St. Joseph Hospital Threatens to Quit Area Council

By PETE LOCHBILER

Angered because its expansion plans were declared unnecessary, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital may drop out of the Detroit Area Hospital Council.

"If the council doesn't like our building plans, we'll quit the council and go ahead on our own," threatened Sister Mary William, hospital administrator.

The council said Thursday that present crowded conditions in Pontiac hospitals — a situation that prompted the St. Joseph expansion—represented in reality "an artificial demand."

From a 14-month survey of hospital needs in Southeastern Michigan, it concluded that patients from south Oakland and Macomb Counties are forced to come to Pontiac for treatment because they haven't enough hospital bed's nearer home. New construction should take place in the areas that need more beds, not in Pontiac, a report indicated.

"Ridiculous," was the reaction of Sister Mary William, who is in the midst of raising funds for a 200-bed addition to supplement the hospital's present 330-bed plant.

"The report's conclusion about what represents the Pontiac hospital trade area is a slap at our fine medical staff, whose patients will come a long way to be treated here.

"Pontiac is an established hospital center with excellent facilities and highly-regarded medical men. The report ignores this completely."

The hospital administrator contended the council's report was based on faulty information. "The figures are diametrically opposed to those contained in a survey made for us before we began planning expansion.

"ONE SURVEY WRONG"

"One of these surveys is wrong and, frankly, I have the greatest confidence that ours is correct. I'm completely convinced our hospital should expand."

She said that James R. Pollock, who prepared the St. Joseph report for Jacobs Co., a Chicago consulting firm, would arrive in Pontiac Monday to confer with her on the council's study.

"We will look over the document together and then make our conclusions known to everyone, including the council. We are not going to take this lying down," she promised.

Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, whose facilities were classified by the report as not up to acceptable standards, also was up in arms.

★ ★ ★

Administrator Harry H. Whitlow felt his hospital was being criticized unfairly because it is located in a converted hotel.

"Admittedly, our institution can't be compared with a multi-million dollar hospital," he said. "Nevertheless, we have a well-run hospital with complete facilities and an excellent record of satisfied patients."

The initial expense was far less than what a brand new hospital costs, Whitlow noted significantly. "Our per-bed cost was between $3,000 and $4,000, while the report figured the cost for one bed in a new institution was about $20,000."

PLANS EXPANSION

Pontiac Osteopathic is a 121-bed facility converted for about $500,000 two years ago. Since then, it has been operating at capacity or more, Whitlow said, and also has a big expansion program in mind.

While not criticizing Pontiac Osteopathic by name, the report said that conversion of existing buildings to hospitals "should be condemned." There is "ample evidence of generally unsatisfactory results," it said.

"Not only is the cost of converting these structures expensive, if properly done, but upon completion

Huff Still Defies High Court

Lion Grabs, Kills Tiny Girl at Zoo

WASHINGTON (AP)—Smithsonian Institution officials ordered a formal investigation today into the grisly death of a 2½-year-old Canadian girl who wandered too close to a lion cage at the Washington Zoo.

As her horrified grandfather fought vainly to save here yesterday, little Julia Ann Vogt was hauled screaming into the cage by a lion and decapitated.

The grandfather, Harry Jackson, 67, suffered a mild heart attack and was unable to give a coherent account of what happened.

★ ★ ★

"We're still trying to determine just what occurred," said J. Lear Grimmer, associate zoo director. "There are no substantial facts we can go on."

He said Dr. Leonard Carmichael, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute that supervises the mammoth zoological park, ordered a formal investigation. Grimmer said there was some confusion as to which of the two lions in the cage killed her.

★ ★ ★

The incident occurred as Jackson was escorting Julia Ann and her sister, Judy, 4, through the zoo. The girls had come here with their mother from Chilliwack, B.C., for a visit.

Julia Ann, clutching a bag of peanuts, somehow got away from her grandfather and squeezed through a 3½-foot guardrail which keeps spectators some six feet away from the lion cages. A lion suddenly grabbed her.

★ ★ ★

Police said the only other apparent eyewitness was Wesley Dildy, 12, part of a school group visiting the zoo from Princess Anne County, Va. Young Dildy told this story:

"The rest of the class was down the hill. I heard a loud scream by the lion's cage. I ran up to look and this little girl was in front of the lion cage and the lion had caught her by the leg and was pulling.

★ ★ ★

"A man grabbed her arms and tried to pull her away, but the lion was stronger. He kept pulling and Sunday will be partly cloudy to cloudy and cooler. Tonight's low will be mostly in the 50's.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 55 degrees. The thermometer registered 81 at 1 p.m.

Michigan Boat Owners Slash Through Red Tape

The churning propellers of displeased Michigan boat owners have slashed through some of the red tape in the boat registration law.

Under an amendment to the original law, the registration application no longer needs notrization.

According to workers where the boat registration forms are available, the necessity of having a notary sign the application brought more gripes than the $2 fee.

New registration forms are being shipped to the secretary of state's branch office and the Oakland County Sheriff's department, but the old forms may still be used, ignoring the notarization requirement on them.

Under the law which went into effect March 1, all boats propelled by a motor, and all sailboats over 16 feet in length must be registered.

Exempt are boats registered with the U.S. Coast Guard, and boats propelled solely by muscular power.

★ ★ ★

The registration forms must be completed and mailed to the Michigan Secretary of State, with the $2 fee, to receive a boat number.

One of the main purposes of the law was to reduce reckless boat operation by making boats and their operators readily identifiable through use of prominently displayed registration numbers.

The $2 fee is not collected annually, and the registration of the boat is good until the boat is sold, destroyed or abandoned.

★ ★ ★

The secretary of state's office in Lansing said yesterday that some 131,000 registrations have been issued. The estimated number of boats in Michigan varies between 300,000 and 500,000.

★ ★ ★

Also included in the amendment was a provision for out of state residents to register their boats directly with the county sheriff, eliminating the time-consuming forwarding of the application to Lansing.

President Seen Willing to Sign Pentagon Bill

Ike Wouldn't Veto Plan Passed by House Unit, Source Indicates

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was pictured by Congressional sources today as willing to sign the House defense reorganization bill even if it passes without changes he advocates.

One of these sources, who asked not to be quoted by name, told a newsman: "Without any doubt he will not veto the bill if it is passed as it now stands."

The House Armed Services Committee yesterday approved a compromise bill that would give Eisenhower essentially what he asked for in arrangements for streamlined command of unified forces.

★ ★ ★

But the committee, hostile to changes that might infringe on the individual services or on Congress' own prerogatives, turned down several Eisenhower requests for administrative changes.

Referring to two of these points, Eisenhower said in a letter to Chairman Carl Vinson D-Ga, "I hope this language will be suitably adjusted on the House floor."

In the first reaction from the Pentagon, Secretary of Defense McElroy echoed the President's comment, saying that while the bill "seems to have accomplished most of the President's major objectives, certain language will, in our opinion, impair efficient administration."

One of the points in question, committee members said, involves

French Government Strives to Maintain Its Grip on Army

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

PARIS (INS)—The French government, armed with newly voted emergency powers, struggled desperately today to hold control of the armed forces on the home front.

Whether the army in France remains loyal to Premier Pierre Pflimlin or throws in its lot with the insurrectionist generals in Algeria and the rightwing supporters of Gen. Charles de Gaulle at home ultimately will determine the fate of the fourth Republic.

The army's position still remains a mystery and until it makes its loyalties known France is likely to remain in a state of hurricane-eye calm.

In his critical fight to stave off civil war on a dictatorship, Pflimlin cancelled all leaves for commissioned and non-commissioned officers in army units stationed in metropolitan France. Troops on leave from Algeria were ordered to stand by for new assignments.

The Defense Ministry ordered a state of alert for all French troops garrisoned in Germany as part of NATO forces. Their number was officially estimated at about 65,000.

The Pflimlin government was reported to have broken up what was suspected to be the second prong of the attack that started with the military-civilian junta's seizure of power in Algeria.

Reports swept Paris of the arrest of two generals thought to be preparing the second phase of the coup. There was no confirmation from official circles.

Deputies in the National Assembly approved the emergency powers bill by a vote of 461 to 114, the biggest majority given a premier since World War II. The measures authorized the setting up of a state of emergency—just short of martial law.

Within hours, the Council of the Republic (senate) voted 211 to 94 to give Pflimlin the wide powers needed to cope with the turbulance at home.

The premier called on Jules Moch, known for his strongman tactics in handling violence, to enforce the police powers as interior minister.

Under the emergency bill Pflimlin's government has the right for three months to ban all public meetings or demonstrations, impose censorship, order the house arrest of those deemed dangerous to peace, expel foreign agitators, and search homes at any time.

Set Up Own Funeral Plans 4 Years Ago

ST. JOHNS (AP)—There will be no survivors to mourn, but funeral arrangements, Sunday should satisfy Gottfried F. Ottmar, who died here at the age of 90 yesterday.

Ottmar's wife died 19 years ago and their only son died in 1899. There are no other survivors.

★ ★ ★

Ottmar, a German immigrant who became a school teacher, attorney and long-time successful farmer, made his own funeral arrangements four years ago.

With no living relatives, he felt there was no one to take care of things properly unless he did it himself.

★ ★ ★

A 30-minute eulogy, with background music, was tape recorded by Dr. Preston Bradley, pastor of the Peoples Church of Chicago, four years ago. Ottmar said he obtained great comfort from the pastor's Sunday morning radio sermons.

Neighbors, touched by his loneliness, planned to attend in good numbers for the pre-prepared service at Ottmar's farm home.

U.S. Troops May Go to Lebanon

State Dept. Adamant on Defending Citizens Abroad If Necessary

WASHINGTON (INS) — The State Department made it clear today that U.S. troops would be used in Lebanon if necessary to protect American lives and property but said there is no need for them now.

A special statement on the situation in the strife-torn country said the U.S. has not been informed that "any need exists which would require the presence of American forces."

In its carefully-worded statement on the possibility of using American fighting forces, the department said:

"It is a normal responsibility for the U.S. government to consider any situation where the lives and property of American citizens might be placed in danger, what measures might conceivably be called for in friendly collaboration with a particular foreign government to provide the protection to which they are entitled.

"However, the fact that thought is given to such contingencies cannot be taken as an indication that the U.S. has concluded that national authorities are not able and prepared to maintain order.

"Present indications are that the security forces of the Republic of Lebanon will be able to maintain constitutional order."

Plans to Ignore Second Order to Go to Detroit

Rebel Judge Declares He'll Appeal His Case to Washington

From Our News Wires

LANSING—Saginaw Circuit Judge Eugene Snow Huff defied a new order today from the Michigan Supreme Court directing him to serve in Detroit instead of the circuit to which he was elected, in Saginaw.

The judge also refused to pay a fine of $250 for contempt of the high court.

Judge Huff was served with the new order to proceed to Detroit immediately after being convicted and sentenced by the Supreme Court yesterday for defying an earlier order to assume post on the Wayne County circuit bench.

The new order instructed him to report to the Wayne Circuit Court at 10 a.m. Monday.

Huff said he didn't intend to obey the order. In addition he said, "I cannot compromise the principle that a circuit judge must serve the people who elected him, as long as his services are needed at home."

The Supreme Court said the judge will be asked to answer a new contempt charge if he does not show up in Detroit Monday.

The eight-man Supreme Court returned a guilty verdict against Huff yesterday after a dramatic 90 minute hearing on charges he wilfully disobeyed an assignment to sit in Detroit for one month, and yield his permanent seat on the bench to a visiting judge.

The action was unprecedented. Before sentence was pronounced,

Less Workers Getting Benefits

But Labor Department Reports Increase in Initial Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the third straight week, the government has reported a decline in the number of workers drawing unemployment benefits.

★ ★ ★

But there was an apparent increase in new layoffs among workers eligible for jobless payments.

★ ★ ★

In its weekly summary, the Labor Department reported yesterday that the number of workers claiming unemployment compensation dropped by 70,900 during the week ended May 3 to a total of 3,194,800.

This total was 124 per cent higher than the figure for the corresponding week last year.

The department said 38 states reported declines—largely reflecting an upswing in seasonal activities such as construction and other outdoor work.

On the other hand, the department said initial claims for jobless benefits, reflecting new layoffs, rose by 5,400 during the week ended May 10 to a total of 408,600. The previous week initial claims declined by 19,800 and dropped by 13,700 during the corresponding week a year ago to a total of 233,500.

★ ★ ★

Half the states reported a drop in initial claims last week, the department said, but these were more than offset by 23 states reporting increases.

a provision continuing to give Congress final decision, without possibility of a presidential veto, in controversial changes in functions of any service. The other issue is language specifying that the secretary of defenses' authority over the services shall be exercised through their own secretaries.

Republicans joined Democrats on the committee in unanimously approving the bill, which now goes to the House for action, perhaps within two weeks.

Several Republican members emphasized they thought the President would reach his main objectives under the committee bill.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, senior Republican member of the committee, reserved the right to support language changes, saying Eisenhower's suggestions "will receive my close attention."

But Arends warmly praised the bill as a constructive one that he said both accomplishes the objectives of the President's recommendations and preserves the constitutional responsibility of Congress.

Troubled Children View County's Center as 'Home'

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Oakland County has found a home away from home for teenage boys and girls who have found it hard to get along with their family, school or community.

For some of the 31 boys and 20 girls at the new Youth Home, located at 7350 Cooley Lake Rd., Waterford Township, it's better than home.

RECEIVE ATTENTION

Here in the large red-brick building overlooking Union Lake, the children receive day-by-day attention from well-trained counselors.

"This will never replace the home, nor can we take the place of the real parents," explained Director Wesley Johnson, "but we are all trying to provide a home life which many of the kids have been deprived of."

To let the public see the operation of this newest branch of the county's Juvenile Division, Johnson and his staff of 24 will have an open house Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

★ ★ ★

The public will be surprised to see the freedom these Probate Court-committed children are granted.

The only sign of restraint is a wire fence surrounding the former children's branch of the Tuberculosis Sanitorium. "It's not to keep the kids in," Johnson said, "but to keep the prowlers out."

There are no bars on the windows or doors, no marching in groups to classes or recreation activities, nor are there any uniforms.

TOP REWARD

Because of the non-detention operations, those committed to the Children's Home at 2050 Telegraph Rd. look upon admittance to the Youth Home as a "top reward."

"The tops," said one boy who had spent more than a year at the Telegraph road home.

According to Johnson, the Youth Home might be called the "final exam" in the rehabilitation of the children committed by Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore.

★ ★ ★

"Here we let them make the decision," Johnson said. "We offer the suggestion. Generally it works out pretty well."

But there are children who take advantage of what Johnson calls "the free rein to see if they will change." Since the opening Feb. 24 three boys and two girls decided to depart.

"We all tell them they can leave anytime they want, but they will never come back here," he said. When apprehended they are returned to the Children's Home.

★ ★ ★

These children are in the minority. Most don't give a second thought to the temptation of leaving. They want to stay on for what usually is a year or at least a school semester.

And school at the Youth Home is not like the schools back home that many skipped day after day. "Believe it or not," one of the teachers remarked, "the kids look forward to classes."

These are provided in English science, mathematics, and social studies like geography and history. The grades are the 7th through the 10th.

★ ★ ★

The children at the home are between 13 and 17 years old. They must have an I. Q. at least 80.

The four teachers from the Waterford Township School District have no more than 20 in a class, thus providing a close teacher-pupil relationship not possible in today's crowded classrooms.

Dormitories are provided for the children. Meals are served in family style just like at home.

★ ★ ★

Credit for putting both girls and boys under the same roof in this rehabilitation program belongs to Judge Moore. It's another step in making life at the Youth Home like living at a home away from home.

Judge Accused on 24 Counts

Tennessee's Legislature to Hold Impeachment Trial Hearing

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Three House prosecutors will present to the State Senate today a 24-count impeachment of Judge Raulston Schoolfield on grounds ranging from obscenity to bribery.

★ ★ ★

It will be the last step in the proceedings before both Houses adjourn. The Senate then will reform as a court of impeachment and summon the 53-year-old Chattanoogan to hear the charges before setting a trial date.

★ ★ ★

The representatives chose three of their number to prosecute the case immediately after the impeachment vote yesterday. They are Reps. John R. Jones, McAllen Foutch and J. Alan Hanover. Jones is a Republican, and the other two are Democrats, as is Schoolfield.

★ ★ ★

House Speaker James Bomar was named ex officio chairman, and the group was authorized to hire special counsel.

Chief Justice A. B. Neil of the State Supreme Court will assign a judge to take over Schoolfield's Criminal Court until the trial ends.

If Schoolfield is convicted, Gov. Frank Clement will appoint a successor for the remainder of his term, which ends Aug. 31.

