SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The last rebel headquarters in Da Nang surrendered today, giving Premier Nguyen Cao Ky virtually unchallenged control of South Viet Nam's second largest city after eight days of bloodshed.

Some 400 antigovernment soldiers poured out of Da Nang's Tinh Hoi pagoda and gave up their large store of arms without firing a shot.

An overwhelming force of marines and 13 armored cars ringed the Buddhist stronghold.

The capitulation came less than 12 hours before expiration of an ultimatum by the junta to declare the rebel soldiers deserters unless they ended the revolt by 6 p.m. About 400 rebels gave up yesterday.

Ky's success, despite sharp initial U.S. disapproval of his surprise troop movement north,

MOVES TROOPS

With the tide turned in his favor in Da Nang, Ky also moved his troops against anti-American rioters who set two U.S. military vehicles on fire outside the main Buddhist Institute in Saigon.

The troops threw rows of barbed wire around the institute to contain further disorders.

One influential monk, Thien Minh, announced a mass Buddhist "march of peace" in Saigon.

He dissociated the Buddhist leadership from involvement in the rioting.

Minh is a lieutenant of Tri Quang, the principal Buddhist leader in the north and reputed architect of the antigovernment campaign.

As a precaution, the U.S. Command extended the nightly curfew for American troops in Saigon from 8:30 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Previously the curfew ran from midnight to 5 a.m. American billets near the Buddhist Institute also were evacuated.

INCREASED ACTIVITY

The fast-breaking political

developments came against a backdrop of increased U.S. and Vietnamese activity against the Viet Cong.

The U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airborne, Division reported killing 47 more Viet Cong yesterday in Operation Crazy Horse, bringing the reported enemy toll in seven days of fighting in the central highlands 230 miles northeast of Saigon to 287 Communists.

With somewhat improved

weather, U.S. Air Force and Navy planes flew 49 missions against North Viet Nam yesterday.

This was 10 more than the previous day and considerably more than last week when monsoon rains plagued the air offensive.

DEATH WAS NEAR—His hands high in surrender, this rebel Vietnamese soldier came out of a building in Da Nang yesterday. He was briefly questioned by the officer commanding the soldiers in the background. The questioning completed, the officer shot him in the chest and killed him. Loyalist troops said he had thrown grenades at them.

UAW Urges Caution in Viet Nam

LONG BEACH, Calif. (U)—Caution in Viet Nam and praise for the war on poverty, marked the final session of the United Auto Workers 20th Constitutional Convention.

The session ended Saturday with the 2,400 delegates approving resolutions favoring a negotiated end of the war in Southeast Asia and praising President Johnson's effort to wipe out poverty.

Delegates also urged U.S. recognition of Red China, saying the Communist Chinese "must be brought into the family of nations, where their government will find it necessary to rely increasingly on the force of politics, rather than on the politics of force."

The Viet Nam resolution supported President Johnson's policies, especially those aimed at finding a negotiated settlement, and urged him not to escalate the conflict.

Debt Ceiling Raise Asked

WASHINGTON (U)—The Treasury asked Congress today to raise the temporary debt ceiling to $332 billion, estimating that this year's budget would go almost $4 billion into the red.

But the staff of the joint committee on internal revenue taxation came up with its own tax revenue estimates that would cut the budget deficit to $2.5 billion and which point to a possible budget surplus in the year beginning July 1.

The House Ways and Means Committee heard Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and budget Director Charles L. Schultz behind closed doors.

The committee is expected to report, possibly tomorrow, a bill setting a new debt limit ceiling to replace the $228 billion figure expiring June 30.

Waterford, City Men in State House Races

The legislative race in Oakland County gained two more candidates today for the State House of Representatives.

They are Lawrence J. Vaillancourt, who will seek the Republican nomination in the 61st District, and Charles J. Nasstrom, a Democrat, who is making a bid for the 62nd District post.

This is the first time either candidate has sought elective office.

Vaillancourt, 42, of 2221 Trinity, Waterford Township, has been a right-of-way buyer and appraiser for the Michigan Highway Department for five years.

He will resign soon to return to the real estate business.

INSURANCE FIRM

The 38-year-old Nasstrom is president of the Pontiac Democratic Club and is employed as a casualty supervisor with the Allstate Insurance Co. in Southfield.

A 1942 graduate of Lake Orion High School, Vaillancourt studied Real Estate Law at the Pasadena City College in California, and real estate appraising through University of Michigan extension courses.

Before joining the highway department, Vaillancourt was in the real estate field in the area for seven years, and then, for two years, sold life insurance for Ohio National locally.

Artificial Heart Still Working

Woman's Condition Good After 5 Days

NEW YORK (UPI) — The seriously ill 63-year-old cardiac patient sipped her coffee, ate her dessert and began her leg exercises.

The remarkable feature of her otherwise routine therapy was that an "auxiliary" heart implanted in the chest of Mrs. Louise Ceraso was automatically performing about 50 per cent of the patient's own heart activity.

The implant of the device took place five days ago but was not reported until yesterday.

Authorities at Maimonides Hospital of Brooklyn, where the rare surgical implantation was performed, said today that Mrs. Ceraso was alert, resting easily, able to talk and feeling no pain.

A bulletin issued by the hospital said ironically that "a mechanical auxiliary ventricle" had been implanted in Mrs. Ceraso Wednesday, May 18.

He and his wife, Louise, have two children. Mrs. Vaillancourt is a teacher at the Washington Irving Elementary School.

Vaillancourt is the second Republican candidate to seek the nomination in the district. The other is Loren Anderson, a trustee on the Waterford Township Board.

The 61st District, which includes the townships of Waterford, Springfield, Independence and White Lake and the city of Sylvan Lake, is now represented by Democrat Francis Crowley.

Osteopath Aid From Indiana

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — The Indiana Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons voted unanimously Sunday to contribute $5,000 to the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine at Pontiac.

The college is to be located on a 164-acre site at Auburn and Opdyke.

Announcement of the award was made by Dr. Richard B. Wolfe of South Bend, president of the association, at the opening of the group's meeting here.

The rapid completion of an osteopathic college in Michigan will benefit Indiana residents as well as those in Michigan, Dr. Wolfe said.

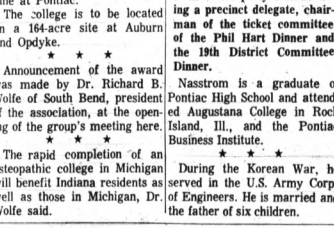

Venue Change Denied in Suits Against Hospital

Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn today denied changes of location in the two trials pending against Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital as a result of accidental deaths last November.

In ruling, however, Thorburn said the venue change proposal may be brought to his attention again following the completion of pretrial conferences on the matter.

Attorneys for the hospital and several staff members named in the damage suits requested that the trials be moved out of Oakland County because of the widespread news coverage the deaths received.

Impeding an impartial jury would be impossible, they said. The families of two of the three victims who died after receiving injections of ether have filed damage suits against the hospital asking a total of $1.75 million.

The new budget, calling for substantial increases for police and fire departments, will result in a salary increase of 10 per cent, if approved.

An additional uniform allowance of $150 for police and $130 for firemen is included.

The budget also calls for longevity pay for police and firemen.

Last year's police department budget was $125,300. The proposed allocation is $136,800.

INCREASED

The fire department budget, $42,600 last year, is increased to $55,000 in the proposed budget.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Menopause Physiological, Part of Aging

Since all women, if they live long enough, will go through the menopause, this is not a disease but a physiological process that is a part of aging.

However, because unlike the people of some other countries, we do not take pride in our years, anything connected with aging is regarded with BRANDSTADT ill-concealed dismay.

The exact cause of the hot flashes that usher in the menopause is not known since they often persist for many years after all menstruation has ceased.

Other unpleasant accompaniments of the menopause are osteoporosis — softening of the bones that sometimes leads to fractures incurred with a minimum of trauma — and an acceleration of the hardening of the arteries that begins at birth.

Fortunately, we now have a way of relieving the depression and hot flashes of the menopause and retarding the other changes.

Menopause changes are, in general, the result of a lack of female hormones formerly put out by the ovaries. Supplying a small maintenance dose of these estrogens for the rest of a woman's life is now advocated by progressive gynecologists.

REPLACEMENT

Since such treatment is replacement therapy, there is no need to interrupt the treatment from time to time.

In fact, such interruptions are inadvisable because they may result in some bleeding from the uterus.

Furthermore hormonal treatment is no more likely to cause cancer, as some have claimed, than the same hormones were when a woman was producing her own estrogens. Of course, if she develops certain types of cancer, the hormonal therapy should be discontinued just as removal of the ovaries is recommended for younger women with the same type of cancer.

REGULATION

Regulating the dosage must be carefully done to prevent soreness of the breasts, feeling of fullness in the pelvis and other unwanted symptoms caused by too much estrogen.

If more women were given this treatment, fewer tranquilizers would be needed and the menopause would be less of an ordeal.

Q — Is it necessary to get ACTH injections when taking cortisone by mouth?

A — These drugs have an anti-inflammatory action but, since cortisone and related drugs suppress the secretion of ACTH, it might, in some cases, be necessary to give injections of the latter.

Q — Since aspirin relieves headache, but does not induce sleep, why do you recommend limiting the dose?

A — Because this drug irritates the lining of the stomach and may cause bleeding or a peptic ulcer.

Charwoman Knows All the 'Dirt'

LONDON (AP) — There's a thrill flutter among those "night angels" — the charwomen who scrub London's offices twixt dusk and dawn.

It's because one of them is threatening to "tell all" about her mates — how maybe they pinch sips of booze, packs of cigarettes and cigars from the executive suites or carry on with the watchman in the dead of night.

Or maybe even use cosmetics from a stenographer's desk?

The London char — once called "Mrs. Mops" — is somewhat legendary, famed far above counterparts in other world capitals.

Many is the former war correspondent who interviewed — or at least quoted — the "heroic" char during the World War II bombing blitz. Sort of like correspondents who still quote New York taxi drivers as political and economic oracles.

Well, the chars' row came out on the not-so-austere British Broadcasting Corp. recently. A reporter went into the City (financial district) to catch some of the gals in an explosive mood.

PASSED THE WORD

They said they were mad at Juanita Samuels, who had passed the word around that she had a publisher for her book, titled "No Experience Necessary."

Juanita's mates said "that rite" that she should be planning to tell tales about what goes on in the board room when it should be getting a mopping.

The chars interviewed on the BBC radio broadcast protested that it wasn't true at all. What wasn't true? What hadn't even been published yet. And they were determined to see it never saw print.

NOT PROPER

Even if there was some hanky-panky going on in nighttime offices and corridors, said one Jenny, "It isn't proper to go telling tales."

Another protester even suggested that what might go on at night in some executive suites couldn't match what she'd heard goes on there in daytime — robber barony, fiddling between the boss and the secretary, cooking the books.

"Aw, you don't need too much imagination," one said. "We find evidences about some things..."

At last word, Juanita hadn't got her book out yet.

It Seems to Me . . .

Area Culture and Economy Enhanced by Oakland U.

Things are popping in Pontiac. Chancellor D. B. VARNER declares that Oakland University's assets had reached the $20 million mark and that an additional $14 million would be spent in new construction within the next twelve months.
If most cities were advised that a new industry proposed to locate there and invest $14 million, there would be a celebration with a parade, speeches in the public square, and a red fire finale.
Primarily, this money contributes directly to the very important cultural and aesthetic side of our community life. All industrial cities welcome something of this nature with open arms. Pontiac is no exception. This bustling and energetic campus has some of the finest professors in America and they are handling our young people superbly.
At the outset, it was believed that the formative years would find the student body confined to the area. But knowledge of the high level university procedures here has crept around the country and the presence of young men and women from distant points becomes a point of unexpected gratification and satisfaction.
Three original dormitories were calculated to handle the distant students easily with a total capacity of 300. But they were unexpectedly jammed.

Authorities were incredulous. Governing officials blinked.
Happily, Hill House was quickly added through the unexpected beneficence of an anonymous source. This housed an additional 200. Now all are jammed.
Today a fifth dorm that will hold 500 students is nearing completion and it has a dining hall that feeds 900 at a single sitting, with a total capacity of 1,500.
And the end is not yet.
The cultural side is of paramount importance, but no one can overlook the economics involved. Employment at Oakland U. increases by leaps and bounds in addition to the actual construction work. You can't service 2,500 students without a lot of people; and when the enrollment reaches 10,000 as it will within a few years, the financial significance of this great institution is incalculable.
The day MATILDA WILSON assigned her beautiful property to Oakland University and gave an additional two million dollars in cash becomes an historic event that should rank high forever in the annals of our area. Further, the advent of that outstanding collegiate wizard, D. B. VARNER, can just about be bracketed in the same paragraph.

Amid Cuban Action

Newspaper people who owned and edited publications in Cuba believe Castro is nearing the end of his "reign."
Right now the Inter American Press Association is studying the great scene with the greatest interest and is preparing to demand the return of Cuban publications to their rightful owners when Fidel collapses. A powerful committee is in the making.
CASTRO's "influence" has waned since his first days and the Russian puppet jumps and dances when the Reds jerk the strings. Further, as he realizes his position of abject surrender, CASTRO has started drinking so heavily it is openly recognized.
Things are brewing in Cuba. Russia is very active.
After the temporary setback at the hands of the late John F. Kennedy, the Reds resumed fortifying and strengthening their military position until they are in a very effective and strategic position.
Action of some sort may be directly ahead.

And in Conclusion

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:
Those Berkeley campus misfits have exacted their toll. Applications for the new class at California show a decline of 25 per cent.
Overheard: "Those UFOs that zigzag must be driven by Martian women."
Insider's News-letter says the Russian planes were dropped were older versions of the current model, the MIG-21-D which does 1,700 m.p.h.
Whoops! The Fuller Brush man is becoming the Fuller Brush woman.
Scouts advise me Rose West deserves mention as one of the area's attractive young ladies.
Overheard: "Yes, I had to drive all the way down from Saginaw. My son has the plane."
Scantly clad waitresses at a Chicago bar are taught judo and karate daily.

Combat Veterans!

David Lawrence Says:

NATO Plans Up N-War Danger

WASHINGTON — How near is World War III? Will it be a nuclear war? Will it be confined only to Europe, or will America quickly get into the fray?
Whatever may have been the relatively comfortable feelings of a year or so ago that nuclear war is inconceivable, the answers to the above questions are different today.
Whether or not Gen. de Gaulle intended his withdrawal from NATO to precipitate the "agonizing reappraisal" that's going on now, the fact is the outlook is grim, and the sooner the peoples of the world understand the implications of the current discussions between the Western powers, the earlier perhaps can come a worldwide recognition of the growing danger and the imperative need for preventive steps.
Indeed, the breakup of the system of land-sea protection only against an invasion of western Europe is a reality now. Instead of assuming that an invader would fight just a conventional war, it is being taken for granted that nuclear weapons will be used.

LAWRENCE

gressional committees just published, says he would like to see the existing law amended to permit the sale of nuclear weapons to other governments "under special conditions and arrangements — to be approved by the NATO organization — that could operate effectively in the defense of Europe."
He apparently favored selling France such weapons when he was in the White House, but Congress objected.
This type of proposal, of course, assumes that "proliferation" is inevitable anyway and that better control, at least on the free-world side, would be achieved through prompt allotment of nuclear weapons to our allies. But in Geneva, an international conference is at present trying to prevent "proliferation," and the Soviets say they want to see this accomplished by mutual agreement.

So it looks now as if all land forces in Europe may be considerably reduced, and almost complete dependence for world peace then will be placed on nuclear weapons.
TRUE APPRECIATION
Only a true appreciation of the implications of these various moves can mobilize world opinion to prevent the gradual escalation of nuclear power on all sides.
For the big risk still is that a miscalculation will occur and an irresponsible government will take a chance. This could bring on the dreaded holocaust.

Capital Letter:

FDR Jr. Has Something: a Pack of Powerful Foes

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. has received such a frosty brush-off at the White House that he couldn't even get a "Dear Franklin" reciprocal letter, although he asked for one before submitting his letter of resignation.
FDR Jr. is given little chance to capture the New York governorship provided the presidential launching pad for his father, and insiders say he has even less chance of rejoining the Johnson-Humphrey administration.
White House intimates report that FDR Jr. has met with a series of thunderous rebuffs in recent weeks. The first came when he was refused permission to retain his chairmanship of the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission until June 1.
After reluctantly agreeing to resign on May 11, he telephoned a presidential assistant to ask if he could have the usual job-well-done letter from the President, which might help in his race, and was bluntly told: "We didn't even give Hand a letter."

Ruth Montgomery

Roosevelt, while campaigning for JFK in the West Virginia presidential primary, tried to make an issue of Humphrey's draft deferment during World War II.
The liberal New York Post, whose support Roosevelt rather expected, instead has carried a scathing article which among other things made much of his former role as a registered foreign agent for Dominican Dictator Trujillo before his murder.

Voice of the People: New Firearm Legislation Has Approval of Reader

John F. Kennedy was killed by an emotionally unstable man who had bought a mail order gun. Rabbi Adler was killed by a mentally sick young man who bought a gun in a Toledo store. Recently a man shot three people in a Detroit office. In Pontiac, a mental patient bought a gun and killed himself.

How can a civilized society allow such lax firearm restrictions? The sportsmen's clubs know that no one is out to restrict their rights or take their guns away. Senator Dodd has stated that publicly. Proposed firearm legislation is designed to keep guns away from minors, the mentally unstable, and known criminals — not from responsible citizens.

Why the rifle and sportsmen's clubs persist in warning against a threat that doesn't exist is a mystery. Does anyone care to support Senator Dodd's legislation?

ROSE CAIN

Says Public Voted for Wealthy Politicians

One thing we get in Washington is the best and most wealthy politicians that taxes can buy. LBJ showed off his spread in Texas and Humphrey is getting a mansion to live in. Parents of our GIs voted for all this so they don't complain.

MARTIN C. POOLEY
WALLED LAKE

Says There Are Two Definitions for Peace

Why is there so much confusion about Viet Nam? The Communists know that there is no better weapon for defeating us, and confusion is a normal tactic for them.

The Senate Internal Security subcommittee report prepared by the China experts at the Library of Congress showed how the Communists have used the Buddhist Association to stir up anti-American sentiment in Southeast Asia. Surrender is no solution. If America is to continue as the leader of the free world, we have to realize that our freedom is in jeopardy whenever a part of the free world is lost.

We are not in Viet Nam primarily to help the Vietnamese. We have much more to lose than they do. The war in Viet Nam can be won only if the U.S. backs the government in South Viet Nam and we must stop granting sanctuary to the enemy. The only way out is by winning and it's time people realize that there are two definitions for peace. I should hope we don't want communism as a means to peace.

Insurance Practices Are Discriminatory

I protest the discriminatory practices of automobile insurance companies because of age, sex and marital status. Because I am a single male, under 25, I must pay a ridiculously high rate for the privilege to drive. Would I be a better driver if I were married?

Soon the insurance rates will be so high that nobody will be able to own a car. Two ways to remedy this situation would be to pass legislation making insurance companies charge rates according to driving ability, or everyone should drop car insurance. This would force insurance companies to choose between being fair and going out of business.

TWENTY-TWO AND NOT RICH

Disagrees With Policy of Grading Students

The policy stated to me by Clarkson Junior High School is that if a child fails to complete one oral book report their grade for the six-week period will be a failing mark, even if he carries an "A" average on other work in this period. I do not believe this is a fair grading system. I can't believe a child can work six weeks for nothing. I hope the people who set up this policy will examine it more closely.

Name Change

The Lansing State Journal
We shall be surprised if the majority of the Legislature goes along with a proposal to change the name of Michigan's world-famous Mackinac Bridge.

Under a bill in the House the mighty structure spanning the Straits of Mackinac would be officially dubbed "The G. Mennen Williams Bridge."

The reason we would be surprised is that there are so many good reasons why they shouldn't. One of the chief ones is that the name of the bridge has had since it was opened in 1957, specifies both its geographical location and its purpose — providing a convenient means of crossing the Straits of Mackinac that separates Michigan's two peninsulas.

Certainly Roosevelt can expect no help in the primary from Vice President Humphrey.

Relations between the people reading or hearing in the future of a "G. Mennen Williams Bridge" might not know, without further investigation, whether it was the masterpiece of engineering and construction that spans the Straits or a short bridge crossing a river.

Since its inception and completion, the bridge has been known far and wide as the Mackinac Bridge.

And it has been informally called Mighty Mac and Big Mac by Michigan citizens to whom it is a source of justified pride.

The proposed change is not needed to recognize Williams' key role in getting the bridge under way and completed in the face of the opposition that once led some critics to call the project "Saggy's Folly."

Everyone is aware of Williams' staunch support of the plans to link the Upper and Lower Peninsulas. It also is a fact, however, that planning, financing and building the bridge was not a one-man achievement but had to have the backing of many others.

To rename the Mackinac Bridge could set a precedent for naming other spans and other highways projects for

Michigan Woman Is Nepal Bride

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — An American woman, Peace Corps volunteer has married a Nepalese Sherpa in a mountain village in the Everest region northwest of Katmandu.

She is Barbara Wylie, 35, of Ypsilanti, Mich., now the wife of 30-year-old Gyale Lama, whose Sherpa people are among the world's most famous mountain climbers and guides.

The marriage was reported by George Zeidenstein of New York City, Peace Corps director in this Himalayan kingdom sandwiched between India and communist-controlled Tibet.

Zeidenstein had just returned to Katmandu from the village of Phaphlu, about 10 days trek from Katmandu, where the wedding took place May 16. Zeidenstein, who travelled part way by air, said the new Mrs. Lama first words after the ceremony were: "I am very happy today, George".

NEAR EVEREST

The marriage is reported in Katmandu to be the first between an American woman and a Sherpa—and probably the first in which any American woman has been married in Nepal at 9,000 feet altitude, the altitude of Phaphlu village, which is near 29,028-foot Mt. Everest.

Mrs. Lama came to Nepal to teach English in the Padma Kanya Girls' College of Katmandu and on her second tour here taught in a primary school in Phaphlu. She met her husband to be there in 1964.

Though many of his people are mountain climbers, Lama works on government-sponsored community development projects and also cares for land owned by his family.

Officials in this capital say his family is part of the mountain nobility in the Solu District of Nepal.

The marriage ceremony, in accord with Sherpa custom, was held in the bride's residence and was performed by the head priest of the region. It lasted two hours.

Griffin to Relay Viet Message

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's Republican Senator, Robert P. Griffin, plans to relay 28 messages from state servicemen in Viet Nam to their wives or mothers.

Griffin brought the messages back with him after cutting short a Viet Nam visit last week when he was appointed to the Senate by Gov. George Romney.

Griffin recalled the comments most often made by the servicemen: "Most of them complained about the weather," he said, "especially when we were in Da Nang and it was 120 degrees in the sun."

Griffin was an artillery officer in World War II and spent 14 months in Europe.

GETTING HOPE

"They all said they looked forward to getting home," he added. "A few Marines complained that their tour of duty lasted 13 months while the Army men served only a year."

"But none of them complained very much about the food, which sort of surprised me. From what I remember of military chow, it wasn't very good."

Griffin was an artillery officer in World War II and spent 14 months in Europe.

Probe to Begin in Collapse of Garage Project

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The Michigan Construction Safety Commission was to begin an investigation today into the collapse Thursday of a $2 million parking garage under construction near the University of Michigan hospital here.

