution

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two scientists have presented more evidence of a link between dirty air and lung cancer.

Dr. Thomas F. Mancuso, industrial hygiene chief for the Ohio Health Department, called air contamination a "highly probable and important factor" in the higher rate of lung cancer in cities than in rural areas.

He said studies showed a "marked excess" in city lung cancer rates "distinct from smoking patterns" of the victims.

The U. S. Public Health Service last year found heavy cigarette smoking to be one cause of lung cancer. Its chief, Surgeon-General Leroy E. Burney, said there was increasing "circumstantial evidence" that air pollution also is a cause.

Both spoke Tuesday at the National Conference on Air Pollution.

Mancuso, in a speech prepared for delivery to the conference, said statistics show that the urban lung cancer rate "increases by the size of city" even when smoking rates remain the same.

He said lung cancer rates among non-white city residents are higher than among white residents even though the latter smoke much more.

Dr. Paul Kotin, associate professor of pathology at the University of Southern California Medical School, said in another prepared speech that air pollution "must be regarded as one of multiple factors operating in combination to result in lung cancer."

"It is generally accepted that the development of cancer is a stepwise procedure and logically, any one of the causative links in the chain can be supplied from other environmental sources," Kotin said.

In laboratory tests with animals, he said, air pollution "uniquely supplies in and by itself the links necessary for the experimental induction of lung cancer."

Some 800 delegates are attending the conference, called by the Public Health Service to map a long-range program to combat air pollution. The annual cost of unclean air was pegged at $7,500,000,000 by one expert.

Treat Awaits Lads Who Overpaid Debt

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Contractor Nicholas Caricola recently found a bundle of pennies, nickels and dimes in one of his paving rollers, along with a note that said:

★ ★ ★

"Dear Sir, We are sorry about breaking your roller. We didn't mean to but we did. Enclosed is $2.62. If that isn't enough leave us a note telling us how much more you will need. That was all the money we could get.

"P.S. It was an axident and we're sorry."

Caricola said fixing the roller cost $1. He'd like to return the $1.62 overpayment — and buy the boys some hot dogs, candy and ice cream to show how much he appreciates their honesty.

Chestnut Trees Face Extinction

Old American Standby Threatened by Blight, Rapidly Disappearing

WASHINGTON—If there's an old American chestnut tree around the place, treat it kindly. The species seems to be on its way to extinction.

★ ★ ★

The Agriculture Department's Crop Research Division at near-by Beltsville, Maryland, can muster up little optimism about its efforts to save the American chestnut. Crosses between the American species and hardier Chinese chestnuts have not produced a blight-resistant tree.

Both the Crop Research Division and the University of Virginia's Blandy Experimental Farm are experimenting with radioisotopes — a technique of modern science that has produced rust-resistant wheat and oats.

It is too early to tell whether the radiation of chestnut seeds, pollen and the tree itself will develop a stronger strain.

At one time chestnut trees grew thickly all the way from Maine to Mississippi and Louisiana. Chestnuts comprised a fourth of all forest stands in the southern Appalachians.

★ ★ ★

Like the white pine, Castanea dentata was a tree that helped build America. The bark was of invaluable use for tannin, an astringent substance that converts animal skins into leather. The heartwood from tall, straight trunks made superb poles, railroad ties, mine props, piling, fence posts, cordwood and pulpwood. The tree rovided shelter for wildlife, and its burr-enclosed nuts were relished by animals and people.

★ ★ ★

The parasitical fungus may have entered the country on Oriental seedlings. When the blight's nature was recognized, it was too late. The disease surged forth like a tidal wave. In three decades most American chestnutts were dead or dying. The blight wiped out the equivalent of 9,000,000 acres of chestnut trees. The loss in lumber totaled millions of dollars.

A farm worker in the U.S. in 1940 could produce enough food for 11 persons. Today, aided by modern machines, he can work shorter hours and produce enough food for 18 persons.

Man Enjoys Outdoors in Collapsible Trailer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—Nick Sustana tired of pitching tents on his many fishing trips so he built a collapsible 16-foot trailer that features two single and one double bunk, a heater, running water and a four-burner gas stove.

It can carry a 14-foot boat on top. The roof is raised and lowered with trench jacks in about six minutes. Even when it is collapsed it's possible to enter a rear door for a nap.

Plan Advanced to Ease Deficit

Veterans Trust Fund Could Be Used by State, Says MMA Official

LANSING (UPI)—Use of the veterans' trust fund to meet Michigan's cash shortage is recommended by J. H. Creighton, lobbyist for the Michigan Manufacturers' Assn.

★ ★ ★

Creighton, who claimed the state deficit was "actually about twice the officially announced figure" of $21,500,000 in July, said the 50-million-dollar trust fund was taken from the general fund.

"It was not 'veterans' money'; it was gathered from all taxpayers," Creighton said in a letter to association members.

Creighton said Gov. G. Mennen Williams "could, if he would, recommend that the legislature reach out and get 50 million dollars in one fell swoop and to a large degree meet its cash shortage for the balance of this fiscal year."

He said the legislature could make an annual appropriation to meet veterans' needs. He estimated this would amount to about $1,500,000 a year.

14 Enjoy a Day at Races, Dinner to Fulfill Will

★ ★ ★

The strange legacy had its origin in a luncheon "round table" of lawyers that included Mahoney, a bachelor.

This friendship meant so much to the attorney that he bequeathed $100 each to the "round table regulars."

His will also provided a lump sum of $800 which the group was to spend on a "good time." Half of it was for an affair to include "wives and otherwise," $200 for a "lawyer's picnic" and $200 for a stag party.

★ ★ ★

Mahoney's friend spent this $220 on a dinner and an afternoon at the races.

55,000 U.S. Children at School in Europe

KARLSRUHE, Germany (UPI) — More than 55,000 American children — almost as many as go to public school in Cleveland, Ohio — are attending classes run by the U.S. Army in Europe this fall, an increase of 16 per cent over last year. The pupils are dependents of GI's stationed abroad.

The schools, scattered throughout West Germany, France and other countries where American military forces are based, are manned by about 2,100 teachers, of whom 800 are serving abroad for the first time.

About one-fourth of the teachers must be replaced annually, because many take only a one-year leave of absence from their regular schools to go abroad.

Utah's current population has been estimated at 858,000 which represents a gain of about 169,000 persons since the 1950 federal census.

Men's Garden Club Sees Project Through

STAUNTON, Va. (AP) — The Men's Green Thumb Garden Club here is strictly a man's organization. Formed by gardeners with Col. Wilfred Webb of Staunton Military Academy as president, it has branched out.

The men not only grow but cook their vegetables and make their own flower arrangements at dinners which are held monthly. Their wives attend, but only as guests. The club soon will become a member of the Federated Garden Clubs of Staunton and of the state federation.

Mrs. Perkins to Speak

Mrs. George Perkins of Royal Oak will be guest speaker at the pre-Thanksgiving dinner at 6 tonight in Trinity Baptist Church. Sponsoring the banquet is the Mary Morton Chapter of the WCTU. Mrs. Anna Thompson is president of the group.

Less Spending Congress' Aim

Ike, GOP Leaders to Map Legislative Plan for New Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders will meet with President Eisenhower early next month to map next year's legislative program under a White House injunction to hold down spending.

* * *

The President set what appeared to be the administration's guidelines for the incoming Congress at a meeting Wednesday with Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, the House GOP leader.

"The general policy will be to cut down wherever possible," Martin reported afterwards.

* * *

Later, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas told a news conference the new, heavily Democratic Congress will be "prudent and careful of the taxpayers' dollar both at home and abroad."

"In some areas I think there will be an excess of appropriations above what the President asks," Johnson said. "But in a good many areas the appropriations will be less."

* * *

Martin made clear that administration objectives for the two years of the 86th Congress will be to avoid increasing the budget deficit—estimated at more than 12 billion dollars for this fiscal year—and to hold the line on the government's indebtedness.

The White House conference between Eisenhower and GOP congressional leaders is due around Dec. 10. It will deal chiefly with budget problems for the fiscal year starting next July.

Johnson, who met with Eisenhower Tuesday night, said the President has invited Democratic leaders to go over the legislative program with him. No date has been set for this meeting.

For the next two years, Eisenhower must deal with enlarged Democratic majorities in both House and Senate.

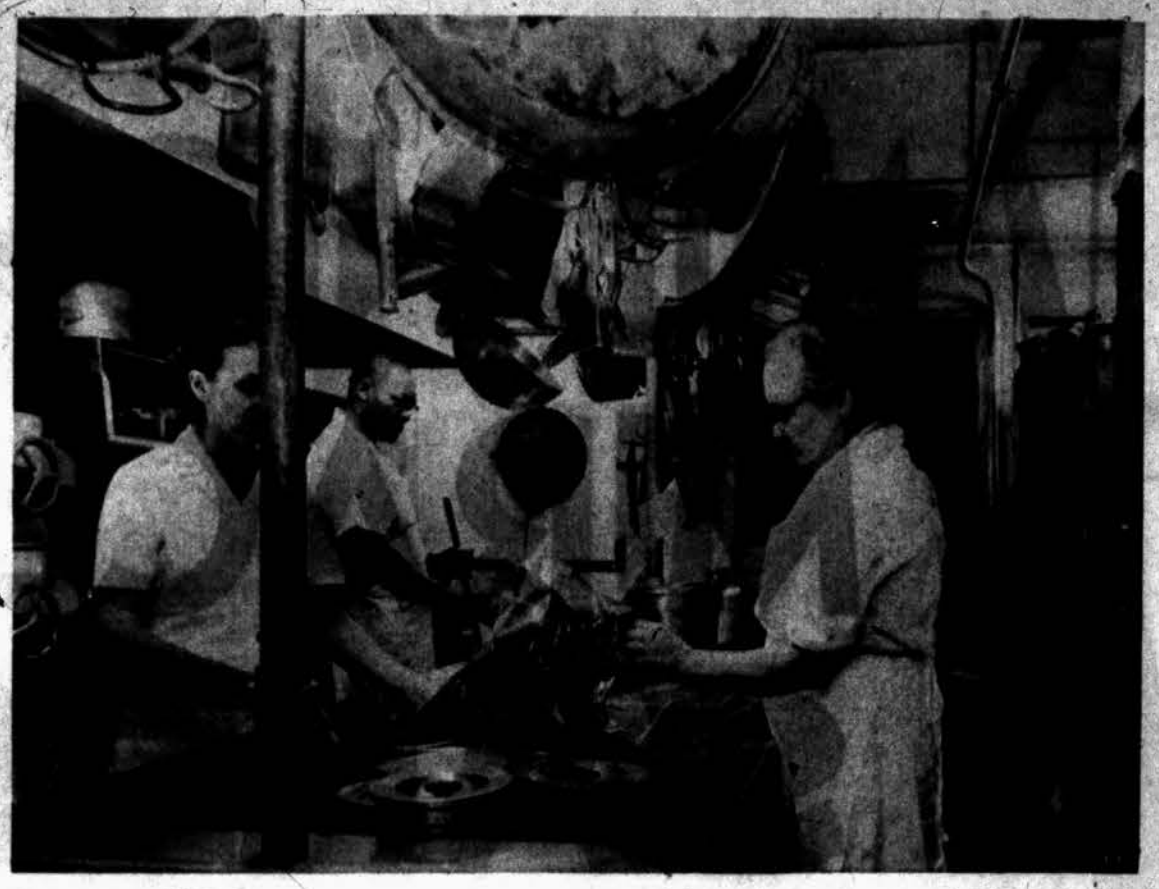

These Democratic gains are expected to be reflected in demands for new social, defense and farm legislation requiring more spending.

Journalism Society Delegates Hopeful

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Delegates attending the 49th national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, opening today, predict an improvement in the nation's economy next year and better days for journalism 10 years from now.

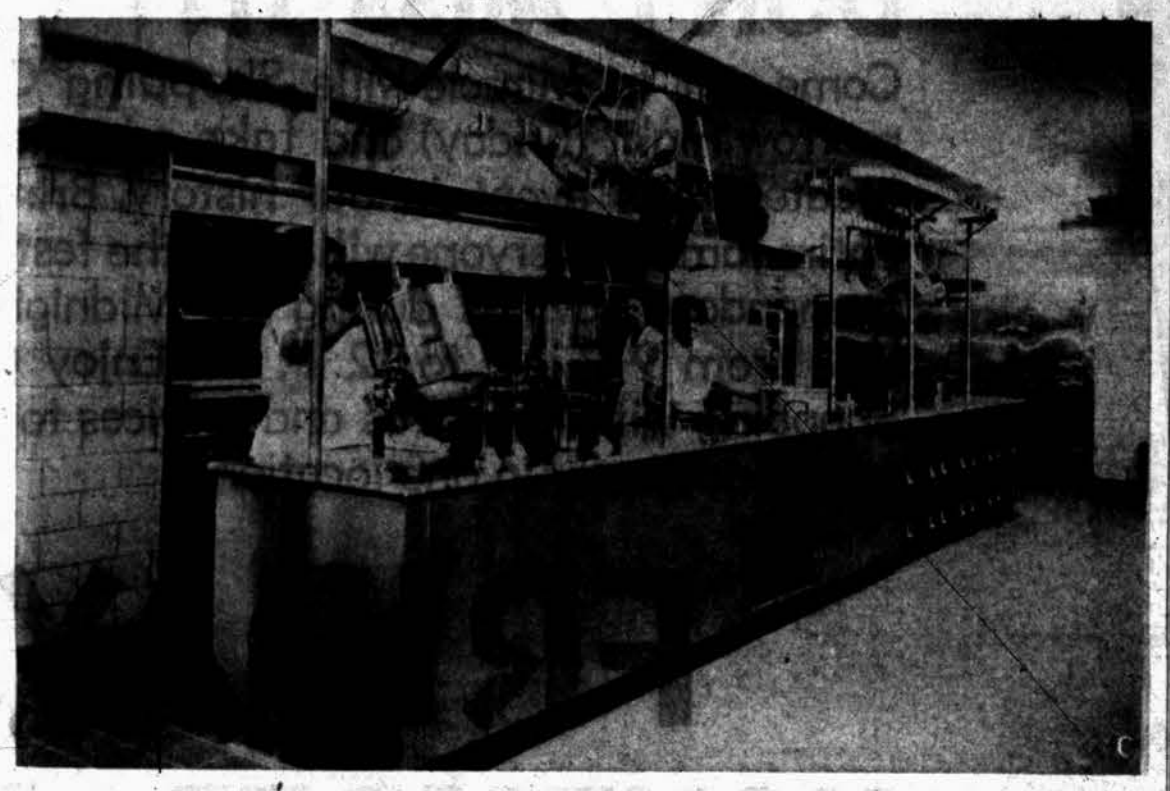

Delegates questioned during an interview on subjects ranging from the recent November elections to secrecy in government, generally agreed that local conditions and good organization won for the Democrats on Nov. 4. They also generally predicted that the nation's economy would continue to improve.

Making the predictions were: George W. Healy Jr., editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune; Robert W. Richards, chief of the San Diego Union's Washington bureau; Neal Van Sooy, editor and publisher of the Carson City (Nev.) Appeal; and William Ewing, managing editor of the CROWDED OLD KITCHEN—In this tiny, 14 by 20 foot kitchen, Pontiac General Hospital cooks used to prepare 1,200 meals a day for patients and employes. It wasn't much bigger than the kitchen in the average home, yet the hospital never missed a meal.

BIG NEW ONE — Now the hospital has opened this new kitchen in the basement of the new addition. More than 10 times as large as the old one, cooks have lots of room and new modern equipment to work with. The resultant efficiency has cut down on labor costs, the hospital said.

Custody Case Judge Visits Young Luft

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Does 10-year-old John Luft want to remain with his father, Sid Luft, or live with his mother, actress Lynn Bari?

That's what Superior Judge Philip Richards wanted to know. So he visited the boy at his school Wednesday. The judge indicated he will take the case under study upon completion of arguments today.

John is the center of a bitter custody fight between Luft and Miss Bari. Luft, now wed to Judy Garland, was given custody of the boy last Sept. 25, on the ground he was being kept in a boarding school and did not have a proper home.

Miss Bari, married to a Beverly Hills psychiatrist, has charged the Luft household is an unfit place to rear a child.

Merchandise Explodes, Owner Is Knocked Out

GREENVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Roy Langley, a soft drink distributor, was knocked unconscious for several minutes when his merchandise exploded.

A case of soda pop fell from a stack and exploded as the bottles hit the floor. Langley was in the line of fire, but escaped with only a knot on his head.

January is normally the highest coal consuming month.

Deaths in Pontiac and Nearby Areas

MRS. WILLIAM BOHLMAN

Service for Mrs. William (Emma) Bohlman, 86, of 3709 Pontiac Lake Rd., Waterford Township will be at 2 p.m. Saturday from the Pursley Funeral Home. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Bohlman died Monday in her home after a brief illness.

MRS. JOSEPH C. EIBEN

Mrs. Joseph C. (Amy E.) Eiben, 73, of 4135 Lyman St., Toledo, Ohio, a native of Pontiac, died there Tuesday in Mercy Hospital. She had been in ill health several years.

Surviving besides her husband are two sons, Leo and Paul Davis, both of Detroit; a daughter, Mrs. Ella Parsels of Onsted; three grandchildren; two brothers, Dr. Harry J. Prall of Lansing and Charles Prall of Pontiac; and two sisters.

Service will be at 10:30 a.m. Friday from the H. H. Birkenkamp Funeral Home in Trilby, Ohio. Her body will then be brought to Roseland Park Cemetery, Royal Oak, for a grave service at 1 p.m.

GURTHIA HAYES

Service for Gurthia Hayes, 54, of 387 California St. will be at 2 p.m. Saturday from Macedonia Baptist Church. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery. Mr. Hayes' body will be at the Frank Carruthers Funeral Home after 7 p.m. Friday.

He was an employe of Pontiac Motor Division and a member of Macedonia Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Elizabeth; and two brothers.

Mr. Hayes died Sunday in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital after an illness of seven months.

JOHN C. H. MAPES

John C. H. Mapes, 58, of 52 Waldo St. died yesterday in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital after an illness of four years.

Mr. Mapes leaves his wife, Florence.

His body is at the Farmer-Snover Funeral Home.

GILBERT T. BENTLEY

ROCHESTER — Service for Gilbert T. Bentley, 50, of 267 E. Hamlin Rd., will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at William R. Potere Funeral Home. Cremation will follow at White Chapel Cemetery.

Mr. Bentley died yesterday at Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit, after an illness of several months.

He was an employe of the Ferry-Morse Oak View Seed Co., Rochester, for 33 years.

Surviving are his wife, Margery; two sons, Donald and Richard, both of Rochester; a daughter, Beatrice at home; his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Watson of Royal Oak; three brothers and two sisters, and one grandchild.

MRS. THOMAS J. COLFORD

WALLED LAKE — Service for Mrs. Thomas J. (Tessie E.) Colford, 72, of Dearborn, a former Walled Lake resident, will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. William's Church. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. The body is at the Richardson-Bird Funeral Home.

Mrs. Colford died Wednesday at Mt. Carmel Hospital, Detroit, following a one-year illness.

Surviving are a son, Thomas J. Jr. of Milford; two daughters, Mrs. Betty Amo and Mrs. Virginia Rowley, both of Detroit; three brothers and eight grandchildren.

ELMER A. LeBLOND

ROCHESTER — Service for Elmer A. LeBlond, 68, of 321 W. Fifth St., will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at William R. Potere Funeral Home, with burial in Mt. Avon Cemetery.

Mr. LeBlond, who was a trustee on the Avon Township Board for the past 12 years, died Tuesday night in his sleep at his home.

He was a member of Rochester Masonic Lodge 5, F&AM, and the Rochester Senior Citizens Club.

Surviving are his wife, Anna; two daughters, Mrs. Leone Matthews of Pontiac and Mrs. Ruth Zoellner of San Ardo, Calif.; three sisters, Mrs. Albert Braga and Mrs. Charles Peters, both of Rochester, and Mrs. Kenneth Nicol of Red Oak, Mich., and four grandchildren.

HENRY WECKEL

OXFORD — Service for Henry Otto Weckel, 58, of 35 E. Oxford St., will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Flumerfelt Funeral Home. Burial will be in East Lawn Cemetery, Lake Orion.

Mr. Weckel died Wednesday following a heart attack. He was a member of Oxford Congregational Church and was employed as custodian of the Oxford State Bank before illness a year ago.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Mabel Weckel of Toledo, Ohio; seven sons, the Rev. Robert Weckel of Cass City, Albert, Henry, Charles and Timothy, all of Oxford, John of Pontiac and Terry of the Navy.

A daughter, Mrs. Mabel Headley of Oxford; two sisters and nine grandchildren also survive.

Deaths Elsewhere

NEW YORK (AP) — Hans Heinrich von Twardowski, 60, actor and coach of many star actors, died Wednesday of a heart attack. Among those whom he tutored in theatrical skills were Marlene Dietrich, Mary Martin and Rita Hayworth.

SAN FROD, Fla. (AP) — Col. Gregory J. Kessenich, 62, inventor of the bazooka which was used to good effect as an easily portable anti-tank weapon in World War II, died Wednesday. He had been chief of the patent section of the Army Ordnance Department in Washington for more than 30 years. He was born in Madison, Wis.

★ ★ ★

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. Awarren Furey, 60, former president of the Radiological Society of North America, died Wednesday, apparently of a heart attack. He was professor of radiology at Stritch School of Medicine, Loyola University of Chicago, and a member of the board of trustees of the American Medical Assn.

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—Dr. Lee M. Eato, 53, chairman of the sections of neurology at the Mayo Clinic, died Tuesday. He was president of the Assn. for Research in Nervous and Mental Diseases and a member of the clinic sttaff since 1938. He was born in Owaneco, Ill.

★ ★ ★

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Fred S. Baldwin, 77, former New York State commissioner of education, died Wednesday. He was prominent in Republican politics.

★ ★ ★

DENVER (AP) — Maj. Gen. Stuart G. Smith, 58, former commander of Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco and and Brooke Army Hospital in San Antonio, Tex., died Wednesday of cancer. He was born in Springfield, Ill.

Famous Chemist Dies in Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Walter Lucius Badger, internationally known chemical engineer, died in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital last night of complications from cancer. He was 72.

Badger, associated with the Dow Chemical Co. of Midland since 1937 and a former University of Michigan faculty member, was noted for developing processes for desalting sea water. He was associated with several foreign firms as well as Dow.

Badger, a native of Minneapolis, was educated at the University of Minnesota. He was on the Michigan faculty from 1912 to 1937.

Says Harriman Lost Back at Convention

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman says the main cause of Gov. Averell Harriman's defeat for re-election was "what happened in Buffalo at the convention."

★ ★ ★

Lehman was visited yesterday at his home by Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Democrat, recently re-elected Michigan governor for an unprecedented sixth term.

Lehman, commenting on the victory of Gov.-elect Nelson A. Rockefeller over Harriman, told Williams:

"I said there were a number of contributing causes in the defeat of Gov. Harriman, but that the main cause was what happened in Buffalo at the convention.

"It gave the Republicans a ready made issue of bossism."

★ ★ ★

Freight Cars Jump Tracks in Colorado

YUMA, Colo. (UPI) — A string of 15 to 20 cars on a Burlington Lines freight train jumped the tracks at this northeastern Colorado community early today.

Leonard Bath, telegraph operator in the Burlington's Denver office, said that no one was reported injured in the crash. Each of the train's crew members was accounted for and safe, Bath said.

"Fifteen to 20 cars jumped the tracks and are on the ground," Bath said. "The derailment tore up all of our communications. We don't know yet how it happened."

Attendants at the Yuma Hospital said they felt a jarring tremor and heard a rumble.

"It made things around here tremble," said a nurse. "At first, we thought someone was going by outside in a lumber wagon."

State Board to Decide if Petitions Illegal

LANSING — (UPI) — The State Board of Canvassers will be asked to determine whether there was any violation of state election laws during the circulation of petitions for Gov. G. Mennen Williams' opponent in the Aug. 5 primary.

State Elections Director Robert M. Montgomery said last summer there was "apparent roundtabling" —or duplicate signing—of petitions for Ironwood broadcaster William Johnson.

Billie M. Farnum, deputy secretary of state, said yesterday results of an investigation into the circulation of petitions will be placed before the board at its next meeting, probably Nov. 28.

Krakow, Lidice Stand as Symbols

Russians Change Names of Ancient Cities

WASHINGTON World War II started in Czechoslovakia and Poland. What has happened since then to these and surrounding lands is graphically illustrated by a new map of the two Iron Curtain countries.

The Soviet Union has swept as much as 300 miles westward, making Lithuania again a part of Russia. Also annexed were chunks of East Prussia and prewar Poland. By bobbing the tail of Czechoslovakia, Russia acquired a short common frontier with Hungary.

* * *

Germany remains divided. But the map reveals how Berlin, no longer joined to the West by a single corridor, stands like an island only 30 miles from the new Polish border. Military traffice still approaches the onetime German capital through the old corridor, but tourists may enter by several other roads. Five high-speed Autobahns converge on the partitioned city.

COMMUNISTS CHANGE NAMES

The switch to Communism is marked by changes in place names. The city of Chemnitz in East Germany is now Karl Marx Stadt. Czechoslovakia's highest mountain, once called Gerlach, now appears as Stalinov Stit a 1949 birthday honor for Josef Stalin.

Regardless of current politics, the landmarks of liberty-loving peoples are recorded. Lidice, the village whose deliberate obliteration b the Nazis aroused the world, stands rebuilt on a new site west of Prague.

The venerable city of Krakow guards the tomb of the Polish patriot, Tadeusz Kosciuszko, who aided young America in the cause of freedom.

Twice in the past four decades world wars have recast the face of central Europe. So strategic is the area that Bismarck once asserted, "Who is master of Bohemia is master of Europe." Present-day Bohemia is a geographic area in southwest Czechoslovakia.

* * *

Mineral deposits spot middle Europe. On the Czech-East German line, the Erz Gebirge literally, "Ore Mountains" have long been worked for silver, tin, zinc, and lead. From the ore of Jachymov, the Curies extracted the world's first radium. Today the region supplies much of the Communist bloc's uranium.

POLAND GOES INDUSTRIAL

The postwar shift of Poland's westerly border placed hundreds of German communities like Stettin and Breslau under Polish domination.

For centuries a granary of central Europe, Poland has undergone an industrial revolution. The acquisition of mines and factories in former German territory triggered a migration from farm to city like that experienced by the United States at the turn of the century.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, when he inspected the ruins of Warsaw as Supreme Commander of the Western Allies, said the Polish capital was "far more tragic than anything I have seen." Now the city has been rebuilt, and Warsaw's famed Stare Miasto ("Old Town") has been painstakingly restored from old plans and paintings. Writers Delia and Ferdinand Kuhn have called it "Williamsburg on the Vistula."

* * *

Dominating modern Warsaw is a 30-story skyscraper the Palace of Culture and Science. It contains 2,300 rooms, three theaters, two motion picture halls, museums, and a swimming pool. The needle-spired structure was erected by 5,000 Russian technicians and workers.

MARRIAGES ON DECLINE—The number of marriages has been on the decline for at least a full year, according to latest figures reported by the U. S. Public Health Service. The 1958 marriage rate is down by 8.8 per cent from last year. Births also continue lower, running at the rate of 24.9 per thousand population as against 26 in 1957. Newschart above compares totals in both categories.

100 Billion Paper Boxes Used in U.S. Annually

DETROIT — About $22,000,000 is spent annually in the United States in designing containers for consumer goods. And more than a hundred billion folding paper boxes are consumed yearly in this country — 2,000 for each family.

The packaging industry, which has an income estimated at 12 to 16 billion dollars a year, is growing much faster than the gross national product.

About six tons of coal are required in the manufacture of one automobile, including all required materials.

Dervishes Not All Whirlers

They Form Large and Complex Group Among Moslem Faithful

WASHINGTON—Mention dervish in the West, and chances are the question of whirling will immediately come up.

But dervishes are not all whirlers. They form a large and complex group of orders among the many sects of the Moslem religion, says the National Geographic Society. Some followers are wanderers, like the Gypsies. Others live in monastic quarters where their faith has been carried on for centuries.

For nearly 500 years Egypt's Bektashi dervishes maintained an establishment atop the Mokattam Hills overlooking Cairo. They moved only recently to a near-by site when the Egyptian government acquired the hilltop land for national purposes.

Dervish beliefs and practices are rooted in the ascetic doctrines of Sufism, a form of Islamic mysticism that developed in the 8th century. Among Sufi leaders were such noted Persian poets as Omar Khayyam, Hafiz, and Jalal-ed-din Rumi.

★ ★ ★

The Qadiri order, which is regarded as the oldest existing dervish organization, was founded in the 12th century by Abd al-Qadir al Jilani of Baghdad. There are innumerable other groups, splinter groups, and branches, each dedicated to the faith and ritual of its founder.