★ ★ ★

Neil, 85, will preside over the Senate during the trial. His only comment on the impeachment was, "I'm not looking forward to this trial."

Navy Planes Collide; 4 Airmen Die

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Four Navy airmen were killed in the collision of two planes over the Atlantic Ocean shoreline near here yesterday.

All four were on a Navy photo reconnaissance plane which collided with a Cougar jet fighter. The jet pilot, Lt. (J.G.) David McCulley, 24, of Garden City, N.Y., parachuted and was unhurt.

Apparently neither pilot saw the other plane.

★ ★ ★

When McCulley parachuted into the surf about 100 yards offshore and waded in, his first words were "What did I hit?"

John W. Fritchett, a motorist, said the jet seemed to hit the rear of the photo plane and cut off its tail. He said the photo plane burst into flame.

It smashed to bits on the ocean beach of Little Talbot Island State Park about 20 miles northeast of Jacksonville.

A group of 400 school children were scheduled to picnic there about that time.

"They were late and that's the only good thing about it," said McQueen Sharpison, caretaker of the recreation area.

The jet fighter fell in the ocean about a mile farther north.

Graham Blames U. S. Pride for Attack on Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham concludes the third week of his Cow Palace crusade tonight with a nationally televised talk on "The Offense of the Cross."

Last night's discussion of the difference between pride and humility drew 15,500 people to the 16,500 seat arena, making total attendance 292,600.

Expressing an interpretation different from that of some U. S. leaders who blamed rioting against Vice President Nixon in South America on Communists or envy, Graham declared, "It's not from envy that people have feeling against us. It's from the way we throw our weight around."

Sinful pride, the air of superiority, he said, is "one of the problems of the United States."

Huff Still Defies Supreme Court

Huff passed up an opportunity to escape punishment which could have been a jail sentence by agreeing to go to Detroit, and thus purging himself of contempt.

He said he will appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

Chief Justice John R. Dethmers promptly had him served with a new assignment order, a carbon copy of the first one except for its effective date of next Monday instead of last Monday.

Before a standing room crowd in the 80-year old courtroom on the capitol's third floor, Huff's counsel, attorney Robert J. Curry, presented himself as a dedicated defender of a basic principle of justice.

If need be, he was willing to sacrifice his career for the cause of local dispensing of justice by locally chosen judges, he said.

Huff appeared before the black-robed Supreme Court members in a dark gray business suit. He sat behind a low counsel table before the elevated bench, most of the time with legs crossed, leaning back in his chair.

Speaking for the high court, Dethmers severely rebuked Huff for contributing to a breakdown in judicial administration by allowing litigation to drag on and pile up, in effect shifting part of his proper workload to an overburdened colleague on the bench.

He criticized Huff for his "contemptuous attitude" and said Huff had "flagrantly defied and disobeyed" the lawful order of a superior tribunal.

"That, Judge Huff, is the record on which must be judged any role of martyrdom on your part," the chief justice said sternly.

Dethmers said that in Saginaw where the caseload of a judge is about on a par with the statewide average the backlog of cases pending for two years or more represented 27 per cent of all those on file.

The statewide average was seven per cent, he said.

"This is a sad day in the history of judicial operations in Michigan—in the annals of state history—and in no way because of harsh or oppressive or arbitrary conduct by this court," Dethmers said.

He said the justices felt "regret and sorrow" that the instant situation had developed.

Alleged Racketeer Killed in Detroit

DETROIT (INS)—Willie Hooper, 29, of Detroit, alleged numbers racket boss, was shot and fatally wounded in the darkened lobby of an apartment building at 8918 N. Clarendon last night.

Held for investigation of murder was Thomas Brooks, 35, of Detroit, who police said works for a rival numbers house. Brooks is reported to have been seeking a job with Hooper.

Detectives said Hooper was shot in the back of the head by one of two men who followed him into the apartment building and ran immediately after the shot.

At U.S. Bases Throughout World

Observe Armed Forces Day

WASHINGTON (INS) — The ninth annual Armed Forces Day was celebrated today at home and throughout the free world with missile displays, parades, speeches and elaborate fanfare.

"Open House" was ordered at military installations in more than 70 countries to highlight the official slogans of the day — "Power for Peace" and "Partners for Peace."

Naval vessels were opened for public inspection at 52 ports in the U.S. and top defense and military leaders scheduled speeches in 76 cities.

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy hailed the annual observance and noted: "The American people are taking more interest in our defense program this year than at any time since the end of World War II."

★ ★ ★

The day's celebrations will include the annual Fifth Avenue parade in New York City and a torch light parade that is expected to attract 200,000 people in Portsmouth, Va.

Powell Reveals Plans to Fight Tammany Hall

NEW YORK (INS) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, undismayed by his tax evasion arraignment—at which he pleaded "not guilty" — has declared a city-wide war on New York Democratic leaders.

Powell made known his political plans yesterday at his arraignment on an indictment charging he evaded $3,000 in taxes due in 1951 and 1952.

The maverick congressman declared he would launch a campaign to defeat Tammany Hall candidates in the Aug. 12 Democratic primary wherever in the city there "is a concentration of Negroes and Puerto Ricans" and qualified candidates.

"Thank God, thank God, that I'm rid of them," Powell said of the party leaders who voted Thursday to drop him from the party slate this year for supporting President Eisenhower in the 1956 campaign.

Fire Destroys 3 New Houses

Fourth Damaged by $40,000 Blaze in City's Northeast Sector

Fire destroyed three uncompleted houses in a row and partially damaged a fourth yesterday afternoon in a $40,000 blaze in northeast Pontiac.

The blaze broke out in a house on Thors street just off Featherstone Ave. at about 5 p.m. Heavy clouds of black smoke were spotted by a housewife living a few doors up the street.

Fanned by a light wind, flames had enveloped the next two houses and were lapping at the fourth when firemen arrived.

Builders Coleman and Moss of Pontiac estimated damages might be higher, depending on whether or not the foundations have been ruined. The houses were insured.

Firemen believed the blaze was caused by children playing with matches.

Thunderstorms Scattered

Most of Nation Sunny

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scattered thunderstorms dampened sections of the Midwest and Southern Plains today while the rest of the nation basked under mostly sunny skies and mild temperatures.

The stormy activity was accompanied by gusty winds in parts of the Middle Mississippi Valley, and many areas reporting rainfall received one inch or more during the night. An isolated thunderstorm dumped two inches of rain on Anderson, S.C.

★ ★ ★

Cloudy skies over Southern California were the only exception to the fair pattern outside the rain area. Temperatures were warmer in North Central sections, but other readings represented minor changes.

The Southern Plains storm came after a day in which tornado clouds jabbed at sections of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. No damage or injuries were reported.

★ ★ ★

Temperatures in the 50s were quite general — a few isolated points had readings in the 30s—but the mercury was in the 80s along the Arizona-California border early today.

Except for fair to partly cloudy skies along the Gulf Coast and a spreading out of the storm area, little change was indicated in the general weather pattern. Scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast from Texas and New Mexico northward along eastern slopes of the Rockies through the Plains states. A similar outlook was in prospect for the Middle and Upper Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes region.

★ ★ ★

Cooler weather was on tap for parts of Montana and the Dakotas with warmer temperatures the outlook for the Great Lakes and New England.

2 Central High Journalists Win Writing Awards

Two Pontiac Central High journalism students have won awards in the 1958 Michigan Week "Journalistic Enterprise Awards Contest," sponsored by Michigan State University.

Winner of the top award was Sherry Fink, 15, of 9 Ottawa Dr., with her feature story on Edward M. Murphy, founder of Pontiac Motor.

The article was judged first in the "individual features" classification of the contest. Miss Fink is currently working on the school's yearbook.

The other winner was Dick Rogers, 15, of 180 Chippewa Rd., who was presented an honorable mention in the same classification for his feature article on Chief Pontiac.

Both winners are sophomores. Rogers is a regular on the student staff that publishes "The Tomahawk." Each story appeared in the Michigan Week issue of the school paper on Friday, May 9.

The conclusions about Pontiac were part of a more general set of recommendations for the seven-county area surrounding Detroit. They were made, the report said, to provide a framework for "cooperative planning" of hospital expansion to meet the increasing needs of the area.

This project and nine other winners will be demonstrated by their originators at Cranbrook Institute of Science today and will be on view for several weeks.

Suffers Burns in Home Blast

His House Is Reduced to Rubble, 20 Others Damaged in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Clarence McLoughlin, 42, who sat through an explosion that turned his three-bedroom home here into a pile of rubble and damaged nearly 20 other homes, is in fair condition in University Hospital with second and third degree burns.

★ ★ ★

McLoughlin told police he had disconnected a gas pipe, then laid down on a couch when he forgot and started to light a cigarette.

Witnesses said the blast lifted the roof off the house and the four walls collapsed. Neighbors pulled McLoughlin, who was still conscious and still on the counch, out of the debris.

★ ★ ★

Police are trying to determine whether the gas pipe was disconnected in a possible suicide attempt. They said McLoughlin had taken poison Aug. 14, 1956, in an attempt to take his life and said neighbors reported he had threatened suicide recently, after domestic difficulties.

★ ★ ★

McLoughlin's wife Zelma and two children had not been living at the home for about a week, police said.

The explosion knocked plaster from the walls of several homes, shattered windows and knocked a nearby house off its foundation. A woman who said she was lifted from the ground by the blast, told police: "The first thing I thought was: 'they've dropped a bomb.'"

Area Scout Council Outstanding

By JOE HAAS

CHICAGO — On this second and closing day of the forty-eighth annual convention of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, Clinton Valley Council, whose office is in Pontiac, has become quite outstanding.

This is mainly for two reasons, one of which is for its exceptional work in selecting scoutmasters, a major problem in scouting.

HAAS

The other is its wonderful facilities in the matter of a summer camp, always a prime factor in the manhood building program of the work.

A pioneer in accepting the theory that a busy man always makes the best leader of boys, rather than somebody who "has time on his hands," Clinton Valley's system now is being quite generally adopted by scout troops throughout the nation. They find that a busy man "finds time."

★ ★ ★

Its careful selection of leaders is bearing good results in the work of the local council in every phase of scouting. None of its 150 or more scoutmasters are laggards. The work increases their interest in it.

They enjoy the respect and confidence of the boys in their charge, and never are tempted to do anything in their troop or otherwise in their own private lives that would lessen that feeling.

They all have a fascination and love for the work, and pass along that feeling and enthusiasm to the members of the troop.

A great majority of the nation's councils who have summer camps have found it necessary to establish them outside of their own area. They haven't the natural facilities to provide the foundation for such a project.

In some cases the camp is 100 or more miles away from the council's area. There are councils in Texas whose camps are 250 miles away.

★ ★ ★

Clinton Valley Council's Camp Agawam on Tommy's Lake, a few miles northeast of Pontiac, is one of the best in the entire nation. It has a natural setting without peer: It is also one of the largest in the country.

Its acreage and buildings approach a quarter million dollars in physical valuation. Serving the purpose that it does, its value is vastly above anything that can be expressed in a financial way.

There over one thousand boys are privileged to become a part of this project for a week or more each summer. They are the envy of millions of other scouts in less favored areas.

The 1958 registration for Camp Agawam now is in progress, and it will open next month for the summer session. It also is rapidly becoming a year round camp.

★ ★ ★

It is estimated that less than five per cent of the nation's councils have a proper camping foundation within their own area. This prominent phase of scouting is a serious one with the other 95 per cent.

It is hardly probable that in any other council in the entire nation has scouting become such a vital part of every day life as it has in the Pontiac area. Its helping hand has reached into more than one half of our homes. Most of our successful business and professional men were scouts.

More than 100,000 people in the area covered by Clinton Valley Council have either been scouts or have had an active hand in allowing it to give vent to its many worthwhile projects. Its impact on our communities is evident on every hand.

National Chief Scout Executive Arthur A. Schuck, who is presiding at the sessions here, has long felt that our Clinton Valley Council is quite outstanding. Last year at Philadelphia he said to me, "You people are doing a great work in scouting under geographical conditions and otherwise that require a careful study. Wish we had more councils like you."

The Old Scouters from Clinton Valley, here for the convention, all have had assignments to meet in numerous conferences, and pass on to others the methods used to make scouting such a stellar project.

The 2,000 at this convention seem to work unanimously in furthering the 12 elements of the Scout Law: trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, kind, courteous, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent.

Everywhere is evidence of the fulfillment of the Scout Oath: "On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong mentally awake and morally straight."

★ ★ ★

Detroit is making a bid for the 1959 convention, and, if they get it, Clinton Valley will be in position to perform the good neighbor act, of which they can be assured.

Plane Cracks Speed Record

High-Flying Starfighter Flies 1,404 M. P. H. in Breaking Mark

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nine days after it flew the highest, a stubwing Air Force fighter also flew the fastest.

★ ★ ★

The plane is the Lockheed F104A Starfighter, the famous "missile with a man in it" which yesterday won its second international record of the month: A speed mark of 1404.19 m.p.h.

Earlier the Starfighter set an altitude record for conventional aircraft: 91,249 feet.

The speed mark was set by Capt. Walter W. Irwin, 34, over the Mojave Desert some 65 miles north of Los Angeles. He followed the exacting rules of the National Aeronautic Assn., which is submitting the new record for official world-wide recognition.

★ ★ ★

The Starfighter, with wings only 7½ feet long, is an operational fighter. Both Captain Irwin and Maj. Howard C. Johnson, 38, who set the altitude record, are members of the F104A-equipped 83rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base, near San Francisco.

On his record speed run, Captain Irwin flew twice through a 10.1 mile speed trap at 40,000 feet. The record was the average of the two trips, one downwind, one upwind.

★ ★ ★

Captain Irwin was in the air only 20 minutes, requiring about 20 seconds to set the record. But it took four hours to process, analyze and tabulate the data before the speed record was certified by the Air Force and the NAA.

The NAA is the U.S. member of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, to which it will forward the data for international approval.

Irish Workers Give Money for Jobs

DUBLIN (INS) — A plan to raise capital for new Irish industries by weekly collections of ten to 15 cents from each worker in the country is meeting with enthusiasm.

★ ★ ★

The plan, sponsored by the workers of the giant Guiness Brewery firm, is now being considered by various trade unions throughout the country.

The provisional committee in charge of the scheme have had inquiries from workers in outside firms about the details of the plan and it is believed the idea will be taken up generally.

The plan means that the 4,000 Guiness employes expected to participate will contribute about $18,000 a year. But if the 250,000 trade union members in permanent employment in the country contribute to the scheme the fund would collect over $1,500,000 a year.

WASHINGTON (INS) — Del Webb, co-owner of the New York Yankees, disclosed today that he once tried to land President Eisenhower as commissioner of baseball.

Webb, a White House visitor, told newsmen that he was hopeful in 1950 of having Eisenhower made commissioner to succeed A. B. (Happy) Chandler, as czar of the sport.

Webb said he discussed baseball, golf and defense organization during his brief visit.

Wixom Villagers to Vote on City Status

Ballot Settles Issue Monday

To Elect New Officers Also, Pending Approval of Proposed Change

WIXOM — Residents of Wixom will go to the polls in a special election Monday to decide whether they want their village to become a city.

They'll also elect a slate of new officers who will assume their posts only if the city charter proposal is adopted.

Voting will take place from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Wixom, a quiet rural community a few years ago, has gained considerable prominence as the home of Ford Motor Company's relatively new Lincoln Division plant.

Less than a year has passed since Wixom became a village; half of which is in Novi Township and half in Commerce Township.

A mayor, a six-man city council, and a justice of the peace will be elected Monday. However, if the charter is rejected, village officers will keep their jobs.

All of the village office-holders are seeking city positions.

Village President Joseph Stadnik will be opposed by Wesley McAtee and Lawrence Schardt in the race for mayor.

Village Councilmen Robert Wagnitz Gerald Abrams, Jesse Birchard, Walter Tuck, Mrs. Lottie Chambers and Gunnar Mettela will compete with Fred Beamish and Ray Lahti for the six council positions.

Candidate for justice of the peace are James Sereno and William Welke.

Tax-Free Troy Township Remains Outside Government

Oakland County's "little Shangri-la on earth" has broken down the old saying that "there's nothing more sure than death and taxes." At least the part about taxes.

Taxes — which everyone wishes he could do without but can't — has thus avoided a triangular parcel of land near Troy that is without a home. That is, it isn't a part of any governmental unit, except that it is physically situated in the county.

Believing that every piece of land must be part of a governed area, West Bloomfield Township Rep. Farrell E. Roberts will maintain his fight in the Legislature to attach the uninhabited 9.69 acres to either Birmingham or Troy.