Allan W. Harvey, commission director, said Ray Lepola, an inspector from Detroit, would conduct the inquiry.

A preliminary investigation by university officials and contractors on the project indicated Friday that "high level gusts of wind funneling down through the building" led to its collapse.

James F. Brinkhoff, university director of plant extension, said the pillars in the structure had not been braced. He said it was "not normal practice" to use braces in such cases.

Child's Creativity Grows Best at Home

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.

Creative thinking is a particular area in which parents can accomplish even more than schools, because conformity is necessary with large classes, uniform assignments, and tests that require single, specific answers.

In a large group, a pupil has little opportunity to express his own ideas. He must recite back what he has learned. To think creatively, he must have opportunity to develop confidence in his ability to think.

He must feel secure from ridicule in case his suggestion should prove valueless. He can develop these feelings easier in a family group where he is respected as an individual and has the security of "being long."

Thus, home is a place where originality should be encouraged.

Originality in thought and action shows up in art, music, writing and inventiveness. Early evidences of these abilities should be carefully nurtured.

For example, many successful writers say that their own writing attempts were encouraged by their parents well ahead of the time they were introduced to grammar in school. (The school's preoccupation with grammar and spelling often smothered the possibility of a child doing creative writing.)

These writers were free, at an early age, to concentrate their thoughts on what they wished to say. Their writings were read and enjoyed for content alone. No one graded them on spelling or capitalization.

SHEER ENJOYMENT
During the summer months, when children are released from the pressures of the classroom, they should be encouraged to spend some time writing for the sheer enjoyment of placing their own thoughts on paper.

Boys and girls should also be given every background opportunity and encouraged to develop skill in the use of their brains. Manipulative skill requires practice and is an important background for the inventor.

An executive, charged with supervision of men engaged in creative designs, said, "Men who have worked extensively with their hands design mechanical things that more often operate better than do men who have not worked with their hands."

Because a boy enjoys rebuilding an automobile does not necessarily mean that he will enjoy the study of engineering requiring rigorous courses in mathematics and physics.

A BACKGROUND
It does mean, however, that he is building a background for a better understanding of how machines operate. Because of this experience, he may be more successful in an occupation dealing with machines or, indeed, he may become a successful inventor.

The girl who takes an active part in redecorating the home or doing some dressmaking for herself may well be laying the groundwork for becoming an interior decorator or dress designer.

Computer Role in Psychiatry

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A major step in the marriage between computers and human behavior has been accomplished by a California mathematician and authority on computer language.

Dr. Richard Bellman of the University of Southern California, in Los Angeles, has simulated for the first time some psychological elements of an interview between therapist and patient.

In human terms, the computerized interview was exceedingly simple. In computer terms, it was highly complex and sophisticated.

The computer acts as the patient, Dr. Bellman told Science Service.

For each question asked by the therapist, the machine has one of two answers, which are either "convergent" (cooperative), "divergent" (hostile) or ambiguous.

MORE CHOICES

Depending on the answer given by the machine, the therapist is presented with two more choices. He selects one and the process continues with machine influencing therapist and therapist influencing machine.

Even by the fifth interchange, the total number of possible questions and responses has sprouted into an immense tree, said Dr. Bellman.

He noted that even for such a simple psychiatric interview, complex problems of retrieval and storage had to first be solved.

Ironically, Dr. Bellman's success in creating the computer program testifies to the very real limitations computers have in the behavioral sciences.

NO LOSSER

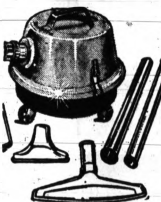

In using computers to study human behavior, said Dr. Bellman, scientists are no closer now than they were 30 years ago, except for one thing. "In the last 10 years, we have begun to realize how difficult it is."

"People are dazzled by computers and the success of mathematics," he said. "They do not realize computers have been applied in carefully chosen areas, so the battling average appears to be extraordinary."

He pointed out that scientists have made thousands of attempts to build ships and even shoes with computers, and it could not be done.

If mathematics could not be used for such engineering problems, said Dr. Bellman, how could it be used to test theories of human behavior.

It Was Perilous Work, But Men Were Crying 'Medic'

How to Win Medal of Honor

By TOM TIEDE

BHIEU HOA, Viet Nam (NEA) — In the 100 years and 16 conflicts since the Civil War, more than 31 million Americans have served under arms in defense of their country.

Many of them have been heroes. But a handful of the total have been far more.

They—3,172 of them have been Medal of Honor winners. The award is not generously given nor easily earned. In all the valor of World War I, 127 were presented; 459 others were struck for World War II, and 131 more during Korea.

THREE AWARDED

Only three have been thus far awarded in Viet Nam, but it seems likely the total will grow.

The recognition is given for incredible feats of courage under fire . . . and there's a bit of that here.

Larry Joel is a good example.

H recently saved 13 people from dying.

Joel, a medic from Baltimore, a chap with a sackful of hope on his hip, was with a few hundred GIs who bumped into a few thousand of the enemy in the hell of a jungle battlefield.

HAD ADVANTAGE

The enemy, at times as close as 30 feet, had a 6-to-1 numerical advantage, knew it, and threw the fury of a battalion of weapons into an action that was decidedly in their favor.

Americans dropped like flies. Every man in one lead squad was immediately killed or wounded. Screams accompanied the swelled sounds of warfare. Men choked and cried everywhere.

It was impossible to help them all.

Book Contains War Realism

War correspondent Tom Tiede has a way with words. His stories from Viet Nam, which appear regularly in The Pontiac Press, have that certain touch of chilling realism that brings the war alive to those on the home front.

Winner of the Ernie Pyle Award, Tiede's writings can easily provoke a tear, a laugh, or that choked-up feeling when he describes what our boys are going through.

The Newspaper Enterprise Association has collected some of his articles in a book, "Your Men at War," available for $1 with the attached coupon.

But Larry Joel damn near did.

Shouting encouragement as he moved from the wounded to the dead, he ripped open trouser legs, slapped on bandages, injected needles, wiped blood to see wounds, brushed away splinters of broken bones, applied tourniquets, transmitted plasma, and ignored warnings to get down out of the line of fire.

HELP, MEDIC!

"Medic," a man would yell, "please, medic!"

"I'm coming, I'm coming."

"Help. Help me."

"I'm here, take it easy."

Exposed as he was, it was impossible for him to escape the massive sheets of incoming fragmentation and twice during the afternoon, bullets drilled into the lower half of his body.

Neither, however, slowed him down. He strapped bandages around the punctures, gave himself shots of morphine, and moved again to help the rest.

Some were beyond that help but others—the estimate is at least 13—are alive today because of it.

GAPING WOUND

One, for example, had a gaping, oozing hole in his chest before the medic improvised a piece of plastic to seal the cavity.

He worked for hours, moving a dozen times across the bitterest, bloodiest stretches of activity. Helping, hauling, running, falling; he used a stick for support and where there was no fresh wound to care for, he rechecked the dressings and conditions of the existing wounds.

But when the activity broke anew he rushed to the center of it. And when the enemy began charging in human waves, blistering the area with shot and explosion, Joel stood resolutely in the middle of the holocaust, draining plasma into dying men.

He continued a full day like this, walking when possible, crawling when not . . . until, finally, his legs would maneuver no more.

CARRIED AWAY

Then, near collapse, he was carried from the battle.

A few days later Lawrence Joel, RA-1225550, a Spec. 5 in the Medical Corps, was recommended to become the 1,173rd winner of the Medal of Honor.

A lot of guys here hope he gets it. Including 13 who, but for Joel, would be dead.

1st Comet of '66 Rediscovered by S. Africans

By Science Service

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — The first comet spotted in 1966 has been rediscovered in the far southern part of the sky by a South African observatory.

The very faint object is named Comet Neujmin-1. It was discovered in 1913, seen again in 1931 and last seen in 1948. It is visible only from the Southern Hemisphere.

Although the comet will move northward and brighten slightly by the end of the year, it will still be too faint for all but the very largest telescopes.

News of the discovery of Comet 1966-A is being telegraphed to observatories by Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory here. The object is in the constellation of Norma in the southern Milky Way.

Luci's Matron of Honor Texas Housewife

ABERNATHY, Tex. (UPI) — Luci Johnson's matron of honor when she marries Patrick J. Nugent Aug. 6 will be Mrs. James R. Ray, a young Texas housewife who looks enough like the Johnson girls to be a member of the first family.

Mrs. Ray, whose given name is Susan, will be 23 when the wedding is held in Washington's Shrine of the Immaculate Conception.

She met Luci three years ago in Washington when Luci's father still was vice president.

Mrs. Ray's husband was an administrative assistant to Democratic Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock, Tex.

A friend of Luci who knew Mrs. Ray's husband introduced Mrs. Ray to Luci.

APARTMENT

"We got to visiting around and told them to come on over (to our apartment)," Mrs. Ray said. "They didn't have anywhere to just sit and talk."

Luci took Mrs. Ray up on the invitation and, during the visit, Luci asked Mrs. Ray to call her.

After Luci's father became president, Mrs. Ray and Luci met again at a Washington reception. Luci again asked Mrs. Ray to call her.

Afraid of being called an opportunist, Mrs. Ray never did telephone the White House but, one day, Luci called her. She asked Mrs. Ray to pick her up "right away" at the White House.

They went to Mrs. Ray's apartment for part of the afternoon and then to a picnic for visitors from Texas. That was the real start of the friendship.

Opening Saturday's conference for widows and divorcees, sponsored by the Mott Foundation at Oakland University, was the first lady of OU, Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson, herself twice widowed.

The speaker seems to have a special message for these two women at Saturday's conference. From left are Mrs. Manley Irwin and Mrs. H. J. Kaufman both of Detroit.

What happens when the initial disaster of death or divorce occurs? Panelists describe their feeling to the audience. From left are Mrs. Dorothy Howard of Windsor, Ont., Mrs. Cella Coffin Alderson of Roch-ter, Mrs. Samuel Chafets of South Genesee Avenue, Mrs. W. Lloyd Kemp of Bloomfield Hills and Mrs. Priscilla Jackson, director of conferences at Oakland University.

400 Widows and Divorcees Spend Day at Conference

By JEANNE NELSON

"This too shall pass"—"Time is the great healer."—"You've been told this by hordes of friends, so-called friends and perhaps a number of advisors. And no matter how their voices pounded away at your brain cells something from deep within, that has no relation to thinking powers, drowns out their sounds with the scream, "No, no, it's me, this unspeakable thing is my own personal tragedy." There is no one who can understand how I feel and what I am going through.

Saturday's conference for widows and divorcees at Oakland University under the guidance of a number of professionals and laymen took this subject and explored its depths.

It was not an ordinary gathering. No indeed. It was a day of shared tears and an occasional ripple of laughter. It was in essence a day of understanding—where the person next to you actually did have common feelings of loss, defeat, and rejection.

On occasion, emotions were raw. Anger was present. Self pity showed its face. Bitterness crept in. Honesty was everywhere. The thing was REAL.

Practical answers to the problems created by death or divorce were given by panels whose members were clergymen, medical people, lawyers, psychiatrists, experts on money management, counseling and children.

But the greatest help of all seemed to come from the very knowledge that all of these women had been touched by the same disaster. And they were still alive, still able to face whatever needed to be faced.

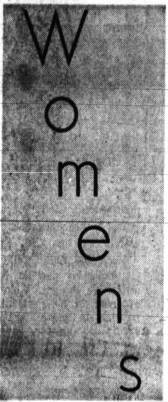

This was proof. It was reality.

One woman put it this way, "I've come so far and I didn't think I could be touched by the memory of old wounds. I came for the practical view and what I might gain through this conference and found that I could still bleed. But the bleeding for me wasn't a bad thing for I found at last a harbor in which to lick those wounds and rise again."

To allow for more individual questions, breakouts took place following the panels. Some women preferred to walk in the sunshine that flooded the campus and talk together. There were some who needed this time simply to walk or sit alone digesting the information they had gleaned.

Mrs. Priscilla Jackson and Mrs. Lee Olson of the university had anticipated a crowd of 200. Some 400 came.

The event was scheduled to close at 4 p.m. Most didn't start leaving until 5 p.m. And when they did, it was with a feeling of having reached one more plateau.

Would Punish Innocent Children

She's Indeed Mad Woman

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am MAD at you. Yes, MAD, MAD, MAD! I just got thru telling my daughter that she is not to associate with children of divorced parents, and then you come along and say people who think that way are ignorant!

Well, I am not ignorant. I am a college-educated Christian woman, married 25 years. If people want to get divorced and drag themselves in the mud, let them associate with their own kind.

There is no parental supervision in broken homes. The mother is either out working or is too tired to care where her children are.

And daddy is either honey-mooning with his new wife, or out drunk with his girl friend. And meanwhile, the kids are running wild. No, I don't want my children associating with children whose parents are divorced.

And if this warps them to tears, I am glad. Maybe it will make them think twice about what divorce can do.

FOR MORALITY

DEAR FOR: So you would punish kids for the mistakes and misfortunes of their parents. You are indeed "mad."

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a college-educated couple who, instead of hiring a sitter for their three-year-old son, take him wherever they are invited?

I don't mean to a casual bridge evening, but to a late dinner party to which six other couples had been invited. We don't have extra bedrooms as yet, and Mr. and Mrs. X, show up at the door with their Bobby all ready for bed. (Our bed!)

They didn't ask us if we minded, nor did they make any excuses for bringing him.

Naturally, the child fusses a little, being in a strange bed and all, and his parents take turns running in and humoring him, which disrupts the entire party.

These people can afford a sitter just like the rest of us, but they have taken the child with them ever since he was a month old. Any comments?

PARTY SPOILED

DEAR SPOILED: If this couple spoiled ONE of your parties, shame on them. If they spoiled TWO, shame on YOU. Your complaints are valid, but if you want action, you'd better address them to the offending couple.

DEAR ABBY: My son has been going to college for seven years. He has changed his mind several times about what he wants to make his life's work and has also had tough breaks in all four colleges he has attended. People keep asking me what my son's "plans" are.

I feel that as long as I am paying the bills, it is no concern of theirs. Am I right? How should I answer them?

A FATHER

DEAR FATHER: Perhaps your friends mean no harm, and are sincerely interested in your son. You are understandably sensitive, but don't bristle. Simply tell them you don't know.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MARRIED TO THE NORTH POLE" IN EASTON, PA.: Don't go to extremes. The South pole isn't any better.

Sunday Audience Thrills to MacDowell Singers

By RICHARD MORSE
The MacDowell Male Chorus, John Tousey, director, with Gilbert Jackson, accompanist, gave its spring concert at Pontiac Northern High School Sunday afternoon. It was assisted by the Washington Junior High School ninth-grade choir, the Choral aires and the Jackson Singers. Mr. Jackson is director of these groups.

The program opened with "The Last Words of David" by Thompson. The careful preparation made by the male chorus showed in the execution of this work with sympathetic accompaniment by Mr. Jackson. "Adoramus Te" by Palestrina followed.

For contrast, the men sang "Away to Rio" and "Old Man Noah," both by Bartholomew. Both were well received by the audience.

The male chorus concluded its first group by singing "With a Voice of Singing" by Shaw.
Gilbert Jackson appeared next as piano soloist with "Deux Arabasques" by Debussy. They were excellently interpreted.

The Washington Junior High School ninth-grade choir started its part of the program with a beautifully sung "Surely He Hath Borne Our Griefs" by Graun. "Charlottown" was next and was enthusiastically received.

"Didn't My Lord Deliver Daniel?" by Smith was the last number of this group.
"The Hen" by Scendello was beautifully sung by a small ensemble called the Choralaires. Its a using text, set to charming music, made a hit with the audience. The ninth-grade choir sang "Call to Remembrance" by Farran. "Every Time I Feel the Spirit" completed the choir's contribution to the afternoon.

For another pleasant change of musical pace, Tom Marsh, tenor soloist, sang two selections from "Carousell." The beautiful "If I Loved You" and the "Mr. Snow Reprieve" were professionally done.

The male chorus returned to singing selections from "My Fair Lady" and followed with "Bless the Lord, O My Soul," for contrast.

At this time John Waldo was presented a life membership in the MacDowell chorus.

Darlene Ruth Day and Jay Ray Warren of Highland Road were wed before Rev. Roy Lambert, Saturday, in the Lakeland Presbyterian Church. Their parents are the Walter Days, Bluebird Street, and the Kenneth Neutons of Flint Boulevard. French lace accented the bride's gown and Watteau train of white silk organza. Attendees were Charlene Griffith, Brenda Ouellette, Sue Bradenburg, Jane and Mary Ann See; Charles Campbell, Jerry Day, Richard Olive and Jim Howe.

Miss Stokes Takes Vows in Afternoon

An afternoon ceremony Saturday in the Auburn Heights United Presbyterian Church marked the vows of Phyllis Myra Stokes and Paul Frank Veen of Troy.

Nancy Stokes attended her sister who wore a veil of Chantilly lace with a floor-length gown of matching lace and net. The bride carried gladioli.

They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. David O. Stokes West Auburn Road, Avon Township.

Roger Veen of Troy was his brother's best man. Their parents are Mrs. Vivian E. Veen of Troy and Frank Veen of Pearl Street. William McIninch seated the guests.

After a reception in the Avondale Fire Hall social rooms, the couple left for a northern Michigan honeymoon.

Honeymoon Night Flight? in Poconos for Bradleys

At a Pocono Mountain resort for their honeymoon are John Francis Bradley of North Cass Lake Road and his bride the former Sharon Lee Walters.

They were wed before Rev. R. J. Kilcynne and the immediate families, Friday evening, in St. Benedict's Catholic Church.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Walters of Ledgestone Drive and the senior L. J. Bradleys of Mark Avenue.

CHIFFON DRESS

The bride wore a street-length gown of white chiffon over tulle with chiffon-oversleeve bodice, and a silk illusion veil. She held a Bible arrangement of white carnations, ivy and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Robert C. Burns of Birmingham was matron of honor.

Attending their brother were L. J. Bradley Jr. of Clarkson, best man, and Thomas A. Bradley who ushered.

A family buffet dinner in K-Falls Lounge followed the ceremony.

The couple will reside in Pontiac. He is a graduate of the University of Detroit currently in graduate study.

Should She Change on

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to Europe on a night flight next month. Some of my friends have told me I should take a pair of slacks in my handbag and change into them on the plane to save my good clothes from wrinkling.

Would this be all right, or would it look funny to the other passengers?—Joan S.

Dear Joan: I think it's really a very practical suggestion. Not only would it save your good clothes, but you would be much more comfortable, and modest, when you try to get settled in your rest in the limited space you get on a crowded jet.

One word of warning: make your change in the lavatory as quickly as possible. The other passengers will think it's more than funny if they are kept waiting an unreasonable length of time.

ON TIME?

Dear Mrs. Post: When invited to someone's house for dinner at seven, what time is one supposed to arrive? Is it better to be a few minutes early or late? Thank you.—Marge.

Dear Marge: The ideal time to arrive for dinner would be between five and fifteen minutes after seven. To arrive much later would cause your host and hostess to wonder if you had forgotten the date.

But to arrive too early is worse because you may surprise your hostess desperately removing her last roller, or your host feverishly trying to sharpen his carving knife.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that we receive each week, we'll send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette, revised by Elizabeth L. Post.

Spring's Fabrics

Colorful Look at Clash, Contrast

Colors that merge, clash, intermingle, and contrast tell the fashion story for spring.

No matter what your color preferences in hue and intensity, you should be able to satisfy your whims, predicts Mrs. Carol C. Kurth, area Extension Home Economist in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties.

FOREIGN INFLUENCE

In giving a rundown of the fashion colors for the upcoming season, she mentioned sunny yellows and oranges influenced by Mexico and Greece. Shades you'll hear about include sunflower, citron, marigold, mango and bittersweet. You'll find them combined with each other, and also contrasted with red.

If red is your color, look for fire tones, particularly combined with black and white, and wild cherry with navy. Pinks lean toward Siamese pink — a deep mauve. Fiesta pink, peppermint and coral complete the group.

Blues range from "surf" to "Burma" — an oriental tone. Navy, in a new tone called "Newport," links the bright blues and the pastels. Midnight blue will be substituted for black in many dark prints. Cornflower blue is the newest pastel to be introduced.

Greens are all yellowed this spring. Blue-greens, dyanasty and jade, are important in high fashion garments.

Pale pastels provide the perfect setting for ultra-feminine, little girl looks.

Neutrals are described in a variety of ways, denoting the depth of color. Some that should appear often include straw, celery, chamois, string, nude, earth, wheat and sand. Mist, a hazy grey, is proving popular as a background for multi-neutral and pastel prints. Neutrals are most popular in lines and silks.

Black and white still play an important part in bold, distinctive designs. White is expected to be particularly popular in pique for late spring and summer.

What's Cost of Feeding Family of Four?

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Mrs. Feeley: I would like to know what the U.S. Government statistics recommend as a suitable food budget for a family of four.

—a man who is an office worker—aged 55, a housewife—aged 50, and two boys—aged 11 and 12 who have hearty appetites.

Will you please give me the figures for a low, medium, and generous food budget? Mrs. J. T. R., Chicago

Dear Mrs. R.: You may balk at some of these figures—but here's the way the statistics come out: Low Cost food plan for a week for a family of four, including two school children: $26.10. Moderate Cost plan, $34.00 weekly. Liberal plan, $39.80.

Now if you want to break down the figures, and take a look at the cost per person per week, here's what you find:

A boy from 9 to 12 years old $6.40 per week on the Low Cost plan. (You have to figure in two boys, of course, at $12.80 per week.)

A man from age 35 to 55, Low Cost per week, $7. Woman from 35 to 55 years old, Low Cost per week, $6.30.

Now here are the same age ranges and sexes on a Moderate Cost plan: $17.00 per week for both boys; $9.30 for the husband; $8.30 for the housewife.

For a Liberal plan, or generous one, allow $19.60 per week for both boys combined; $10.70 for the husband, and $9.50 for the wife.

Just how much milk per person is involved in these figures I cannot accurately say. And you should keep this in mind, too: these estimates are based on the average price per pound of each food group paid by non-farm families at three selected income levels, as of 1955.

These figures were adjusted to current levels by use of Retail Food Prices by Cities, released periodically by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

It's very difficult to set an arbitrary food budget for a family, when some people are mad for spaghetti three times a week and others need some good red meat along with the vegetable soup. The best you can do, Mrs. R., is to use one of these overall weekly figures as a guide and see how near you can come to scoring a bull's eye.

I do urge you to try it, if your food bills are getting out of hand. Don't worry if you overshoot the mark. At least you have a target to aim at—and the assurance that some families of four do live on these food allotments and grow up to be healthy citizens. But I will tell you before you tell me these basic figures demand all

Fold Sweaters

Here's a smart good grooming tip for the sweater set: Drycleaning. Don't hang your knit sweaters on a hanger in a clothes closet. They may stretch and lose their shape.

Fold sweaters loosely and arrange them in a drawer. Place white or light colored garments on one side, dark colored garments on the opposite side.

He Must Fight Back for Mother's Love

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: My older boy, now 3, was 22 months old when his brother was born. Now problems are developing. He plays with food, tears up his books, kicks his toys and wakes up several times every night. But the real problem is my revulsion from him. I feel disgusted with his devilish, attention-demanding behavior and am afraid I may soon not be able to stand him at all.