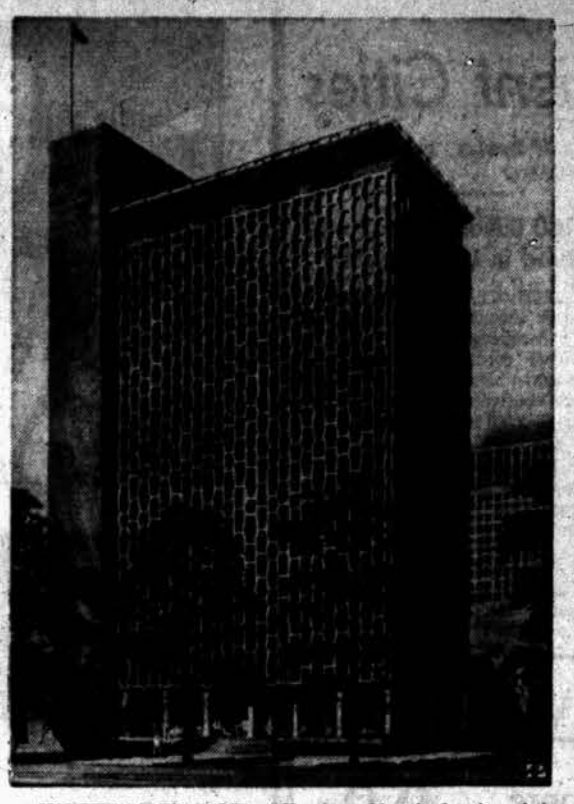

Dervish brotherhoods are scattered throughout the Moslem world, from North Africa deep into Asia and Indonesia. One estimate puts their number at more than 7,000,000, including 3,000 in the United States.

At dervish ceremonies, worshipers repeat mystical phrases and gestures designed to bring them into accord with Allah. Among the whirling and "howling" groups, ritual dancing and chanting grow faster and more intense until participants reach a state of ecstatic frenzy.

★ ★ ★

In demonstration of faith, some performers lick glowing coals and plunge daggers through their shoulders. Even to skeptical Western observers, no bleeding or wounds are apparent.

An average American soldier in World War II was three-quarters of an inch taller than the World War I average, military records indicate.

HONEYCOMBED HOME — Here's architect's drawing of the first and only U. S. Embassy building within the United States. It will house U. S. delegation to the United Nations.

U. S. Plans Fine Structure for Its Delegation to U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The first and only U.S. Embassy office building within the continental United States is going to be built here.

It will be a 12-story, honeycomb-fronted structure costing about four million dollars and will be located directly across the street from the U. N. General Assembly Building.

The ultra-modern structure will house the U. S. mission to the United Nations. Members of the delegation now occupy offices on two floors at swank No. 2 Park Ave.

★ ★ ★

Plans for the building were announced by Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the United Nations. Construction will start Nov. 1, he said, and the new home will be ready for occupancy in the spring of 1960.

The staff of the American mission varies from 165 to as high as 200 when the 81-nation General Assembly is in session. Present headquarters have been regarded as inadequate for some time.

★ ★ ★

The honeycomb appearance stems from a series of hexagonal frames of cast cream-white stone on three sides. These frames form a screen for a glass curtain wall.

The interesting exterior arrangement is designed to provide natural light and control over heat from the sun.

Police Recover Body of Woman in River

BAY CITY (UPI) — State police skin divers recovered the badly decomposed body of a woman from the Saginaw River yesterday in the middle of Bay City.

★ ★ ★

The body, tentatively identified as that of Betty Ruterbusch, 38, Bay City, was found in the back seat of a submerged automobile.

Mrs. Ruterbusch has been missing since July 4th, shortly after being divorced from her husband, Walter.

★ ★ ★

Ruterbusch said he asked police to "check the river" when his former wife first disappeared. Authorities were still investigating.

Identify 16 Dead in Ship Sinking

18 Bodies Include 13 From Rogers City in Lake Disaster

ROGERS CITY (UPI) — Officials of Bradley Transportation Lines early today identified 16 bodies recovered from the Tuesday sinking of the 615-foot cargo ship, the Carl D. Bradley.

A 17th body was on board a boat bound for Milwaukee and identification would not be available before docking, and an 18th body was brought to Charlevoix where positive identification had not been made.

The spokesman identified the 16 as:

Alfred Pilarski, Bernard Scheke, Carl Bartels, Joseph Karewzeck, Raymond Kowelski, Alva Budnick, Alfred Boehmer, William Elliott, Paul Horn, Erhardt Folax, Paul C. Heller, Edward Vallee and Leo Promo Jr., all of Rogers City.

John Zoho, of Clairton, Pa., Cleland Gager and Gary Price, both of Onaway, also were identified.

1st Meat Packer in 1640

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Though the meat packing industry is centered in the Middle West today, it began here in Springfield. William Pynchon, founder of the city, started the natoin's first meat packing plant in the 1640's, sailing his ships down the Connecticut River with supplies of corned beef and salt pork for the West Indies.

Defense Opens Today in Trial of Gregg Dodge

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The defense opens its case today in the intoxication trial of Gregg Sherwood Dodge, showgirl wife of auto heir Horace Dodge II.

Mrs. Dodge, 35, was arrested Aug. 26 in a car driven by Chicago columnist Irv Kupcinet. His drunk driving trial is set for Dec. 10.

★ ★ ★

Prosecution witnesses testified that Mrs. Dodge fought and spit when she was being booked on suspicion of drunkenness. Booking officer Edna Disney said Wednesday that Mrs. Dodge had a staggering gait, mussed clothing and an alcoholic breath.

City Woman Attacked After Opening Door

A 41-year-old Pontiac woman was attacked by an unknown assailant last night after she answered his knock on the door.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Reise Inez, 306 Raeburn Ave., reported that the intruder struck her over the head with a blunt object and fled.

The blow caused a large laceration to the scalp. Mrs. Inez was treated and released at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

She Wasn't Invited

ALTON, Ill (UPI) — City Magistrate Fred J. Schreiber struck a blow for masculine privacy yesterday and fined Clara Jane Larue, 38, $25 on charges of invading the living quarters of a fire hall while intoxicated.

29 Paintings Sold in Record Auction

NEW YORK (AP)—Record auction prices were paid Wednesday night for post-impressionist paintings at the Parke-Bernet Galleries when 29 works went for $1,548,500.

★ ★ ★

Top price of $152,000 was paid for Picasso's "Mother and Child," said to be the highest sum ever paid at public auction for a Picasso.

★ ★ ★

The painting, which cost $45,000 in 1955, was bought from a dealer by Arnold Kirkeby in 1957 for $185,000.

Kirkeby is a hotel executive of New York and California.

Police Say Witness to Murder Is a Dud

DETROIT (AP) — A self-styled Marine judo expert who witnessed the hatchet slaying of a woman in a bus zone here Sunday threw himself for a loss. Police said they had been looking for him since early this month.

★ ★ ★

Antonio F. Ioacovacci was nabbed after detectives saw his name in a newspaper account of the slaying of Mrs. Louise Register by her husband.

Ioacovacci, who told newsmen he was a Marine master sergeant and a judo expert, cut his thumb attempting to disarm the husband.

He was charged with breaking and entering an auto. Police said he is neither a Marine nor a judo expert.

Old Cross Bow Becomes Useful in Atomic Age

MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI)—A research team is using the crossbow, a weapon popular in King Arthur's day, to solve a problem involving the ultra-modern nuclear reactor.

The Stanford Research Institute is trying to determine what would happen in the unlikely event of a reactor explosion. It wants to know the shape of the fragments and what sort of shield would be necessary to contain them.

The cross-bow is being used to check on the behavior of the control rods if they were suddenly ejected from the reactor core. The antique weapon, borrowed from a researcher whose hobby is hunting, hurled scaled-down rods at metal targets.

Gunshots, Heart Attacks Kill 15 Michigan Hunters

By The Associated Press

Michigan's deer hunters roamed the northern woods on the sixth day of the season today with the hunter fatality toll at 15.

Seven hunters have been shot to death accidentally and eight have died of heart attacks.

Colder weather, accompanied by forecasts of snow, descended on the deer country overnight.

The eighth heart attack victim was Francis Beauchamp of Gladstone. Beauchamp died in Delta County.

A hormone spray has been developed to make apples remain on the tree until they are ready for picking.

10-Day Strike Ends at Bohn Aluminum

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers has reached a strike-ending agreement with Bohn Aluminum Co. that uses the annual improvement pay raise as severance pay for laid-off workers.

Otherwise, the agreement, reached yesterday on the 10th day of a strike of 350 employes, is substantially the same as the auto industry's new contract.

★ ★ ★

The UAW did not announce exact particulars on the severance pay plan. However, for the first year of a three-year contract the annual improvement wage increase is to be used to set up a severance fund for workers on extended layoff or others who were dismissed through job eliminations.

Mediators Try to End Strike at Harvester

CHICAGO (AP) — Representatives of the United Auto Workers and International Harvester Co. get together again today in an effort to end a six-day strike of 37,000 workers.

The negotiators met with federal mediators yesterday but no progress was reported and another session was scheduled for today.

The mediators, at yesterday's session, completed a review of the old contract, item by item, to learn the areas of agreement and disagreement.

The strike began Thursday at 15 plants and spread later to five parts depots.

GEORGES NEWPORT

74 NORTH SAGINAW ST.

FRONT ROW SEAT — Though he can't take a trip to the moon in person, Charlie Norris of Cincinnati, Ohio, has the next best thing — an 1,800-power homemade telescope which brings the moon to within an apparent distance of 130 miles from his back yard. Charlie, operator of a TV service, got the bug after the first Sputniks were launched and built the 13-foot reflector for $300 and a year of part-time work. It took him seven months to grind the 12½-inch mirror alone. The result is the most powerful 'scope in the area, one that has attracted even scientists to Charlie's back-yard observatory.

New Jet Airplanes Plan Infra-Red Ovens

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U. S. airlines will enter the jet age with some high-powered culinary achievements.

This is what Pan-American and TWA are planning for their trans-atlantic jets:

— Infra-red ovens capable of cooking 16 steaks in seven minutes.

— A coffee-maker which can brew 200 cups an hour.

In addition, Pan-Am's big Boeing 707's will have individual "no smoking-fasten seat belts" signs in front of each passenger.

And some airlines are planning recorded music, piped into individual speakers.

Of less interest but more importance is an automatic oxygen mask by every seat. The captain pushes a button in the cockpit — and a compartment containing the mask pops out by every seat.

Chief Talks, House Burns

SENECA FALLS, N. Y. (UPI)— Fire caused some $500 damage to a rooming house in Seneca Falls while Fire Chief Fred Fornesi was delivering a speech to the local Kiwanis Club on fire prevention.

Wants to Flog Delinquents

Britain May Resort to Lash

By PETER WEBB
United Press International

LONDON (UPI) — The shadow of Captain Bligh is once more being cast over England by demands for the return of the birch and the cat-o'-nine tails to deal with delinquents—juvenile and otherwise.

Normally warm-hearted Britons, who would flinch at the thought of ill-treating a dog or slapping a mischievous child, are seriously considering whether the nine-thonged lash should be brought back for certain types of criminal offenses.

The reason is Britain's crime rate, which has risen 13 per cent in the past two years. Crime has become particularly prevalent among the zoot-suited youths whose Edwardian style of dress has given them the nick-name of the "Teddy-Boys."

Hardly a day goes by without some newspaper report of an old lady being coshed (blackjacked), a razor fight in the dark purlieus of London's East End, or of someone being slashed across the face with a bicycle chain.

It is these reports, and the statistics which back them, which have made many Britons demand repeal of the 1948 Criminal Justice Act.

Until this act, which abolished flogging and birching except for attacks on prison guards, the laws of England were practically unchanged from the days when Captain Blight strode the decks of the Bounty.

Among the offenses for which flogging could be awarded were failure to support one's family, discharging a firearm at the sovereign, living on the earnings of prostitutes, and being an "incorrigible rogue."

Young boys under 16 could be birched for stealing deer, maliciously damaging property, sending threatening letters and endangering the lives of railway passengers. Birching was also the penalty for having carnal knowledge of a girl under 13.

All this was swept away in 1948 when Parliament decided that the deterrent effects of corporal punishment no longer had any place in the modern treatment of crime.

Now with crime increasing — especially among the young — many Britons are taking another look at the rod and whip.

At this year's Conservative Party conference, angry Tories demanded that both flogging and birching be brought back.

To the bowler-hatted Englishman who remembers the days when "six of the best" from the headmaster's cane were normal punishment for infringement of school rules, the use of "the cat" and the birch does not seem unreasonable for young thugs who slash and maim old women.

British Soldiers Kill Cypriot Rebel Leader

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — British soldiers yesterday killed Kyriaco Matsis, Eoka rebel leader in the Kyrenia district of north Cyprus and one of the top men in the Greek Cypriot underground.

He was trapped by soldiers in a house at Dhikomo. When the soldiers called on him to come out, he shouted back: "I'll come out — firing."

He ordered two Eoka comrades with him to go out and give themselves up. He remained himself, to face death alone. It came when soldiers lobbed in two grenades.

Matsis is believed to have been the chief object of a two-week-old sweep British troops are carrying out in the Kyrenia district.

Wattles is the term applied to the fleshy skin hanging from a turkey's throat.

Russian, Red Chinese Tactics Undergo Savage Change

Reds May Be Returning to Stalinism

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The West is confronted with a savage change in Russian and Red Chinese tactics that looks like a return to Stalinism.

What is happening at Berlin and Quemoy may be only the first in moves which from now on could keep the Western Allies jumpy and off-balance. This would require a long-range Red plan.

Or it may be an effort by the Communist world to regain some of the ground it lost last summer when American troops moved into Lebanon and British troops went into Jordan.

Stalin's policy was to give the West no rest, to keep it off balance, test its willingness to resist, grab what he could. He pressured Turkey and Iran, and Greek Communist guerrillas tried to take over their country's government.

In all three cases the United States resisted and Stalin backed down. He made hay in Czechoslovakia which was too far inside the Iron Curtain to get direct help. The Communists took over from within.

★ ★ ★

In 1948 he tried to force the United States, Britain and France out of their occupation of West Berlin — which is 110 miles inside Red-run East Germany — by completely blockading any overland supplies for West Berlin.

The United States smashed this blockade with its airlift and Stalin gave up on that one. Then, with Russian help, the Korean Communists began their war. The United States had to go to war to block them.

But this proved Stalin's worst blunder. His terror tactics drove the Western countries into active military alliance and stimulated the United States into an arms program that has never ceased.

It was the last thing the Soviets wanted. When Stalin died, the new Soviet boss, Nikita Khrushchev, not only denounced him as a murderer but called a halt to unconcealed terror tactics.

The Soviet Union continued to push, but now it was by persuasion, economic help, peaceful means. Yet the more Russia increased its military power, the more it blustered and became even more overbearing.

★ ★ ★

Then last summer, when the Lebanese government feared overthrow and called for American help, President Eisenhower sent in American troops. At the same time the British went into Jordan to save King Hussein's throne.

★ ★ ★

Suddenly Western troops were in the Middle East, right under Russia's nose. Russia growled but did nothing.

The world got a picture of a tough, determined West and an ineffectual Russia. It was while the American and British troops were still in the Middle East that Khrushchev made a sudden, surprise visit to Peiping.

Almost at once the Red Chinese began their bombardment of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist troops on the offshore island of Quemoy.

The United States was tough. It backed Chiang, refused to force him to retreat from Quemoy which was not actually necessary for defense of his main forces on Formosa. The reason given: It was a matter of principle to refuse to yield under fire.

While the shooting was still going on at Quemoy, Khrushchev made another aggressive thrust. This time he demanded the Western allies get out of Berlin and leave it to the East German Reds.

★ ★ ★

This was a return to Stalin's pressure against Berlin, although it remains to be seen whether the Communists will try the blockade method again. The West has refused to budge.

★ ★ ★

No one can predict whether Khrushchev's beginning at Berlin will develop into crisis or whether, while the fire he lit at Berlin still burns, he'll push somewhere else.

Forced to Share New Home With 1 (or 11) Skunk(s)

GARLAND, Tex. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kirk tread softly around their new home. They're sharing it with a skunk.

The Kirks moved in Saturday. They began to suspect a cat, or something, was scampering in the attic and between the walls.

They asked a plumber working in the neighborhood.

"As a matter of fact," the plumber said, "I saw a skunk around last week—with 10 little ones."

The Kirks had an opening cut into a bathroom wall. That would allow the skunk to get into the bathroom, they figured. They put bread in the bathroom as a lure. Then they fixed a ladder with blobs of liver spaced every few inches, hoping the skunk would eat its way to the top of the ladder and out the bathroom window.

It didn't work.

"I peek under the door occasionally to watch it," Mrs. Kirk said.

"It ate the bread and took the pink tissue into the wall to build a nest."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Kirk says she hopes the report of "10 little ones" is unfounded.

"One," she asserted, "is plenty."

Bank Rate Lowered to 4 Pct. in Britain

LONDON (AP) — Britain today lowered the bank rate to 4 per cent, another ½ per cent notch in the fight to keep money flowing easily.

★ ★ ★

It was the fifth drop in eight months. It will mean still cheaper loans and will speed up the circulation of money in Britain.

The rate set by the Bank of England, is the interest charged on money made available to other financial institutions.

★ ★ ★

The new rate is the lowest in more than three years. The rate was pushed up to 7 per cent in September 1957 when inflationary pressures were at their peak in Britain.

Schools Not Fireproof

DETROIT (AP) — The Citizens Advisory Committee on School Needs says more than 38,000 Detroit elementary school students and 4,000 high school students are housed in schools of non-fire resistant construction, some with unsanitary facilities and inadequate heating. The report made Wednesday, was one in a series by the committee.

206-Pound Pumpkin

ACUSHNET, Mass. (UPI) — Farmer John Tavares' pumpkin harvest this year included a 206-pounder which, it was estimated, could be made into 170 pumpkin pies.

Bob Considine Says:

Inside Story of T-Men Is Real Hair-Raiser

NEW YORK — If robust, racy truth-is-stranger-than-fiction reporting is your dish, latch on to Andrew Tully's "Treasury Agent—The Inside Story."

It covers the colorful and sometimes bloody war between crime and U.S. treasury agents. Simon and Schuster is the publisher. There must be 50 good movie plots between its covers.

Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson gave Tully the run of the house, and out of the files spills a torrent of fascinating tales of sleuthing in the fields of income tax evasion, customs, smuggling, the U.S. currency, and other matters which pertain to T-men.

Tully's cast of characters is ripe, to say the least. He gets off to an astonishing story on how most of Frank Costello's woes date from a check for $5.10 signed by Mrs. Costello.

Before he finishes, with a fascinating account of how a president is protected when he travels, Tully taps the explosive lives of Al Capone, Lepke, Waxey Gordon, Mickey Cohen, Bruno Hauptmann, Murder Inc., Artie Samish, Dave Beck and a host of others. Chapter headings give you some idea of the dash and verve of the writing—for example: "A Bum Named Capone," "Mickey Cohen, Welsher" and "Moonshine and Murder."

The unpeeling of Costello's bewildering financial domain has all the arresting quality of a clinical account of a major operation.

As Tully tells it, the telltale little check snowballed into a chase through a cemetery (where Costello has built himself a $23,000 mausoleum) to a Hot Springs, Ark., motel, in and out of costly hotel suites, around and around the Kefauver committee, and eventually to the pen. All flowed, Tully reasons, from "the trouble that accrues to a man when he brings a woman and a checkbook together."

The government files produced a picture of Capone as grisly as anything we've read in years. The diseased Brooklyn hood who went to Chicago to work as a bus boy and mob man in Big Jim Colisimo's tavern (he later killed Colisimo) became the biggest mobster of them all.

"Al became what might be called a social killer," Tully writes. "His favorite sport was to toss one of his mobsters a big banquet and then, after the guest of honor had said a few works of thanks, to beat the man's brains out with a baseball bat. 'I like to hit people,' he'd tell Frank (The Enforcer) Nitti, and Nitti would grin horribly and pat Al on the back."

Capone went to prison cursing Herbert Hoover.

"Secretary of Treasury Andrew Mellon reminisced in later years about President Hoover's so-called 'Medicine Cabinet,' a little knot of officials who used to toss the medicine ball around with the President every morning." Tully writes:

"Every morning when the exercising started, Mr. Hoover would bring up the subject to Mellon. He's ask him, 'Have you got that fellow Al Capone yet?' And at the end of the session, he'd say, 'Remember now, I want that Capone in jail.'"

The book reveals that six anonymous citizens put up $75,000 to aid the bloodhound work of Elmer L. Irey, chief of Treasury's Intelligence Unit. It took a long time and cost a fortune. But Al went to the can, thanks partly to a remarkably courageous agent named Pat O'Rourke, who took the name of Michael Lepito and actually worked his way into the upper echelon of the Capone mob. (The same Treasury which did Capone in later bought the mugg's armor-plated Cadillac for FDR to use.)

★ ★ ★

Tully brings out a little known fact: "Just before President Eisenhower flew to Augusta, Ga., for a golfing vacation in the fall of 1957, each member of the White House detail of the Secret Service received an important package from Robert I. Bouck, director of the agency's Protective Research Section. It contained pictures and thumbnail biographies of persons in the Augusta area who might try to harm Eisenhower because of his action in enforcing integration in the schools of Little Rock."

More than 200 threats were received by the White House during that school crisis. Each was carefully documented and traced. Nothing happened, of course.

"Most of the writers turned out to be pretty good citizens who were just awfully mad." Bouck says. T-men work with dazzling speed if the threatening letter is sufficiently sinister. New York agent John Hanly needed only 24 hours to track down a man who threatened by typewritten letter (with a spurious signature) to kill President Truman for firing Gen. MacArthur.

(Note to Tully: Now will you pay me back that double sawbuck? B.C.)

Kaiser Grandson Chip Off Block at Age of Six

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser III, 6 years old, is determined not to be balked in his ambition to be an engineer on the Bay Bridge electric trains, abandoned for buses six months ago.

★ ★ ★

Henry J. Kaiser Jr. told the United States Savings and Loan League convention today how his son planned and explained the solution.

"When I grow up I'm going to be a bus driver," announced the youngster, who's a grandson of industrialist Henry J. Kaiser. "Then I'm going to charge the people so much that they'll have to take the buses off and put the trains back on again.

★ ★ ★

"Then I'll be an engineer like I've always wanted to."

"That's really looking ahead," the father said.

Diabetes Deaths Down; Still Ranks 8th on List

CHICAGO — Diabetes mortality reached its peak in this country in 1940, when the death rate hit 26 per 100,000 people. Since then it has dropped—to about 16 per 100,000 in 1957.

Even so, diabetes ranked eighth last year among the leading causes of death and was responsible for an estimated 27,000 deaths, or 2 per cent of all fatalities.

U.S. Reducing Armed Forces

Cut of 71,000 Ordered by Defense Secretary, Draft Call Lighter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration, after postponing action because of two war scares, is beginning an across-the-board cut in military manpower.

Secretary of Defense McElroy announced orders Wednesday for a reduction of some 71,000 in Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps manpower. At the same time, the Army reduced its draft call for January.

The Pentagon plan is to trim the over-all strength of the armed services from 2,596,282 to 2,525,000 by June 30 when the current fiscal year ends.

President Eisenhower first announced plans to reduce military manpower last winter when he sent his 1958-59 budget to Congress. But the cut was postponed because of war scares in the Middle East and the Formosa Strait.

Congress sought to head off the administration's announced plans to trim Army manpower by 30,000 and the Marines by 25,000. Going beyond Eisenhower's budget requests, Congress provided extra funds to keep the Army at 900,000 men and the Marines at 200,000. Those levels weren't made mandatory, however.

Under the cutback program announced by McElroy, the Army faces the biggest cut—31,793 men—in seeking a June strength goal of 870,000.

The Marines, with an estimated strength of 189,361, will have to drop about 14,000 men. The Navy must cut back by about 11,000 to reach a 630,000 leve. The Air Force, now estimated at 863,000 men, must reduce by about 13,800.

The Army cut its January draft call to 9,000 men. That is 2,000 below the number it has called up the last several months.

Robert Scott's Lawsuit Faces Legal Roadblock

A legal roadblock might be ahead for former Pontiac labor official Robert P. Scott's $150,000 lawsuit with which he hopes to win reinstatement with the International Barbers' Union, AFL-CIO.

Oakland County Circuit Judges Frank L. Doty and Clark J. Adams, sitting jointly yesterday, asked attorneys for Scott and the union to file written briefs on how the international, with headquarters in Indiana, can be sued in a Michigan court.

This is somewhat similar to the $5 million suit against Robert F. Kennedy, in which a U.S. District judge in Detroit said the chief counsel of the Senate Rackets committee cannot be sued in Michigan by Teamster Union official William E. Bufalino unless service of the suit is made in the state.

Both Oakland judges requested the briefs to see what law attorneys Gene Schnelz and Boaz Siegel could dig up to show how, and through whom, an international union can be given notice of a pending law suit.

Scott, 52, of 4390 Monroe St., Waterford Township, sued the international union, its Detroit Local 552, and four union officers Aug. 1. He charges he was expelled unconstitutionally for what the union termed "dual unionism."

The barbers' union objected to his membership in the rival state Barbers' Assn., an employers group. Scott, a member of the Michigan Board of Examiners of Barbers, said he was expelled from the international and Local 552 contrary to the provisions of the organizations' charters.

★ ★ ★

Scott, a Democratic candidate for state representative in the primary, said he joined the association, made up largely of central Michigan barbers, because he was "interested in the cause of the barbering business." He said he dropped out of it in 1946.

Further, Scott, once vice president of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614, says his dismissal was "Teamster-inspired" because he testified before Kennedy's committee against James R. Hoffa, Teamsters boss.

Siegel, Detroit attorney for Local 552 and its secretary-treasurer Elmer Albrecht and business agent Arthur Borowski, said that Albrecht is not a representative of the international and therefore service of lawsuit papers to him is legally invalid. For this reason, Boaz argues the international must be dropped as a defendant.

Scott's attorney, Schnelz, of Walled Lake, said his delivery of papers to Albrecht, of Detroit, was and is valid and that the case should be heard here.

He and Siegel said they would submit their briefs in about two weeks. It is expected all four Oakland judges will rule on the suit because of its legal complexity.

Fire Turns In Alarm, Fourteen Escape Injury

DETROIT (AP) — A fire turned in its own alarm here today. And as a result, police said, 14 persons escaped harm.

The blaze started at 4:30 a.m. in the basement of an east side bar and it set off a burglar alarm that brought four policemen running.

The police broke into the building and led out 14 who were asleep in second floor apartments. Owners of the bar estimated their damages at $25,000.

Federal Court Starts Study of Virginia School Closure

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A special Federal Court has begun its study to determine whether Virginia's school closure law is constitutional.

The three-judge court heard four hours of testimony Wednesday, then adjourned without a ruling. It asked for additional briefs by Dec. 5.

★ ★ ★

A new attack on the state's massive resistance to integration legislation—this one brought as a test case by the state itself—will begin Monday before the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals. No decision is expected before early December.

Two school officials and a veteran teacher told the federal court Wednesday that unless six Norfolk white schools closed under the closure law are reopened soon, the city's public school system will suffer disastrous effects.

Virginia Atty. Gen. Albertis S. Harrison, who with Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr., the Norfolk School Board and its superintendent, is a defendant in the suit, said closing of the schools is a valid exercise of the police power of the state and asked for dismissal of the case.

★ ★ ★

Virginia is not trying to destroy public education, he said, but is trying to prevent trouble by removing integrated schools from the public school system so the governor can investigate to determine whether they can be returned to the system.

★ ★ ★

J. J. Brewbaker, school superintendent, said "it is very tragic" for the locked out students. He said they will have trouble gaining entrance to college and their future job opportunities will be adversely affected.

E. L. Lamberth, assistant superintendent, said nearly 3,000 of the 10,000 pupils shut out of the six schools are without any kind of instruction. The remainder have transferred to other schools or are enrolled in private tutoring groups, he said.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Mary D. Johnson, a Norfolk school teacher for 35 years said the pupils are experiencing "a great deal of insecurity" because of the closed schools.

The suit was brought by a group of Norfolk white parents who contend the closure law is unconstitutional and seek reopening of the schools.

GOP Senator Wants Elections Held Sundays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Langer (R-ND) wants national elections held on Sundays in hopes more people will vote.

Langer said today European nations get a better voter turnout with Sunday balloting than the United States does on Tuesdays.

Langer said he will introduce a bill in January to provide that presidential and congressional elections be held on the first Sunday in November.

Tom Must Let Luis Continue Swishy Tango

NEW YORK (AP) — Two or 200 persons may tango over Leon Tom's head, but they'd better swish, not stomp.

That's the implication of a court ruling Wednesday. The effect on Tom, a dealer in diamonds, is apt to be countless sleepless nights.

Tom lives beneath a dance studio where Robert Luis, 54-year-old master of the tango, the cha-cha and the calypso, presides.

