Area Airman on Lost Plane

Navy Searches Antarctic Wilds for 8-Man Crew

John Floyd, 25, Among Missing; Plan All-Out Hunt for Craft

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES

ABOARD U.S.S. ARNEB, in Ross Sea, ANTARCTICA—The command of Operation Deepfreeze hoped today for clear weather to allow an all-out air search for a Navy plane missing with its eight-man crew, one a Southfield Township man.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Floyd, of 23126 Almira, Southfield Township, were notified Sunday their son, John Jr., 25, is missing.

He is a nine-year veteran of naval service and was cited for heroism during a helicopter rescue mission in Korea. Floyd Sr. is a machinery repairman for Ex-Cell-O Corp. in Detroit.

Two ground search parties crossed the ice yesterday between the Little America V base and a trail post 400 miles eastward from which the missing craft took off. But they found no trace of the missing men.

The plane, a de Havilland Otter, was flying Friday from Marie Byrd Land to Little America with some members of a trail-blazing party whose vehicles had broken down. It made its last voice radio contact 67 minutes after takeoff. An SOS signal believed from the plane was heard Saturday.

* * *

Bad weather hampered an air survey. Twice an Otter has attempted to reach the area where the Otter was believed down, but both times it was forced to turn back.

Rear Adm. George Dufek, commander of Task Force 43 aboard the icebreaker Eastwind, indicated he was prepared to enlist all available planes as soon as weather conditions permitted.

The trail party left Little America in mid-January to mark off a route to the proposed site for an observatory 650 miles away. But the breakdown of their tracked vehicles stopped them 250 miles short of their goal.

* * *

A search party set out from Little America an hour after the plane was due. At the other end Bursey and his group were ordered to start back along the flag-marked route.

Flint, Local Men Killed in Traffic

Groveland Fatal Crash Brings Homicide Count; Steele Dies in Ohio

Weekend traffic killed a Flint youth in Groveland Township and a Pontiac man near Bowling Green, Ohio.

Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem said today he plans to press negligent homicide charges against 20-year-old Benny J. Gaddis, of Flint, driver of the car in which George E. Carter, 19, lost his life Saturday night.

Pontiac post State Police said the accident, on U.S. 10 in Groveland Township, was caused by excessive speed. The car failed to negotiate a curve, they said, and plunged through a guardrail into a deep ravine.

Gaddis' brother, Darrell, 18, was reported in satisfactory condition today in Pontiac General Hospital. He suffered chest injuries in the crash.

Gaddis and Ronald L. Dearmon, 20, of Flint, were treated for minor injuries. Carter was dead on arrival at the hospital.

Ronald L. Steele, 24, of 121 Orchard Lake Road, reportedly died shortly after his car slid into a truck on slippery pavement 13 miles south of Bowling Green Saturday.

Steele was driving his car south to sell it, relatives said. No details of the accident were available.

Irish Envoy Offers Sites for Auto Plants in Eire

DETROIT (AP) — William Norton, Deputy Prime Minister of Ireland, stopped in Detroit today on a whirlwind tour of the United States to make a plea for auto plants for Ireland.

Norton said his trip had three main objectives: To lure industry to Ireland, to urge vacations in Ireland and to persuade Americans to buy more Irish products.

May Tap Public Opinion on Vote Machine Issue

The possibility that the Pontiac League of Women Voters will provide a "sounding board" for public views on the proposed adoption of voting machines in the area was raised Saturday by an official of the national federation.

Mrs. Errol Horner of Washington, D.C., national field secretary, told an interviewer that, although the Pontiac group has not yet studied the question, "it has data and information available from other groups throughout the country."

"The local league," Mrs. Horner said, ". . . might be willing to work for an open community meeting where the wole question of voting machines, and whether or not they might be purchased for the community, might be discussed."

Mrs. Horner is in the city to address leaders of local women's and men's organizations at 8 p.m. Wednesday on league activities.

The national leader said further: "I cannot speak for the Pontiac LWV Board or for the Pontiac league. But this (providing means of sharing views on voting machines) is the type of thing a league may do—when there is an issue of public importance."

Press Sends 2 to Washington for Postal Talks

The Pontiac Press is sending Acting Pontiac Postmaster Leslie H. Dean and Staff Writer Burdett C. Stoddard to Washington for consultation with top federal officials about possibility of obtaining a new post office for Pontiac.

They will meet with U.S. Rep. George A. Dondero (R-Royal Oak) and Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield tomorrow. The Press will publish results of the interviews Wednesday.

GAZA, Egyptian-held Palestine (AP)—Egypt announced today she will form a "Palestinian National Guard" to protect Arab refugee camps from Israeli attacks in the Egyptian-controlled Gaza Strip.

Restless Algiers Greets Mollet

French Premier Faces Stubborn Opposition of Both Elements

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Premier Guy Mollet landed here today to confront a metropolis massed in ugly opposition to his policies for settling the Algerian nationalist rebellion.

Most shops in the central business sector closed in protest.

Other police lined the Rue d'Isly, main shopping street leading to the war memorial. Mollet was due to lay a wreath on the memorial this afternoon.

Angry French settlers who oppose any concessions to the nationalists threatened bloodshed if Mollet carries out his intent to bring Gen. Georges Catroux here as resident Cabinet minister. Catroux is known to favor more rights for the North African territory's native Moslems.

Tension increased over the weekend as French war veterans led European crowds through the streets of Algiers and other major cities demonstrating against any softening toward the nationalist terrorists.