ANSWER: You're a fine, honest girl. But you're not revolted by this child, you know. You're revolted by your own failure to pass a miracle and change him from a brave, fighting little boy who wants his share of his mother into a Milquetoast who has given up. I'd be proud as all get-out of such a brave, fighting little son.

Once, when my child was 3, I had to leave her for a while. Upon my return, I too had a devil on my hands. Usually it was 1 a.m. before I could get her to sleep. Then one day she kicked me and I knew why she'd been fighting so hard to get me to come out from behind all the patience, all the sweetness, all the "Mommy loves you" talk recommended by the experts for these situations.

I grabbed her foot and I yelled at her, "You love me! YOU LOVE ME! And you think I don't love you back because I went away! That's why you're being so bad and mean! You love me!"

She began to cry. I began to cry. Then we settled down together, and after talking to each other about what a terrible thing it is to love somebody who doesn't love you back, I said, "I'll wait until you've stopped being so shy about saying you love me. But don't take too long because we both know you do."

That was the end of the devilishness.

Your child, as mine was, is

Mom-Girls Will Dine

Grace Lutheran Church plans a mother-daughter banquet at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Following a dinner in the church's Fellowship Hall, a program is planned with Mrs. James Hensel as mistress of ceremonies. A "Sing-Along" will be led by Mrs. James Forman.

Mrs. Fred Zittle and her committee are in charge of the event. Reservations deadline is Monday.

Cotton is the most versatile and adaptable of fabrics.

Rainy Day Play

If the children run out of things to do on rainy days, arrange a painting session. Give them food coloring and cotton-tipped swabs and let them color newspaper pictures or decorate brown paper bags.

Comfy as Covers

For hot-weather driving, use cool, comfortable seat covers made of cotton-terry cloth. Elasticized for perfect fit, covers are absorbent and easy to keep clean. Just remove and toss in washing machine.

"Chenille", a tufted cotton, comes from the French word for caterpillar.

MRS. D. S. HUSTOSKY

Venise Lace Accents on Her Gown

Venise lace accented an Empire gown of white organza over taffeta for Darlene Frances Piche who became Mrs. Dana Stanley Hustosky Saturday in St. Michael's Catholic Church.

Completing her ensemble for the nuptial high Mass offered by Rev. James Hayes were an illusion veil and bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and Stephanotis.

The newlyweds' parents are the Francis B. Piches of East Rutgers Avenue and the Stanley Hustoskys of Lakeview Street.

Honor maid was Mary Roettger with bridesmaids, Patricia Sparr, Livonia, Deborah Deuman and Rosemary Piche. Ann Piche was flower girl.

With Paul Hustosky, his brother's best man, were the ushers, Matt Anderson, Robert Charbonneau and Larry Thomas.

Give Draperies Scalloped Hems

To give cotton draperies a custom-made look, make scalloped hems, using a plate or round dish for a pattern.

Place the dish on the wrong side of fabric, and trace partly around it with pencil or chalk. Trim scallops with cotton tassel fringe.

Oriental Custom

When you serve guests finger foods like fried chicken or spareribs, borrow a Japanese custom that's both practical and elegant.

Pass around a basket of hot, moist terry towels—the small hand size. To prepare, wring out the cotton towels in hot water that has been scented with cologne. Roll up the damp towels or fold them in pads.

Rotunda Inn Reception for Sohockis

A reception in Rotunda Country Inn followed the chapel vows of Judith Ann Nick and Dr. John B. Sohocki II Saturday, in the Milford Presbyterian Church.

Beaded Alencon lace accented the bride's Bianchi gown and circular train of candlelight mousseline de sole over taffeta, and formed a circlet for her illusion veil. Her bouquet included white roses and Stephanotis.

Parents of the couple are the Melvin C. Nicks of Art-dale Drive, White Lake Township and the John B. Sohockis of Detroit.

Melody Nick attended her sister as maid of honor with Mrs. Lawrence Castleman, honor matron.

Lawrence Castleman was best man, Martin Zonca and Karl Jachura seated the guests.

The bride is a graduate of Cleary College and her husband is an alumnus of Wayne State University School of Medicine.

Terry for Tots

Use heavy cotton terry beach towels to make covers for children's pillows, chairs, or bunk beds. They're easy to wash, and new styles come in bright colors and whimsical prints.

Light Plane Crashes, Kills 3 in Canada

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (AP) — Two Michigan fishermen and their Canadian pilot were killed when their light plane crashed in heavily wooded lake country some 50 miles northeast of here Saturday.

Dead are Rolland E. Pollington, 37, of Coleman, Mich.; James Gardiner Watson, 29, of Midland, Mich., and the pilot, Richard Clark, 20, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Ontario Provincial Police said the plane was chartered here from the Air-Dale Flying Service, which frequently flies fishermen into the many lakes in the area.

Observers on the ground watched as the Cessna 180 circled Laughing Lake, the police said. The pilot banked to the left to head the pontoon-equipped plane for a landing on the lake. Instead, it spiraled and plunged into the heavy woods. Police quoted observers as saying the engine apparently failed.

E. R. Dale, owner of the flying service, flew two police constables and a coroner to the scene Sunday and brought out the bodies.

Sino-French Relations Better

PARIS (UP) — Reports that Communist China would like French President Charles de Gaulle to pay an official visit to Peking have helped spotlight a warming of relations between the two countries.

So far it's been largely a one-way traffic, with the French soft-peddaling their own efforts to bring Gallic culture to China. But the Chinese appear to be making a major effort to get their foot in the door in France.

Rumors of a de Gaulle visit to Peking swept Paris when Communist Chinese ambassador Huang Chen met with the president for more than an hour.

Huang has just returned from a long stay in Peking, and there was speculation he might have returned with an invitation for de Gaulle. So far, however, both sides have remained silent on the rumors.

There's plenty of action on other Sino-French frontiers, however. An agreement is being drawn up, for example, giving Air France the right to fly its American-built Boeing 707 jets into Chinese cities.

MUTUAL PACT — Theoretically it's a reciprocal agreement which would give the Chinese the right to fly their planes into Paris. But since the Communist Chinese do not fly commercial routes outside their own country, the traffic will be all French at the start.

Other Chinese influences are popping up everywhere. The men's and women's national basketball teams will be here later this month for games against their French counterparts, including a tour of the provinces.

The first Red Chinese movie ever to be shown in France hit Paris screens with a thud the other day.

The first-night audience howled with laughter at its propaganda-laden plot of evil Caucasians luring innocent Chinese into a life of sin, and more than half walked out before the film finished — causing considerable embarrassment to Ambassador Huang, who had to sit it out.

CHINESE CRAFTS — The Chinese also have a large pavilion at the Paris International Trade Fair, which opened last week. It stresses traditional arts and crafts and steers largely away from the propaganda style of the film.

One Chinese effort to install another outpost in Paris has been quietly thwarted by the French government. The financial newspaper Les Echos reported recently that Peking wants to open a branch of the Bank of China here, to use it as a base for financing Chinese trade with the west. A similar branch exists in Hong Kong.

The idea was quietly but firmly rejected by French officials, who let it be known the government has no intention of letting the Chinese open a bank here, nor of letting them use the franc to finance their trade deals with other countries.

All this activity has warmed up Sino-French relations to the warmest they have been since de Gaulle changed his recognition from Nationalist to Communist China in January 1964.

Things were improved earlier this year when police evicted the Nationalist Chinese delegation to UNESCO — which has its headquarters here — from the old Chinese Embassy.

They had exercised squatters' rights there since the change in recognition, and their expulsion cleared the way for the Communists, who had been lurking in the wings, to take over the embassy property.

Ironically, the obliging attitude of France in letting the Communists into the embassy has not been matched by a similar helpfulness in Peking itself.

BUILDING TAKEN — The former French Embassy there was taken over for their own use by the Communists when they seized power in 1949.

When French diplomats arrived in the Chinese capital in 1964, they were compelled to take over temporary quarters. Requests that the former embassy be handed over to them were met with polite smiles and silence.

After the eviction of the Nationalists from the embassy here, the French were hoping for some reciprocal move in Peking. So far, however, they're out of luck.

Bricklayers End Walkout in Washtenaw

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Washtenaw County bricklayers were to return to work today, following the signing of a two-year contract with the Washtenaw County Contractors Association and the Ann Arbor Home Builders Association Friday.

Terms of the settlement, ending a three-week walkout, were not disclosed.

Joseph Wojtowicz, business agent for Local 14, Bricklayers Union, said it would not be necessary for union membership to ratify the agreement because they had empowered the negotiating committee to accept a contract.

Camera Angles

Dependable Team Is Tough

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

A couple of photography's newest tools have been getting a tough workout from me in the past several months and the results are worth talking about. Paired together for this long-range test was a Graflex XL camera and an Auto/Strobstar electronic flash.

They've been put to use around the house, at parties, press affairs, club meetings, in theaters and just for fun. In all cases, the results were more than satisfactory; in some cases, the pictures were of perfect technical quality.

With time, they've become a dependable twosome.

A COMPONENT

The Graflex XL is a component camera system which can be assembled to suit an individual photographer's needs.

A camera has three basic elements: a lens, a body and a back. In the XL, there are choices of lenses, three different bodies and a variety of backs.

Each of the different basic elements fit together instantly to make a precision camera.

I favored a "press" type camera so chose a rangefinder body, an 80mm Planar f/2.8 lens and two roll film backs.

REGULAR FILMS

Both backs accept regular 120 roll films but one of them, in addition, also accommodates the long-length 220 roll film for 20 exposures.

Other camera backs in the system are for cut film, film packs, Polaroid film packs and 70mm 36-exposure cassettes.

Each of the backs goes on or comes off in seconds.

SHARP, CLEAR

Sighting is sharp and clear in the large rangefinder window with split-image focusing from two and a half feet to infinity.

A handy quick-focus lever, adjustable for personal fingertip convenience, makes it easy to follow action in the rangefinder while getting sharp focus.

As the distance and focus changes, so does the "floating" picture frame because there is automatic parallax correction.

The camera has no light meter on it coupled with automatic exposure-setting so I had the feeling that I was a complete photographer again making decisions and setting controls which make the picture.

COCK SHUTTER

The shutter has to be cocked for each shot and a release lever pressed to wind the film with a rapid-advance flick of the thumb for the next exposure.

In the beginning, I made the usual goofs of forgetting to tension the shutter or release the film advance.

Result? Occasionally, after getting all set to capture a scene . . . click! . . . and nothing happened.

Or the film would show up with several double exposures. AUTOMATIC

In time, however, a picture-taking rhythm was developed so that the action of preparing for the following picture became automatic.

Another early problem was loading roll film under pressure. It is a bit troublesome in the XL back especially when compared with present-day pop-in cartridges and easy-load rapid film cassettes.

But, again, it came easier with experience and even wiser when a long-length 20-exposure roll was provided in the extra back in advance.

The roll film backs produce 2 1/4 by two and three-quarter inch negatives.

This is "big negative format" compared with 35mm size and a handy rectangular shape for 8x10 enlargements.

All in all, I developed a "feel" for the camera with repeated use.

It has solidity and a nice balance which imparts a sense of assurance when shooting at slower hand-held speeds.

More Michigan people are making more phone calls this year than ever before. Take local calls, for example. Michigan Bell customers are dialing a million more local calls a day. And the number keeps growing all the time. Obviously, your telephone company has to grow too, in order to keep up with the growth in calling. And grow we will—to the tune of $180 million for construction in 1966...$45 million more than last year. That's the largest construction program for any year in Michigan Bell's history. So, keep talking. To your friends, to your family, to your customers, to your suppliers. If now and then you experience a delay in getting your calls through, please accept our apology. And our assurance that we're doing everything we possibly can to make telephone service even faster and better than ever before.

Russia Warns Red China on Territory

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The Kremlin has put China on notice it will stand for no Chinese territorial ambitions in Siberia.

Parly leader Leonid Brezhnev flew to the Far Eastern port of Vladivostok recently to tell an audience there that the Soviet army and navy keeps watch.

NEWSOM Siberia.

The location of his speech and the current worsening of the Sino-Soviet rift leads observers in Moscow to conclude that the speech—and, indeed, the trip—was aimed specifically at Peking.

CAKE, NO MEATS — The United States embassy in Moscow is worried over the apparent lack of interest among American scientific students as to studying in Russia.

Since Soviet-American student exchange began, Soviet scientists have flocked to the United States — but almost all Americans going to Moscow have been "slavists," students of Russian history, literature, language and related fields.

Vacancies for scientific students go begging.

ON BACK BURNER — The Romanians know that all Europe is talking about their suggestions for a revision of the Warsaw Pact, the Communist counterpart to NATO.

For one thing, the Romanians are tired of helping to pay the bill for Soviet troops in East Germany, Hungary and Poland.

They also don't like the idea of the pact being exclusively under Russian command.

But, having planted the idea, they also know the Russians won't be hurried.

Therefore, they can be expected now to let the idea cook for awhile before giving it another push.

NATO — Differences over the way NATO should be recognized following France's pullout may not be resolved in time for the Brussels June 6-8 council meeting of the alliance.

This could delay vital decisions to allow for further inter-allied consultations.

There is growing anxiety to avoid any hasty moves that would cut all ties between France and NATO.

Latest suggestions are to give France "associate" status in the revamped defense alignment.

Wilson Eyes Emergency Powers

Sea Strike Mediation Sought

LONDON (UPI)—The government hoped today the Trades Union Congress (TUC), British equivalent of the AFL-CIO, could find a way to mediate Britain's crippling, week-old maritime strike.

The TUC has often initiated peace moves in major strikes in the past.

If it fails to do so this time, informed sources said Prime Minister Harold Wilson would resume consideration of the proclamation of a state of emergency to counter the effects of the strike.

They said a decision is likely by tomorrow.

Wilson could use emergency powers to call in the navy to clear British ports and make room for foreign ships to load exports and bring in vital needed supplies.

WARN WILSON

The 62,500-member National Union of Seamen (NUS), which called the strike in support of demands for more pay and shorter hours, has warned Wilson that "strikebreaking" by the navy would start Britain's first general strike since 1926.

An estimated 300,000 to 400,000 tons of exports worth about $150 million have been held up since the strike began.

A union statement last night said 499 ships are strikebound and 13,740 seamen are idle, refusing to work in Britain's ports, and 13,740 sign on outgoing vessels.

The seamen are asking for reduction of their workweek from 56 to 48 hours and a wage increase which would bring their base pay to $169.75 a month.

Negro Youths Pelt Police in California; 20 Arrested

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — Negro youths in a milling, cursing crowd of more than 200 persons hurled bricks, rocks and bottles at law enforcement officers last night after police made a routine investigation of an auto accident.

One youth, Theodore Robertson, 17, was shot in the leg when police said he attempted to strike an officer with a bottle. He was not seriously wounded and was booked on a charge of assault on a police officer.

Two other Negroes, John Franklin Hiers, 18, and Samuel Pollard, 21, were booked on arson charges for setting fires in trash barrels next to buildings.

In all, police said 20 were arrested on charges ranging from assault to resisting arrest and disturbing the peace.

Eighteen juveniles were taken into custody for violation of curfew and being near the scene of a riot.

'GRITS AND GRIPES'

The initial attack, by youths in a group of about 50 Negroes, occurred shortly after 7 p.m. as two motorcycle officers questioned two Negro drivers at an intersection adjacent to California Park, where an estimated 4,000 Negroes held a "grits and gripes" picnic Saturday to discuss dissatisfaction with the Bakersfield City Council.

The pair, first heckled and then pelted, quickly retreated for aid and soon the area—in the predominantly Negro Lakewood section of south-east Bakersfield—swarmed with 150 police, sheriff's deputies and California highway patrolmen.

During the continuing violence, officers said the crowd swelled to more than 200 persons.

Two officers were injured, neither seriously. Police Motorcycle Patrolman James Brazelton was knocked from his vehicle when he was hit in the shoulder by a bottle, and Sheriff's Deputy Thomas Shuell was struck in the arm by a concrete fragment.

Shuell was treated at Kern County General Hospital and released. Brazelton required no medical aid.

TOKYO (UPI) — The heaviest rainstorm to hit Japan this season began Saturday and continued through yesterday, taking a toll of two dead, and two injured and causing widespread landslides and floods, officials said.

Heaviest hit by the storm was Shikoku Island in central Japan with 27.56 inches of rain.

Million Feet of U.S. Film Shot in Viet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 100,000 feet a year and perhaps more than a million feet of movie film of the Viet Nam war for military and documentary purposes, spokesmen reported today.

Since last October, the Air Force alone has exposed 524,000 feet of 16mm film in cameras, some of them mounted on aircraft.

The Navy will provide no exact figure, but says its Viet Nam film footage approximates the Air Force level.

Army camera teams, a spokesman said, are exposing film at the rate of at least 200,000 feet a year.

gence data that can be gleaned from pictures of a target zone.

More than 100 Air Force personnel are assigned to combat photography duties in the Southeast Asian country and that force is being expanded.

Much of their work involves loading and unloading of airplane cameras and the processing of film.

All five of the aircraft carriers assigned to Viet Nam missions have facilities to process black and white motion pictures within hours. Color film must be returned to Washington for processing.

Magazine Correspondent Killed

Newsman Hurt in Viet

DA NANG, South Viet Nam — One newsman was killed yesterday in Da Nang by a grenade thrown by one of the Buddhist-led rebels opposing Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

REBEL QUARTER

Sam Castan, an award-winning editor of Look magazine, was killed by mortar fire Saturday while covering the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division's Operation Crazy Horse in the central highlands near An Khe.

Castan, 30, of Brooklyn, N.Y., had covered Viet Nam off and on since 1963.

Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalistic fraternity, awarded him its medal for the best magazine reporting of 1964 for articles on Viet Nam.

SENIOR EDITOR

Castan, who carried the title senior editor, also had covered fighting in Cyprus and the Dominican Republic.

He lived in Hong Kong with his wife, Frances, and an infant daughter.

He was the seventh correspondent to be killed in the Viet Nam war.

Associated Press correspondent

Bob Poos and two other rebel launcher burst out against a tree. British free lance photographer Tim Page and myself were hit.

"I felt something like a hammer smash into my shoulder.

Someone next to me shouted 'God, I'm hit, I can't see.'"

LED TO HOME

"A Vietnamese civilian came out and led me to a home. Someone put me to bed and treated my wounds."

Poos had two shoulder wounds from shell fragments and a cut hand, but his condition was reported good.

Page was struck in the head around it. We crossed the line. Ali Taleb was also hit by shell fragments, but neither was reported in serious condition.

Other newsmen rushed back to the press center for help.

Three U.S. Marine officers sped to the scene in Jeeps and evacuated the wounded correspondents.

WAS A 'RUSE'

"Later, Vietnamese Brig. Gen. Du Quoc Dong told us we were foolish to go to the pagoda. 'It was obviously a ruse to take you as hostages,' he said.

Poos was second Associated Press correspondent wounded in Da Nang during the past week.

PLYMOUTH TAKES YEAR'S TOUGHEST STOCK CAR RACE!

The Hemi Plymouth proves its durability again, taking first and second at Charlotte in the World "600", Nascar's longest race.

Driving at top racing speeds for 600 long, hot miles is a tough test of a car. That's what makes the World "600" the most grueling stock car race on the NASCAR calendar. And the Hemi-powered Plymouth Belvedere proved that it was more than equal to the test by winning the "600".

For more proof of durability, check the NASCAR record. There's Richard Petty's victory in the Daytona "500" and in the Darlington "Rebel 400", Paul Goldsmith's win in the Rockingham "500", Jim Hurtubise's victory in the Atlanta "500" and Norm Nelson's first in USAC's "Yankee 300" at Indianapolis. Different drivers, different race tracks. But almost every major race this year has gone to Hemi-powered Plymouths. That's reliability!

Of course you can't buy these race cars at your Plymouth Dealer's. They're specially modified just for stock car racing. But the same engineering know-how that gives the racing Hemi such a record of performance and reliability goes into every Plymouth you can buy at your dealer's. Test-drive one of them... Belvedere, Fury, Valiant or Barracuda... you'll see why Plymouth for 1966 is such a big winner.

Life Is Still Bright as Ever for Underground Dwellers

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (U) — "When we first moved in, at least we used to go up and see what the weather was like," said Mrs. Jay Swayze. "We've gotten so accustomed to it now that some days we don't even go up and look around."

The slender, attractive housewife spoke as she sat in a paneled den not unlike those in thousands of modern homes.

But her house is 13 feet underground.

She, her builder-contractor husband, and their daughters, Cheryl, 20, and Nancy, 18, have lived in it three years.

AN ATMOSPHERE

The four-bedroom, three-bath room house is called an atom-it, for atomic habitat. It has a den, living room, dining room, kitchen, and even a patio, all enclosed with a concrete shell.

The atomit blossomed from an idea Swayze had some years ago at a Civil Defense discussion on family fallout shelters.

The Swayzes do not discuss the cost of the atomit but Mrs. Swayze said recently her home was duplicated in Colorado for $80,000.

Swayze also built a similar underground home for display at the New York World's Fair.

Mrs. Swayze said this was one considerably more expensive because of labor union specifications.

ALL ADAPTED

Everyone in the Swayze family has adapted to the subterranean environment, says Mrs. Swayze. "We never feel closed in. It bothered me a little before we moved in, but when we got our personal articles in we felt at home. People who visit us remark that they'd really like the quiet down here. We hear an occasional airplane, and storms if they are directly above our fireplace."

Fierce West Texas sandstorms frequently bother the Swayzes' neighbors, but go unnoticed underground.

"The only way we can tell if dust is blowing is to go up and look," Mrs. Swayze said. "We never get any dirt down here at all."

Insurance rates are only about one-eighth what they are for ordinary homes of comparable cost, primarily because the atomit is secure against fallout, tornadoes, hailstorms, and general deteriorating by weather, she said.

CARPETED FLOORS

The home includes 2,400 square feet of living space, with all floors carpeted in gold nylon.

and walls and ceilings painted eggshell white.

A landscaped garden provides a ground level invitation to the atomit. It is accented in the center with a 14-foot-thick rock garden which forms the exhaust for the air system below.

A brick garage sits on a corner of the lot, with a stockade fence on three sides. Attached to the garage are a study, kitchenette, half-bath and day room. This is all for entertaining topside.

A wide stairway of quarry tile drops down to the entrance of the home. Plants, nourished by special lighting, flourish along the outside.

SIMILARITY

From this point, the atomit has the appearance of any fashionable home.

Special lighting treatment gives a three-dimensional effect of an outside scene from the front windows and doors, eliminating any cave-dwelling feeling.

Mixtures of special lights create illusions of twilight, daylight, and night.

A 30-foot patio, 7 feet wide, forms a passageway from the north to the south wing. It is a recreation area, and has a shuffleboard layout.

GLASS DOORS

One wall of the den is formed almost entirely of sliding glass doors opening onto the patio.

Another is of walnut panelling and contains communications and stereophonic equipment.

The home has an auxiliary power plant capable of supplying power up to four months, a water well with submersible pump, and two sewage lifts.

"We love it," said Mrs. Swayze. "But if we built another house, we'd put it in a hill. We're getting old and don't want to walk up the stairs."

Meeting Set as Strike Near

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Officials of the Washtenaw County Road Commission are to meet with Teamsters Union representatives here Tuesday in an effort to avoid a strike by some 100 road workers.

The newly organized members of Teamsters Local 247 have threatened to walk off their jobs if suitable contract negotiations are not resumed at Tuesday's meeting.