★ ★ ★

Many times in the past 3½ years, Tom has complained to police of noise-shattering nights in which he had to flee to his office to escape Luis' heavy-footed students.

Two convictions failed to deter Luis from his art. The usual charge brought him before Magistrate Walter J. Bayer Wednesday.

Luis cut a dapper figure in a black silk suit, a handsome white shirt and a tasteful dark tie. He also wore light blue sneakers.

Luis said he always wears sneakers, except when instructing. Then he wears thin-soled slippers.

The instructor said that, as he interprets the dance, he teaches his pupils to glide, to swish, but never to stomp.

Luis and Eileen Engleman of Linden, N.J., a student for three years, twirled, swirled and rocked before the judge. They didn't stamp their feet. There was no noise.

★ ★ ★

Then Alice Lacour, a blonde pupil, took the stand.

Asked if she should be called Miss or Mrs., she said, "Just call me Alice."

"It was a silent studio," she told the judge "and very refined."

"The court holds there is reasonable doubt," Bayer said. "Therefore, I find the defendant not guilty and the charge is dismissed."

Zoo Has One Less Big Mouth to Feed

NEW YORK (AP)—Soon there will be one less huge mouth to feed at the Bronx Zoo. Bertie, a 2-year-old, 1,200 pound hippopotamus, is heading west.

His parents, Falstaff and Rose II, are all the hippos the zoo can handle. So, New York City put Bertie on the block.

The top bid, $2,450 or about $2 a pound, came from Arthur E. Johnson, chairman of the board of the Argo Oil Corp. of Denver. He has ticketed Bertie for the Denver Zoo.

Lump Sum Paid at Death

By RAY HENRY
AP Press Writer

When someone dies in your family, you should always check with the Social Security Administration to see if a lump sum death payment is due.

Even though the deceased person has only worked in a job covered by the Social Security system a few years his survivors may be entitled to the lump sum.

★ ★ ★

The payment will be paid if the deceased person:

1. Had worked under Social Security for a least 18 of the last 36 months before his death, or

2. Had worked a total of between 1½ and 10 years under Social Security, or (The exact amount of time required depends on the age of the deceased and the date of his death.)

3. Was receiving Social Security payments when he died based on his own Social Security record.

The size of the payment can range from $99 to $255.

Except for persons already receiving Social Security payments, the exact amount of the lump sum is never known until death occurs.

The formula used in figuring the payments is: Three times the monthly payments the deceased person would have received had he lived to collect retirement payments or was receiving when he died. The maximum, however, is $255.

The lump sum is separate from, and in addition to, any other benefits to which members of the deceased worker's family may be entitled.

For example: It would be in addition to monthly payments to a person's surviving wife or husband or children.

★ ★ ★

The payment may be made to:

—The surviving widow or widower if he or she was living in the same household when the deceased died or paid the funeral expenses of the deceased, or —Anyone else who paid the funeral expense if there is no such surviving widow or widower.

But, like all Social Security payments, the lump sum payment must be applied for at the nearest Social Security office.

★ ★ ★

The payment must be applied for, in almost every case, by the person eligible to receive it.

Now comes the question: Suppose the surviving widow didn't pay the funeral expenses. Some one else paid them. What happens to the lump sum payment?

The payment always goes to the surviving wife or husband no matter who paid the funeral expenses as long as he or she was living with the deceased when he died.

For example: Stacy Jones dies. His brother pays for the funeral. His wife can still go to the Social Security office, claim and get the lump sum if she was living with Jones when he died. If Jones' brother wants to be reimbursed for the expense, it's a problem between him and Mrs. Jones.

But, suppose Tom Johnson died. He leaves no widow. His wife died some years ago. But, he does leave several children and aged parents. Can't any of them claim the lump sum payment as next-of-kin?

No. Only the person who in this case pays the funeral expenses can make the claim and get the money.

'CHILDREN'S STORYLAND' — Lafayette, Robin Hood and many of the other fabled heroes of the past are coming to life this week in the minds of elementary school pupils in the Bloomfield Hills School District. The center of attraction is at the Vaughn School, where a junior library book exhibit has been set up for this week through Tuesday. Here, fifth-graders Bill Shaul, Fritz Dumville and Judy MacKay are being introduced to some of the children's classics by Mrs. Hazel MacGirr (left), principal, and Librarian Mrs. Mary Kieffer.

Eight-Mile Drain Opposed by Southfield Council

SOUTHFIELD — The Southfield City Council last night voted 6 to 1 not to pledge its financial backing should residents of the city fail to pay their share of the $4,760,000 Eight Mile Road Drain.

Oakland County had asked the city to pledge its full faith and credit behind the storm sewer project by picking up any default payments of citizens in a drainage district which will be assessed $3,739,327, the largest share of the project.

Councilmen, all except Council President John J. Hollywood, who voted in favor of signing the agreement with the county, objected to what they called "out of line apportionment" of costs.

This was the same feeling of Southfield supervisors C. Hugh Dohany and Emanuel Christensen at the last meeting of the Board of Supervisors when they voted against the county pledging its full faith and credit.

Dohany said the city opposed the financing arrangement, not the project itself, which he said, placed the heaviest burden on citizen taxpayers while commercial and industrial firms such as Northland Shopping Center which are expected to pay less, will derive the greatest benefit from the sewer.

Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry said today he didn't expect action by the Southfield Council to effect the project. "We already have the full faith and credit of the county," he said. This was pledged Nov. 10.

Objections also were voiced at last night's special meeting that the city's millage limitation would not make it possible for the city to pledge its financial backing. This would be unfair to residents outside the drainage district to tie up city monies during the 30-year bond period, it was stated by several.

Further, the city would be reimbursed if it had to pick up the tab for any default assessments, but without interest.

No stand was taken by the Council on the city-at-large share, $439,409, of the project. It was assumed, since most councilmen stressed the need for the east-west sewer, that this would be paid.

★ ★ ★

Also sharing in the cost of the project is the city of Oak Park and residents of that city falling in a drainage district, the county-at-large, and the Michigan Highway Dept.

Land Firm Announces Plans

Push Troy Shopping Area

TROY—After a two-year wait, it appears the city of Troy will get its shopping center at the corner of Maple and Livernois roads.

★ ★ ★

City Manager C. Randolph Lukens said this morning that the Tracy Land Corp. of Detroit has announced plans to develop the first 30 acres of a 70-acre site purchased from the Most family, pioneer Troy farmers.

Ten stores, including a department store and a large bowling alley, are earmarked for the center in preliminary plans of the more than $5 million development.

A company spokesman has said the firm hopes to start work next spring.

The Tracy company, which purchased the property for $300,000 after winning a lawsuit in Oakland County circuit court, has asked the Troy Zoning Commission to rezone the entire parcel to permit the shopping center.

Murder Warrant Might Be Issued

Man Admits Stabbing Woman, Royal Oak Township Police Say

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP — Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor Paul M. Mandel said today a first-degree murder warrant might be issued against Luther J. Green, who yesterday, according to police, admitted the fatal stabbing of a 33-year-old Royal Oak Township woman.

Mandel said witnesses told him they heard Green, 28, of 20815 Woodside St., threaten to kill Mrs. Ann Mosley, of the same address, following a quarrel with the woman.

Green carried a six-inch hunting knife, Mandel said these witnesses told him, to the home of Mrs. Mosley's sister, Mrs. Mattie Hill, 21376 Reimanville St., early Wednesday morning when Mrs. Mosley was stabbed several times in the abdomen. The woman was dead on arrival at William Beaumont Hospital.

An hour later Green strolled into the township police station and gave himself up and admitted the stabbing, police said.

★ ★ ★

Police said Green had been living at the home of the slain woman.

UAW Workers Not Expected to Get Refund

DETROIT (AP)—The chances are slim for any refunds to United Auto Workers Union members from their $5-a-month special strike assessments earlier this year.

About 300,000 UAW members were assessed in March, April and May for a strike fund for the auto industry negotiations. Each local was to receive a pro-rated share above 25 million dollars in the fund.

However, Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, said yesterday that while the fund had an Oct. 31 balance of $28,288,905 disbursements in November are expected to cut it below 25 million dollars.

Mazey said there appeared "no possibility" of a refund but that the UAW executive board would make the final decision in January.

Area Publisher Dies at Age 49

Heart Attack Claims Owner of South Lyon Weekly Paper

SOUTH LYON — Frank L. Freimund, publisher of the South Lyon Herald, died yesterday afternoon at University Hospital, Ann Arbor. He was 49.

Mr. Freimund had suffered a mild heart attack Monday afternoon at his home, 113 Liberty St.

He purchased the weekly newspaper in May 1956, after having been the paper's plant superintendent since coming here from Stevens Point, Wis., in 1945.

Mr. Freimund had been an elder of the First Presbyterian Church in South Lyon, a member of the city's Masonic Lodge, Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis Club.

Surviving are his wife, Erna; a son, Frank Jr. at home; two daughters, Karen, who is attending Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind., and Mrs. Marilyn Donovan of Livonia. He also leaves his mother and three grandchildren.

His body is at Phillips Funeral Home, South Lyon.

Teamster Morroso Faces New Charges

DETROIT (AP) — Samuel J. Morroso, former Teamsters Union business agent, is accused of violating his probation for income tax violation by falsifying further income.

Morroso has been on two years' probation for being about $2,500 short on his income tax for 1950-52.

In U. S. District Court yesterday, the federal probation office charged Morroso made false entries about income of $15,200 during his probation period.

He also was charged with probation violation for keeping company with persons with criminal records and refusing to answer questions of the Senate Rackets Committee.

A hearing on the charges was set for Dec. 5 by Judge Thomas P. Thornton.

Hold Party at Milford High School

They'll All Be the Same

MILFORD — There will be no distinction between freshmen, sophomores, juniors or seniors at tomorrow night's all-school party at Milford High school.

Besides square and modern dancing in the new school's cafeteria, there will be table tennis, checker and pinochle tournaments and physical games in the gymnasium.

At 11 a.m. there will be time-out for a gigantic pizza party, where "all-you-can-eat" will be the order of the night.

Sponsored by the Milford Student Council, the party will be free to all 750 pupils of the school.

Last year's snow party at Kensington Park was such a success that two more have been scheduled for this year, according to Principal Gerald Rasmussen.

Clinic for Polio Shots to Be Held in Keego

KEEGO HARBOR — A polio shot clinic will be held from 6:30 — 8:30 p.m. Nov. 25 and 26 in the gymnasium of Roosevelt School in Keego Harbor, Mrs. Phyllis Anding, health chairman of the West Bloomfield Township School District, announced.

Sponsored under the auspices of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the clinic will be open to adults and children of the Pontiac area. A doctor will be in attendance and a $1 fee will be charged for each shot, Mrs. Anding said.

The group will sponsor its next clinic in about seven months, she said.

BETTY LOU MURRAY

Mr. and Mrs. Truman B. Murray of Indianwood road, Lake Orion, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Betty Lou, to Marine Pvt. James E. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Smith of Indianside drive, Lake Orion. The wedding date hasn't been set.

Williams Raps Ike on School Integration

NEW YORK (AP) — Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams says violence and trouble over integrating southern schools could have been avoided if President Eisenhower had shown leadership.

Williams declared yesterday Eisenhower should have called together leaders of Negroes and whites, and rich and poor to effectuate the law of the land. Given leadership, the people would have worked out the way to obey the law."

Williams visited Mayor Robert F. Wagner in City Hall and then chatted with reporters on a variety of city, state and national problems.

Williams was asked if he knew any likely choices for Democratic president candidates. The governor, re-elected Nov. 4 to a sixth term, replied:

"The people indicated in the last election that they are looking for an aggressive and liberal candidate to meet the problems head-on and get some solutions to the domestic problem and keep peace and friendly relations with our friends and neighbors overseas."

League Dinner Tonight

The Urban League Guild is holding a potluck dinner this evening at the Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan auditorium, with proceeds going to a scholarship fund. Mrs. Philip A. Hart will be the guest of honor.

Special Education Panel Slated for Romeo Club

ROMEO — A panel discussion of services of special education will highlight tonight's meeting of the Elementary Schools Club of Romeo at the South Grade School.

A refreshment period and social hour will open the evening's activities at 7 p.m. The discussion will follow at 8.

Books and art supplies sale will be conducted throughout the evening.

Cows that have free access to water during the day produce 2.8 to 4 per cent more milk than those which are watered only twice a day according to recent production testing.

Teamster Squirms and Yawns

Dave Beck Restless at Trial

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Dave Beck Sr. presented a restless picture Wednesday as government attorneys wound their way through a maze of documents in further attempts to prove the former Teamsters' Union president evaded payment of $240,000 in income taxes for 1950-53.

Beck, 64, squirmed and suppressed yawns. By the noon recess he made no effort to conceal his restlessness.

Testimony concerned a number of Beck's personal bills, ranging from $18.50 for gardening work to $27,000 for landscaping the grounds of Beck's Seattle home.

The government is meticulously threading its case, trying to prove to the jury of eight men and four women that Beck's returns for the three-year period did not reflect his true income.

U.S. Atty. Kinsey James showed documents which indicated $4,751 was channeled from the union into an investment firm of Beck's.

James then showed that a like sum was transferred from the investment company to a Seattle nursery as part payment on the landscaping bill.

The trial moved into its 10th day today. Court observers say it might last three months.

Invent Money-Saving Process

2 Steelworkers Awarded $10,000 Apiece for Idea

GARY, Ind. (UPI)—Two steelworkers have been awarded $10,000 apiece for devising a method of draining molten iron from slag that will save U.S. Steel Corp. $10,000 a year.

Awards to Salvatore Lumella, 39, and Oscar M. Dansler, 61, were announced yesterday, and the company said they were the largest such awards ever made in the steel industry.

Lumella and Dansler said their money-saving invention came as the result of years of study and planning, not to mention the gibes of fellow steelworkers.

Dansler, a keeper in the blast furnace division of U.S. Steel's Gary works, first got the idea for separating molten iron from liquid slag as the waste is taken from blast furnaces.

"I just kept looking at the iron flowing from the furnace and kept thinking, Oscar, how can you earn some of that suggestion cash?" he said.

He drew Lumella, a stove tender, into his plans and the two worked up a drawing which they submitted under the company's employe suggestion program.

"Some of the guys laughed at our enthusiasm," Lumella said, "but I guess we'll really laugh, as the saying goes, all the way to the bank."

The pair suggested a basin and gate arrangement in a trough leading from the blast furnace to catch the molten iron as it drains from the lighter slag.

Previously a mixture of the iron and slag was taken to a dump and the hardened material later picked up for scrap.

Nasser Courts Sudan Regime

Hopes to Win New Government to U.A.R. Arab Nationalism

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser is making a strong bid to win the new Sudanese regime to his brand of Arab nationalism.

Although there were fears in Cairo that Gen. Ibrahim Abboud's coup was triggered by anti-Nasser elements, the U.A.R. was the first country to recognize the new regime. The Cairo propaganda machine is overflowing with praise for the Sudan revolution.

★ ★ ★

Things did not go the way Nasser planned in the Sudan, but he is willing to join them if he cannot lead them.

"Maybe pro-Western elements hostile to Nasser staged the coup in the Sudan," a prominent Egyptian observer conceded.

"But nobody has any power in the Sudan now except the army. Abboud and his officers won't be bound by any preconceived policy. They were determined their coup must succeed, and they cannot afford to follow a policy damaging their chances. We intend to convince them that their greatest hope of success lies in friendliness with U.A.R."

★ ★ ★

Nasser Wednesday exchanged warm greetings with Abboud.

The Cairo press is portraying the Abboud coup as an anti-imperialist maneuver designed to foil British-American plots against Sudan.

Abbout meanwhile pledged his government would accept all international obligations of the previous regime, and particularly membership in the United Nations and the Arab League.

British experts in London say Abboud's coup apparently was intended to forestall any concessions to Nasser, who has been pressing Sudan about Nile River water, border demarcation and other disputes.

Declares Technology Must Be Integrated

NEW YORK (AP)—James M. Gavin, retired Army research and development chief, says the free world must integrate its civilian and military technology to compete successfully in all-out scientific effort.

Gavin spoke Wednesday night at the banquet of the American Rocket Society.

He cautioned the United States against becoming preoccupied by the Soviet Union's planned economic offensive. A gross national product, he said, cannot win against a warlike foe concentrating only upon destruction and not production.

★ ★ ★

The society's astronautics award was made posthumously to Capt. Iven C. Kincheloe Jr., U.S. Air Force pilot selected to take the X15 rocket plane into space. He was killed in a crash of an F104 jet interceptor.

Train Smacks Crashed Plane

Rail Passengers, Crew, Marine Pilot Escape Serious Injury

EL TORO, Calif. (AP)—A jet fighter plane overshot an airfield and crashed on railroad tracks Wednesday. Seconds later, a seven-car passenger train plowed into the plane.

The train sent the jet cartwheeling through the air. The plane came to rest against a lounge car containing 30 passengers. Jet fuel exploded in flames.

The locomotive and four cars were derailed. Three sections of track were torn up. But no one was seriously injured.

The plane's pilot, who suffered only bruises, was the most seriously hurt.

"I'd say the good Lord had his arm around a lot of people," said a spokesman at the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, where the jet was practicing landings.

Hero of the near-disaster was Pat Schamber, brakeman on the Santa Fe's San Diegan, bound to San Diego from Los Angeles with 130 passengers and crew.

He dragged the stunned pilot, Marine 2nd Lt. Phillip M. Schmidt 23 from the wreckage. When they were about 50 feet away the F4D skyray burst into flames.

Schmidt, practicing a power-off landing, overshot a steel cable across the runway on which the plane was to hook. The jet bounced over an 8-foot fence, streaked across a beanfield, sheared off a power pole and slammed onto the railroad tracks.

The train was approaching at 75 miles an hour.

"I saw nothing but a cloud of dust on the tracks about 250 feet ahead of me," said engineer William Ryder, 63. "I put on the emergency brake. Two or three seconds later came the impact. It took another 125 yards to bring the train to a halt."

The metal train did not catch fire. El Toro Marine fire trucks arrived in about three minutes and extinguished the flames with foam.

The pilot, son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Schmidt Cincinnati, was taken to the station hospital for observation.

Regular Little Rock High Schools Idle; Private One Acting as Big Stopgap

(Jack V. Fox, UPI roving reporter, was sent to Little Rock to report latest developments on integration. The following dispatch contrasts what is happening at the closed Central High with the activity at the private, all-white high school.)

By JACK V. FOX

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — This morning, as on every weekday, the teachers park their cars and walk into the fine building that was Central High School.

They hold a brief staff meeting and then go to their separate classrooms. The desks are polished, the rooms are spotless. The chemistry and physics labs and the biology room are ready for experiments. On the row after row of lockers are familiar combination locks put there early this fall in anticipation of school opening.

There is everything except pupils.

The teachers sit at their desks in the empty rooms. They try to make the day useful by devising improvements in their courses. Then they write letters, practice typing, read, look out the window.

For the 3,700 students of Central and Little Rock's three other high schools have scattered from coast to coast, enrolled in makeshift private schools, taken correspondence courses—or just given up their education temporarily.

A few blocks away is an old building which bears the only resemblance to a high school in Little Rock today. It is a former orphanage, later used by the University of Arkansas Graduate Division.

It is the site of the Little Rock private high school, run on donations and staffed by 34 teachers who came out of retirement or are just beginning teachers. There are 217 seniors and 238 juniors here plus 312 sophomores in a new Sunday school building of the Highland Methodist Church nearby.

Today the students are holding an election for president of the student body and other offices. The campaign posters are stuck on the walls with endorsements like "Peppy," "Reliable," "Real Guy."

But nowhere is there any mention that these children's education has been crippled because their state and nation haven't been able to find a reasonable solution to putting Negro and white children through school.

W. C. Breshears, a former elementary school principal and a superintendent of schools in Texas, is the superintendent of the private schools. He is justifiably proud of having made available education in Little Rock, and he points out what a tremendous job it has been.

"It was as if Little Rock had suffered a major disaster," he said, "and that not only the buildings and laboratories and libraries all had been destroyed, but the entire teaching staff wiped out."

For the 175 regular teachers are under federal injunction not to teach in a private school. The desks, the chairs, the test tubes and Bunsen burners, even the books cannot be made available to the children.

★ ★ ★

The private school is the largest stopgap here. There are 373 students in a school run by the Ouachita Baptist College and 30 in an Episcopal church, staffed by volunteer teachers.

A total of 759 has moved to small schools just outside the city. Hundreds — the figure undeterminable—have been sent to aunts and uncles for schooling outside the state. Several hundred are taking correspondence extension courses.

Of the 700 Negro students of high school age, some 250 have enrolled in Negro schools outside the town but the majority is receiving no education.

The city is paying $20,000 a week in salaries to the regular high school teachers whose only work is occasional substituting in the junior high and elementary schools. Maintenance men, secretaries, clerical school employes all are paid under the six-million-dollar budget.

★ ★ ★

Central High's football team has played its whole schedule. The boys would have been ineligible had they enrolled in the private schools, so they stayed out and played football.

MUSHROOMING — How the three nuclear powers stack up in the number of atomic devices exploded is indicated in sketch above. Officially-disclosed figurges run below those claimed by other observers. According to the latter, the total of 246 bombs packs the violence of nearly 100 million tons of TNT—50 times the amount dropped by the U.S. Air Force during World War II.

DEFINITELY NEW, DECIDEDLY DIFFERENT!

Chevrolet shatters precedent beautifully with a completely new car for the second year in a row. It's new and different in its vastly increased areas of visibility, in the roominess of its new Body by Fisher, in the way it rides and holds the road —even in the sheen of its finish. This is your kind of car!

Chevy's new all over! In the fresh slant of its Slimline design. In the spacious comfort of its beautiful Body by Fisher. New from the graceful sweep of its Vista-Panoramic windshield to its safer, softer riding Tyrex cord tires.

There's a new, peppier Hi-Thrift 6 engine that delivers up to 10% greater gas economy. A wide choice of quick-sprinting V8's. Better-than-ever suspensions. Bigger brakes for safer stops. A new Magic-Mirror finish that keeps its shine without wax or polish for up to three years.

And Chevy's new in a way that's decidedly different—unlike any car you've seen. Its new style is shaped to the modern American taste for design that reflects function as well as good form. Drop by your Chevrolet dealer's and see how beautifully the '59 Chevrolet combines fresh, fine design with traditional practicality.

Family Sized Turnover Delicious Holiday Treat

For dessert at Thanksgiving dinner, or at dinner any day, try a family-sized mince meat turnover, served a la mode, with the crust baked golden brown, the mince meat turnover, served a la mode, with the crust baked golden brown and the mince meat fragrant and moist.

It's quicker and easier to make one big turnover that, like a pie, serves six or seven, than to make six or seven turnovers of individual size. And the crisp brown crust around the big turnover, with juice from the mince meat oozing through, gives it a delectable taste all its own.

Like mince pies, mince meat turnovers may be baked ahead of time and reheated. Use either the 9-ounce condensed package or the ready-to-use mince meat from the 28-ounce jar.

Coffee, maple pecan and vanilla ice cream all combine temptingly with the mince meat flavor for the a la mode topping that puts this simple dessert in the holiday class.

Mince Meat Turnover

2 sticks pie crust mix
1 9-ounce package condensed mince meat or mince meat from the big ready-to-use 28-ounce jar.
Ice cream for a la mode topping

Prepare pie crust mix according to package directions and roll out in one big oval, almost oblong, about 14 inches long; 10 inches wide. Place in big baking pan on piece of aluminum foil for easy handling.

Place mince meat on half of oval. Moisten edges. Fold over other half of pastry to cover mince meat, and pinch edges together firmly. Cut openings in top of turnover to allow steam to escape.

Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 15 minutes, or until crust is lightly browned, reduce heat to moderately slow (325 degrees F.) and bake about 15 minutes longer. Serve warm.

If 9-ounce package condensed mince meat is used, break into small pieces; add 1½ cups water and 1 to 3 tablespoons sugar. Place over heat and stir until the lumps are thoroughly broken. Boil briskly for one minute. Cool.

MINCE MEAT TURNOVER — A family-size turnover is quicker to make than individual ones. Top it with ice cream to turn it into an impressive novelty. You may make it ahead of time and reheat it.

Pasteurized Cider Keeps Indefinitely

Apple time is cider time. You can buy fresh cider just as it comes from the mill or you can buy pasteurized cider.

Fresh cider keeps 10 days in a cool place or may keep longer in the refrigerator. After that it begins to turn, gets "hard" and finally turns to vinegar.

★ ★ ★

Most grocery stores have pasteurized cider which has been given a flash heat treatment states the Marketing Information Agent. Pasteurized cider will keep indefinitely though it should be refrigerated once it has been opened.

Keeping quality is improved by the addition of a preservative in cider. The label will tell whether a preservative has been added. Cider may also be filtered to make it clear and transparent.

Pineapple-Marshmallow Mixture Tops Ice Cream

Hot Pineapple-Marshmallow Sundae is easy to make and is fun-fixin' for the teenage crowd. Line a shallow baking pan with aluminum foil, leaving enough at one side to fold back over for a cover, then spread drained pineapple tidbits and miniature marshmallows in pan and cover with foil flap.

Heat in slow oven, about 15 minutes until marshmallows start to melt. Spoon over hard vanilla ice cream.

Crunchy Ham Filling Has Celery, Nuts

Having variety in lunch box sandwiches is often a problem. Here's a new sandwich spread that should please the younger set.

★ ★ ★

This idea is a Ham and Raisin Spread. Cooked ham is the meat. In addition, raisins, nuts, celery, chopped onion and salad dressing play an integral role in this filling. The chopped raisins and nuts add texture to the filling which will build more flavor appeal.

Ham and Raisin Sandwich Spread

1 cup finely chopped cooked ham
2 tablespoons chopped raisins
2 tablespoons chopped nuts
¼ cup finely chopped celery
2 teaspoons finely chopped onion
¼ cup salad dressing

Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Yield: 1 1/3 cups sandwich spread.

Small-fry delight: Keep an extra set of metal or bright-colored plastic measuring spoons on hand in the kitchen? Youngsters who are sand-box age will think they're great for measuring out "sand cakes and pies."

Ginger Custard Sauce

Cream ⅓ cup butter or margarine until fluffy. Blend in 2 egg yolks. Gradually add 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar. Place over hot water and cook until slightly thickened. Stir in 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg, ⅛ teaspoon ground ginger and a dash of salt. Beat 2 egg whites until they stand in soft peaks. Fold into mixture. Serve over puddings, cakes or fruit desserts. Yield: Approximately 1⅓ cups.

STUFFED EGGPLANT — For lovers of eggplant, this stuffed eggplant recipe is a meal in a dish. Sausage and seasonings make the difference.

Stuffed Eggplant Uses Instant Minced Onion

Like eggplant? Then try these particularly good recipes. We've found them delicious.

Stuffed Eggplant

One-half pound pork sausage
1 medium-sized eggplant
2 large tomatoes
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons instant minced onion or ½ cup finely chopped raw onion
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder or 1 minced clove garlic
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon mixed Italian herbs
2 tablespoons dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
2 teaspoons melted butter or sausage drippings

Brown pork sausage slowly. Drain, reserving drippings, and crumble meat. Cut eggplant in half lengthwise. Place in covered kettle with ½ cup water, and parboil five minutes. Cool sufficiently to handle, and remove inside meat of eggplant with grapefruit knife, leaving shell about ½-inch thick.

Dice inside portion of eggplant, and combine with diced, peeled tomatoes, green pepper, onion, garlic, salt and herbs. Cover and boil slowly five minutes. Add sausage and 1 tablespoon sausage drippings. Heap into eggplant shells.

Blend crumbs, cheese and melted butter or drippings and sprinkle over eggplant. Place in shallow baking dish and pour in ½-inch hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 45 minutes. Makes 2 servings.

Eggplant and Lamb Kebabs

Cut lean lamb into 1½-inch cubes. Peel eggplant and cut into 1½-inch squares. String alternately on skewers. Brown in butter or margarine. Place in baking pan. Sprinkle with salt and black pepper. Top each with a tomato slice, sprinkle with salt and black pepper and dot with butter. Bake in a 350-degree F. oven ½ hour.

Your Ancestors Ate Pudding Like This

There is almost no limit on the number of different ways you can use your share of apples. Eat 'em raw, or in apple pie, or apple dumpling, or Waldorf salad. Or, you might like to try an old, old dish, Indian Aple Pudding. Here's the Department of Agriculture recipe for it:

½ cup coarsely ground corn meal
1 quart milk
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup molasses
2 cups apples, finely diced
½ to 1 teaspoon ginger

Cook the corn meal, milk, and salt in a double boiler for 20 minutes. Add the molasses, apples, and ginger. Pour into a greased baking dish. Bake at 300 degrees for 2 hours. Serve hot or cold with cream or vanilla ice cream. (Twelve servings.)