Employes Here Share in Record GM Idea Prizes

Motor Division Awards $275,412.83 as Firm Has Biggest Year

The biggest "idea year" in General Motors history found employes at the Pontiac Motor Division sharing $275,412.83 for 3,535 suggestions approved for awards during 1955, company officials announced today.

Of the prizes, eight represented maximum awards of $2,500 while 47 were for $1,000 or more.

Companywide, suggestions adopted during the year totaled 54,635, paying originators $3,225,741, according to Harry W. Anderson, vice president in charge of the personnel staff. Ideas submitted in 1955 totaled 228,437, an increase of 36,000 over 1954.

Anderson disclosed that more suggestions were submitted, more adopted and a higher total of awards paid than during any other year in GM's history. Employes in 1954 had 46,995 ideas adopted for a total of $2,467,514.

Anderson stated that the number of maximum awards climbed from 74 in 1954 to 170 in 1955.

Suggestions turned in deal with different subjects including ideas to improve safety and working conditions, improve quality or save time and material. Each suggestion is investigated and originators given complete explanations of the decisions.

Since 1942, when General Motors introduced the suggestion plan, more than 1,500,000 ideas have been submitted, over 365,000 adopted and more than $17 million paid.

Top plant city in 1955 was Flint where employes won a total of $765,509 for 14,045 suggestions.

Announce Lease for New Center

Penney Store Slated for Telegraph Center, Developers Say

A lease for 43,000 square feet of store space for a J. C. Penney store in the Michigan Miracle Mile Shoppers City at Telegraph and Square Lake Roads has been announced.

The lease also includes 150,000 square feet of space for future expansion in the proposed multi-million dollar project under way by Don M. Casto and Don M. Casto Jr., developers.

Approximately 100 stores are planned for the center. Preliminary work is now under way, with completion date set for early spring of 1957.

Case Quizzed by FBI

AP Wirephoto

INTERVIEWED BY FBI — Sen. Francis Case (R-SD), who implied in the Senate that a campaign contribution was offered for his vote in favor of the natural gas bill, poses last night at his home after announcement that the Federal Bureau of Investigation had stepped into the case to see if federal laws were violated. Case indicated he had given the name of the person or persons to two FBI agents who called on him.

Post Office Inadequacies Listed by Leslie H. Dean

Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a Press series pointing up reasons why Pontiac's post office facilities should be expanded.

Dean also outlined steps necessary to obtain a new structure.

The building covers the entire block bounded by Perry, Mt. Clemens, Mill and Huron Streets, leaving no room for expansion or additional parking spaces, he said.

The present heating system has operated since the structure was put up in 1929. "We have to repair the boilers continuously," said Dean, "and have spent enough in the last two years to have replaced them.

The building's electrical system was not designed to handle the load it must carry with the building in operation 24 hours a day.

"During the Christmas rush a fuse blew out almost every night. The system is way below present standards, but there's nothing we can do about it."

RAMP TOO SMALL

The loading ramp will only accommodate six middle-sized trucks at one time. But about 50 vehicles, including five large semi-trucks, must load and unload at the building.

"Often they must block traffic or circle around until ramp space is available," Dean stated. "We need at least three times as much docking space as we now have."

There are no parking spaces for the public or post office employes. Postal workers leave their cars "wherever they can," Dean explained.

Persons doing business at the post office often have to pay a 35-cent parking fee to spend five minutes in the building, he added.

Soviets Protest Use of Balloons

U.S. Considers Charges of Launching Spheres Over Red Territory

WASHINGTON (INS)—The U.S. was considering a reply today to Soviet charges that American military balloons carrying radio equipment and cameras have been sent over Russian territory.

The Soviet protest also complained that the U.S. government has done nothing to stop the launching of balloons by private American groups.

Tass, the Soviet new agency, said the protest was delivered yesterday in Moscow to U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, and that a similar protest went to the Turkish government.

A State Department spokesman pointed out that the U.S. Air Force announced recently that it was expanding its high-altitude weather-balloon program.

The weather balloons carry weather instruments, cameras and radio equipment to relay conditions to the ground.

The Soviet note charged that use of the balloons is a "gross violation of Soviet air space . . . contrary to obligations assumed by the United States government in accordance with the U.N. charter and incompatible with normal relations between states."

Attorney Denies Attempt to Sway Senator's Vote

Controversy Continues as Gas Bill Comes Up for Ballot Today

OMAHA (AP)—A Lexington, Neb., attorney was quoted today by the Omaha World-Herald as saying he assumes he is the man meintioned in Washington as having delivered a $2,500 campaign contribution to Sen. Case (R-SD).

John M. Neff, the newspaper said in a copyrighted story, denied emphatically that the money was intended to influence Case to vote for a controversial natural gas bill.

Neff said the money was given "with no strings attached whatsoever" to help in Case's re-election campaign.

The attorney said he would not object to an investigation.

Asked if he had any connection with natural gas interests, Neff told the World-Herald he would defer his answer until questioned by the FBI or Senate investigators. He gave a similar answer when asked where he obtained the $2,500.

Sen. Case told the Senate Friday he had rejected a $2,500 campaign contribution from an out-of-state lawyer who "was not an opponent of the bill." He said he had been disposed before to vote for the bill, but now planned to vote against it. Senate leaders promptly announced plans for a formal probe to see whether federal law had been violated.

BILL'S FATE UNDECIDED

Also up for decision late in the day was the fate of the bill itself—the center of three full weeks of floor debate. It would exempt producers of natural gas from direct regulation by the Federal Power Commission.

Backers and opponents disagree sharply over whether enactment of the bill would result in higher gas prices to householders.