"Right now it remains the little shangri-la on earth," said Roberts. He got a bill to prevent such an ommission from occurring again through the House of Representatives this past session, but the Senate killed it.

★ ★ ★

Roberts promised he would resubmit the measure in the 1959 session.

The "left out" property is bounded on the east by the Grand Trunk railroad, by Birmingham on the north and west, and by the City of Troy on the south.

It was when the former township of Troy became a municipality in 1955 that the tract was overlooked. Why, no one seems to have an answer.

★ ★ ★

Today it is the only remaining part of the now defunct township. Therefore, there are no officials around to collect taxes.

The property is owned by Southfield Township builder Rodney Lockwood. Lockwood, president of the Metropolitan Builders Assn., uses the area for storage of building materials. No one resides there.

Lockwood, tied up in negotiations with the striking Carpenters Union, was unavailable for comment on his "land without a home."

In Farm Fire Near Romeo

Two Buildings Destroyed

ROMEO — A fire of undetermined origin late yesterday afternoon caused an estimated loss of $15,000 in buildings and equipment on the Leo Juip farm, 68655 Walcott Rd., three miles east of Romeo.

★ ★ ★

A large 20 by 40 foot tool shed and adajacent milk house, both filled with farm equipment, were consumed in the blaze. Volunteers of the Romeo and Armada fire departments confined their efforts to saving the nearby cattle barn and house.

Juip said he saw the fire in time to drive a car out of the tool shed before that building went up in flames. The 60 head of cattle on the 236-acre farm were herded toward the woods as the flames and smoke shot skyward, visible several miles away.

★ ★ ★

Rome Fire Chief Walter Werth said the loss was covered by insurance.

Clarkston Census Under Way Today

CLARKSTON — Today through May 30, a team of workers will be taking the census in the Clarkston Community school district.

Dr. L. F. Greene, superintendent, points out that the number of names on the roll determines the amount of primary aid money that the school district will receive from the state.

All information obtained by the workers also helps in predicting future enrollments and is one of the factors used in selecting future building sites.

Each census taker will be identified by a badge signed by school officials. Residents have been warned not to give any information to unauthorized persons.

DENVER (INS) — Most home builders are happy to welcome visitors to a model house but Denver builder Lee Doud charged 25 cents and still drew a crowd.

Pontiac Police Warn Ice Cream Vendors

Pontiac police warned today that they will arrest any ice cream vendors in violation of the city ordinance regulating on-the-street sales.

Previous policy, according to Chief Herbert W. Straley, had been to issue tickets to violators. Under an opinion by City Attorney William A. Ewart, this is not the correct procedure and warrants should be obtained and arrests made.

The chief said his men would follow Ewart's advice to enforce the ordinance which requires two men on each vending truck and a proper observance of safety rules.

Insurance Payoffs Up

NEW YORK—Benefit payments to Americans covered by voluntary health insurance through insurance company policies totaled 1.8 billion dollars in the first nine months of 1957, a rise of 15 per cent over the like period of 1956.

Huron Churches Plan Conference on Family Life

MILFORD — The third annual Family Life Conference, sponsored by the Huron Valley Churches, will be held at St. George's Episcopal Church on E. Commerce road in Milford from 4 to 8 p.m. Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Louise Atcheson, a deaconess on the staff of Ward Memorial Presbyterian Church in Detroit who directs a home for the aged, will be the third member of the panel.

★ ★ ★

"Meaningful Maturity" is the theme of the conference. The three visiting speakers will discuss the following topics: "Making a Marriage," "The Magnificent Middle" and "Reaping the Rewards."

The public is welcome to attend the meet.

Newlyweds to Take Residence in Rochester

ROCHESTER — Following their honeymoon to Canada and Niagara Falls, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. James M. Rahl will make their home at 136 Walnut Blvd., Rochester.

The couple exchanged nuptial vows in an evening ceremony May 10 at St. Paul's Methodist Church in Rochester. The Rev. J. Douglas Parker formed the candlelight rite.

The former Jeannine Anne Loree, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Loree of Williams Lake road, Drayton Plains. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. William G. Rahl of Romeo.

The bride chose a waltz-length gown of Tuscany lace, featuring a sweetheart neckline and a pleated net insert at the front of a bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a cascade arrangement of white butterfly roses.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Barbara Rahl of Leonard and bridesmaid was Carol Soules of Pontiac.

William Rahl Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Clifford Loree the bride's brother, and Gary Peters of Romeo seated the guests.

The reception was held in the church parlors.

"I Didn't Read It"

Judging by the complaints which reach the Business Ethics Board, few people read the documents which they sign. When they find themselves bound by the provisions of an iron-clad contract, they tell us, in bewilderment, that they never signed a contract, that it was only an application or an order, and, anyway, the salesman told me he would tear it up if they changed their mind about it.

Your signature is your promise to abide by certain terms and conditions. Your failure to comply with such terms and conditions is actionable at law. Read EVERY WORD of any paper you sign — read the small print as well as the big print. Learn what it means before you sign it!

THE MAGIC OF TIME

J. L. VOORHEES

The fabulously rich man and I have one thing in common: time. His day has twenty-four hours, so does mine, and so does yours. It is how we employ that times that makes the difference; procrastination is betting that tomorrow will give us another minute, or another hour; we'll rob tomorrow of time that might be far more valuable than right now. A father promises himself that tomorrow he'll give more time to his son; a mother has every intention of teaching her daughter the secrets of being a housewife; a business man is too busy to make friends, while you and I let today slip away without calling on that old friend. We let the magic of time slip away, hoping to "hog tie" it tomorrow. Wasted time piles up to become a robber of the things we sincerely wanted to do.

M. E. SIPLE

Don't procrastinate, wave that magic wand and get it done.

It Seems to Me . . . .

Does Harlow H. Curtice Earn $621,000 Income From G.M.?

This letter comes in:

We read in "Solidarity" that General Motors President, HARLOW CURTICE, received $621,000 last year; $201,000 was salary and the rest was bonus. That's $298.55 an hour when my husband didn't get much more than that in a month when he was employed.

Does it seem right that one man should make so much?

Mrs. ROBERT CLOOS
(A worried mother trying to raise 5 children without employment.)

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. CLOOS:

I will try and answer your letter with the same sincerity you show in writing.

★ ★ ★

First, "Solidarity" doesn't tell you all the facts. On the last $500,000, Mr. Curtice gives the United States Government 92 cents of every dollar in taxes. He keeps eight cents. So, the last $500,000 means $40,000 for Mr. Curtice. The Government takes $460,000. And of course, it taxes the first $121,000, also. Union members pay income taxes too, but their rate is only a fraction of his.

★ ★ ★

Can Mr. CURTICE earn that much? Let's discuss it.

Four businesses combined and erected a new plant. The first year it lost four million dollars, and at the end of five years it had lost 14 million dollars. It faced closing for good.

This means the loss of all the money invested—and all the jobs.

The plant changed general managers.

★ ★ ★

The last year under the old general manager, the firm lost more than two millions. The first year under the new man, the loss dropped to $400,000. The second year it made a million and a half. In the first five years under the new general manager, it made more than 12 million dollars total.

If you owned every penny of that business, wouldn't you have been very, very happy to pay the skillful manager $500,000 a year? Actually, he got $75,000 the first year, then $100,000 and $150,000 the fifth year.

The business continued.

And so did the jobs.

★ ★ ★

This concern did $100 million dollars a year business. Mr. CURTICE'S firm does 100 times as much business each year. If he is skillful, and can manage his huge corporation well with the help of his assistants, doesn't he earn the money?

Suppose General Motors lost ten per cent of its gross business. That isn't a very big percentage and yet it would be a billion dollars in one year. If the loss continued long enough, there wouldn't be any General Motors. Remember, over 2,000 different companies have built automobiles and all but two dozen have gone bankrupt and quit.

Do the salary and bonus look as big now?

★ ★ ★

Personally, I think the officers of your own union are underpaid in proportion to what they accomplish for their group. Their management has spelled success for every member. The boss isn't just "one job." Managers are a part of every job there is. All members of the CIO have a direct interest in the success of their officials. Some unions take good care of their officers. Some don't. In my judgment, the CIO is one that doesn't pay its executives in proportion to what they deserve.

★ ★ ★

Suppose management is poor and a firm has to go out of business. The money invested is lost and what interests you more, Mrs. CLOOS, is this: all the jobs are lost forever, too.

This happens every day.

Each employe has a big stake in the success of his own company. If it fails, he'll be out of a job. Even decreasing success means the jobs grow fewer and fewer.

★ ★ ★

When a firm succeeds, it usually puts more money back in the business than it pays out to stockholders. Thus, the business gets bigger. This helps the stockholders later on, and what concerns you again, is the fact THERE ARE MORE JOBS.

This means more prosperity for all.

★ ★ ★

So you see, good management is entitled to good pay.

Isn't that true?

Remember, 2,000 automobile manufacturers in America went BANKRUPT AND QUIT. They couldn't cut it against the terrific competition.

Don't belittle management.

★ ★ ★

For many years, the average General Motors worker has done well financially. Don't you think that the long term record is good? Nearly every business has some setbacks. The big automobile companies have had less than the average.

★ ★ ★

If I've written too long a letter, Mrs. CLOOS, please forgive me. But I believe you would like to hear these facts.

★ ★ ★

I want to make one more point. If Mr. Curtice gave his entire salary and bonus — before taxes — to the employes, they'd get around $1.77 apiece for the year. If he gave the salary and bonus he actually takes home, they'd get 30 cents apiece, or less than a penny a week.

★ ★ ★

Really, the hourly workers aren't paying too much for the services of a super-expert.

Are they?

From now on, you draw your own conclusions. Don't let "Solidarity" make up your mind—and don't let me.

Yours sincerely,
HAROLD A. FITZGERALD

And in Conclusion . . . . . .

Gleanings from the well thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

I salute ROBERT R. MCMATH who has just been elected a member of The National Academy of Sciences—a great scientist, a great man and a great friend to humanity . . . . . The letter signed "X for Kisses" in Wednesday's PRESS is the Number One Communication of 1958 to date. The girl that wrote that, is a real Champion. She's Mrs. America in my book. I only hope the lucky bird that married her knows what he has . . . . . Overheard at a Political Strategy Meeting: "Don't argue with newspapers. They go to press too often." . . . . . Did you hear about the engaged girl in the nudist camp who didn't go outdoors for six weeks until after dark? She wanted to be married in white.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

We met in the New York office of the World Veterans Federation. Harold Russell, federation vice president, cordially extended his hook and we shook hands without embarrassment.

In the presence of his calm assurance, you would never realize that life meant nothing to him when he lost both arms in World War II. Yet he conquered both his despair and his handicap, became a movie star, author and leader in veterans' organizations. Now he can type, shave, play golf, drive his own car.

How? In his blackest moment, faith offered this bright philosophy: It's not what you have lost that counts but what you have left. And, adds Russell with emphasis, "how you use what's left!"

Days of All Faiths:

Churches Emphasize Evangelism

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

The fifty days between Easter and Pentecost, which are now coming to a close, are set aside by the National Council of Churches as a time of special emphasis on evangelism.

★ ★ ★

The selection of this particular part of the church year is related to the fact that it was on Pentecost that the first Christian converts—3,000 of them—were made. "The experience of Pentecost can be repeated," says the National Council "in any church that fulfills the conditions."

A pamphlet outlines those conditions for both clergy and laymen. For the clergy, special reading and study is recommended. It is suggested that sermons during these seven weeks concentrate on the mighty acts of God—the Creation, Incarnation, Resurrection—which culminated on Pentecost with the establishment of the Church and the gift of the Holy Spirit to inspire the Church.

The lay people are urged to form study groups and to seek deeper understanding of the nature of the Church. To these study groups they are to bring the new people who became church members at Easter, the purpose being not only to inform these new members more fully but also to assimilate them into the life of the congregation. Laymen are also expected to use this period for organized calls on prospective church members.

★ ★ ★

Literature and guides to help in all these projects are supplied by the National Council.

PATRON OF LAWYERS

The man in the Mother Goose rhyme, who met another man with forty wives, was on his way to the English town named for Monday's saint: Ives, Yves, or Ivo. This saint ought to be better known than he is. He was really a great man.

Born in Brittany in the thirteenth century, Ives became a lawyer of such distinction and Christian dedication that he is still the patron saint of lawyers. They could hardly have a better one.

Ives began his legal education at the age of 14, when he went to Paris. He continued there for ten years, studying philosophy, theology and church laws, and then went on to Orleans to learn civil law.

★ ★ ★

Back home in Brittany as a judge, Ives became known as "the poor man's advocate." He was always the champion of the downtrodden, the protector of widows, orphans and all poor people. He administered justice with such kindliness that he gained the good will even of the people he had to rule against.

"Do you suppose a talking horse could give as many excuses for not having won as men can?"

Dr. William Brady's Mailbag:

Only God Predetermines What Sex Child Will Be

"We have three lovely daughters but my husband is much disappointed because we haven't a son. I'm told a doctor in Toronto has found the sex of the child depends on . . ." (Mrs. C. H.)

Ans.—Only God predetermines the sex of a child.

★ ★ ★

"I beg to disagree with your assurance that the baby wearing two diapers won't grow bowlegged. I know for a fact that this method of keeping not the baby dry, but mother's precious floor spotless can lead to bow legs. Our friend did this and her little boy had to wear braces for more than a year . . ." (G. P.)

Ans.—I still say it makes no difference. Thousands of babies so diapered have grown straight legs nevertheless. Moreover, moderate bow legs in a baby a year old usually straighten within the next year or two if the baby is allowed to get enough exercise, without the use of any splints or braces.

Of course the baby should receive an adequate daily ration of calcium and vitamin—in the form of milk, egg yolk, cod liver oil or plenty of exposure to sunshine.

★ ★ ★

"I can't seem to digest whole cooked wheat or whole wheat flour products of any kind — bread, cookies, etc. My doctor says I have a sensitive stomach that can't take fibrous or bulky foods. However, we have a large bin of good wheat that I would like to make some nutritional use of.

"What do you think of grinding it in a coffee mill and drinking the brew for coffee? I don't drink coffee." (Miss W. T. B.)

Ans.—I think it would be gosh awful. It is a mystery to me how you or your doctor can tell what food items you can or cannot digest. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Wheat to Eat.

★ ★ ★

"A year ago I began following the regimen you give in your booklet Chronic Joint Disability and I was cured—after 23 years of remedies — heat treatments, baths, opinions of various highly touted specialists, X rays and miracle medicines . . . none of which helped. Malnutrition is correct." (L. W.)

★ ★ ★

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

DR. CRANE

"I hate my husband," she stated angrily. "He and I have nothing in common. In fact, we are just strangers who happen to live under the same roof.

"We haven't had dinner together in nearly a year. He never even gives me a greeting card on my birthday.

"So I have decided to divorce him. He is a prominent doctor, so wouldn't that help ruin him in his practice?"

HATEFUL WIFE?

And Madeline really meant what she said, for I found that she hated him so intensely she would gladly have murdered him if she could have avoided the death penalty for such an act.

She was vindictive to the point of wanting to ruin him in his medical practice.

★ ★ ★

So I warned her a divorce might be just what he wanted! If he despised her as much as she disliked him, then she might be playing right into his hands by her divorce action.

"He might consider it good riddance to bad rubbish, as the old saying goes," I added. "But if you REALLY want to ruin him, I can tell you a surefire method."

Madeline eagerly asked for more particulars.

"Well, if he were crazy about you to the point where he couldn't live without you," I continued, "then a divorce would really cut him to the quick.

★ ★ ★

"It would crush his spirit and probably ruin him for sure. So you should first wrap him around your little finger till he thinks you are the most wonderful person in the world. Then, if he loses you it will really break his heart."

Madeline's eyes gleamed vengefully as she anticipated this outcome.

"You are right, Dr. Crane," she gloated. "But how can I wrap him around my little finger since we hardly speak to one another now?"

That's when I suggested she pay him a compliment every day.

"But I hate him!" she said angrily, with flashing eyes. "I'd resent saying anything nice to him."

"Well, that's the only surefire method by which you can wrap him around your little finger. So you better pick out his virtues and start praising him thereon, or you will never be able to break his spirit later."

She mulled over the idea and finally decided she would follow my plan.

"It will almost kill me to pay him a compliment," she admitted, "but if that will help me to ruin him later, it will be worth all the cost!"

Next week she called and told me he had just grunted when she praised his new tie. But I urged her to keep on.

A month passed and she reported that he surprised her one evening by coming home to dinner. A few nights later he even suggested they dine out, which they hadn't done in over a year.

★ ★ ★

Later he took her to a show. And finally remembered her birthday with flowers, as well as a box of chocolates!