Cook Thanksgiving Bird Slowly

In 1621 the first Thanksgiving festivities lasted three days. Despite the harvest which had not come up to their expectations, the Pilgrims and their Indian friends feasted on quantities of food, including an abundance of turkeys.

★ ★ ★

Turkey and many of the foods that accompany it have come down to us as typical of the day. The greatest difference is in the turkey itself.

Growers have succeeded in growing just the kind of birds the public wants, plump, tender and big-breasted. They market them in any style, from the giant Tom turkey down to individual pieces.

All you need to do is to decide the size you need and get your order in now. You will want 1½ pounds per person for generous helpings next Thursday and for leftovers.

When you get your turkey home, read any instructions that are attached to the bird. If they contain special directions for cooking that particular brand and style, follow them carefully.

It will take several days to thaw out a frozen turkey. Be sure to keep it in the refrigerator or in a cool place. And don't stuff it until it is ready for the oven.

We received basic directions with a new timetable from the Poultry and Egg National Board. We are printing them exactly as they came for your convenience. Clip them and save them for your Christmas turkey also.

Correct roasting is slow cooking by dry heat on a rack in an open pan. It requires no water, no pan cover and no searing. Always complete roasting in one continuous cooking period.

A shallow open pan allows the heat to circulate around the bird, roasting it evenly. A rack at least ½-inch high raises the bird off the bottom of the pan, keeping it out of the juices. Follow these simple steps.

1. Have bird completely clean, inside and out. Rinse with cold water. Pat dry.
2. Turn on oven at 325 degrees to preheat.
3. Rub cavity of bird lightly with salt.
4. Fill wishbone area (neck) with stuffing.
5. Fasten neck skin to back with skewer.
6. Stuff cavity well, but lightly.
7. Push drumsticks under band of skin at tail; or tie them to tail.
8. Brush skin lightly with fat.
9. Place on rack in roasting pan and put in preheated slow oven.
10. If desired, baste or brush occasionally with pan drippings — especially any dry areas. When turkey is two-thirds done cut trussing cord or bridge of skin at drumsticks. Roast until tender. It is done when meat at thickest part of drumstick feels very soft. This timetable is a guide to the approximate total time.

TIME TABLE

325 degrees (slow) Oven
6 to 8 lbs.	3½ to 4 hours
8 to 12 lbs.	4 to 4½ hours
12 to 16 lbs.	4½ to 5½ hours
16 to 20 lbs.	5½ to 7 hours
20 to 24 lbs.	7 to 8½ hours

HIS MAJESTY, THE BIRD — After smelling the turkey cooking all morning, you and your guests will be more than ready to enjoy him. Perfectly browned and full of mouth-watering stuffing, the turkey symbolizes Thanksgiving to us. Be sure your carving knife is sharp. Do not overload the turkey platter with too many garnishes. Then sit down and enjoy him like everyone else. There will be enough for turkey sandwiches later in the day.

Quick Date Loaf Includes Pineapple

Bake a loaf of Pineapple Date Bread—each slice promises extra good eating at meal time or snack time.

Sift together 2 cups sifted enriched flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt and ¾ cup sugar into bowl. Add ¼ cup hydrogenated shortening, ¾ cup crushed pineapple, drained, and ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Mix well, then beat 2 minutes. Add 2 eggs. Beat 2 minutes more. Add 1 cup chopped dates and blend well. Bake in greased paper-lined 4½x8½-inch loaf pan in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1½ hours. Cool before slicing. Makes 1 loaf.

Covered Wagon S'wich

Make a peanut butter sandwich and cut it in half. Stack the halves on top of each other. Cut four rounds of carrot and place two on each side of the stacked sandwich halves for wheels; place a long thin piece of celery in front of the wagon to serve as the handle.

Banana Topped Bread Baked for Dessert

Looking for an inexpensive easy-to-make dessert sensation? Try Banana Bake. Mash three ripe bananas with a fork. Add 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt.

★ ★ ★

Trim crusts from 4 slices of bread. Cut in half and spread with banana mixture. Bake at 425 degrees about 5 minutes. Serve hot with pouring cream.

Banana Dressing Debuts as Turkey Stuffing

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

With all the warm weather of the past six weeks, it scarcely seems possible that we should be thinking of cooking turkey for Thanksgiving. But it's high time we decided on our menu and made lists of what we need to shop for.

★ ★ ★

As usual, we are offering you some new stuffing or dressing recipes. If you feel real energetic, you can have two kinds. Put one inside the turkey and bake the second one in a casserole. Your family probably has one they always expect. Surprise them with a new one too.

Quite the most unusual stuffing recipe we have received this year uses bananas. We are told that the fruit flavor goes well with any form of poultry and that the bananas will help keep the stuffing moist.

Banana Stuffing

½ cup finely chopped onion
2¼ cups soft bread crumbs, firmly packed
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning
1½ cups diced, ripe bananas (3 large or 4 medium bananas)
⅓ cup butter or margarine, melted

Mix together lightly: Onion, bread crumbs, salt, poultry seasoning and diced bananas. Add melted butter or margarine. Mix thoroughly. Makes about 3 cups stuffing.

★ ★ ★

Rice, in addition to soft bread cubes, is the mainstay of the following dressing. It, too, is a fruit dressing, with apple diced into the mixture.

Apple-Rice Turkey Dressing

3 tablespoons butter
1 cup diced celery
½ cup minced onion
2 cups cooked brown rice
2 cups soft bread cubes
½ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 cup diced tart apple
1 egg, beaten
1 cup meat stock or bouillon

Cook onion and celery in fat over low heat until soft, but not browned. Blend seasonings with rice and bread cubes. Add diced apple, cooked onion and celery with fat and beaten egg. Mix thoroughly.

Sprinkle meat stock or bouillon over surface. Mix well. Yield: Dressing for one 6 lb. bird.

This last stuffing is a sausage stuffing. The sharper taste of sausage contrasts pleasantly with the mellow flavor of turkey. This recipe has no sage in it at all.

Sausage Stuffing

Pan-fry ½ pound pure pork sausage meat until browned and well cooked. Drain. Combine sausage with 1 cup milk, 6 cups bread cubes, 2 tablespoons chopped onion 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ cup chopped parsley, and 1 cup chopped celery, and mix well.

Note: ½ pound of brown 'n serve sausage links cut into ½ inch pieces may be used without panfrying in place of sausage meat. (Enough to stuff a 10 to 12 pound bird.)

Coiled Biscuits Brushed With Honey Topping

Tender, delicious Biscuit Honeys will add exciting interest to breakfast, lunch or dinner. They're rolled up like snails and brushed with honey and nuts.

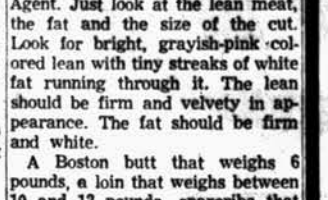

Sift together 2 cups sifted enriched flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Cut or rub in ¼ cup shortening until mixture is crumbly. Add 2/3 to ¾ cup milk to make a soft dough.

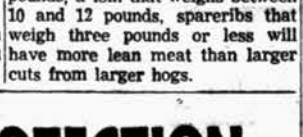

Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead gently 30 seconds. Roll out into an 8-inch square about ¼-inch thick. Cut into 24 strips.

Coil each strip around to form "snails," sealing edges well. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Brush each biscuit with honey and sprinkle with a few chopped nuts.

Bake in hot oven (450 degrees) 10 to 20 minutes. Makes 24 Biscuit Honeys.

It's a good idea to leave frozen meats in their wrapping while you thaw them.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Salt Pork (Side).

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. This cut of meata is actually from a side of pork that has been cured by salting. For convenience, the sides are usually split in half lengthwise before slicing. It can be identified by alternating layers of fat and lean. The lean is not as prevalent as in sliced bacon, however.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. It is prepared by either cooking in liquid, or by slicing and panbroiling, panfrying or baking. Often, this cut is panfried for breakfast. Pieces of salt pork are also used as seasoning in preparing beans, and slices of salt pork may be arranged over veal roasts to add fat during cooking.

Good Look at Pork Cuts Gives Clue to Quality

You can tell whether you are buying the best quality pork, reminds the Marketing Information Agent. Just look at the lean meat, the fat and the size of the cut. Look for bright, grayish-pink colored lean with tiny streaks of white fat running through it. The lean should be firm and velvety in appearance. The fat should be firm and white.

A Boston butt that weighs 6 pounds, a loin that weighs between 10 and 12 pounds, spareribs that weigh three pounds or less will have more lean meat than larger cuts from larger hogs.

Sanitize for PROTECTION

During the "cold" season, it's important to disinfect children's hankies, towels, undergarments. Use Roman Bleach, triple-action bleach which makes clothes sanitary as it whitens them. You get extra health-protecting benefits when you use Roman Bleach.

Lemon Plus Coconut Elegant Tasting

Bits of coconut and tangy lemon team up to give an especially refreshing after-school treat, Lemon Coconut Cookies.

Cream 1 cup butter or margarine. Add ½ cup sugar and continue creaming until light and fluffy. Add 1 egg and ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind. Beat well.

Sift together 2 cups sifted enriched flour and ¾ teaspoon salt. Blend in 1 cup shredded coconut, finely chopped. Drop by teaspoonfuls on ungreased baking sheet.

Bake in slow oven (325 degrees) until light brown around edges, about 15 to 20 minutes. Makes about 6 dozen 2-inch cookies.

Don't Use Mineral Oil

Use of mineral oil in reducing diets or for other purposes in the diet interferes with the absorption of vitamin K. This vitamin, produced in the body from food and also obtained from foods such as greens and other vegetables and pork liver, is essential for normal clotting time of the blood.

Cranberries Should Be Bright and Shiny

Take a tip from the Indians in Early America and serve cranberries now that they are increasing in supply.

★ ★ ★

When you buy cranberries, remember it is not the color or the shape that makes the difference. It is the bright shiny look advises the Marketing Information Agent. Cranberries come in all shapes and sizes and they may be dark red or light red. They taste good just as long as they are not shriveled or bruised.

You may serve cranberries just as the Indians did, with deer meat, but you will find them good to serve with any meat.

Upside-Down Biscuits

Jiffy Pineapple Biscuits make a breakfast. Mix one cup drained crushed pineapple with one-fourth cup brown sugar, two tablespoons butter, and one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon, place mixture in pie plate and top with refrigerator biscuits. Bake at 450 degrees for about 8 minutes. When golden brown, remove from oven and turn upside down before serving.

Popular Relish Excellent in Plain Cake

NEW YORK (UPI) — The long-popular-cranberry-orange combination makes just as tasty a cake as it does a salad.

★ ★ ★

Sift together 2 cups all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon each salt and baking soda, 1½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder and 1 cup sugar. Add ½ cup shortening, 2 eggs and ⅓ cup milk.

★ ★ ★

Stir to dampen ingredients, and beat 2 minutes by hand or with electric beater at medium speed.

Add ¼ cup fresh orange juice, 1 cup coarsely ground raw cranberries and 1 tablespoon grated orange rind. Beat 2 minutes. Fold in 1 cup chopped nuts.

Turn into paper-lined greased loaf pan, 9 by 5 by 3-inches. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven 1 hour and 20 minutes. Cool in pan 20 minutes before turning out on wire rack. Sprinkle top with sifted confectioners' sugar if desired.

If brown sugar is lumpy and you are planning to use it for baking, roll it fine before measuring.

No Herbs at All in Capon Stuffing

If you like a dry-type poultry stuffing this recipe is for you.

Stuffed Capon Phyllis

¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup finely diced celery
2 tablespoons minced celery leaves
2 cups dry coarse bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons poultry seasoning
3 tablespoons hot water
1 capon (about 4½ or 5 pounds ready-to-cook weight)

Cook butter, onion, celery and celery leaves together slowly in a 10-inch skillet or a saucepan for 5 or 10 minutes. Stir in bread crumbs; sprinkle with salt, poultry seasoning and water; toss together. Pack lightly into body and neck cavity of capon and roast according to standard directions or favorite method.

Sour Cream Dressing

Dairy sour cream makes a wonderful low calorie salad dressing? One tablespoon of sour cream contains only 30 calories, while mayonnaise has about 90. Try sour cream as a dressing on either fruit or vegetable salads, plain or with an added dash of herb.

Of Course, Any Man Can Carve a Turkey

WASHINGTON — "Any man who can whittle a stick can carve a turkey."

This statement comes from a man who might be said to have made carving the traditional Thanksgiving bird his hobby. He is Loy Shrader, a poultry specialist of the U.S. Agriculture Department. Probably only half-jestingly, he says he doesn't know how many turkeys he has carved because "I lost count after the first 100."

Shrader developed his sideline when called on to carve for panels of turkey-tasters in connection with experimental work on the birds. He has demonstrated his skill with a knife on a turkey on film and before civic clubs.

He feels strongly that the man of the house should carve the Thanksgiving turkey and do it standing at the table, the center of all eyes.

"What the grandchildren remember," he believes, "is Grandfather carving the turkey."

How much flourish is given the ceremony is up to Grandfather but Shrader has tricks to abet the showmanship and thus make the day one for the small fry to remember.

"All you need to do is develop a stroke cutting down and away from you, just as in whittling," he says. "The hostess can help by keeping goblets or other high dishes away from your site of operations and giving you elbow room."

Shrader often starts his gobbler drama by cutting two thick wedges from a bright red apple or orange and putting them at either side of the bird to keep it from slipping on the platter. He concedes this may not be necessary but it imparts color.

Some men ridicule fancy paper coverings for the ends of the turkey legs. But not Shrader. They keep his fingers from becoming greasy as he grasps a leg with his left hand and cuts down to remove the drumstick. On an extra plate, he separates the drumstick from the second joint.

★ ★ ★

"Now," he says, "if Junior is big enough to eat the whole drumstick, I don't carve it but if he isn't, I slash the meat off just as if I were carving a piece of wood."

Shrader prefers a fork with only two tines. Putting one tine on each side of the breastbone, he attacks the wings. Severing them is the only place where, he admits, the novice might run into trouble. He hints that the carver smoothly divert attention from himself at this critical phase by commenting on "the pretty hairdo of the hostess or her bright smile."

He clearly considers it downright cowardly to cut up the turkey in the kitchen and "just about sacrilegious." But he doesn't consider it would be cheating at all for the novice to do a little advance probing with a skewer in the kitchen to find the exact spot where the wing joins the body.

MARK THE SPOT

A sprig of parsley could mark the spot found in the probing and when the bird is placed on the table, the guests will just think this is a bit of garnish.

Once the wings are severed, slicing the breastmeat is play even for the novice, according to Shrader. When it comes to dishing up the stuffing, he prefers a spoon with a long handle. If there are more children at the table than there are drumsticks, he suggests you make a couple of extra drumsticks by cutting out the big bone in the wings.

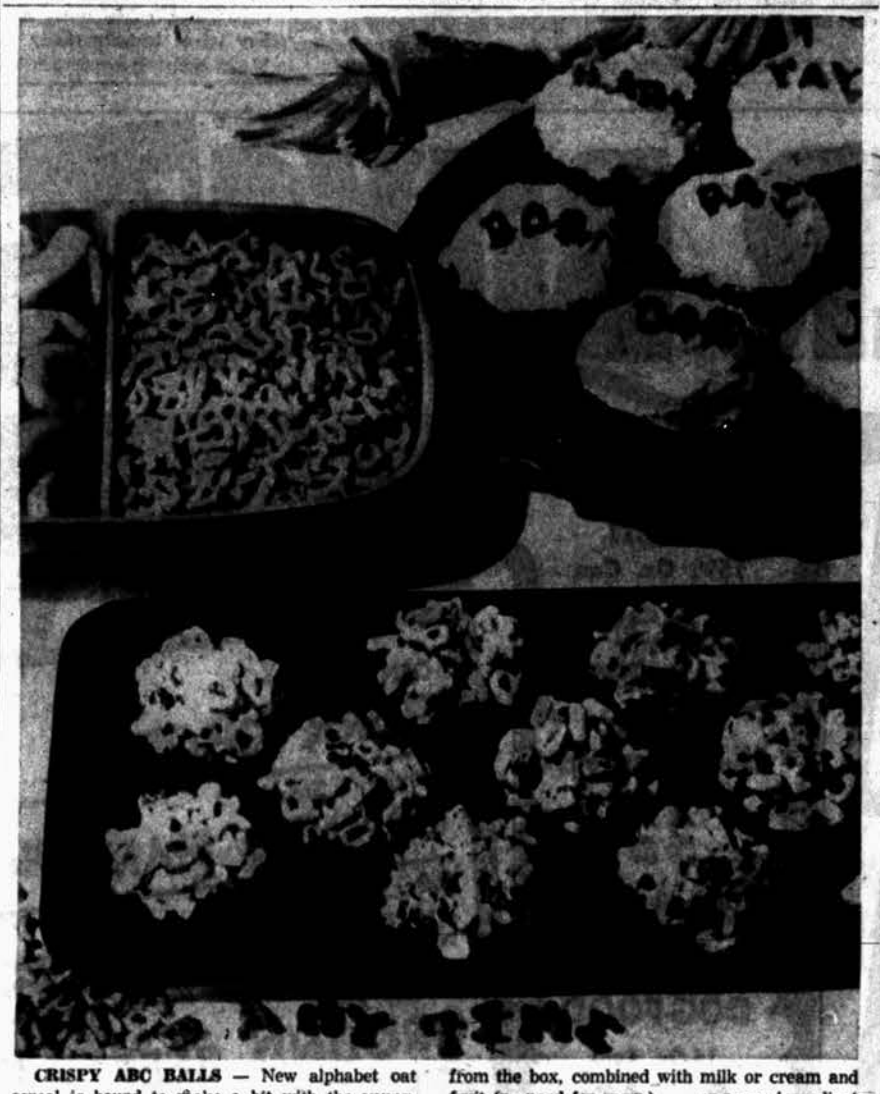

His own favorite piece of turkey meat is the "oyster" in the hollow at each side of the backbone.

"Grandma always loved the backbone, but she never told why," he recalls, "it was really because of these choice tidbits."

The carver can be a knave or a saint in serving this choice bit. "He's a saint if he serves it to others," Shrader smiles, "a knave if he keeps it for himself.

Party Anchovy Aspic

Sure to make a hit . . . that's this colorful anchovy aspic mold. . . an easy and unusual salad for party days ahead. Arrange drained stuffed olives and rolled anchovies alternately in the bottom of a ring mold. Melt two cans of tomato aspic over low heat, and pour gently into the mold. Chill, unmold, and serve on greens with mayonnaise.

CRISPY ABC BALLS — New alphabet oat cereal is bound to make a hit with the youngsters in all ways . . . as a snack . . . straight from the box, combined with milk or cream and fruit (no need for sugar) . . . or as an ingredient in such tasty confections as these "ABC Balls."

Alphabet Cereal Has Kid Appeal

Take a letter Mrs. Homemaker! In fact, take lots of letters—right from a box of the new alphabet oat cereal.

This unique cereal in the form of all twenty-six letters of the alphabet is a perfect anytime-of-day treat. A combination of oats and pure sugar crystals, these little ABC's are a delicious morning treat with milk and fruit. They have equal appeal as a snack—right from the box, or served over ice cream and puddings.

Decorate little party cakes with them, too . . . youngsters love having their names spelled out on the icing. And as a pretty touch for party cupcakes, spell out a greeting or the name of each child with this crereal that comes in the form of all 26 letters of the alphabet.

Another sure way of making a hit with the young'uns is to serve "ABC Balls." These tasty, crispy confections couldn't be easier to make.

Crispy ABC Balls

1½ cups miniature marshmallows
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons water
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup raisins
1 cup alphabet oat cereal

Combine marshmallows, cinnamon, and water in top of double boiler. Heat over hot water until marshmallows are melted. Blend well. Remove from heat. Add remaining ingredients and stir until cereal is well coated. Drop by tablespoons onto waxed paper. Flatten into patties with cereal letters close together. Chill 3 or 4 hours. Makes 10 to 12 cookies.

Candy Treasure Hides in Cooky

Hidden Treasure Cookies with gumdrop "jewels" are sure to please your school day pirates. The instant whole wheat cereal, the kind with extra germ added, makes them crunchy and delicious.

Hidden Treasure Cookies

½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup margarine or butter
½ cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup small gumdrops, no black ones
½ cup flake coconut
1 cup instant whole wheat cereal

Heat oven to moderate (375 degrees). Cream margarine until soft. Add sugars and vanilla. Beat until light and creamy. Add egg. Mix well. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together. Combine gumdrops, coconut, and instant whole wheat cereal.

Add dry ingredients to sugar mixture. Blend thoroughly. Mix in gumdrops, coconut, and cereal. Drop by teaspoon onto greased cookie sheet. Bake 12 minutes, or until golden brown. Yield: 6 dozen 2-inch cookies.

Tart Mayonnaise Dresses Broccoli

Your vegetable for the Thanksgiving dinner can be just as "special" as the rest of the meal. This recipe for broccoli will be easy to prepare during the hour before serving time, because it calls for a minimum of ingredients and effort, but a maximum of eating pleasure.

Broccoli With Lemon Mayonnaise

Cook a one pound bunch or one package frozen broccoli in enough boiling, salted water to barely cover vegetable until broccoli stems are tender when pierced with a fork. (Takes about 10 to 15 minutes.) Be sure the pan is uncovered and the heat high.

★ ★ ★

Then drain and serve with this easy and delicious Lemon Mayonnaise: Stir 2 tablespoons bottled lemon juice and a good dash of paprika into ½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing. Heat sauce over low heat. Spread sauce over broccoli just before serving.

Spanish Touch Given to Veal With Sherry

A delicious Spanish way to deal with a veal roast.

Veal Con Naranja al Jerez

3 to 4 pound rump veal roast
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons bacon drippings
1 medium-sized onion (sliced)
1 clove garlic (minced)
¼ cup Brazil nuts (cut fine in an electric blender or put through a hand-operated rotary grater
Grated rind and juice of 1 large orange
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup medium (amontillado) sherry
1 cup water

Have meatman remove bone from roast, cut away fat and roll and tie it without adding a covering of extra fat. Mix flour and salt; rub into surface of meat.

Heat bacon drippings in heavy skillet (about 9 inches); brown meat on all sides in hot fat. Place meat in a casserole. Cook onion and garlic until lightly browned in fat in skillet; add nuts, grated rind and orange juice, cinnamon and sherry. Boil 1 minute; add water; pour over meat.

Bake, covered, in slow (325 degrees) oven 1 hour; uncover and bake ½ hour more. Skim off any excess fat from gravy; the nuts give it a good texture and it needs no extra thickening. Makes 8 servings with seconds.

Big Turkeys Give More Meat for Your Money

What is first in shoppers' minds this week? Thanksgiving of course. Most will reserve preferences for turkey, ham or some other meat in their markets.

IF YOU CHOOSE TURKEY

Even though 4 per cent less turkeys were produced in 1958 than in 1957, turkeys are plentiful in sizes from 5 to over 20 pounds, reports the Marketing Information Agent. Average prices for toms are 39 to 49 cents per pound; hens are 43 to 55 cents per pound. The small fryer-roaster turkeys are 49 to 55 cents per pound.

How much turkey will you need? This depends upon how many you plan to serve, whether you need seconds for big appetites and whether you want turkey left after the Thanksgiving feast. A simple rule to remember is: if the turkey is under 12 pounds, allow ¾ to 1 pound of ready-to-stuff bird for each serving. If the turkey weighs over 12 pounds, allow ½ to ¾ pound. If you want plenty for seconds, allow 1½ to 1¾ pounds.

If you decide to try one of the frozen stuffed turkeys, allow 1½ to 2 pounds per person. Keep it in the freezer until ready to roast. These turkeys are never thawed before cooking time.

The big turkey will give the most meat for the money. A 25 pound tom turkey will yield 56 per cent roasted meat while a 15 pound turkey yields about 50 per cent.

You can judge when to pick up the turkey at the store by figuring the time it takes to thaw. Ready-to-stuff turkeys weighing 4 to 12 pounds will thaw in 1 to 2 days in the refrigerator. Those weighing 12 to 20 pounds take 2 to 3 days. Birds weighing over 20 pounds take 3 or 4 days. In the refrigerator or under cold running water are the only safe places to thaw frozen ready-to-stuff birds.

Leave turkeys in their original waterproof wraps while thawing.

PORK IS POPULAR

Pork will be a popular choice for Thanksgiving. Prices compete with all other meats for November and December are months when the largest pork supplies come to market.

Smoked ham will top the list of pork choices. Again the number you plan to serve will decide whether you want a whole ham, a half or an end. The whole ham will serve about 3 persons from each pound, the halves will serve 2½ and the ends about 2.

Naturally, a regular ham with the skin still on will not serve as many as a skinless ham of the same weight. One with all the bones will not serve as many as a shankless ham of the same weight, one that is semi-boneless with the shank and aitch bone removed, or one that is boned and rolled. Because of the difference in cooking time needed, a ready-to-cook ham will serve fewer portions per pound than one which is fully cooked or canned.

Since ham is prepared in so many cuts and processed in so many ways, the smart shopper will read labels and ask questions if labels are not informative.

But ham is just one of the pork cuts. Boston butt and rib or loin roasts rate attention. For those who wish to spend fewer dollars, these are choices worth considering.

LAMB PERHAPS?

November brings some of the best lamb supplies of the year.

A leg of lamb can serve for more than one meal. A few choice steaks can be removed from the roast and cut into pieces for ground patties or stew meat. This way, the leg will make three meals for a family of four.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

If you spend most of the meal's money for meat, you can cut the cost of the meal by using some of those in the menu: cabbage, potatoes, squash, apples, carrots, many canned fruits and vegetables.

Tart cranberries are a must for Thanksgiving. Team with apples or oranges for salad or relish combinations.

A casserole of applesauce and squash, a little sugar, dash of nutmeg and a sprinkle of nuts may be a new flavor treat.

Kitchen arithmetic: heavy cream doubles its volume after it has been beaten.

Cards Go Only to Friends

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am a businesswoman and have a great many business acquaintances. Each passing year I receive more and more Christmas cards. Last year I received quite a few Christmas cards from people to whom I did not send cards. I would like to know if it is necessary to send them cards this year."

Answer: Christmas card sending is a friendly and charming custom but to send vast quantities of cards to people one hardly knows I think reduces their value and the pleasure of receiving them.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I was operated on several weeks ago by a very fine surgeon who was especially kind to me during my illness. I intend to go down to Florida in a week or so to recuperate. Would it be proper to send a box of oranges, or other fruit, while I am there to the doctor in appreciation of his kindness? If so, should I send it to Dr. and Mrs.? I have never met his wife."

Answer: I think sending him a box of oranges is a very pleasing idea, and since you do not know his wife, it would be best to send it to the doctor alone.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to go to a cocktail party in a suit with a blouse? I am invited to such a party in town and would like to go in early so as to keep several other appointments for which I would prefer not to dress."

Answer: No social gathering exacts less formality than a cocktail party. You may wear whatever you happen to have on — whether it be formal or informal.

Lonely Musician Has Big Problem: How to Be Pied Piper With the Girls

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: "What's wrong with musicians? I happen to be a musician by profession and every time I get interested in a girl she chills me off because her folks don't want her going with a musician. They say we are lazy, no good tramps, even dope addicts. One father told me he liked me personally and if I gave up music and settled down he would get me a job in a "respectable" business. I studied hard to be a musician and I am a good one, but it seems to be a handicap in getting a decent girl. Why, Abby?

MUSICIAN

ABBY

DEAR MUSICIAN: All parents want to see their daughters marry well. A musician sleeps days and works nights. Temptations are many. He travels and when jobs are scarce he is not equipped to make a living doing something else. But one thing is in your favor — when a girl marries a musician, he can be sure it's love!

"DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I married a man I didn't love and six months after we were married he joined the Navy. He was overseas for 24 months and while he was gone I fell head over heels in love with another fellow. We goofed and I became pregnant. I planned to divorce my husband and marry the man I loved, but when my husband came home, the baby's father took off and we can't locate him. My husband is very mad at me. Should I keep trying to find the father of my baby (the baby is adorable and looks a lot like my legal husband) or should I stay married and try to make the best of it?"

IN DOUBT

DEAR IN: If your legal husband will have you, you are luckier than you deserve. Beg his forgiveness and try to make a respectable woman of yourself.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: What would you do in my case? My husband will not sit down and write his mother a letter or a card to let her know he is all right. His parents are quite old and I know they skimp and save but they have to put in a long-distance call to find out if their son is still living. I am sick of nagging him about this. Please give me a solution."

SICK OF NAGGING

DEAR SICK: Quit aggravating yourself. Write to his folks yourself. They will appreciate it more than you know. Your husband will have a long time to regret his thoughtlessness.

Keep Home Restful

Know When to Be Incompetent

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Some men are glad that there is no place like home! Of course there are men who are inveterate bachelors or playboys, some who have a mother complex and others who are selfish and uncooperative. However, I believe that there are many who would like to come home sooner than they do and many more who come home but wish that their welcome there were a bit different.