Both sides predicted the vote would be close. The consensus seemed to be that the bill would pass by a narrow margin. An almost identical one was approved by the House last year 209-203.

Backers of the bill contend that without it, gas exploration will be discouraged and eventually the fuel will become scarcer and prices will rise.

Star of Miami Motorama Show -- Pontiac's Dream Car

By HAROLD A. FITZGERALD
Publisher, Pontiac Press

MIAMI BEACH — Well, they shooed me down here willy nilly—strictly in the line of duty of course—so The Press could keep the home folks abreast of the latest doings of the Pontiac Motor Division and the GMC Truck and Coach.

* * *

The General Motors Motorama was previewed Friday afternoon and then we attended the glamour ball at the Surf Club Saturday evening which paid tribute to Pontiac Motors. The party was given by Alfred Barton in honor of Harley Earl, Chief of General Motors Styling, but even Harley would have to concede that next to Mr. and Mrs. Earl, the Pontiac automobile was the piece de resistance.

You know Pontiac's "Dream Car" is named "Club de Mer" and under persistent cross questioning in New York, Bob Emerick hinted that the Surf Club in Miami Beach was really the "Club of the Sea" that was honored. He proved to be eminently correct.

* * *

Friday afternoon GM opened the second chapter of the 1956 Motorama. The same cars were used in New York, but the prestige and glitter of the Waldorf Astoria are sacrificed for augmented space and it makes a much more expansive exhibit. In fact our own GMC Truck and Coach had a large section all to itself and several models were on display. This section was in another building but the crowds were just as heavy and just as interested as they were in the main sector.

* * *

General Manager Philip Monaghan was very happy over the reception accorded the South Boulevard offerings and was personally greeting and shaking hands with the thousands of spectators that poured into his exclusive automotive salon.

* * *

This Miami extravaganza has one edge on its sister Motoramas. This one pulls the most cosmopolitan audience. The people that view the show down here come from all over the United States. Probably every state in the Union is represented.

The reception line was headed by President Harlow H. Curtice who was flanked by his two executive vice presidents, L. C. Goad and Albert Bradley plus that great man of science, Charles Kettering.

WHAT HAPPENED TO GOAD?

They shook the good, right hands of thousands—and thousands—and thousands. In fact, Oakland County's Clifford Goad ultimately came up with a swollen left hand and wrist to the perplexity of all concerned as he employed an out-and-out right hand shake for the entire ceremonial. Finally, a psuedo doctor suggested that so much action with his right arm probably pumped an over supply of blood across into the other. If this explanation doesn't suit or suffice, write your own diagnosis and mail it to Mr. Goad, in care of General Motors Medical Research in the Art of Hand Shaking.

The Kitchen of Tomorrow was thronged and everyone stopped for a leisurely look-see at the fabulous assortment of jewels which seemed to be sponsored by Buick. These included the celebrated Hope Diamond which is valued at one million dollars by its owner, Harry Winston. Even a gleam or glint of this historically famous stone comes at a hundred dollars a reflection. The jewels are closely guarded but there actually is no protection between the stones and the public. You could extend one hand and come up with a fistfull of gleaming diamonds but I wouldn't recommend it unless you had two platoons of seasoned Marines at your command.

* * *

Saturday night's brilliant ball at the Surf Club saw the Pontiac automobile riding high to glory. Mr. and Mrs. Harley Earl were the real guests of honor and as the world knows, Harley has been styling General Motors cars since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. He has compiled an amazing and incredible record of steady successes. All honor to Harley and I stand at attention, uncovered and humble. In the reception line were Mr. Barton, Mr. and Mrs. Earl and Mrs. C. E. Wilson.

But Pontiac's own automobile was also the focal point of honor and special attention. The Surf Club is one of Florida's strictly de luxe affairs. Its membership is composed of leading citizens from all over the U.S.A., whether you speak from a purely social viewpoint or a matter of eminence in the marts of trade.

* * *

Small fry like your current reporter slip into a distant corner and look on with awe. Pontiac's Dream Car is so swanky itself that even the Surf Club was full of praise and applause. In the center of the ballroom was a one-third size miniature with spotlights hitting it. On one wall, a pictured Pontiac automobile came charging

GM's Critchfield Turns Leadfoot

Hang on.

Saturday morning a group of Pontiac Motor officials attended a dealer meeting at Daytona Beach. This was strictly, orthodox, conventional and purely in the line of all-out duty.

But what followed wasn't.

* * *

One Robert M. Critchfield, Pontiac's General Manager and unofficial test driver, took five fellow compatriots down to the beach where many automobile races are held on the broad sands. The Pontiac was souped up a little and Robert pushed the accelerator to the floor and held it there.

* * *

"I caught my breath when the speedometer passed the 100 mile an hour mark," said Bob Emerick later.

"And I abandoned all hope when we passed 110," said Frank Bridge.

"And I died twice," said E. J. Chapman.

But speed demon Critchfield was still undaunted. The needle kept on climbing until it bumped the end of the gauge — 120 miles an hour.

* * *

Emerick was pale all morning, and Bridge couldn't speak coherently until the third race at Hialeah that afternoon.

When Mrs. Critchfield heard, she shook a doleful head and remained very silent.

Me? I didn't go, but I shook and quaked for hours. I've ridden with Robert before. —H. A. F.

62-Gun Salute Marks 4th Year of Queen's Reign

LONDON (AP) — A 62-gun salute was fired from the Tower of London today to mark the fourth anniversary of the accession ofQueen Elizabeth II.

* * *

The Queen and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, at about the time the guns boomed were arriving in Enugu, Nigeria, on their tour of that British African territory.