Bargaining broke down last week when the union charged the commissioners were "not bargaining in good faith." The union charged the county officials with retracting previous tentative agreements.

Patrick Clisham, negotiator for the road commission, said the reconsiderations were due to "legal matters" the commissioners were not aware of earlier.

The union, which took a unanimous strike vote Friday, has filed an unfair labor practices charge with the National Labor Relations Board as a result of the dispute. The Teamsters won the right to bargain for the workers in an election last month.

For 15 Orphans

Wanted: 2 Parents

MOTT, N. D. (UPI) — In the long columns of dull gray type on the classified pages of newspapers in this prairie state was this appeal:

WANTED: A third set of parents for 15 orphaned children.

Behind those 10 words lies a touching story of tragedy and togetherness.

The ad was placed on behalf of the 15 Kerzman children whose parents were killed last November in a traffic accident.

AMBULANCE HIT

At the time, Mr. and Mrs. James Kerzman were accompanying their new-born daughter, Mary Ruth, to a hospital when the ambulance collided with a truck.

Mary Ruth survived and is now six months old.

James Kerzman Jr., the eldest of the children at 19, with his 18-year-old brother, Jerry, has been trying to keep the family together on its 1,500-acre grain and cattle farm, summed up the children's plea in four words:

"We need a guardian."

Since the parents were killed, especially the younger children. Pension funds and donations have provided enough money for the children, but money is no substitute for love and adult guidance.

Hence, Mayor Hardmeyer's ad. In it, the mayor asked that any couple who is interested in becoming foster parents to the orphans to contact him.

Once before, just after the accident, public pleas for help were answered. The 15 Kerzman children and the town of Mott hope that once more their appeal will be heeded.

NLRB Has Handled Over 200,000 Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) has handled more than 200,000 charges of unfair labor practices since its establishment in 1936.

The figure was contained in the NLRB's 30th annual report, covering fiscal 1965 and made public yesterday. The board said it handled 15 charges of unfair labor practices during its first year; 15,800 during 1965.

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Young Republicans have elected Aubrey Radcliffe, 28, of East Lansing as the first Negro in the group's history to serve as national committee man.

Tom Ahart, 27, a Detroit Negro, was elected vice chairman of the organization at its convention at the Statler-Hilton here Saturday.

Both were members of a slate calling itself "Team for Young Republican Progress." The entire slate, headed by David Kendall, 27, of Jackson County, was elected.

Others elected on the slate were: Miss Mickey Michaels, 25, of Royal Oak, national committeewoman; James Young, 33, of Kalamazoo, treasurer; and Judy Kurtz, 25, of Ann Arbor, secretary.

Test Turnout Blamed on Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some school officials say the light turnout for the second session of the draft deferment quiz may be a result of draft director Lewis B. Hershey's statement that few college students actually will be drafted.

About 250,000 students had been expected to take Saturday's examination.

Considerably fewer showed up at testing centers in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Panama Canal Zone.

At the first session May 14, about 400,000 students took the three-hour, 150-question test.

But Lt. Gen. Hershey, Selective Service director, told a reporter last week in Dallas, Tex., that few if any college students will be drafted unless the monthly draft quota jumped over 30,000 men.

ENOUGH NONSTUDENTS

Hershey said there are enough nonstudents and college dropouts to fill current military needs.

Next month's quota was set at 15,000 men and the list has jumped over 30,000 only twice this year, in January and in May.

One official who linked the light turnout to Hershey's speech was James C. Windsor, dean of students at Christopher Newport College, Newport News, Va., where only five of a scheduled 222 took the test.

Windsor said he believed Hershey's statement plus the civil war in South Viet Nam and a general vagueness concerning the test's effectiveness "has put a negative tone on the whole thing."

An Associated Press survey included these attendance results after Saturday's test:

There were more testers than testees at Millikan University in Decatur, Ill.

Only 10 students of the 2,500 registered for the exam appeared at Virginia Tech, although 21 students not registered also appeared.

At Rockhurst College, Kansas City, only 33 of 965 registered showed up; only 88 of an expected 2,100 at the University of Washington took the test; and only 400 of 3,329 appeared at the University of Missouri at Kansas City.

Iraq Steps Up War on Rebels

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraqi planes have bombed concentrations of Kurdish rebels in northern Iraq, and the army has captured hundreds of wounded Kurds, Baghdad radio reported today.

The broadcast, quoting government-controlled Baghdad newspapers, said two sons of the Kurdish leader, Mullah Mustafa Barzani, were killed in the fighting. Barzani's oldest son, Lughman, was reported killed last week.

The radio said the Iraqi army had scored "great victories" in its new offensive against the Kurds, and that hundreds of fleeing guerrillas were turned back at the Iranian border and subsequently captured.

Other reports from northern Iraq said the fighting is the fiercest in the five-year-old war between the Kurds, who demand autonomous rule, and the central government.

Teen Drowns in Island Lake

BRIGHTON (AP) — A 17-year-old Center Line youth drowned in Island Lake near Brighton Sunday despite efforts of a Detroit high school student to rescue him.

James Elwood Bishop drowned in about six feet of water, the Livingston County Sheriff's office reported.

Bishop and Francis Ballister, 18, and Raymond Kapack, 36, both of Detroit, were swimming to an island about 300 yards offshore from the Island Lake Recreation Area.

They started yelling for help at two thirds of the way to the island.

MADE RESCUE

William Kithen, 18, a senior at Detroit's Henry Ford High School, swam out and rescued Kapack.

Ballister swam ashore by himself, the sheriff's office reported. Kithen returned in a futile attempt to save Bishop. Bishop's body was recovered by skin divers.

McNamara Speeches Show New Side

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since he became secretary of defense, many have viewed Robert S. McNamara as a kind of super-efficient man-machine with a computer brain and a soul to match.

But in two speeches within five days McNamara displayed a side rarely seen in public.

Before the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Montreal Wednesday, he spoke in an idealistic and philosophic vein as he expounded the thesis that military hardware alone cannot assure security.

Yesterday, before his daughter's graduating class in Pittsburgh, the defense secretary appeared as a defender of "freedom of dissent" — standing up for the right of campus protesters to demonstrate against the Viet Nam war even though McNamara said, it is clear these actions give comfort to the enemy.

That Chatham College commencement speech — salted with historical and literary quotations and reference — demonstrated a sympathy with the concern of some youths that man is becoming dominated by technology. He sought to dispel that fear.

PRIMORDIAL SYMBOL

"For many students," McNamara said at one point, "the computer has become the primordial symbol of mass impersonalization.

"It is ironic that this should be so," he continued, "considering the immense quantum of human drudgery — both mental and manual — that the computer has eliminated."

In most of his public appearances, such as the recent televised hearings of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, McNamara appears in the role of defender of his military policies and of U.S. prosecution of the war in Viet Nam.

The country has read and heard his reported claims that the United States has enough atomic weapons power to blast both the Soviet Union and Red China.

McNamara is known as the management expert — the one-time Ford Motor Co. president who tamed the Pentagon and the quarreling armed services as no other secretary of defense before him could.

'SUPERMAC'

Testifying before congressional committees, speaking at news conferences and in other public forums McNamara often gives the impression of being harsh, impersonal, sometimes truculent and even autocratic. His critics call him "Supermac." One House committee has likened him to a Caesar. He is very much aware of what is written about him, and of the way he comes across on television. Is he trying to soft his public image?

Public Health Nurses Strike in NY Dispute

NEW YORK (AP) — About three-fourths of the city's public health nurses are staying away from work today in a dispute over demands for higher pay.

J. Jerome Olitt, counsel for the Professional Public Health Nurses Association, said yesterday that 550 out of 683 nurses had handed in their resignations last Friday, to take effect this morning.

Negotiations broke off Saturday and apparently neither side made overtures over the weekend.

Departure of the nurses means a drastic curtailment of medical services in child health centers, clinics and schools.

People in the News

By The Associated Press
Mayor John V. Lindsay appeared for 50 minutes yesterday on a children's television show and answered questions ranging from taxes on candy bars to stolen bicycles.

A girl asked why there were taxes on sweets, and Lindsay replied: "It's better to have taxes on candy bars than on spinach."

An 11-year-old girl said her bicycle had been stolen and wanted to know why there weren't serial numbers on all bikes.

"The police department has taken a good hard look at that," said Lindsay.

LINDSAY A 6-year-old girl who lives in New Jersey complained about the smell near her home and hinted it might be carried there by winds from the city.

The mayor said, "I'm sorry it smells. And I urge you to get in touch with your local government officials."

He noted that New York City is "embarking on a very large antipollution drive."

'Yes, Linda, There's Love in Plastic Heart'
"Does a plastic heart have love in it?" asked Linda Griggs, 7, a second grader in Pittsburgh, Pa., of Houston heart surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey.

DeBakey wrote to Linda:

"DeBakey wrote to Linda: "Yes, a plastic heart does have love in it, a very great deal of love."

"The love in a plastic heart is the love of many people who love other people, and don't want them to die. So these people work all day and often all night to build hearts that will make people live longer," the surgeon wrote.

"If you can think of how much love there would be in hundreds of hearts, then that is how much love there is in a plastic heart. When you grow up, you will understand how very much love that is."

Junior Editors Quiz on CHAMELEONS

QUESTION: What makes chameleons change color?
ANSWER: The true chameleon is the funny little fellow shown at the upper right. He lives in Madagascar and Africa, as well as parts of Asia and Europe.

He has a very long sticky tongue with which to catch insects (1), can roll his eyes (2), has peculiar grasping toes (3) and a tail he can wrap around twigs for support (4).

The American chameleon is an American lizard of another kind, usually called "chameleon" because he can change colors so often, like the Old World one.

It is a popular idea that chameleons change color to match their surroundings, but there is little truth in this. Scientists say that changes in temperature, in the intensity of light and in lizard's emotional feelings—such as fright, anger and so on—make the difference in color.

Under ordinary conditions, a chameleon may be gray green with small spots. In the dark this may fade to cream color.

Under bright sunlight, the lizard may turn black. Hot conditions without sunlight may make the chameleon green. When startled, he may turn to a lighter tone with brown areas and yellow spots.

FOR YOU TO DO: The American chameleon, often sold at pet shops and circuses, is lots of fun when kept in a vivarium with as we show. Feed them meal worms and flies and be sure to sprinkle the cage with water so they can lap up the drops. If you can't keep one, try to find someone who has a pet chameleon and check up on the colors.

Sniper's Lair Area Searched

Police Hunt for Loot of Kidnaper's Raids

SHADE GAP, Pa. (UPI) — State police combed nearby woodland areas today looking for caches of guns, food and other loot stolen by the crazed kidnaper-sniper who held 17-year-old Peggy Ann Bradnick captive for seven days.

Police said the kidnaper, William Hollenbaugh, 44, forced Peggy to help him burglarize a Shade Gap home of foodstuffs and a 32-caliber pistol a week ago today.

Hollenbaugh had a long record of convictions for burglary and larceny before his final week-long crime spree which included the kidnapping, the fatal shooting of an FBI agent, the wounding of a deputy sheriff and his own death by shooting.

Hundreds of sightseers flocked to this tiny community yesterday, looking for the spot Hollenbaugh was fatally shot last Wednesday, for his dilapidated mountain cabin and for Peggy's home.

State troopers, who had been detailed to search the cabin area and nearby caves for burglary loot, wound up directing traffic.

NO CONNECTION
State Police Lt. Edward Mitrowski said there was "positively no connection" between Hollenbaugh and the disappearance of a 6-year-old Tyrona girl missing for more than a year.

That Hollenbaugh might be responsible for kidnapping Kathy Shea was just one of the false reports circulating among the sightseers, troopers said.

Others were that a body had been found under Hollenbaugh's cabin and police were looking for more bodies. No bodies were found.

Peggy Ann, meanwhile, rested in the Fulton County Medical Center. She talked to friends during the weekend and made plans for returning to school.

FEET BRUISED
She will be released later this week when the bruises on her feet, suffered when Hollenbaugh dragged her over mountainous terrain during his flight from police, are healed.

Peggy has received letters from all over the country. Some expressing gratitude for her escape. Others, sent by cranks, were screened out by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bradnick.

The girl said Hollenbaugh "treated me as well as he could." She denied she had been sexually assaulted.

Police said ballistics test showed Hollenbaugh was the sniper who terrorized this tiny community for the past two years, wounding two persons and firing at a number of others.

Viet Policy on Line in Oregon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's Viet Nam policy goes on the line tomorrow before Oregon Democratic voters choosing their party's nominee for the Senate.

The primary voters will be offered a choice between Howard Morgan, 52, who is an opponent of President Johnson's Viet Nam policy, and Rep. Robert B. Duncan, 45, who supports it.

At an added flourish, Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon Democrat who has been sharply critical of the administration, has staked his prestige on a victory for Morgan.

At the same time, Florida and Oklahoma voters will be settling runoff races for nominations for governor, and Kentucky voters will be choosing Senate candidates.

There also will be contests in Oregon for gubernatorial nominations and in both Oregon and Kentucky primary races for Congress will be staged.

NATIONAL INTEREST
Because of the clash of views on Viet Nam policy, national interest is centered on the rival bids by Morgan and Duncan.

Morse has declared that if Morgan isn't nominated, he will vote for Gov. Mark Hatfield. Hatfield is the prospective Republican Senate nominee, although he faces primary opposition from Walter Huss, an ultraconservative.

The Senate seat involved in this struggle is now held by Sen. Maurice B. Neuberger, Democrat, who chose not to seek reelection.

State Treasurer Robert Straub is bidding in Oregon for the Democratic nomination for governor. He is opposed by State Sen. Ben Muss. Candidates for the Republican nomination are

Secretary of State Tom McCall and John L. Reynolds. In Florida, Gov. Haydon Burns and Miami Mayor Robert King High are in a runoff for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Scott Kelly, who ran third in the first primary May 3, has thrown his support to High.

Germans Must Ask French to Remain

BONN, Germany (AP) — France has told West Germany it will remove its 72,000 troops in Germany by July 1, 1967, unless the West Germans ask officially that they remain.

The move is part of France's military withdrawal from the Atlantic alliance.

Chancellor Ludwig Erhard would like for them to remain as a symbol of friendship and defense against Soviet attack but he opposes any exclusive French control resembling the 1945-55 occupation.

LBJ Home a Landmark?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's boyhood home in Johnson City, Tex., may become a registered national historic landmark.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall announced today the one-story farmhouse has been declared eligible for designation as a historic landmark. To do so, Udall said, Blanco County, Tex., owner of the home, must apply for such designation.

Sites recognized under this program are registered by the National Park Service but are not administered by it. Upon application the service presents the owner a certificate and bronze plaque.

Recognition of the Lyndon B. Johnson boyhood home was recommended by the Advisory Board on National Parks. The home, built in 1885, was bought by Samuel and Rebekah Johnson when Lyndon Johnson was 6 years old. He lived there until he completed his secondary education.

The property, regarded as typical of the farmhouses built in the Southwest in the late 19th century, already is recognized as a Texas state landmark.

It is administered by the Lyndon B. Johnson Boyhood Home Foundation as an historic house-museum.

HIS PARTIES SWING — When President Johnson throws a party, or shows up at one, it swings. Here, the President is shown in action the receiving line at recent White

LBJ Could Dance All Night---and Does

(EDITOR'S NOTE — When LBJ throws a party, or shows up at one, it swings. A wife of a foreign diplomat recently confessed she finally had learned what makes a successful thing in action. Here's what it is all about.)

By FRANCES LEWINE
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is the life of his parties. They swing because he stays and stays.

And, lately, dinners, receptions and dances at the White House are lasting longer and longer.

The choicest ingredient of any White House party is, of course the President. Everyone who comes wants to meet him—and his wife—and go home and tell the folks about it.

But, at White House parties nowadays, the guests get far more than they expected.

GUEST TOURS
President Johnson may show a guest the room where Lincoln slept—or even his own bedroom.

When he stands in a formal receiving line in the elegant Blue Room, old friends coming through get a bear hug and many a lady gets a kiss.

At a party the President encourages his young daughters—and his guests from diplomats to secretaries—to swing out on the polished East Room floor in the frenetic frog, swim, monkey or the hitchhike.

He's even loosened up White House secretaries Bill D. Moyers and Elizabeth Carpenter, to do the frug together. And there's one staff version known as "the LBJ" because it includes some of Johnson's characteristic gestures, like pointing the finger and holding the phone to his ear.

ORDERS MATUSI
At a recent dinner dance given in honor of Denmark's Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag and his blonde actress wife, Helle Virkner, Johnson summoned daughter Luci and told her to get a watusi going.

The most popular party—usually the swiftest—is the dinner dance with the East Room set cabaret style and ringed with small candlelit round tables beneath the huge, dimmed crystal chandeliers.

The President often table hops and sits out a few dances to chat with friends.

But, he can be indefatigable on the dance floor, often keeping up a marathon pace that brings beads of perspiration to his forehead.

Bachelor military aides from every branch of the service get special White House party duty. And the President gives them orders to keep the ladies dancing.

Protocol once prescribed that guests stayed until the President left a party. But that idea has long been a thing of the past. Visiting heads of state and V.I.P. visitors to the White House usually leave long before President Johnson tires of the fun.

He smilingly sees them to the front door—the imposing north portico—offers a friendly farewell—and goes back to the dancing. Sometimes the President even outlasts his wife, who is a devoted dancer hostess. The times that he has departed early, his party has just slipped away, too.

OFFICIAL REASON
Almost every White House party is given for some official reason.

But for Johnson, who never goes to bed early anyway, parties are a major source of relaxation from the duties of his office.

And, if he has any secret formula for the success of these events, a close associate says: "He wants everybody to feel at home."

Mass Media Sometimes Fail to Tell Good News

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG, JR.
Executive Director
National Urban League

I have often commented on the fine job our communications media have done in reporting the struggle for civil rights and in probing behind the scenes to develop important stories in this field. Because I have so often praised their coverage, I feel I should also speak out when they seem to be falling short of their high standards of reporting.

too often our newspapers and television stations tend to overplay the harshly dramatic stories of conflict and underplay the quietly dramatic stories of accomplishment. Outbursts of violence or stories of strife bring wide television coverage and are splashed across the front pages but the many inspiring stories of change and progress are too often relegated to the inside pages where they are buried by columns of advertising.

Last fall, Episcopal Bishop W. B. Donagan announced that $2 million in pledged donations to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City, had been withdrawn by persons who disapproved of his strong stand on civil rights.

The story was featured widely and many took this to mean that if a church or an organization financially dependent on donations took a strong position in favor of civil rights, it would court financial disaster.

Although the story was given front page treatment, its happy ending was not.

A few weeks ago, I came across a small item, buried in the inside pages of an afternoon newspaper. This reported a speech by Bishop Donagan in which he announced that the money lost by the withdrawal of pledges has been more than made up by new pledges from people who never contributed before.

'NO INTENTION'
In addition, Bishop Donagan said that the Cathedral had no intention of deserting the civil rights struggle and that it "has been written into more wills than it ever has before."

The new money has come from people of all faiths. He said that "hundreds upon hundreds of small contributions poured in from all over the country from Roman Catholics, Jews, and even individuals with no church affiliations."

To the best of my knowledge, the newspapers which splashed the earlier story of the pledge withdrawals across their front pages, and the television stations which reported those events last fall, did not mention this new development.

Why? To me it is a dramatic and inspiring story. Here are hundreds of people countering the actions of a short-sighted few, registering their approval of a church's highly moral act.

MADE GESTURE
They made a gesture which transcended their differences of faith. Yet it got next to no coverage, despite the fact that the earlier story which stressed conflict and dissent got such a big play.

This is not just an isolated incident. Papers are full of stories of Negroes who are vilified when they move into an all-white suburb, yet there are never any stories about those who make the move and are accepted into their new neighborhood.

Every day, Negroes move into such situations and are greeted by their new neighbors, and quickly become outstanding members of the community.

These stories are never told, but let one rock come flying through one window, and the television cameras are right there. I agree that these things are news, but so are the success stories.

3-YEAR PROGRAM
The Urban League recently announced a new three-year program, "Operation Equality," designed to help bring about integration in housing. This important story was buried in the newspapers the next day.

But if the Urban League had put out an inflammatory statement replete with threats and warnings, it would have been on page one.

When a lone Negro student, James Meredith, was enrolled at the University of Mississippi, a small army of newsmen joined the federal troops which were required to restore order to the strife-torn campus.

But where are the newsmen now that a number of Negro students are quietly attending "Ole Miss"? It was left to Ebony magazine to tell the story of these students—a story just as dramatic in its own quiet way.

FORCED TO LEAVE
When some Southerners were forced to leave their home towns because of racist pressures and threats, their stories were played up in the news media. But what about those southern moderates who stay behind and work for acceptance of integration? Their stories are almost never featured.

To judge by what is printed in the papers and newsweeklies, and what is seen on television, interracial cooperation is almost nonexistent and racial conflict is something that makes news every day.

No wonder people in other countries have such misconceptions about the very real strides that have been made in the last decade.

If our media deliberately set out to mislead them, they could hardly do a more effective job.

ARE IMPORTANT
Certainly the violent, the dramatic, and the negative, are important news. But to are the many instances of cooperation, the quietly dramatic stories of harmony, the inspiring individual success stories.

Boyle's Mailbag Pops Open, Spilling Things You'd Never Know

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Accidents are by far the biggest killers of children. Each year they take the lives of more children between 1 and 14 than the five leading diseases combined. Up to age 6, one of every four children is hurt in a household accident.

Your favorite podiatrist may be miffed if you didn't let him shake hands with your feet last week. It was National Foot Health Week. Biggest disclosures: some 85 per cent of folks over 65 have some sort of foot trouble, more women than men have their ailing tootsies treated.

LEGAL BILL
At last there's a legal $3 bill. It is being issued this week by the Bahamas, which is switching from Britain's traditional pounds, shillings and pence to decimal-based currency. Bahamians also will make change with a new 15-cent square coin and a $5 silver piece, largest metal coin in this hemisphere.

If you have a weak stomach, perhaps you'd better cancel any ambition to become one of the first settlers on the moon. Among the foods being considered for these pioneers are algae and tiny fresh water fleas, which reproduce quickly and are rich in protein and carotene.

He Must Be Game for Parties

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON — New endurance records are constantly being set in space flights, sports, tracking showmen, playing awake and numerous other fields. But as testimonials to man's amazing fortitude, none of these can begin to match the record of Leslie and Elizabeth Carpenter, a local husband-and-wife team.

It was reported the other day that Les, a newspaperman, and Liz, Lady Bird Johnson's press aide, attend more than 250 Washington dinner parties a year.

The social note in which I read of this astounding feat also said that the Carpenters "are planning some day to write a book on what makes such occasions a success."

"When Les gets home from a really swinging affair, he talks into a tape recorder until he has a complete record," it said.

Anyone who can attend a Washington dinner parties an average of two nights out of three and remain coherent enough to scribble before a tape recorder, much less write a book, is made of stern stuff indeed.

FAINT IDEA

To give myself a faint idea of the stamina this requires, I spent about an hour on a recent evening observing a dinner party at the Peruvian Embassy. Then I went home and tried to capture it all on tape. It played back like this:

"Hi there, tape recorder. Guess where I've been. I've been watching some congressmen model summer fashions for men."

"The fashion show was part of a charity benefit dinner AFFIDAVIT OF CAMPAIGN EXPENSES

Dispute Clouds Proposed A-Facility

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—A proposed meson factory at Los Alamos scientific laboratory would be like a half-mile-long scientific shooting gallery, with targets so small as to defy belief.