Three months passed before Madeline returned to my office. She looked excited and successful.

"I have done just what you advised," she said, "and now I think he is really wrapped around my little finger. For he told me last night I was the most wonderful woman he had ever known and that he couldn't live without me."

"Then you can probably ruin him now by your divorce suit," I added.

"But, Dr. Crane, I don't want a divorce," she protested. "I love him. We are crazy about each other. We never were as happy as now, so I don't want any old divorce!"

★ ★ ★

This is a true case and shows what magical results the "Compliment Club" project produces.

So you church folks should use it more widely as projects for your Women's Society or Young People, etc.

Voice of the People

'Investigate Subordinates in City Police Department'

Somewhat over a year ago, citizens of Pontiac were sold a bill of goods with the help of the Pontiac Press and Pontiac Police Officers Association, and voted in Civil Service Act 78. This was a mistake, and at least The Press is willing to admit it now, even though the Police Association is not.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps the survey people had no irons in the fire, but how better to justify itself than to make the Police Department and its Chief look as bad as possible? The report barely mentions the many acts of incompetence, disloyalty, and neglect of duty committed by various officers in the department. The prevention and control of these acts are the duty of various subordinate officers who very often not only permitted these acts to go on, but actually participated.

★ ★ ★

Though management is directly responsible for the rise and fall of an organization, many businesses fall apart and rot from corruption within. This is the situation that exists within the Pontiac Police Department, and has existed before the present Chief began his tenure of office here. A change in the administrative head will not accomplish any more than the present Chief can. Some of the rotten apples should be weeded out.

★ ★ ★

A more thorough investigation into behavior of certain officers who have continuously been a thorn in the side of the Chief, and have threatened many times that they would put him out of a job, is definitely called for.

More Discuss Graham Reports

Several readers have written you for more accounts of Billy Graham. I like him and have read marvelous stories about his activities in this section, but when he gets thousands of miles away, his appeal is naturally less. I wouldn't want to see any of our local church news crowded out for day-after-day stories of Graham. After all, they're the same pattern just repeated once more.

Ilya B.

I agree that coverage of the Billy Graham campaign gives the type of message everyone needs. If, over the last 50 years, there had been more preachers with Mr. Graham's belief and courage, our world would not be in its chaotic condition.

It sure is right for the President to have some recreation, but for anyone to have nine months out of a year is more time than a retired person can afford, but the people of the U. S. A. don't pay for his.

If Mr. Cool will cool down a little, he'll realize the President needs relaxation just as much as a non-president, whether it's golf, fishing or whatever. No one criticizes Mr. Cool and his family for taking vacations whenever they can. There are a lot of people taking a lot more time than Eisenhower, but it just doesn't get in the paper.

PHS Band Bows Out

By MAX E. SIMON

Pontiac High School's nationally-famous band made its last concert one to remember.

More than 2,000 persons jammed the high school gymnasium last night to give an ear-splitting, thunderous ovation to the young musicians, who performed for the last time under the banner of "Pontiac High School."

★ ★ ★

Conducting the first half of the program was Dale C. Harris, supervisor of instrumental music in the Pontiac school system. Harris organized the band in 1927, and molded it into the proud organization that it has become.

Following the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner," Harris led the band in the Pontiac High School Band Fanfare, composed in 1956 by Robert M. Peterson, instrumental music teacher.

Other compositions on the first half of the program were the third movement of Kallinikow's "Symphony No. 1;" Marrinuzzi's "Waltz Compestre" from the "Suite Siciliana;" excerpts from Richard Rogers' musical score for "Carousel;" Sousa's "Free Lance" march; and Picci's "Fantasie Original" for euphonium and band.

SOLOIST FEATURED

The last of these featured Leonard V. Falcone, professor of music and band director at Michigan State University, as euphonium soloist.

The "Fantasie Original" was a brilliant virtuoso showpiece for Falcone.

The difficult pyrotechnics were handled with ease by the soloist, who was warmly applauded by the audience.

The MSU band director added his voice to the chorus of praise for the young Pontiac musicians.

"The Pontiac High band is the most outstanding in Michigan," he declared. "But its reputation has spread far beyond the borders of this state. All band teachers know about this group.

"Wherever automotive people meet, they think of Pontiac as the home of the Pontiac car. And wherever bandsmen meet they think of Pontiac as the home of its famous high school band.

'HONOR TO APPEAR'

"These students have brought honor and prestige to the city and I consider it an honor to appear with this group on such a significant occasion."

The second half of the program was conducted by Richard Franko Goldman, son of the internationally - famed bandsman, the late Edwin Franko Goldman.

It was his father who formed the Goldman band which presents summer concerts on New York's Central Park Mall and made America conscious of the glories of concert band music.

Goldman, chairman of the Department of Literature and Materials of Music at the Juilliard School of Music, and director of the Goldman band, led the group in Gossec's "Overture in C;" the "Chester Overture" of the contemporary American composer William Schuman, and a magnificent performance of the Bach "Fantasia in G Minor," in which the band responded immediately to his slightest demand.

He concluded the program by leading the band in a group of marches, and ended the program with his father's beloved "On the Mall," with the audience loudly humming the familiar melody. The audience demanded a repeat, and it was given.

"My father told me what an oustanding group this was when he appeared here in 1952," Goldman said. "I have learned for myself that everything he said is true. It is the best high school band I have ever heard."

You Will Feel Out of Place

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I are both in our early forties. He has a brother in the early twenties who is going to be married soo and my husband has been asked to be his best man. His bride-to-be has asked me to be a bridesmaid.

"I appreciate her asking but I feel the age difference between me and her other young friends who will be bridesmaids is too great and I will certainly feel out of place. Could I possibly refuse to take part without hurting her feelings?"

Answer: I understand your feelings perfectly and it would not be wrong to explain to the bride-to-be that you appreciate her wanting you as one of her attendants but that you would feel very much out of place with her young friends.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My favorite niece is going to be married shortly and my daughter and I would like to give a shower for her. A friend of mine tells me that it would not be proper for me to give such a party. I know it is not considered correct for a member of her immediate family, but is an aunt considered immediate family?"

Answer: If no other showers are given for her, you probably would not be criticized. But if other showers are being given this one by a relative would seem too many.

Beware of Overdoing

Make Slow Start With Any Exercise

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Women who have tried them know that figure molding exercises are magic if you want a lovely figure. They also promote grace and good posture. You always can tell whether a woman exercises or not by her carriage and the grace of her movements.

Recently exercise also has come into its own as a health producer and as a weapon with which to delay aging. Many folks have become interested in the benefits of regular exercise because of the stamp of approval by the physicians.

It is a wonderful idea to begin exercise! However, you should always have a checkup by your doctor first. You also must begin gradually. Once a woman makes up her mind to self-improvement she is likely to do far too much at first. Even if she does not damage herself, sore muscles probably will discourage her.

Today I want to give you a few easy warm-up exercises. Walk about the room, bending your knees high up in front of you. After a few rounds of this stand still with your feet together, toes pointing straight ahead.

★ ★ ★

Raise the arms sideward-upward as you rise high on your toes. Reach for the ceiling. Lower heels and arms to the floor simultaneously. Continue, feeling the stretch.

Now walk about the floor again, this time raising each leg up in front of you (with stiff knees) before placing your foot on the floor. This rhythm is swing-step-swing-step, and so forth.

Again stand still with your feet comfortably separated and your arms at your sides. Let your trunk and head and arms fall forward. Raise the arms, head and trunk, bringing arms to sideward - shoulder - height position. Pull back gently with the arms and lower the head back slightly. Again bend forward and continue.

If you would like to slip up on exercise, you may want my "Six Introductory Exercises." If so, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 25. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Spadea's american designer pattern

The popularity of the relaxed sheath is running neck and neck with the other top runner of the season, the trapeze. Jo Copeland, whose designs adhere to her theory that good fashion must spotlight the wearer rather than the dress, cut this step-in model with only three basic pieces, a narrow collar set wide on the neck and a choice of three-quarter sleeves or none at all.

If you're a die-hard who has not been caught up by all the excitment of the many new looks, you'll be happy to know you can shape this into your waist and even wear it belted. Make it now in linen, pique, cotton or rayon novelty material, shantung or sharkskin.

For fall use it again in woolen, silk or rayon faille, thin dress-weight wools. From this chart select the one size best for you.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips Inches	Length From Nape of Neck to Waist
8	33	23	34	16¼
10	34	24	35	16½
12	35	25	36	16¾
14	36½	26½	37½	17
16	38	28	39	17¼
18	40	30	41	17½

Size 12 requires 3¼ yards of 35 inch material for sleeveless dress. To order Pattern No. 1342, state size, send $1.00.

For Jumbo 96 page Pattern Book No. 14, send 50 cents — for Jo Copeland label, send 25 cents. Address SPADEA, Box 535, G.P.O., Dept. P—6, New York 1, N.Y. If paid by check, bank requires 4 cents handling charge.

MRS. C. WILLIAM SALTON

Chosen 'Nurse of Year'

The title "Nurse of the Year" has been accorded to Mrs. C. William Salton of Lincolnshire road by the Oakland District Nurses Assn.

Mrs. Salton (known to her friends as "Dee") is a school nurse for the Board of Education in Birmingham. Her occupation is a specialization of public health nursing. When necessary she renders first aid and also assists school principals in controlling communicable diseases. Among her other duties are checking school first aid supplies for adequacy and directing the annual vision-hearing program. She is a consultant for health education, resource material, and service in the three schools.

For the past three years this attractive red-haired nurse also has been working two days per week at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, ". . . just to get back into white again." School nurses do not wear white uniforms.

Originally from Okemos, Mrs. Salton received her R.N. and B.S. through the combined nursing and degree program at Michigan State University, receiving her clinical experience at Edward W. Sparrow Hospital, Lansing. Currently she is studying toward a master's degree in public health and education at Wayne State University.

Before working in Birmingham, Mrs. Salton was employed by the Pontiac City Health Dept. as a public health nurse. She also has worked at the MSU Hospital and at Pontiac General Hospital where she instructed nurses' aides and was in charge of the "recovery room."

Although nurses are probably the busiest individuals in our fast-paced society, Mrs. Salton still finds time for many additional activities. Corresponding secretary of the ODNA, she is a former membership chairman for the Michigan State Nurses Assn. She also holds membership in the Michigan Education Assn., American School Health Assn., MSU Alumnae Club, Pontiac Business and Professional Women's Club, and OES.

Still "numb" as a result of the honor bestowed upon her, Mrs. Salton relates that a recently developed enthusiasm for early American antiques is one of her outside interests. Bowling, sewing, and gardening (yes, she manages to squeeze these in, too) are other favorite pasttimes.

Mrs. Salton and her husband, who is employed as an industrial engineer and salesman in Detroit, are members of Central Methodist Church.

Dear Abby....

Parents Are Invited to Attend Elopement

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 19 and is engaged to a fine young man of 21. They've been engaged a year. They want to marry this summer, but his mother said if they did, it would have to be without her consent, so they plan to elope. My daughter wants her Dad and me to go with them to see her married, but I've never heard of a couple eloping with her parents along. Have you?

ABBY

"If we go, his parents will think WE arranged the whole thing, but that's not true. The kids would elope anyway. We'd like to see our daughter married, but don't know if we should go or not. Should we go?"

MRS. UNCERTAIN

DEAR MRS.: Try to get his parents to go along. If they refuse, you have a right to see your daughter married. (This is an elopement?)

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: I am kind of fat and my husband is very thin. I cook real good because I want to put some weight on my husband but instead I put on the weight myself and he stays thin. What should I do?"

FAT

DEAR FAT: Don't eat the fattening foods you cook for your husband. Get a diet from your doctor and stick with it.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: This fellow I go with is considered a jerk by everybody including me. He brags, is conceited, and I have caught him in many lies. But I can't get him out of my mind. He is going into boot training and tells me if I want to write to him okay—but not to expect any letters from him. I am considered a very good looking girl and could have many other dates but I still prefer this lunkhead. What should I do?"

TINA

DEAR TINA: Give this guy the boot before he goes into boot training.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, age 45, and my husband has been dead six years. I have two children who are 19 and 21. I met a nice, respectable, single man who is a common laborer. My children say if he comes to this house they will walk out so I have to meet him out somewhere.

"Please advise me if I should stop seeing this man or let him come to my home in spite of my children? I think I should have some companionship at my age."

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Let hime come to your home. If your children walk out, let them walk out. They are old enough to make lives of their own and you deserve some companionship.

Confident Living

Workmen Seen Praying Together on the Job

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

"Some of the best prayer meetings I've ever attended were right down here in the yards between a couple of box cars."

This remark was made by an official of Seaboard Air Line Railroad as we talked on the station platform at Wildwood, Florida. S. F. Osteen, Assistant Superintendent, North Florida Division; R. L. Lynn, Assistant Chief Mechanical Officer; Russell Phillips, engineer on the crack "Silver Meteor," and I were discussing the growing emphasis of religion in business organizations.

PEALE

Mr. Osteen told us that at their Rules Meetings (discussion groups for studying railroad regulations) a prayer is always said for good railroading.

Russell Phillips told about a Hollywood photographer aboard the "Silver Meteor" to take pictures from the cab, who stood in surprise while the engineer, fireman and conductor reverently and sincerely asked God to ride the rails with them on their trip north from Miami that day. "This is something I never expected to see!" gasped the astonished man from Hollywood. "This is really IT—prayer on the job, natural and unashamed."

My friend Mr. Leonard, a Seaboard conductor, told me that his son, advertising manager of the Florida Theater Chain, inserts in all Saturday movie ads across the state a line reading: "Don't forget to worship in the church of your choice on Sunday."

In every room of the Hilton Hotel chain, a copy of "Guideposts," an interfaith spiritual publication, awaits the guest.

In an Illinois Central Railroad dining car I was interested to find on my table an attractive card on which appeared blessings upon the meal from a priest, a rabbi and a minister. I wrote a note of appreciation to Wayne Johnson, president of the road, commenting upon the unostentatious opportunity this gave each person to render thanks for God's Providence.

But religion in business is not limited to big firms. The Memphis (Tenn.) Press-Scimitar carried a story about garbage collectors of the Memphis Public Works Department, Kennedy Division, who huddle around a big pot-bellied stove each morning at 7:00 o'clock to sing hymns and have a prayer. The group call themselves the "Pious Poor Club," whose purpose is "to make sure we get started on the right foot every day." At 7:30 the garbage trucks roll out for the day's work with the men humming old hymns.

And department store people meet for inspirational purposes. I spoke from a halted escalator to employes of Harvey's Store in Nashville; and from the great organ loft of John Wanamaker's to an estimated five thousand sales people and customers during business hours.

All in all, there is something very creative going on in this country that is sound and vital. We hear of many unhappy occurrences that rightly cause concern. But it is encouraging now and then to add up the positive goodness that exists. One of the most hopeful facts of our time is that God is not only to be found in churches but in shops and stores as well. He walks the streets of our cities. He is identified as never before with the daily lives of men.

Security for You

Quiz: Filing of Separate Wills Wise?

From A.S.R. of San Bernardino, Calif.: "Recently you had a column about the value of making a legal will. If a man and wife jointly own property is there a need for a will? They also have a joint banking and savings account.

Even when property is jointly owned it's wise for a man and wife to have separate wills. For example: In some states, if the family car is jointly owned by a husband and wife, and the husband dies, his half of the car may go to the children. There are many such examples, depending on individual state laws and circumstances.

From W.H. Thayer of Yucaipa, Calif.: "I was in the Navy from June 9, 1905, to June 8, 1909. I've lost my discharge papers. Where can I write to get duplicates? They'll help me to get my Social Security when I retire."

Discharged enlisted men without reserve status may request an application for a replacement of a discharge by writing to: Director, U.S. Naval Records, Management Center, 9700 Page Blvd., St. Louis 14, Mo. All other Navy personnel should write for an application to: Chief of Naval Personnel, Department of the Navy, Washington 25, D.C.

From Mrs. F.Mc.W. of Grove City, Pa.: "I have worked every year but five since Social Security went into effect. However, I will be 62 before my husband is 65. Will I be able to collect payments when I become 62 based on my Social Security record or will I have to wait until my husband is 65?"

You may start collecting Social Security on your own work record at 62 — without regard to your husband's age.

From Mrs. M.I. of New York City: "My father-in-law, his wife and their child under 18 collected Social Security for a few years before his death. He was past 70. Since then, the child has become 18 and the checks have stopped, both for the mother and the child. Since the wife is 53 and disabled, is it posible that she can collect payments from her husband's Social Security now? She has never worked herself."