This is not a blast at women. I am one of you and certainly do not want to cut my own throat, much less yours. But I always have believed that it is the woman who sets or creates the emotional atmosphere of a home. She is endowed for this by nature. It is her career and the job of home making is much more than snagging a husband and bringing children into the world.

I do not know whether this is fair or not, but I do know that unless the woman makes the home climate attractive, relaxing, gay and charming, it is not apt to be that way. Haven't you often noticed this in your own or another family

If the wife or mother meets hectic circumstance with humor, or difficult times with optimism, if she is relaxed, the whole family can go through the most trying times with comparative ease and grace. Once the woman gets off the beat the whole family blows up.

A wife and mother must maintain the serenity of the home. Why not light the candles and put on the lipstick and perfume and meet your family at the end of the day in a relaxed mood?

With all of the rush and push and myriad duties connected with keeping house and caring for a family, it is not easy to maintain a relaxed attitude. I often have written that it seems to me that many women attack each day as though it were a rattlesnake. Perhaps one of the greatest mistakes a woman can make is to become a slave to perfection. In this sort of home no one can uncoil for a minute.

BE INCOMPETENT

Why not indulge sometimes in a delightful bit of incompetence? No matter how beautifully you keep the house or how good the meals are, it does not have much meaning if you yourself are tired and tense or irritable and dour. There is probably no doubt that your husband and children would rather sit down to a simple meal with you at your best than have you provide the most exotic menus with no conversation or happy emotional fare.

All sorts of experiments and studies in hospitals and schools are showing how miserably folks react to a dreary background and how happily they respond to a pleasant one. So why not leave until tomorrow what you cannot do today with ease? Why not light the candles and put on the lipstick and perfume and meet your family at the end of a day in a relaxed mood?

Moving to New Town Can Be Adventure

By RUTH MILLETT

"It isn't fair," writes a woman who reads this column, "for my husband to take a job in another city which means we will not only have to leave all our friends but our married daughter and her family, too.

"He says he can't turn down this opportunity. But I would be happier staying right where we are—even though it means less money and what my husband refers to as a 'dead end' for him. How can I talk him out of taking this new job?"

Quit dragging your feet and get in there and back your husband up.

If he has a chance at a better job with a bigger future your place is at his side — not reluctantly but gladly.

Start thinking of a new start as an adventure instead of the end of your own little private world. You can make new friends wherever your go and hold onto the old ones, too.

If your daughter is busy with her own life she can get along without you. And if you get busy helping your husband make a place in a new community you won't have time to worry because letters to your daughter and occasional visits will have to take the place of daily visits back and forth.

If you are a good sport you'll look for the advantages in your new home. Do everything possible to make friends in a hurry. Take a vital interest in your husband's new job. You may find in a few years that you like your new home even better than you did the old one.

There isn't just one spot for anyone, even though you may get into such a complacent rut that you think there is.

So quit looking back at what you are leaving and start looking forward to what you are moving on to.

That is what your husband is doing and that is what keeps anybody young and alert and ready for whatever life brings.

Quick, send now and sew this adorable baby-doll wardrobe for Christmas. Easy-sew pattern includes bunting, snowsuit, overall set, coat, hat, dress, slip, panties. Tomorrow's pattern: Half-size classic style.

Printed Pattern 4870: For dolls 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 inches. See pattern for yardages.

Parents Should Leave Sitters Well Informed

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Parents have definite responsibilities toward baby sitters, says a University of Minnesota expert.

★ ★ ★

Introduce the baby sitter to the physical make-up of the home. Acquaint her with the household schedule. Have an understanding with her about the use of the home — whether she may have guests, use the telephone, radio or TV set, the expert advised.

★ ★ ★

Also tell the sitter where you may be reached and when you'll return. Make arrangements for her safe return home and give her the name of a responsible neighbor to contact in case of emergency.

8 Brownies, Leader Receive Awards

Eight new Brownie members and their new co-leader, Mrs. Henry P. Hardy Jr., were pinned by Girl Scout leader Mrs. Lewis K. Smartt in an investiture ceremony held Tuesday afternoon at Alcott School.

One-year membership stars were presented to LaDonna Hardy and Shirley Ashley. Refreshments were served by the troop.

Toys Demonstrated for Fashionette Club

A toy demonstration was the program when members of Fashionette Club met Tuesday evening at Adah Shelly Branch Library.

Mrs. Harold Hopper won the trophy for losing the most weight during the week. Mrs. Charles Spence was last week's winner.

Next week, a demonstration of Christmas decorations will be given.

AAUW Hears Speakers

Speakers from Pontiac area social services took part in the Tuesday evening meeting of Pontiac branch of American Association of University Women, held at the Community Services Building. Mrs. Kenneth Ollis, chairman of the social and economic issues group, was in charge of the meeting.

The program was the result of a study made by various social services in Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

Speakers for the evening were Estelle Martin, executive director of Family Service of Oakland County; Mrs. Frances Kessler of Alcoholism Information Center; William Clark, executive director of Big Brothers; and Ray MacAfee, executive director of Pontiac Housing Commission.

Mary Gibbs was social chairman for the evening, assisted by Mrs. John Borsvold, Mrs. Walter Bennett, Geraldine Iwerks and Mrs. Ray Allen.

★ ★ ★

Guests were Mrs. Thomas Metzdorf and Mrs. Charles Koella.

The next meeting will be a membership tea to be held Dec. 6 at Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building.

Kitchen Mirror May Remind Us to Freshen Up

Have a mirror in your kitchen so you can "face yourself" several times a day, suggests an extension specialist in home management at Michigan State University.

But Never Sang in Native Japan

Kunie Imai Is Met Star

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Japanese prima donna is pioneering abroad, but she never has sung in her homeland.

Kunie Imai, a pretty 26-year-old woman, is the first Japanese soprano to sing with the Metropolitan Opera.

For Miss Imai, a Met contract is like a dream. One of six children, she grew up in Imabari, Japan. When she was a teenager, she began collecting records of great singers.

★ ★ ★

"I listened and fell in love with them," she said. When she was a junior in high school, she decided to become a singer. But the family had no money for the years of training she needed.

GOT HELP

Then a Roman Catholic missionary heard her sing, and sent her to Spain to study. She won scholarships and helped pay her way by singing in concerts.

After four and a half years in Madrid, she went to Italy, where she studied with the present teacher, Ettore Verna, who divides his time between Italy and New York.

Miss Imai, known as "Kuny" spoke only Japanese when she left home. Today, she speaks fluent Spanish and Italian and fast is learning English.

"But I have had no trouble in New York. Everyone at the Met speaks Italian, and I learned to give addresses to cab drivers in English. I even found my way around the subway," she said in Italian, which Verna translated.

A tiny (five feet, two inches) sweet-natured person, Miss Imai is a "prima donna on stage, but at home, I'm just a good girl." She likes to cook Japanese and Italian dishes, admits a passion for eating, swims, and likes "conservative but elegant" clothes. She usually wears Japanese clothes, but wore a two-piece chemise during the interview after her first Met performance, "Madame Butterfly."

LIKES AMERICANS

Although she has seen little except the Met and her teacher's home, she finds the United States "full of nice, hard-working people" and hopes to do the usual sightseeing. First on her list of places to visit was an automat because "there I can find people who speak Spanish and Italian," she said.

When Miss Imai winds up her concert schedule, she hopes to go home and appear in a Japanese opera.

★ ★ ★

"I want to tell the Japanese how grateful I am to Italy and the United States for the opportunity they've given me. When — and if — I make a lot of money, I will return the money to the people who helped me and to my teachers, so that someone else can get the chance I've had," she said.

"Then," she added, "I will buy a home and raise a family."

A summer wedding is planned by Vicki Everett whose engagement to Larry Rickard is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ford Everett of Lowell street. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rickard of Cass Lake road, is a graduate of General Motors Institute.

What Young People Think

Teenagers Rate Driver-Training as Tops

By EUGENE GILBERT
Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Driver education, probably the most popular high school course outside of gym class, is fast becoming a fixture on the educational scene.

At least 38 per cent of the teenagers we contacted in a nation-wide survey said that their school already has a course in driver training.

Of those whose schools did not teach driver training 91 per cent answered that they would like to see it do so.

Will driver education ultimately replace Dad as the chief instructor for using the family vehicle?

★ ★ ★

"My Dad taught me the rudiments of driving," confided an Indianapolis girl, "but the school gave me a more complete understanding of what it was all about. It was the difference between a well meaning amateur and a competent professional."

★ ★ ★

In schools where the course was given, 51 per cent of the youngsters interviewed said they had completed the course and 42 per cent said they intended to take it.

Of those who had taken the course, 76 per cent said they found it "very helpful," 17 per cent answered "somewhat helpful" and 4 per cent frankly admitted it was "no help at all."

Robert Silverman of Butler, N.J. made the point that driver education did not turn out finished products, just enlightened novices.

★ ★ ★

"The course can't give the student the most important thing — experience," he explained, "although it does acquaint him with the major safety rules and precautions."

'CUTS ACCIDENTS'

Despite these reservations, 98 per cent of all teenagers interviewed are convinced that their set would be involved in less accidents if such courses were given in all high schools.

"Driver education is the most important single subject taught in high school," maintained Greta Udel of Minneapolis. "After all, it is the only one where life and limb are at stake. It must be made compulsory."

Similarly, Harriet Thomson of St. Louis predicted that "when driver education is offered universally, automobile accident rates will go way down.

Besides cutting down teen accidents, driving courses contribute to the peace of mind of parents, or so 68 per cent of the youngsters believed.

★ ★ ★

Driver education, concluded Norman Alba, 18, of Flushing, N.Y., "gave me confidence in myself, so now my parents too have confidence in my driving."

For Christmas

How About These Ideas?

It's about time to get out those little notebooks and pencils and decide what you plan to give Cousin Jane and Uncle Joe for Christmas.

Gifts to please the gals are never hard to find, for it's a rare woman who isn't delighted to receive perfume, cosmetics or toiletries. They're a touch of glamor, and give a gay lift to the feminine morale.

★ ★ ★

Waterproof mascara, so important to eye beauty, is now made by one famous beauty house in an attractive container that resembles a smart fountain pen, complete with its own applicator.

★ ★ ★

Packaged by itself in a box with a golden eye "masque" on top, or combined with an eye shadow stick and eye pencil in a handy purse-size case, this eye make-up is an ideal holiday gift. And you don't have to settle for black. It comes in royal blue, emerald green and violet as well.

★ ★ ★

Not to be outdone by the Empire look in fashion and hair styles, four colognes that have been favorites for many years now make their appearance in graceful, charming apothecary bottles, reminiscent of another, more elegant era. And when the fragrance is finished, the bottles themselves make beautiful decor items.

★ ★ ★

Pressed powder, so handy since it won't spill in your purse, now comes in beautifully styled compacts — some in brushed gold or silver, others in handsome black or white plastic.

★ ★ ★

Even lipsticks are made now in cases so beautiful that they make charming as well as useful gifts.

There's a wide choice of perfume, too, now that many women no longer feel that they must use just one scent that can be identified with them.

★ ★ ★

So go forth and shop for Christmas with a light heart. At least the gals on your list won't create any problem. Any gift carefully chosen from the wide array of toiletries is sure to be hit.

Chautauqua, N. Y., which normally has a population of only 550, has a population of 10,000 or more when the summer concerts are given there.

This very elegant gold faille cocktail dress from the Grenelle-Estevez fall collection features a self-belt at the Empire waistline. A fringed bow accents the low and shapely bodice.

New Tiny Sweepers Big Boon

What do you do when a guest spills ashes on your floor? Ignore it, or create a ruckus with a vacuum cleaner?

The smart hostess meets the situation graciously by simply trotting out one of those pint-sized solid brass carpet sweepers now on the market, according to a home cleaning advisor.

"Just like a silent butler, these little sweepers are designed to clean up a mess without embarrassing the guest," the advisor said. They do a full-sized job, too, even though they're half the size of regular sweepers."

In fact, many hostesses leave the brass sweeper right out in the living room, where anyone can grab hold of it and use it right away.

More Soapsuds to Be Pretty in Yellow Tones

Women with almost any skin tone can enjoy the new pumpkin and gold tones in daytime and evening wear.

★ ★ ★

Extra soap-and-water care will help keep the skin clear enough to reflect yellow tones with flattery.

★ ★ ★

And regular soapsuds facials will stimulate even a sallow complexion to the rosy glow required to get away with wearing these colors successfully.

She'll Like This

Well suited to a young lady's bedroom is a lampshade made of cotton eyelet and organdie. It can be immersed in soap or detergent suds, rinsed, dripped, then returned to the lamp to dry.

This very elegant dress of navy wool is from the 1958-59 resort and new fashions collection by Larry Aldrich. It features a lifted waistline emphasized by an enormous bow and a wide neckline that plunges to a deep V.

Investiture Service Held

Herrington School Brownie and Girl Scout investiture service was held Wednesday in the school multipurpose room, with Mrs. Joseph Napier presiding.

Two new Brownie troops were organized, with Mrs. Walter Metcalf as leader of Troop 74 and Mrs. Jack Smith as leader of Troop 382. Fifteen girls were invested in these two troops.

Mrs. Napier, neighborhood chairman and leader of Troop 494, had three new Brownies invested into her troop, and three were invested into Mrs. Robert Bach's Troop 495.

Brownies are making a dollhouse to be given to a children's home for Christmas.

Mrs. Lawrence Sauvage and Mrs. Richard Duncan, leaders of Girl Scout Troop 493, had eight new girls invested into their troop.

Girl Scouts are making a basket for the Salvation Army to be given to a needy family.

Chic Chop Sticks

Chop sticks, singly or in pairs, dress up coiffures for gala evening gowns. They are worn in chignons or wigs, and come in gold or silver leaf, decorated with rhinestones and pearls.

Wives Can Keep Food in Tin Can

Confirmed bad luck superstitions such as black cats crossing the path, walking under ladders, and Friday the 13th, have not been attacked and solved by science, but if you think you can't leave food in an open can in your refrigerator, you're not just superstitious — you're unscientific.

★ ★ ★

Can manufacturers advise that the old fashioned idea that canned foods should be emptied into other containers as soon as they're opened has no scientific foundation, and point out that canned foods are subjected to thorough heat treatment which destroys the organisms which cause food spoilage. As a result, the freshly opened can is probably the most sanitary container in the average kitchen.

★ ★ ★

"It is just as safe to keep canned food in the can it comes in — if the can is kept cool and covered — as to empty the food into another container," advises the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

New National Assembly Unknown Factor for De Gaulle

Elections Could End French 'Honeymoon'

PARIS (NEA — The honeymoon of Charles de Gaulle and the people of France may begin to end on Nov. 23.

That's the date that the first National Assembly of the Fifth Republic will be elected and if De Gaulle is the bridegroom, France the bride, the parliament is likely to be the mother-in-law.

Since De Gaulle took power on June 1, he has been unencumbered by an elected legislature and has been able to rule decisively and as he has seen fit. An 80 per cent "yes" vote on the new constitution in September proved he was acting as most Frenchmen hoped he would.

But whether the people will give De Gaulle a parliament with which he can work effectively is a question even the wisest political pundits are reluctant to answer.

The new Assembly, its powers considerably diminished from those it enjoyed under the Fourth Republic, will meet for the first time in December to take part in the election of the first President of the Fifth Republic. De Gaulle is considered a sure candidate and winner.

Until that election, De Gaulle will continue to rule under the special powers granted him last spring.

* * *

The new Assembly will have nearly 150 fewer members than those of the Fourth Republic, but on a percentage basis the extreme left (the Communists) and the extreme right (the Poujadists) are expected to lose strength.

It seems possible that out of the election could develop two strong moderate blocs, one on the left centered around the Socialists, another on the right organized around the Independents.

The unknown ingredient is the Union of the New Republic, set up by De Gaulle's Information Minister Jacques Soustelle, which has classed itself as a center group and may emerge as a powerful force.

* * *

Another of the general's aides, novelist Andre Malraux has set up a group on the left, seeking to counterbalance Soustelle.

DE GAULLE ARRIVES — As campaigning for the French election picks up, Gen. Charles de Gaulle arrives at the Elysee Palace to report to President Rene Coty.

WON'T TAKE SIDES

De Gaulle himself refuses to identify himself with any party. He even has forbidden any candidate to use his name.

Long holding himself above politics, the general has no intention of changing his attitude now or after his election as president. He sees that post as one of arbiter between left and right.

* * *

Some of the old center parties, such as the Catholic Popular Republicans and the Radical Socialists, are so divided that they may virtually disappear as powers in the new Assembly.

But even before the election has been held, De Gaulle is considered to have suffered a setback in Algeria, where the voting will be held Nov. 23-29. Sixty-seven seats in the Assembly have been set aside for deputies from the North African territory, two-thirds of them reserved for Moslems.

* * *

Unfortunately, no Moslems of stature and nationalist views were willing to become candidates. The Moslems who did are either unknowns or supporters of the right-wing European settlers who want complete integration of Algeria with metropolitan France.

* * *

De Gaulle reportedly had hoped that Algeria would send some moderate, respected nationalists to Paris where quiet negotiations for a settlement of the four-year-old rebel war could be conducted.

BOYCOTT URGED

The Algerian rebel movement, which has set up a provisional government in Cairo, is boycotting the elections and urging all Moslems not to vote.

Thus, after the Assembly and presidential elections as it was before, the Algerian problem will be De Gaulle's—and France's—most critical problem.

* * *

That problem, and all others, could be complicated for De Gaulle by the existence of the Assembly which, even with its diminished powers, provides a forum that has been lacking for those French politicians who are not his great admirers.

De Gaulle's chances of solving them, however, remain higher than any of his predecessors, regardless of the makeup of the new parliament. The reasons for this were summed up the other day by a Paris editor who has always been one of the general's severest critics. He wrote:

"The man De Gaulle, right now, embodies the nation. He is no longer a party leader, blamed or praised, to be repudiated or upheld. He is outside the debate, he is an institution."

Employment Up in Pontiac Area

End of Strikes to Put 3,000 Added Workers in Plants by Dec. 15

Pontiac area employment demands picked up strongly after settlement of the General Motors Corp. strikes here last month, the Michigan Employment Security Commission reported today.

Non-manufacturing needs should increase sharply during the rest of this month, the MESC said, and unemployment is expected to drop sharply through mid-December.

After the labor dispute was settled, motor vehicle plants stepped up call-backs of laid-off seniority workers. By mid-December it is expected that manufacturing employment will have been expanded by 3,000 — chiefly in the auto plants, the MESC estimated.

* * *

Another 1,500 workers will be needed in non-manufacturing fields as a result of auto production and retail trade expansion at the Christmas season, it was predicted.

The MESC estimated that the labor disputes affected about 13,300 workers. At the same time, it reported, unemployment stood at 13,500 at the middle of last month.

Unemployment was estimated at 15,000 in mid-September, and 8,500 a year ago.

Last month, the Pontiac MESC branch paid out $183,009 in unemployment compensation claims.

24 Indian Tribes Help Students

Scholarship Programs Vary; Some Request Return to Reservation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many Indian tribes which once regarded a brave skilled in huntiing and fishing as a well-educated fellow, are now setting aside tribal money for college scholarships.

★ ★ ★

The Interior Department's Indian Bureau said the most recent allocation of Indian money for this purpose was made by the Wind River Shoshone Tribe of Wyoming, which set u a $10,000 college scholarship program.

Reservation tribes are spending almost $500,000 a year out of their own money for the higher education of their young people, the Bureau said.

★ ★ ★

Scholarship programs range from the $750 apropriated by a small tribal group in North Carolina to the income from a five million dollar trust fund established by the Navajo Tribe of Arizona, New Mexico and Utah.

24 TRIBES AID

Twenty-four tribes now have school grant programs. The Indian Bureau said these are conducted through committees which carefully consider applications and closely follow the academic careers of scholarship winners.

Terms and conditions vary with each tribe. Some, like the Navajo, request that scholarship students return to the reservation for at least a few years after graduation. Scholarships are ordinarily provided for students in nursing and other vocational schools as well as at liberal arts or technical colleges.

★ ★ ★

Glen L. Emmons, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, said that thanks to the tribal scholarships and to other aids provided by governmental and philanthropic organizations, the number of reservation Indians studying beyond the high school level rose from about 2,300 in 1954-55 to more than 3,800 in 1957-58, an increase of about 65 per cent in three years.

Foot Doctors Prefer Parking to Walking

NEW YORK (UPI) — Foot doctors aren't necessarily in favor of walking.

The Class of 1961 at New York's Lewi College of Podiatry recently asked the traffic commissioner to grant them the same parking privileges when they graduate as those enjoyed by Doctors of Medicine and Osteopathy.

A Dangerous Subject

AMHERST, Mass. (UPI) — School authorities decided to investigate a report that pupils were asked to write a composition for English class on the subject, "How I Would Poison My Family."

Science Wiping Out Threat of Malaria

LISBON (UPI) — A leading American expert on malaria says the disease is almost certainly being wiped out from the world, but warned that this doesn't mean the world will be rid of mosquitoes too.

"A lot of people think malaria eradication is the same as mosquito eradication," said Dr. Paul F. Russell of the Rockefeller Foundation. "That isn't so. We can beat malaria killing only a small percentage of the world's mosquito population."

★ ★ ★

Russell, who lives in North Edgecomb, Maine, was in Lisbon to act as consultant at a World Health Organization meeting of malaria experts. The meeting was part of a 76-nation campaign to erase malaria completely within 10 to 25 years — in some countries within five years.

Malaria is a mosquito-carried disease which has ravaged the world's tropical regions for centuries. For the past 300 years man has had only two defenses against it — the mosquito net and quinine.

Now, though, quinine has been pensioned off and replaced by such drugs as the German developed Chloroquine, the British Proguanil and the American Pyrimethamine.

And the net has been rendered obsolete by powerful insecticides which remain lethal to mosquitoes for months after being sprayed on walls.

★ ★ ★

Russell said "there is no doubt that the new method of wall spraying with insecticides has been the greatest single factor in helping defeat malaria."

He explained that the mosquito becomes a malaria carrier only by biting a man already infected with the disease. It takes the malaria parasite into its system from the sick man.

"This is where a useful trick comes in," Russell said. "It takes 10 days for the parasite to become potent within the mosquito. During that 10 days the mosquito can do no harm even if it bites another man, but we have a good chance of killing it."

The type of mosquito which bites a man, generally speaking, is the type that likes to buzz around houses, attracted by lights, humans, food.

But as soon as it hits an insecticide-sprayed wall it is finished. And in a general campaign of mass spraying of walls wherever there are dwellings it is a good bet the mosquito will hit a dose of poison before 10 days are up.

19 Once Potent Ships to Face Auction Block

LEE HALL, Va. (UP) — Time has run out for 19 ships in the fleet of some 300 in the James River reserve fleet and they will go on the auction block.

They are Liberty ships which once were potent weapons in the war of supply for troops overseas. Others will be kept for use in a future national emergency and in the meantime are used for storage of some 15 million bushels of grain.

New Farm Group Goal to Cut Waste of Funds

COTTONWOOD, S.D. (UPI) — Farmers' Association for Resources Management (Farm) seeks a greater price for the farmer in administering his own farm program.

Secretary-treasurer Homer Cook, who once headed the state's Agricultural and Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said that while serving in that post he saw too much government inefficiency and waste of funds. He said he signed up 600 members for the new group in less than a month.

Giant Air-Raid Shelter Now Is Vehicle Tunnel

STUTTGART, Germany — Germany's longest vehicle tunnel, recently opened to traffic, was started in 1941 as a giant air-raid shelter. After the war the City Council decided to extend one of the two bores.

Three million dollars was spent to make the 3,000-foot-long, 25-foot-wide, two-lane tube, which cuts through a hill inside the city of Stuttgart.

You Mean You DON'T Have a Clothes Dryer?

Then This Is Addressed to You

I have put this on a personal basis because I feel so strongly about a dryer. I have recognized its worth every day in my own home for the past 13 years.

Signed
THE MANAGER

Many times I have overheard my wife say, "If for some reason I had to choose between the ironer, automatic washer or dryer and could only keep one, I'd take back the hand iron and the old washer but keep the dryer."

When the children were young, we could get by with half as many diapers because we could wash and dry them within hours.

A wet snow suit from the snow ball fight could be dried and back in service in half an hour.

So many garments that we used to feel needed ironing, we no longer have to bother with because now they dry soft, fluffy and are not stretched out of shape.

Here's a Fact That You Can Get Your Teeth Into! –

If you would ask 10 women, "Would you like a clothes dryer?" It's my considered opinion that 9 would say, "Yes!"

While it is true that more people prefer Hamilton, perhaps the average person does not realize that the dryer was invented by Hamilton nearly 20 years ago.

Most manufacturers build 3 or 4 different models of clothes dryers. In Hamilton we offer a standard model, electric dryer for $148.00. A vastly better model at $169.95 and a still more deluxe model at $199.95. In gas models the standard is $168.00, the better one $189.95 and the still better one at $199.95. Gas models are installed free (meaning the gas pipe is connected and everything ready to use.) Most electric models can be operated as a plug-in appliance on 110-volt or 220-volt systems.

We have always operated our own service department and have earnestly tried to handle your service needs promptly. We can honestly say that we have had better service experience with Hamilton than any other make.

SHRINKING AMERICA — In the months just ahead, the impact of commercial jet air travel will begin to be felt in many American cities. By January, the giant jet liners will be spanning the continent in 4½ hours. Newsmap above spots those cities which are presently classified ready for jet traffic, together with their alternates. By mid-1960, according to Civil Aeronautics Administration schedules, 62 U. S. cities will have airports redesigned to handle jets.

Herbs, Spices Classed Together Under Latter

NEW YORK — What is the difference between a spice and an herb? Botanically, spices are roots, bark, buds, seeds, or fruit of aromatic plants that usually grow in the tropics.

Herbs are the leaves of plants that grew only in the temperate zones. But the American Spice Trade Association now classes both types of products under the general term, "spices."

Nicaragua is named for a native Indian chief.

Twins to AF Academy

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Identical twins have been appointed to the U. S. Air Force Academy. Lewis and Leonard Svitenko, 17, were star athletes and brilliant students in high school here, playing ends on the football team, serving as co-captains of the hockey team and competing on the track team.

Ike Determines to Cut Spending

Hopes Expenditures Can Be Kept Under Estimate Set for Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower hopes federal spending in the year starting July 1 can be cut below this year's estimated $79,200,000,000, Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass) reported today.

The House GOP leader told newsmen of the President's hopes after a breakfast conference at the White House.

★ ★ ★

Martin also said he and Eisenhower are convinced that with proper party organization the Republicans can stage a big political comeback in 1960.

As for spending, Martin said Eisenhower is determined to cut expenditures wherever possible.

"He is disturbed about the integrity of the dollar," Martin said.

Martin said Eisehower also hopes to avoid asking Congress for another increase in the public debt ceiling. The temporary ceiling of 288 billion dollars will revert June 30 to the new permanent ceiling of 283 billion.

Martin declined comment on the new move by Harold E. Stasen to keep Vice President Nixon from winning the GOP presidential nomination in 1960.

He predicted the Republicans will be able to work with the new, heavily Democratic Congress.

"We always get along pretty well with Democrats," Martin said with a chuckle. "There are a lot of good Democrats."

Man Bakes Prize Cake

Thinner Rugs Mark Return to Elegance

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Mister Edward Fields is a man who has brought down — and walked all over — some of the most celebrated people in America.

They called him a genius, instead of a brute. They paid hundreds of dollars for the privilege of being floored by Fields.

This is because Eddie is the foremost custom rug designer in the country. When he took the most famous faces in the U.S. and reproduced them in piles and twists, the owners of the faces were delighted.

Jerry Lewis ordered a dozen rugs of his face sent to friends; it marked the first time the incorrigible comic was ever brought to heel.

We mention this only to indicate how spartan is Mr. Fields. As rugmaker to the stars (and the otherwise wealthy) he is undaunted by public opinion — always does as he says, and says as he thinks.

"I think," he said today, "that the trend in carpets and rugs is toward thinness. No more lushness. No more pile rising to the knees. I call it, if you care, the 'return to elegance.'"

It seems, according to the designer, that the interior decoration picture has reached "the idiotic extreme of so-called luxury" that American cars have reached.

Cars are too wide to fit into a garage without scraping.

Carpets are too deep to walk on without tripping.

COMEBACK FOR THE AUTOGIRO — The autogiro, a novel aircraft of the 30's combining the virtues of the airplane and the helicopter, is being put back into production because its designer believes it was ahead of its time. The Kellett Aircraft Corporation of Willow Grove, Pa., says the new autogiro will debut this winter with deliveries expected next spring. The machine can fly as slow as 20 m.p.h. and cruise up to 120 m.p.h. Kellett's original autogiro is shown above in 1931.

"We are up to our insteps in rug," said Eddie. "And with five-inch-spikes on the new ladies' shoes, we are twisting our ankles in twists, looping the loop in loops, and weaving drunkenly through the weaves.