The royal couple was greeted by chanting tribesmen; a women's cultural club swinging hips in a native dance; and the local governor, Sir Clem Pleass, who wore ostrich feathers on his hwite helmet.

* * *

The Queen's accession was observed during a garden party at the governor's residence. She was in Africa—in Kenya—when news of the death of her father, King George VI, reached her four years ago.

VISIT HIALEAH TRACK

Saturday afternoon a dozen of us went to the races and we were the guests of Gene Mori, the owner of Miami's fabulous Hialeah track. We were seated in Sid Murchison's box and at one time Virginia Emerick and I poked around in the corners for any old ten or twenty dollar bills he might have left lying there. But the story-book billionaire from Texas must have been losing the last time out, or else the hired help beat us to the punch. Later in the peace and quiet of his beautiful lounge, Mori explained how he had parlayed a Buick agency into three of America's greatest race tracks, for he also owns one outside Philadelphia and one in San Francisco. The day we were at Hialeah, close to three million dollars was bet and to your intense amazement our party came out a wee mite ahead. In fact, if Social Outcast had been blessed and graced with a nose three inches longer, we'd have felt completely at home in the Murchison atmosphere.

* * *

I had a little visit with J. F. Wolfram, General Manager of Oldsmobile and hasten to advise the Jerome boys that he's very high on the 1956 Oldsmobile. Also had a brief talk with Ivan Wiles, Buick's Big Boss, and he said he was ready to relax as he understood Oliver was in town and probably ready to take over any minute. Don Aherns, General Manager of Cadillac, was in a happy mood and a trip around Miami Beach and Miami ought to make everyone at Cadillac well satisfied. There are probably more Cadillacs down there this time of year than in a city of like size in the world. Hollywood may enter a disclaimer, but Hollywood also ran.

* * *

When the reception line broke up, President Curtice headed for a few moments of rest in a private sector where his very gracious and attractive wife presided. Outside of the fact that six or eight GM Executives practically stood in line to "get at him" with current problems, his rest and recuperation were complete. I even joined the brigade myself and asked him point blank:

"What do you, personally, think of the 1956 Pontiac automobile?"

"It's the greatest car the Pontiac Division has ever built," he declared without the slightest hesitation. "I'm very proud of it. I also know dollar wise it represents a tremendous value."

* * *

All of Mr. Curtice's associates marvel at the man's capacity for work. It's doubtful whether there's an individual in the entire corporation that spends as many hours at work in any calendar year. Those close to him wish he'd slow down, take it a bit easier and catch his breath. But this amazing individual seems to be imbued with one overpowering idea: forward and faster.

CURTICE APPEARS WELL

Mr. Curtice seems to stand the pressure well. Apparently he's in excellent health and good spirits. Still slim and svelte, he has a waist line most of us envy. Not so long ago on a fishing trip, Pontiac's new Sales Manager, Frank Bridge, loaned him a pair of pants but had them tossed back shortly with the terse comment: "What's I do with the part that's left over?"

GM expects 400,000 people to view the show this year in Miami; 360,000 came in 1955.

Oakland County was well represented. Among those that I saw were Secretary of Defense and Mrs. C. E. Wilson; our own Joseph Haas and Conrad N. Church; Cecil Thrash; Harry J. Klingler; Bob and Anna May Oliver; Helen and Pat Pettengill; the George Lyons of Birmingham and Bimini as well as George's old dad, Bert, whom everybody loves everywhere; the Ralph Wilsons; the father and mother of the Press's own George Trumbull; Helen and Roger Kyes; the Cyrus R. Osborns; the Sherrod E. Skinners; the John F. Gordons; the George Russells; E. J. Chapman; Marion and Ernie Jones plus the Pontiac executives from the two plants.

* * *

Well, it was a good trip.

Wouldn't a multitude of you readers like to know how Pontiac products are making out in Venice?

Post Office Space Hit by Leslie Dean

He then would locate a site and get building specifications drawn up. Private investors would put up the necessary capital and the government would lease the structrue from them when completed.

If the government will agree to pay enough rent to realize a fair profit to investors, Dean can foresee no serious obstacle to the building's realization.

"It will have to be pointed out," he stated, "that real estate is high in Oakland County and the lease will cost more than in many other areas."

Europe Greets Normal Winter

Record-Breaking Cold Wave Ends as Death Toll Reaches 170

* * *

Hungry wolves are prowling around villages in Greece. Mountain passes are blocked by snow all across the Continent. Dozens of villages aret isolated. Two international trains are snowbound near the Greek-Turkish border. For Britons, it was "washless Monday," with hundreds of thousands of householders trying frantically to repair broken water pipes.

* * *

Drifting ice played havoc with gondolas on the canals of Venice. Another snow storm loomed for Berlin. Paris was gloomy and rainy.

The cold wave death toll by country: Britain 36, France 46, Italy 23, Greece 8, Holland 9, Germany 13, Denmark 11, Turkey 10, Austria 5, Switzerland 4, Yugoslavia 2, Spain 2 and Belgium 1.

Balmy winds out of the west countered the icy Siberian blasts of the past week to send the London temperature up to 45 degrees this morning.

* * *

Freezing conditions were still reported in northern Italy and Germany.

Ironically, the thaw forced cancellation of Holland's foremost skating event of the winter — the 130-mile—tour of 11 Frisian towns scheduled for tomorrow. Officials felt that the ice wasn't strong enough.

The Day in Birmingham

Parking Lot Discussion on Commission Agenda

BIRMINGHAM—A decision whether the city's next parking lot will be at Forest and Brownell or on Hamilton may be made tonight as city commissioners review plans for three possible ways that the Forest-Brownell lot might be developed.