A widow may not collect Social Security based on her deceased husband's record until she's reached 62, unless, of course, she's supporting a child. This is true regardless of her physical condition. However, she may be entitled to aid to disabled adults under a joint New York-federal government program. I suggest you get in touch with the nearest public welfare office to get the facts on this program.

From Mrs. J.V.VanB. of Ridgefield Park, N.J.: "My mother who is well over 65 was widowed with seven children in December, 1935. She has no income and lives on what my two sisters at home contribute to her support. Is there any chance that she may be eligible for Social Security based on my father's work record?"

No. The Social Security law didn't start providing benefits until 1940.

★ ★ ★

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service. You may obtain Ray Henry's new social security handbook by sending 35 cents in coin to this newspaper and requesting "Security for You" booklet.")

Band at Interlochen Invited to Play Again

LANSING (AP)—The famed band of Camp Interlochen will get another invitation to perform at the dedication of the Mackinac Bridge next month—but at a site 40 miles from the bridge.

★ ★ ★

A committee of legislators yesterday agreed to invite the band to play at a new amphitheater in Harbor Springs, some 40 miles southwest of the straits.

George Lahodny, Detroit Edison Co. representative working with the Bridge Dedication Committee, said the invitation would relieve the committee of "an awkward situation."

★ ★ ★

It was intended to sooth ruffled feelings of Dr. Joseph F. Maddy, camp director.

Maddy said he got an invitation from the Bridge Dedication Committee to send a band to give performances at both ends of the bridge during dedication ceremonies June 26-28.

★ ★ ★

The invitation was withdrawn after the Detroit Local of the American Federation of Musicians protested against use of non-union musicians.

If it accepts the new invitation, the Camp Interlochen band will play on one of the three days of the dedication.

Says Fortune Hidden by Goering Found

BERLIN (AP) — German investigators are reported to have turned up a large fortune concealed in Berlin by Marshal Hermann Goering, Hitler's top deputy.

★ ★ ★

Goering, who exercised broad financial powers in addition to command of the Nazi Luftwaffe, committed suicide in 1946 in his Nuernberg prison cell just before he was to be hanged as a war criminal.

The West Berlin newspaper Telegraf said several million marks belonging to him have been found by a denazification court in various bank accounts under assumed names. Investigators also have turned up valuable hidden property.

The newspaper said authorities have blocked the accounts and impounded other property so that it cannot be collected by Goering's heirs. His daughter and widow live in West Germany.

Court officials were not immediately available for comment on the story.

Baby Twister Blasts Home in Waterford

A freak wind hit the John Stefanides residence at 7178 Wedworth Ave., in Waterford Township at 2 p.m. yesterday, ripping the shingles loose and spreading sand throughout the house.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Stefanides told Waterford Township police and Sheriff's deputies that she and her three children, Joyce 4, Teresa 3, and Carol 2, were in the living room of their frame home when they heard a roaring wind.

Within seconds, she said she saw a black cloud shaped like a small funnel coming towards the house, and she and the children fell to the floor. All the windows and doors were open, and as the wind whipped past the dirt was strewn through the entire house.

Debris from trash cans in the yard was blown all over the yard.

Two other children, Linda 7, and John 6, were in school at the time.

The federal census showed 12 per cent of American males over age 18 have completed at least a year of college.

New Bridge Opens U. P. to Big Tourist Invasion

LANSING (AP) — The fabulous new Mackinac bridge will swing open the door this summer to what state officials confidently predict will be the biggest tourist invasion the Upper Peninsula has ever known.

The bridge itself is billed as one of the state's greatest tourist attractions, one that its designer, David B. Steinman, says will double traffic between the Upper and Lower Peninsulas in its first year of service.

In any event, the Paul Bunyan and Hiawatha Land above the Straits has assumed a prominence it never knew. And the Upper Peninsula tourist industry, now doing roughly a 135 million dollar annual business can expect cash registers to jingle as never before.

What will tourists find there?

A vast outdoors largely unspoiled by man is by far the area's biggest attraction.

Its 16,000 square miles cover an area larger than a number of states. With only 300,000 inhabitants — about four per cent of the state's population — large sections are a virtual wilderness. The largest city has less than 20,000 residents.

It's more than 300 miles from Sault Ste. Marie on the East to Iron Mountain on the Wisconsin border. In between are some 12,000 miles of streams, 4,300 inland lakes and 1,700 miles of shoreline on Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron.

Forests cover about four-fifths of the U.P. nearly nine million acres. Nearly four million acres are owned by the state or federal government making them available to the public for some of the finest fishing and hunting in the country.

Insects Travel at Less Speed Than Many Cars

From National Safety Council

That fable about flies streaking 820 m.p.h. is for the birds. Top speed for insects is about 35 m.p.h. in short sprints, according to a British professor of entomology.

And you'll never catch a horsefly going faster than 15 m.p.h., he says.

Even if insects could travel faster, they'd have horse sense enough not to, insect lovers claim. Too many dangers from traveling fast, they point out.

★ ★ ★

The same is true on the highway — traveling fast is pretty dangerous there, too. But a lot of humans, apparently don't have the sense of insects when it comes to driving a car.

Speeding is a factor in about 4 out of 10 fatal motor vehicle accidents, according to the National Safety Council.

You don't necessarily have to exceed the posted limit to be speeding, the Council points out. Observe the limit in a 25 m.p.h. zone during a blizzard and you may end up with a ticket.

★ ★ ★

"Speeding," the Council says, "increases the likelihood of an accident. The greater the speed the less time you have to react in emergencies. It takes longer, naturally, to stop a speeding auto than one moving slowly.

"Besides, speeding is costly. It can cost you money — and maybe your life."

State Pays $75 Million for Highways, Schools

LANSING (AP) — The State Treasurer's Office paid out more than 75 million dollars today, $40,703,026 in highway money and $34,335,654 in primary school funds.

★ ★ ★

The highway money, from motor vehicle taxes, will be returned directly to the counties, cities and villages.

The primary school money will be sent to county treasurers to be allocated to school districts on a child census basis. Money for the primary school payment came from collections of annual inheritance, railroad and telephone taxes.

The state previously had paid out $16,143,016 in primary school money and the release today completed payments for the current fiscal year.

Tourists Head for France Undaunted by Crisis

LONDON (INS) — American and British tourists bound for France were undaunted today by the political crisis that threatens to erupt in civil war.

★ ★ ★

The American Express Company office in London reported "only one or two nervous people" asked about the advisability of not proceeding and "not even they canceled."

Tourist agencies and carriers said they did not have any emergency plans to cope with a flareup of trouble.

Even as French Premier Pierre Pflimlin warned of a "plot against the Republic order," British and European airways expanded its scheduled tourist flights to France.

"I've learned a lesson I'll never forget."

Hollywood Headlines

Gale Storm Recovering From Second TV Series

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Her many fans will be happy to know that Gale Storm is recovering from what she calls "second seriesitis."

Actually, Gale is recuperating after major abdominal surgery. But she attributes her health breakdown to the rigors of doing a second TV series. She made 126 "My Little Margies" and recently completed her 78th "Oh Susannah." Then came collapse.

★ ★ ★

But Gale is coming along fine now. She's her old bright and cheerful self, though she grumbles about being immobile for a while on doctor's orders.

"The rest is wonderful but I'd like to be able to do something — anything," she said. "I can't even pick up my baby yet."

She's not even thinking about going back to work. Renewal of her show is still in doubt, though it's rated a good chance to be back next year. The audience surveys have been holding up nicely, and the sponsors seem happy with the show.

★ ★ ★

"I haven't even thought about it," she remarked, "but I kinda hope the show will continue. I enjoy doing it, and I think it's a much more rounded series than 'Margie.'"

She'll take a long rest before resuming the show — if it is renewed. Her only commitment is to return a guest shot with Pat Boone in June. She and her husband Lee Bonnell may take their three boys to New York and then on to Jamaica. That second seriesitis is tough to cure.

Dognaper Asks Ransom for German Shepherd

DALLAS (AP)—Mrs. Julia Thompson told police a dognaper has her German shepherd and is asking $125 ransom. She said three weeks after the dog, Rex, was stolen she received a call demanding $100. Mrs. Thompson told officers someone left the animal's chain, dog tag and rabies tag at her front door as proof he had the dog.

Later she said, the price went up to $125 and the caller threatened to kill Rex if the money is not paid.

HORROR OF THE AGES!

Husbandless Blonde Bemoans Her Fate

BY EARL WILSON

HOLLYWOOD — Barbara Nichols stole the show on a recent Jack Benny "Shower of Stars" program—but before that, Jack was a little afraid to use her.

WILSON

"Barbara," Jack said after he'd first met the dumb-blonde TV and movie comedienne, "you'd be playing my girl friend—and I think you're too young to play my girl friend."

"Mr. Benny," retorted Barbara, "you don't know the age of some of the fellows I have to go out with!"

Barbara — who frequently moans, "I don't want to be a star, I just want to get married" — has been reduced to buying another boy dog, a French poodle named "Hi-Fi," for male companionship. "A dog is the only kind of a male a blonde can latch onto around this town," Barbara told me the other afternoon over a drink.

Barbara recently got $1,000 for one day's work doing a scene with Gary Cooper in "10 North Frederick." She worked with Red Skelton and other TV comics, and she tells all of them that it's just terrible the trouble a blonde has around Hollywood, getting a husband.

BARBARA

"The men in this town are so spoiled because the women call them up and ask for dates," she said. "Well, I got spoiled in New York—we never did that. Out here the guys expect it. They give the girls their phone numbers and say 'Call me up sometime.'"

While Barbara, the B.W. and I talked, several people — all male people — came to our table and congratulated her on her recent acting jobs. The consensus is, "Barbara Nichols is going to be a star."

"I don't care—I'm crazy to get married . . . I love kids," Barbara reiterated. "But I don't believe anybody takes blondes seriously. It's even difficult to get recognition as an actress if you're a blonde."

One trouble is that Barbara constantly plays naughty parts which conveys the impression that she's a wild woman. She does this so effectively that the men probably think she's carousing with a different wolf every night.

★ ★ ★

Actually she and her two boy friends—the dogs—are frequently home watching TV.

She plays one of these bawdy blondes in "The Naked and the Dead." "So," says Barbara, "there's another blonde part I play that'll make people think I'm not sincere. Maybe," she suggests, "they never think Im sincere because I'm not really a blonde."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP IN N. Y. . . .

Blind pianist George Shearing, still angry over his treatment on a recent TV show, ordered his agents not to book him on any more unless he can choose his own tunes. Singer Jane Morgan and J. P. Morgan are frequently mistaken for each other. When Jane was signed for a Texas cafe the owner said, "May I call you by your nickname—J. P.?"

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Nothing seems to sharpen a teenager's appetite more than eating.— Rob't Guiltman, Quote. . . . That's earl, brother.

Right Pew Shows Up to Act in Wrong Church

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Here's a case of the right Pew in the wrong church.

Actor James Pew went to St. Stephen's Episcopal Church for filming of a wedding scene for the "Father Knows Best" television show.

★ ★ ★

After a half hour delay an assistant director got Pew in the right pew at the First Presbyterian Church, up the block a piece, and the sequence was finally filmed.

They say a man has better judgment after he's been married a while—but it's too late by then. . . . You're a careful old-timer if you've made the merchandise outlast the payments.—Earl Wilson.

Harvey Gets 3 Hits as Tigers Drop 5-3 Game

Bengals Fall Into Tie for 5th After Setback at Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harvey Kuenn is waging a stirring battle for the American League batting lead. But the center fielder can't provide victory single-handedly for the Detroit Tigers.

Kuenn laced out a double and two singles in four at-bats last night while the Tigers were dropping their third straight 5-3 to Kansas City.

As Kuenn moved up to second in the batting race, the Bengals dropped to a tie for fifth in the standings. They're a half game behind the fourth-place Athletics and 6½ games behind the leading New York Yankees.

Kuenn hiked his batting average to a muscular .391, three points below Gil McDougald's fast pace. Kuenn's total of 43 hits is high in the league.

★ ★ ★

Manager Jack Tighe had one ray of hope after last night's disappointment. Veteran Herman Wehmeier looks like he's going to help Detroit's injury - riddled pitching staff.

Wehmeier made his American League debut after coming over from the St. Louis Cardinals a week ago.

The veteran right hander was unhittable until one was out in the fifth inning. He retired the first 13 Athletics. Then husky Bob Cerv blasted one of Wehmeier's offerings for a homer to up his total to 11. The blast cut a Tiger lead to 3-1.

★ ★ ★

Wehmeier rolled into the seventh without further difficulty. But the A's struck then, shelling Wehmeier and reliefer Tom Morgan for four runs. Morgan was tagged with the defeat.

The Tigers opened quickly, scoring single runs in the first, third and fifth against starter Ralph Terry.

Kuenn doubled Billy Martin home in the first and scored himself on Charlie Maxwell's single in the third. Frank Bolling accounted for the Tiger's final tally with his third home run in the fifth.

Tom Gorman was credited with the victory after relieving Terry in the seventh.

The Tigers meet the Athletics again tonight with Frank Lary (3-2) attempting to square the series. The A's are expected to counter with right-hander Jack Urgan (1-1). Detroit defeated Urban for the first time in his career at Briggs Stadium last Sunday.

Pierce Finally Gains First Win

SPORTS

Southpaw Gets Help as Chisox Top Tribe, 6-3

Yanks Stretch AL Lead to Five Full Games by Belting Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRES

The Chicago White Sox finally gave Billy Pierce some runs and their stubby southpaw ace, who won 55 the past three years, has his first victory of the season.

★ ★ ★

Even this one was tough for Pierce, who allowed only six hits, walked but three and struck out 10 for a 6-3 decision at Cleveland last night. Two of the hits were homers, but the other Indian run was unearned, and the Sox would not have made it except for five runs in the first — on four singles (one a bunt), two walks and two Injun errors.

It was the sixth victory in nine games for Chicago, but the Sox stayed in last place, 7½ games behind New York. The Yankees stretched their American League lead to five games over second-place Washington by belting the Senators 7-2.

★ ★ ★

Detroit blew a three-run lead and lost 5-3 at Kansas City. Baltimore and Boston were idled by rain.

The White Sox matched their run total in Pierce's three defeats in the first inning. And after they counted another in the second, they were through scoring for the night.

The Sox got their five on a bases-loaded walk, Mickey Vernon's error on Jim Rivera's bunt single and RBI singles from Bubba Phillips and Jim Landis. Don Ferrarese gave up all the runs for an 0-2 record.

★ ★ ★

Pierce had lost two to the Indians this season after beating them six times while gaining his second successive 20-victory year in 1957. He gave up homers to Bobby Avila, in the fifth, and Minnie Minoso in the eighth.

★ ★ ★

The Yankees, shut out on five hits Sunday by Camilo Pascual, trailed 1-0 and had but three hits off the Washington right-hander until the sixth. Then Gil McDougald's one-on homer capped a three-run rally after Hank Bauer had doubled and scored the tying run on Tony Kubek's single and a force out by Mickey Mantle. Whitey Ford won his third with an eight-hitter—his 11th straight victory over Washington since Sept. 20, 1954.

Meet Next Week at Purdue

Recruiting Policy May Be Relaxed by Big 10

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—The Big Ten meets next week to consider relaxing its recruiting policy, tightening admission standards for financed athletes and, informally at least, what Rose Bowl course to steer.

A round robin conference schedule again will be discussed.

Conference officials will gather at Purdue University Thursday and Friday in connection with the Big Ten outdoor track championships next weekend.

A special committee will recommend to athletic directors and the policy-making faculty representatives that the Big Ten permit one expense-paid campus visit by a prospective athlete and that conference coaches be allowed to interview prep stars off campus, if invited.

★ ★ ★

Both practices are permitted by the NCAA. The Big Ten presently bars off - campus interviews and requires visitation expenses be limited to meals and lodging on the campus.

League officials also will consider a proposal to limit financial aid for athletes to applicants in the upper two-thirds of their high school classes.

At present, any prep athlete eligible for college can get financial aid on the basis of need. Some schools feel high school lads in the lower third of their graduating classes are poor academic risks, with a 50-50 chance of failing to finish their sophomore year in college.

★ ★ ★

This also makes them poor risks in the Big Ten's new and controversial financial aid program under which a cutback from 100 to 75 aid tenders per school was tentatively approved last March.

TIMBER TOPPER—One of the state's top hurdlers, and a thorn in the side of area timber-toppers, is Farmington's Warren Cawley (above). Cawley's latest exploits were double wins at Albion Invitation and Monroe Relays. He hit 14.8 and 20.2 at Albion, 14.6 in highs at Monroe for 3 records, same day). He tangles again with PCH's Danny Sowell, Saturday, at Ypsi regional.