"Since rugs are made to be walked on," he added, "the time has come for a sharp return to simplicity. The object now is to make rugs as thin as we possibly can."

This thin look in carpets harks back to the days of Louis XIV, when the king commissioned artists to make tightly-woven, colorfully-patterned works of art. If Louis liked them, he paid off in handsome medals. If he didn't, the guillotine. (It was an era when "overhead" had more than usual significance in the floor coverings business.)

"But it was a period of real elegance," Fields said, "compared with what we have today, which is lushness to the point of vulgarity.

"Any rug over an inch thick is lush. Less than an inch thick, it can be elegant."

Having made a six-months survey into what kind of rugs are preferred by the top members of the National Association of Interior Designers, Fields spots two more trends in the future of the floor of the American home.

"If the decorators have their say, rugs will be unusual shapes — octagonal, scalloped, round — and multihued.

A blue one may have as many as six different shades of blue in it. Makes a rug much easier to keep clean than a solid color and subconsciously this is what a woman wants.

"She is just as tired of wading through a big pile of cleaners' bills as she is tired of wading through the absurd pile of today's rugs."

Each year the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers removes from New York harbor about 2.5 million cubic yards of sand and silt carried down the Hudson by natural currents.

What lies ahead for Pontiac's entry in the Saginaw Valley Conference and is Pontiac Northern making the right move toward league affiliation?

As it appears now, the Saginaw Valley is heading toward expansion. It could become an unwieldy organization.

The push is on to admit the new Flint Southwestern, along with Bay City Handy and Midland. Saginaw has plans for a third school. Pontiac Northern has even entertained thoughts of applying for membership.

With a little politics such as "I'll vote for your school if you vote for mine," the SVC could ultimately become a 10-team league.

Pontiac Central would become even more of a stepchild than it is now, and for Pontiac Northern, entry would force greater financial burden on the school district.

For many years it has been accepted that the Saginaw Valley Conference is Michigan's top schoolboy athletic league. The six schools including PCH have taken pride, and rightly so, in being members of the league.

Pride and sentiment however have to concede very often to realism, and the realistic fact is that Pontiac's stay in the SVC will not merely be a burden but become a financial drain.

★ ★ ★

There are now two high schools to be supported in Pontiac and Pontiac Northern has no other choice but to affiliate with a more homogeneous conference.

Membership in the Eastern Michigan League was turned down and application to the Inter-Lakes was tabled Tuesday night.

Van Dyke left the Inter-Lakes because it was the farthermost school of the league and its officials claimed transportation problems were primary factors. This leaves the door open for Pontiac Northern and the league seemed ready to pass on acceptance immediately.

★ ★ ★

But yet action was tabled, and it could be because Pontiac Northern appeared too casual about its application. Today, high schools find it very difficult to compete as independents.

Pontiac Northern, for the present, would be making a grave mistake not to push for membership into the Inter-Lakes and rule the Saginaw Valley out of its thoughts.

Right now Pontiac Central's nearest league rival is more than 30 miles away, while Pontiac Northern's farthest point for I-L league competition would be 15 miles. Yet for PNH, rivalries with such schools as Waterford, Walled Lake and Southfield could grow into a sound and financially sustaining program.

★ ★ ★

Transportation costs for PNH would be less than half of that of Pontiac Central yet it seems quite probable that receipts would be greater than that for Central.

There is no reason why high school athletics cannot sustain themselves. Cutting transportation costs and establishing closer community relations and rivalries are the assets for sustaining receipts.

Like Van Dyke which is moving within its own Macomb county boundaries, Oakland County high schools have obligations to their taxpayers. No county in the state outside of Wayne County has as many high schools as Oakland.

★ ★ ★

This leaves the eventual decision for school administrators to realign themselves for the good of intra-county relations.

These are the current class A schools in the county: Pontiac Central, Pontiac Northern, Waterford, Walled Lake, RO Kimball, RO Dondero, Birmingham, Southfield, Hazel Park, Ferndale, Berkley and Farmington. Enough for two good leagues.

But who will initiate the move? Where are the realists?

OUTSTANDING PLAYER — West Bloomfield High senior John Lucadam has been named Oakland County's outstanding gridder for 1958. The Pontiac Press award is presented each year to a player who stars on the field and in the class room. class room.

Keego Star to Receive Press Bronze Shoe Award

Lucadam Top County Player

By CHUCK ABAIR

One of the most versatile athletes in this area's history has been selected Oakland County's outstanding high school football player for 1958.

He is West Bloomfield High School senior John Lucadam.

The hard-working quarterback did everything but sell tickets to the Lakers' games while sparking them to a 7-1 season to earn the Pontiac Press award. He also will have a chance at a $1,000 scholarship prize offered by the Thom McAn shoe company of New York.

As a reward for being a standout gridder besides being a good student, Lucadam will become the 3rd county star to have his football shoe enshrined in bronze by the company. It will be placed in the school's trophy case.

★ ★ ★

Walled Lake's John Walker, now a member of the Michigan team, and Lou Pavloff of Hazel Park won the previous awards.

Michigan, Michigan State, Wisconsin and Hillsdale have expressed interest in the five-foot, nine-inch, 170-pounder and that's not surprising looking at his records of the past season.

Lucadam scored eight touchdowns and passed for the same number, booted 21 extra points in 28 attempts, averaged 8.5 yards rushing by gaining 547 yards in 65 carries and hit on 59 per cent of his passes (47 of 80) for another 744 yards.

★ ★ ★

He also did the punting all year for the Lakers, averaging 33 yards a boot, did an excellent job kicking off, kept enemy defenders baffled by his slick ball handling and was the best defensive man on his team.

Other touchdowns he scored and passed for were nullified by penalties. One was an 82-yard punt return. He might have scored many more except for a genuine unselfishness.

The president of the senior class completed well over 50 per cent of his passes in six of eight games featuring terrific showings against Northville and Clarkston. He connected on 13 of 19 at Northville as the Lakers bounced back from a 14-point deficit to almost win and clicked on 8 of 10 in a rainstorm against Clarkston.

★ ★ ★

"That Lucadam is quite a ball player," said Northville coach Ron Schipper while Ed Hintz of Clarkston commented that he "had never seen anyone throw a wet ball so well and so far" after those contests.

Hintz had stated early in the season that "Lucadam makes everyone's pass defense look weak." Don Hoff of Bloomfield Hills agreed later when he said, "Our boys were confused against Lucadam." Al Gratsch of Holly was next. He remarked, "You can't do much about Lucadam. He makes everything go. Pressure doesn't bother him."

John's own coach, Art Paddy, is not much for singling out stars but he says he thinks the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Lucadam could play for any team in the state regardless of class. "He's a good kid to coach and works hard all the time," said Art, who has brought the Lakers along fast in two years.

★ ★ ★

Many oldtime followers of prep teams at Keego Harbor rate the likeable "Luke" the best to ever play the grid sport there. They claim that others might have excelled in certain phases of play but could not do so many things so well.

Lucadam finished with a total of 16 TDs and 19 scoring passes in 3½ seasons of prep ball. He passed and ran well as a freshman tailback in the single wing but was not involved in any scoring, missing part of the season due to an injury. His greater success started as a sophomore.

Pre-high school training had included three years of Midget ball at Wisner Stadium and grade school games.

★ ★ ★

Described by WLHS principal Donald Weed as an "outstanding school citizen who has averaged between C and B," John is a modest 17-year-old youngster who someday hopes to be a coach.

He has starred in baseball and basketball for three years and got into track last spring.

There could be no more deserving player of the year selection than John Lucadam.

HONOR IN BRONZE — This is a replica of the award which all around grid ace John Lucadam will receive for being named the top area performer for 1958. The Thom McAn Shoe Company will enshrine one of his football shoes in bronze. The award will be placed in the West Bloomfield High trophy case.

All-County 11 on Its Way

The annual All-County football team as chosen by the coaches of the 35 prep teams in Oakland County will be found in Saturday's Pontiac Press.

Thirteen players, including two outstanding defensive gridders, will comprise the All-County team. All-star teams will also be broken down into Class A, Class B and Class C.

Who is Oakland County's Coach-of-the-Year? Watch Saturday's sports pages of The Press.

Writers Select Bosox Slugger for '58 Honor

Outfielder for Third Place Red Sox Draws 233 Points

BOSTON (AP) — Jackie Jensen, whose slugging helped the Boston Red Sox to a third place finish, today was named the American League's most valuable player in the 1958 season.

The 31-year-old outfielder ended the New York Yankees' four-year hold on the coveted award by drawing 233 points in the balloting by a 24-member committee of the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America.

New York right hander Bob Turley, the major league's pitcher of the year, was runner-up with 191 points, followed by Cleveland's Rocky Colavito with 181 and Kansas City's Bob Cerv with 164.

Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, the 1956 and '57 MVP winner, failed to gain a first place vote and wound up fifth with 127 points. Washington's Roy Sievers was next with 95 votes followed by American League batting champion Ted Williams of the Red Sox with 89.

The voting was by three baseball writers in each of the American League cities between the end of the regular season and the start of the World Series. A first place vote was worth 14 points, a second nine points, a third eight and down the line to one for 10th.

Jensen, who led the league in runs batted in with 122, earned a place on all but one ballot. He received nine first place votes, six seconds, three thirds, two fourths, two fifths and one eighth.

Turley had seven first place votes, but was not named on three ballots. Colavito picked up four firsts while failing to earn a point from two voters.

★ ★ ★

Cerv, who despite injuries crashed 38 homers, drove in 104 runs and batted .305, was the only player named on all 24 ballots. However, he was placed on top on only three ballots and had only one second.

Chicago's Nellie Fox, who trailed Williams by a single point with 88, was the only other player awarded a first place vote. He was named on 17 ballots.

Jensen tapered off after a tremendous first half in which he hit 24 homers, drove in 68 runs and batted .311 to earn a starting berth in the All-Star game. He wound up with 35 homers and a .286 average.

★ ★ ★

Told of his award at his home in Lake Tahoe, Nev., Jensen said:

"Oh, that's wonderful. This thrills me to death. You have no idea how happy this makes me. The MVP is the ultimate to all ball players."

Jensen is the first member of a nonpennant winner to be voted the American League MVP honors since New York's Yogi Berra in 1954. Berra also won the award the following year before Mantle captured it in '56 and '57.

Jensen has won many honors during his amateur and professional athletic career. A standout football back at the University of California in 1948, he played in the Rose Bowl and the East-West charity game. He also participated in a World Series with the Yankees.

After one season of Minor League ball with Oakland in the Pacific Coast League, Jackie moved up to the Yankees in 1950. He divided the next season between New York and the Kansas City farm in the American Assn., before being traded to Washington in 1952.

'No Love' for Bears

Lions Haven't Forgotten Loss in Pre-Season

Many Injuries Suffered in Dallas Game Hurt Season Start

DETROIT (AP)—It will be teacher against pupil when the Chicago Bears and the Detroit Lions clash at Briggs Stadium Sunday.

"The most important things I know about football were taught me by George Halas," Detroit's George Wilson often has said.

Wilson, the Lions' coach, played for Halas on the great Bear teams of the early 1940s but this will be their first official contest as coaches. The Bears won a bruising pre-season game 24-17.

"Halas and I are good friends and I respect him a whole lot," said Wilson yesterday, "but there'll be no love lost Sunday afternoon. He doesn't care about me or anybody else—all he wants to do is win. And I think that's the right attitude."

Wilson accepts the Halas coaching philosophy as a gospel. Rigorous training, hard-nose players and no sentiment—it has worked for Halas and Wilson believes it will work just as well in Detroit.

"The Bears hurt us bad in Dallas in the pre-season game," said Wilson, "but for all the trouble those injuries brought us, I can't complain about a thing. They just had rougher, tougher players than we did and they played rougher and harder. If more of our players were like that, it wouldn't make me mad at all."

The Lions and the Bears have met 48 times down through the years. The Bears, now with a 5-3 record and two games behind division-leading Baltimore, must have this one to stay in the title chase.

The Lions' championship hopes faded a long time ago but this is a pivotal game. A triumph would bring Detroit even with four victories against the same number of defeats and one tie.

A crowd of more than 54,000 is expect to jam Briggs Stadium in another sellout. Chicago will be without ace end Harlon Hill but fullback Rick Casares, hurt in last week's 17-0 loss to Baltimore is reported ready to run at full speed. Scatback Willie Galimore, hobbled by injuries the last several weeks, is nearing top form again, too.

Pistons Lead League in Goals and Fouls

It's a strange situation the Detroit Pistons find themselves in today after 13 games in the 1958-59 National Basketball Association.

They have won five and lost eight, as compared to 6-7 a year ago, yet Coach Red Rocha's club actually leads the NBA in field goal shooting with a hefty .406 average.

What, then, is the difficulty? A further look at league statistics shows that the Pistons are first in personal fouls and dead last in free throw shooting with 344 in the former department . . . an average of 26.5 per game . . . and a .728 mark in the latter with 381 FTM's in 523 attempts.

Is there any particular reason why the Pistons have run up so many personals? Rocha is at a loss to explain:

"Don't ask me why we get so many fouls called on us because I really don't know. Actually, fouls have hurt only in a couple of those games and a key basket here or there would have made the big difference, anyway."

★ ★ ★

Tuesday night's 115-102 loss to Boston at St. Louis was a typical example. The Pistons outshot the Celtics from the floor, 41-38, but were tagged with 30 personals. This enabled Boston to post a 39-20 edge from the charity line.

Yet, twice Detroit was within striking distance and muffed the opportunity with erratic shots from the floor.

★ ★ ★

Rocha isn't too discouraged, however. The next four games are with Western Division rivals Cincinnati and Minneapolis, the first scheduled against the Royals Saturday night at University of Detroit Memorial Building.

Rangers Gain Second in NHL

Prentice Scores Four Goals to Pace Win as Bruins Bow

By The Associated Press

The New York Rangers are getting help from all sides. Not only are their own players catching fire in the torrid National League race, but even ex-Rangers are stepping in too lend a hand.

Paced by Dean Prentice and Andy Bathgate, New York whipped Toronto 7-4 last night. And when former Ranger Ron Murphy scored twice to lead Chicago to a 3-2 victory over Boston, New York pranced into second place—only a point behind pace-setting Montreal.

Prentice scored four goals and Bathgate took over undisputed possession of the individual scoring lead with a goal and four assists as the Rangers won their fifth straight. It is their longest winning streak in 17 years.

Bathgate raised his point total to 25, breaking a tie with Eddie Litzenberger of Chicago, who was shut out.

The Hawks moved into a third place deadlock with Boston and idle Detroit. Each is only a point behind New York.

Murphy scored in each of the first two periods. Bobby Hull also registered for the Hawks. Leo Labine and Larry Regan had Boston's goals.

Lowly Royals Down Celtics

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics, overwhelming choices to repeat as Eastern Division champs in the National Basketball Assn., are having their troubles.

★ ★ ★

Although Bob Cousy, Bill Sharman and Bill Russell—Boston's big three—had 73 points among them, the Celtics dropped a 119-103 verdict to the Cincinnati Royals last night. It was the only game on the NBA slate.

Jack Twyman, one of the few veterans on the Royals' squad, scored 45 points as Cincinnati roared from behind to break a seven game losing streak.

Russell scored 27 points. Cousy had 25 and Sharman 21.

The setback dropped the Celtics three games behind leading New York and one and a half behind runner-up Syracuse. The Royals pulled to within a game of third place Minneapolis in the Western Division.

Northville Can Clinch W-O Title in Final

Two Wayne-Oakland League teams ring down the curtain on the 1958 Oakland County area football season tomorrow night.

The unbeaten and highly-rated Northville Mustangs are expected to have no trouble clinching their 3rd straight loop title meeting weak Clarenceville at home.

An upset would give West Bloomfield a share of the crown since the Lakers lost only to Northville in seven loop starts.

Players Want 25 Per Cent Slice

Baseballers Seek TV Cash

NEW YORK (AP) — Major League baseball players want a slice of the radio-television money melon and apparently they won't take no for an answer.

★ ★ ★

One of the 16 players representatives told the Associated Press yesterday the players already have discussed "the possibility of taking drastic action," should their demand for a 25 per cent cut be turned down by the club owners.

★ ★ ★

The players, who asked not to be identified, declined to say just what such "drastic action" might be.

League representatives Robin Roberts and Eddie Yost have been authorized by the players to ask the owners for a quick reply to their demand when the major leagues meet next month at Washington.

★ ★ ★

The players made the demand in October, but it received little publicity because of the World Series.

The players are asking for a slice of regular season revenues. They already receive 60 per cent on the 3¼ million dollars baseball receives for TV and radio rights to the All Star Game and World Series. That cut goes to the players' fund.

Player representatives will meet in Washington Dec. 1 to decide a course of action should their request be denied.

Earliest AL Opening

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Senators will launch the 1959 baseball season against the Baltimore Orioles next April 9, the earliest opening day in American League history.

Once more around and the grapevine will almost be bare. The prep gridders have called it a season except for a couple games here and there and the activity now is taking place indoors on the basketball courts.

So the old Swamis wind up another year after this week and next week the new champion will be crowned.

All the Swamis fell with Michigan and Michigan State so often this season they have received cards of sympathy from a couple of honorary Swamis named Oosterbaan and Daugherty. We rose and fell together!

Eskimos Force 3rd Game

WINNIPEG (AP) — Halfback Rollie Miles hauled in two touchdown passes Wednesday night as the Edmonton Eskimos whipped the Winnipeg Blue Bombers 30-7 and forced a third game to decide the Western Interprovincial Football Union championship.

Winnipeg won the opener of the best-of-three title series by the same score at Edmonton Saturday.

Ring Death Faces Inquest

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP)—Dr. Tom L. Coriden, Woodbury County coroner, said Wednesday he planned an inquest into the death of a 25-year-old Los Angeles lightweight of injuries received in a boxing match here Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

Nat B. Simon collapsed after the end of the 9th round in a scheduled 10-round bout with Danny Davis of Minneapolis. He was taken to a hospital where he died Wednesday.

The coroner said Simon apparently died of a brain hemorrhage but he planned an autopsy which will be held after the boxer's wife, Barbara, arrived from Los Angeles.

Dr. Coriden said he would decide at that time on the date of the inquest.

Simon's manager, Cal Woods, said the boxer was in top condition and was breathing easily after eight rounds. Newsmen at the ringside said Simon took a left hook to the head near the end of the ninth and collapsed after going to his corner.

Woods said Simon had fought 14 professional bouts before coming here, had four knockouts to his record and had never been knocked out before himself.

'M' Is Ohio State's Most Revered Foe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's rebounding Bucks wind up their campaign Saturday against their most revered foe—the Wolverines of Michigan.

After fighting back from the brink of what could have been their most disastrous campaign in years with their most scintillating conquest of several seasons, the Bucks are ready to bring the curtain down with a flourish.

Saturday's 38-28 verdict over Iowa's new Big Ten champions and Rose Bowl delegates goes into the record books as one of the finest fashioned by the Bucks in a long time. Scoreless in their last two attempts at Iowa City, the proteges of coach Woody Hayes erased all semblance of a jinx in the tall corn country.

Michigan comes to town with a not-too-fashionable record, the usually snarling Wolverines having won only two of eight starts—by identical scores of 20-19 over Southern Cal and Minnesota. Saturday they were beaten 8-6 by Indiana—a team swamped 49-8 by Ohio.

In 54 previous games with Michigan, Ohio has won 16, lost 34 and tied 4 for a .333 percentage—but the Bucks figure to make it 17 wins in Saturday's fray before some 83,000 fans.

This could be a "let's win one for Bennie" game so far as Michigan is concerned, because Bennie Oosterbaan, the Wolverine mentor, will be winding up his coaching career. Even that incentive, and the natural rivalry of the two honored foes, don't appear big enough to sway the balance too much.

The Michigans have given up a rousing 191 points, and how the leaky defense can contain the likes of fullback Bob White and halfback Don Clark is something Oosterbaan will have to figure out as he bids the gridiron game goodbye.

White rolled for 206 yards in 33 carries against Iowa, scoring three touchdowns. Almost duplicating his feat of 1957 when he carried seven of eight times in a 68-yard drive Bucks the conference crown and the Rose Bowl trip, White hauled the ball on 11 of 14 occasions in the 80-yard march which broke a 28-28 tie in the final period.

For the season he's carried 194 times for 778 yards. His 194 bangs at the line erased the school record of 187 in 10 games set in 1942 by Gene Fekete, now a Buckeye assistant. His ground-gaining total is 180 back of the 958 record set in 1955 by Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, now of the Detroit Lions. Hoppy did it in 161 attempts.

Prior to the Iowa game Ohio had been tied by Wisconsin, lost to Northwestern and tied by Purdue—only the third time in Hayes' eight years he had gone three contests without a victory. A loss to the new champions would have left him with his second poorest record since he bowed in with a 4-3-2 campaign in 1951.

There was some mumbling about Hayes' "fight it out on the ground" attack, some of the fans favoring a more open style of play, but the win over the Hawks—second in the national rankings — silenced most of it.

Spartans in Bad Shape for Kansas State Finale

Injuries Catch Up at MSU

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Injuries have caught up with the Michigan State football team, which will end a dismal season against Kansas State here Saturday.

★ ★ ★

"We haven't been in such bad shape since the last two games of the 1956 season," said coach Duffy Daugherty as he ran his squad through practice yesterday. The Spartans were relatively free from injuries early in the season but 10 came out of the Minnesota game with injuries last week and some have been slow to respond to treatment this week.

Among those expected to be sidelined or slowed with injuries Saturday are ends Sam Williams and Fred Arbanas, guards John Middleton and Ellison Kelly, and and halfbacks Dean Look, Herb Adderly and Henny Young.

Fourteen letter-winning seniors, including some who were stars when Michigan State was riding the crest of national fame, will end college football careers Saturday.

The seniors:

★ ★ ★

Dick Barker, Kelly, Cliff LaRose, Archie Matsos, Jerry McFarland, Middleton, Fran O'Brien, Ron Rickens, Williams, Don Arend, Bob Handloser, Art Johnson, Mike Panitch and Jim Wulff.

Daughterty said he will start an all-senior lineup but has indicated sophomores and juniors will bear the brunt of the action.

Michigan State, ranked ninth in the Big Ten in offense, will be looking for a combination of juniors and seniors that can give the Spartans more scoring punch next year. The Spartans have scored only 37 points during conference play.

The Spartans, however, are second-ranked in conference defense, holding opponents to 96 points.

★ ★ ★

Pass defense has been stressed most of this week by the Spartans. The Wildcat quarterback, Les Krull, leads the Big Eight in passing with 45 completions on 77 throws.

Michigan State, which will be gunning for its third victory of the season, holds the edge in the series with Kansas State, with four wins and a tie in five meetings.

Orioles Will Finish Slightly in Black

BALTIMORE (AP) — Indications are the Baltimore Orioles will finish the year just barely in the black on something less than $35,000.

Two factors are chiefly responsible, a drop in attendance to 829,991, down 200,000 from the 1957 figure, and large layouts for bonus players and the farm system which cost about $700,000 to operate.

Treasurer Zanvyl Krieger disclosed after yesterday's annual board meeting that the fifth place American League club would finish slightly in the black.

Eagle Grid Fan Rescues Ducat From Garbage

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A distraught patron, cupping a mound of torn cardboard in his hands, rushed up to the Eagles' ticket office at Franklin Field Sunday, Eddie Doyle, ticket manager for Philadelphia's National Football League team, related Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

"If I put them all together, will you take them?" the customer asked.

"Sure," said Doyle, "what happened?"

"My wife didn't want me to go to the game; she wanted me to fix the rain spout," he answered. "She tore them up.

"But I fooled her. When she went to bed, I got the tickets, piece by piece, out of the garbage."

Stomach Upsets Hit Golfers in Canada Cup Tournament

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The international golf championship and Canada Cup matches got under way today, but there was an upset before they started. Upset stomachs, that is.

Almost a dozen of the 64 players from 32 countries who teed off today in the world championship of golf suffered varying degrees of "turista"—upset stomachs—on the eve of the tournament.

★ ★ ★

Ben Hogan and Sammy Snead, the favored U.S. entries, were not hit.

Pills relieved the majority of those affected and tanks of oxygen at the ninth and 18th holes today will take care of others who have complained of the mile-and-a-half high altitude.

The brightest field yet for the International and Canada Cup matches went into action early this morning on the tough but beautiful 7,216-yard, par 72 Club de Golf Mexico course.

The two-man team with the lowest combined score will win the Canada Cup. Individual low scorer wins the International Championship.

For a while yesterday it was feared the field might be cut by illness. Several players reported for practice with upset stomachs.

They included John Panton of Scotland, Dave Thomas of Wales, Frank Phillips of Australia, Al Balding and Henry Martell of Canada, Bernard Hunt of England and Flory Van Donck of Belgium.

★ ★ ★

None was seriously ill, although Thomas left the course after playing five hole of listless golf. Panton also quit after a few holes.

German Rider Star at Show

Michigan Horse Wins Jumper Stake Event at Toronto

TORONTO (AP) — Hans Guenther Winkler of Germany, who shapes up as the year's finest horseman in international jumping competitions, rode two horses Wednesday night to win the five-nation two-and-two event at the Royal Winter Fair.

Winkler cleared all 18 obstacles with the two mounts, Sonnengianz and Hall. His was the only perfect performance of the contest.

Mexico's Roberto Vinals rode Malinche and Chihuahua II to a second-place rating with four faults.

Tom Gayford of Canada, aboard Beau Blue and Blue Beau, finished third with seven faults.

Navarra, owned by Max Bonham and A. E. Knowlton, of Grass Lake, Mich., won the Silver Jubilee Jumper Stake.

Broken Leg No Handicap to This Back

CLIFFSIDE PARK, N. J. (AP)—Cliffside Park High School football player Ted Rzempoluch was hurt four games ago, but no matter.

★ ★ ★

In three games since, Rzempoluch who plays fullback has become his team's leading scorer, with 42 points.

The injury he suffered in a game with Hackensack High Oct. 11 was determined yesterday.

★ ★ ★

It's a broken leg, and Rzempoluch will sit out the rest of the season on the bench with the leg in a cast.

Meet Friday to Draft Policy

MSU Athletic Council Will Study Recruiting

EAST LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan State Athletic Council meets tomorrow to draft its stand on how much money and pressure should be used to recruit athletes.

★ ★ ★

Policies approved by the 13-member council will be carried to a Big Ten meeting in December by council chairman Harold B. Tukey.

One proposal would deny scholarship aid to athletes in the lower third of their high school class. The other would allow coaches to visit high school athletes in their homes.

Tukey indicated many coaches themselves were opposed to the liberalized proposal that coaches visit, because they would become "traveling salesmen."

★ ★ ★

"There are some who say coaches should not be out peddling their wares," Tukey said. "Others say some schools need the provision if their athletic programs are to exist."

Football coach Duffy Daugherty indicated he preferred to have prospective players come to the coaches.

"I think it's always a good idea for the kids and their parents to get a look at the campus," Daugherty said.

★ ★ ★

MSU athletic director Biggie Munn was reported to be opposed to the liberalized regulations for coaches, but he refused to be quoted.

★ ★ ★

Tukey predicted the tightening of scholastic standards would pass both the MSU council and the meeting of the Big Ten faculty representatives.

Bird on Barrel Spoils Hunter's Chance for Deer

One of those unusual experiences deer hunters are prone to run inhappened to Earl Hotchkiss, 3280 Warringham, Drayton Plains. Earl was hunting near Mio, when an inquisitive chickadee cost him a wide open shot at a deer. He got his buck, later, however.

Hotchkiss says he had leveled his rifle sights on the buck, when a noisy little bird swooped down. The chickadee alighted on Earl's rifle barrel, stayed there several minutes, scolding and fluttering as if in protest at the hunter's plan to down the deer.

★ ★ ★

"The bird's actions made me laugh so hard," says the hunter, "that I couldn't hold the gun steady and missed my shot."

Rack on the 8-pointer Hotchkiss finally bagged, was one of the finest reported to The Press sports department this season.

★ ★ ★

Hotchkiss' brothers, Robert, Chuck and George, his father, John (of Mio) and two nephews comprised the hunting party, none of whom, except Earl, was successful.

Colts to Draw Largest Crowd Against Rams

Game Which Could Be Title Affair Sunday Is Already Sold Out

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Weeb Ewbank said he couldn't make up his mind who will start against the Los Angeles Rams Sunday after he gave his two injury-ridden quarterbacks an equal workout.

Johnny Unitas and George Shaw alternated without favoritism to one or the other in the customary Wednesday afternoon practice devoted exclusively to offense.

The Rams must win this game to stay in title contention and a victory for the Colts coupled with a Bears' loss in Detroit would clinch the crown for Baltimore.

Baltimore fans are all hepped up for Sunday's game regardless of who will start. They've bought out all 57,557 seats for the first sellout advance sale and most seats ever available in Colt history.