That lot's development was eyed in a Saturday morning committee session of commissioners, who seemed to prefer it to the Hamilton lot to serve the central shops to the east of Maple Avenue.

Commissioners deem it advisable that city officials further survey land that might create the Forest-Brownell lot, which in tonight's agenda is titled Parking Lot No. 4. Since the lot was first talked of four weeks ago, it has been simply called SE for its location in the southeast quadrant.

A parking structure on Parking Lot 3-A could handle about 600 all day parkers leaving short term parking space on the smaller lots such as lot No. 4 might be, according to Mrs. Florence Willit, commissioner.

A parking structure is one of the considerations for the Forest-Brownell spot but it would require a rectangular area cutting down the size of lots fronting on the other side of that block, on Woodward Avenue.

There are three buildings on two Woodward lots and the third is already used for parking but is privately owned.

Besides the rectangular A plan Lot No. 4 might be developed in an odd shape leaving an alley and giving 64 parking spaces, and this Plan B is being preferred by commissioners. Plan C. would run through using the three lots on Woodward as well as the back lots.

Question of whether a cross-over should be cut through Hunter Boulevard at the request of the new Wrigley's Market will arise again tonight.

Over 900 attended the Eton Park Skating Rink on Sunday according to statistics taken by Dale Rolph in charge of the park under Stanley Gale of the Forestry department, as fees were paid.

No tally of the hundreds of Saturday skaters was possible since fees were not collected. The concession unable to fully stock because of last minute construction, did run out of several items, Rolph said.

In critical condition this morning is A. J. Tomlinson of 1591 Humphrey. He was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, this morning suffering from an overdose of sedatives, according to Birmingham police.

Officers of the newly formed Birmingham unit of the Michigan Humane Society include Mrs. Karl R. Kocher, who was recently cited for "outstanding acts of kindness to animals." Her citation, awarded by the Michigan society last month praised her aid to homeless, stray and sick animals who might have suffered or perished but for her aid.

Mrs. Kocher, who recently resigned as secretary of the Oakland County Animal Welfare society to help organize the local society along with Mrs. Everett Carl, new president of the Humane society, is secretary of the new group. Other officer is Mrs. James Peabody, vice president.

Aiming to give shelter to lost pets and those rescued from the dog pound and find homes for them, the society plans to have a permanent shelter of its own. Members receive calls from local and well as all north of Detroit suburbs, seeking animal aid.

Hooded Bandit Robs Orion Bar

Shotgun-Wielder Gets $216 in Nighttime Raid, Say Sheriff's Deputies

A lone red-hooded bandit with a shotgun emptied the till of a Lake Orion bar Saturday night and walked off with $216.60, Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said today.

* * *

Ralph Bowen, 41, of Clarkston, owner of the Bo-In on M24, told Deputies Sheldon Stites and Robert A. Bloom the bandit walked into the bar with the sleeve of a red sweatshirt over his head.

Grotesque slits were cut for the man's eyes, Bowen said.

Waving the single . barreled shotgun, the bandit demanded "all the money." Bowen emptied the till, he said, and the robber scooped up the money with trambling hands and left.

Bloom and Stites found the red hood lying in a nearby street.

Embed Sweet Potatoes in Plastic for Judging

WASHINGTON—Agriculture Department researchers embed dehydrated sweet potatoes in plastic to make references for judging the color of the processed product.

The scientists say that color ratings made by means of instruments failed to take into consideration the human element, which they said may decide whether a food product is acceptable.

The plastic-covered sweet-potato references kept their color for fairly long periods, even when exposed to heat and light, the researchers report.

Another Fact of Incidental Intelligence

Did You Ever Know the First Bathtub Was Invented and Made in Cincinnati?

BALTIMORE (INS)—Even in his sadness over his brother's death last Sunday, August Mencken managed a chuckle today as he recalled Henry Mencken's fabulous "bathtub hoax" story.

It was a yarn that stood the nation on its ear 40 years ago—and for awhile completely took in a president, Harry S. Truman.

The "bathtub" story was written by the sage of Baltimore during his New York newspaper days and published on Dec. 28, 1917, in the now-defunct Evening Mail. It purported to give, in great detail, the history of the invention and first use of the bathtub in America.

As Mencken himself wrote many years later, the story — complete with names, dates and minute description of the first bathtub "invented" in Cincinnati on Dec. 20, 1842—"was a tissue of somewhat heavy absurdities, all of them deliberate and most of them obvious."

But at the time it was for the most part taken seriously, even to the point that Mencken's account of how President Millard Fillmore put the first Cincinnati-invented bathtub in the White House was accepted as factual Americana.

TRUMAN SWALLOWED

"Henry often laughed about it. The subject was brought up quite a few times. The most amusing part of it all was when President Truman swallowed it, because Truman always looked upon himself as a historian.

"Truman used to take friends on tours of the White House and he would recite the history of the bathtub as related by Henry. Truman was pretty sore when he discovered it was all a hoax."

Henry Mencken himself said he wrote the story to provide "in the midst of war's alarums," an amusing relief from the grim facts of World War I.

"I alleged," Mencken confessed much later, "that the bathtub was unknown in the world until the 'forties of the last century, and that it was invented in Cincinnati.

LAWS AGAINST IT

"I hold how a bathtub was put into the White Hose in the 'fifties, and how the intrepid Millard Fillmore of Cayuga, N. Y., took the first presidential bath. I ended by saying that the medical faculty of the republic opposed the new invention as dangerous to health, and that laws against it were passed by the legislators of Virginia, Pennsylvánia and Masachusetts."