The targets would be nuclei, the cores of atoms. The ammunition would be protons such as found within the nucleus itself, slamming into the target at 160,000 miles per second.

The facility's past is clouded by disputes between the New Mexico congressional delegation and the federal Bureau of the Budget over whether money should be appropriated for it. Dr. Louis Rosen, head of the Meson Physics Division at Los Alamos, is optimistic.

FULL FUNDS

"All of our plans are predicated on full construction funds in fiscal 1968," Rosen said in an interview. He noted that the Atomic Energy Commission has asked for $3 million to start on construction during fiscal 1967, and interpreted this to mean that the administration favors the project. Rosen thinks the facility, called an accelerator, could contribute to advances in radiation therapy for cancer treatment, as well as better understanding of the effects on man of the radioactive environment in space. Weapons may be improved too, he said.

There now are no probes fine enough to properly explore the nucleus, which with the electrons around it make up the atom, Rosen said, although smaller energy nuclear accelerators have yielded useful information about overall features such as the size and shape of the nucleus.

DESCRIBE ROLE

Particles called mesons are believed to help keep other subnuclear particles within atoms together and, as such, are sometimes called the glue of the universe.

These mesons would be used to probe the nucleus.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

South Viet Nam is engulfed incessantly in turmoil while the Communist north — for all the outside world knows — seems free of it. Why?

How is it that the northern regime appears able to escape political troubles and control its people while southern regimes seem incapable of doing so?

Probably there are several answers:

The northern regime has not, in fact, been without troubles stemming from the protracted war.

MAY HAVE HELPED

Bombings of the north may have aided the Red regime in countering morale problems.

The northern regime had 10 years virtually free from outside peril and could construct and fortify a classical Communist power structure to keep its people under control.

There is no question in the north of Buddhist opposition as such. The religious situation there is much what it was in the south, before the Buddhists started to organize politically against the Ngo Dinh Diem regime.

The local faith in the north was mostly a vague mixture of animism, ancestor worship, a deep imprint of Chinese Confucianism and elements of Chinese Buddhism. Under the Communists, Buddhists never would have had a chance to become a political factor, much less organize.

U.S. INFLUENCE

In the south, U.S. influence has upheld democratic rights. Another factor was American shock over conflicts between the Diem regime and the Buddhists.

And agitation, in a glare of publicity, has become highly contagious.

Under these conditions, the political elements of Buddhism found fertile ground for action.

This does not mean that there is clear sailing in the north in contrast to the south.

There is little question there have been difficulties growing out of war weariness. Earlier this year, Politburo member Le Duc Tho severely lectured those who "entertain pacifism, slacken their vigilance and fail to be ideologically ready for combat."

SHRINK FROM TROUBLE

"They see only difficulties and do not see opportunities. They show pessimism, perplexity and a reluctance to protracted resistance," he complained.

Too many, he said, "still fear sacrifices and hardship, shrink from difficulties... have low organizational, disciplinary and revolutionary fighting spirit."

Le Duc Tho said party members were "too coercive with the masses." The party's prestige was hurt by this because "the greatest peril is separation from the masses." In some areas, he said, there was "a serious state of disunity."

Two British correspondents admitted to Hanoi within the last year have suggested that U.S. bombings, putting the northerners' homeland under attack, may have helped the Communists sustain morale.

ON THE ALERT

Thousands of people now are in militia corps. Thousands are busy digging air-raid shelters, manning defense posts, drilling. Air-defense units, mobile repair teams and first-aid groups are on the alert 24 hours a day. So many men are on duty that, the party has reported, 70 per cent of the industrial labor force now is made up of women.

The listed bombing targets have been military: roads, bridges, communications, barracks, arms dumps and the like.

The Communist north — an area always poorer than the south — is accustomed to rural privations. All along it has been on an austerity basis. Any disruptions in the economy due to bombings have had doubtful impact.

There is rationing in North Viet Nam: rice, meat, sugar and cotton — but this is nothing new, and there are no indications of arms exportation.

WHOLE GENERATION

In addition to all this, the northern regime has had a long time to organize. In 21 years since Ho Chi Minh moved into Hanoi with the proclamation of a republic, there has been indoctrination from childhood for a whole generation.

Today there are 2.5 million children in the Communist Young Pioneers. The best get the title of "Good Nephew (or Niece) of Uncle Ho." About 1.5 million young people are organized in the Viet Nam Labor Youth Union.

When Ho was building his party and country, few had any notion of what communism was. He was, to many in North Viet Nam, what George Washington had been to the United States. He identified himself with the peasants and championed them.

He had a head start in organization. Chiang Kai-shek's troops occupied the north, charged with disarming the Japanese.

ROMPS IN SURF — The newly crowned Miss U.S.A., Maria Judith Remenyi, found it fun running through the surf in Miami Beach, Fla., after she won her title Saturday night. Miss Remenyi represented California in a field of 49 beauties from 48 states and the District of Columbia.

New Miss U.S.A. Prefers Men With Good Manners

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Miss U.S.A. said today that good manners for men are a must in her book.

"Men who have had manners could be called my pet peeve," said Maria Judith Remenyi, who was selected Saturday night.

"I like men to be masculine," Miss Remenyi said. "I hate femininity in men."

Miss Remenyi, a 5-foot-6 brunette, was born in Denmark of Hungarian parents and came to this country 10 years ago. She speaks four languages and intends to add a fifth—French—soon.

Miss Remenyi of El Gerrie, Calif., is a junior at the University of California at Berkeley.

Death Claims Retired Army General at 65

PORTAGE 470 — Maj. Gen. Charles K. Gailey (ret.) died at his home here Saturday. He was 65.

Gailey was named chief of staff of the military government of Berlin following World War II and held that post during the famous Berlin Airlift.

In 1949, he was named commanding general of the Military District of Washington, D. C.

Gailey commanded the 3rd Infantry Division in Germany and returned in 1961, after 40 years of military service.

A 1920 graduate of the West Point Military Academy, Gailey earned two distinguished service medals during his career.

He was survived by his wife, Margaret; three sons; and two daughters.

Service was pending at First Methodist Church in Kalamazoo.

Mme. Chiang Warns Stop Red's N-Power

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the Nationalist Chinese leader, believes Red China's nuclear capacity should be eliminated before the Communists destroy the rest of the world.

"Give us the tools and we can do it," she said during an interview yesterday. She warned that if Red China's nuclear war-making power was not stopped, the Communists might destroy New York City by sneaking an A-bomb into the harbor in a jay Apsara Hongsakula of Bangkok, Thailand.

city of California at Berkeley. She represented her home state in a field of 49 beauties from 48 states and the District of Columbia.

HINT OF OUTCOME

A hint of the outcome was given Thursday night when photographers chose Miss Remenyi as "Miss Pixable," indicating she also is photogenic.

Runners-up in the 15th annual Miss U.S.A. Pageant were Pat Denne, Miss Connecticut; Elaine Richards, Miss Indiana; Judy Ann Slayton, Miss North Dakota, and Randy Beard, Miss Florida.

Miss Remenyi was born in Tversted, Denmark, 29 years ago. Her father, Edward A. Remenyi, was stationed there as an officer in the Hungarian army.

Eleven months later the family returned to Hungary. In 1956 the Remenyi family, including Maria and her 5-year-old sister, Elizabeth, fled from Budapest to Austria and then was brought to the United States aboard an Army plane.

JOINED SISTER

"We would have gone to Denmark, but my father's sister, Carmen, had lived in California since 1950 and we decided to join her," Maria said.

The willowy, 115-pound beauty is majoring in physics and hopes to get a doctorate and do research in high-energy physics.

"I hope to do research to find useful purposes for nuclear energy," she said. She expects to do two years of graduate study in Germany, then return to Berkeley for her Ph.D.

When Miss Remenyi arrived in California as a child she said she was most impressed by the vastness and richness of the country. She spoke no English, but learned quickly.

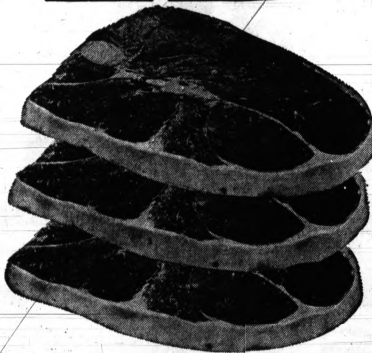

PUT IN 6TH GRADE

A fifth-grader when her family left Budapest, she was put in the sixth grade in California because her math was far above the fifth-grade level. In addition to English, she speaks Hungarian, German and Spanish.

Maria would like to combine marriage and a career and have three or four children. She has shoulder-length hair and measures 35-23-35.

She said she will use the $5,000 prize money to continue her education and take her family to Hawaii.

In July she will return to Miami Beach to compete for the title of Miss Universe, now held by Apsara Hongsakula of Bangkok, Thailand.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the Nationalist Chinese leader, believes Red China's nuclear capacity should be eliminated before the Communists destroy the rest of the world.

"Give us the tools and we can do it," she said during an interview yesterday. She warned that if Red China's nuclear war-making power was not stopped, the Communists might destroy New York City by sneaking an A-bomb into the harbor in a boat.

In July she will return to Miami Beach to compete for the title of Miss Universe, now held by Apsara Hongsakula of Bangkok, Thailand.

South Viet Nam is engulfed incessantly in turmoil while the Communist north — for all the outside world knows — seems free of it. Why?

How is it that the northern regime appears able to escape political trouble and control its people while southern regimes seem incapable of doing so?

Probably there are several answers:

The northern regime has not, in fact, been without troubles stemming from the protracted war.

MAY HAVE HELPED

Bombings of the north may have aided the Red regime in countering morale problems.

The northern regime had 10 years virtually free from outside peril and could construct and fortify a classical Communist power structure to keep its people under control.

There is no question in the north of Buddhist opposition as such. The religious situation there is much what it was in the south before the Buddhists started to organize politically against the Ngo Dinh Diem regime.

The local faith in the north was mostly a vague mixture of animism, ancestor worship, a deep imprint of Chinese Confucianism and elements of Chinese Buddhism. Under the Communists, Buddhists never would have had a chance to become a political factor, much less organize.

U.S. INFLUENCE

In the south, U.S. influence has upheld democratic rights. Another factor was American shock over conflicts between the Diem regime and the Buddhists.

And agitation, in a glare of publicity, has become highly contagious.

Under these conditions, the political elements of Buddhism found fertile ground for action.

This does not mean that there is clear sailing in the north in contrast to the south.

There is little question there have been difficulties growing out of war weariness. Earlier this year, Politburo member Le Duc Tho severely lectured those who "entertain pacifism, slacken their vigilance and fail to get ideologically ready for combat."

SHRINK FROM TROUBLE

"They see only difficulties and do not see opportunities. They show pessimism, perplexity and a reluctance to protracted resistance," he complained.

Too many, he said, "still fear

sacrifices and hardship, shrink from difficulties, have low organizational, disciplinary and revolutionary fighting spirit."

Le Duc Tho said party members were "too coercive with the masses." The party's prestige was hurt by this because "the greatest peril is separation from the masses." In some areas, he said, there was "a serious state of disunity."

Two British correspondents admitted to Hanoi within the last year have suggested that U.S. bombings, putting the northern homeland under attack, have helped the Communists sustain morale.

ON THE ALERT

Thousands of people now are in military corps. Thousands are busy digging air-raid shelters, manning defense posts, drilling, Air-defense units, mobile repair teams and first-aid groups are on the alert 24 hours a day. So many men are on duty that, the party has reported, 70 per cent of the industrial labor force now is made up of women.

The listed bombing targets have been military: roads, bridges, communications, barracks, arms dumps and the like.

The Communist north — an area always poorer than the south — is accustomed to rural privations. All along it has been on an austerity basis. Any disruptions in the economy due to bombings have had doubtful impact.

There is rationing in North Viet Nam: rice, meat, sugar and cotton — but this is nothing new, and there are no indications of extreme privation.

WHOLE GENERATION

In addition to all this, the northern regime has had a long time to organize. In 21 years since Ho Chi Minh moved into Hanoi with the proclamation of a republic, there has been indoctrination from childhood for a whole generation.

Today there are 2.5 million children in the Communist Young Pioneers. The best get the title of "Good Nephew (or Niece) of Uncle Ho." About 1.5 million young people are organized in the Viet Nam Labor Youth Union.

When Ho was building his party and country, few had any notion of what communism was. He was, to many in North Viet Nam, what George Washington had been to the United States.

He identified himself with the peasants and championed them. He had a head start in organization. Chiang Kai-shek's troops occupied the north, charged with disarming the Japanese.

'Survival Still' Used to Draw Desert Water

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Steady yields of water have been coaxed from desert sand with the help of a new device called a "survival still," researched by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The still is made by digging a hole about a yard in diameter and half a yard deep.

A container is placed at the bottom to catch water.

Over the top of the hole goes a sheet of plastic with a rock weighting down its center so that the plastic forms a cone pointing toward the container.

Sun shining through the plastic heat the soil and turns its moisture into vapor which collects on the underside of the plastic and drips into the container.

U. S. D. A. specialists report that in recent desert tests near here they were able to get a steady yield of more than a pint of water from a single still.

More water was obtained by lining the still with vegetable matter such as parts of cactus plants, which also gave up their moisture content.

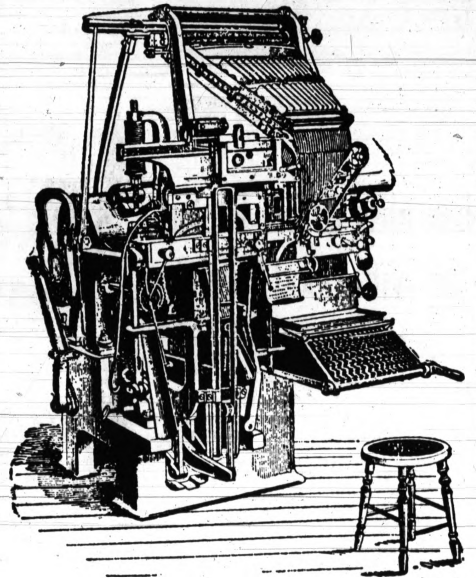

Voter participation in the 1964 election was highest in the North Central Region among the four major regions of the Nation.

Constrictor's Owner Gets 'Unusual' Ribbon

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A pet show ribbon went to Al Cooner for the most unusual entry — a three-foot-long boa constrictor.

The award for the best-educated pet went to a pony that could turn on a water fountain by itself. The pony belongs to Mike Summer.

More Nations to Alter Names

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) — This little British colony on South America's northeast coast will force a revision on world maps after it becomes independent Thursday. It will change its name to Guyana.

Still another revision will be necessary Sept. 30 — this one on the ever-changing map of Africa. Bechuanaland, a British territory, will become independent and change its name to Botswana.

Since the end of World War II there have been many revisions in the names of countries and former colonies. For example, in 1960 alone, France unleashed its African territories and thus gave birth to 14 new nations, some with new names: the Central African Republic, Gabon, Senegal, Madagascar, The Congo Republic, Chad, Ivory Coast, Dahomey, Upper Volta, Mauritania, Niger, Cameroon, Mali and Togo.

RAPID CHANGE
Africa has changed rapidly throughout this decade. In 1964, the former colonies of Tanganyika and Zanzibar merged and became Tanzania, telescoping the old names. Earlier the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, a condominium, became plain Sudan. The United Nations trust territory of Ruanda-Urundi split and became the independent nations of Rwanda and Burundi.

The Central African Federation embraced the old British colonies of Northern and Southern Rhodesia and Nyasaland until 1963. Then Nyasaland broke away and became Malawi. Southern Rhodesia became just Rhodesia, and Northern Rhodesia became Zambia. In 1967 Africa's old Gold Coast became Ghana, a name going back to an old, powerful monarchy that reigned over the area from the 4th to 13th century.

The new baby population last year was the smallest since 1951.

VIET NAM VOLUNTEER—Lester M. Fulcher, a 38-year-old father of four children, feels so strongly about Viet Nam that he is returning to the Marine Corps as a volunteer after 11 years as a civilian. Fulcher of San Pablo, Calif., obtained a one-year leave from his job and reports for duty July 3. "My kids have been confused by the news about Viet Nam," he said, "and I decided to do more than just tell them what I believe is right."

OLD POWDER MAN, By Joan Williams. Harcourt, Brace $5.95. The whole, rounded life story of a man called Son, who fights up from nowhere to success, and pays too high a price for it, is told in this novel.

He comes from a hard-scrabble Arkansas family, his father a chronic failure, his mother a restless hypochondriac with a driving zeal to make something of her husband. Son begins earning his way at 14, and soon is running his own agency for the sale of explosives.

He is a tough guy among tough guys. In his business, liquor, women and crap games are an accompaniment to big deals. He becomes a high-pressure salesman no one can beat.

But at home — when he manages to get there — there is trouble. Son is on a binge somewhere when his second wife, Kate, gives birth to their daughter Laurel; that alienates Kate for life. By the time Laurel has grown up, Son is in the money. But he is a stranger to his wife and daughter.

Miss Williams is a real writer; her characters breathe with life. Her novel is a wrenching portrayal of a prototype, the crude American from the hinterlands, whose bitterly and bravely won gold turns to dust.

THE SIGN OF THE PRAYING TIGER, By Ben Lucien Burman (New American Library $4.95):

The irrepressible Burman, who has a well-known flair for telling a gently humorous story about his very human characters, takes a young man from the Kentucky mountains and transports him to a little Malay island.

There our hero, Oral by name, gets himself into all kinds of unlikely situations including running a success school for Chinese who would like to get ahead, promoting juke boxes, beauty contests and orange drink, and in other homespun America ways bringing "progress" to a static culture.

The fact that Oral falls for two local beauties adds to the fun, and Burman makes the most of these exotic situations.

Bride, Groom Follow Piper

NY Newlyweds Stroll Behind Scottish Airs

NEW YORK (AP) — A bag piper marched along a block Sunday playing "Highland Wedding," "Scotland the Brave" and other Scottish airs.

Behind the piper was a procession including a bridegroom and his best man wearing the kilt of the Campbell clan.

It was a strange sight for the mostly Puerto Rican residents of the area on West 99th. Spanish tunes on the radio were turned down as a sound new to most of the occupants of the six- and seven-story apartment buildings was heard.

The occasion was the marriage of Andrew Travers Norman Tracey, 30, musical director and a member of the cast of the South African musical review "Wait a Minn!" which is playing on Broadway; and Heather Mary Beard, a social worker with the City of New York.

The wedding ceremony was performed in a small chapel at St. Michael's Episcopal Church at Amsterdam Avenue and 99th Street. The newly married couple then fell behind the piper, John Rae Miller, as he played on the way to the parish house for a reception.

The procession included others in the eight-member cast of the show.

SCOT'S HEATHER—Actor Andrew Tracey of the Broadway play "Wait a Minn!" trips along New York City's 99th Street Saturday with his bride, Heather Beard, after their marriage in St. Michael's Episcopal Church. On their way to the reception, the couple epitomizes the "merry, merry month of May." The piper is John Rae Miller.

For Stockholders

Zanuck Plays Sound of Money

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

PARIS — Darryl F. Zanuck, a man regarded as fearless, faced the one ordeal he disliked: the annual stockholders' meeting.

As president of 20th Century-Fox, he presided at the New York meeting. Even though he had good news for the stockholders, he anticipated the usual troublemakers.

"There's always someone who wants to know why we didn't pay more dividends or why we are paying so much money to

His Computer Is 'Real Cool'

Gives Musical Assist to Greek Composer

YPSILANTI (AP) — No jazz musician would think of blowing a cool riff on a computer.

But Iannis Xenakis is no jazzman. He's a serious composer and the computer is as important to him as the violin was to Mozart.

"My instruments are IBM 7090 computer and symbolic logic," says the world-renowned Greek composer. "I used to play the piano."

Xenakis is in Ypsilanti for the world premiere of his new score for the "Orestes" trilogy of Aeschylus, first production of the 1966 season for the Ypsilanti Greek Theatre.

'FUNDAMENTAL' "Some structures are fundamental and universal. They are what I call the axiomatic foundations of music," explains Xenakis.

"These can be reduced to a code and programmed into a computer. I can also program my own very personal philosophical and psychological background and my own very personal view of the music I am composing," he says.

"The numbers that are produced by the computer I decode into music for instrument composing," he says.

"The computer raises music to a new level of complexity, but at the same time solves more basic problems," he says.

this star of that," he sighed. "I just have to face it."

Zanuck, still the peppy enthusiast for films, strode about his penthouse suite at the Hotel George V wielding the inevitable outsize cigar. He spends much of his time in Paris, contacting European movie makers while keeping in close touch with the Hollywood studio. It is run by his son, Richard Zanuck.

A large part of the good tidings for stockholders could be attributed to "The Sound of Music," which has brought the sound of money to the company that was almost sunk by Cleopatra.

"I knew we had a great entertainment in 'The Sound of Music,' but I never dreamt that it would be such a money-maker," said Zanuck with wonderment.

"The thing is bringing in a million dollars a week in film rentals—not just grosses, but rentals!

STILL PLAYING "It has already been in release 50 weeks. It has played in only 187 theaters in America, and it's still playing in 185 of them. Look at this."

He produced some projection sheets that indicated the musical would gross at least $65 million, making it the biggest money-maker of all time. Zanuck's own estimate is $80 million. Total so far: $47 million.

The Zanucks are hoping to mine the same kind of gold from three other musicals that Fox will make in the next 12 months. They are: "Dr. Doolittle," starring Rex Harrison, Samantha Eggar, Sidney Poitier and Anthony Newley; "Star," the biography of Gertrude Lawrence, starring Julie Andrews; and "Hello, Dolly!"

The latter has not yet been cast.

WORLD OPERATION Zanuck, who once controlled 20th Century-Fox from a cavernous office on the Westwood lot, now finds himself in a global operation. He was receiving reports on the shooting of "Batman" in California, "Two for the Road" on the Riviera, and "Sand Pebbles" in Hong Kong.

"We've had troubles with 'Sand Pebbles,'" he muttered. "The company hit 28 days of rain in Formosa during one month. They had four different calls for shooting every day, according to what the weather was. Some involved a thousand extras. It was murder."

Zanuck dispatched the company to Hong Kong, and now the outlook is brighter. Meanwhile he moves on to other matters, such as the release of "The Bible." Said Zanuck offhandedly: "I guess it's the greatest picture ever made."

Congress Will Grind Away

WASHINGTON (AP) — Little floor action is expected this week in Congress, but its committees will continue to grind away at legislation that may keep senators and House members in Washington until early fall.

Leaders now are hoping for adjournment by October, a month before the congressional elections.

Major committee activity this week centers on the Senate and House Foreign Affairs committees.

The Senate committee gets a closed briefing today from State and Defense department officials. Both committees resume consideration tomorrow of the annual foreign aid bill.

Legislation to regulate traffic in cats and dogs used for experimental purposes will come before the Senate Commerce Committee tomorrow.

Two Senate committees, judiciary and government operations, have scheduled hearings on use of the hallucinatory drug LSD.

VARIED STUDIES The House Government Operations Committee will delve into such matters as drug safety, personality testing of government employees and creation of a department of transportation.

The House Judiciary Committee resumes hearings tomorrow on new civil rights legislation, while the ways and means committee starts hearings today on the administration's request for an increase in the national debt limit.

Only one major bill is on the docket in either house for a final vote.