CAN'T DO IT ALONE — Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants belted a three-run homer on his helfty swing to launch an apparent victory and then in the 9th inning made a throw from centerfield to the plate which cut off what proved to be the Cubs' winning run but rookie catcher Bob Schmidt dropped the ball. Chicago won, 6-5. Catcher here is Sam Taylor.

Musial, Jones Spark Cards

The Associated Press

While the kids have stumbled, Sad Sam Jones, the oldest starter on the staff, has caught fire to keep the St. Louis Cardinals on the go in their belated about-face in the National League pennant race.

★ ★ ★

It was Jones, a 32-year-old right-hander, who ended the Cards' losing streak at seven a week ago. And it was Sam who last night stopped the possibility of another slump with a six-hitter that beat Los Angeles 2-0, with the helpt of Stan Musial's two-run homer.

It was the first Cardinal shutout of the year, and gave Jones his third straight victory for a 3-3 record. He walked but two, struck out nine while becoming the first St. Louis pitcher to get two complete-game victories.

Milwaukee retained first place, although stopped by rain at Cincinnati. The Chicago Cubs clipped second-place San Francisco 6-5, and Philadelphia knocked off third place Pittsburgh 8-2.

★ ★ ★

Musial's seventh homer bxroke up a neat duel between Jones and southpaw Johnny Podres in the sixth. Podres, 4-2 after winning his first four, had a two-hit shutout until Eddie Kasko led off with a double in the sixth. Then came the poke by Musial, who had been 0-for-6 and now leads the league with a .474 average.

It was the eighth victory in nine games the Cardinals, who had but five hits, The Dodgers, in last place after losing seven of eight, twice saw runners nailed at the plate, and another trapped off third by the Card defense.

★ ★ ★

Left-hander Curt Simmons, beaten 1-0 by the Pirates and Bob Porterfield despite an 11-inning six-hitter last Sunday, got home run support for last night's six-hit job against the Bucs' and Porterfield as he gained a 4-3 record.

★ ★ ★

Harry Anderson lined a two-run, inside-the-park homer in the first, and Stan Lopata bxelted a solo homer in the second against Porterfield, now 1-1 in two NL starts after being sold by the Boston Red Sox. The Phils got two more in the third on Rip Repulski's triple. Simmons walked none, struck out nine while Bill Mazeroski's single and sacrifice fly drove in both runs for the Pirates, who were without slugging Ted Kluszewski, sidelined again by back trouble.

★ ★ ★

A single by Lee Walls scored the clincher in a two-run ninth for the Cubs as Don Elston picked up a 5-0 record, all in relief. Willie Mays' two-on homer, his 10th and eighth in seven games, triggered a five-run ggiants' sixth after Dale Long had doubled and homered for a 2-0 Cub lead. Ray Crone lost it in relief.

Mays and teammate Daryl Spencer now have 28 RBIs each, tops in the NL.

Buhl Has Arm Checked

CINCINNATI (AP) — Milwaukee Brave's fastball right-hander Bob Buhl was dispatched to Milwaukee last night to have a sore arm examined.

Skippers, Jays I-L Winners

Waterford handed Walled Lake its 8th straight setback and Southfield just about wrecked Farmington's hopes for at least gaining a share of the Inter-Lakes title in baseball play yesterday.

New Haven matched Brown City's 4-0 record by whipping Memphis 11-6 and Birmingham won the Eastern Michigan reserve track meet for the 4th straight year in other area events.

Waterford had little trouble winning its 4th, 8-0. Bob Filar walloped a two-out 7th inning home run to give Farmington a 2-1 verdict. He also scored the 1st marker. Southfield had tied the count in its half of the final frame.

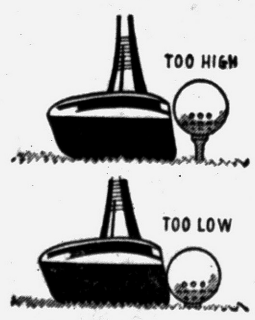

Nat Petty slammed three hits, one a triple, for New Haven. The Southern Thumb leaders tangle in a showdown Monday. Birmingham scored 53½ points, East Detroit 43½ and Ferndale 35 5/6 as the track leaders. Dan Reid of the Maples set a mile record in 5:01.4.

Doctoring Your Golf

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

Patient's Compaint: Off-center Hits on Drives
Diagnosis: Could Be Your Teeing Technique

TREATMENT: Teeing the ball at the proper height for tee shots with the driver is easily done—and is extremely helpful. The idea is to tee the ball high enough to get all of the clubface on the ball without the clubhead's scraping the ground, yet low enough to keep the clubhead from sliding under the ball.

That's all there is to it. When you tee the ball too low, you make it hard for yourself to deliver a clean, solid blow. The ground is, to some extent, in your way. Also, teeing the ball too low will cause you to hit down on the ball with your driver. This isn't what you want at all. You want to hit the ball a clean, sweeping blow.

Teeing the ball too high also adds to the difficulty of hitting the ball solid. You see the ball sitting way up there and you recognize the danger of hitting all the way under it.

With the ball teed at the proper height, the ground gives you a safety factor—an added margin for error. The ground will keep the clubhead from going all the way under the ball.

Use some care in this. It only takes a second to tee the ball right.

Walker, Jones Get New Jobs in State Body

LANSING (AP)—In a shift of top level administrative operations, state conservation director Gerald E. Eddy today announced appointment of two deputy directors of the conservation department.

Gaylord A. Walker, 59, assistant deputy director, was moved up to chief deputy director. Basically, he will fulfill the duties of Wayland S. Osgood, former deputy director, who died of a heart attack last month.

Named to the newly-created post of deputy director in charge of field operations was L. N. (Casey) Jones, a 23-year veteran of the department who is now head of the engineering and architecture section.

Although its approval was not required, the state conservation commission gave both appointments unanimous endorsement.

Aussie Miler Sets World Record

Elliott Beats Landy's Time in LA Relays

His Effort of 3:57.8 May Not Be Recognized by Amateur Federation

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Herb Elliott the wonder from Down under, has a world record mile run in the hopper today but there's some doubt that he'll ever get it in the books.

★ ★ ★

The slender young Australian ran the distance in a stunning 3:57.8 in the Coliseum Relays last night, beating the recognized world record held by fellow Aussie John Landy by two-tenths of a second.

★ ★ ★

But there was grave suspicion that the International Athletic Amateur Federation might cast a skeptical eye at Elliott's magnificent performance because of the pacesetting job done by an unheralded Texas runner, Drew Dunlap.

★ ★ ★

Dunlap, not even listed on the official program, jogged into the lead at the start and stayed there until just after the half-mile point—when he suddenly stepped out of the race.

Track experts said they were astonished that officials should even think of submitting Elliott's time for consideration.

But the meet referee, Larry Mouston, implied that's what will be done.

And Percy Ceruty, Elliott's coach, said firmly that his 20-year-old student's record should be sanctioned.

The 18th running of the relays produced another world record in a less celebrated event, the two-mile relay. California's team of Maynard Orme, Jerry Siebert, Jack Yerman and Don Bowden turned the trick with a time of 7:20.9.

★ ★ ★

Michigan State, which ran second in 7:21.4, also improved on the old record, 7:22.8, set by Occidental in 1957.

In the two-mile run, Alex Henderson, an Australian running for Arizona State at Tempe, established a new American record by scoring a wire-to-wire victory in 8:47.9. The performance bettered Horace Ashenfelter's old American record of 8:49.6, set when the former Penn ace was running for the New York athletic Club in 1955.

★ ★ ★

Two Olympic champions, Bobby Morrow and Charlie Dumas, were beaten.

Morrow ran second in the 100-yard dash to Ray Norton of San Jose State, who was timed in 9.7 on a slow grass track. It was the 22nd consecutive spring victory for Norton and his 14th straight in the 100.

Morrow, teamed with his mates from Abilene Christian for victories in the 440 and 880-yard relays.

★ ★ ★

Dumas, of Southern California, was defeated in the high jump for the first time since 1955, Bertil Holmgren of Southern Methodist won the event with a leap of 6 feet, 8¼ inches. Dumas reached 6-6¼.

Parry O'Brien, who holds the world shot put record of 63 feet, 2 inches, won his event with a heave of 61-1.

'Big Three' Clash Again in Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Tim Tam, Jewel's Reward and Silky Sullivan, the so-called big three of the Kentucky Derby, meet again along with nine others in the 82nd Preakness today.

★ ★ ★

Before the sun dips behind the ancient Pimlico grandstand some mighty big questions will have been answered. Silky, the big Derby bust, has the toughest task of them all.

With 12 going postward in the colorful Maryland 3-year-old classic, the Calumet Farm's Derby hero — Tim Tam — remains the 6-5 favorite to add the Preakness loot to his Louisville winings May 3. Tim Tam got away with $116,400 at Churchill Downs, second highest in Derby history.

If a dozen face the starter at 4:45 p.m., EST, it will be the largest field since 18 battled it out 30 years ago. It also will be the second richest in the history of the Preakness which dates back to 1873. The gross purse of $133,950 is second only to the $140,510 in 1954 when Hasty Road collected $91,600.

A victory by any but Noureddin and Lincoln Road would net the fortunate owner $97,900. The richest take-home pay for the $98,005 hauled down in 1947 by Faultless, one of five Calumet Preakness winners. Crabgrass Stable's Noureddin and Sunny Blue Farm's Lincoln Road were supplementary nominees at $7,500 each and their net would be $90,450.

With fair weather and a temperature near 80 forecast, Pimlico looks for 35,000 to jam the old stands and swarm over into the infield. For TV watchers and radio listeners, the hallowed mile and three-sixteenths race will go on the nationwide, CBS, network 4:30-5 p.m., EST.

Others who will go after the black-eyed Susans, the big jackpot, and the famed Woodlawn vase are the Llangollen Farm's Gone Fishin', Ada L. Rice's Talent Show, Edward J. Potter Jr.'s Plion, Mrs. Anthony Cannuli's Chance It Tony, the Powhatan Stable's Michore, and Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis' Martins Rullah.

Mayor Will Throw First Pitch

City Baseball Opens Sunday

Pontiac's 1958 Class A City League baseball season officially gets under way Sunday afternoon at Wisner Field with a pre-game ceremony in the offing to inaugurate the new year.

Mayor William W. Donaldson will be on hand to deliver the first pitch and John Abel, president of the Pontiac Baseball Federation, will act as his battery mate.

Tomorrow's opening contest sends "Our Jets," managed by Eugene Cox, against CIO Local 594, piloted by Art Hearns. Game time is 2 p.m.

Members of the Pontiac Baseball Federation will be present to collect a small fee from spectators in an extra special effort to start the league on its way to a banner season. Children under 12 are admitted free.

Griff's Grill and Shaw's Jewelers, the other members of the four-team loop, clash next Tuesday on the Wisner diamond at 5:30 p.m. Shaw's is the defending city champion.

Class B teams begin pre-season competition Monday at Jaycee Park. There is a strong indication that six clubs will participate in the "B" division this year.

It is the hope of the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department that the Class B League will serve as a stepping stone to Class A competition in the years ahead.

Girls Start Softball Play Sunday Night

Women's City League softball starts Sunday night with a pair of games at North Side Park. Costello Excavating meets Michigan Bell at 7 o'clock and the All-Stars face Commerce Drive-In at 8:30.

Since only four teams are registered to date, games will be limited to Sunday evenings for the next three weeks to give other clubs a chance to enter. Teams desiring entry should contact John Streit of the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department.

Additional women's league games are scheduled May 25 and June 1. Exhibitions will be held on weekdays for the purpose of experimenting with a slow-pitch variety of softball.

The comeback story of the 1958 area prep season involves 18-year-old Capac High four-sport star Renaldo "Ray" Villasenor, Jr.

He lost his right eye in a baseball game accident on May 5 yet a week later he was back in school and is now on the team again as a base coach with great hopes for the future.

"I'm ready to go again. I think that I will be o.k. I hope to play all sports again next year. My doctor has told me I will be able to play and I think my father will agree," said the spunky lad when contacted.

Ray, who foul-tipped a pitch which shattered his glasses and drove fragments into his eye, holds no bitterness for baseball or his injury. "It was just one of those things that happens," he feels.

Everyone around the Southern Thumb town has been amazed at the boy's courage and anxious to help his cause. The Lions Club will provide Villasenor with a glass eye in the near future. His class has already held a benefit dance and a varsity-faculty game will be played to raise more funds to help pay his hospital bills.

Capac's baseball fortunes have dropped since the accident. "Ray was our only good pitcher and the top hitter at .583," explains coach Don Smith. He was also doubling in track.

Van Huizens Expand Temporary Quarters

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Fifteen years in a breezeway! And all because Richard Van Huizen objects to paying rent. But this is ended now and the Van Huizens have a pleasant new home on their wooded lot.

★ ★ ★

When they were married 18 years ago, they lived in an apartment just long enough for Mr. Van Huizen to erect the garage and breezeway that was to be their temporary home. They bought about an acre of land near Williams Lake on Paulsen street. It is wooded, has a canal running through the back part and has good soil for gardening.

As all remember, the war came along about this time. That stopped building plans for a great many people. The Van Huizens had a baby daughter, Kay, and continued to live in their cramped quarters.

It wasn't until June of 1956, fifteen years to the day that they had moved into the garage, that they moved into their five-room house. The living room wasn't completed for another six months, but they had space to spread out.

All the Van Huizens are tall. Because of this they planned their kitchen and bathrooms with care. Cupboards and working spaces are higher than average. Sinks in the bathrooms have extra long legs on them.

FAMILY PLANS

Mrs. Van Huizen says her brother, who's a "frustrated architect" drew the plans for their house. With the exception of the basement and fireplace, Mr. Van Huizen did all the building. He had an experienced carpenter help him with some of the finishing details.

Most people enter the house through the breezeway, once the Van Huizen living room. This has a tiled floor and window walls on both east and west. Two steps up and you're in the kitchen.

Three windows at the front of the house make it a sunny room in the afternoon. The family eats in this area on a plastic top blonde table. Chairs are upholstered in avocado green with dark green backs. In one corner there is a blond buffet with a glassed-in top.

The sink is on the opposite side of the room. But thanks to the ingenious placing of a mirror over it, Mrs. Van Huizen can see anything that's happening in the front yard and on the road. This is a good idea for anyone to copy who is tired of facing a blank wall while doing the dishes.

Dark green squares are set into the mottled green tile floor. The walls are pale yellow. Behind the stove is deep rusty rose tile.

The birch cabinets have matched fronts and copper hardware. Formica counter tops are green. The curtains are deep green with a leaf print.

There's a minute square entrance hall between the kitchen and living room. The stairs go up from here. On the living room side of the stairwell Mr. Van Huizen built a Philippine mahogany bookcase with closed storage below.

Walls except around the front windows are painted beige. The room has three exposures with Venetian blinds and floor length beige draperies at all the windows. The carpeting is turquoise and beige in a diamond design.

Emerald, lemon and turquoise pillows brighten up the chocolate color sectional sofa. In front of it is a triangular walnut coffee table. The walls around the sofa are paneled in squares of Philippine mahogany.

SHE HAS GREEN THUMB

Near the rear windows is a walnut spinet piano. There is a pair of basket chairs and one tapestried covered loung chair. Mrs. Van Huizen grows a profusion of African violets in the south window.

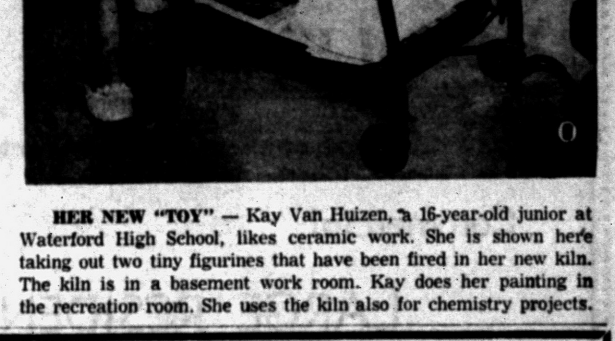

Behind the kitchen is a small den which could be a third bedroom. It has ample closet space. Walls match the living room. The floor is polished oak. This is the television room.

Cokie, the family Pomeranian, has her basket here. We expressed surprise that a family which thought tall in so many ways chose a tiny dog. Mrs. Van Huizen explained that Cokie was acquired while they still lived in the garage-breezeway and there wasn't room for a big dog!