Mencken went on to say that the article "was spoofing all compact; I composed it, in fact, to sublimate and so make bearable the intolerable libido of the war for democracy."

The story was widely republished, prompted a flood of mail to Mencken from persons high and low all over the country and—for a time—became part of American history.

His "inventor," in the story, was "Adam Thompson, a dealer in cotton and grain" who lived in Cincinnati. Mencken explained how Thompson had seen "the English bathtub, then as now a puny and inconvenient contrivance . . . little more, in fact, than a glorified dishpan."

FIRST IN CINCINNATI

Mencken then went on:

"Thompson, who was of inventive fancy—he later devised the machine that is still used for bagging hams and bacon—conceived the notion that the English bathtub would be much improved if it were made large enough to admit the whole body of an adult man, and if its supply of water, instead of being hauled to the scene by a maid, were admitted by pipes from a central reservoir and run off by the same means.

Accordingly, early in 1842, he set about building the first modern bathroom in his Cincinnati home—a large house with doric pillars, standing near what is now the corner of Monastery and Orleans Streets.

"There was then, of course, no city water supply, at least in that part of the city, but Thompson had a large well in his garden, and he installed a pump to lift its water to the house. The pump, which was operated by six men, much like an oldtime fire engine, was connected by a pipe with a cypress tank in the garret of the house, and here the water was stored until needed. . .

NEW DESIGN

"The tub itself was of new design and became the grandfather of all the bathtubs of today. Thompson had it made by James Cullness, the leading Cincinnati cabinetmaker of those days, and its material was Nacaragua mahogany.

"It was nearly seven feet long and fully four feet wide. To make it water tight, the interior was lined with sheet lead, carefully soldered at the joints. The whole contraption weighed about 1,750 pounds, and the floor of the room in which it was placed had to be reinforced to support it. The exterior was elaborately polished.

And from that point, and that day of one of the most successful practical jokes in newspaper history, the story just grew . . . and grew . . . and grew.

300 Tons Paper Fall on Him—Gets Out OK

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A 300-ton avalanche of paper came tumbling down on Lonnie Heywood yesterday, but he escaped with a bruised finger and a case of jitters.

Three co-workers who barely sprinted to safety called police to report Heywood's "death." But before the emergency crews arrived, Heywood crawled through a small hole in the mountain of huge paper rolls.

The men were restacking the heavy cylinders when, for unexplained reasons, a 25-foot stack started tumbling in a warehouse of the Mengel Co., a furniture manufacturing firm.

"It was a miracle," Heywood said when he could get his breath.

Here's One Instance When 'Camera' Goofed

BALTIMORE (AP)—The "curious camera" section of the Baltimore Sunday Sun yesterday appeared with the results of a poll of various Baltimoreans on the question:

"What do you think about or do while waiting for a streetcar?"

Baltimore's streetcars, like its buses, have been in the carbarns for a week because of a transit workers' strike.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Orley Hill who stressed the importance of remembering what the Indians did for the early settlers. She told how they were a truly religious group of people and expressed themselves in song in all walks of life.

Indian Americans was the theme for the day and Mrs. J. Leslie French, speaker for the day, told of the Cook Christian Training School in Phoenix, Ariz. that serves many tribes and is supported by several denominations.

The school is developing many Christian leaders, Mrs. French remarked, and the leaders in turn are teaching that Christ is the Truth, the Way and the Life.

Mrs. Leslie and her husband were both missionaries and served for seven years among the Indians. She accompanied her talk with colored films and closed her message with a prayer written by one of the Indians.

Several Parties Held in Miami for GM Family

By ETHEL TOMBRINK

MIAMI — Except for a few raindrops here and there the weather has been behaving for the past week as the General Motors family poured into Miami for the opening of the '56 Motorama.

* * *

Cars lined up for blocks along South Bayshore drive as traffic inched along to Dinner Key auditorium for Friday's invitational preview.

Hundreds, many many hundreds of prominent South Florida residents, business men, leaders of the social set and members of the press attended the preview—were greeted by GM president Harlow Curtice, saw the shiny bright new automobiles and were treated to the better-than-ever Motorama show.

Between their Motorama duties, the GM men and their wives are being entertained at a number of parties; they're returning to some of their favorite eating spots that they've become acquainted with during the past Motorama visits, and they're trying to soak up some of Florida's sunshine, either fishing out on the briny deep, or on the golf course.

Sailfish got in the way of a deep-sea fishing boat that had aboard the other day Ralph Moore and Sam Taude of Birmingham and Casey Dick of Detroit.

TWO GOT AWAY

They got three of them (good sized ones, too)—and that's not counting the two that got away.

The group were fishing out of Stuart, Fla., just up the way from Miami.

The Ray Keefers, also of Birmingham, and the Moores are staying at the Key Biscayne Hotel, where they stayed last year . . . and helped the hotel celebrate its third anniversary the other evening.

The Keefers return to Michigan Monday—the Moores plan to stay on for a week—either here or up in Vero Beach where they have vacationed on previous visits.