That measure, slated for a House showdown Wednesday, would increase minimum wage levels from $1.25 to $1.60 over the next two years and add an estimated 7.2 million workers to the program.

ADDITION BILL The only other general bill on the House schedule would set up a rehabilitation program for narcotics addicts.

The meager Senate docket calls for consideration of the House-passed Treasury and Post Office appropriations bills and House amendments to a Senate bill that would permit the government to shift federal loans to private investors.

At least two factors are contributing to the slowdown of the legislative machinery.

Both Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of the Senate are hospitalized.

Most House members are spending more time in their home districts trying to get re-nominated and elected this fall year. At one point last week, vote.

Was State's Youngest Chief Executive at 33

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Young Dan Moody, fresh out of a central Texas high school, halted his work on an electric power pole to watch a woodpecker hammering at a nearby tree. "That woodpecker caused me to make up my mind. I decided if that bird could make a living using his head that I could too," Moody said.

The young man climbed down from the pole, went to nearby Taylor, Tex., quit his job, and enrolled in the University of Texas. He earned a law degree at the Austin school and went on to become the state's youngest governor.

Moody, 72, died Sunday at his home. He had been ill since 1961.

RETIRED IN '31

He was elected governor when he was 33 years old and retired from politics in 1931, only four years after taking office as chief executive of Texas. Services will be at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the First Methodist church with burial in the state cemetery in Austin.

The former governor is survived by his wife, Mildred; a son, Dan Moody Jr.; a daughter, Nancy Moody Hudson; and a sister, Mary Moody.

After getting his law degree Moody returned to his native Williamson County, and six years later, in 1920, was elected county attorney. In 1922, he was appointed district attorney for Williamson and Travis counties by Gov. Pat Neff.

STATEWIDE ATTENTION

In this office, Moody attracted statewide attention by his vigorous and successful prosecution of a Ku Klux Klan flogging case.

Two years later, at the age of 31, he became Texas' youngest attorney general, almost getting a majority of the vote in the primary election and winning a smashing victory in the runoff.

Miriam (Ma) Ferguson was then governor, and after only one two-year term as attorney general, Moody decided to try for the executive mansion.

In the 1926 primary election, he got 49.9 per cent of the vote in a race with five other candidates and he defeated Mrs. Ferguson in a runoff 725,727 to 270,585.

Troops Shoot Over Students in Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian troops fired warning shots in the air today as several thousand students converged on the Parliament building in Jakarta.

The troops fired over the heads of the students for five minutes. Parliament leaders ordered the shooting stopped. One student was slightly injured.

The students arrived with a petition demanding that Parliament call a session of the country's highest legislative body, the Provisional People's Consultative Congress, by June 1.

The Congress had been scheduled to meet May 12 but the session was postponed indefinitely as a compromise between President Sukarno and military strong man Lt. Gen. Suharto. Sukarno wanted to dissolve the Congress, but Suharto intervened and worked out the compromise.

STUDENT GROUP

The powerful students' action front, Kami, wants the Congress to strip Sukarno of the last vestiges of his one-man rule. Sukarno has kept it under his thumb.

The new reform government, which came to power March 11 on the crest of student demonstrations, has purged the Congress of pro-Communist elements. It is not known yet whether Sukarno or Suharto will appoint members to fill the vacancies.

Grant to State Airport

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Agency Saturday approved a $52,000 grant for improvement of the Harbor Springs airport in Emmett County, Mich. The money will be used for land development and construction of a new runway.

Cranbrook Rules Class B at East Lansing

Central Takes 3 State Cinder Records but No Trophy

Although Pontiac Central carried home three first place ribbons and a state record, the Chiefs had nothing to show for their second place effort in the state Class A track meet Saturday at Ann Arbor.

Flint Southwestern took the team trophy with 40 points while PCH and Flint Central tied with 35.

"It just wasn't our day," said PCH coach Dean Wilson. "We even lost the flip of the coin for the second place trophy that went to Flint."

Cranbrook, making a rare appearance in the state meet, edged Ecorse 38-34, to take the Class B championship at East Lansing.

Bill Tipton of PCH outlasted Flint Central's Len Hatchett in both hurdle races to grab two of the ribbons. He broke the high hurdles mark with a clocking of 14.2 seconds flat. The former mark of 14.5 was set by Ernie Long of Flint Central in 1964.

Don Lavalais of the Chiefs gained revenge in the high jump by beating Flint Northern's Freels Bacon, the Saginaw Valley Conference champion.

Lavalais cleared 6-6, to tie the PCH record, he set earlier this spring at Mansfield, Ohio.

SET RECORD

Ron Shortt of Farmington set a new Class A pole vault record by clearing 14-5 to break the old standard of 13-11 1/2 set by Arthur Hills' Wayne Lambert in 1964. Ken Franke of PCH was fourth at 13-2 1/2.

Tipton made a stirring finish to edge Hatchett in the low hurdles.

He trailed after five hurdles, but the PCH junior managed to stick his head in front at the finish line.

He was timed in 19.6. Hatchett was the defending low hurdles champion of the 440.

Eddie Randle led Cranbrook to the championship. He bested Oxford's Tim Kelley in the 100 in 10.2, ran a leg on the winning 880 relay team and was sixth in the 220.

Craig Tallberg was second in the 220 for the Cranes and anchored the 880 quartet. Other members of the victorious relay team were Bruce Hunter and Warren Craig.

Hunter placed fourth in the 440.

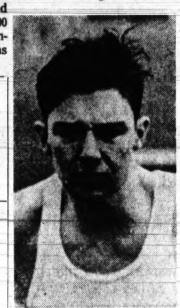

Mike Lantry of Oxford won the shot put as expected, but failed to come close to the record. He tossed the 12-pound ball 54-7 1/2, about four feet short of the mark.

Oxford was fourth in the 880 relay. The Wildcats were fifth in the team standings with 22 points.

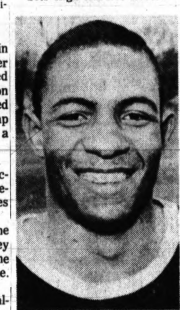

Sid Barridge of Romeo was second in the high jump. Erick Jackson of Clintonville was first at 6-2, an inch better than Barridge.

THIRD PLACES

Ron Waller in the shot put and Wayne Wills in the 880 placed third for Orionville Brandon in the Class C meet at Central Michigan.

Tigers Pull Bunts From Arsenal to Slip Orioles

Squeeze Plays Carry Bengals to 3-2 Victory

Lolich Tames Orioles on Five-Hitter; Tribe in Detroit Tuesday

BALTIMORE (AP) — The squeeze play can be a potent weapon, even for the best hitting team in the American League.

The Detroit Tigers, who entered the game with a 259 team average, edged the Baltimore Orioles 3-2 Sunday.

Don Wert executed two suicide squeeze bunts. Mickey Lolich won on a five-hitter.

All three Detroit runs, in fact, scored on the bunts. An extra run came across when Oriole pitcher Frank Bertina made a throwing error after fielding one of the bunts.

"We'll take runs any way we can get 'em," said Bob Swift, acting manager of the Tigers. "We're not a fast team, so we have to do things like this to stay out of double play situations."

Swift, directing the surging Tigers while Manager Charlie Dressen recovers from a heart attack, said he thought Detroit had a shot at the pennant "if everyone stays healthy."

The Tigers took three of four decisions from Baltimore and moved past the Orioles into second place, 2 1/2 games behind the Cleveland Indians.

MISSSED SERIES

Al Kaline, the top hitting regular with a .318 average, missed the series because of a pulled hamstring muscle. But he is expected to play Tuesday in a doubleheader against the Indians.

"Kaline is a big influence on the other players," Swift said. "He helps Horton a lot."

After being tagged, Robinson jumped up and down in front of umpire Al Salerno while protesting vociferously. But he wasn't ejected from the game.

"He put on a good act to get the fans on me," Salerno said. "But he never got out of hand. I heard him yell 'No, no, no,' about 11 or 12 times and said 'You blew it' on the tag end."

"I'm trying to tell him how to slide, but he may have been safe with any other type of slide," Salerno said of Robinson's head-first dive. "Freehan tagged him on the chest or on the side."

Robinson disagreed on both counts.

"It was the safest way to slide, since (Bill) Freehan was blocking the plate," Robinson said. "If I had tried to hook my foot, I may not have touched the plate."

"And if Freehan did tag me it would have been on my back after I went by. If he gets down far enough to tag me on the chest, he's going to turn me completely around."

Chubby Houk Ends Skid

Yankees Lose 'Potted' Look

By the Associated Press

Two weeks ago when Ralph Houk took over the New York Yankees they were both going to pot.

Now only Houk is.

The new Yankees manager still can't climb into his old uniform but the Yankees have managed to climb into it for the seventh place by putting together a five-game winning streak capped by Sunday's 5-3 and 2-1 sweep of the Minnesota Twins.

The twin triumphs were the 10th and 11th in 14 games under Houk, who took over the club from Johnny Keane in Los Angeles two weeks ago last Saturday.

Houk tried on his old No. 35 uniform and found that sitting behind a desk for two years had caused a pot belly.

"My weight isn't any different," Houk said. "But it shifted around. I've got a pot."

He wore No. 51 in Los Angeles — the uniform belonged to Pete Mikkelsen, who had been traded — then phoned New York and asked the Yankees to get the No. 35 uniform tailored to his new measurements. Then he started to do a tailoring job on the Yankees.

PAVES WAY

He immediately designated Joe Pepitone the clean-up hitter and the first baseman showed why against the Twins by driving in three runs in the opener and hitting a game-winning double in the eighth inning of the second game.

SLIDING TIGER—Detroit Tigers' shortstop Ray Oyler uses a head first slide back to first base to avoid a pickoff by Baltimore Orioles' first baseman Bob Johnson in the second inning of their game in Baltimore yesterday. Tigers won, 3-2, to take a firm hold on second place in the American League.

OSU '9' Wins Big 10 Title; Gophers 2nd

CHICAGO (AP) — The Buckeyes of Ohio State retained their Big Ten baseball championship Saturday and it was the same story — games cancelled, rain.

The washout of Saturday's doubleheader with Iowa at Columbus assured the Buckeyes of the crown although they played only six Big Ten games throughout the season.

But Ohio State did not exactly back into the championships. The Buckeyes came face-to-face with Minnesota Friday and the champions rallied with four runs in the eighth inning to polish off the runner-up Gophers 6-4.

Ohio State won all six of its games while Minnesota had 11 victories, 2 losses and a tie. Minnesota slugged Indiana in a doubleheader Saturday, 9-4 and 2-1.

Michigan broke a (third place) tie by downing the Spartans Tuesday, 2-1 and 5-3. Illinois sent Northwestern into the cellar with 7-3 and 6-4 victories and Wisconsin defeated Purdue 11-4 before losing the second game 6-2.

Rear-Engine Cars Pack '500' Lineup

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A field of 26 veterans and seven rookies, all but one in Grand Prix-style rear-engine cars, will carry a record speed potential into the Golden Anniversary 500-mile race May 30 at the old Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Two weekends of 10-mile qualifying runs, in which seven cars crashed into the concrete retaining wall, ended at dusk Sunday with a field averaging 180.251 miles per hour.

The average was more than five m.p.h. slower than the qualifying record of 185.899 mph by Mario Andretti, the U.S. Auto Club champion, on opening day May 14. Jimmy Clark of Scotland, last year's winner, was the only qualifier in the same class with Andretti, 164.144 on the same day.

Clark set the race record of 150.685 and that evidently wouldn't be nearly good enough this year.

NO INJURIES

No drivers were injured on the second weekend of trials. Chuck Rodeo of Indianapolis was killed a week ago Saturday, bringing the total of fatalities at the Speedway to 57 since the track opened in 1909.

The top flight cars were exhausted Saturday, when Al Unser of Albuquerque, when Al Unser whose brother Jerry was killed at the Speedway in 1968, had the

Tennis Crown for PCH Pair

Pontiac Central won a Class A state regional doubles title at Flint Saturday and just missed winning its first regional team tennis title in more than a decade.

Mike VanGuider and Tim Shireman whipped Southwestern's R. C. Rodeo and Hank Frey in the doubles finale, 6-4, 6-2, to account for a majority of the Chiefs' 104 points.

Flint Central, who didn't have an individual champion, took its third straight regional team championship with 12 points.

Lapeer's Burt Bothell upended Flint Central's Bob Sandford in the singles final, 6-4, 7-5. Sandford had eliminated Mike Dougherty of Clarkson in the singles semifinal, 5-7, 6-4.

The Wolves and Southwestern tied for third with 7 1/2 points. VanGuider, Shireman and Bothell now advance to the June 24 state finals at Kalamazoo College.

Covert Wins 3rd Title

By the Associated Press

Three new Michigan high school track champions were crowned at the Lower Peninsula Saturday, but Covert stole the limelight from all of them by romping to its third straight Class D title.

Bernie Wood was a double winner for the 10-man Covert team. He won the 440-yard dash and shared first place with three others in the pole vault.

Flint Southwestern edged Flint Central and Pontiac Central by five points in gaining the Class A crown; Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook won two events in taking the Class B title and Haskett held off a late bid by Battle Creek St. Philip to take the Class C championship by point.

Gordon Aldrich of Akron-Fair grove broke one of the oldest records in the book when he took the Class C 440-yard dash in 49.6 seconds. Elwood House of Akron City set the old mark of 50.8 in 1938.

Class D records were set by Clarence Baber of Covert who skinned over the 180-yard low hurdles in 20.5 seconds; Battle Creek St. Philip's mile relay team, which was clocked in 3:31.4 and Kalamazoo U. High's romping to its third straight Class D title.

Dave Shipman of Ann Arbor U. High won both sprints and the 880-yard run record last year, added the mile mark with a clocking of 4:30.8.

There were no double winners in Class B, but three records were set.

Ron Strang of Detroit Luther took the Class B mile in 4:21.1; Bill Bekker of Fremont took the pole vault with a 13-6 effort and Dearborn Heights Riverside took the mile relay in 3:25.1 to set the new standards.

Jim Govt of Freeland won the 880 in 1:56.0, John Hogan of the North Branch the 180-yard low hurdles in 19.5 and Gary Van in 49.6 seconds. Elwood House of Akron City set the old mark of 50.8 in 1938.

Alluring Hollywood Blonde Has 'Fun Test' Under Wig

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I made my way to swingin' 60th St. and 2d Av. to drop into the dressing room of that gorgeous, sexy, leggy new Hollywood blonde — Natalie Wood.

"I'm trying to find out if I'm having more fun," said Natalie from under her wig. Cleverly avoiding inviting me into her trailer where she'd been having a script conference with Producer Arthur Loew, Jr., she maneuvered me into a chair right out on the sunny sidewalk in front of about 1,000 people ogling her to a scene from a movie titled "Penelope."

"What look . . . uh . . . I said.
"You do look a beautiful brunette who's turned beautiful blonde. That she looks better? Well she's hating you for implying that she didn't look as good as a brunette? Still, doesn't she want to be considered beautiful any shade at all? Oh, listen, I've had this problem several times in my own home."
"Your eyes somehow seem deeper set under the wig," I finally remarked. (That seemed pretty neutral). "Very interesting and unusual," I added quickly.
"Yes, it's unusual for blonde to have brown eyes," Natalie answered coolly.

Regardless, it was clear that Natalie is a great beauty, blonde, brunette, redhead or albino. She's only been handsome once before, in "The Silver Chalice." Now she's playing a wife who robs her husband's bank — and 60th St. was alive with Charlie (and) from Yellow-fingers, the outdoor sidewalk cafe to Serendipity 3d as she sat there with her legs crossed so prettily that everybody gathered around was saying, "Who's that jerk with her?" (Me).

Veki Berle, whose mother Joyce Madison recently married a young auctioneer in Houston, will spend the summer with Milton Berle in Beverly Hills, then become a Pan-Am stewardess.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A fellow in his 60s sighted at the Happiness that there are three signs of old age: "One is loss of memory — and I can't remember the other two."

For County Efficiency

Home Rule Significance Is Explained

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

LANSING — While legislators haggle over the details of county home rule, some people — especially newcomers to Michigan — are trying to figure out what all the shouting is about.

Why have county home rules? For efficiency.

What is it? It's a means to permit each county to establish a government suited to its particular needs, just as city home rule permits cities to form their own style of government within certain bounds.

Counties have some government now. But many consider it unwieldy because boards of supervisors are large and often unrepresentative with the boards weighted in favor of rural areas. Correcting this imbalance is the subject of other pending legislation.

INDIVIDUAL SERVICES

Some services, such as trash pickup, are provided individually by each township, city or village in a county. County home rule is said to be a means for handling services on a broader and more efficient basis.

What the legislators and governor are arguing about are such details as which county offices should be elective and which should be appointive; whether county officers should be nonpartisan or run under party labels; who should draw district lines; under what conditions should the county be able to take over services rendered by municipalities.

The House already has killed one bill this year related to stronger county government. It would have provided for a county office to assess property for taxes instead of the present system whereby each municipality has its own assessor.

Strong county government is no novel proposal. In California, for example, the county runs all services except in cities and there is no such political entity as the township.

Wife of Former Prime Minister Dies in England

LONDON (AP) — Lady Dorothy Macmillan, 65, wife of former Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, died Saturday at her home in Sussex.

The former Lady Dorothy Evelyn Cavendish, a daughter of the ninth Duke of Devonshire, married Macmillan in 1920. They had one son, Maurice, now a member of Parliament, and three daughters.

Death occurred at the Macmillan's Birch Grove home where the former prime minister is engaged in writing his memoirs.

News of the death took many by surprise, for there had been no announcement of an illness.

Marshall's Notes Given to Archives

WASHINGTON — Eight pages of unique manuscript notes penned in the courtroom in 1831 by Chief Justice of the United States John Marshall were presented to the National Archives today.

Orville E. Beal, president of the Prudential Insurance Co., made the presentation to Chief Justice Earl Warren, who gave the manuscript to Dr. Robert H. Bahmer, archivist of the United States.

The manuscript consists of notes taken by Marshall, then 76, during oral arguments before the Supreme Court in six cases at the January 1831 term. In accepting the gift, Bahmer said the Marshall manuscripts, which now are a part of the official Supreme Court records in the National Archives, include mainly opinions, letters, and dockets, annotations, but no courtroom notes.

"These handwritten notes reveal Marshall's approach to cases in a way that no formal opinion can show," Bahmer said.

It also was announced that the papers of Chief Justice Marshall are to be published under the joint sponsorship of the College of William and Mary and the Institute of Early American History and Culture, Williamsburg, Va. They will provide $80,000 to match an equal amount to be made available in a grant by General Services Administration.

Ky Foes Surrender Last Headquarters

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The last rebel headquarters in Da Nang surrendered today, giving Premier Nguyen Cao Ky virtually unchallenged control of South Viet Nam's second largest city after eight days of bloodshed.

Some 400 antigovernment soldiers poured out of Da Nang's Tinh Hoi pagoda and gave up their large store of arms without firing a shot.

An overwhelming force of marines and 13 armored cars ringed the Buddhist stronghold.

The capitulation came less than 12 hours before expiration of an ultimatum by the junta to declare the rebel soldiers deserters unless they ended the revolt by 6 p.m. About 400 rebels gave up yesterday.

Ky's success, despite sharp initial U.S. disapproval of his surprise troop movement north,

MOVES TROOPS

With the tide turned in his favor in Da Nang, Ky also moved his troops against anti-American rioters who set two U.S. military vehicles on fire outside the main Buddhist Institute in Saigon.

The troops threw rows of barbed wire around his institute to contain further disorders.

One influential monk, Thien Minh announced a mass Buddhist "march of peace" in Saigon.

He dissociated the Buddhist leadership from involvement in the rioting.

A LIEUTENANT

Minh is a lieutenant of Tri Quang, the principal Buddhist leader in the north and reputed architect of the antigovernment campaign.

As a precaution, the U.S. Command extended the nightly curfew for American troops in Saigon from 8:30 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Previously the curfew ran from midnight to 5 a.m. American billets near the Buddhist Institute also were evacuated.

INCREASED ACTIVITY

The fast-breaking political developments came against a backdrop of increased U.S. and Vietnamese activity against the Viet Cong.

The U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division reported killing 47 more Viet Cong yesterday in Operation Crazy Horse, bringing the reported enemy toll in seven days of fighting in the central highlands 250 miles northeast of Saigon to 207 Communists.

With somewhat improved

weather, U.S. Air Force and Navy planes flew 40 missions against North Viet Nam yesterday.

This was 10 more than the previous day and considerably more than last week when monsoon rains plagued the air offensive.

STRUCK BACK

Pontiac Man Is Held in Gun Death

A Pontiac man faced arraignment today on a charge of murder after the fatal shooting Saturday night of Jerry M. Draper, 20, of 409 S. Jessie.

Held at the Oakland County Jail is James S. Walker, 40, of 154 Franklin Road, who Pontiac police arrested just an hour after Draper's body was found riddled with bullets in his living room.

"Police said the victim had been shot four or five times with a .38-caliber revolver, with three of the bullets recovered by doctors who operated on Draper in an attempt to save his life.

Walker was apprehended at his home shortly before midnight by patrolmen Charles A. Lindeberg and Raymond W. Solow after witnesses to the shooting gave police a description of Draper's assailant.

Walker, an assembly line worker at Pontiac Motor Division, turned over a .38-caliber pistol to the two policemen when arrested and said he had fought with Draper and two other men at the victim's home earlier in the evening.

Rain Is Forecast for Pontiac Area

Warmer temperatures with possible showers and thunderstorms is the U.S. Weather Bureau's forecast for Pontiac and vicinity this evening.

Low temperatures will be from 56 to 64.

Rain is expected to end early tomorrow with cooler mercury readings. The high will be from 68 to 74.

In downtown Pontiac, the lowest temperature recorded preceding 8 a.m. was 51. The mercury registered 77 at 1 p.m.

Small Bus Ripped Apart By Crash Near Monroe

Bobby Hits Ike's N-Spread Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy declared today it "would be a terrible mistake" for the United States to heed former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's suggestion for the possible U.S. transfer of nuclear weapons to European allies.

In an interview, the New York Democrat said, "It would be a betrayal of our responsibility, which is greater than any other nation's since we created nuclear weapons, to spread them to other countries."

In separate interviews, Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, former chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., former secretary of the Air Force, also voiced objections to the Eisenhower suggestion.

Eisenhower, in a letter made public Saturday by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Rep. Edna F. Kelly, D-N.Y., called for a "drastic" revision of the Atomic Energy Act that banned the transfer of nuclear weapons to other nations.

The former commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization wrote that he feels "we should seek authority to sell appropriate nuclear weapons to other governments, under special conditions and arrangements — to be approved by the NATO organization — that could operate effectively in the defense of Europe."

OPPOSES PLAN

But Hickenlooper said he is "against selling or delivery of nuclear weapons to any other nation."

Symington said he thinks the Soviet Union would respond to any U.S. transfer of nuclear weapons by pulling out of negotiations for a proposed nonproliferation treaty.

Hickenlooper called for amplification of Eisenhower's proposal.

Jackson said a Senate Government Operations subcommittee he heads will go deeper into the matter in pursuing its current inquiry into NATO policies.

Eisenhower did not mention Germany in connection with nuclear weapons. But he said that to make up for the French withdrawal of forces from NATO, "other nations, more specially the Federal Republic of Germany, should be encouraged to develop more military power."