It is the third time the Colts have sold out this season, something they never did before in five years in the NFL.

The capacity on Oct. 4 against the Chicago Bears was 52,622 and it was all taken. It was increased Oct. 26 for the Washington Redskins to 54,403 and that was sold out. So more temporary bleachers on the field of Memorial Stadium were erected to boost the total to the biggest crowd for a professional sports event in Baltimore history.

"I haven't made up my mind," said Coach Ewbank on whether he would go back to Unitas and relegate Shaw again to the bench.

Unitas looked and was declared ready by Ewbank to return after two weeks of being out with broken ribs.

The Colt coach said for that matter Unitas could have played last week against the Chicago Bears "although I had no intention of using him then."

However, he did allow Unitas to warm up and observers got a chuckle out of Ewbank by guessing the pre-game show upset Coach George Halas of the Bears after preparing all week for Shaw.

Shaw injured a knee in the Bear game, although he was able to carry on and finish the game for a 17-0 victory, the seventh in the eight games for the Colts.

STILTS—Big Wilt "The Stilt" Chamberlain, 7-foot star of the Harlem Globetrotters, makes his first Detroit appearance next Monday night November 24th at the U. of D. Memorial fieldhouse.

2 Want Title Chance After Webb Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Spider Webb's slashing, bloody victory over Joey Giardello brought clamor today for a shot at the middleweight title from two corners.

Webb contended his seventh-round TKO last night entitled him to a fight with Sugar Ray Robinson.

★ ★ ★

Another claim came from a television viewer in Salt Lake City. Shortly after referee Vern Bybee stopped the gory Cow Palace fight, Marv Jensen issued a statement claiming his ex-champ, Gene Fullmer, rates the next crack at Robinson.

Strikes and Spares

By JOE WILMAN

Yesterday we discussed the "clothesline" spare on the right. Today, let's look at the same spare on the left — the 1-2-4-7. This is one a right-hander will face fairly often, especially if his ball has trouble getting up and into the 1-3 pocket.

A normal hook ball has an advantage here, because it will be hooking right into the pins. I suggest you take your stance to the right of center, and release the ball on the right side of the alley, too. Angle the ball across and into the 1-2 pocket as we show in today's drawing.

The ball strikes both the 1 and 2 pins; the 2 is sent back into the 4, and the 4 back into the 7. You must have this pin action to turn this one in.

It's also possible to convert this spare by hitting the 1-pin on the right, sending it into the 2, and so on. But this method is not as certain because pin action must account for 3 of the pins. Always strike as many of the pins as possible with the ball.

Gil Turner Has Hopes of 'Retiring' Flanagan

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Gil Turner, the only man to whip Del Flanagan in the Irishman's hometown, tries to make it final tonight and in the process oust Flanagan from the welterweight title derby.

The hustling, durable Philadelphia fighter announced two days ago he aims to "retire" Flanagan from boxing. But Del is a slight favorite.

Local Teams Drilling Daily — Open Dec. 2

Basketball Is Here Already

By CHUCK ABAIR

Few people may realize it but the basketball season is right around the corner.

Most of the local schools have already had several hoop drills although the majority of the prep grid teams just finished recently.

It is a quick switch for athletes who play both sports but coaches have no alternative with openers coming up early in December.

Pontiac Central and the new Pontiac Northern are among many quintets getting into action for the first time Dec. 2. But the earliest lidlifter reported thus far will have Troy meeting Oak Park Nov. 28 — just one week from tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Art VanRyzin should have another good team at Central with such veterans as Charley Barge, John Bandy, Harrison Munson and Bill Hayward back. Height will be his chief problem. The Chiefs debut at Dearborn Edsel Ford.

Northern's game at Lake Orion will be the 1st varsity engagement of any kind for PNH. Coach Dick Hall has been working hard with 18 candidates.

Tom Derocher heads the returnees at St. Frederick while Art Robak is expected to spark St. Michael. Orchard Lake St. Mary must find replacements for scoring stars Art Goisdzinski and Paul Moniusko.

★ ★ ★

John Shadford heads into his 2nd year at Walled Lake with three starters back as a good nucleus. Waterford must rebuild with John Herrington and Jim Devine graduated. The same is true for new Birmingham boss Lew Parry.

Avondale has some experienced hands back but may lack depth. Lake Orion has two big boys with experience but needs a playmaker.

Dom Mauti has his work cut out at Clarkston with the remarkable Leroy Parks among the departed. Speedsters John Parks and Bob Porritt must carry the load. Jumpshot artist John Lucadam heads West Bloomfield. Holly has 6-6 George McDaniels and Milford Terry Anderson to build around.

Rochester has seven of nine lettermen back but will have a hard time replacing "Peanuts" Montross now at Fullerton, Calif., Junior College. Romeo and Bloomfield Hills are looking forward to good seasons on the hard wood.

Rochester was scheduled to be the 1st opponent of Pontiac Northern at the Huskies' new court but there is a strong possibility the gym will not be ready in time for the Dec. 5 meeting. If not, the game will be played at Rochester and the teams will clash here Feb. 24 in a reverse of the present schedule.

The next home game slated for Northern after Dec. 5 will not be until Jan. 9 with Detroit Thurston providing the opposition. It appears now that will be the first Pontiac appearance for the new school.

NO KIBITZING — Former Lions Bobby Layne (right) and Tom Tracy take a locker room break with a game of cards in the Pittsburgh Steeler locker room. Layne has perked the Steelers since joining them. The two used oversized cards. "It makes it easier for kibitzers," said Layne.

White of OSU After Big 10 Mark

CHICAGO (AP) — Fullback Bob White of Ohio State and end Rich Kreitling of Illinois will aim for Big Ten football records in the season finale Saturday.

White, who has gained 635 yards without once being thrown for a loss, needs to carry the ball only 10 times against Michigan to better the record number of carries set by Minnesota's Paul Giel in 1953.

White has made 154 trips in 6 games and has scored 60 points. His rushing yardage of 635, however, is far short of the record 919 by Illinois' J. C. Caroline in 1953.

Kreitling, tied with Iowa's Curt Merz with 18 passing receptions, has gained 540 yards and scored 5 touchdowns. A good day against Northwestern could surpass the record yardage of 650 set by Northwestern's Joe Collier in 1952 on 34 catches. Collier's 7 touchdowns that year also stands as a record which Kreitling can challenge.

★ ★ ★

Champion Iowa has ended its conference campaign and its sophomore flash, Willie Fleming, has matched the record of averaging 8.8 yards in 40 or more carries. This was set by Illinois' Bobby Mitchell in his 1953 sophomore year.

Official Big Ten statistics show that Iowa's Randy Duncan has clinched pass-throwing honors with 66 hits in 111 attempts for 898 yards and 7 touchdowns.

Duncan leads in total offense with 910 yards. Northwestern's Dick Thornton can beat out Duncan if he runs and passes for more than 142 yards against Illinois.

Enduring Romance Eluded Tyrone Power Despite 3 Trips to Altar

(This is the second of two dispatches on Tyrone Power, revealing his romances, marriages, successes and failures.)

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Tyrone Power, a romantic figure on the screen, cut a romantic swath through the hearts of filmtown's glamour girls, dating many Hollywood sirens, but never settling down to married life—though he made three trips to the altar.

★ ★ ★

In 1936 when he burst to stardom as a dashing broker in "Lloyds of London," he was single, slender and handsome.

Power became a man-about-town, a nightclub habitue escorting Loretta Young, Janet Gaynor, Sonja Henie and Norma Shearer to the spots along Sunset Strip.

Ty was a "catch," and his popularity burgeoned swiftly as his career sky-rocketed with "In Old Chicago," "Second Honeymoon," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Suez," "Marie Antoinette" and "Jesse James."

In 1939 he married French actress Annabella, whose real name was Ann Carpentier. She was four years older than Power and the mother of a 9-year-old daughter. To Power it meant the end of his carefree days—and it was. For nine years.

During his marriage to the blonde star Power realized his greatest success, starring in such hits as "The Mark of Zorro," "Blood and Sand," "The Black Swan" and "A Yank in the RAF."

★ ★ ★

He enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1942 and became a 2nd lieutenant, serving in Squadron 353 of the Marine Transport Command. Power was based in the Pacific—at Kwajalein, Saipan, Okinawa and Kyushu.

Like many another star, Ty returned to Hollywood wondering if he could pick up the threads of his career.

His doubts were dispelled in 1945 when he scored in "The Razor's Edge."

But his tour in the service had changed the happy-go-lucky Power. He came back to civilian life a quieter, more thoughtful man. His thoughts turned to the stage, but a firm contract with 20th Century-Fox studios forced him to continue making movies.

He divorced Annabella (they had no children) in 1948. And a year and a day later he married lynx-eyed Linda Christian in Rome.

Then came a whirlwind romance dating Lana Turner, among others, between marriages.

It proved an expensive and brief marriage. They divorced after six years when Ty agreed to a million-dollar settlement.

Their scraps, public and private, kept gossip columnists working overtime, but Power said nothing of his personal life. He was devoted to his daughters, Taryn, 5, and Romina Francesca, 3. Even after their divorce in 1955, the dapper actor spent as much time with the youngsters as possible.

Following his divorce, Power sought his life's ambition, to become a star in the legitimate theater.

Free from his studio contract, he traveled to London to star in the stage version of "Mr. Roberts." His efforts were greeted with lukewarm reviews. Then he toured the United States in "John Brown's Body," convincing his countrymen, at least, that he was a powerful dramatic performer.

Then he returned to movie-making. But now a new kind of hero was the rage—epitomized by Marlon Brando and Jimmy Dean.

His pictures were good, his performances applauded—"The Long Gray Line," "The Eddie Duchin Story" and "The Sun Also Rises"—but audiences stayed home to watch television.

Tyrone Power had outlived the magic quality of his type—the clean-cut, romantic hero.

He became a stranger to Hollywood, appearing in tinsel town only to make pictures before retreating to New York, Mexico or Europe. At the time he said, "There is little to keep me here on the West Coast. Most of my friends are gone, and when I'm not working there is no stimulus for me here.

"Besides, I'm anxious to see more of the world and enjoy myself. I've worked hard for a long time."

His friends said Power should remarry, that he'd never found the right wife. But they were surprised last May 8 when Power secretly wed 26-year-old Deborah Mindaros near her home in Tunica, Mass.

They settled briefly in Hollywood before leaving for Spain and Ty's starring role in "Solomon and Sheba," a Biblical extravaganza—the type of movie that boomed Power to the heights.

And it was there he died, dressed in costume and grease paint.

Tyrone Power, born in Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1914, followed in the tradition of his family. He was an actor. He was a proud, dignified man who sought recognition as a serious dramatic performer.

Instead, he will go down in movietown history as one of the great matinee idols of his time.

California Plans to Restore Vines of Century Ago

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The State of California plans to restore the vineyards which flourished a century ago around the home of Gen. Mariano Vallejo, the last Mexican military commandant of California.

★ ★ ★

The Vallejo home, Lachryma Montis, is now a state museum. It is located 35 miles north of San Francisco in the Valley of the Moon, one of California's choice table wine districts.

Aubrey Neasham, historian of the California Division of Beaches and Parks, said the division would like to replant a 25-acre tract on either side of a lane leading to the old mansion.

He said it is hoped that varieties of grape used for winemaking by the General himself can be re-established, "as well as some of the finer varieties brought to the Valley from Europe in the middle 1800's."

Neasham indicated that planting the vineyard would take place in the next several yetars.

Nude Woman Leaps to Death Off Bridge

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — A nude woman jumped to her death yesterday from the bridge between St. Petersburg and Bradenton.

It was the sixth suicide jump since the bridge was opened five years ago.

Dep. Sheriff Luther Walent identified the woman as Mary J. Fitch, 31, of St. Petersburg, foster mother of two children. Her husband, Ira Fitch, was believed to be working on the Florida east coast.

Waterford Asked to Keep Tight Lid on Garbage

Waterford Township residents have been asked to install a tight cover on debris to be picked up by garbage collection agencies, according to newly appointed health inspector Emil Grischow.

Complaints have been received from property owners regarding the health hazard involved, when garbage cans have been tipped over by stray dogs, Grischow said.

Tyrone Power Comes Home

Star's Body Arrives in Hollywood, Funeral to Be Friday

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The body of motion picture star Tyrone Power was returned to Hollywood Wednesday night in a scene filled with attendant sadness for his widow, Deborah Ann.

Only a handful of newsmen and the late actor's close business associates were present when the canvas-covered casket was lowered from the cargo hold of a plane at International Airport.

Power, 44, died of a heart attack in Madrid Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Power, 26, who accompanied the body from Spain, was escorted to a waiting limousine. She is expecting a child in February.

When flash bulbs started popping, she burst into tears and rushed into the arms of Power's business manager, A. Morgan Maree.

As plans were completed for his funeral Friday noon in the Hollywood Cemetery chapel, a rift over protocol seemed over. Power's second wife, actress Linda Christian, announced she and their two daughters would not attend the rites.

★ ★ ★

Instead, Miss Christian said, they planned to pray for him in St. Martin of Tours Catholic Church in Beverly Hills.

"Our children have a beautiful idea of death, and I wish to preserve that," she said.

Power's widow had been quoted earlier as saying, "A funeral is a private affair," and also that it was her wish that the actor's daughters—Romina, 8, and Taryn, 6—remember their father as he was in life.

Power's body will be interred near the crypt of Rudolph Valentino—movie idol of an earlier era.

Civilian Hunters Give Up Search for Lost Airman

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Civilian patrols gave up the hunt for the missing navigator of a C119 transport plane, but Air Force ground parties searched again today in the mountain country east of here.

★ ★ ★

Sheriff Leroy Hadley called off the civilian volunteers, saying there was no hope of finding Capt. Donald Liggett alive. Liggett, 40, of Indianapolis, bailed out of the crippled plane into a snowstorm last Friday with seven companions.

Three of the men died in a weekend blizzard and four were rescued.

Hollywood Headlines

California's New Senator Great Shakespeare Fan

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — United States senators may be hearing quite a bit of Shakespeare in the next six years. California is sending to the Senate a man who can spout long passages of the Bard at the drop of a filibuster.

★ ★ ★

He is Clair Engle, rugged, plain-spoken former representative from the so-called cow counties of Northern California. Two weeks ago, he performed a major political feat by whipping one of the state's ace vote getters, Gov. Goodwin Knight for the Senate.

★ ★ ★

But then, Engle is full of surprises, not the least of which is his knowledge of Shakespeare. Before he left for Washington, I asked him if his cow county constituents were surprised by it, too.

"I haven't made any hooparaw about knowing Shakespeare," he replied. "But I don't think they would be surprised or shocked. I've found some of the best-read people I've ever known up in that country. Up there, they've got a lot of time to read — and to think."

He added: "I've never made any pretensions about being an expert on Shakespeare. I think there are too many people in the world who pretend to be experts."

His interest in the plays goes back to his youth. "I first began studying Shakespeare intently when I was in college," he said. "But I was reading it even before that. My father had the best edition of Shakespeare I've ever seen. It was set in big, readable type, and I've been trying to find that edition ever since."

He has read all of the plays, some of them many times.

"I don't often work the quotations into speeches," he said. "The great value I find in Shakespeare is how it helps you in phrasing." Any of his opponents can vouch for that. He has a gift for the picturesque and stinging phrase.

The senator-elect carries a volume of the collected works with him during his extensive travels. His favorite plays?

★ ★ ★

He chose "Hamlet" among the tragedies and "Twelfth Night" of the comedies.

High Hopes Reported for New TB Vaccine

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Two research scientists have expressed high hopes for a new anti-tuberculosis vaccine they developed.

★ ★ ★

They announced Wednesday that seven years of tests with animals and humans indicated the vaccine, RI, is safe and reasonably effective.

Dr. Stuart Willis, chief investigator in the project, said however that six more years of testing will be required to establish the vaccine's effectiveness in humans.

★ ★ ★

Willis' co-worker, Dr. H. Mac Vandiviere, said new methods of TB treatment have drastically reduced the death rate from the disease—although the number of TB cases has declined very little.

Both men are employed by the State Sanitorium System, which embraces the state's TB hospitals.

Safety of the vaccine has been demonstrated through tests with 6,000 animals, Willis said.

Cup of Coffee Costs $15

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — Gilbert Checkley paid $15 for a cup of coffee Wednesday. He was fined by Municipal Judge Malcolm E. Trombley after a waitress in a downtown restaurant complained he failed to pay her a dime for a cup of coffee. The man pleaded guilty to disorderly charges.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Republican State Sen. William Bourdon listed expenses of $497 in his unsuccessful campaign for re-election. In a footnote to his financial statement, he said "I received no financial help from anyone and very little of any other kind."

'Last Balloonist' Won't Quit Yet

14th Member of Family to Tour Country Fairs in Spectacular Stunt

DES MOINES (UPI)—Capt. Eddie Allen, 62, who claims to be the only government-licensed "hot-air" balloonist left in the country, figures he's the last one as well, but he's not yet ready to quit.

★ ★ ★

Allen estimates he has gone up in a balloon and has parachuted back to earth more than 3,000 times without suffering a serious injury.

He said he'd retire "when I get old," but that "I haven't even thought of getting old yet."

Recently, he performed his stunt at the Iowa State Fair, where "Cap" Allen said he made his first jump at the age of 15 and thus became the 14th member of his family since 1874 to ascend in and descend from a balloon.

CIVIL WAR START

He explained that his father and two uncles began working with balloons during the Civil War—when they were used for reconnaissance—and after the war ended continued experimenting with the devices. Later, he said, they started touring fairs and the family interest in ballooning was launched.

Allen said, with an unhappy note of finality, that he would "probably be the end" of the family jumpers since none of his four children is interested in making a career of the art.

The balloon ascension and parachute drop, which began to lose popularity after World War I when pilots in their war-famous "Jennies" seemed so much more exciting, is a spectacular sight.

Allen hangs from a circular trapeze while the 90-foot high and 55-foot wide balloon climbs to 4,000 feet. Then he cuts himself loose and drifts down to earth with a parachute, always trying to steer it to a spot within the viewing area. The balloon also comes down on its own parachute.

"Cap," a native of Batavia, N. Y., admitted that "you get banged up a bit," but said neither he nor any member of his family ever suffered a serious injury doing the stunt.

He Couldn't Sell Belfast in 1603

Today, Capital of Ulster Is Bustling City With 450,000 People

WASHINGTON—In 1603 an Englishman named Sir Arthur Chichester said he would gladly sell the lands on which the city of Belfast now rests for five pounds.

There were no takers, and Chichester reluctantly went to live there himself. The city that grew up on his unwanted soil is now the seat of the government of Northern Ireland (Ulster), one of the biggest ports in the British Isles, and a world center for linen and shipbuilding.

Industrial Belfast rests at the mouth of Belfast Lough, an arm of the North Channel, the National Geographic Society says. Scotland is only 35 miles away, and through the centuries Northern Ireland has had close ties with its neighbor.

The city nestles snugly between the basalt hills of County Antrim and the slate hills of County Down. The concentration of industry in the region has not spoiled its natural beauty.

★ ★ ★

A castle was built at Belfast in 1177, but the town did not start growing until the 17th century.

In 1685 only 2,000 people lived in Belfast. Less than a century later, it had six times as many, and by 1831 the population had reached 53,000.

Today the city houses 450,000 people. About half the population of Northern Ireland lives in or near Belfast.

Belfast's rapid expansion began with the settlement of Huguenots fleeing religious persecution in France. The Huguenots brought improved methods of linen making, and Belfast became the center of the Irish linen trade. Shipbuilding began in 1791.

Tobacco, machinery and other industries sprang up. A big mineral water industry developed, and Belfast had the distinction in 1825 of inventing gingerale. Aircraft became important in the 20th century.

Beer Takes Place of Sake Among Japanese Youth

TOKYO (UPI) — The culture of old Japan is about to undergo another great transition. Before the year is out, Japanese may be drinking more beer than sake.

And it's a "sure thing" that beer will be the No. 1 Japanese drink in 1959.

★ ★ ★

The revolution in the drinking habits of more than 91 million Japanese has been gaining momentum in the post-war era. In the past two years, the new popularity of beer-drinking has been nothing less than spectacular.

Consumption of beer increased by more than 20 per cent from 1955 to 1957. Last year, Japanese drank a total of 144,762,776 gallons of the brew.

Japanese breweries estimate this year's consumption will hit 165,725,000 gallons. And by a coincidence, this is the same amount the sale industry estimates it will produce this year.

If beer consumption continues to increase at the present pace, sake, the traditional Japanese drink will be relegated to the No. 2 spot in popularity. (Sake is a wine made out of rice and usually is served hot).

Japan's younger generation is responsible for the switch to beer.

WOMEN ALSO

And since young women have taken to working in post-war Japan, they have also taken advantage of their new-found freedom to enjoy some of the other privileges usually afforded only to men. This includes drinking beer during the lunch hour and after work in Japan's numerous beer halls.

★ ★ ★

The working girls apparently like beer more than they do sake.

"The younger generation doesn't like sake," Masumi Takeichi, sales manager of the Kirin Beer Brewery, said.

"They like beer because the alcoholic content is not high," Takeichi added. "Sake is usually consumed with a small snack, such as raw fish. Drinking beer is more pleasurable because a snack is not necessary."

Takeichi also pointed out that beer sales are increasing all over Japan, not just in the large cities.

"Last year," he said "beer sales increased in 47 of the 48 prefectures in Japan."

While Japan is drinking more than ever before, it still ranks only 15th among the countries of the world. The United States consumes nearly 20 times as much as Japan.

Diabetes Incidence Up; Many Victims Unaware

DETROIT — Although the diabetes death rate in the United States has declined in recent years, the incidence of the disease has risen. There are many more known diabetics today than 20 years ago.

In addition to the million known to have diabetes, perhaps a million are unknowing victims. Furtthermore, about 4,750,000 people now alive will develop diabetes.

Grains Sagged by Broad Selling

CHICAGO (AP)—Early broad selling hit the grain futures market today and prices of some contracts on the board of trade sagged a cent or more a bushel in early transactions.

The steepest drop was in wheat and rye, but nearly all other contracts were lower, some by major fractions of a cent.

The weakness was attributed to the government report on the amount of grains and soybeans held under price support loan. It was viewed as bearish by some dealers.

Along with the government figures came a report that during October, Oklahoma and Texas wheat growers redeemed more grain from the loan than was placed in it.

Wheat was ⅝ to 1 cent a bushel lower near the end of the first hour, December $1.96; corn ¼ to ⅝ lower, December old type contract $1.15⅝; oats ⅝ higher to ¼ lower, December 65⅞; rye ⅝ to 1⅛ lower, December $1.31; soybeans ⅜ to ¾ lower, January $2.18.

Stock Market Pushes Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed narrowly closer to its record peak in heavy early trading today.

★ ★ ★

Many losers dotted the list but a majority of plus signs gave the market a slight upside edge. Changes generally were from fractions to a point.

A number of leading blue chip issues were about unchanged or a shade lower. Aircrafts, oils, some chemicals and selected issues went ahead.

The ticker tape was late for a 12-minute period at the opening when the higher tone was established in a follow-through to yesterday's moderate rise.

Confirmation of merger talks found Virginian Railway up about 2 and Norfolk & Western clipping more than 2 from a jump of 5 yesterday. Virginia halved its gain later.

Polaroid had a 4-point spurt, continuing a recent advance. Studebaker-Packard was briskly traded and up about a point following yesterday's late news of the big increase in short position, the number of shares of borrowed stock sold in expectation of a price decline. This bolsters the stock by forming a future buying cushion.

★ ★ ★

Eastern Gas & Fuel rose about a point in brisk dealings. Eastman Kodak and Du Pont were down a point or so. U. S. Steel and General Motors eased. Standard Oil (New Jersey) was firm.

Southfield Driver, 19, Gets Stiff Sentence

SOUTHFIELD — Pleading guilty to reckless driving, a 19-year-old Southfield youth yesterday was ordered to sell his car, spend five weekends in jail and was placed on a year's probation—without driving.

He is Robert H. Lemon, of 26939 Greenfield Rd. His companion Fred W. Mosdale, 22, of 20761 W. 13-Mile Rd., heard Detroit Traffic Judge John D. Watts hand him down the same sentence, except for the car sale.

The pair pleaded guilty to driving up to 100 mph Oct. 26 while fleeing Detroit police.

During the trial Mosdale said he asked Lemon to take his place behind the wheel because his driver's license had been revoked. The switch was made while speeding at 90 mph, he testified.

The car went through two stop signs and a red light before being stopped at Pearson street in Ferndale, officers testified.

Judge Bans Merger of Bethlehem Steel

NEW YORK (AP) — Proposed merger of the Bethlehem Steel Corp. and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. was banned today by U.S. Dist. Judge Edward Weinfeld.

The proposed merger would have been the biggest in business history.

In an 88-page opinion, Judge Weinfeld concluded "there is reasonable probability that the merger of Bethlehem and Youngstown would be in violation of Section 7 of the Clayton Act, substantially lessen competition, and tend to create a monopoly in the iron and steel industry."

State Lets Contracts on 2 Road Projects

The State Highway Dept. yesterday announced awarding of a contract for 5.4 miles of grading, drainage and dual 24-foot concrete roadway on M24, from Oxford road north to Brauer road, in Lapeer and Oakland counties.

Low bidder was Louis Garavaglia, Center Line, at $1,262,083. The project also includes some base widening and some bituminous concrete surfacing.

Another contract — for grading and drainage structures, bituminous concrete surfacing at the intersection of U.S. 10 and Scott Lake Rd.—was awarded to Charles W. Anderson, Waterford. His low bid was $21,779.

General 'Phone Merges With Sylvania Company

DOWAGIAC (UPI)—The presidents of General Telephone Co. and Sylvania Electric Products, Inc. today announced a merger of the two firms to form General Telephone and Electronics Corp.

In a joint announcement, General Telephone president T. A. Saunders, and Don G. Mitchell, president of Sylvania, said the merger would be effected on a share-for-share basis. The combined corporation has plants in 13 states.

Smaller Cars to Lead Market, Says Romney

BOSTON (AP) — President George Romney of American Motors says smaller, compact cars will take 50 to 60 per cent of the future car market because of shifting patterns in American living.

★ ★ ★

Romney, a Tobey lecturer yesterday at Harvard's Graduate School of Business Administration, said a "vast and revolutionary change" is forthcoming in the car market.

He gave four basic reasons: A further increase in car essentiality and functionalism; a rapidly increasing traffic problem; dwindling oil reserves, and a growing public concern over the use of natural resources.

The AMC president said the pleasure car of yesterday has become an essential in today's suburban movement. He said parking problems, traffic congestion and rising transportation costs call for a new sort of car.

★ ★ ★

He predicted that next year the small car will have 7 per cent of the market. He said the car market has started on a fundamental change as significant as that of the mid '20s when bigger and more powerful cars succeeded the Ford Model T.

Dog Track Owner Angry

Threatens to Sue Sinatra

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — A Miami dog track owner has threatened to sue singer-actor Frank Sinatra for backing out of an alleged agreement to show up at the races Wednesday night.

Isadore Hecht, president of the West Flagler Kennel Club, said he would take the needed legal action to prevent a movie company from using parts of a film it shot at the track.

Hecht claimed that Bernard Frank, whom he identified as Sinatra's local representative, approved a publicity agreement in which the crooner was to appear to present a trophy after the 10th race.

The dog track owner said Sinatra, here for the filming of "A Hole In The Head," was to make the appearance in payment for footage the movie company took at the track.

A spokesman at the Fountainebleau Hotel where Sinatra was staying said he was in bed with a 104-degree temperature last night.

Earlier yesterday, a Miami Beach hotel owner filed a suit in circuit court against the city for "maintaining a public nuisance" in the form of the movie set.

Mrs. Ethel Greenberg, owner of the hotel, asked for an injunction against movie director Frank Capra and Sincap Productions. Mrs. Greenberg also asked for damages for loss of business.

Mrs. Greenberg, whose hotel is directly across the street from where much of the filming was done, said Miami Beach police helped the movie-makers to barricade the street, thereby keeping guests away.

Another Model Home Looted in Farmington

Another looting of a model home has been reported in Farmington Township, the latest in a wave of break-ins which has netted thieves more than $200,000 in household furnishings.

The burglary, which is being investigated by state and township police, brings to approximately 80 the number of model homes struck by the burglars.

As in previous jobs, the thieves are believed to have used a moving van or truck to strip bare the house, according to Farmington Township Police Commissioner Hugh Owens.

The thieves stole bedroom and living room suites, a range, refrigerator and drapes.

Board Will Consider School Construction

School construction matters are the main items of business before the Pontiac Board of Education, which meets at 7:30 p.m. today in the board offices at 40 Patterson St.

Presented to the board will be plans for an addition to Madison Junior High School.

The board must decide whether to proceed with the construction of an addition to Bagley School. Approval of the Bagley project was held up a month ago after school officials reported that enrollment figures were below expectations.