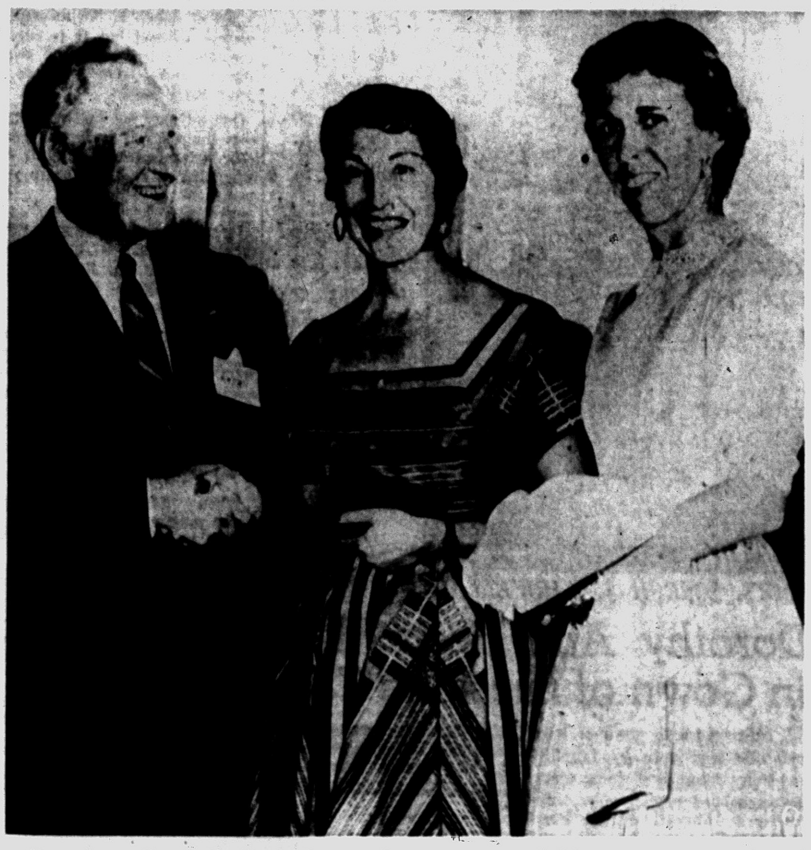
Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Critchfield are up at the Sea View Hotel in Bal Harbour (that's just north of Miami Beach) as are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Emrick.

The Critchfields were among GM officials who were guests of the John S. Knights when they honored the Harlow Curtices at a cocktail party Thursday evening. There cocktail and hors d'oeuvres out on the spacious patio of the Knights La Gorce Island home—until that old weatherman frowned, and the sprinkle sent the guests inside.

But it turned into a songfest with everyone joining in.

Among guests there, too, were Birmingham residents Mr. and Mrs. George Lyon who flew over from Bimini for the party. The Lyons' Bimini home, Paradise Point, is a pre and post Motorama gathering spot each year for GM officials for a few days of relaxation and fishing.

Among other parties for the visitors was the large dinner dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Akers at the Surf Club on Miami Beach.



Prominent figures in the business and sports fields met in Miami's Dinner Key auditorium Friday when Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, greeted swimmer Florence Chadwick (center) and tennis star Doris Hart, who were among 9,150 guests at a preview of the GM Motorama of 1956. The Motorama, giant display of experimental and production cars and other features, opened to the public Saturday for a 9-day showing.

For District Gathering Sunday

Business, Professional Women Meet

"Honor the president — Past Future" was the theme of District One meeting of Business and Professional Women's Club when members met Sunday in Hillcrest Country Club, Mount Clemens.

Pontiac Business and Professional Women's Club was especially honored when Vera Bassett was given special recognition for being the earliest president of any club presidents present. Tribute was paid Mrs. H. H. Thatcher, first president of the Pontiac Club and a past national officer.

Viola Wolfe, second vice president of the Michigan Federation addressed the group using the word PAST as her subject. In using the letters of the word she chose Presence, Accomplishments, Satisfaction and Tenets as four important features of a past president's contribution to her club.

The presence of a past president at a meeting is an important contribution to her club and as long as she acts as an adviser and never decides the policies of the group, the speaker stated. Each president contributes something to her organization and the satisfaction she derives more than offsets any contribution.

She mentioned the experience gained as a better business woman is most valuable and that tolerance is a great attribute.

"We need to get off by ourselves and take inventory, looking backwards at our accomplishments and forward toward our opportunities," Marjorie Matthews said as she spoke briefly to the members. "However," she continued, "we do not always have to look backward or forward we can always look upward. There we see our inspiration."

Roll call was answered by 23 clubs present with 245 members in attendance. Attending from the Pontiac club were Mrs. C. W. Salton, Grace McLaughlin, Mrs. John Kish, Nora Day, Mrs. Robert Eisele, Jane Danton, Mrs. Norman Dyer, Hazel McGirr, Mary Eleanor Lockman, Vera Bassett, Mrs. Raymond Cole, Mrs. Albert Riley and Ethlynn Peterson.

Also attending were Mrs. Lenore Stephens, Josephine Seeley, Harriet Gates and Mrs. Melvin McPhearson.

Mrs. Charles Leaf, district chairman, conducted the meeting and commended the Pontiac club for their support of the Civic Auditorium and the Waterford Club for their cooperation with the Waterford Junior Chamber of Commerce in holding a public meeting on annexation.

* * *

On April 22 Pontiac, Waterford and Keego Harbor Business and Professional Women's Clubs will entertain the District at a meeting to be held in West Bloomfield High School.

Other dates announced were the National convention to be held in Miami, Fla. July 1-6 and the International convention to be held in Montreal July 8-13.

The one-sided battle lasted 15 minutes, with the youths fleeing after knocking Gravel unconscious, overturning tables, smashing all the crockery they saw and threatening the other customers. As they fled, one of the youths ripped out the restaurant telephone and tossed it into the parking lot.

Civilian Technicians Keep Armed Forces Modernized

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A new corps of elite, highly-trained civilian technicians has grown up in the U.S. armed forces.

The group has rescued the services from the dangers of high turnover of technically trained GIs.