Mishap Occurs Near

Monroe; Weekend

Toll in State Hits 24

By The Associated Press

Four members of a Livonia family were killed, two occupants of another car died, and three children were hospitalized as a result of a collision last night on I-75 near Monroe.

Monroe County Sheriff's officers said Wallace D. Dupree, 25, of Romulus was northbound on the six-lane highway when his car jumped the median and crashed into a small foreign-made bus.

Dupree and his passenger, Patricia Wood, 28, of Monroe, died.

The bus was driven by John Hartley, 30, of Livonia.

His wife, Nancy, 29, and two of their children, John Jr., 7, and Chris, 2, were killed instantly.

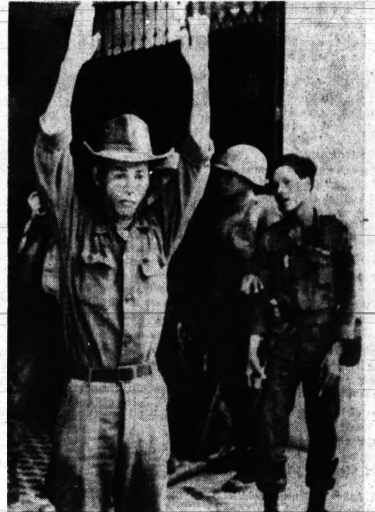

DIES LATER

Hartley died hours later at a Toledo, Ohio, hospital.

Two Hartley children, Patricia, 9, and Craig, were in critical condition at the University of Michigan Medical Center at Ann Arbor.

Another daughter, Denise, 5, was in fair condition at St. Vincent's Hospital in Toledo.

Tips for Eating Out

Food's a Key Part of Travel

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor
Whether you go on vacation or stay at home, you have to eat. It's probably the most expensive habit we have.

There are ways to keep within the budget when you are on a trip and tips for eating out.

If you travel by plane or train, meals are no problem. But in this motor age, most families travel by car.

Even if good safety rules didn't tell you to stop every hour for a brief rest, you do it when you travel with children.

For such times it's wise to have vacuum bottles of water or fruit juice and crackers or cookies if you permit that type of snacking during the day.

That container of water in the car is always a good idea; not only does it take care of demands for a drink, but you have water for minor cleanup jobs.

With so many motels providing facilities for making instant coffee, it is possible to have your breakfast in your room before taking off for the day.

INSTANTS

With instant cocoa, the children can have a hot drink too. You can buy frozen orange juice the night before and reconstitute it with tap water in the morning. A package of sweet rolls completes the meal.

If you have a picnic refrigerator in the car, buy milk and have cereal for breakfast, too.

Picnic lunches are also the answer for children. You stop at a roadside park and let the young ones run off their excess energy. With that same picnic refrigerator, you can carry the makings for sandwiches and salad materials as well as fresh fruit.

You can obtain information on the area you intend to visit from oil companies, automobile clubs and paperback travel books. They usually indicate the types of restaurants and the prices.

We have found in the past that if we were in a strange town and did not know where to eat, we got good information from the policeman on the corner.

Once, at noon time, we inquired at the office of a real estate man, figuring he would know the area well. Owners of motels will often have suggestions too.

With children a cafeteria is ideal. You can buy just what they will eat, without having to order a whole dinner and have part of it wasted. Places that serve family style are also good.

Part of traveling is having new experiences. This should extend to food.

If you can get the family to try something new — something that is typical of the area — it is fun. When you're in New England, you eat lots of seafood; if you go to Mexico, you try a few native dishes. We won't ever forget that we ate roast buffalo at Mt. Rushmore National Park.

When traveling, it is wise to eat lightly. Perhaps having five smaller meals instead of three full ones is better. You sit for long hours and may be uncomfortable after a big meal.

One more hint: There are times when you get to a town that does not have a good restaurant, only the local "greasy spoon." This calls for changing your usual menu.

Bacon and eggs are usually safe everywhere; a bad egg is apparent immediately and won't be served. Hash brown potatoes are nearly always all right; so is cole slaw, a cheese sandwich or pancakes.

Hamburger could be questionable. Steaks are OK, but they may be tough.

Shrug off the irritation such a situation causes, eat what you can and hope that tomorrow you'll hit a fabulous restaurant. It'll be worth the price, whatever it is.

Ky Foes Surrender Last Headquarters

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The last rebel headquarters in Da Nang surrendered today, giving Premier Nguyen Cao Ky virtually unchallenged control of South Viet Nam's second largest city after eight days of bloodshed.

Some 400 antigovernment soldiers poured out of Da Nang's Tinh Hoi pagoda and gave up their large store of arms without firing a shot.

An overwhelming force of marines and 13 armored cars ringed the Buddhist stronghold.

The capitulation came less than 12 hours before expiration of an ultimatum by the junta to declare the rebel soldiers deserters unless they ended the revolt by 6 p.m. About 400 rebels gave up yesterday.

Ky's success, despite sharp initial U.S. disapproval of his surprise troop movement north,

MOVES TROOPS

With the tide turned in his favor in Da Nang, Ky also moved his troops against anti-American rioters who set two U.S. military vehicles on fire outside the main Buddhist Institute in Saigon.

The troops threw rows of barbed wire around the institute to contain, further disorders.

One influential monk, Thien Minh announced a mass Buddhist "march of peace" in Saigon.

He dissociated the Buddhist leadership from involvement in the rioting.

A LIEUTENANT

Minh is a lieutenant of Tri Quang, the principal Buddhist leader in the north and reputed architect of the antigovernment campaign.

As a precaution, the U.S. Command extended the nightly curfew for American troops in Saigon from 8:30 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Previously the curfew ran from midnight to 6 a.m. American billets near the Buddhist Institute also were evacuated.

INCREASED ACTIVITY

The fast-breaking political developments came against a backdrop of increased U.S. and Vietnamese activity against the Viet Cong.

The U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division reported killing 47 more Viet Cong yesterday in Operation Crazy Horse, bringing the reported enemy toll in seven days of fighting in the central highlands 236 miles northeast of Saigon to 297 Communists.

With somewhat improved

weather, U.S. Air Force and Navy planes flew 49 missions against North Viet Nam yesterday.

This was 10 more than the previous day and considerably more than last week when monsoon rains plagued the air offensive.

STRUCK BACK

I-75 Crash Claims Six

Pontiac Man Is Held in Gun Death

A Pontiac man faced arraignment today on a charge of murder after the fatal shooting Saturday night of Jerry M. Draper, 20, of 409 S. Jessie.

Held at the Oakland County Jail is James S. Walker, 40, of 154 Franklin Road, who Pontiac police arrested just an hour after Draper's body was found riddled with bullets in his living room.

Police said the victim had been shot four or five times with a .38-caliber revolver, with three of the bullets recovered by doctors who operated on Draper in an attempt to save his life.

Walker was apprehended at his home shortly before midnight by patrolmen Charles A. Lindberg and Raymond W. Solowid after witnesses to the shooting gave police a description of Draper's assailant.

Walker, an assembly line worker at Pontiac Motor Division, turned over a .38-caliber pistol to the two policemen arrested and said he had fought with Draper and two other men at the victim's home earlier in the evening.

Rain Is Forecast for Pontiac Area

Warmer temperatures with possible showers and thunderstorms is the U.S. Weather Bureau's forecast for Pontiac and vicinity this evening.

Low temperatures will be from 56 to 64.

Rain is expected to end early tomorrow with cooler mercury readings. The high will be from 68 to 74.

In downtown Pontiac, the lowest temperature recorded preceding 8 a.m. was 51. The mercury registered 77 at 1 p.m.

Small Bus Ripped Apart By Crash Near Monroe

2nd Accident at Site Leaves Six More Hurt

Mishap Occurs Near Monroe; Weekend Toll in State Hits 24

By The Associated Press
Four members of a Livonia family were killed, two occupants of another car died, and three children were hospitalized as a result of a collision last night on I-75 near Monroe.

Monroe County Sheriff's officers said Wallace D. Dupree, 25, of Romulus was northbound on the six-lane highway when his car jumped the median and crashed into a small foreign-made bus.

Dupree and his passenger, Patricia Wood, 20, of Monroe, died.

The bus was driven by John Hartley, 30, of Livonia.

His wife, Nancy, 23, and two of their children, John Jr., 7, and Chris, 2, were killed instantly.

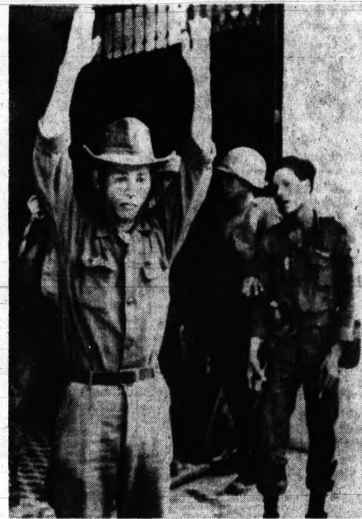

DIES LATER

Hartley died hours later at a Toledo, Ohio, hospital.

Two Hartley children, Patricia, 9, and Craig, were in critical condition at the University of Michigan Medical Center at Ann Arbor.

Another daughter, Denise, 5, was in fair condition at St. Vincent's Hospital in Toledo.

Bobby Hits Ike's N-Spread Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy declared today it "would be a terrible mistake" for the United States to heed former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's suggestion for the possible U.S. transfer of nuclear weapons to European allies.

In an interview, the New York Democrat said, "It would be a betrayal of our responsibility, which is greater than any other nation's since we created nuclear weapons, to spread them to other countries."

In separate interviews, Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, former chairman of the Senate-Atomic Energy Committee, and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., former secretary of the Air Force, also voiced objections to the Eisenhower suggestion.

Eisenhower, in a letter made public Saturday by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Rep. Edna F. Kelly, D-N.Y., called for a "drastic" revision of the Atomic Energy Act that banned the transfer of nuclear weapons to other nations.

The former commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization wrote that he feels "we should seek authority to sell appropriate nuclear weapons to other governments, under special conditions and arrangements — to be approved by the NATO organization — that could operate effectively in the defense of Europe."

OPPOSES PLAN

But Hickenlooper said he is "against selling or delivery of nuclear weapons to any other nation."

Symington said he thinks the Soviet Union would respond to any U.S. transfer of nuclear weapons by pulling out of negotiations for a proposed nonproliferation treaty.

Hickenlooper called for amplification of Eisenhower's proposal.

Jackson said a Senate Government Operations subcommittee he heads will go deeper into the matter in pursuing its current inquiry into NATO policies.

Eisenhower did not mention Germany in connection with nuclear weapons. But he said that to make up for the French withdrawal of forces from NATO, "other nations, more specially the Federal Republic of Germany, should be encouraged to develop more military power."

Sen. Talmadge Not a Candidate for Governorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., said today he will continue to serve in the Senate and will not be a candidate this year for governor of Georgia.

"In response to my request for Georgians' views on the forthcoming governor's race, I have received several thousand telephone calls, telegrams, and letters," Talmadge told a news conference.

"The almost unanimously pledged their support for any course of action that I determine upon."

Talmadge indicated last week that he might leave the Senate, where he has two more years to serve in his present term, and return to Georgia to run for governor.

Waterford, City Men in State House Races

The legislative race in Oakland County gained two more candidates today for the State House of Representatives.

They are Lawrence J. Vaillancourt, who will seek the Republican nomination in the 61st District, and Charles J. Nasstrom, a Democrat, who is making a bid for the 62nd District post.

This is the first time either candidate has sought elective office.

Vaillancourt, 42, of 2321 Trinity, Waterford Township, has been a right-of-way buyer and appraiser for the Michigan Highway Department for five years.

He will resign soon to return to the real estate business.

INSURANCE FIRM
The 38-year-old Nasstrom is president of the Pontiac Democratic Club and is employed as a casualty supervisor with the Allstate Insurance Co. in Southfield.

A 1943 graduate of Lake Orion High School, Vaillancourt studied Real Estate Law at the Pasadena City College in California, and real estate appraising through University of Michigan extension courses.

Before joining the highway department, Vaillancourt was in the U.S. Army.

The 61st District, which includes the townships of Waterford, Springfield, Independence and White Lake and the city of Sylvan Lake, is now represented by Democrat Francis Crowley.

Nasstrom, 111 Gladstone, is campaigning for the post now held by Arthur J. Law, who represents the city of Pontiac in the House.

In 1965, Nasstrom was chairman of a citizen committee opposed to a city income tax in Pontiac.

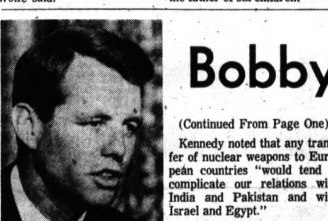

He is serving his second one-year term as head of the Democratic Club, and is a member of the Oakland County Democratic Committee and the 19th Congressional District Democratic Committee.

His other activities in the Democratic party include being a precinct delegate, chairman of the ticket committee of the Phil Hart Dinner and the 19th District Committee Dinner.

Nasstrom is a graduate of Pontiac High School and attended Augustana College in Rock Island, Ill., and the Pontiac Business Institute.

During the Korean War, he served in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. He is married and the father of six children.

Kennedy noted that any transfer of nuclear weapons to European countries "would tend to complicate our relations with India and Pakistan and with Israel and Egypt."

U. S. to Launch First of 5 Shots

Explorer Set Tuesday, Others in Next 8 Days

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The U. S. Space Agency today primed a sleek Delta rocket for the launch of an atmosphere-mapping Explorer satellite tomorrow in the first of five shots on tap for the next eight days at the booming spaceport.

The little atmospheric probe, latest addition to the 8-year-old family of Explorers, is designed to whirl around the globe measuring and sampling the upper fringes of earth's atmosphere that reach several hundred miles high.

The Explorer, encased in stainless steel, and shaped like a beach ball with whisker-like antennas sticking out, is scheduled for a 9 a.m. EST shot into space atop a Delta seeking its 35th orbital success in 38 tries.

If the tentative shooting schedule holds up, the Explorer will be followed by four more spacecraft set to be launched during a 37-hour period starting on Memorial Day. The lineup:

• May 30: First launch of America's new Surveyor lunar landing spacecraft, at 9:39 a.m. EST, on a 64-hour, 230,000-mile journey to the moon. The sophisticated probe is equipped with a television camera to flash pictures of the lunar surface back to earth if it achieves the tricky soft landing.

• May 31: The launch of a substitute target satellite for Gemini 9 Astronauts Thomas Stafford and Eugene Cernan in the start of the return of their planned three-day rendezvous and spacewalk mission. Mid-morning launch expected.

• May 31: The launch of Stafford and Cernan in pursuit of their new rendezvous satellite. Late morning firing expected, after the target achieves orbit.

• May 31: The firing of a 1,120-pound Orbiting Geophysical Observatory (OGO) into an orbit extending 75,000 miles south of the earth and see how it is affected by the sun.

Blowoff atop an Atlas-Agena rocket is set for 9:42 p.m. EST.

The original Gemini 9 rendezvous target, an Agena rocket, was lost May 17 when one of the three engines on its Atlas booster went haywire and sent the vehicle crashing into the Atlantic Ocean.

Presbyterians Resist 'Moral Breakdown'

BOSTON (U-P) — Determination to resist an asserted moral breakdown in sexual standards is voiced in a proposed new creed being considered today by the United Presbyterian church.

The church must "lead men and women into the full meaning of life together" and offer "the compassion of Christ" to "those caught in the moral confusion of our time," says the new declaration of convictions.

Up for action at the 3.3-million-member denomination's governing General Assembly, is the first creedal revision for the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. in 317 years.

The revision seeks to apply Christ's reconciling message to current issues.

Threatening relationships between nations, between races and between rich and poor are cited, in addition to the seton about sex.

Manslaughter Is Charged in Fatal Mishap

A warrant for manslaughter has been issued against the driver of a car involved in a fatal accident in Pontiac early Saturday.

Named in the charge is Alvin Slusher, 30, of 7228 Ideal Terrace, Waterford Township, whose car collided head-on with another vehicle at Kennett and Hollywood.

Killed in the crash was 46-year-old Fred Summers Jr., of 806 Orlando.

Pontiac police allege in the warrant that Slusher was driving at an "immoderate and unlawful rate of speed," and some 40 feet left of center just before the crash.

Manslaughter is a felony under Michigan law and punishable by as much as 15 years imprisonment.

It Seems to Me . . .

Area Culture and Economy Enhanced by Oakland U.

Things are popping in Pontiac. Chancellor D. B. VARNER declares that Oakland University's assets had reached the $20 million mark and that an additional $14 million would be spent in new construction within the next twelve months.

If most cities were advised that a new industry proposed to locate there and invest $14 million, there would be a celebration with a parade, speeches in the public square, and a red fire finale.

Primarily, this money contributes directly to the very important cultural and aesthetic side of our community life. All industrial cities welcome something of this nature with open arms. Pontiac is no exception. This bustling and energetic campus has some of the finest professors in America and they are handling our young people superbly.

At the outset, it was believed that the formative years would find the student body confined to the area. But knowledge of the high level university procedures here has crept around the country and the presence of young men and women from distant points becomes a point of unexpected gratification and satisfaction.

Three original dormitories were calculated to handle the distant students easily with a total capacity of 300. But they were unexpectedly jammed.

Authorities were incredulous. Governing officials blinked. Happily, Hill House was quickly added through the unexpected beneficence of an anonymous source. This housed an additional 200. Now all are jammed.

Today a fifth dorm that will hold 500 students is nearing completion and it has a dining hall that feeds 900 at a single sitting, with a total capacity of 1,500.

And the end is not yet.

The cultural side is of paramount importance, but no one can overlook the economics involved. Employment at Oakland U. increases by leaps and bounds in addition to the actual construction work. You can't service 2,500 students without a lot of people; and when the enrollment reaches 10,000 as it will within a few years, the financial significance of this great institution is incalculable.

The day MATILDA WILSON assigned her beautiful property to Oakland University and gave an additional two million dollars in cash becomes an historic event that should rank high forever in the annals of our area. Further, the advent of that outstanding collegiate wizard, D. B. VARNER, can just about be bracketed in the same paragraph.

Amid Cuban Action

Newspaper people who owned and edited publications in Cuba before Castro is nearing the end of his "rein."

Right now the Inter American Press Association is studying the whole scene with the greatest interest and is preparing to demand the return of Cuban publications to their rightful owners when Fidel collapses. A powerful committee is in the making.

CASTRO'S "influence" has waned since his first days and the Russian puppet jumps and dances when the Reds jerk the strings. Further, as he realizes his position of abject surrender, Castro has started drinking so heavily it is opening recognized.

Things are brewing in Cuba. Russia is very active.

After the temporary setback at the hands of the late John F. Kennedy, the Reds resumed fortifying and strengthening their military position until they are in a very effective and strategic position.

Action of some sort may be directly ahead.

And in Conclusion

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Those Berkeley campus misfits have exacted their toll. Applications for the new class at California show a decline of 25 per cent. Overheard: "Those UFOs that zig-zag must be driven by Martian women." Insider's Newsletter says the Russian planes we dropped were older versions of the current model, the MIG-21-D which does 1,700 m.p.h. Whoops! The Fuller Brush man is becoming the Fuller Brush woman.

Scouts advise me Rose West deserves mention as one of the area's attractive young ladies. Overheard: "Yes, I had to drive all the way down from Saginaw. My son has the plane." Scantly clad waitresses at a Chicago bar are taught judo and karate daily. Can't someone persuade the gasoline company (I think it's Gulf) to abolish that ridiculous commercial with the yacking baby in the background? Overheard: "Yes, she fought desperately for her honor until she saw he was going to give up."

The second failure of our space-ships shows clearly we need that Mr. NADDER to straighten out the mechanical deficiencies of our scientists. Confidential note to highwaymen, burglars, sneak thieves, and goons in general: The sale of pistols, revolvers and small arms is still increasing tremendously. You can anticipate a warmer welcome. Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's—ARTHUR E. MOORE, as an outstanding civic minded individual and a high class citizen; the J's—TV station WKBD for showing an "exciting" roller derby up to the last 90 seconds when they cut off with the score tied to air a group of dizzy commercials — and never showing the end.

David Lawrence Says:

NATO Plans Up N-War Danger

WASHINGTON — How near is World War III? Will it be a nuclear war? Will it be confined only to Europe, or will America quickly get into the fray? What ever may have been the relatively comfortable feelings of a year or so ago that Mr. LAWRENCE clear war is inevitable, the answers to the above questions are different today.

Whether or not Gen. de Gaulle intended his withdrawal from NATO to precipitate the "agitating re-appears" that's going on now, the fact is the outcome is grim, and the sooner the peoples of the world understand the implications of the current discussions between the Western powers, the earlier perhaps can a worldwide recognition of the growing danger and the imperative need for preventative steps.

Indeed, the breakup of the system of land-army protection only against an invasion of western Europe is a reality now. Instead of assuming that an invader would fight just a conventional war, it is being taken for granted that nuclear weapons will be used.

If any kind of war breaks out, it is being openly hinted that within 24 or 48 hours, the defending nations possessing nuclear weapons will decide when or whether to use them and what limit, if any, shall be placed on such use.

NUCLEAR BOMBING
A nuclear bombing of some kind is fully expected, if a land war begins, whether the decision is made by Gen. de Gaulle in respect to the defense of France alone or whether all the NATO powers enter the battle as a means of protecting themselves, too, against enemy initiative in nuclear warfare.

Former President Eisenhower, in letters to two congressional committees just published, says he would like to see the existing law amended to permit the sale of nuclear weapons to other governments "under special conditions and arrangements — to be approved by the NATO organization — that could operate effectively in the defense of Europe."

He apparently favored selling France such weapons when he was in the White House, but Congress objected. This type of proposal, of course, assumes that "proliferation" is inevitable anyway and that better control, at least on the free-world side, would be achieved through prompt allotment of nuclear weapons to our allies. But in Geneva, an international conference is at present trying to prevent "proliferation," and the Soviets say they want to see this accomplished by mutual agreement.

So it looks now as if all land forces in Europe may be considerably reduced, and almost complete dependence for world peace then will be placed on nuclear weapons.

Capital Letter:

FDR Jr. Has Something: a Pack of Powerful Foes

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. has received such a frosty brush-off at the White House that he couldn't even get a "Dear Franklin" reciprocal letter, although he asked for one before submitting his letter of resignation.

FDR Jr. is given little chance to capture the New York governorship which provided the presidential launching pad for his father, and insiders say he has even less chance of rejoining the Johnson-Humphrey administration.

While House intimates report that FDR Jr. has met with a series of thunderous rebuffs there in recent weeks. The first came when he was refused permission to retain his chairmanship of the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission until June 1.

After reluctantly agreeing to resign on May 11, he telephoned a presidential assistant to ask if he could have the usual jobless letter from the President, which might help in his race, and was bluntly told: "We didn't even give Hand a letter."

He knew the reference was to Lloyd Hand, LBJ's youthful lover who recently resigned as chief of protocol to run for lieutenant governor of California, but FDR Jr. reportedly retorted: "Hand's father wasn't Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Another FAVORED
Johnson forces reportedly favor the candidacy of Frank O'Connor for the Democratic nomination in New York.

Certainly Roosevelt can expect no help in the primary from Vice President Humphrey. Relations between them have been decidedly chilly since the reason we would be surprised is that there are so many good reasons why they shouldn't. Voice of the People: New Firearm Legislation Has Approval of Reader

John F. Kennedy was killed by an emotionally unstable man who had bought a mail order gun. Rabbi Adler was killed by a mentally sick young man who bought a gun in a Toledo store. Recently a man shot three people in a Detroit office. In Pontiac, a mental patient bought a gun and killed himself.