Plans for the Washington Junior High Addition will also be brought up tonight.

Pontiac Woman Hurt in 2-Car Collision

A Pontiac woman was injured last night in a two-car collision at the intersection of Opdyke and Pontiac roads in Pontiac Township.

Lucille May Brozes, 42, of 1617 Giddings Rd., was treated and released at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. She suffered a contusion to the right shoulder.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Mike Brozes, 42, same address. His car collided with one driven by George C. Green, 16, 1244 Mt. Clemens St.

GM Car Ahead for '58

Competition Speeding Up Between Chevrolet, Ford

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The perennial Chevrolet-Ford battle for auto industry leadership is gaining momentum.

The world's two largest car makers are getting their production programming into approximately normal shape following a slow October start. Despite Chevrolet's heavy production loss in October it appears to have clinched the lead in output and sales for 1958.

Ford has its new Galaxie model in production for an early December presentation. This will further step up the competitive pace between the two major car builders.

The newest Ford series has been regarded as designed to compete with Chevrolet's fast-selling Impala line.

★ ★ ★

The most recently tabulated sales figures, covering the year's January - September period, gave Chevrolet a lead of more than 230,000 unit deliveries. In production the Chevrolet lead at that time was 237,659 cars. It now stands at 160,000, the drop being due entirely to the October shutdown.

Chevrolet has somewhat greater production capacity than Ford division. It has built as many as 41,500 passenger cars in a single six-day week. Ford division's top has been 40,000 for a like period.

Both are stepping up production. It is unlikely, however, that they will go to maximum volume in the remaining weeks of the year. Most of their assembly plants have been working on an overtime basis.

The Ford Galaxie model, borrowing much from the Thunderbird styling, will be Ford division's highest priced car. Its prices range from $2,303 for the two-door, six cylinder sedan, to $3,063 for the retractable hardtop, eight-cylinder unit. Chevrolet's suggested list price for the Impala range from $2,592 for a 4-door, six-cylinder sedan, to $2,967 for a V-8 convertible.

Both the Impala and Galaxie prices are exclusive of taxes and options.

Chevrolet brought two additional models into its Impala series for 1959 and dropped its Delray series. The Delray was its lowest price series. That distinction now goes to the Biscayne series. While the Biscayne price range is somewhat higher than was the Delray in 1958 comparisons are difficult because of design differences.

Some industry sources have suggested Chevrolet vacated the Delray price range to make room for a series of smaller cars it is expected to put into production next year.

This is pure speculation, of course. However, some of General Motors' imported cars carry tags higher than the suggested factory list prices for the Delray models in 1958.

When the Delray series tags were announced for 1958 they ranged from $1,824 to $1,955, plus taxes and options.

Reds 'Interfere' With Germany

U.S. Official Points to an 'Armed Domination' Over the People

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — The United States has accused Russia of "massive interference in German affairs."

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said the Soviet Union was guilty on this count because of "its effect to maintain by armed force domination over a large part of the German people."

At the same time, White dismissed Russian charges that the United States is using West Germany and West Berlin as bases for espionage activities.

★ ★ ★

The State Department branded the accusations "ridiculous" and said:

"It is not likely that these Soviet charges will succeed in convincing anyone that the Western powers rather than the Soviet Union itself are guilty of interference and subversion in German affairs."

White gave the U. S. reply at a news conference. The Soviet embassy made the accusation at a news conference in Berlin.

Bomber Flips on AF Runway

2 Crewmen Slightly Hurt in 'Rush' Landing With Fuel Running Low

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — A B57 medium bomber flipped over on its back during a "rush" landing at McChord Air Force Base here last night.

★ ★ ★

The plane, an Air National Guard aircraft from Adams AFB at Little Rock, Ark., carried only a pilot, Lt. Luther Kilough, and a copilot, Lt. Jack Lykes.

The two men were hanging upside down by their seat straps and firemen had to chop through the canopy and cut them down. They were treated at the base hospital for minor injuries.

★ ★ ★

Capt. Joseph Wiggins, base public information officer, said the plane was inbound from Albuquerque, N. M., on a navigational training flight when the pilot radioed that he had minimum fuel.

The plane was steered into McChord and touched down five minutes later, but because of the high rate of descent it bounced high and began a rapid, bumpy skid down the runway.

Wiggins said the plane bounced on and off the concrete for several thousand yards before finally losing parts of both wings, one of its engines and flipping over. It did not burn.

Court Says Injunction Against Union Error

CINCINNATI (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals, Sixth Circuit, ruled yesterday that a lower court erred in granting a temporary injunction against the District Council of Carpenters and Joiners Union Feb. 20 in Detroit, Wayne and Oakland Counties.

★ ★ ★

U. S. District Judge Ralph M. Freeman issued the injunction on complaint of John Cicci, who employs members of the union. Cicci charged the council instructed its members not to work for him. Cicci also accused the council of ignoring an agreement relating to the handling of grievances.

The injunction as issued after the union failed to answer the complaint or make an appearance, according to records. Nine days afterward, however, the union came to court with its answer, the records showed.

★ ★ ★

The appellate court held that the union was entitled to further hearing on the matter in its reversal.

Ex-Mayor, Official Freed in Bribe Case

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—Former Mayor Glen Alsip and former City Commissioner John Flanigan of Roseville were acquitted of bribery charges yesterday on a contractor's testimony that he was promised nothing from his $2,000 gift to them.

★ ★ ★

Circuit Judge James E. O'Neill of Saginaw ordered a verdict of acquittal from a jury upon ruling that no crime had been proved. He had heard the case with a jury of 11 women and three men in Macomb County Circuit Court.

The contractor, James S. Marsack, 29, of Mount Clemens, testified under defense cross-examination that Alsip and Flanigan promised him nothing when he gave each of the two $1,000 in 1956.

★ ★ ★

Alsip, 35, and Flanigan, 50, were indicted after a grand jury investigation of alleged irregularities in city government.

Marsack, an excavation contractor, said the only reason he gave Alsip and Flanigan the money was "because I didn't want anything to hold me up on the job."

Closes Adrian Plant

ADRIAN (AP) — Borg Warner Corp. has announced the closing of its Primor Products Division in Adrian. Production of air conditioners at the plant was halted in September. Activities of the plant will be handled at the company's York, Pa., plant. The Adrian plant employed 65 workers.

U.N. Awaiting U.S. Decision

Eyes Soviet Proposal for Study of Peaceful Outer Space Uses

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —U.N. delegates waited today for the United States to make up its mind about the Soviet Union's compromise proposal for an international study of peaceful uses of outer space.

The U.S. delegation indicated it expected to receive instructions from Washington by nightfall. Sources close to the delegation said both the State Department and the Pentagon were studying the Soviet proposal and would have to reach a joint decision.

★ ★ ★

Introduction of the Soviet resolution Tuesday raised hopes in the U.N. Assembly that the way was opening for initial steps toward an international space-for-peace program. The Russians dropped their earlier demands for abandonment of U.S. bases overseas and a ban on military space missiles.

The new Soviet proposal called for creation of an 11-nation study group. This closely resembled the plan sponsored by the United States and 19 associated nations.

★ ★ ★

The Soviet plan went a step further, however, and recommended that the group lay the ground rules for a permanent U.N. committee to sponsor cooperation in the study of outer space for peaceful purposes.

Delegates felt some new proposal, combining features of both the U.S. and Soviet plans, might emerge to win unanimous Assembly approval.

Coldwater Feud Ends in Deadlock

Commission Chairman Says Some Practices at Hospital 'Undesirable'

LANSING (AP) — A running fight between the State Mental Health Commission and a legislative investigating committee has ended in a deadlock after a few more bitter words were thrown by both sides.

Both probed the death of a mental patient, Joseph Kibilowski, 45, of Bronson, who died Oct. 8 at the Coldwater State Home and Training School.

Harry J. Phillips (R-Port Huron), committee chairman, claimed that abuse by attendants contributed to the death. The commission report stated the patient died of a long-standing kidney disorder and there was no abuse by attendants.

Dr. Harry E. August of Detroit, commission chairman, said yesterday before the legislative committee that he felt some of the practices at the hospital were "very undesirable."

He said there would be changes in admittance and patient care procedures but stated there would be no firings.

"Certain practices on admittance of patients and medical care need revision and should be corrected," August said.

"Don't you feel it's abuse to drag a patient up a flight of stairs?" Phillips asked.

"It's not very desirable," August answered.

"I still think the patient was treated sadistically and I still think the administration there stinks," said Phillips.

Strike at Bearing Plant

DETROIT (AP) — Some 2,800 United Auto Workers Union employes went on strike at midnight Wednesday at the Bower Roller Bearing Co. plant in Detroit. The company is a division of Federal-Mogul-Bower Bearings Corp. The walkout came at the expiration of a three-year contract. The company and union had been negotiating on a new contract for three months.

Arrest Veteran Mail Clerk in $97,000 Postal Theft

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — A postal clerk, the father of five children and a veteran of 17 years in the Post Office Department, was arrested yesterday on charges of stealing $97,000 from a train between Portland and Boston.

The clerk, Robert S. Doucette, 42, of Portland, was seized as he stepped from the train after its return to Portland. Postal inspectors said he had $7,000 with him. The rest of the money was found in an automobile parked at the station here.

Authorities indicated that Doucette apparently picked the car at random and tossed two mail sacks containing $90,000 into it when the train left for Boston last night.

Doucette was suspected immediately when the sacks were missed after the mail was unloaded at Boston.

Doucette was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Herbert H. Sawyer, who found probable cause to hold him in $5,000 bond for federal grand jury action. Doucette said he could not furnish bail at the moment.

There was no immediate explanation for Doucette's action. He had been employed by the Post Office Department since 1941. His wife said she had been instructed not to discuss the case.

Authorities said the money was being shipped from the First National Bank of Lewiston, Maine, to the Federal Reserve Bank in Boston.

They revealed that the parked car in which the mail sacks were found was registered to Woodrow B. Bean, of Portland, but said Bean apparently was not involved in any way with the theft.

Walking Across Nation

DETROIT (AP) — Erwin Erkfitz, 47, of Detroit, is walking from California to New York to demonstrate his physical fitness. He left the west coast Sept. 16. He expects to reach New York Nov. 26.

Gilmore Says U. S. Soft, May Lose Supremacy

DETROIT (AP)— Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press European correspondent, says the United States faces loss of world supremacy because it has become "soft" with its "automobile legs and television eyes."

He also says Soviet Russia will catch up with this country in domestic welfare and prosperity and eventually will exceed us. Communist China may do the same, he said.

The AP reporter and commentator, on a lecture tour, also described the United Nations as helpless because of what he called the "pretenses" that handicap its work.

Gilmore, former Moscow correspondent, made several observations in a Town Hall lecture yesterday.

The only time his audience interrupted his soberly worded speech to applaud was when he said the United States must cut down on its foreign aid.

Gilmore said the first step toward rejuvenation for America should be "recognition that we can no longer afford to promise millions of dollars to foreign nations."

On the matter of America's world position Gilmore said "the plain truth is that the U. S. is getting to be less and less of a power."

"We no longer are invincible," he said. "We can either live with this knowledge or work like a nation of beavers to change it."

"We are getting pretty soft, with our automobile legs and television eyes," he said.

★ ★ ★

He said that "unless we rally" the United States will lose its world supremacy "and if it goes, never will a great nation have fallen so quickly."

Gilmore was critical of U. S. foreign policy in the Middle East and toward Nationalist China.

But he said Russia would not start a war though China might do so because she is "more reckless."

He also predicted there would be no war over Quemoy but said that our policy with Chiang Kai-Shek "has left us only two choices—back down or make a deal embarrassing to us."

★ ★ ★

Gilmore said Chiang could hold Quemoy only by committing the U. S. to war. He predicted Chiang would give up on Quemoy and "linger on in Formosa as a shriveled war lord."

Gilmore said the UN's "pretenses" are that it is a united body, that its members have equal vote, that it is "sacred and deserves blind loyalty," and that world issues can be settled by public debate.

FUTURE FLIER — Iven C. Kincheloe III plays with a toy poodle in his grandmother's home at Oakland, Calif., after his mother was notified by President Eisenhower that Iven may be allowed to attend Air Force Academy when he is old enough, in memory of his father's work for the Air Force. He was the top test pilot, and died in a plane crash before he could test the latest experimental plane.

Missing Actor Found Dead in Wrecked Car

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Like teenagers' idol James Dean, Tom Pittman was considered one of Hollywood's most promising young actors.

Like Dean, he was moody, a habitue of coffee houses. He never owned a suit—"I never go any place where you have to wear suits."

Like Dean, he had one love—speed. Both owned 175-m.p.h. Porsche Spyder sports cars.

Dean died in his when it crashed on a highway near San Luis Obispo, Calif., three years ago.

★ ★ ★

Pittman's career was just beginning to roll. Friends say he earned at least $60,000 this year in radio, television and film roles. He appeared in "The Proud Rebel" with Alan Ladd and on TV's "Wagon Train," "Cimarron" and "Zane Grey Theater."

The 25-year-old actor wasn't exactly handsome. But his boyish charm and acting ability—in the Tony Perkins-Dean-Marlon Brando tradition — earned him good parts. Critics liked him.

Then last Halloween Pittman disappeared.

He never showed up at his apartment after leaving a party at the home of Norma Stuart, former wife of actor Keefe Brasselle.

Pittman's father, TV-radio actor Frank Alten, filed a missing-persons report with the sheriff's office. Alten said his son, whose real name was Jerry Alten, liked to drive fast around mountain grades and might have gone off a road.

★ ★ ★

Officer Roy Kerton decided to check the grades in the Hollywood Hills yesterday. At a sharp curve he found the broken railing. In the 150-foot ravine was the nearly hidden wreckage of Pittman's sports car.

Pittman, lying half in and half out of the car, had been crushed between steering post and door. Eight feet of guard rail stuck through the windshield to the rear of the car.

★ ★ ★

Police said an autopsy will have to determine whether Pittman may have lived for hours, even days, after the crash.

Pittman had just completed his most important movie role in a forthcoming picture called "Verboten."

Its producer, Sam Fuller, said: "We lost a great talent with the death of Tom."

In the picture, too, Pittman meets a violent death.

Charge Against Gomez Believed Created to Divert Attention

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The mysterious affair of Vice President Alejandro Gomez subsided today with many observers convinced it had been trumped up to divert public attention from serious economic and labor problems.

Congress accepted the resignation of Gomez, whom President Arturo Frondizi accused of trying to oust him and form a coalition government. Gomez denied the charge, saying he had only warned the administration that a military plot was brewing.

★ ★ ★

Under heavy political pressure, Gomez went to the Senate Tuesday near tears and submitted his resignation. After more than three hours' debate a joint session of Congress accepted it early today. The votes were not counted.

On Nov. 11 Frondizi suspended constitutional guarantees to counter labor agitation just before accusing Gomez. The vice president had favored a conciliatory policy toward labor, which is strongly Peronist.

★ ★ ★

Political sources say military leaders who overthrew the dictator, Juan Peron, in 1955 forced Frondizi to take a firm stand against labor. There has long been speculation here that the military might try to force Frondizi out on the ground he has coddled Peronistas who helped elect him, letting Gomez succeed him to preserve constitutional forms. But this line of speculation runs, Frondizi has blocked his possibility by leaving no vice president.

FBI Notices a Boom in Robbing of Banks

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's a boom on in bank robbing.

It reached record proportions in the fiscal year ended June 30. Figures compiled today by the FBI showed the rate has continued upward.

★ ★ ★

In the July-October period there were 214 violations of the federal bank robbery law — 41 more than in the same four months last year. The violations included 132 robberies, 58 burglaries and 24 larcenies.

Convictions have increased, too. In the same four months there were 135 convictions under the bank robbery law compared with 64 in that period last year.

★ ★ ★

In the year ended June 30, there were 631 bank thefts. This was an increase of 116 over the preceding year and wiped out the old record of 568 set in 1955.

In a bulletin to law enforcement officers in September, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover called the surge in bank robbery violations "one of the most startling developments in the crime problem today."

2 U.S. Airmen Lose Final Japan Appeal

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's Supreme Court upheld today prison terms imposed on two U.S. airmen for injuring a Japanese taxi driver in an attempt to rob him.

★ ★ ★

Airman W.C. Andrew N. Hartman, 21, of Hogansville, Ga., and Airman 3.C. Phillip W. Morris, 21, of North Platte, Neb., were sentenced last Nov. 30 to 4 and 3½ years' imprisonment respectively. They have no further avenue of appeal.

★ ★ ★

The prosecution said Hartman hit the driver on the head with a beer bottle in Yokohama on May 5, 1957, while Morris was with him. They fled without getting any money from the driver and without paying their fare of 62 cents.

Bomb-Like Device Rocks Detroit Home

DETROIT (AP) — A bomb-like device exploded with a violent roar at the side of the home of a Detroit supermarket owner today, but caused no injuries and only minor damages.

★ ★ ★

Carl Lauri, 40, his wife Ann, 39, and their two children John, 8, and Joseph, 5, were in their East Side home when the device went off. Although shaken up and startled by the blast, they were not injured.

Police said the explosion knocked a few bricks out of the side of the Lauri home, broke several windows, buckled a garage door and slightly damaged a panel truck parked in the drive. It also broke windows in a neighboring home.

Officers said the device apparently was made out of a dynamite stick.

★ ★ ★

They said Lauri, who is co-owner of a supermarket (Lauri Brothers) could give no reason for the bombing.

Threat of Strike Forces Change

Video Viewers Won't See Any Difference in Straight Run-Through

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Because of the threat of a strike by the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists the television and radio performers' union, "Kiss Me Kate" will be seen on tape tonight over NBC-TV.

It should be a good example of the fact that the viewing audience can't tell the difference between live and taped television — provided the tape records the spontaneous quality of a straight run-through.

★ ★ ★

That is exactly the way it has been handled by producer-director George Schaefer of the "Hallmark Hall of Fame" production starring Alfred Drake, Patricia Morison and Julie Wilson in the Cole Porter musical.

"We have kept the same kind of excitement and live quality that we want in every 'Hallmark Hall of Fame' show," Schaefer says.

★ ★ ★

The taping of the TV adaptation of the Broadway hit was done last Saturday after a strike had been scheduled for midnight — and then postponed for 72 hours. (Ed. Note — It has since been postponed indefinitely, pending outcome of current negotiations.)

Schaefer says that the method used was the same as with every live TV show he directs — first a dress rehearsal "at full pitch," then Schaefer's notes of comment were read to the actors, and finally the straight run-through.

Another example of live television on tape will be visible tonight when "Playhouse 90" presents a Horton Foote adaptation of William Faulkner's "Old Man" on CBS-TV.

Sterling Hayden and Geraldine Page head the cast of the Fred Coe production directed by John Frankenheimer.

"Old man," a section of Faulkner's novel, "The Wild Palms," is one of his most celebrated stories. A program precis makes it sound terribly simple: two convicts put to work fighting the 1927 Mississippi flood and one wants to escape and one feels honor-bound to do his job and return.

★ ★ ★

Well, the story is not that simple. For one thing, a principal character is the rampaging Mississippi itself. In the story a woman gives birth in a skiff aided by the convict who has rescued her.

How "Playhouse 90" treats such scenes — or if it develops them at all — should be of interest to serious viewers everywhere.

TV Strike Deadline Extended for Talks

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators for four major television and radio networks and a performers' union recessed contract talks today.

The union, the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, reported substantial progress had been achieved and agreed to extend its strike deadline through another session later today.

★ ★ ★

Any one of four issues still unresolved, a union spokesman said, could cause a strike.

The union had set strike deadlines for midnight last Saturday and for midnight Tuesday but extended both for further negotiation.

★ ★ ★

The four unresolved issues according to the spokesman are:

Stockpiling of video tapes for use during strikes; pay to performers for use of taped network shows on non-network stations; use of tapes made by staff announcers after they are off duty; size of payments to performers for taped programs.

State Dems Meeting to Appraise Election

LANSING (AP) — The Democratic State Central Committee will meet here Sunday to appraise the Nov. 4 election and map plans they hope will bring similar results in the 1959 spring election.

It will be the committee's first meeting since the election which brought Democrats a sweep of statewide contests.

The Republican State Central Committee plans its first post-election meeting Dec. 13 at Lansing's Civic Center.

REUNION — Alfred Drake and Patricia Morison, co-stars of the original Broadway production, will have the leads in "Kiss Me, Kate" when "Hallmark Hall of Fame" presents the hit musical on NBC-TV this evening, live in color.

Rumors Fly at Drop of Mexico Plane Ticket

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Billy Rose's wife, Joyce Mathews, was very chipper on the phone in New Orleans as she shrieked a denial that she had "gone to Mexico" to get herself a divorce for Thanksgiving.

WILSON

"Everything's perfectly fine — Billy took me to the airport and he's coming here for Thanksgiving," Joyce said.

"I was run down and needed a vacation," added the mistress of the Rose town house. "But when I told friends I was going to Mexico, they said, 'YOU'RE going to MEXICO? WELL!' I knew what they were thinking. So I brought my daughter Vicki down here instead.

"The report ruined my vacation but I'm having a good time," concluded Joyce, the former Mrs. Milton Berle. Billy, at the town house here, said: "Joyce was going to Mexico but she found out it was cold."

Ernie Kovacs told me that besides signing a one-picture-a-year deal and arranging to go on Monitor radio, he and Edith Adams are "going to San Francisco to have dinner." Feeling hungry (there are so few restaurants in N.Y.), he said, "We'll stay about five days. Counting lunches, we can have 10 delicous non-home-cooked meals" . . . I told the wife that Bess Myerson gets prettier every year and to my amazement, she agreed with me.

BESS

Errol Flynn—usually laughing—looked grave. Tyrone Power had been about his closest friend. "They usually say when a man dies, 'His time has come,' but I don't think Ty's time had come yet," he said grimly at 21.

Veteran B'way Talent Scout Joe Pincus discovered Power in'35 when he had a bit part in a Katherine Cornell "Romeo and Juliet," got him $400-a-week at 20th, and Darryl Zanuck gave him a lead in "Lloyd's of London." Was he a success? Why, his alimony to Annabella and Linda Christian was said to have totaled $3,000 a week! Power regularly visited Pincus to thank him. "He was a plain, nice guy who never got big-headed and never thought he was important," said Pincus—who also sent Don Ameche to Hollywood.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Calif. Gov.-elect Pat Brown visited a N.Y. cafe, thanked the fiddlers for NOT playing, "California, Here I Come" . . . Defense Sec'y McElroy told Ike he wants to step down when a replacement's found . . . Arthur MacArthur, now 19, was dancing with Wendy Vanderbilt at Paul Fagin's party for Maestro Ben Cutler.

★ ★ ★

Otto Preminger, who sold Jean Seberg's contract, gets her for one film a year, for five years . . . Doubleday wants Casey Stengel to write a dictionary of "Stengelese" . . .

EARL'S PEARLS: Wouldn't it be wonderful if we had 1958 wages, 1932 prices and 1910 taxes?

WISH I'D SAID THAT: You know you're getting old when you start complaining about all the foolish things you did when you were middle-aged.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: There's a guy so nervous he has to take a tranquilizer to steady his hand enough so he can open a bottle of sleeping pills. . . . That's earl, brother.

They are: Gallup, 16,000; Rapid City, S.D., 12,000; Tucson, Ariz., 11,000; Alaska, 7,587; Santa Fe, N.M., 7,500; Fargo, N.D., 7,000; Helena, Mont., 7,000; and Great Falls, Mont., 5,727.

Busy Thoroughfare

CHICAGO (UPI)—The new Illinois Tollway boasts a tri-level interchange that has 13 access ramps, three cloverleafs, seven bridges and 7.59 miles of roadway all within a two and a half mile area.

Turkey Production Off

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI)—The New England Crop Reporting Service said turkey production in Vermont is down 35 per cent this year.

Rookie Uncovers Cache of Arms

Weapons Thought Held for Irish Rebels Found in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A rookie patrolman, tracing a bullet in possession of a school student, turned up a varied arms cache assertedly destined for the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Machine guns, hand grenades and other weapons were found Wednesday in the basement of a two-story residence in the Bronx.

★ ★ ★

Booked on a charge of violating the Sullivan antiweapons law was Henry Barrett, 51, who lives in the house with his wife and eight sons.

Police said Barrett, who came here from County Cork, Ireland, in 1929, admitted the arms were to go to the I.R.A. which seeks to unite Ireland by force.

Taken from the Barrett home were a 60 mm. mortar, two 20 mm. cannon, a number of burp guns, live hand grenades, two Browning machine guns and numerous cases of ammunition.

★ ★ ★

Patrolman Robert Crowley, 22, began an investigation after his younger brother showed him a .50 caliber bullet given him by a classmate at St. Helena's Roman Catholic School in the Bronx.

After questioning pupils Crowley went to Barrett's home. Then he called in other officers.

Police said markings on the arms cases indicated that much of the cache had been shipped to Barrett, a newspaper handler, from Canada and Norway.

★ ★ ★

Bronx Dist. Atty. Irvin Goldsmith said Barrett has been a sympathizer with the Irish revolutionists since he was 15 years old.

Attorney Paul O'Dwyer, brother of former Mayor William O'Dwyer, announced he would defend Barrett.

Commented the attorney: "It is my understanding that Barrett is charged with aiding and assisting in transportation of arms and ammunition to occupied northeast Ireland. If this be so, his only crime is to aid the cause of liberty."

Capittal punishment cases in Iowa, according to state law, are deferred until at least one full calendar year, the time starting with the original date of the death sentencing.

Seven Cents of Shame

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — When police found him after an all-night search, an eight-year-old boy explained that he ran away from home because he had stolen seven cents from a younger brother and he was "ashamed."

Waterford to Hold Polio Clinic Tuesday

Another Polio clinic has been scheduled in Waterford Township to be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Leggett School, according to co-chairmen Mrs. Robert Eisele and Mrs. Donald Jacobs.

Cooperating with the Leggett Parent-Teacher Association the Covert and Isaac Crary Junior High School will assist in giving an anticipated 700 shots to area residents, Mrs. Jacobs said.

A crew of nine volunteer nurses and 15 PTA members will be under the supervision of Dr. H. L. Devito, and all donate their services in order to keep the cost to $1 per shot per person.

This is the second polio clinic to be held in the Leggett School area, and Mrs. Jacobs explained that all children receiving a shot must be accompanied by their parent or guardian.

Hungary Has 1 Used-Car Lot

Sells Anything on Wheels

BUDAPEST (UPI) — A westerner visiting the state-run used-car lot here probably would think he had wandered into a junk yard.

Yet, mobs of would-be buyers line up in front of the lot on sale days to buy. If the car is not more than 20 years old, any price will do.

One 25-year-old Austrian-made car sold for $850. A 16-year-old Italian car went for $1,800.

Another ancient Austrian-made auto was sold within 15 minutes for $900 and the smiling new owner didn't even complain when the engine didn't start. He and his friends just jumped out of the car and pushed it down the road toward home.

Until a few months ago, no Hungarian citizen could buy a car — used or otherwise — without special state authorization. But since last April, such permission is necessary only for the purchase of a brand-new car.

Even in Communist Hungary, the iron rule of supply and demand came into force after the purchase restrictions were lifted. Used-car rates soared. The state-run "Autoker" never has enough used cars on hand to check speculation.

REGULATIONS!

The purchase and sale regulations here are enough to make any Western used-car dealer green with envy.

A used car bought from "Autoker" cannot be sold for one year. When re-sold, it is to "Autoker." If someone is permitted to buy a new car, he cannot sell it for four years — except to "Autoker."

And, of course, he must sell his old car to "Autoker" when getting a new one, since nobody here is entitled to own two cars.

To get a new car — and only an elite portion of the population is eligible — you must put your name on a waiting list. Un-official reports say more than 10,000 names are on the list and, last year, only 1,000 new cars were imported. This year, 2,500 cars are expected to be put on the import list, or about one for every 4,000 persons in the country.

Publishes Poems at 85

BOSTON (UPI) — At 85, Mrs. Gertrude Bend Walker, a Massachusetts native, has just had her first book of poems published. The book, titled "Thoughts Along the Way," contains 70 of her collection of more than 500 poems.

New Year Ushered In by 'Bells of Sin'

TOKYO — Buddhist temple bells in Japan greet the arrival of the New Year with 108 chimes, representing the 108 sins mentioned in Buddhist scriptures.

The entrance to each Japanese home is traditionally decorated for the New Year with straw ropes for good fortune; pine sprigs for endurance, longevity, and strength; plum-tree branches for tenacity and courage, and bamboo for virtue and fidelity. Household shrines are piled with ricecake, fern leaves and oranges.

Everyone makes a token visit to his place of work January 2 to observe the official beginning of the business year and show off new clothes.

Consumption of butter in the U.S. averages about nine pounds per person per year as compared with 17 pounds prior to World war II.

The Welland canal which lies between Lakes Ontario and Erie is one of the oldest and is about 27.5 miles long.