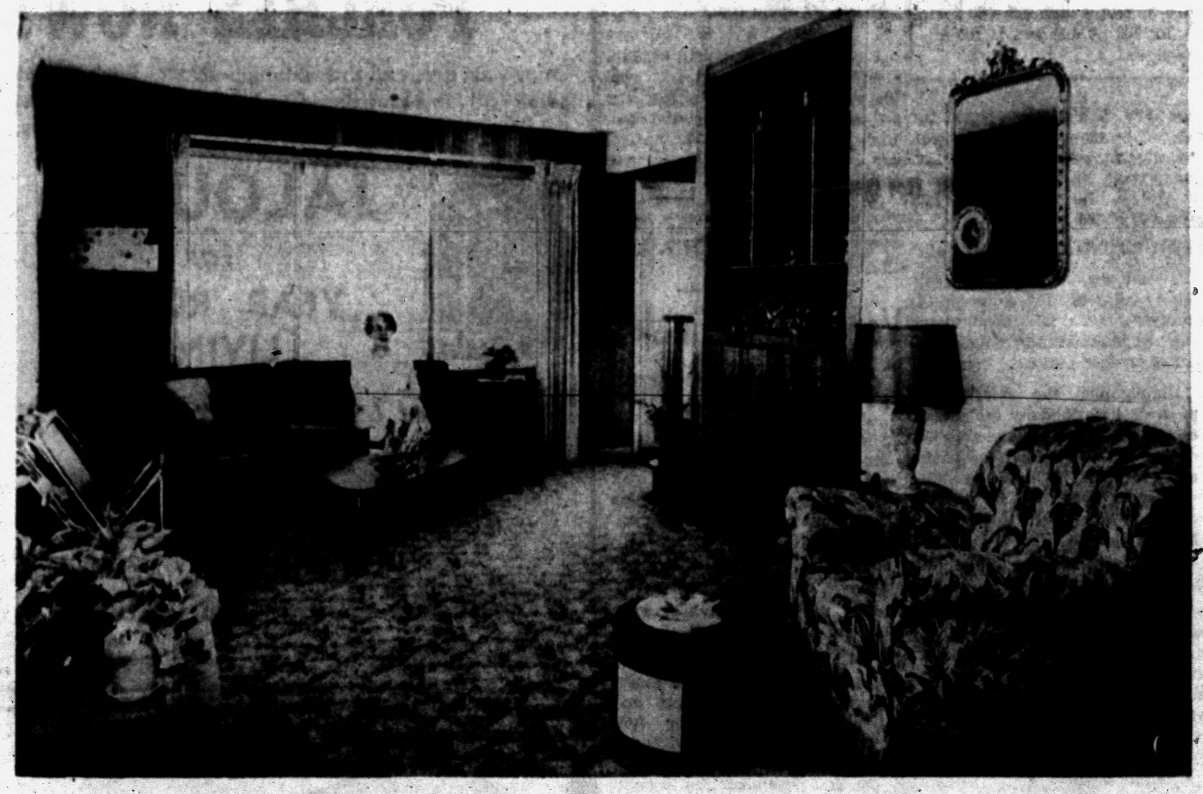

Upstairs there are two bedrooms running the length of the

HER NEW "TOY" — Kay Van Huizen, a 16-year-old junior at Waterford High School, likes ceramic work. She is shown here taking out two tiny figurines that have been fired in her new kiln. The kiln is in a basement work room. Kay does her painting in the recreation room. She uses the kiln also for chemistry projects.

LONG LIVING ROOM — The Van Huizen living room has windows on east, south and west. Venetian blinds and floor-length draperies control the sun. Philippine mahogany was used to build the book cases and cabinets at the right, as well as to panel the wall around the sofa. The rest of the walls are beige. Carpeting is beige and turquoise. Mrs. Van Huizen relaxes on the chocolate covered sofa.

PET SANCTUARY — The stuffed dogs were willing to pose, but the Van Huizen's Pomeranian hid under the sofa and sulked when we wanted her picture. Kay's room is an orchid and white room. She has built-in bookcases and storage next to the sliding door closet at the right. The polished oak floor is bare except for scatter rugs.

SUPER RANCH HOME — Two brick veneer panels add interest to the exterior and lend solidity to the house. The left panel, fronting the bedroom wing, extends and thickens beyond the end of the house.

LOOK AT THE CONVENIENCES — A multitude of modern conveniences is shown in this floor plan. The items are not structural parts of the house and may be utilized or eliminated at the option of the owner.

Miracle Devices Make This Ranch Life Easier

By JOHN O. B. WALLACE

If it's been invented for the home, this miracle ranch house has it! The ultra modern devices built into it range from single lever water controls to a self-operating garage door which opens and closes electronically.

Designed to appeal to gadget-loving Americans, there is hardly a room in the house that does not have some appliance or convenience to make life a bit easier.

No oddity, the house is the work of an architect noted for skillful arrangement of space. It was created exclusively for the House of The Week series, and designated X-6.

The architect has included a variety of modern conveniences throughout the house to make for more living comfort. But they are not structural parts of the house and may be utilized or eliminated at the option of the owner.

From the minute you drive into the garage until you are seated in the living room for a relaxing drink at the end of a hard day, the house and its miracle devices work together to create a happy, carefree setting.

For the cold-weather areas of the country, the walk and driveway are heated by pipes for immediate snow and ice removal. For the hot summer months, the roof is built up with marble chip to reflect the heat away and keep the house cooler.

YEAR ROUND COMFORT

For all regions, there is year-round comfort in a complete summer-winter air conditioning unit. An intercommunications system is another feature.

Highlighting the interior is an area described by the architect as an "optional use activity core." This area has four parts and is located between the master bedroom and the family room. As Architect Rudolph A. Matern explains it:

"These four areas, which take up very little room for what they provide, may be closed off completely by folding screens. They may be used for those items listed in the floor plan or for any and all other required by the home owner. They also may be left out completely, using this space to enlarge the master bedroom and the family room."

The family room itself has optional uses. It is separated from the kitchen by shutter doors and has a folding partition at the front. With the shutter doors closed and the folding partition used, the family room can double as a fourth bedroom.

In listing the devices incorporated in his plan, the architect emphasizes that the house could be built without most of them. They may be added later one at a time.

Some of the devices:

A hi-fi music center, located in the hall with speakers installed in various rooms.

ELECTRIC KITCHEN UNIT

A central vacuum system with outlets at various points.

Ceiling panel lighting in the bedroom hall. This gives a modern decorative touch and softly illuminates this area.

An electric counter unit in the kitchen. This versatile device has several parts that are placed into a motor receptacle for immediate blending, chopping, mixing, knife sharpening, et cetara.

★ ★ ★

An auxiliary generator in the garage for emergency periods when electric power fails.

Rheostat lighting, which controls brightness by varying degrees.

Shoji screens in the living room. They may be extended across the bow window for a new interior effect with screened light coming through. When open, they serve as drapes at either side of the window.

Other features include built-in desk nooks, a serve-through window from the kitchen to a rear covered porch, two separate surface cooking units in the kitchen. There are liquid soap dispensers in all bathrooms and the kitchen, glass fireplace screens which slide open and shut and telephone jacks in all main rooms.

★ ★ ★

A residential fire alarm system, electric garbage disposal, continuous electric outlet strips, and an all-purpose unit in the hall bath which includes a heater, fan, light and hair dryer are other features.

house, each with double exposure. Floors are polished oak with scatter rugs. Both rooms have built-in furniture.

In the Van Huizens' room the built-in is a chest of drawers next to the closet. In Kay's room it is a bookcase. The parents' room is yellow; the daughter's orchid.

Kay has twin beds with morning-glory print spreads and matching curtains. Her functional desk is a plywood board on wrought iron legs.

In the basement the recreation room has a fireplace. In the room at the foot of the stairs is the freezer and Kay's kiln. She is interested in ceramics and has recently completed a chemistry project for an under glaze paint.

Tiled Ceilings Cut Job of Keeping Rooms Clean

By International News Service

Plastic wall tile can decorate your ceiling as well as the walls.

That is the latest trend with housewives who want easy-to-clean bathrooms and kitchens. It takes only a few more feet of tile to continue the wall covering up over the ceiling, and this can eliminate dusty or discolored ceilings.

Home Craftsmen Like K-D Cabinets

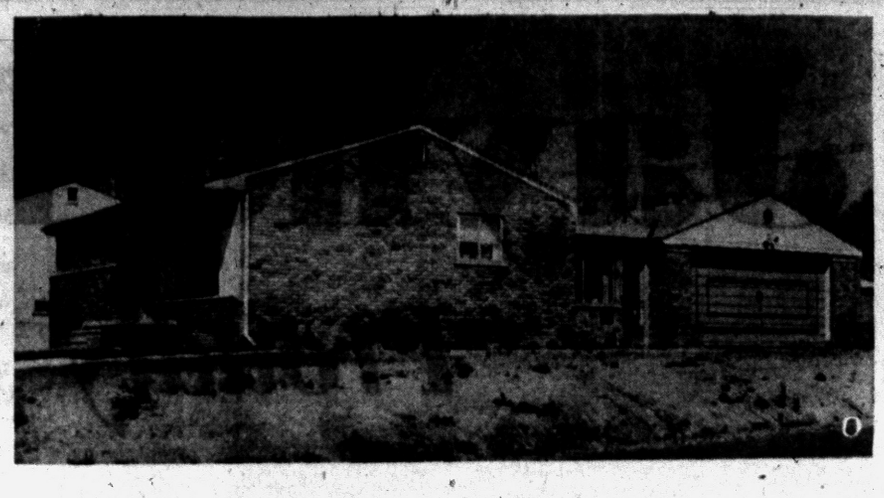

Many thrifty and imaginative home-owners are solving their storage and furniture problems with cabinets of ponderosa pine.

The wide variety of styles and sizes available as stock units from building material dealers makes it possible to build anything from a storage wall to a hi-fidelity cabinet.

Most of the cabinets come "K-D"—knocked down — and can be quickly assembled with a hammer and screwdriver.

Heat Can Go Anywhere

That rambling ranch type house or the tricky split-level offers no insoluble problem for a modern hot water heating system. By setting up two separate zones, a heating contractor can provide perfect temperature control for the two areas, even if the split-level may have some rooms below grade.

ADDED SPACE — Shortly after the John Phillips moved into their new home on Loberta lane they had a 12x12 breezeway and a double garage built on the rear of the house. Midwest Supply Company constructed the brick addition to match the rest of the house. The Phillips are pleased with the extra space it gives them.

Toys 'n' Tools Fine When Put on Peg Board

TNT, an abbreviation for Toys 'n Tools, can have an explosive meaning, too, if Dad and the kids don't put them away after using. Wagons, roller skates, tricycles and other playthings can cause mishaps if left on a sidewalk or lawn.

Tools used by the man of the house for keeping the yard and garden in shape have a habit of disappearing or rusting if left outdoors. Stacked in a corner of a garage, they're disorganized and often uncared for.

★ ★ ★

A large number of families have found the garage an ideal storage place for TNT — Toys 'n Tools — providing they take some simple steps to keep these items off the floor and in an organized system of storage. They've found the installation of ¼" Peg-Board panels right over the wall studs gives them handy, organized, space-saving storage for everything from a coaster wagon to a wheelbarrow.

Supported on metal hooks and fixtures, these implements of play and gardening can be spotted immediately when needed and later restored to their places of storage so they won't be lost or cluttering up the garage floor.

These versatile perforated panels, available at lumber yards, may be installed from wall to ceiling or in the upper areas. In such cases, for the sake of appearance, the wainscot should be covered with ¼" tempered hardboard panels. Uncovered studs in a garage, at best, are unsightly. As a home improvement project, the lining of a garage interior with Peg-Board and hardboard will do much toward bettering its appearance and function.

★ ★ ★

Many home owners, of course, don't stop with storage for Toys and Tools. They find Peg-Board panels an excellent spot for storing heavy items such as paint cans and lumber. Brackets and shelves fit nicely to solve that sort of problem.

Careful Planning Essential in Modernization

Before you plan any modernization work, plan your project carefully. Get a tape measure, a ruler and some ¼-inch square paper. Measure the rooms you plan to alter and draw their outlines on the squared paper allowing ¼-inch for each foot.

Beware of high pressure operators who travel from town to town and travel fast. Get your advice from established local dealers. Talk to your banker about arranging easy payment terms. And don't bite off too much of a job at one time.

If your plans begin to indicate costs beyond your reach—and most plans always do — don't compromise on substitute cheaper materials. Some of the best home remodeling jobs have been carried out in stages.

Supposing you are planning a modern kitchen—one of the most popular of all home improvements—and you find it is going to cost too much. Put first things first and remember that appliances can be bought one at a time.

By spreading out such purchases and getting along temporarily with the best of the present equipment, you'll have a more up-to-date kitchen in the end. New models in appliances are always coming out.

The basic tasks to be undertaken first are any necessary changes in windows, installation of a new sink — if planned—base cabinets and a modern floor.

Character Will Show

An attractively painted house means that its occupants are good citizens who have pride enough in their neighborhood to do their part in keeping it neat and attractive. You can rest assured that a house showing a well-painted exterior will have an equally well-painted interior. Such a combination is the expression of orderly minds.

A gooey soap dish greets most family members each day. And when dried, the dish contains flaky, unsightly crusts. One way to avoid this is to line the dish with waxed paper. It cuts down on film and on cleaning time, too.

Group Tours Home Factory

National Homes' New Prefabricated House Open at Judah Lake

Four area residents flew to Lafayette, Indiana, Tuesday to tour the factory where National Homes, Inc. makes its pre-fabricated houses. Mrs. Margaret Stephen, Lake Orion Township clerk, Mrs. Jessie Mueller and Harold Maphis, Lake Orion Building Inspector, accompanied by Glen Smith of the Press made the trip in the company's private plane.

After a morning spent in the factory and luncheon with company officials, Dave Peffer, N.E. Regional Manager, Anson McAdams, Sales Vice President and Al Hibbell, of Public Relations, the group visited individual pre-fab homes in the Layfayette area.

They saw also the experimental building National Homes is doing there. Their final stop before taking off from Purdue University Airport was at the pre-fabricated home of company president, James Price.

Mr. Peffer is in Pontiac this weekend to be present at the opening of National Homes' newest model at Judah Lake Estates. Known as the Fairlane, this model is in the colonial style and sells for $8990, and up. Price includes house and lot.

Three bedrooms, a living room and a kitchen-family room are features of the latest model. In the Youngstown kitchens there are Formica counter tops and double sinks.

Buyers have a choice of five exteriors with both FHA and GI terms available. The subdivision has its own water system. Located three miles north of Pontiac on Joslyn road, the Fairlane is open daily from 1:00 p.m. to dark.

The Dlorah Building Company of Pontiac did the construction work. Jack Thornton is the local representative of the company.

Spot Mistakes in Construction Before Buying

The prerequisites of a soundly built house are not always readily visible, but are musts in good construction. Here are some of the items prospective home buyers should check:

1. Check, wherever possible, the reputation of the builder. A reputable builder will use only quality materials, such as real ceramic tile in kitchens and baths.

★ ★ ★

2. Take a good look at the home site. Be sure that drainage is away from the structure, to avoid a damp basement in the future. A ground with a sand or gravel base is the best to avoid excessive moisture.

3. Every stud should be straight-edged so there will be no bulging walls and they should be securely nailed in position. Hence a home buyer is ahead if he can check construction features while the home is being built.

4. Don't wait for a cold winter to find out if the heating unit has sufficient capacity to heat the entire home, including a basement recreation room. The unit's rated capacity should be checked against the total house area.

★ ★ ★

5. Copper tubing should be used throughout the plumbing system for both heat lines and water lines.

Simple Car Top Carrier

To haul plywood panels and other big pieces home from the lumberyard, try this trick: Put folded pads of cloth on your car roof and lay the lumber on top of them. Now tighten two or three C-clamps onto the lumber. The clamps will not only hold the pieces together, if there are more than one; they will also provide eyes through which you can tie ropes to hold the lumber down.

Milk Products Damage Some Finished Surfaces

If someone spills milk on your well kept floor, don't cry over it, wipe it up immediately. If liquid milk products are allowed to remain on a lacquered or varnished surface any length of time permanent damage can result.

An easy-to-use product which comes packaged in a tube can be used to remove such stains. Squeeze a little on a clean soft cloth folded into a pad and apply to the stain. Let it stand a minute then rub with the grain of the wood.

Shingles Hold Fast

Surveys of hurricane and tornado-damaged areas have shown that wind-resistant applications of asphalt shingles have remained firmly in place even when houses were lifted off their foundations by the wind, or entire roof assemblies blown down.

Frosted glass shower enclosures are becoming more popular in America, reports the Plumbing Fixture Manufacturers Association. They add beauty and guarantee maximum comfort by preventing any water from splashing out of the tub.

"Peg-Board" panels in the garage will get lawnmower, garden tools and assorted "junk" off the floor and out of the way.

Cement Base Paint Checks Discoloring

Many homes are being attacked by "efflorescence," shaling and discoloration of the brick, which is caused by wind-driven rain, moisture and salts expanding and contracting during temperature changes.