How can a civilized society allow such lax firearm restrictions? The sportsmen's clubs know that no one is out to restrict their rights or take their guns away. Senator Dodd has stated that publicly. Proposed firearm legislation is designed to keep guns away from minors, the mentally unstable, and known criminals — not from responsible citizens.

Why the rifle and sportsmen's clubs persist in warning against a threat that doesn't exist is a mystery. Does anyone care to support Senator Dodd's legislation?

Says There Are Two Definitions for Peace

Why is there so much confusion about Viet Nam? The Communists know that there is no better weapon for defeating us, and confusion is a normal tactic for them.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee report prepared by the China experts at the Library of Congress showed how the Communists have used the Buddhist Association to stir up anti-American sentiment in Southeast Asia. Surrender is no solution. If America is to continue as the leader of the free world, we have to realize that our freedom is in jeopardy whenever a part of the free world is lost.

We are not in Viet Nam primarily to help the Vietnamese. We have much more to lose than they do. The war in Viet Nam can be won only if the U.S. backs the government in South Viet Nam and must stop granting sanctuary to the enemy. The only way out is by winning and it's time people realize that there are two definitions for peace. I should hope we don't want communism at a means to peace.

'Insurance Practices Are Discriminatory'

I protest the discriminatory practices of automobile insurance companies because of age, sex and marital status. Because I am a single male, under 25, I must pay a ridiculously high rate for the privilege to drive. Would I be a better driver if I were married?

Soon the insurance rates will be so high that nobody will be able to own a car. Two ways to remedy this situation would be to pass legislation making insurance companies charge rates according to driving ability, or everyone should drop car insurance. This would force insurance companies to choose between being fair and going out of business.

Disagrees With Policy of Grading Students

The policy stated to me by Clarkson Junior High School is that if a child fails to complete one oral book report his grade for the six-week period will be a failing mark, even if he carries an "A" average on other work in this period. I do not believe this is a fair grading system. I can't believe a child can work six weeks for nothing. I hope the people who set up this policy will examine it more closely.

Name Change

The Lansing State Journal
We shall be surprised if the majority of the Legislature goes along with a proposal to change the name of Michigan's world-famous Mackinac Bridge.

Under a bill in the House the mighty structure spanning the Straits of Mackinac would be officially dubbed "The G. Menen Williams Bridge."

The reason we would be surprised is that there are so many good reasons why they shouldn't. One of the chief ones is that the name the bridge has had since it was opened in 1957, specifying both its geographical location and its purpose — providing a convenient means of crossing the Straits of Mackinac that separates Michigan's two peninsulas.

And it has been informally called Mighty Mac and Big Mac by Michigan citizens to whom it is a source of justified pride.

The proposed change is not needed to recognize Williams' key role in getting the bridge under way and completed in the face of the opposition that once led some critics to call the project "Soapy's Folly."

Everyone is aware of Williams' staunch support of the plans to link the Upper and Lower Peninsulas. It also is a fact, however, that planning, financing and building the bridge was not a one-man achievement but had to have the backing of many others.

To rename the Mackinac Bridge could set a precedent for naming other spans and other highways projects for

Michigan Woman Is Nepal Bride

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — An American woman Peace Corps volunteer has married a Nepalese Sherpa in a mountain village in the Everest region northwest of Katmandu.

She is Barbara Wylie, 35, of Ypsilanti, Mich., now the wife of 30-year-old Gyale Lama, whose Sherpa people are among the world's most famous mountain climbers and guides.

The marriage was reported by George Zeldenstein of New York City, Peace Corps director in this Himalayan kingdom sandwiched between India and communist-controlled Tibet.

Zeldenstein had just returned to Katmandu from the village of Phaphlu, about 10 days trek from Katmandu, where the wedding took place May 16. Zeldenstein, who travelled part way by air, said the new Mrs. Lama first words after the ceremony were: "I am very happy today, George".

NEAR EVEREST

The marriage is reported in Katmandu to be the first between an American woman and a Sherpa—and probably the first in which any American woman has been married in Nepal at 9,000 feet altitude, the altitude of Phaphlu village, which is near 29,028-foot Mt. Everest.

Mrs. Lama came to Nepal to teach English in the Padma Kanya Girls' College of Katmandu and on her second tour here taught in a primary school in Phaphlu. She met her husband-to-be there in 1964.

Though many of his people are mountain climbers, Lama works on government-sponsored community development projects and also cares for land owned by his family.

Officials in this capital say his family is part of the mountain nobility in the Solu District of Nepal.

The marriage ceremony, in accord with Sherpa custom, was held in the bride's residence and was performed by the head priest of the region. It lasted two hours.

Griffin to Relay Viet Message

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's Republican Senator, Robert P. Griffin, plans to relay 28 messages from state servicemen in Viet Nam to their wives or mothers.

Griffin brought the messages back with him after cutting short a Viet Nam visit last week when he was appointed to the Senate by Gov. George Romney.

Griffin recalled the comments most often made by the servicemen:

"Most of them complained about the weather," he said, "especially when we were in Da Nang and it was 120 degrees in the sun."

GETTING HOPE

"They all said they looked forward to getting home," he added. "A few Marines complained that their tour of duty lasted 13 months while the Army men served only a year."

"But none of them complained very much about the food, which sort of surprised me. From what I remember of military chow, it wasn't very good."

Griffin was an artillery observer in World War II and spent 14 months in Europe.

Probe Continues in Fatal Shooting of Negro in LA

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The Michigan Construction Safety Commission was to begin an investigation today into the collapse Thursday of a $2 million parking garage under construction near the University of Michigan hospital here.

Allan W. Harvey, commission director, said Ray Lepola, an inspector from Detroit, would conduct the inquiry.

A preliminary investigation by university officials and contractors on the project indicated Friday that "high level gusts of wind funneling down through the building" led to its collapse. James F. Brinkerhoff, university director of plant extension, said the pillars in the structure had not been braced. He said it was "not normal practice" to use braces in such cases.

Sunday Audience Thrills to MacDowell Singers

By RICHARD MORSE
The MacDowell Male Chorus, John Tousey, director, with Gilbert Jackson, accompanist, gave its spring concert at Pontiac Northern High School Sunday afternoon. It was assisted by the Washington Junior High School ninth-grade choir, the Choralaires and the Jackson Singers. Mr. Jackson is director of these groups.

The program opened with "The Last Words of David" by Thompson. The careful preparation made by the male chorus showed in the execution of this work with sympathetic accompaniment by Mr. Jackson. "Adoramus Te" by Palestrina followed.

For contrast the men sang "Away to Rio" and "Old Man Noah," both by Bartholomew. Both were well received by the audience.

The male chorus concluded its first group by singing "With a Voice of Singing" by Shaw.

Gilbert Jackson appeared next as piano soloist with "Deux Arabesques" by Debussy. They were excellently interpreted.

The Washington Junior High School ninth-grade choir started its part of the program with a beautifully sung "Surely He Hath Borne Our Griefs" by Graun. "Charlottesville" by Graun. "Charlottesville" was next and was enthusiastically received.

"Didn't My Lord Deliver Daniel?" by Smith was the last number of this group.

"The Hen" by Scandello was beautifully sung by a small ensemble called the Choralaires. Its amusing text, set to charming music, made a hit with the audience.

The ninth-grade choir sang "Call to Remembrance" by Farrant. "Every Time I Feel the Spirit" completed the choir's contribution to the afternoon.

For another pleasant change of musical pace, Tom Marsh, tenor soloist, sang two selections from "Carousell." The beautiful "If I Loved You" and the "Mr. Snow Reprise" were professionally done.

The male chorus returned to sing selections from "My Fair Lady" and followed with "Bless the Lord, O My Soul," for contrast.

At this time John Waldo was presented a life membership in the MacDowell chorus.

Darlene Ruth Day and Jay Ray Warren of Highland Road were wed before Rev. Roy Lambert, Saturday, in the Lakeland Presbyterian Church. Their parents are the Walter Dags, Bluebird Street, and the Kenneth Newtons of 11st Boulevard. French lace accented the bride's gown and Watteau train of white silk organza. Attendants were Charlene Griffith, Brenda Ouellette, Sue Brudenberg, Jane and Mary Ann See, Charles Campbell, Jerry Day, Richard Olive and Jim Howe.

Miss Stokes Takes Vows in Afternoon

An afternoon ceremony Saturday in the Auburn Heights United Presbyterian Church marked the vows of Phyllis Myra Stokes and Paul Frank Veen of Troy.

Nancy Stokes attended her sister who wore a veil of Chantilly lace with a floor-length gown of matching lace and veil. The bride carried gladioli.

They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. David O. Stokes West Auburn Road, Avon Township.

Roger Veen of Toawyr's his brother's best man. Their parents are Mrs. Vivian E. Veen of Troy and Frank Veen of Prall Street. William McIninch seated the guests.

After a reception in the Avondale Fire Hall social rooms, the couple left for a northern Michigan honeymoon.

orees are (from left) Mrs. Marjorie Safford of West Highland Drive, Mrs. Avin Wings Jr. of Voorheis Road and Mabel Miller of East Walton Boulevard.

Honeymoon in Poconos for Bradleys

At a Pocono Mountain resort for their honeymoon were John Francis Bradley of North Cass Lake Road and his bride the former Sharon Lee Walters.

They were wed before Rev. R. J. Kelcyne and the immediate families, Friday evening, in St. Benedict's Catholic Church.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Walters of Ledgestone Drive and the senior L. J. Bradleys of Mark Avenue.

CHIFFON DRESS
The bride wore a street-length gown of white chiffon over taffeta with chiffon-velvet bodice, and a silk illusion veil. She held a Bible arrangement of white carnations, ivy and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Robert C. Burns of Birmingham was matron of honor.

Attending their brother were L. J. Bradley Jr. of Clarkston, best man, and Thomas A. Bradley who ushered.

A family buffet dinner in K-Falls Lounge followed the ceremony.

The couple will reside in Pontiac. He is a graduate of the University of Detroit currently in graduate study.

Medieval crusades were undergarments of quilted cotton under their chain mail armor.

Should She Change on Night Flight?

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to Europe on a night flight next month. Some of my friends have told me I should take a pair of slacks in my handbag and change into them on the plane to save my good clothes from wrinkling.

Would this be all right, or would it look funny to the other passengers?—Joan S.

Dear Joan: I think it's really a very practical suggestion. Not only would it save your good clothes, but you would be much more comfortable, and modest, when you try to get settled to nap or rest in the limited space you get on a crowded jet.

One word of warning: make your change in the lavatory as quickly as possible. The other passengers will think it's most funny if all think it's most waiting an unreasonable length of time.

ON TIME?

Dear Mrs. Post: When invited to someone's house for dinner at seven, what time is one supposed to arrive? Is it better to be a few minutes early or late? Thank you.—Marge.

Dear Marge: The ideal time to arrive for dinner would be between five and fifteen minutes after seven. To arrive much later would cause your host and hostess to wonder why you had forgotten the date.

But to arrive too early is worse because you may surprise your hostess desperately removing her last roller, or your host feverishly trying to sharpen his carving knife.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that we receive each week, we'll send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette, revised by Elizabeth L. Post.

Spring's Fabrics

Colorful Look at Clash, Contrast

Colors that merge, clash, intermingle, and contrast tell the fashion story for spring.

No matter what your color preferences in hue and intensity, you should be able to satisfy your whims, predicts Mrs. Carol C. Kurth, area Extension Home Economist in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties.

FOREIGN INFLUENCE

In giving a rundown of the fashion colors for the upcoming season, she mentioned sunny yellows and oranges influenced by Mexico and Greece. Shades you'll hear about include sunflower, citron, marigold, mango and bittermelon. You'll find them combined with each other, and also contrasted with red.

If red is your color, look for fire tones, particularly combined with black and white, and wild cherry with navy. Pinks lean toward Siamese pink—a deep mauve. Fiesta pink, peppermint and coral complete the group.

Blues range from "surf" to "Burma"—an oriental tone. Navy, in a new tone called "Newport," links the bright blues and the pastels. Midnight blue will be substituted for black in many dark prints. Cornflower blue is the newest pastel to be introduced.

Greens are all yellowed this spring. Blue-greens, dynasty and sage, are important in high fashion garments. Pale pastels provide the perfect setting for ultra-feminine, little girl looks.

Neutrals are described in a variety of ways, denoting the depth of color. Some that should appear often include straw, celery, chamis, string, nude, earth, wheat and sand. Mist, a hazy grey, is proving popular as a background for multi-neutral and pastel prints. Neutrals are most popular in lines and silks.

Black and white still play an important part in bold, distinctive designs. White is expected to be particularly popular in pique for late spring and summer.

Art Students at Cranbrook Plan Show

Students of Cranbrook Academy of Art are offering several innovative for annual student summer show which opens Saturday in the Art Galleries and will remain up to mid-September.

This year instead of intermingling works for all eight departments— weaving, metal-smithing, ceramics, architecture, design, sculpture, graphics and painting—objects from each department will be arranged separately.

The ceramics department will present its display in a picturesque garden setting.

Both the upper and lower galleries will be utilized for the exhibition. Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries, located in Bloomfield Hills, are open Tuesdays through Fridays from 2 to 5 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. There is an admission.

WATCH THE BIRDIE—It's a good idea because the dove at the magician's fingertips wasn't there an instant ago. This wizardry was caught with a Graflex XL camera and an Auto/Strobosonar electronic flash.

Camera Angles

Dependable Team Is Tough

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures
A couple of photography's newest tools have been getting a tough workout from me in the past several months and the results are worth talking about. Paired together for this long-range test were a Graflex XL camera and an Auto/Strobosonar electronic flash.

They've been put to use around the house, at parties, press affairs, club meetings, in theaters and just for fun.

In all cases, the results were more than satisfactory; in some cases, the pictures were of perfect technical quality.

With time, they've become a dependable twosome.

A COMPONENT
The Graflex XL is a component camera system which can be assembled to suit an individual photographer's needs.

A camera has three basic elements: a lens, a body and a back. In the XL, there are choices of lenses, three different bodies and a variety of backs.

Each of the different basic elements fit together instantly to make a precision camera.

I favored a "press" type camera, so I chose a rangefinder body, an 80mm Planar f/2.8 lens and two roll film backs.

REGULAR FILMS
Both backs accept regular 120 roll films but one of them, in addition, also accommodates the long-length 220 roll-film for 36 exposures.

Other camera backs in the system are for cut film, film packs, Polaroid film packs and 70mm 50-exposure cassettes.

Each of the backs goes on or comes off in seconds.

SHARP, CLEAR
Sighting is sharp and clear in the large rangefinder window with split-image focusing from two and a half feet to infinity.

A handy quick-focus lever, adjustable for personal fingertip convenience, makes it easy to follow action in the rangefinder while getting sharp focus.

Light Plane
Crashes, Kills
3 in Canada

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (AP) — Two Michigan fishermen and their Canadian pilot were killed when their light plane crashed in heavily wooded lake country some 50 miles northeast of here Saturday.

Dead are Roland E. Pollington, 37, of Coleman, Mich.; James Gardiner Watson, 29, of Midland, Mich., and the pilot, Richard Clark, 20, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Ontario Provincial Police said the plane was chartered here from the Air-Dale Flying Service, which frequently flies fishermen into the many lakes in the area.

Observers on the ground watched as the Cessna 180 circled Laughing Lake, the police said. The pilot banked to the left to head the pontoon-equipped plane for a landing on the lake. Instead, it spiraled and plunged into the heavy woods. Police quoted observers as saying the engine apparently failed.

E. R. Dale, owner of the flying service, flew two police constables and a coroner to the scene Sunday and brought out the bodies.

Sino-French Relations Better

PARIS (AP) — Reports that Communist China would like French President Charles de Gaulle to pay an official visit to Peking have helped spotlight a warming of relations between the two countries.

So far it's been largely a one-way traffic, with the French self-promoting their own efforts to bring Gao culture to China. But the Chinese appear to be making a major effort to get their foot in the door in France.

Rumors of a de Gaulle visit to Peking swept Paris when Communist Chinese ambassador Huang Chen met with the president for more than an hour.

Huang has just returned from a long stay in Peking, and there was speculation he might have returned with an invitation for de Gaulle. So far, however, both sides have remained silent on the rumors.

There's plenty of action on other Sino-French frontiers, however. An agreement is being drawn up, for example, giving Air France the right to fly its American-built Boeing 707 jets into Chinese cities.

MUTUAL FACT
Theoretically it's a reciprocal agreement which would give the Chinese the right to fly their planes into Paris. But since the Communist Chinese do not fly commercial routes outside their own country, the traffic will be all French at the start.

Other Chinese influences are popping up everywhere. The men's and women's national basketball teams will be here later this month for games against their French counterparts, including a tour of the provinces.

The first Red Chinese movie ever to be shown in France hit Paris screens with a thud the other day.

The first-night audience howled with laughter at its propaganda-laden plot of evil Caucasians shutting innocent Chinese into a life of sin, and more than half walked out before the film finished — causing considerable embarrassment to Ambassador Huang, who had to sit it out.

CHINESE CRAFTS
The Chinese also have a large pavilion at the Paris International Trade Fair, which opened last week. It stresses traditional arts and crafts and steers largely away from the propaganda style of the film.

One Chinese effort to install another outpost in Paris has been quietly thwarted by the French government.

The financial newspaper Les Echos reported recently that Peking wants to open a branch of the Bank of China here, to use it as a base for financing Chinese trade with the west. A similar branch exists in Hong Kong.

The idea was quietly but firmly rejected by French officials, who let it be known the government has no intention of letting the Chinese open a bank here, nor of letting them use the franc to finance their trade deals with other countries.

All this activity has warmed up Sino-French relations to the warmest they have been since de Gaulle changed his recognition from Nationalist to Communist China in January 1964.

Things were improved earlier this year when police evicted the Nationalist Chinese delegation to UNESCO — which has its headquarters here — from the old Chinese Embassy.

They had exercised squatters' rights there since the change in recognition, and their expulsion cleared the way for the Communists, who had been lurking in the wings, to take over the embassy property.

Ironically, the obliging attitude of France in letting the Communists into the embassy has not been matched by a similar helpfulness in Peking itself.

BUILDING TAKEN
The former French Embassy there was taken over for their own use by the Communists when they seized power in 1949.

When French diplomats arrived in the Chinese capital in 1964, they were compelled to take over temporary quarters. Requests that the former embassy be handed over to them were met with polite smiles and silence.

After the eviction of the Nationalists from the embassy here, the French were hoping for some reciprocal move in Peking. So far, however, they're out of luck.

Bricklayers End Walkout in Washtenaw

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Washtenaw County bricklayers were to return to work today, following the signing of a two-year contract with the Washtenaw County Contractors Association and the Ann Arbor Home Builders Association Friday.

Terms of the settlement, ending a three-week walkout, were not disclosed.

Joseph Wojtowicz, business agent for Local 14, Bricklayers Union, said it would not be necessary for union membership to ratify the agreement because they had empowered the negotiating committee to accept a contract.

More Michigan people are making more phone calls this year than ever before.
Take local calls, for example. Michigan Bell customers are dialing a million more local calls a day. And the number keeps growing all the time.
Obviously, your telephone company has to grow too, in order to keep up with the growth in calling.

And grow we will—to the tune of $180 million for construction in 1966...$45 million more than last year. That's the largest construction program for any year in Michigan Bell's history.
So, keep talking. To your friends, to your family, to your customers, to your suppliers.

If now and then you experience a delay in getting your calls through, please accept our apology. And our assurance that we're doing everything we possibly can to make telephone service even faster and better than ever before.

He Must Be Game for Parties

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON — New endurance records are constantly being set — in space flights, sports, taking showers, staying awake and numerous other fields.

But as testimonials to man's amazing fortitude, none of these can begin to match the record of Leslie and Elizabeth Carpenter, a local husband-and-wife team.

It was reported the other day that Les, a newspaperman, and Liz, Lady Bird Johnson's press aide, attend more than 250 Washington dinner parties a year.

The social note in which I read of this astounding feat also said that the Carpenters "are planning some day to write a book on what makes such occasions a success."

"When Les gets home from a really swinging affair, he talks into a tape recorder until he has a complete record," it said.

Anyone who can attend Washington dinner parties an average of two nights out of three and remain coherent enough to solicitize before a tape recorder, much less write a book, is made of stern stuff indeed.

FAINT IDEA

To give myself a faint idea of the stamina this requires, I spent about an hour on a recent evening observing a dinner party at the Peruvian Embassy.

Then I went home and tried to capture it all on tape. It played back like this:

"Hi there, tape recorder. Guess where I've been. I've been watching some congressmen model summer fashions for men."

"The fashion show was part of a charity benefit dinner sponsored by their wives. Sometimes congressmen will do things in the sweet name of charity that they wouldn't do otherwise. At least I hope not."

"Several of the law givers listed on the program as models apparently chickened out. But a few braved it through. I guess their wives were on the program committee."

"During the beachwear presentation, Rep. Bert Bandstra, a well-fed Iowa Democrat, came out in a blue Japanese kimono, which he peeled out to reveal himself in striped shorts."

"That helped explain why some of the congressmen chickened out."

"Rep. Jack B. Brooks of Tex. came out with a cigar in his kisser. He may have been trying to hide behind a smoke screen. Or he may have been modeling cigars."

Boston Unionists Fighting Sales Tax

BOSTON (AP)—The AFL-CIO Greater Boston Labor Council says it has filed 11,554 signatures for labor's petition for a referendum to repeal the Massachusetts state sales tax passed this year.

Val Murphy, council president, announced that 20 other local councils will file petitions by next Tuesday to make up the required number to insure a place on the ballot in November.

Organized labor opposed the 3 per cent sales tax passed by the dominantly Democratic legislature at the urging of Republican Gov. John A. Volpe.

Dispute Clouds Proposed A-Facility

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—A proposed meson factory at Los Alamos scientific laboratory would be like a half-mile-long scientific shooting gallery, with targets so small as to defy belief.

The targets would be nuclei, the cores of atoms. The ammunition would be protons such as found within the nucleus itself, slamming into the target at 160,000 miles per second.

The facility's past is clouded by disputes between the New Mexico congressional delegation and the federal Bureau of the Budget over whether money

Dr. Louis Rosen, head of the Meson Physics Division at Los Alamos, is optimistic.

FULL FUNDS

"All of our plans are predicated on full construction funds in fiscal 1968," Rosen said in an interview.

He noted that the Atomic Energy Commission has asked for $3 million to start on construction during fiscal 1967, and interpreted this to mean that the administration favors the project. Rosen thinks the facility, called an accelerator, could contribute to advances in radiation therapy for cancer treatment, as well as better understanding of the effects on man of the radioactive environment in space. Weapons may be improved too, he said.

DESCRIBE ROLE

Particles called mesons are believed to help keep other sub-nuclear particles within atoms together and, as such, are sometimes called the glue of the universe.

During bombardment of the target nuclei by protons in the accelerator, at the rate of 6,000 trillion particles per second, more mesons would be produced.

These mesons would be used to probe the nucleus.

"In spite of our best efforts we still have a problem of recognizing what we're probing with from what is being probed," Rosen said, noting that protons are in the nucleus when it is bombarded by more mesons (as probes)."

Chimpanzees are the only apes known to make tools.