Its members are vital to keeping the U.S. machine operating around the world. They're training servicemen to handle and maintain the intricate modern weapons of war. And they're helping to improve American weapons.

COSTLY SERVICES

The most-used name for these men is "tech rep." They're representatives of the U.S. firms which supply arms to the service.

Uncle Sam spends about $125,000,000 a year for the services of about 7,000 tech reps. The bill is going up and the number of men increasing as weapons become more complex.

About 75 per cent of the tech reps work with electronic equipment. But this covers every weapon field from tanks to anti-submarine warfare devices. And almost every other new item of equipment or supply, from escalators on aircraft carriers to new types of frozen foods, requires some help from tech reps.

Because Philco Corp. supplies tech reps on training and maintenance problems for other equipment as well as their own it has the biggest program.

The firm has about 2,000 men in the U.S. and around the world with the services. There are Philco men in the frozen Arctic this winter, for example, helping to build the new radar warning line there.

THREEFOLD PROGRAM

Boeing Aircraft, General Electric, Allison, Sperry, Republic Aviation and RCA are just a few of the U.S. firms with large programs. The mission of the program is threefold.

Tech reps help train troops in the proper maintenance of new equipment. They provide continuity of maintenance standards to counteract the turnover of military personnel. And they work with the troops to improve and iron out bugs in arms and equipment.

These men work under several types of contracts. But basically the government pays the private firms for the various services they perform. The firms pay the men between $500 and $800 a month.

Tech reps are not controlled by military law and regulations. But they must satisfy the military commander under whom they work to keep their jobs.

The Department of Defense now has a crew of experts trying to find out exactly how many tech reps are hired by the services.

With the increased use of complex guided missiles, the number will be forced to grow. The corps could even become the size of several army divisions, a Pentagon spokesman admits.

One of the answers to checking this growing civilian branch of U.S. forces, experts feel, is to pay more to the men in uniform who do work comparable to that of tech reps.

Report of Robbery Brings Man's Arrest

Pontiac police yesterday investigated a man's story that he was lured into a car early Saturday by two men and a woman who robbed him of $90.

Jailed for investigation of robbery unarmed was Ismal R. Campos, 20, of 396½ Orchard Lake Rd.

His companion and the woman, who drove, were questioned but not held, police said.

The arrest followed a charge by Abb Jackson, 45 S. Murphy St., that he was robbed of his billfold. He said he got into the car at the corner of S. Saginaw and Wilson Sts. at 7 a.m. and was driven out M59 to Oakland County Airport, where the robbery occurred.

Sunspots Play Tricks on Earth

Puzzling Phenomenon of Sun's Movements Still Unexplainable

WASHINGTON — "Flying birds" may soon be back on the sun, and strange ghosts will ride the airwaves of earth. Television images may flicker, dissolve, or suddenly speak Spanish. Police broadcasts will reach unexpected distances, or nowhere at all. FM radios perhaps will tune in telephone calls. For all this, blame will fall roundly — and rightly — on sunspots.

The phenomenon of sunspots, now headed for an 11-year peak in 1957-58, holds nearly as much mystery today as when ancient Chinese saw flying birds on the sun, the National Geographical says.

When the sun erupts in its periodic black rash, unseen storms of magnetic force sweeps the earth's atmosphere. In the electrified layer known as the ionosphere, radio transmissions go astray. Likewise, over high latitudes, skies blaze with the glowing night fireworks of the auroras, or polar lights. Barrages of cosmic rays bombard the upper air, seeming to come in great streams from the sun.

What it a sunspot? Scientists do not agree. Most describe it as a storm in the sun's atmosphere, a whirlpool or eddy in the swirling outer layer of that gaseous furnace.

They are not absolutely black. If all the sun were blanked out except for a single large sunspot group, the earth would still receive as much light as from 100 full moons.

The largest sunspot on record occured in early 1947, during the last peak period. It spread 200,000 miles across the sun's face, nearly a quarter of its diameter. Billions of square miles were dimmed.

Among modern studies of sunspots, a National Geographic Society research project led by Dr. Carl W. Gartlein of Cornell University since 1938 has probed the cause and nature of "northern lights," the auroras.

Similiary, cosmic ray research sponsored by the Society has given strong evidence that the sun's dark disturbances may be linked to the continual powerful radiation that bombards the earth.

Investment Agency Opens in Royal Oak

Goodbody & Co. of Royal Oak became Oakland County's newest investment securities firm recently when it began operations in the city's Michigan Life Insurance Building at 3101 N. Woodward.

The agency is associated with the national brokerage firm of Goodbody & Co. which has offices in 33 cities, five in the Detroit area.

Among its facilities are a direct wire service to the floor of the New York Stock Exchange and other major exchanges, an electronic quotation board, a Dow Jones news printer, and complete research and statistical services.

The agency's staff of five account executives is headed by Manager Raymond J. Laude. Associates include Edwin C. Roesner, Richard M. Patterson, John K. Martin and Robert A. Cole. Their combined experience totals 85 years.

Three-Car Crash Injures Woman

A Pontiac woman was treated for minor injuries yesterday afternoon after a three-car pileup on US 10 near Walton Boulevard, Waterford Township police said today.

Virginia Guenther, 37, of 170 N. Opdyke Rd., a passenger in the car driven by 57-year-old Harold Beede, 170 N. Opdyke, was treated for a bruised forehead and released from Pontiac General Hospital.

Police said Beede's car was hit by one driven by J. Oliver Black, 62, of Detroit, and then struck one driven by Raymond Lehman, 42, 334 Alberta St.