★ ★ ★

A home has "efflorescence" if white marks have appeared on the bricks, or if sections of the wall or chimney have started to chip and scale.

★ ★ ★

"Efflorescence" — which ruins both the appearance and the condition of the house — may be checked by applying a coat or two of cement-base paint.

★ ★ ★

Cement-base paint bonds itself to the brick and mortar. It forms a waterproof shield and preserves a wall or chimney from wind-driven moisture and particles of sand which tear into the brick.

Architect Saves Money, Ups Family Pleasures

The first job of an architect is to understand what you have in mind for your home so he can suggest ideas that will match your house to your hobbies, your children, and you.

If you are considering an older house, he examines it for structural soundness, plan convenience, neighborhood values, potential worth, and schools.

★ ★ ★

If you're going to build a new house, but don't know where, he'll help you choose a suitable lot to fit the size and type of house you're planning, and your budget. If your lot's already chosen, he'll visit the property to determine the local conditions first hand; orientation, grade, breeze, view, excavation conditions, and any special considerations.

★ ★ ★

Next, your architect develops rough sketches and final working drawings, which he thoroughly discusses with you. Then, a group of builders, selected by you and the architect, bid on the plans and specifications. The architect helps you choose the builder who will give the most performance for the lowest price.

The architect then follows construction progress very closely, keeps builder payment records and guarantees.

★ ★ ★

An architect will save you money in increased value of your home, not only in dollars but in more family pleasure.

Low Grade Lumber Has Certain Uses

Common lumber is used for construction. It often has many blemishes and defects. Top grades of common lumber are "1" and "2." What defects there are do not affect the soundness of the material.

★ ★ ★

Knots are small and sound and, except for them, No. 1 is comparable to "D Select" stock.

★ ★ ★

Grades 3, 4 and 5 have coarse defects which affect the soundness of the wood. Such defects are open knots and splits, which must be cut out. No. 3 is usable; No. 4 is about the poorest you're likely to bother with.

Older House May Be Best

The older home can be a wise buy for the young couple investigating home ownership.

Often, the young couple finds that older homes offer more spaciousness for less money—although many such homes are "old fashioned" in their decorating.

★ ★ ★

But, the money saved on an older home can be invested wisely in a redecorating job that will transform a large, older residence into a large, modern home — and still save money.

A 20-year-old home might be purchased for less than $15,000, while a new home, with equal accommodations and modern decorating, could cost almost twice that amount. Remodeling can make the older home as attractive as the new—and it would cost far less than the $10,000 to $15,000 difference.

★ ★ ★

The "do-it-yourself" homeowner can save considerably by doing the easier jobs—such as painting and minor carpentry. He can secure competent help in more extensive remodeling from local builders, kitchen fabricators and remodeling specialists.

★ ★ ★

He can transform his $15,000 home into a $30,000 home by easy stages—by doing one room at a time — as the money becomes available for each job.

★ ★ ★

Don't overlook that older home when you are shopping for a new residence. A little imagination and good planning can make it into a dream house every bit as lovely as a brand-new home—and for less money.

All About Men . . . Chapter Six

Get Yourself a Working Dame

By JOSEPH H. PECK, M. D.

Before she says "I do," give her a hint of the real you.

While courting her, you won't let her light her cigarette, and you sit patiently in the parlor while she puts the finishing touches on her makeup.

★ ★ ★

After you are hitched, what? Will you expect her to take all your nagging, mow the lawn, shovel snow and wash the windows on the outside?

★ ★ ★

Give her a hint beforehand if you intend to come home at night, flop into a chair, and in the same breath demand your slippers, a drink and the evening paper, and snarl if dinner isn't ready.

Let her know that you expect her to look like a Powers model on a pittance, and that you will let her light her own smokes and open the car door.

BEWARE OF THE TEARS.

Also, when ordering dinner on a night out, disregard her wishes and make her eat beans and drink beer.

KEEP BARGAINING POSITION

Don't promise to break too many of your bad habits, and don't drool that you will give up some of your pet pleasures if she asks you to do so before marriage.

★ ★ ★

Why not keep some wampum in reserve for bargaining purposes? Anyway, any promises you make now may not last after your first fight.

All women will try to make you over into their ideal of a Prince Charming, but if the missionary spirit overpowers your flame before marriage, and she mentions some of the bad habits she intends to uproot, be forewarned.

Pick a gal with grown brothers, if possible. She will be less likely to expect too much.

Have a fight with her while you're a-courting. If she kicks you in the shins or bops you on the chin, all is well.

★ ★ ★

Anybody enjoys a good clean fight, but a dame who weeps and wonders how you can be so cruel is poison. Also shun the dame who will never be satisfied until she makes you feel like a heel, regardless of who is right.

FOOTNOTE FOR CLINGING VINES

Does your crush get a little high in a gin mill? Women go overboard worse than men once they pick up men's bad habits. You don't want both parents of your kids to be souses.

★ ★ ★

Just remember that it is further from 40 to 70 than from 20 to 40, although it may not seem so long.

★ ★ ★

And each year, weighted with the burden of doleful domesticity, will seem much longer than it is. When Einstein was asked to define in simple terms his theory of relativity, he said:

"If you sat on a hot stove, five minutes would seem like an hour, but if you sat next to your girl friend, an hour would seem like five minutes."

If you are the type attracted by such superficial things as a nice pair of blue eyes or a shapely figure, may the good Lord have mercy on you, and may none of your children wish they had been miscarriages.

And of course if you are a peavine looking for a pole, get yourself a dame who can make a good living. Then you can vacuum the rugs, make the casserole, don an apron, wash the dishes and buy a dust cap that matches the shade of your eyes.

HAROLD STASSEN

Strong Fighter in Pennsylvania

Stassen, Underdog in Bid for Governorship, Confident as Ever

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Harold Stassen, a controversial figure in American politics for many years, is in the thick of the fray again. This time he is out as an independent to become governor of Pennsylvania. He is waging a strong underdog fight.

Stassen was 31, a fluent, aggressive, boy wonder type when he was elected governor of his native Minnesota 20 years ago. His good record earned him two more terms. Then came service in World War II, as a naval officer in the Pacific.

★ ★ ★

His political stock was high as the war moved to its close. Minnesota's favorite son candidate for president at the 1944 Republican convention, Stassen was widely esteemed as a comer. He sought the presidential nomination in 1948 but lost out; as he did again, only more crushingly, in 1952, the Eisenhower year.

Every last wisp of presidential hope seemed to have vanished in 1956 when he made a forlorn effort to block the renomination of Vice President Nixon.

★ ★ ★

Stassen quit President Eisenhower's official family last February after five years' service, first as Mutual Security Administrator, then as the President's disarmament aide. The man and his actions invited a steady flow of criticism, in and out of his party.

Stassen knows, perhaps as well as anyone, that his political reputation has lost much of its luster. As early as 1948 he more or less withdrew from politics and became president of the University of Pennsylvania.

★ ★ ★

Despite rebuffs, Stassen appears as vigorous as ever, and in this campaign, as confident as in his more glamorous years.

Physically, he gives the impression of stamina and zest. His 200 pounds cover a six-foot, three-inch frame. He is going bald, but to him that is no sign of aging. His voice remains resonant, tireless.

★ ★ ★

The Republican organization in Pennsylvania calls him a carpetbagger, an outsider with no deep-rooted interest in this state.

"The only thing they can say of me," he comments, "is that I wasn't born in Pennsylvania, and I'm afraid I can't do anything about that now."

Stassen was born in West St. Paul, Minn., April 13, 1907.

GM Introduces Light, Diesel Tractor

NEW GMC UNIT — Aluminum construction features make this new GMC diesel tractor the lightest in its weight class. With 100 gallons of fuel, the model D860 weighs 10,450 lbs.

A new lightweight GMC diesel highway tractor with advanced engineering and design features to fit any job in the 55,000 lb. and up hauling range was announced today by Philip J. Monaghan, vice president of General Motors and general manager of the GMC Truck and Coach Division.

The new GMC, model D860, has aluminum construction features giving it a curb weight of only 10,450 lbs., the lightest in its class. This weight savings permits movement of more payload than can be hauled by any comparable model.

The famed GM 6-71SE Diesel develops 189 horsepower at 1800 RPM. The optional engine, a 6-71SE develops 210 horsepower at 2100 RPM.

Bumper-to-back-of-cab dimension is only 90 inches which gives the model cross-country operating versatility and a high degree of trailer interchangeability. It permits the use of 35 or 40-foot trailers in 45 and 50-foot length-limit states.

★ ★ ★

"The weight savings, the super-economy GM diesel engines and the cab dimensions give the D860 a versatility unmatched by competition," Monaghan said, "This is a unit that can be tailored to meet any condition and any terrain in heavy duty hauling."

Big DeSoto Driveaway

DETROIT (INS) — A hint of an upturn in business was evident today in DeSoto Division's first spring mass driveaway when the first of some 250 new cars were driven from the factory in Detroit.

A group of dealers and salesmen arrived from Minneapolis to take 20 cars from the Wyoming plant. They will be followed by successive groups from Philadelphia, Syracuse, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh.

DeSoto General Manager J. B. Wagstaff said the driveaway is a "demonstration of faith in our economy and confidence in the industry."

WE WISH TO EXTEND OUR heartfelt thanks and appreciation for acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and the many floral offerings during our recent bereavement in the loss of our beloved mother. special thanks to the Rev. In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR son, Marion Beemer, who passed away one year ago, May 18, 1957. Gone from a world of sorrow and pain,
To a home beyond the great Divide;
And when on earth our work is done,
We hope to meet you in the far beyond.
Very sadly missed by Mother and Father.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF WALter J. Steyskal, who passed away 1 year ago, May 16.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away from sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sadly missed by his wife Frances, and sons Lawrence and Jack Steyskal.

Adjourn Hearing on Consumer's Bid

LANSING (AP)—A hearing on Consumer Power Co.'s petition for a rate increase was in adjournment today while the Public Service Commission staff and attorneys for intervening cities and groups studied the company's arguments.

★ ★ ★

PSC Chairman Otis M. Smith adjourned the hearing yesterday for "a few weeks."

The utility is asking the commission for authority to boost its electrical rates by $15,300,000 a year. It wound up its presentation yesterday with testimony from Stuart John, a rate schedule expert from New York City.

Over 472 Acres Burn Across State

LANSING (AP) — Some 120 fires burned over 472 acres of state and private property last week, the State Conservation Department said today.

Tinder-dry woodlands remained in explosive condition, but the spring "green-up" is fast approaching and will relieve the fire dangers, the department said.

Through May 11, fires had damaged nearly 7,000 acres.

Officer Gives His Son Ticket for Jaywalking

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—His work came close to home for Traffic Patrolman John Yadon.

Grand Teton Park Lengthens Season

JACKSON, Wyo. (INS) — The increasingly popular Grand Teton National Park in Wyoming will have a longer tourist season this year, opening on Memorial Day and closing Oct. 1.

★ ★ ★

The scenic park will also see the opening of rustic Jenny Lake Lodge this summer after redecorating, and the completion of the Jackson Hole Highway through the park, one of the most scenic highways in the west.

Jenny Lake Lodge, Colter Bay and Jackson Lake Lodge are all operated by the Grand Teton Lodge Co., and all income goes into maintenance, operation and improvement of the facilities.

★ ★ ★

Grand Teton was visited by a record 1,300,000 visitors last year, and park officials expect an even greater turnout this year.

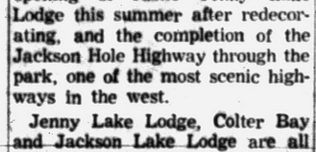

★ ★ ★

A direct highway connects the park with Yellowstone Park to the north so visitors can see both parks during their vacations.

Ready New Resort Map

BAY CITY (AP) — A new tourist and resort accommodations map of central and eastern Michigan has been prepared by the East Michigan Tourist Assn. The map pinpoints the locations of more than 600 resorts, hotels, motels and restaurants.

Yet you use both ears (the natural way to listen) to enjoy binaural hearing, recommended by doctors. Latest hearing development, based on Sonotone bone-conduction invention, bypasses outer ears.

Hopes to Cut Seaway Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee expressed hope today the U. S. cost of the St. Lawrence Seaway may be further reduced.

The committee's view was set that the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp. be allowed $400,000 for administrative expenses in the year beginning July 1.

This is $40,000 less than was asked by the corporation—created by Congress to construct and maintain the U. S. portion of the project, due to be opened next April.

The corporation originally estimated the U. S. share of the seaway's cost at 87 million dollars. Later, the estimate was raised to 143 million and then lowered to 126 million.

Observing that it was pleased to note the top estimate has been lowered, the report said: "It is the hope of the members of the committee that the final cost may be further reduced."

In commenting on hearings to determine whether the seaway could be operated more economically by the corporation or Army engineers, the report said no significant or conclusive differences were established.

Bids to Head U. S. PTA

OMAHA (AP) — Mrs. James C. Parker of Grand Rapids is a candidate for president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers at its annual convention here Tuesday.

Youth Drowns in Pit

FLINT (AP) — Arthur Berry, 14, of nearby Burton Township drowned Friday while trying to swim across water in a gravel pit when playing with three companions.

To Address Graduates

HOUGHTON (AP) — Prentiss M. Brown, chairman of the Mackinac Bridge Authority, will give the commencement address at Michigan Tech graduation exercises June 15. A total of 481 graduates will receive their degrees. Brown will be presented with an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Bilko's Col. Hall Locates Right Career Via Ailment

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA)—Paul Ford, Phil Silvers' Colonel Hall (CBS-TV, Friday, 9 p.m.), is probably the only actor in captivity who credits a stomach ailment, a psychiatrist and a neighbor for turning him to the stage.

PAUL FORD

Ford always liked the theater and did some amateur stuff, but he never even considered making acting his career.

He worked as a salesman—advertising mostly, but books and magazines, too. During the depression, he worked in a gas station.

"The other guys thought I was hopeless," he says. "I was clumsy, all thumbs. They fired me off that and put me in a bulk oil plant, but I couldn't do anything there so they made me night watchman.

"The supervisor caught me sleeping on cushions I'd taken from the trucks and asked me to write my resignation."

★ ★ ★

He had a stomach disorder and decided it stemmed from unhappiness — "the depression and not doing work I liked"—so he went to a psychiatrist. After a few visits, the doctor said, "You're an actor."

PUPPET PROJECT

So he let himself be persuaded to join a neighbor who was working on a WPA puppet show project. That was the start of his career—at 38.

★ ★ ★

His wife didn't approve of his switching careers at such an untender age. Her opposition was based purely on economic arguments.

"She wasn't violent about it," says Ford. "But she was psychologically strong. She thought I was nuts. I've never held that against her—I KNEW I would make out as an actor, but for all she knew I could have been nuts."

Ford, who is getting typed as a comedian since he began badgering Bilko, used to be strictly a straight actor. Now he's finding it tough to get non-comedy parts.

★ ★ ★

He isn't signed yet for the series for next season, presently considering other shows and movies.

Chances are he'll be back with Phil. They're a crack team.

Oregon Governor Will Run Again for Own Post

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Gov. Robert Holmes won Democratic renomination in Oregon's primary election yesterday. He faces challenge from Republican Secretary of State Mark Hatfield, who at 35 aspires to be the state's youngest governor.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Walter Norblad, in the House 13 years, won a 2 to 1 victory for Republican renomination. All other members of Oregon's six-member congressional delegation are Democrats.

★ ★ ★

Norblad, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, will have as his November opponent Democratic Atty. Gen. Robert Thornton, who easily won his party's nomination by a 3½ to 1 margin over Don Metheny, an onion grower.

New Homes in Area to Be Auctioned Off

A rare public auction will be held a week from today (May 24) on 34 homes, some partially completed and others ready for immediate occupancy, in Waterford Township and Clarkston.

★ ★ ★

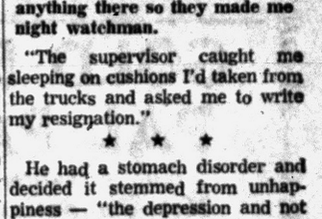

The ranch type and tri-level homes, 32 on Irwin drive, Southward boulevard and Anoka street in the township, and two on Eastlawn drive in Clarkston, are being sold from the estate of Caplan Bros., Inc., bankrupt builders.

The auction will be held at 10:30 a.m. at the Community Activities Inc. auditorium, 5640 William Lake Rd., Waterford Township.

A minimum deposit of $250 will be required on each house. Deposit will be credited to the down payment (10 per cent) of purchase price. The balance will be payable on a 25-year, six per cent land contract with pre-payment privileges.
